Frankie Wine And Pride Of Benning May Fight Jan. 17

Corn Griffin, promising Benning lightheavy, will have plenty of dynamite on his hands if the Athletic Association succeeds in matching him with Frankie Wine. Wine, dubbed the Montana fighting blacksmith, has an enviable record behind him.

He returned recently from Australia where he engaged W. D. (Young) Stribling in a fifteen-round bout which he lost. He had previously won decisions over two of the best exponents of the fight game that Australia had.

Wine fought Jack Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler a four-rounder in Louisville, and after a grueling battle, Dempsey admitted that he had never been hit so hard in his entire career. That admission, alone, testifies to the dynamite that the Blacksmith totes in either mitt.

Wine has beaten or held on even terms such pugilistic luminaries as Stribling (four times), Al Friedman, Al Fay, George Manley, Yale Okun, K. O. Christner, Charley Retzlaff, Charley Berlanger, Al Walker, Joe Sekrya, Tiger Jack Payne, Maxie Rosenbloom, and many others.

He is managed by J. R. Basco, who has one of the best stables of fighters in the middle west.

Wine, however, will meet an able opponent in Corn Griffin, the pride and joy of Fort Benning. In his last three fights, Griffin has knocked out Jerry Pavalec, erstwhile sparring partner of Max Schmeling, won a decision over Pietro Corri, hard-hitting Italian lightheavy and K, O'd. Tommie Hambrick in the 5th round of a scheduled ten round bout.

If the Athletic Association fails to obtain Wine for the card, Edgren or Battling Bozo, the inimitable clown, will battle Griffin in the main go on January 17.

The fans' appetites will be whetted by a semi-final which will probably find Rip Tetherton opposing Leo Bailey. Both these boxers boast a knockout over Lester Darby. Bailey slipped over the dreamland wallop in the early rounds while Tetherton was hard put to lay Darby low. The bout should prove a real battle and the chances are that it will not go the limit, one or other of the two paricipants winning via the knockout route.

Preliminaries are being arranged and promise to be proportionately as good as the semi-final and main go.

The January seventeenth boxing card should start 1933 out with a bang as far as fighting is concerned.

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVE HARDING

The Panthers went west with the avowed purpose to climb the walls of Troy. Undefeated after the hardest kind of schedule, they were conceded at least an outside chance. Victories over Notre Dame and Army attested to the great strength of Pittsburgh.

The Trojans, on the other hand, were one of the two major elevens in the country to go through a season of upsets without one single defeat or a tie against them. They, too, boasted an impressive victory over the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

The Southern California line outweighed the Panther forward wall by approximately thirteen pounds per man. Such luminaries as Ernie Smith, great all American tackle, Tay Brown, Ford Palmer, Aaron Rosenberg, and Ray Sparling had gained Southern California recognition as having the strongest line in many years.

The game opened with Southern California kicking off. Approximately two or three minutes later the Trojans scored on a long pass from Griffith to Palmer. The game began to take on the aspect of a walkaway. But the Panthers were not so easily beaten and for the rest of the half held their opponents on even terms, threatening twice in the second quarter.

In the third quarter, the lighter Pittsburgh team began to crumble and Southern California scored its second touchdown again on a pass. A fumble recovered by Captain Tay Brown of Southern California put his eleven in a scoring position on the seven yard line, but such was the great goal line resistance of Pittsburgh that it took four downs to turn the trick. A flat pass to Griffin was the touchdown play.

In the fourth quarter, the Panthers were unable to withstand the savage onslaught of the greatest powerhouse in the country and were snowed under three more touchdowns, two occuring as a result of a blocked kick and a fumble.

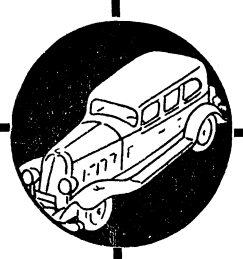
Ernie Smith, Ray Sparling, Larry Stevens, Ford Palmer, and Captain Tay Brown all showed up well in the line for the winners with Griffith and Warburton outstanding in the backfield.

The two Pittsburgh ends, Skladany and Dailey, and all American Warren Heller shone for the Panthers. Skladany and Dailey were in every play and were every bit as good as Sparling and Palmer.

The Southern California triumph establishes the eleven as the mythical country champions for the second consecutive year. During this time, they have won twenty games in a row without a single defeat.

Colgate, whose record is the most

(Please turn to page 7)



AUTOMOBILE MAINTENANCE

Careful attention to the "inner workings" of your car will save much cost and trouble. Have it periodically examined and the small defects repaired before it is too late.

AUTO DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
Ft. Benning
No Charge for Inspection and Estimate

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.

CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP
NOW IN NEW LOCATION

Due to the splendid co-operation of our many friends and customers we feel that all credit is due them for being so instrumental to our success which has enabled us to move into a new and modern home.

We cordially invite you all to visit us in this new home at 1035 Broadway. This is not only our new store but YOUR store for a bigger and better service.

For the ladies we have for Spring, dresses in all the latest shades made in advance styles. A fine stock of Spring coats, tweed, Polo coats, Broadcloths, etc., in all the newest shades, all wonderful values. . . . For men we offer excellent values in suits, top coats, shoes and all accessories.

CLASSY CLOTHES
$12.50
The finest clothes in Columbus for the money

OR

CLOTHES BY Scotch WOOLEN MILLS MADE to ORDER

Classy Clothes Shop
1035 BROADWAY

Amateur Leatherpushers Training SPORTS

Simon Pures Working Out Daily As Tournament Nears

Only three more weeks to go and the ambitious young army amateur boxers will throw leather in the first bouts of the annual garrison amateur boxing tournament. At the present time the team coaches are working their men overtime as they round into shape for the coming strife.

The Special Units of the 29th Infantry, looms as a title contender. Lonnie Wilson, hard hitting heavyweight and a veteran of three seasons in southern competition, is now a member of the Service Co., 29th Inf., and instead of wearing the green colors of the Irish, will be out in the raven colors of the Black Pirates. Pendleton, holder of the garrison lightheavy championship, is also a member of the Buccaneer crew. The entire string from bantams to heavyweights, appear to be a tough, hard hitting aggregation.

The Kellys of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, will be weakened by the loss of Prophet, welterweight, who was injured in football practice. He has a very bad knee and will hardly be entered. Whatley, middleweight and southern champion, is a favorite for honors in the middleweight division. The Kellys also boast a veteran in Brophy.

The Irish will enter a team of first year men but it is rumored that a tough string of boys will be wearing the green colors when the battle begins.

The Tankers are banking on Milan, hard punching welter, and Floyd, bantam, to bring home first honors in these weights. A string of rugged, willing maulers are out for the Tanker team and the Caterpillar Conductors may be one of the high lights of the meet.

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

100% Pure Pennsylvania
PENNZOIL
Safe Lubrication
FOR SALE
Post Exchange

HENRY GRADY HOTEL
PEACHTREE AT CAIN
Atlanta, Ga.

550 rooms of comfort and convenience. Each room has ceiling fan, circulating ice water, radio and either shower or tub bath; corner rooms have both. Open Dining Terrace and Coffee Shop.

Rooms from $2

J. F. de Jarnette Vice-Pres. & Mgr.

GRIFFIN WINS VS. HAMBRICK

By AL DURDEN

John (Corn) Griffin, Benning lightheavy, continued his stroll up the steps of the Temple of Fistiana, with a five-round knockout over Young Hambrick at West Palm Beach, Fla., last Tuesday night.

Griffin's victory over Hambrick was his third win in as many starts over popular fighters in the past two months. Hambrick had just battled Gordon Fortenberry, to a draw at West Palm Beach, two weeks before meeting Griffin. Many fight fans in that section of the country picked Hambrick to be too clever for Griffin.

The fight proved to be a one-sided affair. Griffin went after Hambrick and had him in distress with hard punches to the stomach in the opening round. It was just a case of too much Griffin. Switching to the head with left hooks and left jabs in the second round, Griffin had Hambrick bleeding from the nose and mouth at the opening of the third round. The slaughter was stopped in the fifth round to save the game but badly beaten Hambrick from further punishment.

Griffin's win over Hambrick has made him the outstanding favorite to meet Godoy, the Chilean threat, at Miami, Fla., late in January. Godoy has won eighteen fights since arriving in the United States. He has suffered no defeats. Among his victims are such fighters as Cyclone Smith, Gordon Fortenberry, Frankie Palmo and other well known fighters. It is predicted that his battle with Griffin will draw one of the largest houses of the season in Florida.

Griffin first attracted the interest of Florida fight fans when he slashed Petro Corri, Austrian heavyweight, to ribbons in ten rounds at Tampa, Fla., during the past November. Corri outweighed Griffin twelve pounds. Two weeks later he jumped over to West Palm Beach, and stopped Jerry Pavelac in eight rounds.

Pavelac carried a weight advantage of twenty-eight pounds over Griffin. In the eighth round Pavelac missed a right hook and Griffin whipped over a counter right that caught the big fellow flush on the chin. Pavelac made a half turn and fell face down, he was out for ten minutes.

Fort Benning fans will probably see Griffin at his best in his coming battle here on Jan. 17th. Captain Phillip T. Fry, athletic officer, is trying to get Cowboy Frankie Edgren here for Griffin on that date. In their last battle here there was many fans that claimed Edgren should have had a draw. If it can be arranged, Frankie will come back for a second shot at Griffin.

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued from Page 6)

impressive with no defeats and no ties and whose goal-line was uncrossed in the course of the past season is a claimant for the title. But the opposition encountered by Colgate was not sufficient to put the "Red Raiders from Chenango" in the same category as the Trojans.

Michigan, also unbeaten and untied, is another university which claims championship honors, but it is very doubtful whether the experts will rate her on a par with Southern California.

One of the finest aggregations of individual stars ever to line-up on the same team in football history met defeat at the hands of an all-Western eleven by a score of 21-13.

In the backfield of the Eastern team were Harry Newman, all American quarterback, Manders, Rentner, Berry, Viviano and Horstman—no coach could want a better backfield. In the line were Moss, Smith of Colgate, and Joe Kurth, all outstanding stars during the past season. Moss and Kurth made all-American and Bob Smith, Colgate guard, rated on many teams.

Stars on the Western team included Schaldach, an unsung hero, Brovelli, Caddell, Krause, and Christenson in the backfield, Ely and Hokuf in the line.

The Eastern team got off to an early lead and at the half led 6-0. Little Hank Schaldach, California halfback, led the smashing second half offensive which brought the West its victory.

The sturdy ball-toter who wound up his career with the Bears a few weeks ago, scored every point made by his team. The first touchdown resulted from a 35 yard runback of a punt by Schaldach, a few concentrated line plays, and a final buck. In the same quarter an intercepted pass by Harry Stafford, halfback hailing from the University of Texas, gave the West another scoring opportunity which was quickly capitalized on.

In the final quarter the East scored again after a steady march down the field, but the West retaliated when Schaldach on another runback of a punt dashed 33 yards to the seven yard line, and scored two plays later.

The defeat of the Eastern team proved once again that a collection of individual stars does not necessarily mean an unbeatable eleven.

CURTAIN RINGS DOWN ON ATHLETICS

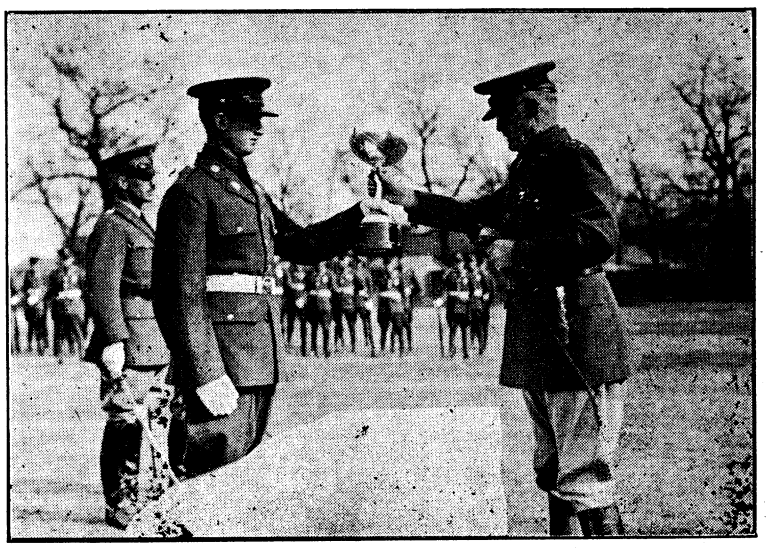
(Continued from page 6)

plenty for Benning sport fans, both Private John Doe, and Lieutenant Richard Roe, and whether he is a side-line athlete whose exertions consist of madly cheering his favorite; or whether he is out there with a Charleyhorse in his leg and the battlelight in his eye, he is sure to find what he is looking for in the line of athletic entertainment.



Maj. General King presenting silver trophy to Cpl. "Red Wilson, captain of the championship Second Battalion team.

Try
Private Locker
EXTRA PALE DRY
Ginger Ale
Sold At
Grocery Dept. and Soda Fountain
POST EXCHANGE

Your Favorite Sports... The Herald

Super-Values in USED CARS
Mechanically Perfect Sacrifice Prices!

Choose From These Well Known Makes

1931 7-Passenger Buick Sedan. Long Wheel Base. Powered with Buick's famous 104 H. P. eight cylinder motor—6 wire wheels —trunk rack, new tires, original Duco finish. Like new, inside and out.

Chrysler Imperial 80—5-passenger sedan. One of the big, fast, powerful Chryslers. Excellent mechanical condition. Original factory finish.

Plymouth Coach. This car is exceptionally clean. Perfect running shape. Four new tires. Original finish. Upholstery like new.

Lasalle 5-Passenger Sedan, fully equipped with all accessories including six wire wheels. Beautifully refinished in latest Duco color.

Hudson Sedan. This late model Hudson is fully equipped with six wire wheels and trunk. Original factory finish. Looks like new.

1932 Dodge Coupe. This six-cylinder Dodge coupe has been driven only a few thousand miles and cannot be told from a brand new car. Lots of extra equipment, including six wire wheels and trunk rack.

A complete stock of all makes, models, body styles and prices. Terms to suit your convenience. Every car is carefully inspected.

Cliff M. Averett, Inc.

1445-49 First Avenue Phone 883-884

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

Man Of Her Choice, But - -

Constance Bennet, glamorous star in "Rockabye' falls in love with a playwright only to encoutner heart-breaking obstacles in the way. Here's a scene of she and Joe McCrea, to be shown when the picture comes to the Royal Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

AT THE GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "A Bill Divorcement," with John Barrymore and Katharine Hepburn. A shell-shocked veteran returns home after a long seige in the hospital. His wife has divorced him and is about to marry another. His daughter knows him only as a man. Friends only memories of him. A stirring drama of Barrymore at his best.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "Deception," with Leo Carrillo, Dickie Moore, Nat Pendleton, Thelma Todd and Barbara Weeks. Fame was only a bubble that burst when "Dame" trouble stepped on it. The wrong girl wanted him! The right girl doubted him! But she tamed him, all the same.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering "Congorilla," with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson. An authentic picture of the most amazing adventure of this pair. The only talking picture entirely made in Africa. Primeval humans, gorillas fighting, maneaters at war, core of the world . . . the river of peril, and other hair-raising scenes "through the empire of death!"

* * *

AT THE RIALTO

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY (Now Playing): Offering "Come on Tarzan," with Ken Maynard and his wonder horse, "Tarzan." A drama of men who ride with their stirrups long and their holsters handy . . . who deal across the top of the table . . . and shoot from the hip!

SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "The Big Broadcast" with Stuart Erwin, Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, Burns and Allen, Boswell Sisters, Arthur Tracy and other leading stars of radio fame. A human story of the secrets and events in the great studio of the air. Intrigue of station against station with roaring comedy and a convincing love story woven all the way through.

TUESDAY ONLY: Offering "Madison Square Garden" with Jack Oakie, Thomas Meighan, Marian Nixon and Zasu Pitts. A romantic, dramatic story of three men and two girls fighting desperately to rout the mechanism of unseen forces. A spectacular picture enacted in one of the most picturesque arenas.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "Stranger in Town," with "Chic" Sale, Ann Dvorak, David Manners and Noah Berry. An extra-special show for smile-shoppers who demand more howls for their money! A screaming comedy with the master comedian, "Chic" Sale up to all the old tricks and many new ones.

* * *

AT THE ROYAL

(Opening Saturday Night at 11:15 O'Clock)

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "Rockabye" with Constance Bennett, Joel McCrea and Paul Lukas. Says she—I'm Judy Carroll, I've been around. The men I've known have all had one idea. I'm no saint, that's true, but where do they get off to brand me with the past they wished on me? Where do they get off to take away my baby?—you'll like her, stunning! Glorious!—as the girl who fought for love and lost . . . the heart-cry of a million mothers. And Constance Bennett flashes style dictum in this picture.

RIALTO

New York to Hollywood and back in a split second.

That's the trip audiences at the Rialto Theater, where "The Big Broadcast," romantic comedy with a cast of radio and movie favorites, play Sunday and Monday, will make —without realizing it.

For while a majority of the sequences o fthe picture were made in the film capital, many of them were taken in New York. Joined together, a New York-made sequence follows many a Hollywood-made sequence, but the joining has been done so carefully that it is impossible to discover just where it occurs.

Stuart Erwin, Bing Crosby, Leila Hyams, and Burns and Allen, for example, were filmed in Hollywood. Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway and his Orchestra, Vincent Lopez and his Orchestra, and Arthur Tracy, (The Street Singer) were photographed in New York.

GRAND

Every once in a while there are movies that make you think—and enjoy it!

Such a film is "A Bill of Divorcement," the RKO-Radio Picture starring John Barrymore which plays Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Grand Theater.

Primarily superb entertainment with brilliant performances by Barrymore, Billie Burke and Katharine Hepburn, this film also is one which raises questions you carry out of the theatre to think and talk about at home.

A shell-shocked English veteran returns to his home after a long siege in the hospital. He finds there is little place for him in the world that had sent him away with flags flying. His wife has divorced him and is preparing to marry another man. His daughter knows him only as a man. His friends have only memories of him, no hands to help in trying readjustment.

Just how strong are the claims of the returned veterans? Should whole, healthy lives be wrecked to spare further pain to a soul already twisted and torn?

But there are other situations in the play that will strike a responsive note in the thoughts of those who have watched a first love die.

Is second love as powerful, as satisfying as the flush of first romance? The second love that comes to many women is the problem that occupies Billie Burke in this dramatic film.

Making her return to the screen, Miss Burke reveals the glamour and charm which made her a toast of the public.

Barrymore as the shell-shocked soldier has one of the most appealing and forceful roles of his long and colorful career.

Returns

Billie Burke returns to the screen, supporting Barrymore in "A Bill Of Divorcement," playing at the Grand Theatre Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

--- and His Girl!

—and Marshall says the very same words to Miriam Hopkins in another sequence of "Trouble in Paradise."

Life Insurance Agent: "Do you want a straight life?"

Capt. Murphy: "Well, I like to step out once in a while."

Capt. Perry: "Is the lady of the

ROYAL

Judy Carroll didn't need a press agent to get her name and picture in the paper—she needed one to keep it off the front page and out of the scare headlines!

No performance of her most popular play ever stood them up as on the day she testified in the criminal court in the embezzlement trial of Commissioner Howard. Her poise and cleverness deserted her until the District Attorney asked if the Commissioner wasn't the father of the child she was about to adopt.

Thus notoriety breaks loose around Judy Carroll, potrayed by Constance Bennett in "Rockabye," RKO-Pathe picture in which Joel McCrea and Paul Lukas are featured in support beginning Saturday night at 11:15 o'clock and continuing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Royal Theatre.

How was that notoriety to affect her career? Would the public like her in a new play called "Rockabye" in which she would portray a girl of the gutters rising to fame? Could she too, convincingly play such a role, or not at all?

Jake Pell, author of "Rockabye," thought not. When he told her so the sparks flew between them. Soon they were caught in a tremendous heart fire that threatened to burn down the barriers that stood in the way of their love.

What reached the heart of this profoundly sophisticated sacrifice that measured the power and beauty of this, her first honest love?

"Rockabye" reveals the depths of a heart the world called shallow. It is an adaption of Lucia Bronder's play. George Cukor directed.

GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY and MONDAY
No Human-Being can sit unmoved in the tidal sweep of this HeartPounding Drama!
JOHN BARRYMORE
"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT" With KATHARINE HEPBURN, Billie Burke, David Manners
an RKO-RADIO PICTURE
COMEDY — NOVELTY — NEWS
TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY
LEO CARRILLO
DECEPTION
HE WAS A CROOKED PROMOTER— and SHE WAS A FAIR WEATHER dame
DICKIE MOORE - NAT PENDLETON
THELMA TODD - BARBARA WEEKS
"SO THIS IS HARRIS" - PENCIL MANIA
UNIVERSAL NEWS
THURSDAY and FRIDAY
ONE AND ONLY TALKING PICTURE ENTIRELY MADE IN AFRICA
CONGORILLA
with MR. & MRS. MARTIN JOHNSON
COMEDY — CARTOON — NEWS

RIALTO
NOW PLAYING
Ken MAYNARD
with the Wonder Horse 'TARZAN'
IN "Come On, Tarzan"
—Plus—
CARTOON — COMEDY
Chapter 5 "THE LAST FRONTIER"
SUNDAY and MONDAY
Every star of Radio Land in a Heart-Stirring Romance!
"THE BIG BROADCAST"
With
STUART ERWIN — MILLS BROTHERS
BING CROSBY — BOSWELL SISTERS
LEILA HYAMS — ARTHUR TRACY
BURNS & ALLEN — VINCENT LOPEZ
KATE SMITH — CAB CALLOWAY
MUSICAL NOVELTY — FOX NEWS
TUESDAY ONLY
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN with JACK OAKIE, THOMAS MEIGHAN, MARIAN NIXON, ZASU PITTS, WILLIAM COLLIER, WILLIAM BOYD, LEW CODY
A Paramount Picture
WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
ROMANTIC JOURNEY — SCREEN SONG
STRANGER IN TOWN
"Chic" Sale - Ann Dvorak
David Manners-Noah Beery

Opening Sat. Night at 11:15
ROYAL
Sun., Mon., Tue.
Constance BENNETT in ROCKABYE
With JOEL McCREA PAUL LUKAS
RKO PATHE Picture
ADDED FEATURES—
UNIVERSAL NEWS "TOWED OUT OF A HOLE"
"BUGS AND BOOKS" "PARIS"
COMING EUGENE O'NEILL'S "STRANGE INTERLUDE" with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable
At no advance in prices.

THE FLARE

(Continued from page 4)

the moose head which hangs above the fireplace.

A shout of dismay from the populace caused the torchbearer to jerk his flaming brand away in time to prevent a major catastrophe but Mine Host was observed making a mental note to have the torch made shorter for next year's Yule Log ceremony.

CARNEGIE MEDAL CANDIDATE

Brave Lieutenant Risks Life and Wardrobe to Save School Property

When one of the Academic Fords caught fire the other day it was Lieutenant G. E. Lightcap, Mine Host Dowdall's new assistant, who essayed the role of hero. Seizing one of the Officers' Club fire extinguishers he rushed to the scene and went into action. The blaze was promptly extinguished by the chemical but Fire Laddie Lightcap's timely effort resulted in getting almost as much acid on his brand new trousers as he did on the flaming Ford.

At Mine Host Dowdall's suggestion, Fireman Lightcap dashed at once to the cleaner to have the proper antidote applied lest the powerful acid eat away the cloth and leave the wearer's nether extremities clad like Rip Van Winkle's on his return from twenty years' slumber in the Catskills.

In commending Fireman Lightcap for saving the Ford, Brother Emil Leard, the well-known Secretary of The Infantry School, assured him that he would be reimbursed for the loss of his trousers if they did not survive the chemical wash. Knowing Brother Leard as we do from long association in the Thanatopsis Club, we suspect that he must have made this apparently generous offer on the carefully reasoned assumption that he would not be called on to loosen up with any Book Shop funds to rehabilitate the volunteer fireman's wardrobe. Probably he recalled that pyrene chemical, far from being a destroyer of fabric, is an excellent cleaning fluid. Of course, the G. I. fire extinguishing chemical may be different, but Brother Leard doesn't balk at taking a chance as long as the odds are heavily in his favor.

JUST A GAME

Husbands whose wives are prone to be vague when it comes to promulgating the essential details of social affairs which they instigate may derive some satisfaction from this.

Mrs. Bonham, one of Benning's confirmed contract enthusiasts, called up Mrs. Gilchrist, another addict, and arranged for "a game" on the following morning.

Later in the day Mrs. Gilchrist left word with the Bonham maid that she would "take Mrs. Bonham" but even this did not influence Mrs. Bonham to check up on what game Mrs. Gilchris thought she was going to play.

At or shortly after the designated hour for the essembly, Mrs. Bonham appeared at the Gilchrist chateau attired in the light fluffy garb that women wear when they go in for a session of cut throat with their friends Mrs. Gilchrist was waiting in her car wearing a green sunshade and the other articles of sports raiment which the sex affects when out for a bout with old man par.

Whether the girls played contract or golf is of no consequence. We didn't even bother to ascertain.

COUNT ZUVEROFF RETURNS

Lieutenant Paul Zuver, formerly of Benning, now stationed at Carlisle Barracks, called upon us in our sanctume Wednesday morning. Count Zuveroff correctly surmised that the day and hour would find us cudgelling our brains in a last minute effort to think up something to fill up our allotted space in the current issue of the Benning Herald. We can't help suspect his motive. He was a columnist himself once and he wanted to see us suffer, so that he could the more fully enjoy his present free and easy life.

Count Zuveroff reports that Colonel Stayer—the best all-round Doughboy that ever wore the caduceus on his collar—is making good among the medicoes. Colonel Stayer spent five years at The Infantry School where his ability and broad sympathies won him a host of admirers and friends.

Lieutenant Zuver also gave a favorable report on Past Expert-Monographer Hilldring, who is now helping Colonel Stayer give the doctors an infantry background so that they will know where to set up their aid stations.

The Count in his prime wielded a wicked poison pen. His column in the Herald was called "The Observation Post" and the conductor thereof observed and wrote plenty. Believing that he is capable of staging a comeback we have requested that he furnish us a Benning-then-and-now article for the Flare. If he kicks in and his stuff isn't too hot to handle, we'll let you have it in our next issue.

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

Do they Keep on Flying after you shoot?

Don't be too quick to blame yourself when you miss. There's a difference in shells that many shooters don't realize until they try the harder-hitting, long-range Super-X—the load with the Short Shot String. Greater effectiveness at greater distances. Now loaded with NON-CORROSIVE PRIMERS that keep your shotgun clean. See us for hunting supplies.

MAIN BRANCH

Post Exchange Fort Benning, Georgia

29th Inf.

HQ. CO., FIRST BATTALION

WELCOME 1933!!! Staff of the Benning Herald, Brother Scribes and the world, we are extending our greetings for a happy and prosperous New Year. We are offering apologies for the entries of the past year and are starting anew with high spirits, (not the kind that you drink) to make our initial entry of 1933 a tremendous success. Firstly, we might say that our recently acquired "Rhythm Club" has been totally disbanded and in lieu of the syncopaters we have the Culbertson Club, composed of none other than former members of the Rhythm Club. Frank Merriwell Snead and "Ripper" Ray are the leading contenders for the Bridge championship. More power to you. "Norm" Hobbs joined the club but immediately submitted his resignation when "Snipper" Snead bid four clubs. Guess you are wondering now, but we will enlighten you some day.

Well, the boys are returning from furlough now with renewed vim, vigor and vitality to start the New Year right. Pfc. Durden and Pvts. Hampton and "Goober" Mauldin are some of the "Gang" reporting back. Welcome, fellers, yours for another well-earned vacation.

Our basketball team, duly dubbed "Brady's Bombers" the Bombers that ever bombed are craving action. This fast quintet of players will play, any place, (within reason) or at any time that our opposers wish. Remember the number, 604, and ask for our team captain, Pvt. Harold "Ripper" Ray.

Leaving now folks, we know that you are disappointed, but we'll be back next week, same time.

MAYBE THEY'LL BE ALL RIGHT NEXT YEAR

We understand that the large consignment of Christmas cards ordered by a prominent bachelor of the 29th Foot, were engraved, "Captain and Mrs. George Forster".

Our best undercover man has been assigned the job of ferreting out the facts. Our readers, of course, want to know if the "Captain and Mrs. feature is just a mistake of the engraver or did the popular bachelor have preholiday prospects which didn't materialize? If the former, the firms will doubtless make good, but if the latter, it is distinctly up to the Captain.

—E. F. H.

6%

ON SAVINGS

We appreciate your account — either borrowing or saving.

Franklin Saving & Loan Co.

Cor. 13th St. and 1st Ave.
Phone 2766

Sgts. Prince And Lancaster Are Retired Recentlv

Thirty years' service in the Army of the United States came to a close, and another member of Uncle Sam's fighting force withdrew from active service with a sense of duty well done, when Staff Sergeant Charlie H. Prince, Quartermaster Detachment, Fort Benning, Ga., retired on December 31.

Away back in 1904 the wander-lust got the better of a youngster from Bedford County, Tenn., and gathering his few belongings together the youthful globe-trotter wended his way down the twisting trail that led across the valley, over the mountain, and out into the great wide world. Charlie H. Prince was 22 years old, the world was rosy, and he had seventy hard-earned dollars in his pocket.

It was the same age-old story repeated once more. Two friendly well-dressed fellows that wanted to show him the sights of Memphis, and who took him to the cleaners more efficiently than Trojans took the Panthers in the recent Rose Bowl fracas, left him to awake to the awful fact that he possessed a head like the "Akron" and a beautifully complete assortment of empty pockets.

Bedford County was many a long mile away. In fact to long to travel just to face the jeers and laughs of the friends he had left. So the lonesome young fellow roamed the streets of Memphis until a friendly recruiting sergeant told him that the government always had an empty bunk and some coffee cooling in the mess hall for strong rugged young men who wanted to see the world. Being used to horses, Charley Prince chose the cavalry, and spent eight years wearing the yellow hat cord of the 15th. Then, to broaden his education, he switched to the Coast Artillery, and found the big guns of the coast defense so much to his liking that he remained a cosmoline slinger until 1920.

In 1920 he took a crack at the Quartermaster Corps, and stuck with the supply end of the service until 1926, when he returned to the Coast Artillery, and was stationed at Fort was forced to alternate the dances in each of the three rooms available. This commendable idea, proceeding from the uncanny brain of Mine Host Dowdall, had one and only one disadvatage. It seemed that a number of the guests were not content to await their turn to trip the light fantastic.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued from page 4)

Three or four refractory lieutenants decided to take the matter into their own hands. The door that led from the soda fountain to the main floor was guarded very effectively. A brilliant mind conceived the adroit plan of sneaking—we hesitate to use the word—around to the front entrance via the outside. Unfortunately, Lieut. Dowdall, exhibiting customary foresight in a crucial moment, anticipated the move and informed Colonel Wallace, who promptly stationed himself at the entrance.

Four very surprised and very embarrassed lieutenants suddenly found themselves, just as they were congratulating themselves on the success of their plan, confronted by the stern and imposing figure of Colonel Wallace. To go on was out of the question: to retreat was also out of the question. Accordingly they stayed where they were, writhing under the derisive scorn of Colonel Wallace. A few minutes later four very red, shamefaced lieutenants went sheepishly back the way they had come.

* * *

Opening sentence in an article in Wednesday's Columbus Enquirer.

"Fort Benning soldiers, whose neatness of personal appearance has been the subject of numerous commendations, will present an even nattier appearace in the near future when the new type of serge and elastic uniform is made available for issue.

Heard on the parade ground, June 1933: "Oh, don't the soldiers look just too sweet in their natty uniforms and rubber pants."

* * *

HERALD WANT ADS

CLASSIFIED ADV. RATES:
20 cents per line or fraction of line. Minimum charge for any classified advertisement, 50 cents. Payment must be made before advertisement is published.

FOR SALE

Majestic Radio Model No. 91. Cost $150, will sell $25 cash. Good condition. Phone Benning 631.

Orders taken for hand-loop Rugs, wool or cotton. Phone 3977W.

Two canaries (Hartz Mountain), Excellent singers, $5. Mrs. Crawley, Phone Benning 631.

Registered Chow puppy. Eight weeks old. Phone 4060.

FOR SALE
Pretty home on Ft. Benning Road. $100 down, balance $27.50 per mo. like rent. Also lots for sale, houses for rent.
1027 Broadway
F. FRIEDMAN

Delivered daily to the Fort
HARPER'S DRUGS
Telephone 396

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
COOPER MATTRESS CO.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

WANTED
12 oz. Green Ginger Ale bottles as Canada Dry or Rums Dry type.
M. SNYDER
1020 1st Ave. Columbus, Ga.

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

PEP... in every step
Use
HOOD
Heels and Soles
Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus ..$ 400,000.00
Resources Over ..... 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning

Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

SGTS. PRINCE AND LANCASTER ARE RETIRED

(Continued from page 9)

Barrancas, Fla. His skill as a cook and fisherman soon made him quite popular, both on and off duty. His Irish stews, pot pies, and other delicacies, that have never been equaled at the Florida post, before or since; and the Waltonian ability that enabled him to rouse the grand-daddy of the deep from his ocean bed, and stick his gaff into fish that were bigger than himself, have furnished legends that will be recounted around Barrancas till they wear ear-muffs on Florida's sunny strand.

Sergeant Prince came to Fort Benning in 1929 as a member of the Quartermaster Detachment. During his three years service here he has made a host of friends who wish him nothing but the best of luck wherever he may wander.

And that luck seems to have put in an appearance already, for the old-timer of the Army is now a recruit in Admiral Dan Cupid's navy. Monday, January 2, Sergeant Prince surprised his many friends by embarking on the sea of matrimony, and taking on another long hitch with Mrs. Mary Reese, of Columbus. The ceremony took place at Seale, Ala., the Gretna Green of Columbus, and was a very quiet affair.

Sergeant and Mrs. Prince will make their home in Columbus.

---

Members of the Noncommissioned Officers' Club, Infantry School Detachment, were entertained with a buffet supper Thursday night.

The event was held in honor of Master Sergeant Eugene L. Lancaster, who will retire from the service, December 30, 1932, with thirty years of honorable and faithful service to his credit.

The members of the Club assembled in the large club room where sandwiches, salads and coffee was served. Master Sergeant Otis Glynn, president, made a short but interesting talk on the splendid record made by Sergeant Lancaster over a period of thirty years in the service.

Sergeant Lancaster, known to all of his friends as (Lanky) made himself as small as his six-foot frame would allow in one of the big easy chairs but the moment that Sergeant Glynn had completed his address there was a chorus of calls for a speech by Lanky. Far more nervous than when he faced shrapnel and machine gun bullets in the Argonne, the old timer rose to the occasion. His talk was short but to the point. "Many men at retirement speak of their regret at leaving," said the Sergeant, "but I am only too glad to know that my duties are completed and that I can go away to some quiet spot to really enjoy myself." He further stated that his bonds to the men of the service would never be broken and though away from active service that he would be ready to hurry back and don again the uniform when his country called.

A NEW ONE

"Capt, Sir, I was not intoxicated!"

"But the sergeant says you were trying to climb a tree."

"Yes, sir. You see, sir, a couple of alligators had been following me around until they got on my nerves!"

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital ..... $100,000.00
Surplus ..... 65,000.00

Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum

Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

Watch Repairing
LAMAR SMITH
PHONE 3032 1201 BROADWAY

When I like something I evermore like it!

THEY'RE MILDER—
THEY TASTE BETTER

—and I like CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes.

To me, they are mild—that is, they don't seem to be strong; and there is certainly no bite, so far as I can tell.

To me, they taste better and they have a pleasing aroma.

Every CHESTERFIELD that I get is well-filled, and I feel like I am getting my money's worth—that there is no short measure about it.

I like CHESTERFIELDS. They satisfy me.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1933 — NUMBER 38

TOWN TOPICS

It has been suggested to us that we inaugurate a column of local notes. After some consideration we have decided to act upon the suggestion.

We respectfully refer our readers to the article on the back page for further particulars. We would like, however, to emphasize the need of cooperation in helping to make a success the column in consideration . Cooperation from the members of the garrison is absolutely necessary. It is perfectly obvious that it would be impossible for us to go from house to house soliciting these notes.

It has been pointed out to us, and we ourselves are firmly of the opinion, that such a column would be extremely interesting.

We are looking forward to the coming of Tony Sarg and his marionettes, and will be very disappointed if we do not put in an evening of genuine entertainment.

Several misguided citizens are laboring under the false impression that the marionette show is essentially for children. As a matter of fact, there is no reason why fond parents should not derive just as much amusement from the performance as their offspring.

And now we understand roller-skating is in vogue. If there is anything more annoying to a motorist than a person on a bicycle, it is a person on roller-skates.

The art of precariously balancing oneself on roller-skates seems to be gaining in popularity. As long as there is a good chance that the roller-skater may take a fall on his head, it will continue to gain in popularity, but as soon as the sport is made safe, enthusiasm will wane. That's human nature for you.

There seems to be an alarming propensity for polo players to take up roller-skating in their spare moments. Frankly, we advise said polo players to keep to polo if they value their life and limb. Comparisons are odious, but it seems to us that polo is to roller-skating as tiddleywinks is to football. And we are casting no aspersions on polo.

The thirty-day period of mourning for ex-President Calvin Coolidge has necessitated the cancellation of the Thursday night supper dances at the Officers' Club but does not curtail social gatherings "for recreation".

Next Thursday night the management of the Officers' Club will give what might appropriately be called a bridge party. All members of the Club are cordially invited to attend, and all that sort of stuff.

We understand it is really a departure from the ordinray. In the course of the evening, there will be an exhibition of duplicate contract bridge in which local sharks will participate as well as a demonstration of the new automatic bridge table which eliminates the tedious process of shuffling and dealing the cards.

HAVE YOU A NEW AUTOMATIC BRIDGE TABLE IN YOUR HOME?
NINE OUT OF TEN HAVE ONE
IF NOT--BUY ONE AT ONCE AND JOIN THE RANKS OF HIGH SOCIETY
THEY SATISFY
BABIES CRY FOR THEM

We may expect such advertisements before long.

(Please turn to page 3)

Class Of National Guard Officers Is Opened Thursday

Opening exercises for a special class of national guard and reserve officers were held at Fort Benning Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

The course of instruction began after the exercises, presided over by Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School. Colonel Charles W. Weeks assistant commandant and head of the academic department, and members of the faculty, were also present at the exercises.

The class is composed of approximately twenty reserve and national guard officers, representing state and reserve units in various parts of the United States.

Following is a roster of the students enrolled for Thursday's class opening: Lieutenant Colonels Felton A. Whitaker, 121st Infantry, Georgia National Guard; Scott A. Cairy, 128th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, and Rosse Diehl, 35th Davision, Missouri National Guard.

Major Warren H. Aldrich, 129th Infantry, Illinois National Guard; Ellis G. Christensen, 137th Infantry, Kansas National Guard; George W. Conelly, 145th Infantry, Ohio National Guard; James C. Cooper, 120th Infantry, North Carolina National Guard; Walter J. DeLong, 81st Brigade, Washington National Guard; Leanord N. Dunkel, 159th Infantry, California National Guard; George A. Elliott, 108th Infantry, New York National Guard; George E. Jemison, 114th Infantry New Jersey National Guard; Douglas N. Lawley, 141st Infantry, Texas National Guard; Benjamin M. Smith, 62nd Infantry Brigade, Alabama National Guard; Dale V. Thibaut, 74th Brigade, Ohio National Guard, and Captain Christopher B. Degenaar, 105th Infantry, New York National Guard.

Majors John L. Lee, Infantry-Reserve, Texas; and Joseph A. Strawn, Infantry-Reserve, Colorado; and Captains James E. Lawyer, Infantry-Reserve, New York; and Phillip E. Mohr, Infantry-Reserve, New York.

After the opening exercises the students were given physical examinations by army medical officers before undertaking their active training.

The new students began their active training at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when they were conducted to the vicinity of Kelley and Davidson Hills, by Major Frederick McCabe, instructor, to participate in a tactical walk, during which a study of the organization and occupations of defensive positions was made.

Friday's instruction for the reserve and national guard officers began with a conference on combat orders, which was conducted by Captain William Hones. Two other conferences were scheduled for Friday morning, the first dealing with the conduct of defense, under the direction of Major McCabe. Major Francis G. Benham conducted the third morning conference, which dealt with the coordination of fires in defense. In the afternoon the class will be taken to the vicinity of Wells Hill, on the reservation, where they will participate in a terrain exercise, dealing with the rifle company in defense, and which will be directed by Captain Henry J. Matchett.

The new class will be in progress until February 16.

The Benning community was profoundly shocked and grieved to hear of the sudden death of Miss Barbara King, beautiful and talented daughter of General and Mrs. King.

Miss King was convalescing from an illness of several weeks standing and was thought to be well on the road to recovery when the end came without warning.

Miss King possessed a charm and personality which endeared her to all, and the sincere and heartfelt sympathy of the entire garrison goes out to the Commanding General and Mrs. King in their hour of grief.

Infantry School Hunt To Conduct Overnight Hunt

The Infantry School Hunt will conduct an overnight fox hunt on January fourteenth and fifteenth, Saturday and Sunday. The field will leave the stables at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, January fourteenth and will ride to the 29th Infantry Recreation Camp and camp for the night.

Supper will be served at the camp at seven o'clock. Breakfast will be served at five o'clock in the morning, Sunday, January the fifteenth, after which the fox hunt will begin.

Tentage, mattresses, and cots will be provided at the camp. Blankets and other paraphernalia desired by individuals must be taken to the camp or bundled and tagged with the owner's name and left at the Officer's Club before noon on Saturday. This baggage will be transported by truck to the camp and returned Sunday morning.

A tent area will be provided for ladies and children and also an area for men. There will be sufficient chaperones for the younger set.

It is suggested that the following articles be taken: Four to six blankets, a towel, and toilet articles. Hot and cold water will be furnished.

A list of the officers in charge of the hunt is to be found on the Bulletin Board in the Officers' Club.

Those not riding are invited to attend the supper and dance at the 29th. Infantry camp at seven o'clock p. m. Saturday night.

Command Post Exercise Engages 29th Thursday

Lieutenant Colonel Andrew D. Chaffin, commander of the 29th Infantry, issued preparatory orders on Wednesday for a regimental command-post exercise, which engaged the regimental commander and staff, the battalion commanders and staffs, the regimental and battalion communications platoons, forward echelons of rifle company headquarters, machine gun company commanders, platoon leaders of the cannon company, and various enlisted men of the staff organizations.

The problem, which began on Thursday, required the establishment of the several command posts, and a skeleton organization of the communication systems, corresponding to the set-up which wonuld be required in a

(Please turn to page 4)

Benning Enters Period Of Mourning For Death Of Ex-President Coolidge

The first news of the death of former president Coolidge, received on Thursday, through the Associated Press, occasioned great regret at Fort Benning, where there are many army officers who were formerly on duty in Washington, D. C. and who are cognizant of the high regard in which Mr. Coolidge was held in official circles at the nation's capital. Official notice of the death of the former president received by radio on Friday put into effect the formal and impressive mourning ceremonies which are prescribed in army regulations for such an occasion. The garrison flag was lowered to half-staff early in the forenoon, and the half-hourly guns began at eleven-thirty. For the remainder of the day, until retreat, a single cannon salute was fired on each hour and half-hour by the main guard. At retreat, Friday, the salute to the Union, of forty-eight guns, was fired by the 1st Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery. Troops of the garrison were paraded at the same time and the official announcement of the former president's death read to them.

The official mourning period of one month began on Friday, when all officers donned a badge of military mourning consisting of black arm bands to be worn around the left sleeve of the uniform coat, and a knot of black crepe attached to the sabre. National and regimental colors and standards will also be draped in mourning during the thirty day period of mourning, and the garrison flag will be flown at half-staff during the same period.

On Saturday, the day of Mr. Coolidge's funeral, further military honors were rendered at Fort Benning. These consisted of twenty-one single cannon salutes, fired at intervals of one minute, and took place at approximately the same time that final services were held at Plymouth, Vermont. Interment, according to official advices, took place at three o'clock, eastern standard time, or two o'clock at Fort Benning.

Engineers Ferry Heavy Equipment In Bridge Tests

Practical tests of the elements of a light pontoon bridge were being carried on this week at Fort Benning. On Tuesday afternoon, troops of the 29th Infantry, comprising one rifle platoon, one machine gun section, one platoon of the cannon company, with complete combat equipment, including carts and animals, participated in ferrying operations. The ferrying was accomplished by the use of the pontoon boats used singly and combined in rafts, which carried the men, animals and equipment across the Chattahoochee river, a distance of about one hundred yards. Two methods of propulsion were used, some of the boats being rowed by the engineer troops, and others being towed by pontoons equipped with out-board motors of sixteen horsepower. The introduction of outboard motors as part of the engineer bridge material is a new idea which is expected to facilitate ferrying operations, as one boat equipped with a motor can tow several others.

On Wednesday morning the same type of operation continued with animal drawn transportation substituted for the troops. On Thursday afternoon tanks of the 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) and trucks of the engineer formed the cargo of the experimental ferries, and on Friday the guns and animals of the 83rd Field Artillery, will be carried across the river.

Beginning next week tests of the complete light bridge spanning the Chattahoochee will be conducted. With the trained crew of engineers and infantrymen now employed in the test the river can be spanned in about two hours. After the bridge is in place, foot troops, tanks, artillery and vehicles will be taken across. Upon completion of the tests of the light bridge, experiments with heavy equipment will be undertaken.

The tests, which have been underway at Fort Benning since October, 1932, are being conducted with a view to standardizing certain types of pontoon bridges proposed for general adoption by the army, in recognition of the necessity for improved types of military pontoon bridges which has been created by the introduction of tanks, heavy guns, motor transportation, and other heavy types of armament and equipment. The bridge, which include the light and heavy types, were designed by a board of engineers at Fort Humphreys' Virginia, after an exhaustive study of various military bridges of American and foreign design.

The tests at Fort Benning are being conducted by Company E 1st Engineers, which was sent to Fort Benning from Ft. Dupont, Dela., for the purpose. These men are assisted by a detail of approximately forty men from the 29th Infantry. A part of the test scheduled consisted of the training of personnel in the handling of the bridge material, and under the direction of Lieutenant Chester K. Harding, 1st Engineers, a team of one hundred trained men has been developed. From the operations of this provisional company it is expected that a basis for a set of training regulations for this type of engineer work will be evolved.

Hike Is Planned For Boy Scouts Of Ft. Benning Troop

Fort Benning Boy Scouts will have something to add incentive, if that live-wire organization needs such a thing, for their work for the coming two months. Lieutenant Colonel Frank F. Jewett, chairman of the council for boys' activities, has announced that a special hike and wiener roast will be given to the troop making the most points between now and April 8, 1933.

Points in the competition will be awarded on the following basis: Tenderfoot becoming 2d class—15 points; for 2d class becoming 1st class—25 points; for each merit badge awarded —10 points; for each scout becoming a Star scout—50 points; for each scout becoming a Life Scout—100 points.

The next meeting of the Court of Honor will be held on Saturday evening, January 14.

Major General Fuqua Is Recovered From Illness

Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, the Chief of Infantry, has returned to his office after a brief absence occasioned by a slight attack of bronchitis.

Warm Springs Man Seeks Information About Old Rifle

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of a certain party! War veterans, with their invariable knowledge of the other man's equipment, and hot-stove weapons experts are hereby given a chance to step to the head of the class by displaying a bit of knowledge learned in France.

Mr. Robert R. Gibson, of Warm Springs, Ga., has written to the post information bureau (?) requesting information about a war-rifle that he possesses. Here's the dope:

"I have a rifle of German or Austrian make, military type, having been used during the World War. This rifle bears the markings "ERFURT 1917," also on the side of the cartridge chamber KAX 98, above these markings is a crown. The bayonet for this rifle is of the saw-tooth variety, also bearing the mark of ERFURT 1917.

Any information I can get from anyone there concerning this riffe will be appreciated, also as to ammunition, calibre, etc.

Very truly yours,"

Anyone having acquaintance with this particular weapon, whether pleasant or otherwise, please notify the public relations office, post headquarters.

-:- Things Chinese -:-

The following article, describing procedure with which marriages in China are conducted, is from the December issue of the SENTINEL, published by the Fifteenth Infantry, Tientsin, China. Many of the personnel of Fort Benning, already familiar with many Chinese customs, will undoubtedly find this article of great interest.

MARRIAGE IN CHINA

Marriage is the one end and aim set forth for a girl; this is the goal to which she is taught to look forward, or to which her parents look forward for her, for it matters little about the girl herself. She is almost a nonentity in the matter; her wishes are not to be consulted; she has often never seen her future husband; she is even sometimes hypothetically betrothed to a contingent husband, that is to say, two married couples agree that if one should have a son and the other a daughter, they shall be married when they grow up. From the last, it will be seen that the man is not much better off than the woman in these matters. It is not the parties themselves that are considered—for the individual is nothing in China—it is the respective families that are taken into account. A man in China does not marry so much for his own benefit as for that of the family, to continue the family name; to provide descendants to keep up the ancestral worship; and to give a daughter-in-law to his mother to wait on her and be, in general, a daughter to her. So far are these ideas carried that if her future husband dies before marriage his intended wife, if a model girl, will leave her own family and go and live with that of her deceased betrothed, and perform all the services which her position then requires of her.

Nearly all the fun of life, and very little she has at the best, is gone as soon as the girl is engaged. She retires int oa stricter seclusion than ever, and has to be very circumspect in her intercourse even with her own brothers. Love making is utterly forbidden by the prudery of Confucianism and social customs and usages—it is highly immoral.

Marriage customs vary in different parts of the country but the essential ceremonials preliminary to, and connected with, marriages are six. (a) the contract signed by the parents or guardians (b) acceptance of the wedding gifts by the bride's family (c) the bringing of the bride to the bridegroom's house, are conditions indispensable to the actual marriage.

After all the details have been arranged, the final ceremonial which hands her over to her husband is performed. She is dressed in her best, and, when the procession comes for her, is placed in the grand, red, marriage sedan chair, in which she never rides again. The chair is a heavy cumbrous article of wood, highly ornamented with carving and kingfisher's feathers; the bride inside is completely secluded from profane gaze, and on a hot summer day the position cannot be an enviable one, though a Chinese girl probably stands it better than an English girl (so accustomed to fresh air and freedom of motion) would; but even for Chinese girls the ordeal is sometimes greater than they can bear, and when the bridegroom opens the door, it is sometimes found that the poor little bride has escaped from all the troubles of future married life. At times the wedding chair has to cross a river on its route, and woe betide the girl if the heavy chair causes the boat to capsize. Should the bride-elect die before her marriage, the future husband marries his dead bride; but as the Chinese customs with regard to men are different from those with regard to women, he is free to marry again. The young lady does not name the day, as with us; that is done by the bridegroom's father.

Her trousseau is sent to her future home before her marriage, and is made the occasion for a procession, the bearers of the various objects being clad in red jackets and parading through the streets. For some days preceding the wedding, the girl, with her sisters and friends, bewails and laments her intended removal from the home of her father. The bridal chair wends its way to the bride's home, where a friend of the bridegroom presents a letter to her, written on red paper tinged with gold, urging the bride to come. The letter is carefully kept by the bride, and is somewhat the equivalent of "marriage lines" in England. After certain ceremonials are gone through, the bride makes her appearance, but her features are concerned by a piece of red silk. After saluting the friend of the bridegroom, she enters the chair and is borne with clashing of gongs and the playing of the Chinese Wedding March to the bridegroom's house. Arriving at her future home, the chair is set down. The bridegroom is at the door with his fan, with which he knocks at the door of the chair, which the bridesmaids open, and the red veiled bride, still with her face unseen, steps out.

Nowadays the bride frequently goes by motor car, but the windows are closely screened with silk, thus effectively preventing her from being seen from outside.

She is now placed on the back of a female servant and carried over a slow charcoal fire . . . . Above her head, as she is conveyed over the fire, another servant raises a tray containing several pairs of chop-sticks, some rice, and betelnuts. By this time the bridegroom has taken his place on a high stool, on which he stands to receive the bride, who prostrates herself at the foot and does obeisance to her lord. The high stool is intended to show the great superiority of the husband over the wife. . . . Descending from his elevated position, the bridegroom removes the veil of red silk. Now for the first time he catches a sight of the wife's face. It is still more or less hidden by the string of pearls which hang from her bridal coronet. The bridal pair is then conducted to the ancestral hall, where they prostrate themselves before the altar on which the ancestral tables are arranged. Heaven and earth, the Gods of the principal doors of the house, and the parents of the bride are the next objects of worship. A further act of homage which consists of pouring out drink-offerings to the ancestors of the family, having been duly performed by the bridegroom only, the happy couple are escorted to the bridal chamber, where they find the orange-tree with its strings of cash, emblems of fruitfulness and wealth, and the burning tapers, which formed part of the procession, placed on the nuptial couch. From the top of the bed are suspended three long strips of red paper, containing good wishes: one being "May you have a hundred sons and a thousand grandsons." The bridegroom having now saluted the bride they sit down and have tea and cakes. The bride at this time tries to get a piece of her husband's dress under her feet when she sits down, for, if she does, it will insure her of having the upper hand on him, while he tries to prevent her and do the same himself with her dress. The strings of pearls are now drawn aside by the maids in

(Please turn to page 3)

His Last Act as President

Here is pictured the last official act of the late Calvin Coolidge as President of the United States. Mr. Coolidge is shown as he left the White House with Herbert Hoover on the way to the inauguration ceremonies, during which President Coolidge handed over the reins of government to President Hoover.

Shop in the Herald

Benning Herald advertisers are co-operating with YOU—they are soliciting your business; they carry the best lines of merchandise; they stand ready to serve you in every possible way, and any advertisers who deliver to Benning are ready at all times to give you this or any other service that it is in their power to render.

They not only support this important function of Benning (YOUR NEWSPAPER) but maintain every other activity they can. They appreciate your patronage, and it is to your ultimate advantage to know them.

ATTENTION!

There's News
For you on Page
7

CHANCELLOR
COMPANY

THINGS CHINESE
(Continued From Page 2)

attendance, in order that the bride-room may have the opportunity of seeing the features of his bride, who, that he may receive a correct impression of them has carefully omitted the use of rouge in her toilet operations. While they are thus engaged. many of the relatives and friends assemble to celebrate the wedding, they they enter the chamber and freely remark on the personal appearance of the bride. This must be a trying experience to the modest retiring bride, as the observations are loud enough for all to hear. Her new relatives and friends wish her many children; and the bridegroom soon leaves her to mix with the many guests. At seven o'clock in the evening a banquet is held in honor of her parents-in-law, prepared by the bride. When all things are ready the parents enter the banqueting hall, when the bride after bringing the principal dish from the kitchen and placing it on the table with her own hands, assumes the position of a waiting maid. Filling the cup of her father-in-law with wine she presents it to him with both hands, and whilst he is drinking the contents, she kneels and knocks her head twice on the ground. To her mother-in-law, whose cup she now fills she is equally reverential. The banquet over and the parents-in-law having washed their hands, the bride is called upon to partake of a repast. On a table at the top of the steps which lead to the dining room, the father-in-law orders the servants to place various food, and she is asked to occupy a chair on the east side of the table. Her mother-in-law fills a cup of wine and presents it to her. Before receiving it, however, she rises from her chair and kneeling at the feet of her mother-in-law, does obeisance by twice knocking her head on the ground. It is the custom in some parts of the country to keep the bride up nearly all night answering riddles and listening to doubtful stories. And more often than not the gentlemen get drunk and raise disturbances.

It only remains to say that on the third day the ancestors are again worshipped, and a visit is paid by the young lady to her parents. And the evening of the fourth day a dinner party is held, the men and women guests eating separately—the the bride and groom waiting on their guests.

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 *or less

for bills . . education . . travel

•

Check off these advantages:
- √ Officers may borrow up to $300
- √ Your signature is our only security.
- √ Your confidence is respected.
- √ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
- √ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
- √ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
- √ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
- √ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

STOP!

On Page

7

CHANCELLOR

COMPANY

QUEER CHARACTERS AMUSE KIDS

Three of the marionettes which will take parts in the presentation of "Sinbad, the Sailor" at the Main Theater January 20th.

From 48th Street, New York, to Fort Benning, Georgia, is a long hop for any theatrical company, but Tony Sarg's marionettes are making such a trip to fulfill a contract engagement for the Fort Benning Parent Teacher's Association at the Main Theatre on Friday, January 20.

Arabian Nights' entertainment, featuring "Sindbad the Sailor" will be staged for the grown-up theatre-goers, while "The Merry-Go-Round", a composite playlet, containing excerpts from many childhood favorites, will be presented for the amusement of the younger patrons.

At the evening performance, beginning at eight thirty, the extraordinary experiences of Sindbad the Sailor, bold adventure and favorite character of the romantic Eastern tales, will be portrayed by a large cast of puppet actors, created and costumes by the noted illustrator, and performing in elaborate sets designed by the same skillful hand.

Twenty-eight principal players, in addition to several minor characters, and a variety of animals, including an elephant, camel, donkeys, horses, sheep, and dogs, appear in the cast. There is also a large fish, and the great roc, the mythical bird, which figures so prominently in Sindbad's adventures. The characters are arrayed in costumes appropriate to the time and locale portrayed by the story, and the stage settings reflect scenes of Oriental splendor.

Throughout his adaptation of the Arabian Nights' story, Tony Sarg has invested it with the artistic touch which has made him one of the best known of American illustrators. Ten elaborate scenes in the two acts lend an air of realism to the movements of the puppet characters, and vividly illustrate some of the picturesque episodes of the story. Among these is a beautiful tableau of a shipwreck. with novel lighting and mechanical effects; the adventure with the shark under water; the encounter with the great roc in the air; the valley of jewels: and the magnificent court of the Sultan.

Behind the scenes are eight talented people, who skilfully manipulate the strings which move the actors, and project their voices so that each of the marionettes appears to be speaking its own lines. This group of artists includes Charles Searle, Rhys Williams, Elvira Jones, Elise Dvorak, and David Pritchard, who actuate the puppets; Richard Williams, musical director; Rowland Cook, who controls the novel lighting effects; and Elizabeth Parsons, whose title is mistress of the wardrobe.

The evening performance opens with a prologue, the scene of which is a deserted beach near Bagdad. The first act contains four scenes; the sailing and the storm; a tropical island; the city gate; Sindbad's shop; and the Princess' garden. The second act contains five scenes; showing a ship; and a view under the sea; the valley of jewels; the caravan; the Sultan's palace; and the court of the Sultan.

The first act opens with Sindbad on the beach, despondently contemplating drowning himself. Shortly the genii of the bottle appears, and after that there is one startling and breath-taking adventure after another, leading up to the meeting with the beautiful Princess, and Sindbad's threatened summary execution, which latter, however, is happily averted.

Appropriate music accompanies the progress of the play and adds to the effectiveness and impressivenes sof the various scenes.

The afternoon performance of the "Merry-Go-Round" is designed especially to appeal to the youngsters, and for this reason is composed of a variety of selections from various favorites of childhood lore. In this medley will be seen portions of "Alice in Wonderland," "Rip Van Winkle," "Rose and the Ring," and others suited to the younger spectators. Appropriate music and lighting effects, and attractive costumes will add to the delightfulness of the play for the youngsters.

A character from "Sinbad"

Tony Sarg's marionettes have been engaged for their local appearances by the Fort Benning Parent Teachers' Association. Proceeds derived from the two performances will be applied for the benefit of the Fort Benning Children's Schools. Upon the invitation of the Fort Benning Parent-Teachers' Association, that of Columbus is cooperating in the arrangements for the afternoon benefit performance. Arrangements have been made to dismiss children early at Fort Benning and in Columbus on the afternoon of the children's performance, which begins at three o'clock. To make it easier for children of Columbus to attend the show, Mr. Thurston Crawford, manager of the Howard Bus Company, has offered a five-cent fare for children on the busses for that day.

TOWN TOPICS
(Continued From Page 1)

In the midst of the heavy downpour that deluged the post Wednesday was heard the harsh blowing of whistles, the shrill screaming of sirens tha announced to the world at large tha the Benning Fire Department was o its way.

The fire engines came to a halt near headquarters, a hose was quickly attached to a plug by the dripping firemen (not perspiration), and water was sprayed on the general's lawn. And the wind roared. And the rain beat down. And water was sprayed on the general's lawn.

Had the whole fire department suddenly gone mad? If so, was their a method in their madness? Or was it just a fireman's idea of going out on a lark?

Unfortunately, dear readers, the explanation was simpler than that. The firemen were having a practice session.

* * *

Signal Officer Lanahan is rumored to have sent a unique message to fourth corps area headquarters in Atlanta last week. It ran something like this: "Send new woodpecker here at once. Gray queen worn out."

It seems that a "wodpecker" is a telephone testing device and a "gray queen" is a type of "woodpecker." At any rate, thereby hangs a tale.

The wife of an officer complained to the office that her telephone was very noisy. When she was informed that that was because a "woodpecker was on the line," she drew the conclusion that the person to whom she was talking was insinuating that she was a woodpecker and flew into a blind rage. The utmost tact and diplomacy was necessary to smooth the ruffled dignity of the lady.

—USED CARS—

| | |
|---|---|
| 1930 President 8 State Sedan | $475 |
| 1930 President 8 Regular Sedan | 450 |
| 1929 President 8 State Sedan | 395 |
| 1929 Chrysler Crown Sedan | 695 |
| 1929 Ford 1½ Ton Truck | 195 |
| 1931 Ford Tudor Sedan | 295 |
| 1930 Chevrolet Coach Wire Wheels | 225 |
| 1927 Studebaker 6 Sedan | 165 |
| 1927 Lincoln Sedan | 245 |
| 1927 Buick Sedan | 215 |
| 1931 Studebaker Dictator Coupe | 425 |
| 1928 Buick Victoria 5 Pass. | 195 |
| 1932 Rockne Regal Sedan | 525 |
| 1930 Packard Sedan (10000 Miles | 995 |
| 1931 Oakland 8 Sedan (Now) | 695 |
| 1930 Nash Coach | 395 |
| 1928 Durant Touring | 95 |
| 1930 Essex Sedan | 185 |
| 1928 Oldsmobile Coach | 150 |

Columbus Roberts Motor Co.

Incorporated

12 - 12th St. Phone 271

Drs. Miller & Davis

Dog and Cat Hospital

1006 13th Street

Office Phone 1313

Paid Free Paid Free Paid Free Paid Free Paid Free

COMPLIMENTS OF

Boston Shoe Factory

1234 Broadway Phone 565

2 FOR 1 OFFER

When you have a pair of leather taps put on your shoes bring this card and for one Paid Pair we will give One Free.

Paid Free Paid Free Paid Free Paid Free Paid Free

Call at the Boston Shoe Factory for this card.
It will save you $3.75

NEW YEAR

NEW NAME

NEW MANAGEMENT

and the same efficient beauty operators

Miss Louise Livingstone
Miss Marcella Conyers
Mrs. Eva Maddox
Miss Margie Akers
Miss Alice Harris
Miss Mary Kline
Miss Muriel Tillman

MANICURIST
Miss Mary Elliott Dorrough

TONSORIAL ARTIST
Mr. Bill Waldrop

THE ARTISTIC BOB SHOPPE

formerly

NORA'S ARTISTIC BOB SHOPPE

1139 Broadway Phone 9300

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Miss Elsa Rietzel Married To Lieut. Riley At Ring Ceremony In New York

Miss Elsa Rietzel, daughter of Mrs. Herman Rietzel and the late Herman Rietzel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was married at a military wedding, December 28, 1932 in St. Stephens Church, to Lieutenant Joseph Jasper Riley, of Ozark, Alabama. The Pastor, Rev. Luther D. Gable officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Jacob Albeck. Mrs. William Lewis Bell, Jr., was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Charles Pierson and Mrs. Blair Ford were attendants. Mr. Harold Nelson, a former class mate of the groom was best man, while Lieutenant William Lewis Bell, Jr., and Midshipman Kenneth Sanger were the ushers.

The bride wore a white satin dress, with lace veil forming the train she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. The maid of honor and the brides-maids wore garnet velvet and carried bouquets of pansies tied with silver ribbon. After the ceremony the bride and groom passed through the traditional Arch of Swords.

Immediately following the reception which was held at the Hotel St. George the young couple started to motor to Fort Benning, Ga., where Lieutenant Riley is attending the Infantry school.

* * *

MRS. LANHAM ENTERTAINS CONTRACT BRIDGE CLUB FRIDAY

Mrs. Charles Lanham was the hostess Friday to the ladies of her bridge club, entertaining with lunch followed by two tables of contract bridge. The members of her bridge club are: Mrs. R. E. Vermette, Mrs. Orestes Cleveland, Mrs. Lynn Brady, Mrs. G. P. Howell, Mrs. Clayton Studebaker, Mrs. J. E. Bowen, and Miss Hariotte Atkins.

* * *

MRS. RICE HOSTESS TO 29TH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Elmer F. Rice was the hostess at her quarters Tuesday, to the ladies of the 29th Infantry Bridge Club. About four tables assembled for bridge followed by tea. Assisting Mrs. Rice were: Mrs. George S. Beatty, Mrs. J. E. Bowen, and Mrs. H. C. Britt.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. PAUL ZUVER HONOR GUESTS AT PICNIC

Lieutenant and Mrs. Paul Zuver were the honor guests Thursday evening at a picnic supper given by Captain and Mrs. R. E. Vermette and Lieutenant and Mrs. J. R. Pierce at the 29th Infantry Recreation Camp. After supper, games and contests were enjoyed. The guest list included a few of the hosts' friends.

* * *

LITTLE MISS VIRGINIA HARRISON CELEBRATES FOURTH BIRTHDAY WITH PARTY

Little Miss Virginia Harrison was hostess to a few of her friends Tuesday afternoon from four to six, at the home of her parents, Major and Mrs. Roger Harrison. During the afternoon games and contests were played. A delicious course of ice cream and a lovely birthday cake with four candles, was served for the refreshments. Virginia had as her guests, Jane Decker, Peggy Trechter, Felicia Howell, Mary Gabriel, Clayton Studebaker, Jane McConnell, Rodman Jenkins, Walter Phillips, and Nat Sibley.

* * *

CAPTAIN AND MRS. ROBLES ENTERTAIN WITH CHILI PARTY

Captain and Mrs. O. S. Robles were the hosts Friday evening to a few of their friends at a "chili" party at their home in Columbus. The guests were, Captain and Mrs. Casper Crim, Lieutenant and Mrs. Ross Brackney, and Lieutenant and Mrs. G. P. Howell.

Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

No matter how many decorative coats we may have we always find that the one we wear the most or the best friend, is the general utility coat.

This type of coat would be good for travel, for sports or for general wear, as it is of ribbed gray woolen with a black Persian lamb collar. It is beautifully cut, with its high double-breasted fastening and its novel pockets. The sleeves are straight and slim, as are many of the new sleeves.

Girl Scouts

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, January 10

Today was a big day for us, with merit badges, announcements and elections. Friday we have our Athlete badge from Major Bradley who is going to instruct in that work.

Two or three girls left the meeting for their photographer badge with Captain Liston.

Mrs. Brown has reserved the Post Gym for us on Saturday from 10:30 to 11:30. We are going to play basket ball and do some practicing for our Athlete test. We appreciate this opportunity a lot because it is the only time the Scouts can get together for a real battle!

Two of our patrol leaders have decided to let some other Scouts have the experience as leaders. The new ones are Miriam Mangum and Frances Lewis, girls that we know will be good leaders in Scouting. We are sorry, however to have Madeleine Matchett and Jane Kraft leave their posts.

With the flag ceremony and some songs, we closed our meeting getting all practiced up for the Court of Awards coming soon.

COMING POST EXERCISE ENGAGES 29TH INFANTRY

(Continued from page 1)

specific tactical situation in the presence of an enemy.

Thursday's problem was conducted to meet an assumed tactical situation which has been outlined in the orders issued by Colonel Chaffin. The problem was scheduled to be completed by eleven-thirty a. m. Thursday, when umpires appointed by Colonel Chaffin will have submitted their reports and decisions.

Lieutenant Colonel Homer H. Slaughter was designated as chief umpire for the exercises, and was assisted by Lieutenant Edward A. Chazal, Captain Horace O. Cushman has been named as regimental umpire, and Captain Ray E. Porter, George S. Beatty, and Robert B. McClure were designated as umpires for the 1st Battalion. Umpires for the 2d Battalion were Major Fred V. Schneider, Captain Edward J. Renth, and Captain John A. Otto.

LEST YOU FORGET . . .
February 1st is the last day to place yor special orders. Material from Manila.
MRS. O. S. ROBLES
PHILIPPINE HANDWORK SHOP
2218 Wynnton

FULLER BRUSH
REPRESENTATIVE
J. M. NORRIS
Phone 717-W or call at 715 Broadway —from 12 noon to 1 P. M. or 5 P. M. to 6 P. M. week days and Saturday 3 P. M. to 6 P. M.

It's That Extra Cream That Makes It Richer!

. . . and it's the extra cream that gives it that smoother, better taste and adds so much to its healthfulness. Use Foremost EVERY time!

Call the
SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

BUY!
NOW
This is probably the last time for years to come that we will be able to give such values.
CHANCELLOR COMPANY

ANTIQUES
China, glass ware, bric-brac, crochet bedspreads and furniture.
MRS. CARL SNUGGS
1414 2nd. Ave. Phone 2580

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

RUBBER STAMPS
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.
24 HR. SERVICE
PHONE 556

Come in and shake hands with the Champion!

THIS famous Spalding Top-Flite is the champion's racket. In every major tournament you'll see it flashing its stuff—sending them over the net so fast they don't come back. Come in and grasp the handle—swing it. It's a new thrill in tennis.

MAIN BRANCH
POST EXCHANGE

The Post Exchange
HAS A DELIVERY SERVICE FROM ITS
SODA FOUNTAIN
The hours of this service are from 11:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M.
This service is designated particularly for the delivery of Ice Cream in quarts and smaller quantities to your home.
Excellent Curb Service Also
Phone 69
THE SODA FOUNTAIN
POST EXCHANGE
"It Pays to Trade at Your Post Exchange"

Notice to Ladies of Fort Benning

We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.

OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Baths
Reducing, Facial, Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydrio, Electro } Therapy

Swedish Massage
Swedish Facial Massage
Swedish Scalp Treatments
Turkish Shampoos
Special Reducing Treatment
Swedish Shampoos

Rigdon Health Institute
216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

Literary Section Of Woman's Club Hears Talks On Several Books

The Literary section of the Infantry School Woman's Club met at the Polo Hunt club Monday, a most instructive program being presented under the direction of Mrs. Elbert Lyman and Mrs. C. W. Weeks.

The program committee, under the capable direction of Mrs. J. A. Holly, had selected seven books for review. These ranged from the technical "Coup D Etat" by Curgio Malaport to the light and amusing "Not To Be Repeated."

* * *

Mrs. Lyman reviewed the following books, giving a concise biography of the authors and high lights of the stories "Coup D Etat" by Curzio Malaparte is a story of a famous dictator, the technique of which should prove more interesting to men than women. The author is a contemporary of Mussolini and accompanied him on his march on Rome. Although a very young man, Malaparte has written nine books and held many public offices of importance.

Mrs. Lyman's second book was "A Guide Through World Chaos," by C. H. S. Cole. Our critic has described this as being the one indispensable book. It should be studied by every voter and particularly those people who have no knowledge of economic conditions.

"Our Times—The War Begins, 1909-1914," by Mark Sullivan was next discussed. Mr. Sullivan has had a most interesting life. He received his education at the Eastern college, became a newspaper man in Washington, D. C., and because of his personality and diplomacy has always been near the powers that be in the Capitol. In this way he is able to obtain items of great news value that are denied the less favored. Our Times, 1909-1914 are considered by the author as the last phase of American innocence. The illustrations of this book are in themselves most interesting and tell a story of the progress of time and fashions.

"Purdah—The Status of Indian Women," by Das. The word purdah, when translated into our language means curtain or screen and in this book we are allowed to look behind this screen with the eyes of the author, Das, a Swiss woman who married a native of India and went to that country to live.

"Not To Be Repeated," though published as an anonymous contribution, is credited to Ray Long, who through his European contacts secured the services of writers familiar with conditions in various countries. This book is known as the European More Merry-Go-Round and gossips most breezily of such well known notables as Queen Mary, King George and the ever colorful Marie of Roumania and her son, King Carol.

Mrs. Weeks gave as her first review, "The Tinder Box of Asia" written by George Sokolsky, who has lived, studied and worked in Manchuria, China and Japan and is therefore thoroughly conversant with his subject. This book gives a clever insight into the Chinese leaning toward peacefulness, their indifference toward a central form of government since they are essentially a tribal race.

The concluding review by Mrs. Weeks was Chase's "The New Deal" which is a recognized authority on economics and deals entirely with the problems of our country, the two foremost problems being distribution and production.

These reviews brought forth many interesting current events pertaining to the subjects reviewed and in addition accomplished the object of all book reviews, which is to stimulate an interest in reading.

25%

Reduction on all Fall Suits, Topcoats, Tuxedos

New Spring Kuppenheimer Suits On Display

Charge Sales—Alterations Free

HOFFLIN and GREENTREE

COLUMBUS' LEADING CLOTHIERS

KIRVEN'S

Last Minute Savings

Saturday marks the last day of the first week of Kirven's Re-Opening. Last Monday morning, we offered our customers practically our entire stock of merchandise at low prices. The response surpassed all expectations. We are sincerely grateful for your patronage.

Kirven's Re-Opening Prices Continue!

Unusual Values
KAYSER
HOSIERY

Here are unusual values in Kayser Silk hosiery . . . as fine hose as money can buy at a price far below what you would expect to pay. An opportunity to supply your hosiery needs for months.

75c Value 69c - $1 Value 89c - 75c Value 69c

FIRST FLOOR

SHOES

SHOES from our First Floor Shoe Department have been placed in a special lot in the Basement for immediate sale. Values from $6 to $7.50. Blonde kids, combination sport shoes in black and white, tan and white and all white. Sandals, Ties, Pumps and Straps.

SHOE DEPARTMENT $2.95 KIRVEN'S BASEMENT

Now Is The Time To Buy Draperies!

Make a home out of the house with new draperies from Kirven's. Our entire stock of curtains and draperies has been greatly reduced.

Damask $1.00 Value 59c yd.
Damask $1.50 to $2.50 Value 79c yd.
Hand Blocked Linen $1.50 Value 39c yd.

SECOND FLOOR

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II JANUARY 13, 1933 NUMBER 38

L. C. Kunze ---------- Publisher
A. F. Kunze ---------- Editor
Felicia C. Howell ---------- Society Editor
D. P. Harding ---------- Sports Editor
John W. Pearce ---------- Advertising Manager
Louis T. Kunze ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject any advertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

LIEUTENANT PEEP'S DIARY

Thursday, January 5

Off to a flying start with a first hour lecture on pigeons by the one and only Duke Lanahan. It would sadden me to believe that he had expended much precious time and thought on the talk for though it was passing interesting I do recall of it only the statement that the pigeons have "no interest whatever in the tactical situation." Which state does place them on a par with students solving ungraded problems.

An evening spent to advantage on Hook Range in observing machine-gun night firing and much impressed with the progress of ordnance that bullets could be made to carry lamps to light their way to the target.

Afterward to the bowling alley to fritter away an hour or so. Being but a neophyte I was reluctant to exhibit my skill at keeping the ball in the gutter but took heart upon seeing another roll a ball which jumped the barrier between alleys 3 and 4, surprizing the pin-setter in 4 almost to the point of breaking his leg. Encouraging too for that I did not on the backward swing with any ball let it fly into the spectators, having for this error on a previous night been urged to go on over to the movies.

Friday, January 6

Rewarded for our extra time spent at last evening's session by being allowed to listen to the monograph presentations of several of the seniors. Major Buonaparte Harding having announced that our thirst for military history would be assuaged by personal experience monographs presented by Advanced Course members, I was mildly surprised to be treated to Capt. Ross's experience with Sheridan at Cedar Creek and Captain Chance's in the Boer War. It becomes increasingly difficult for me to estimate ages. Explorer Chance, I can well believe, earned his sobriquet on the platform for he did season his most excellent dissertation with such shuttling back and forth across the platform as tho he were afflicted with ants in his pants.

Sunday, January 8

Lord's Day and fittingly observed too by attending church. And I did hear such a good old-fashioned hell-fire-and-damnation sermon as would delight the heart of grand-aunt Beulah, a hardshell Baptist of the old school.

Perusing the day's journals at great leisure as is my one weekend luxury I did observe that "Water is furnished by a spring and the students own one mirror which is hung on the side of the cabin.. There they do their shaving and bathing." It must be that students are more agile nowadays than when I was a collitch boy.

Monday, January 9

All agog over the annual physical exam which was administered to me this day for altho I am never chidden for obeseness there is always something of a gamble on my blood pressure. I recall a distinct fright of a year ago upon being informed that I might be discharged for minority since blood pressure (they say) is 100 plus one's age and mine was 107.

The examination was conducted in the Main Theater's "Green Room," so called I suppose from the complete whiteness of the walls. The whole formation did seem sepulchral except that the corpses moved about in the vertical. The white coats and gowns, the sad visages of the medicos, inspired a fear to look up lest one should find graven above each door "Abandon hope all ye who enter here." Finished at last with no greater damage to myself than the loss of another quarter inch in my stature. I shall some day submit myself to the Bureau of Standards for measurement for, Lord, if I continue to lose a quarter inch a year as the annual examination for the past three years has averred I am not long for this world—nor for the next either at that rate. I doubt not that McComas would contend that the measuring bar does yearly more closely approach the top of my head and I might with reason contend that two years with the local Foot Cavalry had taken a like amount from the pedal end. May hap it is not cheerful to contemplate as an annual diminution.

One officer of sub normal eyesight was cheerfully miscalling all the letters in the eye test. Asked if a man his age did not recognize the letters of the alphabet he indignantly asserted "Of course I recognize them; but I'm just not sure of pronunciation."

Wednesday, January 11

The machine gun committee no doubt pleased at having at last brought the weather under their control again for they did manage all of their instruction this day before the rain set in.

Indoor instruction this afternoon punctuated by Buck Purcell's famous last words, "I don't know sir," this following his voluble five minute discourse and probably prompted by the growing expression of incredulity on Major Easley's face.

The disappointment at not being one afternoon to the good because of the rain, was somewhat modified by a red hot bayonet demonstration staged by Cpls. Hudson and Costello of Company F, the 29th. Anything that receives applause from the class is above excellent.

I do feel thta there is a concerted effort in the faculty to heckle me and should it continue I shall have potent reason to applaud the system of code numbers which is used on graded work. I do feel, too, that if there is to be any such exchange between the faculty and myself I am sitting on the wrong side of the desk to profit by it. Perhaps I had best interest myself in Sunday School activities or request charge of station. At any rate I do thank God that I am not by nature vindictive.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

HEALTH QUOTATIONS

Regular periodic physical examination with the proper advice and treatment will prolong life. Women need these examinations just as often, or even more often than men. Many acute infections and most of the chronic diseases begin in childhood. The periodic health examination of children is the best bet for their future happiness and usefulness.

In the vast majority of cases tuberculosis is a disease of early childhood.

Children must have proper food during their growing years. To satisfy hunger is not enough. If children do not get the essentials for normal growth and development they suffer physically in later years.

Children's play is more than mere pastime; it is necessary for growth.

The complete physical examination of the child is a necessary step in preventive medicine. Its aim is not only to prolong life, but to preserve health.

Automobile accidents among military personnel are much more common than in the civil population. The percentage of deaths from this cause is growing slightly less in civil communities, while in the army it has increased 34 percent in the last five years. Alcholism and automobiles cannot be mixed.

One does not have to be drunk in the legal sense of the term; even a small amount of alcohol retards reaction and impairs judgement. Speeding enters into the majority of accidents; not necessarily exceeding the legal limit, but traveling faster than a particular situation warrants. Mechanical defects in the car play a certain role in causing accidents. This is especially true of second hand cars that many officers and enlisted men buy. If a car runs they use it.

Play safe—your automobile needs a periodic examination just the same as you do.

Offhand... Observations

By McGoofus

If all the experiences and impressions which go to make up a student's composite reaction to a year at a service school could be catalogued, what a list it would make—hard work and play; successes and disappointments; parties; friends and perhaps a few enemies.

Incidents taking place between Fridays and Mondays would play a major role.

Let us see what does take place during a typical week end.

Friday afternoon, Model Student, tired but happy with the consciousness of a week of hard work well done, grabs his short coat and lunch box and makes a dash for transportation.

On the way home, he plans how he will spend the week end. This to be one time when the school-free days will not be wasted. Yes Sir, there are a lot of loose ends which he will whip together before the beginning of another school week.

Friday evening he will devote to catching up with back correspondence. About eight letters should do that trick.

Saturday morning, he will arise early and give the old bus a much needed going-over. Then he will fix an extension cord to an electric light which has been the topic of much recent discussion around his hearth. There should be time left to uncrate some of the stuff which has been stored in the back of the garage.

Saturday afternoon he will give Mrs. Model Student a treat by taking her on a no-time-limit shopping tour.

Saturday evening will be spent at home quietly. He will listen to the radio, sort an accumulation of mimeographs and retire early for Sunday morning he will drive out to the post and have a gallop along the lovely woodland trails. He really should become better acquainted with the terrain.

Sunday afternoon he will pay three or four calls which should have been made in September.

Sunday evening he will look up the schedule for the following week, study the references, and lay out equipment and clothing to be used the following day. No more Monday morning lates for him.

Just as his plans are nicely rounded out, Buck, who is furnishing transportation for the pool that day suggests that it would be a fine idea for the members of the pool to stop by his place a few minutes before dispersing for the week end. Model Student has some momentary misgivings (he has stopped by Buck's before) but he dismisses them by reflecting that his plan was not to go into effect until that evening and that all work and no play etc.

The assemblage at Buck's soon drifted into serious discussion so that time drifted by unnoticed. That is, it was unnoticed until Mrs. Model Student phoned to enquire in no com-

(Please turn to page 12)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

ECHO FROM THE OBSERVATION POST

As promised in our last issue, we are printing this week a few comments from the facile pen of our one-time contemporary, Count Zuveroff, former conductor of the Observation Post. As previously stated, the Count can be decidedly caustic when he chooses to be. This time, however, he elects to deal gently with those whose foibles he once flayed in his always interesting and widely read column.

"The moving finger writes and having writ" our orders about a year ago, we moved north into that somnolescent land known as the Cumberland Valley, the home of the famous Carlisle Cathartic College. There we languished in solitary exile until the arrival of three other Benningites enabled us to form a quartette strong enough to tell the medicated garrison, "That is not at all the way it is done at Benning" and by adopting an approved Infantry School solution in elastic defense, avoid the mayhem contemplated by the remainder of the garrison.

In this modern age it is not far from Quaker land to the banks of the Upatoi but geographical miles are no accurate measurement of the yawning abyss that lies between. Where once we glibly talked of communications and supply we now gravely discuss iodine and ambulances. However, Benning is in the saddle and under the direction of the former chief of the Second Section, Carlisle is coming up on the right of the line.

In announcing our departure a year ago Mandarin Hah Ding noted that the corroding stream no longer flowed from the poison pen and said that we wrote as Othello loved, not wisely but too well. For that we take a bow. Had he reversed the simile and said that we loved as Othello wrote etc., he would have had Madame la Comtesse Zuveroff to reckon with and that would be no light reckoning.

When we conducted our column on this paper we campaigned actively for the restraint of the China crowd and the extermination of the Horsey group. We wish to withdraw both planks from our platform. When the present mandarins shall have moved on to other fields we wonder where equally capable hands will be found to carry on the many duties they have so ably performed. Furthermore, there must be something truly great about any group that can dismount Tanker Brett from his mechanical mount and advance him to high estate in the Hunt Club. His Phillips about mule minded Cavalry colonels led us to believe that never would he consent to exchange his grease stained jacket for the pink coat of a by-gone era.

As for the horsey group, we are in favor of them for the period of the depression. It gives the wives an opportunity to wear out their husbands' old clothes and their prattle of the paddock is sufficiently amusing to offset the equine aroma they carry around with them. So long as we have none of them as dinner partners, we shall drop our campaign.

During last year's class there was a young lady who bewailed the fact that she couldn't seem to get her husband assigned to duty at Benning "for love nor money." We note with interest that friend husband is now here on duty and we are intrigued.

We also note that the new officers' club has at last been started and we wonder if it is being financed on the chits cashed by the mysterious Captain Mulhall. Apropos of that we still have a rubber check received at a friendly little game and would be glad to have the donor offer to redeem it before we leave.

Speaking of Mulhall brings to mind Bonaparte Hennessey. Latest news reports him with a peace time company at Chingwantao facing the Imperial Japanese Army. We do not fear for Hennessy. We do fear for diplomatic relations and also I. J. A.

And now it comes time to say adios once more to the post of the China-Horse and rejoin the Benning exiles in the frozen north. And as the north wind sways the long leaf pine that shades the Upatoi, perhaps the more finely attuned ear will distinguish a faint sigh of regret from those who retain pleasant memories of Benning and so—Happy Days.

NARROW ESCAPE

Since the advent of the noble payless furlough experiment, elaborate entertaining has gone out of fashion in the Army. In these days, a society editress has to have a vivid imagination in order to picture Major and Mrs. Suchamuch's simple spread as a Lucullan feast with the proper imperial setting. This vogue of simplicity in entertainment suits us fine, personally, but it is hard on the people who write up the society columns. Hosts and hostesses just aren't splurging this year and, while the modest and informal assembling of a few guests for dinner may be far more enjoyable for them, even a gifted society reporter like Mrs. Howell can't wax eloquent about it.

In view of the dearth of truly arresting society news, it is too bad that Major W. C. Williams, the dignified Advanced Class senior member, didn't go through wtih his original idea for a pre movie dinner. President Williams, Officers' Club for entertaining some twenty guests, specified that there should be a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley at each lady's plate. The eyes of Sergeant Allen, the accomplished steward, opened wide at this order. Orchid corsages were something new as an Officers' Club dinner feature. Major Williams was evidently going to throw a swell party and hang the expense. The sergeant assumed, of course, that the Major knew what he was doing. Possibly a rich uncle had left him a fortune. At any rate, it wasn't within the province of the Club steward to remind the prospective host that orchids come high.

Sergeant Allen went to draft a telegram to a leading Atlanta florist. Before sending the telegram, however, he consulted the florists price list and learned therefrom that Major Williams' beautiful thought would cost him four-fifty per. A quick cauculation of the total cost of ten orchid corsages at four-fifty apiece caused Sergeant Allen to withhold final action. Before committing a patron of the Officers' Club dinner service to a $45 flower bill, said patron would have to be reminded of the latest quotations on orchids and the Sergeant did his duty.

THE FLARE

(Continued from page 6)

President Williams received Sergeant Allen's market report in shocked amazement and then countermanded his order. And right there Mrs. Howell lost the big society scoop of the season.

ABBREVIATED ODDESSY

Anyone who has ever been in Biglerville on a rainy night will understand why Lieutenants F. A. Rudolph and Joe Phelan were appalled at the prospect of spending the joyous Christmas holidays in the midst of such desolation. As they sat together in their Spartan lodgings listening to the rain dripping from the eaves, both suddenly became animated with a wild desire to get away from it all.

"Let's get the hell out of here and go to Cuba," exclaimed Rudolph.

"I'm on," replied Phelan.

It was late at night but having decided to go, they went. They were short of ready cash—one having $2.75 and the other only 7 cents—but what of that? They would cash a check in the morning. The thought of tropic skies, palm trees, and Sloppy Joe's lured them forth into the night and dawn found them hitting the Florida trail with Havana as their goal.

Cashing a check along the wayside proved to be more difficult than they had anticipated but they had enough cash to buy gas to get them as far as Albany. There they stopped for rest and refreshment and there they stayed. The attractiveness of the famous Sky Water resort inspired them to see America first. Possibly a check up of the combined resources had something to do with their decision, but this is only a surmise. The point is that they spent two delightful days in Albany and then came home.

OFFICERS' CLUB WAXES ELOQUENT

Officers' Club notices appearing in the Official Daily Bulletin and elsewhere have long been recognized as possessing superior literary merit. Even in a simple lost and found notice, one may find unusual and original phraseology. Witness the listing, among the articles found at the Officers' and Polo Clubs of "one assorted handkerchief."

Such literary gems as the above are merely routine procedure. It is only when there is something really important to be communicated to the public that the Club management extends itself in the field of English composition. We have at hand one of its masterpieces, culled from a recent issue of the Daily Bulletin. We quote:

"POLICY ON TABLE RESERVATIONS AT OFFICERS' CLUB

Club members are reminded that while the house and entertainment committees are pleased, where possible, to meet the expressed desires of members for table reservations located in certain rooms of the club, sometimes the gratification of such wishes is made impracticable by subsequent events. On account of the potentialities of such contingencies, requests for table reservations specifying locations are accepted by the club, subject to a right to furnish such table reservations at a different location, when the exigencies of the occasion require it in the interest of the club."

This is clearly not the work of the waiters. Neither is it the familiar style of Mine Host Dowdall's widely read "joltings." We suspect one of the Club's special writers—possibly one with a broad legal background like Counsellor Betts. We particularly dote on the phrase "potentialities of such contingencies."

What the notice means in unembellished Anglo-Saxon is that the club will reserve tables to conform to the whims of the guests as regards location but reserves the privilege of altering said locations in the interest

CHANCELLOR'S STOCK LIQUIDATION

Sale

We must Liquidate ½ of our $50,000.00 Stock of Men and Boy's Wear

The greatest money-saving event ever offered in Columbus. Every thing reduced. Nothing reserved.

Hickey-Freeman, Society Brand and Griffon

SUITS

MOSTLY 2 PANTS

| Regular $20.00 | Regular $30 and $35 | Regular $40 and $50 |
|---|---|---|
| SUITS | SUITS | SUITS |
| $13.85 | $19.85 | $27.85 |

SPECIAL GROUP OF

63 MEN'S SUITS

Including Some Hickey-Freeman and Society Brand One and Two Pants

1-2 PRICE Regular $20 to $40 Values

OVERCOATS

FAMOUS KNITEX and SOCIETY BRAND

| Regular $25 and $30 | Regular $35 |
|---|---|
| OVERCOATS | OVERCOATS |
| $18.95 | $23.95 |

HERE IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY TO GET AN OVERCOAT THAT WILL WEAR FOR YEARS AT BUT A FRACTION OF THEIR REAL WORTH.

Luggage Reduced

DRESNER & SONS FINEST QUALITY LEATHER HAND BAGS—GLADSTONES—FITTED CASES ZIPPER BAGS, ETC.

| Regular $7.00 Value | Regular $12.50 Value | Regular $17.50 Value | Regular $20.00 Value | Regular $25.00 Value |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| $4.85 | $8.85 | $12.85 | $14.85 | $16.95 |

SHIRTS

MANHATTAN — WILSON BROS. — PHILIPS JONES

WHITES AND SOLID COLORS

| Regular $1.50 and $1.55 | Regular $1.95 and $2.00 | Regular $3.00 |
|---|---|---|
| SHIRTS | SHIRTS | SHIRTS |
| $1.23 | $1.55 | $2.15 |

IN NEW FALL PATTERNS

IN COLORED SHIRTS

Collar Attacked and 2 Collars to Match

| Regular $1.50 | Regular $1.95 and $2 | Regular $3.50 |
|---|---|---|
| SHIRTS | SHIRTS | SHIRTS |
| $1.15 | $1.39 | $2.35 |

PAJAMAS

Manhattan and Wilson Bros. (Outing included)

| Regular $1.65 and $1.75 | Regular $3.50 |
|---|---|
| PAJAMAS | PAJAMAS |
| $1.39 | $2.19 |
| Regular $2.50 | Regular $7.50 |
| PAJAMAS | PAJAMAS |
| $1.69 | $4.89 |

TUXEDOS

Including Society Brand and Hickey-Freeman

| Regular $40 | Regular $50 |
|---|---|
| TUXEDOS | TUXEDOS |
| Now | Now |
| $29.85 | $34.85 |

BUY A TUXEDO NOW AT SUCH PRICES

ALL SALES CASH

Chancellor Co.

"COLUMBUS HEADQUARTERS FOR FORT BENNING"

Nationally Advertised Merchandise

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD
D. P. HARDING, Editor

Corn Griffin To Battle Frankie Edgren

Handicap Tennis Tournaments Now Gradually Approaching Completion

The handicap tennis tournaments, which began early in November and which are still uncompleted because of the consistently bad weather, are now in an advanced stage. It is hoped that they may all be completed very soon, provided the weather cooperates with the officials.

The Men's Doubles Tournament resulted in a victory for Drake and Sherburne who defeated Bassett and Newman in the finals by scores of 6-1, 6-3, 6-8, 6-3. The match was hard-fought, although it took on the aspect of a walkaway at the very first. Newman and Bassett, however, hit their stride in the third set, and from then on the play was close. Drake's fine placement shots from the half-volley position contributed a great deal to the ultimate triumph of Sherburne and Drake.

In the Men's Singles, Drake has advanced to the finals in the first bracket. In the semi-final match, the number one ranking player on the post overcame Newman, number eleven, by scores of 2-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-1. The scores themselves indicate the closeness of the match.

In the other bracket, Bassett defeated Sherburne 6-2, 6-2. Bassett, the number two ranking player, displayed good form throughout whereas Sherburne, number three ranking player, was slightly off his game; otherwise the match would probably have been much closer.

In his next match, Bassett faces C. K. Harding, the dark horse of the tournament. This match will probably be played Saturday afternoon and should be hard-fought from beginning to end. The winner will meet Irving in the semi-finals, who advanced to his present position by defeating Phillips.

The finals of the Mixed Doubles is also scheduled to be run off over the week-end. Keiler and Drake, by defeating Bassett and Gaston, have earned the right to oppose Lynch and Lynch in the match will decide the championship.

Keiler and Drake encountered considerable opposition in the first set of their match with Bassett and Gaston but won 6-4. The second set resulted in a 6-1 win and the match.

Lt. Lynch, number four ranking player on the post, and Mrs. Lynch, woman's champion, defeated Irving and Eagles 2-6, 6-2, 6-3 to enter the finals.

The finals of the Boys' Singles was

(Continued from Page 11)

OLD SETTLER'S
Pork Sausage fulfils that longing for some real good Pork Sausage Delivered fresh daily from

The Provision Co. Inc.

AUTOMOBILE MAINTENANCE REQUIRES TRAINED

HANDS

Trained hands plus good equipment gives you a reliable job. No charge for inspection and estimate.

AUTO DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING

First Boxing Card Of Year Promises To Be One Of Best

Corn Griffin In Top Form For Battle With Arizona Cowboy Tuesday

Cowboy Frankie Edgren, pride of Arizona, will be the battler to trade wallops with Griffin on January seventeenth in the first boxing card of the year. The announcement created a keen interest as soon as it was made public.

Frankie will be out to avenge the defeat handed to him by Corn Griffin during the summer. Fans who saw the bout will recall the closeness of the fight, Griffin getting a hairbreadth decision, although there were many who thought the Arizona Cowboy earned a draw.

Frankie has made two appearances before Benning fight fans. In the first, he practically annihilated Ching Johnson, and in the second, he lost that close decision to Griffin. Since his defeat, he has been anxious to get a return match with Griffin.

Edgren has compiled a remarkable record since the Griffin go. A four-roud knockout of Muggs Kerr heads the list of his achievements in the ring. Kerr was the boy who had Griffin spending a lot of his time on the canvas.

Corn Griffin, on the other hand, is now recognized by experts as one of the coming lightheavyweights. In his last three fights, he met capable opponents in Pietro Corri, Jerry Pavalec, and Charlie Hambrick and won decisively in each case. Corri, Austrian lightheavy, took a bad beating from Griffin, and Jerry Pavalec, the fighter who almost floored Schmeling while the later was in training for Sharkey, was on the receiving end of a blow calculated to put the husky Greek in the land of dreams. It did.

In his battle with Pavalec, Griffin clearly indicated an ability to take it as well as to dish it out. Floored with a terrific blow to the head in the second round, he managed to stagger to his feet and last out the round. In the next few rounds, Griffin began the tedious process of whittling away the huge weight advantage of his opponent. The knockout came in the seventh round.

When Corn was slated to fight with Hambrick, many were of the opinion that Hambrick would prove too clever for the Benning fighter. It took just five rounds for Griffin to dispel that opinion.

The fight will be the featured light-heavy battle of the week.

In the semi-final, Ching "Iron Man" Johnson will oppose Harold Murphy. Ching has had a layoff from the ring and is anxious to throw a little more leather.

Johnson is facing an opponent who will be mighty hard to beat. Murphy came to Benning with the idea in mind of getting a shot with either Griffin or Smith. Thsi being impossible, he agreed to trade blows with Ching Johnson with the privilege of battling Griffin or Smith at a later date provided he gets by Johnson.

Murphy is a graduate of University of Missouri where he played a great game at guard on the football team.

He has acquired quite a reputation around Kansas and Missouri in fistic circles and is anxious to spread it further.

Blondie Parker, with a punch resembling the kick of a mule, is slated to scrap with Red Goss, sturdy exponent of the rushing game. This fight will be a crowd-pleaser. Both boys are capable and willing to take two or three punches to land one

(Please turn to page 9)

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVE HARDING

SPORT SLANTS
By DAVIS HARDING

The Pittsburghers came west like a wolf on the fold,
And their players were gleaming in purple and gold,
And they looked with contempt on the Trojan eleven,
And expected to win by fourteen to seven.

Up and down the green turf the great battle was fought,
Till the Trojan had thirty-five, the Panther naught,
And the city of Pittsburgh is loud in her wail,
Just to think, just to think her eleven should fail.

And the rooters are staring at themselves aghast,
For the might of the Panther is humbled at last.

* * *

The situation in heavyweight pugilistic circles begins to show signs of clearing up. Last week, a very improved Erny Schaaf put the bee on Stanley Poreda's championship aspirations. Before the fight, fans were wondering just how bad a beating Schaaf would absorb; Poreda himself was confident of victory, anticipating a win by the knockout route.

If Poreda had any doubts about Schaaf's fighting ability, they were all dispelled before the end of the first round. Schaaf took the aggressive and rushed his opponent all over the ring, landing telling blows to the head and body. Poreda fought back gamely but was not match for the rejuvenated Schaaf. With twenty-six seconds of the fifth round gone, the referee stepped in and awarded the fight to Schaaf.

* * *

Jack Sharkey, world's heavyweight champion, was preparing to sail for Bermuda at the same time Schaaf was making a punching bag out of Stanley Poreda.

No enthusiasm marked his leaving. On returning to his stateroom just before the ship set sail, Sharkey found a huge basket of flowers, a present from Jack Dempsey. The talkative Boston gob had said many unkind words about former champion Dempsey. The basket of flowers was construed to show Dempsey's joy at Sharkey's leaving the country.

* * *

Rugged Max Baer and the Black Uhlan Schmeling are tentatively scheduled to fight sometime in June. Both are almost the same type of fighters, hard, durable, and willing to take it. Neither are remarkable boxers. The winner will probably meet Sharkey in September for the championship unless the present champion refuses to battle at that time.

It is not likely that Sharkey will agree to fight Schaaf this year.

* * *

John B. Sutherland, Pittsburgh coach, in commenting on the Trojan victory in the Rose Bowl game, was lavish in his praise of the Southern California eleven. Although he doubted whether the Trojans were thirty-five points better than his Panthers, he admitted a decided superiority. Too much man power was the reason given for the crushing defeat.

In Sutherland's opinion, Griffith was the best back on the field with Smith, Rosenberg, and Sparling particularly outstanding in the line. Skladany and Dialey, especially the former, starred for the Panthers.

* * *

James H. Crowley, one of the famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame and football coach at Michigan State college, last week agreed to coach Fordham University in 1933. He will succeed Frank W. (Iron Man) Cavenaugh who retired at the end of the season.

Crowley will introduce to New York for the first time the Rockne system of defense and offense.

Crowley's 1932 eleven at Michigan State was one of the best in the history of the institution. It suffered only one defeat, and that at the hands of Michigan, and defeated the team which Crowley will coach this year.

* * *

These Californians! Last week shortly after the Southern California victory, a downcast Easterner was roaming about aimlessly when he en-

(Please turn to page 9)

BOXING
TUESDAY NIGHT, JAN. 17TH
Post Gymnasium, 8:15 P. M.

Frank Edgren (Cheyenne, Wyo.) vs. Corn Griffin (Tanks, Fort Benning)
10 Rounds

CHING JOHNSON (29th Infantry) vs. HAROLD MURPHY (Chicago)
8 Rounds

BLONDY PARKER (29th Infantry) vs. RED GOSS (I. S. D.)
6 Rounds

BEN SPIVEY (Columbus) vs. BUNKER HILL (29th Infantry)
6 Rounds

TUT TUT TAYLOR vs. CHARLIE WHITE
4 Rounds

Daniel Webster vs. Herman McWilliams
4 Rounds

General Admission 50c Ringside $1.00

Tickets on sale at Officers' Club Athletic Office and all orderly rooms.

Basketball Season In Full Swing SPORTS

Lt. Gar Davidson Officially Made West Point Coach

Lieutenant Garrison B. Davidson officially became head coach of the Army football team when orders, just issued, at the United States Military Academy, were made public Monday, January the ninth.

By the same orders, Major Ralph I. Sasse was relieved of his duties as football coach which he had held for the last three seasons and was assigned to the Second Squadron of the 10th Cavalry detailed for service at the Academy.

It was made known several months ago that Davidson would succeed Sasse. Davidson will retain his present duties as aide to Major General William D. Connor, in which capacity he has served since General Connor's appointment as Superintendent last spring.

Major Sasse will remain at the Academy until June 30, when, it is understood, he will be assigned to a new detail by the War Department.

While Major Sasse has been on a four-year assignment at the Academy, he served as head coach only three seasons, his first year having been spent as assistant coach under Captain Biff Jones, former head coach.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus --$ 400,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Get Your Long Range SUPER-X Shells Here!

They give clean kills at remarkable distances and are now loaded with Non-Corrosive Primers that keep your gun barrel CLEAN! We have everything a duck hunter wants —including attractive prices.

MAIN BRANCH

POST EXCHANGE

ENLISTED MEN CAPTURE TITLE

The enlisted men's bowling team from Fort Benning recently won the championship in the Tri-City Ten-Pin league, composed of eight teams representitive of Fort Benning, Columbus and Phenix City. The league was a hotly contested affair all the way through, and the Benning boys won out by a margin of one game over the Ramseys, a team of business men from Columbus. The tournament had been in progress since the first week in October.

The Fort Benning team that won the trophy is composed of Sgt. Davis, I. S. D., captain; Mr. Sgt. Glenn, I. S. D.; Sgt. Trott, I. S. D.; Pvt. Hall, Hq. Co., 29th Inf.; and Pvt. Zeman, Co. E, 1st Engineers. Mr. Sgt. O'Blenniss, I. S. D.; Tech. Sgt. Heckert, I. S. D.; Tech. Sgt. Dezotell, Q.M.C., and Sgt. LaBonte, Hq. Co. 29th Inf., also bowled on the team in a number of their games, and were a great factor in winning the trophy which was presented by the Nehi Bottling Company of Columbus.

The same team from The Infantry School defeated two civilian teams from Atlanta, in two different series of games, winning the first series by three matches out of four, and the second by taking two matches in a home and home series.

The trophy was informally presented to Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, by Sergeant Davis, since the team is comprised of men from different units and no one organization is entitled to its possession.

SPORTS CHATER

(Continued from Page 8)

countered a beaming Californian, who was muttering something about "Sunshine and roses." Escape was impossible and for five long minutes the Easterner listened to his tormentor, contemplating murder.

"Say, that was the Pittsburgh team" the Easterner replied wearily, looking around for something heavy.

"Next time you come out here, we'll concede you twenty-one points and play a second rate high school team against you. Competition—competition is what we need. We're getting tired with these easy victories. Why, those Pitt players looked positively sickly out there; you should feed them Californa oranges—yes, do so by all means."

Fortuntaely, a policeman separated the two before much harm was done.

Burrus Motor Co.

Authorized Ford Dealers

1216-22 - 1st Ave. Phone 3500

Headquarters For

Used Car Values

This Week Specials

| | |
|---|---|
| '29 Ford Tudor Sedan | $150 |
| '29 Ford Town Sedan | $195 |
| '29 Dodge "6" Sedan | $150 |
| '30 Ford Four Door | $200 |
| '29 Studebaker "8" Sedan | $250 |
| '30 Ford Coupe | $250 |
| '30 Ford Tudor | $250 |
| '30 Pontiac Sedan | $295 |

MANY OTHERS

CONVENIENT TERMS

Happy Hearts Win Over Team From Atlanta By 44-22

24th Infantry Quintet Defeats Henley Athletic Club Wednesday Night

The 24th. Infantry five, coached by Lt. Howard R. Johnson, won the second game of its season by overcoming the Henley Athletic Club quintet 44-22 Wednesday night.

The Happy Hearts went off into an early lead and maintained it throughout the game. At no time was the issue very much in doubt.

The Henley Athletic Club is represented as a fairly strong team in Atlanta, but it proved no match for the Benning aggregation, although the game was a little closer than the score seems to indicate.

The opponents displayed a fast offense, got down the floor quickly, and one or two of its players were deadly shots.

The Happy Hearts showed far from top form. The teamwork was below calibre and the basket-shooting was very inaccurate at times. Nevertheless, they exhibited a clear superiority over their opponents and gave evidence of having a very competent team once the early season difficulties are ironed out.

The new rules, which will be put into effect for the first time this year, are primarily designed to speed up the game and to eliminate stalling on the part of teams who do not wish to endanger a lead.

The Happy Hearts have a season of about thirteen games, during the course of which they meet some exceptionally strong fives, including Tuskegee twice. Morehouse College, Florida A. & M., and many others.

Captain Alonzo Strong starred for the Happy Hearts in Wednesday's game, although no particular player was very outstanding.

EDGREN TO BOX GRIFFIN

(Continued from Page 8)

decisive blow.

Ben Spivey of Columbus and Bunker Hill of the 29th. Infantry are another pair of crowd-pleasers. Spivey is an oldtimer with lots of experience in the ring and has met some of the really good fighters in his class. Each winter he boxes a great deal in Florida, the mecca of the boxing world during the summer. Bunker Hill is aggressive and hits hard. This should be a real battle from start to finish.

Tut-Tut Taylor and Charlie White will mix it up in a preliminary, and this bout should serve to whet the appetite of the fans.

Daniel Webster and Herman McWilliams will raise the curtain as it should be raised.

The January seventeenth boxing card will usher in the new year as far as fighting is concerned with a bang. The officers of the Athletic Association should be commended for arranging not one good fight but several in one evening.

Fight fans are assured of real entertainment.

"Now think about something nice," said the dentist as he started to work on the private. "then you won't notice the pain."

The soldier did not move.

"Splendid. What did you think of?"

"Well, I thought the Top Sergeant was here in my place."

—The Command Post.

WE MAKE

RUBBER STAMPS

— One Day Delivery —

COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.

DAVIS CUP MAY RETURN TO U. S.

Pierre Etchebaster of France, the world's court-tennis champion, joins in the opinion of B. S. Prentice, chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee, that the international tennis trophy will be regained by this country from the French next summer.

Etchebaster rated Ellsworth Vines as the world's foremost player and declared that Henri Cochet, the mainstay of France, had lost his confidence and that Jean Borotra, the hero of the 1932 challenge round, is "finished."

"Vines was born for the game," he said. "Who ever heard of a 20-year-old boy becoming the greatest player in the world? It is my opinion that if Vines had not been a bit overconfident last summer, the United States would have won the cup. Borotra should never in the world have beaten Vines. Vines should beat Borotra, not 6-0, but 6-0, 6-0."

Allison, he said, played the finest tennis of his career last year, and he has a great deal of respect for Clifford Sutter who defeated Henry "Bunny" Austin of England and George Lott in the national championship and took the first two sets from Vines.

He has some doubt, though, whether Sutter's classical, temperate strokes will be quite as effective on the sand courts of France with the slower European ball as they are in this country.

France, said Etchebaster, must start building all over again. The players with whom she won the cup have passed their prime and she must develop her younger men for the cup matches of the future. He regards Germany as among the most dangerous teams in the field and rates the youthful Baron Von Cramm and Prenn as formidable opponents to be taken with the utmost consideration.

Kenesaw M. Landis; Mogul Of Baseball Takes Salary Cut

Acting in accord with the general economic trend of the game, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, has voluntarily reduced his salary to $40,000 for 1933, a drop of $25,000 from the terms of the contract he signed in 1928. This new figure was arrived at when he accepted a cut of $10,000 after having previously reduced his salary for 1932 by $15,000.

Landis became associated with baseball in 1921, when he was signed to a contract calling for a salary of $50,000 a year for seven years. As he was also serving at that time as a Federal Court judge at a salary of $7,500 a year, he insisted on deducting this amount from his commissioner's pay.

He resigned from the bench the following year to devote his full time to baseball and at the expiration of his first seven-year term he was reengaged, his salary being increased to $65,000.

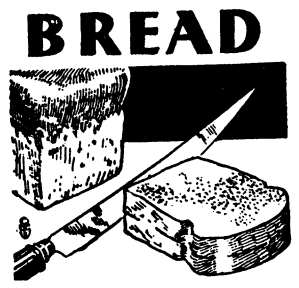
In all, Landis has drawn $652,000 in salary from organized baseball, a total that falls short by $132,000 of equalling the sum drawn by Babe Ruth since breaking into baseball with the Baltimore Orioles in 1914.

Landis, incidentally, is the second prominent baseball official to take a voluntary reduction in salary this winter. At the recent major league meetings, John A. Heydler, on being re-elected president of the National League, had his salary reduced on his own recommendation.

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia



Bread That Is Really Good Have You Tried It?

If not compare it with what you are using, or any other and note the superiority.

Fresh Daily At Post Exchange and The Bakery Beautiful

EVERIDGE'S OLD TIME BREAD

109 - 12th Street

Try Private Locker

EXTRA PALE DRY

Ginger Ale

Sold At Grocery Dept. and Soda Fountain POST EXCHANGE

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT

RATES REASONABLE

Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062

DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

Two Eves, An Adam - and An Apple

At the left is Kay Francis, with Miriam Hopkins and Herbert Marshall in a scene from "Trouble In Paradise" which comes to the Rialto Theatre next Sunday and Monday.

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

ROYAL

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "Strange Interlude" with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable. She referred to them as her three men. The husband . . . in name only; the friend . . . a willing slave; and the lover . . . chosen to be the father of her child. A powerful story, absolutely different in filming—the screen adaptation of the play that packed houses in New York and throughout the country. And the Shearer-Gable combination holds lots of thrill for those who see the picture.

* * *

GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Under-cover Man" with George Raft, Nancy Carroll, Roscoe Karnes, Lew Cody and Gregory Ratoff. Here's the story of a big-time crook who turned under-cover man for the police to hunt down the slayer of his father. And of a girl who joined him in the work when the "gang" murders her brother. It's thrilling.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "Speed Demon" with William Collier, Jr., and Joan Marsh. A racy, risky romance of the water speedway,—roaring engines, collisions, crackups . . . a thousand breathless thrills in a sensational race with death—and love at the finish line.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering "The Devil Is Driving" with Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson and Lois Wilson. A rapid-fire melodrama set against the background of organized auto stealing and its death-dealing ramifications. Edmund Lowe nd Wynne Gibson rival each other for wise-cracking honors in this vehicle, but when they get wise about love . . . they find it's "no fooling."

* * *

RIALTO

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY (Now Playing): Offering "Forbidden Trail" with Buck Jones, Barbara Weeks and Mary Carr. Buck rides the danger-paved trail! A battle of wits and lead on the open range . . . where he busts a rustler's racket wide open and wins the sweetest girl in the west for his bride.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Trouble In Paradise" with Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis and Herbert Marshall. Here is the story of two super crooks, a man and a woman who form a team in preying upon society. And all went well for the crooks until one of society's prettiest—a business woman fell in love with him. He became her business manager and what scenes ensue makes it one of the most thrilling dramas of the screen.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "Play Girl" with Loretta Young, Norman Foster, Guy Kibbee and Winnie Lightner. Can a play girl settle down? Can "anybody's girl" be one man's wife? Bachelor girls . . . playing around! Should they stay happily *un*married? See this romance of the girl who wanted the worst kind of love—and got it.

ROYAL

Heralded as the most extraordinary motion picture ever to reach the talking screen, "Strange Interlude," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the Eugene O'Neill drama which ran on Broadway for a year and half and won the Pulitzer Prize award for the finest play of the season of 1928-29, will open Saturday night at the Royal Theatre and show Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The principal roles in the talkie version of O'Neill's brilliant psychiatric study are played by Norma Shearer and Clark Gable, who are together again for the first time since their successful joint appearance in "A Free Soul." Miss Shearer enacts the role played in the stage version by Lynn Fontanne, while Gable has the part of the young doctor.

Other leading roles are filled by Alexander Kirkland, prominent New York stage player; Ralph Morgan, repeating the role he played in the original Theatre Guild production of "Strange Interlude"; Robert Young, who recently scored in "Unashamed"; May Robson, veteran character actress; Maureen O'Sullivan, last seen in "Skyscraper Souls"; Henry B. Walthall, Mary Alden and Tad Alexander. The picture was directed by Robert Leonard, who producted "Susan Lenox," one of Greta Garbo's biggest hits.

"Strange Interlude" has been called the most daring venture ever attempted in motion pictures, chiefly because of its ultra-sophisticated theme, which deal with a neurotic woman who undergoes a series of intensely dramatic sensual experiences, and also because of its dialogue "asides," in which the actors express themselves politely and then hastily reveal their private opinions, which are totally at variance with the spoken expression.

RIALTO

Kay Francis has never had any illusions about the stage.

A sophisticated little miss, she was only three years old when she practically broke up a play in which her mother was appearing by audibly refusing to take it seriously.

Kay told the story during a lull between scenes on the set of Ernst Lubitsch's "Trouble in Paradise," which shows at the Rialto Theater Sunday and Monday, in which she is featured with Miriam Hopkins, Herbert Marshall, Charlie Ruggles and Edward Everett Horton.

Her mother, Katherine Clinto, was performing in a play on Broadway, Kay explains, and she herself was sitting in a box with another kid of her own age.

In the third act, a shot was fired.

Royal

Norma Shearer, as she appears in "Strange Interlude" showing at the Royal Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

GRAND

The merry-go-round was the first contribution of the Raft family to American entertainment.

"Under-Cover Man," drama coming to the Grand Theatre Saturday, Sunday and Monday is the latest.

George Raft, sensational young screen star, plays the leading role in "Under-Cover Man." Others in the cast are Nancy Carroll, Roscoe Karns, Lew Cody and Gregory Ratoff.

George's grandfather brought the merry-go-round to the United States when he came here from Germany. His grandson claims it was the first ever to turn on the new continent. Grandpop toured the United States with it. But, when he got out to California (to discover there was a gold rush in progress) he forgot about the merry-go-round and started prospecting.

George scored sensational successes in minor roles in "Scarface," "Madame Racketeer," and "Dancers in the Dark," and won himself the leading role in "Night After Night," recent hit. His role in "Under-Cover Man" is his second major one.

He enacts a big-time crook who turns under-cover man for police to revenge himself on the gang which killed his father. Miss Carroll, playing the role of a girl whose brother, runner for a brokerage house, has been murdered by the same gang, joins Raft in his under-cover work. The results of their efforts are rapid and dramatic.

Miss Francis' mother threw up her arms, collapsed, and died, in accordance with the plot. Kay turned to her companion, and, in that naively loud voice which children use, remarked:

"Don't be afraid. That's my mama, and she's not really dead. She's only acting."

The Question Box

QUESTIONS

1—In how many pictures have Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell played co-roles and what are they?

2—Which of the following members of the "TESS Of The Storm Country" cast also played in "The First Year." Janet Gaynor, Charles, Farrell, Dudley Digges, Claude Gillingwater, Mat'y Kemp, June Clyde, George Meeker.

3—In what well known Fox picture did Alfred Santell direct Janet Gaynor? Charles Farrell? Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell?

4—What screen star, who played the silent version of "TESS Of The Storm Country" induced Claude Gillingwater to enter pictures?

5—Who wrote the novel, "TESS Of The Storm Country?"

6—Where was Janet Gaynor born? Charles Farrell?

ANSWERS

1—Elevein: "7th Heaven"; "Street Angel"; "Lucky Star"; "Sunny Side Up"; "High Society Blues"; "The Man Who Came Back"; "Merely Mary Ann"; Happy Days"; Delicious"; "The First Year"; "TESS Of The Storm Country." 2—Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, Dudley Diggers, George Meeker. 3—"Daddy Long Legs"; "Body And Soul"; "TESS Of The Storm Country." 4—Mary Pickford. 5—Grace Miller White. 6—Philadelphia, Pa. Walpole, Mass.

"Wild Horse Mesa" (Paramount) —Beautifully photographed outdoor action picture, well played by Randolph Scott, Lucille La Verne and Charley Grapewin, the latter proving himself a comedy "find."

* * *

"Central Park" (Warners)—The Lucille La Verne and Charley dolph Scott, Sally Blane, Fred Koh-Grand Hotel idea taken to the people's playground with just about everything in it.

RIALTO
NOW PLAYING
Thrills and Spills with BUCK!
BUCK JONES in "Forbidden Trail"
COMEDY — SCREEN SONG
Chapter 6 "THE LAST FRONTIER"
SUNDAY and MONDAY
TROUBLE in PARADISE
With MIRIAM HOPKINS - KAY FRANCIS
HERBERT MARSHALL - CHARLES RUGGLES
COMEDY — FOX NEWS
TUESDAY ONLY
RANDOLPH SCOTT — In ZANE GREY'S WILD HORSE MESA
Paramount Picture
WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
She played with love — and found it was fire!
Play Girl with LORETTA YOUNG

GRAND
SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY
His Greatest Since "Scarface"
"Under-Cover Man"
GEORGE RAFT
Nancy Carroll — Roscoe Karns
Lew Cody—Gregory Ratoff
"Bring 'Em A Wife"—Paramount News
—SCREEN SOUVENIR—
TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY
Death leered while love cheered!
SPEED DEMON
William Collier Jr.—Joan Marsh
"Human Fish"—Wild New Guinea
UNIVERSAL NEWS
THURSDAY—FRIDAY
HE PLAYED WITH THE LADIES . . . .
THE "Devil Is Driving"
EDMUND LOWE
WYNNE GIBSON
LOIS WILSON—DICKIE MOORE
NOVELTY—COMEDY—NEWS

ROYAL
SUN.—MON.—TUE.
No Advance In Prices
IMPORTANT!
SEE IT FROM THE BEGINNING
EUGENE O'NEIL'S Great American Drama
NORMA SHEARER IN Strange Interlude
CLARK GABLE
A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

TENNIS TOURNEY NEARING FINISH

(Continued from page 8)

won by George Beatty. Beatty had previously beaten Tindall in an upset 7-5, 1-6, 6-3. The other finalists, Evans, won his place by easily winning over Drake 6-0, 6-1. The match for the championship was won by scores of 6-3, 6-1. The match was much closer than the scores would indicate.

In the finals of the Boys' Doubles, Evans and Tindall combined to overcome Beatty and Drake. The champions won the first set at 6-4, lost the next 2-6, and ran out the match by winning the third set 6-4.

The men's ranking has remained practically the same, inclement weather hindering challenging matches. The woman's ranking has changed slightly. Following are the first five ranking players in each group.

Women's Ranking

1. Mrs. Lynch
2. Mrs. Keiler
3. Mrs. Eagles
4. Mrs. Schneider
5. Mrs. Gaston

Men's Ranking

1. Drake
2. Bassett
3. Sherburne
4. Lynch
5. Poore

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
COOPER MATTRESS CO.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

WANTED
12 oz. Green Ginger Ale bottles as Canada Dry or Rums Dry type.
M. SNYDER
1020 1st Ave. Columbus, Ga.

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$100,000.00
Surplus ---------- 65,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

LOOK!
On Page
7
CHANCELLOR
COMPANY

HQ. COMPANY

McLendon "Tough little boy from Mississippi" is out for the amateur boxing title of his weight. We can't imagine why White isn't out, too. Corporals Long and Fuller went hunting at Bleecker last Wednesday and became so exhausted from tramping about that the wire section lost to the radio section in the baseball game the next day. I might add that this was a new kind of hunting for Fuller.

The basket ball players began their "Gold bricking" the first of the month. They "Don't do a thing" much to the disgust of the rest of the company.

The first sergeant made many new year resolutions for the company. We are "in the army now" for sure.

I have been informed that many of the boys of the "Down at the house, class" have put pictures of Rin-Tin-Tin on their new passes so as not to lose any time in recognition at the M. P. gate.

The Post Bowling team composed partly of men of Headquarters Company LaBonte, Hall, Cameron, have won the championship in the city league of Columbus. This league is composed of seven teams from Columbus and this team from Benning. This beautiful trophy they won is now on display in the Bowling Alley at Fort Benning.

We are all glad to know that our First Sergeant Houghtby has reenlisted for another three years. Corporal Fuller and Private Geiger have also reenlisted for three years.

Headquarters Company has had no Courts Martial for last month and has the best record in the 29th Infantry for the past six months.

Our high standard in the company is due primarly to the present company commander and the cooeration that he is getting.

weesTenD vbgkqj xzfiffffi cmfwypvb

Well, we are now all measured up for our new uniforms. Here is hoping that they arrive before the mosquitoes and fish begin to bite.

The many friends of Parmiganni, better known as Poppa John, will be glad to learn that he is rapidly recovering from injuries received a few weeks ago. Poppa John suffered a broken arm when one of the local buses collided with a parked automobile.

Pfc. Barney Knox, almost grabbed off a pair of markers for his sleeves a few days ago. There was a vacancy for corporal and Barney ran a close second.

It looks as if we are going to have a real baseball team this season if past reports are true. At least half dozen new arrivals claim to be former professionals and we carried a number of players on our roster from last season. With a pair of hard hitting outfielders to team with Sam Stuart and another twirler to lighten the burden that "Wee Grady" Tolle has been carrying for several seasons, the Greencords will be well up in the running.

Take a look at the lineup of the Infantry School bowling team that took top honors and the beautiful silver trophy in the recent bowling tournament held at Columbus. Master Sergeant Otis Glenn, Master Sergeant O'Blennis. Technical Sergeant John Heckert, Technical Sergeant Dezotell, Sergeant Davis (captain), Sergeant Trott, Sergeant LaBonte, Pfc. Zeman and Pfc. Hall. Five men of the championship team are members of the Greencord outfit.

HQ., HQ. B'TRY., AND C. T.

The battery enjoyed the holidays and every body is back in harness again. During the holidays the battery sponsored a drag hunt. Ride one horse and drag two.

Cpl. Pike is still very popular with the ladies. He left for town the other night with a full basket of groceries.

Our recruits are coming along with their recruit instructions and it won't be long until they will be able to function along with the battery.

Our weekly jumping is getting to be quite the go. The next horse show will see a lot of new faces on the enlisted men's jumping team.

BATTERY "A"

About eighteen men of the organization are back from Christmas furlough all reporting a good time. But it was not so hot for some of the men that were here as K. P.'s and guard tours were also very numerous.

Captain Mangum, Lieutenants Cobb and Heriot are back from Christmas leave.

The Battery since it has been recruited up looks like a real Battery now. We hope it will stay that way.

The famous "Hot Papa Muscrove" will be discharged Saturday. I think, however, he will re-enlist. If he should not, the Day Room Telephone will be left to the cobwebs in a short while.

The Battery did their first firing on January 10th for this year and from all conversations some members of the Battery have not entirely recovered from Christmas holidays.

Lower court was also held January 10th with only a few light penalties being issued out.

Black Jack Simmons is back at his old tricks. Maybe Black Jack will stay at the Fort for recreation as he has tried Columbus several times.

JOKES

HIS OWN CODE

Instructor: Repeat in your own words—I see the cow—the cow is pretty—the cow can run.

Marine: Lamp de cow. Ain't she a beaut? An' say, baby, she sure can step.

Tennessee Star.

The recruit had a hard time getting used to bugle calls. The first day he was awakened by First Call. During the day he received many instructions concerning the various calls. Finally, after he had gone to bed, he heard still another call.

"What's that call for?" he asked.

"That was 'Lights Out,'" replied a sergeant.

"What! Do we even have to pet by that darned bugle?" asked the recruit.

A BRIGHT REMARK

"What would you do if I turned you down?" she asked shyly, as they sat on the parlor sofa.

The young man looked straight ahead, but said nothing. After a few moments of silence she nudged him wtih her elbow, and said, "Didn't you hear my question?"

He looked around apprehensively.

"I beg your pardon," he replied, "I thought you were addressing the gas."

—5th Corps News (Ind.)

TRUE SYMPATHY

"Really," she said, admiring her new and expensive fur coat, "one can't help feeling sorry for the poor thing that was skinned for this."

"Thanks," murmured the husband.

—N. Y. Guardsman.

ONE OF THE SEVEN WONDERS

Jenks: "That old man used to be a top-sergeant. He's past ninety years of age, and hasn't got an enemy in the world."

Jinks: "How do you explain that?"

Jenks: "He's outlived 'em all!"

—N. Y. Guardsman.

Dozier In Charge Of Chesterfield Agency For Fort Benning

Mr. J. L. Dozier, Jr., of Columbus, has recently been appointed manager of the Chesterfield Cigarette sales agency for Fort Benning. Mr. Dozier, who has already shown considerable ability in work of this type, will have entire charge of the sales of Liggett & Myers products for this post.

BATTERY "C"

With the holiday season over we have again settled down to our routine of clipping horses and post fatigue, with a few variations such as road marches and service practice firing. The first firing of the year was on Tuesday when we fired the 37 mm guns for service practice. The party which was to search for duds after the ring did the unusual thing by finding a dud. However, this dud was the calibre of a 75 mm shell, and much of the glory was undeserved.

The halters of our horses are now marked with various colors as to distinguish the sections to which they are assigned. One of our bright boys suggested to paint the tails a different color for each section, because when coming to the stables one notices the tails first.

Sergeant Brantley re-enlisted so the management of our stables is in safe hands for another three years, unless we would get motors back. Dreams still do not come true.

Corporal Tatum, C Battery representative with the purple for the last three years is now doing duty with the battery. Our "worry ward" is a range finder corporal. We feel sorry for the ranges.

FOR SALE
Pretty home on Ft. Benning Road. $100 down, balance $27.50 per mo. like rent. Also lots for sale, houses for rent.
1027 Broadway
F. FRIEDMAN

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning through the
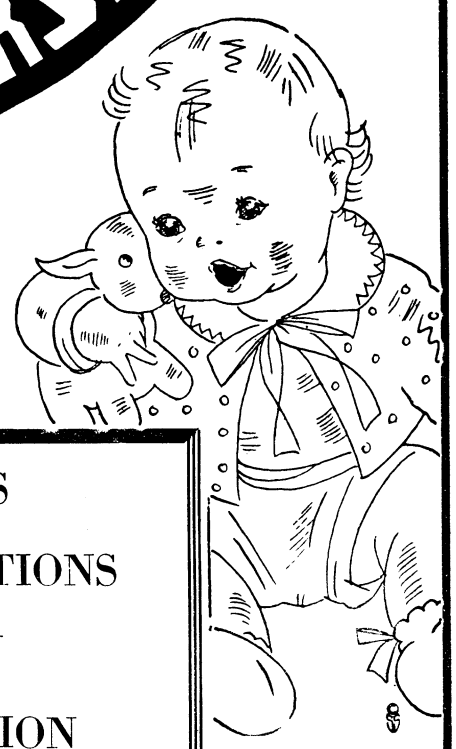
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED

FREE STANTON SUPERSERVICE



IDEAS
ILLUSTRATIONS
COPY PROMOTION
LAYOUTS
BENNING HERALD
PHONE 556

ARMY NAVY
TRADE MARK

OFFICERS
AND Enlisted Personnel

Secure All Your INSIGNIA
And UNIFORM EQUIPMENT
At The Post Exchange
They carry a complete line of
N. S. MEYER, Inc.

CORPS INSIGNIA BUTTONS
INSIGNIA OF RANK
SABERS
SABER CHAINS
SPURS, SPUR CHAINS CAMPAIGN BARS
MEDALS

All our merchandise carries an Unlimited Guarantee

N. S. MEYER, INC.
43 East 19th St. New York

OFFHAND OBSERVATIONS

(Continued from page6)

placent tone of voice if Model Student planned to spend the night at Buck's.

Mrs. Buck was summoned to the phone to do the rescue act. She smoothed matters out by persuading Mrs. Model Student to come over for an impromptu supper.

After supper, everyone seemed in the mood for bridge but the Model Students managed to get home at a respectable hour, considering that there was to be no school the next day.

Saturday morning, Model Student failed to awaken with the pep which he had anticipated. It occurred to him that there was nothing like a few hours of good sleep for storing up reserve to fight the flu epidemic with and it would be too bad to lose a week on account of the flu.

Saturday afternoon the Bucks drop in. Buck is all for a round of golf. Mrs. Model Student agrees to postpone the shopping tour and gives Model Student a pass for the afternoon on the condition that he is to take her to see "Heart of Hearts" in the evening.

Sunday morning Model Student decides that he still does not have quite enough reserve stored up to supply the proper safety factor against the flu and then too, there is no great need for more exercise for he had played eighteen holes the day previous.

Sunday afternoon Model Student sets out to do some studying and letter writing but in searching about for books, paper, etc., he stumbles across the pieces to a jig-saw puzzle which little Willie has strewn about the floor. Just before dusk, Model Student Junior and Senior yell triumphantly for Mrs. Model Student to come and view the solution of the puzzle, "Tumbling Clowns."

Sunday evening, Model Student sets out to get things done in a big way but just then, Eddie Cantor came in over the radio. After that, be it said to Model Student's everlasting credit, he did write a couple of letters and do some studying.

Monday morning, the transportation for the day stops in front of the Model Student residence. At the third impatient honk of the horn, Model Student tumbles out.

For ten minutes, conversation is at a low ebb, then Model Student remarks, "Next week end, I am going to stay home and do some work."

The editors of the Benning Herald feel that a local notes column, or an enlargement of the personal notes column which has appeared from time to time, would be extremely interesting to the members of the garrison. For such a column to succeed, however, a wholehearted cooperation is vital.

Any person desiring publication of an item must write or telephone the editor of the column, Davis P. Harding, at 71 or 731.

The items must not infringe on the society page.

The editor will reserve the right to withhold publication of any item if he sees fit.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 PHONES 224
CITY POST

"I'm working and Smoking overtime—hence a Milder Cigarette

"WHEN I work hard, I usually smoke more; and when I smoke more, I usually work harder—and that's why I want a cigarette that's milder."

We use in Chesterfield Cigarettes mild, ripe Domestic and Turkish tobaccos which have been aged and re-aged.

These good tobaccos in Chesterfield are used in the right proportions—that's a very important matter.

These good tobaccos in Chesterfield are blended and cross-blended—welded together; that, too, helps to make a milder cigarette with better taste.

THEY'RE MILDER—THEY TASTE BETTER

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1933 — NUMBER 39

TOWN TOPICS

"An anthem for the queenliest dead that ever died so young;
A dirge for her—the doubly dead—
in that she died so young."

From week to week, we prattle of trivial things that mean nothing much to anybody and less to us. This week, it is in a different atmosphere that we write, and we shrink from the ordeal that faces us.

The passing of lovely Barbara King struck a vibrant chord in the hearts of all who knew her and many who did not know her. Her untimely death a week ago Thursday threw not a mere handful of her intimates but a whole community into a state of deep and abiding grief.

We knew her but slightly; yet she seemed to us to be the embodiment of all that was fine and noble and beautiful in her sex. Her character stood out like a ray of light in the darkness—a shining example of perfect young American womanhood.

We have never known a girl more qualified for the admiration of others than she. Sweet, unassuming, and possessing a magnetic personal charm, Barbara found her way into the hearts of everyone.

Perhaps one of her greatest attributes was her abundant love for others, especially for little children.

Because of her social prominence, her beauty, and her popularity, she was constantly in the public eye; but at all times she seemed totally unaware of the high esteem in which she was held.

We are in a position to understand how deep is the grief of her friends who loved and admired her, because we loved and admired her too. To General and Mrs. King, we express a heartfelt sympathy that is too profound to be conveyed through the poor medium of words.

If this tribute to Barbara King is inadequate, it is only because the heart cannot dictate what the hand writes.

Fort Benning Sojourners Entertained By DeMolays

The Fort Benning Chapter of National Sojourners and the Masonic fraternity of the Post were entertained by the Columbus Chapter of the Order of Demolay at the 29th Infantry Theatre on Tuesday evening. The Columbus boys gave a splendid performance of the Demolay work in the conference of the second degree. At the state meeting last year a team from his chapter took first prize in competition with other teams and it is gratifying to note that such a high degree of training still exists.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the performance and an opportunity afforded for all to become better acquainted. It is stated that this is to be an annual event with the Sojourners and such gatherings are bound to continue and extend the cordial relations between the Post and the City.

Chief Of Inf. Gives Figures For Rifle Marksmanship

Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, the Chief of Infantry, announces that his office has just completed the tabulation of the rifle marksmanship records for 1932.

General Fuqua was particularly gratified to note that, during 1932, the Infantry successfully trained a larger proportion of its members in the use of weapons with which they are armed than during any preceding year. More than 93.3 per cent of all men required or authorized to fire the rifle completed the prescribed course of instruction. The highest previous percentage was obtained in 1931, when 92.6 per cent fired record practice. Of the number firing this year more than 96.4 per cent qualified as marksmen or better.

These percentages are not the result of exceptionally high averages attained at a few stations, but show uniform distribution among all Infantry regiments. In no type of training has the value of the instruction received at the Infantry School given more immediate results to the Army than is indicated by the present excellence in marksmanship with all weapons.

Local Automobile Dealers Guests At Dinner At Benning

Columbus automobile dealers were entertained at dinner at the Officers' Club at Fort Benning on Wednesday evening, when officers of the tank section, academic department, and of the post exchange staff were joint hosts to the civilians. The affair had been planned as a get-together meeting between the two groups, whose most frequent contacts with each other are through business channels.

Major Elbert J. Lyman, post exchange officer, was one of the after-dinner speakers, and welcomed the guests on behalf of Fort Benning. Colonel William B. Wallace, president of the Officers' Club, and chief of the tank section, academic department, also spoke briefly to the visitors.

These two speakers were followed by Major Stephen G. Henry, senior instructor in the mechanical department of the tank section, who explained briefly the automotive courses conducted by his department. After dinner the guests who conducted through the shops and class-rooms of the tank section.

Protestant Chapel Holds Election Of New Officers

At a meeting of the members of the Protestant Chapel Guild at the chapel at 7:00 P. M. Thursday, January 12, officers for the coming six months were elected.

Those who will take office are Mrs. Willis G. Howard, president; Mrs. John Crandall, vice-president; Mrs. W. S. Banks, Secretary; and Mrs. Robert G. Johnson, treasurer.

During the past term the Guild has given several pleasant social evenings to the enlisted personnel and greatly assisted the needs of the chapel.

Chaplain Howard made a talk commending the work of the out-going of-

(Please turn to page 3)

A TRIBUTE

By Patricia Ayers Lyman

Mere words become dull, inadequate tools to express the invaluable relation of beautiful Barbara King to the entire community. Her influence ever shone like a star-ray, steady, unflinching, in its luminous beneficence for all that was good and true and noble.

A girl of lesser character might have been spoiled by her prominence—the only daughter of Fort Benning's highest ranking officer and the recipient of continual social honors. Barbara, however, seemed at all times absolutely unconscious of her distinction, her popularity or her magnetic personality. Her home radiated hospitality—her presence making all who entered feel its friendly charm. She will be sadly missed from the social circles of the Post.

A poet once wrote some lovely lines about "Woman in her hours of ease," but it was his concluding tribute to "woman as ministering angel" that made his verse immortal. This poet might find inspiration to pen an encomium to Barbara King, who was always ready to give up alluring social pleasures to minister with eager willingness whenever duty called.

One of her most admirable characteristics was her love for little children. At one time, it will be recalled, the Master took a little child into His arms and said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, my children, ye have done it unto me." In her notable work in training Girl Scouts through the Brownie Troop, which she organized and served as leader, she was doing His work.

Christ changed the whole character of death and proved that it belonged to the great law of divine and eternal life. He gave it the beautiful name of sleep, thus associating it with the most strengthening of human experiences. While Barbara now is sleeping, her sweet spirit remains in the hearts of all who knew her. While there is sadness in the hearts of her friends from whom she has been removed for a little while, there is, at the same time, gladness in the hearts of scores of men, women and children who have been, as they traveled along life's pathway, benefitted by the example of her perfect young life.

"So glad am I, not that my friend has gone,
But that the earth she lived and walked upon was my earth too.
That I had closely known her, loved her
And that my love I'd shown.
Tears o'er her departure? Nay a smile
That I had walked with her a little while."

Court Of Honor Is Held For Boy Scouts Jan. 14

The Court of Honor for the Fort Benning Boy Scouts was held last Saturday, January 14. Lieutenant Colonel Frank F. Jewett, Major Phillip Captain Geoffrey Marshall, Captain Charles H. Owens and Captain Wil-S. Wood, Captain Donald P. Spalding, lard S. Paul were among those present.

First points in the contest being held by the Scout Troops were awarded, and Troop 11 jumped into the lead with 60 points to Troop 12's 45

(Please turn to page 3)

Ten-Part Program Planned For Annual Gymkhana Here Tomorrow

The Infantry School's annual gymkhana, in which officers, enlisted men, and women and children of the garrison will participate in a medley of athletic and novelty events, is scheduled to be held on the practice field at 1:30 P. M. Saturday, January 21.

The opening event of the ten part program will be an enlisted men's relay race, in which one two-man team from each mounted organization of the garrison will compete. In this event, the first competitor of each team at the starting shot, will mount bare-back, ride to a designated point, where he will dismount and don two garments of denim clothing. He then will mount his steed, and gallop to a second line, where he will remove the clothing. There the second member of the team will be in waiting and will put on the discarded garments of his team-mate, after which he will take his steed and gallop to a third line, where he will dismount, remove the garments and roll them into a bundle. Then he will mount his steed again and gallop back to where his team-mate is awaiting, and present him with the bundle of clothing.

An old fashioned potato-race, in which fifteen mounted officers will compete, will be the second event. Following this a ladies novelty race, in which the competitors, starting mounted, and carrying a pair of pajamas, will ride to a designated line, where they will dismount, and don the sleeping suit. After this they will remount and ride to a second line, where they must dismount and pick up a neckrope and snap it around the horse's neck. When this is done they must mount and ride to a third line, where they will remove the horse's necktie, and place it on a designated spot on the ground. Then they will ride back to the starting point, stopping enroute to remove the pajamas.

The fourth event, an enlisted men's water carrying race, which will be open to two men from each organization, will require the riders to carry a cup of water in each hand from the starting point, and to fill several empty cups on the ground in the course of the race.

Other events of the program include an officers' novelty race open to fifteen participants; a children's bicycle favor race, open to all children between eleven and fifteen years; and another for children under ten years of age. There is no limit to the number of competitors in the two bicycle events, and as there are approximately 850 children on the post, nearly all of whom own bicycles, these should be interesting, even if no speed records are shattered. A musical chair for ladies, mounted wrestling open to enlisted men of the Service Company, 24th Infantry, and a pair novelty race in which fifteen officers and ladies equipped with horses and wheel-barrows will engage, complete the program.

Tony Sarg Presents Two Performances At Benning Today

Sinbad the Sailor, with his trials and tribulations; his adventures and escapes; his Old Man if the Sea; and his primitive airplane, the great roc; have fled their haunts in the 49th Street Theater, New York, and made their way southward to delight the hearts of young and old when they appear at the Main Theater, Fort Benning, tonight; bringing a metropolitan production direct from the environs of Broadway to The Infantry School.

Tony Sarg, leading American illustrator, whose humorous drawings have brought chuckles to the throats of the entire country, in developing a hobby has modernized an ancient art, and the tiny puppet show that started for his own amusement has assumed a place of national prominence in the theatrical world. The famous marionettes, which will perform on the Benning boards this evening, walk, talk, laugh, fight, make love, dance, and sing in a manner that will transport you far beyond the seas as you watch the story of "Sinbad the Sailor" unfold itself before your delighted eyes.

These puppets are works of art, for each one of the large cast in the play, a creation of Tony Sarg, and carries some touch of his personality in its make-up. There is the ferocious Sultan, the beautiful Princes, the Old Man of the Sea, dogs, donkeys, horses, sheep, a camel, and an enormous elephant, a great fish, the mighty roc, and last but not least, Sinbad himself. Each character has its own wardrobe, especially designed for the production; there are ten scenes, showing desert landscapes, the wonderful city of Bagdad, the ocean beach, a valley of scintillating jewels, and the grand court of the Oriental potentate, the Sultan. It is said that the cost of financing this production was in the vicinity of $10,000; and, the gorgeous costumes, and elaborate sets show where the money was spent.

The Fort Benning Parent Teachers' Association in collaboration with the Parent Teachers' Association of Columbus, are sponsoring the appearance of the marionettes at the post, and the proceeds will be applied to the Fort Benning Children's Schools. And, since the appearance of the marionettes is for their benefit, the children have had a special show arranged for them, starting at three o'clock in the afternoon. "Alice In Wonderland" will hold converse with the Mad Hatter, the Mock Turtle and the Walrus will speak of ships, and shoes, and sealing wax, "Rip Van Winkle" will wake from his twenty-years' sleep, and "Rose and the Ring" will help to cooperate in presenting a medley of childhood's favorite stories.

Wonderful lighting effects will be seen at each performance, for among the list of experts required to produce the marionette shows, there is a master electrician. Others of the force of eight who animate the show include five puppeteers; a musical director; and a mistress of the wardrobe, to keep the tiny costumes in repair.

To facilitate attendance at the afternoon production, school children

(Please turn to page 4)

Repairs Recently Made To 29th Infantry Theater

The completion of a project which will materially add to the pleasure and recreation of the enlisted men of the 29th Infantry and their friends was announced today by Lt. Col. A. D. Chaffin, commanding, the 29th Infantry. For the past ten days the three assistants to the A. and R. Officer have been engaged in laying a new

(Please turn to page 3)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Officers' Club Sponsors Bridge Tournament At Benning Last Thursday

The Officers' Club was the sponsor Thursday evening at an interesting contract bridge tournament at the Officers' Club. This is the first of a series of four tournaments to be played each Thursday for a month. The Country Club in Columbus is also sponsoring a tournament, to be held each Friday for a month. At the completion of the four tournaments, there will be held semi-finals and finals between the contestants of the Officers' Club and the Country Club to decide the champion of the two Clubs. The new scoring was used on Thursday and the play was with duplicate boards. Major Thomas S. Arms, assisted by Capt. Henry J. Matchett, Capt. Raymond E. Vermette, Capt. Arthur E. Burnap, and Lieut. William A. D. Thomas, is conducting the Officers' Club tournament. They are working along the same lines with Mr. Allen Woodall, who is in charge of the Country Club tournament. Thursday evening the Officers' Club was filled to capacity. Many couples making reservations for supper preceding the tournament.

* * *

MRS. LYNN BRADY ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Lynn E. Brady was the hostess Friday to her contract bridge club, entertaining with luncheon followed by two tables of contract bridge. The members of her club are: Mrs. Raymond E. Vermette, Mrs. Orestes Cleveland, Mrs. Charles T. Lanham, Mrs. Clayton Studebaker, Mrs. James E. Bowen, Jr., Mrs. George P. Howell, Miss Harriotte Atkins.

* * *

MRS. JOSEPH A. STUART HOSTESS AT TANK BATTALION BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Joseph A. Stuart was the hostess Tuesday afternoon to the Tank Battalion bridge club entertaining with a delicious luncheon at the Officers Club followed by bridge at the Tank Club. Three tables of contract bridge assembled.

* * *

TWENTY FOURTH INFANTRY REGIMENTAL BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Mrs. Fred L. Munson and Mrs. Landon W. Lockett were the joint hostesses to the 24th Infantry bridge club entertaining five tables of contract and auction bridge Tuesday evening at the 24th Infantry Club. The guests assembled at eight p. m. and played until eleven when coffee and sandwiches were served.

* * *

MRS. WADDINGTON ENTERTAINS FOURSOME OF BRIDGE

Mrs. Selina Waddington was the hostess Tuesday to a foursome of bridge, entertaining with luncheon followed by a table of contract bridge. Mrs. Waddington's guests were: Mrs. Frederick H. Gaston, Mrs. John A. Andrews, Mrs. Lindell A. Straube.

PROTESTANT CHAPEL GUILD ELECTS OFFICERS

(Continued from page 1)

ficers and praising the accomplishments of the organization since it was founded.

At the close of the meeting Chaplain Howard installed the new officers and the new president, Mrs. Howard, made a short talk.

The Guild was organized in August, 1932 to meet the need of an organization to assist in chapel activities. Mrs. P. J. McNulty was first president, Mrs. J. Crandall, vice-president, Mrs. Johnson, secretary, and Mrs. J. E. Stewart, treasurer.

Today's Fashion

Dressy and appropriate
By VERA WINSTON

TIMELY INDEED is the practical note designers are giving to almost everything offered for woman's everyday wear this season—that is, everything except evening gowns and wraps, which are essentially in the luxury class and emphatically gorgeous.

For example, for practical use, it would be difficult to surpass the afternoon gown shown in the sketch. The material is dark gold-colored satin, the colar and belt of brown suede, with gold button and buckle.

Not too ornate for everyday use, but dressy in color and style, more or less tailored in effect and with dainty sleeve capelets—quite dressy enough, in fact, for a dinner unless it be quite formal. Just the thing for an afternoon bridge or tea, and quite all right for the street with either lapin coat or long cloth coat.

Things Chinese

ANCESTOR-WORSHIP IN CHINA

Ancestor-worship for many centuries has been the state worshi—the universal worship of the Chinese. Some were Buddhists, some Taoists, some Confucianists, some Mohammedans, but all were ancestor-worshippers. In a sense this is a species of religion, but it is more especially a social or ethical custom. It is largely for the purpose of developing that one great principle of all the Chinese civilization, the foundation of all the Chinese social and ethical system—filial piety. No one can understand China and the Chinese until he has burned into his thought the fact that filial piety lies at the base—nay, is the base, the corner stone, the whole foundation, one might say—of the whole Chinese domestic, social, religious, and civic life.

The Chinese have what they call the Doctrine of Name. It is based upon certain Confucial sayings, such as: "The superior man hates that his name will not be praised after his death." Again he says: "When we have established our personality nad diffused our principles, so as to make our name famous in future ages, and thereby glorify our parents: this is the end of filial piety." Mr. Chen Huanchang tells us that "The relation between father and son is the strongest tie of Chinese society, and it is the basis of Confucius' philosophy and religion." The affection of a father for his son, Mr. Chen assures us, is stronger than

(Please turn to page 8)

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

Rolling three 800 or better games, the ten-pin artist of the Advanced Class opened the second half of the post league bowling schedule with a resounding bang, completely submerging the representatives of the Company Officers aggregation. Captain "Hi" Fry, with 211 games, led the pack with a 568 series. Close behind him was Major "Never-Miss-A-Spare" Andrews with 541. The major, who is bowling team skipper, opines that the Advanced Class will be found perched on a high rung on the league ladder at the close of the second half. Other maple crashers who participated in the first victory on January 9th were Major Fred Huntington and Captains "Herbie" Harries and "Crooney" Croonquist. The latter got himself one 200 tally.

* * *

Your correspondent is in a position to deny categorically that Captain "Eddie" Bowden wrote "sneeze" in his note book when Major Heileman coughed during a lecture the other morning. Captain "Eddie's" notes are not quite that complete. Another report that can be scotched is that Captain Macey Dill, during the break, asked the instructor in field fortifications whether Kanok was a modified form of contract bridge.

* * *

The horsemen of the Advanced Class are all on the ga-ga over the gymkhana to be held on the polo field January 21st . Entries in the potato collecting race for officers are said to include Captains George Clark (Colonel Emeritus of the 14th Vulgarian Mechanized Horse) and Herbert Harries, both of whom have had considerable experience in carrying odds and ends in buckets. Captain "Tiny" Hanley will enroll for the children's bicycle favor race, provided some classmate loans him a velocipede. Captain Alexendare of the House of Bolling will participate in so much of the officers' novelty race as demands the lighting of a cigarette.

* * *

Many have been the rumbles of discontent over the use of private motor vehicles for transportation of student personnel to the scenes of the afternoon battles. When it comes to open and official registration of discontent, however, only Captain "I Wanna Train" Parks retains the courage of his convictions.

* * *

The opinion of 104 officers of the Advanced Class to the contrary, one student did get something out of that recent course which had to do with training. Lieutenant "Gib" Gibney, dragged by the nape of the neck into the bowling alleys on one of those compulsory physical training afternoons, rolled five games for a D plus average. On January 4th the lieutenant was the recipient of a check for five berries as leader of his flight for the month of December. The check passed from Lieutenant "Gib's" hands at the termination of the first pot played the following Monday evening.

* * *

It is understood that Tony Sarg has contracted Captain "Zup" Zuppan (pronounced Chumley) to play the part of Sinbad the Sailor in the forthcoming production of his Marionettes, the original Sinbad being flat on his back with a dose of fibrous flu.

* * *

Captain "Long Bill" Watson, depressed by the rural quietude of Biglerville, plans to change his residence during the present week to the more urban Columbus.

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

You - - - - -

SAVE!

By Buying

STAR BRAND

SHOES

at

Sam Neel

Shoe Department

Westbrook Building

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

The Post Exchange

HAS A DELIVERY SERVICE FROM ITS

SODA FOUNTAIN

The hours of this service are from 11 a. m. to 9:00 p. m., and it is designed particularly for the delivery of ice cream in quarts and smaller quantities to your home.

Excellent Curb Service Also

Phone 69

THE SODA FOUNTAIN

POST EXCHANGE FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell
Any Person Not In The Military Service

To Ladies of Fort Benning

We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.

OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Baths
Reducing, Facial, Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydrio, Electro } Therapy

Swedish Massage
Swedish Facial Massage
Swedish Scalp Treatments
Turkish Shampoos
Special Reducing Treatment
Swedish Shampoos

Rigdon Health Institute

216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

Tank Notes

The entire command wishes to congratulate the men who so ably ran the Inter-Company Basketball games. They knew their rules thoroughly and what was more showed the best judgment in their application. It is great credit to a command to be able to furnish men from its enlisted ranks men who can officiate as these men did. The men referred to are: Staff Sergeant Vallery, Sergeant McKelvey, Corporal Stuart, Corporal Randall, Corporal Ross and Private First Class Lloyd.

We regret that Lieutenant Meister has been relieved from duty with us. We were just beginning to get well acquainted when Post Orders sent him to the Tank Section of the Infantry School as instructor.

As this goes to press our last boxing card of the Inter-Company Tournament will be over and, we say now that Lieutenant Clinton, manager of the tournament has done remarkably well in staging the bouts we have witnessed. The bouts in question have been some of the best amateur work ever presented and we give praise to those heros who never knew before that gloves were also made to fight with. To you boys who took it on the chin for the K. O. and come up smiling you looked like winners to us, so don't let a little thing like that get you for we still have a host of friends to deal with in the coming Post Tournament, and a title to defend.

Over in Company E, Captain "Bob" Wallace turned out a bunch of warriors who took the first championship victory of the year by defeating Company F-67 in the tie off game of the Battalion Basketball Championship. This game was featured with several field goals that brought back to mind the days when Lt. Johnny Roosma showed the Olsen Terrible Swede's how they should be shot. This game was hotly contested and no one knew just what the outcome was going to be and much credit goes to the losing team as well as to the winners for the fine brand of ball they presented to the fans.

We welcome all of the new men we have received lately and wish them the best of luck while with us.

Down in "D" company the talk of a barbecue has been going on for some time and it has been requested that we keep the rumor going "les' the Company Commander forgets."

It is reported that 1st Sgt. Hunt's small daughter is doing well at this time. This is good news to us all and may she be out of the hospital before long.

News from Company F-66 tells us that our "human duck" Sam Tannehill who was discharged during the past week will pull his next stack in Hawaii. Well, Sam, we wish you luck and if you don't like over thar' in them islands just jump into the big blue pond and paddle back to us.

The "Kingfish" who handles the Message Center of Master Sergeant Lanham's office will take on another three years the latter part of the month.

It was believed for a while that he would hunt for a new field; but his latest broadcast was to the effect that he couldn't leave Benning until him and his buddie over in the I. S. D. captured and killed the mate to the three-legged squirrel they bagged in November, 1932.

Our basketball team has been playing "shut mouth" since returning from their tour of basketball played up in Alabam'. We heard of several high ranking sergeants who made the trip with the team. How about it, Leveall?

New Additions To Force At Outpost

Outpost No. 1 had three additional members added to its force last week, when Nippy, lively mascot of the M. P.'s presented her owners with a trio of fine puppies. According to reports from Corporal Arthur Nolle, who is in charge of the Outpost, the mother and children are doing quite as well as could be expected and will undoubtedly be much in evidence again at some early date.

29th Inf.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

The company has been divided into four sections for small bore marksmanship tryouts. Teams from each section will be chosen and from all indications the coming contests will be intensely interesting to the whole company.

During the past week we have been listening to Lieutenant Johnson's lectures on "Gas and gas defense." A demonstration has been planned for the communications platoon in the field under actual conditions. The class room exhibits were enjoyed by all. Pete Coleman finds this work right along his line.

The indoor baseball team announces the addition of a new star to its fold. "Was you dere Charlie" Mueller is it and we are all glad to have him drill with us after the game each day. We do wish that the 2nd Bn. Headquarters Company would offer us a little more competition.

Lieutenant Ferenbaugh has been giving lessons to members of the company in handball. He finds that there are many interested in the finer points of the game.

Felix Schlick was discharged and "checked it to us." Patterson reenlisted a few days ago. How long have you to do Pat? Cook Presley, J. A. has been promoted to Private, first class specialist, 5th class and is now one of our second cooks, vice Schlick discharged.

Our Mess Sergeant John Falk is still putting out the best chow in the 29th Infantry.

Our First Sergeant "Houghty" says the new change in the personnel work transferring it to the companies, is making it easier for the company to handle it than the old way.

Pvt. 1cl. Andrew Presley took a three days' pass last week supposedly to visit his home in Jackson, Mississippi, but his attention was directed to some little girl down in Columbus, and that is as far as he got.

Corporal Fuller is now enjoying a 90 days' reenlistment furlough at his home. Here's hoping that he comes back single.

Corporal Youngblood, message center chief, seems to be very important man. He was called out Tuesday, January 17, 1933, on demonstration. It seems that he is still holding his reputation as a good actor for he is is the only one who could run down the hill, and pull his speech, and make it look as if it was really so.

83rd F. A.

HQ. HQ., BATTERY AND C. T.

The basket ball team began its practice the first of the month. Several new faces will make their appearance on the squad this year. The team won their opening game last night by defeating a picked team from Girard, Alabama.

I have been informed that Cpl. Pike and the members of his staff spent Saturday evening in the big town of Columbus, Ga. Cpl. Pike retired early, being indisposed and he missed the singing.

Well, we have been measured up for new uniforms. We hope they arrive before the sun gets too hot.

The barbecue that the battery held Monday evening was a success. The chow and the entertainment lived up to our expectations. Happy Lee and his radio stars entertained us for about an hour and I am sure that everybody enjoyed themselves. Here's hoping that we have another one soon.

Cook Davis went on furlough last week and became so exhausted from walking and hitch hiking that he finally gave it up as a bad job. He returned to Columbus, Ga., by wagon. While riding with this old farmer he gave him a few points on mule management. He stressed the point of watering before feeding, but the old nigger farmer just shook his head and said "Boss this mule is sure lucky if he eats at all."

BATTERY "A"

Sport Events: In a recent swimming meet held on the Chattahoochee River, one Preston Brand Draft Horse commonly called Baldy defeated the entire Artillery with our Reconnaissance Officer coming out second. The Engineers should design some hand rail of some description for their floating bridges.

Hot Papa Muscrove of feminine renoun has recently re-enlisted and is on a sixty day furlough near the great city of Opp, Ala. Here's hoping he is very calm and collected on this furlough and does not terrorize the country side.

The famous Physical Culture advocate of this organization seems to not be relaxing as well as of old. Evidently the boy is over worked or maybe a new love affair might be a good tonic for a man of nerves and brawn. This is merely a suggestion. "Again it may be the Company he is keeping lately."

Our first cook Pfc. Fatty Allmond has returned from furlough and is back on the job. Just a word of warning, please don't get that Packard over 40 miles an hour again as you are liable to generate some carbon with a deadly effect.

Another great man has returned from furlough, the honorable horseshoer Slim Dozier who has been visiting in Alabama and South Carolina. Slim did not grow much on this trip as he is only 6 1-2 feet with his spurs on.

Our friend and neighbor, Battery "C" is on a three day hike. We are wondering just what they are slipping away from this time. There is a rat in the woodpile somewhere, probably three or four salutes coming up.

Something must be wrong. There is a Corporal vacancy open and there has been no political work going on. Probably some of them that think they should have it will be putting in for transfer or short discharge soon.

REPAIRS RECENTLY MADE TO 29TH INFANTRY THEATRE

(Continued from page 1)

oak floor in the 29th Infantry Theatre. This building was put up in the earliest days of Fort Benning and has been in constant use since its erection. The old pine floor had become badly worn and, due to slivers and cracks had become a menace to dancing. The 29th Infantry now has one of the best dancing floors in this section of the country.

In direct charge of the construction has been Sgt. Kenneth L. Bauer, Co. E, assistant and office clerk to the A. and R. Officer. His able assistants were Pfc. Michael M. Maciejewski, Cannon Co., and Pfc. Henry C. Foy, Co. A., both qualified carpenters. Pfc. Maciejewski some years ago installed the floor in the Post gymnasium. The final sanding and polishing of the new floor was accomplished today. The entire project was without cost to the government.

Friday evening the enlisted men of the Regiment are having their first dance in their improved hall. Their friends are cordially invited. The music will be furnished by their own orchestra under the direction of Mr. George A. Horton, Bandleader.

BOY SCOUTS

(Continued from page 1)

by qualifying Richard Joyner as a tenderfoot scout and passing Tenderfoot Scouts George Popeand Wendall Bevan to the grade of 2d class Scouts. Troop 12 qualified Harry Reeder and Edward Johnson as tenderfoot scouts, and promoted Tenderfoot Scout Delbert Munsen to 2d class. The winning troop in the contest, which will continue until April 8, will be treated to a special hike and wiener roast.

I. S. D.

Several familiar names were listed under recent promotions in the organization. Corporal E. R. Cain and Pfc. Brelon (Tanks) Grantham, are now wearing three stripes on their sleeves. Pfc. Barney Knox and Pfc. Roy Martin, are sporting brand new corporal chevrons on their uniforms.

Corp. Knox celebrated the occasion with a box of cigars and none of hs friends were forgotten. Grantham pulled his rank on Mr. Sgt. Snappy Bennett and then ran a poor second in the following argument as to who was who. "Runt" Cain bawled ont a couple of corporals in the mess line and gave them the evil eye when they cast knowing glances at the new stripes. Peppah Martin has been very quiet as far as can be learned.

Sergt. Johnny Nash and Pfc. Leo J. Pavlovsky, went bird hunting last Saturday. They were seen out near Jamestown with a bull dog and two hounds. Leo J. states that hounds are the poorest bird dogs he ever saw, they flushed every covey of birds and chased rabbits. The bulldog refused to leave the comforts of the car. The total returns of the day was jaybird and a couple of grass sparrows.

When will Peg Pittman stop growling at the chief clerk—Scotty Moye loosen up with his pennies—Joe Lambert stop eating peanuts—Barney Knox get married?

Master Sergeant George Mowry was discharged a few days ago but took on another stack with the Grencord outfit. Glad to have the old top kick around for another three years.

We are not doing much talking but our fingers are itching for the opening of the baseball season.

Mr. Sgt. Bennett warns all of his friends to beware of hitch-hikers traveling incognito.

Norman J. Poole, pump and peddle man, was a shining ligth in the opening basketball game. His playing was okey and his trunks were simply marvelous.

WE MAKE

RUBBER STAMPS

— One Day Delivery —

COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.

FEFFER JEWELRY Co.

JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS

Fine Repairing

1102 Broadway Phone 3914

it's smart
to have a level head

Pull it low and straight over your eyebrows; tip it high in the back. Here is the newest of the season's smartest. And very wearable.

Sailors Strawcloths
And Novelty Straws

$5.00 and $7.50

MILLINERY
Second Floor

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II JANUARY 20, 1933 NUMBER 39

L. C. Kunze ---------- Publisher
A. F. Kunze ---------- Editor
Felicia C. Howell ---------- Society Editor
D. P. Harding ---------- Sports Editor
John W. Pearce ---------- Advertising Manager
Louis T. Kunze ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject any advertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

LIEUTENANT PEEP'S DIARY

Thursday, January 12

My faith in Santa Claus restored upon the return to us of our final writs in wire communication. I have not canvassed the class but I could be convinced that there were no U's since I received none. Mark I must have worn out at least half a red pencil correcting my paper. It proves again that jumping to conclusions does not pay. Still, and all, one must have some exercise besides bayonet.

Another afternoon made happy by Major Easley's wise cracks which I should wish to record but that some one might come prying into my diary and read them. The good Major did demonstrate dropping a grenade with burning fuse and then picking it up again and throwing it. It do wonder what results might have been attained if the command to "Search the rear area" had reached him on concluding the demonstration.

Murder Maim and Mayhem Maertens has demonstrated to us the ability of an earnest instructor to infuse his enthusiasm into his class for today I did observe a typical bayonet face on even the demonstration dummy.

And so to my lowly thatched cottage to bone for the exam in direct laying which is to be held on the morrow. Allah alone wots what may befall one during a writ on Friday the 13th. However if it is as I suspect that Captain Rooks has taught me all he knows, my ignorance will not be much liquidated by many hours' study.

Friday, January v3

Lay late abed of a purpose to shorten the hours in which black cats might cross my path. A good fair writ in direct laying—which is always my opinion when by chance I feel that I have done well. But when I do not well, which is frequenter, it is wholly the fault of the blankety blank instructor for striking me on my blind side.

But for the fact that after two hours on Humphreys Hill my blood congealed to the point of bursting the pipes it was a most amiable morning.

Tuffy Easley, the Thrower, did at grenade instruction exhort me to interview Captain Cordoba and Lt. Robins (who were the superior grenade throwers of the class in yesterday's work) with the idea determining whether smoking a given brand of cigarettes or eating a purchased brand of breakfast food was responsible for their excellence. To the task at once but to find that the credit is to be laid at the door of the instructor, his daily platform appearances having inspired a good, rythmic, two-handed motion that their own throwing had heretofore lacked.

Much amazed at Major Cota's naivete in imparting bayonet instruction to his group, he reiterating earnestly "Now I'm the dummy!" at frequent intervals. Honest confession may relax the soul but this one is likely to give rise to counter claims since he mingles with the first three squads.

It does take but half an eye to see that Bush will eventually lead the class as a radio operator. Being desirous of passing the 8-word test but unable to recognize promptly the letters "Q" and "F" he did devise means to remedy the situation. "Q" being dah dah dit dah in Morse he recognizes it as the first four notes of Mr. Lohengrin's w. k. wedding march—though why that particular strain is so familiar to the lieutenant deponent sayeth not. But his recognition of "F" is worthy of Mr. Roth himself. Dit dit dah dit (say it fast) sounds to him like i-di-o-tic which suggests "fool" which begins with an "F." He did not tell me who takes the rest of the sentence.

Monday, January 16

We plunged into indirect laying this morning under Captain Hawf Load Lucas. I know it is he for we at once got some homework to do. To the dictionary as soon as ever I could to rid myself of the idear, rapidly forming in my plastic mind, that formula is spelled with final "er." Finding that it was not I did clap my hands in glee and shout "Hurrah!"

It did come to my attention that Red Reeder, deputized to secure an interview on the Philippine independence question. approached Lt. Yanga on the subject. "Well," began Yanga "there are many points of view pro and con." But Reeder here ruined the interview by interrupting "Say, what does this pro stuff taste like? I think the cawn is terrible."

Tuesday, January 17

Greatly put upon this day by Professor Raymond in his exudation of instructions for tomorrow's communication exercise. Either the great oof is an orthographic moron or the second section stenographer is a typographical error humorist for Peep's Diary as key phrase for use with the cipher device was unbelievably misspelled. If the Professor continues in his efforts to bedevil me I shall be tempted to divulge to the class his prowess on the piccolo.

I did find in my mail box this afternoon a brand new Sears, Roebuck catalog.

—Lieut. Peep.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Pure Water

Water is a prime necessity of life, an essential article of diet. As it comes in contact in nature with many surfaces and many substances, it is particularly liable to contain impurities. Pure water is a chemical curiosity and does not exist in nature. Public opinion has now advanced to such a stage that people demand safe water for drinking purposes. Nearly all cities in this country have now provided it for their inhabitants, some supplies of course being better than others. The water at Fort Benning from the post supply is safe, as is also that of the city of Columbus. The dangers mentioned below are those incident to unguarded water sources, particularly in rural or out of the way communities. Those who are going on leave to such places should be on their guard.

Water should be without color, taste or odor. It may be derived from several sources: (1) Rain, being kept in cisterns until used; (2) surface water from rivers or smaller streams, being used raw or filtered; (3) springs or wells, which tap the ground water. Each source is liable to its own dangers. Cisterns are satisfactory if kept clean and water tight so that the ground water which may be polluted, may be kept out. Rivers and streams are particularly subject to contamination by body wastes. No stream that flows through an inhabited area may be considered safe without the use of some method of purification. Lakes and ponds are a source of safe water only if they are protected from impurities. Wells and springs afford good water if the ground water is free from contamination, not otherwise. There is a popular misapprehension that spring water is always safe. In more than one city people purchase bottles of some well known spring water for table use thinking it safer than tap water, when ordinarily just the reverse is true. Mineral springs and wells are no exception to this rule. Rivers do not necessarily purify themselves every seven miles as is often stated. Wells and springs are particularly liable to be infected in limestone soil, as impurities may be carried for comparatively long distances through cracks and crevices in the rocks. When in doubt, boil the water. This is a simple process that may prevent serious outbreaks of disease. The flat taste of boiled water is due to the air having been driven out. By shaking boiled water in an open vessel the air (and taste) may be restored.

The diseases that may be transmitted by polluted water include: typhoid fever, cholera, dysentery, and hookworm disease. Some of these will be discussed in later articles.

Local Notes

Davis P. Harding, Editor
Phone 71 or 73

Lieutenant Harry G. Dowdall, the Secretary of the Officers' Club, and Captain Edward C. Betts left Friday afternoon for Atlaita where they made a survey of necessary equipment for the new Officers' Club. They returned Sunday afternoon after seeing some actual mechanical devices in operation.

Captain Castle H. Farish left on a furlough to New Middleton. Indiana, on Saturday, January the fourteenth.

* * *

Captain H. C. Griswold is now on duty with the 24th Infantry.

* * *

Although Biglerville has been condemned for dances and other large assemblies, the Quartermaster is going to brace it temporarily for use by the National Guard delegation. Steps have already been taken to renovate and decorate the mess. The mess officer will be Lieut. George Libecap, assistant secretary of the Officers' Club. The Refresher Class of the National Guard will be taken care of by the Officers' Club Grill.

* * *

Major C. A. Selleck, 83rd F. A. spent a part of the week in Montgomery, Ala.

* * *

Captain Edward C. Betts is on detached service to Washington, D. C.

* * *

Col. Walter R. Wheeler left Monday for Orlando, Florida.

* * *

The Polo Hunt Club is now being repaired at the expense of the Officers' Club. A number of improvements will be made.

* * *

A landing platform will be constructed, the building will be made fireproof, and the entire lighting system will be changed. New light lanterns of a permanent nature will be arranged in convenient places around the walls.

* * *

Major G. L. Kraft left Monday for Radium Springs.

* * *

Captain George J. Forster left Saturday for a furlough of two days.

* * *

Captain C. W. Hanna is on a five day furlough, which started from Monday.

* * *

Captain H. J. Matchett is on leave to St. Paul, Minn.

* * *

Lieut. L. L. Rimer left recently a contract for relighting of the library which will be completed this week. The change will make for better reading facilities.

TONY SARG

(Continued from Page 1)

of Columbus and the post are to be dismissed from classes earlier than usual, and Mr. Thurston Crawford, manager of the Howard Bus Company, has offered a five cent fare to children who wish to attend the performance.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

BARBARA

We have no heart for comment upon the trivial events which furnish the basis for our inconsequential contribution to the printed record of garrison life. Just one week ago to the hour that these lines are being written, we saw and talked to Barbara King. On that day she seemed quite as we always knew her—sweet, gracious, altogether charming. No thought of impending tragedy disturbed our mind. Rest and care would repair the damage wrought by her recent illness and soon she would be participating again in the numerous garrison activities in which she was interested.

But Death has his cruel subtleties as well as his harsh brutalities. He may trumpet his dread approach for months or he may strike from behind with never so much as a whisper to tell that he is near. His inevitable penalty may be exacted after prolonged and incredible tortures or it may be imposed mercifully in sleep. Here he chose to strike swiftly and without warning. Since this thing had to be, we must take what comfort we can from the knowledge that the end came without suffering.

It was our privilege to know Barbara King when she was in her early 'teens. We thought of her than as a little girl who possessed to a greater degree than anyone we had ever known the qualities that would flower into splendid womanhood. We saw the promise of her early years fulfilled when we came to Benning in the fall of 1929. Lovely and unspoiled as ever, Barbara had lost none of the qualities that made her so attractive as a child and with these were now associated that less obvious but more enduring appeal of a strong, and beautiful character. For her charm was not the mask of a light and irresponsible nature. Its tap root drew life from beneath the surface—from depths which held an inexhaustible store of loyalty, sympathy, and unselfish love.

Barbara King had a purpose in life that transcended mere enjoyment of the alluring pleasures that were hers for the taking. Strongly actuated by a desire to be useful, she gave generously of her time and talent to those activities which had need of them. She did her not inconsiderable bit quietly and unobstrusively toward making the life that flowed around her brighter and happier.

The Benning garrison stands with bowed head at the distant grave of the girl whose passing has left a void in many lives. Something of the grief that weighs upon the hearts of father, mother, and brother can be sensed because all of us who knew Barbara share their sorrow. The officially prescribed badge of mourning that we wear today for a former chief who had done his work and lived his life has a new significance for the garrison in that it truly reflects the sharp and sincere regret that we feel at the passing of this young and beautiful life.

"Out of the night you came Into the night you go—
An arrow of silver flame
Launched from a silver bow.

Here rest your small white feet,
Laughter and lyric shod;
The arrow, deathless and fleet,
Rests in the sheaf of God."

—E. F. H.

PERSONALS

Lieut. Malin Craig had as his guest over the week-end, Lieut. George Crosby of Fort McPherson.

Lieut. and Mrs. Paul Zuver, who have been spending a while with Capt. and Mrs. R. E. Vermette departed Saturday for Carlisle Barracks, where Lieut. Zuver is stationed. They will stop en route with friends in Asheville, N. C. and in West Virginia. Leut. Zuver was formerly stationed at Fort Benning at the Station Hospital.

Mrs. Sue Pearce of Chattanooga, Tenn., was the house guest over the week-end of Lieut. and Mrs. W. W. O'Conner.

Capt. and Mrs. Raymond E. Vermette spent last week-end with friends at Fort McPherson and in Atlanta.

Major Ira A. Rader, formerly of Fort Benning, arrived here Saturday from Fort McPherson on official business and spent part of the day with Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Barnett.

Major and Mrs. Emil W. Leard have as their houseguests for a few weeks, Gen. and Mrs. W. S. Jarvis. Gen. Jarvis who was recently retired, was stationed in Washington, D. C. He and Mrs. Jarvis have recently returned from a trip abroad. They plan to make their home either in California or in Washington.

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, January 17

What fun we had today! We had a 100 per cent meeting, up by the big tree in the field. Some girls practiced signalling while others built fires for their Second Class Tests. Then we had announcements about merit badges, and a hike!

It's to be next Saturday; we're to take our lunch of "angels-on-horseback's" fruit, and water. The most important part, the one we all forget! I know we are going to have loads of fun.

After these plans had been made we felt a little chilly but it wasn't long before a good stiff game of dodge ball warmed us up again. Mrs. Brown kindly brought us some marshmallows, so we had a real campfire circle, with a fire song, and toasted marshmallows.

A man does not please long when he has only one species of wit.

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

Chinese Mystery Thriller

Lewis Stone, Helen Hayes and Ramon Navarro from a scene in "The Son-Daughter" which plays at the Grand Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "The Sun-Daughter" with Ramon Navarro, Helen Hayes, Lewis Stone, Warner Oland and H. B. Warner. Here's the filmization of the noted David Belasco state success—a Chinese mystery yarn that is thrilling, full of suspense and very entertaining. Paramount News and a short filler.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "Thirteen Women" with Richardo Cortez, Lyrna Loy, Irene Dunne and Jill Esmond. Mystery, thrills and sinister intrigues highlight this picture. Packed with suspense, unexpected excitement, there too, are soul-searing moments in this vehicle of the 13 women, a story of how 12 college girls run afoul of the sinister 13th after thir school days are over.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering "Handle With Care" with James Dunn, Boots Mallory and El Brendel. A comedy-drama, depicting the love of a man and a struggling shop girl, whose happiness is ultimately accomplished by the two small boys in a climax that affords a complete surprise. There's many a laugh in this one.

* * *

RIALTO

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY (Now Playing): Offering "Fighing For Justice" with Tim McCoy and Joyce Compton. A thundering tale of tricks and treachery under western skies. He wipes out a cowardly conspiracy and steals the heart of the girl who opposed him. Riding—fighting—romancing, goes Tim McCoy.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Zlonde Venus" with Marlene Dietrich, Herbert Marshall and Cary Grant. "How terrible that I should love you!" she said. Two weeks before she had offered him love as part of her bargain. Now she withheld it because it was real. What else could this woman who loved two men do—but flee from both of them?

TUESDAY ONLY: Offering, "Six Hours To Live" with Warner Baxter and Miriam Jordan. What would you do? Loved by a beautiful, charming girl . . . chosen by your country to save its honor and with only six hours to love? From original story of "Auf Wiedersehen" by Gordon Morris and Morton Barteaux.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "Men Are Such Fools" with Leo Carrillo, Vivienne Osborne, Una Merkel and Jos. Carthorn. That's why women get away with murder, they're such fools. He believed her because he loved her . . . men are made that way . . . but there's always a pay-off for the woman who works on the theory that "Men Are Such Fools".

* * *

ROYAL

(Opening Saturday Night at 11:15 o'clock)

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "Tonight Is Ours" with Frederic March and Claudette Colbert. Here's a love story of grand passion—a romance you'll like.

ROYAL

Thirty-three years ago Christmas day, Alison Skipworth, Grand Duchess Emilie of "Tonight Is Ours," opening Saturday night 11:15 at the Royal Theatre, arrived in New York from England. Went directly from the boat to a rehearsal and has never been idle since. Has appeared in more than a hundre dstage plays, the most important, by her own reckoning, being "39 East," "The Swan" and "The Torchbearers." Made her American debut in "The Artist's Model," under Charles Frohman's management. Gloria Swanson's "Tonight or Never" established her on the screen.

RIALTO

The crash of the German mark, in the early post-war period, put Marlene Dietrich in the movies.

The glamorous foreign star, whose latest picture, "Blonde Venus," comes to the Rialto Theatre Sunday and Monday, recently revealed that long before she won overnight fame in "Morocco," her first American picture, she had had movie experience.

"I had been studying violin, and had just given my first recital," she explained, "when Germany suffered an economic collapse. My mother and I were practically destitute, and in an effort to earn some money I tried work as an extra at the UFA studios.

"I worked at this for several months, and then decided to try the stage. It was from there that I went back to the movies."

It was while Miss Dietrich was appearing in a musical comedy in a Berlin theater that Josef von Sternberg, sumoned to Germany to direct Emil Jannings in "The Blue Angel," saw her and immediately signed her for the feminine lead in the picture.

When it was completed, he brought her to America to star in "Morocco." Following its succes, the English version of "The Blue Angel" was put on display in American theaters.

"Blonde Venus," her fifth English-language picture, presents Miss Dietrich in the role of a woman, who, to save her husband's life, accepts the love of another man. The climax comes when the husband discovers the fact.

Blonde Venus

Marlene Dietrich, as she appears in "Blonde Venus" which shows at the Rialto Theater Sunday and Monday.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

GRAND

The considerably anticipated screen version of David Belasco's stage success, "The Son-Daughter," will open at the Grand Theater Sunday and Monday.

The Oriental roles in "The Son-Daughter" present a high-water mark in character delineation for both the picture's stars—Miss Haye's part of the Chinese girl being a far cry from her notable portrayal of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," for which she won the recent Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' award; and Novarro's role, likewise, presenting a forcible contrast from that of his work in "Huddle" and "Mata Hari."

Makeup played an important part in the filming of "The Son-Daughter," Miss Hayes having to undergo changes in hairdress and facial contour; while Navarro sacrificed his appearance for "art's sake,' 'to the extent of having his head completely shaved. Others who went an adroit transformation from Occidental to Oriental include Lewis Stone, Warner Oland, Ralph Morgan, Louise Closser Hale and H. B. Warner.

The story of "The Son-Daughter" is fraught with melodramatic incidents, its plot centering about the attempts of revolutionary Chinese factions to outwit the royalist group. Miss Hayes, as the daughter of a royalist sympathizer, is caught in the whirlpool of intrigue and plotting which surrounds her father's activities, and ultimately is forced to make a choice between marriage to the man she loves and devotion to her native land.

Clarence Brown, who has won an outstanding place in the list of screen directors for his work on most of Greta Garbo's pictures, as well as for the recent Crawford-Gable success, "Letty Lynton," directed "The Son-Daughter." As has come to be expected of Brown's cinema offerings, the present picture is said to boast a number of brilliantly picturesque settings depicting the more colorful aspects of San Francisco's Chinatown haunts.

STAR ONCE A BOILER-MAKER

Clark Gable, who is now appearing with Carole Lombard and Dorothy Mackaill in Paramount's "No Man of Her Own," was once a plumber with an oilfield crew, and helped build boilers for the refining equipment.

TOM SAWYER, ACTOR

Tom Sawyer has entered the movies. At least, that is the name of an extra in Paramount's "King of the Jungle." He "hitch-hiked" from Texas to Hollywood in search of a movie career.

COMEDIAN GETS ROLE

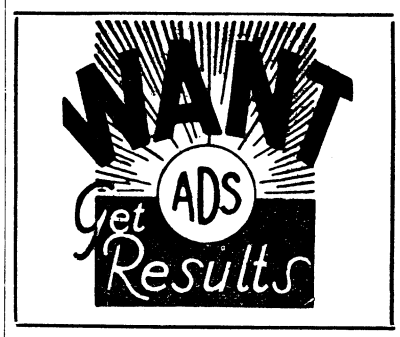
Warren Hymer, character comedian recently seen in "Madison Square Garden" and "One Way Passage," has been signed by Paramount for a part of importance in suppotr of Alison Skipworth and Roland Young in "Good Company," an original screen story by Nina Wilcox Putnam.



GRAND
Saturday—Sunday—Monday
HELEN HAYES
RAMON NOVARRO
The Son-Daughter
A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture
"LIGHTS OUT"—Paramount News
Tuesday—Wednesday
An R K O RADIO Picture
THIRTEEN WOMEN
STARTLING ON THE SCREEN!
Ricardo Cortez—Irene Dunne—Jill Esmond—Myrna Loy
"Courtin' Trouble'—Canine Thrills
UNIVERSAL NEWS
Thursday—Friday
"HANDLE WITH CARE"
James Dunn—Boots Mallory—El Brendel
"Family Troubles"—Tumble Down Town
PARAMOUNT NEWS

RIALTO
NOW PLAYING
AT 'EM-COWBOY!
TIM McCOY in FIGHTING for JUSTICE
CARTOON — COMEDY
Chapter 7 "THE LAST FRONTIER"
SUNDAY and MONDAY
MARLENE DIETRICH IN "BLONDE VENUS" A Paramount Picture
CARTOON — FOX NEWS
TUESDAY ONLY
SIX HOURS TO LIVE with WARNER BAXTER
FOX PICTURE
SCREEN SOUVENIR
Rudy Vallee "MUSICAL DOCTOR"
WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
ALL women are pretty sure that MEN ARE SUCH FOOLS
With LEO CARRILLO VIVIENNE OSBORNE UNA MERKEL JOSEPH CAWTHORN
Directed by William Nigh
CARTOON — COMEDY — FOX NEWS

ROYAL
Opening Saturday Night 11:15 and Sun., Mon., and Tue.
FREDRIC MARCH · CLAUDETTE COLBERT IN NOEL COWARD'S
TONIGHT IS OURS
WITH ALISON SKIPWORTH ARTHUR BYRON
A Paramount Picture
Universal News
Screen Souvenir

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Corn Griffin Wins Decision Over Edgren

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

The battle of the Maxes, Schmeling and Baer, is going to be a hard fight to figure out in advance. Both boxers are of the strong, rugged type, who love the going when it's toughest. Schmeling invariably seems to get stronger as the fight advances into the last stages.

The Black Uhlan is one of the few present day pugilistists who finds flat-footed. Of course, this slows him up, but what he lacks in speed he makes up in aggressiveness and courage. A clever boxer can be stabbing him with plenty of light punches that count in the box score.

Baer is fast. It is doubtful whether he carries enough dynamite to put Schmeling, completely out of the picture, but he has a good chance to outbox his opponent and get the decision.

Schmeling will be the favorite. His fighting heart and great endurance may be all that he needs to hurdle the Baer obstacle.

* * *

Just before Sharkey left for Bermuda, he said he never wanted to hear of Schmeling again. Later, he said that there was only one match he would consider and that was one with Schmeling. Now, what are we poor fight fans to gather from that? Maybe when he comes back from his vacation, he will have another statement to make.

* * *

Ernie Schaaf is at present the sensation in the heavyweight circles. His knockout of Stan Poreda put him right under the powerful spotlight of the public eye, and there he will remain until he fights Carnera next month.

But we can safely predict that if Schaaf fights in the same spirit he exhibited when he fought Poreda, Carnera should be taken into camp handily.

That would throw Sharkey against Schaaf sometime in June, with the winner meeting the winner of the Schmeling-Baer bout probably in September.

* * *

The resumption of athletic relations between Princeton and Harvard, following the conciliation of the two service schools, shows that the dove of peace is winging its way over college grid-irons.

Bad feeling between the two student bodies was the real reason Princeton and Harvard decided to discontinue athletic contests between the two universities. It seems that a certain Harvard undergraduate left the impression of his signet ring on the nose of a Princeton undergraduate.

Anyhow, the resumption of athletic

(Please turn to page 8)

SERVE

Old Settler's Sausage

For Breakfast

Same Quality - Reduced Cost

The Provision Co., Inc.

Columbus, Georgia

Check your car frequently and you'll make up in economical maintenance what time you devote to its care.

AUTO DEPT.

POST EXCHANGE

FORT BENNING

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Any Person Not In The Military Service

Soldier On Canvas For Nine Count In Verv First Round

Griffin Looks Good In Decisive Victory Over Wyoming Cowboy

John "Corn" Griffin, Benning light-heavy, added Cowboy Frankie Edgren to his growing list of victims last Tuesday night in one of the greatest boxing cards ever witnessed at the post. The decision was clear-cut, your correspondent giving Griffin the edge in seven rounds, Edgren in one round, with two draws.

Edgren entered the ring first and got a big hand as he crawled through the ropes. A minute later, a round of applause announced the arrival of Corn Griffin. Master Sergeant Magoni stepped to the center of the ring and gave the weights of the two fighters, Edgren 185 and Griffin 178. Major L. K. Patterson, the referee called the two boys together for final instructions.

Round one: Edgren danced out from his corner and rushed the Tanker to the ropes. A left hook to the bady caught Griffin coming in. The cowboy whipped a hard right to the jaw, and followed ths blow with successive rights to the head. Griffin collapsed under the storm in Edgren's corner. At the count of six, he rolled over on his hands and knees and was up at the count of nine. Edgren unleashed a furoius attack with both hands but the Tanker withstood the punishment. Griffin began using his left to advantage as his opponent tried desperately to put over the knockout wallop. They were fighting on even terms at the bell.

Round two: Edgren came out savagely, but the minute rest period was all that Griffin needed. A hard right to the jaw hurt the cowboy. Griffin's left hand was worrying Edgren, as he began to carry the fight to his opponent. A left hook to the mouth sent Edgren's mouthpiece spinning across the ring. As Edgren threw a right at Griffin which fell short of its destination, Corn nailed the cowboy with several resounding lefts to the face which set Edgren back on his heels.

Round three: Griffin rushed Edgren and in a flurry of infighting hurt the cowboy with short triphammer blows in the region of the heart. A terrific left hook to the jaw knocked Edgren against the ropes and the Tanker was quick to follow up his advantage. Griffin unleashed a body attack which sent Edgren to the canvas. The cowboy staggered to his feet in a dazed condition and tried to tie up his opponent as Griffin shot hard lefts and rights to the head. A hard left to the mouth had Edgren's mouth bleeding as the gong sounded, ending the round.

Round four: During this round, Corn turned his attention to the body and his triphammer blows to the ribs and kidneys in flurries of infighting were sapping a lot of Edgren's strength Edgren crossed a right to the chin as the Tanker waded in. Griffin kept sending hooks to the body, and landed several in rapid succession as the bell rang.

Round five: Griffin landed a hard right hook to the body. Corn was now connecting often and his punches had plenty of zip behind them. A right just over the heart made Edgren grunt. Blotches of red began to appear in various spots around Edgren's midsection as Griffin continued to work on the body. The bell saved Edgren from further punishment.

Round six: Griffin was now carrying the fight to his opponent in a way which had the crowd wild. A terrific left to the solarplexus sent Edgren careening against the ropes. The cowboy's eyes were glassy for a moment

(Please turn to page 8)

Tennis Prospects For Current Year Extremely Bright And Encouraging

(Ed. Note: This article has been prepared for the Benning Herald by the Tennis Committee.)

Tennis enthusiasts at Fort Benning are looking forward with pleasant anticipations to a year of unusually active and progressive tennis. Indications point to a most successful year, even greater year than 1932, in which Benning was more strongly represented in the army championships than ever before, being represented by eight players—four of whom were retained on the army squad for the matches against the navy.

The final match in the present handicap tournaments for the men's singles is scheduled at 2:00 p. m. Saturday and the finals in the mixed doubles at 2:00 p. m. Sunday. Captain Bassett, who has progressively improved and steadied his game and has so far met very stiff competition in Lieut. Sherburne, Lieut. Harding and Major Irving, will play Captain Drake in the finals. Captain Bassett was forced to unleash the best tennis of the tournament to win from Major Irving, a newcomer, in the semifinals last Sunday, the score being 6-4, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3, the match lasting three hours and bitterly contested all the way. In the finals of the mixed doubles the brilliant playing of Mrs. Lynch and her hard driving husband are expected to give plenty of trouble to Mrs. Keiler and her partner, Captain Drake.

The next tournament contemplated is the annual spring championships. This tournament will be without handicap, but the competition should be very keen since Benning has an unusually large number of players whose abilities are nearly the same, all of whom are out to improve their game and to win. This tournament will probably be played during March and April.

If sufficient funds can be obtained, it is hoped to hold the Fifth Annual Invitation Tournament in May, probably during the week ending May 20. This is the greatest tennis effort of the year that is put out by the Officers' Club and has always been a colorful event of high interest and very stimulating to local tennis. A large number of the South's best players enter the tournament and the playing is of a very high order. In order to help defray the expenses, a nominal admission charge is made for all of these matches, but the resulting entertainment is more than worth the charge.

The high light of summer tennis is in connection with the Army Championship Tournaments, and the matches against the Navy in Washington from June 24th to July 16th. As a preliminary, selections are made under the direction of the Corps Area Commander. Last year all Fourth Corps Area representatives selected were from Fort Benning. Though two of the stars of last year's representatives, Major Gordon and Lt. Brownfield, have gone to other stations, they are ably replaced by Major Irving and Lieut. Newman and so this year's squad should be equally strong. Those who go on this trip do so "without expense to the government" and are carried on detached service while away from their stations. Many of those who make this trip feel that the stellar brand of tennis competition is sufficient reward to compensate for the expense and, in fact, some would consider the year a distinct failure unless they were allowed to make the trip. Lieut. Sherburne and Lieut. Brownfield in 1932 made the biggest hits and received much publicity by gaining the favor of the scribes and fans in continually upsetting the dope up to the semi-finals in which Lieut. Sherburne pressed hard the tennnis veteran Major Van Vliet and Lieut. Brownfield extended the champion Lieut. Stanley Robinson. Because of the steady playing of Captain Drake, he was permitted to play on the army squad against the navy.

It is hoped that Columbus will again this year see fit to have their championship tournaments open to the Benning players. Last year Benning players were successful in winning the singles cup (Lieut. Brownfield) and the doubles cup (Captain Drake and Lieut. Brownfield) after wading through stiff competition furnished by the best players of Colum-

(Please turn to page 8)

Talk About Values

BE SURE TO SEE OUR

12 50

Suits and Overcoats

See Us For Your Outfit, Shoes, Furnishings and etc.

CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP

1035 Broadway

100% Pure Pennsylvania PENNZOIL Safe Lubrication

FOR SALE

Post Exchange

The Post Exchange Restaurant

Is maintained for the convenience and for service to the enlisted men of Fort Benning. You are invited to make full use of its facilities.

The Post Exchange Restaurant

Located In Service Club No. 1.

Fort Benning, Georgia

Plans For Spring Polo Tournament Discussed Lately

At a meeting of Fort Benning polo officials late Thursday afternoon plans for the coming tournament were discussed. A round robin was definitely decided upon, to begin in about two weeks. The schedule is so arranged that, weather and other circumstances permitting, the tournament will be completed early in April.

There will be six teams entered, handicapped according to the relative proficiency of individual players. The winner of the tournament, and the teams which place second and third, will be decided on a won and lost basis. An elimination tournament between the three leading teams will then be played off and the championship team decided in that way.

A game will be comprised of eight periods, but only four periods will be played off at a time, the four period match counting as half a point. Substitutions will be allowed, but will not affect the handicap in any way.

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 or less

for bills . . education . . travel

•

Check off these advantages:

√ Officers may borrow up to $300

√ Your signature is our only security.

√ Your confidence is respected.

√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.

√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.

√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.

√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.

√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

HENRY GRADY HOTEL

PEACHTREE AT CAIN

Atlanta, Ga.

•

550 rooms of comfort and convenience. Each room has ceiling fan, circulating ice water, radio and either shower or tub bath; corner rooms have both. Open Dining Terrace and Coffee Shop.

Rooms from $2

J. F. de Jarnette Vice-Pres. & Mgr.

LIGHT TANKERS BOXING CHAMPS

By JACK GIBNEY

Headquarters Company, 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) took the tank battalion championship in amateur boxing with a total of 206 in the five series of matches held at the post gym during the past week. The leather pushers from Hq. showed a deadly ability to put their opponents away in a very short time, and those that did last three rounds were almost always outpointed. The closest contestant to Hq. was Company F, 67th Infantry (Medium Tanks) who finished the series with a total of 176. Company E 66th Infantry was third with 144.

Last night's bouts saw Company E, 66th defeat Company F, 67th, and Headquarters come through for a clean slate by winning all of their fights from Company D, 66th. Slaughter, Company F 67th took a technical knockout over Moore, Company E 66th; Mathews gained the decision over Hassara of Company F; Barker of F lost the nod to Boutwell of E; Ligurgan of F won on a forfeit; Carr of E took the last round for a decision over Sansing of F; Morris of E handed Anthony of F a technical K. O.; and Durden of F, K. O.'d Crowell of E in the sensational bout of the evening.

Rowan, Smith, and Reynolds of Headquarters took their fights by forfeits; Hill K. O.'d West in a good fight, Whitehead made a pretty win by K. O.ing Miller, Auzat won on a forfeit, and Brown got the decision over Baggett in a fight that wrapped the title up in a nice bundle for Headquarters.

Major Allen F. Kingman, tank commander presented the trophy with a short speech commending the coaches, boxers, and officials for the wonderful fight program they had presented. Sgt. "Red" Lindsey was referee and Sgt D.an Sullivan timekeeper for the bouts.

---

Hubbard Hardware cagesters proved a little too much for the 2d Battalion, 29th Infantry, last night, when they met in the post gym, and the Blue Thunderbolt went down to defeat 46-36. There was too much Lee, Hubbard center, who accounted for twenty-two tallies of his team's total.

Monday night the 2d Batts journeyed to Dawson to meet the Athletic Club of that city.

---

The Fighting Irish of the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry showed that they have lost none of last year's championship form by defeating the Columbus Boys' Club 41-21 last night. Sheppard, lanky center for the Green Wave, played a beautiful game, and finished as high score man. Reddock and Ray also showed well for the Irish.

---

The quintet of the Infantry School Detachment went down in defeat for the second time in as many days when they played the Waverly Hall combination last night in the post gym. They made a much better showing than Wednesday, however, and a wealth of material was uncovered in the second string. Sterling, Mitchell, and Yates, together with Grady Tolle, the old war-horse, played a very nice game, and did their best to pull the game out of the fire in the last half, but the Waverly Hall lead was too great to overcome.

Wednesday afternoon the basketball team of the Infantry School Detachment lost to the speedy Red Devil quintet from Industrial High School of Columbus, by the score of 37-11.

The Industrial boys had just too much teamwork and passing ability for the Greencords, and the loss of Isham, center, early in the second quarter proved an additional calamity. The entire game was a hard-fought battle, with some excellent basketball being played by both teams, and after a few more practice sessions the cagesters from the I. S. D. should develop a good combination.

Chicago Boxer Too Clever For Ching In Semi-Final Go

Fight Card Offered Tuesday Night One Of Best Put On At Post

In the semi-final bout of last Tuesday's boxing card at Fort Benning, Harold Murphy, Chicago heavyweight, completely outboxed and outfought Ching Johnson to win an easy decision. Seldom has a cleverer boxer, or one more versed in the lore of the ring, ever been seen in a Benning ring than Murphy. A cautious fighter, he elected to take the defensive most of the way in his battle with Johnson, and piled up a big lead.

Murphy had a beautiful left hand and kept it in Johnson's face throughout the fight. Ching kept holding his right in reserve, waiting for an opportunity to put it across, but that opportunity never came. Murphy is as smooth a boxer as has ever been seen at the post.

The first three rounds found Murphy giving Ching a boxing lesson, and scoring often with left jabs T.ry as he would, the Benning fighter was unable to land one decisive wallop, as Murphy showered him with light punches to the head and body. In the fourth round, Murphy began to open up a bit, and sent Johnson to the ropes several times in the course of the round. Harold had an annoying habit of holding Ching off with his left hand, and hitting him with his right. This was very discouraging to Johnson, but there was very little he could do about it.

In the sixth and seven rounds, Murphy was still fighting cautiously but his punches were taking effect although Ching gamely kept boring in. Near the end of the seventh round, Harold slipped across a hard right to the solarplexus, followed by several wicked lefts and rights to the jaw.

The last round was all Murphy's as the Chicago Battler punished Ching considerably. A series of punches to the head had Ching wobbling like a leaf in a high wind. Murphy took it easy and did not try to put across a knockout punch. The bell sounded saving Ching from a lot of punishment.

Blondy Parker and Red Goss put on a great six round bout, with Red taking the decision. The battle was close all the way through, and a draw would have been acceptable. Blondy had a slight lead until the last round when Goss rallied.

The six-rounder between Spivey and Hill almost stole the show. The two put on a real old-fashioned slug-fest which had the fans roaring from start to finish. No formalities were necessary. Bunker and Ben had met before and each knew what to expect. After a few preliminary jabs, they started to work in the first round and threw plenty of leather in each other's direction, most of the wallops taking effect. Bunker Hill hit Spivey with everything but the gym water bucket, but the hardest of blows never seemed to phase him. In fact, Spivey, to show his contempt for Hill, thrust out his chin promiscuously; Hill very obligingly hit it for him often and hard.

Both battlers put up a whale of a fight and it has been a long time since your writer has seen so much leather thrown in six rounds as those two boys threw. It was a real crowd-pleaser, and Hill deserved to cop the decision. It is this kind of a fight that makes a crowd feel that it is too bad that someone has to lose.

Tut Taylor won a close decision over Charley White in the featured four round bout. Taylor punched fast and beat his opponent to the punch most of the time. Notwithstanding, the fight was very close, and had Tut not put on such a strong finish, the bout would probably have been declared a draw.

A right hook in a clinch ended

(Please turn to page 8)

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT

RATES REASONABLE

Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062

DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

TANK PLAYERS CONQUER C. H. S.

By JACK GIBNEY

The Golden Tornado of the 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) met and defeated the Blue Devils of Columbus High in a closely fought game at the High school gymnasium, Tuesday afternoon. The high school team put up a game fight and led the Tankers through most of the first half, but the boys from Benning caught their stride after the intermission and downed their opponents, 42-35.

The Tankers were quite evidently puzzled by the small size of the court, which cramped their style of a rushing attack system that works very well on the big floor at Benning, but cannot be played to an advantage on a court of smaller size. The flashing close game of the Blue Devils, and their quick and beautiful passing and pivoting also had the Benning basketeers worried during most of the game.

Leavell, of the Tankers, was high point man, with seven field goals and three throws to his credit. Randall, Turner and Kulifkoski also showed up well for the invaders. Garrett, Parks and Kirkland looked good for Columbus, but the man who outshone anything on the floor was the fast, fighting, game little forward by the name of Horton who accounted for 14 points of Columbus' total.

Handicap Tennis Tournament Near Completion Now

All handicap tennis tournaments should be completed by the end of this week, weather permitting. Only two more matches of any note remain to be played, the finals of the Men's Singles and the finals of the Mixed Doubles Tournament. The courts, which have been in poor condition lately because of the rainy season, are gradually being improved.

The finals of the Men's Handicap Tennis Tournament will be played between Captain Drake, post champion, and Captain Bassett, who ranks second. Captain Bassett advanced to the finals by hard-fought victories over Lieut. C. K. Harding and Major Irving, the semi-finalist.

Harding went into the match with Bassett with a slight handicap. The play was exceptionally close. Harding, who combined a fast service with a smashing driving game, pushed his seeded opponent to the limit. The score of the first set was 10-8, in favor of Bassett. The second set was practically a duplication of the first, but Bassett finally prevailed by the score of 7-5, winning the match and earning the right to oppose Major Irving in the semi-finals.

The match with Major Irving was the best of the tournament to date. Both players were in fine form and

(Please turn to page 8)

You'll Enjoy . . .

Collins' Bakery products, combining goodness, deliciousness, and wholesomeness all in these rich brown loaves!

COLLINS' BAKERY

1044 13th Street Phone 4421

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

Try

Private Locker

EXTRA PALE DRY

Ginger Ale

Sold At

Grocery Dept. and Soda Fountain

POST EXCHANGE

Paid | Free | Paid | Free | Paid | Free | Paid | Free | Paid | Free

COMPLIMENTS OF

Boston Shoe Factory

1234 Broadway Phone 565

2 FOR 1 OFFER

When you have a pair of leather taps put on your shoes bring this card and for one Paid Pair we will give One Free.

Paid | Free | Paid | Free | Paid | Free | Paid | Free | Paid | Free

Call at the Boston Shoe Factory for this card. It will save you $3.75

WANTED
12 oz. Green Ginger Ale bottles as Canada Dry or Rums Dry type.
M. SNYDER
1020 1st Ave. Columbus, Ga.

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

Delivered daily to the Fort
HARPER'S DRUGS
Telephone 396

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$100,000.00
Surplus ---------- 65,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

Howard Bus Line, Inc.
Operating Under Government Franchise
Bond and Liability Insurance Provided
SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES
410 PHONES 224
CITY POST

TENNIS PROSPECTS EXTREMELY BRIGHT

(Continued from page 6)

bus and Fort Benning.

After the opening of school in the fall it is planned to hold the annual handicap tournaments, in which the method of handicapping may be amplified to favor the players of lesser ability. Perhaps the method will permit the handicap points to be taken at the option of the lower ranking player, with one or two restrictions.

There is a larger number of lady players than ever before. The ladies are headed by Mrs. Schneider, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Eagles, Mrs. Keiler and Mrs. Gaston. At present they are holding a "ladder tournament" and may play the finals this week end. There are twenty players on the ladies' ladder and a number of others who play frequently.

The boys' tournaments, held concurrently with men's tournaments furnish some excellent tennis and very keen competition. In the last tournament, George Beatty upset the dope by defeating Dick Tindall and then Julius Evans to get the winner's cup. In the boys' doubles Dick Tindall and Julius Evans nosed out George Beatty and Warren Drake in the finals.

No date has been set for the Boy Scouts' Tournament, but it will probably be announced in the near future.

The cement court recently constructed has been a valuable addition to the six clay courts during this wet weather.

Major Paul W. Newgarden, a member of the Army Central Tennis Committee and at present in the Chief of Infantry's office, was a recent visitor to Benning and was well pleased with the progress and efforts being made. He recommended that "Cum-Back" be introduced and that more batting walls be built. The Cum Back balls have been ordered and as soon as they arrive two Cub Back courts will be available for play. Cum Back should be a help in volleying tennis shots. Due to a lack of funds, it is probable that nothing can be done toward putting up more batting walls at present although the need has long been recognized by the Tennis Committee.

It has not been learned whether Bill Tilden and his associates will accept an engagement to put on an exhibition at Benning this year. His two exhibitions of last year were most welcome additions to local tennis.

Of continuing interest to the local players are the various tennis ladders. There are tennis ladders for men, ladies and boys. On the men's ladder there are thirty-five members and all tournament matches (not handicapped) are "ladder matches." These ladders not only indicate the relative playing abilities but they are a great help to the handicapping committee and they assist players in knowing all of those who will give them the most interesting competition, this is especially helpful to newcomers.

SPORTS CHATTER

(Continued from page 6)

relations between Princeton and Harvard is viewed everywhere as highly desirable. Many are the colorful football battles that have been waged between old Nassau and the Crimson in the day gone by.

And while we are on the subject of football, what about the rules and regulations that are being considered by the powers that be?

Tim O'Mara wants the play for the extra point abandoned because it rarely decides games and is therefore a waste of time. He produced statistics to prove his point. Others want it abandoned because it decides too many games. They produced statistics to prove their point.

O'Mara suggests the overtime period to take the place of the point after touchdown, working on the basis that nobody wants to see a tie game, but would rather see one or the other of the two elevens win.

Tuss McLaughry's suggestion that the kickoff be abandoned at the start of the second half and the ball put into play at the point where the festivities were left off at the end of the first half is another proposal in consideration.

We suggest a moratorium on all rules and regulations for the next ten years. Are we seconded?

HANDICAP TENNIS TOURNAMENT

the gallery was treated to some exceptionally good tennis. The match went to four sets before Bassett was able to win by scores of 6-4, 7-5, 5-7, and 6-3.

Bassett won the first two sets with difficulty to go into an early lead. Irving rallied to take the third set and to temporarily stave off defeat. In the fourth and deciding set, Bassett won 6-3.

Irving's hard service was offset by frequent double faults, while Bassett was not so prone to double fault. The driving game of both players was in top form and both made excellent placements in the course of the long-drawn-out match.

The match to determine the winner of the tournament will find Bassett opposing the post champion, Drake. A close and well-played match should result from the encounter. Bassett has exhibited some fine tennis lately. The two will meet at two o'clock, Saturday afternoon.

The finals of the Mixed Doubles Tournament will be played between Lieut. Lynch and Dorothy Lynch vs. Captain Drake and Mrs. Keiler. The two doubles teams are evenly matched. Mrs. Lynch, the queen of Benning tennis courts, has more than once demonstrated her superiority over others of her sex. The hard driving game of Lieut. Lynch should also be a material aid. On the other hand, the play of Drake and Mrs. Keiler, who is ranked number two in the Ladies' Ladder, is known to be exceptionally good. This match will be played off Sunday afternoon.

The remainder of the handicap tennis tournaments have all been completed.

GRIFFIN WINS DECISION OVER EDGREN

(Continued from Page 6)

but he fought back courageously, as Griffin piled up a big lead.

Round seven—Edgren rushed over from his corner and threw a lot of leather at Griffin as the Benning battler backed up to the ropes. Griffin weathered the storm, and took the offensive in his turn. Edgren covered up as Corn whipped left and rights to the body. A left caught Edgren coming in and the two were in a clinch as the gong sounded.

Round eight—In this round, the cowboy rallied and the fighting was fairly even, a shade to Griffin. The cowboy's punching was not taking effect on the Tanker, and Corn staggered his opponent several times in the course of the round.

Round nine—A right to the chin hurt Edgren, as Corn began shooting both hands like pistons to the head and body. A hard right under the heart shook the cowboy. At the bell, Edgren was absorbing a lot of punishment, and was groggy from the concentrated body attack.

Round ten—The two came to the center of the ring and touched gloves. Frankie was pretty tired by this time and could not move away fast enough to keep out of Corn's way. Griffin kept wading in, trying to put the cowboy away, but Edgren used all his ring lore to good advantage and the Tanker was never able to put across the dreamland wallop. The bell, ending the fight, found both boys tired.

In the fight with Edgren, Griffin once more demonstrated his ability to come back and win a fight after being hurt. The cowboy learned, if he had not already known before, that when Griffin is hurt, he is even more dangerous than when he has been practically untouched.

It was a great battle and topped a great card.

MURPHY OUTBOXES JOHNSON

(Continued from Page 7)

Herman McWilliams interest in the his part of the proceedings for the evening. The blow was administered by Dan Webster, and was all that he needed to win the fight.

The card was a thriller from start to finish, and everyone got their money's worth of genuine fighting.

THINGS CHINESE

(Continued from page 2)

that of a husband for his wife. Then, taking this natural love as a basis, Confucius establishes the doctrine of filial piety, the Canon of which thus sums up the duties of a son:

"The service which a filial son renders his parents is as follows: In his general conduct to them, he manifests the utmost reverence; in his nourishing of them, his endeavor is to give them the utmost pleasure; when they are ill, he feels the greatest anxiety; in mourning for the dead, he exhibits every demonstration of grief; in sacrificing to them, he displays the utmost solemnity. When a son is complete in these five things, he may be pronounced able to serve his parents." But the last analysis of it all is the desire on the part of every man to preserve his name for future generation, and, if he is not able to perform great things, and this be remembered by posterity, he at least may be remembered by a son, a grandson, a great-grandson, and so ad infinitum, in the hope that someone some time, in his line, may make a lasting name for the family. For the individual, the ancestor-worship preserves his name, and for the ethical system it develops the dictrine of filial piety.

Now for the method. When a man decides to build a house, his first consideration would be the ancestral temple. This should be built before the house. The sacrificial dress should be prepared before his own wardrobe, and even though he was cold he should not wear the sacrificial robes for protection. Then he must have sacrificial vessels, and these should be provided before those that he uses for his own family. These vessels should not be sold for the relief of the family in time of poverty. In other words, the things necessary for the worship of their ancestors should take precedence of their daily necessities. Then they should have offerings—and these include everything that heaven and earth produce and should be offered according to the seasons. Of course, poor families cannot have a temple, they may not be able to afford sacrificial robes nor vessels, but they must have tablets, and a sacred place in the home for the tablets, and must perform this worship according to the times and the seasons, the same as those in better circumstances.

Nor is anyone exempt. According to the Law Code of the Ching Dynasty (the Manchu dynasty) all the monks and nuns of the Buddhist and Taoist temples were required to kneel before their parents, to worship their ancestors, and to follow the system of mourning prescribed for the people. If they did not obey this law, they might be punished with one hundred blows with the long stick, and be driven from their monastery to their home. This shows the importance the Chinese attach to ancestor-worship. They allowed every one to have freedom of belief, but they compelled all to perform these social and ethical duties. "Therefore, according to this view of the Chinese, ancestor-worship is not a religious rite, but a social and ethical obligation."

(To Be Continued)

RUBBER STAMPS
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.
24 HR. SERVICE
PHONE 556

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus --$ 400,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

ARMY NAVY
TRADE MARK
Demand
N. S. MEYER, INC.
Military Insignia
and Uniform
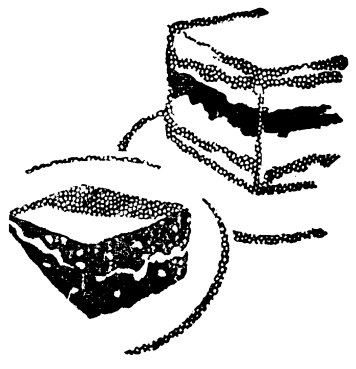
Equipment
Our merchandise is made of finest quality materials and best workmanship. It carries an unlimited guarantee of satisfaction.
AT YOUR POST EXCHANGE
N. S. MEYER, INC.
NEW YORK

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning
through the
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED



You'll Find It At All Parties!
Clever hostesses always pick Foremost because it saves time and trouble and is acceptable at all times!
Call the
SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1933 — NUMBER 40

TOWN TOPICS

Punsters have been reviled and persecuted by men—and women too—since punning first came into vogue back in the Stone Age. It is said that the first pun dropped from the lips of an unthinking female at the expense of her caveman-husband, who promptly subjected his spouse to a vigorous shampoo in the course of which every hair in her head was pulled out by the roots.

Nevertheless, there is always something to be said in favor of a good punster. For example, a dearth of water glasses at the 29th Mess caused a jar labeled "Quince Jelly" to be filled full of water and placed in front of Lieutenant Marshall Hurt. Lieutenant Hurt spied the improvised water glass and was inspired. Said Punster Hurt: "Gentlemen, I am now about to quince my thirst."

* * *

The ambition of every bridge player is to hold a perfect hand—thirteen cards of any denomination. The ambition of every golf bug is to some day make a hole-in-one. Neither ambition is realized very often.

Colonel Munson of the 24th foot prepared to tee off from the fourth hole. He swung, and the ball arched gracefully nto the ozone. It was a beautiful drive and the colonel was delighted. It greatly increased his chances of shooting somewhere near par on the hole.

The ball began its lazy descent, lit on the edge of the green, and rolled for the cup. The joy of Colonel Munson knew no bounds. Suddenly the ball disappeared from the face of the earth as there was a sharp but distinct "click". (Of course, from where Colonel Munson was standing, he could not possibly have head the sharp "click", but it quite obvious that unless this important detail is mentioned in this recital, the story would lose some of its atmosphere of intense drama. Certainly no one will be brazen enough to deny that there was a sharp "click".)

Let the name of Colonel Munson be inscribed in letters of gold on the immortal list of those who have made holes-in-one. It is fitting thus.

* * *

Before the 29th Infantry dance floor was improved, it was no uncommon sight, from all reports we have heard, to see a young lady, in the course of a jazzy dance number, detach herself from her partner's arms, and pluck forth from her foot a splinter which had become inbedded therein. It is perfectly obvious that this operation could not take place in tune to the strains of music.

This was embarrassing not only to the young lady but to her escort. It failed to come under the head of true romance. Besides, it had the effect of dampening the enthusiasm of everybody present at the dance. Joy was not unconfined. A carefree atmosphere did not hover over all. Instead was present that awful, ghastly, intagible fear of splinters. Let it be said that the prospect of picking up a splinter here and there was not conductive to the greatest of mirth.

Now all has been remedied. Once nore the dancers can cavort on the floor with reckless abandon as in times of yore.

Company Officers Win Expert Rating In Bayonet Tests

Lt. Thomas W. Hammond, Jr., Leads Class of 122 With Perfect Score of Sixty

Making a perfect score of sixty, and running the course in thirty-one seconds flat, nine seconds under the time allowed, Lieutenant Thomas W. Hammond, Jr., led the one hundred and twenty-two members of the company officers class which completed the qualification tests with the bayonet which won them the title of expert.

Lieutenant William G. Stephenson turned in a perfect score with an elapsed time of thirty-one and three-fifth seconds, and Lieutenants Francis E. Gillete, Walter M. Johnson, and Herbert A. Murphy each scored sixty in thirty-two seconds flat. Speed characterized the performance of the entire class in running the test course, there being but eight seconds difference in the time of the one hundred and two successful competitors.

The bayonet qualification test is one of the most difficult physical activities encountered in the training of the officers at The Infantry School during their nine month term. Speed, accuracy, strength, and endurance are required in order to finish successfully the test which is designed as a climax to the long period of physical training with the bayonet. The maximum time allowed for the running of the one hundred yard course is forty seconds. The competitor starts from a prone position, and attacks with a prescribed parry thrust or stroke each of the eight dummies representing opponents, which he encounters at different intervals along the route. After delivering his attack on the last figure the competitor runs fifteen yards to a firing line, where he is required to fire two shots, at two targets representing the fleeing figure of an enemy.

"Miss Lulu Bett" Is Third Play Of Dramatic Season

The Infantry School Dramatic Club will present "Miss Lulu Bett", a comedy in three acts by Zona Gale, on Friday and Saturday, the tenth and eleventh of February. The production will be the third of the current school year, following "Pomeroy's Past" and "Cock Robin".

Mrs. Orestes Cleveland is directing the play, with Mrs. James E. Totten assisting. Mrs. Cleveland will be remembered as the director of "Pomeroy's Past" and as Maria Scott in "Cock Robin", "the girl with the camera eye."

"Miss Lulu Bett" is an unusual type of play, completely revolutionizing the theatre. It portrays a typical American family and at all times steers clear of the pitfall of artificiality, which is the failing of most of the present day productions. It won the Pulitzer prize in 1921.

Army Air Hero

Private Arden Farley, of Selfridge Field, who was designed the outstanding hero of the U. S. Army Air Corps for 1932. Farley was recently given the Cheney Award for his valor in dragging a comrade from a burning plane after he had extricated himself. The award was made by Army air officers at Washington, D. C.

Team Shows High Individual Scores

A compilation of shooting records, completed on Saturday by Lieut. Lynn E. Brady, team coach, show a number of exceptionally high individual scores in the ten-man, small bore, team match with which the 29th Infantry opened its winter series on Friday afternoon, January 20.

The two matches in which the 29th Infantry riflemen fired are being conducted by the National Rifle Association, in which a nation-wide group of clubs, both military and civilian, affiliated with the association, are competing.

In the first match, termed the individual standing and kneeling, N. R. A. free rifle match, open to all member-clubs, civilian or military, the aggregate score of the ten entries was 6972. Sergeant Lawrence A. Beck, and Corporal Charles A. Wills, both of Company A, tied for high score in the off-hand position, each with a total of 94 of a possible 100 points.

In the second match, limited to military organizations which are affiliated with the N. R. A., the ten competitors turned in an aggregate score of 6642. In this match Sergeant Beck made the highest score in the standing position, 95. Ser-

(Please turn to page 4)

Information On 1933 Tags Not Available Yet

Mr. W. E. Austell, who is in charge of the Automobile Department, Post Exchange, Fort Benning, has announced in answer to a large number of requests, that he will be unable to supply any information regarding the projected three dollar rate on auto tags until the Georgia Legislature acts on the question. As soon as the information is available announcement to that effect will be made.

Lt. Colonel Whitley Leaves In May To Become Military Attache At Belgrade

29th Infantry Officer To Fill Important Post As Assistant To Ministers Of Three Balkan Countries

Lieutenant Colonel F. Langley Whitley, 24th Infantry, has been selected by the war department to become American military attache for the European countries of Yugoslavia, Greece, and Rumania. Colonel Whitley will be stationed at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and will also assist the American ministers at Athens, Greece, and Bucharest, Rumania.

Colonel Whitley, accompanied by his family, will depart from Fort Benning early in May, and prior to proceeding to Europe, he will be on duty for a short time in the office of the chief of staff for military intelligence, in Washington, D. C. which has supervision over military attaches.

The new assignment of Colonel Whitley is the second which has been given him in a similar capacity. From 1921 to 1924 he was American military attache to Brazil, and while on that duty he explored the Amazon region in Brazil and traveled extensively over South America. Although French was used as the official language in diplomatic circles in Rio De Janeiro, Colonel Whitley learned to converse fluently in Portuguese, the people's language, during his travels, his previous knowledge of Italian aiding him greatly in the acquirement of the new tongue.

Colonel Whitley came to Fort Benning in July, 1932, shortly after his graduation from a two-year course at the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and was assigned to the 24th Infantry. In October, 1932, he was enrolled as a student in the refresher course, and upon his graduation returned to his regimental duties.

When the 2nd Division was sent overseas in 1918 Colonel Whitley commanded a battalion of the 9th Infantry, with which he served until the latter part of July. He commanded his battalion with distinction during the fight at Belleau Woods, and for conspicuous bravery received the silver star citation. Later he was transferred to the General Staff School at Langres, and afterward was assigned to General Pershing's headquarters. There he became one of the key men of the staff and all correspondence, orders, and written instructions prepared in general headquarters were submitted to Colonel Whitley for approval before being sent to General Pershing for signature.

Colonel Whitley began his military career as a cadet in the United States Military Academy in June, 1904. He was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in February, 1908; was promoted to first lieutenant in September, 1914; and to captain in May, 1917. In January, 1918 he was promoted to the temporary rank of major, and on July 1, 1920, received his permanent appointment in that grade, and on June 1, 1932 was promoted to his present rank of lieutenant colonel.

In addition to a silver star citation awarded for bravery, Colonel Whitley holds the Distinguished Service medal which he received for other conspicuously meritorious services.

SmallDamageDone In Fire Friday At 83rd F.A.Barracks

A stubborn but trivial fire, as far as monetary loss was concerned, occurred at Fort Benning, Friday night, in the store room of Battery A, 83rd Field Artillery. When firemen of two companies arrived at 9:32 they found dense quantities of smoke belching from the new artillery barracks in which Battery A is quartered.

A crew of firemen who attacked the flames from the basement was unable to remain in the smoke-filled room and retired to fight the blaze from another direction. In the smoke and darkness which filled the basement, it was not noticed that one member of the group was missing until several minutes later, when Private Henry E. Shadrick, of Station No. 1, returning to check up on the hose-line, stumbled over the unconscious form of Private Jorome Murphy, also of Station No. 1 Shadwick, himself choked by smoke, groped his way out and gave the alarm. Private Willis J. Patrick, and Joe F. Beaver made their way into the basement with difficulty, and rescued Murphy, who was rushed in an ambulance to the Fort hospital, where he was resucitated.

Captain Wilbur S. Elliot, fire marshal, stated that the two soldiers had exhibited great courage in rescuing Murphy, and that he expected to institute action which would secure for them official recognition of their bravery.

The fire was extinguished after a fight of about half an hour. Damage to the building was very slight, and the loss of the clothing and other articles burned was estimated at about $250.

Elaborate Effects Achieved In Show

The hearts of old and young alike were delighted at the two performances of Tony Sarg's marionettes in the afternoon and evening of Friday, January the twentieth. The afternoon performance, adapted especially for children, was a composite playlet entitled "The Merry-go-Round", made up of experts from "Alice in Wonderland", and other familiar childhood legends. The evening production was "Sinbad the Sailor".

Glowing advance accounts of the marionette show were not exaggerated. The intricate puppets, created and costumed by Tony Sarg, were works of art and the large audience was amazed and delighted with them.

Twenty-eight principal players, in addition to several minor characters, and a variety of animals, including an elephant, camel, donkeys, horses, sheep, and dogs appeared in the cast. The characters were arrayed in costumes appropriate to the time and locale protrayed by the story, and the stage reflected scenes of oriental splendor.

Before the curtain rose on the first scene, a miniature puppet was given away to the person who held the lucky number. Lieut. McNulty proudly stepped up to the stage to receive

(Please turn to page 5)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Medical Corps Holds Organization Dinner Last Sunday

One of the most delightful affairs of this week was the organization dinner which the Medical Corps held Sunday evening at the Officers' Club. The dinner was held in the lounge of the Club. The hostesses were Mesdames Homer L. Conner, Roy L. Bodine, Albert G. Kinberger, and Stanley W. Matthews. After dinner the guests were escorted to the Post movie.

The guest list included the officers and wives and the nurses of the Medical Corp on duty at the Station Hospital.

* * *

SPECIAL UNITS BRIDGE CLUB MET ON TUESDAY

The monthly meeting of the Special Units bridge club was held on Tuesday evening at the Polo Hunt Club. Six tables of bridge assembled at eight p. m. and played until eleven when coffee and sandwiches were served. Preceding the bridge party, several informal dinners were held. Among those entertaining at dinner were: Capt. and Mrs. Clough F. Gee and Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Barnett.

* * *

MISS ELIZABETH WOOD HONORED AT PICNIC

Miss Elizabeth Wood, the attractive house guest of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. James B. Woolnough, was the honor guest Tuesday evening at a picnic supper given by Miss Harriotte Atkins and Miss Nancy Stillwell at the woodland camp belonging to the Atkins'. The young group motored out to the camp at six where a picnic supper was served. The guest list included a few friends of the honoree.

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLD MONTHLY BRIDGE PARTY

The monthly meeting of the Bridge Section of the Woman's Club was held on Monday afternoon at the Polo Hunt Club. Twelve tables of progressive contract bridge were played from two to five. The prize for the highest score going to Mrs. Charles R. Sargent, and the second prize to Mrs. Raymond W. Pearson.

* * *

CAPT. AND MRS. GEE ENTERTAIN BEFORE SPECIAL UNITS BRIDGE PARTY

Capt. and Mrs. Clough F. Gee were the hosts Tuesday evening to a few of their friends preceding the Special Units bridge party that was held at the Polo Hunt Club. Their guests were: Col. and Mrs. Fred L. Munson, Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Weeks and others.

* * *

MISS BEYRER AND MISS RYAN HONOR GUESTS AT TEA

Miss Edna Beyrer and Miss Lillian Ryan shared honors Saturday afternoon at a tea given by the nurses of the Fourth District at "Esquiline," the charming ancestral home of the Levy's. Tea was served from three to five. In the dining room the color scheme was yellow and green. A lovely bowl of yellow daffodils flanked by yellow tapers was used. Yellow and green mints completed the appointments. Receiving the guests were: Mrs. Levy, Mrs. Lionel Levy, Miss Beyrer and Miss Ryan. The guest list included the nurses of the Fourth District and the nurses of Fort Benning. Miss Beyrer will leave shortly for her new station at Tripler General Hospital in Hawaii.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. FERENBAUGH ENTERTAIN AT INFORMAL CHILI PARTY

Lieut. and Mrs. Claude G. Ferenbaugh were the hosts Saturday evening at their quarters at an informal chili party to a few of their friends. After dinner bridge was enjoyed.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. SMYTH AND LIEUT. AND MRS. BLACK ENTERTAIN WITH NOVEL TREASURE HUNT

Lieut. and Mrs. Thaddeus E. Smyth and Lieut. and Mrs. Claude A. Black were the joint hosts Friday evening at a novel treasure hunt. The treasure seekers assembled at Lieut. and Mrs. Black's residence in Columbus where they started by motor for the treasure hunt.

At the beginning of the hunt, each guest was presented with a clue in the form of an amusing pun which led to another until the treasure was located. After the treasure had been discovered by Lieut. and Mrs. Felix A. Todd, and Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Purcell, the guests assembled at the Smyth's residence where a midnight supper was served. The hosts had as their guests about twenty of their friends from Fort Benning and Columbus.

* * *

MRS. CLEVELAND ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Orestes Cleveland entertained for her contract bridge club Friday with a delightful luncheon at the Officers' Club. After luncheon the guests proceeded to the card room of the Club where two tables of contract were enjoyed.

* * *

MRS. E. W. LEWIS HOSTESS TO HER SON ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Eugene W. Lewis was the hostess Wednesday to her son, Eugene Walter Lewis, Jr., with a delightful party on the occasion of the celebration of his sixth birthday. The young guests arrived at three o'clock. Games and contests were enjoyed until five when a beautiful white tiered birthday cake accompanied by ice cream and candy was served. Eugene's guest list included: Mary Gabriel, Jane Decker, Judith Dunkleberg, Jane Warden, Dorothy Kamm, Margery Wheeler, Gayle Wilson, Jean Dunkleberg, Franklin Gaillard, Jim Kamm, Lewis Baird, Phillip Blackmore and Edward Blackmore.

Garden Section Of Womans Club Will Hold Meeting Jan. 30

The Garden Section of the Infantry School Woman's Club will hold a special meeting at 2:00 p. m., Monday January 30th, at the quarters of Mrs. Frank A. Heileman, chairman of the Garden Section.

PERSONALS

Maj. and Mrs. Henry C. Gilchrist have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rosenthal of Chicago, Ill. Many parties have been planned for the guests.

Friends of Miss Edna Beyrer will regret to learn that she left on Tuesday for Tripler General Hospital in Hawaii where she has been ordered for station. Miss Beyrer has spent four years at Fort Benning as head nurse at the Station Hospital.

Miss Lillian J. Ryan arrived at Fort Benning last week to relieve Miss Edna Beyrer as head nurse at the Station Hospital. Miss Ryan arrived here from West Point where she was head nurse. Miss Ryan has with her, her neice, Miss Ann Ryan.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. James B. Woolnough have as their house guest, Miss Elizabeth Wood of St. Paul, Minn., for a few weeks.

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

On Saturday, the 21st, those of our troop that were not busy with the Cyclist badge went on a hike to a spot near the golf course. We divided into two groups, the first laying the trail, and the other following after ten minutes' wait. Since I was in the second group. I know how long those ten minutes were. They finally passed ,and we set out, following arrows, piles of stones, tied grasses and a broom, which someone had kindly placed in the right direction!

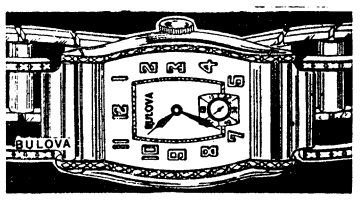
We finally arrived at a well-chosen spot in the shade, for which we were very thankful after that long tramp in the sun! The cooked angels-on-horseback and marshmallows which we also ate, believe me!

On Saturday two more girls went through what every Scout seems to

(Please turn to page 5)

FREE

$3.75 Parker Pencil to match any $5.00 Parker Pen bought at our store until Feb. 15.



The BULOVA "AMBASSADOR"

Convenient Payments Arranged

Gem Jewelry Co.

1200 Broadway Phone 339

A limited supply of handwoven Baquio linens on sale beginning Feb. 1st. Bedspreads, lunch sets, curtain goods, and all types of linen made entirely by hand. 50c to $3.50.

A small shipment of hand embroidered voile dresses from Manila with long sleeves. Spring colors—Navy, Tan and Black—$6.95 to $9.95.

The Philippine Handwork Shop

Opposite Wynnton School

NOTICE

Our Three Grade Prices ON SHOE REPAIRING Have Proven Satisfactory To The Public

We wish to thank you for your patronage.

1st A good half sole ..... 50c

2nd A Better half sole ..... 75c

3rd LAMAC SOLE ..... $1.00

Every Job Guaranteed

We have the only 5-unit machine in the city.

EXPERT DYEING

25 Colors to select from.

BOSTON SHOE FACTORY

Phone 565 1234 Broadway

We Call For And Deliver

PERMANENTS

French oil waves, complete, for five days only. $2.00

This coupon good for $1 on our regular $3 French Oil Wave

Plain Shampoo.... 25c

Finger Wave Dried..... 25c

Henna Pack..... 75c

Hot Oil Shampoo... 75c

New Beauty Shoppe

MRS. R. G. DIETZ, Prop.

Phone 9286 1106 1-2 Broadway

(Over Mangel's)

Your Opportunity . . .

For One Week Only

Coming direct to us from the famous 5th Avenue Salon on January 30th to February 4th inclusive, we will have in our toilet goods department, Miss Hueston, representing Kathleen Mary Quinlan, a stylist in beauty and a genius in diagnosis of skin problems. It is a genuine pleasure that the opportunity is ours to offer the ladies of Columbus and Fort Benning the valuable instruction and advice of Miss Hueston, back of which are tireless years of experience and glorious years of success.

By calling for an appointment, you may enjoy a complimentary Freshen-up treatment, and with a purchase of $2.00 or more, of any preparation, you will also receive a $3.00 gift jar of Miss Quinlan's wonderful Strawberry Cream Mask.

Call 362 and Mrs. Warren will gladly arrange an appointment at any time between 8:00 and 6:00 p. m. A private booth has been provided for your comfort.

SUZANNE WARREN DEPARTMENT

(With Alsobrook's)

Fort Benning Personnel -- -- Compare Our Prices Before Buying Furniture.

End Tables 69c Card Tables 75c

6x9 Linoleum Rugs $3.95

Spot Chairs $4.75 Rockers $5.00

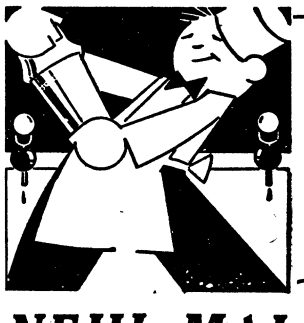
Windsor Chairs $6.50, $7.50, $10.00

CASH or TERMS

Phone 4618 1249 Broadway

B. L. Pennell Furniture Company

"WE SAVE YOU DOLLARS"



TRY THIS!

Uncap NEHI MALTED CHOCOLATE. Pour into cocktail shaker or electric mixer. Add crushed ice. Shake well. Serve contents of one bottle in large glasses to two people.

NEHI MALTED CHOCOLATE On Sale

AT ALL CANTEENS—BUY IT BY THE CASE

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

ODE TO A MARKED PROBLEM
By Major Charles R. Johnson, Jr.,
Cavalry, U. S. A.

Another day, another dollar,
Another "U", another holler.

* * *

At 1:25 p. m., 16 January, the First Section, Field Marshal Pete von Bonham commanding, launched its long expected offensive, the first objective being Green Hill. Aware since September 1932 that the attack was coming, the defending forces, commanded by 105 officers of the Advanced Class, had accomplished considerable in the line of consolidation of positions. However, the nerves of the troops were shaky, their morale tottery. The First Section swept over Green Hill within forty minutes after the zero hour, driving gasping and bewildered defenders into the woods south of Reynolds Hill. Here a second vicious attack was launched. The defense crumbled completely and the defending force withdrew in complete disorganization by motor toward Kriz Hall (15.23-20.65, Fire Control Map, Fort Benning) foaming at its collective month. Manly tears, bounced from manly chests, so moistened the First Division road between Reynolds Hill and Kriz Hall as to render that artery of travel impassible for several days.

Captain "Sotto Voce" Anderson, riding to the scene of the battle in the first bus, whispered to his motorized companions that he was certain the problem would deal with a field army delousing unit in a river crossing at sunset. Overhearing Anderson's whispered conversation, Captain "Muggsy" Miller, ensconced in the eighth bus, bespoke himself as follows: "I have diligently G-2'd the situation. Major Bonham is in the academic Ford; that means machine guns. There are no horses; that means a small unit. Last week one afternoon I saw Pete Bonham move by motor over toward Green Hill with an anticipatory but evil glint in his eye; that means Green Hill. The whole class thinks its going to be a defense problem; that means attack. So it's a machine gun outfit in attack at Green Hill. That guy Anderson is full of pecans". In such manner did "Muggsy" get himself a max. on the prologue of the afternoon's entertainment, his first and last approach to a max. that mournful evening.

* * *

Groggy from the blows administered by the First Section, the bowlers of the Advanced Class dragged their weary torsos into the bowling alleys at 4:15 p. m., where they proceeded to take a nifty shellacking at the hands of the Infantry School Headquarters in three consecutive contests. Working on the basis that two whiffs results in extraction from the line-up, team captain, Major "Sometimes Misses a Spare" Andrews, replaced his players with reckles abandon, with the result that all the pin crashers present saw action, if only enough to make their two whiffs. Among the rollers were little "Herbie" Harris, "Crooney" Croonquist, "Big" Fry, Jackson, Caygill, and Huntington. Major Andrews also extracted Major Andrews from the line up. The only respectable tally of the afternoon was a 206 rolled by "Hi" Fry, the respectable score having been preceded by one of another hue.

* * *

When, during his conference on "There Are No Rules, Gentlemen", Major Evans asked his fourteenth "What Would You Do?" one a. m. last week, Captain "You-Can't-Play-On-My-Team" Gayle was heard to mutter: "Having tried everything else without getting anywhere, this time I'd punt".

* * *

Another of the week's mutters was that emitted by Captain "I-Gotta-Another-Half-Minute" Bassett who expostulated: "You can't beat the School! One bird gets up on that platform and sez he doesn't give a whoop whether you know how many men or companies there are in a regiment; the next bozo mounts the rostrum expects you to memorize not only how much ammunition is carried by every member of the squad, but how many commas and semi-colons!"

* * *

The powers-that-be pulled a brilliant move when they so altered last week's schedule as to offer for the class approval Captain "The Great" Hones the morning-after two marked guessing contests. With Bill's "Good morning, gentlemen" the morale of fifty percent of the students was immediately restored to forty percent of normal. Although no study references had been given for the conference, questions were answered with amazing promptness and correctness. The only deviation from the book was made by Captain "Daddy" Fox who used "those" for "these".

* * *

We know not how Ross, David, M. N., Captain, Infantry, stands in the point scramble, but his G-two-ing of the bus situation is amazing. Not once has he failed to make a max. on obtaining the front seat of the first motor vehicle headed home.

* * *

As, none too alertly, Colonel (emergency) "Georgie" Clark arose to answer Major Heileman's interrogation as to what the Blues would like to know about the Red's balloons, seat-mate Grover Brandt, beholding bewilderment of his pal, prompted the latter with: "Hist, George, hist; whether they are aggressive or cautious balloons".

* * *

There will be no pleasure riding during the next few weeks by members of the Advanced Class on account of the hosses are being used by the Company Officers for military purposes.

* * *

Speaking of horses—and, on that subject, we have a way of speaking—it is really too bad that Major Heileman did not get down to discussion of that paragraph of T. R. 195-40 (twelfth line from the bottom on page 53 to you, "Colonel" Clark) which states: "Even horses may be camouflaged by painting on them irregular stripes with whitewash tinted with potassium permanganate". Captain "Ph. D". Colby had brewed up a subtle question which ran to the effect: "Question. Is the purpose of this manipulation of horse skin simply to ruin the breeches of the riders? Or, may I ask, is it to deceive the enemy into believing that we are being scattered over the terrain by zebras, thus creating the deception that a campaign actually being waged in Greenland really is being fought in Zululand?"

Submerged Old Sleuth.

Mrs. Fuller's Class To Give Recital

The pupils of Mrs. J. S. Fuller, of Fort Benning, will present a radio program over radio station WRBL on Saturday afternoon, January 28, at 3:30 o'clock. This music class has given other programs over the same station and has shown a great deal of ability.

ROLLER SKATES

CHICAGO ROLLER-BEARING
ADJUSTABLE SKATES
PAIR $1.65

JOHNSON'S GLO-COAT

. . . a marvelous new floor finish that needs no rubbing or finishing. Easy to apply, dries quickly, gives a brilliant luster, and can be used on nearly any floor-covering.

8-GALLON
Garbage Cans
$1.00 each

12-INCH
WOODEN MUNISING
Chopping Bowls
75c

SPLIT VENEER
CLOTHES HAMPERS
$1.19

WM. BEACH HARDWARE CO.
1020 BROADWAY

THE POST EXCHANGE

The Post Exchange is an institution founded to supply the personnel of this post with a service which will provide necessities not easily obtainable in any other way.

THE POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING, GA.
The Post Exchange is not authorized to sell to any person not in the military service.

PHONE 183 FOR

The best in Drugs, Soda, Cigars and Toiletries

We are Open All Hours On Sunday

We ask our Fort Benning Friends To Visit Us.

MORGAN DRUG CO., INC.
14 - 13th Street — Opposite Waverly Hotel

Chancellor Company

Reminds you that their Stock Liquidation

SALE

will continue through next week to take care of their many friends of FORT BENNING

Large Lot of Suits and Overcoats
1-2 Off
$10.75 to $17.50

Everything To Wear For Men and Boys
Now
1-3 to 1-2 Off

A Pleasure To Show You

CHANCELLOR CO.
Men's and Boys' Wear

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II JANUARY 27, 1933 NUMBER 40

L. C. Kunze ---------- Publisher
A. F. Kunze ---------- Editor
Felicia C. Howell ---------- Society Editor
D. P. Harding ---------- Sports Editor
John W. Pearce ---------- Advertising Manager
Louis T. Kunze ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject any advertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

LIEUTENANT PEEP'S DIARY

Wednesday, January 18

Off to the bayonet races this morning. I won the second heat after having been boxed on every turn and decisively defeated in the first heat by the judges. The situation did mind me of a man who, having wagered on a horse race, stationed himself at the last turn. As his horse rounded the turn, long after all the others, the man pointed down the straightaway and yelled "They went that way!"

An afternoon of communications in the field at which I had hoped to be the phantom operator, on the buzzer-phone which had been symptomed onto a phantom telephone line. That I was not so selected can surely not be due to the committee's desire for a cadaverous appearing specimen for my ribs do now saw rents in my shirt. Mayhap they are saving me (along with Gus Regnier) for an emergency heliographer, signals to be transmitted by removing the hat and inclining the head toward the sun.

Thursday, January 19

A most enjoyable day on the Second Section's annual picnic. Myself, with Yanga and Stika were a battalion wire party and we did agree that the joke was on someone but could not decide just who. Our wire chief, Luckett, sending us out on our first mission did exhort us "Now you monkeys stay out of the trees for the next half hour."

It is bruited about the class that Luckett did not qualify on the bayonet course yesterday, the judges having failed to bring out a 1934 calendar.

Friday, January 20

A four hour session this morning under Captain Lucas. He has me doing it now. So long have I been under his influence that I am hawf half the time and half the other hawf.

The class much exercised over the writ on grenades this day, the general opinion being that whoever would write such questions could put on a silk topper and walk upright under a duck. I cannot concur in this opinion, inclining more toward an ant. For myself I cannot yet be sure that the examination was on the subject of grenades since the questions involved situations where the exclusive use was required of every known weapon excepting only the sixteen-inch railway gun and the slingshot. The Infantry Board is doubtless scouting for ideas but I do think that information on general subjects should not be asked for during writs on specific ones. I can but hope that my answer to the bayonet question (which by a stub of the toe turned out correct) in this examination will gain me a slight modicum of credit in the bayonet writ which followed and which I did most woefully mangle.

And so to see the Marionette Show which is more in keeping with my mental state and capabilities.

Saturday, January 21

Lay late abed pondering this and that and in special the statement by a member of the rifle committee to the class that in case of war we should be the backbone of the army. And my thought tinged with some regret that he had not answered McComas' question as to which end of the backbone he meant.

I did recall, too, Bus Howard's lament that in hunting the reservation over with a shot-gun he has yet to flush any quail but on the communications problem of Thursday last he did flush two large coveys, he being at the time armed with Signal Corps knife and pliers.

Monday, January 23

Only two examinations today! It is necessary for me at times to consult the schedule for assurance that examinations are not more numreous than recitations. Finished at last with the Communications Group and the Rifle Committee for which I do thank God. And if there be any health in either of them they might now be grinding their bicuspids over their persistent and unsuccessful efforts to break the morale of the class.

Lt. Murphy did shed a tear for that this was his last day with any Company Officers' Class but, Lord, it is neither sensible nor credible that it should give rise to tears.

Nine mimeo pages of dope out on our fifteen minute speeches. The list of available subjects does savor of the fine Italian hand of one Lanham who no doubt chose for inclusion such titles as "Should the junior infantry officer be sufficiently proficient in the Morse code to teach it to enlisted personnel?" and "Why wave a red flag at a bull?"

I did find every conceivable topic listed except "The relative superiority of the tub over the shower bath" which I should enjoy to hear discussed. It might even (and quite appropriately) be set to music.

Boxes of El Ropos and Las Cabbajas in the orderly room today in announcement of a new number 1 (Gunner) in the W. G. Johnson household, and another link in the Jones chain. Well, anyhow the Johnsons are keeping up with the Joneses.

Tuesday, January 24

At indirect laying again and I do devoutly hope that I am never called upon to calculate and fire the same problem during a single war. Scant as it is, however, I believe my understanding of the subject to be superior to Gaither's who, when called upon for an even number of mils, promptly suggested 13.

To equitation for the first time and at the conclusion of the hour Zwicker announced that he was no longer a second lieutenant but a chafe-tale.

Wednesday, January 25

The day begun in good fashion by monographers from the senior class, Captains Caygill and Ward; but ended in dejection after an invitation of three hours' standing to inspect the Infantry School Stables. Mayhap the Horse Group is collaborating with the Fourth Section in an endeavor to get us to think on our feet.

Further dejection administered by the return of direct laying and bayonet examination papers wherein (thru the medium of red marks) I was apprised of two major errors. In a bayonet exhibit I did most erroneously say that the man was not crouched when the correct answer was that his knees were not bent. I did, however, err more grievously in machine gun direct laying by giving fire distribution as "Scissors and search." The correction read "Fire distribution incorrect; should be "Scissors and search."

And so to Matteawan via the Infantry School.

—Lieut. Peep.

Offhand... Observations

By McGoofus

Volley ball and horseshoes: The Tank Class has taken up the volley ball and horseshoe habit. After their second day's play, the excellent volley ball which had been provided became known as "the grease ball". Not hard to understand why. The company officers call the tank team "the piston heads." Many implications could be read into that. The advance officers have best solved the problem of how to enjoy a smoke and get in ten minutes exercise during one break. They smoke while they play and judging from the way they have been trouncing the teams of the more juvenile classes, evidently they play better while they smoke. Age, weight and tricky joints don't mean a thing, it's all a matter of head work—so they will tell you.

* * *

Throughout the country, there seems to be a reactionary trend towards things that are old. The ladies are wearing leg-of-mutton sleeves and the bicycle and horse are coming back. Does this mean that ere long officers will again be wearing full beards?

Which brings to mind a faintly amusing story. The commanding officer of a little post in the fourth corps got his face badly chapped on a hunting expedition so that he was forced to discontinue shaving for a time. At a review shortly thereafter, an old corporal who had been following the colonel about in the service for years, turned up proudly wearing a set of chin whiskers and full mustache.

* * *

Business in the Goofy Statistics department being rather slack, McGoofus set about to make a scientific study of the pests of the common and ever present variety. The object of this undertaking was to discover efficient means of extermination.

The pest for discussion at this session is known as "the U Moaner". They abound in the locker rooms of every class. The time to spot them is immediately before and after each writ for at that time, they are at the height of their virulence. They are easily distinguished as they possess marked characteristics. They are the boys who are always keenly alert in class, always answer their questions correctly and keep and study complete notes. They seldom exhibit returned marked papers but the most diligent search will never reveal one of them with a paper marked other than "S". There is no danger of confusing them with the true "U" markers for the later do not broadcast.

Fortunately, there is an easy and sure means of extermination available. Find the specimen and wait until he begins his song, then flash a five (this is the only difficult part) and offer to bet him the works that he makes an "S".

Note: For the best method of exterminating pseudo-columnist, consult Gunbotham.

RIFLE TEAM SHOWS HIGH INDIVIDUAL SCORING

(Continued From Page 1)

geant Edgar C. Davis, Company E, made the highest score in the sitting position, 99; and Corporals James A. Bales and Vesta G. Hanners, both of Company A, each turned in a perfect score of 100 in the prone position.

The standing of the 29th Infantry in the match just fired will not be known until about May, when all returns of the other competing teams will have been received at N. R. A. headquarters in Washington, D. C. for tabulation.

Commencing February 2, the 29th Infantry regimental small bore team will fire its first match in the national regimental competitions, about three of which will be fired weekly. At the same time the team of Company A will engage in a company team match conducted by the N. R. A. in which company teams of regular and national guard regiments will participate.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

FIELD AND STREAM IDYLL

Home is the sailor, home from the sea
And the hunter home from the hill.
—Stevenson.

A hunting and fishing expedition with which Explorer Chance has anything to do is pretty sure to furnish plenty of Flare copy. His most recent adventure of this nature was no exception. Knowing that it was going to be good, we covered it in person.

The wilds of south Georgia was the week-end objective of some eight well known Benning and Columbus sportsmen. First among them, of course, was the Explorer himself. Second in command, if there may be said to have been one, was Commodore Evans, attended by two colored valets de chambre. Why the Commodore traveled with a retinue is not clear. As far as we observed, the dusky retainers served no useful purpose and between keeping track of them and his two pet pointers, the distinguished navigator hardly had time to do any shooting.

Other members of the party were ex-columnist Munson and Gadgeteer Craig of Fort Benning, and Mr. Tracy Davis, big insurance broker and friend of widows and orphans, Mr. Calvin DesPortes and Mr. William —all prominent citizens of Columbus.

The hunters spent Friday night—or rather that fraction of it before 3:45 A.M.—in a small town tavern with somewhat primitive accommodations. The Explorer and the Commodore occupied the same room. This arrangement, while quite satisfactory to the Commodore who got to sleep first, resulted in a restless night for the Explorer who was kept awake by his roommate's stentorian snoring.

The early morning journey to the hunting grounds was without mishap except for an inopportune flat tire on the car which carried the Explorer and the Commodore. Dawn found the eight Nimrods doing their stuff in the way of plain and fancy shooting—all except the Commodore, whose customary unerring aim was considerable below par. He saw plenty of birds—probably twice as many as anyone else—but he kept shooting between them.

After a morning's sport, the three civilians decided to make a dash for the Gulf Coast for a little fishing. The Explorer, proclaiming loudly that he would rather fish than anything, elected to go along. He had not been especially attentive when the plans of the fishermen were announced and was under the impression that their destination was a lake about ten miles away.

Once aboard the Mr. Desportes station wagon, the weary Explorer succumbed to the demands of outraged Nature and went to sleep. When he woke up, he was in Tallahassee and still traveling. His vehement protests that he had been shanghaied were received with ribald laughter and the car rolled on. And how it rolled! When Mr. DesPortes is headed for somewhere in his station wagon, Sir Malcolm Campbell has nothing on him. Seventy miles an hour is his average cruising speed and that was at least 25 MPH faster than our hero wanted to go on that particular morning.

All things have an end, however, and the fishing foursome finally reached Carribelle-on-the-Gulf. The motor which they had brought along to speed their boat to the fishing ground was quickly attached and all was ready to start—that is, all except the motor. The combined efforts of the four mechanical geniuses composing the party were unable to get so much as a single put-put out of the recalcitrant engine. They finally gave up and tried some nearby fishing but without result. Thoroughlv disgusted, they made a few purchases at a local fish market and set forth on the homeward trek.

While all of this was going on, the birds which Explorer Chance was to bring home for a dinner party were reposing in the warm, closed, rumble seat of Commodore Evans' car. By the time the Explorer made contact with them, they were too high for either guest or family consumption.

Let it not be thought, however, that the intrepid Explorer's two day hunting and fishing expedition was a total loss. Though the birds he shot spoiled and the fish he intended to catch are still swimming in the Gulf, he did not return empty handed. His reputation as a go-getter still stands for he brought home a pail of fresh shrimp.

VALET NEEDED

In his youth, Lieutenant Gene Ridings was something of a playboy but family cares and the responsibilities which attach to commanding a company in the much publicized Demonstration Regiment have slowed him down. He has become so absorbed of late in the serious things of life that he is prone to forget holiday essentials, even when he takes a day off.

For instance, on his short year-end vacation at Radium Springs, he neglected to take along his golf shoes and dinner jacket. As the two objects of the trip were golf and dancing, the Lieutenant was moderately inconvenienced by the failure to include these mportant tems of equipment. That he had taken everything else needed, including shirt studs and golf garters, helped some, but the party was not a success from a sartorial standpoint. One can play golf in dancing shoes but it doesn't improve one's game. Also it is embarrassing to be compelled to wear golf clothes to a formal evening function. We understand that Lieutenant Ridings solved his problem by doing both but he wasn't altogether happy either on the course or on the dance floor.

What really irritated, however, was to find on the bill a charge for "pressing tuxedo."

DOMESTIC PLAYLET

Scene: Lieutenant Zero Wilson's front yard.

Time: After the Gymkhana.

The rise of the curtain discloses a bespectacled young man sitting gently pushing babv Wilson back and forth in a canvas swing. Baby is quiet and contented, but the young man appears nervous and embarrassed. The yard is deserted save for these two.

Enter Captain "Monte" Blue, popular Benning bachelor, swinging riding crop.

The young man brightens visibly

(Please turn to page 5)

THE FLARE
(Continued from page 4)

"Hey, Monte!" he exclaims, "Come here. I've got a problem in hydraulics. This swing leaks."

NOTE: The identity of the young man has been established. He is Mr. James Cowen, the son of Lieutenant Colonel Guy Cowen. We suspect that the consulting hydraulic engineer was of small help. Mr. Cowen should have called in some experienced young marred officer—Lieut. Rutte perhaps.

—E. F. H.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES
(Continued from page 2)

have to do: to go on a hike without water! We all do it at one time or another, but only once! Then we're cured.

We all thoroughly enjoyed ourselves (including the dry-throated ones) and hope to have many more hikes.

Tuesday, January 24

We were very much pleased to find Mrs. Wadsworth, our Lieutenant, back with us again, today.

More good news! We have a new Scout, Jane Grace, who will be in the Dawn Patrol. That makes our number an even twenty-four.

* * *

Pine Tree Troop

Wednesday, January 18

Today Mrs. Matchett came to our meeting to see how we were getting along. Some of us practiced signalling, some, Tenderfoot work; and some, Second Class nature. From the signallers' group, "hello" was sent by Mrs. Matchett.

Then, in the cabin, we played the signalling game of Post Office. We formed a circle, and had letters of the alphabet for names, two girls for each leter. When a letter was signalled, the two possessing it would try to change places without being caught by the blindfolded "it" in the center. It was great fun!

In our goodnight circle we sang, "Poor Old Slave," "The Golden Sun," and Taps.

—Barbara Monroe.

ELABORATE EFFECTS ACHIEVED IN SHOW AT POST
(Continued From Page 1)

the doll.

The prologue depicted Sinbad holding converse with the genii which he had liberated from a bottle. Ten elaborate scenes in the two acts lent air of realism to the movements of the puppet characters, and vividly illustrated some of the picturesque episodes of the story.

The first act contained four scenes. Sinbad, endowed with merchandise by the genii, is making ready to sail for distant lands for the purpose of trading and thereby increasing his revenue. A storm comes up and the ship is driven against a tropical island and wrecked. The following scene shows Sidbad cast up on the beach with two their own enrichment. A monster appears and consumes one of them and frightens the other away. Ogi, the "old man of the sea" makes his appearance, and becomes Sinbad's faithful servant after the latter has spared his life. Ogi furnishes a lot of the comedy and his humorous repartee was delightful.

Sinbad opens up a shop at the gate to a great city. One day the princess passes on her elephant and Sinbad falls in love with her. The princess contrives to meet Sinbad in his shop and Sinbad gains access to the castle in a chest of rugs which the princess has bought. They are discovered and Sinbad is condemned to die; but the timely appearance of Ogi saves the executioner the trouble of choppng off Sinbad's head.

The second act finds Sinbad, the princess, and Ogi on a ship. Two treacherous sailors, in an attempt to obtain costly jewels which Sinbad has on his person, throw him overboard and Sinbad has his adventure with the fish under water. He is then thrown on a barren island inhabited by the giant Roc and glittering with jewels of every kind. Sinbad fills his pockets with stones and, catching on to one of the talons of the big bird, is transported from the island.

Sinbad, after many adventures, and after finding his friend and servant Ogi again, comes to the Sultan's palace, where he attains to high position through the gift of a pearl the size of a hen's egg to the Sultan. Later, he goes to a slave market to find a dancer for the Sultain and there meets up with his betrothed. Great is their joy at the reunion but a minister of the Sultan, jealous of Sinbad, poisons the mind of the Sultain and the oriental potentate condemns Sinbad to die. The timely intervention of the princess saves Sinbad, and the minister, in his turn, is put in the bad graces of the Sultan and exiled from the court. Sinbad and the princess live happily together ever after.

Appropriate music accompanied the progress of the play and added greatly to the effectiveness and impressiveness of the various scenes.

The whole production was enhanced by the novel lighting and mechanical effects. The scene depicting the shipwreck was particularly impressing. The singing and dancing of the puppets was also very pleasing to the audience, who thoroughly enjoyed the whole entertainment.

Tank Notes

On Friday the 20th three tanks from Company "D" 66th Infantry rolled down the hill to the Chattahoochee River, and then crossed it.

Company "E," 1st Engineers, Lt. C. F. Harding, Commanding, from Fort Du Pont, Del., had constructed a pontoon bridge across the river and "D" Company was able to make the crossing and invade Alabama without any difficulty.

The command wishes to thank this well trained and highly efficient Engineer Company for the two interesting demonstrations they have given us. It is of great value to know what can be done should the occasion arise for doing it.

Word comes to us that Lt. "Rusty" Nelson continues to steady improve in health. We hope to have him back with us in a short time.

The entire command was sorry to see War Department orders sending him to New York for duty in connection with War Mothers Pilgrimage to France. All of us hope at the completion of these duties he will be returned to us.

Corporal George M. Warren, Company "E," discharged last week by E.T.S. has taken on another three years. George said that he intended to quit the Service; but after a thirty days' furlough just before discharged he changed his mind, and now he says only the foolish will quit the chow line in these tiring times.

On Tuesday afternoon Captain "Joe" Stuart, Company Commander of "D" took his boys out to Harp's Pond and entertained them with an old fashioned barbecue which was enjoyed by all present. After all the eats had disappeared and the cigars gone, Des Des Hunt produced two of the finest coon dogs in the state of Georgia and with those that hadn't eaten too much hit the woods for an old time coon hunt. At this time it is not known how many coons were captured but if the dogs were made of the stuff reported by Des Des, plenty of coons were in the bag by morning.

The big Badger the Captain had imported from Canada turned out to be one of the boldest ever to hit Benning. "Joker" the famous badger dog that belongs to Corporal Wright took one look at this big husky terror from the Canada wilds and now his name can be found under the "Lost Column" of your daily newspaper.

Stadium Will Be Scene Of Rodeo

The Texas Rangers Rodeo will give its first winter show at the Doughboy Stadium, Fort Benning, on February 9th, 10t hand 11th. The flavor of a real western show will be brought to Benning by the Rangers group and their spectacular stunts will be of thrilling interest to all who attend.

H. M. Hirsch is the manager of the show and its produced is Milt Hinkle. The former was at at one time in charge of the rodeos annually conducted in Madison Square Garden, in New York.

Mess Sergeant Donner and his cook force are to be congratulated for the excellent chow served.

Sergeant Dan B. Sullivan tells us that his life of football has ended. When interviewed by our reporter on what his next field of work would be he tells him that he is now in the newspaper business and at present is the star-reporter from Headquarters Company for the Tank Weekly News.

To Ladies of Fort Benning

We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.

OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| RussianTurkishMineral | Baths | ReducingFacialScalp | Massage | PhysioHydrioElectro | Therapy |

Swedish Massage — Turkish Shampoos
Swedish Facial Massage — Special Reducing Treatment
Swedish Scalp Treatments — Swedish Shampoos

Rigdon Health Institute

216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.

Served...

JUST RIGHT!

. . . for everybody in the family! No wonder Foremost Ice Cream is so popular, it suits the taste of both young and old!

Call the
SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

Enlisted Men's Uniforms and Accessories
AT
VERY LOW PRICES

We specialize in tailoring to measure finer quality Enlisted Men's uniforms of Khaki and Melton, or the new regulation issue materials. A complete stock of Caps, Shirts, Shoes, Belts, Ornaments, et cetera, is available for immediate delivery, at very moderate prices.

CREDIT EXTENDED THRU COMPANY OR BATTERY COMMANDER

We will welcome an opportunity to prove our excellent service.

THE ASSOCIATED MILITARY STORES
2nd Floor The Officers' Club
FORT BENNING, GA.

NOW IS THE TIME TO---

BUY! USED CARS

1930 Ford Spt. Rdst. $225
1930 Chev. Coach..... 225
1931 Ford Tudor..... 245
1931 Oakland Sp Sed 695
1930 Essex Sedan..... 165
1929 Whippet Coach.. 40
1928 Oldsm. Coach.... 145

SPECIAL — 1932 Studebaker "8" Cyl. Convertible DeLuxe Sedan $995.00 Cost $1600.00. Only Driven 4,000 Miles.

1931 Packard Sedan 11,000 miles ..... 995
1928 Buick Sedan..... 195
1930 Pres. Stud. Sed. 425
Many More Priced From $25.00 Up

Columbus Roberts Motor Company

510 — 12TH STREET - - - PHONE 271

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Captain Drake Wins Tennis Championship

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Last week a letter from Secretary of the New York Yankees reached the Bambino of Swat, the incomparable Babe Ruth. Enclosed was his 1933 contract, calling for $50,000. A day later the Secretary of the Yankees received the contract unsigned, which was the signal for the Bambino and his boss, Colonel Ruppert to begin their annual wrangle over Babe's salary.

* * *

Colonel Ruppert fumed. Ruth fumed. Colonel Ruppert asserted to newspaper men that he would not pay Babe a cent more. Babe threatened to play golf all summer unless the colonel relented.

* * *

Finally the two compromised as in times of yore. Ruth agreed to take a fifteen per cent cut in salary.

There is little doubt that Ruth has done more for the good old game of baseball than any other single player. When the Bambino looms up at the platter, pitchers begin to paw the mound nervously and the outfielders back up to the fence.

* * *

When Ruth sends the pill on a long journey over a distant fence, the crowd is invariably pleased. When Ruth strikes out, the crowd is invariably pleased. Just so long as the fans see the Bambino in action, all is well. They ask for nothing more.

* * *

Bill Tilden, generally conceded to be the greatest tennis player that ever graced a court, has brought up a pretty point in making the statement that the ten best professional tennis players could trim the ten best amateur players if a match was ever arranged.

If that is the case with tennis, what about the other sports? Could a team composed of professional golf players defeat an aggregation of amateurs? Or could a professional football eleven, say the Green Bay Packers, send a college team, say Southern California down to defeat? Pro boxers and wrestlers are conceded to be better than amateurs in the same division of sport, but amateur crews have consistently won over professional oarsmen.

At any rate, Tilden's assertion gives plenty of food for thought to ardent sport-lovers.

* * *

A few days ago, Tilden told newshawks that he thought France would retain the Davis Cup, despite a general opinion to the contrary. He ranks Cochet as the leading amateur player in the world despite Henri's decisive defeat by Vines in the United States National Championship at Forest Hills last year. Bill also thinks that Borotra will be in there doing his little bit for France when that country attempts to retain the Davis Cup.

Borotra was the player who made it possible for France to retain the cup last year. After the match, the Bounding Basque stated that he was getting too old for hard competition.

* * *

Leo Sexton, Olympic shotputting champion, and Angelo Trullio, national handball titleholder and the winner of ten crowns, were awarded the prize offered each year by the New York Athletic Club to that athlete who has made the most progress in his sport during the past year.

Sexton consistently sent the sixteen pound shot over fifty-two feet in 1932 and shattered indoor and outdoor marks. Against hard competition in the Olympics, he won his event and established an Olympic record.

* * *

It won't be long now before trackmen begin pounding the old boards again. Gene Venzke, a freshman at the University of Penn this year and holder of the world's mile record at 4:10 minutes, shattered the three-quarters mile record at the University by seven seconds last Sunday.

Bassett Beaten In Straight Sets In Tournament Finals

Lieutenant and Dorothy Lynch Are Mixed Doubles Champions

Captain James Drake further justified his ranking as number one player on the post last Saturday afternoon when he won over Captain Richard Bassett in straight sets 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

The match was played under ideal weather condition. Lieutenant Chester Krum Harding acted as umpire. After an unusually long warm-up, the match got under way.

Bassett started off fast, winning the first nine points before Drake was able to retaliate. The third game went to deuce, but Drake managed to pull the game out of the fire. The champion won the fourth game, limiting his opponent to a single point, to knot the game score at 2-2. Drake won the fifth at love. The sixth was closer, Bassett winning the first point and Drake forging into the lead at 40-30. Drake finally won the game. The seventh was all Drake's as the champion took the first four points to win at love. The eighth game went to deuce before Drake ran out the set. Score 6-2.

After winning the first two games, Bassett weakened and was forced into frequent errors. Drake was playing very good tennis, mixing his shots consistently to offset Bassett's driving game.

The second set found Bassett offering more competition. Drake, however, took the first three games with ease, as Bassett was unable to pick up

(Please turn to page 7)

SPORT WRITER COVERS BRIDGE

(From the Pictorial Review)

Dinks Jarvis, rookie from the Three Spades League, sowed the ducats, and bid a sparkler. With eight of them to the bullet, his bid was safer than a razor blade in the House of David. Blake squeaked a couple of cudgels, and Bemis, whose hand was as blank as a radio crooner's stare, rested his larynx. This put Trookins in the Pilot's seat, and he sent the steerage customers into a frenzy by bleating a small bank in diggers. The other three, more bewildered than a centipede on a piece of flypaper, made giraffe noises, and Troogins had the lease.

Jarvis opened with the big shot of sparklers and was wilder than a blind man with a dial phone when Troogins trumped it with the doublet of shovels. Showing a nice change of pace, Troogins led out the trumps, and then pulled off a cross ruff that had his opponents dizzier than a peroxide blonde after six rye highballs. The umpire threatened to bench Bemis when he squawked that Troogins had led out of the wrong fist, and Troogins retaliated by pilfering Bemis's emperor of hearts with a finesse that cleaned him out of everything but his wisdom teeth.

Troogins was now going like a Kansas twister and was harder to stop than ants in a log cabin sugar bowl. He rented Jarvis the dame of ice, but took all the rest of the stunts one-handed. This netted the Jersey City Jaguars a grand and a half of points and put them further ahead than Paul Revere was of Man o' War. They copped the elastic in the very next canto, and then set the Green Sox higher than a water bill in the Sahara Desert. From then on they drew further away than a snowstorm in July, and had copped the fracas inside of the next

Post Spring Polo Tournament To Get Under Wa Sunday

A round robin polo tournament has been organized. The first game will be played this Sunday, the tournament lasting until the end of March. Six local teams will participate, representing the 29th Infantry, the Students, the Artillery and the Freebooters. The last two organizations mentioned will put two teams on the field.

Three four-period games will be played every Sunday, weather permitting. Thus every team in the league will see action on the same day. The round robin has been divided into two series. In the second half of the series, the second four period game will be played off, and the total score of the two four period games will count as a whole.

The standing of the competitors will be decided on a percentage basis—the number of games won and lost.

In the course of a contest, substitutions will be allowed, but they will not in any way affect the handicap, which is applied in accordance with an arithmetic table and cannot be changed.

At the conclusion of the tournament, the three leading teams in the final standing will play off an elimination tournament for the post championship. This tournament will probably take place the first week in April.

Col. Fred Munson Scores Hole-in-one In Match Wed.

Colonel Munson's Ace Fourth To Be Made On Fort Benning Course

In a regimental golf match with Colonel Fred L. Munson and Captain Guy L. Hartman representing the 24th Infantry against Lt. Colonel Elmer F. Rice and Lt. Colonel Andrew D. Chaffin, Colonel Munson made a hole-in-one on the fourth hole.

Colonel Munson is the fourth officer in Fort Benning to score a hole-in-one. The fourth hole is one hundred and ten yards long.

Prevents Accidents--

Don't wait until your motor stalls or your car is wrecked on slippery streets before you take precautions. Be sure that it is in perfect running condition at all times. Your car will have a longer life and you'll be saved unnecessary expense and time.

AUTO DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Any Person Not In The Military Service

EVERY BODY IS BUYING AT THE NEW
CLASSY
CLOTHES SHOP
12 50
Suits and Overcoats
See Us For Your Outfit,
NEW LOCATION
1035 Broadway

Diamonds
Watches
Silverware
PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER

You can save by buying
STAR BRAND
SHOES

Star Brand Shoes are built up to a standard of value. The very lowest priced Star Brand Shoe in our store is a quality shoe and worth the money.

PACE MAKER
A STAR BRAND SHOE

Gun Calf, Scotch Grain Trimming, Welt Sole and Hard Heel
$2.95

UPTOWN
A STAR BRAND SHOE

Genuine Calf—Black and Brown They Are Styled to Please the Man of Refinement
$3.95

OTHER STAR BRAND OXFORDS FOR MEN
$1.95 to $4.95

In this department you can find a complete line of all leather Star Brand Shoes for men, women and children.

SAM NEEL
SHOE DEPARTMENT
WESTBROOK BLDG.
BROADWAY

Amateur Tourney Begins

Large Crowd Sees Opening Bouts Of Amateur Tourney

By AL DURDEN

Twelve hundred fight fans witnessed the opening bouts of the annual garrison amateur boxing tournament at Fort Benning Wednesday night. They were rewarded with thirteen bouts that were filled with action from beginning to end. Fourteen bouts were scheduled but Tanker Floyd, Tank bantam, won by default, when the Irish team failed to enter a bantamweight.

Killen, Tank middleweight, and Smith, Irish battler, stole the show, when they stepped three rounds at top speed. The fans were on their feet from the opening until the final bell. The pace was fast and furious in the first round and both boys were staggered from smashing punches. It looked as if they must end matters in the second round but the pace actually grew hotter in the final round. The verdict was a draw and it was popular.

Whatley, Kelly ace and holder of the southern amateur middleweight title, stopped Cheek of the Special Units, in the second round. Whatley turned the trick with a short left hook to the button.

Milan, hard punching Tanker welter, showed that he still carried the old wallop when he stopped Sanford, Irish welter, in the second. This was a fast battle and the first round was an even affair with both boys throwing leather. The Tanker sank a right to the chin early in the second round and the birdies sang.

Crowell of the Tanker team and Horton of the Irish outfit put on a great battle until the third round when Horton laid a right haymaker on Crowell's button and the lights were out. They were heavies.

Floyd, Kelly feather, was given the decision over Mann of the Special Units, but it was a great fight and it looked as if Mann might have been given a draw.

Johnson, Kelly lightweight, stopped Sanderson of the Special Units, with one punch in the first round. Penland, Special Units heavyweight evened the score by stopping Street of the Kellys, in seven rounds.

Benny Hall, Tanker welter, made short work of Hedlin, Irish battler. Hall came out punching and never let up until Hedlin was out for the count, early in the first round.

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Corn Griffin, Tanker Lightheavy In Glare Of National Spotlight

Corn Griffin's impressive defeat of Cowboy Frankie Edgren in the main go of the last fight card puts the Benning lightheavyweight under the glare of the national spotlight.

Griffin is now ready to go out after bigger and better things. Since his draw with Battling Bozo, Corn has vanquished Jerry Pavalec, erstwhile sparring partner of Max Schmeling, Pietro Corri, Charley Hambright, and Frankie Edgren. He won two by the knockout route.

In his fight with Pavalec, Griffin gave away twenty-nine pounds. In the second round of the bout, Jerry landed the hook which had almost laid Max Schmeling low. Griffin came up from the floor groggy but lasted through the round. Thereafter, the fight was all Corn's as he smacked his opponent from pillar to post. Pavalec went down in the seventh round, found the floor comfortable, and decided involuntarily to remain there. The referee counted ten over his prostrate body.

Pietro Corri, Austrian heavy, proved no match for the Terrible Tanker and Griffin took the decision with no trouble at all. Charley Hambright crumpled in the fifth round before his attack.

Frankie Edgren came to Benning with an imposing record to back him up. Wins over a great many of the big ones made him a slight favorite to end the tanker's growing string of victories. In the first round, he came out as if he meant business. Griffin was rushed against the ropes and caught a right, a left, and another rght as he bounced off. Corn collapsed before the ferocious attack in Edgren's corner.

The referee began to count. At the count of five, Griffin was still prostrate. At six, he rolled over and, with a tremendous effort, got on his hands and knees. At nine, he was on his feet and weathering the storm of gloves which Frankie tossed at him from all angles.

Edgren was a little too excited and a blow to the stomach almost doubled him up. Griffin was rapidly recovering by this time and held his opponent on even terms for the rest of the round.

In the second round, Griffin found himself and won the round by a decisive margin. In the third round, Griffin spilled Edgren and had the cowboy in a bad way. At the end of the fight, Edgren was a target for a concentrated body attack which had Frankie groggy.

The decision of the judges in favor of Griffin was just so much formality.

Griffin looks better every time he fights. At the rate he is going now, it should not be long before he gets near the top of the ladder. Corn has everything a good boxer needs, plenty of what it takes to give out punishment and the ability to take it as well. He should go a long way.

TENNIS

(Continued from page 6)

more than four points. Drake won the first point in the fourth game, but Bassett rallied to run out the game. Bassett led in the next game at 30-15, but Drake took the next few points to increase his lead to 4-1. The sixth game went to deuce, Bassett winning. The champion won the seventh game at love. Bassett rallied and after a hard-fought eighth game, won to make the score 5-3 in favor of Drake. Bassett forged into a 40-15 lead in the ninth but was unable to hold it, as Drake knotted the score and then ran out the set. Score 6-3.

Bassett kept trying to keep the ball near the back-line but was making frequent errors. Drake was still mixing his shots to good advantage, specializing on various spins, using the drives only on occasion and from his backhand. His beautiful placement shots scored many points.

In the third and deciding set, Bassett won the first point, but Drake won the next four in rapid succession to win at 50-15. With the score at deuce in the second game, Bassett won the next two points to make the game score 1-1. For the first time since the beginning of the first set, Bassett got into the lead as he won the third game at 50-15. Drake took the fourth after overcoming a slight lead in points. Bassett once more went into the lead at 3-2 when he took the fifth game. The champion tied the game count again, however, in the sixth, when he won at love. Drake won the seventh and eighth to make the score 5-3 in his favor. The seventh was won at 50-15, the eighth going to deuce. Bassett came back to win the ninth game at 50-30, but Drake ran out the set, the match, and the tournament in the tenth game by taking four consecutive points. Score 6-4.

Bassett steadily improved as the match progressed but was still not playing in top form. His service, usually a tremendous asset, was not working as well as it did in his semi-final match with Irving, and he made frequent errors. Drake, on the other hand, was playing very good tennis, shooting placement shots to every angle of the court and using his hard backhand drive to good advantage. The variety of shots he employed in the match disconcerted his opponent. In the third and final set, he was forced into error many times by the stinging drives of Bassett.

In the finals of the Mixed Doubles match, Lieutenant and Mrs. Lynch won in straight sets over Captain Drake and Mrs. Keiler. The match was played on Sunday afternoon.

Previous to the finals, Colonel Wallace, on behalf of the Officers' Club presented the prizes to the winners of the various handicap tournaments.

The final scores of the match were 6-3, 6-4. Captain Drake, the winner of the Men's Tournament, was slightly off-form. Dorothy Lynch, however, was the individual star of the match, playing a beautiful game of tennis. Lieutenant Lynch also displayed moments of brilliance and between the two they managed to win the championship. Mrs. Keiler played very well.

EAT---
Tom's
Toasted Peanuts

FREE

AN EXTRA PAIR of TROUSERS
With Each Tailored Suit!
$16.50 AND $19.50

You save at least $6.50 by purchasing now . . . for that's the regular price of extra trousers!

For twenty years this company has been holding a "Free Extra Pants Sale" every January. It's the one event that men everywhere have learned to recognize as the bargain of the year in clothing. Drop in a Schwob store and select a fabric from our display of over 300 different woolens. Then your suit will be made to your own individual measurements with an extra pair of pants absolutely free of cost.

During this sale on tailored-to-order clothes, our entire stock of ready-to-wear suits and overcoats will be on display at these unusually low prices:

$12.50 AND $14.95

The SCHWOB Co.
Standard Tailoring Co.
1037 Broadway Columbus Ga.

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

He's "The Fugitive"

Paul Muni, last seen as the star of "Scarface," plays the leading role in "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," the Warner Bros. drama which presents the terrors of the "chain gang" penal system. It comes to the Royal Theatre Sunday, and continues Monday and Tuesday.

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

AT THE ROYAL

(Opening at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night)

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" with Paul Muni. Here is the filmization of the book written by Robert Elliot Burns, who served part of a ten year term on Georgia chain gangs, and who now is in New Jersey, following the refusal of the New Jersey governor to recognize extradition papers to bring him back to this state. The famous Broadway actor, Paul Muni is in the leading role.

* * *

AT THE GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Hot Pepper" with Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen and Lupe Velez. Depicting the most recent adventures of the immortal Marines, "Hot Pepper" is a hilarious new Flagg and Quirt film. You'll laugh, then laugh some more.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "Fast Life" with William Haines and Madge Evans. It's amazing what speed and daring will do—in romance as well as racing. Haines never was funnier or more likable as the speed demon who overcomes every obstacle in winning the big race and the only girl.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering "Face In The Sky" with Spencer Tracy, Marian Nixon and Stuart Erwin. Distnctly American in theme, yet marking a radical departure from American methods of treatment, this picture is interestingly novel, the vicissitudes of a sign painter who had day dreams, and realizes them.

* * *

AT THE RIALTO

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY: Offering "Smilin' Through" with Norma Shearer, Fredric March and Leslie Howard. A picture that stirs moonlight memories. A story of love that survived fifty years of hate in the great romance of romances, with enchanting Norma Shearer in the leading role.

TUESDAY: Offering "Hot Saturday" with Cary Grant, Nancy Carroll and Randolph Scott. She walked home from a date . . . but she woke up the next morning to find she might have saved herself the trouble . . . it all happened on a "Hot Saturday." Maybe that's why she married a man she didn't love to save her reputation.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "The Most Dangerous Game" with Joel McCrea, Fay Wray and Leslie Banks. Arresting, strange and terrible is the story of the polished Russian sportsman who lured ships to their doom . . . then drove the male survivors into his island jungle to be hunted down like animals.

GRAND

Flagg and Quirt, the militant Marines, have exchanged their uniform for silk hats and full dress clothes. They appear in the Fox comedy, "Hot Pepper," dressed in the height of fashion and living like kings in their roles as night club owners. The production comes to the Grand Theatre for Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Preserving the spirit of the characters of Flagg and Quirt, originated by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson, they continue to battle over women and particularly over "Pepper", an impetuous and fiery little stowaway from South America found on one of Flagg's rum ships.

Edmund Lowe against appears as Quirt and Victor McLaglen as Flagg. The role of "Pepper" is enacted by the vibrant and dynamic Lupe Velez. El Brendel, the Swedsh dialect comedian, plays a featured role and others in prominent parts are Lilian Bond, Boothe Howard, Gloria Roy and Russ Clark. Much color is said o be added o the night club scenes by a singing and dancing chorus with which Miss Velez appears in a dance number.

Dudley Nichols wrote the story depicting the most recent activities of Flagg and Quirt.

RIALTO

That "a thing of beauty is a joy forever" on the screen will be reaffirmed at the Rialto Theatre where Norma Shearer in "Smilin' Through" is the featured attraction Sunday and Monday.

This beautiful story which has stirred the hearts of countless theatergoers since Jane Cowl first presented it on the New York stage, takes on a new glow under the witchery of Norma Shearer's acting. In this she is rendered superb support by Fredric March, Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie, Ralph Forbes and others.

Directed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Sidney Franklin, this talking version of "Smilin' Through" still works its spell of tears and smiles, still sways the heart by its moments of pathos which follow before and after the lighter moments of gayety.

England of 1868 contracted with the modern times of excitement which attended the last war is the background of this wistful tale. The story is that of a man who cannot forget the memory of tragedy when the fulfillment of his love is blighted on his wedding day. Fifty years afterward the son of the man who caused his bitterness returns and falls in love with the niece of the girl whom this man, now old and gray, has loved. Out of the bitterness in which he has lived all those years he seeks to keep the young

Smilin' Thru

Frederic March and Norma Shearer (above) from a scene in "Smilin' Through" which shows at the Rialto Theater Sunday and Monday.

ROYAL

One of the most heralded motion pictures to be presented in Columbus in many a moon, opens Saturday night at 11:15 and shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Royal Theatre. It is "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," starring Paul Muni, with Helen Vinson, Glenda Farrell, Preston Foster, David Landau, Sally Blane, Noel Francis, 37 other important roles, 53 "bit" players and more than 2,000 extras.

Not only is "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," said to carry more thrilling and sensational episodes than any other picture made this year but it presents a triple romance of strange and glamorous loves, against chain gang brutalities.

The story, which was authroed by Robert E. Burns, who is still in hiding from chan gang police, shows a background of incredible prison men driven to desperation by the tortures of the whipping post, poor food, excessive labors in broiling heat and other cruelties. Paul Muni, as the fugitive, makes a sensational escape and crosses into another state. After years of struggle, he makes good under an assumed name, but a woman who discovers his past, betrays him. He is returned to the chain gang only to escape again in one of the most breathtaking episodes of the current season.

There is no more touching figure than this fugitive, a man yearning for love and home, an ex-service man skulking from place to place, not daring to show hs face, unable to marry the girl he loves devotedly. Truly, a man without a country. He is vividly and dramatically portrayed by Paul Muni, who left the New York stage suecess "Councellor At Law" to make "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" for Warner Brothers.

lovers apart, and only when the spirit of his departed one returns does he find it in his heart to relent.

Norma Shearer reaches new heights in he rdual portrayal of the two girls. In making a departure from the sophistry of her usual modern roles she is a buoyant, radiant and refreshing spirit. Fredric March, both as the jilted lover andthe youth who returns later to win her, is suave and convincing. Leslie Howard has a powerful role as the man who lives with his bitter memories from youth to old age, and invests his role with the charm for which he is distinguished. Sidney Franklin has directed the production with a feeling of warmth and glow.

STUDIO "ROBS" SHIPS

Six de-commissioned ocean liners were stripped of their deck furnishings to "dress" a setting of Paramount's "King of the Jungle," is one of the youngest motion picture directors in the business. He is just twenty-nine.

ALL KINDS OF A WOMAN

Mae West, star of Paramount's "She Done Him Wrong," has the unique record of bei nghte only woman in the modern theater to write, direct, produce and star in a play.

SHIP BRINGS ANIMALS

A shipload of animals from South America will arrive in Los Angeles next week with beasts for Paramount's "Murders in the Zoo" featuring Charlie Ruggles, Lionel Atwill and Kathleen Burke.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY AGAIN

Irving Pichel, long remembered as the District Attorney in Paramount's "The American Tragedy," is assigned another prosecutor part in "The Woman Accused."

GRAND
SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY
HOT PEPPER
with EDMUND LOWE VICTOR McLAGLEN Lupe Velez El Brendel
Directed by John Blystone
Fox Picture
COMEDY — NOVELTY — NEWS
TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY
Coming at you! FAST LIFE WITH WILLIAM HAINES
COMEDY — NOVELTY — NEWS
THURSDAY—FRIDAY
FACE in the SKY
Spencer TRACY · Marian NIXON · Stuart ERWIN
FOX PICTURE Directed by Harry Lachman
MICKEY COMEDY — CARTOON — NEWS

RIALTO
TODAY—TOMORROW
Ken MAYNARD AND THE WONDER HORSE "TARZAN" in "FARGO EXPRESS" A WORLD WIDE PICTURE
GANG COMEDY—Betty Boop Cartoon
CHAPTER 8—"The Last Frontier."
SUNDAY—MONDAY
AS THRILLING AS YOUR FIRST KISS!
NORMA SHEARER in Smilin' Through
—WITH—
FREDRIC MARCH—LESLIE HOWARD—
SCREEN SOUVENIRS—FOX NEWS
—TUESDAY ONLY—
HOT SATURDAY
a Paramount Picture
WITH CARY GRANT—NANCY CARROLL
RANDOLPH SCOTT
"Breaking Even" — "YOUR HAT"
WEDNESDAY—THURSDAY
"THE MOST DANGEROUS GAME" WITH—JOEL McCREA—FAY WRAY
COMEDY — PICTORIAL — FOX NEWS

"I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG"
WITH PAUL MUNI
LIBERTY RATED THIS PICTURE 4 STARS
Opening Sat. Night at 11:15 ROYAL SUN., MON. TUE.

83rd F. A.

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

During the past week we have been listening to Lt. Howard and his staff of N. C. O.'s lecture on "Gas and Gas Defense." A demonstration has been planned for the battery in the field under actual conditions. Sgt. Dodd says that the man who invented the gas mask should have made some provisions for the bald headed men, as the two strands of hair that he had left are gone now from putting the mask on and taking it off. We recommend a bottle of Panther Oil, Dod.

Lieutenants Hall and Grubbs have been conducting a spelling bee for the benefit of some of the men who are not familiar with some of the words that the artillery uses from time to time. Cpl. Hurst is the honor student. They had to burn the class room down to get Cpl. Hurst out of the second grade.

BATTERY "A"

It was a bad Friday for the Supply Sergeant and others Friday night when the Supply Room caught on fire, damaging a good deal of the property of men on furlough and in the Hospital. Every suitcase and hand bag in the battery was destroyed. The origin of the fire has not been determined to date. "Evidently there will be no suit case drill in the Battery soon."

Corporal Thompson of this organization will be leaving the 27th for the communication school at Fort Sill, Okla. Here's wishing you luck, Tommy.

Corporal Rogers, better known as "Speedy," is taking the communication course offered here in Benning. We realize that Speedy knows more than the instructors. It is just a change, Speedy, and will probably keep your mind off of desertions.

BATTERY "C"

The battery made a hike to the "De Luxe" camp at McBride's ford. This was one of the most successful and enjoyable hikes we have had since we lost our motors. Pyramidal tents were pitched, cots and mattresses were taken along and all blankets the battery owns. Too bad the battery had to participate in an engineer problem within the garrison and we were called back ahead of schedule. Two reconnaisance parties used on the road march on Wednesday followed different routes, making trips from 10 to 15 miles, and although they got lost, because of the inaccuracy of the fire control maps, these trips were greatly enjoyed.

29th Inf.

We miss Captain Porter around the company this week and hope that he is enjoying his well earned 5 days leave. Lieutenant Ferenbaugh is in command of the company while Captain Porter is on leave.

It seems as if the message center is holding their own and if Bishop cannot shoot any better than he rides a bicycle "Then have mercy on the Message Center".

As arguments on the 2nd group small bore team came up, it was found that Sam Parvin, Youngblood and "Red" Burns were blind. Although Sam Parvin has already gone to Walter Reed Hospital, "Red" Burns while on the way and as blind as they seem.

Youngblood is high man of the second group with a score of 338 out of a possible 400.

Kirkpatrick is high man of the first group with a score of 333.

Corporal Bunch has his head low around the company th siweek as he is on corral guard and not allowed to go down to the house.

Cameron got a telephone call to go over to the service club a lady was waiting for him". He went over there and parked himself for one hour and a half but no lady came around to see him.

Q. M. D.

The newest noncommissioned officer in the Quartermaster Detachment is Corporal Raymond Tevis Markman, who was promoted to his present grade a few days ago, shortly after his return from furlough in Tennessee. Corporal Markham was transferred to the detachment during the fall of 1931 from the 29th Infantry, and, although one of the younger members of the organization, his rise has been rapid since that time.

Recently transferred members of the organization include Private George N. Lee, who came from Company D, 66th Infantry, Private Lowell White, of Company G, 29th Infantry, and Private Willard O. Huckaby, also of Company G, 29th Infantry. Other transfer applications are pending, but cannot be approved at this time, due to a lack of vacancies.

24th Inf.

Sergeant Howard Ballard, Co. F, 24th Infantry, is no doubt known and liked by every sport loving officer and enlisted man of Fort Benning. To the large group of athletes that frequent the garrison gymnasium, Sergt. Ballard is known as 'Old Hoss.' His duties as supply sergeant with the Infantry School Athletic Association, brings him into contact daily with the large number of officers and enlisted men that enjoy the splendid recreation furnished by the well equipped gymnasium.

During the three years that "Old Hoss," has been doing duty as supply sergeant, he has built a record that shows one hundred percent. Inventory and inspection never find him out of line. Fight nights when every thing is hustle and hurry, tape, bandages and gloves are in place. When visiting teams are the guest of the Athletic Association, the service furnished by Sergt. Ballard has always been highly commended by the visiting players and officials.

"Old Hoss," is getting well along in years. He has now passed the twenty-five year mark. The first ten years of his service was spent with the Cavalry, but for the past fifteen years he has been a member of the Happy Heart outfit. With all these years of service back of him he is still able to go out on the firing line and make the coveted sharpshooter mark. He is an excellent clerk, reads his drill manual daily and probably things in competition drill. He is one could step out today and show the youngsters of the regiment a few of the fast disappearing "old soldiers of the old school."

HERALD WANT ADS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES:

20 cents per line or fraction of line. Minimum charge for any classified advertisement, 50 cents. Payment must be made before advertisement is published.

FOR SALE

Large walnut library table, large upholstered walnut divan, several bridge lamps and flower stands. Lieut. A. S. Gamble. 2201 18th Ave., Columbus.

Small Burroughs adding machine. Good condition. Cheap. Apply Bam, Benning Herald.

Small upright piano. A-1 condition. Can be seen at Post. Box 333, Columbus, Ga.

WHOLESOME FOODS

The Enlisted Men and their families are cordially invited to avail themselves at any time of the service offered by the Post Exchange Restaurant. You'll find satisfaction in whatever you order here.

The
Post Exchange
Restaurant
Located In The Service Club
Fort Benning, Georgia

BREAD
is the staff of life!
. . . . and Everidge's is the best to lean upon. Our bread on sale fresh daily at Post Exchange. Try a loaf of the OLD TIME and note the difference.
Visit our plant in the city for the finest cakes, pies and pastries.
EVERIDGE'S
The Bakery Beautiful
109 - 12th Street Columbus, Ga.

FURNITURE OF QUALITY
H. ROTHSCHILD
Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years
1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

To Whom It May Concern:
We can make any kind of meat specialty for any kind of occasion. We can furnish barbecue shoats on short notice. All meats will be thoroughly inspected at time of slaughter by U. S. Government veterinary inspectors. We guarantee to make every occasion a success as far as the meat specials are concerned. At your service.
THE PROVISION CO., Inc.
COLUMBUS, GA.

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

TYPEWRITER
REPAIRING
All Makes
Stewart Typewriter Co.
1041 Broadway Phone 2622

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus --$ 400,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$100,000.00
Surplus ---------- 65,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

DENTS
REMOVED
We straighten and repair fenders and take out body dents so skillfully that you can't detect any traces of the damage, however great.
THE POST EXCHANGE IS OUR AGENT
COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS

A reasonable plan to . . .
BORROW
$300 or less
for bills . . education . . travel
Check off these advantages:
√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.
If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.
DAILY LOAN CO.
204 Woolworth Bldg.
Phone 4372

GOOD USED HOUSEHOLD GOODS
When you need anything in good used furniture of any kind, get our price. We can really save you money.
THWEATT & SON
Phone 2715 1244 Broadway

Local Notes

Davis P. Harding, Editor

Phone 71 or 73

The readers of this column are once more reminded that this column is more or less of an experiment, based on the supposition that most of the subscribers to the Benning Herald would be interested in news items that concern their friends. It is impossible for the editor to go out soliciting these notes. For items to be published, therefore, it is necessary to phone the editor at either one of the two numbers mentioned above. If this is not done, a column which might very well prove extremely interesting if the garrison will cooperate, may die a natural death.

* * *

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas C. Musgrave and Lieutenant Colonel Robert B. O'Brien, of the Fourth Corps Area Headquarters arrived at Fort Benning Monday for a conference with Staff Officers of the Infantry School.

Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Thomas C. Musgrave spent Monday with Captain and Mrs. George F. Bloomquist, leaving Tuesday afternoon.

* * *

Second Lieutenant Robert A. Ports, 83rd Artillery left Monday on a five day furlough, part of which he spent in Fort McPherson, Ga.

* * *

Major Lyman S. Frazier, 29th Infantry, arrived from leave Sunday evening.

* * *

Lieutenant Harry C. Dowdall, Secretary of the Officers' Club, receives many letters each year from officers who were formerly stationed at this post and who are still interested in its activities.

Letters from Captain Jerry Wood, in charge of the Hunt during 1931-32 and now on duty at Fort Leavenworth, and from Captain Gene Brine, former Secretary of the Officers' Club, now with the 16th Infantry, Governor's Island, were received lately. Both expressed themselves as greatly interested in the activities of the post and inquired as to their success during the past year.

Lieutenant Dowdall also received a letter from Nelson M. Holderman, a retired captain, who was stationed at Fort Benning in 1925. Captain Holderman was retired in 1926 because of disability as a result of wounds suffered in the World War. He was later appointed Commandant of Veteran's Home in Napa County, California, with the rank of Colonel, by the Governor of California.

Colonel Holderman, who has a host of friends in the Army, expressed himself as follows: "Don't ever leave active duty. I think, after all, the Army will always have a bright future. I would rather be a Second Lieutenant in our good Army than Governor of California."

Colonel Holderman boasted a distinguished record. He is one of the few officers who were decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor. His was the company which was sent to the relief of the famous "Lost Battalion." He was surrounded and held at bay for five whole nights and days, was wounded seven times, and, while in a wounded condition, rescued two of his men. It was for this last act of valor that he received the Congressional Medal of Honor.

* * *

Captain Nathaniel L. Simmonds and Lieutenant Reeve D. Keiler are the newest members of the hole-in-one Club.

* * *

On March the eighteenth, there will be a special St. Patrick's day dance at the Officers' Club.

* * *

Biglerville has been artistically decorated as a mess for the National Guard Reserve Officers, who will take up classes on February the twenty-fourth. The predominant colors are red, white, and blue.

* * *

The Country Club is putting on a Valentine Day costume party on Saturday evening, February the eleventh. It will be a dinner party. Invitations have been extended to those members of the Officers' Club who wish to have dinner parties there that evening. Arrangements for such dinner parties can be made through the Secretary of the Officers' Club.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

I don't spend very much on Myself—

BUT, believe ME, when it comes to what I smoke, I want it *right!

You know how it is when a fellow is accustomed to smoking a good cigarette and he gets hold of one that isn't right. He's likely to get in a bad humor.

I am a great believer in the old saying that "quality will tell," and I have noticed that the things which come to stay are good things.

You can buy a package of good cigarettes for 15c. Six cents of this goes to the Government. So that outside of the 6c paid to the Government, you get a little over two cigarettes for one cent.

The right kind of tobacco, the right sort of paper—a cigarette that's pure and good-tasting and mild—that's the kind I want.

I have been smoking CHESTERFIELDS for a long time. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

Chesterfield

—the cigarette that's Milder
—the cigarette that Tastes Better

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1933 — NUMBER 41

TOWN TOPICS

In the January twenty-ninth issue of the Ledger-Enquirer appeared the following item.

"The fifteenth day of intermittent storms on the Pacific coast found many California communities snow-bound today, and several organized efforts in progress to get relief to the marooned with 700 rosebuds."

We cannot help wondering what relief the 700 rosebuds will give to the marooned men and women, but then we do not live in the state to which the article refers. Perhaps it's just an old California custom.

• • •

A breath from the wild and wooly west, a cowboy named "Tex," addressed Columbus boy scouts the other day. Among other things, he admonished his listeners to "Say nothing—and fear no man; write nothing—and fear no woman." Which reminds us of the prospective husband who cautiously headed a letter to his wife-to-be "Dearest Helen and Gentlemen of the Jury."

At any rate in the write-up of the cowboy's talk to the boy scouts, the following phenomenon was recorded by the author, who undoubtedly must have been the victim of an optical illusion.

"After giving his autograph to ninety-seven of the seventy-five boys, "Tex" sat around and conversed until the boys left."

And then we are expected to believe everything we read in the newspapers.

• • •

Nominated for oblivion: Lieutenants on roller-skates "on account of they are a menace to the peace-loving public (See Capt. "Red" Cummings for substantiation of correctness of grammatical construction "on account of.")

Just think how Lochinvar would have looked on roller-skates.

• • •

Now that the Glee Club is holding its rehearsals for "The Debutante," Biglerville has suddenly become quite popular. We suggest that a husky doorman be stationed at the entrance to the hall to keep the crowds away when the chorus of the show is going through a hot dance number.

Old bucks are constantly wandering in and out of the hall during rehearsal "just to see how the show's coming along" or "because I didn't have anything else to do." We suspect a double motive.

* * *

The uncanny brain of Lieutenant Dowdall, which has produced a great many novel ideas in the past, apparently conceived another brain-child. (The worthy lieutenant denies sole authorship strenuously, but admits collaboration.)

On February the fourteenth, at four-thirty in the afternoon, the Officers' Club will hold a drawing for seats for the annual Glee Club operetta, "The Debutante." By leaving it entirely up to Dame Luck, it is hoped that a great deal of the dissatisfaction that invariably arises from a methodical arrangement of seating will be eliminated. None will be exempt from the drawing except the Commandant and his party.

The time of day, four-thirty in the afternoon, was selected as the hour which would make it possible for

(Please turn to page 3)

Tanks Are Used In Recent Maneuvers

Christies Turn Tide In Maneuvers of 29th Infantry Last Week

Tanks were in the limelight in two widely separated localities at Fort Benning on Saturday. In the two-sided maneuver in which two battalions of the 29th Infantry were engaged on Friday and Saturday the sudden appearance of a platoon of Christie tanks with which the 1st Battalion had been reenforced during the night, turned the tide of battle against the attacking troops of the 2d Battalion shortly after dawn Saturday morning.

The two battalions had been sent into the field by secret orders issued by Lieutenant Colonel Andrew D. Chaffin on Friday. The 2d Battalion, which is motorized, and which is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Elmer F. Rice, represented an attacking force operating from the vicinity of Ochillee. The 1st Battalion, animal drawn, and commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Homer H. Slaughter, took up a defensive position astride Kelly Hill. At midnight, Friday, Colonel Slaughter received word that the tanks would be available as reinforcement, and at four fifteen A. M. the tanks arrived at the battalion's position.

The attack which the 2d Battalion launched at six o'clock threatened for a time to rout the defenders from their position, but a counter-attack made by the Christie tanks against G Company, definitely turned the battle in favor of the defensive forces.

Despite the fact that the night was bitterly cold, the operations of the troops were conducted with the vigor and keen interest which characterizes the field work of the 29th Infantry, and the excellent work of the intelligence and signal communications sections was especially evident.

In the test of the reenforced pontoon bridge equipment on the Chattahoochee river Saturday morning, the twenty-three ton, medium T1 ordnance tank "Fu Manchu" proved to be a bit too heavy for the approaches to the bridge. Although engineer officers believe that the tank could have crossed the bridge safely, the test was deferred until Monday when it was found that the heavy armored vehicle had cracked several of the balks, or stringers of the bridge. A slight modification of the arrangement of the balks will be made and the trial will be repeated Monday.

Medico Mess Leads For Second Month

For the second consecutive month, first place has been awarded to the mess of the station hospital in the competitive monthly rating inspection by Major Homer L. Conner, medical inspector.

Special Units mess, formerly the Infantry School Detachment mess, was awarded second place, and Headquarters Company, 66th Infantry, third.

The rating is conducted on a decimal system with 100 as a maximum, and in the rating of the thirty-one troop messes there was a difference of only 2.78 points in the highest and lowest scores.

An Open Letter—From The President Of The Glee Club To A Former President

IN REPLY REFER TO:

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL
OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT COMMANDANT
FORT BENNING, GEORGIA

February 2, 1933.

Colonel Walter L. Reed, Infantry,
Fort Howard, Maryland.

My dear Colonel Reed:

Knowing your interest in the Fort Benning Glee Club, I think that, as the dates for its annual show approach, you might be interested in knowing just what we are doing.

As you know, we are going to produce "The Debutante," an operetta by Victor Herbert, on March 10th and 11th. We have been working hard at it now for some time and, believe me, we have a fine show in the making. In fact, I feel that it is going to be the best show the Glee Club has ever produced, and I know you are going to be terribly disappointed at not being here.

First of all, we have a splendid corps of directors, with Lieutenant Aloysius E. O'Flaherty in charge. As you know, he knows his stuff and he is putting everything he has into it. He is assisted by Mrs. Herbert A. Wadsworth (dramatics), Professor Edwin Vonderau (music), Mrs. Albert H. Dickerson (dancing), Captain Virgil R. Bell (scenery and stage manager), Mrs. Lynn E. Brady (costumes), and Mrs. Charles W. Hanna and Mrs. Norman D. Cota (piano).

Then we have a splendid cast, which is as follows:

The Hon. Spencer Mainwaring Cavendish, Midshipman ---------- Mrs. M. F. Lindsey
Bo'sun, H. M. S. Scorpion ---------- Lt. Kameil Maertens
The Cook, H. M. S. Scorpion ---------- Lt. George E. Bush
Lt. Larry Sheridan, British Navy ---------- Capt. Howard Clark
Mrs. Zenobia Bunker, wife of Ezra Bunker ------ Mrs. H. L. Reeder
Ezra Bunker, composer of music of the future ---- Lt. J. E. Raymond Godfrey Frazer, an American captain of industry -- Capt. W. S. Elliott
Elaine, daughter of Sir Francis Vane ---------- Mrs. Dorothy Eley
Armand, Marquis de Frontenac ---------- Lt. Orestes Cleveland
Philip Frazer, son of Godfrey ---------- Lt. Silas W. Hosea
Irma, an opera singer ---------- Mrs. E. W. Leard
Testlavitz, a famous violincellist ---------- Lt. C. H. Treat
Nina, a future ballet girl ---------- Mrs. Silas W. Hosea
Paul Masson, a famous sculptor ---------- Capt. M. G. Brislawn
English Ambassador, German Ambassador, French Ambassador, Footmen, Midshipmen, Society Buds, Masqueraders, Officers, Sailors, "Call Around Again" Girls.

(Letter continued on Page 5)

$581,800 Authorized For Construction Of New Barracks Unit At Fort Benning

Authorization to advertise for bids for the construction new barracks for the Special Units of Fort Benning and the 83rd Field Artillery, the largest construction project of the current year at the post, was received on Friday, Jan. 27, by Captain Carl H. Jabelonsky, constructing quartermaster, from Major General John L. De Witt, quartermaster general.

The new building will be of the same general style and of exterior appearance as the other cuartel type of barracks built in recent years for the 29th Infantry and other units of the garrison, and will cost in the the neighborhood of $600,000. Funds for the construction of the new barracks were allotted from the emergency construction appropriations made by Congress. The allotment originally was $650,000, but a ruling of the comptroller general under the provisions of the economy act cuts this amount by ten per cent, and with a further deduction of $3,200 for the preparation of plans, the amount actually available for the construction of the building will be about $581,800. The extension of service utilities, such as water mains, sewers, and power lines, and the enlargement of the present barracks central heating plant are included in the construction plans.

Call for bids on the new project were sent out on Friday by Captain Jabelonsky, and his bids will be opened in his office at Fort Benning about 10:00 a. m. February 24.

It is expected that work will begin within a week after the award of the contract, and that soon after March 1, excavation for the new structure will be well under way.

It is estimated that an average number of three to four hundrew workmen and mechanics will be employed during the progress of the work, which will probably require approximately one year to complete. In addition to the men employed directly on the building, it is expected that 1,000 additional workmen will gain employment in the production of building materials and other supplies required for the construction and fitting of the building.

The preliminary plans for the structure were drafted in the office of the constructing quartermaster at Fort Benning after conferences with the commanding officers of the units which are to occupy the building and with staff officers of The Infantry School. After the preliminary work was completed at Fort Benning, the plans were sent to the construction division of the office of the quartermaster general for approval, final

(Please turn to page 2)

Dramatic Club To Stage Third Play

Pulitzer Prize Play Is Next Offering of Fort Benning Players

The Infantry School Dramatic Club will present "Miss Lulu Bett," a comedy in three acts by Zona Gale, on Friday and Saturday, the tenth and eleventh of February. The production will be the third of the current school year, following "Pomeroy's Past" and "Cock Robin."

"Miss Lulu Bett" is an unusual type of play. It depicts typical middle-class America—the America portrayed by Sinclair Lewis in his widely-read novel, "Main Street." It is a dramatization of small town life so well done that the play won the Pulitzer Prixe in 1921.

"Miss Lulu Bett" is a distinct departure from most of the present day productions. The play for the first time gives us a stage-child that is not sweet and lovely and a grandmother that is not mild-mannered and sweet-tempered. Everywhere the pitfall of artificiality is avoided by the author with meticulous care.

Captain Walter C. Phillips, as Dwight Deacon, is the blusternig, pompous, self-centered head of the family, whose high opinion of himself is shared only by his wife, Ina, played by Mrs. J. A. Andrews. Both have been seen before Benning footlights. Mrs. Isobel Chance, one of Benning's most accomplished character actresses, is cast in the role of Lulu Bett, the unmarried sister, of Ina, whose life is smothered under the oppressive tyranny of Dwight Deacon.

Mrs. Shearer, as Mama Bett, is the disagreealbe grand-mother, the mother of Lulu and Ina, a fixture in the household.

The parts of Ninian Deacon, the brother of Dwight, and Cornish, the faltering lover of Lulu Bett, are capably taken by Captain Raymond O. Miller and Lieut. Francis H. Lanahan. Both are newcomers to the Benning stage.

Diana Deacon, played by Miss Betty Welty, falls in love with Bobby Larkin, played by Mr. Davis P. Harding. Margie Heileman, as Monona, is the youngest daughter of the Deacons.

Mrs. Orestes Cleveland, with Mrs. Totten assisting, is the director of the play. Mrs. Cleveland also directed "Pomeroy's Past" and took a part in "Cock Robin," the second production of the Infantry School Dramatic Club.

The play is extremely well-cast and the audience is assured of an evening of genuine entertainment.

Fifteen New Fords To Be Tested Here

A fleet of fifteen new one and one-half ton Ford Trucks departed from the Holabird, Maryland, quartermaster depot, near Baltimore, on Friday, en route to Fort Benning where they will be turned over to the 29th Infantry for experimentation in connection with the new infantry regimental organization and mechanization tests.

The vehicles, which are of standard commercial types, will be used and tested by the 29th Infantry under the supervision of the Infantry board, until the completion of the spring maneuvers in April and May.

-:- Things Chinese -:-

From "The Sentinel"

Now we may learn another thing about Chinese customs and ideas. God according to the Confucian teaching, is the common father of all mankind; while each man is a sort of companion to God, but his vice-gerent or deputy on earth for the propagation of the race. And so Confucius says: "By the ceremonies of the sacrifices to Heaven and Earth, we are to serve the Supreme God; and, by the ceremonies of the ancestral temple, we are to worship the ancestors. One, who understands the ceremonies of the sacrifices to Heaven and Earth and the meaning of the several sacrifices to ancestors, will find the governing of the kingdom as easy as to look into his palm."

We have learned that the Emperor, as the civic father of the people, stands in this double relation. He worships God at the Temples of Heaven and Earth, and is the only person in the empire who may properly do so, while at the same time he worships his ancestors, and the Emperor who performs all these rites and ceremonies in a proper way may find it as easy to govern a kingdom as to look into his palm. However this be, we learn that he is the only one in the empire who is allowed to worship H e a v e n and Earth, and that the Chinese are therefore not a religious but an ethical people, whose whole concern is their relation to each other.

Does Confucius believe in the soul? That he does is evidenced by the fact that it is the soul to which the worship is directed. As soon as the dead is buried the soul at once returns to the home, and is represented by the ancestral tablet. This is nothing more than a small board, made in the form of a miniature grave-stone, which thereafter represents the departed one. Of course, the soul could not dwell in the tablet, else how could there be so many tablets of Confucius in so many different Confucian temples? Confucius himself says: "The physical body goes downward, but the intelligent spirit is on high." Again he says: "The bones and flesh smoulder below, and hidden away, become the earth of the fields; but the spirit issues forth, and is displayed on high in a condition of glorious brightness."

However, Confucius does not try to prove the existence of the soul, for the Record of Rites tells us that: "The flesh of the victim may be presented raw, and as a whole, or cut up in pieces, or sodden, or thoroughly cooked; but how can we know whether the spirit does enjoy it? It is simply that the sacrificer shows his reverence to the utmost of his power." The sacrifice is, therefore, not so much for the sake of the departed spirit as for the filial development of the son.

"If the soul is unknowable, why does Confuscius make ancestor-worship necessary? It is only on the ethical ground. As we have already said that filial piety is the chief virtue of his moral system, should a son stop observing such an important principle after the death of his parents? Certainly not. It is by ancestor-worship that the nourishment of parents is followed up and filial duty to them perpetuated. Confucius says: 'Serving the dead as they were served when alive, and serving the departed as if they were still abiding among us; this is the summit of filial conduct.' Therefore, ancestor-worship is exclusively for the sake of virtue, and the worshipper does not seek anything for his own benefit. "That", adds Mr. Chen, from whom this quotation is taken, "is the noblest character of the religion of Confucius."

We have tried to give, in this chapter, the ancestor-worship of the Chinese from their own point of view. It is impossible to understand it clearly without going into their homes, seeing their tablets, or their temples, and witnessing the importance they attach to this cult. One of the officials, whose sons one of my pupils was teaching, once came to Mark (my pupil) and said:

"Teacher Liu, there is just one objection I have to your honourable religion." (Mark is a Christian.)

"Yes," answered Mark, "what is it?"

"You do not worship your ancestors," said the official.

"You do worship your ancestors, do you not?" said the official.

"I do regularly," answered the gentleman.

"You worship your father?"

"Yes."

"And your grandfather?"

"Yes."

"And your great-grandfather?"

"Yes."

"And your great-great grandfather?"

"K'e pu chih tao t'a shih shui (I do not know who he was)."

"Well now, will not the spirit of y o u r great-great-grandfather f e e l grieved to know that his son, and grandson, and great-grandson are worshipped while he is neglected?"

"Mei shiangtao (I never thought of that)."

"Well now, we just worship our Father in Heaven, and that takes all our ancestors," explained Mark, and the official never raised any further objections.

I. T. Headland,
Social Life in China.

FEFFER JEWELRY Co.
JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS
Fine Repairing
1102 Broadway Phone 3914

Shop in the Herald

Benning Herald advertisers are co-operating with YOU—they are soliciting your business; they carry the best lines of merchandise; they stand ready to serve you in every possible way, and any advertisers who deliver to Benning are ready at all times to give you this or any other service that it is in their power to render.

They not only support this important function of Benning (YOUR NEWSPAPER) but maintain every other activity they can. They appreciate your patronage, and it is to your ultimate advantage to know them.

$581,000 APPROPRIATED FOR NEW BARRACKS AT BENNING

(Continued from Page 1)

drawing of the plans, and specifications.

Accommodation for approximately 1,000 soldiers, about half of whom are now living in tents, will be furnished by the new barracks. One of the features of the portion assigned to the Special Units will be the large kitchen and dining room built on the cafeteria style to continue the improved system of messing which has proven successful in t h e m e s s now operated by the Special Units. Self-contained refrigeration units and cold storage rooms, and the very latest types of restaurant equipment will also be a feature of the Special Units and Battery messes. Heating equipment and plumbing will also be of the most improved types, and these, in addition to other improvements incorporated in the new building, will make it the most modern and comfortable barracks at Fort Benning.

Communications Is Subject Of Study In Enlisted Class

A three and a half month course of instruction for enlisted men of the regular army and national guard for the pursuit of technical studies pertaining to the installation of field communications systems will begin at the Infantry School on February 9, and will be in progress until the 26th. The course will be conducted as one of the regular classes of the academic department of the Infantry School under the supervision of the second section.

A number of soldiers of the Fort Benning garrison were detailed in orders issued by headquarters, the Infantry School, as students in the new course, and a number of enlisted men of various state organizations of the national guard are expected to arrive at Fort Benning within the next few days to enroll in the course.

Fort Benning soldiers detailed for enlisted men's communications course are as follows:

29th Inf.: Pvt. 1cl. Jas. E. Thomas, Hq. Co.; Cpl. Norman Hobbs and Pvt. 1cl. Kinch P. Carpenter, Hq. and Hq. Co., 1st Bn.; Pvt. William B. Prentice, Co. A; Pvt. 1cl. Horace N. Elkins, Co. B; Cpl. Geo. H. Patrick, and Pvt. 1cl. Alvin B. Saucer, Hq. and Hq. Co., 2d Bn.; and Pvt. Cleveland E. Tosh, Co. G.

66th Inf. (light tanks): Pvt. 1cl. Jefferson Bryant, and Pvt. Chas. J. Floyd, Hq. Co.; Pvt. Joe H. Clements, and Paul L. Bromley, Co. E; Cpl. Isaac W. Cawthorn and Pvt. Marshal K. Luther, Co. D, and Cpl. Charlie Fox, Co. E.

Cpl. John Kulikofsky and Private John O. Thomas, Co. E, 67th Inf. (medium tanks); Cpl. Robert A. Noell, Battery C, 1st Bn., 83rd F. A.; and Sgt. Thomas F. Pierce and Pvt. Jas. L. Stallings, Co. C, 2d Chemical Regiment.

National Guard students include the following:

Tech. Sgt. Louis F. Kruse, California National Guard; Sgt. Roy S. Thibeau, Connecticut National Guard; Staff Sgt. Jefferson D. Doyle, Florida National Guard; Sgt. William H. Wooley, Georgia National Guard; Sgt. G e o r g e Tam, Hawaiian National Guard! Cpl. Eugene Ridemour, and Sta Sgt. Frank Lisacchi, Illinois National Guard; Sgt. Kenneth A. Ultzer, Indiana National Guard; Staff Sgt. Leslie A. Sheets, I o w a National Guard; Staff Sgt. Luther B. Riley, and Sgt. Clarence E. Wilkinson, Maryland National Guard; Staff Sgt. Ernest Zimmerman, Sgt. William Peters, and Sgt. Quentin N. Thompson, Massachusetts National Guard; Technical Sgt. Harlan W. Wandersee, Minnesota National Guard; Sgt. Wilbur W. Bullock, Mississippi National Guard; Sgt. Everett H. Hanson, Montana National Guard; Staff Sgt. Berlie J. Dowdy, Missouri National Guard; Cpl. George D. Hancock, North Carolina National Guard; Staff Sgt. Boyd J. Joyer, North Dakota National Guard; Staff Sgt. Jazon A. Kraemer, New Jersey National Guard; Sgt. James J. Reid, Sgt. Emmett G. Murphy, Staff Sgt. William B. Bogue, Sgt. Anthony R. Cimins and

(Please turn to page 3)

Get This

It's not what you pay—It's what you get for what you pay.

You get your money's worth in every pound of OLD SETTLER'S Sausage. They are made fresh every day from healthy unsophisticated porkers. No better sausage can be bought under any brands or other suns. Enjoy the present—Eat OLD SETTLER'S Pure Pork Sausage these crisp mornings.

Every pound U. S. Government Inspected. Every pound guaranteed by

The Provision Co., Inc.

COMMUNICATIONS IS SUBJECT OF STUDY IN NEW CLASS

(Continued from page 2)

Cpl. Donald De Vries, New York National Guard; 1st Sgt. John F. Looko, and Cpl. John S. Potts, Ohio National Guard; Master Sgt. Chester E. Bentley, and Technical Sgt. Fred R. Coviness, Oklahoma National Guard; Master Sgt. William J. Stengel, Tech. Sgt. William T. See, and Cpl. Frank W. Howard, Pennsylvania National Guard; Staff Sgt. Harper L. McGady, Texas National Guard; Staff Sgt. Walter P. Hicken, Vermont National Guard; Sgt. William S. Crawford, Virginia National Guard; Staff Sgt. Haskel O. Lanham, West Virginia National Guard; and Sgt. John G. Thiel, Wisconsin National Guard.

PEP... in every step
Use
HOOD
Heels and Soles
Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Pilots Of Air Corps Reserve Greet Gov. Roosevelt Sunday

FT. McPHERSON, Ga., (Special)—On Sunday morning at 10:30, January 29, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt was greeted at Warm Springs, Ga., by eight army airplanes from Candler Field.

Major General Edw. L. King, Fourth Corp Area Commander, in reply to a request from the Chamber of Commerce and the officials of the Warm Springs Foundation, authorized the flight in connection with the training activities of Georgia Air Corps Reserve officers.

In authorizing the flight General King emphasized the importance of training of Reserve officers and directed that Air Corps Reserve pilots be given this opportunity for training under the Regular Army instructor. In this connection the General stated that there are 240 Reserve pilots in this Corps Area, thirty of whom live in Atlanta. Their training is under the supervision of the Regular Army Air Corps detachment at Candler Field where there are only nine airplanes available.

The flight was under command of Major William L. Plummer, Air Corps Reserve, of Atlanta, and under the supervision of the Regular Army Air Corps instructor for the Fourth Corps Area. The other planes were piloted by Air Corp Reserve officers from the vicinity of Atlanta.

The planes took off from Candler Field at 8:30 a. m. Tactical problems in the nature of reconnaissance work featuring both the protective mission of pursuit planes and the mission of the observation planes were given to the Reserve officers both on their journey to Warm Springs and on their return trip.

During the demonstration at Warm Springs the planes maneuvered in close formation and dropped paper bombs over the city. On completion of the demonstration the planes did not land at Warm Springs but returned to Candler Field.

Band Favorably Received Saturday In Montgomery

The participation of the 29th Infantry Band in the welcoming ceremonies extended to President Elect Roosevelt at Montgomery, Ala., last Saturday was very favorably received by Montgomery citizens and officials in charge of the reception, according to a letter received at Fort Benning from Colonel William F. Screws, one of the officials of the affair.

"On behalf of the committee in charge of the entertainment of President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, the citizens of Montgomery, and as Marshal, I wish to thank you for your hearty cooperations in sending one of the bands to Montgomery to help in the entertainment of Mr. Roosevelt" said Colonel Screws in his letter to Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School.

"The military appearance and the band from a musical standpoint made quite a hit with the people of Montgomery and the visitors who were here, and compliments were heard on all sides for the Fort Benning band." Warrant Officer George A. Norton, bandleader, was in charge of the 29th Infantry during its visit to Montgomery.

M. P.'s And Civil Police Commended By General King

The uniform courtesy of the Columbus and Muscogee County police departments in their dealings with the military personnel of Fort Benning, was the subject of a laudatory communication issued to the entire command of Fort Benning on Tuesday by Major General Campbell King, commandant.

The courtesy of the members of the two police departments has been specially evident, General King said, in the cases of traffic violations which have been committed by new arrivals at the post through ignorance of local regulations, and is deserving of sincere appreciation by the Fort Benning personnel.

In concluding his communications General King admonished the members of the garrison to inform themselves of Columbus traffic regulations and to be meticulous in the observance of them.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued From Page 1)

everyone who intended patronizing the Glee Club on the night of the show to be present. The privilege of drawing by proxy is extended to those who, for some reason or other, find it inconvenient to attend.

The idea is a new one, and, theoretically, should be a success.

The
SODA FOUNT
POST EXCHANGE
Maintains
. . . a delivery service within the post. The service is organized principally for the delivery of ice cream in large or small quantities on short notice.
The hours of this service are from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.
ALSO EXCELLENT CURB SERVICE
PHONE 69
SODA FOUNT
POST EXCHANGE
Ft. Benning, Ga.

RUBBER STAMPS
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.
24 HR. SERVICE
PHONE 556

ANNOUNCING—

PATTERSON-POPE MOTOR CO., INC.

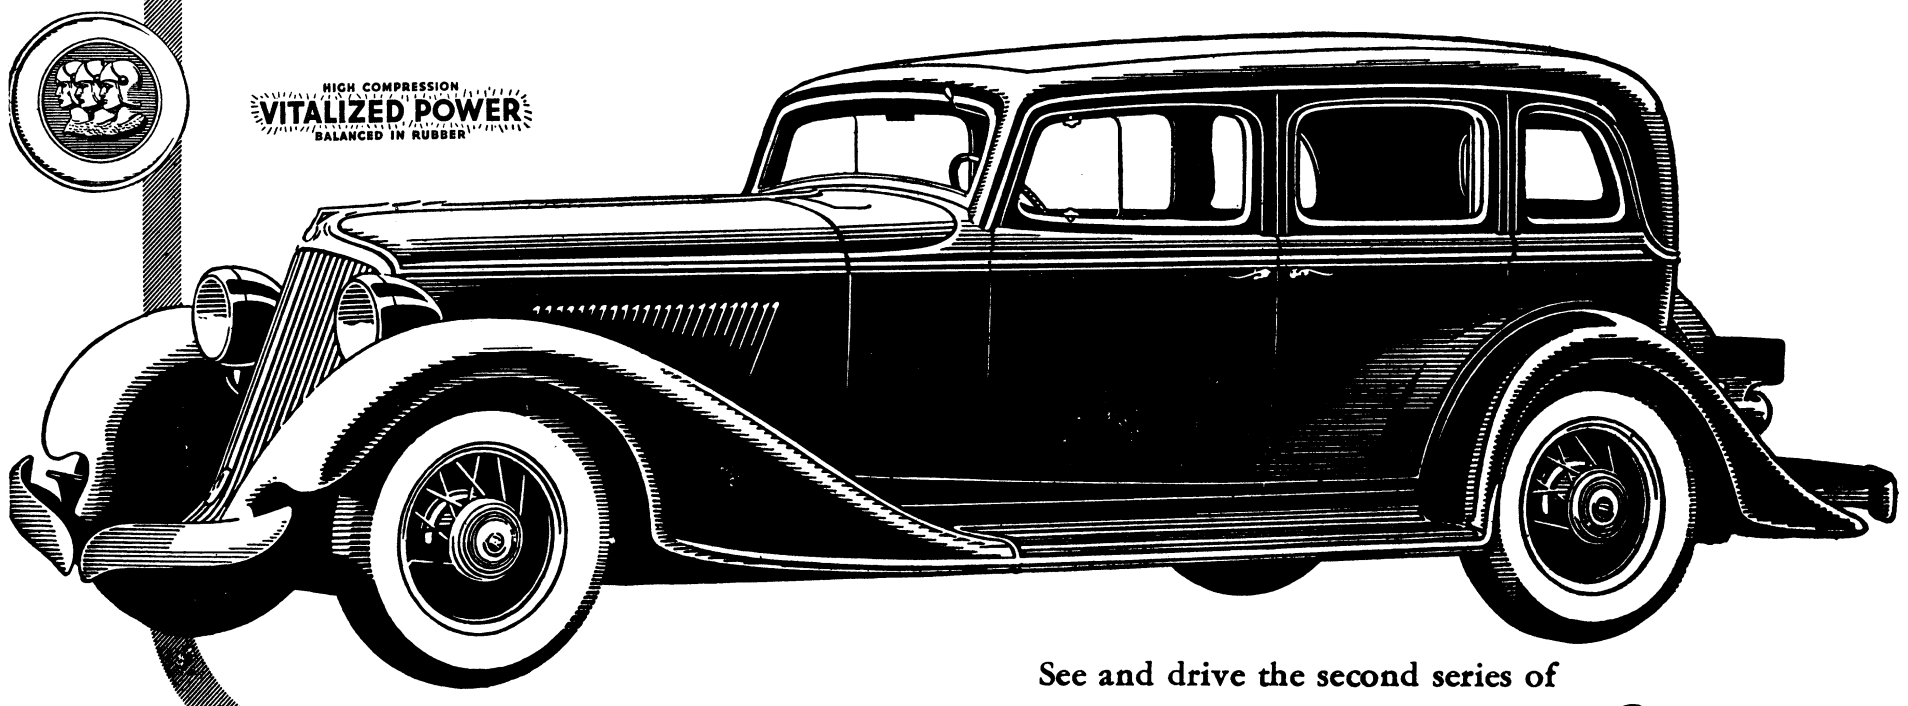
1415 — 1st AVE COLUMBUS GEORGIA

as Distributors of Graham Motor Cars

It is with very real pleasure that we announce this latest important addition to the Graham distributing organization—another in the long list of outstanding distributors and dealers who, after careful investigation, have joined the Graham organization during recent months.



See and drive the second series of

The Most Imitated Car on the Road

GRAHAM

NEW SIX, beginning at $745. NEW EIGHTS, beginning at $845. Prices at Factory, Special Equipment Extra.

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Garden Section Of Woman's Club Holds Interesting Meet; Col. Stillwell To Speak

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Garden section of the Infantry School Woman's Club was held at the home of the director Mrs. Frank Heileman, on January 30th.

A discussion of what to plant at the present time and the proper preparation of the soil was conducted by Mesdames Brown, Seeley, Pearson and Mangum. Plans were also made to have as many members as possible attend the lecture at the Woman's Club in Columbus on February 1st, when the Federated Garden Clubs of Columbus will present Prof. Heath in a lecture on Southern Gardening.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Pearson at which time there will be an exchange of plants. Tea was served by the hostess at the conclusion of the meeting.

There is indeed a treat in store for the members of the Infantry School Woman's Club at their regular monthly meeting on February 6th. for the program committee has invited Col. Stillwell to give an illustrated talk on China. With our newspapers so full each day of affairs in China, it is interesting to learn of the customs and characteristics of the country and its people, particularly when presented by a person who has lived and studied in China.

In addition to Col. Stillwell's talk Mrs. Raymond Pearson will play two piano solos. Mrs. Philip Woods and Mrs. S. L. Buracker will be hostesses for the afternoon.

—Theodosia Lee Barnett. Secretary.

DAUGHTERS OF THE ARMY HOLD FIFTH ANNIVERSARY MEETING

The fifth anniversary of the founding of the Daughters of the United States Army was held on Thursday, January 26th at the quarters of Mrs. Thomas G. Hearn. The gathering consisted of a business meeting followed by tea. Mrs. John Huling, Jr., and Mrs. Carlisle B. Irwin assisted the hostess. Preceding tea, a short paper was read by Mrs. Thomas W. Brown, the president of the D. U. S. A. on the history of the society. The advisability of moving the national headquarters to Washington, D. C. was discussed, as also plans for a fashion show.

* * *

P.-T. A. CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY AT MEETING AT POLO HUNT CLUB THURSDAY

The Fort Benning Parents-Teacher Association met Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the Polo Hunt Club. This particular meeting was of outstanding interest for two reasons; the thirty-sixth anniversary of the P.-T. A. was celebrated, and for the occasion the eminent lecturer, Dr. Otis Knight of Mercer University of Macon, Ga., gave an interesting talk on "The Adults' and Children's World Around Us.

* * *

LAST OF BRIDGE TOURNAMENT HELD ON THURSDAY

The last of the preliminary bridge tournaments was held Thursday evening at the Officers' Club. This marks the end of a series of three preliminaries. Winners from these are eligible to play in the semi-finals which will be held in the near future. The officers in charge of these tournaments are Maj. Thomas S. Arms, Capt. Raymond E. Vermette and Lieut. William A. D. Thomas. The bridge lovers at Fort Benning feel that these officers are to be congratulated upon the success of the tournament and hope that others will be held in the future.

* * *

SUPPER DANCES AT THE OFFICERS' CLUB TO BEGIN AGAIN ON FEBRUARY NINTH

The first supper dance since the period of mourning for Ex-President Coolidge will be held at the Officers' Club on the evening of February 9. A capacity number of reservations have been made for that evening. On February 23rd, plans are being made to make the supper dance on that night the occasion of a welcome for the National Guard and Reserve officers who will arrive on February 21.

* * *

MAJ. AND MRS. DABNEY ENTERTAIN AT OFFICERS' CLUB

Maj. and Mrs. Albert S. Dabney were the hosts to a few of their friends in the Medical Corps at a dinner at the Officers' Club last Saturday evening.

* * *

MAJ. AND MRS. KINBERGER ARE HOSTS AT DINNER AT OFFICERS' CLUB

Maj. and Mrs. Albert G. Kinberger entertained Sunday evening at a delightful dinner at the Officers' Club. After dinner movies were in order. Maj. and Mrs. Kinberger had as their guests a few of their friends in the Medical Corps.

(Please turn to Page 5)

Today's Fashion

Of Navy Blue Woolen.

By VERA WINSTON

HERE IS a chic afternoon frock. It is of light weight navy blue woolen with pockets at the tops of side panels. The soft belt is of the same material and has free sash ends. The loose, three-quarter length sleeves end in loose cuffs decked with buttons. The undersleeves and the kerchief collar are made of taffeta in a plaid pattern of blue, white and gray, and the dress buttons onto the front of the kerchief collar with matching buttons. One of the latest models, this is very chic and graceful.

Girl Scouts

Cardinal Troop

What a perfect meeting we had today. Mrs. Gailliard kindly came to help us sing some songs, and we sang as we never have before. Our "Hike Song" has pepped up a hundred percent, and "Taps" have evened out and sounds much better. Some of us even sang alto with real success!

Here's an important announcement: The Court of Awards is to be on February 24 at the Girl Scout Cabin. It will mean a mile-stone in our progress, one of the most important events in the year, the only other event be-

(Please turn to page 5)

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning
through the
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED

READ HERALD ADVERTISEMENTS

THE POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GA.

. . . is an institution founded to provide the personnel of this post with a service by means of which they may at all times obtain articles of general use not easily purchasable otherwise.

THE POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange is not authorized to sell to anyone not in the military service.

Special $2 Permanent Wave will continue thru the next five days.

MRS. R. G. DEITZ
New Beauty Shoppe
1106 1-2 Broadway Phone 9286

NOTICE

Our Three Grade Prices
ON SHOE REPAIRING
Have Proven Satisfactory
To The Public

We wish to thank you for your patronage.

1st A good half sole ..... 50c
2nd A Better half sole ..... 75c
3rd LAMAC SOLE ..... $1.00

Every Job Guaranteed

We have the only 5-unit machine in the city.

EXPERT DYEING
25 Colors to select from.

BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
Phone 565 1234 Broadway
We Call For And Deliver

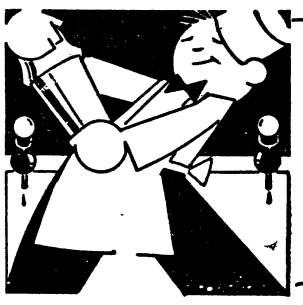
If you like something different, something that will last and something beautiful—then visit the Philippine Handwork Shop
Opposite Wynnton School

FULLER BRUSH
REPRESENTATIVE
J. M. NORRIS
Phone 717-W or call at 715 Broadway —from 12 noon to 1 P. M. or 5 P. M. to 6 P. M. week days and Saturday 3 P. M. to 6 P. M.



TRY THIS!

Uncap NEHI MALTED CHOCOLATE. Pour into cocktail shaker or electric mixer. Add crushed ice. Shake well. Serve contents of one bottle in large glasses to two people.

NEHI MALTED CHOCOLATE On Sale
AT ALL CANTEENS—BUY IT BY THE CASE

To Ladies of Fort Benning

We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.

OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Baths
Reducing, Facial, Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydrio, Electro } Therapy

Swedish Massage
Swedish Facial Massage
Swedish Scalp Treatments
Turkish Shampoos
Special Reducing Treatment
Swedish Shampoos

Rigdon Health Institute
216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

SOCIETY

(Continued From Page 4)

* * *

MRS. PIERCE AND MRS. BRADY JOINT HOSTESSES AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. James R. Pierce and Mrs. Lynn E. Brady will be joint hostesses Friday evening at a party in celebration of the birthdays of Mrs. Pierce and Lieut. Brady. The guests will assemble at nine p. m. bearing amusing gifts not to exceed twenty-five cents in cost for the honorees and must make a speech of presentation. At midnight a supper will be served to about fifteen friends of the hostesses.

* * *

MRS. HOWELL HOSTESS TO BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. George P. Howell was the hostess Friday to the weekly meeting of her contract bridge club. Luncheon was served at one followed by two tables of contract bridge. Her guests were: Mrs. Selina Waddington, Mrs. Raymond E. Vermette, Mrs. Lynn E. Brady, Mrs. James E. Bowen, Mrs. Clayton Studebaker, Mrs. Orestes Cleveland, Mrs. Charles T. Lanham, and Miss Harriott Atkins.

* * *

MISS JANE DECKER CELEBRATES FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. George H. Decker was the hostess Saturday afternoon to her small daughter, Jane, at a delightful birthday party in celebration of her daughter's fifth birthday. A birthday cake topped by five candles, and accompanied by ice cream, was served to fifteen of Jane's young friends.

PERSONALS

Maj. and Mrs. Albert S. Dabney have as their house guest the latter's sister, Mrs. J. W. Loughruy of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lieut. and Mrs. Wendell G. Johnson are to be congratulated upon the birth of a son, Wendell G. Johnson, Jr., at the Station Hospital on January 20th.

Mrs. Guy W. Hartman left Friday to spend the weekend with friends in Atlanta.

Friends of Mrs. William E. Persons, wife of Col. William E. Persons, will be glad to know that she arrived on the Post last Saturday. Col. Persons, who has been on duty as commanding officer of the U. S. A. T. "Republic," will arrive to take command of the 29th Infantry the latter part of this month.

Lieut. Charles L. Decker, Lieut. Augustus W. Dannemiller and Lieut. Julian L. Chappell left Monday for a week's detail with the Air Corps at Maxwell Field.

CLEVER HOSTESS!

She knows that her guests are as critical as can be . . . so she serves Foremost every time! Foremost always makes a hit!

Call the SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

(Letter continued from Page 1)

You will note that the leads are taken by Mrs. Dorothy Eley and Lieutenant Silas W. Hosea. As you know, Mrs. Eley is a trained musician of much experience and her beautiful voice will add immeasurably to the success of the play. Lieutenant Hosea, Captain Clark and Captain Elliott also have trained voices of very fine quality. Mrs. Reeder, Lieutenant Raymond and Lieutenant Cleveland, who have the comedy leads, need no comment, as they have shown what they can do in the past. The minor principals are all equally good —in fact the entire cast is unusually fine.

Our chorus of about forty-five voices is doing some singing that would do credit to any company. In addition to this, we have a chorus of young girls who are going to put on three very beautiful dances, and last, but by no means least, Miss Jacqueline Cowley, who is a trained dancer and who has had considerable stage experience, is going to do the "Rumba" for us. What do you think of that?

The play itself is working out wonderfully. The music is very tuneful and catchy, and everybody is going to be very much pleased with it. The play is a comedy which, I have been told by a number of qualified people, would be good enough to go on the stage without any music at all. So you can see that the combination of a fine play with fine music is going to get big results.

Of course you remember that last year there were over 2300 paid admissions to the "Red Mill" and everybody was delighted with it. The only reason why we will not greatly exceed that number this year is that the Theatre will not hold any more. Already we are getting ready to start the sale of tickets.

Now please don't get the idea I am trying to make you feel badly in writing this letter. I know it will, but feel sure that, even so, you want to know all about what the Club is going to do.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

E. W. Leard,
Major, Infantry,
President.

Little Brown Hands

The following article is written by Mrs. O. S. Robles, who is in charge of the Philippine Handiwork Shop, where many specimens of the art mentioned in the article may be seen. Mrs. Robles is thoroughly acquainted with many phases of Filipino art, and her assortment is unusually complete.

Far from Benning, ten thousand miles away across the Pacific ocean, little brown hands are deftly tracing delicate patterns in rainbow hues with a swift sure touch inherited from three-hundred years of talented ancestors. Out in Paranaque, suburb of Manila, dwells the community of embriodery makers. Since the days of Spanish rule, the needle art has been passed from generation to generation to meet the demands of the "foreigners." The entire Barrio of Paranaque is devoted to embroidery making, and in each nipa shack the first rays of dawn see dark heads bent over three foot hoops and needles flying industriously. When the days grow warm the work is taken beneath the house, sitting high on its ten foot poles, and, squatting in a circle, grandmother, mother and grand-daughter all follow the pattern traced in pencil on voile from France or organdy from Switzerland. In one corner sometimes squats an old Filipino woman, eyes unseeing, dreaming of a lotus pattern, hibiscus, or perhaps cadena d'Armour shaping in the thread, while little brown hands lie idle, and blindness takes its toll at middle age.

Under every nipa shack in the district the workers squat in concentrated groups. Pigs and chickens grunt, strut and walk about unheeded, children play contentedly—some of them are being taught to ply a needle even before they learn to walk. An immense cigar passes from mouth to mouth. and gossip is shouted from one group to another. Sarcastic remarks are passed about regarding the foreigners who resent a mere drop of betel-nut or tobacco juice on a pale bit of loveliness. Why should a few spots concern the fussy Americano when they pay only a few dollars for weeks of expert, back-breaking labor?

At last the agent arrives to collect the finished pattern, and the air grows thick with lusty haggling over prices. Pigs and babies add to the shrill uproar, and finally brown hands clutch a few dirty pesos permitting months of labor to go forth to tempt callous tourists. A few pesos to fill the pot with rice, garnished with a touch of garlic, and a few "powerful" fish on the side. As long as eyes are bright, little brown hands continue to fashion leaves and flowers in every hue, but nature finally exacts its toll and blindness results only too soon.

Farther away in the high, dense fastnesses of the Cayaguan Mountains, darker hands are working a different are. Practically nude bodies of Igorot women brace against the threads of ten-foot looms and fingers patiently shuttle back and forth, in and out, the brightness of the threads being the only relief from the monotony of pursuing a trade as old as the tribes themselves. It is by these Igorots that the famous Ilocano cloth is woven. Before civilization entered and conquered their mountain heights, the Igorot women wove their one and only garment from the home-spun cocoanut fiber threads. Vegetable dyes gave brilliance to each piece of cloth, and they soon attracted the eyes of the early white pioneers. Demands for strips of goods followed, and some one with an enterprising undertook to encourage the natives in weaving articles of commercial value. Money held no charms, but there were more important articles in the eyes of an Igorot warrior than cloth. Brass rings to encircle brown necks or arms were much more fascinating than something they were accustomed to, and they coveted them highly. So, out of the looms of the native women came strange pieces of cloth, which the white Americanos would use for their tables, for their windows, and to add brilliant color to their homes, and it was exchanged for the shining brass. Such stupid Americanos!—to give up such treasure, and sometimes a rare morsel could be had in the form of a live, tender dog, to roast whole on an open fire, just by weaving a few bed-covers—a mere matter of four months of plying the bobbin.

With the passing of years, the Igorot remains shy and untamed. Living in small groups, they move about the mountains and valleys, hunting game, and occasionally remaining in one spot long enough to grow a patch of rice, cabbages or to plan bananas. A three foot shelter is made of a roof, and two sides, with the mountain-side dug out for a back, and with no front. Three inches off the ground, strips of bamboo are criss-crossed to form a bed on which the Igorot sleeps in a squatting posture, and the rainwater flows through the house under the bed and on out of the frontless lean-to. In death, the Igorots are buried in the same squatting position, the body generally being smoked and placed in a cave.

History repeats itself in the case of the Igorots, Bontocs, and other mountain tribes, by introducing the white man's evils along with the benefits he brings. Tuberculosis takes its toll, and easy living, coupled with the national pastime of head-hunting, has reduced the once powerful mountain tribes to an ever-diminishing people. Their only commercial product is their weaving, and as years pass and unhealthful conditions make their inroads, the looms stand empty one by one, dark hands grow still, and the ever-wearing, many-hued Baguio linens will soon join the land of lost arts.

In highland and lowland, from Luzen to Mindanao, life goes on much as it did many years back, and life is fashioned by dark, brown hands from the cradle to the roof.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

(Continued from page 4)

ing the second Court of Awards.

Besides coming to Scout meetings, the girls are doing much outside work, such as merit badges or test passing. Most of the Cardinals are taking the difficult Cyclist badge, in which Mr. Davenport, of Columbus, is instructing. Others are working on the Athlete, which Maj. Bradley is taking. We are going to be prepared for this big occasion on the 24th!

Pine Tree Troop

We had a new girl come today, who we are glad to welcome into our troop.

Today was election day, also, because the half year is up. Patrol leaders were voted upon, and only one was changed, the new one being Shirley Rooks.

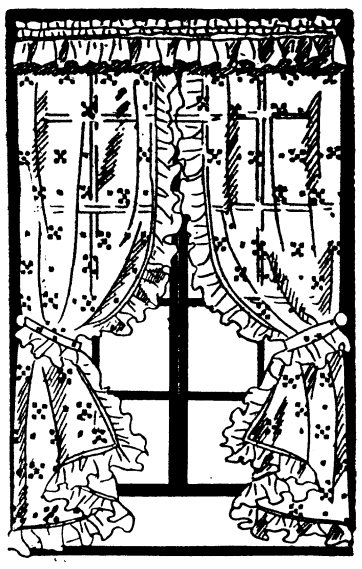
Mrs. Matchett helped us finish our nature, today, while others practised upon their signalling. We're going to be Second Class Scouts pretty soon, with all this preparation.

At the good-night circle we sang "The Gold Sun," and "Hello" to our new leader, Miss Harriotte Atkins.

Draperies

Slip Cover Material

Latest Precilla Style Ruffled Curtains



6 inch ruffle and valances

2½ yds. long, full width.
A really lovely curtain in two colors.

Ecru

Ivory

$1.50 and $1.98 Pair

Sunfast Chintz
In Lovely New Patterns

Marquisettes
In New Spring Colors

Striped Jaspe
Green — Rust — Blue — Natural
The New Slip Cover Material
50 Inches Wide

Blocked Irish Linen
Floral Designs — 50 Inches Wide

Monks Cloth
Natural and Colors — 50 Inches Wide

Cottage Set Curtains
For the Kitchen, Bed Rooms and Bath

New Puff Braid Rugs

Our experienced decorators will come to your home with selections of material and take measurements, if desired, at no cost to you.

Drapery Department

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II FEBRUARY 3, 1933 NUMBER 41

L. C. Kunze ---------- Publisher
A. F. Kunze ---------- Editor
Felicia C. Howell ---------- Society Editor
D. P. Harding ---------- Sports Editor
John W. Pearce ---------- Advertising Manager
Louis T. Kunze ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject any advertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

LIEUTENANT PEEP'S DIARY

Wednesday, January 25

Home this evening all but blinded by the afternoon's display of nickel- and chrome-plated wagons, carts and machine guns which do appear to be indispensable equipment on the post, so great is their profusion. And I can readily believe that they are profitable adjuncts to training, a nickel-plated escort wagon being by all odds the easiest thing in a regiment to find during a night maneuver. As to the rococo machine gun and cart I do hand the palm to Captain Cordoba for perfect comment; "That gun she should shoot only gold bullet; and for cooling fill the jacket with champagne."

Major Kingman should be reminded that the class considers the Tanks below average in something or other, they having shown no interest whatever in nickel-plating a tank or even a tank carrier for our bedazzlement.

Information abroad today as to those who will likely take the Tank Course next year, one of whom I am not to be among which. One at a time I am relieved of my ideas for possibilities in June. Practically the only one remaining is the possibility of being able to leave this place by other means than walking. There is always the chance of being assigned to the 29th but doubt assails me as to whether it be more profitable to walk and be gone from here or to walk and still be here.

Thursday, January 26

In receipt of the Horse Group's ten-page mimeograph on "The Military Seat." I am lost in admiration for the man who could discourse at that length about sitting, for Lord, I should be much put to it to produce that much copy on the combined subjects of walking, running, and the position "prone supine." The part which tretas of the eyes being part of the seat does somewhat savor of the young lady of fiction who blushed and dropped her eyes into the coffee cup.

Having read only as far as page three prior to equitation today, I did offer a minor prayer that the horse might confine his activities to those pages, for had he made a move on, say, page five I had been lost and if he had jumped to page ten I might even now be hospitalized.

For my own part I do think that the instruction might be more condensed thus affording the student much additional time for practice of the exercise. It might be expounded in two or three short steps. First, catch a horse. That one step would eliminate nine-tenths of the trouble, for Lord, who can be bothered running down a horse in the first place. Second, (student having made any score better than U in the first step) sit down carefully after making perfectly sure that the horse is on the bottom of the pile. Period. Relax the mimeograph machine.

Friday, January 27

More of indirect laying and I am in full accord with Wu who, after appropriate epithets at a battery chart, remarked "By the time I get all this done a great big Jap be standing on top of me."

A nice two hour message a cheval this afternoon and I do thank God that Major Thompson's policy is to break us in easily else he would now have 75% of the class eating meals from the mantel instead of only 50%.

Saturday, January 28

The appearance of the coal wagon again at my neighbor's fuel shed did recall to me Mrs. Hosea's astonishment last fall in scanning the housing chart in the Ralston Hotel. House after house was listed as being heated by "Sunbeam." Quoth the fair lady "Oh I don't want any of those houses! What in the world would we do on a cloudy day?" Methinks she knows now.

Monday, January 30

The class the victim of an engineer joke the first hour, Major Heileman announcing that we would not be required to memorize much in the mimeo on field engineering but we would be required to know paragraphs 3 and 4. Later inspection of the pamphlet did convince me of the Major's magnanimity. He excuses us from specking the title page, the table of contents and the paragraph on the object of the course, the latter now being apparent without reading.

Our course in motors moves forward but carries gloom to the class as we become increasingly conscious of our inabilities even to drive a car. Major Henry and Captain Williams did so thoroughly cow us on Friday that I will lay even money that not a choke was pulled out from a dashboard over the week-end and this morning I know that the haggard faces are directly due to exceptionally early rising to warm up the car.

Tomorrow there will be thirty cars in the Post Exchange garage for carburetor repair or adjustment, and I could tip off the management that if they will but follow closely our schedule of motors instruction they can foretell exactly what car troubles to prepare for daily.

In my box today another battery chart all covered with pretty printed figures. I do now have more solutions than problems and if I can but make that situation last until after the graded test it will be an affair for rejoicing. One student avers that if this thing keeps up he will not write to Sears, Roebuck for their catalog.

Following instructions, each student carried a map to equitation today. Murphy much puzzled at his inability to locate the water tanks on Maglin's map, Maglin in his hasty departure having snatched up a map of Fort Ethan Allen. "But," he philosophized, "it's all right. The horse won't know the difference."

Tuesday, January 31

The class assembled intact at the tank section school room minus only two members, one of whom was reported as in the hospital from having looked too long at the ammeter on the dash (the insurance will cover his car) and the other who was last seen at Brown Avenue and Wynnton trying to cross the street without using the choke.

Major Henry to great lengths to explain the dangers of inhaling carbon monoxide gas. The symptoms following inhalation—headache, pains in the neck, drowsiness—do convince me that many lecturers we have heard are suffering from incomplete combustion.

The class unanimous in its enthusiasm over Major Henry's discussions. For myself I do feel ashamed to be paid for being so well amused during an entire morning, having often parted with shekels for a paltry hour of a much inferior variety of entertainment.

—Lieut. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

By Major Homer L. Conner
Medical Inspector

FLY CONTROL

Fly Breeding

The fly, especially the house fly, has habits which make it an important factor in the spread of disease.

It breeds in filth. It may carry this filth to your food. It is therefore necessary to control the fly to prevent the spread of disease.

To control the fly we must know that the adult female deposits 120 or more small white eggs in a cluster on or in any organic moist material which will furnish food and warmth for the larvae (maggots.) One female usually lays from two to four such batches of eggs during her life time; but when conditions as to heat and moisture and filth for food are just right she may deposit as many as twenty batches. In other words one female may lay as many as 2,000 eggs.

The length of the egg stage depends on the proper amount of moisture and varies according to the temperature. The usual time is about 12 hours. Temperatures between 85 and 90 degrees F. hatch eggs in about 8 hours; a temperature of 40 degrees prolongs this time to 3 or 4 days. The maggot is a very active small white worm which burrows into the fermenting masses where the eggs were deposited in search of food. It grows rapidly by succsesive molts and reaches maturity in 4 or 5 days unless the weather is cold or theer is a lack of food and moisture.

When full growth is reached the maggot migrates to a cooler, dryer place to enter the pupa stage. Then the body contracts and thickens; the outer surface hardens to form a case or shell; the color becomes dark; it cannot feed. In this case the adult fly develops, taking 3 to 10 days in the process according to weather conditions.

When the adult fly emerges from the shell it crawls to the surface and as soon as the wings harden it is ready for flght.

The female fly reaches sexual maturity and begins to deposit eggs in from 3 to 20 days.

Under very favorable conditions the period from eggs to adult fly may be as short as 7 days.

It therefore follows that any material in which flies can develop must not, in the summer time, be allowed to accumulate for a period longer than one week.

Flies do not grow after hatching. When they come out of the pupa case they are full grown. Flies smaller or larger than the house fly are different varieties. As a rule these different flies are not seen around buildings, in houses, and on food like the house fly.

Their breeding habits are the same but because they are less often seen on our food they are by that much a lessened menace to our health. The house fly does not bite, it does not suck food. It sucks liquids but can not penetrate the unbroken skin. It is attracted by food odors. It is a greedy feeder and where the food is dry, such as sugar, it liquifies the food first by depositing moisture on it. This act is called regurgitation and the deposit of feces occurs at frequent intervals whenever feeding occurs and is the common method of contaminating our food with disease germs.

The house fly does not migrate far provided food and breeding places are nearby. When conditions are unfavorable they will migrate as far as a mile in search of food, or even longer if carried by air currents.

The average length of lfe of the fly is about one month. They are rendered inactive by cold and are killed at temperatures below 10 to 15 degrees F.

The house fly does not survive the winter months as an adult. It is the pupal or larval stage that survives the cold weather.

Growth and changes in these stages is prolonged and irregular; a spell of warm weather allows the fly to emerge. Continuous breeding can occur in heated buildings. At Fort Benning weather conditions are such that flies breed the entire year.

Next week more will be said about methods of control.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

NOT SO CHEAP AFTER ALL

The punch board at the Golf Club had only eight chances left when the foursome made up by Colonel Weeks, General Jarvis, Major Leard and Lieut. W. L. Mitchell finished their 18 holes.

Brother Leard who has a flair for any kind of gentleman's gambling game led off by taking two of the punches, then General Jarvis took one and finally Colonel Weeks took four. The gamblers were lucky in that most of their punches were either free or cost but little. Colonel Weeks, for instance, punched three no charge tickets and the fourth carried only a thirty-six cent penalty.

One chance only was left and, according to the rules, the man punching the last chance gets a 35 cent golf ball. The privilege was therefore one to be competed for and the dice were produced to decide the issue. As frequently happens in like cases, the man who had done nothing to bring about conditions won. Lieutenant Mitchell punched and the golf ball was his. Then he looked at the slip to see how much, if anything, it had cost him. The slip read 90 cents.

NOTE:—To make the foregoing story right, Colonel Weeks should have won the grand prize—a set of matched golf clubs. The fact that he had already won a set at a small outlay on a previous punch board is just another reason why he should have won another. Our experience as a member of the Thanatopsis Club has convinced us that Lady Luck delights in piling it on thick when she plays favorites. This time, however, she showed her true fickle nature by permitting Major Gilchrist, who has been wooing her via the punch board for lo these many years, to carry off the capital prize.

LEAVENWORTH NOTES

Captain John P. Horan, one of Benning's home town boys who is now a big Corps and Army man at Fort Levingsworth, sends in the following instructor's wise crack from the Command and General Staff School:

"One of the officers here recently got back one of his examinations. When the instructor corrected it and marked "S" on it, the rubber stamp slipped blurring the "S." So he stamped another "S" along side the first one. The student took the paper to the instructor and asked what sort of a grade an "S-S" was. The instructor's not altogether flattering reply was "Scarcely Satisfactory."

---

Captain Horan also furnishes this one from the same source, indicating that even at the Command and General Staff School, instructors occasionally say things that may be confusing to the slower witted members of the class:

"In a CSL problem one of the students asked the instructor 'Did you say that ammunition dump was five miles west of Easton or five miles east of Weston?' The instructor replied 'I said it was five miles east of Easton, no, I mean five miles west of Weston. Just a minute now, is Easton west of Weston or is Weston east of Easton. Look on your maps. Whichever town is west of the other one the ammunition dump is five miles east of that one."

"As a matter of fact Weston is in Missouri and is fifteen miles east of Easton which is in Kansas."

Captain Horan sent in these illuminating examples of instructional repartee and unconscious humor some time ago, but the letter somehow got lost in our horizontal file. We just happened to dig it up while looking for something else. The great fault with the convenient horizontal filing system is that anything that gets into it is likely to stay there until one cleans out the drawer on a change of station. It would be just our luck to find a lot of choice Flare material sandwiched between stacks of old bills, letters urging reduction of bank loans, circulars offering to let us in on the ground floor of wonderful money making opportunities and the like. To our friends who have given us little items that never appeared in print, we offer the filing system as a possible explanation. It must have been that, unless—as sometimes happens—the item had too much dynamite in it for us to handle.

PERILS OF THE CHASE

We attended our first wild boar hunt last Sunday. Back in the regime of Sir Roger Williams and Squire Jerry Wood, when all wild game hunts were scheduled for 5:00 a. m., our restrained enthusiasm for the chase was not sufficient to overcome our religious scruples against early rising on the Sabbath. The present masters show a commendable regard for the Fourth Commandment by starting their pig hunts two hours later. This is still rather early for us to be up and doing, but we can make a 7:00 a. m. formation if put to it. It really isn't half bad after we are up.

On this particular occasion, our unaccustomed zeal for early morning equitation was rewarded. After a long but not unpleasant ride we were privileged to witness a spirited wrestling match between a couple of Captains of Infantry and a pig. The Captains won and the hog—a husky young boar—was duly muzzled and secured by lead ropes attached to one fore and one hind foot.

To get back to the horses involved a river crossing and Harp's Creek with its steep sides were something of an obstacle to the triumphant procession. Captain Lawson, standing on the edge of the stream bed, watched with interest to see how the pig would negotiate the steep descent. Whereupon the outraged animal plunged blindly over the bank, rolled down upon the surprised huntsman, and knocked his legs out from under him. Man and beast rolled in the mud together and but for the Captain's language, one might have thought that they were just having a sociable joint wallow. Then the party broke up and Captain Lawson, covered with clay and confusion, rejoined the field.

Whether the pig, angered by the rough treatment he had received and foreseeing his ultimate end, deliberately jumped on Captain Lawson in a last effort to revenge himself upon his captors or whether it was just an accident we shall never know. In either case, however, Captain Lawson will derive more than gastronomic satisfaction from the barbecue which his little playmate is destined to grace.

SAFETY FIRST PROPOGANDA

Now that roller skating is enjoying

(Please turn to page 10)

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

Advanced Class chasers of the elusive "A" will be gratified to learn that Lieutenant Maurice Jennings has completed the first draft of his proposed appendix for "Reference Data" covering the subject of assumed hours for sleep of personnel of a Blue Infantry Brigade with a regiment of light artillery and a battalion of medium artillery attached. The compiler of this data—known to the natives throughout Manchuria as "The Great Burner of the Fields" because of his exploits during the Russo-Japanese War—is strong in his conviction that such an appendix must be included in the Leavenworth blue book, if service school students are to gain proper appreciation of the difficulties inherent in night operations.

Interviewed by your correspondent yesterday evening—your correspondent being camouflaged for the occasion as an Alabama state prohibition enforcement agent—Lieutenant Jennings shot a suspicious look through the rim of his glasses at the interviewer, and expressed himself as follows:

"Such a work is essential! I shall complete my final draft by June 1 and carry it in person to the Command and General Staff School two weeks later. About two days after my arrival Congress will pass a bill prohibiting any movement of any kind by army officers for two years. That will make it necessary for me to stay at Fort Leavenworth for that period. And that will be hard to take.

"But, to the matter at hand. When the Reds are sleeping makes all the difference in the world as to their combat strength at time of contact. Any normal human being can see that. I sometime doubt whether there are any normal instructors in the First Section. How can I make a tactical where, which, why, when, what, who decision, or for that matter, a whom, if I am not in possession of a table showing hours of sleep per man at stated intervals during the night? My opus is all-inclusive, and for the military scholar will sweep away difficulties as rain is driven before the chaff."

The great Burner of the Fields raised his glasses, poised a pencil near the interviewer's nose, and continued with considerable enthusiasm:

"But to the subject at hand. My data will cover sleeping on a Gettysburg, Benning, or Leavenworth map. There will be suitable footnotes covering daylight saving time repose. Also, I have taken into consideration such matters as siestas. My good friend, Captain Castano ee Garcia, is collaborating with me on this section of the draft. For example. The daily schedule calls for a conference and map problem on the subject of an attack at dawn. The date given is July 7. I turn to a table in the Reference Data and find that at 4:30 p. m. between July 1 and 15, both inclusive, forty percent of the Red soldiers can be assumed to be taking a nap. With that information at my finger tips, will I fool around in the dark all night waiting to attack at sunrise minus one hour? I will not! I'll let the First Section lose that night's sleep."

Lieutenant Jennings again raised his glasses, made a wry face, replaced his pencil in close proximity to your correspondent's nostril, and, somewhat thickly, continued:

"I don't think much of this oak chip racket, do you? But to discussion of the subject under discussion. I have included a table of assumed hours for sleep under one, two, or three blankets. Certainly blankets, especially in winter, must be considered as a morale factor and therefore a combat strength factor. Strange is it not that so many students forget, in map problems, to send forward the blanket rolls? Likewise, I have a chart of conventional signs covering alert, semi-alert, and non-alert troops in squatting, kneeling, and simple standing trenches. Then, there is a table covering in great detail the percentage of interruption of sleep caused by the location in forward and rear areas of such installations as field train bivouacs, narrow gauge railroads, bombardment squadrons, and jiggers."

Elevating his glasses once more, the Great Burner whistled, closed

(Please turn to page 10)

LONG LIFE Buick USED CARS

TODAY'S SPECIAL

1931 OAKLAND "8" SEDAN.—This late model 8 cylinder Oakland Sedan is one of the cleanest jobs we have handled in some time. It's powerful 8 cylinder motor is in perfect shape—Original factory finish that looks like new.

1931 CHEVROLET SPORT SEDAN—This is a 6 wire wheel job. Original finish that looks like new. Radiator guard and lots of other equipment.

1931 BUICK SPORT COUPE—One of the best looking Coupes in Columbus—Brand new tires—new top and just refinished in beautiful new Duco colors—6 wire wheels and trunk rack.

1931 CHEVROLET SPORT SEDAN—See this Chevrolet with its perfectly performing motor—six wire wheels, radiator guard, trunk rack and trunk—6 good tires. Original finish.

ALL THESE ARE VALUES:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1929 Essex Coupe | $195.00 |
| Packard Sedan—Late | $700.00 |
| 1929 Nash Sedan | $295.00 |
| 1930 Essex Sedan | $295.00 |
| 1927 Buick Coach | $185.00 |
| 1930 Buick Coupe | $525.00 |
| 1929 Whippet Truck | $ 85.00 |
| 1929 Studebaker Sedan | $265.00 |
| Willys Knight Roadster | $ 55.00 |
| 1929 Hudson Sport Sedan | $450.00 |
| 1929 Chevrolet Coupe | $245.00 |
| 1928 Buick Coupe | $185.00 |
| 1929 Buick Coach | $295.00 |
| 1929 Buick Sport Sedan | $495.00 |
| 1929 Buick Standard Sedan | $385.00 |
| 1928 Chrysler Imperial "80" Sedan | $385.00 |
| 1930 Chevrolet Coach | $295.00 |

Plenty of others, almost any make, style and price also ready for service.

Liberal Terms—Convenient Terms

CLIFF M. AVERETT

INC.

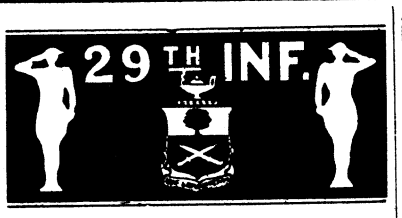
1441 FIRST AVE. PHONE 887



BATTERY "A"

Martingale North rendered "The moon comes over the mountain" with telling effect payday night. Bean Pole and Harry were pried off him with difficulty.

Jughead Killingsworth looks a new man now. A certain lady with uncertain eyes gave him a thorough grooming the other night. Ask him!

Beer is certainly coming back. Our esteemed Mess Sergeant (you know him) is getting us gradually used to this foamy beverage. At a blowout (smoker to you) last week, we imbibed several snorts of the synthetic stiff,—adds up to one-tenth of one-half per cent alki.

Cpl. Fulford is making arrangements to transfer to the Pill rollers.

Harvey had hair cut. The barber won't say who applied the twitch. Ham-hock Fuller is with us again. All butts appreciated. They can't make a blacksmith drive a wheel pair; Eh Bruckett?

Johnnie Pollard, late of "Wire City," Georgia is back to duty. Hide your chips, boys.

Goldbrick Summerill is knitting a chest protector while in the Hospital.

BATTERY "C"

The battery is having its annual gas drill, and from the looks of things, the battery is about gassed. However the drill is interesting for the new men who never have had experience in this line. Bill Mallard has reenlisted for three years, so the second section and the football team are safe for another three years.

Sgt. Miller is about to return from his furlough and is all set to continue his excellent work with the battery.

The firing with the sub-caliber on the moving tanks had as usual its laughs and tears. Our recruits showed that they will make good drivers, by taking the battery out to Hook Range, limbering and unlimbering guns and caissons. The firing battery did very well taking into consideration the very few hours of practice and the small amount of ammunition available. The trail device as used in the ultra-refined 1st Section did prove a great improvement over the old trail logs used before. The hand spikes, a copy of the spikes used on the old 3-inch gun, helped greatly in the shifting of the trail and should eliminate a lot of hard work. The rivalry among the Pvts. 1cl. is mounting with the coveted corporal's rating still open. We should try and raffle this rating off to the highest bidder, as it seems very hard to pick the right man. They are all fine fellows and make dandy corporals if they buy a Stetson hat and a serge shirt.

On Friday Corporal E. J. Brown, Company E, and contributing editor of the Weekly News, turned his name in to the Recruiting Officer for three more years of "Sweet Old Army Life."

Tank Notes

On Feb. 1st Lieutenant Watkins, who has been our adjutant for the past three years turned over his Post to Captain "Bob" Wallace, former company commander of Company E. Lieut. (Capt.) Horne has assumed command of Company E, and Lieut. Watkins is second in command of that Company. Lieut. R. J. Nelson who has been attached to Company F, 67th Infantry has been relieved and is now back with Company E.

We are glad that the Corporal decided to stick around any may his next three years be happy ones.

All Tankers are looking forward to the coming fight between Tanker "Corn" Griffin and Joe Knight. Tanks Grantham, the Joe Jacobs of the South have signed the big Tanker up for this fight which is to be staged February 14th at West Palm Beach, Florida and the fight will decide the lightweight title of the south.

Corporal Ivy wishes to inform the Mess Sergeants that due to his recent contract with the Fisher Body Works he will be unable to deliver his address on "Why Girls Smoke" at the next meeting of the "bean peddlers."

Our boxing team seem to be holding their own in the Post Boxing Tournament. More power to you boys and may you retain your title of last year.

To early in the season to predict the outcome of our basketball team. We have lots of good boys on the team and are looking forward to a good team.

We wish to congratulate the following men who have recently been appointed corporal. Robert E. Anthony, Cranford H. McIntruff, Austin D. Edwards, Allen Mullen, Charles E. Webb all of Company F, 67th Infantry and T. J. Smith of Company D. The best of luck in the way of higher grades we wish you all wish you all in the coming future.

From all accounts of the Coon Hunt staged by Private Hunt, Company D, turned out to be a success. First hand information informs us that one skunk and two coons were bagged during the hunt. Weird tales can be heard around the boys of the capture of the skunk.

On January 31st the command put on a demonstration for the National Guard and Reserve Field Officers' Class. Captain Spaulding was in charge of the demonstration and was assisted by Lt. "Jimmie" Clinton. After the show Company F-66th served coffee which was enjoyed by all.

WANTED

12 oz. Green Ginger Ale bottles as Canada Dry or Rums Dry type.

M. SNYDER

1020 1st Ave. Columbus, Ga.

Ask Anybody at Benning

for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.

Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.

Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

Enlisted Men's

Uniforms and Accessories

AT

VERY LOW PRICES

We specialize in tailoring to measure finer quality Enlisted Men's uniforms of Khaki and Melton, or the new regulation issue materials. A complete stock of Caps, Shirts, Shoes, Belts, Ornaments, et cetera, is available for immediate delivery, at very moderate prices.

CREDIT EXTENDED THRU COMPANY OR BATTERY COMMANDER

We will welcome an opportunity to prove our excellent service.

THE ASSOCIATED MILITARY STORES

2nd Floor The Officers' Club

FORT BENNING, GA.

Tom's

household package

containing a full pound of Tom's Toasted Peanuts.

This package is now on sale at Fort Benning, and Benning hostesses will find it a great convenience.

Sold at the Commissary

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Amateur Boxers Seen In Action Wednesday

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

The Millrose Athletic Association track meet which will be staged in Madison Square Garden Saturday will find the finest array of talent ever gathered in the history of the Millrose games.

Fifteen Olympians, in addition to several national and intercollegiate champions, will be seen in action. Gene Venzke, the lad who burned up the cinders last year, will compete in the Wanamaker mile along with Cunningham, Eric Ny, Crowley, Carl Coan, and Ray Conger. A faster field for the mile has rarely been assembled except in the Olympics. Cunningham and Crowley both competed in the Olympics, defeating Venzke in the try-outs for the right to represent the United States. Eric Ny is the sensation from Sweden, reputed to be able to do the mile in 4:11 minutes. Ray Conger has a victory over Paavo Nurmi heading his list of achieve-achievements.

In fact, all the entrees have done 4:14.4 or under at some time or other. Which, as any track enthusiast knows, is exceptionally good time for the mile run. Venzke is the present holder of the world's record at 4:10 minutes.

* * *

In the 50-meter race appear the names of three dash men who carved a niche in the world of sports last year—Frank Wycoff, Emmet Tippino, and Bert Pearson of Canada. Jack Keller, Olympic champion, will compete in the high hurdles along with Monty Wells, veteran timber-topper. Other well-known stars participating are Arnold Adams and Karl Warner in the Millrose 600; Ed Turner in the 800-meter invitation; Charles Hornbostel in the 1000-meter special, Joe McCluskey and Paul Rekers in the 3000 meter run.

* * *

George Spitz, who holds the world's record for the high jump at 6 ft. 8 1-4 inches, is entered in his specialty, and Bill Carr, the trackster who thrice trimmed Ben Eastman and won the Olympic 440 yard dash will compete in the Penn 1,600 meter relay race.

* * *

Baseball magnates are now rapidly getting their players in line for the 1933 season. There are still a few hold-outs, however, notable among them being Johnny Allen and Vernon Gomez of the Yankees. Both these players were offered a raise in salary, but felt that the amount offered was not consistent with their value to the club.

* * *

They were probably right. Johnny Allen led all the pitchers in the American League last year in percentages of games won and lost. Gomez, called

(Please turn to page 10)

Second Round Of Amateur Tourney Held Wednesday

Simon Pures Throw Plenty of Leather In Splendid Boxing Show

The second round of the amateur boxing tournament was staged at the post gymnasium last Wednesday night. Twelve bouts of three rounds each were full of action and thrills from start to finish.

The evening's entertainment was spotted with upsets galore, although most of the favorites came through. Mathews of the Tanks scored a surprising win over Billy Floyd, Kelly featherweight, when he knocked out the veteran leatherpusher in the second round. Floyd, who won his first fight by default, was considered a favorite for the title.

The outstanding bout of the evening from the spectator's point of view found Morris of the Tanks pitted against Johnson of the Kellys, fighting in the lightweight class. Both battlers had won their first bouts, Morris winning by decision over Barnett and Johnson defeating Sanderson by technical knockout in the first round. The referee stopped the fight to save Sanderson from further slaughter.

Both Morris and Johnson were out to end the fight as soon as possible, and when two boxers have this same idea in mind, something is bound to happen. The first round was all Morris, as the Tanker took the aggressive and swarmed over his opponent. An overhand right, with plenty of dynamite behind it, caught Johnson just before the end of the round and laid him out colder than a cucumber. The

(Please turn to page 9)

BOYS' CLUB IS COURT WINNER

By JACK GIBNEY

A hard-fighting Green Cord team that did not find its stride until the second half went down in defeat last night by a score of 37-31 when the Infantry School Detachment of Fort Benning and the Boys' Club of Columbus met in the Exhibition Hall at the fair grounds.

Buchanan and Stilwell were the big noise for the Boys' Club, accounting for all but two of their points, which two were sunk by Wilson. The entire I. S. D. line-up played a good game, with Isham outstanding a little. Yates, playing his first year, shows up very well, but his guarding and the teamwork of Stephenson, Tolle, and the Bell brothers were of no avail against the sharpshooter eye of Buchanan who led the scoring with twelve field goals and two free throws.

Line-ups:

| Boys' Club | Position | I.S.D. |
|---|---|---|
| Buchanan | Forward | Tolle |
| Stilwell | Forward | Bell, B. |
| Martin | Center | Isham |
| Wilson | Guard | Stephenson |
| Flournoy | Guard | Yates |

Field Goals: Boys' Club, Buchanan 12; Stilwell 4; Wilson 1. I. S. D.: Isham 5; Bell B. 3; Stephenson 3; Tolle 2; Yates 1; Bell H. 1. Free throws: Boys' Club, Buchanan 2, Stilwell 1. I. S. D.: Stephenson 3.

SLANTS ON POLO

This is the first of a series of articles on polo written especially for the Benning Herald by an enthusiastic follower of the sport.

Polo is one of the few personal contact games that the officer can play consistently throughout his period of service. And when it comes to a question of personal contact, the spectators must have been impressed with the potential bumping power of Captain Gee of the Optimists. Weighing one hundred and ninety pounds and mounted on his chestnut hunter-polo pony, Uncle Bim, and going full out, Gee offers a problem in moving force that gives his opponent a definite impression of personal contact in polo. Three quarters of a ton moving at twenty-five miles an hour and then suddenly catapulting into an opponent must at least partially satisfy the unfortunate victim's desire for rough character-building contacts.

* * *

Those who visit the Infantry School stables during the week may be interested in an exepriment box stall being devised by Zero Williams. It is to be built of shatterproof glass and seasoned pecan wood. It will be moistureproof, draftproof, and kickproof. Its proud occupant will be Sara G., a chestnut mare and a polo pony worthy of consideration for international play. Developed and trained at the Infantry School stables, this pony is a credit to the army and to the Wilson family. To Mrs. Wilson goes a great deal of credit for training this mount to such a high degree of perfection. The result, a happy one for Zero, is a pony, exceptionally fast, active in riding off, quick in turning, and extremely calm in the excitement of play. If all the players had the efficient co-operation that exists in the Wilson family, fewer would be chasing about the field looking for emergency brakes and non-skid chains.

* * *

One of the teams in the tournament appears under the prosaic name of Billygoats. This self-imposed descriptive designation was very probably decided upon by the players who fancied the hard-headed qualities of the much maligned beast. Perhaps, as one spectator suggested, the name applies to some of the mounts this four plays. However, one sideliner, after listening to the various and sundry noises made by these riders in exciting each other to further effort, and who was flabbergasted at the bright green of their jerseys, proclaimed that the appellation "bullfrogs" would be far more appropriate than 'Billygoats.' The matter is open for discussion and final vote.

* * *

Back on the Billygoats is Lieutenant Winn, the General's aid, a young but enthusiastic player. This enthusiasm is marked by hard riding with legs and rams flapping wildly in the breeze. One opponent counted six arms and four elbows during an exciting scurry in which Winn figured prominently.

Winn's activity on the polo field, judging from his long, telling drives, is not wasted. He is developing rapidly in playing ability as well as in confidence in hitting. An excellent ezample of this hitting power followed a lusty swat which sent the ball way up the field but unfortunately broke the head off his stick. Undaunted, Winn continued for minutes to ride furiously up and down, going through the movements of hitting with the end of his cane. Next time, reverse the stick and hit with the handle. It's an inch wider.

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Reduce your automobile expenses by using good oils and greases and having it inspected frequently.

AUTO DEPT

POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING,
GEORGIA

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell Any Person Not In The Military Service

100% Pure Pennsylvania
PENNZOIL
Safe Lubrication

FOR SALE
Post Exchange

HENRY GRADY HOTEL

PEACHTREE AT CAIN

Atlanta, Ga.

550 rooms of comfort and convenience. Each room has ceiling fan, circulating ice water, radio and either shower or tub bath; corner rooms have both. Open Dining Terrace and Coffee Shop.

Rooms from $2

J. F. de Jarnette Vice-Pres. & Mgr.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 or less

for bills . . education . . travel

Check off these advantages:
√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

Intramural Season Begins

SPORTS

Kellys Defeat Irish And Tankers Win Over Greencord Aggregation

Tankers Victors Over Green-Cords Last Tuesday Evening

By JACK GIBNEY

The second of the games in the Benning intramural league last night gave fans of the basket ball court another thrill as they watched the Pirates of the Special Units of the 29th Infantry battle desperately through the last half to overcome the six point lead rolled up by the Golden Tornado of the 66th Infantry. The Spare Parts outplayed their opponents through the third quarter, and scored more points during the entire last half, but the score board was against them, 21-16, at the final goal.

It was a wonderful exhibition of pass work on the part of the Pirates, and of old-fashioned downright aggressiveness by the Tankers. The eagerness of the players was marked by the number of fouls, there being twenty-two during the four periods. The fight and spirit of the Special Units mark them as a serious factor in the final outcome of the title race and the way the Tankers kept on top of the ball is due to give their opponents plenty of trouble before the season ends.

Lloyd, Tanks was high score man, with McKelvey, Randall and Prusinoski turning good exhibitions for the Tornado. The Pirate aces were Drew, Hayes and Flaherty, the latter two being a pair of exceptionally pretty ball-handlers.

Kellys Open Season With 33-31 Win Over Irish In Overtime

In the opening game of the Fort Benning intramural basketball season, the Kellys of the Second Battalion won a nip-and-tuck battle from the Irish of the First Battalion. The contest was played Monday night.

After four periods of hard, fast basketball, the scoreboard read 29-29. A five minute overtime was held, and when the period had elapsed, the Kellys were on the long end of a 33-31 score after as thrilling a game of basketball as fans would care to watch.

The game was close throughout. At half time, the Irish led by the slender margin of a single point, 14-13. By the middle of the third quarter, the score was tied, and from then on, the outcome of the game was a toss-up.

Sheppard, stellar Irish star, led in the scoring for both teams wtih fourteen points, accumulated from five field goals and four free throws. Lee, Chamberlain, and Darden were outstanding for the victorious Kellys while Reddock and Ray displayed a fine brand of playing for the Irish.

TEAM COACHES PLAN BASEBALL

By AL DURDEN

Fort Benning baseball moguls spent the better part of Monday morning in conference at the Infantry School athletic office, arranging plans for the coming intra-mural baseball season at the Upatoi Station.

It was a stormy session with team coaches fighting for every point that appeared as an advantage for their respective outfits.

The first break came when Lieutenant "Ty" Cobb, of the 83rd Field Artillery, suggested that all squads be limited to twenty men during the coming season. He was supported by Captain Pence of the Infantry School Detachment. This move brought a storm of protest from Lieutenant Brady of the First Battalion, 29th Infantry, and Lieutenant Rutte of the Second Battalion 29th Infantry. Lieutenant Bowen, Special Unit pilot, voted in favor of the unlimited squad and the meeting was deadlocked. It was finally agreed that the argument would be settled at the next meeting of the Athletic Council.

The above argument is a two sided affair. The Artillery, Infantry School Detachment and Tanks are handicapped with a limited supply of baseball material. The units of the 29th Infantry boast a wealth of splendid material and carry a large reserve. True enough any man that can play baseball and cares to participate in the sport should be allowed to play. In fact athletics is one of the greatest body builders, and baseball is one of the finest branches of sports. A limited squad would cause many men to be unable to play the game. Two leagues would probably settle the argument to the satisfaction of every one concerned. As yet nothing has been definitely settled and the argument is still open.

At Fort Benning, where every fan that sits in the stand and watches a baseball game knows and has probably played the game, the umpires really have a tough time. In fact the army fans simply rode the umpires wild last season. Cheering is great stuff and every red blooded fan indulges in hand clapping and vocal discord when his team is in the midst of the fight. True enough the best of fans sit back and groan when the umpire calls one that does not look so good and really hurts. Still the booing, and bronx cheers of 1932 at Gowdy Field were far out of reason. On this one subject the coaches agreed. It is hoped that a plan can be arranged that will add more cheering less booing during the coming

(Please turn to page 10)

AMATEUR BOXERS SEEEN IN ACTION WEDNESDAY

(Continued from Page 8)

bell saved him temporarily.

The second round was a nightmare as both fighters came out swinging. Johnson was the first to connect, a wild round house that landed high on the head, and knocked Morris flatter than a stove cover. Morris was waving like a toreador's flag at a Spanish bull-fight when the bell ended the round.

The final round found both fighters slugging from toe to toe in a desperate attempt to put over that old dreamland wallop. Morris got two big mouthfuls? of resin when Johnson connected twice with hard smashes to the head. But the Tanker lightheavy gave Johnson a dose of his own medicine near the end of the period when he knocked Johnson's pins from under him with a right cross to the button. The bell found Johnson still reclining peacefully.

Morris won the decision. It was a splendid fight and both boys deserve a lot of credit for their whirlwind exhibitions.

Whatley, Kelly middleweight and favorite for all-southern honors, started right in where he left off last week and his opponent Whitehead had a fleeting, momentary vision of springtime and chirruping birds in the first round. It was Whatley's second consecutive victory via the knockout route, Cheeks of the Special Units succumbing in the second round last week.

Whitehead never had a chance. Whatley landed frequently and there was dynamite in "them thar mitts." The tanker spent most of the fight in a horizontal position though he fought back gamely.

Sanford, Irish welter, took out his spite for his loss of the week before on Butler of the Special Units. Butler was the boy who handed Prophet a trimming in his first fight, but he was no match for the fighting Irishman. Sanford had Butler on the canvas with a right hook to the body, and when Butler came up glassy-eyed, connected with a right to the chin and the Special Units fighter lost all interest in the proceedings for the remainder of the evening.

Morris, Irish featherweight, won his second fight when he bested Mann of the Special Units in a fast bout. Both boys gave a brilliant display of the fine ponts of boxing, but Morris rolled up a big lead which gave him the decision.

Berryhill, Kelly heavy, and Crowell of the Tanks, slugged heartily for three rounds with Berryhill copping the decision.

Milan, Tanker welter, who won his first fight by a knockout, found Foreman of the Kellys a tough man to beat. The hard-punching Milan threw plenty of leather at his opponent but Foreman took it all and kept wading in. The bout ended in a draw.

Benny Hill, Tanker lightweight, and Polewoda, of the Kellys fought another draw in a match, characterized by free swinging.

Bridges of the Irish almost succeeded in overcoming the lead which Wilson, Special Units lightheavy, had piled up in the first round. The fight went to Wilson by decision.

Smith, Irish middleweight, and Penland, Special Units heavy, won their fights by default when their opponents failed to put in an appearance.

Lorimer, lightheavyweight representing the Special Units team, won a popular decision over Hedlin of the Irish.

The bouts were refereed by Lieutenant Bill Maglin, who did an excellent job of officiating.

SPOTLIGHT

CLEAN UP SALE

'31 Pres. 8 Studebaker State Sedan ..... $795

'32 Dictator 8 Stude-Convertible Sport Sedan ..... 995

'31 Oakland V-8 (new car) Sport Sedan..... 645

'31 Packard 8 Sedan..... 915 (10,000 miles)

'30 Pres. 8 Studebaker Sport Sedan ..... 425

'29 Chev. Coach ..... 225

'31 Ford Tudor ..... 245

'28 Buick Sedan ..... 195

'30 Ford Sport Rdstr..... 225

Many more priced from $25 Up.

TERMS TRADES

Columbus Roberts Motor Company

510 12th St. Phone 271

VALUES

FREE

EXTRA TROUSERS

With Each

Tailored To Order Suit!

The time is growing short! Schwob's Annual Free Extra Pants Sale will end soon. Only a short time left before you will have to pay $6.00 to $7.00 for extra trousers. Now they are FREE with positively no advance in prices. Each suit is tailored by master craftsmen according to the measurements of the individual!

$16.50 AND $19.50

Now is a fine time to select a ready-to-wear suit or overcoat at the prices shown below. Materials are advancing in cost and retail prices will soon follow. The wise bird will buy one of these values now . . . maybe two!

$12.50 AND $14.95

The SCHWOB Co.

STANDARD TAILORING CO.

1037 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Polo Tournament Under Way

SPORTS

Six Polo Teams Go Into Action As Round Robin Starts Sunday

The Round Robin Polo Tournament got under way last Sunday afternoon. A fine crowd was on hand to witness the opening games of the tournament. Of the seven teams entered, only six played, the aggregation representing the 29th Infantry drawing a bye.

Three four period games were played. The second four periods of these games will be played in March and the score of both contests will then be totalled.

The standing of the teams will be decided on a percentage basis derived from the number of games won and lost.

* * *

The opening game found the Redlegs of the 83rd. Artillery opposing the Artillery gunners. The result was a one-sided victory for the Redlegs who ran up sixteen goals while their opponents were tallying four. The game was characterized by the outstanding stickwork of Sherburne who sent the pellet through the uprights six times before the final whistle blew.

The line-ups:

| Redlegs | Gunners |
|---|---|
| 1. Bevan | 1. Cobb |
| 2. Sherburne | 2. Ports |
| 3. Arnold | 3. Haskell |
| 4. Heriot | 4. Grubbs |

Umpire: Capt. L. W. Brown

* * *

The second game was played between the Optimists and the Students. The contest was hard-fought all the way through, with the Optimists emerging with a 5-2 victory. The Students did not display their usual brand of polo, but the Optimists deserved the victory. Mike Halloran scored two goals for the Optimists and figured prominently in other departments of the game.

The line-ups:

| Students | Optimists |
|---|---|
| 1. Sweeney | 1. Monroe |
| 2. Butler | 2. Halloran |
| 3. Stevenson | 3. Wilson |
| 4. Griffith | 4. Gee |

Umpire: Major C. A. Selleck

* * *

In the third game of the afternoon, the powerful Freebooter team handed the green-jerseyed Billygoats a 10-6 defeat. Captain Nichols, stellar Freebooter sticker, led his team's attack, registering four goals to his credit.

The line-ups:

| Freebooters | Billygoats |
|---|---|
| 1. Lockett | 1. Lucas |
| 2. Nichols | 2. Bloomquist |
| 3. Blue | 3. Gammon |
| 4. Thompson | 4. Winn |

Umpire: Major Neal Johnson.

* * *

STANDING OF THE TEAMS
(At end of first round)

| | W | L | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 83rd F. A. | 1 | 0 | .1000 |
| Optimists | 1 | 0 | .1000 |
| Freebooters | 1 | 0 | .1000 |
| Billygoats | 0 | 1 | .0000 |
| Gunners | 0 | 1 | .0000 |
| Students | 0 | 1 | .0000 |
| 29th Infantry | 0 | 1 | .0000 |

SPORT CHATTER
(Continued From Page 8)

"Dizzy" by his teammates, also twirled highly effective ball. Between the two, they managed to assist the Yankees materially in bagging the pennant, and later winning the world's championship.

* * *

At the same time, it is not difficult to see Colonel Ruppert's viewpoint. The expenses must be kept down. The Yankees have the highest salaried roster in either league, and the Colonel has found that it just doesn't pay in this time of depression.

* * *

Ellsworth Vines may be the greatest tennis player in the world, but to Victor McGrath, sixteen-year old Australian youth, he is just another opponent. In the quarter-finals of a tournament held recently in the sheep country, McGrath handed Vines a stinging defeat, his third on Australian soil.

Going up to the semi-finals, McGrath met stern opposition in Keith Gledhill and lost the match in straight sets.

BASEBALL
Continued from page 9)

season.

The Fort Benning intra-mural season will open at Gowdy Field, June 1st. It was agreed that the season would be cut in two halves with the winners of the first and second half playing a five game series for the garrison championship. The teams will play twice around in each half, the same as in 1932.

ADVANCED CLASSICS
(Continued from Page 7)

both eyes suddenly, and fell into a profound sleep. Lifting the non-alert officer from the floor, the interviewer placed him in a simple standing position in a corner, and departed. The interview was over.

For the edification of readers of this column, comments were requested during the past week from several members of the class who have had opportunity to glance over Lieutenant Jenning's masterpiece. Their reflections follow:

Captain Charles Cooper: "It's the simplest thing of its kind I have ever run into."

Captain Hugh Evans: "The draft is alright so far as it goes but it goes not far enough. For instance, the author has covered squatting and kneeling trench sleeping, but nary a word does he devote to repose behind double apron or four strand wire. If, in the next war, I must sleep according to reference data, I would certainly desire to sleep behind double apron."

Captain Brown, L. W.: "I am heartily in favor of a downward, not upward revision of the reference data. Therefore, I am opposed to the inclusion of any more tables in that tome."

Captain Edwin Bowden: "Not quite as good as definite rules, but a step in the right direction."

Lieutenant Ross Brackney: "A stupendous project to be conceived in the mind of one mortal man."

Captain Milton Goodyear: "I would suggest the inclusion of a table covering sleeping in Kriz Hall. I can't get any now that the teachers is asking us pupils two questions in one conference."

Major Dan Howe: "An exhaustive work."

Captain Joseph Hinwood: "An exhausting work."

Captain Jesse Green: "Gobble, gobble."

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

The Fort Benning Enlisted Men's Team Which Won The Tri-City Championship

THE FLARE
(Continued from Page 6)

such wide popularity among the youngsters of the garrison, it behooves those who have occasion to drive on Miller and Austin Loop to drive slowly and keep a weather eye open.

G. H. Q., in drawing up a set of general orders for roller skating children, has instittued effective safety measures to reduce the chances of accident among the little boys and girls, but the Flare is of the opinion that the regulations on this point should be more inclusive. Our proposed modification is that all who roller skate, regardless of age, rank, and previous condition of servitude, should be required to memorize the same set of rules. Just the other day we almost ran down a couple of novices who were obviously as unfamiliar with the code as with the technique of remaining upright on a rolling base. As we eased by we recognized Lieutenants Grubbs and Heriot, looking a little sheepish but evidently having the time of their lives.

The Flare is all for having everybody have a good time in his or her own way but we don't want any accidents that will reduce the number of officers on the guard roster. Moreover, we don't subscribe to the theory that 2d Lieutenants are expendable in peace time as well as in war. Let's do what we can to save our promising young officers for congressmen to practice economy measures on. When they have no parents to guide them, why not have our roller skating lieutenants recite their orders to the Provost Marshal before venturing on the public highways?

RUDE AWAKENING

The Monday afternoon terrain exercise had some of the boys of the Advanced Class talking to themselves.

Shortly before the hour for turning in the papers, Captain Siler was heard to mutter, "Geez, I'm glad this isn't a marked problem."

The Captain's remarks when he learned what everybody else knew all along, namely that it was a marked problem, are probably unprintable.

CITATION FOR THE WEEK

To the nine attractive and talented women who read for and didn't get the role of Amytis in "The Road to Rome"—for the courage shown in facing the ordeal of a trying competition and for the good sportsmanship shown when the part was assigned to another.

Our bread is wholesome and nutritious because only the purest and best ingredients go into its making. All bread is baked fresh every day.

COLLINS' BAKERY

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

YOUR CAR
Washed-50c
OR Lubricated--50c
ANY MAKE CALL BY AT ONCE
Burrus Motor Company
AUTHORIZED DEALERS
1216-22 First Avenue PHONE 3500

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus --$ 400,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$100,000.00
Surplus ---------- 65,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

Howard Bus Line, Inc.
Operating Under Government Franchise
Bond and Liability Insurance Provided
SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES
410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

Here's A Dig In The Ribs

Vivacious Dorothy Jordan and hilarious Will Rogers have a lot to do towards making "Down To Earth," the new Fox production, one of the funniest comedies of the season.

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

AT THE ROYAL

(Opening with Saturday night show at 11:15 o'clock)

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "Hello, Everybody" with Kate Smith, Randolph Scott and Sally Blane. Resplendent, golden-voiced, stirring! Romance, sweeping drama and honest laughter written just for Kate by America's brilliant woman author, Fannie Hurst . . . and songs! songs! songs! Here's a show, a real picture . . . Kate jumps on the moon and rides it over the mountain with worlds of fun for everybody!

* * *

AT THE RIALTO

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY: Offering "My Pal, The King" with Tom Mix and his wonder horse, Tony. Imagine wildfire Tom Mix as the star of a wild west show touring Europe! . . . He gets mixed up with the boy king of a small country . . . is hurled into a local political plot . . . wow! . . . thrills—action—laughs.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Down To Earth" with Will Rogers, Dorothy Jordan and Irene Rich. The one man who can still make America laugh. Kicks off the family high hat and makes a big splash in society—when they throw him overboard. They dressed him up like a king and made him feel like an idiot, but all the same he brought them "Down To Earth" with a bang and a million laughs.

TUESDAY ONLY: Offering "He Learned About Women", with Stuart Erwin and Alison Skipworth. And you'll learn about the popularity of this pair when you see the picture. The way that the super comedian, Stuart Erwin, obtains his knowledge of the wiser sex . . . the manner in which the superb Alison Skipworth renders part of that lesson . . . you'll laugh out a rib and chuckle into next week!

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "The Billion Dollar Scandal" with Robert Armstrong, Constance Cummings. Scandal! Scandal! Scandal! Who doesn't like a big, juicy scandal? They spent a million to keep his mouth shut, forever. But scandal will out, even if they did use bullets when bribes failed.

* * *

AT THE GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "The Half Naked Truth" with Lupe Velez and Lee Tracy. What did she want with 50 pounds of raw meat? The chef fainted . . . and the big papers blazed with headlines when Princess Exotia ordered this simple breakfast sent to her hotel room. But the publicity stunt made her a star by nightfall.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "White Zombie" with Bela (Dracula) Lugosi. Here's a picture of real action—only 15 per cent dialogue—made up mostly around the black sorcery practiced in Haiti. A wierd, fantastic story of a soulless human corpse, still dead, but taken from the grave and endowed by sorcery with a mechanical semblance of life.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering "She Done Him Wrong" with Mae West, Cary Grant, Owen Moore, Noah Berry and Gilbert Roland. She done him wrong . . . in the right way. Diamond-Decked Lou, the Bowery's Light O' Love . . . mistress of the street where beer was a nickel—and love has a price too. Hear Mae West sing the Bowery's bar-room ballads.

ROYAL

Kate Smith can sing the blues with the best of 'em, but she doesn't because her audiences don't like her to.

The "Swanee Songstress," ace feminine singer of the radio, revealed that fact when she was in Hollywood recently, starring in "Hello, Everybody!" a picture written especially for her by Fannie Hurst. It comes to the Royal Theatre, opening at 11:15 Saturday night and showing Sunday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The cheerful, comforting type of song, which makes up the majority of her thrice-weekly radio program, is the kind her public prefers to hear her sing, Miss Smith explained. Blues numbers do not win nearly so much support, she has discovered from her fan mail. Since the mail amounts to 30,000 letters per week, it gives her a fair cross-section of opinion, she pointed out.

The four songs written especially for her use in "Hello, Everybody!" were written with this fact in mind. They follow a cheerful pattern, as may be gathered from their titles—"Moon Song," "Pickaninies' Heaven," "Out in the Great Open Spaces" and "Twenty Million People."

GRAND

Do Zombies really exist?

Rumors have been seeping in for years from the island of Haiti about dead bodies being exhumed and, through a process of sorcery, put to work in the fields and mills, but is there any truth to the rumors?

"White Zombie," the United Artists picture which is scheduled to show at the Grand Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, treats exhaustively of this subject.

Recently several American writers have investigated the rumors, and at least one of them has brought back verification, which he arrived at through personal observation. This writer, in his book upon Haitian sorcery, declares that he actually saw Zombies at work in the sugar cane fields.

He writes:

"A Zombie is neither a ghost, nor yet a person who had been raised from the dead. It is a soulless human corps, still dead, but taken from the grave and endowed by sorcery with a mechanical semblance of life. It is a dead body which is made to walk and eat and move as if it were alive.

"People who have the power to create Zombies go to a fresh grave, dig up the body before it has had time to rot, galvanize it into movement and then make of it a servant or slave, occasionally for the commission of a crime, but more often simply as a drudge around the habitation of the farm, setting it to dull, heavy tasks and beating it like a dumb beast if it slackens."

Even the Government of Haiti recognizes the Zombie practice, for Article 249 of the Penal Code mentions it specifically. The Article reads:

"Also shall be qualified as attempted murder the employment which may be made against any person of substances which, without causing actual death, produce a lethargic coma more or less prolonged. If, after the administration of such substances, the person has been buried, the act shall be considered murder no matter what result follows."

SHE DONE HIM WRONG

RIALTO

Will Rogers' newest comedy, "Down To Earth," comes to the Rialto Theatre next Sunday and Monday. It is said to focus all the brilliance that has made him the keenest and most quoted observer in the country today. While in a sense the picture is a continuation of Rogers' first talkie, "They Had To See Paris," its theme and locale are completely different.

The story opens with Rogers as "Pike Peters," the Oklahoma millionaire, back home again with his family after their Paris jaunt. The stock market is shot to pieces, and Peters is greatly worried, but his wife has an insatiable desire for social honors and his son aids her in extravagant spending. The failure of a bank forces Peters to apply for a local loan, and, that failing as a result of Mrs. Peters' love of elegance and display, he goes to Chicago with the same result. How he gets his family down to earth again forms the basis of the situation.

"Down To Earth" is called the most important picture of Rogers' career. It was written by the author of "They Had To See Paris," Homer Croy, specially to fit the star's talents.

Irene Rich, who appeared as Rogers' wife in his first two talking pictures, again portrays the socially ambitious spouse who brings about most of his hilarious troubles. Matty Kemp, whose work on the first few days of the production won him a long-term contract, enacts the role of the irresponsible son, and Dorothy Jordan that of the boy's childhood sweetheart who steps aside in favor of her wealthy rival.

Theodore Lodi, the Grand Duke "Mike" of the earlier picture, recreates the role in this new film and Mary Carlisle plays the part of the spoiled "deb" who sets her cap for young Kemp. Clarence Wilson, Brandon Hurst, Louise Mackintosh and other noted character players are in the supporting cast. Edwin Burke wrote the screen play and dialogue from Croy's original story. David Butler directed the production for Fox Films.

QUESTIONS

1. By what nickname is Sally Eilers, star "Hat Check Girl," known to her Hollywood friends and how did she acquire it?
2. What is Ginger Rogers' right name and how did she get her start in the movies?
3. To what well known picture star is Bn Lyon married?
4. What was Sidney Lanfield's occupation or profession before he became a motion picture director?
5. Who wrote the novel "Hat Check Girl," upon which the picture of tha name is based?
6. In what recent pictures did Sidney Lanfield direct Sally Eilers?

ANSWERS

1. "Bad Girl"; from her sterling performance in the title role of that picture. 2. Virginia Rogers; by winning the Texas state championship in "Charleston" dancing. 3. Bebe Daniels. 4. Professional pianist. 5. Rian James, the newspaper columnist. 6 "Hat Check Girl" and "Dance Team."

GRAND
SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY
A million-laugh-power romance
The HALF NAKED TRUTH
LUPE VELEZ
LEE TRACY
An RKO RADIO Picture
COMEDY—NOVELTY—NEWS
TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY
WEIRD...ALIVE...
"WHITE ZOMBIE"
with BELA (DRACULA) LUGOSI
RELEASED BY UNITED ARTISTS
COMEDY—CARTOON—NEWS
THURSDAY—FRIDAY
MAE WEST in She Done Him Wrong
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
COMEDY—NOVELTY—NEWS

RIALTO
TODAY—TOMORROW
TOM MIX "MY PAL THE KING"
COMEDY—SCREEN SOUVENIRS
CHAPTER 9—"The Last Frontier"
SUNDAY—MONDAY
WILL ROGERS IN DOWN TO EARTH
FOX Picture
—WITH—
DOROTHY JORDAN—IRENE RICH
—ALSO—
TOM HOWARD — "ROOKIE"
SCREEN SOUVENIRS—FOX NEWS
—TUESDAY ONLY—
"HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN"
—WITH—
STUART ERWIN—ALISON SKIPWORTH
ROMANTIC JOURNEY—CARTOON
WEDNESDAY—THURSDAY
THE BILLION DOLLAR SCANDAL
A Paramount Picture
—WITH—
ROBERT ARMSTRONG—JAMES GLEASON
CONSTANCE CUMMINGS
COMEDY—FOX NEWS
ADMISSIONS 10c — 15c — 25c

IDOL OF 20,000,000—NOW ON THE SCREEN!
KATE SMITH
IN FANNIE HURST'S
Hello, Everybody!
WITH Randolph Scott Sally Blane
A Paramount Picture
Kate Sings
"Great Open Spaces"
"20,000,000 People"
"Moon Song" and others
Opening Sat. Night at 11:15 and Sun., Mon. and Tue.
ROYAL

What Is it about CHESTERFIELDS?

Well, I can't tell you much of anything about what is in Chesterfields

BUT I smoke a good deal, and I noticed that they said that Chesterfield Cigarettes were milder and tasted better; so I smoked a package or two and found it to be true.

I also noticed that the cigarettes were well-filled, seemed to be the right length and the right circumference, and burned uniformly—not up one side and down the other.

I liked the aroma—very pleasing. I liked the appearance of the cigarette—the paper, dead white. The package rather appealed to me.

I don't know exactly what it is, but I just like 'em. It's about the only luxury that I enjoy; so I think it's all right for me to have a good cigarette, and I believe Chesterfield is just about the best.

Chesterfield Radio Program—Every night except Sunday, Columbia coast-to-coast Network.

They Satisfy—

—people know it

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1933 — NUMBER 42

TOWN TOPICS

It was Monday and very, very cold. The terrain was swept by chilly blasts of winds. An Officers' Club truck, carrying supplies to members of the Advanced Class playing hide-and-seek in the vicinity of Torch Hill, arrived at its destination.

Private Fields, faithful employe of the Officers' Club, was not enthusiastic over the job to which he had been detailed. It was too cold. He attended to the distribution of the food with the utmost celerity that he might regain the warm inner recesses of the Officers' Club with as little delay as possible.

It was in this frame of mind that an accommodating but unthinking orderly approached Fields and offered him the use of a horse to make the return trip. Private Fields shook his head dubiously and replied,

"No, suh, that hoss ain't got no windshield."

* * *

THE CASE OF THE MISSING TURKEY WHISKERS

Lieutenant Bob Pierce had entrusted a turkey to the Officers' Club for safe-keeping in the refrigerator. On coming back for it the next morning, he was amazed and horrified to find the turkey still there, the turkey's whiskers missing.

As Lieutenant Pierce felt that a turkey was not all a turkey should be without the turkey whiskers, he set out on a determined quest to locate the missing whiskers and, by so doing, solve a mystery which threatened to cause him many a sleepless night. It called for prompt action and the lieutenant was not found wanting in that respect.

Lieutenant Pierce decided to approach the matter as he imagined Sherlock Holmes would approach it under the circumstances. Unfortunately, no clues were left by the wrongdoer, who had apparently committed a perfect crime. There was, therefore, nothing upon which to base deductions. But Lieutenant Pierce was not discouraged so easily. He decided upon a policy of interrogation. The employees and management of the Officers' Club were forced to submit to a third degree that would have made America's foremost third degree artists tremble with shame and mortification.

But nothing was to be learned and the mystery threatened to remain a mystery.

Intrigued by the case, we approached Lieutenant Dowdall on the subject, who can explain anything and everything given the time and a remarkable credulity on the part of his listeners. This time, however, the uncanny Secretary came forth with a theory that smacked of Philo Vance. Reasoned Detective Dowdall:

"Do you consider it significant that the turkey whiskers were found missing at the precise time that Adophe Machel, maestro of the hair-dressing profession, was honoring the Officers' Club with his august presence. A remarkable coincidence, to say the least."

At this psychological moment, the detective screwed up his face in the attitude of a person whose brain seethed with thought. The look of intense agony on his face bore out our assumption.

"Come to think of it" he continued,

(Please turn to page 3)

UNDIMMED BY AGES

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

"Government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Dramatic Club To Make Bow For Third Time

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

"Miss Lulu Bett," Brilliant Play By Zona Gale, Is To Be Presentation Of Benning Actors Tonight And Saturday

The first performance of "Miss Lulu Bett", a producton of the Infantry School Dramatic Club, will take place this evening. The second showing will be presented tomorrow night.

"Miss Lulu Bett", a comedy in three acts by Zona Gale, won the Pulitzer Prize in 1921. It is a dramatization of small town life very well done. Not once does a hint of artificiality creep into the three acts; the characters talk as people really talk and are therefore interesting.

The play is a distinct departure from the ordinary. In "Miss Lulu Bett", almost for the first time, we become acquainted with a stage-child who is not winsome and cute and a grandmother who is not sweet.

Captain Walter C. Phillips, as Dwight Deacon, is the blustering, pompous, self-centered head of the family, whose high opinion of himself is shared only by his wife, Ina, played by Mrs. J. A. Andrews. Mrs. Isobel Chance, one of Benning's most accomplished character actresses, is cast in the role of Lulu Bett, the unmarried and imposed upon sister of Ina, whose life is smothered under the oppressive tyranny of Dwight Deacon's brutal dominance.

Mrs. Shearer, as Mama Bett, is the disillusioned, disagreeable, and spiteful grandmother, the mother of Lulu and Ina, a fixture in the household.

The parts of Ninian Deacon, the brother of Dwight, and Cornish, the faltering lover of Lulu Bett, are capably taken by Captain Robert S. Miller and Lieutenant Francis H. Lanahan. Both are newcomers to the Benning stage.

Mr. Davis Harding is cast in the role of Bobby Larkin, who falls in love with Diana Deacon played by Miss Betty Welty. Margie Heileman, as Monona, is the recalcitrant daughter of the Deacons.

Mrs. Orestes Cleveland, with Mrs. Totten assisting, is directing the play. Mrs. Cleveland also directed "Pomeroy's Past" and took a part in "Cock Robin", the second production of the Infantry School Dramatic Club.

The play is extremely well-cast and the audience is assured of an unusually fine performance.

THE CAST

Dwight Herbert Deacon, Capt. Walter C. Phillips
Ina Deacon _____Adelaide Andrews
Lulu Bett _____ Isobel Chance
Mrs. Bett _____ Mrs. Laurette Shearer
Monona Deacon ___ Margie Heileman
Bobby Larkin _____ Davis Harding
Diana Deacon__Sarah Elizabeth Welty
Neil Cornish__Lieut. Francis Lanahan
Ninian Deacon__Capt. Robt. S. Miller

Drawing To Be Held Tuesday For Glee Club Sho

There will be a very unusual assembly next Tuesday afternoon, February 14th, in the lobby of the Officers' Club. It will be the occasion of the formal opening of the sale of reserved seat tickets for the Glee Club's annual production, The Debutante, Victor Herbert's musical comedy, to be given at the Post Theatre, on March 10th and 11th.

The plan, for the assembly of all who desire tickets, has been announced for the purpose of avoiding any taint of favoritism. It has been agreed that all those who assemble in the club lobby, prior to 4:30 p. m., will be given duplicate coupons numbered. One-half of the coupon will be dropped into a box and the other half retained by the prospective purchaser. At 4:30 p. m., a drawing will take place and the person whose number is drawn first will have the first choice of the reserved seats. Those who cannot, for any reason, attend the drawing should be represented by a proxy.

It is an old Benning custom that hosts or hostesses who entertain at dinners, prior to the productions of the Glee Club and the Dramatic Club, expect their guests to purchase their own Theatre Tickets. In order that members of dinner parties may be able to sit to-gether in the theatre, it is suggested that guests request the host or hostess to reserve Theatre Tickets for them.

Following the drawing, seats will be sold in the regular order—first come, first served. All tickets may be purchased by signing Officers' Club chits, or for cash, as desired.

The civilian life members of the Officers Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. and Mrs. R. Curtis Jordan and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McPherson, have arranged to secure a large number of seats for their friends, and plan to enjoy the show. They will entertain at dinner at the Officers' Club on the evening of March 10th, similar to the arrangement made last year.

A block of seats have been set aside and will be sold to the Enlisted Men of the Post through the company orderly rooms. Later, tickets will be on sale at Humes Music Store in Columbus.

Changes May Be Made In Administration Here At Post Headquarters

Forecasting probable future changes in the administration organization of the Infantry School through the regrouping of the Headquarters staff and the faculty of the academic department, a board of officers has been appointed by Major General Campbell King, commandant, to make an exhaustive study of the proposal.

Colonel George F. Baltzell, of the Infantry board, Major Thomas B. Catron, commander of the Infantry School School Detachment, Major Henry B. Lewis, adjutant, The Infantry School, and Major Emil W. Leard, secretary, the academic department, are the members of the board named by General King.

In addition to its studies relating to the reorganization of the headquarters and academic personnel, the board will also make a study of the future need for buildings to shelter

(Please turn to page 3)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

February Meeting Of Woman's Club Is Held At Polo Club Last Monday

The February meeting of the Infantry School Women's Club was held at the Polo-Hunt Club on February 6. The members unanimously voted a hundred and fifty dollar scholarship, to be known as the Barbara King Scholarship, for the Tallulah Falls Industrial School for Girls.

Mrs. Peyton called attention to the adverse army legislation in Congress, and read two articles, one from the Army and Navy Journal, on the seriousness of the situation, and the other from the Columbus Enquirer, showing the favorable action taken by the Columbus Central Labor Union, which is opposed to any congressional action hostile to the army.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Pearson played two beautiful piano solos "Nouvelle Scene de Bal," by Adder, and "Chanson" by Friml.

The lecturer for the afternoon was Colonel Stilwell, who gave an unusual and most interesting talk on China. Colonel Stilwell has a real liking for, and understanding of, the Chinese people, among who mhe has lived for several years, and he confined his talk to Chinese personalities and to his own novel experiences. He demonstrated, with dictionary and chart, some of the difficulties of their unwieldy language, and concluded, Miss Nancy Stilwell assisting, with a scene from a Chinese bazaar.

Due to the courtesy of Mrs. Stilwell, ancient and valuable costumes and embroidereries were exhibited, and added much to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Buracker acted as hostesses.

MRS. SELINA WADDINGTON HONOREE AT DANCE AT POLO CLUB

Mrs. Selina Waddington was the honoree Tuesday evening at a dance held at The Polo Hunt Club given by her son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Bowen. A small receiving line consisting of the hosts, the honoree and escort welcomed the guests. The 29th Infantry furnished the music for the dancing during the evening. At the intermission coffee and sandwiches were served. iLeut. and Mrs. Bowen had as their guests a number of the friends of the honor guest. Preceding the dance several delightful informal dinners were held.

* * *

REOPENING OF THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCES AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The first supper dance to be held at the Officers' Club since the death of Ex-President Coolidge was held on Thursday. A capacity number of reservations were made. Those entertaining were: Capt. and Mrs. Joseph A. Nchols, Capt. and Mrs. Frederick H. Gaston, Capt. and Mrs. Morris DePass, Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Barnett, Capt. and Mrs. Llewellyn D. Tharp, Lieut. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Dunkleberg, and Mrs. Clayton Studebaker, Lieutenant and Mrs. Donald W. Brann, and Lieutenant and Mrs. Bredan W. Greeley.

* * *

FT. BENNING BACHELORS GIVE VALENTINE SUBSCRIPTION DANCE

One of the most enjoyable events of the week will be the subscripton dance which will be given by the Fort Benning Bachelors Saturday evening at the Polo Hunt Club. These dances,, which were started last Winter, are bi-monthly affairs and Saturday's will be in the nature of a Valentine celebration. Plans have been made by the entertainment committee to give three "dividend" dances from the proceeds of the subscription dances. Next month's dance will be a "Dividend" affair. The guest list for Saturday's dance will include the following: no married couples over the grade of lieutenant, members of the debutante set, their guests and escorts.

* * *

MRS. SLAUGHTER ENTERTAINS 29TH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Homer H. Slaughter was the hostess Tuesday afternoon from two to five p. m. to the ladies of the 29th Infantry bridge club. Six tables assembled and progressive contract bridge was enjoyed. Assisting Mrs. Slaughter were, Mesdames John A. Otto, Charles F. Johnson, George H. Decker and Earle G. Wheeler. Mrs. Andrew D. Chaffin won first prize, Mrs. Lynn E. Brady the second prize and Mrs. Washington Ives the third.

* * *

24TH INFANTRY HOLDS REGIMENTAL DANCE AT POLO HUNT CLUB FRIDAY EVENING

The Polo Hunt Club was the scene Friday evening from nine to twelve of a delightful Regimental dance given by the 24th Infantry. During the evening coffee and sandwiches were served. The guest list included members of the 24th Infantry, their wives, and former members of the Regiment. Several informal dinners were given preceding the dance.

Today's Fashion

For early spring wear.

By VERA WINSTON

The wrappy coat shown in the sketch, for late winter and early spring wear, adds a new note of variety. Its heavy, smooth woolen cloth is dark red—almost wine color—the long sleeves fitted below the elbow harmonizing with the trim, close lines of the coat below the waist line, marked with a novelty belt of the goods. Equally harmonious are the soft, crushy collar of cream-colored lapin and the dolman cut of the upppr sleeves. Practical, and highly attractive.

ARTILLERY BRIDGE CLUB MEETS AT QUARTERS OF MRS. PARTRIDGE

Mrs. Lloyd S. Partridge and Mrs. George H. McManus, Jr. were the joint hostesses Tuesday afternoon to the members of the Artillery bridge club. Three tables of contract bridge assembled at two and played until four-thiry when tea was served.

* * *

SEMI-FINALS OF BRIDGE TOURNAMENT HELD WEDNESDAY AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The semi-finals of the contract bridge tournament that has been in progress was held Wednesday evening at the Officers' Club. Six tables played, partners playing East and West alternatng with partners playing North and South. The winners North and South were. Lt. and Mrs. Lynn Brady and Lt. and Mrs. J. E. Bowen; and the winners East and West were: Lt. and Mrs. D. A. Rosenbaum and Capt. and Mrs. Don C. Faith.

These winners in the semi final will meet next Wednesday evening to determine the champion bridge player of the Post.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. MOORE HOSTS AT DINNER PRECEDING DANCE AT POLO CLUB

Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Moore were the hosts Tuesday evening at a buffet supper to a small group of their friends preceding the dance at the Polo Hunt Club given by Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Bowen.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. HOWELL ENTAIN FOR VISITOR

Lieut. and Mrs. George P. Howell

(Please turn to page 3)

Make yours a candy VALENTINE!

Party Candies

Special Valentine Boxes

—Pralines—

Alex Mitchell

1226 Broadway
Phone 1085

PACKAGES MAILED

Permanent Waves $3; Shampoo and Set 50c; Haircut 25c.

MRS. R. G. DEITZ
New Beauty Shoppe
1106 1-2 Broadway Phone 9286

They made VALENTINE a SAINT

He knew how women love the little tributes of affection that keep Romance aglow! On St. Valentine's Day, February 14th—she will remember, so don't you forget!

Joy's

FLOWER SHOP

WE TELEGRAPH FLOWERS

SOFT NATURAL Permanent Waves $3.00

(With Shampoo and Set)
Blue J Beauty Shop
MRS. MARTIN
2220 Wynnton Drive Phone 9123

The

SODA FOUNT

POST EXCHANGE

has a daily delivery service between the hours of 11:00 a. m. and 9:00 p. m.

This service is designed particularly for the delivery of ice cream in small quantities on the post at short notice.

Excellent Curb Service Also

TELEPHONE 69

SODA FOUNT

POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT
RATES REASONABLE
Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062

DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

To The Army—

ADVERTISERS IN THIS PAPER

Are especially prepared to serve army personnel. To purchase from them will be profitable to you—and don't forget to mention

To Ladies of Fort Benning

We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.

OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Baths
Reducing, Facial, Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydrio, Electro } Therapy

Swedish Massage
Swedish Facial Massage
Swedish Scalp Treatments
Turkish Shampoos
Special Reducing Treatment
Swedish Shampoos

Rigdon Health Institute

216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

Local Notes

Lieutenant Reeve D. Keiler is the first officer of the Sixty-Sixth Infantry to become a member of the "Hole In One" Club. It happened like this: Lieutenant Keiler was playing in a foursome a short while ago and after making two nines and an eight on the first three holes he walked to the short 110 yard fourth hole with a look of determination on his handsome face. He pulled out his trusty driver, —this time he would not be short, as usual. He teed his ball low—he took his stance, (feet close together and knees stiff). His gaze was somewhere on the green 110 yards away—he jerked back his club, bending his left arm, he brought the club back down across the face of the ball. There was a "swishing" sound as the ball shot out in a perfect slice to—but wait; it hits a tree—it caroms to the left side of the fairway and into the trees there but again the skill of a great Golfer will not be denied—It hits another tree—bounces high in the air, into the green, bounces again —hits the pin high up and drops straight down into the cup for an "ACE." (Not responsible for slight errors, Ed).

Such skill should not go unrewarded so in the future we will give to all new members of the club a stainless rubber shafted pusher, provided the ace is made between 8:00 and 10:00 p. m. February 29th, 1933.

* * *

This Wild-West Show Do-Do the Texas Rangers are pulling off at Doughboy Stadium seems to be working wonders with us Tankers as only the other day it was reported that one of the boys was over in the Artillery Area trying to borrow a saddle and mumbling words to the effect that he'd show a few of the boys how to man-handle a Christie Tank. That sounds just about like "Mexico" Bingof the week.

We are glad to learn that Chitling Smith of Headquarters Company has returned to duty from the station hospital.

We regret the news reaching us that will take our Commanding Officer, Major Allen F. Kingman, away from us. Major Kingman has been assigned to the Army War College and will leave us around the first of August coming.

Now who was the fellow who said that he was off of Fords for life? Well, anyway we see that he is driving one.

Sergeant Harris and his soccer boys of Company E, are still at work in their little soccer world. The boys ham if it happened in the early part have a very good chance to win the Post Championship. Turn out and watch them play a game.

We welcome all the new men to the Battalion who have reported in during the past week, and may they like their new station.

FULLER BRUSH
REPRESENTATIVE
J. M. NORRIS
Phone 717-W or call at 715 Broadway —from 12 noon to 1 P. M. or 5 P. M. to 6 P. M. week days and Saturday 3 P. M. to 6 P. M.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued from page 1)

"Adolphe did work late that night, and between certain hours, there is no one to account for his actions. No one. Does that mean anything to you?"

It did, of course, but we did not acknowledge the fact in order (1) that we might not disturb the detective's chain of thought and (2) that he might become all the more delighted with his own seeming perspicacity. The detective resumed the unraveling of his brilliant theory.

"As you know, Adolphe is primarily an experimenter. Now, if he would experiment with women's hair, why would he not experiment with a turkey's whiskers?"

The great detcetive leaned back in his chair. As far as he was concerned, the mystery was solved. He closed his eyes dreamily. Reverently, we tiptoed out of the office.

* * *

Capt. Le Toney and Lieut. Lightcap left recently on a ten-day hunting trip. We were a little amazed to learn the hunting grounds—Miami, Florida.

Offhand... Observations

By McGoofus

A perceptible drop in the number of sales letters found in the mail box reminds us that thoughts are being turned to classes whic hare just receiving their orders for the 1933-34 term.

It would be interesting to see some o fthe replies being written in answer to the inquiries of prospective students. It is the irony of something that those inquiries should be recived and answered at the dead-low period of morale, for such is February you know. At any rate, the low down which they will get will indicate the worst if there should be any worst. Benning at its worst could be worse—yea verily.

When the morale curve reaches its lowest point, it is just before taking a rapid upward shoot. Very shortly now the whole aspect of things will be changed by a succession of gladsome occurrences—another play by the Dramatic Club, the Glee Club performance and the breaking of spring.

* * *

The manner in which occasional original bits written and acted by members of the Dramatic Club to enliven demonstrations have been received leads to to wonder why the Dramatic Club has not written and produced a local color drama. The fact that a hard-boiled group of students can get as much enjoyment as they evidently do from a little burlesquing of the most routine professional matters would seem to indicate that a Benning audience would not be bored by a play dramatizing some phase of life which they know best. There can be no question as to the ability of the Dramatic Club to handle such an undertakng to a perfection for they have an abundance of talent in every department—writing staging and acting.

This is not intended in any way as a criticism of the work of those who select the plays to be given. There is undoubtedly good reasons why such a play as mentioned has not been attempted, and there can certainly be no kick on the plays which have been selected and produced.

CHANGES MAY BE MADE BY BOARD

(Continued from page 1)

the headquarters and academic department of the School. The latter study will be made in accordance with a general construction plan for the future development of The Infantry School which has been approved by the war department, and which is progressing as rapidly as appropriations for construction become available.

Graham Cars Now At Local Dealers

Vitalized power, as brought to the motorist by the new Graham has proven one of the main mechanical features eliciting commendation and praise from motorists wherever and whenever this smart automobile has been demonstrated.

The second series of the Graham, "The most imitated car on the road," now on display at Patterson-Pope Motor Company, Inc., 1415 Frst Avenue, acknowledges and exemplfies the importance of dependable power through a process all its own, presenting, after long research "high compression vitalized power, balanced in rubber."

This remarkable improvement is aptly supported by other features equally important, incorporating all the desirable engineering specifications that always go into acar of this high type. And even as the graceful body lines and unusual beautiful design commends itself to you whenever the Graham is on view, its superior mechanical features will amaze and please whenever the car is demonstrated.

The local agency extends a cordial invitation to the personnel and enlisted men of Fort Benning to view this beautiful automobile now on display; to drive the car, itself, and thrill in the performance of the Graham.

SOCIETY

(Continued from page 2)

were the hosts Tuesday evening at a buffet supper honoring Mrs. Selina Waddington. Jonquils and lilies of the valley were used with yellow candles for the table decorations. After dinner the guests were escorted to the Bowens' dance at the Polo Hunt Club.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. BRADY ENTERTAIN BEFORE DRAMATIC CLUB PLAY

Lt. and Mrs. Lynn E. Brady will be the hosts Friday evening at a small buffet supper preceding the Dramatic Club's play "Miss Lulu Bett."

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. LUCAS ENTERTAIN INFORMALLY AT DINNER

Lieut. and Mrs. William C. Lucas entertained informally at dinner Tuesday evening at their quarters, for a small coterie of congenial friends. After dinner the hosts escorted their guests to the dance.

PERSONALS

Friends of Lieut. William C. Lucas will regret to know that he is in the Station Hospital suffering from an attack of influenza.

Lieut. and Mrs. Leroy W. Krauthoff are to be congratulated upon the birth of a son Roy Vance, on January 27th at the Station Hospital. Roy is the grandson of Capt. and Mrs. Daniel O'Connell.

Lieut. Lindell W. Straube, who has been in the Station Hospital for about

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

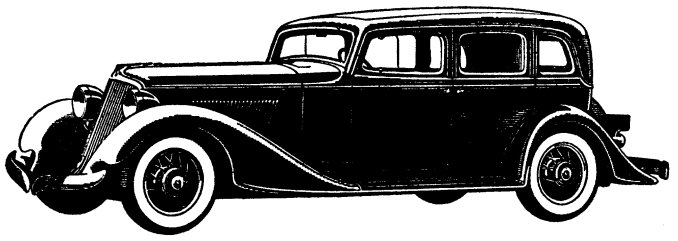
To Make A Good Impression
Serve
FOREMOST
... and then your guests will all agree that you're a hostess who knows what she's about. It's YOUR chance to make a hit!
Call the
SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

READ HERALD ADVERTISEMENTS

Why not assure yourself of an income after retirement, regardless of future legislation?
The method is safe, convenient, and possible even during a "pay freeze."
Call TRACY DAVIS
Phones 3200-622 Columbus, Ga.

Makers of Fine Printing Plates
WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.
Atlanta, Georgia

See the Second Series of
The Most Imitated Car on the Road
The influence of Graham leadership is evident in the design of practically every new car at the 1933 shows.



GRAHAM
NEW SIX, $745, UP—NEW EIGHTS, $845, UP
Prices at Factory, Special Equipment Extra (324-2)
Patterson-Pope Motor Co. Inc.
1415 First Ave. Columbus, Ga.

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II FEBRUARY 10, 1933 NUMBER 42

L. C. Kunze ---------- Publisher
A. F. Kunze ---------- Editor
Felicia C. Howell ---------- Society Editor
D. P. Harding ---------- Sports Editor
John W. Pearce ---------- Advertising Manager
Louis T. Kunze ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject any advertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

LIEUTENANT PEEP'S DIARY

Thursday, Feb. 2

Ground hog day and the good wife with a fine eye for such niceties did appropriately serve sausage for breakfast.

Major Henry no doubt encouraged by our interest in motors as evidenced by Graybeal in lifting the hood on his car today. Yesterday one H. Flood did likewise show interest by taking his owner's instruction manual out from under the seat and putting it in the side pocket.

Friday, Feb. 3

Home at last after a most wearisome afternoon under a horse. My lot was to prepare the feet of an artillery wheel horse to receive shoes. He was one of these great lumbering brutes possessed of the idea that since he carried a man at drill in the morning the reverse was only fair enough in the afternoon. It is now apparent to me that Mr. Longfellow did all of his horseshoeing from the other side of the street else he would have said:

"Under the spreading chestnut horse, the village smithy stands."

Reeder maintains that in the original had the poet been a practical worker in iron the word "stands" would have been replaced by a synonym for "sitting-down-resting."

At all odds I do much prefer the shooing of flies as quicker and less troublesome. It is a deal easier to get under a fly.

Saturday, Feb. 4

Apprised of the fact that Captain Williams, the cylinder cynic of the Tank Section, who has all but decided me to avoid motors (including the Peep-mobile) does carry the practice of his precepts even to the golf course. Having advocated to us the prime necessity for warming up the chariot before action he does himself warm up for about five minutes prior to each golf stroke. And it must be a satisfaction to all others on the course that he is not timed for the same number of strokes as a gas engine.

Monday, Feb. 6

That usual Monday feeling in no way elevated by an hour of field fortification. The latter is, by Major Heilman's own admission, "the process of using pick and shovel with brute strength and awkwardness to dig holes in the ground" with which definition I do heartily agree. And it is hard for me to see why even an engineer should require twenty hours time in which to say so.

Involved in a bit of detective work to discover the Infantry School manual (for that there is one such I have no least doubt) entitled "The Manual of Persuasion" or "Making the Class Believe That They Decided to Use Private Transportation." The music differs as the instructor but the words change not. It all amounts to a statement of "Do you want to go to the assembly point in your own cars or on the train because I have cancelled the train." But the similarity of method—the student will save time, he will not have to march to the train nor back from the train, ad infinitum, ad nauseam—does convince me that there is a book on the matter with which all instructors are conversant.

Intrigued by Captain Reynold's remark in combat practice to the effect that machine guns can fire under all conditions of weather and visibility, we having already lost nigh onto hawf our machine gun course because of foggy and otherwise foul days.

Tuesday ,Feb. 7

This day characterized by two surprises. That Brunke could appear for class after his forced night march from Eelbeck was the first. The second was the cancellation by the Horse Group of part of the afternoon's schedule, for I had ever believed that such folks were to be diverted from their equine businss by general order alone.

That instruction which we received might, in method, be well emulated by the engineering faculty for in lieu of

(Please turn to page 8)

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

FLY CONTROL Continued ### BREEDING PLACES FOR HOUSE FLIES

A breeding place for house flies must provide, (a) moisture; (b) warmth; (c) food for the maggots.

The temperature must be less than 115 degrees F.; moisture must be enough to permit fermentation of the material in which the eggs are hatched, and also enough to prevent the drying out of the egg or maggot.

Food must be plentiful and finely divided.

The breeding material must be alkaline; small amounts of acid will slow up or even prevent the growth of the maggots.

The house fly will breed in all kinds of fermenting material, but selects whenever it can loosely packed or small amounts of fresh horse manure. When horse manure is not present the fly chooses in the order named, human excreta, garbage, decaying vegetables and fruits. Rubbish dumps contain organic wastes which ferment and so afford good breeding places. Liquid wastes spilled about garbage cans or stands also ferment and so make this polluted soil a breeding place for flies. Small deposits of human or animal excreta lying on the surface of the ground, provided there is moisture, hatch out large numbers of flies.

Flies breed in filth. Flies that come in contact with human excreta transmit disease germs. In the act of feeding, or while laying her eggs, or when emerging from the pupal case the fly comes in contact with the liquid portion of fecal material. This excrement clings to the external parts of the fly and when it alights on food in our kitchens infected particles are rubbed off or deposited on the food.

The fly also sucks in human excrement while feeding in latrines or elsewhere. It then regurgitates and excrets droplets of this fecal matter on the food of man. The fly is therefore capable of carrying the organisms (germs) which cause intestinal disease such as typhoid fever and dysentery.

The fly can also transmit from excreta to food amoebic dysantery and the eggs of some of the intestinal worms which we so often find in human feces.

Procedures for the control of flies are based on its habits and characteristics which make them more or less easily killed by certain specific measures.

These specific measures will be discussed next week.

Advanced Classics

Filled with elation and glee by a schedule of instruction calling for practically nothing but indoor brain exercise, the contestants for the Order of Ring Around Rosie, or the Hangman's Noose, made a banner month out of January.

Malin Craig, who, in addition to his other duties, pursues the avocation of class statistician, yesterday submitted his official report on the standing of the competitors for the first month of the present calendar year. Malin's tabulation shows the actual number of inquiries propounded during the month by the ten leaders as follows: Macey Dill, 39; Andy Andrews, 30; Ph. D. Colby, 24; Great Burner of the Fields Jennings, 21; Whispers Hanley, 20; Kaspar Crim, 19; Muggsy Miller, 15; Arnie Siler, 14; Ross, D. M. N., 9; Eddie Bowden, 8.

Macey Dill, after lagging badly during the first three weeks of the month, came through with a brilliant finish to carry off the monthly honors and hold intact his big lead in the 1932-33 race. On January 29th he scored two points, the following day four tallies. Then on the afternoon of January 31st he arose from his seat to knock the opposition — and Major Cole — cold with seven interrogations. After he had refused several times to yield the floor, even to the instructor, it became apparent that Macey was conducting a one man filibuster against Andrews and Colby. His maneuver proved eminently successful.

In view of the fact that many points of order and protests were raised against the methods employed by some of the contestants, Majah Williams, class monitor, found it necessary to appoint a Board of Inarticulates to hold hearings and decide upon all moot points arising as to the relative standing of competitors. This tribunal comprised Captain Allender Swift, Captain James W. Webb, U. S. M. C., and Lieutenant James Fry.

The Board of Inarticulates docked Andy Andrews a half point for every interrogation made from a simple sitting position, this being in direct violation of school rules. Andy's total was thus reduced to 15, a severe blow to his chances of winning the annual prize. The board discarded one of Macey's questions, expressing the opinion that the inquiry was made not so much for the purpose of obtaining information as to permit that gentleman to deliver a monograph on government time. Nevertheless, Macey held a commandng lead at the end of the month, and, off the record, we may state that only threat of veto by Majah Williams restrained the Board from awarding the Hangman's Noose then and there.

One third of a point was deducted from each of Whispers Hanley's efforts inasmuch as the great majority of the class gained no benefit whatsoever from the interrogatory pearls of wisdom that dropped from his lips. Likewise the Board refused to give credit for such questions as: "Which Fry?", "Did you say Kelly, or Keltner?", and "What Ross?". The reviewing committee tabled Long Bill Watson's claim for points accumulated during intermission interrogation of instructors.

On the other hand, the Board of Inarticulates did award Parksie Parks —a newcomer in the contest—five points for his one inquiry, this being a special reward for his valliant attempt to pin Major Heileman down to a definite statement. While Parksie failed by a wide margin to attain his objectve, the Board felt endurance and persistency such as was displayed on the occasion should receive extraordinary credit. The magnanimous decision of the committee in this case will be received with applause by al members of the class who thus far have not enrolled in the competition.

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

ANYHOW SHE GOT A TURKEY

On February third in this year of Grace nineteen hundred and thirty-three, Mrs. Bill Hones brought in her wild turkey. By so doing, this new Diana of the Upatoi crowned with brilliant achievement a series of unique events which have made hunting history and incidentally furnished enough material for at least a couple of cantos of the Hones' family saga,—when, as, and if the versatile impresario ever gets around to composing one.

In the first place the turkey which Mrs. Hones brought down was not slain as the result of some fortunate accident. To borrow a well-known baseball term, this was an "earned" gobbler if there ever was one. Captain and Mrs. Hones, having decided to shoot their turkeys this year, went about it systematically and thoroughly. They first read extensively in the literature on the subject. Then they investigated the habits of the local species and collected a mass of data on turkey psychology. They made a scientific study of the reactions of this lordly bird to the primal urges of hunger, self-preservation and sex. Then they spied out the land, scattered food in a selected locality and built a blind. Last but not least, they went early and often to lie in wait for some bronze sultan of turkeydom and his feathered harem to stroll into their ambush.

As with so many who have aspired to hanging a gobbler's beard in their wigwam, they experienced many disappointments. Most nimrods would have grown discouraged in the face of these but not Captain and Mrs. Hones. The Royal Mounted Police never showed greater persistency in the pursuit of an outlaw than did they in their determination to get their turkey.

Unfortunately the senior member of the hunting partnership of Hones and Hones has to work for a living and could not always go out. On these not infrequent occasions when the press of government business kept the Captain at home, Mrs. Hones went without him—fearful perhaps that the morning which they failed to occupy the blind would be the very morning that two or three flocks of turkeys would visit it.

Now the original Diana was usually attended by a wood nymph when she hunted and, in Africa, gun bearers are the thing, but Mrs. Hones is nothing is not original. On the mornings that she went forth without her husband, she took her colored maid, Maidie.

Came the day when months of patient effort was rewarded. Right across the front of the blind a war-strength company of turkeys marched in review. Mrs. Hones, in a flutter of excitement, singled out a likely looking gobbler and took aim. The wild turkey dinner that she had planned was almost on the table, when, out of the corner of her eye, the huntress spied a larger and fatter gobbler. Quickly she shifted her aim but again before the hand contracted in the approved trigger squeeze, a still larger gobbler hove into vew. If she could get that one she could have another couple in for the feast. Again the aim was shifted but before the fatal charge was sped on its mission still more gobblers were on the scene. Diana's gun swung wildly from one to the other as the number of place cards for the prospective dinner increased. They were moving away now and before Mrs. Hones could make up her mind which one she wanted, the flock was almost out of range. Our heroine blazed away but the frightened birds took to the air—all of them.

"Shucks, Mrs. Hones, you done let dem all git away when dey was close enough to hit with a rock" was Maidie's disgusted comment.

The next dawn found mistress and maid again in the blind and this time Maidie had brought along half a dozen rocks of convenient throwing size. This was the morning that Mrs. Hones got her turkey. Skeptics hint darkly that the noble bird died from the effects of a stone bruise. Editorially we always believe the lady but we also have a passion for conclusive evidence. We'll feel a lot better about this if a member of the coroner's jury that assembled to eat the bird breaks a tooth on a number two shot.

RED TICKET

Captain George Bloomquist, the distinguished actor, polo player and conversationalist, was annoyed to discover a red ticket on his somewhat dirty and dilapidated second mount. He was certainly parked in an authorized place and he couldn't imagine what the MP's had hooked him for.

Looking on the back of the card to discover his offense, he found himself charged with violation of Sec. XV, Par 8a (3), Garrison Regulations.

Now, if anything is needed to increase the irritation of a man who has just found a red ticket on his car, an obscure reference to sections, paragraphs, and subparagraphs of regulations will do the trick. It was an exasperated Scandinavian that stormed back into the Second Section offices calling for a copy of the voluminous code under which we live.

One might have thought it was a Bible from the language that the Captain used as he thumbed over the pages.

Finally he came to the clause and article referred to and read:

"Soiled cars will be washed inside and out at the car washing plant."

Captain Howard Clark 2d, in pleading guilty to putting over a fast one on his compatriot, also admits that he had no authority to assume the police power implied by his act. He insists, however, that it was all for the public good.

INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES—No. 1

The Flare special agent approached Chief-L o ng-Drawers-J a c k-Thompson, medicine man to all the horse tribes on the Chattahoochee. The Chief was perspiring profusely from the affects of an afternoon of his hard-riding, hird-hitting polo.

"Permit me to congratulate you on your excellent game," said the Flare representative. "I don't see how you do it. Tell me, are you a born player or a made one?"

"A made one, absolutely," replied Chief Long-Drawers.

"And to what do you attribute your success?" asked the reporter.

"To my unswerving antagonism to abbreviated underwear," replied the Chief. "I would never have gotten anywhere in polo if I hadn't stuck to good old-fashioned long underdrawers. From that day Colonel Ike Martin, who is a bachelor and buys his own clothes, put me wise to the superior qualities of long underwear, I have been able to ride hard, stay strung out, and sock the ball a mile. Yes sir, it is what a guy wears under his breeches that makes or breaks him on a horse."

(Please turn to page 5)

THE FLARE

(Continued from page 4)

"What about women?" asked the interviewer.

"Men and women both have got to wear 'em when they ride my horses," replied the Chif. "I won't tolerate shorts, summer nets, Vassar-knits and such things around the paddocks. They are the cause of 98 percent of all cases of standitis, which is the disease which makes you stand up when you eat. What's more, they are the cause of half the cases of sky rocket seats. Years ago, when I was young and soft, I used to wear short bright-colored undies just like those artillery lieutenants, but I know better now."

"Do you favor long drawers for war as well as peace?" asked the reporter.

"Of course," replied the Chief. "All great cavalrymen have worn long drawers."

"How about Phil Sheridan and his famous ride from Winchester to Cedar Creek?" said the reporter. "I have always understood that he dressed in a hurry and didn't wear any drawers at all."

"Yeh, I heard about that too," replied Chief Jack. "But that fellow wasn't a cavalryman in the first place, and even if he did win a few battles, I wouldn't have much use for anybody who forgets his drawers when dressing for a twenty-mile ride. He couldn't make No. 4 on the Yellow team—not on this Yellow team, anyway." —E. F. H.

New V-8 Fords On Display Sat.

For weeks you have been hearing rumors about a New Ford car. Tomorrow you will have an opportunity to see the car and learn all about it, for it will be on display at the showrooms of Burrus Motor Company.

It has new and distinctive lines, longer wheelbase, larger, roomier bodies, faster acceleration, and increased power, speed and economy. This is the roomiest and most powerful Ford ever built, and it brings a new style of beauty, a new standard of comfort and a new pace in performance at a low price.

TYPEWRITER
REPAIRING
All Makes
Stewart Typewriter Co.
1041 Broadway Phone 2622

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

29th Inf.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

It seems as if the battle between Hall, Cameron and Preston on the Steve-O Mach'ne is still raging. Hall fires one. "Bam" goes the Steve-O and the cigarettes. Preston fires one. "Bam" goes zero. Cameron fires one and "Bam" goes the machine.

Look out, Hall, Corporal Youngblood will bum you out of all these cigarettes, if you don't watch your step!

The company left Monday at 6 a. m. for a big all day demonstration. The weather was the coldest we have had this year.

The boys like changes like this in the routine, as it gets a fellow's mind out of the dumps. Last week the company participated in an overnight maneuver which they enjoyed, but our sector seemed to always happen to be on top of some hill where the cold wind almost blows through a fellow.

The Special Units basketball team composed mostly of Headquarters Company men, Mitzen, Hayes, Camp, lost to Tanks in their first game but we expect to come back strong. Although our team lost the game, they went down fighting and we are sure they will give a good account of themselves before the league is over. Hayes and Camp of Hq. Co. started the game off and Walden of Hq. Co. came in the game later on.

1st Lt. Ferenbauh is the coach for the Special Units Basketball team.

The Special Units (1st) Bowling team is still on top. We have won ten games and lost two so far. Keep up the good work Captain (W. T.) Hall and bring home the bacon.

The Special Units (2d) Bowling team is now in third place but coming right along. Keep up the good work Captain (Red) Burns and bring home the chitlings.

Team Captains Hall and Cameron are the two high enlisted men in the post on bowling at the present time. They have both made the score of 279.

The company has completed small bore firing:

Sergeant Hopkins made high score 368. The following are the first four high men: Keene 355. Hayes 353, Harrison 352, Gatch 352.

We are all glad to know that the Special Units Battalion 29th Infantry, is leading the 29th Infantry, in the points taken in the Post Amateur boxing tournament.

The following men have been promoted and rated in the company.

Pressley, A. J. to Corporal, Thomas rated 4th class, Medere, rated 5th class, Holt, appointed Private First class. The following have been rated specialist 6th class: Hamilton, Satina, Brown, Walton, White, Keene, Kirkpatrick, Lee, Smith, G. H.

24th Inf.

COMPANY "A"

Several men of the company have been discharged recently all re-enlisted except Pvt. Felious. Corporal Henry Hammons has returned from a sixty-day furlough. Pvt. John Dickerson, has transfered to the Army War College (col) Detachment, Washington, D. C., so hope he will like it though we are sorry to see him go.

Pvt. 1cl Cezar Bernard is discharged and reenlisted and is on a ninety-day furlough to Lake Charles, La.

83rd F. A.

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

Famous Last Words by Sgt. Tate: "I'll report this section Cpl. Wright.

Foots Cutrer our wonder boy is well again. He spent the last two weeks in the hospital with swollen feet. He wears at present size 16 EE shoe and it's a good thing that the Medicos didn't leave the swelling in his feet as he has a hard time as it is to get hoes to fit him.

Cpl. Hurst thought that the buffalo in the rodeo show was a camel with its back broke.

Sgt. Dodd and Cpl. Pike spent the week end in Alabama dove hunting. Cpl. Pike killed two doves with one stone.

Our Battalion basket ball team is rounding into shape. They beat the I. S. D., the other night and we all hope that they continue the good work. The battery is 100% behind them.

Pop Eye Long, our battery mechanic was rated 4th class specialist the first of the month. We hope that he will hold this rating for a while at least.

BATTERY "A"

The King Fish Sergeant Jeff W. Smith, is leaving for a 30-day furlough. We are in hopes the long trip will not give him much worry. The King Fish has to go all the way to Girard, Alabama, where he has been a resident for 52 years not counting the 27 years he has been Mess Sergeant.

We are very sorry to report that ome of the old familiar faces around Battery A will be seen no more, due to being discharged and taking off. Mike O'Brien is going back to his old haunts around Nashville, Tenn. Mike says he wants to hear the old music of the air hammer again. Jesse McLeod is going back to Valdosta, Ga. Mack will probably have a Hot Dog stand some where on the highway. Static Olen is going back to Texas, he probably wants to feel the effect of a Texas norther or Texas sand storm. Barbara the Pennsylvania miner did not give out much information as to where he would land, but I think Panama will be his destination. Squeaky Evans says he is going to try the Doughboys a fall.

All of our "Wire City" boys are back in the organization and seem very much pleased to be back in the old outfit. How about sticking around for a while.

Should any one in the organization crave any information along the lines of law please call on Sgt. Bean Pole Cole, he is taking the place of the departed Hugh H. Neely who was a great Guard House lawyer.

Corporal Speedy Rogers has been mighty quiet here of late; I do not know the reason why. Gordon Cameron and Peter Brown must know something on him.

BATTERY "C"

The long drawn out fight between the supply and mess sergeants for the priority of the battery truck has been settled as both went to town in the truck with a load of wood, at the same time. Washington has seen hunger marchers, and bonus marchers, in Battery C, Fort Benning, we have laundry marchers, under the leadership of either the Chief of the fourth section or the Signal sergeant. Every Saturday you can see those men who forget that the barracks bag is a part of their laundry, march to the Post laundry. The NCO in charge of quarters has come to the rescue of the Supply Sgt. and issues out the laundry. Drill might be the main issue for some soldiers, in our battery the laundry comes first.

After an uphill battle for almost a year Spike Webb has been promoted to corporal, and is the gunner in the fourth section. With the 3-day passes a thing of the old army, the 5-day furlough epidemic has hit the battery. All victims are coming in ahead of time. This is another example of the remedy being worse than the malady.

Two more boards have been located in the battery and all efficiency experts are figuring to whom to issue those as bulletin boards. So far the supply sergeant is th eonly sergeant without a bulletin board. All his bulletins appear on some board, but it takes a reconnaissance party to locate them.

Even Eyeglasses . . . .

. . . can add much to one's appearance if care is taken in selecting and fitting them. We are completely equipped to do every kind of optical work and cordially invite the patronage of the Benning personnel.

Located on Corner of Broadway and 12th St.

W. W. PERROTT OPTICAL COMPANY

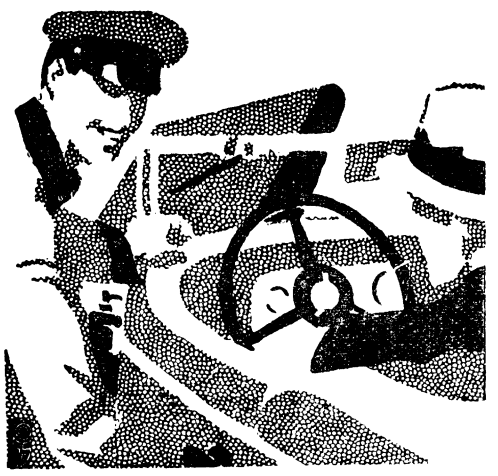
FINE OPTICAL INSTRUMENTS



Reduce your automobile expenses by using good oils and greases and having it inspected frequently.

AUTO DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Tom's
Tom's
Tom's
Tom's

. . . the world's best Peanuts!

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Smith Meets Murphy In Feature 10-Rounder

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Townsend, Canadian leatherpusher, proved no match for Tony Canzeroni, generally conceded by experts to be the best fighting man for his weight and inches in the United States. Of course, fans expected the champion to win, but few expected that the end would come so quickly.

Canzeroni came out fast and staggered Townsend with a terrific right to the head. Three lightning like rights to the temple, following each other in rapid succession, laid Townsend an inert heap on the canvas and he did not move until long after the referee had tolled the fatal ten over his prostrate body.

Canzernori is now satisfied that he is far and away the best man in his division. He intends to groom himself for a crack at "Baby Face" McLarnin, hard-hitting Irishman, king of the weight just above Tony. McLarnin will outweigh Canzeroni by a dozen pounds or so if the two do meet. Notwithstanding, it should be a real battle.

* * *

The eyes of the boxing public are now turned to the coming Carnera-Schaaf fracas. Carnera recently won a decisive victory over King Levinsky and another over K. O. Christner, both heavyweight trial horses. Schaaf is fresh from a knockout win over Stan Poreda, Swedish sensation.

The winner of this bout, according to the statements of Garden officials, will fight Sharkey in June for the heavyweight champion of the world.

* * *

Joe Bush, who led the nation's individual scoring honors in football last fall with the amazing total of 114 points, has now turned his attention to basketball in a big way. He plays right forward on his college five, and has so far succeeded in rolling up 96 points in eight games. Despite the fact that he is the most consistent "feeder" on his team, he has dropped in thirty-five baskets from the floor and twenty-six more from the foul line.

The university baseball coach is watching Bush with greatest concern from his sidelines, for in a very few weeks, Joe will resume his old post at shortstop on the baseball nine.

* * *

Jim Bausch, Olympic Decathalon champion, will display his manifold talents at the New York A. C. games a few weeks from now. He will compete in three events and should come close or actually win all of them.

He puts the shot around fifty-two feet and can pole vault thirteen and a half feet. Besides these two events, he will be entered in the broad jump.

* * *

Cunningham's brilliant victory over Gene Venzke in the Wanamaker Mile last Saturday has given followers of the cinder path much food for thought.

When Gene set the world's record at 4:10 minutes a year ago, experts figured it would stand for some time to come. At that time, Cunningham was just a fair-to-middling mid-Westerner. Then the Jayhawk nosed out Venzke for third place in the race to decide the trio to represent the United States in the Olympic Games.

Nevertheless, it was thought that Vanzke would win the race last Saturday. Cunningham's coach admitted before the event that his protegee was still three weeks away from top form.

Cunningham proved that he could stay with Gene. Last year, Venzke always succeeded in running up a big lead and his trailers could sprint their hearts out and never cut down the lead to any great extent. But in Cunningham, he met a driving, powerful finisher, whose muscles rippled with speed.

The winner's time for the event was 4:13.

Chicago Boxer To Mix With Soldier At Gymnasium Here

Murphy Holds Win Over Ching Johnson, Benning Fighter, In Local Ring

Walker "Cyclone" Smith, popular Fort Benning lightheavyweight, and Harold Murphy, of Missouri, dubbed "the Millionaire Fighter," have been matched to box in the feature bout of the fight show that will be held at Fort Benning on February the seventeenth.

Fans will remember Harold as the lad who gave Ching Johnson a bad trimming here in a recent battle. The two met in a semi-final and fought eight rounds. It was evident in the very first round that Ching was outclassed. Murphy exhibited a beautiful left hand, and using his greater reach to advantage, kept Johnson away from him. Ching tried desperately to land a telling blow but failed as Murphy scored frequently with left jabs.

Fans were almost unanimously agreed that Harold was one of the best boxers that ever appeared in a Benning ring. Up against a rugged fighter in Ching Johnson, he maintained a perfect coolness throughout the fight and was never in danger.

In the last few rounds, it appeared that Murphy was carrying Ching along. He never chose to follow up advantages but contented himself with rolling up a big lead in points. At the end of the fight, Ching was wobbly but still game to the core.

No sooner was ths fight over than there arose a popular clamor to match the "millionaire fighter" with either Smith or Griffin.

Murphy has achieved an excellent record as an athlete. While matriculating at the University of Missouri, he played tackle on the football team and starred consistently. He also held a golf championship at the school. A love of boxing decided him in favor of a temporary ring career. A string of knockout victories soon brought him to the attention of boxing fans. Since that time, he has established himself firmly in the boxing world, and judging from his showing against Ching Johnson, deserves his reputation.

Maj. A. A. Kingman Presents Athletic Trophies To Team

At an informal ceremony which took place at headquarters, 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) Major Allen F. Kingman, commander of the local tank battalion made presentations of athletic coats to the members of the football team of the tank battalion.

Those who received the awards in recognition of their football prowess are as follows:

1st Lieutenant Robert S. Nourse, Sergeant Nollie W. Gilley, Company E, Corporal John Childress, Company D. Corporal Walter Swantic, Company E, Private 1st Class Robert E. Anthony, Company F, Private 1st Class Bobbie E. Brown, Headquarters Company, Private 1st Class Marion E. Langford, Headquarters Company, Private 1st Class Charley L. McKnight, Company D, Private George W. Alvord, Company E. Private Emile T. Nugent, Headquarters Company, Private Robert I. Love, Private Aubrey L. Mathews, Company E, Private Curtis N. Pike, Company E, Private Clifford H Stearnes, Company E, and Private Henry H. Wadsworth. Corporal Gordon A. Stewart was awarded a coat

(Please turn to page 8)

SLANTS ON POLO

Near the side-boards during last Sunday's battle between the Freebooters and Students stood a couple of visiting cowboys from Monk Lewis' Rodeo, contemplating no doubt the relative intellectual values of polo and roping steers.

Along came a galloping play, charging close to where the cow-punchers stood, when lo and behold down went Buck, Monte Blue's pony, and sailing went Monte's white helmet. With perfect coordination and balance, Buck skidded swiftly along on his keel, legs folded under, Monte still aboard and gong strong until the play was stopped and the embarrassed acrobat gathered up his equipment.

Then had for himself an idea Captain Umpire Leslie Brown: Was Blue's face Red?

* * *

The second day of polo-touranment play opened with clear, but cold and windy weather. Fingers were stiff at first and even sweat shirts under the colored jerseys seemed scarcely sufficient. Many of the players probably had a good old-fashioned cry on the first run upstream in the teeth of aforesaid chilly blast.

Bill Stephenson not only played a fine game but made the longest dirve of the day with an 80-80 yard knock-in: 80 yards up and 80 the usual way completely lifting over an unsuspecting field. Maybe Bob Ports' great work as a goal-tender helped. He was observed teeing the balls up on regular sand-piles. Must have been a qualm-ful back himself.

* * *

Mr. Shean had a mallet on display which exhibited results of super-grip. Major Arnold, it was found, had broken the grip clean through in a tense moment.

* * *

Sat next to an observing car with Alabama plates and kids stacked five deep. Seems one little boy was asking his dad "why won't someone fall off?" Just born a week or so late. Ride-Like-The-Winn executed nicest of ground loops not long ago and several otiier iess graceful have rodeoed around their horses' neck.

* * *

Speaking of little boys, one of the previous chukkers was interrupted suddenly after only several minutes' play by loud clanging of the gong. Very apparently one of the younger post hopefuls had experimented with said gong' tonal ability.

* * *

Spied that well-known figure, Lieut Russell P. "Red" Reeder asleep in the Students' stands and his pale green nile pink barouche.

Also the youngest Bonesteel celebrating her sixteenth or so birthday searching cars for stray Scotch terriers.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital ----------$100,000.00
Surplus ---------- 65,000.00

Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum

Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

Ford V-8

TOMORROW'S

THE DAY

SEE

THE NEW FORD

V-8

At our showrooms

SATURDAY, FEB. 11TH

BURRUS MOTOR COMPANY

1216-22 First Avenue Phone 3500

ATHLETIC EQUIPMENT

The Main Branch of the Post Exchange has a Complete Service on All Types of Athletic Equipment. Phone 608

POST EXCHANGE

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Tankers Cop Amateur Crown

SPORTS

Polo Antedates Christian Era; Was National Sport Of Ancient Persians

Sitting on the sideboards after a game one day, chinning about this and that, some one wondered where the game of polo came from and when it was first played. Since my start in polo was made in the year one of the crowd was born I felt that surely in that much time I should have gathered a little of the history of the game. I was a bit embarrassed so I decided to investigate and this is what I found.

The very earliest records we have of the game are Persian and it is practically certain that polo in its primitive forms was played long before the beginning of the Christian era. That makes polo more than two thousand years old which is a good round number to remember. The Persians called the game "Chaugan" and it was a national sport played on Arab ponies. The Persians took the game very seriously and skill in playing it was often considered as a recommendation for promotion at court. The record doesn't indicate that this made polo popular with non-players but it seems that I have heard remarked in our present day that polo players were of the anointed few. Be that as it may, back at the time that Columbus was having his many difficulties discovering America for us, a Persian Emperor described one of his favorite all-around athletes as a man of courage, an excellent archer, and remarkable for his skill in playing the games of Chaugan (polo) and leapfrog. Strange we never, these days, link leapfrog and polo. Perhaps we are missing a bet. And they wrote epic poems telling of the prowess of their star players, one of whom, a prince and the Babe Ruth of his day frequently hit the ball so hard that it went up into the clouds and disappeared and never came back again. Another epic tells of the skill of the queen and ladies of her court who in 590 AD played polo before the king, so ladies' polo even such as was played here last spring, has considerable historical background. One pictorial record shows the ladies' stand and just below four players, two of whom are making back shots. From the evident effort put into making the shots and the resulting strange postures it would seem that even the earlier players were not above playing to the feminine gallery. In the eleventh century the first international polo match was played with seven on a side between the Iranians and Turanaans. Pictures show the ponies' legs bandaged and the record stresses the value of the combination of the players or team work. I quote four lines from the well worked Omar Khayyam.

The Ball no Question makes of Ayes or Noes,
But here or there, as strikes the player goes;
And He that tossed you down into the Field,
He knows about it all—he knows—He knows.

I'm sure many of our players will picture the amused and slightly supercilious umpire watching some hither and yon hitting and will appreciate knowing that the players of old were not any straighter hitters than we are today.

A twelfth century Japanese print shows some action in polo with one player hanging by a knee from the saddle, head down attempting to stroke the ball with what appears to be a lacrosse stick. We today often try stroking from equally detached positions but not with success sufficient to mention. One player is bending a bow with feathered arrow, perhaps equipment of the umpire. Not a bad idea and perhaps our long suffering officials will appreciate such an innovation.

In the 16th Century we have the field specified as 300 yards by 170 yards, a present day regulation field. The ball which formerly was the willow wood Tibetan pulu, whence our word polo, was made of leather. Nowadays if the club has a well fille treasury the teams play with balls of willow wood. Here at Benning play

(Please turn to page 8)

Col. E. G. Peyton Presents Trophy To Championship Team

The Terrible Tankers, representing the 66th Infantry, won the team amateur boxing championship last Wednesday evening. Colonel Ephraim G. Peyton, executive officer of the Infantry School, presented the championship aggregation with a striking statue wrought in silver. The trophy was presented to Baby Floyd, Tanker bantam champion and team captain.

Fast action featured the bouts Wednesday. In the opening bout, Morris, Irish featherweight, won his third straight fight by defeating Billy Floyd of the Kelly team in a fast battle. Morris, having overcome all opposition in his class, will represent the Infantry School team.

Prophet and Sanford threw leather lavishly in the next bout and earned a draw after a battle in which both boys gave and took plenty of punshment.

Whatley, Kelly middleweight ace, plainly showed a right to fight for the Infantry School when he scored his third successive knockout, Smith of the Irish succumbing in the first round. Whatley had previously knocked out Cheeks in the second round and Whtehead in the first. He has compiled a remarkable record and should go a long way in amateur circles.

Smith, who was predicted to give the Kelly ace a hard fight, was totally outclassed. He failed to land a single punch.

Johnson further demonstrated his fistic ability when he took the decision and the championship from Bridges of the Irish but only after a close fight.

Street received a bad beating at the hands of Donald of the Irish and decided that the floor was far more comfortable than standing up and taking the many punches that the Irishman was throwing at him from all angles.

Baby Floyd had no difficulty winning from Jenkins of the Special Units. Jenkins was badly outboxed and outsmarted by the clever Tanker. Mann of the Special Units pounded out a victory over Bare of the Tanks.

Lorimer of the Special Units team ran up a big lead on Mathews representing the Tankers, but Mathews dropped his opponent in the final round and took first place. Milan, Tanker welterweight, turned back Sargent of the Special Units, but only after a great battle. The Special Units boy was outclassed but game to the core and made Milan step to win the decision.

Killen, Tanker middelweight, defeated Craven of the Spare Parts. Craven landed heavilyat first but Killen got going and that was all there was to it.

Wilson won his second straight victory when he outpointed Morris of the Tankers. The fight was fairly even until the third round. Wilson had a clear edge, thereafter.

Penland won as he pleased from Pike of the Tank team.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

| | |
|---|---|
| Tankers | 139 |
| Kellys | 131 |
| Special Units | 120 |
| Irish | 113 |

Artillery Snowed Under By Kellys; Greencords Lose To Special Units

By JACK GIBNEY

The long range sharpshooters of the 83rd Field Artillery had the Blue Thunderbolt worried for the first quarter when the Red Legs and the Kellys clashed on the Benning court Monday night, but the boys from the second Battalion, 29th Infantry tightened up on their guarding and started a system of passing that clicked off marker after marker until the Gunners were snowed under the tune of 44-28.

McGee, big Artillery center, started his customary game of dropping them from all possible and impossible angles, but the Kellys refused to lose heart, and after taking the lead 19-17 at the half, came back strong in the second half for twenty-five points, and sewed the game up in a bag. The victory of the Thunderbolt last night place them in a tie with the Golden Tornado from the Tanks for the lead in the Benning intramural league, with the Gunners in second place, and the four remaining teams in a tie for the cellar position.

Chamberlain was high point man with eight field goals and one free throw to his credit. Darden, center, and Lee, F., forward, looked very nice, and the passwork and guarding of the entire team clicks better than any-

(Please turn to page 8)

Freebooters Are In Lead As Polo Series Is Played

The second games of the polo series were played last Sunday afternoon on a cold, wind-swept field. Three four-period contests were played. The second four periods of these games will be played in March and the score of both contests will then be totalled.

The Freebooters, at present, are leading the league with two victories and no defeats. The two other unbeaten aggregations are the Hoofers of the 29th Infantry and the Optimists.

Freebooters Defeat Students

The Freebooters won their second game Sunday afternoon when they subdued the Students by the close score of 3-2. The contest was hard-fought from beginning to end and the issue remained in doubt until the final whistle blew. Captain Nichols was again the outstanding sticker for the Freebooters, tallying twice.

The line-ups:

(Please turn to page 8)

HALF SOLES

A GOOD Half Sole 50c . A BETTER Half Sole 75c

LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
PHONE 565

Boston Shoe Factory
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 or less

for bills . . education . . travel

Check off these advantages:
√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

A DEPARTMENT of the Post Exchange maintained for the convenience of and for service to the Enlisted men of the garrison.

The personnel of the units stationed here are invited to avail themselves of the services we offer.

POST EXCHANGE
RESTAURANT
Located In Service Club No. 1

POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING
GEORGIA

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus --$ 400,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

WASN'T THAT DEPRESSION AWFUL?

The Depression caused prices to fall. But even now Meats remain cheaper in proportion than any other food.
Remember the slogan, "Buy Columbus Meats." Old Settler's and Red Rose brand are the real Columbus meats and will not disappoint you. They are fresher—They are made under rigid surveillance of United States Government Inspectors. They are processed in the newest modern packing plant in the South right here in Columbus.
Bring in new Industries, but, while we are waiting, let us boost those that are here and show those who are in doubt what support a business may expect which comes to Columbus.

The Provision Co., Inc.

Representing locally the Livestock Industry, the backbone of agriculture

BOXING

FRIDAY NIGHT, FEB. 17TH

Post Gymnasium, 8:15 P. M.

Walker Smith, Twenty-Ninth Infantry vs. Harold Murphy, Chicago
10 Rounds

RIP TETHERTON, Twenty-Ninth Infantry vs. BABY STRIBLING, St. Petersburg
8 Rounds

CHICK LIDDELL, Twenty-Ninth Infantry vs. JACK HARP, Warm Springs
6 Rounds

DAPPER DOYLE, Twenty-Ninth Infantry vs. SCRIP d'OLIVER, Alabama
6 Rounds

Special 4 Rounds

GRUMPY GORDY, Quarter Master Corps vs. DANNY LONG, Artillery

HERBERT YETMEYER, Medicos vs. TONY DIGGINS, Columbus
4 Rounds

Special Colored Feature

Battling Brooks, Columbus vs. Willie Branch, Twenty-Fourth Infantry
3 Rounds

General Admission 50c Ringside $1.00

Tickets on sale at Officers' Club, Athletic office and all orderly rooms.

Griffin Wins Over Joe McCarthy

SPORTS

ARTILLERY LOSES TO KELLS

(Continued from Page 7)

thing seen on the Benning courts this season. McGee, Jones, and Cherry put up a nice game for the Artillery.

Lineups:

| 2nd. Bat. | | 83rd |
|---|---|---|
| Chamberlain (17) | Forward | Morris (4) |
| Lee, F. (10) | Forward | Oakes (1) |
| Darden (13) | Center | McGee (10) |
| Patrick | Guard | Jones (8) |
| Lee, J. W. (4) | Guard | Cherry (5) |

SPECIAL UNITS TAKE CONTEST AT BENNING

The Greencords of the Infantry School Detachment were overwhelmed by the fast Special Units five, 30 to 9, at the Fort Benning gymnasium Tuesday night. With Yates, star center, out of the game with injuries received in a motorcycle accident, the Greencords failed to click. Wee Grady Tolle played a splendid game for the losers but he was smothered under the stonewall defense and driving offensive power of the Spare Part team.

Jimmie Hayes, Baird and Barker were the outstanding stars for the winners. Hayes sank a couple of long range shots that brought a roar of applause from the fans. Barker clicked off a brace of field goals and showed a beautiful passing game. Baird was the main cog in the Special Unit play, his passing, dribbling and defensive work was one of the high lights of the game.

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

Howard Bus Line, Inc.
Operating Under Government Franchise
Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES
410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Rodeo Continues Through Week End

Although the first performance of the Texas Rangers Rodeo scheduled for yesterday was postponed due to cold weather they will open Friday with performances Friday and Saturday afternoons and Friday and Saturday nights. The matinees begin at 3:00 and the night performances will start promptly at 8:30. This rodeo is the first of a series of annual contests the Texas Rangers will stage here and a great deal of interest has been aroused as it is not like an ordinary Wild West show, but consists of cowboy sports wherein cowboys—and cowgirls—compete for cash prizes in such different events as Brokn Riding, Steer Wrestling or Bulldogging, Steer Riding, Trick and Fancy Roping and Riding, etc.

Two local men have entered the Bronk Riding and Steer Riding contests, and it is reported several soldiers from Fort Benning have likewise entered. Ten head of the wildest stock ever seen by the hands assembled here have been shipped from the Bullock ranch and have evidenced their wildness when being unloaded. This stock has been roaming the wilds of the range for several years without laying eyes on a single human, and as it is only natural for them to try to gore and trample the nearest person the cowboys experienced quite a little fun when unloading them. Some of this stock will be used at each performance.

MAJOR KINGMAN PRESENTS TROPHIES

(Continued from Page 7)

for his work as trainer of the football squad.

Lieutenant Elliot Watkins, Staff Sergeant Vallery, Sergeant George C. McKelvey, Company E, Sergeant O'Neil Pierce, Headquarters Company, Sergeant Robert F. Stewart, Stewart, Company D, Sergeant Dan D. Sullivan, Headquarters Company and Corporal Sheldon A. Smith, Company F, having received sweaters at the conclusion of the 1931 season, were awarded the right to wear an additional stripe symbolical of this year's award.

LIEUT. PEEP'S DIARY

(Continued from Page 4)

the latter's saying 'holes-in-the-ground' in twenty hours, we were today given anatomy of the horse, diseases, thir symptoms, causes and cure, and age and aging in the space of fifty minutes. On that basis one might deliver in his fifteen minute tak a complete dissertation on the late unpleasantness in Europe.

Wednesday, Feb. 8

Major Loblolly did spend a profitable hour browbeating the class again this morning. Upon Hickey does rest the attainment of first student to be told "That answer is correct." I had begun to believe that much time might be saved if, in lieu of reciting, those called upon should say "Please consider that I have already made two statements both of which are wrong."

My slight knowledge increased a mite by the Major's reference to a "new innovation," but I was unable to follow him closely being still engaged in contemplation of some of the old ones.

The morning topped off with an entertaining monograph by Major Howe who did place Joshua in the light of a bush leaguer by causing the sun to both rise and set at high noon.

This afternoon did see the completion of a part of that strictly confidential course, Indirect Laying. The utmost secrecy has surrounded the entire course necessitating its acquisition by telepathy. At times a silent movie would have improved on the situation for the sub-titles would have given some meaning to the lip movement. Had I but foreseen the continued necessity I might have rented an acousticon to bridge the silent abyss between me and the platform.

—Lieut. Peep.

Griffin Is Winner Over Joe McCarthy At Florida Fight

John "Corn" Griffin climbed one more rung of the ladder to fistic fame when he dropped Joe McCarthy, New York heavyweight, in the third round of a scheduled ten-round bout at St. Petersburg, Fla., Tuesday night.

McCarthy, since the opening of the winter season in Florida, has carved a remarkable record for himself. He has fought five fights in all and won all of them. Griffin went south to face the New Yorker and the dopesters had him down to lose.

Griffin, who used his left to good advantage in the Edgren fight, threw left jabs at McCarthy time after time and cut Joe's face to ribbons. McCarthy was no match for the Tanker despite prebout gossip. He was outclassed from beginning to end.

Corn came out fast in the first round, caught McCarthy in his own corner, and staggered him with a left hook that landed a little too high on the head to end matters right then and there.

From then on, it was apparent that it was just a question of how long Corn's opponent could stand the grueling punishment. Nevertheless McCarthy tried desperately to land a telling blow but could not penetrate the fine defense of the soldier. As the second round came to a close, Griffin landed heavily to the body and Joe was shaky as he walked to his corner.

Griffin came out in the third determined to knock out his opponent. His left was working like a piston and McCarthy could not seem to g( clear of it. Griffin doubled up McCarthy with a hard right to the body. As Joe made a desperate attempt to remain on his feet, Corn nailed him with a left hook to the button. Down went McCarthy and the fight was over.

Griffin looks better and better every time he climbs into the ring. He has now gained sufficient notoriety in Southern circles and it is rumored that a Griffin-Godwin fight is in the offing, with West Palm Beach and St. Petersburg clamoring for the battle to be staged in their cities.

A Griffin-Godwin bout would be a "natural." Griffin has come to the fore rapidly and is probably a match for any lightweight in the country. But if a fight between these two is forthcoming, it is to be hoped that it will take place here.

FREEBOOTERS LEAD SERIES

(Continued from Page 7)

| Students | Freebooters |
|---|---|
| 1. Sweeney | 1. Lockett |
| 2. Butler | 2. Nichols |
| 3. Stevenson | 3. Blue |
| 4. Griffith | 4. Thompson |

Umpires: Maj. Johnson and Captain Brown.

* * *

Billygoats Outpoint 83rd

In a furious free-for-all, the green-jerseyed Billygoats avenged last week's defeat at the hands of the Freebooters by conquering the 83rd 7-4. The Redlegs were playing against a three-goal handicap.

The line-ups:

| Redlegs | Billygoats |
|---|---|
| 1. Bevan | 1. Lucas |
| 2. Sherburne | 2. Bloomquist |
| 3. Arnold | 3. Gammon |
| 4. Heriot | 4. Winn |

Umpires: Major Johnson and Captain Beatty.

Hoofers Down Gunners 10-6

The 29th Infantry demonstrated their prowess when they tallied ten goals while their hapless opponents were having difficulty scoring six.

Lieut. Haskell starred for the Gunners while "Wild Man" O'Connor scored five times for the Blue and Gold combination, thre of which came in the last chukker.

The line-ups:

| Hoofers | Gunners |
|---|---|
| 1. O'Connor | 1. Cobb |
| 2. Westlund | 2. Ports |
| 3. Gould | 3. Haskell |
| 4. Cushman | 4. Grubbs |

Umpires: Captain Beatty and Captain Brown.

* * *

Standing of the Teams

| | W | L | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Freebooters | 2 | 0 | .1000 |
| Hoofers (29th Inf.) | 1 | 0 | .1000 |
| Optimists | 1 | 0 | .1000 |
| Red Legs (83d F. A.) | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| Billygoats | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| Gunners | 0 | 2 | .000 |
| Students | 0 | 2 | .000 |

POLO ANTEDATES CHRISTIANS

(Continued from Page 7)

we with the bamboo root ball, which is tougher, more lasting, and less expen sive. From the earliest times the goal posts were placed 24 feet apart, a distance which is still the regulation distance. A thousand years and never a change would seem a satisfactory time test. Twenty-four (24) feet must be right.

The game spread from Persia to Japan, China, Korea, and to India in the 16th Century. India fostered the game and in 1863 in Calcutta, while we were well involved in our Civil War, Europeans played polo for the firs time. That seems to bring the game from its very beginning up to the opening of modern polo, a stretch of a thousand and more years in which the game has developed into the fast clean game we now enjoy.

Well, I started to find out a little bit of the origin of polo and now I hope I can retain enough of it to pass on to the next person who wonders about polo. Even if it is old, it's a grand game.

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

USED CARS
of every kind!

1930 CHEVROLET COUPE—In excellent condition — upholstery clean. Just refinished in new Duco colors—good tires.
1930 CHEVROLET COACH—Perfectly clean—Practically new set tires—Just refinished beautiful Duco finish.
1931 DESOTO "8" SEDAN—Thoroughly reconditioned—1931 6 wire wheel job, with trunk rack—special broadcloth upholstery and just just refinished new Duco finish. Brand new set tires.
1931 OAKLAND "8" SEDAN—This late model Oakland '8' runs fine—just through our reconditioning department—New tires and Duco department made it look like new.

ALL THESE ARE VALUES:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1929 Buick Coach | $395 |
| 1929 Buick Sport Brougham | 465 |
| 1929 Buick Master Sedan | 435 |
| 1929 Buick Standard Sedan | 395 |
| 1930 Buick Standard Coupe | 525 |
| 1931 Buick 7 Pas. Sedan | 1150 |
| 1928 Buick Standard Sedan | 285 |
| 1927 Buick Standard Coach | 195 |
| 1930 Marquette Sedan | 645 |
| 1930 Marquette Coach | 385 |
| 1928 Buick Standard Coupe | 225 |
| 1928 Nash Coupe | 145 |
| 1929 Essex Coach | 215 |
| 1929 Nash Sedan | 295 |

Plenty of others, almost any make, style and price also ready for service.
Liberal Trades—Convenient Terms
Cliff M. Averett, Inc.
1441 First Avenue
Phone 884

Enlisted Men's Uniforms and Accessories
AT
VERY LOW PRICES
We specialize in tailoring to measure finer quality Enlisted Men's uniforms of Khaki and Melton, or the new regulation issue materials. A complete stock of Caps, Shirts, Shoes, Belts, Ornaments, et cetera, is available for immediate delivery, at very moderate prices.
CREDIT EXTENDED THRU COMPANY OR BATTERY COMMANDER
We will welcome an opportunity to prove our excellent service.
THE ASSOCIATED MILITARY STORES
2nd Floor The Officers' Club
FORT BENNING, GA.

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

"Island of Lost Souls"

The scene transpires in the "Island of Lost Souls," H. G. Wells' mystery of the South Seas, which shows at the Grand Theatre Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

ROYAL

(Opening with midnight showr, 11:15 o'clock Saturday)

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "The Sign of the Cross" with Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton. Out of the blazing pyre of Rome comes the loves that has outlived 2,000 years. Christianity's martyrdom! . . . the mightiest spectacle ever lavished upon the screen . . . stunning with its storied power . . . moving in its majestic omance . . . a great dramatic spectacle with more than 7,500 people in the cast.

* * *

GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Island of Lost Souls" with Charles Laughton, Bela Lugosi and Richard Arlen—and Kathleen Burke, the "Panther Woman." H. G. Wells' story of an adventurer,

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "Whistling in the Dark" with Ernest Truex, Una Merkel Edward Arnold and Johnny Hines. A mystery comedy with the international famed comedian in the leading role.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering Madame Butterfly" with Sylvia Sidney, Cary Grant, Charlie Ruggles and Irving Pichel. Beauty and romance under Oriental moon . . . to her —his love-contract meant forever . . . to him—it meant only "until my ship sails."

* * *

RIALTO

TODAY AND TOMORROW: Offering "Men of America" with Bill Boyd, Charles "Chick" Sale and Dorothy Wilson. Eastern gangstes are hereby warned to keep out of the west. That's what they told the alley rats when they used a westerner's sweetheart for a bullet shield—red blood riding to war against the enemy—the gangster—within the western gates.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY: "The Peguin Pool Murder" with Edna May Oliver, Robert Armstrong, James Gleason and Mae Clarke. The fish pond murder mystery gave seven detectives water on the brain.

TUESDAY ONLY: Offering "The Mask of Fu Manchu" with Boris Kaloff, Lewis Stone, Karen Morley, Myrna Loy, Jean Hersholt and Charles Brabin. Thrill piled upon thrill, shudder on shudder! The destroyer without pity, the beautiful temptress without a soul in a new Fu Manchu masterpiece from the pen of Sax Rohmer.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "Hell's Highway" with Richard Dix, Tom Brown and Rochelle Hudson. With strength in his arms and love in his heart for the woman who waited and prayed . . . he hacked at mountains in the blistering sun . . . but his spirit wouldn'tdie under the man-crushing arm of the chain gang.

RIALTO

Sherlock Holmes relives in a feminine guise in Hildegarde Martha Withers, who behaves in full accordance with the Holmes system, except that she arouses your heartiest laughs. For Hildegarde is cinematically known as Edna May Oliver, who appears in "The Penquin Pool Murder" Sunday and Monday at the Rialto Theatre.

Mid-Victorian and spinterish, Hildegarde recalls Conan Doyle's expert detective. But her Queen Mary hat supplants his "wide-awake" two-pointed cap. A few furtive surveillances provide her with clues; whereas her predecessor incessantly peered thru a magnifying glass. She pries and peruses, snorts and sniffs, while Sherlock scanned and mused with an abundance of "M-m-m-ms" and "Ahs."

ROYAL

After being killed cinematically for 22 years, Clarence Burton has at last gotten a movie role in which he's alive in the last reel.

Burton, a member of the cast headed by Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton, which enacts Cecil B. DeMille's spectacle of pagan Rome, "The Sign of the Cross," at the Royal Theater beginning Saturday night at 11:15 and showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, has been in the movies since 1910, and in every previous film in which he's appeared he's met death before the final fadeout. In "The Sign of the Cross," however, he breaks his record.

In a period of twenty-two years a man can undergo a wide variety of demises, Burton has discovered.

"Some were gruesome, some violent and sudden, ome slow and painful, and other amusing," he says in describing the methods used to end his life on the screen.

On two occasions, he recalls, movie death almost turned out to be the real thing.

"Once I almost became a victim of a thirty-two foot python that was supposed to crush me to death in a picture called 'The Coils of the Python'," he relates. "Somebody forgot to tell the snake that he was only acting, it required six husky men to unwrap him from my carcass.

Beautiful?

The alluring Claudette Colbert in the garb of Nero's Queen in "The Sign of the Cross" coming to the Royal Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

GRAND

Kathleen Burke, who, six months ago, was a tentist's assistant in Chicago, is seeing the world today, and getting paid for it.

Miss Burke, who won the title of "Panther Woman" and a move contract with it, in a contest in which 60,000 women throughout the country competed, makes her scren debut in H. G. Wells' "Island of Lost Souls," showing at the Grand Theater Saturday, Sunday and Monday. She is featured with Charles Laughton, Bela Lugosi, Richard Arlen and Leila Hyams.

At the same time, she is seeing a good bit of America by making a personal-appearance tour which is taking her to many of the larger cities in the country.

So great was the demand throughout the country for a glimpse of the girl who had won laurels against such great odds that she began her tour immediately upon completion of "Island of Lost Souls."

"Quick, Oscar! the Aquarium!" is her slogan, bringing to the crime scene Inspector Piper. She scrutinizes clues to the minutest detail, exciting the inspector's antipathy, much the same as Doctor Watson was repeatedly prompte dto meddle with the Holmes technique.

In "The Penguin Pool Murder," Hildegarde is involved in an amazing crime to which her sleuthing faculty evolves a solution. She even discovers the crime. A schoolmarm, she takes her pupils to the Aquarium. In the penguin's tank she espies the dead body of Gerald Parker, broker.

Stuart Palmer's tale is adroitly manipulated to place suspicion upon everyone, including Miss Withers, whose hat pin is the murder weapon. Investigation further involves the aquarium director, whom Parker had sold out in the stock market; Mrs. Parker, and her lover, who had plotted to elope, and a pickpocket found in possession of the murdered man's watch.

STARTING SATURDAY

The Greatest Spectacle Since "The Ten Commandments"

"THE SIGN OF THE CROSS"

with Claudette Colbert
Fredric March
Elissa Landi
Charles Laughton

WHILE OTHER CITIES ARE PAYING $1.50 TO SEE THIS ROAD SHOW —ATLANTA WILL SEE IT AT POPULAR PRICES

AT THE

PARAMOUNT
ATLANTA

GRAND
SATURDAY, SUNDAY and MONDAY
—H. G. WELLS—
Surging Rhapsody of Terror!!
Thrilling!

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS
With
Charles Laughton
BELA LUGOSI—RICHARD ARLEN—LEILA HYAMS and the PANTHER WOMAN
COMEDY — NOVELTY — NEWS

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY
THE BROADWAY STAGE HIT
Funnier on the Screen—
"WHISTLING in the DARK"
ERNEST TRUEX—UNA MERKEL
John Miltan - Johnny Hines - Ed Arnold
NOVELTY — COMEDY — NEWS

THURSDAY and FRIDAY
SYLVIA SIDNEY
In
"MADAME BUTTERFLY"
CARY GRANT—CHARLIE RUGGLES
PICTORIAL - CARTOON - NEWS

RIALTO
TODAY—TOMORROW
A Drama of Eastern Gangland's Invasion of the west!
MEN OF AMERICA
WILLIAM "BILL" BOYD
CHARLES "CHIC" SALE
An RKO-RADIO PICTURE
"YOU TRY SOMEBODY ELSE"
Charley Chase "NOW WE'LL TELL ONE"
Chapter 10 "THE LAST FRONTIER"

SUNDAY and MONDAY
AWK! AWK!
THE PENGUIN POOL MURDER
EDNA MAY OLIVER, JAMES GLEASON, ROBERT ARMSTRONG, MAE CLARKE
An RKO RADIO Picture of course!
SOUVENIRS — COMEDY — FOX NEWS

TUESDAY ONLY
The sword that cost many human lives!
THE MASK OF FU MANCHU
CARTOON — COMEDY

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
RICHARD DIX
An RKO-RADIO Picture of course! David O. Selznick, Executive Producer HELL'S HIGHWAY

Cecil B. DeMILLE'S
The SIGN OF THE CROSS
WITH FREDRIC MARCH
ELISSA LANDI
CLAUDETTE COLBERT
CHARLES LAUGHTON
a Paramount Picture
A picture which will proudly lead all the entertainments the world has ever seen!
No Advance In Prices
SAT. NITE AT 11:15 and SUN. MON. & TUES.
ROYAL

We Announce Our Change In Name To The

SECURITY
SAVINGS & LOAN COMPANY

FORMERLY FRANKLIN SAVINGS AND LOAN COMPANY

In keeping with our policy of forever strengthening our company, the stockholders have decided upon the change in name. Our plan of loans, personnel and other general policies will remain identically the same, and we will continue to have the same stockholders and directors as before.

AN INVITATION . . .

To all those who have not yet availed themselves of the facilities offered by this company, we extend a most cordial invitation, and hope that you will be able to profit by your connection with this institution.

SCOPE OF BUSINESS

This company offers to Fort Benning two distinct services:

FIRST: a safe depository for savings on which it pays interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually.

SECOND: a loan service to officers, who may borrow up to 10% of a year's pay on their open note.

Six Per Cent With Safety

● 1. No Failures—Industrial loan banks have been operating for more than a century, and according to such authorities as Babson and Forbes, failures have been practically unknown.

● 2. Small Losses—All of our loans are fully protected from loss and each must be approved before being made. According to statistics, the losses from bad loans made by Industrial Savings and Loan Companies average less than ¼ of 1% during the last ten years.

● 3. Large Profits—The individual borrower pays a very reasonable rate for loans from this institution, but he begins repaying it at the end of the first month and this same money is reloaned. Consequently, we reloan this money several times during the year and have a very nice profit.

● 4. Savings Come First—The holders of Savings Certificates are on a preferred status and are protected above everyone else. Interest on these certificates is paid in full before any dividends are paid on our stock.

6% Interest On Savings!

Security Savings & Loan Co.

BROWN NICHOLSON, Secretary and Treasurer

Corner 13th Street and First Avenue

Invest Where You Can Borrow

SECURITY SAVINGS & LOAN CO. COLUMBUS, GA. STRENGTH SERVICE SATISFACTION

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1933 — NUMBER 43

TOWN TOPICS

Stock in the Infantry School Dramatic Club hit a new high with "Miss Lulu Bett." Very few amateur shows are as well done as was this production; it smacked almost of professionalism.

Pathos and utterly natural comedy were intertwined in the plot delightfully and an excellent cast portrayed the characters in the play convincingly. It is such plays as "Miss Lulu Bett" which make the Dramatic Club the popular activity it is on the post.

* * *

Two ladies were holding a postmortem of the play over in the Post Exchange. Said one to the other: "Is Lieutenant Lanahan really such a pansy?"

Lieutenant Lanahan, it will be remembered, was cast in the role of Neil Cornish (everything he said sounded wrong to him), whose faltering proposal to Lulu Bett was one of the high lights of the show.

The aforementioned comment is a tribute to the Lieutenant's acting, to which we add ours.

* * *

We sincerely hope that Captain "Tige" Phillips will live down the reputation as an unspeakable brute that he seems to have amassed for himself from the show as a result of his splendid portrayal of Dwight Deacon.

* * *

Captain Bob Miller, alias Ninian Deacon, wishes to announce to his loving public through this column that he is planning to retire from the stage for good and all. He tempered his startling statement with the reservation that he would consider returning if the popular clamor were great enough.

* * *

The Company Officers Class was over meshing things up in the Tank School the other day.

* * *

A source of pride to Major Harding is his Hamlet costume. For a decade or so, the major has been appearing at masquerades gaily bedecked as the Prince of Denmark, and each time, he assures us, he has made a hit.

Last week at the Valentine's Day masquerade at the Country Club, Major Harding, as Hamlet of course, was present in all his glory. Everyhing went smoothly until some person with a sense of humor informed the major that he had won the prize for the best costume hands down. There was pride in his bearing as he stepped up to receive the award. But alas, it was all a hoax and the major found, to his sorrow, that he had not even come under consideration.

But the most cruel wound to Major Harding's ruffled dignity was inflicted the following night when, on opening the evening newspaper to the society section, the major read that he was among those present at the masquerade, charmingly dressed as an old fashion pink valentine. It was the last straw, so to speak, which broke the camel's back.

* * *

Captain LeToney and Lt. Lightcap took Miami, Florida, by storm but their contemplated ten-day hunting trip had a premature ending nevertheless.

Having heard a great deal about the balmy Florida climate, they decided to abstain from taking any unnecessary

(Please turn to Page 4)

National Guard Class Graduates At Post Thursday

Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, presided at brief graduation exercises which formally ended the course of instruction for the class of national guard and reserve officers, on Thursday. The exercises, which were held in Jiggs Hall, academic department, at nine o'clock Thursday morning, were also attended by Colonel Charles W. Weeks, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, and a number of staff officers and members of the faculty.

General King, in addressing the departing guardsmen and reserves, praised the patriotism of the citizen soldiers who sacrificed their business and personal interests in order to acquire military knowledge which will enable them to give greater service in the defense of the nation in time of amergency. General King also pointed out the professional advantages which the reserve and national guard officers acquire through attendance at the Infantry School, and the consequent increase of efficiency of the citizen components of the army of the United States through the education of their officers and the advanced methods and technique which are taught at the Infantry School.

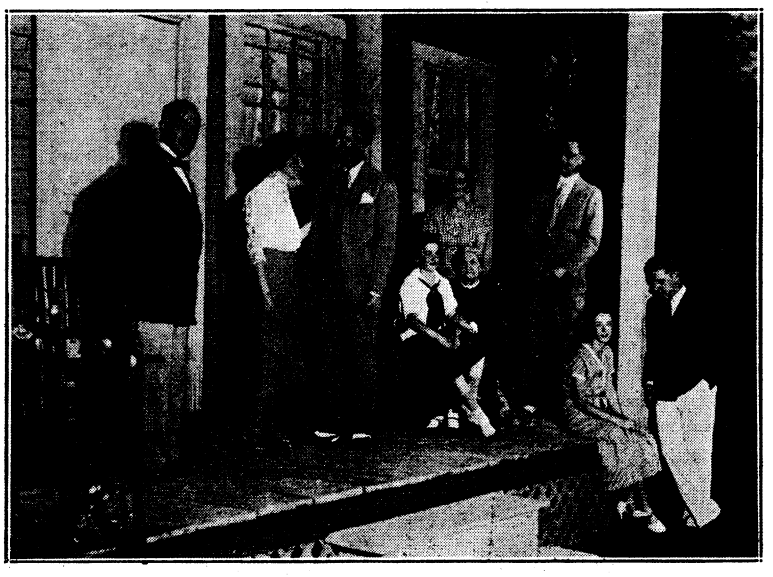
Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry, sent his congratulations and greetings to the graduates in a radio message which was read at the exercises. "Please convey to the national guard and reserve field officers class my congratulations on their graduation" said General Fuqua. "The officers of the class were selected for their outstanding ability and interest in military activities and it is with much satisfaction that I see this representative body of men return to their home organizations to disseminate the methods and principles of instruction employed by our great institution, the Infantry School. The chief of infantry extends his best wishes to each and every officer for continued success in his future endeavors."

The following named officers were included in the graduating class: Lieutenant Colonels Helton A. Whitaker, 121st Infantry, Georgia Nationa Guard; Scott A. Cairy, 128th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard; and Ross Diehl, 35th Division, Missouri National Guard.

Majors Warren R. Aldrich, 129th Infantry, Illinois National Guard; Ellis G. Christenson, 137th Infantry, Kansas National Guard; George W. Connelly, 145th Infantry, Ohio National Guard; James C. Cooper, 129th Infantry, North Carolina National Guard; Leonard N. Dunkel, 159th Infantry, California National Guard; George A. Elliott, 108th Infantry, New York National Guard; Charles W. Gravenkemper, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard; George E. Jemison, 114th Infantry, New Jersey National Guard; Douglas N. Lawley, 141st Infantry, Texas National Guard; Benjamin N. Smith, 62nd Infantry Brigade, Alabama National Guard, and Captain Cristopher B. Legenaar, 105th Infantry, New York National Guard.

Majors John L. Lee, Infantry Reserve, Texas; and Joseph A. Strawn, Infantry Reserve, Colorado; and Captains James M. Lawyer, Infantry Reserve, New York and Phillip E. Mohr, Infantry Reserve, New York.

Play At Main Theater Scores Hit; Fine Cast Pleases Large Audience



The members of the cast of "Miss Lulu Bett" are shown in the accompanying photograph grouped on the porch of the house in one of the scenes of the play.

The Infantry School Dramatic Club, in the third play of the year, scored one of the most distinct success of its history. An audience, part of which at least, had come prepared not to approve—for the play was different and not of the type which our audience professes to like best—went out at the end of the performance to voice its enthusiasm for the current offering of our local players.

The play, which contained a nicely measured mixture of pathos and delicate humor, was presented by an excellently balanced cast. Indeed, Miss Lulu Bett may be said to have achieved that most difficult thing in amateur performances, namely: a presentation which had no weak spots. More than that, it may be said in all sincerity that each and every person portraying a part handled it better than any audience to an amateur performance has reason to expect—in some instances, much better.

The interpretation of the title and leading role by Isobel Chance left nothing to be desired. Mrs. Chance, in the course of her five years at Benning, has given several excellent characterizations, but none, we believe, so appealing and effective as that of Lulu Bett.

When the executive committee of the Dramatic Club selected this play it was on the condition that Mrs. Chance would play the title role. It was fully realized that the part was difficult and that it would require talent of a high order to make it live for our local play goers. The committee feels more than justified in its action, for Mrs. Chance, by restrained and flawless acting, gave one of the finest amateur performances which it has ever been our privilege to witness.

Second only to Mrs. Chance was Captain Walter C. Phillips, in the role of the blustering and pompous, Dwight Deacon. The measure of Captain Phillips' success may be best judged from the hearty dislike evidenced by every member of the audience for this decidedly disagreeable small town character. Captain Philips sustained much of the action of the play and its success is in no small measure the result of his true-to-life portrayal.

The part of Ina Deacon was capably taken by Adelaide Andrews. It fell to Mrs. Andrews' lot to depict a character almost as unattractive as her stage husband. Her skill as an actress is best appreciated by those who know how different she is in real life.

So much for the members of the cast who are familiar to the Benning audiences. That they should have put on an excellent performance was generally expected by those who have seen them before. Strangely enough, however, the outstanding success of

(Please turn to page 4)

Unique Ticket Sale For Glee Club At Officer's Club Is Big Success

History was made for the Fort Benning Glee Club on Wednesday afternoon of this week when the novel lottery sale for advanced seats was made for the production of "The Debutante," an operetta by Victor Herbert, which will be given at the Post Theatre on March 10th and 11th.

In less than an hour and a half a total of five hundred and thirty reserved seat tickets were sold. The Officers' Club lobby and grill was crowded with members of the officer personnel of the Post and all seemed to enjoy the novel plan of taking a chance on their luck in the selection of the choicest seats of the theatre. Those whose numbers were drawn from the box first were given a big hand by the audience as they went forward to make their selection of the theatre seats, arranged on the front of an improvised box office. The two clerks on duty were kept busy handling the sale which started at 4:30 and ended a few minutes before 6:00 p. m.

A delegation representing the Life Members of the Officers' Club from Columbus, Georgia, secured a block of one hundred and twenty-five tickets These tickets have already been sold to the Columbus delegation. Further arrangements were made by the Life Members to hold a dinner at The Officers' Club preceding the show on the evening of March 10th.

The sale of tickets has continued daily in the office of the Secretary of the Officers' Club during business hours and in the lobby of the Club during the noon day hour. A block of tickets has been turned over to the Humes' Music Company for sale to the

(Please turn to Page 5)

Maj. Gen. Collins Dies Suddenly In Washington Friday

News of the death of Major General Edgar T. Collins, received through the Associated Press Friday, caused profound regret at Fort Benning, where he served as commandant of the Infantry School from March 9, 1926 to May 1, 1929. While serving at the Infantry School, General Collins held the rank of brigadier general, and his promotion to the rank of major general came recently while he was on duty with the war department general staff.

General Collins relieved Brigadier General Briant H. Wells, as commandant of Fort Benning on March 9, 1926, and prior to his assignment to the Infantry School he was in command of the 1st Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Hoyle, Md.

General Collins was a man of vigorous personality and during his three years command of The Infantry School his forceful character left a lasting impression upon the institution.

General Collins was born in Pennsylvania on March 7, 1873. He became a cadet at the military academy in June, 1893, and was appointed a second lieutenant of infantry (additional) in June, 1897. He received his permanent appointment as second lieutenant in March, 1898; was promoted to first lieutenant in March, 1899; and to captain in May, 1902. Further promotions in the regular army advanced him to major in July, 1916; colonel in July, 1920; brigadier general in November, 1924; and to major general on June 1, 1932.

During his early commissioned service he served with the American forces in Cuba, and the Philippines, during the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection. After the pacification of the Philippine Islands, he returned to the United States and served in various military posts until 1911, when he was selected as instructor of the Wisconsin national guard. Upon completion of this assignment he was sent to the Panama Canal Department, for a tour of foreign duty. In 1916, he was one of the instructors at the Plattsburg Training Camps.

When the United States entered the World War he was serving on the general staff in the war department. Promotions in the temporary forces advanced him to the rank of lieutenant colonel national army in August, 1917, and in February, 1918, he was promoted to colonel, temporary, which rank he held until August of 1919.

He was chief of staff of the Seventy-eighth Division which he accompanied to France, and shortly after his arrival overseas he was assigned to the training section, general headquarters. Later he became chief of staff of the Sixth army corps, with which he served until after the armistice, when he was again assigned to general headquarters. Soon afterward he was returned to the United States and assigned to duty in the G-3 section, war department general staff, Washington, D. C. In 1921 he became chief of staff, First Division, and at the conclusion of this detail he was assigned to command of the Infantry School Fort Benning, Georgia. Upon his departure from Fort Benning he was assigned to command of the

(Please turn to page 7)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Literary Section Of Woman's Club Devotes Meeting To Biographical Books

By THEODOSIA BARNETT

The February meeting of the Literary Section of The Infantry School Women's Club, held at Fort Benning on Monday, was devoted to biography. After a short introductory talk, Mrs. Joseph A. Holly turned the meeting over to Mrs. John E. Hull, who proved to be a most capable and charming directress and one thoroughly conversant with the subjects.

In discussing fictional biography, Mrs. Hull reviewed "Nur Mahal" by Lamb, and "Josephus," by Feuchtwanger. Mrs. Oliver E. G. Trechter next reviewed "As We Are" by E. F. Benson. This is a delineation of English life and manners, and also deals with the social upheaval in postwar England. The characters in this book really represent the varied classes of people in the country, rather than one individual.

Memoirs are another interesting form of biography, and this type was illustrated by the informal discussion of such books as "Twilight of Royalty," "Letters of Joffre," and Grenfell's "Forty Years for Labrador."

A group of books by or about women furnished topics for the next three speakers. Mrs. Roger B. Harrison gave a short review of Gertrude Atherton's "Adventures of a Novelist"; "Earth Horizon" the autobiography of Mary Austin was discussed by Mrs. Lloyd E. Barnett; and the "Wife of Rossetti," by Violet Hunt, was given by Mrs| Geoffrey Marshall.

Mrs. Phillip Blackmore's original talk on the Biography of a Book showed her audience the many steps involved from the time a story is finished by the author until it leaves the shelves of your favorite bookstore to become your property.

"Sitting Bull" by Stanley Vestal, was reviewed by Mrs. Charles Owens, who presented a very comprehensive outline of the life of this Indian chief, whom many people consider one of the greatest of our early Americans.

"The Life of Talleyrand," by Duff Cooper, was presented by Mrs. Phillip Wood as giving one a very clear insight into the life of ths statesman, who was a minister of Napoleon. In spite of his duplicity and intrigues, Talleyrand was a man of wit and fascination, and the author gives him credit for great political foresight.

The meeting ended with a review of two books that are considered to be the best biographies of the year —"Cleveland, A Study in Courage," by Nevins, and "Beveridge and The Progressive Era" by Bowers. Mrs. Hull handled these in a most capable manner, giving to her listeners the most vital an dimportant events in these long and politically detailed volumes.

COMMUNITY SERVICE LEAGUE TO SPONSOR FASHION SHOW

Community Service League announces a Spring Fashion Show at Kayser-Lilienthal Store on Wednesday February twenty-second, at 8:30 p. m. You are cordially invited to attend.

Last Season's Hats made into new ones.
Panamas and Straws Blocked and Trimmed.
Expert Hat Remodeling
Nicholson Hat Shop
319 Third Nat. Bank Bldg.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Today's Fashion

Ideal for sports wear—attractive and appropriate.

By VERA WINSTON

UNTIL WINTER gets about all through lingering in the lap of spring, outfits of woolens for sports wear and hiking will be in order, and the costume shown in today's sketch is not only up to the minute in style, but also most attractive—and very simple to make.

The heavy brown wool wrap-around skirt is topped with a chic turtle-neck sweater of pale flesh-tone in two different stitches, with purling at the waist line and in the high rolled collar, and the knit cap of course matches the sweater. The jacket, buttoning only at the neck, is a plaid woolen of lighter tone scheme—even prettier than it sounds.

This service is maintained for the use of the Enlisted men of Fort Benning, and they are invited to avail themselves of the convenience it offers.

POST EXCHANGE
RESTAURANT
FORT BENNING

Located In Service Club No. 1

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

MRS. LYMAN HOSTESS AT INFORMAL TEA HONORING HER HOUSE GUESTS

Mrs. Elbert J. Lyman entertained at an informal tea Sunday afternoon from four to six at her quarters, entertaining in honor of her house guests Mrs. A. J. Goodwyn, Mrs. Harry Ayers and Mrs. Wallace Coleman of Anniston, Ala. Many other delightful affairs were given in honor of the visitors including a luncheon by Mrs. Robert T. Foster; Mrs. Harold S. Kelley entertained at luncheon on Saturday; on the same day Mrs. George O. Clark had a few of the honoree's friends in for tea from four to six. Sunday a breakfast party was enjoyed at the quarters of Capt. and Mrs. Charles W. Owens and Sunday afternoon Mrs. Homer C. Dimon gave a beautiful luncheon in their honor.

* * *

MAJ. AND MRS. LYTLE ENTERTAIN FOR HOUSE GUEST

Maj. and Mrs. Robert S. Lytle were the hosts Thursday evening entertaining in honor of their houseguest, Miss Georgia Pepper at the supper dance at the Officers' Club. The Lytle's guests were: The Misses Harriotte Atkins, Nancy Stilwell, Eleanor Bonesteel, Betty Welty, Mary Ports, Jackie Cowley and Miss Pepper, and Capt. Walter A. Bigby, Lieuts. Joseph B. Coolidge, Robert A. Port, James K. Woolnough, Milton H. Pressley, Thomas W. Hammond, Thomas S. Sherburne, and Ernest F. Easterbrook.

* * *

FINALS OF THE BRIDGE TOURNAMENT HELD WEDNESDAY EVENING AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The finals of the contract bridge tournament was held Wednesday evening at the Officers' Club. The champions of Fort Benning were: first, Lieut. and Mrs. Rosebaum; second, Capt. and Mrs. Don Faith; third, Major and Mrs. J. L. Jenkins; fourth, Lieut. and Mrs. Lynn Brady.

This tournament began the middle of last month and has been held every Wednesday evening since in order to determine the champion of the Post. Bridge enthusiasts on the Post are looking forward to plans being made for a similar tournament in the near future.

VALENTINE COSTUME DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

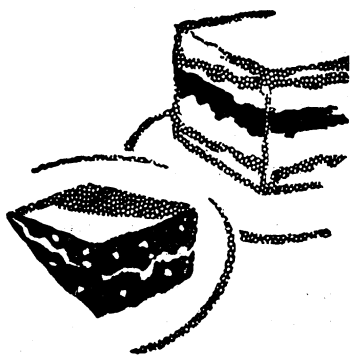
The Valentine costume dance at the Country Club which was held last valentines as a setting for the costume of every description. Preceding the dance, dinner was held in the foyer of the club, the tables were decorated with bunches of southern smilax, gay red valentines and candlesticks bearing red candles. Among those from Fort Benning entertaining were: Maj. and Mrs. Edwin F. Harding, Capt. and

(Please turn to page 3)



IT TAKES SKILL TO MAKE GOOD ICE CREAM

Good ice cream is just as much a product of skill as of ingredients, and you're sure to agree that Foremost is actual proof of this. Try it, next time!

Call the
SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning
through the
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED

DOLAN-HENRY HAT SHOP
(At Alsobrooks')
PRESENTS
The Latest In Fashions From PARIS Says

CROWNS have recaptured their importance in this democratic era, at least in feminine circles. They are a bit deeper and settle lower on the back of the head.

Hats of this type have just reached us from Knox, Gage & Blossom.

In addition to these exclusive styles, we are offering a special value in popular prices.

$1.95 to $5.00

We solicit Fort Benning charge accounts.

The Matrix "Lacette"

The Season's Sensation

A NEW THREE EYELET TIE

Shown in Black Satin Kid and also admiralty Blue Kid. Has small perforations. Will be very comfortable and cool.

ONE EYELET TIE

The prettiest one eyelet tie and the coolest you can imagine! You may have it in Black Satin Kid or Chaff Beige.

ONE STRAP

Shown in Black Satin Kid, Chaff Beige Kid. A marvel of airy daintiness. Every line has been planed to flatter the foot by insuring perfect fit.

Miller-Taylor Shoe Co.

Where The New Styles Are Shown First

1130 Broadway Phone 2405

SOCIETY
(Continued from page 2)

Saturday at the Country Club was one of the most delightful affairs of the season. The ball room of the club presented a gay and colorful appearance with its decorations of lovely red Mrs. Harry A. Ayers, Lieut. and Mrs. William J. Moroney, Lieut. and Mrs. Francis E. Gillette and several "No host" parties.

* * *

THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCE AT OFFICERS' CLUB ASSEMBLES LARGE GATHERING

Every reservation for the weekly Thursday evening supper dance at the Officers' Club was taken and a large and congenial gathering was on hand to make the evening a merry one. Those reserving tables were: Major and Mrs. James W. Duckworth, Major and Mrs. Stephen G. Henry, Capt. and Mrs. Arthur C. Blain, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph A. Stuart, Capt. and Mrs. George V. W. Pope, Capt. and Mrs. Oliver G. Trechter, Lieut. and Mrs. Clyde D. Eddleman, Lieut. and Mrs. Kameil Maertens, Lieut. and Mrs. Edward H. McDaniel and Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Purcell.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. BOWEN ENTERTAIN WITH PARTY PRECEDING BACHELOR DANCE

Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Bowen Bowen were the hosts last Saturday at a novel curry party before the dance given by the Benning Bachelors. Their guest list included: Capt. and Mrs. Malcom F. Lindsey, Capt. and Mrs. John A. Otto, Capt. and Mrs. Harvey J. Golightly, Lieut. and Mrs. Donald W. Brann, Lieut. and Mrs. Aloysius O'Flaherty, Lieut. and Mrs. George P. Howell, Lieut. and Mrs. Lynn E. Brady, Lieut. and Mrs. Clyde D. Eddleman, Mrs. Selina Waddington, and Capt. Arnold J. Funk.

* * *

LITTLE MISS MARY GABRIEL CELEBRATES FOURTH BIRTHDAY WITH PARTY

Little Miss Mary Gabriel, the attractive young daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Gerald J. Gabriel, celebrated her fourth birthday Tuesday afternoon with a party at the Officers' Club. Many games including Drop the Handkerchief and Pinning the Tail on the Donkey were played. After the games a lovely birthday cake accompanied by ice cream was served. Mary's guests were: Joanne Vermette, James Pierce, Bertram Perce, Virginia Harrison, Felicia Howell, Ann Louise Howell, Jane Decker, Peggy Lou Stika, Peggy Trechter, Jerry Poore, Bobby Pierce, Jimmy Poore, Jean Lewis, Jimmy Brett, Robin Cushman, Dick Straube and Clayton Studebaker.

* * *

COMMUNITY SERVICE LEAGUE TO HOLD SKATING PARTY

The children and adults of Fort Benning are invited to a skating party, Saturday evening February 28 at seven o'clock, at the Fair Ground Exhibition Building. Music will be furnished for the skaters and a gala time will be had for only 25c. The party will be sponsored and chaperoned by the Community Service League of Columbus.

---

Miss Georgia Pepper, the attractive daughter of Col. and Mrs. Pepper, was the house guest over the week end of Major and Mrs. Robert S. Lytle. Several delightful parties were given in honor of Miss Pepper.

Friends of Mrs. James E. Bowen will regret to hear that she is confined to her home suffering from a slight illness.

Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Weeks have as their guest, the latter's aunt, Mrs. L. S. Churchill of Lake City, Fla.

Friends of Lieut. Joseph B. Coolidge will regret to learn that he is in the Station Hospital where he underwent an operation.

Among the attractive house guets spending the weekend on the Post are Mrs. Harry Ayers, Mrs. Wallace Coleman and Mrs. A. J. Goodwyn of Anniston, Ala. They are the guests of Maj. and Mrs. Allen J. Lyman. Many delightful informal affairs are to be given in their honor.

Lieut. and Mrs. Richard G. Prather are to be congratulated upon the birth of a son, James Gowen, born February 11th at the Station Hospital. The new arrival is the grandson of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James G. Gowen, who at one time were stationed at Fort Benning.

We are very sorry that Helen Jerry is leaving us, but we hope to have her with us again soon.

A hike is planned for next meeting, and I'll bet we have loads of fun!

FULLER BRUSH
REPRESENTATIVE
J. M. NORRIS
Phone 717-W or call at 715 Broadway —from 12 noon to 1 P. M. or 5 P. M. to 6 P. M. week days and Saturday 3 P. M. to 6 P. M.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

State Convention Of Garden Clubs Meets In Columbus

Fort Bennng garden lovers will be interested in knowing that plans are being formulated for the state convenion of the Garden Club of Georgia which will be held in Columbus in the spring. The date is more or less tentative, but will probably be the first of April. At that time, it is hoped that the president of the National Council of the State Garden Club Federations will be in attendance as she will be in Miami the latter part of March for the National Convention.

Girl Scout Notes

A big event coming! The Girl Scout Court of Awards will be on the 24th of this month. Come and see your friends, sisters, or daughters be presented with badges! If you don't know any Scouts, you will enjoy it thoroughly anyway. Don't forget, one week from now, the 24th.

Cardinal Troop
Tuesday, Feb. 14

We played an interesting new signaling game today, a game of riddles. Mrs. Brown gave each girl a slip of paper with a riddle in code written upon it. After they were all decoded, we handed them in to be corrected. Then we read them aloud and tried to guess the answers, which were very catchy.

The First Class girls went into the next room for awhile with Mrs. Matchett, who has a very mysterious idea. I hope we learn what it is very soon!

Daffodil Troop

Dorothy Negrotto's patrol, which has won the greatest number of points during the month planned today's meeting.

We were going to go on a hike, but it was raining hard, so we played some games instead. One was a signalling game that took much quick thinging, ,but we Scouts have plenty of that, so it was very easy.

Mission Services At Catholic Chapel Attracting Many

The Mission which is being conducted by the Rev. Fr. John T. McGrory, S. J., at the Catholic Chapel, Fort Bennng, this week, is attracting large congregations every morning and evening. Father McGrory is a very able and forceful speaker, and his sermons on Mission subjects have been most interestng and instructive.

The final sermon to the adults of the Chapel parish will be given on Friday evening, at 7:00 p. m. Saturday evening will be devoted to the hearing of Confessions, and on Sunday morning the entire congregation will receive Holy Communion at the 8:00 o'clock Mass.

A separate Mission for the children of the Catholic Sunday School is being held, with instructions at 4:30 on Friday afternoon ,and on Saturday at 2:30 p. m. The children will attend the 8:00 o'clock Mass on Sunday morning, and receive Holy Communion in a body.

Father McGrory will conduct the exercises of the Blessing of the Infants of the parish, at 9:30 Saturday morning.

The Catholic Chapel Choir, directed by Lt. Harry Dowdall, with Mrs. Llewellyn Tharp as organist, have rendered a musical program at each evening service of the Mission, and will assist at the 8:00 o'clock Mass Sunday morning, February 19th.

Shower Honors Bride At Fort Benning

Mrs. John C. Stanford, was honored at the home of Mrs. George A. Krim, 109 Eames Ave. Fort Benning, Ga., with a miscellaneous shower, on the afternoon of February the seventh.

Interesting games were played and prizes won by Mesdames Kreilick, Bumford and Bray.

The bride was presented with a huge box piled high with lovely gifts. Also a Bride's book in which was written the best wishes of the guests.

At the conclusion of the party, Mrs. Krim served delicious refreshments.

The guests included Mesdames John C. Stanford, Benjamin Silvester, Melvin Wiley, John Dotson, Leonard Chitwood, Edward O'Hara, Francis Burns, Charles Bumford, Cecil O'Blenness, Otis Glenn, Claude Moore, Joseph Dawson, James Cooney, Edwin Davis, Ira Simpson, James Bray, Joseph Holihan, Edcil Maxwell, Mrs. Ann Stezler and Miss Clarice Carder.

Announcement Extraordinary!

By special arrangement with
MAX FACTOR
HOLLYWOOD'S GENIUS OF MAKE-UP

we announce the personal appearance of
MISS JEWELL FRANKLIN
Society Make-Up Artist of Max Factor Make-Up Studios, Hollywood
IN A SERIES OF LECTURES:
BEGINNING MONDAY

★★ SPECIAL COURTESY ★★
Your own individual complexion analysis and make-up color harmony chart...no cost or obligation to you whatever.

KIRVEN'S

Boy Scouts Receive Badges Of Merit

The Court of Honor of the Fort Benning Boy Scouts of America met last Saturday, February 11, to pass scouts in a number of tests. Among those present were Major Dabney, Captain Spaulding, and Captain Paul.

The following scouts were passed at the meeting:

Robert Jewett, awarded a silver and gold palm on the Eagle Scout badge, and merit badges in photography and signalling. The two badges just awarded bring Scout Jewett's total of merit badges to forty-six, in addition to which he is fulfilling the duties of assistant scout-master, and holds the rank of eagle scout.

Harry Reeder, Troop 12, and Richard Joiner, Troop 11, promoted to 2d class scout.

Howard Wilson, Troop 12, accepted as Tenderfoot Scout.

The next meeting of the Court of Honor will be on March 11, when further awards will be made.

Permanent Waves $3; Shampoo and Set 50c; Haircut 25c.

MRS. R. G. DEITZ
New Beauty Shoppe
1106 1-2 Broadway Phone 9286

THE SPANISH RESTAURANT
11 - West 12th Street

Next to Columbus Ledger Building
Managed by a real Spaniard

All Kinds of Spanish and American Dishes
Open Evenings

For "Something Different" try
THE SPANISH RESTAURANT

"nice little place you've got" but why not have them rave over your home? here is one way.

Punjab Print Tailored Bed Spreads

In bright, fresh, springtime plaids and floral designs. Two sizes: 90 x 105 and 72 x 105. Five colors: Rose, Gold, Blue, Green and Orchid.
Will not fade by sun or laundering.

$1.84

MATCHING Curtains
$1.98 pair

2½ yards long, ready to hang
In the drapery department, second floor.

Dresser Sets
to match the print bed spreads. 2 scarfs, one 3 piece vanity set and 1 night table cover. Complete.
59c

Special Item
Hand Made
Chinese Fillet
Table Cloths
72 x 90
$1.17

Bed Lamps
in colors to harmonize with your spreads.
$1.00

Kirven's

Linen Department Main Floor

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II FEBRUARY 17, 1933 NUMBER 43

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
JOHN W. PEARCE ---------- Advertising Manager
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Wednesday, Feb. 8

Captain Lucas did quite upset the class this morning with his statement "When you subtract two from four you always get two," each of us wondering as to whom the "you" referred for there are above a few of us who frequently get one, and around the first of the month the same subtraction is as like as not to yield zero. Mayhap the Captain can be induced in the future, to omit the adverb.

Somewhat discouraged to find that altho it is now a week since Gus Regnier's hair-raising experience I can detect no hirsute improvement. Gus, intent upon his cigar, did almost step into the line of fire of an active machine gun. It would, he said, have done him no harm, however, being a friendly machine gun. Which does make as much sense as Stika's story of a young man married at a shotgun wedding. The young man said "No harm done. It's not legal. Her old man didn't have a license to carry a gun."

It was well observed by Thompson during the field engineering hour that the engineers are most meticulous in their class room appointments, having a graduate draftsman, Captain Bloomquist, opening and closing windows.

Thursday, Feb. 9

A full afternoon of riding which did cause me to reflect on whether or not, while riding, I do seem to be part of the horse. To so appear is the acme of perfection I am told. Completely convinced that I do so appear but rather when shoeing than riding the animal.

Our group crossing a stream, I was confronted by a loud splash and a muddy thud. Litzenberg announced that "The Marines have landed," after which he picked his mount out of the creek, remounted, and the cavalcade proceeded.

Friday, Feb. 10

My insomnia not entirely cured by an afternoon of lectures at the Tank Section for I did distinctly hear this conversation:

McKinney: "Which of the three methods is the best?"

Capt. MacLaughlin: "They are both good."

And being thus assured that I was getting along at least as well as the rest of the class I did delegate Reeder to wake me at the proper time lest I miss the ten minute break.

Having been adjured by Captain Lucas to turn in our indirect fire problems "any time before midnight" tonight I did greatly desire to ring his front door bell at 11:59 and present my solution. The requisite temerity however, was lacking.

Monday, Feb. 13

A new week well begun by the appearance of our class supervisor. All name plates present, to his chagrin I have no doubt.

Captain Hawf-Load Lucas did enliven his period with a story about a parallel line—this following a ten minute break. But the point of the tale did cause speculation in the class as to whether during the break, it had been Johnson's or Kiel's question which inspired the story.

The Story Hour program did arrive at November 11, 1918 following a side

(Please turn to page 5)

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Fly control—specific measures for control.

Control measures as stated before depend on the habits and characteristics of the fly.

The house fly—

(a) Prefers to breed in horse manure, but will breed in any animal or organic waste.

(b) Needs moisture, warmth, and solube food for its larvae (maggots.)

(c) Is killed at temperatures below freezing or above 115 degrees F.

(d) Its larvae (maggots) crawl from the breeding material.

(e) Its maggots stop growth or are killed in the presence of acid.

(f) Its pupal stage (shell stage) takes place at or beyond the borders of the breeding material.

(g) Is attracted by the odor of food.

(h) Has a tendency to fly toward light.

(i) Has a tendency to rest on vertical surfaces or hanging objects.

These characteristics all give a clue to measure which help to eradicate the house fly.

In the temperate climates control measures should be started before the breeding season begins and should continue until that season ends.

In tropical or semi-tropical countries, where fly breeding is continuous, control measures can never be stopped.

Measures which prevent or control fly breeding are much more effective than those used for the destruction of th adult fly.

The control of breeding places means the establishment of methods of disposal of human excreta, garbage, and animal manure which prevent fly breeding. These either destroy the breeding material or dispose of it in a manner that prevents the deposit of eggs, or that stops the development of the maggots.

Sewage disposal, garbage and waste disposal, and manure disposal are the large problems and by the use of proper methods we prevent the breeding of flies in enormous numbers. You as individuals are not directly concerned in the management of these problems except for the relatively small amounts of household waste and garbage which are automatically collected at regular intervals. You can to a great extent save yourself and your neighbor the menace of these pests by preventing breeding places on or about your premises.

This means daily care to see that your garbage and waste cans are clean; that the ground about them is not contaminated; that fermenting vegetation does not accumulate. The simplest method, one that easily and best prevents contamination of cans and ground about them, is to wrap and tie in several thicknesses of paper all garbage before placing it in the can, which of course should be tight and covered.

The control of breeding places is the best method to prevent flies. This control can not be perfect and even if not attempted leaves no excuse for us to harbor adult flies in our kitchens or messes. These should be destroyed by the use of traps, fly-paper, poison sprays and swatting.

Are your screens tight?

DRAMATIC CLUB'S THIRD PLAY PLEASES AUDIENCES

(Continued from page 1)

the play was due as much to the performances of new comers, not only to the Bennng stage but to any stage.

First among these is Mrs. Laurette Shearer, mother of Mrs. J. J. Albright, who played the part of Mama Bett. This was one of the happiest bits of casting of the play. The majority of the "fat" comedy lines fell to this unusual stage grandmother and they received full value in Mrs. Shearer's interpretation. What might easily have been a weak spot of the play was one of the strongest. Mrs. Shearer captured the audience from the momoment of her first entrance and held it to the end. We heard one of our most intelligent critics describe her characterization by the word "authentic" and that tells the story.

Captain Robert S. Miller gave us a Ninian Deacon who seemed just the proper type of Prince Charming to come around and save a small-town Cinderella from the drab existence that was her obvious destiny. Captain Miller was indeed the impulsive "cuss" who had "roamed around on his own," that the part called for.

Lieutenant Francis Lanahan, another novice in the field of amateur dramatics, impersonated Neil Cornish in a manner which bespeaks real talent for the stage. His faltering proposal to Miss Lulu was a high spot of the play.

Betty Welty as the wilfull, grown-up daughter of the Deacons "wiggled" and "jittered" in a manner which made Mama Bett's descriptive lines doubly emphatic. Miss Welty gave a consistent and intelligent performance that contributed materially to the success of the play.

Margery Heileman, as Diana's spoiled and thoroughly disagreeable younger sister, displayed remarkable talent for one so young. Child actresses were once our pet aversion but the two that we have seen on the Fort Benning stage this year, in "Pomeroy's Past" and "Miss Lulu Bett," have brought about a revision of that attitude.

Davis Harding, as Bobby Larkin, brought to his part the proper atmosphere of seventeen. He is a juvenile with much promise and he handled his role with skillful realism.

The staging and the lighting, ably handled by Lieutenants A. E. O'Flaherty and Robert S. Nourse was in keeping with the general excellence of the production. Likewise the costumes and setting by Hilda Burnap, the properties which was handled by Dorothy Ferenbaugh and Lieutenant G. C. Teller, and the make-up by Ruth Phillips, Frances Tyndall and Sally Lindsey, all went to make as complete and satisfying an amateur production as any Little Theater audience could ask for.

With all due appreciation of the work of the actors and technical staff, it is to Katherine Cleveland and her assistant, Nelle Totten, that chief credit for the success of the play must go. The Dramatic Club is fortunate indeed in having so willing and capable a director and it has not hesitated to use her often. She has had many triumphs but none, in our opinon, so notable as that achieved by her production of "Miss Lulu Bett."

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued from page 1)

equipment with them such as overcoats, heavy underwear, etc.

But fickle weather frowns down upon unwonted optimism and the balmy Florida climate failed to live up to its reputation. The cold wave that followed was too much for human endurance and the two nimrods were forced to the humiliating extreme of beating a hasty retreat.

Halts were made at roadside towns in desperate and heroic attempts to locate blankets and woolen underwear. O. D. blankets were secured at Fort Barrancas and some measure of the cold was staved off.

By the time the two had arrived at Fort Benning, however, they were thoroughly convinced of the error of their ways. They immediately stationed themselves before the roaring fire in the lobby of the Officers' Club and began the process of thawing out, which, according to that ever-reliable authority, Mine Host Dowdall, took up the better part of two days.

"Better be damned than not mentioned at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

INCOGNITO

The 3:30 AM Formation so fortuitously scheduled for the coldest morning in five years was one to try all men's souls. The story of the separate and combined sufferings of the elderly gentlemen of the Advanced Class would doubtless make a fair sized volume that would read like an account of the winter at Valley Forge. True, the boys of 1933 had more clothes—and seemingly wore all they had—but, on the other hand, they had a lot to contend with that Washington's ragged Continentals were mercifully spared.

The experiences of Commodore Evans constitutes a case in point. The distinguished Navigator, like most of his fellows, was up at 2:30 and remembering Major Henry's admonition to warm up the car, he resolutely invaded the very outside air and tried to start his. Perhaps his technique on that cold morning was not all that it should have been or maybe it was just the perversity of inanimate things, but the car failed to respond. For ten minutes the exasperated Commodore serenaded the neighbors with his whirring motor. Then the battery gave out.

Nothing daunted, the Commodore rushed to his other car and worked on that until its battery also lay down and died. The situation was now critical but the formation had to be made. Accordingly, the Commodore commandeered an extra car belonging to Captain Hall who lived next door and ran the battery down on that.

Having put all of the neighborhood transportation hors de combat, there was nothing left for the now distraught Commodore to do but thumb a ride to the post. He therfeore posted himself on the main thoroughfare, clad in two of everything from coat to gloves, and waited.

A car carrying representatives from three arms of the service bore down upon the heavily swathed figure by the roadside. At its approach, the Commodore turned his flashlight upon himself, thinking thereby to light up his honest face and allay suspicion. Vain delusion! Captain Lee, deceived by the shawl which the Commodore had wrapped about his head, mistook his classmate for an old lady. "Keep on going," he advised, "we haven't time to pick her up."

As the car shot by, however, and Captain Mallett noted that the figure wore breeches.

"It's some poor devil of a soldier," he exclaimed. "Let's give him a lift."

Accordingly, Major Johnson, who was driving, stopped the car and the figure waddled down the road and tumbled in, swearing eloquently.

Even then he was not recognized, and Captain Lee thinking that they had inadvertently picked up an obnoxious drunk was about to eject our hero, when the knitted scarf fell away and disclosed their distinguished classmate.

If we were marking the Commodore's pre-dawn performance, we should give him an "A" on camouflage and a "U" on motors.

SO THAT'S WHAT WE WERE

We were interested to note in the society column of the Sunday Morning Enquirer-Sun that we had attended the Country Club costume party of the night before, as "An old fashioned pink valentine."

Our severest critics, during the course of an otherwise pleasant evening, mentioned several things that we were but we don't recall that "an old fashioned pink valentine" was one of them.

TWICE TOLD TALE

The linotype expert who sets the copy for the Flare has a positive genius for vitiating our stories. His latest affront of this character occurred last week in the item which told of the red ticket which Captain Howard Clark, 2nd, attached to Captain Bloomquist's second mount.

The ticket charged Captain Bloomquist with violating Sec. XV Par 8 a(3) Garrison Regulations.

We described the celebrated Captain's mortification and rage at finding the ticket on his car and his annoyed research through the Garrison Regulations to discover his offence.

The whole point of Captain Clark's little practical joke lay in the quotation of Sec. XV Par. 8 a(3). This reads:

"Soiled cans will be washed inside and out at the can washing plant".

The inspired compositor just knew that couldn't be right so he made it read cars.

TRUE BUCCANEER

"The buccaneers have hairy ears, etc."

One cold day last week Major Charles R. Johnson, the dashing cavalry representative in the Advanced Class, carried off the prize for hardihood by taking off his leather breeches and wading the chilly Upatoi. The purpose of this heroic act was to determine the depth of stream at a point which was under consideration for the location of an engineer bridge. We do not know if the temperature of the water entered into the problem, but, if it did, the major obtained authentic information on that point, too.

Those who are familiar with the G. A. Henty boys' classics will recall that all of Henty's youthful heroes were addicted to morning baths in icy torrents. We have never ceased to admire this trait but it has been years since we aspired to acquire it. Our hats are off to the cavalryman whose fortitude is able to surmount what, in men of age and discretion, passes for better judgment.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Captain Bolling of the Advanced Class was getting his own early breakfast.

Having decided that he would fry an egg, he got one from the ice chest and broke it on the edge of the skillet just like he had seen Mrs. Bolling do on mornings when she officiated at this important ceremony. To his surprise nothing came from the cracked shell. Something was evidently wrong with the egg so he threw it in the garbage and tried another. This behaved inthe same way and was similarly disposed of.

Presumably the novice cook ultimately found an egg that broke into the frying pan in the approved manner, but all we know for sure about the case is that Mrs. Bolling later found in the garbage pail two hard boiled eggs that had been intended for her husband's noonday lunch.

INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES—NO. 2

The Flare's special agent stood outside of Dean Omar Bradley's Weapons School watching the workers

(Please turn to page 5)

Tank Notes

We read in the New York paper last Sunday that Cadet William P. Yarborough, a yearling at West Point took second place in the 200-yard breast stroke in a swimming meet against New York University on Febuary 5. This is Cadet Yarborough's first year on the West Point varsity so we expect to hear of great things from him in his next two years of competition.

Cadet Yarborough is the son of Captain LeRoy Yarborough, Post Public Relations officer, and was a former member of Headquarters Company of this Battalion.

Our basketball team stepped out Monday afternoon and defeated the Gunners of the Artillery. This makes three wins for our boys without any lost games. Congratulations team and may you keep your slate clean.

Corporal Neal Milan, Company "D" on Friday was voted Team Captain for the Tankers' 1934 Boxing Team. Corporal Milan has been a big factor in our boxing "world" for the past three years, and we feel sure that his leadership will lead our next team to victory. Congratulations, Corporal Milan.

They tell us of a certain Corporal in the Company of F-66th whose first initial is Archie Harrell has finally been picked up on the Morning Report at Columbus, Georgia, and initialed by: M-the-M.

The command wishes to congratulate Private First Class William G. Hudson, Company E, upon being appointed Corporal. Better things we wish for you in the years to come, Corporal Hudson.

Company Track Teams are working hard for the coming Battalion Meet which is to be held at a later date. Staff Sergeant Vallery reports that he is teaching his men how to go slow. It seems that the Sergeant has too many fleet-footed boys on his team.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

THE FLARE

(Continued from page 4)

pouring out as from the Ford Plant in Detroit. At the tail of the formation he spied our old friend Captain George Van Pope, late of Carbondale, Ill.

Now Van, besides being a good husband and father, is, in his own right, an outstanding gleeclubber, when in voice, and holds the Carbondale medal for having sung at more funerals in four years than any other chorister in that lively metropolis.

"Tell me, Van," inquired the Special Agent "how you came to enter upon long and distinguishing operatic career."

"I graduated from football into Music," replied Van.

"That doesn't make sense" remarked the Interviewer, "but you do look like you might have played football —once."

"I did play—once," replied Van.

"Indoor or intercollegiate?" we asked.

"At Hamilton," said Van expanding his chest slightly. "We were playing Colgate. I had patches on my pants from having sat on the bench so much. It was the last quarter, score tied, the ball about to be kicked off by Hamilton, when the coach grabbed me by the neck and told me to go in at left end and, for goodness gracious sake, smear the Colgate man hard when he caught the ball."

"Go, Van," exclaimed the Special Agent trembling with excitement.

"Well sir," continued Van, "I hurried on to the field, lined up, and fairly tore down the side lines on the kickoff. I noticed the Colgate right half come running up for the coach and I was making for him when—zowie, I got a wallop on the back of my head that made me dizzy.

"Somebody clipped you?" asked the Special Agent sympathetically.

"No," sighed Van, "it was the ball."

"The ball—omigosh!" gasped the Special Agent.

"Yes sir, the ball," moans Van, "and I could see after that was the coach's wiggling fingers, signaling for me to come off the field. All he said was 'You better take up singing' and that's where I joined my first glee club."

CITATION FOR THE WEEK

To Katherine Cleveland and her troupe of accomplished actors and technical assistants for giving to the members of The Infantry School Dramatic Club in one finished production full value for the price of their season tickets.

LIEUT. PEEP'S DIARY

(Continued from Page 4)

tour to Nicaragua. Marines 100, Opponents 0.

The afternoon gone in the perpetration of a combined demonstration and critique in m.g. combat practice which did give rise to heated discussions, not as to who won but whom to criticize. The matter is yet as unsettled as Georgia weather. Amused at the assumption by all of us actually engaged in the exercise of the position termed "the military stoop." It consists of that hunching of the shoulders up to the ears and the appearance on the face of a hunted look which are intended to convey concealment of ourselves from enemy observation and protection from his fire.

On this day did Stika exude, I doubt not, the most reprehensible pun of his pun-y life. "Seasoned soldiers are probably so-called because they are mustered by their officers and peppered by the enemy."

Tuesday, Feb. 14

A Valentine to the class from the schedule man this day—seven hours of lectures. And were tomorrow to be likewise scheduled I should not miss a word, being now three hours to the good on sleep.

If Major Henry did not get his signals crossed then Sgt. Horowitz is fully due for company punishment, he having twice during his truck inspection answered foreign to the purpose and announced defect in the mechanism. Sgt. Dotson, on the other hand, has more organizational pride and has yet to give any answers other than favorable ones.

Wednesday, Feb. 15

An hour of being put further to sea on field engineering. For my life I cannot determine whether the Major is teaching us to construct these works in the field or giving us an inkling of how to pass his examination.

The remainder of the morning pleasantly passed for us by the Song and Dance man, Major Henry. Unable to laugh, as did the rest of the class, at his joke about the man who drove his car away in perfect serenity until a burning odor reminded him to release the hand brake. That man could not have been I for I had a head cold and could not smell anything. The local fire department pointed the error to me.

Major Henry assures us that when we reach field grade everything will be motorized and we should prepare ourselves for it. I do think that we are already prepared for it for Lord, who has seen a horse drawn hearse in years.

—Lieut. Peep.

DRAWING OF TICKETS FOR GLEE CLUB IS MADE

(Continued from page 1)

residents of Columbus, which will continue at that place until the date of the show, unless all tickets are sold prior to that date.

The unprecedented advance sale of tickets indicates that the entire house will be sold out of reserved seats for both evenings. In order that all may be accommodated who desire to come, Major E. W. Leard, President of the Glee Club, has planned that the first night—March 10th—be dedicated as "Columbus Night" and the second night as "Fort Benning Night." An added feature of unusual entertainment has been arranged for the second night. After the show at the theatre the entire cast appearing in "The Debutante" will hold a "Coffee Dan Party," at the Officers' Club. Practically everyone who has ever visited San Francisco is familiar with Coffee Dan's Place, where the theatre folks and their friends gather every evening at the close of the theatre shows and appear in impromptu specialty numbers. "Coffee Dan" is a place where visitors can always expect a riot of fun of a most unusual character during the late hours of the evening, and it is this type of entertainment which the Officers' Club is planning to stage for the Glee Club and their friends following the final performance on the evening of March 11th.

The sale of tickets to enlisted men was opened this week by the placing of blocks of tickets with the first sergeants of each of the companies and batteries in the Post. "The Debutante" is the type of show that the soldier enjoys. Its comedy is continuous and its many dancing numbers call for a pony ballet of pretty girls in attractive costumes. All those who are in on the "know" declare that "The Debutante" will surpass any show ever presented by the Fort Benning Glee Club.

STUDEBAKER ROCKNE

USED CARS

1930 Marquette Sport Roadster, New Tires, Excellent condition .....$435

1931 President 8 Studebaker Sport Sedan, free wheeling. 125 h.p. Looks and runs like new .....$795

1932 Studebaker Dictator 8 Convertable Sedan. New car guarantee .....$895

1931 Ford Tudor Sedan. Excellent condition .....$265

1932 Rockne 4 Door Sedan. New car guarantee. Only used a few months .....$535

1927 Ford Sedan. Good condition ..... $45

1928 Nash Coach ..... $75

1929 Essex Coach ..... $85

1929 Oldsmobile Coach .....$135

1929 Studebaker Sedan .....$265

Many more, all makes. Priced from $15.00 up.

The best selection of late model, high grade used cars in Columbus.

Columbus Roberts Motor Company

512 Twelfth Street Phone 271

WANT ADS Get Results

If In Doubt

Serve

OLD SETTLER'S

Pork Sausage

For Breakfast Tomorrow

Every Pound Guaranteed By

The Provision Co., Inc.

Even before the days of modern banking and modern civilization the Romans were saying "Tempus Fugit" .... Time Flies. And never was this maxim more applicable than it is today .... your opportunity is here NOW, ready for your grasping.

The simplicity of the plan under which we operate makes it easy enough for anyone to understand, and you, too, will agree that it offers unparalleled opportunities to safely protect your money. We offer ....

6 Per Cent on Savings!

Our unique system of lending and repayment, which has not been altered with our change of name, makes it possible to make this offer —one which is far beyond the capabilities of ordinary banks. We invite you to investigate our claims.

We are also prepared to lend to any officer of the Regular Army any amount up to 10 per cent of his salary on open note—another example of our service!

Security Savings & Loan Co.

BROWN NICHOLSON — Secretary and Treasurer

Cor. 13th St. and First Ave.

SECURITY SAVINGS & LOAN CO. COLUMBUS, GA.

SATURDAY, FEB. 18
The Mystery Of The
"WAX MUSEUM"
With LIONEL ATWILL
FAY WRAY
GLENDA FARRELL
FRANK McHUGH

SATURDAY, FEB. 25
WILL ROGERS
JANET GAYNOR
LEW AYRES
SALLY EILERS
In
"STATE FAIR"

PARAMOUNT
ATLANTA

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Pure-Bred Seeds

Plant only the best garden seeds to insure quality and yield. We are the oldest and largest seedsmen in Columbus. Our seeds have proven themselves over a period of years.

H. C. SMITH
DRUG STORE
1002 BROADWAY

HENRY GRADY HOTEL
PEACHTREE AT CAIN
Atlanta, Ga.

550 rooms of comfort and convenience. Each room has ceiling fan, circulating ice water, radio and either shower or tub bath; corner rooms have both. Open Dining Terrace and Coffee Shop.

Rooms from $2

J. F. de Jarnette Vice-Pres. & Mgr.

Happenings Among The Private Bucks

By Al

It was only learned a few days ago that Earl Rockey, Terrible Tanker, had any relatives in this neck of the woods. Earl introduced the boys down at the main gate to his little nephew. Or rather the little fellow told the M. P., that Earl was his uncle.

Gabby Gable, former tin ear and well known Greencord bowler, recently made a visit to Cuthbert, Ga., to see his best girl. Muddy roads caused the car to get stuck during the night and Gabby did not arrive at his destination until the following morning. In fact he only remained at Cuthbert long enough to refill the gas tank and head back to Fort Benning. Gabby resembled a brickyard advertisement when he dismounted at the Detachment, he was forced to use a curry comb and octagon soap to remove the red mud from his hair.

Spot Webb, had best stick to prize fighting and lay off bronco busting. The gang sure got a big kick out of Spot as he did a loop over the head of the wild bronc at the Rodeo, Monday night.

Swede Oikra, Kelly basketeer, was recently supended for ten days when he started a rough house during practice. The Swede seemed to be tickled that he was important enough to draw a suspension but was a bit worried when one told him that he would also be fined ten.

Corn Griffin and Blondy Parker broke all former records in hot dog eating at the recent rodeo. Corn spent a book of canteen checks and then took half dozen on the cuff. Parker failed to see the rodeo, being unable to get away from the hot dog stand.

Saturday night at the garrison gymnasium, former West Point basketball stars will clash on the basketball court to settle the supremacy of Block No. 21 and 23. The coming cage battle is the result of an argument that first began when officers from the adjoining blocks opened a friendly argument on basket ball. The argument grew heated and then each one of the contestants was reinforced by supporters from their respective neighborhood. Finally some one hurled a challenge for a game of basketball between teams composed of officers from each block. The game was arranged with the agreement that the teams would train for two weeks. Saturday night the argument will be settled.

The past two weeks have been busy ones for the members of the opposing teams. Basketball stars of other days have worked over time to get the eye back and to get the range on the basket again. Bot hteams are in fine condition, it will really be a fast, hard fought game between two well balanced teams.

The teams will line up as follows:

| Block 21 | Block 23 |
|---|---|
| Lt. Dannemiller, f | Lt. Johnson f |
| Lt. Churchill, f | Lt. Dickey, f |
| Lt. Woolnough, c | Lt. Flood, c |
| Lt. Brady, g | Lt. Decker, g |
| Lt. Johnston, g | Lt. Ives, g |

Eighty-Third Field Artillery

How about it Paul?

A well known moving picture corporation has started on a production,

Lt. Hall has returned to the battery after an absence of two weeks on detached service. Lt. Hall accompanied one of the army's noted test pilots on a test flight to the west coast.

The famous and only Hurst is a patient at the station hospital suffering from yellow jaundice. It has been rumored that he has been approached by a representative of the Chinese Foreign Legion in reference to accepting a commission as Liaison Officer with the 19th Route Army. His acceptance of this offer is pending upon his ability to grow a pig tail of the required length.

The Artillery basketball team composed mostly of Headquarters Battery men, Morris, Cherry, McLeod, Oaks, Jones and Nix lost to the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, rated as the best team in the post by a small score. Although our team lost the game, they showed that the old Artillery fight and we are sure they will give a good account of themselves before the season is ended.

Paul Davis, our sheik cook has taken up another abode somewhere in the neighborhood of 35th street, Columbus, Ga. The old saying is that it is cheaper to move than pay rent. the title which will be "North Highland's Own," featuring that well known man about town, Mr. Colin W. Pike. It is a source of great pride, to this organization that Mr. Pike was picked from a large number of contestants to play the leading part. Due to his ability, personality and extensive wardrobe along with his Clark Gable sweater he was chosen to play the leading part. His leading lady has yet to be selected, we hope she meets with his approval.

The battery left Thursday at 2:00 a. m., for an early morning problem. The weather was the coldest we have had in years. Several of the men wore their old fashioned underwear.

Our Recruits are on their last week of instructions. Wednesday a. m., the Commanding Officer will give them the once over before going to duty.

"BATTERY "A"

It is with regret that we report our old soldier is very ill in the Station Hospital. Sergeant McCann underwent an operation on the 12th. We are very glad to note that his condition is improving.

Well the loud speaker and old veteran of Battery A was discharged on the 13th and reenlisted on the 14th. Sergeant Soup Gilbert started on his 13th year as a member of Battery A, 1st Bn., 83rd F. A. Sgt. Gilbert came here with the organization in 1920 from Fort Knox, Ky. Soup, besides being an old soldier is also getting to be an old married man, so we guess he will retire in Battery A.

Scrappy Beyer has in for a short discharge. Guess he is fed up on the fighting around Benning and desires a change of scenery. We should think that Pfc. Underwood would go with him and every thing would be quiet around Battery A for a while.

It is suggested that Sgt. Cole and Cpl. Roper look out for the spiders as some of these species are very poisonous, especially when their webs get distributed around too much.

Any one desiring any thing along the leather line such as bridles, saddles, harness and the like see Sgt. Wilson, Cpl. Johnson or Pvt. Mixon.

Pfc. Capps the chief bugler and official gold brick of the Battery is on furlough for 15 days and is the proud father of Jasper Capps, Jr.

The Kingfish is reported faring well on furlough in the big city of Girard, Ala, and his assistant, Fats Almond is now issuing out the baloney. No matter how thin it is sliced, it is still Baloney.

Received a letter from Cpl. Thompson out at Fort Sill, Okla. He says he is working hard, and that there is about 6 inches of snow on the ground and communication is bad.

Henry Hoob, another old member of the Battery is getting along fine. He is at Randolph Fied, exas. Blondie Shepherd is with the 6th Cavalry. He is now in the hospital recuperating from a slight operation.

BATTERY "C"

While the rodeo was in camp we could not brag much about our horsemanship, but now that the cowboys are gone, we can tell that our stable orderly Clark used to be a bronco buster in Texas. He did not try to ride any of the rodeo horses, because he had work to do at the stables.

The new-born Corporal Webb showed his horsemanship during the rodeo by riding, or rather trying to ride, one of the bucking horses. Plenty of nerve that boy has.

McKenzie went to Alabama and we had to organize the McKenzie Road Building & Contracting Co., to keep him in the Army. Well that makes two contractors in one month. Better slow down. The recruit section of Corporal Wilson is still living in the tent area where they are progressing very well and are already losing the appearance of recruits.

Maneuvers limbered always was a tame activity, but from now on it will be jazzed up and we can expect everything on the drill field from now on. We have heard rumors the battalion is going to build ditches, mountains and wells on the drill field as part of the training, in order to keep the batteries awake and on the alert at all times.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

TYPEWRITER
REPAIRING
All Makes
Stewart Typewriter Co.
1041 Broadway Phone 2622

100% Pure Pennsylvania
PENNZOIL
Safe Lubrication
FOR SALE
Post Exchange

Maxwell Optical Co
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

BREAD
Delicious — Appetizing — TEMPTING—there is no other way of describing Collins' Bread! Try it next time.
COLLINS
BAKING COMPANY
1044 - 13th Street

LEEFER JEWELRY Co
JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS
Fine Repairing
1102 Broadway Phone 3914

Makers of Fine Printing Plates
WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.
Atlanta, Georgia

ATHLETIC EQUIPMENT

The Main Branch of the Post Exchange has a complete service on all types of Athletic Equipment. Phone 608.

POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GA.
The Post Exchange is not authorized to sell to any person not in the military service.

FAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c . A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

You Can SAVE!
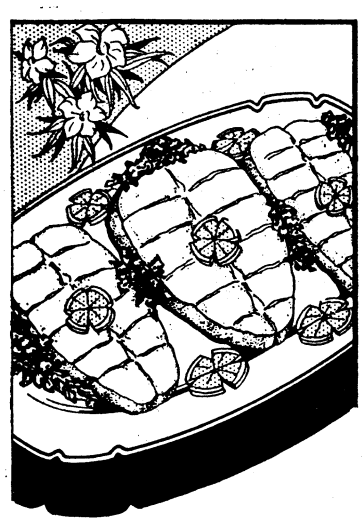
By Buying
STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER
at
Sam Neel
STAR BRAND
Shoe Department
Westbrook Building



A most convenient way to insure appetizing meals. The . .
Grocery Dept.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING
The Post Exchange is Not Authorized to Sell to Any Person Not In The Military Service

Things Chinese

From The "Sentinel"

RELIGION

When a missionary or tourist returns from the Orient, one of the questions that is commonly asked him is: "Are those Asiatics religious?" Are they religious? They are nothing but religion, they walk their religion, they talk their religion, they work their religion, they carry on their business in a religious way. They have a shrine in every kitchen, in every home, in every shop, in every factory; even on the housetops and in the gateways they have shrines. Little shrines stand by the roadsides, where the traveller, as he trudges wearily on his journey, may stop for a moment and offer a bit of incense to a dilapidated idol. They have shrines by the wells where they may worship as they draw water. They have shrines carved on the solid granite of the mountainside, and caves cut out of the rock, where some devotee has spent years with his simple instruments, drilling and chipping, until he finds and leaves an idol on the face of his cavern a dozen feet beneath the surface. Are they religious? Are you religious?

Has it ever occurred to you that every religion that the world has ever made that has been worth propagating, was made by the Asiatic? Where are the religions made by your ancestor, Greek, Roman, Teuton, Slav, Norman, Anglo-Saxon? Only the Asiatic have been, and for that matter are religious. The Jew is religious, you are not. The Mohammedan is religious, you are not. Begin to talk religion to an American or European business man, and he closes up like a clam. Why? You are talking about something he knows nothing about. Talk to a Hindoo, a Mohammedan, or a Jew—not an Americanized or Europeanized Jew, but an Asiatic Jew—and he will talk religion as he takes his food. You are not religious—you are intellectual—and the type of your civilization is material while his is moral or religious. You seek for the means of living, he seeks for the end of life. You think in terms of atoms, molecules, corpuscles, microbes, bacteria, electrons; he thinks in terms of eternity, infinity, right, duty, gods, demons, You make sciences, he makes religions.

One day as I came along the street of Pekin I saw a Buddhist priest, boxed up in a little four-by-four shanty, with a piece of iron a foot long and two-fifths of an inch in diameter—about the size of an ordinary poker—stuck through his two cheeks and his mouth, to induce the people to contribute money for the support of his temple, and for repairs.

You ask, are the Chinese religious? I answer: No, not as the Jew and the Hindoo are religious. So far as I can discover (and I have studied the matter for almost a quarter of a century), the Chinese have never made a religion of their own, nor an idol to worship. Their two native systems—Taoism and Confucianism, with Moism—are simple systems of morality in which they try to discover man's relation to man in government, in society, in business, in the family; and they neither manufactured nor worshipped idols until the Emperor Ming Ti, about A. D. 65, introduced Buddhism from India. The Chinese are, therefore, moralists, and be it said to their credit that they have developed the biggest (observe, I do not say the best) moral system the world has ever known, and so the two oldest governments in the world to-day are the result of Confucianism.

But all men are religious, and so the Chinese are. All men have reason and an intellectual nature which links them with things; a conscience and a moral nature which links them with their fellowmen; and fair and a religious nature which links them with God. And when psychologists begin to study man, mind, self, in this threefold way, psychology will begin to be a science—not till then.

The Chinese are religious, but not like the Hindoos. The Chinese disposition to worship—his religious nature—has been largely misdirected toward his fellow-men. He worships his ancestors, but of this we will speak in another chapter. But the want of a native religion gave Buddhism its opportunity, and between the first and sixth centuries it was established all over the empire.

But now, a non-scientific people cannot understand the laws and forces of nature, and attribute them to spirits, gods or demons. And so the Chinese, after the introduction of Buddhism, began to substitute idols, by the worship of which they hoped to avoid the calamities of nature's laws or their own neglect. It never occurred to the Oriental that cholera, or any of the great Asiatic plagues, is the result of dirt, and so they make an image and worship that to avoid the disease.

In a village near our North China summer resort, the cholera appeared, and the people worshipped the idols, even going to the extent of celebrating their New-Year's festival, which does not occur until January or February, in the hope that they might pacify, cajole, or deceive the god into leaving the village. But all to no purpose. Finally they made a paper image and carried it over to the European settlement of our summer resort, where they left it. It so happened that a gentleman had been brought from Tang Shan ill the day before, and about the time the image was brought from the village he died, and the people were convinced that they had hit upon the right idea.

The cholera was rife throughout the whole country, and people were dying by the hundreds. One of the young men from another village was calling at our house, and I said to him:

"How is the plague in your village?"

"We have had no plague," he replied.

"How is that?" I Inquired.

"Well," said he, "our village elders clean out our village well every spring, and then wrap up a big package of medicine in lotus leaves, and put it in the well, and we never have cholera."

"And why don't the others do that?" I inquired.

"Who knows?" was his only answer.

The kinds of worship in China are so numerous that we can only name a part of them here. In the first place, there was the worship of the Emperor, who was the parent of the people, and worshipped at the Temple of Heaven, the Temple of Earth, the Temple of the Sun, and the Temple of the Moon, as well as the Temple of Agriculture. These are five great national temples. The Temple of Heaven has two altars, the open and the covered altars, both in a large enclosure, occupying almost a square mile of the southern city of Peking. The covered altar is the most beautiful architecture in China—a triple-roofed circular dome over an altar about ninety feet in diameter, covered with blue encaustic tiles, each made to fit its place, though made a thousand miles away.

The open altar has three terraces, of white marble, and is the most sublime conception I know of anywhere in the world—a circular altar, ninety-nine feet in diameter, with three tiers of nine steps each, on the east, west, north, and south, leading from the ground to the top terrace. In the centre of this top terrace is a circular stone, of 9, 18, 27, 36, 45, etc., to 81, or 9 times 9 in the outer circle. When the Emperor kneels onthe round stone in the centre, at sunrise, there is nothing to cover him but the dome of the heavens while he prays to Shang Ti—the Emperor Above—or the God of the Universe. There are no idols, no images, no pictures, nothing but the Emperor and his God.

In another chapter we have referred to the worship at the Temple of Agriculture. Similar worship is done at the temples of the Earth, Sun, and Moon. These are situated—the Earth to the north of Peking, the Sun at the east, the Moon at the west, and the Temple of Agriculture in the southern city, opposite the Temple of Heaven. Each has a great open altar, surrounded by groves of cedar, in which are located the various buildings which contain the ancestral tablets or other fixtures for the altar during worship.

Next to the imperial worship comes that done by the officials. This is at the Confucian temple. Here, as in the other temples, at certain seasons the officials offer sheep and pigs, as cattle are offered at the Temple of Heaven. This worship is done only by the officials and scholars.

Next comes the worship at the Buddhist temples, where men or women at any time may go and burn a bit of incense, and offer a prayer to whatever particular idol one feels inclined to invoke. Here we find the Three Precious Ones, the Goddess of Mercy (whom some think is an adaption of the Virgin Mary), the Goddess that give schildren (to whom the childless wife often prays with all earnestness for years to no avail), or any one of ten thousand other bits of clay or wood or gilded bronze. The mountains are filled with these temples, which we shall have occasion to mention under "Summer Resorts," though to some of these temples, such as Wu Tai Shan or Tai Shan, tens of thousands of men and women make long pilgrimages every year. I have seen them going hundreds of miles, measuring their length on the dusty road at every third step. As they near the temple passing up the mountain side, they purchase great staffs which they carry back to their homes.

After this we have the special kinds of worship for illness, for special sorrows, for childnessness, for deliverance from plague, or at wells, at shrines, at trees that have ch'eng shen, become divine on account of their age; or the worship of the fox or the dragon.

In every kitchen, as we have indicated in another chapter, they have the Kitchen God, which they worship at the New Year. In every home they have their ancestral tablets, which we wll have occasion to refer to under "Ancestral Worship," while every shop or store, of factory, however large or small, has its God of Wealth, and of the Kitchen both of which are worshipped with most devotion.

MAJ. GEN. COLLINS DIES FRIDAY AT WASHINGTON

(Continued from page 1)

23rd Brigade at Fort William McKinley, Philippine Islands.

Upon completion of his Philippine detail he became commander of the Sixteenth Brigade, Washington, D. C., and recently was assigned to the G-3 section, war department general staff Washington, D. C. in which capacity he was serving at the time of his death.

General Collins was a member of the initial general staff eligible list, and had several periods of service in the general staff to his credit. He was an honor graduate of the Army School of the Line, class of 1910; a graduate of the Army Staff College, class of 1911; and twice attended the Army War College, graduating in 1917, and 1920.

For his outstanding services in the World War he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

General Collins is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Allison G. Barnett, and Miss Margaret Collins, his wife having died at Walter Reed general hospital on January 16, 1932.

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT
RATES REASONABLE
Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062
DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Old Time Bread
French and Rye

The delightful natural wheat flavor is contained in these delicious loaves, ready for your table.
Fresh daily at Post Exchange Grocery
Visit the Bakery Beautiful
EVERIDGE'S
109 - 12TH STREET
The Bakery Beautiful

FURNITURE OF QUALITY
H. ROTHSCHILD
Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years
1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Smith To Meet Harold Murphy Tonight

SLANTS ON POLO

In a recent issue attention was called to Zero Wilson's polo pony, Sara G., trained by Mrs. Wilson. We now learn from Zero that we were not lavish enough with our praises. Sara G. is so intelligent and well-trained that she argues with the umpires. Even the feminine characteristics in a horse eventually come to the surface.

* * *

These students really talk it up; As Stephenson and Sweeney gallop furiously down the side-boards, women blush and men tremble as the "Reply's by Indorsement" and "commendations" issue forth from flying command posts in true accord with the teachings of the Academic Department.

* * *

Mike Halloran's opponents have for the past month been carrying scars of battle on their ribs and arms caused by his omnipresence and energetic elbows. Now the rules of polo provide that in riding an opponent off the ball the elbows will not be used, but merely calling Mike's attention to the rules had no effect. In the heat of the game with the ball lying out in front and with a man to be ridden off, what dorules mean to the hard-riding Irish? It was plainly up to the receivers. The subtle solution was a peace party, with gifts for all concerned. Mike was presented with a perfectly lovely pair of elbow pads of sheepskin with plated buckles and straps to keep them in the proper place. Another menace to polo has been removed.

* * *

Rough fields and horses that are really wild have convinced "Buggs" Butler to forsake polo and join up with the Texas Rangers Rodeo, so don't be surprised if he is seen in Doughboy Stadium roping calves from the back of the trusty Petite.

* * *

Feminine noses are out of joint since Mrs. Wilson's recognition as a horse trainer. Credit is hereby given to Mrs. Lockett for bringing Landon's string to form, Barbara Munroe for her efforts on Daddy's string, Mrs. Loveland, Miss Velez, Mrs. Pierce, Miss Corliss Palmer, Miss Kay Francis, Miss Kate Smith, and Will Rogers for helping with Monte Blue's string, Mrs. Gaillard for assisting Major Thompson and Mrs. Arnold for one day's work, the results not showing in Major Arnold's play against the Billygoats.

* * *

The ever nonchalant Griffith, after the first of the present tournament games, vows the man who wrote "Early to bed," etc. must have at some time or other engaged in the gentle art of polo.

* * *

The 29th, now so mechanized, have a new wrinkle on conditioning ponies. Judging from the extreme speed of the 29th string, other teams might do well to imitate the method. A fleet of FWD trucks are used to lead the horses in morning exercises to develop wind and strength of limb.

* * *

When Lt. Westlund removes his helmet at the end of a chukker and wipes his beaded brow with a soft silk handkerchief, all the debs and subdebs ah and oh at the perfectly combed and brushed head of shining hair that meets their vision. That is, they did until one of the Billygoats, who ought to know, let the cat out of the bag when he explained that all

(Please turn to page 9)

Murphy Victorious Over Johnson In Last Showing Here

Baby Stribling and Tetherton To Clash In Semi-Final Go This Evening

Harold Murphy, widely-heralded "millionaire fighter," who is one of the finest boxers ever to show at the fort, will meet Walker "Cyclone" Smith, soldier lightheavyweight, this evening in the main go of an excellent boxing card arranged and sponsored by the Athletic Department.

Fight fans were greatly pleased with Harold in his first showing a month ago. On this occasion the pride of Chicago administered a decisive beating to Ching Johnson who was hopelessly outclassed from beginning to end. The rugged soldier was an open target for repeated left jabs which served the double purpose of punishment and keeping Ching away from Harold.

Murphy agreed to fight Johnson in the understandng that, should he emerge victorious, he would get a battle with either Griffin or Smith.

In his fight with Johnson, Murphy was never extended and so Benning fight fans are still to get an accurate picture of Harold's ability in the ring. The roll of fat that graced the Chicago battler's midsection has now been removed, Murphy being in fine fettle and raring to climb through the ropes.

"Cyclone" Smith outpointed Frankie Palmo of Cincinnati in his last appearance . Frankie was clever, an excellent counter-puncher and gave the soldier a lot of trouble. The decision was hair-breadth, Smith winning by a shade.

In the fight tonight, Smith will be meeting an opponent who is every bit as clever and strategic a ring general as Palmo; in addition, Murphy will have his hands full and it is going to be some battle from start to finish with both boys out to win.

In the semi-final, Baby Stribling will stack up against Rip Tetherton. Stribling has fought most of the top-notchers in his division and holds victories over many of them. He is fast as greased lightning, hard to hit, and packs a wallop. His ability is well-known to Benning fans. In Tetherton, however, he faces an opponent that will give him plenty of trouble.

Tetherton, though perhaps not as clever as his opponent tonight, has a wicked punch that sizzles when it lands. He is game as they come and Stribling will have his hands full.

Scrip De Olive, New Orleans bantamweight, will meet Dapper Doyle, Benning flash, over the six round route. De Oliver is one of the leading bantamweights in the south and has more than once demonstrated his ability in the ring against the best that the country has to offer. Wins over Johnnie Blaine, Quina Lee, and others fully as good testify to the type of fighter Dapper Doyle will face this evening.

This will be Doyle's first appearance in a Benning ring for some time, the reason being that he is too good

(Please turn to page 9)

24TH PLAYERS BEAT VISITORS

The Twenty-fourth Infantry's basket ball team defeated the Fort Valley Normal negro college basketeers, at Benning, Monday night by a score of 34 to 20.

Getting away to a flying start the army team scored 14 points before the visitors were able to register. With the game on ice, Lt. Howard Johnson, coach, used his entire squad of players.

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Some time ago a huge mountain of a man named Jess Willard went into the ring against a comparative pigmy. The pigmy was Jack Dempsey. The result of that encounter made ring history. The opening bell found Dempsey leaping in for the kill, shooting rights and lefts at the open target before him. Three rounds later, Willard withered before the furious onslaught of the Manassa Mauler and a new champion was crowned.

Last Friday night Primo Carnera, Italian giant, battled blond Ernie Schaaf of Boston. The bout was considered beforehand to be analogous to the Willard-Dempsey fight. So Schaaf went into the ring favored to win.

* * *

Carnera, despite his bulk, could not hit. True, he boasted of an impressive string of knockout victories, but most of his opponents climbed through the ropes so ready to fall that they were leaning.

Schaaf, who slumped badly last summer, had come into his own with knockout victories over Stan Poreda and Unknown Winston. There was no doubt about his punching ability.

* * *

In the fight Friday night, Carnera tied up Schaff at will. The Bostonian could not get close enough to the Italian to do any damage. Primo kept him away with a left jab, and landed heavily to the body with his right. In the eighth round, Ernie was staggered by a hard right to the head but remained on his feet.

The slow pounding of Carnera began to have its effect. When Schaaf came out for the thirteenth round, he was visibly exhausted. Primo hit Ernie with successive rights, then stepped in with a light left to the face. Schaaf collapsed. At five, he was on his knees. As the referee continued counting, Ernie swayed, then suddenly and without warning rolled over on his back.

* * *

Jack Sharkey, Schaaf's second, leaped into the ring and dragged the fallen warrior to his corner. A doctor was summoned. He diagnosed the case quickly and had Schaaf taken to the hospital amid a volley of boos and cries of "Fake".

The fans were displeased. Tehy were incapable of believing that the light left which had turned the trick had had any power behind it.

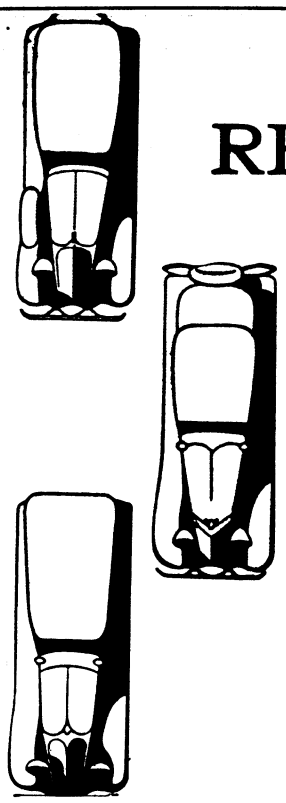
* * *

Schaaf was still in a coma at the time of writing. His condition was serious. Garden officials bitterly resented the implication that the fight was faked and pointed to Ernie's con-

(Please turn to page 9)

Diamonds
Watches
Silverware
PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS



REDUCE . . .

. . . your chances of accident and your maintenance costs by having your auto inspected frequently and by using good oils and greases.

AUTO DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

LONG LIFE Buick USED CARS

1931 STUDEBAKER SPORT SEDAN—Car is in excellent condition—Upholstery clean—Five wire wheels—new tires—original finish.

1932 CHEVROLET COACH—This Chevrolet will please you with its smooth running motor and beautiful original factory finish—new set tires.

1929 NASH SEDAN—This small Standard Six Nash is one of the cleanest jobs we have handled in some time—Runs perfect and original finish like new.

1931 DESOTO "8" SEDAN—A 6 wire wheel job—just thoroughly reconditioned in our own shops—refinished in beautiful Duco colors—Brand new 6 ply tires.

1930 CHEVROLET COUPE—In good condition throughout and just refinished through our shop and Duco Department.

1930 CHEVROLET COACH—One of the best looking Chevrolets in town—just refinished in our own Duco Department in special Maroon colors—excellent mechanical condition.

1930 FORD COACH—A perfectly good running Ford with good tires and fine appearance.

1931 OAKLAND "8" SEDAN—One of the cleanest jobs on our floor — new set tires—runs smooth and perfectly clean throughout.

1930 BUICK COUPE—We have Just thoroughly reconditioned this late model Buick and it is ready for thousands of miles of service—new top—good tires.

1930 MARQUETTE SEDAN—One of the best Marquettes we have ever handled—driven only 12,000 miles—looks and runs like new—5 wire wheels and brand new set tires.

1931 BUICK SPORT COUPE—When you see this job you will see one of the best looking Coupes in town—Thoroughly reconditioned—brand new tires and just refinished in latest Special Duco Colors.

ALL THESE ARE REAL VALUES:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1929 FRANKLIN COUPE | $385.00 |
| 1929 ESSEX SEDAN | 235.00 |
| 1929 NASH SEDAN | 265.00 |
| 1930 HUDSON SEDAN | 450.00 |
| 1929 BUICK SEDAN | 445.00 |
| 1929 STANDARD BUICK COACH | 395.00 |
| 1932 PLYMOUTH SEDAN | 495.00 |
| 1924 BUICK SEDAN | 85.00 |
| 1928 W. K. SPORT COACH | 225.00 |
| 1929 ESSEX COUPE | 195.00 |
| 1930 ESSEX SEDAN | 295.00 |
| 1928 BUICK COUPE | 225.00 |

PLENTY OF OTHERS, ALMOST ANY MAKE, STYLE AND PRICE ALSO READY FOR SERVICE

Liberal Trades—Convenient Terms

CLIFF M. AVERETT
INC.
1441 FIRST AVE. PHONE 884

Polo Game Gradual Development

SPORTS

SLANTS ON POLO

(Continued From Page 8)

Swedes rub plenty of hair grease into their hair during winter. It's an old Swedish custom, that's all.

* * *

Lt. Gould, having read his name between the lines of the Army War College list published in a recent paper now plays as a high staff officer should play; in other words, Jay dopes out all the plays and lets Junior Officer O'Connor do the hard and dangerous work of putting the ball through the uprights.

No game last Sunday, it was too cold and wet. This was tough on the players who for the first time this year were able to devote one Sunday afternoon to the family, some of whom even got to go to the Rodeo. The vote among the polo widows, however, seems to indicate that maybe it would be better if there were a game on Sundays. You can't keep a bear in a cage.

* * *

Polo is a jealous mistress but with rain and frozen ground and postponed play she is losing hold. We learn that several players are going dramatic in "The Road to Rome". Whether they are being chosen to ride the elephants or because of their horse collar knees their appearance as Roman soldiers behind the lights is a far cry from the polo field.

* * *

Now comes Mrs. O'Brien out of the west to claim credit, all or none, as Zero Wilson's pony trainer.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital ----------$100,000.00
Surplus ---------- 65,000.00

Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum

Home of the

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 290

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 or less

for bills . . education . . travel

●

Check off these advantages:

√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

Polo, As We Know It, Came About As A Gradual Development Through Centuries Of Improvement

In 1869, at Aldershot, England, a group of the Tenth Hussars read of polo in India and determined to play the game. Their first sticks were heavy walking canes but they found them a bit too short to hit with. The game intrigued them to improvise long handled mallets somewhat resembling croquet mallets and to get small quiet ponies under 14 hands in height. The first game was like a football scrimmage with four players making up the line with two half backs, a back and a goal keeper behind them, a total of eight. The bigger and heavier team won. The press reported the game more remarkable for the strength of the language than for the brilliance of play. In a later game to add zest to the game each team lined up on its goal line, the ball was dropped in the center of the field by the umpire and all players raced madly to get the ball. The flying wedge or guards back of ancient football could offer no more devastating play with sixteen players galloping at the ball. The game lasted an hour and a half with ten minutes rest at half time. Our present game calls for 8 periods of chukkers, each of 7½ minutes, and with three minutes between periods for changes of horses. Since at half time ten minutes rest is given the modern game takes the same time, an hour and a half, and gives a full hour of play. In our post round robin tournament the game of 8 periods is played in two parts each of four period of 7½ minutes each with several days between parts.

In 1876, James Gordon Bennett brought to America from England some balls, mallets, and the desire to play polo here. A carload of suitable ponies was brought from Texas and delivered in New York, each pony cost the magnificent price of twenty dollars. Fifty years later at an auction of Argentine polo ponies one pony, considered suitable, brought $26,000.

In 1877, the Westchester Polo Club was organized and a year or two later built a field at the polo grounds where the New York giant baseball team now holds forth. Because of shortage of polo sticks, the heads of croquet mallets set on rake handles did very well for play. Nowadays after a crazy shot we complain of the mallet, one made with all the skill of Meurisse's best mechanics.

In 1885, Howard College sent the first college polo team to Newport, where it won the championship. In 1923 it was believed that to play good polo a certain seasoning, ten years or more was necessary and that no player of the youthfulness of the college student could hold his old in fast company. However, starting with 1924, the college student player has come forward to take the lead in fast high goal play and college polo teams have again risen to the heights of the 1885 Harvard team.

In 1890, Theodore Roosevelt was playing polo with all the enthusiasm which he put into his participation in strenuous activities. Mr. Hitchcock, father of Tommy Hitchcock, the world's best polo player, began his polo at this same time.

The first polo rules provided for a decision of two goals out of three, with no time limit. One record period was sixty minutes to the first goal. Since most players had but two ponies there was an immediate demand for a change of rules. Hooking of mallets was forbidden and back handed shots were discouraged. In the present game one of the most effective defensive plays is that of hooking or interfering with the mallet of an opponent as he is striking at the ball, causing him to miss. To have the right to interfere with the oponent's stroke, the player must be on the side of the opponent's horse on which the stroke is being made. It is violation of the rules to reach over the opponent's horse to interfere with the stroke and as much as such is penalized.

In 1888 the system of handicapping was initiated to equalize players and teams.

In 1890 the U. S. Polo Association was organized with four members and in thirty years has grown to a membership of hundreds of clubs.

Under its guidance polo has spread through all our states, and possessions, to Canada and Mexico. The game has developed from a slow mass game on small ponies to a wide open game played on big thorobreds. The speed has increased to racing speed with horses bought from race tracks, trained for polo and in play urged with whip and spur. The hitting has changed from short accurate strokes to long looping drives that cover over a hundred yards a stroke. For the spectator, the races for the ball, the hard bumping and riding off, the long drives, the surge of play up and down the field at top speed make the game worth the watching. For the player the feel of the horse at speed, the rough contacts, the working out of well executed team plays, the exhilartion of hard play, the zest of ever present danger make the game worth the playing.

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued from Page 8)

dition as proof that it was false.

As a matter of fact, the left that knocked out Schaaf would not have put out a schoolboy—provided that no other blow had been struck beforehand. But Ernie had been weakened by the continual pounding away of his opponent. When Carnera hit him with that left, Schaaf was on the verge of collapsing. The blow cinched matters, that was all.

* * *

The result of Friday's fight gives Carnera a clear right to face Sharkey in June for the heavyweight championship ofthe world. Th epresent champion will probably welcome the opportunity to battle the Italian. The two have met before.

Sharkey dropped Carnera in the third round. The giant came up on one knee, climbed to his feet, and when Jack threatened to hit him, dropped back on his knee and the referee began counting all over again. That was when Sharkey flew into a rage and stormed all over the ring and would have left it altogether had not his manger intervened and forced him to stay for the remainder of the fight.

Carnera lasted through the fifteen rounds but absorbed a bad beating. Sharkey did not seem to have much difficulty in penetrating the Italian's crude defense. On the basis of that fight, therefore, Jack will undoubtedly be more than glad to take on Carnera once more. Otherwise, he might have to fight Max Schmeling or Max Baer, which would not be so desirable.

SMITH TO MEET MURPHY HERE TONIGHT

(Continued from page 8)

for others in his class. The battle will be a bang-up one and may even steal the show. Fans are assured of some real action.

Chick Liddell, fast, clever, and a hard puncher meets Jack Harp, a rugged opponent, in the featured six round bout. Harp holds a knockout victory over Chick, and Liddell will be out to avenge himself.

Grumpy Gordy, a crowd pleaser, will face Danny Long, another crowd pleaser, and when two crowd pleasers get into the ring against each other, something is bound to happen. The bout will be four rounds, scratching, biting and gouging banned.

Yutmeyer and Tony Viggins of Columbus will clash in a four round bout. A three-rounder between two colored boys will be an added feature.

WE MAKE RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

FIRST SHIPMENT

of 1933

NASH CARS

. . . Now on Display . . .

EDGE-FULLER MOTOR CO.

1444 First Ave.

Enlisted Men's

Uniforms and Accessories

AT

VERY LOW PRICES

We specialize in tailoring to measure finer quality Enlisted Men's uniforms of Khaki and Melton, or the new regulation issue materials. A complete stock of Caps, Shirts, Shoes, Belts, Ornaments, et cetera, is available for immediate delivery, at very moderate prices.

CREDIT EXTENDED THRU COMPANY OR BATTERY COMMANDER

We will welcome an opportunity to prove our excellent service.

THE ASSOCIATED MILITARY STORES

2nd Floor The Officers' Club

FORT BENNING, GA.

To Ladies of Fort Benning

We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.

OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Baths
Reducing, Facial, Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydrio, Electro } Therapy

Swedish Massage
Swedish Facial Massage
Swedish Scalp Treatments
Turkish Shampoos
Special Reducing Treatment
Swedish Shampoos

Rigdon Health Institute

216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

Partially, but as yet only partially, thawed out by the maintenance of most cordial relations with the Kriz Hall heating apparatus, we turn back to the late lamented period of semi-tropical field exercises to cite a few citations:

To the prvates (basic, ordinary and first class) of the participating units for the extraordinary manner in which they marched off to the wars and played the military game under climatic conditions which were as nasty as those encountered on any man's real battlefield.

To the non-commissioned officers of the same units for their professional skill, their good nature, and their everlasting helpfulness.

To Colonel Weeks for that happy faculty which is his of quietly appearing at a c. p., be it section or brigade, quietly asking his few questions, and just as quietly departing, leaving behind him the impression that no matter how great the tactical bewilderment of the students, no matter how grevious the errors of decision or judgement, if something practical is being learned, all is well.

And we condole a condolence to the First Section for the mean break given the instructors thereof by the weather man, who apparently was striving mightily to put the complete kibosh on a series of first-rate, instructive, and interesting problems upon which manifestly there had been expended many a long and weary hour of mental and physical effort.

As there is nothing to stop us, we might as well recollect a few recollections:

St. James, mounted, commander of a machine gun platoon so imaginary that he had nary an orderly, hounded by three leering umpires, dismounted, in the persons of Harvey, Hinwood, and Jackson—one referee for his imaginary platoon headquarters and one for each of his imaginary sections.

Hanley, temporarily a staff officer, in an argument with his mount as to which of the two was to carry the other over a ditch.

McClure, the big iceberg and igloo man from the polar regions, finally forced into winter uniform.

Johnson, in abbreviated apparel, actually testing the depth of the Upatwah Crick.

Patterson reporting to the battalion commander that the brigade commander directed that the regimental commander direct the battalion commander to jump off at 11:15 a. m., sharp, promptly, and without fail, Patterson's report being rendered at 11:16 a. m.

Lee scratching his head at the end of a trail on the banks of the Upatoi and expostulating: "There's a lot of things I know about the problem that I can't understand. But I do know that this is no spot for a battalion asembly area!"

Harris, mounted, confusing the duties of reconnaissance officer with those of recreation officer.

Dill, with Napoleonic mien, strutting the first strut over Major Heileman's modified-kapok-lampert-one cart-one mule bridge.

Clark, his mind on the rostrum of the company officers' assembly hall, mumbling his monograph to himself in the woods south of Torch Hill.

Watson diligently and exhaustively S-twoing the Red situation for his battalion commander after lulling a defending and drenched enemy soldat into the belief that the latter was holding converse with an umpire.

Gleaves, colonel pro tem for the afternoon, groaning over failing eyesight while pouring over a U. S. G. S. map upon which the elements were pouring at the same time.

Ring, surrounded by a clamoring, dissenting, and disputing mob of staff officers, company commanders, and even platoon leaders, sticking out his best battalion commander's chin and announcing that he didn't give a thousand whoops in hades, he wouldn't jump off from that spot. And by his minority report and decision gaining unto himself the approbation of the school authorities.

Bolling boasting of a max in the bridge crossing puzzle contest after lengthy conversation with a subaltern bridge constructor of the engineers, only to find that the crossing was not to be effected in the sector assigned him for reconnaissance.

As a finale we timorously suggest a suggestion. Not once during the period under review did the authorities deem it necessary to dangle over our heads the Damoclean sword of efficiency reports, school standings, or marked problems. Careful review of the reports of our sub-sleuths disclose no appreciable increase in dead-beating. In fact, interest apparently was stimulated and, weather conditions considered, well maintained. Just how many tears will be shed by our next C. O. or P. M. S. & T. when, with bowed head and burning cheek, we inform him that we used—on a map—four strand whereas The School approved of double apron, or that we placed a combat group on Hill B instead of Hill A? Would it not be elegant if we could cavort down the home stretch of this 1932-33 course without the depressing feeling that many of our instructors deem it essential to set themselves up not only as teachers but as spanking masters?

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4106
Res. 1153

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Howard Bus Line, Inc.
Operating Under Government Franchise
Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES
416 CITY PHONES 224 POST

SPICY leaves of TURKISH tobacco are strung to dry and cure in the sun.

Well, that's something about cigarettes I never knew before

—the cigarette that's Milder
—the cigarette that Tastes Better

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1933 — NUMBER 44

TOWN TOPICS

Last week Chaplain Monahan realized a burning ambition of many years standing. It will be recalled that the Rev. Fr. John T. McGrory was conducting the Mission at the Catholic Chapel at that tme.

To make the point of ths story clear to our readers, we must first rudely brush aside the veil that hides the past. We see crowded grandstands, gaudy with color. Gaping spectators are watching athletic gentlemen with abbreviated white shorts run swiftly around an oval track. It is the occasion of the big track and field meet between two rival colleges.

The meet is very close. It is drawing to an end. One race is to decide the outcome of the entire meet, and the atmosphere grows tense with excitement as the men competing in the relay take their places. The gun barks and the runners are off. Seconds later they round into the home stretch, the batons are passed, and the two men running second dash off in their turn.

The anchor men on the relay teams are waiting for the batons to be passed to them. The batons are passed and the last lap, upon which the issue hinges, in begun. The crowd surges to its feet with excitement and bellows "On Monahan!" "On McGrory". One would have imagined that he was witnessing the chariot race o fBen Hur in the Roman arena were it not for the fact that there were no chariots.

Monahan goes into the lead. He is increasing it gradually. The two runners come into the home stretch with a final burst of speed. The crowd cheers wildly as Monahan sprints down in front of the grandstands, a certain winner. Suddenly he stumbles, tries to check himself, cannot, and pitches headlong to the cinders. Over his prostrate body leaps McGrory to cross the line first and win the meet for Alma Mater.

Long has this ignominious defeat rankled in the breast of Chaplain Monahan. The slim hope that some day he might turn the tables beat feebly within him. Then the unsuspecting Father McGrory arrived at Benning. The Chaplain saw his opportunity and made haste to avail himself of it.

Very cunningly, he suggested that Father McGrory and himself play round of golf. A little sceptical, the Father claimed that it had been a long time since he had indulged in the pleasant pastime. But Chaplain Monahan would have none of that and insisted on the round of golf. Father McGrory, realizing that resistance was useless, ultimately gave in.

Then Chaplain Monahan, relentless and merciless, proceeded to give Father McGrory the trimming of his life. At the conclusion ofthe match, the Father, a badly btaten man, admitted the golf superiority of Chaplain Monahan, and matters were squared up.

Chaplain Monahan and his conscience have declared an armistice.

* * *

Pheidippides Betts took his dilapidated Essex second mount to the Post Exchange garage to be greased and loose parts tightened. The order, explicit as it was, was misunderstood. In addition to greasing and tightening the car, it was also washed.

When Pheidippides Betts returned to claim the Essex, he found to his amazement that certain loose parts were looser than ever. The matter

(Please turn to page 8)

Maior General Lytle Brown Arrives Here On Friday For Short Visit Of Inspection

General Brown Will Be Guest Of Chamber Of Commerce At Columbus Dinner

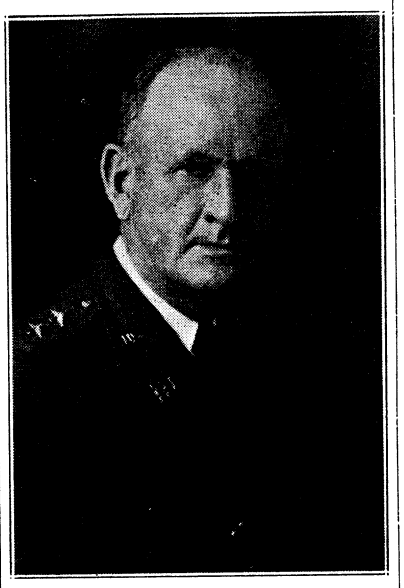
Major General Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, United States Army, is expected to arrive at Fort Benning on Friday of this week for a brief official visit of inspection, during which he will observe experiments with pontoon bridge material and other engineer activities. One of the training features which General Brown will observe will be a river-crossing demonstration using experimental bridge material, which will be held in conjunction with a tactical problem in which the 29th Infantry and other troops will participate. The bridge will be built by Company H, 1st Engineers, which has been at Fort Benning since October, conducting a series of tests of experimental pontoon equipment.

It has also been announced that General Brown will be the guest of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce at its annual dinner, which will be held at the Ralston Hotel Friday evening.

The visit of General Brown to Fort Benning and Columbus has a special significance for both communities as he was a member of the war department general staff in 1918, when the proposal to acquire the present site of the Infantry School was being considered by the war department. It was his recommendation which resulted in the war department's acquiring the lands of the present Fort Benning military reservation. Ten years later he returned to Fort Benning as a student at the Infantry School, and was graduated from the refresher course in the latter part of 1928.

General Brown, the son of James Trimble and Jane Nichol Brown, was born in Nashville, Tenn., on Nov. 12, 1872.

After completing his early education in the public schools of Nashville, he entered Vandervilt University, pursuing the course in civil engineering. He was graduated from this university in 1893 with the degree of Bachelor of Engineering; the next year he completed the post-graduate course and was awarded the degree of Civil Engineer.



MAJOR GENERAL LYTLE BROWN

He then obtained an appointment to the United Sttaes Military Academy, and entered on June 15, 1894, only a few days after he completed his studies at Vanderbilt University. He graduated on April 25, 1898, as an additional second lieutenant of engineers. The early graduation was on account of the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

His first assignment was to Company C, 1st Battalion of Engineers at Willets Point, New York, which he joined on May 4, 1898. After a few days he was sent to Tampa, Florida, where he reported for duty with Company E, 2d Battalion of Engineers, and embarked with that veteran organization for Cuba on June 14, 1898. He took part in the Santiago campaign and was engaged in the Battle of San Juan and the siege of Santiago, Cuba. On September 4, 1898, he arrived with Company C, for station and duty at West Point, N. Y. A month and a half later he was sent to Savannah, Georgia, for duty as assistant to the district engineer.

After about nine months of this river and harbor training, he was transferred to Willets Point, New York, where he was on duty with Engineer troops and pursued the course of instruction at the Engineer

(Please turn to page 10)

Glee Club Promises Fine Production

Those who have seen some of the rehearsals of "The Debutante," a Victor Herbert Operetta, which will be presented by the Fort Benning Glee Club on March 10th-11th, at the Post Theatre, unhesitatingly declare that it will be the best ever offered by the Club in its long series of successes. Those who saw the Red Mill, another Victor Herbert operetta, given by the Glee Club last year were unanimous in its praise of the elaborate scenic effect and stage setting of that show and thought that the Glee Club had reached its limit in this respect. But those in on the "know" are predicting that Captain Virgil Bell and his staff of artists who were responsible for the Red Mill scenery, will spring a still greater surprise this year in the settings for "The Debutante." The scenery and scenic effects being arranged especially for the second act are declared the cleverest bit of stage craft ingenuity ever devised in the Post Theatre.

Beautiful Scenes

While all audiences admire scenic effect, still the chief reason they attend a show is to be entertained. And, in these days they want a good laugh or rather a number of them. They will get just that in "The Debutante" Production. The four comedy parts carry a major portion of the dialogue throughout both acts. There is no "let down" as the comedy continues in a laughable run of complications from beginning to end. The story unfolds very much like a well written stage comedy and is not at all similar to the usual operetta. In fact, critics state that "The Debutante" would be a good show even without the music.

Herbert's Music

And how about the music? Well, Victor Herbert wrote it! And, it's just Victor Herbert's from start to finish. From the overture straight through until the closing chorus it sparkles with Herbert's tuneful, catchy melodies—the kind that gets one to tapping and humming with the music.

(Please turn to page 5)

New Class Begins Work Here Today With 150 Students

Course For Mechanics Is Begun Thursday With Enlisted Men From Posts of 4th C. A.

National guard and reserve officers from practically every state in the United States registered at Fort Benning during the past week for a company officers and tank course which opens here today. Approximately 150 guardsmen and reservists are expected to take the course, which will be in progress until May.

Last year a total of 130 officers took the course here, the number having been increased this year by more than twenty. The class is one that is held annually, and is a part of the training program which is carrid out at the Infantry school for the civilian soldiers of the country. The other civilians which are sent here for courses of instruction include the students of several southern colleges who take the Reserve Officers' Training Course here in the summer.

Another course which opened this week was the special course of instruction for motor mechanics which opened yesterday. The instruction will be carried on by the Tank Section of the Infantry School, and the students will include a number of selected soldiers from motorized organizations of infantry regiments and from mechanized units of the Infantry. Seventeen men from Fort Benning and a number from other posts in the 4th Corps Area will be enrolled in the course.

The following named soldiers of Fort Benning have been enrolled in the new course:

From Service Company 29th Infantry; Master Sergeant James S. Hamilton, and Private 1st class Robert L. Lawson, Scott Proffit, Myrtlin S. Shoemaker, Joe F. Ginn, and Michael Belaski.

From 2d Battalion 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) Private 1st class Bowden L. Henderson, Privates Floyd Ellis, and Sam H. McCorkle, Headquarters Company; Sergeant Samuel A. Cunningham and Corporal Frank Long, Company D; Privates Kerl L. Coats, and James W. Bunkin, Company E; Sergeant Ralph June, and Private 1st class Willard Sharp, Company F.

From Company F 67th Infantry (medium tanks); Privates 1st class Wiley T. Moore and Private Charles B. Schliecher.

Mr. Downing, Soldier, Confidante And Personality, Is Dead

* * * * * * * * *

Veteran Horse, Mount of General King, Is Victim Of Old Age After Many Years Of Service

Fort Benning Wednesday mourned the pasing of Mr. Downing, world war veteran, companion and confidant of Major General Campbell King, General Pershing, General Allen and other great American military leaders, whose long career of faithful service in the army has been ended by death.

Mr. Downing was 10 years of age when he joined the American Expeditionary Forces in France. His distinguished appearance, his polished manners and his high intelligence were so outstandingly evident that he was at once assigned to General Headquarters where he quickly won the favorable attention of General Pershing. Mr. Downing at that time weighed 1100 pounds, stood 16 1-2 hands in height without his shoes, and with his sleek bay coat emphasizing the excellent conformation of his body. He was a splendid example of the equine personality. He became General Pershing's private mount and with him explored many of the battle fields of France. After the Armistice, Mr. Downing accompanied the Army of Occupation into Germany where he became the private mount of General Henry T. Allen.

When the troops returned from Europe General Pershing sent Mr. Downing to the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas. There his education into the higher phases of horsemanship was begun, and so well did Mr. Downing progress in his studies that in 1920 he was a contender for the American Olympic team which was sent to Europe. Although he was not selected for the trip abroad he contributed greatly to the training of the American team and held his own against all comers in the Fort Valley contests. He was always a participant in the Cavalry School rides and no demonstration of horse schooling by the Cavalry School equitation instructors was complete without Mr. Downing.

In 1926 Mr. Downing was transferred to the Infantry School at Fort Benning where he again found favor in high quarters and was assigned for the personal use of Major General Campbell King, the Commandant. Since coming to Fort Benning Mr. Downing has added to the collection of trophies at the Infantry School 34 ribbons, cups, and other prizes.

For the past year Mr. Downing's health has been failing and recently he became totally blind. An Army inspector was called upon to determine what disposition should be made of the faithful old horse, and soon afterward a coup de grace ended the days of Mr. Downing.

Girl Scouts To Hold Court Of Honor

The first Court of Awards of the year will be held for the Fort Benning girl scouts of the Cardinal, Daffodil and Pine Tree troops at the Girl Scout Cabin this afternoon. Girls who have passed basic proficiency tests will be awarded Second Class, First Class and Merit Badges. The badges will be presented by Mrs. Elbert J. Lyman, Mrs. Henry Matchett and Mrs. Charles W. Weeks, all of whom have been prominent in the Girl Scout activities of the Post.

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Washington's Birthday Celebrated With Dinner Dance At Officers' Club

One of the outstanding affairs at the Officers' Club this season was the dinner dance which was held Tuesday evening from eight to midnight in celebration of Washington's birthday. The Club presented a gay appearance with its decorations of red, white and blue. In the ball room, red, white and blue streamers were festooned from the ceiling lights and over the mantle, a huge picture of George Washington was hung flanked by clusters of American flags. Finishing touches were added by red, white and blue shields which were placed over the side lights causing an indirect lighting effect. Similar shields were placed over the lights in the library and dining room, where the tables were placed. The tables were decorated with American flags and red candles. A capacity number of reservations were made. Those entertaining were: Col. and Mrs. Ephraim G. Peyon, Col. and Mrs. J. DeCamp Hall, Maj. and Mrs. Courtney H. Hodges, Maj. and Mrs. Archibald V. Arnold, Maj. and Mrs. William F. Lee, Maj. and Mrs. Hugh C. Gilchrist, Capt. and Mrs. Willard S. Paul, Capt. and Mrs. Geoffrey Marshall, Capt. and Mrs. George F. Bloomquist, Capt. and Mrs. Harvey H. Smith, and Capt. Harlan F. Seeley.

* * *

MEDICAL CORPS GIVE MONTHLY MONTHLY DINNER DANCE

The monthly dinner dance, which is sponsored by the Medical Corps, was held Friday evening at the Polo Hunt Club. Eight tables, each setting eight guests, were arranged around the Polo Hunt Club. After dinner, dancing was enjoyed, the 29th Infantry orchestra furnishing the music. The Club was appropriately decorated in red, white and blue in celebration of George Washington's birthday. Place cards printed with clusters of red berries were used and in the center of each table clusters of American flags flanked by red, white and blue candles completed the decorations.

* * *

RECEPTION FOR NAT'L GUARD AND RESERVE OFFICERS TO Be HELD MARCH 4

Arrangements are being made for a reception and dance for the National Guard and Reserve Officers, who arrived on February 24th. This affair will be held on March 4th at Biglerville. Reservations will be open for dinner parties at the Officers' Club that evening.

* * *

OFFICERS' CLUB DINNER DANCE THURSDAY EVENING ENJOYABLE AFFAIR OF WEEK

Among the many enjoyable affairs of the week was the regular Thursday evening dinner dance held at the Officers' Club from eight to ten. As usual all reservations for dinner were taken. Those reserving tables were: Maj. and Mrs. Clyde A. Selleck, Capt. and Mrs. Nathaniel L. Simmonds, Capt. and Mrs. Orion L. Davidson, Capt. and Mrs. Robert G. Mangum, Lieut. and Mrs. Harold S. Kelley, Lieut. and Mrs. Clayton H. Studebaker, Lieut. and Mrs. Kameil Maertens, Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Bowen, Lieut. and Mrs. Washington Ives and Lieutenant and Mrs. Edwin J. Van Horne.

* * *

MISS ATKINS AND MISS STILL-TO BE JOINT HOSTESSES AT HOBO DANCE

Invitations are out for the hobo dance that Miss Harriotte Atkins and Miss Nancy Stillwell will give Saturday evening at the Polo Hunt Club. The invitations were both novel and clever with a picture of a hobo girl and boy and a verse asking all invited to come dressed as "Lords and Ladies of the Highways and Byways." The club will be decorated in such a manner as to make the hoboes at home. Invitations have been sent to about a hundred of the hostess' friends. The guest list will include members of the young married contingent, the debutante set, their guests and escorts from Columbus and Fort Benning.

* * *

MEMBERS OF THE D. U. S. A. TO GIVE FASHION SHOW MAR. 4

Plans are being made for the fashion show at the Polo Hunt Club on March 4th, which will be sponsored by the Fort Benning chapter of the Daughters of the United States Army. Gowss of every description depicting the fashions for the coming Spring and Summer will be shown. Beautiful evening and tea gowns, sport and street costumes, snappy riding apparel, appealing negligees and the newest and most intriguing of bathing suits will be modelled by Benning's most attractive young matrons and debutantes. Tables seating from four to eight will be arranged around the Polo Hunt Club and during the showing tea will be served. Many reservations for tables have already been made so those wishing to be assured of a table may call either Mrs. John B. Thompson, Mrs. Herbert A. Wadsworth or Miss Phyllis Sargent. Mrs. Wadsworth is in charge of the costuming and Miss Sargent is in charge of the publicity.

* * *

MEDICAL CORPS BRIDGE CLUB MEETS ON TUESDAY

The first meeting of the Medical Corps bridge club was held on Tuesday afternoon at the Nurses quarters at the Station Hospital. Four tables assembled and contract bridge was played. At half past four, a delicious tea was served. Several guests arrived for tea.

The hostesses for the afternoon were: Mesdames Burton A. Seeley, Max V. Talbot, Lindell D. Straube,

(Please turn to page 3)

Today's Fashion

FOR THE SOUTH

By Vera Winston

The frock shown in the accompanying sketch should give a good idea of the sort of thing popular for spring. It is a very pale blue flannel and has several new points. From the seamed yoke a jabot effect is held flat with large ball buttons of silver. Seaming marks the waist and a seam marks the center of the bias skirt. The pale blue is set off with a black kid belt with a silver buckle to match the buttons, and black hat, shoes and gloves.

Junior Dramatists Stage Two Plays

Last Saturday the younger generation of the post had their dramatic innings. Under the direction of Mrs. Chance, a score of young people, aged 10 to 16, put on two one-act plays in the Main Theater, with scenery and make-up and costumes—and very little prompting. The excitement back stage ran high.

In the first play, a fantasy, the scene was dominated by an heroic buterfly, made by Peggy Arnold, who was also the Queen and a very handsome and distressed one. Billy Arms, as the little boy hero, handled his long part remarkably well and showed imagination and poise. The prologue, played by Lucy Ann Schneider, was effective and dignified; little Kathleen Wetherby, as the Milkmaid, was winsome and ethereal; and Jerry Catron, as the Ballad-singer, gave a snappy and direct performance.

We regret that Betty Negrotto, as

(Please turn to page 5)

DOLAN-HENRY
Hat Shop
Announces
New shipment of hats, just received, in lace and rough straws. Price range from $2.95 to $7.50.
We solicit Fort Benning charge accounts.

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

REMODELER OF HATS
"A Hat of Yesterday" Redesigned into a "Lastword" creation. Smart new hats to order.
Nicholson Hat Shop
319 Third Nat. Bank Bldg.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
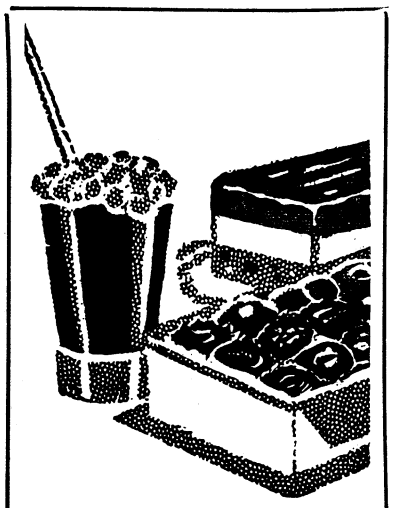
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager



YOU CAN TRY THEM ALL
. . . but you'll end up by using Foremost! Its mellow goodness and evident healthfulness have made many converts, and you're sure to like it, too!
Call the SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

Maternity Dresses
New Spring Silk and Cotton Prints
2426 Tenth Street

The Post Exchange
FORT BENNING, GEORGIA
AN organization whose primary purpose is to supply to the personnel of this post articles of general use which are otherwise not easily obtainable.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

To Ladies of Fort Benning
We have an experienced Graduate masseur and masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday to give Swedish massage in your home. Make your appointments the day before for this service. Reasonable rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial treatments for face, scalp, hands and body.
OUR TREATMENTS INCLUDE:
Russian, Turkish, Mineral Baths; Reducing, Facial, Scalp Massage; Physio, Hydrio, Electro Therapy
Swedish Massage; Swedish Facial Massage; Swedish Scalp Treatments; Turkish Shampoos; Special Reducing Treatment; Swedish Shampoos
Rigdon Health Institute
216 Doctors Building PHONE 1037

SOCIETY

(Continued from page 2)

Robert D. Ward. Arrangements have been made for a meeting of the Medical Corps ladies' bridge club to be held twice monthly.

* * *

CHESS TOURNEY TO BE HELD MONDAY AT OFFICERS' CLUB

Chess lovers will now, along with contract bridge fans, have an opportunity to prove their skill at the game for on Monday, February 27th, the Officers' Club will be the scene of Fort Benning's initial chess tournament. The first and second play will be three round-robins. The second play will be held on Wednesday, March 1st. The two high men in each play will meet on March 6th and 8th to play in the finals. To the winner, the Officers' Club has offered a silver loving cup. Those who have entered are: Maj. Frederick A. Irving, Maj. Albert A. Andrews, Capt. Burton A. Lucas, Capt. Guy L. Hartman, Capt. Walter B. Smith, Capt. Jose F. de Carboba y Gomez, Capt. Raymond E. Vermette, Capt. Loren A. Wetherby, Lieut. Eugenio Bravo y Blanco, Lieut. Eleuterio S. Yanga, Lieut. Richard S. Carpenter, Lieut. Daniel F. Walker, Lieut. Brookner W. Brady, Lieut. James E. Poore, Lieut. Vachel D. Whatley, Lieut. Cleland C. Sibley, Lieut. Russell Blair, Lieut. Charles D. Wiegand, Lieut. Silas W. Hosea, Lieut. Sidney G. Brown, Lieut. Grover C. Brandstadt, Lieut. Washington M. Ives, Lieut. William A. D. Thomas, and Lieut. Edgar Wright.

* * *

JUNIOR CATHOLIC CLUB SPONSORING MARDI GRAS BALL

The Junior Catholic Club, of Columbus, will be the hosts at a dance at the Elks Club in Columbus, tonight. The Mardi Gras will be the central note in the decorations of the Club and music will be furnished by a Columbus orchestra.

PERSONALS

Lieut. and Mrs. Anthony S. Howe wish to announce the birth of a son, on February 20th at the Station Hospital.

Friends of Lieuenant Augustus W. Dannemiller and of Lieut. Julian M. Chappell will be interested to learn that they left Monday for a week's leave prior to reporting to Randolph Field, Texas where they will be detailed in the Air Corps. Both Lieutenants Dannemiller and Chappell graduated from West Point in 1932 and have been with the 29th Infantry since September, 1931.

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 or less

for bills . . education . . travel

●

Check off these advantages:

√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

-:- Things Chinese -:-

FACE IN CHINA

From "The Sentinel"

At first sight nothing can be more irrational than to call that which is shared with the whole human race a "characteristic" of the Chinese. But the word "face" does not in China signify simply the front part of the head, but is literally a compound noun of multitude, with more meanings than we shall be able to describe, or perhaps to comprehend.

In order to understand, however imperfectly, what is meant by "face" we must take account of the fact that as a race the Chinese have a strongly dramatic instinct. The theatre may almost be said to be the only natural amusement, and the Chinese have for theatricals a passion like that of the Englishman for athletics, or the Spaniard for bullfights. Upon very slight provocation, any Chinese regards himself in the light of an actor in a drama. He throws himself into theatrical attitudes, performs the salaam, falls upon his knees, prostrates himself and strikes his head upon the earth, under circumstances which to an Occidental seem to make such actions superfluous, not to say ridiculous. A Chinese thinks in theatrical terms. When aroused in self-defense he addresses two or three persons as if they were a multitude. He exclaims: "I say this in the presence of you, and you, who are all here present." If his troubles are adjusted he speaks of himself as having "got off the stage" with credit, and if they are not adjusted he finds no way to "retire from the stage." All this, be it clearly understood, has nothing to do with realities. The question is never of facts, but always of form. If a fine speech has been delivered at the proper time and in the proper way, the requirement of the play is met. We are not to go behind the scenes, for that would spoil all the plays in the world. Properly to execute acts like these in all the complex relations of life, to have "face." To fail of them, to ignore them, to be thwarted in the performance of them, this is to "lose face." Once rightly apprehended, "face" will be found to be in itself a key to the combination lock of many of the most important characteristics of the Chinese.

It should be added that the principles which regulate "face" and its attainment are often wholly beyond the intellectual apprehension of the Occidental, who is constantly forgetting the theatrical element, and wandering off into the irrelevant regions of fact. To him it often seems that Chinese "face" is not unlike the South Sea Island taboo, a force of undeniable potency, but capricious, and not reducible to rule, deserving only to be abolished and replaced by common sense. At this point Chinese and Occidentals must agree to disagree, for they can never be brought to view the same things in the same light. In the adjustment of the incessant quarrels which distract every hamlet, it is necessary for the "peace-talkers" to take as careful account of the balance of "face" as European statesmen once did to the balance of power. The object in such cases is not the execution of even-handed justice, which, even if theoretically desirable, seldom occurs to an Oriental as a possibility, but such an arrangement as will distribute to all concerned "face" in due proportions. The same principle often obtains in the settlement of lawsuits, a very large percentage of which end in what may be called a draw game.

To offer a person a handsome present is to "give him face." But if the gift be from an individual it should be accepted only in part, but should seldom or never be altogether refused. A few examples of the thirst for keeping face will suffice for illustration. To be accused of a fault is to "lose face," and the fact must be denied, no matter what the evidence, in order to save face. A tennis-ball is missed, and it is more than suspected that a coolie picked it up. He indignantly denies it, but goes to the spot where the ball disappeared, and soon finds it lying there (dropped out of his own sleeve), remarking, "Here is your 'lost' ball." The waiting-woman who secreted the penknife of a guest in her master's house afterwards discovers it under the table-cloth, and obstentatiously produces it. In each case "face" is saved. The servant who has carelessly lost an article which he knows he must replace or forfeit an equivalent from his wages, remarks loftily, as he takes his dismissal, "The money for that silver spoon I do not want," and thus his "face" is intact. A man has a debt owing him which he knows that he shall not collect, but going to the debtor, he raises a terrible disturbance, by which means he shows that he knows what ought to be done. He does not get the money, but he saves "face," and thus secured himself from imposition in the future. A servant neglects or refuses to perform some duty. Ascertaining that his master intends to turn him off, he repeats his former offense, dismisses himself, and saves his "face."

To save one's face and lose one's life would not seem to us very attractive, but we have heard of the Chinese District Magistrate who, as a special favor, was allowed to be beheaded in his robes of office in order to save his face!

Mission At Chapel Ends Last Sunday

The Mission conducted by the Rev. Fr. John T. McGrory ,S. J., at the Catholic Chapel, Fort Benning, during the past week, attracted large congregations every morning and evening. Father McGrory is a very able and forceful speaker, and his sermons on Mission subjects have been most interesting and instructive.

Father McGrory conducted the exercises of the blessing of the infants of the parish at 9:30 Saturday morning. The final sermon to the adults of the Chapel parish was given on Friday evening at 7:00 p. m., Saturday evening was devoted to the hearing of confessions, and on Sunday morning the entire congregation received Holy Communion at the 8:00 o'clock Mass.

A separate mission for the children of the Catholic Chapel was held, with instructions at 4:30 on Friday afternoon and on Saturday at 2:30 o'clock. The children attended Mass last Sunday and received Holy Communion in a body.

The Catholic Chapel Choir, directed by Lieutenant Harry Dowdall with Mrs. Llewellyn Tharp as organist, rendered a musical program at each evening service of the Mission, and assisted at the 8:00 o'clock Mass Sunday.

Dr. R. H. Brown

Osteopathic Physician

Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

It's Time To Plant

Spring is hard upon us, and it behooves all good garden-lovers to begin their planting early. We have every variety of seed you may want, in stock.

H. C. SMITH

DRUG STORE

1002 BROADWAY

KIRVEN'S

Ensemble

is the word meaning "the whole." The idea is, you can get your new spring outfit complete from top to bottom, foundation garment to outer coat, in one place. Of course, that p l a c e is Kirven's. For instance . . . .

Dresses •

In Kirven's Ready-to-wear department a r e chosen with such care and deliberation they lend themselves readily to any ensemble idea you may wish to carry out.

We might mention our $16.75 and $29.75 dresses. In all the new spring materials, such as crepe devine, rough crepe, triple sheer with s w a g g e r coats, or capes, or fur trimmed jackets; in beige, grey, coral, navy, dawn blue and clam shell; in sizes 12 to 40, they fall right into line with our

Hats •

Sailors, Toques, Turbans, Brimmed hats, Shepherdess backs. In all shades of blue as Dawn, Polo, Brigade, Navies, and Black, Brown, and Grey. Materials include Crystal Milan, Souffle Straw, Balli Buntal, Visca and others. P r i c e s vary from $2.95 to $10. One will blend perfectly with Kirven's in a variety of styles, colors and leathers. Kirven's shoes finish off excellently your perfect ensemble. We mention one shoe. Reptile. A fascinating pump or tie in genuine water snake. Fashionable for sports or dress wear. The price is $5.45.

Shoes •

NOW we come to accessories . . . . a bag that complements your shoes, gloves that strike the perfect note, jewelry to give a c o l o r f u l accent, hose in the new spring shades, gay scarfs and bright handkerchiefs.

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II FEBRUARY 24, 1933 NUMBER 44

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Thursday, Feb. 16.

A day of great rejoicing, albeit its half spent on cheval, for it is from this day the span of but a hundred more until graduation. It would indeed delight my soul to deliver an Hundredth night essay at the table of Sahara Sam or the Major Loflolly. Alas, fair, futile fantasy!

Not quite half the day spent on horseback, for to my very astonishment the nag which I bestrode and which was walking slowly on quite level ground in the corral did as mysteriously as suddenly collapse. But that he performed well the remainder of the morning the diagnosis might well have been total paralysis. It does now appear either that he fell asleep or, like the horse which ran head on into trees, he just didn't give a damn.

Sibley, upon return from our four hour equitation period, to playing chess, as he said "to keep my mind off my work." It would appear logical that pool, billiards, or chinning the bar would be efficacious from the anatomical standpoint.

Eight hours of riding were more satisfactorily distributed over eight weeks than successive half days.

Honored by the presence of the Seniors in our class room at one P. M. to hear with us the technique of river crossings. Col. Jenkins a bit disappointing in his enunciation that he was going to give us some instruction in night work. Ho hum. Well, maybe the Advanced Class needs it.

A regular field day for lecturers, all departments appearing on the platform except the medical, which latter we had surely believed would present the case of what to do in case of seasickness in a pontoon. All other angles of the situation were covered. Like enough Major Dabney's good sense dictated the uselessness of instruction. If the situation arise the victim will do the right thing without prior coaching.

Major Loblolly did inject realism into the situation by his personal demonstration of the restlessness on a raft of the four-footed hybrid common to escort wagons. The first section doubtless relieved by the stamp of approval placed on their ideas by the major in his epic "That is substantially correct" following Col. Jenkins' remarks.

Friday, Feb. 17.

As one can tell this day by the odor of cooking fish so might he also determine the scheduling of machine gun instruction by observing the precipitation. But for the Third Section's most out-of-luck committee this portion of Georgia had ere now been drought stricken.

The afternoon most interestingly spent in solving a map problem. Smyly, a bit depressed by closely approaching the approval solution for, said he "There is nothing in store for me in tactics but U's. I used up all my good guesses today."

Next week's schedule out this afternoon. What with two exams, a twenty-mile test ride, an all day carry-your-lunch maneuver, and an overnight problem Moore opines that this week is like to be as hard on us as Christmas vacation.

Monday, Feb. 20.

Our last session, saving the examination tomorrow, in motors. I cannot but feel that the course has done me as much good as our previous one in electricity during which I had to call on the plumber to repair a leaky door bell. So attuned is my ear to engine sounds that I would have but to hear a knock to class it as probably Opportunity and let it in to stay. Only the most bountiful Santa Claus can stay my downfall on tomorrow's writ for, Lord, I should not recognize the transmitter from the universal hang-out were they to meet me on the street tagged with their respective names.

Cooper, who did purchase a new automobile at the outset of the motors course, has definitely arrived at the conclusion that it will be the last car purchase required of him in his lifetime. He reasons that if he but follow the excellent precepts so recently cast at us by the Tank Section this new car should last until he is a general at which time, a car then being furnished him, he can abandon the one just now purchased.

Some perturbation in the class over the test ride from Eelbeck scheduled for the morrow and a concerted effort appears to be afoot in the class to have authorized the use of private transportation. Robinson is reported as having been excused from the ride by the veterinarian who is ever alert to give the horses preventive medicine.

Tuesday, Feb. 21.

I doubt not that I may expect at any time now a call from General Motors or at any rate the Infantry Board when my idea revolutionizing the automobile industry comes to light. On the question in Motors exam this morning regarding procedure in starting an engine I did start mine without turning on the ignition switch. There is money in that idea —if Major Henry doesn't grade my paper.

Wednesday, Feb. 22.

The birthday anniversary of the immortal George appropriately celebrated by the chopping of wood. Following the twenty-mile horseback jaunt of yesterday it did seem to me that this holiday were better spent doing useful work than standing all day in idleness.

The urge to be useful has, I am told, completely overtaken one of the Junior O'Flahertys as evinced by his question, "Daddy, when I grow up to be as big as you are can I help build the Officers' Club, too?"

—Lt. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

SERVANTS—WHY THEY SHOULD BE EXAMINED

If you remember, Garrison Regulations Sec. XXI states that the employer of a servant will cause that servant to report to the office of the Provost Marshal within 48 hours. The servant is then given a white card which serves as a temporary identification and which must be presented to the attending Surgeon who is required to make a physical examination.

This examination is conducted to prevent the spread of contagious diseases to yourself and family. It is one of the best of the methods which we take to prevent spread of disease. To be effective, however, your servant should be examined every six months or at least at intervals which are never longer than one year.

Children are especially liable to contract communicable diseases. It is our children whose health we must safeguard. Many mothers allow servants to care for their children. It is unthinkable that a mother should employ a nursemaid whom she knew to have tuberculosis. Such a thing, provided the mother knew it, could never happen. Most of our servants are of the colored race which is more susceptible to tuberculosis than white. Why take a chance of your children contracting tuberculosis from a servant.

This is only a part of the story. There are other diseases which can be easily passed on from the servant to your child or to yourself. One of the most horrid of these is syphilis. Another is gonorrhoea. Both of these diseases are very common in the colored race.

Why take a chance with these diseases?

Accidental infections with syphillis and gonorrhoea are not uncommon. They have occurred at Fort Benning; they can be prevented in so far as servants are concerned.

Within the last six months over two hundred families on this post have been notified that they have failed to have their servants examined.

There may be others; are you one of them? Servants need periodic physical examination. For your protection and that of your family, you yourself are responsible that they get it.

Advanced Classics

Consensus of Kriz Hall student opinion has it that, in their supply instruction, Major Hearn and Captain Paul have been putting over one of the most satisfactory and instructive courses of the scholastic year; that they have been doing a mighty good job of making a potentially uninteresting subject interesting.

Even to such battle scarred supply veterans as Gene Behan and Hennery Kelly, there has been apparent in the two pedagogues a sincerity, an enthusiasm for their subject which has been somewhat of an inspiration. (The two instructors under discussion may obtain the writer's code number from the editor of The Benning Herald.)

While even Cleon Williams, the big "A" boy of the class, on occasion cooks the "A" ration when the "B" would be more appropriate and Wilbur "Night Attack" Dunkelburg—who, report would have it, reecived a total of 252 points out of a possible 250 on his first report card—sometimes completely forgets the officers' bedding rolls, the exodus of May 27 will see foisted on the American military establishment, the Cuban army, and the Marine Corps one hundred (100) officers who know a helluva lot more about the problems of supply than most of that group of graduates ever expected to know.

A regret is expressed that only two hasty hours could be devoted to the subject of supply of motorized outfits. We incline to the belief that that's not the fault of Messrs. Hearn and Paul. It seems to be The System. Motorization, mechanization, tanks, and air corps—for that matter, anything developed along military lines since the fracas around Jettersville—seem fated in service schools to be relegated, and none too graciously, to an odd hour here and there.

Fifteen years hence, we suppose, map problem advance guards will be found plodding along the Taneytown highway on hoof in broad daylight, though fifteen years ago, so we gathered from personal experience and other monographs, the Infantry sought the kindly mantle of darkness for all its movements—and those in trucks. As a refresher course student, L. de W. Harp, to his amused amazement, plus snorts, will still find himself compelled to assume that there are no tanks, no planes, no motors. The solution, of course, is that then, as now, one Red fast tank would bust up eighty-nine percent of The School's problems in tactics. (We would say 95 percent, but we can't spell 90.)

Having cited our weekly and griped our weekly gripe, upon information which we believe to be reliable but will not guarantee, we report the following Monday morning conversa-

(Please turn to page 5)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

MUSICAL ADVENTURE

"Tall silver songs for King Saul"—Auslander.

We had a musical week-end. To those who know us casually this bit of information may come as a surprise but not to those who know us well. This isn't altogether because those who know us best have long since ceased to lift their eyebrows when they observe us participating in some activity in which we have previously evinced no interest and for which we have shown no talent. Our intimates know that we like music. While we neither play nor sing—much, we are always ready to lend aid and comfort to those who can do either or both. At parties where singing is indulged in we are frequently in evidence prompting some gifted but forgetful soloist—supplying the words that go with the tune and thereby making ourself as useful as our limited accomplishments permit. We used to turn the music for attractive women pianists but we had to give that up. Being what might be called a musical illiterate, we couldn't tell from the score when to turn the page, which embarrassed us and annoyed the players. Now we just sit and listen but we do that well.

The point that we wish to leave with our readers is that we really enjoy good music, even if Brother Leard hasn't urged us to sing one of the male leads in "The Debutante." We don't speak the language but we know the name of several of the best composers and what is more, we can pronounce them so as not to make an ardent opera fan wince. We never fail to include the "t" sound in Mozart and we are also hep to the fact that it is "Vagner" and not "Wagner". In brief, our standing in local musical circles is not dissimilar to that we maintain among the horse fanatics. We aren't one of the high priests but we have the entree to the temple.

The above is by way of a prelude to a few remarks that we make apropos of the concert of the Community Concert Association which we attended last Friday. Mr. Nelson Eddy, baritone, was the vocal artist and Mr. Theodore Paxon officiated at the piano. Earlier in the week we regretted that the present state of our finances did not admit of our journeying to Atlanta that night to hear Laurence Tibbett, but after Mr. Eddy unlimbered his musical artillery we had no regrets.

We are unable to write a critique of the performance, because, as previously stated, we don't speak the language. The technical terms that we have at our command are inadequate to describe this troubadour's magnificent voice. It carried us far up the slopes of Parnassus and made us, for the time being, a familiar of the gods. Had we come home from the concert and written our weekly contribution to the Flare while the inspiration was on us, we might have left something in the files of the Benning Herald for posterity to admire, but we didn't. Instead we were privileged to foregather with a company of more discriminating, tho no more appreciative, devotees of song, to hear more and even better selections from the repetoire of the talented gentlemen who had already given us an evening long to be remembered.

At this informal concert Messrs Eddy and Paxon were reinforced by our own Mrs. Eley. Duets were in order and, take it from your scribe, the Eddy-Ely vocal team is something to write home about. Did they have to be coaxed? They did not. There was an atmosphere of spontaneity about the proceedings that made this midnight concert a perfect climax to the prelude of the earlier hours.

The next night we were fortunate—or shall we say brazen—enough to get in on another informal gathering at which the same trio was present. Three periods of high-brow music in two days is a record for us but we should love to do it again if Mr. Eddy were scheduled to play a return engagement in Columbus before we have to say a sad farewell to Benning.

With those of our dear readers who like music and who are not departing this year, we leave this suggestion. Get a season ticket to the Community Concert Association and don't miss Nelson Eddy if he comes this way.

INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES—NO. 3

"Colonel Wallace," asked the Special Agent innocently, "what about the future of animals in the army?"

"They have no future—and they're worthless now," replied the Chief of the Tank Section. "Why for the price of the leather now used at the stables you could buy a whole fleet of light trucks—and they'd be a whole lot more efficient than a pile of saddles. Seems to me most riders don't use the saddles for what they were intended anyway. Do you know what it costs per mile to run an escort wagon around this post?"

"Figure it out for yourself sometime," said the Chief Tanker.

"Really, I wouldn't know how to start," confessed the Agent. "Do you mind if I ask Mrs. Schneider to help me. She's been to Heidleberg, Upsala, and all the schools—"

"The answer is 13 cents—mostly feed," interrupted the Colonel purposely, just as Mrs. Schneider who had overheard the interview, faced about.

"Surely that can't be right, Colonel," spoke up Mrs. Schneider. "Haven't you left out a few little items in your calculation?"

"Like what?" asked the Colonel.

"Like what we put on the lawn to make it grow," said Mrs. Schneider meekly with downcast eyes.

"By jove, you're right," spoke the Colonel as he marched off, "and, by the way, that reminds me that I've got to sign up for the drag hunt to-morrow."

"Rotten mathematicians these Tank people," sighed Mrs. Schneider, "always beginning at the wrong end."

And the special agent agreed.

ET TU BRUTE

Impersario Aloysious O'Flaherty, in addition to his regular job of directing "The Debutante" is helping Captain (Lone Wolf) Golightly construct the new Officers' Club.

Now it so happens that the Wolf and his assistant have suffered much annoyance from people who are forever asking when the club will be finished. As everybody knows who has ever built an Officers' Club, a building of such proportions does not spring up overnight like a mushroon. Progress is necessarily slow and there may be days on end when no perceptible gain can be noted by one driving along Wold Avenue in a car. After one of these periods when the club seems to be getting no nearer completion fast, the two big construction men get decidedly sensitive about questions and remarks which seem to imply that maybe they aren't getting results.

(Please turn to page 5)

THE FLARE
(Continued from page 4)

One day last week the Impersario was taking his four-year old son, Pat Jr. over the works. Pride was in the lad's eye as he surveyed his father's achievement—pride and aspiration to be like that too.

"Dad" said the youngster, "can I help you finish this when I get to be a big man?"

NO MORE FREE SHOWS

The Glee Club management wishes us to announce that the rehearsals for dancing numbers for "The Debutante" are no longer open to the general public.

Since Mrs. Dickerson's ponies donned their cute abbreviated workout costumes, tired business men have been flocking to rehearsals in such numbers as to interfere with the functioning of the Biglerville Mess. Also there is the possibility that prospective repeat customers of the Glee Club may get blase and not buy tickets for both performances. Finally, these dance numbers being in the nature of an athletic contest only two weeks off, it is high time that Coach Dickerson inaugurated secret practice.

—E. F. H.

ADVANCED CLASSICS
(Continued From Page 4)

tion:

May: "Orryl, my lad, what's making you look so old."

Robles: "Yes, five of them."

May: "Trying to keep young, you say?"

Robles: "Trying to keep young."

Our assistant sleuth for dramatics sends in the report that Malin Craig, who was to have been cast as a puddle cleaner in the production of "We Shall Gather at the River" originally scheduled for this evening, has been contracted to play the part of a traffic light on "The Road to Rome." And that Georgie Clark refused the offer to play the female lead in "The Debutante," deeming that role insincere, incongruous, and incompatible with his activities during the recent Vulgarian invasion.

Bovey Hall, after extensive personal investigation, reports that, Reference Data not withstanding, it will be pitch black at 6:00 p. m. this eve and just as inky at 5:45 a. m. on the morrow, not only on the Fort Benning map, but at Fort Benning per se. "I Gotta Another Half Minute" Bassett's estimation of the situation is that the discrepancy is merely another artifice of the First Section to make the students work an hour overtime.

When Lieutenant Colonel Elmer Rice, 29th U. S. Infantry, removed himself from the Kriz Hall rostrum some seven days ago, Andy Andrews was heard to exclaim: "That bird's (Andy meant bird, though he said "byd" or words to that effect) keen. I'd like to serve under a bird (byd) like that." Which was another consensus of opinion. The lieutenant colonel's observations on animals, and their value on the field of battle, caused the Fifth and Sixth Riding Platoons, under the direction of Knudsen, to arise en masse to deliver an ovation. In ten minutes the lieutenant colonel imbued us with nearly as much enthusiasm for motorization as did Major Henry in his entire course—and that's near lese majesty. Please, Mister Authorities, let us hear more from this Lieutenant Colonel Rice. He has a way about him, that bird (byd).

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00

Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit isued at 3 per cent. per annum

Home of the

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

February 20, 1933.

Major Emil W. Leard,
President, Fort Benning Glee Club,
Fort Benning, Ga.

My Deard Major Leard:

I was indeed deeply interested in your letter relating the progress of the Glee Club's coming production and I want to thank you for writing me at this time. From past experience I know how busy you all are as the date of the performance approaches and I doubly appreciate your thinking of me and giving in detail the line-up for this year's show.

When I think of the terrific turnover in talent the club sustains each year and reflect on the excellent work of many that have gone before, it is again gratifying to know that the club continues with unabated talent and I am sure all of these old Glee Clubbers join me in wishing this years club the greatest success.

Benning is again fortunate to have such excellent material for it's glee club show. I wish I could in some way drop in on this years production and enjoy Mrs. Eley's beautiful voice and chuckle at Lieutenant Raymond's and Mrs. Reeder's interpretation of Ezra Bunker and his wife. Then too, one of my greatest thrills has always come from the good old chorus gang and it's splendid singing.

I feel certain from your description that you not only have a well balanced but talented cast and that backed up with such directors as Mr. Vondereau, O'Flaherty, Bell, Mesdames Wadsworth, Brady, Hanna and Cota, your show will be a knockout.

Please give my best regards to my old friends in the club and together with the new ones extend my sincerest wishes for a grand and glorious success;

With kindest regards, I am

Most sincerely,
W. L. REED
Colonel, 12th Infantry.

GLEE CLUB PROMISES FINE PRODUCTION
(Continued from page 1)

It's characteristically of Victor Herbert and, as every one knows that's saying a lot. Furthermore, Professor Vondereau, music director, will see to it that justice is done to Herbert's music.

Now, even this did not satisfy Lieutenant O'Flaherty, who is director general of the show, so a beautiful pony ballet bedecked in gorgeous costumes is to present three original dances. Some say the pony chorus will "steal" the show from the stars of the cast.

Real Stars

And, speaking of stars there will be real ones too. For instance there is M real ones too. For instance there is Mrs. W. S. Eley, whose stage name is Dorothy Githens, who will sing the leading role. Mrs. Eley, who has sung Grand Opera with the San Carlos Company, needs no introduction to the music lovers of Columbus and Fort Benning. She will have excellent opportunity in "The Debutante" do display her talent. For those who love singing, a real treat is in store, not only in the solos, duets, and quartettes, but also in the ensemble numbers by a well balanced chorus.

Then, there will be a specialty dance number by Miss Jacquelin Cowley, recently of Hollywood, who will dance the "Rumba." Miss Cowley is a visitor at Fort Benning—a guest of Mrs. C. K. Harding, and the daughter of Maj. A. D. Cowley, Inf., of Los Angeles, and the Glee Club considers itself fortunate in obtaining her services.

Three Shows In One

On the whole, the Glee Club production this year has three shows in one; an operetta, a splendid comedy and a vaudeville performance. Anyone who wishes to enjoy an evening of superb entertainment cannot afford to miss it. A ticket sale is being conducted at the Officers' Club at Fort Benning and at Humes Music Store in Columbus.

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, February 21

While Benning's First Class Girl Scouts were having their secret with Mrs. Matchett in the big room of the cabin, the rest of us finished up some work on our tests. Mrs. Brown brought her sewing machine, so some of us worked on our signalling flags. We also sang some songs to get in practice for Friday. By the time you read this the Court of Awards will possibly be over, but if not, be sure to come!

Pine Tree Troop

Wednesday, February 22

Today was a big day for us! Mrs. Matchett came up and invested six girls! We're all Tenderfoot now, and some are working on Second Class, some on First Class, while by Friday, we will have one already First Class.

During the meeting today, we practiced songs, including the tongue-twisting "Prophylactic Pup"! We finished up last minute tests such as fire-building, and then took a rest playing games.

We fully expect to have a wonderful rally on Friday!

JUNIOR DRAMATIC CLASS
(Continued From Page 2)

the Blind Man, was omitted from the programme, but we were soon made aware and unforgettably, of her part in the play. Margie "Monona" Heileman, playing the role of a member of the audience, asked questions which were answered by the prologue. Last but not least, Howard Wilson, as the Dreadful Headsman, struck terror to the hearts of all and made the Little Boy tremble.

This younger group was natural and spontaneous and the audience enjoyed seeing them enjoy themselves.

The older group was more restrained and though most of them had never trod the boards before they gave a very creditable performance and showed development and promise. They all looked lovely, even Robin, the bashful country yokel, played by Anne Brown in a rag wig. Anne, by the way, gave a distinct and charming characterization.

Frances Swift made a polished and graceful Prince, a handsome foil for the lovely blonde Cinderella of Matile Griswold. Cinderella's was a long part and Matile deserves honorable mention for carrying it through.

Frances Lewis, the maid, was always in character and her clear voice and diction were easily understood.

Virginia Wadsworth, as the seductive Arabella, adequately filled a minor part.

These plays were the culmination of Mrs. Chance's dramatic classes for children.

Ford

Reconditioned Cars

Most Any Kind
At Prices You Can Afford to Pay
Terms to Suit
Your car taken in trade same as cash.

LOOK OVER OUR STOCK TODAY

Burrus Motor Co.

FORD DEALERS

1216-22—1st Ave.
Phone 3500

Military Supplies

Army Caps

Stetson Regulation Hats

Wool & Cotton Shirts

Tietzel Boots & Puttees

Leggings Riding Crops

White Shirts

Black Ties

Alligator Raincoats

Post Exchange
Clothing Department

Jimmie King, Mgr.

Chancellor Co.

New Spring Hats
$3.50

Spring Suits
$18.50 $21 $25.00
Single
and Double-Breasted
Grays - Tans - Blues

Chancellor Co.

See Our Windows

Charge Accounts Solicited

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Smith And Murphy Fight To Draw

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Chalk up another pair of victories for Death, the great all-time boxing champion, who "always comes back."

* * *

The passing of "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, the last of the old guard brought grief to the followers of fistiania. It was Corbett who introduced science and strategy into boxing. Two of his battles have gone down in ring history as among the greatest ever fought, his 61-round fight with Peter Jackson, negro heavyweight, and his 21-round knockout victory over John L. Sullivan, the Boston Strong Boy.

* * *

Corbett, the son of a stable owner, early developed a feverish ambition to enter the fighting game. He first came to the attention of the fans when he fought a sensational 61-round draw with Peter Jackson, acclaimed by some as the greatest fighter of all time. This battle earned him the right to oppose the Boston Strong Boy, John L. Sullivan, the idol of the boxing world, for the championship of the world.

* * *

Sullivan was the unbeatable at that time, the juggernaut who could batter down the human resistance without an exception. Corbett was a scientific fighter, unheard of in those days, and in the opinion of almost everybody, a set-up for the mighty Bostonian.

* * *

Once before the fight took place, John L. was carousing in a saloon and with his customary bravado was daring anyone in the premises to fight him. Corbett happened to be in the same saloon and the challenge included him.

* * *

Without a tremor, "Gentleman Jim" approached the Strong Boy and said simply, "I wouldn't say that if I were you". For a few brief seconds, it seemed likely that the world's championship would be staged in a saloon.

Suddenly a broad smile broke over the features of old John L., who was good-natured at heart and an admirer of genuine courage, and he seized the hand of Corbett and shook it vigorously.

* * *

For four rounds, "Gentleman Jim" played with Sullivan, drawing him out and locating his weaknesses. In the fifth he stepped in and broke John L.'s nose with a terrific right hook. The ring never knew a more courageous fighter than the Boston Strong Boy, who for twenty-one rounds withstood awful punishment.

* * *

Corbett held his championship for five years before Fitzsimmons' famous solar-plexus punch sent him writhing in pain to the canvas. Twice he tried to regain his title but failed both times. After being knocked out by Jeffries in the tenth round, he decided to lay up the gloves and from then on, take only a passive interest in boxing.

* * *

The ring has lost one of its staunch defenders in "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, who occupies a prominent seat in the hall of boxing fame. His indomitable spirit will continue to have a part in the directing of the destinies of the fighting game.

* * *

The second great loss to the ring was Ernie Schaaf, the blond Boston giant, who died last week from the effects of punches received at the hand of Primo Carnera, the Italian Colossus. It is now definitely established that, when Ernie, whose burning ambition was to enter the priesthood, climbed through the ropes to meet Carnera, he was suffering from an inflamation of the brain.

* * *

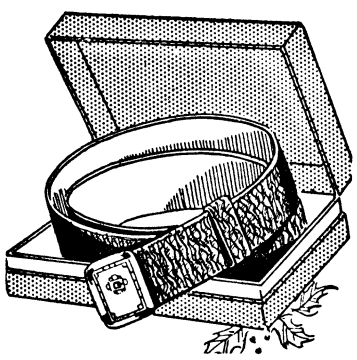
The continual rain of heavy punches on his head aggravated the condition and, in the thirteenth round, Schaaf collapsed from sheer weakness Newspaper reporters, who at first condemned the fight as "fake", were quick to readjust their opinion when Ernie failed to recover consciousness until an hour and a half later.

The attendant surgeon pronounced his condition as serious, perhaps fatal. After a gallant fight for life, Ernie was finally forced to give in.

* * *

Schaaf, too, occupies a high place in

(Please turn to page 7)



COWHIDE
Belt and Buckle
WITH YOUR INITIAL
SPECIAL 99c
POCKET WATCHES
BRACELET WATCHES
SET RINGS
SILVERWARE
CLOCKS
PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway

Main Go Tops An Excellent Card Before Big Crowd

Harold Murphy of Chicago and Walker "Cyclone" Smith, army battler, fought ten rounds to a draw last Friday night before one of the largest indoor fight crowds of the season. The final go topped an excellent supporting card, which saw Rip Tetherton defeat Baby Stribling, Chick Liddell turn back Jack Harp, and Scrip De Olive win the decision over Dapper Doyle.

Murphy came out fast, missing a right swing to the jaw as Smith backed away. The Chicago heavyweight, who brought his left to the attention of the fans in his fight with Ching Johnson, began using it repeatedly but failed to find a ready target. Harold's boxing superiority over the rugged soldier was clearly apparent as Smith missed frequently. Both boys used the first round to warm up and the honors were even, a shade to Murphy.

Smith began working on Harold's midsection with short trip hammer blows that carried plenty of steam behind them. Murphy scored often with lefts but could not keep the soldier away as he had kept Ching Johnson away. The Cyclone continued to bore in, shooting those hard punches to the short ribs and to the region of the heart.

In the fourth round, Smith landed heavily with rights to the jaw. Murphy was using all his ring lore now and tying up the soldier in the clinches. In the sixth round, Murphy landed a right to the jaw that shook Smith up but the army mauler came right back and a few seconds later dropped Harold with a sledge hammer blow above the heart. Referee Johnson began the count but Murphy came to his feet almost immediately.

For the rest of the round, Harold endeavored to keep the soldier away and succeeded. The two were fighting on even terms at the bell.

In the seventh period, Smith dropped Murphy with a heavy blow to the body. The punch was clearly low, and the fight was held up, as Harold writhed around on the floor. A five minute rest period was declared in accordance with the latest rule concerning foul blows. Murphy had the option of having a physician examine him to determine whether he was too injured to continue fighting. The Chicago battler, however, showing commendable sportsmanship, expressed the desire to continue.

Rested, Murphy came out and opened up a cut above the soldier's eye with a left. He landed several hard uppercuts which disconcerted Smith.

The eighth round saw plenty of action with Smith having a clear edge. The fighters came out swinging in a wild flurry, Walker had all the better of it. A right to the stomach slowed up Murphy visibly. Smith nailed his opponent with a right to the jaw, then three successive overhand rights to the head. Near the end of the round, Murphy landed a hard left to the kidneys and Smith groaned.

Smith came out for the ninth determined and Murphy likewise. In the course of the round, Smith landed heavily to the body with rights and Harold retaliated. The army mauler caught Harold with a right hook to the button which hurt the Windy City boy.

The tenth round was fast and furious with both boys tired but willing. Smith had an edge as he nailed his opponent several times with short rights to the midsection.

The verdict of a draw was a popular decision. It was a great fight from

SLANTS ON POLO

The following is an article found in a West Point Howitzer written after two years of polo at the Academy. It gives an answer to the question, "What appeal has the game of polo."

* * *

Crack—out from the bunch of struggling men and horses shoots a little white ball. The bunch breaks suddenly and strings out in pursuit of the ball with one man distinctly in the lead. Stick poised in the air, he urges his willing pony down the field. Behind him he hears the beat of hoofs as the others race after him. The pony, as much in the game as his rider, hears the ponies behind and tears along after the ball like a shot. To see the pony lay himself to his task, to feel his body working at its best to outdistance the others, to hear your pursuers so close behind and to feel the rush of air so welcome to your heated body, all these send through your veins a wave of exultation and an irrepressible desire to yell. You are almost on the ball. The pony gives one last bound to bring you up with it. With one hand on his withers you rise in your saddle and with a long free swing make your stroke. In the brief instant when you hear your stick meet the ball with a sharp crack, when you feel that you have won in the race down the field, you fully understand how a man who has tried the other games now played can without hesitation declare that polo is THE sport.

To the man who likes keen competition and personal contact and danger that it holds, it is to him that this article is addressed. What is more exciting than the race for the ball when the ponies are neck and neck and their riders are trying to ride each other off? How good it seems when your pony by a well-timed spurt forces the other off and gives you a clear shot at the ball. Even if you are the unlucky one you still derive some satisfaction accidentally disturbing your opponent's seat by bumping him with your shoulder.

Polo is played by periods with just enough time between to change mounts. The ponies get the rest and not the players. Each period is play-

(Please turn to page 7)

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

Athletic Equipment

THE Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete service on all types and all grades of athletic equipment. Telephone 608.

Post Exchange

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Stribling Defeated By Tetherton SPORTS

Special Units Bowlers Win In Benning Intra-Mural Tourney

| Team | No. Games | Av. No. Pins Per Game | Most Pins 1 Game | Won | Lost | Percent Won |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| S. U. 29th | 39 | 867 | 1000 | 30 | 9 | .769 |
| .. S. D. (Green) | 39 | 871 | 981 | 28 | 11 | .718 |
| 1. S. D. (Blue) | 39 | 815 | 949 | 24 | 15 | .615 |
| Co. E. 1st Eng. | 39 | 859 | 966 | 20 | 19 | .513 |

Winning both halves of the Fort Benning intra-mural bowling tournament, the Special Unit bowling team copped championship honors with the record of thirty victories out of a total of thirty-nine games played.

The Greencords of the Infantry School Detachment gave the Special Units a close battle in both halves but were beaten by a nose at the finish. The Greencords copped honors for the highest average of pins per game with a total of 871, against the Spcial Units 867. The champions turned the highest number of pins in one game with a high run of 1000 points.

The tournament began in November 1932, and came to a close February 18th. Eight teams were entered but four teams withdrew at the close of the first half.

SLANTS ON POLO
(Continued from page 6)

ed at top speed with never a dull moment. Every second is filled with action. No one can play the game and be indifferent. Even the laziest man, seized by the excitement of it all is wonderfully transformed. At the end of a period you dismount, hustle over to your next pony and are back on the field just in time to resume play. When the final whistle blows and you slide from your tired mount you need no further proof that polo is a strenuous sport.

* * *

"How come you let that flat footed Green team beat you Redlegs?" asked one of the prominent artillerymen.

"They musta got mad at something" volunteered a bystander.

"They did," spoke up Haskell, "one of my Billygoats told Sherburne to go easy on them and to remember he was once only a poor foot soldier himself, and I spoke right up and said he'd been trying to live that down for a long time."

"Must have made the Billygoats awful mad," mused the artilleryman.

"They sure saw red," replied Haskell innocently.

* * *

It has been reliably reported that in respect to Chief Long Drawers' recent interview, all artillery lieutenants except Cobb have abandoned fancy colored and hand monogramed unspeakables.

* * *

Someone has suggested that many of the spectators are unable to recognize individual players on the field. In order to assist the bystanders, therefore, a few of the pet expressions used may help in the identification.

Mack Munroe: "Well—which way are we going now?"

Hawf Point Lucas: Absolute silence.

Chief Thompson: "Canter-CANTER-CANTER" (slow polo).

Lockett: "Doggone it there's something wrong today."

Nichols: "You'll get killed some day doing that."

Arch Arnold: "Easy now—easy."

Blue: "Whoa—whoa—whoa."

Bevan: "Get out of the way."

Cushman: Censored.

* * *

It has been observed that nearly all the polo players who turned out for the "Road to Rome" got the gate. Besides being too rough on elephants, these candidates were found too undisciplined and were entirely too unruly as Carthaginians. Their dramatic qualifications have not been commented on.

* * *

The forty days of rain, day and night, has almost brought about a state of desperation on polo ranks. The restless players having tried various other activities with more or less success have taken up checkers and pingpong. There still remains golf, the very last resort of failing humanity.

MEN

Your best buy in Real Estate is on Fort Benning Road. Invest now and make money. Also houses for rent and sale.

Terms to suit your income.

FRIEDMAN

1027 Broadway

SAFETY DEPENDS . . .

. . . upon many factors, the principal of which is the mechanical efficiency of your car.

Have it inspected as often as possible and use only the best obtainable oils and greases in its moving parts.

AUTO DEPT.

POST EXCHANGE

FORT BENNING, GEORGIA

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Liddell Wins Over Harp In Feature Six Round Bout

Rip Tetherton, Benning welter, won a clear decision over Baby Stribling in the eight-round semi-final. It was an exceptionally fast bout.

The first round was tame as both boys warmed up. Stribling early gave the fans an exhibition of the ring cleverness for which he is well-known by making Rip miss awkwardly as he ducked or weaved under the army boy's punches.

Tetherton was forced to take the aggressive as Strib waited for him to come in. This was agreeable to Rip, who scored often with hard left hooks to the body which had the effect of slowing up Stribling somewhat. In the seventh round, Tetherton opened up and landed several lefts to the body that carried steam behind them. Stribling beat a tattoo on Rip's head in the clinches as the soldier concentrated more or less on the body.

The eighth round also was clearly Tetherton's as he found the range and connected often and hard. The decision in favor of Tetherton was popular. Rip had won a decisive victory.

Chick Liddell was forced to step at top speed for six rounds to defeat Jack Harp of Warm Springs, Ga. Harp was a tough boy but was easily outboxed by the clever Liddell. For the first four rounds, Jack was unable to put a glove on his opponent as Liddell did a dance around him, flicking out his left with lightning rapidity. In the fifth round, Harp came back to take the edge, but the anxiety went to Chick as he connected with hard rights and lefts to the jaw time after time.

Scrip De Olive, speedy New Orleans bantamweight, justified the reputation he brought with him from his home town by outsmarting Dapper Doyle in six rounds of fighting to win the decision over the soldier. Scrip weaved, bobbed, rolled, sidestepped, and bounded all over the ring and Dapper did not know where to aim his punches. The first four rounds saw Doyle in a desperate attempt to locate the missing Scrip De Olive; that the New Orleans boy was somewhere in the ring was certain, but the question was, where? In the fifth round, Doyle solved the problem and got the right answer. In the last two rounds, he connected several times but the decision in favor of Scrip De Olive was the only outcome possible under the circumstance.

"Pop Eye" Long and Grumpy (The Great) Gordy milled around for four rounds with Long copping the duke. Long accumulated most of his points in the clinches when he pounded Grumpy's body with short punches. "Pop Eye" having now defeated Gordy, craves a fight with Mickie Walker.

Herb Yutmeyer, Fort Benning, his hand raised in token of victory in the middle of the third round of his bout with Tony Viggins of Columbus. Tony was game but no match for the hard-hitting medico who had Viggins on the canvas a great part of the third round.

In the curtain raiser, Kayo Branch, 24th Infantry, won a decision over Babbling Brooks in a three-rounder that was full of action from start to finish.

SPORT CHATTER
(Continued from Page 6)

the hearts of those who love boxing for what it is.

* * *

The National Tennis Association took one of the most drastic steps in its history last week when it declared a national tennis tournament, open to professionals and amateurs alike, in 1933. It has long been a moot question whether tennis professionals were superior to amateurs. This question now has a fair chance of being settled for good and all in the years to come.

The move of the Association as a big step forward in the right direction. It will serve to materially increase the popularity of a game which is on the upgrade anyway.

:-: Tank Notes :-:

Last Tuesday morning the Christie Platoon went to war with the 29th Infantry. The war was of short duration and as usual several things of military value were learned.

One very embarrassing but nevertheless amusing incident occurred. It seems that Lt. Robinson's Christie had some minor motor difficulty in the midst of the enemy and was forced to stop. Instantly it was surrounded and captured by the Reds. It is rumored that someone had thrown the "Smiling Lieutenant's" satchel out of the tank and he stopped to get it. When interviewed Lieutenant Robinson's only statement was, "Is my face red?"

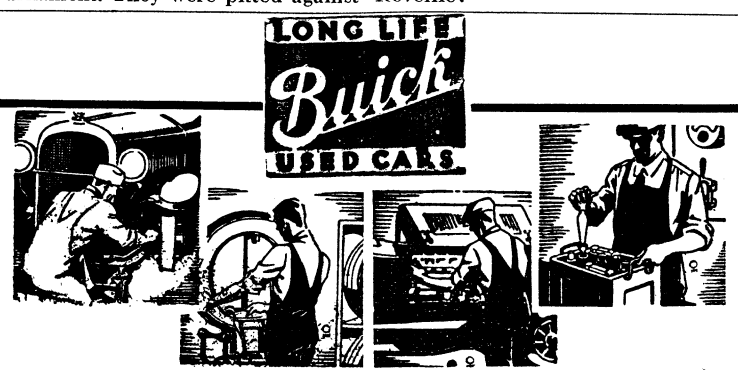
Cadet Yarborough again crashed through for Army in their swimming meet with M. I. T. February 11th. This time Yarborough pulled into third place in the 220 yard Breast Stroke. He was the second army man to finish.

We take this opportunity to congratulate Lt. and Mrs. Rosenbaum in winning the Post Contract Bridge Tournament. They were pitted against some of the best Bridge players in the Army and their overwhelming victory shows the results of careful study, on their part, of the principles of the game. We wish them equal success in future tournaments.

A few days ago while playing in a foursome with Dr. and Mrs. Baird Stuart and Mrs. Stuart, Captain Joe Stuart waltzed up to the fourth tee and sank stroke number one thus becoming the second member of the Sixty-Sixth Infantry to accomplish that feat. Details of the shot are not available but it is believed that it was every bit as spectacular, if not more so, than that of our first member. Lieutenant Keiler. We are sure that "ace" does not qualify for the award offered by us.

"Mexico" Bingham says if Lankford knows where his pass is that is more than he knows and requests that Lankford get in touch with him immediately.

Up in Company E, we know of a Corporal who is sleeping behind locked doors. Is that one way to beat Reveille or is that one way to beat Reveille?



CARS with EXTRA VALUE

1932 BUICK "8" SEDAN—Special paint job—original factory finish—6 wire wheels and trunk rack—We offer this car under regular new car guarantee.

1930 BUICK SPORT COUPE—Clean all the way through—rumble seat and beautiful Special Duco Color.

1931 DESOTO "8" SEDAN—6 wire wheels—trunk rack—brand new tires—perfect mechanical condition—original finish that looks like new.

1929 NASH SEDAN—One of the small Sixes—and the best one in Columbus we believe—new tires and looks like new.

HAVE WELL ASSORTED STOCK OF CHEVROLETS and FORDS—PRACTICALLY ALL MODELS—BODY STYLES AND PRICES.

ALSO SPECIAL ASSORTMENT OF ABOUT 20 CARS—ALL RUNNING GOOD—GOOD APPEARANCE AND GOOD TIRES—PRICED FROM

$25.00

to $195.00

Liberal trades—Terms to suit your convenience.

CLIFF M. AVERETT, Inc.

1441 First Avenue Phone 884

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

Notes on the Regimental Maneuver, three days and two nights February 14, to 16th, inclusive.

The first day Headquarters Company operated the new reconnaissance platoon.

The second day we represented the enemy.

We congratulate our Mess Sergeant, John Falk for the excellent manner in which he fed our men on this maneuver. He fed us fresh milk, fried chicken, one half for each man, steak, etc.

The motor transportation helps the new reconnaissance platoon to function like greased lightning.

We sure do thank our company commander, Captain Porter for making everything so nice for the men on this trip. It was through him that we got a permanent camp established in the theater of operations which made it so fine for the men. His Distinguished Service Cross was one of the best earned during the world war for services rendered. That same spirit is still present in his performance of his duty.

If Sgt. LeBonte had stayed out two weeks and ate with the appetite he had on the maneuvers, it would have put our mess in the hole. It is estimated that he ate enough for five men.

The weather and roads were good on the maneuvers.

We are also proud to know that we have such an efficient staff of N. C. O.'s and enlisted men in general, in the Company.

The following was put under the heading Lucky Breaks:

Letter regarding Sgt. Willie Harrison (better known as Catfish No. 2) has been received asking for recommendations for his appointment as Staff Sergeant in the Ordnance. We all know that the recommendation will be favorable and good luck to you Bill, but sorry to see you leave this company.

—I. M. Yarbrough

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Children's Chapel Choir

Front row, left to right: Grace Hundertmark, Helen Hundertmark, Edith Horton, Mrs. H. W. Beard, Helen Kellam, Betty Foster, Jackie Moore. Rear row, left to right: Cpl. W. B. Brewer, Catherine Justice, Frances Kellam, Kirven Maxwell, Beatrice McNulty, Jane Barkhurst, Dick Justice and Chaplain Willis T. Howard.

The Children's Choir of the Protestant Chapel was organized in September 1932 to comprise a membership of sixteen.

It is the outgrowth of attempts to have a regular choir after other organizations of adults had failed due to the changing of the army personnel. The impression of these youthful voices has done much towards increasing the morning service attendance at the chapel, so every effort is being made to give these children the best training possible with the means afforded. They are showing marked improvement at eac hservice, and the organization, now well established, will be one of promise to Fort Benning along with the strides being made in other improvements in the Infantry School.

The personnel of the choir and chapel is as follows:

Chaplain Willis T. Howard, minister; Corporal William H. Brewer, pianist; Sergeant Albert Garcia, cornetist; Mrs. H. W. Beard, directoress; Mrs. John J. Albright, directoress.

Vocalists

Edith Horton—Soloist

Helen Kellam, Frances Kellam, Mary Hundertmark, Grace Hundertmark, Jackie Moore, *Rose Putchkoff, *Mildred Guthrie, *Elizabeth Wallace, Catherine Justice, Dick Justice, Kirven Maxwell, Beatrice McNulty, *Serena Duncan, Jane Barkhurst, Betty Foster.

*—Not in photo.

83rd Field Artillery

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

A certain Sergeant in this battery has joined the Royal Order of Guinea Chasers. The initiation took place last Saturday evening in the Lodge room located in the vicinity of the Columbus Mill. The degree team wore grass skirts, the sergeant in question rode the goat as goats should be ridden. Before the meeting ended he was elected riding instructor, to instruct the members in the proper aids to be used in riding the goats.

The call letters of the 1st Liaison section in connection with the radio have been changed in order not to conflict with the 2nd Liaison. The call letters will be A. O. H., for further information see Corporal Nahring.

Corporal Colin W. Pike of this battery has received a commission as Second Lieutenant, Field Artillery Reserve. Cpl. Pike is to be congratulated on both his ability and interest as an artilleryman.

Our recruits are now doing duty with the battery. The last two problems found them driving in draft.

We lost one of the old members of the battery (Sad Sam Edwards) by transfer this week. Sam has gone back to his old trade cooking beans for the soldiers. Riding horses doesn't agree with the old soldiers.

BATTERY "C"

With the construction program of supply, orderly room and mess hall completed, we have started a general overhauling of our stables; the gun park will be next in line, so we have plenty of work ahead of us for the afternoons.

There is a marked improvement in the functioning of our B. C. detail. We have more horseholders and orderlies than ever and some of these well trained detail men are able to hold as many as four horses at one time.

The battery fired for service practice from Torch Hill. We arrived at our gun positions at 8:00 a. m. and spent the morning with constructing model gun emplacements with the assistance of approved trail logs, spade supports and platforms. Our gun positions were camouflaged and everything arranged so that we could stay in these positions indefinitely and fire hundreds of rounds of ammunition. The depression however caused us to fire only 33 rounds. We did very well anyhow till our mess sergeant showed his knowledge of artillery. "I doubt whether these nets will be much protection against shell fire" remarked our chief stomach troublemaker.

Corporal Mallard's family has increased and we congratulate him with his fine boy. According to latest reports father and son are doing well.

I. S. D.

Questions about the Organization Day party we would like to have enswered:

What was Sergeant Mowry doing in the corner with the microphone? Why did Captain Pence mistake the M. P.'s for K. P.'s or did he mistake them? . . Where Sergeant "Judge" Lambert got the nerve up to sentence and fine Captain Betts? . . . Who put Wolff in charge of the dancing girls anyway, and what did he mean by it? . . . Which officer was it that tried to short-change Cain for a hamburger? . . . What Gibbs did when the girl fainted in his arms? . . . And why? . . Howcome "Judge" Lambert wouldn't let his girl dance with Sergeant Mowry? . . . What Jazz Magoni meant by by carrying home one of the beer kegs? . . . How many didn't have a good time? And why didn't he?

It has been threatened for some time, and now the daring press comes forth with the truth about those two M. P.'s, one of whom has been accused of having the nails of his pretty little pink toes polished, and manicured and the other of whom bears his sin in plain sight, meaning a pair of plucked eyebrows. No names will be mentioned as the look of guilt on the faces of two of the local gumshoes should be enough to convict them in any court.

Corporal Barney Knox is now the proud owner of one second hand motorcycle, and in the short time that said vehicle has been in his possession Barney has made arrangements to give the Howard Bus Company competition. That is Barney's supposed statement, although Corporal Campbell and Tom Cox are so unkind as to suggest that the reason for the sidecar is that Barney couldn't make the bike alone stand in a vertical position. Such people!

Quite a number of the boys going around this last week with the left arm tenderly nursed and the right soupbone clenched into a warning fist. I wonder why? Somebody ask Hammond or Isham.

TOWN TOPICS

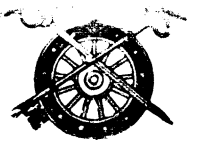
(Continued from Page 1)

was investigated, whereupon it was found that, when the car was washed, the process had removed thick layers of dirt that served the purpose of maintaining the automobile in a state of comparative intactness.



Santa Claus appeared at the Quartermaster Detachment a bit late this season. He arrived last week and bestowed promotions and higher specialist ratings to no fewer than sixteen members of the detachment.

The most prized plums were two sergeant grades, which were awarded to Roy D. Stapp and William F. Roberts, who were formerly Privates First Class, Specialists Fourth Class. Sergeant Stapp is on his first enlistment, and for a long time has had charge of the dry storage at the post commissary. Sergeant Roberts has been acting as mess sergeant, since Sergeant William H. Grider, assumed the duties of chief of counter clerks at the commissary.

The other noncommissioned grade awarded was that of corporal, which was bestowed upon Sollie M. Stuart, who not many months ago was transferred from the local tank battalion. Corporal Stuart handles organization accounts at the commissary.

Other members of the organization who received various and sundry pay increases were: Edward R. Francis, William S. Delancey, George G. Kinzler, George E. Stone, Guy C. Strong, Arthur F. Lemon, Joseph A. Sikarski, Hervey P. Hudson, Hyron D. Perrett, George N. Lee, Willis J. Patrick, Mack W. Roberts and Jesse C. Green.

The detachment has also a number of men who recently reenlisted for the organization. These are: Privates Patrick H. Ford, John C. Miller, John E. Oates, and Leo Stamm. Three men just transferred from other organizations are: Edward J. Lit, William H. Holliday and John Yarbrough.

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c
A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

Engagement and Wedding Rings

Select a diamond ring from our assortment of modern, individual designs. All the stones are finest quality, blue-white. Special mountings may be had in white gold or platinum.
EASY TERMS ARRANGED TO SUIT YOUR INCOME.

GEM JEWELRY COMPANY Columbus, Ga.

Tom's
Toasted Peanuts

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL
We have received another shipment of furniture. Prices lowest in years. Living room suites $49.50. Bed room suites $49.50-$59.00. Lovely tables. Odd chairs.
LET US SHOW YOU
B. L. PENNELL FURNITURE CO.
1249 Broadway

WHAT KIND OF SAUSAGE DO YOU LIKE BEST?
You should serve Sausage at least once a week. If you want that Sausage made like you would make it, (fresh, clean and wholesome) demand that your food store furnish you
OLD SETTLER'S
AND RED ROSE BRANDS
Fresher — Better — Purer
THE PROVISION COMPANY, Inc.

I. S. D. Celebrates Organization Dav Mondav In Rip-Roaring Stvle

By JACK GIBNEY

Monday night, February 20, found many a wondering soldier roaming dazedly around the familiar location but unfamiliar building of the Special Units messhall. Whence had come the roughly-garbed, fiercely mustachioed, pistol-toting crowd that he saw packed in the vast expanse of the dining room? Why the roll of bills that had been generously thrust into his hand as he entered the door? What was all this about? Was that Colonel Wallace he saw rubbing elbows with yesterday's K. P. over at Magoni's Bar? Or was he dreaming that he saw Colonel Peyton being haled before a kangaroo court and fined on one of the most ridiculous charges that could be placed against an executive officer?

But it was all real. It was the celebration of the Infantry School Detachment on the anniversary of the founding of the specialists battalion; and what a celebration it was. Conceived, or as he asserts, resurrected, in the mind of Major Thomas B. Catron, commander of the Detachment, the birthday party of the organization had taken the form of a Frontier Celebration in the best tradition of the Golden West. Forty-niners with the gold-dust under their fingernails, deputy sheriffs with handlebars under their noses like the adornments of a Texas Longhorn, bandits and highwaymen, card sharks and tin-horn gamblers all conspired to make the Roaring Forties roar still louder. $250,000 in special bills on the Bank of Isdale had been printed for use in the various games of chance that went full blast; the restaurant that soaked a hungry man $20 for the humble hot dog; and the bar that charged to the tune of $5 per shot for "red-eye" or "forty-rod," sold elsewhere under the name of soft drinks. $1,000 was issued to each guest as they entered the Casino, and a vast majority of the sum went to the court of justice that tried and fined all and sundry on real and trumped up charges.

To try and mention all the attractions that were to be found in the Last Chance Saloon and Dance Emporium would require a special edition of Webster. A few highlights noted by this humble recorder of things as they are must suffice.

First honors and the palm of award go to Chief of Police Sacramo. What a man, what a man! Togged out in a uniform built for the massive form of Carnera, this 130 pounds of sleuth hounded the Captains of crime round and round the gaming tables, ably assisted by High Sheriff Copass, who handles supply in the academic department during serious moments. The majesty of the law was grievously mishandled, however, when "Thubway Tham" Dodd, of the personnel section, picked the sheriff's pockets while on way to the legal mill presided over by Chief Justice Joe Lambert, the Law West of the Pecos. Barkeeps Magoni, Hall and Mull Hess, befuddled the senses of customers with the terrific "panther sweat" and "tiger milk" bottled by Nehi, Inc.

Faro Crowley, who ran the blackjack game, assisted by High Stakes Mann, had the boys playing the mock money like it was the real long green, and the manner in which Snake Eye Kuykendall and Aces Wild Crandall, ran the dice and poker layouts would have made many of the old-time case-keepers turn green with envy. Nevada Dotson and Bowlegs Eberhardt, big cow and clover men from the wide-open spaces where men and men and women are glad of it, kept the keno table filled up during the entire evening, and the Monte Carlo Kid, alias Tanks Grantham, with Mexico Durden and Papriko Martin, spun the little ivory ball round the wheel till the bank was broken.

Gibbs, president and board of directors of the Cattlemen's Bank of Texas County, rolled in wealth till Yukon Jake Stanford, backed up by Dangerous Dan McElveen, Jesse James Wiggins, and the notorious Dalton brothers, Cooper and Cooper E., relieved him and most of the crowd of a considerable portion of the bogus bills that were circulating so freely.

Killer Cain's Hashhouse, with Terrible Tiny Cochrane as chief meatburner, charged prices that brought tears to the eyes of many a customer. Hamburgers at $50, hot dogs at $20, and coffee going sometimes as high as $250 a cup, removed all doubt that the affair was indeed a reincarnation of the gold-rush days.

And right at this point praise must be spoken for the excellent and practical work done by two members of the Detachment, Gilmore and Semore, who manfully took over the strange job of corraling and riding herd on the younger members of the Detachment family, and looked after their welfare while the elders bucked the tiger in the halls of chance.

By far the most interesting spot of the evening was the court presided over by Judge Lambert. Miss Juanita Peterson was indicted for the kidnaping of Major Catron, Colonel Peyton was found guilty of being drunk and disorderly by the mock court, and Colonel Weeks was accused of the misdemeanor of loitering in the academic area. When asked his name by the law, Colonel Weeks replied "Al Smith," but indignantly denied that he was related to the Chicago Smiths of the same name. Colonel Wallace, Major Kingman, and Captain Bain were arrested on the charge of gambling without a license, Captain Bain pulled a fast one by bribing the deputy sheriffs for a release. Captain Yarborough started to argue with the judge and was fined $400 for committing a misdemeanor, and every time he opened his mouth it cost him $50 additional. For once silence was golden. Sergeant Frank Smith of the orderly room force was dragged before the court for toting a piece of smoked meat in his pocket, and "Fat" Williams was discharged from the force for his inability to arrest any but feminine evil-doers. Captain Bain was observed around the hall offering to lay $2000 against any bank in the house, and ended up by conducting a blackjack game until Chief Sacramo accused him of running a cold deck.

Among those invited to attend the organization day party were Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry, the comandant and staff, the assistant commandant and chiefs of all sections of the academic department, and all commanding officers of the units. General Fuqua expressed his regret at being unable to attend in a letter to Major Catron, but the majority of the others invited to the affair attended, and unanimously pronounced it the biggest and best yet seen at Benning.

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

TYPEWRITER
REPAIRING
All Makes
Stewart Typewriter Co.
1041 Broadway Phone 2622

Fidelity Loan and Investment Co.
1206 First Avenue
Loans made at 8 percent
Payable In 12 Months
We can give 24 hours' service
T. E. BAISDEN, Secy. and Treas.

Jimmie Johnston Retiring Feb. 28th With Fine Record

By AL DURDEN

On February 28, 1933, First Sergeant Jimmie Johnston, Company D, 29th Infantry, will retire from active duty after nearly three decades honest and faithful service as a soldier in the U. S. Army.

SGT. JAMES P. JOHNSTON

Twenty-eight years ago Jimmie Johnston, a youngster just turning into his twentieth year, tired of the hum and bustle of city life of Boston, Mass., and chose the life of the soldier for his life's profession. A glance through the records of the past twenty-eight years show that he followed the trail of his chosen profession through hardships, adventure and pleasure and now on the verge of retirement, the Army points with pride to this veteran as the type of men that is moldd by the Service.

First Sergeant Johnson spent his first three years of service as a member of the 12th Cavalry. Boots and saddles were to his liking, and his second hitch was with the Yellow Cords: this time he took on with the 11th Cavalry. Three hitches with the Cavalry and then he took on with the Ordnance Corps at Watertown Arsenal. We suspect that Jimmie favored the Ordnance because of the fact that he was then stationed in his home town, Boston, Mass.

Completing three years with the Ordnance, Jimmie fell for the vamp of the service, the Infantry. First it was with the 29th Infantry, our own Demonstration Regiment. From the 29th Infantry to the 33rd Infantry, and then back again to the 29th Infantry. He served with the Demonstration outfit in Panama, and holds the distinction of being the first man appointed first class in the 29th Infantry. This occurred in 1916, while he was a member of Regimental Headquarters Company.

First Sergeant Johnston served in Cuba during the Cuban pacification, served in the Philippines on two occasions for a total period of time covering four years. He was stationed at Forts Stotsenburg, Wallace and William McKinley.

During his second year in the service he qualified as a sharpshooter with the rifle. Since that time he has qualified as expert regularly and has also been an expert pistol shot continuously for the past eleven years.

When the 29th Infantry was first designated as a war strength regiment at the close of the war, First Sgt. Johnston was sent to Fort Slocum for the purpose of securing recruits for the regiment. He was in charge of a detail of seven noncommissioned officers. At the end of three weeks, Sgt. Johnston and his detail had shipped 1,300 recruits to Fort Benning. He was personally selected by Major Weeks, who was in charge of all recruiting for the U. S. Army at that time, and was highly commended by him for the splendid work carried on.

He has held the grade of a noncommissioned officer for the past twenty-two years. At the present time he is top kick of Co. D, 29th Infantry. In referring to his organization, the word excellent is the most fitting as well as descriptive that could be used. During his entire military career First Sergeant Johnston has been outstanding as a soldier both in appearance and military bearing.

Of course a man who has been used to an active life like that of Sergeant Johnston, would never be able to sit down and hold his hands. Already Jimmie has accepted a position with Massachusetts State University, as drill instructor. This carries Jimmie back to his home state and also gives him a splendid opportunity to demonstrate that, "The Army Builds Men." Jimmie will enter into his new profession with the good will and best wishes of the Army to urge him on.

COMPANY "A"

There is one Private soldier in the Company, who without exception, is the most boastful man we have in our midst. No matter what conversation is being carried on, he knows more about what has happened than the party who started the conversation. His hobby is telling us about California, especially about his farm in the Imperial Valley and of him working in the largest hotel in San Bernadino. There is not a part of this country that you may speak about that he has not been into. Please, if you don't want to hear a story, don't mention the Philippine Islands, Japan or China or any other country for the Private knows them all, let him tell it. He has relieved the "Speaker" DOLL of his job as speaker of the house in the company. Anything that is about to happen or has happened and is mentioned in a conversation the Private knows about it because he says he is mentioned by someone for some part in connection with whatever happened whether it is good or bad. He seems dissatisfied with himself at times and is always talking about what he is going to do when he gets his discharge. He throws mud on himself trying to throw mud on somebody else, then he has a growl. We surely hope common sense will teach him that it is not the boot that squeaks the loudest that wears the longest, and stop bothering about things he cannot alter.

—W. C. Fritz.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

DIG UP
NEW BUSINESS
With Layouts,
Illustrations,
Copy and Ideas
In the March Service
The Benning Herald

MAJ. GEN. BROWN TO MAKE VISIT HERE AND COLUMBUS

(Continued from Page 1)

School of Application. From Willets Point he was sent to the Philippine Islands where he served two years, 1900-1902 as district engineer, as city engineer of Manila, and as engineer of the Department of Northern Luzon. While on these assignments he was promoted to the grade of first lieutenant on February 2, 1901.

His next assignment, at the completion of his tour of foreign service, was at the United States Military Academy, from January, 1903 to June, 1907, as instructor and assistant professor in the Department of Civil and Military Engineering. He was promoted to the grade of captain, Corps of Engineers, on April 23, 1904.

Then followed approximately one year of duty at Washington Barracks, N. C. 1907-1908 as commanding officer of Company E, 2d Battalion of Engineers, after which he was again given a detail on river and harbor duty, this time as district engineer at Louisville, Kentucky, where he arrived for three years and seven months, 1908-1912. During this tour of duty he selected sites for and constructed a number of locks and dams which are a part of the Chic River slack-water project, recently brought to a successful competion. He was promoted to the grade of major Corps of Engineers, on July 11, 1911.

For the next four years, 1912-1916, he commanded the 2d Battalion of Engineers, first at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and then in succession at Texas City, Texas; Fort Sam Houston, Texas; and in Mexico with the Punitive Expeditionary Force, also serving as Engineer of the Expedition in Mexico.

After this tour of military duty he was again returned to a river and harbor assignment as district engineer at Nashville, Tenn. This tour was terminated in April, 1917 when the United States entered the World War, at which time he was sent to Fort McPherson, Georgia, for duty as instructor in the officers' training camp established at that post.

He was promoted to the grade of lieutenant colonel Corps of Engineers, on May 15, 1917, and was appointed colonel, Engineers, National Army, on August 5, 1917. At that time he was transferred to Camp Wheeler, Georgia, where he was on duty as commanding officer of the 106th Engineers, 31st Division, until March, 1918. From March 1 to April 30, 1918, he was detailed to the Inspector General's department, and inspected all Engineer organizations of the National Army before their embarkation for service in France.

He was then called to Washington, D. C. on May 1, 1918, for duty on the War Department General Staff, and having been appointed a brigadier general, national army, he was assigned on that date to duty as director of the War Plans Division of the General Staff and president of the Army War College, remaining on these important duties throughout the remainder of the World War until July 30, 1919, when he reverted to his permanent rank of lieutenant colonel, Corps of Engineers.

In August, 1919, he was assigned to duty as district engineer of the Florence, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn., Districts, with station at Florence, remaining on this duty for about a year, in charge of the construction of the Wilson Dam. On July 1, 1920, he was promoted to the grade of colonel, Corps of Engineers.

His next duty, from October, 1920 to August, 1921, was as commanding officer of the 2d Engineers, at Camp Travis, Texas. He then served at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for two years, 1921-1923, as senior instructor in engineering at the General Service Schools, and for two years, 1923-1925 as director of the Command and General Staff Correspondence School, and during the latter part of this period, as assistant commandant of the General Services Schools.

Upon completion of his four-year tour of duty at the General Service Schools, he was ordered to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he resumed command of the 2d Engineers, remaining on this duty for approximately one year. He was assigned to duty in August, 1928, as assistant commandant of the Army War College, Washington, D. C.

On June 27, 1929, after two years of duty at the Army War College, he was appointed brigadier general of the line, and assigned to command of the Twelfth Infantry Brigade at Fort Sheridan, Ill. Before assuming this new command, he attended the refresher course at the Infantry School in the latter part of 1925. He was then ordered to foreign service in Panama, where he was commanding the Nineteenth Infantry Brigade at Fort Davis, Canal Zone, when he was selected and appointed Chief of Engineers by the President.

In recognition of his service during the World War, General Brown was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, the citation reading as follows:

"For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service as Director of the War Plans Division, for his skill and good judgment in handling the many and varied questions of training, organizaiton, and policy that have acted upon by the War Plans Division during the war."

He was also awarded the decoration of Companion of the Bath of the British government, and was made officer of the Legion d'Honneur by the French government.

People know it..

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day... it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want... mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have ... selecting choice, ripe tobaccos ... ageing them ... blending and cross-blending them...making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy". For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Chesterfield

THEY'RE MILDER—
THEY TASTE BETTER

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1933 — NUMBER 45

TOWN TOPICS

Having just ensconced ourselves in bed and having already reached that advanced stage known as dozing, we were rudely transported back to reality by the insistent and, it seemed to us, diabolical clanging of the telephone. The hour was late. The horns of a dilemma were pricking our throat, one alternative being to remain in bed, the other to answer the telephone.

We had just about decided in favor of the former when our conscience smote us as consciences have a way of doing. It might be important, a matter of life or death perhaps—or so we reasoned.

We take credit for rising to the situation like a stoic. Bravely clambering out of bed, we wrapped a dressing gown around our chilled shoulders, and proceeded downstairs, mumbling dire things.

We took the receiver down from the hook and went through the customary formalities dictated by teachers of etiquette under the heading "Answering the telephone." Then we waited patiently. At length, the person on the other end of the wire spoke and we were petrified with astonishment.

"It looks like rain tomorrow," the voice said and nothing else. Our astonishment underwent a rapid change and became indignation. We worked ourselves into a purple rage (there are, of course, all kinds of rage, red, white, blue, etc., but a purple rage is generally conceded to be the ragiest of all rages). Suddenly we came to the realization that all this indignation wasn't doing us a bit of good unless we could learn the name of the fiend. With commendable effort, we toned down our righteous anger and inquired in as sweet a voice as we could muster "Who was this speaking." We were hardly prepared for the answer. Replied the taunting voice on the other end before hanging up without a warning "The Weatherman."

We have always prided ourselves on our sense of humor. But, in this case, it failed to rise to the occasion, and responded not one whit.

We are on the verge of founding a society for the Extermination of Practical Jokers. Membership, we imagination, would be one of our lesser worries.

* * *

Well known to Benningites is Jimmy King, popular employe at the Post Exchange. Some two weeks ago, Jimmy's reputation was sadly besmirched and his enthusiasm greatly dampened. It seems that he suddenly developed a weakness for mud baths but chose the wrong psychological moment to indulge in one.

Jimmy, resplendent in faultless evening clothes, was late to a party at the Officers' Club. Rain was descending in torrents. He pulled up his car in front of Jiggs Hall, climbed out of the driver's seat, and made a mad, headlong dash for the Officers' Club. Unfortunately, a railing was directly in front of his flying feet and intercepted one of them. Undismayed, Jimmy was all for completing the rest of his dash through the air but fell short by several yards.

It was a bemudded and disconsolate Jimmy who wandered unhappily into the Officers' Club that night.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

Franklin D. Roosevelt

29th Infantry Celebrates Organization Day Today; Col. Persons Is Now In Command

Friday has been designated as a holiday for the 29th Infantry which will celebrate the 32nd aniversary of its organization. All duties except those necessary in the interior administration of the regiment will be suspended for the day, and a special program which will include holiday dinners in all company messhalls, has been arranged for the organization day.

The program began at nine o'clock Friday morning when the regiment was formed in mass in the interior barracks area. Lieutenant Colonel Andrew D. Chaffin, who has been in command of the 29th Infantry for several months, preceding Colonel Persons' arrival, addressed the men and recounted briefly the history of the regiment. Following Colonel Chaffin's talk, Colonel Persons was presented to the regiment and made a short address of greeting to the members of his new command.

At noon holiday dinners will be served in all company mess halls at which families of the soldiers will be guests. After dinner the soldiers and their guests will attend a motion picture show at the Main Theatre, and at eight-thirty P. M. a dance for the enlisted men and their families and friends will be held at the post gymnasium. A dance for the officers of the regiment will be held at nine o'clock at the Polo-Hunt Club.

Colonel Persons, the new Commanding officer of the regiment, will participate actively for the first time in the training of his regiment on Saturday morning, when he will lead the 29th Infantry in the garrison review which will be held on Gordon Field at nine o'clock.

Assignment to command of the 29th Infantry is regarded as one of the choicest details in the infantry, for the demonstration regiment of the Infantry School enjoys not only the distinction of being the one regiment of our peace-time army which is composed of war-strength companies, but also that of being the regiment which is charged with the major portion of the tests and demonstrations involved in the varied experiments constantly being carried on at The Infantry School in connection with the improvement of infantry arms, technic and tactics.

As the principal mission of the Infantry School is the instruction of infantry officers of the regular army and other components of our national defense establishment in the most approved infantry methods, it is essential that the various manoeuvers and demonstration be made as realistic and as near actuality as it is possible, and it is for this reason that the two active battalions of the 29th Infantry are maintained at war strength, and their equipment and training constantly kept at the peak of modernity.

In addition to tests and demonstration duties in connection with the Infantry School, the regiment is constantly carrying out its own training program to insure that its personnel can fulfill the high standards required of a combat regiment. No infantry soldiers in the United States Army are more versatile in accomplishments and

(Please turn to page 9)

Civilian-Soldiers Open Classes Here For 4 Month Period

Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, presided at formal exercises which opened the three months course of instruction for a group of national guard and reserve officers who are enrolled in the company officers' and tank courses. Colonel Charles W. Weeks, and other members of the academic staff also attended the exercises. General King welcomed the students on behalf of the Infantry School and outlined briefly thtir course of instruction and also acquainted them with the recreational and other facilities of Fort Benning which will be at their disposal during the time that they are students.

After the opening program the officers were given their medical examinations, and issued books and other articles required in their studies.

Following is the list of the officers who reported on Friday: National Guard and Reserve Company Officers' Course:

National Guard

Alabama; Captain Cecil C. Whitehead and Lieutenant Robert W. Johnson. Arkansas; Lieutenant Ceral P. Nunn. California; Lieutenants Charles C. Stitt, and Franklin S. Winnie. Colorado; Captain Harold H. Richardson. Connecticut; Lieutenants Wallace W. Moyle and Elmer S. Watson. Florida; Captain Chester T. Brown. Georgia; Captains Oscar C. Amos, and Phil H. Brewster. Hawaii; Captain James I. M. Chang, and Lieutenant Alvin K. Silva. Illinois; Captains Harry L. Molen, Clifford Hogin, Englebert J. Schmitz, and Ford N. Radcliff. Indiana; Captains Duke V. Atwood, and Claire W. Jackson. Iowa; Captain Henry R. Heath. Kansas; Captain George A. Harvey. Louisiana; Captain Charles Naomi and Lieutenant Randolph H. Ferey. Kentucky; Captain William R. Martin; Maine; Captain William R. Thompson. Maryland; Captain Ward W. Caddington, and Lieutenant Roger S. Whiteford. Massachusetts; Captains Patrick J. Ahearn, Edmund D. Cunningham, and John J. Higgins, and Lieutenant Hugh J. Roberts. Michigan; Captains Law-

(Please turn to page 10)

Post Girl Scouts Receive Awards At Ceremony Friday

On Friday, the 24th of February, the Fort Benning Girl Scouts held their semi-annual rally, the Court of Awards.

Besides the presentation of the badges, they had a surprise from all the First Class girls, assisted by Mrs. Matchett and Mrs. Cleveland. The girls got together for several days previously and practised for their skit, which was well appreciated by the audience. One Scout stood beside a green door built on a frame and read about Scouting, illustrating the different activities by opening the door and revealing different scenes posed by the other girls.

The playlet gave the audience a good idea of what all the badges signify, so they were better prepared to appreciate them when they were presented.

Mrs. Matchett introduced the lead-

(Please turn to page 3)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Engagement Of Miss Elma Trulock And Lt. McNulty Event Of Interest

Of interest throughout Army and civilian circles is the announcement and approaching marriage of Miss Elma Trulock and Lieut. William Andrew McNulty of the 29th Infantry. The bride elect is the daughter of Mrs. Thornwell Trulock and is an attractive member of the debutante set of Columbus. She is the sister of Miss Ermine Trulock and of Thornwell Trulock, Jr. Miss Trulock attended college at the Georgia State College for Women in Milledgeville and was graduated last June. Lieut. McNulty is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. McNulty of Ronoake, Virginia. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in the class of 1932. Since that time he has been on duty with the 29th Infantry. Miss Trulock and Lieut. McNulty plan to wed in March.

* * *

29TH INFANTRY CELEBRATES ORGANIZATION DAY WITH A DANCE

The 29th Infantry will celebrate its 32nd anniversary with a Regimental dance at the Polo Hunt Club on Friday. The club is attractively decorated with pine boughs and moss, with the Regimental colors grouped at one end. Those receiving will be Colonel and Mrs. William E. Persons, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Andrew D. Chaffin and Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Homer H. Slaughter, who leave shortly for their new station in Washington, D. C. Dancing was enjoyed from nine to tweve, the 29th Infantry orchestra furnishing the music. Those attending were the officers and ladies of the Regiment, former members and their guests.

* * *

RECEPTION AND DANCE TO HONOR RESERVE AND NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS

Biglerville will be the scene Saturday of a reception and dance in honor of the recently arrived officers of the Reserve Corps and of the National Guard who are taking the three months' course at Fort Benning.

A receiving line will be formed consisting of the Commandant, the Assistant Commandant, the Commanding officers of the various organizations of the Post, and prominent citizens from Columbus and their wives. Invitations have been issued to all the officers and ladies of the Post. Several dinners will precede the reception at the Officers' Club.

* * *

COL. AND MRS. PERSONS TO RECEIVE OFFICERS AND LADIES OF THE 29TH INFANTRY

Colonel and Mrs. William E. Persons will be at home to the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry at an informal tea at the Polo Hunt Club from five to seven on Sunday. This tea will be given in place of the social call of the officers and ladies of the Regiment. Col. Persons arrived Wednesday to assume command of the 29th Infantry.

* * *

THURSDAY EVENING DINNER DANCE ASEMBLES A LARGE GROUP AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The Thursday evening dinner dance at the Officers' Club assembled as usual its large group with all reservations taken. The Officers' Club, in addition to its weekly dances, plans several delightful affairs for March and April. Among these will be the Saint Patrick dinner and dance, the dinner to be held at the Officers' Club while the dance is to be held at Biglerville. In April there will be an Easter Eve dinner and dance which will be sponsored by the Club. Those reserving tables for last Thursday were: Maj. and Mrs. Dan D. Howe M,aj. and Mrs. Norman D. Cota, Capt. and Mrs. George O. Clark, Capt. and Mrs. Thomas E. May, Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Partridge, Capt. and Mrs. George V. W. Pope, Lieut. and Mrs. James C. Fry, and Lieut. and Mrs. Clyde D. Eddleman.

* * *

D. U. S. A. FASHION SHOW TO BE INTERESTING EVENT OF WEEK

Numbered among the most interesting events of this week will be the fashion show sponsored by the Fort Benning chapter of the Daughters of the United States Army which will be held on Saturday afternoon at the Polo Hunt Club at three o'clock. Columbus stores will supply the models with gorgeous gowns, hats and shoes. Not only will these gowns be modelled by some of Benning's most charming ladies, but some of Fort Benning's officers will also have an opportunity to show off to advantage their stylish figures. The chaming and talented Miss Agnes Harrison of Columbus will give a specialty number between showings. During the afternoon tea will be served. Among the young ladies who will model are: Mesdames Malcom F. Lindsey, Theodore L. Dunn, George P. Howell, and Robert G. Turner, and the Misses Eleanor Bonesteel, Betty Welty, Page Michie and Harriotte Atkins.

* * *

P.-T. A. HOLD INTERESTING PROGRAM AT MEETING ON THURSDAY

The meeting of the Fort Benning Parent-Teachers' Association this week was one of especial interest due to the instructve talk given by the well known lecturer, Dr. Robert Sidney Wallace of the Warm Springs Foundation. His subject was "Phenomena of Nature." The meeting was held in the Main Theatre.

PAN-HELLENIC MEETS AT HEADQUARTERS OF MRS. LEARD

* * *

The monthly meeting of the Pan-Hellenic Society on the Post met Tuesday at the quarters of Mrs. Emil W. Leard. The house was attractively decorated in early spring flowers. Four tables of contract bridge assembled at two and played until five, when tea was served. The hostesses for the afternoon were: Mesdames Homer H. Slaughter, John E. Hull, George F. Bloomquist and Edwin K. Purnell.

* * *

COMMUNITY SERVICE LEAGUE OF COLUMBUS TO SPONSOR A BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

One of the most interesting affairs of the week in Columbus will be the bridge tournament to be sponsored by the Community Service League. The tournament will be held Friday afternoon and Saturday night.

Friday the tournament will be held promptly at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. M. H. Young, Jr. on Second

(Please turn to Page 3)

Today's Fashion

Suit in two tones of gray woolen.

By VERA WINSTON

GRAY IN its various gradations and hues is most certainly carrying all before it this season. Every shop is stocking gray heavily and manufacturers say that there will be many reorders this spring. All of which is very heartening. Gray is an exquisite color, but care must be exercised so that one finds the shade that is most becoming.

Typical of the suit that is meeting with the most approval this spring is the model sketched for this page. It is in two tones of gray woolen. The little capelets on the sleeve form a cape effect in back. The jacket which is of the darker gray, is fitted. The buttons are of the same shade in polished wood. This suit is an excellent compromise between the very severe, mannish suit and the soft costume suit that has obtained for some seasons now.

Children's School News

Edited By The Fifth Grade Staff

Editor-in-Chief ---------- Betsy Ross
Associate Editor ---------- Earl Tweed
Grade Editor ---------- Evelyn Renth

New Bicycle Racks

New bicycle racks have been made so that the bicycles will not get wet and rust when it rains.

There is one for the first five grades and one for the sixth and seventh grades.

—Virgil Hanson.

Tony Sarg's Marionettes

Friday, January 20th, Tony Sarg's Marionettes were shown at the Main Theatre. The show was sponsored by the P.-T. A.

The afternoon show was very funny with all its dancing and jokes. The marionettes in the show were very much like people.

The evening show was attended by a majority of adults and was very interesting.

The Marionettes were worked by strings from a bridge above the stage. The operators were very skillful at their work.

Peggy Porter held the lucky ticket and won a marionette.

—Albert Tucker.

Prize For The Best Notebook Given

Miss Sanders announced to the 5-B at the beginning of the term that she was going to give a prize for the best geography notebook. Mary Jane Merrill won the prize. It was a book of Andersen's Fairy Tales."

—Mabel McRae
—Frances West

The Rodeo

I saw the rodeo. It was very good. First of all they all came out on horses. There was a car and behind it a colored boy who led a donkey. There was a stage-coach and a buffalo.

Poncho got a rope, and made it so small it made everybody laugh. Then he wanted to show that he could jump through the rope. Alice Sisty was the best cowgirl.

—Schofield Waddington

Cleanliness Contest

The 5-A and 5-B are trying to see which row can keep the cleanest aisle. The row which has the cleanest aisle gets an extra five minutes of playtime on Friday.

—Josephine Blain

(Please turn to Page 9)

$5 ALL STYLES

You will be fitted regardless

If you come in our store and we can't fit you perfectly in Friendly Five Shoes at five dollars, we'll buy you any pair of shoes that fit, at any price, at any store in town . . .

FRIENDLY FIVE SHOES

Sizes 3 to 15—Widths AAAA to EEEE

Miller-Taylor Shoe Co.

Where The New Styles Are Shown First

1130 Broadway

WE MAINTAIN A BRANCH DEPARTMENT AT THE MAIN BRANCH, POST EXCHANGE

Special Sale of Etchings at Half Price

These are genuine Copperplate Etchings.

MargaretHarrison Studio Shoppe

(At Rosenberg's)

DOLAN-HENRY HAT SHOP

AT ALSOBROOK'S

Sailors and Big Brims. Every kind in demure and exciting styles, for every type of head and every purse $1.95 to $10.00.

Ft. Benning Charge Accounts Solicited.

For CHILDREN

Parents will find that Foremost Ice Cream so effectively combines purity, wholesomeness and tastiness that it is an ideal food for growing children.

Call the SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

They Lead The Parade!

The greatest contest in the history of the Confection World!

Tom's is offering a New 1933 Chevrolet. One to be given away every two weeks! See cards on every Tom's Display Jar.

Tom's Toasted Peanuts

Program Of Social Events At Fort Benning In Future

The Commandant's reception and Officers' Club Dance honoring National Guard and Reserve Officers' 9:30 p. m., Saturday, March 4th, 1933, Biglerville Mess Hall.

* * *

On Friday, March 10th, the Civilian Life Members will be hosts at a dinner party at the Officers' Club before the Glee Club show.

* * *

"Coffee Dan's" Cabaret Party, honoring the cast of "The Debutante" and members of the Glee Club, will be held following the show, Saturday Evening, March 11th, 1933.

* * *

St. Patrick's Day Party, March 17th. Dinner at The Officers' Club. Dancing at Biglerville Hall.

* * *

Special Easter Dinner Dance at The Officers' Club, Saturday evening, April 15th.

* * *

Mid-week Supper Dance every Thursday evening. Dancing from8 :15 to 10:15 p. m.

KENNY'S

NORWOOD

COFFEE

is sold at Fort Benning

through the

Post Exchange

TRY A POUND

YOU WILL BE PLEASED

TO BEAUTIFY your HOME

Flowers are the world's greatest aid toward beautifying your home. Be sure you use only the best seed in your garden and that you get it at . . . . .

H. C. SMITH

DRUG STORE

1002 BROADWAY

WIN SCOUT AWARDS

Group of first class Girl Scouts from Cardinal and Daffodil troops, Fort Benning, who have completed photographers badge test. Captain Howard Liston, examiner.

Left to right sitting: Betty Negrotto, Francis Lewis; Standing: Madeline Matchett, Ruth O'Neal, Jane Kraft, Mary Jane Davidson, Betty Ann Albright.

Operetta To Be Staged By Glee Club Is Outstanding Event Of Week

According to last minute news as the HERALD went to press Thursday night, plans were being perfected to broadcast the final dress-rehearsal of the Glee Club operetta, "The Debutante," by remote control over WRBL, the local Columbus broadcasting station. The program, if staged, will be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Columbus. Further information will be given in the Daily Bulletin in the daily papers.

Never before in the history of Fort Benning has so much interest been manifested in a theatrical show than in "The Debutante," Victor Herbert's operetta, to be presented by the Fort Benning Glee Club at the Main Theater on the evenings of March 10th and 11th.

It seems that almost everyone in the post is directly, or indirectly, connected with some phase of the activities which are lending themselves towards making this year's Glee Club production a record-breaker.

In tht first place ,the Glee Club was fortunate in having a personnel containing several real artists this year, as well as retaining from last year many of its tried members who have rendered valuable assistance in the past.

From the very start fortune seemed to smile on every effort put forth. The novel system devised for the ticket sale proved a success. The willingness of everyone to attend strenuous rehearsals, and the score of volunteers who have come forward to help in the technical work, made the Glee Club effort this year one of real pleasure to the officials of the club.

At the present time—a week before the show—it appears that the only persons in Fort Benning who will not try to crowd into the theatre on the first night will be the Officer of the Day and the Members of the Guard. Although the majority at Fort Benning have decided on Saturday night —the second night—as Fort Benning night, scores have provided themselves with tickets for both evenings. On Friday evening a party of 150 residents of Columbus, under the sponsorship of the civilian life members of the Officers' Club, will attend "The Debutante" in a body. Prior to the show they are to enjoy a supper-dance at the Officers' Club.

Following the show on the second evening, members of the Fort Benning Glee Club are to enjoy a cabaret party at the Officers' Club. More than 300 reservations have been made with the Secretary of the Officers' Club for this novel affair.

While a great number of reserved seat tickets have been sold in advance, there still remain many good seats in the reserved section, and many more in the section set aside for general admission patrons. The theater capacity is 1264 and all who purchased tickets, whether for reserved seats or general admission, may rest assured that every seat in the theater is a good seat with full view of the stage.

The show this year has been arranged so as to satisfy tastes of all sorts. In fact the program to be presented is so varied that it has commonly been referred to as three-shows-in-one. First, an operetta by Victor Herbert; Second, a well-rounded comedy by Harry B. and Robert B. Smith, who collaborated with Victor Herbert, and then a vaudeville performance of 7 acts, plus a pony ballet of beautiful girls in most attractive costumes.

* * *

The cast:

The Hon. Spencer Cavendish, Midshipman, Sally Lindsey; Bosun, H. M. S. Scorpion, Lt. K. Maertens; Lieutenant Larry Sheridan, British Navy, Capt. Howard Clark 2nd; Mrs. Zenobia Bunker, wife of Ezra, Margaret Reeder; Ezra Bunker, composer of futuristic music, Lt. J. E. Raymond; Godfrey Frazer, an American millionaire, Capt. Wilbur S. Elliott; Wiggins, Frazer's butler, Maj. Geo. L. Kraft; Elaine, daughter of Sir Francis Vane, Dorothy Githens; Armand, the Marquis de Frontenac, Lt. Orestes Cleveland; Philip Frazer, son of Godfrey, Lt. Silas Woodson Hosea; Irma, prima donna of "The Opera Comique," Georgia Hirst Leard; Testlavitz, a famous violincellist. Lt. C. H. Treat; Nina, an aspiring ballet girl, Betty Hosea; Paul Masson, a famous sculptor, Lt. Robert N. Young; Footman, Masson's man, Capt. Robert S. Miller.

Midshipmen—Emily Blackmore, Luisa Byrd, Lucile Hull, Louise Kraft, Barbara Moseley, Josephine Peters, Frances Tindall.

Society Buds—Marjorie Albright, Marie Allen, Adelaide Andrews, Mary Helen Baughman, Katherine Cleveland, Constance M. A. Cota, Helen DePass, Mary Ewing, Kathryn Gaillard, Caroline Hageman, Kenneth Kendall, Alice McKinley, Marie Parks, Martha Rooks, Beatrice Thompson, Helen Wilson.

Naval Officers—Maj. Willis T. Howard, Capt. Robert S. Miller, Lt. E. L. Moseley, Lt. R. V. Murphy, Capt. Geo. V. W. Pope, Capt. Lowell W. Rooks, Lt. P. W. Thompson.

Sailors—Lt. J. B. Coolidge, Lt. Carl F. Duffner, Lt. Glenn A. Farris, Lt. H. L. Flood, Lt. W. M. Ives, Jr., Lt. E. M. Rowan, Capt. L. D. Tharp, Lt. Edward G. Winston, Lt. Robert N.

(Please turn to page 5)

GIRL SCOUTS AWARDED BADGES OF MERIT

(Continud From Page 1)

ers of the three troops, who told what each group had done during the half year. Mrs. Brown is captain of the Cardinal Troop, the high school girls; Mrs. Kellam had charge of the Daffodils; while the smallest scouts, the Pine Trees, are led by Miss Nancy Stilwell. This year has been the most progressive one in the history of the Girl Scouts at Fort Benning, with nearly a hundred girls in the three troops.

Next came the presentation of the badges. We were pleased to hear Mrs. Lyman give the Second Class Girls their new ranks. Mrs. Weeks came to present the First Class badges, going through the ceremony with the Scouts. Mrs. Matchett then gave out the very numerous proficiency badges, each square pinned to a ribbon of the color of the troop to which the girl receiving it belonged. This was a very colorful ceremony.

At the end of the rally, we sang several songs, including some funny ones, then finished with "Taps."

The Girl Scout Cabin was literally packed with people, with some looking in through the windows. Those who were unable to attend will feel as though they have missed a great event, which it truly was!

SOCIETY

(Continued From Page 2)

Avenue. Saturday's game will be played at the Woman's Club at eight o'clock.

The tournament will be governed by the National Tournament rules and there will be four trophies for each flight. All bridge players from Columbus and Fort Benning are cordially invited to enter. Mrs. Malcolm McKinnon, the general chairman of the tournament, will have on her committee Mr. Calvin DesPortes and Mrs. N. A. Dykes. The referees will be Mesdames Willis Battle, Walter Hudson, Henry Colery, George Golden, Douglas Mobley and Miss Sarah Bussey.

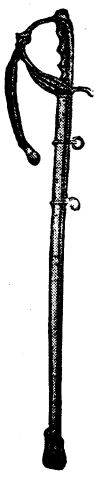
ARMY NAVY

TRADE MARK

Regulation

U. S. ARMY SABRES

IN 3 STANDARD QUALITIES



TRADE DEFENDER MARK

TRADE CHALLENGER MARK

TRADE CONQUEROR MARK

Look for the trademark on the blade of your sabre

Inquire at your Post Exchange

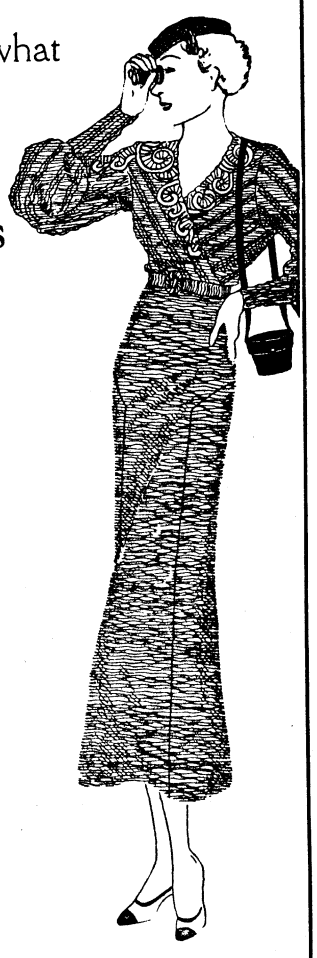
N. S. MEYER, INC.

43 East 19th St., New York

We really don't know what she's looking for, but if it's



KNIT

Suits and Dresses

She'll find some spiffy ones at Kirven's, chock-full of the essential, casual correctness so necessary in sports wear.

$10.75 to $29.75

In all spring shades, suitable for golfing, tennis, and spectator wear, in fact, all sports.

Sizes 12 to 42

Grey, Beige, Green, Navy and Blue, including the fascinating ELEANOR BLUE

One or two piece garments.

The HAT

is the newest Turkish Delight

The new Fez. In Navy, Black, Grey, Beige.

$3.95

See the

FASHION SHOW

POLO HUNT CLUB

Saturday — March 4th — 4 P. M.

Benefit Post School

Admission 35c

KIRVEN'S

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II MARCH 3, 1933 NUMBER 45

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Thursday, Feb. 23

As Gene Tunney might be said to have won the heavyweight championship twice running, so, since our twenty-mile ride, on Tuesday last I have, with my family, a meal-time reputation of two days' standing.

As reports continue to reach us concerning the route and terrain difficulties experienced by the expert first riding platoon I become more convinced that Mr. O. D. Young had the right formula. That section was, to use Mr. Young's expression "in the same boat with Columbus. He didn't know where he was going when he started. When he got there he didn't know where he was, and when he got back he didn't know where he had been."

Relieved no end to discover that Colonel Weeks had not, after all, made the ride bareback. It had been bruited about that such was the case for many in seeing him mounted that day could discern no saddle.

Saturday, Feb. 25

Home again after twenty-four hours of river crossing. I had, until this time, believed that the Kansas barber was but a jolly fiction of the School. Since noon of yesterday I have been convinced not only that he lives and breathes but that he participates in night attacks on river lines.

That the crossing might more appropriately have been made on Washington's birthday, or that it was not a field exercise at all but merely a hoax to give the Academic Department some exclusive use of the golf course are irrelevant considerations. Our sally into the field of private soldiering did cause a searching light to fall on the cerebral gyrations of our elders the "Brain Trust" and of our intellectual superiors the Engineers. I do hope that the Keeper of the Record may not hold me accountable for the highly expressive, albeit unprintable, stock of phrases with which my head has become cluttered, for I did but listen. But I misdoubt if earnest effort to forget can rid me of them all in under two months.

Ostensibly simulating Company I, 29th Infantry, we in reality occupied ourselves as the labor battalion, 24th Infantry, which had failed to arrive. Engaged during the early part of the afternoon in one of the highly technical jobs which only engineers can do really well. Its execution depended in the main on the successful flexion of twenty biceps, twenty of us having laid hold of an inverted pontoon. Upon walking ten yards the biceps were, with one accord, unflexed and the process repeated with as much ensuing profit to ourselves as though the time had been spent in filling and toting sandbags.

The evening gone in a vain endeavor to decide whether we should pull the trucks or the trucks us. From the final upshot of the evening exertions I deem that the title of "pontoon prime mover" should be transferred from the trucks to the class. It is now apparent what makes the Boatmen Vulgar.

In the course of snaking pontoons to the river's edge we did tug the unmanageable things not less than two extra unnecessary furlongs to circumnavigate all engineer trucks obstructing the path albeit every vehicle's motor was running. I am at a loss to determine if that is usual engineer procedure or if we were being hazed.

When I do consider that certain officers of the invaluable Corps of Engineers were, before the maneuver, greatly exercised over the incipient danger of the Infantry's tying it up I am forced to the limit of restraint to prevent popping buttons off my waistcoat. Between laughs I can discern the possibility of our tying it up had any rope been left us but the knot was already Gordian in its proportions when we got there.

Award for most energetic soldier earned unequivocally by McComas, who having in the morning worked an extra problem for the indirect laying exam (just to loosen up) did continue far into the night by pulling at least two extra pontoons down the hill.

Stewart to the use of psychology that he might not so keenly feel the rigors of the exercise—wearing his pajamas as that he should feel at home. Gus Herndon some perturbed lest he, falling in the river and drowning, be charged by the Officers' Club for breakfast.

The night punctuated by a diversity of incidents and sensations, chief among the latter being the one which awoke me at about two AM. And even now I cannot say whether it was one of suffocation from smoke of the fire or congealation from the cold. Awake in time to see Gus Regnier sleepily stumbling about with an axe in search of nearby fuel for the fire but finding none, handily did in sleepy resignation toss the axe handle on the dying blaze.

Discussion greatly rife in the class as to the relative standings of Cordoba, McKinney, and Uhrbrock as

(Please turn to page 9)

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Fly Sprays

These may be used not only against flies but also against mosquitoes, fleas and lice.

Fly sprays are usually kerosene extracts of pyrethrum powder (insect powder), containing an essential oil such as oil of pennyroyal or citronella.

Commercially these are sold under various trade names and are quite expensive. An efficient fly spray can be made for one-half to two-thirds of the cost of these patented preparations as follows:

Pyrethrum powder ½ to 1 lb.
Kerosene 1 gal.

Mix and let stand for three or four days, giving the mixture a good shaking twice a day. On the fourth day the clear liquid above the settled powder can be drawn off and is ready to use as the spray. The insect killing power of this liquid is increased by the addition of one ounce of oil of pennyroyal or citronella to one gallon of the extract.

Alcohol can be used instead of kerosene in the proportion of 1 quart to 1 lb. of powder and after the four days extraction adding 4 quarts of water. This however is more expensive.

The spray is applied by means of a hand sprayer.

Advanced Classics

"The Road to Georgia," stage adaptation of John L. Jenkins' classic, known to all booklovers as "We Shall Gather at the River, Yes We Shall," was produced last week before an appreciative audience at Fort Mitchell, Alabama.

Originally scheduled for only a one night stand, the production ran on a continuous performance basis through a Friday matinee to a Saturday night show—and for all we know some of the mummers may still be out yonder doing their mumming.

Space does not permit complete dramatic review of this mammoth production, which in reality was a twenty-ring circus under one cover. Suffice it to say that one had to see the show or participate therein to gain full appreciation of its moving beauty, its dramatic power, and its inspiration value.

The official program, without which one could not tell the names of the players and with which one was no better off, carried the name of Charlie Yuill as leading man. However, the male lead was stolen completely from the self-effacing Charlie by a young engineer who had charge of the upper crossing. This lad was a howl from start to finish.

Gene Behan brought down the house as he essayed the role of Simon Legree, though his supporting cast either was not present or not visible due to faulty stage lighting at the Friday evening performance.

One thousand handkerchiefs were lifted to two thousand eyes to dry four thousand tears as Jack Gleaves stood by the flickering camp fireside and, bundled in (reading from internal to external) winter longs, wool, two pair of socks, wool, two shirts, wool, one sweater, wool, one overcoat, wool, one raincoat, lined, and three blankets, wool, monologued, "I Want Me a Bedding Roll Like the Umpires." For an encore Jack offered, "I Ask Ya, Vas Ya Effer in Alaska?"

Smoothness was effected in the production—which otherwise might have been tinged with too much sadness—by the antics of the comedians. Paul Connor gained great applause with his recitation "Who Took All the Hootch Outta the Chattahoochee?" as did Dandy Howe with his "I Yump in a Hole When I Find One."

There were a score of musical selections which unquestionably will soon take the American public by storm. Among the most popular were a duet by Jimmie Fry and Dick Bassett, "We Sit by the River, and Watch and Watch," and a heart-touching ballad by a quartette comprising Dana Allen, King Lehr, Don Faith, and Jesse Green entitled, "But, Dear Mother, I Don't Wanna Be an Engineer." The scenic setting for the latter was most impressive, comprising pontoons of engineers struggling manfully against the currents of the Alabama-Georgia boundary.

The "Volga Boatmen" was sung with great gusto by a chorus of freshmen from the Upatoi Military Academy under the direction of Maestro John Harvey. Simultaneously in the hills, the vales, and the swamps beyond, soldiers, teamsters, hosses, umpires, flies, truck drivers, and mules—the entire supporting cast—made the welkin ring with a masterly interpretation of "Oh, Star of Eve, Whose Tender Beam, Falls on My Spirit's Troubled Dream," this to the accompaniment of falling flares from an airship. Unfortunately, the scenic setting for this number was so effective that fully half the population of Fort Mitchell and the suburbs thereof fled in a westerly direction proclaiming: "The debil am a-comin'!"

Frankie Heileman obliged with an impromptu offering of "Old Man River, He Sure Do Somethin'," which was so splendidly received that Frankie and Johnny Jenkins, author of the production, crooned together the refrain "Won't You Make Believe You Love Me?" Frankie and Johnny rocked the countryside with this duet.

Splendid stage direction was evidenced when at the Saturday morning performance the doughboys suddenly dropped their rifles and essayed the roles of engineers in Scene 18, Canto 6, Act XI, entitled "Blazing a Way Through the Jungles." It was quite apparent to the audience that

(Please turn to page 9)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

THE ROAD TO ROME

For the next and last production of the current amateur theatrical season, the Infantry School Dramatic Club is offering "The Road to Rome". The management confidently expects it to draw a record-breaking house. Most Dramatic Club members will come automatically, as usual, and in addition, a heavy turnout of reluctant members and a brisk business in single night tickets is anticipated. It is decidedly something different from the customary vehicle for the local Thespians and, be it for better or for worse, everybody will want to see it.

Another thing which ought to make for a record-breaking attendance is the discussion which the play has inspired. Ever since the present administration went into office "The Road to Rome" has been a topic of conversation. Whether the Dramatic Club should or shouldn't, could or couldn't, would or wouldn't put it on has been a fruitful theme for polite dinner-table debates. Not that anybody really cared much, except a few enthusiasts, but at least it made conversation. Naturally people will be curious to see a play that has been the source of so much controversy.

For the benefit of those who are interested, the triumvirate directing the play has authorized us to say that their pet project has progressed to the point where it is reasonably assured that the play is really going on. After many readings and some change in rehearsals, the big cast of twenty-five is complete. Incidentally, from a military standpoint, it is the most distinguished cast that has ever trod the local boards. What is more, only one of the twenty-five has appeared on the Fort Benning stage and most of the remaining twenty-four have never appeared on any stage. Dramatic Club patrons who like new blood are destined to see their fondest dreams realized when the curtain goes up on "The Road to Rome".

We could tell lots of interesting inside stories of the casting of this much talked of production but one will suffice. Those who have seen or read the play will recall that Amytis, the wife of Fabius Maximus, is an Athenian. Realizing that the intelligent Benning audience would be prompt to detect an imitation, the zealous casting committee refused to be satisfied until it had found for the all important leading role one who, in addition to possessing all of the other necessary qualifications, was also born in Athens of the race of Pericles. You can't beat that for meticulous attention to ethnological detail.

INTIMATE INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES—NO. 4

The Flare Special Agent elbowed his way unceremoniously into the clinic operated by Herr Doktor Yulius Newgord, where he found the affable and efficient Major engaged in his daily labors.

In the room where a dozen or more patients mostly of the gentler sex, all receiving simultaneous attention and consideration.

"Busy day?" asked the Agent, when the Doktor finished looking into the throat of a sweet young thing.

"Busy! Busy!! Nothing but," fairly groaned the specialist as he suited his action to his words by dashing around the circle of patients raising an eyelid here, and touching an ear there until he once more confronted the sweet young thing.

"I can't see a thing wrong with those beautiful eyes of yours," crooned Yulius, with his most benign smile.

"It's not my eyes—it's my throat," rasped the fair young maiden.

"Oh," gulped the Herr Doktor, as he set forth once more on his dance around the tittering circle.

At last he came to rest in front of the Special Agent.

"Must be interesting to be an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist," suggested the Agent tactfully.

"I'm no eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist" whispered the Doktor confidentially into the Agent's ear.

"No?" murmured the cub reporter, softly, all ears for the startling admission which he felt was forthcoming.

"No," returned the Doktor, with a twinkle in his eye, "I'm an Ankle Specialist."

POPULAR SCIENCE NEW APPLICATION OF MATHMATICS

At a field exercise one day last week, one of our volunteer reporters picked up a library card addressed to Captain H. E. Kelly of the Advanced Class. The card notified Captain Kelly that three books which he had taken out were overdue. The books were "Three Cornered Love", "Plane and Solid Geometry", and "Short Course in Trigonometry".

Granted that great soldiers in their lighter moments have frequently evinced an interest in three cornered love, we never heard of one who approached the subject via the abstract sciences. It is a new idea—this one of seeking a solution of the eternal triangle by geometric formulae. Yet the logic of Captain Kelly's investigation is incontrovertible. Indeed, it seems strange that no one has thought of it before. The present day use of the verb "to proposition" should have suggested the relationship.

What application to his problem Captain Kelly will make of the "Short Course in Trigonometry" remains to be seen. Possibly it will be useful in making a preliminary survey.

UNIQUE ANTI-FREEZE PRECAUTION

From time to time it has been our painful duty to comment in this column upon the peculiar psychologic make up of people who have a passion for tilling the soil and making things grow therein.

The strongest manifestation of this pathologic condition that has come to our attention recently concerns Captain Virgil Bell, the well known scenic artist.

Captain Bell, having taken time by the forelock, as it were, and planted a garden in the winter, found the tender shoots of his prize English peas menaced by the severe mid-February cold snap. To save his precious plants from the boreal blasts became the eminent horticulturist's first concern. Collecting all of the spare bedding that Mrs. Bell would let him have, he carefully tucked it around the peas as far as it would go. But even after snitching one of the blankets from the baby's bed, a part of the crop still remained unprotected, and the resourceful Captain had to draw on his own wardrobe to cover up the rest. Handiest and most suitable for the purpose was a brand new civilian overcoat and

(Please turn to page 9)

Gen. Estes Will Be Here For Meeting Of State Reserves

Brigadier General George H. Estes, of Fort McPherson, Georgia, is expected to arrive at Fort Benning, at about 12:30 P. M. Friday, for a short visit to the post, during which he will address delegates to the fifth annual state convention of the Georgia department Reserve Officer Association.

Approximately two hundred reserve officers are expected to attend the convention which will be held at Fort Beening on Friday and Saturday of this week. The delegates will be quartered in the ROTC area during their sojourn here.

Included among these attending the convention will be a number of warrant officers and enlisted men of the Fort Benning garrison who hold reserve commissions. Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, has announced that these men will be excused from their duties in the garrison in order to participate in the convention meetings.

A garrison review at Fort Benning and addresses by prominent officers of the Post will feature the state convention of the Reserve Officers association in Georgia. Today a mess at noon will be followed by a talk by Major Sereno E. Brett on Mechanization of the Army, a demonstration by the 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) and a demonstration by Chemical Warfare troops. After mess at 6:15, the officers will asssemble tonight for an address by Major General Campbell King, Commandant, the Infantry School, who will welcome them, and from Judge J. A. Lynch, a member of the American Legion national committee on national defense.

The review of the troops at Fort Benning will be held Saturday morning at 9:00 o'clock.

TO APPEAR IN "THE DEBUTANTE"

Left to Right: Dorothy Lynch, Elizabeth Beatty and Esther Weeks, who will take part in "The Debutante", the Victor Herbert operetta to be given here Friday and Saturday, March 10th and 11th, at the Main Theatre.

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, Feb. 28

We're getting our merit badges straightened out again. We have made lists of those we hope to pass before our next Court of Awards in May. Appointments have already been made for Tree Finder with Mrs. Woolnough, Child Nurse, with Mrs. Stilwell, and the Cyclist and Athlete are continuing.

Evidently we are to have an interesting game next meeting, because Mrs. Brown instructed each girl to bring a picture of some famous man, bird, animal, place, etc., and to cut the name off, so the rest of us may guess what it is. That will certainly be an intelligence test!

Class For Bakers Opens Last Week

A new class of enlisted students has been enrolled for the bakers' course, which will begin at the School for Bakers and Cooks, Fort Benning, on Tuesday, under the direction of Lieutenant William N. McKennan, assistant commandant. Those who have been selected for the course are: Private William Hardalen, Regimental Machine Gun Company, 29th Infantry; Private first class William S. Larkin, Company D, 29th Infantry, Private 1st class Lacy Strickland, Company F, 67th Infantry (Medium Tanks); and Private 1st class Walter B. Hale, Headquarters Battery, 83rd Field Artillery.

The new class will replace the group of students who have completed a course of instruction at the School, and who were graduated on Tuesday. In the graduating group were comprised: Private Donald T. McMinn, Company E, 29th Infantry; Private James E. Scott, Company E, 29th Infantry; Private Jessie Ames, Headquarters Battery, 83rd Field Artillery, Private James Z. Burnes, and Private Dan C. Johnson, both of Battery A, 83rd Field Artillery; and Privates Clinton A. Madden, Company F, 66th Infantry (Light Tanks).

Cinema Calendar

for Grand, Rialto and Royal

AT THE GRAND

SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "What! No Beer?" with Buster Keaton, Jimmy Durante, Roscoe Ates, and Phyllis Barry. This comedy completely covers the whole agitation for beer from the last election to the present fight in Congress for legalization. And will they make you laugh? Well, try and keep from having convulsions!

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY: Offering "Clear All Wires" with Lee Tracy, Benita Hume, Una Merkel and James Gleason. The screen adaptation of a Broadwy hit depicting the trials nd tribulations of a fast-talking newspaper correspondent who steals a chorus girl from his boss, plots a shooting in order to make newspaper headlines, falls into the hands of Russian police and otherwise keeps excitement going high pitch.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY: Offering "Tiger Shark" with Edward G. Robinson, Richard Arlen and Zita Johann. A thrilling and spectacular sea drama, with many a daring feat recorded among man-eating sharks.

AT THE RIALTO

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY: Off ering "Young Blood" with Bob Steele and Helen Foster. A riproaring story of the west, with Steele riding to a new triumph in his second western drama of the season. A thriller of pony express adventure, racing action and flaming romance.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY: Offering "Too Busy to Work" with Will Rogers, Marian Nixon and Dick Powell. Chuckles that warm the cockles of your heart. Too busy to work . . . too cheerful to worry . . . too meddlesome to keep his nose out of other people's business. Rogers was never more humorous—nor more human.

TUESDAY ONLY: Offering "Sherlock Holmes" with Clive Brook, Miriam Jordan and Ernest Torrence. The World's greatest detective vs. modern, organized crime. Which wins? This cool, calculating crime hunter or the master minds who bring wealth, science, and ruthlessness to make modern crime a successful business? See this thriller for the answer.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY: Offering "Robbers' Roost" with George O'Brien and Maureen O'Sullivan. They say this is the most exciting picture he ever made—a Zane Grey story of straight shooting, galloping action, hard fighting and thrilling romance.

AT THE ROYAL

(Opening with midnight show, 11:15 Saturday)

ALSO SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY: Offering "Frisco Jenny" with Ruth Chatterton, Donald Cook, Louis Calhern and Helen Jerome Eddy. The story of a queen of Demimonde, who rules her kingdom with an iron hand, though goes to the gallows with sealed lips rather than acquaint a son with a mother's shame.

VICTOR HERBERT'S OPERETTA NEXT WEEK PROMISES TO BE OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

(Continued from page 3)

Young.

Ballet Girls—Elizabeth Beatty, Betty Beishline, Marie Dunn, Judy Halterman, Eleanor Harding, Mona Jordan, Dot Lynch, Bess Todd, Mary Wadsworth, Esther Weeks.

ACT II

Ladies—Marjorie Albright, Marie Allen, Adelaide Andrews, Mary Helen Baughman, Emily Blackmore, Luisa Byrd, Katherine Cleveland, Constance M. A. Cota, Helen DePass, Mary Ewing, Kathryn Gaillard, Caroline Hageman, Lucile Hull, Kenneth Kendall, Louise Kraft, Sally Lindsey, Alice McKinley, Marie Parks, Josephine Peters, Martha Rooks, Beatrice Thompson, Frances Tindall, Helen Wilson.

Gentlemen—Lt. George E. Bush, Lt. J. B. Coolidge, Lt. Carl F. Duffner, Lt. Glenn A. Farris, Lt. H. L. Flood, Maj. Willis T. Howard, Lt. W. M. Ives, Jr., Maj. Geo. L. Kraft, Lt. K. Maertens, Lt. R. V. Murphy, Capt. George V. W. Pope, Capt. Lowell W. Rooks, Lt. E. M. Rowan, Capt. L. D. Tharp, Lt. P. W. Thompson, Lt. Edward G. Winston.

Special Dancers—"Tango," Mae E. Dickerson and Lt. Wendell G. Johnson. "Adagio," Barbara Moseley and Lt. E. L. Moseley. "Rumba," Jacqueline Cowley.

The Director and Technical Staff:

Director—1st Lt. Aloysius E. O'Flaherty. Assistant Directors—Music, Prof. Erwin H. Vondereau; Dancing, Mae A. Dickerson.

Technical Staff—Stage Manager, Capt. Virgil Bell; Wardrobe Mistress, Katherine Brady; Assistant, Felicia Howell; Property, Lt. J. R. Beishline; Make up, Isobel Chance; Assistants, Miriam Beavers, Betty Beishline, Naida Bell, Anna Brislawn, Hilda Burnap, Louise Kraft, Sally Lindsey, Page Michie, Ethel Otto, Ruth Phillips, Katherine Studebaker, Frances Tindall, Martha Watkins, Maj. Geo. L. Kraft, Lieut. Edward G. Winston.

Promoters—Ethel Otto and Margaret Elliott.

Publicity and Box Office—Lieut. Harry G. Dowdall. Assistant, Lieut. Louis B. Rutte.

Music—29th Infantry Orchestra, Warrant Officer George A. Horton, Leader, assisted by Josephine M. Hanna, pianist, Mr. Ralph Cotton, cellist, and Mrs. Ralph Cotton, violinist.

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway
for
Expert Watch Repairing

MEN'S SUITS
$12.50
CLASSY
CLOTHES SHOP
1035 Broadway

BLOOIE! BLOOIE! BLOOIE!
JOHN, JIM and LOUIE WANT
OLD SETTLER'S PORK SAUSAGE
With their hot cakes tomorrow morning.
EVERY POUND GUARANTEED BY
The Provision Co., Inc.
COLUMBUS, GA.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Griffin To Meet Toughest Foe Of Career

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Indoor track, very popular in this country, is comparatively unknown in European countries. For example, when Doctor Otto Peltzer arrived in the United States to compete with American long distance runners, he found himself at a great disadvantage because of his inexperience with board tracks.

His stride was broken up and he faltered badly around the turns. As a result, he was outrun by many athletes whom he could have beaten at the same distance outside with a suitcase in either hand.

* * *

Emmett Toppino shows every indication of becoming the American 1933 sprint king. He is a natural runner with tremendous leg drive. He comes out of his holes like a rabbit, and his ability to get off to a fast start is often the determining factor in the winning of the race.

Toppino, who first came to the attention of the world sportdom when he distinguished himself in the Olympic tryouts, has beaten Frank Wycoff several times this year.

* * *

Johnny Risko, the Cleveland Rubber Boy, may be nearing the end of the fistic trail but he still has enough skill left to defeat a great many of the present day fighters.

Last week he swapped punches with King Levinsky and when the fray was over had copped six of the rounds, with three going to his opponent and one even.

Risko, whom Tex Rickard dubbed "the spoiler" because of his habit of ending the championship aspirations of many candidates for the heavyweight crown, has been fighting nine years.

* * *

Strangler Lewis, whose famed headlock won him the championship of the world, was thrown by Jim Browning, a Missouri giant, last week. Lewis was unable to compete with Browning's rugged endurance and youth.

Jim Londos, the pride of Greece, who is recognized by some states as heavyweight champion, is dickering for a bout with Browning. If a match can be arranged, there is no doubt about the winner being given nation-wide recognition. Londos and Browning stand head and shoulders over the other wrestlers in their division.

* * *

Young Corbett's flying fists thudded out a decisive victory over Jackie Fields in a bristling ten round bout. The victory established Corbett as the welterweight champion of the world.

Outguessing Fields as the latter bored in, head down, the new champ jumped back after every drive with lefts and rights to the body that jolted much of the fight out of his opponent.

For the fourth time in the history of boxing, the name Corbett proved the downfall of champions. The Fresno Italian followed a long line of illustrious predecessors that started when James J. Corbett sent the Boston Strong Boy, John L. Sullivan, to the floor of the ring in the twenty-first round of their bout for the heavyweigh championship.

* * *

Ralph Metcalfe's brilliant spurt in the last ten yards nailed Emmett Top-

(Please turn to page 7)

USED CAR BARGAINS

| | |
|---|---|
| '29 Chevrolet Sedan | $195 |
| '29 Ford Roadster | 85 |
| '29 Ford Phaeton | 95 |
| '29 Ford Sport Roadster | 195 |
| '29 Ford Sedan | 150 |
| '29 Ford Coupe | 150 |
| '29 Ford DeLuxe Coupe | 225 |
| '31 Ford Two-Door Sedan | 325 |
| '31 Ford DeLuxe Phaeton | 325 |
| '28 Studebaker Sedan | 95 |
| '31 Chevrolet Sport DeLuxe Coach | 395 |
| '29 Buick Coupe | 125 |
| '27 Buick Sedan | 125 |
| '32 V-8 Ford Coach, practically new | $ |
| '31 Chevrolet Std. Coach | 325 |
| 2 '31 DeLuxe Chevrolet Coaches | $ |
| 1 '31 DeLuxe Chevrolet Sedan | $ |
| '28 Twin Harley-Davidson Motorcycle | 35 |
| '28 Twin Harley-Davidson Motorcycle | 50 |

EASY PAYMENT
SMALL DOWN PAYMENTS

Patterson & Pope

MOTOR CO., INC.

Phone 412 1415-1st Ave.

Athletic Equipment

The Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete service on all kinds of athletic equipment. Phone 608.

Post Exchange

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Ted Sandwina Is Next Fighter To Face Corn Griffin

Ching Johnson and Tex Wallace To Trade Blows In Semi-Final Bout Tuesday

Corn Griffin is slated to meet the toughest opponent in his career when he stacks up against Ted Sandwina next Tuesday night. Sandwina's amazing record speaks for itself.

He has beaten Otto Von Porat. And Otto ranks well up among the first ten in heavyweight circles. The Norwegian has made an exceptional record during his sojourn in the States and has beaten most of the top-notchers. Phil Scott, English heavyweight champion, and Joe Beckett, who fought Carpentier twice, have both been defeated by Sandwina.

Salvadore Ruggierello, another fighter who ranks among the first ten, fell before Ted's fiery attack. K. O. Christner, the boy who has destroyed the aspirations of so many prospective champions, was easy for Sandwina.

In addition to these fighters, Ted has battled Mickie Walker, who fought a draw with Jack Sharkey, world's heavyweight champ, Young Stribling, whose record is well known, and Primo Carnera, who may be the next heavyweight champion. He lost decisions to both Walker and Stribling, and was stopped by Carnera, but while he was in there, he gave a good account of himself.

It is easy to understand why Sandwina will be the toughest opponent Griffin ever met. If he defeats Ted, improbable as victory may seem, Corn will become famous overnight.

Griffin himself needs no introduction. He rates on a par with the best lightheavies in the game, Maxie Rosenbloom, Joe Knight, and Bob Godwin not excepted. The Benning boxer is on the path to fistic fame and will get there eventually.

In the semi-final bout of the evening, Ching Johnson will make an attempt to demonstrate that he is still the giantkiller of old when he takes on Tex Wallace, hardpunching, whirlwind menace from the Lone Star State.

Ching was rather disappointing in his last appearance in a Benning ring. Harold Murphy, his opponent on that occasion, however, indicated his worth when he fought a draw with Walker Smith, the Benning Tornado, in the main go of the last fight card staged here.

Lieutenant Howard Johnson is doing everything in his power to get Ching in trim for the coming fracas and it should be a different fighter in there next Tuesday night.

Wallace has been boxing on the Pacific Coast where he has made a name for himself. Jim Jeffries, at one time heavyweight champ of the world, was very much impressed with Tex from the start and took him under his wing, declaring that Wallace would be wearing championship laurels before much time rolled by. Tex never quite got into championship company but he is rated as a tough, hard-punching boy who likes the going when its roughest. From every point of view, the Johnson-Wallace bout should be a humdinger.

Bunker Hill, who never fails to please the crowd, is matched with Lester Darby, hard-hitting Columbus battler, in the main preliminary. This should be a wow of a fight from the opening gong to the finish—if it lasts that long.

Daniel Webster, who won his last fight via the knockout route, meets a tartar in Ben Spivey who is well known to Benning fans. Ben's recent

POLO NOTES

The baseball player uses a 40 ounce bat, 35 inches long, to hit a 5 ounce baseball out of the lot. Bases loaded, two out, and the count is three and two. The crowds are roaring hoarsely. The pitcher winds up and the ball comes up to the platter at the rate of 150 feet per second. The batter, with a good foothold, has 2-5 of a second to decide whether the throw will be a ball or a strike, make his decision, and hit his homerun. Babe Ruth's colossal clout which went 480 feet is generally conceded to be the hardest ball ever hit, although Joe Jackson, old time slugger, is reputed to have knocked a ball 500 feet into a freight train.

The tennis player with a thirteen ounce racket, 21 inches from the extreme tip of the handle to the center of the gut, hits a 2 ounce ball as hard as he is able and still keep it in bounds. Volleying at the net for the matchpoint, the crowd intensely sits as the two players strive for supremacy. The ball is hit back and forth at lightning speed, with only a passing shot to be executed for the point to be won.

The golf player uses a 13 ounce club, 41 inches long with a six ounce head to hit a ball weighing 1.62 ounces, into the cup. Absolute quiet is maintained as the golfer tees up. After addressing the ball several times, he pivots and hits. The distance, as is checked roughly by markers along the fair way varies from 300 yards to nothing.

The polo player uses a 51 inch stick weighing 13 ounces, the head six ounces to hit a willow wood or bamboo root ball weighing 4 ounces through a 24 foot goal. The score is tied, second to play, the ball is passed, the player running as fast as his horse can go, 27 feet per second, is being jostled by his opponent to upset his stance. He guides his horse on the line, stakes his opponent if he can, and drives the ball through the goal. The distance hit by various players varies from 150 yards to nothing, the direction from a goal to an outside ball.

* * *

The popularity of Polo to the spectator was demonstrated Sunday by the large number of cars parked around the field. The Polo committee is glad to observe that Columbus motor-clash with Bunker Hill at the post almost stole the show.

(Please turn to page 8)

K. O. Lucas and Tommy Walden tangle in a four-rounder. This bout, as well as its predecessor, the Sandy Huff-Seaweed Wilson melee should prove extremely popular.

Slugger Banks and Jimmy Lee, both of the 24th Infantry will raise the curtain with a three round fight.

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

BOXING

TUESDAY NIGHT, MARCH 24TH

Post Gymnasium, 8:15 P. M.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Corn Griffin, 29th Infantry | vs. | Ted Sandwina, New York |
| 10 Rounds | | |
| Tex Wallace, Abilene, Texas | vs. | Ching Johnson, Ft. Benning |
| 8 Rounds | | |
| Bunker Hill, Ft. Benning | vs. | Lester Darby, Columbus |
| 6 Rounds | | |
| Daniel Webster, Ft. Benning | vs. | Ben Spivey, Columbus |
| 6 Rounds | | |
| Kayo Lucas, Ft. Benning | vs. | Tommie Walden, Columbus |
| 4 Rounds | | |
| Sandy Huff, Ft. Benning | vs. | Seaweed Wilson, Ft. Benning |
| 4 Rounds | | |
| Special Colored Feature | | |
| Jimmie Lee, 24th Inf. | vs. | Slugger Banks, 24th Inf. |
| 3 Rounds | | |

General Admission 50c Ringside $1.00

Tickets on sale in Columbus at Sears-Roebuck & Co., Wheat's Drug Store, Hubbard Hardware Co., and Sport & Luggage Shop.

Griffin Knocks Out O'Dell Early SPORTS

Freebooters And Hoofers Remain Undefeated In Polo Tournament

After a month of rain and cold weather, Shannon Field witnessed a colorful continuation of the Round Robin Tournament last Sunday. The contests attracted many spectators from Columbus in addition to Fort Benning polo fans. The games in every case were close and exciting, in the course of which the Freebooters again demonstrated their right to rule the roost although the 29th Infantry Hoofers were close on their heels.

83rd Bows To 29th

In an exceptionally hardfought battle where speed dominated the play from beginning to end, the undefeated Hoofer outfit turned back the gallant Redlegs by a score of 5-3. Major Arnold's skill and leadership helped to hold down Bear Grease Westlund's splendid stickwork and kept the outcome of the game in doubt to the final gong.

| Redlegs | Hoofers |
|---|---|
| 1. Bevan | 1. O'Connor |
| 2. Sherburne | 2. Westlund |
| 3. Arnold | 3. Gould |
| 4. Herriot | 4. Cushman |

Umpire: Lieut. Buzz Butler

Billygoats Defeat Gunners

The Green Wave, after snapping out of a two period lethargy, rallied brilliantly in the third to overcome the greatly improved and hard-fighting gunners by a score of 6-3. Billygoat Lucas starred for the winners while Grubbs took care of the sharpshooting for the Gunners.

| Billygoats | Gunners |
|---|---|
| 1. Lucas | 1. Cobb, Ports |
| 2. Bloomquist | 2. Grubbs |
| 3. Gammon | 3. McManus |
| 4. Winn | 4. Haskell |

Umpire: Capt. L. W. Brown

Freebooters Topple Optimists

The piece de resistance of the afternoon was the game between the league-leading Freebooters and the argumentative Optimists. When the smoke and dust had drifted from the fields, the Freebooters were still topping the league and the Optimists had been toppled from their undefeated standing. The score was 9-6, and speaks for itself. Grandpa Nichols was again the stellar stick artist with four goals to his credit. Each Optimist scored his handicap.

| Freebooters | Optimists |
|---|---|
| 1. Lockett | 1. Monroe |
| 2. Nichols | 2. Halloran |
| 3. Blue | 3. Wilson |
| 4. Thompson | 4. Gee |

Standing of the Teams

| | W | L | P |
|---|---|---|---|
| Freebooters | 3 | 0 | 3 |
| 29th Hoofers | 2 | 0 | 2 |
| Billygoats | 2 | 1 | 3 |
| Optimists | 1 | 1 | 2 |
| Optimists | 1 | 1 | 2 |
| 83rd F. A. | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Students | 0 | 2 | 2 |
| Gunners | 0 | 3 | 3 |

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued from page 6)

pino at the tapein the 60 meter final at Madison Square Garden Saturday night. In winning the race, Metalfe smashed by 5-10 of a second the former world's record, established first in 1927 and since tied by Ed Si el.

The New Orleans flash was away in his whirlwind fashion with Wykoff on his heels and Metcalfe just a foot behind, gliding along in his effortless style. At the halfway mark, the black flash drew even with Wykoff, Toppino still holding his scanty lead. Ten yards from the tape, Metcalfe applied pressure and finished a fraction of an inch in front of Toppino.

* * *

Gene Venzke accounted for a surprise win over Glenn Cunningham in the 1,500 meter run. Venzke and Cunningham went off into the lead and were never headed. At the end of the race, both runners were so exhausted that they fell to the ground. The Penn freshman's margin of victory was a foot or so.

Percy Beard, star timber topper, fled over the 65 meter high hurdles in time that shattered all existing records. After the first two hurdles, he ran away with the race.

Joe McCluskey of Fordham lapped every runner but two in the 3,000 meter run to win as he pleased, a margin of one hundred yards separating him from his nearest competitor. His time broke the indoor record for the distance.

Bennie O'Dell No Match For Griffin In Bout Tuesday

Rip Tetherton Bests Beck In Semi-Final Go At St. Petersburg

The following account of the Griffin-O'Dell fight appeared in the St. Petersburg "Times" on Wednesday, March the first, following Griffin's knockout victory over Bennie O'Dell.

By PETE NORTON
(Sports Editor, The Times)

Wanted—a heavyweight boxer capable of giving Corn Griffin, Fort Benning soldier, a real battle. This is the sign that Matchmaker Jess O'Brien has hung out in front of the Legion ring following Griffin's five-round knockout victory over Benny O'Dell, lanky Clermont mauler, in the feature contest of the weekly boxing program at the armory last night.

Griffin won as he pleased over O'Dell, and the Florida youth provided such a small amount of opposition as to make the Fort Benning sharpshooter appear off form, and unable to land his punches during the first three rounds of the contest. O'Dell seemed overly-cautious at all times during the contest, although he snapped out of his defensive tactics long enough to jolt Griffin with a couple of hard right hand smashes in the fourth round.

The bout, heralded as the best fistic offering of the season in the armory ring, was a big disappointment to the ringsiders, although no blame can be attached to Griffin as he was seemingly willing to make a battle out of it from the outset. O'Dell, however, had other plans and he was content to jab and back back away with the result that the fans were clamoring for action after the first three rounds.

Responding to a warning from Referee Tommy Ryan, the battle picked up in the fourth stanza, resulting in the best round of the bout, and showing O'Dell as the possessor of a hard punch for the only time during the contest.

In the first three rounds, Griffin's left hooks to the body, mixed with an occasional right to the jaw when O'Dell stopped long enough for an exchange of punches, were seemingly the only effective blows, although after the fight Griffin reported that he had suffered a torn ligament in his left side when O'Dell landed a right hand body punch to the ribs in the second round. All of the rounds were scored for Griffin.

Griffin went to war in the fourth round, and battered O'Dell around the ring with rights and lefts to the head as the fourth started. O'Dell, realizing that he must defend himself lashed out with a couple of hard rights to the jaw, and he appeared to be gaining confidence as the round ended.

End Comes Swiftly

As in his fight with Eddie McCarthy, Griffin's winning punch was a left hook to the jaw, and he caught O'Dell off balance early in the fourth with this punch and dropped him for a nine count. After that, it was simply a case of Griffin landing the finishing punch. O'Dell covering his head with his gloved hands, lifted his elbows just high enough for Griffin's right to the heart to get through. He went down like a log, and Referee Ryan's count was nothing more than a formality that had to be complied with. O'Dell was dazed for several minutes after the bout.

Griffin came in at 176 1-2 pounds, several pounds under his normal weight, and O'Dell weighed 186.

The eight round bouts stole the show last night. Rip Tetherton, eagle-beaked middleweight from Fort Benning, proved a surprise package to Tommy Beck, lanky Jaxon, and pounded out a well-earned decision. He spottde the Jaxon six pounds, and then won five of the eight rounds. Tetherton's superior punching power gave him the edge over Beck, although

(Please turn to page 8)

Happy Hearts Win Ten And Lose Six During Successful Season

The Happy Heart quintet, coached by Lieutenant Howard Johnson, finished the current basketball season with a record of ten victories against only six defeats. The record is a fine one, considering that the Happy Hearts met some of the best professional and college fives in the south. In addition, it was their first year of organized regimental basketball.

Throughout the season, a commendable spirit was shown by the squad which had its practice sessions during the noon hour and who at all times displayed a willingness to sacrifice pleasures for the sake of the team. The attendance from the Regiment was not large due primarily to the fact that the games were held in the post gymnasium.

Basketball bids fair to become a popular winter activity with the 24th Infantry in the hands of Lieutenant Johnson, who also coached the championship football eleven of last year.

This year's quintet was captained by Alonzo Strong, who was one of the mainstays of the team. The individual star of the season was Virgil McLarkin, the team's high scorer, who rang baskets from every angle of the floor. The backbone of the quintet was Captain Strong, Lee, Lamb, McLarkin and Harris. Other members of the squad were Jessie Johnson, Roy Blackmon, Jack Meyer, Sloan Williams, Tommy Baugh, and James McCrary.

The combine won the first four games of the season, registering two victories over Spencer High, and defeating the Columbus Y. M. C. A., and the Hanley Athletic Club of Atlanta. A defeat was suffered at the hand of the Alabama State College, who had a championship outfit. In the next game, the Happy Hearts were beaten by the strong Omega Big Five aggregation, a professional team. Florida A. and M., boasting a powerful five, twice went down to defeat before the attack of the Happy Hearts.

The Louisville Flashes nosed out the boys from the Sunset Regiment by close scores. In two games with the strong Georgia Normal and Industrial School, the Happy Hearts broke even. Fort Valley was trimmed decisively.

The members of the successful squad, the team captain, and the coach are to be congratulated on the season.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Shop In The Herald

FEFFER JEWELRY Co.

JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS

Fine Repairing

1102 Broadway Phone 3914

LONG LIFE Buick USED CARS

TODAY'S SPECIAL

1931 FORD SPORT ROADSTER—All kinds of extra equipment—new tires—perfect running condition.

1931 OAKLAND "8" SEDAN. The smooth performance of this late model Oakland will appeal to any buyer. Perfectly clean throughout and brand new tires.

1931 BUICK COACH—Own and enjoy the prestige of this good late model "8" Buick — Thoroughly reconditioned, original finish like new—brand new tires.

1931 DESOTO "8" SPORT SEDAN—This 5 passenger, 6 wire wheel job, with its smooth running motor and beautiful finish will certainly please every member of the family—New tires also.

1931 CHEVROLET COACH We say, without reservation, that this is one of the best '31 model Chevrolets in any dealer's stock in Columbus —Priced to move too.

1930 BUICK SPORT Coupe —One of the famous "Sixes" —runs perfect — beautifully finished in original special Duco color combination—6 wire wheels and trunk rack —new tires. A job that stands out as it passes on the street.

1932 BUICK "8" SEDAN—Have two of these jobs—both will be sold under positive guarantee as to condition—both 6 wire wheels and trunk racks—One painted special Duco blue. Of course they have new tires.

COMPLETE STOCK OF PRACTICALLY ALL MODELS FORDS, CHEVROLETS, ESSEXS, NASHS, STUDEBAKERS, HUDSONS, BUICKS, AND FRANKLINS—

REASONABLE PRICES—LIBERAL TRADE ON YOUR OLD CAR TERMS TO SUIT YOUR CONVENIENCE

CLIFF M. AVERETT INC.

1441 First Avnue Phone 884

Amateur Championships Decided

SPORTS

Joe Knight, Cairo Lightheavy, Loses Decision To Bob Godwin

Joe Knight, Cairo lightheavyweight, recognized by the National Boxing Association as the leading lightheavy in the game, went down to defeat before the flying fists of Bob Godwin on March first. Godwin's victory bears much significance to Fort Benning fans who remember Bob's decisive defeat of Cyclone Smith some time ago.

For five rounds, the first half of the fight, Knight pounded Godwin mercilessly. Instead of weakening under the barrage, Godwin gradually grew stronger and clearly outpointed the pride of Cairo in the last five rounds. At the end of the bout, Godwin was cut badly around the face, both eyes were nearly closed, but he was still plugging.

The verdict in favor of Godwin registered favorably with the crowd. The two have met five times previously. Godwin has won three times, Knight twice, and one was declared a draw.

Corn Griffin, promising Benning lightheavy, whose path to national recognition, is marked by a number of fallen gladiators, is now considered highly everywhere and rates on a par with the best in his class.

It is doubtful whether either Knight or Godwin would welcome a bout with the soldier. Corn carries too much dynamite.

83rd Field Artillery

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

The motto for our Liaison Details in the future will be "We Lead the Way." The details in question marched with the 29th Infantry on the last problem which crossed the Chattahoochee River on the morning of Feb. 25, 1933. We admire the doughboys but as Redlegs we can not apply the proper aids to maneuver through the hills of Alabama and Georgia on foot. During the march we made several detours in order to not come in contact with any Artillerymen, as our Pilot's licenses as Artillerymen would be revoked, if caught splashing mud.

Rad Hall, our battery clerk, suffered an attack of lumbago the other week; from all reports he is associated with Santa Claus and will act in that capacity next Christmas.

Cpl. Pike is to be discharged this week and from all reports he intends to take on another stack with Headquarters Battery. Many a fair damsel's heart will be mended when he re-enlists.

The Gold Dust Twins, McLeod and Smith, are in conference as to whether or not they will invest Smith's finals in a Frog Pond some where in Louisiana, or buy a Jersey Bull from the Bull Durham Tobacco Co., in North Carolina. Smith says you can tell a Jerysey Cow from its license plate.

Yankee Holt has accepted the position as Liaison Officer for the Chinese Army and will leave for his new station as soon as they build a bridge across the pond. He has already drawn his emergency rations from Cook Niblett and expects to leave the Battery Monday.

BATTERY "A"

We mourn very much the loss of Sergeant James McCann who died at the Station Hospital, Fort Benning, Georgia, at 9:30 P. M. Sunday, February 19, 1933. Sgt. McCann's military career began in 1918 when he was assigned to the 115th Field Artillery in France. He was with Battery E, 115th Field Artillery the remainder of the war and was in three major engagements in France and received the Victory citation. He was discharged in April 1919 and enlisted in April 1920 for Battery A, 1st Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery. He joined this organization at Camp Knox, Ky., and served therein until his unfortunate death.

He was quiet, unassuming and a soldier with all that the word means. He enjoyed the complete faith and trust of all who served with him. We feel the distinct loss of one of those of whom it is truly said, "the backbone of the army."

Pvt. Key who re-enlisted about 3 months back for this Battery has returned from re-enlistment furlough and is now back on the job.

The Battery has five new assignments, all five of the young men are from the vicinity of Birmingham, Ala. Boys, I am sure the old gang will be glad to see you as that will mean more bunk fatigue for them. The following are the men that have been assigned: John A. Brooks, Chester B. Everett, James E. Goodwin, Thomas F. Porter and Fred L. Williams, Jr. The above men are all recruits except Pvt. Everett who has put in one hitch with Battery E, 16th Field Artillery, Fort Bragg, N. C.

Pfc. Sailers is the escort of the remains of Sergeant McCann to Conemaugh, Penn.

BATTERY "C"

With the assistance of all men and animals of Headquarters and "A" Battery we were able to turn out a war strength battery. Looks more like a regiment than an artillery battery. The only error noted during rehearsal was that we could not lay the battery to fire blanks without an aiming circle.

The maintenance section under the supervision of our supply sergeant functioned perfectly. We went out and came home without an accident. Bopp lost some weight mounting and dismounting while we were awaiting the arrival of the Staff.

We found out the use of locks on the caisson doors. Our Assistant Executive had us lock the doors before firing and hid the key, so when the command to fire came, we went in a huddle and wasted some good time.

Bennie Hill Wins Lightweight Title Last Tuesday Nite

Wilson Conquers Morris in Splendid Bout; Mann And Daggrepont Other Victors

Amateur boxers of Fort Benning offered fans a real show last Tuesday night when the championships for the four remaining weight classes were decided.

Bennie Hill, Tanker lightweight, won a hairbreadth decision from McPhail, representing the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry in an interesting three round mill. McPhail floored Hill in the second round. The Tanker threw plenty of leather at his opponent who weathered every storm to come back for more.

Morris of the First Battalion and Mann of the Special Unit went to war right from the start until the Irish fighter landed a low blow which sent his opponent to the canvas. Mann was awarded the fight on a fan foul.

Daggrepont, First Battalion, also won on a foul from Milan of the Tanks. Wilson of the Special Units and Morris of the Tanks put on a splendid brawl. At the end of three rounds, the referees were undecided as to the winner and declared an extra period. Wilson won the final round and the battle was awarded to him.

I. S. D.

Among the recent visitors to South Georgia was the well known "Gabby" Gable; and the report that reached the office was that upon return from the parts mentioned above there was observed to a large quantity of obvious farm land clinging to Mr. Gable's shoes and leggings. What it was all about is a matter that is still dark, but there is considerable talk of a lot of farm work, etc.

And speaking of work, who is the bright pupil that can picture Al Durden confronting a large stack of unwashed dishes. It seems that after the last program of fisticuffs at the post gym, Durden and party, consisting of Grantham, Dodd, of the personnel, and some others stopped in town for refreshments. Soft drinks were the choice of the majority, but Al, to be different, declared that what his soul craved was coffee. (All sports writers do, all the time.)

Ennyhoo, when the Scotch pastime of reaching for the check started, Al, who had gone into the Greasy Spoon for the Java, found that Grantham and company, who remained in the car, had departed. And there was la Durden facing a hardboiled proprietor, and an enormous stack of dishes.

Ask Al, he knows!

The legal department, which frivolously fritters away the hours at post headquarters has been seen going in rather heavily for chevrons lately. It's Master Sergeant Lambert now, and Mac has come in for his share, being elevated to the dignity of a Tech. Even Orphan Annie Mitchell, the quiet boy with that winning personality, boasts three of those stripes on his sleeve.

The outfit is glad to see all this happen, but a few vengeful observers wonder if it is the result of the court at the organization day party.

29th Inf.

The Company took part in a Regimental Maneuver February 24-26th, in the Chattahoochee river sector. On the morning of crossing the river by ponton's, the water was so high it could not be bridged and they had to ferry the troops over in boats, the men using the oars. The command crossed in approximately four hours. Immediately upon crossing the river the troops assumed their fighting positions and at 11:45 the air forces laid down a smoke screen and the boys went over the top to win the war. It is recommended that the next river crossing be postponed until such a time as the river may freeze over or go dry.

One of our chief scouts (A Student Officer) known in the maneuvers as Lt. Brown, is repored as having swum the Chattahoochee 26 times during the maneuver.

During all the battle Headquarters Company was getting all the messages to their destination as is their manner of performance, without a tieup of duty.

Our small bore team, composed of Sergeant Major Heldreth, Sgt. Willie Harrison, Murphy, Corp. Hayes and Gatch, have been firing on the small bore range during the week and are making good scores. The first day, they were shooting in the rain, but put on a fair performance. Corp. Hayes said Corp. Youngblood made 56 out of a possible 200 and said he wondered if he was using a 12 or a 16 gauge shotgun or just a plain splatter gun.

The Special Units bowling team composed mostly of Headquarters Company men, Cameron, Hall, Labonte and Graylock were given a banquet by Cannon Company, 29th Infantry, Wednesday evening and also a fine reception for their winning the Post Championship in bowling for this year.

The Radio Section are taking advantage of the Wire Section with their two freshly married men and are trimming them regularly in our indoor baseball games held in the morning.

Corp. Easley has returned from a 90 days furlough from Mexico and he reports that the beer is very refreshing down on the Rio Grande. One of the things he noticed in particular about the bars down there was that the brass rails were highly polished, "Colonel Major".

—I. M. Yarbrough.

POLO NOTES

(Continued from page 6)

ists pack the "wife and kiddies" into the family bus and come out to enjoy the fun. No charge is made for this privilege which after all is only a small contribution to the splendid attitude of Columbus and its residents.

* * *

It was obvious that no polo had been played for sometime prior to the Sunday exhibition. Each game had its share of players who found it convenient at some time or other to take to the life boats. Monte Blue failed to agree with Tim Lonnergan and found himself planted near the south sideboards; Red Sherburne dismounted during a scramble to stretch his legs, as it were; and an unknown Gunner stuck to his grey Pegasus and did to the best of his ability uphold the tradition of the sun.

* * *

Another remark from the side lines: "Does Major Arnold wear a black undershirt all the time?"

* * *

The golfers from block 23 and vicinity have discovered that the polo fields are excellent places for practising iron shots. No reports are available as to whether divots are replaced or not; but that is immaterial because negotiations are now underway which may make it possible (maybe) to hoid polo practice on the new golf course.

GRIFFIN KNOCKS OUT O'DELL IN FIFTH ROUND

(Continued from Page 7)

the Florida lad probably landed the greater number of punches during the bout.

The Times score sheet showed five rounds for Tetherton, two for Beck and one even.

Tetherton proved to be an artist with a left hook, continually knocking Beck back with this weapon. His ability to get inside Beck's long arms, put the Jaxon at a disadvantage throughout. The judge's decision was unanimous.

Tetherton weighed 150 1-2 pounds, and Beck six pounds more.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

TYPEWRITER
REPAIRING
All Makes
Stewart Typewriter Co.
1041 Broadway Phone 2622

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c
A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit isued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

PEP... in every step
Use
HOOD
Heels and Soles
Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.

The Lenten Season is upon us now, and daily menus are becoming harder to plan. We stock all kinds of seafoods, and other Lenten foods.

GROCERY DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GA.
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

ATTRACTIVE BRICK HOME
ONE BLOCK OFF BENNING ROAD
IN ANDREWS' SURVEY
5 Rooms—Hardwood Floors—Tiled Bath
Lot 75 x 290 - - - Immediate Possession
PRICE $2750.00
Easy Terms
EDGE & ARMOUR, Inc.
No. 9 - 12th Street Realtors Phone 66

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL NEWS
(Continued From Page 2)

Report Cards

Capt. Merrill gave out the report cards Wednesday February 1. It was noticeable in one room that the boys were making higher marks than the girls. The 5-A is having a contest to see who will make the highest marks, the girls or the boys.

—Jimmie Street

5-A Studies History

The 5-A started history this term. The book they study is "Beginners' History of Our Country." It is very interesting. Everyone was glad to get it.

—Jimmie Street

The Punch and Judy Show

Mr. Fox came to Fort Benning with his Punch and Judy show. It was in the first grade room Friday, January 13. He showed us how he worked his fingers and how he talked. The show lasted about ten minutes.

—Ray Porter

Miss Sanders' Room Gives Stars

Miss Sanders' room is giving red, blue, and gold stars to the pupils who do good work. The pupils in 5-B were given three slips of colored paper. One was for geography, one was for reading, and one for arithmetic. On these papers they are going to put all the stars which they make. They are going to see who has the most at the end of the month.

Frances West is in the lead in the 5-A. Schofield Waddington is leading in the 5-B.

—Bernard Simpson.

ADVANCED CLASSICS
(Continued from Page 4)

the doughboys had pinch-hit for engineers before, all of which was essentially correct.

John Switzer, eminent critic of the drama and other activities, was present as a guest of the management. Mr. Switzer magnanimously consented to make a few observations for The Benning Herald. In part he stated:

"As a whole it was an elegant performance. I, however, would suggest a change of title for the show to 'The Deflation of the Engineer' or something similar. Also, I rather believe there was excessive use of profanity on the part of some of the actors. That is something I can hardly condone. It was a very enlightening and stirring exhibition, however, and I am certainly glad that I will not be here next year to see another such performance."

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

RUBBER STAMPS
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

WOLFSON CO.
Paper and Paper Bags, Drinking Cups, Paper Napkins and Stationery.
939 Broadway
PHONE 113

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

LT. PEEP'S DIARY
(Continued from Page 4)

snorers. While Cordoba did appropriately produce all the sounds of the sea in pain; McKinney gave evidence of having recently resided in a sawmill. Uhrbrock, in my humble and widely disregarded opinion, achieved the palm for originality of execution having successfully emulated a fussy housekeeper dragging a trunk over bare floor, not liking it in one corner and dragging it to another for another unsuccessful try, each corner being possessed of its particular pitch. But of course no house ever had that many separate corners or bare floors. As auricular diversion it could not have been surpassed had the Glee Club lined the Georgia shore and regaled us with "Shall We Gather at the River" or "Pull for the Shore."

Above the cries of the Brain Trust for springs in their cots and the vehement and continued exhortations to us to "Fall In" and "Fall Out" lest we get thirty consecutive minutes of inactivity, one lesson is paramount.

Continual harassing of troops will put them in such a fighting mood as will brook no opposition.

Monday, Feb. 27

I do wonder if, by this time, all the troops and trains destined to cross the Chattahoochee last Friday night have successfully countermarched through Girard and Columbus to the home station or if the engineers are still waiting for a drop in the river.

Tuesday, Feb. 28

The class much gratified by the announcement that they need no longer wear their name plates.

The morning having been spent in the wet and muddy places, we were given the afternoon off. Great disposition on the part of many not to take it. For myself I did go directly home and cry myself to sleep.

Wednesday, March 1

An aimless wanderer on the streets of Columbus this morning taken in tow by the police was, upon investigation, proved to be a Company Officer unable to identify himself being without his nameplate upon which he had solely relied for five months. I cannot be convinced that its being the morning after pay day had any bearing on the matter.

Off to a good start on combat orders under Captain Hones. He did say that "Married men get out of the habit of issuing orders, but they know what orders are." And he did speak as one with authority and not as the Scribes and Pharisees.

Captain Phillips at some pains to demonstrate to us how the sign painter can put two and two together and always get twenty-two. He kept insisting that the chart-making process is as simple as reproduction in the amoeba so I could but wonder at the implication contained in his requiring two hours to explain it.

—Lieut. Peep.

CIVILIAN-SOLDIERS BEGIN 4-MONTH COURE OF STUDIES
(Continued from Page 1)

rence A. McKenny, and Carl H. Phillips. Minnesota; Captain Ralph N. Graen. Montana; Captain Floyd E. Burnett. Minnesota; Captain Albert A. Svoboda, and Lieutenants Charles J. Tinucci, and Joseph D. Eder. Missouri; Captain Fred I. Hironimus, and Lieutenants Gordon B. Inglis, and Floy L. Nichols. New Jersey; Captain Walter H. Elbers, New York; Captains Lloyd J. Arthur, William H. Floyd, Jr., Fred P. Todd, Lieutenants Edward I. Brandt, Chalden N. Gilman, James H. Humphrey, Herman N. Lutz, James J. McDonald, and George Wood. North Carolina; Captain Thomas S. Kitterell. North Dakota; Lieutenant William J. Smith. Ohio; Captain Frank I. Belke, Bernard F. Kean, Ralph L. Wolf, Lieutenant Robert J. Kohler. Oklahoma; Captains William L. Atkinson, and Edward F. Stephenson. Oregon; Captains Walter A. Bean, Raymond M. Scott, Carl V. Schoonmaker. Pennsylvania; Captains Ira D. Keirn, Walter A. Linn, Thomas J. Noto, and Carl L. Peterson. Puerto Rico; Captain William A. Fout. Tennessee; Captain Vernon W. Blair. Texas; Captains Van W. Pyland, John W. Lipscomb, Elliott Ramsey, James N. Rankin, William J. Sutton, and Lieutenant Edward N. Wilmoth. South Carolina; Lieutenant Frank W. La Motte. Vermont; Captain John B. Fowler, and Lieutenant Arthur K. Tudhope. Washington; Captain Harold B. Bunkin. West Virginia; Captain Henry F. Hunt. Wisconsin; Captain Carl W. Shaw, and George C. Bierman.

Reserve Officers

Alabama; Captains Newell C. Griffin, Julian S. Pinkston, and James M. Roberts. California; Lieutenant Maurice C. Fahrney. Colorado; Lieutenants Cecil H. Buchanan. Connecticut; Lieutenant Carl E. Anderson. Florida; Captain Hugh B. Dudley. Georgia; Lieutenant Ralph N. Walker. Illinois; Captain Charles H. Moore, Lieutenants John C. Kilgore, Walter Urbach, Phillip C. Wahlbem, and Raymond N. Lipsey. Indiana; Lieutenant George S. Wilson. Iowa; Captains Eugene M. Branaum, Russell M. Cockerhan, Lieutenant Harvey L. Danielson, and Thomas L. D. Lynwiler. Kansas; Lieutenant Jack F. Theakston. Kentucky; Captains Marcus C. Longford, and James P. Moore. Maryland; Lieutenant Fordyce E. C. Campbell. Massachusetts; Lieutenant Thomas K. Lynch, jr. Michigan; Captain Robert. K. Phelps, Lieut. Max R Matthews, Francis McDermott, and Ralph A. Palmer. Minnesota; Captain Rupert E. Williams, and Lieutenants Orville G. Eklund, Robert M. Purber, and Bernard A. Johnson. Mississippi; Captain James W. Foley. Missouri; Captain James R. Miller, and Lieutenant William A. Borders. Nebraska; Lieutenants Richard E. Blare, and Solomon Buezo. New Hampshire; Lieutenants Alexander B. Currie. New Jersey; Captains John Clendenning, jr., Namon B. Harrison, William E. McGuire, and Lieutenant Casper S. Apple. New Mexico; Lieutenant Jas. A. Woodsworth. North Carolina; Lieutenant John B. Crinkley. North Dakota; Lieutenant Clarence J. Bakken, and Henry J. Nesbit. New York; Captains William B. Boons, Douglas S. Mapes, George L. Robinson; Geo. T. Summerlin, jr., Lieutenant Nathan Armour, Joseph C. Battiato, Edgar L. Green, jr., Robert C. Pettit, Alfred Walter, and Angus C. Wooten. Ohio; Captain Samuel S. Connoway. Oregon; Lieutenant John H. Spigler. Pennsylvania; Lieutenant James S. Martin, William S. Hetter, Frank A. Smonskey, and Paul L. Snyder. South Carolina; Lieutenant Luther D. Allison. Texas; Lieutenants Ralph W. Bogle, jr., Morris B. Brown, Sanford N. Pool, jr., and John Stricker, jr. Utah; Lieutenants Clarence O. Brunner, and George C. Cook. Vermont; Lieutenant Herbert E. Hazen. Virginia; Lieutenant Benjamin B. Albert. Washington; Lieutenant Raymond Horn, and Carl T. Richardson. West Virginia; Captain Lawrence Lundquist. Wisconsin; Lieutenant Eugene S. Graham, William R. F. Seeman.

Tank Course

Lieutenant Lyman R. Johnson, California N. G., Captain Edmund J. Engel, Illinois N. G., Captain Bacon R. Moore, Kentucky N. G.; Lieutenant David R. Kennedy, Massachusetts N. G.; Captain C. B. Powers, Inf. Res. Minnesota; Captain Louis M. Nesselbush, Inf. Res., Ohio.

Her: "I think dancing makes a girl's feet too big, don't you?"

Him: "Yeah."

(Pause).

Her: "I think swimming gives a girl awfully large shoulders, don't you?"

Him: "Yeah."

(Pause).

Him: "You must ride quite a lot, too."

—West Point Pointer

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

FREE For Indigestion. Write PEPSO-GINGER CO., Columbus, Ga., for a free test package of Pepso-Ginger.

THE FLARE
(Continued from Page 4)

he did not hesitate to use it. Nothing is too good for English peas threatened with pneumonia.

The cold snap passed and two days later Captain Bell realized with horror that his new overcoat had been protecting his peas not only from the cold but from the heavy rains which had followed it. It was a dilapidated garment indeed that the chagrined gardener rescued from the mud. Cleaning and pressing do wonders but it is doubtful if it will ever look the same.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

We see in this week's society headlights where the Community Service League of Columbus is throwing a big two-day bridge fight in the neighboring metropolis on Friday and Saturday of this week. This opens up new worlds to conquer for the local bridge sharks like Colonel Jenkins, Major Arms and the Matchetts.

We are interested to see how some of our experts make out in competition with the Columbus fiends. As long as we don't have to play bridge ourselves or listen to post mortems on hands that other people have played, we are all for more and bigger intercommunity tournaments.

SHOE ON THE OTHER FOOT

On one otherwise bright and cheerful morning last week, Major F. G. (Pete) Bonham was annoyed to receive a billet doux from the Provost Marshall notifying him that his car, driven by a lady, had been noted exceeding the speed limit on such and such a street at such and such a time.

Returning home at noon, his first duty as a husband was to demand of Mrs. Bonham an explanation for the offense. The tables were quickly turned, however, when Mrs. Bonham got the time and place data, for she had not driven the car at all on the day in question. From then on it was the Major who did the explaining.

CONFUSING DETAILS

It must be difficult, sometimes, at maneuvers to determine just who and what one is and why.

For instance, at the late lamented crossing of the raging Chattahoochee, Gadgeteer Craig, the son of a cavalryman, a graduate of the Naval Academy, commissioned in the Field Artillery, now attending The Infantry School, had charge of a platoon of the local tank regiment which was representing a company of engineers.

REALISM

Speaking of the river crossing exercise reminds us that Major Dan Howe starred in one of the major tragedies of that memorable night.

How he happened to do it we don't know, but somehow or other the distinguished soldier and monographer managed to fall into a can of evil smelling swill early in the evening. As the equipment prescribed for the occasion did not include a change of raiment, Major Howe had to spend the next eight hours or so in a state of acute discomfort and unpopularity. Whenever he sought the companionship of his fellows gathered in little groups waiting for something to happen, they either moved on or invited him to do so.

We once heard an able battle tried soldier describe war as a state of "indescribable filth and confusion." Major Howe at least has the satisfaction of having approximated service conditions.

—E. F. H.

100% Pure Pennsylvania
PENNZOIL
Safe Lubrication
FOR SALE
Post Exchange

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT
RATES REASONABLE
Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062
DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

A delicious loaf baked especially for people who like GOOD bread. It has a fine texture and a rich, brown, tender crust.

COLLIN'S BAKERY
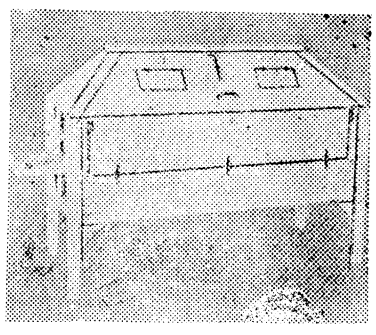
1044 13TH STREET



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish, Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

29TH INFANTRY CELEBRATES ORGANIZATION DAY

(Continued From Page 1)

none work harder the year round than the doughboys of the 29th Infantry. During the school year, these men are almost constantly in the field, many times from long before sunrise until long after dark, with numerous overnight problems and other manoeuvers in addition.

The first element of the 29th Infantry, the 1st Battalion, was organized on March 3, 1911 at Columbus Barracks, Ohio. Company E was organized in May, and Companies L and M in June of the same year. Late in the summer of 1901 the 1st Battalion was moved to Columbus Barracks, Ohio, where it remained for a short time. Early in 1902 the regiment was ordered to the Philippines, where it arrived the 1st of May. There the regiment was divided into detachments which were sent to the islands of Cobu, Pansy Behol, and Negros. By that time most of the fighting of the Philippine insurrection was over, but Companies E, O, and F, participated in a number of engagements, and Company E captured the insurrection leader, Adriane Concepcion.

The regiment returned to the United State in 1904 and was stationed by battalions in various posts of the western states, with headquarters at Fort Douglas, Utah. Here it did routine duty until 1907, when it was again ordered to the Philippines for another tour of foreign service. The regiment remained in the Island until 1909, with station at Fort McKinley, when it again returned to States and occupied the posts of Fort Jay, Fort Porter, and Fort Niagara, New York.

In 1910 the regiment took part in the manoeuvers at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. The people along the route of march across the state evidenced great interest in the regiment and gave it a cordial reception wherever it encamped on route.

The next break in routine duties for the 29th Infantry came in 1915. The World War had involved all of the great European powers and the importance of the Panama Canal and its adequate protection was a matter of vital importance. The 29th Infantry was selected for this important duty and received its orders on March 17, 1915. It sailed immediately upon its arrival in New York, and, seven days after embarking, was guarding the canal. It continued on this duty for nearly three and a half years.

In 1910 the regiment was ordered to Camp Beauregard, Louisiana, where it was divided to help organize the 84th Infantry, 17th Division.

As the division was preparing to leave for overseas an epidemic of influenza caused so many deaths within its ranks that its departure was delayed, with the result that the 29th never saw service in France, for by the time a sufficient recovery was made from the ravages of the "flu", the Armistice was signed and the task of demobilizing the army was begun. The regiment was destined to be a big factor in this vast undertaking, moving to Camp Shelby, Mississippi, where during the following year it served as the necessary overhead in sending thousands of men back to their homes.

On March 23, 1919, the 1st Battalion of the 29th Infantry arrived at Fort Benning, then known as Camp Benning, and the remainder of the regiment arrived on October 15 of the same year. Since then the 29th Infantry has been stationed at Fort Benning as the demonstration regiment of the Infantry School.

Col. Persons, 29th Inf. Commander, Has Distinguished Career With Army

Colonel William H. Persons, United States Army, recently commanding officer of the United States transport "Republic" arrived at Fort Benning about 10:00 P. M. Wednesday to assume his new duties as commander of the Infantry School's demonstration regiment. Colonel Person's present assignment with the 29th Infantry is the second one which he has had with an infantry regiment bearing the same numerals, as early in his career he served as an enlisted man in the 29th United States Volunteer Infantry.

Nearly thirty-five years ago, when the country was at a high pitch of excitement and resentment following the destruction of the "Maine" in Havana Harbor, one of those who answered the summons of the war drums which were calling the young men of the nation to the colors for the impending conflict was William H. Persons, a young Georgia lad who then lacked a month of being twenty years of age.

Young Persons enlisted in the 2nd Georgia Infantry, then forming for service in Cuba, and shortly afterward became first sergeant of Company A. This was in May, 1828. As first sergeant he demonstrated such out-standing qualities of leadership that after a few months service in the ranks, he was given a commission as second lieutenant in his regiment in September, 1898.

COL. WILLIAM H. PERSONS

At the conclusion of active hostilities in the short-lived war he was mustered out of the service on November 30 of the same year, but when news came of the insurrection which was sweeping the Philippine Islands, young ex-lieutenant Persons lost no time in rejoining the colors, and on September 15, 1899, he enlisted in Company I, 29th U. S. Infantry, (Volunteers). In this regiment he served successively as private, sergeant, first sergeant, and battalion sergeant-major, until he again won a commission as second lieutenant on October 19, 1900. He held this rank in the volunteer regiment until May 10, 1901, when he was mustered out to accept a commission in the regular army which dated from February 2, 1901.

Subsequent promotions in the regular army made him a first lieutenant on September 28, 1904; a captain on August 19, 1915; major and lieutenant colonel on July 1, 1920, and a colonel on January 1, 1931. From August 5, 1917 to May 11, 1920, he held the temporary rank of major, and on the later date he was promoted to lieutenant colonel, National Army, which rank he held until January 1, 1920.

During the World War Colonel Persons served with the 8th Division, Camp Fremont, California, which was about to embark for France when the Armistice ended the war.

In March, 1918, Colonel Persons was assigned to the University of Oklahoma as professor of military science and tactics, a position which he occupied for five years, during which time the University's R. O. T. C. unit won the War Department's distinguished college rating.

In 1924 he was graduated from the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and became a member of the general staff corps eligible list. From 1924 to 1926 he was on duty in the office of the chief of infantry, Washington, D. C. and following the completion of this duty he was assigned as instructor of the Alabama National Guard, at Montgomery. While on this latter duty Colonel Persons won the commendation of Governor Graves, of Alabama, for the excellent services which he rendered in the rescue work and relief of flood refugees in Alabama. After completing his national guard assignment Colonel Persons became professer of military science and tactics at the University of Alabama, whose R. O. T. C. unit, under Colonel Persons' direction, won a distinguished rating from the War Department for the first time in its career.

In November, 1931, Colonel Persons was graduated from the refresher course at The Infantry School, and in April, 1932, he was assigned to command of the United States Army transport "Republic". The "Republic" was in Shanghai Harbor during the bombardment of the Chapei district by the Japanese, and when the American troops departed from Shanghai several months later the "Republic" transported the 31st Infantry back to the Philippine Islands.

Colonel and Mrs. Persons will be at home to the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry at the Polo-Hunt Club, Fort Benning from five to seven P. M., Sunday, March 5.

Tank Notes

On Thursday of last week Captain "Bob" Wallace Adjutant, received a Silver Star citation medal for gallantry in action.

Captain Wallace was cited in General Orders for great courage and devotion to duty while serving with the machine gun company, 28th Infantry, First Division during the Soissons Drive in July 1918, his platoon was suddenly fired on by several German machine gunners who had escaped capture during the initial advance of the Division. The Germans had taken cover in wheat fields and as soon as the advancing American Troops came within range they opened intensive fire which called for great leadership and skill in maneuvering on the part of the American troops.

Cadet Yarborough again scored for West Point in their meet against Princeton on February 18th. Yarborough took third place in the 200 yard Breast Stroke scoring one of the twelve points registered by Army in the Meet. He was the second Army man to finish.

We wish to congratulate Sergeant Leon J. Wright and Corporal Thomas C. Pullen upon their promotion. We hope that they will carry on their new duties with even greater zest and ability than they did their old one.

We know someone who lost a bet because someone else didn't make the hike to Fiske Range.

Staff Sergeant Stewart has a woeful tale about some records that he had all picked out to take home. Wonder if Gadget can help the Sergeant out. Pretty sure he can.

Private Ellie Tapley of Company E wants to know what kind of a kick his pals of the Artillery get out of turning the radio on at 3:00 o'clock in the morning waking up us Tankers.

Did you hear of the Corporal who took one of our Company Commanders by the hand during the gas drill and said: "Just follow me 'Chicken' and I'll see you safely through the gas." This certain corporal thought he had the Editor of the Weekly News by the hand but it turned out to be Captain Murphy of Headquarters Company. Was his face red? Well, just ask Gunter.

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 or less

for bills . . education . . travel

●

Check off these advantages:

√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.

204 Woolworth Bldg.

Phone 4372

6%

ON SAVINGS

We appreciate your account — either borrowing or saving.

Security Savings & Loan Co.

Cor. 13th St. and 1st Ave.
Phone 2766

Star Brand Shoes are Better

We Can Fit The Family at a Saving

MEN'S OXFORDS

$1.95, $2.65, $3.19, $3.95

SAM NEEL'S STAR BRAND

SHOE DEPARTMENT

1010 Broadway Phone 1642

Westbrook Building

Our Week-end Special

BLACK WALNUT LAYER CAKES

Home-made in looks and taste—just one of our many varieties baked especially to satisfy that natural desire for home-made cake.

EVERIDGE'S

The Bakery Beautiful

109 - 12th Street Columbus, Ga.

Fidelity Loan and Investment Co.

1206 First Avenue

Loans made at 8 percent

Payable In 12 Months

We can give 24 hours' service

T. E. BAISDEN, Secy. and Treas.

SPRING

CHECK-UP

Insure long wear and safety in your car by having it examined frequently, and by using only the best grades of oils and greases.

AUTO DEPT.

POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Any Person Not In The Military Service

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II | FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1933 | NUMBER 46

TOWN TOPICS

The annual offering of the Glee Club is invariably a big event in the calendar of the Infantry School year. This year, "The Debutante," a charming and clever operetta by Victor Herbert, threatens to steal the thunder from former productions of the popular organization.

From the tiny but reliable bits of information that have reached our ears from various sources, we feel entirely justified in coming out with this decidedly optimistic statement. For one thing, it is doubtful whether a greater abundance of talent was ever assembled in an annual Glee Club presentation before.

Let her rip!

* * *

Found: a complete set of ladies' underwear in the Biglerville Hall. Owner may redeem same by applying to Lieut. Dowdall.

We admit no keen insight into the frailties of human nature, but we strongly suspect that the aforementioned garments will rot away 'ere someone comes to claim them.

* * *

"Coffee Dan's," another novel scheme proceeding from the idea-infested brain of Lieutenant Dowdall, has already drawn a capacity house at the time of writing. Three hundred and thirty-six coffee fiends have signed up for tables and the Officers' Club is incapable of taking care of any more. To date, seventy have been turned away; and, if they must have coffee, will have to indulge in the drug quietly at home.

For the benefit of those who have never become acquainted with the highly esteemed character, "Coffee Dan's" is the place where theatrical-minded folks gathered en masse to talk glibly on sundry subjects over cups of steaming coffee. Impromptu singing is another important feature, and an officer has been found on the post who can accompany anyone or anything on the piano. One thing that Coffee Dan's never had that the Officers' Club will have, is an orchestra and dancing.

* * *

The recently declared bank holiday has thrown consternation in the ranks of citizenry. For those who have the money on hand, the bank holiday will undoubtedly succeed in putting it into circulation, but for those who never had the money anyway, c'est bien dommage. Don't spend your nickles all at once.

* * *

The cast of the "Debutante" was surprised and alarmed a week ago Thursday when ordinarily mild-man nered Professor Vondereau gave the members a tongue lashing such as they had never had before. The tiger in the man actually came to the surface.

From An Artist's Inauguration Scrapbook

This series of sketches from the pen of Massaguer, celebrated Cuban caricaturist, gives his impression of personalities who attended the inauguration of Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt last Saturday.

Gala Program Features Opening Of New 24th Infantry Theatre Here Wednesday Evening

Like a page from one of the romantically-tinted stories in which Octavus Roy Cohen and Hugh Wiley have portrayed various phases of the social life of the southern negroes, was the entertainment program which attended the formal opening of the 24th Infantry Theater at Fort Benning on Wednesday evening, March 8. It was a gala affair which filled to overflowing the auditorium of the attractive new building, which has been officially turned over to the post authorities as one of the foremost features of the recreational facilities for the colored troops of the Infantry garrison.

With the exception of a brief address by Colonel Fred L. Munson, commanding officer of the historical old regiment, the splendid program which preceded the showing of the motion picture, was an all-colored affair, and afforded a variety of entertainment for the audience which comprised, in addition to enlisted members of the regiment, their families and friends, a number of officers of the regiment, and of the staff of the Infantry School.

The exercises were opened by an invocation by Chaplain Louis A. Carter, during which he expressed thanks to the Almighty on behalf of the recipients of the new adjunct to the colored soldiers' recreational lishments, and besought Divine blessing for the new feature which is to loom so largely as an uplifting factor in the material and spiritual phases of their life.

Colonel Munson then made a brief address, during which he paid tribute to the several members of the 24th Infantry who aided in the construction of the building, and expressed his thanks on behalf of the regiment to the Army Motion Picture Service, of the adjutant general's office, Washington, D. C. which planned and made possible the construction of the new theater; Captain Carl H. Jabelonsky, constructing quartermaster of Fort Benning, who supervised the construction; and Colonel J. DeCamp Hall, post quartermaster, who aided in the assembling of building materials.

Then began a medley of acts comprised in revue entitled "The Bachelor's Inn," in which were presented the 24th Infantry's most comical comedians, its singin'est songsters, and its dizziest dancers. The scene was laid in a colored cabaret, with an old-fashioned bar, complete down to the brass foot-rail, on one side; a sizzling-hot jazz orchestra on the other; and small tables for the patrons on the dance floor between.

Six comedians appropriately garbed, and with burnt-cork black-face makestadter, Bert Williams, and George Robinson by their up-to-date jokes, their amusing antics, their hot harmony, and their fast and funny footwork. In this group were Corporal George Brown, and Privates Earl W. Brown, Benjamin Randolph, Aaron Harper, Arthur R. Nelson, and Virgil McLarkin, who appeared from time to time in separate numbers and who cut comic capers at other times throughout the performance.

The song program began with a chorus by the entire cast. This was followed by "Sleepy Time Down South," sung by Private Earl W. Brown, and another solo entitled "Stardust," by Private James A. Ross.

A number of selections were then sung by the 24th Infantry Glee Club quartette, comprising Sergeant Willie B. Wood, Corporal Walter A. Bennett, and Privates James A. Ross, and Douglas King. "How 'M Doin'" sung by Private Aaron Harper, "Asleep In The Deep," rendered in an appropriately deep bass voice by Corporal Walter A. Bennett, and "Paradise" sung by Private James A. Ross, followed.

Then was introduced the only feminine performer on the program, Miss Gladys La Palmore, of Augusta, Georgia, who tickled the ivories and sang a number of snappy songs in a man-

Warrant Officer Horton Is Recipient Of Purple Heart Award Recently

Warrant Officer George A. Horton, bandleader of the 24th Infantry, last week received the "Purple Heart" decoration, a medal presented to those who have been wounded in action. Warrant Officer Horton was to be congratulated on having this honor bestowed upon him.

One Killed, Several Injured In Wreck Last Wednesday

One soldier is dead, and four others are in the Fort Benning station hospital suffering from injuries as the result of an accident to an army truck, which overturned on the Beuna Vista road near the Midway school, shortly after eight o'clock Wednesday morning.

Dead: Private Edward L. Brown, fractured skull, Company A, 29th Infantry. Age 22. Home address Ripley, Tennessee.

Injured: Sergeant Milton E. Dye, age 26, Company E, 29htn Infantry. Home address, Sandersville, Georgia. Under observation for possible fracture of skull.

Private Robert D. Hensen, age 21, Company B, 29th Infantry, home address, Sylva, N. C. Severe lacerations of left forearm.

Private Daniel W. Knight, age 24, Battrey C, 83rd Artillery. Home address, Miami, Florida. Dislocation of right shoulder.

Slightly injured: Private William Mitchell, age 25, Company C, 29th Infantry, home address, Jonesville, S. C. Abrasions of both legs.

The truck, in charge of Sergeant Dye, and driven by Private Mitchell, was traveling eastward on the Buena Vista Highway, bound for the academic camp, where the men, who are on special duty with the gardening detachment were to obtain a number of small trees, for transplanting.

A broken drive shaft which dropped to the pavement is believed to have caused the overturning of the vehicle, which was traveling at a speed of between 25 and 30 miles an hour, according to eye witnesses of the accident. One of these was Franklin B. Tomlin, civilian, driver of the Midway School bus, who carried Private Knight to the station hospital. Sergeant Dye and Private Henson were picked up and carried to the post hospital by A. G. Reese, of the Columbus police department. Private Mitchell, who was least seriously injured, remained at the scene of the wreck until an army ambulance was sent out to transport him and the body of Private Brown to the hospital.

A preliminary investigation by military police, directed by Lieutenant Nunez C. Pilet, apparently confirmed the accounts of the victims and witnesses of the cause of the wreck, and the rate of speed at which the truck was traveling at the time. Marks found on the pavement indicated that the broken drive shaft had dragged for several yards before catching on the concrete and acting as a lever to overturn the truck, which rolled over twice before coming to rest on its right side athwart the road.

Maj. Gen. Coleman, Chief Of Finance Department, Here For Short Visit

Major General Frederick W. Coleman, chief of the Finance Department of the United States army, Washington, D. C. arrived at Fort Benning about five-thirty P. M., Thursday for a brief official visit. General Coleman was the guest of Major General Campbell King, commandant, at his quarters on Thursday night, and probably will depart from Fort Benning on Friday.

General Coleman was appointed chief of the Finance Department, on

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Fashion Show Held Last Week At Polo Club Proves Big Success

The fashion show sponsored by the Fort Benning chapter of the Daughters of the United States Army which was held Saturday afternoon at the Polo Hunt Club was a huge success. Over two hundred reservations were made for tables. In the center of the Club was a long runway for the parade of the models, flanking the runway in the form of a horseshoe were the tables seating from four to six persons. These tables were attractively decorated with yellow, green, and blue crepe paper, and in the center of each was a graceful spray of yellow jessamine. During the showing, tea and sandwiches were served by members of the Girl Scouts of the Post.

Credit for most of the success of the show goes to Mrs. Herbert A. Wadsworth, while Mrs. Leroy W. Nichols, assisted by Mrs. Dunkelberg was the head of the decorating committee. The firms from Columbus that furnished the lovely gowns and accessories making the affair possible were: Kirven's, Miller-Taylor Shoe store, Alsobrook, includng the children's department, the Philippine Handwork Shop, and Kaiser-Lillienthal. Introducing the models and acting as the very competent master of ceremoenies was Lieut. Ovid O. Wilson assisted by Lt. John A. Stewart. After the showing of the gowns, Miss Agnes Harrison from Columbus, assisted by Mr. Warner, danced a beautiful tango.

The attractive models were: Mesdames Macolmb F. Lindsey, William C. Lucas, Theodore T. Dunn, George P. Howell, George A. Lynch, Orryl S. Robles, Wilbur L. Dunkleberg, Groves and Shelton and the Misses Harriotte Atkins, Elizabeth Beatty, Page Michie, Mary Wadsworth, Maxine Rife, Jacqueline Thompson, Patricia Robles, and Joan Arnold and Master Bobby Gayle.

The proceeds from the fashion show will go to the Fort Benning children's school fund.

MAJ. RIFE AND MAJ. HENRY SPEAK AT MEETING

The Infantry School Women's Club held one of the most interesting meetings of the year on Monday, March 6th at the Polo Club. After the business meeting the President, Mrs. Ephraim G. Peyton, introduced the speakers for the afternoon.

First on the program was a most instructive talk by Major George Rife on the "Grades and Cuts of Meat." Naturally, every army woman who has the responsibility of providing the proper food for her family is greatly concerned with securing the best of everything and since a meal is usually planned around the meat it was interesting to learn what constitutes a good grade and cut of meat. Not only did the speaker explain this in detail but he illustrated his lecture with an attractive display of meats, which was made possible through the courtesy of the Post Exchange.

The next speaker for the afternoon was Major Stephen G. Henry, whose talk was on "Motors," particularly the motors in the cars which we use daily. Many points of practical value were stressed and since almost every woman of today drives a car it was interesting to learn "what makes the wheels go round" and how with the proper care and handling of a motor the terrific cost of upkeep could be reduced to a minimum. When one realizes statistics show that the money spent last year for the replacement of spare parts for cars would build three Panama Canals, it behooves all of us to use the proper methods of starting an engine, warming it up for the required length of time and to drive our cars with care and intelligence.

Mrs. Robert Mangum and Mrs. Louis Haskell were hostesses for the afternoon and they were assisted at the tea table by Mrs. Thomas W. Hammond and Mrs. Charles H. Bonesteel.

—T. L. B.

OFFICERS' CLUB TO SPONSOR BREAKFAST PARTY FOLLOWING GLEE CLUB PERFORMANCE

The Officers' Club will be the scene Saturday evening following the Glee Club performance of "The Debutante" of a novel and delightful breakfast party. The Club will be decorated in carnival colors, being in facsimile of Coffee Dan's which in the past was a famous rendezvous of theatrical folk in San Francisco. Members of the cast of "The Debutante" will give impromptu numbers while Lieut. Aloyisius E. O'Flaherty will act as master of ceremonies. The Club will be packed to capacity as over three hundred reservations have been made.

* * *

CAPT. AND MRS. PENCE ENTERTAIN AT BUFFET SUPPER PRECEDING DANCE

Capt. and Mrs. Charles W. Pence were the hosts Saturday to a few of their friends at a buffet supper preceding the reception at Biglerville given in honor of the National Guard and Reserve Officers.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. McCONNELL HOSTS AT INFORMAL CHILI PARTY

Lieut. and Mrs. Glenn B. McConnell celebrated the former's birthday Friday with a delightful informal chili pary at their quarters. The McConnells had as their guests: Capt. and Mrs. Robert G. Mangum, Lieut. and Mrs. Louis W. Haskell and Lieut. and Mrs. Washington W. Ives. After supper the guests played contract bridge.

* * *

NUMBER OF COLUMBUS PEOPLE MAKE RESERVATIONS AT CLUB FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Friday evening the Officers' Club will virtually turned over to Columbus people who made reservations for dinner preceding the performance of "The Debutante." Between courses the 29th Infantry orchestra will play for dancing. Life members of the Club will entertain about one hundred and thirty of their friends. The guests will be arranged at two huge tables. Mrs. Gordon will preside at one table while Mrs. McPherson of Columbus will preside at the other.

* * *

RESERVATIONS MADE FOR THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCE

Among those reserving tables for the Thursday evening supper dance at the Officers' Club were: Major and Mrs. Robert S. Lytle, Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Partridge, and Capt. George J. Forster, and a number of dutch treat tables. Preceding the supper the hosts escorted their guests to the Post movies.

FIELD ARTILLERY LADIES' BRIDGE CLUB MEETS ON TUESDAY

The 83rd Field Artillery ladies' bridge club met Tuesday afternoon at the quarters of Mrs. Louis W. Haskell. Assisting Mrs. Haskell was Mrs. Glenn B. McConnell. About four tables of contract bridge assembled at two and played until four-thirty when tea was served.

* * *

MRS. BOWEN HOSTESS AT LUNCHEON AND BRIDGE

Mrs. James E. Bowen was the hostess Friday to her bridge club entertaining at luncheon at the Officers' Club followed by two tables of contract bridge at her quarters. Mrs. Bowen's guests were: Mesdames Raymond E. Vermette, Lynn E. Brady, Clayton H. Studebaker, Orestes Cleveland, George P. Howell, Selina Washington and Miss Harriotte Atkins.

* * *

SCHOFIELD WADDINGTON CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY WITH PARTY

Master Schofield Waddington celebrated his ninth birthday last Monday with a lovely birthday party. The young guests assembled at four and played games until five when sandwiches, cake, candy and ice cream were served. His guests were: Peggy Porter, Dorothy Brann, Betsy Ross, Shirley Rooks, Betty Phillips, Patty Cook, Jeanne Behan, Bee McKinley, Jane Cleveland, Celeste Mellom, Ray Porter, Bobby Cloe, Hal Cook, Lloyd Zupann, Bill Zupann, John Cleveland, Chikie Cleveland, Mike Lucas, Johnny Andrews, Teddy Andrews, and Turner Croonquist. After the refreshments the children were escorted to the Post movies.

* * *

LITTLE MISSES MARY AND BETTY RUTTE CELEBRATE FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Louis W. Rutte was the hostess to her small daughters, Mary and Betty, at a birthday party Friday afternoon in celebration of their fifth birthday. Games were played followed by ice cream and two lovely white tiered birthday cakes, with five pink candles each, were served.

The young Misses Rutte's guests were: Ann Everett, Janette Thomas, Frances Horne, Jane Decker, Jane Martin, Patty Post, Betty Jo Hanna, Margery Murphy, Betty Andrews, Felicia Howell, Ann Louise Howell, Chickie Cleveland, Gayle Wilson, Teddy Keiler, Duckie Kieler, Junior McClure, Franklin Gaillard, Patty O'Flaherty, Billie Ives, Johnny Rutte and Jimmy Rutte.

PERSONALS

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles W. Howze are to be congratulated upon the birth of a daughter, Virginia, at the Station Hospital on February 28th.

Lieut. Milton H. Pressley left Monday for Fort McPherson, Ga., to spend a few days with friends.

Lieut. and Mrs. George P. Howell are spending the weekend with friends

(Please turn to page 3)

Energy . . .

Energy is packed into Foremost Ice Cream as in no other food-product. For Foremost is more than just a dessert or confection, it is a healthful food product of infinite value to the growing child.

Call the

SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

DOLAN-HENRY HAT SHOP

Announces

New shipment of hats, just received, in lace and rough straws. Price range from $2.95 to $7.50.

We solicit Fort Benning charge accounts

Permanent Waves

TREAT YOURSELF TO THE BEST

Post Office Barber and Beauty Shoppe

103 - 12th St. Phone 9335

for

IRISHMEN!

on St. Patrick's Day

And for others, too! Kinnett's Ice Cream is just as good for everybody—and much more delicious than any other. Use it at your next party and make a real hit!

Kinnett's Ice Cream

Sold At The Officers' Club

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

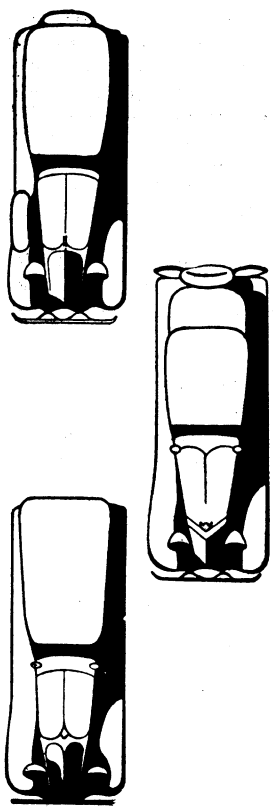
Last Season's Hats made into new ones.

Panamas and Straws Blocked and Trimmed.

Expert Hat Remodeling

Nicholson Hat Shop

319 Third Nat. Bank Bldg.



No matter how new or up-to-date your automobile may be, it still undergoes the danger of a serious accident unless you are careful to have it inspected periodically and use only the best obtainable oils and greases.

Auto Dept.

POST EXCHANGE

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Tales Of The Tent City

The members of the National Guard and Reserve Officers' Class wish Mrs. Foley, wife of Lieutenant Foley from Mississippi, a speedy recovery from her illness. Mrs. Foley, at present, is in the post hospital.

Here it is, folks, our first contribution, hot tips and flashes right off the wire. First prize this week goes to Captain Pinkston. "Pinkey" is a member of the skull class in equitation. and well he should be, he can't even ride a bicycle. During the class period this conversation was heard:

Pinkey: "I want a mule and eight niggers."

Instructor: "What do you want a mule and eight niggers for?"

Pinkey: "I want four niggers to start the mule, and the other four to stop him when he gets started."

We are trying our very best to keep the Associated Military Stores and the Post Exchange out of the red for 1933. If we have not already accomplished this, we would appreciate an expression from them and we all encourage more buying.

(To the tune of, "Let's put out the lights.")
No more money in the bank,
No more banks to cash a check,
What to do about it?
Order up the drinks and sign a chit.

The palm for ingenuity goes to Lt. Walters, otherwise known as "Fuzzy." He gets up so early in the morning that the water in the bath is still cold so that he may get in there before the crowd. And does he shave with cold water? No, he does not. Patents are now pending for a device he has invented for heating water. Very simple but ingenuity, plenty.

His equipment consists of a broom, stove door, and canteen cup. Here is the procedure: First, stir up the fire, fill up your canteen cup, handle clamped in place. Then hang the canteen cup over the upper edge of stove door with the cup on the inside. Next close the stove door placing the handle end of the broom against it to keep it closed. Finally stand by door and warn everyone entering the bath house not to stumble over the broom.

This method can be safely used before 5:54 a. m. or after 12:00 midnight with perfect safety. Try it.

Instructor: "Get forward in the saddle, gentlemen, it's more comfortable and easier on the horse."

Capt. Shoemaker (feeling of that part of his anatomy not contained within the saddle): "If I get any further forward, I'll be riding the horse's neck."

And as Lieut. Summerlin would say "When I was at the Point, it was done this way."

Orderly (running down the street): "Lt. Lipsce wanted on the telephone. —Lieut. Lipsce wanted on the telephone." (Orderly to himself): "Ah wishes dat bird wouldn't keep a-callin' hisself on de phone at de Officers' Club)—Nosuh, de lieutenant ain't here, Suh."

If you fellows would write home for a change, perhaps you wouldn't turn red behind the ears when that telegram arrives in the middle of class period.

As far as the writer is able to determine, there are four officers here from California. Personally I have bought the state of California four times, but I suppose selling that state is typical of the native sons. However, it's quite noticeable at the breakfast table how those Californians go for Florida orange juice.

We suggest that Lieut. Snyder buy some shoe polish so that the orderly will not be obliged to go to the other tents and "mooch" some for his boots.

Lieut. Winnie's mustache reminds us of the installment plan, a little down and a little each week.

We are pleased to note that Captain Harrison's increase in rank caught up with him a few days after his arrival at school. He was promoted to the rank of Major on March 1st.

As Cap'n Henry would say: "This is only the beginnin', folks, only the beginnin'."

—C. H. B.

SOCIETY

(Continued From Page 2)

at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph I. Greene arrived on the Post Saturday. Lieut. Greene was on duty wth the 31st Infantry at Manila, P. I. He has been assigned to duty with the 29th Infantry. Mrs. Greene was Miss Margery Hutchins a former Columbus girl.

Lieut. and Mrs. Edward A. Chazal have received orders to sail on the May transport for Manila, P. I.

Capt. and Mrs. Charles W. Pence had as their guests over the past weekend Capt. Eddie Foy and Lieut. Anderson of Fort McPherson, Ga.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Homer H. Slaughter left on Thursday for Washington, D. C. where Col. Slaughter will be a member of the General Staff.

Mr. Elmer L. Rice returned to the Post Friday from Philadelphia, Pa., where she has been visiting relatives.

Mrs. George E. Bush, Jr. left Wednesday for her home in Ohio. Lieut. Bush has taken bachelor quarters in Block 21.

Mrs. John W. Ramsey with her small daughter, has returned to Fort Benning from a two months' visit with relatives in Louisiana.

is the Creator's most valuable gift to mankind. Preserve it!

W. W. Perrott
OPTICAL COMPANY
Cor. 12th St. and Broadway

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT
RATES REASONABLE
Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062

DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, March 7.

We drew for ushers today, for the Glee Club performance Friday and Saturday nights. We know it will be a good show, with large attendance, so there will be six girl scouts each night. If there were any tiny things wrong with the show, this added attraction immediately counteracts it!

Mrs. Brown today gave us questions to answer, all pertaining to Scouting. They covered such things as the compass, knots, signalling, first aid, and bits of others. It was a regular examination to see how much we have remembered of our tests.

Mrs. Stilwell came up to talk to some girls about their Child Nurse badge. Saturday Mrs. Woolnough will take the Tree Finders!

Attention Cardinals! Be sure to come to our next meeting on time, because we're going to have a jolly treasure hunt!

Pine Tree Troop

The meeting last time was the first after our very successful Court of Awards. All the girls are planning to pass lots of tests and work hard for the next Court of Awards, so it ought to be a gala day.

After our Flag Ceremony, we had a nature game. Our leaders had taken the names of a number of birds and scrambled them up so that you really had to think pretty hard to get them straightened out. All of the patrols did pretty well on that game and it was lots of fun.

It seems, from reading the Cardinal Notes that we also played the same game as they did. I do think that theirs was harder, but it was the same type and we are proud to know that we are keeping up with the older girls.

We sang quite a number of songs at our 'Good-night circle' for that is one of our favorite pastimes, and went home after a very nice meeting.

—Barbara Monroe

MAJ. GENERAL COLEMAN HERE FOR SHORT VISIT

(Continued From Page 1)

April 23, 1932, the appointment carrying with it the rank of major general. His career as an army officer began on September 9, 1898, when he was appointed a second lieutenant of infantry. On October 11 of the following year he was promoted to first lieutenant, and on October 5, 1905, he became a captain. In May, 1917, he was promoted to colonel, which rank he held at the time he was appointed chief of finance, on November 16, 1920. This was a recess appointment, which necessitated his reappointment to the rank of colonel on the 27th of April, 1921. During the world war he held the temporary rank of lieutenant colonel of infantry, National Army, and of colonel of infantry, United States Army.

He is a graduate of the Infantry-Cavalry School, class of 1904; of the Army War College, class of 1922, and is also a graduate of Rock Hill College, Md. class of 1897.

For gallantry in action and for exceptionally meritorious services he holds the decorations of the Silver Star, and the Distinguished Service Medal.

Funeral of Pvt. Brown Held Thursday Morning

Funeral servces for the late Private Edward L. Brown, Company E, 29th Infantry, will be held from the Protestant chapel, Fort Benning, at ten-thirty Thursday morning, March 9. Chaplain Willis P. Howard will conduct the services, and the body will be accompanied to Outpost No. 1, by the band of the 29th Infantry, and an escort from Company E, from where it will be shipped to Private Brown's father at Ripley, Tennessee.

Capt. George J. Forster returned Monday from Miami, Fla., where he was the guest of friends.

Mrs. Ryan and Lieut. Douglas W. McNair motored down from Fort McPherson to spend Sunday with Lieut. and Mrs. William W. O'Connor.

Lt. and Mrs. Sams are to be congratulated upon the birth of a son, Hugh Porter born Mach 6 at the Station Hospital.

the "advance guard" in . . .

Children's Spring Fashions

Of course, children get spring fever and want to dress up just as we grown folks. And with spring just around the corner; this is the time and Kirven's is the store.

Boy's Suits

Eaton Style
3-piece. Side pockets in trousers, manly coat and separate blouse. Blue, Tan and Green.
Sizes 6-7-8
$1.79

Wash Suits
Pique and broadcloth. Some have belts; some are button style. All shades of pastels.
Sizes 2 to 6
59c to $1.00

Girl's Dresses

Crepe de Chine
in new spring shades. Solids, prints and stripes.
Sizes 1 to 8
$1.95

Wash Dresses
in new spring pastels. Solids, prints and sripes.
Sizes 3 to 8
$1.00

Or if they are

Larger Children

Dresses
Silks in solids and prints. "Darling" is the girl's pet adjective for these new spring dresses.
Sizes 10 to 16
$3.95

Bloomers Panties
Spun Lo rayon in delicate pink. Elastic and band bottoms; yoke front.
Sizes 8 to 10
39c

These are just a few items. Many, many more things are at Kirven's; not only for children, but for infants and juniors, as well.

Shoes

Robin Hood Sherwood Forest

is the place where all children love to go. Designed especially for the young folks; Sherwood Forest is an ideal shoe department for children, filled with ideal shoes for young feet. And as an especial treat for the youngsters, a souvenir is given with each shoe purchase.

Prices Range
99c $1.45 $1.95 $2.45 $2.95 $3.45
All Sizes AAA to D

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II | MARCH 10, 1933 | NUMBER 46

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Thursday, March 2

Introduced to the omnipotent First Section this luckless day. The Section's august representative much annoyed by the inability of the class to read minds and bring a lot of uncalled for things to class. "Map problem equipment" on the schedule carried as much information to our receptive minds as "Oriental philosophical equipment" and proved as conclusively that, in war, information from a headquarters is not viscous.

From its auspicious beginning I greatly fear me that we are on the threshold of a course in plain and fancy surmising, albeit the situation could be remedied if the versatile Section Section would but produce a supplementary course in palmistry, phrenology and telepathy.

A bad situation partially remedied by Major Cole allowing students quartered on the post to dash home at nine a. m. for their books. Some hesitation to return home at that hour on the part of the married officers saving only Hank Flood who proceeded intrepidly—his quarters being equipped with Frigidaire.

It does take but one eye to see that Captain Matchett yet requires instruction in the "Manual of Persuasion" for, in performing the ritual of ordering the use of private transportation he omitted that purely perfunctory question "Does any one desire to ride the train?" It is quite unthinkable that the First Section should be remiss in any matter of technique.

Gillette has solved the transportation mystery. It is that the opulence of the Company Officers will in no wise be disurbed by the continued use of their private cars, as would the poverty of the Advanced Class, the latter folk being therefore always transported in the buses.

Friday, March 3

To call on Lecture Lanham this day to determine if his right wrist, so well exercised at the Battle of Gumbinen on Monday last, had suffered any hitch-hiker's sprain.

And I did recommend to him a convenient Timken installation for use during any period of sustained lecturing. Conveyed to him also that the class was in no way flattered by his keeping his hand continually in his change pocket.

Saturday, March 4

Up betimes and off to the Fourth Section to inaugurate some mural decorations for my coming fifteen minute speech. Practically the whole day gone in daubing about with the inks. This business does mind me of the saying that "Those who can, do. Those who can't, teach." I, also, am well qualified to teach.

To Major Eagles with the lament that I can scarce cover the ground of my subject in a scant fifteen minutes. He (to comfort me I have no doubt) does cite me one Hillaire Belloc as having written in one paragraph of two sentences a history of the World War. And I did spend some hours in fruitless search for the name Belloc on the rosters of Benning graduates and former instructors. One cannot conceive of a non-graduate being so able.

Finished at last with my labors at making maps excepting only the paper dolls, the cutting out of which I shall reserve for an anticipated condition that the course in Field Engineering is rapidly bringing on.

In somewhat of a quandary at the beginning of the day as to whether or not to make a map. Since two men have identical subjects upon which there is but one book and it cannot be removed from the library; and since some careful soul takes pains to close the library just as we debouch from school daily; and since my first Saturday opportunity to visit the library was thwarted by a river crossing and the recovery therefrom, it required a major tactical decision on my part to choose, on this my second and last Saturday chance at the book in the library, between preparing the subject or the map to illustrate it. And I did choose the latter on the basis of the time emphasis laid on it by The Section. Captain Phillips of the opinion that a map is worth a thousand words; and since one can deliver but 1300 words in 15 minutes my two maps will preclude my finishing my speech though I utter no word. I can more readily believe that the preparation of a map

(Please turn to page 5)

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Measles

Only a few months ago this column was given to a short article on this subject.

Because measles has begun to be reported in children on the post it seems timely that we again explain what measles is, how dangerous it can be to children and how necessary it is to protect other children from contracting the disease.

Measles is a very contagious disease. The first signs are sneezing, running at the nose and a slight cough. The eyes look red and watery, and light hurts them. It is just during this early period of about three days that others are most liable to catch the disease. The child seems only to have cold, but the mother who sends this child with a seeming cold to school or allows it to play with other children is helping to spread the disease to other children.

In the beginning there is only a little fever. In a day or two the skin becomes hot, the tongue gets a furry coating, and the throat becomes red. About the fourth day red spots begin to show up on the forhead and face and spread downward to cover the whole body. The spots collect in bunches and usually itch.

If your child has never had measles, just now is the time to make your plans as to what you will do when he sneezes, coughs and has eyes that are red and watery. Do not let the child get up until the doctor says it is safe. The complications and after effects are often serious. Sore ears may result in deafness; sore eyes in blindness; the neglected cough may mean pneumonia or tuberculosis. Protect that child.

The younger the child the more carefully he should be protected against measles. It is a good plan to isolate any child whenever he shows the least sign of illness of any sort. If you protect your child you thereby save yourself much worry and trouble and incidentally just by doing this you help protect your children.

Advanced Classics

Leaves From a Sleuth's Unit Journal

Feb. 27. A bluer than usual Monday with abnormal class demand upon the contents of the water barrel. After effects of the river crossing, we surmise. Much buzzing about among the celebrities of the First Section. The critique on the riparian adventure, scheduled for the first hour, goes by the boards, and Bridgehead John mounts the dais to orate upon defiles, their capabilities and limitations. With a fine eye to financial moratoria, John avoids defiles and discusses the movement of checks in Russia. During the break far-seeing Long Bill Watson rushes over to the local bank and closes out his account. In most subdued tone, manner, and mien for those two tactical authorities, the Jenkins-Stilwell combine then critiques the crossing of the raging Chattahoochee, but only after a valiant effort to disclaim parentage of the bridgehead baby. It would appear, from the discussion, that the stream crossing was not a test of student command ability at all, but a trial of bridging material. Larry Barrett wonders audibly, however, what would have been the nature of Joe Stilwell's remarks had the Chattahoochee been more amenable to engineer discipline. It is announced that the critique proper will be placed in our boxes in mimeographed form.

Charlie McNair, Larry Keiser, Jack Gleaves, and Jess Green receive this announcement mournfully. There are certain members of the First Section upon whose countenances they would gloat this blue Monday morn, not excepting that of Smiling Tommy Arms who made the trek back 1,600 yards to the river bank for a critique which was never critiqued. A marked problem, for which nine maps with a total acreage of 16 square feet are issued to cover a 10 foot square desk. In the course of pasting together his quadrangles, Jake Uhrig gets lost and is not seen again until 2:45 p. m., when his desk-mates, Huge Evans and Little Ayers behold a strange geologic upheaval in the Pigeon Hills region. With all the fervour of an active volcano, Jake bursts his way through and gets down to estimating the situation.

Feb. 28. For three hours the Hern and Paul team hold forth on supply, proving to Sam Brabson's complete satisfaction that it is quite possible to fool all the people all the time. Jimmie Woolnough takes us out to fatten our marked problem batting average. The approved "Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion" not only fails to make any reconnoissance, but commits high treason by failing to study his map. Bert Wampler's conclusion, as the pupils homeward plod their weary way, is that there remain twenty-eight marked contests wherein the students must outguess not only the First Section in toto but each individual of that aggregation.

March 1. Class almanacer Lifsey announces that we have sixty-one days and a butt to go, holidays exclusive, and then goes into the business of manufacturing captain's bars for Arnie Siler. John Harvey is informed that the freshman of the Upatoi Military Academy are dedicating to him their new book, "I am a Fugitive from the Engineer Chain Gang." We get this date our first application of gas.

March 2. Another marked puzzle, the requirement most difficult of solution being what the mounts are for. The approved "Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion" between 5:00 p. m., and 7:00 p. m., does everything but climb trees and howl. He covers ground, this "Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion!" The Marine duo, Webby and Woody, between them, but not in collaboration, compose fifteen pages covering what the battalion c. o. does between 7:00 p. m. and the zero hour. Returning to Kriz Hall they ascertain that the First Section has dismissed the battalion c. o.'s activities during that ten hour period in four lines. The four lines might well have been reduced to one phrase: "He wanders about and makes a nuisance of hisself."

March 3. The week-end is upon us. Glee and joy and cheerfulness. Jess Gibney batters down the doors of the post bank at 12:55 p. m., to deposit therein his fortune. At 1:00 p. m.,

(Please turn to page 5)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

MILESTONES ON THE ROAD TO ROME

Thetis Whitley Amytis having memorized her tremendously long part, is almost convinced that it is not impossible for her to memorize.

Fabius Maximus Kelly is almost resigned to portraying the great Roman Dictator according to Robert Sherwood rather than recorded history.

Lou Storck Bala, the Nubian slave, is prepared to accept what little the costuming gods send him in the way of raiment. He hopes, however, that March 24th and 25th will be warm.

Senators Tibullus Weeks and Sertorius Wallace have been measured for their togas.

Sergeant Mike Halloran of the Carthaginian Guard has memorized his first two speeches.

Corporal Arnold Funk of the same crack organization has promised to attend all remaining rehearsals.

Malin Scipio Craig has ceased to protest that he looks like a boy scout in the presence of the other Romans.

Lyman Mago Munson is making headway toward harmonizing the conflicting instructions of three official and two volunteer directors.

Mark Brislawn Hannibal, while still skeptical as to the stage appeal of his bare knees and thighs, has consented to wear the regulaton Carthaginian uniform.

Guardsman Fitzgibbons has volunteered to understudy the role of Hannibal. The offer was made shortly after the Guardsman had witnessed a rehearsal of the last part of the 2nd Act.

Co-Director Rice is prepared to substitute for any member of the cast except Amytis.

Guardsman Chance has consented to sacrifice biologic fact to dramatic effect in his speech dealing with the confinement period for elephants.

INTIMATE INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES; NO. 6

The Flare Special Agent wandered into the ROTC Building late one afernoon to find the dramatic hounds in full cry rehearsing for "The Road to Rome."

During a lull in the activities, he side-wheeled toward director Rico Rice who eyed him with a professional and quizzical squint over his well thumbed manuscript.

Now, Director Rice is known in his native Fargo as a ruggedly independent, hard-boiled, fire eating warrior with a pronounced proclivity for dominating women. Among the Fargonians he is respectfully addressed as "The Kornel."

"I hear a lot of complaint from golf widows, polo widows and bridge widows," said the Special Agent by way of an opening. "Don't dramatic widows ever assert themselves?"

"It all depends on who rules the roost", replied the Kornel.

"Wives, I take it", continued the Special Investigator, "get a big thrill out of seeing their husbands on the stage."

"Oh, yes indeed," agreed the Kornel. "Although in my own case the wife has always been able to restrain her pride in my histrionic achievements. I have always regarded this as a demonstration of remarkable control over the emotions."

"I have known wives," resumed the Agent, "who were delighted to have their husbands take part in plays because it gave them little time to themselves. They actually looked upon rehearsal evenings as a lucky break for them."

"I suppose their husbands were dull," murmured the Kornel. "Sometimes I almost regret that I am not a bore."

"Am I to imply from your remark that home influences sometimes interfere with your art?" queried the Flare Investigator.

"Not at all, not at all," replied the celebrated Fargonian. "My lightest whim is law in my household. I'm the head man in that show. I don't have to consult anybody."

"I envy people like you who are free to devote so much time to your hobbies," signed the Special Agent, "but I must be moving along. I'll see you back stage on the first night of The Road to Rome."

A cloud passed across the Kornel's honest face. "Don't bank on it," he whispered confidentially. "When I got my special dispensation to help direct this show, I had to promise the wife that I'd preside at the dinner party she was giving before the first performance."

The Special Agent nodded understandingly. "Droit de femme de seigneur—I know," he said.

MASTER MIND GOES HAYWIRE

Since the departure of Professor McCunniff for other fields, Benning has been forced to struggle along without a militant economist. The nation wide bank holiday, however, has stimulated the growth of a new crop of depression busters, and one of them is making a strong bid for the genial Professor's prophetic mantle. We refer to Major R. G. Tindall, The Infantry School's leading protagonist of Red revolution.

Coincident with the President's proclamation of a new deal for bank depositors, R. G. T. unfurled the red flag and inaugurated a vigorous verbal offensive against Capitalism and all its works. Unlike Professor McCunniff, Soap Box Dick is a radical and proud of it. His theories, so far as we have been able to understand them, combine all of the worst features of Socialism, Communism, Bolshevism, Facism, Technocracy, and a Military Dictatorship. In order to clear the way for the establishment of his new system he advocates the abolition of all banks and stock exchanges, the permanent abandonment of the gold standard, the nationalization of industry, the execution of speculators, public utility magnates and international bankers.

Let it not be thought, however, that Red Richard's proposal for the amelioration of existing conditions is purely destructive. He has a constructive program which provides, among other things for an issue of Fiat money in denominations of from one to one hundred army rations, the Irving Fisher stabilized dollar, the Single Tax and the starting of a first class war to take care of the unemployment and overproduction problems.

Fortunately for the country, Major Tindall is not as convincing on the soap box as he is on the lecture platform. To date, he has won no converts to his cause, not even from the Fourth Section which is most receptive to revolutionary ideas. Possibly his associates suspect that his researches in the field of class warfare have not been as analytical as his investigation of the historic background of the Battle of Ethe.

(Please turn to page 5)

THE FLARE
(Continued From Page 4)

SOCIETY NEWS

Latest additions to the select hostess Delight Club are Captain and Mrs. Hones. They qualified at a recent Officers' Club dance by failing to appear at the supper party to which they had been invited by Aviator and Mrs. Barney Barnett.

In an interview by our society reporter, Impresario Hones stated that the failure of his social secretary to make a note of this engagement had caused him and Mrs. Hones acute mental anguish. Under the assumption that they had not been invited out on Thursday night they slunk off to the movies feeling like a couple of social outcasts. The great vulgarian War Lord isn't as much concerned as he mightbe, however, over the embarrassment of his better half. He rather gives the impression that Mrs. Hones deserves to suffer for the oversight for which she was responsible.

BIOLOGIC MIRACLE HAS DIRE CONSEQUENCES

Ordinarily, The Flare deals only with local matters but occasionally something from the outside which cannot be ignored comes to hand. Certainly the following startling item from the erudite Waycross, Georgia, Journal-Herald warrants a departure from the established policy:

> "Mrs. George Earl, who gave birth to a 9-year-old daughter, is reported as getting along fine. A. J. Dill, of Farley, who suffered a broken leg in the same accident, is recovering."

HONOR ENOUGH FOR ONE FAMILY

Mrs. Zwicker, wife of Lieutenant Zwicker, of the Company Officers' class, was receiving the enthusiastic congratulations of the proud husband and father upon the very recent arrival of their second son.

"There's your president and vice-president," quoth she, and then, after a split second pause for emphasis, "there will be no cabinet."

—E. F. H.

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

Confidence Is Our Keynote!

We want your charge account. Checks acceptable for merchandise or on account.

BUY TODAY!

Smart Showing of New Spring Clothes

HOFFLIN
and GREENTREE
Columbus' Leading Clothiers
ESTABLISHED 1888

TRIO OF COMEDIANS

The funniest fun-makers of Fort Benning will "strut their stuff" on the stage of the Main Theater tonight and tomorrow night when Lt. Julian Raymond, Mrs. Reeder and Capt. Elliott (from left to right) appear together in the Glee Club Operetta "The Debutante."

LIEUT. PEEP'S DIARY
(Continued from page 4)

is what is worth a thousand words and, withal, I should enjoy to meet a man with so large a profane vocabulary.

Gaither, speaking on the value of Morse Code to the junior officer, fears that he may be unable to fill the required time and so plans to deliver the affair in dahs and dits. Another ingenious soul does plan his speech after this fashion: "Gentlemen, my subject is "Shall the Bayonet Be Retained in the American Army?" Since it would be absurd for me to keep repeating "Yes, yes, yes, yes' for 15 minutes I shall say it only once after which we shall follow the immutable School custom and take a ten minute break."

Monday, March 6

Intrigued no end by making march graphs and in especial to see how, on the chart, the head and tail of the column continue separated by the same distance.

Cigars by Zwicker. The young'un will have to be a file closer, the squad having been filled by the recent addition of Davidson and Dumbrowsky.

Field exercise this afternoon, equipment of the private soldier being borrowed from a 29th Infantry platoon. Peck unable to make the borrowed belt light pack fit his conformation. He later decided that none of them will fit when applied upside down.

Corporal Andy Gamble too enthusiastic about the execution of the problem as he learned when he turned rifle and equipment back to the 29th Infantry corporal who had lent them. The corporal, looking thru the bore of the rifle, exclaimed with feeling—and much to the delight of his squad —"My God, it's been fired!"

The class did inspire Col. Stilwell to remark that we were "a motley looking crowd." And Col. Stilwell's remark did inspire the class to start a fund for the donation to the First Section of a full length mirror.

Tuesday, March 7

Examination this morning in Machine Gun Combat Practice. That it occurred on Reynolds Hill was coincidental. From my performance I can but conclude that, for me, any hill would today have been Reynolds hill.

One student overheard to remark "If we learn by our mistakes I have derived a maximum of profit from this course." To which I add a heartfelt Amen.

A full afternoon on Field Fortifications from which our Glee Club contingent was excused. It might not be amiss, this beng the umpteenth time they have been excused, for them to put in for the Company Officers' course next year even if only in curiosity of what goes on.

—Lieut. Peep.

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE
OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

ADVANCED CLASSICS
(Continued From Page 4)

the bank nails up the doors. Major Roberts receives 105 votes, including absentee ballots, in the popularity contest by terminating his four hour conference in three hours minus.

—Submerged Old Sleuth

24TH INF. DEDICATES THEATRE WITH GALA OPENING
(Continued from page 1)

ner which delighted the audience. Following Miss Palmore's renditions, solos entitled "I Promise You," and "Please," were sung by Privates Fred B. Jackson and Douglas King. A second group of selections was then sung by the quartette, after which Miss Palmore again presented a medley of tuneful melodies.

"Lawd, You Made the Night too Long," sung by Private Ross, "River Stay 'Way From My Door," by Corporal Brown, and a closing chorus by the ensemble concluded the home-talent entertainment program.

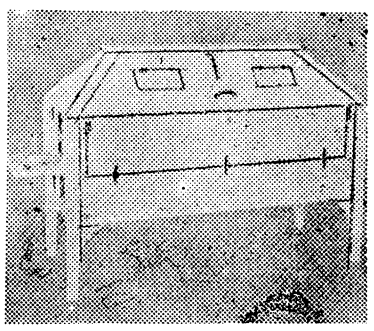
In the playing of accompaniments for the singers, and a number of orchestral numbers, the 24th Infantry Orchestra, demonstrated again its outstandng position in the syncopated realm. Comprised in this select aggregation of musicians are: Sergeant Willie B. Wood, piano; Private Harold McCray, trombone; Private 1st class Roy L. Chism, trumpet; Private 1st class Odell Butler, saxophone; Private Richard Esters, saxophone; Private Ike Jones, saxophone; Staff Sergeant William H. Ransom, guitar; Private 1st class Robert Wade, tuba; and Private Hansel Cole, drums.

A sound news reel, in which the 24th Infantry appeared in their negro spiritual songs, a cartoon comedy and a drama, were comprised in the motion picture program which concluded the dedicatory exercises.

The new theater, which was designed in the office of the Army Motion Picture Service in Washington, D. C. is a most attractive and modern structure, resembling in many respects the best type of neighborhood motion picture houses in large cities. Simplicity characterizes the interior decorations, and comfort and convenience are provided by the finest type of leather upholstered seats; by well-appointed dressing rooms, and by a modern heating and ventilating system, which changes the air of the auditorium every three minutes. Two projection machines of the latest are installed in the operator's room, and the presentation of sound pictures is made under the most favorable conditions by the design of the auditorium, whose acoustical properties are enhanced by wall coverings of Acoustitex.

MR. V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75 Factory guarantee. City Drug Store.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish, Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Griffin K.O.'s Sandwina In Thirty Seconds

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Frank Crowley of Manhattan captured the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. mile championship at the 12th annual games Saturday night. There were nineteen starters in the race, but only three figured at all. Crowley, Mangan, and Nordell were doped to piece out the first three places between them, Bill Bonthron, a favorite from Princeton, having dropped out of the event in order to conserve his energies for the two-mile relay.

Frank Nordell, a temperamental miler if there ever was one, burst into the lead closed followed by Crowley. Mangan, off to a slow start, was badly spiked in the rush for positions. Crowley crept up to Nordell and passed him, running smoothly.

Mangan came up with a rush at the end and Crowley was hard put to maintain his lead. He won by a margin of ten yards, Mangan crossing the line second, with Nordell thirty yards behind the winner.

* * *

George Spitz, who has jumped six fee, eight and one half inches indoors, found himself in a triple tie for first place at six feet, two and three quarters inches. Spitz could ordinarily do the same height with his sweat clothes on or with his hands in his pockets.

He just couldn't get started. Bad lighting in the arena caused him to misjudge his mark several times, his stride was faulty, and he had trouble in gauging his distance.

* * *

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees is without the services of six hold-outs, five of them indispensable cogs in his playing machine. Headed by Babe Ruth, the hold-out brigade runs right down the line including Charley Ruffing and Bill Dickey of the batterymen, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri of the infield, and Allen Cooke, utility outfielder.

With the first exhibition game only ten days away, Manager McCarthy is beginning to have his first worries. None of the hold-outs have expressed any desire to come to terms but are content to await developments.

One thing is certain, Babe Ruth is not going to take a $25,000 cut in salary as his contract calls for. The Bambino of Swat knows quite as well as Colonel Ruppert his value as a drawing card, and so a compromise will finally have to be effected.

* * *

And speaking of the Babe. Ruth has two major ambitions; one is to break his own record of sixty home runs for one season, the other is to score a hole-in-one at the ancient and honorable game of golf. Last week at St. Petersburg, the Babe teed off from the third hole, 185 yards long, using a No. 2 iron.

The ball trickled into the hole and Ruth was overjoyed. He admitted he got more thrill out of that achievement than in hitting a dozen home runs.

* * *

Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized by the New York Athletic Commission as the lightweight champion of the world will risk his crown tonight when he opposes Adoph Heuser, heavy-hitting German battler, in the main bout of fifteen rounds at Madison Square Garden.

Heuser has fought only once in this country but made a very creditable showing, winning a decision over Harry Ebbets in a slambang battle, spotted with frequent knockdowns. In the course of the fight, Adolph was floored several itmes but came up each time to carry the battle to his opponent.

(Continued on Page 7)

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Corn Upsets Dope In Surprising One Round Knockout

Tex Wallace Awarded Technical K. O. Over Johnson In Semi-Final

Thirty seconds after the opening gong had sent John "Corn" Griffin and Ted Sandwina, German heavy, into action, Lt. Howard Johnson, referee was tolling the fatal ten over Ted's prostrate body. The fight was a disappointing one from the spectators' point of view, who had come with the prospect of seeing Corn extended to the limit by the burly Teuton.

Griffin was first into the ring and received a big hand. As Sandwina crawled through the ropes, the fans gasped at his huge size and predicted bad moments for the army battler. Ted was thirty-one pounds heavier than his opponent, weighing 208 to Corn's 177.

The bell rang. Griffin was across the ring like a tiger, caught Sandwina in his own corner, and tumbled him to the canvas with a right hook. At the count of eight, Sandwina heaved his ponderous bulk off the floor and went into defensive position.

Griffin followed up his advantage immediately. He caught Ted with a light left hook to the side of the head, then nailed him with another right, and Sandwina dropped to the resin like a felled ox. Corn stood over him and the fans got a vivid picture of Dempsey as he must have looked on the memorable occasion of the historic "long count." Referee Johnson waved Griffin into a neutral corner and continued tolling. At ten, Sandwina was still on his knees, and Corn's hand was raised in token of victory.

Tex Wallace, with a victory and a draw over Edgren among his list of achievements in the ring, scored a technical knock out over a badly-mauled Ching Johnson in the sixth round. At the end of the first round, fans wondered how in the world Tex could have beaten Cowboy Edgren; at the end of the fourth, they wondered why he didn't knock him out.

In the first round, both scrappers contented themselves with warming up. Ching took the offensive right away as Tex danced lightly around him, peppering him with lefts and rights to the face. Wallace had no difficulty in penetrating the soldier's defense and scored frequently.

The second round was on the order of the first except that Tex had even less trouble in finding a target for his punches. His superior boxing knowledge enabled him to slip away from Ching's right hand wallops with ease.

The third round was the beginning of the end. Wallace was still playing around with his opponent, but beat a regular tattoo on Ching's face with Johnson helpless to avoid the flurry of punches. At the end of the fourth round, Ching had absorbed more punishment than the average fighter could withstand, but with the courage typical of the man refused to quit. About this time, the crowd began to bellow for a technical knockout.

The fifth round saw Ching putting up only the ghost of a defense. Wallace did not try to land the knockout wallop but contented himself with peppering Johnson's face with an assortment of blows. Near the end of the sixth round, with Ching groggy but game to the core, Referee Johnson awarded the fight to Wallace.

In a six round battle, Bunker Hill copped the decision over Lester Darby, thereby avenging himself for the

(Continued on Page 8)

POLO NOTES

Why Polo in the Army

Since about 1900 the Army officer has been able to play polo with increasing success. In 1922, the Army entered its first team in the U. S. Junior Tournament and won the Junior Championship. A team of Army officers played the British Army team at Meadowbrook and won the series. The following year the Army team voyaged to England and after a poor start came through in the end to again win the series. Several Army officers have improved their play to the point of being selected for tryout squad for the U. S. International Team. Encouraged by the powers-that-be in Washington, every Army post of any size now has polo aspirants, a field and horses which, when their tails are taped and legs booted, answer the the name of polo ponies. Why should the Army officer be encouraged to play this game of polo? Why should effort be placed on providing a polo field 300 yards by 170 yards? Why should he be allowed to use Army mounts to play this game? What return does the Army get from the polo its officers play? The answer should consider the training of the horse, and mental and physical effect on the officer.

There have been various estimates of the part the pony plays in polo. Some say the pony is 50 per cent of the player's efficiency and some go as high as 90 per cent. Regardless of the percentage there is no doubt of the pony makes the game and the better trained the mounts are, the better the game. The player and his pony make a playing unit. With a trained pony the player can develop his hitting and in the game has no worry about control of his mount. He can concentrate on tactics and teamwork, can speed up his play safely and get the most from his participation. With a poorly trained pony, the hazards increase. The game played under the best of conditions, with eight mounted players running at top speed in pursuit of the ball, has ever present danger. A pony out of control may mean serious injury. Even if the poorly trained pony does not endanger his rider, the player will be severely handicapped in his hitting. To hit a four-inch ball with a six-ounce mallett on the end of a 50-inch handle while going 25 or 30 miles an hour on the back of a horse requires cooperation on the part of the horse. He must run true on the line and at an even speed. If he swerves right or left or checks or spurts as the player strokes, the chances are against a good stroke. So the player has every incentive to train his pony to the greatest degree of perfection. To play a six-period game requires three ponies, for a pony should not be played more than two periods per game. To be prepared for injury a fourth pony may be necessary. If each player trains and develops three or four ponies, a team of four players will provide at least twelve trained mounts in the organization, twelve horses which will be a pleasure to ride at drill, cross-country, or hunting. Anyone, who has ever ridden the average tough, hard-mouthed, herd bound army horse, will appreciate the polo trained mount. He is a loose reined horse, smooth gaited because he has balanced by hours of coordinating exercises, disciplined by training so that he will maintain the gait desired, calm in excitement, a horse that will make riding the pleasure that it should be. If all horses available for pleasure rides were polo trained there would be many more riders outspoken in their enthusiasm for an activity which can and should help maintain the health of army personnel at the standard required for the service.

It is obvious to the spectators that Billygoat Winn has qualities other than being merely furious fourth on the Green team. He is also a famous acrobat and a stick tosser. Jimmy owns two sticks, one he bough and the other he picked up. Neither has the convenient web straps, but that assists in tossing. At any rate, it is worth the price of admission to a Sunday game to see this acrobat do one of his jack knife dismountings and at the same moment toss his mallet fifty feet in the air.

Among the distinguished visitors at the Sunday game was Red Sherburne, late of the Infantry, who graced the side line in a magnificent white blazer piped with blue, to remind him of the days when he served with the branch whose men are men even tho they have big feet.

Out of Yankeeland comes Captain Fourhorse Cunningham who after establishing his menage in comfortable and palatial Block 21, is not adverse to umpiring a dozen chukkers and incidenally giving the native horse crowd something to think about. The polo fans bid him welcome to the land of the skyrocket seat, and pray that he will continue to umpire on Sundays, even to the extent of calling a few fouls and bringing order to the battle.

The Gallant Gunners deserve a

(Continued on Page 7)

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Athletic Equipment

The Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete service on all kinds of athletic equipment. Phone 608.

Post Exchange

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Hoofers Leading In Round Robin SPORTS

Griffin's Knockout Of Sandwina Another Step Up Fistic Ladder

By HARDING

Corn Griffin's thirty-second K. O. of Ted Sandwina, German giant, is bound to make an impression on the world of fistiana. Sandwina came to Fort Benning with an excellent record testifying to his prowess in the ring.

Ted had been in the same ring with Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight sensation, Young Stribling, Phil Scott and Joe Beckett, English champions both in their time, Salvadore Ruggierello, K. O. Christner, and Primo Carnera, as well as many other who have left their imprint in the records of the fight game.

Sandwina was stopped by Carnera; but even this defeat spoke well for the Blond Teuton, as Carnera may be fighting for the championship of the world before long. On the other hand, Ted had beaten Von Porat, Ruggierello, Scott, Beckett, and finally K. O. Christner.

The impression that Christner is "on his heels" is not strictly true. The pride of Akron, Ohio, is considered a very good heavyweight trial horse and has terminated abruptly the championship march of many young aspirants for the heavyweight crown.

When Corn came to the center of the ring for final instructions, he looked like a dwarf beside his giant opponent, who outweighed him by thirty-one pounds. Sandwina looked in fairly good condition.

Some thirty seconds after the opening bell, the fight was over, and fresh laurels were gracing the head of the army mauler. Fans who had hoped to see Griffin's vastly-improved, rapier left in action were disappointed.

Before the fight, even the most optimistic Griffin supporters were convinced that Corn was going to have to put everything he had towards winning the fight; a very few even though that he might whittle away Sandwina's weight advantage by steady plugging away and then knock him out in the later rounds as he did Jerry Pavalec. No one dreamed that the K. O. would come in the first round after half a minute of fighting.

Since his disappointing draw with Battling Bozo when Corn looked out of shape and unconfident, the army sensation has scored knockout victories over Jerry Pavalec, Charley Hambright, Joe McCarthy, Bennie O'Dell, and Ted Sandwina. Frankie Edgren and Pietro Corri were almost out on their feet by the end of ten rounds. None of Corn's opponents have been set-ups; in almost every case, Griffin went into the ring the under-dog.

Now Griffin has confidence in himself. He has developed and improved his left to the point where he is capable of piling up a decisive margin with that weapon alone. He is physically fit and keeps himself in excellent condition. He possesses a right that carries dynamite behind it. He is fast and clever; not so versed in the lore of the ring as Maxie Rosenbloom perhaps, but he punches harder than the champion and has a defense that is hard to penetrate. Above all, he has the guts to go in there and take it. Many a potential champion has fallen beside the way simply because he cannot stand up under body punishment or has a glass jaw.

Griffin has neither. When Jerry Pavalec hit him in Florida in the third round, the crowd began to leave their seats and head for the entrance. Corn got up at nine and gave Pavalec an awful beating. At Fort Benning recently, Frankie Edgren spilled Griffin with a wallop that resounded all over the gym. It looked like the curtain for Corn, but the soldier staggered up at nine to give Edgren the beating of his life.

Corn is knocking at the door leading to the lightheavyweight championship of the world. And, in his march to the top of the fistic ladder, he is going to get all possible support from his backers here is Fort Benning. He deserves it. Let's give it to him.

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued from page 6)

Rosenbloom is not a hard hitter but depends almost entirely on his speed and cleverness to repulse his opponents. He will be hard pressed tonight by the Teuton who not only packs a terrific wallop but can maneuvre around on his feet almost as well as the champion. Rosenbloom's superior ringcraft and uncanny cleverness will probably prove the winning margin.

* * *

Joe McCluskey is beyond a doubt the outstanding collegiate performer in the two mile. His custom is to remain in the background until half the race is over, then go into a commanding lead, which he gradually lengthens until he has left all opposition far in the rear. He holds the record for the distance.

Bill Bonthron, a junior at Princeton, is another outstanding long distance runner, specialising in the mile. He runs with a tireless lope that covers much ground and possesses to a great extent the important item of courage. He has been coming along gradually and now is considered among the best.

POLO NOTES

(Continued from page 6)

hand. No matter how strongly the tide rolls against them, they keep their tails up (and down) until the last whistle drives them from the field.

Inquiries reached the post last week regarding the polo schedule for the coming month; which signifies that the fame of polo at Benning is reaching out into the wide wide world. One letter received came from distant Manchester, Georgia; another from the City of Cusseta

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway
for Expert Watch Repairing

WOLFSON CO.
Paper and Paper Bags,
Drinking Cups, Paper
Napkins and Stationery.
939 Broadway
PHONE 113

Freebooters Lose To 29th Hoofers In Exciting Game

Freebooters In Second Place As Result Of Defeat—Optimists Third

The round robin teams slipped out during the middle of the week, when Jupe Pluvius was out following his sprinkling can, and managed to play off three fast and interesting games.

Hoofers Down Students 6-5

In the first period the students had things their own way, putting over 3 goals to 1 for the 29th. In the second, however, Jay Gould turned the Erie Railroad loose on the lambs, and when the game was over the Hoofers had the game in a bag.

Opimists 6, Billygoats 4

The crew from the stables chastened the hard-headed Billygoats to the tune of 6 to 4. In the first period Gee and Halloran scored 4 goals, following which the Goats got down to business, permitting only 2 more tallies during the game.

Freebooters Wallop Redlegs 10-4

Again Farmer Nichols carried the Freebooters to a win by pushing over 5 goals for his team. The Redlegs put up a stiff battle against odds but what can any team do with Nick on the field? Lt. Herriot came across for the Redlegs, putting up a great game for the artillery.

Sunday, a beautiful day, witnessed another series of games, all of which were fast and exciting. At times the ball and often the teams were completely hidden in clouds of dust that swept toward the sideboards.

Hoofers Humble Freebooters 4-8

The 29 came out of the dust storm with a 4-3 win over the powerful Freebooters, and took the lead in the tournament despite Major Jack Thompson's fine defensive and offensive work. This was probably the best game played to date being characterized by hard and fast work on the part of ponies as well as players. Umpires: Major Arnold and Capt. Cunningham.

Optimists 12, Gunners 4

With Mike Halloran chalking up 5 goals and followed closely by Mack Monroe with 4, the Gunners gave up the ghost early in the game and bowed to the strong aggregation in the white jersies. Grubbs played well for the red shirts, but the odds set up in the first chukker were too great for the lieutenants to overcome without using real shrapnel. Umpires: Capt. Beatty and Capt. Cunningham.

Students 4, Billygoats 2

With a new lineup the Boys in Blue turned loose on the Green Billygoats and thereupon comenced one hard fought, furious polo game. In the fourth period Billygoat Winn scored a beautiful goal; and it looked like a tie game might be in the offing, until Student Stevenson broke loose to down the Goats for once and all in the last minute of play. Umpires: Capt. Cunningham and Capt. Beatty.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

| | W | L | P |
|---|---|---|---|
| 29th Hoofers | 4 | 0 | 4 |
| Freebooters | 4 | 1 | 5 |
| Optimists | 3 | 1 | 4 |
| Billygoats | 2 | 3 | 5 |
| 83rd F. A. | 1 | 3 | 4 |
| Students | 1 | 3 | 4 |
| Gunners | 0 | 4 | 4 |

KNOCKOUT JAB RIGHT TO JAW

In order to clear away all the clouds of doubt in the minds of those who witnessed the thirty second knockout of Ted Sandwina by Griffin last Tuesday evening, an explanation is printed herein.

Corn came out of his corner fast, met Sandwina before he had gone two steps, and struck him with all the force he could command on the jaw's most vital spot. This was the real knockout blow. Ted dropped to the canvas and came up at the count of eight, dazed and groggy.

Griffin took up the attack and landed another right an inch higher on the jaw than his first blow. Again Sandwina dropped. Referee Johnson began to count. At the count of nine, he looked up and noticed that Griffin was standing over Sandwina. He waved him to a neutral corner and counted Sandwina out.

Major Patterson, medico, asserted that had the fight not been stopped when it was, the blond German might have been injured seriously. In the ring lingo, he was "out on his feet."

Handicap Doubles Tournament In Progress At Bowling Allevs

A handicap doubles tournament is now in progress at the Academic Department Bowling Alleys. There are 18 teams entered, some having already rolled their score. The leader at present is the Gabel-Cerne team from the Inf. Sch. Det. with a score of 2064. Following are a list of the two men's teams entered.

Davis, Glenn, ISD
Dean—Fowler, Tank Class
Roberts—Fry, P. T., Instructor
Andrews—Fry, H. G., Advanced Class
Storck—Dunn, Tank Class
Caygill—Harries, Advanced Class
Lewis—Lovett, Hqrs., The Inf. Sch.
Gabel—Cerne, ISD
Howard—Monahan, Chaplains
Bowling, ISD—Lewis, Jimmie—Pin Boy
Heckert, ISD—Maciejewski, Can. Co., 29th Inf.
Williams, F. R.—Williams, L. L., Instructors
Bennett, ISD—LaBonte, Hqs. Co., 29th Inf.
Dezotell QMC—O'Blenness, ISD
Beale, Fin. Dept.—Allison, Med. Dept.
Vermette, Instructor—Decker, 29th Inf.
Hall—Cameron, Hqs. Co., 29th Inf.
Latham—McPeeks, 2d Bn., 29th Inf.

The Southern Ten Pin Tournament being held in Atlanta this week is causing a great deal of interest among the bowlers at the alleys. Several are going to roll in the tournament. The Athletic Association has entered a team from Fort Benning, and the team entered is conceded a good chance of finishing among the leaders of the south. The following team has been chosen to compete in the bowling classic: Major W. L. Roberts, Inf. Instructor, Capt. P. T .Fry, Inf. Sch. Ath. Off., Capt. F. R. Williams, Inf. Instructor, Master Sgt. O. R. Glenn, ISD, Master Sgt. Frank Bennett, ISD, Tech Sgt. J. W. Heckert, ISD, Staff Sgt. E. C. Davis. ISD, Sgt. E. J. Trott, ISD, and Sgt. J. L. LaBonte, Hqs. Co. 29th Inf.

ENLISTED MEN'S LEAGUE

The enlisted men's league has completed their schedue, S. U. 29th Inf. No. 1 having won the league championship, ISD (green) being runner up. Following is the final standing of the league at the end of both series.

| | 1st Half | | 2d Half | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | W | L | W | L |
| S. U. 29th Inf. No. 1 | 16 | 5* | 14 | 4 |
| ISD (Green) | 16 | 5* | 12 | 6 |
| Engineers | 13 | 8 | 7 | 11 |
| ISD (Blue | 11 | 10 | 3 | 15 |
| 2d Bn. 29th | 11 | 10 | 15 | 3 |
| Finance Dept. | 9 | 12 | 12 | 6 |
| S. U. 29th Inf. No. 2 | 4 | 17 | 7 | 11 |
| 1st Bn. 29th Inf. | 4 | 17 | 3 | 15 |

*S. U. 29th Inf. No. 1 won playoff 1st half.

Last four teams—League was divided during second half.

Individual winners are as follows:

High individual average, Mr. Sgt. O. R. Glenn, ISD 188.8
High triple, Mr. Sgt. O. R. Glenn, ISD 673
High Single, Sgt. E. J. Trott, ISD 267

The following bowlers finished up among the leaders:

Sgt. J. L. La Bonte, SU 29th Inf. No. 1 187.6
Sgt. John Zeman, Engineers 186.5
St. Sgt. E. C. Davis, ISD 185.4

Prizes have been awarded to the following:

S.U. 29th Inf. No. 1—Trophy 1st Place
ISD (Green)—Trophy 2d Place
2d Bn. 29th—Trophy 1st Place (Lower Flight)
Master Sgt. O. R. Glenn, ISD, High Ind. Average
Master Sgt. O. R. Glenn, ISD, High Triple
Sgt. E. J. Trott, ISD—High Single

OFFICERS' BOWLING LEAGUE

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Instructors "A" | 20 | 1 |
| Hqs. The Inf. Sch. | 17 | 4 |
| Advanced Class | 11 | 10 |
| Tank Class | 10 | 11 |
| 66th Inf. (Tanks) | 9 | 12 |
| 29th Inf. | 6 | 12 |
| Co. Officers Class | 3 | 15 |
| Instructors "B" | 2 | 13 |

Individual Prize winners are as follows:

Capt. P. T. Fry, Inf. High Av. 182.4
Capt. R. E. Vermette, Inf. High Triple 642.0
Capt. F. R. Williams, Inf. High Single 245.0

The following officers finished well up among the leaders:

Capt. F. R. Williams 179.6
Capt. R. S. Vermette 179.0
Major Roberts 178.9

Prizes have been awarded to the following:

Instructors "A"—Trophy, and Individual prizes
Capt. Fry, P. T.—High Ind. Average
Capt. Vermette R. E.—High Triple games
Capt. Williams, F. R.—High Single game.

Dependable
Electric and Gas
Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

A reasonable plan to . . .
BORROW
$300 or less
for bills . . education . . travel

Check off these advantages:
√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.
204 Woolworth Bldg.
Phone 4372

83rd F. A.

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

The Squirrel Debating and Inside Straight Social Club announces that, inasmuch as the bank holiday has not, as yet, acted to restrict the circulation of canteen checks, the customary discussion by the Club will be held Friday evening at the usual time and place. Members are requested to bring their own beans and other negotiable media of exchange. Ten lima beans equal one small potato; five potatoes one cabbage; ten cabbages, one bus ticket, etc. All currency dropped upon the floor immediately becomes the property of the host. Fingers which become accidentally bruised in reaching for cigarettes, may be treated at the Station Dispensary directly across the street. The meeting, this week, will be limited to pedestrians only, as we are advised that none of the several "horses" entered during recent meets have been fortunate enough to either show or place.

A brilliant event of the social season, and a beautiful gesture, showing the high esteem and regard in which the honorees are held, was the "Giraffe party" given by the young ladies of the Junior League, of Bailey's Corners, celebrating the re-enlistment of Corporal Colin W. Pike, and the payment by St. Sgt. Dodd of the latest installment on his non-removable-cushion sedan. It may be said in passing that Sgt. Dodd and Cpl. Pike—to speak of them in their order of rank—have few equals and absolutely no superiors in playing the part of the "Giraffe."

BATTERY "A"

The battery had three men return from furlough the past week, Privates Bennett, Bowen and Private Landry. Private Landry being a very conservative young man, had all his money in the bank, so when he started to get money to return from furlough, the banks were all closed. All that he could do was turn in at the nearest recruiting station for transportation, which he did,—a very bright young man.

Corporal Stringfellow, the battery clerk, made out so many furlough's for other people that he got tired, so he made out one for himself. Bon voyage, Stringfellow.

Four new men were assigned to the battery the past week, Privates Sanders, Haney, Crane and Estes. All are previous service men.

Another big feature of the week! The Reconnaissance officer of the battery purchased a new Stetson hat, which helps the appearance of the detail very much.

Corporal Boyce McRae, was appointed Sergeant March 7, 1933, which makes him a very high ranking individual of the Battery, good luck "Sarg."

GRIFFIN K. O.'s SANDWINA IN 30 SECONDS

(Continued From Page 6)

knockout victory Darby holds over him. Darby did not seem like the terror of old as Hill bested him in flurries of fighting. By the end of the fourth, some of Bunker's damaging punches had taken effect and Lester had lost a lot of steam. The decision was clear-cut.

Ben Spivey and Kid Webster pleased the crowd immensely as they went to it hammer and tongs for six rounds. Webster packs a wallop like the kick of a mule but it failed to phase the Columbus pugilist who also gave out his share of punishment. It was an excellent fight and the verdict of a draw was met favorably by the crowd.

Sandy Huff and Seaweed Wilson almost stole the show. More leather flew about in this fight than in any other. Huff, shooting his punches out like pistons, took an early lead which Wilson had overcome by the end of the fight. Seaweed was the aggressor throughout. Both boys were bleeding and tired at the bell. The decision of a draw was the only outcome possible under the circumstances.

Tommy Walden won over K. O. Lucas in a slugfest, Tommy punched harder and deserved the victory although the fight was fairly close.

In the curtain raiser, Jimmie Lee disposed of Slugger Banks in the second round with a right hand smash. The fight was for the welterweight championship of the 24th Infantry.

Tank Notes

The command wishes to congratulate all who officiated at the Track and Field Meet last week. The meet was conducted in a highly satisfactory manner and was one of the smoothest we have seen. Special credit is due the enlisted men who officiated. This is the first time any of them have acted in this capacity and their work was excellent.

The boys from Company E, flashed a speed that took six first places and the championship of the meet. Spectators who witnessed this meet claim it to be the best to be held in the Battalion and this is no doubt true for competition was keen in each event with no doubt true for competition was keen in each even with no one knowing who would be the first to break the tape. Sergeant Willingham and his big gang of boys from Company D won the Tug-of-War pull with ease. The pull between Company E and Company F-67 turned out to be a fan pleaser. Company F-67 won the pull after many groans and grunts.

After the meet Major Allen F. Kingman, Battalion Commander presented to Private Mathews, team captain of Company E a beautiful trophy for his team winning the meet and in a brief talk expressed his views on what we are up against to win the Post Track and Field Meet which is to be held in May.

Private Alton Griffin of Headquarters Company turned out to be high point man with a total of fifteen points to his credit.

We are glad to note that orders sending Lieutenant R. J. Nelson to the Philippine Islands have been revoked. May the Lieutenant always make his home with the Tankers.

The 1st Battalion 29th Infantry gave our basketball team their first defeat Monday night. This was the first game for our boys to lose—We still have a good chance to win the crown and that's what we are out for.

Heretofore the outfit has conceded the romeo honors to "Chitterling" Smith whose reputed amours have been the talk of the Tanks. But now comes a dark horse, Corporal Henry B. Ivy, blossoming as suddenly as a mountain flower, and far surpassing anything Smitty ever hoped to attain. It is said that Ivy has been having a "swell" time talking to his pal's (?) girl friends, telling them things that may get them into trouble; and now he is boasting of keeping company with one of the prettiest maidens in Columbus. Ivy, we do not believe that you will be successful in the dual role of romeo and mess sergeant. We would rather have you as a mess sergeant. We suggest that you leave the weaker sex to Smitty.

24th Inf.

COMPANY "A"

Private First Class Gregory W. Marshall, the brain of the second platoon, was discharged a few days ago. He reenlisted next day as usual. He had contemplated getting himself a furlough, but fate intervened, relieving him of all his surplus cash. Now he must stay here with us and enjoy the privilege of going about his daily task listening in on the radio.

Private First Class Julius Scott, "The Greek" was discharged on inauguration day and reenlisted next day as usual. We hope the Greek won't think that he was inaugurated as president of Company "A". The Greek is about to take a furlough to his home on James Island, S. C. We hope he will have an enjoyable time. But in the mean time we wonder what the POST ROSE GARDENS will think when they miss the Scientific care he has been rendering.

The real "SHIEK" of all times in Company "A" has been on the war path for the past four days following pay-day. Oh, Shiek, if you would only stop and think, that, if you make a bed hard you cannot expect to find it soft when you are ready to lie down. So, spruce up, for our hope is that next time you will have better luck.

—W. C. Fritz

29th Inf.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 1ST BN.

Back in print again, folks, after a long absence that is entirely unexplainable.

There has been considerable change in the company since our last entry and to acquaint our readers with new members of this organization I present Privates Burge, Birdsong Shannon, Lewey, Stanfield, Bankston and Areaux. Now, you can't guess who our latest arrival is? We have with us again none other than the great Denver O. Turner. The climate in Illinois didn't quite agree with "Chink" consequently the transfer. Last but not least, little Bernard Stolier, the nonpareil clerk, baseball player and tap dancer de luxe has been transferred to this organization from Company G, 29th Infantry. Hurrah for "Benny."

Well, folks, this company is about the same otherwise; McGaha is still stirring the men with blood-curdling stories, (emphasis on the stories). Cpl. "Red" Henderson hasn't caught any more hogs lately but he is contemplating a trip into the interior on a wild boar chase and we may expect "Chops" in a few days.

"Paw" Tipper is still tipping around looking melancholy and singing dirges about a girl named Sue in "Bama" somewhere. Oh well, "Tip," December isn't so far away.

Cpl. Atcheson, otherwise known as "Pappy," has departed to his home in Sunny Florida on a thirty day furlough. Luck to you, George, may you enjoy your leave!

Pfc. Mike Carpenter has been appointed to the grade of Corporal. Cpl. Carpenter and Cpl. Hobb are attending the National Guard School this year for a 4 months' period of instructions in communications work, incidentally Cpl. Hobbs received a tremendous ovation the other day when he reported to the prearranged assembly point and wants to thank the Class for their cordial greeting.

No more news at present—We might add the famous last words:

Don't Go Away

Page a cowboy and a radio "Bug."

Q. M. D.

Q. M. DETACHMENT

The existing banking situation has affected members of the Quartermaster Detachment in different manners. Staff Sergeant Marshall E. Taylor, who has long considered that any interest rate above 2 per cent is extremely high and all too dangerous, is now saying "I told you so" to more reckless financial advisers. His fortune is on deposit with the Post Office Department. Samuel D. Harris, of the salvage division, is still contemplating abandoning his gold standard and accepting empty Bull Durham bags as the unit of monetary exchange. The Mighty Grumpy Gordy, during the emergency, is suspending payments to all creditors. What his actions will be after the emergncy has not yet been learned. The Benson surplus is still high, but pool oprations have somehow occasioned a Blanchard deficit. Another gloomy sight in the Quartermaster financial outlook is the depleted condition of the Mims-Spangler supply of Golden Grain in the orderly room.

The detachment has some new soldiers in the persons of Privates William J. Holliday, John Yarbrough and William H. Young. All of these men were recently transferred from the 29th Infantry. Samuel P. Edwards, well known Fort Benning cook and mess sergeant, is also a new addition to the roster. He was transferred from Headquarters Battery of the local Field Artillery Battalion and was immediately placed in the kitchen and shortly appointed Private 1st class, specialist 6th class.

THE Post Exchange has a DELIVERY SERVICE from its
SODA FOUNT

. . . which is designed for the delivery of Ice Cream in small quantities on the Post. The hours of this service are from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.

Excellent Curb Service

Telephone 69

SODA FOUNT
POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c . A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

We'll help you to keep your Ford going—
We'll also help you STOP it.
Brakes relined, labor and parts $5.00
Burrus Motor Co.
Authorized Ford Dealers.
1216-22 First Ave. Phone 3500.

HEALTH
According to the best medical authorities, good sausage is a valuable adjunct to the diet. Even children may start eating sausage to advantage at the age of five years, providing the sausage is good sausage. OLD SETTLER'S Pork Sausage IS good sausage.
Every Pound Guaranteed By
The Provision Co. Inc.
Columbus, Georgia

The greatest contest in the history of Confection World!
Tom's
is offering a New 1933 Chevrolet. One to be given away every two weeks! See cards on every Tom's Display Jar.

Who Wouldn't Enjoy Being Shipwrecked?
as long as there's
Tom's
at hand!

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1933 — NUMBER 47

TOWN TOPICS

We thoroughly enjoyed "The Debutante" last Saturday evening. The singing of Mrs. Eley, the pony chorus, and the special dancing features were, in our humble and unprofessional opinion, the highlights of the operetta.

To the directors, the members of the cast, and others allied with he presentation, we tend our congratulations. Their reward is an enthusiastic public.

* * *

From the strained expression on the fair facial features of the girls in the pony chorus, we gather that they were not enjoying their contribution to the success of the show nearly so much as the spectators. They did, however, to their everlasting credit, suddenly become gay and carefree a few seconds before making their exits.

We are firmly convinced that the entire population of Fort Benning was present en masse at "Coffee Dan's" last Saturday night. The only standing room we could find was the telephone booth.

The affair was considerably enlivened by special dancing and singing features by members of the cast of "The Debutante." Lieutenant Pat O'Flaherty, taking over the duties of master of ceremonies, forsook the loud speaker in his efforts to attract the attention of the merry-makers and resorted to his own inimitable voice. It goes without saying that he got his attention.

* * *

Our first glance at the crowded dance floor filled us with apprehension. Macbeth himself who "feared no man" would have hesitated before plunging blindly into that seething mass of humanity. Gulping down another cup of coffee, our courage, which had been oozing out of every pore, temporarily returned. Now it has been said that fools rush in where angels fear to tread." The person who is responsible for the saying must have had a crowded dance floor in mind.

At any rate, when we withdrew from the floor some five minutes later, we had a distinct impression of the truth of the famous maxim.

* * *

Cramped for space, our concluding item in the last issue of the Herald was abbreviated to one paragraph. It so happened that the second paragraph was the all-important one, and its omission made the item absolutely pointless.

About a week before "The Debutante" was produced, the cast was surprised and alarmed when ordinarily mild-mannered Professor Vondereau gave the members the benefits of a few observations he had made in no uncertain terms. In other words, he blew up.

The professor was on the verge of being accused of having a dual personality. Investigation, however, resulted in an expose of the musical director's past. During the World War, Professor Vondereau was a sergeant in the 5th Marines, on duty in the Argonne.

Now when a musical director can combine the delicate, artistic touch with the forceful, determined, awe-inspiring mannerisms of a sergeant in the marines, what more assurance do

(Please turn to page 3)

Three Benning Men Among Ten Highest In Rifle Matches

Three of the ten places awarded for the highest scores made in the National Individual Military championship matches in small bore rifle firing conducted by the National Rifle Association of Washington, D. C., were won by enlisted men of the 29th Infantry, according to a bulletin just received at Fort Benning from the competitions division of the N. R. A.

Sergeant Lawrence Beck, Company A, with a score of 691, won second place in the national matches and was awarded a silver medal, Sergeant Beck's score was only three points lower than that of the winner of the match, John Carlson, of Fort Missoula, Montana.

Corporal Charles W. Wills, and Corporal James A. Bales, both of Company A, and each with a score of 678, were awarded fifth and sixth places respectively, and each will receive a bronze medal. The awards to Corporals Wills and Bales were made by lot, as three scores of 678 were recorded in the matches, Mr. H. Klinksiek, of Philadelphia, winning the positio nof fourth place in the drawing.

The positions of each other 29th Infantry men in the naional matches in which fifty-seven competitors, all nationally known marksmen, were engaged, were as follows. Private 1st class Albert Puckett, Service, Service Company, 667, 15th place; Sergeant Morgan Rogers, Company B, 661, 18th place; Corporal Frank Palmer, Headquarters Company 2nd Battalion, 658, 22nd place; Corporal Vesta G. Hanners, Company G, 651, 30th place; Corporal Almaz J. Marcelle, Company A, 651, 32nd place; and Private James L. Blackman, Company A, 641, 37th place.

The match consisted of seventy shots fired by each competitor, with a possible total of 700 points fired in the prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing positions. Service training rifles, calibre .22, which have been used by the 29th Infantry for the past six years in the training of recruits and by the small bore teams, were used by the local marksmen in the matches, which makes their record all the more remarkable in view of the fact that many of the competitors used special target rifles.

Cavalry Officers Soon To Receive New Assignments

A preliminary announcement of war department orders which are to be issued shortly was received at Fort Benning by radio from the office of the chief of infantry, stating that several cavalry officers, who are now students at the Infantry School, will be assigned to Fort Riley, Kansas and Fort Knox, Kentucky, upon completion of their respective courses here.

Major Charles R. Johnson, who is a student in the advanced course, will be ordered to Fort Riley, Kansas for station.

Captains Edward A. Everitt, Jr., Rossiter H. Garity, Floyd M. Hyndman, and Lesly F. Lawrence, who are now students in the tank course, will be assigned to duty at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Shown in the above photo are (left to right) Capt. H. L. Bolen, Capt. R. M. Graen, Major Ramon B. Harrison, Capt. H. R. Heath and Capt. Carl L. Peterson. Major Harrison is the Company Commander of the National Guard and Reserve Officers' Class, Capt. Graen, second in command, and others in the picture are the platoon commanders.

Successful Broadway Play To Be Last Offering Of Dramatic Club

The much mooted question among military historians—why did Hannibal not march into Rome after his victory at Cannae?—will be answered according to dramatist Robert Sherwood in his brilliant and much discussed play, "The Road to Rome", which The Infantry School Dramatic Club is producing on the nights of March 24th and 25th. Author Sherwood's views in the matter will hardly be accepted in toto by profound students of military history, but they are certain to be interesting. The pronounced success of the play on Broadway and on the road is ample evidence that theatre going people found them so.

"The Road to Rome" is unquestionably the most ambitious production ever underaken by the local Dramatic Club. It requires both elaborate setting and elaborate costuming. Captain Virgil Bell has charge of the former—a fact which assures Dramatic Club patrons that "the grandeur that was Rome" will be effectively reproduced on the local stage. As regards costumes, the Club has spared neither pains nor expense to obtain the best that theatrical costumers have to offer. The Western Costume Company of Hollywood, California which is taking care of this important detail has costumed this play for numerous Little Theatre Clubs in a manner which has inspired much favorable newspaper comment.

Three experienced directors, Antoinette Wadsworth, Colonel E. F. Rice, and Major E. F. Harding have been working together for weeks to produce "The Road to Rome" in a manner which will be fully in keeping with the high standard which the Dramatic Club has attained in recent years.

"The Road to Rome" calls for an unusually large cast. The selection of this cast has been made with care and while most of the players have never before appeared before the local audience, it can be stated with authority that the casting has been well done.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Varius—Lieutenant Glenn A. Farris
Meta—Anne Vermette
Fabia—Martha Watkins
Fabius Maximus—Colonel R. H. Kelley
Amytis—Thetis Whitley
Cato—Albert Persons
Scipio—Lieut. Malin Craig
Drusus—Captain Thomas E. May
Sertorius—Colonel William B. Wallace
Tibullus—Colonel Charles W. Weeks
Sergeant—Captain Michael E. Halloran
Corporal—Captain Arnold Funk
1st Guardsman—Lieut. Carl F. Duffner
2nd Guardsman—Captain Robert H. Chance
3rd Guardsman—Captain Caspar R. Crim
4th Guardsman—Lieut. James S. Luckett
5th Guardsman—Lieut. James J. Fitzgibbons
Thotmes—Captain Fred E. Gaillard
Hasdrubal—Captain Charles R. Sargent

(Please turn to page 10)

Final Training Tests Of New Drill Being Carried Out This Week

Final training tests, using the tenative infantry drill regulations which have been in experimental use by the army for several months, were begun by companies of the 29th Infantry on Wednesday, when Companies E, F, and G, demonstrated various movements in close and extended order drill of rifle companies before a group of judges appointed by Colonel William E. Persons, regimental commander. Regimental Headquarters Company, and two battalion headquarters companies, were also engaged in the tests on Wednesday.

On Thursday the three machine gun companies and the cannon company were engaged in various drills appropriate for those organizations, and on Saturday the tests were concluded when rifle companies of the 1st battalion will be inspected.

Lieutenant Colonel Andrew D. Chaffin heads the committee of judges who are observing the tests preparatory to making a report upon the experimental drill regulations to the war department. Other members are Captain John J. Albright, and Lieutenant Edward A. Chazal and Louis B. Rutte.

Company Officers Begin Series Of Military Lectures

Student discussions of outstanding military and historical events which have been assigned as subjects for short lectures because of their value in illustrating various applications of tactics to specific situations, were the center of interest of activities of the company officers' class on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Among the short lectures which were analyses of the operations of General Ludenorff at Liege, Belgium in August 1914, by three members of the class, Lieutenant Elmer L. Litzenberg, U. S. Marine Corps; Lieutenant Andrew S. Gamble, and Lieutenant Charles D. Wiegand.

The fight for the possession of Manju Yama in the battle of Lino Yang, August-September, 1904, was another topic covered by three speakers; Lieutenant William G. Stephenson, Lieutenant George E. Bush, and Lieutenant Carl E. Lundquist.

The famous lost battalion episode of the 77th Division in the Meuse-Argonne offensive was discussed by Lieutenant Ralph W. Zwicker, and Lieutenant Lincoln Jones, Jr.

A marine corps officers' observations of the landing of an infantry battalion on a hostile shore were illustrated during a talk made by Lieutenant Paul B. Watson, U. S. Marine Corps, whose discussion was based upon marine operations conducted by the 1st Battalion, U. S. Marine Corps at Ocean Side, California, in January 1932, during fleet maneuvers. Similar operations dealing with an infantry company and based upon the landing of elements of the 30th Infantry in the recent combined army and navy maneuvers in Hawaii were discussed by Lieut. Herbert J. Vander Heide, while the landing of the 3rd Battalion, 14th Infantry in the Panama Canal Department in February 1930 formed the topic of Lieutenant Murray E. McCowan. The landing at "V" Beach in the Dardanelles campaign, on April 25, 1915, was analyzed by Lieutenant Abner J. McGehee, Jr., and Lieutenant Wesley C. Wilson.

Japanese tactics employed at Shanghai in February, 1932 were discussed by Lieutenant Arthur T. Mason, who observed the operations of the Japanese while acting as assistant Intelligence officer of the 4th Marines. Subjects of other lectures given on Tuesday were as follows: "The Engagements Near Mulsusen, August 7-12, 1914" by Lieutenant Robert G. Turner; "The Methods by which the Germans Obtained Surprise on May 27, 1918" by Lieutenant Daniel F. Walker; "Course in Musketry and Combat Practice as Training for Battlefield Conditions" by Lieutenant Paul Cooper; "The Relative Merits of Various Types of Machine Gun Transportation" by Lieutenant Clyde D. Eddlemen; "The Personal Experiences of a Platoon Leader in Battle" by Lieutenant William S. Triplett; "Big Bethel in the Civil War" by Lieutenant James E. Poore, jr.; and Lieutenant Cleland O. Sibley; "The Use of Machine Gun Carts" by Lieutenant Carl S. Graybeal; "The Use of Native Pony and Carabac Transport for Machine Guns in the Philippines" by Lieutenant Eleuterico S. Yanga; and "The Capture of Stony Point by General Anthony Wayne" by Lieutenant Charles H. Treat.

Topics assigned for lectures given on Wednesday included the follow-

(Please turn to page 5)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Literary Section Of Woman's Club Hears Reviews Of Recent Publications

The Literary Section of the Infantry School Women's Club held its March meeting at the Polo Club on Monday the thirteenth with Mrs. Francis J. Heraty as director for the afternoon.

The program, which was composed of books on travel, was opened with a very clever talk by Mrs. Joseph A. Holly wherein she classified the types of travel books as being those of personal adventures, typical guide books, descriptive travel books and travel autobiographies. (To be worthwhile a book on travel must be accurate, not too full of fantasy, well illustrated by maps and photographs and have a good table of contests).

Mrs. Heraty reviewed four books, the first being Footloose In The British Isles, (which is a story of the hazardous journeyings of Harry A. Frank; her second selection was Undiscovered Europe by E. Alexander Powell. This book contains many anecdotes of people now in power and a great deal of history and legend of such countries as Latvia, Albania and Luxemburg. For her third selection Mrs. Heraty reviewed Tiger Man by Julian Duguid. This is the story of a man who spent fourteen years of his life living and hunting in the forests of South America and working his way from place to place by his skill as a mechanic.

The ever-fascinating country of China was the next scene of (our) literary travels when Mrs. Heraty presented her review of Jehol by Sir Sven Hedin, who is an explorer, diplomat and one of the eighteen most important men of Sweden. The author describes Jehol as the Fontainebleau of the Manchurain emperors and gives a great deal of the history of this city which was established in 1703.

Mrs. Philip Wood reviewed a group of four books beginning with Paul Cohen-Portheim's Discovery of Europe. The author of this book was brought up in the various capitals of Europe, was interred for four years during the war as an enemy alien and it was during this time that he began his writings, which in this case describe most delightfully the atmosphere of Europe. German Summers, by Cornelia Stratton Parker, was described by Mrs. Wood as being a very readable chatty account of the author's travels by falt-boat along the waterways of Germany, where by the most inexpensive method she was able to enjoy the glorious scenery of rivers and castles and to visit the unfrequented spots, unhampered by any set schedule.

Banana Gold takes us into Mexico and Central America where the author, Carleton Beales, describes the steaming tropical valleys of these countries where the banana and coffee plantations are located. An interesting part of the story is a description of the author's interview of the bandit chief Sandino, in spite of the opposition of the U. S. Marines.

The fourth selection was Vance Randolph's Ozark Mountain Folks which Mrs. Wood described as a collection of yarns that in their telling carries you through a section of the Ozark Mountains and gives you a very good idea of the superstitions and customs of its people.

Mrs. Charles Sargent reviewed Letters From Spain by Karel Capek. The high lights of this book are the chapters on Beautiful Sevilla and the brilliant one on bull fighting. In addition the story is very cleverly illustrated with pen and ink sketches by the author.

WOMAN'S CLUB GARDEN SECTION TO SPONSOR LUNCHEON

The state meeting of the Federated Garden Clubs of Georgia will be held in Columbus during the first week of April. Among the entertainments planned for this gathering is a luncheon to be held at the Officers' Club of Fort Benning on Saturday, April 8th; this luncheon is sponsored by the Garden Club Section of the Infantry School Woman's Club but it is desired that all ladies of Fort Benning whether or not they are members of the Woman's Club, will participate. Admission will be 75 cents and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Peyton at 862 or Mrs. Heileman at 827.

BRIDGE PARTY PLANNED BY MEMBERS WOMAN'S CLUB

The Infantry School Women's Club will entertain at a benefit bridge party on Friday, March 31, at the Polo Club. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. J. A. Ladd, 847.

Admission charges will be 25 cents a person or $1.00 for a table.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATED WITH DINNER AND DANCE

In celebration of Saint Patrick's Day, the Officers' Club will entertain Friday evening at dinner followed by dancing at Biglerville. During dinner the 29th Infantry orchestra will entertain the guests with charming selection of Irish music. Both the Officers' Club and Biglerville are appropriately decorated in honor of the Day. Many reservation have been made for dinner. Among those reserving tables were: Col. and Mrs. J. DeCamp Hall, Maj. and Mrs. Jay. E. Gillfillan, Maj. and Mrs. Albert G. Kinberger, Capt. and Mrs. Charles W. Hanna, Capt. and Mrs. George F. Bloomquist, Capt. and Mrs. Charles R. Sargent, and Lieut. and Mrs. Webster Anderson.

Today's Fashion

A few of the new bags.

By VERA WINSTON

THIS SPRING the leather bag is going to be first favorite, with elaborate models in antelope for evening wear. Black, beige, gray and blue bags will all be found in both expensive and reasonably priced models.

Shown today are three of the very latest bags, each one representative of the sort of thing that will be seen very shortly. First is a large black kid bag with insets of white kid. The bag is an envelope which reveals a white slab with a gold monogram. Next is a pouch bag of very fine gray cross grained leather mounted on a silver clasp. The third of the modish trio is in navy blue pink seal. It has a large pocket in front which is enhanced by a beautiful cliplike decoration of brightly colored enamel.

MRS. MAERTENS HONORS GUEST WITH LUNCHEON

Mrs. Victor G. Huskea, who is spending a few weeks as the guest of Mrs. Kameil Maertens, was the honoree Tuesday at a delightful luncheon given by her hostess. The luncheon table was graced by a lovely bowl of yellow jonquils. Mrs. Maertens' guests were: Mesdames Huskea, R. B. Lovett, Claudis M. Easley, George L. Kraft, Kearie L. Berry, Alexander H. Cummings, Harry D. Ayer, Elmer G. Lindroth and Elliott Watkins. Several other delightfully informal affairs have been planned in honor of Mrs. Huskea. Among those were a buffet supper given Sunday evening by Maj. and Mrs. George L. Kraft. Mrs. Francis G. Bonham entertained Wednesday at luncheon, while Friday Mrs. Alexander Cummings was the hostess at luncheon.

* * *

THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCE AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The supper dances which have been held all Winter at the Officers' Club have been among the most popular social affairs on the Post due mostly to the delicious hot suppers which the Officers' Club serves at popular prices making entertaining easy, delightful and economical. This Thursday affair assembled the usual large number of guests. Among those entertaining were: Maj. and Mrs. Frank V. Schneider, Capt. and Mrs. Philip T. Fry, Capt. and Mrs. Orion L. Davidson, Capt. and Mrs. Burton L. Lucas, Capt. and Mrs. Grant A. Schlieker, Lieut. and Mrs. William A. D. Thomas, Lieut. and Mrs. Cranford C. B. Warden and Lieut. and Mrs. John B. Beishline.

* * *

CAPT. AND MRS. DEPASS ENTERTAIN AT DINNER PRECEDING ST. PATRICK'S DANCE AT BIGLERVILLE

Capt. and Mrs. Morris B. DePass, Jr. will be the hosts at dinner Friday evening to a party of friends preceding the St. Patrick's dance at Biglerville. Throughout the house early spring flowers are used as decorations.

The guest list includes: Capt. and Mrs. Walter C. Phillips, Capt. and

(Please turn to page 3)

The Santa Maria
9 West 11th Street
Telephone 1116

Announces with pleasure that in addition to a collection of rare antiques, furniture and prints, this studio will carry a varied line of lamp shades and draperies.

Representing
The W. E. Browne Decorating Company of
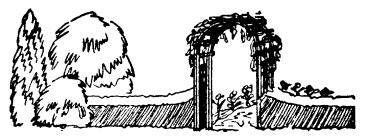
ATLANTA, GA.

ARMY NAVY
TRADE MARK
Regulation
U. S. ARMY SABRES
IN 3 STANDARD QUALITIES
TRADE DEFENDER MARK
TRADE CHALLENGER MARK
TRADE CONQUEROR MARK
Look for the trademark on the blade of your sabre
Inquire at your Post Exchange
N. S. MEYER, INC.
43 East 19th St., New York

FURNITURE OF QUALITY
H. ROTHSCHILD
Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years
1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Last Season's Hats made into new ones.
Panamas and Straws Blocked and Trimmed.
Expert Hat Remodeling
Nicholson Hat Shop
319 Third Nat. Bank Bldg.



SEEDS – PLANTS
Spring and Planting Time is here. Everything for the GARDEN and LAWN; seeds, plants, tools, fertilizer. Drop in at our store and we will be glad to help you to plan your planting.
Valley Seed Co.
1041 Broadway

FOREMOST for CHILDREN
. . . and for grown-ups too, is the best, tastiest ice cream made. Try it once, and you're convinced too!
Call the SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

DOLAN-HENRY HAT SHOP
AT ALSOBROOK'S
Has just received a new shipment of popular priced hats, ranging from $2.50 to $6.00
Fort Benning charge accounts solicited.

Here's What's New in Shoes For Spring

WATERSNAKE 1933's authentic complement for beige ensembles—
Also shown in gray watersnake. $7.50. Our stock is now complete, showing all new delightful spring models.
Miller-Taylor Shoe Co.
For Quality and Service
1130 Broadway Phone 2405

SOCIETY

(Continued From Page 2)

Mrs. Earle A. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Brownley Hodges, Capt. and Mrs. Grant A. Schleiker, Capt. and Mrs. Charles W. Pence, Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Bowen, Lieut. and Mrs. Kameil Maertens, Mrs. Selina Waddington, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Victor G. Huskea, Capt. George J. Forster and Lieut. Frederick W. Hein.

* * *

MRS. CUMMINGS HONORS GUEST AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. Alexander H. Cummings was the hostess Friday at a luncheon honoring Mrs. Victor G. Huskea, the attractive house guest of Mrs. Kameil Maertens.

* * *

NURSES QUARTERS SCENE OF BUFFET SUPPER AND DANCE

Invitations were issued last week for the buffet supper and dance which was held Thursday evening at the Nurses' quarters. The nurses on duty at the Station Hospital acting as hostesses. Supper was served at eight, buffet style. After supper, dancing was enjoyed, the music being furnished by the 24th Infantry orchestra. Those that did not desire to dance played bridge in the card room. The guest list included about seventy-five friends of the hostesses from Columbus, the Medical Corps and from the Post.

* * *

MISS TRULOCK AND LIEUT. McNULTY COMPLETE PLANS FOR WEDDING

Plans for the wedding of Miss Elma Trulock, daughter of Mrs. Thornwell Trulock, and of Lieut. William A. McNulty, son of Dr. and Mrs. McNulty of Roanoke, Va., have been completed. The wedding will be solemnized on March 24th at four o'clock at the First Baptist Church, Dr. Frederick S. Porter officiating. The bride will be given in marriage by her brother Mr. Thornwell Trulock, Jr. and will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Ermine Trulock. There will be three bridesmaids, Miss Natilu McKenney, Miss Jane McEwen, and Miss Louise McNulty of Roanoke, Va., who is the sister of Lieut. McNulty. Lieut. McNulty will have as his best man Lieut. Thomas R. Hanna. His groomsman will be Lieut. James K. Woolnough, Lieut. Dan Gilmer and Mr. Charles McNulty of Roanoke, Va., his brother. Capt. Morris B. DePass, Lieut. James M. Churchill, Jr., Lieut. Richard H. Smith and Mr. Albert Laney will act as ushers. A small reception for the members of the bridal party will follow the ceremony.

* * *

29TH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB MEETS AT QUARTERS OF MRS. SCHNEIDER

The monthly meeting of the ladies' 29th infantry bridge club was held Tuesday afternoon at the quarters of Mrs. Frank V. Schneider. Those assisting the hostess were; Mrs. Robert B. McClure and Mrs. George P. Howell. Five tables of contract bridge assembled at two thirty and played until four thirty when tea was served. The tea table was laid with a lovely lace cloth while early Spring flowers were used as decorations.

PERSONALS

Capt. and Mrs. Earle A. Johnson have as their guest the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Brownlee Hodges.

Lieut. and Mrs. Kameil Maertens have as their house guest Mrs. Victor G. Huskea. Capt. and Mrs. Huskea, formerly of Fort Benning, are now stationed at Fort Wood, New York.

Mrs. Joseph I. Greene returned Tuesday from a few days visit in Atlanta.

Friends of Mrs. James B. Woolnough will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in the Station Hospital suffering from the effects of an automobile accident that occurred Tuesday.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued From Page 1)

we need of the success of any show?

* * *

Fine weather, interpreted by some as the coming of spring, brought golf and tennis enthusiasts out of hiding early this week. The prolonged spell of rainy, windy, and otherwise disagreeable weather, we sincerely hope, is over. Maybe President Roosevelt had something to do with it.

* * *

Major Easley, instructor in the Third Section, complained bitterly one day to members of the National Guard Class that pupils no longer brought apples or flowers to their beloved teachers. Later one hundred and nineteen students in the National Guard class, bearing one hundred and nineteen big red apples purloined from the Biglerville Mess, appeared.

Observed Lieutenant Lightcap: "There will be no dearth in applesauce in the Easley family for some time to come."

THE DEBUTANTE

* * * * * * *

A Critic's Commentary On The Glee Club's Recent Excellent Performance

The Fort Benning Theatrical productions are getting so much bigger and better that they engage not one but two and sometimes three directors. Vide: "The Road to Rome." A presentation of such colossal scale as The Debutante can certainly justify two reviewers. We think this is really necessary to do justice to every one. Also it has advantages. For whatever is pleasing to our subscribers we will jointly and modestly accept praise. Conversely, if there is anything we say that does not please, we hasten to contribute that bit to our collaborator in criticism.

The Fort Benning Glee Club passed another milestone last week in their presentation of Victor Herbert's operetta, "The Debutante." That the courage and genuine perseverance of this large group of amateur singers and actors may be properly appreciated, we point out that the music of this operetta is very difficult, the timing of entrances, exits, movements on the stage, all very complicated, in short, that the Glee Club not only attempted but put over an exceedingly heroic undertaking.

This year's cast was augmented by the presence of Dorothy Githens Eley, who played the leading role with grace and charm. Her voice is a beautiful one, and her stage presence lovely and magnetic. In addition to her fine voice and innate artistic gifts, she has had much professional concert and operatic experience. She was the source of real inspiration to the Glee Club members who were so fortunate in having her with them this season. She reheased cheerfully and long with the principals and chorus, and was always helpful with advice and encouragement. A large share of "The Debutante's" success was Mrs. Eley's.

Another factor prominently in line for praise was that large army of people "back stage" whose names appear modestly on the programs, but who rarely get their proper share of thanks or credit. We hereby congratulate these unseen heroes and heroins who were responsible for make-up, costumes, lights, properties, and all the innumerable items so necessary in a well produced show.

Mr. Vonderau did his usual excellent conducting and the chorus work bore evidence of his thorough and musicianly drilling.

Lieutenant O'Flaherty did a masterly job of directing, the sequences and dialogues being smooth and well coordinated.

Mrs. Lindsey, very jaunty in a midshipman's uniform was in character every moment that she was on the stage and demonstrated to the Benning audience that Marlene Deitrich has grounds for her contention that masculine attire is irresistible on a graceful feminine chassis.

The opening chorus, and delectable pony ballet in a sailor's hornpipe were high lights in the first act.

Captain Clark, as Jerry, played his part to perfection, a smooth and natural performance. With many opportunities for purloined prominence, Howard Clark was true to his part throughout—philosophical and restrained. His vocal renditions were pleasantly done, to the satisfaction of his audience.

Mrs. Reeder, one of Benning's expert comediennes, had the role of Zenobia Bunker, and our only quarrel with this production is that she was not allowed to burlesque her part to her heart's content. Next time, Peg Reeder, do not let them hold you down. You are always a bright spot, whatever you do. (We like that Carter.)

Lieutenant, Raymond, as Zenobia's very suppressed husband, upheld his reputation as a comedian. His difficult character role was handled professionally, and in most individual style. The tin pipe was flourished at intervals—indeed it is getting to be as much of a trade mark as Harpo's automobile horn, or Ed Wynn's hat!

We had a new actor of promising performance in Captain Elliott, who was successfully cast as Godfrey Frazer, an American millionaire. He had that hard to define quality of agreeable stage presence, and sang one of the song hits, "A Gay Life."

Lieutenant Hosea had a freshness and youthfulness in keeping with his part of the millionaire's son. His voice was sweet and mellow to an extent that must have been as pleasing to the Debutante herself as it was to the audience.

The part of Armand, by Lieutenant Cleveland, was perhaps the most difficult of all to interpret; the maintaining of a dialect and the lavish gestures of a French marquis called for conscientious and unselfish devotion to the characterization. The fluttering hands and eloquent eyebrows, as well as the French accent were consistently adhered to, and the high silk hat maintained a most debonair angle.

Georgia Leard was vivid and sparkling as Irma, the siren. Her grace and vivacity added greatly to the ensemble just at that dangerous moment in any production when momentum tends to slow down due to the complexities of plot. Her vocal numbers were rhythmic and spirited and were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Hosea was so attractive in ballet costume as Nina, the aspiring danc-

(Please turn to page 9)

HALF SOLES

A GOOD Half Sole 50c · A BETTER Half Sole 75c

LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED

BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

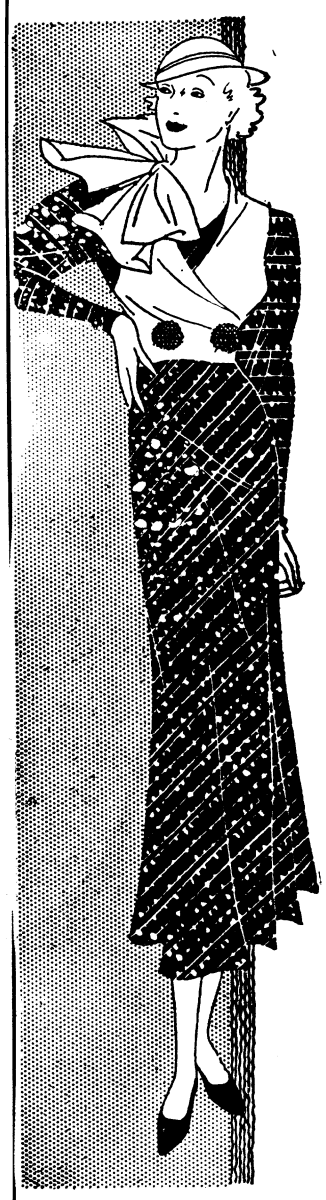
NEW
1934 Reverse Spiral Combination Machine FOR EUGENE WAVES
The Newest, Most Modern And Only Machine of its Kind in Columbus.
$5.00 and $7.00
Other Waves $2 and $3
WAVY LOX BEAUTY SALON
Mrs. Nora P. Carroll, Mgr.
Phone 5970 217½ - 38th St.

IF THE HEALTH OF YOUR CHILD MEANS ANYTHING TO YOU
. . . you'll place your trust in Collins' Bread, in which wholesomeness is baked as an integral part!
COLLINS' BAKING CO.
1044 - 13th St.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS
We are ready to make loans and receive collections. Our plan is simple—8%—no extra charges or fees for investigation. Loans re-payable in monthly installments.
Fidelity Loan & Investment Co.
T. E. BAISDEN, Sec.-Treas.
1206 First Avenue Phone 3384

PEKOR JEWELRY CO.
Silver Specials
6-Inch Bread and Butters. Sterling ------- $2.39
Large Bell Shape Sterling Goblets ------- $4.25
10-Inch Sterling Vase -- $3.95
9½-in. Candle Holders. Sterling ------- $4.95 Pair
Sterling Cream & Sugar $4.95
Mayonnaise Bowl and Ladle --------- $3.95
We sell American Legion Emblems
PEKOR'S
1221 BROADWAY

week-end special . . .



Silk and Wool Dresses
$18.75 Values
$16.75
Bright and charming little frocks that are spring to the tiniest stitch. With jackets or capelets and plain they come in grays blues navys little checks

KNIT Dresses
for sport and casual town wear
In one piece, two piece and three piece. They come in white, Eleanor blue, maize, beige and green. The two piece comes with skirt and blouse; the three piece with skirt, blouse and jacket.
$10.75 - $16.75

smart brim Ballibuntal Tailored Trim
A slight dip molded into the hat cocks them ever so gently over the eye.
$5.00

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II MARCH 17, 1933 NUMBER 47

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Wednesday, March 8

In receipt of papers returned to us this day by Circus Bill Hones, and the comments thereon unmistakable in their application. There does appear, however, to be some doubt in the class concerning whether the grade "Not Very Good" ranks just below "Very Good" or just above "Lousy."

Thursday, March 9

Major Robinson's remarks do disclose him as either the most optimistic or the most naive instructor yet to have opposed us in this Students vs. Faculty game, he having urged us at the conclusion of today's work not to pursue further the half solved problem. More searching, albeit less flattering, is Captain Pope's observation on the assignment in 37 mm. technique "—if any of you should so far forget yourselves as to start studying—." But individual control, I doubt not, is with six months' practice strength as to resist the tendency.

The first day of fifteen-minute speeches with ensuing joy on the part of those who completed their talks. McComas some taken aback when, proudly exhibiting his well hachured map, he was greeted by McCleave with "It looks like the NCS trying to get into the net."

Devious means devised to insure satisfactory stage presence, not the least interesting of which was Strader's. He did cause the Mrs. S to be seated in the car parked directly at the rear of the hall that he might remember to speak directly to his audience and not less to them than to his maps.

Stika of the opinion that Major Tindall's critique was a better speech on the subject than his own had been.

Friday, March 10

My own speech unloaded at last for which I do thank God. Perhaps I can now keep the good wife at home of an evening, she having of late acquired the habit of leaving for the movies at my first sign of muttering. But for the financial hazard thus imposed I might have much better prepared my talk. As it was, the adverse comments of the critique touched only the showing on my map of Mississippi towns in Tennessee and other minor errors such as Memphis on the west bank of the River. Had I but attended carefully I might have found that the instructor and I were discussing two engagements.

Saturday, March 11

To the showing of "The Debutante" and much struck with the confidence which must have been inspired in Mrs. Moseley by the leftenant. Unless, of course, she knew that he would not try to bounce the cook—(theirs being a maidless menage.)

Monday, March 18

For my life I can't understand the hue and cry over the closed banks. It must arise from the throats of those unfortunates who have no notes to meet. A smile added to the situation by the maid who said "Mis' Peep, dey tells me it ain't gonta be money no mo'. All we gonta have is strips."

Another chuckle on a different subject supplied by Parson Stephenson's dark cloud of joy who does odd jobs and shines the Reverend's leather. Upon being especially exhorted to shine a certain pair of boots that the wearer might achieve sartorial perfection for his 15 minute speech the dusky one fell to with zeal. "Yas, suh! Ah'll shine 'em so's de congregation can see dere faces in 'em."

Thursday, March 14

Joe Phelan in the depths of great disappointment. Informed by a classmate that his speech was due today he did rehearse last night; did this morning array himself in white shirt and boiled collar; and did sit nervously and anxiously on he edge of his seat for two hours waiting to be called on. At the end of the two hours he ascertained that tomorrow is the day. Joe was suffused with indignation.

Treat only partly covered with confusion upon whipping the curtain aside and pointing out, not quite, Stony Point on a map of Big Bethal. Besides providing fertile ground for the practical jokers I do think that the most good these speeches have done is to get the class, albeit piecemeal, into officers' clothing again.

Standards of achievement vary with the individual, one being greatly elated that he stumbled neither upon going up nor down from the platform and having stood there twelve minutes without falling prostrate. For the "congregation," especially in the front seats, that talk is a success which catches no one in the eye with a thumb tack.

Wednesday, March 15

Convinced at last that the "hollow holes" really exist in the piston rod of the 37 mm gun and not merely in the vocabulary of the instructor. It could be that Lt. Brann is getting that way from too intimate association with the class.

Kiel scores again at the firing of the one-pounder this afternoon. His question "If a doubtful isn't a hit or an over is it a short?" did greatly mind me of his machine gun classic "What is the range at a thousand inches?" Geary, as gun commander, was caught laying the gun for the gunner, and roundly berated by the instructor for so doing. "But sir," alibied Geary, "Lt. Kiel is the gunner."

Major Tuffy Easley does wear these days a long face, there having been to date no foul weather in which he might require the National Guard Class to fire the rifles.

—Lieut. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Rabies (Hydrophobia)

Rabies is an acute infectious disease of animals. It is most prevalent among dogs. It is more or less common in Georgia. It is communicated to man by the bite of the rabid animal.

Rabies is due to what is called a filterable virus which is present in the central nervous system and the salivary glands.

The incubation period is usually four to six weeks. It may however be as short as ten days or prolonged to six months. Bites in children and those of the face have the shortest incubation periods.

Man is less susceptible than any of the lower animals. Only 15 to 20 per cent of those bitten by rabid animals develop the disease. The disease follows face wounds in 50 to 60 percent of the cases. Sex and race have no influence on susceptibility. Children are however more susceptible than adults.

Cases of rabies in man are dependent on its prevalence in animals. The disease has always been more or less common in Georgia and at the present time there seems to be an increase in the nearby communities. The season of the year has no direct influence on the spread of rabies. Hot weather of itself does not increase the susceptibility of dogs to this infection. The habit which dogs have of wandering during the hot months does however account for their greater likelihood of becoming infected.

In the United States about 85 percent of the rabies among animals is in dogs. Because dogs are in close association with man they are the most common agents for infecting man.

The virus of rabies will not pass through the unbroken skin. There must be a wound of the skin or mucous membrane. The infected saliva o fthe dog is usually inoculated by biting. It may however be transmitted by a rabid animal who licks your hands or face if there be a cut or wound of the skin.

The rabid animal has saliva which is infectious for as long as a week before it shows symptoms of the disease. The saliva continues to be infectious until death.

The question of control of rabies is one of control of dogs. To prevent its spread all stray or ownerless dogs must be exterminated. Owned dogs must be restrained, muzzled, and vaccinated.

Dogs can be protected against rabies by prophylactic vaccination. One dose of anti-rabic vaccine will prevent the development of the disease for a period which varies from six months to five years. The usual length of immunity is between one and two years. It is therefore the custom to vaccinate once each year. Garrison Regulations require that all dogs and cats must be vaccinated.

Treatment of wound—The wound should be treated as soon as possible, preferably within twelve hours.

The virus inoculated into bite wounds can be destroyed and the disease prevented by a thorough treatment. Fuming nitric acid, and plain nitric acid, or formaldehyde are the best for this purpose.

Carbolic acid is not as good. Iodine and other ordnary disinfectants are useless.

Antirabic vaccination or Pasteur treatment because of the long incubation period and the fact that the disease does not develop until the virus reaches the brain is the only absolute hope of preventing the development of the disease in one bitten by a rabid animal.

It is difficult to determine whether or not one needs this treatment. The decision rests largely on whether or not is is possible to determine that the animal was rabid. This is not always possible. Rabies is a terrible disease and without this treatment practically always fatal. Therefore where rabies is known to be present or where it is even suspected the vaccine treatment should be given to everyone bitten by stray or unknown dogs or when it cannot be absolutely proved that the animal was not rabid. The treatment should begin at once.

Where possible, the dog should be captured and restrained under the observation of a veterinarian. If no symptoms develop during the next ten days it is safe to assume that the animal is not rabid. The vaccine treatment can then be discontinued. If the dog develops rabies or dies the treatment should be completed.

If the dog escapes capture the complete treatment needs to be given the bitten person.

If the dog is killed at the time of biting, or is killed or dies while under observation the head or the entire carcass should be immediately sent to the laboratory for examination. Vaccine treament should be started and only discontinued when a report is returned that animals inoculated with the brain substance of the dead dog have failed to produce the disease.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

THE DEBUTANTE

Elsewhere in this issue of the Benning Herald a far more competent musical critic than the conductor of The Flare has reviewed the Glee Club production of The Debutante. Having served time as an amateur dramatic critic of amateur theatricals, we are awed at the very thought of the task that confronted the reviewer of the Glee Club's annual offering. So many people contribute to the success of one of those ambitious undertakings that it is impossible to do even partial justice to all of them. The listing of their names alone would use up a third of the reviewer's allotted space and to give each one a sentence describing his or her contribution to the cause would result in a catalogue of achievement so long that no one would read it. And how, tell me, is one going to describe Dorothy Githens Eley's singing or Mae Dickerson's dancing in a single sentence, anyway?

We sat in the third row and gave all the girls and boys a hand when they pleased us which was practically all the time. In addition to the aforementioned features, we enjoyed the comedy furnished by Raymond, Elliott, Cleveland and Margaret Reeder, the Moseley and Jacqueline Cowley dancing numbers, and the choruses. In an operetta not distinguished for many "catchy" tunes we found Clarke's "Peggy's a Creature of Moods" and "The Baker Boy and Chimney Sweep" sung by Georgia Leard, flanked by Farris and Rowan, much to our liking. Incidentally, in our capacity of dramatic club scout, we noted on our cuff that Georgia Leard, Sally Lindsey, Captain Clark and Lieutenant Hosea showed marked talent for the speaking as well as the singing stage.

In closing this brief and wholly inadequate tribute to the Glee Club's 1933 triumph, we must not fail to mention Mrs. Dickerson's snappy and well drilled pony ballet which added so much to the enjoyment, not only of our tired business men but of all others who attended the performance.

GLEE CLUB TICKET PARTY

Mine Host Dowdall has always regarded his appointment to the office of maitre d'hotel for Benning's large garrison as a mandate to do everything he could for everybody. His accommodating disposition having become a matter of common knowledge, patrons of the Officers' Club have put it to varied and severe tests. A surprisingly large number of unusual requests for special service involving no end of trouble are handled in a manner so eminently satisfactory to the petitioner that he (or she) is encouraged to rase the ante. Aide-de camp Jimmy Winn's operations on the Glee Club ticket exchange constitutes a case in point.

It seems that the dashing Jimmy brought to the great ticket lottery a proxy to acquire four tickets for Colonel Atkins. As luck would have it, Jimmy did much better in drawing for himself than he did for the Colonel and, when the melee was over, the astute aide-de-camp had four good seats for himself and four poor ones for the busy executive. At this point of the story, however, the aide-de-camp's luck deserted him.

Somehow or other, between the drawing at the Club and the delivery at G. H. Q., the Colonel's four tickets got lost. It being manifestly impossible for a young man with practically his whole military career before him to report to a superior that the tickets he had charged to obtain had disappeared, aid-de-camp Winn said nothing and gave his own choice tickets to Colonel Atkins—thereby acquring merit as a go-getting lieutenant.

At this stage of the proceedings Mine Host comes into the story, for Jimmy at once took up with him the matter of establishing a claim to the four seats that had been destined for Colonel Atkins and party.

Mine Host, ready as always to help a fellow out, arranged to issue the aide-de-camp four general admission tickets free of charge and outline a course of action. Jimmy was advised to ease his party in after the crowd had been seated and seek out four unoccupied seats in the general area in which the Colonel's original reservations were known to be. This was the best that could be done as the exact location of the seats that Jimmy had drawn for the Colonel was not a matter of record.

So far so good,—or so bad, however, you choose to look at it—for aide-de-camp Winn was out his own excellent seats but the aide-de-camp accepted the situation. Later, however, he changed his mind. Perhaps he received an unanticipated call out of town or maybe he just decided that his theater party wouldn't be a success under the circumstances. At any rate, he decided to pass up the Debutante. He still had four dollars tied up in Glee Club tickets, however, and once more he sought out Mine Host Dowdall to discuss ways and means of recovering on his investment.

Mine Host listened patiently to Jimmy's proposal, that he be reimbursed

(Please turn to page 7)

Tales Of The Tent City

Whereas and whereas, be it resolved, therefore be it further resolved, to somebody from someone, some place, somehow. AMEN.

* * *

The class song:
When I'm the commandant
When I'm the commandant
I'll take my blunderbuss to bed with me
When I'm the commandant
Verse 2
When I'm the commandant
When I'm the commandant
There'll be no coughing in the first platoon
When I'm the commandant

* * *

We know that Mrs. Tudhope must have come south with the Lieutenant. He appeared around the Academic area the other day with black rubbers on over his field boots. Well we suppose they do things like that up Vermont way.

* * *

As a little extra-Curricular diversion, the corporation of Roberts, Roberts, Griffin and Pinkston purchased one of those fifteen cent weekly jig puzzles last Sunday. After dizzily trying to prove that too many cooks spoil the broth for the greater part of the afternoon, Roberts was heard to remark: "I'm going to buy me one of these things, lock myself up in my tent and go nuts by myself."

MR. V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75 Factory guarantee. City Drug Store.

Capt. Kiern says he has found the formula for the solution of these contouring problems. Study the D—m thing until you get so mad that you start tearing out your hair. Let the hair fall over the surface of the sketch as it will. Draw a line along each hair which falls. That's the answer. Guaranteed. Patent applied for.

* * *

And now that you know what the farmer's trouble was, get your wagon loaded before the coming week.

* * *

And if there are any instructors who want red apples and do not know how to obtain them for nought, Major Easley can inform them how the fruit may be obtained.

* * *

In the further process of whittling him down to our size, we are pleased to note that Lipsey had doffed the clown's uniform for evening mess.

* * *

And next time when it's dark and you're supposed to be following an azimuth and suddenly some one pipes up and asks you what azimuth you're following, better be sure it isn't Bloomquist before you tell him that the Damn thing's no good anyway and you have thrown it away.

* * *

And speaking of Captain Bloomquist; after discovering the log cabin at station "F," we would expect him to describe a pup tent as a three ring circus.

* * *

Captain "Paddy" Ahern from the town of Boston where the Lowells talk only with God, made sure of finding himself in the class pictures by plastering an adhesive tape patch over the greater part of his cheek. Paddy can find himself, but we defy anyone to recognize him without an explanation.

* * *

Last Tuesday afternoon our rifle marksmanship instructor, Lieut. Maerens, was absent and after inquiry was made we were informed that he had gone to practice glee club and chorus. We wonder if the next war is to be fought with glee clubs and choruses.

* * *

Because we don't mingle with them during working hours, we often lose sight of the fact that there are some Tank officers among us. This group of six on reconnaissance rode last week on horseback. They cantered and trotted and galloped and were otherwise uncomfortable; it being their first equitation of the course.

During the ride they were expected to keep track of their progress on the map. "Rubber Ball" Kennedy bounced along with the reins in one hand and the saddle in the other. Several times during the ride he was asked by the instructor to point out his position on the map. Once he actually succeeded in getting his map out of his pocket only to immediately lose it. He also lost the stirrups a couple of times and his gentlemanly composure and his comfort. He hasn't yet found out where he went.

Well, they will try to make horsemen out of mechanics.

* * *

Lt. Borders: "Don't try telling me how to shoot a pistol. I fired at Camp Perry for three years."

Lt. Theakston: "What in hell did you hit at Perry?"

Lt. Borders: (In a very small voice) "The instructor."

Tally ho, boys, we'll see you next week.

---

It was lunch-time, and Pat and Mike were indulging in a little game of cards. "Was that last card I dealt ye a spade?" asked Mike, picking up his hand.

"Yes, it was a spade," returned Pat suspiciously.

"Oi thought it was," smiled Mike.

"How did ye know?" inquired the other Irishman.

"'Twas easy, Pat," explained Mike. "Yet spat on your hands before you picked it up."—The Sentinel.

RUBBER STAMPS
COLUMBUS OFFICE SUPPLY CO.

Civil War Veteran Is Visitor Here At Home of Relative

Brigadier General Leon A. Matile, retired, veteran of the Civil War, and of frontier Indian campaigns and Spanish-American War is at Fort Benning as the guest of his son-in-law, Major Oscar W. Griswold, of the infantry board.

The military career of General Matile reads almost like fiction. Born in Switzerland in September, 1844, he came to the United States at an early age and when only nineteen years old, enlisted in Company A, 15th Infantry for service in the Civil War. This was in 1862, and he served with the 15th Infantry and the 33rd Infantry as private and corporal, participating in the hardships and dangers of the many bloody battles of the long-drawn out campaign. He remained in the service at the close of the war, and on March 7, 1867, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the 24th Infantry, with which he served for the ensuing two years. In December, 1873, he was promoted to first lieutenant, and in August, 1886, to captain. He became a major of infantry in March, 1899, and lieutenant colonel, in March 1901, and a colonel in October, 1902. In August, 1903, he was promoted to Brigadier General, and later in the same month, he was retired at his own request after more than thirty years active service. Since his retirement General Matile has made his home at Plainfield, N. J. For gallantry in action he was awarded the Silver Star.

ERRATUM

In the issue of March 10, 1933 of the Benning Herald, W. O. G. A. Horton of the 24th Infantry was credited with receiving the Purple Heart award for being wounded in action. The mistake was typographical, Warrant Officer Horton being bandleader of the 29th Infantry orchestra and not of the 24th Infantry.

COMPANY OFFICERS BEGIN SERIES OF DISCUSSIONS

(Continued From Page 1)

ing: "Tannenburg—The First Thirty Days in East Prussia" by Lieutenants Elwyn D. Post, William J. Phelan and Vachel D. Whatley, jr.; "Machine Gun Support in the Attack of the 29th Division" by Lieutenants Marshall Stubbs, and John W. Ramsey, jr.; "British Operations in France, 1914" by Lieutenants James M. Cavin; and Albert N. Hickey; "British Operations in Palestine," by Lieutenant James E. Totten; "The Action of Rafah in the Palestine Campaign, 1917" by Lieutenant Antulio Sergarra; "Effect on Discipline of Marches and Maneuvers" by Lieutenant Phillip D. Cinder; "The Bridge at Chateau-Thierry, Sept. 2, 1914 by Lieutenant Charley P. Eastburn; and "Methods of Laying Field Wire Lines for an Infantry Regiment" by Lieutenant Edwin J. Van Norne.

The lectures are being supervised by the fourth section, academic department, with Major Richard G. Tindall and William W. Eagles and Captains Walter C. Phillips and John A. Andrews in charge of the groups.

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, March 14

What a wonderful meeting we had today! An exciting treasure hunt and party at Mrs. Matchett's house. The first class girls from the Daffodil Troop and Mrs. Matchett arranged the whole delightful affair, the girls setting the four different routes (one for each patrol in the Cardinal Troop) and Mrs. Matchett giving us the lovely party.

The trails led all over the place and were unraveled by eleven clues, some all jumbled up, and some in the Morse code. The clever Daffodils had laid short trails to aid in deciphering the clues. The routes all finally ended at Mrs. Matchett's house, where a delicious tea awaited us. A delightful punch, all kinds of cookies, and peanuts were served. The prize, or the "treasure" was, for each person, a "stick" of candies. The winners, the Lucky Lookout patrol and all the rest decided to turn it over to the generous members of the Daffodil Troop and Mrs. Matchett. We thank them very much!

Pine Tree Troop

We had to cut out our meeting this week because of the dress rehearsal of the Glee Club production.

Daffodil Troop

The First Class girls again take a bow! They helped Mrs. Kellam instruct some girls working for Second Class. That shows how useful they can be.

At our goodnight circle we sang the Hiking Song, the Golden Sun, and Taps. Mrs. Thompson came in and thanked the First Class girls (again!) for serving tea and sandwiches at the Army Daughters' fashion show.

My, how wonderful it must be to be a First Class girl!

100% Pure Pennsylvania
PENNZOIL
Safe Lubrication
FOR SALE
Post Exchange

A reasonable plan to . . .
BORROW
$300 or less
for bills . . education . . travel

Check off these advantages:
√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected.
√ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.
204 Woolworth Bldg.
Phone 4372

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

THE Post Exchange has a DELIVERY SERVICE from its
SODA FOUNT
. . . which is designed for the delivery of Ice Cream in small quantities on the Post. The hours of this service are from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.
Excellent Curb Service
Telephone 69
SODA FOUNT
POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING, GA.
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Restored Confidence
IN THE BANKS OF THE UNITED STATES ENABLES US TO OPEN FOR BUSINESS
We will continue to operate exactly as before and to offer our customary
6 Per Cent On Savings
Security Savings and Loan Co.
Cor. 13th St. and 1st Ave. Phone 2766

The Peanut With a Personality!
Tom's
They're Toasted!
The Greatest Contest In The History Of The Confection World
Tom's is offering a New 1933 Chevrolet. One to be given away every two weeks!
See cards on every Tom's Display Jar.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

First Half Of Polo Series Completed

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University's sensational Negro sprinter ran to another world's record Saturday, racing 60 yards in six and one tenth seconds to better Loren Murchison's record, established ten years ago.

Undefeated this year, and holding or sharing almost every sprint record, Metcalfe is now considered the world's dash king. In the event last Saturday, he got off to a faster start than usual and led all the way, winning by two feet.

* * *

Ben Jeby, newly crowned world's middleweight champion, is establishing a precedent in the fight game. He meets Vince Dundee tonight in the Madison Square Garden and the title will be at stake.

Jeby acquired championship laurels when he knocked out Frank Battaglia in January. Vince Dundee is the outstanding contender for the crown, which should ordinarily eliminate him from consideration as a challenger. Jeby, however, is determined to show that he deserves the title in the most impressive way possible.

* * *

The two have met twice before, Dundee winning the decision in each case. This makes it all the more remarkable why Ben should consent to a bout. Nevertheless, Jeby is confident that he will turn back his challenger in the forthcoming contest, and thus gain recognition as an undisputed champion.

Usually when a fighter wins a championship, he contents himself with boxing men in the division above him. This, although profitable, is not sporting, as it does not give the titleholder much time to defend his championship.

* * *

Holdouts are becoming fewer and fewer as the baseball season draws near. Babe Ruth still remains obdurate, asserting than rather take a 25 per cent cut in salary, he will remain out of organized baseball. But you can bet your pennies that the Babe will be in there swinging when the first game is played. Colonel Ruppert knows too well the value of the Bambino as a drawing card and as a home-run hitter.

An indoor track season that surpassed the fondest expectations of its greatest admirers is almost over. One more meet of major importance remains to be run off, the Knights of Columbus meet, to be held in Madison Square Garden.

A glittering array of track and field stars are entered in this competition. Special attention is riveted on the mile run, which will for the fourth time this year see Gene Venzke and Cunningham clash.

The two finished almost abreast in the national 1,500 meter final with the Penn Freshman a winner by inches. After two successive defeats at the hands of the Jayhawk, Gene had turned the tables.

Many credited Venzke's victory to the four-lap sprint he made in the nationals, calling attention to the fact that in neither of his two other starts did he make use of this strategy, with the result that he was defeated each time.

* * *

This may be true. When Cunningham and Venzke met for the first time this year in the Wanamaker Mile, Gene waited until the last lap to begin his sprint and was defeated by a margin of eight yards. In the Baxter Mile, he began his sprint two laps from the end and lost by four yards.

And in the nationals, he sprinted four laps from the end of the race and won by inches. By logical deduction, he should win by a comfortable margin if he started his sprint six laps from the end. However, this procedure is not recommended.

* * *

The sprint with Ralph Metcalfe, Emmett Toppino, and Frank Wykoff competing should also be a sensational race. The Marquette Olympian topped Toppino by inches to win the national 60-meter crown. The winner should establish a new world's record for the distance.

Stars who will appear in the meet are Joe McCluskey of Fordham, Paul Kanaly, George Spitz, Keith Brown, Howard Spenser, Bert Nelson, and many others.

Freebooters And Optimists Ahead In Polo Tourney

Hoofers Lose Twice To Fall Back Into Third Place In League Standing

The Round Robin tournament, resumed during the mid week, was one-half completed on Sunday. The second series of this tournament is now under way, during which the scores made in the first half will be added to those made in the second, the final score will determine the standing of the various teams.

Optimists Defeat 83d, 6-2

On March 8th the Redlegs fell before the furious attack launched by the Whiteshirts to the tune of 6-2 despite the strong defense play of Maj. Arnold and Lieut. Heriot. The Wilson-Halloran combination proved too elusive for their less agile opponents, who were unable to navigate the muddy field as deftly as the horse soldiers from the Infantry School stables. Umpire: Gould.

Gunners 4, Students 5

On a rough and very muddy field the Gallant Gunners very nearly overcame the powerful Student aggregation. At the beginning of the last chukker, the Gunners had a two-point lead that looked good from the sideboards. Had Haskell wrapped himself around the student members there for about 2 1-2 minutes, Lt. Butler might not have scored three goals to win this slippery contest. Umpire: Major Thompson.

Billygoats 6, 29th 4

Spotted four goals the hardheaded Billygoats put up their usual obstinate play to down the powerful Hoofers by a score of 6 to 4. In the 3rd period the Doughboys rallied strongly but were baffled by the peculiar momentum of the Greenshirts, who played the part of the tortoise in the famous race with the hare. Polo predictors admitted that you never can tell what will happen during a game; and the Freebooter sideboard representatives chortled with glee at the results, having themselves, why a few days previously, been drubbed by the flying

(Please turn to page 7)

Rip Tetherton Is Making Progress

By THE EDITOR

Two Fort Benning fighters have extended their conquests to national scope—Corn Griffin and Rip Tetherton. Rip, a middleweight, surprised the fans some time ago when he handed Tommy Beck, lanky Jaxon, a decisive licking.

Tetherton is one of the prettiest fighters, in this writer's estimation, to step into a Benning ring this season. He is a heavy puncher with considerable knowledge of the art of boxing. His left hook has demolished more than one opponent.

Not long ago, he defeated Baby Stribling. Rip did not look so good in this battle but it must be remembered that Baby is one of the cleverest boxers in his division—he makes 'em miss. At that, Tetherton landed quite often in the later rounds to pile up a sufficient margin to cop the decision and leave no room for doub

Tetherton is essentially a main go boy. He has impressed that fact on the fans in his recent battles, most of whom would welcome an opportunity to see the soldier in action in a main go.

As for the writer, he, too, woul like to see Rip pitted against a cap able opponent in the main bout on any card.

POLO NOTES

For the information of the fans, the following offenses are some that cause the umpire to interrupt the game for the purpose of penalizing the team concerned: dangerous riding; delay when hitting in; crossing; illegal use of head, hand or arms; illegal use of stick; pony blind, vicious, out of control, or shod improperly; outside assistance; participation by dismounted player; player disabled by foul; and ineligible player.

Penalties for the above range from free hits or a throw-in by the umpire, to the exclusion of player or pony or forfeiture of the match.

The umpire in polo naturally becomes a most important individual and his powers are in fact dictatorial. He has a very different assignment which calls for perfect knowledge of the game, sharp eyes, keen judgment, and great strength of character. We are especially fortunate at Fort Benning in having available several experienced and excellent umpires.

And now Pope Gammon, who seldom speaks, at least for publicaton, describes Heaven as the place where all good players, especially Billygoats, will find their well earned pleasure. Here, according to Pope, are rows and rows of perfectly trained ponies, each in a silken stall. The walls are hung with hundreds of new sticks, and shelves are packed with dozens of fresh helmets, green jerseys and white breeches. It seems that one game follows another and one never gets tired. The playing fields are like plush, and the goal posts are far apart. After each period refreshing drinks of every color are served by angels, and an orchestra of harps play during the intermissions. There is no night nor rainy weather, life is just one chukker after another. Thus spoke Pope as he limped down the field after a hard tussle with the Freebooters, to take station near the goal posts, with a little red and white flag in his hand.

* * *

Some recent observations by great players:

Monte Blue: "It isn't the goals you make that win the game."

Major Thompson: "Why, that horse is alright, he's played some great games in his day."

Jack Griffith: "The team that wins the most games wins the tournament."

Mike Halloran: "Who makes 'em rides 'em."

Butler: "Wives are funny about polo."

Capt. Cunningham: "Gee, this horse "Chubby" has a leg on each corner."

* * *

The handsome, perfectly appointed Umpire, Professor Neal Johnson needs no introduction to the lovers of the horse; but when some sweet thing in an open roadster comments on his beautiful legs that, as the saying goes, is stretching it too far!

* * *

"That" said the National Guard Officer, as he saw the pony Miss Welborn being exercised by an orderly . . . . "that is a horse of a different color."

(Please turn to page 7)

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

Announcing . . .

To The Fort Benning Personnel

The Reopening Of . . .

Still's Rent-A-Car Company

1232 First Avenue

Rates

6 to 12c Per Mile

No Hour Charge

Clean and Efficient Service

Fords Chevrolets

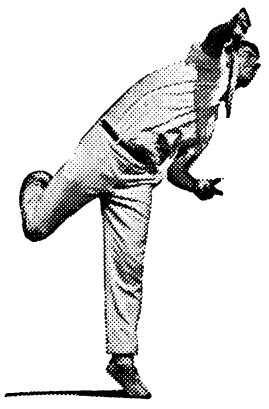
STRUNG WITH ARMOUR'S VARSITY STRINGS MADE IN U.S.A.

STRUNG WITH ARMOUR'S DAVIS CUP TENNIS STRINGS MADE IN U.S.A.

Athletic Equipment

The Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete line of equipment for all lines of sport. Phone 608.

We string Tennis Rackets.



Post Exchange

FORT BENNING

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Tank Notes

At a meeting of the members of the 1933 Track and Field Team held last Thursday afternoon, Corporal Thomas C. Pullen, Company D, was elected Captain of the Team. Corporal Pullen as you all know made history in last year's meet by winning two races. Namely the 220 and 440. In both events he set a new Post record for the boys to run at this year. He also ran a lap in the Relay. We know of no better man to fill the shoes of Captain of the Team, and to you Corporal Pullen, you have our congratulations and may your team of 1933 be a successful one. 1st Lt. R. S. Nourse, who coached last year's team will coach the team again this year.

In last week's notes we gave Private Alton Griffin Headquarters Company as high point man of the Battalion Track Meet. In doing this we were in error for after checking the events over again we found that Private Aubrey Mathews, Company E, had tied with Griffin. Both boys having a total of 15 1-3 points.

War Department orders received at Battalion Headquarters during the past week and dates March 1, 1933 makes a brand new Captain out of First Lieutenant Horne, Company Commander, of Company E. Congratulations Captain Horne.

Captain "Bob" Wallace, Adjutant, is back on the job after a short leave. We didn't learn if the Captain done any fishing while on this leave or not. So the fish story we have been saving will have to be put off until a more suitable time.

Company E, in their first soccer game of the year played at Gordan Field defeated R. M. G. Company, 29th Infantry 4 to 1. This is the team that took E by storm last year and caused them to lose the championship by giving them a beating in their last game.

Gadget and Willingham are still arguing about who is the best anchor man. Gadget claims he still is. How about it Ham.

Private Fry at Drill: "Well, I went the right way the rest of the squad was wrong."

Famous Last Words of Staff Sergeant Vallery:

"Let's Call a Meeting."

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

1ST HALF ROUND ROBIN POLO TOURNAMENT ENDED

(Continued from page 6)

Hoofers. Umpire: Blue.

29th 5, Optimists 6

Before a capacity Sunday crowd the famous 29th Infantry team bowed to the hard-riding Optimists to the tune of 5 to 6. Still in a daze from their defeat by the evil smelling Goats, the Hoofers fairly bombarded the end zones with ineffective barrages of goal shots, but with no luck. While Irish O'Connor was able to slip 3 goals past Capt. Gee; Optimist Mike Halloran was doing a little clever work on his own part. The white shirts have never played a faster and better game to demonstrate their joint claim to first standing, on equal status in the tournament with the powerful Freebooters. Umpires: Cunningham and Swittel.

Freebooters Wallop Gunners 12-6

Major Jack Thompson, with a bit of assistance from the team mates, rode the gallant Gunners underfoot for four periods despite a fine resistance on the part of Lt. Grubbs especially. While the side lines were pulling for the underdogs the new perfect yellow team with a machine-like precision fairly crushed the scrappy artillerymen with superior horseflesh, team work and individual play. Umpires: Johnson and Spettel.

Students 6, 83rd 3

In the prize performance of the afternoon the Students got off to a flying start and emerged at the end of the hard fought game with a win over the Riding Redlegs. Stevens and Sweeney pushed their attack through the weak artillery backdoor, and passed up few opportunities to make long shots at the goal, most of which passed thru the markers. The artillerymen won the admiration of the crowd by their furious fight to down the Students, but the forwards from the Military Academy proved elusive targets for the riders in red. Umpires: Johnson and Cunningham.

Team Standing at One-Half Tourney

| | W | L | P |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Freebooters | 5 | 1 | 6 |
| 2. Optimists (tied for 1st) | 5 | 1 | 6 |
| 3. 29th Infantry | 4 | 2 | 6 |
| 4. Billygoats | 3 | 3 | 6 |
| 5. Studes (tied with Goats) | 3 | 3 | 6 |
| 6. 83rd Field Artillery | 1 | 5 | 6 |
| 7. Gunners | 0 | 6 | 6 |

POLO NOTES

(Continued from page 6)

"Each flagman at our goal" commented Cowboy Cushman last Sunday "should have had a long handled rake to pull in a few that almost got over the goal line."

* * *

To the soldier who yelled at the driver of the motor truck drag: "Hey guy, you got a tree caught on the back of your truck" we offer as first prize one pair of binocular eye glasses like those owned by Umpire Johnson.

* * *

To date but one candidate, Captain Gee, has qualified for the very select and distinguished Wrong Goal Club.

THE FLARE

(Continued from Page 4)

and his four seats sold to someone else. This was too much even for a helping hand like Mine Host. The idea of trying to resell at one dollar per, four not so hot, indefinitely located, vacant chairs that might or might not be in evidence when the milling crowd has settled down didn't appeal to the Box Office Manager's business intelligence. Good salesman that he is, he knows how hard it is to sell a pig in a poke.

CODICIL

Last Friday afternoon just as Captain Joe Vermette was addressing the ball for the first drive from No. 1 tee the excited caddy master rushed from the club house waving his arms frantically. "You're wanted on the phone, Captain" he shouted.

Golfer Vermette left a disgusted foursome and hastened to the phone. A telephone summons to a man on the golf course means something important and the hand that took up the receiver trembled slightly as it lifted the instrument to an ear tuned for calamity.

Captain Randolph, the conscientious secretary of the Technical Third Section, was on the wire.

"I have been directed to notify the members of the section that there will be a formation of the Faculty to-morrow at 9:00 A. M. to have a picture taken", said the secretary in his best official voice, "but the formation has been called off".

Captain Randolph hung up, preparatory to calling at the next name on the list before Joe grasped the full weight import of the emergency communication which had interrupted his golf game but he was heard to mutter something about "these damned messages to Garcia" as he trailed his dubbed drive into the rough.

LIMITATIONS OF A MILITARY EDUCATION

Captain Mike Heraty's group of skilled tank-class mechanics having, after a considerable expenditure of time, labor and thought, rebuilt a class B truck, surveyed the completed job with pride as preparations were made to take it out for a trial run.

Carefully the driver put the gear shift in reverse preparatory to backing out and let in the clutch. Like a startled hippopotamus the truck lurched forward. Only prompt action on the brakes, which strangely enough functioned, was the Juggernaut prevented from taking out the side of the building.

Automotive Engineer Heraty, who supervised the rebuilding job is a graduate of the Company Officers' and Advanced Classes of The Infantry School and the two-year course at the Command and General Staff School. In spite of the episode we have just related it is generally believd that he will graduate from the Tank Class in June. After that he goes to the War College. His scholastic record and prospects indcate that he probably knows more about handling groups of armies than he does about the internal workings of a gear box.

STILL SALTY

At a recent artillery demonstration to illustrate fire control by air observers, Gadgeteer Malin Craig, who was doing the observing, sent in one radio phone report which was followed immediately by a hasty "Belay that" which is the nautical equivament for "As you were".

The sea dies hard in a man's soul. For years Gadgetter Craig has rigidly excluded all sea-faring terminology from his vocabulary but in tense moments it will creep back.

INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES—NO. 7

"Tis true that's the pity
And the pity 'tis, 'tis true."
—Hamlet.

The Flare Special Agent stood outside of the partition in the First Section which incloses the real arbiters of Infantry School doctrine. No, he was nowhere near the office of the Secretary, nor was he even on the same floor as the Defense Committee. He stood outside the sanctum of all the sancti—the temple of the twin priestesses of the Academic Delphi—to-wit, the stenographic department.

On a nearby stool rested in majestic solitude an enormous box of chocolate candy. From behind the beaverboard was heard the well known voice of Generous George Forster, late of Washington, and Fort Myer Virginia.

The Special Agent, in accord the best detective fiction tradition, promptly deduced that Generous George was consulting the oracle and that the candy was intended for the priestesses thereof. Acting on this logical asumption, he took charge of the box and, holding it behind his back, sauntered casually into the sacred inclosure.

"Hello," greeted the Agent in his best press manner. "I hope I'm not intruding."

"Not at all—not at all," replied the Generous one.

"I wanted to congratulate you," said the agent on the spur of the moment, "on your orders to the Leavenworth."

"Well, we all expected them," interpolated one of the priestesses, in the tone of one who understands everything.

"Say, that reminds me," chuckled George. "While I was having lunch at the Club the other day, I overheard a couple of young officers discussing the Leavenworth orders."

"They were impressed, of course, with the perspicacity displayed in selecting the detail," said the Agent.

"Oh, yes," replied the Captain. "One of them asked his messmate if he knew what the qualifications were for orders to Leavenworth."

"And the answer?" insisted the Investigator.

"Was that they were sending nobody but adjutants and blankety-blank boot-licking aides," laughed Generous George.

"How perfecty terrible!" exclaimed the Agent, accidentally dropping the box of candy on the floor.

"Yes," replied the prospective Big Corps and Army man, "but the joke of it is that the boy was right."

CITATION FOR THE WEEK

To Brother Emil Leard, Impresario O'Flaherty, and their imposing array of Glee Club talent for bringing to us the tuneful score and clever lines and lyrics of The Debutante.

Q. M. D.

The Quartermaster Detachment has one member who should be able o secure a job in a Hollywood movie studio without difficulty. He is Private John A. (Shock) Lewis, at present engaged with the Fort Benning miniature railroad, but who is known more widely as an electrician of parts.

Lewis, according to a group of children on the post, should be able to double for any monster and throw a scare into the most bored movie audience.

It so happens that last week he was engaged in the duty of making a pile of trash by the salvage yard more pleasing to the eye. In so doing, he encountered some of the younger members of the garrison, who, apparently, desired to transform the pile of salvage material, on which Lewis was laboring, into a hardware store.

The plans of someone had to be interrupted. Ether the Quartermaster electrician-railroad man would have to suspend his activities or the children would have to cease theirs. It seems that Lewis won, but aforesaid younger members of the garrison would not admit defeat. They immediately passed word along that they were being assaulted by a hideous monster, with, it appeared, feet a yard an a half long, who was resolved to murder them all.

The military police were called into action. They hied to the salvage yard, in an effort to save the helpless children from a cruel, cruel fate.

But upon arrival, the monstre described was gone.

There was merely the mild "Shock" doing his duty peacefully, in shoes not a bit bigger than 7 1-2 EE.

Get This, Men . . .

You'll find no better meals anywhere than those at the

SPLENDID CAFE

Where Good Food Tastes Better
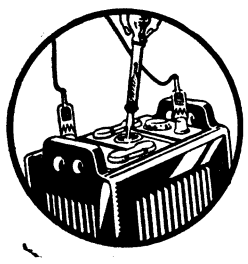
Opposite Bus Station

FEFER JEWELRY Co.
JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS
Fine Repairing
1102 Broadway Phone 3914



THE ignition and lubrication of your car deserve your most careful attention. Have it inspected regularly and be sure to use only the best oils and greases.

Auto Dept.

POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

SPECIAL SALE OPENING

STUDEBAKER ROCKNE

USED CAR LOT

6th AVE. and 12th ST.

| | Price | Sale Price |
|---|---|---|
| 1932 Austin Sport Roadster, 4000 miles | $245.00 | $195.00 |
| 1930 Chrysler Sport Coupe "65", Looks new. 4 new tires. | $395.00 | $335.00 |
| 1931 Studebaker Six 4-Door Sedan, Excellent condition | $425.00 | $385.00 |
| 1927 Ford 4-Door Sedan, Good condition | $ 90.00 | $ 37.50 |
| 1930 Marquette Sport Roadster, Mechanically perfect—new paint—tires | $495.00 | $395.00 |

Many more—Late models—Every car ready for the road —Lowest prices.

MAKE YOUR SELECTION NOW

TERMS TO SUIT YOU

Liberal allowance for your present car

Columbus Roberts Motor Company

510-12-14—12th Street Phone 271

I. S. D.

Various complaints and dire threats have been directed at the head of the so-called editor of this column, due to the fact that little-known events are printed here, and much unwanted publicity is given to members of the Detachment, who would prefer that certain matters remain in the dark.

To all of which we say but one thing, if you don't want it known bring around something on someone else, or something that you would like to see about yourself or others. Or else the volunteer assistants of this writer, and there are many of them, will continue to function in their hunt for scandal.

Pfc. "Fat" Williams, affectionately known to his friends of the outfit as the TC-5, has been seen dallying considerably along the primrose path that wendeth through the nearby metropolis of Columbus. There is no one can love like a fat man, for the simple reason that there is so much of him to love with, and Brother Williams is now entering the home stretch in his attempt to prove that Don Juan was a piker. (Or did you say Casanova, Pittman?) Be that as it may, some day a certain master-sergeant, who has nicknamed Friend Williams the "Lone Wolf," is going to talk n his sleep, and the True Confessions magazine will have a big rival as we print the Williams Saga.

The headquarters crew report that they have discovered a new financial barometer in the person of Sergeant Jimmy Moye, of the message center. It seems that when the recent closure of the banks threw a panic into most of the boys, it threw something worse into Jimmy, and the next morning he sojourned to the post hospital. That was bad enough, but lo and behold, Wednesday, just when the news of the banks' reopening had time enough to penetrate to the inside of the sick wards, Jimmy appeared in his usual haunts, ready for work. 'Splain that, please.

Martin of the file room has a grudge against Bevan. While he (Martin) was looking for a light to a cigarette the other day, Bevan watched him absolutely waste one whole match, and then walked away, puffing on an already burning fag. Tch! Tch! These Scotch!

The warm weather has inspired ambition in the breasts of the baseball minded members of the Detachment, and a call for volunteers to work-over the diamond has been put forth. Also a call for players. The Greencords are after the pennant this year, and if work can do anything toward that end, it looks as if the well-known bacon comes around on the hoof.

And while we are on the subject, we should give thanks that the outfit has been able to secure the playing abilities of Gilbert and Newman, star battery of the one-time Medico team. Just another example of good men attracted to a good outfit. Though a personal opinion concerning a certain big stiff that pitches such futile things as no-hit, no-run games, might not be flattering. Imagine a Swede with a name like Gilbert!

Several of the Greencord members should be interested to know that Johnny (the Duke) Hyland has given in to the siren call of the service, and taken on again, this time for Panama.

And the Lone Wolf retorts that never in his philandering career, has he been guilty of presenting a fair damsel with a bob-tailed puppy.

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

CONCENTRATION

IS A WORD TOO OFTEN MISUSED, PARTICULARLY IN CONNECTION WITH ADVERTISING.

It is pure folly to suppose that by concentrating all advertising in one paper, the merchants of this district can effectually cover the entire territory. One paper could not possibly hold the entire interest of all the readers, and therefore does not offer itself as the ideal medium.

THE SAFEST COURSE

. . . is to place your advertising in those media where it will exert the greatest pulling power—those which reach the people and which are a part of the lives of the people. Such a paper is—for Benning—

THE BENNING HERALD

Benning's Own Paper

83rd F. A.

Well, the battery is on fire guard once more; the shieks are marking time until Friday evening when they again will roam the plains of Nort Highlands, seeking larger and better game.

Sgt. Dodd will be dismounted for the next thirty days. Cpl. Pike is conducting a test run from Columbus to Corvan, Ga., exact location unknown; but his itenerary was as follows; Valdosta, Albany, Jacobs Cut and Corvan. Sgt. Dodd received the following telegram, "Arrived safely the wheels of progress still turning."

Catfish Smith as orderly at Battalion Headquarters: "Orderly, what's your name?" "Private Smith, Sir, Hdqrs. Btry. and C. T." "Suppose some person requested information that you couldn't give them, what would you do?" "Sir I'll call the corporal of the guard."

Cpl. Hurst is saving scrip money; the other day he had three cigar store coupons that someone gave him in exchange for perfectly good United States currency. Watch out Hurst, don't take any flannel money; it shrinks.

BATTERY "A"

The Kingfish, Mess Sergeant Jef W. Smith, is back in the harness having returned from furlough. The Kingfish seems to think 30 days is too long to rest at one time.

Battery "D" 17th Field Artillery, a motorized Battery, stopped over for the week end with the 83rd Field Artillery. Several of the drivers in Battery A were wanting to exchange their horses for the motors but we still have the same old horses.

Corporal "Speedy" Rogers says the Charge of Quarters does not have enough to do since he has to water five or six acres of lawn more or less here of late.

Believe it or not, Black Jack Simmons spent the week end in Columbus, and came out without any complications whatever, didn't even have any arguments with the cops.

Since the addition of eight men which are at present in the Recruit Center, the Battery is up to strength for the first time in several moons. Battery A now has its quota of 118 men, but we are figuring on losing Pvt. Bayer as his short discharge is supposed to be approved about the 15th of this month.

We often wonder what there is about the city life that makes Cpl. North sick. The big Physical Culture man cannot stand the confinement of the city and craves open spaces.

BATTERY "C"

The Demonstrations for the Infantry School furnish "man exercise" as well as "horse exercise." We hunt for a suitable O. P. on Humphries Hill, which is about 400 yards long and 100 yards wide, and open to enemy observation, with all the fire control instruments on our backs, moving from he bottom of the hill to the top, but at the finish the O. P. will be in the same place it has been during the last few years.

During a recent demonstration the galloping Second Section again made its presence known in the Battery by leavng their gun among Headquarters Battery horses near the DOG kennels. No harm was done as only one gun did all the firing. We take all guns out to give the guns the lay of the field, as the men have gone into this position so many times, they even gallop into position when they are downtown.

Our firing Battery is doing very well. At the present time we would say we have as good a firing battery as we have ever had before. Even with the First Section without a Chief or Gunner our gun squads function like old timers.

Corporal Doyle of the Battery Detail now realizes that our guns have safety locks on them.

Sgt. Johnson reenlisted and after convincing the battery that it was necessary for him to go to Alabama, (we believe the main reason for the trip to Dothan was to show that another local boy made good by having a Master Six Buick) explained his hurried return to Ft. Benning by saying, people in Alabama are all at work. We, however, think they must be all out of work.

29th Inf.

HQ. CO., FIRST BATTALION

Buzz, little typewriter, buzz and tell us all about the funny little happenings in 1st Battalion Headquarters Company. Tell us how it happens that our most famous little Company Clerk (Kid Hays) came back from a short visit to the fair city of Columbus feeling more chipper than a squirrel. And why it is that no one has thought of introducing one of our newest additions to the First Sergeant (Pvt. Areaux). And all about our famous spit-baller—Kid McGaha—who will soon be standing before the Recruiting Officer saying "I do" for another three year stack. And whether or not it is true that he will have to take a week's recruit drill before being discharged. Of the battle of the ages, between three famous Savages—One Swallow Snead, Gobbler Birdsong and Short-stopper Areaux. And tell us how the public sympathizes with One Swallow Snead, who has ruled over the Slum Destroyers for so long and then had to relinquish his crown to a greater and better Savage. Ah 'tis true that "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Buzz little typewriter, buzz and tell how we intend to carry off all honors in the athletic field—such as basketball and base ball. And tell of the high spirit and great morale we have in this small but efficient company.

Ah! Your buzzing is sweet music to the ear, but you like all others mus stop for rest. And besides we can not afford to tell everything we know, for fear that we might keep folks up late, and far be it from us to ever be the cause of such.

COMPANY "D"

Cpl. Birdsong and Pvt. Anders have put in their papers to buy out of the Army. Prosperity must be just around the corner, or is it just a touch of spring fever? Well, boys, when the spring fever is over and if you find prosperity is not just around the corner and the bread lines are not what they are cracked up to be, remember "Army Life is Great." You are always welcome back to "D" Company. The best of luck to you both.

Company "D" staged another hog hunt (wild boar) Sunday. We had Capt. Lovett and Major Lewis as guests. We caught eight hogs, but like the proverbial fish tale, Sgt. Wilbourn let the big one get away, believe it or not. If anyone can outrun Lieut. Easterbrook on a hog hunt, we would like to hear from him. We all had a great time and may there be more and bigger hog hunts in the future.

Everyone worked hard preparing for the personnel inspection last Saturday and if any company's equipment looked as good as "D" Company's, ye scribe failed to see it. Good work boys, keep it up and we will be wearing an "E" on our coat sleeve yet.

COMPANY "F"

Once again we appear in the columns of this wide spreading news paper the Benning Herald only to boast of our progress during our absence, and what have we; One of the best "Recreation and Reading Rooms, Supply Rooms, Carpenter Shop and Mess Hall, accent upon the latter named. Through much experimenting and arguments, we have at last come to where we know what we are going to eat out of, from one morning to the next, even though it is sometimes the old Army favorite "The Mess Kit." Though what sounds better than the rattle of our Mess Kits, when it is "Chow Time" in the field? Getting back to our dining room, the cafeteria style of serving a meal has proven itself a very sanitary and appetizing method, highly approved by all visitors, which are many and often. Though we boast of our dining room, I wish to say that it would not be the same if we should enter its doors without glancing first, upon the smiling face of our dining room orderly, Pvt. 1st cl. Henry J. Lugenbuhl. Henry seems to give the boys hearty appetites, for the mess sergeant, H. J. Vines has a hard time supplying these appetites, but we are never in need of something to eat.

Our recreation room and supply room each receives the highest of commendation at all inspections.

Oh yes! here is something else; This company finished in fourth place in the Regimental Small Bore Competitive Matches. Some of the best shots in the army who are members of the Regimental Small Bore Team, were to be contended with. We think we did exceptionally well with teams picked from average shots. Corporal Vaden was high score man of the Company and second high in the Regiment with a score of 549. Team score was 9488.

---

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

Inauguration was not the most important event on March 4, 1933. Headquarters Company also celebrated the day wth the promotion of three of its well known soldiers.

Walter "Horseshoe" Bixby promoted to dining room orderly.

John Camp, better known as "Steve O John", promote dto manager of Steve O Machine.

Somebody asked Walden what is his job now.

This shows that the democrats still have the swing.

We extend our welcome to two members who have joined the Co. Band. Adams plays a swell baritone. Owens hails from Company "F", 29th Infantry.

It seemed that Headquarters Company barbershop was the crying room for all the big shots of the company and Band durng the time he banks were closed.

"Happy" Long and "Pop" Villa seem to have been worried very much over the money situation.

In the Company Baseball game Monday, the Radio Section did not have a man to reach third base due to the sensational pitching of speed ball Hamilton and errorless support from his teammates, score was 7 to 0. This was the best game of the season.

We want to commend our basket ball team, Special Units Team, for the spirit they have been putting forth. They have won the last two games easily and it looks like a good future for them.

1st Lt. Ferenbaugh the coach of the team, Tech Sgt. Mitzen, Corp. Hayes Camp, Waldon, and Walton members of the team are the six reasons the team s winning at the present time.

The company held a track meet this week to get in shape for the Post Track Meet to be held in the near future.

Madere won the 100 yard dash. The shot put is still undecided as all contestants were running close.

"Happy" Long was not last this time as usual in the track meet. Hamilton fell down and got up and said: "It is not fair, please let me run over so I can beat Long." "Happy" Long replied "that is tough."

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning
through the
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

THE DEBUTANTE
(Continued From Page 3)

er, that one expected her to float off on her tip toes a la

Lieutenants Young and Bush were commendable in well presented minor roles. Lieutenant Bush, as a cook, and Lieutenant Young, a Parisian sculptor, very preoccupied with the responsibilities of a bohemian party in his studio.

Captain Miller and Lieutenant Maertens had part in an attractive trio with Irma.

One of the outstanding memories of the recent Glee Club performance, one which is indeed vivid in the remembrance of the audience, was that of Major Kraft, as a Butler in Purple. He was efficient, strong, silent, glorious. Let us always have our butlers purple!

Last but not least we were entertained by the specialty numbers. "Tango" was executed by Mrs. Dickerson and Lieutenant Johnson with great finesse. Mrs. Dickerson was also ballet mistress of the production, and trained the lovely group of dancers featured as the ballet girls. Mrs. Jacqueline Cowley gave a solo dance to the music of "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman" which was exquisitely done. Lieutenant and Mrs. Moseley, in Variety parlance,nearly stopped the show with an adagio dance, so professional that wave after wave of appleause swept over the audience.

In reviewing the Debutante we are impressed first and last with the wide variety of talent available on this reservation. We even produced a cellist! Lieutenant Treat, as Testlavist, played very well indeed, and cellists are so rare as to be mythical in the average community.

We hear it rumored that next season the Glee Club will perhaps put on a Fort Benning Review, or Infantry School Gaieties. Something marvelously clever could undoubtedly be done along this line. Any organization that can give "The Debutante" as smoothly as it was presented last week with all its obvious difficulties for an amateur group, could undoubtedly do wonders with a less formal vehicle. An operetta invarably suffers by comparison with the many superb renditions the audience has seen of the same work elsewhere, and the amateur singers and actors are always unfairly held up to comparison wth Fritz Scheff, De Wolf Hopper or such luminaries. On the other hand an original musical comedy sketch furnishes an entirely fresh and novel field for our really excellent wealth of available talent. The nervousness of the amateur, and likewise his limitations, are minimized by the feeling that he is creating something all his own.

With the background of serious work in the training school of Victor Herbert, Colonel Reed, Major Leard, et al, the Benning troopers may move to fresher fields of musical enterprise. We are already proud of them, and look forward to seeing them in other successes.

HE HOLDS THE QUEEN

"What I am to-day I owe my wife," he said proudly.

"Well, what are you?" the other sneered.

"I'm the husband of the best bridge player in our neighborhood."

—Boston Transcript.

-:- Things Chinese -:-

CHINESE POLITENESS
From "The Sentinel

There are two quite different aspects in which the politeness of the Chinese, and of Oriental peoples generally, may be viewed—the one of appreciation, the other of criticism. The Anglo-Saxon, as we are fond of reminding ourself, has, no doubt, many virtues, and among them is to be found a very large percentage of fortiter in re, but a very small percentage of suaviter in modo. When, therefore, we come to the Orient, and find the vast populations of the immense Asiatic continent so greatly our superiors in the art of lubricating the friction which is sure to arise in the intercourse of man with man, we are filled with that admiration which is the tribute of those who cannot do a thing to those who can do it easily and well. The most bigoted critic of the Chinese is forced to admit that they have brought the practice of politeness to a pitch of perfection which is not only unknown in Western lands, but, previous to experience, is unthought of and almost unimaginable.

The rules of ceremony, we are reminded in the Classics, are three hundred, and the rules of behavior three thousand. Under such a load as this, it would seem unreasonable to hope for the continuance of a race of human beings, but we very soon discover that the Chinese have contrived to make their ceremonies, as they have made their education, an instinct rather than an acquirement. The genius of this people has made the punctilio, which in Occidental lands is relegated to the use of courts and to the intercourse of diplomatic life, and of the routine of daily contact with others. We do not mean that in their everyday life the Chinese are bound by such an intricate and complex mass of rules as we have mentioned, but that the code, like a set of holiday clothes, in always to be put on when the occasion arises, which happens at certain junctures the occurrence of which the Chinese recognise by an unerring instinct. On such occasions, not to be known what to do would be for a Chinese as ridiculous as for the educated man in a Western land not to be able to tell, on the occasion, how many nine times nine are.

The difficulty of Occidental appreciation of Chinese politeness is that we have in mind such ideas as are embodied in the definition which affirms that "politeness is real kindness kindly expressed." So it may be in the view of a civilisation which has learned to regard the welfare of one as (theoretically) the welfare of all, but in China politeness is nothing of this sort. It is a ritual of technicalities, which are important, not as the indices of a state of mind or of heart, but as individual parts of a complex whole. The entire theory and practice of the use of honorific terms, so bewildering, not to say maddening, to the Occidental, is simply that these expressions help to keep in view those fixed relations of graduated superiority which are regarded as essential to the conversation of society. They also serve as lubricating fluids to smooth human intercourse. Each antecedent has its consequent, and each consequent its antecedent, and when both antecedent and consequent are in the proper place everything goes on well. It is like a game of chess in which the first player observes, "I move my insignificant King's pawn two squares." To which his companion responds, "I move my humble King's pawn in the same manner." His antagonist then announces, "I attack your honorable King's knight, to his King's bishop's mean third," and so on through the game. The game is not affected by the employment of the adjectives, but just as the chess-player who should be unable to announce his next move would make himself ridiculous by attempting what he does not understand, so the Chinese who should be ignorant of the proper ceremonial reply to any given move is the laughing-stock of every one because in the case of the Chinese the adjectives are the game itself, and not to know them is to know nothing.

At the same time, the rigidity of Chinese etiquette varies directly as the distance from the centres at which it is most essential, and when one gets among rustics, though there is the same appreciation of its necessity, there is by no means tht familiarity with the detailed requirements which is found in an urban population.

But it must at the same time be admitted that there are very few Chinese who do not know the proper thing to be done at a given time, incomparably better than the most cultivated foreigner, who, as compared with them, is a mere infant in arms; generally, unless he has had a long preliminary experience, filled with secret terror lest he should make a wrong move, and thus betray the superficial nature of his knowledge. It is this evident and self-confessed incapacity to comply with the very alphabet of Chinese ceremonial politeness which makes the educated classes of China look with such undisguised (and not unnatural) contempt on the "Barbarians," who do not understand "the round and the square," and who, even when they have been made acquainted with the beauties of the usage of polite life, manifest such disdainful indifference, as well as such invincible ignorance.

Politeness has been likened to an air-cushion. There is nothing in it, but it eases the jolts wonderfully. At the same time it is only fair to add that the politeness which the Chinese exercises to the foreigner (as well as much of that which he displays to his own people) is oftener prompted by a desire to show that he really understands the proper moves to be made, than by a wish to do that which will be agreeable to his guest. He insists on making a fire which you do not want in order to steep for you a cup of tea which you detest, and in so doing fills your eyes with smoke. and your throat with a sensation of having swallowed a decoction of marsmallows; but the host has at least established the proposition that he knows how a guest should be treated, and if the guest is not pleased, so much worse for the guest. In the same manner the rural host, who thinks it is his duty to have the humble apartment in which you are to be lodged, swept and (figuratively) garnished, postpones this process until you have already arrived, and despite your entreaties to desist he will not, though he may put your eyes out by raising the dust of ages. The Book of Rites teaches, perhaps, that a room shall be swept, and swept it shall be, whatever the agonies of the traveller in the process. The same rule holds at feasts, those terrors of the uninitiated (and not seldom of the too initiated), where the zealous host is particular to pile on your plate the things that are good for you to like, regardless of the fact that you do not want them and cannot swallow a morsel of them. So much the worse for you, he seems to say, but of one thing he is sure, he will not be lacking in his part. No one shall be able to accuse him of not having made the proper moves at the proper times. If the foreigner does not know the game, then it is his own affair, not that of the host.

It was upon this principle that a Chinese bride, whose duty it had become to call upon a foreign lady, deliberately turned her back upon the latter, and made her obeisance towards a totally different quarter, to the amazement and annoyance of her hostess. Upon subseqeunt inquiry it turned out that the bride had performed her prostration to the north because that is the direction of the Emperor ,no attention being paid to the circumstance that the person to whom the bride was supposed to be paying her respects was on the south side of the room. If the foreign lady did not know enough to take her place on the proper side of the room, the bride did not consider that any concern of hers; she, at least, would show that she knew in what direction to knock her head.

Chinese politeness often assumes the shape of a gift. This, as already remarked, gives the recipient "face." There are certain stereotyped forms which such offerings take. One who has much to do with the Chinese will be always liable to deposits of packages, neatly tied up in red paper, containing a mass of greasy cakes which he cannot possibly eat, but which the giver will not take back, even thoguh he is informed by the unwilling recipient (driven to extremeties) that he shall be obliged to give them all to some other Chinese.

Chinese politeness by no means forbids one to "look a gift horse in the mouth." One is often asked how much a present cost him, and the guest in taking leave of a host or hostess constantly use the formula: "I have made you much trouble; I have forced you to spend a great deal of money."

"An agricultural flapper," he declared, "is a girl who sows her wild oats on Saturday night, then goes to church on Sunday morning and prays for a crop failure.

This excerpt appeared in the Houston Post.

—N. Y. Guardsman.

JUST SHORTSIGHTED

It's funny, but a woman who can spot a blonde hair on your coat at ten paces can't see a pair of garage doors at all.

24th Inf.

COMPANY "A"

Robert or "Joe the second" left us and went to Fort Meade some time ago. Finally that detachment was demolished and Bob decided to come back to us. Being a very good skinner he was sent to the Logging Camp where he remained until a few weeks ago when he reported to the hospital sick. He came out a few days ago crying Blues as usual. Bob remembered the slogan "if you can't be good, be careful."

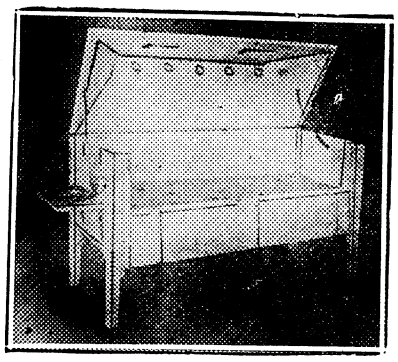
"Dato the Grouch" has had a new set of teeth put into his jaws so that he will be able to eat his oatmeal, and gain his strength so that he will be able to talk so we can hear him. He has been whispering what he has to say. We also hope he may have peace of mind now that his chewing machine is in active service. For four months the dato has been on dental list. Now that his teeth have been fixed on what will he fall back on when his weakness overcomes him. We hope that if his teeth caused him to be a grouch that he will know that they have been removed and new ones put in to replace the old. Shed your old grouch, put it in the discard, for you have new teeth. But you must not take on a new grouch, 24 years is long enough to be a grouch. Take our advice and you will look better and feel better.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

MEN'S SUITS
$12.50
CLASSY
CLOTHES SHOP
1035 Broadway

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT
RATES REASONABLE
Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell,
Phone 3062
DIMON COURT APARTMENTS



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish, Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

Old Settler's Sausage
Still going strong.
Hard to beat for breakfast.
Not a complaint in a trainload.
Enjoy this sausage the balance of these crisp mornings.
The Provision Co., Inc.

GET RESULTS WITH WANT ADS

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

The Kriz Reading and Social Club, Majah Williams presiding, was honored and privileged to have in its midst Tuesday morning that most versatile West Virginia writer, Bridgehead John, known in his native bailiwick as Old Man Jenkins' Boy. The author of "We Shall Gather at the River, Yes We Shall" and "Russian Defiles, Their Capabilities and Limitations" reviewed for the large gathering his latest and as yet unpublished opus, "Confining the Criminal to His Lair". The club members, practically all of whom had turned out for the occasion, sat entranced as the West Virginia sage discussed approved solutions on teaching soldiers "to shoot straightly". It is with deep regret that we must report one unseemly incident. Dana Allen, Alphabet Ross, and Ray Miller took advantage of the open discussion which followed the restriction of the malefactor to his den to deliver impassioned orations in advocacy of military aid in the enforcement of laws affecting the supply of and demand for liquid refreshments. Georgie Clark, it is understood, was also prepared to support by vocal fire Messrs. Allen, Ross, and Miller, but swallowed his cigar when he overheard Alex Bolling mumble his approval of shooting straightly in support of aridity laws.

Deep in our hearts we hold a sneaking suspicion that the First Section is on the right track in forcing upon our map-weary eyes the use of the U. S. G. S. We rather believe it's good training—and this despite the fact that printed situations have been known to call for the location of the reserve company (see "the avoid the resistance unit") at the "junction of the trail and stream 500 yards northeast of the cross roads 1100 yards southwest of the swamp 56 feet north by west of the two pine trees south of Harps Pond". But with all the fervor of an infuriated step-ladder defending its young, we denounce the practice of officials of that same section of rattling off the names of hills, ridges, ranges, vales, and gulleys, names which are not emblazoned on the U. S. G. S., names which we have never heard, meaningless names. If this matter is not rectified at once, we intend to write a scorching letter of complaint not to the editor, nor to our congressman, but to the comptroller general.

And that's our only gripe of the week.

Eddie Bowden, A. B., M. A., Ph. D. Colby, Davey Davidson, Loren Wetherby, to mention only a few Kriz Hallites, have many an enthusiastic words to say for Major Arnold and his artillery gang. A great lot to work with on field exercises from the young fellow who grinds the radio contraption to the boss himself. An elegant and helpful group, than whom as instructors there are no whomer.

Having rechristened Westfall "Horsefall", Smiling Tommy Arms is now making a diligent study of rhyming dictionaries in search of a new appellation for Kupie Yuill.

And wasn't that a swell demonstration of unit distribution of maps pulled off by Messrs. Hearn, Robinson, and Paul and the fourteen enlisted assistants and the motorized and animal drawn detachments of the Quartermaster regiment on that fatal Tuesday afternoon? Beavey Beavers informs your correspondent that the paste consumed is a perfectly legitimate deduction on the income tax blank. And Gilly Gilfillan adds that the last of the series of supply marked tests will be given on the 29th Infantry parade, wind conditions permitting, and, not permitting, in the Fourth Section's map room.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO PRESENT "THE ROAD TO ROME" AS LAST OFFERING OF SEASON

(Continued from page 1)

Maharbal—Major Frank A. Heileman
Carthalo—Major Hugh C. Gilchrist
Mago—Lieut. Lyman Munson
Hannibal—Capt. Mark G. Brislawn
Bala—Lieut. Louis J. Storck

Dramatic Club membership ticket admit holders to this play. Non-members may purchase tickets at the box office on the nights of the performances at the customary guest ticket price of fifty cents (50c).

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Cigarettes, like Foods — need Seasoning

That's the part Turkish Tobaccos play in making Chesterfields Taste Better

SMOKERS notice a certain "touch" in Chesterfields that comes from having just enough Turkish tobacco in them ...a spicy, aromatic flavor that's much the same to a cigarette as seasoning is to food.

For only by blending and cross-blending the right amounts of mild Domestic tobaccos with the right amount of Turkish can we get the flavor and aroma that Chesterfield smokers enjoy.

Next time, ask for "The Cigarette that Satisfies"... you'll get Chesterfields, with Milder, Better Taste.

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Chesterfield

THEY'RE MILDER — THEY TASTE BETTER

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1933 — NUMBER 48

TOWN TOPICS

"The Road to Rome"—this week's headliner in the social activities of the post—is an attempt to answer the burning question that has balked historians for well over two thousand years. Why did Hannibal, whose life since childhood had been dominated by the overwhelming passion to destroy Rome, turn away from the city when it lay hapless before his conquering army?

Robert Sherwood, the author, endeavors to solve the problem from a sympathetic, warmly human viewpoint in direct contrast to historians who have sought the correct answer through ruthless scientific channels.

* * *

The executive officers of the Infantry School Dramatic Club were fully cognizant of the tremendous obstacles to be surmounted when they pounced upon the play as a smashing climax to an exceptionally fine reason the "Road to Rome" demands skillful acting from an unusually large cast; it also requires elaborate scenic effects and elaborate costuming.

Tonight and tomorrow night, a finished product will go before the Benning footights. And encouraging bits of pre-performance gossip have it that "The Road to Rome' will not only be a distinct hit but the best play ever to be produced in Fort Benning in the history of the Dramatic Club!

* * *

Nudist cults are a subject for heated discussion in this day and age. The greatly-publicized one in Germany, for example, has aroused world-wide controversy. These nudist cults have been given so much notoriety that the bathing suit cult in Block 21 of our own little community has been shamefully overlooked.

One day last week, passers-by were started to see a resident of Block 21 walk calmly from his humble dwelling, scantily clothed in a bathing suit. It was pouring rain. The apparition had something that looked suspiciously like a sponge in his hand, with which he vigorously rubbed his car.

It is not our policy to withhold names. After a painstaking investigation, the apparition was revealed as none other than Lieuenant "Mike" Mullikin of the 29th. We promptly interviewed the lieutenant on the subject, hoping to get at the bottom of the mystery. He admitted that he committed the ghastly indiscretion but was loath to give any reasons for his actions.

Very tactfully we beat about the bush. Finally, the lieutenant confesed that he thought appearance in a bathing suit on a wet afternoon had some therapeutic value. Another reason Lieutenant Mullikin gave was

(Please turn to page 4)

Sojourners Hear Talk By Phillips

The Fort Benning Chapter, National Sojourners, held its meeting last Tuesday evening with seventy-five members present. Capt. Walter L. Phillips gave a timely talk on the situation in Manchuria which added much to the interest of the meeting.

Japs on the March to Jehol City

These two pictures graphically illustrate the difficulties which the invading armies of Japan were obliged to overcome in their recent victorious march into the Jehol Province, which resulted in the capture of Chingto, the capital city. Top photo shows a Jap advance guard crossing a frozen river on the ice while Chinese sniped from the other shore. Lower photo shows the invaders crossing over one of the makeshift bridges they utilized in their passage through difficult terrain.

Students Of Company Officers' Class Finish Series Of Lectures; Tank Class Students Begin Series Thursday

The company officers' class of the Infantry School completed the presentation of a series of short lectures on historical and technical military topics which were assigned as subjects by the fourth section academic department as a part of the student's course in military history and public speaking, on Thursday morning.

Ever since the German drive toward Paris during early days of the war was interrupted by the sudden retirement of von Kluck's army, military students have pondered over the effects of the withdrawal order which became effective on September 9, 1914. This point was discussed by two officers, Lieutenant Brendan N. Greeley, and Marshall W. Hurt, jr.

General Foch's initial tactical dispositions at the first battle of the Marne have also furnished food for thought and discussion by military critics, many of whom differ on the soundness or unsoundness of Foch's plans for the battle This question was discussed by Lieutenant Albert J. Dombrowsky.

The capture of Fort Douaumont, one of the strongest of the chain of forts surrounding Verdun, where 400,000 Frenchmen were killed during its defense was discussed by Lieutenant Paul R. Weyrauch.

A review of "As I Saw It" by Alden Brooks, was presented by Lieutenants Vernon W. Ohme, and Percy W. Thompson.

The crossing of the Tigre at Shumrun in February, 1917, one of the outstanding tactical incidents of the Mesopotamia campaign was the topic of discussion of Lieutenant James S. Luckett and Lieutenant C. Elford Smith.

A lecture which was especially interesting in view of its timeliness in connection with the armed conflict now in progress between the Chinese and Japanese forces was that of Lieutenant Chiao-Jang Wu, Chinese Army, whose subject was "The Course of Instruction at the Chinese Military Academy, Nanking, China." Another foreigner, Captain Jose F. de Corba y Gomez, Cuban Army, discussed the organization and training of the Cuban Army.

The remainder of the group of lectures was based upon questions of tactica and technical training applicable to the United States Army. Among these was a discussion of the question as to whether one man per squad should be armed with a submachine gun in jungle warfare, by Lieutenant Robert C. Andrews; the relative merits of air-cooled and water cooled heavy machine guns, by Lieutenant Silas W. Hosea; the minimum distance on which it is advisable to move a war strength battalion or regiment of infantry by motor transportation, by Lieutenant Alvin H. Burger; the aerial and terrestrial defense of the field trains of a regiment on the march and in bivouac, by Lieutenant Lawton Butler; and who should keep the situation map of a battalion in a moving situation and what is the best method of keeping this map up to date, by Lieutenant Christian H. Clarke, jr. Lieutenants Paul L. Freeman, jr., and Phillip N. Kernan, took the affirmative sides of two questions pertaining to infantry organization in training. Lieutenant Freeman's topic was in support of the idea that the howitzer platoon should be an integral part of the machine gun company of the infantry battalion, while Lieutenant Kernan presented the proposal that indirect laying should be the usual method employed by heavy machine guns in supporting the attack.

While the company officers concluding their series of lectures a group of students of the tank section were engaged in the presentation of short technical talks on tank parts and equipment. Those presented on Thursday will be: "Cold Carburetion" by Lieutenant William F. Dean; "Ignition Locks" by Lieutenant Louis J. Storck; "Gasoline Gauges" by Lieutenant John H. Walker; "Lubricated Gasoline" by Lieutenant Donald T. Beeler; "Colloidal Graphites' by Lieutenant David Fowler, and "Government Lubricant Specifications" by Lieutenant Frank J. Spettel.

Talks On Friday

Tank course student officers doffed their overalls and laid aside their monkey-wrenches from eight to eleven o'clock Friday morning and from three to four in the afternoon to attend a presentation of fifteen minute talks on mechanical and tactical subjects relating to tanks, which was given by members of the class. "Oil Temperature Regulations" was the topic of the first speaker, Lieutenant Theodore L. Dunn, and "Steam Cooling" and "Chemical Cooling" were the respective topics of the two following speakers, Lieutenant Thomas B. James, and Captain Walter N. Cox. Recent experiments in air cooling the Liberty 12-cylinder motor were the subject of discussion of Lieutenant Rupert D. Graves. Valve material and valve cooling were discussed by Lieutenant Roland W. McNamee, and Lieutenant Edwin H. Wright discussed valve seat inserts.

The Diesel engine, which is rapidly developing into a possibility for general automotive use, was described by Lieutenant William J. Moroney, whose talk ended the day's discussions on mechanical subjects.

The influence of tanks on modern tactics was discussed by the next

(Please turn to page 9)

Maj. Gen. Fuqua Is Visitor At Benning During Past Week

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua arrived in Columbus Sunday evening at 8:25 from Washington, D. C., He was met at the station by Major General Campbell King, commandant of The Infantry School, Captain John W. Blue, who was assigned as acting aide during General Fuqua's visit, and Sergeant Clarence C. Barr, Company D, 29th Infantry, who was designated Sergeant-orderly. The party proceeded at once to Fort Benning, where General Fuqua was the guest of the commandant at his quarters during his sojourn at the post.

At 8:30 Monday morning General Fuqua received members of the commandant's staff at post headquarters. At the conclusion of this brief official reception, General Fuqua and General King proceeded to the parade ground where Battery C, 83rd Field Artillery fired a salute in honor of General Fuqua, after which the battery was inspected by the visiting chief of infantry.

A conference with Colonel George F. Baltzell, director of the infantry board, and other members of the board was held at nine o'clock Monday. During the conference a number of administrative and technical matters relating to recent and proposed developments of the Infantry were discussed.

At noon General Fuqua was the guest of Colonel Fred L. Munson, commander of the 24th Infantry at luncheon, and during the afternoon he made an informal survey of the post's recreational facilities in company with Colonel Baltzell.

On Monday evening General Fuqua was the guest of Colonel Ephraim G. Peyton, executive officer of the Infantry School, at a dinner to which General King and other high officers of the garrison were also entertained.

A tour of observation of the various activities of the academic department was made on Tuesday morning by General Fuqua, in company with General King and Colonel Charles W. Locke, assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

A luncheon at which Colonel William N. Persons, commander of the 29th Infantry entertained General Fuqua and a number of other guests at noon Tuesday was the concluding event of General Fuqua's visit to the post, and shortly after the luncheon he departed by automobile for Atlanta where he entrained for the return trip to Washington.

Col. Lemly Is Here For New Command

Lieutenant Colonel Rowan P. Lemley, who recently was assigned to the 29th Infantry, is expected to arrive at the post on Thursday morning March 23, to take command of the 1st Battalion of the regiment, succeeding Lieutenant Colonel Homer L. Slaughter, who recently was assigned to duty in the War Department in Washington, D. C.

Colonel Lemley comes to Fort Benning from Philadelphia, Penn., where he has been on duty as instructor of the 79th Division Organized Reserves.

Colonel Lemley is a native of Virginia where he was born December

(Please turn to page 9)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

General Fuqua Honor Guest On Several Occasions During Visit

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of Infantry, who spent Monday and part of Tuesday at Fort Benning was the guest of honor at a number of affairs. Monday, Col. Fred L. Munson, commanding the 24th Infantry was the host at luncheon, while Col. Ephraim G. Peyton, executive officer of the Infantry School, entertained at a dinner. On Tuesday, Col. William E. Persons, commanding officer of the 29th Infantry, was the host at a luncheon with the officers of the 29th Infantry and the heads of the different departments as guests. Gen. Fuqua left Tuesday afternoon for Washington.

Beautifully Decorated Tea Room To Be Opened By Officers' Club

At four o'clock Saturday afternoon a tea dance will be held in the Officers' Club to mark the opening of the new oriental Tea Room situated on the second floor of the building. The dance will last until six o'clock. Refreshments consisting of tea and rice cakes will be served in the tea room during the course of the dance.

Yellow is the predominant color scheme of the new tea room with red and black secondary but very noticeable colors. Nothing detracts from the orienal atmosphere of the room. The tables, with the single exception of the center piece, are done in black lacquer, the chairs in red lacquer. Suspended in the center of the room is a large Japanese parasol of brilliant hue, sixty-two inches in diameter. A hardwood table of the same diameter with an oriental mat in the center and situated directly under the parasol gives the effect of a center piece.

The room is illuminated by four dome lights. The domes in each case have oriental scenes etched on the bottom Japanese windbells and suspended from the four external points of two metal supports fashioned in the shape of Chinese junks and crossed at right angles.

To the left as one enters, there is situated a false window, on which an oriental scene is painted. Scrim curtains on each side of the window give the effect of looking out on a genuine oriental countryside. Amber lights, adroitly concealed, enhance the effect. On the right side of the room is a trough filled with dirt and ornated with Japanese miniatures.

The wooden supports on each side of the room will be decorated with wisteria. Dogwood and plum blossoms provide still more of the desired oriental atmosphere. A Chinese Buddha and incense burner are in one corner.

The main feature of the room will be a beautiful needle work of art, panels representing the four seasons done in flowers on a gorgeous white satin background. This panel is a gift from Lieut. Chiao-Jang Wu of the Chinese Army who is a student at the Infantry School. The panel was made by Chinese girls attending the Industrial College of China and in 1931 it was awarded the first prize in the Geneva Art Exhibit. The purpose of the tea room will be two-fold, it will be open every afternoon from three to five-thirty for tea, and will also be available for private parties of ten or more. It will easily accommodate thirty-five guests.

OFFICERS' CLUB ENTERTAINS THURSDAY WITH SUPPER

The Officers' Club was the scene Thursday from eight to ten of the weekly supper dance. A number of reservations were made. Among those entertaining were: Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Barnett, Capt. and Mrs. Grant A. Schleiker, Capt. and Mrs. Clinton E. Fenters, Capt. and Mrs. John J. Albright, Lieut. and Mrs. Donald W. Brann, Lieut. and Mrs. Eugene W. Ridings and Lieut. and Mrs. Brendan W. Greeley.

* * *

BENNING BACHELORS HOST AT DANCE AT POLO HUNT CLUB

The Fort Benning Bachelors will be the hosts Saturday evening at an informal dance at the Polo Hunt Club. These dances which have been held bi-monthly are subscription affairs. The guest list will include the young married contingent on the Post and from Columbus, the debutante set their guests and escorts. Several delightfully informal dinners have been planned to precede the dance.

* * *

24TH INFANTRY EVENING BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

The 24th Infantry bridge club which meets in the evening with the officers and ladies of the Regiment

(Please turn to page 5)

Today's Fashion

Dinner frock of black crepe.

By VERA WINSTON

A really good black frock for afternoon wear or dinner is rather expensive, but it is an outlay that speedily pays for itself when one finds that one always can present a smart appearance without having to rush out and buy a frock every time a sudden invitation comes along. Such a frock is always subtly done and undated, so that, whenever it is worn, it looks like a current model.

The design shown today has something of this valuable quality. It is a dinner gown of fine black crepe and is combined with shirred sheer material to give a striking effect. Jeweled clips at either side of the square decollette emphasize the smart cut. The sash gives a soft, flattering touch.

Woman's Club

The Garden Club section of the Infantry School Woman's Club met on Monday March 20th, at the home of Mrs. Robert Mangum on Rainbow Avenue.

A very interesting program was presented during the afternoon, the first feature of which was a paper on wild azaleas that was given by Mrs. Frank Jennett. Mr. Mooney of Wheat's Flower Shop in Columbus, gave a most comprehensive and instructive talk on Giladiola, illustrating his subject with specimens of several different varieties.

At the conclusion of the program a delightful tea was served by the hostess. The next meeting of the Garden club section will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Jewett on April 17th.

Benefit Bridge Party

The reservation for the benefit party to be given by the Infantry School Woman's Club on Friday, March 31st, at 2:00 p. m. at the Polo Club, have gone forward very rapidly and only a few tables remain, so those who have not yet reserved their tables are urged to do so at once by calling Mrs. Jesse Ladd whose phone number is 847. The tables are one dollar each and those who don't desire to play bridge but would like to come for tea can likewise make reservations for 25 cents per person.

Members of the club noted for their culinary art will donate six cakes which are to be used for prizes and in addition another cake will be raffled during the afternoon.

The proceeds of this party will go to the Woman's Club to be used on the various worthwhile projects in which the club is interested.

Last Season's Hats made into new ones.
Panamas and Straws Blocked and Trimmed.
Expert Hat Remodeling
Nicholson Hat Shop
319 Third Nat. Bank Bldg.

ICE CREAM

. . . is undeniably the best and most delicious confection of all, and possesses, in addition, the gift of bestowing health! But, be sure you always order Foremost!

Call the
SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

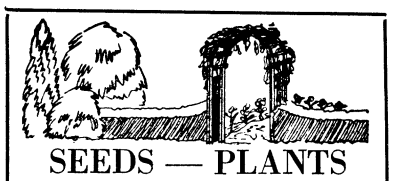
1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.



SEEDS — PLANTS
Spring and Planting Time is here. Everything for the GARDEN and LAWN; seeds, plants, tools, fertilizer. Drop in at our store and we will be glad to help you to plan your planting.
VALLEY SEED CO.
1041 Broadway

Columbus Office Supply Co.
24 Hr. Service
RUBBER STAMPS
Phone 556

GOOD VISION

is essential to good work. Have your eyes examined and insure your personal efficiency.

W. W. Perrott
OPTICAL COMPANY
Cor. 12th St. and Broadway

WE TELEGRAPH FLOWERS
Telephone
Joys
FLOWER SHOP
217 - 12th Street Phone 2837

DOLAN-HENRY HAT SHOP
AT ALSOBROOK'S
Miss Dolan has just returned from New York with a large assortment of new style hats.
Prices from $1.95 to $10.00.
Fort Benning charge accounts solicited.

Don't Trifle With Safety

Human life is too precious a gift to entrust to defective machinery. Have your car examined regularly and use only the best oils and greases.

Auto Dept.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Girl Scout Notes

CARDINAL TROOP

Tuesday, March 21

While some of the girls were working on the athlete badge with Major Bradley, the rest of the Scouts played an exciting ball game inside the cabin. The troop was divided into three lines each of which had a rubber ball. At a signal the first in line would wedge the ball between her ankles and hop up to a given point and back to the next, who would do the same. This was an intensely exciting contest, the more so because there was a delicious prize for the winner. A large bottle of hard candies was awarded to the winning team.

After this was over, Mrs. Brown tested some girls on their judging of weights, for their First Class Badges. Then we drew for "ushers! Those who had "ushed" only once had preference this time. We know that the "Road to Rome" will be quite a brilliant affair!

PINE TREE TROOP

Wedneday, March 15

Phyllis Partridge's patrol planned today's meeting, and what a meeting! A wonderful treasure-hunt, taking us all over the grounds somewhat near the cabin. Phyllis laid four clever clues, some all jumbled up, and some in code. One was as difficult one as I'd ever seen, and it was quite a while before we unraveled it. The winning patrol was presented with a lovely box of candy, and everybody received a red lollypop. There were some extra ones, so we played red-light, and had those for prizes. Then we all sat around licking while Frances Kellam told us what was on the bulletin board. We thank Phyllis and her patrol for a very enjoyable afternoon.

Maxwell Optical Co.

I. A. MAXWELL

Optometrist and Optician

A COMPLETE

OPTICAL SERVICE

1217 Broadway Phone 3718

-:- Things Chinese -:-

Content and Cheerfulness

We have already seen that the capacity of the Chinese to bear the ills they have, is a wonderful, and to us in most cases an incomprehensible talent, which has well been called a psychological paradox. Notwithstanding their apparently hopeless condition, they do not appear to lose hope, or rather, they seem to struggle on without it and often against it. We do not perceive among them that restlessness which characterizes the people of most other nations, especially towards the close of the nineteenth century. They do not cherish plans which seem to them to lead ultimately to a "good time coming," and they do not appear to suppose that there is any such time to be expected.

But the term "patience" and "perseverance" by no means cover the whole field of the Chinese virtues in this direction. We must also take account of their quietness of mind in conditions often very unfavorable to it, and that chronic state of good spirits which we designate by the term "cheerfulness." Our main object is to call attention to the existence of such virtues; yet we may perhaps be able incidentally to suggest certain considerations which in part help to account for them.

By the term "contentedness" we do not mean to imply that any individual in China is satisfied with what he possesses in such a way and to such a degree that he does not wish to better his condition. The contentedness of the Chinese, as we have seen in speaking of their conservatism, is most conspicuously seen when we consider the system under which they live. That system they do not wish to change. That this is the temper of the great mass of the Chinese, we have no doubt whatever. It is a mode of viewing the phenomena of life which we designate by the general name "conservative," and of this the Chinese are as conspicuous examples as any people of whom we have any record. It must be evident that such conceptions of Chinese society, permeating the whole mass of the people and inherited from distant ages, powerfully tend to repress any practical exhibitions of discontent with the allotments of fortune. Evils of course they feel, but these are considered to be inevitable. Persons who seriously and uniformly take this view are not the ones who are likely to endeavor to upset the established order of things simply because the pressure upon themselves is severe. In no country is the educated class more really a leader of thought and action than in China. But the educated class is firmly persuaded that for China and the Chinese the present system is the best obtainable. Their vast and varied experience in the long reach of Chinese history has taught the Chinese by convincing object-lessons that solid, practical improvements in their system are not to be got for the trying. Their adamantine conservatism is the slow outgrowth of this experience.

Without being fully aware of the fact, the Chinese are a nation of fatalists. There is a great deal in popular speech about "heaven's will." Expressions of this sort often bear a close analogy to the manner in which we speak of Providence. But there is this radical distinction in the underlying thought: to us "Providence" signifies the care and forethought of a Being who is in distinct relations to all creatures that on earth do dwell, all of whom are included in His thought and forethought; to the Chinese, whose practical conception of "heaven" is an altogether impersonal one and utterly vague, whatever the mode of expression, the practical aspect of the matter is simply that of fate. "Good fate" and "bad fate" are phrases which have to the Chinese a meaning similar to that conveyed by the expressions in children's story-books, "good fairy" and "bad fairy." By means of these mysterious agencies anything whatever can be undone.

The whole complicated theory and practice of the Chinese geomancy, necromancy, and fortune-telling, are based upon the play and interplay of forces which are visibly expressed by means of straight lines. The number of Chinese who make a living out of these theories of the universe practically applied, is past all estimation. While the extent to which such superstitions influence the daily life of the people varies greatly in different parts of the Republic, they are everywhere real and living factors in the minds of the masses. Nothing is more common than to hear an especially unfortunate Chinese man or woman remark, "It is my fate." The natural outcome of such a creed would be to cause despair, or if the hopefulness with which mankind, and especially Chinese, are mercifully endowed come to the rescue, to urge them to a patient biding till their time shall come, and fate shall again favor them. Perhaps the Chinese are not as consistent fatalists as the Turks, and perhaps the "fate" of the Chinese is not identical with "Kismet," but it is evident that a people so persuaded of the existence of fate as are the Chinese, must be indisposed for violent struggles against what they believe to be, in the nature of things, unavoidable.

We have already spoken of the fact that Chinese experience is against the practicability of any amelioration of the condition of the people by means which are at hand. To the foreigner, acquainted with the experience of other lands in modern times, the simple, obvious, indispensable recipe for the relief of many of the ills to which the Chinese are subject, is emigration. This we know from induction to be the remedy which the Chinese could adopt most easily, and with the greatest assurance of success. But this is an expedient which the Chinese themselves will never adopt, for the reason that it will take them away from the home of their fathers and from the graves of their ancestors, to which, by the theory of Confucianism, they are inexorably linked. Generally speaking, no Chinese will leave his home to seek his fortune at the distance, unless he is in some way driven to do so. His ideal of life is to be "Fixed like a plant on his peculiar spot,

To draw nutrition, propagate, and rot."

Generally speaking, no Chinese leaves his home not intending to return. His hope is always to come back rich, to die and be buried where his an-

(Please turn to page 5)

KIRVEN'S

New Silk Prints

step out in a print and step into fashion

Kirven's thrilling collection, shows the new spring suits and dresses for town, afternoon and Sunday wear.

$16.75

Sleeveless With Large Collar

Beautifully becoming and charmingly spring. The collar accents the delicate lines of your throat. All tones of grey, beige and navy.

Print Suits

Some with dashingly fur trimmed sleeves. In brown and white, navy and white, and black and white.

Sunburst Sleeves

add glamour to your new print dress. The very latest in the spring fashions. In red, green and navy.

Sizes 12 to 40

KIRVEN'S

Special on Hats

Navy Blue
Black
Brown
Beige
Red

Small Hats
Brim Hats.
And very, very,
Trim Hats.

$2.95

KIRVEN'S

FURNITURE

ROCK-BOTTOM PRICES

BED SPRINGS
and MATTRESS

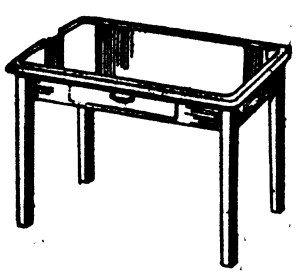
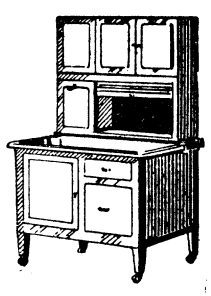
As Low As $20.00



Kitchen Table

Porcelain top, white enameled base ..... $4.95



Two Tone Green and Ivory Kitchen Cabinet

Special

$28.75

Term Prices

B. L. PENNELL FUR. CO.

1249 BROADWAY PHONE 4618

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II MARCH 24, 1933 NUMBER 48

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Wednesday, Mar. 15

Up betimes and gaily to school in anticipation of some good fifteen minute speeches. Post did confide that he feared the critique of his talk would assail it as full of jittering generalities, he being at a loss how to cover in any other style a thousand page book review in a quarter hour. His effort for record, however, not subject to any such criticism and his conclusive plea to us t oeg neaeginth vbgkqjvbgkqjvbldr to engage in the study of military history as a chief means to professional excellence was so earnest as to convince me had I not known him for some years.

Ramsey, supporting the 29th Division with machine gun fire on Etrayes Ridge, was so dynamic and charged with enthusiasm that he did burn out all the lights in the hall.

To the firing of the one-pounder after lunch and did greatly astound the instructor at my ability to fire the bracket method for an almost interminable period without achieving a bracket.

Thursday, Mar. 16

Did hold communion with Nature, and a shovel without enthusiasm all morning, the while becoming learned in the business of field fortification. Were the ground as hard to take as to dig in we might chagrin an enemy by leading him at it.

The afternoo ngone in the observance of the fire field artillery and grateful no end that I might do so in physical comfort, it being heretofore axiomatic that this same demonstration fall on the coldest day of winter. So delightful the afternoon in its sedative effects that even the bombardment availed not in keeping spectators alert. The schedule might with profit announce an hour of sulfur and molasses by, say, Captain Pope.

Johnson, W. M., inadvertently remaining awake, did learn from the demonstration that a barrage is not a place to keep an automobile.

Friday, Mar. 17

Major Gilchrist does continue unbroken the succession of First Section instructors to violate the sacredness of the ten minute break. The class would liefer sacrifice one of its number as a burnt offering than forego the respite from intellectual landslides.

Major G. so realistic in his presentation of "Night Operations" that he did convince Weigand into a coma from which he was with difficulty aroused. No appreciation by the major of such wholehearted entry into the subject.

More of fifteen minute speeches. Hank Flood gave voice to a class sentiment by announcing "Gentlemen, I don't know how old the war is!" which, of course, is logical since it wasn't his war anyway. Butler of great assistance to Reeder by pointing out Belmont on the map when Columbus was mentioned and Irontown when Greenville was spoken of. Since the names were printed in three inch capitals, however, no one was confused but Butler. So confounded did he become that it was only by accident tha tthe following speaker, Geary, who had also chosen our hero for assistant, found him enmeshed in the folds of the curtain, choked with chalk dust and embarrassment.

Buck Purcell to the lengthy beration of his spouse over the 'phone for having kept him sitting on the post office steps for an hour after school awaiting transportation home. And he did, in indignation, threeten disciplinary action for such negligence. "But, dear" was the wrath-diverting response "you have the car today." A most truthful woman, for Buck did find his car sitting in splendid isolation in the vacant lot next tthe P. O.

Sunday, Mar. 19

It does appear from the extreme precipitation this day that the Quartermaster is invoking a spring bucking up, the troops having, prior to this, enjoyed two successive weekends of fair weather.

The good wife, contemplating the preparation of the morrow's lunch, did announce "Ninety-six sandwiches till graduation."

Monday, Mar. 20

Duke Giddings flames before our enraptured vision in all the glory of twin sunsets in the Alleghenies. It is a matter of speculation why, by this time, he has not acquired the habit of leaving doors either completely open or completely closed. The eighth squad does in seruiosness contemplate establishing for the Duke a sinking fund for the purchase of beefsteak.

The Messing and Guessing Section did appeal to our telepathic sense again today by scheduling for one o'clock a formation which was desired for twelve-thirty. Amazement crossed the face of the instructor, Major Tombstone errell, when his ringing of the assembly bell at 12:30 produced no visible increase in the student body. The bell, being indoors, cannot be distinctly heard in Blocks 21 and 23.

Tuesday, Mar. 21

Another day ruined by the exposure to practical field fortification. Major Loblolly announces that the examination will not exactly parallel the illustrative problem. "Otherwise" quoth he "there is no fun in this." And what, I do wonder, prompted him to say "otherwise." He did further observe "Don't speck the pamphlet. It's foolish," the which I could have told him it was when first it was issued to us . Lost in a three hour maze of facts and figures in which I felt on the verge of understanding when the major by taking sixty from seventy-one emerged with a remainder of thirteen. All this, too, on the blackboard in plain vi ewof the entire class. Moore throwing up his hands in despair decided "Well, if that is so I can know every thing in the book and not be able to work problems like that." For myself I had thought to have been following the major but now I misdoubt I shall be able to find my way back alone.

Wednesday, Mar. 22

The evening gone in specking for the morrow's exam the engineer field manual until the air is full of spots before the eyes. The cerebral cortex is now but an engineer ash heap, unable to distinguish between the kneeling pit profile and double apron wire. And though I do know that one man can in one hour excavate 23 cubic feet of medium earth in daylight with engineer tools if undisturbed by the enemy, I cannot recall whether this be so only during the months containing the letter "w" or on alternate Tuesdays during the dark of the moon. If Major Loblolly could but be induced to give me in lieu of the examination a "U" and the afternoon off I should be then four hours to the good and no worse off academically.

—Lieut. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

The Rat and Typhus Fever

Typhus fever is increasing in Georgia. The wharf rat is the probable most common animal reservoir of the disease. The rat flea transmits the disease to man.

Undoubtedly fleas from other animals or birds, and lice from either animals or humans can also spread this disease. It however seems that the rat flea is by far the most common method of spread. During the past three years in Georgia this has proved to be true. Most cases of typhus occur among adults who are employed in warehouses, groceries, or establishments where food and feed supplies are handled. Up to within the past few years this kind of rat was only found near the coast, but they have now migrated inland and following this migration typhus fever has appeared.

The peanut industry serves as an example of what has occurred in South Georgia. When this product first began to be grown on a large scale the number of Norwegian rats were very few, but now this kind of rat swarms these farms and warehouses where this ideal food is available.

Rats eat everything and anything, but their favorite food is grain or related vegetable products. Wherever such food is available they thrive and multiply rapidly. It is in these localities that we more often find typhus fever.

A number of localized outbreaks of this disease have been reported in the past few years and have always been associated with large numbers of rats. Thus the rat is a twofold enemy of mankind. First, because of the enormous destruction of food supplies; second, because of the serious menace as a source of disease.

The large Norwegian or wharf-rat is about the most precocious and versatile of any animal. It can adapt itself to any environment so long as a food supply remains. Trapping and poisoning are puny measures and of little value in getting rid of this rat. The only effective method of destroying this rat is to shut off his food supply. This is not a simple matter. Food and feed supplies must be stored in rat proof containers. All buildings, homes, barns, warehouses, stores, must be rat proof.

The expense of this eradication seems prohibitive, it is however what sooner or later we must come to if we hope to prevent this source of typhus fever.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued from page 1)

that the rain made is possible for him to wash his car (after seeing the car, we thought this likely) with very little effort on the part of Lieutenant Mullikin.

Our own humble opinion is that his action was motivated by a desire to show off his physique, developed by none other than Earl Liederman, "he makes 'em red-blooded." A glimpse of the amateur gymnasium in his quarters seemed to bear out our conclusion.

* * *

Lieutenant Wu of the Chinese Army, a student at Fort Benning, generously donated a satin wall decoration, hand-embroidered in intricate needlework, to the new Tea Room of the Officers' Club, which will be officially opened to the public Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The drapery depicts each of the four seasons of the year and was entered in the Geneva art contest of 1930, China winning first prize.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

APOLOGIA

Since setting forth on "The Road to Rome' some nine or ten weeks ago, our weekly contribution to the Benning Herald has had, of necessity, a strong theatrical flavor. Except for a few evenings off, most of our spare and not a little of our government time has been taken up with tryouts, rehearsals, and the numerous administrative details incident to putting on a costume play with a cast of twenty-four people. Our associations during this period have been largely confined to our co-workers in the enterprise and in consequence our column has been largely filled with the short and simple annals of a group of part time directors, stage managers, actors and actresses. When it's all over—and it won't be long now—we'll see what can be done toward publicity for the horseworshippers, the golf fanatics, the tennis fiends and other psychopathic cases. Meanwhile, don't be critical, if we concentrate on dramatics. It isn't that we haven't any other interests. We just don't know what else going on in the big outside world.

For the benefit of the few who may still be hesitating as to whether to attend this last play of the current season, The Flare unhesitatingly advises attendance. If the show goes over as hoped, you'll get a kick out of it and if it's a flop you'll have something to talk about at every social gathering for a year. As for us, we're leaving town soon anyway.

SEEN AND HEARD ON THE APPIAN WAY

Approximately one thousand pounds of costumes were dumped on an unsuspecting cast last Sunday morning. Arms, armor, tunics, togas and sandals, were scattered about the green room while a confused cast struggled to get into Roman or Carthaginian apparel for the first costume rehearsal During the course of the morning everybody appeared before the footlights in something but it took the firm of Golightly and Golightly a good twenty-four hours to get the Generals, Senators, Guardsmen and slaves into garb appropriate to their stations in life. For instance, Guardman Crim, Duffner, and Luckett appeared on the stage attired in the gorgeous scale mail of Carthaginian generals, thereby causing acute suffering to Guardsman Fitzgibbons who was a trifle slow on the grab.

One of the features of the show that the audience is destined to miss is the backstage toga practice of Dictator Fabius and Senators Weeks and Wallace.

General Drusus May in his full dress suit of solid brass looks like our boyhood conception of Goliath of Gath—Scipio Craig could pass for David, son of Jesse, in anybody's Sunday School.

The management is pleased to announce that Explorer Chance will be able to appear in his great role of the 2nd Guardsman, in spite of the severe accident suffered on a recent terrain exercise. Scipio Craig's bloody momento of the double envelopment at Cannae is faked, but the Explorer's broken arm was actually acquired in The Infantry School's equivalent for Hannibal's numidian cavalry.

Hannibal Brislawn, while otherwise pleased with his magnificent Carthaginian raiment, insists upon the addition of a three inch strip to the bottom of his tunic. Wardrobe Mistress Golightly is making the desired alteration.

There being rather more to the costume of Bala, the Nubian slave than Actor Storch deemed necessary, he has devised a highly effective cosume of his own—all out of one medium size leopard skin.

Upon seeing the almost completed Roman Villa that the efficient stage carpenters and painters had produced in 24 hours, Sergeant Mike Halloran remarked, "Who said that Rome wasn't built in a day? This is probably the best to date of the numerous back-stage wisecracks inspired by Scenic Artist Bell's highly effective first act set.

The dress rehersal went off almost too well to be construed a favorable omen. The day was saved, however, by the failure of General Drusus May to reapear with the other Romans after being taken out by Mago Munson to see the elephants. This greatly worried the younger children who had come in to see the rehersal who feared that the magnificent Roman General had been devoured by the management hastened to reassure them. The General missed the boat —that's all.

INTERVIEW WITH LOCAL CELEBRITIES NO. 8

Having heard of Horseman Halloran's perfection in equitation, and knowing something of his reputation from personal contact and observation, the Flare Special Agent was anxious to acquire some of the secrets of the great master to increase his own proficiency, providing, naturally, that not too much work or mental effort were involved.

The Special Investigator found the usually Happy Hibernian sitting disconsolaely on the running board of his car with his chin resting on a red whiskered first, looking like an army officer who had just taken another pay-cut.

Undaunted, the Agent opened up a conversation leading meekly with "Why so blue Mike?" A good cavalry school graduate can always ride another step and take just one more shot."

"Yeah" groaned Mike, "I'm shot now all right—night exercise all night; just got licked by the Freebooters four to three; and I've got to rehearse for a cock eyed show and exhibit a lot of pep and interest—why, when I was at the Cavalry School—"

"You learned to ride", interrupted the Agent.

"I learned to ride," agreed Mike.

"Any accidents?", asked the Agent, who was thinking primarily of safe and sane instruction.

"One" sighed Mike as he started to gather his polo sticks, "A broken leg".

"I was going to get some pointers from you", said the sympathetic Agent, "but I'd rather hear about the accident, if you don't mind."

"All right", said Mike, "I know you're interested in riding, so I'll tell you this because it might help you to avoid a similar calamity. Every night, at Riley, I used to clear our dining room and mount up on a chair to practice leads, aids and 'shoulder in'. Well, sir, one night I was galloping around the quarters a little too strenuously, I guess, because the next thing I knew I broke a leg—that's about all there was to it."

(Please turn to page 5)

THINGS CHINESE

(Continued from page 3)

cestors are buried. As long as this fatal "thirst for the decomposing under the immediate feet of the posterity" continues to be the principal passion of the Chinese, so long will they be debarred from the one obvious method by which their ills might be effectually lightened. Real amelioration of the condition of the mass of the Chinese people where they are, we believe to be well-night impossible, and transplantation on any adequate scale they would not tolerate except as a decree of "fate." An unconscious consciousness of this state of things checks the expression of a discontent which has abundant cause to make itself heard.

The cheerfulness of the Chinese, which we must regard as a national characteristic, is intimately connected with their contentedness of mind. To be happy is more than they expect, but, unlike us, they are generally willing to be as happy as they can. Inordinate fastidiousness is not a common Chinese failing. They are generally model guests. Any place will do, any food is good enough for them. Even the multitudes who are insufficiently clothed and inadequatey fed, preserve their serenity of spirit in a way which to us appears marvellous.

An almost universal illustration of Chinese cheerfulness is to be found in their sociability, in striking contrast to the glum exclusiveness so often characteristic of the Anglo-Saxon. One of the main enjoyments of the Chinese seems to be chatting with one another, and whether they are old friends or perfect strangers makes very little difference. That this appreciation of human society is a great alleviation of many of the miseries which the Chinese suffer, cannot be doubted.

It is also to be noted that many Chinese have the happy art of adorning their very humble surroundings with plants and flowers, of which they are extremely fond. This is but an inarticulate way of saying, "We have not much, but we make the most of what we have."

Many as are the criticisms which we perhaps justly make upon our Chinese servants, it is only fair to mention that they will frequently submit to serious inconveniences, and will do extra work for many persons for a great length of time, not only without complaint, but often with an apparent unconsciousness that there is anything to complain of.

Perhaps it is in time of sickness that the innate cheerfulness of the Chinese disposition shows to most advantage. As a rule, they take the most optimistic view, or, at all events, wish to seem to do so, both of their own condition and of that of others. Their cheery hopefulness often does not forsake them even in physical weakness and in extreme pain. We have known multitudes of cases where Chinese patients, suffering from every variety of disease, freqeuntly in deep poverty, not always adequately nourished, at a disatnce from their homes, sometimes even abandoned by their relatives, and with no ray of hope for the future visible, yet maintained a cheerful equanimity of temper, which was a constant albeit an unintentional rebuke to the nervous impatience which, under like circumstances, would be sure to characterize the Anglo-Saxon.

Chinese imbued with this happy temperament we believe to be by no means rare. Every one of much experience in China has met them. We repeat that if the teaching of history as to what happens to "the fittest" is to be trusted, there is a magnificent future for the Chinese race.

—Chinese Characteristics
BY ARTHUR H. SMITH

THE FLARE

(Continued from page 4)

"Did the doctor fix you up all right?" asked the Agent.

"No, the Quartermaster did—you see I broke a leg on the chair" grinned Mike as he drove wearily off on "The Road to Rome."

IN EXPLANATION AND EXTENUATION

Flare readers have commented upon the fact that we no longer record in our scintillating column the weekly minutes of the famed Thanatopsis Literary and Inside Straight Club. Lest it be thought that our reports of the cabalistic gatherings of the devotees of the grand old American games of draw and stud, and their illegitimate "high-low" offspring, has been subjected to censorship, we hasten to inform our admiring public that such is not the case. We just aren't in a position to get the first hand information, that's all. To be perfectly frank, we are on a compulsory furlough status so far as attendance at the weekly meetings of the club are concerned. In other words, we have become, for the moment, what the boys with the green eyeshades call a Christian. Or, to put it still another way, we have taken the veil.

It will be of interest to those who have followed the history of this great evangelical organization, as printed in The Flare and recited orally at bridge and tea fights, to know that all but two members of the Club have, at one time or anoher, succumbed to the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" and gone into either temporary or permanent retirement. One of these of course, is Deacon Leard, the Kingfish of the organization. The other uninterrupted service man is Brother Bradley, better known among the Thanatopsis brethren as Omar the Pot Breaker. Unlike Deacon Leard, Brother Bradley has his ups and downs but, to date, he has been able to tide over the periods of depression. His great staying powers coupled with his genius for capitalizing Lady Luck's faintest smirks make it improbable that his star will ever be added to Evangelist Leard's resplendent crown.

We hope that our reports on the doings of the Thanatopsis brethren have not been greatly missed. If recent meetings have been anything like the last six we attended prior to resigning as publicity and contributing officer, our faithful readers may well rejoice that we reformed. Of all the "flat, stale, and unprofitable" social affairs we ever participated in, the last six sessions were the flatest, stalest and—saddest of all to reate—the most unprofitable.

—E. F. H.

SOCIETY

(Continued From Page 2)

in attendance met Tuesday evening at the quarters of Maj. and Mrs. Roger B. Harrison. Six tables assembled for bridge at eight and payed until ten-thirty when refreshments were served. Throughout the house spring blossoms were used as decorations. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Oscar W. Griswold.

* * *

TANK BATTALION BRIDGE CLUB MEETS WITH LUNCH AND BRIDGE

The Tank Battalion ladies bridge club met Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock at the Officers Club for luncheon followed by three tables of contract bridge. The bridge was played at the Tank Club. Mrs. Oscar J. Neundorfer was the hostess for the afternoon. Those on attendance were: Mesdames Harry L. Reeder, Allen F. Kingman, Sereno E. Brett, Donald P. Spalding, Joseph A. Stuart, Robert J. Wallace, Dwight A. Rosebaum, Richard B. Wheeler, Andrew J. Evans, Russell J. Nelson and W. J. Plunkert.

* * *

MASTER KEILER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Little Master Keiler celebrated his fifth birthday Wednesday with a party at the quarters of his parents, Lieut. and Mrs. Reeve D. Keiler, for a few of his little friends. Games followed by ice cream and a big white tiered birthday cake with five white candles were enjoyed.

* * *

TEA TO BE GIVEN AT POLO CLUB NEXT SUNDAY

The Infantry School Hunt and the Polo Association will give a joint tea next Sunday afternoon at the Polo-Hunt Club following the last drag hunt of the season. Tea will be poured by Mrs. Archibald V. Arnold, Mrs. John B. Thompson, Mrs. Sereno E. Brett and Mrs. Sidney H. Negrotto.

PERSONALS

Lieut. Charles H. Bonesteel is the guest for a few weeks of his parents Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles H. Bonesteel, who was graduated from West Point with the class of 1931, is now studying at Oxford University, where he was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship.

Maj. and Mrs. Frank V. Schneider, Lieut. and Mrs. John W. Ramsey, Lieut. and Mrs. James E. Bowen, Lieut. and Mrs. Augustus J. Regnier, Lieut. and Mrs. George P. Howell, Mrs. Selina Waddington and Capt. D. M. N. Ross were among the many who motored to Radium Springs Sunday from Fort Benning to witness the golf tournament.

Mrs. W. J. Plunkert of Detroit, Michigan is the house guest of Maj. and Mrs. Harry L. Reeded.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles H. Bonesteel have as their house guest Miss Alice Pratt of Los Angeles. Miss Pratt plans to spend several weeks at Fort Benning.

A reasonable plan to . . .

BORROW

$300 *or less

for bills . . education . . travel

●

Check off these advantages:

√ Officers may borrow up to $300
√ Your signature is our only security.
√ Your confidence is respected. Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
√ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
√ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
√ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
√ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.
204 Woolworth Bldg.
Phone 4372

VISIT

The Bakery Beautiful!

. . . and you will appreciate even more the deliciousness of Everidge's Old-Time, Rye, French and Whole Bread —at Post Exchange Grocery.

EVERIDGE'S
109 - 12TH STREET

REFINANCING means reduced worry

Let us explain a simple plan that has helped others and may help you. Our interest charges are straight 8% with no additional charges for investigations. We can give you Twenty-four hour service.

Fidelity Loan & Investment Company
1206 FIRST AVENUE
T. E. BAISDEN, Secretary-Treasurer

ATTRACTIVE BRICK HOME
ONE BLOCK OFF BENNING ROAD
IN ANDREWS' SURVEY

5 Rooms — Hardwood Floors — Tiled Bath
Lot 75 x 290 Immediate Possession

PRICE $2750.00
Easy Terms

EDGE & ARMOUR, Inc.
No. 9 - 12th Street Realtors Phone 66

BUY

GOODYEAR

TIRES AND TUBES
ON OUR
EASY PAYMENT PLAN

Small down payment and balance in payments to suit your own convenience—No Red Tape.

Goodyear Prices Greatly Reduced

We Appreciate Your Business

United Oil Corp.
PHONE 1800 1215-17 FIRST AVE.

MR. V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75 Factory guarantee. City Drug Store.

Announcing—

. . . to the personnel of Fort Benning—We have taken over the stock and location of the Morgan Drug Company, located at 14 - 13th Street, and are prepared to give you the best of service. You are cordially invited to visit us.

Call on us, it will be appreciated.

OPPOSITE WAVERLY HOTEL

JOINER'S
DRUG STORE
formerly
MORGAN DRUG CO.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Smith and Murphy Out For Blood Monday

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

With his commanding two set lead wiped out and defeat staring him in the face, Gregory Mangin of Newark rallied in the fifth set to repulse Clifford Sutter of New Orleans in the finals of the national indoor tennis tournament. The scores of the match were 6-1, 6-3, 2-6, 3-6, 6-2.

By winning the title for the second consecutive year, Mangin established himself as the foremost exponent of the indoor game in the country. When such luminaries of grass and clay courts as Shields, George Lott, and Sidney Wood were found wanting, Mangin's jarring drives and stabbing volleys functioned at their best.

* * *

In the first two sets and again in the last, Mangin was volleying perfectly behind his swift service, bringing down lobs with spectacular smashes, and ripping home winners with his feared backhand time after time. Sutter remained strictly on the defensive during the first two sets in a vain attempt to cope with his opponent's ground strokes and thrilling net play. His ordinarily beautifully timed drives, however, failed to get their usual good length, affording Mangin many opportunities to take the net with impunity.

* * *

Sutter, the third ranking player in the country, whose polished strokes and restrained style of play work to perfection on fast clay courts, was obviously handicapped by the board court and artificial lights. Nevertheless, he put up a splendid battle and forced Mangin to the limit to retain his indoor supremacy.

* * *

Babe Ruth must sign a Yankee contract by March twenty-ninth or he will not be taken north when the team breaks camp at that time. Colonel Jake Ruppert made that point clear in a conference between the Babe and himself last week. Furthermore, the Yankee owner stated that the club's present offer of 50,000 dollars will be reduced unless the Babe comes to terms.

* * *

In approximately two weeks, the big league baseball clubs begin their migration north. Reports from all major circuit camps indicate that the clubs are in fine shape and ready for war. With the pennant races only a few weeks off, speculation is rampant on the probable winners.

* * *

Bill Carr, the Arkansas flier, is through with collegiate track competition. The black-haired sensation from the University of Penn sustained a fracture in each ankle and a painful injury to his right pelvic bone in an automobile smash-up last Saturday night.

Carr, who raced to an Olympic championship in the 400-meter run and established a new world's record for the distance, has accepted his fate philosophically. Telegrams that poured in from all parts of the country cheered him noticeably, especially one from Ben Eastman, whom he thrice defeated.

* * *

Jim Browning further demonstrated his right to the world's wresting championship by tossing Strangler Lewis in two seconds short of an hour. Browning won the title from the Strangler several weeks ago. Lewis, unsatisfied, demanded a return match, and the champion, confident of holding his title, granted it to him.

After 59 minutes and 58 seconds of the match, Browning suddenly leaped forward, clamped his gorilla arms around his opponent's midsection, and raised him high in the air. Around and around he spun in the dreaded airplane whirl, otherwise

(Please turn to page 8)

Rip Tetherton and Kid Baisden Meet In Semi-Final Go

Smith And Murphy Have Old Score To Settle—First Bout Ended In Draw

Harold Murphy, a Windy City product, and Walker "Cyclone" Smith, Fort Benning lightheavy, will do battle for the second time in the post gymnasium Monday evening. When the two boxers met some weeks ago, the bout ended in a popular draw.

Since that time, Murphy has been extending his conquests into Florida and made an excellent impression there in two fights. He is in fine fettle and ready to go, confident of taking the soldier into camp.

In their first meeting, the two gave the fans a real thriller. Murphy was obviously the better boxer and for the first few rounds managed to keep hand. Cyclone kept boring in, however, shooting short triphammer blows to his opponent's midsection. In the fourth round, Harold dropped from a low blow and the fight was held up until he recuperated sufficiently to go on with the fight. Near the end of the round, he caught Smith with a left to the kidneys that had the soldier gasping.

Smith had the edge in the last few rounds and earned a draw. His aggressiveness and bull strength enabled him to get inside Murphy's guard and land telling punches, most of which he directed into the Chicago boy's midsection. Harold, too, proved that he was not lacking in punching ability and his sledgehammer wallops re-echoed all over the house.

With both fighters confident of winning the bout Monday night, it should develop into a real war.

The semi-final will be every bit as good as the main go with Rip Tetherton, army ace welter, and Kid Baisden, knockout artist, in there throwing leather at each other from every angle. Rip is making quite a record for himself and aims to add Baisden to his growing list of victims.

In his last fight, he decisively defeated Tommy Beck in St. Petersburg. He went into the ring the underdog, but it only took him one round to change the minds of everyone concerned. In this fight, he exhibited a destructive left which was just too much for his opponent. Baisden, however, is a tough boy and will give the soldier plenty of trouble. The Kid packs a wallop like the kick of a mule.

The six-rounder, Saginaw Seeley and Ginger Jernigan will tangle. Jernigan used to be one of the best fighters in his class in the country, and he still has a lot of the old ability left. Seeley is well-known to Benning fans, although this is his first appearance on a fight card for some time.

Ghost Ghastly and Tough Singly meet in another six-rounder. This should turn out to be a real battle with the outcome a toss-up. In the feature four-rounder, Billie Hyde meets Kid Stubbs. This also may develop into a thriller.

Tut Tut Taylor will wade into Spot Webb in the other four round bout, Taylor always gives fans a good run for their money, and this battle should prove no exception.

In the colored three-round feature bout of the evening, Willie Branch faces Lightning Lige. This bout would ordinarily go six rounds, so the boys will probably pack six rounds of action into three rounds. As a curtain raiser to an excellent card, very little more could be desired.

POLO NOTES

While rain washed out the polo and hunt tea planned for Sunday; the pebble picking picnic advertised for Saturday afternoon was held as scheduled.

Among those helping out was the Huling family complete, who came early and remained until the last rock had been heaved from French Field. Papa Huling has become converted to polo and next year will, no doubt, give as good an account of himself in this activity as he has in jumping. More power to the Hulings.

Cowboy Cushman brought the little cowboys and they too performed valiant service for the greater glory of polo.

Parson Stevenson got Major Thompson's mind off his work and during the pickings extracted for himself a liberal education on all the fine points of the game; much to the Major's embarassment, since he was thereby distracted from the business at hand.

Major Arnold, as usual, retained first place in work completed; Farmer Nichols with a hole in his sack, left a treasure-hunt trail to mark his course; Monte Blue arrived a little late, but swung his rake as well as any other of the higher paid help; and Squeek Knees Bevans toted a kettle of rocks almost as big as himself.

The student team turned out en masse under the eagle eye of Dictator Griffith, who did the thinking, while Buzz Butler and Night Owl Sweeney patiently dropped an occasional stone into a bucket carried by a slow gaited Billygoat.

Team and group awards were made on the field and the following standings determined; principally on attendance, to the exclusion of production, in most cases.

| | |
|---|---|
| Familia Huling | 100% |
| Major Arnold | 100% |
| Student Team | 100% |
| Familia Cushman | 75% |
| Freebooters | 61% |
| 83rd F. A. & Gunners | 48% |
| Billygoats | 22% |
| Optimists | 0% |

* * *

As long as they play polo, and perhaps for sometime after mechanization, the local malleteers will remember the unusual sight of two opposing teams emerging from a cloud of dust and gallop away from each other as fast as their ponies could run.

Time was running short; the score was 5 to 4 in favor of the Students; and a great cloud of dust hid the players who were milling around furiously at the west goal posts. The students were trying to score, and were very serious about it. Suddenly the white shirts were seen tearing down the field and with the umpire and a blue shirt or two trailing in their wake, they steamed parallel to the south sideboards and abruptly changed course two points to larboard. And then out popped Military Mike, late of Fort Riley and the Cavalry School, to shoot a perfect goal unopposed. At the same time Jimmie Winn, star goal tender at the west end, came down the field flagging a goal for the students, which Stevenson had similarly made without opposition.

Everybody went into a huddle to decide what to do; but the only opinion that emerged was the unanimous one that never before had anyone seen a polo game when each team played with its own ball.

As Capt. Cunningham, who plays with the Worchester Red Buzzards, might have said: "One more ball and we could have started a pawn shop."

(Please turn to page 8)

BOXING

MONDAY NIGHT, MARCH 27TH

Post Gymnasium, 8:15 P. M.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Harold MurphyChicago | vs. | Walker SmithFort Benning |
| | 10 Rounds | |
| Rip TethertonFort Benning | vs | Kid BaisdenValdosta |
| | 8 Rounds | |
| Saginaw SeeleyFort Benning | vs | Ginger JerniganColumbus |
| | 6 Rounds | |
| Ghost GhastlyFort Benning | vs | Tough Man SinglyFort Benning |
| | 6 Rounds | |
| Billy HydeFort Benning | vs | Kid StubbsFort Benning |
| | 4 Rounds | |
| Tut Tut TaylorFort Benning | vs | Spot WebbFort Benning |
| | 4 Rounds | |

Special 3-Round Colored Feature

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Willie Branch24th Infantry | vs | Lightning Lige24th Infantry |

General Admission 50c Ringside $1.00

Tickets on sale in Columbus at Sears-Roebuck & Co., Wheat's Drug Store, Hubbard Hardware Co., and Sport & Luggage Shop.

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

FREE

1933 TAGS

Prices Reduced - - - Complete Selection

Ford Chevrolet Plymouth Buicks

ALL MAKES

Columbus Roberts Motor Co.

Phone 271 510 12th - Street

Studebaker Pierce Arrow Rockne

White and Indiana Trucks — Busses

Amateur Boxing Team Announced

SPORTS

SPRING BRINGS FANS BASEBALL

Spring means songbirds and fair weather to some but to sport enthusiasts, it means the resumption of that grand old game of baseball. Further south, big league pitchers are getting the creaks out of their throwing arms, star batsmen are sending the pill on long journeys through the ozone, and ambitious rookies are getting their first disappointments.

Baseball is in the air. And here in Fort Benning, the members of the doughboy league are getting their candidates in line and figuring out prospects for the season.

Work on Gowdy Field commenced last week. The infield and outfield is being worked over and improved. It won't be long before Benning has a fine field in first class shape ready for the thud of spiked shoes.

Advance reports indicate that fans are going to be treated to a hotly-contested, exciting race this spring. The contestants, for the most part, appear equally mached. Where one aggregation is lacking competent hurlers, it possesses a fine batting team to make up the deficiency and vica-versa.

Let's go, basebll!

Second Series Of Polo Round Robin Is Now Under Way

The midweek witnessed continuation of the Round Robin tournament which has now ended its second and concluding series. While the second four period game played is in a sense a separate contest between the mallet swingers, the score made is added to the previous game, and the aggregate is considered as the final result for a standard eight chukker game. The standings of teams is thus determined according to games won and lost on an eight period basis.

* * *

83RD DEFEATS GUNNERS

The Gallant Gunners after making the big 83rd team hustle for four strenuous periods, fell before the Redlegs by a score of 1 to 4. The improvement of play by the Gunners impressed polo fans, who always admire the scrappy exhibitions put up by the lieutenants.

| 83rd Redlegs | Gunners |
|---|---|
| 1. Bevan | 1. Cobb |
| 2. Sherburne | 2. Haskell |
| 3. Arnold | 3. Grubbs |
| 4. Heriot | 4. McManus |

Goals made: Bevans 2, Arnold 2, Haskell 1. Umpire, Lt. Gould.

Total score, 2 games: 83rd 20; Gunners 5.

* * *

FREEBOOTERS BEAT BILLY-GOATS 4-2

The well knit, near perfect Yellow team turned loose on the Green Goats and after a slam-bang game full of excitement, came across with an anticipated win by a score of 4 to 2.

For the Greens, Capt. Cunningham took the place of Capt. Lucas, the regular No. 1 Goat.

| Freebooters | Billygoats |
|---|---|
| 1. Lockett | 1. Cunningham |
| 2. Nichols | 2. Gammon |
| 3. Blue | 3. Bloomquist |
| 4. Thompson | 4. Winn |

Goals: Lockett 3, Blue 1; Bloomquist 1, Gammon; Umpire Lt. Gould.

Total score: Freebooters 14, Billygoats 8.

STUDENTS BATTLE OPTIMISTS

With a lead of 5-2, the result of the first 4-period game played on January 29th, the fighting Optimists led by Zero Wilson turned on the Students with a vengeance to definitely settle matters with the Boys in Blue.

The Students, however, put up a great fight, until the famous fourth chukker when somehow a second ball entered the game, and the amusing spctacle of one team scoring East while the other at the same time went West, opened a discussion which remains to date unsettled.

Pending the outcome of a final decision the fans can apparently take either of the following scores: Students vs Optimists, 4-6, 5-5, 4-5.

| Students | Optimists |
|---|---|
| 1. Sweeney | 1. Monroe |
| 2. Butler | 2. Halloran |
| 3. Stevenson | 3. Wilson |
| 4. Griffith | 4. Gee |

Goals: Butler 2, Stevenson 1 (In doubt). Halloran 1 (contested). Umpire: Capt. Cunningham.

Post Boxing Team Ready To Compete In Southern Meet

Roy Whatley, Ace Middleweight, Heads List Of Boxers Entered in Champ Bouts

The boxing championships of the Southeastern Association of the A. A. U., will be held in Mobile, Ala., April 13, 14, 15. This was decided at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Mobile, after the banks had opened Thursday, March 16th. The Junior Chamber will sponsor the tournament and all amateur boxers in the state of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Florida are invited to enter.

The Fort Benning amateur boxing team was one of the first teams to apply for entry in the tournament and the army team looms as strong title contenders this year. Under the coaching of Lieutenant Howard Johnson, former collegiate featherweight boxing ace, the army team has been rounded into splendid condition and stands out as one of the strongest amateur boxing teams ever turned out at Fort Benning.

At the present time the team is compact in every weight except the flyweight class. Owing to the rules governing the physical examination of applicants for enlistment in the U. S. Army, there are very few men in the 112 pound division. In the bantamweight division the fort team is well represented with Billy Floyd of the 29th Infantry, and Tanker Floyd of the Tank Corps. Tanker Floyd is the harder puncher and tougher of the pair but Billy is a master boxer with a pair of speedy legs and plenty of kick behind his punches. One of this pair should make the grade.

Mathews of the Tankers looks like the big gun in the featherweight division. Carrying the kick of the mule in either mit and possessing a chin that has proven to be bomb proof, this youngster looks like a sure bet in the feather class. Mann of the Special Units, 29th Infantry, is also a strong contender in the feather class, although not carrying the punching power of Mathews, the doughboy is fast and exceptionally clever.

Phail, new comer from down Panama, looks like the high light of the lightweight division. This boy can box and punch. He is plenty tough and fights like a veteran. Either Lorimer of the First Bats or Bolywoda of the Second Bats will be listed as the other lightweight class. Lorimer with his speed and reach advantage is a slight favorite over the dumpy boy from the Kelly outfit.

The Benning team really boasts a pair of aces in the welterweight division. Milan of the Tankers is a veteran of three years. He has twice been entered in the Southeastern tournament and each time has been eliminated in the final bout. He is a natural puncher and has won the majority of his fights by the kayo route. This should be his big year. Joe Graves fought as a lightweight in 1932, but only a youngster and still growing, he has blossomed out as a full fledged welter this year. Graves is a portsider with plenty of power back of his punches. Suffering from an injured jaw, he was unable to take part in the recent Fort Benning boxing tournament and it looked for a while as if he would not be able to come out for the garrison team, but his chin came around okay and Graves is out there and looking like a champion.

Roy Watley, 29th Infantry middleweight, will be the big shot of the tournament. Not only does Roy wear the middleweight boxing crown of Fort Benning, but on this youngter's tawny locks rest the southeastern and southern middleweight championship crowns for the year of 1932. Last year Watley, an unknown recruit, startled Benning's little fight world

(Please turn to page 8)

Blue Thunderbolt Overcomes Kellys In Exciting Game

BY JACK GIBNEY

The Blue Thunderbolt of the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry crashed with the Green Wave from the First Battalion of the same regiment in the post gym at Fort Benning last night and went down in bitter defeat, fighting all the way. The two see-sawed through the entire first salf and the first of the third quarter, but the Irish started running up the score, and when the final whistle blew the Kellys were on the short end of a 44-29 game.

The two teams are playing off a tie resulting from the series of games that have been in progress at the post since December, and there still remains two more games to be played before the championship of the Benning basketeers will be decided. A victory for the Thunderbolt will place them the undisputed champions of the post hoop artists, while if the Kellys take this evening's contest it will throw the deciding games over to Friday.

The close teamwork of the Green Wave and the sharpshooter eye of their star center, Sheppard, accounted for last night's picture. Sheppard was the boy that dropped them through the loop, but due credit must be given to the wonderful pass work and feeding of Jordan and Sneed. Tiny Ray at guard together with his running mate Reddock, gave an excellent exhibition of how to keep on top of the ball. Sneed and Sheppard also worked marvelously together on the defensive. McAllister, Kelly guard, tried desperately all through the contest to stem the tide, but his long shots for the basket resulted in but one field goal. The floor generalship shown by him however offset the fact that his eye was off. Chamberlain, center, was high point man for the Second Batts, but together with Darden and two Lees, F. and J., kept the Irish on their toes till the last few minutes of the game.

The Kellys were badly crippled when Lee, F. was taken from the game because of a superabundance of fouls, for the little youngster had done much to keep the score even.

A word of praise should be spoken for the offciating that was done at last night's game. Referee Wright and Umpire Stewart have called them at all of the games of the season, but the work that they did last night stands out as an example of cleancut, fair; and impartial decisions, that make it a pleasure to watch the game.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

THE Post Exchange has a DELIVERY SERVICE from its

SODA FOUNT

. . . which is designed for the delivery of Ice Cream in small quantities on the Post. The hours of this service are from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.

Excellent Curb Service

Telephone 69

SODA FOUNT

POST EXCHANGE

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Come! Come!

A New Place To Go - -

6,000 feet of hard-wood floor, new ball bearing skates, music and a delightful evening ahead.

Bud Massey & Tom Tuggle Announce a New

Skating Rink

Opens Tonight 7:30 P. M.

Admission . . . . 15c
Skates . . . . . 25c

Cor. Dillingham & Front Avenue

Still's Rent-A-Car Company

1232 First Avenue

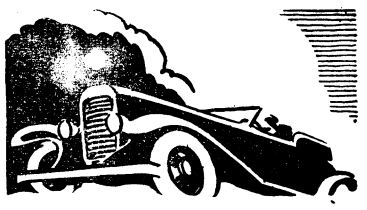
Rates

6 to 12c Per Mile

No Hour Charge

Clean and Efficient Service

Fords Chevrolets



Expert Repairing

at costs lower than those you will find anywhere else!

Our unusually well-equipped shop is our guarantee that our work will give you satisfaction—both from the standpoint of economy and good workmanship.

FREE BRAKE SERVICE

New Tags Installed Free

Joe Blankenship

PHONE 50

1017 - 1st Avenue

Wrecker Service Day and Night

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

POST BOXING TEAM READY TO COMPETE IN SOUTHERN MEET

(Continued From Page 7)

as he spatted favorites with a right hand and left them rolling in the resin. He shoved leather three times in the Southeastern meet at Atlanta, and scored two knockouts and one decision. He entered in the tryouts for the Olympic boxing team, held at New York. Watley scored two knockouts, then met the first southpaw of his career and dropped his first decision. This year he has been schooled in the ways and means to fight southpaws. Watch this boy go.

Lonnie Wilson, 29th Infantry, and Morris, Tank Corps, will wear Benning colors in the lightweight division. Both of these boys are rugged, willing mixers. There is little to choose between the pair and either of the pair should hold his own with amateur lightheavys in the south.

Army hopes in the heavyweight division are being pinned on the massive shoulders and armored chin of Penland of the Special Units, 29th Infantry. Only a youngster in his second season of leather pushing, Penland has been going along nicely. In the recent garrison tournament, Penland copped honors in the heavyweight class with little opposition. He looks good in training and should give a splendid account of himself in competition against the leading heavyweights of the Simon Pure ranks.

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c . A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

Tank Notes

A new rule made by Major Kingman, Battalion Commander, in Athletic Memorandum dated March 14, makes all members of the Battalion eligible to play baseball with their company teams. This should meet the approval of all companies and we believe that the same rule would go well on football, swimming, basketball, track and all other sports of the Battalion.

We take pleasure in announcing the promotion to the rank of corporal Private First Class Edward B. Durden, of company F-67, Infantry. Many of you will remember Corporal Durden as the fellow who starred on Company F-67 boxing team during the company series. Congratulations, Corporal Durden.

"Tanks" old man, we see Babe Ruth hasn't signed up with Yanks yet. You might be able to get him for your all "Star Baseball Team," now that you have Gilbert, Newman, Massey, Organ and Holloway.

Down in F-67 they tell us that the telephone has been slightly neglected. However, they tell us that, Joe, Zazu, Swaney, Popeye and Donald have not been forgotten and are still being paged by the Belles down town.

Private Bishop, better known to Company "D" as "Chesty Mahatma Gandhi" while attending one of the Post dances rather late got a combing down from the little lady; but after telling her he was the bugler of the guard got off kind of light.

"Tightie" Witherspoon says he has as much chance of getting this eight cent gas as the Scotchman who went to the Studebaker Company with a basket under his arm to get some "Free Wheeling."

Corporal Swantic reports our new baseball field ready. Schedule of games for the company series will last throughout the month of April and all fans of baseball are welcome to witness these games.

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued From Page 6)

known as the pinwheel scissors, until the Strangler had reached the proper stage of dizziness, then deposited him neatly, though forcibly on the floor. Lewis, out colder than a cucumber, was through for the evening.

* * *

Syracuse romped off with four of the individual titles in the Eastern intercollegiate boxing championships to clinch the team laurels easily. The Orangemen accumulated 27 points, with Army and Western Maryland tied at 12 points each. Penn State annexed 11 points, Yale 6, and M. I. T. 4.

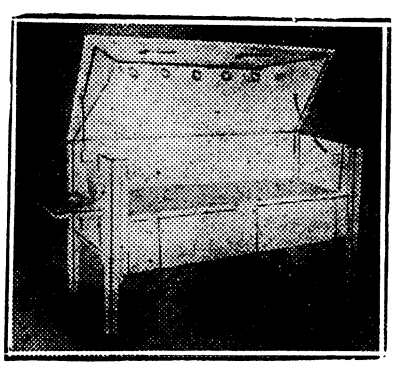
Leading the Orange boxers to their second consecutive team title were Al Wertheimer, who captured his third successive 125 pound championship, Captain Joe Moran, who topped all competitors in the 155 pound class, Tony Balash, the winner in the 165 pound division, and Joe Vavra, the victor in the heavyweight bout of the evening.

* * *

Highlights of the Knights of Columbus track and field meet in Madison Square Garden a week and a half ago. Glenn Cunningham atoned for his setback by Gene Venzke in the national championships by outdistancing his rival in a brilliant 4:12 mile performance. . . . Emmett Toppino turned the tables on Ralph Metcalf in the sprint. . . . Keith Brown vanquished his teammate Wirt Thompson of Yale in the pole vault by leaping 14 feet 13-4 inches, a new indoor mark. . . . Joe McCluskey beat Paul Kanaly by three quarters of a lap in the two mile. . . . and Barney Berlanger made a runaway of the septathlon duel with Jim Bausch, the Olympic decathlon champion.

* * *

After the meet, the track writers were polled on the three most meritorious performers and all agreed that the order should be Glen Cunningham, Keith Brown, and Barney Berlanger. A special trophy will be awarded to the Kansan on the basis of this decision. More anon.



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish, Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

Infantry School Detachment

In the recent personnel shake-up at headquarters the gang up there lost one of the smiling faces that made life a much brighter thing in many ways. Referring to none other than our friend Corporal Barney Knox, who was moved, bag and baggage, to the Quartermaster office. In his long career as general supervisor of almost anything laying around loose, Corporal (James to you) Knox made many a hard working deskman smile just a little bit broader, and gaze in wonderment after him as he sped about his duties. He is gone, but we shall miss him!

Another to depart the confines of headquarters was the blond Mercury that pedaled valiantly hither and yon over the reservation delivering those yellow envelopes that Mr. Western Union dispatches. The youngster is considerably worried as to the final resting place for his services, and is reported to have left the red brick building with a tear glistening in a big blue eye. Shouts of joy were heard from Chief Sacramo, however, when he learned that the delivery job was not to fall to his lot.

The tattler is finally told on! Scribe Gibney has been heard to mumble lately, that, if his absentness gets any worse, he would send off for a memory course. Al Durden saved him the trouble the other day, though, when an envelope, inscribed in Gibney's scrawl, was returned by the post office. It was addressed to a newspaper located at "3342 M St. N. W." and underneath, in bold letters, was written "Fort Benning, Georgia." Al is sending off for the memory course himself, and intends to present it to Gibney at the earliest opportunity.

In the spring a youg man's fancy . . . ! The recent spell of mild balmy weather has gone to Corporal Campbell's head, and a close observer can notice that he is getting more and more restless as the days roll on. Tom Cox was much puzzled Thursday. morning to find scraps of paper scattered over the tent floor, covered with what appeared to be cross-word puzzles, or runic rhymes. On asking Campbell the how-come, it turned out that the master-mind had simply been trying to evolve a fool-proof turtle trap for immediate use.

Many of the Detachment baseball fans remember a familiar sight from last season's games. It was 1st Sergeant George Mowry sitting on the players' bench and violently twisting and otherwise mistreating one perfectly good rabbit foot. This year we are to be deprived of this edifying spectacle, however, for the Top states that, with the bunch of players that are due to turn out, and the cooperation that he expects from the entire outfit, any luck that a mere rabbit's foot could bring will be absolutely unnecessary. (Anyone looking for a slightly used left hind leg of a graveyard rabbit, killed with a silver bullet, by a read-headed, cross-eyed, negro in the dark of the moon, can find same some-place in the Detachment trash rack.)

Sergeant Frank Smith, after a recent trip over into the wilds of Alabama, returned without the well-known go-buggy that he pilots around the post. The sergeant's statement is that the automobile was drowned out during the strong rains of last Sunday. You're tellin' me, sergeant?

Hammond, of message center, has shown considerable interest in a certain young lady down-town, even to the extent of giving her music lessons. Didn't know you were a musician, Ham, but it's a good story, anyway.

Wonder what the boys mean when they holler "Yoo-hoo, Pittman?"

Twenty-Ninth Infantry

HQ. COMPANY, 1ST BATTALION

Come, Come little brain, think hard, even if it does hurt. Think hard and see if you can remember some dirt about the honorable members of this small but well heard of organization. We are trying out three prospects for the National Tobacco Spitting Convention and from all outlooks it seems as if we are set to have at least second place. Between Bloodhound Hays, Spark Plug Mauldin and Beach-nut Bryan, it's pretty hard to tell which is the most accurate of the three. Anyway I'd hate to be a cuspidor when the three of them are around.

Poor old Shuffle LeJune is having a pretty hard time of it trying to show the boys that he can get around as well as they or even better. The better part comes in when that goo old chow whistle blows, and then an then only is when he shows speed Lagalor.

Dear me, my oh my, will wonders never cease. Here the other day when the company fell out for baseball practice, who should appear big as day for a position on the team, but our own little Pa Tipper. And what a sweet little ball player he turned out to be. Out side of a blackeye, a swollen lip and two or three busted fingers Pa Tipper came out of that practice in pretty good shape. Don't mind me Tip Old Boy, we are mighty glad to have you out there with us and want to assure you that there is a place on the first string for you. Keep up the good work.

Here is a spirit for you. Our little Company Fund is so small that it is impossible to do what we want to and stay within the limits. Saturday morning at a meeting of the company some of the boys suggested a donation to enable us to have the magazines and papers in our recreational room that are now missing. The suggestion was greeted heartily and everyone in the company assured the Top-Kick that he was willing to donate twenty-five cents every month until the subscriptions were fully paid for.

Saturday morning the National Guardsmen challenged our company to a set of Volley-ball games. W picked our team and played them on their home court. Out of four games they won the big percentage of Nothing. We were just too good for them and feel that way about any other team in the Post, Regiment, or Battalion. Come one come all.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

This week being designated by the Commandant as the Spring housecleaning week for Fort Benning, the company is busy doing their part of it. We are also repainting and calsomining our walls and ceiling of the company barracks. When completed this will be the best looking barracks in Fort Benning.

Our Top Kick, Houghtby, with all this work is a busy man checking up on every detail. The painting is requiring a good deal of his time to see that the right color is put in the right place and that it is put Dock Easley took his girl to Macon last Sunday and did not return until Monday evening and then came in walking. He said his car stalled on him but we believe his girl made him walk back. Barker has gone home on a furlough and expects to bring back with him another baseball player. He said the woods were full of baseball players back at his home.

Willie Harrison is still waiting for his promotion to staff sergeant.

Corporal Funk. our drum major, gives us the following details of a chicken fight that was held last Saturday in Alabama. In one instance a dead chicken won a fight. This is due to a clause in the rules which awards the decision to the chicken that shows the last signs of fight. The dead chicken had struck the last blow then died from a mortal wound he had received earlier in the fight. The other chicken declined to fight and started to run after he had wounded the first chicken. They checked up on the chicken that struck the last blow and the dead chicken was the winner.

In another fight one of the chickens after having one leg broken managed to hobble across the spit and inflict the fatal wound on the other chicken and won the fight by the death route.

TANK CLASS BEGINS SERIES OF SHORT LECTURES

(Continued From Page 1)

three speakers. Lieutenant Richard G. Prather, talked on employment of armored forces, Lieutenant Graves discussed British tank developments since the World War, and Captain Rossiter H. Garity, talked on the development of armored cars in the United States Army and foreign armies.

WOLFSON CO.
939 Broadway
Wrapping Paper, Paper Bags, Towels, Napkins, Cups and Stationery.
PHONE 113

PEKOR JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway
for Expert Watch Repairing

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

Tales Of The Tent City

The instructors of the National Guard and Reserve Officers' Class all be glad to know that the whispering going on among members of the class the past week was in no way connected with what one or more individuals may have thought of them personally. It was only the usual whispering and back biting that takes place before any election. At that, and without the usual precautions that are generally taken before an election, this election was safely held in Assembly Hall No. 3. Therefore at this time we wish to present to Fort Benning society the following Class Officers of the Class of '33.

Capt. R. M. Graen, Minnesota Nat. Guard, president; Capt. E. J. Schmitz, Illinois Nat. Guard, 1st vice president; Capt. M. L. Fahrney, Inf. Res. California, 2nd vice president; Capt. W. F. Sutton, Texas Nat. Guard, secretary; Capt. H. B. Dudley, Inf. Res., Florida, treasurer.

Congratulations to you all and we are confident that your actions in your various capacities will be in accordance with the type of men we know you are.

Another verse to the Class Song:

When I'm the commandant,
When I'm the commandant,
Bulls-eyes will be much larger
When I'm the commandant.

There comes a time in every one's life when he wishes he may be one of the chosen few, whether it be to enter the Pearly Gates or be presented with the approved solution to a problem at the same time the problem is given out for working. There were some of the chosen in the class in Mobilization last week, and they thank the Major now, their only suggestion being that the same be done the next time there is a marked problem. Thanks again Major Kraft, as ye correspondent was chosen too.

Upon applying at the bank for his money Rastus was told that the bank had failed, in fact it had just busted to which Rastus replied; "Lawsy me, Ise heer'd of banks doin' dis bustin' bizness all mah life but dis am de fust time I'se ever had one bust right in mah face." Ain't it the truth!

Once again our friend Lieutenant Lipsey, of Chicago appears on the news horizon. According to reports the Lt. has lately been spending a lot of time studying up on how to be God's gift to the Company Officers' Class. Evidently his study was all in vain as he forgot that paragraph wherein it is stated that hats are to be worn at all times even if it is only on a map problem.

This comes all the way down here from Columbus, Ohio. A colored soldier at Federal Inspection of one of the colored National Guard companies, there told the Inspecting officer when asked what fortifications were, that they were two twenty-fications.—It could have happened even down here so say our instructors.

We nominate today for the hall of fame—

Any officer who can draw Captain Bloomquist's contour lines after being out with Georgia corn the nite before.

To the regular doer of this column:
The batter had, the inning before,
Sprained a ligament in his thumb
So in they sent the mighty Babe
A hitter of great note, but dumb.

He took one strike, a dandy, too,
Right over the well known pan,
Watched another one go by and then,
What did he do but fan

And so it is in life,
As we trod the streets of hope:
Even tho you're on the brink of death,
Do your job yourself, you dope.

Wuf, Wuf, The Substitute

---

Lt. Foster (in supply): "Lt. Seeman will you give the points to which the communication distributing point will advance during the attack."

Seeman: "Well you start at RJ 617—there to RJ 607—then to CR 600 then.

Foster: "Make the next one a big jump."

Seeman: "Then you jump in the river at the bridge."

We don't know who the fellow is who uses the delicately scented after shaving lotion, but you want to see the boys turn up their noses and sniff.

These Tank boys are quite ready with the answers. The instructor asked Capt. Miller, the Kentucky barrister, what a free wheeling unit was.

"Well," drawled the Captain "as near as I have been able to ascertain, it is a device introduced by leading motor car manufacturers to increase the sale of automobiles."

Lt. Fahrney was returning to the post from Columbus in the trusty Nash when stopped by the M. P.

M. P.; "What's the idea of this speed, you were doing fifty miles per hour."

Fahrney: "I haven't any brakes on this car, and was hurrying to the post before I had an accident."

We refuse to mention the names of those who ask those foolish questions in class. There are so many of them they might gang your scribe, and run him all the way back to Colorado.

83rd Field Artillery

BATERY "A"

Captain R. G. Mangum, our Battery Commander was on a leave during the week end visiting friends at Troy, Alabama.

Sergeant William L. "Soup" Gilbert has returned from a re-enlistment of 30 days and is now back in charge of the third section. Sgt. Gilbert spent his furlough in Columbus with his family.

Private Muscrove has returned from a 60 days' furlough where he has been visiting, Opp, Ala. Fharow says he did not have such a large time as he was on the sick list most of the time.

Pvt. Donald Booth, the boy from Cairo, Ga., had an extended furlough of one day intending going to Cairo but did not get any farther than Girard, Ala.

It is rumored around that one of our Corporals has matrimonial ideas, because after missing Reveille he claims to have over slept and missed the bus, so there is something in the air somewhere.

One of our boys, Private Kea was injured while playing basketball is reported improving and we wish him a speedy recovery.

One of our Barn men, Pvt. Elwood Granger had a sudden attack of mumps while in the city of Columbus, and received a free ride from Columbus to the Post Hospital. (That is one way of saving bus fare).

Private Shelton Brantley made General's orderly last week and took his one day pass Monday 21st. Pvt. Brantley has been about the fifth man in the organization to make General's orderly in succession.

For the first time in the history of the organization there was one day when no one was on furlough.

BATTERY "C"

The demonstration "Artillery Supporting Fires" was again a success. It proved however that knowing too much ahead of time is not always a help.

The Recreation Center Board jobs used to be the ambition of many men but since Knight and Jennings got hurt, the RCB has lost its attraction. Corporal Doyle is about to be discharged and remarked to anxious members of the battery that he does not choose to re-enlist. With beer available here without fine, we see no reason for him to return to far away Panama.

Since most of the ratings in our battery are issued to men while they are absent, the members of the BC Detail, anticipating non-re-enlistment of Bud Doyle, are all putting in for furloughs. Percy Parker was absent from the battery the other day for about 15 minutes. In that time he walked to the court martial room, was heard, tried, found guilty and convicted to a lot. We have heard about the speed of the Police Courts in civilian life, but our present Special Court wins the price.

With no foreign enemies such as Supply Sgt., Truck Drivers and early eating basketball players to combat, the kitchen force under the leadership of our Mess Officer have started a civil war. After Parker was eliminated the next victim was Bopp. Our "Miss Evolution" of the bathing beauties contest was exiled from the kitchen and was seen traveling around on a horse. We don't mind the fighting as long as they keep on cooking.

---

HEADQUARTERS BATTERY

Due to the fact that little known events are printed in this column from week to week, and much unwanted publicity is given to certain members of the battery who would prefer that certain noble deeds that they have performed remain in the dark. Ye scribe wishes it to be known that his staff of scandal hunters are more determined than ever, and in the future, will hunt even larger and better game.

The battery is taking part in an all night maneuver for the benefit of the advanced class to be held in the vicinity of Ford Hill. The uniform will be long handled underwear with two undershirts, sweater, two pairs of socks, two pairs of gloves, and any other clothing that can be acquired.

The Battalion Daily Bulletin of March 21st, in announcing Captain DePass' lecture on the Chinese situation, states that "wives and lady fiends are invited." In the opinion of this obscure manure shaker, this very unusual announcement opens a rather wide field for debate. The use of the conjugation seems to indicate that both are included in the same general classification—a premise which, in spite of the modern trend, we are, as yet, unprepared to accept. We have, unfortunately, seen more than a few females concering whom we privately thought the terms might be properly considered as synonymous. It is possible that we have even, upon occasion, referred to one as a "she devil," but "lady fiend" has never occurred to us. However, it strikes us as a phrase of possibilities, and one which may well be made of note for possible future reference. However, be that as it may, we contend that to refer to both, as of the same classification, in an official publication is not only contrary to fact, but has the sanction of neither the War Department or of the eminent Emily Post.

The winter at Valley Forge and Hannibal's crossing of the Alps have come to be accepted as instances of achievement and existence under extreme climatic conditions. However, judging from the tales of horror which are borne to us by our pampered friends of the Twenty-ninth, these two historic occasions pale into absolute insignificance as compared to the night recently spent in the field on maneuvers. To us of the Eighty-third, who are unaccustomed to the deluxe soldiering enjoyed by our less hardy brethren, it was just a part of another day's work.

24th Inf.

COMPANY "A"

Private First Class James Pollen "late of the 25th Infantry" was assigned to the second platoon and placed in the 8th squad. His title, he brought with him from the 25th is "Yamacraw" but Corp Jackson who knew him when he was just a baby, named him Little Six; the Corporal never dreamed of seeing him as he is today, a soldier weighing 230 pounds. We hope that "Little Six" will be of great value to us in our next tug-of-war game. With Big Six, Little Six, Hoggy, Little Julius, The Blimp and others we have nothing to fear, the names mentioned hereon gives the total weight about 1143 pounds. Little Six, we are very glad to have you in our midst, and hope that your stay in Company "A" may be a very pleasant one. We of the second platoon will do all we can to make it agreeable. All we want you to do, is deliver the goods, and rest assured that we will take care of you. We know we don't have to worry about you being a shot, because we know whence you came, and we know that you will keep the old tradition going.

Private Thomas was also transferred to us from the 25th Infantry and was assigned to the first platoon. He will be known as "Texas Kid." We know that he, being a young soldier, may feel strange here with us, but buck up, Company "A" is about the bet Company in the Regiment, there is nothing to fear, all we want you to do, is: do your best at every thing you are given to do, and we will assure you that we will do ours. Our Company commander is from Tennessee, and when you appear before him you must be right, because the last three letters in his State's name is what he uses to find who you are. He is a fine officer, when he thinks you are right. But, oh boy if he thinks you are wrong, I'm sorry! so, if you can't be good, be careful.

COLONEL LEMLEY IS HERE FOR NEW COMMAND

(Continued from page 1)

30, 1884. He was appointed a second lieutenant of infantry, regular army, on February 13, 1907, was promoted to first lieutenant September 27, 1911, to captain July 7, 1916; to major July 1, 1920, and to his present rank of lieutenant colonel, on September 1, 1930.

He is a graduate of the Army School of the Line, class of 1922, of the General Staff College, class of 1923; and of the Army War College, class of 1924, and is a member of the general staff corps eligible list.

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

for LENT

The Grocery Department has a variety of Lenten foods and vegetables.

GROCERY DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GA.
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

Aren't You Tired

of that "sameness" in the taste of Pork Sausage? For a tang that causes you to reach for more, try "OLD SETTLER'S Pork Sausage". Made from spiced porkers under surveillance of Uncle Sam. He regulates our manufacturing all the time, and the banks only once in a lifetime. "OLD SETTLER'S Pork Sausage" is regulated daily.

The Provision Co., Inc.

You'll Get Quick Energy from

Tom's
TOASTED PEANUTS

The Greatest Contest In The History Of The Confection World

Tom's is offering a New 1933 Chevrolet. One to be given away every two weeks!
See cards on every Tom's Display Jar.

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

Since the opening of the tactical ewe hunting season, this column has been bombarded with questions by diligent students of the military art. Space does not permit answers to all the interrogations propounded, the Great Dissenter Dill alone having forwarded fourteen questions. We are pleased to announce, however, that the First Section graciously has consented to furnish retorts to certain selected inquiries. We feel certain that the answers listed below will serve greatly to simplify the mental labors of Advanced Class students during the last few months of the scholastic year.

Q. "When should 'Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion' read his map?"—Wm. L. Brown.

A. "Constantly, continuously, invariably, and perpetually! We cannot be too emphatic on this point. He should be born reading his map, and go into retirement with his map in his hand. If he has no map, he must draw one to read. If he cannot draw or read or both a map, he must have his S-3 draw or read or both a map for him. In peace and in war, he must read his map. Under the hot breath of a 77 m.m., he must read his map. In one word, the answer is—ALWAYS. The only exception to this rule is that on the approved solutions to marked problems, 'Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion' does not read his map."

Q. "What is the correct technical term for filling a balloon with air or with whatever a balloon is filled?"—George L. Ramsey.

A. "After hasty examination of the solutions to the marked problem on division aviation, The First Section is prepared to approve the use of any of the following terms: raise, inflate, expand, enlarge, dilate, distend, blow-up, fill-up, enlarge-up, and puff-up."

Q. "My mission as a Blue commander is to drive the Reds to the southwest and destroy them. How can I accomplish this mission by moving to the southeast and sneaking by their combat groups?"—Fay Ross.

A. "It's all so simple. Place your self in the position of the Red commander. You know that an overwhelming Blue force is about to fall upon you. You expect to be destroyed. You have paid your last insurance premium, written your last letter to the wife and kiddies. The Blue commander double crosses you by completely ignoring your combat groups. Imagine your embarrassment, your disgust, your chagrin! You are thoroughly mortified. You have lost face, so to speak. Therefore, you indulge in hari-kari, your loyal soldiers doing likewise. You and your command being no more, the Blue commander has accomplished his mission without bloodshed. Now, isn't that simple?"

Q. "I had been led to believe that an interior battalion never attacks in column of companies. A potential loss of tactical chastity causes me to question this belief. What is the answer, please?"—L. J. I. Barrett.

A. "For heaven's sake! Does that answer your question, Major?"

Q. "Just what does THE School mean by 'attacking in column of companies?' "—Wm. (Wild Bill) Andrew Smith.

A. "Your question can best be answered through use of historical example. 'Tis the morning of 24 April. Daylight is at 5:23 a. m., and there are no road restrictions. The 1st Battalion, 1st Infantry (with one plat. how. co. attached) awaits the red rocket signal for the attack. It's a cold, grim morn and the weather forecast calls for a full moon at 11:20 p. m. The soldiers have had a hot breakfast and the 1st Battalion, 1st Field Artillery, will support the attack from positions in the vicinity of the draw 600 yards southeast of R. J. 123. Major Modesto E. Rodriguez is commanding the battalion. Company "A" is on detached service at New Oxford. Company "B" has not yet left Chilkoot Barracks. What does Major Rodriguez do? This being a marked problem, the major does not read his map. He attacks in column of companies, Company "C" in assault! In other words, this Section holds that whenever a unit is attacking alone, that unit is attacking in column. If one unit were actually following another, that would be something else again—just what we are not sure. You will have no trouble getting this matter cleared up, if you will always remember that a column of squads means one squad acting alone. And don't ask any more foolish questions!"

Q. "The regimental commander has been lost since 1:00 p. m.; the executive officer has gone back to the field train bivouac to look for his bedding roll; S-1, S-2, S-3, and S-4 (all mounted) are acting as messenger boys; the radio and telephone do not work; two regiments of Red fast tanks attack our right (south) flank; I am assistant S-3; I am very upset. Will you be so good as to give me a detailed offical expression as to just what I should do at this crucial time? I thank you."—Rip Rippetoe.

A. "Obviously! Obviously!"

—Submerged Old Sleuth

The Chesterfield FORMULA—what is it?

The formulas and processes which make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette are secret—to prevent others from copying them

If every person knew the method and processes of tanning leather, it would be of interest; but what people want to know is: Is it a good shoe? Is it comfortable? Will it wear longer? Is the price right?

So it is with Chesterfield Cigarettes. If smokers, men and women, knew all of the formulas and processes of manufacture, it would be of interest to them; but what smokers really want is the result.

Everything that goes into Chesterfield Cigarettes is as good as money can buy.

Every process has in it all that science knows about cigarette manufacture.

The formulas are secret to prevent others from copying them. The mildness and the better taste you may prove for yourself. May we ask you to try Chesterfield?

They Satisfy—people know it

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1933 — NUMBER 49

TOWN TOPICS

The Infantry School Dramatic Club scored again with "The Road to Rome," almost unanimously accepted as the best play ever produced at Fort Benning. The costumes and scenery were little short of magnificent and succeeded in flavoring the comedy with an atmosphere of reality. Those who attended either one of the two showings just to see officers in Uncle Sam's army make fools of themselves in Roman togas or Carthaginian armor were heartily disappointed. Every member of the cast of twenty-four portrayed his or her role so effectively that the quite understandable scepticism of the audience at the outset soon underwent a rapid change and became admiration.

When the curtain rose for the first time on the impressive scene laid in a Roman atrium, the spectators could not refrain from a gasp or two. Thereafter the play soon resolved itself into a succession of gasps. One pompous gentleman seated near us gasped regularly at the rate of about one per three minutes until we began to wonder whether he was afflicted with asthma. He gasped at everything from the costumes and scenery to the delightfully risque lines that seasoned the play from beginning to end.

Thetis Whitley, as Amytis, was the personification of grace and charm. She found her way into the hearts of her audience, and, after that, what more remains to be said? For one of the best bits of amateur acting it has ever been our pleasure to see, Amytis, we extend our congratulations.

Capt. Mark Brislawn, as Hannibal, was all that our imaginations conjured up the Carthaginian military genius to be. His polished and restrained acting was beyond a shadow of a doubt one of the highlights of the play.

It would be impossible for us to distribute bouquets to every member of the cast. We have mentioned two already; we might easily mention twenty-two others, but the play is reviewed elsewhere in this issue and repetition would add no fresh laurels to their brows. So we will merely content ourselves with congratulating the whole cast for a superb performance.

And last but certainly not least comes the triumvirate that directed "The Road to Rome." Just as a football coach is largely responsible for the success of his team, so a director is largely responsible for the success of his play. The record attendance at both showings and the spirit in which the play has been received from every quarter is ample indication that the labors of the trio bore fruit in abundance.

* * *

We are not on speaking terms with the proof reader or linotype operator who was responsible for mutilating our column last week. Adverbs were transformed into adjectives with reckless abandon and even mislaid; somebody invented a "hapless city"; sentences were left out to appear in strange places; and the whole column read like a chapter out of Henry Shute's "The Diary of a Real Boy."

We would like to take this opportunity to assure our readers that we do at least possess a modicum of literacy despite the apparent desire of somebody to pass us off as an incorrigible moron.

Marking the End of the Dry Era

This picture marks another milestone in American history. It shows President Roosevelt signing the Cullen bill legalizing the manufacture, saleand consumption of 3.2 beer and wine effective April 7th. Left to right are Rep. Parsons of Ill., Rep. McCormack of Mass., the Clerk of the House of Representatives. President Roosevelt, Rep. O'Connor of N. Y., Rep. Cullen of N. Y. and Rep. Sabath of Ill.

Brilliant Hit Signals End Of Dramatic Season

* * * * * * * * *

Large Cast Gives Highly Interesting Performance Of Play By R. E. Sherwood "THE ROAD TO ROME"

The reviewers of the average amateur show should be ever mindful of some remarks by Dr. Samuel Johnson anent criticism. He was called upon to admire the performance of a pet poodle walking on its hind legs. "Does he not walk well on his hind legs?" said the enthusiastic friend. "Madam," said Dr. Johnson, "It is not how well a poodle can walk upon his hind legs; it is how remarkable that he can walk upon his hind legs at all!"

"The Road to Rome" is, happily, not in this category. I am thankful to be able to forego restraint, tact, flattery, or polite consideration for the work of others. This play was done so well as to be judged on its merits, rather than on its excellent intentions.

At the very outset, I must have a tribute to the staging. Two beautiful sets were presented, The first act showed the atrium of an aristocratic Roman household, dignified and sparing of ornament, but beautiful in design and balance. The second act contrasted sharply in color and barbaric splendor. Here tent like draperies of crimson velvet suspended over massive white columns, formed a rich background for the crimson and black furniture, carved chests, brass work and other furnishings of a military chieftan's field headquarters, lavishly represented.

The directing, which was handled by a triumvirate composed of Mrs. Wadsworth, Colonel Rice, and Major Harding, was careful, studied and intelligent, and the actors were painstaking and faithful in carrying out

(Please turn to page 2)

Several Officers At Post Assigned To Tank Class

A number of officers now enrolled as students in the advanced and company officers' classes of the Infantry School have been designated as students to attend the tank course of the Infantry School during the 1933-1934 academic year commencing in September next, according to a radio message received at Headquarters the Infantry School from the chief of infantry.

Those who have received the detail to the tank course are: Captains Paul D. Connor, Raymond O. Miller, David H. Ross, Harvey H. Smith, Chester C. Westfall, and William B. Catron; and Lieutenants Frank C. Bowen, James C. Fay, Frances E. Howard, Wendell G. Johnson, Lincoln Jones, Jr., Henry Kiel, Otis McCormick, Richard T. Mitchell, Cleland C. Sibley, Richard U. Thomas, Howard W. Uhrbrock, Edwin J. Van Horne, Russell Blair, and Willis S. Mathews.

Other War Department orders announce the assignment of Lieutenant Maurice W. Jennings, Chemical Warfare Service, at present a student in the advanced course of the Infantry School to the 2d Chemical Regiment at Fort Benning, upon the conclusion of his present course of instruction. Previous orders which assigned Lieutenant Louis R. Delmonico to Fort Benning have been amended so as to assign him to the 30th Infantry, Presidio of San Francisco, instead.

Annual Maneuvers Scheduled Here Are Called Off

Orders received from Major General Edward L. King, commanding officer of the Fourth Corps Area, cancelled the annual concentration maneuvers which are held at Fort Benning each year. Orders from Washington to General King were the immediate cause of the action of the corps area commander.

As usual the Fort Screven troops had already started on their trip to Fort Benning and had proceeded as far as Macon on their journey when they received the order which sent them to their home post again. The First Battalion, 8th Infantry, from that post customarily is assigned the job of preparing the concentration camp for the soldiers from other posts.

A statement from the Corps Area Headquarters gives the proposed use of the soldiers in the employment relief plan as the reason for the cancellation of the maneuvers, which are among the most important features of the training course scheduled here, since they give the students several days of actual work in the field and under almost actual war conditions. The relief plan, which calls for reforestation of large areas of barren acreage by armies of "civilian-soldiers" would require the use of enlisted men of the Army for various phases of the work. The 97,000 acres of government owned land which comprise the Fort Benning reservation, would, in addition, probably offer ideal conditions to carry

(Please turn to page 12)

General Fuqua To Remain As Chief Of Inf. Until May

Infantry activities of the army will be supervised by Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry, until May 3, 1933, according to a radio message received at Headquarters, the Infantry School on Friday morning. When General Fuqua visited Fort Benning a few days ago, it was thought that his inspections made at that time would be his last as chief of infantry, as at that time it was believed that his four year tour ot service as head of the army's largest combatant arm was due to terminate on March 27, as General Fuqua was nominated for appointment as chief of infantry on March 28, 1929. A War Department decision just made announces that the four year term of the detail will be computed from the date of the senate's confirmation of General Fuqua's nomination, which will have the effect of extending his service as chief of infantry until May 6, 1933.

Red Forces Elude Blues And Take Post In Maneuver

Demonstrating the rapidity with which motorized troop units can maneuver, the Second Battalion 29th Infantry, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Elmer F. Rice, and representing an invading Red Force, eluded its opponents, a Blue Force represented by the First Battalion, 29th Infantry, equipped with animal drawn transportation, and commanded by Major John W. Foos, and succeeded in capturing it theoretically, at Ft. Benning, in a two-battalion overnight maneuver on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Blue force, which was endeavoring to intercept the Reds on their march toward their objective, was delayed by a feint made by a small covering force of Reds, consisting of a rifle company and a machine gun platoon, in the vicinity of Harmony church, while the attention of the Blues was held by the small detachment of Reds, the main body of the invaders proceeded quickly by motor transportation to their objective in Fort Benning, completely out-maneuvering and evading the observation and reconnaissance of the slower moving Blues.

At two o'clock Wednesday morning the Blue force began moving toward the post to eject its captors, who retired before its several energetic attacks. The Blues had penetrated to David Hill when the maneuver was called off by Colonel William F. Persons, regimental commander and chief umpire.

According to officers participating in the maneuver, one of the highlights of the instruction was the demonstration o fthe capability of the light trucks to maneuver over difficult roads and trails whose normally poor condition was aggravated by recent rains.

Actors Give Brilliant Performance

(Continued From Page 1)

the directors' ideas. There was a prevailing spirit over the entire cast that made a finished performance easily predictable at the time when this reviewer began crashing in at rehearsals. It was most interesting to watch the moulding and shaping, the thousand and one niceties of detail that were polished and re-polished. From the bugle calls and the drums in the distance to the smooth movements of Bala serving the table, everything was finely coordinated to make this difficult play the artistic performance that it was.

The play is delightful, though it suffers a trifle from the tendency to be wordy. There is an aura of doctrine and propaganda but Robert Sherwood handles this much less obviously than Shaw, for instance. Precepts and moral lesson are nicely sugar coated, or concealed in canapes with wit for caviar. While the arthor preaches against war, he indirectly delivers a far more effective sermon against smugness!

The play was first presented by Jane Cowl, Phillip Merivale and a strong supporting cast several years ago. A good many of the Benning audience saw the try-out performances in Washington, D. C. The play are omitted in the printed edition. then had some pungent lines which Our Dramatic Club made a few furthere deletions, and the play emerged last Friday and Saturday evenings, a trifle less Rabelaisian in places, but devoid of none of its essential wit and sophistication. Nothing was lost in significance and much was gained in subtlety by the alterations.

The device of putting characters in togas and armor, and letting them talk in current vernacular was popularized by John Erskine in "Helen of Troy." In "The Road to Rome" our audience was especially amused by the military aspects. In fact, it seems to me, we "got" the implications and the satire more satisfactorily than did the Washington audience.

The casting was a triumph of selection and discrimination. Thetis Whitley, as Amytis, was a thrill and a surprise to everyone who saw the play. When we recall that it took no little persuasion from the directors to prevail upon her to accept the part, that she has had little dramatic experience, and doubted her own ability to carry the role, we are at once enchanted with her modesty and impressed by the keen perception of the directors.

Mrs. Whitley had everything the role required—youth, beauty, and a buoyant grace of movement. It takes a poet to do justice to such things, but to see someone walk as Mrs. Whitley does, is to visualize some lovely myth of ancient Greece. She has a clear and attractively cadenced voice, which practice and training would deepen, perhaps, but could not make more charming. She made Amytis a more lovable young person than Jane Cowl's Amytis, who was entirely sophisticated and designing. At the point in the play where Amytis drops the frivolous hero worship of Hannibal, the legendary figure, and becomes whole heartedly in love with Hannibal, the man and the dremaer, Mrs. Whitley was poignant and moving. There was one difficulty about her acting, however. One could not look elsewhere when she was on the stage; she did not dominate, but she was utterly irresistible!

Colonel Kelley was an excellent choice for Fabius Maximus, in that he had a background of historical reading and an intellectual conception of the role to build upon. It was no easy task for Colonel Kelley to transform himself into a pompous, priggish old fogey like Robert Sherwood's Fabius. All the lines in his face bespeak geniality and humor and the inextinguishable twinkle in his eye could never be hidden by make-up. He made a grand old Roman dictator, bombastic and grandiose, but one had a feeling he might have lighter moments, when out with the boys a feeling that perhaps, on occasion, he might join in singing the Roman equivalent of "Sweet Adeline." Colonel Kelley gave a distinguished and finely sustained performance.

Martha Watkins, as Fabia, the mother of Fabius, depicted the stern Roman matron in a manner which left nothing to be desired. Mrs. Watkins' Fabia was an active old busybody with no sign of age upon her spirit at least and her nose in everybodys' business. For a young woman to portray so effectively a woman of seventy-three is evidence of real talent.

Lieutenant Farris and Anne Vermette played the parts of Varius and Meta, household slaves. Mrs. Vermette is one of our most accomplished actresses. I understand she substituted at a late hour in rehearsals, and it bears out my theory that an exceptionally fine spirit prevails in the Dramatic Club, for she invested this minor role with her talent and ability, giving Meta an appealing grace and simplicity. Varius, in the second act, displayed considerable dramatic force, and was excellent throughout. Albert Persons was another household servant—a small part faithfully performed.

The part of Scipio as played by Lieutenant Malin Craig was another of the exciting surprises, a revelation of genuine dramatic ability. It could not have been better done and I hope to see Lieutenant Craig in another and biggr role. He was electric with intensity, and one forgave him his hatred of the lovely Amytis, for he made his loyal Roman warrior so admirable and heroic. Bravo! Lieutenant Craig.

Colonel Weeks, Colonel Wallace, and Captain May played Tibullus, Sertorius and Drusus with fervor. If everyone, in every play, handled the small parts with the fidelity to character that prevailed in "The Road to Rome," amateur shows would not be classed with Dr. Johnson's poodle.

The second act brought forth the remaining characters, twenty-four in all. A breath-taking spectacle was presented as the curtain went up on the guard inspection. Helmets and

"Seventy thousand Romans lay dead on the field of Cannae"
From left to right Scipio (Lieutenant Malin Craig), Fabia (Martha Watkins), Fabius (Colonel R. H. Kelley), Meta (Anne Vermette), Varius (Lieutenant Glenn A. Farris), Amytis (Thetis Whitley).

bugles sounded off stage. The Sergeant, Captain Halloran, the Corporal, Capain Funk, and five Guardsmen, Captain Chance, Captain Crim, Lieutenant Duffner, Lieutenant Luckett and Lieutenant Fitzgibbons, were a riot in a typical soldier scene, complete with wise-cracks and true-to-type mannerisms. Captain Halloran displayed a marvellous parade voice and carried off his part in a manner which brought him a well-deserved hand on his exit. The story of Mago and the expectant mother elephant, as related by Captain Chance, was another bit of clever acting. Meanwhile, Captain Gaillard, as Thotmes, the Egyptian scribe, quietly jotted down his historical notes and made mild replies to the guardsmen's jibes. Another small part well done. The dialogue throughout this scene brought forth a continuous accompaniment of chuckles from the audience indicating that the comedy here was

"Yes, I am going to die—but not until tomorrow"
Amytis (Thetis Whitley) and Hannibal (Capt. Brislaun)

Captain Sargent, as Hasdrubal, was a fire-eating, blood-drinking, blustering cavalryman, whose temperature rose at the mere sight of a private soldier. His was some of the most impressive acting in the play. He was magnificently cast and added greatly to the professional quality of the whole production.

Major Gilchrist and Major Heileman were serious, businesslike and effective in their roles of Carthalo and Marharbal—although much milder than Hasdrubal, as befitted mere infantrymen. The two of them combined were barely a match for the burly thundering commander of the famed Numidian horse.

Lieutenant Storck had a useful role as the Nubian slave, Bala, and displayed a gorgeous physique and nonchalant self-possession in a minute amount of leopard skin and vast areas of well blacked epidermis.

Hannibal's young and irrepressible mous elephants, was a prize fat role entrusted to Lieutenant Lyman Munson, whom I liked better than the Mago in Jane Cowl's company. Lieutenant Munson had comedy sense, complete savior faire, and a delightfully ingenuous personality in this part. He seemed to gauge expertly the reactions of a youth trying to act the man of the world. Lieutenant Munson has an instinctive sense of timing, which is a subtle thing and hard for amateurs to acquire.

Last of all we come to Hannibal, as he was last to appear on the stage. Here again, the astute directors made a find. They had the proper conception of the Hannibal Robert Sherwood visualized—not a powerful figure of masculine brawn and vigor, but an intellectual type, with a sensitive face, a faraway rapt expression at times, drivn by an inward fire of self dedication rather than by the relentlessness of sheer muscular activity and physical courage. In all this, Captain Brislawn was ideal for the part, and in addition, he displayed fine poise, and good speaking voice with subtle inflections. He made his Hannibal imaginative and quizzically humorous. His scenes with Amytis were polished and expert—even the ardent love scenes betrayed no hint of the customary ineptness and self-conscious constraint of the amateur. He had the complete naturalness of demeanor that conceals the actor while proving the actor's ability. If this sounds paradoxical, it is nevertheless the true actor's hall mark.

No review of this most elaborate production would be complete without a word as to the gorgeous costumes imported from Hollywood. The gowns worn by Amytis were beautiful, the togas of the senators were almost imperial in their splendor and the wealth of arms and armor on display in the warlike ensembles of the third act was mute and impressive testimony of the Carthaginian military power that lay camped before the gates of Rome. Costume Mistress Pearl Golightly must have had a busy time indeed in sorting, adjusting and arranging this unfamiliar raiment to insure the brilliantly colorful effects which distinguish this play.

Nor should we forget to give deserved credit to Burtram Pierce for assembling—at considerable expenditure of time and effort—the appropriate stage properties which fitted so well against the backgroud of Captain Bell's sets. As for the wierd and thrilling musical effects achieved by Lieutenant Pierce and his 24th Infantry musicians, I am sure the Carthaginian trumpet calls and the throb of the African war drums are still ringing in the ears of the audience!

It may be discerned that this reviewer is enthusiastic, and this reviewer cheerfully admits it! I am enthusiastic not only over the talent, grace and charm of Amytis, the dignity of Hannibal, and the insouciance of Mago, but also over the seriousness, and the well sustained effort involved in this play. It represents the work of many hands. The directors, the cast, the stage and property managers, the electricians, the 29th Infantry orchestra, the 24th Infantry musicians, all contributed invaluable components in making up this new high mark in play giving. Everything from the striking program cover by Lieutenant Lundquist to the last drum-beat bespoke careful planning and intelligent cooperation.

I admire people who can make such good use of their limited leisure time. It speaks highly for the intellectual and cultural standards of the Fort Benning community. Many there were who looked upon "The Road to Rome" as altogether too ambitious an undertaking for our Dramatic Club but the faith of the promoters was more than vindicated by the universally enthusiastic approval with which their spectacular and extremely well done offering was acclaimed.

—Mary. S. Tucker.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway
DIAMONDS--WATCHES AND JEWELRY

DRESSMAKING
Altering and remodeling a specialty. Draperies. Mrs. J. E. Stewart. Phone 457 R-2. 401 Yeager Ave. Block 18.

HQ. CO., SECOND BN.

Well, the Second Batts lost the Basketball championship to the First Batts, last year's champions. We can't be piggish, though; got to give the boys across the way a chance at something. We won the baseball, football, regimental track and swimming meet and the regimental baseball last season so we should worry about a little thing like a basketball —'sa girl's game anyway!

Cpl. Palmer is at present in the hospital and we wish him a speedy return to duty. Sgt. McSwain, after using ten bottles of Cue Ball Hair Tonic reports that his head is again full of shrubbery—seven hairs, to be exact. Mac is very peeved at Choppy Stragand for the success Choppy is having growing his mustache. Mac says it is funny that Choppy can have hair on his lip and head, too—and he can't even have a little on his head!

Cpl. Bill Parker, our Battalion Stenog, has just returned from a furlough spent up through Illinois and Missouri. The house detective reports that Bill is spending most of his time at the Post Office since his return—must be some attraction up in Illinois, Bill? Who is she?

W. C. P., Jr.

COMPANY "C"

Well; Well; Here we are back to the highlights of publicity once more. After a short period of obscurity we are once again emerging back to the eyes of the public, where we may be seen and heard of occasionally.

Our most eminent writer of bygone days had forsaken us for peace quiet and tranquility, so another writer has been summoned from the Staff of this most efficient organization with a view of promoting publicity, most deserving, to the different activities within the Company.

The retirement from news writing of Sergeant Robert J. Reaves, closes a most brilliant, and colorful, career of one who has contributed to the promotion of Public Relations between this organization and other Units on the Post. To him we are most grateful for the service that he has contributed so freely, and we all hope that some day he may be a staff writer on some big Metropolitan Newspaper; a position so well deserving.

Our Company Base Ball promoter, Private Edmond Ragsdale, (the working girl's friend), has just informed the writer that he just completed a preliminary investigation of Base Ball prospects within the company. He predicts a very successful season for this organization's team; with the news that we still have good material left, with a few good additions since last season.

Man I'm Telling You; the basketball team of this organization is gaining quite a prominent place in the sport-light very rapidly, and without any obstacles either. Better known as the "Flying Five," the company team has won quite a number of games from various teams recently. Some of the games that have been played in the past few weeks were with the Boys' Club of Columbus, Georgia, with a score to our favor of 41 to 38; another with the Y. M. C. A., Co. C, making an enviable score of 55 to 28; and with Company "E," 29th Infantry last week, leaving them so far behind that Company "C" quit counting the score after reaching a score of 55 to their 18.

So far, the "Flying Five" stands with 32 games won and 6 lost. A most enviable record, I should say. And if any team thinks that they are more dominant on the basketball court, just get in touch with our team captain, Pvt. Jack P. Able, for a showdown game. We challenge them all, with no exceptions. Au Revoir.

—Edward F. Daigle.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

We had a battalion elimination track meet yesterday and the following men made a good showing for the company.

Corp. Hayes tied for the third place in the high jump.

Cameron placed 4th in the 440.

Walton made 2nd in the 440.

Holt got 3rd place in the 220.

Maden got 4th place in the 220.

The Company is going out for baseball, Monday evening, March 28, 1933. We are expecting to make a good showing this year as we have three veteran stars of last year, Sgt. LaBonte, Corp. Easley and Corporal Walton (Babe Ruth).

Corp. John Walton (better known as Steve O. John and Babe Ruth) won about 15 packages of cigarettes on the Steven O. Machine, on Monday. He is some lucky boy but it cost him about $7.00 or $8.00.

Our Top Kick "Houghtby" is of the belief that we all get a fifteen percent cut in our pay next month, and no pay for promotions during the year. He is hoping that the Comptroller General at Washington will decide in our favor all that is possible.

Our bowling team, headed by Sgt. Labonte, lost a hard fought series at the bowling alleys this week. The Second Battalion Team bowled some of the best games that they ever bowled at the Bowling Alleys to beat us.

They came within two points of tying the post record for high team score, for the games played on this Monday evening.

Sergeant Willie Harrison is still waiting for his promotion. We hope he gets it before April 1, 1933 so that he can get a raise in pay as well as in promotion.

We are all glad to know that Corporal Funk our drum major has been promoted to the grade of Sergeant and that Pvt. 1cl. T. H. Walton has been promoted to the grade of Corporal. We are also glad that they are getting the lucky break by being promoted before April 1, 1933, when he frozen promotions in pay are effective.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

It Won't Be Long

. . . 'til you'll be wanting to keep cool in a pleasant way, and when that time gets here, we recommend Foremost, the best, most delicious and most refreshing ice cream.

Call the

SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

Now That It's SPRING!

WE INVITE YOU TO MAKE YOUR OUTDOOR FURNITURE SELECTIONS HERE

GLIDERS

All-steel glider, ball-bearing hangers, coil spring construction, 3 cushion seat and back, Permatex water-proof covering ..... $32.50

All-steel frame, ball-bearing hangers, inside arms, adjustable back, 3 cushions..... $23.50

All-steel frame, ball-bearing hangers, inside arms, beautiful selection of covers..... $16.00

UMBRELLAS ..... $21.00

TABLES ..... $8.50

FOLDING STEEL CHAIRS upholstered in Fastex..... $4.00

ALL STEEL GARDEN CHAIRS..... $8.00

COCKTAIL TABLES ..... $4.00

Maxwell Bros & McDonald FURNITURE

1141 BROADWAY

STANDARD SILVERWARE

AT THE Lowest Prices AND ON Easy Payment Plan

Supply your wants while the market is low. A rise in silver is predicted soon.

We are agents for Kirk, Gorham, Towle, Wallace, Reed & Barton and International Silver.

REPAIR WORK A SPECIALTY

C. Schomburg & Son

1121 Broadway

COLUMBUS, GA.

NOW!

dress for

EASTER!

Smart Showing Of:

Kuppenheimer

Varsity Town

Dobbs

Manhattan

McGregor

Resilio, Etc.

ALL NATIONALLY KNOWN BRANDS

The New Styles Are Here

Visit Our Boy's Shop

Hofflin & Greentree

Columbus' Leading Clothiers

ESTABLISHED 1888

Miniature Country Estates

1-Acre — 2-Acres — 5-Acres

IN EAST EDGEWOOD

Woodland tracts, rolling ground, level ground, a spring, branch, creek—almost any kind of country place you want.

Waterworks water at $3.00 per quarter available to most of these lots. City lights.

Prices right. — Terms to suit.

EDGE & ARMOUR, Inc.

No. 9 - 12th STREET PHONE 66

F. W. ARMOUR - - Salesmen - - I. HERMANN

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Engagement Of Miss Phyllis Sargent And Lt. William B. Moore Announced

Centering the interest of society throughout Army and civilian circles is the announcement on Saturday of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Phyllis Sargent to Lieut. William Barnes Moore. Miss Sargent, the only daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Charles R. Sargent, is one of the lovliest and most popular debutantes of Fort Benning and of Columbus. While she has been at Fort Benning she has taken a prominent part in the social, dramatic and athletic activities on the Post. She attended college at the Connecticut State College at Storrs, Connecticut. Miss Sargent is descended both on her paternal and maternal sides from California's most distinguished pioneer stock, her mother having been formerly Bernice Brooks of Son Francisco. Lieut. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boling Moore of Milledgeville, Georgia. He is descended from one of this state's distinguished families. iLeut. Moore has been stationed at Fort Benning since his graduation from the United States Military Academy in 1932. Plans for the wedding have not yet been completed.

* * *

MARRIAGE OF MISS TRULOCK TO LIEUT. McNULTY MARKED BY LOVELY CHURCH WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Elma Trulock to Lieut. William A. McNulty which was solemnized last Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock took place at the First Baptist Church before a large assembly of relatives and friends. Dr. Frederick S. Porter officiated. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, the altar being banked by ferns and flanked by tall altar-baskets filled with Easter lilies and white gladioli. Soft white candles burned in silver candelabra.

As the wedding party proceeded down the aisle, Miss Lucille Autrey played a program of nuptial music while Mr. John Henderson rendered several vocal numbers. Lieut. McNulty had for his best men Lieut. Dan Gilmer and Lieut. James B. Woolnough, while the ushers were Capt. Morris B. DePass, Jr., Lieut. James M. Churchill, Jr., Lieut. Richard H. Smith and Mr. Albert Laney. The bridesmaids were Miss Jane McEwen and Miss Natilu McKenny, They were gowned alike in lovely yellow crepe tea gowns with large puff sleeves. They wore small yellow turbans with accessories to match and carried bouquets of pink sweethart roses. Miss Ermine Trulock, the sistr of the bride, was the maid of honor. Her gown was turquoise blue crepe fashioned along the newest lines with large puff sleeves and ankle length skirt. Her hat and accessories were blue while she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The young bride who entered on the arm of her brother, Thornwell Trulock, was beautiful in her bridal gown of beige crepe fashioned floor length with long puff sleeves. She wore a close fitting beige crepe hat and carried a lovely shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Immediately after the ceremony, Mrs. Thornwell Trulock, mother of the bride, entertained with an informal reception. She was gowned in blue crepe with accessories to match. She wore a corsage of pink sweet peas. The bridal couple left during the afternoon for a few weeks wedding trip after which they will be at home at Fort Benning.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT OF ENGAGEMENT OF MISS MARY KLINE TO LIEUT. JOHNSTON MADE

Of widespread interest throughout Army and civilian circles is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Olivia Kline of Columbus to Lieut. Robert Daniel Johnston. Their wedding will be an event of the late Spring. The charming bride-elect is a popular member of the younger set of Columbus. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson Kline and is connected on both sides with prominent Southern families. Lieut. Johnston is the son of Mrs. Daniel L. Johnston and the late Mr. Johnston of Bristol, Tennessee. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy in the class of 1931 and graduating. has served in the 29th Infantry since

* * *

OFFICERS CLUB HOLDS WEEKLY SUPPER DANCE

Among the interesting events of the week was the supper dance Thursday evening which was sponsored by the Officers' Club. Supper and dancing were begun at eight and dancing continued until ten thirty, the 29th Infantry orchestra furnishing the music. A large number of reservations were made, among those entertaining were: Capt. and Mrs. Oliver E. G. Trechter, Capt. and Mrs. Kearie L. Berry, Capt. and Mrs. Severne S. McLaughlin, Capt. and Mrs. James C. Horne, Lieut. and Mrs. Carl E. Anderson, Lieut. and Mrs. Carlisle B. Irwin, Lieut. and Mrs. Julian E. Raymond, Lieut. and Mrs. Robert T. Foster, Lieut. and Mrs. Andrew J. Evans and Lieut. Richard H. Smith.

* * *

POLO HUNT TEA HELD SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT POLO HUNT CLUB

The Fort Benning Polo Association and The Infantry School Hunt were the joint hosts at tea from four to six Sunday afternoon at the Polo Hunt Club following the polo games and the drag hunt. Tea was served on the lawn of the Club bordering the polo field. The guests included all the officers of the Post and their friends. Pouring tea were Mesdames Archibald V. Arnold, Sereno E. Brett and John B. Thompson.

(Please turn to page 5)

Today's Fashion

An attractive lace frock.

By VERA WINSTON

One of our correspondents, who describes herself as a smart, middle-aged matron, wants ideas for a frock to wear at an afternoon wedding. We can think of nothing more beautiful and suitable than a lovely frock of lace, ideal for the more mature figure, and indeed lovely for any woman, young or old.

A lace frock has so many uses, too, as it can be worn through the seasons, whenever the occasion calls for a simple or an elaborate frock.

The model here pictured is certainly one of the most attractive frocks we have seen for many a day and we cordially recommend it to our inquiring reader, as the ideal frock for her to wear at the wedding. It is of fine black lace in a chantilly pattern with a top of flesh toned lace in the same pattern. The cape which has a shirred yoke is also of flesh lace. This lace is tinged with yellow of the tearose tint, a very becoming shade, for the older woman. The cape has two flowers, one of black, the other of the flesh lace.

ROSENBERG'S—

VERY SPECIAL

Just Received a Shipment of GENUINE ROCK CRYSTAL GLASS

Only 59c Each

Regular $1.25 Value Choice of Goblets—Ice Teas

Comports—Finger Bowls
Ginger Ale Glasses

Max Rosenberg Co.
1145 Broadway

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Permanent Waves

Eugene Waves ..... $5.00
Oil Waves ..... $3.00

The Beauty Salon

MRS. RUSHING, Mgr.
207 Dr. Bldg. Phone 3761

DOLAN - HENRY HAT SHOP
AT ALSOBROOK'S

Fashion Favorites—Marvelously New And Refreshingly Different—They Are Distinctively Better Than Any You've Seen Yet—Prices from $1.95 to $10.00.

Fort Benning charge accounts solicited.

SPRING WEAR:

SILK SLIPS
Guaranteed seam pruf $1.95
GIRDLES
Two-Way Stretch
$2.50 — $3.75 — $5.00
COMBINATIONS
With Two-Way Stretch Backs—Bone Fronts
ALL FITTED

LADY JANE SHOP
12 - 12TH STREET

Delightful meals become much easier to prepare when one has a varied stock to select from. The Grocery Department has a complete stock of lenten foods and vegetables.

GROCERY DEPT.
POST EXCHANGE
FT. BENNING GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service.

PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES
at
SPECIALLY REDUCED PRICES

MargaretHarrison
Studio Shoppe
(At Rosenberg's)

Walkover 1933 Cabana

The Shoe Of A Thousand Perforations

$8.50

SHOWN IN:

Caroson Kid
Black Kid
Blue Kid
White Kid

This is an exclusive pattern with Walkovers. To appreciate it you must see it on the foot.

All Sizes. Widths AAAA to B's.

Miller-Taylor Shoe Co.

For Quality And Service

1130 Broadway Phone 2405

Girl Scout Group Has Meeting At Matchett Home

The Girl Scout community committee convened at the home of Mrs. Henry J. Matchett a week ago Thursday. Mrs. T. W. Brown elaborated on the purpose of a community committee and assigned duties to the following members: Mrs. A. V. Arnold, riding activities; Mrs. J. De Camp Hall, overnight camping; Mrs. J. B. Woolnough, tree finder badge; Mrs. T. B. Catron, summer camps; Mrs. C. W. Weeks, junior citizen badge; Mrs. J. W. Stilwell, child nurse; Mrs. Omer Bradley, Brownie chairman; Mrs. H. B. Lewis, transportation; Mrs. Lloyd Partridge, treasurer; Mrs. E. J. Lyman, publicity.

Interesting reports were given by Mrs. T. W. Brown, captain of Cardinal troop; Mrs. Paul Kellam, captain of Daffodil troop; Miss Nancy Stilwell, lieutenant of Pine Tree troop, and Miss Helen Shelton, Brown Owl of Brownie Pack, number 2. Mrs. C. H. Studebaker has been appointed Brown Owl of number one, Brownie Pack.

Mrs. Matchett, director of scouting, gave an account of the leader's training class which she conducted during the past season.

It was decided to hold a meeting of the Girl Scout community committee at the Girl Scout cabin on the third Thursday of each monh.

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, Mar. 28

At our meeting today some of the girls were taking Hostess from Mrs. Heileman, and some Athlete from Major Bradley, so inside the cabin there weren't very many left. Those that were worked on their First and Second Class tests. By the time they had finished, the Hostesses were through also, and then the fun began! We practiced some songs, and drilled on the Flag Ceremony. Now we know exactly how to do it, and we have our laws down pat.

Those signed up for the Pioneer badge are soon to have their dreams realized. A week from today, Pioneers!

Pine Tree Troop

After the Flag ceremony today we played "Ship," a compass game and "Post Office," a signalling game, until time for the Goodnight circle of which our most important songs were "Prophylactic Pup," "The Golden Sun" and "Taps."

Daffodil Troop

At our meeting of March 24th we went on a nature walk.

We went in patrols and you were to look for butter flies, wild flowers, flowering shrubs, trees and birds and the Patrol Secretary would write them down as you reported them to her. The walk ended at Amory Pool and it was discovered that Peggy Arnold's patrol had the most points, with Jerry Catron's patrol second, and Anne Kraft's third.

We had the good night circle on the Heileman's lawn after a very interesting meeting.

SOCIETY

(Continued from Page 4)

SPECIAL UNITS HOLD TREASURE HUNT

The officers and ladies of the Special Units were the hosts Tuesday evening at a novel treasure hunt. The guests assembled at eight at the quarters of Capt. and Mrs. Arthur H. Luse where they were formed into groups of four and given a series of clues to the "Treasure". The final clue led to the Quartermaster camp on the Upatoi where a late supper followed by dancing were enjoyed. About sixty persons attended the treasure hunt. The treasure was found by the team consisting of Lieut. William R. MacKinnin and Mrs. Charles W. Pence and Lieut. and Mrs. George P. Howell.

* * *

PAN HELLENIC MEETING HELD AT QUARTERS OF MRS. WATKINS

The Pan Hellenic Society held its monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at the attractive quarters of Mrs. Elliott Watkins on Zuckerman Avenue. The ladies assembled for bridge at two and played until four thirty when tea was served. The tea table was lovely with its lace cover and center piece of pink blossoms flanked by tapers of pink. Assisting the hostess were Mesdames Richard H. Baughman, Reeve D. Keiler, Dwight B. Rosebaum, and Edwin K. Wright.

HERALD WANT ADS

CLASSIFIED ADV. RATES:

20 cents per line or fraction of line. Minimum charge for any classified advertisement, 50 cents. Payment must be made before advertisement is published.

FOR SALE—White Persian Cat, Female. Phone City 2161.

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Woman's Club To Hear Hawaiian Program Monday

The April meeting of the Infantry School Woman's Club will be held on the afternoon of Monday, April 3rd at 2:15 at the Polo Hunt Club. A most beautiful and interesting program has been planned for this meeting and all members should avail themselves of the privilege of enjoying "An Afternoon in Hawaii" which will be presented by Mrs. Elbert J. Lyman.

Leading papers and magazines in New York have published stories of Hawaii by Mrs. Lyman and in order to gather authentic data and material for the writings she made an exhaustive study of the literature and folk lore of the islands at the University of Hawaii.

Assisting Mrs. Lyman in the presentation of this program, Barbara Moseley, wife of Lt. Eugene L. Moseley and Jean Westfall, daughter of Captain and Mrs. C. C. Westfall, will give several Hawaiian dances which will be interpretations of the dances when they were used as religious rites.

Another attractive feature of the afternoon will be the lovely Hawaiian music that will add greatly to the program. Mrs. Harry Reeder, Mrs. John J. Albright, Mrs. John A. Andrews and Mrs. Norman D. Cota will present the vocal numbers accompanied by Mrs. Raymond W. Pearson at the piano.

The hostesses for the aftrnoon will be Mrs. Thomas W. Brown and Mrs. Roger B. Harrison.

Tales Of The Tent City

Now that the rifle and pistol marksmanship course is over, we suppose Major Easley and Lieut. Peep are disappointed because they didn't have a chance to see the class fire the course in a hail storm. However, Lieut. Peep, the class turned out 100 per cent voluntary to fire the pistol course for record last Saturday, in that rain.

Three of our bunch are sporting black eyes. We know Hughie Roberts got his playing baseball. We feel certain that the horse Lynxwiler was aboard butted him in the eye. Pinky says he walked in to a door. Well, fellows, draw your own conclusions.

Our class advisors have been handing out some exceptionally fine counsel but Capt. Bloomquist's, "You don't want to stand in line with your girl in one hand and your money in the other", takes prize money, even if it was only a suggestion to buy your tickets for the Road to Rome early.

And while we are talking about the show, the members of the National Guard and Reserve Officers Class wish to add their congratulations to those of the other members of the Post, for the exceptionally fine presentation of last week's Dramatic Association.

We can always tell when the first really warm day of spring arrives. It's the day the striker gathers up all the old paper and other refuse and starts a roaring fire in the stove.

To the Commander of the Mexican Army and a few of his trusty braves: We refer them to that page in Garrison Regulations (page 24) dealing with uniform regulations and prescribing when cotton uniforms will be worn.

With the exception of a few meats which haven't quite appealed to our daintily educated palates, most of us believe that Lieut. Lightcap is to be complimented on the efficient way he is handling the mess at Biglerville. We do think that the gentlemanly thing to do if you don't like what you're getting to eat, is either register a complaint with the mess officer or make other arrangements. "Red speeches" delivered in the bath house are as distasteful as the scene of delivery.

Two colored privates were discussing the relative merits of their buglers.

"Why, man, dat bugler of mah reg'ment am so good dat when he plays 'Pay Day' it sounds zactly lak de sym-

(Please turn to page 7)

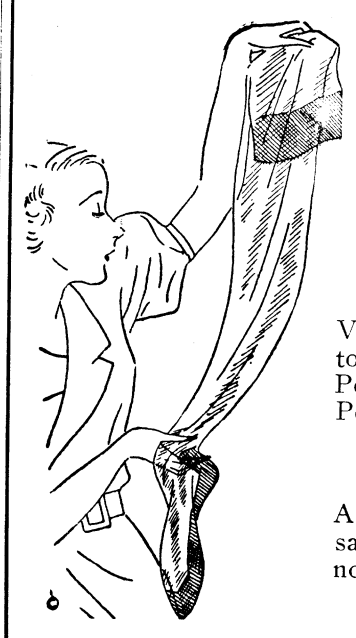
KIRVEN'S

SHEER CLEAR

HOSE

85c

Dovedown Ghost Chiffon



Very, very sheer. All silk from top to toe. Sunburn, Sungleam, Pebble, Chukker, Greylight, and Peter Pan shades.

Dovedown Chiffon

A beautiful chiffon hose in the same shades as the above but not quite so sheer.

69c

MAIN FLOOR

KIRVEN'S

KIRVEN'S

Smart Spring Accessories

Gloves

Washable Doeskin

Soft and beautiful they come in white and egg shell. Six button length.

$1.95

Kid Slip-On

A novelty four button length in white, beige, grey and navy with delicate contrasting stitchwork and plain.

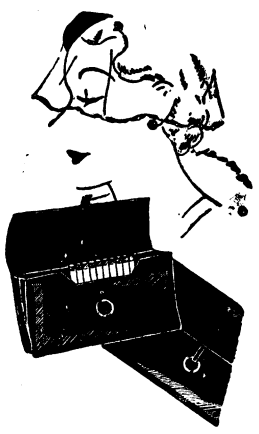
$1.95 and $2.95

Hand Bags

"Cigarette" Bag

Lift the ring, and presto! there are your cigarettes, fresh, clean and whole. Envelope shape.

$2.95



Beaded Bags

of enameled wood. Very new and very swank. Moire lined, inside zippers, all shapes. White and pastels.

$1.00 $1.95 $2.95

Belts

White Patent Leather

Washable and plaided to be soft and pliable. Very new and very, very dashing.

White Crochet

with interlacing of white kid.

Suedes

in red, green, beige, navy, blue, black and brown.

$1.00

Scarfs

Striped Taffeta

Bright Roman stripes and gay spring plaids to tie into bows or fashion into reefers.

$1.00

Ascots

of white crepe and others of brilliant spring colors and color combinations for any ensemble idea.

$1.00

Collars

V Necks

of organdie and pique. Dainty collars to make your throat more lovely and dainty than ever.

$1.00

Vests of white pique. Ideal for light coat suits. Bright buttons set them off with a snap.

$1.00

MAIN FLOOR

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II MARCH 31, 1933 NUMBER 49

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Wednesday, March 22

Announcement this morning of those who would represent the Company Officers' Class on the night ride of April the first. I do opine that the date be not amiss for the antics involved. It is my contention that some members of the class having prolonged the scheduled daylight ride of a month ago far into the night do by that experience feel themselves qualified for this occasion. The class' most promising horseman (he will promise anything to avoid a horse) will not ride, his partner, the great Mitchell, being still absent on the daylight ride. A probable team of Peck and Robinson unequivocally eliminated by a picket line vote of the School horses.

More of digging this afternoon, the excuse being "platoon in defense." If this sort of thing continues as it has in the past three weeks I shall be sorely tempted to train a mole.

Thursday, March 23

Again fifteen minute talks, and from the applause accorded him it does appear that Wu defeated all of us in our own tongue. Reported to me afterwards that Weyrauch gave a splendid talk but so enthralled was I with the shine on his boots that I heard no word of it. Rumors afloat that some of the inmates broke stones so well that they will receive appointments as chief rock breakers. That is to say they will have to give their speeches over again.

Discovered the roughest man in the class today. Bus Howard when taken to task by a classmate for having a patch of white in his cravat knot explained "Oh yes. I failed to shave this morning. Every time I forget to shave I wear out a tie like that."

A most hectic afternoon spent struggling to get at least a U in a Field Forifications exam. So far gone at the end of the third hour that, as Moore remarked, we were dividing men by minutes and getting yards. Finished at last and with a feeling more akin to relief than relief itself.

The feeling short-lived for with the report that there would be no maneuvers this spring came also the report that in the two weeks thus left open we are to be turned over to Major Loblolly for instruction in post hole digging and barbed wire stringing, the ultimate mission being the re-fencing of the Brown Ridge and Harmony cemeteries.

Friday, Mar. 24

Convinced that either the class or the Messing and Guessing Section are in the last stages of something. The Fourth Section had us pinning the tail on the donkey and cutting out paper dolls but Major McCabe has us not only cutting them out but pasting them together and that over the week-end. Oh tempora, oh morons, oh Kankakee.

Did review the Road to Rome this evening, returning home full of satisfaction and philosophy engendered by it. Were the Dramatic Club now to close up shop forever they would retire, as did Gene Tunney, undisputed heavyweight champion.

Saturday, March 25.

Only nine months to Christmas. Did bestir me this evening to attend one of those insidious affairs called a progressive dinner. Such meals are standing contradiction that "hope springs eternal" for at each course I did stuff myself as though there were nothing to follow, with the consequence of feeling over extended upon reaching the far side of ice cream and cake.

Monday, March 27

It does appear from the conversation overheard this morning that The Road to Rome initiated a deal of studying, the range of subjects running from history of the Punic Wars to Biology the latter in especial in re elephants.

Whether such cogitations or other unusual exercises caused Gaither to appear without his Sam Browne was not divulged. It might properly be attributed to the state of mind produced by the week-end pasting of paper dolls.

An E. P. U. problem this morning discovered Houdini as a regimental executive, for the C. O. (according to the problem) dismounted from his horse at 8:07 A, directed the executive to "send for the motor transportation", and at 8:08 A he swirled away in a 1921 Dodge and a cloud of axle grease. Damned clever, these Chinese. Perhaps instead of a Dodge it was an Austin which the exec produced from his hat.

Captain Paul does the curtain raiser on the biscuit and bears act by the supplying group. The hour followed by the usual first-hour-of-any-course jumping to conclusions, not the least interesting of which was "Captain Paul seems to be a wide-awake instructor." But I could not determine who it was had remained awake to find out.

Tuesday, March 28.

Today's big problem was to determine how many staff officers the colonel takes with him when he goes forward to receive orders. Having yesterday learned that two was the maximum we did today consider it but normal to find the number limited only by the capacity of the motor vehicle used. Astute students could be found making notes, "Take two on Mondays—four and up on Tuesdays". It was probably thus in the consular armies of Rome when the consuls commanded on alternate days. But that was as nothing to our plight, there being above a score of commanders in the First Section.

Somewhat embarrassed today when, after some minutes of shouting "Question, sir," I was forced to go unrecognized. And my discomfiture in no wise abated by Bowen's suggestion that I do some practicing at home with my head in a laundry bag.

The high point of the morning reached quite early when Major Hall asked Hurt a question concerning the actions of "Lt. Col. 1st Battalion." Hurt's first guess was a miss and Major Hall, to give him a lead, said "Well he can do something which many students failed to do this morning." Hurt, turning over swiftly in his mind all those things that the 1st Section would consider important, replied instanter "Paste the maps together, sir."

Major Bonham among those fated to occupy one of the fifty minute breaks between horseshoe pitching contests. I do enjoy his instruction and wish that he might be scheduled for one of the early hours when I should be awake to hear him.

Kidwell no end disgruntled at having, during the course of the morning, been called on three times. Unequal distribution, in his opinion, with 125 in the class. His vexation did mind me of the classic by one of the inmates of the 29th Foot Cavalry. Said soldier while sitting in the midst of the reservation's vastness, was aware hat a bird had passed overhead. Removing his hat he gazed upon it ruefully, then shaking his first he addressed the departing one; "You this-and-that so-and-so! Ninety-seven thousand acres—and you have to pick on my hat!"

Wednesday, March 29.

Major Arnold's discourse on field artillery punctuated by Weigand's question "Does the liaison officer have a map?" which did inspire thoughts of other questions he might have asked such as "Does he have a pencil?" "Can he wear slacks?" or "Does he get Wednesday afternoons off?"

More poop-sheets in my box this morning. What with trying to keep up with my reading of these mimeos besides pasting maps together I now get but six hours' sleep a night and I'm seven pamphlets behind already. One Kinney, being a thrifty and forward looking soul, does save his mimeos to destroy them en masse at the end of a three months term. To that business last night only to find that the rats had eaten them verbatim and made a nest on "Battalion in Defense".

—Lt. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

How Long Do You Expect to Live?

Since 1890 the average expectations of life has increased a little over forty percent. This means that the average person may expect to live seventeen years longer than he could back in 1890.

In 1890 the average length of life for the male was 42.5 years; for the female 44.5 years. By 1930 these figures had increased to 59.5 for males and 62.7 for females.

This is the remarkable record which the advances of medical and sanitary science have produced in forty years. The gains are due chiefly to the lessened number of deaths in the earlier years of life. The fight to reduce infant mortality is the big factor that counts in this gain in length of life. Control of communicable diseases, especially those called intestinal, such as typhoid fever and dysentery, and those classified as tuberculosis is the other great factor in this gain. In 1900 tuberculosis accounted for more deaths than any other disease. In 1930 tuberculosis had fallen to sixth place. Heart disease and cancer are now the two most frequent causes of death. This means that anyone born these days who survives the hazards of the first year (infancy) can expect to escape the former most common death by communicable disease and live for sixty years to finally die of some disease of the circulatory system (heart, kidneys or arteries,) or cancer.

Your chances of living to a ripe old age are indicated in the following table.

At Birth:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Average remaining | years | life | are | | 60.6 |
| At 5 years | " | " | " | " | 59.7 |
| At 10 years | " | " | " | " | 55.1 |
| At 15 years | " | " | " | " | 50.4 |
| At 20 years | " | " | " | " | 45.9 |
| At 25 years | " | " | " | " | 41.4 |
| At 30 years | " | " | " | " | 37.0 |
| At 35 years | " | " | " | " | 32.7 |
| At 40 years | " | " | " | " | 28.6 |
| At 45 years | " | " | " | " | 24.6 |
| At 50 years | " | " | " | " | 20.8 |
| At 55 years | " | " | " | " | 17.3 |
| At 60 years | " | " | " | " | 14.2 |
| At 65 years | " | " | " | " | 11.4 |
| At 70 years | " | " | " | " | 9.0 |

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

RETROSPECT

"Nothing left but a memory."—one of Hannibal's lines.

As stated in last week's issue, we realized that a good deal of our valuable space has been given to "The Road to Rome" but we just can't let the subject drop without a few post performance remarks. In watching the play develop through the long weeks of rehearsing, we got attached to it—so much so that the thought that it is over causes us to experience symptoms akin to those incident to a mild case of nostalgia. To leave for good and all anything that one has worked with for any length of time brings a pang of regret. Be it a military organization, a business, or just a side line, the end of the association carries a penalty—mild or severe in direct proportion to the length of time that the association has lasted and the struggles and triumphs that have been shared during the period it has endured. It is a recurring experience for us in the Army and it applies to all grades—from Generals leaving their commands to muleskinners parting from their four line teams. It applies even to a severence of association with inanimate things for we once felt a slight touch of it when we saw an automobile salesman drive away in an old car we had just traded in. And the old bus had given us a lot of trouble, too. Maybe we'll experience the same sensation when we have written our last copy for The Flare although at the moment this seems hardly possible.

So it is with "The Road to Rome." For four years we have advocated its production in season and out of season and the fact that we could never get a majority of any play selecting committee to put it on almost caused us to lose faith in our powers of persuasion. We are glad now that they held out on us for, with all due admiration and esteem for the actresses of other years, no one could have played the part of Amytis as Thetis Whitley played it. We don't know yet whether Mrs. Whitley is an actress or not, but we do know that for two hours on the stage on last Friday and Saturday evenings, she was Amytis. It almost seemed as if Sherwood must have had her in mind when he wrote the play.

Many who saw the original New York production insist that ours surpassed it. On the face of it, this sounds like the height of extravagant and unmeasured praise, but a consideration of certain facts pertaining to our production justify the holding of such an opinion. For, although our cast contained no professional actors, it was composed largely of professional soldiers, well qualified by actual experience to interpret the roles of Sherwood's Carthaginians from swashbuckling generals of cavalry to outspoken privates of the guard. And as for the all important lead, surely it is not for nothing that our Amytis was born in the shadow of the Parthenon. No—we shall not take issue with those who prefer the Benning to the Broadway version.

Considered as a strictly practical proposition, the time and effort expended in putting on an amateur play is out of all proportion to the tangible rewards which accrue to participants and audience. The labor and talent of many people for many weeks goes to prepare the way for

"A poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage
And then is heard no more."

This is the argument of those who see no justification for little theatre groups and maybe they are right, even as Shakespeare may have been stating a great fundamental truth in the full rendition of Macbeth's speech in which the foregoing lines are immediately preceded by "Life's but a walking shadow." Personally however, we are not entirely sold on the theory of the futility of effort. We prefer to believe that there are intangible benefits that go with such things as Dramatic and Glee Club productions, night rides, golf and polo tournaments, peace conferences, Elks conventions, track meets, Rotary Club luncheons and the like which make them quite worth while. In brief, we don't regret the time spent in producing "The Road to Rome" and we are confident that our co-workers are in accord on that point.

And finally we are immensely gratified at the popular approval of our valedictory. Having carried this pet project through in the face of well intended opposition that was designed to save us the embarrassment of achieving the greatest flop in the history of Dramatic Club, we were all set to take our accrued legislative furlough at once in case the skeptics were right. As things turned out however, we intend to stick around until we have to leave.

JOTTINGS FROM A CO-DIRECTOR'S NOTEBOOK

Lieutenant Lou Storck, despite the scanty costume of his own designing that he wore as Bala, the slave, was well disguised. One lady, who knows the Lieutenant but must have failed to look at her program, took him for a bona fide Nubian. Evidently she attended the Saturday night performance and missed the Friday night bend-over which disclosed where the black began.

Just before the curtain went up for the Friday night performance, a delegate from a group of Captain Halloran's friends besought the management to let them present their hero with a floral horseshoe over the footlights. It was with regret that the request had to be denied on the grounds that it would necessitate a curtain call for Mike alone. It was felt that this would not be quite fair to Mrs. Whitley, whose part, while perhaps less important in the eyes of the horse partisans, was considerably longer.

The next day Captain Halloran received an official communication from the Provost Marshall's office to the effect that he had been reported for leaving his garage door open. The hint was sufficient. Captain Funk kept the uniform.

On the night of the first performance we were gratified to receive from Explorer and Mrs. Chance, as a momento of the occasion, an ash tray in the shape of an elephant. The card expressed the wish "May the next 'seven years' give birth to not one but many such successes."

Mrs. Tucker, whose review of the play appears in this issue of the Herald, holds the record for performances attended. She came to four complete

(Please turn to page 7)

THE FLARE

(Continued from Page 6)

rehearsals (one in modern dress and three in costume) and both record runs.

---

Believe it or not, high ranking field officers are more reliable when it comes to makeing rehearsals than captains and lieutenants. Our hat is off to Colonels Weeks, Wallace, and Kelley for an almost perfect attendance record.

---

Nearly everybody knows that the costumes came from Hollywood and that Amytis came from Athens, but only a few insiders know that the grapes used in the first act came from South America. Ask Mrs. Pierce, who assembled the properties.

---

The bachelor mess of the two James boys, Luckett and Winn, having been disrupted over last week-end by the departure of the latter on a secret mission to Alabama, Leftenant Luckett issued appropriate instructions to the faithful manservant who looks after the joint establishment. The dusky admirable Crichton was informed that, as the Aide would not be present for dinner, he could prepare a light supper of sandwiches and take the evening off.

We don't know how long Actor Luckett's man has worked for him or for what other bachelors he may have worked before, but he knows his onions. When a big man with a large appetite orders a light and delicate repast and tells him to take the evening off, he knows what to do. When the Leftenant came in to supper he found everything as ordered and the table nicely set with the best linen and silver—for two.

---

SHADES OF JULIUS CAESAR AND NOAH WEBSTER!

Guardsman Fitzgibbons, having carried a spear in "The Road to Rome," has lately become a recognized authority on all things Latin including the language. For instance, when asked what the S. P. Q. R. on the standard carried by Lundquist's legionary stood for, he never hesitated a second.

"Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Romans" was the answer.

---

HE SAW A PRETTY GOOD SHOW ANYHOW

Sergeant Davis of the Map Reproduction plant, having rendered a service to the Dramatic Club, was sent two complimentary tickets to "The Road to Rome."

The tickets happened to come on the day of the Glee Club's annual performance.

"Just in time" thought the Sergeant and that night he used them to attend "The Debutante." It was not until "The Road to Rome" was over that he discovered his mistake.

Whether Sergeant Davis lost or gained by his error is a matter which we shall have to settle with Deacon Leard. There seems to be little question, however, but that some Glee Club doorkeeper is color blind.

---

CITATIONS FOR THE WEEK

It was a foregone conclusion that this department of this week's issue of The Flare would be devoted to one or several of our co-workers in the local Dramatic Club's farewell offering for the season. Having been one of the insiders in that enterprise, we know how much they have been putting out and there is not one of them who does not merit whatever of glory or honor, if any, that may attach to a citation in this column.

Take Directors Wadsworth and Rice, for instance, who for the past two months have been living, in spirit, at least in Roman villas and Carthaginian camps. Then there is the cast, whose excellent performance has been the theme of much flattering remark, which for weeks has been in rehearsal almost daily; and there is Scenic Artist Bell who sacrificed golf by day and sleep by night to create the two magnificent sets which furnished the background for the action; and there is Lieutenant Bob Pierce who directed the incidental music and Mrs. Pierce who almost wore out a set of tires running about looking for appropriate properties; and there is Mrs. Golightly, whose responsibility was costumes and her husband, the well known Superintendent of Construction, who assisted her by handling the sordid business details connected with the renting and shipping of the same; there is Lieutenant Lundquist who designed the program cover, and Mrs. Chance and her make-up girls who made swarthy Carthaginians and dusky Nubians out of Nordics and Marjorie Catron and Bernice Sargent, faithful and painstaking prompters, without whom there might have been some embarrassing moments. And at that we haven't included all who contributed in one way or another to help the cause.

To conform to custom, our citation must be brief so we'll make it read this way:

To all of our fellow travelers on "The Road to Rome" individually and collectively, but especially to Thetis Whitley, God's gift to the Infantry School Dramatic Club for the difficult role of Amytis, for a performance that does not suffer by comparison to that of the distinguished creator of the part.

---

TALES OF THE TENT CITY

(Continued on Page 6)

phony orchestra playing 'De Rosary'."

"Hush yu' mouf, man. When Snowball once wraps his lips 'round his bugle an' plays de mess call, ah looks down at mah beans an' say: 'Strawberries, behave you'self, you're kicking de whipped cream out o' de dish'."

---

Here's the dope on the class rifle firing.

| | |
|---|---|
| Expert Riflemen | 8 |
| Sharpshooters | 22 |
| Marksmen | 92 |
| Unqualified | 34 |

Percentage qualified 78.20. Average score per man 197.37.

INDIVIDUAL HIGH SCORE

| | |
|---|---|
| Capt. Shoemaker | 231 |
| Capt. Richardson | 230 |
| Lt. Johnson | 227 |
| Capt. Sutton | 227 |
| Lt. Apple | 226 |
| Lt. Palmer | 224 |
| Lt. Watson | 223 |
| Lt. Tudhope | 222 |

PLATOON AVERAGES

| | |
|---|---|
| 3rd Platoon | 202.52 |
| 1st Platoon | 198.67 |
| 2nd Platoon | 195.11 |

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER

$3.85
BLACK AND WHITE
Men's Sport Oxford

$1.95
Men's Gun-Metal Blucher Oxford.

Oxfords up to $4.25.

SAM NEEL'S
STAR BRAND SHOE DEPARTMENT
WESTBROOK BUILDING

V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75. One year Guarantee. City Drug Store.

A reasonable plan to . . .
BORROW
$300 or less
for bills . . education . . travel

●

Check off these advantages:
- √ Officers may borrow up to $300
- √ Your signature is our only security.
- √ Your confidence is respected.
- √ Fellow Officers, friends, or relatives are not informed.
- √ You have up to 20 months to repay in amounts to fit your income.
- √ The cost is as low as the economies of large volume and efficient management can make it.
- √ You pay only for the actual number of days you keep the money and only for the balance due.
- √ Prompt service—entirely by mail if you wish.

If this plan appeals to you as reasonable just call our office for information. No obligation implied. And no representatives will call.

DAILY LOAN CO.
204 Woolworth Bldg.
Phone 4372

REFINANCING means reduced worry

Let us explain a simple plan that has helped others and may help you. Our interest charges are straight 8% with no additional charges for investigations. We can give you Twenty-four hour service.

Fidelity Loan & Investment Company
1206 FIRST AVENUE
T. E. BAISDEN, Secretary-Treasurer

Spring Hats
$3.50

Mesh Shirts
$1.00

Underwear
35c

Hosiery
35c

Neckwear
$1.00

GET INTO A NEW SPRING SUIT
for Appearance Sake

Choose your favorite material, a worsted, worsted-cheviot, flannel or tweed, in one of these smart but conservative diagonal weaves, Glen plaids, checks, herringbones,, all over patterns or stripes.

$15.00 $18.50 $21.00

CHANCELLOR
COMPANY
Fort Benning — Columbus Headquarters

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Smith And Murphy Battle To Second Draw

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Maxie Rosenbloom won undisputed possession of the world's lightheavyweight championship last Friday night by knocking out Bob Godwin at Madison Square Garden. Godwin was recognized by the National Boxing Association as 175-pound ruler, while Rosenbloom has the backing of the N. Y. A. C.

After one minute and sixteen seconds of the fourth round, Referee Hartley stepped in and awarded the fight to Rosenbloom on a technical knockout, because of a badly cut eye sustained by Godwin in the second round. The Southerner started with a patch over each eye and they proved easy targets for the champion's flashing left.

* * *

Godwin was sent to the canvas from a body blow early in the first round. He came up at once waiting for the referee to begin the count and stormed into the champion. Maxie connected with a left hook to the jaw and Godwin went down again, coming up at three, dazed and groggy.

In the second round, Rosenbloom opened up a painful cut over the Southerner's left eye and blood spurted down the side of his face. Godwin fought back grimly but to no avail. He was outclassed.

* * *

Babe Ruth formally signed a $52,000 contract for the 1933 playing season and then demonstrated that very afternoon why he is still the highest-paid performer in organized baseball.

The veteran Yankee outfielder provided the fireworks in the McCarthymen's 7-1 victory over the Boston Braves when he propelled the ball over the right field fence in the fourth inning.

Before affixing his signature to the contract, the Bambino cited three major ambitions. "I've had three ambitions. One has been fulfilled. The others I hope to realize under the contract."

"I've wanted to complete twenty years of baseball and I'll do that this year. I've wanted to play in ten world's series and I realized that ambition with the last series. And I want to boost my home-run record to 700. I hope to do that by hitting at least forty-eight this year."

* * *

Jack Dempsey, still the most popular figure in boxing, came out with the statement some time ago that he thinks Max Baer is fully as good as he himself was in his prime. That's what he says. Of course we are not expected to believe it.

The Manassa Mauler also thinks that Jack Sharkey is as good as most of the old heavyweight champions. That's what he says. Of course, we're not expected to believe that either.

Primo Carnera is certain that he will knock out Jack Sharkey when the two meet for the world's championship—and Teddy Hayes, formerly associated with Doc Kearns and Jack Dempsey, agrees with him.

Hayes asserted early this week that the Italian giant has improved in leaps and bounds since he battled Sharkey at Ebbets Field some time ago. Even then, Teddy points out, Primo found it an easy matter to implant his huge fist into the cham-

(Please turn to page 9)

Cyclone Smith and Harold Murphy top Fine Boxing Card

Murphy Takes The Last Two Rounds To Gain Draw With Soldier

Walker "Cyclone" Smith, army lightheavyweight, and Harold Murphy of Chicago battled to another draw last Monday night in the main bout of one of the best fight cards seen at Fort Benning this year. Every scrap on the card was a crowd-pleaser, topped by a smashing eight-round bout between Kid Baisden and Rip Tetherton and a grueling ten round fracas that saw Murphy and Smith wade through ten rounds of continuous action.

Smith climbed through the ropes first, followed closely by Harold Murphy, who looked in the pink of condition. Major Patterson called the fighters to the center of the ring and gave them last-minute instructions. The bell sounded for the first round and Murphy missed a left by inches as the gladiators came together.

Cyclone immediately started to work on his opponents mid-section but found it difficult as Harold tied him up at will in the clinches. In the second round, Smith took the aggressive and lashed out with a left that caught Murphy going away. Harold scored with a left jab as both

(Please turn to Page 9)

SOLDIER NINE IN PRACTICE

Thirty-five candidates have reported to Captain Charles W. Pence, head coach of the Inf. School Det. baseball squad at the Greencord practice field. Although early in the season to make predictions, it looks as though the Greencords will be powerful contenders in the Fort Benning baseball world during the coming season.

Among the first candidate to report for duty were Tolle, Gilbert, Hinkley and McIntyre, hurlers. Tolle has carried the burden of the Greencord hurling for four seasons and is one of the leading curve ball pitchers in this section. Gilbert, former Medico ace, and speed ball king, will play his first season in a Greencord uniform. Hinkley is well known to Benning fans and is a right hander with plenty of hooks and speed. McIntyre is a newcomer. He is a southpaw and has played semi-pro baseball for two seasons.

Newman, battery mate of Gilbert, and Mickey McCarthy, Greencord veteran, will do the catching this season. This is a pair of the leading receivers in this territory.

Both the outfield and infield berths are all open at the present time and it is going to be one great battle before the regulars are weeded out. Over at third base Grantham and Smith will fight it out. Beall and Pepper Martin will fight for the short field, while half dozen ambitious youngsters have their names in for the keystone sack.

The outfield will see strong competition. Reddock, Coley and Brooks of last year's team will have to fight to stay in the running. The team will be coached by Captain Pence, with Master Sergeant Mowry, Staff Sgt. Heckert and First Sgt. Gibbs, as his assistants.

POLO NOTES

A popular misconception in regard to polo is that it is limited in its appreciation to a small group of players only; and that is it consequently an activity confined to a consecrated few.

It has been estimated that the average crowd at the Sunday games on the post numbers about 300 people; some of whom are known to have driven many miles in order to watch the games, and all of whom have made this activity their preference. The major portion of the crowd is made up of civilians from Columbus and vicinity who enjoy watching the riding and speed of play. They leave the reservation with an increased interest, and a satisfied attitude toward the army; feeling a sense of participation in the life of the military, rather than an attitude of exclusion or prohibition. At no other post activity does the average civilian, regardless of his station in life, gain so much pleasure without having to pay a cent of money, as he does here at the local polo games.

This is one of the things that the Fort Benning authorities have arranged for the closer cooperation with the civilian population; and it is appreciated, as witnessed by the numbers who attend each Sunday.

Another erroneous conclusion is the one that the players themselves are put to little or no expense in this sport, and that some mysterious power takes care of all the bills. Many people forget that the army players, as opposed to one belonging to a civilian club, pays from his own slim purse for such items as jerseys, sticks, helmets, and other equipment. He also contributes to grooms, digs up for dragging the field at so much per player, and even for the tape and bandages used on the horses. The expense to the government is practically nothing, while its gain in the training of horses and the developmen of soldierly qualities in the players, is enormous. The local club provides two simple playing fields, and furnishes balls which are carefully husbanded, sparingly issued, and frequently reworked and repainted.

There are few places where polo is played where the cost per player is lower than it is at Fort Benning, and where the visitor pays nothing for an afternoon of entertainment. Of course, to the sophisticated fan from the exclusive polo centers such scene as the player and his wife and children performing manual labor with rakes and wheelbarrows, all in a spirit of playful work, in order to improve the polo field—well, that would be most incomprehensible!

While no accidents of consequence occurred during the present session, the round-robin tournament is commencing to leave its imprints here and there, as it were. Monte Blue is sporting a bandaged left index finger; Nick Nichols received a pat on a shin bone from a more or less evil-intentioned animal; Cowboy Cushman has a wrist wrapped up; and several players are commencing to exhibit cuts and scratches of a less serious nature, but still ranking as wounds honorably received in polo battle. The one exception is Mike Halloran's scratched nose which seems to have been so decorated in a dismounted rather than in mounted action.

* * *

The citations of the past week for splendid improvement in the game, are awarded humbly to Lieutenant Grubbs of the Gunners, and Joe Griffith of the Student team. May their fame increase!

MORE SPORTS WILL BE FOUND ON PAGES 9, 10, 11

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

BURRUS

USED CAR Sale

TERMS — TRADES

ALL CARS Priced To Sell

35 HIGH CLASS USED CARS TO SELECT FROM

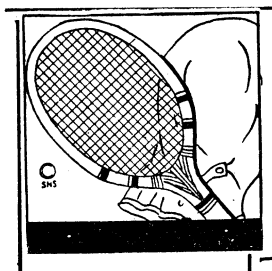
Prices Have Been Slashed to Rock Bottom.

Burrus Motor Co.

Authorized Ford Dealers

1216-22 First Ave. Phone 3500

A Safe Place to Buy



ATHLETIC EQUIPMENT

The Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete stock of all types of athletic equipment.

TELEPHONE 608

POST EXCHANGE

FT. BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Still's Rent-A-Car Company

1232 First Avenue

Rates

6 to 12c Per Mile

No Hour Charge

Clean and Efficient Service

Fords Chevrolets

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

SMITH AND MURPHY BATTLE TO SECOND DRAW

(Continued From Page 8)

boys looked around for an opening. Smith nailed Murphy with a long left followed b ya long right as the Windy City battler fell into a clinch. Harold held Smith off with his left and peppered him with light punches to the face.

In the third, Smith beat a tattoo on Murphy's body in flurries of lightning. Murphy caught Smith with a stinging left jab and fell into a clinch. Both fighters wrestled around in the center of the ring. Smith landed heavily with a right to the body. Cyclone's left eye was almost closed at the end of this stanza.

Harold nailed Smith with a left jab that set the Cyclone on his heels. Smith failed at Murphy's body which was now marked by patches of red. Harold connected with a hard right to the jaw. Smith countered with a left to the chin.

Smith came out fast at the beginning of the fifth but missed wildly as Murphy clinched. Cyclone whipped a series of rights to Harold's face. Murphy was holding desperately as Smith tried to land a telling blow. The soldier smacked Murphy with a right to the button as the bell rang.

The sixth and seventh rounds found Smith storming around the ring like a wild bull. Murphy was absorbing plenty of punishment in the clinches as the Cyclone flailed at his body. Harold clinched repeatedly.

In the eighth, both fighters went to war. Harold clipped Smith with a left to the button as the soldier retaliated with a right to the short ribs. Murphy jabbed with his left as Smith came in close. Leather flew fast and furious in this round.

In the ninth, Murphy began using his right more. Sweeping blows to the body landed with the impact of a 15-inch projectile. Smith, always willing to trade blows, slugged. The crowd went wild as the battlers swapped punches in the center of the ring.

They came out for the tenth and last round swinging. Murphy hit smith with telling right hand smashes to the body which caused fans to wonder why he did not use that weapon before. The round soon developed into a slugfest with Harold doing most of the damage as Smith rapidly weakened under the barrage of piledriving rights that his opponent threw at him from every angle. The gong found Cyclone storming around in his corner and the referee was forced to pull them apart.

It was a great fight from the opening to the last stanza. The first five rounds were fairly even with neither fighter far out in front. Smith had the margin in the next three rounds while Murphy won the last two.

If anyone had won the battle, it should have been Smith, but the draw verdict was nevertheless a fine decision under the circumstances. Everyone was satisfied, including Smith and Murphy.

REMOVED

also—

WELDING and PAINTING

WE straighten and repaint fenders and take out body dents so skillfully that you can't detect any traces of the damage, however great.

Rapid Service
Moderate Prices

The Post Exchange is our agent at Fort Benning.

PHONE 165

Columbus Fender & Body Works

1420 First Avenue

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued From Page 8)

pion's face. Unfortunately, there was no zip behind his left at that time and so his punches had no effect on Sharkey.

Now, however, argues Hayes, Carnera has developed his left to the point where it has become a dangerous weapon. And so he predicts a victory for the Italian Colossus.

* * *

There will be practically as much interest in the Baer-Schmeling fight as there will be in the battle for world supremacy. Herr Max is conceded by many authorities on the subject as the best heavy in the ring today. Baer is rugged, tough, and can hit with the impact of a projectile. He likes the going best when it's rough and the Black Uhlan feels more or less the same way about it. Both have been endowed with remarkable stamina and there is little chance that the fight will let up at any one time for that reason.

The winner in the battle of the Maxes will get a shot at the title, in other words a battle with either Sharkey or Carnera, depending on the outcome of their bout.

* * *

It won't be long now before the turnstiles to major league ball parks begin to click at their customary rate of speed despite present economic difficulties. A fan may economize on food, smokes, or any of the necessities but he must see his favorite team in action if it means that he must sacrifice other things.

The Yankees, Senators, and Athletics appear at this early date as the cream of the crop in the American league. The Yankees will present practically the same line-up that won them the world's championship last year; the Senators and the A's, especially the latter ,have undergone drastic changes but apparently for the better.

The pennant race in the senior loop should be nip and tuck with any one of five outfits bringing home the bacon in the long run.

Ranking Fort Benning Tennis Players To Play Georgia Tech

Close Matches Promised As Rival Teams Will Meet Saturday Afternoon

The Georgia Tech tennis team will play a series of exhibition matches with ranking Fort Benning players Saturday aftrenoon. Play probably starts at 1:30 P. M. or thereabouts.

The Golden Tornado racketeers will lunch at the Officers' Club and, from that point, will go at once to the tennis courts and get the matches under way as soon as possible. Six singles matches and three doubles matches will be played.

The Tech team is reported to be very powerful this year. Many veterans have returned from last year's successful squad and will play against the best Fort Benning has to offer Saturday afternoon. Tech and Fort Benning met twice last year on the tennis courts and each emerged with a victory, so the match this afternoon will be in the way of deciding which way the balance leans.

Fort Benning will represented by Captain Drake, who will play number one. Captain Drake won the handicap singles tournament last fall and has no more than one occasion demonstrated his proficiency at the game. Captain Bassett will probably be unable to participate in the match as he does not expect to be here at the time. Sherburne, in that case, will play number two. Tommy, addicted to polo, has not had much time to get in tennis trim this year, but should give a very good account of himself nevertheless. He ranks number six in the army.

Lynch will play number three. His powerful serve and smashing drive should enable him to win. Poore, Irving, and Tindall will probably include the line-up in that order. The brand of tennis that these star performers are capable of exhibiting is well known to Benning tennis enthusiasts. In case, some of the players listed will not be in a position to play that afternoon, substitutions will be made. Newman, Weyrauch, Gavin, and Giddings may all see action.

There will be no admission charge, and plenty of seats will be available for those present in the gallery. If precedent counts for anything, all the matches will be close and hard-fought, and fans can count on some exceptional tennis.

SAFETY..

. . . is largely dependent on the mechanical condition of your car. Have your automobile inspected regularly and be sure to use only the best oils and greases.

Auto Dept.

POST EXCHANGE

FORT BENNING

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

SCHWOBILT

ESTABLISHED 1912 REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Easter is April 16th

DRESS UP!

New Spring Clothes

at prices that

FIT YOUR BUDGET

$12.50

The keen, alert styling of Schwobilt suits faithfully reflects the youth and spirit of Spring. There is a distinction about them that goes unchallenged in any company under all conditions. Values are as outstanding as the fabrics are attractive—because they are made in the Schwob plants and sold only through the Schwob stores. This controlled sales plan brings you Fifth Avenue's newest models, single and double breasted—tailored especially for the South, at $12.50 and $14.95 for Ready-to-Wear—$15.50 and $18.50 Tailored-to-Order.

The SCHWOB Co.

THE STANDARD TAILORING CO.

Makers of Schwobilt Clothes

1037 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

SPORTS Irish Are Basketball Champions

Rip Tetherton-Kid Baisden Draw In Show Stealing Semi Final

The semi-final bout on last Monday's fight card really stole the show. Kid Baisden of Valdosta and Rip Tetherton, promising army welter, had the crowd in a frenzy from the opening gong to the bell that ended the fight.

Baisden, as anticipated, started off like a whirlwind. No sooner had the bell sent the two boys into action, than the Kid leaped in with a left hook to the head that resounded all over the house. Rip allowed Baisden to take the aggressive. The Valdosta pugilist scored several times in the first round with smashing lefts to the head.

The second round was a repetition of the first with Baisden holding himself in reserve, then leaping in suddenly swinging that formidable left of his, and usually connecting. Once or twice the effect of these blows on Rip had him in a dazed condition. In the third stanza, Baisden maintained the same tactics but this round found Tetherton gradually getting warmed up and landing heavily, although most of his blows were on the shoulders or arms.

Tetherton really got under way in the fourth and was now waiting no longer for the Kid to come to him. He rushed Baisden to the rops and the fighting was practically on even terms. They slugged in mid ring. Rip backed away as Baisden landed a left to the head, then jumped in with a two-fisted attack that spun the Valdosta battled against the ropes. Both boys were landing often and hard and the crowd was delirious.

But they hadn't seen anything yet. In the fifth, Rip came out with an evil look in his eye and tossed leather in all directions. He rushed Baisden to the ropes, caught him with a left, a right, another left, another right, and Baisden was dazed. The Kid threw plenty of punches in his turn and the two warriors swapped damaging blows. Tetherton swung his right to the jaw and Baisden was down for a no-count.

The next and seventh rounds were duplicates of the sixth and how those boys fought! The eighth was Tetherton's by a long margin as the Kid was tiring rapidly.

The draw decision was highly satisfactory and spoke well for the intelligence and ring knowledge of the judges. It was one of the best fights seen this year and no one would object to seeing these two boxers matched in a ten-round bout to decide once and for all supremacy between the two.

Saginaw Seeley demonstrated to skeptical fans that he was still as clever as ever in winning a well-earned decision over Ginger Jernigan proving that he was no slouch himself when it came to ring generalship. The six rounds of fast and skillful boxing was well-seasoned with hard punching. Seeley, however, caused his hard-hitting opponent to miss frequently and scored often with both hands.

Tough Man Singly opened up a cut over Ghost Ghastly's left eye in the second round and the wound bled so profusely that Red Lindsey, referee, awarded the fight to Singly before the bell rang for the third round. The first round was fairly even but in the second Tough Man cut loose and rushed Ghastly against the ropes. He followed up his advantage and floored Ghost for a nine count. Ghastly came up fighting and was still warring at the bell. Singly really looks like a prospect. His antics in the ring justify his name.

Little Herby Yutmeyer punched too hard for Kid Stutts and knocked him out early in the third round. Stutts was game, although not in Herby's class. Near the end of the second stanza, Yutmeyer caught the Kid with a right that could have been heard a mile away from the gymnasium. Stutts went down like a log, staggered up at nine, and tore into his opponent. For this exhibition of courage, the crowd gave Stutts a big hand as he went to his corner. Little Herby came out in the third, determined to put Stutts away. A right hook to the jaw turned the trick. The Kid came up prepared to tear into Herby again but collapsed in the referee's arms before he had taken a step.

Tut Tut Taylor punched out a four-round victory over Spot Webb in the second bout of the evening. Webb held him even for the first two rounds but the Medico came back in the last two stanzas to cop the decision.

Lightning Lige retained the welterweight title of the 24th Infantry by turning back Willie Branch in a three-round bout. Both boys went to war in this fight and packed lots of action in the three rounds.

Kellys Vanquished In Three Games By Fast Irish Quint

With the championship series of three games standing at one apiece, the Irish of the First Battalion defeated the Kellys of the Second Battalion to win the pennant in the post intra-mural basketball league.

When the last whistle blew, the Green Wave was on the long end of a 36-30 score after a well-played, hotly-contested game. For three quarters, the two championship aggregations battled on even terms, then slowly but surely the furious, relentless attack of the Irish began to get results as they forged ahead. It was the second consecutive pennant for the First Battalion.

The competing teams were exceptionally evenly matched and so the game was practically a toss-up. A fine brand of basketball, not often seen in amateur circles, was exhibited by both the Kellys and the Irish. Sneed, Irish forward, accumulated individual scoring honors by sinking fourteen points. His running mate, Jordan, scored six points. Baby Ray, Green Wave guard, starred defensively, knocking down passes and terminating marches abruptly. He also did his share offensively, accounting for six of his team's points. Reddock made it his duty to camp on the trail of any Kelly player who got dangerously close to the basket, and Sheppard displayed his usual fiery brand of basketball although the fine guarding of Lee and Darden, Kelly guards, kept his individual score down.

McAllister of the Second Battalion played his customary fine game, while Darden and "Swede" Oikari contributed nineteen of the team's thirty points. Lee, J., starred both on the offense and defense.

Competition was exceptionally keen this year; the teams were good, the officiating was above par, and everything co-operated to make the season a successful one from every standpoint.

The line-ups:

| 1st BATS (36) | | 2d BATS (30) |
|---|---|---|
| Sneed (14) | F | Lee, F. |
| Jordan (6) | G | Oikari (11) |
| Sheppard (4) | C | McAllister (5) |
| Ray (6) | G | Lee, J. (6) |
| Reddock (6) | G | Darden (8) |

Freebooters Strengthen Lead In Round Robin Polo Tournament

The Freebooters, Billygoats, and Hoofers emerged victorious from the three games played in the middle of last week. With the exception of one of these contests, the games were all hotly-contested, and replete with thrills from start to finish.

FREEBOOTERS DEFEAT OPTIMISTS

Despite the fine playing of Zero Wilson, the nicely-clicking Freebooters overcame the stubborn White Jerseys by the close score of 4-3. The league-leading Freebooters encountered severe opposition in this game and were forced to the limit to win. The slender margin of one goal between victor and defeated clearly indicates the closeness of the contest.

With a half game lead of 9-6, the tournament eight-chukker game went to the Yellow Peril by a total score of 13-9.

83RD EDGED OUT BY BILLYGOATS

The hard-fighting Billygoats, barely managed to nose out the big 83rd outfit by a score of 9-8. The Redlegs were faced at the outset with a lead to overcome and started right in to accomplish just that. After a grueling game, it was found that the Artillerymen had failed by a single goal to draw even with their hard-headed opponents, although they carried the second half-game.

29TH WALLOPS GUNNERS

The steamroller attack of the powerful Hoofers ground under the Gallant Gunners to the tune of 19-7. Despite the one-sidedness of the score, the scrappy lieutenants put up their usual hard fight but were overwhelmed by superior play. Grubbs played particularly well for the losers.

The usual Sunday crowds were treated to three good games, especially the one between the Hoofers and Redlegs. The games were followed by a delightful tea at the Polo-Hunt club.

29TH DEFEATS 83RD

With their teamwork considerably improved, the 29th clearly demonstrated their superiority over the Redlegs to win by a score of 10-5. The game opened the playing season in French Field, which has been resodded and conditioned. Umpires: Cunningham and Brown.

BILLYGOATS vs. GUNNERS

With a three goal lead from the previous game, the Green team had little difficulty in winning over the artillery cubs. The final score showed that the Billygoats had shoved thirteen balls through the uprights while the Gunners were accumulating three. The Gunners, however, showed an improved brand of play. Umpires Cunningham and Brown.

FREEBOOTERS OUTSCORE STUDENTS 8-3

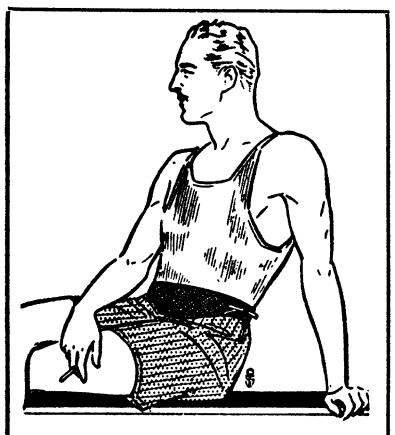
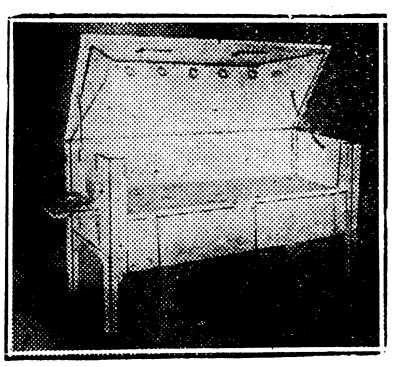
By the time this game was over, the field had been cut up rather badly and this to some extent interfered with the play on both sides. The Freebooters, with a 3-2 lead, were set for a hard battle with the Blue Wave but the second chukker indicated what the final result would be. Monte Blue played a great game for the Freebooters despite a cracked finger and materially aided in his team's conquest of the Students. Nichols exhibited his customary fine brand of polo though hampered some by a painful injury to his right leg. For the students, Griffith was outstanding. Umpires: Johnson and Cunningham.



Men's Underwear
ATHLETIC TOPS and SHORTS
50c Per Suit
25c Per Garment
New Shipment Of Ties
RESILIO CONSTRUCTION
$1.00 Value—2 for $1.00
A Full Line Of Spring Suits and Hats
SMITH SMART SHOES
PAYNE
CLOTHING COMPANY
1203 Broadway



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Avenue

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c · A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT
RATES REASONABLE
Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062
DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

VISIT
The Bakery Beautiful!
. . . and you will appreciate even more the deliciousness of Everidge's Old-Time, Rye, French and Whole Wheat Bread—at Post Exchange Grocery.
EVERIDGE'S
109 - 12TH STREET

Buddy Grace Wins Marble Tourney In Finals Last Week

Fort Benning marble enthusiasts had an opportunity to display their proficiency at the game during the course of the past two weeks. "Buddy" Grace, son of Major and Mrs. C. O. Grace, demonstrated to the satisfaction of everyone that when it comes to shooting marbles, he has no equal on the post. "Buddy", nine years old and in the fourth grade, showed the way to all his comeptitors in the finals of the Benning tournament held last Tuesday.

The tournament was for the purpose of deciding who would represent this community in the Chattahoochee Valley Marble Tournament sponsored by the Ledger-Enquirer papers. Richard Johnson 2nd, son of Sgt. W. L. Jones, 29th band, was runner-up and the other two boys who competed in the hotly-contested finals were Arch Arnold and Jack Cushman.

Captain H. N. Merrill acted as chairman of the Benning contests, and the games were directed by Misses Lillian and Lois Wells and Miss Emily Stephenson of the Benning grammar school. The championship matches were refereed by Howard Wilson. Wendell Bevan acted as official scorer.

MARBLE

"Buddy" is a product of the Lone Star State and proved conclusively that Texans shoot a better brand of marbles than Georgians. He arrived at the Fort some six weeks ago and went into active training at once. He is an attractive little fellow, well-liked by his playmates who informed him that it took years of experience to win the tournament. But "Buddy", not in the least discouraged, went ahead and won the Benning crown and will play in the Valley finals in the near future. A silver loving cup will go to the winner of this tournament and "Buddy" knows the exact spot in the Grace house it is going to decorate.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

A Citizen Wherever We Serve

1330 Broadway

R. M. Harding, Manager

Dr. R. H. Brown

Osteopathic Physician

Murrah Bldg.

Phone Office 4108

Res. 1153

Drs. Miller & Davis

Dog and Cat Hospital

1006 13th Street

Office Phone 1318

83rd F. A.

It has long been known to all and sundry that an attractive personal appearance is a most valuable asset, although this is sometimes disputed by those of us who are practically bankrupt in this respect. To improve ones appearance is a most laudable ambition ,since it indicates a desire to make ones self attractive in the eyes of others, however, the virile, or hairy-chested, type of male has usually professed to scorn those niceties of person and oil practiced by his more pulchritudinous brother. Especially has this been true of us in the ranks. I have yet to see a pair of manicured hands which were good at shaking manure, or a buddy, fresh from grooming the belly of the off wheel horse, who smelled of toilet water. The delicate and feminine appearing recruit is usually about as welcome in an artillery outfit as the Officer of the Day is at a pay day crap game. All this being true, it is not hard to imagine the astonishment of all present when a certain well known Chief of Section recently appeared in the mess hall with a pair of delicately plucked and arched eyebrows. The thing was positively unbelievable—as well imagine Mars with a lipstick or Sherman with a vanity case! Dodd blushed to the top of his nude head, Boob Hurst choked and Ed Roper fainted. Restoratives were administered, and the shock gradually passed. Indeed (which goes to show that men can accustom themselves to anything) the effect has come to be not only condoned, but in some quarters openly admired—so much so that it is rumored that the Sergeant is about to become the recipient of a shower at which toilet and bath accessories will be featured. Contributions of scented soaps, bath salts, complexion creams, etcetera will be favored.

BATTERY "A"

Cpl. Holt has gone into the artist trade in a big way here of late. We suggest that he turn out his mustache and spend three more years in Ohau and he will be a typical artist.

There was mourning, wailing and gnashing of teeth and all that sort of thing when the Battery awoke Monday morning and the Headlines of the Columbus Wailer said no Corps Area maneuvers. "Maybe" we will be able to get a three day pass this summer.

Three of the men who recently reenlisted for Battery "A", are on reenlistment furlough this week. Privates Haney, Sanders and Crane.

Pfc. Wiggins is on a ten days furlough for the purpose of teaching Wiggins Jr. the School of a soldier. Or maybe I should say Cook and Baker.

BATTERY "C"

With no demonstrations on the program for the next few weeks we are getting ready for our spring horse shows, painting and shining up the material and harness. Contrary to the usual way all sections are competing for the firsh show, and the Chiefs of Section are all figuring out something new to be selected for the Post horse-show. We have been policing everybody's front yard for the last few weeks except our own and this will last another few weeks. Speedy Stewart was seen policing nea ra clothesline, and the officer in charge reminded him that he was to clean up the grounds and not the clothesline.

Tank Notes

TANK NOTES

Last Friday Leo Giammarino, former trainer of Rudy Valentino's Arabs, and holder of the coast to coast horseback record, paid this organization a visit. Giammarino is a former Corporal in the Italian Army and has trained his animals according to the Italian methods. His coast to coast record is 104 days one way, and 243 days round trip.

Corporal R. P. M. Scott, noted for his art in handling a shot gun informs the writer that free transportation will be furnished to any member of the Battalion who wishes to try his luck at Skeet shooting. All you have to do to obtain that free transportation is to report to Corporal Scott, Company E, each Sunday morning between the hours of seven and eight.

"Kingfish" Kingsbury, late of the Sergeant Major's office is now doing "free-wheeling" over in the Tank Park. In his place we have Private Coble who is still looking for his fishing permit and telling us what a time he had on the last party over in Alabam.

Private Harris, of Headquarters Company, was called on a few days ago to repair an automobile horn on a certain Captain's car. Upon examination Harris found there was no horn on the car. Now Harris wants to know if the Captain was playing some kind of a game with him.

Sergeant Mattingly had a distinguished visitor from Post Headquarters recently, we wonder what it is allabout, Gadget. Better see the Chaplain, Sargie!

A Columbus by-stander brought us some good news on Sergeant Dell Franklin Jones the other day. But to stay on the safe side of Sergeant Dell we'll let someone else do the broadcasting.

Q. M. D.

When one sees George G. Kinzler (the famed stock record authority of the Quartermaster Detachment) rolling down Vibbert Avenue at the wheel of his motor vehicle, one should realize that one is observing, not just another car manufactured by a Mr. Ford of Detroit, but an imported automobile with a distinguished past.

This car has merely "Ford" as a nameplate, but it was assembled in France and owned and operated there by Ernest Hemingway, well known writer of hard boiled stories for hard boiled "intellectuals." Mr. Hemingway, aside from having the honor of once being the driver of the automobile now operated by aforesaid George G. Kinzler, was the author of the original story on which the play "Farewell to Arms," that was shown at the Fort Benning Main Theater a short while ago, was derived.

Upon receipt of the motor vehicle in question, it had a top that was somewhat wishy-washy, brakes that would have been perfectly satisfactory had they worked, tires that for some occult reason wouldn't hold air and a storage battery that did everything except emit electric current, but all is different now.

The one-time Hemingway Ford (now the Kinzler Ford) has regained its old glory.

Its owner respects it so very much, he would not think of driving it without white gloves.

FOR BENNING'S BREAKFAST

OLD SETTLER'S PORK SAUSAGE

"THE BEST SAUSAGE WE CAN MAKE"

U. S. Inspected and every pound guaranteed by

The Provision Co. Inc

EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

MEN'S SUITS

$12.50

CLASSY

CLOTHES SHOP

1035 Broadway

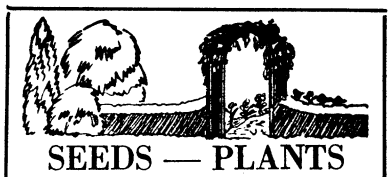
Griffin Receives Flattering Offers From Large Cities

Corn Griffin, whose fiery trail up the fistic mountainside was climaxed not long ago with a sensational thirty-second knockout of Ted Sandwina, has come to the attention of boxing-wise fans in most of the big eastern cities. Letters have been received time after time from plenipotentiaries of the fight game offering to give Griffin the financial backing that a prospective champion must have before tackling the big shots.

Most notable of these letters was one from former Senator Harry Durant, known in pugilistic circles as a silent backer. Durant has an excellent reputation; he soldom picks a loser and his angling for Benning's pet protege is in itself a compliment to Corn's fistic qualifications.

Griffin is ripe to tackle Madison Square Garden right now, but the offer has been temporarily turned down for several reasons. Corn put his foot on the first rung of the ladder in Fort Benning and he feels that he owes something to the fans in this district. Tanks Grantham, Griffin's manager, also feels that Corn should get a few more fights under his belt and the experience derived therefrom before he hits the Garden, the pitfall for many promising gladiators of the ring game. In other words, he does not want to take Corn along too fast. Many prospective champions have been ruined that way and Grantham is not going to make an example of Corn if he can help it.

Under the stipulations of Durant's generous offer, Grantham will remain Griffin's manager, while permitting the senator to take care of the financial problems that come up, such as publicity etc. The art of ballyhoo is so well developed in this day and age that it has become an important factor in the boxing game. The more money a fighter is backed with, the better ballyhoo he gets and so on ad infinitum.



SEEDS — PLANTS

Spring and Planting Time is here. Everything for the GARDEN and LAWN; seeds, plants, tools, fertilizer. Drop in at our store and we will be glad to help you to plan your planting.

VALLEY SEED CO.

1041 Broadway

Maxwell Optical Co.

I. A. MAXWELL

Optometrist and Optician

A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE

1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Johnston-Cunningham Furniture Co.

Bed Room Suites .....$39.50 and up.

Living Room Suites .....$49.50 and up.

Sellers Kitchen Cabinets, Simmons Beds, Mattresses and Springs. All on Easy Terms.

1014 BROADWAY PHONE 460

It Will Pay You To See Us Before You Buy

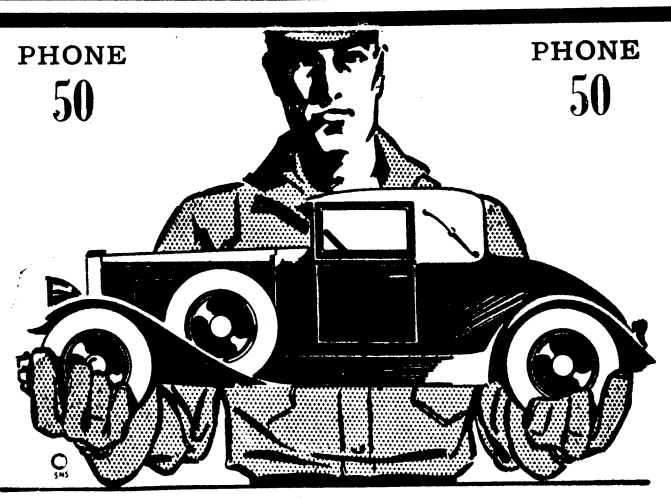
One Reason

. . . why Collin's bread is so good is that it is carefully superintended during the baking and it is made from the best of flours. It's a treat to try it!

COLLIN'S BAKING CO.

1144 13th St.

PHONE 50 PHONE 50



in.. PERFECT CONDITION

READY to purr along for thousands of carefree miles! Perfect condition plus lowest prices equals satisfaction—that's what you get when you have your car gone over here.

Joe Blankenship

1017 - 1st Avenue

Wrecker Service Day and Night

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

Our diligent assistant sub-sleuth for tactics last Friday unearthed a document, the discovery of which we believed to be of the greatest import to our public. We therefore rush it to the press. The paper, somewhat illegible and partially chewed, was captured during the flight of the Reds toward Eelbeck. So far as decipherable, the document reads as follows:

This cut sheet, AND NO OTHER, will hereafter be used on all critiques of field exercises. The use of the words "satisfactory,' "well done," "good," and similar terms is specifically prohibited. There is no such thing as "an excellent solution."

MAJOR CUTS

1. You were designated as a mounted officer, but failed to ride your horse.
2. Your horse neighed.
3. While your horse did not neigh, he might have neighed.
4. If you were assigned no mount, you get a cut on neighing anyway.
5. You had no compass.
6. You did not know how to read the compass you had.
7. Conditions of light were such that a compass was useless anyway.
8. If you must simulate Kit Carson, use a fur cap.

MINOR CUTS

9. Your troops ran you.
10. Your troops ran the umpire ragged.
11. You displayed sour leadership in the following particulars:
a. Permitting tanks to make noises.
b. Permitting artillery to fall off bridges.
c. Permitting rain to fall prior to problem, thus ruining roads.
d. Permitting corporals to use flashlights.
e. Permitting student umpires to use flashlights.
f. Permitting First Section umpires to use flashlights, bonfires, auto headlights, matches, whistles, and shouts. (ADVISORY).
g. If you have not been cut on leadership under a to f above, take a cut here on general principles.
12. You set too fast a pace to the line of departure,
13. You did not reach the line of departure on time.
14. For heaven's sake!
15. You studied your map.
16. Like McClellan, you had a bright idea.
17. You certainly did a bum job of trying to get through the haze we threw around the problem.
18. This is an awful solution.
19. This is an appalling solution.
29. This is a frightful solution.
21. This is a lousy solution.
22. You can't come back to the next C. M. T. C.

Jenkins, John L., Lieutenant Colonel, Infantry (alis "Bridgehead Johnny," alis "The West Virginia Sage") has us pop-eyed every time he mounts the Kriz Hall rostrum these days. A human encyclopedia on things military! Defensive positions, river crossings, defiles, civil disturbances, small wars, Zulu wars, muzzie-wuzzie wars, with tropical, mountain, and arctic wars still in the offing. That gentleman knows his war onions, oh my countrymen! And provides variety to a schedule which, with the coming of Spring (pronounced Sprigg), tends to grow monotonous.

* * *

And while we are a it, we offer the First Section a congrat. on their program of lectures on foreign armies. Interesting and instructive. But, no "pay" problems we hope.

* * *

A fast tank, to Tharp, is one of the old 6 ton babies out on Holliday Hill. "Fast," sez Llewellyn, "I'll say they are fast! Just you try to move one."

* * *

The supply era ended with a bang when the 105 members of the class were awarded on a marked problem 94 A's (A plusses included), 9 B's, and two "absent's." We regret to state, however, that there may be some downward revision of grades prior to official announcements of the score.

* * *

And will there be some map studying when we wander forth on that tree planting job?

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

ANNUAL MANEUVERS SCHEDULED HERE CALLED OFF

(Continued From Page 1)

out the proposed plan of reforestation.

The troops which were to have assembled here for the annual maneuvers included the First Battalion, 8th Infantry, from Ft. Screven; the Sixth Cavalry, the Twenty-second Infantry, Ft. McPherson, Ga.; and troops from Ft. McClellan, Ala.

YOU'LL LIKE IT AS MUCH AS THE KIDS DO—AND THAT'S SAYING A LOT!

because Kinnett's is carefully made from the very finest of ingredients and its flavor is different from anything else you've ever tasted.

Kinnett's Ice Cream

Sold At The Officers' Club

Why not assure yourself of an income after retirement regardless of future legislation?
The method is safe, convenient, and possible even during a "pay freeze."

Call TRACY DAVIS

Phones 3200 - 622 Columbus, Ga.

ANNOUNCING NEW LOCATION OF

ROYAL JEWELRY CO.

STOCK——FIXTURES AND ACCOUNTS

1151 BROADWAY

NEXT DOOR TO THE FOURTH NATIONAL BANK

PAYMENTS ON ACCOUNTS

Should Be Made At This New Location

OR TO MR. JOHN LEE, WHO HAS BEEN APPOINTED OUR AUTHORIZED COLLECTOR OF ACCOUNTS

WATCH THE PAPERS FOR ANNOUNCEMENT OF

BANKRUPT SALE

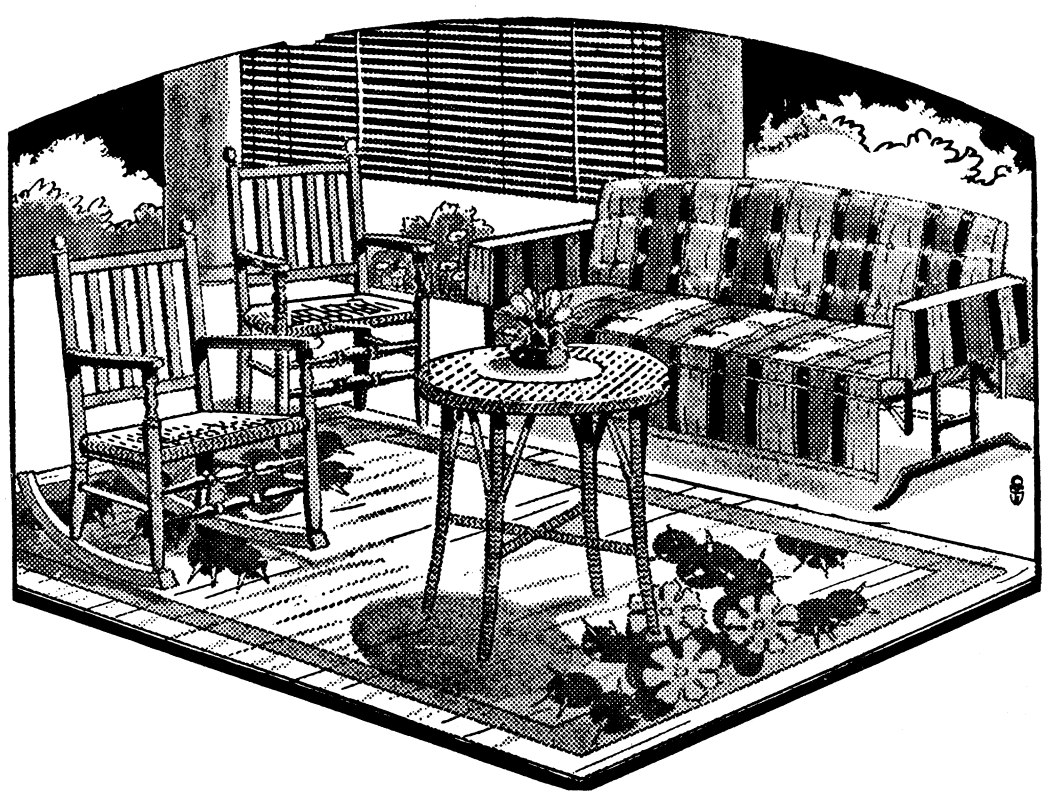
EAT TOM'S TOASTED PEANUTS

1928 Nash Coupe ..... $165
1931 Ford Spt. Rdstr... $240
1929 Ford Town Sedan $195
1932 Plymouth Coach $430
1931 Ford Town Sedan $345
1930 Pres. 8 Stud. Sed. $395
Many More Priced From $40.00 Up. E. Z. Terms

Columbus Roberts Motor Company
510 12th Street

SPRING HAS COME

And It's High Time That House-Owners Began To Select The Kind Of Porch Furniture They Will Need . . . At ROTHSCHILD'S:

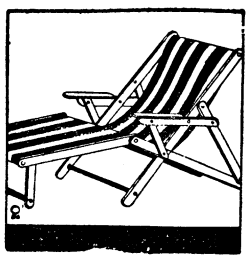


GLIDERS

One of the most attractive and useful of all outdoor furniture items. These gliders are sturdily constructed and will give a long lease of service.

SHADES

CHAIRS



SPECIAL GLIDER—6-ft. glider with upholstered back and seat. All cotton filled. Special for . . . $9.95

6 loose cushion glider with steel hangers—nice selection of course $13.75

6 loose cushion glider . . . with steel hangers, coil springs—cotton felt filled in best fabrics, for $18.50

To make the porch more comfortable—slatted shades with porcelain fixtures, heavily corded and patentable removable feature. A size to fit your porch.

STEAMER DECK CHAIRS—This season's chairs have more appeal than formerly. Chair with arms and heavy drill covering. No foot rest. 99c

DECK CHAIR—a folding upright chair with canvas back and canvas seat. Sturdily built $1.19

PORCH ROCKERS—Made with maple frames and cewe seat . . . $3.50

OAK PORCH SWINGS—Complete with chairs. Nice size with "S" shaped seat. Not put up . . . $1.95

FOR PERFECT SATISFACTION BUY AT:

H. ROTHSCHILD

LEADING FURNITURE HOUSE IN COLUMBUS FOR 39 YEARS.

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1933 — NUMBER 50

TOWN TOPICS

Dan Cupid is on the rampage again. He apparently lurks in every nook and cranny of our little community but inflicts most of his damage in Block 21, which, at the present rate, will soon be depopulated. The general consensus of opinion would have Bob Johnston and Bill Moore, latest victims to an epidemic which seems to be contagious, decorated for "conspicuous gallantry in the face of a 15 percent pay cut."

To Bob Johnston and Bill Moore who showed such thoroughly excellent taste in choosing Miss Mary Kline and Miss Phyllis Sargent respectively as brides-to-be, we offer our congratulations; and to Miss Mary Kline and Miss Phyllis Sargent who were willing to acknowledge Bob Johnston and Bill Moore respectively as prospective husbands, we offer our congratulations too. That should cover everyone.

* * *

In the face of this ghastly epidemic, we deemed it fitting to send out roving reporters to gather and assimilate the opinions of represenative members of the younger set. The roving reporters went at the task with their customary efficiency; in other words, we finally solicited the opinions ourselves.

Many and varied were the ideas expressed. Of course, it would be impossible to set them all down in print, but a few are certainly worth publication.

Averred Mike Mullikin: "I am positive that I can repel the amorous advances of the weaker sex for some time to come. My only love is my Essex sedan which, by the way, I washed and polished Sunday afternoon."

Confirmed Ned Winston: "When I can locate a lass who is mentally capable of appreciating my subtle puns, I will settle down but not until then."

Argued Betty Welty: "This fifteen per cent pay cut is a lot of bunk. Why, two can live as cheaply as one, and besides, if they can't live on anything else, they can certainly live on love."

We attempted to locate Tommy Sherburne in an effort to extract an opinion from him, but he was not available as he was endeavoring to find the Georgia Tech tennis team at the time.

* * *

April first bore no significance to Tommy Sherburne except, of course, that it was the first day of the current month. On this unsuspecting, noble-minded lieutenant, a cruel hoax was perpetrated. Saturday morning, Tommy was informed by telephone that he was expected to entertain the members of the Georgia Tech tennis team before the match it was scheduled to play with Fort Benning stars that afternoon.

That the signal honor of entertaining the collegians should have been accorded him to the exclusion of everyone else did not seem out of the ordinary in the least. So the gallant lieutenant, moderately inflated, rushed over to the Officers' Club and prepared to make his grand entree, probably to the accompaniment to collegiate cheers from within.

The instigators of the hideous deed were already ensconced comfortably

(Please turn to page 7)

Fifty-Six Entries Participate Last Week In Night Ride

Fifty-six riders, representing the academic department and several classes of the Infantry School, the combatant units of the Fort Benning garrison, and other officers of the post, participated in the annual night-ride, conducted under the direction of the academic department, on Saturday evening, April 1.

The participants in the cross-country contest assembled at the Polo-Hunt Club, the starting point of the ride, which began at 7:30 p. m. Before starting, each of the riders, who rode in teams of two, was given an envelope, containing a map, a check card, and directions for locating various stations on the course. At each of these stations the riders were required to present their cards to the judge stationed there for certification that the rider had located that particular point on the course. At the finish each horse was inspected by a veterinarian to ascertain that it was in good condition before the rider was permitted to submit his card for report at the final station for checking of time. While the ride was in progress a large map showed the positions of the respective teams from time to time as reports were received, by radio, from the various stations on the course.

Major John B. Thompson, Cavalry, was in charge of the night ride, and was assisted by Captains Michael B. Halloran, John W. Blue, Joseph A. Nichols, Landon J. Lockett, and Lieutenants Hammond M. Monroe, and Ovid O. Wilson.

National Guard Completes Firing

Results of the record rifle firing of the national guard and reserve officers' course of the Infantry School, as compiled by the academic department, show that of the 122 students completing the course, eight were qualified as expert riflemen, twenty-two as sharpshooters and 92 as marksmen.

Captain Carl V. Shoemaker, Oregon National Guard, made the highest score, 231. Captain Harold N. Richardson, Colorado National Guard was second with a score of 230, and Lieutenant Robert W. Johnson, Alabama National Guard tied with Captain William J. Sutton, Texas National Guard for third place, each having a score of 327.

In the sharpshooters Captain Van F. Pyland, Texas National Guard headed the list with a score of 221, Lieutenant Morris N. Brown, Infantry Reserve, Texas, and Lieutenant Robert S. Furber, Infantry-Reserve, Minnesota, each with a score of 219, took second honors, and Captain Chester T. Brown, made third high score with 218.

Special Units Wins Mess Competition

Upon the completion of his monthly sanitary inspections of the troop messes at Fort Benning, Major Homer L. Connor, medical inspector, awarded first place to the mess of the Special Units. Second place was won by the station hospital mess, and third place was taken by Company D, 29th Infantry.

Accused Officer at Trial

Lieut. Norman Ballie-Stewart (center), of the Seaforth Highlanders, is shown with his guards, relaxing during an interim in his trial in London charged with selling military secrets to a foreign agent. The young officer was found not guilty on three of ten charges and the findings of the court martial on the remaining charges now go to higher authorities for final disposition. If convicted Lieut. Ballie-Stewart faces 98 years imprisonment.

How The Students Would Look At The Roosevelt Plan

REFORESTATION REGIMENT
Great Smoky Mountains — 1 April, 1933.
12:00 Midnight

Field Order No. 1.

Maps—U. S. Forestry Survey, 1925, 1:62500, Great Smoky Quad.

1. a. An enemy force estimated as one Brigade of Unemployed Uhlans and one regiment of Depression Dragoons has been marching in our general direction for some time.
   b. Our entire force of 250,000 of the 1st Conservation Corps is in our rear.
2. a. The 1st Reforestation Regt., supported by the 2d Pruning Co., and 3d Seed and Seedling Plat, will organize and defend the Great Smoky Mountain area at once, Battalions abreast, 1st Sawmill Battalion on the right. Main line of resistance PAYCUT—PAY-FREEZE—8 1-3 to 15 percent. Boundary between Battalions is POWDER RIVER.
   Our advance guard consisting of the 1st POISON IVY CO., will outpost the line of MORATORIUM CREEK to cover the re-opening of the banks.
3. a. The 1st Sawmill Battalion will disorganize and dig holes all over the area of EMPTY POCKET RIDGE paying particular attention to the right flank to prevent tree scale and boll weevil.
   b. The 2d Slashing Battalion will defend the area WEAK BEER—3.2—10c.
   c. The 3rd Spraying Battalion will remain in regimental reserve in woods to be planted somewhere by the 1st Nursery Platoon.
   d. Thorns and Briars will be planted along the entire front by the 1st Seed and Seedling Plat.
   c. The 2d Pruning Company will clear the Regimental front, paying particular attention to thorns and briars planted by the 1st Seed and Seedling Company.
   f. Regimental Pine Cone Throwing Platoon will support the defense by forest fire from all directions.
   x. 1st Sawmill Battalion and 2d Slashing Battalion will move to their position by log raft down the TENNESSEE RIVER.
4. a. Pruning Knife and Seed Dump in vicinity of FALLEN TIMBER.
   b. Regimental Aid Station at crossing of FREE SOUP CREEK and HANDOUT HIGHWAY.
5. C. P. Regiment LAYHOLD.
   1st Sawmill Battalion—HEAVE.
   2d Slashing Battalion—TAKEITAWAY.
   3rd Spraying Battalion—DROPIT.

By Order of—
Col. I. M. Upthecreek
Yell O. Pine
Lt. Col., 1st Reforestation Regt.
Executive

Official
Douglas Fir
Capt., 1st Ref. Regt.
S.3.

Distribution: Wastebasket.

Ft. Benning Makes Contribution To Memorial Fund

"We are pleased to demonstrate our whole-hearted cooperation with other communities throughout the state of Georgia in this splendid humanitarian enterprise in which we are so keenly interested" said Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, in forwarding a check for $1,000 representing a contribution from the personnel of the Infantry School at Fort Benning to the Georgia Hall fund at Warm Springs Foundation.

The check from the Fort Benning Community Chest Fund was sent to Cason J. Calloway, at LaGrange, chairman of the committee in charge of the campaign to raise funds for the construction of the building at Warm Springs, as a tribute to the interest of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Warm Springs Foundation, and his efforts to aid the victims of infantile paralysis.

According to sponsors of the project, the construction of Georgia Hall at President Roosevelt's part-time home at Warm Springs, will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, which sum is to be raised by contributions from Georgia people. The buildings, which will be of fire-proof construction, will comprise forty to fifty rooms for patients, a number of living rooms, and sun parlors, and will be fitted with a variety of conveniences and comforts especially designed to aid in the treatment of crippled children. It is planned to have the building completed in time for President Roosevelt's anticipated visit to Warm Springs next fall.

Fort Benning is one of the first Georgia communities to subscribe to the Warm Springs project, and the check sent by General King represents a contribution from every officer, warrant officer, army nurse, and enlisted man at the post, each of whom annually donates one day's pay to the Community Chest Fund.

The text of General King's letter to Mr. Calloway is as follows: "In reply to your kind letter of March 27, 1933, it gives us great pleasure to enclose herewith a check for one thousand dollars as a contribution of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning toward the building of the Georgia Hall at Warm Springs.

"Fort Benning is pleased to take this early opportunity to demonstrate its loyalty to the President, as the Commander in Chief of the Armies and Navy, by contributing to a project in which he is so keenly interested. We are pleased to demonstrate our whole-hearted cooperation with other communities throughout the state of Georgia in this splendid humanitarian enterprise in which we are so keenly interested."

General Malone Arrives Soon For Columbus Visit

Major General Paul B. Malone, former commandant at Fort Benning and now Commanding Officer, 3rd Corps Area, and Mrs. Malone, will arrive here Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Orryl S. Robles. Mrs. Robles is the daughter of General Malone.

UNIFORMS

You can depend on us to give you the very finest of service in uniform tailoring and also on the fact that we have a very fine record of dependability at Fort Benning.

Only the best of craftsmanship and materials are used in the making of any garment we tailor.

We invite you to visit our shop and investigate our claims.

A R T H U R

PERLITIUS

the Tank Tailor

LOCATED IN THE TANK AREA

Girl Scout Notes

Cardinal Troop

Tuesday, April 4

We have some good times ahead! An overnight trip in early May for all the Girl Scouts, and one in this month for those taking the Pioneer badge from Capt. Hones. Also we have many other badges to work on right now. Believe me, we're going to "Be Prepared" for our Court of Awards in May.

At our meeting today, we had mo badges being taken, so it did not reach its climax until the Flag Ceremony. Mrs. Matchett came to watch, and brought two ladies from town, who are going to start a Girl Scout troop in Columbus. Good luck, New Troop!

Daffodil Troop

A hike had been planned for our last meeting but the sky looked like it was going to storm any minute so we could not venture far from the cabin.

Mrs. Cota came and took the names of all the girls who are going to take Minstrel Badge.

Then we played a hard Nature game with Peggy Arnold and Helen Matchett winning the prize which was a peanut bar.

The girls who were going to serve tea at the Polo Club had to leave so we went out on the grass and ate the picnic lunch.

We had another surprise, our thoughtful Captain and Lieutenant ordered "chunkies," for the troop and we certainly did enjoy them.

We had the good night circle after a nice meeting even though we couldn't go on a hike.

REFINANCING means reduced worry

Let us explain a simple plan that has helped others and may help you. Our interest charges are straight 8% with no additional charges for investigations. We can give you Twenty-four hour service.

Fidelity Loan & Investment Company

1206 FIRST AVENUE

T. E. BAISDEN, Secretary-Treasurer

NEW SPRING

SUITS

MEN AND YOUNG MEN

Dress Up! for Easter

$19.50 AND $22.50

Two Trousers

Arrow Shirts. Interwoven Sox. Bradley Knit Goods.

And other nationally advertised lines of men's wear.

We appreciate your charge account.

Jno. K. Harris Co.

1122 BROADWAY

Things Chinese

From The Sentinel

The term "patience" embraces three quite different meanings. It is the act or quality of expecting, long, without complaint, anger, or discontent. It is the power or the act of suffering or bearing quietly or with equanimity any evil—calm endurance. It is also employed as a synonym of perserverance. that the group of qualities to which reference is here made has a very important bearing on the life of people to whom they belong, is obvious at a glance. The disadvantage arising from a separate and distinct examination of individual Chinese characteristics is nowhere more obvious than in the consideration of the qualities of patience and perseverance. These characteristics of the Chinese are inseperably connected with their comparative "absence of nerves," with their "disregard of time," and especially with that quality of "industry" by which the national patience and perseverance are most conspicuously and most effectively illustrated. What has been already said upon these topics will have served to suggest one of the chief virtues in the Chinese character, but the necessarily desultory treatment involved in such incidental mention deserves to be supplemented by a more comprehensive presentation.

Among a dense population like that of the Chinese Empire, life is often reduced to its very lowest terms, and those terms are literally a "struggle for existence." In order to live, it is necessary to have the means of living, and those means each must obtain for himself as best he can. The Chinese have been well said to "reduce poverty to a science." Deep poverty and a hard struggle for the means of existence will of themselves never make any human being industrious; but if a man or a race is endowed with the instinct of industry, these are the conditions which will tend most effectually to development of economy, which, as we have seen, is a prominent Chinese quality. These conditions also develop patience and perseverance. The hunter and the fisherman, who know that their livelihood depends upon the stealth and wariness of their movements, and the patience with which they wait for their opportunity, will be stealthy, wary, and patient, no matter whether they happen to belong to the races of mankind classed as "civilised," to those called "semi-savage." The Chinese have for ages been hunting for a living under conditions frequently the most adverse, and they have thus learned to combine the active industry of the most civlised peoples with the passive patience of the North American Indians.

The Chinese are willing to labor a very long time for very small rewards, because small rewards are much better than none. Ages of experience have taught them that it is very difficult to make industry a stepping-stone to those wider opportunities which we of the West have come to look upon as its natural results. They are "natural" results only in the sense that when appropriate conditions are found these results will follow. A population of five hundred to the square mile, it is scarcely necessary to observe, is not one of the conditions adapted to lead to practical verification of the adage that industry and economy are the two hands of fortune. But the Chinese is content to toil on for such rewards as he may be able to get, and in this contentment he illustrates his virtue of patience.

It is related of the late General Grant, that on his return from his trip around the globe, he was asked what was the most remarkable thing that he saw. He replied at once that the most extraordinary sight which he anywhere beheld was the spectacle of a petty Chinese dealer by his keen competition driving out a Jew. There was great significance in the observation. The qualities of Jewish people are by this time well known, and have led to most surprising results, but the Jews are after all but a small part of the human race. The Chinese, on the other hand, are a considerable percentage of the whole populaton of the planet. The Jew who was driven out by the Chinese did not presumptively differ in any essential respect from any other Jew. The result of the competition would probably have been the same though the competitors had been different in their identity, for it is morally certain that the successful Chinese did not differ in any essential particular from millions of other Chinese who might have chanced to be in his situation.

It is in his staying qualities that the Chinese excels the world. Of the quiet persistence which impels a Chinese to keep on year after year attending the examinations, until he either takes his degree at the age of ninety or dies in the effort, mention has already been made. No rewards that are likely to ensue, nor any that are possible, will of themselves account for this extraordinary perseverance. It is a part of that innate endowment with which the Chinese are equipped, and is analogous to the fleetness of the deer or the keen sight of the eagle. A similar quality is observed in the meanest beggar at a shop door. He is not a welcome visitor, albeit so frequent in his appearances. But his patience is unfailing, and his perserverance invariably wins its modest reward, a single brass cash.

That quality of Chinese patience which to us seems the most noteworthy of all, is its capacity to wait without complaint and to bear with calm endurance. It has been said that the true way to test the real disposition of a human being is to study his behavior when he is cold, wet, and hungry. If that is satisfactory, take the individual in question, "warm him, dry him, and fill him up, and you have an angel." There is a conviction which often finds utterance in current literature, that it is as dangerous to meet an Englishman deprived of his dinner as a she-bear robbed of her cubs, and it is not easy to perceive why the truth which underlies this statement is not as applicable to all Ango-Saxons as to the inhabitants of the British Isles. With all our boasted civilisation we are under bondage to our stomachs.

The writer once saw about one hundred and fifty Chinese, most of whom had come several miles in order to be present at a feast, meet a cruel disappointment. Instead of being able, as was expected, to sit down at about ten o'clock to the feast, which was for many of them the first meal of the day, owing to a combination of unforseen circumstances they were compelled to stand aside and act as waiters on about as many more individuals. The latter ate with relish and that deliberation which is a trait of Chinese civilisation in which it is far in advance of our own. Before the meal for which they had so long and so patiently waited could be served, another delay became necessary, as unforseen as the first, and far more exasperating. What did these hundred and fifty outraged persons do? If they had been inhabitants of the Britsh Isles, or even of some other portion of "nominally Christian lands," we know very well what they would have done. They would have worn looks of sour discontent, and would have spent the entire day until three o'clock in the afternoon, when it was at last possible to sit down, in growling at their luck, and in snarling at their environment generally. They would have passed fiery resolutions, and have "written a letter with five 'Now, Sirs,' to the London Times." The hundred and fifty Chinese did nothing whatever of the sort, and were not only good-tempered all day, but repeatedly observed to their hosts with evident sincerity and with true politeness that it was of no consequence whatever that they had to wait, and that one time was to them exactly as good as another. Does the reader happen to know of anv form of Occidental civilization which would have stood such a sudden and severe strain as that?

That Chinese nerves are totally different from those with which we are endowed has been already shown but that does not prove that the "obtuse-nerved Turanian" is a stoic like the North American Indian. The Chinese bear their ills not only with fortitude, but, what is often far more difficult, with patience. A Chinese who had lost the use of both eyes applied to a foreign physician to know if the sight could be restored, adding simply that if it could not be restored he should stop being anxious about it. The physician told him that nothing could be done, upon which the man remarked, "Then my heart is at ease." His was not what we call resignation, much less the difference of despair, but merely the quality which enables us to "bear the ills we have." We have come to recognise worry as the bane in our modern life, the rust which corrodes the blade far more than the hardest use can destroy it. It is well for the Chinese that they are gifted with the capacity not to worry, for taking the race as a whole, they are comparatively few who do not have some very practical reason for deep anxiety. Vast districts of this fertile Empire, are periodically subject to drought, flood, and, in consequence, to famine. Social calamities, such as lawsuits, and disasters even more dreaded because indefinite, overhang the heads of thousands, but this fact would never be discovered by the observer. We have often asked a Chinese whose possession of his land, his house, and sometimes his wife, was disputed, what the outcome would be. "There will never be any peace," is a common reply. "And when will the matter come to a head?" "Who knows?" is the frequent answer; "it may be early or it may be late, but there is sure to be trouble in plenty." For life under such conditions what can be a better outfit than an infinite capacity for patience?

—Chinese Characteristics
by ARTHUR H. SMITH

Sgt. Villiens Is Seriouslv Injured

Staff Sergeant Frank Villienes and his wife were injured, the former critically, in an accident which occurred late Wednesday afternoon on the Fort Benning road. Sgt. Villiens, who is in the 66th Infantry (Light Tanks) was the more seriously hurt of the two, having suffered severe injuries about the head.

According to reports, the car, which was traveling at a rapid rate of speed toward Columbus, left the road at a spot about a mile east of the Fort Benning cemetery and crashed into a pine tree alongside the road.

BOLOGNA

Bologna is going to come into its own when Beer arrives, but OLD SETTLER'S Pork Sausage is with us in the present. Try it for breakfast tomorrow. It never fails to satisfy. Every pound guaranteed by

The Provision Co., Inc.

29th Inf.

HQ. COMPANY, 1ST BN.

Well it looks as if the boys intend to keep their promise to Lieut. Brady, with everyone here wishing them the best of luck, and are turning out in full force for every game so far. As you know the elmination of teams in each battalion has started or rather has just finished with Headquarters 1st Battalion taking over all comers. We are now awaiting the whistle for the final round for he Regimental Championship.

Company "A" was trampled in the dust to the tune of 48 to 40; Company "B" took the same route and came out on the small end of a 41 to 30 affair; and last but not least Company "C" very determined to halt the progress of this mighty aggregation, could only find solace in the fact that they held us to a 23 to 22 score.

The boys that have been carrying the brunt of these hard fought battles are to be commended for the fine spirit and sportsmanship they have shown in each and every game. Little Ripper Ray and Snead have been horns in the sides of every contender so far and we are looking forward for them to do the same to our brothers in arms from the other battalions. Knight has been handing out some mighty good centering and has been responsible for some of the scores turned in. Perry who is Snead's running mae has given everyone the impression of a streak of lightning with hard frequent dashes down the floor for scores. And Burge, our rookie, has turned in some very sweet work at the guard position. And last but not least comes our own Mike. Mike Carpenter, whom everyone in the Post knows or has heard about, through a trick of Fate turned an ankle just before the contests started and has been nursing it since. But with all that, Mike attended every game in uniform with the intention of giving his best if called upon. And that alone is enough to bolster the spirit of any team. Mike has been working hard with our mighty team and is one reason why we are at the top so far. The team and the company wants to thank you Mike for your wonderful spirit and co-operation shown. Keep up the good work buddies.

Sports, sports, sports,—and how we like that word. The more we have of it the more we want. Our volleyball team is strong and always ready to take on anyone that has an idea they can vanquish us. Just call and we will arrange a game any time. Our baseball team has been working hard to get in shape and from all outlooks we are headed for the Regimental championship this year. In fact we do not intend to be stopped.

Now for a word of sympathy. Pvt. Hampton and Pvt. Carter of this organization, both in the hospital from injuries received from horses have our sincerest wishes for a speedy recovery. Pvts. Hamptom and Carter are excellent soldiers and are well liked by everyone in the company. We are looking forwar do their return to duty very soon, feeling as healthy and well as they did befor entry to the hospital.

Well folks look us up next week and I am sure that you will find something that will interest you very much. Here is hoping that this wonderful spring weather hasn't made you too lazy to do so.

—Bernard Stolier.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

Headquarters Company seems to be in tune with the weather, Spring and sunshine days are here, the flowers and trees are blooming so are the baseball players of Headquarters Company. If you don't believe it some evening after 5:00 p. m. just notice our lawn. It is impossible for anyone to get by without getting hit by a ball. This shows the Company spirit. They go into everything whole heartedly and always come out on top. On our baseball team we have four stars of last season who are Sgts. LaBonte and Hayes and Corporals Easley and Presley.

They are showing the new recruits the ropes. It seems as if the baseball fever has even worked into the Headquarters personnel of the company, because last Sunday Corporals Youngblood and Tuell were seen out getting the kinks out of their arms. We won our first game of the season Monday from Cannon Company, 5 to 2. This shows that we are still leading the way.

We are very grateful to our Company Commander, Captain Porter and our First Sergeant "Houghtby" for looking forward and promoting and filling all the vacancies ahead of time so that the men could get the benefit of the pay before the first of April. It was a complicated matter to handle. Everyone was taken care of in some way.

Corporal Hayes was promoted to sergeant.

Pfc. Mueller was promoted to Corporal. Corporal Mueller is our efficient company clerk.

Appointed first class private:
Brown, G. C., Camp, John, Keen, F. B., Smith, G. H.

Rated specialist 4th class:
Medere, and Clide.

Rated specialist, 5th class:
Preston.

Rated specialist 6th class:
McLendon, Montgomery, Armstrong, L. R., Davis, O. H., Barker, B. W., Owens, A. L., Short, M. T., Williams, R. F.

The Regiment staged a new parade last Saturday (all companies formed on their organization porches and marched out and it made quite a spectacular sight.

—I. M. Yarbrough.

COMPANY "C"

The anticipation of the return of our Mess Sergeant, Joe King Runnels, has finally ended by his generously surrendering his furlough to the First Sergeant. We are all very glad to see him within our kitchen walls once again and we feel assured that this organization will once more top the list on the monthly kitchen inspection for this month.

Quite a number of our men have just arrived back from furloughs spent in the wilds of most of these Southern States. Among them was none other than Shorty Randall, our most excellent cook. By the look of the water mark on Shorty, it would seem that he was driven back to the highlands of Georgia by the floods of the Mississippi. Perhaps if he hadn't cut the web on his feet he could have stayed longer in that flood country.

How about that, Smokescreen Peralta?

The writer has had opportunity to come in contact with our one and only Supply Sergeant, Laflar Bruner, who is at present on a well deserved furlough of ninety days in Columbus. From indications he has read just about all the books and magazines available around these parts; including True Stories and Ranch Romances. He stated that after reading the books available at the Library in Columbus he would surrender his furlough and get back to work. Well, here's hoping that the books run out soon!

Hot Cha-Cha! Oscar, I'm telling you! That man Hurley Smith must be in LOVE. He was seen dancing in front of the mirror with a broom in his arms, the other day; and I mean with a smile, too. Just like a sheep in hay-making time. Those are the usual symptoms, all right. And not only that, either; he was heard dreaming out loud a couple of nights ago, saying, "Gee, it sure is grand to be in LOVE!'

Well, Toodle ooo.

—E. F. Daigle.

COMPANY "F"

Howdy folks, Station "F-29" broadcasting from our own studio at Fort Benning.

What's that I hear? Shucks, it's nothing more than Lugenbuhl with his usual growling. Now he is growling about being quarantined. Don't worry, Henry, it can't last much longer.

Speaking of quarantine, we are having it pretty soft. Can't growl at anything except that we can't go places. And we are beginning to see lines of worry on the faces of the married men. Or are they lines of worry? We wonder.

Most of the men seem to have gone "jig-saw" crazy. Anywhere you stop there is a jig-saw puzzle with at least a half-dozen trying to put

(Please turn to page 10)

HERALD WANT ADS

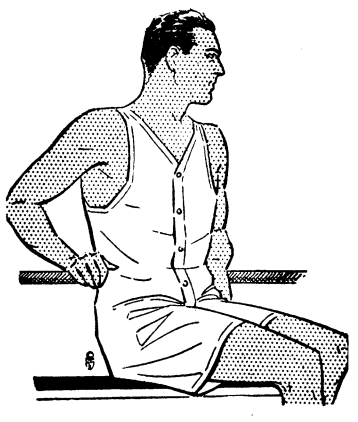
CLASSIFIED ADV. RATES:
20 cents per line or fraction of line. Minimum charge for any classified advertisement, 50 cents. Payment must be made before advertisement is published.

FOR RENT—Four room comfortably furnished apartment, also furnished room, private bath, centrally located, reasonably priced. Phone 1612 or 1116.



TIME TO DRESS for EASTER

Straw Hats
Linen Trousers
Duck Trousers
Underwear
Socks
Shoes

All New Spring Clothing For Lower Prices

PAYNE CLOTHING CO.
1203 Broadway

THE GROCERY DEPARTMENT POST EXCHANGE

Provides an invaluable service to those on whom devolves the duty of preparing menus for private homes. You will find a variety of regular and lenten foods here at all times.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT POST EXCHANGE
Fort Benning, Ga.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

You Won't Need A Taxi!

and you'll save a lot of embarrassment for your girl-friend if you're wise enough to rent one of Still's cars beforehand!

FORDS — CHEVROLETS

Exceptionally Low Rates On Long Trips
CLEAN AND EFFICIENT SERVICE

STILL'S RENT-A-CAR CO.
1232 FIRST AVE.

Royal Jewelry Co.

BANKRUPT

STARTS SATURDAY SALE APRIL 8TH

$25,000 Worth of Nationally Advertised Watches—Diamonds—Silverware, Etc.

The items in this stock are too numerous to mention—We guarantee you will find what you want at 50c to 10c on the dollar of original selling price. Come early! Values like we offer can't last long.

Across From Transfer Station — 1151 Broad — Next Door To FOURTH NATL. BANK

Dress for Easter

We shouldn't have to but perhaps we'd better remind you that

EASTER IS ONLY EIGHT DAYS OFF!

Men's French Flannel Suits $15.00.

VISIT OUR BOYS' SHOP

HOFFLIN and GREENTREE

Columbus' Leading Clothiers

ESTABLISHED 1888

Varsity-town CLOTHES

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Woman's Club Closes One Of Most Successful Years Since Its Founding

The Infantry School Woman's Club brought to a close one of the most successful years in the history of its organization when the final meeting of the year was held at the Polo-Hunt Club on Monday, April 3rd.

Mrs. E. G. Peyton who has served most capably as president during the year 1932-22 was in charge of the meet; after routine matters were disposed of the president presented the slate of officers selected by the nominating committee for the year 1933-34. The slate as presented was unanimously elected and the following ladies will take office on April 24th: Mrs. Philip S. Wood, president; Mrs. W. B. Wallace, 1st vice president; Mrs. J. A. Ladd, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Philip Fry, recording secretary; Mrs. O. E. G. Trechter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Haston Benton, treasurer; Mrs. M. V. Talbot, auditor.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the program was turned over to Mrs. Elbert J. Lyman, who presented in her own charming and intellectual manner "An Afternoon in Hawaii". During Mrs. Lyman's stay in the Hawaiian Islands she studied the folklore and literature of the islands at the University of Hawaii and was able to bring out many points of interest to every one. Assisting Mrs. Lyman were Mrs. Harry Reeder, Mrs. J. J. Albright, Mrs. Dan Cota and Mrs. J. A. Andrews who were in native costumes and sang songs of the islands. They were accompanied by Mrs. Pearson at the piano. During the singing of Aloha beautiful leis were given to Mrs. Peyton, the retiring president; Mrs. Philip Wood the incoming president, also to Mrs. Rhodes Browne and Mrs. Charlton Hudson of Columbus.

Mrs. Eugene Moseley and Jean Westfall charmed the audience with their dances which were interpretations of ancient religious rites.

The hostesses, Mrs. Roger Harrison and Mrs. Thomas Brown, served ices and cakes during the tea hour. The Polo Club was especially lovely on this occasion, having been transformed into a bower of blossoms by the artistic use of wild azaleas, dogwood and other spring blossoms.

* * *

LIEUT. COL. AND MRS. HUNT HONORED AT INFORMAL TEA

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William E. Hunt, who are the house guests of Capt. and Mrs. Norris A. Wimberley, were the honor guests Monday afternoon at a delightful informal tea from four to six given by their hosts at their attractive quarters on Austin Loop. Throughout the house and on the tea table were vases filled with pink and white spring blossoms. A small receiving line consisting of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Hunt, their son Lieut. Richard J. Hunt, and the hosts greeted the guests. The guest list included friends of the Hunts from Fort Benning and Columbus.

* * *

MISS ALICE PRATT HONOREE AT INFORMAL TEA

Miss Alice Pratt of Los Angeles, California, whose engagement to Lt. Charles H. Bonesteel III, was announced several months ago, was the honoree Sunday afternoon at a beautiful tea given by her fiance's sister Miss Eleanor Bonesteel at the attractive quarters of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles H. Bonesteel. The tea was held from four to six, the guests being received by Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Bonesteel, Miss Pratt, Miss Bonesteel and Lieut. Bonesteel. In the dining room, the tea table was laid with a lovely lace cloth, pink blossoms and pink tapers were used as appointments. Serving were Miss Harriotte Atkins and Miss Betty Welty. Miss Bonesteel had as her guests a number of her friends in the younger set from Fort Benning and Columbus.

Today's Fashion

An all-round dress.

By VERA WINSTON

If there is one treasure in the sartorial world, it is the perfect little all-round dress. Of this restricted classification is the frock shown in the accompanying drawing.

It is easy, comfortable and dressy, yet not too much so. The material is blue-gray soft crepe. A double flared sleeve gives the desired width on top of the silhouette, the upper sleeve having inside tucks at the shoulders. The cowl-like neckline is worked in by clever seaming and is caught with a jeweled clip. There is a navy suede belt, but a silver mesh belt or a ribbon one could be substituted if desired to render the dress a little more elaborate.

MISS PHYLLIS SARGENT HOSTESS AT BUFFET SUPPER

Among the many delightfully informal affairs of last week was the buffet supper Sunday evening given by Miss Phyllis Sargent for a few of her friends at the home of her parents Capt. and Mrs. Charles A. Sargent. Miss Sargent announced her engagement and approaching marriage to Lieut. William B. Moore in the Benning Herald last week.

* * *

29TH INFANTRY HOLD REGIMENTAL DANCE AT POLO HUNT CLUB

The monthly dance given by the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry was held Friday evening at the Polo-Hunt Club. The club was attractively decorated in yellow and blue. Receiving the guests were: Col. and Mrs. William E. Persons, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Rowan P. Lemly, Miss Catherine Lemly and Lieut. and Mrs. William McNulty. The guests assembled at nine and danced until twelve, during the evening sandwiches and coffee were served. The 29th Infantry orchestra played. Several informal dinners were held preceding the dance.

* * *

REGULAR THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCE HELD AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The popularity of the Thursday evening supper dances which have been held throughout the Winter continue to increase. To add to the attractiveness of these affairs is the Oriental room opened last Saturday afternoon

(Please turn to page 5)

Charity Egg Hunt Will Be Held On Flournoy Lawn

The children of Fort Benning and Columbus who will be guests at the mammoth Easter Egg hunt to take place on April 10th on the Flournoy lawn will be greeted by Mother Rabbit and her family in person. This little family will be there to help the children find the thousand of gay colored eggs left by the Easter Rabbit. If one will look closely at Flopsey, one will recognize Peggy Pease, Mopsey will be none other than Betty Allen Smith, Cottontail will be Theresa Knight, and the gay Peter will be Dan Thompson. Mother Rabbit will be Rebecca Hardaway.

There are many other attractive features planned for the hunt. Candy, Easter novelties and ice cream may be secured. Then, there will be a huge nest filled with bright colored eggs. These are to be no ordinary eggs. When the children fish from this nest, they will find the eggs, bright green, blue, and yellow on the outside, and on the inside, they will contain dolls, balls, guns, marbles and other toys. Pony rides and rides in Peter Rabbit's Billy goat wagon may also be enjoyed by the girls and boys.

The Easter Egg hunt will be given by the Young Women's Circle of St. Paul church of which Mrs. James T. Smith is President. Mrs. Robert Lewis and Mrs. John Clason are co-chairmen of the hunt. They invite all children of the community and want them to come and try to find the gold, silver and the greatest number of eggs. Three live rabbits and chicks will be the grand prizes. The proceeds of the affair will be used for the work of the circle.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

A Citizen Wherever We Serve

1330 Broadway

R. M. Harding, Manager

A SURE CURE FOR SPRING FEVER

When you feel all "at outs" with the world, try a heaping dish of Foremost Ice Cream and see if you won't feel a hundred per cent better in a very few minutes.

Spring fever and Foremost just won't mix!

Call the SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

As You Desire A Permanent

THE BEAUTY SALON

207 Doctors Bldg.

PHONE 3761

Mrs. Lucile Rushing, Mgr.

EASTER GREETING CARDS

All National Lines of Greetings

WHITE'S BOOK STORE

14 - 12th Street

Maxwell Optical Co.

I. A. MAXWELL

Optometrist and Optician

A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE

1217 Broadway Phone 3718

Announcing . .

OUR NEW LOCATION

We cordially invite our friends among the personnel at Benning to visit us here.

Marcel Permanent Waves With Ringlet Ends

$3.00

We have, associated with us, Mrs. Dekle, of Savannah, and Miss Leebern, who was formerly with the Post Office Beauty Shop.

MARTIN'S BEAUTY PARLOR

2230 Wynnton Drive

DOLAN - HENRY HAT SHOP

AT ALSOBROOK'S

Fashion Favorites—Marvelously New And Refreshingly Different—They Are Distinctively Better Than Any You've Seen Yet—Prices from $1.95 to $10.00.

Fort Benning charge accounts solicited.

The Post Exchange

HAS A DELIVERY SERVICE FROM ITS

SODA FOUNTAIN

The hours of this service are from 11 a. m. to 9:00 p. m., and it is designed particularly for the delivery of ice cream in quarts and smaller quantities to your home.

Excellent Curb Service Also

Phone 69

THE SODA FOUNTAIN

POST EXCHANGE FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

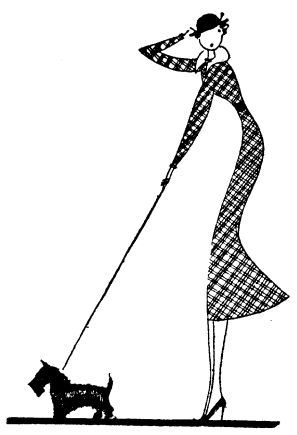
KIRVEN'S



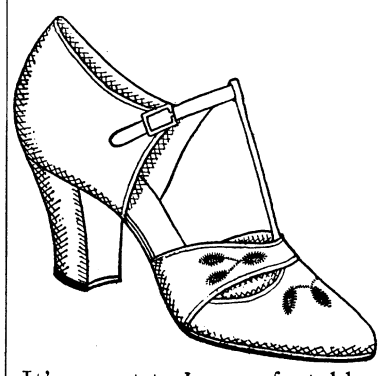
WHITE SHOES

For Spring

White shoes lead the fashion parade and Kirven's fall into line with the smartest whites of the season.

$5.45

An all white or beige pig skin sandal. Cool as a breeze across the ocean.



It's smart to be comfortable. Here's how in a white kid T strap.

A dashing spring tie in white kid. Trim perforations up to the minute.

PIGSKIN TIE

Very soft and very comfortable, it molds itself to your foot.

REGENT PUMP

Of sheer beauty. Light and white it emphasizes the daintiness of your foot.

$5.45

KIRVEN'S

SOCIETY

(Continued from page 4)

with a highly successful the dansant, This room has been especially fitted out for private dinner parties and arrangements are being made to serve a special Wednesday evening supper there also. For Thursday all reservations were taken. Among those entertaining were: Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Weeks, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Frank F. Jewett, Maj. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hearn, Capt. and Mrs. George O. Clark, Capt. and Mrs. Eugene V. Behan, Capt. and Mrs. Eugene W. Lewis, Capt. and Mrs. Harland G. Griswold, Lieut. and Mrs. Hammond M. Monroe, and Capt. Edwin T. Bowden.

* * *

ORGANIZATIONAL BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

The 83rd Field Artillery ladies' bridge club met Tuesday afternoon at the quarters of Mrs. William A. A. Thomas on Perkins Street. Mrs. Thomas and Miss Elizabeth and Margaret Ports were hostesses. Three tables assembled at 2:15 for bridge and at four tea was served to about fifteen members of the club. Among the other monthly bridge clubs which met on Tuesday of this week were: The Special Units which met at the quarters of Mrs. Arthur J. Perry on Austin Loop; The Medical Corps bridge club which was held at the Nurses' quarters, the Nurses being hostesses; and the 29th Infantry bridge club which was entertained by Mrs. John W. Foos with Mrs. Henry C. Britt and Mrs. Earle W. Wheeler assisting. The Tank Corps have a monthly bridge club for the officers and ladies of the regiment. A meeting was held Tuesday at the Tank Club.

LADIES' BRIDGE TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD AT OFFICERS' CLUB

The Officers' Club will be the scene Friday of a ladies' bridge tournament. The rules for the tournamen will be governed by the New York Whist Club rules. Plans are being made to accommodate about eight tables of contract. The entrance fee will be fifty cents per person and the winners will be awarded cash prizes. So far the ladies who have signified entering are Mesdames J. A. Atkins, H. J. Matchett, R. B. Cole, T. L. Jenkins, Guy McKinley, C. E. Fenters, J. E. Bowen, G. P. Howell, D. C. Faith, Elbridge Colby, W. C. Lucas, F. H. Gaston, A. F. Kingman, J. A. Stuart, R. B. Harrison, O. W. Bradley, J. A. Holly and J. A. Ladd and the Misses F. H. Ryan and G. K. Erwin.

PERSONALS

Lieut. Milton H. Pressley returned to Fort Benning Sunday from a three weeks' leave with relatives in Florida.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William E. Hunt and their son William are the house guests for a few days of Capt. and Mrs. Norris A. Wimberley. Col. Hunt's son Lieut. Richard J. Hunt is serving with the 29th Infantry. Col. Hunt is now stationed with the 5th Corps Area at Fort Hayes, Ohio.

Lieut. and Mrs. Lynn E. Brady left last week for Toledo, Ohio where they plan to spend three weeks with relatives.

Capt. and Mrs. Albert H. Dumas of Fort McPherson spent last week end as the house guests of Capt. and Mrs. Gilmer M. Bell.

Capt. and Mrs. Horace O. Cushman had as their house guest for the last week end the latter's cousin Mr. Frank J. O'Neill of Charleston, S. C.

EASTER HATS

$2.95

Straws Fabrics Bakus
All Colors

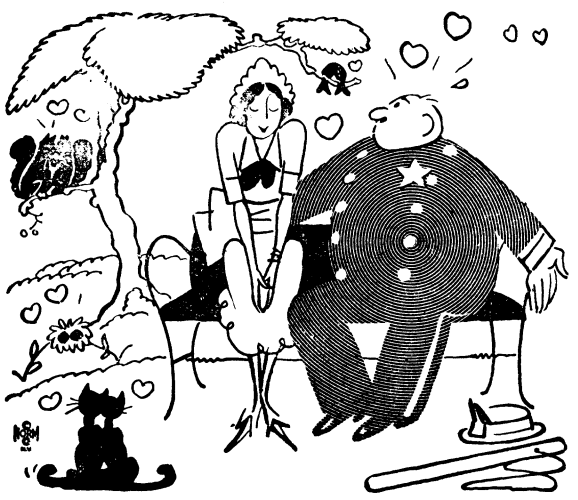
KIRVEN'S

high  hat?

You'd be too in our newest
JAY DE KAY HOSE
85c
Regular $1.00 Value

Sophisticated hose of the sheerest chiffon. New as the latest novel: sparkling as the keenest wit. And all silk from top to toe. With lace welt. All the new spring shades.

KIRVEN'S

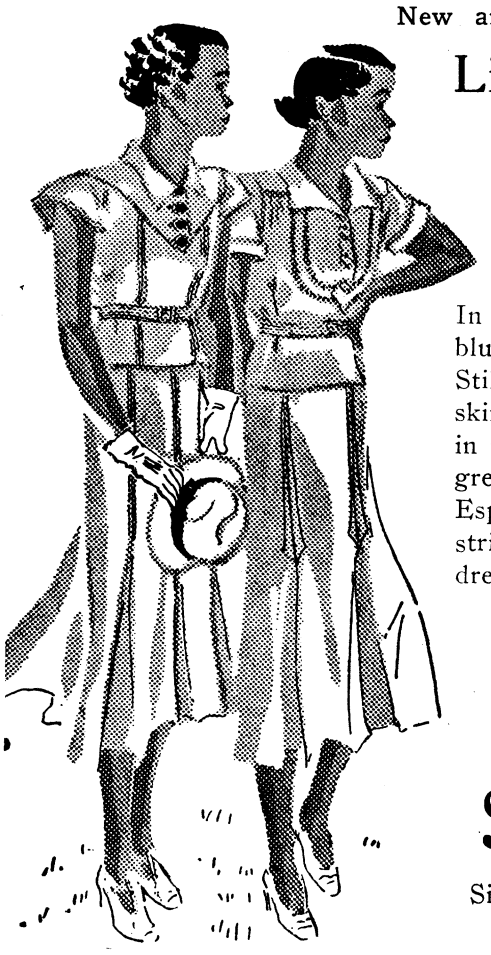


Why . . . Its Spring!

And in Spring, the young lady's (and her mother's and her grandmother's) thoughts turn to new clothes. Dresses that will help you get your man . . . and accessories that make feminine hearts dance.

New arrivals in

Linen Dresses



In white, flesh, maize, blue, and little checks. Still others have solid skirts with over blouse in navy, brown, and green checks on white. Especially swank is the striped shirt waist dress with the patch pockets.

$2.98

Sizes 14 to 44

Also half sizes in prints and solids.
Sizes 16 1-2 to 26 1-2 $10.75

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II APRIL 7, 1933 NUMBER 50

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Thursday, Mar. 30

A maze of rumor and speculation does envelop the class anent assignments now in the offing. A most pleasing pastime stimulating the imagination while preparing the mind for any contingent shock of arriving orders. It should be most obvious, however, that I, together with Gus Regnier and Captain Paul, will not be objectively engaged in reforestation however appropriately we might be subjectively so occupied.

The mention of Captain Paul does recall to me a classmate's remark concerning the biscuit-and-beans instructor's platform appearance; "When Captain Paul has his back to the class it can be easier told by listening than by looking at him."

An afternoon of instruction in the trench mortar and most timely, too, for that it did save many from whatever is the local equivalent of St. Elizabeth's. The recent deluge of tactical erudition which has been poured about us has reduced many to incipient cerebral chaos.

Too much plenty is no good.

The past week of gorgeous weather which we have utilized by listening to lectures in the assembly hall has inspired in me treasonous thoughts. But one instance is that I would willingly exchange this whole week of tactical instruction (with the like of which I have been plied since youth) for the opportunity of firing the machine gun for record, the which I have never had even at the world's greatest Infantry School.

I had believed the uniform for this afternoon's session to be "C" but when Peck, to answer a question, did arise resplendent in Bull Dog galluses it was decided that the uniform wa really "A minus."

Did learn to my sorrow that to ask a question these days is at best a hazardous undertaking. McKinney leading the jeering section and Davidson the hen fruit projectors.

Friday, Mar. 31.

Another pay-day. And it is just that to most of us. A most disappointing day to "Captain" Carpenter whose sudden achievement of rank was unaccompanied by any additional pecuniary remuneration.

The regiment in attack, started yesterday morning, has now tapered down to platoon in attack, required the actions and orders of Lt. 1st platoon. If the problem had but begun on Tuesday we might today be explaining actions and orders of Pvt. Rear Rank Seventh Squad when told to fall in, or the bugler when told to blow. Solution to the latter requirement would be found in our boxes at noon—a mimeograph stating "Bugler answers 'yes sir'."

Somewhat heartened by Major Lee's remark "Getting lost is one of the important things in these affairs." I must be in complete possession of the big picture for I have been lost all week.

Major Reeder did most inaptly attempt realism in his talk by describing a company commander as "engaged in a poker game with his lieutenants or somebody else who had some money." That "else" may have been envy or irony, I know not, but the Major should be apprised that lieutenants are at present limited to parcheesi in their choice of games.

Supply demonstration to beguile the afternoon and I was no end intrigued by Major Robinson's behest on the site of the combat train bivouac to "Notice especially the things that are not present." A bit put about when looking at a vacant spot to determine how many things I didn't see.

In all, a variation of the story of the man in a restaurant who asked for coffee without cream. The waitress was gone for some minutes when she returned with apologies. "I'm sorry, sir, you'll have to take that coffee without milk. We don't have any cream."

I do wonder what inference Colonel Jenkins might have drawn this afternoon from the fact that even the lights went out on him during his talk. From the glib manner in which he proceeded in the dark it would seem plausible that he had his notes in Braille type. My only anxiety caused by worry lest his watch have a non-luminous dial.

Saturday, April 1.

Lay late abed pondering the schedule for the coming week and in especial the part which does prescribe an eight hour day on Wednesday followed by a seven hour night succeeded by a complete Thursday ending with a graded test in the afternoon. By far the most ingenious method yet devised of keeping the class awake during a spring afternoon, that graded test idea. No opportunity, either, to recoup Thursday morning from the enforced Wednesday night insomnia, the schedule maker having provided for then a demonstration instead of lectures by the First Section.

The evening spent at the Polo Club in witnessing the Alpha and Omega of the night ride. Dinner had progressed as far as Pi when I stepped up to the Pari-Mutual to Beta little. Before laying my money I became aware of some inside dope being disseminated by the ranking tennis player of the post. He said "Bet on Cleland. He stands a good chance to win. I've played handball with him and he is aggressive." So on that basis I bet on Gammon because he is a good polo-player.

Monday, April 3

Up betimes and sprightly off to school as does befit a rising young officer with nothing on his mind. The morning's session did impress one idea upon me (and not a bad percentage, that, either when I contemplate some of these recent mornings) to wit, that a regimental ammunition D. P. has no ammunition in it and is consequently not a D. P.; greatly like unto the classic seven ton tractor, model 1917, which weighs six and a half tons, was first made in 1916 and is not a tractor.

The life of Riley completely unenvied this day, J. Joseph having been asked no less than ten questions during the course of the morning.

Millener, if G-2 be trustworthy, to the business of brushing up on principles of night marches against the return of his recent daughter from the hospital.

—Lieut. Peep

Advanced Classics

The Journal of the Proceedings of Group No. 21, Terrain Exermise (Mounted), Battalion in Attack.

• • •

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. Eley of Virginia): "You know the situation, but I will repeat it briefly for incorporation in the official record. The enemy are over yonder (pointing). We are here (pointing). The regimental commander has directed that this battalion, the 1st Battalion, 1st Infantry, attack at 12 o'clock meridian on a frontage of 300 yards. Our right and left boundaries are those branches of Harp's Creek (pointing). Our task this morning is to make my decision as battalion commander as of 11:30 a. m. To that task, gentlemen."

Mr. Gridley of Missouri: "As your battalion S-3, Mr. Chairman, I take it that I should afford this group the benefit of my views. This looks like a cut and dried proposition to me. Our frontage is only 300 yards. On our right and left flanks are swampy streams. The only reasonable, sensible, workable solution is to attack in column of companies."

Mr. Mallet of New York: "Will the gentleman yield?"

Mr. Gridley: "It gives me great pleasure to yield to my esteemed colleague from New York."

Mr. Mallett: "I desire only to state that, as assistant S-3, I am in complete accord with the views expressed by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Gridley). There is but one practicable decision in this case. We must attack in column of companies."

Mr. Lambert of Texas: "Mr. Chairman, I am your S-1. I too agree with the decision proposed by S-3. However, I ask unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks after hearing The School solution."

The CHAIRMAN: "I should like to have the views of the battalion executive (Mr. Ward)."

Mr. Ward of Missouri: "The plan proposed by my friend from the great state of Missouri (Mr. Gridley), which state I have also the honor to represent at this institution, appears most reasonable. However, Mr. Chairman, I wish to wag a warning finger. I can discern no haze whatsoever around this problem. We must recall that Vinegar Joe was quite emphatic in stating that all problems had hazes, and he is running this affair today. Personally I am quite hazy about this lack of haze."

Mr. Mallett: "I would like to state, for the benefit of the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Ward), that the Duke of Wellington told me this morning that this was a hazeless problem."

Mr. Ward: "Permit me to warn the gentleman from New York (Mr. Mallett) to beware the Greeks even when bearing gifts."

Mr. Gaillard of Texas: "Mr. Chairman, seldom do I arise to make an address (applause). Here, however, we encounter a critical situation in the form of a hazeless problem. But is it hazeless? The gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. Gilruth) is our S-2 this morning. Always a diligent, astute worker, he has just returned from a visit to all the other groups working on this identical problem. He informs me that there is complete unanimity of belief that the battalion must attack in column of companies; that even the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. Dill) of Group No. 5, is in agreement. This very unanimity of belief makes me cautious and suspicious. I smell a rodent. I have seen many years of service at this institution. I have yet to see a problem without a haze. It is said that fifty million Frenchmen can't be wrong. But fifty million Frenchmen have never run up against the First Section. (Great applause). Before reaching a definite decision, I counsel most careful scrutiny of all facts available."

Mr. Gridley: "I thank the gentleman. His remarks are inspiring. I can see no haze, but there must be one somewhere. We must be on

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

PLAYBOY CONTEST

Captain Lawson, prominent Biglerville politico, is urging us to institute an investigation to determine the champion playboy of the garrison.

Captain Lawson in his capacity of Police Officer makes a daily round of the post. This gives him an opportunity to check up on the activities of our gay young men who flit from flower to flower, as it were, cheerfully doing their bit to brighten the lives of Benning's attractive debs and subdebs, who might otherwise be forced, during the so-called working hours, to seek vicarious romance between the covers of the latest novel.

Now Captain Lawson, who has a remarkable talent for figures, knows the license numbers of all cars on the post. (If you don't believe this ask him yours the next time you see him, only do it before you get the new registration tag for he can't tell you unless he has seen the tag once.) This gift enables him to tell who is calling on whom, and affords him a convenient means of checking upon the popularity of the girls and the activities of the boys. Of course, the award of Champion Playboy would not be made on this evidence alone, but it would be entitled to considerable weight.

Our brief preliminary consideration of possible candidates convinces us that no one who doesn't get around, at least occasionally, in the morning hours has a chance. This eliminates student officers like Guardsman Fitzgibbons and Luckett, who would otherwise be prominent contenders. It also makes it hard for the Romeos of the Demonstration Regiment, whose opportunities for morning visiting is circumscribed by the exacting duties which fall to the lot of a 2nd Lieutenant of Infantry. The Artillerymen, according to Captain Lawson, seem to have much the better of it and the social activities of the more enterprising contenders of the 83rd, like Heriot and Sherburne, begin, not infrequently, around 11:30 A. M. Friends of Lieutenant Ports, also of the 83rd F. A., have advanced his claim to the championship, but Referee Lawson reports that his circulation index has fallen off materially of late. While still a possibility, he is temporarily out of the running.

"If I were awarding the prize to-day" remarked Captain Lawson in conclusion, "I should unhesitatingly give it to Caldwell Foos. He is on the job from early morning until late at night. He makes every hour count and he has a wide range. If any of the 83rd F. A. boys expect to crowd him out of first place they will have to take their accrued legislative furloughs and get into the game in earnest."

THE FLARE UNCOVERS ANOTHER GENIUS

On an Army post the size of Benning one may discover varied talents which have no connection at all with the profession of arms. For instance, we have at the moment in the garrison an opera singer, a pianist, a poet, and an artist, whose abilities in these arts are distinctly professional. We have also in our midst dancers, newspaper men, and authors, possibly even actors and actresses who could probably make a living—albeit a precarious one—on the outside, even in these days of depression. As for the more unusual gifts which might be unearthed, their number is legion. Those who possess them make no great to do about them and as a result their existence is often unsuspected.

Captain Lawson, the instigator of the Benning Playboy Contest, is like that. Quite recently we were treated to a casual demonstration of his ability as a lightning calculator. As he happens to be the first lightning calculator that we have ever known personally, we were profoundly impressed. As a matter of fact, our own mathematical ability is of such a low order that Captain Lawson's feats seem positively uncanny. He can give instantaneously the square and cube of any two digit number. With equal speed and facility he can multiply two three-digit figures. Reliable witnesses vouch for his ability to extract the cube root of any number that has a cube root without resort to the complicated procedure which we learned in the sixth grade and have never used since.

It seems to us that Captain Lawson's genius for figures ought to be utilized in some way and we shall be glad to entertain suggestions as to how. Only please don't come forward with a proposal that he be designated for the chairmanship of the unofficial Benning Bathing Beauty Contest board, a position now held by Adjutant General Lewis. In the first place, the Adjutant General has served long and faithfully in that office and deserves another term. In the second place, the wisecrack is too obvious to draw anything more than a forced smile from us. We blush even to drag it in this way, but we had to do it in order to forestall a dozen or more incorrigible punsters who couldn't have resisted the temptation to come forward with some such proposal.

GREENROON ALTERCATION SETTLED

In our last week's issue one of our stories ran afoul of the press room alterations department and was slightly garbled in the encounter. Indeed we doubt if even the most astute of our intelligent readers could make much of it. We refer to the account of the altercation between Captains Funk and Halloran over some Carthaginian footgear.

According to the erstwhile Sergeant of Hannibal's Headquarters Guard, the wily Provost Marshal crowded in ahead of him at the first costume garb and commandeered the boots which were properly a part of the Sergeant's uniform. Probably what actually happened was that Captain Funk made his choice of the best looking footgear while Captain Halloran was sulking in the dressing room, bewailing the fact that he had ever enlisted in the Carthaginian infantry. Be that as it may, however, the big Corporal wore the sandals to rehearsal and evinced a determined intention to wear them in the performance. Mike protested, declaring that he would carry the case to the highest theatrical tribunal rather than submit to the indignity of having a corporal in his guard appear on the stage wearing better looking footgear than he.

The next day Captain Halloran received an official communique from the all powerful Provost Marshal, informing him that the M. P.'s had reported him for "garage door open" at such and such an hour.

(Please turn to page 7)

THE FLARE

Sergeant Halloran took the hint.
Corporal Funk kept the sandals.

NIGHT RIDE UPSET

"The race is not to the swift."
Ecclesiastes 9-11

"White hands cling to the tightened rein Slipping the spur from the booted heel."

Kipling—The Winners.

The first team to come thundering in out of the dark to claim victory in the great annual Night Ride was that of Ely and Haskell.

Friends and backers of these two enterprising young emulators of Paul Revere at once crowded about to offer their congratulations. Fair hands were extended to grasp the perspiring mitt of Lieutenant Ely who held the ticket which still had to be initialed by the judges and the Lieutenant, a little confused, perhaps, by the cheering multitude, tarried momentarily to listen to the words of praise that fair lips were speaking.

That moment's halt was fatal. Grubbs and Howard, riding out of the black, flung themselves from their chargers and plowed through the crowd to hand in their card a split second ahead of their rivals.

Rules are rules, and Grubbs and Howard won. Backers of Ely and Haskell, if any, were doubtless peeved but, having arrived too late to place any bets, we salute the boys who stopped to talk to the girls. They lost the race but what of it? Men have lost empires by turning aside to talk to attractive janes and the world, which otherwise would have forgotten them long ago, is still talking about them and secretly approving their conduct.

CUI BONO

The following incident furnishes a case in point for those who wonder why anyone should spend time and effort required to play a part in an amateur dramatic production.

At the Thursday night dance following the Infantry School Dramatic Club's main effort of the current season, Actor Hugh Gilchrist, who made his "initial debut" before the footlights as Carthalo, one of the Carthaginian generals, was dancing with Mrs. Trechter.

"And did you see The Road to Rome"? purred the lady sweetly and then spent the rest of the evening trying to explain to the aggrieved matinee idol how his beard and consummate acting completely concealed his identity.

CITATION FOR THE WEEK

To commander Brett and Sir Sidney Negrotto, Masters of Fox Hounds, for instituting and maintaining a popular policy of "Bring 'em back alive" which has resulted in a year unmarred by accident and marked by record turnouts to the many unique and enjoyable meetings of the Infantry School Hunt.

—E. F. H.

V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75. One year Guarantee. City Drug Store.

| | Down Payment | Weekly Payment |
|---|---|---|
| '31 Chevrolet Coach Extra Good | $100.00 | $6.00 |
| '31 Ford Sport Roadster | 90.00 | 5.00 |
| '29 Ford Town Sedan | 60.00 | 4.00 |
| '29 Nash Sport Coupe | 60.00 | 3.00 |
| '29 Essex Coach | 20.00 | 2.50 |
| '28 Nash Sedan | 15.00 | 2.00 |
| '28 Oakland Coach | 35.00 | 3.00 |
| '29 Buick Standard Coach | 95.00 | 5.00 |
| '30 President State Sedan | 125.00 | 8.00 |
| '28 Chevrolet Sedan | 40.00 | 3.00 |

Trade in your old car as down payment. Many other late models at lowest prices.

Every used car in good condition.

Columbus Roberts Motor Co., Inc.
USED CAR LOT
510 - 12th Street Phone 271

Tales Of The Tent City

Here's an argument for prohibition which came to me in the form of a letter from a friend in Cusseta: "Saturday night was a wide night. I had twelve bottles of Georgia corn, and as the evening shortened, I became disgusted and decided to dump each and every bottle in the sink. I withdrew the cork from the first bottle, poured the contents down the sink with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I then withdrew the cork from the second bottle and did likewise, with the exception of one glass which I drank. I extracted the cork from the third bottle, emptied the good old corn down the bottle, except a glass which I drank. I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it, then threw the cork down the bottle. I pulled the sink out of the next cork and poured the bottle down my neck. I pulled the next bottle out of my throat, and poured the cork down the sink, all but one sink, which I drank. I pulled the next cork out of my throat and poured the sink down the bottle and drank the cork. Well, I had them all empty and steadied the room with one hand and counted the bottles; there were twenty-four, so I counted them again when they came around and I had seventy-four, and as the house came around I counted them and I finally had all the houses and bottles counted, and I proceeded to wash the bottles. I couldn't get the brush in the bottles, so I turned them inside out, washed and dried them all, and went to bed. Believe me, no more corn. Here's a record for High Altitude to shoot at."

* * *

The class extends its congratulations to Capt. "Pat" Ahern upon his arrival at another milestone in the tortuous journey of life. Flowers adorned "Pat's" table last Monday morning at mess and before his place was set an attractive birthday cake

This cake was unique in several ways but principally because it had been sent by the Columbus Post of the Southern Chapter of the G. A. R. If you can think of anything more thoughtful than to have the local contingent of the Southern G. A. R. remember a Bostonian on his birthday please tell us about it.

And another thing. The cake was adorned with a lone candle. Now we are uncertain whether this signifies one or one hundred years or whether it meant that Pat was one year older than the Southern G. A. R.'s. Anyway, we still feel that it was an extremely comradely gesture and the whole mess enjoyed the cake.

And neither snow, nor sleet, nor rain nor fog, nor things visible, nor things invisible, nor the waters over the earth, nor the waters under the earth shall stop the offensive driving in spirit of the bayonet. Not even during practice.

And now we suppose you half dozen Taubers are all puffed up just because some set up editor thought you looked intelligent and put you in the space intended for a group of instructors. Don't write home about it, because you'll probably get razzed as much there as you have here.

A week from today, the first semester of the present year ends. While you are making your arrangements to enjoy the four-day vacation, don't overlook two things. You may be a bunch of heathen for fifty-one Sundays of the year but Easter is Easter all over the face of the globe and remember that mother, sweetheart and wife appreciate a few flowers as a visible token of the affection they like to believe you still have for them.

* * *

Famous sayings of men; "Now gentlemen we don't tell you that this is the only way, but we of the "Infantry School. . . ."

Chaaange OOvuuheere."

"Sergeant wave the red flag."

"The proper method of instruction is explanation, demonstration and application."

* * *

Now we know why they pushed out Maertens for the bayonet instructor. Didja notice that determined look?

* * *

Ain't it surprising how far off our estimates are from what the Engineers estimated and how little grass it takes to hide a section.

* * *

Our idea of a gentleman is the following conversation heard at phone 519 last Saturday and delivered by Petit.

"Hello, is this Louise—The Hell you are."

And the best one we've heard yet is the message received by a certain Columbus damsel(?) left for Lt. Wightman. The conversation went somewhat as follows:

"Hello, is Lt. Wightman there. Well then is Lt. Lynch there. Well I be d—d. You tell Wightman that I don't like being stood up in Columbus on Saturday p. m. even if he is only going to be here for 3 months, he can't trifle with my affections!"

* * *

Dedicated to the Second Platoon to be sung by the 1st and 3rd platoons to the tune "Keep your head down Fritzy boy."

Keep your hands down Second Platoon
Keep your HANDS DOWN SECOND platoon
Early in the morning
At the first formation
He saw Yub
BOLEN saw Yub

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued From Page 1)

in a car parked outside the club when Tommy drove up obviously in a hurry. Someone thought the joke had already gone too far and screamed "April Fool." Tommy made some remark about not having the time to trifle as he had to entertain the Georgia Tech tennis team, and headed for the door.

Disregarding the yells of "April Fool," he strode serenely in the club and inquired the whereabouts of the members of the tennis team he was supposed to entertain. When notified that the match had been postponed, his jaw almost hit the floor and he suddenly became bitterly aware of the diabolical prank that had been played upon him. But, by that time, of course, the damage had been done.

You were scratching an itchy nose
Or fiddling with your clothes
If you want to keep the pages of the Block Book clean
Keep your Hands Down, Second Platoon.

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning
through the
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED

MOTH CARD BOWL-ITIZER
TROY CUNNINGHAM
PURO Representative
Phones — 1443 — 3984-J
1413 - 2ND AVE.
ROACH POWDER VAPORIZING CRYSTALS

FORT BENNING'S COLUMBUS HEADQUARTERS

Looking Your Best

is more than just a matter of choice these days—it's a matter of necessity. Appearance means more than ever before, and Chancellor's is certainly your best bet so far as style, economy and dependability are concerned.

SPRING SUITS

this year are bringing out a variety of new materials both in single and double-breasted styles. We have a wide assortment of both kinds. Prices range from:

$15 UPWARDS

Also A Complete Stock Of Shirts, Ties, Socks, Underwear, Hats, Etc.

CHANCELLOR
C O M P A N Y

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Tetherton And Schilling On Fine Card

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Adolph Heuser, hard-hitting German lightheavy, registered his second victory over Harry Ebbets at Madison Square Garden last week. Heuser carried the fight to his opponent from the opening gong and while Ebbets was always glad to get an opportunity to mix it with his foe, he was unable to match the crushing blows to head and body that the German delivered from time to time.

Both men were groggy several times in the course of the ten-round bout, but the nearest approach to a knockdown came in the second stanza when Heuser landed a terrific blow to the head. The Freeport battler went down but came up immedately, disdaining a count.

* * *

As a result of his conquest of Ebbets, Adolph may get another crack at Maxie Rosenbloom, whom he fought two weeks ago. On that occasion, Slapsie Maxie managed to win a close decision over the Teuton in fifteen rounds, but his victory was far from decisive and many fans are of the opinion that Heuser would win if the two were brought together in a return match.

* * *

Maureen Orcutt's statement to friends that "Bobby Jones is the only man in the game I don't feel I could meet on even terms," has aroused a great deal of controversy and a definite retort from Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, probably the greatest woman tennis player, with the possible exception of Suzanne Lenglen, ever to step on a tennis court.

Apprised of Miss Orcutt's surprising statement, Mrs. Moody made it plain that while her opinion was confined to the realm of tennis, she felt that men players usually can defeat women players of similar ranking.

* * *

Said Mrs. Moody, "Tennis demands strength which men have to a greater degree than women. It demands reach and most men are taller than I. It demands the ability to move quickly across the court, and men are almost always faster than women. Finally, man's psychological make-up is more adapted to sport than woman's.

"I believe men players of top rank can defeat women of the same ranking. Of course, there are many women who can defeat men who are mediocre players, but when the relative ratings are the same, the men would win.

"Ellsworth Vines could defeat me quite easily, for instance. Practice with men; they will help you. But don't challenge their supremacy; they

(Please turn to page 9)

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

BOXING

TUESDAY NIGHT, APRIL 11TH

Post Gymnasium, 8:15 P. M.

Rip Tetherton (Fort Benning) vs. Bob Schilling (Cologne, Germany) — 10 Rounds

Cotton Batton (Colored Middleweight Champion) vs. Pee Gee Carson (Jacksonville, Fla.) — 8 Rounds

Dapper Doyle (Fort Benning) vs. Scrip De Olive (New Orleans, La.) — 6 Rounds

Dynamite Dunn (Fort Benning) vs. Frank Mackery (Fort Benning) — 6 Rounds

Seaweed Wilson (Fort Benning) vs. Mickey Kendrick (Phenix City, Ala.) — 4 Rounds

Sandy Huff (Fort Benning) vs. Charley White (Columbus, Ga.) — 4 Rounds

General Admission 50c Ringside $1.00

Tickets on sale in Columbus at Sears-Roebuck & Co., Wheat's Drug Store, Hubbard Hardware Co., and Sport & Luggage Shop.

Army Welter Ace And Bob Schilling Clash In Main Go

Tuesday's Bouts Promise To Be Some Of Best Ever Staged Here

Rip Tetherton, welterweight champion of the army, and Bob Schilling, sorrell-topped German windmill, head one of the finest fight cards the Athletic Association has brought before the public for many moons. The bouts will be staged in the post gymnasium Tuesday evening.

Tetherton is in fine shape for his fight with the Teuton ace. In his last battle, fought with Kid Baisden, Valdosta knockout artist, Rip earned a popular draw decision by coming up in the later rounds. The Baisden-Tetherton bout stole a fine show topped by two favorites in the Benning ring, none other than Cyclone Smith and Harold Murphy, who hail from Chicago.

Rip is desirous of indicating to fans that he can do justice to himself in a main go. He is fast, clever, and packs a wallop in either mitt. His left is every bit as dangerous as his right, and the army ace figures to knock Red Schilling colder than a pawnbroker's heart. Tetherton is a favorite in Florida rings, his latest conquest over Tommy Beck making him a popular and much-demanded fighter in St. Petersburg.

Schilling, well-named the German Windmill because of his style of fighting, might easily prove to be Rip's Waterloo. The sorrel-topped youth, since arriving in the land of the free, has demonstrated his prowess in the ring time after time. His cauliflowered ears and pug nose testify to a hectic career in the fistic industry. Sammy Crosby is proof of Red's ability. Crosby was battered to a pulp by the menace from Germany not long ago in Florida.

Billy Hood also fell a prey to Schilling's flying fists, and listen to what the St. Petersburg Times has to say concerning this fight. "Bob Schilling scored a mild upset when he decisively trounced Billy Hood of Orlando for the second time. This battle was beyond doubt the fistic treat of the season so far in St. Petersburg." So, pack up your troubles, and cast your glimmers over a couple of pretty fighters next Tuesday night.

Cotton Batton, Benning colored fighter, will meet Peegee Carson of Jacksonville, well-known negro leatherpusher, in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. And what a fight this should be! Batton is popular with fans in this district; he always gives the best he has and, as a result, registers with the ringsiders. Peegee, on his only previous appearance ir a Benning ring, spilled Tiger Thompson in the second round. And lately, he won a victory over Roy Dunn in Atlanta. This battle can't help but be a crowd pleaser from the opening gong to the moment when one of the battler's hand is raised in token of victory.

The Athletic Association made a wise move in bringing Dapper Doyle and Scrip De Olive together again in a return match. This fight might well steal the show. Not long ago Doyle and De Olive met in a Benning ring and putu p a whale of a bout. De Olive copped the decision, when Doyle had trouble in solving his portside delivery. Dapper finished strong by winning the last two rounds, however. De Olive impressed everybody that saw him fight. A little streak of greased lightning, he eluded his opponent easily in the opening rounds, in the meantime,

(Please turn to page 9)

Battalion Baseball Teams Line Up Candidates As Season Nears

Although the opening of the Fort Benning intra-mural baseball season is still almost two months away, the battalion teams of garrison are out in full force each afternoon and indications now point to one of the greatest baseball seasons in the history of the Post.

Probably due to the recent slump in baseball, caused by the depression, numerous former professional baseball players have enlisted in the army. A generous scattering of these diamond stars have become members of the personnel of the Infantry School in the past year. And then veteran army stars of last season, who are still calling the Upatoi station home will be back out for their regular berths again this year.

The Greencords of the Infantry School Detachment will throw a revamped team into the field this season. Orgeron, first baseman, Gilbert, pitcher, and Newman, catcher, players that starred with the Medico team of 1931-32, are now wearing the Greencord uniform. Beall, formerly with Milwaukee, and the boy that the Washington Senators gave a tryout for the keystone sack, in 1929, will snag shots around the center sack for the Greenies. Smith, former Southern league infielder, has the hot corner sewed up. The Greencords boast a trio of hurlers in Gilbert and Tolle, right handers and McIntyre, southpaw. Mickey and McCarthy and Newman are among the leading catchers in this section of the country.

The Kelleys of the Second Bats are keeping very quiet at this early date but it is a safe bet that they are not loafing. A flock of new comers arrived during the past year and it is a cinch that there were ball tossers among their numbers. And then again the Kellys had the championship team of the garrison last season. They were weak on twirlers but man for man were a very strong aggregation and one of the smartest in the garrison.

Both the First Bats and Spare Part are carrying a merry look around or their faces and this surely means something. Something is up their sleeves and time will surely bring it out. The Irish copped a big two hundred pounder named Belcher during the past winter, and that boy has done his stuff in the Cotton States league. He is a catcher and he certainly looks like the mustard. In fact, both the Irish and Spare Parts are playing their cards close to their whiskers and there probably will be quite a few surprises when they show their hands.

The Tanks and Artillery are busy at the present time and have not began work with the battalion squads. The Tankers have been staging a company baseball war and quite a few of the youngsters are showing brilliantly in company competition. Unless they unearth a couple of hurlers however, they will be hard put for pitching this season.

The Gunners are blessed with a pair of the leading twirlers in the garrison, Holloway, right hander and Jakie Morris, port sider. Rabbi Ridley has been doing good work behind the platter for many moons, but Rabbi is getting old and the Gunners would probably unlimber a battery for one star cacher. Their infield was not so hot last season, but the Gunners are young and full of fight, and with "Ty' Cobb at the helm, they may go places and do things this season.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00

Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum

Home of the

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

BASEBALL SEASON

will soon begin...

and this is to remind you —the Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete stock of all kinds of athletic equipment. Telephone 608.

POST EXCHANGE

FORT BENNING

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

"E" Company Wears Basketball Crown As Result Of Win

The play-off for the Regimental Championship opened Monday night with Hq., 1st Bn. playing Company "E," 29th Infantry. Company "E" took first honors in a game that was furiously and hard fought and ended with a 38-24 score. The first half ended with the score of 15 to 14 in favor of Company "E."

Headquarters, which had not tasted defeat until last night, seemed in a fog and could not find the basket, although they shot many and often. Chamberlain and Bridges were the top scorers for Company "E." For Headquarters, Ray and Snead worked mighty and hard. Toward the end of the last quarter Chamberlain and Lee were shooting goals from all angles and making them.

At the end of the first quarter "E" was leading by 10 points. As soon as the second quarter started Headquarters opened up and when the half ended they were only one point behind. The third and fourth quarters saw "E" gradually pulling away with a comfortable lead. Headquarters used a five man defense, "E" had no definite defense.

The score:

Headquarters 1st. Bn. (24)

| Player | Pos. | Goals | Fouls |
|---|---|---|---|
| Snead | F | 9 | 2 |
| Peery | F | 0 | 3 |
| Knight | C | 2 | 0 |
| Ray | G | 11 | 2 |
| Burge | G | 0 | 2 |

Company "E" (38)

| Player | Pos. | Goals | Fouls |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chamberlain | F | 14 | 3 |
| Carter | F | 0 | 1 |
| Bridges | C | 15 | 3 |
| Lee | G | 9 | 1 |
| Newton | G | 0 | 2 |

Officials: Lts. Stewart and Wright.

Subs: For Hqrs., Carpenter for Burge; Carpenter for Peery; For Co. "E": None.

TETHERTON AND SCHILLING HEAD TUESDAY'S MAIN-GO

(Continued from page 8)

landing a few telling wallops himself.

Dynamite Dunn, whose list of knockout victories reads like a telephone directory, faces Frank Mackery of Fort Benning in the other six-rounder. These two have met before, Mackery winning the decision, and by so doing gaining the distinction of being one of the few fighters in this part of the country who has succeeded in taking this bundle of TNT into camp. Both boys will be out for blood and, in al' probability, this bout will not go the scheduled six rounds.

Seaweed Wilson and Mickey Kendrick, a tough boy from Phenix City, are to meet in the main four-rounder. Another fight that shoul dturn out to be a wow! Seaweed is well-known in Benning and is exceptionally popular with the fans, who know how good a fight he always puts up. In his last appearance, he fought a draw with Sandy Huff and almost succeeded in stealing the show. Kendrick hopes to stop the Benning pugilist, but is going to run into a heap of trouble.

In the curtain-raiser, Sandy Huff, fast-stepping Benning fighter, meets Charley White of Columbus. And when two boys of the caliber of Huff and White are brought together in a curtain-raiser, the rest of the card must be good. Both participants in this bout are well-known and therefore need no introduction.

From curtain-raiser to main go, this fight and possesses a wealth of exceptionally fine bouts, and it will not be difficult to get your money's worth of action and thrills Tuesday night. This is a card no one can miss.

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued From Page 8)

will beat you." Which seems to us to be pretty fair advice for women in every walk of life.

* * *

Miss Diana Fishwick, 22 year old former woman's British golf champion, agrees with Mrs. Moody.

"Physically, I do not see how we can approach them. We will never be as good golf players—it's an impossibility. Men have too much length in their drives."

She also expressed the opinion that too much golf is "apt to destroy femininity, a desirable quality."

"Women athletes who are rather keen on sports all the time lose that cheery spark," Miss Fishwick believes. "It is more fun to play leisurely, and not take games too seriously."

* * *

Our own opinion is that Miss Orcutt's statement is absurd—she is either a bloated egotist or downright stupid. There may be, of course isolated examples that tend to prove that women are on an athletic par with men, but they are the exception to the rule. Joyce Wethered, famous woman golfer, for example, defeats her brother who plays on the British cup team, regularly.

But what about track? Babe Didrikson, probably the greatest woman's athlete of the last decade or so, excelled by far all her feminine competitors to establish new records. But an examination of those records reveal that, in most cases, they do not come up to the standards set by high school athletes much less college and professional standard.

* * *

Baseball scribes, in the annual Associated Press poll, picked the Yankees and Pirates to cop the pennants in their respective leagues. Sixty out of the seventy-nine sports writers favored the New Yorkers with an even dozen giving the edge to Washington. The Athletics were third in the polling.

Pittsburgh received over half of the votes cast in the National league ratings, with Chicago second. The St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies are rated nip and tuck for third place. Brooklyn and New York are picked for second division berths for the first time and this despite the fact that the Dodgers finished third last year.

* * *

Ben Eastman, holder of the world's quarter-mile record, shattered the 600-yard mark at a charity athletic carnival. The lanky Californian went the distance in 1 minute 9.2 seconds against Doug Lowe's previous record of 1 minute 10.4 seconds.

Officials at the track stated that the new record would probably not be accepted because of wind conditions.

* * *

The crack eight of Cambridge University made rowing history when it defeated Oxford on the Thames River for the tenth consecutive year. The Oxonians went into the lead for most of the first mile, but thereafter the Light Blues forged steadily ahead. They won by a margin of two and one-quarter lengths, or about nine seconds. Both crews were exhausted at the finish of the grueling race.

* * *

Orv Mohler, Southern California grid-iron sensation until he sustained a painful injury which kept him out of football, is making good with the Los Angeles baseball club from a reports received. The Trojan halfback is fast and can hit.

the STYLE starts in the WEAVE

You'll be enthusiastic about the cheerful new Spring weaves . . . the checks and the plaids . . . the new swanky chalk stripes and the new pin dot designs. But really, it's the quality of these materials we should stress! Because never before have comparable materials been offered in a suit priced at $12.50. We urge you to see the distinctive display of Spring suits and sport ensembles now being shown in all Schwob stores. Prices — $12.50 and $14.95 for Ready-to-Wear — $15.50 and $18.50 for Tailored-to-Order.

SCHWOBILT ESTABLISHED 1912 REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

$12.50

The SCHWOB Co.

The Standard Tailoring Co.

Makers Of Schwobilt Clothes

1037 BRADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

Hot Stove Leaguers Approve New Name For S. U. Teams

Apropos of "the new deal" in national affairs, the Regimental Commander on the Twenty-ninth this week approved the request of the Special Units commander to change the designation of his battalion for athletic purposes from "Special Units" to "Headquarters Battalion." Previous to this change considerable confusion has occurred in the minds of soldier sport readers by reason of the fact that the Infantry School, Engineer, Quartermaster, and Finance Departments are collectively known as "Special Units Post."

At present all jig saw, crossword puzzle and radio contest enthusiasts are hard at it to select an athletic cognomen for the team. The best suggested thus far from all the grist turned out is "Frankies," to commemorate the commander of the new nationally known "Franklin D." and the present battalion commander Major Frank V. Schneider. This seems to get the most votes. Or perhaps in a profound soliloquy of the jig saw puzzler his mind turned to thoughts of beer at 2 a. m. No beer is complete without "Sweet Adeline" or "Frankie and Johnny." What about that line in the latter which runs something like this: "They didn't go down there for fun"; certainly that is a slogan for an athletic team that is sure fire. Shades of Old Heidelberg! With a name, slogan and song all rolled into one, all that is needed now is a team and you can't tell the men of Headquarters Battalion that they are going to finish out of first place either in baseball or track.

Among the new faces sport fans will see often when the umps cry "play ball" is a boy by the name of Barker who hails from Chattanooga.

All through the past basketball season his one handed shots from the corner of the court have thrilled the spectators regularly. This lad is a pitcher and Gilbert of the I. S. D. will have his hands full when Barker opposes him. Over in Phenix City they think a lot of Mauldin as a shortstop. Fort Benning fans are in for a treat when he starts covering ground. A pitcher and a shortstop do not necessarily make a ball team but there are plenty of new men available. Wright, Parsons, Morrow and Harris of Cannon Company have shown up well in practice thus far. Service, Headquarters, and Regimental Machine Gun Companies report a number of likely new baseball prospects. With a nucleus from last year's veterans, LaBonte, White, Potter, Calsor, Hayes, and Easley to start with, Headquarters Battalion 29th Infantry should give the other teams in the Fort Benning League plenty to think about this summer.

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c . A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

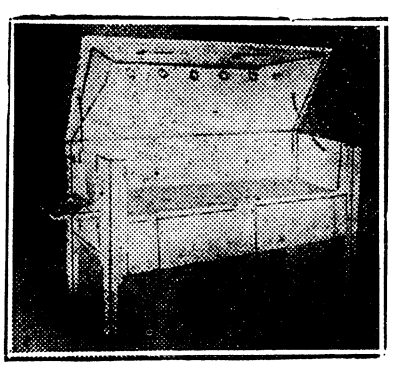
Georgia Tech Golf Team Downs Fort Benning 10 1-2 to 7 1-2

The Fort Benning Golf team lost a close match to Georgia Tech last Saturday afternoon by the close score of 10 1-2 to 7 1-2. The Georgia Tech four-man aggregation was captained by Charley Yates, nationally known golfer.

In a thrilling match between Captain Ross and Yates, the latter finally emerged victorious, one up in eighteen holes. Captain Liston, Lt. Brann, and Lt. Decker were the other members of the Fort Benning team.

Yates and Moore trounced Ross and Liston by two points. As Georgia Tech brought down ten players, a squad match was played, with Fort Benning ultimately winning, again by a close score of 23 1-2 to 21.

FEEFER JEWELRY Co.
JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS
Fine Repairing
1102 Broadway Phone 3914



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish, Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

Freebooters Still In Lead As Round Robin Nears Finish

Optimists And Students Fight For Second And Third Places

The local Round Robin tournament, now reaching its final stages, was continued on March 29th and April 2d before good sized crowds, who thoroughly enjoyed the play.

Optimists Defeat Billygoats

With a 6 to 4 lead over the Green Goats, carried over from their last battle royal, the Optimists had to put on full steam in order to keep the hard-heads in their proper place. At the end of the second four period game the score stood 4 to 3 against the Goats, who had to accept a report for the whole game by a total scoreof 7, to 10 for the Whites.

For the Optimists it was Wilson and Gee who did the fancy playing, while Billygoat Gammon was outstanding for the Greens.

Freebooters Belay Gunners

Monte Blue had a field all to himself in the game against the artillery Gunners. The lieutenants, though trailing from the opening period, were less concerned with the final outcome than they were to demonstrate their improved team work and hitting. When the score board ran out of numbers the Gunners had six goals to their credit and the Freebooters had all the rest. Haskell came across the line for the Gunners, nicely supported by Grubbs.

Students 9—29th 8

With a jinx hanging over them the Hoofers fell before the furious onslaught of the student team in one of the closest games of the year. With a comfortable lead in the third period the 29th was about to pack the game up in a bag, when lo and behold up pops Parson Stevenson, who had not been heard of much during the game, and shoots three goals so rapidly that the man on the scoreboard nearly got a glass arm putting up and taking the tin numbers. Westlund now evened the score, but Buzz Butler decided to make one more for the students, and the game was over.

Freebooters Stop Hoofers

Before a capacity Sunday crowd the Hard Luck Hoofers put up a splendid battle against the Yellow Horde that proved to be the most exciting game of the season. At the end of the last period the score stood at a 6 to 6 tie, with both teams For the first time during the tournament an extra period was played and both teams went into it with everything they had. After several long runs up and down the field, with anybody liable to win, Farmer Nichols slipped thru like a Rumba dancer on roller skates, and the spectators regardless of partisanship blew their auto horns in tribute to a well fought game.

Umpires: Maj. Johnson and Captain Cunningham.

Optimists Wallop Gunners

This time it was Halloran and Monroe who gave no mercy to the battling Gunners, who wriggled and twisted on their way to the goal posts. Outmounted and outplayed by the clever white team, they time and again braced during critical moments; but with a heavy carry over against them they had to submit to a 20 to 5 licking at the hands of the Optimists.

Umpires: Capts. Cunningham and Beatty.

Students Down Billygoats

In order to close the day somewhat as it had begun, the Blue Students and Green Billygoats engaged in a classic that proved full of thrills for the spectators and sore knees for the players. Stevenson, who rides with that "when I bump 'em they stay bumped" spirit, lived up to his reputation, and was well imitated by the others on the Blue four. Sweeney was big score maker for the Students, knocking off one regularly each chukker. Anyhow, the Students won 11 to 8 despite the fact that the hardheads became more and more hardheaded as the game went on.

Umpires: Capts. Beatty and Cunningham.

Bowling Matches Of 29th Infantry Ended Last Week

The regimental bowling tournament of the 29th Infantry ended Thursday night with the team of Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion, in first place, after defeating Company A aggregation five games straight in the final match of the series.

The championship series consisted of three matches, with a team from each battalion of the regiment. These teams were selected for the finals by a series of elimination matches within the respective battalions. Headquarters Battalion, represented by Headquarters Company, took Company A, 1st Battalion representatives into camp last week, but were in turn defeated in a phenomenal match on Monday night, when they lost to Headquarters Company 2d Battalion, 2d Battalion representative. The games were featured by exceptionally high scores, the final one of the five in the match ending with the 2d Battalion team on the long end of a 945-998 tally. The 2d Battalion score was only two points under the highest score made in the post intramural series when Headquarters Battalion won the championship of Fort Benning with a score of 1000.

Members of the three teams of the 29th Infantry that competed for the regimental championship are as follows: 2d Battalion; Kjelstrom, Nichols, Derrick, Stragand, and Laham; Company A, Marcelle, Reaves, Lineburger, Manners and Bock; Headquarters Battalion LaBonte, Carlock, Cameron, Burns, Hall and Murphy.

Colonel Persons Presents Trophies To 29th Infantry

Colonel William H. Parsons, commander of the 29th Infantry presided at a brief ceremony which was held on Saturday morning following a regimental parade, and at which presentations of trophies and prizes won by the members of the regiment in post athletic events and shooting competitions were made.

The 1st Battalion basketball team, winners of the post championship in the intra-mural league, were presented with a silver trophy.

The Headquarters Battalion Bowling team were given a silver trophy emblematical of the post bowling championships.

Company A, was given two placques for the company shield for the regimental small bore meet championship, and for winning first place in Group "A" in the regimenal small bore rifle meet.

Company C, was awarded a placque for the company shield as winners in Group B of the small bore rifle meet.

Individual prizes included cash prizes for places in the regimental small bore meet, and went to the following:

Sergeant Charles W. Wills, Company A; Pfc. Clement Hensley, Company A, Corporal Joseph W. Vaden Company F; Sergeant Roy R. Wilson, Company G; Sergeant James C. Sheriff, Company B, and Sergeant James H. Bannister, Company A.

Company A was awarded a silver trophy for winning the regimental championship in the football league last fall.

29TH INFANTRY

(Continued from page 3)

it together. Wonder what they will be doing next? Playing with dolls, I guess.

We have built a golf course while under quarantine and Pfc. Hubble, better known as "Bobby Jones," has been undefeated, and challenges any man in the regiment for a match. Bobby knows his golf. Yassney is running him a close second.

Just a minute folks, I have received a bit of news about the volley ball game between the single men and the married men. The married men, after having stayed in, thought they were better than the single men, but the game shows differently. The married men placed the blame for losing the game on Sgt. Thompson because he was unable to return the ball correctly. Better rest some more, Sarge.

Station "F-29" signing off, with Pfc. Temples announcing.

COMPANY "D"

We are tied with Company "E," 66th Infantry for the Soccer Ball championship of the post. We defeated B company, 29th Infantry, and Co. B won over company E, 66th Infantry and in turn company E defeated us. We have lost one game this season.

Sandy Huff, our exponent of the manly art of self defense, was knocked on the broad of his back for the count during the game with company E. When he came to he found three (3) teeth missing, (he already had one missing from boxing). He cried high and low that he was through with soccer for good but we noticed that the next day he played a whale of a game to help defeat company B, 29th Infantry. He has come to the conclusion that the shin kicking game is a little rougher than boxing. If you think Huff can't take it we invite you all to the post gym, for the modest price of 50c gallery, to see him perform.

Lieuts. Easterbrook and Brown and about eight of us went to Florida on a fishing trip March 27th and 28th. Believe it or not, we caught enough fish to feed the entire company. Not all fished, but all fed the fish. Some with hooks and some otherwise. Ye scribe was in the otherwise class and didn't even throw in a hook. Sgt. Wilbourn got in the otherwise class just before we (they) quit fishing. He was astern leaning over the rail, Pfc. Russell asked, "Sgt., you are not sick are you?" Sgt. Wilbourn replied, "H—l, what do you think I am doing, taking a dry run?"

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Ave. Telephone 371

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

STRAWBERRY BUTTER CREAM LAYER CAKES
This is a new cake. The fresh fruit is used to make it doubly delicious.
Special for Saturday..... 25c and 50c
Compare with the home-baked cake and we know you will regularly visit—
EVERIDGE'S
The Bakery Beautiful
109 - 12th Street Columbus, Ga.

Master Sgt. Risley Passes Suddenly

Master Sergeant Prentice H. Risley, Medical Department, died suddenly at his residence, 1162 Carolina, Interior 4, Malate, at 9:30 a. m., on January 9, being ill only a few minutes.

Sergeant Risley was the second son of the late John and Etta Thomas Risley and was born in Algiers, Indiana February 8, 1887 being 46 years old at the time of his death. Both parents died when he was a child and he was raised by his grandmother, the late Winnie Thomas.

Sergeant Risley enlisted in the army on November 23, 1908 as a private and rapidly rose to the highest grade held by an enlisted man at the time of his death. Private—to Corporal—to Sergeant—and to Master Sergeant July 1, 1924.

He is survived by his wife of a second marriage, the widow being the former Miss Emmie Marie Watkins of Hawkinsville, Georgia.

A funeral service was held at the Army Morgue, Port Area, at 3:30 p. m., Saturday, January 14. The remains were shipped to the states. accompanied by his widow, leaving Manila March 11 on the army transport U. S. Grant and will be laid to rest in the Presidio National Cemetery at San Francisco with Masonic services on April 10.

He was a member of the following Masonic bodies: Fort Benning Lodge No. 279, F. and A. M., Fort Benning; Canal Zone Council No. 1, R. and S. M., Ancon, C. Z., Panama; Abou Saad Temple, Balboa, C. Z., Panama; Darley Chapter No. 7, R. A. M.; St. Aldemar Commandery No. 3, Knights emplar, and Augusta Evans Chapter No. 177, Order of Eastern Star, all of Columbus, Georgia.

Sergeant Risley was on duty as Chief Clerk in the Surgeon's Office, Headquarters Philippine Department, up until the time of his death, arriving in this department October 3, 1931.

All who knew Sergeant Risley had high regard and great respect for him and he was ever an example as a man and soldier. His death is a great loss to the service and Medical Department as well as hosts of friends in civilian life.

He had served 24 years and 3 months and would have retired in about 6 years.

WOLFSON CO.

939 Broadway

Wrapping Paper, Paper Bags, Towels, Napkins, Cups and Stationery.

PHONE 113

100% Pure Pennsylvania PENNZOIL Safe Lubrication

FOR SALE
Post Exchange

PLAZA CAFE

1230 Broadway — Phone 1432
Special Sunday Dinner
11 A. M. - 8 P. M.
Choice of chicken soup or Fresh Shrimp or Oyster Cocktail
Choice of meats

1. Filet mignon Club style (tenderloin steak) ------ 75c
2. Half spring chicken ala Maryland ---------- 60c
3. Chicken Chow Mein------ 60c
4. Fresh Lobster with mushrooms Au' gratin-------- 50c
5. Roast chicken with dressing and gravy ---------- 50c
6. Chicken ala King on toast-- 40c
7. Roast pork loin with apple sauce ---------- 40c

Candied Yams--Green Butter Beans
Baked spaghetti with cheese
Egg salad with Russian dressing
Strawberry shortcake with cream
Coffee Tea Milk
We serve Western steaks & chops.
Eggs one day old.
QUALITY — SERVICE

83rd F. A.

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

Sergeant McLeod and Privates Smith and Vestal have returned to the Battery after a short but highly pleasant visit to Ragsdale. It was later discovered that the fact that they were presented with the keys to the city, and accorded other honors usually shown to visiting notables, was based upon a case of mistaken identity, Sergeant McLeod having been mistaken for "Daddy" Browning, who was supposed to be investigating the real estate possibilities of Albany. Smith, at first, was looked upon with an eye of suspicion, because of the report that the snake-eater had recently escaped from a visiting carnival—an unfortunate error which was soon dispelled by reason of his connection with the Sergeant, and because of his own charming personality. Vestal is considering making the city his future home, as it is reported that the Mayor has offered to adopt him and make him the Heir Apparent.

Preparations for the Battalion Horse Show, which is one of the high lights of the season, are busily in progress. With an unlimited supply of Blitz and saddle soap, we are bound to at least win honorable mention. Popeye Long, our enthusiastic painter, and his able corps of assistants have been busy for some time in preparing an escort wagon for entry, which, no doubt, will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Popeye, being a firm believer in the theory of quantity as well as quality, the number of coats of paint applied to date has been lost count of. Tennessee Lee is in charge of the Artillery Section which will execute (and "execute" is highly correct) the old "figure eight" like nobody's business. Tennessee puts more into his arm signals than Mister Mitchell does into an income tax return. John Nahring, late of the Kaiser's Uhlans, is one of the leading entries for the high jump. In the event the horse refuses to hurdle, John will continue solo.

In honor of St. Patrick's Day, a certain non-com of the Battery painted his car a hectic and highly brilliant green, and left it, wtih the paint and brushes, behind the barracks for the necessary drying. Upon his return, for the final touching up, he discovered the car missing. Prompt report of the loss was made, and investigation discloses that it was not the act of a criminal, but of the highly efficient, and sometimes over zealous, police detail of the service section, who state that it was a natural and honest mistake, and not through malicious intent that the flivver was taken to the dump and the paint cans left behind. We trust that this explanation appearing in the public prints will be satisfactory to all concerned.

BATTERY "A"

It is with regret that we learn that our First Sergeant Horace Taylor, who is on furlough, lost his father this week. Sgt. Taylor is expected back to the organization about the ninth.

Pvt. James O. Taylor is also on emergency furlough for 5 days due to the illness of his father. Pvt. Albert Fannin is on a 25 days' furlough visiting relatives at West Tallassee, Alabama.

Lt. Cobb is on leave this week visiting friends in Opelika, Ala. The Battery commander asked him if he was visiting Fort Mitchell on the round.

We wonder just how far a man can go on a honeymoon with only one day and one night. Probably Pvt. Boone can answer this question Pvt. Boone says he prefers blonds.

Lt. Beishline and Sergeant Hudgins, the barn man, are busy these days trying to decide what horses to dispose of this year. We might suggest closing the eyes and flip the coin as they all have to be groomed and fed.

We wonder just where Sgt. Beanpole Cole is hanging his big hat these days, here of late. Lately, he has been very late getting in. Think we had better check up on Bugerville.

The latest fad is the skating rink in Columbus. I think Cpl. Roper must have tried to come to Fort Benning on a pair the other morning.

BATTERY "C"

With spring approaching we had a last storm in the battery with grades and ratings flying around like leaves in the wind. We might call this yearly spring shake-up a sweepstake, for prizes fall on the most unusual numbers. We congratulate the lucky ones and hope they will hold on to the extra pay.

Corporal Carmany has arrived after all. We have been calling him corporal for qiute some time and the only difference we could notice were the creases on his shirts.

Acting gunner Powell, the pride of the third section and Avenue proved that tropical service does not effect everyone. Corporal Doyle has left and is opening a drugstore in his home town. We wish him luck and expect that his experience as Scout will do him some good in civilian life.

The horse show and its preparation are still the main issue. All this work and energy could be used to better advantage, however material and harness need some spring cleaning so we will go see the horse show and enjoy ourselves.

Tank Notes

Upon the recommendation of their Company Commanders the following named enlisted men have been promoted to the grade of Corporal: Private First Class E. Williams of Company "D" and Private First Class Earl Coates of Company "E." Congratulations to you boys.

The Company baseball series started this week and at this time two games have been played. The first game on Monday was "E" and F-2 with "E" winning the game by a ten to one score. The second game played on Tuesday between Company "D" and "F-1" was won by "F-1" 8 to 1. The companies have a lot of new material and just what it will develop into before the end of the series cannot be predicted at this time but we are of the opinion that some of it will go well on our Battalion squad which will take the fiel as soon as the company series have ended.

"E" Company soccer team suffered their first defeat of the year during the past week. The boys only have one more game to play and if able to win it they still have the championship within their fold.

Famous Last Words: "No Bonus."

A couple of weeks ago Sergeant Major Lanham told us that our former Adjutant, 1st Lieut. Watkins was going to start something telling us what a time he was having working Jig-Saw puzzles and sure enough he has, for the cooks over in Company "E" will quit a shift any time in order to work one and the other day Staff Sergeant Vallery had Sergeant Lanham turning one flip after another trying to get one put together.

Sergeant Willingham (at track practice): "Lieutenant, I am going to be so busy for the next few days I don't see how I am going to have time to breathe."

Coach (ten minutes later): "What's the matter Jones? You look worried about something."

Jones: "I was wondering how Willingham was going to get time to breathe."

Through various and sundry means the news that the "Nut" of Company "E," the one and only "Popeye" Clements has secured a three-day pass for the purpose of visiting Macon, Georgia. We are wondering why Pop Eye has decided to visit that city, and all we have to say is look out Macon for here he comes.

Sgt. Collyer Is Retired Following Excellent Service

By AL DURDEN

Technical Sergeant Claude E. Collyer, Finance Dept., will be placed on the retired list of the United States Army, effective March 31, 1933, upon the completion of thirty years service with the colors.

Sgt. Collyer hails from the wide open spaces of the west, having been born and raised near the little town of Independence, Kansas. He spent the first nineteen years of his life in the "Cyclone State," then answered the call of the wanderlust and journeyed eastward. His ramblings finally left himstranded in Cincinnati, Ohio, and it was there that he responded to the appeal of a bright colored poster, "JOIN THE ARMY AND SEE THE WORLD!"

His first hitch was spent with the 16th Infantry, which at that time was stationed at Fort McPherson, Georgia. The infantry proved to be to the young soldier's liking and he lost no time in reenlisting in Company "C" 16th at the end of his first enlistment.

Sgt. Collyer remained with the 16th Infantry nine years and then went to the 9th Infantry, of the famous Second Division. During the World War, he was commissioned a second lieutenant. His war record speaks for itself. He went through the fracas as a second lieutenant in the 9th Infantry of the Second Division. Did they see action? Any one that has ever been in action will tell you that on the shoulders of a second lieuenant fall those duties that carry one into every nook and crevice of the entire show.

With the war over and the army cut down to peace time strength, Lieutenant Collyer was discharged from his commission. He reenlisted in the ranks and became at once a sergeant. In 1920, Sgt. Collyer left the Infantry, and became a member of the Finance Department. He has remained with that branch of the service since that time.

Sgt. Collyer came to Fort Benning six months ago and since that time has been on duty with the Finance Detachment of the Infantry School. He has gained a host of friends at Fort Benning and Columbus.

With Mrs. Collyer and their son, Keith ,the Sergeant will leave within the next few days for their home at Sheffield, Alabama. Many happy days are in store for him, a beautiful home, built on the lake front of Muscle Shoals, is awaiting the arrival of the family.

Dr. R. H. Brown

Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

PEP . . .

in every step

Use

HOOD

Heels and Soles

Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.

Johnston-Cunningham Furniture Co.

Bed Room Suites . . . . . $39.50 and up
Living Room Suites . . . . . $49.50 and up

Sellers Kitchen Cabinets, Simmons Beds, Mattresses and Springs. All on Easy Terms

1014 BROADWAY PHONE 460

It Will Pay You To See Us Before You Buy

They've Got The Punch of A Home Run!

Tom's

TOASTED PEANUTS

Have YOU Entered Yet?

Tom's is offering a new 1933 Chevrolet free every two weeks. See particulars on any Tom's Display Jar.

Makers of Fine Printing Plates

WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.

Atlanta, Georgia

ADVANCED CLASSICS

(Continued From Page 4)

the alert, gentlemen."

Mr. Lambert: "I suggest we attack with companies abreast. We will have to squeeze the soldiers in, that's certain. But better a tight fit than a disapproved solution. There must be no sour leadership, Mr. Chairman."

Mr. Mallett: "Why not take the bull by the horns and attack with all three companies abreast? That solution appears so impracticable that it is probably the First Section's approved decision."

Mr. Gridley: "But that will only give companies a frontage of 100 yards."

Mr. Mallett: "That should not concern us greatly. We are only using blue pencils for companies. There will be no actual crowding."

Mr. Gaillard: "Mr. Chairman, seldom do I arise to make an address (Applause). I should like to state, however, that we have been attacking all winter with one, two, or three rifle companies in assault. I am filled with apprehension that something else is expected today. I venture to suggest an attack with the machine gun company in assault and the rifle companies in reserve. Furthermore, I would like to amend my former remarks to the effect that it would be perfectly possible for fifty million French major generals to be wrong on one of the First Section's problems (Great applause)."

The CHAIRMAN: "Now we appear to be getting somewhere, gentlemen. The rifle companies might support the machine gun company by fire. While they may not be the exact approved solution, I feel sure that the First Section would love it."

Mr. Gaillard: "Mr. Chairman, seldom do I arise to make an address (Applause.) I should like to state, however, that we might have the rifle companies lay down a rolling barrage for Company D. The fire could be lifted on red rocket signal and . . . "

Mr. Gutkowski of Tennessee: "Will the gentleman yield?"

Mr. Gaillard: "I yield."

Mr. Gutkowski: "As S-4 I want to warn this body that we have been using red rockets for the past six months. The supply is not inexhaustible, gentlemen, and I would like to see some blue rockets used. They are much prettier any way."

Mr. Gaillard: "I thank the gentleman, for whom I have the greatest esteem, affection, admiration, and et cetera. As I was stating, it is seldom that I arise to make an address (Applause). I should like to. . . ."

The Chairman: "The whistle is blowing, gentlemen. We have no further time for discussion. Your mental performance has been exhilarating. It has inspired me to tactical heights. My decision is to attack with the two battalion motorcycles abreast, keeping the four lettered companies and the howitzer platoon in reserve. I am certain that we cannot be far amiss from the School solution. I appoint the two liaison officers, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Chance) and the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Ayres) a commitee to acquaint Vinegar Joe with the decision of this group, to receive the School solution, and to report back to this group, with the latter solution. There will be a ten minute break."

* * *

The CHAIRMAN: "Have the liaison officers received the School solution?"

Messrs. Chance and Ayres: "We have, Mr. Chairman."

The CHAIRMAN: "Please, then, drop the School's pearl of wisdom in the lap of this group."

Messrs. Chance and Ayres: "The official decision of the School is that 'Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion,' will make no decision at 11:30 a. m."

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

SEEDS — PLANTS

Spring and Planting Time is here. Everything for the GARDEN and LAWN; seeds, plants, tools, fertilizer. Drop in at our store and we will be glad to help you to plan your planting.

VALLEY SEED CO.

1041 Broadway

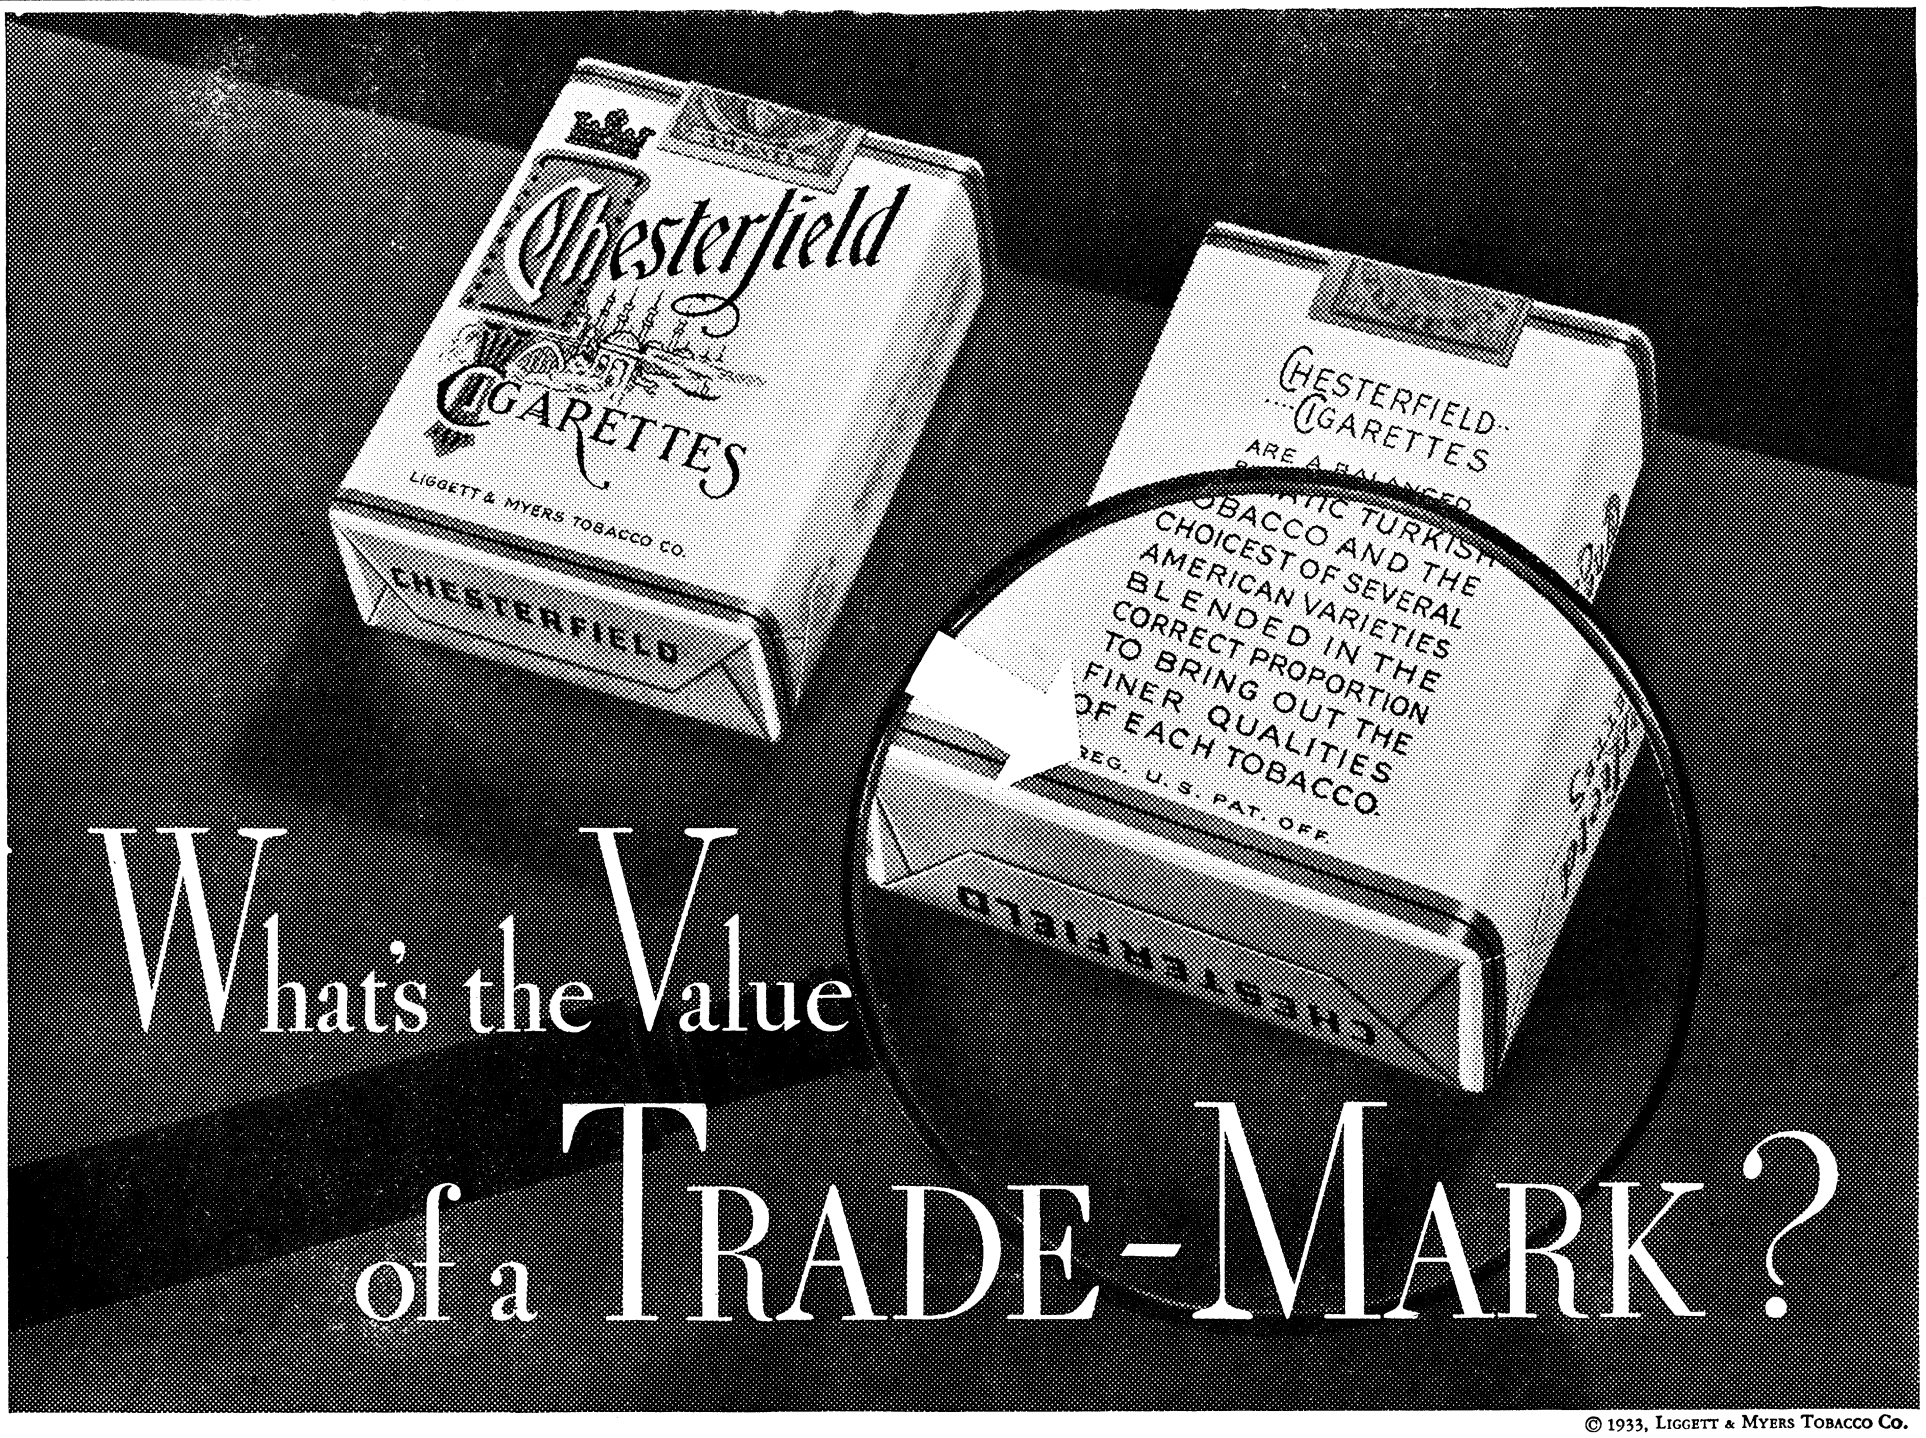
Your Vision

. . . is a truly precious gift, and one that is invaluable in every walk of life. It's up to YOU to preserve it. Visit your optician now!

W. W. Perrott

OPTICAL COMPANY

Cor. Broadway and 12th St.



© 1933, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

TODAY the Chesterfield trade-mark is very valuable. Back of it is the good will of thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands—of smokers.

Chesterfield cigarettes were first manufactured more than twenty-five years ago. At the start, they were sold at a loss, but the quantity sold increased steadily from year to year, until now Chesterfields are sold in great volume at a very small percentage of profit.

The Chesterfield trade-mark, as indicated above, is registered in the United States Patent Office. This means that the United States Government says that only Chesterfield may use this trade-mark for cigarettes.

This is not only for our protection, but for yours as well, because what the Chesterfield trade-mark really means is that you and all Chesterfield smokers will get Chesterfields manufactured under the same formula, by the same people, and in all respects absolutely the same, in every package you buy, year in and year out.

Wherever you buy them, in this or in any other country, you can depend upon the Chesterfield trade-mark.

They're Milder... They Taste Better— Chesterfield

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II | FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1933 | NUMBER 51

TOWN TOPICS

With the coming of spring, the irksome task of preparing a column, albeit a poor one, becomes increasingly more tedious. Spring offers entirely too many alluring attractions.

In our case, for example, and we imagine we are the rule rather than the exception, spring is always accompanied by a volunary inertia; we like the word "inertia," it is infinitely more subtle and attractive than other comparatively blunt words or expressions to describe laziness.

Spring is practically the only season of the year when one can indulge in this mild form of lethargy without fear of exciting too much adverse criicism. At any other time, he or she would be commended to the devil for being a lazy lout or a ne'er-do-well. Broad-minded people, however, usually excuse indolence in spring, probably for the excellent reason that they feel lazy themselves and want to justify the feeling.

Besides, it is a great deal more fun to be idle part of the time. And, on the other hand, extreme activity is usually a reliable indication of deficient vitality. So there are many reasons which justify occasional lapses into idleness. For further reference and fortification against a quirking conscience, see "An Apology for Idlers" by Robert Louis Stevenson.

Our point is this. Whereas spring may be an inspiration to poets and lovers, it has practically the opposite effect on this columnist as far as putting his thoughts down on paper are concerned. The thoughts are circulating gaily around in the old gray matter, but stubbornly refuse to be transformed into vulgar words. They much prefer to remain thoughts and, as a matter of fact, probably many of our readers prefer that they remain thoughts too.

The male population of Fort Benning, or a goodly portion of it, will be marching off to war before the sun rises on the Upatoi many more times. The war is scheduled to last two weeks, and, during that time, the ladies of the garrison will be left to hold the fort.

Interviews with several of these ladies have resulted in any number of conflicting opinions. Several have seemed terrified at the thought of being without their husbands for a whole two weeks, but we regret to say that the majority ("Ah, frailty! Thy name is woman.") are reveling in the prospect of bigger and better tea fights, bridge parties, and shopping tours.

* * *

During the enforced absence of the men folks, it has been suggested to us that we mention a few of the women who might be eligible for the posts now held by officers of Uncle Sam's army. It is obvious, of course, that such a matter must be given the utmost consideration; in other words, the ladies who possess to some degree the martial spirit must be given an advantage over those who grow weak at the sight of blood or who are ignominously routed by the untimely appearance of a cockroach.

As a candidate for the position of Commandant, we suggest Mrs. Reeder, inasmuch as she has already proven her ability to dominate men in "The Debutante" as well as in other theatrical productions. Her forceful manner of giving orders is such that it

(Please turn to page 5)

Scenes at Forestry Army Training Cam›

No time is being wasted in pushing the relief reforestation program of President Roosevelt, as these pictures will testify. At top are shown some of the erstwhile unemployed who signed up in the reforestation army as they are put through a light drill under army instructors at Fort Slocum, N. Y., to help them get into condition before starting forestry work. At lower left some new arrivals are shown signing up; and at right, "chow time." This was the first square meal enjoyed by many of the men in a long time.

Eleventh Annual Horseshow Of Infantry School Begins This Morning With Twenty-Six Events

President Sends Letter Of Thanks

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a letter to Major General Campbell King, commandant of The Infantry School, has expressed his personal appreciation of the interest which the Fort Benning garrison has taken in the Georgia project, through their $1,000 contribution to the building fund which being raised by popular subscription for the structure, which is to stand as a memorial at Warm Springs, Georgia, to the philanthropic work which Mr. Roosevelt has fostered in the interest of crippled children.

The president's letter, which was received by General King upon his return from a short leave of absence on Wednesday, in as follows:

"The White House, April 7, 1933.
Washington

My Dear General King:

I have just learned of the fine contribution which the officers and enlisted men at Fort Benning have made towards the building of Georgia Hall. Will you please express to them for me my very deep appreciation, not only for the contribution, but for the friendly thought which prompted it.

I do hope to see you all when I am next at Warm Springs.

Very sincerely yours,
—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

General King was highly pleased by the president's letter of praise for the efforts of the Fort Benning garrison in aiding the project which has centered so much of his personal interest in the state of Georgia, and has published to the Infantry School garrison the contents of the commander in chief's message in general orders.

The Infantry School's eleventh transportation and horse show will be held in the horse-show bowl near the stable area on Friday and Saturday, April 14, and 15th.

The exhibition will comprise twenty-six events, featuring particularly horsemanship and equitation, and instruction of enlisted men, with a number of officers and other of the members of the garrison also entered as competitors.

The show will begin at eleven o'clock each of the two days during which it is in progress. The complete list of events follows:

Class 1. Colored enlisted men's jumping, in which ten mounted enlisted men from any one company from the 24th Infantry will be eligible to compete.

Class. 2. Polo-pony scurry. Open to officers of Fort Benning, who have played in at least one polo game since October 1, 1932.

Class 3. Novice jumping. Open to officers and ladies who have never won a blue ribbon in a jumping contest.

Class 4. Enlisted men's schooling. Open to enlisted men mounted on government horses, regularly assigned to their respective organizations.

Class 5. Enlisted men's jumping-halt and out. Open to all white enlisted men permanently stationed at Fort Benning on a mounted status.

Class 6. Officers' chargers. Open to officers of the garrison, with either public or private mounts.

Class 7. Invitation jumping will be omitted as it was to have been open to entries from organizations which were expected to participate in the 4th Corps Area troop concentration.

Class 8. Carts, regulation machine gun, signal communication and howitzer. Entries limited to one each from

(Please turn to page 2)

Motion Pictures Being Made Here

Work on service films of an Infantry Signal Communication Demonstration and of a Supply Demonstration is going ahead rapidly at Fort Benning. Some time ago, the Signal Corps communicated with this post, and asked whether Fort Benning had any demonstrations adaptable to service films. Assured that there was, Captain F. W. Hoorn, accompanied by three civilian assistants, was sent down to complete arrangements for the training films and to work in collaboration with Captain Brislawn of the Second Section, who is busy preparing scenarios and writing dialogues.

The Infantry Signal Communication Demonstration was taken first, and is now in an advanced stage of development. When work on this demonstration will have been completed, work on the Supply Demonstration will commence. Major Hearn, Major Robinson, and Captain Paul are in charge of the latter.

Use of service films for instructional purposes was first begun after the World War, but a need for more up-to-date films had arisen. Up to this time, training films have all been silent, but the new pictures will be at least half talkies. If they are successful, training films will be distributed throughout the army as a basis for instruction, and will mean a big step in a forward direction.

The Infantry Signal Communication Demonstration depicts a regiment in attack; the Supply Demonstration shows the supplies of a regiment in defense. The films will be developed in Washington.

Beer Will Not Be Sold At Benning

Official views of the War Department on the application of legislation legalizing the sale of beer as affecting Army posts, are contained in a radio message from the office of the Adjutant General which was relayed to Fort Benning from the Headquarters Fourth Corps Area.

"The act of March 22, 1933, permits the sale of beer, lager beer, ale, porter, wine, similar fermented malt or vinous liquor and fruit juice containing one-half of one percentum or more alcohol by volume, and not more than 3.2 percentum of alcohol by weight in states, the territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and the District of Columbia," reads the message from the War Department. 'Sale may also be permitted in Puerto Rico and Panama Canal Zone."

"Unless hereafter otherwise directed, effective April 7, 1933, under regulations to be prescribed by the Commanding officer, sales of foregoing specified beverages may be permitted by Post exchanges and officers' clubs located on military reservations in any state or territory whose laws permit such sales within its borders.

"Sales will not be permitted by any agency, person, or organization on reservations located within the borders of states not permitting such sales."

The receipt of the War Department's instructions effectually bars the possibility of sales of beer to the personnel of Fort Benning as long as the state of Georgia remains dry.

Officers Begin To Receive Assignments

Forecasting assignments of several officers of the Ft. Benning garrison to other duty and stations, a radio message was received at Headquarters the Infantry School on Wednesday from the chief of infantry announcing that Lieutenant Colonel Joseph W. Stilwell, senior instructor of tactics of the academic department, is to be placed on duty with the organized reserves at San Diego, Calif.

Other pending assignments announced in the radio message affect Captains Alexander R. Bolling, Harry W. Caygill, George J. Forster, Raymond O. Miller, Floyd J. Parks, Willard S. Paul, Ray E. Porter, Lowell W. Rooks and Harvey H. Smith, and Lieutenant Donald W. Brann, who will be designated as students in the 1933-34 course at the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Major Emil W. Leard, secretary of the Infantry School, and Major Robert E. Cole, secretary and instructor in the first section of the Infantry School, are two officers named to attend the 1933-34 course at the Army Industrial College, which will begin in August.

Lieutenant Colonel John B. Stutesran, who is at present a student at the Ecole de Guerre, Paris, France, has been assigned to the 66th Infantry (Light Tanks), and will report for duty at Fort Benning upon the completion of his present course of instruction.

Assigned To War College

War Department orders heralding the annual change of personnel of The Infantry School are filtering in from Washington. Among those received at Fort Benning on Thursday are announcement of assignments of organizations using this type of transportation.

HORSE SHOW
(Continued from page 1)

Class 9. Ladies' hacks. Open to ladies of Fort Benning.

Class 10. Regulation escort wagons. Entries limited to one each from each battalion and unit not forming part of a battalion.

Class 11. Hunt Club Plate. Open to teams of adult members of the Infanrty School Hunt.

Class 12. Horse-shoeing competition. Limited to six entries from the 24th Infantry.

Class 13. Officers and ladies jumping. Entries limited to members of the garrison.

Class 14. Artillery section. Limited to one entry from each battery of the 1st Battalion 83rd Field Artillery.

The following events will be held on Saturday:

Class 15. Ladies' jumping. Open to ladies mounted on private or government horses.

Class 16. Officers trained mounts. Entries limited to officers of the garrison.

Class 17. Green jumper stakes, Open to members of the garrison on certain designated green jumpers.

Class 18. Escort wagons - s h o w. Limited to one entry from each battalion or similar unit of the garrison.

Class 19. Invitation team jumping. Open to one team of three entries from each organization of Fort Benning.

Class 20. Special wagon class. Limited to entries from Service Company, 24th Infantry.

Class 21. Hunt teams. Open to teams of three, composed of two men and a woman.

Class 22. Machine gun, signal communications, and howitzer carts, show. Limited to one entry from each organization using this type of transportation.

Class 23. Horse-shoeing competition. Open to one entry from each mounted organization, 29th Infantry, 83rd Field Artillery, and Company A 7th Engineers.

Class 24. Escort wagon driving. Open to four entries from the 29th Infantry. Three from the 1st Battalion 83rd Field and two each from the 24th Infantry and Company A, 7th Engineers.

Class 25. Enlisted men's jumping. Open to white enlisted men from each battalion or similar unit of the garrison.

Class 26. Six-line team escort wagon driving. Open to one entry from each battalion or similar unit of the garrison.

Class 27. Jumping sweepstakes. Open to officers, ladies, and enlisted men of the garrison and visiting military organizations.

The horse-show has been planned by the second section, academic department which directs instruction in horsemanship and equitation in the classes of the Infantry School. Major John B. Thompson, Cavalry, has been designated as supervisor, Captain John W. Blue, Infantry, as manager, and Lieutenant Ovid O. Wilson, in charge of grounds and property.

Judges for the events will include Major Neal C. Johnson, Major George J. Rife, and Captain Robert A. McClure, and Michael E. Halloran.

Tank Notes

We would like to know why one of our Staff Officers was called on the telephone one morning last week, and asked by a plaintive female voice "Where is the morning paper."

They tell us that "Corn" Griffin, Auzat, Bowden and Thomas of Headquarters were ready to have a race the other night, and while getting ready to start someone yelled police, and for the next hour no one could find Thomas. There were several more of the boys also missing.

We now have all the dope on the fish down in South Georgia. Believe it or not as Ripley says but the fish grow so large down there that they keep all of the rivers and creeks dry by drinking the water. If you don't believe this get in touch with 1st Sergeant Hunt, of Company E. He has just got back from them thar' parts of the state and a good fish story is his promise for all. By-the-way Sergeant, what become of the mess of cat-fish you were going to bring back to our Sergeant Major.

The company baseball series is well under way and at his time and the two out-standing teams of the series belong to Company "E" and Company F-67. Anything can happen in these series and our report next week may be against E and F-67.

"Tanks" Grantham, turned out to be a real radio announcer in broadcasting the main go of the fights last Tuesday night at the Post Gym. More power to you "Tanks" and the next time you are on the air tell us more about the Georgia Peaches. We are all interested.

Our Track Coach, Lieut. Nourse, is missing a good bet if he don't get Private Evans of Company "E" out for the 440 yard dash. Evans they tell us can do it in nothing flat so comes the report from Griffin, Georgia. Yep! That boy sho' can do road work and cover ground like nobody's business.

Famous Last Words: "Fifteen Percent, did you say?"

Staff Sergeant Vallery has departed on a 30-day furlough which will be spent out in the wide-open spaces of Texas and points west. This is Sergeant Vallery's first trip home in nine years and we know the folks will give him a big welcome.

OFFICERS RECEIVE NEW ASSIGNMENTS
(Continued from page 1)

several Fort Benning officers as students in the 1933-34 course at the Army War College, Washington, D. C., where they will report for registration between August 15th and August 19, 1933.

The Fort Benning list includes Majors Omar N. Bradley, instructor in the academic department of The Infantry School; Major Sereno E. Brett, tank member of The Infantry Board; Major Lewis C. Davidson, instructor, academic department; Major Edwin F. Harding, instructor, academic department; Major Stephen G. Henry, instructor; Major Francis J. Heraty, student, advanced course; Major Courtney H. Hodges, Infantry Board; Major Allen F. Kingman, commander of the tank battalion; and Captain Elmer G. Lindroth; instructor, academic department.

I. S. D.

We wish to register a complain against the unpatriotic attitude that is being taken by the majority of the members of this large and magnificent organization known as the Detachment. To think that things have come to the pass where a man is so lacking in organization spirit that he will refrain from cutting those small didoes that make such excellent stories for the scandal sheet; that the fine old idea of giving everything for the good of the outfit has gone by the boards because the men of this aforementioned grand and glorious, etc. outfit are afraid of losing what small shreds of reputation that they have left; when the thought of all this crosses what this writer waggishly calls his mind, there comes a hope that he may be able to fill up this empty void of white paper someway or other without becoming maudlin about it.

Perhaps a few subtle suggestions as getting Gilbert to throw a baseball in the general viciniy of the Major's car, and suddenly push said car at the time the throw is made, might bring forth results, but as it is we shall have to fall back on the old stand-bys that are continually breaking into print, and whom we had intended to let rest for awhile.

---

The first on the list of the victims is the well-known and justly famous Corporal Barney (James to you) Knox. The motorcycle which has been previously mentioned in this column is the cause of Barney being in the lime-light this week, and anyone having information as to the general idea of Knox escorting T. U. (Dad) Petty down the main drag of the neighboring city of Columbus, with the horn wide open, and "Dad" following in his old Model T, yclept "Agnes", will put the minds of several of the boys at rest by calling 146 and explaining the whole matter.

---

Tom Cox—beg pardon—CORPORAL Cox, from message center, comes forward with another of his prying, nagging questions, with which he disturbs the peace and serenity of anyone that will listen. This time he wants to know if anyone has ever caught Jimmy Moye actually working when Major Lewis was out of sight. We'll bite, Tom have you?

---

And the M. P.'s make the headlines again, this time through the agency of the august chief and general supervisor of Outpost No. 1, ergo, Corporal Arthur Nolle.

Peanuts, the volume of whose love-life is being prepared elsewhere, decided that he needed to increase his S. A. by the addition of a powerful and all-pervading scent; something on he order of "Gabby" Gables shaving powder; thereby hoping to make more and bigger conquests among the feminine canines of the garrison. So wandering forth from the wary vigilance of the gum-shoes at the main gate, Peanuts proceeded to hunt up the remains of a defunct fish somewhere along the reaches of the Upatoi. Though the fact is well-known that to a doggy nose (no pun intended) the odor of a muchly-decayed carp is an odor which there is no whicher; it is rather passe and out-of-style when it reaches the nasal appendages of civilized man. So it was decided that Peanuts must be purified.

Long and diligent search on the part of our hero (Nolle) failed to reveal anyone at the outpost who was not busily engaged in something or other, and the incoming cars were treated to the dignified spectacle of the precinct captain, or desk-sergeant, dragging a protesting and struggling fox-terrier to the vicinity of the water-hydrant. There Peanuts was strung up, literally and figuratively, to the limb of a tree, and there the pride of the force washed them collectively and individually.

And despite all this the "memory lingers on". Just go near Peanuts and find out.

---

And we close the day, still wondering if our old friend, Sergeant Frank Smith, was telling the truth about those brier-scratches. Frank, old boy, old boy, we worked that gag ourselves about three years ago, and take it from one who knows, it aint so suc-

83rd F. A.

Corporal Pike has returned to the battery for duty after spending a few weeks in the wilds of Morvan, Georgia. Ye scribe hasn't been able to get all the news of the trip but rumors around the battery are that Cpl. Pike is going in the Kennel business. He expects to specialize in Chow Chow dogs.

Lt. Grubbs is writing an article on the Artillery Transportation and Horse Show, but we will say this that Hdqrs. Battery was high scorer for the day.

Sam Hale spent the week end in Atlanta, Ga., and from all reports he had a wonderful time. On the way back they lost a wheel from the old lizzie and Sam was thrown to the ground, but by good fortune he was unhurt. On recovering from the fall Sam held up his store teeth and said "Im glad I saved my teeth. The Post Dentist told me the last time that he would not replace them."

A dancing class has been organized at Boyle's Thirty Acres. All interested see Spl. Pike.

---

BATTERY "A"

Captain Robert G. Mangum, our Battery Commander, is on a three-day leave visiting Atlanta and Fort Valley, Georgia.

Lieut. Cobb has returned from leave and is back on the job as Supply Officer.

The Officers were very much pleased with Battery "A" showing in the Battalion Horse Show. We are in hopes of winning some of the events

(Please turn to page 3)

BURRUS

Ford

SERVICE

Complete
Chassis Lubrication
(Springs Sprayed)
Any make car for only
50c

WE WASH CLEAN
any make car for only
50c

SPECIAL MOTOR TUNE-UP
For Ford Cars
$1.00
IT'S A REAL TONIC FOR YOUR MOTOR

Ask the floorman about our REDUCED REPAIR CHARGES. Only Genuine Parts used.

Burrus Motor Co.
AUTHORIZED FORD DEALER
1216-22 1st Ave. Phone 3500
A SAFE PLACE TO BUY

GOOD BREAD

is exclusively the product of skill and fine ingredients. That's why Collins' Bread excels any other you can buy. Our cakes, too maintain the same high standard.

COLLIN'S
BAKING CO.
1144 - 13th Street

Final Wind-Up of Big
Remodeling Sale

Save on your Easter Shoes. Entire stock of Men's, Women's, and Children's Shoes must be sacrificed for the cash.

Every Pair Must Be Sold
Friday and Saturday last two days.

Men's Shoes ..... $1.39 to $4.48
Ladies' Slippers ..... 25c to $1.98
Children's Shoes .... 94c to $2.48

2-FOR-1-SALE
IN SHOE REPAIRING

The Best In Town

Men's half soles and heels, leather or composition, Goodyear rubber heels, shine and strings; two at the price of ..... $1.25
Men's half soles, leather or composition, grade No. 1, shine and strings; two pair for ..... $1.00
Men's half soles, leather or composition, grade 2, strings and shine; two pair ..... .75
Men's single pair half soles and heels, shine and shoe strings. ..... 60c 80c and $1.00
Ladies' half soles and heels, staple; two for ..... .75
Ladies' welt shoes, half soles and heels; two for ..... $1.00
Ladies' heels, rubber or leather; two for ..... .25
Children's from 3 to 12, half soles and heels; two for ..... .65
Ladies' single half soles and heels, leather or rubber, grade 2, staple. ..... .65
Ladies' Lamac half soles and heels, leather or rubber $1.25; two pairs fixed for additional ..... .50
Men's rubber or leather heels; two pair ..... .25

THIS IS GOOD ONLY FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

FRIDAY and SATURDAY —ONLY—

Boston Shoe Factory
1234 Broadway - - - Phone 565

A Good Habit To Have

Is to eat the freshest sausages that you can procure. You can eat RED ROSE and OLD SETTLER'S brands Sausages with the assurance you can get no fresher sausages in the world. They will justify serving daily. They are economical and every pound is inspected by United States Bureau of Animal Industry employees. We guarantee every pound to be wholesome. Serve and Save.

The Provision Co., Inc.

Pool Games To Be Played Monday

The Twenty-ninth Infantry, in the person of Corporal Carl Cooper, of Company F, will be pitted against a former Finance Department member, Ex-Sergeant John N. Collins, in a championship pool match to be played at the Palace Billiard Parlor in Columbus next Monday night. The match will be referreed by Walter Parsons.

All who desire to see the match are invited to attend.

83RD F. A.

(Continued from page 2)

in the Post Horse Show next Saturday.

First Sergeant Horace Taylor has returned from furlough relieving acting 1st Sgt. Davis L. Temples. Corporal Doll Johnson is starting on his last 20 days furlough today before being discharged in July. Pvt. James O. Taylor has returned from a short furlough.

Sergeant Soup Gilbert is getting whipped back in shape since his reenlistment furlough. He is getting able to growl again.

The following conservation was overheard in the day room the other night over the telephone. The telephone rang and of course Pvt. Muscrove answered it. A female voice asked if Pvt. Ray was there. (A) "No he has gone to town" (Q) "Is Pvt. Glenn there?" (A) "No, he is not here." (Q) "Is Pfc. Cameron, C., there?" (A) "No he has gone to the show." The young lady said: "Then, I will stick around until my husband comes home." Naturally Pvt. Muscrove's curiosity was aroused and asked who her husband was and the answer was Pvt. Fuller. Evidently the joke is on someone. Any detective desiring to get the inside dope on this affair will call at Riverside Hotel.

BATTERY "C"

The Battery as a part of the Battalion had mounted drill, riding, jumping, harness, unharness and harness again, watering animals and grooming, building picket lines, build and strike tents from 6:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. on Saturday, and still some people called it a holiday. Anyhow, a good time was had by all.

Our battery did very well in the competions, we always placed. The very well. In our opinion this drill very well. In ouropinion this drill of our battery was the outstanding event of the whole "show". It was something everybody else had not done before.

The First Section was selected to represent the Battery in the Post Horseshow. With the ultra refined actions and looks of the chief of that section and the graceful appearance of Anderson and Bopp the other sections just were not in the race.

On Thursday we had service practice. Everything seemed to function very well except the school at the OP. We had a safety officer around the guns, what was needed was a safety officer at the OP.

NOTICE
FOR A LIMITED TIME
ANNE
From Vienna and New York, will be at this shop. Formerly with Parker's. For appointment phone 9123.
Martin's Beauty Shop
2230 Wynnton Drive

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Ave. Telephone 371

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

29th Inf.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

The Company baseball team has lost its first game played so far this year to Service Company, 29th Infantry. The Company team was ahead all during the game and the Service Company won in the last half of the Ninth Inning.

Company basketball team represented the Battalion in a round robin basketball meet and made a fine showing. We feel honored by having our team represent the Battalion and do so well.

Corp. Easley seems to have difficulty in getting back from his passes. One of these days he will miss a baseball game and that will wind him up.

The Company has been going out in the field having motion pictures taken of their various demonstrations—which shows that we still lead the way.

The Company will be represented in the Post Horse Show by Corp. Fuller, and Pvts. Sandow, Wright, Stambaugh and McLendon. McLendon won first place sweepstakes in the horseshow last year, and we are expecting all the boys to show up good in the show this Saturday.

We would like to find out where Corp. Mueller has been spending his week end pass. He is stated to have been on a very unusual mission.

"Red" Burn was seen stepping around this last week in a new Ford. It looks like another prospective car owner in the company.

Corp. Youngblood is seen with the company orchestra again, lending his enchanting voice to their sweet strains. He said he was scheduled to go on the air at WRBL next week. So tune in and get an ear full, for he is working hard on a good program.

—I. M. Yarbrough.

COMPANY "D"

Well, Company D won another soccer game. We defeated Co. B, 29th Infantry Tuesday. We play Co. E, 66th Infantry for the Post championship Sunday, April 15th. Co. B defeated Co. E and we defeated Co. B twice, that should give us an edge to win if Co. E hadn't defeated us so that makes it about a fifty-fifty proposition. Anyway, it should be a swell game.

About 12 men of the Company, along with several others, including Major Lewis, Lieut. Ridings, Lieut. Easterbrook and Mr. Wells went on another fishing expedition to St. Marks, Florida last Sunday. They had better luck both with the fish and old man weather than on the first trip a month back. No one got sea sick. Now about the fish; it sounds just like another fish tale, but 1200 pounds of fish were caught. We gave all we could away and still had more than Co. D could eat. For proof we refer you to the aforementioned officers and Cpl. Remelsberger, the organizer of the fishing trips.

Pfc. LaFontaine gets discharged the 16th per E. T. S. I don't know if it is the spring weather or if the worst comes to worst they plan to join the Conservation Corps, at a $1.00 per, without the often mentioned 15% cut. They just don't seem to be reenlisting the past month or so as usual.

Sheppard.

COMPANY "H"

Contrary to expectations, some of the recruits who have been assigned to Company H lately have shown a bit of ability to handle themselves on the baseball field. This is indeed gratifying, for this reserve strength, coupled with the veterans of last year's team, make a formidable opponent for any team in the Regiment.

To date the team has played four games, winning two and losing two. The first game of the season was lost to the North Highland Rats by the score of 13 to 9, but we came back strong to defeat Service Company to the tune of 11 to 4. The third game went to Holy Trinity, Alabama, by the score of 11 to 9. Trinity scored 6 runs in the second inning when Lefty Clark swallowed dynamite or something and blew up like "Old Faithful". Behind the superb three hit twirling of "Skinny" Fuller, we won the fourth game from First Battalion Headquarters 6 to 2.

During the past few days the company has been busy calsomining the barracks from the top floor to the ground floor. A good job was done and the barracks look fine.

We have our show cart entered in the annual Horse Show April 15th. Oh, well, another ribbon to hang somewhere?

Two of our men are entered in the Amateur Boxing Tournament in Mobile. Pfc. Phail, lightweight, and Pvt. Honey, Middleweight. Pfc. Littlefield has gone with the team as trainer.

Charles B. Gray.

83rd Holds Second Annual Horse Show Here Last Week

The Second Annual Transportation and Horse Show of the 1st Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery was held at its Horse Show Ring, Saturday, April 8th, between 9 A. M. and 4:30 P. M. The weather was perfect, a good crowd turned out, and the 24th Infantry Band added much to the affair in the afternoon. The batteries had lunch in the show area and a number of guests participated in a Horse Show luncheon.

During the morning, with the exception of the Polo Pony Scurry, the participants were the batteries as a whole and individual enlisted men of the Artillery.

During the afternoon there were several events for the Officers and Ladies of the Artillery and the last event, Hunt Teams of three members, was open to the entire post. The last event officially opened the mile and a quarter hunt course. As time was taken, the hunt teams were required to go around the course of twelve jumps at a 16 mile gallop. This class was won by Major Thompson, Mrs. Thompson and Capt. Halloran, Major Thompson leading them around at almost a perfect 16 mile gallop.

Among the horses, Mike and Squirrel deserve special mention. Mike is one of the oldest horses in our stables and after jumping in the enlisted men's jumping class, jumping off for second and third place and then competing in both the enlisted men's mount and schooling classes, he was still able to carry Mrs. Bevan around the hunt course at a 16 mile gallop. Squirrel looks like and really is a draft horse but handles like and is one of our best riding horses. After going over to the hospital and having most of his teeth extracted he was still able to place 2nd in the enlisted men's jumping and 3rd in the enlisted men's schooling classes. We hope that these horses don't feel their ages too much by next year and are able to do even better in our next horse show.

REFINANCING means reduced worry
Let us explain a simple plan that has helped others and may help you. Our interest charges are straight 8% with no additional charges for investigations. We can give you Twenty-four hour service.
Fidelity Loan & Investment Company
1206 FIRST AVENUE
T. E. BAISDEN, Secretary-Treasurer

Varsity-town CLOTHES fine feathers make fine birds
DRESS for EASTER
Buy Nationally Known Merchandise You Get More
Quality
Style
Satisfaction
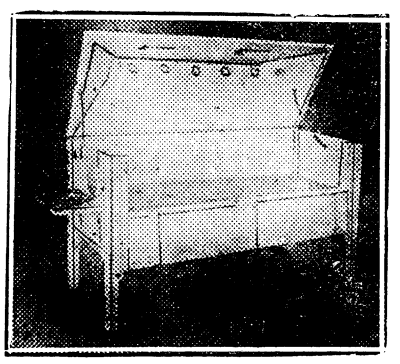
At A Low Cost
SUITS
$15.00 Up

VISIT OUR BOYS' SHOP
WE ARE AGENTS FOR • KUPPENHEIMER • VARSITY TOWN • DOBBS • MANHATTAN • McGREGOR and others.
Hofflin & Greentree
COLUMBUS' LEADING CLOTHIERS
ESTABLISHED 1888



Vita Health Reclining Cabinet
We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.
Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.
Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment
Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish, Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy
SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Dinner Dance To Be Held Saturday Evening At Country Club In Columbus

One of the most delightful events of Easter week will be the dinner dance which will be held Saturday evening at the Columbus Country Club.

Throughout the club and on the dinner tables, Easter decorations will be carried out.

The hostesses for Saturday's dance will be Mrs. Frank Lumpkin, Mrs. Carter Woolfolk, Mrs. D. H. Dismuke, Mrs. Frank Foley, Mrs. Walter Richards, Mrs. A. Mayo, Mrs. Edward Lummus, Mrs. John Mitchell, Mrs. C. F. McLaughlin and Mrs. Burrus.

A great number of reservations are expected from Fort Benning and Columbus.

COLUMBUS COUNTRY CLUB HOLDS BRIDGE TOURNAMENT FRIDAY EVENING

The Columbus Country Club held its fifth bridge tournament last Friday evening. These tournaments throughout the winter have been great successes both with the Columbus and Fort Benning people. Allan Woodall has been in charge of all the series.

The winners Friday evening were: Mrs. Calvin Des Portes and Mrs. Fred Dismukes playing north and south and Major and Mrs. A. E. Andrews playing east and west. Taking second place were Mrs. E. C. Johnson and Capt. Griswold north and south and Mrs. Clason and Mrs. Abbott, east and west.

* * *

CAPT. AND MRS. GUY HARTMAN ENTERTAIN FOR GUEST

Mrs. Calvin Prescott of Atlanta, who is house guest of Capt. and Mrs. Guy Hartman was the honor guest Saturday evening at an informal dinner given by her hosts.

The guests were: Mrs. Calvin Prescott, Colonel and Mrs. F. L. Munson, Major and Mrs. L. K. Patterson, Major P. P. Salgado.

* * *

MISS LOUISE WADDINGTON HOSTESS AT DINNER PRECEDING DANCE

Miss Louise Waddington, who is spending the Easter holidays with her brother-in-law and sister, Lt. and Mrs. J. E. Bowen, will be the hostess Saturday evening at a dinner party at the Officers' Club preceding the dance at Biglerville.

Miss Waddington will have as her guests a group of sub debs from the Post and their escorts. They are: the Misses Mary Wadsworth, Jane Lindroth, Maxine Rife, Betty Gaston, Eleanor Harding, Lieutenants Tom Hanna, James Heriot, Edward Winston, Joseph Coolidge, Hugh Corey, Mr. O'Neil.

* * *

OFFICERS' CLUB HOLDS EASTER DINNER DANCE

Among the many delightful affairs for Easter week will be the dinner and dance which will be held Saturday at the Officers' Club. The guests will arrive for dinner at 8, dancing will be from 9 to 12. A capacity number of reservations have been made. Those reserving tables are: Colonel and Mrs. C. W. Weeks, Major and Mrs. P. S. Wood, Capt. and Mrs. M. K. Brislawn, Capt. and Mrs. H. L. Harries, Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Bennett, Capt. and Mrs. E. C. Johnson. Capt. and Mrs. J. H. Hinwood, Capt. and Mrs. L. D. Tharp, Capt. Schumaker, Lieutenants R. C. Brackney, E. S. Watson, J. E. Bowen.

* * *

P.-T. A. SPONSORS DANCE AT POLO HUNT CLUB FOR MEMBERS OF YOUNGER SET

The Parent-Teachers' Association will be the sponsors at a subscription dance Saturday evening at the Polo Hunt Club for members of the younger set from the ages of 12 through high school. Dancing will be from 8 to 10:30 and the 24th Infantry Orchestra will furnish the music.

The heaperones for this affair will be: Major and Mrs. F. G. Bonham and Capt. and Mrs. Clough Gee.

* * *

THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCE HELD FOR LARGE ASSEMBLAGE

There being a number of guests on the post for Easter week a great number of reservations were made for the Thursday evening supper dance at the Officers' Club.

Those reserving tables were: Maj. and Mrs. D. M. Bradley, Maj. and Mrs. F. A. Irving, Maj. and Mrs. Forrest Harding, Capt. and Mrs. W. P. O'Brien, Lieut. and Mrs. W. W. Stevenson, Lieut. and Mrs. J. D. Cambre, Lieut. and Mrs. G. D. Barnes, Lieut. and Mrs. H. H. Jordan, Lieut. W. D. Bache.

Community Service League Sponsors Of Bridge Tournament

The Community Service League of Columbus will sponsor a bridge tournament at Hardaway Hall on the Talbotton Road on Tuesday evening, April 18 at 8 o'clock. The tournament will be run on national tournament lines and prizes will be given for the high scores. All of the bridge playing contingent of Fort Benning is invited to make reservations by calling Mrs. Jack Ellis, 312. Admission 50c per person.

Officer's Club Serves 605 Guests at Lunch Time Last Saturday

In feeding 605 guests for lunch last Saturday, the Officers' Club shattered all previous records. Three hundred and eighty-six members of the Federated Garden Club of Georgia were served in Biglerville Mess. The officers who ordinarily dined in this mess hall were temporarily shifted to the Officers' Club.

The Club had originally contracted to take care of three hundred and fifty of the ladies, but thirty-six more than the number anticipated showed up. The danger of a food shortage, however, was adequately met. All guests in the Biglerville Mess were seated and fed within forty minutes, which is remarkable considering the number present.

The Oriental dinners on Wednesday night, an experiment on the part of the management of the Club, have proved very popular. The tea room has been filled to capacity on the occasion of all these dinners without exception.

Since many officers and their families are considering short pleasure trips now that the legislative embroglio concerning leaves is more or less cleared up, Lieutenant Dowdall, Secretary of the Officers' Club, is making extensive inquiries to determine which of the resorts are the most desirable from an economic point of view. The result of his findings will be made public when his investigation, which takes in a great deal of territory, has been completed.

On Saturday, the 22nd of the current month, there will be a dinner dance at the Country Club to which members of the Officers' Club are invited, provided they secure tables. These table reservations can be made through Lieutenant Dowdall.

On the fifteenth of this month, there will be an Easter supper dance at the Club. Because of the maneuvres that will take place between the last week of this month and the first week of May necessitating the participation of most of the officers on the post, there will be no Thursday evening supper dances on the 27th of April or on the 4th of May.

PERSONALS

Capt. and Mrs. Morris De Pass left Sunday for a motor trip to Charleston, S. C., to visit Magnolia and Middleton Gardens.

Liuet. G. P. Howell left Sunday for a few days trip for a visit with relatives in Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Selina Waddington motored to Charleston, S. C. Sunday to visit her daughter Louise, at Ashley Hall. Miss Waddington will accompany her mother back to Fort Benning where she will spend the Easter holiday with her brother-in-law and sister, Lt. and Mrs. J. E. Bowen.

Capt. and Mrs. Raymond Oscar Miller are to be congratulated upon the birth of a daughter, Edith, at the station hospital on April 9.

Mrs. Carl Lewis and Mrs. Calvin Prescott motored to Fort Benning Saturday to be the guest of Mrs. Guy Hartman at the Garden Club. Mrs. Prescott remained over the week-end.

Lieut. and Mrs. Lynn Brady who have been on a three-weeks' leave at the latter's home in Toledo, Ohio, returned to Fort Benning Saturday.

Miss Susan Brenckmon of Toledo, Ohio, is the house guest of Lieut. and Mrs. Lynn E. Brady.

Mrs. Francis Howard Sr., of Charlottsville, Virginia is spending a few weeks as the guest of her son and daughter-in-law Lieut. and Mrs. Francis Howard.

Capt. and Mrs. O. S. Robles have as their house guest the latter's mother and sister, Mrs. P. B. Malone and Miss Gertrude Malone of Baltimore, Maryland. General Malone is expected to join his family here Saturday.

The Most Appropriate Dessert of All!

Ice cream makes the most acceptable and most delicious dessert you can buy and is, at the same time, delightfully economical.

Call the SODA FOUNT

FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

IT WOULDN'T BE Easter WITHOUT FLOWERS

Corsages for "Her" Easter costume. Orchids, gardenias, roses and valley lilies.

Gorgeous roses and other cut flowers.

EASTER Plants of All Kinds

BENNING BOULEVARD NURSERIES

PHONE 4176

WE TELEGRAPH FLOWERS

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

A Citizen Wherever We Serve

1330 Broadway

R. M. Harding, Manager

Joy's

EASTER FLOWERS

DELIVERED EVERYWHERE BY TELEGRAPH

Joy's

FLOWER SHOP

CONVENIENT LOCATION—MODERN EQUIPMENT

RATES REASONABLE

Phone your agent or call our Superintendent, Mr. Trussell, Phone 3062

DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

EVERYTHING FOR THE HOME

Maxwell Bros. & McDonald Furniture

Special while they last Bridge sets, metal table with moire top; four folding metal chairs with moire seats $9.75

1141 Broadway Phone 409

DEALERS PHILCO RADIOS

The Season's Smartest Sport Shoe

White Mandrusco, lined in kid and made cool and airy. This shoe is designed to flatter any foot and is just the thing to set off the new Spring ensemble.

$8.50

Miller-Taylor Shoe Co.

"Where The New Styles Are Shown First"

1130 BROADWAY PHONE 405

Peep, Jr's. Diary

Thursday, April 6

Awakened betimes and to class to find Joe Cleland all a-twitter over the approaching writ in Trench Mortar. How the mechanical functioning of a stove pipe could cause such mental jittering astounds me. Capt. Pope did soothe the pain by announcing said writ to be nothing less than an insult to the highly trained military experts of the class. After being exposed to the questions bethought me that 'twould have been better had I been more of a-twitter on the subject myself! Home and to bed by three o'clock, however, which was some consolation.

Friday, April 7

A warm morning indoors at tactics. Somewhat taken aback on entering the sacred sanctum of satisfactory solutions to see naught but a sea of floating and waving maps. To my relief the ring of a bell did calm the shuffle and numerous paste smeared faces popped from beneath the waves to disclose all present!

Spent a pleasant spring afternoon at Harmony Church ostensibly working a mounted terrain exercise. Found it much more to my liking to sit in a car and listen to a new radio purchased by some kind soul for the benefit of the class in the field. A pleasant way to fight a war and far less wear and tear.

Greatly intrigued by Gaither's invention of four Austin trucklets mounted with machine guns and each hung by davits from a larger truck. Four trucklets so hung on one large truck so greatly resembled a litter of pigs that I venture to name the invention "The Mother Load."

Saturday, April 8

Again one of those week ends. To the Benning Boulevard Nursery where I did discover that their entire supply of gardenias and pink lilies is sold out. Not only sold out, mind you, but contracted for for several weeks to come! My latent reportorial sense being enlivened by this startling fact I could obtain no information but that said large purchases were made by a short, fat lieutenant! A-ha! A clew! Further snooping produced the following touching note on the back of a blotter. Holding same up to a mirror solved the problem. Hear ye!

My darling Star:

Every time I think of you my heart flops up and down like a catfish in a shallow mud puddle. Sensations of joy caper over it like chinch bugs in old Squire Bryant's cornfield, thicker and more numerous than fleas on a rat terrier. As the guinea pig crawleth forth for its evening swill, as the hungering mouse yearns for the fresh bacon in the new trap, and as the song bird longs for the light of day, so hanker I for thee.

Now if these flowers will enable you to see the inside of my soul I will feel as happy as a fat hog on a freight train, but if not I will pine away like a dyspeptic owl and drop from the tree of life like a pippin with a worm in it.

Even and anon, yours,
Danny.

Sunday, April 9

Forsooth, methinks one could get more rest if school was held on Saturday and Sunday, too, in as much as rest on a week end seems well nigh to impossible.

Monday, April 10

To class in my own sleepy manner to find Jim Luckett arrayed in a full sized pair of hip boots! Mayhap the flow in tactics becomes a bit too thick! Which leads me to think that if we could have "Gabriel over A. H. No. 4" mayhap I could have more success in answering tactical questions!

Infantry Journal seems to have produced an excellent method of entertainment during a lecture. I observe that there are those who prefer to spend the time designing golf courses. Being more seriously minded, did pass the time racking my brain to determine why blue flowers grow in front of the retreat gun and nowhere else! Can it be the Ordnance now loads saluting rounds with pansy seeds?

Since the Major failed to allow the traditional ten minutes break I did take one myslef only to be aroused by the question of where to put artillery stopping fires! Bethought me that the platform would have been an excellent place but surely would have received no polite "thank you" for such an answer!

Somewhat startled a bit later, upon coming from the depths of a Blue and Red situation, to see Major Arms standing before us with a handful of approved solutions and hearing him remark, "I am now going to pass out!"

Equally amused at the Great Kidwell who, upon being asked to read his solution, did blankly stagger to his feet and ask, "My what, Sir?"

Am muchly astounded that Napoleon was such a success in life since the First Section has given him a U on his writings. Witness Major Evans who condemns the Little Corporal by informing us, "Napoleon wrote it but that isn't what he meant." "Bring up the Old Guard and Marshal Ney." I find myself, however, in complete accord with the same dispenser of tactical technique when he states that we ca nnever learn tactics!

Nor do I agree with the majority of the class in the clamorous desire to know the names of the committee who produced a map problem to be worked at home. Being wiser than most I do reserve my opinion until after graduation.

Am, furthermore, indeed thankful that my fond parents did not send me to the Infantry School earlier in my youth, else how could I go home with such a report card for signature?

Wednesday, April 12.

Because so engrossed in the writing of my beloved diary that I did this day run a late to class, thereby ruining a previously perfect record. It doth appear that one cannot even get an A in attendance at our illustrious Infantry School. However, hied me to class to be engulfed in more supply and tactics. Clark probably confounded by struggling to answer a question only to be told that there was no answer! Would that I would draw such a question for I never have an answer!

Also overcome with administration for the bravery of Capt. Paul who considers it perfectly safe to ride a loaded ammunition wagon thru enemy artillery fire! Being a man of great bravery myself would not mind riding on Capt. Paul's wagon only so long as it is part of a map problem.

Boldly off to the night wars and may some kind soul break the news to mother if perchance I fail to return.

—Peep, Jr.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued from page 1)

obtains immediate obedience from her subordinates, as evidenced by the remarkable celerity with which Lieut. "Bugs" Raymond obeyed her every whim in "The Debutante."

We know not whether Mrs. Felicia Howell should be given he office of Provost Marshal or Post Adjutant. In either capacity, she would be able to obtain first hand information on the parties given at the post that she might be able to do them all the more justice when she wrote them up for the Benning Herald.

In the next issue, we will suggest a few more candidates.

SEEDS — PLANTS
Everything for the GARDEN and LAWN; seeds, plants, tools, fertilizer.
VALLEY SEED CO.
1041 Broadway

Buy your GRADUATION GIFTS EARLY

DIAMOND RINGS

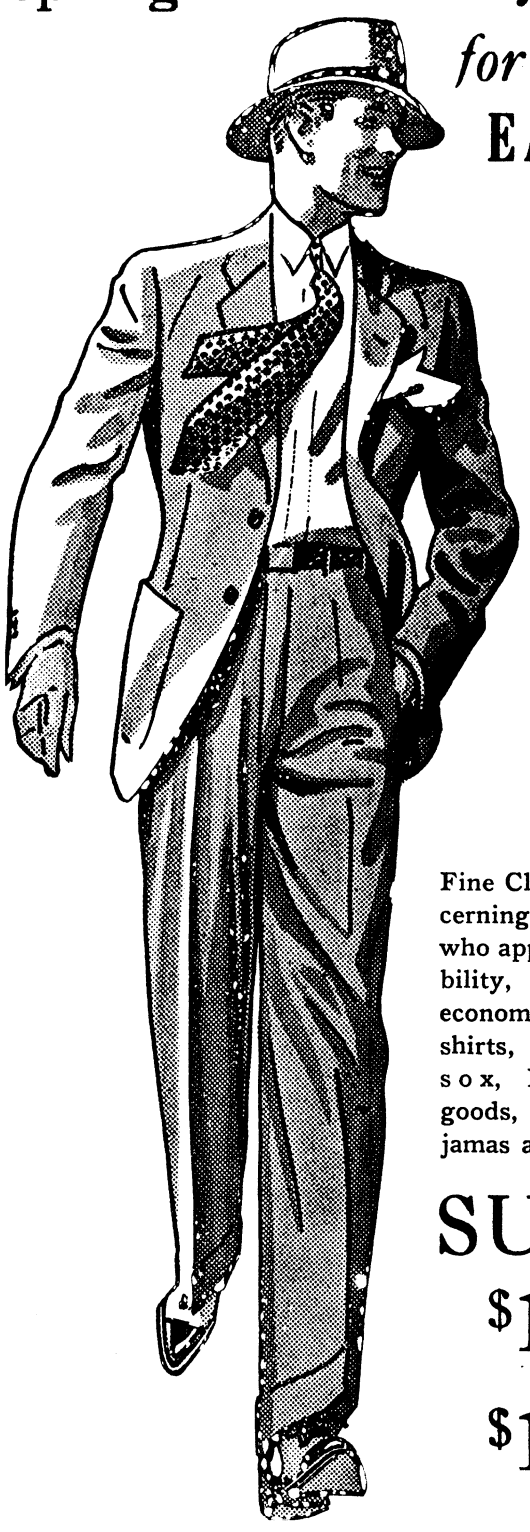
WRIST WATCHES

Novelty Jewelry

PEN SETS

BARGAINS GALORE
Royal Jewelry Co.
BANKRUPT
SALE
1151 BROADWAY

Spring's Newest Styles
for
EASTER



Fine Clothes for discerning men — men who appreciate durability, style and economy. Arrow shirts, Interwoven sox, Bradley knit goods, Faultless pajamas and shorts.

SUITS
$16.00
AND $18.50

JOHN K. HARRIS CO.
Home Of
HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX FINE MEN'S CLOTHES

HERALD WANT ADS

CLASSIFIED ADV. RATES:
20 cents per line or fraction of line. Minimum charge for any classified advertisement, 50 cents. Payment must be made before advertisement is published.

FOR SALE: Ringneck Pheasants and eggs. Early eggs with fertility guaranteed $2.00 per thirteen.. W. H. Glenn, NEHI Bottling Co.

The Echo
answers every call!
Now under new management, we are prepared to give you excellent service.
We Specialize in Chicken and Steak Dinners
Dining and Dancing
Located at the Junction of the Hamilton and River Roads

Sale
SPRING
Coats Suits Dresses
Two Groups of Each

Suits
values $16.75
$11.95
Navy, Beige, Grey and Black. Tailored and others with fur trimmed sleeves.
values $29.75
$19.95

Coats
values $16.75
$11.95
Sports coats. In tweeds, wool crepe, others are fur trimmed. Navy, Beige, Grey.
values $29.75
$22.50
Dressy coats in Grey, Beige and Black. Some with capes, some have fur trimmed sleeves.

Dresses
values $19.75
$10.75
Crepes, Prints and Sheers. All new spring shades.
values $10.75
$4.95
Prints, Sheers and Crepes. Sizes 12 to 20.

Evening Dresses
values $16.75
$13.95
Laces in Blue, Flesh, Beige and Rose. Sizes 18 to 46.

KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II APRIL 14, 1933 NUMBER 51

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Monday, Apr. 3

Amused no end at Captain Pope's predicament this afternoon. He, having iterated and reiterated that to hit moving targets requires extremely high training of a 37-mm. gun crew, did then demonstrate the point with a trained Third Section crew which made a creditable number of hits. Not content with this proof the Captain must needs assure assurance by picking at random a crew from the class to fire also and by missing the target to clinch his pet contention. Ornery as only student lieutenants can be, they more than doubled the score of the trained crew to the disproof of the theory, the merriment of the class and the discomfiture of the instructor. The First Section would explain it by saying, "Nothing is normal."

Tuesday, Apr. 4

It does appear that the late instruction in troop leading has borne fruit albeit in a somewhat abortive manner. So earnestly do students now look ahead and endeavor, by foreseeing situations, to lose no time and keep things moving that Vanderheide, on afternoons when unionalls are scheduled, does wear his golfing costume underneath and so reaches the number one tee well in advance of Lt. Col. First Bn. First Inf.

Todd so far-seeing in his turn that he looked right past one item. Becoming over-exhilarated at the early release from duty on Maxey Ridge he hopped a ride on the very first car bound for the locker-room thereby saving much time which was later expended in returning to Maxey Ridge to get his own car in which to drive home. The battalion commander (so runs an axiom) must never attack without his Battalion.

Wednesday, Apr. 5

A bit amused some days ago at Major Tombstone Terrell's opening gun of a conference; "Lt. Brady, what am I going to talk about?" Brady suggested a military subject as being appropriate to the occasion and the conference proceeded.

I did greatly wonder at the time whether the Major was asking for an assignment or only insuring that the class might in that way discover the topic. And if it were the latter, I did this morning wonder if he might not be induced to divulge that artifice to Major Lee.

Major Thompson appearing before us with his face ensconced in a large black beaver (worth 40 points in any game of beaver) did inspire one of the class to comment that the Major had, in 24 hours, grown more hair on his face than he had been able to grow on his head in a lifetime. (I was unable to more than chuckle perfunctorily.)

The afternoon enlivened by our being browbeaten at the hands of Arms. After ten minutes of bedevilling a student for not knowing the five points in a decision he did eternally brand himself by announcing his decision which contained only four of the five. One hundred voices in unison apprised him of his error. Thereafter sleep became prevalent, so much so that the instructor was once moved to remark "Mr. Chard, are you so much asleep that you can't even hear me announce a ten minute break?" One sleeper was seen to stir slightly and raise his head but hearing T. A. still holding forth turned over on his other side and relaxed again. I was minded of the anecdote of the man who, falling asleep during a long-winded after dinner speech, did occasion by his appearance much merriment in the crowd. The chairman to restore order and to save the speaker from embarrassment pounded vigorously with his gavel which fell by accident on the sleeper's head. More laughter. Another blow of the gavel in the same place. The sleepy one raised his head in a listening attitude then slumped down once more murmuring "Hit me again. I can still hear him."

Upon announcement that there would be no night problem tonight Watson at once issued himself Class I supplies and ate his cold lunch in the assembly hall.

Thursday, Apr. 6

Schnozzle McComas having but recently come into command of the eighth squad does now frequently appear in blouse and cap when the prescribed uniform is shirts; this no doubt lest he be mistaken for one of the boys and the dignity of his office suffer thereby.

Graded test on the trench mortar this afternoon and Kiel in his usual enthusiasm to explain things fully did begin his answer to the question on fuzes sufficiently far back to make it comprehensive. It is reported to have begun "These fuzes are made at a factory in Rock Island Arsenal. The factory girls go to work at 8:00 a. m." etc, etc.

Friday, Apr. 7

Major Bonham, to startle us out of our morning lethargy no doubt, began his conference with the statement "Jeb Stuart died at 31, Jackson at 39; you never know when the opportunity is coming." If the major would but read the ads he should knew that it's fun to be fooled .

Monday, Apr. 10

Did greatly bestir myself during the noon hour that the name of Peep be not inscribed on that exclusive roster, the delinquent list. I have that which I should rather do than make an endorsement response.

Approaching the marked problem in supply this afternoon I did become all but convinced that the noon hour had been, after all, better spent in study than in the insignificant matter of bill paying. From one o'clock until shortly after, it was "Peep leads, Second Division ducks. Round even." But thereafter it was "Second Section leads, Peep forgets to duck. All succeeding rounds to Second Section."

—Lieut. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Ants—Their Control

Many kinds of ants will become pests about the home if a food supply attracts them.

Measures should be taken to deny them food. This means that floors, closets and shelves must be kept clean. Food supplies must be stored in metal or glass containers which are ant proof. Where ants are numerous, ice boxes, tables, etc., may be made ant proof by placing the legs in cans or glass jars which are partly filled with kerosene.

Do not use water for this purpose for then you immediately start to breed mosquitoes.

Ant colonies can be destroyed by kerosene, gasoline or carbon disulphide.

Poisons, which usually consist of borax or arsenic, can be used. A good poison syrup is made by dissolving borax and sugar in boiling water. This syrup is taken up on small sponges and placed where it can be easily reached by the ants. The arsenic mixtures, although more effective, are more dangerous to use, especially if there are children in the home. A small amount of honey added to the syrup makes it more attractive to the ants. The poisoned syrup is collected by the ants and carried to their nests where it kills not only the ants which collect it but also others who eat it.

Ant nests in lawns or gardens can be eradicated by the use of carbon disulphide. This liquid becomes a gas at ordinary temperatures and when mixed with air is explosive. The liquid is injected into the depths of the nest by making one or several holes with a sharp stick and then pouring the liquid into the holes. The gas formed penetrates into all parts of the nest and more effectively so if the hill is covered with a wet blanket, which after five minutes is lifted to allow the explosion of the gas by means of a lighted taper on a long stick. The explosion drives the vapors into all parts of the nest.

Small colonies can be destroyed by kerosene or boiling water.

Tales Of The Tent City

The big news item of the week is the approaching golf match between members of the Third Section and a team selected from our ranks. The greatest trouble in being a student at any school is that little or no opportunity is afforded the students to retaliate in any way for the polite manhandling received in the classroom where the teacher's word is law. Well, a week from tomorrow a team composed of Jim Roberts, Ed Watson, Mashie Cole, Spoon Allison and Tank Johnson is to take on a team of Third Sectioners. The full line-up of the faculty team is lacking at the present writing but it is reliably reported that Majors Cota and Easley and Capt. Rooks will be three of the members.

The class is requested inasmuch as a free Saturday morning is available to turn out en masse to cheer their fellow comrades. It's the only chance to really see how good the faculty is at something we know something about.

* * *

We heard several of the fellows crabbing because part of the course in tactics is to be allotted to Night Operations and they feel they are pretty well versed in that subject. Too bad this is another kind of night operation.

* * *

"Capt." Branaum replied to a question asked by Bayonet Maertens, "I don't know how, sir, I'm not a bayonet man, I'm a machine gunner." Out at the M. G. range nobody asked him if he was a machine gunner but from the looks of his score he's still a rifleman.

* * *

In answer to Capt. Trechter's request for any ideas for tripods for the Browning Automatic may we offer a suggestion. Call on "Texas" Brown for any kind of an idea on anything. He's got 'em all.

* * *

There has been added to the list of available ammunition a new one. Pat Moyle saw them using live dummy cartridges in the rifle grenade exhibit.

* * *

We of the Infantry School believe that there may be no Santa Claus and should be no bones in ice cream. This you understand, gentlemen, is only one school of thought. There may be others but we asked you to accept ours without argument.

We nominate as weather prophet for the Post of Fort Benning and

(Please turn to page 7)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

TACTICAL DRAMATICS

On Tuesday morning of the current week, the first Section Players produced their great annual classic, "The Turning Movement." This popular drama was written by the distinguished playwright and fox hunting squire, Sir Roger Williams, formerly an instructor in the First Section. We were privileged to witness its premiere after which it suffered a few deletions by the Academic Board of Censorship. Thus altered—we believe for the better—it has been given several times before the classes at the Infantry School.

While not as colorful as "The Road to Rome" or as thrilling as "Journey's End" and "What Price Glory," "The Turning Movement" is unique in that it is the only play ever written as an approved solution to a problem in tactics. As produced by the talented actors of the Infantry School, it constitutes an effective medium of instruction. No student has ever gone to sleep or walked out on a performance.

For the recent revival, the excellent First Section Stock Company imported a visiting star in the person of Major A. S. J. Tucker, distinguished chief of the Versatile Second Section and popular matinee idol of the old school. Major Tucker played his former role of the Brigadier General with verve and fidelity. Critics who can remember back that far compare him to Joe Jefferson.

The Infantry School Dramatic Club has been criticized for not hooking Major Tucker for one of its plays, but the charge is unjust. The Major was offered the role of Thotmes in "The Road to Rome" so ably portrayed by Captain Gaillard. It is said that he turned down the part on the grounds that he did not have the requisite talent—a circumstance which is more of a tribute to his modesty than to his appreciation of his histrionic accomplishments.

Major Hugh Gilchrist gave a smooth and convincing portrayal of the omniscient Brigade Executive. To be cast in this part constitutes a promotion for the Major. Without question, it was Actor Gilchrist's notable perfromance as Carthalo in "The Road to Rome" that put him in line for such a stellar role.

Colonel Stillwell and Captain Hones, both troupers with many successes to their credit, portrayed the wo Colonels of Infantry. That they gave finished performances goes without saying.

Major Arnold, another experienced actor, handled the part of "Colonel 10th Field Artillery" in a manner which left nothing to be desired. Major Arnold's last appearance on the stage was at Leavenworth in "The Drums of Oude." He was offered the part of Bala in "The Road to Rome" but declined it on the grounds that he was unable to memorize the lines.

Major Wadsworth, in the language of the typical amateur dramatic review, made the most of a small part. Major Wadsworth, by the way, is the husband of Antoinette Wadsworth, the well known director. Had Mrs. Wadsworth not been away, Major Wadsworth might have been even better than he was. This doesn't necessarily mean that he wasn't so hot. The point we are trying to make is that we consider Mrs. Wadsworth capable of improving anybody's acting.

Captain Paul, who has appeared several times as a butler in the Infantry School Dramatic Club productions, played the part of S-4. As an S-4 is sort of a butler to the military organization which he serves, it is obvious that the Captain was well cast.

Captain Marshall played S-2. We don't know what the Chemical Warfare expert's previous experience has been, but we shall commend him to the attention of the incoming executive committee of the Dramatic Club.

The single set used in this play was designed several years ago by Master Sergeant Kriz when he built the hall which bears his name. The tin hats worn by the actors were furnished by the Ordnance Department. Sergeant Bennett probably rustled the props.

We hope that we haven't omitted to mention everyone who contributed to the success of the play.

It is a great show and those who haven't seen it are advised to be on the lookout for the inevitable return engagement.

INFANTRY SCHOOL DEMOSTHENES

Speaking of high powered production, students of the Advanced Class are still alking about Major Freddie McCabe's impassioned oration on South America. Orator McCabe's forensic effort, so the critics aver, was reminiscent of Senator Borah at his best. At the conclusion of his diatribe against international bankers, the house broke into cheers—a most unusual tribute at this stage of the course.

There is a movement on foot to arrange for Major McCabe to talk over a nationwide radio hook-up on the burning question of service pay reduction. If he can state the case of the army on this point without making his appeal so violent as to disrupt the microphone we favor the project. If the Major happens to be one of those caught in the pay freeze, however, he shouldn't be allowed to go on the air.

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS
(New Style)

Colonel John Jenkins, better known in Academic circles as Bridgehead John, has recently put over two unique conferences. One, on "The Use of the Army in Civil Disturbances," he delivered in total darkness and the other, on "Mountain Warfare," he did not deliver at all.

Monographers of a few years back, when the marking committee made a major issue out of platform manners, would have looked upon this opportunity to give their monographs in the dark as a lucky break.

Of course, as everyone knows, a storm put the lights out in the midst of the Colonel's "Army in Civil Disturbances" talk. Now let someone not in the know but who knows Colonel Jenkins figure out the one on "Mountain Warfare."

ORAL MESSAGE TRANSMISSION

When Mrs. Huling returned from doing her marketing last Monday she was met at the door with a message which had come while she was out.

According to the maid who delivered the message, Captain Blue had informed that Mrs. Huling was out, had left word that "There would be an exuberance at the horseshoe ring this afternoon."

(Continued From Page 6)

THE FLARE

(Continued from page 6)

Mrs. Huling, being an enthusiastic horsewoman, was all a flutter over the message. An exuberance was something new in horse events. True, Mrs. Huling didn't know exactly what, but if Captain Blue recommended it, it was sure to be exciting. She decided then and there to attend, regardless.

The next thing was to find out how to dress for the occasion and Mrs. Huling called Monte back to inquire about that. Captain Blue's reply dispelled both thrills and mystery.

"Exuberance? exuberance?" queried the dashing poloist in his most dignified and serious manner. "There is nothing like that going on down here. Certainly not. Wear your riding clothes. We're just holding the elimination for the horse show. That is what I told the maid to tell you."

MOTOR TAMER MEETS MATCH

The latest experimental vehicle to attract the attention of the best minds of the Infantry Board is a miniature Austin truck. It has been observed flitting hither and thither in and out of the traffic on Benning's broad concrete chaussees and also in the great open spaces where its cross-county capabilities are being tried out. We have seen it undergoing what might be called a domestic utility test by Tanker Kingman and family, but, for the most part, Commander Brett uses it to get around in. In so doing the great motorization advocate not only serves the government but also combats the depression. His official duty as a test driver may necessitate his going about in funny looking experimental cars but it also results in a considerable saving in gas, oil and maintenance charges on the family bus. In these days of pay cuts and reduced allowances every little economy helps.

As everybody knows, Commander Brett has driven every form of ground traveling, gas using vehicle from fifty-ton tanks to one-lung motorcycles. He has made great armored juggernauts cavort about in obedience to his will like trained circus elephants. They will do things for him that they refuse to do for others. Even as an obstreperous horse recognizes the skilled touch of an expert equitator, so do mechanical vehicles seem to know when the master hand of the Commander is on the wheel.

Perhaps the distinguished motor expert doesn't know as much about the little one as does the big ones, or perhaps he was a bit too contemptuous of the baby Austin's prowess. At any rate, there was something about his attitude which the little truck resented. As Jimmy stood leaning nonchalantly against the door fooling with the gadgets on the instrument board, the Austin suddenly reared up and hit him. Figuratively, at least, the astonished tanker was thrown, trampled, kicked, bitten and scratched. When it was all over he had a couple of contusions, several bumps and a vastly increased respect for the Austin.

"What spirit! What temperament!" he exclaimed admiringly as he pulled a bruised leg cautiously after him into the driver's seat. "I'm going to recommend its adoption as standard equipment for the Infantry division."

V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75. One year Guarantee. City Drug Store.

ANNOUNCING

THE

FORD

TRI-MOTORED PLANE

will remain at the municipal airport all next week.

50c A RIDE

Merit Badges Are Awarded To Boys At Court of Honor

The Boy Scout troops of Fort Benning held their monthly Court of Honor last Saturday evening, awarding merit badges to a number of the members and passing others into higher ranks in the Scout organization.

The court was presided over by Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Bonesteel, assisted by Major Albert S. Dabney, and Captains Donald P. Spalding, Geoffrey Marshall, John Huling, Jr., Charles H. Owens, Edward C. Johnson, and Willard S. Paul.

The Scouts who were passed into higher grade were Kenneth Hodson, and Edward Johnson, who were promoted to 2d class. Paul Croonquist, George Maertens, and Buddy Griswold were admitted as Tenderfoot Scouts. Merit badges were awarded to Bob Jewett, Buddy Harding, Howard Clark, and Edward Keltner, who received his in leathercraft. Scouts Harding and Clark were awarded a star and scholarship respectively.

In the contest which the Scouts have been carrying on since the middle of January, Troop 12 was declared the winner, having qualified four Scouts as Tenderfoot, three as Second class, and one as Star Scout, and winning four merit badges in the two months' period, giving them a total of one hundred and fifty-five points. Eighty points were accredited to Troop 11 for qualifying one Tenderfoot Scout and passing five to the grade of Second class. The prize awarded to the winners will be a hike and a weiner roast; with soft pedal on the walking, and a heavy pause when the eats are in order.

CHILDREN'S BRIGHT SAYINGS DEPARTMENT

Commander Brett is not the only member of his interesting family to rate this week's issue of the Flare.

Mrs. Brett was enlightening eight-year old Betty Ann on biology.

"No dear," explained the modern mother in the approved manner, "Rabbits don't really lay eggs on Easter. Rabbits are mamals just like us. You are a mamal and I am a mamal."

"What is Daddy,—a pappal?" inquired Betty Ann.

TALES OF THE TENT CITY

(Continued from Page 6)

the vicinity, Major Irving. During his first appearance before us, he said that if it rained on Tuesday April 11th the examination in machine gun marksmanship would be hold on that day instead of record firing. On Monday the 10th in the afternoon he repeated that statement. He was all wrong until 6:00 a.m. of April 11th but from then on he was right. And how! 6

* * *

Well folks, for the edification of those who err and the enjoyment of those who won't, we are resurrecting the ancient and mysterious Order of the Filleylou Bird, that mysterious animal which feasts abundantly on red peppers and flies upside down to keep his belly cool. The award to be made each week will appear in this column.

The first presentation, we hereby tender to one Todd, 7th New York when arrayed in full dress, 107th when not, for excellence in target designation.

It seems that he acted like a corporal one day when his squad was firing a landscape target problem. That he was greatly successful is testified to the fact that not one of the 50 shots hit the target. "And am I hot."

* * *

Faint heart ne'er won fair lady and when he was kissed by one the other day, Lt. Graham swooned from ecstacy (or fright).

* * *

We're sorry Bogle didn't get the extra five or six points necessary to place him at the top of the list in Machine Gun record firing. If he had only had two extra belts of ammunition to fire instead of one, he might have made it. How about it, Bugle.

* * *

It's O. K. to go ahead anytime now, teacher, the late Lt. Wooten has finally arrived.

SAFETY FIRST

A sailor stuck his head in the door of the public bar and said: "Does anybody here want to fight?"

Nobody said a word and the sailor repeated:

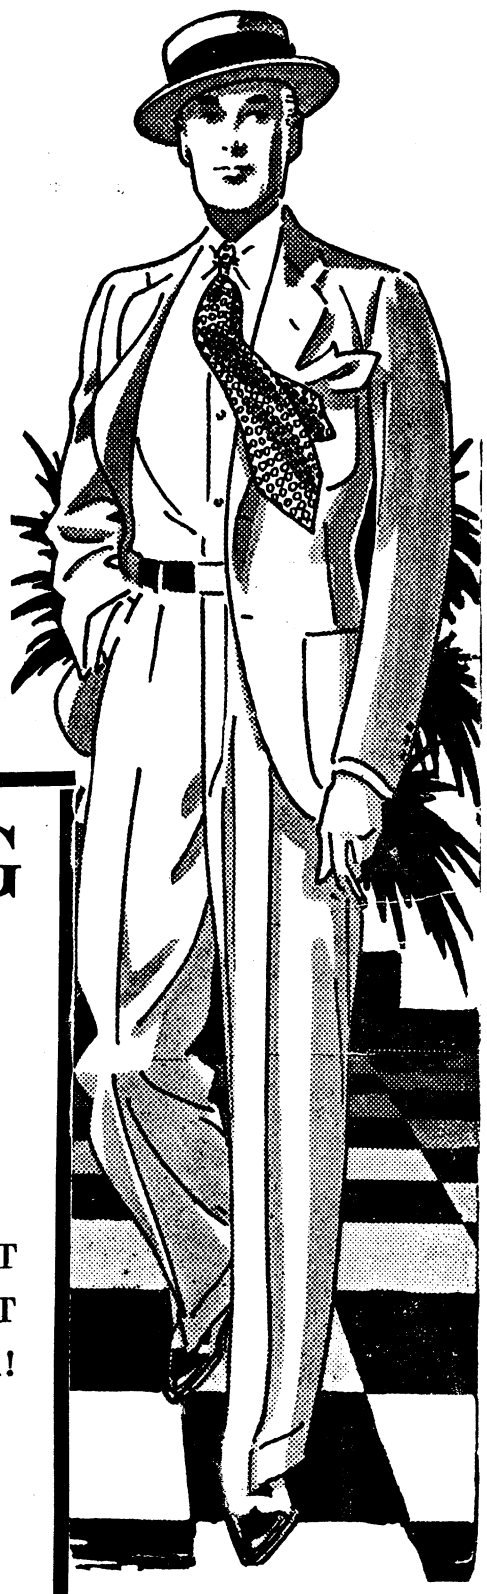
"Does anybody here want to fight?"

One man broke the silence and said: "No, Jack; no one wants to fight in here."

"That's good," said the sailor. "Then it's safe to come in."

Casual – But Not
Sporty . . Smart –
Yet Conservative

STRAWS
PANAMAS
$1.50 to $6.50



SPRING
SUITS
$21.00

Others As Low As $12.50

THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE TO OUTFIT YOURSELF FOR EASTER!

We Do Not Sell
ALL
The Clothes
BUT We Do Sell The BEST CLOTHES
In Columbus

CHANCELLOR
COMPANY

FORT BENNING'S COLUMBUS HEADQUARTERS

Take A Tip This Easter!

Or on any other special occasion! Order one of Kinnett's specially decorated Ice Cream Cakes for your next party. Telephone 223 (City).

Kinnett's Ice Cream is sold at the Officers' Club.

Kinnett's Ice Cream

Kinnett's Ice Cream is sold at the Officers' Club.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Tetherton Stops Schilling In Sixth

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

John Van Ryn, former Davis Cup team player, says the fact that Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison did not show to advantage on their Australian tour need occasion no worry about their physical condition where future Davis Cup play is concerned.

Ellsworth Vines and Allison are two players on which most of the hopes of the United States are pinned when international tennis matches will be taken up in competition for the Davis Cup, at present held by France.

Van Ryn laid the fault of the poor showing of the Americans in the sheep country to an exceptionally strenuous program. He was emphatic in asserting that neither had slipped in the course of the winter.

* * *

The world's heavyweight champion, Jack Sharkey, the Boston Bean Boy, was sparring in an exhibition on a wrestling program a week ago Tuesday night. Fans thought the action slow and uninteresting and expressed their reactions vocally.

Finally Sharkey could stand it no longer. Advancing to the ropes, he lifted up his hand for silence, and said: "Some of you fellows don't seem to realize that this is only a sparring exhibition. I want to take this opportunity of offering any of you who may be needing work and didn't like what they saw tonight, a job as sparring partner of mine. I'll pay expenses from here to Boston and back, and there will be a salary as well."

So far there have been no takers.

* * *

Jumping Joe Savoldi, of Notre Dame fame, came suddenly into the glare of the wresting spotlight of sportdom last week when he pinned Jim Londos in approximately twenty-one minutes.

Now Savoldi is clamoring for recognition as world's champion, despite the argument advanced by Ed White, manager of Londos, that the match did not have the title at stake. The various wrestling comissions throughout the country are taking the matter up for reconsideration and will probably render a verdict soon.

Jim Londos of Greece had been recognized as champ for some time, although the followers of Ed (Strangler) Lewis also laid claim to the disputed title. Then along came Jim Browning from good old Missouri and defeated the Strangler. Browning did not hesitate one whit in laying claim to the title. Now, it's Joe Savoldi.

* * *

Savoldi and Londos were grappling near the ropes. The referee suddenly patted Joe's back. Both wrestlers thought that he was merely trying to get them away from the ropes and, after being separated, tore at each other again.

When Savoldi was informed that he won the fight, he went wild with excitement. Ed White, the manager of the champion, clambered through the ropes and attempted to tell the crowd that the championship was not

(Please turn to page 9)

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

Operating Under Government Franchise

Bond and Liability Insurance Provided

SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 PHONES 224

CITY POST

fishing tackle . . .

. . . The Main Branch, Post Exchange, has a complete stock of all types of fishing equipment. Phone 608.

POST EXCHANGE

FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

Army Welter Ace Wins By Knockout Over Tough Foe

Red-headed German Proves Easy Target for Rip's Flashing Left in Great Fight

Rip Tetherton, soldier welterweight, ace, knocked out Bob Schilling of Cologne, Germany, in the sixth round of the main go at Fort Benning last Tuesday evening. The scheduled ten-round bout between the two-fisted soldier and the menace from the land of Hitler and von Hindenberg topped a fine supporting card that saw Cotton Batton pound out a decision over Peegee Carson, Dapper Doyle turn back a worrisome little bulldog named Mickey Kendrick, Dynamite Dunn nose out Frank Mackery, Billie Hyde defeat Tut Tut Taylor, and Sandy Huff take first place in a grueling battle with Charley White.

Despite the wealth of fine boxers that performed from the semi-final on down, the main go was easily the cream of the crop. The Athletic Association, impressed with the fine showing that Tetherton has made in his most recent fights, decided to give Rip a chance at a main go. And the hard-punching soldier wasted no time in doing justice to the confidence that had been placed in him.

Bob Schilling was obtained as an opponent. His excellent record in the land of the free testified of his prowess in the ring. A campaign in Florida resulted in a widespread popularity; fans liked the way he fought, giving and taking, giving and taking, all the time without a letup. He rapidly became a favorite, and never failed to live up to his reputation, defeating all comers with remarkable ease and was rarely pushed to the limit.

Tetherton was in the ring first and received a round of applause as he climbed through the ropes. Schilling followed a few minutes later and also got a big hand. Referee Johnson called the two boys to the center of the ring and gave them their instructions. Kid Baisden, K. O. artist from Valdosta, Ga., who fought a draw with Tetherton not long ago, challenged the winner.

The opening gong sent the two boys into fast action. Rip refused to come in close, standing off and occasionally using his left. The sorrel-topped German ploughed right in flat-footed and attempted to close with the soldier. In the second round, Rip sank his left into the German's midsection. Schilling broke away and missed a right swing and again Tetherton shot his left into the body. Bob landed a right high on the head. Rip landed a resounding left to the jaw and fell into a clinch. The German lad was still wading in at the gong.

The third round saw more fast action. Tetherton was holding his right in reserve and using his left almost exclusively. Schilling was an open target as he weaved in and Rip seldom missed. Schilling nailed the soldier with two hard rights in succession. Tetherton countered with a left to the German's body, which was beginning to show patchse of red.

In the fourth stanza, Bob smashed a terrific right to Tetherton's head and set him back on his heels. Schilling went berserk when he saw that Rip was dazed by the blow and lost no time in following up his advantage. For a second or two, things looked bad for the soldier, who was absorbing a lot of punishment on the ropes. Rip slid away and backpedaled until his head cleared. Schilling missed a long right by inches

(Please turn to page 9)

Cotton Batton Noses Out Peegee Carson In Whirlwind Semi-final

When Peege Carson, barrel-chested negro middleweight hailing from Jacksonville, Florida, waddled into the ring to do battle with Cotton Batton, the fans snickered, but when he began throwing that wicked right, they gasped. From the waist up, the pride of Jacksonville had a build that would occasion alarm in the toughest of opponents. Hitting him was like smacking into a brick wall.

In the very first round, Peege caught Batton with a left that whisked the Happy Heart lad against the ropes as if he was a feather. Cotton resented this rough treatment bitterly and closed with Carson. Punches flew fast and furious. The first and fourth rounds saw some genuinely fast action with Batton landing more frequently but not so hard. The fifth round was comparatively tame, but the two battlers went to war in the sixth and had the fans howling with glee. Cotton was standing up well under the heavy punches his opponent occasionally landed and looked in fine condition. Near the end of the sixth, Peegee nailed Batton with two right hand smashes to the head that hurt, but Cotton was also delivering his full share of punishment.

The seventh and eighth were practically repetitions of the earlier rounds. Batton looked fresher than his opponent at the finish. The verdict was rendered in favor of the local fighter and was met with cheers and booes. In the opinion of this writer, however, the decision was just, inasmuch as Batton clearly outpointed his rugged adversary. Cotton connected with almost twice as many punches as Carson, although the Jacksonville boy obviously had a harder punch.

Because Scrip Olive could not appear for his right with Dapper Doyle, Mickey Kendrick was subsituted for the New Orleans leather-pusher. Mickey impressed the fans from the opening gong to the final bell. Although beaten decisively, he showed a rugged determination that went over with the spectators completely.

In the fourth, the soldier connected with a hard right that shook Mickey, but did not seem to discourage him. Kendrick kept boring in and seemed to be enjoying himself immensely despite the proximity of flying leather. By the fifth round, Doyle was really getting into the spirit of the thing, and beat a regular tattoo on Mickey's face. The sixth found Mickey still plugging away in bulldog style but absorbing considerable punishment. The broad smile was still on his face at the gong.

The decision in favor of Dapper Doyle was just so much formality; the soldier was way out in front, but Mickey wasn't far behind. Figure that out for yourself.

Dynamite Dunn, West Point light-heavyweight sensation, avenged an old score with Frank Mackery in the other six-round bout. For the first three rounds Frank's long reach stood him in good stead, but after that Dunn began to penetrate his guard frequently, finding the Tanker with hard rights to various portions of his anatomy. In the fourth round, Dynamite opened up a cut over Mackery's eye which bled considerably. Frank kept ploughing in all the time and

(Please turn to page 9)

Grand Opening

EASTER SUNDAY

Britton's Pool

DINE — DANCE — SWIM

Three miles out on Auburn Road

THE

PALACE BILLIARD PARLOR

4 West 12th Street

Championship match between

Corporal Carl Cooper

Co. F, 29th Inf.

and

John N. Collins

Former Sergeant, Finance Dept.

125 points straight pool

Walter Parsons, Referee

Monday, 8:00 P. M.

Dutch luncheon and refreshments free

No admission charge

SPORT CHATTER
(Continued from page 8)

at stake. The fans booed him down.

The next morning, Savoldi came out with detailed accounts of how he had pinned Londos and reiterated his claim to the title.

* * *

For the past three of four weeks, all has been quiet on the sport front. But now baseball is under way and everyone is speculating as to which major league team will bring back the coveted pennant.

Among sportswriters, the concensus of opinion favors the Yankees in the American league and the Pirates in the National. The Yankees, with practically the same line-up that won the world's championship last year, should finish first in the Junior Circuit by a comfortable margin, although the Washington Senators and possibly, the Philadelphia Athletics, may offer some resistance. The New Yorkers have an abundance of reserve strength, tremendous hitting power, and a very good staff of hurlers. In no one department of the game are they noticeably weak.

* * *

Cleveland and Chicago should stage a nip and tuck battle for the other first division berth, with the Indians boasting a slight edge. Detroit should finish sixth with the downtrodden Red Sox and St. Louis Browns fighting it out for the cellar position.

In the National League, the Pirates look to be the cream of the crop. Chicago and St. Louis will give the Pittsburgh nine a hard run for their money. The Cardinals, by virtue of an excellent corps, should nose out the Cubs for second place. Philadelphia and Brooklyn rate next in that order, with New York, Boston, and the Cincinnati Reds following.

* * *

In the opinion of this columnist, the teams in each league will finish in this order:

American League
1. New York Yankees
2. Washington Senators
3. Philadelphia Athletics
4. Cleveland Indians
5. Chicago White Sox
6. Detroit Tigers
7. St. Louis Browns
8. Boston Red Sox

National League
1. Pittsburgh Pirates
2. St. Louis Cardinals
3. Chicago Cubs
4. Philadelphia Phillies
5. Brooklyn Dodgers
6. New York Giants
7. Boston Braves
8. Cincinnati Reds

Post Tennis Stars Face Georgia Tech Players Saturday

Drake To Match Strokes With Billy Reese, Cotton States Champion

The Georgia Tech tennis team will play a series of exhibition matches with ranking Fort Benning players Saturday afternoon. A match was originally scheduled two Saturdays ago but inclement weather made it necessary to postpone the match. Six singles matches and three doubles matches will be played.

Georgia Tech is reputed to have a very powerful squad this year. In collegiate competition thus far, they have established a fine record. The team is captained by Billy Reese, Cotton States champion, who will meet Captain Drake, highest ranking tennis player on the post, Saturday afternoon. Georgia Tech and Fort Benning met twice on the courts last year and each emerged with a victory.

Captain Drake will play number one for the post team. Drake won the handicap singles tournament last fall and has competed and finished well in high class southern tournaments. He ranks fifth in the army. Sherburne and Lynch will probably play two and three respectively. Neither has had much opportunity to practice lately but should give accounts of themselves nevertheless. Poore, Irving, and Newman will very likely conclude the line-up in that order. In case some of the above mentioned players will not be in a position to play on the afternoon of the match, substitution will be made. Weyrauch, Gavin, and Giddings may all see action.

There will be no admission charge, and the gallery is large enough to accommodate all who desire to witness the matches. Play will probably start around 1:30 p. m.

TETHERTON SCRAPS SCHILLING
(Continued from page 8)

and Tetherton rapped him with a right and a left to the head. Rip spun Bob against the ropes with a fusilade of blows as the bell sounded ending the round.

The fifth round found Schilling almost as fresh as when he started and still wading in. Rip smacked a hard left into the German's tummy, and followed this crushing blow with another to the same place. Schilling drove his opponent against the ropes. Tetherton bounced off and caught Red coming in with a right to the body that landed with the impact of a fifteen-inch projectile. Rip found Schilling with three successive lefts to the face, but the German, not concerned in the least, kept plugging in. Bob sank a right to the short ribs.

In the sixth stanza, Schilling hammered Tetherton into the ropes. Rip bounded off like an india rubber man and nailed Bob with a right hand smash square on the button. The German began to collapse and Rip helped him along with a few assorted rights and lefts. Referee Johnson began the count. Schilling made a valiant effort to get on his feet and was still trying at the fatal ten.

It was a great fight from start to finish.

Tank Baseball Teams Play Twin Bill On Monday

By AL DURDEN

Tanker baseball teams played in a twin bill at the Tank baseball field Monday afternoon with the Rams of company "E", taking the opener from the company "D" Rovers, 7 to 4, and the Blue Gulls of Company F, Second Tanks, defeating the Bisons of company F, First Tanks, 7 to 4, in the night cap.

The Rams got to Baggett in the opening innings of the first game and iced the game away with a seven run lead in the first two innings. McCarroll opened the game with a sizzing single to center field. Nobles hit for the circuit, sending McCarroll home ahead of him. Bill Swantic continued the slaughter with a booming triple to deep left. Bill scored a moment later on a slow roller to the infield. The Rams continued the slaughter in the second inning and Baggett gave way to Smith at the opening of the third frame.

With the count 7 to 0 against them the Rovers began an uphill battle that netted them four well earned runs but were still three short when the game was over. The twirling of Cueball Smith, the Rovers relief hurler was the highlight of the game. Smith worked five innings during this period, the opposing Rams failed to place a runner on first base. No runs, no hits, no errors, no man to first.

Killebrew, portsider, opened on the mound for the Rams and toiled well until the fifth frame when he weakened and was relieved by the veteran Bill Swantic.

Score by innings:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rams | 430 | 000 | 0—7 5 2 |
| Rovers | 001 | 210 | 0—4 5 4 |

Batteries: Killebrew, Swantic and Pike; Baggett, Smith and Brewer.

Red Lindsey's offerings were no puzzle for the Blue Gull sluggers and the sorrel top veteran was touched for four hits and four markers in the opening frame of the second game. Lindsey settled down after the first frame and kept the opposing batters well in hand during the remainder of the game.

Zeke Segrest turned in another stellar performance for the Gulls winning his second game in a row. Zeke had a bit of trouble in the fourth frame and allowed the Bisons to score four runs and tie the count. Lindsey contributed to the run getting with a home run that sent a run in ahead of him.

The Gulls put over a pair of runs in the sixth frame and added an other marker in the seventh to ice the game. Topper swiped home station in the initial frame while the catcher held the ball. Obrien, Gull third sacker, played only half of the game but turned in a couple of beautiful plays around the hot corner.

Score by innings:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gulls | 400 | 002 | 1—7 7 8 |
| Bisons | 000 | 400 | 0—4 4 6 |

Batteries: Segrest and McGlashen; Lindsey and Ashworth.

COTTON BATTON WINS DECISION
(Continued from Page 8)

showed no signs of weakening, but neither did Dunn. The fifth round went to the visiting lightheavy as he connected solidly several times. The sixth found both fighters fairly tired but still willing, and plenty of leather was thrown in this stanza. Dunn received the decision, and although the fight was moderately close, there was no sign of any dissension from the fans.

In the main four-rounder, Billie Hyde succeeded in turning back Tut Tut Taylor. Hyde was the cleverer boxer and continually forced Tut to clinch. Although both boys went on at a last minute's notice, they gave a fine account of themselves in the way of action. The first two rounds were fairly close with Hyde coming along to pile up a point advantage in the last two stanzas.

Sandy Huff, fast-punching soldier, and Charley White, a willing mixer from Columbus, showed the fans four rounds of whirlwind action. Huff took the decision, but White was on his toes all the time and forced him to the limit.

Benning Fighters Leading In Early Stages of Tourney

Early reports from the ring in Mobile where the Southern Amateur Boxing matches are being held indicate that Fort Benning boxers are getting very much the best of it at the expense of their opponents. Two of the Fort Benning boys have scored kayos in the first nine fights on which reports have come in and, of the nine bouts, Benning nose-busters have taken six. Incomplete returns give the results as follows: Featherweights: Simons, Atlanta, winner; Sercovich, Fort Benning, loser; Morris, Fort Benning, winner; C. Locker, Mobile, loser.

Lightweight: Ed Phail, Fort Benning, winner, J. Robinson, Mobile, (KO), loser; Wells, Mobile, winner; Ralph Lorimer, Fort Benning, loser; F. Schuttgen, Mobile, winner; L. Polewada, Fort Benning, loser; Norman Phail, Fort Benning, winner, E. Roberts, Mobile, loser; Kirkpatrick, Fort Benning, winner; D. Cates, Mobile, loser.

Welterweight: Joe Graves, Fort Benning, winner; Wm. Busby, Mobile, (KO), loser; Neil Milan, Fort Benning, winner; C. Jerome, Memphis, loser.

THE GROCERY DEPARTMENT

. . . is at all times fully stocked with kitchen necessities and fresh vegetables of every kind. You are invited to avail yourself of the conveniences it offers.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT
POST EXCHANGE
Fort Benning, Ga.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

The Post Exchange
HAS A DELIVERY SERVICE FROM ITS
SODA FOUNTAIN

The hours of this service are from 11 a. m. to 9:00 p. m., and it is designed particularly for the delivery of ice cream in quarts and smaller quantities to your home.

Excellent Curb Service Also
Phone 69

THE SODA FOUNTAIN
POST EXCHANGE FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Maxwell Optical Co.
I. A. MAXWELL
Optometrist and Optician
A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE
1217 Broadway Phone 3718

5¢
The Biggest Nickle You Ever Spent
Tom's TOASTED PEANUTS
How's This For A Contest?
Tom's is offering a new 1933 Chevrolet free every two weeks. See particulars on any Tom's Display Jar.

Makers of Fine Printing Plates
WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.
Atlanta, Georgia

:-: Advanced Classics :-:

Charlie Q. Lifsey, of Lifsey, Lifsey, Lifsey & Lifsey, Inc., Public Accountants, Tabulators, and Almanackers, has submitted the following report:

Major Wm. Clinton Williams
Chief Boss, Kriz Hall,
Ft. Benning, Ga.
Sir Boss:

After diligent astronomical study, I have, in compliance with your request, revised the "time to go" calendar which governs the conduct of your constituents. I have the honor to report that, as of 4:00 p. m., April 13, 1933, there will remain twenty-nine school days and a but to go. The "but" has reference to: but what will the School authorities do with those five days originally scheduled for corps area maneuvers?

I also beg to report that, at the present rate of loss of tactical virtue, the class will in all probability be completely chaste-less, if not positively indecent, by April 18th. I would therefore suggest that you direct Mr. R. L. Ring, of Ring, Ring, Ring & Ring, to prepare a new virtue chart for early posting. I can at this time foresee only one factor which might prevent the use of a nice, new, clean chart next week. The only fly in the ointment appears to be the tactical and strategical stubbornness of one, Dutch Keiser. Attention is invited, therefore, to the advisability of the inauguration without further delay of a "Get the Keiser" campaign by all those who have lost what to them was more precious than gold and pearls.

I am, Sir Boss, your obedient servant,

Charley Q. of the House of Lifsey

1st Ind.

Bldg. No. 94, Acad. Area, Ft. Benning, Georgia.—To: Sir Boss: Kriz Hall.

1. From the viewpoint of the health and happiness of your command, I concur most heartily in the recommendations of Mr. Lifsey, of Lifsey, Lifsey, Lifsey & Lifsey, especially in so far as he advises a "Get the Keiser" campaign.

2. However, I would go further and suggest a war to the finish by all non-vestals against the few remaining lilies of the tactical fields. I believe it essential that prompt action be taken at once to reduce all your cohorts to a common footing. Otherwise, I am apprehensive that at least a score of your constituents will soon suffer from serious nervous breakdowns. Matters have come to a sorry pass when Saturdays and Sundays—days specifically set aside by the School for repose, recreation, and relaxation—find Kriz Hall bulletin board jammed with wild-eyed, lip-biting, hair-tearing 40 year old gentlemen vociferously debating the whys and wherefores of the retention of tactical chastity by The Great Burner of the Field Jennings, Senor Castano y Garcia, The Keiser, and others.

3. I suggest that you use your influence with the First Section to bring about the desired results. THAT section, without any question, can prepare and execute a problem which would remove the last vestige of tactical celibacy from Kriz Hall. By no other means can the contentment and tranquility that was once Kriz Hall's be restored.

Major, Now Who Sees Him First?

* * *

Report has it that Pete Bonham claims one map problem such as the battle of Bertix to be worth seven charcoal brawls on the Gettysburg sheets. May Pete have fifty sons and may they all become instructors in the First Section! To our (and in the use of "our" we are not alone) way of thinking the presentation of the battle waged in the Bertrix-Ochamps-Recogne area was by far the best piece of work put on in Kriz Hall this season.

Pat Patterson's solution to the third requirement, wherein the aide was lost, the firing to the east and southeast was growing heavier and coming closer, artillery officers were galloping around the command post without dismounting, and panic stricken gunners were dashing madly to the rear, was laudable enough. Decided Pat: "I would summon the colonel of the 18th Field Artillery, relieve him, and inform that gentleman that, once I got back to Paris, I would herd him into the Class B corrall." But it took the Hon. George Clark to do a better job of extricating the 66th French Brigade than did even Pete Bonham and Major Arnold. Georgie's snap solution was: "Grabbing a horse and getting a good head start, I point to Hill 471 and shout: 'Last man of the brigade to that hill is a nigger baby!'"

After the battle of Bertrix we were even willing to tackle a marked problem on one of Colonel Jenkins' fuzzie-wuzzie wars, provided it was a historical problem wherein the approved solutions were determined by the enemy, AND provided the Fourth Section marked the papers.

* * *

The pace is beginning to tell. We find that Parksie Parks and Alphabet Ross have been joined by Johnny Harvey and Emo Whisner in solving the outdoor problems which confront "Lieutenant Colonel, 1st Battalion" seated on a chaise of brilliant hue. Who will be the first to sally forth with a beach umbrella?

* * *

Black Shirts O'Brien and Kelly send in the suggestion that a special purity chart and inverted horseshoe competition be arranged for the spasm of May 17-18 when eight pay problems are scheduled for two working days. Nice clean fun that would be. We add the thought that no student should be permitted to carry into Kriz Hall a loaded pistol during that period, and that two company aid men should be stationed at each door to that edifice.

* * *

This column cannot publish communications which are forwarded unsigned. Upon request signatures will be withheld, but all letters must be signed. We have at hand a plaintive yelp about the inordinate lengh of letters demanding reconsideration of marks awarded on pay problems in tactics. If the Academic section which prepared that communication will kindly disclose its identity and affix its signature, we shall be very happy to print its plea next week—and we cross our heart and hope to die if we disclose the slightest inkling of the source of the letter to our public.

—Submerged Old Sleuth.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00

Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum

Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

THE MAN
who could sell more life insurance than any man I ever heard of never shouted. Notice the men who hold the records for selling..they just talk in a quiet easy way.

It's like this:

Chesterfields just go along in their own quiet way making friends from day to day.

There's no noise about it, no "back talk."

The Chesterfield slogan—just two words, "They Satisfy"—is a plain simple statement telling about Chesterfield's merits.

It means that Chesterfields are milder—they taste better.

Chesterfield

the cigarette that's MILDER
the cigarette that TASTES BETTER

BENNING HERALD

VOLUME II — FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, APRIL 21, 1933 — NUMBER 52

TOWN TOPICS

Ned Winston, versatile resident of Block 21, whose keen mind is capable of turning out a pun every three minutes, breaks into print again. Professor Winston takes great pride in his ancestral line. He admits with commendable candor, however, that some of his more remote forefathers were slightly unconventional. Concerning his great-great-great grandfather (it took the professor exactly an hour and a half to arrive at this point), Lieutenant Winston said: "He was hung, drawn, and quartered for privacy on the high seas.'

Now, the question that should immediately arise in the minds of our readers "Was it malice aforethought?" we cannot satisfactorily answer. Lieutenant Winston stands upon his record. On second thought, he had better stand on something else, or as a lady admirer of the professor once ejaculated "Oh, lieutenant, how can you say such things?"

* * *

And here are a few more female candidates for male posts in Fort Benning. First, we emphasize again, that the ladies who possess to some degree the martial spirit must be considered before those who do not. Mrs. Whitley, our own charming Amytis in "The Road to Rome" will obviate the necessity of having reserve troops on hand. In case the regular army is routed, Mrs. Whitley can be sent out to vamp the opposing general, and turn him and his men away from the banks of the Upatoi. They always fall for that "human equation" stuff anyway.

As Post Gardener, we take pleasure in announcing the candidacy of Mrs. Harding. Who, on circling Miller Loop, has not seen Mrs. Harding humbly engaged in the task of removing weeds from the Harding lawn while small son Buddy, afflicted with something like a toothache which keeps him from assisting, looked on approvingly?

The position of Secretary of the Officers' Club offers many difficulties. Candidates for the job should be apprised of the qualifications. First, they must be light sleepers so that they can hear the telephone ring at all hours of the night. Then they must have enough presence of mind, even though dulled by sleep, to answer foolish questions intelligently. They must be able to sample food and then smack their lips in a manner which conveys to everyone present the fact that they know good food when they taste it. They must be willing at all time to conduct visitors around the Club and comment on the same things day after day. And last but not least, they must furnish this column with occasional anecdotes concerning people or things, or both. Are there any candidates?

* * *

We spent Wednesday afternoon agreeably by witnessing the tennis match between Fort Benning and Georgia Tech, the outcome of which remained in doubt right up to the last point of the last game of the last set of the last match. Among other notables present was seen Major (Nimrod) Lewis, dignified chairman of the tennis committee, giving his white-trousered proteges spiritual encouragement from the side-lines.

Perched on the top of the fountain was idol-worshipping Eleanor (Sis)

(Please turn to page 3)

The Forest Primeval

Hunter Trials To Provide Colorful Scene Saturday

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Number Of Entries To Make Tomorrow's Field One Of Largest To Compete Here.

The Hunter Trials of the Infantry School Hunt to be held Saturday afternoon, April 22, in the vicinity of the Artillery horse-show ring, beginning at 1:00 P. M. will be one of the most unique events ever held at Fort Benning. With more than 85 competitors in the three scheduled events these trials will be one of the largest in the number of entries ever held in the United States.

The purpose of the trials is to test in competition the cross- country galloping ability, style, way of going, fencing ability, handiness, tractibility, courage, endurance and ability to give a safe and enjoyable ride, of all horses that have hunted during the past season; to encourage and develop cross-country riding ability; to determine the general usefulness and military qualities of both horse and rider; and to furnish recreation and amusement to members of the garrison.

There will be three classes; one for trained hunters; another for green hunters; and a third for junior members of the Hunt. The course over which the hunters will be shown is three and one-half miles in length, with obstacles and terrain typical of the Fort Benning hunting country. There will be 15 obstacles; many of which are replicas of the natural obstacles encountered in a day's hunting with the Infantry School hounds.

Beginning with a hedge jump out of the ring, each competitor will encounter in turn, two stout Hitchcock jumps, a log jump, a railroad gate, and hedge—all solid jumps. Then a series of oil drums, an "on and off" jump, a stonewall, a worm fence, another Hitchcock, a brush, and a post-and-rail and a formidable ditch, then for a two-mile point cross-country which includes some rough terrain, the crossing of a creek, some boggy ground, up and down hill, through woods and then over some flat ground and back to the starting point.

Captain Sidney H. Negrotto, under whose mastership the Hunt attained such popularity during the past season, is the general chairman of the trials. Maj. John B. Thompson, Cavalry, is the supervisor and Major Neal C. Johnson the field judge. Major Archibald V. Arnold is the chairman of the Hunter Trial committee and will conduct the Junior event.

While the spectators can see the going over only part of the course, they can follow the progress of each event on a huge blackboard installed for that purpose.

A most unique program has been gotten up for these events, in which the commandant, Major General Campbell King, says in the foreword:

"Hunting to hounds is one of the oldest institutions known to man and a sport eminently suitable to those following profession of arms. The ancients laid great stress on hunting as a school for war and this idea has prevailed throughout the ages down to the present day. Even in the late war some of the British regiments maintained a pack of hounds in rear of the lines. Perhaps there is no other sport that so combines invigor-

(Please turn to page 5)

Phillips Praises Infantry School

"It is a wonderful school," said Major Wilhelm Phillips, ordnance department of the German army, at post headquarters, Fort Benning, on Wednesday, just prior to his departure after a two day visit of observation at The Infantry School. Major Phillips also paid a high tribute to the tank section of The Infantry School, of which he said "Your tank school is the best I have ever seen".

Major Phillips arrived in the United States three weeks ago from Germany, to make a tour of the United States army posts, the itinerary of which was arranged for him by the military intelligence division of the War Department general staff. The visit of the German officer to the American posts follows an international custom observed by modern armies, which extend visiting and other courtesies to American officers and those of other countries. The itinerary of Major Phillips' inspection tour includes visits at Aberdeen Proving ground, Maryland, Fort Monroe and Langley Field Virginia, Fort Bragg, N. C.; Fort Benning, Georgia; and Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Although he has never visited America before, Major Phillips speaks English fluently, and is also familiar with American vernacular and slang terms.

The great traveling distances in America as compared to those in Germany are a source of wonderment to German officers. "We are accustomed in Europe to seeing America only on a map, and do not realize the vast extent of its territory. We ran across Germany by train, in fifteen hours, but here," said Major Phillips, "we traveled for fifteen hours, nearly, between two cities." Major Phillips recalled an anecdote related to him by the German military attache, concerning a visit made by General Hiers to America, about two years ago. The General desired the military attache to arrange an itinerary which would completely cover the United States, in a tour of one month, and was somewhat astounded, according to the story, when the attache informed him that about twenty-four days would be consumed by traveling in a sleeping car.

Before his departure from Fort Benning on Wednesday Major Phillips called upon Major General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School and Colonel Ephram G. Peyton, executive officer, at post headquarters.

The next visit of the German officer will be made at Camp Knox, Kentucky, after which he will return to Washington, D. C.

Officers Receive New Assignments

A number of assignments of officers as students in the 1933-34 courses of the Infantry School, are announced in recent War Department orders received at Fort Benning.

A number of them are serving at different stations in the United States, and will be ordered to Fort Benning for assignments to duty while awaiting the beginning of he fall school term at the Infantry School. Among these are Lieutenant James P. Hulley, now on duty at the Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Penn.; Lieutenant George P. Lynch, now on duty

(Please turn to page 3)

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

FELICIA C. HOWELL, PHONE 389

Engagement Of Miss Griggs And Lt. Mace Of Interest To Benning Society

Of interest socially at Fort Benning was the announcement, last Sunday, of the engagement of Miss Virginia Griggs, of Jacksonville, Florida, to Lt. Harold L. Mace, of Fort Benning. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Lieut. Mace has been stationed at Fort Benning since last July, and is a member of the 16th Observation Squadron.

* * *

CAPT. AND MRS. BERRY GIVEN FAREWELL DANCE

The members of the 24th Infantry were the hosts Monday evening honoring Capt. and Mrs. Kearie L. Berry who leave shortly for Tientsin, China where Capt. Berry has been ordered for station. The despidida was a delightful dance held at the Polo Hunt Club from nine to one. The decorations for the club were most attractive. Over the orchestra was a large plaque bearing the words "Berry" in Chinese characters. The rafters were festooned with streamers painted with varied Chinese characters and at the extreme end of the hall was a large buddha. The Chinese effect was carried out also in the refreshments, the cakes and ices were white topped by red figures of dragons. During the evening Mrs. Berry was presented with a lovely corsage of flowers from the officers and ladies of the 24th Infantry. The guest list included members of the Regiment, former members, and other friends of the Berry's.

* * *

COTERIE OF YOUNG VISITORS HONORED AT DINNER

Among the many delightful affairs of the week was the dinner party that Lieut. Brookner W. Brady gave Thursday evening at the fficers' Club complimenting three charming visitors at Fort Benning. The honorees were Miss Madge Ely of Washington, D. C., Miss Virginia Weeks, also of Washington, and Miss Ellen Knox, of Fredericksburg, Virginia. Lieut. Brady had as his guests: The Misses Ely, Weeks, Knox, Eleanor Bonesteel, Louisa Cargill, Margaret Moore, Esther Weeks, Betty Welty and Phyllis Sargent, Lieut. C. W. Weeks, U. S. N., Lieut. William H. Brunke, Lieut. Thomas H. Sherburne, Lieut. Marshall H. Hurt, jr., Lieut. James J. Herriot, Lieut. Clebert L. Hail, Lieut. William B. Moore and Mr. Caldwell Foos.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE ENGAGEMENT OF MISS BARNETT TO LIEUTENANT CROSBY

Of great interest throughout Army and civilian circles was the engagement of Miss Frances Barnett of Atlanta, Georgia, to Lieut. George Dakin Crosby of Fort McPherson, Georgia. Miss Barnett is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Treat Barnett and is descended from the South's most distinguished families. She attended school at the Girls' High School in Atlanta and at Sweet Briar College where she took an active part in scholastic and athletics activities. She made her debut in 1930 and is one of Atlanta's most popular and charming young belles. She is a member of the Junior League and of Atlanta's exclusive Girls' Cotillion Club. Lieut. Crosby is the son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert B. Crosby of Washington, D. C. Lieut. Crosby was graduaed from West Point in 1924 and has been stationed at Fort McPherson for a year as aide to Maj. Gen. Edward L. King.

* * *

THURSDAY EVENING SUPPER DANCE OUTSTANDING EVENT OF WEEK

The most outstanding event of this week was the Thursday evening supper dance which was hald at the Officers' Club. Among those entertaining were: Maj. and Mrs. Emil W. Leard, Maj. and Mrs. John N. Robinson, Maj. and Mrs. Lucius K. Patterson, Capt. and Mrs. Walter Phillips, Maj. and Mrs. William S. Eley, Capt .and Mrs. John E. Hull, Capt. and Mrs. Richard B. Gayle, Capt. and Mrs. Kearie L. Berry, Capt. and Mrs. Edward C. Betts, Lieut. and Mrs. William C. Lucas, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles T. Lanham, Lieut. and Mrs. Jerome D. Cambre, Capt. and Mrs. Floyd Hyndman and Capt. David Ross.

* * *

BENNING GROUP MOTORS TO RADIUM SPRINGS OVER WEEK-END

A congenial party of friends from Fort Benning and Columbus are arranging to motor to Radium Springs to spend the weekend of the 22nd. The plans are to leave Fort Benning Saturday noon arriving at Radium Springs in time for dinner. The hotel is having a special supper and dance for the occasion. Dancing, golf and swimming will be in order.

* * *

LIEUT. AND MRS. BRADY COMPLIMENT GUEST

Miss Susan Breckman of Cincinnati, Ohio was delightfully entertained Thursday evening at a dinner party given by her hosts Lieut. and Mrs. Lynn E. Brady. After dinner the guests were escorted to the Officers' Club for dancing. Many enjoyable affairs have been given in Miss Breckman's honor while she has been a visitor on the Post. Among those was an informal picnic given by Lieut. and Mrs. George P. Howell at the 29th Infantry camp, and a luncheon on Tuesday given by Mrs. Orestes Cleveland for a few of the honoree's friends.

* * *

D. U. S. A. TO HOLD LUNCHEON PARTY

The members of the Daughters of the United States Army plan to hold their next and last meeting on April 27th. The meeting will be in the form of a luncheon which will be held at the Cricket tea room in Columbus. About thirty reservations have been made. The ladies in charge of the meeting are Mrs. William C. Lucas and Mrs. Charles T. Lanham.

* * *

MEDICAL BRIDGE CLUB MEETS TUESDAY

The monthly meeting of the Medical Corps bridge club was held Tuesday at the Nurses Quarters with Mrs. Charles F. Morse and Mrs. Albert G. Kinberger as hostesses. The guests arrived at two o'clock for bridge and played until four thirty when tea was served.

* * *

TANK BATTALION AFTERNOON BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Mrs. Harry L. Reeder was the hostess Tuesday at luncheon and bridge complimenting the members of the Tank Battalion afternoon bridge club. Lunch was served in the grill of the Officers' Club followed by two tables of contract which was played in the Oriental room of the Club.

* * *

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS AT QUARTERS OF MRS. LANHAM

Mrs. Charles T. Lanham entertained at lunch followed by two tables of contract complimenting the members of her bridge club. The guest list included: Mesdames Raymond E. Vermette, Lynn E. Brady, James E. Bowen, Orestes Cleveland, George P. Howell, Clayton H. Studebaker, and Miss Harriote Atkins.

Today's Fashion

A charming hostess gown.

By VERA WINSTON

Nothing is more delightful than to return home after a busy day, take a tub filled with fragrant bath salts and then slip into a delicate hostess gown or negligee replete with clinging beauty.

Such a garment is the very lovely model shown in the drawing. The top of the dress is of creamy Alencon lace in a creamy shade with a most graceful sleeve edge with beige chiffon, an extremely graceful sleeve that really is just a diamond shaped piece attached at the shoulders. There is a buckle of topaz. The rest of the gown is of beige chiffon.

PERSONALS

Miss Molly Brown of Fort Screven, Georgia is the house guest of Miss Harriotte Atkins. Many delightful affairs have been given in her honor.

Major and Mrs. R. Boyd Cole have as their guest Miss Viola Copeland of

(Please turn to page 3)

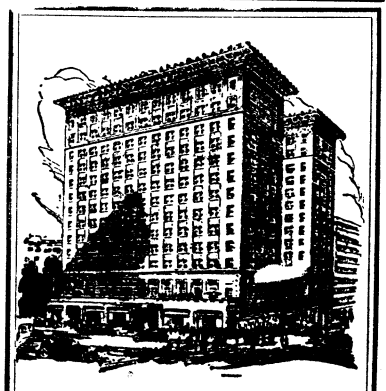
Martin's Beauty Shop

Permanent (Croquignole) $3.00

Croquignole Permanent With Marcel Ends $5.00

Shampoo and Set for 60c

Marcel $1.00



HENRY GRADY HOTEL

PEACHTREE AT CAIN

Atlanta, Ga.

550 rooms of comfort and convenience. Each room has ceiling fan, circulating ice water, radio and either shower or tub bath; corner rooms have both. Open Dining Terrace and Coffee Shop.

Rooms from $2

J. F. de Jarnette Vice-Pres. & Mgr.

For Quality Cleaning and Dyeing

CALL

Phillips Dry Cleaning Co.

Telephone 301 Columbus, Ga. 2320 Wynnton Drive

What Rate of Interest are You Paying?

HERE IS OUR PLAN

| | |
|---|---|
| Note for | $300.00 |
| 8% Interest deducted | $ 24.00 |
| Net to you | $276.00 |

Payments .....$25.00 Per Month for 12 Months

Fidelity Loan & Investment Company

1206 FIRST AVENUE

T. E. BAISDEN, Secretary-Treasurer

JEAN'S BEAUTY SHOPPE

In New Locality

1209½ Broadway

(Over Alsobrooks.)

Phone 9424

"Where prices and quality satisfy"

BE WISE!

SHOP AT SILVER'S!

Wisdom consists to a great degree in correct spending of your money—getting full value for every penny. And that's what you get at - -

SILVER'S

5c — 10c and $1.00 STORE

Every Article Guaranteed

Located on Corner Broadway And 11th Street

FURNITURE OF QUALITY

H. ROTHSCHILD

Leading Furniture Dealer for 38 Years

1229 - 31 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

What is SERVICE

In our case it is that which enables us to supply you with necessary articles which you would otherwise have difficulty in obtaining. And that's what the Post Exchange was originally instituted for.

Post Exchange

FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service.

PERSONALS

(Continued From Page 2)

Allendale, S. C.

Lieut. Milton Pressley spent the weekend as the guest of relatives in Jacksonville, Fla.

Lieut. Harold Mace was the house guest of Miss Virginia Briggs in Jacksonville, Florida.

Major Wilhelm Phillips of the German Army, who is an ordnance expert, spent Monday and Tuesday on an inspection tour of the Infantry School. Major Phillips has visited Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, Fort Monroe and Langley Field, Virginia, and Fort Bragg, N. C.

Captain and Mrs. Guy W. Hartman have received their orders to Hawaii. They will sail on the June transport from New York.

Lieutenant Lymon J. Munson has received orders to report to the Presidio of San Francisco upon the completion of the Tank Course.

Lieutenant John H. Griffith of the Tank Course has received orders to report to Fort Sam Houston upon the completion of the Course.

Miss Virginia Weeks of Washington, D. C., is the house guest of her aunt and uncle, Col .and Mrs. Charles W. Weeks. Miss Weeks plans to spend about a month at Fort Benning.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Louis B. Ely have as their house guest the former's sister, Miss Madge Ely of Washington, D. C.

Miss Ellen Know of Fredericksburg, Virginia is visiting Lieut. and Mrs. Brendan Greeley for a few weeks.

KENNY'S
NORWOOD
COFFEE
is sold at Fort Benning
through the
Post Exchange
TRY A POUND
YOU WILL BE PLEASED

Diamonds
Watches
Silverware
PEKOR
JEWELRY CO.
1221 Broadway

WE MAKE
RUBBER STAMPS
— One Day Delivery —
COLUMBUS OFFICE
SUPPLY CO.

BARBECUE
The season is here. We invite your inquiries. Barbecue strictly fresh Pigs, Loins and Ribs. You enjoy real Southern Barbecue when meats are furnished by us.
The Provision Co., Inc.

Girl Scout Notes

CARDINAL TROOP

Tuesday, Apr. 18.

Today we learned all about our Pioneer overnight trip. It's to be started Friday afternoon and finished Saturday afternoon. We are to take bedding rolls, elegant food for three meals, and some warm clothes. When I say elegant, I don't by any means mean ice cream, cake, liver and bacon, or anything like that; but, I do mean rolls, fruit, good out-door steak; and I hear we're going to have a wonderful stew for Saurday lunch!

Watch for next Friday's "Herald," to read all about the hike!

While the "Athletes" went on their five-mile hike today, the rest of us played baseball, practiced signalling, and learned to judge height and distance.

Don't forget, Girl Scouts, that there will be another overnight hike for everybody on the 6th of May!

Pine Tree Troop

What a glorious meeting! It wasn't exactly what we call a meeting, tho, because it was a hike. We walked out the First Division Road to a spot just past the golf course. It was very shady there, a delightful change from the hot sun which had been beating down on us since we started.

When we arrived, Nancy (Miss Stillwell, her name is) lined us up, and made her announcement, which had been a deep, dark secret up to now.

"Now girls, I am going to give to each patrol a frying pan, two eggs, two pieces of bacon, and a box of matches. The first to have their bacon and eggs well cooked will receive the ten points for this meeting. You'll have to make fires, of course. Now go to it!"

At that everybody went to their patrol leaders, who told them to start by collecting firewood. In a very short time there were piles of pine needles, sticks, and still larger sticks. Then they began to cook their bacon. This, of course, had to be put on something after it was done, so the eggs would have a place. Therefore, the clever "Pine Trees" found some large oak leaves which served for plates from then on.

When the food was all done and tasted, and the 10 points had been awarded, out came an enormous box of marshamllows. More wood went onto the fires, sticks were sharpened, and in a jiffy many, many, marshmallows were gone.

Thank you, Nancy, and you, Mrs. Stillwell (who came along in her car to help us) for a very wonderful afternoon.

TOWN TOPICS

(Continued From Page 1)

Bonesteel, waiting patiently for Billy Reese to come and quench his thirst.

* * *

On the occasion of overnight maneuvres, National Guard reserve officers are accustomed to convene in the Biglerville mess about ten o'clock for hot coffee and doughnuts. Such was the case Wednesday night.

The atmosphere was one of general merriment. In one corner, a few reserve officers were attempting to strike in harmony. Somebody was banging vigorously away on the piano. Suddenly, out of the black night, appeared a poor, friendless pole-cat. His whole soul craved company and company there was to be had that night in the Biglerville mess. Unobstrusively, he skulked in, approached the fireplace, and from this vantage point, watched the ceremonies.

He was observed by a vigilant reserve o cer who gave the call to arms immediately. City-bred officers, not grounded in the nefarious ways of pole-cats but familiar with the fundamentals of attack, seized available chairs and grimly advanced en masse in the direction of the unsuspecting and hitherto peaceful pole-cat. The other officers, those who had been raised on farms or in communities where pole-cats do not come under the head of suitable companions, stood by horror-stricken or beat a hasty retreat as their more valiant bre'hren began the process of ejecting the visitor from the premises.

For some reason that will always remain a mystery, the pole-cat obligingly withheld fire until he got outside. Those well-versed in pole-cat lore, are at a loss to account for this unprecedented action.

As usual, we are ready with an explanation. Four simple words tell the whole story. The cat was housebroken.

Recreational Fund To Benefit From Show

"Broadway Rhapsody," the Variety Guild Musical Show, has been booked for two performances at the main theatre on May 7, and will offer something new in entertainment for the Fort Benning garrison.

Carol Lee, with Gene Austin and his musical variety revue "Broadway Rhapsody," coming to the Main Theater, May 7th.

The production offers a cast of famed radio and stage stars headed by the internationally known Gene Austin, American tenor, whose re-recordings have found their way into homes all over the world.

The Variety Guild was organized but recently with the idea of bringing back to the people high class musical comedy entertainment, ridding the shows of all vulgarity which has degraded the musical comedy into burlesque in the past few years. There are 100 members of the Variety Guild, all of whom have gained national recognition on both stage and radio. The Guild is gradually building up to the point where it can place on the road numerous productions which will be headed by some stage and radio figure of great renown.

A portion of the proceeds from the local appearances of the company will be applied to a fund for the improvement of Fort Benning's recreational fields.

STUDENTS RECEIVE NEW ASSIGNMENTS

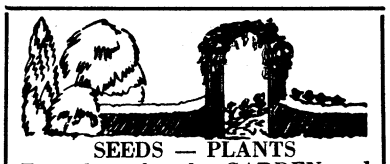
(Continued from page 1)

with the 38th Infantry, Fort Douglas, Utah; Lieutenant Montgomery McKee, now on duty with the 7th Infantry, Chilkoot Barracks, Alaska; Lieutenant Kilbourne Johnston, now on duty at Columbia University, N. Y.; and Lieutenant John F. R. Sietz, now on duty at Fort Snelling, Minn.

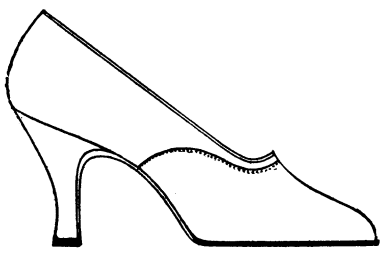
Others ordered to Fort Benning to await the fall school term are: First Lieutenants Thomas H. Allen, Headquarters Company, Washington, D. C.; Elliott B. Gose, 25th Infantry, Fort Huachuca, Ariz.; Phillip J. Henderson, 6th Tank Company, Fort Snelling, Minn.; Roy J. Herte, 16th Infantry, Fort Jay, N. Y.; Thomas R. Herton, 11th Infantry, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana; August E. Schanze, 6th Infantry, Jefferson Barracks, Mo.; Theodore A. Seely, 1st Tank Company, Miller Field, New Dorp, Staten Island, N. Y.; Lucien F. Wells, 5th Infantry, Fort Williams, Maine; Rexford W. Andrews, 28th Infantry, Fort Niagara, N. Y.; Theodore F. Begart, 9th Infantry, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Raymond C. Hrisach, 16th Infantry, Fort Jay, N. Y.; Richard M. Bristol, 25th Infantry, Fort Huachuca, Ariz.; Thad A. Broom, 8th Infantry, Fort Moultrie, S. C.; Paul A. Chalmers, 13th Infantry, Fort Adams, L. I.; Carleton N. Clifford, 13th Infantry, Fort Devon, Mass.; Frederick O. Crabbe, jr., 28th Infantry, Fort Hayes, Ohio; Francis H. Ochs, 16th Infantry, Fort Jay, N. Y.; John S. Guthrie, 13th Infantry, Fort Devens, Mass.; Earl B. Heimerdinger, 2d Infantry, Fort Wayne, Mich.; Robert A. Howard, 2d Tank Company, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Joseph A. James, 22d Infantry, Fort McPherson, Ga.

Other officers assigned to Fort Benning to await the opening of next year's class are Lieutenant Joseph G. Felber, Infantry, Philippine Department; Lieutenant Douglas Campbell, Infantry, Philippine Department; and Lieutenant Willett J. Baird, Infantry, Hawaiian Department, and Lieutenant Forrest A. Homisher, San Juan, P. R.

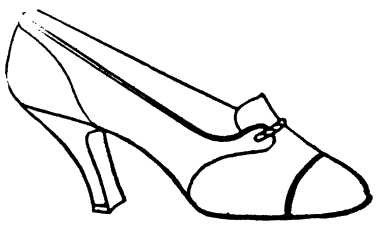


SEEDS — PLANTS
Everything for the GARDEN and LAWN; seeds, plants, tools, fertilizer.
VALLEY SEED CO.
1041 Broadway

MAKE IT A FAMILY AFFAIR
The whole family will like Foremost Ice Cream—and you should serve it at every opportunity, for it offers a dessert that is both economical and delicious.
Call the
SODA FOUNT
FOREMOST DAIRIES INC.

Spring and Summer
SHOES
White, Blue, Blonde, Black


$5.45
Regent Pump
The smartest thing in a conservative shoe. Quiet but dressy, neat and plain.
T Strap Sandal
Cool and comfortable. A swaggerish shoe to lend wings to your feet in hot weather.



Ties
With perforations, plain, up to four strands. Tie them on and know you're all dressed up with places to go.
White Linen
$1.50 . . . . .
And beige. A very, very economical shoe that blends so well with your late spring and summer ensembles.
Main Floor
KIRVEN'S

THE BENNING HERALD

Published every Friday
Phone 556
Columbus, Georgia

VOLUME II APRIL 21, 1933 NUMBER 52

L. C. KUNZE ---------- Publisher
A. F. KUNZE ---------- Editor
FELICIA C. HOWELL ---------- Society Editor
D. P. HARDING ---------- Sports Editor
LOUIS T. KUNZE ---------- Circulation Manager

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Benning Herald reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject anyadvertising matter.

The Benning Herald by mail to any address in the United States or its possessions, $1.50 per year. Single copy 5 cents.

Application for entry as second-class matter is pending.

Lieutenant Peep's Diary

Wednesday, Apr. 12

Enlightened, to an extent, this morning concerning Captain Paul's loss of hair by witnessing one of the causes. He, at great pains to impress upon us that "there is no ammunition on a field train," was shortly rewarded by Wiegand's recitation including the statement that "the brigade ammunition is on the brigade field train." Still and all, the Captain shouldn't lose more than one or two hairs over that. Maybe he has been teaching for years that I wot not of.

It is a matter of some satisfaction to me to observe the comradarie which does exist among the thatchless ones as evidenced by this same Captain Paul. Explaining to a group of between-classes questioners he remarked "Now in the next war you youngsters—pardon me, Regnier . . ."

In something of a state lest I get lost on this night's terrain exercise, my hazardous assignment being that of runner. Thankful that my perturbation was ill-founded. The exercise instructive no end, I having sat against a tree with commendable constancy for two hours and a half and at the end of that time almost instantly recognized a green rocket signal.

To my dullard's mind the high lights of the evening (exclusive of the rockets) were Millener's assignment as "Leader of the Howitzer Company Group" the group being composed of Millener; and the loss of direction by that triumvirate of the great open spaces of the 29th, to wit Sweeney, Clarke and Pitcher. Were news of this character ever to reach the ears of Col. D. K. Major the commissioned ranks were already lacking three, until now, promising subalterns.

Thursday, Apr. 13

So accustomed have we become of late to seeing the old order turned inside out and faced about that we were only a bit surprised to find after our night maneuver of yester eve that the Advanced Class got this morning off.

Report cards out and the bachelors worried as to who will sign theirs, they having no homes to take them to. For myself I am sure that the good wife will sign mine can I but convince her that those round marks are a basket of goose eggs from the Academic Department for a Happy Easter.

Major Evans to the business of battalion in attack with so much enthusiasm for the troops on the paper that he did fail utterly to provide the ten minute respite for the troops on the ground. He, having until a week from tomorrow to recoup from this, does forget that in the same interim we have seventeen (count 'em) of his colleagues to take on with the consequent need of an hourly breath of fresh air.

This running of relays on us by the First Section does mind me of nothing so much as drill sergeants stationed at intervals on the perimeter of a field and they, without moving, do cause recruits to double the time continuously around them.

Friday, Apr. 14

Did this morn remain longer than is my wont in the position of the soldier and very near to missing my breakfast too because of it. And no extra amount of sleep could at all compensate for that loss. Toying with some idle considerations, one of the chief ones being the accuracy of nurses for, Lord, was one ever known at pulse-taking time to miss one's wrist and grasp the hand instead? But then neither do they ever stick a thermometer in the eye instead of the mouth, so the law of averages avails.

The arrival of an Infantry Journal, (until of late a stranger to our domicile) did inspire the good wife, who is usually averse to puns, to observe that "We certainly haven't kept our baby book up to date."

Another stray cerebration occasioned by the larceny of our scheduled Monday holiday. If the criterion be the amount of instruction scheduled for this to-have-been holiday then it is a certainty that the Academic Department was in far greater need of the day than we. I could hope, however, that no one brings to their attention that we still have from Sunday midnight till Monday 8 AM to our own devices. May they at least have the grace after the night operation to refrain from presenting the Senior Class with Tuesday morning off. This sort of thing continuing, we may with logic expect graduation to follow a Saturday night maneuver and compulsory Sunday chapel.

Monday, Apr. 17

Off to Mr. Benning's Boarding School for Boys at a fresh hour to be entertained by the Hones burlesque and not disappointed neither. It did seem that Stewart as a farmer and Vander Heide as a deserter from the Vulgarian army were more than admirably cast. And when Howard, speaking Spanish, required not only an interpreter, Lt. Bravo, but an interpreter for the interpreter the affair did take on the atmosphere of the House That Jack Built. Too much cannot be said—and was not—to and of Fitzgibbons and his novel method of searching a prisoner. Following the procedure long established by the Rover Boys he did tear the lining from the prisoner's cap and the insoles from his shoes but found no messages. The idea of a soldier carrying a message in his pocket has as yet not sullied Fitz'-er-mind.

The show almost stopped for lack of a panel whereby to signal a passing plane, the panel having been used for physiological deceit inside the dress of Boxcar Bessie, (known to the class at large as Treat). Bessie was subjected to prompt humiliation that the panel message might be sent.

Tuesday, Apr. 18

" . . . . . in '75

"Hardly a geezer ban now alive
"Who live here ven Paul ban volunteer."

His horse certainly got the dirty end of that deal.

An invention of Reeder's which should rank with the well known "military stoop" divulged to me this morning. The position is that of question defilade," attainable by all with effort but singularly effective as practiced by students in the vicinity of pillars.

An instructor having finally had the temerity to tackle Vander Heide's name and ask him a question, Van considers changing to Schwimmerwerferblatt to re-establish his immunity from questioning.

Pay vouchers having reached our boxes with the cries of the cut and bruised; the voice of lamentation; Rachel weeping for her children and refusing to be comforted.

Still no orders and the most engaging explanation thereof being the somewhat involved one that orders cannot be issued until the elimination of officers is completed which in turn depends upon a riase in pay for officers who otherwise will be pecuniarly unable to obtain clearances.

—Lieut. Peep.

Here's To Your Health

BY MAJOR HOMER L. CONNER, Medical Inspector

Bellyache

Some months ago there appeared in this column a short article under this same title. Within the past two weeks the need of again fixing attention on what abdominal pain indicates and what it may mean if it is neglected is illustrated by the admission of a man to the hospital who had been suffering for over two days with bellyache which was due to an inflamed appendix that should have been operated on many hours before he called the doctor.

A bellyache is more often than not the result of somthing eaten or drunk and if possible we will find some way of blaming food or drink for that pain.

When food or drink results in bellyache or poisoning we most always find that the trouble is due to hoggishness, or to an intake of unusual articles of food or drink, or to a bad combination of foods.

Many people find that one or more kinds of food do not agree with them. There are also times when even our ordinary diet seems to cause acute abdominal pain. Even the change of time in eating the usual meal may result in bellyache.

We still have too many prolonged illnesses and deaths that might well be prevented if the usually normal person would only stop this too common attempt to blame his bellyache on something eaten.

The onset of appendicitis is almost always the kind of pain that we hitch up to something eaten at the previous meal. Besides appendicitis there are other dangerous acute abdominal conditions which must be thought of when bellyache persists for any length of time. Acute attacks of appendicitis frequently recover without an operation, but the chances of recovery from some other abdominal condition without an operation are not worth considering.

It may be that an abdominal operation is unnecessarily performed, but always remember that when belly pain persists for several hours without letting up there is usually more risk in waiting than in operating.

A bellyache that persists requires the services of a trained physician on whose judgement and experience your very life depends. In spite of better trained doctors and the advances in surgical skill the records of Insurance Companies show that deaths from appendicitis are more frenquent than they were ten years ago. Why this should be has not been exactly determined. There are however many persons like the individual cited in the beginning of this article who must be blamed for their own deaths. Self-diagnosis and self-treatment is dangerous when abdominal pain persists. Always call the doctor for a persistent bellyache. The earlier you do this the better.

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—John Wolcot.

CONDUCTED BY E. F. H.

STUDY IN COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

And I bow myself in the house of Rimmon.—II Kings 5:18

Easter Sunday was a day of religious observance for us. In the morning we made our annual pilgrimage to church and in the afternoon we made our obeisance before the great god Horse. There was a fair sprinkling of the same faces at both formations, which we interpreted as a sign that the world is getting better.

A church service, as a rule, is not productive of much copy for a column such as The Flare. A horseshow, however, can generally be counted on to furnish material for at least one issue and the event of last Sunday was no exception. Before taking up these matters, however, we wish to state that the show was a highly successful affair. Good weather, a beautiful setting, interesting events, perfect arrangements and skillful riding combined to make it so. Our editorial hat is off to the horse enthusiasts for this well staged performance.

SAPPHO OF THE PADDOCKS

Of course, everybody knows about Mrs. Eley's voice, but prior to Sunday only her intimate friends knew that she is also a disciple of Calliope, muse of epic poetry. The presentation to Major Thompson of a parting gift from the ladies' riding class furnished the occasion which called for the display of unsuspected poetic talent. Having ben drafted to make the presentation speech, Mrs. Eley elected to say it in verse.

The girls came riding in on a truck which also carried the saddle which was to compensate the Major for his sufferings. Arriving in front of Commandant's box, Mrs. Eley took the microphone and read the following immortal lines of her own composition:

"THE SAGA OF THE STABLES
OR Jack Thompson's Torture"

'Twas one October Tuesday
The day was fair and warm;
More than a hundred women
Were gathered near the barn.

They came in all the riding togs
That fashion could invent,
In all degrees of shapeliness,
And all on pleasure bent.

You told us all about a horse
The color, kind and part
Till we began to realize
We'd met up with fine art.

You told us we must wear long drawers
We know the reason now,
For skin and saddle when they meet
Will burn you up—and how!

"To the platoons"—the Major said,
And then the fun began
We found ourselves inside a fence
Each twenty to one man.

They rode us round, inside and out,
Thru valley, hill and dale,
And anyone not talking horse
Was quite beyond the pale.

"The ladies will not ride to-day."
We heard the Major sigh
A certain captain raised his head
And said "Hooray—and why?"
"Because Headquarters says they can't!"
The Major did reply.

And when we found this was the truth
When calling up from home
Many a surreptitious tear
Fell in the telephone.

And now the dreadful time has come
When we must say "goodbye."
We wish you every happiness
And know that you know why.

This token of our high esteem
Please take—and use it daily
And send us now and then a thought
While sitting in it gaily.
This is our only way to show
Dear teacher, fondly feared,
Our love and veneration for
Each whisker in your beard!

At the conclusion of Mrs. Eley's declamation, Major Thompson made a gracious speech of acceptance in which he implied that the ladies riding classes were a source of unremitting joy to the instructors in equitation and himself.

GRADUATION EXERCISE

Major Thompson was not the only member of his family to be honored on Sunday, for at the conclusion of the presentation exercises referred to above, Mrs. Thompson, mounted on her favorite Charger, Baldy, was led into the ring and formally presented with a diploma from the Infantry School Stables.

It seems that Mrs. Thompson has, upon various and sundry occasions, complained bitterly because she had never been awarded a diploma from any of the numerous equitation colleges which she has attended. The special diploma given her constitutes a belated recognition of the fact that she is a glutton for punishment.

The diploma is a work of art. Its border design depicts the seven stages of Mrs. Thompson's riding career in pen and ink sketches of surpassing merit and the legend is a masterpiece of lettering art. Framed, as it will be, it is destined to occupy a prominent place on the walls of the Thompson mansion.

We quote below the legend but, really, to appreciate this tribute to Mrs. Thompson's horsemanship you should drop around and see it.

DIPLOMA
THE INFANTRY SCHOOL
STABLES
Be it known that
NINA THOMPSON

of the State of Exhaustion, having been carefully instructed, cajoled, implored, exhorted, screamed at and cried over for 33 years by her own admission, in all the departments of Horsemanship, in all seats, postures and positions taught at all Army Camps, Posts, and Stations, both in the United States and abroad, has been judged worthy to receive the degree of Benning Seat, B. S., preparatory to her advancement to the degree of West Point Seat, W. P. S.

Be it further known, and persons are hereby forewarned, that from this date henceforth in any or all discussions pertaining to the Horse, in whole or in part, The Spoken Word of Nina Thompson shall be Final and her decisions shall be immutable.

Given under our hand and Seal on this, the 14th Day of April, nineteen hundred and thirty-three.

The diploma bears the signatures of the following distinguished horsemen:

(Please turn to Page 5)

HUNT PROVIDES COLORFUL SPECTACLE SATURDAY

(Continued From Page 1)

ating creations with opportunities for developing those qualities of leadership essential to the successful conduct of a military campaign as we find in hunting to hounds. In this respect the Infantry School Hunt has maintained the best traditions of the chase and has performed a valuable service.

"In a day's hunting with the Infantry School hounds there unlimited opportunities for developing physical and mental alertness; patience, initiative, courage, character, and of studying the vast terrain of the reservation —all of which play an important part in the academic and social life of the Infantry School. That so many of the garrison have availed themselves of these opportunities is, indeed, a tribute to this sport.

Therefore the holding of hunter trials as culminating event of the hunting season in which the military qualities of both horse and rider are tested in a series of interesting competitions is an event in which all men of the military profession are rightly interested."

V. V. VICK—Graduate watch maker. Watches repaired $1.75. One year Guarantee. City Drug Store.

WOLFSON CO.
939 Broadway
Wrapping Paper, Paper Bags, Towels, Napkins, Cups and Stationery.
PHONE 113

20 ACRES LAND
Nice Little Home
3 1-2 Miles From City On Paved Highway. Small Pond—2 Branches. About Half Woodland.
$1500.00
Terms
Edge & Armour Inc.
9 - 12th St. Phone 66
F. W. Armour I. Herman
Salesmen

Tank Notes

We were sorry to receive orders relieving Captain "Bob" Wallace from duty with the Sixty-sixth Infantry and assigning him to the Infantry, Hawaiian Department. We hope that he will enjoy his tour on the Island of Oahu. We hope that he will be assigned to the 27th Infantry, commonly known as Wolfhounds, upon his arrival. Our tour with that organization was extremely pleasant. He leaves from New York on June 20th.

War Department Orders received last week assign Captain Leo A. Bessette to the Sixty-sixth Infantry. Captain Bessette was formerly adjutant of this regiment, stationed at Fort George G. Meade. He is at present on duty as student at the French Tank School in Versailles, France.

We don't wonder anymore where Bingham's pass was found after he reported it was lost. Be ashamed, Bingham, you older men should set examples for the younger ones. If this were ever to get out on you, you would be a back number for the rest of your life, and maybe your best friend wouldn't dare tell you why.

Several of the boys want to know where Sergeant Al. Durden, sport writer of Benning gets all the names that he calls them in his write-ups to out-side papers.

The Company Baseball Series is still under way and as this goes to press company "E" is leading the series. Several good games have been witnessed during the week. All companies are out to win the championship and are playing a good brand of baseball.

If the month has done nothing else, it has disclosed some very interesting facts regarding a certain prominent young man. Dell Franklin Jones, of Headquarters Company, says that he wants to inform the world that he has found the girl of his dreams. He also lows she ain't no Marlene Dietrich, but really and truly an attractive girl. There may be a vacant house in Block "W" Dell.

"Madam" Tapley of Company "E" will soon have his barber shop looking like a million dollars. What we are worried about "Madam" is that we are afraid that some of our ladies like Leavell and "Sister" Hines will mistake your shop for a boudior and move in with you.

Another week or two and we'll get to see our track team in action. We don't know the view points of our coach; but from watching a few of the boys in action we believe that they will be there with the goods. Good luck to you boys and may you retain our Post Championship.

Automobiles and household goods insurance at reduced rates for all military and civil personnel.
GOVERNMENT PERSONNEL AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

THE ECHO
INTERSECTION OF HAMILTON AND RIVER ROADS
Now Under New Management

| STEAK DINNERS 75c | CHICKEN DINNERS 75c |
|---|---|
| Fruit Cocktail | Fruit Cocktail |
| Cream of Celery Soup | Cream of Chicken Soup |
| Broiled Steak | Celery Queen Olives |
| French Fried Potatoes | Fried Chicken |
| Buttered Carrots | Spanish Rice Asparagus Tips |
| June Peas Hot Muffins | June Peas Hot Muffins |
| Congealed Salad | Congealed Salad |
| Peppermint Cream | Peppermint Cream |

Coffee Tea Milk
Dining and Dancing

Makers of Fine Printing Plates
WRIGLEY ENGRAVING CO.
Atlanta, Georgia

THE FLARE

Continued From Page 4)

J. B. Thompson, M. E. Halloran, J. W. Blue, J. A. Nichols, L. J. Lockett, H. M. Monroe and O. O. Wilson.

HOT NEWS

Our esteemed contemporary, the Columbus Ledger, in its issue of April 19th carries the following headline:

COL. KELLEY BEGINS DUTIES

Becomes Director of Department of Experiment at Fort Benning; Has Had Long Service

Under this head the up and coming Ledger states that "another of the important key positions at the Infantry School * * * * has been filled by the arrival of Colonel Reginald H. Kelley" and this is followed by a full column article giving the Colonel's history.

In view of this startling announcement we may expect any day to read in the Ledger that Colonel Stillwell has arrived and assumed charge of the Great First Section and that Deacon Emil Leard has recently become a member of the Thanatopsis Club.

The eight months' delay in reporting the arrival of the new head of the Department of Experiment might not be so damning were it not for the fact that Colonel Kelley was one of the bright shining stars in The Road to Rome. Incidentally the Ledger story of the Colonel's life made no mention of his able portrayal of Fabius Maximus. Such is fame!

WHY LIEUTENANT! HOW YOU TALK!

The April 13th issue of the conservative Atlanta Constitution carries an article by an A. P. staff writer extolling the virtues of the potato-peeling machine recently installed by the up-to-date 29th Infantry.

It goes without saying that the installation of a potato peeling machine in any military organization becomes the occasion for a lot of reportorial wisecracks about K. P. duty. Sometimes the reporter makes a few slips in slapping on his local color, but who knows the difference? We wonder, however, how Lieutenant Rutte relished the interview as it came out in the paper. For the enlightenment of those who do not take the Constitution, we reprint part of it below:

"This army cerainly ain't what it used to be, no sir," remarked Sergeant L. B. Rutte, pompous overseer of the scientific food-chopping machinery in the big new barracks of the 29th Infantry here.

"It's getting so scientific," he said, "that even the savings on potato peeling has gone up. We used to lose about seven pounds out of every fifty when the boys knifed 'em. Now, with this new-fangled machine, we only lose about three pounds.

"I'm afraid, though, these machines are making softies of the boys. No potato peeling on K. P.? Shucks, these soldiers live the life on a par with that Irishman Riley.

"Just think, potatoes are issued to this two battalion, war-strength regiment, all peeled. It just ain't army life without potato peeling when a fellow deserves it."

CITATION FOR THE WEEK

This being distinctly a Thompson week, as evidenced by the fact that the current issue of The Flare is devoted almost exclusively to celebrating in prose and verse the triumphs of our Master of Horse, his wife, and his co-workers, what could be more appropriate than that he and his efficient organization should receive the highest honor that lies within our province to confer? Here it is:

To Major Jack Thompson and his assistants, not so much for putting over the best horse show in the annals of Benning as for their sustained horses under their control a source of enjoyment both to the enthusiasts and to those mildly interested.
and successful effort to make the

Investors' Agency Opens Branch In Columbus

American Bond and Share Corporation whose main offices are in Atlanta have opened branch offices in Columbus to render services to investors in high grade listed securities.

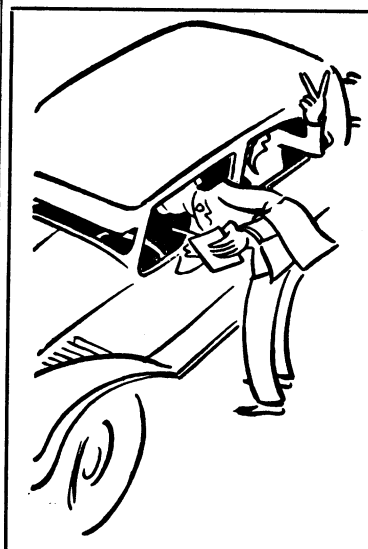
The company islocated in a suite of offices on the third floor of the Georgia Home Building.

Mr. C. C. Street who is well known in this section is in charge of the Columbus offices.

Col. Hennessey At Post Representing Agency

Officers of the United States Army have had for many years an association on automobile insurance. This organization, called the United Service Automobile Association, has been highly successful, saving 46 percent in premium rates for its members. An insistent demand among enlisted men and civil employers has resulted in the formation of the Government Personnel Automobile Association, constructed along the same lines as the United Service Automobile Association.

The Association will be glad to hear from any personnel in Fort Benning who care to save money on automobile insurance. There are no dues of any kind. Information concerning the Association can be obtained by addressing a letter to Colonel J. P. Hennessy, Government Personnel Automobile Association, San Antonio, Texas.



Our Curb Service
. . . is as good as anyone could possibly expect!
And remember, we maintain a daily delivery service, from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. for the delivery of ice cream in small quantities to any place on the post.
POST EXCHANGE
SODA FOUNT
FT. BENNING, GA.
The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service.

ANNOUNCING
Opening of Offices
American Bond and Share Corp.
3rd Floor
GEORGIA HOME BLDG.
Dealers in High Grade Listed Securities
Agents For Independence Fund of North America, Inc.
Offices
ATLANTA COLUMBUS NEW YORK

Vita Health Reclining Cabinet

We have an experienced Graduate Masseur or Masseuse whom we send to Fort Benning each Monday, Wednesday and Friday who can conveniently give Swedish Massages and Mineral Baths in your home. Reasonable Rates. We have many luxurious and beneficial Treatments for Health, Beauty and Happiness.

Treatments conveniently given at home include Swedish Shampoo, Turkish Shampoo, Oxygen, Sulphur, Nauheim, Oil of Eucalyptus, Saline Baths, Salt Glow, etc.

Office hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.--Evenings by appointment

Russian, Turkish, Mineral } Cabinet Baths
Swedish Facial and Scalp } Massage
Physio, Hydro, Electro } Therapy

SPECIAL REDUCING TREATMENTS
RIGDON HEALTH INSTITUTE
216 Doctors Building Phone 1037

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

DAVIS P. HARDING, Editor

Benning Amateurs Smother All Opposition

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS HARDING

Plans for an open tennis tournament, in which both professionals and amateurs would compete, were abandoned recently. The stated reason was that a tentative date could not be established, but two other factors possibly influenced the decision of the committee. The fact that a member of the English Lawn Tennis Association had gone on record as saying that any amateur who competed in an open tournament would be barred from participation in matches at Wimbledon also was taken into consideration. And the published decision of Ellsworth Vines that he would not play in an open tournament under any circumstances probably carried some weight.

The committee threw out the tournament after a stormy session by a vote of 15-4. So it seems that Bill Tilden and his professional colleagues will have to wait still longer before they have occasion to prove their superiority over amateur racket-wielders.

* * *

A year ago, the championship Califorina crew, that ran roughshod over all collegiate competition and then went on to win the Olympics, roundly trounced Washington by eighteen lengths in the worst defeat a college crew had ever absorbed. A little more than a week ago, the Huskies of Washington took sweet revenge.

In the first race of the day, the Washington Freshman crew easily defeated their California opponents. Then two junior varsity water splashers met and it was Washington which streaked past the finish line first.

The starting gun which saw the Washington varsity crew and the California varsity crew dip oars in water also saw the Huskies pull into a quarter-length lead for the first half-mile. Thereafter, the Huskies began to move steadily ahead, and when the finish line was reached, were a full ten lengths in the lead of the Bear crew.

* * *

Professor John Kiernan, popular sports columnist for the New York Times, turned to poetry to discuss the prospects of National League clubs for the coming season. The printed diamond ditty below, from the facile pen of the versatile Kieran, was composed not in honor of the first division teams, but the outfits which fight for the cellar positions.

The Cubs may score as they did before,
Or the Pirates leave them trailing,
The Flatbush crew may come romping through,
Or the Phillies win by flailing.
The Cards place hope in the pitching dope;
The Braves may yet get going;
And the Giants dream of a winning team
Where the Harlem River's flowing.
The Reds may rise in the big surprise
That Donie Bush is hinting.
And the starting gun will see some fun
With eight clubs off a-sprinting.
There is this to say as they face the fray,
With hopes fixed on a pennant
There is room below for the weak and the slow,
And the cellar craves a tennant.

In other words, try to get into a discussion of second division prospects and see how far it gets you. Your listeners will get up and walk away. From the lack of interest in that direction, one might draw the conclusion that they were going to abolish all second divisions. Of course, that is impossible, and by the middle of August, there will be at least four teams rattling around in second division berths in both major circuits—no matter how disagreeable that sounds to ardent baseball fans.

(Please turn to Page 7)

. . . and you men will get plenty of it in baseball, especially if you're wise enough to use the best of equipment—such as that sold at the Main Branch. Telpehone 608.

Post Exchange

FORT BENNING, GA.

The Post Exchange Is Not Authorized To Sell To Anyone Not In The Military Service.

Post Boxing Team Is Easy Victor In Southern Tourney

Floyd, Milan, Whatley, and Penland Crowned Southern Amateur Champions

Sweeping all opposition before it in a splendid, crushing victory, the Fort Benning amateur boxing team crowned four champions and accumulated 42 points to win team honors by an overwhelming margin. Mobile was second with 21 points, far ahead of Memphis with eight points. Other team totals were as follows: Birmingham Athletic Club 4, Defuniak Springs, Fla., Pensacola Naval Station 2, Atlanta Y. M. C. A. 2, Tech High of Atlanta, 2, and Spring Hill College 1.

The fighting doughboys from the banks of the Upatoi journeyed to Mobile with but one purpose in view—to win first place in the Southeastern Amateur A. A. U. boxing championships. How well they succeeded is testified to by the decisive margin of victory, mute evidence of the caliber of the leatherpushers who represen'ed Fort Benning.

Nine doughboy scrappers survived the first round of the tournament. Roy Whatley, defending middleweight champion, won his fight by a knockout over Ed ONeil of Mobile in the opening stanza. Joe Graves, welter, and Phil Carpenter, lightheavyweight, also won their fights via the knockout route, G. Morris, featherweight, won a decision in the first round, but succumbed in the second to the whirlwind attack of Ralph Neilson.

W. Floyd and C. Floyd, both bantamweights, won by decisions. Joe Graves and Neal Milan, welterweights, also survived, as well as the two heavies Penland and Wilson.

On the second night of fighting, the remaining boxers from Fort Benning covered themselves with glory. Roy Whatley gave a splendid boxing exhibition in winning a decision over Phil Sicela, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla. Lonnie Wilson, heavyweight, scored a knockout victory over Neal Hammond, Atlanta Y. M. C. A.

Joe Graves and Neal Milan, fast-stepping, hard-hitting welterweights, made their division into a Fort Benning affair entirely by winning their semi-final bouts by technical knockouts. Graves massacred Campbell of Atlanta, and Milan administered a like dose to Ed Brady of Mobile. Charlie Floyd advanced to the finals with a flashing victory over Louis Barrasso of Spring Hill. Leguigan kept in the running for the flyweight title by conquering Joe Trotman of Defuniak Springs.

E. G. Morris and Phil Carpenter of Fort Benning were both eliminated in the lightheavyweight class. The defeat of Carpenter, defending champion, by Charlie Williamson of Mobile came as a big surprise. Both Morris and Carpenter lost on points.

Came the finals. Earl Everet, 1932 flyweight champion, easily demonstrated his supremacy in his division by knocking out Al Leguigan, Fort Benning, in the first round.

In one of the three all-Benning finals, Tanker Floyd fought three fast, beautiful rounds with Billy Floyd for the bantamweight title. The decision went to Tanker Floyd.

Ralph Neilson of Mobile hooked up with Eddie Hamilton of Memphis for the featherweight crown and won the decision. Hamilton won the championship back in 1931.

Frankie Schottgen, featherweight champion a year ago, won the lightweight championship by a knockout

(Please turn to Page 7)

Fort Benning Tennis Team Bows To Georgia Tech In Close Match

Fort Benning tennis stars lost a close, hotly-contested match to the strong Georgia Tech team Wednesday afternoon by a score of 5-4. It was a beautiful day for tennis, bright and warm, with little or no wind. Play started at about fifteen minutes of two o'clock, the Drake-Reese match being the first to get under way.

Georgia Tech brought a powerful aggregation to Benning. They had previously engaged in three collegiate matches, winning two and losing one. Their sole defeat was at the hands of the Florida Gators who won a close match 5-4. The contest with Florida was the opening match of the season for Georgia Tech and the Golden Tornado players had not yet had time to reach the peak of their form. Billy Reese, captain and first ranking player of the Georgia Tech team, is champion of the Cotton States, and nationally ranked. A large gallery was on hand to witness the match.

Billy Reese exhibited fine tennis in defeating Captain Drake, Fort Benning match in the outstanding match of the day. Drake, usually a very steady player, was slightly off form in the opening set, which Reese had not trouble in winning 6-1. Drake made frequent errors on his backhand during this set. In the second set, Drake settled down, and went into a 4-2 lead. At this point, the Georgia Tech player put on pressure and ran out the next four games, the set, and the match 6-4.

Reese had an exceptionally hard first service and had a fine assortment of passing shots. His driving game was consistent and accurate, and his excellent overhead won him many points. Drake, as usual, varied his driving game with chops and cuts, placing the balls in the corners of the court time after time. Drake's reverse wrist service seemed to bother Reese who had difficulty in returning it.

Lynch of Fort Benning was defeated in a hard-fought three-set match, losing the first and third sets, and

(Please turn to Page 7)

NEW SHIPMENT

SPRING SUITS

$16.00

AND $18.50

Summer Wash Trousers
$1.00 to $2.50

Straw Hats
$1.00 to $2.50

Panamas
$3.50

Athletic Undershirts
25c

Faultless No-Belt Shorts
50c

Jno. K. Harris Co.

1122 BROADWAY

Columbus Team Is Victor In Game

By B. STOLIER

The Question Marks of Columbus were the victors in a practice game with the Savages of the 1st Battalion, 29th. The game started at 2:45 PM. Smiths pitching was a feature of the game, he struck out 12 men and contributed 2 hits. Tipper of the 1st Bn. scored the only run earned by the 1st Battalion. Blondy Parker proved to fans that he is not only a fighter but also a pitcher. Parker relieved Areaux who started the game, and gave up four hits in five innings.

Score by innings—

| | R | H |
|---|---|---|
| 1st Bn. Hq. Co.---- 000 000 0 | 1 | 2 |
| Question Marks ---- 150 021 0 | 9 | 10 |

Dr. R. H. Brown
Osteopathic Physician
Murrah Bldg.
Phone Office 4108
Res. 1153

Lafkowitz Bros.
Makers of good Clothes
—Alterations—
1208 First Ave. Telephone 371

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve
1330 Broadway
R. M. Harding, Manager

100% Pure Pennsylvania PENNZOIL Safe Lubrication
FOR SALE
Post Exchange

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital ----------$150,000.00
Surplus ---------- 50,000.00
Interest Paid on Deposits at 3 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 3 per cent. per annum
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Ja., Phone 290

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus--$ 350,000.00
Resources Over ------ 2,000,000.00
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. Hall, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

29th Inf.

COMPANY "F"

Once there was an old woman who lived in a shoe; but why go any further? We are not going to talk about the old woman or her children. We are going to give you some facts about the outfit.

Some of the men went to St. Marks, Florida, for a fishing trip, but it turned out to be a boat ride on a stormy sea. "Spark Plug", our shine boy went along. During the storm he was on his knees praying that the boat would get back to land. Most of the men got seasick. Say fellows, why not tell us all about the trip? Don't look so gloomy, maybe you'll get another chance to go.

We have two musically inclined boys with us. Pfc. Cotten and Pvt. Hornsby have each bought a guitar and are trying to learn to pick them. Wonder if they will start crooning, too? Talking about crooners, Pvt. Dodson has the floor. Sing us a song, Dobson, we're blue.

Our two boxers, Pfc. Whatley and Pvt. Carpenter, are back from Mobile where they have been participating in the Southeastern A. A. U. meet. Pfc. Whatley reained his title as Middleweight champion. Congrats, Roy, here's luck to you.

Sgt. Blankenship has been wondering what Sgt. Vines has been using, or doing, to lose his quartermaster chest. Why not ask him, Blank, maybe he'll tell you? Remember, nothing beats a trial but a failure.

—Temples.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

The Company has been busy for the past two weeks making moving pictures of demonstrations and waiting for the sun to come out to shoot the scene. It was a good diversion from the routine duties and gives the boys an idea of what moving picture actors have to contend with. Not many of the boys want to go to Hollywood now. Louis (Roudolph Valantine) Satina was seen yesterday with a long face. One of the boys asked him what was wrong and after stuttering and jawing around. Louis finally told the following, "I am mad because the moving pictures were about over and this is my only chance of entering Hollywood." He said he and his mule "Dan" were the big stars of the picture. And boy could his mule act!

We are all glad to know that Headquarters Company made such a good showing in the Post Horse Show last Saturday.

McLendon won first place in the jumping and also won first in the Sweepstakes. It is said that he won $80.00 in prizes for winning.

Corp. Edmunds, Pvt. Charlie Wright Stambaugh made a fine showing.

We are glad to get Poter from Service Company. He will take his position behind the bat on the baseball team and that will enable Corp. Easley to take his old position out in center field. This move should strengthen the team considerably.

We got a scare the other day. We heard a great noise as if the wind was going to break down the barracks and when we got down there at the orderly room it was no one but our top kick straightening out one of the recruits of the company.

But no matter how much the top "Houghtby" growls or how much he bawls you out he is always ready to do you a favor or help you when you need it.

Our orchestra will be playing on

(Please turn to page 8)

Ask Anybody at Benning
for whom we have made new mattresses or renovated old ones. They will tell you our process is O. K.
Cooper Mattress Mfg. Co.
Ash Solomon, Prop. Phone 588

Drs. Miller & Davis
Dog and Cat Hospital
1006 13th Street
Office Phone 1313

TENNIS MATCHES PROVIDE SPEED AND THRILLS

(Continued from Page 6)

winning the second at love. Lynch was not in top form, but nevertheless forced his opponent to the limit.

Sherburne of Fort Benning had no difficulty in winning his match at 6-2, 6-2. His opponent offered little opposition. Sherburne's fast first service and the wicked twist on his second service worried the Georgia Tech player throughout the match. His driving game was excellent considering that he has not had much time recently to devote to tennis.

Poore of Fort Benning played an excellent brand of tennis in defeating Crawford of Georgia Tech in three sets. This match was the last singles match to be completed. Lieutenant Poore won the third and deciding set at 6-2. The driving games of the two players were about equal, perhaps a shade to Crawford, but Poore's splendid net game more than made up for any advantage Crawford might have had over his driving. Time after time, Poore took the net with impunity, the Georgia Tech player finding it exceedingly difficult to pass him.

Newman of Fort Benning won his match comparatively easily. His chop game, now well-developed, disconcerted his opponent and Newman won by scores of 6-4, 6-3. It was an interesting match to watch, although Newman was playing a superior brand of tennis.

Major Irving lost his match by scores of 6-0, 6-4. Irving steadied down in the second set, went into a lead, his opponent drew even a 4-4, and then ran out the set and match.

Drake and Lynch opposed Reese and Crawford in the first doubles match. It was close and exciting. The Georgia Tech stars won the first set, the Fort Benning combination won the second at 6-4, and Reese and Crawford won the last by the same score. The latter two players went into a commanding lead at the start of the final set, first at 3-1, then at 5-2. At this point, Lynch and Drake applied pressure and won the next two games, only to lose the tenth at 50-15.

Crawford was erratic in the first two sets of this match, losing many points on double faults and overdriving the back line time after time. The fine playing of Reese, however, made up for the deficiency. Some beautiful tennis was displayed in this match by both sides.

Gavin and Irving won their doubles match, also a three-set affair, by barely nosing out their opponents, who won the first set. Gavin and Irving took the next two and the match.

With the match standing at 4-4, everything hinged on the outcome of the match in which Poore and Newman represented Fort Benning against Georgia Tech's second ranking combination.

This match also developed into a three-set affair. With the score standing at one apiece, both teams settled down and played brilliant tennis. The Georgia Tech combine went into a 5-4 lead, with Tech serving. After a fiercely-contested game, Fort Benning lost at 6-4.

BENNING AMATEURS SMOTHER ALL OPPOSITION

(Continued from page 6)

over Eddie Wells. Both finalists hailed from Mobile.

Neal Milan and Joe Graves clashed for the welterweight championship. This was a great battle from the opening gong to he time when Milan's hand was raised to victory. The two doughboys went at it hammer and tongs all the time they were in the ring together. It just wasn't big enough to hold both of them. Milan was runner-up for two years in the annual tournament.

Charles Roy Whatley found a rough and ready opponent in Marshall Gross of Birmingham and only retained his title after a closely contested bout.

Charlie Williams of Mobile, who defeated Phil Carpenter in the semi-finals, was forced to the limit by Balon Senterfitt, Defuniak Springs, to win lightheavyweight laurels.

Lonnie Wilson and Melvin Penland, Special Units, 29th Infantry, fought three rounds in a splendid battle to determine who should wear the heavyweight crown. Action started with the opening gong and finished only with the final bell. Penland received the verdict of the judges, but it was a great fight and the loser deserves as much credit as the winner. Wilson has been runner-up in the division for three years.

At the conclusion of the bouts, Lt. Howard Johnson, coach of the Fort Benning team, was presented the championship team rophy, given each year by the officials of the Mobile Junior Chamber of Commerce. The silver cup will be engraved with the names of the members of the winning team.

The Fort Benning fighters who were crowned champions of their divisions were Tanker Floyd, bantamweight, Neal Milan, welterweight, Roy Whatley, middleweight, and Melvin Penland, heavyweight.

Fort Benning fighters who fought in the finals but were eliminated were Al Leguigan, flyweight, Billy Floyd, bantamweight, Joe Graves, welterweight, and Lonnie Wilson, heavyweight.

Coach Howard Johnson, who sacrificed much time and effort that his team might be in tiptop shape for the tournament, deserves much credit for the fine showing made by the doughboys. On behalf of the garrison, this writer extends congratulations to Coach Johnson, the newly-crowned champions, and to those remaining members of the team who failed to reach the top, but not because they did not have the determination to win. Every man on the squad, from the boxer eliminated in the first round to the champion, deserves a great deal of credit for the smashing victory.

SPORT CHATTER

(Continued from page 6)

President John A. Heydler issued a stirring appeal to players in the National League before the eight clubs went into action. He stated that the popularity of baseball would be put to the acid test this year and urged that every player, the one on the bench as well as the one on the field, bend every effort to retain the interest of the public.

He cited President Roosevelt's recent tribute to the national game and asked the players to maintain this high appraisement. Frankling Roosevelt had said that "Major League baseball has done as much as any one thing in this country to keep up the spirit of the people."

Heydler outlined five points in his program for renewing interest in baseball. In brief they were as follows:

1. Do not fraternize with members of the opposing team once in the ballpark.
2. Do not enter the dressing rooms of the other team to hold friendly reunions.
3. Do not give up when the score is lopsided against your team. Run out your hits. Never take it easy.
4. Be enthusiastic. Action and hustle are needed in our ball games. Don't moan and quit if you're in a batting slump.
5. Encourage your teammates at all times.

* * *

The American League, under the immediate jurisdiction of President Harridge, heartily endorsed the appeal. Said Mr. Harridge: "It's all right to have great friends among the other clubs off the field, but when the boys are in the park and ready for a game, friendship should cease and they should play hard to win."

HALF SOLES
A GOOD Half Sole 50c . A BETTER Half Sole 75c
LAMAC SOLE $1.00
The Only 5-Unit Machine In Columbus
All Work Guaranteed
CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED
BOSTON SHOE FACTORY
We specialize in cripple work
Phone 565 1234 Broadway

Howard Bus Line, Inc.
Operating Under Government Franchise
Bond and Liability Insurance Provided
SCHEDULE

| From Columbus | From Ft. Benning |
|---|---|
| 5:00 AM | 6:00 AM |
| 6:00 " | 7:50 " |
| 7:00 " | 9:15 " |
| 8:30 " | 10:45 " |
| 10:00 " | 12:45 PM |
| 11:45 " | 2:15 " |
| 1:30 PM | 4:15 " |
| 3:00 " | 5:10 " |
| 5:00 " | 6:00 " |
| 7:00 " | 7:00 " |
| 9:00 " | 8:00 " |
| 10:30 " | 9:45 " |
| 12:00 M | 11:15 " |
| | 12:00 M |

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES
410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

IT'S A TREAT to try them!
Tom's TOASTED PEANUTS
CONTEST ENDS APRIL 22
Tom's "FREE CHEVROLET" contest ends on April 22 and winners will be announced in our next issue. Another contest will be announced later.

Several Students Make Fine Scores

Major Claudius H. Easely, who supervised the course of marksmanship recently completed by the students in the national guard and reserve company's class, has prepared a compilation showing the ten best all-around marksmen with the rifle, pistol, automatic rifle, and machine gun.

A score of 1,000 is considered an excellent aggregate for the course of firing for the four weapons, and ten officers of the class made scores in excess of that figure.

Lieutenant Casper D. Apple, Infantry-Reserve, of Newark, N. J., led the list of high scorers, with a total of 1,073, exceeding that of his nearest competitor by 35 points.

The complete firing records of the ten officers are as follows: Lieut. Casper D. Apple, Inf.-Res., Newark, N. J., 1073; Capt. Harold B. Duncan, Washington N. G., 1038; Capt. Charles H. Moore, Inf.-Res., Alton, Ill.; Capt. Thomas S. Kittrell, North Carolina N. G., 1031; Lieut. Franklin E. Winnie, California N. G., 1024; Capt. Harold H. Richardson, Colorado N. G., 1023; Capt. Thomas J. Note, Penna. N. G., 1006; Lieut. Charles C. Stitt, California N. G., 1006; Lieut. Ralph H. Bogle, jr., Inf.-Res., 1003; and Lieut. Elmer J. Watson, Connecticut N. G., 1001.

Maxwell Optical Co.

I. A. MAXWELL

Optometrist and Optician

A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE

1217 Broadway Phone 3718

HEY!

here's your chance

Clearance Sale!

They MUST Go!

'31 Sport Ford Coupe Original paint; brand New Tires ---------- $295

'31 Ford Standard Sedan 6 wire wheels, luggage carrier; paint like new-- $350

'31 Ford Sport Roadster New tires; good paint -- $165

'31 DeLuxe Ford Phaeton A beautiful car. Must go at ---------- $325

'30 Chrysler "6" Sport Roadster Good paint, good tires; for quick sale ---- $225

20 OTHER REAL BARGAINS TO SELECT FROM

LIBERAL TERMS—GOOD TRADES

Patterson-Pope MOTOR CO.

1415 First Avenue

Phone 412

83rd F. A.

HQ., HQ. BATTERY AND C. T.

Springtime is here again. Springtime brings romance and many other things. Easter Sunday is a day when everybody tries to look his best. The Fort Benning Annual Horse and Transportation Show held Sunday afternoon, offered such an opportunity to our First Sergeant, who attended the show wearing his new spring suit and Panama hat. We uphold the traditions of our First Sergeant and we say this, that he is without a doubt the best dressed First Sergeant in the post. Anybody disputing our word get in touch with Cpl. Lee of this organization.

Cpl. Hurst is again in the limelight, it seems impossible to keep Hurst out of the column. Hurst attended service practice at Boyles Thirty Acres, a night problem was fired for the benefit of the new members. Cpl. Hurst acted as Safety Officer, in which he performed wonderfully. At the critique Cpl. Hurst brought up the point that several duds had been fired during the night and as he acted in capacity as Safety Officer during the problem, it was his official duty to mount his noble flivver and ride the range in search of said duds. He found one dud which was wrapped up in a sack which looked very suspicious to him, being a seasoned artillervman he knew very well that duds don't come wrapped up in gunny sacks, so he opened the sack to investigate its contents, and to date he hasn' turned in his official report.

We wonder why Private Vestal boarded the Fort Benning bus at the corner of 6th avenue and 8th street, Saturday morning. Vestal stated to one of his friends that he slept in a stable Friday night. I suppose he did that for a stall.

Sgt. Dodd, Cpl. Pike and Cpl. Lee attended the Circus in town last night. They visited all the side shows, Cpl. Pike had his fortune told by the world's most famous fortune teller. She told him that some day he would be sharpshooter in the mounted orderlies, which was a source of surprise to him. She also stated that he would marry a young lady by the name of Fannie with plenty of money and everything. Sgt. Dodd asked her if his hair would ever grow again. She rubbed his nude head and said "Sgt. you know that grass won't grow on a busy street." Cpl. Lee wanted to know why nights were lonesome.

BATTERY "A"

Well, our old timers who came here with the Battery in 1920 are just about gone. About two months back Sgt. McCann died, and this week Pvt. Henry A. Hunt transferred to Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry after being in Battery A for twelve years. This leaves one old man left, Sgt. "Soup" Gilbert who in my opinion will retire in the Battery.

Sgt. Willie M. McRae Sr., is on a ten days' fishing furlough, should there be such a furlough. While Sgt. McRae Jr., was left to come out second best in the Horse show last week. Well, give Battery "C" a little encouragement as they need it. If you don't think so, ask Cpl. Jack Johnson.

Due to the excellent work done by the organization in the Horse Show last week the Battalion is going to have a five days' picnic starting Monday April 24th. For this said picnic, overcoats, raincoats, or in other words full pack will be used and be sure and don't forget the grooming kits.

Pvt. Fuller after chiseling two bits in for a five days' furlough and is taking it. We wonder if he will have a big time with this large purse in the five days.

Does anyone desire any information on Dairies, especially on cows? This information can be obtained from the Supply Sergeant, Bill H. Peters.

"Believe it or not" one of the boys of this organization received a telegram that some of his people were ill. When he was informed he had a telegram he said he wasn't expecting it so soon. There seems to be a joke somewhere.

The skating boys spent the night in the barracks Monday night. Those remaining in for a much needed snooze were Cpls. North, Andrews and Privates Scheeler and Murphy.

We are very glad indeed to see our old friend Pvt. Gordon K. Cameron out of the hospital. Duce, I think the old switch board is waiting.

HELP: HELP: We wonder if other prices in Fort Benning will be reduced in accordance with the soldiers' pay.

29TH INFANTRY

(Continued from page 7)

the air at WRBL on Thursday evening at 5:30 p. m. Corp. Youngblood has consented to blend his melodious voice with the enchanting strains of our harmonious orchestra.

—I. M. Yarbrough

COMPANY "C"

This college life is just about killing me since we have been placed under quarantine for the German measles. It is hoped that Major Conner will melt down a little and takes his sign off our humble door within the next couple of days.

Quite a few interesting things have happened since our prolonged stay in quarantine. Our most eminent Company Commander, Captain Chester D. Haisley, engaged a special Vaudeville Troupe to perform for Company C on Saturday evening, April 14th. Over a hundred men attended the performance, and by all indications, the show was enjoyed by every one present.

Other organizations may have exceedingly good company commanders, there is no doubt. However, it is the firm belief of every member of this organization, that there is no other company commander who will excel ours. The many incidents have happened in this organization for the betterment of this company proves how he holds our health, happiness and efficiency at heart. Never tiring at the many things asked of him towards the betterment of our recreational activities. No matter what time of the day or night, when called upon, he will never hesitate; doing all that is within his power to help. Giving advice officially, socially, and personally; never wavering under the strain. No company comcmander has ever held as much esteem for his company as ours has, and with the cooperation of 1st Lieut. Joseph I. Greene, 2nd Lieuts. Edward G. Winston, Thomas R. Hannah, and Hugh T. Cary, he has guided this organization into a state of perfection in its efficiency and its high morale. His achievements in thecompany prove how responsive the men of this organization are towards his interest in us, and to show our appreciation for the many things that he has done for us, we will strive hard to hold the fine esprit de corps, he has accomplished in this company.

The young man mentioned previously (as being so much in love) was heard asking a certain Lieutenant if he would be kind enough to drive to the Post Exchange and purchase an Easter Card for him. It turned out, however, that none was available after a diligent search all over the Post. It is therefore presumed that the Lady-in-waiting will have to WAIT until next Easter. Better luck next time, Hurley.

Edward F. Daigle

COMPANY "D"

The soccer ball series has just closed with the "Shin Busters" from Company D, 29th Infantry crowned champs for the third year in succession. Three teams ended the season in a tie for first place. Company B and Co. D 29th Infantry and Co. E of the Tank Regiment. The series began on Tuesday evening, April 11th. with the two teams from the "Two nine" Army clashing. The boys from Company D took their rivals for a ride to the tune of 4 to 0 score. They were led by a well known Shinbuster, Guy P. Holtzclaw. The big goalie, Berry Russell, was kept very busy at times and saved the ole ball game for his team several times. April 15th on Saturday morning the second game saw the Tankers and Co. D in action; in the estimation of this writer the next best team entered in the league. The mule skinners again played their usual game of championship form and downed the Tankers 2 to 1. The Tankers put up a hard battle but old lady luck was not present so they were held scoreless until about 3 minutes to play when they scored on D Company's reserves. The kicking of one big fellow, Bill Swantic, was a threat to the two niners at times. To the writer it is the third ranking sport in the army. Here's hoping that more interest will be taken in this wonderful game next season.

Several members of the company went down to Florida to fish last Friday. The weather was too rough and consequently no fish were caught. After the hard rain Sunday, Cpl. Robards found an alligator on the lawn. I have heard of the expression of, "Raining cats and dogs,' but not alligators, so the fishers must have brought back an alligator as they passed over the many mud-holes in Florida, instead of the usual mess of fish.

—Reddock and Sheppard

READY

When we repair your car it's READY—ready for the hardest use you can give it, ready for any task you can ask of it. Bring it by and let our experts correct whatever deficiencies may have developed—and you'll enjoy driving more than ever before.

— Free Inspection and Estimates —

Columbus Roberts Motor Co.

512 - 12TH STREET PHONE 271

PIERCE ARROW ROCKNE STUDEBAKER

WHITE TRUCKS INDIANA TRUCKS

Dobbs

Straw Hat Time Is Here!

Panamas Sennets

Bankoks Leghorns

$1.50 to $6.00

HOFFLIN and GREENTREE

COLUMBUS' LEADING CLOTHIERS

ESTABLISHED 1888

Visit Our Boy's Shop

FEFFER JEWELRY Co.

JEWELERS SILVERSMITHS

Fine Repairing

1102 Broadway Phone 3914