Visitors were Mrs. Hazel Gibbs and Mrs. Earline McNair. Mrs. William Carter was welcomed as a new member.

Maj. Iniesta Feted

Maj. Carlos Iniesta, assistant military attaché from Spain, was guest at a luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday, with Col. George Honnen as host.

The luncheon was centered with mixed summer flowers.

Col. Mrs. Tupper Fete Guests in Palm Room

Col. and Mrs. Sevier Tupper entertained with a dinner in the Palm room the Officers' Mess on Friday.

The dinner table was decorated with arrangements of pink verbena and yellow and white snapdragons.

Craig-Carlisle Ceremony Performed by Judge Burch

Pvt. Barbara Jean Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Craig, of Menlo Park, Calif., became the bride of Sgt. Russell C. Carlisle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley of Youngtown, Ohio, at a quiet and simple ceremony in the home of Judge J. S. Burch, Phenix City, Ala.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Judge Burch before the large bay windows in the living room of his home. The bride was attended by Mrs. J. Hemolish as matron of honor and Jeannette Strublinger as bridesmaid.

Mrs. Hemolish wore a black net gown over pink taffeta with pink accessories, and the bridesmaid wore a ballerina length yellow sheer with white accessories. Cpl. John Hemolish served the groom as best man and the groomsmen was Cpl. Frank Diezick.

The bride was lovely in a ballerina length white organza dress posed over white taffeta, fitted jacket and white accessories. She wore a corsage of wine carnations. The young couple will make their home in Columbus.

Mrs. Carlisle is stationed with the Wac detachment here and Sgt. Carlisle is a member of Company B, 15th Infantry Regiment.

Morning Coffee Held

The ladies of 9440th Area Service unit met at the Officers' Mess on Wednesday for an informal coffee on the patio, with the members of the military police group serving as hostesses.

She Can Sing, Too

Miss LaGrange Aiming For Career as Nurse

There's one beauty contestant who'll step up on the NCCS stage at 8 p. m. Friday who works as a LaGrange telephone operator but who wants to become a nurse.

Why does blue-eyed 18-year-old Mary Ann Rosser, Miss LaGrange of 1950, want to become a nurse? Well, Mary Ann has an invalid friend whom she has nursed and took care of for a year and it was during that time that the brown-haired girl made up her mind for the nursing profession. She plans to use the $300 the Junior Chamber of Commerce awarded her in the hometown contest to begin a nurse training course.

But this is not her only talent. Her other one is singing, mezzo soprano singing, to which Mary Ann will treat the five judges. "My Hero" and "My Foolish Heart" are the selections she's chosen. She would like to study voice along with nursing.

A 1950 graduate of LaGrange high school, Mary Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Rosser.

"Swimming," answered Mary Ann when questioned as to her favorite participating sport. She went along with most of the other beauty queens when telling the sport she most likes to watch.

That's football. Typing and horseback riding are her hobbies and maybe it's because she can cook that she lists spaghetti as her favorite dish.

What about those measurements? She's 5 feet 5 inches; hips, 35; weight 118; bust, 35; waist, 24; thigh, 19; calf, 14; ankle, 8 1/4; wrist, 5 1/2; and upper arm 9 1/4.

Regiment Honors Officers at Party

The 30th Infantry regiment entertained with its monthly party at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday, honoring officers who are leaving the regiment.

The serving table was decorated with arrangements of summer flowers and magnolia leaves. The receiving line, which was formed at the end of the swimming pool on the patio, included Lt. Col. and Mrs. James H. Lynch, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Frank J. Suckton, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Joseph W. Stillwell, Jr., Lt. Col. and Mrs. William J. Burde, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Richard I. Jones and Capt. Walter M. Turner.

Reminder Issued On Rush Period Traffic Schedule

The post provost marshal issued a reminder this week on the traffic schedule for entering and leaving the post during rush hours.

The schedule is as follows: Coming on the post in the morning, the traffic is two-lane inbound from 7:15 until 7:30, two-way traffic from 7:30 until 7:35, and two-lane inbound from 7:35 until 7:55, when traffic returns to normal in and out flow, the afternoon traffic is two-lane outbound from 4:35 until 4:50, a two-way traffic from 4:50 until 5:05 and two-lane inbound from 5:05 until 5:25, when traffic again reverts to normal procedure.

In the morning, automobiles entering the post on Clark road, the truck route, are to turn right off Ingalls onto Opton to lessen congestion at the intersection of Ingersoll and Vibbert during the peak traffic period.

During the incoming traffic period, vehicles will be prohibited from traveling east on Vibbert between Ingersoll and Sigerfoos. At that time, the following rules are in force:

1. Vehicles traveling north on Ingersoll will turn left at Vibbert.

2. Vehicles traveling north on Sigerfoos will turn right at Vibbert.

3. Vehicles traveling east on Vibbert will turn right at Ingersoll.

Sigerfoos, as it approaches Vibbert from Oupstee road, will be divided into two lanes with the left lane used to cross Vibbert and the right lane will be used to turn right onto Vibbert.

Vehicles wishing to stop for discharge of passengers must immediately after turning right from Sigerfoos onto Vibbert, or after crossing Vibbert onto Sigerfoos, will be required to continue at least 100 feet from the intersection before stopping.

During the afternoon period of outgoing traffic, only one rule is in effect. That is that all vehicles will be prohibited from turning left on Benning boulevard onto Old Lumpkin road during the two-way traffic period. All outbound vehicles must keep moving north on Benning boulevard.

During both control periods, vehicles going to Sand Hill are urged to go by way of Harmony church.

Two ISD Enlisted Men

Changes for two enlisted men of the Infantry School Detachment were announced this week.

M-Sgt. Leonard J. Dorch, formerly with the Academic department has been transferred to the G-3 office, and Sgt. Roy J. Browder has been transferred from the G-3 office to the G-2 office of the Infantry School.

Dobroskys Plan Vacation, But No Bus Ride This Year

It's a long bus ride from Columbus to Reading, Pa., especially for St. John Dobrosky and his good-sized family. But that is the way the Dobroskys took their yearly vacation to the sergeant's home last year.

Mrs. Dobrosky says she "wouldn't do it again if somebody offered to pay her way."

As soon as the sergeant can manage to get away from his job with the Commissary Sales store, the family will be off on a trip with Mama and Papa Dobrosky and all the little ones—that's Barbara, Frances, Tommy and Edward.

LIKE MOST ARMY FAMILIES the Dobroskys have married around a lot. Not any two of the children were born in the same place. Sixteen-year-old Barbara, who is Mrs. Dobrosky's child by a former marriage, was born in Columbus, Ga. Eight-year-old Frances was born at Fallsburg, Miss., while the sergeant was stationed at nearby Shreveport.

Tommy was born in Butler, Ga. while Mrs. Dobrosky was staying with her sister and the sergeant was overseas. Four-year-old Edward is a native Benningite born right here at the Station hospital.

John Dobrosky is a Pennsylvanian, but he has had a strict Southern family since he

Unit Furnishes Security Detail

A detail of 105 enlisted men and five officers from Company C, 15th Infantry regiment, returned last week from the Air Force's Low Range Proving grounds, Cocoa, Fla., where they served as a special security patrol.

Capt. Clyde H. Baden, Jr., commander of the special unit, reported that the hand-picked unit made a general training and secret area where guided missiles were fired this month. The unit served at the Florida installation for almost a month, leaving here in last June.

Officials in Washington, who were in charge of picking the units said the detail of men had been selected because of superior performance in general training and participation in Infantry School demonstrations at Fort Benning.

Arctic Operation Course Planned

BIG DELTA, Alaska (AFPS)—About 100 Air Force officers and a number of Navy and Air Force officers will attend a four-week course in summer Arctic operations, to be scheduled here soon.

Purpose of the course is to familiarize specialized personnel in individual and small unit operational techniques necessary to move and fight under summer climatic conditions in a sub-Arctic region.

Instruction will include subjects such as Alaskan geography and weather, interpretation of Arctic and sub-Arctic aerial photographs, care and use of special mountaineering equipment, characteristics of snow and ice, glacier climbing demonstration, and rescue techniques.

Study will be made also of land navigation (cross country movement over tundra and muskox), survival techniques in winter and summer, logistics in the Alaskan theater, supply of ground troops by liaison and cargo planes, and the troop information program.

Six men were assigned to Headquarters detachment, 328th Ordnance battalion last week. They were Cpl. Howard L. Miller, Pvt. Donald A. Fendleton, Pvt. Herbert K. Yancey, Cpl. James H. Pratt and Pfc. Frank J. Flucinsky.

Sergeant Transferred Sgt. John M. Nelson, Headquarters company, Third Infantry, Ft. Donald A. Fendleton, transferred to the 3310th Area Service unit, Tennessee Military District headquarters, Nashville.

48 Division Men Receive Awards

Third Infantry division certificates of achievement were awarded to 48 enlisted men last week for their meritorious performance of duty.

The awards went to M-Sgt. John H. Wilson, Charles J. Hemphill, Sigs. Wilburn A. Jones, John W. Allen, Eugene Glenn, Mark E. Corneus and John E. McCowan.

Sgt. Peter E. Srebro, Herbert H. Steinke, John R. Swanson, Jon Greenwood, John S. Smith, Lionel C. Moore, Austin Dorne, Sylvester Leonard, Wilber Van Buren, Eldrich Henley, Henry D. Laws, Earnest Searight, Willie J. Bell and Henry J. Taylor.

Cpls. Alfred F. Swanson, Edward Moore, Henry Outley, Frank Davis, W. H. H. Breen, Jr., James Knight, James E. Rice, James H. McCall, Anthony Jackson, James H. Malone, Thomas Mesek, Willard Pool, William E. Wright, Robert E. Easton, Melvin Garrett and Thomas M. Harris.

Pfc. Edward R. Gardner, Willie A. Parker, Oliver G. Coner, Thomas Fugate, James W. H. and John H. Jackson, Walter McCray, Elliott T. Carter, James R. Johnson and Guy B. Zebbs.

Terms of NSLI Plan Discussed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the seventh of a series of articles relative to the insurance and savings plan of the Army. The series is being compiled and written by Sgt. Aubrey H. Newton, chief clerk of the Infantry Center Army Emergency Relief, Insurance and Savings office. This article will discuss dividends.

BY SGT. AUBREY H. NEWTON

Participating policies shall participate in and receive such dividends from gains and savings as may be determined by the administrator of veterans affairs, but policies containing additional provisions for the payment of disability benefits may be separately classified for the purpose of dividend distribution from otherwise similar policies not containing such benefits.

Any insurance issued to veterans where the requirement of good health is waived because of disabilities resulting from or aggravated by active service between Oct. 8, 1940 and Sept. 2, 1945, will not participate in any surplus arising in the NSLI fund.

This insurance is issued separately as non-participating insurance with no right to dividends. This insurance has been designated as H-insurance (extra hazards). The United States reimburses the fund on account of any death or disability claims resulting from the extra hazard of military or naval service, as such hazard may be determined by the administration.

Savings are the results of favorable mortality experience and excess interest earnings. There can be no savings in administration costs because all expenses incident to the administration are paid by the government.

Dividends are payable in case or may be left on deposit at interest provided policy is in force on a basis other than extended term insurance. Interest on dividends left on deposit will be compounded annually at a rate determined by the administrator of veterans' affairs. Accumulated dividend deposits may be withdrawn by the insured at any time while the policy is in force by payment of premiums, or as paid-up insurance. Dividends may not be used to purchase paid-up additions, but may be withdrawn and applied against future premiums.

At maturity by death, accumulated dividends may not be used to increase income under options two, three or four, because dividend accumulation will not be included as part of the proceeds under an optional settlement. The word "proceeds" refers to the face amount of the policy less any indebtedness.

Accumulated dividends may not be used to pay loans at death of the insured in order to increase proceeds for income purposes because indebtedness must be paid off in cash prior to maturity. Any accumulated dividends at maturity of policy will be paid in cash to the beneficiary. At time of lapse accumulated dividends will be used in addition to the reserve of the policy for computing the period of extended term insurance and the amount of paid-up insurance.

NEXT WEEK: BENEFICIARIES.

Chemical Corps Training Stated

Some 70 Army reserve Chemical corps officers from the southeastern states will arrive at the Infantry Center Aug. 13 to begin a two-week training encampment. The reserve school's staff will be Col. Frederick E. Powell, Jackson, Miss.; Lt. Col. James W. Duckett, professor of chemistry, The Citadel, Charleston, S. C.; Lt. Col. Rhett G. Harris, professor of chemistry, Charleston, S. C.; Lt. Col. Cecil N. Wilder, University of Georgia, Maj. J. R. Williams, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Lt. John W. Pittman, Atlanta, Georgia.

The second annual summer training period will cooperate with other Infantry School departments in implementing a training and observation program. Three of the school's staff officers recently completed a course at the Chemical Corps Indocination school at Treasure Island, Calif. These instructors will direct instruction in the Army's new techniques and developments of radiological defense, decontamination, detection of new war chemicals and area damage control.

TIS Discloses Duty Changes

Col. Raymond C. Hamilton was appointed deputy assistant commandant of the Infantry School last week and Col. George E. Bush was named director of the Staff department. Other appointments included Col. E. T. Cowen, who was assigned to the Academic department, and Lt. Col. M. C. Taylor, who assumed duties as acting director of the Weapons department.

ISD Men Receive Advances in Grade

Six men of the Infantry School detachment were promoted from private to private first class last week.

The men are Carlos E. Bowden and Thomas J. Winklevos, Detachment headquarters; Donald E. Greenwell, Philip C. Miller and Thomas H. Matlock, Company B, and Bill W. Cairns, Company H.

Assigned to Truck Unit

M-Sgt. Anastacio Libacao, M-Sgt. Casimir Szocinski, Sgt. Mauril Wood, Sgt. Theodore H. Babcock, Sgt. James H. England, Cpl. James E. Brown, Sgt. John K. Hooper, and Sgt. C. Daugherty were transferred to the 33rd Transportation Truck company from other post units last week.

Korea, Troubled Peninsula

Japanese Influence Brought About Many Reforms

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles by Staff Writer Pat Murphy dealing with the military, economic, cultural and religious history of Korea.

BY PAT MURPHY
Bayonet Staff Writer

For more than 150 years—from the early seventeenth century until late in the nineteenth century—two main Oriental powers had become bedfellows in the moderately soft diplomatic bed of Korea. Intermittently, Japan and China would kick each other in the loins years of slumber; and an outbreak of open conflict between the countries was often subdued aborning. But superiority in Korea favored the Chinese. Because of her seemingly impregnable military force and the diplomatically weight she could throw in Asia, China was able to call the tricks in Korean crises. Japan, meanwhile, would, as a lesser power, tactfully bow and ascribe to Chinese demands for control.

Throughout the period of complete Chinese control, no genuine seeds of civilization were implanted in Korea; instead the internal affairs had hastened into an abominable condition. Justice was bought and sold, torture was freely employed for political advantage, nobles and officials of the land were greedy and corrupt and the common people were burdened unscrupulously by taxation. Revolution seemed unavoidable.

INTO THE POLITICAL CHAOS stepped a group of liberals desperately set on effecting a complete change in the corrupt government. This progressive group of Koreans, which had imbibed Japanese ideas of political and social progress, openly invited the Japanese to Korea to help in the uprising to overthrow the Chinese-dominated Korean government. Opposed to this rebellious formation were the politically strong Korean Conservatives, who were backed by the mighty Chinese army and glib-tongued diplomatic corps.

After months of planning and preparations, the Japanese-Korean political alliance put into gear a rebellion slated for violent outbreak on Dec. 7, 1894.

On the night of intrigue, the new Korean Postmaster General, who had been backed politically by the Chinese, was surrounded by the country's leading nobles at a victory banquet. During the gala celebration, a house across from the banquet hall suddenly burst into flames and Ming Yong Ik, the Korean Prime Minister, rushed from the hall to watch the fire. Japanese assassins attacked him and the party broke up in confusion. During the ensuing riot, the King was captured and several of his top military and political leaders were murdered.

A force of 3,000 Chinese soldiers stationed nearby, with as many Koreans, assaulted the small force of Japanese revolutionaries and routed them from their positions in the captured palace. Armies of Korean conservatives, provoked by the rebellion, attacked and killed scores of innocent Japanese nationals in the city.

THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT, EMBITTERED by the slaughter of its defenseless nationals, strongly resented the Korean attitude toward Japan. To renew friendly relations, Korea immediately appealed the Japanese with an indemnity for the slain Japanese and rounded up all "murderers" and put them to death for their participation in the slaughter of the Jap nationals.

Shortly afterward, Japan and China dispatched troops to the Korean capital with separate ambassadors, and war between the two forces seemed inevitable. But a peace conference was held and both nations decided to withdraw the troops and never again return unless there was mutual consent.

The Tong-hak, a mysterious tribal order that had suddenly become well-equipped with foreign weapons, forced their principles into the political current of Korea 1882. In 1883, a Tong-hak courier raced into Seoul, the Korean capital, and nailed a proclamation to the palace gates calling on all right-minded men to join in an overthrow of the government. Before Korean officials could search out Tong-hak forces, they were on the march.

In May 1894 the Tong-haks pushed from south Korea toward the north, pillaging and burning villages and towns. The ruffled Koreans pleaded with China for military aid to push back the invader. Marshaling several thousand troops, China moved into Korea, notifying Japan, their peace partner, of the move. Japan consented to the move, but as a "gesture," sent a small force of their own sailors and soldiers.

WITHOUT CAUSE, THE TONG-HAKS ENDED their war on Korea and retired to the southern provinces. Korea implored China and Japan to remove their troops. China followed the order. But Japan had other ideas.

Under the crafty rangling of Mr. Otori, Japanese ambassador, Japan was able to get audience with the Korean king and set forth a list of demands to result in a rift between China and Korea. Under threat of war, the Koreans obliged by severing ties with the Chinese. Several weeks later, however, the Japanese issued a list of more demands that were aimed at forcing social reforms in the country. Korea refused.

Provoked by Korea's refusal to let her govern Korean society, Japan began a sweeping drive to eliminate the Chinese from Korea.

During 1894, Chinese troops were steadily pushed northward through the Korean peninsula. Finally, by mid-1895, Chinese power in Korea had been crushed and Korea was now in the hands of the designing Japanese. Military observers far and wide had watched in awe while the powerful Chinese had been defeated overwhelmingly in every naval and army engagement by the "weak" Japanese forces.

In April 1895, Chinese and Japanese representatives met for a peace conference and a treaty, in Japan's favor, was signed despite protests of the Chinese.

In the years to come, when the world began to see the rising power of Japan, many new reforms were instituted in Korea by Japan, some to the distinct advantage and profit of Koreans. Slaves were declared free, debts were canceled, and social equality among the people was established.

Soda Fountain Being Built In Main Benning Cafeteria

The famous American institution, "the corner drugstore," will become a fixture at Fort Benning next month. Lt. Col. Allan M. Cory, infantry center exchange officer, disclosed this week that the first increment of $8,000 worth of soda fountain equipment arrived here to be installed in a new fountain and snack bar in the southeast corner of the main post cafeteria. He said construction of the new EX facility was begun last week and should be completed in slightly more than a month. According to construction plans, the soda fountain and snack bar will be completed.

Gen. Miley Calls For Completely Airborne Army

"A completely air transportable Army" was called for last week by Maj. Gen. William M. Miley, Fort Bragg, N. C., commander. "At present the only military power which can quickly operate in any part of the world is our Air Force," Miley told a reserve officers' meeting.

"But," he continued, "the Korean War has clearly shown that military power beyond the Air Force and the Navy is necessary to stop determined ground forces."

"It appears the only answer... is by making our Army completely air transportable. They must be able to move quickly to widely dispersed parts of the earth and carry with them everything which which they need to fight."

This type of mobile Army would require lighter weapons, he said.

Fighting in Korea showed the vulnerability of ground troops to tanks, he said, and tanks to meet enemy tanks could not be transported by air.

The obvious answer is to develop a light, man-portable gun capable of defeating any known armor at long range," he said.

Miley said he did not think total war was inevitable. However, he said, "I do think if by some chance total war does come, we will lick hell out of whom ever we fight."

equipment to prepare and sell-cream products such as milkshakes, banana splits and sundaes. Also, a small grill will be installed for the preparation of sandwiches and soups.

Although officials said hours of operations haven't been determined, it will probably be open from mid-morning six days a week until about midnight.

This, it was explained, will be done by theater-going personnel to "grab a snack" before going home.

The fluorescent-lighted cubicle, which will be paneled in Marlite and floored with rubber tile, will be managed by George W. Bush, who is being sent to Washington to attend a special two-week ice cream merchandising course at the National Ice Cream Manufacturers Institute.

Another 45 officers families have moved into Cluster R o a Terrace housing project during the past week, to bring the total occupants to almost 90 families.

Bill Couches agent for the B. H. Harris company, rental agents for the project, said almost 200 families have been granted occupancy, but have not moved in yet because of difficulty in transferring from their present residences.

The 600-unit Wherry bill housing project, which was constructed at a cost of $5 million by the Jordan company, Columbus construction concern, is rapidly being completed. The last unit is expected to be completely finished early in September.

The first 46 families moved into the modern homes two weeks ago.

Personnel Shifted By Artillery Outfit Four assignments and transfers within the 41st Field Artillery battalion were announced last week by unit officials.

Second Lt. Lawrence S. Kimbly was transferred to Battery M-Sgt. Eugene Campbell was assigned to Service battery and Pfc. Jess L. Belcher and Walter L. Smart were assigned to Headquarters battery.

Volunteers from the 15th In-

Lawson Shifted To 9th Air Force

Lawson Air Force base has been placed under the jurisdiction of the Ninth Air Force, Maj. Richard O. Johnson, base commander, has announced.

Prior to the switch, Lawson had been under the command of the 14th Air Force whose headquarters is at Robins Air Force base near Macon, Ga. The Ninth Air Force is part of the Tactical Air command.

Although no reason was given for the change, Major Johnson said that the base would continue its present mission, supplying aerial support for Airborne training.

Nine Men Assigned To 666th Truckers

Nine men of the 396th Transportation Truck company were transferred to the 666th Transportation Truck company last week.

They were Cpl. John H. Bent, Sgt. Donald W. Stoyd, Sgt. Richard Stallworth, Cpl. Lloyd Butler, Cpl. Johnnie B. Sneed, Cpl. Fill Ware, Pvt. Leroy Star, Legion of Merit, Corporal Infantry badge and the Purple Heart.

15th Infantry Battalions Get New Commanding Officers

New commanders were recently assigned to the three battalions of the 15th Infantry regiment.

Lt. Col. James O. Rowell assumed duties as commander of the First Battalion, Lt. Col. Arthur Peck took command of the Second Battalion, and Lt. Col. Milburn N. Huston took over the Third Battalion.

Colonel Rowell graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1923, and received his master's degree from Harvard university in 1941. He served as an assistant military attaché in Russia for two years, and during World War II, served with the 80th Infantry division in the European theater for two years.

Among his decorations are the Silver Star, the Bronze Star with an Oak Leaf cluster, and the Legion of Merit.

Colonel Peck graduated from West Point in 1936, and was in the Pacific when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. He stayed there with the 43rd Infantry Division for the next 45 months. His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Combat Infantry badge and the Purple Heart.

Colonel Huston graduated from the University of Missouri in 1923, and during World War II, served with the 41st Armored Infantry division at Fort Benning and the Fifth Corps in Germany. His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit and the Order of Yun Hsi, a Chinese award.

100 Pounds of Fish Hooked by Troopers

Florida waters gave up over 100 pounds of assorted fish during last weekend when a party of six paratroopers descended upon them with rod and reel unfurled.

Roy Borenstein, Edgar Pringle, H. C. Pray, Oliver White, James Akers and J. A. Acosta, all of the Airborne battalion of the 82nd Airborne division, were the Isac Walton that took just two days to pull in the king-sized yield of fish.

On Duty in PM Section

Pvt. Betty J. Guile was recently assigned to the WAC detachment here, and has assumed duty with the Provost Marshal section.

MAJ. GEN. P. W. CLARKSON, CENTER, CONGRATULATED BY CIVITANS Columbus Mayor Ralph Sayers, Left, Joins Ledger-Enquirer Publisher, M. R. Ashworth In Saying Farewell To Third Division Commander

Council Presents Resolution To Departing Division Chief

In an "au revoir" resolution presented last week to Maj. Gen. P. W. Clarkson, commanding general of the Third Infantry division, the Columbus, Phenix City, and Fort Benning Citizens and Military council said thanks to a good friend, counselor, and citizen.

Columbus Mayor Ralph Sayers and M. R. Ashworth, members of the Citizens and Military council, made the presentation at an informal meeting in the general's office. Ten top-ranking Third division officers also attended.

In offering the tribute to General Clarkson, Mr. Ashworth said the division head is "considered a citizen of Columbus and a great leader" in the community as well as in military affairs.

The general has helped in many ways to better military-civilian relations here, Mr. Ashworth added, and it is the desire of the council to thank him and to wish him good luck in his new assignment to Fort Shafter, Honolulu.

FOLLOWING IS THE RESOLUTION as it was presented to General Clarkson:

"As directed by the membership of the Columbus, Phenix City, Fort Benning Citizens and Military council in executive session, on Friday, July 21, 1950, your committee, appointed by Mr. T. G. Reeves, chairman of Muscogee County Road Commission, host for the meeting, has drawn up the following statement pertaining to Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson, commanding general Third Infantry division (less one Regimental Combat Team) now assigned to Fort Benning, who is leaving Fort Benning, having been assigned to Fort Shafter, Honolulu, T. H. in December, 1949. Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson was assigned to Fort Benning, Ga., as commanding general of the Third Infantry division. General Clarkson had been in command of this division at Camp Campbell, Ky., having been assigned to the division in 1946 as its commanding general after returning to the United States from his last assignment as chief of staff, U. S. Army Forces, Pacific.

"In October, 1919, General Clarkson, then a captain, was first assigned to Fort Benning. It was during this initial assignment that General Clarkson met and married Lucy Kent Chapman, a Columbus girl, thus tying the general closely to Columbus civilian life as well as the military.

"Since coming to Benning, in 1948, General Clarkson has associated himself with all civilian activities that have had any relationship to the affairs of Fort Benning.

"Prior to 1946, at the request of the War department, there had been set up at Fort Benning, a Citizens and Military council. This organization has for its members ranking officers at Fort Benning as assigned by the commandant of the Infantry Center and the head of all civic organizations of importance in the City of Columbus, Ga., and Phenix City, Ala., and Muscogee county, Ga., and Russell county, Ala.

"This organization functions as a clearing house for all problems common to the military and civilians in the areas indicated. Meetings are held monthly, the host for each meeting rotating usually between Fort Benning, Phenix City, Muscogee county, and Columbus. Often individual civilian members have been hosts.

"The foregoing has been recorded hereon because it is the desire of the members of the Citizens and Military council to officially thank General Clarkson, who has been a member of the council, for his ever present co-operation in matters of interest not only to the military and civilians' mutual benefit, as presented to the council from time to time, but also because of the many contributions of service in matters strictly civilian.

"It is with the high esteem by which General Clarkson is held in the minds and hearts of the members of the Citizens and Military council, this organization wishes to say, to the general:

"A. WE ARE GLAD MAJ. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson was assigned to Benning:

"B. It has been our good fortune over the years to have brought to our city, through Fort Benning, military men of such

Family Allowance Restoration Looms

Congress was asked this week to restore family allowances for enlisted personnel of the Armed Forces which will expire soon under existing legislation.

Identical bills were introduced in the house and senate by the chairman of the armed services committees. A committee official said the action was requested by the Defense department.

Under legislation raising military pay $300,000,000 annually, the family allowances are due to expire at the latest by July 1, 1952. Some end much earlier.

Payments Increased
The allowances proposed last week would provide $75 a month for a wife under a World War II. The GI would pay $30 of this out of his increased pay check.

The $75 a month would be paid to wife, husband or dependent parent of service personnel. For two dependent parents from an enlisted man's pay no child of the serviceman or woman the allowance would be $25. If a wife is living apart under an is the only parent, $60 would be allowed for a dependent child. Both government payments and the deductions from service men's pay would be increased as compared to World War II. In the last war, for example, a serviceman's wife got $50 a month of which he paid $22.

The proposed plan would work this way:
The same sum $30 would be deducted if he listed only Class B dependents, which includes parents.

But if the serviceman lists both Class A and Class B dependents, he would pay $45 a month.

The deductions of $30 or $45 a month would be the maximum from an enlisted man's pay no matter how many dependents he lists. The government pays the rest under the pending legislation.

If a wife is living apart under permanent or temporary court order and is listed as dependent, the amount allowed her could not exceed the amount permitted in court order.

Class B Deduction
The same sum $30 would be deducted if he listed only Class B dependents, which includes parents.

But if the serviceman lists both Class A and Class B dependents, he would pay $45 a month.

Jerk of the Week

Hint to Selectors Wins Wally Title

A combination of intrusion, obtrusion and protrusion won Jerk of the Week honors for Sgt. Wallstien Interloper. He is the guy that always has to get in his bit, and it usually is not even two cents worth.

The intrepid Interloper first came to the attention of the Jerk selectors when he said, "This Jerk of the Week job needs some new blood." We thank you, Wally, for your transgression, and our only regret is that we cannot also use your sweat and tears. Speaking of tears, Wally delights in imparting the woeful experiences of his life. Even without a beer under his belt, the slightest hint of melancholia from an associate will send Wally into a drawout account of all his troubles. The only possible defensive action against Interloper is just keeping your mouth shut; he'll do all the talking anyway. As for the offensive; one victim stuffed a sheet in his mouth, but it is more effective to wallop Wally.

Interloper never misses an opportunity to thrust himself upon you. He will shove his ear in the culmest waters. When he sees someone reading a newspaper uninhibited Interloper immediately assumes the shoulder-peep position. With his knee placed firmly in the reader's back he digs his chin into the hollow of the shoulder. Once he is firmly entrenched he begins a comedy commentary on the news of the day. This goes on until the comics page comes up; this Wallstien reads in the silence of intense concentration.

A FAVORITE SPOT FOR INTERLOPER'S INFILTRATION IS on the crowded buses going to town. This prime butinsky sandwiches himself between a couple of buddies and runs interference between their remarks. Jam-packed buses are the most successful fields for Interloper's interception. The victims cannot get away through the crowd, and besides, he usually is standing on their feet while he is getting in their hair.

With the fairer sex Wally has the most success at dances; his interpretation of the custom of cutting-in is more like bargaining-in. Waltzing up to a couple dancing cheek to cheek, waddling in, Waltzing up to a couple dancing cheek to cheek, waddling in, Wally will grab them both playfully by the nape of the neck and ask if they mind. If the guy and the girl are polite each about Interloper's invasion, they will probably never see each other again. When all the people at a dance know about Wally, the insinuating Interloper descends to the lowly, but satisfactory expediency of table hopping. It would not be so bad if he did not insist on hopping right in the middle of the table.

If you have escaped Sergeant Wallstien Interloper so far, congratulations. But don't be too smug; he is liable to be hopping, popping or dropping in on you at any time or any place.

Area Diamond Squads to Vie Here

Sports Sidelights

BY LEO J. PARENT
Bayonet Sports Editor

The Doughboys of 1950 made their debut Monday night when they met and slaughtered the Calloway mills nine from Manchester, Ga. The game that was supposed to prove a test to the strength of the post squad turned into a rout that showed the fans nothing about the team that will bear the Fort Benning colors into the Third Army tournament next week.

Minus their ace pitcher, the Calloway diamondmen came unglued at every corner of the diamond. Balls bounced off their gloves with wild abandon, and the Doughboy smashes that should have been easy outs put runners on the sacks.

That the score could have been different is attested by the fact that the lads from Manchester have a pitcher that whiffed 19 batters in their game two weeks ago with the Columbus Manufacturing company, a better than average squad. The boy wonder is Marvin (Baby) Waller, a 17-year-old who displaces 185 pounds in any baseball waters. The whiff kid failed to put in an appearance at Monday's game, and as his teammates prophesied, "without Marvin, we just can't do it."

The Calloways did have some good boys on the team, but without Marvin, they just didn't do it. One of their bright lights was a husky lad named Forest Allen who tried out with the St. Louis Cards this year at Albany, Ga. A bad leg cost him his chances for major or minor league glory, but his play Monday night showed why the Cards gave him the tryout.

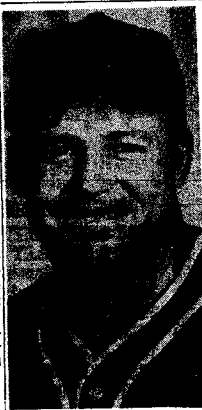

Strictly on the Side

Before we go any further in the column, we'd like to request that anyone with football coaching experience, line or backfield, please give Joe Steffy a call at 2823 or report to Doughboy stadium. Steffy needs men with previous experience to aid him with this year's football Doughboys.

One item that should appear much more than it does on these sport pages comes under the large general heading of intra-mural sports. Since assuming the duties of sports editor for the Bayonet, I've received phone calls from various parts of the post requesting that this or that piece of sporting news be printed.

In almost every case, the individual calling seems surprised when told that the piece will appear in the sport section. He then goes on to explain that he was told to call in and report the game had been played but is not to expect to see the item used.

The Bayonet sports staff is not large enough to cover all the activities of the various units on the post, and yet we would like to use all the news. The telephone number of the Public Information Office is 3535, one of the first numbers that should be called following an intra-mural sports activity. Your sports program needs publicity and this is the way to get it.

BILL DAUGHTRY
15th's Ace Hurler

Red Caps Take Softball Crown

Led by big Bill Daughtry, the 15th Infantry regiment's Red Caps emerged as Third Army division softball champions by slaughtering the representatives of the 39th Field Artillery, 32-2, in a game that was balled after five innings of play.

Daughtry held the opposing batters to two hits, while his squad was running wild on the basepaths. In addition to his pitching chores, Daughtry added to the havoc by blasting one of the four home runs in the game. George Sage contributed two round-trippers to the cause and Bill Uzzie hit the other.

In games played last week, the 15th defeated the third division Special Troops, 4-3, and followed that victory with an 8-4 triumph over the Provisional Medical Battalion.

In play in the Infantry Center softball tournament, Tiny Koehel pitched the Red Caps to a 9-8 win over the 8440th ASU. Koehel and teammate Max Maxtedon banged out two doubles apiece in the extra-inning affair.

Four Day Meet To Open Aug. 8

Baseball fans will witness some of the best action seen at Fort Benning this year when Third Army tournament teams pitch their tents here Aug. 8-11.

Entries have been received from only two teams, Fort Benning and Fort Bragg, N. C., according to Lt. Col. Henry Clisson, post special services officer. Expected entries are Fort McPherson, Ga., Atlanta General depot, Ga., and Camp Gordon, Ga. A possible entry is the Oliver General hospital nine.

Benning will be represented by the Airborne battalion of the Student Training Regiment which won that right by emerging as king of the diamond with a record of 18 victories against one defeat in the post league.

The lone defeat was by the Third Infantry division Artillery squad which were members of the nine by a 5-4 score. The shut-out, however, averaged that loss with a 9-1 win in their second meeting with the artillerymen.

Boasting two of the post's league finest pitchers, like Silcox (7-0) and Jim Shirley (5-0), the top hitter, Bill Brooks (4-5) and the highest team batting average (.285), this year's Doughboys loom as pre-tourney favorites.

Shirley spent much of his time in the outfield when he wasn't pitching and wound up the season with a terrific 357 plate average. Silcox averaged more than 11 strikeouts per game to lead the all-Army crown in the tournament held here.

Eight of this year's Doughboy squad were members of 1949's team that took the Third Army championship and went on competition for several years in the tournament held here.

Turnover from last year's starting pitcher was Catcher Tom Gallagher, Pitchers like Silcox, Jim Shirley and Bob Cronin, infielders Ralph Taylor, Paul Bonphron and Bob Kinard, and Outfielder Bill Brooks.

The tournament which will be held at Gowdy field will be conducted as a double-elimination affair and will be governed by the official 1950 National League baseball rules.

Each team entered will be representing an organization not exceeding 3,000 men.

The post's championship baseball trophy will be awarded to the winning team of the tournament. Individual awards Special Troops.

Doughs Launch Season With Win Over Millers

The Fort Benning Doughboys opened their diamond schedule Monday night by trampling the Manchester, Ga., Calloway millers, 10-1, behind the two-hit pitching of speed-ball merchant Bob Cronin.

In their first game of the season as the Doughboys, the Benning nine cashed in on six hits, six stolen bases and seven Manchester errors.

The lone run scored by the Calloway nine came in the seventh frame when first baseman Jim Glazier blasted a 385-foot homerun to open the inning. Glazier—singled in the second runner to provide the Manchester squad with its only other hit off Cronin.

The Doughs made two runs in the first inning, four in the second, and four in the second, and four in the fifth.

In the first inning, Bob Kinard singled and moved to second when right-fielder Joe Glazier threw wild to second on the throw-in. Paul Bonair took first after Pitcher Ace Morgan bounced one off his back, and Cronin.

BENNING BRUIZERS . . . Bad news for the Doughboy football opponents this season, Ed Pelc, left, and James Hicks, spell good news for Coach Joe Steffy. Pelc, a 19-year-old youngster from Braddock, Pa., is five feet, 10 inches tall and will use his 170 pounds to hold down one of the halfback slots. Hicks played high school ball in Eastback, W. Va., and went on to star for Furman university in South Carolina. He is 20 years old, weighs 205 pounds, stands six feet, one inch tall, and plays end.

Chaplains Mark Corps' Birthday

The Infantry Center and Third Infantry division chaplains joined forces last Sunday in a day-long observance of the 17th anniversary of the Chaplains' corps.

Highlight of the services was a memorial service at 2 p. m. for deceased chaplains. Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks, representing the Infantry Center and acting in the absence of the Third division chaplain, laid a wreath at the altar as a tribute from all chaplains and their families. Chaplains of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths took part in the ceremony.

Throughout the day, a display of field equipment used by chaplains, sponsored by members of the Third division chaplains' office, was shown on the lawn of the Infantry Center chapel. The history of the Chaplains' corps dates back to July 28, 1775, when the Continental Congress granted formal recognition to the legal status of chaplains. At that time, their pay was fixed at $20 a month.

During the Revolutionary war, the corps evolved from an unorganized supply of volunteer clergymen to a permanent system of brigade chaplains. In 1899, an act of Congress required ecclesiastical endorsement of chaplains by their own church bodies.

The Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent, senior chaplain of the expeditionary forces under General Pershing during World War I, paved the way for the creation of the Office of Chief of Chaplains.

The chaplaincy today, with its chief of chaplains, well-organized system of administrative and supervisory chaplains, coordinated plans and policies for different in organization, but much the same in spirit, as that of Revolutionary times, according to Chaplain Jenks.

Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Roy H. Parker, Army chief of chaplains, who was a recent visitor to Fort Benning, said: "The chaplain enters the service of his country with the preparation and training of a specialist."

USMA Head Praises Post

Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, recently sent a letter to Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, expressing his appreciation for the manner in which the class of 1951 cadets were received at Fort Benning.

General Moore said that the program "contributed immeasurably to the cadets' education in the role and mission of an important branch of our armed forces."

He singled out Col. S. A. Tupper, Student Training Regiment commander, and the personnel assisting him, for providing accommodations, facilities and recreation, stating that this contributed greatly to the success of the visit.

WHO KNOWS HIM . . . Public Information officials at Fort Hood, Tex., are seeking positive identification of this tanker whose portrait was made in 1947. Capt. Max W. Dolcater, PIO for the Second Armored division at Fort Hood, said in a letter to The Bayonet this week that he would "personally" pay $5 to any person who could supply the name of the grimy, bearded armored combat man. He said the picture, which brings out the sweat and strength of Army tank work, shows a "man which has been separated from the boys." Information concerning the Mystery Man should be forwarded to the Infantry Center Public Information office, or direct to Capt. Max W. Dolcater, Public Information office, Fort Hood, Tex.

Bastogne Unveils Shaft Honoring 'Bulge' Heroes

BASTOGNE, Belgium (APPS) — A monument commemorating the Battle of the Bulge has been erected here.

It was built with funds subscribed by the Belgian people in gratitude to their American liberators and in tribute to the 76,890 Americans who were killed, wounded, or reported missing in the Battle of the Bulge.

It stands on an imposing position on the plateau of Mardasson, close to the last milestone of the "Road of Liberty," that extends from the Normandy beaches across France and into Belgium.

The American guest of honor at the recent unveiling of the monument was Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, hero of Bastogne and present Chief of the Army's Chemical Corps.

United States Ambassador Robert D. Murphy read a message from President Truman, declaring that the monument was an enduring testimonial to the common devotion of the United States and Belgium to the cause of freedom and to their partnership in arms for its defense.

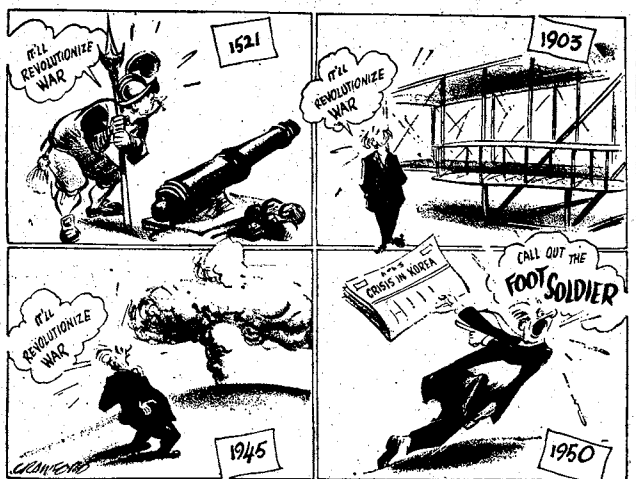

The President's message continued: "As we have stood united before when our liberty has been endangered, we stand united today in the hope that proof of our determination to fight again for our liberty, if necessary, will make it unnecessary for us to do so."

"This monument commemorates our joint efforts in a battle with Hitlerite Germany," President Truman said. "Never again must we permit Germany or any other nation to launch such destruction."

3rd Army Battle History Book Available on Sept. 1

A World War II battle history of the Third U. S. Army, with headquarters now in Atlanta, The book which contains many cartoons, illustrations and maps will be published on Sept. 1 in a book called The Lorraine Campaign, the Department of Army has announced.

The Lorraine Campaign is the fifth book of the comprehensive 90-odd volume entitled The U. S. Army in World War II—being prepared by the Department of Army.

The movement of 15 divisions across 5,000 square miles of territory, and the lives of more than a quarter of a million men are dealt with in the volume.

The author, Dr. Hugh M. Cole, served as Third Army historian during the Lorraine Campaign. Prior to the war he taught military history at the University of Chicago. In 1943 he graduated from the Army's Command and General Staff College.

The book which contains many cartoons, illustrations and maps in its 637 pages is an official Army history covering operations of the fall of 1944 against the German forces defending the territory between the Moselle and Saare rivers.

A well-known military writer, M. S. L. A. Marshall of the Detroit News has acclaimed the book. He said, "I know of no treatment of a campaign elsewhere in the literature of war which more fully exposes the nature of the battle from both sides of the line. This is the first volume ever printed to make use of captured German war records as well as special studies prepared by German commanders at the end of the war."

Army to Add Live Ammo Indoctrination to Training

"Realistic combat exercises involving the use of live ammunition" will be added to Army training schedules soon, the Army announced this week.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of Army Field forces, ordered all training commands to adapt troop training to meet guerrilla and infiltration tactics.

"In keeping with the urgency of the international situation," a Washington Army spokesman said, "intensity of all Army training has been sharply increased to speed the physical and mental conditioning of combat forces. Many World War II training measures, modified to meet current conditions, have been re-established. Certain training restrictions imposed in peacetime have been removed."

The new course to be given by Army training units include:

1. Firing courses in which close-support artillery is fired over the troops. The trainees crawl under barbed wire across the infiltration course while live machinegun fire streaks overhead.
2. City and village fighting courses in which men learn the techniques of street fighting.
3. Close combat courses.

"These battle courses have been reinstated," General Clark said, "because experience has shown this type of training increases the ability of non-battle-tested troops to adapt themselves readily to actual battlefield conditions."

Meanwhile, several training stations throughout the country revealed that infiltration courses, abandoned when World War II ended, are still "in shape" and ready for use in a matter of weeks.

Airborne Class Progress Told

The Airborne battalion of the Student Training Regiment reported the following progress of its classes this week:

Basic Airborne class No. 47 graduated on July 23.

Basic Airborne class No. 46 graduated last Friday with 58 officers and 146 enlisted men.

Basic Airborne class No. 48 started its fifth week of training Monday with 56 officers and 135 enlisted men.

Basic Airborne class No. 1 started its third week of training last Monday.

Basic Airborne class No. 1-A started its fourth week of training Monday with five officers and 172 enlisted men.

Basic Airborne class No. 2 started its second week of training with 20 officers and 258 enlisted men.

Officials Urge Immunizations

All post parents have been urged by Infantry Center officials to have their school-age children immunized against communicable diseases before school starts.

Immunizations may be obtained at the Columbus dispensary or at Dispensary A-9 on the post. Both dispensaries are open Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 1 p. m. until 9 p. m.

ERC MEN COMPLETE TRAINING . . . Members of the Enlisted Reserve members of the last cycle standing a full field inspection in the Lawson corps will wind up summer training here this Saturday. Shown here are Air Force base area, where they have been billeted.

Lawson Institutes New Clothing Plan

The clothing sales store at Lawson Air Force base began operations last week.

The store will handle all items of personal clothing that were formerly issued through supply rooms, or obtained under a statement of charges or a report of survey. At the same time, the new cash clothing allowance system went into effect.

On July 1, all accrued allowances were credited to airmen's accounts, but held back to be applied toward the initial purchase of the new blues. Any amount remaining will then be paid to the airman on his subsequent pay roll.

All airmen with 12 months or more remaining on their current enlistment will be required to purchase the new blue uniform, unless they are scheduled to be discharged prior to the expiration of their enlistment. Men who have less than 12 months remaining to serve may purchase the uniforms—but will not be required to do so. Individuals who do not buy the blues will be paid the due balance of their clothing allowance.

The clothing allowance system for airmen will be similar in operation to that for soldiers.

Upon initial enlistment, an airman will be credited with $210.85. However, no part of the allowance will be paid in cash unless items on the mandatory issue list are not available. The Air Force will work on the same principle, except that their initial allowance will be $244.38. Beginning with the seventh month after the initial allowance, airmen will receive $4.20 a month and women $4.50 a month. This allowance is intended to cover the cost or repair and replacement of items of issue.

During the first six months of their enlistment, personnel will be entitled to free clothing alteration, but after that, all alterations must be made at their own expense.

After 37 months of continuous service, the allowance will be upped to $5.70 for men and $6 for women.

Clothing condemned by medical officers will be replaced by the Air Force without cost to the airman concerned, upon presentation of a clothing request form certified by the officer.

All clothing lost, damaged or destroyed through the negligence of airmen must be replaced at their own expense, under certain conditions, however a reimbursement claim may be honored.

ARC Leader Calls For Blood Donors

BOSTON (APPS)—Gen. George C. Marshall, president of the American Red Cross, has called for a nation wide blood collection program in the face of the Korean crisis.

"The fact of present danger and the possibility of its increasing must be met with dispatch but without hysteria," General Marshall said. "A national military emergency would call for quantities of blood almost beyond estimate."

His plea followed a series of conferences in Boston with leading doctors, government officials, and civilian defense authorities.

Airmen Get Promotions

Five Lawson airmen were promoted from private first class to corporal last week. They are John G. Ericsson, Donald Goldberg, Herbert H. Horst, Joseph S. Judy and Charles M. Wilson.

Two men, Norman G. Cobb and David H. Lisle, were promoted to private first class.

Fire Control Man Sets TIC Inspection

A representative of the Third Army Area Engineer section will visit the Infantry Center on Aug. 7 in connection with the fire control activities.

Marvin A. Pfander of the Fire Prevention branch of the section, will inspect the post's automatic sprinkler and fire alarm systems.

Army Plans Boost To 834,000 Men

The Army plans to step up its strength to 834,000, an increase of 240,000 officers and men over the 594,000 now in uniform, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) announced last week.

The increase is planned under President Truman's additional emergency budget request of $10,500,000,000 for fiscal 1951. Vinson, chairman of the House Armed Services committee, said Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, told the committee that the Army wants $3,059,000.

Of this amount, 54 percent will be spent for tanks, guns, field artillery and other "hardware equipment."

Vinson declined to give any arms details but it is understood that a considerable amount will be spent for tanks and guns, especially the new jet aircraft, the Skysweeper.

The session concluded a week-long inquiry by the committee into preparation of military services and their immediate plans for expansion.

Asked if he was satisfied with reports from the Army, Navy, Marines, and Air Force, Vinson declined immediate comment.

The Army already is slated to get 100,000 draftees by Oct. 30. This may be followed with at least one more draft call before the end of the year to reach the 834,000-man goal.

While the Air Force and the Navy are waiting to see if volunteers will fill their combined 340,000 man quota, the Army made clear yesterday it is relying heavily on the Selective Service act to meet its manpower needs.

It boosted its September Selective Service call from 20,000 to 30,000 and said it would call up another 50,000 men in October.

Total To Fall Short
Even this increased total would fall short of bringing the ground forces to their 1,000,000 man goal. Army manpower on June 30—the last date for which figures will be released—was about 591,000.

In addition to the Army, the United States is building as quickly as possible toward an Air Force of 548,000 and a Navy of 579,000—for a total military strength of 1,697,000 within the next few months. By next June this is expected to climb to 2,300,000.

In a move to stabilize the military force, President Truman has signed an executive order extending for 12 months all enlistments in the armed services. This affects nearly 300,000 enlistees due to expire before June 30.

Flying Rescuers Do Global Work

EDITOR'S NOTE: The New York Daily News recently sent two of its crack writers, Joe Martin and Edward O'Neill, on a 63-day, 27,000-mile voyage of Armed Forces installations throughout the world. The newspaper has generously authorized Armed Forces Press Service to use the following condensed story based on information obtained by the reporters.

Under a canvas shelter deep in the Arabian desert, an American geologist writhed in agony. Heat waves danced over the sands; the air was furnace-like. Two native employees huddled beside the American, fatalistic resignation in their faces.

The man was dying, they knew. Paving with his life like others before him, for the black oil vital to American economy and American defenses.

A message had been sent over the camp radio several hours earlier. It had been acknowledged by Dhahran, the great American-promoted oil field on the Persian gulf. But Dhahran was 500 miles away. Help from here, the men of Allah were sure, could never arrive in time.

Just then, one of them cocked an astonished gaze skyward. A big plane was approaching. It landed smoothly and a doctor and two medical orderlies with a stretcher got out.

"Acute appendicitis," the doctor said a few minutes later. "He'll have to go back to Dhahran immediately—if we are to save him."

AND BACK THE B-17 MERCY ship went, though one of its four engines had gone dead as they landed and though a sandstorm was building up across the air route. They made it safely—and another victory was chalked up for the Air Rescue service, a unit of the Military Air Transport Service.

The Air Rescue service was organized primarily for wartime work. In time of battle, its pilots will be called on to patrol all air routes leading to enemy targets in order to recover U.S. fliers bailing out of crippled bombers and fighters.

They will have to fly into the teeth of enemy coastal gunfire and land in choppy seas to pick up downed Army aviators.

Their daring para-rescue teams will bail out over jungles and icy polar areas to give first aid to wounded airmen.

Truck Unit Men Given Promotions
Promotion of 11 enlisted men was announced by the 3440th Area Service Unit last week. Promoted from sergeant to sergeant first class were Daniel C. Mizell, 52nd Transportation Truck Battalion, and Frank W. Harden, Millard Pierce, Butler Prince and Charles J. Hubert, all of the 39th Transportation Truck company.

Jepp Danford and Franklin R. Mills of the 52nd Transportation Truck Battalion and William Fisher, James H. Sanders, Hathaway Williams and Robert Wright of the 39th Transportation Truck company were advanced from corporal to sergeant.

Sound Men Must Have Credentials

Third Army headquarters announced this week that all operators of film projection or sound reproducing equipment must have in their possession the proper qualifying credentials.

Unit commanders, according to the circular, will be responsible for determining that all operators have an official U.S. Army Projectionist Card.

When films or film strips are loaned to civilian agencies, the unit commander will also be responsible for seeing that a competent operator will be employed to show the film, and that suitable projection equipment will be used.

Personnel who are assigned to National Guard, Organized Reserve Corps or Reserve Officers' Training Corps units who have received projectionist training are authorized to employ this training only as regards civilian components.

The same holds true to personnel assigned to main recruiting stations who have had the proper training. They may employ their training only to train recruiting personnel.

In the event of incompetency of a projectionist, army commanders, chiefs of military districts, or civilian component senior instructors may revoke the individual's permit. After such a revocation, a complete course of training must be taken before the projectionist may be re-licensed.

Research Men Set Post Visit

A research team the Department of Army will visit Fort Benning between Aug. 15 and Oct. 15 to study personnel records and procedures. Third Army headquarters announced this week.

One officer and two civilians from the Human Resources Research Institute at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., will make the study, the object of which is to provide a better basic personnel record, or set of records, and to improve the personnel records system.

Fort Benning is one of the few carefully selected installations throughout the United States and remains there until his return to this country in June of this year.

Before coming to the Infantry Center, Gen. Soule had been stationed at Fort Mason, Calif.

In 1947 he was assigned to China as military attaché from the United States and remained there until his return to this country in June of this year.

Freeze Official On Discharges

An Army-wide directive issued by the adjutant general in Washington this week officially put the "freeze" on all discharges prior to July 9, 1951, and at the same time extended the terms of service for eligible discharges for one year.

The measure which was enacted by Congress early last week, went into effect on July 28.

It has been estimated by Infantry Center officials that the new order will affect over 2,000 individuals here who normally would have been eligible for discharges prior to July 9, 1951.

The order pointed out, however, that voluntary extensions of service or re-enlistments could be made without putting the new provision into effect.

Air Defense Joint Planning Board Formed

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Formation of a joint Civil Aeronautics, United States Air Force, and Air-Defense planning board has been announced by Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff.

The charter under which the board will operate describes its duties as reviewing existing joint plans, submitting appropriate recommendations for revision, and monitoring joint air defense activities.

The board will consist of four members from the Air Force and four from the CAA, with an equal number of alternates from each agency.

The members will continue the work already under way informally in the Civil Aeronautics Administration in the mission of the Air Force in defending the United States.

The board will consult other branches of the Armed Forces, other governmental agencies, and private organizations as necessary.

Powers of the board will be limited to recommendations, which will be transmitted to the respective agencies.

In accordance with the charter the Air-Defense Planning board will:

1. Develop a comprehensive plan for identification of friendly air traffic.
2. Develop methods to channel data to Air Defense Control Centers and Ground Controlled Inter-

Equipment Drop Here Successful

An Air Force C-52 troop carrying airplane last week dropped 9,000 pounds of scrap metal and metal at Lawson Air Force base in the Infantry School Airborne department's first standard heavy equipment drop.

At the same time, Airborne department officials said the airborne students would include the techniques of airborne heavy equipment delivery.

Last week's drop, which produced "excellent results," represented two simulated equipment loads. A spokesman said a 6,000-pound cement load, representing an artillery howitzer, and a 3,000-pound metal load, representing a jeep, were shoved through the yawning tail of the C-52 flying 1,000 feet above Lawson.

The Airborne spokesman explained that future airborne students would not participate in heavy equipment drops, but instead would be shown the ground techniques of loading and lashing droppable equipment.

It was said, however, that actual drops would be held as a demonstration for high government and civilian officials attending conferences here to show the progress of transportability of airborne equipment.

Airborne equipment delivery has been developed and perfected by the airborne section of Army Field Forces, based No. 1 at Fort Bragg, N. C. The Technical Training Center at Fort Bragg is conducting the actions of certain military flight services with the assistance of corresponding elements of CCA.

The Air Force spokesman said that the Air Force is planning to develop a comprehensive plan for identification of friendly air traffic.

2. Develop methods to channel data to Air Defense Control Centers and Ground Controlled Inter-

Glider Anchor Being Tested

DAYTON, Ohio (APPS)—Experiments on an airborne anchor for use in light aircraft and gliders are being conducted by engineers of the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force base near here.

The device is a steel tube, 28 inches long, filled with rocket propellant in order that it may be fired into the ground as the pilot prepares to land. Attached to the tube is a 20-foot stainless steel ribbon wound on a hydraulic brake that absorbs excessive energy and permits a smoother landing.

In ground tests, the anchor withstood a pull of 25,000 pounds.

Third to Train New Recruits

First Group Expected Here This Week From Fort Knox

The war-famed Third Infantry division will start training recruits sometime this month, according to an announcement this week by Brig. Gen. Robert H. Soule, division commander.

Division officials announced that about 3,000 men would come to the Third division to take training, with the majority of these men expected to come to Benning from the Third Armored division at Fort Knox, Ky.

The first group of these untrained recruits was expected to arrive this week, with about 250 men anticipated. These men were expected to arrive yesterday, but division officials said they were uncertain as to the exact arrival date.

The largest groups expected to arrive within the next several days will be comprised of approximately 1,000 men. These groups, also from the Third Armored, are expected next Wednesday and Thursday.

These figures include only about 2,250 of the anticipated 3,000, and division officials related they did not as yet know exactly when the remaining 750 men would arrive.

Main Officer's Mess To Get Face Lifting

A $35,000 rehabilitation and enlargement project has been started at the Main Officers' Mess, a club spokesman has announced, and completion is expected within a month.

The spokesman said that future construction plans are being formulated by directors of the club but will not be announced until later.

Meanwhile, the present construction activity, which was approved by Maj. Wm. A. Burres, Infantry Center commander and the club's board of governors, will soon provide air-conditioning for much of the building's entertainment space.

The present tap room will be converted into an air-conditioned ladies' lounge and small dining room, called the Infantry room, will be built in the basement and decorated with Army regimental insignias.

Construction plans also call for relocation of the present business offices elsewhere in the building. The business office space will be transformed into an air-conditioned lounge-cocktail area.

Under consideration by club officials is a plan to construct a cocktail bar and lounge building, which will be an extension of the porch paralleling the awning at the side entrance. This will be built if present serving facilities are changed.

Top-Level Jobs Assigned by TIS

Infantry School officials this week announced several assignment changes within the Academic department.

Lt. Col. W. J. McCaffrey, formerly with the 15th Infantry regiment, has been named secretary of the Infantry School, replacing Lt. Col. B. G. Baetcke, who is scheduled to attend the Army War College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Col. H. S. Wilbur, former director of the Army Extension Course department, has assumed duties as director of the Review and Analysis section of the Infantry school, and Lt. Col. P. J. Byer has been stepped up from assistant director to director of the AEC department.

Lt. Col. G. Juskalian, a former member of the Infantry School's Staff department, has assumed duties as executive officer of the Training Publications department.

Ex-Post Chaplain Cited

The Third Army certificate of achievement has been awarded to Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wallace M. Hale, ex-Infantry Center chaplain who was recently transferred to the 82nd Airborne division, Fort Bragg, N.C.

3rd Bid Farewell By Gen. Clarkson

Fort Benning's Third Infantry division received top praise last Saturday from its departing commander as the high ranking officer bid farewell to the troops he has led since the reactivation of the division in December, 1948.

Maj. Gen. F. W. Clarkson who is leaving tomorrow for Fort Shafter, Hawaii, also introduced his successor, Brig. Gen. Robert H. Soule, who assumed command of the division last Monday.

General Clarkson is taking a short leave prior to reporting to Fort Mason, Calif., where he will board a Navy ship for the trip to Hawaii.

"In your splendid participation in Operation Portex and Exercise Swarmer," General Clarkson told the troops "you have received a fine background of field training."

General Soule, briefly addressing the men, declared he had served with the 15th Infantry regiment, one of the division components, in China, and was regimental adjutant when the unit returned to Fort Lewis, Wash., from the Orient in 1938.

He also was assigned as a junior officer to the Seventh and 30th Infantry regiments, the other two infantry regiments of the division.

General Clarkson was stationed at Fort Benning during the early 1920's and again briefly prior to World War II. He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Purple Heart, Air medal and French Silver Palm.

A native of San Antonio, Tex., he graduated from Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college in 1915 and received his commission in the regular Army a year later.

Department Gets New Executive

Lt. Col. George Juskalian is the new executive officer of the Infantry School's Training Publication department, it was announced this week.

He replaced Lt. Col. H. W. Stephenson, Jr., whose new assignment takes him to the University of Texas for a course of study in personnel management.

Colonel Juskalian came to the Infantry School in August, 1949, after being graduated from the Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. He was first assigned to the Tactical department as an instructor in the Defense group, and later was acting executive officer for the department.

The new executive is a graduate of Boston university, where he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Organized Reserve Corps. Called to extended active duty in November, 1949, he served overseas with the First Infantry division.

After World War II he was assigned as an assistant secretary of the general staff of the War department in Washington. While on this assignment he was introduced into the regular Army.

He went to the Command and General Staff college at the completion of his tour.

Korea, Troubled Peninsula

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of articles by Staff Writer Pat Murphy dealing with the military, economic, cultural and religious history of Korea.

The trampled Korean people, torn for centuries between the designs of Japan and China, had no sooner begun to lapse into tranquility following the Sino-Japanese war, when Russia, a heretofore quiet neighbor, began barking with its insidious voice.

The peace and trade treaty drawn up by the Chinese and Japanese following the Sino-Japanese war virtually assured Japan of strong, uncontested control of all land in Korea. Furthermore, China had ceded Port Arthur to Japan, which left Russia without an alternate port for its winter shipping activities. (Vladivostok to the north, was Russia's only winter water port, but many times it was frozen during the winter months.)

By 1898, with the backing of France and Germany, Russia requested Japan to open Port Arthur to all nations and to withdraw occupation forces from the Asiatic mainland. Being in a position to argue convincingly with three strong nations, Japan acknowledged the request and withdrew her troops from Port Arthur, but at the same time began a stealthy mobilization of an army and the enlargement of her crumpled fleet.

MEANWHILE, RUSSIA'S MILITARY plotting, forced on a weak Korea, had afforded an excellent opportunity to take over some of Japan's concessions. The Korean government granted rights to Russia to open lumber and mining camps in many regions of the distraught peninsula. In addition, Russia obtained the northwest Korean port of Yonpung for her exclusive right and also sought to

Col. Etzler to Leave Post As Deputy Chief of Staff

Lt. Col. Charles R. Etzler, Infantry Center deputy chief of staff, will leave Fort Benning next month to attend the Army Security Agency School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. He will be replaced by Lt. Col. Robert R. Linvill, former Tactical Department instructor.

Colonel Etzler is expected to serve three years with ASA after his graduation from the high-level nine-month course in June. Colonel Etzler began his military career in 1923 at Western Maryland university, Westminster, Md., as a cadet in the college ROTC unit. In 1927, after graduation, he was assigned to duty with the regular Army as a second lieutenant.

Served in Hawaii and 1942, he served in Hawaii as personnel advisor in the 2nd Infantry Division, and was later made aide-de-camp to Maj. Gen. R. Brush, commander of the 22nd brigade.

The 38-year old officer came to the Infantry School in 1942 as a student in the captain commanders' course. He later went back to Hawaii and rejoined 40th Infantry Division in 1943. He was assigned to the Academic Department in 1949, he was made deputy chief of staff.

He attended the Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., in 1946 and 1947, and after graduation came to the Infantry School where he was assigned to the Academic Department. In 1949, he was made deputy chief of staff.

Colonel Linvill, acting deputy chief of staff, received his commission through ROTC training at Ohio State university in 1928 and later transferred to the Organized Reserve Corps. In 1940 he was ordered to active duty with the First Armored division at Fort Knox, Ky., as a personnel adjutant.

During his World War II service with the famous division, he served as a company commander, Battalion commander in the 14th Armored Infantry Regiment and G-4 of the division. In September, 1945 he returned to Fort Knox where he was made G-4 of the Armored School.

He reported to Washington in 1948 where he became a member of the Civil Affairs division, administrative position handling the problems of occupied foreign countries. He was named executive officer of the relief supplies branch.

Later, Colonel Linvill was assigned to the office of Assistant Secretary of the Army Tracy Voorhees.

He attended the 1948 course at the Command and General Staff college. In July, 1949, he reported to the Infantry School as a student in the basic airborne course, and was later assigned as an instructor in the Tactical department.

Combat Service Waived for Kin Of Dead Airmen

Air Force personnel who are members of families in which a person has died or been killed as a result of service-connected duty since Dec. 7, 1941, will be made ineligible for future combat duty. A new order by the Air Force in Washington this week said all personnel affected by the new order would immediately be relieved from combat responsibility. However, an individual may sign a waiver requesting combat duty despite the order.

Force officials said that in order to be eligible for provisions of the order, an airman must have lost a mother, father or child as a result of service duty.

'Cat' Rescues Drowning Dog

NEW LONDON, CONN. (APFS)—A crew member of the submarine Olexa overboard recently as the ship was returning to the Key West Naval station.

Immediately, the alarm was sounded. Word was sent to the submarine Sea Cat, as the "Maneuver to rescue." Aboard the Sea Cat, Raymond O. Murphree, radioman striker, from West Palm Beach, Fla., detached himself from the scurrying men and dove over the side.

A few rapid strokes later he was alongside the victim. The half-drowned sailor whined appreciation. Seizing the casualty by the scruff of the neck, Murphree swam to the Sea Cat. When he reached the deck the rescued sailor shook himself dry and padded below on all fours. Thus, the rescue of a sea dog named "Annie" by a sea cat, was reported.

TOP QUARTERMASTER ON VISIT . . . Maj. Gen. Joseph Sullivan, right, quartermaster general of Army Ground forces, chats with Col. David H. Finley, Infantry Center quartermaster, following a conference last week at the Main theater. More than 70 quartermaster reserve officers from the southeastern states heard General Sullivan outline Army quartermaster duties and the big logistical problem of supply now facing all Army quartermaster officers. During his stay here, General Sullivan made a brief tour of Fort Benning, before returning to Fort Monroe, Va., his headquarters.

Typoid Almost Licked—SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Illinois set a new low in typhoid fever deaths in 1949. Only one person died of the disease, compared to 33 in 1940 and almost 2,000 a year in the early 1900s.

City Group Asks Increase In Benning Troop Strength

The Columbus Chamber of Commerce has launched a program to increase the number of soldiers at Fort Benning. Citing Columbus as an "Army town," the Chamber in a letter to Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and other leaders, said: "We hope the available established facilities at Fort Benning will be utilized as the necessity for military expansion presents itself. We pledge the continued interest and whole-hearted support of all citizens and assure you of our full cooperation at all times."

Executive Director Clayton D. McLendon said he was acting for the executive committee and the military and naval affairs committees of the Chamber in writing the letter.

But effort is a follow-up of a recent meeting of these committees. Mr. McLendon said, "A program is being started and will be aggressively pursued to urge that more troops be based at Fort Benning in line with military expansion plans." The Chamber director told Mr. Johnson that the Columbus did during World War II and is still doing "to service military personnel and their families in the best way possible."

These, he said, included: Setting up an Army wives employment service; formation of a civilian defense council to work with Fort Benning officials and give in helping families find housing accommodations; entertainment and recreation for military personnel by local churches; service clubs opened to serve the soldier around the city; construction of 3,184 additional housing units Army-Navy.

Mr. McLendon said some 329,000 persons attend the Army-Navy YMCA during 1949 and in 1945, final war year, the club served 1,200,000 persons. Attendance was estimated at 200,000 at the NCCS club during the past year. The Chamber letter also described the work of the Citizens and Military Affairs Council in 1946 as "the first of this kind in the country."

Language Study Made Available To RA Officers

A limited number of regular army officers are eligible for attendance at several special four-year language courses being offered by the Army Language School, Presidio of Monterey, Calif., Third Army headquarters disclosed this week.

Twenty-four vacancies are now available in courses covering seven languages, an Army bulletin announced. Languages and their quotas are Russian, 3; Greek, 4; Japanese, 4; Chinese, 2; Persian, 4; Arabic, 4; and Turkish, 3.

The courses will begin Nov. 3. Following completion of the first year at the Language School, students will be sent to an American college for an additional year's study and finally to an overseas Army area for study among the natives.

Officials explained that the school is primarily selected officers with knowledge of a native tongue for staff or command assignments that will enable them to perform high-level intelligence duties.

In addition to a regular Army commission, candidates for officers applying for the courses will include a Bachelor's degree from an accredited college, security requirements for assignment to G-2 activities, completion or constructing credit in the field of study, and have an anticipated 15 years of active duty remaining, and must be adaptable or qualified for general staff duties.

Application for entrance must also contain information concerning languages studied and fluency in Ohio State university, transcripts, a personal history statement, scores obtained in language aptitude tests and a statement listing the language training desired.

Missile Makes Horizontal Flight

COCOA, Fla. (APFS)—A huge V-2 rocket carrying a smaller missile piggy-back has made its first successful horizontal flight from an American soil, flashing over the Atlantic at 3,600 miles an hour to reach a height of ten miles.

Then, by remote control, an American-made "Wac corporal" secondary rocket was projected another 15 miles.

"Technicians by touch of a button, leveled the V-2 part sending it east over seas cleared of ships and planes."

Col. H. R. Turner, Army ordnance officer in charge of the firing, called it "a complete success."

Radio beams guided the missile while radar traced its course and other instruments recorded data of the flight.

Jerk of the Week

Honor Achieved By Vocal Yokel

A series of epic brawls in honor of California, Texas and Florida won honors this week from the Jerk of the Week committee for the most rabid home-state braggar of all time, Cpl. Caliope Chauvin. Cpl. Chauvin has been building his reputation of champion truth-strecher for many years now with his fantastic tales of California, Texas and Florida. This peculiar tri-state loyalty is the result of Cal's nomadic youth — the elder Chauvin was a professional embezzler who forged his way across young America. As a result young Cal was conceived amid the frenzy of an outdoor meeting of California fanatics, nurtured on caclus milk in Texas, and earned his first honest dollar when one of his baby teeth bounced into the red on a Florida coulette wheel.

Introduces Parisians To Popcorn

By Armed Forces Press Service
Americans traveling in Paris who have an unquenchable yen for that strictly Yank confection popcorn, now can appreciate the desire. A young ex-serviceman is introducing Parisians to popcorn.

With the prospect of his educational benefits from Veterans Administration terminating, Leo Zimmerman, of Louisville, Ky., used his Army-bred ingenuity to discover a way to underwrite his art studies.

He teamed up with a French man, began his popcorn business, and worked it up to a $140-a-week concern.

He had to convince French firms to produce the necessary equipment and was forced to import the corn from Iowa. Now, he has arranged French farmers to grow his corn and expects to have his first crops by the end of the year.

During his varied career with the service organization, Cramer has served at Fort Monmouth, N. J.; Carlisle Barracks, Pa.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Quartermaster depot; Fort Mott, Del.; Fort Dix, N. J.; and Fort Bragg, N. C. The World War I veteran has two sons, both of whom saw service in World War II.

Pianist to Open Legless Vets Disc Program

Artur Rubinstein will play a Schuman concerto in his inimitable piano style as the first selection on the record concert at the Main library next Tuesday 8 p.m.

The complete program follows: Schuman's Concerto in A Minor with Artur Rehnstein at the piano and William Steinberg conducting the RCA Victor Symphony Orchestra; Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor with Joseph Sigel playing the violin and Thomas Beecham conducting the London Philharmonic orchestra; Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in F Major (Pastorale) by the Philadelphia orchestra with Bruno Walter conducting.

Wille Recupercating From the Patio Campaign

Cal reduced Service club No. 1 to a shambles. It seems that someone suggested doing the Virginia reel at a weekly dance. This time Cal ended up in the psych ward, but an understanding nurse named Flo Ridsaun explained to the authorities that he was just a not blooded young patriot. The authorities immediately volunteered Cal to the Red Cross Bloodmobile and had him drained.

Shortly, what little blood Cal had left was brought to a boil at a TIF session. In speaking of teamwork, the officer in charge made the fatal mistake of mentioning the 48 states. Restored to his old self again, Cal whipped out his three-story final design of Old Glory and tossed the instructor out the second story window.

Cpl. Caliope Chauvin was quickly dipped in bronze and it looks as though he will stand firm for many years to come in our Stall of Defame.

AAA Unit Given Safety Pennant

The Third Anti-aircraft Artillery and Automatic Weapons Battalion of the Third Infantry division artillery received a safety flag last week for more than two months operation without a vehicle accident. Brig. Gen. Roland P. Shugg, division commander, made the presentation to Lt. Col. Alvan L. Newberry, battalion commander.

The flag, which is awarded regularly to the divarty unit consistently operating with the longest accident-free record, will be retained by the Third AAA battalion until another unit amasses a better record, unit officials said.

JOHN A. CRAMER New Red Cross Chief

Cramer Named Post ARC Chief

John A. Cramer, former Red Cross field director at the Marine Corps Air station Cherry Point, N.C., arrived here last week to assume duties as Fort Benning's Red Cross field director.

Mr. Cramer replaces Murray E. Hill, who resigned here to accept an appointment as director of a new hospital being constructed in Tunica, Miss.

Mr. Cramer, who is a veteran of 21 years' service with the American Red Cross, has served in several executive positions with national Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C., and Southeastern area headquarters in Atlanta.

Manners in the Machine Age

Every so often we are called upon to contribute to various worthy causes. This is such a plea. It is unique only in that it won't cost a cent. And it will pay dividends. If we all contribute to this cause and everyone who drives a car on the post gives his share, the benefits to all will grow and multiply until courtesy becomes the keynote on Fort Benning's road networks.

However, there is another major contributing factor to the bottleneck; something that can be done about the traffic jam immediately... with your cooperation as a driver.

Main traffic follows three central roads out of the post in the evening. Long lines of cars stream along these routes until they reach the sole main road leaving the post via Outpost No. 1. We overlook the fact that other cars traveling to and from work within the post cross the main intersections from various smaller streets.

That's a small thing to ask. Yet, your courteous contribution to interdicting drivers at the crossroads and traffic circles will enable your neighbor and fellow-driver to continue on his way while you are temporarily halted in the main traffic stem.

Road courtesy, like the Golden Rule, is committed to memory with all of us. All we need to do is apply it to everyday life more readily and regularly. Like kindness, good courtesy spreads and in practice is passed on until it travels the highways constantly.

The earliest known printing about America is the Columbus Letter, printed in 1493, a two-leaf news sheet announcing the discovery of the islands of the Indies to the Spanish court.

The largest business firm in this country in the early 1800s was the American Fur Company, founded by John Jacob Astor.

Marine Corps Recalls Its Volunteer Reserves

Mobilization of all of the Marine Corps' 80,000 volunteer reserves was announced by headquarters of that service this week in Washington. The Coast Guard simultaneously announced plans to re-enlist former members, including women, in a new Coast Guard Reserve.

Strict occupational deferment standards for Reservists and National Guardsmen were announced by the Defense Department this week. The Army, Navy and Air Force wets give a final say over whether men working in 48 critical occupations and 72 essential defense industries shall be called. The deferred job lists were prepared by the Commerce and Labor Departments as a guide to the armed services.

U. S. Casualties in Korea were announced as 2,616 this week by a high-ranking Army spokesman. This figure breaks down as 153 killed in action; 1,590 wounded in action; 873 missing in action.

In his fifth annual report to the United Nations, Secretary General Trygve Lie said this week that nothing less than a bold and enlightened act of statesmanship will halt further deterioration toward another world war. Later the UN leader said he is ready to summon the General Assembly within 24 hours to cope with any new "Korea" on which Security Council action might be blocked by a Soviet veto.

Report From Washington Services to Adopt Armed Forces Liberty Pass

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

All Services will adopt the new Armed Forces Liberty Pass, DD Form 345, which will replace passes now used for short authorized absences, including WD AGO Form 8, permanent Class A pass. The reverse side of the new form provides space for notation of travel limitations or other pertinent data.

Local Navy recruiting authorities now may make final decision on applications for re-enlistment of personnel who accepted early discharges by reason of "saved pay" under the Career Compensation Act or for other cause. Formerly, such personnel could not re-enlist before expiration of what would have been their normal enlistment, without approval of the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

The Air Force has reversed its decision to close three Alaskan bases, Shemya, Cold Bay, and Adak. They were slated for deactivation for economy reasons.

Chaplain's Corner Worshipping God Is the Natural Act of Man

BY CHAPLAIN PATRICK J. BARRETT

Whatever is natural to a thing is that which the thing has or does of itself; natural is not something imposed by someone else. It is natural for fish to live in the water and for birds to live in the air; it is natural for us all to breathe. We do not breathe because a mechanic is operating us as a blacksmith operates a bellows; we do it ourselves.

Religion means internal and external acts which are, and are intended to be a reverent acknowledgment of the Supreme Being to Whom ultimately we owe our life and on Whom we depend for the final fulfillment of that life. Although man naturally and normally comes to the knowledge of God's existence, that mere

NO TIME TO LOOK BACK BY LESLIE GREENE The Viking Press, Publisher BY ALLEN L. MULLIKIN

The horrors of a Japanese prison camp serve author Leslie Greene as a background for his sensitive study of man's lives when the pain and fear of the present force them to look to the future and give them No Time To Look Back.

Panchor, a name that drips with terror as the author starkly paints the bloody atrocities of the Japanese, shuts the prisoners off from the world with barbed wire. Each man has his dream of the past someday to return to, but Leslie Greene prods his characters, and all men to leave the past and make the future livable.

A Christ-like soldier weaves a thread of religious mystery through the hollow lives of the prisoners of Panchor. Andros, a soldier, suffers from amnesia; he has no past. A spiritual aura settles about this strange young man and crowds gather to hear him talk of the Christian brotherhood. Raw souls that stand naked in the pain and fear of Panchor are soothed by the gentle speaker.

Padre Choyce, the popular minister of the prison camp, finds peace through the very presence of Andros. The Padre stands up for the soldier when he is called up before the captured commander who is in charge of the other prisoners. Andros is accused by the military man of weakening the moral fiber of the prisoners with his teaching of love instead of hate. The author points out the sharp line that must be drawn between idealism in wartime and idealism in peacetime in our peculiar civilization.

In contrast to the shadowy Andros, the other characters are sharp portrayals of extremely human people faced with the horrors of Panchor. Pendie, a young artist, destroys himself with a longing for beauty in a place that allows only the ugly to survive. Ajax is a happy atheist who does not have to reconcile the horror of Panchor with the idea of a kind God. Seth is a grasping little hate-monger who dies with all his secrets. Sato, a Japanese interpreter, struggles to combine his Eastern traditions with his Western education. True to his beliefs, Sato commits suicide with his ancestral sword after betraying his country by saving the life of Padre Choyce, who was his friend.

Humanity in a view of deprivation and torture is the abstract concept portrayed by Leslie Greene. Filled with violent and searing action, yet deep in its intellectual vigor, the book probes into the very springs of living. The metaphysical overtones provided by the introduction of Andros, a soldier, are the author's strivings to prove the principles of Christianity can make men live in peace and prevent such terrible places as the imaginary Panchor.

PFC. AND MRS. MILTON H. LEMAN, JR., FOLLOWING FRIDAY WEDDING

Warren-Leman Ceremony Performed at Post Chapel

Miss Constance Ruth Warren, signed with a bouffant skirt, fitted bodice, a fold of the material outlining the lace insert in front became the bride of Mr. Milton H. Leman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Leman, Sr., of New Orleans, La., in a simple ceremony at the Infantry Center Chapel on Friday.

Chaplain (Maj.) Lonnie Knight performed the double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli in gold vases and white tapers in branched candelabra. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Zella H. Osburn, organist, including "Love You Truly" and "Because."

Pvt. Chester Ringler was usher and Pvt. Lowell McCoy served the groom as best man. Pvt. Merrill Joyce Ringler was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a navy blue print silk with grey accessories and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of yellow gladioli. The lovely bride, given in marriage by Lt. Frederick J. Low, wore a frock of white taffeta decorated with a bouquet of white gladioli, a gold corsage and white tapers in branched candelabra.

Lt. W. C. Simpson Honored at Party

The U. S. Military Academy class of 1946 entertained with a no-host dinner at the Officers' Mess on Wednesday as a farewell to Lt. William C. Simpson, who is leaving the post.

The dinner table was centered with an arrangement of white tapers in crystal holders. In addition to the honor guest, covers were laid for Lt. Simpson's mother, Mrs. Rhodes and his sister, Mrs. Mary Bailey. Other guests were Lt. and Mrs. C. J. Davis, Lt. and Mrs. Richard C. Bresnahan, Lt. Robert C. Bradley and guest, Lt. and Mrs. J. M. Charline Clark Weds Post Corporal in Saturday Rites

Miss Charline Clark of Columbus and Wichita Falls, Tex., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Clark of Wichita Falls, became the bride of Post Corporal DuPuis of Fort Benning and Charleston, S. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. DuPuis of Charleston, in a ceremony on Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Ellen Worral. The Rev. Charles E. Smith, pastor of the Bethany Congregational church in Phenix City, officiated. The house was decorated with arrangements of greenery and white gladioli in antique bowls. Miss Bernice Gill was the bride's only attendant. She wore a suit of moon grey. Corporal DuPuis of Charleston was the groom's best man. The bride was very lovely in a suit of French grey with shell pink hat and gloves. She carried a prayer book. Walter E. Lobb, program director of the Armed Services YMCA, gave the bride away. After a reception at Mrs. Worral's home the bride and groom left on a short wedding trip after which they will make their home in Columbus. DuPuis attended high school in Wichita Falls. She is the sister of Mrs. John Bauman of San Angelo, Tex. Mrs. J. C. McO. of Cisco, Tex., M. C. Clark of Holliday, Tex., A. B. Clark of San Diego, Calif., and B. A. Clark of Coleman, Tex. The groom was graduated from Charleston high school and Gulf Radio and Television school in New Orleans. Corporal DuPuis is the brother of Mrs. Chester Russell of Louisville, Ky., Mrs. M. E. Trulock of James Island, S. C., E. C. DuPuis Jr. of Atlanta, and Mrs. Harold Mahoney, Mrs. T. D. Nolan and C. F. DuPuis, all of Charleston.

Gen., Mrs. P. W. Clarkson Feted Prior to Departure

Field grade officers of the Third Infantry division honored Maj. Gen. P. W. Clarkson, division commander, and Mrs. P. W. Clarkson with a reception at the Officers' Mess on Friday. The Clarksons are leaving soon for Hawaii where the general has been assigned. The division colors were grouped in front of the fireplace, in the main lounge, and were flanked by the colors of regiments and battalions of the Third. Down the side wall the lounge was lined with the guidon of each unit.

Divarty Ladies Hold Luncheon

Ladies of the Third Infantry division at Ft. Benning held their monthly luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday with members of the 41st Field Artillery battalion serving as hostesses. The luncheon table was uniquely decorated in a packing and leaving the post theme. Alternate scenes of departure and summertime with ivy ropes were placed down the length of the table. The center scene was of miniature moving vans with miniature furniture being loaded under the supervision of the lady of the house.

Newest Uniforms for Women Exhibited at Fashion Preview

A touring unit from Third Army headquarters, Fort MePherson, Ga., presented two fashion shows for female military personnel at Fort Benning last Wednesday. The first showing was held for enlisted personnel in the Wadley room in the morning and the showing for officer personnel was in the nurses' lounge at the Station hospital in the afternoon. The exhibition in the afternoon was followed by a tea.

Three Wacs from Fort McPherson served as models and Capt. Eleanor E. Moffie, also of Fort McPherson, was commentator. The six different garments, designed by Hattie Carnegie, carried the Peter Pan collar, used antique gold buttons, had nipped-in waists and stiffened pelum, and included slender gored skirts with two dart-like pleats in the front. Four pockets, set one above the other with a vertical side-opening, gave the garments a decorative line from shoulder to waist.

The uniforms were styled in shades of taupe with a rose cast. The suit, skirt, field jacket and overcoat were in this basic shade. The summer dress was taupe, the summer dress was off-white and, the blouses were beige rayon and cotton for duty and cream fugi silk for dress.

The new uniforms are a two-piece cool suit, dress and semi-dress for winter, with two blouses, one of cream rayon for dress and the other of beige taupe cotton oxford cloth for duty wear; an overcoat, a wool field jacket and slacks, all in the same shade of taupe; a summer dress in beige taupe cotton chambray broadcloth and a summer dress in off-white Palm Beach cloth.

The overcoat of the same material and color as the suit but heavier in weight, is cut on swagger lines with double-breasted fastening of antique gold buttons. The loose, full back is held in deep folds by a curved half-pleat that buttons on the sides with antique gold buttons, and has vertical double pockets.

The hats and caps are designed for all types of faces. The dress hat has a half brim that turns up on the left side and dips on the right with the insignia placed on the right side to balance the roll of the brim.

They are of matching taupe for winter and off-white for summer. Korot designed the envelope pouch bag of brown calf leather with two flaps that open into a large pouch and a smaller one for papers. Both are finished on the sleeve for officers.

With antique gold buttons. Shoes are brown calf and gloves are beige, off-white and taupe. The uniforms are identical for officers and enlisted personnel, the only difference being in the insignia of rank and a silk braid after the ceremony.

D'Astoli Child Baptized
Joseph Anthony D'Astoli, infant son of Sgt. and Mrs. Angelo D'Astoli, was baptized on July 30 by Chaplain (Capt.) Father A. Zielinski, Infantry Center Catholic chapel. Joseph Anthony was born on July 17. A buffet supper was served after the ceremony.

Engineer Sergeant Retires After 30 Colorful Years

After serving for 30 years in the Army, Sfc. Alex Semanches last week retired from the 10th Engineer Combat Battalion.

Sergeant Semanches joined the Army at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1920, when he was 22 years old. He was sent to Camp Taylor, Ky., for basic training, and was later assigned to the Seventh Field Artillery battalion as a mule skinner.

After serving as a skinner for several months, he was transferred to kitchen duty, and in 1922, was promoted to mess sergeant.

Although he enjoyed his work, Sergeant Semanches felt that he could get even more out of the Army by engaging in boxing. At that time, there were several good boxers in Camp Taylor, so he started training with them, and late in 1922 won the feather-weight championship of the First Infantry division. He retained this crown for three years, then, in 1925, an injury incurred in a horse-riding accident forced him to lay down his gloves.

Prior to World War II, Sergeant Semanches spent three years in Puerto Rico, and then rejoined the First division and sailed for England in the early days of the war. In November, 1942, he went to Africa with the Fifth Field Artillery battalion and took part in the Algeria and Tunisia campaigns.

Later, he made the invasion of Italy with the First, and in the rugged fighting that followed, was awarded the Bronze Star and Silver Star medals.

Following the fall of Rome, the 82nd Airborne division was called for volunteers and Sergeant Semanches was among the first to apply.

At that time, he was 45 years old, and officials expressed some doubt of his ability to take the rugged paratrooper training. But Sergeant Semanches insisted he was as fit as any man in the outfit, so they finally consented to let him try. The result was the gruelling three week course with flying colors.

He stayed with the 82nd throughout the battle for France, and was fighting with the outfit near Bastogne when he received heart-breaking news. His only child, a nine-year-old boy, had been killed in an automobile accident. His commander arranged for an emergency furlough and sent him back to the U. S.

He tried later to return to the 82nd but stateside officials said he was too old, and sent him to the 129th Engineer battalion at Benning. He then accompanied the unit to Fort Sill, Okla., but returned to Benning in 1949 when he was assigned to the 10th Engineers.

41st Field Artillery Boasts Africa-Europe Record

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on units of the Third Infantry division.

The 41st Field Artillery was originally organized as a regiment at Camp Custer, Mich., in August, 1818, but was demobilized about six months later.

In 1836, it was reorganized and incorporated within the post-war regiment of Camp Custer, and, in 1940, was designated the 41st Field Artillery battalion, which designation it holds today.

Shortly after reactivation in 1936, the battalion was sent to Fort Lewis, Wash., where it became a part of the Third Infantry division. Personnel came from the old 10th Field Artillery regiment.

EARLY IN 1942, THE BATTALION moved to Ford Ord, Calif., for training, and upon completion of this went with the Third division to Camp Pickett, Va., to await overseas shipment.

The battalion entered combat in the invasion of North Africa, and started winning a long stream of laurels in support of the 30th Infantry regiment. It went through the battle of Africa and on to invade Sicily and later Italy.

The 41st made its fourth amphibious landing of the war in Southern France.

Pushing steadily through France and Germany, the battalion was in Austria when word came that fighting had stopped in Europe.

The battalion started occupation duty, and returned to the U. S. in 1946 when it was assigned to Camp Campbell, Ky., where it was deactivated.

In March, 1948, cadre from the 56th Field Artillery battalion at Fort Sill, Okla., came to Fort Benning to reactivate the 41st under the command of Maj. Don S. Mathews. Lt. Col. H. G. Sparrow assumed command in July, 1949.

Division Artillery Headquarters battery were attached to the 41st for this period.

In April, 1950, the battalion went to Fort Bragg, N. C., with the 15th Infantry regiment to act as the "Aggressors" in Exercise Swarmer.

Battle honors of the battalion include Algeria-French Morocco (with arrowhead), Tunisia, Sicily (with arrowhead), Naples - Fog-Croix de Guerre.

Lieutenant Wins In Story Contest

MICHEL AF Base, N.Y. (APFS)—Air Force Reserve Lt. Richard G. Harbinger is $1,000 richer, thanks to his ability as a short story writer.

Harbinger, winner of the nation wide Continental Air command short story contest, received his $1,000 check from "This Week" magazine recently for his contest entry, "The Resignation," soon to be published in that magazine and distributed to 27 newspapers throughout the country.

"This Week" magazine is also negotiating to purchase, for $750 each, two additional prize-winning contest manuscripts from the ConAC short story contest. They are "Hot Rod," written by William G. Giel, of the 89th AC&W squadron, Kirtland Air Force base, Albuquerque, N. M., and "Shell Game," by Lt. John F. Holmes of Otis Air Force base, Mass.

Lieutenant Harbinger and Lieutenant Giel were also awarded Honorable Mention in the contest for two other entries, "Saturday Night" by Lieutenant Harbinger and "The Cop" by Lieutenant Giel.

Honorable Mention was also awarded to two stories submitted by Maj. Max Hampton, Mitchell Air Force base, N.Y., entitled "The Cottages" and "What happened came of Noll." The award of Honorable Mention was also given to "The Cop" by Lieutenant A. Linn, Fourth Air Force Headquarters, Hamilton Air Force base, Calif., "Pearl" by Lt. Hal L. Fitzpatrick, Turner Air Force base, Albany, Ga., and "Agaim" by Lt. George A. Hagelhorn, Selfridge Air Force base, Michigan.

The judges for the contest were the nationally-known writers Stewart Beach, Arthur Gordon and Corey Ford. Stewart Beach, who acted as chairman of the judging, is well-known as the fiction and executive editor of "This Week" magazine.

Tactical Director To Go Overseas

Col. Armistead D. Mead, director of the Infantry School's Tactical department, will leave next month for a new assignment in the Far East command. No replacement has been named by Infantry school officials.

Colonel Mead came to Fort Benning in June 1949, when he assumed the directorship of the Infantry School's Staff department. Last May, he replaced Col. Douglas Sugg as director of the Tactical department.

In a previous assignment at the Infantry School between 1940 and 1942, Colonel Mead was chief of an instructional group in the Weapons section, now called the Weapons department.

A native of Huntington, W. Va., and a graduate of the United States Military Academy, Colonel Mead has logged 28 years of Army service, during which he rose to brigadier general in World War II.

After his appointment as a second lieutenant, he served with various troop units in the United States, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands.

Served In War Plans
As a lieutenant colonel, he left Fort Benning in 1942 to serve in the War Plans division, South Pacific area headquarters, as assistant chief. During this top-level planning assignment, he participated in the mapping of the Tulagi-Guadalcanal offensive.

Later, he became chief of staff of Island Command No. 1 in New Caledonia, until he returned to the United States in 1943 as a hospital patient.

Following duty as deputy chief of staff of the Airborne command at Camp Mackall, N. C., Colonel Mead became G-3 of the Fourth Army in October, 1943, at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif., and later at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. He was later chief of the Security and Training group, and later executive of the Intelligence group. He came to Fort Benning in 1949.

Became 9th Army G-3
Colonel Mead became G-3 of the Ninth Army when it was formed at Fort Sam Houston, and served in that capacity until the Army was deactivated after World War II. He went to England with the Ninth in 1944.

to temporary brigadier general in June, 1948, and held that rank until April, 1949.

He was then sent to Panama where he became commander of Fort Gulick and later, deputy commander of the Atlantic Sector.

Colonel Mead returned to the United States to attend the National War college, from which he graduated in 1946. He was later assigned to the Intelligence division of the Department of Army's general staff where he was made chief of the Security and Training group, and later executive of the Intelligence group.

Sports Sidelights

BY LEO J. PARENT

It's getting to that time of the year when footballs are replacing baseballs in the hearts of the great American public, and Fort Benning is starting to look ahead to the coming nine-game schedule slated for Coach Joe Steffy's Doughboys.

The Navy, Marines, Air Force and other Army posts are all out to hang the Benning scalp on their victory belt. Fort Benning fans will get a chance to see their representatives in action in four of the games that the Doughboys will play.

Practice started for the Doughboys this Monday, and if the men who were out on the field this week continue to show the drive and football know-how exhibited in their practice, Fort Benning should stay on the credit side of the schedule this season. Steffy will have a hard row to hoe with his men available to him for just four and one-half hours daily for practice, but the former All-American has had to work hard before, and if anyone can get results from the squad, he will.

Proof that Fort Benning baseball games and records reach to horizons far wider than the post came in the form of a recent telephone call to Bob Hoffman, the post Medics' outstanding outfielder. The call was from Henry J. Peters, assistant director of the St. Louis Cardinals, asking Bob to keep the Cardinals posted on how he was doing during the Infantry Center league play, and asking the diminutive hit hawk to keep the Cards in mind when he leaves the service, if he does.

One of the leading hitters on the post, the small (five feet, six inches, 155 pounds) fielder, banged out 17 hits in 44 trips to the plate for a .378 average. A former Navy man, Hoffman pitched for the Yokosuka, Japan, base team in 1946 and won the season with a 21-2 record. He was discharged from the Navy in 1948, and signed up with the Belmont, N. C., Combers, a class D team. He pitched five victories while losing one for his mates, and ended the season batting over .300.

For those who like to know the individuals they abuse, the umpires that are arbitring the Third Army games this week include Fort Benning's Howard Smith, John Lookamy and James Quinn. Fort Bragg's Paul Martin and Fort McPherson's Warren Seemann Smith is acting as umpire-in-chief for the tourney. The Benning umpires are the same men who handled the post league games, and if they do as capable a job with the Third Army contests as they did during the Infantry Center matches, there should be no complaints.

The Wac detachment softball team will represent Fort Benning in the Third Army tournament scheduled for Sept. 15-20 at Fort McPherson, Ga. The Benning women have broken even in the four inter-post games played to date. They lost their first two games played to Camp Gordon, Ga., and then warming to their task, took the measure of Fort Bragg, N. C., by a 17-16 score and squeezed a 6-5 win over Fort McPherson.

Owens Voted 'Greatest'
NEW YORK (APPS) — Jesse Owens, who in one blazing afternoon broke five world records, tied a sixth and went on to win four Olympic gold medals, has been voted the "greatest track athlete since 1890" by the Associated Press poll.

Young Strikeout Artist
WOONSOCKET, R. I. (APPS) — Jim Cassidy, 17-year-old Woonsocket high school left-hander, struck out 25 batters in a nine-inning game.

Benning Hurlers Shade Cuthbert

Three Doughboy pitchers proved too much for the Cuthbert, Ga., Red Sox at Cuthbert Sunday night as the Benningites emerged on the long end of a 4-1 score.

Ernie Shirley, Bob Cronin and Ike Silcox pitched three innings apiece in the Doughs' last game before the Third Army tournament which began Tuesday. Shirley received credit for the win, while Red Soxer Stan West was charged with the loss.

Big guns in the Benning attack were Joe Smith with a double and a single in four trips to the plate, Herb Myatt with two singles to his credit and Lynn Carney and Shirley who banged out long doubles.

Standouts on the Cuthbert team were Player-Manager Bob Murphy who batted out a four-bagger for the only run, and Ed Wassman with a double for his efforts at the plate.

The Doughboys made four runs on 10 hits and one error, while the Red Sox picked up one run on six hits and three errors.

Women Golfers To Play Citians

The Fort Benning Country Club's women golfers and the Columbus Country club's women divoters will duel for championship honors Aug. 12-22 when the two groups meet in the annual inter-club "match-play" tournament.

The Columbus women, the big winners in last year's tourney. Competition will start at the Columbus links for the first 18 holes of this year's 54-hole affair. The second day of play will be at the Benning course, while the final round will be shot on the Columbus fairways. All losers of the first two days matches will play a consolation tournament on Aug. 23.

A pitching and putting contest will be featured at the Columbus club along with the tournament on Aug. 21, while a driving contest will be the added attraction at Fort Benning.

Qualifying rounds for the inter-club tourney will be played Aug. 14-18 for nine-and 18-hole players. The contestants must qualify on both the Benning and Columbus courses.

Canada Hockey Champ

LONDON (APPS) — Canada is winner of the world amateur ice hockey championship. The United States finished second. Switzerland came in third. The Canadians remained undefeated in the round-robin affair by winning their final with Sweden, 3-0.

The United States conquered Norway, 12 to 6, finishing with four victories and one loss in the series. Switzerland rounded Great Britain, 10 to 3.

Ex-City Grid Star to Perform For Joe Steffy's 1950 Doughs

Back in 1936 when Columbus' Jordan high school was known as Industrial high, one of the members of the third string football team was a small lad named James H. England.

That same Jim England, too small for real competition at industrial, is one of the lads that Coach Joe Steffy of the Fort Benning Doughboys is counting on to power his way through nine opposing lines this fall.

A far cry from the boy in '36, Jim now stands six feet, one and one-half inches, and tips the scales at a rugged 210 pounds. He's picked up quite a bit of experience, too, since the 0-1 days at industrial. In 1947, he starred for Fort Devens, Mass., in 1949, and came to Fort Benning in 1942 to carry the mail at fullback for the Doughboys.

He hung up his cleats while serving overseas until 1945, when he dragged out his football togs to star for the 82nd Airborne division's All-Americans at Nuremberg, Germany. He was a brother Cliff who's quite a gridman, also. Cliff played three years for Fordard high and two years with Middle Georgia college at Cochran. He's six feet tall and weighs in at 202 pounds.

Korea

Japanese soldiers, who had been looked upon with contempt by Koreans, maintained a program of kindness to Korean natives who became involved in the war. Japan paid handsome prices for land commandeered from Koreans. The Koreans, in turn, began to aid Japan in her battle against Russia.

World sympathy for the Japanese cause resulted in financial aid for Japan. In short, Japan was now in a position to command the aid of the world.

Defeat after defeat was heaped upon the Russian battle record, and Russia was soon below Japan in strength. The Russo-Baltic conflict was defeated in a devastating battle between Japan and Korea, and her troops were pushed back into Manchuria. Nicholas II, tsar of Russia, conceded defeat and arranged to sign a treaty.

UNDER THE SPONSORSHIP of President Theodore Roosevelt, and other world governments, the Treaty of Portsmouth was signed at Portsmouth, N. H., on Aug. 25, 1905, by the Japanese and Russians. The Russo-Japanese war resulted in virtually complete control of Korea and much of Manchuria.

Basings resplendently in the light of her victories. Japan grew more and more casual in her regard for Korean society. In every town and village, Japanese insurgents were put in control of governments. Japanese nationals were imported to run industry, and Korea slowly lost her promised independence. Crime and abortion of justice became the code of operation for the Japanese, and Korean natives were left powerless to protest or take action against this new rapist.

Protests from the Korean government, which had lost its voice, were in vain. In desperation, Korea pleaded to the United States for aid, but because of Japanese prestige, the American government refused it. Finally, writers from England and the United States visited Korea and witnessed the political and social atrocities. What they saw was testimony for Korea's pleas, and world sympathy for Japan declined and grew for Korea.

NCOs Delegated Upkeep Chores

Infantry Center officials this week assigned responsibilities for the upkeep of the main post noncommissioned officers' apartment area, and immediately took steps to enforce maintenance procedures.

The senior NCO in each four-unit apartment building will be responsible for the care and condition of property and landscaping in the area, the official announcement said.

In establishing the system of maintenance, the senior NCOs have been instructed to draw two lawn mowers and two fifty-foot lengths of garden hose from the post quartermaster for use by the four families living in his area of responsibility.

Individual occupants, however, will be personally responsible for the upkeep of the area in front of and behind their apartments.

Occupants have been instructed by engineer officials to promptly report any signs of deterioration of household facilities and damage caused by moisture.

In addition, occupants will be responsible for proper landscaping of lawns and shrubbery around their apartments.

Fort Ord Men Excell in Class

Infantry weapons noncommissioned officers' class No. 2 graduated last week with two men singled out for high honors.

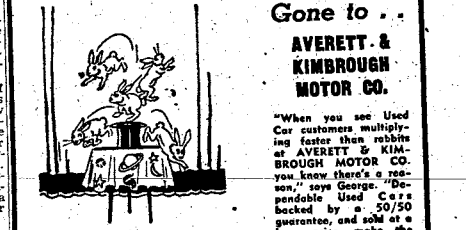

Sgt. Paul J. Duffy finished the course with an average of 99.9 to take top honors, while Sfc. Davis Burnett, Jr., was close on his heels with a 94.2 average.

Both men are members of the Fourth Infantry division of Fort Ord, Calif.

Both men hold commissions in the Organized Reserve corps, and both served as commissioned officers during World War II.

Supply Deliveries Keep MATS Busy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The New York Daily News recently sent two of its crack writers, Joe Martin and Edward O'Neill, on a 63-day, 27,000-mile survey of Armed Forces installations throughout the world. The newspaper has generously authorized Armed Forces Press Service to use the following condensed story based on information obtained by the reporters.)

An army marches on its stomach, Napoleon said. Today it not only marches, but it flies. Military forces may require air delivery of supplies ranging from bulky tanks, armored jeeps and fuel to small repair parts and fingernail-sized radio tubes—all necessary to keep a modern fighting machine functioning in war or peace.

Men at remote outposts, reached infrequently except by air, also require such morale-sustaining items as mail, books, candy bars, phonograph records and films.

With American forces distributed as widely as they now are, only a magic carpet apparently could meet the heavy demands for volume and speed in liaison and supply.

Such a carpet, at least as close an approximation as engines, high octane gas and organization can create, your Uncle Sam has in the Military Air Transport Service. It goes to lands and seas visited by Sinbad the Sailor and also to regions that Sinbad never heard of.

FOR A GLIMPSE OF MATS' far-flung routes and flight operations, come with us over the route on which we started one icy morning in March, when we left Westover Air Force base on the first leg of a 27,000-mile globe swirled with MATS.

Our plane was an R-3D, a Navy version of the famous C-54 Skymaster, and its all-Navy crew landed four hours later on snowbound Harmon Air Force base at Stephenville, Newfoundland.

This key spot, 986 miles north-east of New York City, is the main jumping-off point for our air rescue techniques. A MATS plane serves as an auxiliary landing field for civilian airliners forced off their routes by bad weather.

We spent five days at Harmon using most of the time to study MATS air rescue techniques. A fresh snowstorm was blowing the afternoon we left, holding visibility at zero until nearly dark, when it lifted the 100 minimum feet necessary for a takeoff.

THAT NIGHT, FLYING through one of the worst storms these two ex-Air Force members ever saw, we were hit by heavy blows repeatedly against the fuselage as chunks of ice, dislodged by our de-icer boots, whirled back with sledge hammer force.

Next morning we landed in warmth and bright sunshine at Lagens Air station, on Terceira Island, in the Azores. Lagens is a big junction point for U. S. military aircraft flying the southern route. Most turn there and wheel northeast to Britain and south to other bases eastward to Port Lyautey, French Morocco, and Tripoli, in Libya.

Lagens is the base for paratrooper and shipping routes between Africa, Europe and the two Americas. U. S. aircraft have been given permission from Portugal to use it late in World War II. We operate the station in the station of several B-1's they use in air-sea rescue work.

A fine friendship has developed between the Americans and the Portuguese.

Our next hop, 1,800 miles from last stop, led us to one of this country's leading areas of "national interest"—colorful Dhahran Airfield, a sand and water surrounded spot on the Persian Gulf of Saudi Arabia.

Dhahran is vital for one reason—its view of our MATS station there covering miles of desert, is a tangle of wires, devices and buildings belonging to Aramco, American-operated oil company.

Family Portrait

John Miller's Story Began With 'Girl-Stealing' Episode

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles introducing the families of Benningites. These articles will feature your friends and neighbors in the future, so watch for them.)

BY AL MULIKEN BAYONET STAFF WRITER

It was a case of taking another fellow's girl.

About 10 years ago John Miller gave a buddy a lift on his motorcycle so the buddy could keep a date with a girl in Columbus. John just got a glimpse of Jean Whitton that first night, but he told his buddy right then that he was going to lose his girl.

Successful John is now M-Sgt. John M. Miller, first sergeant of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 15th Infantry Regiment.

Both JOHN LUMMUS AND John Miller were members of Company A, 29th Infantry Regiment, at the time of the big divide. In fact, Sergeant Miller has been with the Infantry Center School Troops here at Benning for a large part of his military career.

His first hitch was in the Panama Canal Zone and during World War II he went with the 29th Infantry through Iceland, England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

Both John and Jean are Georgians by birth. John comes from up around Macon and Jean was born in Atlanta. At only three months, Jean went to New York City where her father worked as a customs official until she was 10 years old.

THE MILLERS WHO NOW live at 127 Gillespie loop in Block 12 have been living on the post since 1948 shortly after John's return from overseas the family moved out to Harmony Church. There they occupied the five-bedroom home that was built at one time for Lt. Gen. Lloyd R. Fre-denall, commander of the First Infantry division. When Barbara reached school age and Mansfield was only one year away from his 12-year term, the family moved on to the main post to be nearer the Children's school. Barbara will be in the fourth grade, and Mansfield in the second when the next school-year begins.

THE TWO YOUNGER CHILDREN, Amelia and Amanda, are sometimes a confusing pair because of the similarity in their names. Jean takes care of that with "their daddy named them." John sticks up for his choice of names by telling where he got them. Amelia, whose first name is Ruby, he named for her two grandmothers — complete impartiality he proudly states.

'Texas Brags' Discusses Why Most Texans Brag

By Armed Forces Press Service. He'd like to prowls another time through the country around Copperas Cove or Lampasas on a black Texas night and look up at the stars and try to figure out if they are really as near the ground as they seem.

He'll wish he could hear a Texan bragging about Texas—at least for a little while.

It's a cinch servicemen now stationed in Texas will like the book. With a little cotton in their ears they can get their indoctrination and education in slow, easy stages. It will not be necessary for them to listen to a native Texan in long and profound oratory about the Texas horned that lived 30 years sealed up in a Texas corner-stone.

The book, "Texas Brags," undoubtedly will be received with high acclaim in Texas. Further, it will be perused with interest by servicemen from the smaller provinces, such as Florida, Kansas and Iowa, who are credited with having supplied Texas with a measure of aid during World War II.

Book Cites Benning Officer For Pacific Library Work

As he treked from island to island in the Pacific setting up hundreds of libraries during World War II, Lt. Carl Ficker, property and fiscal officer of the Infantry Center special services office, little thought he would turn up as a character in a book.

But that's just what happened. Recent publication of Books for the Army by John Jamieson revealed the substantial part played by Lieutenant Ficker in getting scarce reading material to the men in the western Pacific.

Recognition for his good works is not new to Lieutenant Ficker. In 1946, he received a commendation from General MacArthur's headquarters, stating that his untiring efforts in bringing the pleasure and recreation of books to troops have made a highly significant contribution to the morale of these troops and have joined until the day he came to Fort Benning in 1948, Lieutenant Ficker stayed in the South Pacific. Even after 17 straight years with the American Army in the South Pacific, the lieutenant still speaks with the guttural tones of his native Germany.

Lieutenant Ficker's work in the Pacific was done both as an enlisted man and as an officer. After working in Army libraries for eight years as an enlisted man, he was given a direct commission in 1945 and later that year was named library officer for the whole West Pacific area.

He remained in that job until 1947. A library job first came Lieutenant Ficker's way after he had a bad stroke of luck. On maneuvers in Hawaii, he slipped on a rocky mountain slope and received a bad shoulder injury. While he was laid up, the social recreation officer called on him, and casually asked if he would like to fill in at the library, since there was no one to work.

Lieutenant Ficker said yes, and determined the course of many years of his life.

ALL KINDS AND TYPES OF LIBRARIES have filled the life of Lieutenant Ficker since that time. The institutions he has set up range from a small library in Manila to packages of books and magazines dropped from planes to Japanese prisoners-of-war camps after the end of hostilities. Ranging between these are the hundreds of small book collections set up in the field for troops.

Prior to 1945 special services were allowed to send in small collections to the front. After 1945 the Army library service units moved up to the front on all the small islands of the Pacific where troops were stationed. Lieutenant Ficker, himself, set up 37 libraries on Okinawa.

On one of his missions the lieutenant ran into an excitement that is expected for a center in books. In 1946 on a routine flight, his plane crashed into the sea. Luckily the crash was very near a small island occupied by American forces. The lieutenant's units moved up to the island, although he lost all of his personal possessions except the uniform on his back.

brought great credit to the command and to himself."

ALTHOUGH BORN IN GERMANY, LIEUTENANT Ficker had an excellent background fitting him for his job of setting up libraries all over the Pacific. Coming to this country in 1929, he had to wait until 1931 to join

GIs Find Korean Menus Different

By Armed Forces Press Service. American servicemen find Korean menus as varied and as different as some of the new delicacies being dreamed up by experts for field rations.

One particularly potent Korean combination has all the aspects of rivaling the after effects of the atom bomb. The National Geographic society calls it "gastronomic dynamite." It is composed of Chinese cabbage, fish, onions, garlic and red pepper.

The Koreans call it kimchi. Vast quantities of kimchi are prepared during the summer months and by the time winter rolls around, it has attained the potency that comes with certain potent beverages in Korea. Tea is a rare beverage in Korea. The natives like such

Hollywood Set To Entertain GIs

By Armed Forces Press Service

In a recent survey of Hollywood's entertainment figures, all those asked expressed their willingness to return to the wartime practice of entertaining servicemen all over the world.

Here are some of the answers:

Bob Hope: "I'd be glad to go anytime they want. Yesterday I met a Japanese comedian called 'The Bob Hope of Japan,' and I told him I'd see him in his country soon."

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis: "We play two Sides" (in a movie they're making) and we know every G. I. gripe now."

Bing Crosby: "If the Army supplies a stretcher and oxygen tent for old man Bing, I'll take him along."

Mickey Rooney: "...if they call for entertainment in Korea, I'll go."

Humphrey Bogart: "I did an act of sorts in Africa and Italy. I don't know if I was much good for anything besides signing autographs, but if they want me I'll go again."

Also expressing their willingness to entertain Armed Forces personnel, were: Lennie (the greaser Garson with fur), Jimmy Durante, Keenan Wynn, Fred Astaire, Joan Blondell, Mario Lanza, Egan Bergen and Charles McCarthy, Zan Daley and Gordon McCrea.

Navy Will Summon Reserve Teachers

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The Navy has authorized a program to summon reserve teachers to active duty for approximately 1,400 qualified reserve officers and petty officers to be used as instructors for units of the volunteer reserve.

Units must have 25 members or more and a regular attendance of 80 percent to be eligible for an instructor. Larger units may be assigned additional instructors.

Wire Clears Up Smelly Situation

BUXTON, N. C. (APFS) — The Howard Quinna are honeymooning happily following receipt of a four-word telegram that cleared up a smelly situation.

For four hot days the newlyweds had only to approach their new car to obtain complete relief.

The telegram told why, "Fish in hub caps."

Education Group Members Named

WASHINGTON (APFS) — Two new civilian members have been appointed to the Committee on the Armed Forces Education program, simultaneous with the retirement of three members.

The new members are Dr. Kenneth E. Oberholzer, superintendent of schools, Denver, Colo., and Dr. Willard W. Blaess, specialist for students, Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa; and Dr. J. R. Sage, registrar, University college, University of Chicago, and Dr. Dean M. Schenck, commissioner of education, Washington, D. C.

Cattl. Disease Spreads

CHICAGO (UP) — A serious malaria-like disease of cattle is spreading north, the American Veterinary Medical association reported. The disease, known as anaplasmosis and once considered mainly a problem of the southern part of the United States, now has been reported as far north as Michigan, the association said.

Realty Men Pledge To Meet Home Need

Columbus real estate men and the Columbus Chamber of Commerce last week pledged themselves to give full assistance to military personnel at Fort Benning if the post undergoes any large expansion and the supply of living facilities becomes short.

A spokesman for the realtors also said that a housing demand materialized, rent prices would not rise. Despite the recent decurtail of rent ceilings in Columbus, he added, rental property owners kept prices generally at the level imposed by controls.

Meanwhile, officials of the chamber were also offering machinery that would set into motion the reactivation of several wartime agencies in Columbus, operated during World War for the benefit of Fort Benning personnel and their families.

Infantry School Officer Assigned Job With Movies

An Infantry School officer will soon leave for Hollywood, Calif., where he will act as technical advisor on a new war picture to be filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Major Thomas W. Akins, Training Publications department, was notified by the Department of Army this week he would go to the film capital for 60 days to advise motion picture executives on the production of "Go For Broke," a World War II story of the 442nd Regimental Central Postal Directory.

General's Wife Is Fully Confident

In a Fort Benning home, more than 5,000 miles from the blazing war in Korea, Mrs. J. Sladen Bradley expressed emphatic confidence this week in the ultimate battle her husband, the former Infantry School assistant commandant, is waging against Communism.

Meanwhile, stripped to his waist, and wearing a determined expression, Brig. Gen. J. Sladen Bradley was last reported by the Associated Press as setting up a "defense perimeter" around ill-fated Pohang airfield in a delaying action.

The short, resolute-voiced West Point graduate, who has become one of the Army's outstanding tacticians, was last seen by evacuating Air Force officers patrolling the rutted mud road between the airstrip and his front lines, a scant 1,000 yards from North Korean outposts.

Tom Lambert, AP correspondent who was evacuated from the airfield with Air Force personnel, said the general was confident "my forces can hold the field" despite the then only five day supply of food and ammunition.

(Pohang had been evacuated earlier because Air Force officials feared the hard-hitting enemy troops would bring up artillery and bombard the field, his rendering air operations impossible. It was said, by a well-informed Army spokesman, that General Bradley's position was not one of do-or-die. He did say, however, that the general's responsibility was "important" and "most certainly, dangerous.")

Meanwhile, Mrs. Bradley, who remained at Fort Benning with her 20-year old son, J. Sladen, Jr., told a Bayonet reporter she was "relieved" to know her husband's whereabouts.

Her son, who recently finished a tour of active duty with the Enlisted Reserve Center as a sergeant, mirrored his mother's feelings.

In his last letter to his wife, dated July 30, General Bradley said he was in Pusan, awaiting shipment to the front.

"My eyes are open to what we're getting into," the general said. (See General's Wife, page 2)

Major Akins explained the phrase as being the general feeling of the men in battle and that they were given a "goose" all you've got whether you're going to win or lose.

Major Akins joined the 442nd Central Postal Directory in Camp Shelby, Miss., in Feb. 1943, and was decorated with the Silver Cross. Because of his outstanding record with the unit in the thick of battle, studio executives made the choice this week and requested Army officials Major Akins be assigned to the duty.

Korea, Troubled Peninsula

Japanese Rulers Devastate Life of Nation

One of a Series on Korea
 BY PAT MURPHY

Japanese rule of Korea, fashioned by the dictated puppets of the militarily-dominated Japanese government, was to emerge, as one of the greatest social abortions in modern history.

Soon after Japan had crushed the highly-touted Russian military forces in the Russo-Japanese war, men of the Rising Sun began flaunting their victorious attitude in Korean politics and society.

In direct reversal of their previous promises of creating a more democratic way of life in Korea, the Japanese set about throttling the civil liberties of the people. An omnipotent and evil propaganda program, initiated in Korea under the guidance of political puppets, began to gnaw at the independence of the free people and considerably weakened the structure of Korean politics.

Private enterprise was the next target of the swift-moving Jap liege lords. A prosperous businessman, who had attained all his wealth through personal initiative, was "required" to hire a Japanese "steward" to help govern his business. In this manner, the Japanese rulers were able to know the structure of each business in Korea, and to have an inside cohort to report activities that might be adverse to Japanese policies.

Slightly More Than A Decade After The 20th century began, Korean enterprise was tottering on his one-ferm legs. The Japanese had imposed stiffer economic policies on free enterprise and had gradually gained complete control of all trade within the country.

Religion, too, was smashed. The Japanese, munificently issued proclamation after proclamation denouncing the "obscure" and "sinful" attributes of religion. Priests were imprisoned.

Private enterprise was the next target of

Solons Agree To Force GI Aid to Family

The Senate Armed Services committee tentatively agreed today on an entirely new compulsory system for the financial support of servicemen's families.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md) said the former compulsory system in effect in World War II.

Government contributions would be in the form of allowances for living quarters whether a man was in Korea or in a camp in the United States.

The plan, subject to further consideration by the committee Thursday, would shelve White House recommendations made Tuesday for family allowances of up to a top of $150 a month.

Dependent's pay recommended by the White House would provide $75 for a wife alone, plus $25 for each child if the family contained no more than three children.

Tydings, in explaining the new formula, said:

"The pay rates will remain the same as they are now but allowances for living quarters would be made. For a man in the four highest grades with a wife, (See SOLONS Page 2)

Col Dawalt Takes 999th Command

Lt. Col. Kenneth A. Dawalt last week assumed command of the 999th Artillery, Fort Benning, succeeding Lt. Col. Harold W. Browning.

Colonel Dawalt received his commission as a second lieutenant upon graduation from the United States Military Academy in 1936. His first assignment was with the Seventh Field Artillery Regiment at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. From there he went on to artillery assignments at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, Fort Sill, Okla., and Fort Benning.

From 1941 until 1944, he was an instructor in the physics department at the military academy.

He attended the Command and General Staff College in 1945 and following the end of World War II, was assigned to the Department of Artillery at Washington, D. C. where he was in charge of the restoration of communications in Europe.

He later spent two and one half years in Japan, where he was assigned to the 5th and 9th of the Yokohama base command.

Prior to coming to Fort Benning, Colonel Dawalt attended the advanced artillery officers' course at Fort Sill.

Venezuela's chief of the General Staff, Lt. Col. Felix Roman Moreno, made a one-day tour of the Infantry Center Tuesday.

Post Is Featured In Atlanta Paper

For the second time in almost as many months, Fort Benning has been featured in the Atlanta Journal's Sunday magazine color section.

In the Aug. 13 issue of the feature section, Sporks Magazine Writer Andrew Jarvis and Staff Photographer Kenneth Rogers recorded in words and pictures a story of modern weapons and their effectiveness.

Congress Okehs Promotion For General Soule

Another star was added last week to the collar of Brig. Gen. Robert H. Soule, new commander of the Third Infantry division.

General Soule arrived at the Infantry Center two weeks ago to assume command of the division from Maj. Gen. P. W. Clarkson, who left last week for a new assignment at Fort Shafter, Hawaii.

The 32-year Army veteran, who distinguished himself in World War II battle—Leyte, served three and a half years in China as military attache.

"If he has a wife and one child, the allowance would be $50, and for a wife and two children $75.

This allowance for quarters would be added to his pay. His wife would get one-half of this sum. If he had a wife and one child, they would get 60 per cent of the total. A wife and two children would draw 70 per cent of the total compensation."

Tydings said that it was hoped that a man with three or more children would be considered a hardship case and exempted from military duty to prevent an undue financial burden on the government.

The chairman said that in most cases a wife, under the new system, would receive more financial support than under the old formula, and the top government allowance would be $75.

Men in the grades who now receive $67.50 for living quarters would not be reduced.

A man with dependent parents and a family would be considered a hardship case and exempted under the new system.

Under the new system recruit, drawing $75 a month, would get an additional $45. If he had a wife and one child his pay would be $120. His wife would receive $60 direct from government, and he would get $60.

If he had a wife and child his quarters allowance would be $60. His wife would receive $30. If this family would receive $90 and the soldier the balance.

Although his defense force was small, General Bradley was making sure the North Koreans were experiencing the ruthless and unrelentless fire that has earned him a title of "A soldier's soldier."

Recently McLendon wrote a letter to four of the nation's top military planners outlining the and their families here. In let-Johnson, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Army Gen. Omar Bradley, Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins and Army Chief of Staff Gen. Mark W. Clark.

McLendon said Columbus was fully prepared to handle the demands Fort Benning might underlie emphatically that he would aid the government, and Fort Benning is optimistic effort.

One Columbus construction firm was called by The Bayonet to determine if existing housing was considered adequate for personnel. The manager of the company, who asked that his name not be used, said present housing in Columbus is adjacent to Fort Benning was "very adequate" and that no additional housing projects would be required to handle increases.

He said if demands grew to a point beyond his estimates, housing could be obtained with families in Columbus. He of "moderate" personnel increases would not require construction of large housing units.

NEW MAJOR GENERAL — Maj. Gen. Robert H. Soule poses proudly for his first picture after being promoted to the two-star rank by the Department of the Army recently. General Soule is the new commander of the Third Infantry division.

Generals' Wife

(Continued from page 1) ill's letter said, "I shan't describe the situation, but it draws upon the imagination. As the Chinese say, 'One picture is worth a thousand words.'"

"Some features, in fact many of them," the letter said, "make my own experiences in New Guinea (during World War II) seem pale by comparison."

In New Guinea during the bitter fighting of World War II, General Bradley established himself as one of the finest combat soldiers of military history.

In three separate campaigns, General Bradley personally led patrols or small squads into battle to inflict severe damage and death among the enemy. His disregard for safety won him two Silver Stars and the Distinguished Service Cross. Later, he was awarded the Distinguished Service medal.

In his latest battlefield exploit, General Bradley was reported to have again personally led attacks upon the enemy. In one attack, a news story relating a rifle squad, assisted by a light tank, and mercilessly attacked attached-roof huts in which North Koreans were hiding.

Although his defense force was small, General Bradley was making sure the North Koreans were experiencing the ruthless and unrelentless fire that has earned him a title of "A soldier's soldier."

999th Armored Field Men Battled Through Europe

The 999th Armored Field Artillery battalion was originally organized from the second battalion of the 87th Field Artillery regiment at Fort Bragg, N. C., in 1942.

In March, 1943, the 578th was split into separate battalions and the 999th received its present designation. Shortly afterward, the battalion moved to A. P. Hill military reservation in Virginia, alerted for overseas shipment and went to Camp Kilmer, N. J., where it boarded a transport for Glasgow, Scotland. At that time, it was assigned to the Third Army.

The battalion crossed over to Europe after the invasion of Normandy and took part in the liberation of Paris. From there, it went on up through France to Metz, where it was assigned to the Seventh Army. The 999th crossed the Moselle river near Strasbourg.

In December, 1944, the 999th played a strategic role in the historic battle for the Colmar pocket. After successfully supporting infantry units in this battle, the battalion crossed the Moselle river near Strasbourg.

The Fort Benning Women's club this week issued a call for prospective teachers for the club's nursery school for preschool age children.

The school, which has been in operation at Benning for a number of years, would like to build up a tentative list of women who would be interested in gaining experience in such work. Officials said that no experience was necessary, although it would help if interested parties had had some experience in teaching Sunday school classes or similar work.

Mrs. D. P. Bolton, chairman of the nursery school committee of the Women's club, said that interested parties should write the Nursery School, Post Office Box No. 1852, Fort Benning. She said that wives of enlisted men are not eligible for the position because enlisted men's children do not attend the school.

The school is designed for children from two and one-half to five years of age. School hours are from nine a. m. until 1:30 p. m. from Monday through Friday. During these hours, the children are taught singing, have a play period and story hour, and a refreshment period.

Tuition for the school is $7 a month for each child, which covers all expenses. The principal, Mrs. Nathaniel Spencer, stated that the school is completely self-supporting, does not depend on any outside agency for funds, and that the teachers salary is paid from the tuition fees.

Each year at Christmas, the children enrolled in the school present a program, and through the year birthday parties are held with the cooperation of the children's parents.

The governing body of the school is the Nursery board of the Women's club, and is comprised of Mrs. D. P. Bolton, chairman; Mrs. Charles A. Corwin, secretary and Mrs. Edwin G. Pike, treasurer.

Jerk of the Week Pool Pain Winner Of Lowest 'Honor'

Young Pfc Porpoise McGee was grabbed by the tail this week by the Jerk of the Week selection committee to be honored for his slap-dashing show-offery at the local swimming holes.

With his blunt nose poised as only a porpoise can, this human depth charge has been exploding among the unsuspecting bathers of the post for some weeks now. Clad in an old pair of bedraggled GI drawers he erupts with a blinding spray to startle the cooling crowd. Howls from the enraged on-lookers sound like cheers to the water-logged ears of Porpoise and spur him on to more desperate splutterings.

Clutching his loose drawers with one hand and holding his nose with the other the bodacious McGee dashes around the edge of the pool yelling "Watch this" until he gets to the two-foot depth. Then with a wild jig to his own shouts he plops, stomach first, into the shallow water splashing a good gallon on the people sunning beside the pool.

PORPOISE PROUDLY DISPLAYS A SCRAPED NOSE HE suffered on one exhibition of this type, but the scarred hero neglects to tell the whole story. The fact is: a three-year-old son of a sergeant was annoyed by Porpoise's spluttering, and smoothed out a rough spot on the bottom using Porpoise instead of a sand blaster. The last time slappdash McGee was seen in the deep-water end of the pool was one week before they put in the water. Bribing the care-taker with an old wading trophy he won in a progressive school kindergarten, McGee threw some rocks into the empty pool and then climbed down the dry concrete walls and picked them up. Now everytime he goes to the pool the proud Porpoise takes one of his rocks and points through the dark waters to the spot where he reclaimed it.

"GIRLS, GIRLS, GIRLS," YELPED IN A SQUEAKY adolescent trill is the battle cry of the perilous Porpoise when he sights female fodder for his frantic effrontery. Underwater walloping is the devastating device viewed by toe-tweaking McGee as the ideal road to romance on the beach. The girls often step on his head, and Porpoise flounders off gleefully rubbing his eyes filled with fond memories of a delightful great toe.

These thrilling underwater romances are particularly suited to mirthful McGee's rock-like swimming technique that he delights in displaying before the laughing crowds. They hope he will drown when the bubbles percolate to the surface after McGee does his first combination frog kick and crustacean crawl into the five-foot water that is over his head. Much to the crowd's chagrin and to the edification of the Red Cross, the life guard always wades out and drags the panting Porpoise to shore.

Better Watch What You Say

Why should we be security-minded about troop movements when we aren't officially at war? This question has been asked almost constantly since the Defense Department informed field installations that no longer would transfers of units to overseas posts be published. And it most definitely requires an answer.

Our action in Korea, termed by the President and the United Nations Security Council as a police action, is in actuality a full-scale offensive against Communist aggression. The United States as a member of the UN has sworn to help any member nation defend itself from aggression by another nation. Such is the case in Korea, where a Communist-inspired invasion of South Korea took place last June 25.

Why Your Story Was Omitted

There have been numerous complaints recently from units on the Post regarding the omission of copy submitted to the Public Information Office for publication in The Bayonet. In these columns we will explain why that copy has been omitted and just how The Bayonet operates.

First of all, The Bayonet is not an official Army newspaper. Although all the information appearing in its columns each week is factual and comes to us through official channels, the Bayonet is strictly a commercial newspaper, whose existence depends entirely upon the merchants in Columbus who advertise therein and upon the continued good will of the Ledger-Enquirer Company which publishes the newspaper. The Bayonet is published for the benefit of the officers and enlisted men and their families who make up Greater Fort Benning and is distributed free on the following basis:

One copy for each officer, one copy for each married enlisted man and one copy for each four enlisted men living in barracks. The Public Information Office processes all copy which is submitted by lower echelon units, rewriting when necessary to conform with established Bayonet style. The editor and his staff reserve the right to edit any and all copy, deleting unnecessary facts and condensing what remains to fulfill space requirements. By the same token, the editor reserves the right to withhold publication of any item which he considers unnewsworthy.

No member of the Public Information Office has the authority to increase the size of The Bayonet without first consulting with the publishers. The number of inches of advertising, in all cases, will determine the size of any given edition.

There is a great deal more to publishing a newspaper than writing copy. Of primary importance is selectivity; that is, giving every unit its fair share of the allotted space and making sure that all the important news is included. Furthermore, the managing editor must be sure that he can fill every empty column. He dummies his pages, he usually finds that he has a considerable amount of copy left over; however, he seldom, if ever, has enough to fill four extra pages which contain no advertising. And he would have to fill four extra pages if he added one, because every time one page is added, three additional pages must also be added since the number of pages is always a multiple of four.

Working with a small staff, which must carry out many other missions in addition to editing The Bayonet, we find it absolutely impossible to process every piece of copy as soon as it comes through this office.

India Asks Small Nations Draft Peace Plan

A plan to allow six small-nation members of the United Nations Security Council to draft a Korean peace plan was made this week by India. India's chief delegate told the Council the plan was designed to end the present stalemate. The proposed committee would include India, Yugoslavia, Cuba, Egypt, Norway, and Ecuador.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet UN delegate, said this week that the Soviet Union had provided supplies for the North Korean Army, but had sold the equipment to the army before withdrawal of Soviet occupation forces placed in the country after World War II.

A $3 billion increase in individual income taxes was passed this week by the Senate Finance Committee. A rider on the bill exempted all GI's in a fighting zone from all income taxes. The actual increase in taxes for persons in the lower income brackets is about 20 percent.

Senator Taft proposed this week a $13 to $14 billion tax increase to put the Korean action and American rearmament on a pay-ay-you-go basis.

American Freedom Originated From Religion

BY CHAPLAIN DAVID M. KEARDON
We are Americans. Many of us are second generation Americans. Our people departed the old land with only the clothing they wore and a limited number of household articles. They came to the new land because of opportunity and the promise of economic self sufficiency.

The enemy has made a very objective and exact study of our American strength. He has deliberately indicated his religious and economic position. His plan of neutralizing our way of life follows this sequence of attack.

1. Religion is the opiate of the people. Formal religion, therefore, for all intents and purposes must be destroyed.
2. The state is supreme, and all authority must be vested in the hands of an enlightened few who hold personal control over the life and destiny of a people.
3. The family is not an essential social unit. Family ties and responsibilities must be broken. Parents are responsible only to the state. Children are the wards of the state.
4. Ambition, ability, individual aptitudes necessary to the achievement of position, wealth and property are considered only in light of state economy.

ish-ed amid the relative freedom of the country. Encyclopedias, the first in the world chronicle history, were printed several hundred years before. When the rulers from the east came, though, newspapers and all public publishing was - abolished through a series of staggering rules laid down by the invader.

Whereas politics had been kept subordinate in Korean life, the Japanese soon found cause to prohibit and disband political parties, gathered and tortured, and yes, sometimes even executed "morally weakening," the Japanese decreed. Even the Gathering of Two Rival School sports teams prohibited by the new government. Family meetings, social gatherings and school activities of the like, were curtailed by the Japanese, on the basis that such gatherings would provoke the Korean people to revolt against "their government."

A well-oiled espionage system employed by the Japanese kept the Korean people constantly under political and military surveillance. Again, as in Communism, in some families a member might be secretly working for the Japanese, spying on the "subversive" activities of the family. Free speech was the main target of this closely knit espionage ring. Speech in public was abolished and public gatherings, especially, felt the sharp edge of the Japanese occupation blade. Imprisonment, torture and death were the penalties for breaking this rule of "no free speech."

Life under the Japanese became more and more deplorable for the Koreans. When the Japanese first entered Korea, a veritable industry of newspapers and periodicals had flour-

To Amuse You Today

Airman: "Sir, may I have your daughter for my wife?" Her Old Man: "Bring your wife around and we'll see."

"Come Junior, give the pretty lady from next door a kiss."

"What, Mom, and get my face slapped like Pop did?"

A nice girl shouldn't hold a man's hand—but on the other hand, a nice girl has to.

Sgt.: "I read a book where Apollo was chasing a nymph and she turned into a tree." Cpl.: "He was lucky. Those I chase always turn into a night club or restaurant."

Mountain Gal: "Paw's the best shot in these y'a parts." Airman: "What does that make me?" Mountain Gal: "My fiancée."

The subway passenger stared intently at another rider for a long time then said, "Excuse me, sir, but if it were not for the mustache you'd look just exactly like my wife." The second man replied, "But I haven't got a mustache." Said the first guy, "No. But my wife has."

A LITTLE FIRE BY ELISABETH KYLE APPLETON - CENTURY-CROFTS, PUBLISHER
By ALLEN L. MULLIKIN

Love and death in the light romantic vein fill Elizabeth Kyle's novel of a Victorian beauty. A Little Fire certainly is not likely to start a literary conflagration, but it generates enough heat to simmer the reader's interest.

A background of the imported wine business in Glasgow, Scotland, enhances the love story of the great beauty by adding some business adventures to her amorous ones. Douce Albany grew up learning the French wine business, and she wanted to keep the company intact as her mother had done for her.

The death of Douce's mother left the 18-year old girl in charge of the extensive trading company. The man who could have helped her as her husband died suddenly. Douce was alone except for the young girl who had grown up as her constant companion.

The thorough experience Douce had gained from her up-bringing in the wine-producing section of France enabled her to take charge of the business. She was a beautiful woman who charmed everyone she met. She overcame the prejudice that naturally existed toward a Victorian woman who managed a business as well as a man. Even greater obstacles Douce overcame were her foreign blood and her Catholic religion, to things that galled the Protestant Scots of Glasgow.

Young men flocked about Douce Albany. She could have her choice, but instead of picking a worthwhile young man, Douce chose a weakling. She was advised against the man, but would not admit that she might be wrong. Here, and later when the heroine displays her passionate nature, the author champions the unusual idea that Douce's Scotch blood makes her irresponsible, although her French ancestry is a calming influence.

The marriage is disrupted by the husband's extravagance and drunkenness. Douce turns to the love of another man. Douce's husband is killed in what is supposed to be an accidental fire. Douce remarries almost immediately, and her business is bankrupted as a result of the scandal and the inroads her free-spending husband had on the finances.

15th Assigned 4 New Officers

Assignment of four new officers to the 15th Infantry regiment was announced this week by Col. Dennis M. Moore, regimental commander. The new officers, whose duty assignments within the regiment were not disclosed, are Maj. Lewis H. Keyes, Capt. Elbert E. Sticksels, Capt. Charles L. Stark and 2nd Lt. Delzie C. Revels.

Medical Study Limitations Set

Applications for attendance at civilian institutions to take specialized medical courses must be submitted to the Surgeon General through channels at least 120 days before the course begins. Third Army officials said this week. Announcement from Third Army headquarters, Fort Monmouth, N. J., said indications are that funds for tuition and travel will not be sufficient next year to accept all requests. The disclosure said all applications for short courses will be considered as a group by the Professional Education committee of the Office of the Surgeon General. A veteran of 33 months of service in Africa and Europe during World War II, Captain Stark enlisted in the army at Fort Snelling, Minn., and received his commission through the Camp Davis, N. C., Officer Candidate school. Lieutenant Revels, who was commissioned at Tallahassee, Fla., in 1948, served 20 months in the European theater during World War II. Most of his European duty was with the Ninth Infantry division.

Not all is lost, you muddling doughboys. The army has finally put in a word for your benefit. A suggestion by high planners in the Pentagon this week may be the first step in getting a special chiropodist's corps integrated in the Medical corps. Although Army officials wouldn't point out exactly it, the aching feet of the perpetually walking infantryman has become a grave problem in the health of combat troops. The suggestion for the corps is still under consideration.

Marines Return To Tripoli Shores

Downs Fort Bragg In Final Game 7-0

Doughboys Annex Four Victories In Sweeping Through Tournament

BY LEO J. PARENT
Bayonet Sports Editor

Ike Silcox and booming Doughboy bats swept Fort Benning to the championship of the Third Army, Friday, when Fort Bragg was whipped 7-0 in the finals of the double-elimination baseball tournament held at Gowdy field last week.

Benning earned its place in the finals by trimming Fort McPherson 6-2 in the first game of the four-day tournament, and coming back the same day to trounce Fort Bragg 15-2. The following day, Wednesday, Benning met a cocky Atlanta General depot nine fresh from a 9-3 victory over Camp Gordon, and slaughtered the youngsters 19-4. The Doughboys went from that game into the finals.

Fort Bragg bounced back from its defeat at the hands of the doughboys by blasting a 18-3 win over Atlanta General on Thursday afternoon and then came back that night to squeeze out a 3-2 win over Fort McPherson, which had previously defeated Camp Gordon 4-3, to put itself in line for another crack at the slants of Ike Silcox.

Silcox fanned six Troopers

while allowing only four scattered singles in the finals to take his second win of the series.

The Benningites started their scoring in the third inning. Bob Kinard led off for the Doughs and bounced out to the pitcher to open the frame. Paul Bonair singled over second and was forced out when Joe Smith reached first on a fielder's choice. Bill Brooks worked Pitcher Benny Picketts for a walk. Jim Shirley came through for the Doughs by singling to center, scoring Smith with the first run of the game. Brooks came in on an infield error for a run number two.

Ralph Terry rapped out a single good for another run in the sixth inning after Herb Myatt had reached first on another Bragg error.

In the big eighth frame, Benning hit the jackpot with four runs. Smith tried to open the inning. Brooks walked and promptly stole second. Smith came in when an attempt to snag Brooks at second went haywire with the ball bouncing off second baseman Quentin Black's glove. Shirley walked.

Myatt singled to center to drive in Brooks, and Shirley moved to second on the play. Bones Kempson replaced Picketts on the mound for Bragg at this point. Terry greeted the newcomer with a bunt. Kempson whirled and hesitated long enough for Terry to reach first and load the bases. Tom Gallagher worked Kempson for a walk forcing in the sixth Benning run.

Silcox singled to left field and Myatt came in with a number seven. Kinard hit to third and Terry was forced at the plate. Bonair filed to left and Smith was out, short to first, to put out the fire.

Bragg came back to threaten in the top of the ninth, but Silcox acted as his own fireman to squelch the hopes.

Smith, Shirley Two Each

Smith and Shirley were the big guns for Benning with two hits each. One of Smith's blows was a triple, while Shirley used one of his blasts to get two bases.

Every series seems to have a goat and a hero. However, like every thing else, there has to be an exception, and the Third Army baseball tournament was just that. For a hero, we nominate the Doughboys' entire team, but our goat seems to be lacking. The Doughs so far outclassed the other teams in the tourney that it would be folly to look through the records and try to find bonehead plays that would have changed the outcome of the contest.

The Fort Bragg nine, according to the advance notices, was the team that should take the play from the Doughboys. They came into the arena boasting a 21-7 record, a pitcher that would muffle the Benning bats; and a long list of potent Trooper hitters. They did have a good team, and a good pitcher named Dan Roper, but their bats were like unruly pieces of spaghetti when they were swung at Ike Silcox's offerings. Ike pitched 18 innings against the North Carolinians, won two games, struck out 16 batters, and gave up four bases on balls, while allowing only nine hits, all singles, and two unearned runs.

BENNING'S OTHER TWO MOUND ARTISTS DID ALL RIGHT in their stints on the hill. Jim Shirley pitched the first game, against Fort McPherson, and piled up 12 strikeouts, issued four bases on balls, allowed four hits and two runs while going the distance. Just to prove his versatility, Big Jim played the outfield in both games against Bragg, and banded out four hits in 12 trips to the plate, including one double, for a .333 batting average.

The Doughboy's other twirler, Bob Cronin, won the game played with the Atlanta General depot. While the Doughs were piling up 19 runs on 11 hits and ten Depot errors, Cronin was vanquishing ten would-be hitters, and giving up two bases on balls, six hits and four runs.

Five of the Fort Benning representatives hit over .300 during the series which, of course, helped out in the final outcome of the games. Joe Smith was the big man at the plate with a tremendous .500 average compiled as a result of 10 wallops in 20 appearances at the plate. Two of those hits were triples and one of the others was a double. Joe must have hit them at the right time, because his 10 hits accounted for seven Benning runs.

NEXT IN LINE FOR BATTING HONORS WAS BILL BROOKS. He put together a .438 average based on seven hits in 16 trips at bat. Four of his blasts were doubles. Brooks hit .455 during the post season.

Paul Bonair and Silcox were the other two big hitters. Bonair came out of the series with a .313 average and Silcox rounded out his performance with an even .300. Ike hit safely three out of the ten times at bat while Shortstop Bonair clipped the ball into safe territory five times in 16 times at bat.

So, the final result of the tournament was that our heroes galloped home 47 times while the pitching trimvirate was holding the opposition to eight little runs.

Post Pistol Team In McPherson Meet

Six Fort Benning pistol marksmen will leave for Fort McPherson, Ga., tomorrow where they will participate in the two-day Dixie Pistol and Revolver championship.

Col. Perry D. Swindler, captain of the Infantry Center pistol team, announced the following men would travel to the matches to represent Fort Benning: Lt. Col. Jesse C. Drain, Infantry School Weapons department; Lt. Clark Campbell, Student Training regiment Airborne battalion; M-Sgt. Arden J. King, Infantry School Automotive department; M-Sgt. Joseph Gallo, Provost Marshal, and Sgt. 1st Cl. Daniel Huntley, Infantry School Weapons department.

The Benning pistol club will be pitted against 15 other military and civilian teams from throughout the southeastern states. Sponsored over the Fort McPherson Pistol club, the matches are expected to attract nearly 100 expert pistoliers.

The contest will include matches in the .22 caliber pistol, .38 caliber revolver, and the .45 caliber Army service pistol.

Colonel Swindler, who will also compete in the matches, said he expects the Fort Benning team to win at least two of the first place titles, possibly in the .45 and .38 caliber classes.

Fort Benning won the matches last year, bringing home a majority of the medals presented at the meet.

Braggmen Crush Depot Nine, 16-3

The Atlanta General depot became the second casualty of the Third Army baseball tournament played at Fort Benning last week when it went down to a 16-3 defeat at the hands of the rampaging Fort Bragg Devils.

The Braggmen jumped into the lead in the first inning with two tallies, scored one more in the fourth, four in the fifth, six in the sixth and three in the eighth while the Depotmen were collecting goose eggs until the eighth frame when they pushed three tallies home.

Aided by ten Atlanta errors, the Troopers scored their 16 runs on 11 hits and six walks.

John Woratchek and Tim O'Brien each contributed a double and a single for the Bragg cause while Pitcher Bones Kempson was spreading out six Atlanta hits. Hank Ijma accounted for two of the Depot runs with a long single to left field in the eighth frame.

Kempson was the only Bragg player who didn't cross home plate during the massacre.

The winning pitcher was Kempson while Ed Wolfe went down for the loss.

Bragg Squeezes Past McPherson

Fort Bragg defeated Fort McPherson 3-2 Thursday afternoon in one of the most hotly-contested contests in the Third Army baseball tournament held at Fort Benning's Gowdy field last week.

In the game that saw McPherson Manager Eyrle Tucker and Catcher Felton Dean expelled from the game by Umpire John Wachschek, the Atlantians picked up the victory with three runs on four hits and six McPherson errors. The Atlantians marked up two tallies on five hits, three bases on balls and four Trooper errors.

Bragg jumped into the lead in the second inning when John Woratchek received a pass from Pitcher Dan Roper, advanced to second on Dean's sacrifice, and came home when Bill Schneider, McPherson first baseman, hit O'Brien's blow through his legs.

McPherson struck back with two runs in the fourth frame to go into the lead 2-1. Will Osborne singled to start the action in that inning, and moved to second when Roper gave up his second base on balls to R. H. Williams. Both men advanced when Roper bobbed Herb Bryant's slow roller, and both scored on Will Jenkin's single to right field.

Fort Bragg came back in the sixth inning to wrap up the game with two runs in the sixth. Black singled to left to set the stage, took second on Bill Evans' sacrifice, moved to third on Wachschek's single to left and came in on Dean's error. Woratchek came in with the winning run a few minutes later on Dean's error of the frame.

Bragg, Ft. Mac Trophy Leaders

The race for the Third Army participation trophies shows Fort Bragg, N.C., leading in the American League with 2,194 points while Fort McPherson, Ga. is still at the top of the ladder in the National League with 812 points.

In second place in the American league with 1,907 points is Fort Benning, while Camp Gordon, Ga., holds down third position with 1,342, and Fort Jackson, S.C., occupies the cellar with 1,034.

Oliver General hospital tied down the runnerup slot in the National League with 840 and the Atlanta General depot brings up the rear with 378.

The standings represented the number of points compiled as of Aug. 1, and do not include the points which will be distributed for participation in the Third Army baseball tournament held at Fort Benning last week.

Atlanta General Defeats Gordon

The Atlanta General depot pinned a 6-2 defeat on Camp Gordon's record sheet in the Third Army baseball tournament played last week at Benning's Gowdy field.

Gordon outhit the winners seven to six, committed fewer errors (four and six), the Gordon pitchers struck out 11 while eight Gordonmen were waving at third strikes, and walked only two opposing batters while Atlanta Pitcher Bill Loeffler was issuing eight passes, but still the final result was in Benning's favor.

One set of figures, however, gives the story of the game. Left on base: for Atlanta General, six; for Camp Gordon, 14. The Gordonites couldn't seem to hit when blows were needed while each of the six Depot hit accounted for one run.

With the score tied at two-all, Hank Ijima got pass and stole second. Gene Matlock came up with the fourth hit of the inning. Joe Arzer pitched over to Ijima and Ijima was out on an attempted steal of home to end the inning.

Byrd, with two singles and Loeffler, with a double, were the big stickmen for Atlanta while Harry Levy and Red Gallagher each had two singles for the losers.

Doughs Wallop Fort Bragg, 15-2

Fort Benning sailed through its second game of the Third Army baseball tournament last Tuesday night when the Fort Bragg Devils were swamped 15 to 2 behind the four-hit pitching of like Silcox who fanned ten Braggmen for the victory.

Bragg pushed out in front 9-0 in the first half of the initial frame in the game that was heralded to be the "battle of the giants." Benning led during its half of the first with a run by Paul Bonair who singled to set the stage and walked home behind a long triple to center by Joe Smith.

Smith came through for Benning again in the third frame when he doubled in Bonair with the tying run of the game. From then on, post fans set back and watched the Doughmen overwhelm the Devils.

The Doughboys climaxed their onslaught of the Bragg team with a five-run attack in the ninth. Ralph Terry singled off the state-of-the-art pitcher, Robbie Robbins, moved to second when Tom Gallagher got a pass, and came home when Silcox singled through short. Gallagher and Silcox advanced on a passed ball, and watched Bob Kinard work Robbins for walk to load the bases. Bonair fanned for the first out. Joe Smith came through with his third hit of the game, a sharp single down the right field line, that cleared the bases.

Bill Brooks clipped with a double down the left field line scoring Smith. Jim Shirley hit to third and Brooks was caught in a run-down. Myatt bounced to short for the final out.

Silcox extended his unbeaten string for 1950 to eight games. Roper was charged with the loss.

President Held Ready to Back Plans for UMT

President Truman is reported ready to ask for a universal military training law as soon as Congress completes action on present emergency legislation.

Commander George N. Craig of the American Legion expressed his personal belief that the White House will ask for passage of a UMT bill calling for conscription of 18 and 19-year-olds as asserted in a television show that the "President is now for such legislation and always has been for it."

The American Legion commander called the "cold war" with Communism a "life and death struggle." The commander said he believed that recent White House report that the President would not ask for UMT until next January resulted from a "misunderstanding."

Craig declared that "the United States must prepare a high pool of manpower" to meet the threat of Communism and that the best way to do it would be through UMT.

President Truman has each year of the past five years recommended enactment of universal military training law, but Congress has consistently turned it down. Craig said that an American Legion study has turned up these facts about UMT:
1—Under UMT it would cost $176 per man for a 13-week basic training course.
2—Between 600,000 and 750,000 men would be called annually under UMT.
3—It would take at least 20,000 officers to train the men who came under UMT each year.
4—On the basis of 600,000 men UMT would cost about $1,065,600 a year.

Craig said that this cost apparently was what had caused Congress to pass over UMT in recent hearings.

U. S. Cemeteries Open to Visitors

Washington (AFPS) — The Army has transferred 12 permanent U. S. military cemeteries overseas to the American Battle Monuments commission and they are now open to visitors.

Cemeteries under supervision of the Commission include those at Cambridge, England; St. Laurent, St. James, Epinal and St. Amand, Dragunburg, all in France; Margraten, Holland; Henri Chappelle, Belgium; Hamm, Luxembourg; Florence, Italy; Nettuno, Italy; and Carthage, Tunisia.

Two other military cemeteries, those at Neuville-en-Condroz, Belgium, and at Manila, P. I., will be transferred at a later date. All of the cemeteries have been closed during the operations incident to the return and final burial of World War II dead.

The permanent military cemeteries of World War II will become memorials to the war dead. Present plans call for the erection of white marble headstones, landscaping, construction of roads, walks and memorial buildings. Overseas offices are maintained by the American Battle Monuments commission at 20 Rue Quentin Bauchart, Paris, and Via Veneto 119, Rome. Visitors may obtain information regarding the cemeteries and how they may best be reached at these offices.

CPL. CATES ASSIGNED
Cpl. Austin Cates has been assigned to Company B, Infantry School detachment, for duty with the Academic department.

Decorated Hero Back in Service

Austin, Tex. (AFPS)—Audie Murphy, World War II's most decorated soldier, is back in uniform. Murphy was recently sworn in as a captain in the Texas National Guard and assigned to the 141st Infantry.

"I think World War III has all the manpower to meet the threat of Communism and that the best way to do it would be through UMT," President Truman has each year of the past five years recommended enactment of universal military training law, but Congress has consistently turned it down. Craig said that an American Legion study has turned up these facts about UMT:
1—Under UMT it would cost $176 per man for a 13-week basic training course.
2—Between 600,000 and 750,000 men would be called annually under UMT.

Airmen Studying At Naval School

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AFPS) — The close harmony achieved under unification is in full display at the Naval Training center here where 48 air force privates first class are working, studying and living with sailors.

They are students at the Navy's Dental Technician school and during the 18 weeks of their training will be shoulder-to-shoulder with their brothers in arms. The Air Force personnel occupy the same barracks with the sailor students.

Each month for the next six months, the Navy will extend the facilities of its Dental Technician school, and an additional 50 Air Force men and women.

Guesses Place Dog Population At 25 Million

Washington (AFPS) — When final figures of this year's census are announced, Uncle Sam will have a reliable figure on the number of people in the country. But there's no definite count on the dog population.

This observation was made recently by the National Geographic society in reporting that canine population guesses of the United States are 25 million or more. One organization whose business is dogs puts the number at about 15 million.

Importance of Leaving Will Stressed for Service Men

By Maj. Joseph J. Crimmins.

Sergeant Jimmy Jones never did reach that sandy beach. Suddenly he became numb. But he had the strength gone from his legs. Amid all this din and chaos it was strange that his words jitters had given way to a still desire to reach the sand with dry clothes and equipment. His rubbery legs erased this hope and the salt water shut him off from the whole infernal mess. This must be it! Nothing more to worry about. . . Susan will have the house and car and $5,000 insurance. . . that's what he boasted about at the party. . . no children to burden her. . . But Susan's mother thought otherwise. . . There was only $8,000 realized from sale of the house and car, after the mortgages were paid, and Jimmy's insane father was given $4,000 by state law. It would be difficult for Susan to get along with $3,000 cash and small insurance payments.

CORPORAL JOHN SMITH wasn't on overseas orders. Mary would be his wife next Wednesday. It would be fine for John who was an orphan without family, except for Uncle Joe who had refused to let John live with him. Mary was heartbroken when she learned of the accident. John lived for two days, but his injuries proved fatal.

Today, Mary feels that John would turn over in his grave. She knew that the administrator of John's estate sued the railroad and turned over the $20,000 judgment together with all John's belongings to Uncle Joe as next of kin.

Had Jimmy Jones and John Smith given some thought to their peculiar circumstances and executed wills, adequate provision for Susan's and Mary's support would have resulted.

NOT EVERYONE REQUIRES a will. In fact, in a great many cases it is better not to make a will. This might be the case where the party concerned possesses only a small bank account, a car and a few household effects, and those who have legal problems which are jointly owned by him and his wife, or in the case where the party is not married and his father and several brothers are still alive.

In the former case no administration of the estate is necessary. In the latter case, the executor of the will must be named in the will. The executor of the will must be named in the will. The executor of the will must be named in the will.

Fort Benning military police permit parking of several patrol jeeps and wagons in a special shed, will permit easier operations, a provost marshal spokesman said.

In addition to general improvement of the former bus station, three cells have been built and radio and administrative equipment have been installed for increased operations.

The government has leased the property for five years from the Rankin Realty company of Columbus. Improvement on the MP quarters cost approximately $1,500.

Veteran Colonel Studying Airborne to Stay in Army

A 58-year-old assistant division commander-to-be, who is in line for promotion to brigadier general from colonel, today completed a three-week airborne course which, fortunately, kept him from going into retirement.

Col. Robert N. Young, Washingtonian who will report next week for duty as assistant commander of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N. C., also thinks "most of the so-called old officers" should get out from behind their desks and take some exercise like this—jumping out of an airplane.

Despite the rigor of basic airborne training, Colonel Young was not alone in his category. Four other colonels, one of whom will go with Colonel Young to the 82nd division, also completed the same course. They were Col. John R. Brindley, Broadus McAfee, John D. Cone and C. P. Eastburn.

But the handsome, green-eyed University of Maryland graduate only considers his fellow colonel-students as "recruits."

Although his family for generations has been Army through-and-through, Colonel Young says he's considered "a little wacko" in the home circle because of his latest military endeavor.

Col. Young is going through the jump course, Colonel Young became somewhat of an idol for other members of the class and instructors who daily pushed him through the training paces. As anyone will admit, jumping from a swiftness airplane—or for that matter, from the 34-foot high mock jump tower—with nothing between safety and death but a sheet of silk, takes plenty of courage, confidence and physical stamina.

THE STORY OF COLONEL Young's entry into the highly-strenuous field of airborne military life begins some five months ago when, after more than 28 years service, he began making plans for retirement. He would have eventually gone to Staunton Military Academy as commander of cadets, he said. "But," he said, "I was given an opportunity to take airborne training, so I decided against retirement in favor of continued service in a branch that I'd heard so much about."

Also, majors who have been permanently assigned here, including students, will be allowed to have quarters on Sigetooz road, Austin and Miller loops and Rainbow avenue when available. Company grade officers permanently assigned here will be assigned to student apartments and duplexes where available, officials announced.

Post Captures Pistol Tournay

Fort Benning's six-man pistol team returns from a two-week tour with the Dixie Pistol and Revolver meet at Fort McPherson with the championship title, 72 medals for team members and the four top titles in individual matches.

Col. Perry D. Swindler, captain of the team and one of the top-notch marksmen, said the second annual match was dominated by the shooting of the infantry center pistoliers.

The matches, which were held at Fort McPherson, Ga., over the week end attracted 100 of the southeast's most touted pistol experts, including civilian and military teams.

Lt. David H. Thomas, Student Training Regiment, copied the top spot in the match, bringing home six gold and seven silver medals, for a total of 2498 points.

Lt. Clark S. Campbell, Infantry School Airborne department, followed with five gold and nine silver medals, and a total score of 2,648 match points.

Colonel Swindler, who took third place, captured 2,449 points, one gold medal, 13 silver medals and four bronze ones.

M-Sgt. Arden J. King, Infantry School Weapons department, took fourth place with a score of 2,400 points, bringing home seven silver and four bronze medals.

M-Sgt. Joseph Gallo, Provost Marshal and M-Sgt. Daniel Huntley, Infantry School Weapons department, also were in the top six places. Gallo brought home 10 medals and Huntley captured eight.

The matches pitted tip-top shooters against each other in contests with the .22 caliber pistol, .38 caliber revolver and a .45 caliber service pistol.

Road Widening Survey Started State, County and Army Seek to Speed Traffic

A crew of Georgia highway surveyors went into action this week on the old Fort Benning road, preparing data to precede widening of the highway from the traffic circle to the main outpost by two lanes.

Senate Backs Allotments For Families of GIs

The Senate this week speedily passed a bill to cash allowances ranging from $85 to $125 a month for families of enlisted men in the Armed Forces.

The measure goes to the house where a plan varying in some respects has already come out of committee. The house leadership hopes for action later this week.

The senate rushed its bill through on a shouted voice vote after a brief explanation from Chairman Tydings (D-MD) of the Armed Services committee which brought out the measure.

Under the senate bill a wife, child or parent of an enlisted man would get a minimum of $85 monthly. The man would contribute $40 and the government $45.

Two dependents would receive a minimum of $107.50 and three or more $115 monthly. Of this the serviceman would pay $40.

Families of enlisted men in the upper grades—who are non-commissioned officers such as sergeants in the Army—would get a larger monthly payment. But these non-commissioned officers would be forced to contribute more—either $60 or $80 monthly from their pay.

The total payment to a family would range up to $155 for the present and into an expansive Army master sergeant or Navy chief petty officer.

The bill also provides that families of allowances were paid during World War II but these would have to foot the costs for a new bridge across the Upatol, which would handle badly congested outgoing traffic, and any other improvements on the post, needed in connection with the highway project.

Mr. Long expressed confidence in the future of the project, saying, "I feel sure it'll be approved by the state."

Plans under consideration by Benning officials and state highway engineers would convert the present road into an expansive, modern road, separated by a landscaped six-foot parkway. The two additional lanes would be built on the right side of the present road leading from the post.

Post Quarters Opened to STR

Student officers in certain categories reporting to Fort Benning will be allowed to move into quarters on the post, officials announced this week. A set of new regulations governing billeting also lowered qualifications in other categories.

Billeting officials have been authorized to give post quarters to about 40 field grade officers on permanent change of station orders.

Also, majors who have been permanently assigned here, including students, will be allowed to have quarters on Sigetooz road, Austin and Miller loops and Rainbow avenue when available. Company grade officers permanently assigned here will be assigned to student apartments and duplexes where available, officials announced.

An Open Letter of Thanks

Button Your Lip, Bud, Or It May Cost You

BY ANOYMOUS

Thank you, Soldier, for the immeasurable assistance you've given me during my brief visit to Columbus.

I can't remember your name, because you are one of many that I met and listened to during the stop here.

Remember the other night in the Howard Bus station when you and your buddies—all members of the . . . Tank battalion, I believe,—had an argument over what route your unit would take to the West coast for shipment to the Far East command?

And do you recall, now that almost a week has passed, who told your buddies about the new 3.5 rocket launcher, how it worked and how many your unit was taking overseas?

And doubtless, you remember discussing "things" you heard around your company. Thanks so very much.

You see, I represent a foreign government that is paying me handsomely for tid-bits of information I gather around "Army towns." Of course, my chiefs know that much of what I report is conjecture and rumor and idle chatter, but you'd be surprised how much it helps.

All my life I've lived in the United States. But, paradoxically, I don't believe in democracy. There are several reasons. First, I can make more money and get ahead faster by prostituting my patriotism to another cause.

(See AN OPEN LETTER, Page 4)

Leave Granted For Holy Days Of Jewish Faith

All Jewish members of the Armed Forces at Fort Benning will be given leave from their duties during the approaching Holy Days of their faith, Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, under an order issued this week by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commander of the Infantry Center. The two church holidays, Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, and Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, are the highest of the church. Rosh Hashanah begins at sunset Monday, Sept. 11, and continues until sundown on Wednesday, Sept. 13, while Yom Kippur begins at sunset Wednesday, Sept. 13, and continues until sundown Thursday, Sept. 21. All Jewish personnel on the post will be given leave to attend services in synagogues in Columbus, as there are no such services at Fort Benning under present circumstances. Commanders have been instructed to excuse all personnel from military duty during the holidays, and that personnel will be granted leave to be charged against annual leave.

Veteran

EACH INSTRUCTOR SAID Colonel Young "enthusiastically" pursued the course of study, and ample for some of the younger and more dexterous members of the class. Colonel Young is no stranger to Fort Benning, either. Back in 1932 he came to the Infantry Center for a year's study in the company officers' course, and then again in 1934 for a three-year tour as an instructor in a signal communications course. During World War II, Colonel Young was made a brigadier general, and assumed assistant command of the Third Infantry division between 1944 and 1945. Of airborne's future, Colonel Young said:

"It is a highly important weapon, one that should not be overlooked in the overall development of modern warfare. I believe we shall very soon see airborne play an important role in the defense of this country. I encourage all young men, with an eye toward increased and diversified training, to become a part of airborne and its future."

Jerk of the Week

Moron of Comics Awarded Honor

In tribute to the modern culture, the Jerk of the Week selection committee this week honors Pfc. Cosmos Lackwit, a man with the rabid habit of devouring the contents of every comic book and sex story on the market.

Completely overpowered by these tomes of sex, crime and contractions Pfc. Lackwit sacrifices everything so he may graze in the scrubbier pastures among the fields of literature. He gave up cigarettes for comic characters. He gave up beer for bosomy printed in the primary colors.

Every payday the comic Cosmos rushes from pay table to PX trailing his duffie bag behind him. He stands in awed silence before the racks of ruined reading and points reverently at what he wants. He buys at least one copy of everything until his money runs out, and then he trots triumphantly back to the barracks bearing his duffie bag of literary dung.

For the first few days after payday a lolling Lackwit wanders around in semi-hibernation. His faigues bulge with a burden of pulpy treasures of information. He is only able to work with one hand during this period of coma; his other hand and all his other faculties (we won't say brain) are immersed in the folds of paper-backed fiction.

After the first week, the incorrigible Cosmos has finished the comic books, and his face may be seen occasionally lifting and leering above a sweated copy of a sex story. In this stage of his monthly cycle of mental immersion, Pfc. Lackwit shows the modicum of ingenuity that he has. When he finds a particularly passionate passage he underlines it, so he can come back to it later the month. Even Lackwit knows that duffie bag full of this type of reading material will not last a whole month. He keeps three extra footlockers filled with these marked copies to tide him over the monthly financial finale.

In those sparse final days of the month, Cosmos practically becomes a clinical case. He descends to what he considers the depths of degradation in search of his type of higher education—and starts reading the newspapers. Here he finds the same sex and crime, but the pictures aren't nearly so good. But the worst feature of all for Lackwit is the fact that some of the comics in the newspaper are funny. Funny funnies are just plain nonsense to Cosmos who is serious about his reading.

Pfc. Cosmos had a cartoon complex when he came in the Army, and when he heard the good little books called modern educational devices he started reading with renewed vigor. He is now firmly convinced that his commanding officer is the military counterpart of the Batman and Cosmos is trying valiantly to be a ruffe-toting Robin. As he sits up at night reading aloud to himself in the latrine, he soars on imaginative missions, but the next morning he snores and forgets all missions.

After one episode when he slept until noon, the company commander started acting like Dick Tracy, and Cosmos ended up in the calaboose. He is out again now and you can see him any day of the week avidly adding to his store of comical knowledge.

Road

Senate

(Continued From Page 1) were ordered tapered off gradually last year. Congress at that time approved a general pay hike in all of the Armed Services. The new legislation uses a system of monthly allowances for living quarters—previously paid only to the higher ranking enlisted men when such quarters were not supplied by the government on the basis for the new system.

The senate bill, like the one in the house, cuts off increases in the benefits after making provision for three dependents. It includes a suggestion that men with more than three dependents should not be drafted into the Armed Services or enlisted in the lower grades.

The house bill goes into the same problem from a slightly different angle. The senate bill takes $40 a month from the pay of the bottom three grades—recruit, private and private first class—in the Army, and recruit, apprentice and seaman in the Navy—and adds $40 to it to make $80 for one dependent.

The deduction from the man's pay stays the same no matter how many dependents there are, but the government puts in $75.50 for a total of $120.50 for two dependents such as a wife and child, and $71 for a total of $115 if there are more than two dependents.

For an Army corporal or sergeant, or a Navy petty officer third class or second class, the contribution out of the man's pay is $80. The government puts in $75.50 for either one or two dependents for a total of $155.50. For more than two dependents the government share becomes $75 and the total $130.

Top Grades Put Up $80
A sergeant first class or master sergeant in the Army, or a petty officer first class or chief petty officer in the Navy, puts up $80. The government share stays at $75.50 for one or two dependents and $75 for more than two, for totals of $147.50 or $155.

Col. Kane to Head Ordnance Group

Col. Charles M. Crawford, Infantry Center Ordnance officer, will leave soon for a new assignment, and will be replaced by Col. Thomas J. Kane, a recent arrival from duty in the Far East.

Colonel Crawford, who came to Fort Benning as Ordnance officer in May 1944, began his Army career as a private in the 36th Infantry division in 1917. By the end of World War I he had been promoted to a regimental sergeant major in the 36th division.

After being discharged, Colonel Crawford returned to his native Texas and attended Texas University at Austin. During the ensuing years he was city manager of Childress, Tex., for ten years, and assistant adjutant general of Texas. The 56-year old officer was called back to active duty with the National Guard's 36th Infantry division in 1939, and remained with the unit through 1941. Between 1941 and 1942 he was Ordnance officer for the Eighth Army in the Pacific theater of operations. He was promoted in 1942 to full colonel.

The following year he was assigned to the XIV corps and saw combat in New Caledonia and Guadalcanal. While with the famous corps he was made ord-

Suppression Wins Benefit of World Feeling

Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series of articles by Staff Writer Pat Murphy dealing with the military, cultural, economic and religious life of Korea.

Suppressed and hindered in their daily lives by the Japanese conqueror, Koreans were suffering under the heavy occupation hand that ruled their religious, social, educational and industrial activities.

By 1919, world religious organizations, spurred by the protests of residents of other nations, began pressing appeals for a reform in Korea through the newly-formed League of Nations.

The governing of Korea by the Nippons had become so abominable that even a Japanese writer, who had been sent to the occupied country to observe the new rule, came away criticizing the complete harnessing of Korean life.

In effect, the author, who was regarded highly in Japan, said the Japanese had destroyed the once-thorough educational system; a police espionage system had been set up that constantly jeopardized the freedom of citizens; a program of land division had stripped many farmers of their agricultural holdings, and a subversive system of inter-family spying prevented citizens from conducting business freely.

THE RIGHT FOR THE KOREAN PEOPLE to assert their freedom from the Japanese came shortly after the death of the Korean emperor under mysterious circumstances.

A mammoth funeral was planned by Korean citizens for March 4, 1919. Thousands of mourning persons flocked to the capital city.

On March 1, three days preceding the great funeral, 33 once-strong Korean politicians met at a secret banquet where they wrote and proclaimed a Declaration of Independence. The group then voluntarily called the secret police and surrendered to them through the streets to jail. The thousands of Koreans gathered in the city for the funeral immediately began shouting and demanding the freedom of their emancipators.

Within a matter of hours, mimeographed copies of the independence charter were distributed throughout the land. Demonstrations continued in the cities and villages, and the people began a chanting march through every street crying for their freedom from the Japanese.

THE POLICE, WHO HAD NOT BEEN ASSAULTED by any Japanese, lost their control and began attacks on citizens with weapons. Hundreds of Koreans were slain more and more were imprisoned, but the chanting demonstrations continued.

In desperation, the Japanese assembled all religious leaders of Korea, and herded them inside a church where they were shot or disposed of in a series of nefarious torture techniques.

Scores of other Koreans were rounded up and tortured by the Japs in an effort to get signed confessions saying religious leaders had incited the independence move. Despite certain death and indescribable pain, none of the valiant victims signed confessions.

Meanwhile, a secret political move by Koreans resulted in the election of Dr. Syngman Rhee as president of the new nation. At the time, Dr. Rhee was in America pleading for aid to his country. At the League of Nations and a special world political meeting in Paris, Korea presented its plea to a world council which refused to support the struggling Koreans.

SLOWLY, AS A FOREST FIRE EVENTUALLY burns out, the Korean republic became weaker in its independence move, especially without the aid of more powerful neighbors. But the Japanese recognizing that world attention had been cast sympathetically on the Koreans, immediately lifted some of the deplorable occupation regulations governing the people.

As time went by, Korea returned to a more normal period than she had endured at the hands of the Japanese. The Nipponese, in addition, promised in the face of world demands, to conduct a more liberal regime in the troubled peninsula.

Report From Washington

No Plans to Recall War II Dogs, Army Says

By ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE
Privately owned Army war dogs which saw service in World War II will not be recalled to duty in current expansion of the forces. The Army now has a "Canine Corps" of approximately 500 dogs, largely the offspring of World War II canine veterans. Trained dogs are being used in Germany and on Okinawa, and sledge dogs are on duty in Alaska.

who have not yet been selected for retention in the Regular Army as career officers, are not eligible for flight training, postgraduate training, long term training, or transfer from General Line to Supply Corps or Civil Engineer Corps, or change in designation to engineering duty, special duty or aeronautical engineering duty. They are, however, eligible for submarine training and for short term training courses of five months duration or less.

Naval Reserve nurses on inactive duty, who have dependents under 18 years of age, are not eligible for recall to active duty, under recently established Navy policy.

The exemption from payments of regular postage on first class letter mail established for members of the armed forces in World War II has been restored for members on active duty in Korea, and such other areas as the President may designate as combat zones or military theaters. As in World War II, the sender is required to write his name, address and serial number in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope, and the word "Free" in the upper right-hand corner.

The Air Force has announced plans to promote 886 officers and 7,000 airmen to fill vacancies created by the expansion program.

Fort Monroe, Va., one of the Army's most historical posts, and Headquarters of Army Field Forces, has been closed to the public as a security measure.

Under recently announced Naval policy, officers commissioned directly from NROTC units

Orders assigning Air Force rated personnel to duty for periods in excess of 30 days at installations lacking facilities for proficiency flying, will designate an Air Force base to which the officers concerned will be attached for flying duty in order to maintain proficiency flying, under instructions recently published (AFI July 13, 1950).

The Navy will resume recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Newport, R. I., for the first time since 1944. Training activities at Newport will supplement those at Great Lakes, Ill., and San Diego, Calif.

The deadline for submitting claims for unused military leave has been extended to June 30, 1951, by the provisions of Public Law No. 479, passed by the 81st Congress. The previous deadline was Sept. 1, 1948. Claims submitted subsequent to this date are invalid and should be resubmitted. Members of the armed services who are entitled to submit claims under P.L. 479 are those who have unused leave standing to their credit on August 31, 1946, in excess of 60 days.

Chaplain's Corner

Tell God Your Fears, Stop Whistling in the Dark

BY CHAPLAINS ARTHUR PEARCE AND AARON SIMMONS

As chaplain of the U. S. Senate, Peter Marshall prayed this prayer.

"Our Father, give us the faith to believe that it is possible for us to live victoriously even in the midst of dangerous opportunity that we call crisis. Help us to see that there is something better than patient endurance or keeping a stiff upper lip, and that whistling in the dark is not really bravery."

"Trusting in Thee, may we have the faith that goes singing in the rain, knowing that all things work together for good to them that love Thee."

Do you "whistle in the dark?" Or do you know how to talk to God? Many folks don't. The Disciples didn't. So they asked Jesus, "Lord, teach us to pray." You know what He said: "Our Father Who art in Heaven," etc. But do you know what He meant? That's important.

Well, let's consider two words He taught us to use. "Our Father." Even kids know what a father is. And most children love their father. Edgar A. Guest—America's great homespun poet—has written a poem about a little boy who was afraid of the dark. He imagined goblins were after him. He talked about an elephant with shining tusks that chased him, and a horrible giant with three heads and twenty arms trying to grind his bones and make them into bread. Then the poet has Johnny saying:

try and selling it information about this country's Army and Navy and Marine Corps. The leaders who put me are directing an army in Korea that's killing some of your buddies.

I hate to see good, decent boys like you killed, Soldier, but after all, you talk and I can sell it for good, hard cash.

Oh yes, Thanks for the number of men in your unit, what equipment they're carrying, when you leave, when the boat sails and what you've heard about where you're going to land. My chieftan can formulate some beautiful strategy to see that you'll be wiped out when you get there if they don't sink the ship first. We have submarines, too.

That's what I like about you, Soldier. You think you're being a major domo and important figure by revealing information to wide-eyed youngsters who've just come in the Army. And you get a big kick out of how your girl looks up to you when you tell her you're in the know. Yes, Soldier, you've been mighty helpful to me.

I saw you several times while I was in Columbus. Once it was in a theater lobby waiting for the first show to start; another time we had dinner in adjoining booths. The last time was on the bus going to the post.

You're probably a pretty well-meaning guy. You saw me in uniform and you thought to yourself, "He's a soldier. I guess I can discuss military information while he's around." But, Soldier, it's plenty easy to buy a set of last mess.

Well, I've got a train to catch. Going to Fort — — this week. I understand there's some activity out that way, and the boys probably talk just as much as you do.

Take care of yourself, Soldier. If you come back without a leg or your buddies never come back, blame yourself. You gave me some good tips.

Yours,
A Grateful Friend.

To Amuse You Today

Soldier: "I can't eat this chicken."
Cook: "What's the matter with it?"
Soldier: "It must have been born in an incubator."
Cook: "How do you know?"
Soldier: "No chicken with a mother could be that tough."

They were out at sea. The ship was rolling and the passenger was sick. "Hey," a ship's officer called out, "you can't be sick here."
The passenger looked at him wanly, stuck his head over the rail, and gulped, "Watch!"

Booster: "This is the greatest town on earth. When I first got here they had to carry me around. Now, look at me!"
User: "Gosh, it certainly must be a healthy place to live in. Been here long?"
Booster: "Ever since I was born."

Mark Twain, once told that Americans have no aristocrats, asked, "What is an aristocrat?"
"An aristocrat," was the reply, "is someone who has no business or job, who travels as he pleases, who enjoys life, and doesn't work for a living!"
"Sure we have aristocrats in America," Mark smiled, "only back home we call them 'tramps.'"

COMING ATTRACTIONS

COUNTY FAIR with Rory Calhoun and Jane Nigh. A horse racing picture filmed in Cinecolor. In this epic a woman's weakness for betting on trotting races leads her friends into all kinds of trouble when they attempt to help her win. Family.

PROWL CAR with Mark Stevens, Edmond O'Brien and Gale Storm. A melodrama of crime. The movie follows a cruising police prowler car as it takes its team of officers from one melodramatic case to another in the never-ending battle with crime. Family.

THE SLEEPING CITY with Richard Conte and Colleen Gray. A murder mystery. The story starts with two internes dying by murder and suicide. To solve the case it is necessary for a detective to be assigned to the hospital staff. Adult.

THE DESERT HAWK with Yvonne De Carlo and Richard Greene. A spectacular Technicolor adventure. The action and Eastern exoticism that have come to be associated with Yvonne De Carlo are present in full measure in this tale of a desert Robin Hood. Family.

INDIAN TERRITORY with Gene Autry and Gail Davis. A Western with music. This little bit follows the well-worn paths of the tried and true action formula that the hard-bitten Western fans are always on the look-out to find. Family.

MOTOR PATROL with Don Castle and Jane Nigh. A documentary type melodrama. Produced in collaboration with the Traffic division of the Los Angeles Police department, the movie gives a new insight into the activities of the "motorcycle cop" Family.

THE MILKMAN with Donald O'Connor and Jimmy Durante. A comedy in the slapstick tradition. The many antics of O'Connor and Durante in this film are against a background of the dairy business. The milk-moguls are expected to be curdled for the next 50 years. Family.

Network On The Bookshelf

MINK ON WEEKDAYS BY FELICIA LAMPFORT HOUGHTON & CO. PUBLISHER

BY ALLEN L. MULLIKIN

The return of some of the top winter shows to the networks brings renewed vigor to radio entertainment this week. Next Monday a terrific line-up of shows returns to CBS and its Columbus outlet WRBL. Returning shows include Art Linkletter's "House Party" at 3:30 p.m., the Jack Smith-Dinah Shore-Margaret Whiting Show at 7:15 p.m., Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts at 8:30 p.m., and My Friend Irma at 10 p.m. In addition, the famous radio Theater will open its new season at 8 p.m. with Cary Grant and Ann Sheridan recreating their film roles in "I Was A Male War Bride."

On NBC two popular shows returning to WDAK are the Cavalcade of America and the American Album of Familiar Music. The Album returns Sunday, Aug. 27 at 9:30 p.m. with its star Thomas L. Thomas. Cavalcade will be back Tuesday, Aug. 29, at 8 p.m. with the dramatization of John Yankus starring Basil Rathbone. Two classical programs on WDAK will be Antal Dorati conducting the NBC Symphony on Sunday at 8:30 p.m. and John Barrymore in recordings of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night tonight at 8 p.m.

The Sunday line-up of mysteries over WBS through WGBA will include the usual favorites. Hopalong Cassidy at 4 p.m. investigates The Failure when a local sheriff retires. The Shadow at 5 p.m. dons his cloak of invisibility to solve Murder On Wheels. Nick Carter, Master Detective at 6:30 p.m. becomes involved in the Case of the Murder Frame. The Sunday shows are from Mutual showcase, but scattered through the week are several spine-chillers over the ABC network. Tonight at 7:30 p.m. Countdown can be heard. Tomorrow night at 8 p.m. The Fat Man will be at work, and The Green Hornet will be off on his adventures at 7:30 p.m. on Monday.

The poor little rich girl in reverse serves as the comic theme of Felicia Lampfort's more or less autobiographic story of a childhood that included the wearing of Mink on Weekdays (and ermine on Sundays). A delightful addition to the publisher's lists of light summer reading, Mink on Weekdays will undoubtedly be ignored when they hand out the literary prizes. It can be read for a couple of hours of pure fun with no worry about remembering important passages, or even concern about the world situation. Miss Lampfort tells the hilarious tale of her uproarious upbringing as a very rich little rich girl in humor and the humanities as well as an unending supply of gelt: As a pudgy little girl envying her frail older sister, emulating her punning father and being victimized by her mother's energetic ideas of education, Felicia makes an engagingly funny ugly-duckling heroine. The dynamic and dominating force of the rich Jewish family of the book is Mama. Mama is a woman with a miraculous flow of energy, and she is determined that her two daughters shall have equal amounts of energy and the fruits of life it can bring. She starts cultivating these fruits at a very early age by seeing that her two young huds get at least four hours of fresh air and sunshine every day. Sometimes the sun refused to cooperate regardless of Mama's determination, but, even when the snow was several feet deep the fresh air was available and the kids got it. As the girls grew older they were exposed to culture. Mama always followed her own innate sense of selectivity among the better things of life, but she did not trust nature to take care of the tastes of her children. The delicate older sister responded beautifully to endless lessons in the arts, but Felicia's only outstanding talent seemed to be for puns like the ones her father excelled in. She was also good at chess and mathematics for what ever that was worth in making her a lady. Education went right on during the summer for the Lampfort daughters. They either went to camps with classes all morning, or they went on trips to Europe. As the girls bloomed into young ladies, Felicia was still a little plump, but Mama had her hands full with the boy friend problem anyway. Papa Lampfort who thought being Jewish was as much fun as a circus taught the girls to appreciate their vivacious mother, and he also taught them something about how to get those bills paid for Mink on Weekdays.

LT. AND MRS. KLEBER CAMPBELL

Lt. Kleber A. Campbell Weds Miss Amy Leavitt

Miss Helen Amy Leavitt, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Leslie W. Leavitt of the American University, Beirut, Lebanon, became the bride of Lt. Kleber A. Campbell III of Fort Benning, a high noon ceremony Tuesday at the post chapel at Fort Benning.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks, assisted by Dan Leavitt of Natick, Mass., brother of the bride, performed the ceremony. Twin arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were used on the main altar and the choir stalls were banked in greenery. Flanking the chancel rail were floor baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

A program of nuptial music was presented by John Milley, organist. His selections included "Panis Angelicus," "Liebestraum," by Liszt, "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Kleber A. Campbell Jr. was his son's best man and Miss Joan A. Campbell of Grafton, Mass., sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She was gowned in navy with matching hat and white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink valley lilies and stephanotis.

The lovely brunette bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Frank E. Leavitt of St. Petersburg, Fla. Her wedding dress of white organdy was fashioned with a round neckline and cap sleeves. She wore a cloche of white lace trimmed in satin

House Approves Bill For GI Wives' Entry

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The House has approved legislation to allow an estimated 760 wives and children of United States Servicemen to enter this country.

The measure, recently passed, now goes to the Senate, which passed a similar bill for action on minor House changes.

Most of the aliens are Japanese. They are not eligible for admission under previous Congressional bills covering the admission of war brides because the marriages occurred after August 22, 1947, the cut-off date fixed in a 1947 law.

SLATED FOR COMPETITION IN THE OFFICERS' MESS TENNIS TOURNAY AUG. 26-SEPT. 4

Tennis Tournament Scheduled for Post

Sports Sidelights

BY LEO J. PARENT
Tennis will be back in the foreground for Fort Benning fans beginning Saturday when the annual Officers' Mess tennis tournament jumps off with an expected 150 entries to compete for championship honors in 11 classes.

A total of six singles and five doubles divisions will be on tap for this year's hopelists. Singles competition will be held in the following divisions: men's, men's consolation, women's, junior (15 years and under), boys (15 years and under). The five doubles divisions will include men's mixed, husband and wife, junior and senior, and father and son events.

Heated Competition
The biggest battle in the tournament is scheduled in the men's singles when the most up and coming artists will duel for the crown held vacant by Lt. Col. Sanford Webster. Webster won the honors for the division for three consecutive years, 1947-48-49. Seeded No. 2 post player, Capt. Robert Scruton looks at the post-tourney favorite for Webster's crown.

One of the most popular contests of the tourney will see Capt. and Mrs. David Silver fight to bring home the bacon that slipped through their grasp last year in the husband and wife division. The Silvers were pounded down into the runnerup slot last year by champions Lt. Col. and Mrs. Webster.

For the first time in any Benning tennis tournament, but popular throughout the nation, father and son duels will scramble for titles built for two in doubles competition.

To Top Youngsters
Designed to spur the incentive of youngsters on the post with tennis ability, the junior and senior competition will feature some of the finest adult courtmen at Benning linked with some of the youngest net stars.

Losers in the first two rounds of the men's singles division will play a consolation tourney to determine the champion and runnerup.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners and runnerup in the 11 classes at the end of play on Sept. 4.

Entries for participation in the tournament should be posted at the Officers' Mess Tennis Pro Shop by 6 p.m., August 25.

Benning's Wacs Beat McPherson

Led by Sandy Sanderson and Burr Daily, the Fort Benning Wac attachment softballers slammed out a 12-10 victory over Fort McPherson Saturday night at the Baker Village diamond.

Fort McPherson roared into a 6-0 lead by the end of three innings of play that saw the Benning bats muffed by the effective pitching of E. Vokrian. The Fort Benning women struck back in their half of the fourth, however, when Sanderson picked out a three-two pitch and sent it into deep left field for four bases to start a rally that sent three more Benning runs scampering across the plate by the end of the frame. McPherson scored three more tallies in the fifth inning to run the score up to 9-4. Benning picked up three in its half of the frame to put the count to 9-7. McPherson made its final run in the sixth and Benning evened up the score in the frame when Burr Daily came through with a blast to left field good for four bases scoring Rusty Ross and Barbara Kerr who had singled to open the frame. Two more Benning runs were racked up when Carlos Brunner and Dorothea Smith each hit singles and scored on a triple.

Doughs Swamp Thomaston, 10-1

Led by Ike Silcox who fanned 15 batters, the Fort Benning Doughboys slaughtered the Thomaston, Ga., Millers 10-1 in a seven-inning holocaust Saturday night at Gowdy field.

Silcox wrapped up his 10th consecutive victory of the 1950 season with a performance that left no doubt in any one's mind that they were watching one of the Army's best pitchers in action. Ike faced a total of 28 men in his seven-inning stint, gave up seven scattered hits and three bases on balls and watched one Miller unearned run scamper across the plate.

The Miller's only tally came in the first inning when Otis King singled to start the frame. Alvin Sanders went down swinging and Buddy Thrasher fled out to left field. Ed Turner bounced a single into left and King scored when the throw in from the infield went wild.

Doughs Ran Wild
The Doughboys ran wild in their first turn at bat, banging out four hits, including a double and a triple, good for four runs in their half of the first inning. Bob Kinard led off with a pop fly to second, Norval Buckland was out, second to first, and then the fireworks started. Joe Smith looked over a two-on switch, also then slapped the next offering into center field for a single.

SHARPSHOOTER . . . One of the reasons that the Fort Benning Doughboys will be a team to reckon with in spite of the small square on hand this fall is the powerful pitching arm of Walter Fry, above. The five-foot seven inch, 170 pound package of dynamite spent time last week demonstrating his pin point accuracy to the coaching staff during intersquad practices at Doughboy stadium.

Mrs. Goss Loses To Mrs. Curtiss
In an all-Fort Benning feature match, Mrs. E. Curtiss defeated Mrs. Frank Goss in first round play Monday afternoon in an annual inter-club Eleventh trophy women's tournament at the Columbus Country club.

In other matches in the championship flight, Mrs. Roy Burns of Columbus defeated Fort Benning's Mrs. Norval Buckland on the 19th hole and Miss Paddy Haskins of Columbus, finished one-up on Miss Ella Kirvan, also of Columbus. In another all-Columbus battle, Miss Peggy Pease downed Mrs. Mary Lou Brown on the 19th hole.

In first flight play, Mrs. Shirley Kirven defeated Mrs. Eula Williams one-up. Both are Columbus women. Mrs. Mosele Fletcher, Miss Juliette Burts, and Mrs. Maxine Mullin, all of Columbus, drew byes.

Rowan Guiding Post Gridders

Under the direction of Rip Rowan, one time West Point grid great, the Fort Benning football squad began stiff drills this week in preparation for its rough nine game schedule this fall.

Rowan took over the squad after Joe Steffy, former West Point All-American left Fort Benning on another assignment. The nine-game schedule facing the Benningites this season calls for some rugged defensive tactics to meet the power that will be thrown at them by teams representing the Army, Navy, Marines and Airforce.

Under the direction of Rowan, the Doughboys spent their afternoons this week working out the kinks of the long layoff from last year to the present season. One of the most serious outlooks that faces Rowan is the small size of his squad. Only about 20 men have reported to the stadium to try out for the team, and of those many have little or no experience. It is Benning's job to produce the type of team that has faced the opposition with such success in the past, more players are going to have to come from somewhere.

MAJOR JOAO SARMENTO, LT. COL. RICHARD SEITZ AWARDED Certificate Of Completion Of Airborne Training

Benning Trains Brazil Officer

Maj. Joao Sarmiento, who is scheduled to establish the first airborne school for Brazil at completion of the Fort Benning course this week in a bed at the Post hospital where he is recovering from a broken leg, suffered in a parachute jump.

In recognition of his outstanding record during the basic airborne course at the Infantry School, Major Sarmiento was presented the award by Lt. Col. Richard Seitz on behalf of Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander.

With the experience gained at Fort Benning, the South American's next stop will be the 82nd Airborne division, Fort Bragg, N. C. where he will learn the techniques of training and the organization of an airborne division. From there he will return to Rio De Janeiro as the executive officer of the newly formed Paratroop School of Brazil.

Full of praise for the training received at Benning, Major Sarmiento said "I enjoy jumping very much and the instruction was so good at the Airborne department that I felt as though I were leaving the towers instead of a plane in flight".

1073 Civilian Posts Filled Since July 16

Since July 16, some 1,073 civilian workers have been added to the payroll at Fort Benning it was announced this week.

Col. Marcus Bell, Infantry Center G-4, said "for the present the Harmony church project would have to be shelved."

Modern Chapel Plan

Although details were not disclosed, Colonel Bell said the new chapel, which would be located on the same block with the recreation center, would be a complete religious edifice.

Mr. Barefoot said employment had tapered off somewhat, adding that the tremendous initial increase in employment was to meet immediate needs during the last four weeks, and that most vacancies had now been filled.

Meanwhile, however, officials here were preparing a call for additional workers in a certain number of skilled categories. Mr. Barefoot said vacancies still exist for skill testing capacity, radiator repairmen, wood auto body repairmen, telephone linemen and cable splicers.

There was some speculation as to whether more demands would create another hiring call. Mr. Barefoot said that at present there is nothing to indicate any large additional calls.

Don't YOU Be a Statistic

Death Rides the Highways Over Long Labor Day Weekend

In less than 72 hours, YOU may be nothing more than a statistic: YOU may be one of many thousands who will take to the roads, skyways or rails seeking a quick vacation over the three-day Labor Day weekend.

By Monday night, YOU may be another type of statistic: one of the several hundred persons to be killed needlessly by YOUR own carelessness.

Of the several hundred persons who will die in automobile accidents, YOU are likely to be in that 80 per cent that was a driver of the death vehicle. YOU also may be one of the 35 per cent intoxicated when you died in the twisted metal wreckage crushing your broken body.

On the other hand, when YOU die, it's likely that YOU forsook sleep in order to gain a few extra miles at high speed.

Regardless of why YOU die, it is certain you will be in the 74 per cent who were driving at 1:30 in the morning.

Death by violence during a vacation appears to be an abstract possibility to the majority of America's auto drivers. Most drivers traveling the weekend roads of the country have had more than two years' experience behind a steering wheel. But, according to records of the National Safety Council, more than 70 per cent of those killed in auto accidents are SKILLED DRIVERS WITH AT LEAST THREE YEARS EXPERIENCE.

New $750,000 PX Design Studied

An architect's design for a new $750,000 Infantry Center PX was being studied by post officials this week before being sent to Washington for approval.

Lt. Col. Allan M. Cory, Infantry Center post exchange officer, disclosed that the design now under consideration is one of three submitted by architects. He said it had been adjudged here as the best.

Although money has been made available for the project, the present design can be turned over to the PX office for study in favor of a different design. It will be some time before a final decision is reached, Colonel Cory said.

The proposed structure, which will be built with funds granted by the Army and Air Force welfare board, will be twice the size of the present PX. Also, the building will embody PX concessions now located in separate buildings.

Built in the shape of an L, the building under the plans, will contain all PX administrative offices and a large parking lot will be adjacent to the structure.

Increased floor space will enable a larger stock of goods and a self-service self-selection basis of merchandising.

The designers have also included a newer and larger cafeteria with more modern equipment and dining facilities.

Concentration of buying activity has been the theme in drawing up the plans, Colonel Cory said, and the new PX will pay post marketing facilities within a hop-skip-and-a-jump of each other.

Plans call for the new PX to be located in the block where the present building is situated.

124 Custer Units To Open Sept. 16

Another 124 Custer Road Terrace housing units will be opened by Sept. 16. Col. Marcus Bell, Infantry Center C-4 has announced, bringing to more than 220 the number of units available for occupancy by mid-September. More than 100 quarters in the 60-unit project have thus far been opened. Occupancy began Aug. 1, and has continued at the rate of some 20 quarters every two weeks. The $5,500,000 project, built under provisions of the Harry Act, is expected to be fully completed by Dec. 1. In addition, the Custer Road school, which adjoins the huge housing development, is expected to be open for the fall school session beginning in September.

New Assignments For 10 ISD Men

Jerk of the Week

Pay-Day Big Shot "Honor" Winner

A shout of glee followed by a month-long groan drew the attention of the Jerk of the Week Selection committee this week to Sgt. One-shot Wastrel. Immediately hearing the story behind the sound effects, the committee with equal rapidity named the sergeant the jerk for his outstanding record as the pay-day big shot.

With one big bang, Sgt. One-shot blows in his entire month's pay within 24 hours after getting it. Just having a good time is not enough for the wastrel Wastrel. He must make the big splash by flashing his bankroll before all eyes, and then peeling off the bills like a stripper doing her last show before going home for the night. He gives every dollar a lusty fling to the winds, yodeling all the while so no one will miss his performance.

One-shot, the big shot, rushes into town on payday afternoon, his open hands natively stretched out to meet all other open hands. His first purchase is usually a nickel's worth of candy at the ten-cent store. To pay for this he nonchalantly flips a twenty-dollar bill on the counter. Following this little exchange the salesgirl is usually charmed with his personality, and Wastrel has no trouble getting a date for when she gets off from work.

In preparation for a lavish evening with the candy-counter coquette One-shot goes to the most expensive barber shop town to get spruced up. With the calm demeanor of a millionaire he settles back in the shearing chair and says "the works". After the bath of cognac that ends the treat "the works", the wallowing Wastrel naturally contributes a bounteous tip to everyone in the establishment. For the spit and soot job in his shoes he gives the shine boy the price of a new pair of Florshems.

Spend-thrifty One-shot proceeds to cover the town, making a lasting impression (what a sucker) on everyone he meets. Of course, Wastrel never walks on his one-day spree—he takes a cab, and his tips would hire a chauffeur. As he is driven about town in the hack, One-shot makes all the pawn shops where he has hocked everything, including his gold teeth, during the other 20 days of last month.

The evening gets wild under way when Sgt. Wastrel takes his dime store damsel out for a sumptuous meal at the best restaurant he can find. After winning and dining, the high-rolling sergeant buys a box of 50-cent cigars, smokes one, and gives the rest to the waiter.

Then One-shot takes his girlfriend out to fritter away the evening and his dwindling wad. They go to a club for a bit of dissipation, but before he can really get started Sgt. Wastrel always makes one fatal mistake. He says "drinks on me" and that would wipe out J. P. Morgan when the payday night crowd is on the loose.

In case you stay in on the monthly money-day, you can still see Sgt. One-shot. You can recognize him by his bemused gaze and his mumbling dreamily, "Keep the change, keep the change."

Basic-And the Sergeant--To Get Tougher for Army's Training

WASHINGTON (AP)—Experience is contemplated Army training that will turn out rugged and efficient combat soldiers and reduce battlefield casualties by giving the men greater

The new and tougher training program also will see the return of the "rip-roaring, rough and ready top sergeant" with a vocabulary that can curl a recruit's hair at fifty paces.

The emphasis will be on toughening men undergoing basic training and fitting them for the arduous field duty they may be called on to perform. Army authorities said that some men trained under the new concept of "soft" treatment employed as an experiment in the Universal Military Training Unit at Fort Knox, Ky., had complained of the kid-glove handling.

Men expect to be treated roughly when they show up at the camps," one authority said. "They like to brag later about how they can take it, and about the tough hikes and maneuvers. When it is made easy for them, they resent it."

General Clark's new program embodies an intensive six-weeks' basic course, with eight weeks of advanced work, eliminating all non-essentials. The present Army basic training period is 14 weeks. The new program also provides for training with live machine gun and artillery ammunition under the supervision of trained safety officers.

The Army in addition is concentrating on a comparable after training that will produce expert tank, truck and tractor drivers. The underlying theme of such training now is to protect the vehicle against being disabled, to provide a proficient and dependable driver, and to provide three months of intensive training, including day and night driving, is planned.

COMPLETE TRAINING Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arthur B. Pearce USAR, (left) and Chaplain Maj. Aaron H. Simmons USAR talk over some of the problems they encountered while on active duty here at Fort Benning. The two reserve officer chaplains returned to their homes this week after completing a two-week training tour.

Courses Opened In Finance Field

Certain Fort Benning finance personnel will have an opportunity to attend several new courses at the Army Finance School, St. Louis, Mo., Third Army headquarters disclosed this week.

New courses to be offered will include instruction in enlisted disbursing, enlisted fiscal and accounting and auditing. Prerequisites for the enlisted disbursing course were listed as follows: Classified in grade E-4 as finance clerk (4624), or in grade E-5 as disbursing specialist (1622), who requires refresher training. Standard score of 110 or higher on aptitude area IV.

Requirements for the enlisted fiscal course are: Classified in finance career field in grade E-4 as finance clerk (4624), or in grade E-5 as fiscal specialist (1268) who requires refresher training. Standard score of 110 or higher on aptitude area IV. Qualifications for the accounting and auditing course, which is available to commissioned and warrant officers as well as enlisted personnel, are:

Officers—Below the grade of major as a commissioned officer of the regular Army or as an active member of a Reserve component whose assignment, actual or anticipated, is to accounting and auditing duties. Credit for a branch basic or associate basic course. Warrant officers—Hold a warrant on an exchange accounting officer (6102) or auditing officer (6110) and require refresher training. Enlisted personnel—Grade E-4, classified in finance career field as finance clerk (4624) or in grade E-5 as audit specialist (1350) who requires refresher training. Standard score of 100 or higher on aptitude area IV. Interested personnel should forward requests for applications for attendance at the Army Finance School to Third Army headquarters in accordance with instructions contained in the Manual of Military Personnel Management Procedures.

Defense Called Greatest Need

A State department policymaker this week declared the United States must maintain an organized defense force for many years. George F. Kennan, behind-the-scenes counselor who shaped the United States policy of containment toward Soviet Russia in 1947, told a press conference in Washington that the American people must never be guilty of accepting war with Russia as inevitable.

The 25-year veteran admitted the policy conceived three years ago toward Russia was executed with a defensive attitude and too narrowly planned. Nevertheless, he said, it is the best answer for Russia's claim for world domination.

Calling on the United States to remain on the political and military offensive in the future, Kennan said, we are "for the first time as a nation facing the test of maturity and world leadership."

TRUCK MEN SHIFTED Sgt. Charles Stallworth, formerly with the 66th Transportation Truck company, has been assigned duties with the 66th Transportation Truck company, it was reported this week.

Services Unite to Save Post Captain From AWOL

The desperately ill wife of an Army infantry officer lay in serious condition at Fort Benning station hospital today following a smooth working "Operation Good Samaritan" flight which called on facilities of three service branches.

Doctors said Mrs. Clark W. Porter, of Oklahoma, was suffering from a broken back received when she and her husband, an infantry captain, were in an automobile accident near Winfield, Ala., Thursday night. With his wife in a Birmingham hospital, Capt. Porter faced AWOL charges unless he reported yesterday to Fort Benning, where a doctor, nurse and an enlisted attendant from the Medical corps took charge.

An Air National Guard transport flew the Porters and their two children to Fort Benning. An Army ambulance took Mrs. Porter to Station Hospital. And Capt. Porter reported for duty—on time.

Major Mansfield Orders Shifted

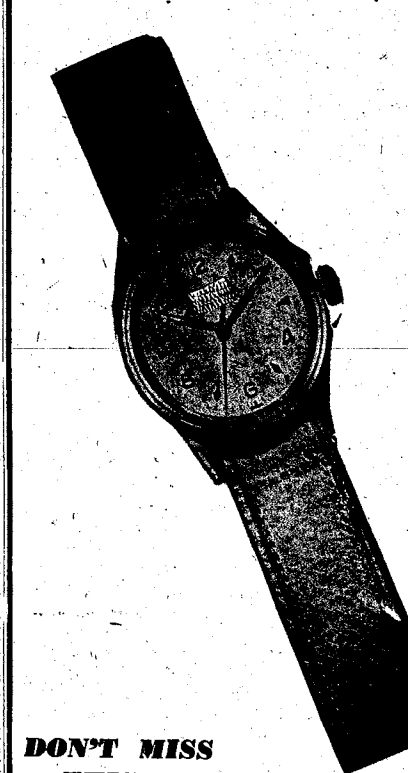

Maj. H. V. Mansfield has been appointed chief of the Airborne department's Pack-Jump Training group, it was announced this week by Brig. Gen. George H. Porter, assistant commandant of the United Press. After he had alerted the Air National Guard, the Navy, and the Army Nurses' corps, an ambulance from the Naval Reserve Training center brought Mrs. Porter to the Birmingham airport, where a doctor, nurse and an enlisted attendant from the Medical corps took charge.

A FAMILIAR PICTURE . . . The American fighting man is a familiar picture. Clad in the customary fatigues, these infantrymen march up a Korean road to meet the Red hordes from North Korea.

Does Death Appeal to You?

"Anyone having any claim of indebtedness against the estate of Cpl. John Doe, deceased, RA 12345678, Company A, Infantry School Detachment, should contact 1st Lt. Jack Jones, Summary Court Officer, at telephone 1010."

Such notices, which appear in the Daily Bulletin with far too much regularity, are usually the result of carelessness on the highways. We are expecting several more to appear in next week's Daily Bulletin unless Fort Benning personnel observe the Labor Day weekend more sanely than they have in the past.

Fatal accidents occur in far greater numbers during holiday periods than at any other time, safety statistics show. This is due, to a large extent, to the individual driver's effort to get as far away from his home or his job as possible in the fastest possible time. Because of man's desire to escape from his daily routine, he oftentimes fails to return to that routine. Somewhere along the route, he goes to sleep at the wheel from sheer exhaustion or his fatigue causes him to lose control of his reflexes. Perhaps he waited too late to begin his return trip and had to travel faster than the set limit. In many instances, he can't stop the vehicle in time to avoid a collision, or the condition of the road or the weather caused him to lose control of his automobile. Or, worse still, perhaps he decided to have one last drink before starting out on the long journey to Fort Benning. Any one of these can, and often does, result in death, unnecessary death.

Post Loses Great Friend

Fort Benning lost a great friend in the death of Phenix City Mayor Homer D. Cobb. A colorful political figure whose business enterprises and posts as chairman of the Phenix City Commission and police court recorder occupied most of his time, Mr. Cobb was never too busy to work with Fort Benning officials to improve military-civilian relations.

He was an active member of the Citizens-Military Council, and those who served with him were high in their praise of his genuine sense of fair play and cooperativeness. He was always willing to listen to both sides of any controversy involving Phenix Citizens and Benningites, and quick to punish those who violated the law, whether it be military or civilian.

Speaking for Fort Benning personnel, The Bayonet extends its deepest sympathy to Mayor Cobb's family, and joins with Phenix City in mourning the passing of its First Citizen.

Firemaking is a lost art among the Bolivian Siriono Indians, who pass a burning brand down from generation to generation. Food is so scarce among the Siriono Bolivian Indian tribe that they may be said to be always hungry.

It is estimated that it takes about two acres of farm crops per person to feed the United States. Baked potatoes lose little of their food value and retain most of their Vitamin C, lost in other forms of cooking.

News Briefs

UN Forces Bucked Up

United States and South Korean forces fighting the North Korean invaders were inspired this week by assurances from Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of ground forces in Korea, that the enemy "is making his last gasp" and the time for withdrawals is past.

The vanguard of more than 2,000 British crack infantry troops arrived in Korea this week. The force included Brigadier F. A. Good, who will command the British force. The main body of troops sailed from Hong Kong last week and is expected to arrive in Korea soon.

Air attack in Chinese territory by U. S. and British planes was charged this week by the Communist Chinese government. The official diplomatic protest to the U. S. said planes from the U. S. and Britain had made strafing attacks in which three people were killed and 21 wounded.

Reports that Chinese Reds invaded Tibet this week were unconfirmed by the State Department. Officials said, however, they would not be surprised at such a move because Chinese Red leaders have been threatening to take over the country for many months.

A flash uprising of Communist-led Huk rebels in the Philippines brought death to 156 and left scores wounded this week in the central part of the island.

Report From Washington

Expect Removal of Ceilings on W-O Advance

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE
The Defense Department Personnel Policy Board has recommended removal of previous ceilings on promotions to the top warrant officer grades, W-4 and W-3. Defense Department approval is expected, permitting the promotion of warrant officers on the basis of merit rather than budget limitations.

Congressional committees are expected to complete work soon on legislation for limited income tax relief for combat military personnel and some type of family allowance system for personnel with dependents.

The Senate recently approved a bill which would pay dependents' benefits ranging from $85 to $155 per month. The servicemen would contribute a little less than half of the total benefits.

All services are working on plans for effecting promotions as their ranks increase with new members. First announcement of temporary Army promotions due to the current expansion is expected early in September.

The Air Force is considering approximately 5,000 officers for temporary promotions to captain and first lieutenant. The following categories are eligible: all Reserve and National Guard officers on extended active duty as first lieutenant who hold captain's grade in the regular Army.

Chaplain's Corner

Says 'Follow Me' Inspires Confidence

BY CHAPLAIN ARTHUR B. PEACE, JR.
The big plane landed, and as it taxied closer to the tower a jeep appeared with a large sign on the rear which read "Follow Me". Not "Please, If It Is Convenient, Won't You Follow Me?", but the imperative command "Follow Me" leaves no doubt in the mind of the pilot as to his instructions. The safety of the plane, the personnel aboard, in fact all planes and persons are at stake.

It is no accident that the terse command "Follow Me" is the motto of the Infantry, Queen of Battles. Its command inspires confidence. It says, "Follow Me, I know where we are going, I know we can accomplish our mission. No enemy can stop us, no foe can beat me, I know how to lead, I know how to follow me." It is a spiritual warfare that we are engaged in where the subtle enemy of our consciousness infiltrates and outflanks our position. Using our natural position and appetites, he puts our soldiers in the stockade and in the hospital G. U. wards. He saps their courage, and they betray their country by going AWOL, deserting to the enemy. They who gratify and coddle themselves make gaps in the line, that their buddies must fill. Eternal.

of Luzon, principal island of the group. The nation's tank production was called "woefully inadequate" this week by Chairman Carl Vinson of the House armed services committee. The Georgia democrat also said inquiries showed the nationwide radar defense network must be vastly expanded to give cities and key industrial areas advance warning against possible enemy air attack.

Winston Churchill, in radio speech this week, charged that the Labor government had for two years been allowing British factories to manufacture tools for shipment to Russia to make and repair tanks. He also said machine tools had been sent to Communist Poland.

Uranium news released from the British government this week reveals the discovery of a million ton deposit of the vital atomic ore in the British Isles. Britain also claimed that Russia has stepped up its search in East Germany for uranium to a "frantic" pace, far beyond peaceful need.

Joseph A. Malik, Soviet representative on the Security Council of the United Nations, demanded this week that the Council omit from its report to the General Assembly any reference to actions taken during the Soviet walkout. This would exclude all action taken by the UN against the North Korean invaders.

The Army has suspended all donation of weapons to veterans, civic and other groups for ceremonial or display purposes for the duration of the present emergency.

The Army's 1900-bed Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif., has been redesignated Letterman Army Hospital. The Air Force has specified five categories of Reservists eligible for delay in being recalled to active duty: personnel enrolled in educational institutions; those in research and scientific activities; graduate students in dentistry, veterinary or medical colleges or in first year medical internship; those in certain critical civilian occupations or essential activities, identified as such by the Departments of Labor and Commerce; hardship and dependency cases identified as such by Air Force regulations; key "managerial" personnel whose call to active duty would result in material loss in production, services or research necessary to the national health, safety or interest.

THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING
By CHRISTOPHER FRY
OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS, PUBLISHER
BY ALLEN L. MULLIKIN
Sparkling comedy distilled into needle-point drops shines from Englishman Christopher Fry's printed pages just as it has shown from West End stages, according to London drama critic. Fry often demands too much from the reader; The Lady's Not For Burning only demands that the reader laugh aloud.

With flashing wit and wise-crack, playwright Fry has dared love high above all else among the lowly things of the world. With fluttering hearts and tripping tongues his lovers flaunt their unconcern about the effects of death and torture on their starry romance.
A returning soldier, Thomas Mendip, falls unware into a witch-chasing mob in the little town of Cool Clara. The time, according to playwright Fry, is 1400 either more or less or exactly. Beautiful Jinnat Jourdemayne stands accused of witchcraft and is detained attention from the unfortunate woman, Mendip tortures both man and woman who are taken prisoner. The torture is supposed to make the innocent girl plead guilty and the guilty man plead innocent.

With a divine sense of ridicule, Fry peoples his play with lesser characters in various degrees of sanity, easily mistaken for insanity. The populace of the town arises and the chaplain goes to sleep, the judge to his study, the mayor on a binge and the prisoners to a wedding reception.
Trying to enjoy themselves, on the eve of their doom, the soldier and the accused witch fall in love. A fine example of Fry's ability to combine majesty of language with the modern wisecrack comes from Jinnat:
Am I to understand that your tongue-tied dust will slip a ring on the finger of my ashes.
And we'll both die happily ever after.
Despite her reticence here, Jinnat Jourdemayne and Thomas Mendip do fall madly in love, and with a quick twist of the plot Christopher Fry acquits them of all charges and the soldier relinquishes himself to the "unholy mantrap of love".
The play is an irreverent romp through many of the conventions of today in a setting of old England. But as at all times, Fry wins out. As Mendip says, "Of course, you're right. I have to see you home, though neither of us knows where on earth it is."

returns to the NBC waves next Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. to begin its tenth year with the network.
The return roster this week for CBS, WRBL, the Columbus Broadcasting Company, include two new screen favorites, Lucille Ball and Eva Arden. Miss Ball, as the unpredictable Liz In My Favorite Husband, returns to the air tonight at 8:30 p. m. The popular comedy is switching from the Sun symposium to a regular Saturday night spot for its third season on the net. Eva Arden of the appeal-lark will come back as Que Pasa. Brooks and Sully on Sunday.

Three Symphonies On Concert Card

T.I.C. TALKS

Information on the T.I.C. (Top Secret Information Control) program was given by SFC. RALPH HOLT, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Student Training Regiment. Everyone knows you are not supposed to discuss troop movements and such information with people you family though most people will talk things like that over with them. Sometimes the families will repeat something that they thought was not breaking security regulations and some pretty smart fifth columnist in this country could take some little thing and make something out of it. It is best to follow regulations and not discuss such things.

SFC. JOSEPH E. KADZIS, Company G, Airborne battalion: For one thing, if you can't keep a secret about troop movements and confidential matters, you can't expect those you tell to keep their mouth shut. The things they repeat might fall into the wrong hands so it's not wise to discuss secret mater-

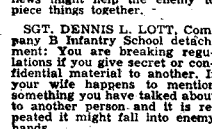

SGT. H. B. MCCOY, Company G, Airborne battalion: If any enemy agent got hold of any information you might give out it would let him know too much about our plans and equipment at home and overseas too. So the best thing to do is keep any information to yourself.

SGT. THOMAS L. WALLS, Company H, Airborne battalion: You are definitely going against the regulations when you divulge information by talking out of turn. Your wife would not intentionally give any information to another person that would harm anybody, but she might not know that some small piece of news might help the enemy to piece things together.

SGT. DENNIS L. LOTT, Company B Infantry School detachment: You are breaking regulations if you give secret or confidential material to another. If your wife happens to mention something you have talked about to another person and it is repeated it might fall into enemy hands.

PVT. JAMES L. BISHOP, 27th Car company: Besides breaking regulations when you give out secret and confidential information, you not only endanger yourself but the lives and security of others. No matter how small the piece of information when put with other material, the enemy might have a complete picture of our equipment, troops and material.

TOP SEEDS NET STARS... The two top players in the Officers' Mess tennis tournament displayed their net wizardry last weekend when Bob Scruton, swept No. 1 and John Baumgartner, left, seeded No. 2, except to easy first round wins. Scruton banged out a 6-3, 6-1 triumph over L. H. Hammond and Baumgartner defeated Derrick Williams 6-1, 6-1. Matches, beginning at 6 p.m., will be played every day this week while weekend play will be continuous from 1 p.m. Saturday.

Two Upsets At Opening Of Post Net Tourney

Posten and Stanley Fall In Opening Round of Play

BY LEO J. PARENT
Bayonet Sports Editor

Two upsets marked the opening round of play in the Officers' Mess net tournament as tennis bounced into the Fort Benning spotlight last weekend, with over 50 of the post's finest court aces competing for trophies and championship honors.

Doughs Face Nine Game Grid Card

Fort Benning football fans get a chance to see the Doughboys in action at Doughboy stadium in four home games this fall. Both the first and the last games on the nine-game schedule will be at home, which will give Post fans an opportunity to compare the squad at both ends of the season.

Following is the complete schedule:

Sports Sidelights

By LEO J. PARENT
Bayonet Sports Editor

Kick-off time for Post football will be September 24, when the Doughboys take on Eglin Air Force base for their first scrap of the 1950 season.

Just four days after the Benningites take to the field, another Army team will be hitting the gridiron for its opening date on the pigskin parade. On September 30, the Black Knights of the United States Military Academy will meet Colgate university for the first of a nine-game schedule.

Indications point to another highly successful season for the representatives of Coach Earl Blaik. Army has been undefeated since its last engagement with Notre Dame in 1947, and this year's squad should keep the record intact, according to the nation's experts.

One of the main reasons for the confidence oozing from the fans along the Hudson is the virtually intact defensive platoon of 1949 that is under Blaik in the practice sessions now going on. Harvard university was the only team to score more than one against the tough unit last year, and that was in the 54-14 rout of the Crimson when the Blaikmen relaxed for a moment.

THE OFFENSIVE TEAM WAS RIDDLED BY GRADUATION, but the five remaining veterans should ease the minds of anyone who might worry about the squad. Biggest cause for joy in the castle on the river is the return of team captain Dan Foldsberg. The 185 pound senior caught five touch-down passes in 1949, and was a demon blocker when he wasn't pushing his six foot one-inch frame into the ozone after a Galiffa loss. Brother of Army's sensational All-American end, Hank, Dan is considered by Coach Blaik as the greatest offensive end he has ever coached.

The only other linesman that is returning for this year's fray is last year's offensive squad is tackle Bob Haas, Haas has been performing at center during the spring drills, and may be the pivot man when the schedule starts to unwind. The offensive backfield is enough to make any coach grin with joy to make up for the losses in the line.

Ready to step into the man-sized shoes of Arnold Galiffa is none other than Blaik's son, Bob. He didn't have much work to do last year, since one quarterback is enough if the one you have is named Galiffa. Young Blaik saw action during the 38-0 humbling of Navy in the 1949 season, and gave the fans a good glimpse of things to come in his turn in the backfield. Anyway, no one seems to have any doubt about the ability of the lad.

THE OTHER THREE POSITIONS IN THE ARMY BACKFIELD will find Gil Stephenson at fullback, and Frank Fish and Jim Cain at the halfback posts. Columbus, Georgia's hero, Stephenson has had plenty of service during the last two seasons, and will lend stability to the new quarterback. Fish and Cain are speedsters that give opposing lines plenty to worry about.

The biggest trouble in the Cadet minds about the outcome of any of this year's scheduled games is, of course, the University of Michigan, which will go to New York for the game on October 14. Army ploughed the Wolverines under, 21-7 last season, but no one can write off a Michigan team and the 1950 edition looms as one of the finest elevens in the country.

One other hurdle for the Cadets will be Stanford university on November 18 at Palo Alto, Calif. The Indians are picked by West Coast experts as the Pacific coast champions. Coach Marchmont Schwartz, former Notre Dame great, has 26 lettersmen available for play, including one of the nation's finest quarter backs, Gary Kerkerian.

Outside of that, Army should sweep through to another undefeated season.

Lt. Stalcup Tops Field to Take Skeeet Honors

Shattering 97 clay pigeons out of 100 earned Lt. Gene Stalcup the post's skeet championship title last Sunday, as Fort Benning's finest shooters gathered for the annual contest.

Stalcup's sweep of the post tournament climaxed his drive for individual honors in this year's skeet competition. Last year, the husky sharpshooter fired himself into a tie for the Georgia State All-Georgia championship with Jack Boardman of Army, Ga. The two champions battled until darkness called a halt to the competition, marking the first time in the history of Georgia shooting that a dual championship was decided.

Benning's five man team, composed of Capt. Archie Hyle, M-1 Sgt. Dan Stalcup, M-1 Sgt. Dan Huntley, Lt. Gene Stalcup and M-1 Sgt. J. Warren, will go to Fort Meade, Md., to compete for competition in the annual Third Army Skeeet Championship tournament. Fort Meade has won the title for two years in a row, and victory this year will mean permanent possession of the huge trophy for the Atlantians.

In 1948, Benning lost the title to two birds, and in 1949 the McPherson team squeaked through to the championship by a one bird margin over Benning.

In last year's meet, the Class A crown was annexed by M-1 Sgt. J. L. Warren, with 95 birds out of 100 attempts. Runner-up position was taken by Capt. Archie Hyle, with 94 shattered targets.

Sgt. R. B. Broin took the Class B title with a 91 score, while M-1 Sgt. J. Polson took the second place in the class with 90.

Class C honors went to Maj. G. L. Disharoon with 87 birds to his credit, and second slot went to Maj. R. J. Yetter for his 85 birds.

Sgt. E. W. Pipkin swept to the Class D title by breaking 79 birds, while Lt. H. Renick took second place with 72.

Benning Women Win Golf Trophy

The Elbash trophy came home to Fort Benning last week, as Mrs. Betty King of Columbus by a one up margin won the new champion of the annual tournament between the Columbus and Benning Country clubs by defeating Miss Paddy Haskins of Columbus, one up on the 18th hole.

Miss Haskins, last year's champion, held a one up margin through the 15th hole but watched Mrs. Curtis slip into the lead by picking up the next two holes and going on to have the 18th hole for the victory.

Benning's Mrs. Norvell Buckland lost a tough battle to Miss Ella Kirven of Columbus for the championship consolation title by a one up score on the 20th hole.

Mrs. Moselle Fletcher of Columbus scored a 62 with one fellow Columbian Miss Juliette Burrus to walk off with the honors in the first flight while Mrs. Eula Williams slammed her way to the two up victory over Mrs. Mable Mullin for the consolation title in the first flight. Both are Columbus women.

Safety Puts Curb on Post Swim Pools

A shortage of lifeguards at post swimming pools last week prompted Infantry Center officials to bar children under 14 years of age unless they are accompanied by their parents.

The policy was established to eliminate accidents which could have seriously endangered the lives of smaller children.

In the absence of trained lifeguards, parents are expected to supervise their own youngsters, officials said.

Special Services officials stated that Russ pool, which should have 12 lifeguards, has only three, and Young's pool which should have 10 lifeguards has only two.

British Attacne Visits Benning

Great Britain's military attaches to the United States, Col. J. C. Windsor Lewis, DSO, MC, visited Benning last week, making a study of airborne training methods and equipment and to decorate Lt. Col. Joseph W. Stilwell with the Order of the British Empire on behalf of his country.

Created upon his arrival at the Infantry Center early Friday by Col. Charles H. Karlsstad, chief of staff, Colonel Lewis accompanied by Maj. Derek Lister, British liaison officer, conferred with Brig. Gen. George Honnen acting commander of the Infantry Center during the temporary absence of Maj. Gen. Wilbur A. Burgess.

The British dignitary was conducted on an inspection tour of the Airborne department, where he witnessed student paratroopers demonstrate jump technique from the school's training towers.

In the afternoon, Colonel Lewis presented the Order of the British Empire to Colonel Stilwell, joint commander of the late Gen. "Vinegar" Jones' 1st Airborne Division, chief of the Weapons department, Light Weapons group, at a review on Stilwell field held in his honor. The occasion was also graduation exercises for approximately 250 students of the Airborne department.

In the evening, the visiting attaché was feted at an official dinner at the Officers' Mess. Saturday, Colonel Lewis boarded a plane at Muscogee county airport and returned to resume his duties in Washington, D. C. The decoration given to Colonel Stilwell by the British government.

Pacific Ships Win Efficiency

PEARL HARBOR (APFS) Twenty-seven ships and four aircraft squadrons on the Pacific Fleet were awarded the Battle Efficiency Pennant for outstanding duty during the fiscal year 1949-50.

The aircraft carrier USS Badoeng Strait; the seaplane tender USS Floyd's Bay; the cruisers USS Juneau and Manchester; the destroyers USS R. B. Anderson, USS Johnston, USS Lister, USS Spangler.

The submarine tender USS Sperry; the submarines USS Calman, Char, and Diodon; the fleet oiler USS Cimarron; the gasoline tanker USS Namakagon; the cargo ships USS Roque and USS Sussex; the repair ship USS Union and the attack transport USS Pickaway.

The remainder, including the auxiliary transport USS F-3, YMF-214, and VP-22, are: USS Chatterer, Pelican, Bolivar, Yonkers, and USS Lark; the landing ship (rocket) LSMR-404 and the USS PCI-141.

Winning the award entitles the ship to fly the pennant. Each enlisted member of the crew is awarded a $20 bonus. The "B" on his right sleeve.

WAF Reserves Get Duty Calls

WASHINGTON (APFS) Women's Air Force Reserve personnel, officer and enlisted, will be included in the current Air Force recall of Reservists to active duty, both on a volunteer and non-volunteer basis.

The Air Force recently announced that procedures applying to the recall of male Reservists also will be effective for recall of the WAF's.

Former members of the Women's Army Corps who served with the Army Air Force during World War II, and who are not yet enrolled in the Reserves, are urged to apply promptly for Air Force Reserve status.

Former enlisted women applying for Reserve status must not be more than 35 years of age, plus the number of years which they spent in active service.

Wacs Ready for Third Army Atlanta Softball Tournament

With the Third Army Championship Women's softball tournament only two weeks away, Manager Dot Smith this week expressed confidence that the Fort Benning Wac diamonders will hold their own at the meet. In preparation for the tourney, the Benning Wacs intensified the training schedule after duty hours this past week and took a short well deserved rest over the weekend.

The tournament, which is the first such meet for women in the Third Army area, will be staged at Fort McPherson, Ga., Sept. 15-20. At present the number of teams to compete is unknown. However, representatives from at least four military posts in the Third Army are expected to participate.

Must Lose Two Games
The meet will be conducted as a double elimination tournament, and a team may lose two games before being eliminated.

Team and individual prizes will be awarded to the winners and runners-up.

Probable Line-up
Although subject to change, Manager Smith announced a probable first team for the championship tournament, which is as follows:
Pitcher, Bertha Pruitt or Elizabeth Sanderson; catcher, Dorothea Smith; first base, Elsie Lindsay; second base, Kay Carlson; third base, Ann Roos; short stop, Ruth Dally; left field, Margaret Brennan; center field, Virginia

Walker or Cassie Sanders; right field, Barbara Kerr.

Other members of the squad attending the tourney include Kathleen Evender, Letha Colbert, Mildred Hart, Margaret Martin and Johnnie Winberry.

Individual awards will be given to members of the championship and runner-up teams.

Have 3-2 Record
The Benningites, hampered by the lack of practice time, have managed to come out on top of a 3-2 win-and-loss record for a short season. After a slow start, the team racked up three successive triumphs, all by one-and-two-run margins.

A Camp Gordon, Ga., aggregation proved too strong for the Benning Wacs in the initial two contests of the season, but the post girls downed a Fort McPherson crew twice by scores of 6-5 and 12-10, and went on to subdue the Fort Bragg, N. C., Wacs, 18-17.

The three victories provided much needed confidence and experience for the Fort Benning Wacs, all of whom are recent entrants in the Army.

Further information may be obtained from Miss Mable York, education counselor, at the Army Education Center on Indianhead road.

Subjects to be taught during the fall quarter include business law, beginners typing, bookkeeping, English, algebra, general science (lab course), auto mechanics, photography, spoken Spanish, Russian and German and psychology. Military correspondence and supply administration are also scheduled, pending decision of the Department of the Army to secure qualified teachers.

So You Think You Know Baseball!

Timing is of the essence of baseball. The cut-off play, the under-hand flip, the Boudreau pick-off—all demonstrate the importance of split-second action in our national sport. Yet it can be overdone. In the following hypothetical situation, a player's attempt to save time raises a question of legality.

3440th ASU Wins From ISD by 2-0

Two runs in the third inning gave the 3440th Area Service unit softballers a 2-0 win over an Infantry School detachment nine Wednesday evening in the current diamond league.

Herb Laube of the Infantry School detachment, accounted for two of his team's three hits to lead the ISD batters.

Enlarging Army Seeking Nurses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reservist volunteers for extended active duty are needed immediately to bring the present strength of the Army Nurse Corps and Women's Medical Specialist Corps up to requirements indicated by current expansion of the Army.

Increasing need for patient care in the Far East makes imperative that additional nurses, dietitians, physical therapists and occupational therapists apply for active duty. Chief of Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, the Army Surgeon General, says.

Army Nurse Corps and Women's Medical Specialist Corps Reserve officers may apply for active duty through the Chief of the Military District of the state in which they hold permanent residence or (if they are members of medical Reserve units) through their Organized Reserve Corps unit instructors. They may also write or wire the Surgeon General, Washington 25, D. C.

Machinist Group To Finish Oct. 11

Graduation date for students in the Infantry School's automotive maintenance and minor repair course No. 1 has been set for Oct. 11, school officials said this week.

The class is composed of 25 enlisted men, all members of the 82nd Airborne division, Fort Bragg.

Student commanding officer is Sgt. James H. Gibbs, student sergeant is James O. Keese, and student platoon leader is Cpl. Raymond L. Gill.

The Fighting Third (7) Third Anti-Aircraft Group Traces Its History to 1794

(This is the seventh of a series of articles by young J. Simmons of the Bayonet staff giving the background of various units of the Third Division.)

The origin of the Third Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group traces its history back to the year 1794. At that time, two companies of artillery men and engineers were organized and in the years that followed, two more were added. After the custom of the time, these companies were named after their respective commanders and set up as the Third Regiment of Artillery.

THE ARTILLERY OF THE United States Army was reorganized in 1901, and the regiment lost its identity, not being reformed until 1924. However, the 3rd Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group traces its history to 1794.

Panic Greatest A-Bomb Threat pace, one that carried him closer to the Infantry where rules cannot be applied.

But, certainly, this is primary list of precautions to take while making long trips:
1. Never, never drink (even beer) while driving.
2. Make sure you have had a maximum amount of rest and sleep. If continuous driving becomes tiring, stop and rest.
3. Make sure the auto in which you are riding is in perfect mechanical condition.
4. Keep speeds at state highway regulations, consistent with prevailing conditions. Use your judgment if state speeds seem to fast for the type of road you're traveling.
5. Caution yourself against the inadequacies and inevitabilities of other drivers. They can cause your death.
6. Never drive farther than normal time will allow.
Regardless of how many precautions are taken by drivers, Fort Benning will suffer at least one fatality during the Labor Day weekend.

Girl Scout Leaders Plan Year's Program

The Fort Benning Girl Scouts will hold a joint meeting for present and future leaders and council members at the Girl Scout cabin on Thursday, to plan a complete program for the coming year. Airmen to Get Fit in Uniform

DAYTON, Ohio—(APFS)—The lot of its men, the Army Air Corps is to build better-fitting clothes and equipment.
The design of the human body specifically, the reaction time of pilots, is rapidly becoming the main obstacle in the development of high speed military airplanes, Dr. N. E. Edelfsen, Associate Technical Director of North American Aviation, Inc., says in the current issue of the company's house organ.

News is Hottest At Three Spots

By Armed Forces Press Service. Other news of interest came from the Atomic Energy Commission. The commission reports that during the first six months of this year, production operations in the National Atomic Energy program exceeded all previous rates.

Of great importance diplomatically, was the Security Council sessions at Lake Success where the Soviets made a number of statements which were again in evidence.
Secretary of State Dean Acheson commented on this at his regular weekly press conference. The Secretary said that no matter what the Soviet Union did, it always violated its obligations.
And in Korea, tank-supported Marines, with other American units, fought their first Korean engagement from dawn until dark in terrific heat and under clouds of dust. It was eight years to the day since the historic landing in Guadalcanal, one of the turning points of World War II.

Pretty Nurse First Sight For Blind Vet

ATLANTA, Ga. (APFS)—It took a pretty nurse to confirm success of an eye operation here on a 27-year-old Army veteran. Former Pvt. Lawrence Smith of Decatur, Ala., underwent an operation at Lawson Veterans Hospital intended to restore vision to his two eyes. He had lost his eyesight while serving in the Army seven years ago.
As bandages were being removed, part of the hospital staff suspended on a nurse stand to find out if the operation was successful. The ex-G.I. blinked a couple of times at a nurse standing by his bed. He broke the suspense, blurring out: "My God, you're beautiful!"

New Blood-Type Kit Research Started

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Scientists with the Atomic Energy Commission are looking into a new blood - testing method that may be used to detect the event of atomic warfare.
The new method of blood testing was developed by Marvin Botwin, biochemist and director of Satchem Laboratories of New Haven, Conn.

Army Volunteers Sought By Britain

LONDON (APFS)—The British War Office has issued an appeal for volunteers to serve a special short term of 18 months in the regular Army. Previously the shortest term permitted was five years.

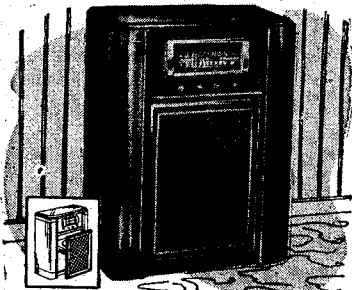

Hometown Observes 'Rodger Young Day'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (APFS)—"Rodger Young Day" was observed here recently in conformance with a proclamation issued by Governor Frank J. Lausche. Rodger Young was the U. S. Infantryman, Congressional Medal of Honor winner in World War II, who gave his life to save comrades during fighting in the Solomon Islands.
The marker above Rodger Young's grave here misspelled his first name as "Roger." The Government plans to correct this on a bronze plaque to be set above the grave.

SCHOOL DAYS . . . Hundreds of parents and children crowded the Fort Benning school Tuesday and Wednesday to register for the coming year. Registrars had a booming business throughout both days as shown in top photo. Below Mrs. A. H. Miller, wife of M-Sgt. Miller of Co. A, 578 Airborne section, registers her daughter Janette (far right) with Maj. Lewis T. Martin, school's officer. Janette's sister, Harriet (left) was too young to enter this year.

Gen. Hodge New 3rd Army Chief

Lt. Gen. John Reed Hodge, former commander of the United States forces in Korea, took over the reins of the famous Third Army Friday after an Honor Guard ceremony in front of Patton Hall at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga.

where he enlisted in the Army as a private forty years ago. He had assumed command of the Third in 1947.
 After he had relinquished his command and been retired, General Gillem paid a short visit to Fort Benning, where he was the guest of his daughter and son in law, Lt. and Mrs. Robert C. Daly. He had served at Fort Benning as an instructor at The Infantry School for four and a half years, ending his tour in 1949. He left the Post over the week end for California.

Hodge, 62, is the first to be promoted to the rank of lieutenant general since the end of World War II. General Hodge commanded the XXIV Corps, in the Pacific and partici-ated in amphibious operations against Japanese-held islands and completed it in the invasion of Leyte, Philippine Islands. After campaign in 1945 he reassembled, equipped and loaded the XXIV Corps for the Okinawa invasion on April 1, and engaged in heavy combat until the island was secured in late June.

Moves Corps to Korea
 After V-J Day, the general moved his Corps to occupied Korea, arriving there with its leading elements in Sept. 1948.

He commanded the United States forces in Korea and was military governor of that part of Korea south of the 38th parallel until Aug. 1948, when the government of the Republic of Korea was formed as a result of general elections held under UN observation in May of that year. In Aug. 1948, General Hodge received an Honorary Degree, Doctor of Law at Seoul, Korea National University.

Since his return to the United States, he has commanded the Fifth Corps and the post at Fort Bragg, N. C.

26 EM Promoted On Temporary Basis Orders

The first group of enlisted men to receive promotions under the new regulations making all up grading temporary only, began their new duties this week. The ranks ranging from corporal to master sergeant.

Under the new regulations, which became effective Sept. 1, all promotions will be limited to the temporary status until further notice under Department of the Army regulations. The promotions were announced by Col. Maurice L. Miller, commander, 344th ASU.

There were 29 promotions under the order, headed by Sfc. Carl Masters who was elevated to rank of master sergeant.

Sergeants William C. Ard, Edward L. Goshorn, Grady W. Kirkland, Calvin E. Newsome and Frederick E. Smith were promoted to sergeants first class.

Corporals promoted to sergeants were Weyman Anderson, James A. Glase, Earl Jeffers, Bernard C. Johnson, Angelo M. Picerno, Earl T. Shaffer, Robert L. Frowbridge, Henry Y. Wallace and Earl J. Williams.

Privates first class promoted to corporal were Herbert Briggs, Oscar G. Garrett, Eldon D. Gray, Floyd C. Hughes, Pink O. Jackson, Donald C. Johnson, William R. McHarris, Jesse W. Rice, Himmy R. Sheppard, Henry M. Smothers, Raymond Wendegegas, Earl D. Balsey, Jr., Alva C. Decker and Edward A. Krankowski.

AG Office Gets Two From TI§

Two Infantry School detachment enlisted men have been assigned duties with the Academic department and one with the Adjutant General department. It was announced this week.

Sfc. Emmett L. Taylor, Company C, will work with Weapons department, and Cpl. Joshua D. Stanley, Company B, has been assigned to the Communications department.

Sfc. George L. Godfrey, Company A, has assumed his duties with the Military Personnel division.

Regular Feature Is Discontinued

The Bayonet's regular feature, "List of the Week," has been discontinued until further notice due to the personnel situation at Fort Benning. Members of the Selection committee will be notified prior to the next meeting.

Classes Enrolled For School Year

New Custer Road Terrace Building Opens for Term

Leaving reluctantly, their fun-filled summer vacation, Fort Benning's school-age children trekked their way back yesterday and Tuesday to register for the 1950-51 term.

For some of them it was the first experience of casting aside their play and for the first time they faced the business of formal education which they will have to meet for some years to come with each approaching Fall.

Approximately 350 children from the Post proper were entered on Tuesday, the first day of registration, at the Children's school.

Facilities Broadened
 School facilities on the Post have been broadened for the coming term, with the new Custer Road-Terrace building to be placed in operation when classes are actually started next Monday, Sept. 11.

The new building, which has students, will augment the facilities heretofore available only at the Children's school on the Main Post. It was constructed as an adjunct to the new Custer Road Terrace Homes project, which is fast nearing completion.

Only children from kindergarten and for grades one through seven were registered on the first day at the Post school. The majority of these came from Benning Park, Custer Road Terrace and Battle Park Homes areas. High school students will attend institutions in the Muscogee County School district, as there is no facility on the Post for the advanced grades.

Register By Alphabet
 Registration at the Post school was conducted on the alphabet system, with children A through M being entered on Tuesday and those from N through Z yesterday.

In the breakdown of classes registered on the first day of listing, 22 children were entered for kindergarten, 51 for the first grade, 62 for second grade, 52 for third, 37 for fourth, 22 for fifth, 27 for sixth and 18 for the seventh grade.

The Post school, which has 20 grade and three kindergarten teachers, is operated under the Georgia State Education System having been organized at Fort Benning in 1921. Students of high school age attend schools either in Columbus or Baker Village.

Miss Hazel Souder, a graduate of Ouachita College, Arkadelphia, Ark., has recently been appointed principal of the school. Major Lewis T. Martin is the majority of these came from Fort Benning school officer.

Two Benningites Victims In Korea

The Korean war has come home to Fort Benning again with the information that Sgt. James Z. McCreary, husband of Mrs. Rachel Cannon McCreary, 1008 Benning drive, has been killed in action.

The sergeant, father of three, was killed Aug. 12. Mrs. McCreary said she received notice of his death during the week end.

Mrs. Lanell Crowe, 2724 Lee street, wife of Lt. William M. Crowe, reported missing in action in Korea, yesterday declared she still held high hopes her husband would return.

Mrs. Crowe, who could not be located earlier this week when the Defense department first reported her husband missing, said she learned on Aug. 30 that her husband was missing. She said the notice did not come to her until after she had written the adjutant general's office in Washington asking about her husband.

Mrs. Crowe was reported missing since July 20. He was last reported seen during fighting around Taejon. Lt. and Mrs.

Crowe have three small children, youngest of whom was only six days old when the father left for Japan May 19.

Sgt. McCreary left for Korea on July 22. He went almost immediately into combat in Korea, serving with Headquarters company of the 34th Infantry regiment. He had been stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., before leaving for foreign duty.

Assigned to duties with the Transportation section were Cpl. Harold A. Green, Cpl. James R. Ingram, Pvt. Bernie Horne and one member of Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I.

Going to the Signal section were Pfc. Pasquale F. Andriano and Pvt. Howard M. DeVore, also of Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I. Sgt. James E. Smith and Sgt. Lawrence J. Herzak were given duties with the Engineer section. Both men are members of Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I.

Given duties with company overhead was Sgt. Randolph G. Philpotts, Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I.

Reassignments And Transfers Made By 3440th

Several inter-unit transfers and reassignments of duties were reported by the Area Service unit, Provisional group this week.

Transferred to the 680th Transportation Truck company were Pfc. James A. Carter, Sgt. John Owens and Cpl. Mathew Thompson, while Pfc. James Barrow joined the 668th Transportation Truck company.

The 378th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance company got Cpl. John Ountry and Sgt. Lawrence A. Deesher; and the Sixth Ordnance Medium Maintenance got Sfc. Robert R. Goodwin.

Assigned to the 316th Ordnance Medium Automotive Maintenance company were Sgts. John K. Hoopes, Charles H. Biggs and Sfc. B. Rowe.

Three men received new duty assignments. They were Pvt. Raymond L. Cash, who is on duty with the Transportation section; Sfc. Lloyd B. Lee, now in the Quartermaster section; and Pvt. Alphonse Claiborne, Jr., who went to the Band section.

Edward E. Benton, formerly with the 378th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance company, is a member of Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I.

Officers' Mess Renovation In Final Stage

Final phases of a large renovation project at the Main Officers' mess moved into view this week as contractors began installing air-conditioning equipment.

Col. Ralph Tibbets (ret.), club secretary, said plumbing, air-conditioning and final plastering were being completed this week, but that another month would be required to finish the entire job.

The $35,000 project, which was authorized last month by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burgess, post commander, will relocate the tap room and business offices and generally add a more modern face to the interior of the club.

Colonel Tibbets said that completion of the rehabilitation development will cost somewhat less than the original estimate, but, at present, it is difficult to determine how much less.

Meanwhile, Officers' mess officials have completed installing new furniture in the cafeteria portion of the main club and the patio. They also have completely refurbished the Country Club with a modern rustic type furniture. A new bandstand has also been added to the main club.

Four Noncoms Get Boost in Ranking

The promotion of three corporals of the 340th Area Service unit to sergeant and one sergeant first class to master sergeant was announced this week by Col. Maurice L. Miller, commander.

Promoted to sergeant were Howard C. Lema and Thomas E. Wright, Jr., 106th Finance Disbursing section, and Everett L. Johnson, 6th Army Postal unit.

Rene R. Plasse, also of the 68th Army Postal unit, was promoted to master sergeant.

ON DETACHED SERVICE. Pfc. Joseph W. Strother, Infantry School detachment headquarters, has been placed on detached service with the unit's Company A for duty with the consolidated mess. Strother came to Fort Benning from Fort Dix, N. J., where he was a member of the 1282nd Area Service unit.

Five Assigned To ISD Duties

Five enlisted men of the Infantry School detachment were assigned duties this week.

Now working with the Infantry School's Academic department is Cpl. Joe Robertson, Company B, who was transferred from the Military Police detachment, Section I, 2440th Area Service unit.

Cpl. William H. Seracy, detachment headquarters, was placed on detached service with Company A for duty with the ISD E-4 section. Before his present assignment he was a member of Company A on duty with the Infantry Center G-3 office.

Pending further orders, M-Sgt. Edward J. Brostok has been assigned to Company A. He came here recently from Fort Dix, N. J., where he was with the 1282nd Area Service unit.

CORPORAL TRANSFERRED

Cpl. James Hill has been transferred to the 668th Transportation Truck company from the 68th Transportation Truck company.

Jerk of the Week

Tightwad Twip "Honor" Winner

A quiver of hesitancy went through the Jerk of the Week Selection committee this week before the final decision was made to honor penny-pinching M-Sgt. Aloysius Twip. The committee was not unanimous in its decision, but the unattainable virtues recognized by the committee were there were some misgivings about slighting the great virtue until it saw the miserly master sergeant.

Tight-listed Twip wears the remains of a uniform issued to him on his first enlistment 20 years ago. The uniform material is so fragile now that tight Twip cannot send it to the laundry (that costs money anyway). Instead the sergeant does the outfit carefully himself and presses it under his mattress. The resulting ragtail, bag-tail appearance of the well-paid sergeant clinched this week's award.

Perhaps the most exasperating of money-saving techniques of Aloysius is the cigarette-catcher. The wily Twip keeps an empty package in his pocket at all times to pull out when the occasion arises. Feeling cannily into the empty pack, he feigns surprise and murmurs, "I just ran out. I intended just ignore this bit of drama, but the newcomer (usually getting by on half what Twip makes) unsuspectingly hands over a cigarette. Twip uses the same empty pack for this gimmick until the foil turns green. Then he raids the butt cans for a replacement. When the nuisance decides to write a letter, he descends upon any poor soul with paper or stamps. Rather than let go of three cents, Twip would rather remain completely out of touch with the world. And the rest of the world seems to be quite satisfied to let him go.

The few meager pleasures absolutely necessary to spend money on occasionally, are the ca-

Col. R. C. Dougan Is Named Head Of Cub Scouts

Lt. Col. R. C. Dougan was elected chairman of the Pack Committee, Fort Benning Post 127, Cub Scouts of America, at the group's organizational meeting Friday which plans were outlined for the 1950-51 year.

Advisory and supervisory duties were allocated to committee members as follows: Lt. Col. Dougan, chairman; Programs and Membership, Lt. Col. R. Westhill; Major J. Williams and M-Sgt G. J. Combs; Awards and Decorations, Lt. Col. A. Cupello and Major E. L. Mueller; Publicity and Refreshments, Major W. H. Burr and Lt. Col. B. M. Davis.

Major J. B. Mullinix is Cubmaster, and will be assisted by M-Sgt. R. Brown and another yet to be named.

Following the Pack Committee meeting, the program sub-committee met and discussed a program of activities for the year which will be announced shortly. The end of the past year of Cub activity, it is anticipated that several new boys will be added to the Pack to accommodate those boys living in new quarters areas and the reservation of Cub meetings will be held on the first Friday of each month, beginning Oct. 6. All members of Cub families are urged to attend these Pack meetings to make them an enthusiastic and eagerly anticipated event.

service. Sgt. McCreary had served at Fort Benning, being stationed there last in August, 1948.

Sgt. and Mrs. McCreary were married in February, 1945. Mrs. McCreary is a native of Knoxville, Tenn.

Lt. Crowe entered the Army in 1928 when he was 17 years old. He was stationed at Fort Benning during his entire army career except for about two years of foreign duty in Europe during World War II, and a year at Fort Jackson, S. C.

He shipped overseas to Japan from Fort Jackson, where he had been transferred earlier, Mrs. Crowe said. She declared that he was paid for the foreign assignment, because he wanted to get his occupation duty over with before the children were old enough to start school.

Mrs. Crowe and the children were to join him in Japan in December.

Lt. Crowe is a native of Troy, Ala. where his mother, Mrs. Manda Sanders, still resides. Mrs. Crowe, the former Miss Lonell Thompson, is from Montgomery. Mrs. Crowe now lives with the wife of Lt. Crowe's brother, M-Sgt. Clifton R. Crowe, who is in Germany.

Lt. Crowe was commissioned in October, 1948, while stationed at Fort Benning. He had attained the rank of staff sergeant prior to that time.

UN Naval Forces Down Attacking Soviet Pilot

As the Korean war entered its third month, UN forces were still fighting the Communist hordes around Tagu, Masan and Pohang. Pusan, however, remained firmly in UN hands. Meanwhile, U. S. Air Force planes continued to rain destruction on the enemy both north and south of the 38th parallel.

First concrete evidence that Russia was supplying active aid to the Korean Reds came this week with the disclosure that a Soviet aircraft with a Russian pilot had been shot down while attacking UN naval forces off the coast of Korea.

General Eisenhower warned the nations this week that "free Europe is still a tempting target for a predatory military force." Speaking over a nation-wide radio hook-up launching the Crusade for Freedom movement, Eisenhower urged Americans to give "real support to all aspects of the military aid program and re-examine, at once, our troop strengths in critical areas."

Congress this week gave President Truman broad powers to control the domestic economy and curb war-borne inflation. The home-front mobilization measure would permit wage and price controls, consumer rationing, penalties for hoarding and real estate and consumer credit controls. It also provides for allocation of scarce industrial materials, priorities for defense orders, government loans and loan-guarantees and requisitions of plants and equipment.

The President meanwhile reassured his confidence in Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, stating that he contemplates no change in Johnson's status. This pronouncement came after renewed insistence by individuals and organizations that the President dismiss both Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

The Post Office Department moved this week to put air parcel post on a pay-as-you-go basis by moderately increasing rates throughout the U. S. Postmaster General Donaldson published a revised rate schedule, effective November 1, calling for increases varying from five to 44 cents a pound on parcels sent by air mail.

On the labor front, the Ford Motor Company granted an eight-cent-an-hour wage increase to its 110,000 production workers under a new five-year contract.

New York, William O'Dwyer resigned his mayoral duties which he had held for nearly five years to accept a new post as Ambassador to Mexico. After a noisy farewell, O'Dwyer and his pretty wife, the former Sloan Simpson, left for a California vacation prior to reporting to Mexico City on October 20.

Wear Your Uniform Proudly

Flagrant violations of uniform regulations continue to be the vogue among some Fort Benning military personnel despite repeated warnings. During recent weeks we have observed soldiers, both on and off the post, blithely ignoring every tenet of good military grooming. And they do it so casually that we were almost inclined to believe they didn't know any better. Certainly we don't believe any soldier would deliberately disgrace the uniform which represents his chosen career.

Such violations as removing the grommet from his service cap so that it flops around his ears or cocking his cap over his right eye do not make a Beau Brummel of the wearer, as some apparently think. On the contrary, such violations make the soldier appear ridiculous. Windsor knots in the ornamented belt buckles and wing-tip or perforated shoes might be highly desirable in civilian attire, but they are very much out of place when wearing the Army uniform.

By the same token, a soldier wearing a dirty uniform or a soldier whose collar is unbuttoned and whose tie is loosened presents an appearance which is at once degrading to that uniform and distasteful to those who must look at him. Rolled up sleeves might be a little cooler during these hot summer days, but the soldier guilty of such a practice is a discredit to his profession.

However unfairly, the Army is usually judged by the actions of a few. As a result, those soldiers who persistently violate uniform regulations create a false impression of the military service. Slouchy, dirty soldiers in improper uniforms cause civilians and members of other services to look upon the Army as an inefficient organization, composed of misfits and bums. We are sure no man wants to be so branded.

Every soldier, officer or enlisted man, should feel a surge of pride well up inside himself when he puts on his uniform. Only the best are allowed to wear it. And the fact that you can wear it puts you in a select group.

It is ever soldier's duty to familiarize himself with uniform regulations. Don't be a disgrace to yourself, to your Army or to the nation you have sworn to protect. Wear your uniform properly. It's a mark of distinction.

Why Not Get UMT Going?

(From The Army-Navy-Air Force Journal)

From every point of view the National Defense picture calls for enactment of Universal Military Training now. There is virtually no major opposition to the principle of UMT. Those who would postpone action base their stand largely on the argument that it will not help in the present Korean crisis. The Korean affair lasts much longer than those in authority believe it will, UMT will not help there.

But such a view is a misconception of the character of the Far Eastern conflict and a misconception of our present rearmament program. Korea is merely the ruptured ulcer that awakened our country and its leaders to the advanced stage of the world's illness induced by Communists. No one believes that cleaning up the Korean ulcer will immediately restore a healthy world peace. Russia has the power to foment eruptions at many other points and will do so unless a high state of readiness on our part convinces her of the futility of such a procedure. The Communists hope our efforts to cope with these sore spots and threats will bring an economic collapse.

In UMT we would have the ability to train large reserves which would increase our readiness at a cost considerably less than that entailed by the maintenance of large standing forces. Senator Tydings (D-Md.), chairman of the Senate Committee on Armed Services, who is an astute judge of public reaction as well as a staunch believer in strong defenses, wants to get on with the enactment of a UMT program in this Congress. He knows that if it is not enacted now, the enthusiasm for it will die down after the Korean war is over. The Scripps-Howard newspaper aptly compared the situation with that of the mountaineer whose shack leaked—he couldn't work on it when it was raining and when it wasn't raining it didn't leak. Let's get the leak in our defense structure repaired now by putting UMT on the statute books.

Accumulations of lint or cat or dog hairs in closets make ideal quarters for moths and carpet beetles. The smoke from burning poison ivy, oak or sumac is poisonous. Fish contain the same type of protein found in other meats. Livestock now accounts for more than twice as much of Texas' agricultural income as it did 25 years ago. A major enemy of nursery stock in the northeastern states is the grub of the white-fringed beetle. Cheese makers commonly add a "starter" culture of fermentation organisms to milk.

Report From Washington

Air Force Board Selects Warrant Officers

By ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE. The Air Force Warrant Officer Selection Board designated to recommend distribution of warrant officers among the four pay grades established by the Career Compensation Act of 1949 has submitted its report to USAF Headquarters. Sixty-three were recommended for grade W-4; 154 for W-3; 594 for W-2. As a result, 108 junior grade warrant officers are slated for promotion to chief warrant officer, AFUS. The method of determining rank and precedence also was revised to provide determination by: (1)—Date of rank in pay grade. (2)—Total active warrant or commissioned service. (3)—Total active Federal service. (4)—Age. (5)—Date of original appointment as a warrant officer, or date of issue of selection letter.

The Navy has ordered an immediate reconditioning job on the hospital ship Haven, as replacement for the Benevolence, sunk in a West Coast accident.

The Department of Labor is organizing 4,000 local volunteer workers throughout the nation to advise individuals entering military service concerning their employment rights.

The Marine Corps has appointed Brig. Gen. Clayton C. Jerome as Director of Aviation and Assistant Commandant of the Corps for Air. He succeeds Maj. Gen. William J. Wallace, who will become Commanding General of Aircraft, Pacific Fleet Marine Force.

Post and station and unit commanders of the armed forces will be prepared to provide the usual assistance and facilities for absentee voting for servicemen who are residents of states where absentee voting is legal.

The Army has changed SR 615-105-1 to provide that individuals honorably discharged, who are otherwise qualified, except those discharged under provisions of AR 615-367 (resignation of non-coms on indefinite enlistment) may enlist in the regular Army in the permanent grade held at time of discharge. However, they must enlist for 3, 4, 5 or 6 years or for an indefinite period (if eligible) within 90 days after date of last discharge. Individuals who held a temporary grade higher than their regular grade, may be temporarily promoted on date of enlistment to such higher temporary grade held at time of discharge.

Army retirement regulations will be liberalized to insure that officers, who suffered injuries or disease while serving as enlisted men, may receive retirement benefits authorized for officers.

Chaplain's Corner

It's God's Will That We Help Our Neighbors

By CHAPLAIN HENRY D. SUTTON

A lad came to my office the other day with a problem. The problem was a buddy of his who was going to the dogs. Couldn't I, wouldn't I see his buddy and talk to him? When I asked whether he himself had spoken to his buddy, he looked at me in utter amazement as if to say, "Why, I'm not a Chaplain!"

Why is it that there are so many Americans who never dream of saying or doing anything to help a friend, along the straight and narrow? Why is it there are so many who shy away from taking even the slightest interest in the spiritual well-being of their neighbors? They may be willing to give thought and effort to develop the spiritual in their own lives; but when it comes to helping the other fellow spiritually by a timely and kindly tactful word or suggestion, that is a horse of another color—it is un-American; in fact, it is unscriptural. And, to prove it is unscriptural, they come up with the oft quoted phrase—"Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

"Am I My Brother's Keeper?" was spoken by Cain. He tried to hide behind that excuse for the crime he had committed against his brother, Abel. And because in the plan of God he was his brother's keeper—and because he had failed utterly in that role, the Almighty branded him with seven-fold curses.

Certainly it is un-American, it is worse, it is un-Christian—nay, it is downright unscriptural to try to force religion on people or to interfere with their freedom of conscience. But there is nothing in the Constitution that forbids my taking a kindly interest in the spiritual wellbeing of my neighbor any more than the Constitution forbids my taking a kindly interest in my neighbor's health, in his financial security, in the building of his home, in the schooling of his children or in any other of the things which, it is not un-American to make help, why should we think the Constitution will go into a tail-spin when it comes to helping in the vastly more important matters of religion.

Further, it is definitely the law of God that I do all I can (always, of course, tactfully and kindly) to help my neighbor spiritually. It is His will that by example, by prayer, by word and deed, I assist my neighbor in his knowledge and in his love of God.

The first and greatest commandment of the law is that "Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with thy whole heart and soul." And the second is like to this—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." In the law, the Almighty constitutes us our neighbors' keepers—to help wherever and whenever help is needed.

And, certainly, there are times and places when our neighbor is in a tight spot spiritually. Shall we hold back the help just because we are not ordained ministers of the Gospel? Someday, there will be an accounting of this our sacred trust.

To Amuse You Today

Sweet young thing: It must be awful to be a parachute jumper. I suppose you've had some terrible experiences.

Paratrooper: Oh, goodness yes, miss, terrible. Why, once I came down where there was a sign, "Keep off the grass."

Ben: "Have you heard that Ruby has cut down on her drinking 50 per cent?"

Frank: "Not how?"

Ben: "She has eliminated the chasers."

The Texas-born captain of an all-fexas company in North Africa told his men: "Our job here is to promote good neighborliness, among other things. We've got to humor the natives. If they say Africa is bigger than Texas, agree with them!"

Patient: "My wife tells me I talk in my sleep. What should I do?"

Doctor: "Nothing that you shouldn't."

Conductor: "Madam, are all these children yours, or is it a picnic?"

Lady: "They're all mine—and it ain't no picnic."

Old Lady: "Are you a little boy or a little girl?"

Child: "Sure, what else could I be?"

THE STORY OF IRVING BERLIN BY DAVID EWEN
HENRY HOLT & CO. PUBLISHER
By ALLEN L. MULLIKIN

An endless stream of smash song hits is the record of Irving Berlin's life, and that is the body of material chosen by Author David Ewen for The Story of Irving Berlin. With only light touches on the personal life and personality of America's greatest popular song writer, the author has written an absorbing short biography. The chronology of Berlin's compositional career comes to life with the telling of the inspiration and hard work that went into the light-hearted melodies that all Americans sing.

Starting with Berlin's first hit and one of his most nearly ageless songs, Alexander's Ragtime Band, the author unfolds the scroll covered with the snappy lyrics and memorable tunes of the great master of popular song. The listing of Berlin's hits continues unbroken through all the years from 1910 up to the novelties and love songs of Annie Get Your Gun.

Not only individual tunes, but complete Broadway shows fill the Berlin music folder. Author Ewen credits Berlin as the only musical comedy composer who has never had a theatrical failure. Little mention is made of Berlin's latest, Miss Liberty, which existed only on advance sales made on promises rather than performance. Not without justification, the author talks more abut the remarkable Berlin music turned out for the lavish shows of Florenz Ziegfeld and the Reviews of Berlin's own theater, The Music Box.

Due credit is paid to Berlin's ability as a business man able to exploit his own talent. From his first nation-wide success the little song writer took care of his dollars, and soon owned his own music publishing house. As his fame grew, Berlin built up a fortune in returns from recordings and movies.

The poverty-stricken early life of Berlin's family and his own start as a singing waiter on the Bowery begins the phenomenal rise of Irving Berlin. His earliest memory was of his home in a Russian village burning to the ground during a raid by Cossacks. In New York, he ran away from home, and later tried very hard to make up to his mother the suffering he had caused her in his youth.

The career of Irving Berlin is typical Americana. He rose from the slums to the heights of fame and riches. His feelings for his country were poured out in such songs as God Bless America. During both world wars he served his country in the best way he knew—by writing songs that furnished spirit and verve when the people needed it most.

Benning Band Box

By May Pigott

A GRANDMOTHER USED TO BE PICTURED AS A DEAR, little old lady with white hair, a shawl around her shoulders and knitting in her work-worn hands. Today's grandmothers, however, certainly has no pattern. She is a class by herself. The grandmother of today will be the prototype of the future, one that will be difficult for coming generations to top. Granny is not content to just sit at home—she is still young enough to enjoy outside interests and hobbies.

Probably the reason for the great change in attitude toward grandmothers is the extensive publicity given several very glamorous screen grandmothers who frankly admit their age, and the fact they have grown children, but who are still tops in the entertainment world. Hears and reams of stories have been written about the current three famous grandmothers: Gloria Swanson, who recently made a successful comeback in "Sunset Boulevard," Marlene Dietrich and Joan Bennett, still very charming, beautiful and all glamorous in every sense of the word.

Today, Benning Bandbox salutes our own glamorous grandmothers.

AMONG THE MANY GRANDMOTHERS WHO MAKE FORT Benning their home is Mrs. Sevier Tupper, wife of Col. Tupper. She is a lovely lady, with dark blonde hair, shining blue eyes and a figure a young girl would be proud to have. When she settled down to talk to your reporter, she laughingly said she didn't think she was very glamorous, her only claim to fame being "Grandma" to 13 grandchildren. That, by the way, she boasts, makes her "the mostest" Granny on the post. Among the lucky number of grandchildren, the boys far outnumber the girls—ten grandsons and three granddaughters.

Besides keeping her house, she is an active member of the Army Daughters, spends a good deal of time in Red Cross work, does an enormous amount of sewing for her family, loves to cook, and is an avid reader. During the war, not content with her many household duties, she took on an additional job as a nurses' aide. In spite of her hobbies and duties, she still finds time to interest herself in the activities and lives of her children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Tupper claims it's very difficult being a grandmother, because during the time you are raising your own children you get into the habit of telling them what, when and how to do things—and that just doesn't go where grandchildren are concerned, either with the parents or the children. So her best advice for being a successful "Grandma" is to have plenty of outside interests to keep you from being nosy. Be interested in their doings and be helpful, but don't try to manage their lives.

MRS. FRANK LEE, THE VERY CHARMING WIFE OF COL. Lee, has two grandchildren to her credit. And speaking of grandchildren, she says: "The first time you're a grandmother, you can be a little coy about it. But after that there's not much you can do about it."

Mrs. Lee has dark hair tinged with wigs of grey and worn in an upswep style. She has blue eyes, is of medium height, and claims she has one over Gloria Swanson as she is younger than that famous grandmother. There are two sons and one daughter in the Lee household, but only the daughter is married.

Mrs. Lee is justly proud of having organized the Red Cross Auxiliary at Fort Benning in 1948, and, with the help of the Red Cross workers and ladies of the post, of having started the largest blood bank in the United States. She cares nothing about housework, but loves anything that requires organization, and is a veritable whirlwind until she completes the job.

She is very fond of horseback riding and swimming, and since she has become a grandmother, has taken up deep-sea fishing, having won several prizes in competition against professional fishermen.

DURING THE WAR SHE WAS A MEMBER OF THE RED Cross and Civilian Defense in Kansas City, Mo., and an active worker in the Kansas City Cantone. She has also served as first vice president of the Fort Benning Woman's club and headed the Fort Benning Bridge club.

Pvt. Louann J. Myers

Meet Miss Benning---

MEET MISS BENNING IN THE PERSON OF Pvt. Louann J. Myers, a daughter of the state of Pennsylvania, who worked at a skating arena before becoming one of Uncle Sam's lassies.

Louann is currently assigned as assistant to the sergeant major in Student Training regiment, headquarters, and thoroughly enjoys her work, she says. Following her basic training, she attended the Leadership School at Fort Lee, Va., and she feels that this training has been a definite asset to her.

PVT. MYERS HAS A WIDE VARIETY OF hobbies. For her more vigorous days she likes to play softball, and then when she feels like taking it easy, there is nothing she likes better than to curl up with a good mystery story.

But her most unusual hobby is shinning shoes. Give Pvt. Myers a shoe buffer and a pair of shoes, and she's happy.

And speaking of books and movies, she has definite likes and dislikes in both. Her favorite movies are musicals, and as a side line claims "My Foolish Heart" as her current favorite. She has her moods, though, and sometimes she loves classical music.

FURTHER STATISTICS ON THIS VERY ACTIVE young lady show that she is five feet eight and one half inches tall, wears her brown hair short, has soft brown eyes with beautifully arched dark brows and a heart-shaped face with a lovely smile.

Pvt. Myers likes most any kind of clothes, but sports outfits have the edge over the others, and her favorite color is pink because it suits her brunette beauty.

In regard to her future plans, she hasn't made any definite ones. She plans to finish her three years in the Army. Then she hopes things will straighten out and she can marry her fiancé who is overseas.

Favorite Menus

Our first menu is submitted by Mrs. Withers A. Burress, wife of the Fort Benning commander. Included is her favorite recipe for cream cheese and asparagus mold which was handed down from her mother. Taking into consideration the weather, the menu submitted is ideal for a friendly gathering on a hot night, since the meat course and the vegetable may be prepared in the morning.

ROAST BEEF GREEN VEGETABLE CREAM CHEESE & ASPARAGUS MOLD HOT ROLLS ICED TEA OR ICED COFFEE

FRESH FRUIT PLATE CREAM CHEESE AND ASPARAGUS MOLD (amounts given for large buffet)

1 pint of mayonnaise 1 cart of cream cheese tips 6 cakes of cream cheese, softened with 1-2 cup milk

2 small bottles of stuffed olives 1-2 lb blanched and chopped almonds 1-2 pkg of Knox gelatin.

Combine the cream cheese softened with milk with the mayonnaise, add the asparagus tips either whole or chopped, the chopped almonds, and the olives chopped, and then the gelatin dissolved in water. Mold in any desired shape and serve on lettuce with extra mayonnaise.

Suggestion for the fruit plate: grapes, melon balls, slices of cantaloupe and peach wedges.

NCO Planning Harvest Moon Dance Series

A "Harvest Moon" dance is scheduled for each Saturday night in September at the Pine Lodge NCO Mess commencing this week end, it was announced by the Pine Lodge management last Friday.

Plans are underway to make the four Saturday night dances during the month colorful and enjoyable for the mess members and their guests by unique decorations and extensive entertainment planning. At each of the dances, sometime during the evening, the tune "September Song" will be played during which a hundred balloons, many containing cash prizes, will be released from the ceiling of the club.

Sergeant Sam McCracken and the Pine Lodge orchestra will alternate with the Mantecan orchestra in providing music for the four dances. Musical specialties numbers are scheduled with the orchestras.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

About this time of the year sportswriters have a habit of climbing out on the proverbial limb and attempting to predict what football team will rank first in the nation come New Year's Day.

We contend that crystal gazing is only for the experts so therefore we're going to leave the forecasting and predicting for the coming season to those who know.

Grantland Rice, veteran American sportswriter, last week made his pick of the country's top 25 teams in his annual football forecast in Look magazine.

It came as no surprise when he topped his list with Frank Leahy's Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. He picked Army as a close second, and didn't hesitate to add it would be a tight race between the two.

Rice's forecast for 1950 is as follows:
1. Notre Dame, 2. Army, 3. Tennessee, 4. Michigan, 5. Stanford, 6. Illinois, 7. Southern California, 8. Southern Methodist, 9. Cornell, 10. Texas, 11. California, 12. Kentucky, 13. Oklahoma, 14. Ohio State, 15. Rice, 16. Princeton, 17. Minnesota, 18. Duke, 19. Georgia, 20. Louisiana State, 21. Virginia, 22. Indiana, 23. North Carolina, 24. Washington, 25. Maryland.

GLOOM ON THE LOCAL SCENE

Focusing our attention to the local football scene we understand that with the season opener only two weeks away, coach Rip Rowan, former West Point ace, is still seeking manpower. Rowan recently took over the squad after Joe Steffey, West Point All-American, left Fort Benning on another assignment.

Only 20 men have reported to try out for the team thus far, many of whom have had little or no experience.

However, the situation is not hopeless, and although faced with the possibility of forming an iron-man squad, Rowan has shown no intention of throwing in the towel.

Anyone interested in playing football with the Benning Doughboys should contact assistant coach Russ Suther at Doughboy stadium or telephone him at 2923.

Glancing through some of the old back issues of the Bayonet one-day last week, we were surprised to learn that the difficulty in getting good football players these days is a far cry from what it was back in 1943 when mentors were overloaded with a supercollection of former collegiate gridiron stars.

MANY GREATS AT BENNING

Doughboy stadium around this time was the scene of many a run-in of gridiron greats who only the January before were butting heads in New Year classics all over the nation, and making national headlines by their piskin prowess.

From the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, Calif., came such stars as Georgia's Lamar Davis, Jim Todd, Andy Dush, George Eschner, Jim Miller and UCLA's Bob Waterfield, Al Solara, Mary Lee, and Pete Oxford.

From the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans came Tennessee backfielders Ike Peel, Bill Meek and Bill Knowling who ran roughshod over Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes. Alabama veterans of the Crimson Tide-Boston College duel in the Orange Bowl, Sam Sharp and Jack McKewen, also ploughed up sod under the Benning banner.

These were only a few of the great names in piskin history who made their appearances on local gridirons!

Baumgartner Takes Tennis Title in Upset

Downs Top-Seeded Scruton, Shares in Doubles Victory

BY HENRY KASSELK

In one of the most thrilling matches of the tournament, towering John Baumgartner gained a Labor Day upset three-set victory over top seeded Bob Scruton to capture the Fort Benning singles title in the Officers' Mess Tennis Tournament.

Climaxing a series of upsets in the meet, Baumgartner annexed the singles crown by upsetting the favored Scruton, 6-4, 0-6, 9-7. Exhibiting beautiful passing shots and clever backhand efforts, the two top seeded players displayed professional form at the net as well as in the back court. However, it was Baumgartner's well placed shots which won out in the end.

In the semi-finals held Sunday, the veteran star, Scruton, made his way into the finals by easily defeating seventh seeded Joe Love, 6-2, while Baumgartner eliminated Leroy Stanley, 6-3, 6-3. In both matches there was little doubt as to who would compete in the finals.

Newcomer Wins Singles
In the Women's Singles championship match, diminutive Elizabeth Sarel, a newcomer to Benning courts, copped the singles title by upsetting veteran Rosemary Bingham, 6-4, 6-1. After a close fought opening set, Sarel slammed home her attack, keeping the top seeded Bingham on the run throughout the final set.

Baumgartner teamed up with Scruton to capture the Men's Doubles Championship, 3-2, 6-3 from Tom Rafferty and Dave Silver in a hotly contested match Monday afternoon.

Hard Hitting Leroy Chloupek captured the Boy's Singles title by quickly downing Bill Carmichael, 6-1, 6-1, while Jean Peyton experienced no difficulty in subduing Barbara Joiner, 6-2, 6-1 to win the Girl's Singles laurels.

Hallden is Winner
In the Junior Singles division, top seeded Richard Hallden reigned supreme as he gained a hard won 6-3, 6-2 victory over Bob Rosenbaum, displaying excellent form throughout both sets.

Donn Yoder and Donn Yoder Jr. dominated play in the Father and Son Match by defeating Fred and Rickey Wright, 6-3, 6-3, and copping the trophy.

Play in the men's second round consolation finals saw S. Hinds defeat Paul Croonquist, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 in one of the hardest fought matches of the tournament.

Post Pistooleers Win at Jax Meet

Five members of the Fort Benning pistol team returned home from the Southeastern Regional Pistol matches at Jacksonville, Fla., this week with 26 of the contest's top awards.

Competing against 200 of the country's best military and civilian marksmen, the Benningites, led and coached by Col. Perry D. Swindler, won second place in team matches with the .45 caliber pistol and fourth in contests with the .38 caliber revolver.

Members of the Benning squad competing against 12 other teams were Colonel Swindler, Lt. David H. Thomas, Lt. Clark S. Campbell, M-Sgt. Arden J. King, and M-Sgt. Daniel Huntley.

Topped by Marine Team in the .45 caliber match, Benning followed the U. S. Marine corps team in second place with a score of 1,080 points, while he placed them in the high expert spot.

Fort Benning's team was edged into the 38 caliber fourth spot with a score of 1,095 points. Awards won by individuals of the team are as follows:

Colonel Swindler, one large plaque, one gold medal, two silver medals and two bronze medals; Lieutenant Thomas, one silver medal and one bronze medal; Sergeant King, one large plaque, one silver medal and four bronze medals; Sergeant Huntley, one large plaque, one silver medal and two bronze medals.

The matches, which were held yearly, are considered by the top marksmen as being the top in intra-team pistol competition.

Recently Fort Benning's team won first place in the Dixie Pistol and Revolver matches at Fort McPherson, Ga., and it was after that victory that the team was invited to the southeastern competition.

Individual scores during the team competitions were as follows; Lt. Stalcup, 99; Sgt. Huntley, 98; Capt. Hyle, 97; M-Sgt. Warren, 94 and Sgt. Buck, 94.

In the individual matches which were held Saturday, Sgt. Huntley, noted M1 and pistol expert, amassed a total of 122 points to win the Class A trophy. Sgt. Huntley's score was second highest in the meet.

Class B runner-up laurel went to Maj. R. J. Yetter while Maj. G. L. Disharoon and Lt. S. R. Blunk won the Class C and runner-up titles respectively.

Fort McPherson, last year's Army champion, which placed third last week-end, seeking the huge skeet trophy which would have remained with the Atlanta spot permanently.

Benning Second In Skeet Shoot

Firing an excellent 482 out of a possible 500, the Fort Benning Skeet Team captured second place honors in the annual Third Army Skeet Championship Tournament staged at Fort McPherson last Saturday and Sunday, only two points behind the winner.

The Benningites placed second to a Fort Bragg aggregation which shattered 484 birds in the team competition held Sunday.

This made the third straight year that Fort Benning has been forced to be content with runner-up laurels. The two previous tournaments, which were won by a sharpshooting Fort McPherson crew, saw the locals lose by two birds in 1948 and a single point in 1949.

Individual scores during the team competitions were as follows; Lt. Stalcup, 99; Sgt. Huntley, 98; Capt. Hyle, 97; M-Sgt. Warren, 94 and Sgt. Buck, 94.

In the individual matches which were held Saturday, Sgt. Huntley, noted M1 and pistol expert, amassed a total of 122 points to win the Class A trophy. Sgt. Huntley's score was second highest in the meet.

Class B runner-up laurel went to Maj. R. J. Yetter while Maj. G. L. Disharoon and Lt. S. R. Blunk won the Class C and runner-up titles respectively.

Post Speeds 3.5 Action to Korea

The Army this week told the story of its 3.5 rocket launcher, the part played by Fort Benning men in its speedy appearance in Korea, and its dramatic results against Russian-made tanks in the first days of the peninsula campaign.

Only 17 days after the original request from Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the super-buzzoaks, the Army had flown it to Korea, along with a three-man instruction team from Benning, and it had knocked out seven Red tanks.

The three-man 3.5 specialist team which was flown to Korea consisted of Lt. Robert Parr, M. Sgt. William Tillman and Pfc. Charles Burman, trained at the Weapons department in the test of this newest of heavy duty rocket launchers.

Only 15 Days Old
In its story of the new weapon and its speedy appearance in the Korean action, the Army said that ammunition for it was standardized only early this year, and had been in production only 15 days when the Korean emergency developed.

Stocks of the rocket launchers were at the Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., but had not been issued because of nonavailability of ammunition. Instruction teams for combat units still were being trained at Fort Benning.

On the evening of July 3, the Engineer Group In Reserve Unit Tours Benning

As part of Fort Benning's reserve officers' training program, 150 officer students of the Third Army Area Engineer ORC School, were conducted on a familiarization tour of the post on Monday.

These reserve officers, attending a command post exercise, are being instructed in the latest methods and technique of Army engineering.

The school began last Sunday and will continue until Sept. 23, during which time those attending will also receive instruction in the latest infantry weapons and tactics.

Upon completion of the course, the officers will return to their respective stations where they will, in turn, instruct other ORC and Engineer personnel.

Lt. Col. Carl C. Sartain heads the school. He is assisted by Lt. Col. Albert H. Hollandsworth, Capt. William B. French and Capt. John J. Martin, all of whom are instructors of the school.

Duty Assigned To 3440th Men

New duty assignments for enlisted men of the 3440th Area Service unit were announced this week.

Five men were assigned duties with the Engineer section. They were Cpl. Ansel D. Carson, Pfc. Jonah W. Templeton, Jr., Cpl. Robert J. Whittner, Cpl. Orville J. Gosnell and M-Sgt. William E. Gosnell.

Assigned to the Signal section were Pfc. Henry C. Moler, Cpl. Paul C. Cruso and Sgt. Gerald Roche, while Cpl. Jack Taylor and Pfc. Maurice R. O'Neil went to ASU headquarters.

Going to detachment overhead were Cpl. Thomas R. Hollowell and Sgt. Charley E. Willoughby, while M-Sgt. Robert E. Grunwald was assigned to the Chaplain section.

Six ASU Men Sent To Ordnance Group

Six former members of the 3440th Area Service unit's Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Section 1, have been transferred to the 378th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance company, it was announced this week by Col. Maurice Miller, Provisional group commander.

They were Pfc. Harold E. Watkins, Cpl. Robert E. Grunwald, Pfc. Gene Carr, Sgt. Walter F. Bergner, Pvt. Gregorio C. Jimenez, Jr., and Sgt. Earnest J. Wade.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT
CWO Kenneth M. Fisher has been appointed assistant adjutant of the Infantry School detachment.

Jerk of the Week

Goof Gimbaljaw Wins Top Rating

THE GIFT OF THE GAB HAS ALWAYS BEEN THE PRINCIPAL asset of the man chosen this week by the Jerk of the Week Selection committee, but it is talking out of turn that brought the award to Sfc. Stoolie Gimbaljaw.

Jaw-box Gimbaljaw is a blaring loud-speaker that sends out classified information on wavelengths that make the red banners quiver in delight. These wavelengths vary from the respectable distance he keeps when discussing troop movements with the janitor to the proximity he practices when whispering little weapons specifications into the ear of this week's girl friend.

Sometimes there is a leak in information, but not where Stupid Stoolie is concerned; he has no plumbing in the head whatsoever and literally gushes all he knows. Garrulous Gimbaljaw knows quite a bit, too. He travels in a circle of similar blithering idiots who carefully compile all their information where it can easily be heard by waiting red ears.

STOOLIE IS A CLAY PIGEON FOR SNOOPER-SNIPPERS when he goes to town. He'll wait into the nearest bar chanting troop-train timetables aloud until he has drawn a crowd. Surrounded by his gathering of red-eyed friends, gravel-brained Gimbaljaw goes into a detailed description of every weapon he ever saw. The other night he tried to bring a gun along to show them, but somebody wearing a long black cloak threatened him with a dagger and took the gun away while he was on the bus. The stalwart Stoolie, if given the chance, would probably hold the gun to his head while explaining the mechanism, including how to pull the trigger.

That same night gimlet-eyed Gimbaljaw spied one of his favorite type women—red heads with large, firm, pendant-like ears. As they sat and talked, the sergeant paid no mind to her scribbling on the tablecloth. He didn't even think it odd when she waddled up the cloth and put it in her purse. When he offered to take her home, she was completely surprised when she told him he had nothing else she wanted.

NO ONE HAS EVER BEEN ABLE TO CONVINCINGE the stagnant-brained Sgt. Stoolie that he should stop talking. When someone told him the walls had ears, the sergeant immediately began beating at the baseboard. When he receives a document marked classified, he diligently notes the details for divulgence at a later date. The one time anyone mentioned enemy agent to muiety Stoolie he laughed right out real big.

You probably won't be seeing this jerk around. He finally told the telling tale just before he got shipped out, and it's just possible that Sfc. Stoolie Gimbaljaw, the long-time blow hard, might have been blown up.

Family Portrait

Sergeant in Food Service Leaves Cooking to Missus

Most people who are good cooks always want to have their hands in cooking or at least supervise it, but this is not the case with M-Sgt. Charles E. Mitchell of 507 Harris circle, who is currently assigned as instructor or at the Food Service school. His motto for his home is "too many cooks spoil the broth," and since his wife does a fine job of feeding her family, he sees no reason to change his policy.

Minnie Mitchell admits that having a super cook in the family makes things easier for her, especially when she has special dinner guests or wants to spring something new on the girls of the coffee club. She also admits that having a cook in the family has given her a lot of travel since she married the soldier that the Food Service School was twenty-one years ago in July.

Minnie Mead was a young girl when she left her home in Luxemburg, Wisconsin, and went to Chicago to work. It was while she was working in Chicago that mutual friends introduced her to a young soldier from Fort Sheridan, and two years later he persuaded her to change the Mead for Mitchell.

While Charles Mitchell was stationed at Fort Sheridan he was assigned to Food Service and since that time he says, he has learned cooking from the stove up, having been a cook, a baker, an instructor and most anything that pertains to cooking.

The Mitchell family has called Fort Benning home off and on since April of 1941 and they have resided in their present quarters for five years. During the war, by virtue of the fact that the Food Service School was one of the outfits declared essential to training, Sergeant Mitchell didn't go overseas, but put in plenty of time in one camp or another demonstrating mess management and streamlining classes to turn out more and more competent mess personnel for the Army.

Two Sons In Family
There are two sons in the Mitchell family. Young Master Charles E. Mitchell, Jr., is twelve and in the seventh grade at school, while Harry Walker Jackie (and he prefers to be called by all of his name) born at Camp Blanding, Fla., is seven and in the second grade. When he grows up, Charlie has a great desire to be a sergeant like his Dad, but Harry Walter Jackie says the same life is not for him since he wants to be a captain in the Air Force and set pilot at that.

The two boys are typical kids, with boundless energy and keep their parents on their toes with questions. The youngest son is a great sports enthusiast and spends most of his time playing ball.

Last year the Mitchell family embarked on a five-thousand-mile tour of the Mid-western states with some time spent at San Antonio, Tex. This year they are looking forward to next summer when the open road will call and the family will make a coast-to-coast trip, with a visit to Mrs. Mitchell's sister in California. California will also come under close scrutiny from Sergeant Mitchell as a possible future home for his family when he returns.

Can Combine Talents
When the elder Mitchells put their cooking talents together, more than likely the best stewed chicken and dumplings you ever ate would be the result; then again it might be spaghetti and meat balls, which is another prime favorite with the family. Twenty-six years of army life with many trials and lots of happiness, with memories of old friends and new, will end for Sergeant Mitchell in February, 1952. Looking back over the past, he says that they were interested in their close friends at an occasional dinner party, and they do like a game of bingo or a Saturday night dance at the Block 12 NCO club where they are members.

Mrs. Mitchell is a busy woman with her family to care for and her housework to do, but she also finds time to be active in the Parents' Teachers' association and the Eastern Star.

All in all, the Mitchells are a typical Army family in their attractive home and their past activities and with their eyes on a bright future for their son.

We're Fighting in Korea

We have heard complaints from military personnel that the war in Korea is none of our business. We have heard people state categorically that it is idiotic for American soldiers to lose their lives protecting an Oriental people, 7,000 miles from our shores, in whom we have no interest. These people are not Communists, they are not unpatriotic. They simply do not understand why we are fighting, and no one apparently has tried to explain the United States' position in the fracas.

Last week, however, Ambassador Warren R. Austin, U. S. Representative in the United Nations, issued a clear-cut statement of policy to the UN troops fighting in Korea. Since most of the troops are American, it is fitting that the statement of policy came from an American familiar with Communist aggressions.

Although the message was intended primarily for consumption of UN forces in Korea, it behooves all American Armed Forces to heed it well, not only because they might be called upon to serve there themselves, but because it's a true statement of why free nations must fight aggression by Communist forces. In his statement, written exclusively for the Armed Forces, Mr. Austin states:

"Our object together (the UN and UN military forces) is to halt aggression. The world failed to do that when Hitler and Mussolini and the Japanese were rising to power 20 years ago. Aggression in Ethiopia, Manchuria and Austria went unchallenged. Today the story is different. The United Nations has successfully challenged aggression in a number of instances."

Then the Ambassador points out the spots where aggression has been thwarted, with special emphasis on Greece where war broke out three years ago. In that country, the Communists attempted to prove that the war was a civil war, involving only two opposing governmental factions from within. However, when the UN sent military observers to Greece, "through their eyes the whole world saw that in reality it was Communist aggression from the outside that menaced Greece... and the rest of the world, too."

We all remember, of course, how Greek troops, aided by the U. S. and British equipment, defeated the Communists. In doing so, they proved to the Communist aggressors that the free world would not stand idly by and watch itself enslaved.

The most recent effort on the part of world Communism was the invasion by the North Korean Reds of the Republic of Korea. It's there that Communist aggression has been boldest. In the words of Mr. Austin:

"What is happening in Korea is part of the Communist effort to crush the world's free nations (UN military forces) victory in Korea will be the most crushing set-back the Communists have ever received. Your victory will demonstrate that the free peoples of the world are determined that aggression will not be permitted to succeed—even when it is attempted in a place so remote from our homes as Korea."

The U. S. is only one of 53 nations that have joined together in recognizing that a battle for freedom and world law and order is now being fought. Aggression must be stopped before it gets a head start if we and the people of other free countries are to remain free.

President Warns of Additional Sacrifices

As the fighting war still raged furiously in Korea, the American public this week was warned of many additional sacrifices it would likely be called upon to make in the months ahead. President Truman sounded the warning in a nation-wide fireside chat in which he declared that vast increases in armaments would mean heavier taxes for everybody. He predicted that there would be shortages in many luxury items that wage earners would work longer hours and that the cost of living would rise.

On the defense front, William Henry Harrison, president of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, became boss of the nation's arms production program. As head of the National Production Authority, Harrison will be charged with the responsibility of diverting materials, as needed, from civilian to military use. At the same time, the President appointed W. Stuart Symington as boss of the home economic front, with supervisory powers over controls to be instituted soon. As chairman of the National Security Resources Board, Symington will have over-all direction of a series of credit controls, priorities and allocations operations.

Meanwhile, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover this week is said to have told senators that his agents are ready to arrest 12,000 dangerous Communists if war with Russia should break out.

To speed-up military strength, the Army this week announced that the 12-month period allotted to training a full division during World War II had been shortened to half that time. Present plans call for 18 and possibly 30 front-line divisions to meet the needs of the Korean war and additional defenses in Europe, promised this week by the President.

General Mark W. Clark, commander of the U. S. Army, Field Forces, arrived in Germany this week to inspect the "combat readiness" of American troops in Europe. He will witness a big American-led maneuver which began this week and in which nearly 100,000 American, British and French troops will participate. They will practice how to repel an invasion by superior enemy forces from the East.

The Marine Corps League this week joined the VFW in demanding the ouster of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. The organization of ex-Leathernecks accused Johnson of slashing America's defenses to "a dangerously low level." This move came after the Marines had accepted a public apology from President Truman for what he termed his unfortunate choice of language in charging the Marine Corps with having a propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's.

The toll of dead in the troop train-passenger train crash-up at Coshocton, Ohio, mounted to 33 this week as rescue workers continued their search for bodies. All the dead were members of the Pennsylvania National Guard, who were en route to Camp Atterbury, Ind., to enter the Army. The disaster occurred when the Pennsylvania Railroad's crack streamliner, Spirit of St. Louis, ploughed into the rear of a stalled train carrying 700 soldiers.

The USAF Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, recently graduated 158 officers from its college of engineering sciences and industrial administration.

The Navy will not assign sole surviving sons or daughters to combat areas. In announcing the policy Vice Admiral John W. Roper, said: "In recognition of the sacrifice and contribution made by a family which has lost one or more sons or daughters, who were killed in action or died in line of duty while serving in the armed forces, consideration will be given to limiting the assignment of a sole surviving son or daughter, who is serving in the Navy, to duty in non-combat areas." The policy applies to both officer and enlisted personnel of the Regular Navy and the Naval Reserve.

Chaplain's Corner

Character Can Change Your Countenance

BY CHAPLAIN ALBERT V. MURAY
Centuries ago a great artist was engaged to paint a mural for the cathedral in a Sicilian town. The subject was the life of Christ. For many years the artist labored diligently, and finally the painting was finished except for the two most important figures: the Christ Child and Judas Iscariot. He searched far and wide for models for those two figures. One day, while walking in an old part of the city, he came upon some children playing in the street. Among them was a twelve-year-old boy whose face mirrored the painter's heart. It was the face of an angel.

The artist took the child home with him, and day after day the boy sat patiently until the face of the Christ Child was finished. But the painter still found no one to serve as model for the portrait of Judas. For years, haunted by the fear that his masterpiece would remain unfinished, he continued his search. The story of the unfinished masterpiece spread and many men, fancying themselves of wicked countenance, offered to pose as models for the face of Judas. But in vain the old painter looked for a face that would serve to show Judas as he had envisioned him—a man warped by life, enfeebled by surrender to greed and lust.

Then one afternoon, a gaunt and haggard figure staggered across the threshold and fell upon the floor. "Wine, wine," he begged. The painter lifted him up and looked into a face that startled him. It seemed to bear the marks of every sin of mankind. Here at last was the model for Judas. For many days and parts of many nights the painter worked feverishly to complete his masterpiece.

As the work went on a change came over the model. A strange tension replaced the stuporous languor, and his blood-shot eyes were fixed with horror at the painted likeness of himself. One day, perceiving his subject's agitation, the painter paused in his work. "My son, I'd like to help you," he said. "What troubles you so?"

The model sobbed and buried his face in his hands. After a long moment he lifted pleading eyes to the old painter's face. "Do you not then remember me? Years ago I was your model for the Christ Child."

A WOMAN OF MEANS BY PETER TAYLOR
HARCOURT, BRACE & CO. PUBLISHER
By ALLEN L. MULLIKIN

The struggles of a young boy for security and affection fill Peter Taylor's short novel to about two-thirds mark on the measuring cup of satisfying reading. Limited by writing from the viewpoint of a 12-year-old boy, the author presents only a half-tone picture of a problem family trying to unite two separate sets of children under the guidance of twice-married parents.

Quinnus Dudley at last thinks he has found some measure of personal stability in his beautiful step-mother. The young boy's strained feelings in his days of living in boarding houses with his father and his uncertain position in the home of his grandmother are fully exploited by the author. In trying to reveal to the full extent the family struggle of a self-made man, married to a rich woman with two undisciplined daughters, through the reactions of the small boy is where the novel crumbles.

The father shows only as the hero that he is in the son's eyes, and the mother appears only as the strong guiding light that she is to her step-son. The struggle for happiness between the adult characters is shadowed and indistinct. Only veiled references by the woman-of-means and the salesman-become-executive make their differences too weak for the reader to appreciate.

The daughters of the rich woman are only paper cut-outs that spout slang and rush off to dates after a gay chat with their step-father. When the author attempts to make these young ladies the center of a family difference, their lack of established personality makes the situation implausible.

Only in the passages dealing personally with the young boy does the author fulfill the reader's natural curiosity. In the poignant scenes of his school, the boy is as vital and real as can provide. His growth from self-consciousness and insecurity can provide. His growth from self-consciousness and insecurity curiously touches deeply into the manings of the growing-up process. Particularly well presented is the strange mutation that makes the admiration of his contemporaries much more important to the child than his home life.

When economic disturbances begin to eat away the happiness of this family, the reader gets only an unsteady image, as if looking at the characters in a cracked mirror. In his whirl-wind ending, the author tries to stir to life all of his characters. The disastrous results are some splashed final chapters with little relationship to the gems of childhood that shove through the early portions of the book.

The principle difficulty of Mr. Taylor's short novel seems to be that he has taken the material for a short story and set a film's frame about it, building only a tattered house that cannot contain the emotional storms he cautiously introduces into it.

Denning Bandbox

By May Pigott

THEY SAY THAT BEHIND EVERY GREAT MAN THERE is a woman, and behind Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem Jr. is Virginia Gillem, who has helped him and encouraged him through the years past. When Virginia Harrison married Second Lt. Alvan C. Gillem Jr. in Nogales, Arizona, that June day in 1916, little did she know that she was linking her destiny with that of one of the great generals of our times.

Thirty-four years and thirty-nine moves later, she is still sure that she made the right choice and though some of those years have been dark, the happy ones outnumber the gloomy. The Gillems stopped over at Benning recently for a short visit with their daughter and son, Lt. and Mrs. Robert C. Daly, before going to San Jose, California, to spend the winter. General Gillem had gone through his retirement ceremony in Atlanta the day prior, and he and Mrs. Gillem had been honor guests the night before at a huge reception, so both were taking it easy.

Mrs. Gillem wore a dark blue linen dress with multi-colored sandals the day your Bandbox reporter called at the guest quarters at 201 Lumpkin road. Mrs. Gillem settled herself in an easy chair across the room from the general and insisted that she was not of interest to anybody, that the General was the famous one in the family. However, when I kept popping questions at her, she smilingly answered them. As we started the questions and answers about the Gillems meeting and courtship, the general with a wink decided it was time for him to leave. At that moment, a friend came in to discuss arrangements for a golf game and they retired to the porch.

ACCORDING TO VIRGINIA, SHE AND TENNESSEE-BORN Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., met in her home town of Nogales, Arizona, and after approximately a nine-month courtship, were married there. The then Lieutenant Gillem was stationed near Nogales and shortly after they were married he was transferred to the 12th Infantry at the Presidio, San Francisco, Calif.

That, she says, was the beginning of her moving from one Army post to another. Their itinerary reads almost like a geography listing: Hawaii, the Philippines, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, Washington, D. C., Maryland, Fort Benning, Louisiana and many others. At first, it was hard to get quarters established, things about straightened out and then he ordered to move, but Mrs. Gillem said that after awhile you learn to take that in your stride.

"And," said Virginia Gillem, "if you have ever tried to pack things up, keep order among three active children and still know just what you are doing, you know what I mean."

"Three children?" I questioned.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Gillem. "The oldest is Col. A. C. Gillem, deputy wing commander at Turner Air Force base, who is married to the former Beth Knight of Columbus, Mrs. Daly, and the youngest, Dick, who, incidentally was born here at Benning on one of our previous tours. Our daughter is stationed here with her husband who is attending the advanced class at the Infantry School, Young Dick, going to enter Bellarmine Prep school at San Jose. That is why we are going to spend the winter there. If we like it we might possibly settle there. It will be strange to stay in one place, but San Jose is not strange to me, as I went to a convent there when I was a girl!"

WHEN ASKED IF SHE HAD ANY SUGGESTIONS THAT might be of help to the young, new Army wife, she hesitated and finally said:

"I think the best thing I can pass on from my years of experience is that it requires a lot of patience and endurance to follow a soldier about, but your life will have plenty of compensations. When I was first married, we didn't have the nice quarters and travel conditions that the wives today enjoy, but the girls now face a different set of problems. However, I guess in the long run they are essentially the same. Every wife must remember to give her husband all the support and encouragement she possibly can."

I asked if she could recall any particular incident that was amusing and she laughingly answered:

"I certainly can. When General Gillem was coming back from Europe, I was notified. I dressed up with my white gloves, fancy hat and best bib-and-tucker and went rushing to the airport. While I was nervously awaiting the plane, a severe storm came up and the plane couldn't land and I was stranded. Then it was a major catastrophe, but now it seems funny when I think of me in all my fancy clothes pacing the floor of the waiting room."

I ASKED HER IF THERE WAS ANYTHING SHE WOULD like to add to my story. Virginia Gillem said in all sincerity:

"I feel that it has been a great privilege to share my life with a great soldier. I am very proud of him and am happy to have been a part of the family."

The greatest tribute that could be paid any wife was given to Virginia Gillem when General Gillem, said to me: "She has done wonders with me and for me in the years we have been married."

Meet Miss Benning...

PVT. JANICE E. ROBINSON INTRODUCES another type of Miss Benning. She hails from the picturesque state of Colorado, and is a young miss vitally interested in the present trend of current events.

Janice worked as a cashier in a grocery store in Denver before she donned the olive drab of an Army private. Since she has been at Benning, she has been staving in the Grading and Preparation section of the Army Extension Course department. Her main job is to prepare the lessons to be sent to gradings.

Being the only girl in a family of two brothers, it is only natural that her trend in hobbies should run to the athletic type. She is very fond of horseback riding, swimming, skiing and ice skating. She is particularly interested in winter sports since her section of the country has some of the best ski runs and ice skating facilities available. These are the things she says she really misses during the winter since she has been stationed in the Peach State.

WHEN SHE DOESN'T FEEL UP ON HER BEST and athletic, she loves to curl up on her bed and lose herself in a good spine-tingling mystery, which is her favorite type of book. She spends a great deal of her spare time reading current magazines and newspapers, always with an eye to world events. She is one girl who looks forward to the weekly hour of TIP which helps her to better understand the present situation. Musicals are her favorite movies and she likes popular music, but has no special song as she is for them all and enjoys both singers and bands.

SINCE JANICE IS SO SPORTS MINDED, it follows that her favorite type of clothing is sport and she wisely chooses blue as her color to set off her blonde complexion.

Statistically speaking, this lovely lady is a green-eyed blonde, with her blonde hair cut in a medium bob and bangs. She stands five feet, ten and one fourth inches tall, has a gay, infectious smile and green eyes which under finely arched brows.

She's a little secretive about any plans for her future which include just going home to Colorado when she returns to civilian life, could be that there is something more interesting than just Colorado involved in her future.

New Arrivals Favorite Menus

- The Sunday dinner menu for this week is given by Mrs. K. T. Mims, wife of M-Sgt. K. T. Mims, 403 Gaines circle. She is well-known as a cook and gives some of her favorite recipes.
- SUNDAY DINNER

- TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL
4 cups tomatoes (fresh canned)
1 cup water
Celery tops
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1-2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon
4 or 5 cloves
5 or 6 drops Tabasco sauce
Combine all ingredients except the lemon juice and boil slowly for 20 minutes. Press through a sieve, forcing through as much pulp as possible. Add 1 lemon juice and chill thoroughly. Serve very cold. This may be kept in screw-top jars in the cabinet or your refrigerator for several days.
- DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup butter
2 eggs
2 heaping tablespoons cocoa
1-2 cup boiling water
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1-2 cup sour milk
3 cups flour
Cream sugar and butter, add eggs one at a time, and beat between each addition. Add melted cocoa dissolved in boiling water. Sift dry ingredients. Dissolve soda in sour milk and add to mixture, alternating with flour. Bake in 325 degrees oven. 30 minutes in 325 degrees oven. Cool and frost.
- 1-2 cup rich milk
1-2 cup butter

'Harvest Moon' Dance Draws 700 To Pine Lodge

The first of the September "Harvest Moon" dances was held at the Pine Lodge, NCO Mess at Fort Benning last Saturday night.

More than seven hundred members of the Mess, their families and guests attended the affair. The dance was the first of the "Harvest Moon" series slated to be held at Pine Lodge each Saturday night in September.

During the evening, a hundred multicolored balloons, many containing cash prizes, were released from the ceiling of the building, while the orchestra of Sam McCracken played "September Song", "Colored Lights" played over the room during this special feature of the evening. More than thirty couples danced the "September Song" dance.

The second of the "Harvest Moon" dances will be held at Pine Lodge Saturday night. Another hundred balloons, with cash prizes, will be released. The management of the Mess has extended an invitation to all members of the Mess, their families and friends to attend this special autumn dance.

NCCS Entertains For War Brides

The NCCS Club of Columbus entertained on Wednesday evening with a party in honor of the foreign war brides of armed forces personnel in this section. This get-together was the second in a series of planned parties, providing facilities for the women to bring their children. Cards were read following the supper.

Mrs. Daniel P. Buckland, retiring chairman, made a short address of appreciation to the ladies of the group for their cooperation during her term of office. Following her speech, Mrs. McCormick presented her with a gift on behalf of the members of the golf group.

Covers were paid for Mrs. Buckland, Mrs. Peyton, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Maurice Miller, Mrs. Frank Goss, Mrs. Robert M. Booth, Mrs. Frederick S. Wright, Jr., Mrs. L. W. H. New Insurance Melon Due GIs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The insurance in force three months or more before 1948. The 1951 insurance is expected to be stiffer.

But officials said the VA must first find the money to pay the clerical cost of the job. And they warned that the dividend might be postponed if the nation should be plunged into all-out war since that would increase VA's workload and cut down its manpower.

Last year VA split a $2,800,000,000 dividend, covering eight years, among 16,000,000 holders of World War II policies. The dividend came from surplus premium payments into the National Service Life Insurance Trust fund, but the government footed a $17,500,000 bill for processing applications and writing and mailing checks.

Special Fund Refused

VA asked Congress for $4,800,000 this year to pay two-thirds of the cost of handling the 1951 dividend. Congress turned it down and told VA to finance the job out of its regular appropriation.

Spokesmen said Veterans Administration Carl R. Gray, Jr., must decide if VA can afford the administrative cost of the new dividend which will cover three years. Annual dividends are planned for 1951.

If he decides to go ahead, Gray also must figure out: What part of the $4,800,000,000 trust fund can be paid out and what must be held in reserve to meet death payments.

2. Who is eligible. The first dividend went to all who had GIs.

Col. John Darrah

Col. Darrah, a native of Chicago, Ill., received his commission in 1935 and served overseas with the 30th Infantry Regiment in World War II, after which he was stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., and Fort Leavenworth, Kas., as staff surgeon and division surgeon, arriving at Fort Benning in July, 1948. At present he is with the Medical Field Service Committee at the Infantry School.

Colonel McNulty, a native of Roanoke, Va., was also commissioned in 1935 and stationed at West Point, and was stationed at Fort Crook, Neb. He also served at Schofield Barracks, H. I., and Fort Huachuca, Ariz. He was with the 94th Infantry Division during World War II, coming to Fort Benning in July, 1947. He wears, among his decorations, the Czechoslovakian War Cross, the French Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor.

AF Bomber Crew Drops Silencer On Seoul City Sue

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Details of the silencing of "Seoul City Sue" by an American bomber crew one night recently were related in a recorded broadcast from Tokyo by Maj. Wes McPherson.

Major McPherson said that Lt. Bud Gallinger of Ketchikan, N. Y., was annoyed by propaganda poured out in a feminine voice from the radio station at Communist-held Seoul and with the aid of his navigator and gunner, found and damaged the transmitter of "Sue's" presentation.

McPherson said that "Seoul City Sue" will never make the Hooper ratings, even if she gets back on the air. He said there is no music on her programs, only propaganda.

T.I.S. TALKS

QUESTION: WHAT DO YOU THINK IS THE BIGGEST CHANGE IN THE ARMY IN THE LAST TEN YEARS?

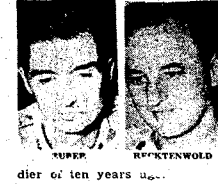

CAPT. E. C. NAVARRE, FIRST COMPANY, STUDENT TRAINING REGIMENT: I believe one of the greatest changes is the activation of the character guidance program which has a direct relationship to the type of individual serving in the Army now as compared with the type of personnel of ten years ago.

Sgt. Robert H. DeLay, Company C, Infantry School Detachment: I think the pay bill is the biggest change and the discipline in the Army definitely is not what it was ten years ago.

Cpl. Hoyt Zuehl, Company C, Infantry School Detachment: Well, I think the pay and the IQ of the average soldier are much higher, but in my opinion, the present day soldier is not as good and as well disciplined as the soldier of ten years ago.

Lt. James F. Reid, Post Athletic Officer: I think the greatest change is taking the responsibility away from the non-commissioned officer and the lower grade officers. A noncom does not get the chance to use his initiative and ingenuity on the job.

Pvt. Elaine Palestine, WAC Detachment, 3440 Th Air Service Unit: Naturally, I think the presence of women in the Army is the greatest change, since it was unheard of in the army of ten years ago. As a result of the WACs there is a tendency among soldiers to sharpen up a bit, especially in regard to their appearance.

Military Transport Under New Agency

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Defense Department recently established a military traffic agency to direct and coordinate all military transportation.

The new agency will recommend the best means of transportation, work out routes and negotiate rates for shipments made by the Armed Forces.

E. Grover Plowman, vice president in charge of traffic for the U. S. Steel Corporation was named director. He will also be chairman of an advisory council composed of one member from each of the military departments.

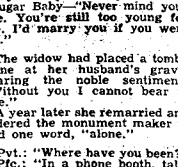

COMMANDS DROP COMPANY Capt. John F. Sealing has been appointed commanding officer of the 88th Ordnance Depot company.

To Amuse You Today

Little Boy—"Where were you born?"
Little Girl—"In a taxi. My mother was in a hurry."

Elderly Lady at the zoo: "See children, there's the stork that brought you to your mummy." Children, to each other: "Do you think we ought to tell granny the truth?"

Sugar Daddy—"I'm 85 years old, and have $2,000,000 salted away. Will you marry me?"
Sugar Baby—"Never mind your age. You're still too young for me. I'd marry you if you were 100."

The widow had placed a tombstone at her husband's grave, bearing the noble sentiment: "Without you I cannot bear to live."

A year later she remarried and ordered the monument maker to add one word.

Pvt.: "Where have you been?"
Pfc.: "In a phone booth, talking long."
Pfc.: "Didn't take you very long?"
Pfc.: "No somebody wanted to use the phone booth, so we had to get out."

Allowance Bill In President's Hands for Action

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Congressional action on the living allowance bill for enlisted service men's families has been completed and forwarded to the White House for the President's signature.

To compensate for the rise in living costs, Congress made the allowances substantially higher all along the line. But it put a ceiling on the number of dependents the government will help support. Most with ten dependents will be eligible for no more than a man with three.

The bill expresses the feeling of Congress that the armed forces should take steps to discharge men with more than three dependents as "hardship cases," but does not make that a mandatory rule.

Officers are not included because they already get "quarters allowances" ranging from $50 a month for a bachelor second lieutenant to $150 a month for a general with a family.

Here are the monthly allowances provided in the bill:

Grades E-7 and E-6: $147.50 for one or two dependents; $165 for three or more; $80 of it comes from the soldier's own pay. Grades E-5 and E-4: $127.50 a month for one or two dependents; $145 for three or more; $60 of it comes from the soldier's own pay.

Lower grades: $85 for one dependent, $107.50 for two, $125 for three or more; $40 comes from the soldier's own pay.

The same scale applies to equivalent Navy ranks.

After the bill becomes law the first allowance checks will be mailed as soon as the Armed Forces complete the necessary clerical work.

Guardsmen Train With Propaganda CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (APPS) — A taste of propaganda warfare has been given Michigan National Guardsmen.

Arctic Troops Given New Exposure Suits AKRON, OHIO (APPS) — Armored Forces personnel serving in Arctic areas are getting a new type of exposure suit made of rubberized fabric that remains serviceable even in 85 below zero temperatures.

The new material is impregnated with a specially compounded type of man-made rubber. One of the chief problems of our Armed Forces in World War II stemmed from the breakdown of rubber products used in the Arctic.

Post Dedicates Custer School

New Structure Opened With 131 in Attendance

Providing more much needed space for children of Fort Benning personnel, the new Custer Road Terrace school was dedicated Monday and immediately swung into service with 131 students from kindergarten through the third grade.

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commander of the Infantry Center, accepted the school for the post from Col. James F. Torrence, president of the post School Council and G. Gunby Jordan, president of the Jordan Construction company, which built.

The new school, to which finishing touches were added only two days before the formal dedication, is located between the Custer Road Terrace and Battle Park Homes developments. It was put to use just one week after the post Children's school was opened for the 1950-51 year.

Program held on Terrace. The dedication program was held in a large, open-air, roof-covered terrace located in the center of the new building, and was attended by a large number of children, their parents and guests.

The ceremonies began with selections by the 72nd U. S. Army band, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) L. T. Jenks led the invocation, and welcomed the invocation by the military and civilian personnel on the school program.

Following presentation of the school building to General Burress by Colonel Torrence and Mr. Jordan, the general in turn gave the keys of the ultra-modern seven-room building to Lt. Col. Lewis T. Martin, school officer.

Mrs. Hazel J. Scudder, principal of the Children's Center at Fort Benning, gave a short talk on the principles and aims of the school program for the current year. (See POST on Page 2)

Gen. Chase New Deputy Of Third

Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, leader of the first troops to reenter Manila and liberator of 3,700 internees at the Santo Tomas internment camp in 1945, has been named deputy commanding general of the Third Army, according to an announcement made at Fort McPherson, Third Army headquarters, today.

For more than a year, General Chase has been chief of staff, Third Army, and has been widely known in Atlanta, Georgia, where he is a member of the Atlanta Kiwanis club, and is deeply interested in community and civic affairs.

General Chase will succeed Maj. Gen. Paul J. Mueller, who recently was transferred to Washington to become a member of the general staff, Department of the Army.

In announcing the change in assignment of General Chase, Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding general, Third Army, announced that Brig. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, until recently commanding general of the Columbus Barracks, Hawaii, will become chief of staff of the Third Army.

General Ferenbaugh, born in Dresden, N. Y., is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, class of 1918. He participated in the North African invasion during World War II; and later was assistant commanding general, 18th Infantry division which saw service in the European theater. From October, 1947 to June, 1948, he served as chief of staff of the 18th Infantry division.

Within 50 yards of the position; Lieutenant Lloyd and his men were caught in enemy crossfire which caused disorganization and many casualties. Shouting orders and encouragement to his men, Lieutenant Lloyd ran forward and jumped into the first enemy machine gun position, knocked out the gunner with his fist, dropped a hand grenade and leaped out before it exploded.

It said: "When his unit was held up by a strong enemy defensive position, he made a one-man attack on an enemy sniper nest. At point-blank range he shot and killed two of the enemy and killed another with the bullet in his carbine. As he started to continue his attack, he was killed by a machine gun burst."

Armed Forces' Top School Begins Fifth Year

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

The armed forces top service school—the National War College—began its fifth year of operation recently with an enrollment of 120 senior Army, Air Force and Navy officers, as well as key civilians in government service. Classes are held at Fort Leslie J. McNair, Washington, D. C. The school's commandant is Lt. Gen. Harold L. Bull.

Transfer of title to the Army of Arlington Farms, which housed thousands of government girls during World War II was completed Sept. 1. The 95-acre "farms" are now a part of South Post, Fort Myer, Va. Four of the 10 residence halls have been converted to apartments for Army and Air Force families. Two are serving as barracks for enlisted men. The remainder will be used to house the Organized Reserve Corps Headquarters for the Military District of Washington.

A new, multi-purpose test known as the Airman Qualifying Examination (AF PRT Forms 1 through 11) are being put in use by the Air Force to replace the General Qualification Test. The AQE, which will be administered to incoming airmen and, under certain conditions, to those already on duty, may be scored to produce a GCT type of score, a mechanical aptitude score or a clerical aptitude score. Conditions covering the new test are contained in AF Regulation 35-395.

Civil Defense Program Submitted to Congress

The President this week laid before Congress a blueprint for a vast civil defense program. Drafted by the National Security Resources Board, the program is designed to rally the Nation from an atomic attack and enable it to fight back swiftly and destroy the aggressor.

Meanwhile, trouble was brewing elsewhere in Asia. Thousands of Viet Minh troops were reported massed along the Chinese border this week and two French outposts along the invasion route were attacked in what observers said could be the start of a general Red offensive against Indo-China.

At home, the Army this week doctored its call for Reserve officers. A total of 9,565 captains and lieutenants has been added to the original summons for 7,862 company grade officers. In addition, the Army ordered up 205 captain captains and 240 Army aviator officers.

At a Big Three Foreign Ministers conference in New York, it was agreed that immediate steps must be taken to strengthen the defenses of the free world in Europe and Asia. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said they would propose that German military forces be used in Western European defenses. Later reports indicate, however, that the proposal to rearm Germany would be rejected.

Discipline Dangerous: Full of Opportunity

BY CHAPLAIN SILAS L. WEEMS

Several years ago, Dr. Earl Ballou, who had spent a number of years as a most effective missionary in China, wrote a little book entitled, "Dangerous Opportunity." The author explained that the Chinese word for "zeal" is made up of two characters, one meaning "dangerous" and the other meaning "opportunity." A crisis, then, to the Chinese is a situation full of danger, but nevertheless one which is fraught with great opportunity.

The life to which Jesus called His followers is one that is filled with dangerous opportunities. Our conception of what is involved in discipleship and the conception presented in the New Testament do not always harmonize. We have been prone, in too many instances, to present discipleship in terms of the comfort, peace and security which it provides, rather than in terms of the adventurous and sacrificial type of life to which it summons us.

It is altogether possible that we have misinterpreted discipleship largely because we have misinterpreted Christ. For instance, if we are acquainted with a man who is kind, gentle, considerate and thoughtful, we usually describe him as the most Christ-like character we know, and he is Christ-like up to a certain point. A close study of the New Testament, however, will convince us that in addition to the possession of these qualities, Jesus was also the most adventurous, courageous, provocative and disturbing person imaginable: He was forever confronted by the protests and disapproval of those who were more interested in maintaining ancient traditions than they were in building the Kingdom of God on earth. People who listened to Jesus speak were constantly shocked, horrified and angered.

On the musical side for Saturday is Lombard and U.S.A. featuring Guy Lombardo and the "Swanee" music this side of heaven" at 9:30 p.m. followed by Chicago Theater of the Air and another History and Song program at 10 p.m. The Shadow deals with fifth-column activities in the country at 9 p.m. on Sunday.
NBC presents through WDAK McAlister of Johnston, N.C., sports the cooking technique which she won at the "Mrs. America" finals at Thursday, Sept. 21, 1950.

The desperate struggle of an individual to defy the age-old family pattern is the theme of this realistic study of the accepted social customs of life. That the story is laid in the teeming, lower-class regions of London in the year before the first World War makes the author's material and the story's setting so quaint and strange in this, the latter part of the 20th Century. Gerald Kersh, a master of realism, in this book dissects the family pattern in a manner that is sometimes compelling but more often frightening.
This is the story of Charles Small, the weak son of a weak father and a domineering mother. The story begins with an acid-etched description of the book's main character as a baby and through the early years of his life.
Yisroel Schmutowitz, the father of Charles Small, married Millie Moss in the early part of the Twentieth Century. Out of this union was born a daughter, Priscilla, and the son, Charles. When Yisroel met Millie, he was a lowly cobbler. Millie, ably backed by her family, turned Yisroel into a successful shoe shop proprietor, and thus the stage was set for a domineering woman to drive a mild and weak man forward in life. The only thing wrong with this plan was that the life cut out for him was in reality dull and shabby.
Yisroel sought release from these barriers, but found it only in his friendship with a wealthy hunchback, Sully Schwartz, in whom he found terrifying adventure and fabulous success, if only in his own mind.
Charles Small emerged into a changing existence strongly affected by the family life in which he had been brought up. He loved one woman but married another because of his mother's demands. He became successful in business but unsuccessful in making a happy marriage with the woman he did not love. The woman he loved married a sanctimonious lecher her mother had chosen. That she and Charles Small still loved each other is frankly admitted.
With, perhaps, one eye on the sale of the book to a motion picture company, Mr. Kersh brings "The Thousand Deaths of Mr. Small" to a happy conclusion by reuniting the lovers. While this ending will probably delight many feminine readers, it is not quite in keeping with the general theme of the novel. Mr. Kersh has written a brilliant book and his readers will undoubtedly find it absorbing and strange, yet a little hard to read.

will present Adam Gurno, program at 8:30 p.m. follow-George Robert Frank Mitterler ed by Your Hit Parade at 9 and Edward Edson at 11:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 22, and coming film star Betty Hutton, as guest of Archie Gardner, on Duffy's Tavern at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 21, 1950. The Shadow deals with fifth-column activities in the country at 9 p.m. on Sunday. Benning Bandbox

By May Pigott

AT THE PRESENT TIME, TEEN-AGERS HAVE A HARD road to travel, since their age group has had the white heat of publicity spotlighted on them. The road between being a child and a grown-up is fraught with many pitfalls and there is a constant fight to stay well-balanced.

To some people, all teenagers are a bunch of hoodlums, they are a bunch of angels. To the teen-agers themselves they are just a bunch of healthy, normal kids trying to accomplish this business of growing up with as little fuss as possible.

It is true that some teen-agers have caused a lot of trouble with their carelessness, and today one of the gravest problems facing parents in the question of juvenile delinquency.

Fort Benning, a community in itself, took stock of the delinquency question, and the teen-agers themselves, with the help of parents, interested persons and the chaplains of the post, did something about it.

Approximately five years ago, a little band of teen-agers got together and formed a group, known simply as Brats. This little group, composed of the children of both officers and enlisted men, has grown in strength until it is now an up and coming organization. In a very business like way, they are governed by elected officers and a board of governors, whose duties and functions are defined by the constitution and by-laws of the club.

THEY HAVE THEIR OWN BUILDING FOR THEIR ACTIVITIES, titled Brat Barracks. Since the group is purely social in its activities, it is the duty of the officers and governing board to plan the future functions for the group. Most of their activities take place on Friday and Saturday nights, but the Barracks is open on Wednesday night also. Their parties include a variety of things from hay rides, game nights, Sadie Hawkins and square dances to formal dances at either the Barracks or the Officers' Mess. Summer time is mostly taken up with out-of-door activities.

A valuable asset to the group and Brat Barracks is Mrs. Esther Carson, who takes care of the building, stays there from the time it opens until closing time, plans refreshments, helps with parties and, in general, keeps a firm hand on the group. The officers and board of governors are always on the lookout for new ideas to improve the organization and to keep the members interested. At present, they have a motion before the board of governors to do renovation work on the barracks. Also under discussion is a new policy in connection with dealing with those members who break the rules concerning rowdiness and courtesy at Brat Barracks. Their plan is to have a board of teen-agers, before which the infringer will be brought and dealt with, thereby making the members more conscious of discipline.

THEIR MOST AMBITIOUS PLAN FOR THE FUTURE IS THE starting of a weekly newspaper which will include stories, features, editorials and a personal column on the doings of members of the group. The Brats will do the work and put the paper together, with the help of Sgt. James O. Henley of Lawson Air Force Base.

The chaplains of the post have spent a great deal of time with this group, lending assistance and encouragement in all undertakings. When asked to chaperone, most of the parents enjoy the activities almost as much as the children. Brat Barracks is supported by funds contributed by the Community Chest and other organizations on the post, and by dues from its members.

Most of the teen-agers are proud of their organization. They enjoy the activities planned for them and take advantage of every opportunity to meet with their friends. There is a type of entertainment to please everybody. They definitely dislike the boys and girls who have a tendency to get out of hand and cause a disturbance at any of their functions.

THE PRESENT OFFICERS, WHO WILL SERVE A TERM OF three months, are Alvin Kellick, president; Pat McCrain, vice-president; Nancy Wells, secretary, and Peggy McCrain, entertainment chairman.

Some of our large cities would do well to follow in the footsteps of Fort Benning, its parents and its teen-age group, which is teaching its members a sense of responsibility and the know-how of being the grown-ups of tomorrow.

Pvt. Frances P. Bahamonde

Meet Miss Benning..

THE MISS BENNING TITLE RESTS EASILY this week on the slender shoulders of Pvt. Frances P. Bahamonde, a dancing daughter of the state of Connecticut, who was a clerk typist and billing machine operator before she came into the Army.

Frances' current assignment is in Headquarters, First battalion, Student Training regiment, where she works as a clerk typist. This diminutive miss has only one hobby: tap dancing. In fact, tap dancing is practically the most important thing in her life. Most any night the staccato tapping of dancing feet can be heard in the WAC day room-and that will be Frances, hard at work to keep limber and abreast of the latest in tap dancing.

POSSIBLY HER ONE HOBBY ACCOUNTS for her partiality to musicians, which she scans with interest if dancing is on the agenda. Being sensitive to music and rhythm, she likes all types of music, depending on her mood. Frances loves evening clothes and hates on the color blue.

She is very proud that she could put her dancing toes to good use, in civilian life. She was the darling of the Army hospitals in her area where she danced professionally, and gave generously of her talents to various USO shows and the Red Cross. Even with all the time given for various shows, she still found some to teach dancing, and is justly proud that she had a chance to perform for the Cancer Drive at Stanley Arena in her home town of New Britain, Conn.

VITAL DATA ON THE PETITE DANCER include blonde hair, worn in a medium cut with curly bangs, and laughing green eyes. She chalks up five feet and one inch of vitality.

Her very definite plans for the future include staying in the Army and trying to get into the Special Services branch as a dancer.

Frit, as she is nicknamed, claims that tap dancing has the top place in her life right now, but then you never can tell when an attractive green-eyed blonde will change her mind.

New Favorite Menus

This week's menu is submitted by Mrs. Carl E. Frisby, wife of Maj. Frisby, of Columbus and Fort Benning. This one dish meal is economical as well as appetizing.

FAMILY SPECIAL BEEF PIE
FRESH FRUIT FOR DESSERT ICED TEA OR COFFEE
FAMILY SPECIAL BEEF PIE (serves 4)
1 lb. ground beef	1 small can mushrooms
1 large onion	1 small can tomato sauce
1 carrot	1-4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 medium potatoes	2 teaspoons salt
1 celery stalk	2 tablespoons bacon fat
Cook diced onion, diced potatoes and meat in bacon fat for 3 or 4 minutes, tossing constantly with fork until lightly brown; add chopped celery, grated carrot, mushrooms and tomato sauce; add seasoning and mix well. Cover and simmer 18 minutes. Take any standard biscuit dough mix, add 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 teaspoon pepper and mix with tomato juice or sauce instead of milk.
Roll dough fairly thin and spread on a well greased baking dish, put meat mix in pastry lined dish, cover with a thin topping of dough dotted with margarine (add bits in a bit oven if it turns dry). Bake over meat in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Let over meat may be substituted for ground beef. Add cooked peas if this is done.

Pine Lodge Has Second Dance Of Harvest Series

The second of the September "Harvest Moon" dance was held at the Pine Lodge NCO Mess on Saturday night with some 500 in attendance.

Merle Garrett and her Georgians provided music for the dance. A high-light of the evening was the releasing of 100 multi-colored balloons from the ceiling of the building, many of them containing cash prizes.

It was the second in the series of "Harvest Moon" dances to be held on each Saturday night in September at the Pine Lodge Mess. The management of the mess has again extended an invitation for members of the mess, their families and guests to attend these affairs. Sgt. Sam McCracken and the Pine Lodge orchestra will provide the music for the "Harvest Moon" dance to be held next Saturday night.

A portion of the second "Harvest Moon" dance was recorded in Review show at 8:15 p.m. over radio station WRBL this Saturday.

Smetana Moldau On Record Hour

The Moldau, one of the best known works of Smetana, will be among the trio of classics on the program for the Tuesday evening record concert at the Main Club on Saturday night, with about 20 couples at the club house.

Each was given a list of hard to find articles and a paper sack and were told to return with them. Teen-agers were hustling all over the post trying to see who could return first. After all returned, refreshments and dancing were enjoyed with music furnished by the juke box.

The party was planned by the social chairman, Peggy McCrain and her committee, Jane Howard, Carol Howard, Ann Roy Halloran, Majorie Nash, Edwin Dolcet and James Mayberry. A swimming party has been planned for Sept. 22, the last of the summer.

Airborne Cadre Will Entertain

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELIK
Bayonet Sports Editor

Congratulations are in order for Manager Dot Smith and her girls at the WAC detachment for their outstanding showing at the Third Army Women's softball tournament staged at Fort McPherson this week.

Under Dot's leadership, the girls have unfailingly turned out for after duty hour practice sessions and have been transformed from a seeming quagmire of hands and feet into a smooth, efficiently operating ball team.

Although almost continually faced with the problem of replenishing her depleting ranks, Dot, with the assistance of several veteran teammates, has managed to keep the team together and send the squad to the meet.

It was team number three which finally finished out the season and represented Benning in the first Third Army Women's Softball tournament.

At the time of this writing, the Benning girls have won both of their scheduled games, but there could be no doubt as to the final outcome of the tourney, considering the one sided scores by which Benning had won both games.

The Bowling Scene

Although the coming bowling season is but a hop, skip and jump away, Third Army hasn't as yet released its master memo for the 1950-1951 year. However, it is expected to arrive any day now, and with it the long-awaited signal for opening Fort Benning competition.

Benning bowlers have quite a favorable reputation in Third Army kegling circles, and are expected to be favorites in the Third Army tournament held annually in the spring.

It's encouraging to note that many of last year's top pin stars are back again this year, only awaiting the go signal.

Who's Next?

Smiling face could be seen again down at the third court this week. The reason was the 3440th ASU's triumph over the Infantry School Detachment in the post intramural horseshoe tournament, held here last week. The 3440th, saddened earlier by loss of the post softball crown, avenged the defeat by their blood rivals from ISD in neat fashion by almost completely dominating the horseshoe meet.

Majority of the credit can be placed in the laps of three ABUs who almost single handedly won the tournament. They were Deaver Adkins, Carmen J. Piccirilli and Ed Reese. Adkins completely dominated the singles competitions which he won from pre-tourney favorite, Hal Grinols of ISD while Piccirilli and Reese easily copped the doubles championship. After the quarter finals there was little doubt as to who would win the meet. The ASU boys really put everything they had into the show. They couldn't afford to lose again.

Latest From The Grapevine

Rumor has it that Benning's $600,000 Briant Wells Health house may open its doors again in the near future. The ultra-modern gymnasium, which was open for a short while after its completion, has been closed to post personnel for the last several months due to a lack of qualified athletic instructors.

The swimming pool, which is automatically heated, has already been opened and will be available to post personnel during the coming winter months.

Post Wacs Win Softball Title

Defeat Bragg in Finals For Third Army Trophy

Climaxing a highly successful season, the Fort Benning Wac softball team combined outstanding pitching with timely hitting Tuesday night for an 8-2 victory over Fort Bragg to win the first Third Army Women's Softball tournament at Fort McPherson.

Immediately after the tourney, Brig. Gen. Claude B. Farnsworth, newly appointed chief of staff for the Third Army, presented the Third Army trophy and the commanding general's rotating trophy to the Fort Benning team.

Benning's wonder pitcher, Rusty Roos, scored her third triumph of the meet when the Benningites backed up some almost flawless moundsmanship and pounded out a total of 13 base hits off of a pair of Bragg hurlers in the final game of the tourney.

Starting Bragg pilot, "Speed" Curran, was relieved early in the game after the Benning girls unleashed a barrage of hits. Reliever "Mac" McIssac was also unable to stem the fury of the Benning attack, which included two home runs by third baseman Elizabeth Sanderson and backstop Dot Smith.

Roos gives six hits, although they lost the game, managed to keep Roos for six scattered hits. In the initial encounter of the tourney, the Benning Wacs demonstrated their diamond prowess by soundly trouncing Fort McPherson, 14-5, to the amazement of a host of McPherson fans.

Capitalizing on 14 Atlanta errors, the Benning girls drove in their 14 runs on 11 hits, several of which went for extra bases.

The Benning hurler, Rusty Roos, went the limit for the Benningites and rationed out eight scattered bingles for a successful seven innings on the mound.

In the second game, Roos teamed up with moundmate, Elizabeth Sanderson, to register Fort Benning's second victory of the tournament by dumping pretourney favorite Camp Gordon, 14-4, in a one-sided match staged Sunday afternoon. The Roos-Sanderson combine proved to be too strong for the Gordontonites, who were able to gather only three bingles for the afternoon at the plate.

Starting as a pitcher, Sanderson went the limit for the Benningites in the second Third Army softball tournament which is being conducted at Fort McPherson, and which ends tomorrow.

QUESTION: WHAT TYPE OF PLAN DO YOU USE FOR SAVING AND WHY DID YOU CHOOSE THAT PARTICULAR TYPE?

CAPT. SPURGEON LEDFORD, COMPANY B, INFANTRY SCHOOL detachment: I have a few Savings Bonds, but that is all I have. I buy them once in a while, and I choose that type of saving money because they pay 4 for 3. You know when you put your money into them that it will be safe as long as the government is.

CPL. ROBERT WOODAN, COMPANY B, INFANTRY SCHOOL detachment: Savings Bonds are the only savings I have. I picked that way because it is less trouble and it is the safest way and you get a better return on them.

CAPT. PHILLIP VETRONA, TRAINING CAMP NO. 1: I choose the monthly allotment going straight to the bank. It is more or less compulsory saving, and if I don't have the money I won't spend it.

SGT. SAMUEL E. CLARK, TRAINING CAMP NO. 1: I have no plan and am just trying to get out of debt. I have just married and all my money is spent for necessities.

PVT. JAMES O. WATSON, FOOD SERVICE SCHOOL: I also have the allotment taken out and sent to my mother. If she ever needs money she'll have it to use, and if I need the money she can send it to me.

PFC. GEORGE HUMELINE, FOOD SERVICE SCHOOL: I have a voluntary allotment that is sent to the bank each month. It makes it easier on me. If I get the money I'll spend it. Now when something comes up and I need money, it's there for me.

Plan School Aid For Casualty War Of Korean War

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Plans for the establishment of a fund to finance scholarships in U. S. colleges and universities for the children of American Service personnel killed in the Korean conflict will be the principal aim of the Armed Forces in Korea Association at their second reunion at Fort George G. Meade, Md., on Oct. 7. The fund will be established in memory of Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, 24th Infantry Division Commander reported lost in action early in the Korean campaign. It will be known as the Maj. William F. Dean Memorial Fund. The association is composed of military and civilian personnel who served with the Army in Korea prior to June, 1950.

Round-the-clock news service in the form of a twice-daily news letter has been established by the Troop Information and Education section along with a 24-hour United Press leased wire service, bringing to Fort Benning the latest developments in the Korean war along with all other happenings.

The new wire service is a direct line from the UP bureau in Atlanta, and is being utilized in the publication of a twice-daily mimeographed news sheet containing flashes of international, national and other happenings. Attention is being given to last minute dispatches from the Korean war front, news concerning the advance of communism, non-partisan political news and sports, according to Capt. Edward F. Grady, I&E officer.

Latest news developments after the regular 8 a. m. news broadcasts will be released in the morning edition, which will be distributed about 10:00 o'clock. The afternoon edition will be released at 2:30 o'clock.

I MUST GO TO TOWN. MISS LORNA, WILL YOU GO ALONG?

WELL, I'D GLAD TO, BUT I'LL BE READY IN A MINUTE.

I'M SO FINALLY HUNGRY I'M HAPPILY BEGINNING TO WANT MY COMPANIONSHIP!

I ASKED JABBER FIRST, BUT HE COULDN'T MAKE IT! I'D SOONER HAVE YOU ALONG, THOUGH, MISS LORNA!

OH, WELL... I'M GLAD YOU PREFER ME!

YES, THIS TRUCK BOUNCES SO WHEN IT'S NOT LOADED DOWN, AND YOU WEIGH MORE THAN JABBER!

WELL, BOYS, I'LL WHEN YOU WERE YOUNG, MOTHER, OR WERE THEY FORTIC AND ROMANTIC?

WELL... TAKE YOUR FATHER, FOR INSTANCE, HE WAS TERRIBLY SWEET AND SENTIMENTAL, AND YOU KNOW I THINK THE YEARS HAVE MELLOWED HIM EVEN MORE!

YESTERDAY I SAW HIM LEAFING THROUGH AN OLD COLLEGE YEARBOOK, AND JUST LOOK AT HIM NOW, PROBABLY LOOKING FOR THE FAMILY ALBUM...

OH, THERE YOU ARE, DORIS! I'VE NOTICED THAT THESE BOOKS BELONG TO PRETTY CROWD, HOW ABOUT TOSING OUT THESE OLD YEARBOOKS?

STRICTLY FRESH

A NEW YORK tycoon says his rise to stock market fame started with sales on the curb. That's one way to get out of the gutter.

A Cleveland theater advertised this double-feature: "All Quiet on the Western Front" AND "Roar, Navy, Roar." Patrons won't know whether to shout or shut up.

An Indianapolis paper reports daily the pollen count per cubic yard of air. We wonder in whose yard they do the counting.

A Maryland toper was picked up and charged with being "drunk and disorderly," as he reeled into a race horse park. Guess he'd already had his daily double.

A man in Columbus, O., was rushed to the hospital with blinded eyes which doctors diagnosed as conjunctivitis. He has been watching wrestling. Bet one of the corner wrestlers got him.

Fighter, Bomber Groups To Be Based At Lawson

Tactical Units Slated To Arrive Next Month

A new tactical unit composed of Air National Guard organizations from three states will be brought to Lawson Air Force base this month to be federalized after being called into active service. They will arrive between Oct. 10 and Oct. 20.

Arrival of the organization at the Lawson base was announced by Maj. Richard O. Johnson, base commanding officer. He said the main units would be the 106th Fighter squadron from Birmingham, Ala. 117th Fighter group headquarters, Birmingham, Ala. 157th Fighter squadron, Columbia, S. C. 112th Light Bomber squadron,

Cleveland, Ohio. The fighter groups all will be equipped with F-51 fighter planes, the improved successor to the P-51 Mustang II fame, while the bomber unit will be equipped with B-26s which have been operating with great efficiency in the Korean theater. The main groups will be supported by:

217th Air Service group headquarters, the 160th Utility flight, 160th Weather Station unit, and Detachment B, 274th Air Service group, all of Birmingham; the 157th Utility flight, 157th Weather Station unit and Detachment B, 216th Air Service group, all from Columbia, S. 2 Assignments Made to Staff of Infantry School

Two new appointments to the staff of the Infantry School have been announced by school officials.

Lt. Col. William Austin Duncan has been named secretary and Lt. Col. Bruce Palmer Jr., director of instruction. Colonel Duncan has been stationed at Fort Benning for the last two years and during that time has been an instructor in and assistant director of the associate basic infantry courses. He has also acted as librarian for the Infantry School.

Before coming here, Colonel Palmer was in charge of the Command and General Staff college, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. During his military career he has served in Australia, New Guinea and Japan with the 32nd Infantry division. His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit and Bronze Star and the Purple Heart medals.

Colonel Palmer replaces Lt. Col. William J. McCaffrey who has been ordered to duty overseas. The new director of instruction, Colonel Palmer, has recently completed one year's service with the Tactical department of the Infantry School. He came to Fort Benning from Governor's Island, N. Y. where he was with Headquarters of the First Army, G-3 section.

Colonel Palmer served in New Guinea and the Philippine Islands during World War II with the Sixth Infantry division and was awarded the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star medal, Air Medal and Purple Heart. He is a member of the Army Extension Course, Airborne Training Publications and Automotive departments. He graduated from the Infantry School in 1945.

At the conclusion of his visit to Fort Benning, General O'Daniel plans to go to California to join his wife, who is visiting a daughter there.

FORMER COMMANDER VISITS FORT BENNING
Maj. Gen. John O'Daniel (left) is greeted by Col. C. H. Karlstad, Chief of Staff

Post Inspected By Gen. O'Daniel

A complete survey of the organization and activities of the Infantry School was completed today by Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, who is visiting Fort Benning this week for a tour of Infantry training facilities.

The general was recently recalled from Moscow, where he has been serving as military attache, to work with Gen. Mark Clark, Fort Monroe, Va., on plans to speed up Army training. For the past three days, General O'Daniel, commander of the Army's largest infantry post at Fort Benning from 1945 until June, 1948, has been participating in an intensive schedule of conferences and seminars with representatives from an department of the Infantry School.

See Demonstrations. In addition to the discussion sessions, General O'Daniel witnessed demonstrations of the latest infantry weapons and equipment and was briefed on the newest developments in the methods of infantry warfare. General O'Daniel arrived at Lawson Air Force base Monday evening and shortly thereafter conferred with Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center Commander.

Tuesday the general and his party saw firing demonstrations at Pond 3, English range and Lae field. At noon Tuesday they were guests of General Burress at an official luncheon at the Main Officers' Mess with a group of visiting Allied newspaper editors. Later in the day the group attended an equipment demonstration at the Sandy Patch test area.

Group Conferences. Yesterday General O'Daniel participated in a group of conferences including briefings by the director of instruction, the chief of the research and analysis branch and representatives from the Allied liaison office. During the afternoon he talked with directors of the Weapons, Tactical and Communications departments.

This morning following a series of seminars with directors from the Staff department, Army Extension Course, Airborne Training Publications and Automotive departments, the general attended a conference and demonstration by the Weapons department at Hook Range. At the conclusion of his visit to Fort Benning, General O'Daniel plans to go to California to join his wife, who is visiting a daughter there.

Reopen Course For Pathfinders

Twenty-five qualified paratroopers selected for their outstanding ability in airborne work will receive instruction in the latest developments in airborne equipment, as well as in advanced radar, electronics and navigation. The course will be held at Fort Benning from Nov. 2 and 3. Graduation date for the course has been set for Nov. 2 and 3. The course will be held at Fort Benning from Nov. 2 and 3.

Post to Care For Wounded From Korea

Fort Benning prepared today to receive hundreds of wounded soldiers and make major expansions to its hospital by December. The post hospital has been ordered to increase its facilities by 1,000 beds within two months, according to reports from Washington.

Casualties from the Korean battlefront will begin arriving within the next few days, Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commander of the Infantry Center, said. The exact number to be sent here is not yet known. The Army urgently needs a large number of hospital attendants, grades GS-1, to take care of additional patients. The jobs pay $2,200 a year.

Additional workers may be needed to help expand telephone and telegraph facilities at the hospital. Col. Gen. Robert B. Hill, post surgeon and commander of the hospital, said the increased communication facilities would be used to notify relatives and friends of the identity of the wounded received at Fort Benning. This information is not yet known, he said, but the men themselves are not yet known. Representatives will notify friends and relatives shortly after the casualties arrive.

The general asked that inquiries be made at present. Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) announced in Washington yesterday that Fort Benning would add 500 hospital beds in October and 1,500 more in November. Scores of doctors and nurses are expected to be transferred here to give medical treatment to the wounded. About 1,500 additional physicians will be called into service in the overall program at the post.

The Department of Defense confirmed Rep. Vinson's announcement according to AP.

Visiting Editor's Inspect Benning

Fifteen Allied nations' newspaper editors representing 14 different countries visited Fort Benning Tuesday as a part of a tour of the United States sponsored by the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The group arrived here by motor from Atlanta and was greeted by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander.

Following a brief orientation tour on the organization of the Infantry Center and the Infantry School, the visitors were honored by General Burress at an official luncheon at the Officers' Mess. Brig. Gen. George Honen, assistant commander of the Infantry School and Maj. Gen. O'Daniel, post commander, now visiting the Infantry Center also were present.

See Firing Demonstration. After lunch the party proceeded to Patton range to witness firing of 37 mm and 76 mm recoilless rifles and rocket launchers. Later the visitors toured the Airborne Test Center, where they inspected the packing and parachute assembly and saw training and free falls from the 250-foot training towers. Later in the afternoon the editors left for Warm Springs to visit the Little White House and the Warm Springs Foundation. From there they returned to Atlanta to fly to Houston, Tex., the next scheduled stop on the tour, designed to familiarize the group with the United States.

Col. Lister Named New British Liaison Officer

Lt. Col. Derek W. Lister, British Army, has been named British Liaison officer to Army Headquarters at Fort Benning. Colonel Lister came to the United States over a year ago as a student at the Infantry School. He is a member of the Legion of Merit and has received his promotion to lieutenant colonel.

Only 5 Feet Tall, Shoes 3 1/2, But Reservist Is All Soldier

By LESLIE ODELL
The smallest " Doughfoot" in the whole army — literally and figuratively—belongs to the 888th Ordnance Depot company, reserve unit stationed in the Harmony Church area.

Only five feet tall "with shoes on," Pvt. Curtis Henderson, from Anniston, Ala., says that so far as he knows he has no competition for the title of the smallest soldier in this branch of the Armed Forces.

Although "he tips the scales" at a mere 55 pounds "soaking wet," Private Henderson appears to be pure muscle. He has no trouble at all keeping up with the rest of the company, even on marches with full gear.

Second Army Hitch
This is Private Henderson's second hitch with the army. He was in for 42 months during World War II, and spent 22 of them serving with the 799th Military Police in Australia. Many people have asked Private Henderson if he had any trouble getting into the Army because of his small size and he says if there is any minimum limit, he hasn't been informed of it.

Clothes are a big problem for the little soldier. He is issued the smallest uniform the Army makes, but it is still more than ample and requires a lot of padding down before he can appear in public. Shoes are another problem. Private Henderson wears size 3 1/2 and he says, "The Army doesn't cater to children."

During his previous tour of duty he was forced to supply his own shoes but this time arrangements are being made for the Army to send in a special order to the manufacturer.

"The only pieces of issue clothing that fitted without alteration were hats and ties," Henderson commented.

Never Has Trouble
Private Henderson says he has never had a bit of trouble "getting along" because of his small size, and that he "can do anything anyone else can do."

"In fact," he stated, "in the work I do, sometimes it's a help not to be too tall. As a carpenter and helper build houses in civilian life and there were plenty of times I could get into small places and do carpentry work that a larger guy couldn't do."

Nick - named him, naturally. "Shorty," Private Henderson always has no doubt who the other members of the company want when they shout for him, but he wears a resigned expression when he answers and shows out loud for a more original appellation. Shorty—that is, Private Henderson—claims that shortness is not at all unusual in his family, although he does have a brother who is about 5 feet ten—but he stretches."

Henderson is the father of three children. "All of them very young too—the oldest is only four years old."

Private Henderson volunteered for active duty when the 888th Ordnance Depot company was being activated the first of this month.

Capt. John P. Mealing, former Third division ordnance officer, and reservist, is well satisfied with his organization, which has 75 per cent veterans of World War II. He says the organization has a theatre of operation in its make up.

One of the few class A reserve units in phase of their training and rated at the top in the Third Army, the 888th was among the first to be called to active duty.

This organization when called to service, not only took men away from Anniston who had earned the D.S.C. and many other medals, but also left the Jacksonville State college, winner of Pensacola's Paper Bowl contest the last two years in dire need of help, by taking three of its football players, its athletic publicity director, and ten students.

Not scheduled to start basic training until Sept. 5, these men already have two weeks of work behind them, and have trained

Pair of Courses Established By Automotive Unit

Two new courses will be presented by the Automotive department of the Infantry School this year, Maj. James B. Bartholomew, executive officer, announced today.

The new courses are replacing the automotive maintenance and supervisor's courses in the department of efficiency, Major Bartholomew said.

A ten-week unit motor mechanics course to train OIA's will begin Oct. 2. The class will have a capacity of 75 students and will provide instruction on motor mechanics with emphasis on the care and maintenance of the vehicles of an infantry regiment. The course will be presented eight times this school year.

A unit motor sergeants' course will begin Nov. 1, according to Major Bartholomew, and will last six weeks. The purpose of the course is to provide instruction in administration, leadership and military education as distinguished from a purely mechanical course. This course will be presented four times during the school year. Student quota for the class is 50 men.

Personnel interested in attending either of the courses may receive further information by contacting their company commander, Major B. Bartholomew said.

Two ASU Officers Given New Duties

Appointment to new duties of two officers of the Area Service Unit Provisional group were announced this week by Col. Maurice L. Miller, commander.

Second Lt. Fred P. Welborn has been named assistant adjutant for Provisional group headquarters at Camp Alfred H. Chappell has been named motor officer for the 15th Quartermaster Battalion.

Academic Duties For Three TIS Men

Three enlisted men of the Infantry School were assigned duties this week with the Academic department.

They were Pvt. Walter R. Baranski, Company C, who is working in the Training Publications department, Pvt. Walter J. Klein, Company B, Communications department, and Sgt. Robert L. Simmons, Company C, Weapons department.

Abma Family Lives at Post Dreaming of Holland Trip

Family Portrait

Sixteen years ago a young soldier from Holland met and married a young Kentucky belle in her home town. Today they are known as M-Sgt. and Mrs. Geert Abma, and their one big dream is to take their three attractive children to Holland to see the Abma family living there.

The Abmas live at 503 Gaines street in Columbus, Ga. Mrs. Abma is the NCO in charge of rail transportation, while Bessie Abma takes care of the house and three active children. And speaking of the children, each was born at a different station at their father traveled about during his Army career.

They have been settled at Benning for something like ten months, having returned to the States from a duty tour in Hawaii. All the family, including the children, fell in love with Hawaii and wish they could have stayed there a little longer, but since they have started to school, believe they will like Benning fine.

CAROL, OLDEST OF THE three children is brunette, 14-years-old and attends Columbus High School. She says to just give her time to get out of school, and then she will make up her mind just what profession to follow, though she admits that art is one of her hobbies, and dancing and swimming are her favorite pastimes.

Next on the list is dainty, blonde, 10-year-old Josephine, who has a hobby of collecting hobbies. Her unshaken desire when she grows up is to be—of all things—a veterinarian. And then the youngest, blonde Loren Edward, is five years old in his first year at kindergarten and likes it very much. Loren says he has no particular ambitions or dreams about what to do when he is grown. Right now, baseball tops the list of his likes.

Each of the children has a good idea of the duties of the post. The Abmas haven't done much entertaining here, but they have a large group of friends and they the regulars for a little over 23 years.

It has been 27 years since Geert Abma left Holland, 17 years since he has seen his brothers and sisters still living there.

Sgt. Abma didn't go overseas during the last war, and spent most of this time during those years at Fort Knox, Ky., where he was in the Communications department of the Armored School. This was a priority job and he was glad to be able to help along those lines, but thinks that had he been in the European theater he might possibly have gotten to Holland.

LIKE MOST FAMILIES, THE Abmas have great plans and dreams for the future. But foremost among them all is the dream of going to Holland to meet relatives there.

Bessie Young Abma, an attractive brown-eyed brunette, says she has no time for hobbies because her children and house keep her busy. Sgt. Abma says he would devote much of his spare time to woodwork if he stayed in one place long enough to get organized.

One of the Abmas' favorite foods list is a dish with the recipe brought from Holland, consisting of potatoes, lettuce, bacon and other ingredients, which as Mrs. Abma says, doesn't sound very good but is wonderful to

About the only trips the Abma family takes are to Litchfield, Ky., Mrs. Abma's home town. The children love to go there and visit with their relatives, and as far as the trips are concerned, they have no special ones in mind, except of course, the trip to Holland.

SINCE THEY LIVE IN THE Block 12 area, they are fond of going to the Block 12 NCO club, favorite gathering place for families in the section of the post. The Abmas haven't done much entertaining here, but they have a large group of friends and they like nothing better than a "get together" or to have a few of those friends in for dinner. Guests are always feasted with some treasured recipe from Holland on that occasion.

'Bama Reserves Out For Honors

Called to active duty because of the Korean situation, the 888th Ordnance Depot company, a reserve unit from Anniston, Ala., has moved into the Harmony Church area and dug in.

Their new commander, Capt. John P. Mealing, former Third division ordnance officer, and reservist, is well satisfied with his organization, which has 75 per cent veterans of World War II.

He says the organization has a theatre of operation in its make up.

One of the few class A reserve units in phase of their training and rated at the top in the Third Army, the 888th was among the first to be called to active duty.

Not scheduled to start basic training until Sept. 5, these men already have two weeks of work behind them, and have trained their recruits, numbering 22, so well that it is hard for an outsider to pick them out from the others during close order drill.

The recruits, as well as the officers and veterans of both wars comprising this organization, have adopted the philosophy of finishing their period in service as one of the best companies that has ever trained at Fort Benning.

They realize the job that lies ahead, and are determined to do their part to get it over with, so they can return home to their families, the officers say.

Colonel Pollard Retires Sept. 30

Col. I. R. Pollard, Infantry Center veterinarian, will retire from active status Sept. 30.

Colonel Pollard has been stationed at Fort Benning for one month and recently returned from a two-and-a-half-year tour of duty overseas in the Surgeon's office, General Headquarters, Tokyo.

The colonel has completed 35 years service with the Army, and served in France and Germany with the Third and Fourth divisions during World War I and later with the Army of Occupation.

A graduate of Alabama Polytechnic institute in 1915, Colonel Pollard has also attended the Army Veterinary School at Washington, D. C., and the Medical School at the School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Colonel and Mrs. Pollard plan to make their home in Lovorne, Ala.

Malik's 'Peace Moves' Branded Propaganda

The State Department this week charged Soviet UN Delegate Jacob Malik with making propaganda statements which "smack of the Stockholm Peace Petition." The blast came after Malik declared that he favors a meeting of top leaders of the U.S. and Russia to negotiate for peace. He said also that his government would pledge not to be the first to use the atomic bomb. State Department experts, however, said that "we have had enough of words. What is needed now is action."

Our Obligations As Citizens

Two of the greatest privileges a citizen of our United States possesses are his right to vote and his right to a full, unprejudiced education. Do we, as members of the United States Army, fully appreciate and exercise these privileges? Do we fully realize our obligations and responsibilities as a citizen as completely as we feel those we cherish as Army people?

British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin this week gave his country's stamp of approval to Secretary of State Dean Acheson's proposals for a UN military force, a roving peace patrol and means for convening the General Assembly in 24 hours if the Security Council cannot act. Other countries which have agreed to support the U.S. stand include Nationalist China, the Philippines, Bolivia and Turkey.

Before recessing this week until November 27, the Senate overrode the President's veto of a Communist control bill. Twenty-six Democrats joined 31 Republicans to make the bill a law despite Mr. Truman's contention that it would actually help the Communists and "weaken our liberties."

Speaking in the UN General Assembly this week Dr. Tingfu F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's top delegate, urged the 59 member nations to adjust their minds and machinery as quickly as possible to meet the threat of Communist aggression throughout the world. In a slashing attack, Dr. Tsiang charged that the ultimate

In his first speech as Secretary of Defense, General George Catlett Marshall appealed for universal military training to strengthen U.S. defenses. Speaking at a testimonial dinner for Rep. James Wadsworth, New York Republican, Marshall said that Hitler would not have started World War II and there would be no war fears now if Congress had passed a military training bill sponsored in 1929 by Wadsworth.

Some 'Grounded' Pilots Return to Flying Status

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE
Many of the approximately 1,800 Air Force rated flying officers who were grounded for economic reasons and are now serving in non-flying capacities may soon be reassigned to flight duty. The Air Force has authorized major commanders to return to flying status these rated officers in the grade of major and below, and to recommend to USAF headquarters those colonels and lieutenant colonels qualified. The criteria follows: a. Officers must be qualified and volunteer for flying status. b. They must be potentially qualified for combat. c. Their return to flying status will further the accomplishment of the command's flying mission.

Spiritual Obedience Good Formula for Success

BY CHAPLAIN DANIEL P. JENKINS
In physics man has learned that only in obedience is there power. Obeying physical laws, he can harness the forces of nature. The turbines turned by Niagara, the speed of a jet plane, the roaring might of a Diesel locomotive, all are made possible by the most meticulous study and a complete compliance with physical laws.
In hygiene we learn that only in obedience is there safety. Our lungs command us to breathe air with oxygen in it, and condemn us to death if we disobey. Our stomachs order food, and will be heeded. "I must work the works of Him that sent Me." In the crucial struggle in Gethsemane He prayed, "Not my will, but Thine be done." Paul tells us that He humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross."

intelligent to think we can live as 'demons in our leisure and call on God in our extremity, and obtain the results of humble and obedient children who abide in His will for their life are leadership?
One might suppose that when God became Man He would live according to the caprice of His sovereign will. Not so. The key word in the life of Jesus was "obedience." With His parents in the home we are told, "He was subject unto them." In His temptation every decision was made, "It is written." When He taught He confessed, "My doctrine is not mine, but His that sent Me." Of His acts, "I must work the works of Him that sent Me." In the crucial struggle in Gethsemane He prayed, "Not my will, but Thine be done." Paul tells us that He humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross."

Mohololong, situated on a 7,000 foot plateau in South Africa, now receives air mail service. Formerly its mail was delivered by pack mule.
A guild hall in King's Lynn, England, originally built in 1376, and recently restored, is reputed to be the oldest theater building in all Europe.
New York State has over 20,000 producing oil wells, and Illinois produces about 4,000 acres of cotton annually.

The spiritually superior man is he who is most zealous to know accurately and faithfully the will of God. Nothing in defiance of His will can succeed. Won't you, reader of this simple and humble message, of whatever rank or rating, husband or wife, young man or young woman, resolve to take God's righteous laws and hide them in your hearts, and say "Not my will, but Thine be done."
You will find no better formula for success, in your own private life, or in the Army. You will definitely be a better soldier.

BAVARIAN STORY BY ETHEL MANNIN
APPLETON-CENTURY-CROFT, INC., PUBLISHER
BY ROBERT L. GROOVER
Bavarian Story is a simple and dignified tale of a woman's courage and faith. The locale is Germany. The time is from 1934 to 1946. The story is about Lucia Freyer, a German woman. This is the kind of story that almost every GI who has served in occupied Germany could tell. That he would tell the principals of the story with as much sympathy and understanding is doubtful. That the principals deserve sympathy and understanding will have to be decided by the individual reader.
Although the American veteran of combat duty in Germany during World War II will enjoy reading this book, he is apt to regard it with some skepticism—the kind that sometimes surpasses dignity, faith and understanding.
When the story opens in 1934, Lucia Freyer is a young girl growing into womanhood in a happy household, in a picturesque Bavarian village. She and her family are devout Catholics and deplore the terrors and obscenities of the Nazi regime.
Their trouble in avoiding contact whenever possible with the local Nazi chieftains is fused effectively with an excellent accounting of what life was like under the Nazis.
Lucia Freyer admired a young choir instructor, more because of their similar religious backgrounds than for any other reason. The ways of war separate them, however, and in 1945 a young, Irish-American soldier comes into the life of Lucia Freyer.
Private Michael Gerahy was born in Ireland and his family reminded there still. He has blue-eyes, black curly hair and a charm that few women can resist. Private Gerahy feels a little strange, therefore, when he meets Lucia Freyer, for she treats him with dignity and reserve and asks nothing of him—not even chocolate or cigarettes. He falls hopelessly in love with her though she is not sure she loves him.
She and her family, however do learn to respect him and accept him as a substitute for their son and brother killed while a member of the German army. Lucia Freyer finds it hard to express her love for any man, so heavily were the horrors and difficulties of the Nazi regime stamped in her mind.
It is difficult to consider the Germans as we would our next-door neighbors. The hate of World War II is still too fresh in the minds of many. "Bavarian Story" will make the Freyer family seem close to you, however.

Denning Bandbox

By May Pigott

"ALL WORK AND NO PLAY MAKES JACK A DULL SOLDIER" is the firm belief of the Army. It has been tried and proven that a happy soldier is the best soldier. You might ask "Just what is a happy soldier?" From experience and observation, a happy soldier is one who does his day's work well, then has the opportunity of indulging in his favorite pastime; whether it is the quiet studious type for an evening spent in the library, the athletic type with baseball, football or basketball as the main attraction, or one who likes to take his date or his wife to the service club and meet with his friends.

For that reason, the Army has constructed and opened to post personnel some of the most complete libraries, service clubs and sports arenas to be found. And the Fort Benning NCO Messes are among the best equipped and with the best planned entertainment available.

The Main Post library is completely stocked with the latest in fiction, history, science and any type of educational book desired. It is a quiet, restful place, staffed with a competent librarian and assistants and ready at all times to help with any problems along book lines.

EVERY SOLDIER AT BENNING IS FAMILIAR WITH GOWDY field, Doughboy stadium and the Briant Wells field house, all well-known landmarks on the post. In season, one of the three is the center of attraction for the sports minded personnel.

At both Gowdy field and Doughboy stadium some of the great in baseball and football have played. The Briant Wells field house is the baby of them all, only recently opened, but complete in every detail. This structure houses a swimming pool, and basketball and handball courts. And for those so inclined are the bowling alleys.

It would seem with numerous clubs located in this area there would be no need for other club facilities, but in a post the size of Benning, there are a number of soldiers who have no inclination to go into town to night clubs.

It was with this idea in mind that the commanding general took as one problem was solved, another one cropped up. Ideas for improvements were brought up and tested. The best decision was reached. This has been and still is the policy of the club. Renovations are almost continuous at the clubhouse, since the manager tries to keep the latest and best in equipment and entertainment.

The club is open to married and unmarried personnel alike and is a popular gathering place for off-duty hours. Entertainment is varied, with regularly scheduled game nights, dances and special holiday parties. The roster of famous bands which have played there contains some of the greatest names in the entertainment world, including Blue Baron, Henry Busse, Ted Weems, Gene Krupa, Johnny Long and many others.

IN DECEMBER, 1947, THE BLOCK 12 NCO CLUB OPENED ITS doors with a bang-up dinner dance. This club was planned more along the family lines, and since it is located in the residential section of the post, and is opened only to married first three graders. Though it has not brought any new bands to its parties the entertainment schedule is varied with game nights, dances, special parties and barbecues. This is also a popular gathering place for wives.

Officers of the respective organizations strive constantly to make their clubs pleasant and entertaining places for the soldier, his family and his guests. Both have new, and they hope interesting, plans for the coming fall and winter months.

From the general's idea to provide entertainment and relaxation for the average soldier in his off-duty hours have come two clubs for enlisted personnel which provide the best in meeting, places and entertainment for the soldier stationed at Fort Benning.

Sgt. Mary M. Keefe

Meet Miss Benning..

THE GREEN MOUNTAIN STATE OF VERMONT supplies this week's Miss Benning in the person of Sgt. Mary M. Keefe, who was a baby-nurse before coming into the WAC. Mary's present assignment is clerk in the student officers' 201 file section.

This tiny Miss Benning has three main hobbies and has a hard time deciding just which one she likes best. She is a crossword puzzle fan and loves nothing better than a good puzzle to tease her mind. Then reading is on the agenda of her hobbies and she loves hiking, but admits that she doesn't have as much time for that as she would like.

MARY EXPRESSES A STRONG PREFERENCE for the musical type of movies, and does on spinning-tune, hair raising detective stories. She loves music and admits that popular is her preference. As to her favorite songs, there is such an abundance of good ones she hesitates to name one above the others. She wears a "green" dress and she settles on green as her favorite color.

Sgt. Keefe, who is barracks sergeant, had an interesting army career. First she was assigned recruiting duty in New York City, then saw duty at the Separation Center at Fort Dix, N.J. She has also been overseas in the European Command, having been stationed in Berlin. She claims she could make the slogan of "Join the Army and see the world" true. This young miss has had her share of army schools, having attended Recruiting school at Ft. McPherson, Ga., and the Adjutant General school at Camp Lee, Va.

TINY MARY KEEFE HAS THE HONOR of being our first red-headed Miss Benning and she has blue eyes, so that combination accounts for her choice of favorite color. She stands only five feet and one inch and has a dimple in her left cheek.

Her future plans include travel again, since she has just been alerted for the FECON. From there, she will let the future take care of itself.

LT. AND MRS. THOMAS MCCUNIFF LEAVE CHAPEL

Miss Cornelia Fay Weds Lt. Thomas G. McCuniff

Miss Eunice Cornelia Fay, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Donald A. Fay, became the bride of Lt. Thomas George McCuniff Saturday at six p.m. at the Infantry Center Catholic chapel. Chaplain (Capt.) Dennis F. Murphy performed the ceremony.

The groom is the son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Dennis E. McCuniff of Denver, Colo.

The chapel was lovely in its decorations of white chrysanthemums and gladioli against a profusion of southern smilax. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Willis Osborne. Her selections included "Meditation" from Thais, Schubert's "Serenade," "Liebestraum" by Liszt, and Wagner's "Evening Star." During the ceremony she played Gounod's "Ave Maria," "Pani Angelicus" by Frank, and "Ave Maria" by Schubert.

At the first strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, the groomsmen entered and took their places at the altar. They were Lt. Charles McCarty, Lt. James Morris, Lt. John Neff, Capt. George Wear and Lt. Claude M. McQuarrie.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. George Wear, Miss Helen Moore and Miss Miriam Jaeger. They wore gowns of mint green satin and tulle, designed with strapless satins, bodices with mandarin type boleros. The long waisted satins bodices extended below the waistline and were corded with a deep flounce of green tulle. They wore small hats of matching tulle and carried chrysanthemums in shaded fall colors.

Miss Jessie Honnen was the bride's maid of honor. Her gown of mint green satin and tulle was like those of the maids, and she also carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. She wore a tiny hat of green tulle.

The bride entered with her father, and was met at the altar by the groom and Lt. Harold White, best man. N. C. who served as best man. The bride wore a wedding gown designed with bodice and skirt of type lace over satin with a Peter Pan collar. The lace extended below the waist in a peplum effect. Her long lace sleeves came to points at the hands and the full satin skirt lengthened to form a train. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from a coronet lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and white chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the ceremony Col. and Mrs. Fay entertained with a reception at the Patton house.

Receiving the guests were the hosts, Mrs. McCuniff, mother of the groom; Mrs. B. S. Tritch of Denver, grandmother of the groom, and members of the bridal party.

The reception rooms were decorated with white chrysanthemums and smilax.

The bride's table was overlaid with venetian and cutwork lace cloth and held the four-tiered wedding cake topped with a lace fan and embossed in lilies of the valley and roses. An arrangement of white flowers in silver candelabra and white vases in an antique silver candelabra completed the appointments.

Mrs. Edward White kept the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Fay chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of cinnamon brown crepe and lace and a tiger orchid corsage.

Mrs. McCuniff wore dusty pink satin. Her corsage was of white carnations and roses.

Mrs. Tritch, who was gowned in ivory crepe and wore a white orchid corsage.

The couple left for the evening by plane for a wedding trip to Mexico. Upon their return they will be at home at Custer Terrace. For traveling the bride wore a blue velvet suit with black velvet accessories. A white orchid completed her ensemble.

Among the out of town guests in addition to Mrs. McCuniff and Mrs. Tritch, were Raymond S. Pruitt, Mrs. Helen Logan of New York and Lt. and Mrs. Harold G. Moore of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Chaplain Jenks Will Open 1950 Women's Club Season

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks will deliver the invocation at the opening meeting of the Fort Benning Women's Club's 1950 season on Monday at 2:30 p.m. in the main lounge of the Officers' Mess.

Mrs. Allen Peck, president, will preside and following a brief business meeting a reception and tea will be held. Chairmen of the various groups within the club will make talks to acquaint new members with the special features and functions of each unit. Memberships will be sold at the opening meeting. Third Pine Lodge 'Harvest Moon' Dance Is Held Nearly 500 persons attended the third Pine Lodge NCO Mess "Harvest Moon" dance Saturday night. Music was by Sam McCracken and his Pine Lodge orchestra.

It was one of the series of special "Harvest Moon" affairs scheduled for September.

Over forty couples participated in a conga line that ran throughout the mess building and dance-floor. At midnight, as the orchestra started playing a medley of "moon" songs, a hundred multi-colored balloons were released from the ceiling, many of which contained cash prizes.

The final Harvest Moon dance is scheduled for Saturday night beginning to a close the September series.

Sergeant McCracken and his orchestra will again provide the music, and another 100 balloons will be released, many containing cash prizes. Joyce Jeffries will be the featured vocalist with the McCracken aggregation.

MISS JESSIE HONNEN

Miss Jessie Honnen to Wed Lt. Charles Francis McCarty

Of widespread social interest in Army circles is the announcement by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George Honnen of the engagement of their daughter, Jessie E., to Lt. Charles Francis McCarty, Jr. The marriage will be solemnized in November. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. E. G. Peyton of Atlanta. She attended the University of Hawaii and received her degree from Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn. She has been a popular member of the younger set since moving to Fort Benning with her parents over a year ago.

Col. and Mrs. Ling Have Farewell

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fergus A. H. Ling entertained with a farewell party in the Ladies Lounge at the Officers' Mess on Wednesday. Varied arrangements of late summer flowers decorated the lounge. One hundred guests attended.

Care of Grass Is Outlined By Post Officials

A list of suggestions for the care of grassed areas surrounding government quarters and other buildings was released this week by W. S. Reed, agricultural aide to the post engineer.

Grass on lawns and other small areas trimmed with hand mowers will be mowed no less than once and one-half inches or higher. Grass will be mowed at two and one-half inches or higher on all areas cut with power equipment.

This will preserve a vegetative cover during the winter months, protecting the ground from erosion and mulching the roots of the grasses.

Raking will be done only when necessary, and then only with a lawn rake, fan-shaped with flexible teeth. Leaves will be lightly brushed off the grass with a sweeping motion, leaving the grass and its runners undisturbed. The small leaves may be left and will provide good mulching.

Col. Lucas Holds Party for Guests

Col. Ernest L. Lucas was host at a luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday honoring Dr. Zuckerman and Dr. Robertson from Great Britain and D. Herge.

The luncheon table was centered with late summer flowers. Places were laid for 12 guests.

Shifts Are Made in TIC Courses

Several changes in the length of regular courses at the Infantry School were announced this week by Lt. Col. Bruce Palmer, director of instruction.

The advanced class, which was formerly scheduled to last 37 weeks has been shortened to 30 weeks, and will graduate in April of the students at their next assignments.

Two additional weeks have been added to the training schedules of the Associate Company Officers course and the Associate Advanced class in order to include more hours of instruction on fundamental subjects such as weapons and tactics, according to Colonel Palmer. These classes will now last 15 weeks instead of 13.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

Fort Benning, Home of Champions

"Ho-hum. Another tournament. Another Third Army championship. This is getting to be a habit."

This sarcastic but timely remark was overheard during a cup of hot coffee at the post coffee shop. The murmurer of these optimistic words, who only minutes before learned of the Fort Benning softball victory at Fort McPherson, undoubtedly must have been a very devout Doughboy fan.

WETHER HE WAS OR WASN'T REALLY DOESN'T MAKE much difference. But the fact is what he said, strangely enough, had somewhat of a truthful twist to it.

Without a check through some old copies of The Bayonet, you can take my word for it that in little more than a month's time, Fort Benning has hung up three Third Army championship togas in the closet, not to mention a couple of first places in area and Southeastern pistol competitions.

And, strangely enough, each championship was won by virtue of a Benning victory over Fort Bragg. In August, it was the Third Army basketball crown at stake, which the Doughboys annexed in true Benning fashion with a playful 7-0 whitewash. Two weeks ago it was the matter of an Army area Women's softball crown which the Benning WAC detachment obligingly won from a Bragg female aggregation with a neat 8-2 triumph. And lastly, the Third Army men's softball tournament Bragg so kindly dropped to Benning in last Friday's doubleheader by scores of 2-1 and 3-2.

WETHER THIS IS GETTING TO BE A HABIT OR NOT we wouldn't venture to say. But, we can say we would like to see it become a habit. And although sports activity on the post has become a bit stagnant with the ending of baseball and softball seasons, it's not altogether an impossibility.

There are yet several sports on the Fort Benning agenda for the next couple of months before the next major sport, basketball, starts. Horsehoe pitching is presently taking the spotlight with the post team leaving for the Third Army tournament Monday. Table tennis is next in line, and badminton will be the big attraction in about a month. So it wouldn't be surprising if Fort Benning brings home a few more firsts before the year runs out.

The Biggest Story of 1950?

This week daily newspaper headlines blackened column after column on the results of the first football games of the 1950 season and the Yankees, and the Phillies, chances of winning the pennant. But, down near the bottom of the page, in a two-line head line which a majority of the nation's big time sports writers last January voted would be the biggest story of 1950—the official return of Joe Louis to the ring. Only the day before the fight, did the story make headlines it deserved by virtue of this post.

THE HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE OF THE WORLD WAS AT stake. Why then was so little publicity given to what once was voted might be the biggest story of 1950? As far as we can make it out the answer lies in the popular belief that competition in the heavyweight division has reached its lowest ebb. It is said that the old Brown Bomber is no more and present World Champion Ezzard Charles is champ only until a better man comes along.

Perhaps this is all true. But the fact remains that this was to be a fight for the heavyweight title of the world and it is being fought for by Americans. In addition, Louis is attempting what ring experts say can't be successfully done—a title comeback. There lies the significance of the story.

Today, the world knows the result of this meeting.

Golfing Ladder Time Extended

The original nine-day period for the 35-hole qualification for come, and to establish a relative ranking of players as to golf ability. Normally the ladder provides a basis for selecting a golf team to represent Fort Benning in inter-club matches.

The original deadline of Oct. 1 in the event he should win, he would move into that slot and the loser would drop one. However, should he lose he would be placed at the bottom of the ladder.

The golf ladder is not a new feature of the Country club, being merely a re-justification of an old one. Many golfers have left Fort Benning, and as a result the ladder has been in a rather static condition in the last few months.

The Country club golf course operates as an adjunct of the post and provides an opportunity to play matches with different members of the club, who ordinarily

Doughboy Softball Team Wins Third Army Title

Beats Fort Bragg Twice In Final Tourney Games

Fort Benning captured its second Third Army softball crown in a week Friday night when the Benning nine copped both games of a double-header from Fort Bragg, 2-1 and 3-2, to win the 1950 Third Army Men's Softball tournament at Fort McPherson.

Only four days before, a Benning WAC softball team pinned a 8-2 defeat on a Fort Bragg WAC aggregation to become the first women's softball champions in the Third Army area.

But in comparison, the men's climb to victory was somewhat difficult for the women. The WACs who defeated their three opponents by large margins met practice on position worth mentioning, and won the title with little difficulty.

Almost Lose Out. The Doughboy softballers, on the other hand, almost lost sight of the winners' laurels early in the meet by losing their initial tilt to the power-laden stickmen from Fort Bragg. The other four games they won, however.

In the final two deciding contests of the tournament, Bragg errors were the determining factor for all but one of the five Benning runs.

Big gun for the Benning squad in the tournament was ironman, John Wyatt, who went the limit in the hurling department in all but one of the five games they contested and homered the first ball pitched to him.

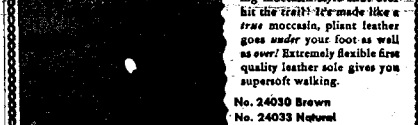

Four-hit Opens. In the opening tilt of last Friday's twin-bill, he limited the Braggmen to four bingles, and only three in the second. Although losing the initial contest of the tournament to Bragg 5-3, Wyatt more than made up for the loss with Friday's twin win and an 8-2, 3-hit triumph over Atlanta General Depot the day before.

Moundsman Warren Langley accounted for the other Benning victory with a 3-0 shutout over Fort McPherson, Thursday. Langley rained out two scattered base hits for his successful seven innings on the hill.

The final outcome of the tournament, which was strictly a Benning-Bragg affair from the start, was decided on the field.

Col. Marshall To Retire Post

Col. Roy E. Marshall, commander of the First battalion, Student Training regiment, will retire from active duty the end of this month.

Colonel Marshall has been stationed at Fort Benning since July, 1948, and prior to that served at Fort Richardson, Alaska where he was post executive officer and later commanding officer of U. S. troops, Fort Richardson.

A native of Manhattan, Kan., Colonel Marshall received his commission in 1922, the Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. in 1942 and the division refresher course at Fort Benning in 1942.

Stewart's offerings for a four base circuit. The final score, 3-2. After the tournament, Col. George M. MacMullin, deputy post commander for McPherson, presented the commanding general's trophy and the Third Army trophy to the Fort Benning softball champs. Leather traveling bags were later presented to each member.

Warning Given On Woods Peril

With a large number of Fortis placing "open well" signs Benning hunters expected to answer the call of the wild here next month when the hunting season opens, the Post Safety Office this week warned hunters to be on the look out for deserted open wells.

Norman Evans, safety director, in a pre-season warning to hunters and campers planning trips on the reservation are advised to consult the safety office as to the location of these danger spots. A huge wall map will be placed in the registration office of the Provost Marshal section giving the location of such places.

TO GET MORE PAY MANILA (AFPS)—President Elpidio Quirino told 1,200 Korean-bound Philippine troops here recently that they should regard Korea as "the battle front of the Philippines." At the same time, the Philippines President announced a pay increase for the troops from 20 to 25 pesos ($25 monthly) while overseas.

Captain Fannin Athletic Officer

Capt. William C. Fannin, a well known figure in Fort Benning sports circles for nearly 20 years, this week was appointed Infantry Center athletic and recreation officer to succeed 1st Lt. James F. Reid who was named theater officer.

Captain Fannin, formerly Sfc. Fannin and a member of the ORC, was recalled to active duty last Friday in his present rank to fill the position vacated by Lieutenant Reid.

With over 23 years service in the Army, Captain Fannin has been associated with Fort Benning sports for 18 years. Joining the Army here in 1928, he rose quickly from the rank of private to technical sergeant. While at Benning, the captain in addition to his normal duties, has served as labor foreman and assistant construction foreman during the construction of many of the soldier - constructed enterprises.

Such as Doughboy stadium, the Children's school, Russ pool, the golf course and the post bowling alleys.

Actively Engaged

During the years preceding World War II, Captain Fannin was actively engaged in many soldier sports. He was noted mainly for his accomplishments in the coaching of baseball, basketball and volleyball teams.

Most noted of these were the Fort Benning boxing team which won six championships in Southern States and the post bowling team.

While serving as post assistant athletic officer in May, 1949, he was transferred to the newly activated Camp Rucker, Ala., where he has been ever since in charge of the post athletic program. Four months later, he was given a commission as a second lieutenant and appointed post special services officer.

Had Overseas Service

Captain Fannin, in his short trips away from Fort Benning service in both the European and Far Eastern commands. In 1944 he was sent to France and England where he aided in directing recreational and athletic programs for the soldiers returning from the front, and in 1948 he was sent to Okinawa, Japan, where he was in charge of a 10-month tour of duty with the 24th Infantry (Mappine Scouts) and the 29th Infantry on Okinawa.

On his return from Okinawa in November, he requested separation from the service in order to re-enlist in the Regular Army as a master sergeant. In 1949, he was assigned to his old position with the post athletic office where he has been ever since.

Captain Fannin lives in Columbus with his wife, the former Miss Martha Allen of Columbus, and his two sons, Phillip, 13 and Sonny, 9.

Pine Lodge NCO Sets New Party

An augmented Wednesday night entertainment program, including games with prizes, an amateur show and a dance, will be reestablished next week by the Pine Lodge NCO Mess, the organization's board of directors decided last week.

Details for revival of the Wednesday night parties, discontinued recently because of personnel changes at Fort Benning, will be worked out by the board and distributed to each unit later.

Increased membership of the club and a need for greater activity, has come about through the arrival of new units on the post during recent weeks, including many National Guard and reserve outfits. Numerous requests for such activity brought about the directors' decision.

The amateur night program will be open to all members of the mess, their families and guests, the directors said, with a combo orchestra furnishing music for the performers, and for the dance which will follow the show and the games party.

Plans for the revived and revitalized Wednesday night party will not affect the Saturday night dances at the mess, nor the Sunday night games party and dance, which are now being held weekly. The Wednesday night games, however, will be separate from those of Sunday night.

First of the new parties will be held on this coming Wednesday night, Oct. 4, the directors said, and prizes for the amateur competition, with prizes for the winners will be announced as soon as they are completed by the organization's board.

Plan Girl Scout Troop In Custer Road Terrace

Plans for installation of a Girl Scout troop in the Custer Road Terrace area of Fort Benning were outlined Tuesday at a meeting of all leaders and members of the scout council at the organization's cabin, which has been completely renovated and improved.

Nearly 150 girls registered for scout activity at the first "rally day" staged Sept. 19, starting out the 1950-51 year, officials announced.

Mrs. Carl E. Frisby, commissioner, announced the plans for the new troop in the Custer road section. She said that inauguration of the unit would depend on the availability of leaders, many of which are still needed. She asked that any persons interested in Girl Scout work contact Mrs. E. C. Lee, camp chairman, outlined the improvements made at the scout cabin and grounds. Foremost among these are the installation of venetian blinds in the cabin itself, redecoration of the lounges, placing of new furniture, painting of porch furniture and cleaning of the barbecue area at the lake and setting up of tables.

As a result of a substantial donation received from the Army Daughters, an extensive program in textile and ceramics work has been introduced along with archery, Mrs. Frisby said. In addition, she added, camping will be stressed during the current year.

I.I.C. TALKS Scouts to Hold Overnight Trip

QUESTION: WHAT SORT OF RECEPTION DID YOU GET HERE AT BENNING? HOW DO YOU LIKE THE POST?
CAPT. EDWIN STYRON, MOTOR OFFICER, 112th Transportation Truck Battalion, Our reception was grand and we appreciated the welcome extended to the officers and enlisted men by the commander of the Area Service unit. All in all, we sincerely appreciate everything that has been done to make us feel at home and to help us get organized. I have been to Benning before and I like it fine.

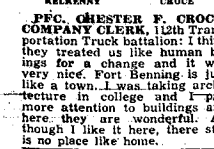

STYRON OSKY
SGT. MORRIS OSKY, MESSAGE SECTION, 112th Transportation Truck Battalion: Our reception was very nice. We sure do appreciate the help of the 27th Car company as they set up our barracks advance for us. Especially do we appreciate the help of L. Davino and Sgt. Pruitt have given us. As far as Benning is concerned it is just another army post to me, but it does have a different type of barracks than I have been used to.

SGT. HARRY E. STEWART, PERSONNEL SECTION, 112th Transportation Truck Battalion: We had a wonderful reception and have received very courteous treatment by the companies already assigned to Ft. Benning. I think Benning entertainment facilities are more than adequate.

SGT. RAYMOND H. SMITH, ACTING FIRE SERGEANT, 112th Transportation Truck Battalion: I was amazed at the wonderful welcome we got from both the officers and enlisted men. The first time in my army experience that I have met men who have been so willing to give of their knowledge and experience. I think this post is the best I have seen and the best I have had the pleasure to serve on.

PFC. ROBERT KELKENNY, 8-4 SECTION, 112th Transportation Truck Battalion: We were very much pleased by our reception. We all expected a truck and when they brought the busses we were surprised. They also served us fresh coffee and doughnuts and we appreciated it. I think Benning is fine and has wonderful facilities.

Called to Active Duty: Second Lieut. Luther E. Cullifer, Jr., recently commissioned in the USAR and called to active duty, has been assigned to the Tenth company, Student Training Regiment, Lieutenant Cullifer formerly was supply sergeant for the Sixth company, SIR.

The first major event of the 1950-51 year for Fort Benning Boy Scouts comes this week with an overnight camping trip to the Scout Lodge near McBride's Ford Saturday night, with all qualified scouts invited to the affair.
Col. R. G. Turner, chairman of the troop committee, in charge of scout operations on the post, at the Scout Lodge on Running Avenue near First Division road, Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock with the first meeting of Troop 27 earlier this month, has issued a call for a scoutmaster experience and for volunteers to act as assistants to aid in carrying out the program.
At the present time M-Sgt. William Deavors, Weapons Department of the Infantry School, is carrying the burden of the scoutmaster duties, but is sorely in need of help with the number of boys turning out for the troop. Colonel Turner declared, "Complete reorganization of Troop 27 is needed, he said, because many of its former members, along with its scoutmaster and assistants, have departed from the post, and additional members have enrolled."
New scouts who have joined the troop this month are David Wright, Arthur McPherson, Peter Dray, George Weibel, Richard Wright, Geoffrey Dalia and William Deavors, while those transferring from troops at other stations are Robert Saxton, James Martin and William Scudder. Any volunteers for the posts of scoutmaster and assistants can contact Colonel Turner at 2226, his office, or at his quarters, 2927.

Scientists Visit Army Board 3

Three leading scientists were visitors at Army Field Forces Board No. 3 last week, Col. Burton L. Lacking, president of the board, announced today.
Professor S. Zuckerman, of the office of the Lord President of the Council in Great Britain, and senior scientific advisor to the British cabinet; Dr. C. M. Hergert, chief of the Biophysics section of the Medical division of the Army Chemical Center, Aberdeen, Md., and Dr. H. E. Robertson, director of research for the Weapons System Evaluation group of the office of the Secretary of Defense, met with Board 3 officials for a conference on developmental matters Tuesday morning.
Tuesday afternoon the group was turning out for a demonstration by the board. Following the demonstration they departed for Washington.

4th Division Coming Back to Fort Benning

Gen. Harlan Hartness Will Assume Command

The Fourth Infantry division is coming back to Fort Benning. Army officials announced this week that elements of the division, some 5,000 strong, will be assigned to the post under the command of Brig. Gen. Harlan M. Hartness.

Gen. Hartness, now commander of the Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., will be relieved there by Maj. Gen. Horace L. McBride.

Present station of the division is at Fort Ord, Calif. Neither the division nor its new commanding general are strangers to Fort Benning.

The division, sporting a patch composed of four green ivy leaves attached to the sides and opening at the four corners of a square on a brown background, first saw battle during the first world war.

Activated at Benning on June 3, 1940, the division completed its training here Nov. 15, 1941.

Entering European hostilities on D-Day, June 6, 1944, the unit fought in the Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes and Central Europe campaigns, rolling up 299 combat days during that time.

Its Eighth Infantry regiment was the first Allied unit to battle the German Army on the Normandy beaches. For this achievement the regiment was awarded the Distinguished Unit citation. Many of the division's other units later received the award for their exploits.

Deactivated in 1946 shortly after V-E day the Fourth began to return to the U.S. for retraining and subsequent deployment to the Pacific theater, but before the training phase was completed hostilities in that area ended. The Fourth was deactivated March 5, 1945.

Gen. Hartness, a 1918 graduate of the United States Military Academy, was born at Claremont, Va., in 1888. After a tour of European battle duty after the close of World War I, he came to Fort Benning where he was a member of the first post-war officer class at the Infantry School, completing the course on June 10, 1920.

Was With 29th Infantry From that date until Aug. 15, 1922, he was assigned to duty with the 29th Infantry regiment here.

He then attended Columbia university until June, 1923, at which time he was graduated with an A.B. degree. From Columbia he went directly to the United States Military Academy to become an instructor in the Academic department until 1926. He then served in Panama with the 33rd Infantry regiment, General Hartness resumed teach-

Lawson Gets Bombers For Guard Unit

Major James L. Harrison, executive officer of the Lawson Air Force base, announced this week that several B-26s of the 112th Light Bomber squadron, Cleveland, O., have been flown to the base preparatory to the federalization of the new Air National Guard tactical unit there. The remainder of the unit will arrive between Oct. 10 and Oct. 20.

In addition to the Cleveland squadron, other main elements of the unit will be the 106th Fighter squadron and the 171st Fighter group headquarters, Birmingham, Ala., and the 157th Fighter squadron, Columbia, S. C. The fighter squadrons will be equipped with F-51s, successors to the P-51s of World War II fame.

Supporting the organizations will be service, utility and weather units from the three cities. Barracks at the base are being readied for the unit. Married officers and enlisted men will be billeted both in the permanent type housing on the Main Post and in civilian communities.

GENERAL POISES FOR JUMP Maj. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Complete With Parachute, In Training Grind

General Hickey Takes Airborne

BY LESLIE ODELL

Being a major general nowadays isn't all it's cracked up to be, at least that's what Maj. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey hopes. General Hickey started training as a student in the basic airborne course bright and early Monday morning — pushups and all.

The general, who only recently returned from Europe where he was chief of staff of the United States forces in Austria, is believed to be the second major general to take the regular jump course. The other was Maj. Gen. Colvis Byers who became a qualified parachutist before assuming command of the 82nd Airborne division at Fort Bragg.

When it comes to being an airborne student, one man is pretty much like another, General Hickey finds. General or private, the grind is the same. In fact, being a private might have its advantages, he feels. In several phases the training has been speeded up so General Hickey can get in a few extra hours of class training, and in order to keep up with his top-heavy schedule the general has found it necessary to "do alone" several things where there might be "comfort in numbers."

Not that the general has any qualms, though. The first time out of the door of the 34-foot mock tower Monday, completely sure he was far more concerned about his "jumping form" than the height from the ground or any possible jars he might

Colonel Steffen New Chief of PX

Lt. Col. Martin H. Steffen has been appointed Infantry Center post exchange officer, it was announced this week.

Colonel Steffen recently returned from Tokyo, where he served as director of exchanges on General MacArthur's staff for three years.

During World War II, he was assigned to General Eisenhower's headquarters in London in April, 1942, and later worked in England and France, returning to the United States in September, 1944.

Among the Army schools Colonel Steffen has attended are the Artillery School at Fort Sill, Okla., the Motor Transportation school at Baltimore, Md., and the Lebanon Claims School at Lebanon, Tenn.

A member of the National Guard since 1919, Colonel Steffen came on active duty in 1942. Colonel Steffen replaces Lt. Col. Allan M. Cory, who has been acting post exchange officer since last May. Colonel Cory will return to his permanent assignment with the First Battalion, Student Training regiment.

1,200 Troops Coming to Post Augmented Battalion Set For Arrival October 12

A demonstration outfit of 1,200 officers and enlisted men will come to Fort Benning from Fort Bragg, N. C. Oct. 12 for duty at the Infantry School, Infantry Center officials announced yesterday.

The outfit, a battalion from the 82nd Airborne division at Fort Bragg, will be augmented by a company of engineers, a company of tanks and a battery of artillery, officials said.

The troops have been assigned to Fort Benning for a period of 90 days, and will be used for instructional purposes, according to the announcement.

The incoming unit will be the largest single addition to Benning military personnel since the departure of the Third Division several weeks ago. Since that time the post's population has been increased by a number of National Guard and Reserve Corps troops which have been federalized.

Carelessness Is Often Costly

Despite repeated warnings by fire inspectors and members of the Fort Benning Fire Department, conflagrations on the reservation during the past 12 months caused a total damage of $51,900! This figure is a considerable decrease over the 1948-49 total of $332,450, but is still too high.

Most of these fires were the result of sheer carelessness. A report of the most common causes of fires at Fort Benning shows that some people haven't yet learned that to discard cigarettes and matches before they are completely extinguished can be extremely dangerous. We have seen Benningites throw lighted cigarettes near buildings containing valuable equipment. We have seen them throw smoldering matches into waste paper baskets partly filled with paper. Yet, when they are reprimanded for doing so obviously a dangerous thing they can't understand all the fuss over what they consider such a minor incident. They'd likely understand, however, if they ever found themselves charged with starting a fire.

According to Fire Chief Gilbert Ward, the second most common cause of fires at Fort Benning is faulty or improper use of heating systems. Personnel occupying quarters on the post often attempt to supplement an adequate heating system with electric heaters, which can be dangerous unless properly maintained. Oftentimes, these same people allow clothing or curtains to get too close to the electric heater, resulting in a combustion. Some people, both in offices and in quarters, leave such things as newspapers on top of radiators. The constant heat from the radiator can conceivably cause a fire.

Faulty electrical wiring is another major cause of so many fires at Fort Benning. During the summer months, electric fans are used almost constantly in offices and homes on the Post, but few users ever check the condition of the wiring from June to October. The results can be disastrous because electrical connections can wear out, create a short circuit and cause a fire.

One medical electric fan did just that last summer in an Infantry Center Annex office, but fortunately the office personnel saw it in time to avert a major conflagration.

Some children on the post have the very bad habit of playing with matches, according to Chief Ward, because the fourth largest number of fires were caused by children striking matches. It's the responsibility of each Fort Benning parent to make sure his children don't have access to matches, which can become a most lethal weapon if improperly used. Finally, the improper use of gasoline for cleaning purposes—of all things—is the fifth largest number of fires on the reservation. Some soldiers apparently don't realize how dangerous the use of gasoline for any purpose other than that for which it was intended can be.

During the next week, Fire Prevention Week, all these causes will be brought home to Fort Benning personnel in lectures and demonstrations scheduled by the Fire Department. But it's not enough that we think about fire prevention only one week out of the year. It's something we should practice every day if we want to prevent loss of property and life.

Here's a simple set of resolutions we should make our every day guide:

I will always take the proper precautions in discarding lighted cigarettes and matches.
I will inspect at frequent intervals heating installations and take the proper precautions in their use.

I will not tamper with electric wiring or make any alterations to the existing installations, and I will make frequent inspections of all my electrical appliances before I use them.

I will inform my children of the danger of playing with matches or other inflammable materials, and I will keep matches and other inflammables out of their reach.

I will never use any kind of inflammable liquid for cleaning purposes.

If you adhere to these resolutions, the likelihood of your being responsible for a fire will be greatly reduced. Don't let your quarters of your office building be included in next year's statistics!

The U. S. national debt rose from $60 per person in 1913 to $1,870 at the end of World War II.

The rare, or noble, gases are the elements helium, neon, argon, krypton, xenon and radon, all of which are chemically inert.

Petra Dura is the name given to the finest kinds of Florentine mosaic work, formed with inlaid materials of the hardest kind.

The average level of food consumption in Britain rose to 3,990 calories daily in 1949, just below the pre-war figure of 3,000.

The National Geographic society says that in 1947 there were 3,613,000 Chinese in Malaya, 2,234,000 Malaysians and 600,000 Indians.

Report From Washington

Air Force to Promote 2,500 to Lt. Colonel

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

A board of senior officers recently convened at Air Force Headquarters to consider approximately 2,500 majors for permanent promotion to lieutenant colonel. It is expected the early fall schedule for promotion of 5,000 to captain will be met—probably in mid-October.

A school to train new paratroopers has been organized by the 82d Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N. C. Establishment of the school will save both time and travel previously necessary when all new jumpers were trained at Fort Benning, Ga. Lt. Col. John N. Davis, a pioneer of airborne warfare and Pacific veteran of World War II, is the director.

Authority to award the Purple Heart to Navy personnel wounded in action has been delegated to all commanding officers in the grade of captain (colonel in the Marine Corps) and to all flag officers (general officers in the Marine Corps) in the chain of command.

Congress has completed action on a bill continuing for one year the Government's program of buying specially-equipped automobiles for amputee war veterans. The legislation, sent to President Truman for signature, authorizes an appropriation of $800,000 for this purpose, with a limit of $1,800 that the Government could pay on any automobile.

Transfer of the desert training phase for land and para-rescue teams to a site near Indio, Calif., has been approved by Headquarters of the Air Rescue Service. This phase of training formerly was conducted in the West Texas-New Mexico desert near Biggs Air Force Base, when Flight B, Fifth Air Rescue Squadron, was located at that base. The 2165th Air Rescue Unit, which trains the Air Rescue Service land and para-rescue team members, has made arrangements with Flight B, Fourth Air Rescue Squadron, March Air Force Base, Calif., for furnishing support for the teams while in Indio. Jungle and water training will continue in Florida, with the mountain and Arctic phase in the Rocky Mountains.

The first course of instruction in Environmental Sanitation Technique will be conducted for naval enlisted Hospital Corps personnel at the Naval Hospital, Oakland, Calif., beginning November 1. A class of 20 hospital corpsmen will be under 640 hours of instruction during their four months of training, and a new class will convene at two month intervals. The curriculum includes administration and organization, vital statistics, sanitation, bacteriology and allied subjects.

Use of prefixes before service numbers for enlisted members of the Army and Air Force is announced in Change 3, AR 615-30 and in AFR 39-31 C. The following reassignments now are official: The letter in brackets signifies the official prefix to the service number. (A) Army enlisted men (W.A.C.) without specification of component. (RA) Regular Army enlisted men. (RO) Regular Army enlisted men holding commissions in the ORC. (ER) Enlisted male reservists. (US) Army enlisted men without specification of component. (WA) Regular Army enlisted women (W.A.C.). (WL) Regular Army enlisted women holding commissions in the ORC. (WR) Enlisted Women Reservists (W.A.C.). (NG) National Guard enlisted men. This applies only to enlisted personnel of the National Guard that are on active duty.

Meanwhile, President Truman has signed a $17 billion defense appropriation to boost both our domestic and foreign forces. The new bill also carries Congressional restrictions on Marshall Plan aid to countries shipping war materials to Iron Curtain countries. Under the bill's largest items, the Armed Forces will get $11,736,000,000 and the foreign military aid program will get $4 billion.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director, has urged Congress to lift the ban on drafting of veterans and to extend the draftee's length of service from 21 to 30 months. Testifying before the House Armed Services Committee, Heyshey said these moves will likely be necessary if the Armed Forces are to maintain their goal of 3,000,000 men. Hershey also asked for a cut in deferments of men with dependents and for a lowering of mental and physical standards.

Walter S. Gifford, former chairman of the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and a Republican, has been appointed by the President to serve as U. S. Ambassador to the Court of St. James. He succeeds Lewis W. Douglas who resigned last week due to "personal considerations, including those of health."

The North Atlantic Council this week approved the creation of a combined force to preserve the Atlantic community from Soviet aggression. The Council called for the organization of this force as rapidly as possible and decided that all available manpower and productive resources of the 12 pact countries should be fully used.

Nothing Impossible If You Make Up Your Mind

BY CHAPLAIN LONNIE W. KNIGHT

When a man makes up his mind to do something, the battle is about 90 per cent won. Regardless of what the job is, when a man grips his teeth, clinches his fists, and says, "I will succeed in this task," it is more than likely he will do just that.

A Bible story illustrates very well how a man can degrade himself, morally and spiritually, until he makes up his mind he will return to his rightful place in life. This is the story (Luke, 15th Chapter) of a man with two sons. The younger said to his father, "Father give me the part of goods that would be mine at your death." The son took the wealth, went into a foreign country, and squandered his property in loose living. Finally, all his money was gone, and in desperation, he went to a citizen of that country who sent him into his fields to feed the hogs. He was so hungry he would gladly have eaten the food that was for the swine, but no man gave him anything.

In this condition he came to himself. He realized that living in a hog pen was a long way from the home where he was reared. He remembered his father, a man of wealth, his father's servants and the abundant food. When he realized he had made a mistake, he decided to do something about it. And he did do something about it. He arose from his place in the hog pen and said, "I will arise and go to my father." The story had a beautiful ending when the son returned to his father and was received with open arms. He was given a ring, the best robe in the house, a new pair of shoes and a banquet consisting of the fatted calf. The real purpose of this story is to show that God will gladly receive any wayward son that returns to Him, but we also have a good lesson in the will to succeed as shown by this Prodigal Son.

As long as the young man drifted with the current of life without any particular will to succeed, he went farther away from the way of life he had known in his youth. Only when he came to himself, and said "I will," was he successful in taking his place in society.

The same is true today. As long as we drift from day to day, without a real purpose in life, we will get farther away from the life we should live.

Too often we drift with the current, very much as a chip would drift down a fast flowing stream. If we are to progress, we must determine to fight against the current of life and to grow better and stronger each day we live. We cannot stand still, for the current will take us downstream. To do nothing is to go backwards. To go forward demands constant work at the oars. A real determination to succeed means that we say with all our might, "I will, so help me God."

A HITCH IN TIME . . . A loose garter can mean trouble to the wearer but only pleasure to those who watch. This is especially true when Screenstress Adrian Booth takes time out to hitch hers. The costume and setting are to be seen in the coming Hollywood production "The Black Hills."

SUCHAPOSTURE . . . Mára Corday leans on post after being named "Miss Chiropractic Health, Week" by the International Chiropractors Assn. The beauty contest called attention to a free back-to-school health clinic for children. Result: This photo is labeled "For Children Only."

NIGHT WITHOUT STARS BY WINSTON GRAHAM DOUBLEDAY & COMPANY, PUBLISHER

By ROBERT L. GROOVER

The MBS outlet in Columbus, WGBA, will carry the World Series games beginning Wednesday at 12:45 p.m. Contralto Carol Smith and Bass Donald Gramm co-star for Chicago Theater of the Air at 10 p.m. Saturday. This is Europe presents as guest stars Henny Henze, Viennese Opera soprano, and Mandolinist Maria Scivitarro in Paul Durand's music portrait of Greece, "Tableau Greece", in its world premiere at 10 p.m. Sunday. Sunday is also the day for spine-tingling mystery, beginning with Martin Kane, Private Eye at 4:30 p.m., followed by The Shadow at 5 p.m., True Detective Mysteries at 5:30 p.m., Nick Carter, Master Detective at 6:30 p.m. and the Affairs of Peter Salem at 7 o'clock.

Winston Graham's story progresses against a back-drop of luxurious hotels, pleasure steamers and coal barges, gambling casinos of Nice and the diverse background of post-war France. This is a novel in the best Somerset Maugham tradition but written in Winston Graham's own style. For those who served in Europe in World War II, this book will recall memories of a period in France never to be repeated. For those who have never been to Europe, this book will be both fascinating and informative. Woven about the book's brilliant setting is a story of suspense, love and adventure. This is a story of one man's night without stars—a night which extended indefinitely and brought him the love of a beautiful woman.

Whether or not Winston Graham regains his sight provides a novel conclusion to "Night Without Stars". For those who are tired of reading historical novels, and for those who are tired of reading fiction which isn't entertaining Night Without Stars is strongly recommended. This is Winston Graham's seventh novel, and it might well be his best. The individual reader will have to decide this, but it is doubtful that anyone will find this book dull. The descriptive passages create a feeling of sharing Giles Graham's Night Without Stars.

renee Nightingale at 10 p.m. on Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy Thursday, with Kitty Kallen as show returns to air the season's premiere guest, Mortua Downey opening laugh session at 8 p.m. Monday, starring Ginny Simms and Gordon MacRae. The Ira Sunday at 8 p.m.

Benning Bandbox

By May Pigott

One day while I was sitting at my desk digging into my more or less-vacant mind for a topic for this column, it suddenly dawned on me that in all that had been written about Benning, the collectors had more or less been pushed into the background.

Mention collectors and most people laugh because they don't understand the satisfaction a person feels when he has acquired some object that is unique and will add to what he is collecting.

I found a wealth of collectors here at Benning, and in writing this column learned a lot that I didn't know or had forgotten. Most of the people I contacted were only too willing to talk about their own particular collection and to show it to me. Some of them were extensive while others were still being added to as time went on.

I first called on Mrs. Edward Knuth who lives on Harris circle. She has been gathering elephants for about eight years, and her collection now numbers 158, all of which have their trunks raised. There are 38 states and numerous foreign countries represented in the group. Prized among them is an elephant tea pot over thirty years old. She has blown glass, brass, ivory and China ones in her collection. One most interesting piece was a green elephant with a lion held high in its tusks and one under its hoof. This particular elephant was a present from a friend in Japan.

From elephants I went to weapons which are collected by Lt. Col. Milton C. Taylor. Colonel Taylor has made a beautiful case for his collection which includes four museum pieces that date back to 1644, and these pistols and rifles were all gifts from individuals. One pistol of interest, the wheellock type, dating back to 1750, was of Arabian make designed with a hand-carved handle and with hand-made screws. Colonel Taylor said he first was interested in weapons when he was a child and that his father gave him his first two.

From weapons to the peccatorial is a big jump that could only be done by a reporter, so next on the list I talked to was Lt. George Daoust whose interest is centered on tropical fish. Three aquariums house this unusual collection. Most unique among the fish were the ferocious Betta, a Siamese fighting fish which must be kept apart from the others. Then there were the peculiarly marked angel fish with the long trailing pectoral fin. Of course, to me, the most spectacular of them all was the neon tetra, which has a glowing blue streak up its back just like a neon light. Lieutenant Daoust has raised most of his fish, but has bought quite a few, and he brings an interesting fact to light in that the male of tropical fish are much more brightly colored than the female.

Of course every little boy and girl at one time or another wants more soldiers and dolls than their playmates, and I ran across two who did just that—Ronnie Torrence who collects toy soldiers and Betty McNulty who has a doll collection. Ronnie has about 260 soldiers. He has only been collecting a year, but numbers groups of British, Bengal Lancers, Highlanders, Japanese, Arabs, French Foreign Legion and many others among the different types he has.

His pride and joy is a motorcycle with a side car on which is mounted a machine gun.

Betty McNulty has dolls from all over the world. She says that she is still in the process of adding to her group but calls attention to the Bahia doll, which is modeled after the natives of Brazil and has quite a history. Contrasting the old and the new is a lovely French woman in a blue tulle dress and carrying an ostrich fan. Betty says she has been collecting ever since she can remember.

Then I talked to Mrs. Marcus Bell who has collected a remarkable group of Oriental China, lacquers and wood work. Most of her China is old with the gold design, instead of the modern red, and has the chrysanthemum and rising sun ideas in the design. Notable among her collection is a set of Imauri Chin egg-shell cups and saucers, and Imauri obop plates. One of the most interesting pieces is a hand inscribed mother-of-pearl coffee table, delicate in coloring and perfect in detail. Almost beyond description are her pieces of tortoise shell lacquer.

A complete change is the collection of Lt. Col. Phillip Rawlins, who collects regimental insignia and is a member of the American Society of Military Insignia collectors. Colonel Rawlins started his collection in 1939 and today is the proud possessor of some 925 crests. The colonel houses his pets in frames of his own making with the crest in lines and the designation of the unit underneath. One of his most valuable insignia is a 14th Cavalry piece for which he was offered 20 other insignia in exchange. Needless to say, it rests in a place of honor in the case. He is working on a complete file of his collection, complete with a short history and story of each design.

Pvt. Adelle Jackson

Meet Miss Benning---

Next to pass in review in our Meet Miss Benning parade is brunette Pvt. Adelle Jackson from our sister state of Alabama, who thought she wanted to be a registered nurse, but used her woman's prerogative of changing her mind and her uniform for khaki.

As a general clerk she is assigned to the Infantry School and has held that post for some time. Before Adelle came into the Army she took nurses' training at Carraway Methodist hospital, Birmingham, Ala., but the inner urge to join the WACs was much stronger. So she marched down to the recruiting station and enlisted. Perhaps this is not strange, since her father served in the World War I, a brother was in the Army and a sister served in the WAVES.

For a small person, she lists some pretty strenuous hobbies on the top of the list—horseback riding, tennis and golf. But coming as she does from a large family of three brothers and three sisters, she would almost have to know the above sports. She thoroughly enjoys the musical type of movie, and is an avid reader of historical novels.

She knows and enjoys music but lists her preference along classical lines. It is rather hard for her to decide on her favorite type of clothes, but she leans to the suits and evening wear and loves to wear sweaters, of which she has quite a collection for off-duty use. With hazel eyes and brown hair, she chooses blue as her color.

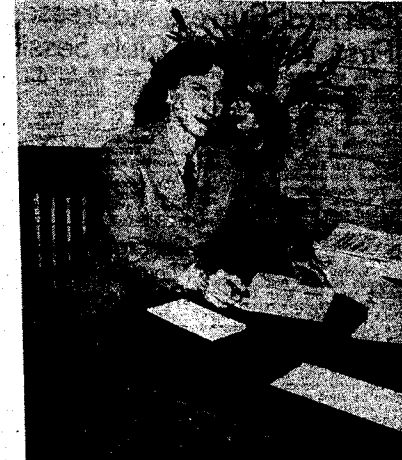

Even though Adelle has only been in the Army for seven months, she is convinced that it is a very enjoyable life, especially since she has been stationed at Benning. And with a mysterious air she claims there is only one other place she had rather be—Paris, France.

This five foot, ninety-six pound Miss Benning intends to remain in the Army at present, but says that there may be a change in plans in the near future. It is my guess that maybe Paris holds something that will change her future.

NEW COMMANDER OF WAC
Capt. Elsie Weible

Captain Weible New WAC Chief

Capt. Elsie Weible, a native of Los Angeles, has taken command of the WAC detachment at Fort Benning, succeeding Capt. Hazel Verhey, who was given an overseas assignment last month.

Captain Weible, in taking command of the detachment, started on her second tour at Fort Benning, having been stationed here in 1945.

The new detachment commander enlisted in the WAAC in January, 1943, shortly after it was organized and before its name was changed officially to the Woman's Army Corps. Entering the ranks, she was commissioned in June, 1948.

Prior to assuming command of the Benning detachment, Captain Weible served as commanding officer of Company I, Army Administration School, Fort Lee, Va.

Frances Dobrosky Marks Birthday

Frances Dobrosky, daughter of Sic and Mrs. John Dobrosky, celebrated her ninth birthday with a party at the home of her parents on Gaines circle on Friday.

The reception rooms of the quarters were decorated with arrangements of coral vine.

Games were played during the afternoon with Mrs. Mary Mackey and Judy Morrissey as winners.

The birthday cake was embellished with white and topped with green candles.

Guests included Judy Morrissey, Rowena Dawson, Yvonne Abma, Georganna Wheeler, Nancy and Lottie Pittman, Marie Scott Roger Burr, Tommy and Edward Dobrosky.

Pan-Hellenic Unit Plans Luncheon

The Pan-Hellenics will hold their monthly luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Monday with Mrs. R. B. Wells and Mrs. Edward MacDonald as hostesses.

All officers' wives or dependents who are members of a national sorority are cordially invited to attend.

Post Birthday To Be Marked By Pine Lodge

The final "Harvest Moon" dance staged during September was held at the Pine Lodge NCO Mess Saturday night, with music furnished by Merle Garrett and her Georgians. Mess officials estimated that more than five hundred persons attended the dance during the evening.

The "Harvest Moon" dances were held at Pine Lodge on each Saturday night during the month. As in other "Harvest Moon" dances, a hundred ill-colored balloons were released from the mess's ceiling during the evening, while the orchestra played a medley of "moon" songs. Many of the balloons contained cash prizes.

With the ending of the "Harvest Moon" series the Pine Lodge Mess announced plans to celebrate Fort Benning's thirty-second birthday by sponsoring a special "birthday" dance on each Saturday night during October. Fort Benning is officially thirty-two years of age this month.

For the Saturday night birthday party, mess officials announced that on Oct. 7, Jump Fuller, his orchestra, and Yvonne Williams, vocalist, would provide the music; the orchestra of Sgt. Sam McCracken on the evening of Oct. 14; Spot River's musical aggregation on Oct. 21 and Sergeant McCracken's outfit again on Oct. 28.

The Pine Lodge Mess will be especially decorated for these Saturday dances and plans have been made to present special entertainment.

Far East Command Group Holds Luncheon Session

The Far East Command group held its first luncheon of the fall season at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday with Mrs. David H. Finley, Mrs. William Duncan and Miss Katinka Stollberg as hostesses.

The table was decorated with arrangements of yellow and orange mums and marigolds in bronze vases on trays linked together with ropes of greenery. Place cards were yellow mums.

Mrs. C. E. Frisby discussed the art show which is to be held on Oct. 24 from 2 until 7:30 p.m. She requested that all members call the show committee to list their exhibits by Oct. 15. The committee for the art show is Mrs. David Finley, chairman, Mrs. Marcus Bell, Mrs. William Duncan, Mrs. A. J. Newkirk, Mrs. Frisby and Miss Stollberg. Places were laid for Mrs. J. S. Pvt. Kathleen Bender Weds Corporal Robert L. Kline

Pvt. Kathleen J. A. Bender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bender, of Loudonville, became the bride recently of Cpl. Robert L. Kline, son of Mrs. Florence Kline of Columbus, at the Infantry Center chapel.

Chaplain (Capt.) Enos P. Hoyle performed the ceremony before a small group of relatives and friends.

John Miller, organist, presented a program of musical music, including "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Cpl. Gaylord C. Geisler was the groom's best man.

The bride, given in marriage by Sgt. Darris C. Almond, wore a grey suit with navy blue accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a party was given at the Pine Lodge NCO club by friends.

The groom's mother wore for the wedding an aqua crepe dress with black accessories.

The couple left for a honeymoon trip to St. Augustine and Jacksonville, Fla. After their return they will make their home in Baker Village.

Lt. Green to Wed Andalusia Girl

J. M. Hybart of Andalusia, Ala., has announced the engagement of his daughter, Amber of Columbus to Lt. Warren Green of Fort Benning and Savannah.

Lt. Green is the son of Mrs. F. C. Blackstone of Savannah, Ga., and is assigned to the 78th Engineer Combat Battalion. The wedding will be solemnized on Oct. 7.

Capt. Eugene Legare to Wed Miss Kathleen Pate Lavender

Of social interest today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. H. Rex Lavender of the engagement of the daughter, Kathleen Pate, to Capt. Eugene Legare Jr., of Fort Benning and Johns Island, S. C.

The bride-elect attended Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., where she was a member of the Omega Psi sorority. She also attended Emerson college, Boston, Mass. She studied voice at the New England Conservatory in Boston and studied under Harry Spier in New York city. She attended the Barbizon school of modeling in New York, later doing professional modeling.

The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vardell Legare of Johns Island, S. C. Capt. Legare was graduated from Johns Island high school and received his degree from Clemson college in 1942. During World War II he served with the infantry with two years duty in the European theater and after the war served 30 months in Korea. He has been stationed at Fort Benning for the past year and a half. Plans for the marriage will be announced later.

41st FA Holds Buffet Supper For 201st Unit

Officers and their ladies of the 41st Field Artillery Battalion entertained recently with a reception and buffet supper at the Officers' Mess in honor of the officers and ladies of the 201st Field Artillery Battalion.

The receiving line was formed in front of a display of colors and was composed of Col. August E. Schanze, Lt. Col. and Mrs. David L. Ramsey, Lt. Col. Harry F. Schroeder, Maj. and Mrs. Elmer P. Fleming Jr., Maj. Lawrence G. Brown and Maj. Glenn R. Rectine.

The tables were decorated with artillery colors with arrangements of red dahlias and yellow candles.

General Burress Addresses First Woman's Club Session

With approximately 350 present, the Fort Benning Women's club opened its 27th consecutive year with a meeting and tea in the main lounge of the Officers' Mess on Monday afternoon.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren Jenks pronounced the invocation and Mrs. Allen Peck, president, conducted the session.

The speaker's platform was set before the fireplace and banked with tall floor baskets of white gladioli and mums, with an arrangement of exhibition pink dahlias set in front of the speaker's rostrum.

Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, which was the May breakfast and the treasurer's report, Mrs. Peck presented Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commander of the Infantry Center.

Gen. Burress gave a brief sketch of Fort Benning, which he declared was a cotton field in the pine woods of Georgia. The first reception for the new members who had just arrived on the post, the general gave a brief resume of the activities of the post, mentioning particularly the housing situation, the post's schools, and medical service.

General Burress concluded his speech by pledging his cooperation with the Women's club on its projects for the coming year.

Following the general's talk, Mrs. Peck extended a welcome to all members of the club and especially to the new ones, and expressed a hope that they would gain something from the association even though they might be here for a short time only.

Lt. Col. Mrs. Lee Give Barbecue

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edwin C. Lee entertained on Saturday with their quarters on Wickersham avenue.

Guests were Col. and Mrs. G. E. Bush, Brig. E. W. D. Western, Mrs. Armistead Meade, Col. and Mrs. Robert K. McDonough, Col. and Mrs. William McNulty, Lt. Col. Grant Learnard, Mrs. Charles Hallden, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Donald C. Wilson, Lt. Col. Mrs. Leo Shaugnessy, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Paul Reinecke, Lt. Col. and Mrs. John Hill and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Allen Leonard.

The walls of the building have been painted an attractive shade of green. Mrs. Jones made red and pink curtains for the dormers of windows surrounding the dining-room and her volunteer helpers hung them. Lamphades now cover the bright bulbs that used to glare in the men's faces while they were eating.

Chapel Nursery Schedule is Set

The winter schedule for the Post Chapel nursery was announced this week by Lt. Col. Loren T. Jenks, Infantry Center chaplain.

Effective Oct. 1, the nursery will be in operation in the daytime, Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., Sunday from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and evenings, Wednesday from 5:30 p. m. to midnight, Thursday 3 to 11 p. m., Saturday 5 p. m. to midnight and Sunday 5:30 to 11 p. m.

The age limits on the children are from three months to five years. Older children may be cared for, subject to arrangement with the nursery supervisor, Mrs. Alice Hackett.

A charge of 25 cents per hour will be made for one child and 35 cents for two or more children from the same family. Two hours free time will be allowed on Sunday mornings for parents attending religious services.

Originally the Post Chapel nursery was a project solely to provide care for small children so that parents could attend the religious activities on the post. While this is still its basic objective, the schedule has been expanded to 70 hours a week and seven employees have been hired as a post service, Chaplain Jenks said.

The teams, composed of one officer and two enlisted men each, have been selected from Army units throughout the United States. After leaving Fort Benning from Columbia, S. C., three weeks ago it inherited a nondescript mess hall that had not even been used for three or four years. But it also had one asset most companies lack — an energetic visitor with solid practical ideas on interior decoration.

She was Mrs. Mae Jones, wife of Mess Sergeant Burton J. Jones. Mrs. Jones took one look at the situation and got it well in hand. Calling for volunteers she soon had eight men from the company helping her paint and do carpentry work in their off-duty hours.

The walls of the building have been painted an attractive shade of green. Mrs. Jones made red and pink curtains for the dormers of windows surrounding the dining-room and her volunteer helpers hung them. Lamphades now cover the bright bulbs that used to glare in the men's faces while they were eating.

Because of the combined efforts of Sergeant and Mrs. Jones, the men of the 45th Ordnance Ammunition company are now boasting about the excellence of their mess which has characteristics equally pleasing to the palate as to the eye.

Sergeant Jones completed more than ten years service as a mess sergeant with the Army when he returned to civilian life from Osaka, Japan, in April of this year. The sergeant claims interest in "good" food is second nature as he has "been in restaurant work all his life."

This company is the first ORC unit to be called back to active duty from the South Carolina area.

Scott Paces Winners And Wins Singles Title

BY HENRY J. KASSELK

Paced by the expert shooting of Terry Scott, the Student Training Regiment won the 1950 Fort Benning Post Intramural Table Tennis tournament staged at the Briant Wells Field House Monday and Tuesday with a total of 16 points. By virtue of the victory, the STR will represent Fort Benning at the 1950 Third Army Table Tennis tournament which will be held at the Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., October 24-26. The STR won the meet by the copping top honors in both the singles and doubles competitions. Scott was the mainstay in the STR attack, winning the singles crown and teaming up with paddle-mate Herb Myatt to win the doubles laurels. STR collected 16 out of a possible 38 points. ISD Is Runner-up Runner-up in the meet was the Infantry School detachment which amassed a total of eight points. In the singles competitions, Scott led the field. After successfully eliminating his opponents in the first three rounds of play, he gained the finals by downing ISD's John Wyatt, 2-1, 2-13, 13-21, 21-17. In the final game of the singles competition, he defeated Tom Gallagher, 21-9, 21-13, 21-10 to win the singles crown. In the doubles matches, it was strictly an STR show. Scott and Myatt encountered no difficulty in topping John Farris and Earl Easton of the Provisional Medical Group, in the semi-finals, 21-7, 21-13, 21-13 and John Wyatt and Calvin Gray of ISD, 21-15, 21-15.

TOP THREE WINNERS OF THE PROVISIONAL. Medical Group Table Tennis tournament were presented trophies by Brig Gen Robert B. Hill, commanding general of the group. Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

Now that our crystal ball has cleared, we'll attempt to analyze what next Saturday has to offer. After taking a look at last Saturday's results though, it might prove advantageous if we threw our pre-season forecast out the window. Of course you have to expect a few "surprises" this early in the season, but what happened last weekend was more of a wholesale slaughter of the pre-season favorites.

THE EAST
Army over Penn State: The cadets should be able to repeat last year's slaughter, although the Nittany Lions looked good against Georgetown last week.
Harvard over Columbia: In a traditional meeting.
Holy Cross over Brown: The Crusaders are out for revenge. By one TD.

Cornell over Syracuse: An easy one for the Purple Rams.
Princeton over Rutgers: With a little to spare.
Yale over Fordham: Another easy one. Stretching for three.

THE MIDWEST
Illinois over Wisconsin: It's a flip of a coin here. But we'll go along with the Illini by a single touchdown.
Iowa over Indiana: The Hawkeyes are a good bet with no points.

Michigan over Dartmouth: We'll play with the favorites. The Wolverines should take this one with little difficulty.
Notre Dame over Purdue: They're not the same old Irish but they're still "Fighting". It'll be close.

Ohio State over Pittsburgh: One point might make the difference here.

SMU over Missouri: Doak Walker's alma mater is looking for its third victory but they might need glasses in this case. But we'll still string along with the Mustangs.

Northwestern over Navy: The Midgies just haven't got it this year.

Nebraska over Minnesota: But not without a fight.
Oklahoma over Texas A&M: The Sooners should take this one fairly easy.

THE SOUTH
Vanderbilt over Alabama: After Vandy's showing against Auburn we'll wager Wade will lose another victory by a pair of touchdowns.

Duke over Tennessee: The Vols haven't come up to expectations. It'll be a matter of a few points.
Georgia Tech over Florida: Any questions? You're safe with one TD but gambling with two.

Georgia over North Carolina: Both teams are underrated but in this case the Bulldogs win the nod.
Wake Forest over William & Mary: The Deacons should stage a repeat performance.

Virginia over VPI: With ease.
South Carolina over Furman: We're playing favorites again. And a safe bet.

Kentucky over Dayton: Another sure one. The Wildcats all the way.
Tulane over Louisiana: A loss up. It could go either way.

THE WEST
Arkansas over TCU: Got any other ideas?
Mississippi State over Baylor: Lucky last week you say, Well, we'll say the luck will be holding out against the Waco Bears.

California over Pennsylvania: It will be a fight to the finish with the Bears coming out on top.

Ping Pong Title Won by Ferris

In preparation for the 1950 Fort Benning table tennis tournament, 17 ping pongers of the Provisional Medical Group filled the Red Cross auditorium with a storm of celluloid pellets Friday night, and then the air had cleared. Johnny Ferris of the 932nd Medical company was crowned the singles champion of the group. The first "three times over the net" got underway at 8 p.m. before a small audience of patients and enlisted men from the hospital. In the quarter finals, B. T. Kitchens defeated Bill Rowan three games to one. Peter Staroschack downed Earl Easton three games to two. Dean Stewart topped Alfred Blakenship. Earl Easton and Ferris dropped Richard Aldinger three games to two. In the semi-finals, Staroschack buttoned down Kitchens three straight games, 15-4, 15-4, 15-6, to work into the finals, and Ferris outlasted Stewart in what was clearly the match of the evening in endurance and technique, 15-10, 15-13, 21-19, to break into the finals.

Golfing Ladder Competition Ends Sunday
Fort Benning golfers have only three more days in which to register for the 36-hole qualification for positions on the Country Club golf ladder, club officials announced today. Sunday is the deadline by which Benning golfers must submit to the pro shop any two 18-hole scores shot during the period from Sept. 23 to Oct. 8. These scores will determine the golfer's position on the club ladder. About 100 golfers from Fort Benning are expected to turn in scores and participate in the competition. The ladder will be used normally as a basis for selecting golfers to represent Benning in inter-club golf matches.

Shoes Tourney On at Atlanta
The annual three-day Third Army horseshoe tournament which is being staged at the Atlanta General Depot will end today. A half-dozen six-man teams in the Third Army area from Fort Benning, Fort Bragg, Ft. Campbell, Gordon, Ga., Fort McPherson, Ga., Georgia Military District and the Atlanta General Depot are competing for the Third Army trophy, which will be awarded to the winner of the tournament.

STR Scores 18 Points To Win Tourney
The Student Training Regiment amassed a total of 18 points out of a possible 38 to win the 1950 Fort Benning Post Intramural Table Tennis Tournament which was staged at the Briant Wells field house, Monday and Tuesday. One point was given to the team for each match won by a team member.

Main Post Gym Opened to Post

The Main Post gymnasium, which has been closed for the past few months was reopened again last week to Fort Benning personnel. Activities at the gym, which will be supervised by two qualified non-commissioned officers, will include basketball, volleyball, handball, badminton, weight-lifting and boxing. Hours of operation are 9:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. during weekdays, and 12:00 noon to 10:00 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Unit basketball teams desiring to use the gym basketball court must submit a written request for a reservation to the post athletic office. Upon approval of the request, the team will be notified as to what days the gym will be available.

Curtiss and Pell Win Golf Honors

Irene Curtiss and Dorothy Pell won top honors in the women's poker hand tournament staged at the Country Club golf course Friday afternoon. In the first of a series of five women's golf tournaments, Mrs. Curtiss won the 18-hole match with four five-hole while Mrs. Pell took the nine-hole competition with three seveners. The next meet is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. All women must submit a written request for a reservation to the post athletic office. Upon approval of the request, the team will be notified as to what days the gym will be available.

BEAMING SMILES MARK PROMOTIONS GIVEN AIRMEN ON DUTY AT LAWSON FIELD. New Chevrons are Held by Men After Presentation by Maj. Richard O. Johnson, Commanding Officer.

Score Advanced By Promotions At Lawson Field

A score of promotions, ranging from private to first class, were awarded by Maj. Richard O. Johnson, commanding officer at the field, at a ceremony held last week to Air Force men on duty at Lawson Field.

The promotions, along with chevrons for the men advanced, were awarded by Maj. Richard O. Johnson, commanding officer at the field, at a ceremony held last week to Air Force men on duty at Lawson Field.

Under the advancements, the new master sergeants are William J. Robertson and Lonnie L. Sanders. Promotions to technical sergeant were given to Willie W. Ziegler, Willard P. Daniel, Russell L. Smith, James Tomlinson, Jr., John C. Spann and Frank L. West. Those promoted to staff sergeant were James O. Barton, William B. Crook, Douglas W. Fuller, Rayburn E. Jorgensen, Billie E. Morrison, John N. Meeks, Truman A. Parker, Harry B. Reddish and Melis O. Reagan. Promoted to sergeant were Willie R. Craft and Charles O. Borden, while Rodolfo Sanchez was advanced to corporal and Robert H. Mitchell to private first class. In making the presentations, Major Johnson congratulated the men of the group for their "meritorious service", which he said was instrumental in gaining the approval of the promotion board which interviewed each of the men in person.

Record Program Will Present Ballet Group

Six ballet numbers by some of the world's greatest musicians have a part on the record concert program to be presented at the Main library next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. In the suite, presented by Leopold Stowkowski and his orchestra, are Adam's Giselle, Weber's Le Spectre de la Rose, Chopin's Les Sylphides, Delibes' Sylvia, and Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake and The Nutcracker. In the other offerings for Tuesday's program, Franz Lehár conducts the Zurich Tonhalle orchestra in a group of his own compositions, including Gypsy Love, The Merry Widow, Count of Luxembourg, Gold and Silver and Eva and the Columbia Symphony orchestra under Ehem Kurtz will present the Gaité Parisienne Ballet.

Yanks to 'Adopt' Allied Officers

A new sponsoring system designed to make students from other countries feel more "at home" while attending the Infantry School is now being organized by the Allied Liaison section. Under the sponsorship program, United States officers will volunteer to aid the Allied students during their stay at Fort Benning, with particular attention to familiarizing them with American customs, according to Maj. Stephen J. Meade, liaison officer. To get the sponsorship program in operation on a social level, a party is now being planned for the 64 Allied students, representing 17 countries, and their North American sponsors now attending the advanced infantry officers course. A similar program has previously been carried out with marked success at Fort Leavenworth.

Cub Scout Packs Are Opened To Younger Boys

Boys who will become eight years old between November and next June are eligible to attend meetings of the ten Cub Scout Packs being set up at Fort Benning.

Lt. Col. R. C. Dougan, chairman of the Cub Scout Council, announced that although the youths cannot wear the Cub uniform or carry membership cards they may otherwise participate in the program.

Two of the packs will be organized in the First Division district including the Hospital and Rainbow areas. Others will be in the Miller Loop area, Austin Loop area, Block 40, Block 12 Lumpkin road and vicinity Eames and Baltzell area, Custer Road Terrace locality and Sattle Park Homes area.

Eight of the ten dens already have Den Mothers and the other two mothers are expected to be announced shortly.

At a Pack Council meeting at the Officers' Mess Friday, Colonel Dougan outlined the organization's plans for the coming year.

He said a program will be set up to foster competition among the various dens during the winter.

He also said that a new pack flag and den guidons have been obtained by the council.

General Hodge Tours Benning

Third Army Chief Has Full Day's Program

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding general of the Third Army, paid his first visit to Fort Benning this week since assuming his new command some six weeks ago.

General Hodge, accompanied by his aide, Maj. Thomas H. Stewart, III, landed at Lawson Air Force base Monday morning and was met by Maj. Gen. Wilbur A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, Brig. Gen. George Honnen, assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

The famed wartime command—the 25th Infantry division, which turned back Japanese forces on Guadalcanal, and of the XXIV Corps in the invasion of Leyte and Okinawa, went immediately to the Infantry School where he was briefed on operations at Fort Benning.

Day-long Post Tour
Following the orientation, General Hodge, accompanied by General Burress and General Honnen, began a day-long tour of the post.

The first stop was the third Army Food Service School, then the Infantry School detachment's consolidated mess.

After a brief stop at the Main Exchange and the commissary, the group witnessed training exercises at the Airborne department.

General Hodge saw a demonstration of jump technique, watched paratroopers going

Meetings Held On Rec Center

Meetings were held last week about the proposed new enlisted service center, according to Col. Marcus Bell, G-4, the Infantry school.

James T. Dix, architect engineer from the Mobile Army Engineering district met with Lt. Col. Howard P. McManus, special services officer, for several planning sessions on the new building. On completion the plans will be submitted to authorities for approval.

Another Georgia product, Sergeant Clifford L. Wheeler, was hurt while setting a trip flare, as he operated with the Eighth Engineering Combat Battalion of the First Cavalry division, in the Naktong river sector. His home is in Porterdale.

The patients seem well pleased with the medical treatment they receive at the hospital and all of them are now walking unaided.

It goes without saying that each is looking forward to a furlough so he can go home and visit there in over three years.

General Staff, where he served as chief of the Asiatic branch of that division. He also attended the Guantánamo, Cuba, and Cairo conferences as a member of the staff.

Later, while in the China-Burma-India theater, he was with Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters.

Commanding the Fourth Division is being reorganized as a tactical division and will come here from Fort Ord, Calif. where it has been a training division for replacements.

32 Casualties From Korea In Post Hospital

While many a Fort Benningite is contemplating his chances of getting into the Korean scramble, for at least 32 soldiers on the post the war is over—at least temporarily.

These 32 have just returned from the Korean campaign and are now recuperating at the Station hospital.

The men wounded or injured during August and September were taken first to Japan and later brought to the United States via fast hospital ships.

Osburn is veteran
Captain Leroy Osburn, a 20-year Army veteran of Meadesville, Ky., and the father of two children, compared the Korean fighting with the bloodiest battles he saw in Europe during World War II while he was in combat with the 102nd Infantry division.

Carrying out his duties as executive officer of the 1st battalion, 34th Infantry, 24th division, the captain was struck by small arms' fire in the chest and right arm.

M-Sgt. Chester F. Senteney, who tops Captain Osburn's army service by one year, said he was not wounded during the fighting but said "my leg just played out."

The master sergeant's wife and three children are awaiting him in Indianapolis, his home.

Youthful Corporal Thomas J. Amerson, of Lake City, Fla., who has spent one month in the army for each of his 20 years of age, was near Mason on the Nakdong river when he was wounded while on a reconnaissance patrol.

A machine gunner, Pfc. Willie Simmons of Jacksonville, Fla., suffered a head wound while serving in the same sector of Korea as Corporal Amerson.

Pvt. Robert Yahmert, Cleveland, O., who had scarcely been on the front lines two weeks when he was wounded in the back, was an assistant Browning Automatic rifleman.

He said he was injured when blown from a fox hole.

Another Georgia product, Sergeant Clifford L. Wheeler, was hurt while setting a trip flare, as he operated with the Eighth Engineering Combat Battalion of the First Cavalry division, in the Naktong river sector. His home is in Porterdale.

The patients seem well pleased with the medical treatment they receive at the hospital and all of them are now walking unaided.

Benning to Get Freedom Scroll

Post Personnel Given Chance to Sign Names

Fort Benning's own "Crusade for Freedom" drive will be held throughout the post, starting within the next few days, to give all personnel the opportunity to add their names to the Freedom Scroll to fight against enslavement of peoples throughout the world.

Copies of the scroll to be signed by personnel, along with coupons for donating, will be placed at strategic spots throughout the reservation, including schools, service clubs, officers' and enlisted men's messes, and will be circulated throughout the post.

Volunteers in charge of the drive said that participation in the crusade was on a purely voluntary basis, and that no one is required to either sign the scroll or make donations. It was also pointed out that expectations were for a large number of small contributions rather than just a few large ones.

To Go In Monument

The scroll, with the signatures of the millions of persons who have already signed them, and those who will do so before the end of the campaign, eventually will be sealed in a monument at a special ceremony in Berlin, Germany, as a symbol of hope to the nations throughout the world who have lost their freedom.

The money raised during the crusade, through the donations, will be used to aid financing the Freedom Radio which is being backed by private funds to supplement the Voice of America radio which operates by the United States government.

The Crusade for Freedom, under the direction of Gen. Lucius Clay, already has secured the signatures of more than 375,000 persons in the state of Georgia alone, along with contributions of some $55,000.

The policy of the Department of Defense on the crusade is as follows:

The Crusade for Freedom is a popular movement led by prominent citizens with which high government officials are sympathetic. Although not an official program, it is a movement inspired by far-seeing Americans who wish to give aid and hope to these nations all over the world who have lost their freedom and are determined to regain it.

"Military and civilian personnel of the Department of Defense may be encouraged to lend active personal support to the campaign and, without compulsion, to contribute financially."

Each unit on the Post is urged to seek a volunteer representative to supervise the Scrolls and to be custodian of the donated funds.

The Crusade, a nationwide project designed to enlist all Americans in the drive for freedom, will have special bell-ringing ceremonies over the entire nation on United Nations Day, October 24. Col. Samuel L. Buracker, executive director of the Muro-Gee County drive, has announced. Plans for the Columbus ceremonies will be made public at a later date he said.

Plans call for one Ranger company in each Infantry division.

Ranger companies now being formed will be authorized to wear shoulder insignia and otherwise continue traditions of the ranger outfits of World War II.

Training will stress the use of foreign weapons and maps, demolition and sabotage, guerrilla warfare, amphibious and air-boat operations, and close combat.

Men will be selected for the units on the basis of high mental and physical standards. All will be qualified as paratroopers.

Ranger Unit Established At Benning

The highly mobile Ranger units will be available to division commanders for special missions of the general type performed by their predecessors in World War II.

At the start, four rifle companies, each of five officers and 110 enlisted men, will be formed.

Each company will be divided into three platoons of three 10-man squads each.

Every Ranger will be equipped with a light automatic rifle and each squad will have either a 60 millimeter mortar or a bazooka. Each man will carry two rounds of ammunition on his person for these weapons in addition to his automatic rifle ammunition and certain demolition equipment.

Men will be selected for the units on the basis of high mental and physical standards. All will be qualified as paratroopers.

Training will stress the use of foreign weapons and maps, demolition and sabotage, guerrilla warfare, amphibious and air-boat operations, and close combat.

Korean War Report

Ex-Benningites Credited With Bagging 300 Reds

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch was written by Cpl. Pat Murphy, a former member of The Bayonet staff who is now serving with the First Cavalry division in Korea.

BY PAT MURPHY
WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION IN KOREA—Three former Fort Benning infantrymen, who have been at the Southern battle line continuously, have helped smash Red resistance near Taegu to the tune of 300 enemy dead and three jeeploads of abandoned equipment.

At Hill 314, scene of savage hand-to-hand combat, Maj. Charles W. Halden, Capt. Robert Walker, and Cpl. Virgil Brinson felled defiant Communists in one of the war's most heroic attacks.

Maj. Halden, executive officer of the unit attacking the Red-controlled hilltop, told First Cavalry division officials that the 1,000 Communist North Koreans rolled grenades down the knobby hillsides to stop the small American force.
The five-hour American attack, Major Halden reported, began when Air Force fighters descended the hill with machine gun fire, rockets and bombs for more than an hour.

"Shortly after we had pushed half-way toward our objective, the enemy began counterattacking with their grenade-rolling tactics."

Although the Reds were heavily armed with Russian-type automatic weapons and were entrenched in good defensive positions, Major Halden said American forces bowled over the enemy with bullet-for-bullet counterfire.

Another member of the outnumbered Cavalry unit, Captain Walker, recalled that the thin American line was endangered several times by counter-attacking Reds, armed with bayonets.

"It didn't look like we had much of a chance at first," Captain Walker confessed, "but after two hours of fighting by our boys, there wasn't a way we could lose." The Lancaster, Wis., native led a gallant group of men into the face of the dug-in Reds.

Corporal Brinson, the third Fort Benning alumnus, said he was the "happiest man in the world" when he watched the whipped Reds flee for safety in adjoining hills. Brinson fought off two North Koreans with a bayonet and pistol during one of the Communists' fanatical bayonet charges.

Patrols scouting the blistered hilltop found 300 dead Reds, an equal number of wounded and three jeeploads of equipment which is now under study by First Cavalry ordnance technicians.

33rd Truck Outfit Makes Record

Here's one for the books. The 33rd Transportation Truck company rolled up 166,000 miles of driving during a recent six-months period without an accident.
The 33rd's commanding officer, Lt. L. Russell J. Kenling, said he believes this is a Third Army record.
Lieutenant Kenling said the credit for the record belongs mainly to his non-commissioned officers, who worked tirelessly to stress prevention of accidents to the company's drivers.

The commanding officer also praised the work of his executive Lt. Earl Underwood.
Lieutenant Kenling observed that the enviable mark was rolled up during a time when the company was two officers under strength, and here again the 33rd's NCO's drew their commanding officer's praise.
Setting records is nothing new to the unit. While with the 52nd Truck Transportation battalion, the 33rd won an award for the "Best Vehicles" during both months the contest was judged. Sgt. Whit L. Moon is motor sergeant of the company.

through their calisthenics and then was on hand for a parachute pull-off demonstration and pre-jump instruction.

Then General Hodge, who moved his corps into Korea after V-J Day and was military governor of that part of Korea south of the 38th parallel until August, 1948, was escorted to Army Field Forces board No. 3 where he was shown new developments in equipment visits Korea Casualties.

Following a stop-over at the 30th Infantry regiment's headquarters, the party then visited the Station hospital where General Hodge talked with patients there, including seven Korea casualties.

At noon the Third Army chief of staff, General Hodge, presided at the Officers' Mess. Attending the affair besides Generals Hodge, Burgess and Honnen were Brig. Gen. Robert B. Hill, Station hospital commander, Major Ralph Sayers of Columbus, Mayor R. Ashworth, publisher of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer, Col. Marcus B. Bell, Col. Charles E. Woodruff, Col. C. H. Karlsstad, Col. Sevier R. Trupper, Col. Maurice Miller, Col. August E. Schanze, Col. Daniel P. Buckland, Col. Charles W. Pence, Clayton D. McLendon, executive director of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, Col. Thomas H. Rees, Col. John G. Van Houten, Lt. Col. John R. Wright, Maj. Richard Johnson and Louis Kunze.

After lunch General Hodge visited the Student Training Regiment, dropped in on the NCO class No. 1 at Wagner range and the associated company of the course No. 1 at Savage Hill.

Inspects Barracks
Moving into the Sand Hill area, the officers inspected barracks, the mess hall and dayroom of the 37th Ordnance company, and facilities of the 201st Armored Field Artillery battalion and drove through the Custer Road Terrace and Battle Park homes housing areas before leaving Lawson Air Force base for Fort McPherson, Ga.

Commenting on his visit at Fort Benning shortly before he departed, General Hodge said, "I was very pleased with what I saw. I am happy to have had the opportunity to stop over at Fort Benning again and I expect to return for a longer stay soon. An excellent job is being done here at Fort Benning."

Sfc. Ferreebee Gets Honor As Year's Soldier

Sfc. Walter D. Ferreebee of Battery C, 201st Armored Field Artillery battalion, last week was named the "Outstanding Soldier of the Battalion for 1950" at a formal review held in his honor at Tiger field.
Col. August E. Schanze, commanding officer of the 30th Infantry regiment, presented the organizational bronze trophy to Sergeant Ferreebee before his commanding officer, Lt. Col. Harry F. Shrader, and an estimated 500 members of the battalion.

The honor was bestowed on Sergeant Ferreebee, the orders read, "for outstanding qualities as a leader based upon general efficiency, moral and physical attributes, and through long hours of extra study, attention and devotion to duty."
"Sergeant Ferreebee, above all others of the battalion, compiled the highest composite score of all those eligible. This was ascertained by a review of the total number of correspondence credit hours, 246 for the period from July 1, 1949, to June 30, 1950, and was based on his marksmanship record, his general attention to duty, knowledge of his specialty, his ability to assume command, sincerity and aptness."

A result of this he most capably represented and competed against 3,500 other National Guardsmen in the state of West Virginia for the coveted Governor Okey L. Patterson Trophy. A veteran of 25 months in the EO and eight years Army service, Sergeant Ferreebee has been a member of the 201st for the past two and a half years. During World War II he served as a chemical non-commissioned officer attached to the 354th Fighter group in England, France and Germany. He wears five battle stars on his European Theater of Operations ribbon.
Before coming to Fort Benning with the battalion three weeks ago, he was postmaster in his home town, Patterson Creek, W. Va.

This, Then, Is Americanism

A recent edition of Look Magazine, in attempting to answer that question, listed 41 Principles of America which the editors called a "Primer"—a try at stating in American principles clearly, simply, in plain fashion so that anyone, child or adult, American or foreigner, can understand them.

But the answer is incomplete. It's impossible to put in words the complete meaning of Americanism, because unlike other isms, Americanism is not just a belief, not just a form of government, not even a combination of these. Americanism is far more than that: it's a way of life.

Americanism is based on the belief that each person is valuable, not only to the State but as an individual. Some isms, especially Communism, look upon the individual as valuable only when his existence furthers the power of the State. Such disregard for the value of the individual has been proved many times in the past, but the war in Korea has magnified Communism's utter disregard for human life. The Communist aggressor army impressed South Korean youths into service as nothing more than "cannon fodder." The Reds used these untrained boys to counter-attack when the odds were against them, thus saving for more important battles their seasoned troops. Americans have never been accused to such barbaric tactics. Indeed, we find such statements hard to believe, but it scores a point with us. It makes us all glad that we are Americans and that Americanism recognizes the value and importance of the individual.

Among the 41 Principles of Americanism listed by Look Magazine are Personal Freedom, Freedom of Speech and Freedom of Worship, none of which is worth a tinker's dam so far as Communism is concerned. As Americans we enjoy all three of these freedoms to an extent which those persons who are unfortunate enough to be enslaved by the Communist State would find impossible to believe.

Our personal lives are not regulated by the State. We marry whom we wish and when we wish. We select the school we want our children to attend. We buy the kind of food we want to eat. We spend our vacation in a place of our own choosing. We speak those words we want to speak. If we are dissatisfied with our Government officials, we aren't afraid to speak out against them. When we disagree with the way our Senator voted, we say so. We can't be imprisoned for our disagreement. We join the Church of our choice, and we can attend that Church regularly and without fear.

Look Magazine's 41 Principles of Americanism include such items as "Every Man Shall Be Judged by His Own Record, Every Man is Free to Achieve as Much as He Can, and to Achieve Anything a Man Must Be Willing to Work."

These three Principles are the basis of our foundation as a Nation. They serve as proof of the democratic structure on which is built our way of life. The Army, as an American institution adheres firmly to these Principles by recognizing the merits of the individual soldier solely upon his own record, his own achievements and the diligence he displays to achieve those ends. Just as the man in civilian life is judged, not by the record of his father, but by his own ability, so it is in the Army. And so it is in all American institutions. We advance through our own initiative, through our own hard work. We are not judged simply by those who went before us.

This business of Americanism, however, is not a one-way affair. We must also give a great deal if we expect to reap any of the harvest of our way of life. As Look Magazine points out, "The individual has responsibilities to the groups of which he is a part." He must give his best to making those organizations to which he belongs prosper and progress. His own success depends upon it. As soldiers in the American Army, this is no less true than in civilian life. It is the responsibility of each soldier to help his organization improve its techniques and its methods of accomplishing its tasks, its efficiency in getting its job done. It takes the combined efforts of each member of any organization if that organization is to be successful in carrying out its mission.

Lastly, the individual American "has responsibilities to his country" as well as "responsibilities to the world." His responsibility to his country includes his privilege and his duty of voting for the man he wants to lead his country. Our ballots aren't one-party dominated. We have a choice when we vote, but we must exercise that duty if we want to insure that it will always be so.

The individual's responsibility to the world is as great as his responsibility to his country. What happens in the world, affects him, and his actions affect the world. That's why we are fighting in Korea today; that's why we'll fight anywhere that aggression rears its ugly head.

We believe in the freedom and dignity of mankind. We believe in the right of the individual to choose his own way of life. We are opposed to aggression, to dictatorship, to rule by minority.

These 41 Principles of America do not tell the full story, but they come close to defining Americanism, a way of life which recognizes the value and importance of each person as an individual. We can insure that way of life only if we remain alert to our responsibilities. We must accept that challenge.

News Briefs Urges UN Set Up Tribunal for War Criminals

Telford Taylor, U. S. prosecutor of German war criminals, has proposed that the United Nations set up a similar tribunal to bring before the bar of justice those persons accused of atrocities during the Korean war.

Soviet Russia this week "agreed" with the American-supported program to strengthen the United Nations Assembly as an agent for peace. In a partial endorsement, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky said that some parts of the proposal were agreeable to him. But of the proposal were agreeable to him. But of the proposal were agreeable to him. But of the proposal were agreeable to him.

Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee insisted this week that Reserver who fail to answer the call to active duty should resign their commissions. His objection is to weed out those officers who are not available when called—"even if they are Congressmen, industrialists, prominent names." Vinson says he is opposed to paying Reservists unless the Armed Services are going to get them when they are needed.

Government spending was boosted an additional $50 million a month this week as bigger pension checks went out to three million Social Security beneficiaries. Higher taxes and tighter credit terms, however, are expected to cut down consumer buying and check inflation.

Seized Communist documents, released this week by Judge Michael A. Musmanno in Pittsburgh, "establish without question that the Communist Party in America is a war machine with its primary and fundamental objective the overthrow of the Government." According to a Chicago Tribune story by Willard Edwards of its Washington staff, the documents were acclaimed by investigative agencies as "sensational in import." Copies of the documents are in the hands of the FBI, investigators are in the hands of the FBI, investigators are in the hands of the FBI.

The United States and Great Britain assured the United Nations General Assembly this week that UN forces would not enter Communist China from Korea and that Allied forces would remain in Korea only as long as necessary.

Also in the UN this week, the Steering Committee recommended a full airing of the question of Formosa, last bastion of Chiang Kai-Shek's Government. The vote was 10 to 3 for an American proposal to give the issue right of way in the General Assembly. Russia, Nationalist China and Communist Czechoslovakia voted against it, while Iran abstained.

Report From Washington

Coast Guard Is Authorized Use of Draftees

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE Composition for entrance to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., is now open to all active members of the Army and Air Force civilian components. Under provisions of Public Law 568, 81st Congress, personnel of the Army Organized Reserve Corps, the National Guard, the Air Reserve and the Air National Guard, who meet requirements, may compete for admission to the Academy during the examination period to be held this fall for the 1951-52 school year.

Reactivation of Camp Kilmer, N. J., in the future, has been announced by the Army. The installation near Shelton, N. J., has a potential capacity of 18,500. Initially, however, approximately 4,000 troops will be stationed at the post. It is to be used in connection with Transportation Corps activities. Camp Kilmer was used during World War II and became an inactive installation April 1, 1950.

Dependents of Naval personnel may now travel by Government transportation to Naval Bases in the Pacific area. The practice of transporting dependents was stopped on July 14 of this year, shortly after the outbreak of the Korean fighting. The Navy said further, that only those men on permanent duty status and filling a billet that existed prior to the Korean emergency, and where housing is available, will be able to bring their families or household effects.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Foster, Army Chief of Finance has advised finance officers that under the provisions of Public Law 779, dated September 8, the extra payment of $100 a month to doctors and dentists volunteering for active duty in the armed forces is now also payable to members of the Reserve medical component orders into uniform with or without their consent. Personnel on duty prior to September 8 are entitled to pay from that date. AR 35-1120 is being amended to include the new provision.

Chaplain's Corner

Take Advantage of Opportunities to Do Good

BY CHAPLAIN LEWIS M. BURDEN In the 23rd chapter of the Gospel as recorded by St. Matthew, Jesus took the opportunity to rebuke the Scribes and Pharisees for their failure to fulfill the whole law. They were commended for paying their tithes of mint and anise and cummin but condemned for omitting the weightier matters of judgment, mercy, and faith.

It is the sad lot of man that, as he comes close to the end of his earthly journey, he looks back over the winding road he has traveled and begins to review the things he failed to have done. Some one has expressed as "If I had my life to live over again." Others have mournfully mused: "Oh, if I could just call back twenty-five years, I certainly would live a different life."

The best experiences of the past tell us that we shall not pass this way again. So how important it is that we take every opportunity to do good, as we live and move among our fellow man, so that we shall be remembered more for what we were than for who we were.

There is an old Chinese Proverb which says: "If the faults of man were written on his forehead, he would have to wear his hat down over his eyes in order to hide them, and thus go through life stumbling as though he were blind." We might go further and say: "If the sins of omission were placed on man's back as a burden to be borne by man, he would fall to his knees under the weight of such a tremendous burden."

As you try to relate this saying to your own life, I propose this question: Do you remember the word of kindness you might have spoken, the smile of sunshine you might have radiated or the helping hand you might have extended? These things are precious—yes they are precious—yet all of us possess them. These God-given possessions often mean more than all the material things we normally think of giving those whom we would help.

The story is told of an old beggar who stopped a very devout Christian one day and asked him for the gift of a coin. The devout one stopped and searched his pockets, but failed to find a coin. Placing his hand on the shoulder of the old beggar, he said: "Brother, I am sorry, but I don't have a penny to give you."

Immediately, a radiant light came into the eyes of the beggar, and he smiled and said: "I am happy, thank you, friend."

The devout one said: "But I didn't give you anything. Why are you so happy?" "Ah," the beggar said, "you gave me no money, but you called me brother. That means more than money to me. You have made me feel like a human being."

It may be a small matter for one to do the simple thing that will win a lost soul for Christ, but it means everything to Christ and the one who was won. Watch your daily living and never let it be said to you: "These things ought ye to have done, and not left the others undone."

WANTED! There are casualties, and the crew visits a rest camp together, and discovers that human decency and morals take a back seat when people are over-run by war, hunger and fear. Face of a Hero is not a book for squeamish people. It is told in the exact words used by soldiers in combat. It could well be the story of every bomber based in Italy during World War II. The crew learns the handiaps and hazards of flying continuous missions when not enough airplanes are available to hit the enemy. It learns about the aging Red Cross club hostess who keeps steady company with a lieutenant colonel, until a handsome lieutenant comes along. It becomes acquainted with the mess sergeant who sells pornographic pictures, and with the young Italian girl who knows only two English words. There are casualties, and the crew visits a rest camp together, and discovers that human decency and morals take a back seat when people are over-run by war, hunger and fear.

Denning Dandbox

By May Pigott

The other day I sat in the main lounge of the Officers' Mess and saw charming and tiny Mrs. Allen Peck, the 27th president of the Women's club, open the 1950-51 season of the organization and my mind wandered back to the past, to the why, when and the how.

I checked back over the past records of the club to find an answer to my question, and as I looked over the yellow pages, I saw the pages of the world's greatest military centers grow from a small beginning to the top ranking place it holds today.

Back in 1923, Mrs. Walton Gordon issued a call to twelve of her friends to meet with her and form a study club, devoting their afternoons to reading and discussion. As they met time after time, they realized the need for an organized club for the women on the post to fill a growing cultural and social need. So the Infantry School's Women's club came into being, and the first president to wield the gavel was Mrs. Alfred Bjornstad, who arranged and carried through a full that Benning was then "a temporary camp of shanties and tents." At the time of its organization, it was the second of its kind in the United States.

The first two years of the club's existence, bi-monthly meetings were held with no social features, emphasis being placed on important speakers, musical programs and the post school. Through the passing years the educational system and the post schools have been special projects of the club.

The roll call of some of the celebrities who have appeared here under auspices of the Women's club reads like a "Who's Who" of famous people. In the past they heard Ruth Bryan Rhodes, Ralph McGill, Irina Skariatina, Countess Keller, maid of honor to the Empresses of Russia, Sir Hubert Wilkins and Soo Young, the famous Chinese actress.

In 1925 the club branched out into departmental clubs organizing the arts and crafts group, home economics group, literature and child psychology groups, all of these being fore-runners to groups that make up the present day club.

As in all things, those things worth having are worth fighting for, and the new club sometimes found the going hard. But with an iron will determination to hold on to what they had already attained, the officers kept going against the heavy odds, and year by year the club grew in membership and advantages.

Time rolled on and finally came the years of war—trying years for all people. As time drew near for the opening of the 1942 season, serious debate went on as to continuing the club, with the decision being that morale needed boosting as much as ever and the opportunity for relaxation as acute as it had ever been, so on-it went.

It was during these crucial years that a Nursery school was founded under the direction of Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, his purpose being to release young mothers for war-time duties. During the war years, the club devoted its time and energy to Red Cross activities and other war time duties.

At the September meeting in 1947, the by-laws and constitution of the club were revised and amended to change the name of the club from the Infantry School's Women's club to the Fort Benning Women's club, as it is known today.

And so through the years, this group of women, sometimes small as in war years, has striven to carry on the program set up by the first club. Today's club is a well rounded group with departments of interest for all members, whether their tastes run to bridge or to beautification of the home, also in keeping with the cultural aspect of the club, the Community Concert series came into being and has brought to Benning some of the greatest talent available in dancing, musical and chorus groups.

"And as the club goes into its 27th consecutive year, it offers membership to those who want a meeting place for new friends and old, for continued personal interest and for exchange of inspiration and morale, with programs designed for practical as well as entertainment value.

"Look Ahead", the motto for the current year, is apt and well chosen, and this year bids fair to being a banner one for the club. As Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress stated in his recent address to the club, the women of Fort Benning have played a great part in the building of Benning and even against great odds have added immeasurably to the cultural and social life of America's most complete Army post.

Women Golfers Board 3 Ladies Hold Luncheon

Mrs. Hamilton Peyton and Mrs. Leland B. Shaw served as No. 3 ladies held their regular hostesses for the women's golf luncheon at the Officers' Mess club on Friday.

The table was uniquely centered with a miniature golf tee with a miniature golf ball. The table was set for thirty guests.

Pfc. Carlos Brunner

Meet Miss Benning---

It's front and center for Pfc. Carlos Brunner, next in our parade of Meet Miss Benning. A Pennsylvanian who worked in a defense plant before donning olive drab, Carlos is now acting as first sergeant for the WAC detachment. Competent and conscientious, she is doing just the type of work she likes. She is also well trained for her assignment since she attended administrative school before being assigned to Benning.

PFC. BRUNNER HAS A VARIED ASSORTMENT of hobbies, but the one she likes best is writing. Just give her some paper and a pencil, let her imagination go soaring on its flight of fancy, and she's happy. She likes nothing better than to spend an evening at the Pine Lodge NCO Mess because she is particularly fond of dancing. She is also a sports enthusiast, both as a spectator and a participant.

This very busy Miss Benning prefers musical type movies over all others, and when she can find time to spare, she likes non-fiction for her reading menu. In the music line, semi-classics hold first place with her and she prefers sports clothes. She chooses blue as her favorite color.

PFC. BRUNNER HAS CURLY BROWN hair, an infectious smile and blue eyes. Five feet five inches of vitality, pep and the zest of living. She bounces around in a happy glow most of the time. Most of the girls have found that even though she is a busy person, she is never too occupied to lend a sympathetic ear to their problems. They claim they cannot help smiling back when she gives them a word of encouragement.

Having started this business of an Army career, Pfc. Brunner at present is fully determined to make the Army her life's work, but who can tell. The best laid plans of man have a habit of going astray, and it is a woman's prerogative to change her mind!

New Favorite Menus

- This week's dinner menu is submitted by Mrs. Drew, wife of M-Sgt. Drew, and is ideal for these cool nights.

Flowering Bush Care Outlined

The following outline for the care of camellia and azalea bushes on the post was presented this week by W. S. Reed, agricultural aide to the post engineer.

When the ground is moist, pull all weeds and grass from around the plants. Cultivation around these plants should be avoided as it will disturb the root systems near the surface of the ground.

These root systems should be protected with a leaf mold or pine straw mulch to a depth of two or three inches deep around the plants and to a distance slightly beyond the spread of the top. Where the plants are in beds the whole bed will be mulched.

Matching will conserve moisture for the plants, protect the roots from damage by cold in winter and heat in summer, and will discourage the growth of weeds and grasses.

Chopin, Franck and Debussy have places on the record concert to be presented at the Main Post Library on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Chopin's famous waltzes will be played by the noted pianist Alexander Bralowsky, Franck's Sonata in Major for violin and piano by Zino Francescatti on the violin and Robert Cadaneseu on the piano and Debussy's Sonata No. 3 by the same two artists.

AT A BANQUET HELD AT THE POLO HUNT CLUB, . . . Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general, the Infantry Center, presented the Third Army commanding general's trophies to members of the Infantry School Detachment and Wac softball teams, winners of the Third Army 1950 men's and women's softball tournaments. John Wyatt, (Left) ace pitcher for the ISD team, looks on as General Burress presents the women's trophy to Dorthea Smith, coach of the WAC team. The trophies will be retained by both teams until the next tourney or until a new Third Army championship team is proclaimed.

Five Unbeaten In Pin League

As the Fort Benning Officer's Bowling league rolls into its second week of the 1950-51 season, five teams still remain in the ranks of the unbeaten.

Competing on Tuesday and Thursday of last week, strong and weak teams alike quickly occupied their comparative position in the 24-team league standings ladder.

Ranking in the top positions this week were the Automotive department No. 1, All department students officers' class No. 1, Team 2, student officers' class No. 2, Communications department No. 2 and Staff department No. 1.

Each squad has chalked up three and no losses for a percentage of 1,000.

Paced by the hardwood tosses of Maj. Donn W. Yoder, first horse department No. 1 annexed high team game laurels for the opening week by amassing a total of 641 knockdowns. Following close behind, a Weapons department No. 2 crew occupied the second position with 574, and the Infantry School detachment placed third with a total of 518 knockdowns.

The individual records department, honors were shared by Lt. Charles E. Sparks of Weapons department No. 2 and Major Yoder, both of whom placed either first or second in the high single game or high individual series.

Sparks reigned supreme in the high single game with his mark of 257. Yoder trailed in the No. 2 spot with 242. However, in the high individual series, Yoder turned the tables on Sparks by placing first with his 574, while edging Runner-up, Sparks, by a six-point margin.

Capt. Vernon L. Ashbacher placed third in the high single game with his high score of 229, while Maj. Conway L. Ehlers, student officers' advanced class No. 1, team 2, held down third place in the high individual series with 554 knockdowns.

League competition is held each Tuesday and Thursday night at the Atlanta General Depot, and Men's bowling alleys. Features of tonight's matches will be a head-on clash between the Weapons group, Infantry department and Station hospital.

Sports Sidelights

Women Bowlers Expect 10 Teams To Enter League

PURDUE'S SENSATIONAL TRIUMPH OVER THE FIGHTING Irish of Notre Dame was undoubtedly the biggest story of the week. However, the Boilermaker's 24-14 victory over coach Frank Leahy's boys, in effect an upset, actually didn't prove to be the thunder-striking surprise that it ordinarily would have been.

After Notre Dame's showing against North Carolina the week before, it was an accepted fact that the Irishmen's luck had just about run out, and that their undefeated streak of 39 games was doomed to end within the very near future.

Surprising was the fact that it was a collegiate team which didn't even place in the first twenty in many of the pre-season strength predictions that finally topped the mighty Irish from their pedestal. Undoubtedly, Purdue, which was sadly underrated by many of the nation's top sportswriters has something in the way of a football team this year.

ENOUGH SAID ABOUT THAT. NOW WE'LL GO INTO our trance and attempt to analyze what to expect in next Saturday's schedule.

Approximately 10 teams are expected to compete in the Fort Benning Women's Club Bowling League during the 1950-51 season. Mrs. Herman Rabinowitz, chairman of the bowling group, disclosed last week that over 50 women have already registered and are taking part in the pre-season qualifying matches to establish a league handicap. Mrs. Rabinowitz declared.

Matches, which began Oct. 2, will be held each Monday at 8 p.m. for the remainder of the month. Each member must bowl a total of 12 lines before handicap and teams are formed.

Prizes will be awarded each month to the bowler with the highest average in the intermediate and advanced groups. Beginners are also invited to join the group in competing for prizes. Mrs. Rabinowitz added.

At a meeting of the group last Wednesday evening, Mrs. Rabinowitz named Mrs. Gloria Killers, co-chairman, and Mrs. Jeanne Parr, secretary and treasurer, to assist her during the coming season.

ARMY OVER MICHIGAN: Here's some competition for the Black Knights from the Hudson. We'll say the Cadets by one touchdown.

MARYLAND OVER GEORGETOWN: By about three touchdowns. The Terps should have no difficulty here.

COLUMBIA OVER YALE: With little to spare.

PENN OVER DARTMOUTH: The Quakers will take it by two TDs.

PITTSBURGH OVER RICE: But not without a fight.

PRINCETON OVER NAVY: Strike up another loss for the Middies.

THE MIDWEST

INDIANA OVER OHIO STATE: It will be close. The extra point might make the difference.

WISCONSIN OVER IOWA: By two touchdowns.

MISSOURI OVER KANSAS STATE: You're safe with even odds here.

MICHIGAN STATE OVER WILLIAM & MARY: An easy one. No questions here.

PURDUE OVER MIAMI: A breather. We'll say by three.

OKLAHOMA OVER TEXAS: This one could go either way. But the Sooners look better.

SMU OVER OKLAHOMA A & M: The Mustangs are out to dump the Oklahoma squad from the ranks of the unbeaten.

THE SOUTH

ALABAMA OVER FURMAN: The Crimson Tide will have no trouble here.

DUKE OVER N. C. STATE: It'll be a massacre.

FLORIDA OVER AUBURN: The Tigers will be lucky if they win one all season.

GEORGIA OVER MISSISSIPPI STATE: We'll play along with the favorite.

VANDERBILT OVER MISSISSIPPI: Vandy looks good for two markers.

NORTH CAROLINA OVER WAKE FOREST: No question about this one.

TENNESSEE OVER CHATTANOOGA: None here either.

THE WEST

BAYLOR OVER ARKANSAS: The Bears by a pair of touchdowns.

STANFORD OVER SANTA CLARA: With ease.

CALIFORNIA OVER SOUTHERN CAL: Strike up another victory for the golden Bears.

WASHINGTON OVER OREGON STATE: By 14 points.

Shoes Tossers Lose Tourney

Fort Benning recently suffered its worst defeat in Third Army competition this year when the post team was eliminated in the opening round of the Third Army horseshoe tournament at the Atlanta General Depot, Oct. 3-5.

The Benning team, winning only three out of nine matches, placed last in the six-team tourney which was captured by sharpshooters Camp Gordon.

Camp Gordon annexed the crown last Thursday by defeating the Georgia Military District in a one game play-off after both teams were tied at nine points each at the end of normal play.

Charles Curry, a stellar pitman from Camp Gordon, won the singles title on the second day of the meet by topping Correy Morris of the Georgia Military District, 51-25, 51-32.

In the doubles competitions, GMD's John Correy and Morris copped high honors by downing Henry Lyones and James Kilpatrick of Fort Benning, 50-43, 47-51 and 50-45.

Benning's only three victories were registered by Carmen Piccirilli and Paul Barkman in the singles matches and Piccirilli and Deaver Adkins in the doubles competitions.

The locals were quickly eliminated from further competition early in the tourney. In the singles division, Ed Reese and

QUESTIONS

1. What fighter named Sugar twice fought another named Sugar, and knocked him out each time?
2. What fighter was known as "Gentleman Jim"?
3. What lightweight bicycle became a museum piece soon after it was manufactured?
4. When was the bicycle invented?

ANSWERS

1. Sugar Ray Robinson fought Sugar George Costner in Chicago on February 14, 1949 and knocked him out in the first round. They had a second bout last March in Philadelphia, and Sugar Ray again knocked out Sugar George.
2. James J. Corbett.
3. A bamboo frame machine made in Milwaukee. The bamboo shrunk, and the joints loosened up, causing it to fall apart. The museum piece, not exposed to the elements, is holding up well.
4. The first bicycle known as a "draisine" was invented in Germany in 1816. When it was brought to the United States, it became popular as a "dandy horse" and riders were wheeled around a rink much as roller skaters do now.

Winter Uniforms Due October 30

Infantry Center headquarters announced this week that all personnel at Fort Benning should be prepared to change over to winter uniforms anytime after Oct. 19.

Headquarters spokesmen indicated that by Oct. 30 all military personnel will be in woolen clothing, but hinted that orders may come down before that time to change over, depending on the weather.

For enlisted men wool serge shade 33, with jacket, tie shade 51 and garrison cap will be prescribed during duty hours with service caps optional after retreat.

After duty hours the authorized dress uniform may be worn. Persons may remove the jacket while inside offices of duty, providing the office is not one frequently used for receiving official or civilian visitors.

Prescribed as the outer garment for enlisted men is the M-43 field jacket or overcoat as issued. The M-43 field jacket can be worn only with fatigue clothing or when the shirt and trousers, shade 33, are prescribed by major unit commanders.

For officers a uniform of wool serge shade 33, with jacket, shade 33, garrison cap and shade 51 tie will be worn during duty hours.

After retreat the shade 51 coat, shade 54 trousers, shade 51 tie and service or shade 51 garrison cap should be worn.

The prescribed outer garment for officers will be the shade 7 field coat or shade 79 trench coat. Airborne personnel, on authorized jump duty, may wear parachute boots when wearing the duty uniform.

Army nurses and members of the Women's Army Corps will wear the uniform as outlined by their respective commanders.

Civilian attire still may be worn while going to and from the post, in quarters or at informal parties or gatherings. But Army authorities warned that the attire must correspond with that for appropriate wear in civilian life on similar occasions, and it will include coat and necktie.

From now until Oct. 31 either the summer or winter uniform is optional off-duty.

Family Portrait

Seven Is Lucky Number For Fernandez Family

The old saying about the seventh son of a seventh son is lucky may be true, but Sgt. George Fernandez believes that his seven children, they live in a happy home in Benning Park, while the sergeant holds a job with post ordnance.

When young Billie Matthews took a good look at George Fernandez, 13 years ago, she decided she must do something about getting to know him better. With this idea in mind, she persuaded her brother-in-law, for whom Fernandez worked, to introduce her. Evidently George Fernandez responded with much the same feeling, but Sgt. and Mrs. Fernandez believe that their seven children, they live in a happy home in Benning Park, while the sergeant holds a job with post ordnance.

One year after their marriage, the first baby arrived and they thought they were about the happiest people in the world. Six children later, they feel their happiness complete.

Mrs. FERNANDEZ IS A tiny person, with natural charm and gaiety, but she rules her brood with a firm hand. Buck, 12, is the oldest child. He is in the seventh grade, wants to be a soldier like his dad.

Stephanie, 8, is next. In the fourth grade at school, she has a smile much like her mother's, and she says she wants to be a housewife.

Seven-year-old Jennilee is in the third grade, and her burning ambition is to be a "beauty parlor lady."

Young Andy comes next, being all of six years old and in the first grade. He, like Buck, wants to be a soldier, but would consider being a cowboy.

Mike, who is five, wants to go to school, and gets pretty pouty when he won't have next year when he won't have to stay home. This young fellow has no particular yearning for the future, other than to go to school.

STEPHEN, THREE YEARS old, didn't much like the idea of being questioned, so he didn't bother to answer.

And last is dainty little Billie, two years old, who from the shelter of her father's arms refused to be quoted.

The Fernandezes have been at Benning for two years and have lived in their present quarters since August. Sergeant Fernandez, who is a great sport enthusiast, loves to fish and box. AND Mrs. Fernandez, with a glance at the seven active youngsters, says they are her hobby and all that she has time for.

The entire family loves chili and Italian spaghetti and the elder Fernandezes like nothing better than to have a smorgasbord of friends at dinner. Since they feel it is a little hard to take that many children out, however, Billie and George still love to dance, and often attend the Saturday night dances at the Block 12 NCO club. They take leave them in the nursery. Both are very much against having them with a baby sister because Mrs. Fernandez think the children are as different as day from night, and it variety is the spice of life, she has seven kids to watch. She never knows just what will happen. About the most difficult time

3 STR Officers Get Certificates Of Achievement

Third Army Certificates of Achievement for outstanding service were recently awarded to two students and a cadre officer of the Infantry School.

Col. Sevier R. Tupper, commanding officer of the Student Training regiment, presented the certificates to Capt. Herman C. Park and Capt. James D. Dunn, both students in the infantry officers' advanced class No. 2, and 1st Lt. Bernard T. Brooks, Jr., cadre officer of Ninth company, STR, in a simple ceremony at regimental headquarters.

Following a presentation, Colonel Tupper congratulated each officer on his achievement. During the period covered by the honor certificates, Captain Park was with Detachment 15, 3360th Area Service unit, ROTC instructor group at the University of Alabama.

Captain Dunn was a member of Detachment 330th Area Service unit, National Guard Instructor group, Florida Military District, St. Augustine, Fla.

Lieutenant Brooks was formerly assigned to 8000th Area Service unit, Headquarters, Third Army, Fort McPherson, Ga.

Lieutenant Shuler, a resident of Atlanta, Ga., is a graduate of Mercer university and has recently completed an advanced course at Emory university in Atlanta. Prior to reporting for extended active duty, Lieutenant Shuler was a high school teacher at Austell, Ga. During the last war, he served with the Military Police command in the Philippines. He is assigned as an assistant editor of the Infantry School Quarterly.

A freelance writer and newspaper man as a civilian, Lieutenant Kirk reported to duty from Orlando, Fla. His most recent military assignments were as chief of the copy desk for Exercise Swarmer at Fort Bragg and as post information officer at Fort Belvoir, Va. Lieutenant Kirk has been given the task of editing civilian component instructional material.

SERGEANT TRANSFERRED: Sgt. Albert H. Buidette has been transferred from duty with Headquarters and Headquarters company 30th Infantry regiment and assigned to Company C, for duty with the Weapons department of the Academic department.

T.I.C. TALKS

QUESTION: What do you think of the program of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and the Y.M.C.A. representatives calling on the newly arrived units?

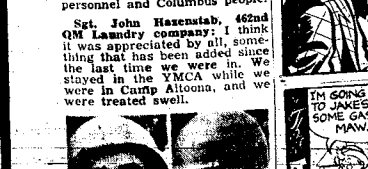

ANSWER: Sgt. E. Wood of M. Edwards, 462nd QM Laundry company, it was a nice gesture on their part. They are going a long way to make us feel at home, and are giving us a lot of information we would otherwise have to spend a lot of time looking up.

Cpl. James W. Delosier, 462nd QM Laundry company: I think it's a good way to cement relations between personnel at Fort Benning and civilians in Columbus. It will help us in that we won't have to spend a lot of time in camp because we don't know where to go. It is a splendid gesture, and I hope they continue to carry out the program as other units arrive.

Cpl. Harry A. Miller, 462nd QM Laundry company: It shows a definite interest on the part of the Chamber of Commerce and the Y.M.C.A. in making the personnel of Benning feel at home away from home.

Sgt. John Hazenstab, 462nd QM Laundry company: It was a good thing, for it will save us a lot of time. Now we know the places to go when we leave camp.

Chest Drive to Open Here on October 31

Woodruff Heads Campaign To Raise Total of $41,500

COL. C. E. WOODRUFF

Infantry Center officials were this week rushing plans for the 1951 Community Chest fund drive which is scheduled to begin here Oct. 31 under the chairmanship of Col. Charles E. Woodruff.

Goal for the 1951 drive, based on an estimate of total expenditures for the operation of Chest-supported agencies, has been set at $41,594.86. Principal item in this budget, according to Colonel Woodruff, is the Children's school which will get approximately $22,000.

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, has suggested that each Fort Benning officer, enlisted man and civilian employe, donate the equivalent of half a day's pay in order that the goal may be reached. He pointed out, however, that the amount is only a suggested quota and that no one will be required to give that sum.

At the present time, plans are to give each person subscribing the suggested quota for his pay grade one ticket entitling him to a chance at the grand prize of a 1951 Oldsmobile convertible which will be given away in connection with the drive. It is also planned that persons who subscribe their suggested quota may contribute additional amounts for which they would receive additional chances at the grand prize. The amount of such donations and the method of handling the money, however, have not been determined as yet, according to Colonel Woodruff.

Officials reminded post personnel that the Community Chest drive is one of two drives conducted annually at Fort Benning, the other being the Red Cross fund-raising campaign.

Enlisted men will be asked to contribute to the fund through their units, while officers and civilian employes will be asked to contribute through the activities to which they are assigned.

Indicator boards will be set up at central locations on the post, in Sand Hill and Harmony Church, Colonel Woodruff said, to show the progress of the drive. It will end officially Dec. 2, at which time winner of the grand prize will be awarded the Oldsmobile.

The suggested quotas are as follows:
For officers: major generals, $15; lieutenant generals, $12; colonels, $10; lieutenant colonels, $8; majors, $6; captains, $5; lieutenants and warrant officers, $4.
For enlisted men: Grades E-6 E-7, $3; Grades E-3, E-4 and E-5, $2; Grades E-1 and E-2, $1.
For graded civilians: Grades 12, $6; Grade 11, $5; Grades 10 through 8, $4; Grades 6 and 7, $3; Grades 5 through 1, $2.
Ungraded Civilians
For ungraded civilians: Grades 28 through 29, $3; Grades 19 through 8, $2; Grades 7 through 1, $1.50.

Among the agencies which will benefit from contributions to the Community Chest are Joint Army Emergency Relief, Army Relief Society, Air Force Aid Society, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Columbus Community Chest, Boy and Girls Scouts including Cubs and Brownies, Fort Benning Children's school, salary for visiting welfare nurse, teenage children's club, children's Christmas party, Christmas baskets to needy families and such other worthy causes as may be selected by Fort Benning Community Fund council.

TIS Sets Record In Film Production

A new record for speed in the production of a training film was set at the Infantry School with the completion last week of the new Infantry Weapons Against Tanks. According to Maj. Myron McClure, chief of the Training Publications department's Visual Aids group, the film was previewed at the school just 10 weeks from the date it was ordered by Army Field Forces.

Technical adviser on the film was Maj. Embert A. Fossum of the Tactical department, who collaborated with a Signal Corps professional writer to complete the scenario in 10 days.

Major difficulties were overcome to set the new speed record. The first cameras were scheduled to start turning before stocks and equipment were lost by the departure of the Third Infantry division. The personnel problem was solved by drawing men from every department of the Infantry School, and weapons were obtained from the school's weapons pool.

Virtually all the film was made at Fort Benning. Only scenes involving the use of target tanks were shot at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

The project, inspired by new information derived from the Korean conflict, is designed to increase confidence in infantry weapons and the use of all small arms, covers the use of 50-mm and 75-mm recoilless rifles, thermite and white phosphorus grenades, flamethrowers, anti-tank mines and the Molotov cocktail.

The speed of production is particularly impressive when contrasted with the one to two years normally consumed between conception and completion of most training films, Major McClure said.

Letter From Korea

Pat Murphy Finds Shot of Bourbon, Many Impressions

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was received from Capt. Pat Murphy, former Bayonet staffer who is now serving in Korea with the First Cavalry division. It was written on Oct. 2 in Anson, Korea, prior to the division's crossing of Parallel 38.

Hi Gang...

Having just palated a zestful shot of bourbon and ginger ale, and glutted away several pounds of tenderly broiled sirloin steak, thought it'd be best to round out the non-time pleasantries by dashing off a few well-chosen cliches.

Our mountain hopping, leap junketing spree northward has finally come to pleasant end here in Anson, a scant 50 miles from Seoul. There is talk, however, that soon we'll be pulling up stakes again and jaunting further north to Suwan, but as yet nothing other than a latest order has come through. Our temporary holdover here, though, has given everyone an opportunity to clean his weapons with a lick and a promise, stuff some hot chow into his face and wash off several pounds of the Korean real estate.

Militarily, Our Drive Has Been Halted For lack of concentrated enemy resistance. During our 18-mile dash from Taegu to Anson, the First Cavalry division purposely bypassed enemy pockets of concentration, heading north to linkup with our Seventh division heading south. The explicit reason for all of this was not so much to destroy the enemy's potential threat, but to slice his supply lines and route of withdrawal with one neat move. Now we're mopping up the pockets.

There is much to discuss about Korea and this ideological ruff, but I find it rather difficult to record in the space of one letter, all that has happened here. Unfortunately, also, there will be some repetition involved in writing everyone at Benning and in Columbus; don't be annoyed by it.

From an intellectual vantage point, Korea is fantastically intriguing. The people's very mode of existence is a subject worth study. Moreover, at each turn of the head there is much that could be used as subject matter for scores of stories. Interestingly enough, the

Air Guard Units Arrive on Base

Advance parties of all components of the recently federalized Air National Guard tactical unit, scheduled for assignment to Lawson Air Force Base, arrived this week, Maj. Richard O. Johnson, base commanding officer, has announced.

The main body of the 112th Light Bomber squadron from Cleveland, Ohio, reported in yesterday, and the remaining personnel from the 117th Fighter group headquarters and the 100th Fighter squadron, Birmingham, Ala., are due at the base Saturday. The 157th Fighter squadron from Columbia, S. C., will arrive here Monday, Oct. 23.

Almost all of the aircraft, F-51 fighter planes for the fighter groups and B-26s for the bomber unit, are at the base now. Major Johnson said.

Beauty Queen Plus Winner Turns to Cooking For Change

BY LESLIE ODELL
These Army men seem to have a talent for marrying beautiful women—every group of Army wives seems to contain a high percentage of ex-models, ex-actresses and women who formerly held other jobs where looks play major parts.

Typical of this glamorous group is Mrs. Claudia Lee Booth, stunning young bride of Lt. Shepard A. Booth, now assigned to the Infantry School.

Claudia Lee's honey blonde hair and baby blue eyes have won her more beauty titles than she can count on both hands. Chosen by Maj. King John Robert Powers over 84 contestants as 1949 queen of the University of North Carolina yearbook, the Yackety Yack, Claudia was featured in a series of pictures with band leaders Charlie Spivack and Knut Erickson in Look magazine. Mr. Powers commented that she was "the most naturally beautiful girl I had ever seen." And, coming from an expert on such matters, that was no small compliment.

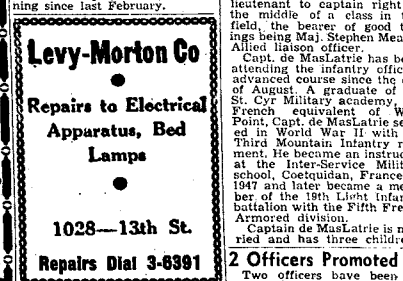

Hailing from Marshallville, Ga., Claudia is a true Southern belle. When asked if she was related to the "other famous southern Lee," she replied that she didn't really know, and that the "records were burnt up in one of those court houses that burned DOWN."

Beauty seems to be its own reward with Claudia. In spite of the fact that she started winning contests when she first entered college in 1946, her souvenirs consist mostly of news paper clippings and a cup for being elected the Modern Venus of 1948 by the Sigma Chi's. There were no scholarships or automobile included in the prizes. "But it was an awful lot of fun," she said.

As Yackety Yack queen she was "swamped in orchids—a large crown of them and a bouquet containing half a dozen or so." Among the beauty titles Claudia collected during her college career were freshman queen of the Mercer university May Court, the honor of being named Miss Mercer during her sophomore year, cheer leader at North Carolina during her college career.

BLIND DATE BROUGHT ABOUT POST'S PELREN FAMILY
M-Sgt. and Mrs. Francis Pelren and their children (l. to r.) Douglas and Sharon Rea

Couple Met on Blind Date; They Are Now the Pelrens

A blind date played a mighty, important part in the lives of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Francis Pelren, who now reside at 300 Vogel street at Fort Benning. Lola Gibson was staying pretty close to her home in Los Angeles following the tragic death of her mother from cancer, her friends became alarmed and insisted that she go out more. On one of these occasions, she accepted a blind date who turned out to be one 2nd Lt. Francis Pelren, a member of the 100th Infantry regiment, 40th Infantry division, one of the National Guard units there in Los Angeles. He, too, was upset over the death of his mother who had died of cancer, so their sorrow was a common ground which brought them together. Shortly thereafter they were married.

After World War II Pelren re-enlisted in the Army and came to Fort Benning as a master sergeant. They have resided in their present quarters since March of this year. But the home is having its untimely moments lately, since young son Douglas is mourning the loss of his beloved dog. There's never been anything like the devotion between a boy and his dog, and a black and tan cocker spaniel named "Like" would make his young master very happy if he would come home.

Douglas is 11 and in the fifth grade. He finds it a little hard to go to school when he could be out making like the dog and he enjoys it. He is very sport-minded and spends a great part of his time in such activity in season. His ambition is to smoke cigars, wear glasses and be a soldier like his father which Sharon Rea, an eight-year-old blonde, is in the second grade and is having a hard time trying to keep up with her energetic brother. Her greatest ambition is to get married and have a family like her father's.

The Pelrens have only been back from Korea since 1948. They brought back with them some very lovely carved chests and other furniture, but the children didn't like it at all and their terse comment is "It stinks." However, they admit they did like a Chinese house-boat they had because he seemed able to do almost anything and was never too busy to help with a childish problem. The house-boat at present is at the Los Angeles Junior college, and the kids keep in touch with him.

Sergeant Pelren has had his share of overseas duty, having served in Iran during the war. The following are Pelren's full command and in Korea with the Army Exchange depot at the port of Inchon.

Both are Californians, the wife is from Los Angeles, but the children didn't like it at all and their terse comment is "It stinks." However, they admit they did like a Chinese house-boat they had because he seemed able to do almost anything and was never too busy to help with a childish problem. The house-boat at present is at the Los Angeles Junior college, and the kids keep in touch with him.

Quarterly On Sale To General Public

The first issue of the Infantry School Quarterly to be made available for sale to the general public was released this week, according to Maj. John W. Baumgartner, editor. Heretofore the Quarterly has carried a security classification and its sale has been limited to members of the armed forces. Now, Major Baumgartner announced, it may be purchased by anyone.

The October edition is on sale at the Book Department, just west of the Main Officers' Mess. The new Quarterly contains 18 articles on infantry subjects more than any previous issue. This has been made possible by an editorial policy calling for conciseness in all articles.

Of considerable interest to men recently returned to active duty is Maj. David S. Milotta's short, pictorial article titled "Wear 'Em Right." Major Milotta tells the enlisted man and officer exactly how to wear his insignia of rank and branch, how to wear ribbons, how to wear the fourrageres awarded by certain foreign governments, and how to wear the Combat Infantry, Parachute and Distinguished Marksman badges.

Other articles include: "The Bayonet: Spirit Weapon in which Maj. Schiller Shows us how we are relegated to the rear when the one weapon best suited to developing the offensive spirit." "Infantry and VT Fires by Lt. Col. Bruce Palmer, Jr., refutes a previous article claiming that troops will have to ride in armored personnel carriers to escape air-bursts from proximity-fuzed artillery fire. Colonel Palmer insists that infantry can still advance, without armored carriers, if it practices proved principles of infantry tactics.

"Infantry Platoon Attack" by Capt. Charles K. Blum, the story of a successful infantry platoon attack. It shows planning, tactics and the use of supporting weapons by an infantry platoon attacking a well-defended aggressor position.

Towing Ski Troops by Maj. Ingebrigt Solum, Major Solum is an infantryman in the Norwegian Army. His articles are written last spring while he was a student in one of the Infantry School's advanced courses. Airborne Quartermaster Parachute Maintenance Company by Capt. William J. Hojnacki. This experienced airborne officer shows how this unusual company works to support the airborne members of the division with which it operates.

Realism in Marksman as a Ship Training by Capt. John R. Flynn. Captain Flynn is now in the Far East. He believes that marksmanship training should emphasize volume of fire more than accuracy.

In Want of Better Marksmen, Lt. Col. Milton C. Taylor refutes the arguments advanced by Captain Flynn. Colonel Taylor stands up for the ancient American tradition of the sharpshooter as being the victor in all our wars.

Ten more articles present the latest thought on infantry as it evolved here at Fort Benning and in infantry units throughout the world.

Symington Asks Higher Taxes, Stiffer Curbs

Economic Mobilizer W. Stuart Symington this week called for higher taxes, stiffer curbs on credit and longer working hours in America to win what he described as "truly a fight for survival." He said he thinks it possible to avoid general price-wage controls in the immediate future "if we could get over the psychology of scarce buying," but he declared, "We are now getting organized . . . for such price and wage action as may be needed."

The Australian external affairs minister, Percy Spender, has accused Russia of a new propaganda move in the UN. Russia's Andrei Vishinsky this week called on the Western Powers to do what they have demanded Russia do—back up words with deeds. Spender retorted that Vishinsky's hour-long onslaught was "propaganda, intended to delude a world that was being waiting for some action from the Russians, from whose lips have been falling the cries of peace, peace, peace."

The Associated Press reported that President Truman and General Douglas MacArthur apparently have agreed on plans for shifting the bulk of American military power from the Far East to Western Europe immediately after the United Nations victory in Korea is completed.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said flatly this week that he will not run for President in 1952 and will back Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination. Following Dewey's statements, General Eisenhower, who has repeatedly expressed determination not to seek public office, indicated he hasn't changed his mind about staying out of politics.

Selective Service officials are optimistic that the three-million-man armed force President Truman has asked can be achieved without raising the present 26-year induction age ceiling. Director of the draft, General Hershey, said, however, he favors some steps to take into the service for limited duty persons who do not meet the general physical and mental requirements. He explained that as a man with just one eye, himself, he felt that there is some place in the service for the handicapped.

On the heels of Hershey's statement came word from the Joint Chiefs of Staff that they are preparing plans for a new stepped up mobilization "in the belief that present goals for the armed forces are inadequate." Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, said the revised program will be presented to President Truman for submission to Congress as soon as it is complete. Under present plans the armed forces hope to reach a total strength of 3,000,000 officers and men by June 30. Bradley added that "obviously with the world-wide commitments that this country has, and the present world situation, even these forces will not be adequate. . . I am sure that if this is not done, our chances of preserving the peace will be much less."

Make Your Voices Heard

Americans are being offered an opportunity to aid in the fight against Communism by backing the Crusade for Freedom, the little man's campaign for "freedom, peace and faith throughout the world."

And at Fort Benning, all personnel are getting a chance this week to add their names to the growing list of freedom-loving people all over the Nation by signing the Crusade's Freedom Scroll.

Sponsored by the Fort Benning Woman's Club, the local Crusade for Freedom drive is being voluntarily supported by many Infantry Center officials and major unit commanders.

Although Crusade for Freedom is not an official movement, high Government officials are sympathetic toward it, and military and civilian personnel of the Department of Defense have been encouraged to lend their support, and, without compulsion, to contribute financially.

The Freedom Scroll, which the individual citizen is asked to sign as proof of his personal interest in this great moral crusade, will be enshrined in the base of the Freedom Bell to be dedicated in Berlin on United Nations Day, October 24. And the voluntary contributions made by those who sign the Scroll will help to finance Radio Free Europe, the American people's broadcasting station in Western Germany.

Radio Free Europe, also known as the "Freedom Station," supplements the Government-financed State Department's Voice of America in hard-hitting people-to-people programs, which answer Communist lies about the United States. The Freedom Station has been operating since last July 4, but it needs the backing of all freedom-loving Americans if it is to continue serving its purpose.

That's where you, the individual soldier, come in. Copies of the Freedom Scroll have been placed at strategic spots throughout the reservation, including schools, Service Clubs and Officers' and Non-Commissioned Officers' Messes. Small boxes have been placed beside the Scrolls for donations of any amount you wish to give. It need not be big; a few pennies if that's all you can afford. Or if you can't afford to give anything, just sign the Scroll and forget about the donation. The important thing now is to know that the American people support the idea of maintaining Radio Free Europe.

You need not be afraid to sign your name to the Freedom Scroll. It is no Communist-inspired document, as is the Stockholm Peace Treaty, designed by would-be aggressors to hide their real intentions of world conquest. On the contrary, it's a purely voluntary movement by patriotic citizens to bring hope to the oppressed, to carry messages of truth to the enslaved peoples behind the Iron Curtain.

Each unit, if it has not already done so, can help to make this crusade a bigger success by seeking a volunteer representative to supervise the Scrolls and to be custodian of the donated funds.

Crusade for Freedom is, in the words of General Lucius D. Clay, National Chairman, "a spiritual airlift. By working together, we can all help to put freedom and the free world on the offensive."

If you haven't already signed the Freedom Scroll, now is the time to ask yourself whether you believe in the principles for which the Crusade stands. For it's up to you, the individual citizen of a Free Nation, to see that its purpose is realized, so "that this world, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom."

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

Maj. Gen. Horace L. McBride has assumed command of the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans. He relieves Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, acting Commandant of the College since last July. General Hartness has taken command of the Fourth Infantry Division at Fort Benning, Ga. Gen. McBride has been stationed at Ankara, Turkey, as chief of the U. S. Army Group of the American mission.

The first of two special courses for Reserve officers being called to duty to fill public information and education billets will begin November 1 at the Armed Forces Information School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. The second course will start January 10. Each will last six weeks. Both courses will be conducted concurrently with the regular 14-week officer courses in Public Information and Armed Forces Information and Education.

Subsistence charges for dependents of Air Force personnel who are hospitalized are scheduled to remain at the current rate of $1.75 per day throughout fiscal year 1951. This rate also applies to hospitalized dependents of retired personnel and to retired Reservists who qualify for treatment by reason of physical disability. Subsistence charges for several miscellaneous categories of personnel were dropped from $1.35 to $1.25, but rising food costs could restore this cut.

New regulations affecting women applicants for enlistment in the Marine Corps have been

Be in attendance as a regular student at a nationally or regionally recognized college or university. 5. Be acceptable as a student for admission to a nationally or regionally accredited college or university.

"Fighting Lady's Family," a new 16 mm film is now being distributed by the Navy. Narrated by Robert Taylor, movie star and former Naval officer, the film is a progress report of the postwar Navy up to the time of current expansion. It features many combat ships of Navy and Marine Corps units, plus closeups of new equipment developed during the past few years. Prints of this film may be obtained for no-profit screening by contacting the Commandant of any Naval District.

Individuals invited to visit, occupation personnel in Germany must arrange for their return transportation before they leave their homes. None will be permitted to remain in the U. S. Chaplain's Corner

The 23rd Psalm Turns Back Pages of History

CHAPLAIN ALBERT V. MURAY

At a banquet in his honor, one of England's leading actors was asked to recite for his fellow guests. When he asked whether there was any preference, an old clergyman said, "Could you, sir, recite the 23rd Psalm?" The actor paused for a moment, then said, "I can and I will on condition that you, my friend, will do the same."

"I?" asked the clergyman. "But I am no eulogist. However, if you wish it, I will do so."

Impressively the great actor began the Psalm, holding his audience spellbound. As he finished, a burst of applause broke from the guests. As the applause died down, the old clergyman arose and began the Psalm. When he finished, no sound of applause broke the silence. But there was not a dry eye in the room, and many heads were bowed. Then the great actor, with his hand on the shoulder of the old clergyman, said with trembling voice, "I reached your eyes and ears, my friends; but he has reached your hearts. I know the 23rd Psalm; but he knows the Shepherd."

When the pages of some ancient brown-bound volume are turned, there flutters from between the leaves the withered petals of a rose. The flower is faded, dry, scentless, but it has imprinted something of its shape and color on the pages between which it has been pressed. As it floats to the ground, the most unimaginative of us is conscious of the desire to read its secret. What moment of joy or sorrow, of despair or hope, did it commemorate in the distant days when the page was yet unstained, the petal full of fragrance and color, the hand that placed it there still throbbing with life?

Something similar is the effect of studying the Psalms through human history. There is scarcely a leaf in the Psalter which is not stained by some withered flower of the past. Vain must be the effort to recall to life persons or events distanced from us by centuries of change. But as we read the familiar verses, the words bring before us, one by one, the hundreds of men and women who, passing from tribulation into joy, have, in the language of the Psalms, conquered the terrors of death, proclaimed their faith, or risen to new effort and final victory.

On The Bookshelf
HOMEWARD BORNE BY RUTH CHATTERTON
SIMON AND SCHUSTER, PUBLISHER
BY ROBERT L. GROOVER

Homeward Borne is the story of Pax Lyttleton, a woman in her early forties. As the story opens she is living quietly in Vermont, awaiting the return of her husband, an Army colonel, from occupied Germany. They have only one child, a son, Tubby, about 10 years old, so without her husband's knowledge, Pax adopts an 11-year-old boy, Jan ben Rozov, a war refugee from Europe.

Little or nothing is known of the refugee's background. He speaks no English and is emotionally hardened by his experiences with the Nazis in Germany. He had known nothing but death and misery.

Pax teaches him something of the American way of life and he soon begins to speak a few words of English. He learns to love Vermont and its surroundings, but finds it difficult to love his new "family." He has been forced too long to distrust people.

She sends Jan to a boy's boarding school as the time nears for her husband's arrival from Germany. Therefore, he knows nothing of the boy when he arrives home. Pax learns that the war and the German occupation have made her husband prejudiced against the Jewish and Negro races.

General Lyttleton says to his wife: "The only people who are wise enough to know who our real enemy is are the Germans! They fought 'em! They're still fighting 'em and sooner or later we've got to help 'em finish 'em up!"

The mark of Judea has been tattooed on Jan ben Rozov's upper right arm by the Nazis, and when this fact is accidentally discovered by one of his non-Jewish classmates, he is shunned. Jan becomes frightened and resentful, as he knows nothing of the racial problem, or even whether or not he is, in fact, a Jew. He runs away from school and returns home. It is here that General Lyttleton learns that his wife has brought a refugee boy into their home—and that he is Jewish.

The general's prejudices are too well-rooted for him to accept the boy as he leaves Pax and goes to his paternal home. Pax decides to remain with the Jewish refugee whom she has come to love as well as her own son.

This is Ruth Chatterton's first novel, a new field for a one-time great American actress. Miss Chatterton has traveled widely, a fact reflected in this warm, human book. The principles discussed in the novel may be rather endorsed by the reader. However, the general's faults, while perhaps a little exaggerated, are altogether believable. Although most of us deplore prejudices, the fact is still painfully clear that most Americans have them in one form or another.

The first modern census was taken in Canada in 1666. Census-taking was a function of the ancient governments of Egypt, Greece and Rome for taxation and military purposes.

Denning Dandbox

By May Pigott

Since its appearance some years back, the song "Flying Down to Rio" has been an imagination sover, at least for me. And my imagination readily soared the other night as I sat in a comfortable living room and went on a flight to Rio. I saw the fabulously beautiful harbor, with the equally famous Sugar Loaf and the silent, guarding figure of Christ atop the mountain. I rode down the wide tree-lined boulevards, sat on the terrace of the Country Club and attended a four-day carnival — all in the space of an hour and a half.

Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? But it can be done. My trip to Rio was accomplished with the able help of Capt. and Mrs. Oswaldo Domingues, who claim Rio as their home. Captain Domingues is attending the advanced class at the Infantry School, and he and his wife reside in Camella apartments.

When I settled down to start the interview, I was intrigued by the accent of both the captain and his wife. They told me that the native tongue of Brazil, contrary to general opinion, is not Spanish, but Portuguese. They spoke English very well, although this is the first time either has been to America. Occasionally we hit a snag; they wouldn't understand my phrasing of the question, or I couldn't quite understand what they meant; so we would all sit and think a minute, then would laugh and start over.

Sonia Domingues is a good example of the phrase "Lady of Spain," with her warm ivory-toned skin, ebony black hair and flashing brown eyes. She was born Sonia Franca dos Anjos in a small town not far from Rio. From childhood her greatest dream was to be a champion swimmer, so to this end she worked, and it was during her teens that she reached the top of the peak in her chosen sport. In the years 1936, 1937 and 1938, she was swimming champion of Brazil to quote her "in the crawl."

Captain Domingues says that along about the time Sonia was making a name for herself, he also was trying his best for fame along different lines. At the time he was a student in what is equal to our West Point, and had been selected as a member of the 1938 Olympic team to Berlin as a sprinter. He said, in regret, "Jessie Owens won that year."

Captain Domingues said that marriage customs in Brazil are much the same as ours; however, he ruefully shook his head and said that he never could get Sonia alone—always there was her sister. In spite of the sister, things progressed pretty rapidly and a year after they were introduced by a friend they were married. And Sonia became another Army wife, following her husband over the country.

When he received his orders to come to the United States, they were stationed in Rio where he was an instructor in the advanced class at the School of Arms. He explained that in Brazil they do not have a separate school for the different branches of the service. All are under one school, known as the School of Arms. They were both overjoyed to get a chance to come to America for, quoting them directly, "in Brazil anything American, anything that comes from America or just America is good."

Oswaldo and Sonia Domingues are both certainly good-will ambassadors for the city of Rio, for hearing them describe the incredible beauties of the harbor, the Sugar Loaf mountain and other parts of the city, makes one have an urgent desire to take a plane for that city at once.

Suddenly Sonia said to me, "Do you know about our carnival?" I had to confess that I didn't.

The carnival, according to Mrs. Domingues, is held just before Lent and is very similar to our Mardi Gras, but much more fun. The whole city turns out in costumes and masks, with the days and nights one big party. The exclusive clubs entertain with lavish balls, and there are parades and fun. The carnival starts on Saturday and holds sway through Tuesday. Everybody goes to the carnival, and when its over they start planning for the next year.

I in turn asked "Do you find the United States as you had pictured it?" Sonia looked at her husband, and they said almost in unison, "The United States is a wonderful place, but much different from the way Hollywood pictures it. We find that everybody seems to enjoy their jobs, and go about their tasks with much good will."

And remembering that Captain Domingues was prominent in sports, I, of course, wanted to know if he had continued along the lines that placed him on the Olympic team. But, as he said, "You see I'm not as young now as I was then."

Sonia hasn't done swimming professionally since her peak, but has taught swimming at the Country Club in Rio for a group of ladies.

Both the Domingues are enjoying their stay and have the greatest hopes that when he finishes school they will have time to see more of the America they like so much. Also while they are here, Sonia has great hopes of finding an advanced course in interior decorating, as she has studied along those lines and would like to do some advanced work.

When I started to say good-bye to this very charming couple from our neighbor to the South, they invited me to come to Rio and see them. From what I heard of the city while talking with them and with the Domingues for hosts, I know that my stay would be more than interesting. Some day, I hope, to make that song "Flying Down to Rio" a reality and not accomplished in a soft chair in a living room.

Pfc. Luna D. Waters

Meet Miss Benning---

Spotlighted this week in our parade of Miss Benning is Pfc. Luna D. Waters, who hails from our neighboring state of Florida and who was attending Florida State university at Tallahassee before she entered the WAC.

Luna Waters has the distinction of being the first chauffeur and first twin to appear in Meet Miss Benning. She drives for Col. Sevier Tupper, commander of the Student Training Regiment, and works as a clerk-typist and receptionist in the same organization. Prior to her assignment at Benning she attended Leadership School.

PFC. WATERS IS VERSATILE IN HER hobbies, which are many and varied. She loves swimming and thinks there is nothing better than being rowed around in a boat while she dangles her line to the unwary fish. She also likes hunting, especially small game like squirrel. Next on her list of favorites is reading.

Luna prefers two types of movies, with musical comedy first, followed by historical pictures. When she gets to do any of that favored reading, it's mostly novels. She has a special classical and popular. Her favorite type of clothes is sport, and she favors no particular color, but does on anything plaid.

SHE HAS A TWIN BROTHER WHO IS ALSO in the Army, and there are twin sisters at home, and sometimes Luna gets a little homesick to see the rest of her family.

Pfc. Waters has curly brown hair, hazel eyes and stacks up five feet, seven inches of zest and fun of living.

Her plans for the future are very definite. At the present she thinks the Army is the career she wants, so she has made application for OCS. To further her education, she is attending the University of Georgia off-campus center in Columbus, specializing in European literature and physical science.

Letters From Korea

people, although completely bombed from their homes and shunted from their intimate social circles, have survived this destruction with typical Oriental humility and graciousness.

The Country, in its Physical State, is Completely fascinating; her mountains, fringed with blue haze, sweep majestically up and down the rice paddy-covered valleys like a lumbering eel. One of the few distressing facts of Korea's geographical beauty, however, is the lack of paved roads.

So far as living conditions are concerned, Korea is horrible, even for the most fortitudinous woodsman. There are no modern toilet facilities, heating is meager, and the people are completely oblivious to the changes in living made by peoples of the western world.

However, out of all this inadequacy, I find some exhilaration in this adventure as a semi-combat soldier. I've traveled quite a bit on various assignments, and have had an opportunity to see the extremities of Oriental living. Ways of life are something out of a book.

Out of all of this, one facet of GI living in the Orient stands out as being astounding: the GI is a king. Not so much in Korea, for we are fighting an all-out war. But in Japan, a place that American soldiers seem to find magnetic, the GI reigns supreme as a citizen. His wealth, of course, is proportionately higher than any high-income citizen of the country. With it, he can visit the best eating and living resorts, and cavort in style which only the very wealthy can afford. I have not seen all of this, of course, but every story of the country runs along this line.

Enough of My Intellectual Analysis. We're living decently well, considering the proximity to a raging battle. Our food has been hot—although we had only two meals a day last week—and our living quarters have been comfortable. There is, regrettably, absolute absence of reading matter, save an occasional comic book that drifts in with a convoy. On my desk (a rather shaky Korean staff) there is a Life magazine reposing in its red, black and white splendor. The date of issue; September, 1948, International Edition. So, playing canasta, writing letters, trying to keep clean and adding my rifle are my only off-duty diversions. Get out those ice-box cookies, sex magazines and any other pieces of literary entertainment you promised to dispatch. Letters help, too.

Al, (Cpl. Allen L. Mullikin, formerly of the Public Information Office), as well as I can remember, was assigned to the 24th or 25th division. I hear their lines are pretty much the same, and that only the First Cavalry has made any specific progress in the rear. This outfit's esprit is top; and everyone reveals in publicity. That makes my job much easier, and I am happy to be a part of this organization.

Occasionally, I run across old Benningites here and there. I suppose you got one story from me already and saw another one in the Ledger about a Columbus-Fort Benning officer who knocked out three tanks. Professionally, the work has been exciting and worthwhile. In the first few days of getting oriented, I was rather lost in this maelstrom of writing procedures. But, now things have been pretty well applied, and I'm on the road to cranking out lots of junk.

I've Written So Many Confounded Letters to friends during the past two days that I fear I'm beginning to get corny. Had this been the first letter—as was the one to my folks—I might have astounded you with some "treasureable" descriptions of the land here and priceless essays on what I've been doing. At any rate, and despite my inadequacies as a writer, I shall be getting out another one to you in a week or so. I hope the staff can combine its literary potency and dispatch a jointly exerted tome in this direction.

My kindest personal regards to all my friends here and there, and an especial greeting to my friend Col. Bell, (Col. Marcus B. Bell, Infantry Center G-4).

General Hartness Welcomes Troops

Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, newly appointed commander of the Fourth Infantry division this week welcomed a large group of officers and enlisted cadre who will assist in reorganizing and training the recently activated division.

General Hartness, who arrived at the post last Thursday, spoke to two groups of newly arrived cadre troops. He told them that they had been chosen for cadre duty because they had demonstrated in the past that they were capable of leading combat troops.

The general stated that "never before, to my knowledge, has a division been formed in so short a time." Activation of the division was announced by the Department of the Army officials in Washington on Oct. 4.

Addressing the first group of cadre General Hartness paid tribute to infantrymen everywhere, when he said the highest honor that could be paid any man is to walk down the street and have people remark "there goes a soldier."

A second group of cadre troops arrived here Monday. They were former stations in the Panama Canal Zone.

Meanwhile, troops from all over the country this week began arriving at the Sand Hill area, to bring the division up to full strength. Replacements will continue to arrive until Oct. 30.

Shortly after General Hartness' arrival, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, assistant division commander, announced the following appointments to General Hartness' general staff: Col. August E. Schanze, acting chief of staff; Lt. Col. George W. James, G-1, Maj. George H. Huppert, G-2, Lt. Col. Robert H. Schulz, G-3, and Lt. Col. Henry M. Clegg, G-4. First Lt. John S. Gayle has been named as aide-de-camp to General Hartness, a native of Richmond, Va., was acting commander of the Command and Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., prior to assuming command of the Fourth Infantry division during World War II. He commanded the 26th Infantry division and later served in Korea. General Hartness was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1918.

The battle-famed Fourth, which was originally activated at Fort Benning on June 8, 1940, recorded a total of 299 combat days in World War II. The division landed in France on D-day, June 6, and fought in the Normandy, France, Rhineland, Ardennes and Central Europe campaigns.

COMING FARTHER SOUTH FOR THE WINTER . . . Or at least part of the winter, troops from the 82nd Airborne division, permanently stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., have arrived at Fort Benning for a 90 day tour of duty to act as demonstration troops for the Infantry School. Smiling as they get off the train in the Sand Hill area, in the picture at the left, are, in order, Pfc. Leroy G. Martin, carrying the guidon, Rct. R. Culverson, Cpl. H. L. Todd, and Pvt. C. R. Boykin. This is a return visit for the men as they received their jump training at Fort Benning. In the picture at the right the troops are greeted on their arrival by their commanding officer, Lt. Col. Clyde M. Dillender, Jr., right, who arrived at Fort Benning over a week ago with an advance party. Apparently glad to be back, Capt. C. M. McLaughlin, commanding officer of Company G, left front, reports in to the Colonel as the troops stand in formation by the train before unloading for their billets in Sand Hill. Men in both pictures are from the Second Battalion, 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment. Approximately 1,100 men arrived in two trainloads last Thursday.

Troopers Arrive For Benning Duty

Twelve hundred men of the 82nd Airborne division from Fort Bragg, N. C., have arrived at Fort Benning for temporary duty. The group, under the command of Lt. Col. Clyde M. Dillender, Jr., will be here for 90 days and will serve as demonstration troops for the Infantry School.

The advance party arrived by motor Oct. 8, followed by the main body of troops who came in on trains last Thursday. Men arriving Thursday were from the Second Battalion, 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment; Battery C, 319th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, and Company B, 307th Airborne Engineer Battalion.

Company A, 44th Tank Battalion, only ground troops in the group, arrived Monday. The troops from the 82nd will be billeted in the Sand Hill area. Their work this week consisted mainly of getting settled. They are scheduled to begin working as demonstration troops about Oct. 23.

New Units Set Fine Mark

Reserve, Guard Outfits Report No AWOLs

A magnificent record has been compiled by the Organized Reserve Corps and National Guard units which have been called to federal service for assignment to Fort Benning—not a single unit had reported a member absent without leave up until Oct. 15.

And of the dozen or so newly activated units now on the post, not a single court-martial case had arisen.

The units are attached to the 340th Area Service unit, commanded by Col. Maurice Miller.

Commenting on the amazing record, Colonel Miller attributed the enviable mark to the fact that most of the units are made up primarily of veteran Army men.

Colonel Miller said the men "appreciate the seriousness of the situation and are here to learn as much as they can during the time which may be available to them."

"I AM DEEPLY PLEASSED with the progress of the men not only on the awol record, but also on all other phases of their work."

Officer and enlisted personnel of the various organizations gave an assortment of explanations for the fine record when asked their views on the absence of AWOLs from morning reports.

Some said that they thought the fact that the men are veterans explained it.

Others reasoned that most of the men are married and have families which give them a stronger sense of responsibility.

Still others said that the Army's more liberal policy of granting emergency furloughs and leaves to attend pressing matters at home account for the record.

Capt. Alfred Holston of Troy, Ala., commanding officer of the 35th Chemical Processing company, explained it this way: "Our company is composed largely of veterans who have an interest in the Army or they wouldn't have remained in the Reserve Corps."

Sgt. WILLIAM A. DANIEL of Andalusia, Ala., felt, however, that because all the men in the unit live from the same locality and can keep closely in touch with happenings at home through other men in the company, fewer men go over the hill."

And Cpl. Asa M. Carter of

Troy said the liberality in granting passes curbs awol's.

Men of the 462nd Quartermaster Battalion, Fort Benning, Ala., echoed the ideas of the 35th.

First Lt. Leroy A. Aughenbaugh of Altoona said he feels the biggest factor is that the majority of the men are older service personnel and are older with families. This, he said, tends to give the men a better sense of obligation.

And the company clerk of the unit, Cpl. William C. Laret of Altoona, said that more of the men are married now than during the last emergency and that the majority of them have their wives here.

Lt. Col. Glen G. McConnell, Jr., commanding officer of the 12th Truck Battalion, put it this way: "The men are here because they want to serve during the national emergency."

You don't have malcontents under such circumstances, he added.

Colonel McConnell said that his unit not only has had no awol cases since being activated, but also had no requests for demerits during the period just previous to federalization.

BATTALION HEADQUARTERS at headquarters of the detachment of the 12th Battalion from Columbus, Ohio, and vicinity.

Capt. Lucious W. Smiley, boss of the 84th Quartermaster Petroleum Supply company, attributed the record to the amount of "briefing" his men received before leaving their homes in Montgomery, Ala., and vicinity.

He said at several periods of instruction while the unit was still in Montgomery, the men were advised to get all personal problems straightened out. The men complied with these instructions, he said, and now don't need to go home to iron out these matters.

Captain Smiley's first sergeant, Leon C. McClain, said that the men in his company developed a strong sense of pride in their outfit during summer camp at Fort Lee, Va., and since coming to Fort Benning, he added that this has a tendency to curb unrest.

Cpl. Hubert H. Jones of Opp, Ala., brought out that the facilities for recreation on the post are sufficiently adequate and the men don't have to seek amusement elsewhere.

In the Harmony Church area men of the 912th Ordnance Reclamation and Reclassification company echoed the sentiments of the other reservists.

Pfc. Donald F. Beck of Leonia, N. J., said the men in his unit are more rational than the average recruits. They are accustomed to the life and aren't kids any longer."

Pfc. John Sumsy of Perth Amboy, N. J., added that most of the men in the 912th wear stripes and aren't going to jeopardize them.

Chapel to Mark United Nations With Services

Allied students at the Infantry School will be honored next Sunday at special services at the Infantry Center chapel in commemoration of United Nations Sunday.

Prayers will be offered at all services Sunday for the success of the United Nations effort, according to Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren J. Jenks, Infantry Center chaplain.

At the 4 p.m. service, Allied students representing different nations, will be guests, and flags of the Allied nations will be displayed. Several members of the Allied classes will participate in the service.

The club will be followed by a buffet supper at Service Club No. 1 at 5 p.m. All post personnel are invited to participate in the activities.

Sand Hill Club Is Open Daily

Service club No. 2 in the Sand Hill area is now "open for business" Miss G. E. Wood, service club director said today.

The club will be open daily from 5 to 10 p. m. tentatively until a recreation schedule is established, she said.

Some of the many off-duty activities now being offered at the club are pool, ping pong, skating and shuffleboard. The club also has its own music room.

Plans for the reopening of club No. 1 on the main post are now being re-evaluated, and club No. 3 will be announced later, Miss Wood said.

City Blackouts Now Ineffective For Air Attacks
WASHINGTON — (APPS) — Blackouts are no longer effective as a defense against air attack, federal officials said here recently.

The reason is that improved radar equipment enables pilots to locate targets without the aid of ground lights.

Col. Earnest W. Beers, assistant to the secretary of defense for meeting of the U. S. Conference of Mayors that present defense planning contemplates use of deceptive ground lighting to confuse enemy pilots, and combinations of partial blackouts, dimouts and brownouts.

The new conception of civilian defense also creates a different role for air raid wardens in event of an air attack, Colonel Beers said. Instead of being concerned with the elimination of lights, they will be leaders directing civil defense activities in their zones.

Gen. Kean Pins Silver Bars On Son's Collar

WITH 25th DIVISION, KOREA, (AFPS)—It was strictly a family affair when William M. Kean won a field promotion to first lieutenant. Kean's father, Maj. Gen. William B. Kean, pinned the silver bars on his 22-year-old son's significant promotion for "outstanding leadership and courage under fire." The promotion recommendation was made by Col. Henry G. Fisher of Los Angeles, Lieutenant Kean's battalion commander.

Post Paddlers To Compete In 3rd Army Meet

Next Sunday, the Fort Benning table tennis team, will leave for Camp Gordon to compete in the annual Third Army Table Tennis tournament which will be conducted Oct. 24-26. The Infantry Center's team, composed of winners of the post intramural tourney, will be pitted against six other teams, representing major posts throughout the Third Army area. Terry Scott, post singles champion, will head the list of top flight Benning paddlers which includes Herb Wyatt, Tom Gallagher and Joe Smith from the Airborne Department, and Calvin Gray and John Wyatt from the Infantry School Detachment. The Benning team, rated a strong contender for the Third Army trophy will compete in both the singles and doubles competition.

M'Arthur Honors Launcher Team

Personal commendations from several weeks teaching various units the proper use of the new weapon. MacArthur have been awarded to three men from the Weapons Department of the Infantry school. The men, Lt. Robert J. Parr, M-Sgt. William N. Tillman and Pfc. Charles Burman, were the members of a 3.5 inch rocket launcher instruction team which flew to Korea early in July to instruct U. S. forces there in the use of the new heavy duty rocket launchers shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. The team remained in the Far

Active Duty Vets Must Notify VA Of Their Status

WASHINGTON, (AFPS)—World War II veterans who enlisted or are recalled to active duty in the armed forces must notify the Veterans' administration if they are receiving compensation or subsistence allowances. The VA announces that the law does not permit a veteran to receive compensation or subsistence payments from the administration at the same time he is drawing military pay and allowances. A veteran does not notify the VA of his return to active duty and continues to receive such payments, the VA is required by law to seek recovery of the money. The VA advises veterans returning to military service to be sure their National Service Life Insurance policies do not lapse.

Half Dozen Wacs Given Promotions

Six members of the Wac detachment, Section I, 3440th Area Service unit, have been promoted, three to the temporary rank of sergeant and three to corporal. Those upped to sergeant were Margaret E. Cummins, Eleanor M. Buchanan and Dorothy O. McCowan, while those given the temporary rank of corporal from private first class were Madeline Barbour, Anna M. Gerhart and Vernie M. Johnson.

Tasty Menus Appearing In Army Field Rations

TOKYO (AFPS)—The Army's can and "presto" — dinner is new, improved field ration for the armed forces is being well received and "bears scant resemblance" to the unpopular C-ration of World War II, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters has announced. The new "ration, individual combat," contains six canned menus and weighs six and a half pounds. A popular and flavoursome meal, popular with the fighting men in the Far East, is meat and spaghetti with tomato sauce. Directions for its preparation are: Open can and warm over container of flaming gasoline and dirt until the contents bubble like lava, remove and eat. If boiling water is available, drop the unopen can into it. When it shows an "alarming bulge" it is ready to eat. If heat can be had, the best dish is ham and eggs, with potatoes or crackers and jam. This meal comes complete with salt, coffee and sugar. Open the

Medics Prove Courage, Verdict of Servicemen

ABOARD NAVY HOSPITAL SHIP AT SEA (AFPS)—The medical corpsmen serving aboard this hospital ship and throughout the Korean area are all "mighty good guys," according to the patients—who should know. A medical ward here is filled with wounded soldiers and marines. They lie quietly on their bunks. Some are writing letters, some are reading, while others just relax and watch the smoke curl from their cigarettes. It is difficult to start a conversation with these boys. Generally they answer all questions with a "yes" or "no." One wounded marine was asked, "Are there any hospital corpsmen at the front?" That did it. Throughout the ward wounded men responded as if by magic. Eyes brightened, cigarettes were elevated to jaunty angels, letter writing resumed, and the men began talking all at once. A marine private said, "Hell, yes, I've seen corpsmen at the front and I'd like to get the name of the one who saved my life. Our tank was burning and all the crew but me were killed. I was shot through the shoulder and pinned under the tank."

Works Despite Wound
A soldier interrupted, saying, "I saw a medic with his finger half blown out, put a tourniquet on his wrist and then go about helping two guys with his good hand. There's no medal high enough for those guys. They should get a double Medal of Honor."

McGill to Review Book at Wynnston School on Oct. 25
Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, will give a review of his book "Israel Revisited" at the Wynnston school auditorium 8:30 p.m. Oct. 25. Mr. McGill's review will be sponsored by the Columbus chapter of Hadassah. He will be introduced by Robert W. Brown, editor of The Ledger. Tickets, to sell for $1, will be available at Davidson's from Oct. 18 to Oct. 25. After the lecture Mr. McGill will autograph the book.

BROTHER VS. BROTHER STOCKTON, Calif. (AFPS)—"Congratulations me. I have just filed as a candidate for constable of Elliott Township," declared George Matis, 39, as he stuck out his hand to his brother, Edward, 36. Edward replied, "You have nothing on me, I just filed too."

Says He'd Like to Serve But Feels He's Too Old
ST. LOUIS (AFPS)—Ex-Pharmacist's Mate William Oldendorph said he'd like to oblige the Navy officers at Great Lakes, Ill., who recently mailed him a form urging him to return to active duty. But he can't. Mr. Oldendorph is an 84-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American War and World War I.

Oversea Mailing Regulations Told

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The armed forces and the Post Office department have announced rules for mailing Christmas packages to servicemen overseas as follows: Mail not later than Nov. 15. For men in Japan or Korea, it is safer to mail before Nov. 1. Send Cards First Class. Send greeting cards first class, observing the same deadlines. Packages may weigh up to 70 pounds. Their length plus their girth should not exceed 100 inches. Exception: Packages to APOs 124 and 125, care of Postmaster, N. Y., N. Y., should not exceed 30 pounds and should be correspondingly smaller. Containers should be metal, metal, wood or stout fiber board. Place another address together with a list of contents, on a paper and put this inside the package. Since some packages break open and spill on the post office floor, it's a good precaution to place another address together with a list of contents, on a paper and put this inside the package. If the addressee is in the Army or Air Force, give his full name, rank, serial number, branch of service organization, APO number and city post office through which the mail is being routed. If the addressee is in the Navy or Marines, give full name, rank or rating, unit to which he is assigned and the Navy number assigned to the unit, or the name of his ship and the fleet post office to which the mail is to be routed. Don't send matches or lighter fluid. Cigarettes and tobacco are all right except to addresses in Austria, England, France, Germany, Italy and Trieste.

Chinese Use Queer Terms For American's Weapons

TAIPEI, FORMOSA (AFPS)—This may not sound like the same war to you but it is, according to the Chinese, who have a word for it, in fact several. Of late the Chinese have been reading all about what the Americans are doing in Korea with "gas-blowing machines" and "flaming arrow pipes." A "gas-blowing machine" is a bazooka. And a "flaming arrow pipe" is a bazooka. Chinese is a simple language, but it wasn't built to translate the simple terms of modern warfare. Here's a re-translation of some Chinese translations: Aircraft Carrier — aviation mother ship. Antiaircraft Gun — high shooting gun. Bayonet — thrusting knife. Caliber — mouth diameter. Camouflage — sliding shell cannon. Rocket Launcher — flaming arrow thrower. Sound Detector — Listening machine.

Allowance Pay Checks Start

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—Plans for the payment of quarters allowance for Armed Forces enlisted personnel of all grades with dependents, as provided by the Dependents Assistance Act of 1950, effective last August 1, have been announced by the Department of Defense. Allowances to which Army and Air Force personnel are entitled for the months of August and September, will be paid directly to enlisted personnel with their regular pay. Allowances due for the month of October will likewise be given to personnel with their October pay. Cash payments to Navy and Marine Corps personnel will also have been completed by the end of October. During September and October it will be the responsibility of the person to furnish funds for the support of his dependents. Those dependents who bring a request for their support during this period should communicate with the enlisted person upon whom they are dependent. Beginning in November, checks for the full amount of allotments from the Servicemen, plus allowances made by the Servicemen will be mailed directly to dependents.

Corny But Lucrative
LETAHATCHEE, Ala. (AFPS)—Miss Nancy Venable is in the nat business purely by accident. She fashioned herself a new bonnet by braiding dried corn shucks. When she wore the new lid to church, it created such a sensation that she is now busily engaged in producing "shuck hats" for other church members.

QUESTION: In Your Opinion, How Does Fort Benning Compare To Other Army Posts?

SGT. RICHARD TRUBNER, 148th Transportation Truck Company: It is one of the best organized camps I have ever seen. Some of the camps in the North-east states can compare with it, and I am very glad I was assigned here.

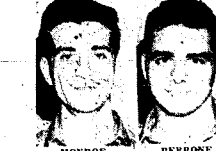

TRUBNER: The 148th Transportation Truck Company is very modernistic, and everything seems to be very well handled. It has more facilities for education than I have seen in other camps.

LARRY STRICKER, 148th Transportation Truck Company: I have heard that it was one of the biggest and best equipped posts in the United States, and I think it lives up to that reputation. As far as I have found it that way since I have been here.

TRUBNER: SGT. E. J. TRUPIANO, 148th Transportation Truck Company: As a music camp it is much better than I expected and it is the first time in my army career I have been billeted in a permanent building. I have always lived in tents, I also think the recreational facilities are much better than the usual run of camps.

STRICKER: SGT. JOHN J. MONROE, 148th Transportation Truck Company: It is a very nice place, and we get a lot of cooperation from the other organizations here at Benning. Of all the times I have moved, this is only the second time I have ever been met with a band, which, incidentally, plays very well.

MONROE: SGT. SIMON A. FERRONE, 148th Transportation Truck Company: It is a very well established post, and the recreational facilities are excellent. I have used them, and I think the swimming pool is very enjoyable. The theater shows the very latest pictures which are picked to take the men's mind off their homes, second time and have very well set up, and the fact that we are living in permanent buildings reminds us more of a college campus. We all appreciate everything that has been done for the 148th.

Area Service Unit Men Get Signal Section Duty

Four enlisted men of the 3440th Area Service Unit's Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment were assigned duties with the Signal section this week, it was announced by Col. Maurice L. Miller, Provisional group commander.

They were M-Sgt. Loy Ervin, Section 1, and Cpl. Vernon L. Coker, Cpl. Joseph F. Ruzich and Sgt. Ralph E. Whitmore, all of Section 1.

Air Support Hits Peak in Far East

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

The principle of tactical air support for ground operations, developed to a considerable extent in World War II, attained a new peak of feasibility and effectiveness in the Korean conflict.

A large measure of credit for the success of U. N. forces in repelling the North Korean invaders since the close cooperation maintained between Air Force units and ground troops striving to push the unmercifully superior enemy from the territory he had so wantonly overrun.

The regard in which ground troops hold or assistance is illustrated by a story told by Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, Far East Air Force commander, concerning exploits of the Far East Air Force in Korea.

"When a South Korean unit was pinned down by enemy fire recently in the Yongdok area," Stratemeyer said, "the support F-51's thoroughly strafed enemy positions and neutralized their fire."

PT Courses Open To Noncom Class

WASHINGTON (APF)—Career non-commissioned officers may now attend the eight weeks' course at the Army's Physical Training School, Fort Bragg, N. C., without change in their MOS. Heretofore many qualified NCOs did not apply for such schooling for fear of losing career MOS.

Following requirements must be met for admission to the school: not be higher than grade E-6; make a minimum of 250 points on Army physical fitness test; have at least one year's prior service and 16 months yet to serve upon completion of the course which is open to all branches and components.

Chapel Service Marks UN Day

A special religious observance marking the fifth anniversary of the adopting of the United Nations charter was held Sunday afternoon in the Infantry Center chapel.

Representatives of 18 nations took part in the ceremony. The allied countries were represented by foreign students in training at the Infantry school.

The white-robed chapel choir led the procession of national colors of the countries involved. The U. S. flag and Army Chaplain's flag were followed by the United Nations flag, and the colors were installed in positions flanking the central altar.

Selections of scripture were chanted by a Greek officer, and two hymns were sung by five Greek officers. This part of the ceremony was in keeping with the religious practices of the Greek Orthodox faith. Chaplain (Maj.) Lonnie W. Knight presided over the service and translated the proceedings into English.

John Miller, director of music, presented an organ solo, and directed the chapel choir. Lt. Col. Loren T. Jenks, Infantry Center chaplain, spoke briefly on the significance of the United Nations.

Countries represented in the ceremony by national colors were France, Sweden, Canada, Greece, Turkey, Brazil, Chile, The Netherlands, Great Britain, Belgium, Mexico, Venezuela, Norway, Saudi Arabia, Philippines, Iran, Italy and Uruguay.

Denmark and Haiti were represented by students in training at the Infantry school, but their colors failed to arrive in time for the service.

Following the ceremonies, more than 250 of the students attended a buffet supper as guests of the Infantry center chapel. Protestant Christian Fellowship at Service club No. 1.

Community singing and folk dancing followed.

COL MARCUS B. BELL PROMOTED TO BRIGADIER GENERAL. Mrs. Bell Proudly Pins New Stars On Her Husband

Colonel Bell Is Promoted New Brigadier General Cited For Accomplishments As G-4

Col. Marcus B. Bell, assistant chief of staff, G-4, of the Infantry Center for the past 20 months, was promoted to the rank of brigadier general in a ceremony held Saturday morning in the office of Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry center commander.

Notification of his promotion was received from the Department of the Army late Friday.

Before a gathering of some 15 high ranking officers, General Burress and Mrs. Bell pinned the two new stars on General Bell's collar.

General Burress paid high tribute to General Bell for his many accomplishments as G-4 of the Infantry Center. He cited the moral and material support given by general Bell in the construction of the Battle Park and Custer Road Terrace homes and the Custer Road Terrace Children's school.

A native of Fredonia, Kan., and a graduate of the University of Missouri, General Bell's first service was on the Mexican border as a sergeant under General John J. Jenkins in 1916-17.

He was commissioned in August, 1917.

During World War II he was promoted to brigadier general and appointed assistant commander of the 81st Infantry division with which he served overseas. He saw action with the Fourth Marine division on Kwajalein in January, 1944, and later joined his division in the assault of Angaur Island in the Palau.

He also fought in the Leyte island campaign and participated in the Philippine liberation.

In 1945, General Bell served with General Douglas MacArthur's staff in Tokyo where he was charged with the integration of officers into the Regular Army. Later he moved on to Korea where he was deputy chief of staff and commander of special troops of the U. S. Forces in Korea under Lt. Gen. John H. Hodge. He remained in Korea until December, 1946, when he came to Fort Benning.

British Scientist Visits Board 3

Dr. O. H. Wansbrough-Jones, Esq., C. B., O. B. E., scientific advisor to the Army Council in England, visited Army Field Forces board No. 3 last Thursday and Friday.

During his "business visit," Dr. Wansbrough-Jones conferred with board members. Friday noon he was guest of honor at an official luncheon at the Officers' Mess with Col. Burton L. Lucas, board president, as host.

Freedom Crusade Extended 2 Weeks

Fort Benning's Crusade for Freedom drive deadline has been extended two weeks to give newcomers to the post an opportunity to add their names to the Freedom Scroll.

The drive will now end Nov. 10 instead of Oct. 24 as previously announced, according to Mrs. Allen Peck, president of the Fort Benning Women's club, which is sponsoring the Crusade locally.

The Crusade for Freedom campaign started on the past two weeks ago. Participation is on a purely voluntary basis, and during the past two weeks several thousand Benningites have signed the scroll and made cash contributions.

Money raised by the nation-wide "drive" is to be used to finance Radio Free Europe which will supplement the State Department-operated Voice of America.

Freedom Scrolls will be sealed in a monument, which was dedicated on United Nations Day in Berlin, Germany, as a symbol of hope to the nations throughout the world who have lost their freedom.

Each unit that has elected to continue the drive until the Nov. 10 closing date has a volunteer representative to supervise the scrolls and to be custodian of the donated funds.

Bell Rings Out For Freedom

For the first time since V-J Day, the three-ton Infantry Center chapel bell rang for five minutes at 12:30 p. m. on Tuesday to mark the Crusade for Freedom.

The heavy bell which takes three bell ringers to shift it from its position after V-J Day because its vibrations made windows rattle, dishes dance off tables and deafened those who lived close to the chapel.

Another reason for discontinuing its use, according to the Infantry Center chaplain, Lt. Col. Loren T. Jenks, was the installation and use of the more melodious Firestone Memorial Liberty Carillon, one of the largest electronic instruments made, which was moved from Camp Patrick Henry to Fort Benning in 1944.

Grand Prize to Be Awarded At Conclusion Of Drive

Vice chairmen for the 1951 Community Chest fund drive, which begins Tuesday, have been announced by Col. Charles E. Woodruff, chairman, and plans for awarding the grand prize, a 1950 Packard convertible, have been completed.

Each person subscribing the quota suggested for his pay grade—half a day's pay—will receive a special ticket, entitling him to a chance at the grand prize, Colonel Woodruff said.

Following the original contribution, additional chances may be had for $1 each. There will be no limit on the number of donations from each individual.

Only military personnel on duty at Fort Benning and government workers, such as those employed by Civil Service or the Post Exchange, are eligible.

Continues Through Dec. 2 Donations to the Community Chest fund will be accepted from Oct. 31 to Dec. 2 inclusive, and may be made through organizational orderly rooms or Community Chest fund drive representatives. Tickets may be obtained only at these places.

Drawing for the prize will be held at the Main theater Dec. 4, but the holder of the winning ticket will not have to be present. If the winner is not present, he will be notified by his organizational representative, according to Colonel Woodruff. Organizational representatives are Lt. Col. Robert H. Fell, Infantry Center headquarters, Capt. J. B. Adams on, Academic Department; Capt. Eugene Biondie, Student Training regiment; Lt. Floyd S. Chadwick, Infantry School detachment; Capt. Ashley Ivey, 3440th Provisional group; Capt. Bernard W. Hammaker, Provisional Medical group; Lt. Col. William B. Travis, Army Field Forces Board No. 3; Lt. Joel W. Walker, Lawson Air Force base; Capt. Malcolm McRaney, 30th Infantry regiment; Capt. William F. Johnston, Fourth Infantry division; Maj. Samuel M. Cromwell, Ranger Training Center; Capt. Edson R. Matthe, Training C a m p No. 1; Capt. Judson C. Spence, battalion combat team; James L. Mosely, Civilian Personnel division, and Mrs. Dorothy W. Bruner, Post Exchanges.

Suggested Quotas The suggested quotas are as follows:

For officers: Major generals, $15; brigadier generals, $13; colonels, $10; lieutenant colonels, $8; majors, $6; captains, $5; lieutenants and warrant officers, $4.

For enlisted men: Grades E-6, E-7, $3; Grades E-3, E-4, and E-5, $2; Grades E-1 and E-2, $1.

For graded civilians: Grades 12, $6; Grade 11, $5; Grades 10 through 8, $4; Grades 6 and 7, $3; Grades 5 through 1, $2.

Ungraded Civilians For ungraded civilians: Grades 26 through 20, $3; Grades 19 through 8, $2; Grades 7 through 1, $1.50.

Among the agencies which will benefit from contributions to the Community Chest are Joint Army Emergency Relief, Army Relief Society, Air Force Aid Society, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Columbus Community Chest, Boy and Girl Scouts including Cubs and Brownies, Fort Benning Children's hospital, and various welfare nurse, teen-age children's club, Children's Christmas parties, and baskets to needy families and such other worthy causes as may be selected by Fort Benning Community Fund council.

TOP ENDURANCE PARACHUTIST MAKES RECORDS ON OWN TIME M-Sgt. John "Jumping Jack" Swetch Examines Souvenir From Civilian Days

Benningite Holds Record For Endurance Jumping

Today's Army likes 'em tough, and one of the toughest is Sgt. John W. Swetch who claims the world's record for endurance jumping.

The stocky sergeant, who is now on temporary duty at Fort Benning with demonstration troops from the 82nd Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N. C., made a breathtaking total of 123 jumps within 22 hours last July 4 at Fayetteville, N. C.

Never a man to take life easy, Sergeant Swetch has made thrills his business ever since he was 12 years old. At that early age, as a school kid in Dillon, Mont., he learned to ride horses, and it wasn't long before he was making his living as a bronc buster on the rodeo circuit.

ENLISTING IN THE ARMY 13 years ago at the age of 18, the sergeant was one of the first to volunteer when the parachute course was opened at Fort Benning in 1941. He was a "charter member" of the 501st Parachute Battalion.

And he has been in the Army ever since, except for a short period in 1949 when he decided to "settle down" and got a job in "civilian life" as a dare-devil jumper with an air circus. But he found life "a little dull on the outside," so he re-enlisted and plans to "stay in for good now."

Sergeant Swetch's jumps for endurance records are strictly on his own hook and have nothing to do with his Army career. He has made a total of 392 jumps altogether, both official and unofficial, which should be some kind of a record in itself.

The Army considers anyone with more than 70 on-duty jumps a master parachutist, and the sergeant passed that mark when he was just a novice at the game.

MOST PARACHUTISTS think that one or two jumps in one day is pretty tough, but Sergeant Swetch made the first 107 jumps for his record at the rate of one every six minutes, barely having time in between to reach the ground and get in the air again. He used seven parachutes and several pilots.

Asked what he thought about while going through this endurance test, the sergeant replied he didn't. "There wasn't time to think. I was too busy taking care of various sore spots and concentrating on getting up for the next jump. It takes a lot of mental determination to just keep going and going."

All over the jumps were of the free fall variety — the sergeant had to pull his own rip cord and the parachutes were made from Piper Cub airplanes.

Strong winds fouled up Sergeant Swetch's schedule after his 107th jump, and he had to take time off for several hours before he could make his final 16 jumps.

Until last July 4 the world's record for endurance jumping was held by Juan Irarrazabal of Buenos Aires, Argentina, who copied the title with 105 drops. He made 107 jumps, his closest call in the jump game came while he was traveling with an air circus as a civilian. He was taking a 1,000-foot drop which "takes 15 seconds without a parachute. I looked up after 100 feet, in numbers, and the wind was so bad that I had to throw the reserve out by hand to make it fall."

A private pilot with more than 600 hours in the air, the sergeant knows this flying business from the ground up, as well as from the reserve out by hand to make it fall.

The current four of duty here is the fourth for Sergeant Swetch at Fort Benning, which makes it practically a coming home he says. The sergeant was stationed here from 1940 to 1942, 1945 to 1947, and from Sept. 1, 1949, until February of this year. He arrived here last week for a 90-day temporary assignment.

Sergeant Swetch's displays of nerve are not limited to those of a dare-devil jumper. When in dress uniform he can display a check full of fruit salad second to very few. Among his decorations are the Legion of Merit,

Machine Guns, Barbed Wire Proof of Unrest in Rangoon

By Armed Forces Press Service

Machine gun emplacements and barbed wire entanglements in the streets of its capital city, Rangoon, give mute evidence of the strife that persists in the southern, Asiatic country of Burma.

During the early part of this year, five separate factions were waging a fight for control of Burma. Even the country's prime minister, Thakin Nu, has entered into a regime of prayer and fasting with the vow that he'd emerge from his isolation only in times of severe emergency. As one observer described the country's guiding forces, "Thakin Nu leans on Buddhist astrologers for his political timing and on Karl Marx for economic philosophy."

The Burmese live in constant vigilance against controlling interests from foreign countries. Because of her common borders with communist-dominated countries, Burma has stated its determination to remain free and independent, despite her internal strife. Granted complete independence from the British Commonwealth in 1948, she became the 58th member of the United Nations.

A population of 17 millions live in an area of 261,757 square miles. Burma comprises practically all of what is called the Irrawaddy River Valley. Figuring prominently in her recent history is the tortuous 800-mile Burma road, over which the Allies carried the war to the Japanese in China.

Only a very small percentage of Burmese is educated. The English influence still remains evident in the country's monetary unit, the British pound.

They Whistle Girls Bother Cute Cadets Says Colonel

The Colonel, a patient man of military mind, decided that things around his Pennsylvania military college have gone about as far as they can go.

So Col. Frank K. Hyatt called up Chester police and asked for help to protect his cadets from a very disturbing influence.

The disturbing influence, he explained, is girls.

Every night for a week the girls—three to eight at a time—have gathered outside the ivied walls of the 129-year-old military college and "invited the cadets to come out," the colonel complained.

Not only that, he added, but "some of them even whistle at the young men."

Police have promised to help.

BENNING COUPLE INTRODUCED AT LAWSON NCO CLUB Sergeant Eugene Yow, Young Jerry Wayne, Mrs. Yow

Dan Cupid Goes to Work When Couple Meet at Club

Family Portrait

It was just an ordinary game night at the Lawson Air Force base NCO club and just an ordinary introduction of the pretty blonde girl to the good-looking blonde sergeant. But behind the scenes old Dan Cupid went right to work, and three months later it was Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene Yow who were married.

It was about two years ago when Miss Kathryn Johnson came from her home in Milledgeville, Ga., to visit her uncle and aunt, Sgt. and Mrs. Sirmmie A. Renfro, at Lawson. On this particular night, they went to the NCO club where her uncle introduced her to one of his friends and co-workers, Sgt. Eugene E. Yow. It didn't take them long to make up their minds, and about three months later Kathryn and Gene were married.

Now they have a 13-month old son named Jerry Wayne for the soldier who served in the Pacific during World War II. Yow says if it had not been for Jerry Wayne he would not be here now, and his hope is that young Jerry Wayne will be a worthy successor to the first Jerry Wayne, an assignment he has held for several years.

He started playing golf when he was eight years old, and has kept it up ever since. In 1941 he was champion golfer for the state of Tennessee and won runner-up honors in 1942. He chalked up the Air Force and Fort Benning championships in 1948, in 1949 he placed second in the Continental Air Command golf tournament, and this past summer won the CONAC championship.

KATHRYN AND GENE ARE rabid football fans and see as many games as possible. Next on Kathryn's list comes dancing, but they don't go as often as they would like because of young Jerry. It goes without saying that Gene's favorite hobby is golf, and Kathryn has taken the game up since they have been married.

They are a fun-loving couple and enjoy having other young couples in for dinner. When they do have guests, the menu usually includes fried chicken for that is the prime favorite of both, with spaghetti a second choice. Sergeant Yow would like to have watermelon added to his favorite chicken dinner the whole year around.

The Yows are looking forward with anticipation to next month when they pack the car and take off for a trip to Gene's home in Memphis.

December Draft Is Set at 40,000

WASHINGTON (A F P S) — The Army has established a selective Service quota of 40,000 men for December, in line with previous plans for calling up 30,000 before April, 1951.

The December call compares with the 70,000 for November, 50,000 in October and 50,000 in September. It will bring the number of selectees requested by the Army to 210,000.

The Defense Department has also requested Selective Service to supply 922 doctors, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians. For the three months beginning Oct. 16, all will be assigned to the Army, Defense, Navy and Air Force. The Air Force and Navy have indicated that present plans do not call for submission of requisitions in these categories.

The call affects those medical men required to register on Oct. 16 ordinarily because they were trained at government expense or served less than 21 months during World War II.

Instructors Start S. Carolina Tour

The Infantry School goes the common ordinary correspondence course route. Instead of sending the lessons to the students, the school sends the instructors.

A six-man instruction team will leave here a week from today, Nov. 2, for the South Carolina Military District to teach units in that area about "Infantry Tactics."—The Infantry Rifle Company.

The group, all men from the 325th Infantry 82nd Airborne Division, now on duty at Fort Benning as demonstration troops, will be gone for 11 days.

Members of the team are 1st Lt. Charles M. Atmore, Jr., and Sgt. Charles W. Bowman, Company E, 325th; James F. McHugh, Company F, Walter L. Johnston Company, F, Sgt. Richard B. Hicks, Company G, and Sgt. James E. Knox, Jr., Company H.

COLONEL DUNCAN RETURNS Lt. Col. William Austin Duncan, secretary of the Infantry School, returns today from a three-day visit to Army Field Force headquarters at Fort Monroe, Va. During his visit at Fort Monroe, Colonel Duncan conferred with Army Field Force officials on school personnel matters.

Sergeant Yow is the veteran of the 41st Infantry division. After eight years in the armed forces he has decided to make the Air Force his future career.

Fax Printing Boon for Army

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

Facsimile, more commonly known as fax, the process of transmitting newspaper and other printed information by radio or wire, may soon become of outstanding importance for both a military and civilian standpoint.

Transmissions have already been made on an experimental basis in New York, Philadelphia, and other large cities. The University of Missouri school of journalism publishes Missouri Fax, a regular facsimile newspaper.

The process can also be of great help in time of war or may be transmitted, enabling expert radiologists far from the scene of an accident or war operation to make quick diagnosis.

The service has already been set up on the ships at sea; Coast Guard Air Force, Weather, Bureau, and commercial airlines. Seventy National Guard units are installing fax systems, and the Air Force has set up an experimental network. Army ground forces can use fax for messages when regular teletype communication is disrupted.

Fax may soon be used extensively to deliver daily newspapers, becoming as common in homes as radios and television sets are at present.

Everyone Must Do His Part

The Community Chest time once again, and everybody will be asked to contribute a few dollars toward the support of the many Chest-operated agencies when the drive opens here Oct. 31.

Now is the time for all Benningites to show their appreciation for the relief, health and character-building agencies which could not continue without the help of the Community Chest. Some of you have not had occasion to call on one of these agencies for aid, but the time may come when there is need for you to turn. That's when you'll be glad you did your part toward insuring that these agencies have the money they need.

Air Force Plans to Promote 4,360 to Major

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE Approximately 4,360 Air Force officers will be considered by a selection board for permanent promotion to the rank of major. The board will meet on or about Nov. 6. Actual promotions are to be phased over a year to 18 months.

President Truman has named Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining as Vice Chief of Staff of the Air Force with the rank of four-star general. The President also appointed Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad, who has been Acting Vice Chief of Staff, as Commander in Chief of the United States Air Forces in Europe, to succeed Lt. Gen. John K. Cannon.

Benning Bandbox

By May Pigott

"All the world is a stage and all the men and women merely players" were the immortal words of the Great Bard, and down through the years, people of all ages and walks of life have had an inner urge to express themselves on a stage.

But everybody simply can't be well-known stage, screen or radio stars. So to satisfy that urge, Little Theaters have mushroomed over the country.

Fort Benning, like any normal community, felt that urge back in the middle twenties. As a result a group of drama-lovers formed a Little Theater group here.

The group elected a president, treasurer, head director and assistants and a stage manager, all to serve a term of office of one year.

The Dramatic Club struggled through the years. It wasn't until the early thirties that the club came into its own. Lt. Col. George C. Marshall (now General Marshall) was at the time assistant commandant of the Infantry School. A firm believer in extra-curricular activities, he placed at the club's disposal all the facilities of the post and pledged his co-operation in all their undertakings.

The building and painting of the scenery was in the hands of an officer and two enlisted men, while different people took over the job of teaching the art of make-up. Mrs. R. H. Chance was a make-up teacher here for several years.

The dramatic group made such a name for itself that productions were treated at Benning in a similar manner to an opening night on Broadway. It was almost a foregone conclusion that if there was a performance everybody would go, and it was customary to have dinner parties before the opening performance. All productions were given at the old Post theater, next door to the gymnasium, and the plays usually ran for two nights.

The group's roster of plays included some of the best known and best loved, among them Whistling In The Dark, Road to Rome, Ladies of the Jury, Journey's End, Candlelight, Dover Road, The Torch Bearer, Captain Applejack, The Circle, Man of Destiny and The Royal Family. Some of the personnel now stationed here who took prominent roles in those plays, include Mrs. W. B. Moore, Mrs. C. W. Pence, Mrs. M. E. Halloran, Lt. Col. R. M. Booth and many, many others.

Interest seemed to wane, however, in the face of the uncertainty of the years immediately before the war, and by the time 1941 rolled around, with more serious things to think about and constantly changing personnel, the club dropped from sight.

But in 1944 the idea of a dramatic group was fanned into flame again, this time under the auspices of the Special Services office. It was called the Fort Benning Theater Guild, and almost every night lights burned in the Special Services building as actors, actresses, stage hands and costume designers held long sessions. Then came the time for casting of the first play, and the offices were crowded with interested people. Of course, the problem of casting a play, only to have to replace the stars a few weeks before dress rehearsals due to transfers, was always present. Despite that, however, the group struggled along.

It attempted to bring to the stage of Fort Benning some of the leading plays, although every one tried was quite an undertaking, taxing the ingenuity, ability and "stickability" of every one. But as soon as one play was safely out of the way, the club was ready to start casting another.

Benning audiences saw across the footlight such efforts as Meet The Wife, Separate Rooms, Boy Meets Girl, The Man Who Came To Dinner, You Can't Take It With You and My Sister, Eileen. When the call went out to cast The Man Who Came To Dinner, the largest number of candidates in the year-old history of the Guild turned out to read for parts. This play made history at Benning with its full week's run. S-Sgt. William Leggett starred as Whitesides.

The Guild was fortunate in having Philip Ahn, Hollywood film actor and star of such movies as The Story of Dr. Wassell and China Sky, for director for the summer production of You Can't Take It With You.

Following the presentation of My Sister, Eileen, the Benningites seemed to lose interest in Little Theater work, and the Guild was disbanded. It has remained so ever since.

There is a great deal of Theatrical talent here at Benning, however, and one of the greatest hopes of Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commander of the Infantry Center, is that in the near future there will be another active dramatic group here.

Fort Benning has in the past presented some outstanding plays starring outstanding actors, and I join with the others who are interested in hoping that in the near future there will be another such group.

Meet Miss Benning..

Next to pass before the reviewing stand in the parade of Miss Bennings is a Georgia peach, Sgt. Penny McGowan, who claims Fitzgerald as her home and who worked as a junior aircraft engine mechanic prior to entering the service.

Penny has had a variety of jobs since joining the WAC. She has been acting first sergeant and supply sergeant for her detachment, and is now morning report clerk for the Station hospital and Provisional Medical group. THIS YOUNG MISS BENNING HAS THE interesting hobby of meeting people. Just introduce her to somebody she has never met and she's happy. Next to meeting people, she likes to dance. In fact, she says, it would be hard to draw the line of first preference between the two. She's also fond of sports, especially swimming.

Penny enjoys musical movies, and with a naughty wink, claims that spicy books are the ones that hold her attention, whether they be novels or biographies. She is a music lover, and all types of popular music appeal to her. With her love for music and dancing such a part of her make-up, she can be found on most dance nights tripping the light fantastic at the Pine Lodge NCO club.

New Favorite Menu

The favorite dinner menu of Mrs. Henry E. Praether, wife of M-Sgt. Praether, along with a treasured recipe for pumpkin cake is submitted today.

Lavender-Legare Wedding Solemnized at Church Rites

Miss Kathleen Fate Lavender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Rex Lavender, became the bride of Capt. Eugene V. Legare, Fort Benning and Johns Island, S. C. on Friday at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the St. Luke Methodist Church. Dr. Leonard Cochran read the marriage vows. The stately church was beautiful in its decorations. Four graduated fern trees led to a altar on either side of which were white tapers in branched candelabra. Massive arrangements of white poinsettias, chrysanthemums and gladioli flanked the chancel. The pews were marked with clusters of the same flowers tied with white satin ribbons. A program of musical music was presented by Mrs. Gladys Gaylord, aunt of the bride, organist, and the bride's father and Miss Mary Evelyn Coney, soloist. Mrs. Gaylord's selections included "Dreams" by Wagner, Debussy's "Romance," Mr. Lehmann's "Traumerie," Mr. Lehmann's "I Love Thee," and Miss Coney sang "Perfect Love" as the benediction. Edward Priester of Fort Benning served as the groom's best man. The usher-groomsmen were Capt. Albert S. Dalby, Donald Stewart, Jack Gaylor and James LaRoche of Johns Island, Ga., was her constant attendant. Miss Carolyn Fate of Monroe, Ga., was her constant attendant. The bride wore a blue dress fashioned with a strapless, satin bodice, a bolero with matching collar and a bouffant tulle skirt. Her arm bouquet was of Tailsman roses, and she wore a matching arrangement in her hair. The bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Richardson of Atlanta, Miss Betty Ann Money, Mrs. James Scilly of Atlanta, and Mrs. Danford Carroll of Fort Campbell, Ky. They wore blue-green dresses like that of the bride and carried similar bouquets. The bride entered with her father who was given in marriage. She wore a wedding crown designed with a yoke of illusion forming a low necking and designed in bow knots and flowers in silk embroidery and beaded, fitted bodice, long sleeves extending to points at the hands, and full skirt which lengthened to form a cathedral train. Her three-tiered full length veil of illusion was trimmed with rose point lace and fell from a band of the same lace which was used on her mother's wedding gown. Her only ornament was an heirloom diamond brooch. She carried an old-fashioned round bouquet of bride's roses, valley lilies and stephanotis showered with stephanotis and valley lilies. Mr. and Mrs. Lavender entertained with a reception at the Country Club immediately following the ceremony.

AT TOYLAND OPENING . . . Susan Bush, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George E. Bush, and Stevie Jost, son of Maj. and Mrs. Harry F. Jost, were among the first Fort Benning youngsters and kiddies to visit the new Post Exchange Toyland located adjacent to the Main Exchange. Little Susan (left) who arrived with her mother, had no trouble making up her mind what to ask Santa Claus for, and went directly to the doll counter. However, she seems to be encountering a little difficulty in taking her life-sized doll for a walk. Stevie (right photo), on the other hand, just took it easy in the Wild West department and dreamed of "Stevie the Kid" and "Two-gun Steve from Tombstone, Arizona" with his pearl-handled six-shooters at his side, a sombrero and a guitar to serenade his gal. Toyland which operates on the same schedule as the Main Exchange will remain open until Christmas eve. During Christmas week, it is planned to keep it open evenings.

Resigns Position As Commissioner
Mrs. Carl E. Frisby, commissioner, tendered her resignation at a meeting of the Girl Scout council in the Scout cabin Tuesday. She spoke briefly expressing her thanks for the co-operation she had received from the council members and the leaders during her term of office, and also thanked the various organizations on the post who had helped her in any way in the carrying out of the Girl Scout program. A commissioner to succeed Mrs. Frisby has not yet been chosen.

Ladies of ASU Have Luncheon
Ladies of the 340th Area Service unit entertained with their monthly luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday, with Mrs. Maurice L. Miller, Mrs. Benjamin F. Cook and Mrs. Henry S. Daugherty as hostesses. The table was centered with a big pumpkin circled by black cats. Arrangements of orange and yellow fall flowers and marigolds completed the appointments. Places were laid for 66 ladies.

Hostesses Here For Club Duty
Two new hostesses arrived this week to work at Fort Benning service clubs. Miss Margaret Weaver of Jacksonville, Ala., is temporarily assigned to club No. 2, pending the reopening of club No. 1 now being redecorated. Graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Miss Weaver majored in physical education. Before coming to Fort Benning director for club No. 2, she was a school teacher at Alexandria, Ala. Miss Helen E. Baker is a native of Battle-Creek, Mich. She has been a USO director for the past eight years and has worked at Selfridge field, Mich., Camp Breckinridge, Ky., Fort Sheridan, Ill., Chanute field, Ill. and Scott Air Force base, Ill. She has been appointed program fore coming to Fort Benning director for club No. 2.

TOOTH IN EAR
NEW YORK (APPS)—James McNeil, age 7, went to the dentist with a toothache in his ear. Dr. Harold Orr scooped at the possibility until he actually saw a tooth in the lad's ear. Seems like James had worked out a baby tooth and not knowing what to do with it stuck it in his right ear.

Hospital Starts Course For Civilian Technicians

A civilian medical-surgical technician training course has been initiated at the Station hospital in conjunction with the recently inaugurated expansion program. The new course, designed to acquaint civilian ward attendants and nurse's aides with advanced hospital procedure, is part of the hospital's training program for newly employed medical personnel. During the 20-hour course, students receive on-the-job training in the morning, and spend the afternoons in classrooms, where they receive instruction in such subjects as basic ward management, bed making, care of surgical, orthopedic and medical pa-

Barnacles are Killed By Electric Shocks

LA JOLLA, Calif. (APPS) — An electric shocking device that kills barnacles and mussels and prevents them from fouling the bottoms of vessels has been developed. The device consists of a series of vacuum tubes that generate electrical impulses in the water. In the case of oyster mussels, the shock causes their shells to snap shut with death resulting from starvation or asphyxiation because of inability to eliminate wastes.

Officials of the Food Service School have come up with new idea in showing training films in daylight, it was disclosed here last week by Capt. Benjamin Cox, assistant commandant of the school.

Called "daylight movies," the new arrangement allows the audience to sit in the open light while the film is being shown. No dark window shades are required and room lights can be left on.

By means of an ordinary bathroom mirror, a large plate of frosted glass and a 16 mm projector placed behind the screen, the image is projected on the mirror, reflected onto the frosted glass screen, and shown through translucent screen.

The image can be seen as clearly in room light as in darkness.

Purpose of the daylight movie, Captain Cox said, is to permit students to take notes during the showing of the film and eliminate the distracting noises caused by the projector.

Cost of the movie arrangement, he declared, amounted to only $28. It is the only such set in this area and has been in use by the school since August.

Recently, plans for daylight movies were requested by the University of Georgia, which hopes to adopt the idea.

Scouts Instructed In Water Safety

Water safety and Morse code instruction highlighted the meeting of Boy Scout troop No. 27 last Wednesday night.

Maj. Robert Miller of the Airborne department taught water safety and Lt. Edward Dreyer taught Morse code.

At the next regular meeting on Oct. 25, a representative of the local Fire department will instruct Scouts in public safety and precautions against fire.

Next major event planned by troop No. 27 is an overnight hike, scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 4. Last week's meeting was conducted by Lt. Col. Robert Daniels and Maj. E. Fossum.

Buck-Passing Perplexes GI; Takes Action

San Francisco, Calif. (APPS) — The corporal from Camp Stoneman, near here, wanted action. He called the city desk of a local newspaper and the following conversation ensued: "This is Cpl. Robert Kalesara from Stoneman calling.

"There's a pigeon up here at 1021 Market Street," he explained. "Got his left wing caught between the grates of a fire escape and he's flapping around up there."

"I called the police department and they said it's up to the fire department. So I called the fire department. They said it's up to the police."

"So I called the police department back and they said the fire department's got the ladder."

"So I called the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and there's nobody there — no answer."

"And that poor pigeon's still flapping up there. Somebody ought to get him down."

That somebody was Corporal Kalesara and his buddy, Cpl. David Crook. They spotted a gas and electric repair truck down the street, borrowed a ladder, climbed up, freed the pigeon.

Daylight Movies Used By School

Officials of the Food Service School have come up with new idea in showing training films in daylight, it was disclosed here last week by Capt. Benjamin Cox, assistant commandant of the school.

Called "daylight movies," the new arrangement allows the audience to sit in the open light while the film is being shown. No dark window shades are required and room lights can be left on.

By means of an ordinary bathroom mirror, a large plate of frosted glass and a 16 mm projector placed behind the screen, the image is projected on the mirror, reflected onto the frosted glass screen, and shown through translucent screen.

The image can be seen as clearly in room light as in darkness.

Purpose of the daylight movie, Captain Cox said, is to permit students to take notes during the showing of the film and eliminate the distracting noises caused by the projector.

Cost of the movie arrangement, he declared, amounted to only $28. It is the only such set in this area and has been in use by the school since August.

Recently, plans for daylight movies were requested by the University of Georgia, which hopes to adopt the idea.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

The year 1950 might well go down on record as being one of the craziest and "upsettiest" seasons in football history. It might also well be termed a "football procrastinator's nightmare."

With the current season already five weeks old, 10 major collegiate teams still remain in the ranks of the unbeaten: Army, Kentucky, Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Cornell, Princeton, California, Princeton, Miami and Northwestern.

And, as a result of the present upset epidemic, the question nowadays is "who's gonna be next?" or "What favorite team will tumble this week-end?" And rightly so.

Since the opening week of the 1950 season, with the normal amount of pre-season hopeful favorites falling by the wayside, there have been an unusual number of what might be called sure-shot favorites succumbing to ordinary weak elevens, particularly in the South.

Most notable of the upsets this year was, of course, Purdue's stunning win over the mighty Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. And then there was Mississippi State's unexpected triumph over highly-regarded Tennessee, Wake Forest's victory over usually powerful North Carolina and Michigan State's surprising jolt over Michigan.

This past week, which took the cake, saw North Carolina State trim a very confused and shocked Maryland squad, UCLA dump Rose Bowl-minded Stanford, underdog Florida smash Vanderbilt, Illinois drop Washington, Cornell defeat Yale and SMU win over Rice, which were initial defeats for the latter five.

As a result, there has been much weeping, wailing and crying over beer glasses or what have you these last few weeks. And judging from what's happened thus far this season, it can be safely said many more tears will be shed come New Year's Day, the football day of reckoning.

Indeed, the year 1950 will have been a dark one for favorites and the grid pickers as well.

On the subject of picking, we might as well shove aside our tear-stained beer mug and proceed to foresee next week-end's results and attempt to raise our season's average of 750.

EAST

ARMY OVER COLUMBIA—After all this upset talk, we'll defy fate and pick the Cadets, spotting 30 points.

CORNELL OVER PRINCETON—A battle between two unheaven rivals. The medics may well have a field day during this close contest.

PENN OVER NAVY—The Middies were lucky last week. They'll need a lot more for this one.

YALE OVER HOLY CROSS—The Bulldogs are out to redeem themselves and the Crusaders will be the victims by 13 points.

MIAMI OVER PITTSBURG—A close one. The extra point might make the difference.

COLGATE OVER BROWN—The Red Raiders shouldn't encounter too much resistance here.

GEORGIA OVER BOSTON COLLEGE—With some to spare.

SOUTH

KENTUCKY OVER GEORGIA TECH—This one will make it seven straight for the Wildcats.

TENNESSEE OVER WASHINGTON AND LEE—By two touchdowns.

TULANE OVER AUBURN—Loss No. 6 for the Tigers.

FLORIDA OVER FURMAN—A breather for the Gators.

ALABAMA OVER MISSISSIPPI STATE—The Crimson Tide by two TDs.

WAKE FOREST OVER CLEMSON—Another close one.

MARYLAND OVER DUKE—You never know about the Terps, but it looks like their week.

MIDWEST

OHIO STATE OVER IOWA—We'll favor the favorites with 13 points.

ILLINOIS OVER INDIANA—A tough conference fight.

OKLAHOMA OVER IOWA STATE—The Sooners still unbeaten after this one.

MICHIGAN OVER MINNESOTA—By a single touchdown, or less.

NORTHWESTERN OVER WISCONSIN—Begins a tough schedule for the Wildcats.

MICHIGAN STATE OVER NOTRE DAME—If the Irish can take this one they're back in the league.

WEST

CALIFORNIA OVER ST. MARY'S—The Golden Bears by 18 points or more.

WYOMING OVER NEW MEXICO—Gunning for its sixth straight.

WASHINGTON OVER STANFORD—Look for a tie.

RICE OVER TEXAS—Another tight one?

Detachment Keglers Set 2 New Records

Capt. Harry Zaritsky Paces Team in Three-Game Series

Two new records marked the close of the third round of competition in the officer's bowling circuit this week as Capt. Harry Zaritsky of the Infantry School detachment set a new season high in the three-game series and paced his team to a new high game score.

Zaritsky, who also placed second in the high game this week, broke the three-week-old record, formerly held by Maj. Donn C. Yoder of the Airborne department's No. 1 team, with a pinfall of 608.

Led by Zaritsky's 172, 235 and 207, the ISD bowlers, setting a new record in the high team game last Friday evening with a total score of 2,489.

By virtue of the victory, the ISDers evacuated their fourth place niche and moved into a two-way tie for first place in Section II with Advance Class No. 1, Team 2. Both squads are presently sporting a .917 percentage for the season, each with 11 wins and one loss.

In Section I, keggers of the Automotive department gathered for their fourth annual tournament of the Communications department's No. 1 to maintain their unmarred record of 12 wins and no losses and the league lead. Ciriacks, Dickson and Wasak led in the high scoring department, amassing a total of 2,755 pins which included a 618 pin handicap.

In the high single game bracket, Capt. Gil S. Perkins captured top honors by scoring high for the week and second high for the season. His 256 bettered last week's second place total, which was held by Yoder, by 14 points.

Capt. Vernon L. Ashbacher of G-3 section, the Infantry Center retained his No. 1 position atop the high individual average standings for the third consecutive week. He holds the point lead over Capt. Richard Dill of ISD who trails in the No. 2 spot with a season's mean of 179.

I. Charles E. Sparks' 257, which was established in the opening week of play, is still high in the single game.

Benning Paddlers In 3rd Army Meet

Fort Benning's hopes for another Third Army title left for Camp Gordon, Ga. last Monday with a sextet of top flight ping pong paddlers—who will compete in the annual area table tennis tournament.

The Infantry Center team is composed of winners of the post intramural table tennis tournament which was held here three weeks ago.

The team includes Terry Scott, singles champion; Tom Herb Myatt, Joe Smith from the Airborne department and Calvin Gray and John Wyatt from the runner-up Infantry School detachment.

The tournament ends today.

Woman Golfer Takes 2nd Title

Mrs. Carrie Dawalt, who placed first in the accuracy golf tournament, chalked up her second links championship last Friday by winning the nine hole Country Club golf course.

This was the third of a series of eight women golfers' tournaments held each Friday afternoon. Tomorrow, the fourth meet, points-for-par, will be staged on the Country Club greens.

The remaining tournaments will be held on the following dates: Nov. 3 - six - or 12 - hole elective; Nov. 10 - straight handicap; Nov. 17 - turkey tournament, and Nov. 24 - kickers' replay tournament.

The two months Ringer competitions, presently in progress, will run four more weeks. At the completion of the tourney, prizes will be awarded the winners.

Badminton Meet Set Wednesday

The annual Infantry Center badminton tournament will be held in the Briant Wells Field House next Wednesday.

Teams are expected to enter from the 344th Area Service Unit, Infantry School detachment, Student Training Regiment and Provisional Medical Group.

Winners of the post tournament will represent Fort Benning in the annual Third Army badminton meet, scheduled to be held here Nov. 14-15.

Staffers Get Five Runs In First Inning, Win 6-3

Staging a terrific five-run rally in the opening inning, the Staff department trounced a Headquarters aggregation, 6-3, in an Officers' Softball League contest played here last Wednesday.

By virtue of the victory, the Staffers moved into fifth place in league standings with a season's record of two wins and three defeats. It was the fourth loss for the headquarters team which places sixth.

Winning Pitcher Andy Andrews went the route for the victory. Staffers and collected his second league triumph in a week. Holding the Headquarters batters in a long rally in the final frame with the bases loaded.

Staff Third Sacker Ralph Flynn opened the explosive first inning with a triple and registered the initial tally seconds later on a single by Red Weatherall.

The five-run hit parade continued with George Disharoon singling to left and Jenk Jenkins reaching up to permit the All-Army champs to compete in the national AAU tourney at Kansas City, Mo., in January.

The boxing tournament marks the resumption of All-Army competition which had been halted at the start of the Korean war. Camp Gordon, Ga., will be the site of the Third Army boxing tournament which is to be held Dec. 5-8.

6 Squads Vying For Hoop Title

Competition in the Area Service Unit Provisional group basketball league this week jumped into full swing with six spirited company-level squads vying for first place and a chance to represent the group in the Infantry Center league.

The 2nd Quartermaster battalion, top contender for the league title, is presently setting the pace with three wins and no losses. Coached by Ardie Dillen, the Quartermaster hoopers hold a one game edge over the lead-challenging, second place Seventh Ordnance battalion.

The Ordnance courtiers, under the able tutelage of Bill Durham, last year's group team coach, have a season record of three triumphs and a lone defeat which came at the hands of the QM cagers.

In the past, the All-Army meet has been held in February, but this year the date was moved up to permit the All-Army champs to compete in the national AAU tourney at Kansas City, Mo., in January.

The boxing tournament marks the resumption of All-Army competition which had been halted at the start of the Korean war. Camp Gordon, Ga., will be the site of the Third Army boxing tournament which is to be held Dec. 5-8.

Competition, double round robin, is held each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and Friday in the old Post gymnasium.

All-Army Mat Tourny Is Set For Ft. Meade

Dates and sites for the 1951 All-Army and Third Army boxing tournaments were announced last week by Third Army headquarters.

The All-Army meet, cancelled earlier this year, will be staged at Fort Meade, Md., Dec. 28-30.

Fred P. Houston 89, of Tampa, Fla., one of the original members of the 30th Infantry Regiment, visited his former organization last week for the purpose, as he put it, "of checking up, and bringing greetings and good wishes from some of the other old timers."

During his visit at the post, Mr. Houston had much to comment on. The greatest change he noted was the difference in pay. He compared the average monthly pay received by private of today with the monthly pay received by the private during his time of service: $13 a month for duty in the States and $15.60 for foreign service!

Another was about an organization called the Original 30th Infantry Association. This organization was founded by a sergeant and 30 members of the 30th Infantry. Meetings are held once a year and are attended by 50 to 75 members. This year the meeting was held at Clear Lake, Ind. Pur-

Reservists May Get Appointment To West Point

Applications are now being accepted from eligible personnel of the Reserve components for appointments to the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.

Under provisions of Department of the Army and the Air Force Circular No. 51 recently issued, enlisted men who were on active training status immediately prior to being called to active duty, or are at present in an active training status may apply for appointments as candidates. Former enlisted men of any of the Reserve components now on active duty, or as temporary commissioned or warrant officers, or as aviation cadets, may also apply.

All applications must be turned in through immediate commanders to the headquarters at which personnel records are maintained before the designating examination to determine eligibility for appointment which will be held on Nov. 15.

Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 22, American citizens and single and must have completed one full year of service in an active duty or active training status. They must be high-school graduates or the equivalent and should be able to pass the physical requirements for admission to the military academy. No physical examination is required for the designating examination.

Candidates passing both the designating examination and the West Point entrance examinations in March will become cadets on July 3, 1951.

KEEPING BOTH FEET ON THE GROUND . . . But not for long. Col. Paul Hamilton, chief of the Communications department at the Infantry School, gets set for his initial trip to the top of the 250-foot free towers during one of the final phases of the basic airborne course. The colonel started making his qualifying jumps from a plane early this week and is scheduled to graduate from the course tomorrow.

Turks Keep Wary Eye On Vital Dardanelles

By Armed Forces Press Service

The mere mention of the Ottoman Empire brings mind hordes of hard-riding Turks brandishing evil looking sabers and uttering terrifying battle yells. This impression is gained from the many motion pictures and colorful stories depicting "Conquering Turks" in their hundreds of campaigns during which they overran most of Asia Minor, great sections of southern Europe, and the coastal cities of North Africa.

The great land mass that once comprised Turkey has been whittled down to 294,416 square miles; where, at one time, countless millions of people were subservient to the Sultan, the population is only about 16 million.

Still Has Footbills

Despite the many set backs dealt her by Russia and Greece, Turkey still maintains a foothold in Europe, thus controlling the all-important Dardanelles and Bosphorus. These two straits of water are Russia's only access to the Mediterranean.

In addition to being strategically valuable, Turkey has a tremendous mineral wealth.

most of which never has been exploited. About four-fifths of the population derive their livelihood from agriculture. The main products of the country are tobacco, cereals, olives and olive oil, wool, silk, cotton, figs, nuts, opium, gums, and fruits of nearly every variety.

Her minerals include chrome, iron ore, zinc, manganese, antimony, copper, borax, enemy, asphalt, meerschaum, coal, lignite, salt, gold, silver and petroleum.

Much Forestlands

Of the country's total area, equal to about the size of Texas and South Carolina combined—about 29 million acres are forestlands.

Turkey is ruled by a democratic system with the secret ballot and universal suffrage. The president is elected by the National Assembly which, in turn, is elected by the people.

Education is compulsory for those between the ages of seven and 16. Schools are free and, despite the country's savage and war torn history, there are primary, intermediate, secondary and technical schools in Ankara, the capital, and Istanbul have universities for higher learning.

Military service is compulsory for Turkey's young men.

Uncle Sam Says

Your "Uncle Sam" is proud to be in a nation of young business men—the newspaperboys. These young men, 500,000 of them, are demonstrating a practical requirement for success—ambition, initiative, enterprise, industry and thrift. In addition to giving invaluable aid to practicing business men, they are also enjoying their earnings in U. S. Savings Bonds. "NOW LET'S GET BUSY."

311 Donate to Red Cross Blood Bank Last Week

Three hundred eleven people donated their blood and 42 members of the Red Cross Auxiliary donated their time at the Red Cross blood bank last Thursday and Friday, Oct. 19 and 20.

Roy Aten, assistant field director of the Fort Benning Red Cross, and his staff assisted on the blood bank.

Outfits giving blood were the Second battalion, 22nd Airborne Infantry regiment combat team, 78th Engineer combat battalion, 33rd Ordnance battalion and the Seventh Ordnance battalion.

Members of the Red Cross Auxiliary who worked at the blood bank were:

Nurses Aides: Mr. E. A. Kreilinger, D. E. Miller, Mrs. Schiller, Mrs. E. A. Kreilinger, Mrs. Ann Reinicke, Mrs. H. W. Sharp, Mrs. Charles A. Carroll, Mrs. D. E. Wilson, Mrs. Millie Henry, Mrs. Loren T. Jenks, Mrs. George Fagle and Mrs. S. R. Tupper.

Infantry Division To Get Rangers

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The American "ranger" World War II counterpart of the British commandos, are being reactivated by the Army for special combat missions.

The Army has announced that a ranger company will be inactivated in each infantry division. Each company will have five officers and 110 men equipped with light automatic rifles and demolition charges.

Initially, four ranger companies were made up of volunteers selected on the basis of high mental standards. All applicants must qualify as parachutists.

Training of the rangers will stress close combat, amphibious and air-borne warfare, sabotage, guerrilla fighting and use of foreign weapons and maps.

New Items Added To Field Rations

CHICAGO (APFS) — The Army's "M" ration has been replaced by a new and tastier "assault food packet."

The packet, a recent development of the Army's Quartermaster Food and Container Institute, contains one of eight kinds of canned meats, such as pork and applesauce, or beef stew. In addition, there are cigarettes, matches, instant paper, crackers, a cookie and a piece of chocolate.

Other developments announced by the institute designed to cheer the palate of the soldier, include: Front-line eggs that taste like eggs and a new powdered milk which "more nearly approaches" the milk than anything previously used by the Army.

Milk fat now is shipped to forward areas under refrigeration. There is no need for carrying milk by mechanical equipment.

Canned bread is another quartermaster development. Canned pound cake is also being distributed. A tasty pea soup that can be prepared in one minute is now available.

The problem faced by the infantry is this: How to get nourishing food which will stand up to two years' storage, not melt in hot climates and be suitable to troops in freezing climates.

Pace Praises Men in Korea

WASHINGTON (APFS) — Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr., considers that the following facts have been demonstrated in the Korean conflict:

1. The U. S. Army is "extremely well trained" and the officers and men are of the highest quality.
2. Tanks, weapons and ammunition are sound and more than a match for anything the Communists could bring into the field.
3. Unification of Korea will be prepared by the finance officer paying you at the end of the year.
4. Wars must "ultimately and inevitably be fought and won on the ground."
5. Communist imperialism is now ready to resort to open aggression to accomplish its ends.

Company Officers Course 2 Opens

School began Monday morning for 223 members of associate infantry company officers course No. 2.

Brig. Gen. George Honnen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, presided at the opening session, giving the students a brief resume of what the course is and what it has recently been expanded to 16 weeks from 13.

Twelve of the students are guest officers from Allied countries, studying as special guests at the Infantry School. The next associate infantry company officers course is scheduled to start Nov. 6.

Koreans With U. S. Army Units Get 'Official' American Names

TOKYO (APFS) — Bobo, Moe, Casey and Alabam are doing all right for themselves under the U. S. Army's buddy system in Korea.

They are four of thousands of South Koreans who have been integrated into U. S. Army units.

Names were perhaps the biggest stumbling block when the program began. American sergeants found their South Korean units overflowing with Kims and Lees, the Smiths and Joneses of Korea.

A paint brush — plus a little imagination cleared up this situation. On each South Korean's helmet was painted an official nickname assigned by his American buddy.

This system was first introduced in the Seventh Infantry Division, the first outfit to admit Koreans into the American Army.

As soon as each Korean completes his basic training, he is assigned to a squad and a specific buddy. He stays with his soldier; copying his every move.

Kids Get Pups From Dead GI

LOS ANGELES (APFS) — Fifty youngsters here received puppies because of a soldier's death.

These seemingly unrelated happenings were disclosed here when Mme. Joana Constantino of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals sheltered the first 30 children who showed up with their parents.

Mme. Constantino, who had this from GI insurance money she received following the death of her son, Pvt. Floriano Constantino, an Army infantryman killed on Bataan. His widowed mother, with no living relatives, put it this way:

"I felt that the money did not belong to me. I felt that the money should go to help make things better here—especially for the children. A pet sometimes is the only comfort a child has for love and affection. Many youngsters of today seem to be victims of crueler, more inhuman things than this are about these things."

Mother, teaching her little girl to giggle. Look, dear, just throw your head back and say "Ah. Little girl, how much I love you, I can't help yawning, my throat hasn't any stopper."

See a man? I'm positively through with gambling forever. Bustin' Forever? I don't believe that.

See a man? I want to bet five dollars on it?

New Income Tax Rate Goes Into Effect October Pay Day

Taxes to be withheld in accordance with the new income tax rate will be deducted beginning with the October pay day.

The method of figuring your income tax can be done in three steps as follows: (1) Counting yourself as the first exemption, multiply $56 by the number of exemptions. (2) Subtract this figure from your base pay, and (3) multiply the result by 18 per cent and you have your approximate tax.

For example, a corporal with over six years service receives base pay of $139 per month. If he is married and has no children, he has two exemptions. Two times $56 gives an exemption of $112. The table shows $4.80.

A colonel with 16 years service receives $384.25. If he is married and has five children, he has seven exemptions. Seven times $56 is an exemption of $392. Subtract this from $384.25 and take 18 per cent. You get $34.61. The table shows $36.20.

Withholding statements of amounts withheld will be furnished once a year only as of Dec. 31, 1950, and each Dec. 31, 1951, and each Dec. 31 thereafter. These will be prepared by the finance officer paying you at the end of the year. For those persons paying on quarterly estimates, the withholding form will be furnished before Jan. 15, according to plan.

Agricultural Aide Lists Suggestions For Fall Planting

Suggestions for fall planting were released this week by W. S. Reed, agricultural aide to the post engineer.

Flowers that may be planted in open gardens now include larkspur, pansy plants and many kinds of bulbs such as Easter lilies, narcissus, amaryllis and Dutzlerias. When planting bulbs, sow them in such a way that the top of the bulb is the depth of the bulb below the surface.

Among vegetables that may be planted now are turnips, radishes, lettuce, cabbage and collard plants and onion sets.

Beds for both vegetables and flowers should be prepared by deep spading. Work in liberal amounts of leaf mold or peat moss to the level below the surface and rake in two pounds of commercial fertilizer (6-8-4) to each 100-square feet of garden area. If desired, a light mulch of pine straw may be spread over the surface of the garden when the planting is completed.

Despy Karlas To Open Artist Series On Nov. 1

Despy Karlas, gifted young Georgia pianist, will open the University of Georgia's Off-Campus Artist Series in Columbus with a concert in the Jordan high school auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Her appearance will be the first of a series of five programs of music, art and drama to be held in Columbus during the next six months under the sponsorship of the University's division of general extension and the Columbus Pilot club.

This will be Miss Karlas' second concert appearance in Columbus. Last year she was featured in the Off-Campus Artist Series in joint recital with Robert Harrison, violinist.

The artist is one of the youngest and most talented members of the university's music faculty and has been widely recognized as musician of exceptional ability. A native of New Jersey, Miss Karlas made her first public appearance as a child. After graduating from the New Jersey College for Women, she continued her piano training at the Juilliard School of Music in New York where she studied under some of this country's best-known teachers.

Both on the concert stage and in ensemble playing she has met with pronounced success. For two years she was duo-piano partner of Sergei Barenokoff, Russian pianist. Later she was soloist with the Atlanta Symphony orchestra.

At the university she teaches piano, makes many solo appearances, and is two-piano partner with Hugh Hodson.

Her appearance in Columbus and at other off-campus centers last year was one of the highlights of the Artist Series. She was praised not only for her fine musicianship but also for her personal charm.

Other artists who will appear in Jordan high school auditorium as part of the series of programs during the next six months are Rudolph Kratina, cellist; Howard Thomas, art lecturer.

DESPY KARLAS

the Georgia Glee Club, and the University Theatre.

Season tickets to the Off-Campus Artist Series are available from all members of the Columbus Pilot club and are on sale downtown at Humes Music company, Kivens's Fashion Shop, Lady Jane Shop, Magic Oven Bakeshops and Chancellor company.

Season tickets are $5 for general admission and $2.50 for teachers and students. Tickets to individual concerts will be on sale at the box office or $1.50 and 60 cents.

3 of 4 Brothers Enlist in Army After Navy Duty

LOS ANGELES (APPS) — It was just the "American spirit," the proud mother beamed as she told of how four of five sons again donned uniforms.

The four sons of Mrs. Nella Dusatko are World War II veterans. All had served in the Navy. Of the four who went back in Service, only one has returned to the Navy, however.

George, 28, Donald, 25, and Ned, 26, enlisted in the Air Force. Bill, 32, rejoined the Navy. A fifth brother, Emil, 30, himself a Navy veteran, will take over operation of a gasoline service station owned by Don and George.

SHE MUST BE SHOWN PHILADELPHIA (A-F-P-S) — Twenty-one-year-old Lillian King just plain doesn't believe what some people tell her. As a result she foiled two would-be bandits who recently tried to hold up her mother's store.

After making a purchase, the men demanded money from the cash register. "I'm not motioned to 'guns' in their coat pockets," Miss King insisted on seeing the fiend.

Find Red Light Easier on Eyes

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

Studies being conducted at the U.S. Naval Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, Md., are bringing to the surface some interesting data concerning light and its effect on human eyes.

In an effort to discover the best color light for reading ship-board instruments at night, red was found to be the most suitable. Red light, the researchers have found, emits a relatively low degree of glare. Further, more, after looking at a red light, the eyes are able to adapt themselves to darkness four times faster than with other colors.

Because of its low degree of glare, the Navy engineers have found red light also offers less light which could be detected by an enemy.

After discovering the most suitable color of light for instrument panels, the engineers are studying dials and scales on the panels.

Experiment station engineers now are submitting designs for standardized illuminated instrument panels to be used on all Navy vessels.

Oil Company Protects Men In Services

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Wives and children of employees of the Standard Oil Company called in to the Armed Forces will be protected against financial hardship by a military service plan started originally during World War II.

The recently announced company plan includes the number of benefits for employees without dependents. Among other provisions, it guarantees an employee his old job if available, or an equivalent position upon his return from military service.

Dependents of employees will receive monthly payments from the company during the breadwinner's period of active military service.

'Friendly' Policy Ordered in Reich

FRANKFURT (APPS) — The U. S. Army in Germany has started a "friendly" campaign with the German population.

The directive to American troops here said that they should learn "a working knowledge of the German language in order that a fluent exchange of ideas and increased social relationship between Americans and Germans can be put into effect." The directive said troops should mingle with the Germans and thus practice the democracy they preach. United States High Commissioner John A. McCloy endorsed the new Army policy.

Efficiency Experts Train Expeditors in New Lingo

WASHINGTON (APPS) — A federal official recently assigned his staff to write an article for a professional journal under his name. His employees thought their job was well done. But the official went over it and wrote in all the words and phrases they had tried to avoid.

TO EXPEDITE—To confound confusion with commotion. EXPEDITER—One who lopes the same while riding fast trains and staying at good hotels.

EFFICIENCY EXPERT — A guy who expedites. CO-ORDINATOR—A guy who has a desk between two expeditors.

LIAISON OFFICER—A person who talks and listens better, but has no authority to make a definite statement. CRITERIA—Measures which the other guy use to underestimate what you have already overestimated the deal to be worth.

INCENTIVE PROGRAM — A scheme to titillate a submerg-ent urge. TO ACTIVATE—To make carbons and add names to the memorandum.

UNDER CONSIDERATION — Never heard of before. UNDER ACTIVE CONSIDERATION — We're looking in the files for it. IN TRANSMITTAL — We're sending it to you because we're tired of holding the bag.

A CONFERENCE — A place where conversation is substituted for the dreariness of labor and the loneliness of thought. Yes, Dear Reader, that's Gobbledygook.

DISGUSTING WASTE! LONDON (APPS) — Two British soldiers were sentenced by a court martial to spend 56 days in confinement because they stole a barrel of beer. The theft wasn't so bad apparently, but the soldiers washed their feet in the beer. Said the court's president, Major L. H. Peacock, it was a "disgusting waste."

T.I.C. TALKS

Question: Do you think the Army should pattern its training along the lines used by the Ranger Training Center?

Cpl. William O. Spencer, 450th Ordnance Ammunition company: If the Army used ranger training as a pattern, there would be more discipline and better training. Most of the rangers seem to have what could be rightly called team spirit.

Cpl. William T. Dawson, 450th Ordnance Ammunition company: I think ranger training for combat units would make troops tougher and harder, but for service units I think the regular training is sufficient.

Pfc. Thomas H. Clark, 450th Ordnance Ammunition company: I don't think it's necessary to pattern the training after the rangers, because I believe regular infantry training is good enough.

Pfc. Raymond L. Hendrix, 450th Ordnance Ammunition company: I don't think it's necessary. Infantry training is enough, and will get an infantryman through almost anything.

Pvt. G. Lynn Derrick, 450th Ordnance Ammunition company: I think ranger training is very desirable, and the Army should adopt it as a regular part of combat training. That type training is for the soldier's own benefit and protection.

Cpl. William S. Alton, 450th Ordnance Ammunition company: I don't feel that it's necessary to train regular infantry troops as they do the Rangers because we are not going to do the type of fighting they will be called upon to perform. But I do think it's necessary to keep in good condition no matter what type of unit you are in.

Locate Cold Virus With Atom Detector

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Scientists at Johns Hopkins University have reported a new method of determining whether laboratory specimens are infected with cold virus. Geiger counters and radioactive phosphorus are used in the test.

By means of the new method, the presence of cold virus in a half-hatched chicken egg can be detected. Previously, there was no known method of detecting the cold virus in a laboratory specimen, except injection of the matter into a human being or animal under controlled conditions and waiting to see if they developed colds.

Armistice Day Ceremony Set

Post Units Plan Parades In Columbus, Birmingham

The flag in front of the Infantry School will be at half staff on the morning of Nov. 11, Armistice Day, in tribute to those who have died for their country, and both military and civilian personnel will observe the occasion as a holiday, it was announced this week by Infantry Center officials.

A short ceremony will take place at the flagpole beginning at 11:45 a. m. Music will be provided by the 72nd Army band, and a 21-gun salute will be fired by Battery C of the 319th Field Artillery battalion. At noon the flag will be raised to full mast.

Fort Benning units are also scheduled to participate in Armistice Day parades and ceremonies in two cities in the area.

A battery from the 41st Field Artillery battalion will go to Birmingham, Ala., to march in a parade there.

Both the Second battalion of the 325th Infantry regiment, 82nd Airborne division, and the 72nd Army band will march in the Columbus Armistice Day parade which is being organized by the Military and Naval Affairs committee of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Robert Dismukes, vice-chairman.

The Columbus parade will begin at 10 a. m. at Fourth avenue and 13th street, marching down 13th street to the west side of Broadway and down Broadway to Ninth street.

A reviewing stand is being erected at the intersection of 12th street and Broadway, and officials from Fort Benning, Columbus and Phenix City have been extended invitations to view the parade from the platform.

All Broadway merchants have been urged to display the U. S. flag in front of their stores.

A consolidated color guard has been planned for the parade including flags from Army, Navy

Chapel Services Honor Gen. Bell

'Red Letter Testament' Presented By Congregation To Former G-4

Brig. Gen. Marcus B. Bell, formerly assistant chief of staff, G-4, of the Infantry Center, was presented a "Red Letter Testament" last Sunday by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks, Infantry Center chaplain, on behalf of the congregation.

The testament was presented to General Bell for his work as chief usher at the Infantry Center chapel. Accompanying the general at the time of the presentation were Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Leo Rashburn, sister-in-law of Chaplain Jenks.

A record crowd attended the services.

A breakdown of attendance at Sunday's services shows the following:

Morning worship services at 11 a. m., 408; Christian Fellowship hour, 1,177, and Brat Barracks' Youth Fellowship, 166.

During the Christian Fellowship hour, held at Service Club No. 1, a buffet supper was served, followed by recreation and a community sing.

Other activities of the day included Vesper services which featured the Senior Choir from the First Baptist church in Columbus. The choir presented "The Holy City," an oratorio by A. R. Gaul, directed by Miss Frances Arnold, organist and choir director, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth D. Pierce, pianist.

Services will begin next Sunday at the Infantry Center chapel at 9:30 a. m. to accommodate those who are unable to attend the 11 a. m. services. Communion will be held at both services.

Next week the Christian Fellowship hour will feature the men's quartet and a group of young girls from the First Christian church in Columbus.

Vesper services next Sunday will include a program by the Adult and Young People club from the First Christian church. The young people will sing "The Nations Prayer" by Frank, and the Adults will sing "Praise Ye Jehovah" by Lyons.

Miss Patricia White, also from the First Christian church, will sing "Stranger of Galilee."

Red Feather Time

Community Chest Benefits Post's Welfare Agencies

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on the activities of agencies which receive either a part or all of their operating funds from the Community Chest.

This week's article deals with Joint Army Emergency Relief, Army Relief Society and Air Force Aid society.

By JAMES L. CARLILE

Thousands of Fort Benning citizens this week added their contributions to the annual Community Chest fund drive, which officially opened here Tuesday.

This fund drive is the one time during the year that the people of the Benning community are called upon to express their interest in the many Chest-supported agencies. The drive is held for the purpose of community betterment, and depends solely upon the generous attitude of everyone in order to insure its success.

Health and recreational programs are by no means the many benefits derived from the drive. The real appreciation, however, lies in the agencies that stand ready to furnish emergency relief at the time it is needed most.

Such participating agencies as Joint Emergency Relief, the Army Relief Society and the Air Force Aid society have assisted hundreds of Fort Benning soldiers and their families last year. Although each of these agencies is faced with the same primary "why" — giving emergency aid to soldiers when a situation arises which tends to cause undue hardship — each operates under a separate fund.

Only last week the Army Relief society was confronted with the case of a soldier and his family who were suffering hardship due to non-receipt of pay. As Lt. E. J. Newman, Army Emergency Relief officer, related the story, he expressed his personal interest in having the opportunity to serve such worthy causes.

Typical of many other cases handled during the year, the soldier, a family man with a wife and four children, had been delinquent in making the payments on his furniture, due to non-receipt of pay. As a result, the firm repossessed the furniture.

After hearing the soldier's story, Lieutenant Newman took the necessary steps required in order to verify the case. Finding that emergency relief was justified, the agency immediately went to work. It was only a matter of a few hours before satisfactory arrangements had been made with the furniture company involved and the furniture was being returned to the soldier. The next step was the question showed that more emergency aid was needed, the agency went to work to see that food was put into the house for the children, and that the family had sufficient funds to carry them over until the soldier received his pay.

During the past three months the Army Relief Society has loaned over $4,000 to families of former Fort Benning soldiers who are now in the Far East command. As spokesman for the agency, Lieutenant Newin said, "The assistance to these families will continue to be available until proper allotments can be established to these families."

Separate from Joint Emergency Relief and the Army Relief Society, this agency being established to render emergency aid to Air Force personnel and their families.

The Air Force Aid society operates independently of the Army emergency agencies. Not receiving support from any other source, this agency depends solely upon the money that it receives through self-sponsored drives and the Community Chest for its funds.

But like the Army agencies this organization plays an important part in supplying emergency aid to airmen and their families. When asked what he thought the attitude of the airmen was towards the agency, Lt. Joel W. Walker, custodian said, "The men of the Air Force seem to realize the value of such an organization. They show this by the quick response they give during drives to raise funds."

The Air Force Aid society has the same responsibility as the other Army relief agencies," Lieutenant Walker said, "but one thing which may be somewhat different is the fact that our society does furnish the necessary funds to see that individuals through college. These cases, of course, are not too common and must be approved in Washington," he added.

Although they maintain separate funds, the Army Relief Society and the Air Force Aid society serve with the same purpose and same responsibility. These include small loans to military personnel who claim non-receipt of pay; assistance to dependents upon death of Army personnel; emergency transportation of dependents from home to post; delay in receipt of allotments and allowances; unexpected essential travel, and leaves of absence an emergency nature,

Leaves Here For Ft. Riley

Brig. Gen. Marcus B. Bell, G-4, of the Infantry Center, left the post Tuesday for his new station at Fort Riley, Kansas, where he will be with the 10th Infantry division.

General Bell came to Fort Benning in December, 1948, from the Far Eastern Command. While overseas, he served as deputy chief of staff and commander of special troops of the U. S. force in Korea under Lt. Gen. John H. Hodge and, earlier, as a member of General MacArthur's staff in Tokyo.

A native of Fredonia, Kans., and a graduate of the University of Missouri, General Bell began his military career as a sergeant on the Mexican border with the late Gen. John J. Pershing. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in August, 1917.

He was promoted to the temporary rank of brigadier general during World War II and served as assistant commander of the 81st Infantry division. He also saw action with the Fourth Marine division at Aguar and Leyte, and participated in the liberation of the Philippine Islands.

General Bell will report to his new assignment Nov. 15.

Personnel to Wear Khaki Until Nov. 15

Fort Benning personnel will continue wearing the summer uniform until Nov. 15, barring unforeseen changes in the weather. It was announced this week by Infantry Center officials.

'Good Neighbor' Party

Infantry Center Officers Feted By City Merchants

The good neighbor policy between Columbus and Fort Benning was bettered last week at the annual Merchants association party held at the United Oil farm honoring top officers of the Infantry Center.

The party had a special purpose also to welcome the new officers who will lead the Fourth Infantry division, recently assigned to the post.

Brig. Gen. Harlan M. Hartness, commander of the Fourth division, thanked the organization and all other members of the party and declared that the Fourth were glad to be stationed at Benning.

He urged the more than 250 merchants and their guests present to "give these green soldiers coming here to join the Fourth all the help you can."

Relations Model

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, declared that the civilian-military relations here are a model throughout the Army.

"We appreciate the fine fellowship," he said, "and hope that the civilian-military relations here are a model throughout the Army."

Brig. Gen. Robert Hill, post surgeon and commanding general of the post hospital, said he wished to take the opportunity to thank the many people of Columbus who had offered their assistance with the wounded being sent to the Benning hospital. He said the good will of civilians here would mean a lot to the young men, many of whom had lost faith in life during the fighting.

Considered Homecoming

Big Gen. George Honnen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, said a meeting such as the one last week was a sort of homecoming to him. He told of having attended school at Benning in 1920 declaring that the post and city then were both small and needed each other.

Now, he said, both have grown and don't depend on each other so greatly.

Others who were introduced last night were Col. L. T. Jinks, post chaplain; Col. Claude Burbach, chief of staff of the Fourth division; Col. A. E. Schanze, commander of the Eighth Infantry; Col. R. H. Schulz, G-3 of the Fourth division; Col. John Van Houten, commander of the ranger training regiment; Maj. R. O. Johnson, commander of Lawson Air Force base; Col. G. H. Karlstad, chief of staff of the Infantry Center; Maj. W. H. Burr, Benning public information officer; Columbus Mayor Ralph Sayers; Phenix City Commissioner Roy Greene; and Muscogee County Commission Chairman T. G. Reeves.

Albert H. Wise, president of the Merchants association, served as master of ceremonies after he was presented by Hoke Wilkinson, Stet executive secretary and a past president of the organization.

Candidate Rejects Non-Commie Oath

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 1 — Stelson Kennedy, independent write-in candidate for the U. S. senate, said today he would not sign the non-Communist oath required of Florida candidates.

Kennedy said that although "he happens not to be" a member of the Communist party, he feels that such oaths "tend to delimit freedom of conscience and perpetuate a bipartisan elite in America."

The self-styled "color-blind" candidate took special exception to what he called Florida's "southern-style loyalty oath," which he said asks, "do you support the segregation laws of this state? If not, why not?"

EM May Enroll in higher Series Of Subcourses

New opportunities for enlisted men to study through Army extension courses were announced this week by the Infantry School's Extension Course department.

Until now enlisted personnel have been generally limited to enrollment and study of military subjects contained in the 10 series.

Under the new regulations, however, enlisted personnel of all components of the Army of the United States may also apply for enrollment in a special series of subcourses at any service school, and, on successful completion of a course, be authorized to continue to the next higher series.

Men may, in addition, apply for selected subcourses containing training pertinent to their duties or prospective duties.

Further information about the Gobbledygook Eliminated From Military Publications

"Gobbledygook" — the art of making military writing hard to understand—may be on its way out of the Army.

According to Maj. Leonard M. McNitt, chief of the Infantry School's Training Literature group, there is amazing interest throughout the service in making military writing easy to read and easy to understand.

He cites as proof of this statement the fact that over 700 individuals and units have recently requested copies of the Infantry School's Writing SOP.

This publication, the Bible of Infantry School writers, sets standards for all writing at the school. It is designed to show all writers, both experienced and inexperienced, how to put their thoughts into easy-to-understand, English and how to eliminate the complicated, technical jargon that so frequently exasperates and frustrates the ordinary reader.

Mentioned in an article entitled "Plain English," by Lt. Col. Harry W. Stephenson, in the July issue of the Infantry School Quarterly, the "Writing SOP" has been requested by units and individuals in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Selective Service headquarters and the Economic Control Administration.

Prepared by the Training Publications department of the Infantry School, the SOP was originally intended to encourage direct, simple writing in the preparation of company-level training literature. Now its influence is spreading service-wide, so that there is a prospect that future military writing can be understood equally well by private and general, by eighth grade and college graduate, by the line soldier and the professional military scholar.

THE SCIENCE OF NATURAL HISTORY BY MARSTEN BATES CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS, PUBLISHERS BY ROBERT L. GROOVER

Don't be frightened by the title, The Science of Natural History. Look at the way the author defines science: "Science emerges from the other progressive activities of man to the extent that new concepts arise from experiments and observations, and that the new concepts in turn lead to further experiments and observations."

The universality of the sexual process is closely related to inheritance, since the characteristics of any given organism are inherited as units. This in mind it is easy to understand why two varieties of plants that differ only in two or three characters are entirely independent. The evolution of plant life can, therefore, be said to be identical to that of the human, insofar as chemical development is concerned, according to Author Marsten Bates.

Differences in color, habits and customs of peoples in different parts of the world can be compared to the varied species of plant and animal life. The chemical element that causes human to migrate to a locality other than his place of birth is not, then, so very different from the chemical element that causes a wild bird to migrate from North to South or visa versa.

In his book, which is more than just an adventure in exploring new worlds, the author expresses the special attitude of science as revealed in natural history. Once this attitude is understood, the facts of natural history are seen in their proper dramatic light, not as simple wonders, interesting only in themselves, but in relation to the persistent efforts of the human mind to understand them.

The Science of Natural History is valuable as a text book, but it is also a readable account of the mysteries of life, mysteries we seldom understand and seldom take time to study. But by comparing and studying plant and animal life, we can readily understand the human's actions and their relation to other forms of life. Certain types of wild life mingle in their natural surroundings, yet fight continuously when confined. Certain types of animal life keep strictly to themselves when caged, yet are friendly when released. The actions are part of an orbit of natural history in which the human unconsciously takes his place. Can it be surmised, then, that humans are no different from plants, animals or insects? Yes, but only if we place the human in the lower bracket, barring, of course, the chemical substance commonly known as intelligence.

Glamor Closets For Teen-Agers

If neither coaxing nor threatening have succeeded in turning your daughter's disarrayed, catch-all closet into a neat, well-ordered storage space, try a trick that may turn the trick.

With a few yards of cotton fabric and a few hours at the sewing machine, you can make enough glamorous closet accessories to turn the most haphazard teen-ager into the most of tidiness. If this is your first home-decorating assignment, your local sewing center will give you sewing tips.

HOW TO KEEP HER TIDY.—This mother stitches up accessories for a glamor closet. Gay plaid pieces, trimmed with eyelet ruffle, include a hat box, shoe bag, shoulder covers and slipper pads.

There are two major reasons for unkept closets: lack of organization and lack of organization. If your daughter's present closet is drab and dark, it's no wonder she feels no compunction to keep it cluttered up.

Remedy this by painting the inside of the closet a cheerful color that will harmonize with the walls of the room and with the accessory fabric you have chosen. Install an electric light in the closet, too, to eliminate groping in the dark.

Then set about making closet accessories that will encourage your daughter to have a place for everything, and everything in its place.

For these accessories, which should include shoulder, garment bags, shoe bags and hat boxes, use a washable cotton fabric in gay print or plaid. A good idea to make certain the material is sanitized, to avoid the bugaboo of shrinkage.

Shoulder covers should be shaped to fit the clothes hangers. Length should be from 10 to 12 inches; width depends upon the bulk of the garment to be covered.

Garment bags for best dresses are handy and attractive storage compartments. They are made in the same way as shoulder covers, but are full length of dress and back pieces together, leaving one side open for easy access.

For those cherished gold or silver slippers, make individual shoe bags. But the fabric large enough to allow for a drawingstring. The bag can then hang from its strings on a clothes hook at the back of the closet. A silk tissue paper wrapped around the shoes before they are put in the bag will help protect them from insects.

To keep the closet floor uncluttered, make a shoe bag for the inside of the door. This should include a back section 16 inches wide, and enough fabric strips

Mrs. Klein, Captain Larcade Wed at Fort Benning Chapel

The Infantry Center chapel was the scene of the marriage of Mrs. Louis Marchant Klein, of Phenix City, daughter of Mrs. J. Marchant, and Capt. Harold William Larcade of Fort Benning and Rayne, La., which was solemnized Saturday at five o'clock in the afternoon, Chaplain D. P. Jenkins officiated.

Capt. Larcade is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Larcade of Rayne, La.

Mrs. Zella H. Osborne, organist, and Mrs. J. W. Ford, soloist, presented the nuptial selections. Mrs. Ford sang "At Dawn" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The altar of the chapel was beautifully arranged with white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Miriam Klein was the mother's maid of honor.

International Party Planned For Allied Students At TIS

An international party for officers of the Infantry Center will be held Armistice Day, Nov. 11, at the Officers' Mess, Lt. Col. Howard F. Haberman of the post entertainment committee has announced.

Officers, their wives and friends will wear folk dress and costumes of representatives of countries over the world. Allied officer-students, attending the Infantry School, will be present in their native dress.

The international theme will be carried out by flags of many Allied nations adorning the interior of the mess. Folk music and popular foreign songs will be provided by the club orchestra.

Also tentatively scheduled is the playing of souvenir recordings collected in foreign lands by former members of the U.S. Armies of Occupation.

FEC Group Is Planning International Art Exhibit

An international art exhibit, to be held at the Main Officers' Mess on Monday, Nov. 13, it has been announced by Mrs. Carl E. Frisby, chairman.

The exhibit is open to everyone. Those desiring to add to the exhibit should call any member of the committees not later than Nov. 5.

Members of the Exhibit committee are Mrs. M. H. Staffen, phone 2723; Mrs. William A. Duncan, phone 2587; Mrs. A. C. Newkirk, phone 3630, and Mrs. H. J. Whitthouse, phone Columbus 6707.

Members of the Hospitality committee are Mrs. J. S. Bradley, phone Columbus 3-4261; Mrs. David H. Finley, phone 3841; Mrs. R. J. Yetter, phone 2430; Miss Katinka Stallberg, phone 2707; Mrs. Joe W. Burnett, Columbus 2-8558, and Mrs. William Rhinehart.

The public is invited, and in addition invitations are being extended to all the different women's groups and garden clubs in Columbus and nearby towns.

There will be a small admission charge of 25 cents.

The exhibit, which will be for one day only, will be open from 2:30-7 p.m.

Shaws Entertain At Supper Party For Col. Rattan

Members of Senior Girl Scout troop No. 15 held their first meeting of the year on Sept. 30. The members of last year's troop, Barbara Daehler, Nancy Welsh and Evelyn Oltarzewski wish to welcome the new members, Claudia Jenkins, Carol Daehler, Tonai McPherson, Virginia Malankowski, Joan Freeman and Jill Mudgett. The troop also hopes that any other girls from 14-18 years of age will join.

We have planned many exciting and interesting activities for the troop. The out-door-of program has been decided upon and The Trail Blazers has been chosen for our first aid kit. We have made like kits, first aid kits, learned the rules of the open road, how to plan a hike, and what to wear on different kinds of hikes. In this connection, we have had a style show, with some of the girls creating quite a lot of fun by appearing in What Not to Wear on a Hike.

The senior girls also plan to work toward being Senior Scout Leaders this year and in that connection they will decorate the recreation room for the Red Cross, help at the P-TA Halloween party, and will also help Chaplain Jenks in his charitable endeavors by mending and labeling various articles of clothing to be distributed to the needy.

Newly elected officers, of the troop are as follows: Barbara Daehler, president; Tonai McPherson, secretary; Nancy Welsh, treasurer, and Evelyn Oltarzewski, publicity. These girls will serve for three months, thus giving each member a chance to learn the rules of the open road, how to plan a hike, and what to wear on different kinds of hikes. In this connection, we have had a style show, with some of the girls creating quite a lot of fun by appearing in What Not to Wear on a Hike.

Senior Scout Troop No. 15 is looking forward to a grand year in scouting. Teen-agers, won't you join us!

What The New Government Regulation On Auto Time Purchases Means To You:

- It saves you money! Your payments can be spread over a period of 15 months—rather than 21 months as formerly. This means less carrying charge—also less insurance.
- The required down payment of one third is unchanged.

Whether economic conditions make such a regulation necessary or not, it is always good business to pay as much down as you can conveniently do and to pay the balance in as short a time as possible.

Remember—prices, particularly on good late model cars, are down. Terms, even under the new regulation, are liberal and result in substantial savings to you. Today is the day to buy an automobile at a real bargain.

VISIT US! DEMONSTRATIONS AND APPRAISALS WITHOUT OBLIGATION. OVER 2100 OF YOUR NEIGHBORS HAVE ALREADY BOUGHT NEW OR USED CARS FROM US SINCE JAN. 1ST 1950. WE HAVE A BARGAIN FOR YOU TODAY.

Fond Memories Reporters Felt at Home At Noisy Tokyo Hostelry

TOKYO—Most newsmen who covered the Korean war gave their overseas address as No. 1 Shinjuku alley. This is the location of the Tokyo correspondents' club, where the scene of some get-togethers that Shinbun alley probably never will forget.

During the past four months the traffic that flowed in and out of the five-story building at times rivaled that of a stateside hotel caught in the crush of an American Legion convention.

It isn't a pretentious club and definitely was not intended to accommodate the nearly 300 correspondents who called it home while the fighting raged in Korea.

But in chat and club happy Tokyo where everybody has to have a chat to buy food and drink and belong to a club to place reporters really felt at home.

Rarely did newsmen have an opportunity to spend a couple of days at the club. They would fly in from Korea after two weeks or more at the front to take a quick breather and to write copy in a measure of comfort.

"Old Japan Hands" The correspondents slept dormitory style except for a dozen or so "old Japan hands" who were permanent club residents.

As Jimmy Cannon of the New York Post once put it during a trip "home" from the then-raging Taegu sector:

"This is the only chance a guy has to act as a civilized reporter should act."

The tiny bar operated virtually around the clock until a few correspondents came back from Korea for an honest to goodness rest and complained to the executive committee about the post-midnight noise.

A heavy-eyed investigating committee of three groped down the stairs to the bar and found 43 persons—all non-members of the club and all non-reporters.

The midnight bar curfew was imposed the next day. But correspondents who liked a late nightcap were unhappy especially at the military brass who had made all the noise.

Not the least of the reasons that newsmen were pleased with the correspondents' club was the Japanese staff. Chances are they didn't see each reporter more than two dozen times during the American's entire stay in Tokyo. But after once hearing the correspondent's name, the Japanese remembered them.

Sometimes the Japanese had trouble understanding American accents and there was a corresponding four-up now and then.

Major Browning will assume new duties at Boston, Mass., as instructor with the Massachusetts National Guard.

The major is a graduate of the 1950 advanced class of the Infantry School.

Other past assignments include: chief of port, frontier and travel security for 12th Army Group and Headquarters, USFET, commander of a C.I.C. detachment throughout the European campaigns; director of port security for the Iceland Base command, and assistant post intelligence officer at Fort Meade, Md.

NSLI Dividend Set for March VA Announces

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Service men and veterans of World War II, who are holders of National Service Life Insurance policies, may share in a second insurance dividend of about $1 billion.

The Veterans Administration has announced the tentative dividend and set March, 1951, as the target-date to begin payments.

Veterans Administrator Carl R. Gray Jr. will make the final decision on the payments when he returns from Europe about Nov. 20.

The VA still is sending checks for the first N.S.L.I. dividend, which totaled $800,000,000. Up to Aug. 31, 15,100,000 checks had been mailed, amounting for $2,650,000,000 of this amount.

The Administration says the second dividend will go to a maximum of about six million policy-holders. It will cover dividends earned for the three years 1948-51. Those whose policies lapsed before 1948 will be excluded.

AF Promotion Policy Relaxed

WASHINGTON (APPS)— Outstanding enlisted men of the Air Force may now be promoted under provisions of a new policy. The policy opens promotions to those airmen who heretofore have been barred from consideration due to time-in-grade requirements.

In order to permit the selection of the best qualified airmen and yet give due regard to seniority, commanders are authorized to establish primary and secondary zones of eligibility to each airman grade as follows:

- 1. The primary zone will include those airmen who are recommended and meet all requirements for promotion as established by current Air Force regulations. Time-in-grade credit for the purpose of fulfilling the requirement will be computed as follows:
 - a. Full credit will be given for all time served in an equal or higher grade on active duty with any of the armed forces.
 - b. Fifty per cent credit will be given for all time served, not on active duty, in an equal or higher enlisted grade in the Reserve forces (including National Guard).

Colonel in Korea Attributes Campaign Success to TIS

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch was written by Cpl. Pat Murphy, former Bayonet staffer who is now serving with the First Cavalry division in Korea.

BY PAT MURPHY WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION IN KOREA — (De-Infantry School's advanced officers' course asserts that fighting is "hardly understood" by the advanced thinking of Fort Benning's tactical wizards.

Col. Paul T. Clifford, commander of one of the fiercest fighting battalions in Korea, also declared that the infantry School's "product quality is in accordance with the highly stringent requirements of fighting in Korea."

The 38-year old Franklin N. H., native, who was wounded and evacuated to Japan on Aug. 2, and returned to his hard hat unit on Sept. 2, also said Infantry School training "is a must" for officers entering combat the first time.

"I can remember," Colonel Clifford said, "two young lieutenants who joined the unit early in our campaign. Neither had been through any of the Infantry School's officers' courses. Within a matter of days, both were killed."

"I cannot directly attribute their deaths to lack of training, but I do know that officers who seem to live longer and achieve better combat records," he said. "Although Colonel Clifford considers training at America's largest Army post as 'a sound thinking,' he said it is 'extremely difficult to apply certain theoretical tactics in many situations.'"

He illustrated this point by telling of a defensive battle in which he covered a 32,000-yard defensive front, whereas he should have been theoretically responsible for only a 3,000-yard front.

Colonel Clifford also emphasized the importance of stressing infantry artillery armor-ed air coordination in battle.

"But of course the Infantry School has been stressing that phase of tactical support for many years," he said.

Army Devising Aluminum Hat To Replace Old Steel 'Lid'

WASHINGTON—The Army is going to buy a new-style aluminum hat to replace the steel helmet that has been wearing around the world since 1942.

A new three-pound helmet assembly consisting of an aluminum shell and a shock-resistant plastic liner has been designed by the Army Quartermaster Corps. The Army is ready to go into limited production on it and after field tests it will replace the present steel helmet and tin, brittle plastic liner.

It's not the whims of military fashions but rather utility that dictates the tossing of the old helmet into the scrap pile. The Army says the new helmet is 15 per cent lighter and gives much better protection than the old headgear, both in area covered and in resistance to impact.

A new type of plastic liner is responsible for the greater "impact resistance" of the new helmet.

Better Than Steel According to the Army, the new-type liner is tougher and more resilient than the old and has bullet-resistance qualities equal to or better than the steel used in the present helmet. The aluminum shell is put on top not primarily for protection but to fulfill collateral military duties of the helmet in the field, such as its use as a cooking utensil or a shaving mug.

The Army also is changing the outward appearance of the helmet assembly. It will be higher in front to afford greater vision and low in the back to protect the back of the skull and neck. Extra clearance is included on the sides to accommodate telephone headsets such as used by pilots and tank crews.

Roster of Allied Students At TIS Covers 3 Pages

The roster of Allied students now attending the Infantry School covers three whole pages, single-spaced.

Representing 18 Allied countries, the guest students give Infantry School classes an international look.

Latest additions to the international representation are students from Greece, Saudi Arabia and Haiti who are now enrolled with the infantry officers advanced course No. 2.

Several of the officers have brought their families with them to sample life in the United States. Allied students whose wives are at Fort Benning are: Maj. Eric Goodell, Maj. Friede Gotthardsen, Maj. Vilho Sorjonen, Maj. Kaj Tretow-Loof and Capt. Gunnar Tindborg, all from Denmark.

Mr. Michael Blackman and Maj. Niail Lennan, Great Britain; Maj. Washington Merino, Chile; Capt. Robert Kalkin and Capt. Oswaldo Domingues, Brazil; Capt. Juan Relamoso, Uruguay; and Capt. Est. Alberto Leal, Venezuela.

Sergeant Swaps Stripes for Bars

One of the Infantry School's most battle-scarred soldiers exchanged a sergeant's stripes for captain's bars last week.

Anthony M. Matukonis, whose Purple Heart ribbon bears four oak leaf clusters, returned to extended active duty as an officer after 18 months' enlisted service with the Training Publications department.

Matukonis, with time out for frequent trips to the hospital, served throughout World War II with the First division. He landed in Africa as an enlisted man in November, 1942.

The experimental designs of the new assembly were completed in 1947 by the research and development branch of the Army Quartermaster Corps, with the assistance of Stephen Grancsay, curator of arms and armor at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. Several thousand of the new helmets will be produced later this year for actual field testing by troops prior to final evaluation and standardization.

49 NEW GENERALS NAMED WASHINGTON (APPS)—President Truman recently nominated 49 U. S. Army officers to be generals. A group of 10 brigadier generals was promoted to major general, and 39 colonels were advanced a grade.

West Intelligence Reports Discontent Behind 'Curtain'

BY KINGSBURY SMITH
PARIS, Oct. 21 — Russia and some of her satellite states are reported to be having renewed trouble with discontented elements of their subject-peoples.

Western diplomatic advisers and underground intelligence reports reaching Paris tell of rumored trouble in the Ukraine as well as in Czechoslovakia and Romania.

Nothing in the nature of mass uprisings has been reported, and the incidents appear to be on an isolated scale which would not seem to involve any serious threat to Soviet or satellite control of the areas concerned.

Nevertheless, the reports indicate, if true, an increasingly bold resistance to Communist domination behind the iron curtain.

According to one unconfirmed report received in Paris, the Communist government of Czechoslovakia has requested Russia to send a Soviet division from Hungary to Bratislava.

This reported decision to ask for Soviet help is said to have been taken as a result of the continuation of widespread riots and sabotage in Slovakia, where the Communists have experienced trouble ever since they seized control of Czechoslovakia in the spring of 1948.

It is assumed in diplomatic circles in Paris that if the Czech Communist leaders actually have asked for such help, they probably think the psychological effect of the mere presence of a Russian division in Bratislava would serve to quash the rebellious spirit of the people.

One of the reasons for the spirit of resistance in Slovakia is said to be the presence there of numerous anti-Soviet Ukrainians who fled from Russia and have formed outlaw bands.

Other reports reaching Paris state that renewed resistance in the Ukraine led recently to the arrest of about 2,000 persons in the Kiev area.

Most of these people are said to have been accused of sabotage in connection with agricultural and industrial production. Crop deliveries are reportedly below the quotas demanded by the government, while metallurgical products are said to have been found defective in many instances.

According to the reports reaching Paris, a special detachment of the MVD, Soviet secret police, under command of a Colonel Miterov, was sent to Kiev from Moscow to conduct an investigation.

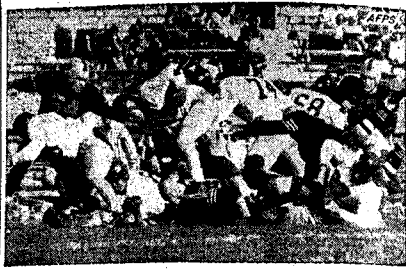

This colonel is said to have reported back to Moscow that the trouble was due chiefly to the secret arrival in the Ukraine this summer of Ukrainian nationalists who were released from war prisoner camps in Western Germany. The latter apparently were among those Ukrainians who fought with the German armies during the last war.

From underground sources in Romania have come reports that the Communist government has recently doubled militia forces in the rural areas of the country as a result of peasant resistance.

The situation in the mountain regions is said to have become serious for the Communist regime. Resistance bands are reported to have grown steadily in size, and to be supplied with food by the peasants who are bitterly opposed to collectivization and the crop quotas demanded by the government.

It is such reports as the aforementioned which tend to strengthen the conviction of Western diplomatic officials that Russia would be compelled to station strong occupation armies in nearly all the satellite countries if the Soviet union became involved in a major war with the West.

Persistent reports that the overwhelming majority of the people in the satellite states remain opposed, even though passively at present, to Soviet domination also contributes to the Western diplomatic belief that Russia will not risk war with the Western powers in the near future.

Col. Mead Gets One-Star Rank

Col. Armistead D. Mead, assistant commander of the Third Infantry division, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general.

General Mead, who was head of the Tactical department of the Infantry School before joining the Third division, left for the Far East Command last August. He came to Fort Benning from Washington, D. C., in 1949.

General Mead held the temporary rank of brigadier general during World War II when he served as G-3 of the Ninth Army in the European theater.

A native of Huntington, W. Va., General Mead graduated from West Point in 1924.

General Mead's wife and three daughters are now living in Columbus.

Reds See Spy Menace As U.S. Tourists Scurry Over Sweden

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 — A new Moscow propaganda charge that American tourists are swarming over Sweden to spy out military information apparently is based on a wartime conservation guide for U. S. soldiers.

A Stockholm dispatch to the Literary Gazette of Moscow broadcast to Russians this week said it is assumed in diplomatic circles in Paris that if the Czech Communist leaders actually have asked for such help, they probably think the psychological effect of the mere presence of a Russian division in Bratislava would serve to quash the rebellious spirit of the people.

One of the reasons for the spirit of resistance in Slovakia is said to be the presence there of numerous anti-Soviet Ukrainians who fled from Russia and have formed outlaw bands.

Other reports reaching Paris state that renewed resistance in the Ukraine led recently to the arrest of about 2,000 persons in the Kiev area.

Most of these people are said to have been accused of sabotage in connection with agricultural and industrial production. Crop deliveries are reportedly below the quotas demanded by the government, while metallurgical products are said to have by the Soviet official said the guide contains 800 "words of menace" in English and Swedish.

It cited as suspicious such phrases as "draw a map for me" and "I am an American. Show your documents!"

Puzzled officials here were inclined to dismiss the whole thing as sheer invention until the Defense Department today recalled a booklet prepared for American forces overseas in 1943. It was one of a score or more such booklets evolved to countries which American soldiers conceivably might visit.

The Swedish guide included descriptions of the country and its customs, along with the 800-odd conversational phrases in English and Swedish which Moscow termed menacing.

"Draw a Map"

The Literary Gazette's correspondent and the Moscow radio reported that the American tourist "invasion" is "accompanied by noise, shooting, and the sound of broken glass."

"Thousands of military persons, diplomats, congressmen, businessmen, scientists, sportsmen, and gentlemen with no definite profession but with definite tasks have flooded to Sweden with the conversation textbook in their pockets," the Russians were told.

It has been noted that American tourists, irrespective of their profession, often use the unequivocal sentence borrowed from the textbook: "Draw a map for me."

"Blackmail is the basis of the whole selection of words in the textbook."

One question still puzzled officials. It is how so many copies got into circulation of their really did. Actually the booklet was prepared for military personnel only and has long been out of circulation.

Airborne Department Gets New Demonstration Glider

Something new has been added to the airborne mock-up area—a sort of motorized glider.

The new arrival is a C-122, received recently from the Air Force. Used solely for demonstration purposes in air transportability classes, the 122 looks like a cross between a glider, a C-82 and a C-49. Actually, it is a combination of the better features of all three, officials said.

Originally designed as a glider, the 122 later acquired motors for utility's sake. Unlike gliders, however, the 122 lands and unloads from the tail of the ship, an area which is less susceptible to damage while landing.

The "tail door" is divided into two sections, the upper section recedes into the plane during loading operations and the lower section drops down to form a ramp, up which vehicles may be driven.

The new aircraft is also noted for its versatility. It is capable of carrying a cargo load of 8,000 pounds or 30 men. It may also be used to transport a 100 millimeter howitzer or a three-quarter-ton truck.

Striped and properly equipped, the ship becomes an evacuation aircraft and may carry as many as 24 litter patients.

The C-122 mock-up will be permanently located in the mock-up area where it will be added.

Cut Sought In Arms Fund

Virginia Senator Asks U.S. 'Apply Brakes' on Spending

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) called today for a $7 billion cutback in both military and civilian spending next year to avoid national bankruptcy.

In a speech prepared for delivery later today in Chicago, Byrd said the nation has "thrown the throttle wide open" on spending and has forgotten how "to apply the brakes."

Unless it slows down soon, he said, it will be unable to balance the budget "even if tax rates on personal and business income were increased by 100 per cent."

Byrd said in an interview before leaving for Chicago that the nation faces one of the most "threatening emergencies" of all time.

"The threat is dual," he said. "It is the threat of military aggression by powerful experiments of communism from without, and the threat of economic production since the end of 1946 has carried whisky stocks to a record high. At the beginning of September it was around 340,000,000 gallons (after evaporation and other losses)."

And stocks of neutral spirits are estimated to be equal to a year's supply at the current consumption rate.

"The industry is in much better shape than it was early in World War II, just before production near that much alcohol.

Byrd, chairman of the powerful senate-house expenditures committee, urged that Congress special planning the budgetary cutbacks as soon as it meets in its special session later this month.

The next federal budget, he said, probably would total between $60 billion and $65 billion. This is how he outlined the proposed savings of $7 billion in his Chicago address:

1. An expected $10 billion outlay for domestic-civilian programs could be curtailed "at least" 20 per cent, or $2 billion, without impairing requirements for such programs during the current emergency period.
2. The military budget, expected to total $30 billion, could be trimmed 10 per cent, or $3 billion. Byrd said this cut would not hurt military operations because the Defense Department is increasing its efficiency all the time.
3. Foreign economic aid, now running at about $4 billion annually, should be slashed in half. Byrd said, this figure should be cut "virtually to the point of extinction."

Industry Doubts Liquor Shortage

NEW YORK—The liquor industry will pour millions of gallons of alcohol into Uncle Sam's revolving synthetic rubber program in the month ahead.

That it will affect either the supply or the prices of popular liquor brands is highly unlikely unless, of course, a new war threatens.

Except for two brief distilling "holidays," full scale liquor production since the end of 1946 has carried whisky stocks to a record high. At the beginning of September it was around 340,000,000 gallons (after evaporation and other losses).

And stocks of neutral spirits are estimated to be equal to a year's supply at the current consumption rate.

"The industry is in much better shape than it was early in World War II, just before production and Reserve units and veterans organizations.

Marching in the parade, in addition to the Fort Benning units, will be representatives from the various local veterans organizations including the American Legion, two chapters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, one chapter of the Disabled American Veterans and one chapter of the Spanish-American Veterans and their auxiliaries.

Also marching will be the Columbus unit of the National Guard, Phenix City American Legion and its auxiliary.

Others participating in the Armistice Day observance are the D.A.R., the Colonial Dames, the Kings Daughters, the Navy Mothers Club, the Gold Star Mothers and the American Red Cross.

No special religious ceremonies are planned on the post for Armistice Day, according to Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren Jenks, Infantry Center chaplain.

Mrs. J. F. Blatt New Girl Scout Commissioner

Mrs. J. F. Blatt was elected Fort Benning Girl Scout commissioner by unanimous vote of the Fort Benning Girl Scout council last week.

She succeeds Mrs. Carl E. Frisby who submitted her resignation the middle of October. Plans for a council orientation course to be held at the Fort Benning Girl Scout cabin from 9-11 a.m. Nov. 1, 3, 8 and 10 have been announced by Mrs. Blatt.

Four adults and one senior scout from Fort Benning will attend the Regional Girl Scout conference in Miami, Fla., Nov. 13-15.

In honor of Girl Scout week, post Girl Scouts and Brownies gathered Sunday to attend their churches as groups. Approximately 25 girls attended the Roman Catholic mass and over 75 attended the vesper service at the infantry chapel Sunday afternoon. Later both groups met at Brat barracks, and refreshments were served.

The following members attended the Girl Scout council meeting Oct. 24: Mrs. P. L. Jenkins, Mrs. W. B. Moore, Mrs. C. S. Mudgett, Mrs. S. Miller, Mrs. D. A. McPherson, Mrs. E. Lee, Mrs. A. B. The Defense Department has set up a system to help the serviceman overseas or away from home to vote this election year.

But, as an Army spokesman pointed out this week, whether he ballots by mail is up to him. Marines and Air Force—use substantially the same method.

Form postal card applications for absentee ballots are issued at all installations ashore and ships at sea. Instead of merely making them available, as in previous years, voting officers are assigned to deliver the application cards personally.

When a ballot is filled out, it goes postage-free, including air mail if the envelope provided by the state indicates it contains

The September issue of the ORC Bulletin carries a comprehensive review of the complicated point system under which members of the Organized Reserve Corps are eligible for retirement and retirement pay. This review was prepared originally by Fourth Army headquarters but did not receive wide distribution until its appearance in the bi-monthly ORC Bulletin.

Heretofore, long and diligent study of many Army and special regulations has been required of any Reserve who wished to compute his credit points. The condensation of pertinent portions of these regulations, carried in the September Bulletin, permits computation of an individual's retirement status in a matter of minutes.

The Bulletin ordinarily has a circulation of 35,000. However, special requests for this issue have boosted circulation to many hundreds. Requests have been received not only from infantry and reserve units, but from Selective Service headquarters and the Adjutant General's section for the correction of military records.

Ten STR Officers Raised To Captain

Ten first lieutenants of the Staff Sergeant's Regiment have been promoted to captain, it was announced by regimental officials.

3 Ex-Benningites With 1st Cavalry Win Promotions

WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION IN KOREA—Three former Fort Benning officers, now in Korea, have received promotions while serving with the First Cavalry division.

Former members of the 30th Infantry regiment, Third Infantry division, Fort Benning, the officers are: Capt. John G. Gil, Jr., and H. E. Berendsen, who were promoted to their present rank from first lieutenant, and 1st Lt. Paul L. Greene, who was advanced from second lieutenant.

Captain Hill was promoted for his work as intelligence officer of the Seventh Cavalry regiment. During a recent 100-mile dash through enemy territory from Taegu to Osan, Korea, he led a bazooka team in battles against enemy tanks along the route and assisted in overcoming the threat to the success.

Adjutant of a battalion of the Seventh Cavalry, Captain Berendsen received his promotion for his action in the same operation, when he participated in a tank battle at Habung-Ni, resulting in the destruction of several enemy tanks. He served in the European theater during World War II.

Lieutenant Greene is liaison officer of the same regiment. He is a graduate of the North Georgia college at Dahlhoea.

Army Fires Back at Marines For Amphib Landings 'Crack'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Raymond J. Eledge of San Gabriel, Calif., as saying, "Nobody likes to get shot at going ashore, but this isn't the way the Marine Corps works. This is more like an Army job."

Just "for the record" the Army said tartly, its doughboys took part in 58 major amphibious assaults during World War II while the Marines engaged in 38 of these 61 landings. The Marine Corps participated in 14 of them.

"Also during World War II, the Army participated in 344 second amphibious operations of a shore-to-shore nature, involving short over-water movement. The Marine Corps participated in 20 such operations. Furthermore, there were no Marines in the greatest amphibious operation of all military history, namely, the invasion of the continent of Europe through Normandy in 1944.

The Army's defense of its record was put up in a letter from Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, chief of Army information, to the Washington Evening Star.

Parks' letter was prompted by an Associated Press story from Korea last week telling that the Marines were disgusted because they were not to participate in any forces made a landing at Wonsan. The story quoted Marine Lt. great."

Rescued From Bulletin Board Tar Heel Goes Hunting For Birds, Bags Commies

WITH U.S. FORCES IN KOREA—The man who missed the pheasant and bagged the Communist shall not be nameless. He is Edward Burke. Your reporter rescued him from a Bulletin board for correspondents in an Army public information office. He had hung there on the board for several days, admired by all but used by none. Burke's feat was neatly packaged in four sentences. They were written by some public information officer or enlisted man and sent to 8th Army public information headquarters. The notice hung on the bulletin board, and many correspondents read it and smiled over it.

One day I asked a correspondent if he had used it. "No," he said, "I figured press associations had sent it out so I would only be duplicating them if I used it."

Other correspondents said the same thing. The press associations hadn't used it either. Each figured the others had seen it first and already sent it.

Well, here it is. Memorandum for the press. Number Five. Maj. Edward Burke of Fayetteville, N. C., a member of the 52nd Field Artillery battalion, 24th Infantry division, took time off from his regular job of pheasant hunting. He flushed a pheasant and let fly with a shotgun. Results: 10 North Korean soldiers with hands in the air, who were escorted to a POW camp. Burke missed the pheasant.

The public information officer who sent this item in did not get his name to Lt. James R. Dulaney, fourth infantry division, such as this and weightier tactical information is only part of the duties of a P.I.O.

War correspondents don't want to be furnished with the news. They want to observe it themselves. But somebody had to speak for them and represent them eventually in contacts with the armed forces in the field.

This is the duty of the P.I.O. He becomes a sort of a glorified chaperone and nursemaid to a group of some of the most cantankerous individuals you can imagine.

A good P.I.O. must have incredible patience. His usefulness to newspaper men covering a war is in direct proportion to his ability to furnish communications and transportation. Reaction to his failure to produce these items is invariably bitter.

Lt. Col. Cecil H. Scott Jr., of Fort Worth, Tex., P.I.O. for the 5th Air Force—an easy going hombre with a dialect from deep in the heart of the nation's most modest state—has by some hook or crook managed to keep on good terms with the primadonnas of the press. He drops in today, sat down at a typewriter and banged out some observations on the P.I.O.

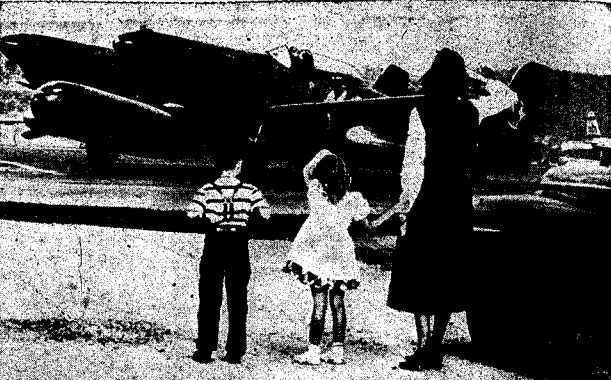

"Just why this group is known as public information officers is beyond comprehension," he wrote. "The good ones do furnish battle information. But mostly they are kept busy furnishing correspondents with beds, food, shoes, blankets, clothes and about anything else needed to exist in a war zone."

"This type of P.I.O. is most valuable. Simple little services such as food and a place to sleep are important things."

"Then, there is the 'low-level' P.I.O.—those down on the regimental combat team or fighter group level. One of the better ones was assigned to the 18th fighter group. He was helpful in digging out details needed by correspondents in building up a piece for you readers."

"He cannot be named here because he was shot down. He was a fighter pilot in addition to being a P.I.O. His buddies circled their planes over him most of the day but had to fly home at night, leaving him to try to make his way out through enemy lines. It takes all types of people to fight and write a war."

122nd Army Band Assigned to Post

The 122nd Army band, a National Guard unit called to active duty, has arrived at Fort Benning for assignment. Rated as one of the best National Guard bands in the United States, the 122nd, of Cleveland, Ohio, consists of 34 enlisted men and one warrant officer, many of whom are music conservatory graduates.

CWO William R. Trembath, leader, has 23 years service to his credit. During World War II, he served with the 145th Infantry of the 37th division in the South Pacific. He has also served as chief band leader at Camp Patrick Henry, Charleston, S. C., with the Army Field Service Band, where he had four Army bands under his direction.

Eleven of the bandsmen are veterans of World War II, having served in such duties as engineers, Navy bombardiers, Transportation Corps men and infantrymen. Only two of the men are recruits, the remainder having at least three years service to their credit.

Bomb Disposal Squad Men Earn Promotions

Three enlisted men of the Fifth Explosive Ordnance Bomb Disposal squad received promotions last week, it has been announced.

Promoted to sergeant first class was former Sgt. George J. Bailey, and advanced from corporal to sergeant were Philip E. Fortness and Gerald J. Starnour.

Episcopal confirmation classes will begin Monday night, Oct. 30, at 7 p.m. at the Station hospital chapel, and will be held each Monday night at the same time during November.

Confirmation will be Dec. 10 at the hospital chapel.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELIK
Bayonet Sports Editor

Old lady luck threw us a quick but effective smile this past weekend which resulted in our picking 19 winners out of a 24-game card. Although it wasn't exceptional, it was a boost to our season's percentage of .747. Our mean for the season thus far hovers around .769.

Already past the midway mark of the 1956 season, we've got a fairly good mental picture of this year's edition of the gridiron story—that is, barring unforeseen miracles. Outside of a few upsets, ties, etc., we should be able to predict fairly close the results of the remaining games on schedule.

So focusing our crystal ball on the schedule on the wall, here we go:

ARMY OVER PENN. - This will probably be the toughest customer on the Cadet's schedule this year, with the possible exception of Navy. And latest dope on that game is that the bookies are giving Navy and seven. Whatever the outcome, it will be close.

CORNELL OVER COLUMBIA. Big Red, after licking its wounds, should gain a little of its pride back as a result of this game.

YALE OVER DARTMOUTH. We'll play along with the dope sheet on this one and wager the Bulldogs will be leading by two touchdowns at the final whistle.

PRINCETON OVER COLGATE. Still in the Ivy League, we'd go along with the Tigers. After their showing against Cornell, why not?

MIAMI OVER GEORGETOWN. - The Hurricanes are Sugar Bowl - bound and will blow the Capital Hoyas over by three TDs.

SYRACUSE OVER LAFAYETTE. - By at least 13 points or more.

NAVY OVER NOTRE DAME. - Don't laugh. The Middies don't have it this year, but neither do the Irish. It could be decided by the flip of a coin.

FITTSBURGH OVER WEST VIRGINIA. - With one touchdown to spare.

MIDWEST

OKLAHOMA OVER COLORADO. - The Sooners, unbeaten and untested thus far this season, will have registered their sixth straight triumph come Saturday night.

OHIO STATE OVER NORTHWESTERN. - Ohio's Buckeyes have one of the best defensive lines in the country and a line that is hard to beat. But it won't be easy.

WISCONSIN OVER PURDUE. - The Boiler-makers are shaking lower and lower. The Badgers by at least 21 points.

INDIANA OVER MICHIGAN STATE. - Tie predicting isn't profitable, but this might be it and looks good on the record if correct.

NEBRASKA OVER MISSOURI. - With little to spare.

MICHIGAN OVER ILLINOIS. - We'd just as soon leave this one out. Anyone have any idea?

SOUTH

TENNESSEE OVER NORTH CAROLINA. - Easy meat for the Vols.

CLEMSON OVER DUQUESNE. - The Tigers looked good against Wake Forest last week, so we'll give 'em another nod.

MISSISSIPPI STATE EVER AUBURN. - Need we say more?

VANDERBILT OVER CHATTAHOOGA. - Vandy came out with a fairly easy schedule this season, and this game should result in another feather in their hat.

KENTUCKY OVER FLORIDA. - This will be the toughest game for the Wildcats thus far this season. Look for a close score.

VIRGINIA OVER CITADEL. - The Bulldogs can't be regarded as serious competition. The Cavaliers by 12 points.

MARQUETTE OVER SOUTH CAROLINA. - The Gamecocks might pull an upset so beware. Go easy on the odds.

WEST

CALIFORNIA OVER WASHINGTON. - If the Golden Bears pull through this one, they are as good as on their way to Pasadena.

SMU OVER TEXAS. - One of the outstanding games this year. Look for a no score tie.

STANFORD OVER USC. - But we'll take USC and 21.

WYOMING OVER IDAHO. - Gunning for their seventh straight. Easy.

RICE OVER TEXAS TECH. - Slightly manhandled last week by Texas, the Owls should fly high in the scoring department this week.

OREGON OVER WASHINGTON STATE. - Another easy one.

Automotive Keglers Lead Bowling Loop

Win Two Out of Three-Game Series; 2nd In Total Pinfall

As competition in the Infantry Center Officers Bowling League entered its fifth week, the Automotive department, last of the unbeaten, suffered its first defeat of the season last week, but still remained the top team in Section I standings.

No new records were set this week as league competition settled into routine form, and individual averages were leveled off or remained unchanged with a few exceptions.

Playing on Lawson field alleys, the Automotive department keggers won two out of a three-game series with the Station Hospital but lost its first game and total pinfall for the season. The Medics edged out the Motormen by a seven-pin margin to score 2-632.

However, the Automotive bowlers still retained their one point lead over the second place Weapons department for the fourth consecutive week of play.

In Section II competition, the loop pacing student officer's advanced class No. 1 Team registered a similar four-week record with a season's tally of 15 victories and one defeat.

The student officers managed to tighten their strong grip on the top rung by virtue of a grand slam victory over the Airborne department No. 2. Copping all three games, the officers scattered 2,832 pins, bettering the Airborne keggers total by 136 pins, and collecting all four points.

In the individual records department, previous loop records were held unchallenged. Lt. Charles C. Sparr's 237, set in the opening week is still tops in the single scoring, and Capt. Harry Zaritsky's 608 remains

Main Bowling Alleys Now Open Seven Days

The Main bowling alley is now open seven days a week, it was announced Monday.

Formerly open only six days a week, the alleys now have Sunday bowling from 2 until 10 p.m. Local bowlers who do not participate in league competitions may take advantage of the new schedule.

A TRIUMPHANT SMILE... Harry Zaritsky of the Infantry School detachment dries off his hands before he makes another attempt to break his own high individual game series mark of 608. Zaritsky, one of the top bowlers on local alleys, set the high mark three weeks ago which still remains unbeaten.

Two STR Teams Enter Net Tournery

Two top-flight badminton teams are representing Student Training Regiment interests in the 1956 Infantry Center badminton tournament being conducted at the Bryant Wells field house.

Both of the six-man squads, competing in both the singles and doubles matches, are expected to emerge as contenders for the title.

Members of team No. 1, which is composed of cadre of the Airborne Department, are Terry Scott, Herb Wyatt, Tom Gallagher, Joe Smith, Al Osteen Paul Boudin.

Team No. 2 from the Fifth Training company is as follows: W. L. Frankland, Tom Parandue, James Hobson, Homer Walker, George Williams and Milson Stone.

Both boxers are training for the Third Army and All-Army boxing tournaments scheduled for December. The 3440th team will represent the Infantry Center at both meets.

Officers' Softball Loop Suspended Until Spring

Play in the four-week-old Academic department Officers' Softball League will be suspended until next spring, Maj. Joseph Hennessee, loop secretary, announced this week.

Reason for the suspension, Hennessee said, was due to the early nightfall during the late fall and winter months, cutting short league games which must be played after duty hours.

He added that physical training classes for students of the Infantry School are being conducted on the softball diamonds until late afternoon, thus forcing league games to be played a later hour and running into darkness.

The league will start again sometime around March or April, Major Hennessee declared. Apparently the same teams will enter the spring competitions.

Participating in the league were teams representing the Tactical, Airborne, Weapons, Communications, Staff, Headquarters and Automotive departments.

The tactical department captain Marge Goss copped top honors in the points-for-par tournament last Friday, by winning the 18-hole event on the Country Club golf course.

The next tournament will be conducted tomorrow on the Country Club greens.

21 Bowling Teams Enter Post League

The 1950-51 bowling season officially opened here yesterday as 21-odd teams began vying for top honors in the Infantry Center Intramural Bowling League.

Six matches marked the initial day of the season which runs from Nov. 1 to Feb. 23. Competition in the league, which is divided into two sections of 10 and 11 teams each, will be on a round robin basis, with each team playing at least two matches against every other team. Squads will consist of from five to eight bowlers, with at least 50 per cent of the team members enlisted men.

Matches will be governed by American Bowling Congress regulations and will be conducted on the Main Post and Sand Hill bowling alleys beginning at 7 p. m. The handicap system will be used in scoring.

Following completion of the regular season, on Feb. 23, a championship series to determine the Infantry Center champion will be held. It will consist of a double minimum tournament between the top three teams in each section. The winning team will be declared league champion.

Each match will consist of three consecutive games and will count four points. One point will be given for each game won, and the team with the most points awarded for the highest total pinfall for the entire match. Total pinfall for each game and for the match will include handicaps.

4 Major Athletic Meets Scheduled

Schedules of the All-Army tournaments in four major sports were released this week by the Department of the Army.

This report came on the heels of an earlier announcement of the resumption of All-Army competitions which had been halted at the start of the Korean war. The Army boxing championships will be decided at Fort George G. Meade, Md., Dec. 28-30.

The basketball tournament is to be held in the Sixth Army area April 2-9, 1951, with regional teams competing for the title. No site has yet been chosen.

Softball teams will compete for the Army title in a tournament to be held Sept. 3-11, 1951. Competition in this event will be between company level teams which have won championships within their various commands. The winners of this meet has not been announced.

Bowling tournaments will be conducted in various Army commands from April 23 to May 7, 1951. Reports on winning teams will be tabulated and the winners announced. This event will be conducted concurrently with the major commands' bowling championship.

Plans call for selection of eight individuals from the All-Army boxing entries to represent the Army in the National Invitational Boxing tournament, which will determine the United States team for the 1951 Pan-American Games.

Entrants in the boxing and bowling championships will be selected on an individual basis from the teams within the major commands.

Regimental or comparable unit basketball teams, representing an organization or combination of organizations, not exceeding 3,000 men, that have won command championships, are eligible for the All-Army basketball finals.

Company or comparable unit softball teams, representing an organization or a combination of organizations, not exceeding 250 men, that have won command championships, are eligible in the All-Army softball event.

Promoters Eye 23 Teams For Possible Bowl Bids

BY STERLING SLAPPEY
ATLANTA, Nov. 1.—The football bowl season has begun and at least 23 teams are in the spotlight as potential New Year's Day entertainers.

Teams on one or more bowls of list of desirable eligibles include Kentucky, Southern Methodist, Texas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Fordham, Wyoming, Kansas, Pennsylvania, Wake Forest, Duke, Georgia Tech, Miami (Fla.), Vanderbilt, Texas A and M, Washington, and Lee, North Carolina, Maryland, Mississippi, Florida, Clemson, and South Carolina.

Some bowls, such as New Orleans, Big Sugar Bowl, haughtily refuse to accept teams from publicly speculating during November on payrolls now set for the season.

Other bowls, such as the Gator in Jacksonville, Fla., and the new President's Bowl of Washington, post notices on teams Jan. 1.

They are interested in the President's Bowl will be played in Maryland Dec. 9. A third and Lee, North Carolina, Maryland, Mississippi, Florida, Clemson, and South Carolina.

Example, gives you a hint or two but won't get down to cases and name leading contenders. Everything is according to protocol in Dallas in preparation for the Cotton Bowl. Southwest Conference rules say the league members must play in Dallas, but the Cotton Bowl is still in the race for the championship submit lists of teams they would be willing to play Jan. 1.

Although the Sugar Bowl won't talk for publication, discussions behind the scenes give strong hints which teams the new Orleans show prefers. Old Bowl hands know the Sugar likes a Southeastern Conference team with an unbeaten record, available. Kentucky and Georgia fit that unwritten need so far.

Georgia, however, has been beaten three times by an unbeaten SEC team is available the Sugar will take another Southeasterner with a good record. Ten have lost only one game each. Southwest Conference and Eastern colleges have outstanding records are well liked in New Orleans.

Frank Digby, general manager of the Sugar Bowl, brushes off inquiries by calmly stating his organization is interested in all teams.

In Miami pressure already is tremendous for the Orange Bowl to have the town United States of Miami Hurricanes, an unbeaten unit, out with a colorful coach in Jordan, public chairman, says however, the schedule committee will be made up of members of Miami's five remaining games.

The Iowa - Miami game Nov. 24 will be the last of the Orange Bowl committee officials and members came to Atlanta on a special train to watch the tucky Wildcats play Georgia Tech.

After the game Dr. A. F. Kasper, chairman of the scheduling committee, paid a "social call" on Bernie Lowmy, Kentucky athletic director.

The preferred list for Jacksonville is the President's Bowl lists practically matches that and adds several others.

Rickey and Del Webb of the New York Yankees, along with Chandler and minor league executive George M. Trautman, make up the committee listening to the constant flow of proposals by the Jersey City club.

The committee will recommend that the major and minor league clubs be invited to December meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla., where the entire bowl structure.

UCLA's Young Center Gets Lineman-of-the-Week Vote

BY TED MEIER
NEW YORK, Nov. 1 — Don Moomaw, 18-year-old sophomore center at UCLA, was selected today as this week's lineman of the week in the Associated Press poll.

The 6'4, 215-pound youth from Santa Ana, Calif., is the first sophomore to gain the award since Blaine Ewers, a Duke earned the nod last year.

Moomaw's work against Purdue brought him this week's award. Moomaw threw Purdue back for losses five times at critical spots, intercepted one pass, and although played his sixth consecutive outstanding game.

Runnerup in the balloting was Bob Gain, 230-pound Kentucky tackle, who versatile play against Georgia Tech. Among other feats, the lad from Weir-ness, Va., became the first player to block a Tuck punt in three years. Furman Bisher, of the Atlanta Constitution quoted Ray Graves, Tech line coach, as saying Gain "is positively the greatest tackle I've ever seen."

Bob Ward 181-pound Maryland guard played another whaling game of a game, this time against Duke, and once again came in for high praise. He stopped two Duke attacks inside the Maryland five-yard line and the last play of game rushed Duke's forward passer off balance. This led to an interception and a 46-yard touchdown in the Southwest for his fine play against Rice.

Linemen nominated this week also included Don Joyce, Tulane tackle, and Ted Daffer, Tennessee guard.

Prisoner Lied Tough Yanks Blast Way Out of Red Death Trap

WITH U. S. 24TH DIVISION AT SONCHON, KOREA—(Delayed)—A surrendered, lying Red Korean lieutenant almost sent the U. S. 21st infantry regiment into a death trap last night.

But the war-toughened 21st lasted through. It is part of the 24th division, first Americans to fight in Korea.

The regiment knocked out at least four enemy tanks and finally emerged on a plain just 30 miles from the Manchurian border.

(Halted temporarily, it was reported in later dispatches to have pushed within 19 miles of Manchuria.)

Col. Richard W. Stephens of Pierre, S. D., regimental commander, described the free-swinging night battle after a 24-hour 20-mile advance.

"It was blacker than the inside of a cloud," Stephens said. "We could hear the Reds' tanks, especially when they speeded up their engines, but we couldn't catch them because we were stopping every once in a while to check tank tracks leading off the main road."

"Finally we captured four of their tankers walking down the road right into us. They said they had been sent back to pick up a disabled tank. Then we got a tank lieutenant who said he was deserting. He said there were only two tanks ahead of us."

Stephens, a husky, hearty man who wears a North Korean flag for a scarf, "glowed" darkly. He found the tanks were lying, all of them. They were on a reconnaissance. They were just unlucky enough to run into us."

A little farther up the road Stephens' lead tank captured two more North Koreans. They reported there was a Red battalion with seven tanks ahead.

"Ceiling Falls In"

"It was all quiet and pleasant and we were just ready to get going again," Stephens continued, "then the whole ceiling fell in."

The Red battalion and tanks opened up with a heavy volume of tank and small arms fire. The latter, Stephens said, was "the most accurate I've seen since I've been in this war."

U. S. tanks replied immediately and nightshooting druggies erased the darkness with their fire. An artillery battery in Stephens' column wheeled off the road into position and was firing it, 25 minutes.

"That was real hip-shooting," Stephens said admiringly. "I'd plumb forgotten we had artillery with us until an artillery officer said he was ready to shoot. And those first rounds were right on."

Stephens, who directed the American counterfire, said his tanks were "whanging back and forth firing and soldiers fanning out all over the place. I kinda think those boys (Reds) were sorry they set up shop here."

The fight in the darkness lasted from 2 a. m. to 5 a. m. Then the doughboys clambered back aboard the tanks and started up the road again. They passed four Red tanks flaming in the dawn and a number of abandoned or knocked out enemy trucks, field pieces and small arms including unused anti-tank rifles.

The 21st captured a handful of prisoners, including nine who marched stiffly into the command post with hands high over their heads.

At dusk the 21st was still on the road, rolling North and West from Sonchon, which was taken practically without firing a shot.

Question: How does your training now compare with the training you received when you first entered the Army?

Sgt. John Deppisch, 354th Ordnance Ammunition company, reported there was a Red battalion with seven tanks ahead.

"Ceiling Falls In"

"It was all quiet and pleasant and we were just ready to get going again," Stephens continued, "then the whole ceiling fell in."

Sgt. Thurman A. Odis Jr., 354th Ordnance Ammunition company: When I first entered the Army, there was no equipment to train with. Fact is, we used sticks for guns, and trucks for tanks. Now there is plenty of equipment and the training program is well planned. In basic training, I think the present day soldier gets a far better break.

Sgt. James Plauger, 354th Ordnance Ammunition company: Well, for one thing, when I was in training before I was taking orders. This time I am giving them, so that makes it a little different. Training was much rougher in these days than it is now. There is more consideration given to the man as an individual now.

Sgt. John Beaudet, 354th Ordnance Ammunition company: I took infantry basic my first time in, and I thought it was a lot rougher than the training I'm getting now.

Pfc. Richard D. Baker, 354th Ordnance Ammunition company: Today's training is a lot easier on the man, but I believe the training we had the first time made us much better soldiers. It gave a man a better feeling and made him more capable of doing his job after he had completed his training.

Sgt. Walter C. McCord, 354th Ordnance Ammunition company: I more or less agree with the other sergeants. However, you can't compare ordnance training with infantry training. The training I am getting this time is a lot easier, but the old training gave a man more confidence in himself as an individual. The present day soldier certainly has more money and advantages though.

Family Portrait

Browns' Romance Began During High School Days

"School days, rule days" started the romance of John Y. Brown and Fern DeWall when they were students in high school in the little town of Beverly, Ky. but as they soon discovered, the course of true love never runs smooth.

Their high school romance blossomed, then suddenly things went wrong. John was engaged to another girl, and Fern didn't hear from him or about him until Christmas 1936 when she received a Christmas card. That traced the trick, and two years later, on Christmas Eve, they were married. John Brown says "that's when I gave up my bachelor's degree."

To-day M-Sgt. and Mrs. John Y. Brown and their son Michael and daughter Yvonne reside in a new home just off the Whitesville road in Columbus. The whole family is engrossed in the house since it was a lodge when they bought it, and they are gradually turning it into the kind of home they like. The children are just as much interested in working around the house as their parents.

In an ideal location the Brown family because they are all out-door enthusiasts. The head of the family loves to roam the woods and hunt, and Mrs. Brown spends a great deal of her time outside and is especially fond of fishing. The children would stay out-of-doors all the time if their parents would let them.

Yvonne is eight years old, with golden hair, blue eyes and a glad personality. She attends Glad Church's school and is an A-1 pupil in her class. Her grandmother has just sent a piano, and she is hard at work studying dancing notes. The girl has never had lessons, she has a definite talent for art, with an amazing flair for detail in anything she draws. Her one desire is to be a housekeeper.

Young Michael, "Mike" for short, is two years younger than Yvonne and is also a blonde. He is a pupil at Double Churches School, and the one thing he doesn't want to do when he grows up is to go to Fort Benning and work like Dad.

SINCE the Brown family moved to the country this summer, their house has been a popular gathering place for friends. Since the children would have no playmates out there, and Mrs. Brown make a special effort to have their little friends from town out to see the children over the week-end.

The elder Browns enjoy having their friends in to dinner, but since they have moved into the house they have had to forego their favorite "dinner" company or just the family is substituted for part of the education required.

Civil Service Asks For Bacteriologists

A civil service examination to qualify persons for probationary appointment to the position of bacteriologist was announced yesterday by the director of the Fifth U. S. Civil Service region, Atlanta.

Salary for the position is $3,100 a year.

The positions are located in Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia. The positions are located at Camp Detrick, Frederick, Md.

Applicants will be required to take a written test. Numerical ratings will be assigned on the basis of the written test score, provided certain educational requirements are met. Pertinent experience may be substituted for part of the education required.

Complete information may be had from William E. Reeves, Room 316, Columbus Post Office building.

Reservists Can Ask U. S. for Fare Cash

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—Army reservists who are caught short of money when they are ordered to report for duty can thank two Texas women for their problem is solved.

The Army notified Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) yesterday that reservists who are ordered to report for duty can thank two Texas women for their problem is solved.

The action was taken as a result of a letter Mrs. Bailey Beadnow, when they spent all their spare time working on the house, Fort Benning and Columbus. Mrs. Beadnow has been home to the Browns since they moved here in 1947 for their second tour of duty. The sergeant is assigned to the Air Force, Civilians Plan Regional Education Boost

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 1 (INS)—Air Force and civilian educators put their heads together in Montgomery today to see if they can't work out a deal to help the South's regional education program and advance Air Force research.

A committee of 12 leading educators from the South, East and Midwest will open a four-day parley with officers of the Air Force university at Maxwell field.

Air Force spokesmen said today the deal as proposed in preliminary studies in Atlanta would work for the good of both organizations.

Here's the way they put it: The air university would get the benefit of the results of research done at the Air Force university at Maxwell field.

The civilian students would get to use facilities and techniques not available to them at civilian schools.

No exchange of money is contemplated at this time.

At the meetings this week, the educators will tell the Air Force what air university facilities they could use. The Air Force will tell the civilians which of these facilities are available. Then both sides will think the matter over before reaching a final decision.

Have Facilities

The deal hinges on the fact that the Air Force has certain education facilities civilian schools don't have.

Specifically, these are the areas:

—desert-terrain information center, the human resources research institute, the documentary research group and also certain facilities at the school of aviation medicine. These units are scattered at different bases in the South.

The Air Force has expressed willingness to explore possible collaboration that would allow students to do graduate work and research in limited numbers. They emphasize the limited numbers, explaining that they naturally can't over-crowd their own facilities.

Air Force spokesmen said the results of the research would be compensation enough.

A similar arrangement was worked out with Tennessee Valley Authority officials last spring. Regional education officials said plans for making the TVA facilities available to southern schools on a systematized basis are now well advanced.

The meetings get under way tonight when Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding officer of the air university system, welcomes the committee.

John Ivey, director of the regional education program, will then outline the program.

Cpl. Earl W. Clements, formerly of Headquarters and Headquarters Truck battalion, has been transferred to the 148th Transportation Truck company.

West Europe Seen With 12 Pct. More Population in '52

WASHINGTON—The Marshall Plan is having trouble catching up with the stark. The Economic Cooperation Administration said today Europeans are busily turning out food, industrial goods—and more little Europeans. West Europeans will have 260,000,000 people, 12 per cent more than before the war, by the end of 1952, ECA estimated. The population already is up 10 per cent. Europe's farms are turning out more food than in 1938, but not 10 per cent more. The average European won't get back to his 1938 Europe-grown diet until 1952, when agricultural production should be 15 per cent of prewar, passing the 12 per cent population rise.

Housing is tougher. West Europeans were jammed into tight quarters before the war. More people make their homes, more homes, more hospitals and more schools. Most Marshall Plan countries have had their hands full just rebuilding war damage, and ECA believes their housing won't catch up with the population growth for many years. However, some countries such as France, Italy and the Netherlands have started low-cost housing programs with their share of $200,000,000 in counter funds—local currencies put up to match ECA allocations. ECA said population is growing because of a high postwar birth rate, a gradual decline in the death rate—people are living longer—and a flood of displaced persons and refugees from iron curtain countries.

But the population boom may be slowing down. The birth rate is still high, but the DP's are being settled. Western Germany's farm output is still a good short of 1938 levels, but it has gained 8,000,000 people. Its birth rate fell from 1945, but farm production is up to 16.6 last year, but millions of refugees poured in. The birth rate fell slightly in Italy, but the death rate also dropped from 14.1 in 1938 to 9.1 last summer. Farm production is equal to 1938. The French birth rate climbed from 14.6 in 1938 to 20.7 last year, but farm production is still 10 per cent short.

AF Investigating Tumpane Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The Air Force reacted today that it is investigating charges of inefficiency and other irregularities against Tumpane Co. The firm has had several contracts at the Marietta, Ga., Dobbins Air Base, and at Omaha, Neb., for loading and unloading machine tools and other Air Force equipment. The first contract, let Dec. 17, 1948, amounted to $21,315 for Omaha and $31,500 for Marietta. Both were cost-plus fixed-fee contracts. As were subsequent contracts made with the firm. On Sept. 21, 1949, the Air Force signed a contract with Tumpane running to Oct. 1, 1949, for $734,013 at Marietta with a fixed fee of $24,000, and for $258,140 at Omaha with a fixed fee of $10,000. The contract included protection and maintenance of equipment as well as loading and unloading. A third contract for the same services at both bases beginning June 23, 1950, and expiring Dec. 31, 1952, also was signed. These contracts provided for at least $3 million for each base. The Air Force indicated that its investigation may be concluded in about a week. The general accounting office is withholding any action pending the outcome of the inquiry.

She had resisted his affectionate advances all evening, but finally, as he was saying good-night, she gave in and favored him with a restrained kiss. "That's your reward for being a gentleman," she murmured. "For all my wasted labors," he growled, "that's no reward—just workman's compensation!" Judge: "Why did you steal that $50,000?" Accused: "I was hungry."

Navy To Call Up More Reservists

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(UP)—The Navy announced plans today to call up 31,000 enlisted reservists and an undisclosed number of reserve officers during the first of 1951. After that, it said, 5,000 enlisted reservists will be put on active duty each month. Of the 31,000 enlisted men to be mobilized from January through June, about half will be petty officers and half non-commissioned personnel in pay grade E-3 or in pay grades E-1 and E-2 who have had at least six months prior active duty. The service also plans to call few, if any, of the following categories: officers with special qualifications in law, public information, intelligence, communication security and hydrography; general line specialists such as athletic instructors, educators, postal officers and civil administrators; warrant officers except volunteers; civil engineer corps officers for construction battalions (Seabees); officers over age in grade.

Big Crowd Attends YMCA Dance Here

A Halloween masquerade ball at the Armed Services YMCA last night saw the largest turnout of servicemen since the end of World War II. Walter Lobb, publicity director of the YMCA, said. More than 400 soldiers and hostesses jammed the dance floor, while a gypsy fortune teller told fortunes at a booth just off the floor. Music was provided by a dance orchestra. The prize for the most comical costume went to Miss Wynette Skipper, who came to the dance dressed as a tramp. The prize for the most original costume went to Miss Lena Horne, who came attired as a flapper of the roaring 20's. Traditional Halloween decorations were put up by a committee headed by Miss Dorothy Buckles. Miss Bobbie Smith was in charge of publicity, and Miss Bernice Gild headed the refreshment committee.

Builder Claims 'Safest' Boat; Made of Plastic

COSTA MESA, Calif.—A 64-year old boat builder gleefully outdoomed as the horse and buggy lighter and infinitely stronger, declared the "safest, strongest and fastest small craft in history" has been developed. The boat was plastic, and the sledge-hammer blows failed to dent the surface. Curtis A. Herberts, maker of custom craft for movie stars and fishermen, said the almost lip-proof, leak-proof plastic craft will entirely replace wooden vessels. His company has produced 1,000 plastic boats so far this year and will convert to make 2,000 more next year, Herberts announced. The wooden boat is now as

Engineer Warns U.S. Communities Of A-Radiation

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1.—A Johns Hopkins University engineer today criticized the "Ostrich-like attitude" he said most state and local health departments were maintaining towards the atomic industry and its potential hazards. He suggested these specific measures: 1. Assignment of certain personnel to become expert in the field of atomic energy and its effects. 2. Gradual evolution of rules of action for the control of potential atomic hazards in time of peace or war. 3. Recognition that an accidental "catastrophe" could occur at an atomic energy plant just as well as in any other dangerous industry. 4. Strict regulation, where needed, of the use of radioactive substances in radiology equipment in medicine, industry and other fields lest workers or patients become overexposed. 5. Further studies of the possible genetic effects of radiation.

'Crusade' Drive Nets Over $500

Fort Benning's Crusade for Freedom ended officially last Friday with 5,018 signatures on Freedom Scrolls and some $518 in cash donations.

The Fort Benning Woman's club was local sponsor of the Crusade.

No goal was set, but public participation was sought in a two-fold crusade to: inspire every American with a sobering awareness of the extent of the communistic threat to individual liberty and national independence in the United States; and give moral support and financial backing to those resisting communism.

Objectives of the Crusade for Freedom are to be carried out through establishment of independent and privately-operated radio stations in Europe and Asia to broadcast truth and combat the "big lie" of communism.

Clashes of the crusade came on Oct. 24, United Nations Day, when bells throughout Columbus and Fort Benning rang at the same time a freedom Bell pealed in Berlin.

RETURNS TO DUTY... Pfc. Billie Calhoun, right, first Korean war casualty at the Station hospital to be restored to duty, is welcomed to Fort Benning by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander. Calhoun was released last week and assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters company, Student Training regiment.

Dutch Officer Benning Guest

Maj. Lodewijh Brouwer, chief of Army Field Forces of the Royal Netherlands Army, arrived at Fort Benning Saturday for a six-day tour of the infantry school.

Maj. Brouwer is visiting the United States for a month, and will go to various Army posts throughout the country. While at Fort Benning he is inspecting training methods and organization.

After leaving Benning he is scheduled to go to Fort Sill, Okla., Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Dix, N. J. Major Brouwer came to Fort Benning from U. S. Army Field Forces headquarters at Fort Monroe, Va.

Surgeon to Retire On November 30

Brig. Gen. Robert B. Hill, Station hospital commander, will retire the end of this month after more than 34 years of active service.

General Hill has been stationed at Fort Benning since May, 1946, and has served as Infantry Center surgeon, commanding officer of the hospital and commanding officer of the Provisional Medical group.

A native of Statesville, N. C., the general received his BS degree from Davidson college, N. C., in 1910 and his MA degree from the same institution in 1911.

Following his graduation from the School of Medicine at the University of Maryland in 1915, General Hill served a hospital internship in Baltimore and Washington, D. C.

He was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Medical Service Corps, in 1916, and was commissioned in the Medical Corps after graduating from Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., in 1917.

During his Army service, General Hill has had assignments in the United States, the Philippine Islands and Europe, including service with the surgical service at Walter Reed General hospital; as chief of surgical service at the Station hospital; Fort Riley, Kansas; Stenberg General hospital, Manila, Philippine Islands; Station hospital, United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.; and Fitzsimmons General hospital, Denver, Colo.

He also served as a surgeon in England, France and Belgium during World War II.

General Hill has received the following decorations and service medals: Legion of Merit, Bronze Star medal, Army Commendation Ribbon, American Defense medal, European African-Middle Eastern Campaign medal, American Campaign medal,

Besides the direct emergency aid benefits, Community Chest funds play a major part in supporting the many local recreational and health centers, as well as helping to supply operating funds for character building youth organizations.

Among these organizations are the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts for older children, and Cub Scouts and the Brownies for the younger. Each of these does its part in adding to the welfare of Fort Benning youngsters by offering them a chance to become active in local affairs, and teaching them how to become self-responsible and worthy citizens of the future.

THERE ARE NO SPECIFIC funds set aside from which these Scout organizations operate. The services they offer to children are free, yet like any other civic groups they have their operating expenses. If they are to continue their operations, and are to remain a social part of the lives of post children, they must be supported. These organizations are dependent on the Community Chest for the funds needed to continue serving the community.

First and most important function of these organizations is to build youth into helpful, useful citizens. Parents start the job at home, and Scouts and similar groups take up the task from there.

Social activities, being a large part of youth building, are carried out to the fullest extent. Gathering once a week, Scouts conduct their meetings in the same manner as any large business. Minutes of the meetings are kept, past and present problems are discussed, social activities are planned, each of the being of relative importance to the individual's character and social life.

Other types of activities consist of healthful body building types of recreation and overnight hikes, during which Scouts are taught the responsibility of caring for themselves. During these hikes Scouts are kept busy learning as much as possible about wild life and the importance of taking proper care of themselves.

2 Are Named To TIC Staff

Two new staff assignments were announced by Infantry Center headquarters officials this week when they can be of help during community events, such as parades, festivals and other civic activities. The task is performed by them on such details as these are many.

They operate first aid stands, act as minor policemen, collect paper for drives to raise funds for needy persons within the community.

In addition, they gather toys to be refinished for Christmas, deliver baskets of food and clothing to needy families, and construct and operate stands at social affairs for the purpose of assisting other charitable drives.

The funds that they receive from the Community Chest are used not for the personal benefit of any individual, but for the group expense, supplying the necessary money needed to keep them in existence. The Scouts, Cub Scouts and Brownies are non-profit organizations, established solely for the purpose of saving Contributions to the Fort Benning Community Chest fund drive have already passed the $10,000 mark, it was announced this week by Col. Charles E. Woodruff, chairman.

A total of $10,319.50 was collected by the end of the first week of the drive Tuesday, according to Colonel Woodruff. This amount is approximately 25 per cent of the goal of $41,600, the minimum amount needed for the operation of Community Chest agencies on the post during the coming year. The drive will close Dec. 2.

Although it is too early in the campaign to record the cumulative results on the large red, white and blue Community Chest signboards throughout the post, Colonel Woodruff announced that 11 organizations have already made their initial contributions to the drive.

The units that have turned in funds so far are: Headquarters of the Infantry Center, $432; Student Training regiment (including both cadre and student personnel) $2,149; Infantry School detachment, $1,756.50; Area Service unit, $2,308; Provisional Medical group, $1,250; Army Field Force base No. 3, $287; Lawson Air Force Base, $769.50; 30th Infantry regimental combat team (including the 201st Artillery battalion and the 78th Engineer Combat battalion) $630; Fourth Infantry division, $337; Ranger Training Center, $72; and Civilian Personnel division, $280.

Tickets for the grand prize, a new Oldsmobile convertible have been distributed to all units. Colonel Woodruff continued. These tickets are being given to military personnel and government workers at Fort Benning who subscribe amounting to each additional donation of $1, have been issued too, according to Colonel Woodruff.

Donations will be accepted until Dec. 2, and may be made through organizations to all rooms or Community Chest fund drive representatives. Tickets may be obtained only at these places.

The majority of the funds collected through the Community Chest drive are suggested to all organizations operating on the post. Agencies which benefit from contributions to the drive are Joint Army Emergency Relief, Army Relief Society, Air Force Aid Society, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Columbus Community Chest, Boy and Girls Scouts including Cub Scouts and Brownies, Fort Benning Children's school, salary for visiting welfare nurse, teen-age children's club, Children's Christmas party, Christmas baskets to needy families and such other worthy causes as may be selected by Fort Benning Community Fund council.

Interested in all phases of the local training program, including both off-duty and on-duty activities, General Hodge also visited the rifle score of Rct. Cloud Clear, Altoona, Pa., following firing practice on one of the post ranges. General Hodge also visited company areas and company messes and witnessed other activities of the recently organized Fourth division during his visit to Fort Benning last week.

Parade Planned To Laud 2 Units

Written commendations will be awarded to two units of the Seventh Ordnance Battalion at a parade this afternoon at 4 p.m. in the third quarter. The commendations from Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burgess, Infantry Center commander, will be given to the 378th Ordnance Maintenance company and the Fifth Explosive Ordnance Disposal squadron, which has been ordered to a new station. Music for the formation will be provided by the Provisional Group band, and units participating in the parade will include Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, the Sixth Ordnance Medium Maintenance company, and the 518th Ordnance Medium Automotive Maintenance company, as well as the units receiving awards. Troop commander for the parade will be Capt. W. C. Durham. His staff will consist of Capt. Richard J. McMillan, executive officer, Capt. A. C. Poole, maintenance officer, and Capt. James C. Billings, adjutant.

France Okays Army For West Germany

BONN, Germany, Nov. 8—participation in a European defense army. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that France will be given complete equality in the program for defense of Western Europe. Adenauer told the Bundestag (parliament) that "French High Commissioner Andre Francois Poncelet advised him that the original plan of Premier Rene Pleven has been revised. He quoted Pleven as saying: 'There will be no discrimination against Germany. She will be given complete equality.'"

Every available West German deputy converged on Bonn today for the crucial parliamentary debate on the vital issue of German remilitarization. "The issue is the most important so far to come before the 15-month-old Bundestag."

Why Not Enough Men to Draft?

At the outbreak of the Korean War, the Congress authorized an increase in Armed Forces strength to 3,000,000 men. But, today, almost five months later, Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey says that there just aren't enough men available to meet that quota. And that quota must be met, according to Defense Department officials, if we are to safeguard our national security. What, then, are we going to do about it?

A few years ago, General Hershey came down to Fort Benning to preside over a conference of draft officials from the Third Army area. There was some talk at that time of universal military training, and General Hershey wanted Selective Service machinery to be well oiled and smoothly functioning. One of the speakers at the conference was Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, an outspoken critic of those who maintain that there is no place in the Army for men with flat feet, mild ulcers and minor nervous conditions. His claim that those men found physically unfit for combat duty could be utilized in positions calling for a minimum of physical exertion is certainly worthy of attention. Men with flat feet, mild ulcers or minor nervous conditions would have to earn a living in civilian life anyway; so why not use them as clerks, typists, cooks or in other headquarters jobs and relieve healthier men for service as line troops?

We frankly can't find anything inhuman about this theory. It's unfortunate that some men have flat feet, that others have mild ulcers, and still others have minor nervous conditions. But the fact remains that these men, regardless of their physical infirmities, still owe their country something. Doubtless, most of them would gladly serve in the Armed Forces, if given an opportunity; indeed, many such men tried desperately to enlist during World War II, only to be rejected.

There are, of course, thousands of draft-age men who are hopelessly unfit, either physically or mentally, and certainly we don't advocate the drafting of such individuals. But we firmly believe that there are many thousands of young men being rejected today by draft boards, who could serve quite capably in some capacity in the Armed Forces.

Of course, proper utilization of these individuals is the responsibility of the Armed Forces. We do not urge that a man be arbitrarily declared unfit for military service if he is waste manpower. And we can't afford to waste manpower if it is as short as draft officials declare.

It's possible that we may some day have a Universal Military Training Act, or a Universal Training Service Act as the President chooses to call it, which would require all but the hopelessly unfit to serve one or two years in the Armed Forces. But until we do the Armed Forces must depend entirely upon Selective Service.

On the other hand, if the Selective Service Act cannot in its present form provide the Armed Forces with the men necessary to fulfill its mission, steps should be taken to revise it so that it can.

Point System to Determine Overseas Eligibility

THE ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE
The Army has devised a point system to determine which enlisted Reservists on active duty will be sent overseas, and the order of call to future active duty. Under the "service credit" system, one credit will be given an enlisted Reservist for each year of his age over 20; one for each year of Reserve service; two for each combat award received; four for each year of active Federal service; four for each year of overseas service and eight for each dependent. Those with the lowest point scores within desired MOS's will be chosen first for foreign duty.

Chaplain's Corner

God's Presence Keeps Us From Being Lonely

BY CHAPLAIN DENNIS F. MURPHY

"Do you know what it is to be lonely?" You can put that question to any man in the army, and the answer is sure to be a more or less emphatic yes. It may be a homesick yes, or a heart broken yes, or a despairing yes, or a defiant yes, but it will always be yes.

No matter what the pattern of human life may be, it always contains a certain loneliness. It spins from a vague and indefinite dissatisfaction and uneasiness to something that brings panic and despair, always painful, always feared, always avoided as much as can be. We know what loneliness is — we've had the experience all too often.

But what is it? Why it's — well, you know — take the poets. They write of loneliness: an old mother sitting alone at home now that her little ones have grown up and built homes of their own; a girl without an invitation to the big dance; a sweetheart thinking of a loved one far away; a little child lost in the woods as darkness is falling; a wounded and friendless soldier in a hospital ward; a genius with a dream no one understands; Joe Doakes, private first class, missing the folk back in Dubuque and wondering why someone doesn't write.

You know what loneliness is. The echoes that roll around in an empty house, a flapping shutter and the wail of a night wind, a bobbing raft on the vast Pacific, darkness, stillness, emptiness and hopeless loneliness. That's it. To be helpless and alone. What pain can equal that for us human beings made as we are to respond to the drive of action and the warmth of love? We never realized how much we depended on the family and on friends until death or misunderstanding or Army life gives us a taste of that aloneness which sometimes we all must experience. We don't, we can't seek loneliness for itself. And sometimes it does strange things to men. It can break their spirit, rob them of their smile and strength, send them seeking wildly for any escape from the pain of it. A man who is really alone, completely alone, is a man on the way to ruin of mind and soul and body.

Thank God we are never this alone. Though all should desert us in death or misunderstanding, though all the things we built our life on are now taken away from us, God never leaves us. Christ, our strength, is always with us. And yet there are some who turn from God and from His love. They run away from the sympathy of the heart of Christ, and build all their lives on the things of earth. And when those things fade away, they are alone. Every man has the cure for loneliness right in his grasp. All he has to do is reach out and take it — to grasp the hand that Christ always holds ready.

Loneliness is something we can't escape all together. No matter what we do, there will be times when we find ourselves alone and we will suffer in that aloneness. But no matter how many people leave us, God will never leave us. We have to turn from Him ourselves. He knew what it was to be alone and misunderstood. He even knew what it was to be betrayed. He knew a loneliness which we will never experience. That time He cried out to that cross: "My God, My God why hast Thou forsaken Me?" And then He died to conquer loneliness. He died that we might never again be without a friend, a divine friend whose love for us surpasses anything on earth.

EDGE OF DOOM with Farley Granger, Dana Andrews and Joan Evans. A bleak tragedy of a slum youth who becomes entangled in murder as he strives to fight against his dreary surroundings and provide a fine funeral for his mother. Adult.

MRS. O'MALLEY AND MR. MALONE with Marjorie Main, James Whitmore and Ann Dvorak. Plenty of laughs are on board the night train from Chicago when Mrs. O'Malley and Mr. Malone try to outwit the murderer who insists on leaving the bodies of his victims in Mrs. O'Malley's compartment. Family.

TWO FLAGS WEST with Cornel Wilde, Joseph Cotten and Linda Darnell. After a Union Army becomes depleted by heavy casualties, Confederate prisoners are enlisted in his frontier posts, where they continuously plot and hope for freedom, but stay at their posts for plenty of action against a savage attack of raiding Apache Indians. Family.

PYGMY ISLAND with Johnny Weissmuller and Ann Savage. Upon finding a dead pygmy carrying U. S. Army dog tags and a fibrous lasso which is fire resistant, Jungle Jim discovers that the owner of the dog tags mysteriously disappeared while searching for the source of the secret fiber that composed the lasso. Family.

WALK SOFTLY SWANGER with Joseph Cotten and Valli Joseph Cotten, a shady character gone straight, is destined to get the "works," according to the well-known underworld code, when a tense search closes in on him after he submits to just one more haul. Adult.

HOW TO WIN AN ARGUMENT WITH A COMMUNIST
By RAY W. SHERMAN
E. P. DUTTON AND COMPANY, PUBLISHER

By ROBERT L. GROOVER
Ask a Communist the following questions, and the intelligent American will readily understand why Communism is not a workable form of government:

1. Under Communism would the nation's chief executive be a dictator?
2. Under Communism, if the people became dissatisfied with the nation's chief executive, could a majority of them vote him out of office?
3. Under Communism, if I wished to quit my job here and get one in another city, could I do so without getting Government permission?
4. Under Communism, if I wanted a better television set or better automobile than my neighbor has, could I get it?
5. Under Communism, if I put forth great effort and became highly skilled, would I be paid more than the person not so skilled?
6. Under Communism could I select my own occupation?
7. Under Communism would radio, television, newspapers and magazines be censored by the Government?
8. Under Communism, if a member of my family were ill, could we send for any doctor we preferred?
9. Under Communism would there be churches, synagogues and other places where I could attend religious worship?
10. Under Communism would the government permit children to be taught that there is a God?

There are many other questions are answered by Ray W. Sherman in his essay, How to Win an Argument with a Communist. Communism is not a new idea. The plan is simple and has been tried many times in the past, but has resulted in failure each time. In a Communist form of Government, the State owns everything: property, life and soul. There is no private business, no collective bargaining, no private ideas. The results of the people's labors are divided equally among the people themselves. Hence, the people live, eat, and dress identically.

There is one big fault with this system; different people like different things to eat and wear, and like to lead the kind of life they want. Communism, as first devised by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels, is not the form of government in Russia today. The Russian form of government is based upon the Communist plan, but is more like a complete dictatorship, under the complete control of Stalin and the eleven members of the Politburo. There are approximately 3,000,000 members of the Communist Party in Russia; while there are more than 300,000,000 people in Russia altogether. The figures aren't accurate, but there has been no public accounting of Russia's population during the past few years. A comparison of the two figures will give the reader a clear idea, however, of the small number of people dominating a majority of non-Communists. That the Communists exploit the non-Communist for their own benefit goes without saying.

America had its first Communist colony in Plymouth, Mass., in 1620. Altogether, there have been nearly 200 Communist colonies in America. One Communist colony in Iowa lasted for about one hundred years. That the written form of Communism, the "Communist Manifesto", was not written until 1848 is of considerable importance, when viewed in connection with these American Communist colonies.

Disc Program Will Feature 3 Composers

The works of three popular composers will be featured on the Main library's weekly record program scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 8 p.m. Opening the concert will be Franck's Symphony in D Minor, with Mengelberg conducting the Amsterdam Concertgebouw orchestra, followed by Schumann's Concerto in A Minor with Artur Schnabel on the piano and William Steinberg conducting the RCA Victor Symphony orchestra. The program will close with Dvorak's Symphony No. 9 in G major with Bruno Walter conducting the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York.

Art Exhibition Here to Feature Unusual Pieces

Highlight of the International Art Exhibit scheduled for the Main Officers' Mess Nov. 13 will be a spinach jade scepter, according to Mrs. Carl E. Frisby, exhibition chairman. The showing, which will begin at 3:30 p. m., will also include Chinese vases, Kutani and Imari chow plates, linens and mahogany from Puerto Rico, a complete Mexican exhibit and a complete doll collection representing every country in the world. The exhibition will close at 7 p. m. A musical program will be presented during the afternoon by Mrs. Annie Louise Bournein, accompanied by Miss Katinka Stolberg. The exhibit is open to the public.

New Members Are Sought By Benning Woman's Club

The Fort Benning's Woman's club has extended an invitation to all wives of officers newly stationed here to join the organization. Membership is open to wives and dependents of all Army officers, either retired or on active duty, and to all female commissioned personnel stationed on the post. Membership entitles a person to attend any or all of the various group meetings. Among the functions within the club is the Bowling group, which meets every Monday night at the Post Recreation Center. H. Rabinowitz is chairman of this group. The Bridge group meets twice monthly at the Country Club. Meeting dates this month are Nov. 14 and 28 at 1:30 p.m. Table tennis meets at 6:30 p.m. The Literature and Art group will hold its initial meeting of the season Monday, Nov. 13, at 2:30 p.m. at the Country Club. Mrs. Richard Darnell, chairman, will speak on UNESCO. Mrs. Darnell served with that organization two years in Paris. A door prize will be given. This group is also planning art and dancing classes. Scheduled to meet on Nov. 27 at 2:30 p.m. at the Country Club is the Country Club Council Course. Mrs. J. F. Blatt, Fort Benning Girl Scout commissioner, is holding a council orientation course this week. Those attending the course are Mrs. C. S. Mudgett, Mrs. D. A. McPherson, Mrs. F. L. Jenkins, Mrs. E. H. Hillman, Mrs. V. H. Shaughnessy and Mrs. J. E. Adams, Jr.

Short Evening Dress In Style

Accompanying Jackets, Overskirts Permit Costume Switches

NEW YORK — The short evening dress, a favorite this season and for some seasons past, stays in fashion because it is so well-suited to American living. There are many evenings when the average woman does not want to "dress" in the sense of putting on a full-skirted evening gown and a formal wrap. The short evening dress is then, the perfect answer to the small evening and to some large evenings, too. The short evening gown, is, very often, a sheath with an accompanying jacket or overskirt which permits costume switches. In one such design, a strapless short evening dress becomes a dinner dress with the addition of a long-sleeved lace jacket. The dress, in carbon blue imported Chantilly lace over satin, has a slim-hipped skirt which flares away at the knee. In another instance, one of this season's short evening dresses has a separate lace jacket made of yards of imported lace. The dress itself is heavy cocoa-brown satin, a strapless slim sheath luffed with lace.

FASHION TREND . . . This short evening gown is a strapless satin sheath with a separate overskirt of lace. The sheath is cuffed in lace and the dress itself is in heavy cocoa-brown satin.

The Girl Scout Corner

Preparation for investiture of Brownie Troop No. 2 was begun Oct. 5. Preparation for the investiture included: Knowledge of the Brownie history, learning the Brownie Promise and the Brownie Smile Song. In addition to these exercises potential Brownies participated in a short hike, on which they had an opportunity for supervised study of nature, and collected pine cones for a future project. Other meetings were pleasantly spent making Halloween decorations and invitations. The invitations were sent to the mothers inviting them to the investiture. The following girls will attend the investiture: Vonnee Chamberlin, Barbara Anne Cook, Elizabeth Doherty, Jill Faulkner, Anne Elizabeth Fritter, Polly Ann Hempling, Helen Othil Hoye, Elizabeth Gay Kulp, Sheila MacDonough, Alice Malankowski, Mika Mansfield, Martha McVicker, Janetta Miller, Susan Adele Mitchell, Betty Raudstein, Sara Helen Steen, Barbara Jean Tiller, Patricia White. You will be hearing more from us in the near future. Troop No. 11 of the Girl Scouts enjoyed a wienner roast at the Girl Scout cabin on Friday afternoon, Oct. 27 from 3:35 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Scout leaders, Mrs. Wanda Williams and Mrs. Doris Williams, and 18 of the girls were present. After the wienner roast the girls enjoyed playing games outside the cabin and singing favorite old songs. Hostesses were Sandra Wimble, Betty Bain, Janet Fossum, Beverly Sizer, Margie Stackhouse, Louise Reeves and Patricia Murphy.

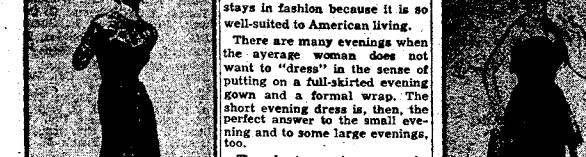

Verdi Steals Show At Opening Night at Met

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — The solid, soiled Metropolitan Opera house wears a new face of dignity today—after a sparkling opening night performance that featured more high-styled than hi-jinks. Under the glaring lights of TV cameras, the usual publicly-seeking first nighters did their spectacular stuff. But on the stage, an even more spectacular production of Verdi's almost-forgotten "Don Carlo" stole the show from the show-offs. The aforementioned diamonds—commonly the focus of attention on Met first nights—were prominent on prominent people. So were emeralds, crystals, camera-ready smiles and razzle-dazzle wild and silver-bell minks. Rudolf Bing, the slender shy-faced new general manager who revised and revived an old opera for its first performance in 27 years, became the man of the hour. He was even bigger than diamonds. The aforementioned diamonds—commonly the focus of attention on Met first nights—were prominent on prominent people. So were emeralds, crystals, camera-ready smiles and razzle-dazzle wild and silver-bell minks.

Benning P-TA Holds Annual Halloween Party at Gym

Ghosts, witches and goblins look over last week of the P-TA sponsored Halloween carnival in the old Post gymnasium.

Following the costume judging in their classrooms at the Children's school, the youngsters formed outside for the parade. During the march to the gymnasium music was provided by the 72nd Army band. And military policemen served as escorts. The gym was transformed into a gala carnival site with a profusion of Halloween decorations. Adding color to the scene were refreshment booths lining the walls on both sides of the building as well as the grounds outside. In charge of the carnival was Mrs. M. C. Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Robert M. Booth who was responsible for publicity. Arrangements for the parade were made by Mrs. Hamilton Peyton, who also assisted Mrs. Donald McPherson in judging the costumes. Decorations were under the supervision of Mrs. Charles L. Jackson, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. Leonard Shaw. All purchases during the carnival were made with scrip, bought from the "Bank of Halloween" under the direction of Mrs. Edward J. Morrissey. Refreshment booths were constructed under the supervision of Lt. Col. M. C. Taylor. Chairmen of the committees operating the booths were Mrs. Warren F. Davis, toss game; Mrs. George F. Shohouse, bean jar; Mrs. L. A. Brown, bottle game; Mrs. P. L. Jenkins, fish game, sponsored by the Girl Scouts and their mothers; Col. Robert G. Turner, house of horror, sponsored by the Boy Scouts and their fathers; Lt. Col. Raymond Duggan, house of mystery and basketball throw, sponsored by the Cub Scout pack and their fathers.

Group Holds Square Dance At Polo Club

Officers and ladies of the Infantry School's Training and Publications department gathered for an evening of old-fashioned square dancing at the Polo Hunt club last Saturday night. Preceding the dance a buffet supper was served before a roaring fire. A rustic touch was added by the use of checkered table cloths and candles on the tables. Pop Austin of the Columbus recreation department did the calling. Officers and guests who attended were Lt. Col. and Mrs. A. E. McCormick, Mrs. C. J. Dietel, Lt. Col. George Juskanian and Miss Betty King, Maj. and Mrs. P. L. DalForte, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Arthur P. Murphy, Maj. and Mrs. Leonard M. McNutt, Lt. Herbert L. Kirk, Maj. and Mrs. Shiller P. Informal Dance At Country Club

The Allied Liaison section entertained officers representing 18 foreign countries Tuesday night at an informal dance at the Country Club. Music was furnished by Ben Cortese and his Army Blue band. Chairman in charge of the arrangements was Maj. Stephen Meade.

Spinet Model HAMMOND ORGAN
World's lowest-priced 2-manual-and-pedal organ
Any family that loves fine music can afford the Spinet Model Hammond Organ. Lowest-priced of all 2-manual-and-pedal organs, it embodies most of the vast tonal resources of the larger organs. Completely self-contained; tone equipment is within the console. There is no installing expense with the Spinet Model, and you need never spend a single cent for tuning. Cost of operation is negligible. Yet the Spinet Model brings you all the glorious rich organ music you have always wanted to hear—and to play. Since it occupies no more space than a spinet piano, it will easily find a place in your home. Visit our showrooms soon to see, hear, and play the Spinet Model. Spend time alone at the console if you wish. There is no obligation. $1285 F.O.B. Chicago

BRIG. J. SLADEN BRADLEY TALKS TO SOLDIER IN KOREA

He Knew What to Do

Ex-Post General Twice Saved The Day in Korea

Like the "man who wrote the book", Brig. Gen. J. Sladen Bradley, former assistant commander of the Infantry School, now assistant commander of the Second Infantry division, seems to know what to do and when to do it.

Twice in one month the general is credited with "saving the day" as well as vital areas in the UN defense perimeter in Korea. Already well publicized is General Bradley's feat in defending the Polang air-strip early in August. Not so well known is the job the fighting general and his men did outbluffing the main Communist drive on Pusan, Aug. 31, when the UN beachhead was fighting against overwhelming odds.

Impossible Defense At this time the division had 40 miles of the Nakdong river front to defend, a job that seemed next to impossible. On what General Bradley calls "Clobber Night" the Red forces threw three full divisions, part of a fourth division and a mechanized brigade at the UN line in an effort to capture Yong-san and Milyang and, eventually, Taegu, cutting the UN supply lines. The Communists concentrated their major blow on the Yong-san road — guarded by a battle-weary U. S. regiment. By dawn the Red horde had overrun the regiment.

The day was dreary and overcast, eliminating air support, and defenses along the road were disorganized. Everybody Fought Taking stock of the situation, General Bradley went into action. Pressing all available men into service, he ordered the engineers into position just east of the Yong-san, placed the division band and finance clerks behind them to guard the main supply route, and started fighting back. On the night of Sept. 1 the Reds attacked Yong-san and U.S. engineers drove them back. The next day the men of the chopped-up regiments began coming back. The general greeted the group personally and screened the men, sending the best back into the line if they were in condition to fight.

On Sept. 3, Marines joined the group on the line, jumped off in counterattack, and the day was saved for the UN forces. The Communists didn't get Yong-san and their attack along other sections of the Southern front was doomed.

NEW YORK —(APFS)—When the mess sergeant at Fort Jay, N. Y., announces Hungarian Goulash on his menu—he's not fooling. A course of instruction designed to enhance Army rations has been started here with Ben Kluger, former Army mess officer and chef of note, in charge. Classroom for the unusual school is Mr. Kluger's "Hungarian restaurant" in New York City, where instruction in the preparation of soups, salads and gravies from famous recipes will be revealed to Army personnel assigned to the course.

Marion S. Coffee New Club Director A soft Southern accent is the trademark of Miss Marion S. Coffee, new director of Service Club No. 2 in the Sand Hill Area.

Strictly from Dixie, Miss Coffee is a native of Jacksonville, Ala., and graduated from Jacksonville State college here with a B. S. degree in education. Miss Coffee comes to Fort Benning from Fort McPherson, Ga., where she worked as assistant club director for the post service clubs. Her previous experience includes a one and a half-year tour as assistant club director on Okinawa and club work at Fort McClellan, Ala.

PFANNENSTIELS TAKE OVER HAYS, Kas. —(APFS)— Maybe you never heard of anyone named "Pfannenstiel" or even "Leiker," but in Hays these two family names outnumber the Smiths and Jones. The new Hays telephone book lists 41 Leikers and 38 Pfannenstiels. There are nine Smiths; three Joneses.

ALLIED STUDENT OFFICER INSPECTS AND APPROVES FORT BENNING CUB SCOUTS Maj. Randolph Ascenzi Of Italy Rates Den No. 1 While Guest At Cub Meeting

9 Allied Students Inspect Cub Scouts

Uniforms from nine different countries were represented at the monthly meeting of the Fort Benning Cub Scouts Friday night at the Children's school.

Guests of honor at the gathering were nine Allied students representing nine different countries, each wearing the uniform of the army of his homeland.

The visitors inspected the Cub Scouts and witnessed a court of awards. After the business meeting, Cub Scouts presented a skit about the American Indian, and refreshments were served.

Allied students who attended the meeting and the countries they represented were: Maj. Erling Rasmussen, Norway; Capt. Carel Van den Boomgaard, Netherlands; Lt. Col. Demetri Constantopoulos, Greece; Capt. Georges Frances, France; Maj. Niels Lonnau, Great Britain; Lt. Rashid Darakhshpanay, Iran; Maj. Randolph Ascenzi, Italy; and 1st Lt. Ricardo Flores, Mexico.

Awards went to dens No. 1 and 6 for the best exhibits on the American Indian and to dens No. 9, 10 and 4 for inspection. Streamers for den guidons were presented to dens No. 2, 8 and 10 for 100 per cent parent representation.

Individual awards were as follows: Bobcat pins to Ronald L. Chamberlin, Tommy Hayes, Nangne Jensen, Harry House, Glenn Daly, James S. Ashbacher, John Shaughnessy, Fred Wadell, Franklin Browning, Robert Pell, James Jones, Richard Weatherill, Curtiss Whall, James Colley, Robert Strossburg, Brian McConnell, Dean Testa, Henry Roberts, Tommy Wiley and Aaron O. Trimble, Jr.

Gold arrows for the Bear badge: Peter Shaughnessy and Roger Durran. Silver arrows for the Bear badge: Dale MacPherson and Allan Hallden. Cub Scouts completing one year of service are George Douglas, Robert McCormick, Alan Leonard, Jimmie Reynolds, Allen Cupello, Dale McPherson and Toby Gray.

Writer Twits 'Aging' Male

By Armed Forces Press Service A syndicated woman columnist, in a recent word to her female readers offered the following tips on how to tell when a husband is getting old:

"He suddenly starts picking out the brightest neckties he can find—or switches to bow ties. —He starts getting his hair clipped closer, especially over the temples. —He complains about how little the bright young men coming into his business know and how much they think they know. —He complains that the cleaners he shrunk last year's suit when he discovers it doesn't hang as comfortably loose as it did last year. —He keeps talking about having to take more exercise but doesn't do any. —He moves the line marked middle-age up 10 years. —These are only a few of the ideas on the subject—but 'nuff said.

Indonesia Becomes 60th Member Nation Of UN

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

On Sept. 28, the Republic of Indonesia became the 60th member-nation of the United Nations. Lying off the southwestern fringes of Asia, the new republic is perhaps one of the most widespread nations in the world. It is comprised of the islands of Java, Borneo, Sumatra, Celebes and thousands of other tiny islands north of Australia and south of the Philippines.

After many years of colonial status under the Dutch, and known to the world as the Netherlands Indies, Indonesia attained the sovereign status of a republic through mediatory efforts of the United Nations in what is known as the Hague Round Table conference.

Indonesia is extremely wealthy in rubber, petroleum, tin, bauxite and other minerals. Her resources can be developed further by a plan to transmute her people to the islands of Sumatra and Borneo. As it stands now, two-thirds of Indonesia's population of 75 million live on the island of Java.

The country's constitution guarantees full rights of the individual. The five basic principles of her constitution are: (1) belief in the Divine Omnipotence; (2) nationalism; (3) humanity; (4) democracy and (5) social justice. To further stabilize her position in the society of nations, Indonesia has developed her 730,000-square miles to increase exports. At present, the export rate of rubber is up 25 per cent over the Marine Corps.

PRE-WAR LEVELS: tin has jumped 50 per cent. Still, a major problem in the new nation is raising the standard of living for the working man. The present standard is still 10-15 per cent below pre-war levels.

In an effort to aid the new country, the United States has extended ECA aid and the Export-Import Bank of America has granted a $100 million credit.

German Surrender Note to Princeton

PRINCETON, N. J. (APFS)—The original teletype message announcing the German surrender in World War II has been presented to Princeton University for preservation in the new Firestone library.

The message, sent by the Army Signal Corps center in Paris, was given to Princeton by State Supreme Court Commissioner Charles H. Roemer, of Falston, whose brother, Leonard C. Roemer, transmitted it while serving as a Signal Corps sergeant.

HUP, TWO, THREE!

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (APFS)—A two-week course of instruction for enlisted drill instructors has been inaugurated at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here. The first class of 59 students ranged in grade from private first class to staff sergeant, and came from billets all over the Marine Corps.

Thirty-two new members were added to Fort Benning Brownie troops No. 1 and 2 at special ceremonies held last Thursday afternoon on the front lawn of the Girl Scout Little house, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Dobrosky, leader of troop No. 1. Following the ceremony refreshments were served. New members who received their badges from troop No. 1 were Jane Abiger, Carol Ayres, Sandra Dugan, Patricia Kokols, Blanche Malaskowski, Margaret McGraw, Phillis Moore, Lydia Fittman, Caroline Kepiollis, Nancy Isner, Karen Hockley, Sarah Shaughnessy, Caroline Stevens, Jane Tillson, Sandra Tomlin, and Joanne White.

Johnson Boys Back in Again

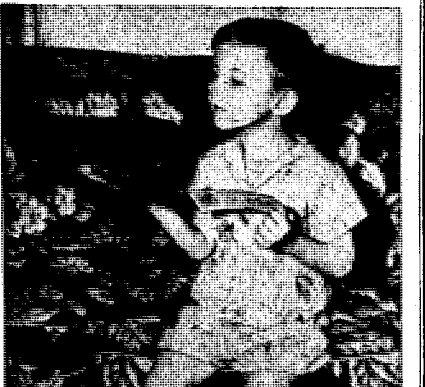

HARRISON, Ark. — The Johnson twins are back in the Army. M-Sgt. Roy Johnson and his brother M-Sgt. Troy Johnson, have answered calls to active duty. The twins saw action together during World War II, went up the ranks together and were discharged together, both with the rank of master sergeant. They had four years and nine months of service, having seen action in Africa, Italy, France, Germany and Austria. They are not together this time, though. Roy reported to Camp Hood, Tex., his twin reported at Camp Ord, Calif., and was transferred to Fort Bliss, Tex.

Civilian Component Vacancies Exist

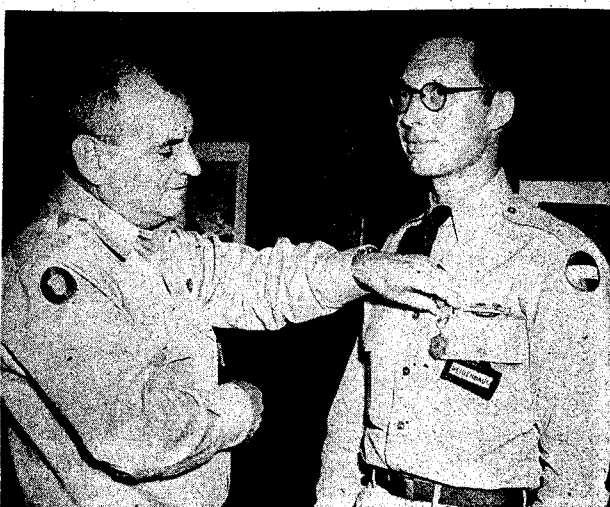

Announcement was made this week of a large number of vacancies in MOS's for enlisted personnel in civilian component units, including the ROTC, ORC and National Guard. Vacancies also exist for salesmen in recruiting units in each military district of the Third Army area. Enlisted men who possess the necessary qualifications for this type of duty may submit applications for these duty assignments.

Benningite Is Enrolled In Ft. Jackson Course

CAREFUL IN THE DRAFT — William D. Maloney, Jr., 35, of Green Island, N. Y., inspects his father's old Army garrison file for size after receiving notice of his draft classification from the local draft board. Bill okayed the parents' offer of a pre-induction party but he was leery about reporting for active duty until the embarrassed draft board got around to admitting its mistake.

RECEIVES COMMENDATION — Col. Sevier R. Tupper, left, commanding officer of the Student Training Regiment, pins the Army Commendation ribbon with pendant on Capt. Charles H. Reidenbaugh for "meritorious service as a member of the American Mission for Aid to Turkey from October, 1947 to July, 1950." While serving as instructor and chief of the weapons sub-section of the Turkish Infantry School, he "set an outstanding example and contributed materially to the success of the mission." The commendation read. He is presently attending the officers associate advanced class No. 1 at the Infantry School.

Education Program Is Tops in EUCOM

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The European Army Command led all overseas commands in participation in voluntary educational programs during the second quarter of this year. The Army Troop Information and Education division recently announced. Statistics for the quarter showed EUCOM had carried the lead for the fifth consecutive quarter. The figures showed that 51.7 per cent of the EUCOM troops participated in educational activities.

(Left to Right) Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress and M-Sgt. Lester Lawrence

Raised to Top Grade; Gets Stripes From Gen. Burress

Sfc. Lester Lawrence, recently promoted to the permanent grade of master sergeant, last week was personally presented new chevrons by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center. Making the unique presentation in his office at the Infantry School, General Burress commended Sergeant Lawrence for his efficiency and outstanding service at the Country Club golf course during the past 21 years. Sergeant Lawrence was instrumental in the construction of the present day golf course, which was completed in 1933. Work on the course was originally begun in 1928, under the direction of Col. H. A. Weiss, post golf director at that time.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

With only three more weeks left in the 1950 gridiron season, there has already been some speculating as to which teams will be competing in the various bowl classics throughout the nation come New Year's day.

Although there have been no definite selections, several elevens have been mentioned as possibilities and are as good as in. However, for obvious reasons it appears that the bowl committees have chosen to wait, considering the inconsistent results of the season thus far.

California, one of eight major teams with perfect slates, is a strong contender for the Tournament of Roses fray in Pasadena, while Kentucky and Miami are rumored to be possibilities for the Sugar bowl and Orange bowl classics, and Washington and Lee has been rumored for the Gator Bowl.

Southern Methodist was considered a good bet for the Cotton bowl, however, SMU's unexpected loss to Texas last week has somewhat changed the picture.

And Wyoming and Oklahoma, both in the ranks of the underdogs, also stand good chances in the bowl choosings.

But whatever their selections are, the bowl committees are keeping mum. And from what we have seen this past season in the upset department we'll go along with this decision. And now to check this week's offerings:

★ ★ ★ THE EAST ★ ★ ★

ARMY OVER NEW MEXICO — A breather for the Cadets. The Lobos will be lucky if they even reach pay dirt. The CLEMSON OVER BOSTON COLLEGE — Rated No. 13 in the nation, the rebel Tigers will override the Bostonian Eagles by two TDs.

FERRIS OVER HARVARD — In the first Big Three game, the Tigers have this one in the bag.

PENN OVER BROWN — In an easy romp. The Quakers by two touchdowns.

MARYLAND OVER NORTH CAROLINA — The unpredictable Terps in a close one.

FORDHAM OVER GEORGETOWN — The Rams by 13 points.

TULANE OVER NAVY — The Middies might pull a fast one here.

FITZ OVER NOTRE DAME — We could rate this a toss up.

DARTMOUTH OVER COLUMBIA — In a traditional meeting.

★ ★ ★ THE MIDWEST ★ ★ ★

ILLINOIS OVER IOWA — Illini should climax top 10 activity with an easy victory.

OKLAHOMA OVER KANSAS — The Sooners are stretching for No. 28 in their unmarred win column.

OHIO STATE OVER WISCONSIN — The No. 1 squad will meet some rough opposition in the Badger line-up. Wisconsin has won five out of six against some tough teams.

MICHIGAN OVER INDIANA — Close.

NEBRASKA OVER KANSAS STATE — With some pointage to spare.

NORTHWESTERN OVER PURDUE — Not too handily.

MARQUETTE OVER HOLY CROSS — The Hilltoppers haven't quite filled their quota for the year. It won't be any pushover though.

★ ★ ★ THE SOUTH ★ ★ ★

ALABAMA OVER MISSISSIPPI SOUTHERN — A breeze for the Crimson Tide. By at least three TDs.

SOUTH CAROLINA OVER CITADEL — Easy meat for the Gamecocks.

KENTUCKY OVER MISSISSIPPI STATE — Another easy one.

TENNESSEE OVER TENNESSEE TECH — No question about this one either.

MIAMI OVER LOUISVILLE — The Hurricanes are as good as in the Sugar bowl, and the Cardinals can't stop them.

VANDERBILT OVER LSU — At this point we're looking for an upset.

MISSISSIPPI OVER CHATTANOOGA — Ole Miss by six points.

FLORIDA OVER GEORGIA — In a close Southeastern tilt. The extra point might make the difference, but we'll say the Gators by six points.

DUKE OVER WAKE FOREST — We wouldn't blame you if you picked the Deacons.

GEORGIA TECH OVER VMI — This one won't be as easy as it looks.

WASHINGTON AND LEE OVER DELAWARE — The Southern Conference-leading Generals have hopes of competing in the Gator bowl. And the rumors are strong.

★ ★ ★ THE WEST ★ ★ ★

CALIFORNIA OVER UCLA — If the Golden Bears can handle this one, they're Rose bowl-bound.

WASHINGTON OVER OREGON — The Huskies will run away with this one by at least 21 points.

SMU OVER TEXAS A&M — Disregarding the Mustangs' loss to Texas last week, they are still favorites to win by 12 points.

TEXAS OVER BAYLOR — We'll say the mighty Longhorns will take the Bears by a couple of touchdowns, although Baylor is expected to offer some rough opposition.

STANFORD OVER WASHINGTON STATE — Easily.

WYOMING OVER BRIGHAM YOUNG — With a pair of TPs.

Post Troopers Win Badminton Tourney

Tom Gallagher Paces Team To 14 Victories During Meet

Troopers of the Airborne battalion, Student Training Regiment, chalked up a total of 14 victories to win the 1950 Infantry Center intramural badminton tournament, staged last week in the Bryant Wells field house.

Paced by the versatile Tom Gallagher and Terry Scott, the Troopers completely dominated the two-day competition and alone won as many matches as all the other teams combined. Gallagher and Scott who consistently occupied the limelight during the entire tournament, eventually eliminated all serious competition in the early rounds and annexed the 1950 doubles title by defeating William Fannin and Walter Faye in the finals, 21-7, 21-17, 21-7.

Walter Frankland of the Student Training Regiment won the singles crown by downing Tom Gallagher of the Airborne battalion.

Although Gallagher and Scott were top seeded in the tournament, neither was able to match the hard driving and skillful playing of the champion, the Cranford eliminated Scott, 15-8, 17-15, 15-4. Gallagher, in turn, soundly trounced Frankland in the finals, 15-2, 15-4, 15-3.

In the women's competition, Elizabeth Sanderson captured the singles laurels by dropping Betty Waite in the finals 15-3 and 15-0.

Later, Sanderson again won recognition by pairing with Ruth Dally to win the women's doubles.

Benning Fisticuffs Prospects Brighter

Outlook for the 1951 version of the Infantry Center boxing squad brightened somewhat this week by disclosure that one All-Army and two Third Army champions will represent Fort Benning in both meets to be held in December.

The announcement was made following a recent Department of the Army decision to resume All-Army competitions.

Team Coach John Wilson disclosed this week that although all team berths have not as yet been filled, it was encouraging to note that All-Army Middleweight Tiltist Larry Jones and Third Army Title Holders George Allen and Buford Decordova will be back again punching for Fort Benning.

Allen is the 1950 Third Army bantamweight champ and Decordova holds the light heavy title. Norman Clark, runner-up for the Third Army lightweight championship, has also returned to the Benning lineup. However, this year Wilson says Clark will be competing in the welterweight division.

In addition to the 1950 veterans, two more promising newcomers, Cliff Maddox and Oran Carrelson will bolster the Benning ranks. Both boxers have had previous experience in the ring and are expected to show up good during the Army competition.

Wilson added that although Benning's hopes have been inflated greatly with the return of these champion veterans, there still exist several vacancies in the lighter and heavier weight divisions.

At present, berths in the heavyweight and featherweight classes still are open. Anybody interested in trying out for the team should contact his unit athletic and recreation officer or the Infantry Center athletic office.

The new schedule reserves Tuesday and Friday evenings from 7-10 p.m. for officers and Wacs. Formerly the swimming pool was for use by enlisted men only.

Wacs may swim in the pool on Tuesdays from 7-8:30 p.m. and on Fridays from 8:30-10 p.m. Officer personnel will be permitted to use the pool from 8:30-10 p.m. on Tuesdays and from 7:30-9:30 p.m. on Fridays.

Enlisted men will be allowed use of the pool Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 5:30-10 p.m.; Tuesdays and Fridays from 5:30-7 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays from 1-2 p.m. and 5-10 p.m.

Other facilities of the field house are available to all military personnel during hours of operation, which are from 9:30 a.m. until 10 p.m., Monday through Sunday. Handball courts, exercise room and main basketball floor are also open during these hours.

Stalcup Wins Top Laurels in Match

Capt. Gene S. Stalcup, Fort Benning skeet ace, last Sunday shot a perfect score to place first in the annual Southern Open Skeet tournament in Atlanta, Ga.

Maj. C. L. Disharoon recorded a perfect 150 points, but was still tied for top honors with J. A. C. Boardman of Augusta, Ga., and Lt. R. Gibson of the Norfolk Va. Naval Air station.

Darkness prevented the deciding shoot-off match. It was the third time this year that Stalcup had been tied for first place in a regional or all-service skeet tourney. Earlier this year, he and Boardman shot perfect scores and shared top honors in the Georgia State Skeet championship.

Later in September, he annexed first place laurels in the East Coast All-Service skeet tournament only to be tied by Lieutenant Gibson and Chief Machinist Mate Pendergast of the Jacksonville Naval Air station. In the shoot-off, he captured the runner-up legs in competition with 150 Army Navy Air Force and Marine Corps marksmen.

Fort Benning placed fourth in the 30 service team competition and won the Class D matches.

Ladies Golf Class Set at Country Club

The second class of group golf lessons for ladies will be given at the Fort Benning Country Club golf course Nov. 14, 17, 21, 24.

The classes sponsored by the Women's Golf association, is conducted by Charlie Harper, assistant golf pro, on Tuesdays and Fridays. Each class is limited to 15 students.

Anyone interested in joining the class should contact Mrs. A. E. McCormick, telephone 2808, or sign up at the Country Club. A fee of $1 is charged for the four lessons.

Defense Report Indicates Army May Use A-Bomb

WASHINGTON—Enemy troops on future battlefields may be blasted with atomic weapons launched by both the Army and the Air Force flying in its support, a defense Department report indicated this week.

The atomic bomb up to now has been a strategic weapon, for not for tactical use against forces in the field. In their semi-annual report released tonight the armed forces, now engaged in strictly orthodox warfare in Korea, took a long look ahead and talked of an arsenal of new weapons being developed or in the research phase.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Tests Tinned Food WASHINGTON—(APPS)—A mobile X-ray unit with which canned foods may be tested without removing the cans from packing cases and containers, is being tested for use by the Army Quartermaster Corps. The equipment, developed by Quartermaster Corps technicians, is housed in a semi-trailer and embodies a power X-ray apparatus. Should current tests confirm early findings, additional units will be supplied to Quartermaster Depots in which large quantities of canned foods are stored. Substitution of the new unit for present food examination procedures would result in estimated savings of $30,000 monthly.

Helicopters Prove Value In Korean Combat Areas

WONSAN AIRFIELD, Korea.—The machines age has developed its own angel of mercy: The helicopter.

The awkward flying windmill has proven its worth in Korea. Time after time, Marine, Army and Navy helicopters have rescued pilots shot down behind enemy lines or at sea. They have taken out whole cut off units. They have carried wounded to safety; by ambulance over rough roads would have meant death.

"Any military force without them today is back in the days of the civil war," said leathery Brig. Gen. Edward Craig of the famed "Fighting First" Marine division.

Marines pioneered use of the helicopters. Marine Observation Squadron Six, which flies them, has rescued 20 downed pilots and flown 200 wounded from the front.

"The helicopters have changed war in two ways," said the squadron commander, Maj. Vincent J. Gottschalk, Fontaine, Mich. "The infantryman knows that being hopelessly cut off doesn't mean he is going to die or be captured. The helicopters can hold for pilots shot down at sea or over enemy territory. That was a real wonderful change in morale."

RETIRING SERGEANTS BID FAREWELL BY MAJ. GEN. WITHERS A. BURRESS. To R. Sgt. John Moravec, Sfc. Oliver Bryant, M-Sgt. Henry E. Prather

Brief Retirement Ceremony Held for Six Enlisted Men

Three disabled Fort Benning soldiers with a total of 68 years of service were retired from the Army in brief ceremonies at the Station hospital last Tuesday. Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, and Brig. Gen. Robert B. Hill, hospital commander, took part in the ceremony.

Ending their Army careers were M-Sgt. Henry E. Prather, Service company, 30th Infantry regiment, Sfc. Oliver Bryant, Service company, 15th Infantry regiment, and Sgt. John Moravec, 15th Infantry regiment, Heavy Automotive Maintenance company.

Topping the list in service was Sgt. Moravec, who had a total of 24 years. During World War II he served at the Aberdeen Md. Proving Grounds. Other units in which he served were the First Engineers at Fort Du Pont, Del., and the 34th Infantry at Fort Meade, Md.

He and his family will live in Columbus.

Sergeant Bryant spent 23 years in the service. A former member of the 26th Infantry regiment, Student Training regiment and 15th Infantry regiment, much of his time was spent at Fort Benning. He was also stationed at Scottfield Barracks, Hawaii.

Sgt. Bryant and his family will also live in Columbus.

With a little over 21 years of Army life behind him, Sgt. Prather has seen service with the 11th Infantry regiment, 12th Infantry regiment and 30th Infantry regiment and 30th Infantry regiment.

A member of the 30th Infantry during World War II, he saw action in Europe, participating in several major battles.

His decorations and awards include the Combat Infantryman's badge, Bronze Star medal, Victory medal, European theater of operations ribbon, Good Conduct medal and Pre- Pearl Harbor ribbon.

He plans to return to his home at Clarksville, Tenn.

180 F-84 Jets Fly To Germany Bases

Washington, Nov. 8.—The Air Force announced yesterday it has completed the largest trans-Atlantic mass flight of jet fighters to equip two groups based in Germany. A total of 180 Republic F-84E Thunder Jet fighters were flown to Germany in two groups of 90 and 91 planes each.

They replace the F-47 piston engine planes and the old F-80 jet fighters of the 38th and 88th fighter-bomber groups based at Furstenfeldbruck and at Neuberg.

Stops Coughin' With Coffin

CAMP POLK, La. — (APFS) — A medical detachment's first sergeant treats a cough with necessary coughs with coffins—and he gets results.

St. Steve Rolland has 18 years' experience as an undertaker. When a shortage of packing crates cropped up, the sergeant offered some of his casket crates to the unit.

Now, when there seems to be an excessive number of men on the sick list, Sergeant Rolland conspicuously displays one of the crates at the dispensary entrance. Furthermore, he uses one for a field desk in his office.

Results—The sick list dwindles.

FIRST AIRBORNE RANGERS RECEIVE NEW PATCH ON GRADUATION
Pfc. James D. Galey, Left, Cpl. Alfred M. Bukaly, Admire Insignia

First Rangers End Training

Guidons, Insignia Presented At Stroup Field Ceremony

For the first time since World War II the Rangers were on the march Monday.

The first four companies to train at the Ranger Training Center at Harmony Church received their insignia as qualified Rangers Monday afternoon at a graduation review on Stroup field.

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center Commander, and Col. John G. Van Houten, commanding officer of the Ranger Training Center, reviewed the troops. General Burress then presented a company guidon to Cpt. John Striegel, commander of the First Ranger company, scheduled to leave soon for a new station.

General Burress also gave Ranger shoulder patches to the commanding officers of all four Ranger companies.

Music for the review was supplied by the 72nd Army band. Among the spectators at the graduation parade were 20 officers, newly assigned to the organization as instructors for the second course which is scheduled to begin in a few weeks.

Exact date for the next class has not been announced, Ranger Training Center officials said, and it will depend on the progress of the screening program to select students for the organization.

Men receiving their Ranger shoulder patches Monday were members of four rifle companies which started training six weeks ago under Department of the Army plans which call for one Ranger company to be assigned to each infantry division.

The current Ranger class was made up entirely of volunteers, selected on the basis of high mental and physical standards. As all Rangers are required to be qualified parachutists, most of the students came from airborne units at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Campbell, Ky.

Divisional assignments for the four Ranger companies that have just completed training have not been announced.

Chest Funds Now $17,000

Contributions to the Fort Benning Community Chest passed the $17,000 mark this week, Col. Charles E. Woodruff, chairman, announced.

Results so far are gratifying, according to Colonel Woodruff, as the second week of the drive brought the total collected to $17,170, approximately 40 per cent of the minimum amount needed by Chest-supported agencies for their operations during the coming year.

Tabulation of the amounts collected by units has been recorded on large red, white and blue Community Chest signboards at several points on the post.

Leading in contributions is the American Red Cross with a total of 103 per cent. The next four highest units are the Student Training regiment cadre, with a total of 89 per cent; Infantry School detachment, 76 per cent; Academic department of the Infantry School, 72 per cent, and Provisional Medical group, 73 per cent.

Benning Plans Longer Holiday

Christmas and New Year holiday schedules for troops in training were announced this week by Fort Benning officials.

All classes at the Infantry School and scheduled training will be suspended during the period from Dec. 23 to Jan. 1, inclusive. As a result of this change in schedule, Infantry School classes will graduate five working days later than previously announced. To absorb these classes that were to begin during the holiday period have been canceled.

The holiday period will utilize two legal holidays and two week ends and will permit soldiers stationed at Benning to travel a distance from their homes an opportunity to visit their families, officials said.

In announcing the holiday schedule, the Department of the Army said in meeting the rigorous standards of the current training program, trainees have demonstrated a degree of progress which makes possible this short suspension of scheduled training.

It was pointed out that the tempo of the program will be stepped up after the first of the year to an extent that further interruptions will be extremely unlikely.

Originally the Army had planned to suspend training for two weekends only. Because of time trainees would have been unable to visit their homes. Under the present plan it is expected that opportunities to visit their families will be granted to as many persons as possible.

Organize Combat Training Command

A "parent" organization for "orphan" units is being organized at the Infantry Center.

The Combat Training Command, under the leadership of Lt. Col. Robert M. Booth, has been established to provide a centralized coordinating and control agency for non-divisional units.

Present plans call for the Combat Training Command to supervise details in administration, supply and training. The group will have an authorized strength of 12 officers, two warrant officers, 15 enlisted men and five civilians.

Offices for the Combat Training Command are located at 30th Infantry regiment headquarters in the First Cuartel. Units now assigned to the command include the 78th Combat Engineer battalion and the 201st Field Artillery battalion.

At the present time the command is engaged in presenting proficiency tests and basic training to all units except those of the Fourth Infantry division.

Maj. Gen. Rex W. Beasley, chief of the research and development section, and Brig. Gen. Wayne C. Zimmerman, chief of the Plans section at Army Field Forces headquarters, Fort Monroe, Va., were among the group of 43 persons who witnessed the show and participated in the conference and discussion afterwards.

Also included in the group were representatives from the Office of the Chief of Engineers, Office of the Chief of the Chemical Corps, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, the Airborne Center, the Armored School, the Engineer School, Army Field Forces boards No. 1 and 2, the Artillery School and the Amphibious Training Center.

Guard General In TIS Course

Maj. Gen. James C. Styron, commander of the recently federalized 45th Infantry division now stationed at Camp Polk, La., is attending a one-week refresher course for National Guard officers at Fort Benning.

General Styron, a 1920 graduate of the United States Military Academy, also has attended the Field Artillery School and the Command and General Staff College.

The 45th Division is an Oklahoma unit.

Red Cross Opens Office in Sand Hill

The American Red Cross has opened a part-time office in Building 3826, Sand Hill, for the benefit of Fourth Infantry division personnel.

Located on Scott avenue near Post Exchange No. 17, the office is open from 4 to 8 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. All Fourth division personnel should complete any necessary Red Cross contacts, if possible, through this office, officials said.

It's Red Feather Time

Community Chest Helps Support 'Brat Barracks'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles on the activities of agencies which receive either a part or all of their operating funds from the Community Chest. This week's article deals with Brat Barracks.

BY JAMES CABLIE

Among the organizations which contribute to the welfare of Fort Benning youth is the Teen-Agers club, otherwise known as Brats Barracks.

This organization, while it takes no active part in projects associated with the Scout movement, does have a similar task of helping to build character and prepare youth for the future.

Primary duty of Brats Barracks is to give post-teen-agers a place where they can meet socially. Members plan their own social events, which are conducted under the supervision of committees.

THESE EVENTS ADD TO the welfare of Army children by giving them a proper background from which to build their futures. Activities pertaining to healthy and morally clean bodies and minds, such as are provided by the club, are important factors towards building a civilized nation.

Such self-governed organizations relieve the community of the burden of dealing with many problems involved when juvenile delinquency exist. Conducting a full schedule of chapter activities, helping youth to spend its idle time in a profitable way, such organizations as this are an asset to everyone.

In addition to their personal social activities, this group also makes its part in helping to supply food and clothing, along with other charitable duties, to needy families. During the holiday season, when they are busy planning their own parties and social affairs, they devote a great portion of their time and energy towards gathering things for those who are dependent upon activities such as theirs for aid.

Like other youth organizations, Brats Barracks has no regular source of revenue. It must depend upon assistance from the Community Chest, to the fund from which to operate.

While this organization is not entirely supported by the Community Chest, the funds it does receive supply a greater portion of the money with which they carry on.

YOUTH SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS are of vital importance to every community. The basic function of any such organization is to equip the younger generation with the knowledge of associating with others, of working together and appreciating each other.

Youth today is the foundation of tomorrow; the environment in which they live is the sole factor that establishes their character.

It is important that such organizations as Brats Barracks be supported as much as possible. Contributions to the Community Chest will help in this work.

FOURTH DIVISION MEN MAKE RECORD ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY SERVICES
An Estimated 45 Per Cent Of Division Soldiers Attend Church Weekly

Reports Increased Throongs at Chapel

Almost half the men of the Fourth Infantry division regularly attend religious services, according to the three division chaplains now on duty.

Whether increased attendance is due to a national trend, or is a result of the devotion to duty that makes the three chaplains a friend and counselor as well as a religious leader, a substantially greater workload has been placed on the chaplains than is normally associated with the corps.

Last Sunday Assistant Division Chaplain (Maj.) Theodore C. Pawlowicz, Trinity, Ala., Trinitarian Conventual monk, held six masses. Division Chaplain (Maj.) Earl E. Wolf, Lancaster, Pa., and Assistant Division Chaplain (Capt.) David A. Sperrling, Sebring, Fla., both Protestants, conducted seven services in the Sand Hill area.

Followers of the Hebrew faith are provided transportation to Columbus to attend services on Friday nights and Seventh Day

Post Service Unit Men Get Duties

New assignments for 12 Area Service Unit Provisional group men were announced this week.

The following members of Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I, 344th Area Service Unit, received duty assignments as indicated: Pfc. James R. Stokely and Sgt. Howard O. Anderson, headquarters, Area Service Unit; Pfc. Warren C. Hanson and Sgt. Marcus L. Norton, Engineer section; Pfc. John H. Anderson and Major C. McDaniel, Special Service section; Pfc. Harold A. Green, Athletic and Recreation section; and Sgts. Wilford P. Talon and John L. Chancey, Finance section.

Sgt. Clyde B. Jessup and Cpl. Harvey Crowley, formerly with the 516th Ordnance Medium Automotive maintenance company, were assigned duties with the Provisional group. Pfc. John W. Butkins, a former member of Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section II, 344th Area Service Unit was assigned duty with the Band section.

In addition to their many other duties chaplains make regular visits to the sick in hospitals and to men in confinement. All Fourth division chaplains are available every evening to counsel military personnel.

17 Lady Officers Win Promotions

Seventeen Army Nurse Corps and Women Medical Service officers of the Provisional Medical group received promotions last week.

During a special ceremony held in his office at the Station hospital, Brig. Gen. Robert B. Hill, group commander, congratulated the officers on their promotions.

Army Nurse Corps officers promoted from captain to major were Margaret C. Blatt, Georgia E. Lessey, Edna M. Ross and Reba B. Weir.

Promoted from first lieutenant to captain were Delma E. Barrett, Ida E. Berry, Mary V. Bilger, Elizabeth C. Bryan, Lillian D. Dial, Elizabeth Dismuke, Dorothy J. Eck, Jeanne M. Gailard, Ethel I. Hagler, Nellie R. Tubbs and Aramatha W. White.

Women's Medical Service Corps officers promoted from major to lieutenant were Christine D. Ehlers and Emma C. Lord.

Army to Release Some Reservists

There was good news this week for civilian component and Regular Army personnel whose enlistments were involuntarily extended in the current Army build-up.

Department of the Army officials made public plans to release individuals and units of the civilian components after they have reached an adequate state of training and the draft and volunteers provide replacements to meet Army requirements.

The plan is expected to go into effect as early as next summer, but may not be completed until early in 1952. Draftees will continue to be inducted as rapidly as training facilities will permit.

Under the direction of Defense Secretary George Marshall, a four months' warning on induction will be given non-Regular personnel after Nov. 30. Fundamental change in the situation requires a change in plans.

Those whose orders are in the mail or who have received temporary delays will have to report on schedule. The last of 20,000 individuals will be reported this month on this basis.

Although the Army is planning to effect an orderly reduction of its forces throughout the world including the possible release of forces in Europe, Army Secretary Frank Vane, Jr., said "it is currently planned not to release National Guard units overseas."

The point system established for enlisted Reservists will determine priority for overseas assignment and—if more ERC men are needed on duty in the future—priority for recall, both on the basis of having the lowest point men in the required MOS group.

Highest point men will have priority for relief from duty. Some such personnel will be relieved within the next three months after a proper replacement has reported to the unit.

Point scoring
Individual scores will be determined on the basis of:
One point for each year of age over 20 years.
One point for each year of Reserve service.
Two points for each combat award.

Four points for each year of active federal service.
Four points for each year of overseas service.
Eight points for each dependent.

Points for active federal and overseas service will be prorated on the basis of one point for each three months or major fraction. Training credits do not apply to National Guard men ordered into service with their units.

Broadening of the policy for discharge of men with dependents will permit both enlisted Guardsmen and Reservists to be discharged if they have four or more dependents. This policy applies whether the soldier was inducted as an individual or with his unit, and it permits men to

2 Platoons Cited By Commander

Two platoons of Company E, Second Battalion, combat team, 325th Airborne Infantry, regiment, have been cited for outstanding accomplishments.

The team, which was sent here from the 82nd Airborne division, at Fort Bragg, N. C., for temporary duty in the 1st Airborne division, is carrying out a rigorous training schedule of its own in addition to its role in training others.

To further this training schedule, the second platoon of Company E under Lt. Warren Webster planned and constructed a bayonet course in exactly 12 hours—in the rain. The course will be used in the team's toughening up training.

The platoon received a commendation from Lt. Col. Clyde M. Dillender, combat team commander, citing "the high degree of initiative exercised by all members of the platoon in securing materials for the construction of the course, resulting in a finished bayonet course complete with appropriate signs for identification and control purposes; in a matter of hours, instead of days, as was planned when the task was assigned."

In Company E, platoon competition has been instituted by the commanding officer, 1st Lt. Robert M. Shoemaker. All morning inspections and deficiencies within the command are closely graded. The Weapons platoon was cited last week as the outstanding platoon.

Students End Food Courses

Operation of the base will be by civilian contract, the first such contract training to be used by the Air Force since the war. The first site to reopen in the Air Force's expanded aviation cadet program is the war-time base which will accommodate approximately 450 students.

The Air Materiel Command, the Air Force contracting authority, is presently drawing up specifications for operation of the base and will solicit bids from civilian flight training contractors in this connection within a few days.

This base is in addition to the other bases now being operated in the flying training program. Approximately 2,000 basic students are enrolled in these schools at the present time.

Soldiers to Study At Naval School

WASHINGTON — (AFPS) — Screening of nominees for training in 1951 will be conducted by the Navy's School of Music here in progress. The first Army class will report for instruction Jan. 10, 1951.

The Navy is providing funds and training facilities for Army personnel currently assigned with an organized service band. The Navy school will augment the existence since 1935. It is designed to improve playing proficiency and general musical knowledge of musicians of the Navy and Marine Corps.

Instruction will be conducted by Navy officers and enlisted personnel. A selected group of Army officers and enlisted personnel will augment the Navy faculty.

Qualifications for Army student enrollment also include one year's service with an Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Air Force band.

Two officers of the Women's Army Corps were promoted to captain last week.

They were former 1st Lt. Caroline C. Seay, Maryland, and Catherine C. Seay, Virginia.

Air Force Base To Be Reopened

Greenville Air Force base, a World War II flying training base at Greenville, Miss., will be rehabilitated and reopened as a basic flight school in a few weeks, the U. S. Air Force has announced.

Operation of the base will be by civilian contract, the first such contract training to be used by the Air Force since the war. The first site to reopen in the Air Force's expanded aviation cadet program is the war-time base which will accommodate approximately 450 students.

The Air Materiel Command, the Air Force contracting authority, is presently drawing up specifications for operation of the base and will solicit bids from civilian flight training contractors in this connection within a few days.

Benning's Religious Revival

Fort Benning is apparently undergoing a religious revival, if the record chapel attendance reported during the past few weeks is any indication. According to Infantry Center Chaplain Loren T. Jenks, the Main Chapel is filled to overflowing each Sunday, and troops are turning out in large numbers for the recently inaugurated Sunday afternoon Vesper services.

These two facts alone should give encouragement to those responsible for the spiritual and moral welfare of the Fort Benning soldier. So long as he is taking such an active part in religious work, there is little need to fear any weakening of his character. It does not mean, of course, that there can be any lessening of the religious guidance and character building programs carried on by the chaplains. On the contrary, we believe religious fervor will continue on the up-sweep only so long as the chaplains take a personal interest in the well-being of the soldier.

The ministry in the chaplaincy is on an equal footing with the ministry in the parish and congregation or in missionary work. The fact that Fort Benning chaplains realize this fact has, we believe, resulted in the gradual increase in participation in religious activities on the post.

An excellent example of the chaplain's ministry to the Fort Benning soldier is the Christian Fellowship hour which follows the Sunday Vespers. At the close of the service, usually a brief musical program, the congregation adjourns to Service Club No. 1 for a community sing and social hour followed by a buffet supper. The net result of the chaplain meeting the soldier on common ground has resulted in increased respect and admiration for the men of the Chaplain Corps, giving the soldier more confidence in his religion.

This is a time of unparalleled struggle for the minds and souls of men. On the one side are the dark forces of the spiritually barren ideologies which attack the religious and ethical foundations of our society. On the other are the cherished spiritual concepts and religious values which give our society the moral force without which it would soon disintegrate.

The key to victory in this struggle lies in the spirit, in the soul and in the minds of the present generation of American youth. In order to insure that we can continue to live in the tradition of our forefathers, we are now in the process of greatly expanding our Armed Forces. More than a million and a half more men and women, a majority under 21, will be called upon to serve their country. Yet if the men and women of this armed force are to defend our heritage, their spiritual welfare and their well-being must continue to be a constant concern, not only to the chaplains but to their company commanders as well. For they will defend only that which they come to know, appreciate and cherish.

Because of the youth of these men, many of whom are already taking basic training at Fort Benning, it is incredibly easy to mold their thinking processes so that they accept as truth whatever they are told by those in command. Therefore, it is vitally important that commanders instill in the men under them the importance of continuing, in the Army as they did in civil life, their regular attendance at religious services.

In the past there may have been occasions when a man's desire to attend chapel services was treated as some sort of sickness by the first sergeant or, in some cases, even by the company commander. The man was held up to ridicule and placed in the position of trying to defend his religious beliefs. Such actions on the part of non-commissioned officers or commissioned officers are inexcusable. However, this is not a common practice in the Army today as is evidenced by the increase in chapel attendance.

Although the chaplain is doing his part to keep religious beliefs alive in the minds of American youth, his efforts won't amount to much without the full cooperation of every officer and non-commissioned officer in command of those young men. Don't ever ridicule a chapel-going soldier, for only with an Army of God-fearing men, will this country and this way of life continue to live.

News Briefs UN Troops Resume March Toward Manchuria

The American Seventh Infantry Division has resumed its march toward Manchuria, the GIs surprised Tuesday morning, the GIs crossed two rivers in Northeast Korea and pressed on toward the border, some 25 to 30 miles away. A Tenth Corps spokesman said the attack met heavy resistance on one flank and light resistance on the other. He said some of the soldiers had to wade waist-deep through the icy river waters.

Some 60 miles southwest of the Seventh, U.S. Marines picked up two more miles in their march through the snow-covered mountains toward the Chosin reservoir. At last report they were two miles from their objective and had met no opposition.

Will Your Name Be Remembered After Death?

BY CHAPLAIN DANIEL P. JENKINS. Man's desire to live after death is a universal aspiration. Men have always disliked the thought that after death they will be forgotten, and have promoted vast schemes in the prospect of their being felt, remembered and spoken of after - times even as in their own day. Adolf Hitler, it is reported, had a vast secret "plan of immortality." The Munich Central Station was to be completely razed, and a 900-acre tract a 900-foot square mausoleum, 700 feet high, topped by a Nazi eagle with a 250-foot wing spread, was to have been erected where his body was to be placed, surrounded always by flowers, flags, torches and Nazi emblems.

Absalom, the rebellious son of David, had a similar ambition and built for himself "a pillar in the king's day." A finer memorial than either of these is in Palestine today, and is one of the few authentic landmarks of the Holy Land. I refer to Jacob's Well, which was not dug as a memorial, but which is still there, bearing his name and blessing mankind. There are those who merely leave pillars by life's wayside and the weary traveler stands off and looking at them. But when he comes to Jacob's Well he stops to drink from it.

We commonly think that when a man dies the world is through with him and he with the world, but that view needs revision. The oft-quoted statement, "dead men tell no tales," is not a true maxim. There is much about a man that we cannot place in a casket. Keats wrote his own epitaph, "Here lies one whose name is writ in water," and whereas the names of men are often written in water, the life and character of those individuals are impressed on society indelibly.

Think of the perpetuity of influence, either for good or bad. Solomon said: "I saw the wicked buried," but he did not say he saw the dirt con-turns over the weekend that showed large gains for their party in Congress, some stunning defeats for Democratic stalwarts, and a Republican lead in governors voted into office.

The Republicans immediately claimed the results showed a complete repudiation of President Truman's foreign and domestic policies. The 82nd Congress, slated to convene later this month will stack up something like this: Senate: Democrats, 49; Republicans, 47; Present Senate, 53 to 42. Needed to control—49. Democrats elected 18, holdovers 21, lost six, gained one in Missouri. Republicans elected 18, holdovers 29, lost one, gained six in Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Utah and California. House: Democrats kept control, 222 to 199, with three independents. Needed to control, 218. Whole house: 259 Democrats, 199 Republicans, one American Labor party and six vacancies. Democrats in electing 232 gained two, lost 29; Republicans in electing 199, gained 28, lost one. Independents elected one, American Labor lost one.

Such GOP standouts as Senators Taft (Ohio) and Millikin (Colo.) and Governors Dewey (N. Y.) and Warren (Calif.) won easily. And at the same time it was thumbs down for such Democratic leaders as Senators Lucas (Ill.), Myers (Pa.), Tydings (Md.) and Thomas (Utah).

The Sampson, N. Y., Naval Training Station has been transferred to the Air Force for use as an indoctrination center. Inactive since World War II, the station is located on the east shore of Seneca Lake, midway between Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y. Under Air Force administration it will function in a manner similar to Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Increased production of incendiary weapons will be undertaken by the Army at enlarged facilities to be constructed at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal, Denver, Colo.

Issuance of the currently used Marine Corps Identification Cards will be discontinued after December 15. Marine Corps Headquarters has announced. The old Card will continue to serve as a means of identification, however, until the new standardized Armed Forces Identification Card can be issued to each Marine on active duty.

To Amuse You Today On The Bookshelf

RUN, MONGOOSE BY BURKE WILKINSON LITTLE, BROWN AND COMPANY, PUBLISHER Run, Mongoose begins in Ireland, where news has been gathered that a resident of Jamaica, Gregorius, has a plan underfoot to smuggle bauxite off the island for illegal sale. As bauxite is valuable to both America and Britain for war and industrial uses, intelligence agents of both countries make plans to work with the Republic of Jamaica in stamping out the smuggling plot.

In the smuggling plot is a submarine, equipped with a snorkel and improved to the extent that the submarine could cross the Atlantic ocean from Britain to Jamaica without surfacing. Interlaced in the story are two beautiful women who intrigue, bewilder, and sometimes assist the intelligence agents. This book is for those readers who like their fiction salted with the sea, peppered with romance, and set amid the steaming jungle of a tropical country. It has a modern setting, with all the intrigue of intelligence and counter-intelligence, a would-be dictator and British nobility.

The lead characters in this novel are Geoffrey Mildmay and Bill Stacy. Mildmay is an adventurer and a high-caliber British Agent. Stacy is Mildmay's friendly enemy and an engineer. Sir Gabriel is the British nobility, and Felicity is the lovely, long-legged woman who enticed Stacy to Jamaica. Just how these characters fall into the plot provides an adventurous story which runs from Ireland to Jamaica.

As one would suspect, the villain Gregorius is put down and the Republic of Jamaica regains full control of the sale of bauxite. But not before enough action has taken place to please the most exacting of adventure-lovers. Burke Wilkinson has written but one novel other than Run, Mongoose. That was Proceed at Will. As in the latter, Mr. Wilkinson has displayed a flair for laying his plots in romantic regions and clothing his characters in color and excitement.

When Proceed at Will was published, reviewers on both sides of the Atlantic were enthusiastic. The London Times Literary Supplement called it "an almost perfect example of the wartime adventure story."

Better still, the Glasgow Herald said, "it is doubtful if John Buchan ever wrote anything better than this." Lisle Bell said in the New York Herald Tribune that the novel "has substance, style and a firm grip on psychological forces... the action and the underlying motivation are dramatically integrated, and a serious theme is advanced and advanced by a light touch, with a deft awareness of how unified is the line between bravery and bravado."

Cotton Plaids Winter Fashion

Magie nylons, synthetic fabrics and eye-catching rayon blends all have their place in the modern fashion world, but for all-around usefulness, old-fashioned plaid cotton still holds her place in Millady's limelight.
 And no small wonder that all-cotton wardrobe displayed by the New York Council on Fashion in New York have been fetching "ohs" and "ahs" from fashion fans everywhere.
 "Scotch, please," seemed to be the request of the council pattern creators when they designed, for their 1950-51 collection of winter fashion pieces.
 Featuring a reversible tuxedo coat with black velvet on one side that contrasts pleasingly with the Gaiety and Lord's multi-colored plaid on the reverse side (right), the dress is ideal for after-dark occasions requiring sophisticated dress.
 Still another masculine type creation embodying plaid appears at left, a smoking jacket with black velvet on the inside of the collar and cuffs and the jacket's eye-catching trim.

Miss Timberman Engaged To Lt. John W. Callaghan

Of social interest to Army circles is the announcement made of the plans for the marriage of Miss Virginia Charlotte Timberman, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas S. Timberman of Fort Benning, and Lt. John William Callaghan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Callaghan of Lawrence, Mass.

The wedding will be solemnized on Nov. 24 at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Infantry Center chapel. Chaplain (Capt.) Schumaker will perform the ceremony.
 Gen. and Mrs. Timberman will entertain with a reception at the Fort Benning Country Club.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father, Miss Mary Agnew Callaghan, sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Agnew Callaghan, cousin of the bride, will be her matron of honor. Capt. Eugene F. Callaghan, Jr., USAF, Washington, D. C., will serve as his brother's best man.
 The bridesmaids will be Miss Marian Callaghan of Lawrence, Mass., sister of the groom, and Mrs. James Shanahan.

The groomsmen will include Lt. Donald Callaghan of Columbus, O., brother of groom; Capt. James Shanahan, Lt. Richard Drennon, Lt. Thomas Fardue, Lt. Robert Patterson, and Lt. Alvin Furell.
 Miss Timberman and Lieutenant Callaghan are being entertained at a series of parties preceding their wedding. Among those who have entertained are Mrs. Perry Swindler who was hostess at a tea and Lt. Col. and Mrs. James McKinley who entertained with an appetizer party.

"Use of the recipes offered in this bulletin," Major Rivoich said, "will enable the housewife to prepare a turkey which will prove to be perfect eating in every respect."
 Each recipe has been time tested and proved by use over a period of years by thousands of Army messes, and the information contained in this bulletin has been received through the advice and recommendation of the best chefs available, he declared.

The Girl Scout Corner

The Scouts of troop No. 13 began their activities for the year Oct. 19. They divided into two patrols, the Bluebirds and the Meadow Larks. An interesting program has been planned. We shall work on the following badges: Leader, First Aid, World Neighbor, and Games. We also plan for plenty of cookouts and hikes.
 So far, we have already had one cookout, Nov. 4. It was held behind the Girl Scout cabin. Three of the girls laid trail which the rest followed. The following were present: Nancy Brooks, Nancy Kind, Jackie Boykin, Marie Scott, Eleanor Murphy, Connie Taylor, Joan Hackett, Ann Shaughnessy, Miss Betty Lucas and the troop leaders, Mrs. J. E. Hughes and Mrs. J. E. Adams, Jr.

Large Number Of Post Troops Parade Monday

A large number of troops were on the march Monday afternoon when units of the Area Service unit participated in a group ceremonial parade at Silwell Hill. Approximately 2,000 soldiers passed in review before Col. Maurice L. Miller, commanding officer, and his staff.
 Many of the men have only recently completed their six weeks' basic training and were participating in their first parade. Among the new components were 358th Ordnance battalion, ORG unit from New Orleans, the 121st Transportation Truck battalion, National Guard unit from Ohio, the Provisional Quartermaster battalion, which contains the 84th Quartermaster detachment, the 462nd Quartermaster Laundry company and the 358th Chemical Brood company.
 Music was provided by the 122nd Army band from Cleveland, Ohio, recently assigned to Fort Benning. The band is under the direction of CWO William R. Trembath.
 Other units in the parade included the Seventh Ordnance battalion, Military Police detachment, WAC detachment, Third Army band, Provisional Group band and Sections I and II of the 344th Area Service unit.

Members of the Infantry School's advance class No. 1 held a picnic at the Special Services rest camp Nov. 5.
 During the picnic games were played and prizes awarded to winners.
 Approximately 125 officers and their families attended.

Company's 'Motto' Is 'Hide the Guide'

If you happen to be near Sixth Army's 45th Infantry Training Regiment and hear the shout, "Hide the guide," don't be surprised.
 "It's not an effort to do away with formations, but merely a new way of telling the Fourth platoon to fall in. For Capt. Fred Hyde is platoon guide, and the four squads align themselves on his position."
 Captain Hyde is a member of the 45th (Thunderbird) division which holds from Columbus, Ga. The class now in its fourth week of training in the associate infantry company officer's course.

Point Preparing For '52 Birthday

WEST POINT (AFPS) — The United States Military Academy will celebrate its sesquicentennial year in 1952.

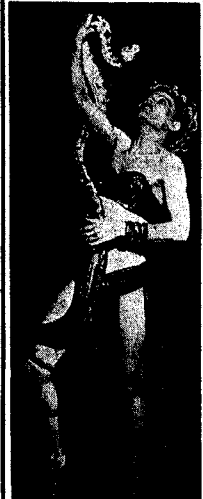

Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, academy superintendent, said the first six months of 1952 are designated for observance of the school's 150 years of existence.

The theme for the sesquicentennial celebration, he said, is "Fulfilling Our National Security." "We believe that study and discussion of this theme will disclose ways and means for the most effective use of our national resources in the service of democracy."

West Point was founded in 1810 while Thomas Jefferson was President.

NEW JET FIGHTER FEATURES ALL FLYING TAIL Sabre Jet Has Super Controls For World's Speed Record

Air Force Conducts First Flight Of New Jet Planes

LOS ANGELES — "Super control" force, when longitudinal control is threatened by excessive air loads on the flying tail. The pilot has stable flight controls throughout the entire flight range of the F-86E.

With the new controls whetting the edge of the earlier Sabre, the F-86E will retain all the other basic proven features which have made the Sabre an Air Force top line fighter.

The new controls are of advanced design," said R. H. Rice, company vice president and chief engineer, "and give the world's speed record holder a great advantage in maneuverability and control.

Revolutionary features of the new controls include an "all-flying" tail, and "artificial feel" and "irreversible control" systems.

The entire horizontal tail surface of the F-86E are controlled to give the airplane better longitudinal control, eliminating the loss of effectiveness of the surfaces due to heavy air loads at extremely high speeds. This "all-flying" tail consists of two sections: the horizontal stabilizers and elevators which are linked for coordinated movement. In conventional designs on the elevators are movable by the pilot, with the horizontal stabilizers remaining in a fixed position.

No longer does the conventional power "boost" to help the pilot move all-round and horizontal tail surfaces, these F-86E controls are powered completely by an independent source to give more positive control. Conventional boost systems usually supply a greater part of the force required to move these controls, with the pilot supplying the balance.

This "difference" or pilot's "feel" of power, gives him a "feel" of the controls. With no sense of the actual air loads or forces acting on the F-86E pilot's "stock," an "artificial feel" system was designed to give the pilot a representative "feel" of the control forces. A slight fraction of the control forces is synthetically "manufactured" and fed back to the pilot's stick.

The "flying tail" ailerons for the F-86E are held at given settings—as positioned by the pilot—through an "irreversible control" system. Conventional controls have a tendency to neutralize—to change position as air loads bear upon them during flight. With the new Sabre's control power independently without the aid of conventional boost—this neutralizing effect is eliminated.

A pressure sensing unit is incorporated in the "irreversible control" system to warn the pilot through added force on his stick which increases the "artificial

Accident Record Lowest in Area

The 27th Transportation Company is conducting a bang-up campaign against smash-ups and with record-breaking success.

Credited with fewer accidents per mile than any other transportation unit in the entire Third Army area during the past 11 months, from January to November of this year, the wheels of the unit have rolled a total of 454,885 miles with only two accidents.

In the six-month period from May 15 until the present date, men of the 27 Car company have piloted their vehicles 271,620 miles without a single accident to mar the perfect safety record.

To remind all drivers in the company of the unit safety campaign, a mock cemetery has been erected in front of the unit mess hall with a monument to "Cpl. Careless" and small crosses bearing the names of drivers who have had accidents.

This company is the only car company in the Fort Benning area. It operates 18 sedans, 38 quarter-ton trucks and 17 three-quarter-ton trucks.

Orb Gazer Claims English Eyes Best

LONDON (AFPS)—The eyes of British women have "it," according to O. D. Rasmussen, who has been gazing into women's orbs the world over for many years.

Writing in Vision, a magazine of the Association of Optical Practitioners, he sizes up their eyes in this way: French—Their eyes have a certain hardness. German—Too staring. American—Too intelligent. Russian—Not intelligent enough.

4th Division Postal Section Does Land Office Business

Attention, Fourth Infantry Division Men — If you haven't heard from her she probably hasn't written.

The Fourth division's Army Post Office is letting no letters collect dust and is doing a land office business in mail—incoming, outgoing and the "Kid, I can't read the name on it, but that looks like your serial number" variety.

The division postal officer, 1st Lt. Thomas H. Caporal, has wrought nothing short of a miracle to bring order out of chaos since his arrival at Fort Benning on Oct. 10.

GREETED ON HIS FIRST day with 10 pouches of letter mail for the Fourth division and no men or equipment to work it, Lieutenant Caporal "took an plunge into the situation" with the assistance of the Fort Benning postal officer, Capt. Albert W. Alexander, through the postmaster, Robert P. Richardson, equipment was secured and the division's Army Post Office "in business" just two days later.

At the present the Fourth division post office is handling an estimated 9,000 pieces of letter mail daily in addition to more than an average of 100 registered letters, and these figures are for incoming mail only.

The Bayonet, Columbus, Ga., November 16, 1950 — Page Nine clerks a locator file is being brought up to date, and the delayed mail is forwarded as quickly as possible.

ANOTHER OF THE HEAD-aches of Lt. Caporal and his men is that many recruits are receiving mail with practically their life histories in the address. This superfluous information is misleading to the clerks handling the mail and takes unnecessary time in order that the mail concerned may not be mis-categorized through mis-cooperation of the unit mail.

Cooperation on the part of all will insure much better mail service, both to the soldier here as well as to the folks back home. This is especially important now as the volume of mail is expected to increase as the Christmas holidays approach.

Col. Miller Retires At End Of Month

Col. Maurice L. Miller, commanding officer of the 3440th Area Service Unit Provisional group, will retire from active duty the end of this month after more than 38 years of service.

On his retirement Colonel Miller will be advanced to the rank of brigadier-general.

A native of Minnesota, Colonel Miller was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in June, 1916.

During his Army career he has served in the United States, France, Hawaii and Italy.

Among his assignments have been the jobs of tactical officer at the United States Military Academy; inspector-instructor for the Pennsylvania National Guard; recreation and post-schools officer at Schofield Barracks, T. H. member of the Infantry Board, Fort Benning; chief of staff, Southern Defense Command; commanding officer, 353d Infantry, 89th division; assistant division commander, 10th Infantry division; commanding general, Infantry Replacement Training Centers Camp Rucker, Ala. and Camp Wolters, Tex.; G-1, Mediterranean theater; deputy theater commander, Mediterranean theater; and deputy theater commander, Mediterranean theater.

Decorations and service medals received by Colonel Miller are the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star medal, and the Commendation ribbon with oak-leaf clusters, Purple Heart, World War I Victory medal, with two clasps, Army of Occupation medal, World War I, European-African Middle East Campaign medal with two bronze stars, American Defense Service medal and the World War II Victory medal.

In addition he has received the following awards: from France, the Croix de Guerre with Palm; from Italy, the Order of St. Maurice and Lazarus and the Italian War Cross for Merit.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY L. KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

A couple of weeks ago, we said we had a fairly good mental picture of what the outcome of the remaining games in the 1950 season would be. Well, it appears that our not-too-accurate picture has become somewhat clouded, and our nine misses in 33 tries this week, substantiates the fact that all was not too clear. In the South alone, we missed five out of 11, which isn't too good in anyone's league. However, we received some consolation in the fact that three of these were upsets and a fourth resulted in a tie. On the other of course, we pulled a boner.

So now to redeem ourselves and raise our season's average of 73.1, we'll go into a trance and gaze at the crystal ball and say:

- ARMY OVER STANFORD - Blackmen in unprofessional manner by 18 points.
- FRINGETON OVER YALE - To clinch the Ivy League with triumph No. 8 in the second Big Three game.
- FOGDHAM OVER TEMPLE - In hit-and-run fashion by a pair of TDs.
- NAYV OVER COLUMBIA - It's time for another Middle victory. To wash the Lions by a lone touchdown.
- MICHIGAN STATE OVER PITTSBURGH - In a close one.
- MARYLAND OVER WEST VIRGINIA - The Terps are back on victory lane.
- WISCONSIN OVER PENN - A non-conference tilt which should see the Badgers eke out a close one from the Quakers.
- HOLY CROSS OVER GEORGETOWN - Not too handily.
- DARTMOUTH OVER CORNELL - We picked this one with a flip of the coin.

- OHIO STATE OVER ILLINOIS - In the game of the week. If the Buckeyes can hurdle this one, they'll clinch the Big Ten. However, with Illini eyeing a spot in the Rose Bowl, it won't be easy.
- MICHIGAN OVER NORTHWESTERN - Ann Arbor fans will also be watching the outcome of the Ohio State-Illini fracas. A win over the Wildcats will put the Wolverines in aiming position for the Pasadena classic.
- INDIANA OVER MARQUETTE - The Hoosiers by 14 points.
- FURDUE OVER MINNESOTA - The Gophers have yet to win a game this season, but the Bollermakers haven't any pity.
- OKLAHOMA OVER MISSOURI - The Sooners are out to extend their victory string to 29 straight.
- NEBRASKA OVER IOWA STATE - Without too much trouble.
- NORRIS DAME OVER IOWA - By seven points.
- KANSAS OVER KANSAS STATE - Mark up another one for the Jayhawkers.

- ALABAMA OVER GEORGIA TECH - In a controversial contest, the Crimson Tide by a TD. Bama Coach Red Drew's boys excel in the aerial tactics used by VMI in the cadets 14-13 triumph over the Ramblin Wrecks last weekend.
- GEORGIA OVER AUBURN - A traditional meet which will end with a 14-point or better victory for Wallace "Butt's" Bulldogs. This one will be available to Benning personnel.
- CLEMSON OVER FURMAN - A heater. The first of two easy one for the Tigers, who are reportedly Gator Bowl bound.
- DYKE OVER VPI - Disregarding the Blue Devil's loss to Wake Forest, we'll say Duke by 13 points.
- FLORIDA OVER MIAMI - In a fight to the finish with the Gators to win by seven points.
- KENTUCKY OVER NORTH DAKOTA - With several TDs to spare. A popular bowl favorite, the Cat's real test comes next week-end against Tennessee.
- LSU OVER MISSISSIPPI STATE - Judging from the Bengal's runaway victory over Vanderbilt last week, we'd say the LSU backfield will overcome any opposition offered by the Maroons who boast a strong defense.
- NORTH CAROLINA OVER SOUTH CAROLINA - It'll be a close one.
- TENNESSEE OVER MISSISSIPPI - With a couple of tallies to spare.
- VANDERBILT OVER MEMPHIS STATE - This one should restore some self respect to the sinking Commodores.
- WASHINGTON AND LEE OVER LOUISVILLE - A possible tie.

- CALIFORNIA OVER SAN FRANCISCO - Rated fourth in the country, the Golden Bears will make this one look more like a marathon than a football game. The Bears by 28 points, or more.
- SMU OVER ARKANSAS - After two bad weeks, the Mustangs are out to redeem themselves. SMU by a couple of markers.
- TEXAS OVER TCU - Look for an upset on this one.
- WASHINGTON OVER SOUTHERN CAL - Not without a terrific fight. Close.
- RICE OVER TEXAS A & M - Another close one.

Big Time Grapplers Meet Here Friday

Sandow Faces Television Star In Main Event

Big time, professional wrestling will return here tomorrow night when some of the country's leading grunts and grouch specialists tangle at the old Post gymnasium. The opening match gets underway at 8:15 p.m. The first of a series of ring thrills scheduled to be staged here, tomorrow's three-match card will pit the famous dropkick and television star, Billy "Mr. Atlas" Sandow from Toledo, Ohio, against rugged Karl Kowalski, heavyweight champion of the South, in the main event of the evening.

This match, which is expected to be a knock-down, drag-out brawl from beginning to end, will be a best two out of three fall bout to a finish with a no time limit.

"Mr. Atlas", one of few wrestlers to gain fame since the advent of television, is a capable, experienced wrestler of a masterful and spectacular flying tackle and dropkick. His reputation of being able to dropkick anyone is heavier than any other wrestler in the sport is known throughout the ring world.

However, Kowalski, a former professional football star who tips the scales at an even 220, is no newcomer to the ring. Born in Warsaw, Poland, the rugged, fending specialist has matched stamens with some of the best grapplers in the country. He was an outstanding lineman with the Cleveland pro football team and learned on the gridiron.

In the semi-final match, Red and skill against tough Billy "Flash" Dugan from Marietta, Ga., in the best two out of three fall bout with a 30-minute time limit. Both wrestlers are veteran campaigners and have amassed a large following, particularly in the South.

Opening the stellar card will be a one fall match, with a 30-minute time limit, between Jack Coulter, a 216-pound ex-Marine from Columbus, and tough Billy Dunlop, 205 pounds of muscle and nerve from Toronto, Canada.

Coulter is one of the most powerful and best conditioned grapplers in the ring today. Dunlop, a newcomer to the southern ring, has caused more riots around his native Canada than any other wrestler. He is bringing to the ring the reputation of being a real ruffian, and is expected to prove a worthy opponent to the heavyweights.

Sign Contract With Promoter For Pro Bouts

Special services recently contracted the services of Promoter Fred Tommy Ward of Atlanta for a series of professional wrestling matches to be staged at Fort Benning. Capt. William C. Fannin, athletic officer, disclosed this week.

Captain Fannin, who represented the Infantry Center in the transaction, said that an agreement was reached with Ward last Thursday to present to a no match wrestling bouts here each Friday night.

Ward, who for the past two years has promoted nearly all of the top grapplers in the sport, emphasized that these bouts will include stellar cards of leading men and women wrestlers. Only experienced and well-conditioned athletes will be permitted to fight here.

The first match will be staged tomorrow night at the old Post gymnasium, with the opening bell scheduled to sound at 8:15 p.m. The success of this first bout will determine whether the remaining matches are considered or not.

The second match, which ordinarily would have been staged Friday, Nov. 24, will not be conducted as scheduled, but will be brought here the following Friday, Dec. 1. This short period between matches will provide enough time for officials to determine whether they will continue the bouts.

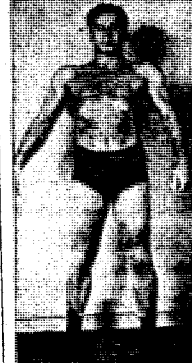

These events will be open to military members and civilian employees of Fort Benning and their dependents. General admission will be 50 cents and ringside seats 90 cents, tax included.

The program will include three bouts, preliminary, semi-final and final. The preliminary will consist of a 30-minute tussle or one fall; the semi-finals, a one hour limit or two out of three falls, and the finals a no time limit and two out of three falls. There will also be added attractions from time to time.

Ward said he plans to bring only the best possible bouts to Benning and hopes that local mat enthusiasts will come out for the show.

Weapons Bowlers Emerge Top Contender In Section 1

Keplers of the Weapons department team No. 2, this week clinched a six-week climb from fifth place to emerge as the top team in Section 1 of the Officers Bowling League.

Paced by the excellent bowling of William J. Rushing and Charles Sparks, who holds the season record for the high single game, the Weapons bowlers scattered a total of 2,698 pins to unseat the loop-leading Airborne department, team No. 1, in a close match last Thursday. The Weapons crew won two out of three games to cop total pin laurels.

The aspiring Weapons keplers who began the season in fifth place, have placed second in league standings for the past two weeks.

The Airborne bowlers now share runner-up honors with the Automotive department, with 18 wins and six losses.

In Section 1, team standings remained unchanged, with the Student Officer's class No. 1, Team No. 2, still in the lead for the sixth straight week.

However, the lead was narrowed down to four points, as the student bowlers lost three points to a high scoring crew from the Airborne Arms department. The Arms keplers defeated the Students, 2,824 to 2,157.

High team series scores were collected this week for the first time this season. Leading in first place is Army Field Force's board No. 3, with a high total of 2,983. Placing second and third is the Student Officers' Advancement class No. 1, Team No. 1, with scores of 2,976 and 2,914.

They also hold the first and third place records in the high team series department.

Game Commission Tells Hunting Rules

Rules and regulations governing hunting of game birds and wild animals on the Fort Benning reservation in 1950-51 have been announced by the Fort Benning Fish and Game Commission.

Surveying the outlook for local hunters, Lt. Col. Howard F. Haberman, post game chairman, revealed that the game crop on the reservation this year is the best in the history of the post.

He said that quail, turkey and other game have increased considerably for the past few seasons and now, as a result of the increase, turkey shooting in Russell county, Ala., has been opened to hunters from Fort Benning only.

'Commando' Unit Gets Air Support During Problem

Training is nothing if not realistic at the Ranger Training Center.

Something new was added last week as live bombs and rockets fell all around to hit targets in close support of the rangers who were learning from experience the detailed techniques for requesting air support missions.

Republic F-42E Thunderjets from the 31st Fighter wing of Turner Air Force base, Ga., were guided to their targets by Air Force fighter pilots, accompanying the ranger companies as forward air controllers.

The rangers and the Air Force collaborated on several problems including an airborne drop followed by a demolition raid, a night infiltration problem, with the destruction of an enemy air field as the mission, and a day-light attack using supporting air-craft and artillery fire.

Air support was directed by radio contact. Ranger companies also got practice in the use of the helicopter for both evacuation and supply purposes.

The joint Ranger-Air Force air support training program is to be a regular phase of the ranger training program. Training Center officials said.

3 Big Meals Planned Here For Troops on Turkey Day

Thanksgiving is on the way, and it's about time to begin getting the menu ready.

This presents no problem for mess stewards at Fort Benning, however, because they have already received a super menu from the Infantry Center Food Service office, which takes care of all three meals on Thanksgiving Day.

First is a hearty breakfast that should tide an appetite over for the big dinner to follow. It includes tomato juice, cereal, milk, fried eggs, hash brown potatoes, toast, butter, jam and coffee.

For dinner, there will be green olives, celery sticks, roast turkey, shrimp cocktail, roast turkey with celery dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, whipped potatoes, buttered peas; Waldorf salad on lettuce, parkhouse rolls, jam, butter, pumpkin and mince pie with ice cream, coffee, oranges, bananas, grapes, hard candies, mixed nuts and fruit cake.

Supper will include turkey and rice soup, cold sliced turkey sandwiches, lettuce with salad, relishes, bread, butter, sugar cookies and cocoa.

NEW YORK (APFS) — Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army's Field Forces, said recently that the United States must not be deterred from rearmament by "phony peace feelers put out by the leaders of aggression who want to lure us back to sleep."

Conduct Medals Awarded Group

Seventeen enlisted men of the Student Training Regiment have been awarded the Good Conduct medal or second or third loops for ex-ememplary behavior and efficient performance of duty.

Awarded the Good Conduct medal were: Cpls. Oscar A. Calloway and Leon D. Lusk and Sgts. William H. Whitecotton, Albert DeBarr, Hubert G. Dingler and Elton C. Jervis.

Given the clasp with two loops to the Good Conduct medal were Sgts. William H. Colbert, Rafael Zamarrilla, Sr., Arthur Wells, Warren C. Carsten, Ralph L. Terry, Raymond W. Colthren, Louis Heck and Chester H. Marsh and Sfc. Arthur M. Mikka.

Sgt. Gene O. Thomas and Sfc. Richard L. Hymes were awarded the clasp with three loops.

Clark Urges U.S. to Keep Its Guard Up

NEW YORK (APFS) — Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army's Field Forces, said recently that the United States must not be deterred from rearmament by "phony peace feelers put out by the leaders of aggression who want to lure us back to sleep."

Author of "Calculated Risk," a book on the African and Italian campaigns of World War II, General Clark spoke at the opening session of the Book and Authors luncheon.

He said the United States must stack up the "blue chips" — Army divisions, battleships and planes — in the international poker game where we have been cheated for the last five years.

General Clark compared the modern aggression to the mad dogs of Nazism and added that "one realizes this aggressor is more ruthless and more sinister."

"There is nothing he will not do—cheat, lie, and murder. He conforms to none of our high standards. He will kill our men in the field and kill our prisoners."

BREAKFAST WITH BURGESS EVERY WEEKDAY 6:00-7:30 AM

This Mocher Is Not Choosey

RALEIGH, N. C. (APPS) — The following mixture, prepared by an Army sergeant, discourages a friend's disagreeable habit of mooching pipe tobacco, should have worked.

A small quantity of tobacco; five rubber bands; eight match heads; two locks of hair (one blond and one brunette); a teaspoonful of lint; a batch of pencil sharpenings; the powder from a shotgun shell.

The result? The chiseler lighted up and puffed contentedly. An hour later he was back to mooch a refill.

Enlisted Group Is Transferred

Eight enlisted men of the Area Service Unit Provisional group received transfers to a week-end detachment.

The following were transferred to units indicated: Sgt. Harry F. Stewart, 15th Finance Disbursing section; Cpl. Thomas W. Woodward and Pvt. William M. Justice, Jr., Military Police detachment, Section I; Pvt. Jerry Shiver, 338th Chemical Processing company, and Pfc. James T. Watts, 372nd Quartermaster Office Machine Repair detachment.

Three members of the 33rd Transportation Truck company were transferred to units listed: Sgt. Mitchell McCarthy, Headquarters and Headquarters company, 12th Transportation Truck battalion; Cpl. Arthur V. Hendry, 148th Transportation Truck company, and Cpl. Elmer C. O'Neil, 148th Transportation Truck company.

SECRETARY MARSHALL

Legion Fetes Cocke, Marshall On Friday

Post Reception to Follow Big Homecoming at Dawson

Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall and newly elected National Commander of the American Legion Erle Cocke Jr. will share honors Friday evening at a dinner at the Main Officers Mess. More than 200 guests have been invited to attend the dinner and reception, which is being given by the Department of Georgia American Legion and the Dawson, Ga., American Legion post following a homecoming celebration for Mr. Cocke at Dawson Friday afternoon. Secretary Marshall is scheduled to give a short talk at the conclusion of the party Friday evening and parts of his address will be broadcast over a nationwide network.

Famous 4th Acts Fast in Request For Blood Donors

A willing outfit! The men of the Fourth Division have proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that their willingness extends beyond that of just learning and helping themselves. A call by the Red Cross for 400 pints of blood went out to Major Robert Maust, Division Troop Information and Education Officer, who had been named coordinator for the project. Here's what happened.—! Major Maust issued a call for donors. When word of the Red Cross problem reached Captain Melvin R. Birch, 8th Infantry Regimental Sergeant Major, he immediately passed the information on to the Regimental Sergeant Major, Master Sergeant William J. Frank. Sgt. Frank called the four sergeant majors in for a meeting on the double. The word went out and as a consequence the 8th Infantry Regiment of the Famous Fourth submitted a roster of more than 200 names. This all happened in less than 24 hours.

Guests To Join Soldiers For Turkey Day Feasting

Fort Benning soldiers will be allowed to continue the traditional practice of inviting guests for their Thanksgiving dinner. In making the announcement, Maj. John A. Rilovich, Infantry Center food service supervisor, commented that it was his belief that the number of guests attending holiday dinners here on the post were larger than any other post in the Army. All food for the festive dinner will be prepared according to the Army training bulletin, Quartermaster 504, which will prove to be a perfect menu. Each mess hall will be decorated to add the realistic touch of the original Thanksgiving dinner. This effect being afforded by the use of pine branches, forage and other appropriate decoration gathered from the wooded areas surrounding Fort Benning.

charges will be made for meals served, over a certain amount allotted. Each officer, enlisted person, or civilian employee regularly subsisting in a military mess may have as guest immediate members of his or her family and one friend. For dinner, there will be green olives, celery sticks, sweet pickles, shrimp cocktail, roast turkey with celery dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, whipped potatoes, buttered peas, Waldorf salad on lettuce, parkerhouse rolls, jam, butter, pumpkin and mince pie with ice cream, coffee, oranges, bananas, grapes, hard candies, mixed nuts and fruit cake. For the soldiers living off the post and rationing separately who get five or more meals in the organization mess, the regular daily charge for meals will be made. Guests and military and civilian employees, not subsisted regularly in the military messes, will be charged 75 cents for each of these meals served in field ration messes, and a minimum of 75 cents in other types of messes.

Some Changes
Maj. Rilovich said, "Realizing the vast part that the guests play concerning the morale of the troops, and at the same time regulating the number of guests in attendance, it is necessary to set certain standards by which

The ceremonies Friday afternoon in Dawson will be attended by Maj. Gen. Winters A. Burrell, Infantry Center commander, and troops from Company G, 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment, and the 122nd Army Band will take part in the parade. Celebrities Gather More than 20,000 persons are expected to gather to honor Mr. Cocke, who is Georgia's first national Legion Commander. Among celebrities invited to attend the Homecoming Day festivities, including the visit to Fort Benning are six top-ranking generals, the governor of Georgia, two members of President Truman's cabinet, and five members of the entertainment world. Secretary Marshall will arrive at Fort Benning Friday afternoon and will leave Lawson Air Force Base to return to Washington, D. C., early Saturday morning. Members of Secretary Marshall's party are Lt. Gen. E. H. Brooks, G-1, Department of the Army; Maj. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe, chief of the Chemical Corps; Rear Admiral H. A. Houser, office of Legislative Liaison; Col. Paul H. Griffith, former Assistant Secretary of Defense and National Chairman of the Another company sent 84 per cent of their strength for donations — a little pushing determined the whereabouts of the other 6 per cent. These were not available because of age, recent shots, and colds which had induced fevers. The G-3 synchronized the training schedule in order that the donors could report to War A-22 at the Fort Benning Station Hospital at scheduled times to give blood. Mr. Roy K. Aten, as assistant field director of the American Red Cross, the volunteer Red Cross workers who volunteered their services, and the factor of the Red Cross nurses from Atlanta who came to Benning with the mobile unit all did a spartan job. In addition to Sgt. Frank, other key personnel in securing the donations were the four Battalion sergeants major, Sgt. Barton C. Nesdall, 1st Bn., M-Sgt. Bernard D. Moravitz, 2nd Bn., SFC Raymond Studebaker, 3rd Bn., and SFC Robert M. LaFollett, 4th Bn. "Sergeant Frank said that the boys of the 8th are performing a two-fold mission at the present time. They feel that they can train here and save life on the other side at the same time. Facts appear to bear out the truth of that statement.

Red Feather Time

Christmas Joy For Tots Springs From Chest Fund

EDITOR'S NOTE This is the fourth of a series of articles on the activities of agencies which receive either a part or all of their operating funds from the Community Chest. This week's article deals with Joint Army Emergency Relief, Army Relief Society Air and Force society. Among worthy causes for which Community Chest funds are used are those associated with the holiday season. The Children's party and the giving of Christmas baskets are two such activities. Sponsored by the Chaplain's office, here on the Post, these two holiday functions are considered important to the Army in that they help to assure every

Army family of a joyous Christmas. In explaining the purpose of the Christmas party, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks, the Infantry Center chaplain, said: "During the Yuletide season it is customary for every community to hold such a social activity. It helps to make the children appreciate the place where they live, and adds greatly towards stressing the Christian way of life. Gifts are given as a token of good will towards men, which is the foundation of Christian living." "Fort Benning is a pretty good size community within itself," he added, "therefore, it is the desire of the commanding officer being the individual in charge of the community, that a party be given for the children of the personnel under his jurisdiction. The Christmas party is held each year, during the week preceding Christmas and is offered for the benefit of all Army children whether they live on or off the Post. The program itself is planned and supervised in such a way that each child attending will be impressed with the attitude and in response be instilled with the importance of the Yuletide season, not for that which they receive in the way of gifts, but for the purpose that such a season does exist. As related by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Jenks, the gifts which the children receive are a token of the season, and are offered to the boys of the 8th as performing a two-fold mission at the present time. They feel that they can train here and save life on the other side at the same time. Facts appear to bear out the truth of that statement.

GIs Reach Manchuria

Many Commies Isolated; Enemy-Held Territory Split

SEOUL, Nov. 21 — Tank-supported U. S. infantrymen walked into deserted Hyesanjin on the Manchurian border today. Not a shot was fired. Only the narrow, ice-coated Yalu river lay between them and Red Chinese territory. The troops—of the 17th regimental combat team—were the first Americans to reach the Manchurian boundary. U. S. war planes swooped low over the smoldering, bomb-wrecked town as weary infantrymen slogged the last two miles through snow. The only humans around were 15 villagers, garbed in black. They stood outside the town and bowed low as the unsmiling Americans marched by. Hyesanjin itself was deserted. Buildings that had survived the bombing were boarded up. Commanding generals were jubilant. But the infantrymen who reached the highway and the much-talked-about Yalu river boundary were not impressed. Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Army commander, said the 17th combat team divided enemy held territory and isolated all significant forces east of the 127th meridian longitude. The Communists still have a great network of military highways and railroads in the North Korean Capital area where Korean Red Army were reported reorganized. And strong Red buildups, combined with the heavy winter, brought predictions from United Nations Intelligence officers that the fighting will continue well into next spring. Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, 7th division commander, accompanied his 17th regimental combat team as it slogged down both sides of the mountains to the Yalu river basin near Hyesanjin. Dog-Tired Yanks Dog-tired infantrymen had completed a 20 mile march through knee deep snow and a vanishing enemy to reach the border. Eleven tanks, protected by infantrymen and anti-aircraft batteries, led the column. Col. Herbert B. Powell, commanding the 17th, said Red Manchuria was within easy artillery range, but his guns would not fire across the snow "unless they fire at us first."

Reds Play Rough SOMEWHERE IN KOREA—Marine Lt. Manning T. Jeter pulled his jeep up behind a small ridge and started crawling up to the crest to get a closer look at the enemy he believed to be on the other side. He heard the deafening crack of a nearby weapon and noted the blue flash of an anti-tank discharge overhead. Then he turned over to check on his transportation and saw only the twisted scrap metal of his late jeep. A few days later, Lt. Jeter was finishing a long delayed shave in another valley when a shell dropped on his shaving gear and packed a short distance away. He was left holding the remains of all his personal possessions—a bottle of shaving lotion.

Army Expands CIC Operation

FORT HOLABIRD, Md. (AP)—The Army's Counter Intelligence Corps is being expanded as rapidly as possible and some of its operations are now being made public for the first time. Maj. Gen. John K. Rice, Chief of Counter Intelligence and Commandant of the C. I. C. school here, said recently that the corps must be expanded on a numerical basis with the growing Army. Positive intelligence investigation, as opposed to counter intelligence, is conducted by the Central Intelligence Agency, Criminal Investigation, the general advice is handled by the Army's Criminal Investigation Division. He said their work was so closely related that one often is mistaken for the other. All officers and enlisted men admitted to the school enter as volunteers after proving a proficiency for the service and careful screening. Officers must be at least 24, enlisted men 21. Officers must be college graduates and enlisted men high school graduates. Other desirable qualifications include: knowledge of foreign languages, training in law, economics, psychology, accounting, journalism, criminology, or legal investigative work. They must be American citizens, concern over reorganization of the defense along the North-west front. A MacArthur spokesman said Red armies are organizing a defense system across strategic heights facing the advancing U. S. 1st Corps. This line is about 10 miles north of the present front. It covers about 20 miles in the mountain area between Huchon and Anjang. MacArthur's spokesman said the Reds probably were fortifying the peaks. From these they could dominate highways and rail lines leading north to the border. The spokesman predicted this line probably would have to be attacked frontally. To the west, Reds were establishing blocking positions on hills dominating the flat ground leading to Sinuilu, main entryway for Chinese troops into Korea. These defenses block the UN approach toward the Suifu hydroelectric complex along the Western Korea-Manchuria border, which supplies power to both areas.

Rare Art Exhibit Attracts Over 300 Admirers Sunday

The Far East Command group entertained at the Officers' Club last Sunday, Nov. 13, with a formal tea and an International Exhibit of Art objects, staged under the direction of Mrs. Carl E. Frisby, president of the Wives of the Far East Command group. The success of the exhibit was realized by the attendance of over 300 visitors who called to see the collection and for the social gathering. Tea was served by Mrs. J. Sladen Bradley, Mrs. Loren T. Jenks, Mrs. David H. Finley, Mrs. M. H. Steffen, and Miss Katimba Stallberg. A musical program was given by Mrs. Anne Louise Bornemann accompanied by Miss Kalinka. The entire collection formed an exhibit of rare objects that is seldom seen at one time. There were lacquers, screens, paintings, rare woodcuts, tapestries, figurines, and dogs of all countries. Exhibits consisted of items collected from Okinawa, Japan, China, Holland, Mexico, India, and many other countries. An almost priceless jade scepter just returned from New York, where it was on display at the Metropolitan Museum of Art for six months, attracted great attention. The scepter of spinach (a dark green) jade, is owned by Col. and Mrs. Robert Scruton. Other museum pieces were a pair of Chinese Inari vases the property of Col. and Mrs. Charles Karlstad. One of the loveliest of the exhibits was a gorgeous Venetian silver tray once belonging to the royal family; and a silver engraved Venetian glass wine service. These are the property of Mrs. F. L. Jenkins who also displayed magnificent silver lamps of equal beauty and value, each having a specific importance within itself. Among those who exhibited items were Col. and Mrs. Henry A. Kind, Mr. Frank D. Dudley, Mrs. F. L. Jenkins, Mrs. Sladen Bradley, Col. and Mrs. Davis A. Finley, Col. and Mrs. Charles Karlstad, Col. and Mrs. August Schanze. Col. and Mrs. Halloran, Col. and Mrs. H. Steffen, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Earl, Col. and Mrs. R. J. Yetter, Mr. Otis L. Grauman, Capt. and Mrs. H. J. Whitehouse, Maj. and Mrs. Carl E. Frisby.

Army Desires All Soldiers Personal Affairs in Order

Personal affairs and the importance of putting them in order is stressed by the Department of the Army. The personal affairs and legal assistance expansion program is anxious for all military personnel and their dependents to be familiar with the nearest military advice afforded them concerning their personal problems. All personnel in the Army have certain problems of greater or less importance. Assignments may necessitate service far from home and in places where communication is difficult and facilities for attending to personal affairs are limited. Disability or death may prevent attending personal matters. There are only a few of the reasons why each soldier and his family should be familiar with the importance of caring for such problems immediately. Military personnel should arrange their affairs while in a position to do so and before an emergency. Provisions should be made for dependents insuring against illness and disability which they are entitled. Business and financial matters should be arranged in advance. Documents, such as birth and marriage certificates, insurance policies, deeds, bills of sale, contracts, stocks and bonds, and any other document of value should be put in a safe place where they can be easily gotten when needed. Affairs in order In relating the importance of such matters to the military personal affairs officer, Fort Benning, said "Every soldier should be impressed with the value of having his personal affairs in order. Responsibility on the part of the soldier concerning these matters will avoid suffering on the part of his family once he has been overseas." In addition to putting all important family papers in a safe place where they can be readily had by the soldier in his most important document," Lt. Newman added, "This list should consist of the steps to be taken and give all pertinent addresses of agencies to be notified. It should emphasize that, usually the Army is the first to know of a soldier's death and immediately make charge. However, if the soldier dies at home, on leave, or otherwise away from military control, his survivor need only wire the assistant Commanding Officer at the soldier's home station and then communicate with the nearest military post for a assistance." Matters taken care of by the Personal Affairs and Legal Assistance offices here at Fort Benning, consist of problems dealing with burial; gratuity pay; insurance; pensions; civil service and other retirement benefits; claims; effects; financial assistance; transportation of dependents and shipment of personal effects; special benefits; decorations and awards; loans; hospitalization and medical care for military personnel in the Army and their dependents; along with many other similar services. Emergency Relief The Personal Affairs and Legal Assistance offices of the Army assist in direct contact with the Army Emergency Relief and Emergency Relief societies. Not having any funds to loan for the purpose easing hardships due to situations arising from lack of proper preparation of personal affairs prior to departure for overseas stations, the Personal Affairs officer, contacts the Army Emergency Relief agency, who in turn makes the necessary loan to the family in need. Lt. Newman, acting as both Personal Affairs and Emergency Relief agency officer, said "Many military contingents of soldiers now overseas, for which loans have been made to relieve them of hardships, could have been avoided if the soldier had taken proper precaution to see that his personal affairs were in order prior to his departure." The problem of arranging personal affairs and providing for the family of the soldier is eased considerably for the serviceman. Many of the immediate problems are handled by the Army Serviceman, on his part, should provide for all other matters in a will and by other instructions, revised as often as necessary to keep up with the changing circumstances. Legal advice and assistance on these matters may be obtained at any post or unit from the Army's first to know of a legal assistance officer.

Benning Bandbox

BY MAY PIGOTT

The foreign places of the world such as Budapest, London, Paris, and Athens always spell romance and adventure for those of us that must remain at home. And in our hearts is a hope to some-day be a part of the gay life in those cities.

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to live in those cities—be as familiar with their beauty and daily life as you would your own? Many times I have thought how wonderful it would be to take a trip and spend all the time I wanted in far-away places.

Quite by chance I came upon a very interesting and charming person who was as familiar with those cities as her own home town. In my quest for ideas for this column I was told of this outstanding pianist and called upon her. However, after talking to her I found her life so varied and interesting that I thought perhaps you too would like to hear about it.

Isadora Darnell, the former Isadora de Andrade Falcao, wife of Lt. Col. R. J. Darnell, and a new comer to Benning, is one of the most interesting people I've met in some time. She is a small dark-haired person with a vivid personality, possessing great charm for one so young. Isadora was born in Argentina of Brazilian parents.

I settled my notebook on my knee and began firing questions at her and from the hodge-podge of my notes emerged this information. Her father, at present Brazilian ambassador to Greece, has been in the diplomatic service all her life and so as he moved the family trailer along Germany, Hungary, England all became as familiar to Isadora as her native Brazil.

When she was ten years old she received her first piano lessons and then her talent began to attract notice. All her teachers were private until she was in her teens at which time her father came to the United States and she entered the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. During the summers she spent her time at the Berkshire festival where she had an opportunity to study with some of the great names in music and voice. It was while she was in Boston that she played on the first shortwave broadcast to South America, a cultural program arranged by her father.

In 1944 she accompanied her family to London and in 1946 while she was still in London she joined the Preparatory Commission of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. This organization is a specialized agency of the UN and was created during the San Francisco conference in 1945. She is heartily in accord with the principles of the UNESCO to further the aims of peace in the fields of education, science and culture by making culture accessible to all peoples and by promoting facilities for wider exchange of information in these three fields. Just one month after she joined them, headquarters of the organization was moved to Paris, so she left her family and tagged along. She was placed in charge of the music section and in this job she came in contact with some of the best known and wisest artists in the world.

She was with her father in Greece in 1949 when she met her husband, Lt. Col. R. J. Darnell, who at that time was serving with the Balkan Commission. They were married in March and in June they returned to the states. While she was with her husband at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., she finally resumed her piano studies and practice. Although she has been faithfully continuing her studies she feels that she is not yet in shape for concerts.

She has a wide range of preferences leaning toward the modern in art and music, but has a definite love for Bach and Chopin. At present Mrs. Darnell is serving as chairman of the Literature and Art group of the Woman's club, and as she smilingly told me, is vitally interested in letting people know that Brazil has something besides coffee and the Samba. This very modern and cosmopolitan young woman hopes to carry out the aims of the UNESCO even though she is no longer affiliated with the organization.

Her hopes for the future are to start a school of art, music and dance on the post and has finally succeeded in obtaining a building. So the Bandbox salutes this lady and wishes her success in the UNESCO ideas.

Arts Group Hear Address On UN Panel By Chairman

The Literature and Arts group of the Fort Benning Women's club was addressed by Mrs. E. J. Darnell, chairman, as they held their first meeting of the year, last Monday at the Country club.

The speaker afforded an inspirational talk on her experiences with the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization while working at the Preparatory Commission in London during 1945 and for two years at the General Headquarters in Paris. She explained the organization's development, organization, aims and activities from its beginning with the French delegations' resolution at the San Francisco conference—that peace should be established on mutual understanding between peoples, that it was the United Nations duty to make culture accessible to all peoples and to promote facilities for wider exchange of educational, scientific and cultural information. Mrs. Darnell told how the organization functioned as the instrument within the United Nations.

PFC. BARBARA JEAN KERR

Meet Miss Benning...

Reporting for inspection this week on Meet Miss Benning is Pfc. Barbara Jean Kerr, a favorite daughter of the state of Illinois, who was just out of high school when the urge to serve Uncle Sam prevailed.

Barbara Jean was co-vicelectrix of her class when she graduated and attended leadership school after coming into the Army. After being assigned to Benning, she was a member of the Army Administration school here. At present she is assigned to records section, the Adjutant General's office, TIS.

PFC. KERR HAS A WIDE ASSORTMENT OF hobbies leading off with sports and her first love is a good, fast game of table tennis, followed by a love for horse-back riding. Barbara has a definite flair for dramatics and loves to work on perfecting her technique for humorous readings (which she does very well) and last, but not the least of her hobbies is the clarinet.

Since she loves music so much, she is especially fond of semi-classical and popular music, but when it comes to books, she prefers a gripping historical novel. She loves crisp, tailored lines of sport clothes and loves to choose blue to match her coloring.

BARBARA JEAN MEASURES FIVE FEET seven inches with brown glossy hair, blue eyes, and a cheery smile. Her plans at present include finishing her three years of duty—beyond that she is not decided. However, in her pretty head must be some interesting thoughts perhaps of making a career on the stage and then again, since at this writing she is a single lass, in all probability there is some man that keeps her from deciding definitely just what her course will be when she is no longer a member of the WACS.

Post Hostess Korean 'Vet'

She likes the Army atmosphere, Miss Margaret G. Campbell, who has worked in the corners of the globe—even KOREA—as a service club hostess. Newly assigned to direct recreational activities at Club number 3 in the Harmony Church area, petite, brunette, Margaret Campbell, knows the Taegu area like the palm of her hand having worked in a service club there from February, 1947, to January, 1949, first with the Red Cross and later for the Army. A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, where she received her B. A. in chemistry, Miss Campbell started her hostess career as a volunteer worker at Fort Jackson while taking a post graduate course in music at the University of South Carolina. She worked for the Red Cross in Germany in 1945 and 1946 and was hostess in a service club at Fort Sill, Okla., before coming to Fort Benning. Last year she took "a short tour as a civilian" as a "File Examiner" but "found it dull" and soon returned to Service Club work.

Bridge Meeting

The Bridge group of the Fort Benning Women's club will meet at the Country Club on Tuesday Nov. 28 at 1:30 p.m. The meeting will be arranged for beginning, intermediate and advanced players. Wives of officers newly arrived at the post are especially invited to attend.

Tips For One-Room Living

If your living quarters are so crowded that you've begun to think of having enough space in the same way you dream of acquiring a million dollars, here perhaps is an answer to your problem. Cut down on the amount of furniture you try to jam into your dwelling. This sounds, on the surface, easier said than done. A certain amount of furniture are essential to daily living, no matter how much you may try to pare your belongings to a minimum. The answer lies not in elimination, but in combination. By creating furniture that can serve dual purposes, modern designers have made it possible for even one-room apartments to look at least like a minimum. If your living room must serve as your bedroom, too, there's a portable folding table which may give your home a lift in both efficiency and beauty. The center table can be folded top lifts up to reveal a mirrored vanity section. When the lid is closed, the utility of cosmetic needs is concealed. Another versatile piece is a drop-top table. It's a table that fills the space, usually wasted, between table top and floor. Here table linens or other items may be conveniently stored. Flexible seating arrangements are also a good idea. The trend is away from big cumbersome divans that consume many precious inches of floor space. Now sectional pieces are available which may be pushed together to form sofas, or separated to use as individual chairs.

The Girl Scout Corner

Hello everyone, here we are again. We had our hike on the 28th of October and it was a lot of fun. We went down to the river behind the prison farm. On the way we saw the horse, Blue Star, the jumping champion. Since it was our first hike we got and Barbara Joener were our guides. One casualty, Kay Lou Moore, left her lunch behind at the cabin. There was enough to go around. After the hike, we went to the hospital to decorate for the patient's Halloween party. It was fun, we made spiders, bats and

$364 Received By Poppy Sale

The annual Poppy Day sale was conducted on the post by the Fort Benning Woman's club under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edwin C. Lee. The sales at Lawson Air Force Base were sponsored by the Lawson Women's club. Poppies were sold at the change banks, Infantry school, Officers' Mess, NCO club, Post Office, Toyland, bus station and Lawson Air Force Base. Total sales amounted to $364.87.

The ladies selling poppies were Mrs. P. I. Dal Fante, Mrs. B. C. Deegan, Mrs. Henry Maestri, Mrs. A. C. Tillson, Mrs. C. R. Rucker, Mrs. D. Leonard, Mrs. S. Shore, Mrs. B. O. Turner, Mrs. R. J. TRUOP 14

The five Fort Benning Girl Scout leaders who attended the conference in Miami, Fla., last week will make a fall report to the combined Council and Leaders at a meeting at the Scout cabin on Nov. 13. Dr. Leonard Gilbreth, the mother of the Dozen, was the keynote speaker at this conference and gave an excellent address on "The Girl Scout-A World Minded Citizen." The conference was defended at a mock trial. A trip to Dade County established also. The ladies attending were Mrs. L. W. H. Shaughnessy, Mrs. J. E. Edwards, Mrs. W. J. Call, Mrs. J. L. Pence and Miss Evelyn Oltarzewski.

Miami Report

Our last meeting, we had a report from our Senior Evelyn Oltarzewski on the Miami conference. She certainly learned a lot and made us all wish that we had gone. Maybe next October, some of our troop can go to the National Convention to be held in Boston. We sure hope we can go. We have to get busy for Christmas now, lot of plans, including our roll. We hope you will enjoy our singing. That's about all for now. We wish you all a happy Thanksgiving. By-Bye till next time.

Christmas

them as a character-building gesture.

During the party, children will sing Yule carols with music furnished by the Army band. The Christmas story is read by the chaplain's section, and gifts are distributed.

In addition to the party, giving of Christmas baskets to needy families is considered an important function of the chaplain's section during the season.

Many families, although they may not be in dire need of welfare aid may be faced with some unforeseen circumstances that tends to blacken their Christmas holidays.

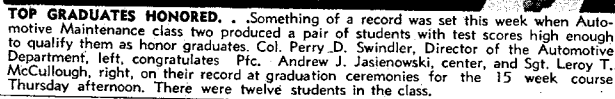

The chaplain's section has certain funds which they set aside for such occasions.

These funds are made up of donations allotted them by the Community Chest. Additional contributions for this cause are received by the donation of the actual merchandise, which is brought in by individuals during the special holiday service held at the Chapel.

Last year 42 families at Fort Benning received baskets. Each of these baskets consisting of enough food to assure the families of a festive Christmas dinner, along with an added supply to help tide them over for a period following the holiday.

In choosing the families to receive baskets, the chaplain's section calls upon the assistance of the unit company commanders, who supply the information concerning the condition of individuals needing help in the respective organizations. In addition to these cases, investigations are made of wives and widows of soldiers who have or are now serving in Korea or other overseas stations to insure that they have a festive meal at Christmas.

Both of these functions handled by the chaplain's section during the Christmas season are dependent on the funds received by the Community Chest.

TOP GRADUATES HONORED. . . Something of a record was set this week when Automotive Maintenance class two produced a pair of students with test scores high enough to qualify them as honor graduates. Col. Perry D. Swindler, Director of the Automotive Department, left, congratulates Pfc. Andrew J. Jasienowski, center, and Sgt. Leroy T. McCullough, right, on their record at graduation ceremonies for the 15 week course Thursday afternoon. There were twelve students in the class.

Sergeant Tells Newsmen Of Communist Brutality

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Who wants to live forever?" Who came from the lips of an Army sergeant as he and a small band of soldiers unanimously and simultaneously attempted a nocturnal withdrawal from enemy Korean forces.

1-Sgt. Charles L. Ingram of West Point, Ga., told of his experiences during a regular briefing of Pentagon reporters here. Also at the briefing was First Lieut. Henry J. McNichols, Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., who related how he was tied to a tree, shot and left for dead by North Koreans.

The forced night withdrawal by the sergeant and his men came about after their company Sgt. Ingram was held prisoner for more than a day, whereas Lieut. McNichols was not rescued for 13 days.

While held prisoner, the lieutenant was forced to broadcast, asking American troops:

"Why aren't you at home with your loved ones?"

The sum results, he figured, were "ineffective." Why? He was broadcasting to an area where he knew only South Koreans were—none of whom could understand a word of English.

Corporal Odom Named Post 'MP of the Week'

In the first of a series, Cpl. Buford J. Odom of Section 1 of the Fort Benning Military Police Detachment, this week was named "MP of the Week" following a right inspection last Saturday by three officers of the Provost Marshal's office.

Odom, a veteran of 12 years service in the Army and the ETO, was selected on the basis of his personal appearance, wearing of the uniform and military bearing. He has been with the organization for nearly three years.

After the inspection Saturday, he was personally conducted by Lt. Col. Kenneth Eckland, provost marshal, to the Infantry School where he was introduced to Maj. Gen. Wilbur A. Burrell, commanding general of the Infantry Center.

Odom will receive a three-day pass as a reward.

Each week hereafter, one military policeman will be selected as "MP of the Week" at the regular Saturday morning inspection. Purpose of the contest is for military policemen of the post to set an example for the rest of the soldiers in an attempt to improve the wearing of the uniform by Fort Benning personnel.

Lovett Says GIs Have Warm Clothes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—When the Yanks out their own supply lines. Lovett gave the Defense Department's views in a letter to Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), what measures are being taken to clothe the troops. From dispatches had said they were "hundreds" of frostbite and frozen feet cases.

"Very few" doughboys suffered from lack of heavy clothing in the bitter cold, he said, and these "isolated cases" occurred

'Heil' Brings Cell

BERLIN — A West Berlin court recently convicted Erich Walthach, 51, on a morals charge, and gave him a one-year suspended sentence. When the judge told him he could go home now, Walthach gave the Nazi salute and shouted "Heil Hitler."

The court changed its mind then and let Walthach stay in jail for three more days, for contempt of court.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY L. KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

As the 1950 edition of collegiate football enters its final round, bids for the major bowl classics have all been mailed out. And although the season doesn't officially end for the majority of the colleges until Saturday, 10 gridiron squads this week were named as possible choices.

This is the way they shape up at least for the time being.

Rose Bowl — Illinois vs California. Each must win its final game in order to make the bowl. Saturday, Illinois plays Northwestern while California will tangle with Stanford.

Sugar Bowl — Kentucky vs Oklahoma or Southern Methodist. It's pretty definite about Kentucky but Sugar bowl officials are waiting until Saturday for the other contestant.

Cotton Bowl — Texas vs Oklahoma or Tennessee. The Longhorns are definitely in.

Orange Bowl — Miami vs Clemson, Tennessee or Wyoming. Clemson looks to be the best possible choice here.

Now on to this week's selections:

THE EAST

ARMY OVER NAVY — In the most important non-bowl game of the year, the Cadets although favored to win by at least seven points won have an easy time with it.

PRINCETON OVER DARTMOUTH — The Tigers by a pair of touchdowns.

VALE OVER HARVARD — Without too much difficulty. Say 13 points.

MARYLAND OVER VPI — Should be an easy one for the Terps.

PENNSYLVANIA OVER CORNELL — After the Quakers' terrific slaughter of the Badgers, we'll say a repeat performance. Big Red in the red 14 points.

PENN STATE OVER PITTSBURGH — In a fairly close one.

FORDHAM OVER NYU — Look for a three touchdown margin on this one.

GEORGETOWN OVER GEORGE WASHINGTON — Easily.

COLGATE OVER RUTGERS — By a pair of touchdowns.

THE MIDWEST

ILLINOIS OVER NORTHWESTERN — When it's Big Ten rivalry it's competition and anything goes. But we'll jump on the Illini bandwagon which is Rose Bowl bound and say Illini by seven points.

INDIANA OVER PURDUE — With several TDs to spare.

OHIO STATE OVER MICHIGAN — Comes now another real test of power. Despite the Ohioans loss to Illinois it'll be the Buckeyes in a close one. The extra point might decide the game.

OKLAHOMA OVER NEBRASKA — Another one marked for closeness.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA OVER NOTRE DOME — It was just a bad year for the Irish and the Trojans' worth help it any.

WISCONSIN OVER MINNESOTA — Eying an invitation to the Rose Classic in Pasadena, the Badgers might better their chances with a decisive victory here which shouldn't be too difficult.

KANSAS OVER MISSOURI — By at least a single touchdown.

THE SOUTH

GEORGIA OVER FURMAN — Despite several injuries in the Georgia line-up, the Bulldogs will take this fairly easy. By at least two touchdowns.

GEORGIA TECH OVER DAVIDSON — It might not be as easy as it looks.

MIAMI OVER IOWA — The weather will be bad for the Hawkeys in sunny Florida when hurricanes turn on the steam.

CLEMSON OVER AUBURN — The Clemson Tigers will be stretching for their ninth consecutive victory this year and Auburn is not the team to spoil their record. Clemson by 18 points.

DUKE OVER NORTH CAROLINA — In a traditional meet, the power laden Blue Devils will have a tough time of it but so will the Tar Heels when All American Billy Cox is on the loose.

MISSISSIPPI STATE OVER MISSISSIPPI — By a pair of TDs.

KENTUCKY OVER TENNESSEE — The Wildcats have managed to aggregate quite a record but only against second rate teams. This will be the big test. The Vols are not easy meat in any mans league.

LOUISIANA STATE OVER VILANOVA — No trouble.

WILLIAM AND MARY OVER N. C. STATE — The margin won't be great here.

VANDERBILT OVER TULANE — Back on victory lane, the Commodores over one TD.

VMI OVER VPI — With two touchdowns to spare.

WASHINGTON AND LEE OVER RICHMOND — Out to cop the Southern Conference, the Generals are also eyeing the Gator Bowl bid.

WAKE FOREST OVER SOUTH CAROLINA — Not to handily.

CALIFORNIA OVER STANFORD — The Golden Bears in a tight one which might decide one half the Rose Bowl question.

ARIZONA OVER IOWA STATE — By a fairly good margin.

ARIZONA OVER IOWA STATE — By a fairly good margin.

WASHINGTON OVER WASHINGTON STATE — An easy one to pick. By two TDs.

WYOMING OVER DENVER — Chalk up another one for the Cowboys.

SMU OVER BAYLOR — The once mighty Mustangs are still rough customers which the Bears will find out. By 18 points.

TEXAS OVER TEXAS A&M — The Longhorns have already bagged the Southwestern Conference title and a chance at the Cotton Bowl so no need to worry about this one.

UCLA OVER SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA — Close.

Lead Regained By Automotive

Motor Keglers In Comeback Over Weapons With 3-1 Win

Collecting three points off their rival Airborne Team No. 1, bowlers of the Automotive climbed back into the driver's seat this week after a short absence which saw the Society lead in the Officer's bowling league change hands twice in as many weeks.

Relinquishing the lead two weeks ago to the troopers, Automotive staged a terrific comeback this week and dethroned the loop-leading Weapons department in the Officer's bowling league.

The troopersmen who split four points with the eight place Army Extension Course team, last Tuesday are at present holding down the runner-up position.

In Section II, it was the same old story as the student officers teams continued to lead the league standings. For the seventh consecutive week student officers of Advance Class I Team No. 2 paced the field with a record of 21 points won and seven lost in 21 games rolled.

Trailing close behind, keggers of Advance Class I Team No. 1 putted hold on the runner-up slot

Nine Tactical Department Officials Win Promotions

Nine officers of the Infantry School's tactical department were promoted last week, the Department of the Army announced.

Advanced to lieutenant colonel were Maj. Harold F. Howard, assistant department executive officer, and James H. Reynolds and Truman D. Echols, Attack group instructors.

Promoted to major were Capt. Donnelly Bolton, Defense group instructor; Richard E. Eggleton, Jr., Armor committee instructor, and Wesley J. Simmons, Thomas F. Hooper and Robert G. Kimball, Attack group instructors.

First Lt. Charles E. Knudsen was promoted to captain.

Colonel Howard recently returned from a five months course at the Air War college and served as an instructor and staff officer in the Tactical department since that time. He is attending the Air Force school here as an instructor in the Attack group.

Col. Reynolds was assigned to the Infantry School following his graduation last July from the Command and General Staff college, and Colonel Echols was transferred to the school from the Third Infantry division last August.

Detachment Men Assigned Duties

Twenty-seven Infantry School detachment enlisted men received new duty assignments this week.

They were Sgt. William G. Hayes and Pvt. John T. Baker, who were assigned to the Company of the 3rd Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga. and Cpl. Donald J. Heizer, who is the oldest dated artifacts found in America so far. Dating was done by the carbon 14 method in which the wood's age is determined by the breakdown of the carbon part of it.

Korea Veteran Gets Telegram From General

Getting telegrams is quite commonplace these days, but when a private first class gets one from a lieutenant general, that's certainly a bit out of the ordinary.

Pfc. John D. Cassidy did just that this week, receiving it prior to undergoing an operation at the Station hospital.

Here's the way it happened: Cassidy and Pvt. Raymond Estep, both wounded in the Korean fighting, were selected to go to Birmingham last week and as personal guests of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, Third Army commander, during Armistice Day celebrations there.

The pay reduction here Saturday night and early Monday morning Cassidy was healed into an operating room for another major job on his injured foot.

Just before the operation he received the wire from General Hodge, wishing him the best of luck and commending him and Pvt. Estep for their fine showing during the Birmingham festivities.

Review Saturday Honoring Colonel

Lt. Col. Arthur O. MacNeely will be honored at a review by the 8th Infantry Regiment Saturday morning, Nov. 25, at 11 a.m. at Tiger Field.

Lt. Colonel MacNeely, retired recently for disability resulting from wounds received in World War II, when he was commanding the 2nd Battalion of the 8th Infantry Regiment.

Music for the review will be provided by the Fourth Infantry Division Band.

Music, Reading New Libraries Offer Diversion at Sand Hill

Branch Libraries No. 2 and No. 3 which have been opened recently in the Sand Hill area for the benefits of members of the famous 4th Division feature all means of enjoyment currently found in Army libraries.

The "old Army" had libraries, of course, but they did not have the same facilities offered by these new libraries. No longer is it strange for a recruit to wander into the music room of an Army library and to subsequently hear gentle strains of music composed by Chopin, Beethoven, and Liszt. In the "old Army" a lover of classical music might have been looked upon as a weakling. Today he is just another Joe who may pursue, off duty, the type enjoyment he wants most.

Library No. 3, located on 14th Street near Bruce Avenue, has approximately 8,000 books. On hand, these include fiction, non-fiction, biographies, and reference works. The library subscribes to a number of daily and weekly newspapers such as the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, Washington Post, Atlanta Journal and many others.

In the library you may also find current issues of your favorite magazines. These include Time, Photoplay, Newsweek, Collier's, Life, Look, and Saturday Evening Post.

If a man tires of listening to music, reading, or writing to the same folks he may put together a crossword puzzle or perhaps play games with other men of similar inclinations.

Branch Library No. 2 is located on Fourth Street across from Service Club No. 2. It has the same facilities offered by Library No. 3. The attendance at both branches has been steadily increasing but it is felt that some men of the famous 4th Division are not aware of the fact that they are most welcome at either library and that their presence is desired by the Staffs. Both libraries are open from 2 p.m. until 10 p.m. daily.

Mrs. Marcia C. Pike is the librarian of No. 3 and Mrs. Phyllis Schwank is assistant. Mrs. Pike was formerly library and visual aids director of the South Carolina Trade school. Mrs. Schwank, a native of Nottingham, England, served as a convoy driver for the British Army during World War II.

The librarian at Branch No. 2 is Mrs. Virginia Valine, 10th Street and Lawyers Lane, Columbus. Mrs. Valine formerly worked at the Officers Club at Fort Deruss, Honolulu, Hawaii. Her assistant is Mrs. Ruth Bondy, formerly of Washington, D. C.

Hospital Lists Visiting Hours

The following schedule of visiting hours for wards at the Fort Benning Station Hospital was announced this week.

Patients in the obstetrical section, Wards B-7 and B-8 may have callers evenings from 7 to 8. Only one visitor at a time will be admitted and this visitor should be the husband or the nearest of adult kin available. Patients with no near relatives in this area may request other adult visitors.

In the Women's Ward, B-6, the scheduled hours are 2 to 4 in the afternoon and 7 to 8 at night. No children under 12 years of age are allowed in this ward.

Visits to the Children's ward, A-6, will be limited to 7 to 8 p.m. Children under 16 years of age are not permitted to visit patients in this ward.

Clearance Needed

Relatives may call on patients in the Prison Ward, Ward 14, on Sundays and holidays from 2 to 3 p.m. after being cleared by the Provost Marshal.

Visiting hours in the Neuropsychiatric Ward, Ward 17, are from 2 to 4 p.m. daily. Guests are limited to adults only and clearance in each instance must be obtained from the Ward Officer.

All other wards of the hospital are open from 9 to 11, 12, 13, 15, A-1, A-2, A-3, A-4, A-5, A-10, A-12, A-13, A-15, B-1, B-2, B-3, B-4, B-5, B-6, C-7, C-8, C-10, C-11, D-4, D-5, D-6, D-7, D-8, E-1 and E-2, 2 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. daily. No children under 12 years of age allowed.

MIAMI, Fla. (APFS) — Mrs. Marjorie Verca Baughman, in a divorce complaint, charged her husband treated her like a child. She gave her age as 15.

Wife of Hero Gives Birth to Son at Post

The wife of the late Maj. John M. Cook, first Columbus officer to be killed in Korea, gave birth to her third child, a boy, at the Fort Benning Station hospital Nov. 3.

Mrs. Cook, the former Miss Carolyn C. Greene, and her baby were reported doing fine.

The seven-pound baby and one quarter ounce infant has been named Daniel Earle. Her other children are Irene, 5, and John M. Cook Jr., 4.

Maj. Cook was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for "gallantry in action" in battle at Taeyong-ni July 16, just a few days after Mrs. Cook had been scheduled to leave to join him in Japan.

USAF Inaugurates New Plan For Officer's Graduate Work

WASHINGTON (APFS) — Regular Air Force officers who have served a year in commissioned status on active duty, and are presently in the grade of colonel or below are eligible for training in graduate fields in civilian schools, under an amended program of SAF training.

The program, amended for fiscal year 1951 and 1952, further requires that applicants normally must not have reached the age of 37 as of the starting date of the course to be taken, and must hold baccalaureate degrees, except in the Nuclear Engineering course and the Air Force Advanced Management course.

The first phase of the program, beginning February 1, 1951, will provide 123 openings in 19 courses. In the fiscal year 1952 there will be 340 openings in 34 courses.

In addition, there are 13 graduate courses available for officers who wish assignment as replacements instructors at the U. S. Military Academy.

18 EM Complete Course in Radio

Eighteen students in the Infantry School's radio maintenance course, class No. 1, graduated last Thursday.

Honor graduate was Pfc. Leon C. Intizki, 30th Airborne Infantry regiment, Fort Bragg, N. C., who made a score of 939 out of a possible 1,000.

Col. Paul Hamilton, Communications department director, was the principal speaker during the exercises.

Graduates were Pfc. William E. Arnold, Sgt. Reinhold M. Bentz, Cpl. Joseph Bodine, Cpl. Wallace R. Carpenter, Pvt. Herchel H. Cook, Pfc. George P. Dole, Cpl. Wesley E. Felton, Cpl. Mack J. Gothia Jr., Pfc. John B. Sussman.

Pfc. Leon C. Intizki, Col. Forest D. Jackson, Cpl. Gordon L. Lang, Pfc. Leo L. Mobley, Cpl. Austin Sims, J. Pfc. Raymond Souza, Pvt. Joe P. Smart, Pvt. William C. Stone and Pfc. Alphen Wynne.

Soldiers Dig Well For Korean Farmer

— With Dynamite

WITH THE SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION IN KOREA — (APFS) — Members of the 23rd Infantry Regiment's demolition squad have discovered a new way to win friends and influence people.

The soldiers, Sgts. John Melinger and Stanley Nelson, both of Olympia, Wash. and Pfc. Robert Ferris of Denver, were instructed to dispose of 50 pounds of captured enemy high explosives.

They buried the explosive in a nearby rice paddy. A South Korean farmer watched curiously as the charge was set off.

After the cloud of dust and smoke had settled, the soldiers and farmer went to inspect the hole. To the surprise of the soldiers, the farmer wasn't angry; instead he jumped up and down with glee.

It seems he had spent years trying to locate an underground spring. The dynamite had turned the trick.

Provisional Group Men Promoted During Week

Promotions for three enlisted men of the Area Service Unit Provisional group were announced this week.

They were Cpls. Gerald W. McOmber and Paul H. Rhodes, promoted to sergeant, and Pfc. Robert C. Gentry, promoted to corporal.

Their Offering — 363 Pints Two Battalions Donate Blood to Post Hospital

Two battalions from the Eighth Infantry regiment turned out last week to donate 363 pints of blood to the American Red Cross blood bank at the Station hospital.

On Thursday, the Third Battalion's Headquarters company and Companies I, K, L and M contributed 164 pints, and on Friday, the entire Second Battalion volunteered. The blood bank could accept only 199 pints, however.

The Red Cross staff was assisted by members of the Fort Benning Ladies Auxiliary, including the following:

NUSSIES AIDES: Mrs. A. Kreck, Mrs. James Kiersey, Mrs. Shuler Shore, Mrs. R. E. Daehler, Mrs. Geo. Poole, Mrs. Paul Hamilton, and Mrs. H. S. Miller.

CHAS. Henry and Mrs. H. H. Goggin, Mrs. Edna Williams, Mrs. E. H. Handley, Miss Diana Pike, Mrs. Isabel Williams, Miss Pat Matheson, Mrs. William Moore.

FIFTEEN WORKERS: Mrs. William Dincer, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. E. Poesum, Mrs. Clara Jackson, Mrs. Bronnie Eggleton, Mrs. C. T. Lanning, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Mrs. R. Turner, Mrs. P. C. Aycock, Mrs. E. C. Lee, Mrs. Irene Taylor, Mrs. Edwin Arnold, and Mrs. McDonald.

KEY LADIES: Mrs. Chas. Crawford, Mrs. Perry Swindler, Mrs. Chas. Nowe, Mrs. Glenn Bradley, Richard Morgan, Mrs. Marshall Bullock and Mrs. McCool.

Two Enlisted Men Are Transferred

Two enlisted men of the Infantry School detachment were transferred this week to other post units, detachment headquarters announced.

Cpl. Arthur R. Short, Company C, was transferred to Company J for duty with the Airborne department.

Pfc. Henry Lakomski, detachment headquarters, was transferred to the 72nd Army Band.

TIS Graduation In Main Theater

Graduation exercises for associate infantry company officers' course No. 1 were held last week at the Main theater.

Nearly 200 students were presented diplomas following an address by Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, commanding general of the Fourth Infantry division.

The graduation opened with an invocation by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks and Infantry Center chaplain, and General Hartness was introduced by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burgess, Infantry School commandant.

Members of the official party were General Burgess, General Hartness, Chaplain Jenks, Brig. Gen. George Honnen, Col. Raymond Hamilton, Col. Sevier-Tupper, Lt. Col. W. A. Dunham, Lt. Col. Bruce Palmer and Capt. John J. Butler.

COLONEL LONG TO CANADA
Lt. Col. Talton W. Long, Airborne Department, will visit the Canadian Joint Air School at Rivers, Manitoba, Canada, next week. Colonel Long will act as official observer attending short course including instruction on Air Transportability techniques.

QUINCY, Mass. (APPS)—Grocer Samuel Jolas hid the day's receipts in a deep freezer. When he died, they were found with $80—cold cash.

Bullets Zip Near As Office Crews Are 'Infiltrated'

Out from behind their desks the "administrators" of the Fourth Infantry Division got a taste of the infiltration course last week.

The officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of General, Special Staff and Division troops went all out to get the "low down" on the actual training that the men of the line units receive.

Crawling under barbed wire, with machine guns chattering overhead and simulated bombs bursting nearby the men were well aware of the current Army policy that decrease everybody must be able to do everything. There are no "prima donnas" in today's fighting army.

The training was under the supervision of 2nd Lt. Michael F. Wright, Infiltration Course, Range One, and Capt. S. J. Eighth Infantry, NCO's firing the machine guns at the infiltration course were Cpl. Edward C. Shail, Hdqrs. company, First Btn.; Sgt. Charles L. McCarthy, company M; Cpl. Edward F. Patterson, company D; and Col. Francis R. Haskins, company H. All of the men were from the Eighth Infantry.

Activities at the course were coordinated by Lt. Green Napier, G-3 section, Fourth Infantry division.

Chest Funds Help Children's School

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles on the activities of agencies which receive either a part or all of their operating funds from the Community Chest. This week's article is concerned with the Children's School on the Post and the special need for funds for that activity.)

Of all the Community Chest supported agencies here at Fort Benning, probably the most important is the children's school.

Many believe that schools operated on military reservations receive all their funds from federal revenue. Actually this is not so, as explained by Col. Charles E. Woodruff, a member of the school fund council, the government considers it a civic problem and feels that school age dependents of military personnel should attend civilian schools in local communities.

Col. Woodruff, said that in the Columbus area this is not completely possible. Mr. Shaw, superintendent of the Columbus school system, has already stressed the fact that they are unable to handle Fort Benning students, which would constitute an extra burden.

At the present time there are approximately 2,500 students of military families enrolled in their schools. These students are either of high school age, for which Fort Benning schools have no classes, or members of soldiers' families living in Columbus. The Baker village school is holding two classes daily in the same room for the second and third grades in order to give everyone an opportunity to attend.

School Growth

The value of helping to maintain schools on the post can best be realized by the growth that has taken place in the past. Additions last year included the opening of the Custer Terrace school, and six class rooms which are being held in the old buildings of the hospital annex area. In addition to these, the Post school board officials deem it necessary to open three new classes in the Benning Parks homes area.

At the present time, Col. Woodruff continued, Fort Benning schools are growing at the rate of 38 students every two months. This situation being caused by the huge number of new army families moving into the area, along with the constant flow of War Babies coming of school age.

Federal funds, received by Post schools are placed on the storage (See CHEST on Page 2).

Post Chatters As Merc Sags To 12 Above

Shades of snowshoes and St. Bernards!

There's many a so-called Northern soldier who will never forget "that freezing weather, at Fort Benning right around Thanksgiving, 1950."

Although the cold snap "snapped" three days ago the largest Infantry Post is still hard at work recuperating from its effects.

Approximately twenty people reported to the Station Hospital over the weekend nursing frozen fingers and toes from exposure to the sub-freezing temperatures.

The teeth-chattering record low temperature of 12 degrees above zero was recorded at the Post Saturday morning at 4:30. It followed a series of sleet and snow storms Friday afternoon heralding whether of the "strictly out of the ordinary" variety.

Water Emergency

Residents of the Fort Benning area were requested to be as conservative as possible in their water needs while repairs were being made in a number of pipes four inches in diameter and under, that had broken because of the extreme temperatures. Because of the low water pressure due to these breaks activities of the Quartermaster Laundry were suspended temporarily.

Half a hundred cars belonging to post personnel received de-frosting treatments for frozen radiators from the Post Exchange Garage and 43 of these had to be "rescued" from roadsides where they had stalled. A record sale of over 500 gallons of anti-freeze was reported.

Benning Visited By Many Officers On Infantry Tour

Fort Benning is playing host to a large and varied group of guests this week.

Coming to the Infantry Center from Washington Monday were Col. Mario Toriello, commander of the Italian Infantry School, and Col. Pietro Mellano, Chief of Training for the Italian General Staff. Colonel Toriello and Colonel Mellano are making a tour of the Infantry School to observe methods and techniques of training. Colonel Toriello will remain at Fort Benning until Dec. 6 but Colonel Mellano will leave Saturday to visit service schools at Fort Sill, Okla., and Fort Knox, Ky.

Four officers from the army of Thailand are completing a two day visit today. Touring the Infantry School are Lt. Gen. Sarit Dhunrajakul, Maj. Gen. Sawai Sanyakorn, Capt. Kaness Atrapadung and Capt. Charnarong Vi-harnadure.

Arriving today from Washington is Maj. Gen. J. M. Gavin, of the Weapons System Evaluation Group, Office of the Secretary of Defense. General Gavin will attend a weapons demonstration and conference at Army Field Forces Board Three tomorrow. He is accompanied by D. Lawrence, from California School of Technology and Dr. Bowles from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, Inspector of Infantry, was visiting the post yesterday and today while making a routine training inspection of the Fourth Division. With General O'Daniel are Col. C. V. Eomley, and Lieutenant Colonel H. C. Delbert, J. L. Strong, L. T. Bondshu and E. Harary. The group came to Fort Benning from Army Field Forces at Fort Monroe, Va.

Now is the time to work for enduring national defense and not later, when the enemy is on the doorstep, according to Defense Secretary George C. Marshall, who spoke here Friday night.

Speaking at a dinner held at the Main Officers Mess in honor of Erle Cocke Jr., recently elected national commander of the American Legion, Secretary Marshall decreed the alternate cycle of strength and weakness in the national defense structure and accused the nation as a whole of displaying "emotional instability" in regard to military preparedness.

Secretary Marshall, Mr. Cocke and a host of celebrities came to Fort Benning Friday afternoon following a homecoming celebration for Mr. Cocke at his hometown of Dawson, Ga.

The speech by the Secretary of Defense climaxed a reception and banquet sponsored by the Georgia Department of the American Legion and the Davis-Daniel Legion post of Dawson in cooperation with Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry School Commandant.

Network Broadcast

During his talk, part of which was broadcast over a nationwide radio network, Secretary Marshall cited Mr. Cocke "as one of the most distinguished graduates" of the Infantry School and commended him on his record in combat during World War II.

In his discussion of the current defense problem Secretary Marshall repeated over and over again the need for an "enduring" system of defense, "a system that will not collapse at every change of wind and temperature, a system that will keep us prepared for any emergency."

The basic error according to Secretary Marshall, has been the attitude of the American people, "their refusal to sanction an enduring posture of defense that would discourage aggression and, if war came, would reduce the casualties, the sacrifices, the

Make Plans Now For Yule Leave

Members of the Fourth Infantry Division are being urged to plan now for their Christmas leave Dec. 23 to Jan. 1.

In announcing the Fourth Infantry Division Christmas leave policy Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, commanding general, suggested that on receiving their pay today division personnel arrange personal finances so each man will have sufficient funds to defray travel costs to his home and return. The General stated that NO partial payments will be made during the month of December.

Commercial transportation representatives will be available in the Fourth Division area to assist the men in solving travel problems, Col. Claude F. Burbach, Chief of Staff, said today. Further arrangements will be announced later.

Tankersley Assigned Company Commander

Second Lieutenant Thomas G. Tankersley assigned to Sixteenth company, Student Training Regiment, as company commander, it was announced this week.

The Sixteenth company, a newly organized unit, is made up of personnel transferred from the Ninth company, Student Training Regiment, which was deactivated last week.

SECRETARY MARSHALL, ERLE COCKE JR., GENERAL BURRESS

Colonel Lucas Departs For Walter Reed Post

Col. Burton L. Lucas, President Army Field Forces Board Three left Fort Benning Monday for assignment at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington D. C.

Colonel Lucas has served as president of the board and for the past three years and prior to that time he was Chief of the Weapons Section at the Infantry School.

Before coming to Fort Benning five years ago Colonel Lucas was stationed in the Far Eastern Command, during World War II he was connected with the Joint Task Force in the South Pacific and later with the 7th Division in the Philippine Islands and also with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

During his 33 and a half years of active Federal service Colonel Lucas has attended the following service schools: the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, N. J., the Company Officers Course at Fort Benning, 1929, the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., the Army War College, in 1938 and the Advanced Course at the Chemical School, the medical school.

Colonel Lucas is entitled to wear the Purple Heart, the Silver Star and the Legion of Merit. He is a native of Bridgewater, Mass.

Replacing Colonel Lucas as board three president, Col. Charles W. Pence, former board three executive officer, the new executive officer is Colonel William B. Moore of the Small Arms Committee.

Storm Areas Digging Slowly Back to Normal

Big industrial centers in the storm-lashed eastern states appeared moving toward near-normal operations.

But the big cleanup job remained in many areas. It looked like a slow and tedious fight before resumption of normal activities in some of the hardest hit sections of the storm belt.

The death toll mounted to nearly 300 from the savage weekend storms which whipped over areas in 22 eastern and midwest states. Damages continued to grow. Un-counted thousands suffered privations. Many still were without heat, electricity or telephones. The damage to property from the snow, winds, sleet and rain was estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

There was no heavy snow or severe cold today to hamper the thousands of workers engaged in clearing huge piles of snow throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio and other areas.

Few Snow Flurries

There were a few flurries in the St. Lawrence Valley and over the Great Lakes area. Temperatures remained below normal from the Missouri Valley eastward but were at or below the freezing mark. The weather bureau said no heavy snowfall was in prospect immediately.

Most of the metropolitan areas in snow-battered Ohio were heading back to near normalcy. But smaller communities, lacking manpower and snow-removal equipment still had to be made to do before getting out from the mountains of snow. Most snow-removal equipment was in the storm caused 64 deaths—tops among the 22 states in the storm belt.

Pittsburgh showed signs of breaking out of the storm-caused paralysis. Mid-town department stores were the first to open since Saturday. Employees also were called back to work in the big steel mills and other industries.

But with more than 29 inches of snow on the ground, the snow-removal problem in the steel city. Only one-third of the city's bus and trolley routes are open. Pennsylvania's storm deaths were 39, including 16 in Pittsburgh.

At Altoona, one of the Pennsylvania cities hardest hit by the storm, most of the city of 84,000 still is without electricity.

The entire New England coast was declared a disaster area. This will enable the hard-hitting industry to apply for Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans to repair vessels and wharves and replace gear and tackle.

The east coast states counted 95 dead from the violent wind and rain storm. The toll included 36 in New York and 34 in New Jersey. Thousands of telephones still were out of the two states.

Food Spoiled

In New York City, inspectors considered $2,000 worth of food that had been spoiled either by flood conditions or lack of refrigeration through electric power cut-offs.

of $131.00 a year per student. This includes all equipment and supplies used by the students as well as the administrative section of the buildings and playgrounds, tuition fees; salaries for teachers and other personnel.

Past experience has proved that the least amount possible on which these schools can operate efficiently is $140,000 per year for each student in attendance.

An estimate of last year's operating expenses for the education of military personnel stationed at Fort Benning showed a total of $111,000. Of which $98,000 was spent here on the Post, while $13,000 was spent for students attending schools in town.

The Community Chest supplied the Fort Benning schools with $19,000 from the contributions received by them this year. This money was used to help with the general operating expenses of the schools; expansions needed; tuition for individuals not able to pay, and buying of new playground and athletic equipment.

Officials of the Fort Benning school board have anticipated that $25,000 will be needed for operations of these schools during the coming year. Indications are that the government will furnish $90,000, which means that $36,000 of the amount needed will have to come from other sources.

In response to this the Community Chest has set a figure of $25,000, for the amount they donate to the Post school fund. This amount is more than fifty per cent of the total contributions they will receive when their goal for the drive is reached.

"The importance of furnishing adequate educations for children here at Fort Benning is not the problem of the government or any other organized group," Col. Woodruff said, "it is the problem of the community."

"To bring out this point more clearly," Col. Woodruff added, "I would like to quote Gen. Withers A. Burress, The Infantry Center commander," who said: "The educating of school age dependents of military personnel stationed here at Fort Benning should be looked upon as a community problem. As the Mayor of Fort Benning I have no power of taxation; therefore, the only way the I can help to support the schools here on the post is through donations by the Community Chest."

In conclusion, Col. Woodruff expressed his desire that all the people included in the Post's annual Community Chest fund drive would respond more generously in the future to enable the Community Chest fund drive which is lagging behind of the goal, will reach its goal of $50 per cent.

Chest Fund Gets $800 in Speedy Processing Here

The latest troops to join the Fourth Infantry Division are fast workers.

The group, who recently returned from duty overseas, spent only one day on duty after their arrival last week and in that short time got completely processed and donated nearly $800 in cash to the Fourth's Community Chest drive.

Most of the men had been without stateside leave for fairly long time and were eager to get through the paper work and be on their way.

To expedite things the men were greeted on their arrival at 7 p.m. by a crack processing team. By 9 p.m. the same day the men had been fed, processed by the team, given partial payments by personnel of the Fourth Division Finance office under the supervision of the Finance Officer, Lt. Col. Arthur A. Cluck, and given leave orders.

The processing team, under the supervision of the Fourth Division Adjutant General, Lt. Col. Glenn Hayes, consisted of Capt. George H. Collins, M-Sgt. Ancil Richards, SFC Joseph Mohan and Sergeant Sam Deaton. Capt. Roddenberry, Herman Miller and James Mathis.

The community Chest Team who collected the monetary donations "on the run" was composed of 1st Lt. Edwin A. Gietzes, 1st Lt. Nathan C. Holden Jr., and WOJG Louis J. Musselman, under the supervision of the Fourth Infantry Division Special Services Officer, Lt. Col. Harvey G. Johnson, Jr.

News Briefs U. S. Thawing Out Following Weekend Freeze

The United States was this week trying to warm itself after one of the worst blizzards in many a year. In Ohio and Pennsylvania industry and business were practically at a standstill. In New Jersey 200,000 homes were without electricity; and in New York many schools were closed, and 80,000 telephones were out. Even the South felt the fury of the raging storm as the Florida Gold Coast reported freezing temperatures, and cities all along the Eastern Seaboard reported broken water mains and telephone and telegraph lines, to say nothing of temperature readings only a few degrees above zero.

Benning's First Black Mark?

Unless everybody digs down deep between now and Saturday, Benningites will have a black mark against their names for the first time in our memory. And all because, as of this week, the Community Chest fund drive has netted only slightly more than $20,000, a far cry from the hoped-for $41,000.

Of course, there may be some units which have failed to make a complete report, but it is extremely doubtful that any unreported amounts would raise the total 50 per cent.

Frankly, we are amazed at the lack of interest shown by Fort Benning personnel during the 1950 drive. It certainly isn't in keeping with the spirit exhibited here during past years, and we hope it isn't symbolic of things to come.

The amount each Benningite has been asked to donate—a half day's pay—is small indeed, when one considers the amount of good it will accomplish. We have tried, in a series of weekly articles, to show how that money will be spent by the agencies whose continued existence is partially dependent upon the Community Chest. But our pleas have apparently fallen on deaf ears.

Fortunately, there is one more payday—today, in fact—which gives us hope that the goal may be reached. We always like to think that everyone is charitable deep inside, regardless of his unbending exterior, and certainly no Benningite should be an exception.

Even though you may never need to call on one of the Chest supported agencies for help, there is always the possibility that some member of your family will. Then, too, there should be some measure of satisfaction in the knowledge that the few dollars you give will help to alleviate someone else's misery.

These are just a few of the agencies which benefit from your contribution to the Community Chest: Boy and Girl Scouts, Army Emergency Relief, Arm Relief Society, Air Force Aid Society, Children's School, the Christmas Party and Christmas baskets, Brat Barracks and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

In addition, Community Chest funds provide the salary for the visiting welfare nurse, and a portion of the money collected at Fort Benning goes to the Columbus Community Chest which helps to support three Servicemen's Clubs, the NCCS Club on Ninth Street and the Armed Forces YMCAs on 11th Street and Fifth Avenue.

We hope that each Benningite will re-examine his reasons for not contributing a half day's pay, and will decide that, after all, the Community Chest is a worthy project, deserving of his support.

Don't let Fort Benning be weighed and found wanting!

'You've Had It' Is All in Fun

We've just completed reading an advance copy of the hilariously funny "You've Had It," or "The Story of Basic Training," authored by Ted Ritter and Bob Gombos. The pocket size cartoon-caption notebook, soon to be available through Post Exchanges, was, according to its authors, created with strict regard for accuracy. Furthermore, it has been carefully checked and approved by the Department of the Army, and carries an introduction by Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, the Army's Chief of Public Information. If despite all this, however, you still find some of the pictures and captions, "slightly" exaggerated, just remember that it's all in fun.

You might even recognize yourself as the sergeant, the second lieutenant or the colonel. And if you've ever had basic training—and you must have at some time or other—you will doubtless recognize Joe, the hapless recruit with the big eyes and too many thumbs. At any rate, it is guaranteed to bring back a passel of memories.

When released, "You've Had It" will sell for 50 cents, a mighty small amount, we're thinking for a whole lot of fun!

Speaking of golf, Groucho Marx said, "I went around in 75. Didn't go around in 76—Valley Forge, you know?" Dagmar, the television sensation (because of her figure), has some silly definitions. A mushroom, she says, is a place where you make love. . . . The Finnish Army sings while marching. Officers insist that singing takes your mind off your feet. . . . Taffy Tuttle, the Broadway showgirl, says she is descended from a long line that her mother once foolishly listened to.

A German said that in any future war he'd like to fight the Russians. "I hate 'em," he explained, "but I'd like to be the Americans' prisoner of war." Oh, for one of those Kentucky breakfasts again: A quart of Bourbon, a pound of beefsteak and a hound dawg. What's the hound dawg for? To eat the beefsteak.

Speaking of the South, comic Joe E. Lewis offers a nursery rhyme: "Old Colonel Hubbard, went to the cupboard, to get himself a hankie. But when he got there, Mrs. Hubbard was bare, and so was some damnyankee."

NEW ADDITION TO THE GREATER FLEET—The latest addition to the Air Force's growing list of helicopters is this Bell H-12 which carries ten persons besides the pilot. The 7000-pound plane, shown here on recent test flight in Buffalo, N. Y., has a cruising speed of 85 mph (top speed is 120 mph) and a range of 500 miles with normal fuel capacity.

STUDY "BLAST" EFFECTS
LOS ANGELES—Increased air pressure or "blast" has long been known to kill and injure people in an explosion. Now the University of California is trying to find out just how much pressure does what damage. Dr. Benoit Cassen is working with rats and mice in a tube in which pulses of air pressure can be developed. He says first damage is bursting of ear drums. Next comes lung hemorrhages, then other internal hemorrhages. Cassen says more work is needed before his data can be adapted for human use.

Benning Handbox

By May Pigott

Much has been written in various papers about the talent now at Benning. We have dealt with pianists, dancers, models and singers. In looking back over the articles I thought there must still be talent that has not been brought before the public, so I started on my quest.

The first artist I found was Mrs. John Hill, wife of Lt. Col. Hill. This young artist paints under a combination of her maiden name and present name, Arnold Hill. She studied at Smith college, Stanford University and the Corcoran Art gallery.

Joan started in with water colors and still life but changed to portrait work later. It was while she was taking post graduate work at Stanford that she started this type of work. In Washington last year, just before she was married, she combined work with study, with the morning hours spent with an insurance company and the afternoon taken up with study. Since she has been married she has diligently continued her portrait work.

Mrs. Hill has had her work exhibited at Virginia State Exhibit at Norfolk and at the Corcoran Art gallery. She is especially proud of the Corcoran exhibit for she was one of about five hundred entries chosen for the exhibit at the annual art show. This exhibit is open to well established artists as well as newcomers. She also won honorable mention at the Womans club are show here at Benning with a picture titled "Waiting Room." It is an unusual study of a tired woman waiting patiently in a waiting room.

She still does some oil portraits but prefers a pastel portrait done with a special kind of chalk and her plans for the winter include specializing in pastel portraits of children.

Shirley Keith, wife of Maj. James Keith, is another talented artist that calls Benning home. She paints under the name of S. Hollingsworth Keith.

She studied at the Newcomb Art School in New Orleans, and is a member of the New Orleans Art Association. She has exhibited at Delgado Museum in New Orleans, at Hattiesburg, Miss., and also at Benning.

She has been painting almost since she can remember and the first type of painting she did was water colors and landscape work. It has just been in the last eight or nine years that she has taken up portrait work.

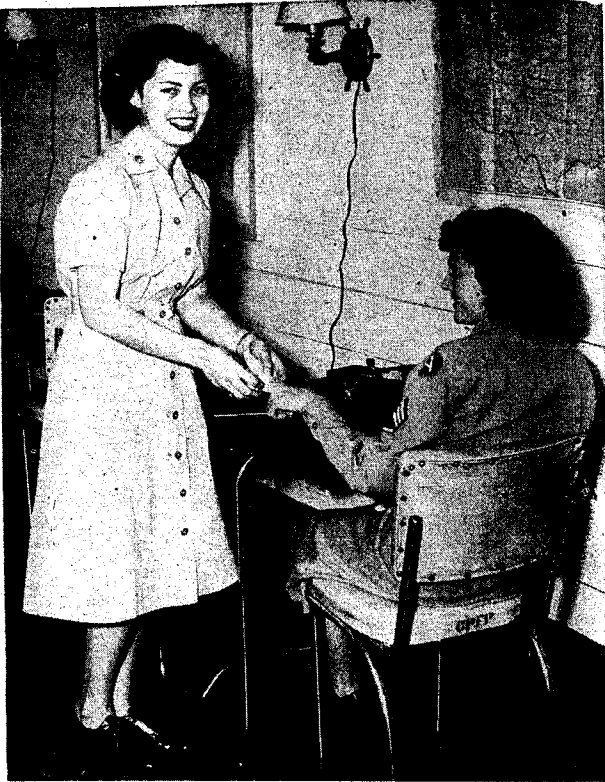

At her home in New Orleans she was making quite a name for herself as a portrait painter, and hopes someday to become really established along those lines. All of her portraits are done in oil. Perhaps her most famous oil is a self portrait which she sent to her husband for a Christmas present while he was overseas.

She is the mother of two children, a boy and a baby girl. The son definitely has an interest in art and when he sees his mother preparing her palette and canvas, he feels that he also should do some painting, and she encourages him along those lines.

Mrs. Keith has done little portrait work since she has been at Benning as she explains her commission for a portrait is a little high and most people feel they cannot afford such a price.

Not wanting to make this exclusively feminine I scoured around to find a male artist and was successful in the person of Maj. Jesse Ugalde. When I arrived at the home of Maj. and Mrs. Ugalde I was amazed at the utilization of space and some of the lovely objects in his living room. From the first, Maj. Ugalde had insisted that he was not a real artist, just one who filled up space, and after viewing some of his space-filling attempts, I thought they were excellent, but I also found that he and his wife had so many ideas that would help to take care of unsightly corners, storage and utilize space, that I kindly consented.

The Major does a lot of wood-work, especially beautiful was the dining room table and several wooden lamp bases, all handwork of his. As most army people they had quite a few trunk lockers which they took and stacked in a corner, covered them with material similar to the couch and topped them with plywood—result, the nicest corner table plus storage of lockers. Another item of interest was the glass coffee table made of a plate of glass set on a wooden base, then the owners initials in wood with another plate of glass to top it all. Maj. Ugalde pointed out that when an army family moves the coffee table could be disposed of in no time. Also note-worthy was the book case made from curtain rods with glass shelves and attached to each end of the mantle piece. At the present, the Major is working on the plans for an over-sized tea table to make entertaining easier for his wife.

Meet Miss Benning...

California furnishes us with our next "Miss Benning" in the attractive person of Pvt. Mary Enebrad, who was a student at the College of the Pacific in her home town of Stockton, Calif., before becoming a member of the WACs.

Mary has had a number of jobs since her arrival here and at present she is a Surgical Technician at the Station hospital and is very much interested in her work.

Pvt. Enebrad is a favorite around the barracks especially when somebody cuts a finger or gets a scratch on their hand because she is already handy with a first aid kit and gives almost professional service. She has an assortment of hobbies which are mostly along the quiet, restful lines. First and foremost with her is reading, and in connection with reading is her love for poetry and she has quite a collection of favorite poems she has collected during the years. For her more strenuous hours of relaxation Mary chooses swimming.

SHE IS AN AVID MOVIE FAN WITH heavy dramatics and historical pictures holding

Miss Jessie Honnen Married At Benning Chapel Thursday

The wedding of Miss Jessie Stillman Honnen, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George Honnen, and Lt. Charles Francis McCarty, Jr., was beautifully solemnized Thursday at five o'clock in the afternoon at the Infantry Center chapel. Chaplain (Capt.) George Schumacher read the marriage vows.

Lt. McCarty is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. McCarty of Long Island, N. Y.

The lovely chapel was decorated with white chrysanthemums, gladioli, ferns and burning tapers.

John Miller, organist, presented the musical music. He played "Liebestraum," "Meditation" from Thais, and "Ave Maria." Capt. Thomas G. McCunniff was the groom's best man and the groomsmen were Lt. Granville Rouillard, Capt. James M. Morris, Capt. George E. Wear, Lt. Albert E. Ives, Lt. Robert Phillips and Lt. Sheppard Booth. Mrs. George E. Wear was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was of gold satin with a matching sash, cloche and she carried a round muff of pleated gold satin on which was pinned a pale green orchid corsage.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas G. McCunniff, Mrs. James Shanahan, Miss Helen Moore and Miss Betsy Mathias of Washington, D. C., first cousin of the bride. Their satin gowns were similar to the matron of honor's, in shades of blue ranging from palest blue to deep marine blue with matching cloches. They carried muffs of matching satin on which were pinned corsages of pale yellow roses. All the bride's attendants wore arm length white kid gloves, the gift of the bride.

The bride entered the church with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a gown of heavy ivory satin, designed with a tight pointed bodice, full skirt which formed a cathedral train. She wore a full length heirloom veil of exquisite point de venise lace worn by her grandmother. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls worn by her sister, Mrs. George Wear on her wedding day and carried a bouquet of white orchids.

The bride's parents, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Honnen entertained with a reception following the wedding at the Officers' Mess. In the receiving line were the bride and groom, the wedding party, Gen. and Mrs. Honnen, Dr. and Mrs. McCarty, the groom's parents and Mrs. Peyton, of Atlanta, grandmother of the bride.

Mrs. Honnen chose for her daughter's wedding a dusty pink tulle with long sleeves, brown satin accessories and brown orchids.

Following the reception, Lt. and Mrs. McCarty left for Sea Island, Ga. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue checked suit dress with deep red velvet trim, matching red hat, navy shoes and coat, and a white orchid corsage.

Guests from out-of-town were Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. McCarty, parents of the groom, Miss Mary McCarty and Miss Helena McCarty, sisters of the groom, Mrs. Ephraim Geoffrey Peyton, of Atlanta, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Norman A. Mathias of Washington, D. C., aunt of the bride and Miss Virginia Barton of Orange, New Jersey.

Honnens Entertain At Dinner Party

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George Honnen complimented their daughter Miss Jessie Stillman Honnen and Lt. Charles Francis McCarty at a formal dinner party Wednesday evening in the East lounge of the Officers' Mess following their wedding rehearsal.

The dinner table was beautifully appointed with a basket arrangement of colorful autumn fruits and leaves arranged on the long table. Miss Honnen was lovely in a blue silk taffeta short dinner dress.

Covers were laid for Miss Honnen, Lt. McCarty, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. McCarty, and Miss Helena McCarty of Long Island, N. Y., Mrs. E. J. Peyton of Atlanta, Miss Virginia Barton of Orange, N. J., Miss Betsy Mathias of Washington, Col. and Mrs. August Schanze, Col. and Mrs. D. A. Fry, Col. and Mrs. Herbert Karlstad, Capt. and Mrs. George Wear, Capt. and Mrs. Thomas G. McCunniff, Capt. and Mrs. James Shanahan, Lt. Joe Stark, Lt. and Mrs. A. E. Ives, Lt. and Mrs. Robert Phillips, Lt. and Mrs. Sheppard Booth, Lt. and Mrs. J. Granville Rouillard, Bud Hinton, Mrs. Katherine Olson, Miss Helen Moore, Lt. Richard Slauffer and Gen. and Mrs. Honnen.

New Type Medical Unit To Control Pestilence

WASHINGTON — (APPS) — A preventive medicine unit of company size, first of several like organizations now being formed by the Army Medical Service has arrived in the Far East for duty in Korea.

Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, Army surgeon general, recently described the new unit as an "advance" unit which played a key role in the Southwest Pacific during World War II.

Miss Virginia Timberman Bride Of Lt. Callaghan Here Friday

An impressive military ceremony marked the marriage of Miss Virginia Charlotte Timberman, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas S. Timberman, and Lt. John William Callaghan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Callaghan of Lawrence, Mass., which took place Friday evening at eight o'clock at the Infantry Center chapel. Chaplain (Capt.) George M. Schumacher officiated at the ceremony.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums in tall vases intermingled with burning tapers in branched candelabra.

A program of music was presented by Mrs. Zella Osborne, organist. She included in her selections "Meditation" by Liszt, "Liebestraum" and Schubert's "Serenade". During the ceremony she played "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus" by Franck.

Capt. Eugene F. Callaghan, Jr., USAF, of Washington, D. C. was his brother's best man.

The groomsmen were Lt. Donald Callaghan of Columbus, Ohio, brother of the groom; Capt. James Shanahan, Lt. Thomas Gresham, Lt. Thomas Pardue, Lt. Robert Patterson and Lt. Alvin Futrell.

Miss Mary Agnew Howland of Columbus was the bride's maid of honor and Mrs. James McKinley, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marian Callaghan of Lawrence, sister of the groom; and Mrs. James Shanahan.

All the bridal attendants wore identical gowns of gold brocade designed in ballroom style. They wore matching caps and carried bouquets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a richly styled, with net yoke outlined with a bertha, edged in seed pearls, long pointed sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt forming a train. Her full length veil of rose point lace and she carried a spray of gardenias and orchids.

General and Mrs. Timberman entertained with a reception at the Fort Benning Country Club immediately following the ceremony.

The couple left during the evening for a wedding trip to be planned en route. For traveling Mrs. Callaghan wore a bronze tweed checked suit trimmed in dark brown velvet with brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

Honoring their daughter and Lt. Callaghan, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas S. Timberman entertained with a buffet supper at their quarters following the wedding rehearsal on Thursday.

A Thanksgiving motif was carried out in the decorations. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Callaghan and Miss Marian Callaghan of Lawrence, Mass.; Capt. E. F. Callaghan, Jr., and Lt. Donald Callaghan of Washington, D. C.; Lt. Robert Patterson, Miss Bertrice Fiske of San Diego, Calif., the honorees and the hosts.

The visit to USAF installations was arranged as a part of the MDAF Training Program to Italy, and will include orientation in USAF training and supply techniques and procedures.

The group will end their visit in Washington on November 29 following meetings at U. S. AF Headquarters. Accompanying them on their U. S. visit will be Colonel Ernest L. Clough of USAF Headquarters.

Russia Opposes U. S. On Jap Peace Pact

MOSCOW — Russia on Thursday revealed sharp differences with U. S. suggestions for provisions of an early Japanese peace treaty.

The Soviet press published an exchange of notes between John Foster Dulles and Jacob A. Malik, American and Soviet delegates, respectively, to the United Nations. Western diplomats here said the notes showed fundamental and far-reaching disagreements between the United States and the Soviet Union on the Japanese treaty question.

Colonel Newkirk Departs Service Here Tomorrow

After World War I, Colonel Newkirk continued his career as a reserve officer, becoming a lieutenant colonel in 1927. He was recalled to active duty in 1942, serving in Alaska where he took part in the Attu campaign.

The decorations Colonel Newkirk wears are the Bronze Star, Commendation ribbon, Mexican Border, World War I Victory, German Occupation, American Theater, Asiatic - Pacific, World War II, Japan Occupation and the British General Service.

Colonel and Mrs. Newkirk plan to remain in Columbus until May when they will return to their home in Indianapolis, Ind.

Battle-Wise Vet Advocates More Realism in Instruction

By CPL. PAT MURPHY WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION IN NORTH KOREA, Lt. Laurer, a youthful 1949 Infantry School graduate, veteran of Korea's bloodiest action, asserts that the backbone of a powerful Army will be rooted on "armor, discipline and implementation of more polished battle techniques."

Lt. Ellsworth P. Lauer, 23, who graduated from the Associated Basic Officers' Course in 1949, also declared that a better understanding of the enemy's prowess among all American troops will reap more conclusive victories.

"From what I've seen here," the two-year Army veteran from Chicago said, "I believe we would do well to orient all troops on the techniques of our potential enemy, whether we are at war or not. If war comes, everyone — down to the least experienced infantryman — will know what to expect and how to combat the enemy's tricks."

Lt. Laurer, who is a platoon leader in the First Cavalry Division's 16th Reconnaissance platoon, pointed out, in addition, that basic training for Army recruits "should be based on more realistic tactics."

He said, "there is a tendency to instruct soldiers in the more theoretical aspects of warfare, and therefore, when a man enters the army, he must be able to follow school solution."

"On the battlefield, it's too late to teach the way and therefore, of how to fight an enemy. It should be learned before battle."

Of armor, Lieutenant Laurer declared: "We know that some of our armored weapons are below those of the enemy. As

FORT BENNING'S BROWNING FAMILY Mrs. Browning, Sergeant Browning, Gail, Frankie, Paul, Baby Donald With 'Mom'

Family Portrait

Peaches Gift Played Role In Sgt. Browning Romance

Grandmother Shelton looked at her four grandchildren and said "My goodness, funny what some green peaches will do." Romance takes a funny turn sometimes, and some odd things have been known to start the great romances of history but hardly anybody would think of green peaches as being romantic. Young Ralph F. Browning thought they were just the thing to bring to his girl-friend, dark-haired Julia Shelton, and that started the present day family of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Ralph F. Browning.

Young Ralph had been watching Julia for some time and one day when he was going swimming he saw the green peaches so he took some to her, and all through high school they were sweethearts, but the old saying that "true love never runs smooth" applied to them too. At one time they both were engaged to other people. Sgt. Browning heard she was planning to marry another so he took matters into his own hands and rushed home and after much persuading talked her into marrying him. The reason for her hesitation was that she did not think she would like to be in the Army but since she married an Army man she has changed her opinion.

THE BROWNING'S HAVE four children, with dark haired, dark eyed Gail holding the place of honor as oldest in the family. She is twelve years old and is in the seventh grade at school, and hopes someday to be a trained nurse. She is a little shy and not very talkative, but has lots of friends. Gail is a former member of the Girl Scouts but feels like she cannot devote as much time to them as she should.

Eight year old Frankie comes next and is in the second grade at school. He is very different from his sister having sandy hair and brown eyes. He makes friends easily but is very quiet and his one aim when he is grown is to be an M.P. Then comes the live wire of the family in the person of Paul, all of three years old, and much disgusted that he cannot go to school like his brother and sister. Things just naturally happen to Paul and you never know just what it will be next. At the present he has a beautiful wound on his forehead where he fell from a swing and hit the concrete. Right now he is concerned with the decision of whether to be an M.P. or a policeman.

Then to round out the family is blonde, blue eyed baby Donald, ten months old and not interested in the preceding except to use this writer's finger to gnaw on to help those troublesome teeth. Sgt. Browning, who is Property Sergeant for Central Post, served overseas during the last war in the European theater, while Mrs. Browning stayed in the States for the war and the Brownings have called Benning home since 1948 and have lived in their new quarters since they were here.

Famed Magicians Playing Benning Shows, Dec. 4, 5

Hold on to your hats, boys, here we go again—the rabbit will jump out of the proverbial silk hat. Things will not be what they seem when Gene and Jo and Co., those internationally known ether-outers of that old black magic and who are making a barn-storming tour of the Army and Navy Bases hit Fort Benning for a two-day stand. On Monday, Dec. 4 they will be seen at Theatre No. 7, Sand Hill, Dec. 5 at 7 p.m. at the Recreation Hall and a concluding show at the Main Post theater at 8:30 p.m.

Assisted Thurston Gene and Jo were assistants to the great magician Howard Thurston and are a favorite among the men in the armed forces. This year being their ninth successive season playing exclusively with the Army and Navy. Acclaimed as one of the best purveyors of legerdemain this side of Suez, Gene and Jo add extra novelty to the program by carrying a group of Mexican Chihuahua dogs, the smallest dogs in the world. This is a fast-moving and well costumed show. It is known for its variety of style and is chucked full of laughs, comedy for those who like to be tickled, magic, for those who like to be mystified.

There you have "Gene and Jo" Magicians extraordinary. If you think your eye is quicker than their hands, come and be fooled. It's sock entertainment in a mysterious sort of a way. Want fun? See Gene and Jo.

Chest Fund Lags As Leaders Spur Effort at Post

Contributions to the Fort Benning Community Chest Fund drive have passed the $20,000 mark but are lagging, it was announced this week by Col. Charles E. Woodruff, Chairman. Campaign goal is $41,000. "As the drive nears the Dec. 2 deadline it is only within 50 per cent of reaching its goal," Col. Woodruff said. "That means that many of the agencies that are to receive help from the Chest fund next year will either have their share cut considerably or be without any aid from the Community Chest."

"If it is necessary to make such adjustments in the distribution of the Chest fund," Col. Woodruff added, "those organizations that deal with education and emergency aid will have top priority. But even these agencies will suffer considerably in the amount that they will receive, and as a result will have to make their own adjustments. The other organizations will be provided an allotted amount accordingly, with the possibility of some groups not receiving any aid at all."

In making the announcement, Col. Woodruff said, "I am still in hopes that some organizations that are presently lagging behind in their unit quotas will come in at the last minute with a large final donation. Should this happen," he added, "the Chest fund drive will leap forward and possibly cross the finish line of Dec. 2, with a 100 per cent for the completion of the drive."

At the present time the four units leading the drive in contributions are The American Red Cross, 103 per cent; Student Training Regiment (cadre), 89 per cent; Infantry School, 88 per cent; and the Provisional Medical Group, 72 per cent.

U.S. Reveals Living Costs Hit New High

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 — The government's cost of living index yesterday rose to a new all-time high. Nearly a million workers whose wage contracts are tied to the index will receive a pay hike of two to three cents an hour.

The new index, covering prices as of Oct. 15, was 174.8 per cent of the 1913-19 base period, an increase of 0.6 per cent since Sept. 15. It was 0.2 per cent higher than the previous peak of 174.5 in August and September, 1948.

General Motors Corporation, first of the major auto manufacturers to adopt the cost of living formula for its workers, announced immediately that 377,000 hourly-rated workers will receive an additional three cents an hour. The boost will be effective with the first pay period beginning after Dec. 1.

Approximately 80,000 GM salaried workers will receive an additional $15 for their allowance for the period between Dec. and next March 1, to be paid at the close of the quarter next March.

Red Cross Sets $85 Million Goal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 — The American Red Cross, facing heavy new demands as a result of the defense program, set a goal of $85 million yesterday for its 1951 fund campaign, starting March 1.

Gen. George C. Marshall, president of the organization, said in announcing the increased goal, "The total resources of the Red Cross must be mobilized for defense of our homes, our communities and the nation in the interest of security and world peace."

BOY SPARED, PONY DIES DEPLAND, Fla. — Joel Strawn, 12, escaped death, but his pony was killed when he rode into a dangling electrical wire downed by a hurricane. Apparently, Joel was thrown from the pony before the animal was killed.

Worried Solons Call For Korea Showdown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 — Desperately worried lawmakers called yesterday for a quick United Nations showdown on the critical Korean war situation. Without much prospect they can act effectively themselves, Senators asked Secretary of Defense Marshall — or some top aide, if he can't come — to tell the Armed Services committee about the military outlook as a result of Chinese Communist pressure.

Threats that four American divisions might be overwhelmed provoked a flood of proposals for dealing with the situation. Some suggested use of the atomic bomb.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) told the Senate yesterday that the United States should "back Russia with an ultimatum to get Chinese Communist troops out of Korea. He said the Chinese Reds were the "agents" of Russian masters and failure to issue an ultimatum would condemn this country for lack of courage.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said in a broadcast Tuesday that the danger of a new world war is greater now than it was two weeks ago but he still is hopeful it can be avoided.

The possibility of A-bomb use was reported to have been discussed at a meeting of the House Foreign Affairs committee yesterday with Secretary of State Acheson. High defense officials said, however, there is no consideration now of A-bomb use. In discussions with the Senate foreign relations group, Acheson was reported to have told legislators that the United States might grow out of the Korean conflict brought a foreign policy war with Communist China.

Other criminal investigation laboratories are located in the European Command at Frankfurt and in the Far East Command in Tokyo. These laboratories are equipped to handle cases dealing with questioned documents, fingerprints, firearm identification, blood and body fluid analysis and microanalytical work.

Guilt Or Innocence Investigators, both military and civilian send evidence to the Camp Gordon laboratory. The laboratory, under the direction of Major D. Dingler, a graduate of the University of Hawaii and the Military Police school, is divided into sections dealing with major types of scientific investigation work. Each section is headed by a court-qualified expert in that particular field.

CAREER GIRL ... Marine Pvt. Lillian Benson began her military career with the WAVES, and is now the only woman Marine taking training at Parris Island, S. C., who saw combat area duty in World War II. As a WAC she landed in North Africa a week after the invasion. Her home is in Bayonne, N. J.

Highly-Trained Personnel Serve Army's 'Crime Lab'

"Crime does not pay" is an old adage, and those who can testify best to the truth of this statement are not the criminals themselves, but, on the contrary, are members of one of the U. S. Army's most efficient organizations, the Provost Marshal General Criminal Investigation Laboratory, located at Camp Gordon.

A heavy workload is usually carried by the Physicochemical and Microanalytical section. An important adjunct of the Physicochemical section is the RD-3 X-Ray diffractometer, which is capable of analysis of any questioned substance using the Ray diffraction principle. Examinations conducted on this device are accomplished without destruction of the submitted sample. The RD-3 is one of several machines of its type known to be in existence and is a most potent weapon in the field of criminalistics.

This section is headed by SFC Roswech, who holds a master's degree in chemistry from Columbia University, and who is the proud possessor of a Phi Beta Kappa key. In addition to his civilian background, Sgt. Roswech has had seven years military service and was formerly in charge of five clinical laboratories in the Pacific during the last war.

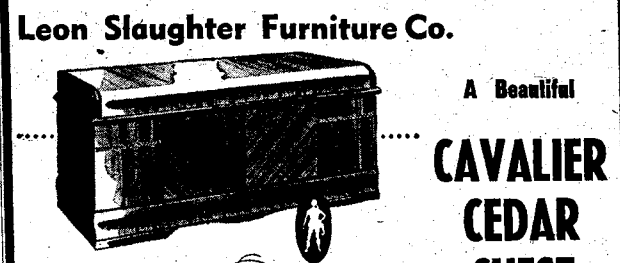

In the Firearms Identification Section a complete file of bullets, cartridge cases and other weapons of all types is maintained. Identified or cartridge case may be charged in a particular weapon examination under a comparison with a bullet or cartridge case known to have been fired in the suspect.

Photography Vital The latest comparison microscopes and bullet recording chambers are standard equipment in this section. Captain J. J. Corr, former Executive Officer of the Army's Criminal Investigation Laboratory and a U. S. Bureau of Prisons expert in civilian life, is in charge of the Firearms Identification section.

Photography of course, figures in recording evidence and tests conducted in each of the other sections of the laboratory. The Criminal Investigation Laboratory has its own photographic cameras, and developing laboratory. Each piece of evidence submitted to the laboratory is photographed to preserve a complete record of the condition in which received and a photographic record is made throughout the conduct of the examination. Infra-red and ultra-violet photography is often used to bring out evidence which would not normally be adduced through other means. SFC D. A. Carwood is the photographic expert and assists in the Physicochemical section.

In overall charge of the technical forces of the Criminal investigation laboratory, and an expert in many of the fields, is Captain G. R. Bird. Capt. Bird is a veteran of fourteen years military service and 22 years with the Highland Park, Mich. police department, from which he is still on leave as a lieutenant of detectives in charge of the Identification section. Capt. Bird has the distinction of setting up the first criminal investigation laboratory in foreign efficiency and company standing. Sergeant Doty is attending to the office maintenance course. His home is in Fort Worth, Tex.

French Land Troops in Korea

PUSAN, Korea, Nov. 29 — (INS) — One thousand tough French troops landed at Pusan in southeastern Korea today armed with their own type of tanks which they hope to use soon against the Communists.

The first French ground force to arrive for the United Nations Korean effort went through the usual greeting ceremonies—three military bands and pretty Korean flower girls greeted them.

But the Frenchmen talked most about their tanks. They are proud of it. They think it is the best in the world.

The man French troops cheered their popular commanding officer from the Acheson II when they saw him standing on the deck waving them: He had arrived earlier.

They had good reason to cheer. This man was the famed "General Moncler" of the Maquis—Partisan French forces who operated in occupied France.

Company G is part of the Second Battalion Combat Team of the 325th Airborne Infantry now on temporary duty here from Fort Bragg, N. C., to perform tactical demonstrations for the Infantry School.

The company was selected to go to Dawson because of its outstanding record in every garrison activity during the past three months under the command of Captain McLaughlin.

The 122 Army Band is a recently Federalized National Guard Unit from Cleveland, Ohio. Long rated as one of the best National Guard bands in the United States, the band is under the direction of CWO William R. Trembath.

Soldier Dies, Second Victim Of Post Crash

A second victim in a truck collision at Fort Benning Monday died at the Post hospital at 4 a.m. yesterday, the Public Information Office announced.

The officials identified him as Cpl. Parker L. Baker. He and his wife reside at 1923 Seventh Street. He was coming from Kenton, Tenn. His father, Ben Baker, lives at Dyer, Tenn.

The first fatal crash of the mishap was Rct. Charles Funkhouser, who died about 45 minutes after the truck, driven by Pvt. Ralph G. Selleck, overturned after being struck by another vehicle driven by Cpl. Charles W. Farrell.

Fifteen other men were injured.

Five Officers Promoted In Infantry Class Two

Five officers of the Second company, Advanced Infantry Officers' Class No. 2, received promotion last week it was announced.

Promoted from captain to major were Frederic E. Davidson, Rodney C. Clark, Paul E. Kennedy, Winthrop G. Miller and William B. Scruggs Jr.

Officials have announced that the Advanced class No. 2, will give a tea dance buffet, offering their guests an entertainment to be held at the Officer's mess on Dec. 3.

Two Area Service Unit Officers Transferred

Transfer of two Provisional group officers was announced this week.

They were 1st Lt. James A. V. Johnson, 660th Transportation Truck company, who was transferred to Headquarters and Headquarters company, 112th Transportation Truck company, and 2nd Lt. Frank D. Vedder, 140th Transportation Truck company, to the 660th Transportation Truck company.

NCO CLASS IN 7th WEEK

Infantry non-commissioned officers' weapons course No. 2 has entered its seventh week of instruction. Students are attached to Ninth company, Student Training Regiment.

Services To Get 3 Million Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 — The defense department adopted a new mobilization timetable today calling for huge appropriations to bring the armed forces to 3 million men within six to eight months.

High defense officials at the same time expressed confidence that a solid United Nations defense line can be established soon across Korea's narrow waist to halt Chinese Communist forces pouring out of Manchuria.

A "quick buildup" of the armed force—one step short of full mobilization, and based on a belief that a general Asiatic war can still be averted—was recommended by Defense Secretary Marshall as soon as he received full reports of the Chinese offensive.

Defense officials said that President Truman has approved the new program, and that it will be shortened by nearly two years if the previous timetable for reaching 3 million-man strength, they said these results may be expected:

1. Between 18 and 20 billion dollars in new military appropriations will be required from the lame duck Congress, instead of 10 to 15 billion as previously planned. The annual defense bill will exceed 45 billion dollars.

2. Changes in the draft law to make more men available will be requested next year. A buildup to 3 million men will nearly exhaust the present pool of draft eligibles.

3. As soon as training camps can be provided, draft calls will soar well above 100,000 per month. Besides building to 3,000,000 from their present 2,000,000 men, the armed forces estimate they will need 700,000 men per year to replace reserves and later draftees completing service.

A groundwork for the new military program was laid yesterday in day-long top level conferences at the White House and Pentagon.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff sent word to congressmen advising them to "remember the Bulge" and not to regard the Korean military situation as anything approaching a debacle.

The general pointed out that things looked dark for the Allies on the second day of the Bulge, and said "if we had quit then, we would have made a serious mistake."

Other military sources declared that the United Nations forces now in Korea are sufficient to establish a defense line above Pyongyang and Wonsan.

PROMOTED TO CORPORAL

Pvt. Richard McIntyre, attached to Seventh company, Student Training Regiment, from the 516th Ordnance Medium Automotive Maintenance company, has been promoted to corporal.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY L. KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

With the end of the 1950 gridiron season only a matter of a few days off, sports talk naturally centers around the traditional bowl games. And though with the exception of the Cotton Bowl, the issue of which teams will meet in the major New Year's day classics is officially unsettled, it is pretty definite as to which teams could be any one of the trips.

In the favorite Rose Bowl at Pasadena, it looks like it will be Michigan and California. The "Johnny come lately" Wolf pack which wrapped up the Western Conference title by upsetting powerful Ohio State last Saturday, all but packed their bags and bought their train tickets when Northwestern tumbled mighty Illinois.

Although the Golden Bears did not fare too well in last weekend's meeting with Stanford, the experts never the less have agreed that California will receive the other bid.

Here in the South, the only thing definite is Kentucky. They are New Orleans-bound. The opposing Sugar Bowl team is still unknown, but Oklahoma has been whispered as it. However, Sooner coach Bud Wilkinson has made it known that he will not consider any bowl invitations until after the Oklahoma-Oklahoma A & M fracas this coming week-end.

If the 30-game winning Sooners decline this offer, undefeated Wyoming and Clemson are possible choices. However, an Oklahoma - Kentucky contest might prove to be the better game since both teams have been rated tops all during the season.

Down the Rio Grande way, it will be Texas and Tennessee in the annual Cotton Bowl. The Vols have always made it a point to vie in one bowl or another and this one ought to provide some rough opposition.

In the Orange Bowl, Miami is a sure-fire recipient for one invitation. But the question of who will be on the other side of the mid-field marker remains to be answered. Oklahoma has again been mentioned, and so has Wyoming, Clemson, Alabama and Fordham. The answer to this riddle is expected to be announced this week.

So without further ado, let us drag out the ouija board and focus our attention to these week offerings, the last of the Mobeians.

THE EAST

ARMY OVER NAVY—With rivalry such as this anything can happen, and usually does. Picked a seven - point favorite by the experts, we say the Black Knights from the Hudson by 14 points.

FORDHAM OVER SYRACUSE—The Rams have had a very successful season and with an eye glued on the Orange Bowl they will continue to do so. Say seven points.

HOLY CROSS OVER BOSTON COLLEGE—Out to avenge last year's 76-0 slaughter, the Crusaders will eke out a close one. By at least one touchdown.

MARYLAND OVER VPI—The Terps have been as unpredictable as has been the season, but VPI hasn't shown much for their efforts this season. So we'll call it a TD victory.

NORTH CAROLINA OVER VIRGINIA—It won't be an easy one for the Tar Heels. Mark this one down close.

WILLIAM & MARY OVER RICHMOND—Another one earmarked for tightness. This one could just as well be a toss up.

VILLANOVA OVER ST. MARY'S—By a pair of touchdowns.

THE SOUTH

GEORGIA OVER GEORGIA TECH—In a traditional meet, the rivalry will be stiff. But, never the less, it will be a Bulldog triumph by a single touchdown.

MISSISSIPPI STATE OVER MISSISSIPPI—Handily. Around 13 points.

ALABAMA OVER AUBURN—It won't be as simple as it might appear. But we'll go along on a two touchdown margin.

TENNESSEE OVER VANDERBILT—The Vols shouldn't encounter too much opposition here. By 14 points.

MIAMI OVER MISSOURI—In a battle royal. A field goal might make the difference.

TULANE OVER LSU—By a lone tally.

THE WEST

SOUTHERN CAL OVER NOTRE DAME — By at least a single touchdown.

OKLAHOMA OVER OKLAHOMA A & M—Close.

SMU OVER TCU—The Mustangs by one marker.

RICE OVER BAYLOR—Watch for an upset. Tight.

KANSAS OVER WICHITA—Easy.

TULSA OVER HOUSTON—A couple of touchdowns.

Third Class Slated for Women Golfers

The third class of group lessons for women members of the Fort Benning Country Club will begin tomorrow at the club golf course.

Sponsored by the Women's Golf association, the classes are conducted by Charley Harper, assistant golf pro at the club on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Each class will be limited to a maximum of 20 students.

Anyone interested in joining the class is requested to contact Mrs. A. E. McCormick, telephone 2693 or sign up at the Country Club. A fee of $1.00 is charged for the four lessons.

Burgess Named To Pilot Women Hoopsters Here

Stc. Willis E. Burgess, long time pilot for the 29th Infantry Regiment hoopsters, last week was named coach for the newly formed Fort Benning Women's basketball team.

Well known for his abilities as a court mentor, Burgess was notified of his appointment last Wednesday morning by post special services. He held his first practice session the same day.

Stationed here during 1932-37, Burgess played basketball with the post champion 29th Infantry team. He became team captain in 1934. During his three years as captain, the 29th Infantry twice won the post championship and once captured the Southeastern States tournament. He also played with several teams in Panama.

In addition to his coaching duties with the Wac team, Burgess said he also plans to referee intramural basketball games to be played during the coming season. He attended the Fort Benning basketball clinic conducted here last week.

TURKEY MEET WINNERS.—Competing against approximately 20 contestants, Mrs. Leonard Shaw, Mrs. Charles Kindred and Mrs. Kenneth Dawalt captured top honors in the annual Fort Benning golf turkey tournament, which was staged here last week. Mrs. Kindred won the 18-hole event while Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Dawalt annexed the 9-hole laurels.

Wheeler Breaks Benning Bowling League Mark

High Single Game Record Smashed; Tabs 211 Average

Lt. Col. Jesse F. Wheeler, a hardware expert from the Staff Department, last week established what might be called a record in breaking records in the Infantry Center Officers Bowling League.

Competing against a 7th & 39th Ordnance battalion crew, Wheeler broke the season's high single game, and tied the season's mark in the individual three-game series department with scores of 258 and 634 respectively. His scores for the evening were 185, 258 and 191, averaging 211. He also moved into the second place in the high individual average bracket with a season record of 24 wins and eight losses.

Aided by Wheeler's unusual high scores, the Staffers scattered a total of 2918 pins, bettering the Ordnance keygers by a pinfall of 524 points, and collected a grand slam victory good for four points.

By virtue of the victory, the Staff Department moved up from tenth place into the number eight berth in Section II standings. They have achieved a season record of 17 wins and 15 losses, a percentage of .531. The Ordnance men who have chalked up 10 wins and 22 losses are presently holding down twelfth place.

NEW LEADER

In the top contest of the week, student officers of Advanced Class 2 upsetted the seven week old league leaders, Advanced Class 1 Team 2, 2,645 to 2,537, and moved into the number one slot in Section II standings. Both teams were tied for first place last week.

Climaxing a six week climb from fourth place, the Class 2 keygers now hold a three point edge over the second place Advanced Class 1 Team 2 aggregation with a season record of 24 wins and eight losses.

In other contest rolled last week the Infantry School Detachment split with Airborne Department No. 2, Communication Department No. 2 defeated the Airborne Arm's Tactical Department, C Committee of the Tactical Department downed the Student training Regiment, Staff Department No. 3 outscored Operations and the Weapons department trounced Headquarters 3440th Area Service Unit.

There were no games played in Section I last week. All matches were postponed over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Benning Boxers Prepared For 3rd Army Tournament

Squad Departing For Camp Gordon Tilts Next Week

The 1950 of the Infantry Center's all champion boxing team will receive its baptism of fire next week when it matches ring savvy against a host of ring experts in the annual Third Army Boxing tournament in Camp Gordon, Ga., Dec. 5-8.

The iron man Fort Benning squad which will leave by bus for Camp Gordon early Monday morning, will be less a flyweight and a lightweight.

Runner-up in the annual army classic for the past four years, the local leather-pushers then were rounded out last minute preparations to dethrone the Third Army team champions of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Team Coach McSgt. John Wilson expressed confidence that

Benning will win the Third Army title this year. He said, "we intend to bring the championship back to Benning. To win this tournament we must win at least five championships out of the eight weight divisions. We have six boxers of whom are champions, and we are expecting to win everything we put in the ring."

Three-time Third Army middleweight king and All-Army titlist in 1949 and 1950, Larry Jones will be heading the powerful Benning ring aggregation.

The Benning ring slugger has won 94 out of 104 fights and is sure bet to retain his title this year.

Cardova Ready

In the heavyweight department, Benning will be ably represented by the popular Buck de Cardova, Third Army heavyweight king and All-Army runner-up. Buck who is also the 1950 North Carolina & South Carolina AAU light-heavyweight champion has chalked up 32 victories in 40 outings and is expected to bring back the heavyweight title without too much difficulty.

Norman Clark, lightweight runner-up in 1950, is gunning for the welterweight title this year. Third Army Lightweight champ in 1948 and welterweight runner-up in 1949, Clark has won 57 out of 60 meetings, and is also expected to eliminate all comers.

Bantamweight interests will be handled by Third Army champ, George Allen, a cautious boxer with mean punch. Allen will unquestionably provide Benning with the necessary points in a 118 pound class. Winner of 41 fights and loser of only four, Allen has quite an enviable record in the ring. He was also New Jersey State Flyweight champion in 1946-47-48.

Benning's team of champions will be newcomers Oran Garretson and Clifford Maddox. Though new to Fort Benning, neither is new to the ring. Garretson who has a 37 for 40 record was New Jersey State light weight champion in 1947 and Guam Ground Forces titlist in 1948-49. While Maddox holds the featherweight titles in Kansas City, Kan., and Okinawa, with a 24 for 30 record.

Winners of the Third Army meet will remain at Camp Gordon until Dec. 26. During this period they will train for the All Army classic scheduled to be held at Fort Meade, Md. Dec. 28.

Lawson Preps Strong Entry For Basketball Tournament

As intramural play in the Lawson basketball league passes the half-way mark, the evidence is strong that a sharp team will be formed to play in the TIC league tournament.

From six teams competing in the league at Lawson, an all-star team will be selected, and these outstanding players will make up the Lawson Air Force Base team.

League Formed For Volleyball

Volleyball attracted the local spotlight in Sand Hill this week with the announcement of the formation of a 32-team volleyball league in the Central and Special Staff section of the Fourth Division.

Lt. Col. Harvey G. Johnston, division special services officer, said that competition has been divided into two separate leagues, American and National. The 4-week schedule which calls for two rounds of play before the play-off began last Wednesday.

McSgt. Edward T. Wisniewski, Assistant special services officer, disclosed that efforts will be made to secure a suitable trophy for the winning team.

Warm up games played last week at Lawson Field, revealed some unknown talent in many of the staff sections. And opposing players to the Chief of Staff report that Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, division commander, is not to be "brushed off."

It all adds up to a topnotch basketball team from Lawson Air Force Base.

Grapppling Card Stated Here Tomorrow Night

Mat Mahem at Briant Wells Matches Top Dixie Talent

Local wrestling fans are in for a big treat tomorrow night when four big time grapplers meet up a thrilling Australian tag team match, feature match of the evening, in the second of a series of a stellar card matches on the post. The first match will get underway promptly at 8:30 p.m. in the Briant Wells fieldhouse.

The main event an Australian pounds of muscle from Ortag team air will pit the popular team of Al Massey, 219 Mr. Atlas made a very impressive debut on the card and the Columbus policeman, two weeks ago by dousing the Jack Coulter, who weighs in on 218 pounds, against the villainous duo of Red Dugan, 218 pounder from Marietta, Ga. and the Junior Heavyweight champion of the South, Karl Kowalski, 220 pound former professional ready "Chel-Mar".

Bloomfield has wrestled all of the top flight grapplers of the past 20 years. And this will make up the Lawson Air Force Base team.

As for Dugan and Kowalski, they are two well known ring ruffians, as tough as they come and always ready to control man with their opponents.

This match, which has all the earmarks of developing into a riot, will be a best two out of three fall bout with a 90-minute time limit.

The semi final match, one likely to keep the fans on their feet from the opening bell sends the popular Billy "Mr. Atlas" Sandow, 210 pounder from Toledo, Ohio, against the veteran Jack "Chel-Mar" Bloomfield, 208

Stalcup Winner In Skeet Shoot; 122 of 125 Goal

Gene S. Stalcup, winner of the recent Southern Open Skeet tournament in Atlanta, Ga., fired a 122 out of a possible 125 to win the annual 18th Infantry Center Thanksgiving Turkey Tournament held here last week.

Stalcup had been tied for first place in military and civilian skeet competitions held this past year. He shared winner's laurel in the Georgia State, East Coast All Service and Southern Open Skeet tournaments.

In Class AA, D. S. Huntley topped top honors by scattering 96 birds out of a possible 100, while A. R. Hyle annexed the runnerup title with a score of 88. H. B. Allen registered a high 83.

Other winners were: Class B winner, W. H. Huberman (92); Class B runnerup, F. I. Roberts (87); Class C winner, S. C. Allison (78); Class C runnerup, H. Blazard (71); Class D winner, R. P. Armstead (79); Class D runner-up, D. G. Guster (74).

60 Shooters

In the two man team competitions, G. L. Disharoon and S. R. Blunck placed first with scores of 90 and 85 respectively.

Approximately 45 skeet enthusiasts participated in the traditional one day meet which was conducted on the Officers' Club range. Classes were arranged by scores recorded in previous matches.

Presentations of the feathered prizes were made immediately after completion of the tournament in the skeet club house which was designed by General of the Army Omar Bradley. Each class winner received a turkey while the runnerup were awarded chickens.

Anne Hazelrigg Wins Icy Kicker Replay Tourney

Mrs. Anne Hazelrigg a lady who plays golf on a day most people would prefer to sit by a stove, last Friday won the Kicker Replay Tournament on the County Club golf course.

Mrs. Hazelrigg edged out runner-up Mrs. Garnet Bogan in the 9-hole match. The 18-hole match was called off because of inclement weather.

Tomorrow, a Criers Tournament will be staged at the club greens. Each player entered the meet must pick the two worst holes and revert these to par. One half the handicap is added to the total score.

A second Ringer Tournament will also begin this week. It is expected to last through December and January.

Only two more golf tourneys have been scheduled this year. A Handicap Tournament is slated December 8, and a Putting Tourney will be held December 15.

Joke Blasts Stalin

BERLIN—People in Soviet-occupied East Germany can't do anything against the Russians or the Communists, so least they think up new anti-Russian jokes every day.

The latest: An East Zone policeman asked a little girl standing in front of a huge cardboard portrait of Gen.issimo Stalin. She was extending a handful of grass toward him. When the policeman asked the child what she was doing, she replied: "My father says things won't get better until Stalin has the grass." This is the German expression for biting the dust.

4,000 Miles 'Routine' Superfort Makes 375th Weather Trip Over Pole

Actually, this "Platmigan" flight - named after the far-ranging Arctic bird - was a mere routine trip. For M-Sgt. Emnis A. Hibrant of Phoenix, Ariz., the plane's flight engineer, it was the 39th trip to the North Pole.

Following a briefing the crew retired for the night and was awakened at 3:30 the following morning. After breakfast and issuance of heavy clothing and equipment, the plane was ready for take off at 6:50 a.m. in a blinding snowstorm. First portion of the trip north from the base took the Superfort over the snowcapped Brooks mountain range, then over Pt. Barrow, its last point of contact with land and 1,120 miles from the North Pole.

From then on - to the Pole and return - the plane is over a short stretch of open water off the coast and then nothing but solid ice pack broken briefly here and there by thin cracks. The plane reached the top of the world at 3 p.m.

The return course from the North Pole took the B-29 down over the Arctic Ocean until a landfall was made at Point Barrow, just across the narrow strait from Siberia. It landed here at 10:45 p.m.

Navigating on this flight, one of the toughest crew assignments was done by two officers. Radio navigational aids, as they are known in the states, are unavailable in this region of no landmarks. The compass plays strange tricks in the converging lines of magnetic force.

Ret. William E. Hardwick, 836th Ordnance Depot Supply company; Well, I haven't spent a lot of time in Columbus and when I do go its mostly to the NCCS.

STARBUCK HARDWICK

NCCS. I don't think you could find a better place to spend your spare time, outside of that 'Y' is a very nice place.

Cpl. Raymond P. Deason, 836th Ordnance Depot Supply company; The 'Y' is a very nice place and I think the movies in this city are excellent and also I think the cafes and restaurants are A-1.

Ret. Thomas K. Triplett, 836th Ordnance Depot Supply company; I think the NCCS Club is a nice club, but as yet I haven't had a chance to go to the 'Y'.

DEASON TRIPLETT

There are some very nice places to eat in Columbus, and my only suggestion is for more off-duty hours.

Ret. Carl E. Gardner, 836th Ordnance Depot Supply company; Well, I think there just as nice places in Columbus as you would find anywhere if you just take the time to find them. I think Columbus is a swell town.

Ret. Gerald A. Roper, 836th Ordnance Depot Supply company; All I have seen of Columbus is very nice and think off-duty hours can be enjoyable and well spent in that city.

U.S. to Deal With Setback Through UN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—The Chinese Communist offensive in Korea has convinced the United States with the gravest decisions since the start of World War II, administration officials said yesterday.

The government's present intention, which is participation with the situation in the United Nations and through intensive consultation with Britain, France and other UN-member Allies. These consultations are already under way.

Sanctions Sanctions could mean cutting off all trade with China by non-Communist countries and curtailing or withdrawing diplomatic recognition accorded the Peking regime by some countries.

The National Security Council, with Mr. Truman presiding, talked over the new crisis for an hour and 15 minutes yesterday. Persons familiar with the situation said the secret session produced no hard and fast decisions on new steps to be taken.

Formal action on this charge reportedly will be sought now because it would have to be accompanied by proposals for action to deal with the aggression and there is no final agreement so far on what steps should be taken.

There is apparently a strong desire on the part of the country's diplomatic and military leaders to avoid becoming involved in a general war in Asia. Basic to American strategy is the concept that any final military showdown with world communism should come in Europe rather than Asia.

Allies Seen Able To Hold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—High U. S. Defense officials believe that Gen. Douglas MacArthur has enough machines and firepower to prevent a military disaster in Korea.

But they said yesterday the United Nations must decide whether the supreme commander in the Far East will be given sufficient men and the broadened orders he must have to destroy the Chinese the way he shattered their North Korean comrades there of Seoul.

There was no attempt in the Pentagon to disguise the disappointment that MacArthur's end-of-the-war offensive had first been stalled and then turned into a threat before the massive Chinese assault.

SEVENTH ARMY REACTIVATION BEGUN IN GERMANY

HEIDELBERG — The United States last Wednesday announced reactivation in Europe of its 7th Army — the first American army on the continent since demobilization after World War II.

Two veteran major tactical units of American forces in Germany—the 1st U. S. Infantry division and the U. S. constabulary Chinese Nationalist army on Formosa. Chiang offered 38,000 of these men to the UN command a few days after the Red Korean attack in June.

MacArthur was the official mouthpiece for the rejection of this offer. The reason given was that the departure of these Nationalist troops would weaken Formosa's defenses against a possible Red invasion attempt.

Some U. S. military leaders today agreed with several congressmen that the Chinese Reds themselves had wiped out this original reason by their large scale and dramatically timed assault against the Eighth army in Korea.

Lawson Seeking Clothes For Natives on Okinawa

Even natives of South Pacific Islands and the personnel at Lawson Air Force Base are working to see that they get some.

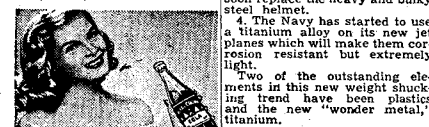

The natives on Okinawa, especially the children and infants are in dire need of clothing and shoes, according to a letter from Brig. Gen. Homer L. Saunders, vice-commander of Tactical Air Command, to Col. John B. Thomas, Lawson Air Force Base Commander.

Between now and Dec. 8 clothing will be collected in boxes at the Lawson Air Force Base Officers' Club, the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club, Special Services building and Base Supply.

Discards Sought
Almost any discarded clothing will be acceptable for the drive, according to General Saunders. The natives of Okinawa are quite proficient in making over garments out of old clothes, therefore if clothing is frayed it does not mean that it cannot be used and is appreciated. Old uniforms unfit for further military use, stripped of their military insignia, will be appropriate.

Projects Officer for this program is Lt. E. J. Ryan, and Mrs. Harry Brown, president of the Lawson Ladies Club is chairman of a group of women who have volunteered to pick up clothing at Fort Benning, Custer Terrace

Princeton 'Bombs' Ducats on 'Pointers'

WEST POINT, N. Y. — Army cadets suffered their first air raid last Thursday when they were bombed with 20,000 invitations to the Princeton-Dartmouth football game.

Four Princeton students hired a private plane so they could dump the leaflets on Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H. But icy conditions forced the plane back. Rather than waste the invitations to "an Indian massacre" they let them loose over West Point.

C-47 Flies Non-Stop From Hawaii to Mobile

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 29—An Air Force C-47 transport landed at its home base here at noon yesterday after an unscheduled 4,322 mile non-stop flight from Hickman Air Force base, Hawaii.

The Globemaster made the trip in 16 hours, 25 minutes. The plane carried cargo but no passengers.

The pilot, Capt. James M. Bentley, said his destination had been San Francisco, but he was unable to land there because of stormy weather over the North Pacific.

TEST YOUR I. Q.

NYLON JERSEY BLOUSES

Need No Ironing—Warm as Wool

SPUN nylon jersey, which won't shrink, sag or bag, is making its first appearance in blouses combining high fashion with extreme practicality.

The nylon jersey, heat-set to stabilize shape and size, dries speedily and needs no ironing. It has, thus, the good nylon characteristics in combination with the look and warmth of jersey. Wrinkle recovery, too, is good. Creases hang out in a very short time.

One jersey blouse knitted entirely of spun nylon, and designed by Penny Potter, has a deep V neck and three-quarter length sleeves. Fine shirring curves subunit fashion at the waistline to define the figure. This blouse is done in both pastels and dark colors, to harmonize or contrast with dark winter skirts.

Another such blouse, simply and smoothly tailored, has a high, round neckline as focal point for jewelry touches. A deep, curved yoke is edged with a covered cord which ties at the center front in a small bow. Modified batwing sleeves are three-quarter length.

Both blouses are ideal travel companions as each can be washed in a pify and worn an hour or so later. Like most nylon attire, which also require no ironing, the nylon jersey blouses should prove popular with saleswomen and weekend travelers.

Actress Chides Stars' Timtrums

BY JAMES PADGITT
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28—(INS)—The outbursts of temperament which sometimes disturb the Hollywood scene can be laid to "social maladjustment" in the opinion of Anne Baxter.

The film star claims that the glamour people who go in for tantrums just have not grown up. There is no more excuse for a Gloria Gorgeoux to get off the deep end than for anyone else.

"Before a youngster learns how to get along with others he sometimes resorts to a tantrum to get his way," Anne says. "When a grown-up—even a famous artist—behaves in the same fashion it is a sure sign of inadequate adjustment."

"As a matter of fact," she points out, "temperament as far as Hollywood is concerned, has sort of gone out of style, a situation encouraged by pure economics—higher taxes and lower budgets."

Anne, who won acclaim for her portrayal of the heroine in "All About Eve" and who currently is portraying Ben Hogan's wife in the golfer's life story, "Follow His Way," contends that "the woods are full of actors who have tried to pick their own parts."

One of the humorous pictures from "You've Got to See This Cartoon" memory book of my life just published. This brings back memories of the first time you held a newspaper.

HONORS FOR RETIRING GENERALS . . . Brigadier Generals Maurice L. Miller and Robert B. Hill, retiring from active duty after 38 and 34 years of service respectively were awarded Third Army Certificates of Achievement at a joint retirement review Thursday morning at Stillwell Field. In the photo at the top, General Miller, who was promoted from a colonel on his retirement, has stars pinned on his shoulders by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry School commandant, left, and Mrs. Miller, right. General Miller also received a letter of appreciation written on leather from men of his unit, the 3440 Area Service Unit. At lower left, General Hill, who has been at Fort Benning since May, 1946, and has served as Infantry Center Surgeon, and commanding officer of the hospital and the Provisional Medical group, receives congratulations from General Burress, left, on presentation of the Achievement Certificate.

Ex-Benning Truckers Prove Endurance in Combat Test

Far from the "Battle of Benning," days men of the 52nd Transportation Truck battalion, now roll their trucks over the war-torn roads of Korea, proving the value of training received at the Infantry Center.

Formerly stationed here, the 2nd Transportation Truck company gained quick recognition in actual combat in Korea.

Helping to move the Seventh division from Anyang to Taegu, a distance of more than 200 miles, men of the unit spent five days and nights hustling their trucks over rolling, dusty, pot-holed roads between the two cities.

Challenge To Endurance
 Accepting the test as a challenge of their endurance, the outfit did herculean work.

Estimating the unit drove over 150,000 miles, Lt. Col. Winston C. Winston, commanding officer of the battalion, commented "Those drivers did a hell of a fine job. They're a credit to the Transportation Corps."

During the five days the men drove equipment destined to be loaded aboard ships for the landing at Iwon.

Determined to do the job, although confronted with unfavorable conditions of weather and terrain, along with the constant threat of attack, the drivers continued toward their destination. Many of the men falling asleep from sheer exhaustion when the column stopped for short rest periods.

Col. Krams Heads 3440th; Succeeds Brig. Gen. Miller

Col. Cortlandt K. Krams assumed command of the 3440th Area Service Unit Provisional Group Friday following the retirement of Brig. Gen. Maurice L. Miller.

Colonel Krams comes to Fort Benning from Washington, D. C. where he was a member of the personnel policy board of the Department of Defense.

No newcomer to Fort Benning, Colonel Krams attended the Infantry school in 1921 and 22, and returned to be an instructor at the school from 1939 to 1942.

A native of New York, Colonel Krams was commissioned as a lieutenant in Washington, D. C. in 1917. During World War I he served with the infantry and armored troops in the United States and later with the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia. In the last World War he was with the U.S. Army in the Pacific area.

Among the assignments he has had during his Army career are those of troop commander and staff through succeeding grades: G-1, Replacement and School Command; G-1 in the Mid-Pacific and U.S. Army Pacific Theater; Deputy Chief of Department of the Army Public Information Division with the General Staff; and Secretary of the Army's representative to the personnel policy board of the Department of Defense.

The service schools attended by Colonel Krams are the Infantry School, the Tank School, 1924-25, the Command and General Staff College, 1934-36, Field Officers Course at the Chemical Warfare School in 1939 and he has received equivalent credit for the National Industrial college.

Post Chest Fund Peak 81 Percent

Drive Ended Saturday; Some Units Over Top

The final report issued Saturday by the Fort Benning Community Chest Fund office listed total contributions as of that date at 81 percent of the goal of $41,600.

Col. Charles E. Woodruff, drive chairman, asserted that there was still additional funds to be tabulated.

These untabulated funds were turned in by organizations who submitted their quotas in a lump sum, at the terminal point of the drive.

The drive officially ended on Saturday.

At present, he added, the total amount collected is $35,725. He expected considerable change to be made in this percentage when the final count has been made. It is estimated that an additional amount of at least $4,000 has yet to be figured.

Expressing the desire to do their share and more if needed were the four organizations that headed the list in making contributions. Each of these units passed the 100 per cent mark. They were: Headquarters, The Infantry Center, 133 percent; Training Camp No. 1, 130 percent; The Fourth Infantry division, 127 percent and the American Red Cross, 103 percent.

Other unit contributions were the Post Exchange, 100 percent; Student Training regiment, cadre, 98 percent; Infantry School detachment, 94 per cent; Thirtieth Infantry Regimental Combat team, 92 percent; Academic department, The Infantry School, 91 percent; Army Field Forces board No. 3, 85 per cent; Area Service Unit, Provisional group, 83 percent; Provisional Medical group, 79 percent; Civilian personnel, 62 percent; Lawson Air Force base, 52 percent; Student Training regiment, students, 39 percent and the Main Officers' Club, 18 percent.

Davis Winner Of Chest Car

Sergeant Benjamin J. Davis, Sr., Third Shore Radar Beacon Unit, Lawson Field Air Force base, was awarded the 1950 Oldsmobile convertible Tuesday in connection with donations made to the Fort Benning Community Chest Fund drive.

The winner was announced in a ceremony held in the Main post theater Monday. Sgt. Davis was in town on pass at the time and could not be located immediately. He reported to his organization later to learn of his luck.

Commenting on his good fortune the sergeant said he couldn't believe it was true, and even as the keys to the car were passed on to him he still shook his head in a jubilant disbelief.

He said "When I reported to the commandant (See DAVIS Page 2)

Mudgett Named Hospital Chief Succeeding Hill

Col. Charles S. Mudgett has been named Commander of the Fort Benning Station Hospital succeeding Brig. Gen. Robert B. Hill.

Colonel Mudgett, who was commanding officer at Oliver General Hospital before being transferred to Fort Benning, has been in the Army since August, 1933.

During World War II Colonel Mudgett served overseas in the Pacific area. He was commanding officer of the 27th Station Hospital (Mayo Clinic affiliated unit) in New Guinea; commanding officer of the 27th Hospital Center and Base Surgeon at Hollandia, New Guinea; Base Surgeon, Batangas Base, P. Medic Recruits Dig Into First Pay to Aid Needy Family of Six

Fort Benning's 24th Evacuation Hospital group, a recruit outfit, dug into its first Army pay check today to come to the aid of a family in need. The recruits pooled $33 cash after reading about the desperate plight of a Columbus mother and five children in Sunday's Ledger-Enquirer. This morning two of the medic, Sgts. Dillard H. Williams and William B. Muldrow, delivered the money to Salvation Army Capt. Elmer L. Capp. They were accompanied by the unit's executive officer, Capt. Ott to S. Good. The men got their first Army wages this month, Capt. Good said, and voluntarily chipped in to relieve the suffering of the mother and children they read about Sunday. The same outfit had already contributed 100 per cent in pledges to the Community Chest, the captain said. An anonymous donor, inscribing himself as "a friend", also

Colonel Mudgett's wife and two children, Jill and Sally, are here at Fort Benning, a son, John is now attending M.I.T.

Kin Assured Grave of German General Gets Good Care Here

The next of kin of a German general who died in an American Prisoner of War camp in 1945 should be a little happier this week. In a letter received recently at Fort Benning relatives of the deceased General, Lt. Gen. Willibald Borowicz, requested information about where the General was buried and asked if "there is anyone who takes a little care of the grave?" The letter of inquiry addressed to the "Town Mayor, Fort Benning, Ga.," came from the German War Graves Commission at Nienburg, Germany, and was signed by W. Fronenberg on behalf of the general's next of kin. General Borowicz died in a prison camp at Camp Clinton, Miss., on July 1, 1945. His body was brought to the post cemetery at Fort Benning for burial. Officers of the Fort Benning Quartermaster early this week took pictures of the headstone of General Borowicz's grave and sent them to Mr. Fronenberg, explaining that the grave would receive perpetual care. An overall picture of the cemetery, with a superimposed arrow pointing to the general's grave, was also sent. General Borowicz was one of the highest-ranking German officers to die in an American prison camp.

Cartoonist Aids Safety Program At Fort Benning

A cartoonist of the Second battalion, 325th Airborne Infantry regiment, is using his talents to boost the Infantry Center safety program. Pfc. Johnny Earle, Headquarters company, Second battalion, has inked many cartoons, which are being used in a safety program being carried out by his organization. A member of the battalion S-3 section, Pfc. Earle, was attracted to the campaign which the Second battalion is conducting in an effort to further the safety program established by the Infantry Center safety council. He fell right in step. Create Interest Commenting on the fine work done by Pfc. Earle, the battalion executive officer, Maj. Elmer C. Howard, stated that although he could not vouch for the actual results of the cartoons as they pertained to accidents direct, he could say that they have gained much interest within the battalion as a unit. This is proved

"Don't go to town feeling like this," save your feelings for the field." by the fact that although the organizations are only required to keep the cartoons posted for one week, most of them still have the previous issued posted at the present time, and are waiting for the next issue to be put out this week. "Soldier's Bottle" Giving an example of the structure of the cartoons, Maj. Howard said, the fourth, which will be distributed this week will consist of two separate pictures. Under one will be printed "Mother and Father, plus 15 years make a soldier," under the other will be "A soldier and a bottle of whiskey plus a c a make nothing." Other projects being worked out by the battalion in accordance with the safety program are posting separate signs throughout the area, and holding of special orientation classes on safety.

Comrades Not Forgotten 4th Division Volunteers Again--This Time Cash!

The men of the Fourth Infantry division have done it again! Several weeks ago they volunteered in droves to donate blood to the Red Cross. Again they have volunteered—this time with something which might not be as valuable as blood but equally important to the individual GI's. MONEY The Community Chest drive was launched in the division on November 1 and was concluded December 4. The quota assigned the Fourth was $9,118 and upon the final check-up was determined that $9,211.68 had been contributed. Lt. Col. Harvey G. Johnston Jr., division Special Services officer, was in charge of the drive and was ably assisted by 34-Sgt. Edward T. Wilds Smith, Special Services NCO and representatives from each of the regiments, battalions and separate companies. Those representatives went out armed with only contest tickets and came back with the proverbial bacon. The Eighth Infantry regiment was the major contributor, giving a total of $5,809.35. Broken down still further the First battalion donated $1,655; the Second battalion, $1,384; the Third battalion, $1,657; and the Fourth battalion, $1,163.35. Regimental headquarters contributions were included in the figure submitted by the Fourth battalion. Much of the money donated will never leave Fort Benning for in addition to the usual agencies which benefit from the Community Chest drive the Army Emergency Relief, the Fort Benning children's Christmas party and the baskets for needy families of GI's currently in Korea who have encountered difficulty in straightening out their financial affairs, will receive an appropriate share. Lt. Col. Johnston thinks that the men of the Fourth Infantry division should derive a great

Army Gives Ruling On EM Reservists For Overseas Duty

Army enlisted personnel of civilian components with four or more dependents will not be assigned overseas duty except by request, it was announced by The Third Army headquarters, this week. According to the announcement, enlisted military personnel with four or more dependents, will not be given overseas assignments either as individuals or members of a unit, except in the case of volunteers. In such cases individuals who volunteer, will be allowed to go overseas provided they are otherwise qualified and agree in writing to waive their rights of dis-

His Men Benefit 22nd's Chief Has Valuable War Record

Colonel Lewis A. Riggins, commanding officer of the 22nd Infantry regiment, quartered and training in Harmony Church area has an impressive military background and a considerable experience to impart to his men. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy, class of '25, and also attended the command officer course at Fort Benning, the Battalion Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. He is currently with the First, Second, Eighth, and 89th Infantry divisions, the 11th Airborne division, the First Corps and was commanding officer of the 31st Infantry regiment. During World War II he served with the Eighth and 89th Divisions in the United States and with the XI Corps overseas. The colonel was a Department of Army observer during the first three months of the Italian campaign. After the XI Corps returned to the United States they were sent to New Guinea and worked north through various campaigns to Japan. Qualified Chemist Col. Riggins served as G-4 in the initial occupation of Japan by the Tokyo force. Following the inactivation of the XI Corps in Japan in 1946 the colonel qualified as a parachutist and was assigned as commanding officer of the 187th Infantry regiment and the 11th Airborne division. As commanding officer of that organization, he commanded the first post-war amphibious landing exercise with the 187th Regimental Combat team. After his return to the U.S. he attended the Industrial college of the Armed Forces and was subsequently assigned as Chief of Movement, a major assignment chief of staff, G-4, Department of the Army. He served in that capacity in a major assignment in his current assignment here. In addition to the service ribbons for the European, Pacific and Asiatic Theaters Operation, Colonel Riggins has been awarded two Legions of Merit, an Army Distinguished Medal, and two Bronze Arrowheads for landings.

Long years ago, Nevorah was an honored Cherokee name meaning "Beautiful Tree", and I'm sure the venerated chief-tan of the Cherokee tribe would be anything but stoic if he were to meet a certain young woman who bears that name today. He would look with appreciation at this attractive form of motion, vim and laughter and probably order the meaning of the name changed to laughter and gaiety.

I met Nevorah Adams, wife of Capt. Dwight L. Adams, for the first time when I called at her quarters for an interview and there was never a dull minute from the time I arrived until I left. It was fun wondering what would happen next.

Young Nevorah Wilson was just three-and-a-half when she started taking folk dancing, beginning the career that would be more interesting as the years went on. As time passed, she added to her talents tap dancing. When she reached thirteen she started dancing professionally for clubs and organizations and was in great demand in her home town of Akron, Ohio. Feeling that the field of just dancers was overcrowded this determined young miss decided on her special field and one for which she had great talent—comedy singing and dancing. To better herself she added dramatic lesson to an already crowded schedule.

It was a very auspicious day for her when two dancers from the International Casino review which was playing her home town dropped from the cast and after an audition she was chosen to fill one of the places. This review was one of the first to sign up for USO shows and she began a pace-killing tour playing thirty-nine Army posts in four months, but she loved every minute of it and from the daily grind picked up many tricks that helped her later.

When the Army tour was over, the group made a trip including many West Coast theaters. While the group was still in the West, Nevorah left the troop due to a very serious illness of her mother. Some time later she decided to try solo work in clubs and this started the second phase of her career. Not being a person to do anything half-way, she was over-enthusiastic in some of her numbers and bad luck picked her out in the form of ligament trouble. So deciding to take a rest she went to Evansville, Ind., and being a person of action took voice to give a boost to her act.

With all this activity, along with the way Nevorah was chosen the Veterans of Foreign Wars Miss Columbus in 1943 and Miss Ohio in 1944 and then came the big year in her life 1945 when she married Capt. Dwight L. Adams here at Benning where he was stationed at that time. And the following year to add to their great happiness young Gregory was born. When her husband was ordered overseas, she followed as soon as possible and it was only natural that she should continue her work, this time with the Vienna Entertainers Guild for Military units and hospitals in Vienna, Austria.

She was more than glad to get back to Benning last year as she feels like she is at home here. At present she is in the midst of opening a dance studio along with Mrs. J. R. Darnell, who will have a music studio.

Her eyes glowed with enthusiasm as she told of the plans for her studio. Her classes will include beginners, intermediates and advanced pupils. Children with previous training are to be auditioned to determine into which class to be enrolled. At present she is most interested in tap and ballet, with classes in acrobatics, and then the line she likes best, personality singing and dancing. Her classes are open to children of both enlisted and officer personnel and the class hours are set so as not to conflict with school hours. She is deep in enrollment and right after the holidays, plans to start classes. To make things more convenient for the mothers, shoes may be fitted right at the studio and for those ladies who do not have the time to sew, she has secured a seamstress to make the practice suits.

With all this activity, Nevorah keeps a spotless house and has plenty of time for Gregory. She thinks that someday he may like to become a dancer. He has an unusual sense of rhythm for one so young and loves to sing along with his mother when she is clowning around.

Outside of the energy-consuming dance studio, Nevorah is doing very little entertainment lines at present except appearances with the Literature and Arts group of the Woman's club at which she will be the featured artist.

I asked her to name a favorite type of act and with appropriate gestures and facial expression she said that it was a take-off on "Hilly-billy" numbers.

So if it takes patience, energy, enthusiasm and know-how to teach dancing, Nevorah Adams possesses all in abundance and with her sure fire personality the studio is bound to be a success.

PVT. ELAINE M. PALESTINE

Meet Miss Benning...

Pvt. Elaine M. Palestine reporting for Meet Miss Benning, a native of the Empire State who served as bookkeeper and who studied singing before donning the olive drab of the WACs.

Elaine at present is assigned to the Property Office, Student Training Regiment, and holds down the job of clerk-typist with responsibility for the consolidated files and record room.

Pvt. Palestine is our first singing Miss Benning and that tops all of her ambitions and hopes. She can no more help singing than she can breathing, so it goes without saying that all of her hobbies center around music. She is always buying new songs and spends a great deal of time learning them. Elaine likes to drive as a hobby but she will probably sing while she is driving. She is essentially a friendly person and loves to meet and talk with new people. Musical movies hold her interest most because of the singing, and novels top the list of her preferred reading. She does not claim a favorite type of music as she loves all types though she does say that a person's mood should be suited with the music. She favors evening clothes most and black is by far her favorite color.

An interesting side line of Pvt. Palestine is some of her background in singing. She had done a great deal of work with orchestras for various organizations around her home town of Buffalo, N. Y., and the highlight of her singing life was the day she sang at Carnegie Hall in New York city. Since she has been at Benning she is affiliated with a group that is going around the post putting on shows at the hospital and at various clubs. She is at present the featured vocalist on "Benning on Parade" presented by the Public Information Office weekly. This singing miss has glowing brown eyes, curly brown hair and is five feet five inches of enthusiasm and vitality.

TALENTED DANCER ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON OF ARTS GROUP

The Literature and Arts group of the Fort Benning Woman's club held its December meeting at the Country club on Monday with Mrs. R. J. Darnell, chairman, presiding.

During the meeting plans were discussed for classes in art instructions which will be started soon on the post with Mrs. James Keith and Mr. Jackson as instructors.

A dance recital by Nevorah Adams followed the business meeting. Mrs. Adams, wife of Capt. Dwight Adams, danced professionally with the International Casino review, and also "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" from the production "On Your Toes". Changing the pace she next gave a syncopated toe dance and closed the recital with two comedy songs. Tea was served after the recital.

Musical Program Feature Planned By Woman's Club

The Fort Benning Woman's club will hold its second general meeting of the year at the Country Club on Monday, Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. The business meeting will be followed by a musical program which promises to offer a rare treat to all who attend.

Mrs. Richard Darnell will present a group of modern Brazilian piano numbers, followed by a Debussy. Mrs. Darnell, a native Brazilian, has studied extensively abroad and in this country at the New England Conservatory of music. At the Berkshire Music Festival she had the honor of playing under the direction of Sergei Koussevitzky. She has recently been connected with the musical section of UNESCO. Tea will be served following the musical program.

Newcomers to the post are especially invited to attend the meeting. Yearly memberships will be on sale. Special attention is called to the meeting place which will be the Country Club and not the Officers' Mess as previously announced.

A REMINDER

The Society columns of the Bayonet are open to both enlisted and officer personnel at this post. To facilitate the publishing of activities of a social nature it is requested that any departmental, organizational or personal luncheon, parties or receptions be reported to the Bayonet Society office. The deadline time of social items is 5 p.m. Monday. Phone 3212.

Advance Class Ladies In Regular Luncheon

The Ladies Advance Class No. 1 held their monthly luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Tuesday with Mrs. Edward E. Kelleher, Mrs. John Deaver, Mrs. James Maertens, Mrs. Norman F. Muser, Mrs. Charles S. Sieber, Jr., Mrs. Courtney S. Shively, Mrs. Eames and L. Yates as hostesses.

Separate tables were set up and centered with white chrysanthemums in white bowls. Bridge and canasta was played following the luncheon.

Covers were laid for fifty guests.

Commission Given Ex-Benning Soldier On Duty in Korea

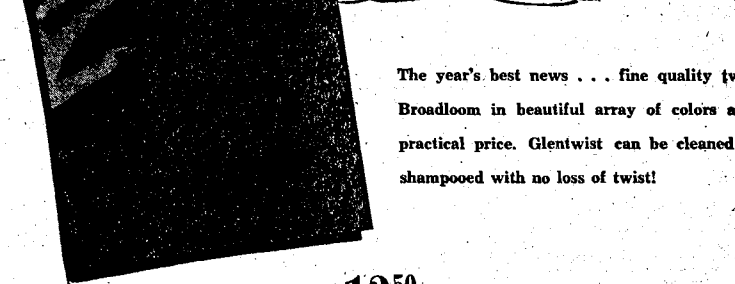

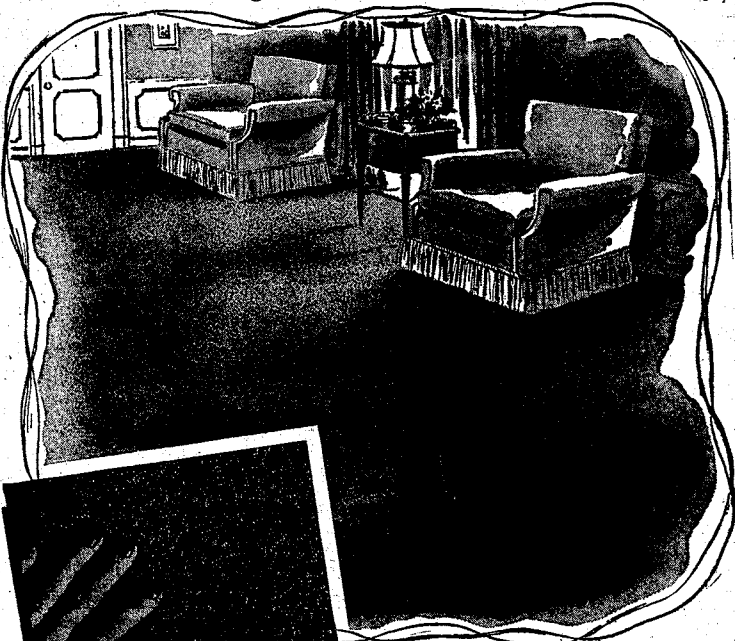

Sergeant first class Earl L. Davis, former Fort Benning soldier, now fighting with the United Nations forces in Korea, has been commissioned 2nd Lt., it was learned this week.

In making the announcement Mrs. Davis, Red Cross worker on the Main Post, expressed her surprise when she received a letter from her husband telling of his promotion. Assigned to Company A, Fifth Regimental Combat team, which is attached to the 24th division in Korea, Lt. Davis was with the Medical company, 30th Infantry division, prior to his departure for overseas.

A native of Wayco, Texas, Lt. Davis, is a soldier with 10 years service, having served overseas in the European Theater of Operations during World War II.

4th Speeds Up TI & E Program

The Troop Information and Education program of the Fourth Infantry division is rapidly gaining acceleration, according to the division's TI&E Officer, Major Robert Maust.

Since the reorganization of the Fourth division and until the 10th of December briefing of the TI&E officers and NCO's has been and will be conducted at The Infantry center under the supervision of the TI&E officer, Captain E. F. Hron. Capt. Hron has also been instrumental in supplying the division with maps and Armed Forces talks. After Dec. 10 the weekly briefing of TI&E personnel will be held in the conference room in the division headquarters area.

Major Maust has been further active in the program too. He has requested a quota of 10 officers and 20 enlisted men to attend the Troop Information and Education course at the Army Information school, Carlisle Barracks, Penn. The course begins Jan. 8. It is felt that with this additional number of trained men the Fourth division will not take a backward step in this necessary phase of training.

Plans have also been made to have a TI&E bulletin board in either the orderly room or the day room of every organization in the division.

ANTIQUÉ WINE SET HOLDS HONORED PLACE IN BENNING HOME

Treasured Possessions . . . No. 1

Jenkins' Prize Vienna Silver Wine Glass Set

Dr. Janax Houschild of the Prague was a happy man that day in 1898 when he was presented the exquisite wine set of hand-blown glass and engraved silver, for his award was his prize for winning the International Amateur championship in fencing.

Today some fifty years later, this same wine set is one of the most prized possessions of Mrs. F. L. Jenkins of 119 Rainbow. It was while she and her husband, Lt. Col. Jenkins were stationed in Vienna that she ran across it one day in an antique shop, and knew that she must have it. Just why Dr. Houschild parted with the set and how it came to be there, she was not able to find out, but a translation of the engraving around the base gave the name of the owner, the occasion and the year.

In the set is a tall hand-blown glass decanter with delicate feathery flowers of pale pink, blue and deep rose and an intricately engraved silver base and top, five wine goblets with the silver base and the same delicate tracery of the three-colored flowers with a hair breadth line of gold around the top, all resting on an oval silver tray with the same beautiful engraving as the decanter and the goblets.

"This particular set," says Mrs. Jenkins "may not appeal to some people, but I love it and value it as one of my loveliest possessions." At the recent Far East Command Art show the Viennese wine set won favorable comment.

The Girl Scout Corner

Brownie Scout Troops 2, 3 and 4 honored ten new members and four new troop leaders in a simple investiture ceremony at their regular meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 21, 1950. Brownie pins were presented to Mary Steele, Billie Jay Freeman, Dewise Cain, Merilyn Cooke, Helen Gillenwater, Sherry Jonack, Janet Leonard, Gloria Jean Mauldin, Susan McGowan, Leona Rawlins, Margaret Kay Revell, and Barbara Fowler. Jeannine Blazard and Michelle Neubert were unable to attend this meeting, but will receive their Brownie Scout pins at a later date.

The four new Brownie scout leaders receiving their pins were Mrs. J. L. Perce, Mrs. Max Ware, Mrs. W. T. Call, Jr., and Mrs. H. F. Jost.

The Brownies at Custer Terrace began their activities for the year on Oct. 11, 1950. At the first meeting we learned the "Brownie Songs and Games" and heard the Brownie story. Some of our other meetings have included a hike, laying a trail, making leaf prints, and making favors for Thanksgiving. Right now we are planning a dramatization of the Brownie Story.

November 1, 1950, we had a most impressive investiture ceremony. The new Brownies are Bonnie Blue, Shelly Carroll, Diane Rushing, Carolyn Knighton, Martha Bryant, Carol Ann Dillen, Sharon Williams, Sharon Richardson, Barbara Jean Thier, Diane Cromwell, Laine Hejna, Barbara Frisinger and Joan Young.

We have twenty-two members and are divided into two groups. The Group leaders for November were Diane Rushing and Sharon Williams.

FAR EAST GROUP ENTERTAINS WITH SUPPER ON WEDNESDAY

The Far East Command group entertained at their first joint meeting for husbands and wives with an informal buffet supper at the main Officers' Mess on Wednesday with Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. H. Pell, Lt. Col. and Mrs. A. C. Newkirk, Maj. and Mrs. J. E. Collins, and Mrs. John R. Ilivich, Maj. and Mrs. W. H. Griffith and Mrs. William Rheinheart as hosts and hostesses.

The buffet table was decorated in a seasonal theme being centered with a glowing Japanese winter scene and tall red tapers and clusters of red Japanese Christmas balls in beds of long needle pine sprays placed at intervals down the full length of the table.

The guests included Mrs. J. Sladen Bradley, Col. and Mrs. M. H. Steffen, Col. and Mrs. J. Kane, Col. and Mrs. Russ T. Hawkins, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Loren T. Jenks, Maj. and Mrs. Wallace H. Earle, Maj. and Mrs. R. A. Kobs, Maj. and Mrs. John C. Hansen, Maj. and Mrs. Underwood Trimble, Maj. and Mrs. E. Collins, and Mrs. Russell J. Yetter, Lt. and Mrs. Earl Aldridge, Mrs. Jack R. Singleton, Mrs. C. L. Herge, Mrs. Mary Skelton, Mrs. Z. R. Carter, Mrs. Frances Smith, Mrs. John L. Sullivan, Mrs. J. C. Wagner, Mrs. J. H. Kendrick, Mrs. D. K. Turner, Mrs. J. K. Collops, Mrs. Tom Hounsvaine, Mrs. Walter Lesniak, Mrs. Lee Gallagher, Mrs. Annie Laurie Paul and Capt. and Mrs. Jack Wilner.

FORT BENNING'S MIXON FAMILY AT HOME Joseph, left, M-Sgt. Joseph Mixon, Henry, Mrs. Mixon and Donald

Family Portrait

Granny Was Cupid For Post Sergeant And Dothan Belle

Grandmothers have a way of trying to keep their fingers on all the things that are going on in their family and especially do they like to tell the grand-children just what to do, but there is one family at Benning who is glad Granny was wide awake and had her eyes open.

Irene Wright was a popular young miss in her home town of Dothan, Ala., when Sgt. Mixon was introduced to her by his grandmother, who lived in the same town. And grandmother probably smiled a complacent smile of self-satisfaction when Irene became Mrs. Joseph F. Mixon in 1937.

A trio of sons almost puts the family of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Mixon in the same bracket as the Bing Crosby family, and surely it lives up the home especially when their ages range from three to ten years as do the Mixon boys.

HEADING THE TRIO is Joseph, who has brown hair and eyes, is ten years old and in the fourth grade at school. He likes going to school very much and is definitely puts football a boy's hobby in the sports department. And right now the Mixons are coping with serious mutiny in the family, for the two older sons very definitely plan to join the Air Force when they grow up and Henry, at present, thinks the wild life of a cowboy is for him, so Dad being an army man thinks maybe something will have to be done about the situation.

The Mixons have been at Benning for about a year and a half and in their present quarters on Ingersol since August. Sgt. Mixon has had two other tours of duty here at Benning. During World War II, he served overseas in both the European and the Mediterranean theaters while Mrs. Mixon and the family stayed in Dothan.

SGT. MIXON CLAIMS there is nothing better than fishing as a hobby unless it is sleeping and says he is a past master at both. Mrs. Mixon is a collector and delights in finding rare and unusual shoes and at present her collection of novelty shoes number seventy-eight with several very old and out of the ordinary ones among them.

The favorite food of the family is fried chicken, Southern style, and with three active children Mrs. Mixon is more than glad that the children are not hard to please when it comes to eating for they like almost anything she prepares.

Although the Mixons belong to the Elks No. 1000 Club they do not go out very much, occasionally they'll take in a dance or other sports thing, but they like staying at home, they do like to have their friends come in and join them for an evening.

Right now the thing uppermost in their minds is Christmas and the furious wish means use one thing to the kids and that's going "back home". Most of their trips are postponed along the lines as the children seem to envy them.

Sgt. Mixon, who at present is assigned to the Joint Advocate General's office plans to make the Army his career, and since the whole family seems to like Benning, the hope is that most of their time will be spent here.

And so the Mixon family was presented as another typical American family that does its part for America's most complete post.

Ex-Benning Nurse Given Promotion In North Korea

WITH HEADQUARTERS 10th CORPS IN KOREA—Maj. Margaret E. Blatt (FANC) whose brother is Col. John E. Blatt, chief of orthopedics at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Fort Benning was recently promoted to her present rank while serving as a present nurse in 121st Evacuation hospital attached in northeast Korea.

Major Blatt's hospital unit provided medical treatment and evacuation of the wounded during the brilliantly executed amphibious invasion of Inchon and rapid advance to the capital city of Seoul.

Following that action, the major moved by sea with the 121st Hospital to the eastern shore of the Korean where General Almond's 10th Corps is now engaged.

Major Blatt, who was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., before joining her present unit, stated, "After patients arrive here their morale is high. To me that is most important."

During World War II, she served for 42 months in Melbourne, Austria, New Guinea and the Philippines. She wears the American Defense Ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon with three battle stars, Victory Medal and the Philippine Liberation Ribbon.

Bomber Command Improves On Techniques of Last War

SEATTLE, Wash. — The best lesson learned to date from the air war in Korea is "to be wary of 'learning lessons'." In the opinion of Maj. Gen. Ernest O'Donnell, commanding general of the U. S. Air Force's Far East Bomber command.

"Insofar as strategic bombing is concerned we in the field are making no recommendations based on this campaign for changes in procurement (of aircraft), training, or general planning for any future, real strategic air war," General O'Donnell states in an article in the current Boeing magazine, house organ of Boeing Airplane company.

"From the standpoint of strategic bombardment operations we have learned very little new (from the Korean conflict) in tactics or techniques," O'Donnell writes. He points out, however, that "we have improved to some extent the recognized and accepted methods developed during the last war."

General O'Donnell, who directs the Boeing B-29 bomber and reconnaissance units in the Far East, recapitulates the operational results of his command during its first three-months of Korean operations.

All Weather Missions

Using the Boeing Superfortresses both as medium bombers and reconnaissance aircraft, FEAF crews were in the air on combat missions every day of this three-month period, he states. "No mission was cancelled for weather although bad weather frequently necessitated radar bomb drops at targets and GCA (Ground Control Approach) landings at home base."

With an average strength on hand of about 150 Boeing B-29's the command flew 41,937 combat hours during the three months, the general states. Each B-29 crew averaged over 100 hours flying per month.

The FEAF Superfortresses in this same period dropped 22,201 tons of bombs, made 41 sorties to drop psychological warfare leaflets over troops and towns, and flew 19 sorties dropping flares for attack planes on low altitude strafing and rocket missions at night, he reports.

"Our targets covered a wide range of types and sizes," he says. "At the outbreak of the campaign the B-29's made large-scale strikes on the war-supporting industries of North Korea."

"The iron, steel and other metals industries, the chemical and munitions-producing plants, and the major oil refinery and storage facilities were successfully bombed into a state of uselessness during the first few weeks of our operations."

Recalling that "we have used the B-29 in many unorthodox ways in Korea," O'Donnell explains that such use "stemmed from the military necessity generated from bizarre and unusual circumstances surrounding the last war."

Many of the missions were far from the original concept of Strategic Air Command training—the waging of war on basic industries and supply points far behind the front lines.

"Individual railway and highway bridges were bombed, 202 of them being badly damaged and knocked out of service," the general says. Some 211 direct hits on important highways kept them out of full commission and swelled up traffic.

The daily "interdiction" missions—cutting of main railroad and other supply line routes—O'Donnell calls "one of the finest demonstrations of precision bombing ever accomplished."

These precision strikes, he states, forced the enemy to abandon volume movement of troops, food and munitions. Ox carts and long columns of conscriptees were pushed into service by the North Koreans to supply forward elements of the enemy.

"When intelligence reported enemy supplies moving in this manner at night we knew that the daily 'interdiction' bombing was paying," O'Donnell says.

General O'Donnell, whose normal command is the 15th Air Force with headquarters at March Air Force base, Calif., also praises the soundness of the Strategic Air Command's training program.

The "SAC Mobility Plan"—providing for movement of any unit of this USAF command to any spot in the world on but a few hours' notice—was called into action soon after the Korean war began, he explains.

"The B-29 bomb groups had loaded their fly-away kit, including enough spare parts, tools and other equipment to enable them to fly more than 8,000 miles, set up complete operations and get into action immediately."

The success of this Strategic Air Command plan "clearly indicates the soundness and practicability of our policy of concentrating fully equipped strategic wings in the United States where training facilities are better," General O'Donnell states.

The general, better known to West Point soldiers as a d West Point II Air Force veterans as "Rostie," operates directly under Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer, FEAF commander.

Mailing Begun On 'Q' Checks

First mailing of the new "Q" allotment checks, which is a quarters allowance for soldiers dependents began yesterday from the Army Finance center, St. Louis, Mo.

Checks were mailed directly to dependents. A record number of 700 pleas for aid have been received during the past four months by the Army Emergency Relief fund office at Fort Benning.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Foster, Army chief of finance, to the Associated Press in Washington Sunday that about 200,000 checks received through Nov. 14, he said, and the next mailing is made about Dec. 15 in payment of about 90,000 applications received after Nov. 14.

About 400 calls for financial aid had been handled through the Fort Benning emergency relief office due to nonreceipt of allotment check. Another 300 or more had contacted the office to ask for assistance in getting allotments straightened out.

Dependents of servicemen, especially those serving overseas, were given the following advice in regard to their financial problems and any mixup in allotment checks:

Wait until Dec. 15. Then contact the Army Emergency Relief office if a check or slip saying payment is on the way has not been received.

Telephone contact may be made through the Fort Benning switchboard, number 6831, extension 3654. First Lt. J. E. Neumann is in charge of calls.

Dinosaur Found By AF Detail

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (APPS)—An Air Force detail engaged in planting a radio aerial atop isolated Mount Sunshine, 10 miles east of here, dug into a 30-foot dinosaur.

Sgt. William Lyon, a member of the party, described the prehistoric mammal as "enormous, with a big head and a long tail, and petrified meat on the shoulders."

Plans were started to unearth the find and bring it to the city.

Benning Soldier Awarded Medal Of Freedom Here

First Sergeant Jacques De Vise, former Belgian soldier, received the Medal of Freedom, during a ceremony held at Fort Benning, last week.

During a brief ceremony held at Headquarters, The Student Training Regiment, Col. Servier R. Tupper, commanding officer, presented 1st Sgt. Jacques De Vise, the medal of Freedom.

A Belgian living in Brussels, Sgt. Jacques served two years in the Belgian Army during World War II, taking part in battles throughout Normandy and Holland.

Wounded three times he has received medals from Belgium, Great Britain and the United States.

After his discharge from the Belgian Army in January of 1946, Sgt. Jacques joined his parents who live in Chicago, having previously come to the United States to live in 1935, leaving him in Belgium to finish school.

Because of his liking for Army life Sgt. Jacques enlisted in the 131st Infantry Regiment, Chicago, in 1946 and has served three years in United States Army. At present he is a member of the Light Heavy Weapons, Leader class No. 1, Student Training Regiment.

Medals and Citations from Belgium held by Sgt. Jacques are the Croix De Guerre, with two palms; Medaille De Volontaire; Medaille De Victoire; Medaille De Liberation; Croix Des Evadés; mentioned in dispatches twice. From Great Britain are France-Germany star; 43-43 star and Canadian Service Ribbon. The United States awards are Victory Medal; Occupation Medal and the Medal of Freedom.

RECEIVES BRONZE STAR . . . Col. Harry F. Shraver, commanding officer, 201st Field Artillery battalion, congratulates Cpl. Raymond E. Vigus, Headquarters and Headquarters company, 30th Infantry detachment, on being presented the Bronze Star medal. Cpl. Vigus was awarded the medal for exemplary conduct, while engaged in ground combat with the enemy, during World War II. At the time Cpl. Vigus was assigned to the 401st Glider Infantry, 101st Airborne division in Normandy.

New Plane Models in Production AF Gets Last Delivery On Famed F-86A Sabre

LOS ANGELES — Last week delivery of the last F-86A Sabre jet fighter to the Air Force was made last week by North American Aviation while production was underway on two later versions of the airplane which holds the official world's speed record.

The rear of the last of the original Sabres on its way to "active duty" was echoed by the hum of production lines for the F-86E super-controlled jet fighter and the F-86D jet interceptor.

Sub and final assembly production lines for the F-86E moved in behind the F-86A as assemblies and components for the last airplane were completed, with the new airplanes fitting into the earlier production pattern without delay for change-over.

Because of certain basic similarities in the two new versions of the Sabre, the F-86D is in production near the F-86B. Both airplanes are being built at the company's Los Angeles plant.

The F-86E is designed for better control at the high operating

VA Issues Warning To Home Buyers

A word of caution was issued yesterday to veterans who plan to buy a home—"look before you leap."

The Veterans Administration asserted that all veterans should read and fully understand all papers they are to sign before they put their signature to them and close the deal.

Vaux Owen, Georgia VA regional manager, said many veterans have experienced a variety of difficulties in attempting to buy homes with VA guaranteed loans. Most of these have come up because the veteran did not read or understand the papers he signed.

Many veterans have complained they have been cheated, even though they actually were signing legal papers which were explained to them once a sale has been closed, to aid the veteran, since the contract or sales agreement is a private matter.

Blue Barron Plays
For Dance Dec. 10
At Pine Lodge Club

Blue Barron and his orchestra will play for a dance at the Pine Lodge NCO Mess from 8:30 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. on December 10. Appearing with the Barron orchestra will be Betty Clarke, Bobby Beers, Mert Curtis, Jimmy McDonald, and the Three Blue Notes.

Mess officials announced that members of the club will be allowed one female guest for the Barron dance, but may bring one other couple at a charge of $1.00 each. The Mess nursery will be open during the evening as usual, for those who wish to bring their children with them. All members of the Mess and their guests have been extended an invitation to attend.

Blue Barron's "Sunday Serenade" was broadcast weekly over the Blue Network under the sponsorship of a U. S. government agency during the war, and was the longest government sponsored band program on the air. Built around the "Music of Yesterday and Today," the program featured in addition to Blue and the boys, a well-known government and Broadway personality each week. All services and time for the preparation and presentation of the show were donated by Blue Barron.

The Barron orchestra has played at the Pine Lodge NCO Mess before, and all who heard him were enthusiastic over his easy-dance-to music. His return here is good news to members of the Pine Lodge NCO Mess.

PERSONNEL INVITED To Yule Cantata
At Chapel Sunday

The adult and young people's club of the Methodist Presbyterian church will present "The Herald Angels," a Christmas cantata by R. M. Stults, at the main post chapel, Sunday Dec. 10, 4 p.m., for the Sunday Vespers.

The Cantata will be directed by Mr. Thomas E. Harborne with Mr. J. E. Harrison at the organ. The soloists will be Sopranos: Mrs. W. J. Sylvester, Jr., Miss Antoinette Martin, Miss Fay Hill, Altos: Mrs. Herbert Allen, Miss Claire Carter; Tenor: Mr. Charles Barry; Basses: Mr. Linwell Flake and Mr. Gene Kelly. Other members of the choir are Sopranos: Mrs. E. G. Whit, Mrs. R. W. Holt, Mrs. C. Vincent, Mrs. R. W. Williams, Mrs. Gene Kelly, Mrs. Travis Thaxton, Miss Sybil Morgan, Miss Betty Jean Cole, Miss Alice Faye Adair, Miss Jean Wood, Mrs. Mrs. N. Pillsbury, Mrs. D. B. Allan, Mrs. Ted McDaniel, Miss Carol Carter, Mrs. Evelyn Morgan, Miss Fats Green and Miss Janie Harrison; tenors: Ralph Holt, John Phillips, Robert Hill and Joe Holt; basses: Gene Kelly, Jerry Rayburn, Charles Luttrell, Ted McDaniel and P. N. Ellerbe.

The Vesper service will be followed with an hour of Christian fellowship at Service Club No. 1, which includes a community sing and buffet supper. The junior groups, ages 9-12, and teen-age groups, ages 13-19, will go to "Brat Barracks" for an hour of fun, recreation, religious music and buffet supper. They will be under the supervision of Mrs. Esther Carson.

All non-personnel are invited to participate in these activities.

REFRESHER COURSES SET

Way to Man's Heart New Club Director Ace At Food for Servicemen

Mrs. Margaret Moodie Ziegler, club director at Service Club No. 1, is a woman of many talents.

The soft-spoken brunette is an expert at finding the way to a man's heart, for food is her speciality. Future parties and buffets at club No. 1 promise to be special treats with Mrs. Ziegler in charge of the menu.

And she knows Army appetites too, for Mrs. Ziegler was cafeteria director at Camp Fickett, Va., from 1942 to 1944. From 1944 to 1946 she operated three restaurants as a civilian, and then spent three years working for the Rockefeller Restoration preparing lectures, acting as a guide, "and working with food, of course," in Colonial Williamsburg. More recently Mrs. Ziegler has been reaping even more popularity as a food and recreation worker at Martinsville General Hospital in Virginia.

Although Mrs. Ziegler has always "worked" with food and recreation, her major "interest" when she went to college at North Carolina College for Women at Greensboro, was journalism. But she soon decided she liked nutrition better than newspapers.

Mrs. Ziegler arrived at Fort Benning last week from her home in Blackstone, Va.

Ex-German POWs Ask 'Back Pay' From U. S.

DETMOULD, Germany — Former German soldiers who were prisoners of war in America claimed Saturday that the United States still owes them 1,400,000,000 marks ($333,200,000) in PW pay.

This sum, they said, includes interest on the amounts they should have received when discharged from PW camps. All prisoners were allotted $ a 11 salaries for work they performed while prisoners.

The claim was made by the Association of Former German War Prisoners in the United States during a week end meeting here. The association complained that there was no legal means for them to press their claim against the United States.

Review Honors Disabled Officer

Units of the 8th Infantry, of the Fourth Infantry division honored Colonel Carlton O. MacNeely, 1644 Carter Ave., Columbus, last Saturday at a review held in his honor at Tiger Field.

The 3rd Battalion, Lt. Col. Wayne C. Winder commanding, and the 4th Battalion, Maj. Archie C. Aigre commanding, paraded. Lt. Col. Milton J. Mastalovich as commanding officer of troops, with Capt. Melvin R. Birch functioning as adjutant.

Colonel MacNeely commanded the 2nd Battalion of the 8th Infantry during World War II, and was retired from service in 1945 for physical disability resulting from wounds received in combat.

The Fourth Infantry division band and the 8th Infantry Field Music provided music for the occasion.

Continuing expansion into Tibet has caused serious reverberations in the tiny, independent Kingdom of Nepal.

Nepal is a country in which "nearly every man is a soldier." Perhaps the best known fighting troops to come from Nepal are the fierce Gurkhas, who have fought valiantly in the ranks of the British colonial army. Nepal has a standing army of 50,000—relatively large for a country with less than seven million people.

Located in the heart of the towering Himalayas, Nepal's capital city, Katmandu, is accessible by only one tortuous mountain pass. Being classed as a modern city, Katmandu has paved streets and white palaces. It requires hundreds of straining coolies to carry automobiles into the capital, the only part of the country with motor roads.

Nepal, like most of the other countries in southeastern Asia, has its torridous season. Mountain rivers pour silt-laden flood water into Nepal's lowlands annually.

The pro-Western Kingdom of Nepal is only 500 miles long and 100 miles wide.

Revolutionary Soldiers Got Jerked Beef on Yule Menu

WASHINGTON (APFS)—There shouldn't be any griping by most soldiers, sailors, marines or airmen about this Christmas menu. But there probably will be.

If there be any of those perpetual grippers listening in, maybe they'd prefer a diet far removed from today's turkey and its trimmings. For instance: When the United States was still in swaddling clothes, her military men had to be content with the barest food essentials.

During the Revolutionary War the men who handled the muskets in our fight for freedom had to be satisfied with jerked beef, flour, dried peas, milk, and a quart of spruce beer. That was their day's ration.

Those hardy men of iron who sailed the seas didn't fare any better than their soldier contemporaries.

In 1794—that's when Congress authorized a new pay scale plus rations—a day's menu consisted of a pound of bread, 1 1/2 pounds of beef (sometimes a pound of pork), half a pound of peas or beans, and four ounces of cheese.

Additionally, the sailors were entitled to one half pint of "distilled spirits," or a quart of beer.

'Stand Up, Hook Up, Get Set to Jump...!

BY ARMED FORCES PRESS SERVICE

What's it like to jump from an airplane in flight? Maybe not as bad or quite as dramatic as it seems, says Colonel A. S. Newman, in a recent article in the Combat Forces Journal.

The colonel's article takes you through the process step by step. First the main chute goes on your back and a reserve chute between your beltline and waist. These are checked by an expert and the plane commander. You enter the plane and sit on row of seats along the aisle, holding a metal snap fastener in one hand.

"Get ready!" the jumpmaster orders. With the metal clasp held in front of your eyes to check it, the order to "stand up" followed by "hook up" is given and you fasten the clasp to a steel cable running the plane length. Equipment checks are first in line. As the order "stand in the door" is given you grasp each side of the open doorway and slightly bend. Now you simply pull yourself through the door.

There is a slight suffocating feeling at first; your heart pauses in its beat. There is no sensation of falling. With hands clasped to the ripcord on the reserve, you count aloud, "one thousand." If the operating shock of your main chute is not felt you then use the reserve.

The nylon umbrellas, jerked out by the snap fasteners to the webbing, is literally blown open with positive force. Most of the shock is felt in the front part of your shoulders. And there you are, the colonel explains, suspended above the earth. The first thing you notice is the silence.

After a check to see that you are falling into the drop area, and that no other paratrooper is near, you're set for landing. You must avoid looking at the ground to prevent pulling up your legs—landing on your bottom is not recommended. With knees slightly bent, toes lower than heels, you land in a sort of rocking chair motion, no part of your body setting down too solidly.

Park Invites Benning Tots To See Santa

Fort Benning children are invited to a Christmas party to be held at Idle Hour park on Sunday Dec. 17, according to Mr. Marlowe, business manager, who extended the invitation.

The party will be free of charge and many events have been planned for the children, Mr. Marlowe said.

Guests for the day will be "Old Saint Nick" himself, who will arrive at the Municipal airport in Columbus at 12:30 p. m. From there he will board the Idle Hour park train for his trip to the party festivities. He is expected to arrive at the park around 2 p. m.

Those children who desire to accompany Santa Claus from the airport to the park will be given the opportunity to do so. Mr. Marlowe added, but the number that will be allowed to ride with him will be restricted to the limit of the train's capacity.

The party will begin at the park with the arrival of Santa Claus. Each child will be given an assortment of mixed candies, nuts and fruits.

Stalled Romance In High Gear As Chaplain Aids

CAMP CAMPBELL, KY. — After being delayed twice by the Army, Cupid won out in the eleventh hour recently and the new Mrs. Weiners, both able to marry Miss Anne Fucito. His problems began when he and Sgt. Francis J. Weiners was of New York, planned a wedding for October 14. At the time Weiners was still a civilian, but the Army assured him he would not be called to active duty before his wedding day. He was recalled on October 10.

Once back with Uncle Sam, he phoned Anne that they could be married on a weekend pass. Plans were re-set, but the pass was cancelled because of a transfer. The Army, alerted at the last moment through a chaplain's plea and the couple was married.

OBJECTIVE—IN THE BLACK... Learning to be a keen shot is serious business for a soldier and Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, United States Army infantry inspector provides sage advice to the men of the Second Battalion, Eighth Infantry regiment, as he inspects them on the firing range for the first time here at Fort Benning. Most of the men, being recruits with little actual firing experience, if any, impressed the general with their earnest attempts to riddle the bulls-eye.

Heroic Pilot Dies To Save Onlookers

DALLAS — A National Guard pilot gave his life to fly his flaming plane away from scores of Sunday drivers who were watching him take off.

An internal explosion in the F-84 jet flown by 1st Lt. James Arthur Bradley of Dallas set the plane afire on the takeoff from nearby Hensley Air Force base.

Officers watching said Bradley could have stopped his takeoff and escaped. But about 100 automobiles, filled with spectators, were parked at the end of the runway just outside the field's boundary.

CHECKING THE SCORE... Of Rct. Clifford A. Walkup, Company H, Eighth Infantry regiment, Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, the United States Army infantry inspector, questions him about the use of the score book in correcting shooting errors when on the firing line again. Although a recruit on the range for the first time, Rct. Walkup, proved to the General that he understood the use of the score book.

Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, the United States Army infantry inspector toured Fort Benning last week and included the rifle range in his itinerary.

The socky, keenly-interested officer, who spent over two hours with a group of beginners, kept up a running fire of tips and advice to the perspiring men "on the line."

General O'Daniel was volubly impressed with the earnestness of the men, some of whom were plunking their shots "into the black" with regularity.

The inspector was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, Fourth Infantry division commander. The rifle instruction was being given to men of the Second Battalion of the Eighth Infantry regiment.

After completing his inspection of the ranges, General O'Daniel then proceeded to the Harmony church area where he inspected the Twenty-second Infantry regiment, where personnel were being instructed in map reading, preliminary rifle marksmanship and other phases of their training.

The second day of the general's tour was devoted to inspection of men of the Fourth Infantry division, training in small arms firing, rockets, hand grenades and transition firing.

Completing his tour late in the afternoon, General O'Daniel remained on the post overnight and departed early the following day.

Common Sense Can Stretch Toy Budget

The jingle of Christmas bells is drowned out for many parents each year by the hollow jangle of jiggly banks which contain insufficient funds to provide the lavish gifts they'd like to provide for their families.

This year, instead of allowing worry to cloud your Christmas spirit, give a little thought in advance to solving this problem. One way to make the holidays merry with little expense is to ask your relatives and neighbors to save for you any toys their older children may have outgrown and discarded.

If you have in your attic or basement playthings that have been tossed aside by big brother or sister, drag those out, too, to see if they can be fixed up for your younger children.

Often minor repairs with a hammer or screw driver will make "broken" toys workable again. And a can of enamel can aid you in not only restoring their new look, but also in glamorizing them beyond their original state. G. y designs, such as those employed by Peter Hunt in his distinctive folk art, are particularly effective. These are easily done by using the basic tear-drop stroke recommended by Hunt.

As for toys purchased in the stores, let common sense be your guide. Give a bit of time in advance to observing your child at play, so you'll know exactly at what level his interests and abilities currently are.

Select soft stuffed toys for a child under two, but remember a big boy of five might be insulted at such a choice. Conversely, don't frustrate a three-year-old with puzzle games too complicated for his years; save those for the seven-year-olds on your list.

If the heart's desire of your child runs into dollars rather than cents, don't deprive him of it if you sanction his choice and can reasonably afford it.

If your budget simply won't stretch to cover it, try buying such things as electric train, piece-meal with a starter set, he can get along until fancier gadgets can be added next Christmas or on his birthday.

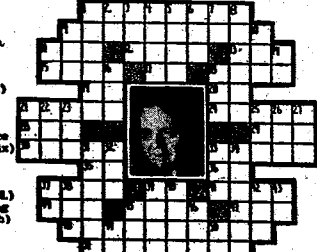

An old wagon, a cast-off wheel barrow and other playthings painted in Peter Hunt's technique gleam bright and gay beneath the Christmas tree. The pieces were decorated peasant style with the tear-drop stroke recommended by Hunt.

STRICTLY FRESH

UNLESS you do your Christmas mailing early, the postman will be left holding the bag on December 25th.

At a school for Santa Clauses, the gents are taught to laugh jovially, cope with beard pullers and handle all questions from the small fry. Wait 'til the State Department hears about this school for Red diplomats.

The recent blizzard that paralyzed the midwest proved that the muscle-powered snow shovel is still the best way to get down to the bottom of transportation difficulties.

Security officials, entrusted with our nation's top secret military information, might well pick up some pointers from their wives who have kept Christmas presents a "top-drawer" secret for months.

Many Christmas Events Planned At Benning; Busy Post Drives Ahead In Regular Training

JUST LIKE DADDY. Lt. Col. Milton J. Mastalir, commanding officer, Fourth battalion, Eighth Infantry regiment and his son, Milton, Jr., stand in front of First platoon, heavy tank company, awaiting the adjutant's call for regimental parade. Needless to say, junior wants to be a soldier, "just like daddy."

Local Passes Liberalized As Holiday Leaves Carved

The curtailment of the Christmas holiday policy was announced this week by Department of the Army. Although the new directive states that training will be suspended only for observance of Christmas Day, 1950 and New Year's Day, 1951, post and local officials are planning an extensive holiday program for the men who will be "here" instead of "home" for Christmas.

Under the new directive commanders will grant leave of absence to personnel of this command on as liberal and equitable a basis as training requirements will permit.

On the post parties, dances, shows, turkey suppers and the Christmas trimmings will take the spotlight the Christmas season.

Christmas activities are to open with a "white gift" service on Dec. 17 at the Main Post chapel. Programs will be held at 4 and 8 p.m. and those who want to give to needy families are invited to place parcels, wrapped in white paper, on the altar.

After the gifts are collected, 50 baskets, each containing 20 dollars worth of merchandise, will be filled for needy families in this area.

Christmas dinner for those troops remaining on the post during the holidays will again feature turkey with all the trimmings, and military personnel will be allowed to entertain their immediate families and one guest at the noon meal.

Social Events Social events at Fort Benning will increase considerably during the holiday period. All four service clubs have full schedules, beginning with Christmas tree-trimming parties at clubs No. 2 and 4 Dec. 20, followed by a decorating party on Dec. 22 at club No. 4 and Dec. 24, and clubs No. 2 and 4 will hold Christmas parties and carol sings on the same evening. Club No. 3 will open the holiday season Christmas eve afternoon with a caroling party.

Service clubs No. 1 and 2 will hold open house and serve refreshments Christmas Day, and clubs No. 2 and 4 will have the scene of parties Christmas afternoon.

The chaplain's section will also sponsor a children's party at the Main theater on Dec. 22. Entertainment (See MANY, Page 2)

44 Majors Given Promotions; Two Captains Upped

The leaves on the shoulders of 44 Fort Benning majors turned to those of lieutenant colonel this week when a record number of promotions was announced by the Department of the Army. Two additional officers were promoted from captain to major. The temporary ups in rank were effective December 5.

Receiving the largest number of promotions in this department were John J. Beeson, 3rd Altn. L. Bogardus, Eugene C. Drouillard, Felder L. Fair, Embert A. Fosson, Edward Ingles, Harry E. Jost, Herbert V. Mansfield, Myron McClure, Stephen J. Meade, Joseph B. Mullinax, James L. Penner, Loyd E. Willis, and Thomas A. Rafferty.

Officers in other organizations receiving promotions were Student Training Regiment: Laurence T. Ayers, Harold L. Dorsett, Francis N. Gregg; 4th Infantry division, including Mess Hall, Day Rooms, Barracks and Mess: Major Louis will be inspected. Major General William C. Chase, 3d Army deputy commander is expected to be present for activities Saturday.

Other reviews and inspections have been scheduled by Lt. Col. Robert H. Schulz, G-3, 4th Infantry Division, as follows: Fourth Infantry division, special troops, Jan. 27, 22nd Infantry Feb. 17, 12th Infantry Mar. 24, and Division artillery Mar. 24th.

Vital Conference Ponders Benning School Operation

National, state and local officials gathered at Fort Benning yesterday to discuss the effect of recent legislation on the future operation of the post children's school.

The school is one of two in the United States operated by the Army for dependent service children. Under the new regulations the dependent's education program will not be supported by Army funds after June 30, 1951. At that time responsibility for the program will be turned over to the Federal Security Agency.

It is hoped that the only major change in the operation of the Fort Benning school system under the new regulation will be the source of funds, Col. James P. Torrence Jr., president of the school board, told the visiting officials.

Atlanta Meeting He noted that a preliminary Fort Benning and state school authorities was held in Atlanta last month and that the group was in complete agreement that the present operational status of the post school system should be retained if possible.

Free education will be provided for all dependent service children including those living in Wherry housing such as Battle Park Homes and Custer Road Terrace apartments under the Public Laws 815 and 874 enacted in September.

There have been times in the past when military personnel have had to pay tuition, but following passage of the laws, the Army has directed elimination of these tuition payments.

Discussions also covered the proposed construction of additional school facilities at Fort Benning in 1952. Previously the additions had been planned as part of the Army construction program. Under the new ruling funds for the building will have to be allocated from the Office of Education, Federal Security Agency. Money for school construction will be treated to a super-

Pat Murphy Writes Again On Experiences in Korea

Cpl. Pat Murphy, remembered by many at Fort Benning as a soldier who has been carving for the past months as a combat correspondent.

Murphy, who travels with a battered portable typewriter in addition to standard equipment of an M-1 rifle and field equipment, has hammered out many letters composed within hearing distance of tanks and mortars. Some of these letters, written in addition to regular dispatches to newspapers and press services have been sent to friends at the post.

The following are excerpts from two letters received recently.

(It should be noted that the transmission of the letters has followed regular channels and allowances must be made for the tumultuous development of events in Korea since these letters were written.)

SOMEWHERE IN NORTH KOREA, Nov. 20—Today is the first opportunity I have had to place myself before a typewriter and dash off a letter in quite some time. I've been most interesting news.

The enemy has ventured only so far as to stage occasional hit-and-run counter-attacks, consisting of small arms fire, bugle-blowing and screaming to keep our men jumping. Our casualties have been small.

Recently I was fortunate to take part in one of the many humane exploits of the war. One of our regiments had made contact with the enemy in force and during the engagement some of the men had lost contact with their comrades.

They had made their way in small parties into the hills for safety as they found themselves cut off in an area "thickly settled" with enemy forces.

There they waited their opportunity to regain contact with their own lines. Last week, a young farmer, slipped through the lines with a note written in English. ("Can you read English, Are Americans coming?")

The farmer brought to intelligence officers that three wounded American soldiers were holed up near his farmhouse. Immediately, a small rescue party was organized and the young farmer put in the guide post.

Searches by four tanks the party dashed 4,000 yards through the enemy lines and snatched up the wounded men. They were sent back to our lines. There wasn't a shot exchanged during the rescue, but the incident stands out as a poignant example of the bravery of American soldiers and tenderness towards comrades in dire distress.

Second letter excerpt— Being with the First Cavalry division has left me little time to meander here and there exploring the social and cultural and geographical highlights of Korea. For the same reason I was unable to see very much.

Incidentally, shortly before we hopped across the 38th parallel I joined our office as an interpreter and general handyman. None of us perceived anything unusual about the boy or his background, but the coincidences of the many strange events of the war have made the boy, who is in his mid-twenties, was a former student at Chosen University, that immediately had the earmarks of being good newspaper copy. But, more, it turned out he had been with the Communists in Seoul. He had hid in the hills and conducted a resistance against the Red militia in the South Korean capital. We had enjoyed him as a friend and found considerable use for his background. He has since left our company and returned to his home in Pusan. I have talked with people of every walk of life in this country of blue-hazed hills and dusty bumpy roads. I've talked to the merchant, the farmer, the brewer and the banker. They portray a cross-section of typical life in Korea.

I found it exhilarating to roam through a village with an all purpose and to see the ancient form of life. I found it even more fascinating to learn the customs and a philosophy. There is no end to the remarkable aspects of life here and any writer would give his eye teeth to be in my shoes. I am quite aware of my good fortune to be so immersed in this history making chain of events.

I have found that many of the troops have not felt as I do about the lowly Korean and over-looking many fine attributes. Their attitude seems to label the Korean as just a nondescript rice-eater.

But, I think the average soldier, caught up in the setting of the war, has had little time to consider thoughts and virtues of the little people who often seem to test our patience.

I personally think that the Koreans are one of the socially perfect people of the world. I am admittedly, their way of life is far behind and inferior to Western standards, but it is not inferior in purpose. This way of life is an ancient civilization, sparked by the rise of the more sedate part of the culture of the more sedate part.

I do not condemn them for their ways, certainly, even if they are hard on the Manchurian border. I have heard remnants of the enemy entrenched on the line. Apparently, they are well equipped but they are thrashing around in their "pool of fanaticism" and refuse to be driven entirely across the Yalu.

I have learned that the Cavalry is going into the sector in large strength and I have seen the signs of resistance. I hesitate to predict the events of the future, for I do not know the intricacies of diplomacy, politics, and military cunning.

During the capture of Pyongyang I was aboard a lead tank in the first column "covering" the capture.

We got into a pretty hot fight with snipers during which I killed my first Red soldier as he ran up an alley, not 25 yards from where I was standing.

Life is becoming increasingly better over here for the soldier. PX rations, c-varets, candy and other items are now stocked in greater amounts.

Bob Hope and his troupe were here for two days this week and they were well escorted for some of the beautiful girls in the group. In addition to the Taylor Maids (a singing trio) and Mary Keats, Marilyn Monroe's hair-dresser and secretary.

As the troupe said goodbye to our area after the presentation of one of the girls presented me with a "burp gun, made in Russia. Here, I have been in the midst of the fighting for weeks and a Hollywood movie star gives me a "burp gun."

My kindest regards to all my friends at Fort Benning.

U.S. Cuts Off Aid to Britain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—The United States cut off all Marshall plan aid to Great Britain effective Jan. 1.

William C. Foster, the Marshall plan administrator, said Britain's economic comeback in the past year is the reason.

Since the recovery program started in April of 1948, Britain has been allotted a total of $2,694,300,000.

The program, named for Gen. George C. Marshall who proposed it while he was Secretary of State, had a dual purpose: to help Europe recover from damages of World War II and to strengthen friendly nations against the threat of communism.

The move to stop all Marshall plan aid to the British comes five weeks after conversations between Marshall plan officials and the British government. Britain is the first nation to step out of the program.

In an announcement issued at the same time that British Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Gaitskell was breaking the news to the British House of Commons, Foster said:

"The suspension of aid under the European recovery program does not mean that the recovery of the British economy is complete or that financial resources of the sterling area are adequate."

The United States action, Foster said, does not mean a permanent end of Marshall plan aid. If Britain's economic position worsens there can be "reconsideration, if necessary," of the cut-off order, he added.

Britain will be permitted to use the $75 million granted her by the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) as its Marshall plan allotment for the last week in Jackson, Miss.

Soldier Gets Travel Weary Letter Here

Three years, one month and three days after his mother had posted a letter to him, a former Fort Benning soldier, recently returned from a tour of duty in Europe, received the letter which had been originally addressed to his training outfit at Fort Benning.

The battered envelope, addressed to Capt. McCarray, Raymond, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McCarray, Plainfield, Miss., for delivery to the post office at Marburg, Germany, to Bremen, to Bremerhaven, to some illegible APO, to Camp Kilmer, to Fort Benning, back to Camp Kilmer, back to Marburg, back to Bremen, back to Bremerhaven, to another illegible APO, back to Kilmer, back to Fort Benning.

Stamped the third time at Benning, the letter went back through the full route again. It was received by Camp Pickett, Va., where he is now stationed.

Inside was a crisp one-dollar bill, and outside, almost buried among the postmarks, a large return address. The legend "please advise correspondents of correct military address."

Wrote the soldier: "Dear Mom - thanks for the bucks, and no, I don't think they'll be home for Christmas, 1947."

Softenberg Appointed To New Post for AF

Chester D. Softenberg has been named deputy for convening Army and Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert, Air Force officials announced.

Mr. Softenberg will handle all guaranteed loans to industry for the Air Force under the new law, also of other types of financing in connection with Department of Defense orders.

Craft Developed For Sea Rescues

A 40-foot crash rescue boat designed specifically for rescuing airmen downed at sea was turned over to the Air Force for test last week.

Officially designated "Rescue Boat, Mark I," the new boat has a hinged "transom" or "tailgate" at the stern which can be lowered into the water to provide a working platform for bringing survivors aboard.

During World War II it was found that the handling of injured airmen when hauling them over the sides of carrier type rescue boats could complicate their injuries.

The tailgate of the new boat can be lowered to about 18 inches under water and a litter can be placed under an injured man to slide him gently up the tailgate ramp and into the aft cabin.

Guard on Props

To prevent survivors from being injured by the propellers, two guards, one on each propeller, are mounted on hinges at each side of the stern and are lowered automatically when the tailgate is down.

After being brought aboard, survivors of a crash can get first aid examination and those requiring immediate medical attention will be transformed into patients of a hospital or dispensary, is a heated compartment equipped with hot and cold running water, first aid facilities and sufficient blood plasma, drugs, bandages, and other supplies.

The new crash boat is equipped with a radio transmitter, ground-to-ground and sea-to-air radio communications system. It is also equipped with a life preserver and a first aid kit.

Two Gray Marines and a crew of five will accompany the boat to a top speed of more than 20 knots.

The new rescue craft is the first of five such types to be delivered to the Air Force for test purposes. It was designed and built by a crew of the United States Navy as a joint project to develop a medium-sized rescue craft suitable for operating in protected waters such as bays, lakes, harbors and rivers.

Formal Yule Party Fetes General Miller, Col. Krams

The Officers and ladies of the 344th Area Service Unit entertained with a formal Christmas party at the Polo Hunt club on Saturday in honor of Brig. Gen. Miller, who is retiring and Mrs. Miller, and Col. Corland K.

The receiving line was composed of Col. and Mrs. Corland K. Krams, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Maurine L. Miller and Lt. Alexander Jones.

The fireplace was banked with pine and holly and Christmas balls and hung with socks. In one corner of the club was a giant Christmas tree. The whole club was decked with holly, mistletoe and pine. For the occasion the ladies were presented with corsages.

The ladies of the organization presented Mrs. Miller with a fitted case and the ladies and officers of the group presented Gen. and Mrs. Miller with matched monogrammed luggage.

In addition to the honor guests, among the two hundred attendees were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Robert Hill, Col. and Mrs. Sevier Tupper, Col. and Mrs. C. E. Stucklin, and Mrs. Harriette Weeks.

Report From Washington Army to Train 25 Lie Detector Technicians

THE ARMY will train 25 polygraph (lie detector) technicians in a six-week course beginning January 8, 1951, at the Leonard E. Keeler Institute at Chicago. The course is part of the Provost Marshal General's program of advanced specialist training for selected criminal investigators. Warrant officers and master sergeants accredited by the Provost Marshal General as criminal investigators may submit applications for attendance.

CLASSES in the Navy's Class A Metalsmith's School at the San Diego, Calif., Naval Base, will convene every two weeks, beginning with the January 2, 1951, session. For each class there are billets for 25 recruits and five non-rated members of fleet personnel.

BOTH the Navy and Air Force have modified recruiting standards to permit enlistment of persons with dependents. The Navy will accept candidate in pay grades E-1, E-2 and E-3 (seaman recruit, seaman apprentice, and seaman) who have not more than one dependent. The Air Force will accept applicants with dependents if they are eligible for enlistment in Grade E-4 (sergeant) or higher. Male applicants may enlist directly from civilian life as privates and corporals if they have no more than two dependents.

THE ARMY'S 90th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion, slated for transport to Korea, will accept civilian members into its Military Amateur Radio System (MARS). Formerly, members were required to maintain Reserve status or other military affiliation.

Setback, Yes; Defeat, No!

There will be no Dunkerque in Korea! So says Army Chief of Staff L. Lawton Collins, who has returned from Far East conferences with General Douglas MacArthur. This comes as no real surprise to us, however, for, as one of General MacArthur's aides said shortly after the Chinese Communist intervention in Korea, "you just don't push American and British regulars around."

The action in Korea has proved the soundness of that statement more than once, and we imagine that as time goes on the aggressor forces will become increasingly aware of it. It's one thing to suffer a temporary setback on the battlefield, but it's quite another to be defeated. And UN forces in Korea are far from defeated.

The Defense Department stoutly maintains that the forces now in Korea are strong enough to hold off the invaders. They don't claim, however, that this magnificent defense can hold up indefinitely, which naturally makes it imperative that a thorough study of our military needs be made immediately. But we shouldn't lose sight of the fact that enemy losses in Korea have in many instances been ten times greater than UN losses, proving that numerical superiority alone can never win a campaign.

Taken for example, the heroic break-out by the encircled Marines and Seventh Division troops from the Chongjin Reservoir area on the Northeast front. It took them 13 days to reach the Hamhung-Hungnam beachhead, and they had to get help from the Third Division, but they made it. And furthermore, their losses were less than had been reported at first. (According to Marine officials the casualty list total only 4,000 as compared to earlier reports. Of course, that's an extremely high loss, but we have withstood much greater losses without sacrificing our battle efficiency.)

Some sort of honors certainly should go to the Third Division, which showed its colors bravely from the moment it was committed to action. We are understandably proud of their accomplishments in assisting the Marine Infantry push to the sea, for, after all, the Third Division did train at Fort Benning, which, of course, speaks well for the home of the Infantry.

Although UN forces have been handicapped from the very beginning of the Korean campaign, there has never been a time when they were out-fought. Their remarkable defense of the Pusan Beachhead, followed by their brilliant Inchon landing and their drive up the Korean peninsula all the way to the Manchurian border are feats which will go down in military history as proof of the free world's determination to put out the fires of aggression.

It's regrettable that there are still people who have visions of world conquest and who apparently will never be satisfied until they either enslave the world or annihilate themselves in the process. But so long as we have military forces such as those now fighting in Korea, the future of the United States remains bright.

Leave Those 'Duds' Alone

Handling of unexploded projectiles is extremely dangerous, and in many cases fatal. But man's curiosity sometimes gets the better of him, with the result that he pays no heed to warnings not to disturb "duds" found on impact areas of firing ranges.

Fortunately, there have been no reports at Fort Benning in recent months of personnel here ignoring these warnings. Third Army Headquarters, however, said this week that there have been many serious accidents at other installations in the area directly attributable to the handling of unexploded projectiles. It's up to the individual whether he wants to add his name to the list of unnecessary deaths. Remember, every time you enter an impact area, you are subjecting yourself to danger. Every time you disturb a "dud" you are exposing yourself to even greater danger. Unexploded projectiles are no respecters of rank, and no one has more than one life to give. Don't give it needlessly.

Chaplain's Corner Real Happiness Attained Through Christ

BY CHAPLAIN THEODORE C. FAWCETT

The greatest mistake of our times made by human beings is that the heart and mind of man looks upon Christianity as a system of ethics; it is more than this; it is a way of life. And it is not good advice, but Divine Adoption. To be a Christian does not consist of being kind to the poor, help various relief agencies, considerate to cripples, though it includes all of these. Christianity is first and foremost a LOVE RELATIONSHIP — which means just as you can never become a member of a family by doing good deeds, but only by being born into it out of love, so you can never be a Christian by doing good things but only by being born to it through Divine Love. DOING good things to a man does not make you his son, but BEING a son does make you do good things. If you have the life of a plant, you will act like a plant; if you have the life of a monkey, you will act like a monkey; if you have the life of a man, you will do the things a man does; but if you have the life of Christ in you, you will act like a Christian. What a man does is the exterior manifestation of what he is.

Let me point out to you the difference. Most individuals have their actions governed by their background; e.g. you think a certain way because you defend your class, your wealth or lack of it; you do certain things because they are profitable or pleasant to you; you hate certain people because they are a reproach to your conscience or because they threaten your egotism. In a word, you are self-determined. Now to be a Christian means to discard self as the supreme determinant of action; it means to put on the mind of Christ, to be governed by Christ's truths; to surrender your will to His Will—and to do all that is pleasing to Him and NOT to YOU. In other words, your life instead of being self-determined is Christ-determined. How often have you heard it said: "Oh, you cannot do anything with him" but the Christian answers: "You can. If God's grace ever gets into that man's soul, he will become a new creature."

So to each and everyone of you who are Christians, who know that the Divine Life is in your soul, be conscious that your every word, deed and thought is enacted before a Divine Audience. Therefore let Christ be the Unseen Guest at your every meal; your Fellow-Worker in every task; the Listener in every conversation; your Companion in every recreation; your Neighbor in every street; and your Lover in every love.

Be bold enough then to believe that God is on your side even when you forget to be an His. Live your life not by law, but by love. As St. Augustine put it: "Love God, love man, do whatever you please, for if you love God, you will never do anything to hurt Him or break off relationship with Him and you will always be happy."

One of the most discussed men of our times is General Douglas MacArthur. The troops that served under General MacArthur were usually high or low in their praise of him, seldom in-between. There were probably more rumors about General MacArthur than any other general in history. There are few soldiers who served under the General who could not recount some derogatory story about him which they heard at one time or another during their period of service under his command. What of these rumors, these stories? What of the man himself? Who is he? Where did he come from?

To begin with, Douglas MacArthur was the son of a Lieutenant General, Arthur MacArthur, who fought brilliantly in the American Civil War and later against the Indians in the west. Douglas MacArthur was reared in a military atmosphere and in the lusty surroundings of the wild west immediately following the Civil War. His mother came from an aristocratic, Virginia family, the male members of which fought with the Confederate forces against the Union Army.

General MacArthur's father died before he entered West Point in 1899. It was his mother, therefore, who guided her son through his four years at the Military Academy. It was she who drove him to graduate at the top of his class with a record that has not to this day been equaled. The General's mother travelled with him to his various posts, camps, and stations, and contributed greatly to his auspicious career beginning. General MacArthur was thirty-seven when he was training troops of the famous Rainbow Division in France during World War I. He was a full Colonel at that time unmarried. For his aggressive, brilliant part in World War I, General MacArthur's highest award was the Distinguished Service Cross. He was wounded and gassed during action in World War I. The fair-minded, clear-thinking GI will do well to acquaint himself with General Douglas MacArthur by reading this excellent book before passing on what might be idle gossip which is usually thrown at any person prominent in the public eye.

Benning Bandbox

By May Pigott

"Benning in Review!" "The Public Information Office of the Infantry Center at Fort Benning presents Benning in Review" — "The Public Information Office at Fort Benning presents Benning News Parade" — those are familiar words to the listeners of the post's two current radio programs which are aired over different stations on Saturday.

To those who listen, they mean fifteen minutes of talent, facts about Benning, a spotlight personality and news, but to the directors and writers of the programs the closing words of the programs mean that it is time to get started on next week's script.

CHECKING BACK OVER the office records, the PIO presented daily programs, weekly programs and special programs among which were a newscast entitled "Fort Benning on the Air", "Listen, It's Fort Benning" an all soldier show, written and directed by Benning personnel and later "Fort Benning Theater on the Air" with original scripts written by Benning talent. There were also various programs by different sections and units on the post.

Through the years as the personnel assigned to the Public Information Office, which directs and supervises and in most cases writes the radio shows, fluctuated with the growing seriousness of the world situation, some of the programs had to be dropped and it was by the hardest work and burning of the mid-night oil that they have continued.

But you ask just what is back of the two present day shows, the thirty minutes that you hear on the air. First, there is a constant, never-ending search conducted at the post for talent— pianists, singers, soloists and any other type that would be of interest to the public. When the search is fruitful, auditioning is begun, and in some cases rejection of talent, and planning for a show to include that particular type of talent accepted.

THE WRITERS MUST be in constant touch with each other combining ideas and talking over probable ways to improve the programs. They strive to keep up-to-date on every subject that could be used for the public, in books, songs, music and politics. They have to keep a finger on what's going on at Benning and the world over, if questions are asked they must know or find the answers in detail to be able to present it to their listeners in an interesting manner.

When they have settled on the type of script, the facts and items used must be checked for correctness, for timeliness and public interest, then comes the task of putting all of the information into one set form. Sometimes the scripts are rewritten as many as three or four times, and in some instances, only parts of them have to be redone. After the numerous rewrites are completed the writers and directors must time each part of the script to know how many minutes it is to be allotted to each person and then comes the split-second timing of the full completed script. The various talent has been rehearsed separately and timed and now the job of dovetailing everything to a minute comes in a full scale rehearsal. Frequently hours and hours are spent going over and over the same thing. Until recently the shows have been recorded at Benning, but lately the director has been trying live shows at the local radio stations.

IN ANY CASES, just when a show is ready for final rehearsal some of the scheduled talent will have to pull K. P. or some other type of detail, and the whole show has to be changed and things shuffled around to take care of the changes. Besides being a writer, director and actor, those in charge of the programs have to have the aplomb of a Menlow, the patience of Job, and the tact of a top rate ambassador to deal with some of the temperaments that are necessarily brought together on one program and keep them happy and in tune with the rest of the program.

With the increased personnel in the Public Information Office, the radio section is planning a series of various programs to start after the first of the New Year.

So there you have a first hand view of what goes on behind the thirty minutes that you hear on the air. It is an interesting and time-consuming work, and you frequently wonder if it's worth the trouble, but during the show when you happen to look to the control booth and the operator gives you the sign that all is well and going out fine over the air, the time, effort and energy that has been spent on the program is considered well spent and right then you begin looking forward to the next week.

In connection with the above, there is talent at Benning that has not been contacted, so the Radio Section of the Public Information Office has asked me to say that if anybody is interested in auditioning for one of the programs, all they have to do is contact the Public Information Office Radio Section for the time and place.

PFC DORIS JEAN NASH

Meet Miss Benning...

And its one step to the fore for Pfc. Doris Jean Nash, this week's Miss Benning, a favored daughter of the Hoosier state who claims New Haven as her home town, who worked in a paper box factory before entering the Army.

Doris is assigned to the Station Hospital as Laboratory Technician and works in Hematology, Urinalysis, Bacteriology and Chemistry and enjoys her work. She was well prepared for the job having attended the Medical Field Service school, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and studied and graduated from the Laboratory Procedure course also.

Pfc. Nash has three top-ranking hobbies, but right now they have all taken a back seat to a new one — writing to her husband, who is overseas in Korea. If there is any time left after the daily writing you will find her interested in art and she is extremely fond of music followed in choice by bowling, the athletic hobby. Her favorite music is semi-classical. She likes most movies but believes one must be in the right mood to enjoy a particular type of picture and the same holds true for her likes in books. When she dons the uniform evening clothes are her favorite type and she wisely chooses yellow as her favorite color.

Doris is a lovely blonde with blue eyes and a wonderful smile and pep and energy to spare. She loves to meet people and has a good time most any place she goes.

Of course, at present, her plans are a little indefinite but they mostly center around "when I get out of the Army and Frank comes back from overseas". Her husband is serving with the 121st Evacuation Hospital in Humkins, Korea and she is still practically a bride only having been married since June. Those "some-day" plans include a white vine-covered cottage with six healthy children to crowd the rooms and as if that were not enough a St. Bernard dog for their playmate. So Doris smiles and says add to the above hobbies daydreaming of the future when she and Frank will be together again.

Home, Garden Club Will Hold Christmas Luncheon Monday

The Home and Garden Club members are urged to display table of the Fort Benning Woman's club will hold its Christmas meeting on Monday Dec. 18 at 2:30 p.m. at the Country Club.

The Christmas room decorations contest will be the highlight of the meeting with several prizes to be awarded. All members may arrange their decorations to be used in the hospital wards, however, they wish to emphasize that it is not necessary to do so. Members who intend to donate their arrangements for use in the hospital wards are warned that no musical program and tea will conclude the afternoon.

This section of the Woman's club announces that it will not sponsor any formal contest for outdoor decorating of quarters as they have done in the past. At the luncheon table was centered with sprays of pine with silver-wrapped pine cones and Christmas balls, and by the candles, Santa boots and reindeer marked each place.

QUESTION: What Do You Think Of The Probable Change of the Army Uniform From Khaki to Grey?

Sgt. Elliott T. Pilchard, Eighth Infantry regiment; I think it's a great idea. It is the best change the Army has made, that is if they do make it. I never did like the khaki color. The new color would be a little nearer the Navy and I have always worn the Navy blue until recently.

M-Sgt. Charles B. Poston, Eighth Infantry regiment; I think I would like the change, it would certainly be different from what we have been wearing, and I think they would be getting back to the best uniform—the Confederate grey.

Sgt. Samuel G. Rogers, Eighth Infantry regiment; I think it would be a good idea to change and get a good dress uniform, if they don't make it grey they should make it a good tropical worsted.

M-Sgt. William J. Frank, Eighth Infantry regiment; I am amazed and agast that they are even thinking about it. We have been so busy setting up this organization that we haven't had time to read much about it.

Ret. Rex Lawhorn, Eighth Infantry regiment; I think the grey would be very neat and rather sharp. But as far as changing from khaki to grey, somehow I don't much think as everyone seems to be tired of olive drab, I think it would be a morale builder to have another color.

3-Year-Old Prediction Comes True

A prediction made three years ago by a Bayonet sport editor came true this week. The far-sighted prognosticator was fulfilled. This week almost to the day by the Associated Press which selected former doughboy gridder Bobby Ward to the 1950 AP All-American football team.

Writing in his column "Second Guessing" of the December 1, 1947 issue of The Bayonet, Greene wrote:

"When Bob Ward gets out of the Army and goes to college, some team will get an All-American football player. He's good enough to play on any top-flight college team in the country today."

Ward, who played tackle with the Doughboys and was voted "Player of the Week" and "Player of the Year" for 1947, is a junior at the University of Maryland. He was picked for the AP offensive team at guard.

Longer Life Seen For Jet Engines

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (APFS) — A chemical treatment for carbon brushes which will increase the high-altitude life of jet airplanes has been developed by Dr. Howard M. Elsey, consulting chemist of the Westinghouse Research Laboratories here.

In extremely dry air at altitudes of 40,000 to 50,000 feet, carbon brushes must provide their own lubrication or be ground to powder by friction.

By treating the brushes with a chemical compound related to common table salt, Dr. Elsey makes them produce a self-lubricating film of oil. The film is so thin that 2,000 layers of it would barely equal the thickness of a sheet of paper.

NEW SEDITION LAW

KHARTOUM, Sudan—The Sudan Legislative assembly has amended the Sudan penal code section dealing with sedition. The new section reads:

"Whoever arouses or attempts to arouse illegal opposition to the Sudan government, or feelings of hatred or contempt against that government or against the governments of Egypt or of Great Britain, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term extending to three years, or with a fine or both."

Hartness Lauds Caliber of Men

Officers of the Fourth Infantry division, who reported subsequent to Oct. 28, were assembled in Chapel No. A, last Friday evening, and were addressed by Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, division commander.

General Hartness commented on the high caliber of enlisted men that the IV Division is receiving and referred to them as the "finest recruits that he has ever seen" and later as the "greatest group of men" with which he has ever served.

The responsibilities of the officers to the individual soldier in terms of personal welfare, precision in training, and troop leadership were among the subjects stressed.

Lt. Col. G. Harry Huppert, of the general staff also spoke to the group.

First Casualty Back at Benning From 3rd Division

The first casualty from the 3rd Infantry division which departed Fort Benning last August is back at the post.

Second Lt. George A. Millener, Jr., was evacuated from Korea by plane and arrived here last Friday.

Lieutenant Millener who was wounded by small arms fire in the right arm and leg joined the division two weeks prior to its departure last fall after graduation from the University of Maryland.

On Patrol
The wound was inflicted when the lieutenant and his patrol were on a mission to contact a Marine unit. He and his men were ambushed by the enemy while patrolling west of Wonson. Several men, including Lt. Millener, were forced to make their way on foot for 13 miles back to their unit.

An honor graduate from the University of Maryland, Lt. Millener received a direct commission upon his graduation, and the 3rd Division was his initial assignment.

He is the son of Col. and Mrs. George A. Millener and his father is the director of the weapons department at the Infantry School.

Special Orders Affecting Post

Special orders affecting personnel and assignments at Fort Benning were recently issued by the Department of the Army.

Assignments were as follows: Col. Delmar E. Dornke, 24th Evacuation Hospital; Capt. Charles W. Hawkins, Station Hospital; Maj. Philip Traino, 1st Lt. Paul M. Calmes, 1st Lt. Wendell W. Wood Jr. and 2nd Lt. Harold V. Gaskill, Fourth Infantry division; Lt. Col. Robert R. Summers, Capt. Claude K. Josey, WOJG Joseph C. Thomas, WOJG Carl E. Bowers, WOJG Howell E. Williamson, WOJG Robert E. Knight, Staff and Faculty, The Infantry School.

Detailed in another arm or service was Maj. Albert L. Stroth, who was detailed in the Signal corps.

Educators Endorse UMT in Resolution

COLUMBIA, Mo., — The Association of American Universities has unanimously adopted a resolution proposing universal military training and service for all 18-year-old youths.

The resolution said the international situation indicates a period of "high-level tension for the next decade or more, during which the military strength of the United States may be a vital factor in the prevention of a global war."

The action was announced last week by Dr. Frederick A. Middleburgh, University of Missouri president who is also president of the association.

The association pointed out that the Defense Department estimates a call for a standing armed force of 2,000,000 to 3,500,000 men, and added:

"This requirement will demand that the services of all able bodied men be made available as they become of military age." The resolution proposed also that all industries after completing the required period of training be transferred to reserve organizations "for a period of years."

Extension of the Selective Service act with certain amendments, for 10 years was recommended. The association suggested amendments to the act.

350 Maxwell Officers View Firepower Show at Benning

Three hundred and fifty field grade officers from Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., visited Fort Benning briefly last week.

The officers, members of Class 500, Air Command and Staff school, were here to witness an infantry fire power demonstration.

Colonel A. V. Walton, Air Command and Staff school instructor and the officer in charge of the group, and his executive, Major Everett McDonald, also an instructor at Maxwell Field, both expressed great interest and amazement in the skill and timeliness of the infantry personnel who conducted the demonstrations.

Major McDonald commented, "In spite of the bad weather, we thought the demonstrations were extremely well executed."

The officers visit Army and Navy installations in the area observing similar demonstrations as a part of their course at the Air Command and Staff school.

The officers, traveling in nine commercial busses, returned to Maxwell Field Saturday.

Signal Corps Pigeons In Arctic for Tests

FORT CHURCHILL, Manitoba (AFPS) — A consignment of 70 Army Signal Corps carrier pigeons, fully equipped for winter flight, arrived here recently to start Arctic training.

The birds will be tested for their capabilities and limitations under severe sub-zero conditions and their reactions to magnetic pull and Aurora Borealis constellation effect.

Sharp Appointed To Provost Post

Lt. Col. Hobart W. Sharp, former operations officer of the post Provost Marshal section, was last week appointed section executive officer replacing Lt. Col. Bernard R. Buehling, who was assigned to Third Army headquarters.

Col. Sharp has been at Post Benning since November of 1949, when he returned from Europe after spending 39 months with the United States Forces in Austria.

He is a veteran of over 10 years commissioned service with the Corps of Military Police, having first seen active service with the 45th Infantry division in 1940.

Advanced School
From January of 1942 until February of 1944 Col. Sharp was stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, and on his return he attended the Advanced Provost Marshal General's school at Fort Custer, Mich.

After graduation from the school he was stationed at In-

SOS Sent Out For Muleskinners

CHICAGO (AFPS) — Fifth Army Headquarters recently issued a call for muleskinners for duty in Korea. They must be entirely different from the skinners the Army knew back in the animal-transport days.

The new-type muleskinners, needed to pilot pack animals over rugged Korean terrain, must: (1) — Be in top physical condition. (2) — Not lose his temper easily. (3) — Love animals. Only the first requirement is characteristic of the old-time muleskinner.

Applicants accepted, Fifth Army said, will be sent to Camp Carson, Colo., for training with the Fourth Field Artillery Battalion (Pack), or the 8th Quartermaster Pack Company.

diantown Gap, Pa., and Fort Meade, Md., where he performed duty with German prisoners of war.

He remained at Fort Meade until September of 1946 when he was transferred to Austria, where he remained until November 1949 when he came to Fort Benning.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY L. KASSELER
Bayonet Sports Editor

The inability of the Fort Benning boxing squad to place a full eight-man team in a Third Army boxing tournament has three cost the Doughboys the Third Army ring crown. And it happened again at Camp Gordon last week.

For the third consecutive year, Benning boxers have been forced to be runner-up to a champion 82nd Airborne division team from Fort Bragg, N. C. because of a lack of entries in the flyweight and light-heavyweight classes.

Had Benning had representatives in either one or both of these divisions the tables no doubt would have been turned.

The reason is this:

Under the present point system used in Third Army boxing tournaments, a weight champion is awarded five tournament points, the runner-up three and the semi-finalist one. The team with the largest number of points at the completion of the tournament is proclaimed champion.

In last Friday's meet, Fort Bragg captured the 1950 title by virtue of a five point Bragg victory over a Benning pugilist in the heavyweight division. The Bragg boxers had aggregated a final score of 26 points, only three points more than the runner-up Doughboys.

The same number of points which are awarded to a finals runner-up separated Fort Benning from the championship.

Had Benning had entries in both of the subject classes, they would have been assured of at least runner-up placings, which would have added at least an additional six points to Benning's total of 23. This would have given a three point margin over the Fort Bragg Assassins.

It wouldn't even have been necessary for either boxer to win since the runner-up pointage was enough to capture the title.

Considering the possibility that Benning had placed a runner-up in only one of the two weight classes, the championship picture would have been forced into a deadlock. In the other would have given the title to the Benningmen by one point.

CAGE COMPETITION

Competition in the Fort Benning basketball league went into high gear this week and the eleven competing teams assumed their respective positions on the loop ladder, according to their ability and power.

The 1950 champions, the Airborne department of the Student Training Regiment, appears to be headed for another Infantry Center title as they have been undefeated thus far this season in three outings.

Other potential court powers and possible bidders for the post cage crown include two quintets representing the 3400th Area Service unit and the new post baby the Eight Infantry Regiment of the Fourth division.

Both teams are undefeated in league competitions played in the two week old hoop league and are expected to provide much opposition to the aspiring STR troopers.

Greenies Defeat ISD Five 71-55 in Curtain-Raiser

Overcoming a two-point lead in the initial quarter, the 3400th Area Service unit trounced an Infantry School detachment quintet, 71-55, in the ISD's curtain-raiser at the Main Post gym last Wednesday night.

It was the second straight victory for the ASU Greenies who are in a three-way tie for first place with the champion Student Training Regiment and the Fourth Division 8th Regiment. Early in the contest, the ISD hoopsters launched their attack on the ASU defended goal and surged into a 17-15 lead at the end of the first quarter.

But the ISD lead was short-lived as the Greenies returned with a fiery 17 point scoring session in the second canto and held their rivals to a 52-25 margin at half time.

Grab Lead Continuing their fast-moving offensive, the ASUers, paced by Rice, tallied a total of 19 corners and moved into a 51-38 lead at the completion of the third quarter. Rice who scored only two buckets in the first two sessions, roared into action during the third period and hit the hoop

Rugged Matmen Meet At Benning Tomorrow

Green Hornet Tangles With TV Star 'Atlas'

KARL KOWALSKI

'MR. ATLAS'

Mysterious ring ruffian, The Green Hornet, will make his initial appearance here tomorrow night when he tangles with television star, Billy "Mr. Atlas" Sandow in one of two main wrestling events scheduled at the Briant Wells field-house.

Ladies will be admitted free to the matches if they are accompanied by a paid escort. The first match will get underway at 8:30 p.m.

In the first of the two main events, the 210 pound Mr. Atlas from Toledo, O., will attempt to pin the masked mystery of the ring, The Green Hornet, who tips the scales at 222. If Mr. Atlas is successful in pinning his opponent twice, The Green Hornet must reveal his identity by unmasking before the crowd. Mr. Atlas who has become very popular with Fort Benning fans is favored to defeat and unmask the villainous mat ruffian. This will be a best out of three fall with a 60 minute time limit.

Second Main Event In the second main event, the popular Bob Shipp, 216 pounder from Dallas, Ga. matches brawn and ring savvy with Polish-born Karl Kowalski, who is junior heavyweight champion of the South.

Both grapplers are rated among the best in the matted square - circle world, and will be using their best in the best two-out-of-three fall match which has a 60-minute limit.

The opening match, which pits two newcomers to Benning mats, will find the rough and rugged 225 pounder, Butcher, Roy Martin from Hollywood, Calif., meeting the fouling Bobby Lane, 216 pounder of Omaha, Neb.

Martin is the former masked grappler who was known as the "Skull". Lane is coming here following a close and rugged battle with the world's heavyweight champion, Lou Thesz. This is expected to develop into a riot since neither wrestler follows the rulebook. Regular prices will prevail. General admission is 90 cents, tax included.

Engineers Grab 56-40 Victory

A rejuvenated 78th Engineer battalion quintet bulldozed their way onto victory lane last week by drubbing the Special Troops of the Fourth division, 56-40 at the old post gym.

Right winger, "Flash" Twitty led the Engineer hit parade to the tune of 27 markers on 13 buckets and one liberty leave. Crisler was high scorer for the Special Troopers with a total of 16 points.

Gaining a 24-18 lead at the half, the Engineers, spirited by Twitty, hit the hoop for 32 additional points in the closing quarter and halted last minute Special Trooper rally which netted 18 counters in the final 10 minutes of the game.

It was the initial win of the season for the Engineers who lost the curtain-raiser 69-38 to a 3440th Area Service unit aggregation earlier in the week. The loss was the first for the troopers who have a one and one record.

NEW COURT TWIST—The Lawson Air Force base introduced their lovely, blond "basketball coach", Monday night. Sally Sikora is Secretary to the operations & Training Officer. The five-foot-seven "coach" is a native of Randallia, Ia., and played guard on Randallia High girls team. Combined with her knowledge of basketball and her female ingenuity, Sally lead the Lawson team to a 93-34 victory over the Headquarters & Headquarters company team of the 30th Infantry. Front row left to right: Wallace Long, Ed Sharp, Sally Sikora, Bob Mitchell and Rod Kemp. Back row left to right: Willie Ratteree, Frank Drafts, Buddy Sullivan and Ronald Lonergan.

ISD Cagers Beat Fourth Division Quintet, 72-24

Avengeing their initial defeat of the day before, the Infantry school detachment dumped a Fourth division special Troops fivesome, 72-24, in a league cage contest played last Thursday at the Main Post gym.

The win was the first for the ISD hoopsters who played and lost their inaugural game of the season the day before to the 3400th ASU Greenies. As for the Special Troops it was their initial loss. They won the first game against Army Field Forces board No 3 last week.

Jumping into an early lead, the ISD tallied eight field goals and one free throw in the first quarter and sent another 23 points through the nets during the second period to lead the Division courtmen, 40-9, at the halftime. At the three-quarter mark, they were leading 57-15.

High scorer for the game was ISD center, Frank Maesic who racked up six field goals for a total of 12 points. Forward Charles Richards and "Speedy" Andrews recorded 11 and 10 points respectively.

Crisler was high point man for the Special Troops. He bucketed two field goals and six free throws for a total of 19.

Bragg Cops 3rd Army Ring Title At Gordon

Benning Squad Runner-Up For 5th Consecutive Time

Fort Bragg has done it again. Friday evening in Camp Gordon's huge sports arena, boxers of the 82nd Airborne division at Fort Bragg, N. C. annexed the 1950 Third Army boxing crown for the fourth consecutive year.

It was also the fifth time since 1945 that a Fort Benning fighting squad has been tourney runner-up.

The Airborne pugilists clinched the title in the final match of the finals when James Williams, a flyweight, light-heavyweight and a heavyweight, gained an unpopular split decision over Third Army heavy-weight champ Buck de Cardova of Fort Benning.

The victory gave the Airborne ringmen the three-point edge necessary to win the tourney. Had de Cardova won the fight, however, Benning would have won by a single point.

Approximately 2,000 mixed spectators were on hand to witness the finals of annual classic which lasted nearly four hours.

Although Bragg captured team honors, individual honors were evenly divided between the All-Americans and the Benning Doughboys. Benning boxers annexed the middleweight, welterweight, and bantamweight titles, while the Braggmen won with the first technical knockout of the evening. Throwing caution to the wind, Beltrante rushed in for a quick kill in the opening stanza, swinging wildly and without effect. He quickly used up his strength in the attack and became easy prey for the cautious Allen who TKO'd the third Atlantian in two minutes and 40 seconds of the second round.

Walter Rawles, a prize 128 pounder from Camp Gordon, deprived Fort Benning of its featherweight championship by defeating Benning's 128 pound Dan Garretson.

Finds Range
Fighting in a crouch, the Gordon pugilist found the range early in the opening period and sent a steady stream of straight lefts to Garretson's head for the remainder of the round. In the second round, however, Garretson reversed the tactics and returned the medicine two-fold, but (See BRAGG, Page 17)

Georgia has had a 10-year
POPULATION GROWTH 10%
TELEPHONE GROWTH 151%

A good gauge of Georgia progress and prosperity, and of the size of the telephone job that's been done, is a comparison of population growth with phone growth. While the number of people in Georgia was increasing 10% in ten years, according to the census, the number of telephones jumped 151%.

A large part of this telephone growth has taken place in just the last five years. During that short time Southern Bell has built $87,360,000 of new telephone facilities in Georgia... mass lines doubled the number of telephones... tripled long distance circuits and more than tripled rural telephones.

We've spent considerably more to expand Georgia telephone facilities in the last five years than we had invested in the state five years ago. And we're going right on doing our best to meet the continuing heavy demand for service in town and on the farm.

8th Cagers Beat 30th Five 78-18 For Second Win

Holding their opponents scoreless in the first quarter, cagers of the 8th Infantry regiment last Wednesday downed the 30th Infantry regiment, 78-18, to chalk up their second win of the season.

Playing on the Briant Wells field house court, the 8th Infantry Iyvmen completely dominated both offensive and defensive action throughout all four periods of play which resembled a marathon more than a basketball contest.

From the outset, the Iyvmen left no doubt as to the outcome as they combined a c u r a t e shooting with fast breaking and left a tight defensive ring in their rear to run rishod over the helpless 30th Infantrymen.

In the explosive third period the 8th regiment courtmen kept the game on ice by tossing a total of 23 points through the hoop and increasing the margin by 47 points.

Using substitutes freely during the entire four quarters of play, the 8th regiment courtiers fielded a total of 14 players, alternating between periods.

Top honors in the scoring department for the evening went to 8th regiment forward Angelo Ceyroni who dropped in 11.5 field goals and one free toss for a total of 19 points. Teammate, J. H. Huey was runner-up with 16 points, on seven field goals and two foul tosses.

Bragg
never the less lost the decision in the third. The light-heavy division, Bragg captured its second title by virtue of a TKO by Willie Hunter over Camp Gordon's Leonard Tripp. Battered by a barrage of blows, Tripp was unable to continue fighting after two minutes and 14 seconds of the second round.

In the only knockout of the finals, Benning's Norman Clark floored Leon Upspur, 142 pounder from Fort Bragg, for the full count after only two minutes and 17 seconds of the opening round.

Clark dropped the All-American trooper twice for counts of eight and four before turning off the lights permanently with a well aimed right to Upspur's forehead.

Earl Churly, 160 pounds from the 8th regiment, provided the biggest surprise of the evening when he almost stopped All-Army and three-time Third Army light-weight king, Larry Jones of Fort Benning.

Churly exhibited exceptionally good form as he blocked and countered Jones' aggressive tactics for three whole rounds. Churly's defensive action almost forced the bout into a stalemate, as neither boxer was able to land a blow.

Yaldizian Scores 53 for 201st Win

"Stretch" Yaldizian, a six-footer from the hills of West Virginia scored 53 points to lead the 201st Field Artillery battalion to 100-33 rout over the Army Field House Board No. 3 in a loop tilt played at the old post gym last Thursday.

Yaldizian who only the day before assisted the 201st Ragged Militiamen to a 66-39 victory over a Provisional Medical group displayed remarkable accuracy from far-out as well as under the net.

He scored 12 points in the first quarter, 14 in the second and broke loose with 23 digits in the final frame.

The easily gained victory gave the Redlegs a season's record of two triumphs and a single defeat. The Medics have won one, and lost two.

and the 3440th Area Service unit.
The contest which was played in 20 minute halves instead of the normal quarters was strictly an infantry show. The doughboys surged into the lead in the opening minutes of the first period and maintained a considerable margin during the remaining three quarters.

Doughboy center, J. H. Huey led the fast moving first half attack with four field goals and as many free tosses, and cleared the rim for an additional six points in the final half. His total of 18 was tops for the evening. Teammate Bob Waters annexed runner-up laurels with a total of 14 points. He tallied six buckets in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

On the scoring end for the flyers it was Bryan Sullivan who totaled 19 points on five field goals and three free throws.

Family Portrait

Happy Benning Couple Met On Phenix City Blind Date

Much has been written about the Air Force four years. During the time he has been stationed at Lawson, he has been NCO in charge of the Non-commissioned officers club and just recently has been assigned extra duties as clerk in Headquarters.

The Robinson family has a wide taste in food, but outturning all others in popularity is southern fried chicken and Laura claims ice cream as her favorite food, and when it was pointed out that ice cream was mostly a desert she still insisted it was her favorite food.

Dot and Bill are friendly people and love to have friends in to play monopoly and canasta. They also enjoy having friends in to eat dinner and in most cases, the main dish will be that favored fried chicken. As Sgt. Robinson explained after staying at the NCO club all day, he had rather be at home on off-duty hours, through they do like to attend the dances planned by the club.

BILL USED TO BE quite a hot enthusiast but lately hasn't had much time for the game and has just about given it up. Dot says she has no particular hobbies as she doesn't have too much spare time with all her house work and the two children to look after.

With as small baby its not too easy to travel, but before Patricia came the family like to go of on long vacations and Laura was a seasoned traveler. The Robinsons are a tight knit little family group and are looking forward with much pleasure to the coming holiday season. Laura especially is most anxious for Santa to come, and it will be interesting to watch the expression on the baby's face when she sees the Christmas tree.

So we add another young couple to our growing list of families who make up the world's most complete Army post.

Flight Training Offered Reserve Officers By AF

Plans to offer tours of duty for several thousand Air Force second lieutenants during the remainder of the fiscal year was announced recently by the Department of Defense.

The majority of the officers selected will Air Force ROTC graduates and second lieutenants in the Air Reserve who wish to apply. The opportunities are offered chiefly to second lieutenants desiring flying or technical training who are eligible for and desirous of becoming potential career officers.

Qualified second lieutenants who request flying training will be called to duty immediately with the stipulation that they will be entered in future flying classes. These officers will also be encouraged to apply for navigation and observer programs as well as pilot training.

Approximately 400 officers a month will be required for technical training. These will be called from second lieutenants requesting active duty and by call to active duty of Air Reserve second lieutenants and those who were appointed direct from civil life who hold degrees in electrical, mechanical, civil and chemical engineering, and in physics, mathematics or chemistry. The Air Training Command will begin receiving officers in this category Jan. 10.

Openings will also be available for those other second lieutenants who request active duty upon receipt of appointment, those who request duty and are fully qualified in a skill presently required by the Air Force and those qualified for on-the-job training in a non-technical skill.

LI. Col. E. M. Shipton, has been named executive officer of the G-4 section of the Infantry School. Lt. William A. Moon has succeeded Colonel Shipton as chief of the Maintenance and Museum section.

Santa Hands Out 54 Promotions At 4th Division

Santa Claus made an early visit to Fourth Infantry division headquarters last week and left Department of the Army orders for five officers to receive promotions.

Promotion orders for five "jolly" majors to become Lt. Colonels was the reason for Santa's call.

Wearing big "It's Christmas now" emblems are Lt. Col. G. Harford J. Gawlick, Richard L. Madry Huppert, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2; Lt. Col. Joseph A. Bookhamer, provost marshal; Lt. Col. (Chap) Earl E. Wolf, Division Chaplain; Lt. Col. George E. Crane, Judge Advocate General; and Lt. Col. Edwin E. Surbach, commanding officer of the 4th Heavy Tank Battalion.

Santa also included enlisted men in his visit. Division headquarters announced the following promotions:

To sergeant first class, Sgts. Arch Hudson, Murray Purser, Thomas Gaines, Ford Williams Jr., Lawrence R. Keith, Ralph M. Weller, Jr., Lt. Steven J. Den, Willard E. Minaker, Jack Underberg, Earl A. Pact Nations Set To Arm Germans

LONDON — The 12 Atlantic nations' deputies agreed last week on a plan to give Germans guns again to help defend the West.

The object of the plan is to put about 150,000 West German into a defense line extending from the Aegean to the Arctic in three years.

These German troops would make up about one-fifth of the West's armed defense against attack from the east.

The agreement is a major step in the policy of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to enlist the aid of German manpower and industrial might. Details of the plan were not made public.

Technically and politically, there still may be some problems to be solved before any Germans go back into army uniforms.

Politically many West Germans appear reluctant to take up arms for the West unless their occupied country is treated as an equal ally.

A dispatch from Bonn, capital of West Germany, said there were indications of resentment among government officials because they had not been consulted in the drafting of the plan. A government spokesman said the contents of the plan were unknown in Bonn and the government would reserve comment until the details are received there.

The dispatch said that anything which suggests German soldiers would have an inferior status in a West European army might wreck chances of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to win political support for authority to create the German contingents sought by the western powers.

France, remembering the last two world wars, agreed to the plan only after being assured that German units would be kept to brigade or combat team size, 4,000 or 5,000 men each.

Servicemen's YMCA Aims To Please

YMCA OFFERS MUCH. . . A home away from home and a place to relax and find recreation is located on 11th Street between Broadway and Front Avenue in Columbus. Shown above left, Francis X. Y Best Place to Pass Time

One of the most popular places in Columbus for the servicemen of Fort Benning is the Servicemen's YMCA located on 11th Street between Broadway and Front Avenues.

The main dormitory is on the third floor and there are permanent beds for 75 men with extra cots and space available for 25 or so more.

In the main lobby, there is a lunch counter, which serves regular meals or short orders from 6 a. m. until 9 p. m., the registration desk and check room and a well-stocked library which includes all of the popular magazines.

Another service which is available without charge is a checking system at the desk for valuables and money. Here the guests may deposit money and a card file is kept on it enabling the men to make deposits and withdrawals similar to a regular bank account. This service is open 24 hours a day.

Cigarettes, candy, stamps and miscellaneous items are also available at the desk, and the Y will cash government checks and money orders.

The entertainment program is wide and varied with something of interest going on all week long. On Monday nights the activities are strictly informal, with billiards, ping pong and checker tournaments conducted.

A dance is held at 9 o'clock

Service men throughout the world will soon have a chance to participate in the Monday airing of "Poodle's Paradise," a radio program that features questions and answers from the listening audience.

Seems that Bob Poole, the disc jockey's disc jockey, has made arrangements with Army Special Services to phone his listeners overseas and throughout the U.S. The right answer to some general question will give the lucky Servicemen a $25 savings bond plus a chance at a jackpot in bonds.

TWO CLASSES REPORT
The Infantry Radio Maintenance class No. 3 and Communications Chief course No. 2 reported to the 12th company Student Training Regiment on Nov. 30. Both groups were processed and started their classes on Monday Dec. 1.

Mr. Evans has been a warrant officer since 1941 and is definitely a family man. He lives at 4266 Fort Street, Columbus, with his wife, and eight children, Virginia, Thomas, Jr., Diane, Michael, Richard, Patricia, Gary, and Edward.

At present the band is composed of 28 men but they will be aided shortly by fliers who are presently completing basic training. The Fourth Infantry division band has already made several appearances at regimental parties.

MARINES BREAK OUT. . . Marines walk down a snow-covered road near Chosin reservoir in the Hagaru, North Korea area, during their drive North in Korea. It was in this area Marines were encircled by Chinese Reds when they started their intensive drive. It was reported that thousands of Marines broke out of the trap and were making for the sea. Later reports confirmed this picture story.

4th's Band Chief Knows His Job Well

The leader of the Fourth Infantry division band is well qualified, to say the least, to take charge of a group of musicians that promise to make the Fourth's band an outstanding organization.

The leader, CWO Thomas N. Evans, is a veteran Army man with 25 years of Army Band service behind him. A native of Bradford, Penn., Mr. Evans enlisted for the First Tank Group band at Fort Meade, Md., in 1925. He spent 14 years with the Seventh Cavalry Band at Fort Bliss, Tex., and followed that with three more years at that Post with the 79th Coast Artillery, A. A. band.

In 1945 he went to the Far East and served with the 1st Corps for 30 months at Kyushu, Japan. Following his return to the United States in 1948 he was assigned to the Fifth Division band at Fort Jackson, S. C. He was transferred to Fort Benning in 1950 and to the Fourth Infantry division one month ago.

How Did GI Originate? Writer Says He Knows

By Armed Forces Press Service
Who first called a service man a "GI," a term originally meaning "government issue"? William M. Croy, in a recent article in Word Study magazine, says he was there.

Back in the summer of 1938 at Randolph Field, San Antonio, Tex., Croy, 11 years old and the son of a technical sergeant at the field, was building a shed for a pet calf. He and a friend, Walter Renn, would ride on their bikes to the field to get old orange crates and boxes from kitchens to use for lumber.

Most of the sentries were friendly, although one day a new sentry stopped them.

"Where you going with those boxes?" he asked. The boys explained their project. When he accused them of stealing government issued property, they replied: "Nobody wants this stuff, besides it's not GI property."

"Yes it is," he said, "everything on this field is GI property."

Yule Party Set By Pine Lodge Club For Tots

A kiddies Christmas party will take place at the Pine Lodge No. 1 from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. on December 24. The party is being sponsored by the club for children of its members and for fifty underprivileged children from Columbus and Phenix City. The Columbus Salvation Army is selecting the underprivileged children to attend the party.

Santa Claus There will be presents for each of the children attending, in addition to nuts, fruit, and candies. A Christmas tree will stand in the club, and Santa Claus will personally deliver the presents to the children. A special program of recorded Christmas music will be played during the party. Much of the music will be selected especially for the kiddies.

The club management has requested its members who intend to bring their children to this party, to register with the club adequate provisions may be ordered in advance. Members of the club who have children have been urged by the club management to bring their children to this party. It is expected that the party will be best in many years.

Library Features Christmas Program In Record Concert

There will be a record concert held at the Main Post Library Tuesday at 8 p. m. featuring a selection of Christmas Carols.

The beloved Yule story of Scrooge's transformation, penned by Charles Dickens and with Ronald Colman in the role of the crochety old miser who turns to love for his fellow beings under the influence of Marley's ghost is a season's favorite. The records of this famous story carry sound effects and music.

Mr. Pickwick's Christmas is also on the program, a record story with Charles Laughton, the famous character actor in the part of Mr. Pickwick with orchestral accompaniment.

Guest Houses Opened Here For Holidays

By RAY SCHOLLEN BERG
In anticipation of a decided increase in applicants for sleeping quarters at Fort Benning due to the curtailment of the holiday leaves, the Post Exchange office announced the opening of the Sand Hill guest house.
According to Lt. Col. M. H. Steffen, Post Exchange officer, the guest house has been completely renovated and furnished. Providing sleeping accommodations for 60 guests, the building has 26 single rooms and two room-suites, with 50 single beds and 50 double beds.
Over 120 persons can now be furnished sleeping accommodations on the post.
Two guest houses for whites and one for coloreds, the latter in the Harmony Church area, will enable the post to take care of approximately 180 guests who wish sleeping accommodations.
Temporary housing facilities for families and friends of servicemen who are visiting here over the holidays have been arranged by the Columbus Travelers Aid bureau, located at 1000 1-2 Broadway, Mrs. Paul Green, supervisor of the bureau, announced this week.
Servicemen desiring temporary rooms and apartments are urged to contact the bureau between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. for reservations.
Travelers Aid personnel will also be at the Greyhound depot from 7 to 9 p.m. and at the train depot from 8 to 10:30 p.m. This will enable travelers to find housing as soon as they arrive in Columbus.

YULE SPIRIT AT BENNING... The day room at the WAC detachment is a busy place as Christmas draws near, and there is much guessing about the packages to be placed under the tree. The three girls above are doing their best to help things along. Left, Pvt. Janice Robinson starts the colored links, and Pfc. Davis for Nash sits down to finish the line of tinsel started by Pvt. Frances P. Bahamonde, right.

Regiment Given Praise Following Review Saturday

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding officer, the Infantry Center conducted a command inspection and review of the Eighth Infantry regiment last Saturday at Tiger Field.
The men of the regiment, recent inductees, marched past the reviewing stand to music furnished by the Fourth Infantry division's band and the Eighth Infantry regiment's drum and bugle corps.
General Burress was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, Fourth division commander, during the inspection.
General Burress talked with individual soldiers and questioned their reaction to various phases of the training they have received as well as other pertinent questions regarding their recreation. He personally congratulated Sgt. John Weibel of Company C for firing 208 out of a possible 210 on the range with an M1.
During the critique which followed the inspection General Burress remarked:
"I was favorably impressed with the appearance of the Eighth Infantry of the Fourth Division. When you consider the fact that this unit is only about five weeks old, it is remarkable. The men are good-looking, enthusiastic, self-respecting soldiers and I'm proud to be associated with them."
RANGERS FEATURED
Featured on the front page of the Army Times, international news service's newspaper this week is a photo of two recent graduates of the Fort Benning Ranger training. Pfc. James D. Galey is shown having his Ranger all change, grease job and "Bubba's" The caption reads "note Ranger patch."

Prizes Stacking Up For 51 Baby Derby

The first baby born to an enlisted couple at Fort Benning in 1951 will be a young gentleman or lady of property.
Already prizes are stacking up for the winner of the Eighth Annual Baby Derby sponsored by the Columbus merchants and The Bayonet.
Since the contest first started in 1944 the race has been neck and neck in regard to the number of boy baby and girl baby winners. Last year the boys edged ahead though, and the score now stands at four boys to three girls. If the race runs true to form this should be a girl's year but the merchants are offering both pink and blue prizes "just in case."
Entrants in the contest must accompany their claim to the raft of prizes with a doctor's certificate, specifying the time of birth; the parents are offered twins, "Well," says Lt. Ray Patten, Bayonet advertising manager, "we'll just cross THAT bridge when we come to it."
Mr. Patten said that the list of prizes has not yet been compiled but that gifts totaling more than a hundred dollars worth of merchandise are expected. Prizes worth of drugs, five dollars worth of merchandise and a free sight-seeing airplane ride over Columbus.
The new year's baby will truly start out with his or her head in the clouds.

3 Generals Stated For School Talks

Three General officers are on the speaking schedule of the Infantry School classes this month.
Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, Inspector of Infantry will arrive on the post this afternoon and will make the graduation address for Associate Infantry Officer Advanced Course No. 1 and Infantry Officer Communication Course No. 1 tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Main Theater. Receiving graduation diplomas at this time will be approximately 300 student officers.
On Dec. 28, Maj. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling, G-2, Department of the Army, from Washington, will address members of the advanced classes and the faculty of the Infantry School. General Bolling is expected to arrive at Fort Benning today and will remain here during the holidays.

Work Begun On Telephone Hub Project

A million-and-a-quarter dollar Signal Corps construction project is now underway at Fort Benning. Plans call for completion by July 1, 1951.
According to Maj. Gordon D. Gray, Infantry Center signal officer, the project will include building of two new telephone exchanges at the Harmony Church and Sand Hill areas and moving and re-equipping the Main Post exchange.
Line Increase
New exchanges at Harmony Church and Sand Hill will be enlarged to 600 lines, a 200-line increase over their present set-up. The new buildings are now under construction.
The Main Post telephone exchange will be moved from the building formerly used as the transmitter site.
In addition to moving the Main Post telephone exchange, it will also be enlarged and re-equipped with modern equipment. When complete it will be able to service 3,000 lines.
Present plans call for the completion of the Harmony Church and Sand Hill exchanges by March 31, and the Main Post exchange June 30.

Benning Warned Against Mishaps During Holidays

Fort Benning personnel were cautioned against holiday accidents this week in a message by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding officer, the Infantry Center.
Gen. Burress said, "At this season of the year all of us would like to forget accidents. We would much rather give our whole attention to the celebration of Christmas. But conditions causing accidents take no time off—not even for these days of such deep sacred and human significance. Newspapers shock us with their grim stories of tragedy—stories which in the past have always included personnel from this post."
"Christmas, with all its mystical aspects, cannot be separated from the everyday world and all of us have a part in safeguarding its happiness for ourselves and everyone who rides with us or whom we meet on the highways. Every accident we have a part in preventing, not only Christmas but throughout the year, is a contribution to someone's happiness."
It is my earnest hope that each of you, whether you choose to remain on the post or take leave to visit your homes, will insure your safety and that of your family by practicing and conducting yourselves in a courteous, careful and soldierly manner during the approaching holiday season.
Adding their comment on the unnecessary loss of lives caused by the holiday period, the Infantry Center Safety board council stated, last year 400 accidents and 120 deaths were reported. Of these, 100 accidents and 30 deaths were attributed to injuries received in accidents, each of these could have been avoided.
"Two soldiers killed in traffic accidents last year were killed because they had not learned to drive at a speed which would allow them to stop within the range of their headlights. In addition, one was under the influence of intoxicants and the other was so tired and sleepy that his reactions to a hazardous situation were too slow to save his life."

AF Asks Funds To Maintain 24 Hour Alert

WASHINGTON. — The Air Force has asked Congress for funds so the Air Defense Command can "maintain a 24-hour alert" with planes available for immediate action against an invader.

This was disclosed last week in a report released by the house military appropriations subcommittee on its closed door hearing Dec. 7 — Pearl Harbor Day — on the pending $16,844,000 additional request for the armed forces.

Secretary of the Air Force Finletter told the subcommittee that this appropriation would be used to assign additional pilots and maintenance crews to units of the Air Defense Command so it can keep a round-the-clock watch.

Finletter said the Air Force is stepping up its strength from 48 wings (formerly called groups) to 88 by June 1951, and then to 84 by June 1952.

He indicated the Air Force is working on plans to purchase more money for still further expansion even before the 1952 goal is reached.

Finletter said the Air Force is pushing work on the "radar fence," the secret identification devices being spotted in critical areas around the country to warn of approaching aircraft.

The Air Force is planning toward the perhaps not far distant day when its fighters and bombers will be outmanned by guided missiles — some of which will be capable of carrying the A-bomb.

Maj. Gen. Gordon P. Sevier, deputy chief of staff for development, said that last summer "in the light of recent international developments," the Air Force revised its program in an attempt to get these weapons into earlier operational use.

Last summer an informed Air Force source said it was hoped to get guided missiles into operational use and to the stage where they would begin replacing conventional type planes in from eight to 10 years. Indications are that the Air Force is advancing this time table.

Lanham Sees Bomber Plant Reactivation

ATLANTA — A Georgia congressman said last week the giant Marietta bomber plant will be reactivated mainly for production of six league B-47 strategic bombers.

Rep. Henderson Lanham of Rome, Ga., was informed by the Department of Defense that plans are to put the wartime plant back into production.

BENNING SANTA, CPL. ROBINSON, TESTING Trailer House Chimney Provides Puzzle For Old St. Nick

Joe Robinson Loves Chimneys

Benning Has 'Natural' For Santa Claus Role

If Cpl. Joe M. Robinson of Fort Benning had his way he'd be hiding down chimneys like mad on Christmas morning with Rudolph the Red-Nosed reindeer pointing his glowing red nose at the homes of little boys all over the world.

One look, and a few words with Joe and you get the idea that it takes more than just a Santa suit to be a Christmas Santa. . . . Joe looks and acts like a real boy, with the deep voice and the twinkly eyes and he'll climb a chimney at the drop of a candy stick.

A family man himself, Joe is the ideal Santa Claus type, having a jolly and carefree disposition. "I am never happier than when I can be with and talk to youngsters, and I am sure that as much pleasure out of playing Santa Claus for the kiddies as they do having me," Cpl. Robinson said in a recent interview.

Pole Champ Says Alaska Fine Place

BY CPL. WALT DEBARA

Old-timers is just not going to like it, but the Air Force has her native sons run off to Alaska and the Air Force and has decided to stay.

M-Sgt. James K. Boswood, 37th Reconnaissance Squadron, Fairbanks, Alaska, holds an all time record of 53 flights over the North Pole, enjoys his work so much that he has extended his enlistment and plans to retire some day in "that frigid country."

Sergeant paid a visit to New York recently to act as a technical advisor for a series of newspaper articles about the flights of the Military Air Transport Service (MATS). He took time out from his job to explain bits about the life and duties of a flight engineer on winter observation trips.

Flying B-29s, the men set a rectangular course that takes them from Fairbanks to the North Pole and back again. It's a job that requires spending 17 hours in the air in sub-zero temperatures collecting weather data over ice flows that make landing impossible.

For his home in Alaska, the Sergeant thinks that the fishing, hunting and skiing alone make it a better place than he says, you get used to. Fact is, he found New York's wintery streets rather pleasant, even without an overcoat.

With his wife, Marie, and his 5-year-old son, James, Sgt. Boswood says he will take the North anytime. Having built one log cabin with his hands, he has plans to construct a bigger one north any day. "Today is better one near Fairbanks with the whole family assisting. Oklahoma has good sense to be in the

Italy to Pattern AF On Lines of USAF

NEW YORK (APFS) — Italy will organize its air force along the lines of that of the United States within the limits imposed by its peace treaty, Maj. Gen. Ferdinando Raffacelli, of the Italian Air Force, said recently at La Guardia Field.

Guest of the U. S. Air Force, the general said many of the methods in training and organization used here will be adopted in Italy, adding that the force is limited to personnel of 25,000 under the treaty.

Caution Urged On Decorations For Christmas

In keeping with the safety programs at Fort Benning, the post fire marshal announced that inflammable Christmas decorations used on the post such as tinsel, streamers, scenery and cotton will be flameproofed.

This can be accomplished by dipping, soaking or spraying the decorations with a solution of borax, boric acid and warm water.

Proper proportions for the mixture are nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid to one gallon of warm water.

Individuals wishing to use the solution may obtain it at Fire Station No. 1 by bringing their own containers.

The fire marshal's office also announced that Christmas decorations will be kept out of doors until ready to be decorated and that they will be disposed of within a week after the holiday.

Caution in the use of electric light decorations in order not to overload the circuit was also stressed by the fire marshal.

93 Officers Graduate From Advanced Course

Ninety-three National Guard and Reserve officers with the Fifth company, Student Training Regiment, have graduated from the Infantry Officers' Advanced course, officials announced.

Officers graduating from the two-week course ranged in grade from brigadier general to first lieutenant.

They have now departed to return to their units, some of which are now on active duty.

Mascot of 73rd Battalion

Pert Florida Miss Asks News of Benning Tankers

Mascots are a tradition with the military and mascots run the whole range, from parrots to mules with man's best friend, to the most popular of all. However, across the desk of The Bayonet this week came a letter from one of the cutest mascots, we have seen in our time. Eleven-year old Judy Webking of St. Augustine, Fla., has constant source of pride in being mascot of the 73rd Heavy Tank Battalion. Many of the men are now at overseas posts and may have forgotten pleasant days at the Florida resort spot where they adopted the pert Florida youngster as their mascot. But Judy's heart beats with pride and she has not forgotten. Here is her letter.

Dear Editor: I am sending a greeting to the boys at Fort Benning and you sent a card last year and you printed it in your newspaper, and I'd like, so much, for you to do so again. There are so many boys I just can't write them all. Many of them are in Korea and other places. The ones that have been writing, I have sent a card to.

In the summer of 1949 the 73rd Heavy Tank Battalion, made me their mascot. I have always been thrilled and honored over the honor. I am eleven years old now and I do hope and pray for the safe return of all my friends "the Boys From Fort Benning." My mother, father and three brothers also send their best wishes for a happy holiday and a year of peace to follow.

I have received letters from several boys in Korea, Austria and Germany. We all miss them and all the happy times we have spent with them. We have the Ocean Pier at St. Augustine Beach so we all send our Merry Christmas greetings to everyone at Fort Benning.

Thank you so much for doing this for me. Would you please do one more favor? If you do print this, send a copy for my scrap book.

Thanks again Merryly Judy Webking

P. S. The picture on my Christmas card was taken by a soldier Raymond Kramer, last fourth of July. The last I heard from him he was in Korea, that was Nov. 20. He is in Co. A, 32nd Infantry, 24th Infantry Division, San Francisco, Calif. He has been very nice to me and writes very often.

Board to Screen List of Officers For AF Colonels

A board of senior Air Force officers is scheduled to meet at United States Air Force headquarters in January to select officers for promotion to colonel.

As a guide to the selection board, major Air Force commanders have been requested to name in order of desirability approximately 20 per cent of those reported eligible for promotion. In addition, those officers eligible under the established criteria but not considered qualified for promotion will be named by the commands.

Eligibility It is estimated 2,250 officers will be eligible for consideration as follows:

All Air Reserve or Air National Guard officers currently serving on active duty in grade of lieutenant colonel, who hold valid commissions as officers in the Air Reserve or Air National Guard.

All regular and non-regular officers currently serving on active duty in grade of lieutenant colonel, regardless of permanent grade, whose date of initial appointment in that grade is prior to July 1, 1945, and who served on active duty in grade of lieutenant colonel or higher at least twenty months prior to June 30, 1947.

All regular and non-regular officers serving as lieutenant colonel who previously held the temporary grade of colonel but were later reduced, without cause, due to grade readjustment programs. This does not include officers assigned temporary colonel as a result of terminal leave promotions.

Procedure for selecting officers for promotion to the temporary grade of colonel or higher at major is expected to be initiated later in January.

New Regulation Okays 'Frozen' Discharge List

The Department of the Army this week announced new regulations pertaining to discharges for enlisted men whose service expired after July 1, 1950.

Henry C. Lundy, recruiting officer, said that those who were discharged after they were frozen last year and whose enlistments involuntarily extended may now apply, and be discharged.

Those discharged will receive the regular ETS discharge, with the stipulation that they will be immediately re-enlisted.

Personnel discharged under a new regulation will receive the pay and allowances due them and, upon re-enlisting, will receive the re-enlistment bonus.

It was also announced last week by the recruiting office that a new regulation authorizes government transportation of families and household goods, or reimbursement of transportation, for corporals (grade E-4) who have seven or more years' service.

Also released last week was the ruling that re-enlistments for an unspecified period are open to permanent first three grades only and that men promoted to sergeant after Sept. 1, 1950, are not eligible.

Fares Reduced On Yule Travel

Military personnel, traveling in uniform and on their own expense between Dec. 15, and Jan. 10, will be granted reduced roundtrip railroad fares of 50 per cent off regular rates.

This offer is good for day coaches only and, in some cases, for the same route. Both ways. Regular stopover and baggage privileges are allowed.

The reduced rates will bring the general rates to two cents per mile in most localities, but some rates are slightly more and some slightly more.

Military personnel will also be exempted from paying the non-refundable reservation tax upon presentation of leave papers, it was announced.

Army Allocates 200 Masters For Warrants

WASHINGTON — An initial allocation of 200 master sergeants has been set by Army headquarters for appointment to the temporary rank of warrant officers, junior grade.

For the first time since 1945, subordinate commanders are authorized to make the career warrant appointments based on allocations established by Army headquarters. All appointments are in pay grade W-1 in the Army of the United States without specification of component.

The primary appointments under the new regulations are confined to 29 MOSs in combat career fields. They also are limited to master sergeants on active duty who:

1. Are between 21 and 44 years of age.
2. Have completed a minimum of three months continuous active duty in pay grade E-7 immediately prior to date of application.

Special provisions also are applicable to specialty category Army personnel serving with the Air Force (SCARWAF).

Subordinate commanders authorized to make appointments include chief of army field force commanding general of continental army, and the Military District of Washington, plus major overseas army commanders. Certain other units are also authorized. The officers have all been assigned to the Seventh Company, Student Training Regiment, Fort Benning, Ga. First Lieutenants Thomas B. Servenson, Oscar L. Atchley and Elmer C. Sutton, Jr., and Second Lieutenants Urban E. Simonton, Bernard P. M'athy Jr., and Charles E. Bell.

Six Officers Bein Commo Class No. 2

Six Fourth Infantry division officers last week began class in the Infantry Communication course No. 2, officials of the Student Training Regiment announced. The officers have all been assigned to the Seventh Company, Student Training Regiment, Fort Benning, Ga. First Lieutenants Thomas B. Servenson, Oscar L. Atchley and Elmer C. Sutton, Jr., and Second Lieutenants Urban E. Simonton, Bernard P. M'athy Jr., and Charles E. Bell.

'International Chutist' Is Graduated at Post

An "international parachutist" was graduated from Airborne Class No. 20 on Monday.

First Lt. Demitrios Tsiantis of the Greek Army completed his jump course on that date and was awarded his wings. He originally came to Fort Benning to take the Associate Infantry Company Officers Course and on the completion of the course, Nov. 15, he joined the class in the Airborne department.

On his return to Greece Lieutenant Tsiantis will be connected with the Greek Commando School.

Col. Torrence Host Feting Educators

Col. James F. Torrence served as host at a luncheon at the Fort Benning Officers Club for the group of military educators who were guests on the post including Mr. J. B. Hildner, Lt. Col. William M. Dunn, Office of Education, and Lt. Col. Dudley E. Brodie, Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D. C.

The luncheon table was decorated in the Christmas theme.

News Briefs Atlantic Pact Nations Agree on Allied Army

The Atlantic Pact nations have agreed on the formation of an international army including Germans, for the defense of Europe against Communist aggression. The announcement by the Cabinet ministers of the 12 nations came this week after a three-hour secret session in Brussels, Belgium, and was in open defiance of Russian threats that they would not "tolerate" a rearmed Germany. Present plans call for an army of 55 to 60 divisions and air and sea forces totaling at least 1,000,000 men by the end of 1953. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is the most likely man to head the Allied army, according to reports.

Meanwhile, in Korea, UN forces in the Hungnam beachhead area were still fighting off Chinese Communists and North Koreans, who, General MacArthur said, had now regrouped an army of approximately 150,000 men. On the northwest front, around Seoul, most action was confined to enemy patrols and guerrillas. Everyone was still waiting to see what Red China would do about the 38th Parallel. A belief was growing among UN forces that the Chinese would not cross the Parallel, but would send the re-formed Korean Communists into the conflict.

Report From Washington Air Force Releases New Uniform Regulations

The Army has relatively fewer enlisted men in the top three pay grades than the Navy and the Air Force, Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., has reported. In his semi-annual report covering the last six months of fiscal year 1950, the Secretary noted that the Army has only 22.5 per cent of its enlisted personnel in the top grades, compared with 30.3 per cent for the Air Force and 35.1 per cent for the Navy. The Marine Corps percentage of top three-graders is 20.8.

The Navy has authorized two years of voluntary active duty for enlisted male naval reservists of the lowest two pay grades (seaman recruit and seaman apprentice). Active duty under this program is open only to men who were members of the Naval Reserve prior to September 1, 1950. The program has been opened due to increased training facilities now available. It can be suspended by the Bureau of Naval Personnel whenever it becomes necessary to insure sufficient training capacity at training centers for regular naval personnel.

Columbus Air Force Base, a World War II installation at Columbus, Miss., will be reopened as a basic flight school within the next few weeks. The re-activated school will be second to states that the field will be second to be reactivated and operated by civilian contract since the war. Reactivation of Greenville Air Force Base, Greenville, Miss., was announced October 31. Both bases will accommodate approximately 450 students.

Chaplain's Corner Are We Truly Grateful for Blessings?

BY CHAPLAIN EARL E. WOLF
When we were little children we had to be taught to say "Thank You". However, it did not take us long to learn that saying "Thank you" paid off well. We also learned that it was wise to do more than just say "Thank you". Particularly at Christmas time, we were ed as we were very good we would glorious morning arrived. And so we started about a month before Christmas, to be extra polite, do little deeds of kindness, do what we were told without complaining and at the same time remind all our relatives that we were extra good just to make sure that our change of ways was being observed.
Unfortunately, after we received our gifts and thrown our arms around those who had been so generous with us and had thanked them with a kiss and words of gratitude we soon drifted back into our old ways and attitudes as well as pattern of behavior.
How like little children, so many of us find ourselves today. We approach Christmas conscious of the fact that God has given to the world the greatest gift of all times. We are reminded and remind others that Jesus Christ

Sweet Young thing: It must be awful to be a parachute jumper. I suppose you've had some terrible experiences.
Paratrooper: Oh, goodness yes, miss, terrible. Why once I came down where there was a sign, "Keep off the grass."
The Texas-born captain of an all-Texas company in North Africa told his men: "Our job here is to promote good neighborliness, among other things. We've got to humor the natives. If they say Africa is bigger than Texas, agree with them!"

How Many Christmas Suicides?

Some Fort Benning soldiers will attempt to commit suicide this Christmas, and unless they've lost their touch, a few will likely succeed. Of course, they will deny that they had any intention of killing themselves, but the facts will belie their allegations. They will be the victims of their own carelessness, their own lack of sense, their own failure to adhere to the rules of the highways.

Each holiday season brings a mounting toll of deaths as a result of automobile accidents, most of which could so easily have been avoided. Christmas is certainly no exception, and nothing short of a miracle will prevent hundreds of American citizens from losing their lives on the highways this year. But Benning soldiers need not be included in this number, provided they follow a few simple rules.

Don't drink when driving, and don't exceed speed limits. So many lives have been lost needlessly because of intoxication that it shouldn't be necessary to caution against mixing automobiles and liquor; yet, we'd be willing to bet that hundreds of holiday accidents will be directly attributable to intoxication. By the same token, excessive speeds will also cause a large percentage of the Christmas accidents. Victims of accidents caused by highway speed always offer what they call a good excuse for driving fast, but those good excuses can not restore an arm or a leg or the life of another man, woman or child unfortunate enough to be involved in the accident. It's better to arrive late and alive than early and dead.

It should also be remembered that speed limits are not always safe limits. Many factors determine whether a driver should raise his speed to the limit of the law. Simply because the highway sign says "Speed Limit 50 MPH" does not mean that 50 miles per hour is a safe speed. Weather conditions and the condition of the highway itself must always be considered. To ignore the weather is to invite disaster. And to ignore a curving, winding highway full of holes is to invite death to take you by the hand.

To avoid accidents, be sure that your vehicle is operating smoothly, that your tires are good, that your brakes are better and that your headlights are burning. Failure to check any one of these items before beginning a Christmas trip may mean that you won't live to make another.
Plenty of sleep is also quite necessary if the danger of fatigue on the highway is to be eliminated. Many persons have died just because they did not get enough sleep before beginning a long trip. The monotony of the open country, coupled with the rhythm of an automobile engine, can produce drowsiness in even the most rested man, but it can prove fatal to the man who is fighting to keep awake. One second of inattention to the highway can, and often does, mean death to the driver and his passengers.

Improper driving technique and discourtesy often cause accidents. Such things as hugging the wrong side on curves, failure to use hand signals and failure to dim lights, passing on hills and driving with one hand have all been causes of accidents.
Christmas is a season for rejoicing. Be sure that it isn't turned into a period of mourning.

We Pray for Peace on Earth

At this season of the year we like to pause a moment to wish our readers a very, merry Christmas and a happy and fruitful New Year. We realize this greeting may sound a little hollow in view of the uncertainty which grips the world, but we have survived other Christmases when the going seemed even tougher than it does today. American servicemen, along with those of a great many other free nations, are engaged in a bloody conflict, we still have hopes that the teachings of the Prince of Peace will be fulfilled, that man will cease his inhumanity to man and that all nations will live together as good neighbors.

So as we approach the Yuletide season, we join with others in praying that the day will come soon when there will be "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

By ROBERT L. GROOVER
Many American soldiers visited Paris. France, during and after World War II. There might have been hardship connected with his visit there, but to the last man it is almost certain that all were enchanted with the French capital. Few people have visited Paris and failed to fall victim to the city's charm and the vivaciousness of its inhabitants. Few people have read and heard of Paris without wanting to visit it. To all of these people, and for the others who have yet to learn of Paris, this book, "Young Man of Paris" is enthusiastically recommended.
Jean Pierre Feuillevent is the main character in this book. But though Jean Pierre is the main character, mention must be made of his father and mother, both characters in either sense. It is his mother and father, as in all cases, who provide Jean Pierre with the childhood memories and experiences that made a real Parisian of him.
Jean Pierre's father was a poor and not at all honest man who deserted his family in a casual manner, and returned to them later in just as casual circumstances. His mother eked out a living for herself and Jean Pierre in whatever employment she could find. The family separated and reunited many times, but somehow they always managed to be happy. And after all, happiness is the real goal in life.
John Pierre learned the true feel, scent, and flavor of Paris, and his impressions as a child, and later as an adult have been set forth in this book in a manner never achieved before. Perhaps Eliot Paul came close in his book "The Last Time I Saw Paris", but he was an American, and no American can write of Paris quite like a native born Frenchman. And Henri Calet is a native born Frenchman. No American could quite appreciate the French women like a French man. No American could have put on paper the harsh yet tender realism of "Young Man of Paris". For it is this same realism that captivates the reader with its ironic humor.

By May Pigott

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord" has been glad tidings flooding the hearts of men through the centuries, as each succeeding Christmas morning has dawned. That song of the angels has been the ray of hope that has shined in many of mankind's darkest hours.

Christmas is the time of the year for friends and family gatherings, for gift giving and good will. Naturally at Christmastide thoughts turn to home and family, and while I was sitting here thinking about the holidays, my mind wandered to those Allied students who will spend the Yule season far from home and I got to thinking about their customs and traditions. With the help of the Allied liaison officer I was fortunate enough to talk to some of our neighbors from across the sea. All of them were most cooperative and enjoyed talking about their native Noel celebrations.

In the Netherlands, the people always hope for a White Christmas. The celebration there starts early in December with the sixth being the children's day and the feast of Saint Nicholas who comes with Black Peter. Peter brings a big sack and when the children are bad into the sack they go. The real Christmas is solemnized on the 25th and 26th, the 25th being called the first Christmas and the 26th the second. Everybody goes to church, when they return they have the family dinner and the opening of presents. The night before the children put their shoes under the chimney in preparation for the big day. This is definitely a family day in Holland and one that is looked forward to with great anticipation.

AND NOW TO THE NORTH and Norway. Yule celebrations start on Christmas Eve with the ringing of church bells and the father takes the children to special services at the church, while the mother stays home and prepares dinner. The tree is put away where the children can't find it and is not brought out until later. When the family comes home from church the tree is decorated, dinner is served and after that everybody gathers around and the tree is lighted. The whole family holds hands and makes a ring around the tree and sings Christmas carols which are not the ones we know. Then the father reads the gospel of St. Luke, and then presents are handed out by the head of the family. On this night, the children are permitted to stay up late.

And in the neighboring country of Denmark, Christmas begins around the first of December with the children putting their shoes in the window and the Christmas man (our Santa Claus) fills them each day. About the 23rd of the month the tree is decorated and hidden. The families gather at four o'clock and go to church on Christmas eve, and when they return from church they have Christmas dinner, and then they form a circle around the tree, which has been brought from its hiding place and decorated. The children take the packages from under the tree and give them to the father who hands them out. A special dish for the Christmas menu is rice pudding with two almonds, the person receiving the almonds in his serving of pudding receives extra gifts.

AND NOW DOWN TO France for their customs. The observance of Christmas starts with the mid-night mass on Christmas eve. The children's shoes are put under the tree on the night before Christmas and they find their gifts the next day. As in most of the other countries, this is a day of family gatherings with the special dinner and the passing out of presents, and the singing of Yule songs. In each French home is a miniature manger scene to bring the spirit of Christmas nearer to the heart. And an interesting sidelight is they decorate with mistletoe only on New Year's.

After talking with the students and checking the details they have given me, in all the Christian countries of the world, Christmas seems to be almost universal in its celebration. The children all have the surprises to look for whether they are brought by Santa Claus, the Christmas man, or Saint Nicholas, and all families want to be together.

So now I offer my thanks to Capt. Wilhelm Rotveit of the Netherlands, Maj. Hakon Nordhaug, from Norway, Maj. Peter Madsen, Denmark, and Capt. Hubert de Mas-Latrie and Capt. Georges Frances of France, for their kindness in answering my questions. And in the good old American way I say to each and all of them a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

And as this Christmas of 1950 approaches, the whole world joins in one vast prayer and sings with the angels "Peace on earth, good will to men". So whether its Moolyk Kers Fest, God Jul, Gaedelig Jul, Joyeux Noel or plain old Merry Christmas, the thought is all the same and they all join with me in wishing the season's best in their native tongue.

PFC. DOROTHY M. RICHARDSON

Miss Meet Benning...

Our Benning spotlight focuses on Pfc. Dorothy M. Richardson, who claims Federalsburg, Md., as her home town. Before becoming a member of Uncle Sam's khaki clad Army she worked in the office of one of the town's department stores. Dorothy is currently assigned as student mess steward and is really taking her job seriously. She has been in the job for about a month. She is looking forward to attending school with Mess Steward as goal. Prior to this assignment she worked as clerk in Military Personnel department.

Pfc. Richardson has two main hobbies and says that it really is hard to choose between them, so both have to be listed together— at times she loves to dance and especially to go formal, then she gets the desire for a more athletic trend of relaxation and that's when she dons roller skates and away she goes. Dot likes to go to the movies especially if they happen to be musicals. When this active young Miss can find the time to spare she likes to settle down and read and most any kind of fiction holds her interest. Since she loves dancing so much it is natural that she would be fond of music and semi-classical tops the list for her. She is the type of person that looks well in any type of clothes but her expressed preference is for evening clothes and nine chances out of ten it will be a green gown that is her favorite color. Dorothy is a natural and truly lovely brunette with dark brown hair and soft brown eyes and is five feet seven inches of grand personality, charm and vitality and is a person who likes to meet people and make new friends.

Pfc. Richardson is a little indefinite about the plans for her future for she knows that plans have a strange way of changing, so her immediate desires are to go to school, then if at all dots roller skates and away she goes. Dot likes to go to the movies especially if they happen to be musicals. When this active young Miss can find the time to spare she likes to settle

Love Walked In As Benning Soldier Lingered At Party

Things have a most unexpected way of happening to people. Sometimes the things you least expect to be interesting can mean the turning point in your life, and occasionally when the world doesn't seem just right before you know it some little thing can happen and everything is clear sailing from then on.

Young James Taylor wasn't too happy this particular night. Since he didn't have a date he offered to drive his sister to a party with no intention of staying. But as fate would have it he did stay and while he was there met young and very pretty Helen Kearse. But that was about years ago in McRae, Ga.

Cpl. and Mrs. James Taylor and their two sons are now residents of Columbus and own their own home. They enjoy having their property and working to make the home a more attractive place.

Cpl. Taylor is in Detachment headquarters, Infantry School detachment, as Messing Center clerk and has been stationed at Fort Benning since 1948. During the past war he served for two years in the Pacific theater while Mrs. Taylor stayed at their home here in Columbus.

Wayne is the oldest of the children with four years to his credit and has a longing for the day when he can go to school. He doesn't like to be asked questions and when I asked him what he wanted to be when he grew up he definitely stated he didn't want to be anything. Young Jerry is the baby of the family and is only one year old, and while I was taking he just laughed and giggled.

The Taylors are not members of any of the clubs on the post and don't belong to many social groups, although they are sociable people. They enjoy having in their special group of friends for an evening of talk over some coffee and cookies or sandwiches and every now and then they have other couples to come for dinner. They like to visit around among their friends and pick the children up and go when the notion strikes them.

The Taylor family stands divided on favorite food with Helen claiming chicken as her favorite and Jim thinks there is nothing better than a good thick steak cooked just as Helen prepares it for him.

In the hobby line, Cpl. Taylor likes nothing better than a good easy chair, the right kind of lamp, good music on the radio and one of his favorite books to read. When he finds the spare time to sit and relax like that it will more than likely be an adventure story or novel that he will be reading. Helen claims that keeping house for her husband and taking care of the children is about the only thing she has time for.

Since most of Cpl. Taylor's family also reside in Columbus and McRae isn't too far away, the Taylors don't have to do much traveling to see their folks. Since both of the children are small they do not like to take long trips in the car as it is so comfortable for the boys.

Wayne is really looking forward with great anticipation to Christmas when he expects all kinds of things to be placed by Santa Claus under the Christmas tree marked especially for him.

So in our Family Portrait hall of fame we carve a niche for the young and lovely Taylor family who call Columbus and Fort Benning their home.

A record amount of 428 pints of blood was donated during the blood bank's two days of operation. Out of 301 volunteer donors Thursday there were only 59 rejects and 242 pints of the blood collected in gravity bottles left Los Angeles, Calif., for Korea Monday. Friday there were 221 volunteer donors and 186 pints of blood were collected in vacuum bottles.

Noted B-29, Lucky Lady II To Be Shown As AF Exhibit

SEATTLE — Two famous Boeing airplanes which outlived their military usefulness are to be preserved as a tribute to the records they made in post-World War II aviation, it was learned today.

They are the B-50 Superfortress "Lucky Lady II," which made the first non-stop around-the-world flight in history in March, 1949, and the first Boeing Stratofortress, an XC-97 which set a still unsurpassed transcontinental speed record for transports by flying from Seattle to Washington, in six hours and four minutes in January, 1945.

The "Lucky Lady" will fly no more because of an accident three months ago. She "belled in" after a take-off power failure and was considered too badly damaged to put in the air again.

The Air Force removed her wings, stripped one side of her fuselage of its aluminum and substituted a fiberglass and cut her in half so that she can be transported on two flat-bed trailers.

Exhibit Unit

She will travel throughout the country as part of the Air Force Exhibit unit, whose educational traveling road show already includes two "wingless wonder" B-29's. After she has outlived her usefulness to the Exhibit Unit she is scheduled to take her place for posterity beside the

Ex-Marauder Assigned Here

M-Sgt. Lawrence O. Griffiths, a former member of "Merrill's Marauders," General Stilwell's famed World War II raiders is attending the 14-week light and heavy weapons leaders' ship school, officials announced this week.

A veteran of 12 years service, which includes action on Guadalcanal and New Caledonia, Sgt. Griffiths joined the marauders in July of 1943 when his regiment, the 164th Infantry, was used to form the nucleus of the unit. He remained with the marauders until May of 1944.

Awards

With this highly selective organization he saw service in China, Burma and India. The sergeant has been awarded the Infantryman's badge, the Navy-Marine citation and two Presidential citations for the war. Sgt. Griffiths remained a civilian until last September when he joined the present organization, the 40th (California) Infantry division, was federalized and sent to Fort Ord, Calif. and was sent to the school from Camp Cooke, his division's home station.

Living Costs Up In Armed Forces
WASHINGTON (APPS)—Rises in the "cost of living" affect the Armed Services in much the same manner as they do individual households.

Figures recently compiled by the Bureau of the Budget show that it cost approximately 48,100 per Servicemember in the Armed Forces during fiscal year 1950, which ended last June 30.

These figures include pay, subsistence, material and operation costs. This is compared with a cost of $7,000 per man, in fiscal year 1945 at the peak of military expenditures. The cost per man

U.S. Army in Orient Cares For Own Hardship Problem

FIUKUOKA, Japan — This time the United States Army, a fighting force of almost exclusively professional soldiers, is taking care of its own hardship cases which are the inescapable consequence of war.

Army emergency relief, financed by the regulars themselves, is providing a part of the monetary aid to soldiers and their dependents in need of such assistance.

Emergency financial assistance when privation on hardship hits any soldier or his dependents. Money is advanced on a "pay it back when and if you can basis."

There's no red tape or delay.

Fund Built Up

Before the Korean war broke out, AER provided essential service but the drain on its treasury was small so a sizeable fund was created.

Since the shooting started, however, families here have had to travel great distances to visit their wounded husbands and fathers. Others who were killed in Korea had to fly home and often needed funds for incidentals not provided from official sources.

Backstopping the AER are service wives who set up "blue ladies' societies."

So named because the women who use them are blue in the face, the idea was originated here by Mrs. Betty Lorraine, whose family lives at 2212 Grandview Ave., Grimsouth, O.

Mrs. Lorraine is the wife of Master Sgt. Hoy Lorraine, stationed here with the Central Labor Office.

Volunteers Used

Mrs. Lorraine and a committee headed by Mrs. Thomas Duryea, wife of the commanding officer of the 118th station hospital, were given the day room of the rail transportation office at the railroad station.

They staffed it with volunteer

Hope to Build Entire Planes With New Metal

DAYTON, Ohio — (APPS) — Titanium, the world's fourth most abundant metal, soon may be utilized by the Air Force for plane construction.

Research projects are now in process at the AF engineering laboratories here with the ultimate goal of building entire planes from this metal which is said to be as strong as steel and nearly as light as aluminum.

The Air Force advises that titanium alloys have been developed which have a tensile strength as high as 200,000 pounds per square inch.

Special parts, such as deicing ducts, fittings and fire walls are now in production, while such major components as wings and fuselage sections are in the experimental stage. In both cases it is planned to replace all rust resistant steel alloy materials with titanium alloys.

The immediate interest of the Air Force is to substitute titanium in all structures subject to extreme heat, such as portions immediately surrounding jet engine installations. If this could be done for a heavy bombardment plane it is estimated, there would be a one-ton saving in weight, with a consequent increase in range and loading capacity.

ARMY ORDERS TANKS

WASHINGTON — (APPS) — The Army awarded a $100 million contract to the American Locomotive Co., of Schenectady, N. Y., recently for 500 modified General Patton tanks.

The Army has requested production to begin "at the earliest possible date."

QM Ladies Entertain With Holiday Luncheon

The Quartermaster ladies entertained with a holiday luncheon at the Officers' Mess on Thursday with Mrs. Rockerick Renick and Mrs. John Minges as hostesses.

Pvt Pilots Get Cooling Units

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Pilots of North American's F-56A jet interceptors shouldn't get too hot under the collar even in combat. The jets are being equipped with special lightweight conditioning units designed to keep the temperatures of the cockpit comfortable. Without this air conditioning, temperatures in a jet cockpit have been known to climb to 180 degrees Fahrenheit. One reason is they are going too fast to keep cool. Heat is generated by the friction of the aircraft's skin with the atmosphere.

Applications Keep Recruiters Busy

Applicants for recruitment continued to swamp the post recruiting office during the first two weeks of December with 85 men re-enlisting for various terms. M-Sgt. Merrill J. Chase, post recruiting sergeant, announced this week that Enlistments included 36 for an unspecified term, 50 for 6-year enlistments, seven for three and two for two-year periods. Seventeen of the re-enlistments were volunteers for the Far East theater.

Best Aid Offered By Nationalists

TAIPEI, Formosa, Dec. 15. — Nationalist China has the largest military force in all the Orient to throw against Communism—700,000 trained and battle-ried men under arms. Informed quarters estimate Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has an army of 880,000 men, and an air force and navy of about 120,000 on this Nationalist stronghold, 100 miles from the Southeast coast of China. Yet to match the Chinese Communist armies waiting across the Formosa strait these forces would need considerable new equipment. The greatest need is for planes and replacement parts. The Army seems pretty well equipped. Military sources close to the ministry of national defense say that army regulars on Formosa have a wide range of equipment including rifles, light and heavy machineguns, artillery, tanks and armored cars.

Top U.S. Medal Possessed By TIS Teacher

Second Lt. Arthur J. Jackson, a holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, recently arrived at Fort Benning where he has been assigned to the faculty of the Physical Training center of the Staff department. The Medal of Honor, the highest citation that can be awarded, was given Lt. Jackson for heroic action during an amphibious landing on the island of Peleliu in the South Pacific Sept. 1, 1944. Then a private first class with the Seventh regiment of the First Marine division, the lieutenant engaged a large force of Japanese in fortified positions and during a three-hour engagement eliminated 12 pillboxes and killed 50 Japanese troops. All during the action he was exposed to severe enemy rifle, machine and mortar fire. His heroic efforts broke a three-day stalemate and enabled the Marines to take the island.

Takes All Kinds In Marine Corps

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP-PA) — The peachy well in attention beside the flying tender. A whisper came from the rear rank as a former Boston cop squeezed in between a lawyer and a radio announcer. The drill sergeant looked them over and remarked that it takes all kinds to make the world—and a Marine Corps recruit platoon. The minister who joined the Marines is Cpl. Horton Moses, of Rome, Ga. The flying tender is Cpl. William H. Latimer, of New York, who crossed the Atlantic 40 times while employed by American Overseas Airlines. A few months ago, Cpl. John Gioucestre, New Britain, Okla., was assisting in the investigation of the famous Brinks robbery. Sgt. Robert Kulis, of Brookline, Mass., was studiously poring over his law books. The radio announcer is Paul David Lyndon, of Decatur, Ga.

CAUGHT IN THE DRAFT

DETROIT. — (APFS) — Sgt. Robert Lewis, an Air National Guardsman, recently escaped death when he was sucked into the intake scoop of a jet fighter. Lewis was halfway into the scoop when Sgt. Joseph Cuzenza grabbed his legs and frantically motioned the pilot to turn off the engines. He escaped with only minor bruises.

Chaplains Ready With Yule Plans At 4th Division

Fourth Infantry division chaplains have done much to see that the chapels are decorated to achieve the spirit of Christmas and have tried to plan their services to resemble home town worship. Many of the men will be unable to be at their homes for Christmas and the chaplains, aware of the need for carefully planned Christmas services, have given extra time and effort to the task. "The chaplain will spare no effort to make the Christmas religious services of the Fourth Infantry division closely parallel the services which the men would attend if they were home for Christmas," asserted Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Earl E. Wolf. The Protestant Christmas services will begin on Sunday at 8 a.m. with an Episcopal Communion service in Chapel No. 3 (Sand Hill) which will be conducted by Chaplain (Capt.) William P. Barrett. Services will continue throughout the day according to the following schedule: general Protestant worship service, Chapel No. 2, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Earl E. Wolf, at 9:30 a.m.; Chapel No. 3 (Harmony Church) Chaplain (1st Lt.) Grandison M. Phelps Jr. at 9:30 a.m.; Chapel No. 4 (Chaplain (Major) Ralph H. Zumwalt at 10 a.m.; Chapel No. 5 (Harmony Church) Chaplain (Capt.) Silas L. Weems at 10:30 a.m.; Chapel No. 3 Chaplain Wolf.

Christmas Eve the following Protestant services will be conducted: — Chapel No. 4 Chaplain Zumwalt, 7:30 p.m.; Episcopal services in Chapel No. 3 at 9 p.m.; general Protestant services at Chapel No. 5 (Harmony Church) at 7:30 a.m. There will be a joint candle lighting service at Chapel No. 3 conducted by Chaplains Wolf and Zumwalt at 11:30 a.m. Christmas Day there will be a general Protestant service conducted by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wolf in Chapel No. 2 at 9:30 a.m. at Chapel No. 3 an Episcopal Communion service will again be conducted by Chaplain (Capt.) William P. Barrett 9:30 a.m. The day will close with the Christmas Eve service at 10:30 a.m. conducted by Chaplain (Capt.) Silas Weems. The Catholic Christmas services will begin on Sunday at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. with Mass at Chapel No. 2 with Chaplain (Major) Theodore C. Pawlowicz. Christmas Mass will be said by Chaplain (Major) McElwee (Capt.) at Chapel No. 3 at 9:30 a.m. and at Chapel No. 5 (Harmony Church) at 10:30 a.m. by Chaplain Dennis F. Murphy (Capt.). Other services will be held on Christmas Day. Midnight Mass will be conducted by Chaplain (Major) Pawlowicz in Chapel No. 2 on Christmas Eve.

New ID Card Issued For Medical Care

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Qualified dependents of Navy and Marine Corps personnel are to be issued a revised identification card for hospitalization and medical care, the Navy has announced. The new card will be issued by commanding officers upon request of personnel having dependents. It was emphasized that personnel should obtain the cards before emergency arises, in order to reduce delays encountered when medical attention is required. The presently used card is valid and will continue to be honored until its expiration date. If the individual Serviceman is unable to procure a card to deliver the card to his dependent, the dependent may procure it from either the Bureau of Naval Personnel or Marine Corps Headquarters, as appropriate.

Yule Play Presented By Kindergarten

The kindergarten school presented its annual Christmas play at the Children's school for the students on Monday morning and again in the auditorium of the Children's Center on Monday night for the P-TA. The play entitled "The Little Engine That Could" was a colorful affair with the kindergarten children talking all parts. A Col. William M. Duffy presided over the business meeting of the P-TA and all reports from the committees were read. Following the Christmas pageant and the business meeting, a social hour was held.

Russians Push Huge Expansion Of Naval Force

LONDON, Dec. 20 — Jane's Fighting Ships — the world's bible of naval intelligence — said yesterday Russia is building a navy "already far in excess of the normal requirements of defense." The new edition of the yearbook said Russian Navy expenditures for the year 1950-51 are 15,400,000,000 rubles, equivalent to $3,850,000,000, compared with the U.S. naval appropriation of $4,168,000,000 for the same period. The yearbook also noted that last February a Soviet navy ministry was created, independent of the armed forces. Jane's said there are reports the Soviets have launched two 35,000 to 37,000 ton battleships with towers for firing guided missiles and are constructing a third one. The yearbook said 350 to 370 Russian submarines are believed already in service with 120 more in the works. It added that the Soviets have, or soon will have, 14 heavy cruisers of the 8,500-ton Kirov type, plus two ex-German cruisers of the 15,200-ton Poltava class. "It is also believed," Jane's said, "that the Russians are concentrating heavily on large destroyers or ocean-going torpedo boats approaching destroyer size in the Far East, 36 in the North and eight each in the Baltic and Black seas." Rumors of the existence of the new battleships have been trickling out of Sweden and Finland for the past year. They are reported to be from 800 to 900 feet long, carrying six 16-inch guns mounted in triple turrets and two towers for guided missiles. Red Cross Lauds Blood Donations By 8th Infantry

Mr. John A. Cramer and Mr. Roy K. Aten, field director and assistant field director of the American Red Cross, recently wrote a letter to the commanding general, Fourth Infantry division, praising the men of the Eighth Infantry Regiment for their recent blood donations. They added the observation that they had never observed higher morale in any organization than was exhibited by the members of the Eighth Infantry who contributed. In all more than 2500 men volunteered to donate blood. This total included men from many military organizations in the division. Brig. Gen. Harlan N. Hartness, commanding general of the Fourth division, indorsed the letter to all members of his command. He especially commended Maj. Robert A. Maust, Division I. E. officer who was in charge of the program and members of Company B, Eighth Infantry Regiment, members of that organization volunteered 100 per cent to donate blood. The general said, "It is most gratifying that the Fourth Infantry division has again demonstrated its willingness to serve humanity by contributing to worthy causes."

Pentagon Tightens Security Status

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Tightened security regulations are now in effect at the Pentagon. The Department of Defense has announced that, effective immediately, persons not in uniform must display "authorized identification" on their outer clothing when in the building during "security hours." These hours are from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m., Mondays through Fridays, and all day Saturday. Security officials are exempted from the new regulations. MOALESTER, Okla. (APFS)—When it comes to alcoholic beverages, Oklahoma is a dry state. Investigators recently turned up with the discovery of a moonshine still—operated by convicts in the State Prison.

Sports Sidelights

BY HENRY KASSELK
Bayonet Sports Editor

The 'Happy' Chandler versus baseball club owners affair which exploded a little over a week ago has now settled down to a war of nerves with neither side giving ground from its original stand.

Baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler has made it clear that he will not step down until the "last second" of his term which expires May 1, 1952 and said he was "going ahead as if nothing had happened."

The owners, on the other hand, who voted the ouster last Wednesday have agreed not to yield an inch, and appear determined to have a new man for the $65,000 per year job.

The unprecedented affair which has become more involved with each turn of the clock is presenting a never-ending string of complications to the disaffected owners. Two big problems they face at the moment are how the commissioner could be forced out and who will be his successor.

In regards to the first, there seems to be some doubt whether this is at all possible. No one seems to know. One suggestion was that a majority from each league could remove him from office for "a cause". Others believe that a unanimous 16-0 agreement is needed. But it appears that the latter suggestion, if correct, will not have the required following since a few pro-Chandler elements are still active among the diamond moguls.

Chandler seems to be unmoved by this uprising, and has given assurance that business will be as usual. He said,

"I've still got some things to do. I'll continue to do them the best way I know how and hope for the best."

In choosing Chandler's successor, several owners have expressed their desire to select a "man with a judicial background". One such man, Rep. James W. Wadsworth of New York, an erstwhile first baseman at Yale, has been named as a possibility.

Wadsworth, nominated by Rep. Bernard W. "Pat" Kearney also of New York, has served 30 years in the House of Representatives and Senate.

Three other congressmen have also been named as possible successors. They include: Chief Justice Fred Vinson; Senator Scott Lucas (D-Ill), majority leader of the Senate who was defeated for election last month; and Senator Edwin Johnson, (D-Col) present president of the Class A Western baseball league.

It seems that the baseball moguls are somewhat reluctant in picking a commissioner from within their own ranks. The chief reason evolves from the belief that previous associations would prejudice him. An answer to this line would lie in the statement "why pick someone who doesn't know baseball."

However, in the case of the candidates mentioned thus far the big wheels have been fortunate that all have some knowledge of the baseball game as well being familiar with the law.

Chandler still has hopes for a change of sentiment while serving out the remainder of tour of 16 months. The chances of such an occurrence are slim, however, and it appears that the owners will not budge from their original ouster demand.

When a new commissioner is finally named, it is possible that he will have only judicial powers. A comptroller office may be established to handle the financial end.

Post Sending Three Ace Boxers To All-Army Tilt

When the 1951 All-Army Boxing tournament gets underway at Fort Meade, Md., next Thursday, a trio of Fort Benning boxers will be holding heavy odds.

The three boxers, Lawrence Jones, Norman Clark and George Allen, will leave Fort Benning to represent the Post in the All-Army tilt for two years.

Clark, voted the outstanding boxer of the Third Army ring tourney, has been Third Army lightweight and welterweight champion during the last two years.

Allen, who is present Third Army bantamweight king, has been All-Army tiltist for two years.

In addition to the three champions, the team will also carry along Benningtons, Buck de Car-

Lawson Field's Flyers broke back into the win column last Wednesday with a 6-4 thrashing of the cellar-dwelling Army Field Forces Board No. 3.

High scoring honors were shared by Wachtel and Long of the Flyers and Criswell from AAF Board No. 3. Each registered a total of 12 points on six field goals.

The contest was one of the cleanest played thus far this season. A total of eight personal fouls were committed during the four quarters of play. The Flyers committed five and the AAF quiet recorded only three.

GOLF MATCH SET An intra-club golf match between the Tees and the Greens will be conducted at the Fort Benning Country Club course next Wednesday.

Following the tourney, the losing team will serve refreshments to the winners.

Engineers Beat 30th Infantry Regiment, 54-52

In one of the hottest contests played this season, the 78th Engineer battalion overcame a first quarter lead and trounced the 30th Infantry regiment, 54-52 at Wednesday night.

Trailing 16-11 at the close of the first period, the Engineers combined excellent shooting with tight, smooth defensive action, and overtook the Doughboys with a 28-27 half-time score.

A last-minute rally by the doughboys almost forced the tilt into overtime but the rapidly crumbling Engineer defense was saved by the whistle.

Doughboy forward Preston Houston captured high scoring honors for the evening by tallying 23 points on 10 field goals and three free throws.

League Records Court Forfeits

The first two forfeits of the current basketball season were recorded here at the Old Post gymnasium last Thursday.

Special Troops of the Fourth Infantry division forfeited the season's first 2-0 game to the Student Training regiment. The STR cagers are the 1950 Infantry Center court champions and are presently setting the pace again this year.

Student Training regimenters have garnered six victories without a defeat, while the Special Troops have won only one game in five outings.

In the second contest scheduled here, the Army Field Forces Board No. 3 bowed out the forfeit route to the Eighth Infantry regiment of the Fourth division.

Eighth Infantry hoopers who are presently sharing loop lead honors with the STR, have been undefeated thus far this season and have chalked up five victories.

The AFF cellar-dwelling unit which has yet to win a game has dropped a total of five contests.

Gridders to Sleep, Train At Benning for Bowl Game

Next week, a group of 55 teenagers, members of the Holyoke, Mass. football squad, will arrive at Fort Benning and begin training for the annual New Year's Day Peanut Bowl game to be played at Memorial stadium.

Opposing the Holyoke youngsters on Jan. 1 will be the Rockmart, Ga. high school. The 40 man team will arrive here Dec. 30.

Both teams will be quartered here on the post and will eat in GI mess-halls.

During their stay here, all Fort Benning facilities will be made available for the bowl contestants. Pre-game drills are expected to be held in the famous Doughboy stadium.

The Peanut Bowl game is sponsored annually by the Columbus Exchange Club which is composed of prominent businessmen and citizens of Columbus.

Proceeds of the game will be divided equally among the Army and Air Force members of the Serviced Young Men's Christian Association, Teen Tavern and the YMCA Building Fund.

Selection of the participating teams are made each year by the Peanut Bowl committee of the Columbus Exchange Club with the aid of the Georgia High School Athletic Association in Atlanta. And for the third consecutive year, a Massachusetts high school has named to compete against a Georgia team.

This year's selections are championship teams, Holyoke, undefeated and tied once, is the Western Massachusetts champion. Also undefeated, and untied, Rockmart this year captured the Georgia High School Class A championship.

Preceding the annual New Year's Day classic, a mammoth parade will be staged down Broadway. Bowl officials have ordered floats, 11 high school bands and 15 queens, all contestants of the Peanut Bowl title of queen.

Student tickets, 75c each, will be placed on sale for Benning personnel at the Fort Benning Public Information Office, and the Pine Lodge NCO Club.

Yaldizian Paces Armor's Victory Over Greenies

Led by the high scoring of Stretch Yaldizian, the 201st Armored Field Artillery battalion downed the highly regarded 3440th Area Service unit Greenie, 78-59 in a league thriller at the Briant Wells field house last Thursday evening.

Yaldizian and teammate Mansmann played havoc with the touted ASU defense which crumbled before the excellent passing and fast breaking 201st attack.

Yaldizian won a minimum of 20 points or better per game again annexed top laurels with an entire total of 27 points. Mansmann placed second with 16 points.

The 3440th ASU which dropped their first game of the season the night before to the Student Training regiment have a record of four victories and one loss.

Lawson Flyers Win 69-38 Over Engineers Courtmen

The high-flying Lawson Air Force Base Flyers registered their second triumph in as many days with a 69-38 victory over the 18th Engineer Battalion at the Blant Wells field house last Thursday evening.

Thursday's victory which followed a 84-40 win over the Army Field Forces Board No. 2 the night before, brought the Flyers record up to 750 for the season. They have won three and lost only one.

STR Snares League Lead In Officers' Bowling Team 2 Scores Grand Slam Led By Brooks, O'Rourke

Advanced Class No. 2 was knocked off their pedestal as league last week by the Student Training regiment.

The position has been annexed by the Student Officer Advance Class No. 1, Team 2, which last week garnered a grand slam triumph off Staff Department team No. 2.

Considered one of the biggest upsets of the season, the game surprisingly revealed no unusual high scoring. High single game score for the evening was 124 registered in the second game by both Maj. John R. Brooks of Class 2 and Capt. Donald C. O'Rourke of STR. Brooks' 501 three game series was the high.

Outbowled by 16 pins on the alleys the Student Training regiment 2 keggers clinched the contest on paper with a 488 pin handicap. The totals including handicap gave the new champions a 2,671 to 2,661 triumph over Class 2 and a 3-1 point win.

In Section 1, no new changes were noted. The league-leading Weapons department team continued to pace the field with 32 points won and only eight lost by virtue of a four-point margin over the Provost Marshal Section. Scores were 2,504 to 2,257.

Individual scoring honors for the week went to Capt. Richard Dill and Capt. Harry Zaritsky of Infantry School detachment, and CWO James T. Guinn of Airborne department No. 2.

Dill bowled a 241 which was tops in the high single game department. His three game series

The contest was strictly a Flyer affair. Jumping off to an early lead the Airpounders left no doubt as to the outcome of the game.

At the end of 10 minutes of play, the Flyers held a 17-12 lead. The third period saw them leading 59-21.

Dick Wachtel led the winners in the record department with 14 points on seven field goals. Baldwin, with five field goals and one charity toss, dropped in 11 points for the Engineers.

Membership may also be obtained at the skeet range on the day of the shoot. Registration will be closed at 10:30 a. m.

Dates and sites for Third Army tournaments in three major sports during 1951 were announced by the Benning athletic office.

Originally released by Headquarters Third Army, the announcement was concerned with only men's competitions in basketball, bowling and football.

Fort Benning, to date, has been scheduled to be the site of only one Army area meet, golf, which will be staged here Aug. 14-17. Play will be on company competition.

Port Jackson, S. C., has been selected the host installation for the Third Army basketball tournament. The meet for regiments will be conducted March 19-23.

The annual Bowling meet will be held this year at Fort Bragg, N. C., during April 3-6. Championship teams and outstanding players of these tournaments will represent Third Army interests in All-Army meets scheduled later.

OKLAHOMA, Okla. — (APPS) — Oklahoma's press board voted No. 1 in the Nation last summer by the Football Writers Association, drew its first complaint at the Missouri game here last week. The pencil sharpeners are manually-operated instead of electric, one visiting sportsman

3440th Suffers Initial Setback In STR Contest

Cagers of the 3440th Area Service unit suffered their initial defeat of the season last Wednesday night when they dropped a heart-breaker to the league-leading Student Training regiment, 52-51.

The defeat, the first in four outings for the ASU guards, left the number one slot in a two-way tie between the STR and the Eight Infantry regiment of the Fourth division.

Thus far this season, the STR men have won five and the Eight Infantry has won four. Both are undefeated in league play.

The Greenies gained the lead in the opening period, 18-14. It was short-lived, though, as the troopers came back with a 33-23 half time score and held the upper hand for the remainder of the game.

In the closing minutes of the game, the ASU guards attempted a last minute rally which fell short of forcing the game into a overtime period by a single point.

High scoring honors for the evening went to ASU guard, Holesa who rang up 19 points on seven field goals and a perfect five for five free throws.

Winger Terry Scott topped individual laurels for the STR men with a total of 17. Vernon Griffin ran a class second with 15.

Authority Sought To Silence Radio
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 — The proposal gives President Truman unprecedented peacetime authority to order all radio and television stations silenced on grounds that their "radiation" might be used to guide any enemy plane or missile in an attack on the United States.

An air force spokesman pointed out that all modern air forces have aircraft radio compasses which will guide either a pilot or pilotless plane to the source of a broadcast.

The defense department said the authority is needed "not only during hostilities or a proclaimed emergency, but also during times of strained international relationships . . ."

QUESTION: What Are Your Plans For The Holiday Season? M-Sgt. Oliver Keyes: Well, to be frank about it, I have not made any specific plans for the holiday season. The world situation as it is at present allows a very small chance of getting any time off for a trip, so I have decided to spend a good Christmas at home with plenty of rest as my objective.

because everything is so uncertain. I have put in for a three day pass and if it is granted my family and

Benning Postal Men Are Rushed

One of the busiest installations at Fort Benning for the past two weeks has been the post office, which this year has handled a near record amount of Christmas mail.

Mail going through the post office the last two weeks has been near record with a huge amount of incoming mail Monday, according to Mr. R. P. Richardson, superintendent.

Held up last week by the embargo imposed by the postmaster general due to the recent railroad strike, it has been unusually busy with incoming mail the first part of the week.

Mr. Richardson does not think that the embargo of last week will noticeably effect the arrival of the mail to its destination on time.

With the recent influx of troops the post office officials anticipated an extra heavy load this year and six extra men were hired for the Christmas season.

This brought the number of employees to 21, the most since the war years.

Christmas mail on an Army post, according to Mr. Richardson, is usually heaviest with outgoing mail during the first few days in December. This he attributes to the military personnel during their Christmas shopping early when they still have funds—and mailing it immediately to get it out of the way.

Incoming mail, he said, reached its peak about ten days before Christmas and continued heavy until a few days after the holiday.

Helicopter Helps Christmas Shopper

GUAM (APFS)—The first mate of a tanker anchored off Guam went shopping on that island recently for a pair of work shoes. Perhaps caught in a Christmas buying rush, he missed his ship, even after the tanker's skipper held up sailing for two hours.

AWOL, high and dry in utter anguish, the first mate appealed to the 2nd Air Rescue Squadron. A helicopter took him 30 miles to sea and gently lowered him on the ship, the new shoes dangling from his neck.

Distaff Side Army Seeking College Grads For Officers

NEW YORK (APFS)—Regular commissions in the Women's Army Corps are being offered to all qualified college graduates and to those women who will be graduated from college in the classes of 1951. No previous military service is required.

The recent Army announcement states that applicants must be 21 years of age, but not older than 27 years September 1, 1951. They must be U. S. Citizens, single, and with no dependents under 18 years of age.

Successful candidates passing a competitive screening process will be given direct appointments in the WAC section of the Organized Reserve Corps, being ordered to extended active duty next summer. Basic training will be at Fort Lee, Va. Upon satisfactory completion of this course they may compete for regular commissions as second lieutenants.

Columbus AF Base Reopening Planned

Columbus Air Force base, a World War II flying training base at Columbus, Miss., will be reopened as a basic flight school within a few weeks, the United States Air Force announced this week.

This will be the second base to be reactivated by civilian contract since the war. Reactivation of Greenville Air Force base at Greenville, Miss., was announced on Oct. 31. Both bases will accommodate approximately 450 students.

Air Materiel Command, the Air Force contracting authority, is drawing up specifications for operation of the bases and will solicit bids from civilian flight training contractors within a few days.

This base is in addition to the other bases now being operated in the flying training program. Approximately 2,000 basic students are enrolled in these schools at present.

Shoulder Patch To Be Altered

NEW YORK (APFS)—The Army has announced alterations in the First Army's "Big Black A" shoulder insignia to provide a distinctive color background. First Army Headquarters recently announced.

Beginning next year, the olive drab background will be replaced with one of which the lower half will be red, and the upper half white with a black block letter "A" superimposed.

A-Card Tells What to Do If and When

WASHINGTON (APFS)—If an atom bomb drops, what to do immediately is described in a wallet-size card being printed by the Army.

Called the Atomic Weapons Effects Card it briefly describes effective atomic bombs and immediate protection required to minimize casualties. It will be distributed to every military and civilian employee of the Army when adequate stocks can be supplied to Army commanders.

Printed on both sides of the 2-1/2 by 4-inch card, here is what the guide says:

Before burst—if an air raid alert or general quarters is sounded take prescribed action. The best defense against an A-bomb is the same as against high explosive bombs.

DURING AN AFTER BURST
1. Take cover, unless under other attack, and stay for 10 seconds after explosion or until heavy debris has stopped falling. (Underground shelters, ships, basements and slit trenches give good protection. Lie close to wall out of line of possible flying debris. Keep head covered and avoid exposure of bare skin. Never stand in open. Fall flat if in open.)

IF AT DUTY STATION
2. Resume duties, if able. (The war won't be over. Get back to work, and be ready for orders and instructions.)

IF NOT AT DUTY STATION
3. Help others. (Thousands of lives can be saved by prompt aid. Help save lives by helping others. By the time the debris has stopped falling, there is no radiation hazard.)

4. Report to duty station. (Organization is necessary to reduce the effects of the bomb. Report to receive treatment if necessary, and to work to help over-all situation.)

5. Don't panic and don't spread rumors. (Rushing aimlessly about will hinder rescue and damage control. Keep your experience to yourself and don't enlarge on what you hear from others.)

Remember—The large casualties in Japan resulted from the failure to provide air-raid warning and from lack of organization.

Effects — Air burst of atomic bomb.
Blast — Sudden shock. Shock pressure from burst not enough to kill. Flying debris causes almost all injuries.

HEAT
1. Flash heat (first few seconds). Burns on exposed skin occur out of two miles. Light-colored clothes or any shielding substance afford protection. Keep your shirt on.

2. Fires—Flash heat starts forest and brush fires. Many fires started by stoves, short circuits, etc. Fix or cover lines on ships start electrical fires. (Fight these fires in normal manner.)

FORT WORTH, Tex. (APFS)—Philip Evans who calls himself a "drifter," was arrested for failing to register for Selective Service. He finally did register, but was rejected. Evans returned to jail.

Benning Offered College Courses At Off-Campus

Men and women of the Armed Forces stationed at Fort Benning may take regular college work at the Columbus Off-Campus Center of the University of Georgia.

Officials of the center have referred all inquiries to the Troop Information and Education center on the post.

The Off-Campus center opened Sept. 23 using the facilities of the Jordan vocational high school. The center is a part of the Division of General Extension of the university.

The center offers courses identical to those offered on the Athens campus, using instructors approved by the university officials, thus assuring high instructional standards.

The application for admission must include a transcript of the applicant's record from the last school attended. Obtaining this transcript is the responsibility of the student applicant.

Veterans may obtain admission under either of the GI bills. Certificates of eligibility must be obtained prior to registration, otherwise the student must pay full fees, having the unused portion refunded upon receipt of the certificate.

Application for certificate must be made as early as possible with the Veterans Administration office nearest the applicant's home.

Admission to the school opens to both men and women of good moral character who register at a school from an accredited college, high school graduation, college entrance examinations, GED examinations or as special students when necessary background for profit from courses is proven.

Paducah to Get Big Arms Plant

WASHINGTON — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed reports that a $500 million plant to process uranium ore will be built near Paducah, Ky.

Dean did so in recent testimony before a house appropriations subcommittee which was made public last week.

Special Orders Affecting Post

Special orders affecting personnel and assignments at Fort Benning were among those recently issued by the Department of the Army.

Assignments were as follows: WOJG-Cletes V. Clemons, Staff and Faculty, The Infantry School; Maj. Henry J. Pierce, Fourth Infantry division; Maj. Kay K. Cowan, the Infantry Center; Maj. Joseph A. Sheldon, Area Service unit, Provisional group.

Receiving assignments to other stations were Maj. Sidney Miller and Capt. Robert W. Sanderson to the Student detachment, Army Medical Corps, Washington, D. C.; Capt. John G. Gerl, Eleventh Airborne division, Fort Campbell, Ky.

Col. Paul F. Elder, Medical Holding detachment, Stager hospital was retired from active duty.

Canned Food Now X-Rayed For Services

ATLANTA (APFS)—No contaminated food will be eaten by members of Armed Forces if the Army's Quartermaster Corps and X-ray can prevent it.

Various Quartermaster depots throughout the nation are now giving fluorescent treatment to all canned goods.

Col. Clyde Massey, commanding officer of the Atlanta general depot, said recently that the idea is to discover quickly and accurately any faulty canned goods and cut down on the cost involved in the old-fashioned "spot check" method of inspection.

Inspection is made by means of a mobile X-ray unit which rides around in a ten-ton semi-trailer, 28 feet long and eight feet wide.

The cans line up with military precision on an automatic conveyor system. As they pass in review before the lens of the X-ray camera at high speed, deterioration of contents, corrosion, or the presence of foreign matter is detected quickly.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL KREILICH PROMOTED
General George Honnon Doct Honors At Promotion Ceremony at Benning Since 1919

Lt. Col. Kreilich Honored In Promotion Ceremony

An informal ceremony honoring Lt. Col. Elvin Aaron Kreilich, who was recently promoted, was held this week in the office of Brig. Gen. George Honnon, assistant commander of the Infantry Center.

Colonel Kreilich is well known around Fort Benning having served here continuously since 1916.

His varied background included duty with the Sixth Ohio National Guard in the 17th Infantry regiment, 37th division, National Guard, in 1917 and 1918; and the 45th Infantry regiment in 1919.

Colonel Kreilich was ordered to the Infantry School, Arms detachment, Camp Benning, Ga., in June, 1919, to attend a non-commissioned officers machine gun course. Upon completion of this course, he remained at the Infantry School as an assistant instructor in the department of machine guns.

In June, 1923, he was detailed to duty in the office of the assistant commander as operations clerk. He continued on this duty until July, 1942, when he was commissioned as a captain, Infantry, AUS.

Colonel Kreilich wears the following decorations and medals: Legion of Merit, Good Conduct medal, Mexican Border Service medal, World War I Victory medal, American Defense medal, American Theater medal and the World War II Victory Medal.

Enrollments Up With Airborne

Enrollments at the Airborne battalion increased in the past two weeks as the battalion continues to turn out qualified paratroopers and jump masters at a near-record pace. Officials of the Student Training regiment announced this week.

Company E graduated Class No. 20 last Monday with 218 enlisted men and six officers receiving their wings at Camp Benning, Ky.

The same day 300 enlisted men and one officer commenced training in Class No. 23, which is being administered by Company E. All students of this class are from the Eleventh Airborne division at Camp Campbell, Ky.

Last week Company C started 280 enlisted men and six officers through their strenuous three-week program. This brought the total for the past two weeks to 580 enlisted men and seven officers a decided increase over the last two months.

GIs Behind Footlights Outfit Stresses Safety In Day Room Theatrical

Sounds of cars smacking into each other and groans of injured motorists were heard at the 27th Transportation Car company day room Wednesday night as the unit put on a skit accentuating the safety clause here.

The men borrowed soundequipment from a Columbus radio station for the noise of accidents and squealing brakes. They splashed ketchup over their "victims" as GI actors went through several rehearsed "numbers" to show the rest of the unit how disaster can develop.

The GI actors went through their paces in a skit placed in a roadside tavern. This was the first scene of the theatrical illustration.

One of the company members, dressed as a waitress walked up to a table where three soldiers were seated, busily drinking.

As the skit progressed, one of the soldiers attempted to put his arm around the girl. The scene shows considerable imbibing of the soldiers and then they decide to depart.

Dishes Beckons
One of the men announces he is too drunk to drive. Another drinker decides he will "pilot" the car for the party.

The group leaves the day room stage with much merriment and staving off the inevitable. Sound effects offstage featured loud racking of the car motor as squealing of brakes and a smash.

Another scene showed GI actors, liberally splashed with blood (ketchup) stretched out on "tires." They are the recent merry-makers.

A "nerve" skit brought out the dangers of traffic violations here at Benning. A vehicle remained parked on the road between the Main Post and Sand Hill area all night long forming a dangerous traffic situation.

None of the cars, forced to slow down and pass the abandoned vehicle, notified the Provost Marshall. The demonstration at the day room showed that shortly after a convoy of Army vehicles overtook a rise, smashed into the illegally parked vehicle, bringing about the death of two innocent riders in the convoy.

An investigation disclosed that the leading truck had two men over the capacity, as passengers. The safety demonstration linked this extra violation to fate.

The 27th Transportation Car company has a record of 213 days with no accidents in connection with their vehicular duties. In addition, they have driven 300,000 miles with only two minor accidents and a cost less than one hundred dollars per accident, and no injuries.

Extension Ruled On Establishment Of New Command

Scheduled date for establishment of Air-Defense Command, which was set for December 1, 1950, has been extended to January 1, 1951, it was announced today by the Department of Defense.

Under the command of Lt. Gen. Francis C. Whitcomb, the Air Defense Command is one of the three major commands resulting from recent reorganizations of the Continental Air Command.

Organizing at Mitchell Air Force Base, Hempstead, N. Y., the unit will move to BNT Air Force base, Colorado Springs, Colo. early in the new year.

Air General Sees GI, Wounded and Captured In Korea, Tells of Escape Rough Going For Chinese Reds

KANSAS CITY—Gen. George C. Kenney predicted today that the Chinese Communists will find "the going entirely different" when the United Nations reassemble their scattered fighting forces.

The commanding general of the Air University declared in a speech prepared for delivery before a group of Kansas City bankers:

"We are far from being a bunch of sottes that can be pushed over by anyone that thinks they are good enough to over us."

When Gen. Douglas MacArthur gets his scattered units back together, he added, "my personal prediction is that the Reds will find the going entirely different."

Says Yanks Fight Well
Although he insisted "There is nothing wrong with the American fighting man," Gen. Kenney, War II commander of Pacific Air Forces added this warning:

"No matter how good our troops are, however we expect to win if we are not properly equipped and the odds are too great against us."

"In the past three weeks the United States forces have had to fall back again, before overwhelming odds, but they have made the enemy pay dearly for every foot of their advance," Gen. Kenney said.

"Our final moves to liberate Korea and restore peace to that country were under way when we crossed the Yalu river, Mao Tse-Tung, the Chinese Red dictator, suddenly poured several hundred thousand of his troops into the battle."

"Outnumbered three or more to one, our advance was speedily turned into retreat. Once again we are fighting against tremendous odds in our own position. Once again an aggressor with the advantages of the initiative, surprise and mass, has scored the initial victory."

"The threat to Western civilization is apparent," the general continued.

"We still don't know whether the Kremlin is ready at this time to risk world conflict to gain its ends. We do know, however, that we must now face the facts and rush our preparations to meet any eventuality. We cannot accept defeat and the dictating of peace terms by this or any other aggressor."

Although he praised the U. S. Air Force, and its performance in Korea, Gen. Kenney pointed out that the B-29s were built six years ago from a design that is now 10 years old.

"We don't want to be forced into using World War II air planes against a modern fighter force. Part of our preparedness will have to include the equipment of our long-range bombardment units with more modern aircraft."

"We cannot afford to neglect so potent an instrument as maintaining the peace in the long-range bomber force."

A soldier's hunt, fatal description of war experiences has always proved itself in different realm from the fiction. Few stories can approach the grim drama told in simple, straight-forward language by an American soldier who survived a harrowing experience in some of the most rugged combat in this nation's military history.

Presented in his own words as related at Camp Atterbury, Ind., by Cpl. Leo C. Ross and released by the Camp Atterbury, Public Information Office is the story of the most intense accounts a Korean combatant yet received. Corporal Ross' home is in Springfield, Mo.

I was stationed in Okinawa with the 29th Infantry when the Korean War broke out. Our outfit took offensive training and on July 15th we were in Korea and assigned the job of cleaning out a village of 500 guerrillas.

We took our position on the side of a hill and it looked like about a division of North Koreans came in on us from all sides. There was a fierce battle and my squad was directed to follow a heavy weapon's squad. I stayed with the sergeant in the squad in front of me what happened to the rest of the squad I don't know.

We fought for about two hours and killed a lot of them. Along the way a few of the men that were strong enough ducked out and made their way back to the American lines. I learned later, we rode the train into the tunnel and stopped.

The American planes came following us all the time right up to the tunnel. We stayed in the tunnel all day. We knew that the South Korean troops and the Americans were not too far off.

That evening about dusk a North Korean guard wanted 15 of the strongest men we had to help prepare chow for us. We never saw them again. They a permanent prison camp there with a thousand more prisoners. On the march they were pushing us all the time. The first night we walked 32 miles. We stayed at a school house that day and heard from a civilian that just came from Seoul that the Marines had taken the city. That was really good news because we thought that our troops were still way down in southern Korea.

They gave us a few crackles and began to move us by day. A group of American planes came over and we thought for sure that we would be strafed by the planes. An American infantry major and an American Air Force captain, who had been shot down, told us to take our jackets off and wave they fell out. As planes tipped their wings in recognition. At every stop from there we were being shot. We would either die from over exposure, starvation, or from just being shot. Two of the wounded as we could because they were in a jeep coming up the road and brought him back to where we were. They were just about to put us in the jeep when an American lieutenant and some GIs came up. They put us in a truck and took us to a line hospital where we got a lot of good food and medical attention.

From there I went to a hospital in Pyongyang where I was operated on. Then I was flown to a hospital in Japan. I stayed in a hospital in Japan. I never saw them again. They

After we left Pyongyang they took us to a railroad station where they loaded us on open box cars. We traveled at night because there were so many American planes coming over. In the day we were taken into the fields along the tracks. Along the way a few of the men that were strong enough ducked out and made their way back to the American lines. I learned later, we rode the train into the tunnel and stopped.

The American planes came following us all the time right up to the tunnel. We stayed in the tunnel all day. We knew that the South Korean troops and the Americans were not too far off.

That evening about dusk a North Korean guard wanted 15 of the strongest men we had to help prepare chow for us. We never saw them again. They told us that we were going to be fed and broke us up into three groups. They took the first group to the tunnel and we were shot. The second group was taken to the tunnel and we were shot. The third group was taken to the tunnel and we were shot.

We know that a life-long friendship will endure between me and Ross and Bindels. They will continue to receive treatment for the next six months at the Army Hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind., before they are discharged from the service."

World's Tallest Man Out of British Army

Englefield, Green, England, (APPS) — Here's one way to avoid the draft legally, just grow as tall as Ernest Evans, 26, who towers 9 feet 3-1/2 inches and is still growing.

Evans, now considered the world's tallest man, finished school at 14 and then began to grow. When he reached 6 feet 4, he had to give up his job as a truck driver—his frame just didn't fit in the cab.

Eligibility to receive the per diem basically requires that dependents actually reside with the service personnel outside continental United States. A further requirement is that adequate and suitable government quarters are not available.

The new ruling does not in any manner change current regulations regarding transportation of dependents at government expense.

Active Duty Tours Offered AF Reserves
WASHINGTON (APPS) — Extended tours of active duty are being offered second lieutenants in the Air Force ROTC or USAF Reserve. USAF Headquarters has announced.

Requests for active duty will be considered until June 30, 1951. The program is the result of current expansion of the Air Force authorized by Congress.

This opportunity or extended active duty is open particularly to ROTC graduates and those Air Reserve second lieutenants desiring flying or technical training. Emphasis also is being placed upon securing those officers who are eligible for and desire to remain on active duty as potential career officers.

Lower Ranks Overseas Get Per Diem Pay

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Per diem quarters allowances at overseas stations, where government quarters are not available, now are allowed all Armed Forces enlisted personnel with dependents — regardless of pay grade.

Payments are retroactive to Aug. 1.

Previous to passage of the Dependents Assistance Act of 1950, only enlisted personnel in the three highest pay grades were eligible for the overseas station per diem allowance for quarters.

Now, however, EMs with dependents in pay grades E-4 with less than seven years service, E-3, E-2 and E-1 have had extended to them entitlement to the allowance. Entitlement is on the same basis and conditions as for EMs in the top pay grades.

The per diem allowance is in addition to basic allowance for quarters (BAQ) as provided by the applicable rates and is based on the country or areas concerned, and are established by a joint services group.

Eligibility to receive the per diem basically requires that dependents actually reside with the service personnel outside continental United States. A further requirement is that adequate and suitable government quarters are not available.

The new ruling does not in any manner change current regulations regarding transportation of dependents at government expense.

Navy Asks Funds For Marine Depot
WASHINGTON — The Navy has asked an appropriation of $1,500,000 to begin construction of a Marine depot which Congressional sources say will be located at Albany, Ga.

Congress some months ago authorized $20,000,000 for the project. None of that amount has been appropriated yet.

The Marine corps said it would not disclose the site of the depot until the office is available. Georgia congressmen say positively it will be at Albany.

First Family Checks Mailed
WASHINGTON (APPS) — The first mailing of Class "Q" allotment checks from the Army Finance Center at St. Louis, Mo., was made on December 4, to dependents of Army and Air Force personnel.

Major Gen. E. M. Foster, Army Chief of Finance, said recently that the first batch of 220,000 checks covering allotments made under the Dependents Assistance Act of 1950 represents payments covering applications received through November 14.

The first supplemental mailing of the start of the Korean war in payment of about 90,000 applications received after November 14.

At this time, it was said, it cannot be definitely stated when the second supplemental mailing them. Checks are usually sent within three weeks after acknowledgment of receipt of application.

General Foster said that applications are being processed in turn, and that correspondence with the St. Louis office is not advised unless the check is not received at the end of the three week period.

After the Class "Q" allotments are established, the checks will be mailed on the usual working day of each month.

AF Speeds Air Drop Rate 12 Times

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, Dayton, Ohio (APPS)—Techniques and equipment developed by the Air Force enable it to drop supplies to ground units at the rate of almost a ton a second.

This rate of delivery is twelve and one-half times faster than that of World War II airdrops.

This high rate of efficiency in airdrops is due largely to an installation in large cargo planes.

During World War II, a maximum of 800 pounds could be dropped in a single pass over a combat area. Now, by use of the newer quick-ejection technique, five tons of cargo can be dropped into a 1,500-foot area in one pass of seven seconds duration.

This basis of the new method is the monorail that runs the length of the fuselage, with 500-pound bundles of supplies are suspended on trolleys that ride this rail on special rollers. The passage, Allen said, is a body of icy Arctic ocean water extending through the north of Canada. It's generally believed that it is impossible even to ice breakers throughout much of its extent.

Allen said, however, if the current studies show that ice breakers can buck through in some years, the achievement would be of great importance Alaska from an economic standpoint and would be important from the military standpoint in any need for the defense of Alaska.

Free Insurance Okayed By Group
WASHINGTON — Legislation to give $10,000 free life insurance to all men in military service since the start of the Korean war was approved last Thursday by the house veterans committee.

Members of the house committee completed legislative action on a bill exempting uniformed service personnel from the federal transportation tax while traveling on furlough. The bill now goes to President Truman for his signature.

THIS CHICKEN EXPLODES
LINDBERG, Germany (APPS)—Police recently discovered why the chickens of a local farmer exploded with a long bang while running across the barnyard. Investigation showed the farmer's less was due to small bits of carbide, left behind by Allied soldiers during fall maneuvers, and eaten by the explosive chickens.

STRICTLY FRESH

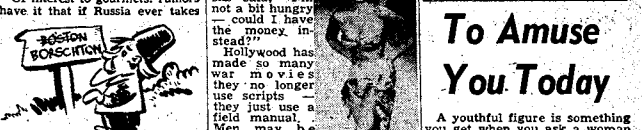

ONE good thing about gala New Year parties is that even the most timid of souls get a chance to blow their own horn.

Even some people who can cherish old school ties for years never can grow fond of their new Christmas ties.

Of interest to gourmets: rumors have it that if Russia ever takes over the U. S., "Beantown" (Boston) will be named "Borschtown."

The thing that we consider the best-kept secret of 1950 was the thing in the song called "The Thing."

When we write in the New Year, 1950 will be officially washed up.

Four Officers Feted At Corridor Room

The Corridor room of the Officers' Mess was the scene of an spirited party on Wednesday with Lt. Col. and Mrs. Thomas Rafferty, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Willis, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry Jost, and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Herbert Mansfield as hosts. This was a promotion party for the four officers.

Enhancing the natural beauty of the room were varied arrangements of magnolia leaves.

Company Party Is Big Success; Handed Praise

The men of Company "K" Eighth Infantry Regiment, are leading the way in social activities in the Fourth Infantry division, according to all reports.

Last Thursday evening they held a farewell party for members of the company who were departing for Christmas leaves. The party was held in the recreation hall of the 4th Infantry Battalion, and it followed on the heels of another party held by the company the previous week.

Capt. Howard M. Bullard, commanding officer of the company, stated that the boys of Company K have the best spirit he has ever seen in a group of recruits that size. He cited the fact that while training long hours they might burst into song at any time, whether early in the morning or late at night, and regardless of the weather.

This last party was a spontaneous affair instigated by the recruits. They formed a committee and they solicited a specified sum from each of the recruits. When the total of this company personnel was complete the committee then went to the commanding officer and requested that the party be held with the funds received.

The party was attended by approximately 800 personnel and was a huge success.

Sergeant Has 'Training' By His Own Unit

Having your platoon give you instructions may not seem to be too gratifying but it was to Sgt. James R. Mabe, Company H, 25th Airborne Infantry Regiment, now attending the Non-Commissioned Officer Weapons course.

The company which he was previously in charge of, was used as a demonstration team for the class in which he is taking a course of instruction.

With 1st Lt. Roger H. Han in charge, the platoon went through their paces without a hitch and put on a fine display of machine gun team technique.

Center Assigned Jewish Chaplain

Recently assigned to the Infantry Center at Fort Benning is Rabbi Z. Schreiber, former Rabbi of the Jewish Community Center at Newton.

Now attending the four-week Chaplain School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., Chaplain Schreiber will report for duty here shortly after the first of the year.

He was an Army chaplain during the war and this is his first assignment since being recalled to active duty.

Designated to prepare Army and Air Force chaplains in the technique of military chaplaincy and to bring them up to date on any post-war developments effecting the Chaplains School is the most progressive new schools for the training of chaplains.

Special emphasis is placed on counseling, the use of radio-visual aids in religious teachings, public speaking and radio, and television technique.

THAR'S GOLD IN THEM THAR EGGS... Literally speaking, no truer words were ever spoken with the cost of eggs skyrocketing to ninety cents per dozen recently. The costly tidbits pictured above were checked and double-checked at the Fourth Infantry division ration breakdown by Sgt. John M. Mims, left, and Sgt. Edison M. Smith.

'People Are Nice' Friends on Post Rally To Aid Victims of Fire

It looked like a pretty bleak Christmas for John D. Caldwell, for the newly rented home driver at the Post Motor Pool, when a fire completely demolished his home and all of his possessions, the morning of Dec. 20.

True, he did feel lucky because his wife and their four small children, Wilbur, 8, Linda, 5, Myra, 3 and Patsy Ann, 2, really 18 months old, had all escaped without injury, but while he was being thankful he was wondering how they were going to live, and also, what to do about Santa Claus, whose eagerly-awaited visit was only a few days off.

His first problem was solved almost immediately by his mother who offered to crowd the homeless family into her house at 603 Burning Drive until they could find a new place to live.

Friends to Rescue
The second, and just as urgent question was soon answered by friends in the surrounding community and particularly by the people where Caldwell works.

Capt. Robert L. Kline, Motor Pool, immediately offered to hold the custody of the Fort Benning Community Chest Fund of Caldwell's needs for a few days. The same day the Community Chest sent the family funds to assist them in rehabilitating themselves.

Santa Greet Kids In Big Yule Party

It was kiddies day at the Main Theater last Friday afternoon as some 1,200 children gathered for the annual children's Christmas party.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks, Infantry Center chaplain, opened the program with a message to the children followed by the singing of "Joy to the World".

The Christmas story, from the second chapter of St. Luke, was followed by "Santa Claus and the Angel Sing," sung by the children.

One of the highlights of the program was the presentation of a puppet show by Rets. Jerome Lovitts and Herbert Lowenstein, both of Company C, Eighth Infantry Regiment.

A six-act show with the puppets performing to recorded music, the show was of a highly professional nature and consisted of a complete stage with excellent lighting effects.

A replica of the late Al Johnson, singing his famous "Swanee" selection was the outstanding performance of the puppet show. Other acts were a dance team, and a Santa Claus who led in singing Christmas Carols, and a master of ceremonies.

Following the puppet show two

Hard Sawdust Grad Gen. Lemnitzer Awarded Airborne Silver Wings

There are no star-studded parachutes, according to Airborne Department officials, and Maj. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer will "go along with that."

The ground is just as hard to any parachute jumper, regardless of the insignia he wears. As a basic airborne student with class No. 21 General Lemnitzer gingerly rubs as many bruises and lame muscles as the next guy in line.

The general, who was director of the Office of Military Assistance, Department of Defense before becoming an airborne student, started jump training several weeks ago and has been through the whole routine from riding the wires into a solid sawdust landing pile, to viewing Fort Benning and the surrounding territory from the top of the 250 foot free fall towers and terms the course "rugged."

When asked if he ever thought at the beginning of his military career that he would be jumping out of airplanes when he was a major general, he laughed and commented "I never even thought I'd be a general - there have been more than a few surprises though."

Interest in Airborne
The general's interest in Airborne troops date from his acquaintance with the men of the 508th Airborne Infantry Regiment at Oran during the battle of North Africa during World War II, and he's wanted to work with airborne troops ever since he says, but this has been his first opportunity.

Like the handful of other jumping Generals who have been through" the airborne course at Benning, General Lemnitzer has packed the full jump course and extra, including graduation ceremonies and commutation into the already crowded schedule.

General Lemnitzer made his final jump to qualify as a parachutist a week ago Monday. He received his wings at the scheduled graduation ceremonies of airborne class No. 21 Friday morning at the parade ground area adjacent to the Infantry Center chapel.

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burgess, Infantry Center commander, presented the silver wings to General Lemnitzer and Brig. Gen. George Honnen, Assistant commander, Infantry School, was a guest at the formation.

Following the ceremony, General Lemnitzer returned to Washington to spend the holidays with his family.

Building 3004, in the Sand Hill area, the nerve center for the bustling Fourth Infantry division.

The major problem facing the division since reorganization is classification and assignment. This task has and is being accomplished in several ways.

Men, reporting into the division individually or in small groups are screened and assigned at the Adjutant General section. Large groups of cadre are processed by a classification team from the AG section in the immediate vicinity of the unit to which they are attached.

The classification team is currently visiting every company in the division and interviewing all personnel with a view to assigning each man to the position he can best fill.

Every effort is being made to assign each man to a job for which he is potentially qualified as indicated by his scores on the tests of Army classification.

Capable Staff
The classification team is headed by Capt. George H. Collins, division classification and assignment officer. He is assisted by a group of non-commissioned officers, well qualified through past experience to determine the potential skills of the newcomers.

Other prominent personalities in the section are Maj. Thomas E. Collins, assistant AG, executive officer and chief of the miscellaneous division, Maj. Paul J. Zirkle, assistant AG and chief of the personnel division.

In addition to handling the regular flow of routine correspondence the AG section cuts stenicals on the division daily news bulletin, circulars, special orders, general orders, staff, training and numbered memorandums and reproduces stenicals as well as other stenicals prepared by the general and special sections.

The AG message center breaks down all reproduced material to each staff section, regiments, division artillery, separate battalions and companies.

The latter section day to day coordination since in addition to material which emanates from division headquarters, distribution is also made on all bulletins, circulars, messages received from the Infantry Center and higher headquarters.

The AG messenger makes frequent runs to the Infantry Center and picks up TWX's and a TIC message center distribution, thereby insuring that material gets to all levels in as short a time as possible.

Special troops personnel branch for separate companies, headed by 1st Lt. Julius Goldstein, is located in building 3155, the postal section is located at building 3005.

1st Lt. Glenn A. Hawes is the division adjutant general and there are five other officers, three warrant officers and 25 enlisted men, in the section.

Expansion Planned In Reserve Training

The Department of the Army announced recently plans to improve the combat effectiveness of the Organized Reserve Corps by the adoption of a 15-day yearly unit field training program for all reserves.

While it has long been the policy of the Department of the Army to engage organized units in this type of training, this will be the first training of such an extensive participation.

Commencing in 1951, the training will be conducted at the most convenient post, camp or station which can provide appropriate training facilities. Most of the training, the Army said, would be during the summer months.

Lessons In Practice
Knowing that practical application of lessons learned during armory training is essential if Organized Reserve Corps units are to become qualified to meet their mobilization requirements, the Army will require all members of each troop unit to participate. Approximately 700 officers and 120,000 enlisted men will be effected.

Reservists who are not members of troop units may continue to receive this type of training on a voluntary basis. This task has and is being accomplished in several ways.

In addition to handling the regular flow of routine correspondence the AG section cuts stenicals on the division daily news bulletin, circulars, special orders, general orders, staff, training and numbered memorandums and reproduces stenicals as well as other stenicals prepared by the general and special sections.

The AG message center breaks down all reproduced material to each staff section, regiments, division artillery, separate battalions and companies.

The latter section day to day coordination since in addition to material which emanates from division headquarters, distribution is also made on all bulletins, circulars, messages received from the Infantry Center and higher headquarters.

The AG messenger makes frequent runs to the Infantry Center and picks up TWX's and a TIC message center distribution, thereby insuring that material gets to all levels in as short a time as possible.

Special troops personnel branch for separate companies, headed by 1st Lt. Julius Goldstein, is located in building 3155, the postal section is located at building 3005.

1st Lt. Glenn A. Hawes is the division adjutant general and there are five other officers, three warrant officers and 25 enlisted men, in the section.

UN Forces Evacuate Hamhung Beachhead

United Nations Forces in Korea completed the evacuation of the Hamhung beachhead this week and prepared for an all-out assault by the Chinese and North Korean Communist armies, estimated to be more than a half-million strong. The 105,000-man UN army, after withdrawing from Hamhung, swarmed ashore at Pusan, which they had helped to defend so courageously a few weeks ago. Early this week, the Communists had not started their expected offensive, but were still making probing attacks below the 38th Parallel.

Secretary of Defense George Marshall on the situation in Korea and other defense problems. At the same time, the White House announced that the President is planning to send his usual economic message to the 82nd Congress when it convenes Jan. 3. He will send the lawmakers his budget message later.

Architect David Lynn had some good news for Congress this week. He announced that the new House and Senate chambers will be ready for occupancy when the 82nd session convenes next week. Renovation of the legislative chambers above the galleries, principally the roofs, was done last year and now the job is being completed.

On the defense front, it was reported that the Defense Department is considering a plan for combining Universal Military Training with the present Selective Service set-up. The program, of course, would require Congressional action before it could be put into effect. Under the proposal, all males would be required to register at the age of 17 and to undergo six months of military training upon reaching 18. After this training period, they would be inducted into the Armed Services for 15 months service either here or overseas.

Meanwhile, the U.S. prepared to pay homage to Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U. S. Eighth Army commander who was killed last week in a jeep accident. His body arrived in Tokyo Tuesday to lie in state for an undisclosed period before being shipped home for burial in Arlington National Cemetery. Lt. Gen. Mathew B. Ridgeway was named to succeed General Walker.

President Truman returned to Washington this week from his home in Independence, Missouri, where he spent the Christmas holidays. He was scheduled to confer during the week with Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Sec-

Chaplain's Corner

'How Far Does My Freedom Extend...?'

By CHAPLAIN CHARLES A. MEEK
We hear a great deal today about personal freedom and liberty. We have fought several wars and are preparing to fight another to preserve freedom for ourselves and for others of like belief and desires. But how free are we? What limits are there, if any, to our personal freedom? How far does my freedom extend?

In the teachings of St. Paul an issue of personal freedom arose over the eating of meat that had been offered to idols. One group of people looked upon eating the meat as being wrong; they wouldn't eat it, and they condemned those who did. Another group ate the meat because they felt it a necessary part of their diet. They saw nothing wrong with it just because it had been offered to idols. They ate and called those refusing to eat narrow minded.

This sounds more like 1950 than the first century for on moral issues today, there are adherents on both sides. No matter what the issue, there are some who say it is wrong, others who say it is right. Barracks discussions, club discussions, chapel discussions about the issue back and forth pro and con calling each narrow-minded or condemning each other.

St. Paul set forth a principle for guidance in this case that can be applied to the modern issues of personal freedom in all our daily actions. He said, "Each of us shall give account of himself to God." One of the limits to our personal freedom is that we are accountable to God for our individual actions. This limits our personal freedom to those things approved of God. But this also gives us more freedom, for God is the judge "and let us no more pass judgment on one another."

St. Paul goes further to say "nothing is unclean in itself; but it is unclean for any one who thinks it unclean." This is where the individual conscience goes to work. If your conscience tells you something is wrong, to you it is wrong regardless of whether others think it right or wrong. If the other man's conscience doesn't find it wrong, you are not to be his judge; his conscience and not yours is to limit his personal freedom. Your conscience limits your personal freedom; his limits his personal freedom.

The man who sees nothing wrong in "eating meat" is not altogether free for St. Paul further states, "If your brother is being injured by what you eat, you are no longer walking in love." Do not let what you eat cause the ruin of another. Do not, for the sake of food, destroy the work of God. Everything is indeed clean, but it is wrong for any one to make others fall by what he eats; it is right not to eat meat or drink wine or do anything that makes your brother stumble. Our personal freedom then is limited by the law of love for our brother; we are his keeper.

This sounds as though all our actions are to be governed by the conscience of the man who feels a certain moral issue is wrong; if so, it is rather one sided. This isn't the case for again St. Paul states, "Let us then pursue what makes for peace and for mutual upbuilding. Let not him who eats despise him who abstains, and let not him who abstains pass judgment on him who eats." This calls for more understanding on both sides of any moral issue. It means that the greatest limit to our personal freedom is to be determined by how much we love our fellow man and how much we are willing to give and take.

To Amuse On The Bookshelf

HEADLINE HAPPY By FLORABEL MUIR
HENRY HOLT AND COMPANY, PUBLISHERS

By ROBERT L. GROOVER

Airman: "Hello, Air Police? I just wanted to report that I found that wallet I reported stolen last night."
Desk Sgt.: "What are ya, wise guy or sompin'... We've already arrested the guy who took it."

The 1-ring circus was visiting a town in the hills and the folks recognized all the instruments of the band except the slide trombone. One old settler watched the player for quite some time, then said: "There's a trick to it; he ain't really swallowin' it."

An admiral watching a young book lover eagerly but clumsily on the quarterdeck, asked: "How long have you been in the Navy, son?"
"Two months," the boy replied. "How long have you been in?"

The admiral was slightly taken aback, but answered good naturedly, "Thirty years."
"It's hell, ain't it?" the youngster said sympathetically.

Divorce Judge: "Now just why do you wish a divorce, Mrs. Wangickle?"
Mrs. Wangickle: "Your Honor, you know I am the mother of the child movie star, Dimpled Darling, and this man never calls me anything but 'the goose that laid the golden egg!'"

Man is inclined to blame the other fellow when in the wrong. He is like the little boy who was standing on the cat's tail. The mother heard the terrible outburst in the adjoining room. "Johnny, stop pulling the cat's tail." Johnnie yelled back: "I'm not pulling it tail. I'm only standing on it. The cat is doing the pulling."

She's a suicide blonde.
"How's that?"
"She dyed by her own hand!"

For the past three decades the by-line of Florabel Muir has been familiar to newspaper readers from California to New York. She has become known as one of the best reporters in the business. Getting the news, and getting it before any other reporter, has been old business for Florabel Muir for years. It stands to reason, therefore, that when she wrote her memoirs, good reading would be in store for those who followed her news stories on the front pages of the nation's best newspapers.

These readers will not be disappointed. "Headline Happy" is one of the most intriguing books to appear in some time. It is written in the best newspaper style, readable as a morning edition, and filled with stories which made big news when they happened. Florabel Muir has written not only what appeared at the time of the story, but takes you behind the scenes for the tears, laughter, and pathos which could not be included at the time.

Some of the younger readers of "Headline Happy" will not remember some of the headline stories which Florabel covers in her book. But there are a few old-timers who won't remember the Ruth Snyder-Judd Gray case in New York, the Robert James-Mary Busch murder case in California, and many more that stand out in American newspaper history. The Robert James case was particularly vicious. It was he who killed his wife, Mary Busch by tying her to a table and putting her foot in a box with two poisonous rattlesnakes.

Florabel Muir became acquainted with the theatrical side of newspaper reporting early in her career. She covered the early vaudeville performances in the days before sound movies came into being. It was here that she became acquainted with so many of the Hollywood personalities who came to play a large part in her life when she became a reporter for the Los Angeles newspapers. And it is this section of the book that the younger readers will undoubtedly recall best.

Headline cases like the Errol Flynn assault suit, the Charlie Chaplin paternity affair, the Willie Bluff union scandal that shook the largest of Hollywood's movie studios, and the sensational Mary Astor diary traces. Florabel Muir not only wrote about these people, but knew them personally. She was taken into their confidence on many occasions, and in "Headline Happy" she exploits her personal knowledge of these people to the utmost. There are a few times, however, when even she will not reveal the source of her information. This would be, she says, "violating the newspaper code of ethics." These occasions are few and far between, however.

For good, readable, fascinating news coverage, you can not do better than in Florabel Muir's "Headline Happy". There is a thrill a minute in it. Most reading for newspaper addicts, and those who never read past the headlines.

Benning Bandbox

By May Pigott

When the long slender hand meets the small one on the clock of time at midnight on the last day of the year and the strains of Auld Lang Syne die away, Father Time will take his staff in hand and totter into the past.

Janus, the two-headed god looks back into the past and into the future and the first half of the twentieth century will have become history.

If Janus could step from the court of gods in ancient Grecian mythology, he would tell you that in all the thousands of years of his existence never in the annals of history has fifty years so changed the course of the world in science, industry and culture.

At this time of the year, I am prone to look back with sadness of the years gone by, so I will take half of the century. It wasn't long after the turn of the century that the ladies sought for and won the right to vote and in this name the great world war—a conflict to end all conflicts. Four hard years followed and names like Argonne, Chateau Thierry, Meuse, Soissons, Ypres and Meuse were becoming more familiar to all—then Nov. 11 and on June 17, 1919 the government purchased from Arthur Bussey his plantation located on the Chattahoochee river and Camp Benning, named in honor of Brig. Gen. Henry L. Benning, came into being.

DURING THE "ROARING TWENTIES" The country enjoyed the greatest plenty in its history, and the world lost its greatest lover with the death of Rudolph Valentino in 1926. Suddenly we were in the midst of the great depression and Franklin D. Roosevelt became president. The thirties were a constant struggle to get on our feet, and the entertainment world lost Jean Harlow in 1937 and The Women was an outstanding Broadway hit in 1938.

The grim dark days of late 1941 were upon us and we listened with fear in our hearts as the President declared war on Japan and Germany. As the fog of uncertainty cleared we set about our job with a vengeance and in 1942 U. S. forces seized the initiative and the battles of Midway, Guadalcanal and North Africa flamed across the world and here at Benning as the year drew to a close, the first Canadian parachute battalion spent its first Christmas in the United States and Benning personnel poured millions of dollars into war bonds.

As the new year dawned our troops were fighting to hold every inch gained and as the year rolled on our troops distinguished themselves at Salerno and Anzio and Benning set the plasma record.

1944 was a big year for on June 6 came D-day with an upward trend to our fortune of war. T-Sgt. Charles "Com-mando" Kelly was sent to Benning and later married here. As '44 came to an end the bad news of the Battle of the Bulge greeted the world and Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower visited Benning. The Officers' Candidate school graduated its 50,000th O. C. and the world sung the heart-touching song, "I'll Be Seeing You."

WITH NEW HOPE IN OUR HEARTS, we greeted 1945 and as the days rolled swiftly on the world was stunned by the news of the death of President Roosevelt on April 12. Good news was provided with the signing of the treaty with Germany in the little school house on May 10 V-E day, and the United Nations held a conference in Frisco. General MacArthur made good his promise to return to Manila and the world held its breath as the news of the dropping of the atom bomb became known and rejoiced that the hostilities were at an end on V-J day Sept. 2. As the year turned, Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Caffery assumed command of Benning and the Reception Center chorus was lauded by the nation as an outstanding musical aggregation.

In June of 1946 the Army made the most sweeping change in its organization since the war began with the abolishing of Service Forces and nine Service Commands, supplanting them with six armies under the command of Gen. Jacob L. Devers.

The next years were quiet with the first air-ground demonstration held at Lawson in '47 and in '48 the first of a series of joint orientation conferences was staged at Benning and the Third Infantry division went on Operations Postbox.

At the beginning of 1950, the world was engulfed in a wave of unrest and in mid-summer the war drums again rolled for the United States this time in far-off Korea and the armies were on the march again.

So here I am back in the present. The future—Janus sagely nods his head and says the fifty years to come are still in the future, there will be bloody years and glad, years of hard back-breaking putting your shoulder to the wheel years and times of plenty, but whatever they ring, with good, plain Americanism the people of America will laugh, play, work and, as in the past fight together for freedom and peace.

CPL. MADELINE BARBOUR

Meet Miss Benning...

Cpl. Madeline Barbour steps up to assume the role of Miss Benning for this week. She claims Virginia, the Old Dominion state, as her home and was a textile machine operator for the E. I. DuPont company in her home town of Martinsville, Va.

Madeline, or "Barb" as she is better known, is assigned to the Signal Corps Photo Lab as a Technician and has held this assignment since 1949. She attended the Signal Corps Photographic school at Fort Monmouth, N. J., prior to her assignment here.

Cpl. Barbour has one hobby and one only—photography. Any and all phases hold a complete and time-consuming fascination for her. She views everything with an eye to a good picture and is extremely meticulous about having the subjects posed just right, focusing the technical aspects of the picture. When she finally takes time off from her photography and developing to go to the movies, which she likes because she can study the photographic angles used, more than likely they will be musicals. Madeline does like to read is partial to mysteries and historical novels. She is especially fond of semi-classical music. Madeline chooses sports clothes as her favorite off duty type and with her dark brunette coloring white is her pick of colors.

Barb is a true brunette with dark hair, complexion and eyes which light up with enthusiasm when she gets excited over some shot or particular good job she has done. She has a ready smile and wit and is a very familiar sight around Benning along with her trusty camera.

Her plans for the future which are in the day-dream stage are to first do newspaper work, then she could take her own pictures and write the accompanying story, after that experience her great ambition is to own a portrait studio specializing in wedding and child photographs.

While looking for something out of the ordinary to suggest for your New Year's Eve party, I came across this recipe. Although Mrs. Charles Mitchell wife of M-Sgt. Mitchell has submitted her favorite menu previously, she suggested that this would be a fitting climax to your party, so here it is.

RUM CAKE
11 eggs
2 cups sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon extract
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup water
Beat eggs, sugar and salt together 10 minutes. Sift 5 times flour and baking powder. Add flour and water to eggs, sugar and salt. Add extract and bake 1 hour in a slow oven. When the cake has cooled slice in 3 pieces. Put rum on each layer, then spread with whipped cream to which has been added a little rum. Cover the top and sides with whipped cream then add almonds to the top.

HER LOOM SILVER DISPLAYED AT ADAMS HOME
Places Given Shaded in All Their Polished Grace And Beauty.

Treasured Possessions . . . No. 4 Adams' Silver Brought To This Country in 1790

When she was a little girl, Mrs. J. E. Adams, Jr., always admired and longed for some of the lovely silver that belonged to her mother. To-day, Mrs. Adams, wife of Maj. Adams, is the proud possessor of some of the heirloom silver that has been handed down through the generations of her family.

In all of its polished splendor, the lovely pieces of silver grace the sideboard in the Adams' quarters on Running. The largest piece is the heavy pronged candelabra, then there is the sugar and creamer, the coffee and tea pot, two cake stands and two cookie stands, all intricately embossed. The sugar and creamer and the cookie stands are gold plated on the inside. The smaller pieces are fine examples of some of the most beautiful folk work.

Early Settlers
The first known record of the silver was in 1790 when her great-great grandmother came from Germany and settled in Pennsylvania. Since then the family does not know how many times the silver has crossed the ocean with various owners. Mrs. Adams explained that the candelabra was bent in shipping if from her home in Scotland when she came to join Maj. Adams. She did not know just how many pieces were in the original set, as her mother has quite a few and so do some of the other members of her family. Though she has only nine pieces, they are the most treasured possessions she owns.

Party Set At Club To Toast 1951

The rafters will be ringing and the building bursting at every seam when 1400 lucky "celebrationists" gather at the Main Officers' Mess for the annual New Year's Eve celebration Sunday, 31 December.

The celebration will consist chiefly of a buffet and dance. The buffet will be served from 8 to 8:30 p.m. while the dance will be from 8 to 1 a.m. The buffet, which will feature imported Danish baked ham, roast turkey with dressing, will be served from tables in the main dining room, the cafeteria, the Anzio room and the reading room.

Admission to the Main Mess during the evening will be by ticket only. Mess members who have made reservations may pick up their tickets in the Catering Office beginning Thursday, Dec. 21.

Family Dinner Served on Post
Even though they couldn't get home for the holidays men of the Fourth battalion, Eighth Infantry Regiment, had a "family dinner" Christmas noon with the families of Third Division personnel as honored guests in the Columbus radio stations Christmas eve and Christmas morning. A total of 100 persons responded and transportation was provided to the Service Company mess hall where they were served a Yuletide meal with all the trimmings.

'Fort Benning Line' Model Railroad Offers Fun for Post Soldiers

The shrill toots of locomotives and the rattle of railroad cars from the tracks will be familiar sound at the Service Club of No. 1 soon, as plans are well advanced for a model railroad club. Engineers, firemen, brakemen and maintenance men have been called for by Mrs. Margaret Ziegler, club director, says that all interested in being a part of the novel recreation are urgently requested to help construct the "Fort Benning Line" which is expected to be the best of its kind when completed. In demand are amateur trainmen to build and repair bridges, houses, brestles, mound mountains, dig caverns, lay tracks, repair switches, coaches and engines, that are required for the operation of such a project. Equipment has been furnished by the hobby shop. The "Fort Benning line" will span a six room area, offering "GI trainmen" lots of room to lay tracks for the operation of several trains simultaneously. Realistic in every detail, the model railroad will display trains pulling their loads over all types of terrain, whether it be "Old

Fort Benning Line' hauling a load of freight up a steep grade, or the "Twentieth Century Limited" rushing its way through a town. As the project progresses the membership will enlarge as more people become interested, Mrs. Ziegler added, and many original ideas followed by their creation will tend to make the railroad an alluring sight for curious onlookers. The club will be available during the regular working hours of Service club personnel. Membership can be made by contacting the club. Mrs. Ziegler said, that plans are being made for an art class for which an instructor is needed. Anyone desiring to instruct others in art should contact one of the club officials. In addition, the amateur show held every Wednesday is still an active part of the club program and those interested in contributing their talents will be appreciated. Music of all types are in demand, Mrs. Ziegler added, whether they are hill-billy, classical or modern.

Officer Honored With Certificate Of Achievement

A certificate of achievement was presented last week to Lt. Col. Robert H. Whitus, commanding officer, first battalion Student Training Regiment, by Col. Sevier R. Tupper, commanding officer of the regiment at ceremonies held at the Student Training Regiment headquarters. Presented for outstanding performance of duty from Jan. 11, 1948 to Nov. 29, 1950, an executive officer and senior Army instructor of the 200th Infantry Regiment, A. L. a. m. a. National Guard, the certificate was from Governor Folsom's office and was signed by Maj. Gen. James S. Salbo, state adjutant general. A native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., Col. Whitus first served with the 117th Infantry Regiment, Tennessee National Guard in 1924 to remain with that organization until 1940 during which time he was commissioned as a second lieutenant. During the war Col. Whitus served for 15 months in Europe, 11 months with the 10th Infantry division and four months with the 12th Armored division, during which he was awarded the Bronze Star medal with oak leaf cluster and the Combat Infantryman's badge. From 1947 until 1949 the colonel was with the XXVI corps in Korea and upon return in 1949 he was assigned to National Guard duty at Montgomery, Ala. His last assignment before coming here Nov. 21 of this year.

1950 Moves On Into Post History

A tumultuous world rocketed through 1950, blasting peace hopes on battlefields and at the council tables of the United Nations. A nation, tired of the bloody campaigns of World War II, slowly began awakening to the role of the soldier in the fight for lasting peace. Fort Benning, aware of the events which swirled around the world, plodded ahead in teaching and practicing the infantry lessons. Towards the end of the year there was a quickening in tempo as world leaders began calling for peace and many of the traditional tasks of enforcing their decisions, forced upon them by the slow grinding process of world diplomacy in 1950.

Fort Benning, as a community of military and civilian workers, bound together by the same goals, was also marked by Father Time and many events found their way into his archives to gather the dust of history. The BAYONET, faithfully recording developments, large and small yielded the following synopsis of the year. On Jan. 5, 1950, troops of the Third Infantry division began moving out of Fort Benning to Charleston, S. C. and Camp Pickett, Va., in preparation for the 45,000 man amphibious operation in the Caribbean. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, said he would welcome an investigation of the liquor situation during the year where he saw marks were in answer to columnist Drew Pearson's statements that the House Armed Services committee was considering an investigation of liquor sales in Army and Navy officers' clubs.

On Jan. 12 THE BAYONET announced that final plans and negotiations for the 600-unit, five million dollar Custer Road Terrace housing project had been made, with the building under way for occupancy about July 1. Also during this week the Third Army all-soldier show began a weeks stand at Fort Benning, with performances at the NCO clubs, officers' club and service clubs. Glider Crash Fort Benning's tragedy of the year occurred Jan. 12 when a glider crashed during training killing eleven students, an instructor and the pilot. Four were hospitalized with serious injuries. New uniforms made their appearance on the post as units of the command began testing the new shade 33 uniforms.

A two-weeks course for 151 civilian component officers commenced here in the new Third Army Command and General Staff school. Only national guard and reserve officers with seven or more years of commissioned service are eligible for the course. British exponent of armored warfare and military analyst, B. H. Liddel - Hart praises Lt. Col. George B. Pickett, an instructor in the Tactical department, for his article "Armored Breakthrough" in the Armored Cavalry Journal. During the first week of February Operation Proteus commanders announced that Thunderjets would be used in support of ground troops during the gigantic armed force Caribbean maneuvers. This will be the first time for the jets to be used in an exercise of his magnitude. The Third division announced that the 30th Infantry would make the invasion of Vieques, an island off the coast of Puerto Rico, by air. Announcement of the promotion of 85 men under the Army career plan came during the middle of the month. Promotions included 14 to master sergeant, 38 to sergeant first class and 2 to sergeant.

Non-commissioned officers of the first three grades began moving out of Fort Benning to 3900,000 apartments near the Student Training Regiment area, the first of March. During the same week the Third division sailed from Norfolk, Va. for an amphibious landing in the Caribbean. The month of March was a cloudy one with an eight-hour 60 mile wind and rain which caused the post commander to cancel the month's major damage was reported. Fort Benning's Fish and Game Maintenance association annual fishing tournament was one of the big events starting the month of April, with 168 participants on hand. A total of 165 fish weighing 85 pounds, 13 croppies included 80 beam, 15 croppies, 100 bluegills.

Red Cross fund-raising drive went over the top during the month of April. A total of $54,326.67 contributed. President Truman, with several of his cabinet members, visited Fort Benning the last week in April. The president watched the firing demonstrations and even fired a battery of 105-mm howitzers. The event marked the first time in the post's history that an assembly of such important dignitaries took place here. A letter from President Truman to Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander praising the personnel of Fort Benning for the program staged for the President was received the first of May. A visit by Lt. Gen. Louis B. Beun and Lt. Nedelko Reljic, Yugoslav army officers, highlighted the mid-month while celebration of Armed Forces Day, with Third division troops parading in Atlanta and Savannah, closed out the month. A visit during the first week in June by Maj. Gen. Roy H. Parker, Army chief of chaplains, to Fort Benning drew praise from the general for the function of the post chaplains. The post was visited that week by the Army's adjutant general, Maj. Gen. Edward F. F. Witsell, who spent a week inspecting the Organized Reserve Corps Adjutant General School. Events during the middle of June included the visit to the post of nearly 100 of the nations leading civilian and military persons, including 400 West Point cadets of the 1950 graduating class. Some 20 college students arrived at Fort Benning during the latter part of June to attend a six-week summer camp for Reserve Officer Training corps cadets. A merger of the post exchange grocery and the commissary into one unit in the grocery building was announced on July 3. The first week in July also saw the retirement of Col. Joseph A. Nichols, former Infantry Center chief of staff, after more than 32 years of service.

Establishment of a Ranger unit at Fort Benning was announced during the middle of October and also the fact that Air National Guard units would be stationed at Lawson Field came this month. During the last week in October some 1200 troopers from the 82nd Airborne division arrived to serve as demonstration troops for the Infantry School. Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall and newly-elected National Commander of the American Legion Erle Coker Jr. honored at a dinner at the Main Officers Mess, highlighted local events during November. It was also in November that the post suffered its first really cold spell as the mercury dropped to 12 above. This was a record low for that time of the year.

Worst Road Accident November also saw the year's worst traffic accident when two trucks collided killing two men and injuring 15. Two generals retiring opened the month December. Brig. Gen. Maurice L. Miller retired after 38 years of service and Brig. Gen. Robert E. Hill with 34 years service. This month also saw Sgt. Benjamin J. Davis, Third Sot. Field Artillery, receive the Legion of Merit for his actions in a three-day tour of National Guard camps. Late in September Maj. Gen.

The Department of the Army announced that training over the Christmas holidays would be suspended for only one day and that leaves would be curtailed. As the year ended the post along with the whole nation was preparing for the future with a grim but determined outlook.

Sports Sidelights

BY S-SGT. HENRY L. KASSELK

When A. B. "Happy" Chandler assumed the baseball commissioner's office in 1945, to fulfill the requirements of his office he was obligated to please three groups - the baseball public, the players and the club owners.

Judging from the past few seasons, it can be safely assumed that the first two were satisfied. In the case of the third group, however, it appears that all was not always rosy in the cherry bowl and a few baseball moguls were apparently unhappy with Chandler in the driver's seat. They were specifically, the seven major league club owners who voted "no" to Chandler's retention as commissioner at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The "why" in why Chandler was given the heave-ho has not altogether been clearly defined, at least not by these seven. But, several explanations have been voiced by both pro and con factions.

Most popular explanation is the one resulting from a speech in which Chandler said that baseball should shut down if total mobilization comes. Another, is that he caused several owners to lose huge sums of bonus money when he cracked down on the signing of high school players before graduation.

And lastly, one which probably had more effect than either of the other two was that he crossed paths with several powerful and influential magnates, including one Fred Seigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals; whom Chandler refused permission to play games in St. Louis on a Sunday night.

Whether "it" or not, these three explanations, at least for the moment, are providing food for thought and debate, and seem to satisfy the general public's demand for answers to the big "why".

To the avid baseball follower, the all year-round fan, however, the answer still have not been pinpointed. Probably all of the afore-mentioned possibilities, in some way, influenced the seven club owners in turning thumbs down to a renewed contract for Happy.

But, whatever the reasons, it all boils down to the fact that Chandler is not a good politician.

THE ONLY KICKBACKS he got came from those on whom his job depended, the major league club owners. Of the total of 18, he had only to please 12 owners to retain his job and get a renewed contract. But, somewhere along the line he had failed—as a politician, because he had received only nine votes instead of the 12 he needed as a vote of confidence.

It is a known fact that though Chandler is for the most part a pleasant and jovial person with a great sense of humor, his temper has reportedly been no asset in dealings with many of the club owners. It has also influenced others who were more or less undecided middle - of - the - roaders in a direction which was not in Chandler's favor.

His open hostile attitude toward his so-called enemies has also been one of the chief factors in the club owner revolt, and to some extent has helped the anti-Chandler bloc unity and concentrate their efforts against him.

This probably more than any other reason caused the split which has resulted in one of the biggest rangles in baseball history.

There are possibly other reasons, some not yet revealed which might provide a better or more explanations as to how this bitter fight started. If so, we can only sit back and wait. They'll all be brought to light for public inspection, eventually.

MORE BOWL TALK

Football's "day of reckoning" for 1950 is near at hand. And the players, coaches and fans of the nation's 10 top teams have begun to sweat, and will continue to sweat until the final whistle sounds in each of the five major bowl games scheduled this New Year's Day.

According to the early line odds-making, all of the annual classic tilts will be close and none of the favorites will win by more than a single touchdown. Two are considered toss-ups or one point favorites.

California which is out to break the Big Ten five year victory stretch has been picked a one point favorite over Michigan in the Rose Bowl tournament at Pasadena, Calif. Both schools claim that this year's bowl entry is the worst in many a year, and appear pessimistic as to the outcome.

In the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, La., the nation's top grid-iron eleven from Oklahoma University have a one touchdown margin ahead over once-beaten Kentucky. Texas is a seven point favorite over the Tennessee Vols in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Texas.

In what could be a toss-up, Miami is one point ahead of Clemson in the annual Orange Bowl classic in Miami. And undefeated Wyoming is sporting a seven point lead over the Washington and Lee Generals in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

INVADE FORT BENNING COURTS . . . These glamorous females, members of the nationally famous Hazel Walker's Arkansas Travelers, women's basketball team, will play the 1949 Infantry Center champions, the Student Training Regiment Troopers, here Jan. 7 at the Briant Wells fieldhouse. The girls who play men's teams only will play also under men's rules. Game time will be 8:30 p.m.

Women Court Stars Playing Benning, Jan. 7

Hazel Walker's nationally famous Arkansas Traveler women's basketball team will meet the 1949 Infantry Center champions, the Student Training Regiment Troopers, in an exhibition game here Jan. 7 at Briant Wells fieldhouse. Game time is 8:30 p. m.

Organized in 1949, the Arkansas Travelers have played more than 200 games throughout 42 states, Mexico and Canada. They play only men's teams and under men's rules.

Free Throw Exhibition
Ten years All American and coach - manager of the team, Hazel Walker will challenge all comers to a free throw exhibition, standing, kneeling or sitting positions during the half time. The World's Free Throw champion has been undefeated in the last four seasons.

The team which consists of only six players includes: Phyllis White (6'11"), six years All American from Enid, Okla.; Margie Arends (5'11"), professional model from Kammars, Iowa; Gerri Wilson (5'11"), (8) of Olive Hill, Ky.; Dorothy Jones (5'11") of Mt. Vernon, Ark.; Pat Johnson (5'11") from Edgerton, Ohio, and Flo Reed (5'8") of Yanis, Texas.

Friday night, the Travelers dropped a close contest, 40-38, to the Phenix City Police Department basketball team in the exciting minutes of the second overtime period.

General admission will be 60 cents. Student tickets for ages 16-18 will be available at 30 cents.

Bowl Contests Radio Coverage

On-the-spot coverage of the three major bowl classics will be brought to local radio stations on New Year's Day by a trio of Columbus radio stations.

Clemson will vie against the university of Miami in the Orange Bowl at Miami; Kentucky will play Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, and Texas will meet Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Texas.

The schedules are as follows:
WRBL (AM 1420 and FM 93.3) — Orange Bowl. Game time 2:00 p.m.
WVON (AM 1420) — Sugar Bowl with Michigan vs. California.

WGBA (AM 1460 and FM 95.1) — Sugar Bowl. Game time 2:35 p.m.
WDAX (AM 1340) — Cotton Bowl. Games time 3:30 p. m.

GUESTS OF BENNING

Holyoke Squad Holds Workout

Holyoke high school, Western Massachusetts champions arrived in Columbus yesterday and held a light workout at Fort Benning's Doughboy Stadium where they'll complete battle plans for Rockmart's Georgia Class A champs in the Peanut Bowl New Year's Day.

The squad, 42 members strong, arrived in Atlanta this morning and was met by Peanut Bowl officials who accompanied the Yankees on a Southern sightseeing tour in the Capitol City.

Coach Archie Roberts and his Purple Knights made the last leg of their long journey here aboard the Man O'War, arriving at Union Station at 2 p.m.

Both the Holyoke and Rockmart grid squads will be quartered in separate barracks at the Airborne battalion area near Lawson Field. The squads of the schools will have their meals at the same mess hall. Rockmart's squad will arrive in Columbus around noon Saturday.

Members of both squads will have access to the Bryant Wells fieldhouse, a new $80,000 structure, which contains an indoor swimming pool, exercise rooms and other athletic devices.

Day rooms have been set aside for the squads in a two-story building. The first floor of the building contains ping pong tables, pocket billiard tables, radios, sofas etc. The second floor will contain sofas, magazines, radios etc.

A tour has been planned for both squads to see the city of Benning. Army buses will be available at all times for the well-traveled forward.

The Peanut Bowl festivities will open Saturday night, when 25 young women are to compete for the title of "Peanut Bowl Queen" at a ceremony in the Raleigh hotel. The winning title will receive a $500 scholarship to LaGrange College for Women and a $250 cash award.

Ten high school bands will be in the line of march in the parade that will precede the Peanut Bowl on Monday afternoon. Bands will be from Jordan, Columbus and Baker high schools of this county; Central High of Phenix City; Robert E. Lee of Thomaston; Rockmart of High School, Manchester; Columbus Junior high school and the Wynnton grammar school. The parade will include 10 or more floats, on which the queen and other young women will ride. Officials of the Exchange club, sponsors of the game, Holyoke, Columbus and Rockmart school officials, and city and county leaders will also form part of the parade.

Table with 3 columns: Team, Wins, Losses. Includes FAIRFOREST MILL, FORT BENNING WACS, and other teams.

Uncle Sam Says

Here's your answer on what to do for Christmas—Give the Present with a Future, U. S. Savings Bonds. Bond buying is the easiest shopping you can imagine, they're available at any bank, post office, or where you work. So this Christmas, make your gift mean more than ever before. GIVE U. S. SAVINGS BONDS FOR CHRISTMAS! U. S. Treasury Department

Two U. S. Navy frigates, among 27 loaned to Russia during World War II, now are being used by the Republic of Korea Navy.

STRICTLY FRESH Earl Wilson Says

WITH congressmen threatening to impose all sorts of price, wage and rent controls, we hope they will find time to impose a little "self control."

A confidential tip: "The thing" is a nasty letter from President Truman.

An Indian in Ellwood, N. D., is reported to have changed his name from George Drags Wolf to George Crow Flies High. You'd get tired of dragging wolves too!

Lots of women are enjoying things they've wanted for years. (They bought them for their husbands at Christmas.)

Baghdad scientists are trying to find the missing link between the first cave man and the first primitive to till a field. The link will probably turn out to be nothing more startling than an old hoe.

Some soldiers miss their mess sergeants' cooking—every chance they get. Thirty years ago, says Barbara Robbins, she thought of doing the things they do today. That's why she did not do them now.

There's nothing to the report that living in a cup tent leads to a dog's life. A visitor to a swank Miami hotel was given a room on the 20th floor. He asked the manager, "Could I get something a little closer to Florida?"

A striptease is really just a work.

Pfc. Forever has figured out why some girls are called "kisses." The more you squeeze 'em, the mushier they get. Definition of a moose: An animal with a head and horns on one end and a living room wall on the other.

A private who boasts that he tells off his sergeant, will probably lie about other things, too. One sailor from the South says, "Back home in my neck of the woods, that's what people did—neck in the woods."

Prices are zooming so fast that pretty soon "the good old days" will mean last week. The way female singers on television wear low-necked dresses, you'd think they not only had to show their best arias, but also their best assets. Many a fight has started over a cup of coffee—especially the kind some mess sergeants make.

A platoon is usually 40 guys who think the other 39 don't know much about women. Things in 1951 won't be much different from 1950—Joe Louis will still be fighting, and Truman will still be President.

Capt. Murphy Assigned To 3rd Company, STR

Capt. Maxwell C. Murphy has been assigned to the 3rd company, Student Training Regiment, as company commander. It was announced this week. Formerly assigned to the United States Forces in Austria and stationed in Vienna, Capt. Murphy received the belt and arrow which has left to attend the Associate Command and General Staff course at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Twenty-one airmen received promotions last week. It was announced by Lawson Air Force base.

Heading the list were T-Sgt. Odell Cobb and Herbert L. Glass with promotions to master sergeant.

Others promoted were S-Sgt. Billie D. Anderson and Seaborn J. Underwood to technical sergeants; Sgts. Roland G. Attaway Jr., Theodore J. Mallock, Herman Hummer and Charles O. Magoon to staff sergeants.

Cpl. John J. Beneish, Naval S. Birdsall, Harris D. Dirmir, Edward D. Hancock, Herbert H. Horse, William E. Kearce, Frank G. Lowe, Farris L. Riggsbee, John R. Robertson and Joe N. Thomas to sergeants; Pfc. Eugene E. Bower, Thomas S. Burke, Robert G. McGinnis to corporals.

WHAT'S THE MATTER, DEAR?

I LOOKED IT UP!

ARE YOU SURE YOU WEREN'T MESSING AROUND IN THE ATTIC TRUNK HUNTING YOUR BIRTHDAY PRESENT?

OF COURSE NOT! YOU WOULD IT DO SUCH A THING?

THAT'S ODD! I WOULD HAVE SWORN THINGS HADN'T BEEN CHANGED AROUND!

HEY, MAW, WHICH TRUNK DID YOU MEAN?
