Command Report for Period of 1-31 January 1951 (Inclusive)

1 January 1951

On 1 January the RCT remained in position and prepared for the Command Inspection by General Almond, X Corps Commander on 2 January. Also on this day a TACP and the 2d Ranger Company was attached to the RCT.

2 January 1951

General Almond began his inspection at 0900 hours, 2 January. The Battalions were formed in columns of companies with complete orginisational and individual equipment displayed. General Almond inspected the 1st Battalion and Special Units, who were combined, and then proceeded on to the 2d and 3d Battalions. General Almond seemed very pleased with the status of equipment and personnel of the RCT.

Operations Order Number 31 was formulated and published on this day for movement of the RCT to the Tanyang area. It stated that the 7th Division was to move without delay to the Tanyang-Wonju area to block an enemy threat from the Northeast and further movement to the vicinity of Monhyon. The 3d Battalion was to move by motor first.

3 January 1951

On 3 January, preparations for the move to Tanyang continued with the 3d Battalion moving from its area at 1230 hours. The Advance Party had left at 0630 hours but was delayed at Punggi at 1700 hours because of an enemy road block in the Tanyang Pass.

4 January 1951

On 4 January the road block at the Tanyang Pass had been cleared but it caused a change in the mission of the RCT. It was vitally necessary to keep the pass open to enable supplies and equipment to move up the X Corps MSR to Chechon and Wonju. The RCT was ordered to secure the Tanyang area and the X Corps MSR.

The Special Units departed from Hayang enroute to Tanyang at 1030 hours. It was joined by the 48th FA Battalion (-) and the 15th AAA Battalion (-) at Sinyang. The convoy was met enroute by the I&R Platoon and was guided to an assembly area at Angchon. The 1st Battalion, 2d Battalion, Tank Company and Service Company remained in position at Hayang.

5 January 1951

At 0500, 5 January, the Command Group and Special Units left Anchon-Dong and closed into the Tanyang area at 1600 hours.

The 2d Battalion was enroute to Tanyang by motor and rail while the 1st Battalion, Service and Tank Companies remained in position.

6 January 1951

On 6 January, the remaining units of the RCT were moving to the Tanyang area.

To give the RCT more fighting men to defend the Tanyang area, General Hodes attached to the RCT the 1st Battalion, 17th Infantry, Benedae Force (Rice's Raiders), 185th and 101st ROK Engineer Battalions.

7 January 1951

The main event of 7 January 1951, was the attack of North Korean guerrillas on Tanyang. At 2345, 6 January, 20 unindentified Koreans approached Road Block "A". The Rangers fired on them and they dispersed. Then at 0530 small arms and automatic weapons fire started in the South part of Tanyang and shortly after fighting had broken out all over town.

In this fight 47 men from the Benedae Force was killed and seven Americans were captured. The attack appeared to have been centered on the Police Compound in which the Benedae Force was billeted.

Operations Order # 33 detached the 1st Battalion, 17th Infantry, Benedae Force and the ROK Engineers but the mission of the RCT remained the same.

8 January 1951

The 1st Battalion arrived at the Tanyang RTO by troop train and closed into its assembly area at 1035. The rest of the day was spent in organizing positions and in carrying out the mission assigned by Operations Order # 33.

The 2d Battalion also prepared and improved positions in accordance to its assigned mission. Neither Battalions encountered any enemy activity during this period.

The 3d Battalion shifted the Company "K" platoon to more favorable positions Southwest of Sunbung. One section of tanks joined this platoon at 1330 hours.

A civilian report received by the 3d Battalion stated that 10 American prisoners were with 1,000 North Koreans at Songum-Ni (DB435805). These prisoners were dressed in shorts, had only one blanket and no shoes.

The Tanyang area was cleared of all civilian Koreans during this period. Refugees were stopped at roadblocks and sent to other areas. This action was to eliminate the danger of enemy infiltration. Anyone moving at night without clearence from Regiment would be considered enemy and shot.

9 January 1951

The only enemy contact made during this period was by the IAR Platoon. The Platoon engaged the enemy of unknown strength at (DB4000) at 1330 hours. Two of the enemy were killed and one light machine gun was captured.

Much enemy information was obtained through S-2 channels, mostly through civilian informers. 1000 North Koreans were reported in the vicinity of Miro-Ri (DB441802). Refugees reported that 2,000 NKPA left Kipungae (DB370160) headed for Tanyang armed with small arms, machine guns, light mortars and one weapon in an ox cart. They also had a radio.

10 January 1951

There was considerable enemy activity during this period. Enemy machine guns and small arms fired on the Security Platoon from DR395887 at 091920 hours. From 0530 to 0725 hours about 80 of the enemy attacked Todam-Ni (DR418945). The enemy fired on a train in the vicinity of Maepo-Ri (DR409969) at 0630. A train was derailed in the Maepo-Ri-Sansu-Ri tunnel at about that time. Small arms fire was observed near Kumi-Ri (DR365859). A Division Artillery Air Observer was fired on by about three companies of Infantry moving South at 1015 hours. The I&R Platoon exchanged long range fire with about 10-15 enemy at DR9640. Again at Pyongdong-Ni (DR375982), the I&R Platoon and Patrol "A" fired on 10-15 more of the enemy.

The relief of the 3d Battalion by the 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry was completed by 1200 hours. The Battalion moved by motor and by foot to (DR419920), closing at about 1900. These positions were North of the 2d Battalion positions.

Other units remained in position, guarded the MSR, guarded bridges and tunnels, and patrolled their zones.

Enemy units were moving South and surrounding the Tanyang area. A guerrilla force of from 1500-3000 was already in the area South of the Tanyang-Punggi road. The 10th North Korean Division was known to be approaching Tanyang from the Northeast. The 27th North Korean Regiment was reported to be in the vicinity of Pyongdong-Ni (DR375982).

Operations Order Number 34 was published at 1300 hours. This changed little except the mission of the 3d Battalion. In addition to blocking threats from the North and Northeast, securing the MSR and bridges in its zone, the 3d Battalion was to send Armored-Infantry patrols to contact the 17th Infantry twice daily. One platoon of tanks, one Heavy Mortar Platoon and Battery "C", 48th FA Battalion were attached to the 3d Battalion.

The 3d Battalion, reinforced by Battery "C", 48th FA Battalion, one Heavy Mortar Platoon, one Regimental Tank Platoon and one Section, Battery "B", 15 AAA Battalion, would attack at 110700 January, per Operations Order Number 35 issued at 2100 hours, and seize the high ground in the vicinity of Hasi-Ri (3999) and secure the MSR in its zone. The Line of Departure was to be the front lines of Companies "I" and "F". The direction of attack would be Northwest along the MSR and the frontage would include the high ground on both sides of the MSR.

If the 17th Infantry contact party had not arrived, the 3d Battalion was to continue the advance beyond Udong-Ni (DR407967). On seizure of the objective, the mission as directed by Operations Order Number 34 would be carried out.

11 January 1951

This period was a fairly active one for all three battalions. The 1st Battalion had several small incidents during the night and at 0945 fired artillery at about 200 enemy who were moving South at (DR3912). A motorized reconnaissance patrol was dispatched from the 1st Battalion to reconnoiter the road to Chungu.

This patrol engaged about 130 enemy in a fire fight near DB253881 at 1200 hours. The Regimental I&R Platoon was sent to their assistance. Task Force Wyllie, composed of one platoon from Company "A", two squads from the P & A Platoon and two tanks followed the I&R Platoon. This combination of forces drove out the enemy and these units returned to Tanyang at 1540.

In this action, two men from the 1st Battalion, and M/Sgt. Brown of the I&R Platoon were wounded. One tank was abandoned after having slid from the road into a gully. The road at the point of enemy contact had been mined with box mines laid on top of the road surface.

In the 2d Battalion's zone, Company "F" was moved to positions North of the Han River to cover the movement of the 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry which had been attached to the RCT and which was to move into positions on the MSR behind the 3d Battalion. Civilians reported to Roadblock # 5, manned by Company "G", that there was enemy movement to the Northeast.

1st Lt. Robert Tefft, 2d Battalion S-2, with a patrol of nine men from Company "G" investigated this report. They were fired on by the enemy in the village of Hyangson-Ni (483003). In this fire fight, Lt. Tefft and one EM were wounded. Six members of the patrol, including the wounded EM, returned to the Roadblock. From 100-300 of the enemy followed them back and forced the Roadblock to withdraw. This action took place from about 1200-1600 hours.

Company "G", reinforced by two tanks reestablished the Roadblock at Apdong-Ni and evacuated Lt. Tefft and the three EM who had remained with him. Lt. Tefft had been unable to move because of his wound. So the three EM had established a perimeter around him and had fought off the enemy until help arrived. They had killed 40 and were down to three rounds of ammunition per man when help arrived.

The 3d Battalion crossed the Line of Departure at 0700. Company "K" contacted a patrol from the 17th Infantry at 1100 hours at (DB385974) who reported no enemy contact. The Battalion closed into its objective area at Hasi-Ri (DB386956) at 1330 without having made enemy contact. Hill 496 (DB400005) had been assigned as an additional objective.

At 1630, Company "I" contacted about 500 enemy in the approach march formation near (DS405013). When fired upon, the enemy fled back to the North toward Chudong (DS413002). At this same time Company "I" received small arms and automatic weapons fire from hills located at (DB412999) and (DS413002). This engagement continued until 1800. Company "I" had one casualty.

The 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry passed through Company "F" at 1600 hours and arrived at its assigned positions at 1730.

12 January 1951

Because of the enemy action on the Tanyang-Chungu Road, Company "A", 31st Infantry was attached to the 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry and moved into positions on the high ground West of Tanyang. The 1st Battalion sent out reconnaissance patrols to the North, Northeast and East. Capt. Wyllie led a Combat Patrol consisting of Company "A", 32d Infantry, one platoon Engineers, two half-tracks, one section 75RR, and the Battalion

I&R Section back over the Chungu-Tanyang Road. Mines were removed at the point where the firefight had occurred yesterday. The patrol proceeded 17 miles to the West and returned to Tanyang without having located the enemy. Company "A", 32d Infantry moved to new positions located on the high ground at (DB419372).

Company "F" moved back from positions North of the Han River. Roadblock # 5, manned by Company "G" received an attack by an estimated 70 enemy at 0730. Company "G" dispersed them by fire, killing 10, wounding 3 and capturing 1. The POW indentified his unit as the 2d NK Division and said that this Division was assembling in the vicinity of (DB483003) with the mission of attacking Tanyang.

In the 3d Battalion area, one platoon of Company "I" was under small arms and automatic weapons firing during the morning from the hill at (DS410010). At 1600 hours the platoon attacked and drove the enemy from the hill, killing 11 and forcing about 75 to flee. The platoon had three men wounded.

Operations Order Number 36 was published at 1000 hours. This order was confirmation in writing of verbal orders issued previously. Operations Order Number 37 was issued at 1600 hours.

13 January 1951

The 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry returned to control of its parent orginisation but remained in the same positions and carried out the same mission.

Effective 1700 hours the 3d Battalion was attached to the 31st Infantry for operations.

In the 2d Battalion area from 1000 to 2000 enemy troops were observed moving around the right flank and the rear of the Battalion positions at 0830. Six Air strikes were made on this force and artillery fires were used with excellent results. Company "F" was moved into blocking positions behind Company "F".

The 1st Battalion, minus Company "C", with the 2d Ranger Company attached, moved from its positions and launched an attack to the Northeast at 1300 hours. The Battalion seized the ridge line to contain the evelopment by the enemy of the 2d Battalion. The Battalion had reached its objective by 1800 without engaging the enemy. Due to the rough terrain over which the Battalion had traveled, all supplies had to be hand-carried forward. Arrangements were made for a battalion of ROK's to assist in carrying supplies to the 1st Battalion.

Operations Order Number 38 was published at 1800 hours. By this order the 1st Battalion would continue to attack to the Northeast. The 2d Battalion would continue its present mission and assist the advance of the 1st Battalion as requested by CO 1st Battalion. The 3d Battalion was attached to the 31st Infantry. Company "C" would remain in position and defend its sector of Tanyang.

The Regimental Tank Company, which had now closed in all its tanks over the Tanyang pass, would attach one platoon and one section to the 3d Battalion, and the company coordinated with Company "B", 13th Engineers for defense of the Tanyang area.

The 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry was Regimental Reserve. It was to prepare blocking positions North of the Tanyang RTO at (DR401677); prepare counterattack plans to eleminate penetrations in either the 1st or 2d Battalions zone; and prepare plans for possible committment Northwest of the 1st Battalion zone.

Company "B", 13th Engineers would be prepared to occupy defense positions in Tanyang and prepare counterattack plans to restore the Tanyang perimeter.

14 January 1951

The 1st Battalion moved out in the attack to the Northeast as directed by Operations Order # 38. By 1100 hours the Battalion had advanced to a point 300 yards Northeast of Major-Ri (DR4688). Here the Battalion encountered an estimated enemy regiment dug in on Hills 689 and 674 and received small arms and automatic weapons fire. In attacking the enemy positions, the Battalion suffered heavy casualties, particularly Company "B" and the 2d Ranger Company. The ROK's who had been used as carrying parties, were used to help fight the enemy.

At 1500 hours the Battalion disengaged and withdrew to the vicinity of (DR444885) and (DR456770). The exact number of casualties suffered had not been determined at the close of this period. 50 were estimated. Captain Nigette, CO, Company "B" was known to have been killed; Captain Wyllie and Lt. Maybee, S-2, were wounded.

The 2d Battalion saw considerable action. A platoon of Company "F" was attacked by 50 enemy at 0430 hours at (DR464925). Artillery fire was placed on the enemy who withdrew after receiving heavy casualties. A patrol from Company "F" consisting of seven men and two tanks was sent out at 0900 to clear the town of Chung-Ni (DR969426). At 1230 hours, the patrol was pinned down on the outskirts of Chung-Ni by heavy fire and the two tanks withdrew leaving the seven men behind. Captain Tatum, Captain Burke, and Lt. Verobey took a platoon from Company "F" and two tanks and went back to rescue the seven men.

This patrol was engaged by the enemy from the high ground surrounding Chung-Ni. In the fight Captain Burke, Company "M" commander and Lt. Verobey, Tank Company commander were killed. Captain Tatum, Company "F" commander was wounded. Seven other men were known to have been killed. At 1540 hours, Company "L", 31st Infantry, was moved by trucks from the Tanyang RJD to the vicinity of (DR466924) to assist in this action at Chung-Ni. Company "L" remained attached to Company "F" during the remainder of this period.

The 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry in position near the Tanyang RTO, was attacked by 60-70 enemy in Company "I" positions at 0530. They killed 5, wounded 2 and had 8 casualties of their own.

The 2d Battalion, 31st Infantry continued to defend Tanyang and issued Operations Order # 9 to its units. Company "A", 31st Infantry was released to its parent organization at 1400 hours.

Operations Order # 39 was published at 2200 hours. The 32d RCT (reinforced) would continue the same mission. Changes in instructions were to the 1st and 2d Battalions. The 1st Battalion was directed to defend its assigned sector, patrol aggressively and to prepare for future operations. The 2d Battalion was withdrawn to positions abreast of the 1st Battalion, was directed to block the enemy threat, patrol its zone, and to prepare for future operations. Company "C", 32d Infantry, with the Regimental Tank Company (-) attached, became Regimental Reserve.

15 January 1951

The 1st Battalion was attacked by the enemy at 0930 hours in the vicinity of DR4588. The attack was repulsed and 60 of the enemy were killed. The 2d Battalion, 31st Infantry, observed a large concentration of the enemy at DR3790, at 1600 hours. Air strikes and artillery concentrations were placed on this concentration of troops.

The 2d Battalion closed in its new positions at 1000 and made contact with the 2d Ranger Company on the right. Troops improved positions throughout the period. No enemy contact was made.

The 3d Battalion returned to RCT control at 1000 hours. It was given the mission of relieving the 1st Battalion and assuming the same mission. The Battalion closed out at Hasi-Ri at 1000 and left by motor, closing into an assembly area at DR434847 at 1345. The Battahion then marched by foot to the objective area and completed the relief of the 1st Battalion at 1745. Battery "C", 48th FA Battalion, Tank Platoon and the section of M 16 AAA guns were released from attachment at 1300.

The 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry was released to the 31st Infantry at 1000 hours. Company "C", 32d Infantry was returned to the 1st Battalion at 1400 hours. The 2d Ranger Company remained attached to the 1st Battalion.

Operations Order Number 40 was published at 2100 hours. Generally the mission of subordinate units remained unchanged. The 1st Battalion became Regimental Reserve and the 3d Battalion assumed the mission of the 1st Battalion.

Pfc. Richard H. Barnes was awarded a Bronze Star Medal by General Orders Number 4, Headquarters 7th Division. Special Orders Number 11, Headquarters, 32d Infantry reassigned 1st Lt. Harold L. Gates from Company "F" to Company "G" and 1st Lt. Thomas P. Sheely from Company "G" to Company "F". These orders also awarded the Combat Medical Badge to four EM of the 2d Ranger Company and the Combat Infantry Badge to five officers and 108 EM of the 2d Ranger Company.

16 January 1951

The enemy build-up apparently continued throughout this period although the enemy took no aggressive action against units of the RCT. The 6th and 4th Regiments of the 2d North Korean Division probably remained in the vicinity of DR4690 with elements of the 4th Regiment located at DR4576. The 10th North Korean Division was reported to be in the vicinity of Chokseng-Ni DR3970.

There was no change in the mission of units during this period. The 2d Battalion, 31st Infantry, changed with the responsibility of the defense of Tanyang, issued Operations Order Number 10. By this order the 2d Ranger Company became Battalion Reserve.

Operations Order Number 41 was published at 0400 hours. This order was issued verbally to commanders the preceeding evening and was now confirmed in writing. The mission of the RCT was to attack to the Northeast in a column of battalions to eliminate the enemy resistance in its zone.

The 2d Battalion was to launch the attack beginning at 1100 hours, seize Objectives # 1 and # 2 and be prepared to continue the attack on order. It was to establish Roadblock # 2 and 3 and be prepared to establish contact with the 17th Infantry at DR471989.

The 3d Battalion, less one Company, was relieved of its present mission at 0800 and was to move to an assembly area at DR418918 and be prepared to pass through or to secure the right flank of the 2d Battalion. One company was to establish Roadblock # 4. The battalion was to relieve the 2d Battalion of Roadblock # 2 as soon as possible.

The 1st Battalion remained as Regimental Reserve, prepared to attack in the RCT's zone on order. The 2d Ranger Company was to remain in position prepared to become Regimental Reserve.

In the day's operations, the 1st Battalion cleared its zone of the enemy, killing five near Monjon-Ri. The 2d Battalion attacked to the Northeast at 1100 hours in a column of companies, secured Objectives # 1 and # 2 and established Roadblock # 3. No enemy resistance was encountered. The Battalion contacted a patrol from the 17th Infantry at the contact point at 0945.

The 3d Battalion began moving by foot to the Battalion Rear CP at 0800 hours. Companies "I" and "L" moved by motor to the assembly area at DR418918 at 1330. A platoon of Company "L" relieved the 2d Battalion of Roadblock # 2 at 1430. The Battalion, minus Company "K" was closed in the assembly area at 1500.

A patrol from Company "K" rescued a soldier from the 2d Ranger Company and one ROK in Majo-Ri. The 3d Battalion recovered nine bodies at DR461921. These were members of the 2d Battalion who had been killed in that area on 14 January. The bodies had been mutilated and there were indications that several had been beaten to death. Among those recovered were the bodies of Captain Burke ad Ltt Verobey.

Operations Order Number 42 was published at 2000 hours. The 2d Battalion was to continue the attack at 0900 and be prepared to link up with the 17th Infantry at the contact point on order. The 3d Battalion would continue its present mission, relieve the 2d Battalion of Roadblock # 3, establish Roadblock # 5 and continue to maintain Roadblock # 2. The mission of other units did not change.

Bolt of the Tank Company received an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal by General Order Number 6, Headquarters 7th Division.

18 January 1951

During this period, the 1st Battalion remained in position and patrolled its zone. No enemy contacts were made. Lt. Colonel William N. Quinn, Battalion Commander, was evacuated to Japan through medical channels. Lt. Colonel Gillis became the new Battalion CO.

The 2d Battalion attached to the Northeast at 0900 in a column of companies and moved to positions at DR480948 without meeting the enemy. A Tank-Infantry patrol contacted the 17th Infantry in the vicinity of DR471488 at 1100 hours. A roadblock was established at DR477939.

The 3d Battalion (-) remained in the assembly area. Company "I" relieved the 2d Battalion of Roadblock # 3, at 1000 hours and established Roadblock # 5. Company "K" was relieved of Roadblock # 4 by the 187th RCT at 1300 hours and rejoined the Battalion in the assembly area at 1515.

Instructions for operations of units on 19 January were issued at 1800 hours in Operations Order # 43. The mission of the RCT was to attack to the Southeast, destroy the enemy in the zone, and all his supplies and possible shelters. The 1st, 2d and 3d Battalions were to remain in blocking positions and to proceed to send out task forces to accomplish the mission. All task forces were to return to their base of operations before darkness. For all other units there was no change in missions.

The 1st, 2d and 3d Battalions moved out during this perio d to accomplish the mission of destroying the enemy and applying the "scorched earth policy."

The 1st Battalion Task Force killed seven enemy near Majo-Ri DR460882 and recovered 20 American bodies and some equipment. An unkno n number of enemy were engaged between DR486912 and DR492910 at 1650 hours.

The 2d Battalion attaked to the Southeast at 0845. All units remained in position, improved blocking positions, utilizing time during this period for care and cleaning of equipment and rehabilitation of the troops.

The I&R Platoon contacted Company "E", 17th Infantry at 1045 hours in the vicinity of DS496018. This platoon contacted an unknown number of the enemy armed with small arms at Kun-Gwon-Mori DS5002 at 1020. The enemy appeared to be regulars and the number of casualties inflicted on them was unknown.

The I&R Platoon also observed a trench dug all around the mountain North of Kun-Gwon-Mori and entrenchments were seen between that village and Kaedae-Ri DR4799. They observed many stretchers along the road with much blod on them.

21 January 1951

Units remained in place during this period, improved positions and test fired weapons. A school was conducted by the Regimental S-3 on the employment of the M-1 rifle grenade launcher firing white phosphorus greandes.

For planning purposes, Operations Plan # 1-51 was published at 1400 hours. This was based on the assumption that the 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry would move from the vicinity of Maepori DR409965 to the zone of RCT 31. The 32d Infantry would continue its present mission of securing Tanyang and the MSR in its zone, patrol actively, and would seek out and destroy the enemy in its zone.

The 2d Battalion would then block the enemy threat from the North and Northeast; secure the 31st Infantry MSR from Kum-Dong DR436912 to the limiting point at DR480997; maintain Blocks # 3 4, 5 and 6; maintain contact with the 31st Infantry and maintain traffic control in its zone.

The 3d Battalion would assemble in the vicinity of Maepori DR409965; block the enemy threat from the North and North east; protect the MSR from the ferry site DR420921 to the limiting point of the 17th Infantry at DR384999; maintain contact with the 17th Infantry; and maintain blocks #8,9 and 10.

The 2d Battalion, 31st Infantry would continue its present mission as security for Tanyang. The 2d Ranger Company would be assigned missions by CO 32d Infantry.

1. ENEMY SITUATION AT END OF PERIOD:

a. Negative, out of contact.

b. Enemy operations during period:

(1) No enemy operations in Battalion Z/R during period.

c. Additional Information:

(1) The following report received from a civilian at 071100 January 1951. Civilian stated that he was captured by NK troops, on 3 January 1951, in vicinity of DR488844 and was taken to SADONG-NI (DR475775) where he escaped on 5 January 1951. He said that there were about 2,000 NK troops in SADONG-NI armed with rifles, MG and Heavy Mortars. They also have radio and telephone communications with other elements. The NK's had 3 American prisoners, whose outer clothes they had stripped leaving the prisoners in their underwear. While he was there the NK's killed one American POW but kept the other two prisoners. Above report substantiated by one received about the same time from the Chief of the Young Men's town Association of CHONGU-DONG (DR542803) whose report varies only to the extent of the number of NK troops which he placed at 200. This second informer also stated that the NK's were using two guards on each side of the pass in the vicinity of DR510775 and that 30 NK soldiers were stationed at intervals extending from DR510775 to DR510785. All the troops in this area were reported as being armed with rifles. Liaison plane flew over this area at 071400 January 1951 but failed to uncover evidence of above mentioned troops.

d. Friendly Patrols: (See Overlay for routes and composition).

Patrol "B" departed at 070750 and returned at 071200 proceeded along route to DR625895 where a group of men were spotted on the ridge line. Patrol leader discovered these were SK Police. Here the patrol met the District Police Chief who reported that he had the following Police under control:

50 at SUNHUNG DR625847
25 at OKTAE-RI DR658902
50 at SOCHON-NI DR695920
He reported his Police were armed with rifles, BARs, 30 Cal LMG and 60mm Mortars. Patrol reported location of one (1) 120mm Gun at DR614855 (120mm NK) with about 30 rounds of ammunition and one (1) 76mm NK Gun at DR628853 also with about 30 rounds ammunition. The Police Chief stated these Guns belonged to the SK Police at SUNHUNG. A later report also from SUNHUNG Police revealed these guns are not in operating condition. Further check to be made by later patrols. Patrol proceeded on to SOCHON-NI (DR695920) where the civilians and Police reported that there were about 40 NK in the vicinity of SOCHON-NI on 6 January 1951 but had left for parts unknown the afternoon of 6 January 1951. The patrol continued on to vicinity of DR698938. At this point the route narrowed down so as to be impassable to vehicles heavier than 1/4 ton trucks. They continued on to IMPONG-NI (DR692940) where the road narrowed down to a trail and is impassable to any type of vehicle. The route from starting point to DR698938 is passable to vehicles up to tanks with bridges suitable to support medium tanks.

THE ATTACK

In operations against 2d Infantry Division rifle companies, the Chinese did not attempt a general envelopment of a defensive perimeter at any stage. The focus of initial attack was usually the rear of the company perimeter. The full weight of the attack would fall on one platoon position, or occasionally two, particularly if they were closely joined. After breaking the perimeter, and consolidating the grou the enemy would then press on against the open flank of the next hill position. Thi is not an invariable, but rather a general pattern. In attacking Company F, 38th Infantry, all platoons were brought under heavy fire in an attack which persisted through the night. All of the defenders became close pressed within a two-hour per iod as the attack developed. However, the weapons platoon and CP, on the rear, wer not invested by enemy infantry, though hard hit by mortar and machine gun fire from the flanks.

The enemy did not attack in a long skirmish line, nor did he come on in successive waves against 2nd Divisions infantry company perimeters. About 60 to 70 skirmishers is the maximu which would be seen at any time in the attacking line Usually the group would be 30 to 40.

These men came forward standing straight, or sometimes in a crouch. Usually they advance at the walk or sometimes at a trot or run. But when stopped, they do not crawl or wiggle forward, taking advantage of accident in ground. When prone they move only sufficiently to find the first cover which will put them in defilade This is characteristic of their action in the night attack; there is no far reachi deployment of men covering, for example, an entire flank and rear of a platoon posit ion in the initial rush. The Chinese find what seems to be a favorable portal of e into the immediate positions; it may be a draw, or ravine or footpath; if the defen er is closed around high ground, the enemy will usually avoid the sharp hill facing and attack up the gentlest slopes. The first group moves straight up, sometimes in fairly well spaced skirmish line, sometimes in file column, sometimes in an uneven group.

They advance with marching fire, almost invariably, and irrespective of whether they are walking or running. This is the characteristic beginning of their fire engagement and usually precedes any fires with the machine gun or mortars. The marching fire, however, is erratic and ineffective. Our troops have taken few loss. and they say almost to a man that they do not find it demoralizing and it does not pin them to the point where it checks their return of fire. Their tactical object, in advancing thus seems to be to close within in-fighting distance so that they can build up the attack with hand grenades at close range while machine guns and mortars work over the defenders at ranges averaging between 50 and 800 yards. These assault waves seem never to attempt bodily to break into the American line until our forces have about exhausted their ammunition supply and show it by their fire rate. In fac there is not one single instance in which the enemy assault line came right on over the top, overwhelming so much of a platoon by storm and forcing the remnants to flee in terror. They do not crack positions by unusual valor or fanaticism, or by main weight quickly applied. They squeeze them by a gradual build-up of numbers and fire pressure, and by patiently waiting for them to disintegrate, as the defenders run ou of weapons, ammo and the men to use them.

As soon as their first skirmishers are engaged with fire (this usually occurs at less than 50 yards range) they go to ground. If the fire lifts temporarily, they will arise and come on until once more they are singed. There they flop again. But once they have committed themselves to an avenue of advance, they do not relinquish even though tactical developments would seem to make it unprofitable. They simply continue the build-up aching those who made the first rush. As they die or are woun ed others come forward to take their places, the burp gun, rifle and grenade are the wpns of this forward element. It never presents a very broad target to our automati fire power; 4 or 5 Chinese at a time are the most that a BAR or MR is likely to get. This latter weapon and the fragmentation grenade are the basic means for keeping it in check. Any kind of illumination put on the rear of these Chinese infighte works havoc upon them and forces a recoil, sometimes verging on near panic.

Restricted

Extracted

In daylight fighting, these tactical groups try to fight from rocks, or when forced from them, continue to engage by using underbrush, tree or similar cover. In attack at night, under a bright moon, they make utmost use of shadows cast by boulders, overhangs and ledges. Whatever would burn out their natural cover during daylight or put them under light at night would cut the effectiveness of these furtive tactics. 2nd Divisions Infantry used no flamethrowers in the attack and had no flares, starshells or other pyrotechnics. However, in three instances inadvertently our fire started conflagrations in the rear of the enemy assault line. The results were startlingly good; in one case the enemy quit attacking and fought the grass fire for 1 1/2 hours. Our MG's cut down scores of them in this interval.

Brought in check by our fire, the enemy assault line moves forward spasmodically as a temporary slowing or cessation of our fire, either because of casualties or for any other cause, such as ammo shortage or stoppage of a machine gun or BAR, affords opportunity. But they come with a rush, only when our forces have had to pull up st and yield the ground immediately in contest; the record of 2nd Infantry Division in battle north of Kunuri in this connection is most impressive; of the 16 infantry company actions which were checked in detail there is only one instance of a unit of platoon size yielding its ground for any reason other than exhaustion of ammo supply or a cause of similar nature. In the one exception, the platoon had no central leadership, did not reconsolidate its ground against the direction of the attack and was ripped apart and beaten back squad by squad. Even so, it evacuated its wounded and there were only 11 whole bodied men when the platoon at last withdrew. Company B, 9th Infantry Regiment, had a strength of 126 when engaged by a strong force of enemy at the base of hill 219 at 1400 on 25 November. Twenty five hours later it was still fighting and still holding its ground when ordered by regiment to withdraw. There remained only 34 able-bodied men in the position, some of whom were carrying grenade fragments. These are not notable exceptions. They are characteristic of 2nd Division's infantry reaction as a whole.

In the well-set local attack, the enemy seems frequently to prefer to move in first with grenadiers. On occasion, these files carry no other weapon. The grenades are carried in a pouch around the waist. They are used prolifically. In consequence as the supply becomes exhausted, our men see enemy pushing towards their lines seemingly empty-handed. Little rifle fire is used in support of the grenade attack, but a great deal of sub-machine gun fire. The men on these weapons move right up among the grenadiers. From farther back, machine guns (in numbers from 1 to 3 but not more than that in an attack on a company perimeter) are used to grass the high ground and other areas being defended. Percentage-wise, our heaviest losses appear to be due to the accuracy of the machine gun fire.

In the attack where, for any reason, enemy rifle groups form the initial wave, the intent appears to be to push grenadiers up through the riflemen as quickly as possible and at every opportunity, according to whether the lines have closed to within a distance which offers grenade prospects. Not all grenadiers are riflemen but most riflemen carry at least 5 grenades of the small potato-masher concussion type. (NOTE None of these CCF troops carried the bayonet.) All of their close-in tactics seem disposed to put final reliance on the grenade as the weapon which will force UN troops to vacate ground.

As to US Forces in particular, this form of attack, in itself, misses the mark, despite that CCF presses upon its people the belief that Americans are peculia vulnerable to grenade assault. Our troops who have been under steady attacks by grenades for hours at a stretch during the recent battle still express contempt for the weapon. Their attitude can be attributed to two main factors:

1. The Chinese are inept and weak-armed throwers.

2. The grenade itself has little lethal potential.

As to the first point, there are no conspicuous exceptions to be found in a review of more than a score of closely joined grenade actions. On level ground the maximum range attained by the CCF fighter, who uses an underhand looping throw, is between 20 to 25 yards. On an uphill throw, it is considerably less depending on the grade. In one action uphill, where the enemy was disposed less than 20 yards below our crest, their throwers tried for an hour to get a grenade over the embakment

In yet another fight, when engaging against 7 Americans, closely packed together, t got 50-60 grenades onto the small knoll within one and one-half hours. This was at about 25 yards range. About 30 or 40 of these grenades were thrown out or kicked o by our men. The others exploded within the position. Practically all hands receiv fragments. None was killed or even seriously wounded. In yet another platoon, abo 30 men were lightly wounded by grenade, without any man being so seriously hit that he had to leave the action. Wounds from the CCF grenade are commonplace in all the company fights; KIA's from the same cause are extremely rare. It seems to be the c that the body or head must be in almost direct contact with the grenade for a serio wounding to result from the explosion. Our troops have observed these affects and consequently the CCF grenade is not a demoralizer.

When our own grenade is in good supply during the defense, the CCF grenade att is invariably neutralized or driven off. This was rarely the case in the Kunuri actions. None of our infantry carried more than 2 grenades and some riflemen had none. In most instances, local re-supply was either impossible or most difficult after the fight was begun. But where grenades could be brought up, and the fight continued by the defenders with resolute use of this weapon, the enemy was held.

To keep grenade re-supply at maximum during engagement would seem to be a main object of the CCF infantry system. In all of the close encounters brought under study, there is not an instance of their tactical groups running out of grenades, except in chance meeting engagements by small groups, when the enemy was not prepare

On the other hand, when taken at close quarters, with full surprise, they are seemingly unable to make impromptu use of this valuable infighting weapon. There ar two examples of this, one occurring in 1st Bn, 23rd Inf at night, and the other in 2nd Bn, 9th Inf by day. 23-1 was in bivouac, and not set up for defense. After breaking into its position, numbers of the enemy sought ground cover within the camp and where they remained inert although armed with grenades and rifles. When 23rd formed a skirmish line and swept forward to eliminate these infiltrators with grenade and rifle fire, the enemy made no reply; not even one grenade was used by CCF in thi phase of the action. Similarly when one column of about 120 Chinese walked in broad daylight into a defile where they were covered by G Co, 9th Inf they did not use the grenades, though possessing it, and after an ineffective reply with rifles for a few minutes, they were all destroyed or made prisoners.

Only the small (potato masher) concussion grenade was used in any of these actions by CCF. If they have other types, they still were not used in the battle.

Averaging out these actions, it appears that the mean distance of which recognition occurred and our people in the infantry positions became certain they were dealing with CCF enemy was somewhere between 15 to 50 yards in night engagement, and between 50 to 200 yards in daylight. This was partly, but only partly, because of the method of the enemy approach in which fir is rarely used as a cover, or because of the normal difficulty of distinguishing friend from enemy.

Other factors limiting quick recognition at longer ranges were these:

1. Little use of flankers while on the march.
2. Insufficient interval between the point and the main body while in movement, particularly in the ascent to high ground.
3. Absence of outposts beyond the perimeter and at warning distance from the general body.
4. Lack of any devices such as trip wires, etc., which might facilitate warning and recognition.
5. Breakdown of lateral communications between company and company. The radio failing, companies did not then resort to runners to inform others of their situation. In consequence, companies with theoretically joined flanks would be totally surprised by the CCF attack one at a time, though their neighbor might have been heavily engaged for one and a half to three hours. The same condition obtained within the several platoons of a company perimeter.
6. The lack of strong and persistent patrolling.

In degree of effectiveness during the Kunuri battle, the CCF weapons used against our own infantry forces could be approximately evaluated as follows; in the basis of casualties suffered, effect on fighting morale and impairment of the general position.

Restricted

1. Machine gun, light.
2. Mortar, (usually 60mm).
3. Grenade.
4. Sub-machine gun, hand carried, usually a Thompson.
5. Rifle.

CCF's machine gun fire is almost universally accurate and persistent, and they will keep the gun firing until it is knocked out, pushing it forward to very short range as cover affords. There does not seem to be any surplus of these weapons; rarely are more than 2 guns used in attacking a company position. The main tactical object appears to be to deliver a pinning fire on the defender.

The mortar was not employed in batteries in the average situation. There were instances in which 2 or 3 mortars were used to affect a concentration but these were exceptions. Usually, CCF fired a single tube, and it was put to work only after the attack was well begun. Fire was of two main types; general area, and concentration against main installations, such as defending machine guns, mortar positions, CP's and supply points. Their area fire was not distressing and troops were not greatly harrassed by it. On the other hand, their mortar comes down so quickly and accurately on specific targets as to suggest that they are employing some method of rapid battlefield triangulation. The tactical situations in which this extreme accuracy was noted where such as to permit of on-the spot triangulation for the determination of range, though it may have been that they had occupied the ground and knew the range, and thus needed only to follow the flash.

As with their rifle fire, their burp gun fire during daylight skirmishing or in the night attack is not markedly accurate, and they tend to employ the sub-gun from too far back. However, CCF has an abundant supply of the Thompson, as judged by reports of its use in the Kunuri battle and of the numbers collected from their dead and prisoners.

CCF made limited use of the bazooka during the Kunuri battle, not against infantry positions as a rule but against the covering armor. In the few examples which occurred, they engaged our tanks at extremely close range (20-40 yds) and their marksmanship was excellent. In those situations in which CCF was engaged at favorable range by our tank fire, with their elements in full view, the enemy broke and fled. Whether FA fire would have the same effect is unascertainable, there being no examples where they were under close observation. This was not a situation in which FA could do its best work because the two sides were too closely joined.

In the general advance toward the area of engagement, CCF columns appear to advance by the easiest avenues of approach and the most negotiable avenues - the MSR's, the feeder roads, stream beds and valleys. While defending along the high ground, they do not come forward via the ridgelines in a general advance. The deployment of combat groups occurs as they bump against resistance. The groups then peel off one at a time until the tactical column has evaporated. The view is put forward tentatively that CCF's success in striking so many CP's, artillery positions and similar sensitive installations in our rear was fortuitous rather than the consequence of detailed reconnaissance and planning. Our structure tends to hug the arteries and intersections, and if they advance upon the natural route, they can scarcely miss.

At dawn CCF, in the opening stage of the Kunuri battle, sought to disengage where this was possible. Following disengagement, at about 0700, these troops habitually mess, feeding most times from a common kettle. Concurrently, litter parties, sometimes covered by rifle groups, are sent forth to collect the wounded and bring in the dead. First aid stations operate at the assembly point where the men are feeding. The dead are given a superficial burial nearby. It seems that during this interval CCF takes few, if any, security precautions close in. The troops generally are in a relaxed attitude, and when encountered by any of our forces are not disposed to mix it.

During the Kunuri battle, our average infantryman carried around 90 to 120 rounds for the carbine, 2 bandeliers and full belt for the M1 and between 0 and 2 grenades. Few companies carried rations forward on the man. In most companies, sleeping bags were man-carried as well as light packs. With these loads, tactical disunity set in because of straggling, if the march was in excess of 3 1/2 airline miles, which would be roughly equivalent to perhaps 7 miles overland, considering the nature of the country.

During the action, particularly at night, the reloading of carbine magazines and M1 clips was a problem of some magnitude. There was in most cases an over expenditure of automatic ammo in the first stage of engagement in most companies, despite a dearth of visible targets. On the other hand, good conservation of grenades was marked in all companies, possibly because of short supply, and certain companies were conspicuously successful in getting the fire to hold bullet fire until the crisis occurred in which good targets could be seen. In the average situation during the hill top fights, automatic fire could do little to hold back or destroy enemy skirmishers, after they had closed right on the position. The CCF merely used rock and ledge cover. To get at them, the firer had to risk undue exposure against the skyline. Even so, it is remarkable that in numerous of these situations intrepid use of the BAR became the pivotal factor in the defense. After the enemy had closed and taken cover, the grenade became the most valuable weapon in the close in fighting. But because of short supply, automatic fire was also further expended on targets in the main unprofitable, thus further depleting the power of the defender largely in this manner, as casualties mounted, possibilities of continued resistance became exhausted. Nearly every position was empty of grenades before the action was two-thirds complete. In the semi-final stand of B Company, 9th Infantry, there was a note worthy scene in which part of one platoon, led by the CO, stood up in the morning light and grenaded the Chinese with rocks and potatoes so that the others could withdraw to new ground. As indicating the gravity of the immediate situation 5 of their number were KIA and two wounded at this juncture.

In four other episodes, when fighting supply dried up, our men engaged CCF with their fists and rifle butts, as the enemy closed in. The Chinese do not show well when met on these terms.

CCF fired no artillery anywhere along the Kunuri front. One new weapon made one brief appearance - a small rocket, not of the bazooka type. It was used against B Company, of the 9th Infantry, and skidded off their positions, exploding into the embankment beyond them with a quite moderate bang.

Various kinds of trouble were reported by men armed with the carbines, misfires, jamming, sluggish response of the weapon, etc. Some part of this has been traced to insufficient maintenance, principally lack of lubrication because of shortage of oil within the unit. However, it is indicated that in cold weather the weapon sometimes has to be warmed up before it will fire automatic, this being due to the hardening of the oil by the cold. Fifteen or so rounds fired single shot will usually get it going again. Performance by the men of the infantry limit...

Likewise, the survey shows that those companies which make a practice of testing their weapons and inspecting their pieces prior to possible engagement have the best record of a successful weapons operation during battle.

It is indicated that any condition of unusual precipitation and freezing requires special care about oiling, if weapons failures are to be kept minimal. One BAR gunner in Company A, 23d Infantry, finding his weapon locked with ice during a surprise encounter with the enemy, urinated on it and freed it. Although this is not recommended procedure, it is not contrary to the rules of war and may at times be useful.

Section I

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named officers and enlisted men:

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRANK J. WALTON, O-1295302, Infantry, United States Army, while commanding Company C, 17th Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action near Seoul, Korea, on 30 September 1950. On this date, Lieutenant Walton was leading his company in a frontal assault on superior enemy forces well entrenched on high ground approximately three hundred yards distance. After the company had advanced over several rice paddies to a position from which the assault against its objectives were possible, it came under intense automatic weapons fire from the high ground. Without regard for his personal safety, Lieutenant Walton thereupon fearlessly proceeded forward in plain view of the enemy across the open rice paddies to friendly supporting tanks on his left flank and directed their fire on the enemy. When the enemy weapons had been effectively neutralized he returned to his company and personally led it up the hill in a final successful assault against the enemy. As a result of his heroic actions, the enemy were driven from their positions with over four hundred casualties. Lieutenant Walton's courageous leadership on this occasion was an inspiration to his men and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New Jersey.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRANCIS T. YOUNG, O-1186527, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of the 48th Field Artillery Battalion, attached to Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action during an attack by the enemy near Pyongjomgo-ri, Korea, on the night of 26 September 1950 and the morning of 27 September 1950. At this time, Lieutenant Young voluntarily established an outpost in an exposed position in order to direct artillery fire. Without regard for his personal safety, Lieutenant Young, while thus exposed to enemy small arms fire, continued to direct artillery fire until the enemy counter-attack could be broken up and the enemy dispersed. The actions of Lieutenant Young on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New Jersey.

SECOND LIEUTENANT GEORGE S. OLIVER, O-62336, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, while serving as an assistant platoon leader of Company A, 13th Engineer (Combat) Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy at Sadongguri, Korea, on 19 November 1950. On this date, as Lieutenant Oliver's platoon was attached to the 17th Regimental Combat Team, he went forward with advance elements to reconnoiter a damaged bridge commanding the entrance to Kapsan. As his group approached the bridge a fire fight was in progress between an advance column and approximately seventy-five defending enemy troops. Realizing that he was in an excellent position for cross fire on the enemy, Lieutenant Oliver voluntarily boarded a tank, crossed a river, and courageously joined the first infantry assault squad in attacking and driving the numerically superior enemy force from their well fortified positions. In this action, four of the enemy were killed, fifteen captured, and a large number wounded.

By his daring action, Lieutenant Oliver materially assisted in dislodging the enemy from positions blocking our entrance to Kapsan and contributed to the swift accomplishment of the regimental combat team's mission. His display of initiative and courage on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Texas.

SECOND LIEUTENANT KARL F. STARK, O-60929, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, while serving as a platoon leader of Company A, 13th Engineer (Combat) Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy at Sadong-guri, Korea, on 19 November 1950. On this date, Lieutenant Stark's platoon was attached to the 17th Regimental Combat Team and was moving with the lead battalion in an advance on Kapsan. Anticipating a major repair job on a damaged bridge ahead, Lieutenant Stark with three other engineer personnel was at the head of the column when it became engaged in a fire fight with approximately seventy-five enemy troops defending the bridge. While the firing continued, Lieutenant Stark moved forward to the bridge to make his reconnaissance. While at this site, he observed that he had placed himself in an excellent position for cross fire on the enemy positions and he immediately ordered his group to open fire on the enemy in order to hold them in their positions. Shortly thereafter an infantry squad mounted on a tank approached the river and Lieutenant Stark voluntarily rode the lead tank across the river, dismounted, and in the face of close range armed fire from the enemy, led the assault up the hill on which the enemy were well entrenched in front of the infantry squad. Inspired by his daring example, the engineers and infantry overran the strong enemy entrenchments, killing four, capturing fifteen, and wounding a considerable number of the enemy with no loss to themselves. Lieutenant Stark's action in voluntarily joining the assaulting unit quickened the end of the engagement and materially assisted in overpowering the enemy positions blocking entrance to Kapsan. His heroic actions on this occasion reflect great credit on himself, the Engineers, and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Alabama.

MASTER SERGEANT WALTER R. REAGAN, RA 6 258 018, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery B, 49th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action near Pungsan, Korea, on 1 November 1950. On this date, the 49th Field Artillery Battalion was delivering supporting fire on strong enemy positions then under attack by elements of the 17th Infantry. During the course of this action a numerically superior enemy force supported by an intense barrage of automatic weapons and light artillery fire succeeded in launching a counter-attack which penetrated to a point almost under the guns of Battery B. At the same time, the battery position was placed under the fire of several enemy strong points firing from almost minimum range. Realizing that the battery position was in danger of being overrun, Sergeant Reagan voluntarily organized a gun crew and led it to a howitzer where, with a rare display of inspirational leadership, he directed the crew in firing a withering barrage of white phosphorous ammunition into the advancing enemy. His great courage and outstanding skill were materially responsible for the destruction of several enemy strong points, and the forcing of the enemy to withdraw its remaining supporting weapons. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Reagan on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Oklahoma.

MASTER SERGEANT WILLIAM E. TEMPLIN, RA 6 390 300, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company M, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy at Yong-Song-Myoung, Korea, on 26 November 1950.

On this date, Sergeant Templin was in charge of a machine gun section attached to a task force from the 3d Battalion, 32d Infantry, whose mission was to advance to the Yalu River bordering Korea and Manchuria. During the approach march the task force was suddenly ambushed on the road by an enemy force of approximately eighty to one hundred enemy situated in well concealed positions. Immediately realizing the precautious position of the task force, Sergeant Templin set up his heavy machine gun and opened fire on the enemy. Controlling this fire, Sergeant Templin then personally took a light machine gun, advanced from the relative safety of the road bed toward the enemy, and with complete disregard for his own safety, placed effective fire on the ambushers from high ground. As a result of these actions the task force was able to regroup, evacuate its wounded, and continue on its mission. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Templin on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Georgia.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS EDLUND LILLY, RA 35 770 166, Infantry, United States Army, while serving with Company G, 31st Infantry, near Pyongjang-Ni, Korea, on 24 September 1950, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy of the United States. On this date, Sergeant Lilly's patrol was pinned down by heavy rifle and mortar fire near Pyongjang-Ni. Realizing the seriousness of the situation and without regard for his own personal safety, Sergeant Lilly moved across approximately eight hundred yards of rice paddies while exposed to enemy fire to where several friendly tanks were located and directed their fire on the enemy. Through his efforts the enemy was forced to abandon his positions and the patrol was able to continue its mission. Sergeant Lilly's fearless leadership and courage on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Kentucky.

SERGEANT FRANK V. ARNIERI, RA 13 282 478, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery B, 49th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action near Pungsan, Korea, on 1 November 1950. On this date, Sergeant Arnieri was gun commander of the 1st Howitzer Section of Battery B, then in support of elements of the 17th Infantry engaged in attacking high ground to the northwest of the Town of Pungsan. During this action a strong force of enemy troops launched a vicious counter-attack in an attempt to retake the town. Their forward movement brought them to a point almost under the guns of the battery, and at the same time an intense barrage of enemy machine gun and small arms fire began to fall on Sergeant Arnieri's howitzer position, placing it in danger of being overrun. Demonstrating outstanding courage and initiative, Sergeant Arnieri kept the members of his section at their posts and proceeded to engage the enemy positions with direct fire from his gun. The deadly howitzer fire delivered during the subsequent period was instrumental in destroying the enemy positions, and forcing the enemy to withdraw other automatic weapons supporting his attack. The inspirational bravery displayed by Sergeant Arnieri on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Pennsylvania.

SERGEANT KENWARD P. HEBERT, RA 18 281 486, Medical Service Corps, United States Army, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 7th Medical Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Onchon-Ni, Korea, on 9 October 1950. On this date, the 7th Medical Battalion was a component part of the 7th Infantry Division Convoy moving from Anyang-ni to Pusan. The convoy was halted by heavy enemy fire and a number of men were killed and wounded. Without regard for his own personal safety and displaying extreme

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.--By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men

CORPORAL WILLIAM C. WOOD, RA 16 285 047, Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery B, 49th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action near Pungsan, Korea, on 1 November 1950. On this date, Battery B was engaged in supporting elements of the 17th Infantry then engaged in attacking hostile positions to the northwest of Pungsan. During the firing, a strong force of enemy troops launched a vicious counterattack which succeeded in penetrating our lines to a point almost under the guns of Battery B. Realizing that the battery position was in imminent danger of being overrun, Corporal Wood moved across exposed terrain under an intense barrage of automatic weapons and mortar fire, and mounted a vehicle on which was installed a .50 caliber machine gun. With utter disregard for his own safety, and with enemy fire falling all around him, Corporal Wood manned the machine gun and directed a constant stream of fire into the face of the attacking force. His outstanding courage and daring were materially responsible for the ultimate disorganization and repulse of the enemy troops. The heroism of Corporal Wood on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Wisconsin.

CORPORAL DAVID H. WUSTRACK, RA 16 320 280, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, while serving with Company A, 13th Engineer (Combat) Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action at Sadongguri, Korea, on 19 November 1950. On this date, Corporal Wustrack's platoon was accompanying lead elements of the 17th Regimental Combat Team advancing on Kapsan. While following his platoon leader on reconnaissance mission to a damaged bridge under fire by the enemy and defended by approximately seventy-five well entrenched enemy troops, Corporal Wustrack voluntarily joined the three other members of the engineer reconnaissance group and a squad of infantrymen in crossing the river and assaulting the enemy positions. In large part as a result of this courageous action by the engineers and Corporal Wustrack the enemy was forced to withdraw and entrance to Kapsan was greatly facilitated. The heroic action displayed by Corporal Wustrack on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Wisconsin.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS RICHARD H. BARNES, RA 15 417 623, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company D, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action at Seoul, Korea, on 25 September 1950. On this date, Private Barnes was serving as a radio operator as his battalion was advancing to positions on high ground near Seoul when his radio went dead. In order to maintain support of the battalion by mortar fire, Private Barnes voluntarily exposed himself to continuous machine gun and sniper fire to lay a wire line from the 81-mm mortar batteries, approximately two miles through the City of Seoul, to the battalion forward observation post. Private Barnes then carried a wounded man back to safety from under intense small arms fire. The action on the part of Private Barnes was successful in re-establishing communications and enabled the battalion mortar section to direct accurate fire in support of the battalion troops in accomplishing their mission. The initiative and courageous action displayed by Private Barnes on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Indiana.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS BOBBY J. BEARD, RA 14 355 159, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery B, 49th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action near Pungsan, Korea, on 1 November 1950. On this date, Battery B was performing the mission of delivering supporting fires on hostile enemy positions then under attack by elements of the 17th Infantry. During the engagement, a strong enemy force succeeded in driving a wedge into our lines and penetrating to a point less than four hundred yards from the guns of Battery B. Realizing that the battery position was in danger of being overrun, Private Beard advanced across exposed terrain under a heavy barrage of automatic weapons and light artillery fire and succeeded in manning a machine gun position on the outer edge of the perimeter. With almost no cover and under continuous enemy observation and fire, Private Beard delivered an accurate and intense stream of fire into the attacking troops. His outstanding courage and utter disregard for his own personal safety in this action were responsible for the ultimate repulsion of the enemy forces, and permitted a successful counterattack to be launched by our troops. The heroism and selfless devotion to duty displayed by Private Beard on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Georgia.

During this advance the task force was suddenly ambus ed by an enemy force numbering from eighty to one hundred troops who laid dow heavy small arms, automatic weapons, and 45 mm anti-tank fire from well prepare emplacements fifty to five hundred yards distant. Completely unmindful of his safety, Private Leonard disregarded the intense concentration of rifle and mach gun fire on his position, and with the assistance of his platoon sergeant, mann the heavy machine gun on the trailer of his jeep, covering the withdrawal of th riflemen in the task force from the ambushed area with a heavy volume of fire. AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944. (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS JIMMIE H. MCKAY, RA 18 338 931, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery B, 49th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action near Pungsan, Korea, on 1 November 1950. On this date, Private McKay was assigned as an ammunition bearer to the 1st howitzer section of Battery B, then performing the mission of delivering supporting fire on an enemy position under attack by elements of the 17th Infantry. During this action the enemy launched a strong counterattack in an all out effort to retake the Town of Pungsan, and had succeeded in making a penetration to within less than four hundred yards from the artillery positions. Even though he realized that the gun positions were in imminent danger of being overrun, Private McKay displayed rare courage and complete disregard for his own personal safety by hand-carrying vitally needed ammunition through an intense barrage of automatic weapons and mortar fire then sweeping the position. The ammunition carried by Private McKay was instrumental in permitting the other members of his gun crew to fire a deadly concentration of white phosphorous shells into the attacking enemy troops forcing them to withdraw. The heroism displayed by Private McKay on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Texas.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS JULIUS TALVACHIO, RA 28 872 201, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action near Ungi-Myon, Korea, on 8 November 1950. On this date, Company I was acting as advance guard for the 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry, in an approach march. As the advance guard moved through a narrow defile, it encountered an estimated five hundred enemy infantry, concealed in well fortified defensive positions. This enemy opened fire with machine guns, small arms, and mortars, at ranges of from fifty to five hundred yards. This intensive fire from a well entrenched enemy on commanding ground cut the advance guard in two, isolating Private Talvachio and thirteen others from the remainder of the advance guard. Private Talvachio's heroic action and aggressive movement in the face of superior numbers and heavily concentrated fire was an inspiration to his comrades and contributed materially in the turning back of the enemy's flank by this small force, thus enabling the 3d battalion to continue its attack and rout the enemy. Private Talvachio's aggressive action on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Pennsylvania.

Section II

AWARD OF THE FIRST BRONZE OAK LEAF CLUSTER TO THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the first Bronze Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal with "V"

device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

MASTER SERGEANT CECIL O. BOLT, RA 6 393 029, Armor, United States Army, while a member of Tank Company, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action at Seoul, Korea, on 27 September 1950. On this date, Sergeant Bolt's unit was supporting the 32d Infantry in its advance to Seoul. Sergeant Bolt noticed that one of his tanks had been disabled by enemy action. With utter disregard for his own personal safety, he went to the aid of the tank, quickly repairing a broken driving sprocket, thus enabling the tank to continue its mission. During this entire action, Sergeant Bolt was subjected to heavy mortar and small arms fire from the enemy. Sergeant Bolt's aggressive and heroic action on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of South Carolina.

MASTER SERGEANT BRADLEY F. JONES, RA 6 398 896, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery B, 49th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action near Pungsan, Korea, on 1 November 1950. On this date, Battery B was engaged in delivering support fire on strong enemy positions then under attack by elements of the 17th Infantry. During the course of this action, a powerful enemy force supported by automatic weapons and light artillery fire launched a vicious counterattack in an attempt to retake the commanding ground overlooking the Town of Pungsan. The ferocity of this attack brought the enemy forces to a position less than four hundred yards from the guns of Battery B and at the same time the battery positions were subjected to intense barrages of automatic weapons fire. Realizing that the position was in danger of being overrun, Sergeant Jones displayed dauntless courage in voluntarily organizing a group of men and leading them to a nearby howitzer, where, through his uncanny leadership, he directed the crew in firing a withering barrage of white phosphorous thereby scoring direct hits on three seperate enemy strong points. His inspirational bravery and outstanding skill materially contributed to the ultimate forced withdrawal of the enemy forces, and the stabilization of our lines. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Jones on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of South Carolina.

PERIOD COVERED: 231800 Jan 51 to 241800 Jan 51

MAPS: Korea, 1:50,000 Sheets 6824I, II 6825 I

1. ENEMY SITUATION AT END OF PERIOD: No enemy concentrations were reported in our zone of responsibility during the period. Enemy continues to evade contact.

2. ENEMY OPERATIONS DURING PERIOD:
   a. No contact.
   b. Operations of enemy component units: Negative

3. OTHER INTELLIGENCE FACTORS:
   a. Enemy Losses During Period: 1 DOW
   b. Weather: Light snow fall, slightly higher temperatures, overcast in morning, lessening in afternoon, visibility restricted.

4. COUNTERINTELLIGENCE: Negative

5. ENEMY CAPABILITIES: No indication of enemy activity in our zone of responsibility has been noted for several days. This and other factors, coupled with the apparent desire by the enemy to evade contact in this area, indicates that enemy capabilities are extremely limited at this time. The possibility of surprise action by the enemy infiltrating back into this zone is, of course, not precluded, and it is incumbent upon all concerned to maintain a vigorous state of readiness to cope with any eventuality.

Command Report for Period of 1-28 February 1951

1 February 1951

The RCT, minus the 2d Battalion, remained in defensive and blocking positions in the Chechon area to prevent any enemy movement from the North, Northwest and East. The mission of guarding the Division MSR in its zone was also continued. Combat training was conducted for all personnel not engaged in the primary mission.

The 2d Battalion, located at Yongch'un (DS543034), continued to guard the MSR to Yongwol, block and to defend to the Northeast and East. Replacements were given their second day of combat training. The Battalion Command Group made a route reconnaissance to Yongwol in preparation of the contemplated move to that area. This move had been cancelled by G-3 at 2000 hours 31 December. Due to lack of communications, this change was not received by Battalion in time to stop the reconnaissance. At 1315, Regiment sent a warning order to the 2d Battalion alerting the battalion for a move to Tanyang on 2 February to relieve the 187th RCT. Again at 1400, Lt. Colonel Whitt was instructed by S-3 to reconnoiter the Tanyang area and to make arrangements with the 187th RCT for affecting the relief prior to 1800 hours 2 February. Colonel Whitt met with Colonel Beauchamp at the old Regimental CP in Tanyang at 1700 and received instructions as to the mission of guarding the Division MSR in the Tanyang area. The Battalion was also instructed to move the Engineer Water Point to Tanyang. 25 2 1/2 ton trucks were sent by Regiment at 1630 to move the Battalion to its new location.

Regiment prepared to train replacements for Seventh Division and the Replacement Training Schedule was distributed at 1030 by the S-3. This training schedule emphasized such pertinent subjects as Tactics and Techniques of the Enemy, Combat firing problems, Marksmanship and Familiarzation Firing, Field Sanitation and Personal Hygiene, Tank-Infantry Training, Field Fortifications, Combat Formations and Patrolling, Supply Discipline, Physical Conditioning and fire adjustment. Replacements were to be trained in a five day cycle of 40 hours. Major Robert E. Jones, Executive Officer, 1st Battalion, was placed in charge of the training program. Captain Lyle E. Baker, Assistant S-4, became Commanding Officer of Replacements for administrative purposes.

2 February 1951

The 2d Battalion departed from the Yongchun area by motor at 0730 hours and closed into Tanyang at 0930. The Battalion relieved the 187th RCT and began the mission of securing Tanyang and guarding the Division MSR in that zone.

The 1st and 3d Battalions remained in position, prepared to block and defend. Both units conducted small unit tactical training and the firing of individual weapons. Both patrolled their zones during this period but made no enemy contacts. The 1st Battalion was given the mission of training the Seventh Division replacement personnel. Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers were drawn from the Regiment at large to assist in conducting this training.

During the morning, the Regiment received 52 replacements from the 7th Replacement Company and was advised that 57 more were enroute from Pusan. Contact was maintained with units by patrols. The 3d Battalion contacted a patrol from the 17th Infantry while the 1st Battalion contacted the 2d Battalion.

3 February 1951

There was no change in the tactical situation during this 24 hour period. All three Battalions patrolled their zones. No enemy contacts were made. In the Chechon area, the 1st Battalion was prepared to block and defend to the West and Northwest, while the 3d Battalion was in position to accomplish the same mission to the North, Northeast and East. The 2d Battalion guarded the Division MSR from Tanyang to (DS374014). The tactical training of troops was continued and the new replacements were given the first day of training in the 1st Battalion area.

The 1st Battalion was responsible for guarding supply trains coming from Andong to Chechon. One company from the 2d ROK Division was attached to the 1st Battalion to assist in this mission and this company had arrived in Andong. Lt. Leonard W. Mall, Regimental Maintenance Officer, was sent to Andong to coordinate the train guard from that point.

4 February 1951

There was no change in the location of troops, missions or other activities of units of the Combat Team from the previous period reported. The 3d Battalion was alerted at 1100 hours to be prepared to move to the vicinity of Chuchon-ni (DS3524) to occupy positions of the 1st Battalion, 17th Infantry. A reconnaissance of this area was made by the Battalion CO, S-3 and Company Commanders, but at 1330 the move was postponed until further notice.

5 February 1951

There was no enemy contact during this period. All three battalions patrolled their zones but found nothing to report that indicated there were any enemy concentrations in their zones. The Regimental I&R Platoon patrolled the Eastern and Northeastern sector of the regimental zone and found no enemy activity. The weather continued cold and clear.

The 1st Battalion remained in the assembly area at Sach'on-Ni, just Southwest of Chechon, and continued small unit tactical training and the firing of weapons. The battalion guarded the MSR to the Southeast as far as Samgong (DS354-032). It also furnished train guards for all supply trains running between Andong and Chechon. It was prepared to block and defend to the West and Northwest.

The 2d Battalion continued its mission of guarding the Division MSR from Tanyang to (DS374014) and of patrolling its zone. Tactical training in squad and platoon problems was conducted for personnel not engaged in the primary mission. A civilian report to battalion stated that there was 200 North Koreans in the area at (DS436014). Plans were made to send one platoon of Company "E" to check this area starting at 060900 February. Battery "B", 48th FA Battalion was to be moved to Maepo-ri to support this platoon during the operations. This plan was telephoned to Regiment at 2250 hours. It was cancelled at 2325 because the area lay just outside the 7th Division boundary.

The 3d Battalion was in blocking and defensive positions to control any enemy movement from the North, Northeast and East. Small unit training and the firing of weapons was conducted during the day.

Replacements for the regiment were given combat training under the supervision of Major Jones, 1st Battalion Executive Officer, in the 1st Battalion area. During the morning they witnessed a Tank-Infantry team demonstration and during the afternoon they saw all types of enemy weapons heard them fired and saw a simulated enemy attack put on by personnel from the 1st Battalion.

The Division boundary was changed and regiment received the following message from G-3 at 1330 hours: "Boundary change effective 042400 February 1951, from point on present boundary at (DS4317) generally North and Northwest along road to Tadon-ni (DS4430). Road inclusive to 3d ROK Corps, Sagan-Dong (DS4922) to Todon-ni inclusive to X Corps." This change narrowed the Regiment's zone considerably in the 2d Battalion area.

6 February 1951

All three battalions remained in the same positions and continued to carry out their assigned missions. Extensive patrolling throughout the RCT's zone established no enemy contact.

This quiet period was utilized by all units for intensified combat training. In addition to small unit problems and the firing of weapons, all three Battalions conducted Tank-Infantry Team training. The 2d Battalion emphasized the use of the bayonet in the attack and also completed the fifth day of required training for new replacements.

General Claude B. Ferenbaugh, CG, Seventh Division, welcomed the new replacements to the Seventh Division at an assembly held in the 1st Battalion area at 0900 hours. Prior to the general's welcoming address, the new men were briefed on the history of the Division by Captain Carroll of the G-3 Section.

236 replacements were assigned to companies within the Regiment by paragraph 2, Special Orders Number 24, Headquarters, 32d Infantry, dated 31 January 1951. 67 EM of Company "A" and 23 of Company "B" were awarded the Combat Infantry Badge by Special Orders Number 25, Headquarters, 32d

Infantry, dated 6 February 1951. Promotions of 24 Enlisted Men of the Regiment were published in paragraph 6, Special Orders Number 24. The same orders reassigned 1st Lt. Leighton J. Wilson from Hq Company, 2d Battalion to Company "B" and 1st Lt. Dwight A. Bucher from Company "B" to Company "C". 1st Lt. Thomas A Murphy was assigned to Headquarters Company as the Catholic Chaplain of the Regiment.

7 February 1951

The 1st Battalion held a "Morale Day" for all personnel of the Battalion not engaged in patrolling or guarding the MSR. A formal inspection of men and equipment was conducted by companies during the morning hours. At a battalion formation held at 1330, Combat Infantry Badges were awarded to personnel of Companies "A" and "B". Colonel Beauchamp pinned 2d Lieutenant bars on M/Sgt Hubert D. Walker, Hq Co, 1st Battalion. This was the first direct field commission to be awarded within the regiment. Lt. Walker was Platoon Sergeant of the Battalion Pioneer and Ammunition Platoon. His new assignment was as Platoon Leader of the same platoon.

The 2d Battalion continued guarding the Division MSR from Tangang to (DS374014). All companies conducted small unit tactical problems and continued to improve blocking positions. The Battalion sent out three security patrols but located no enemy. Battery "B", 45th FA Battalion fired supporting fires for a patrol consisting of replacement personnel and sent out for training purposes.

The 3d Battalion assembled the companies in the vicinity of the Battalion CP and established roadblocks at points "A", "B", "C" and "D". Patrols were sent out but no enemy contact was reported. Training in small unit tactical problems continued.

The replacements being trained for Division by the 32d Infantry completed the five-day cycle of concentrated combat conditioning and were released for assignment to companies.

8 February 1951

There was no change in the location of units, command posts, or boundaries during this period. All three battalions patrolled their respective zones of responsibility but had no enemy contact. All units continued their training program. The 1st and 3d Battalions conducted Tank-Infantry Team problems, working with the Regimental Heavy Tank Company. The 2d Battalion concentrated on squad problems in village fighting.

The RCT (-) secured the Chechon area and guarded the X Corps MSR. The 2d Battalion secured the Tanyang area and guarded the MSR in its zone. The RCT secured the railroad line running between Andong and Chechon.

Special Orders Number 27 was published by Headquarters, 32d Infantry. These orders assigned 2d Lt. Hubert D. Walker, the first Enlisted Man in the regiment to receive a field commission, to Headquarters Company 1st Battalion as Pioneer and Ammunition Platoon Leader. 1st Lt. Curtis

L. Anders was reassigned as Assistant S-3 of the 2d Battalion. Captain Albert I. Thomas was made S-2 of the 2d Battalion and 1st Lt. Rutland D. Beard Jr. P and A Platoon Leader of Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion. 1st Lt. John K. Wainwright became the 2d Battalions Assistant S-3 Air.

New Officers joining the Regiment were given the following assignments; 2d Lt. William T. Howard to Company "B" as platoon leader; 1st Lt. Wellington D. Major Wesley J. Curtis, formerly S-3 of the 1st Battalion and who was wounded at Chosin Reservoir, was assigned to the 2d Battalion as its Executive Officer. Captain Gerald A. McGrath became Assistant S-2, 2d Battalion and its Civil Affairs Officer. Captain Ernest J. Riehl was assigned as CO, Company "G". 55 Enlisted Men of the Regiment were promoted by these orders.

General Orders Number 26, Headquarters, 7th Infantry Division, awarded the Bronze Star Medal posthumously to Bobby G. Cooke of the Heavy Tank Company who was killed in the Tanyang area.

9 February 1951

There was no change in the status of the RCT from the previously reported period. All units remained in place, continued their assigned missions and conducted training. Patrols did not establish contact with the enemy. Strength of the 32d Infantry was now 3041 Americans and 475 attached ROK soldiers for a total effective strength of 3516.

10 February 1951

The tactical situation of the RCT remained the same for this period. The 1st Battalion remained in the assembly area in the vicinity of Chechon, sent out combat patrols, guarded for trains running between Andong and Chechon, and conducted company in the attack problems.

The 2d Battalion continued to hold blocking positions in the Tanyang area, patrol its zone, and guard the MSR. This Battalion conducted platoon sized problems in village fighting during the day.

The 3d Battalion remained in an assembly area just North of Chechon, prepared to assume its blocking mission. Training consisted of Tank-Infantry Team problems, platoon in the attack and company in the attack problems.

General Ferenbaugh, CG, 7th Division, visited the Regtimental CP at 1030 hours, met members of the Regimental Staff and Special Staff and addressed them briefly on current problems within the Division. After this meeting, he drove to Tanyang, arriving there at 1300 hours, and inspected the 2d Battalion.

Seventh Division inspecting teams visited units throughout this period and checked administration, supply and messes. All three Battalions prepared to test one company in the attack phase on 11 February. Regiment continued to train replacements for Seventh Division.

A patrol plan for day and night patrolling was published by S-2 on this date. The mission of the patrols was to locate and destroy the enemy in the zone and to make route reconnaissance. Patrols were to be composed of one rifle squad. Day patrols would depart at 0800, 11 February, and the night patrols at 2100, 10 February. A total of six patrols including the I & R Platoon were to be sent out throughout the RCT's zone of responsibility.

11 February 1951

Combat operations, location of units and missions remained the same as the previous period. Patrols were dispatched according to plan and returned with negative information. Companies "E" and "L" conducted problems in the attack with excellent results.

At approximately 1600 hours, box cars loaded with POL and ammunition began exploding in the Chechon RTO. The explosions continued throughout the night. The cause of this catastrophe and the number of casualties resulting had not been determined at the close of the reporting period. The 1st Battalion was the closest unit of the RCT to the RTO and reported that Company "C" had two men wounded and two missing.

The 1st Battalion relieved the military police at 2030, assumed responsibility for the guard of this area. Looting of boxcars was reported at 2000 by the 1st Battalion S-2. His report indicated that the looting was being done by both American and ROK soldiers. This situation was brought under control by the 1st Battalion guards.

Plans were made by the Regimental Commander to reconnoiter the Wonju area on 12 February in preparation for possible operations in that zone. Battalion commanders, their S-3's, the 48th FA Battalion Commander and the Regimental S-3 were to accompany Colonel Beauchamp on this reconnaissance.

12 February 1951

The tactical situation became critical during the night as the enemy attacked friendly units to the North and Northwest. G-3 phoned Re iment the following information at 0630 hours: "The 3d ROK and 5th ROK Divisions having trouble in their areas. The alert is on for the 32d Infantry as of the plan yesterday. Will have move information later." G-2 reported at 0710 as follows: "Road cut by enemy company at (DS0453) and along ridge at (DS0252). 28th Regiment, 8th Division forced to withdraw to (DS0063). In the 2d U S Division zone, the 3d Battalion, 38th Regiment is heavily engaged and are falling back. Their locations are (DS1456) and (DS1857). At the same time G-3 instructed S-3 to have plans ready to move the 32d Infantry from Chechon to Wonju or Kokkye-Dong (DS0103) via Chupori (DS2209) on a three hour notice for employment as X Corps reserve.

All units of the RCT were immediately placed on a three hour alert for the move and all companies of the Regiment were ordered to turn in all "A" bags to service company as soon as possible. All unnecessary impedimenta was to be cleared from the area so as not to hamper movement.

Colonel Beauchamp, accompanied by S-3, Battalion CO's and their S-3's, and the CO 48th FA Battalion, left on a reconnaissance of the Wonju area at 0830. In keeping with the situation, S-1 placed the quartering parties from all units on a one-hour alert.

Further information was received from G-3. At 0900 Regiment was informed that a TACP was prepared to go with the RCT on the move. Again at 1040, this message was received: "Three CCF Divisions are working toward Hoengsong (DS108490). The location and situation of the 8th ROK Division is unknown. The 38th RCT is in contact in the vicinity of Hoengsong. Task Force White is attempting to withdraw to Hoensong. Expect to commit 32d RCT, minuselements at Tanyang (2d Battalion and Battery "B", 48th FA Battalion). Expect to move to Wonju today. Battery "A", 48th FA Battalion is under 32d Infantry control for move. Enough trucks to be made available. The 2d Battalion will join on order.

All units suspended schedule training. The 1st and 3d Battalions secured the Chechon area, guarded the Corps MSR in their zones, and sent out patrols. The 2d Battalion remained at Tanyang, secured that area and the MSR in its zone, and patrolled its area. None of these units made enemy contacts.

The colonel's reconnaissance party returned to Chechon at approximately 1730 hours. The forward situation had become stabilized and the alert was called off.

13 Februayy 1951

G-3 furnished Regiment with this information at 0700 hours: "The situation for the night of 12-13 February. The 2d Battalion, 17th Infantry, the 49th FA Battalion, and attachments fought from Hoengsong to Wonju from 122330 to 130530. They arrived at Wonju having had 125 casualties and having lost 20 trucks, one 155 MM howitzer and one M 16 or M 19.

G-2 informed S-2 at 1500 that Rice's Raiders had engaged the enemy near (DS386468) and (DS372449) at 1100 hours. As of 1400, the fighting continued.

The 3d Battalion had occupied the outer-defense and blocking positions North, Northeast and East of Chechon the previous night. All units remained in position during this period. Patrols went out but did not contact the enemy.

14 February 1951

Friendly patrols made no contacts during this period. There were no indications of enemy concentrations within the RCT zone of responsibility.

The 2d Ranger Company became attached to the RCT for operational purposes at 0600 hours. The company moved into Chechon and located near the Service Train area.

A liaison officer and a contact patrol was sent out at 0900 to contact the 17th Infantry, the 3d and 5th ROK Divisions and to obtain information about their positions and situation.

There was no change in the location of units, missions, or the tactical situation from the previously reported period.

Operations Order Number 51 was published at 2000 hours. This order was based on the readjustment of defense positions by the Seventh Division. The 2d Ranger Company and the Recon Platoon, 73d Tank Battalion were attached to the 32d Infantry. The 32d Infantry would continue its present mission of securing the Tanyang and Chechon areas and the X Corps MSR in its zone.

The 1st Battalion, with one section of tanks from the Tank Company attached, was to occupy and improve defensive positions to block the enemy threat from the West and Northwest; to maintain blocks "E" and "F"; to prepare for offensive action along the Chechon-Wonju MSR to assist the 17th RCT on order; to patrol actively in its zone; and to provide security guards as required on the trains running between Andong and Checon.

The 2d Battalion would continue its present mission in the Tanyang area. The 3d Battalion, with one platoon of tanks attached from the Tank Company, would occupy and improve defensive positions to block the enemy threat from the North, Northeast and East; maintain blocks "A", "B", "C" and "D"; patrol its zone; and be prepared to attack along the Chechon-Wonju MSR on order.

The 2d and 4th Platoons, Heavy Tank Company were attached to the 2d Ranger Company for counterattack purposes only. The 2d Ranger Company was designated Regimental Reserve. In addition to the two platoons of tanks, the Recon Platoon, 73d Tank Battalion was also attached to it. The mission of the Regimental Reserve was to prepare counterattack plans to restore the Chechon perimeter and to conduct long range patrolling as ordered.

Elements of the 5th and 8th ROK Divisions were withdrawing toward Chechon through the 1st and 3d Battalion roadblocks, during this period. Considerable confusion resulted and at 1105 G-3 sent an English speaking Korean to Roadblock "C" in the 3d Battalion zone to indentify the ROK units as they came through.

15 February 1951

There was no change in the location of troops, missions of units during the period previously reported. All Battalions continued patrolling in their respective zones. The 2d Ranger Company and the Recon Platoon from the 73d Heavy Tank Battalion, which were attached to the RCT for counterattack purposes, conducted patrols.

The 1st Battalion completed the move into its new defensive positions by 1450 hours.

The 7th CIC Detachment reported that they had apprehended Kim O BOK loitering near a water point in this area. They found that Kim was a follower of the NKPA and had been operating in the Chechon area for some time. He stated that on 2 February 1951, three men of his group had been sent to the Yongu area to poison the wells and water points. This organization was training young men and women and very old people in espionage and the penetration of our lines. He would not state where the location of their headquarters was.

There was no change in the location of troops, missions of units during this 24 hour period.

The Recon Patrol from the 73d Tank Battalion, attached to the RCT for counterattack purposes, patrolled to a point between Sinmonkchong and Sinhung-ni (DS298244) where they were engaged with an unknown enemy force firing automatic weapons. The patrol, observing from the top of a hill overlooking Sinmokchong, saw many enemy troops and cattle moving out of the town, west toward Wonju. One officer and three EM were wounded in this action.

RCT S-3 requested that Company "B", 13th Engineer Battalion be attached to the RCT. At 1315 hours the unit was attached and the S-3 of the Engineers reported to the RCT CP for instructions.

General Orders Number 16, General Headquarters, dated 27 January 1951, awarded 2d Lieutenant James O. Mortrude of Company "C", 32d Infantry, the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action on 30 September 1950 in the vicinity of Seoul, Korea.

General Order Number 17, General Headquarters, dated 29 January 1951, awarded posthumously the Distinguished Service Cross to Corporal Robert A. Malloy, Company "C", 32d Infantry. Following is an excerpt of the order: "while serving as acting platoon sergeant, Company "C", 32d Infantry patrolling near Seoul City race track in an area between two high roads bed through a low river valley, Corporal Malloy's platoon was ambushed from the right by a heavily armed force located on high ground across the river. Deadly direct fire from the enemy inflicted heavy casualties and completely pinned down the right flank. Upon hearing the cries of the wounded, Corporal Malloy, with utter disregard for his life, left his position of comparative safety and crossed into the fire swept area to aid his men. Heedless of the warnings to stay down in face of devastating fire, he treated the wounded and assisted in their evacuation to safety until he was mortally wounded by a burst of hostile fire.

17 February 1951

There was no change in the locations or missions of the three battalions during this 24 hour period. The 2d Ranger Company occupied Hill 624 (DS289152) at 1050 hours and patrolled to Hill 685 (DS282169). The company began withdrawing from Hills 624 and 685 at 1215 hours and closed into their assembly area at 1530 hours. A 3d Battalion patrol made contact with the enemy but final results were unknown at the end of this period.

S-2 reported that the enemy continued to exploit the area of breakthrough reported to the North of zone. Friendly artillery fire and air strikes were ordered with the artillery estimating 500 enemy casualties. It was also reported that the enemy was continuing his buildup North of Chechon and was digging deep positions at the point of furtherest advance. This indicated that the enemy may be awaiting resupply and reinforcements in their present positions.

Special Orders Number 32, Headquarters 32d Infantry, relieved Capt. Franklin T. Garrett as CO of Heavy Mortar

Company and assigned him as S-3, 1st Battalion; Captain Erwin B. Bigger was assigned as CO of Heavy Mortar Company; 2d Lt. Hubert D. Walker assigned to Company "A"; 2d Lt. Robert H. Rhodes to Headquarters 1st Battalion as A & P Platoon Leader; 1st Lt. Samuel L. Barber Jr. and 2d Lt. James O. Mortrude to Headquarters Company as Liaison Officers and Captain Harry J. McCaffrey to Headquarters Company as Assistant S-3 with additional duties of T I & E Officer.

18 February 1951

A heavy snow fell in this area until 1300 hours. Visibility during the snowfall was between 500-1000 feet. There was no change in the location or missions of the three battalions, however, the 2d Ranger Company was relieved from RCT control as of 0900 and was attached to RCT 17. The Recon Platoon from the 73d Tank Company continued patrols in the RCT zone.

Broadway 6 notified Bulldozer Baker 6 that the Regimental Tank Company and Company "B", 13th Engineers would be placed in Regimental Reserve as of 1800 hours.

Strength figures for the RCT at the end of this period were 3,028 Americans and 473 ROK soldiers for a total strength of 3501.

19 February 1951

G-3 notified S-3 that on the 19th of February the 2d Battalion of RCT 31 (consisting of 1 reinforced company) will relieve the 2d Battalion, RCT 32. 2d Battalion, RCT 32 will move by motor from Tanyang to the vicinity of the airstrip at Yongwol. The successful advance of the 32d Infantry Regimental Combat Team from Chechon to your present blocking position north of Pyonchang is an accomplishment of which you and all your officers and men can well be proud.

In spite of heavy rains and swollen rivers which forced you to use every ingenious field expedient available in order to cross unfordable streams at flood stage, and handicapped in normal movement due to use of only one narrow road, you aggressively overcame all barriers, defeated the enemy and again "carried the ball for another 7th Division touchdown."

Such commendable results are obtained only when every man is lead, directed, and supervised by each responsible leader within his command. Please express my sincere appreciation to each of your commanders and their men for their superior performance.

This commendation was distributed to officers and men of the RCT.

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL (Posthumous).—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded posthumously to the following named enlisted men:

MASTER SERGEANT HOLLIS POWELL, RA 34 835 613, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea on 23 November 1950. On this date, the command post of the 1st platoon was attacked in force by the enemy and the personnel therein were in grave danger of being completely overrun. The battery commander formed a patrol to go to the relief of the besieged command post; at the same time Sergeant Powell volunteered to lead another patrol to the command post by a different route. While the patrol was making its way toward its objective, the enemy pinned it down with extremely heavy automatic weapons and small arms fire. Sergeant Powell, with complete disregard for his own personal safety, rose to his feet and rushed the nearest machine gun nest in an effort to disperse the enemy so that his patrol could continue its mission and while engaged in this act lost his life. Sergeant Powell's display of heroism and self-sacrifice on this occasion was an inspiration to his comrades and reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Georgia.

CORPORAL BOBBY G. COOKE, RA 13 348 627, Armor, United States Army, while a member of Tank Company, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Tanyang, Korea, on 14 January 1951. On this date, Corporal Cooke was proceeding to sick call when an enemy force opened fire with automatic weapons located on either side of Corporal Cooke's tank section. Rather than seek shelter inside a tank, Corporal Cooke voluntarily mounted the top of a tank and with complete disregard for his own personal safety, manned the .50 caliber machine gun located there. Corporal Cooke was successful in killing from forty to fifty enemy troops before he was mortally wounded by the intense enemy fire. His heroism and self-sacrifice were an inspiration to his fellow soldiers and reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Virginia.

Section II

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named officers:

CAPTAIN RUSSELL L. CRAIG JR., O-2005429 (then First Lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, Headquarters, 7th Infantry Division, while serving as Aide-de-Camp to the Assistant Division Commander, 7th Infantry Division, displayed great personal courage under heavy enemy fire at Seoul, Korea, on 29 September 1950. On this date, Captain Craig accompanied his commander to reorganize a unit whose commander had become a casualty and whose unit was being held up by a numerically superior enemy force, well entrenched on high ground dominating the route of advance. With complete disregard for his own personal safety, Captain Craig carried instructions to subordinate commanders and helped reorganize the unit under intense small arms, automatic weapons and mortar fire. He was in the forefront of the subsequent attack which resulted in the rout and destruction of the enemy force. His unhesitating accomplishment of all assigned missions and duties in spite of the personal dangers involved, and his continuous regard for the safety and welfare of his commander is in the best traditions of the Infantry and reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Virginia.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES B. LOVELL, O-2298428, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion, 31st Infantry, displayed heroism in action against an armed enemy near Koto-ri, Korea, on the night of 30 November 1950-1 December 1950. On this night, Lieutenant Lovell was commander of motorized elements of the 2d Battalion, which was attempting to reach the 31st Regimental Combat Team, then in the vicinity of Hagaru-ri and the Chosin Reservoir area, when the vehicles and personnel were subjected to heavy enemy automatic weapons and small arms fire from well entrenched positions. Voluntarily exposing himself to the intense enemy fire, Lieutenant Lovell quickly organized drivers, mechanics, clerks, and others into fighting groups to place well aimed small arms fire on the enemy. Lieutenant Lovell, while personally resupplying his men with ammunition, was wounded when his weapon was shot from his hands. At daybreak, Lieutenant Lovell assisted in loading many wounded on vehicles and instructed his men to cover enemy positions with fire while the vehicle column attempted to break through the enemy ring. The intense fire on enemy positions made it possible for the motor elements to advance with a minimum of casualties. The heroic actions of Lieutenant Lovell on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Missouri.

Section I

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.--By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named officer and enlisted men:

FIRST LIEUTENANT BERNARD B. PRYOR, O 1342347, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of the 2d Ranger Company, 7th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Tanyang, Korea, on 14 January 1951. On this date, the 2d Ranger Company was advancing to the north with the assigned mission of seizing the commanding high ground and denying the enemy its use. Advancing on foot through a ravine in combat formation, the company was suddenly attacked by a numerically superior enemy force using small arms and automatic weapons. Realizing the unit was in danger of being overrun, Lieutenant Pryor voluntarily and with complete disregard for his own safety moved throughout the area always exposed to enemy observation and fire in an effort to evacuate the wounded men and direct the fire of his troops on the attacking enemy. His inspirational bravery and outstanding leadership on this occasion materially contributed to the safe withdrawal of the company with a minimum of casualties. The outstanding heroism displayed by Lieutenant Pryor on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the District of Columbia.

MASTER SERGEANT JAMES F. KESNER, RA 6 860 469, Armor, United States Army, while a member of the Tank Company, 31st Regimental Combat Team, distinguished himself by heroic action in the vicinity of Hagaru-ri, Korea, on 28 November 1950. On this date, as his company was in the attack of a well dug-in enemy position, Sergeant Kesner's tank threw a track in an attempt to cross a ditch while moving up on the objective. Without regard for his personal safety, Sergeant Kesner dismounted and evacuated some wounded of the 1st platoon to the rear under heavy enemy small arms fire. On returning to his tank and still under fire, Sergeant Kesner mounted the rear deck of his tank and manned the .50 caliber machine gun. He continued firing from this exposed position until all ammunition was expended. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Kesner on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Kansas.

MASTER SERGEANT RICHARD S. LUNA, RA 20 212 218, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company B, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Koto-ri, Korea, on 7 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Luna was helping to direct a detail that was carrying ammunition and rations from their motor convoy to a composite unit of troops from the 32d Regimental Combat Team located on a mountainous ridge to protect the escape route of the 1st Marine Division. During a blinding snow storm the guide became lost and Sergeant Luna and a comrade took turns breaking a trail through rugged territory heavily infested with enemy troops. Upon arriving at the composite unit it was learned that there were several seriously wounded soldiers and marines requiring evacuation. Without regard for his personal safety, Sergeant Luna, accompanied by an assistant returned to the base of the mountain, secured litters and a litter detail, and again proceeded up the mountain to the composite unit and successfully completed the evaucation of the wounded men. The action of Sergeant Luna on this occasion resulted in the resupply of ammunition to the composite unit and contributed to the saving of the wounded men's lives. These actions reflect great credit on Sergeant Luna and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of California.

MASTER SERGEANT CECIL E. MADDEN, RA 15 014 011, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company D, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action near Hagaru-ri, Korea, on 30 November 1950. On this date, when his platoon leader was killed and ammunition for the 81 mm mortar was exhausted, Sergeant Madden organized the riflemen and took command of the remainder of the mortar platoon. Under his courageous leadership this platoon successfully completed the hazardous mission of furnishing flank security for the main body of troops withdrawing along the enemy infested road from Hagaru-ri to Koto-ri, Korea. The heroism demonstrated by Sergeant Madden on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New Jersey.

MASTER SERGEANT ROBERT M. SIER, RA 6 883 643, Infantry, United States Army, while serving with Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 31st Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action near Koto-ri, Korea, on 1 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Sier's company was isolated from the rest of the convoy by an enemy road block. Sergeant Sier was instrumental in organizing the ROK Police Company into a fighting unit. In doing this Sergeant Sier exposed himself to enemy fire many times. At daybreak when the attempt was made to break out of the area, Sergeant Sier, acting as platoon sergeant, greatly assisted in bringing what few men that were left in the unit safely through. His coolness under fire was a great inspiration to those of his unit who were receiving the first baptism of fire. The heroic actions of Sergeant Sier on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Maryland.

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.--By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS MELVIN D. BELL, RA 6 899 561, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company L, 3d Battalion, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy of the United States near Hungnam, Korea, on 19 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Bell was serving as a squad leader in Company L which was on the outpost line of resistance on the Hungnam perimeter. Sergeant Bell was conspicuous by his heroic action and courageous leadership against a numerically superior enemy force. During the numerous enemy attacks, he constantly exposed himself to heavy enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire in order to direct the fire of his squad against the enemy. As a result of his heroic actions and inspirational bravery, his entire squad survived a series of long attacks without a single casualty. Sergeant Bell's heroic action on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of North Carolina.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS FREMONT PIERCEFIELD, RA 36 928 515, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Koto-ri, Korea, on 7 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Piercefield was helping to direct a detail that was carrying ammunition and rations from a motor convoy to a composite unit of troops from the 32d Regimental Combat Team located on a mountainous ridge to protect the escape route of the 1st Marine Division. During a blinding snow storm the guide became lost and Sergeant Piercefield and a comrade took turns in breaking a trail through rugged territory heavily infested with enemy troops. Upon arrival at the composite unit it was learned that there were several seriously wounded soldiers and marines requiring evacuation. Without regard for his own personal safety, Sergeant Piercefield, accompanied by another member of the force, returned to the base of the mountain, secured litters and a litter detail, and again proceeded up the mountain to the composite unit and successfully completed the evacuation of the wounded men. The actions of Sergeant Piercefield on this occasion resulted in the resupply of ammunition to the composite unit and contributed to the saving of the wounded men's lives. These actions reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Illinois.

SERGEANT WILLIAM A. KING, RA 11 076 613, Armor, United States Army, while a member of the Tank Company, 31st Regimental Combat Team, distinguished himself by heroic action in the vicinity of Hagaru-ri, Korea, on 7 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant King, while serving in the capacity of tank commander, was called on by the marine who he was lending his tank's fire to move his tank forward and place fire on a house that concealed a machine gun nest. Disregarding his own personal safety and low ammunition supply, Sergeant King moved his tank to a position exposed to enemy fire and commenced firing on the target. When all the ammunition had been expended, Sergeant King left the security of the tank and fired the .50 caliber machine gun from the rear of the turret until he was out of ammunition and was forced to withdraw. The heroic actions of Sergeant King on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Maine.

SERGEANT JAMES R. FLEMING, RA 34 653 089, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company A, 31st Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Kumpung-ni, Korea, on 27 November 1950. On this date, Sergeant Fleming was driver of the lead vehicle of a patrol whose mission was to seek out and destroy the enemy when the patrol was attacked by small arms and automatic weapons fire from enemy forces occupying a small village. Sergeant Fleming stopped his vehicle in an exposed position and then voluntarily manned a .50 caliber machine gun mounted on the vehicle to place effective fire on the enemy rather than seek cover for himself. He continued to fire the weapon from his exposed position, until the patrol was deployed in a fighting position. Sergeant Fleming's calmness under enemy fire was an inspiration to other members of the patrol and the effective fire from his weapon contributed greatly to the patrol's accomplishing its mission. The cool courage and heroic actions of Sergeant Fleming on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of South Carolina.

CORPORAL HERBERT M. KIEK, RA 19 340 086, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea on 29 November 1950. On this date, one of the cannoneers on an M-16 half-track was hit by enemy fire and was evacuated. Corporal Kiek, a battery clerk, voluntarily took over the duties of the evacuated man. Without regard for his own personal safety, Corporal Kiek remained at the post of the cannoneer, withstanding numerous enemy attacks until he was wounded by enemy mortar shell fragments and had to be evacuated. As a result of these actions, the M-16 was kept in action, killing nearly one hundred enemy and saving the perimeter defense from penetration. The heroic actions of Corporal Kiek on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of California.

On this date, Corporal Sedlacek was serving in the capacity of squad leader in a composite platoon made up of clerks, cooks and drivers. Corporal Sedlacek's company had been pinned down by enemy fire most of the night. At daybreak his unit started the break-through from the enemy trap. Corporal Sedlacek organized his squad and shouted words of encouragement as they moved out. Although the enemy automatic weapons fire was intense, Corporal Sedlacek never faltered and continued to inspire the members of his squad. While wading through a stream under intense fire, he stopped to assist in administering first aid to the wounded. His heroic actions on this occasion was a great inspiration to the success of the mission and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Nebraska.

CORPORAL NEIL E. SHEPHERD, RA 15 291 365, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Seoul, Korea, on 26 September 1950. On this date, Corporal Shepherd observed an enemy machine gun crew going into position and voluntarily left his place of concealment and safety in a building where his squad was located and without regard for his own personal safety, and while under fire from the enemy machine gun, successfully destroyed another enemy machine gun and killed three enemy soldiers. The actions of Corporal Shepherd on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Kentucky.

On this date, Corporal Sumner was serving as a member of a forward observer party attached to Company G, 31st Infantry. His duties included driving a radio vehicle and maintaining radio communications with his artillery unit supporting an assault against the enemy. Realizing the importance of fire direction, he voluntarily placed his vehicle in a position of great danger with the leading elements of the infantry. Although subjected to heavy enemy small arms fire, and with complete disregard for his own personal safety, he continued to remain exposed to enemy fire and succeeded in directing accurate artillery fire onto enemy positions. The heroic actions of Corporal Sumner were an inspiration to his comrades and contributed materially to the success of the combat mission and reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Maryland.

CORPORAL JOSEPH WEST JR., RA 45 035 392, Armor, United States Army, while a member of the Tank Company, 31st Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic actions at Hagaru-ri, Korea, on 30 November 1950. On this date, Corporal West was the driver of a tank located on the defensive perimeter around Hagaru-ri when the enemy launched a night attack supported by intense mortar, automatic weapons and small arms fire while attempting to capture the town. During the enemy attack, Corporal West left his position inside the tank and took a position on the rear deck of the tank exposed to small arms and mortar fire where he operated the tank's .50 caliber machine gun against the enemy until the attack was repulsed. Corporal West's heroic action inspired his fellow soldiers and contributed materially to driving off the enemy and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Ohio.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS ROBERT J. On this date, Private Castleberry was a member of the tank section whose mission was to rescue a wounded officer and three enlisted men who were pinned down by intense enemy fire from death or capture by the enemy. Private Castleberry voluntarily and with complete disregard for his own personal safety, dismounted from his tank and proceeded to place the officer and enlisted men on the tank and then move them to safety. Throughout this entire action Private Castleberry was exposed to intense enemy small arms fire. Private Castleberry's actions on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Washington.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS WILLIAM C. HOLMES, RA 13 305 311, Armor, United States Army, while a member of Tank Company, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Tanyang, Korea, on 14 January 1951. On this date, Private Holmes was proceeding to sick call when an enemy force opened fire with automatic weapons located on either side of his tank section. Rather than seek shelter inside a tank, Private Holmes voluntarily mounted a tank and with complete disregard for his personal safety, manned the .50 caliber machine gun located on the top of the turret. Private Holmes was successful in killing from forty to fifty enemy troops before he was finally wounded by the intense enemy fire. The actions of Private Holmes on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Virginia.

Section I

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.--By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named officers and enlisted men:

FIRST LIEUTENANT CLARENCE C. BALLARD, O-1299667, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), displayed heroism in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea on 28, 29 and 30 November 1950. During this period, Lieutenant Ballard was Executive Officer of Battery D which was deployed in the defense of elements of the 57th Field Artillery Battalion. Lieutenant Ballard skillfully placed the automatic weapons of the battery so as best to cover the routes of approach expected to be used by the enemy in attacking the positions. During the enemy's attacks it was found that the automatic weapons were well sited and the fire was such that all attacks were defeated. During the action, Lieutenant Ballard visited all portions of the defense perimeter even though he was under heavy enemy fire, advising and encouraging the enlisted men. His actions were a source of inspiration to all who came in contact with him. Although Lieutenant Ballard was wounded he continued in a cheerful and optimistic manner to perform his duties. On numerous occasions, he exposed himself to intense enemy fire without regard for his own safety in order to coordinate the efforts of the infantry and his own unit in the defense of the perimeter. Lieutenant Ballard's display of heroism on these occasions reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of West Virginia.

SECOND LIEUTENANT CLYDE P. CHAPMAN, O-2204346, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), displayed heroism in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea on 1 and 2 December 1950. Charged with providing protection for the rear of a column of troops and vehicles carrying wounded which was proceeding toward a juncture with friendly units to the south, Lieutenant Chapman manuvered his M-16 half-track so as to place it between the column and away from the column. He also maneuvered nearer to the enemy thus enabling his weapon to make the most effective use of the fast-dwindling ammunition supply. Later, after the half-track had expended all of its ammunition and had broken through the ice and was lost in attempting to cross a stream, Lieutenant Chapman, with great courage and outstanding leadership and while under heavy enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire, led the members of his element back to the column. Lieutenant Chapman's personal heroism and his exemplary leadership reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of South Carolina.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS RUDOLPH W. CORDOVA, RA 6 276 975, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Hungnam, Korea, on 19 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Cordova was the forward observer for the 60 mm mortar platoon of the company. Although under heavy fire from tremendous numbers of enemy and with disregard for his own personal safety, Sergeant Cordova remained at his position and adjusted accurate and effective fire on the desired area. Completing this mission, Sergeant Cordova remained in position and directed the fire of a light machine gun emplaced near him. His efficient, conscientious efforts and his disregard for his own personal safety were an inspiration to the men of his unit. The heroism of Sergeant Cordova on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Colorado.

AWARD OF THE FIRST BRONZE OAK LEAF CLUSTER TO THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.--By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the first Bronze Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted man:

CORPORAL NEIL E. SHEPHERD, RA 15 291 365, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Hungnam, Korea, on 19 December 1950. On this date, Corporal Shepherd voluntarily and repeatedly exposed himself to enemy automatic weapons fire in order to cover the escape of troops who had been captured by the enemy. Corporal Shepherd's inspirational bravery in drawing fire upon himself in order to spot enemy positions which could be brought under heavy fire contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission. Sergeant Shepherd's dauntless courage on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Kentucky.

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.--By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS JOSE J. HOMESLEY, RA 34 393 561, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Hungnam, Korea, on 19 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Homesley assumed command of his platoon following the evacuation of his platoon sergeant who had been wounded. Though a numerically superior enemy force made repeated "banzai" attacks, the platoon, under the skilled, zealous, aggressive leadership of Sergeant Homesley, was able to withstand and defend their positions. The success of this mission was dependent almost entirely upon Sergeant Homesley's courageous actions in constantly exposing himself to withering enemy fire to more efficiently direct the fire of his own platoon. This heroic achievement by Sergeant Homesley reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Alabama.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS JAMES J. VERRILL, RA 20 308 782, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Service Company, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic actions against an armed enemy near Seoul, Korea, during the period 19 to 29 September 1950. During this period, while assigned as ammunition sergeant, Sergeant Verrill, by his untiring efforts and outstanding leadership, inspired his men to surmount the extreme difficulties confronting them in supplying the regiment with ammunition, often during black-out conditions, and while the ammunition trucks were under continuous sniper fire. The initiative and leadership displayed by Sergeant Verrill on these occasions materially assisted his regiment in the accomplishment of its combat missions and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Kentucky.

CORPORAL LOUIS E. CSASZAR, RA 15 267 508, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Hungnam, Korea, on 19 December 1950. On this date, Corporal Csaszar was with the mortar section of Company L on the outpost line of resistance in the Hungnam perimeter. During a savage attack by the enemy the remainder of Corporal Csaszar's mortar section was deployed to engage the enemy with small arms. Corporal Csaszar, however, continued to remain in position and lay accurate mortar fire on the numerically superior enemy forces. His boldness and heroism were an inspiration to his comrades and contributed immeasurably to the successful repulsing of the enemy attack. Corporal Csaszar's heroic actions on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Pennsylvania.

CORPORAL RAYMOND A. KRIEGER, RA 32 830 042, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), displayed heroism in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea on 28 November 1950. On this date, an M-16 multiple machine gun half-track which had been temporarily abandoned by its crew because it would not operate in the subzero temperature was in danger of being overrun by the enemy. Corporal Krieger volunteered to go to the M-16 and get the engine running. With complete disregard for his own safety, he crossed open ground under heavy enemy fire to the M-16, but was unable to start the engine. He signaled to the driver of an M-19 to come and tow him, and upon arrival of the M-19, Corporal Krieger again exposed himself to enemy fire to attach a tow cable from one vehicle to the other. By towing the M-16, its engine was started. Corporal Krieger courageously exposed himself to the fire of the enemy a third time when he unhooked the tow cable. [illegible] vehicle to the place where it was later used in the defense of the perimeter. Corporal Krieger's daring act saved the M-16 from being overrun by the enemy and permitted its use in the later fighting. Corporal Krieger's display of heroism on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New York.

CORPORAL PAUL MACHI, [illegible] RA 35 260 727, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company A, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Changnam, Korea, on 19 December 1950. On this date, Corporal Machi voluntarily and repeatedly exposed himself to enemy automatic weapons and small arms fire in order to cover the escape of troops who had been captured by the enemy. Corporal Machi's inspirational bravery in drawing fire upon himself in order to spot enemy positions which could be brought under heavy fire contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission. Corporal Machi's dauntless courage on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of West Virginia.

AWARD OF THE SILVER STAR

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS EDGAR B. BREWER, RA 34 145 992, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company B, 17th Infantry, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Pungsan, Korea, on 2 November 1950. On this date, Sergeant Brewer's platoon was ambushed by the enemy while on a combat patrol. After directing and supervising the reorganization of his squad, Sergeant Brewer remained behind to personally care for the wounded. While administering to a wounded man, Sergeant Brewer was seriously wounded in the head. Despite his serious condition, he refused to be evacuated and walked over a quarter of a mile during the reorganization of his platoon. The gallantry of his actions on this occasion served as an inspiration to the members of his squad and reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Tennessee.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS LEON PUGOWSKI, RA 12 130 551 (then Sergeant), Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near Hagaru-ri, Korea, on 1 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Pugowski, a company cook, took a position in the line as a rifleman when every man was badly needed. At approximately 1330 hours, when the unit broke out of the close perimeter about fifteen miles north of Hagaru-ri, Sergeant Pugowski rallied the men in his section and led them under heavy small arms fire down the railroad track toward Hagaru-ri. Disregarding his own safety, he offered himself as a target many times in order to draw fire from the others so they could advance. Due to his heroic actions many lives were saved. Sergeant Pugowski's display of gallantry and aggressive leadership on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of California.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS DALE E. WAGONER, RA 16 145 920, Medical Corps, United States Army, while a member of Medical Company, 32d Infantry, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea during the period 26 November 1950 to 5 December 1950. During this period, Sergeant Wagoner's encouragement of men and insistence on remaining with the wounded was an inspiration to all. He volunteered to remain and care for over sixty wounded men who were placed in houses outside the defense perimeter where there were no guards stationed for protection. In the withdrawal he followed the unprotected convoy on foot through withering enemy fire, and made continuous rounds from vehicle to vehicle giving encouragement and nursing the wounded. On several occasions, he carried wounded men upon his back until transportation could be found. The undaunted courage and gallantry displayed by Sergeant Wagoner on these occasions reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Illinois.

SERGEANT HARRY G. VEER, RA 16 323 236, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company G, 32d Infantry, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Hyongson-ni, Korea, on 11 January 1951. On this date, Sergeant Veer was a member of a patrol which was making a reconnaissance when it was ambushed by approximately one hundred enemy riflemen using small arms, automatic weapons and machine guns. Sergeant Veer began to withdraw with other members of the patrol when the battalion intelligence officer, who was on a ground reconnaissance at the time, was seriously wounded. Realizing that the officer would not be able to withdraw due to his injury, Sergeant Veer and two comrades jumped into a ditch with the wounded officer and voluntarily elected to remain to protect him. Sergeant Veer and the two men remained in this position returning the enemy fire for several hours before they were rescued by a tank section. Sergeant Veer then removed the officer to the tank deck where he was returned to safety. The calm courage and fortitude displayed by Sergeant Veer in voluntarily remaining with the wounded officer, in the face of almost certain death, reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Illinois.

CORPORAL ALFONSO CAMOESAS, RA 11 192 641, Medical Corps, United States Army, Medical Company, 32d Infantry, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Koto-ri, Korea, on 8 December 1950. On this date, Corporal Camoesas was attached to a unit attacking in force to secure high commanding ground to protect the flank of a motor column. Corporal Camoesas observed two marines seriously wounded and, without regard for his personal safety, he advanced courageously in the face of murderous enemy automatic fire to the position of the two marines. After completing the dressing of their wounds, he personally brought them to safety and unhesitatingly removed his overcoat and covered the men to protect them from the sub-zero weather. The gallantry displayed by Corporal Camoesas on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New Jersey.

1. ENEMY SITUATION AT END OF PERIOD: No enemy units were contacted or observed in immediate zone. However, several units were observed directly N and NE of zone. An est 1000 enemy watkd by air vic DS295268 at approx 1100 hrs with unk results. U/I troops in strength from 15 to 300 were observed on ridges in area surrounding Hill 788 vic DS2725. No contacts reported. Sm patrols were obs in strength from 10 to 15 at DS259379, DS274350, DS285350, DS324280. There were no indications of enemy concentrations within Z/R.

2. ENEMY OPERATIONS DURING PERIOD:
a. The enemy maintained what appeared to be probing patrols and general build up in area immediately north of zone. Friendly patrols were unable to make contact in zone.

3. OTHER INTELLIGENCE FACTORS:
a. Enemy Losses During Period: None reported
b. Weather: High overcast with scattered low overcast at 4000 ft throughout period--scattered light snow showers during hours of darkness. Temperature cold during the night becoming warmer and thawing during the day.

4. COUNTER-INTELLIGENCE: 7th CIC Detachment reports that KIM O BOK, age 15, a beggar by profession, was apprehended on 13 Feb 51, while loitering near a water point in the CHECHON area. Subsequent interrogation of KIM revealed the following information:

KIM, with KIM SI KYU and BAK JUN SIK, became followers of the NKPA in August 1950 when the NKPA entered CHECHON. Prior to that time KIM and the two other beggars had been a part of a circle of beggars who had operated in the CHECHON area.

During the time that this particular NKPA unit was in CHECHON, KIM and his cohorts aided the NKPA by directing them to caches of badly needed foodstuffs and by performing such menial tasks as were given to them.

In December, 1950, KIM and his friends left CHECHON with the NKPA for the CHUNGYON-DONG area (the mountains between TANYANG and PUNGGI), where they lived in a mountian cave. KIM's instruction in espionage and sabotage began when the NKPA entered CHECHON and continued until the time when KIM was given his first assignment on 5 Feb 51.

On 5 Feb 51 KIM was told to come to CHECHON and gather information pertaining to troop concentrations, equipment, supplies etc, that he could find. KIM states that he was picked up on or about 11 Feb 51 but was released.

During his visit in CHECHON, he stayed with a KIM CHAN SAM, another beggar who formerly operated in CHECHON. KIM CHAN SAM's home is located in the exact geographical center of a large ammo dump located near the RTO in CHECHON. Although KIM CHAN SAM was interrogated at length, no connection between KIM O BOK and KIM CHAN SAM could be found in regard to KIM O BOK's mission. KIM CHAN SAM stated his sole reason for allowing KIM O BOK to stay with him was because out of pity and the fact that they were fellow beggars.

PIR,32d Inf (Con't)

KIM O BOK was a consistent liar during his interrogation. He was vague and non-committal about what, specifically, he has been taught; however, he was told time and time again by his NKPA instructors to "play dumb" if he were apprehended while on an assignment. It was pointed out to him that the Americans were hard to fool in this respect, but if he would hold to his pretention, even in the face of a threat of death, the Americans would become exasperated and release him.

KIM noted that on 2 Feb 51 three young men were sent from the cave to YONGU to poison the wells and water points used by UN personnel. Each man carried two envelopes, one of which was white and the other black. KIM did not know what the envelopes contained.

KIM was told at the time he set out on his mission that he would be followed at a later unspecified date by KIM SE KYU, age 15, and BAE JUN SIK, a young woman, and other unidentified males.

According to KIM more young men and women and even very old people are being trained for espionage and the penetrating of our lines; however, KIM could not, or would not, supply details as to location, training curricula, etc. (Over E-3)

APO 500
27 January 1951

AWARD OF THE DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul 43, 1918) and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45 and Department of the Army message, 10 July 1950, the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Second Lieutenant JAMES O. FORTRUDE, 0971102, Infantry, United States Army, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy in Korea on 30 September 1950. After moving through the city of Seoul for more than an hour without encountering the enemy, Lieutenant FORTRUDE's platoon of Company C, 32d Regiment, was ordered to advance alone for the purpose of establishing contact with the enemy. Approximately two hundred and fifty yards farther, where terrain coverage was scant, the platoon came under heavy and devastatingly accurate enemy fire that killed six and wounded many. Lieutenant FORTRUDE repeatedly exposed himself to intense hostile fire as he directed and coordinated his platoon's defense. Realizing that the position was extremely untenable and that any chosen route of withdrawal would result in additional casualties, Lieutenant FORTRUDE, with complete disregard for continuous enemy activity, raced approximately twenty-five yards across open ground to a spot where friendly tanks were located. And there, using the external interphone system on the rear of the tanks, he directed the movement of three tanks into positions enabling them to provide supporting fire for his platoon. Then personally reorganizing his platoon for withdrawal, he directed his men to a place affording cover and deployed them as a base of fire. Continuing to expose himself to the deluge of enemy fire, Lieutenant FORTRUDE made two return trips to his platoon's former position, where he recovered wounded men and carried them to safety. His dauntless leadership, sustained personal bravery and courageous concern for the welfare of his platoon reflect great credit on himself and uphold the heroic traditions of the military service. Entered Federal service from Washington.

AWARD OF THE DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS (Posthumous)

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul 43, 1918) and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45 and Department of the Army message, 10 July 1950, the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

Corporal [illegible] MALLOY, RA 51436 [illegible], Infantry, United States Army distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations at Seoul, Korea, on 26 September 1950, while serving as acting platoon sergeant, Company C, 32d Infantry. Patrolling near the Seoul city race track in an area between two high road beds through a low river valley, Corporal MALLOY's platoon was ambushed from the right by a heavily armed force located on high ground across the river. Deadly, direct fire from the enemy inflicted heavy casualties and completely pinned down the right flank. Upon hearing the cries of the wounded, Corporal MALLOY, with utter disregard for his life, left his position of comparative safety and crossed into the fire swept area to aid his men. Heedless of the warnings to stay down in face of the devastating fire, he treated the wounded and assisted in their evacuation to safety until he was mortally wounded by a burst of hostile fire. Corporal MALLOY's notable display of heroism in saving the lives of his comrades reflects great credit on himself and upholds the cherished traditions of the military service. Entered Federal service from California.

PERIODIC INTELLIGENCE REPORT NO. 103

PERIOD: 191800 Feb 51 to 201800 Feb 51

MAPS: Korea, 1:50,000 Sheets 6825 I, II, III, IV

1. ENEMY SITUATION AT END OF PERIOD: See overlay (Limited distribution).

2. ENEMY OPERATIONS DURING PERIOD: There was no contact by elements of the 32d Infantry with enemy elements during the period. However, air sightings tended to indicate a general withdrawal of the NK forces that had been threatening CHECHON for the past several days. KMAG sources indicate that the enemy is attempting to defend the approaches to PYONGCHONG DS4635.

3. OTHER INTELLIGENCE FACTORS:
a. Enemy Losses During Period: None reported.
f. Weather: Clear throughout the period; warmer, increasing thaw in the afternoon contributing to the mud which delayed activities.

4. COUNTER-INTELLIGENCE: Negative

5. ENEMY CAPABILITIES:
a. (1) The enemy can defend approaches to the PYONGCHANG valley with elements of 15th Regt of the 6th NKPA Div, from mountain positions overlooking the valley to the west. (See overlay).
(2) The enemy can conduct delaying action along the approaches to TODANGNI and PYONGCHANG from positions of his own choosing (3) The enemy can elect to withdraw from any of his positions and offer no fight.
(4) The enemy can attempt to conceal himself in his present positions (see overlay), wait for any friendly forces to pass, then launch an attack to [illegible] or interdict the YONGWOL-PYONGCHANG road whenever it appears to him that such action will effectively deny us the use of this MSR.

b. Discussion: Appears to him to [illegible] action.
Air sighting sindicate that the enemy is digging defensive positions. This fact tends to support the idea that his plans are defensive in nature. However, past experience of other units with this enemy increases the likelihood that he will attempt to cut off friendly forces who fail to eliminate him as they go by.
c. Probabilities of adoption of capabilities: The enemy is most likely to adopt these capabilities in the order 1, 2, 4, and 3.

1. Enemy

a. Elements of the 15th NK Division ambushed friendly units from the high ground, vicinity DS4840 and DS4940.

b. Enemy reserves: No change

c. Enemy activity: The enemy cleverly set an ambush from the high g ound on the approaches to the pass, vic DS4840. It was an successful delaying action. The enemy set A/T mines on the road approaching and leaving Pyonchang and bobby trapped trails and houses in same area.

d. Enemy strength: It is estimated an enemy corps is blocking the advances of our forces. Two divisions totaling approximately 5000 enemy can be committed at any time. Enemy morale is low because of friendly air and artillery superiority but they still maintain a will to fight under fire. Enemy supply is critical.

e. The enemy can:

(1) Fightha determined delaying action while awaiting CCF reenforcements and supply.

(2) Infiltrate our reat areas with agents on sobatage and espionage missions.

d. Bn spent the night in assembly area vic DS444304 preparing for atk. At 230715, Bn; with attachments; moved out in atk to NE. At 230730, TF Gulich - B Co with plt of tanks and Sec. of AAA crossed LD vic DS441324. At 230735, TF Gulich incountered mine field which was destroyed and TF continued. One sqd B Co 13th Engrs moved ahead of TF sweeping for mines--clearing areas just wide enough for tanks. Troops moved directly up road using Rcn by fire on point suspected of being defended by Enemy. At 231425, as Bn moved up pass vic DS487397 a white flare was fired by the enemy and heavy SA & AW fire was received from hill 624 and surrounding commanding terrain. All but one plt of B Co and the tanks were allowed to reach top or pass. Fire was concentrated on rear plt of B Co, Bn command group and leading elements of C Co. Heavy firing cont nued until approx 231530. Target was fairly covered by 48th FA Bn & HM Co 32d Inf. As the firing eased, C Co moved around east flank of target while A Co was brought forward and committed on west flank. At 231800, only sniper fire was received from target area and Co's were in pos shown on overlay.

SCS 330.13 24 February 1951

SUBJECT: Commendation

TO : Colonel Charles E. Beauchamp, O 18 230
Commanding Officer
32nd Infantry Regiment
APO 7

The successful advance of the 32nd Infantry Regimental Combat Team from Chechon to your present blocking position north of Pyongchang is an accomplishment of which you and all your officers and men can well be proud.

In spite of heavy rains and swollen rivers which forced you to use every ingenious field expedient available in order to cross unfordable streams at flood stage, and handicapped in normal movement due to use of only one narrow road, you aggressively overcame all barriers, defeated the enemy and again "carried the ball for another 7th Division touchdown".

Such commendable results are obtained only when every man is led, directed, and supervised by each responsible leader within his command. Please express my sincere appreciation to each of your commanders and their men for their superior performance.

The 1st Battalion was relieved at 0700 hours by the 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry, and moved to blocking positions on the high ground surrounding Hadaehwa (DS5250). Battalion closed in new area at 1530 hours.

The 2d Battalion continued to remain in present positions and dispatched recon patrols in their zone. Patrols returned to battalion perimeter, making no enemy contact.

The 3d R.O.K. Regiment moved out in the attack at 0700 hours, screening the high ground on the right of the road and being supported by the Tank-Infantry Task Force of the 3d Battalion, 32d RCT.

At 0930 hours, the 3d Battalion moved forward in the attack with "I" Company on the right, "L" Company on the left and "K" Company in reserve. "L" Company secured high ground East of town at 1445 hours and "L" Company secured high ground west of town with out enemy resistance. Tank-Infantry task force continued to patrol road north to DS502367, and was halted there by a roadblock and mine field.

OI #3 published at 011900 hours. 1st Battalion continued to improve present positions, to patrol actively in zone, and prepare to assist 3d Battalion on order. 2d Battalion to revert to regimental reserve, continue to improve present positions and assist the 1st Battalion on order. The 3d Battalion was to improve present positions and to conduct strong Tank-Infantry patrols in conjunction with supporting infantry patrols on the high ground to objective DS452401.

AWARD OF THE SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action is awarded to the following named officers and enlisted men:

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES F. BUCKINGHAM, O-1186772, Artillery, United States Army, 48th Field Artillery Battalion, while attached to Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Hungnam, Korea, during the period 17 December 1950 to 19 December 1950. At this time, Company L was occupying the outpost line of resistance of the Hungnam perimeter. Without regard for his personal safety, Lieutenant Buckingham voluntarily established his observation post in a position exposed to intense enemy small arms fire in order to direct accurate and effective artillery fire on enemy attacks. The actions of Lieutenant Buckingham during this period resulted in the deterring of enemy attacks by inflicting heavy casualties and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Michigan.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CARL L. ZILIAN, O-2007018, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Headquarters Company, 3d Battalion, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Samsu, Korea, and the Yalu River, on 26 November 1950. Lieutenant Zilian had the mission of maintaining contact between "Task Force Kingston" and 3d Battalion Headquarters. On a contact trip on this date, Lieutenant Zilian found the task force in a fire fight and without regard for his personal safety moved forward to see what action was taking place. On arriving at the head of the column, Lieutenant Zilian saw several wounded men who were exposed to enemy fire. He moved through thirty yards of exposed ground and carried a wounded man, who had been seriously wounded in the leg and was unable to walk, out of the exposed area. Although wounded himself in the performance of the deed, he continued carrying the wounded men to an area of safety. The gallantry displayed by Lieutenant Zilian reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Ohio.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS CHARLES L. BAMFORD, RA 20 911 363, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, during the period 29 November 1950 to 30 November 1950. On 29 November, when the unit was attacked by a numerically superior force, Sergeant Bamford, who was then battery Mess Sergeant, lost his kitchen due to the enemy action. He then voluntarily assumed the task of assisting in bringing wounded men from their positions to the aid station and assisted in making the wounded more comfortable after they had been treated. In so doing, Sergeant Bamford exposed himself to intense enemy automatic weapons mortar, and small arms fire on many occasions. On 30 November while aiding wounded men, Sergeant Bamford was wounded himself by enemy fire. Immediately after receiving first aid, he resumed his task of bringing in and caring for other wounded men, again exposing himself to the hazards of the heavy enemy fire. As a result of his repeated disregard for his own safety in going to the assistance of others

he was wounded twice by enemy fire. Again, despite his three wounds, Sergeant Bamford voluntarily continued to assist and care for other disabled men until on 2 December 1950 he was reported as missing in action. His outstanding heroism helped save the lives of many men, lightened the heavy burden of the medical personnel and inspired his comrades. Sergeant Bamford's gallantry in action reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of California.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS WOODROW HODGE, RA 37 067 838, Artillery, United States Army, Battery B, 57th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, during the period 27 November 1950 to 30 November 1950. During this period, while serving as Chief of Section, Sergeant Hodge's unit was supporting the 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry, and 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry, when they were attacked by numerically superior enemy forces which penetrated the front lines and threatened to overrun the artillery positions. Though casualties reduced his section from a normal complement of seven to three men Sergeant Hodge kept his small section firing. In spite of great personal danger from small arms and mortar fire, he kept the guns of his section adjusted in order to bring direct fire upon the enemy positions. By his courageous action, intrepid leadership and inspirational bravery, Sergeant Hodge inspired his men to hold their positions and to repulse attack after attack until he was ordered to destroy and abandon his pieces. The gallantry displayed by Sergeant Hodge during this period reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Arkansas.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS MERRITT T. LILLEY, RA 6 272 505, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery B, 57th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, on 1 December 1950. On this date, Sergeant Lilley's unit, with others, was engaged in a withdrawal, after having suffered heavy casualties during the preceding several days of incessant fighting against a fanatical and numerically superior enemy. Upon encountering an enemy roadblock, the unit became slightly confused and disorganized. Without regard for his personal safety, Sergeant Lilley exposed himself continually to heavy enemy fire, to reorganize a small group of men and successfully lead them in an attack on high ground held by the enemy. He then regrouped his small unit and directed telling fire at other enemy positions from which deadly fire was being directed at the halted column of troops and vehicles loaded with wounded. Sergeant Lilley's actions and intrepid leadership on this occasion contributed to reducing the effectiveness of the enemy roadblock and allowed the column to proceed. The gallantry displayed by Sergeant Lilley on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Texas.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS GEORGE C. MANRING, RA 14 265 569, Artillery, United States Army, Battery B, 57th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, during the period 27 November 1950 to 30 November 1950. During this period, while serving as Chief of Section, Sergeant Manring's unit was supporting the 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry and 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry, when an attack by numerically superior enemy forces penetrated the front lines and threatened to overrun the artillery positions. Though casualties reduced his section from a normal complement of seven men to four men, Sergeant Manring kept his small section firing. In spite of great personal danger from small arms and mortar fire he kept the guns of his section adjusted in order to bring direct fire upon the enemy positions. By his courageous action, intrepid leadership, and inspirational bravery, Sergeant Manring inspired his men to hold their positions and to repulse the attack, even after he himself was struck down by enemy fire and wounded. The gallantry displayed by Sergeant Manring during this period reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Florida.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS WAYNE O. WOOD, RA 39 936 563, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 25 November 1950 and again 26 November 1950. On 25 November 1950, "Task Force Kingston", of which Sergeant Wood was a member, departed from Samsu, Korea, with the mission of pushing through enemy territory to the Yalu River on the Manchurian Border. On 25 November 1950, while the task force was pinned down by intense enemy small arms, automatic weapons, and anti-tank fire, a member of the task force was seriously wounded. Sergeant Wood, noting the man fall, volunteered to move forward through enemy fire to reach the wounded man and remove him to a place of safety. After Sergeant Wood had administered first aid, an order was given for the task force to withdraw. Sergeant Wood, a squad leader, ordered his squad to withdraw with the main body of the task force and volunteered to remain with the fallen man until he could be evacuated. After the task force had withdrawn, Sergeant Wood signaled for a tank to move forward and lifted the wounded man onto the tank. Then, still under heavy enemy fire, proceeded to direct the tank in a backward withdrawal down a narrow, slippery road until they reached the main body of the task force. On 26 November 1950, Sergeant Wood again distinguished himself when the task force was attacked in force by the enemy. He volunteered to lead his squad up an exposed embankment, drawing enemy fire in order to locate enemy gun positions. Upon reaching the top of the embankment, Sergeant Wood was able to observe hidden enemy positions and to direct effective mortar fire which resulted in the annihilation of the enemy. Sergeant Wood's display of gallantry on these occasions reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Kansas.

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (See II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS SYLVESTER B. ACKERMAN, RA 35 169 082, Artillery, United States Army, Battery B, 57th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, during the period 27 November 1950 to 30 November 1950. During this period, Sergeant Ackerman's unit was supporting the 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry, and 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry, when an attack by numerically superior enemy forces penetrated the friendly lines and threatened to overrun the artillery positions. While acting as the Non-commissioned Officer in charge of Battery B's Security Platoon, Sergeant Ackerman, with complete disregard for his own personal safety and continuously exposing himself to enemy small arms and mortar fire, kept his security platoon organized and directed its fire to repulse attack after attack by enemy forces. Sergeant Ackerman's heroic actions contributed materially to keeping his battery's area from being overrun by enemy forces and helped to reduce the casualties of friendly troops. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Ackerman on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Indiana.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS JACK D. EMERICK, RA 35 567 401, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 26 November 1950. On this date, Sergeant Emerick, while a member of "Task Force Kingston" with the mission of reaching the Yalu River from Samsu, Korea, voluntarily and without regard for his own safety, set up a mortar under heavy enemy rifle fire. After turning the weapon over to a gunner for manning, Sergeant Emerick crawled a steep embankment to a more exposed position and from that point adjusted effective fire which eliminated a machine gun which was causing heavy casualties to his unit, aided materially in the recovery of wounded men and the successful withdrawal of the unit. The actions of Sergeant Emerick on this occasion reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Indiana.

AWARD OF THE SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provision of the Act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action is awarded to the following named officers and enlisted men:

FIRST LIEUTENANT JESSE H. LAFOON, O-2049618, Medical Service Corps, United States Army, while a member of Medical Company, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near Kosu-ri, Korea, on 14 January 1951. On this date, Lieutenant Lafoon led a squad of men into enemy held territory in an attempt to rescue wounded, and bring out the dead of a patrol which was caught in ambush and whose own medical aid men had been killed. Lieutenant Lafoon led his squad approximately one thousand yards in front of the forward elements, seeking the wounded and giving treatment and aid wherever it was possible. Six times he combed the area bringing out three wounded and three dead before he was forced to withdraw. This action resulted in the saving of three men's lives. The gallant action of Lieutenant Lafoon reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Virginia.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RUSSELL P. OVERSTREET, O-956127 (then Second Lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company A, 17th Infantry, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy near Pungsan, Korea on 2 November 1950. On this date, Lieutenant Overstreet had moved his platoon into a defensive position in completely strange territory in the darkness. Shortly after arriving in the area he had been ordered to defend, Lieutenant Overstreet's platoc was hit by the first of several fanatical attacks by the enemy. After repeated attacks by an overwhelming superior enemy force, Lieutenant Overstreet and the members of his platoon were forced to withdraw. After his withdrawal, Lieutenant Overstreet regrouped his platoon and in the first minute of dawn led his men in an assault on the enemy. After a violent fire fight with the enemy, which saw two men of his platoon killed and four wounded, the position was retaken. Lieutenant Overstreet's determination, courageous leadership, and skillful handling of his platoon, repulsed an enemy assault, which had it been successful, would have threatened the position of the entire battalion. Lieutenant Overstreet, without regard for his own personal safety, continuously placed himself in positions exposed to enemy fire in order to lead and control his platoon. The gallantry displayed by Lieutenant Overstreet on this occasion was an inspiration to his men and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Virginia.

SERGEANT, FIRST CLASS VESPER D. MILLSPAUGH, RA 38 399 937, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Headquarters Battery, 57th Field Artillery Battalic distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, on 28 November 1950. On this date, Sergeant Millspaugh was serving as Battalion Radio Sergeant, when his unit came under attack by a numerically superior enemy force. As a result of this attack Sergeant Millspaugh's unit was pinned down by the enemy fire. Sergeant Millspaugh voluntarily and without regard for his safety moved from the security of his position some 300 yards through intense enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire to a position where he could direct friendly machine gun fire on the attacking enemy. Before completing his mission, Sergeant Millspaugh was seriously wounded. By his courageous action and inspirational bravery Sergeant Millspaugh succeeded in stopping the enemy attack and relieving his section. The gallantry displayed by Sergeant Millspaugh on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Oklahoma.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS ALEXANDER DENINO, RA 11 195 636, Artillery, United States Army, while a member of Battery C, 57th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy near Hagaru-ri, Korea, on 5 December 1950. On this date, Private Denino was attached to the 3d Platoon, Company I, 3d Battalion, 31st Infantry, which was acting as an advance guard in an approach march. As the advance guard moved along the nose of a hill, clearing out the enemy, it encountered a numerically superior enemy force concealed in well fortified defensive positions. The enemy opened fire with machine guns and small arms at close range. The intense fire from a well entrenched enemy on commanding ground caused the advance guard to take protective cover and isolated the platoon leader from the remainder of the advance guard. An order was received for the advance guard to pull out and return to the main body but, Private Denino, seeing that the platoon leader was cut off and pinned down by enemy fire, exposed himself to withering enemy fire in order to go to his assistance. Private Denino's complete disregard for his own personal safety, in the face of superior odds and heavily concentrated fire, was an inspiration to his comrades, and they also came to the platoon leader's assistance. Private Denino's heroic action contributed materially to the saving of the platoon leader's life and the capture of a group of the enemy. The gallantry displayed by Private Denino on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Connecticut.

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (Sec II, WD Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

SERGEANT MOISES R. SEGURA, RA 18 255 396, Infantry, United States Army, Company H, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action near Kichonni, Korea, on 14 January 1951. On this date, Sergeant Segura was serving as section leader of the 1st Section, 75 mm Recoilless Rifle Platoon of Company H, 32d Infantry, with the mission of providing supporting fire. A rescue team, consisting of two tanks and thirty-four men, attempted to rescue a patrol of several wounded men who were pinned down by heavy enemy small arms fire. The rescue patrol was also pinned down and the 75 mm section immediately brought fire on the enemy and continued this close supporting fire until the wounded and dead had been evacuated to the rear. After the rescue team had pulled out, the enemy concentrated their attack on the section of 75 mm's, and although the enemy soon occupied the ground to the front, right flank, and rear of the 75 position, Sergeant Segura and his section brought heavy and accurate fire on them. Sergeant Segura held his position until ordered to withdraw by the Battalion Commander. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Segura on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Texas.

SERGEANT GEORGE F. FLUTY, RA 21 926 577 (then Corporal), Artillery, United States Army, 48th Field Artillery Battalion, while attached to Company L, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Hungnam, Korea, on the night of 16 December 1950 and the early morning hours of 17 December 1950. On this night, Company L was occupying the outpost line of resistance on the Hungnam perimeter and Sergeant Fluty was acting as radio operator for the artillery forward observer. Without regard for his personal safety, Sergeant Fluty voluntarily accompanied his forward observer to a position exposed to intense enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire, where he transmitted commands over his radio to bring accurate and effective artillery fire on enemy attacks. The actions of Sergeant Fluty on this occasion resulted in the deterring of enemy attacks by inflicting heavy casualties and reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New York.

CORPORAL JOSEPH J. GLESPEN, RA 42 253 275, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 27 November 1950. On this date, Corporal Glespen's unit was pinned down on a road north of Samsu, Korea, by heavy enemy automatic weapons and anti-tank gun fire. Corporal Glespen saw one of his comrades wounded nearby on a hill. Voluntarily and without regard for his personal safety, Corporal Glespen ran up the hill, which was exposed to enemy fire, and rescued the wounded man. This act materially aided in saving the wounded man's life and inspired his comrades to close with the enemy. His heroic action on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New York.

CORPORAL FRANK JOSEPH, RA 15 414 837, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 25 November 1950. On this date, Corporal Joseph was the leading scout of a rifle squad, in "Task Force Kingston", when a well concealed enemy force attacked. Corporal Joseph, with utter disregard for his personal safety, continually exposed himself to withering enemy fire in order to continue firing his BAR. His heroic actions assisted in holding off the attack until such time as the remainder of his squad and task force could reach cover and deploy to return enemy fire. Corporal Joseph's initiative and quick thinking enabled the friendly forces to repel the attack with a minimum of casualties. His courageous act reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Ohio.

CORPORAL CLEMENT L. LAGO, RA 12 115 555, Infantry, United States Army, while attached as company aid man to Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 26 November 1950. On this date, while serving with "Task Force Kingston", on the mission of reaching the Yalu River from Samsu, Korea, Corporal Lago voluntarily moved out from cover to cross an area covered by enemy rifle and machine gun fire to render first aid to wounded of his company. While thus exposed and without regard for his personal safety, Corporal Lago carried a seriously wounded man in his arms to a covered position and rendered first aid, thus saving his life. The heroic action of Corporal Lago on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of New York.

CORPORAL HAROLD F. MARTINELL, RA 19 353 847, Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery D, 15th Anti-aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (Self-Propelled), distinguished himself with heroism near the Chosin Reservoir in Korea, from 29 November 1950 to 2 December 1950. During this period, Corporal Martinell, who was a cook in the battery mess until it was lost on 28 November as result of enemy action, voluntarily disregarded his own personal safety to assist in bringing wounded personnel from their positions to the aid station. He also assisted in caring for the wounded after they had received first aid. On 30 November 1950, while assisting a wounded soldier to the aid station, Corporal Martinell was wounded in the leg by an enemy mortar shell fragment. Despite his own wound, he continued to expose himself in order to aid others until he was evacuated by air to be treated for his wound. As a result of his courageous and unselfish devotion to his comrades, many men were successfully evacuated from danger areas to the aid station, and his assistance measurably lightened the burden of medical personnel. Corporal Martinell's heroism during this period reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Washington.

AWARD OF THE BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (See II, Bul 3, 1944), and pursuant to authority contained in AR 600-45, the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States is awarded to the following named enlisted men:

CORPORAL GEORGE B. MINTON, RA 18 714 521, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 26 November 1950. On this date, Corporal Minton, as a member of a squad in "Task Force Kingston", volunteered to lead a group of five comrades in an enveloping movement to knock out an enemy machine gun position. Upon crawling to within thirty five yards of the position, they were unable to move as a group. Corporal Minton, voluntarily and without regard for his own safety, crawled up an embankment to a position which enabled him to throw a hand grenade into and destroy the enemy emplacement. His courageous act on this occasion reflects great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Texas.

CORPORAL WADE C. MORRIS, RA 38 123 033, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 24 November 1950 and on 27 November 1950. On these dates, Corporal Morris was a member of a small task force proceeding from Samsu, Korea, through enemy territory, to the Yalu River on the Manchurian Border. On 24 November the force became pinned down by intense enemy small arms, automatic weapons and anti-tank fire and the light machine gun on the lead jeep was knocked out. Without regard for his personal safety, Corporal Morris voluntarily secured a rifle and ammunition from a nearby tank and crawled forward to deliver them to the beleagered jeep. On 27 November, Corporal Morris volunteered to lead a squad of men with a mission of locating enemy positions. Upon sighting a squad of enemy troops around some anti-tank and small arms positions, he voluntarily led his squad across an exposed area to successfully destroy the enemy. The heroic action of Corporal Morris on these occasions contributed greatly to the successful completion of the mission of the task force and reflect great credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Oklahoma.

PRIVATE CLYDE O. SMITH, RA 13 269 701, Infantry, United States Army, while a member of Company K, 32d Infantry, distinguished himself by heroic action against an armed enemy near Samsu, Korea, on 26 November 1950. On this date, Private Smith was a member of a squad advancing on an enemy machine gun position when a comrade directly in front of him was seriously wounded. Private Smith, voluntarily and without regard for his own safety, unhesitatingly shielded his comrade from direct enemy small arms fire while dragging and carrying him approximately forty five yards before reaching cover. During this action Private Smith was himself wounded. The heroism and courage shown by Private Smith on this occasion reflect the highest credit on himself and the military service. Entered the military service from the State of Pennsylvania.

INTELLIGENCE ANNEX

STUDY OF OPERATIONS IN THE

AMI'DONG AREA

1. General: 3d Bn ROT 32 has been conducting operations in the AMI'DONG area (DS 5353) since 1 March 51.

2. Daily Summary of Enemy Action:

1 Mar 51: As Co's "I" and "K" moved into the high ground NE and E of AMI'DONG in the late afternoon they encountered strong small arms and automatic weapons fire from the hilltops. This was reduced by nightfall. Sniper fire continued throughout the night of 1 & 2 Mar 51.

2 Mar 51: Co's "I" and "K" were attacked at 0530 by groups of around 60 NK's. These attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. Simultaneously, a 7 man patrol fired on Co L positions W of AMI'DONG. A force of approximately 60 enemy posing as ROK's, infiltrated Co "L" positions the night and caused light casualties (and much confusion) before being driven out. Patrolling to the NE and E during the day failed to locate the enemy. A tank-infantry patrol toward CHANG'DONG-NI (DS 4562) drew small arms fire at DS 515547). There was no enemy activity during the night of 2 & 3 Mar 51.

3 Mar 51: A tank-infantry patrol (Task Force Smith) departed AMI'DONG at 0800 for CHANGDONG-NI. At (DS 493581) TF Smith encountered a series of crater-type obstacles which were not covered by fire. This belt extended to (DS 508558). A platoon moving ahead of the main body, received small arms fire from the ridge in grid squares 4858 and 4957. Air reported activity around the bridge (previously reported blown) at DS 4960) and gun emplacements at (DS 4860).

3. Other Factors:

a. ROK activities: Elms 3d ROK Regt are advancing NE from AMI'DONG toward a possible link-up with elms 1st ROK Cavalry.

b. En units in area: III Corps, 15th NK Div (Elms).
II Corps, 27th NK Div (Elms).

c. En capabilities:

a. Delay in present pens with elms. 15th and 27th NK Divs anytime.

3. C. b. Defend in present positions with elms, 15 and 27th NK Divs anytime.
