Captain Wayne is an Infantry officer and has been in the Army since 1942. During World War II he served in Italy, France, Germany, and Austria as a member of 3rd Battalion, 15th Infantry Regiment, 8th Infantry Division.

He wears the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal with "V" Device, one Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal, three Purple Hearts, G. C. M. I., Infantryman's Badge, Fort Benning on this year's schedule yet.

At present Jerry is marking time with the Army until his present term of enlistment expires in August 1954, at which time he plans to devote full time to expanding the circus into one of the largest mobile units in the country.

Hearty Congratulations To Fort Benning Personnel

Red Devil Sgt. Is Commended Armed Forces Day

"The wholesome utilization of time spent off duty" led to a letter of commendation for a trooper in the 58th Airborne Regimental Combat Team. The commendations came to Sergeant William H. Dietz from the Armed Services YMCA in Columbus.

Sergeant Dietz, of How Company, became acquainted with the Armed Services YMCA-USO in 1952 and became a member of the Service Men's Council.

The letter, signed by Mr. Jeff Garrett, program secretary, said in part: "Sergeant Dietz, a member of our unit, is very active in the Service Men's Council. I would like to take this opportunity to commend him for the many hours spent in planning and carrying out his program."

"He attends the bi-monthly meetings regularly and voices his opinions as to what programs we should plan for the coming year. He is at the host at the dances and outings. He helps with the monthly newspaper put out by the club, and helps operate the dance hall for our weekly Saturday-night-orchestra-dances. But most of all Dietz helps us to maintain an atmosphere of friendliness among the young servicemen who visit our club each month."

Sergeant Dietz is a squad leader in the 81 Motor Platoon.

Red Devil Makes Highest School Score

One of the highest scores ever attained at the Leadership School at Fort Jackson, S. C., was made by a Jumping Red Devil of the 58th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

Corporal Giltspede D'Antonio finished first in his class. The letter which commended D'Antonio pointed out that the 78 was one of the highest scores any student has ever made in the course. The possible score is 1000.

D'Antonio is an assistant squad leader in Easy Company.

We know how much Long Distance calls mean to service men, and we want to give you the best possible service. Here are two ways you can help:

1. If you can give the operator the out-of-town telephone number, she won't have to consult "Information" in the city you're calling and your call will go through faster.
2. Since you may be hard to locate, it is generally better for you to call the folks back home, instead of their calling you. Charges can be reversed.

To help you get faster service, you'll find out-of-town directories for the larger cities at each telephone center.

The rattlesnake is easy to identify, he says, from the rattles on its tail. It is usually found in dry areas near rocks and in wooded areas.
The water moccasin is found in swampy areas and in slow moving streams, Candidate McPherson says. It has a dull brown coloring.

Baseball Opens Monday Rifle & Pistol Champs Named

Doss, Knight Win In TIC Tourney

Cpl. Cecil F. Doss, a member of the 508th Airborne, scored 584 points out of a possible 630, to win the semi-annual TIC Rifle and Pistol Rifle competition while CWO Robert E. Knight of ISD fired a possible 530 on the first round and a 348 on the second to win the individual pistol title.

Full of smiles over copying the McFille title at McAfee's Range, Doss attributed his championship form to a steady hand, a dead eye, a little luck and a lot of hard work.

In the Army a little over 12 months, Doss placed fifth in the 1952 marksmanship tourney. Knight, a veteran marksman who has been shooting for most of his Army career, is a member of the 1953 Army Pistol Team. Crowned the Fort Benning champion last year, the ISD sharpshooter repeated the TIC victory. He also was organized as champion of the post Rifle Club by winning most of their monthly shoots in 1952.

In the Army School Detachment teams won championship honors in both rifle and pistol competition. Members of the rifle team which won the honors in the meet and scored 2,837 points were CWO Robert F. Schroeder, Capt. Hubert H. Alford, Sgt. Earl W. Hillary, and WOJG Earl W. Hillary, and M-1.

Deadeye Bob
During last week's TIC Rifle and Pistol Tournament, a semi-annual event, CWO Robert E. Knight, a member of the 1953 Army Pistol Team and winner of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club's cup, fired a possible 530 on the first round and a 348 in the second round of the 45 caliber rifle competition. This is the first known time that has occurred at Fort Benning. The only other known instance was in Berlin in 1952 when Major Arthur F. Schroeder, Jr. shot a Team captain, fired two possible 530's with a .38 caliber and 45 caliber.

Set, McArthur L. Buzzard
The first prize pistol team is composed of Knight, Major Ellis Lea, Capt. Ralph Anthony, Major George W. Duvall, and CWO Eugene A. Dancy. Points racked up to the victors totaled 3,394. Lea is the captain of the 1953 Army Pistol Team while Knight and Anthony are members of this year's squad.

Placing second through ninth place in individual rifle competition were: Capt. Doss, 584 points; CWO Schroeder, 580 points; M-Sgt. Fred W. Redfern, 574 points; WOJG Hillary, 568 points; Capt. John W. Kolb 572, S g t. Charles E. Markham, 571 points; Sgt. Arledge, 571 points; SFC Charles W. Vinson, 571 points; and Capt. Ray Orton, 569 points.

Other pistol winners and the order in which they placed were: Capt. Ralph Anthony, 584 points; Major DeVaming, 581 points; Major Len, 675 points; Lt. Benjamin L. Lumbkin, 673 points; CWO John Artyem, 670 points; Capt. Eric A. Merrick, 652 points; CWO John Webb, 641 points; Major Thomas C. Helgeson, 638 points; and Lt. Robert W. Leach, 625 points. Col. Charles H. Owens, Infantry Center chief of staff, presented awards to the winning individuals and teams.

Attention Shooters
Five Pecker 12X Rifle Telescopes will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder on May 22 at 11 a.m. The sale will be held at the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club.

Jordan Advances Into Net Tourney Finals

BY JACK BUTLER
Lonnie Jordan, defending mens singles champion and number one seeded player, advanced to the final of the 1953 Main Office Open Mens Spring Tennis Tournament Sunday by defeating Warren Drake, seeded fifth, 6-2, 6-3.

Jordan played almost errorless tennis during the two sets. In the first set, the four time winner of the singles cup made only four mistakes. Drake, on the other hand, won his points and games on outright placements. The defending present Columbus mens singles champion and number three seeded player, Dewey Keesler, defeated Dewey Smith, seeded second, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3. Smith took the hard fought first set 7-5. Both Smith and Keesler played extremely good tennis. There were many long rallies and several volleys in the second and third sets. Smith tried, but could not win. In the second round, the mens singles novice title was won by Oliver Shepard, 6-4, 6-1. The finals for the Jordan-Keesler match are scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 2:15 p.m. at the Main Office tennis courts. Jordan is a right hander while Keesler is a southpaw. This promises to be an interesting match. The loser is cordially invited to attend.

The women's singles finals are also scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 4:00 p.m. Peggy Kampe, seeded first, defeated Bob McQuay, seeded second, 6-3, 6-3. In the event of rain on Saturday afternoon, the match will be played on Sunday at 11:00 a.m. In the event of rain on Sunday, the match will be played on Monday at 11:00 a.m. The match will be won by Oliver Shepard, 6-4, 6-1. Both players received awards.

Six Teams In Post Diamond Circuit

The cry of "Play Ball" will echo forth in Fort Benning Monday night when the Infantry Center Baseball League, which will be composed of six teams, will get underway with night games scheduled for Gowdy Field and Bullett Field in Sand Hill every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evening.

The teams that are working out around Benning for the baseball league are the ISD professionals, last year's champions, Special Troop Command's Raiders, 508th Airborne's Red Devils, CTC Commanders, Lawson Field Flyers, and the School Brigade Indians. Two weeks ago the baseball coaches got together with Special Services officials to make a schedule and allow the PMG Medical to combine with the Raiders to form one club. The School Brigade Raiders will combine with the Student Regiment, Second Student Regiment, and the 508th Airborne and Brigade cadre personnel.

CTC Beats Maxwell

brains of Special Troop sharing honors with Dick Forster who headed the PMG squad. Woody Burt is looking for another year with his ISD team. Enory Burt was coach of the team. Ken Watts, a former Doughboy player during the single-team period, is head of the Commanders. Charlie Keating, former Recreation Officer for Lawson Field, is head coach. The team's tryout was held at Sand Hill.

According to the information questionnaire that each player filled out, the teams are about equal in talent. The 1952 post titleholders, the Infantry Detachment, were led by Fred Aug, 21-year-old infielder who had two years and minor league experience with Bridgeport, Conn., under his belt. He was assisted by Don Moore, Jr. of the Western League. But Sam called the team can pick up his pro contract after the season.

Semi-Pro
Then the "Reds" were run Alford, a pitcher with two years of Benning post ball behind him. Leroy Seay, a right hander who played in the New York Giant minor league system, and Bob Duvall, a two-time year with the Jersey City, N.J. team. Bob Duvall, who played for Flint River in the Georgia-Alabama League, Frank Drake, an all-around athlete, and Bob Perdue, a right hander, are the players who carried in the infield for Columbus.

RESULTS
Here are the results of last week's matches:
First Round - Charles Crigger defeated Jay Stewart, 7-5, 4-8, 6-2; Claire Draper defeated Bob McBride, 6-3, 8-4; Dewey Keesler defeated Fred Jones, 6-3.
Quarter-Finals - Lonnie Jordan defeated Warren Drake, 6-2, 6-3; Dewey Keesler defeated Claire Drake, 6-2, 6-4; Dewey Smith defeated Fred Knudsen, 6-4, 8-4; Keesler defeated Jack Butler, 6-3, 6-4.
Semi-Finals - Lonnie Jordan defeated Warren Drake, 6-2, 6-3; Keesler defeated Dewey Smith, 6-3, 8-4.
Mens Doubles
Dewey Keesler, Warren Drake and Jack Butler defeated 5-7, King and Bob Nollenberger, 6-4.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

Baseball fans throughout the country have long been aching for a system whereby the Most Valuable Player in the American and National Leagues would be chosen by a more intelligent method than that employed today. In that event, has a league's MVP been selected without repercussions from one source or another.

When the details were worked out to Egan's satisfaction, he approached Lou Boudreau of the Boston Red Sox with the idea, and Lou volunteered his complete cooperation. With this system in effect today, one member of the Red Sox will be designated as the Most Valuable Player in Boston and he will be the recipient of the Ted Williams Trophy.

The idea caught on so well in the Back Bay city, that Egan's sponsors, the Nash Dealers, are donating an automobile to the winning player.

The system is as follows: A single is worth one point, a double is two, triple three points and a home run four points. A run-batted-in is worth one point and a run scored is also a point. So is a stolen base. A sacrifice, intentional pass or being hit by a pitch is worth one half of a point.

A pitching victory is ten points. A shutout gives the hurler five additional points. The moundsman, besides the ten he gets for the win, receives 15 additional points for a no-hitter, 15 additional points for a one hitter, 10 more for a two hitter and five more for twirling a three hitter.

The top defensive performance in each ball game is worth three additional points. These are awarded by Boudreau who will name his defensive star after each game.

During the course of the 154-game season, it is quite obvious that one ball player or another will establish his value to his club on the basis of Egan's system. We respectfully suggest that Fort Benning employ this system with their ball club, the winner to receive a suitable trophy.

The possibility and scope of such a system as Leo Egan developed is unlimited. It could be employed throughout the majors in an effort to award the most deserving the honor for which all players strive. It could also be a strong talking point during contract season, both for the player and owner.

Since the system is still in its infancy and needs a few modifications or elaborations but at least the principle has been established. This corner personally feels that two more categories should be opened to pitchers in an effort to minimize the day in, day out play of other members of the club. We would award a half a point for each strikeout and two points for each game pitched without issuing a walk.

It is doubtful that anything could give baseball fans more pleasure than to watch a stretch drive between players for the Most Valuable Trophy. It would inspire competition and maximum effort plus renewing the fans interest in the player chosen as his league's most outstanding. This year's trial run (See SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS, Page 2)

DELBERT PAYNE CRACKS THE TAPE TO WIN 100 YD. DASH IN 508TH MEET Lafayette Horton (R.) Came In Second With Bill Dietz A Close Third

First Bn. Scores In 508th Track & Field

BY JIM MAILLER
The second annual track and field meet of the 508th Airborne, which was held Saturday morning at Doughboy Stadium, was taken over overwhelmingly by the First Battalion with 71 points, or 12 out of 17 events.

In addition to taking team scoring honors, two First Battalion athletes won five events alone. They were Willis Hames, who captured the discus, pole vault and high jump, and Cecil Doss, winner of the 440 intermediate hurdles and the 120 high hurdles.

One other three event winner was Delbert Payne, who won the 220 yard dash, the 100 yard dash, and participated in the four-man mile relay. Payne is a member of the Third Battalion team.

Photo finish of the meet was the photo finish in the three mile run with Tom Flores of the Third Battalion, edging Aristo Ruiz of Special Troop by half a second. Flores time was 17:31.8.

Two of the best times recorded were the 440 hurdles by Doss in 1:00.4 and the shotput by Clayton Mast, hitting with muscles, hurled the 16-pound ball 45 feet, nine and one half inches.

Ex-Tennessee Gridster Assumes STC A & R Job

By SHEL WILKENS
Special Troops Command

New A&R Officer must have left right at home when he took over his new job. And well he should! Because 2nd Lt. Vernon D. Lyons, 601 Lyons has been part and parcel of Athletics and Recreation for many a year.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Lyons found football the right sport to his liking. And he took an active interest in both during his high school days. In fact, his high school gridiron play won him a scholarship to the University of Tennessee, and a two year first-string guard berth with General R. K. (Bob) Neyland's fabulous Tennessee Volunteers.

Buddy arrived on the Tennessee campus in the Fall of 1946 and headed right for the practice field. During the four years that followed, he spent a lot more time playing on that field and in Tennessee's beautiful Shoop Stadium.

Under the wise hand of General Bob, Buddy and the Vol football team foreshadowed a rather winning sport. After hammering through an undefeated season, the Volunteers met with Bud Lyons at offensive guard, defeated best team, Texas U. in the 1951 edition of the Dallas Cotton Bowl. The following year found the men from Tennessee undefeated through season play. But the Sugar Bowl and Maryland proved too much that January 1, 1952. The Volunteers came out in the lower end of the score.

Compensated, Lyons was also a pretty busy lad. In 1951, he was appointed to serve on the staff of the Universities Athletic Council, where he helped program and direct all Tennessee Athletic policy.

Besides all that, Bud found time to be president of his social fraternity, a member of the All-Student Government and vice president of Omega Delta Kappa, leadership fraternity. And, when he had a few spare moments, he did some studying too, enough to raise him a place in Who's-Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Lyons was assigned to the Infantry Center in February, and recently took over his new post with Special Troops Command.

SR Athletes Honored By Commanders

"You are the best, not the second best, but the best."
That was the theme last Thursday evening at the Polo Hunt Club when the First Student Regiment, et al and boxing, honored the athletes who participated in these sports.

Col. Kenneth Macomber, commanding officer of the Blueshirts and Col. Max H. Gooler, School Brigade commander, brought out the theme in the short speeches before the assembled guests and athletes.

The basketball team was represented by Sgt. Terry Scott, Pvt. Nelson Ohlemacher, Pvt. Phil Phillips, Cpl. Carl Proctor, Pfc. Norm Rasp, and Pvt. Roy Rhoades.

Doss Wins TIC Rifle Shoot

BY J. M. MYCIELL
dread center of the bulls-eye.

After the scores in the rifle competition of The Infantry Center Rifle and Pistol Meet, a semi-annual event, were tallied, Cpl. Cecil F. Doss was acclaimed the Top Rifleman with a score of 584 out of a possible 620.

Doss, a 50th Airborne trooper, placed a phenomenal 36 rings in the "The Best" individual shots when an M-1 rifle from each of the units on post gathered last week at McClellan Barracks and for two days fired at the bulls-eye. "A steady hand, a sharpshooter's eye, a little luck and a lot of hard work" is the unobtainable combination that gave the Red Devil marksman the Fort Benning championship.

Only in the Army a little over 17 months, Doss placed fifth in the individual competition during last year's rifle and pistol meet. An avid hunter, the post champion never fired a weapon as heavy as the Garand before coming into service.

Red Devil Units Are Commended

Letters of commendation have just been received by the 508th Airborne Regimental Company Team from Maj. Gen. Guy S. Meador, Jr., Infantry Center commander, for ratings received in the Third Army inspection held in January.

Service Battery of the 320th Field Artillery Battalion of the 508th Airborne Regimental Company was selected the best battery in the Second Lt. John J. Barnes.

Other units were commended for superior administrative activities, superior CBR warfare class, and superior troop information programs. The units receiving these commendations were Baker, Headquarters, and Service Batteries, and Able Company.

The letter said in part: "It is with great pleasure and satisfaction that we note the superior ratings received by the units of your command, and in particular, the commendation for that extensive thought, effort, and preparation have been put forth by the men. It is my desire that this letter be brought to the attention of the members of your command."

ASSIGNED TO ENGINEERS
Four enlisted men have been assigned to Headquarters and Service Company, 78th Engineers Combat Battalion. They are Sergeant First Class W. D. Pollard, Private James W. Battle, Jr., Private Paul Butler, and Private Ernest J. Anderson.

Anderson's role his country is playing in the defense of Europe. His address is being given in connection with Armed Forces Week.

He's A 2-Man Unit!

BY SHEL VILENSKY
He's a unit all by himself! That's Sergeant James T. Watts, and right now he is in the 572nd Quartermaster Office Machine Repair Detachment, Special Troop Command.

The Army's Table of Organization and Equipment states that no more than two men are authorized to man a typewriter. So, adding another man to the unit is now being done at full strength.

The detachment shortly after his return from the Far East in July 1951. And he has been on the job ever since.

Basically, the mission of the detachment is the repair and maintenance of the more than 10,000 typewriters in offices, mess halls, kitchens, and garages all over the Fort Benning reservation. But Watts alone doesn't repair all—he has help!

The Quartermaster Office has assigned a staff of six men to repair all post office machines, five civilians and Sergeant Watts. The men average 20 repaired typewriters a day, or about 4,000 repaired machines every year.

New Office Great Help

BY HILLY J. MCCORMACK
"One of the important days at Sand Hill," said Lt. G. B. Barrett, Sand Hill finance officer, "was when the first fragments of the new finance office were moved into this section of Fort Benning recently."

The finance office, which is primarily stocked with civilian personnel, opens at 8 a.m. and closes at 4:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Among the civilian personnel who have opened the office are five pay clerks, David Buckner, Frank M. Myer, Myrtle Mahoney, Mrs. Thelma Niette, and Mrs. Ann Stewart. Also in the office is a travel section clerk, Mrs. Mildred Cooper, a receiving section clerk, Mrs. Frances Huse, and two pay clerk supervisors, Mrs. Dorothy Moore and Harry Tomblin; a machine unit clerk, Mrs. Jean Chung, and the supervisor of the travel pay section, Bob Collier.

Besides these civilians there are five enlisted men from the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team. They are Sgt. James H. Yarnell, Cpl. Raymond F. Lettman, Cpl. Donny R. Vaughan, Cpl. James Fluriss, and Pfc. Carl L. Chance. Completing the personnel are Corporal Howard D. Frix, First Special Troops, cashier; Pfc. Roy Hinkle, First Special Troops, who takes care of all allotment departments; and Pvt. Aaron Riley, in charge of the supply room and WOJG Walter E. Mitchell, assistant finance officer.

The Finance Office has been set up to better serve the men in the Sand Hill Area.

As an Infantryman, Officer Candidate Richard L. Rusk of 21st OC is one of the "saltiest" candidates in the 1st of OC Regiment, California, picked up by sea, legs back in 1950 when, along with his parents and sister, he sailed 2,300 miles from Los Angeles to Honolulu in a 41-foot sloop. The trip took 23 days.

Dick's father, Leroy A. Rusk, is a retired lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve who long had a skipper, Dick as navigator. Mrs. Rusk as cook and Helen, then 16 in waters around Los Angeles old, was "first mate."

notes but the rest of the family "With smooth sailing most of the way, as Dick puts it, "confirmed landlubbers."

Although Mr. Rusk had often talked of sailing to Hawaii, the decision was a spur-of-the-moment affair. The Rusks bought a sloop, which they dubbed "Vim," and two months later put out to sea. Rusk at the time of the decision was working in the Yosemite Valley and was called home just in time to sit in on the last stages of planning.

Out at sea Mr. Rusk served as Army Reserve who long had a skipper, Dick as navigator. Mrs. Rusk as cook and Helen, then 16 in waters around Los Angeles old, was "first mate."

Three Promoted In 1st Company

BY LT. T. M. MALIN

Students of associate advanced class No. 5, assigned to First Company of the First Student Regiment, recently received three promotions.

Three students, one American and two Allied officers, now have new ranks. They are Colonel Cho Un-ik, of the Republic of Korea; Lt. Colonel Elias Timmerman, from the Netherlands; and Major Roger B. Handberg, of the U. S. Army.

Col. Cho, whose home is in Seoul, Korea, was G-1 of the 1st ROK Corps prior to his arrival at Fort Benning. Upon completion of the course, he will be assigned to a South Korean Division in Tokyo in 1954. He has a wife and a year-old son residing in Seoul.

Col. Timmerman will return to Holland after completing training here to take over duties as second-in-command at the Netherlands Infantry School at Harderswijk. He was educated at the Royal Military Academy at Breda. He fought against the Nazis from the invasion in 1940 until his country was overrun. In 1940, Col. Timmerman worked with the U. S. First Division in Germany with the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. His wife, two boys, and two girls live in Ermelo, the Netherlands.

Major Handberg, presently assigned to the 321st AF Reception Center at Camp Crowder, Mo., serves in Dinwiddie and the pipelines, as well as spending six months in Korea with the 82nd Engineer Aviation Battalion, attached the 91st Airborne Group. Mrs. Handberg and their two boys, ages eight and five, reside at Camp Crowder.

Writers Get Advice From Lt. Col. Eney

BY LT. T. M. MALIN

Lt. Col. John K. Eney, editor of the Infantry Quarterly and prominent free lance writer, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Writers Workshop held at the Main Post Library Monday.

Accompanying Col. Eney was Pfc. Norman Poser, a member of the Quarterly staff, former associate editor of the Harvard Crimson and a frequent contributor to Coronet magazine.

Col. Eney, in a question and answer discussion, brought out the methods and techniques of fiction writing. He pointed out that a successful article must contain some of the good elements of fiction to hold reader interest. He read portions of several manuscripts that had been submitted to the Infantry Quarterly as examples of effective writing.

"For Thou Art With Me," an article for the Infantry Quarterly for Redbook magazine was lauded as the most realistic wartime document of all times. He is presently working on a book concerning the life of a young alien in the United States.

Some members of the Writer's Workshop already have written articles for the Infantry Quarterly. A magazine which pays well for the work of writers is also being prepared. It is always looking for new writers.

The Writer's Workshop, a group formed for the study of writing methods in current events, meets twice a week in the back office of the Main Post Library. One of the functions of the group is the roundtable discussion of short stories, articles, essays and poetry. The next meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. May 21.

Belvoir Engineers To Visit Project

Twenty advance students in the Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va., will inspect the project construction projects on post May 20-21.

The group will include 17 U. S. Army officers and three Allied officers, the first selected officers from the Engineer School to visit the Engineer School.

Col. Richard F. Epps, post engineer, said the Belvoir officers will receive an orientation on the new post.

New Asst. Commandant Honored at Reception

Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, new assistant commandant of the Infantry School, was formally received here on Saturday in a formal reception at 5 p.m. last Sunday in the Main Officers' Mess.

Gen. and Mrs. Fritzsche at that time officially met the officers and their wives.

The new assistant commandant and Mrs. Fritzsche arrived here Sunday.

Gen. Fritzsche, former assistant commander of the Infantry Division in Korea, assumed his new duties on Monday.

Talent Winners Will Appear on TV

Capt. Dale Roby, entertainment officer for the post, has released the final plans for the Fort Benning Talent Patrol.

First auditions for this contest were held last Saturday in the Soldier Shows building, and approximately 14 acts already have been accepted to appear in the preliminary eliminations to be held Service Club No. 1 Tuesday 7:30 p.m.

The final phase of the competition will be at Theatre No. 1 on Thursday, May 21 at 7 p.m. Performances at the theatre will be edited by T. W. Chester and Plans dealing with the development of guided missiles by the Army.

On a chilly morning in March 1952 Brigadier General Merin Davis appeared before a Congressional subcommittee which was seeking information about guided missile development by the Army.

"Gentlemen," he said, "for many years Army Ordnance has been appearing before this subcommittee to discuss the development of guided missiles."

Army Ordnance finally reached the production stage on two Army missiles.

"This was heartening news to the people of a continent and Belgium in 1944 and 1945—also was heartening to the Army Ordnance technical intelligence teams which ranged through Germany on the closing phases of World War II to discover the extent of the German V-2 rockets."

"V-2 Test Stations... Their discovery of the test stations, the great underground production lines and the evaluation of scientists and rockets to the United States, greatly assisted the Army in developing the guided missile."

"The fact that it was done—the United States—gained additional impetus eleven months later, when the New Mexico desert to initiate the Army's V-2 program."

"We were merely babes in the woods when my staff brought back the V-2 from Germany," said Brigadier General H. N. Toffey, Director of the Ordnance Laboratories at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

"Since then, we have made tremendous strides in this brand new field of American military technology."

Toffey—who, since World War II, fathered the Army rocket and guided missile program in the United States—continued: "The V-2's provided us with the fundamental data that we were able to save and use in the development of our guided missile program and five years in research and development time."

Research work... Although much was learned from V-2 rocket firings at White Sands, the development of guided missiles has been serving the Army as a research workshop for many years.

"If it were not for this rocket, guided missiles now rolling off assembly lines for the Army in all probability would be nonexistent."

FOUR TO BE ASSIGNED... Four officers will be assigned to the Infantry School following their graduation in June from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. They are: Lt. Col. William J. Bovis, Jr., Capt. John A. Cook, and Robert J. MacDonell.

YOU And Gen. Meloy?

Post To Select Outstanding EM As Gen's. Aide Competition For The Honor To Be Rotated Among Units

Outstanding Fort Benning enlisted men will be selected as enlisted aides to Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, beginning June 1, it has been announced.

The program was inaugurated this week and is designed to give recognition to enlisted men for military achievements. Each man chosen will serve for one week. Competition for the honor will be rotated with the commanding officer of each major unit selecting his command's representative. Each enlisted man selected as the general's aide will receive an orientation on post activities before beginning his tour; and during the week he will accompany the general to meetings and ceremonies.

On the last day of his tour the enlisted aide will be requested to submit to Gen. Meloy a brief report on his tour, including observations and recommendations. The Commanding Training Command will be the first to select a man. He will serve as aide June 1-7.

The 50th Airborne Regimental Command Team will select an aide for the week of June 28 to July 4; Special Groups Command, July 20 to 26; 1st Infantry Division, July 15 to 21; School Brigade, Sept. 7-12; and Army Field Forces Board No. 3, Sept. 28 to Oct. 3.

Life Magazine Asks Us To Help Identify POWs

Life magazine has called on the Infantry Center for help. In its May 1 issue, the magazine ran a series of photographs of U. S. prisoners of the Communists in Korea. They were taken in July of 1950 and showed captured members of the U. S. 15th and 24th Infantry Regiments. Two units are committed in the action. The appearance of the pictures. Life has been deluged with requests for names of men who are prisoners of war or listed missing in action since for many information.

We Purchased $56,944 Bonds Month Of April

Fort Benning bought $56,944 worth of United States Defense Bonds during April. Civilians purchased $28,942.75 and the military bought $28,001.75.

Topping the major command unit purchases was the 50th Airborne Regimental Command Team with $6,757.75. The Infantry School Department was second with purchases of $5,300. Other unit bond purchases including the 1st Infantry Center will go a long way toward better understanding. The total amount of bonds purchased by Field Forces Board No. 3, $1,467.75; Headquarters, The Infantry Center, $1,362.50; Second Student Regiment, $1,037.75; and Provisional Medical Group $257.75.

AF DAY IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA. . . This unusual photograph shows elements of Baker Battery, 320th Field Artillery of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, passing in review for Lt. Gen. C. K. Bolling, commanding general, Third Army, and Col. George O. Pearson, commanding the 508th.

No Cut Here In Med Care, Gen. Bolling

Medical care in the Third Army definitely will not be curtailed even though doctors may have to work 24 hours a day, Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, told some 40 graduates of the Infantry School's officer class No. 1 and 2 last Monday. Gen. Bolling's statement came as the result of a current shortage of Army physicians and a reduction of draft quota which would have brought more into service. In praising The Infantry School's course of instruction, Gen. Bolling told the graduates and their families that the "second lieutenants who complete the officer candidate course know more than the officers of World War I who had ten years of service."

The Three - star general also pointed out that a good combat officer does not necessarily make a good peace-time officer and warned the advanced classes against "resting on their decorations." If men who just sat back and waited for their decorations, a few weeks of combat never get them Napoleon," he said. He also warned against mediocrity, which "should not be accepted in any form."

Stressing the need for economy, Gen. Bolling declared: "It's the theme of the Third Army and other military areas to be cost conscious. Today the Army dollar is being stretched much further than in the past, and you should be aware of this cost consciousness."

Among his "do's and don'ts" advice, Gen. Bolling said officers should develop a sense of responsibility which makes good officer-ship, should not complain about assignments and should be ambitious but "not at the expense of brother officers."

Gen. Bolling was introduced at the graduation exercises by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander. Capt. H. L. Shaw, son of Major Gen. and Mrs. F. P. Shaw, was the speaker. Without this assistance the aid given by Maj. Gen. Meloy's top leaders is so tangible that they have been written or spoken Much of these relations by the Army, Military and Naval Affairs Committee, and by the Citizens Military Council. Down through the number of requests for aid to the two communities have established a strong relationship with other military, civilian communities. The special supplement contained 40 letters written by Benning area residents to the servicemen.

To these fine leaders of both the

M-Sergeant New Aide To Gen. Bolling

HEADQUARTERS 7th INFANTRY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—Master Sergeant Earl H. Dixon of Shelby, N. C., has been chosen as Gen. Bolling's Third Army aide.

The 12th sergeant of Co. F, 12th Regiment, Eighth Infantry Division, Fort Jackson, S. C., Sgt. Dixon enlisted in the Army in 1943 and has spent most of the last ten years overseas. Dixon was assigned with Gen. Bolling after being chosen by two soldiers in regimental, divisional, and post-competitions at Fort Jackson. The competition is conducted under a system whereby post sergeants of the Third Army area rotate in sending their outstanding soldier to Fort McPherson every two weeks.

Chamber Thanks Benning

Little towards securing a build-up of Benning's strength, hence he looked to the Chamber of Commerce to do it for him.

But in reality much can be done by individuals. Columbus and its citizens have an opportunity seldom equalled anywhere. Think what it would mean to Columbus from a good will standpoint if every soldier ever stationed at Benning left here having experienced with him the spirit which the South is so famous.

Since the Chamber means to Columbus if we extended the Benning to our streets, to the homes of our personnel and their families, we do get newcomers to our city.

Now let's turn that around and see how the same holds true where Columbus businessmen are concerned. One such merchant who gives a soldier or airman shoddy merchandise or charges unreasonable prices to the eyes of military personnel. Kindly - nine and forty - four hundred per cent of Columbus businessmen would never think of applying any customer. The same percentage of servicemen never disapprove of a merchant unless he is a military personnel.

Col. Peddicord New Executive

Lt. Col. Lloyd E. Peddicord, Jr., of Green Springs, Ohio, has been named executive officer of the Infantry School's operations office. He succeeds Lt. Col. Lawrence J. Laliberte of North Adams, Mass., who is taking the field grade officers refresher course.

Col. Peddicord entered the service in 1932 as an enlisted man. He received his commission in 1938. Although still in the Army is 1941-1942, he was assigned to duty with the Marine and Navy. He went to the Southeast Asia Command in 1943 and in 1945 served with the OSS in training the Chinese. From 1946 to 1948 he was a member of the U. S. Military Mission in Greece.

Outstanding Pfc. Cited For Duties

Pfc. Richard H. Roberts, Company L, 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, has been commended by the assistant post commander officer for duty at the post detention barracks. The commendation, sent in the form of a letter, was from 1st Lt. Wayne L. Williams, pointing out that Pfc. Roberts "distinguished himself by outstanding and efficient performance of his duties. Exceptional carrying - out of military guard duties requires a high type of personal integrity in the prison guard. Pfc. Roberts has displayed this type of integrity on all occasions in which he has been assigned duty with this organization. The letter continued, "Pfc. Roberts' letter contained, 'reflected credit both on himself and his organization in the conduct of his duties.'"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Everyone at Fort Benning must surely appreciate the sentiments expressed by the Chamber of Commerce of Columbus in the following editorial that appeared in its monthly publication, Action, reprinted here in full.

The staff of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce who publish ACTION originated it to inform Chamber members of their Chamber's efforts to overlap with the established news media of this area. This was done to give our citizens to Chamber activities and have editorial to those media which specialize in that field.

However, one particular phase of the recent disaster which struck Columbus is of such significance that we feel justified in departing from our usual policy. We refer to the quick, cheerful and never-to-be-forgotten assistance which was rendered the disaster areas by troops under the command of Maj. Gen. Guy S. Meloy, Jr., of Fort Benning and Troy W. Crawford of Luwasa Air Force Station. The fact that the Columbus area would have been many times in a shambles had it not been for the devotion left by the 15th Infantry.

It is our hope that citizens of Columbus will not resort to judgment by condemning the entire military establishment because of the actions of a few of its members. The men who are the backbone of the several thousand honest businessmen in Columbus are not less to suffer because of unethical practices of one or two individuals. It is our earnest hope that those few can be exposed. Columbus businessmen were the vast facilities of Fort Benning to be utilized to the fullest extent. This is evident from the large number of requests for aid to the two communities have established a strong relationship with other military, civilian communities. The special supplement contained 40 letters written by Benning area residents to the servicemen.

Men Of 12th OC Give 88 Pints

First Lt. Billy M. Vaughn, commanding officer of the 12th Officer Candidate Company, may not be able to get blood out of a turnip, but he certainly doesn't have any trouble getting it out of a Candidate.

On Monday Lt. Vaughn asked the members of Senior Class 32 to make a good showing at the Fort Benning Blood Donor Center and he got more than he bargained for. The entire company volunteered. Ready and waiting, when the time arrived there was no available government transportation to take them to the blood center. Someone suggested that they drive their own automobiles and, after the candidates piled into their cars and the blood donor caravan made its way to the Main Post Hospital, 88 pints of blood were collected from the company, every available man donating a pint.

NG Commends Red Devil Help In Storm Saga

Appreciation for the communications aid given a National Guard battalion by the 50th Airborne Division and the 1st Cavalry Division during the recent Columbus disaster has been given official commendation by the commanding general of the Third Army and by the post commander.

Endorsing a letter from the commander of the 50th Combat Engineer Battalion, National Guard of Columbus, Lt. Col. George R. Boling said, "I am deeply grateful with the services rendered by members of the 50th during the recent emergency in the Columbus area and take pleasure in forwarding this letter of commendation.

General Meloy, Guy S. Meloy, Jr. added, "It is with great pleasure that I forward this correspondence to the commanding officer of the 50th concerning the participation of communications personnel in the recent emergency."

Well-Informed Soldier Is A Better Fighting Man

(Editor's note: Following is the last of a series of six articles comparing a U. S. Army combat infantry division with the Soviet Russian Army.)

The U. S. Army believes the effectiveness of a combat force is directly related to the educational level of its soldiers. It also believes an informed soldier is a better fighting man.

Rumors, speculation, suspicion, fears of the unknown, ignorance, doubts and anxieties are "little" things, but they can do a lot of damage to a division's will to fight.

Let's Keep Benning Clean

Fort Benning, as the showplace of the United States Infantry, is constantly on exhibit to dignitaries and visitors from all over the world. It is important to the United States and the Army that the home of the Infantry present the best possible appearance to visitors from home and from abroad.

Considerable effort is made daily by both military and civilian personnel to preserve the beauty and neat appearance of this post. However, unless each individual makes a personal effort, there will be times when sections of the post will be unsightly.

The old adage about "an ounce of prevention" being worth a pound of cure" is particularly appropriate to a situation like that of a post. If everyone makes it his personal business to see that nothing is thrown down, then unsightly refuse will not have much chance to litter our streets and lawns. Remember, that just because a piece of paper disappears from your car it doesn't disintegrate. Every piece of paper or trash you drop or throw out of a window naturally has to come to rest somewhere.

Despite the eternal vigilance of the police details, there are many items such as bottles, cigarette butts, and the like, which are not picked up. Since having a clean post is to the advantage of everyone, remember that the fact that you are not assigned to a police-picking-up detail with special mission of picking-up these items.

Air Force To Award 'Rogers' In Two Contests

Their dependents on a rental basis.

Transfer of the Separation Center at Ft. Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., to Ft. Sheridan, near Highwood, Ill., has been revealed. The Army also announced plans to move the Reception Center at Ft. Sheridan to Ft. Riley, Kans.

An agreement providing for construction by Portugal of minesweepers and escort vessels destined for use by NATO nations has been announced by the U.S. Navy. The U.S. share of the cost will be about $7.5 million, paid under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program.

Eighteen contracts, totaling $15,071,639, have been awarded in connection with the Navy construction projects since the Post-3 construction freeze. The Defense Department has announced.

3 Units Evolve New Jump

Cooperation and coordination between ground and air forces have been the major difference between the Canadian and American methods in the U.S. drop zone.

The first test drop using live jumpers began April 24 when six officers and enlisted men from the 80th Airborne Division, 4th Troop, Cavalry, and the 80th Airborne Division, 4th Troop, Cavalry, spent hours studying, coordinating, and training in a new type of jump.

The new system is a modification of a Canadian method which has been in effect for a number of years. It is known as CARP—Combined Air Release Point.

Under the old system, the drop zone was marked by a "T" mark set in place by ground personnel who were one of the jumpers. The navigator for getting the troop into the drop zone was the first trooper out of the plane who had jumped.

The new system requires no flying altitude to determine the release point. The computer includes the wind direction, velocity, rate of drift of the parachute, and the rate of exit of the chute.

Rained On Guns, 508th Sgt. Sad

Water is not necessarily a good cleanser. Sergeant Leo B. McLaughlin of Baker company of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, with tears in his eyes, will attest to that.

It seems that he had a detail to strip his '30 rifles and lay them out on the floor for a good cleaning job. Nature must have sympathized with the armorer for he decided to wash the weapons while he was away.

The rains came and flooded the arms room. Instead of helping, she hindered. Rumor has it that Sergeant McLaughlin almost raised the roof level to none in fact when he saw what had happened.

R. Bolling, Third Army commander, and was presented to Mr. Gibson on his retirement from the service following 30 years of active duty. CWO Gibson was assigned to the Third Army Area Food Service School, Special Troops Command. He will make his home in Columbus and will operate the Fern Grill on Victory Drive.

2d SR Lieut. Gets Oak Leaf

Second Lieut. John H. Lingle was awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star at ceremonies conducted by the Second Student Regiment recently.

Lingle, who received a battlefield commission in Korea for exceptional performance of duty, received his additional award for meritorious service against the enemy when he continually volunteered for difficult and dangerous assignments. Twice wounded, he was a constant participant in night parades and training parties.

Lieutenant Lingle entered the Federal Service from Hasty Colorado in April 1946.

He admired the costume of the leading chorus girl, "Who made her dress?" "The police."

Gen. Ridgway's Ex-Driver Liked Old Job In Japan

Bercent Doctor N. Williams, supply sergeant of 12th OC Company, yesterday threw some light on the relationships between high ranking officers and enlisted men. Sgt. Williams, while serving in Japan, was the personal chauffeur for General Matthew B. Ridgway and was a staff driver and a member of the honor guard for General Douglas MacArthur.

Williams recalls that driving for the "top brass" was good duty. His fondest recollections are of the evenings he and other drivers spent at the home of General Ridgway, whose policy was to open his home to the men for snacks and movies. "All of the officers were friendly," Williams says. "They went out of their way to assist you, the case of General Ridgway's open house being just one example."

A veteran of five years in the Army, Sgt. Williams received his assignment to Fort Ord, Calif., and to Japan where he became a staff driver. He was in the Far East for more than four years. Rotated back to the States in November 1952, he attended the eight-week Supply School at Fort Jackson, S. C., and then was assigned to 12th OC Company as supply sergeant.

Other Third Army reassignments and percentages are: Camp Campbell, Ky., 130, 46.26 per cent; Camp Gordon, Ga., 26, 41.27 per cent; Fort McPherson, Ga., 10, 34.65 per cent; Fort McCallan, Ala., 40, 43.53 per cent; Fort Bragg, N. C., 130, 12.75 per cent; Camp Stewart, Ga., 138, 27.28 per cent; Fort Jackson, S. C., 409, 3.42 per cent.

81 Reenlist Here During Last Month

The Infantry Center finished its fifth place in the Third Army Area during the month of April for reenlistments with a total of 81. This was 33.75 per cent of the men eligible for further active duty. Fort Benning did, however, finish first in total reenlistment of Regular Army men, with 85 sign-up for more duty.

In the overall reenlistment computations Camp Rucker, Ala., topped the list with 232 men reenlisting, representing 49.26 per cent of those eligible.

November in 1950, the North Koreans broke through with a counterattack and either captured or killed the small group, consisting of approximately 360 men, before they realized what was happening.

Brutally beaten and left for dead, he was later found as the American troops retook the position. Sgt. Jasper was taken to a hospital and treated for his injuries.

Col. Oliver O. Dixon, group chief of the Intelligence Group, Staff Department, delivered the graduation address to 26 students of an intelligence communication Class No. 3 recently.

Highlights of Col. Dixon's address were the importance of communication and the role played by communication personnel in the Armed Forces today. The students were told that they might well, in the near future, find themselves acting in the capacity of the senior communication adviser-technician in their respective units and concurrent with the technical knowledge they had gained, the application of leadership training would be essential to their success. Knowledge of their subject and courage to supervise a detail through to completion of the mission were emphasized.

Col. Dixon will depart very shortly for an assignment in the Far East Command. He is a graduate of the University of Indiana military service schools in the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and the Armed Forces Staff College.

Sgt. Howard B. Treat Jr. and Sgt. Joseph J. Killebrew were the honor students of the class.

Track & Field Meet Today

100 Hopfuls Vie for TIC Hopfuls

More than 100 young athletes, men in the abbreviated underwear, will go into action today and tomorrow at Doughboy Stadium and Gowdy Field in the annual Fort Benning Track and Field Championships which will serve as a prelude to the Third Army event which will be held at Fort McClellan, Ala., June 5-6.

Most of the teams entered have nursed their hopfuls along in comparative secrecy for the past few weeks, but events in the comparative schedule of practice times and standards published at the post recently indicate that the post records this year is due for a considerable stride and revision.

Today will be devoted to qualifying trials and heats with the finals being run off tomorrow. A complete schedule of the starting times of each event, will be announced at the meet.

There are eighteen events on the program for the participants and the spectators. They are: 100 yard dash, 220, 440, 880, mile run, three mile, 110 high hurdles, 220 low hurdles, 440 intermediate hurdles, 880 yard high jump, pole vault, broad jump, hammer throw, shot put, discus, javelin.

Admission is free to all the events. Like the 1952 meet, the field events, shot, discus, hammer and javelin, will be held at Gowdy Field, 5000th Airborne held its inter-regimental meet two weeks ago and all the events were run off at Doughboy Stadium.

The Combat Training Command, winners of the 1952 extravaganza, is the defending team champion. But the Red Devils showed all field and track championships that they are out to place the most athletes on the team that will represent us in the 3-A Army event.

plon Javelin and discus thrower. The 500th spear hurler hit the 160-foot mark two weeks ago, but Goins, who cracked 227 feet in the 1952 West Coast Relays, set the post and Third Army records for that event. His fans claim that he warms up with 175-foot heaves. There are a few men from last year's competition who are still at Fort Benning and will participate in the meet. Besides, Goins, Lionel Finn, a distance runner from the 100th Cavalary, and Cliff Williams in the 400 who won the mile in a 4:53.4. Carroll Dickinson will serve as a prelude to the 120 high hurdles. Points will be awarded to the first three competitors in each event on a 5-3-1 basis. Just what type awards will be awarded is unknown at this writing.

For a first breakdown of participation, there are 11 entered in the mile, 13 thru-siders in the 220 and 440 yard dashes, 14 in the 880 dash, and 11 in the 880 yard run. There are three entrants in the 220 high hurdles and 440 intermediate hurdles. Eight men are entered in the three mile run and eight are registered for the 220 high hurdles.

100 Youngsters Registered For Swimming Class

A summer swimming program has been planned by the 1st Battalion at Fort Benning for children between the ages of 8 and 15 with classes starting on Monday, June 9, from 9 a. m. to noon, Monday through Thursday, continuing June 15-17. Sgt. Sam Prophet of Greenwood, Miss., will supervise the swimming instruction the youngsters will receive and Russ Pugh will serve as assistant instructor.

The Youth Activities Section of the 1st Battalion would also like to contact women qualified as scuba divers to assist in the instruction. Over 200 children have already registered for the swimming instruction.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

Viewpoint of Fort Benning are fortunate when considered from the viewpoint of the extra-curricular activities afforded us. When work is done at 4:30 or 5:00 p. m., or while we catch that weekend holiday meet every weekend, we can do any number of things for the sake of diversion.

Aside from the usual humdrum routine of going into Columbus or Phenix City, which presents a constant threat, in some shape, form or another, we have a wide variety of pastimes we can partake of to pass the time and hours.

So, since the post is so intent on building up our physical stamina, what with all the sports and not to forget PT—though try to forget it as we may—we of the Bayonet decided that a study of sports is a fascinating pastime. We find it less fatiguing this way.

Each sport has its own standards of etiquette, both for players and spectators. Take boxing and wrestling for instance, two contestants can, of course, hammer on each other's head; twist or bounce the inside out of the other, that being the chief aim of man, anyway. They are supposed to show spirit of murder and spectators are requested not to preside the outcome by discharging fire arms. The audience, meanwhile, is at liberty to shout data and coin adjectives with little thought for properties or heritance.

Baseball has a little more elevated atmosphere. A fan can sneer his head off for joy, pain, or disgust, depending on how his favorite team is doing. He may demand cruel and unusual punishments for the player and umpire, and still no one will drag him from the scene. Players are also free to exercise free speech. The meddling comments of a good bench jockey are familiar to every close student of the game, and the noise during a noteworthy contest is enough to crack the scoreboard machine kaput. However, despite of it all, baseball is on a higher level than our Greco-Roman competitors.

We advance even higher when we think about tennis—the game of short pants—with or without the lace trim. We really begin to slim the upper crust. It's hand-clapping, polite shouts of excitement, some excitement, and even a short self-conscious about or a well refined cheer is accepted, providing of course that it is done in a ladylike manner.

The dialogue that is part of the sport is even different from all others. What you get is, "Oh, well played, well played, old man. You fooled me completely." Or maybe, "Tough luck, old chap. The umpire should have called my shot foul. Never mind, though, I'll throw the next point to you."

This may all sound impressive, but we haven't reached the zenith of sports etiquette. For this we must acknowledge golf. Here there is no disguise, only gestures with the accents of the man's nature. Golf etiquette would make a Saturday night chess game seem like a night at a waterfront.

We knew a man once who worked in a blacksmith shop, which to us makes a boiler room sound like a library reference room. Put this guy on a golf course to make a two-foot putt, and it is buttery so much as flaps his wings on the next fairway, it is enough to make him jump five feet and miss the putt. The scratch of a pencil on a scoreboard over in the direction of the 18th green is like a fingernail on a blackboard. In fact, a sneeze at the wrong time is enough to ruin a golf for life.

We had the pleasure of watching a few of our heroes discovered for ourselves that differs are a unique lot to play a round with. On our way over to the greens, one duffer said to the other, "Did you hear about Bill killing his wife?" "No," replied the other, continued, "What could she do for use?" Chances are that the poor wife married at the wrong time.

However, the real test of the links is the spectator who has an 8 mm. Eastman Kodak movie camera and who insists on letting it whirl just when the stars reached the top of his bustling at the office for a week.

Eastman is Eastman and the Western Open is Western Open, and never the twin shall meet—or else.

I went and viewed with disdain an exhibition game between the CTC Commanders and the Maxwell Field, Ala. Air Force baseball team at Gowdy Field two weeks ago. I regret it very much. The Air Force was supposed to be an excellent club, according to their camp newspaper. But on the field, they did not live it. Proving that everything you read, doesn't mean much. On the other hand, many people upon reading the story and seeing the aerial photograph of the Sand Hill Golf Course have been led to partake a round or two of golf at the course. Golf Pro Jim Guthrie, ex-coach of the champion basketball team, says that the links are pretty well crowded these days and especially on Saturdays.

The main gripe that many envious men have is that if you haven't got a car, you'll have a hard time to reach the course. The post hasn't got a bus running past the course and it is a long hike from the bus station.

How about everyone turning out today and tomorrow to see the 1953 Fort Benning Track and Field Meet at Doughboy Stadium? The two day event is one of the year's highlights in post sports activities.

GOWDY FIELD... Fort Benning's baseball diamond, named after Major Hank Gowdy, is at Main Post. It is a permanent park, well lighted for night play, and seating 2,000. Center field distance from home plate is 410 feet while the left and right field fences are 325 feet from home.

Lonnie Jordan Is Winner Of 5th OM Tennis Title

BY JACK BUTLER

Lonnie Jordan, the number one seeded player and defending champion, successfully defended his Mens Singles tennis title last weekend in the 1953 Main Officers Open Mens Spring Tennis Tournament by defeating Dewey Kesler, 6-2, 6-3.

Jordan played his best tennis of the year to win his fifth straight singles title at Fort Benning. Kesler, number three seeded player, won the first game of the match, but thereafter, it was Jordan who played extremely steady tennis.

Strong winds prevailed throughout the afternoon match play most difficult. Jordan received the Officers Mens Singles award of a beautiful silver coffee service. Kesler received the runner-up award of a silver pitcher.

Consolation
Bob Tansy, a tennis subpar, fought an uphill battle to defeat Gar Pinholster, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, for consolation.

All-American Gridster Now In 113th Comp.

A former All-American football star, Lt. Leslie A. Richter, has been recently assigned to the 113th Company, Second Student Regiment, for the Associate Infantry Officers Course.

Richter played for the Golden Bears of California, where as a guard and line-backer, he was selected to the mythical All-American dream team in 1950 and 1951.

Not content to win honors merely in football, he participated in all sports and in 1952 was named to the All-World Rugby team. That same year Richter graduated from the University of California where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in football.

The pug-nut star carried his football ability into service with him and last season coached the first team at Camp Cooke, Calif. He is now the property of the Los Angeles Rams (NFL) and plans to continue his football career after discharge.

Discovered by a member of the U. S. occupation forces shortly after the war, Molo was found in a Sumo tournament in Japan. Even today he wears the colorful Oriental robes made of the finest silk. Only Sumo champions can wear these robes.

Moto did not participate in the war, because Sumo wrestlers are considered idols in their nation, and weren't required to serve in the armed forces of Japan.

500 March For Retiring Men

More than 500 troops of the School Brigade paraded on French Field in honor of CWO Marion R. Hurlburt and M-Sgt. Brooks D. Seagraves, who are retiring from the Army.

Completing 30 years' service, CWO Hurlburt, assistant adjutant of the School Brigade, will be separated from the Army on Monday. Also retiring then, M-Sgt. Seagraves, sergeant-major of the Second Student Regiment, completes 24 years of service.

Both were commended for "outstanding performance of duty" in letters of appreciation from Maj. Gen. Guy S. Meley Jr., commanding general of The Infantry Center.

Units represented in the parade were the First and Second Student Regiments, The Infantry School Detachment, and 1st OC Regiment, 122nd Army Band.

The reviewing party included Maj. H. Gooler, commanding officer, The School Brigade; Col. Kenneth D. Macomber, commanding officer, First Student Regiment; Col. Donald Washington, commanding officer, Infantry School Detachment; Lt. Col. Melvin Fletcher, commanding officer, Second Student Regiment; and Lt. Col. Franklin B. Brickles, executive officer for administration, 1st OC Regiment.

Mayor Shields Thanks Post

The following letter has been received by Maj. Gen. Guy S. Meley, Jr., Infantry Center commander, from Mayor Lawrence Shields, of Columbus, thanking post personnel for the aid given the city in the recent storm disaster.

Dear General Meley:

The tornado which struck Columbus on April 18, 1953, created probably the greatest emergency that this city has experienced in all the 124 years of its existence. Had it not been for the assistance given us so promptly and so efficiently by the medical teams, the military police, the engineers, details and others under your command at Fort Benning, we would not have been able to come out from under the burden so well as we did. This spirit of mutual aid and cooperation certainly exemplifies the spirit of good neighborliness that exists between Fort Benning and Columbus.

I want to take this means, on behalf of the city commissioners and myself, of expressing appreciation for the many things you did to help us during this emergency.

Lawrence Shields, Mayor

Caricaturist Pix Whole Co. For 6th OC

The art of caricature has moved into 6th OC Company.

Officer Candidate Richard T. Lobe, who made his ability to draw other people off as a civilian, has found his talent in demand from classmates.

He has drawn caricatures of every candidate in the second platoon and has decorated the barrack with his work.

An art student at Syracuse University before his induction into the Army, OC Lobe believes his career began in the third grade when he won a prize for a Christmas blackboard drawing. "My talents didn't begin to pay off until college, however," he says. "I used to go through fraternity houses drawing portraits for a small fee."

"A caricature is a delicate matter," he explains. "It's a fine-brush line between an exaggerated likeness and an exaggerated offense. A slight exaggeration of an outstanding feature makes an otherwise routine drawing a caricature."

Lt. Gen. Burress Addresses Grads

The human element is especially important in the Army, Lt. Gen. Withers A. Burress told graduates of officer candidate class No. 12 last Wednesday.

The three-star commander of the First Army, speaking to 121 candidates for commissions, said, "Loyalty is something that seeps through from the top and does not bubble up from the bottom.

"The human element is the predominant element of the Army, especially the Infantry," Gen. Burress declared, "and an officer should know every man in his command."

The former commandant of The Infantry School said there are three main characteristics of a "man."

Joint Council Works Magic Over District Fort Benning, Sister Cities Attack, Route Dissensions

By CPL JIM MORRISON

At a recent meeting of the Citizens-Military Council, Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, the Infantry Center public information officer, is seen in the foreground. Other members include Major Gen. John W. O'Daniel, then Infantry Center commander, and Lt. Col. Hal D. Stewart, then Infantry Center public information officer. The chairman and co-chairmen of the various subcommittees are: G. R. Reeves of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and Col. Crawford, co-chairman of the Recreation, Social and Cultural Sub-committee; For. Joseph Avery, president of the Ministerial Alliance, and Infantry Center Chaplain (Col.) L. S. Sheffield, co-chairman of the Religion and Educational Sub-committee; Gen. McKeever, chairman of the Municipal Relations Sub-committee; Joe Flournoy and Capt. John D. Reese, co-chairmen of the Housing Sub-committee; and Salvador Spaso, president of the Columbus Merchants Association, and Lt. Col. Doyle A. McManisters, Lawson Air Force Base personnel officer, Columbus Mayor I. L. Shields, Salvadore Spaso, president of the Merchants Association, and Leonard Coulter, president of the Phenix City Chamber of Commerce. In picture at right, Gen. Fritzsche talks with Mayor Shields, while below Eben Reid, left, discusses Columbus-Vietnam relations with Chaplain (Col.) Lexington O. Sheffield.

Relations between the military of Fort Benning and the civilians of the surrounding communities are said by Army officials to rank with the best in the nation. In fact, Columbus is what the service calls "a good Army town."

This laudable situation, however, did not just happen. Rather, it has been the result of determined efforts on the part of individuals from Fort Benning and the surrounding communities, especially Columbus, to promote these good feelings and pleasant associations.

Much credit belongs to the Citizens-Military Council, which was organized in October, 1946, with Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, then Infantry Center commander, as the prime mover. The excellent war-time relations which had existed between the communities were declining as was shown graphically in the decrease of off-post recreational facilities which Columbus had faithfully supported during the war years.

To combat these and other deficiencies, Gen. O'Daniel invited prominent civic and military leaders in the area to meet with him at Fort Benning.

Power in Punch
The result was the organization of the Citizens-Military Council. According to its constitution, the council was organized as an advisory body designed to deal with "all matters pertaining to relations between Army personnel and the civilian population in the community, and for the purpose of setting difficulties which may arise due to either local military or civilian policies."

The constitution also stressed that the group "is not executive in scope, but rather is to act in an advisory capacity to already constituted agencies."

In practice, however, some of the body's decisions have had almost executive power because of its makeup. Its membership includes the mayors of Columbus and Phenix city, chairmen of the Muscogee and Russell County Commissions, presidents of the two Chambers of Commerce, presidents of the local newspapers and radio stations, head of the Columbus-Flexon City Ministerial Alliance, representatives of the Merchants Associations and the military and senior officers of the Infantry Center.

Found Quarters
For example, the housing shortage for military personnel and their families in Columbus and Phenix city was acute following the outbreak of the Korean conflict and the resultant buildup of officers and enlisted men assigned to Fort Benning. Although the council was organized to handle the training of the men, it did not have the housing facilities to accommodate the vast number of families who accompanied them to Fort Benning. To furnish quarters for these families, the council became the back of the queue for assigned quarters on the post.

It is assumed that the council, in relation to Fort Benning personnel and Columbus area activities, will issue the necessary instructions to implement the recommendations. The record shows that the true of the civilian members, who are expected to press for acceptance of an action by the council's recommendations among civil government bodies.

Like 'Who's Who'
Listing of the council's executive committee members and subcommittee chairmen reads like a "Who's Who" of the Columbus-Fort Benning area. The Executive Committee has as its chairman, Allen Woodall, president of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce. Other members include Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander; C. Troy W. Crawford, commanding officer of Lawson Air Force Base; Mayor I. L. Shields; and Lt. Col. Doyle A. McManisters, pro tempore of Phenix City; Muscogee County Commissioner; and Walter H. Leonard A. Coulter, president of the Phenix City Chamber of Com-

Situation Eased

Of the 2,883 families who sought quarters, more than 1,000 were placed by the billings office. This figure included only those who notified the office that they had obtained housing through its services. Hundreds more are believed to have found quarters, but because they failed to report their success to billings officials, no records are available.

The housing situation has eased considerably since those early days of the Korean conflict and by 1951 the billings office had asked for help. Last year, 12,000 people received assistance from the office.

Establishment of the Columbus billings office was only half of the program recommended by the council. The long range program dealt with the construction of additional permanent housing units. Since the start of the Korean conflict five families have been built. These have enabled service families whose living quarters were inadequate to move to larger and better quarters.

Today, largely through the efforts of the council which recommended and promoted the adoption of the two-part housing program, better homes are becoming better built in the nation.

Tackling Credit
One of the current problems the council is trying to solve is credit. It is a problem which causes the military man to pay both the civilian and military portions because it can work hand in glove on both sides of the street. It is the servicemen who feel that some merchants or loan companies are trying to take their money from the other side as those merchants who suffer losses because of their paychecks.

Merchants Lose
Not all credit transactions, however, work hand in glove on both sides. Merchants also have suffered. For example, a service-

STOP

SIGNS OF THE TIMES-BEYOND THEIR MAY LIFE DEATH AND BROKEN, TWISTED BODIES
By CAPT. A. M. LEONARD
The stop sign is a simple sign, depending on what area you are in. That you will see at most intersections. It doesn't spell slow down. The sign means one thing, and that is STOP.
The stop sign is a sign of life if obeyed, and a sign of death if disobeyed. You may run through it a few times and get by, but the odds will catch up with you sooner or later.
Another sign means frequently violated is the speed limit sign. It is placed in conspicuous places on the post where everyone can see it and it means just what it says—either 20, 30, or 40 MPH. An automobile is an expensive mechanical device designed for business or pleasure, but it can be a death trap when not used properly. The most expensive automobile is not nearly as valuable as your life, so protect your life by safe driving.

During the month of April there were nineteen men killed by automobile accidents in the Third Army Area. Two of these were from Fort Benning. For the month of May, Fort Benning has had a total of five men killed. Something must be done. Five soldiers killed is a figure seemingly small, but when you consider that their lives were snuffed out by careless driving, either by them or by someone else, that is something to think about, for one of these men could have been you.

Have you ever stopped to check yourself while driving? Maybe you were just exceeding the speed limit and there wasn't a policeman or MP around to stop you. Did you slow down or did you add a little more speed to your car? So what—you saved a few minutes time, but what is a few minutes when your life is at stake? Reckless driving is like "Russian Roulette." It will catch you in the long run. It is more advisable to take a few minutes longer to reach your destination than to attempt to save a few minutes by speeding and reaching your destination D.A. (dead on arrival).

There is a long weekend coming up at the end of this month. Most of the personnel on this post will be on base, and the roads will be crowded, not

3d Army Gets Safety Council's Highest Award

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—The National Safety Council's highest award—the Award of Honor for Outstanding Safety Performance—has been won by the Third Army for the second successive year.

Presentation of the award was made recently by Robert B. Snodgrass of Atlanta, vice-president of the National Safety Council, during a ceremony in the office of Lt. Gen. H. Bolling, commanding general.

"Third Army Headquarters excels in safety supervision over all Army installations within the seven Southeastern states. The award was earned on the basis of improved accident experience during 1952 in comparison with the two preceding years. General Bolling attributes the success of the accident prevention program to the all-out effort of Third Army to make life safer for the individual soldier and to prevent waste of equipment and materials from accidental causes. General Bolling said that many factors were responsible for making the National Safety Council's Award of Honor possible. Among these were:

No Revocations In Seven Days
For the first time in the memory of officials at the post's provost marshal's office since at least since November 17, 1952, when weekly reports of the nature were first prepared, the post went seven days without any recorded traffic violation serious enough to cause suspension or revocation of driving rights.
The period of negative report was May 15 to 22.

Safety Program Begins On Post

An extensive safety program, to be known as "operational traffic," began last Monday at Fort Benning.
Designed to make personnel more aware of their responsibilities as drivers, the program includes films, special safety exhibits, posters, and training talks. It will continue through Sept. 9. According to Safety Director Norman M. Evans.
Certificates of Achievement will be presented to the major unit reporting the lowest accident record during this period. Mr. Evans said.

On To The Pearly Gates

Before every holiday, newspapers, radio, and television stations, and most sources of information contact drivers to make the people of the United States safety conscious, so that the national holidays will not be ruined by the senseless slaughter too frequently the result of an outing of the American public.

The Bayonet joins these drives, in the hope that some lives will be saved. People everywhere, and military personnel are certainly no exception, are anxious to get away for a few days. They are in a hurry to leave their jobs. They are frequently in a rush to get away from their homes for a few days. But very very few leave with the particular desire of leaving this world.

TOO MANY DO JUST THAT.
The result of this mad rush is that lives are lost. A wife, husband, son, daughter, or other dear one may leave us forever. We lose our limbs, or the use of them. This is not an inevitable result. With a little caution, a little thought, a little old-fashioned politeness, a lot of this slaughter and maiming for life could be avoided.

The human feeling that it can never happen to anyone but the other fellow causes some us to take chances which we know are gambles. On the highways we frequently find more than we expected. Some of us don't even live to realize that we have someone else. Some even die to live our life span with that bitter realization. Some of us even live knowing we have killed or maimed people we love. Don't it happen to you?

When you are behind the wheel, it is sensible to suppose that all the other drivers mean what they indicate. Keep in mind that every one is in the

'First Soldier' Departs

The ROK Army's No. 1 soldier, Gen. Paik Sun Yup, wound up his official visit to Fort Benning Saturday morning and left Sunday to continue his tour of U. S. military installations.

The Republic of Korea Army's chief of staff spoke briefly Saturday to about 150 Korean students in the Infantry School's special Allied company officers course and observed the student officers undergoing bayonet training.

He also was given an orientation on the latest communications equipment used by the U. S. Infantry and visited the First Officer Candidate Regiment.

Gen. Paik, known as the first soldier of Korea, is making the U. S. tour at the invitation of Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff.

The 52-year-old Korean was presented a plaque of the Infantry School's shield and motto, "Follow Me," at an official reception and dinner given in his honor Friday evening in the Main Officers Mess. The plaque, presented by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, headquarters of the 25th Infantry Regiment, is inscribed with the ROK Infantry School in Kwangju, Cholla Province.

Gen. Paik was officially welcomed to the post last Thursday morning with an honor guard and a 17-gun salute, traditional tribute to a visiting four-star general.

After the honor guard, Gen. Paik began his orientation tour. He conferred first with Gen. Fritzsche, the Infantry School's commander, and then with the school's director, Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, acting commandant.

Col. Butler, management and improvement officer in the Academic Department, was separated from his duties and will return to his civilian position as personnel director of the Miami Transit Company.

The commendation letter stated: "As chief of the Management Improvement Section you were faced with administering a variety of programs designed to insure more efficient and more economical operation of the Infantry School. Many of these programs were new to the Army, but, you succeeded in formulating and guiding policies so that maximum benefits have been realized. The seal with which you pursued your assigned duties and the interest which have shown in furthering the mission of the Operations Office have been of inestimable value to the Infantry School."

Col. Butler also served here from 1941 to 1943 as an instructor in the Weapons Department. He returned two years ago, first serving as chairman of the small arms committee of the Weapons Department and later with the Academic Department.

Colonel Robert G. Sherrard, Jr., has been elected general chairman of the Fort Benning Little Theatre, succeeding Lt. Col. George C. Dale, retiring chairman.

Col. Sherrard is assigned to the Infantry School as operations officer. This is his first official affiliation with the post theatrical group, although he had been supporting its activities throughout the past season.

Mrs. Allen L. Peck and Mrs. Edward O. Logan remain on the governing board as member-at-large and box office chairman, respectively.

New members include Mrs. John P. Heard, publicity chairman; Mrs. Earl C. Hardy, member-at-large; Lt. Col. Claudius M. Eastman, Jr., treasurer; and Mrs. Louise North, secretary.

The Little Theatre constitution was amended at the final meeting of the outgoing board to permit the appointment of an additional board member to be designated as permanent stage manager. Major John W. Hughes will fill this position on the new board.

Colonel Sherrard stated that a meeting would be held with the new board sometime in June, at which future plans will be announced.

His appearance and performance of duty within the company has been outstanding.

While serving in Korea, Jenkins received the Combat Infantryman Badge, Presidential Unit Citation, and the two Korean Service Ribbons.

Sfc. Elmer P. Gibson, who resides in Columbus, Ga., represents the 41st Field Artillery Battalion. A member of Headquarters Battery, Gibson was selected because of his outstanding ability, leadership, and devotion to duty. He spent three years in the Army before World War II and has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart, Good Conduct Medal, Korean Presidential Unit Citation, and Korean Service Medal with battle stars.

Sergeant William M. Harrell of Elizabeth City, N. C., represented the 18th Field Artillery Battalion and is assigned to Service Battery, Medical Detachment. During the Korean War, Harrell was a member of the First Cavalry Division, winning both the Combat Infantryman Badge and the Combat Medical Badge. His performance of duty in the battery has been outstanding, as it was with the First Cavalry Division in Korea.

For 7th Engineers

Sfc. Sam M. Garrett, Jr. of Meridian, Miss., represented the 7th Engineer Battalion and is assigned to the 50th Engineer Company. Garrett has been in the Army since he was 17 and now has three-and-a-half years' service. He went to Korea a private and came back a year later a Sergeant First Class. While in Korea he served with the 65th Engineer Battalion, 25th Infantry Division, and now considers himself a "30-year" man in the Army.

Corporal James L. Ridgway of Corsicana, Texas, and Richmond, Cal., represented the 77th Tank Battalion and is assigned to Headquarters and Service Company. Ridgway was selected because his entire seven-and-a-half years in the Army have been outstanding. While a member of the First Armored Division in Germany he received a plaque for the most outstanding truck driver in the division. In his present assignment as truck vehicle mechanic he is considered the most qualified mechanic in the Battalion on the new T-41, Walker Bulldog tank during Competition Crawl.

The competition was close and a lot of deliberation took place before the final selection was made. The men were checked for appearance and bearing several times. Each contestant was questioned individually by Colonel Elder, with Colonel Mire and Major McKee listening in and noting carefully the reactions of each man. Afterward the three officers cast ballots and LeDuc won.

Pfc. LeDuc will accompany the Gen. Meloy to meetings, ceremonies, and an inspection trip. At the

After the war he became an instructor with the publisher department of the 11th Airborne Division prior to shipping to the 17th Airborne RCT in the Far East. Assigned to the paratrooper detachment of this unit, he made two combat jumps and afterwards was placed in charge of the 18th's Jump Training at a Jumpmaster School.
While in charge of these schools, Sgt. Zetrowski trained more than 400 officers and enlisted men, consisting of general side men of the 502d Parachute RCT as well as supplies in all of the Far East zones, replacements of the 18th, 1st Air Force personnel, and Marines.

508th Sgt. Commended By City Y

A Red Devil sergeant has received a letter of commendation from the Armed Services YMCA in Columbus.
Sgt. William Dietz of Johnstown, Pa., was cited for his "wholesome utilization of off-duty time" by Lt. Garret, program secretary of the YMCA.
In his letter Garret praised the sergeant for his "outstanding work as a member of the YMCA's Servicemen's Council," a volunteer group which aids in planning the weekly programs for the more than 17,000 soldiers who visit the club monthly.

Sgt. Dietz, is a squad leader in the 81-mm Mortar Platoon of Company D, 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

Capt. Thornburg Upped in Rank

Captain Horace R. Thornburg, special services officer of the 1st OC Regiment, has been promoted to major. The gold leaves were pinned on recently by Col. Harry Grizzard, regimental commander.

Assigned to the Hampton Roads Port of Embarkation, he served there until June 1943. He was promoted to first lieutenant prior to shipping to Africa.

In August 1943 he returned to Hampton Roads and was separated from the service in March 1946.

Recalled to active duty in October 1948, he was assigned to Bremerhaven, Germany, where he served until April 1952.

Returned to the United States, Major Thornburg was assigned to Fort Benning and has since served as Special Services Officer of the 1st OC Regiment.

member, Gen. Wisell asked that the "sincere thanks and the deep appreciation of our board of managers" be conveyed to the members of the Fort Benning Community Chest for their "generous contribution of $2,000, so indicative of their interest and confidence in and support of Army Emergency Relief."

The letter also commended Fort Benning for its cooperation with AER's national headquarters. Army Emergency Relief makes emergency loans to officers and enlisted men and their dependents during time of need, according to Capt. John D. Reese of Fayetteville, Ark., who heads the Fort Benning AER Section. In some instances, the grant made when the section feels that repayment would work an additional hardship on the individual concerned, Capt. Reese said.

Enthusiasm High In 508th For EM Aide

Enthusiasm among 508th Red Devils continues to build up as the climax of the General's Aide contest for the Infantry Center commandant approaches the deadline in the Sand Hill area.

Red Devil commander, Colonel George O. Pearson, has delegated initial selection to Battalion commanders.

Following appointment of the selected nominees from the five battalions - the units of the 508th, Colonel Pearson and a board will determine the winner.

Three battalion adjutants yesterday reported on their methods of selection. Captain Robert L. Phillips, Jr., adjutant of the First Battalion reports that each company commander is selecting the outstanding Airborne trooper from his company. Following an interview and a study of each nominee's qualifications, the battalion commander will make a final selection in his unit.

In "Lightning Second," adjutant Captain Donald J. Melcior

plans a similar review, but the battalion commander will indicate the final choice.

Third battalion adjutant, 1st Lt. Frederick T. Abt, reports a different selection process. The Third, he says, plans to employ a board of officers and enlisted men, composed of the battalion commander, executive officer, battalion staff officers, the battalion sergeant major, and operations sergeant. Final duty will be to review all candidates by a personal appearance review. Following this the board

OC Plays Hot Licorice Band
 BY OC C. L. SAUNDERS JR.
 There's not a sour note in the music played by Officer Candidate William Reilly of 6th OC Company.

Although he has never taken a music lesson he has played with Billy May's band, the Page Cavanaugh Trio, and Benny Goodman's Sextet. While taking Infantry Officer Candidate School training, however, he limits his music to solos in the barracks and with the bands that play at Victory Lodge on week-ends.

When he was 10 years old OC Reilly began imitating clarinet solos he listened to on records. Before too long he was a proficient musician. He picked up the saxophone in the same way.

In high school he met Dick Conlino and they organized a trio which played on radio stations. The trio was auditioned by a major Hollywood studio, but decided to concentrate on a college education instead.

He continued playing the clarinet until September 1942 when he was listed in the Army. During basic training at Fort Ord, OC Reilly was selected by Special Services to play at special events.

When he reported for OCS he brought along his clarinet but was at first hesitant to run the scales. But since he first entertained his barracks mates with some quick solos, he has been in demand at Victory Lodge where he plays whenever he gets the chance.

New Traffic Regulations Announced

The following new traffic regulations will have effect with the opening of the new bridge across the Upton, scheduled tentatively for next week.

Details of the new traffic pattern, as reported by the Provost Marshal Section, follow:

During normal traffic hours inbound traffic from Benning Boulevard and Lumpkin Road will cross the old bridge past Outpost No. 1 and then take either Sigeroofs Street or Clark Road to the Main Post. Outbound traffic will use Lumpkin Road, cross the new bridge and proceed along either Lumpkin Road or Benning Boulevard.

MORNING RUSH HOUR REGULATIONS
During the early morning inbound traffic period from 7:15 to 8 a.m. daily except Sundays and holidays, vehicles entering the Main Post from Lumpkin Road will turn right at Benning Boulevard, remain in the right lane past Outpost No. 1, to Clark Road to Vogel Street in the Block 12 area, turn left onto Ingersoll Street and proceed to their destination. Traffic going to the warehouse area in the northwest end and third courtyards, and to the Airborne Battalion is requested to turn right onto Upton Street at the Signal Office and proceed to its destination.

Inbound traffic from Benning Boulevard will use the left lane of Benning Boulevard at its junction with Lumpkin Road, cross the old bridge, continue past Outpost No. 1, and then take the left lane of Sigeroofs Street to its destination. Cars moving south on Sigeroofs may turn left onto Vibbert or continue south on Sigeroofs to their destination. No right turns onto Vibbert Avenue will be allowed, since Vibbert Avenue between Sigeroofs and Ingersoll Streets will be closed to all traffic during the inbound traffic period.

Outbound traffic during this period will use Lumpkin Road to leave the post. Traffic will get onto Lumpkin Road at the intersection of Lumpkin and First Division Roads, take the right lane down the hill and across the new bridge. The outbound traffic will alternate with the inbound traffic from Custer Road at the junction of Benning Boulevard and Custer Road.

AFTERNOON RUSH HOUR REGULATIONS
During the late afternoon traffic period from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. daily except Sundays and holidays, outbound traffic from the Main Post which desires to use Benning Boulevard will enter Lumpkin Road at either Baltzell Avenue or First Division Road and stay in the right lane down Lumpkin Road, crossing the new bridge to Benning Boulevard.

Outbound traffic which desires to turn left onto Lumpkin Road will enter Lumpkin Road from Vibbert Avenue, and stay in the left lane down Lumpkin Road, crossing the new bridge to the junction of Lumpkin Road and Benning Boulevard, where it will turn left onto Lumpkin Road.

Inbound traffic during this period must proceed down Lumpkin Road from the direction of Columbus to the junction of Lumpkin and Benning Boulevard where it will turn right and proceed across the old bridge, remaining in the right lane after passing outpost No. 1, the cars may take either Sigeroofs Street or Clark Road to their destinations.

ROTC Staff In Headquarters

Fort Benning's Infantry ROTC summer camp staff section has set up its headquarters in the Harmony Church area, where the training will be held this Summer. Col. William J. McConnell, executive officer for the ROTC, plans to have the ROTC staff section in the Harmony Church area during the six-week camp.

made in preparation for the camp's opening June 20. More than 2,700 cadets from 60 colleges and universities in the Second, Third, Fourth, and part of the Fifth Army areas and Puerto Rico, will attend the summer camp which will be in session from June 20 to July 31. Approximately 300 officers and non-commissioned officers, members of the 60 colleges' ROTC faculties, will arrive June 19 to serve as cadre personnel during the six-week camp.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander, will be commander of the camp, and Col. Forest E. Cookson, professor of military science and tactics at Clemson Agricultural College, will be deputy commander. Col. Richard R. Middlebrook, professor of military science and tactics at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College at Raleigh, will be deputy for administrative training, and Col. McConnell will be deputy for training during the camp session.

Happy Audiences Applaud 'Showcase'
"Showcase," an all-soldier musical revue, wound up its three-day tour at Fort Benning Friday with an appearance at the Main Theater. Featured was Faron Young, folk singer and guitarist, whose recent recording of "Goin' Steady" is a nation-wide favorite. The show, sponsored by Third Army Special Services, played to enthusiastic audiences at Lawson Field by the Infantry Center Special Forces Base and the U. S. Army Services Office.

43 Reenlistments
The recruiting section has reported 43 reenlistments at Fort Benning during the first two weeks in May. Combat Training Command led the parade with 13, followed by Special Troops Command with 12, School Brigade, 10, 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, three, Provisional Medical Group, three, and U. S. Army Hospital, two. Hospital May 20 and May 21. The performances were arranged by the Infantry Center Special Forces Base and the U. S. Army Services Office.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

Baseball belongs to the American people to a greater degree than many of us citizens realize. Some who have never held the stitched ball and who could not observe a single inning without utter mystification or boredom still use the language of the National Pastime in daily intercourse. Most baseball terms are slang phrases in our tongue, and some of them have strikingly symbolic meanings.

A man who is "born with two strikes" on him is one who needs but little instruction to put him down for good. And one who finds himself "far out to left field" is far, far removed from the play at hand. "Something on the ball" may imply intellectual powers or sex appeal—while in baseball it means only a sharp breaking pitch.

It is respectable, though faintly bromidic now, to remark that a person is "off his base" or that some man has "muffed the ball." "To make a hit" is hardly regarded a slang any longer, nor is it even reminiscent of baseball when one offers to perform some deed "right off the bat." It is altogether odd for a guy to describe a doll as a "foul ball." The term to "play ball" in its figurative sense suggests the need for cooperation, which is the basis of baseball.

All the ordinary terms, such as "strike out," "get caught off base," "foul one off," or even to "bell me over the fence," are used by us Americans in every day talk to pietorialize the petty failures and successes of every day ordinary life. And business men, who can't think of any better way of saying it, remind their salesmen about once a week to stay "on the ball."

Once in a while a person superior in rank will offer to "go to bat" for an underling, and the man thus blessed will know what it means, though he has never seen a baseball game in his life. "Keep swinging" or "get in there" and "pitch" is a dialect used both in the game and out, to suggest the value of persistence in overcoming bad luck. "Getting to first base" is the phrase now generally used to suggest a successful approach.

The use of subterfuge and underhand methods is something called "throwing curves." Whether the term "screw-club" came out of baseball, or vice versa, we are not the ones to say for sure. But a "screwball" is an object or person that acts in er, shall we say, erratic fashion—on and off the diamond.

It could be that "many" of the "people" uninterested in baseball are so because of the writers of today who seem to have abandoned or wandered off the high road of American life. If you want to see the average American's way of life, without the deception of makeup, view a few ball games and you will get a pretty good idea.

There are books in which 11-year-old boys and girls enter (See SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS, Page 17)

Britton Hurls STC No-Hitter

Right handed hurler Clyde Britton of Special Troops Command pitched the first no-hitter of the 1953 TIC Baseball League Monday night as the Raiders shut out the School Brigade Rams 4-0 at Gowdy Field at Gowdy Field.

Britton, winning his second game of the season, allowed only three hits to get on base.

The Rams started Dick Myers against Britton, but the Brigade moundman got into trouble in the bottom of the second when after getting Mark Stanfield and Dick Lynch to strike out, he issued three straight walks. The bases were loaded and it was a golden scoring opportunity for the Raiders with Bill Thompson, leadoff batter, hitting.

Myers, calmed down by Coach Barney Humes and Catcher Bill Dunton, got Thompson to strike out ending the inning.

In their half of the third inning the Raiders collected two runs on two hits and three Rams errors. Myers contributing also with a wild pitch. STC was score-

508th Gains Six Firsts; CTC Second

The 508th Airborne had an easy time last Friday afternoon in winning the 1953 TIC Track and Field Meet at Doughboy Stadium and Gowdy Field by scoring a staggering 84 points — leading second place winner, defending team champions CTC, who challenged up 34 points, by 50 points.

However, First Student Regiment's first Danish runner, Hans Egander, stole the show with his fleet, effortless-like victories in the mile and three mile runs.

Egander, a student in Associate Advance Class No. 5, ran the mile event in 4:42.4 setting a new Benchmark mark in the process. In the three-mile run, the Scandinavian distance runner, lapped the field twice in winning in 16:34.1. Tomas Flores of the 508th was second in 18:28.

Taking the lead early on the quarter-mile track, Egander, with 13 years of road running behind him, increased his lead with his smooth style of running. After the third lap, he stripped off his tee-shirt and started to open

Crowds Flock To Sand Hill Golf Course

The Sand Hill Golf Course is beginning to take shape and get ready for the bigger crowds that will flood the course this summer.

Lt. Jim Guthrie of CTC, the officer in charge says "he doesn't know where he will put the pines if he gets many more."

On a week-day there are approximately seventy five players ready to tee off. Saturdays and Sundays this is doubled and tripled. For a nine hole course he is having quite a business.

To relieve the tired, hungry golfers, Guthrie has managed to get a small PX installed in the clubhouse. He is prepared to sell drinks, candy, cookies, cigarettes, golf balls and clubs.

For men desiring to play golf, but who have no clubs, the club has 120 sets of Special Service clubs that may be drawn to play with. So come on out and enjoy a good game of golf on the Sand Hill Golf Course.

Nap Stanfield, batting fifth in the order, struck out and Dick Lynch stepped into the box and cleared the bases with a triple.

The PMG Medico could have stretched that hit of his into a home run, but the Raiders' big base coach held him in.

Coach Bobby Dewes then singled Lynch home and advanced to second on a passed ball as Myers got Fletcher to strike out ending the big inning.

The last two STC runs came in the bottom of the sixth when

He lapped last place runner Ernest Finn of CTC after seven times around on the quarter-mile oval. Meanwhile, three of the seven starters dropped out, one giving up in despair after a half a mile of running. Egander came home two laps ahead of second place winner Flores.

Taking only six first places, the Red Devil tin clads were not shut out in any event, and captured 14 second places and 12 thirds. Second place CTC garnered five first place laurels, four seconds and six thirds.

The Infantry School Detachment, third place winners with 27 points, came home ahead in five events and third in two events.

First Sgt was fourth with 16 points, Lawson Field fifth with six points, and Special Troops Command last with one third place.

Goins of ISD and Crayton Mast of the 508th, paced the winners. Goins heaved the javelin 207 1/2 feet for a new TIC record and hopped, stepped, and jumped 42 feet over a ball inches setting another beating record.

Mast set his post record in the discus with a 124 foot two inch leap. In the shotput, the massive Red Devil heaved the 16 pound ball 45 feet and six inches. He set this record in the discus and shotput and in the discus and javelin's qualifying round and it was accepted as a final record.

Another two-event winner was O.P.'s Ken Harris who set a Fort Benning record of 10 second final for the 100 yard dash. Harris' last lap in the afternoon set the second TIC mark by hitting the tape in the 22nd yard dash in 23.2.

The race looked like a photo finish for Delbert Payne of 1st SDB as a close second.

Versatile athlete Willis Hames of the 508th Airborne was the high point man of the meet scoring 11 points in the three events that he entered. Hames missed hitting the six foot mark in the high jump by a half an inch. He was second in the pole vault and in the discus throwing.

Joe Campbell of ISD tied the pole vault record set at last year's TIC and set a new mark going over the bar at 12 feet. After the event was completed, Campbell was still trying to beat that mark.

In all, nine new records were set during the meet. The TIC broad jump mark broken by Marion Mitchell jump of 20 feet, nine and one quarter inches, bettered last year's 3d Army record which was made at Doughboys.

The Complete Results:

100 Yard Dash: (First) SR1, Dale Ems (508th), Arthur Mortera (508th) — 4:34.2 (New TIC record).

Army Putting Lid On Tourney Play For Baseballers

The first All-Army baseball tournament is scheduled for Sept. 7-13 at Ft. Stan Houston, Tex.

In revealing the dates for the tournament, Army officials said that it will bar all of its baseball teams with two exceptions, from the 1953 national semi-pro tournament at Wichita, Kan., this summer.

The two exceptions are the teams of the Military District of Washington and Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., who finished 1-2 last year in the tournament dominated by Army teams. Those two teams will be allowed to defend their titles.

Unfavorable criticism was given as the Army's reason for the ban.

Army officials are encouraging baseball competition from the intramural to All-Army level.

WAC Detachment Works Out For Softball Season

BY SHELDON WILENTZ

While most of this season's baseball action will center itself on Fort Benning's Gowdy Field, some of it, by chance, may find its way down the street to the Main Post Softball Field. For there that Fort Benning's WAC Detachment softball team will hold forth.

The girls have been conducting earnest practice sessions on the field for the past several weeks. Every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, under the field's lights, see the team running through field and batting drill or frequently playing a regulation seven inning game with one of the many male teams on the post.

This season the girls are being coached by Lt. Reginald Buxton, Second Student Regiment personnel officer. And they have played quite a schedule for themselves.

So far, home and a way game have been set with WAC teams at Fort Jackson, Camp Gordon, and Fort McPherson. In addition, to and fro trips with Charleston, South Carolina WAVES, Fort Belvoir Lady Marines, and the Shaw Air Force Girls are also on tap. Besides all this, they also will book several contests with some of the regional girl softballs.

In all, the girls can honestly state that it is fielding a team of veterans. For most of the girls have already played on at least one service-team before joining the Benning detachment.

Returning from last season's squad are first baseman Sara Kirland, and outfielders Betty Schwarz and Clarinda Archibald.

New to the team are infielders

GET TROPHIES... First Student Regiment basketball trophies ended up in the hands of two capable teams—the Airborne Battalion and the Third Battalion. Lt. Col. Warren R. Hiecker presented the championship trophy to Airborne Coach Terry Scott, right. His team lost only one game and that was to Hqs. Company, Third Battalion Coach Pfc. Roland W. Mable, left, and team captain Cpl. John R. Bruns, left center, received the runner-up trophy.

WARMIN THE BENCH

YANKEE STADIUM: The young kid standing on the edge of the dugout steps getting ready for an afternoon game with the Boston Red Sox. It wasn't hard to recognize Mickey Mantle. His smiling young face, huge shoulders and that number 7 meant more to him than the Commerce (Okla.) Comet.

Only a week previous the 21-year-old Mantle had hit one of the longest home runs in history. The ball tumbled out of Griffith Stadium and landed in a Washington backyard some 565 feet from home plate. As Casey Stengel commented: "It was the longest ball I ever saw."

Mickey was somewhat reluctant about the blow though. He just shrugged it off as a good curve ball on a lucky day. He never had gotten all of his power behind that 30-ounce bat.

Just what heights this diamond prodigy will reach are not known, but already those who have seen him perform believe he will become the game's greatest switch hitter. He can hit equally well batting right-handed or left-handed. His Hall of Fame homer was from the right side, and his left-handed whiffs on top of the right field roof in Pittsburgh in an exhibition game a week before was a feat only two men had ever accomplished.

At 19 Mantle found himself in a Yankee uniform being groomed to fill Joe DiMaggio's shoes. Probably no other modern-day prodigy had ever received such advance notices — and yet come through. Although he hit only 267 hits in one year, nevertheless, he pounded out 13 homers and had 63 RBIs.

Last year in his first full season he upped his batting average to .311 and hit 23 round trippers. And the feet-footed outfielder covered as much ground as any centerfielder in the league that season.

Down on the field the fans were streaming for the exits. The inevitable had happened. With the score deadlocked at 3-3 in the last of the ninth and two on—Mickey tagged one of Billie Kinder's nitches. The ball landed in what the broadcaster call "Rutledge"—a hitting place.

subcommittee met with presidents of the various civic clubs, explaining the need for junior hostesses and enlisted their cooperation in getting more young ladies to attend the Fort Benning dances.

Nearly 150 enlisted men and officers also have been honor guests at dinners and luncheons sponsored by local civic organizations such as the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. This program, which has been in operation since January, 1953, was instituted by the council to better civic understanding between military personnel and members of civic groups.

Each week two of the major commands at Fort Benning are asked to submit the names of four men to attend luncheon-meetings of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. These names, which are submitted to The Infantry Center Public Information Officers, are then reported to the secretaries of the two civic groups who mail formal invitations to the men.

In the more than six years of its existence the council has solved many problems which plagued the three communities of Columbus, Phenix City and Fort Benning. Its actions have often led to the correction of hazardous situations, which could have caused serious injury to both military and civilian personnel if allowed to go unchecked.

When first opened, the superhighway running from Columbus through the Fort Benning reservation, embodied several dangerous characteristics. Largely through the efforts of the council, such safety measures as speed limits and traffic signals were instituted to correct these deficiencies.

In all its actions the council has worked on the promise that good relationships between civilians and military personnel are the result of understanding each other's problem. Its job, therefore, has always been to promote a harmonious relationship by making every effort to solve promptly problems which arise affecting that relationship.

We Beheld Atom Blast In Nevada'

Post Soldier Describes D-Day As A-Shell Rocks His Trench

BY PFC. VIC JOWERS

Too many news correspondents have groped for too many words to describe the magnificence and splendor of an atomic explosion.

All that they have said is true.

One hundred fourteen enlisted men and 10 officers have returned to the post after viewing the explosion of the first atomic artillery shell at Frenchman's Flat. Approximately 3,000 troops representing all the Armies of Continental United States were present.

At a distance of 400 yards from "ground zero" at 0830 hours on Monday last week, personnel from Fort Benning, including myself, were crouched in a five-foot deep slit in the sand, one minute before H-Hour.

Everything Siles

Wearing gas-masks to protect our eyes and faces from flying rubble, we bowed our heads toward the bottom of the trench.

Everything was silent at Frenchman's Flat.

Everything except the nasal, almost muffled, voice of the PA-system sounding off across the resonant corridor of sand.

"Sixty seconds"

"Thirty seconds"

"Fifteen seconds"

"Ten . . . Nine . . . Eight . . . Seven . . . Six . . . Five . . . Four . . . Three . . . Two . . . One . . ."

"NOW!"

A brilliant flash of light, and the PA system commanded,

"Rise"

Trenches Shaken

We groped to our feet and saw the fireball rising into the air. Then the bomb shook our trench. It felt as though we were in a box suspended above the ground and were being shaken to and fro violently.

We recovered our balance and stood again. The blast from shell spewed rubble and dirt over us.

Observers placed at a five-mile vantage point said a double fireball was seen as well as a triple layer of ice-cap.

In the trenches we were too

At The Point Cadet Meloy Commissioned

WEST POINT, N.Y., June 3 — Cadet Guy S. Meloy III of College Station, Tex., son of Major General and Mrs. Guy S. Meloy Jr., Fort Benning, Ga., graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point yesterday. The graduation exercises climaxed the traditional June Week activities at West Point, which began the preceding Friday.

While at the Military Academy, Cadet Meloy was active in intramural sports. He was graduated from A and M Consolidated High School and attended Sullivan's Preparatory School in Washington, D. C. During the past year he held the rank of supply sergeant and duty outstanding record of conduct in the Corps of Cadets. He was appointed to West Point by Rep. Min E. Teague, 6th District of Texas.

Upon graduation, Cadet Meloy received a Bachelor of Science degree and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Infantry.

37 Benning Hotroders Haled Back to School

The first class of 37 traffic violators completed a special 4-hour compulsory safety course here last Friday.

The safe driving course is part of Fort Benning's answer to a new Third Army Safety program ordered by Lt. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling.

Required of all military personnel involved in either an Army or a civil traffic violation, the course is under the supervision of the Transportation Section.

Discussions, films, training aids, and lectures are given to violators, who study from a textbook published by the American Automobile Association, entitled "Sportsmanlike Driving." Students take two tests during the 10-hour instruction.

Instructors for the first class were 2nd Lt. Albert T. Mitten.

Sand Hill Sets Altar Guild Meeting

On next Thursday Night at 8 o'clock the women of the 20th Infantry's Regimental Altar Guild will hold a meeting to organize an altar guild for the Sand Hill chapel.

Colonel Frank L. Elder, commanding officer of the Combat Training Command, will attend the official welcome, and Mrs. Elder will be hostess.

Mrs. Mattie Powell, program director of St. Lukes Methodist Church in Columbus will be in charge of the women of the 20th Infantry's Regimental Altar Guild.

Communications Hears Col. Gooler

Col. Max L. Gooler, commanding officer of the School Brigade, delivered the graduation address to 36 students of officers' communication class No. 3 on May 27. Col. Gooler pointed out to the students the fact that the influence, training, principles, and doctrine gained here at the Infantry School would spread to many thousands of people throughout the Army and would have its effect on future military operations.

They were warned, however, that it is not all in the book, and were given several examples of "written" problems which might confront them as they are assigned to their respective units throughout the world. Personnel of a communication platoon must be officers first and specialists second, he said.

Lt. Alberto Parsi-Arce was a student of the class.

Six Nurses Upped In Rank

Six nurses have received promotions at the U. S. Army Hospital here, according to Capt. Col. Marie G. Smith, chief nurse.

Capt. Virginia M. Wickensheim, operation room supervisor, who served for 21 months in Europe during World War II and 37 months in PeCom, was promoted to major.

Capt. Mercedes A. Castille, who is in charge of the obstetrical and gynecological clinic and who served 38 months in ETO and 16 months in PeCom, was also promoted to major.

Promoted to captain were: First Lt. Jo A. Brannon, recovery room supervisor; First Lt. Evelyn M. Miesler, recovery ward; First Lt. Arline E. Richter, obstetrics section; and First Lt. Josephine H. Vicario, of the medical wards.

Captain Vicario spent 24 months in Trieste before being assigned to Fort Benning.

508th He-Men Star For Camera

The current swabbing tough guys in Hollywood had better look to their scripts and their make-up men, because two soldier stars were discovered.

Sigs. William R. Brayman and Evert P. Ricketts of Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, have been portraying real "he-men" in a saga depicting Ranger training.

Rangers cannot be simulated. Director Robert W. Skelton of the Signal Corps Photo Center, Long Island, New York, searched for two photogenic young men who could realistically portray Rangers. He came up with Brayman and Ricketts.

Brayman and Ricketts portray buddies in the roles, depicting the different phases of Ranger training. Sigs. Brayman was especially fast at learning the script, according to Director Skelton. Neither actor had much previous experience in the field of the television and newsreel professions have yet to be released.

Included in the cast were troops from the Third Battalion of the 50th, who acted as "Aggressors" and a group actually undergoing Ranger training. Lt. Colonel Edwin J. Briggs, executive officer of the Ranger department, served as technical advisor.

'High' Jumpers Sell Airborne To One-Fifth of 12th OC Co.

By OC RILEY MARTIN
When it comes to selling the Airborne jumpers have a knack that is hard to resist.

A case in point is 12th OC Company, which has more than 20 percent of its candidates scheduled for jump training. Ten candidates who have completed more than 275 jumps are credited with selling the Airborne to more than 25 of their classmates.

They are Lowell White, 38; Eugene Ralph Menzies, 33; Darwin Schmitt, 43; Ralph Miller, 42; Keith O'Connor, 37; John Manuel, 35; Wayne Reilly, 38; Norman Fry, 38; Morley Larsen, 39; and Herbert Whitehead, 35.

Candidates Larson, Manuel, Menzies, Miller, O'Connor, and Reilly did such a good selling job on the men in the Second Battalion that approximately 40 per cent have applied for Airborne training.

Asked why they are going Airborne the candidates came up with answers ranging from the trend to increased mobility of Army personnel in which the jump training will benefit them as officers to the incentive pay and just plain thrill.

(Many other reasons were given in a recent Bayonet story.

Col. Abernathy New CTC Exec.

Col. Sterling H. Abernathy has taken over the duties of executive officer, Combat Training Command.

Colonel Abernathy has commanded 3d Battalion, 26th Regimental Combat Team since August 1952. A Regular Army officer, he has been in the Army since February 1941 and saw service in Europe during World War II as a member of Headquarters V Corps. In Korea Colonel Abernathy was a member of X Corps under Lt. Colonel Edward Almond and participated in the Wonsan Invasion.

Colonel Abernathy is replacing Lt. Colonel Paul H. Mize, who is on leave prior to departing for Europe.

Clip 'Joint' Onion-Skins At Fast Clip

BY HENRY G. STERN
This is no hair raising tale, but rather an episode of two "clip-joints" located in Harmony Church.

When Infantry Officer Candidate School was reconstituted in February 1951 two barber shops were opened and immediately began a clipping operation that has continued for 26 months and has turned out 232,790 onion-skin heads.

The man heading the operation, Levi Taylor of 215-43rd Street, Columbus, recently let his hair down and shed some light on the barbering habits of officer candidates.

"When a new class reports for training we really have hair flying around," he says. "Some of the men come in with a full head of hair, but in about five minutes each leaves with the regulation OC haircut—a short half-inch on top and nothing on the sides.

"Most of them take it pretty well, some even smile. Once in a while one of them asks whether he is expected to pay, and sometimes we run into a real hard fellow on who picks up a lock of his hair to send to Mom."

Locating hair with regulation limits is a constant operation for the eight barbers currently employed in the two shops. A candidate returns for a trim every seven to ten days, Taylor says.

"How much hair do we cut in a day? Well, anywhere—from five to ten pounds, depending on whether we're trimming or really cutting on a new class."

Mr. Taylor said that if all the hair cut in a normal day were laid end to end it would reach to the Main Theater and back to the Regimental Headquarters building three times.

Buddy Seat Rides On Tap Saturday

On Saturday the buddy seat of the controlled jump tower will be operated by the Airborne Department for Fort Benning personnel, their dependents, and guests.

Officers will be held in the tower from those who take the "ride" and proceeds will go into the treasury of the Daedalus Club, sponsor of the ride.

School Detachment Soldier Of Month Is Sfc. Cairnes

Sergeant First Class Billie W. Cairnes, Company II of the School Detachment, was announced as the outstanding soldier of the month by Colonel Donald R. Washington, Detachment Commander.

Mrs. S. C. Cairnes, East Flat Rock, N. C., who is a graduate of the Army's parachute school and with the tower training group of the Airborne Detachment.

Sfc. Cairnes saw service in the Panama Canal Zone and in Europe during the second World War. His saw combat service with the 17th Airborne Division in the Rhineland and Central Europe as leader of a heavy machine gun squad.

War Game 'Copter Evacuates 'Victim' As 'Atomic' Cloud Gulfs Him

A trooper from the 58th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, "victim" of an "atomic" explosion, was evacuated by helicopter to the aid station.

Suffering from an overdose of radiation from the atomic "blast" which hit his unit, the 320th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, Private Donald R. Hamlin was lifted to an aid station in a "copter" piloted by Lieutenant Knighton of the 366 Helicopter Transport Unit.

Fortunately, trooper Hamlin was not seriously "injured" by the radiation burns. In fact there was little danger of getting hurt at all in this particular blast. The whole affair was simulated.

The atomic explosion was staged primarily for demonstration purposes. Lieutenant Stephen Hyatt of Service Battery of the 320th formed the demonstration "effective training on unit defense in atomic warfare."

Two Red Devils who witnessed the atomic experiments in Nevada, Colonel Edward Bourke, 320th Battalion commander, and Sergeant William Nettles, 320th, assured the troopers in good stead during a real atomic attack. Sergeant Nettles demonstrated the use of the Geiger counter for detecting radiation.

"The whole demonstration was realistic, even to the mushroom effect of the explosion. The one exception was the earth shaking blast," said Lieut. Hyatt, who had charge of the demonstration and of perfecting the simulated shell.

Ranger Gets Perfect Score

A Ranger officer has recorded a perfect score of 500 points in the Ranger Department.

He is 2nd Lt. Donald J. Wild of Chippewa Falls, Wis., a student in Ranger officers class No. 8.

This marks the second time the ablest officer has scored 500 points on the physical fitness test. The first time was in October 1952 when he was stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va., as an officer candidate.

Wild's physical fitness score card showed these results when tallied: Twenty pull-ups, 75 squat jumps, 64 push-ups, 79 sit-ups in two minutes, and half-mile run in 2:17.

The half-mile run is especially designed for Ranger students. It requires that they run with rifle and bayonet, canteen with water, field pack, and helmet.

Wild was a member of the track team at St. John's University, Coltonville, Minn., before entering the Army.

RICHMOND, Va. (APSS) — Odell James Rice was picked up by police on suspicion of drunkenness. The case was dismissed when he walked a straight line — on his hands.

This Red Devil Served Steaming Meals On Line

A Fort Benning mess hall has a newly assigned mess steward, particularly vegetables. Though who can boast that he "did not mind a single day serving three hot meals while on the line in Korea."

Master Sergeant John P. Gergely, newly assigned mess steward in Love Company of the 58th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, says "we not only served pastry the best pastry in the regiment."

Sergeant Gergely, a former instructor in the 16th Corps Food Service School in Camp Senda, Japan, besides serving hot meals to line troops, made combat jumps with the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team while in Korea.

When the Sixteenth Corps Food Service School needed instructors, Sergeant Gergely was detached from the 187th and sent to Senda. While with the school, Gergely noted that "we were seldom able to follow the master menu and had JOYNER REPLACES HENRY"

Sgt. K. Henry, Operating NCO for the 87th Chemical Smoke Generator Company, is attending a nine-week course at the Staff Chemical Specialist School, Fort McClellan, Alabama. Sgt. Henry is being replaced in his job by Sgt. Joyner who recently returned from observing an atomic blast in Nevada.

Cast Of Movie Due Here Soon

Edward Small productions has selected Fort Benning as the site for the filming of "Screaming Eagles," a feature-length movie based on the exploits of the famous 101st Airborne Division.

Actual filming will get under way during the latter part of the week, it was announced with the arrival of Ralph E. Black, unit manager, Joseph Small, location manager, and Lt. Col. L. H. Schwelger, technical adviser and World War II veteran of the 101st.

Between 50 and 75 Hollywood actors and crewmen are to fly here next week to begin a 15- to 20-day shooting schedule.

A number of post personnel will be given featured roles in the production, which will star three well-known but as yet unidentified players.

All of the scenes, both interior and exterior, with the exception of a few, will be filmed on the post.

Major K. K. Keenan of Freeport, Ill., has been appointed project officer for the production. Now based at Lawtonville, the 7th Battalion, 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, he was assigned to Fort Benning from 1944 to 1945, the period to be covered in the movie.

Lewis B. Merman is production manager, with the Lt. Col. Richard J. Allen of the Army's G-3 section serving as technical adviser.

The screen play, written by George Bruce and Richard Schayer, centers around the action of one squad of the 101st Airborne beginning in England and moving to Europe where a small group is called to hold a bridge from the enemy.

Such actions of the division, which fought in the Normandy invasion and the Rhineland, Ardennes, and Central Europe campaigns, won the 101st the name of the "Batting Bastards of Basques."

There are two main characters in the story. Sgt. Foster and a soldier named Sam. There also is a female lead. These three parts will be played by top Hollywood actors.

Four infantrymen from the post will play featured roles as members of the squad. The remainder will be seasoned Hollywood actors.

It is anticipated that several ex-members of the 101st, men now stationed with the 82nd, will be given parts in the film.

In the script there are several scenes in Service Clubs in England, and one of Fort Benning's clubs is expected to be used for these shootings. It is also possible that a number of young women from the Columbus-Phenix City area may appear.

Since movie premieres are usually held at or near the site of filming, it is expected that the first showing of "Screaming Eagles," will be at the post.

Koreans Visit Post

Two Republic of Korea Army generals arrived at Fort Benning last Thursday morning for an Infantry School orientation. They were Lt. Gen. Approximately 600 cadets from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point arrive here June 17 for their annual Summer combined arms training with troop units. Training will begin June 18 and continue through June 20, according to Lt. Col. Robert G. Brugh of the Tactical Department, who also is project officer for the cadets' Summer encampment. The cadets, all members of the class of 1945, will receive 10 1/2 hours of instruction which will include demonstrations in standard Infantry weapons and trends of developments, rifle and weapons platoons in an attack, Infantry-tank team in an attack, small arms fire, close combat, rifle company in attack, and a reinforced rifle company in defense.

Capt. R. M. Humman of Selma, Ala., has been presented the Bronze Star Medal for service in Korea. The presentation was made by Col. James V. Thompson, director of The Infantry School's Staff Department. Capt. Humman won the award for his "leadership and organizational abilities while under fire in Korea." He is a 1941 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point and from February to November 1945 he was with the 23d Division in Korea as a company commander and executive officer in the Third Battalion.

Plans for the annual summer training of approximately 150 Reserve Infantry officers are now being made. Col. Percy Miller of Charleston, S. C., will be commandant of the Reserve School, Aug. 16-31. The officers will receive regular Army training and instruction several demonstrations and prob in the latest Infantry tactics during their stay. They will observe the ing their stay. They will observe! on the newest training aids.

Donkeys Win In CTC-508th Baseball Go

By CAPT. A. M. LEONARD

In a game where someone is expected to score, it looks as if the donkeys won, for none of the players could get his donkey around the infield to home plate during the recent CTC and 508th ARCT "Donkey Baseball Game".

The game ended a 4 to 0 score with the donkeys piling up the most points by throwing practically every player.

The game was played at Bullet Field in the San Hill Area and attracted over twelve hundred spectators. From the time the first ball was thrown, the crowd was almost in hysterics from laughing. Most of the players were thrown either first, head first or just thrown. It looked as if the donkeys were playing a game also, to see how quick they could throw the rider.

The contest was played in ten minute innings with no limit to the number of at bats. When a player hit the ball he had to run and mount or try to mount a donkey and get to first base. The first baseman had to tag the runner with the ball from inside a small circle that was the base. One or two players were able to get past first and tried to steal second with little success. There is one thing to say about this particular game, there were no spectacular slides made into second or third base.

QUESTIONS

1. Who holds the all-time National League home run crown?
2. The only horse to finish in the money in all three Triple crown races last year was: Blue Man, One Count or Hill Gale?
3. What polo vaultier once cleared 28 feet?
4. What was the fastest Major League game ever played?
5. Glenn Cunningham broke four world records in 1934. What two American records does he still hold?

ANSWERS

1. Mel Ott, who in 22 seasons with the New York Giants hit 511 homers.
2. Blue Man. The White Oaks Stable star ran third in the Kentucky Derby, was the Preakness and finished second in the Belmont Stakes.
3. Flat Adams, who established an official mark of 28' 2" at New York City in 1910. But the vault was for distance, not height.
4. The game between the Giants and the Phillies, Sept. 26, 1912, was by the Giants 6-1, in 51 minutes.
5. The one-mile record made on a track with 200 laps—4:44.4, fastest ever run on an American track by an athlete, and the indoor 1000-meter record—3:48.4.

Service Club 2 Celebrates 4th Year on Hill

Combat Training Command and the 80th Airborne Regimental Command Team handed together last Tuesday to celebrate the 4th anniversary of Service Club No. 2 in the Sand Hill area with a full evening of entertainment.

Doors opened at 1 p.m. and Sand Hill troops streamed in. They spent their time looking over the club facilities and getting acquainted with Mrs. Louise Samral, club director.

The anniversary dance got under way at 8:30 p.m. with the Blue Note Orchestra under the direction of White Swallow, furnishing the music for the men and their West Point, Ga. Guests.

The band began with their new song "The Today" and later introduced the guest stars of the show, the Melody Banders. Their appearance was made possible by the Infantry Center Special Services. The band, one of a group containing service men from the post, was highlighted by accordionist Philip Kapoor of TIC Special Services.

Colonel Frank L. Eider, CTC commander, officially opened the celebration.

Field Meet Set For Cub Scouts

Back 27, Cub Scouts of Fort Benning, Georgia, will wind up a successful year of varied activities with a field meet on Decker Strip in the Alabama area on Sunday.

No Olympic records (and we hope no legs) will be broken, but not for lack of trying—one Father said. The standard field events will be augmented by contests of "sell and design" such as father-and-son three-legged races and the perennial potato race.

Any youngster seen practicing push-ups should not be classified automatically as a future para-chutist, but may be a Cub Scout preparing "to give his all for old Den."

The picnic hour will be eagerly awaited, but the high point of the day, and of the year, will be the awarding of the plaque for the Honor Den of the Year. Each Den has been graded on the performance of the required tests, the attendance of cubs and parents at meetings, and the appearance of one representative of each den at the monthly inspection. No boy ever reported harder for the Knox Trophy than these dens have worked for the coveted title of Honor Den, which carries with it the economic benefit of being first in line for refreshments.

The Cub Scout committee, headed by Col. Don Washington, reports that the majority of boys of cub age at Fort Benning have been brought closer to their parents through cubbing during the intervals that Dad gets back to training between his tours of foreign service.

Shrieks in the Night

This Boy Toots A Mighty Cool Piece of Brass

BY STAN LIEBERMAN

From taps to reveille, melting tones and spitting shrieks come through light and darkness from the catacombs of the Airborne Cadre Club. Or, as few unmelodious souls have more emphatically put it, "A great big conglomeration of noise manages to reach the slumber-laden minds of the boys hourly, thanks to the enthusiastic tremors of the battalion's own bellowing bundle of Beider-beke."

Pfc. Dusty Rhodes, First Student Regiment, while working as steward at the Cadre Club for the past four months, has frequently lifted a mighty cool piece of brass to his gifted lips much to the concern or enjoyment of the music-minded troopers, and perhaps to the dismay of a few light sleepers.

However, Dusty has never received a request to have his trumpet placed off limits — not that it would do much good for this six foot-two mountain of cuteness and rhythm just isn't the kind of guy you stop.

In the picture, Dusty is perched in his preferred moaning position on top of the club's bar, which, in his words, is like "relaxing with a waxing aliced for dancing."

Four Lanes Authorized For Artery

Projects estimated to cost $2,618,800—including access roads to the new Upatoi Creek bridge—have been approved for the post by the secretary of defense.

These projects include the widening to four lanes of Benning Boulevard from Outpost No. 1 to the reservation boundary, construction of a new transportation office and warehouse, and enlargement of the water treatment plant. Other projects include the laying of water mains from the new water plant to the Sand Hill and Harmony Church areas and construction of three motor repair shops in the troop housing area near the parachute jump towers; also an ammunition workshop and motor repair shop in Harmony Church and another motor repair shop at the main motor pool.

Bids are scheduled to be advertised starting this month. Construction activities are expected to begin the latter part of August.

Although the invitations to bid to be advertised this month will be for the widening of Benning Boulevard, first actual construction is expected to be on the transportation office and warehouse on the site where the present transportation buildings are located.

Bids will be advertised and opened by the Savannah District Engineer.

LOOK MA'AM, I'LL GIVE YA 9 TO 1 ON MY OLD MAN TO WIN THIS CONTEST! But alas for 5-year-old Denny Gore! Miss Helen Baker, director of Service Club No. 1, tells him his father, Capt. William Gore of the Airborne Battalion, is not eligible. The "Dad of the Year" must be an enlisted man.

Service Club Seeks Post's Dad Of Year

Only fathers need apply! Service Club No. 1, in conjunction with the Major's Club on post, is sponsoring the first "Dad of the Year" contest, and the post's poppa No. 1 will be announced on Sunday June 21, Father's Day, at the service club.

The contest, restricted to enlisted men, will be postwide, with all major units participating.

Each company will sponsor a qualified candidate. The candidate offered by the companies will then be judged at a higher echelon level, and so on up the line, to the regimental level.

The names of the representatives will be forwarded to Miss Helen Baker, director of the service club, who will present them to the judges, consisting of four commissioned officers from the Major's Club and four members of the enlisted men's council of the service club.

The final choosing of the proud father will be held at a Service Club No. 1 Open House on June 21st when the winner will be presented with a loving cup in recognition of the fact that the post chose him as "The Dad."

Following the presentation the parents attending the open house will be entertained by a children's show.

Infantrymen Mark 178th Anniversary

The U. S. Army and the U. S. Infantry will mark their 178th anniversary on June 14 and June 15. Although no special ceremonies have been planned at Fort Benning to mark the event, the U. S. Infantryman will be remembered throughout the world for the job he has done over the 178 years of his heroic history.

The Second Continental Congress authorized the establishment of an Army on June 14, 1775, and a day later ordered the founding of the Infantry. The Army consisted of only 10 rifle companies, including six from Pennsylvania, two from Virginia, and two from Maryland. These troops were ordered to join state militia, similar to today's National Guard units, at the siege of Boston during the Revolutionary War.

The Infantrymen of that day were poorly paid and ill-equipped, but their courage was never in doubt. They had to furnish their own powder, bullets, uniforms, and weapons, and though they lacked every comfort of today's Army they fought with the same stamina and perseverance.

The first field artillery pieces for the Continental Army were those which had been captured from the British Army at the Battle of Ticonderoga May 10, 1775. The early U. S. Infantryman who made up almost the entire strength of the colonial fighting force was well entertained by a children's show.

Each company will sponsor a qualified candidate. The candidate offered by the companies will then be judged at a higher echelon level, and so on up the line, to the regimental level.

Following his introduction Monday morning to Brig. Gen. Carl Fritzsche, who was the post's infantry center commander during the absence of Major Gen. G. S. Moley, Jr., the corporal was taken on a tour of G-1 and G-3 Sections at the Post Exchange, Office of W. W. Sellers, G-1, and Major Jonathan F. Ladd, asst. G-1. Tuesday morning Gen. Fritzsche

First POW At Benning Tells Story

Astrologers might offer some mystic explanation, but to Sgt. John King of Orlando, Fla., the number 25 is the connecting link between a series of events during his two years as a prisoner of war in North Korea.

Sgt. King, the first Korean exchange prisoner to undergo treatment at Fort Benning's U. S. Army hospital, says four 25's played important roles in his life during the last two years. He was captured by the Chinese April 25, 1951, and four companions lay in a hut near death without medical care for 25 straight days, but was released after 25 and promoted to the rank of sergeant May 25.

With 25 Infantry. The combat veteran, who reached the post's Army Hospital Sunday afternoon after a two-week confinement in Orlando, arrived in Korea in July 1950 as a member of the 25th Infantry Regimental Combat Team, shortly after the war began. He was wounded in September and sent to Tokyo for treatment, returning to his unit in November.

His unit, the Second Battalion, was completely surrounded by the enemy April 25. All the troops began to pull out except King's fourth platoon, part of Company B, which was left behind to prepare for a last stand to break through. The tanks were made it, but he could only crawl. He attempted break-out, King was wounded in the back and legs, so badly that he could only crawl. When he was captured by the Communists other United Nations soldiers were ordered to march a mile to a prisoner collecting point.

Red soldiers placed him and four other U. S. wounded in a hut but where they lived for 25 days without medical attention. "Only by begging a few handfuls of rice from the Chinese soldiers moving along the road were we able to survive," King said Monday. "I could not move, and all of us were suffering from our wounds and from hunger and thirst."

On June 20, 1951, with the UN forces pushing north the five men were loaded in trucks and taken to a Chinese Army Field Hospital at Pung-yang. King had 25 straight months and was operated on twice.

"O treatment at the hospital was all right, considering the small amount of medical equipment the Chinese had. King said. "The operations undoubtedly saved my life, because after 25 days in the hut I was about at the end of my rope."

"The hospital was very crowded. It was a very good one."

During his stop at the automobile shop the OC Regt. was making star registration cards. Purpose of the search was to find out if any of the machine sorted those cards. "It was fantastic the way the machine sorted those cards," the corporal said. "It checked several hundred cards in the few minutes I was watching it."

Asst. I. G. Gets 'Eagle' Insignia

Lt. Col. Neal W. Lovness, assistant inspector general at Fort Benning, has received notification of his promotion to colonel.

Col. Lovness, who came to the post in 1952, was commissioned Aug. 25, 1951, after graduating from North Dakota State College.

He served as a commander of the 303d in the Minnesota District from 1953 to 1949 when he became assistant professor of military science and tactics at North Dakota State College.

In 1944 he commanded the Third Battalion of the 200th Infantry, 42nd Division at Camp Greiner, Okla., and later led that unit in Europe.

Following World War II he was appointed executive officer of the Washington State Military District in Seattle. In 1947-48 the colonel served as executive officer of the 45th Philippine Scout Regiment at Camp O'Donnell and was commanding officer of the open house Hay at Baguio, P. I., in 1942.

Foot Soldiers Generals Laud Valorous Past

Major General Guy S. Moley, Jr., Infantry Center commander, has issued the following statement in connection with the 178th anniversary of the Infantry:

"On June 14, 1775, one hundred and seventy-eight years ago today, Monday, the United States Infantry was born. This was a year before the founding of our Nation.

"The crown of history which rests upon the head of the 'Queen of Battles' is a glorious one, studded with gallant campaigns—Valley Forge, New Orleans, Chapultepec, Gettysburg, The Marne, Manila, Normandy, and the Pusan Perimeter.

Demands on Band's Throat Glands Spawns Command for New Hands

Attention tooters, trumpeters, cymbal clangers, and triangle tappers!

The 313th Army Band, newly authorized at Fort Benning to light on the band presently carried by the 122nd Army Band, is seeking instrumentalists of no mean order.

The new band will add the 122nd in the many military functions both on and off post, that require musical renditions.

WO William J. James, company commanding officer, both bands, suggests that anyone wishing to be assigned to the new band call Army Band presently has 12 men assigned. Sixteen more men will be assigned to bring the band up to the full strength of 28 men.

Men assigned to the 313th so far are M-Sgt. Andre R. Smith, Sgt. William Hennessy, Pfc. Ronnie M. Helton, and Pfc. Biblee C.

Lt. Gen. Gillem Addresses Grads

Retired Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., speaking to 150 officer candidates, graduates, advocated a strong United States to meet any crisis that may arise in the future.

The former Third Army commander declared in his address, given last week, that "the solution to the future is a strong United States—militarily and economically."

Introduced by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, acting commander of The Infantry School, the retired general also told the new infantry officers what to expect and what will be expected of them in their Army careers.

Honor and distinguished graduates of the class were 2nd Lt. Richard L. Rulph of Honolulu, who has been assigned to Fort Benning as a tactical officer.

Distinguished graduates were 2nd Lt. Richard C. Halloran, son of Admiral and Mrs. P. J. Halloran, Ossing, N. Y.; 2nd Lt. John R. Bawn, Jr., of El Dorado, Ark.; 2nd Lt. Edmer J. Russell, Jr., of Jackson, Mich.; 2nd Lt. Manuel M. Salgado, Jr., of Washington, D. C.; and 2nd Lt. George E. Williams of Auburn, Calif.

Red Devil Grads Finish Forty Hours Of T1&E Studies

Four officers and four non-commissioned officers of the 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team have completed a Troop Information and Education course at the Post T1&E center.

Graduating from the 40 hour discussion leader's course, these T1&E leaders will be responsible for maintaining a high standard of discussion-programming in the regiment.

Officers are denlisted men who finished the course are Lieut. George Holland and Sgt. Richard Brant, Company F; Lieut. William Schroeder and Sgt. Robert Wotto, Company I; Lieut. Robert Mc Knight and Sgt. George Pollinger, Company L; and Lieut. George Hickey and Sfc. Henry E. Casey, 588th Engineer Company.

Traffic Violations

During the period May 29 to June 3, three post personnel lost their driving privileges for varied periods of time.

Cpl. James Boyd, Separation Point, had his license revoked for an indefinite period. He allowed another to drive his vehicle, without a State drivers' license.

Pfc. Les J. Hackett, Battery A, 520th Field Artillery Battalion, had his driving privileges revoked permanently when he loaned his motorcycle to another. The enlisted man who borrowed Pfc. Hackett's motorcycle was injured fatally in an accident.

Sgt. Rosalia G. Cole had his license revoked for a period of two months on a speeding charge.

Change Due In Auto Tags

A new registration of all vehicles operating on post will begin this month, according to the Provost Marshal's section.

At present, two types of plates are being used. A blue plate with a white letter and numerals is used for military personnel and a red plate with white numerals for enlisted men, green and white numerals for civilian owned cars, and yellow with black numerals for commercial vehicles.

The new plates will be blue with white numerals for officers, red with white numerals for enlisted men, green and white numerals for civilian owned cars, and yellow with black numerals for commercial vehicles.

The new plates will not carry a letter. Only numerals will be used. They are being made at the U.S. Army Disciplinary Barracks, Camp Gordon, Ga.

Through this use of different colors, a person will be able to recognize the status of the owner of a car. It is planned to complete the registration of all vehicles by the end of the Summer.

76 Reenlist In May

Mike Back On Jump Pay

Mike, the infantry mule, took his American industry at the invitation of the Post Benning command, standing agape and wondering.

The afternoon program was a demonstration of old and new methods of transporting the 75-mm pack howitzers used by the Artillery.

"And now," said the master of ceremonies, "we present Mike the mule carrying the pack howitzer." But Mike would not consent with his pack.

As Mike was led off to his stable in disgrace, the troopers of Company M got the word about their mascot. His jump pay at the end of the month was $200.00, sweet clover and a waterproof raincoat. The troopers said could ask for better duty?

"There were no important visitors."

at the "Artillery Fires" problem last week when Mike got his second chance for star billing. The temperamental thespian took his cue on time and hoofed onstage with nary a hee-haw.

So Mike's jump pay has been reinstated, he's being fed the choice of viands, and all is well with the mate section of the 508th. And Mike better not refuse any more orders already.

A veteran of many years of show business, "Kate" has been producing musical plays and other entertainment for United Nations troops in Japan, and is heard over Armed Forces Radio Service, and the Japanese Broadcasting System.

The 'Thing' Rears Head, Haunts STC

Come now the plaque that nobody wants.

It reared its unmelodious head yesterday in Special Troops Command and, according to an announcement, is to be given to the most deserving of the First Transportation Battalion's eight companies.

Its name? The "Saddest Sarcasm of the Month" plaque. The qualifications for winning it? Being one. Who's going to try to win it?

Nobody!

And that, according to its founder, whose memory should linger in STC long after his physical presence departs, is just why he thought it up.

"The men would go out after this like they would go out after the plague," said First Lieut. Alton B. Brown, who is completing his tour of duty this month as leaving his brainchild shunned and orphaned among those who stay behind.

Lost Coins of The Realm

Proposed cuts in military spending are currently the topic of heated arguments and investigations in our nation's capital. Cuts in spending have already become effective, with the stipulation that such cuts will in any way reduce defense plans but will simply result in more effective utilization of available funds.

These changes will of course affect every member of the Armed Forces. In order to stretch the tax dollar so that the taxes of every citizen may be held to a minimum, the program of cost consciousness must be stressed over and over. Waste in the Army, whether of men or material, must be kept at an absolute minimum.

Cost consciousness has already become a part of every soldier's daily life. From the classes he has in basic, to the posters, displays, and other publicity constantly confronting him. He knows how much each piece of his equipment costs. The value of the clothing he is issued is pointed out to him. Even his food and the utensils he uses in consuming it are "price-tagged" so that there will be no unnecessary waste.

The soldier is constantly reminded that he is one of the taxpayers whose money is being saved. His responsibility to his country is stressed. That fact that the war on waste is important, being a part of the war against aggression is pointed out to him. Every soldier knows of the campaign on the part

The Army to make use of every piece of equipment purchased by the taxpayer. The success of this program depends on the individual soldier, who must make it his duty to see that he is doing his part to eliminate waste. The success of the program depends on the individual soldier, who must make it his duty to see that he is doing his part to eliminate waste. ## Budding Philip Sosas Get Chance for Glory

An Armed Forces military music competition designed to encourage composition of military march will be held at Fort Benning this Summer.

Entries will be submitted to the Infantry Center Special Services officer for judging, and all military personnel on active duty for more than 90 days are eligible to enter the contest. Each contestant may submit as many entries as he wishes.

Winning entries will be forwarded to Third Army headquarters for area-wide competition. The Third Army winner will be entered in the finals to be conducted by the Department of the Army.

The Army's grand prize winner will receive $1,000 from the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers. This award is known as the "ASCA John Philip Sousa Award." Finalists will receive Department of the Army Certificates of Accomplishment.

If You Drive, Take it Easy!

By Capt. Alfred M. Leonard

So you think you are a careful driver.

This is the opinion of most drivers and they drive normally as they drive. They drive normally as they drive. They drive normally as they drive.

A good tip while driving on a straight road is to keep a steady place. Don't tempt fate by speeding over a hill, because there may be a sharp curve on the other side without a warning sign.

That is what has happened to the car in the picture. This accident happened in the Sand Hill Area. The driver was not familiar with the road and went so far as to skid approximately 30 feet on the hard surface, broke off a wheel, and was unable to get out of the car. ### Post Vets Jumped Into France on D-Day

Many veteran Fort Benning soldiers, most with the Korean War, also behind them, recalled Saturday what they were doing June 6, 1944, when the Allies jumped into France on D-Day.

Five others who jumped into France on D-Day were Sgt. James H. Franklin of Yakima, Wash., Sgt. James M. Gorman of Philadelphia, Pa., Sgt. Leonard Feld of Lafayette, La., and Sgt. Wm. H. Wester of Greenville, S. C.

36 Graduated At Food School

Thirty-six students graduated Friday from cooking class No. 24 at Fort Benning's Third Army Food Service School.

Honor graduate was Pvt. Robert L. Morgan of Portales, N. Mex. Other graduates included Pvt. Richard J. Burbridge of Natick, Vt.; Pvt. Randolph Thompson of Mobile, Ala.; Pvt. William F. Dewey of Council Bluffs, Iowa; and Sgt. Edward E. Stone of Albertville, Ala.; Pvt. Meir C. Conner of Woodville, Va.

U of Ga. Offers 13 Courses

The Fort Benning Center of the University of Georgia is offering college courses in English, French, History, Biology and Business Administration.

Speech, Psychology, Spanish and Education are also being offered in the Summer Session which begins June 18 and continues through August 29.

These courses are available to all military and civilian personnel and their dependents. The semester charge is $20.00 plus the price of text books and laboratory materials. The Army will pay half the semester charge for enlisted personnel.

Benning Soldier Aids Community In Social Affairs

BY CPL. JIM MORRISON

What is the soldier at Fort Benning contributing to the community in Columbus and on the post?

If a list of his civic activities is any indication of the responsibility he feels toward his community, then he is contributing a great deal.

Although he must necessarily spend a major portion of his week preparing himself as a soldier, he is still finding time to take an active part in many projects that make his community a better place in which to live.

In Columbus he belongs to church clubs, and is active in church affairs. He holds offices in social, civic and fraternal clubs, and on the boards of directors of welfare organizations, takes an active part in P.T.A. work, and even helps to run off-post service clubs.

Active In Churches

Church work attracts the largest number of Fort Benning soldiers. An estimated 2,000 soldiers and their families are members of Columbus and Phenix City churches and participate in many of the churches' activities and organizations.

The Leach Sunday school classes, held by officers serving in the choir, plan social activities and serve as church officials.

Two Left for Korea, One Returns

A little over a year ago, in a shaded Fort Benning chapel, Chaplain Charles A. Meek of the 506th Regimental Combat Team performed one of the happiest official acts that finds a chaplain's lot. He joined Lieutenant James O. Bates, his friend and comrade, in holy and lock with a happy bride. The pair went on a brief honeymoon and Chaplain Meek busied himself with the job of guiding his Red Devils in the paths of their chosen religion.

Only a little time went by and the chaplain and the lieutenant found themselves ordered to Korea. Both went over and one came back. He was Chaplain Meek. But the chaplain did not return to Fort Benning without having discharged all of the duties of a chaplain and of friendship to the man 4th Infantry Division. They spent many bitterly cold evenings talking over the story of how he did it and their plans for the future.

The lieutenant and the chaplain were assigned to the same unit in Korea, the 506th Regimental Combat Team, and the captain carried out his mission as a front-line chaplain. He was killed at the Battle of the Blood Hill. Lieutenant Bates lost his life at the head of his regiment. Chaplain Meek, hearing of the death of his friend, organized a search party for the lieutenant's body. The chaplain accomplished his mission on July 21st, 1952, thirty-nine days later.

His last official act of friendship and duty for his friend he performed on his return to the United States. He visited the young widow and parents of Lieutenant Bates.

While in Korea Chaplain Meek, Silver Star and Bronze Star winner, accompanied more than 20 patrols beyond the front lines and visited front line positions more than 500 times.

A chaplain since 1950, he enlisted in the Marines in 1942 and graduated from the Marine Officers Candidate School in 1943. In 1947 he left the Marines to attend the Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, Va.

He graduated in 1950, and transferred from the Marine Corps Reserve to the Chaplain Corps of the U. S. Army.

Chaplain Meek made his first parachute jump since his return to the 506th Regimental Combat Team on the 22nd of May. "I'm glad to be back," he said.

Chaplains Hold 3rd Army Retreat

"Primacy of the Spiritual Life" was the central theme of the annual Third Army Protestant Chaplains' retreat held here June 9 to 11.

Infantry Center Chaplain (Col.) Leasington O. Sheffield said that approximately 25 Army chaplains are on the post for the three-day religious meet.

Third Army installations represented are Redstone Arsenal, Ala.; Warner - Robins Air Force Base, Ga.; Dobbins Air Force Base, Ga.; Veterans' Administration Hospital, Tuskegee, Ala.; and Camp Rilea, Ala.

Third Army Chaplain (Col.) Mitchell W. Phillips also was scheduled to attend the retreat.

The session today will be devoted to "Renewing Vows, Reaffirmation of Faith and Dedication of the Spirit, and Dedication."

Waxer Foster Billed Monday On Service Club 1 Program

Disc-jockey hunk linc will be in order for the platter pushers and fans on post next Monday night at Service Club No. 1.

Alton V. Foster, popular wax spinner on radio station WPKX will open a new project instigated by the service club. The program, for which various local disc-jockeys have offered their services, will consist of a weekly presentation of records ranging from Dixieland to semi-classical.

In addition to spinning discs, Foster has held down the job of secretary-manager of the Phoenix Club, Jackson, S. C., for the past six years. He served with the Marines in the Central Pacific.

He expects to appear at the club with about 200 records, one-

Red Cross People Get Transferred

Two Red Cross workers at Fort Benning's U. S. Army Hospital are being transferred this month to new assignments.

Miss Hazel Turnage, recreation director, leaves for Camp Gordon, Ga., to become assistant field director in recreation at the U. S. Army Hospital there, and Miss Leah Lehman will go to Charlotte, N. C., to direct junior Red Cross activities.

Miss Turnage has been at Fort Benning since January, 1952. She served on the post previously from September, 1948, until October, 1948.

She also was recreation director of hospitals at Fort Bragg, N. C., Fort Jackson, S. C., and the Naval Station at Pensacola, Fla.

Miss Lehman came to Fort Benning as a recreation worker in September, 1952.

Airborne Chaplain Back From Texas

Airborne Battalion's Chaplain Clarence H. Walton returned last week from San Antonio, Texas, where he attended the South West Texas Texas Methodist Conference. Captain Walton, prior to entering the service, was pastor of the Lytle Methodist Church, Lytle, Texas.

FLAG MAKERS . . .

The classification and repair division of the Fort Benning Quartermaster Section has prepared seven Third Army flags for use at area headquarters in Ft. McPherson, Ga. The flags, 4 ft. by 3 ft., are made of silk, and are standard red, white, and blue in color with gold fringe. Mrs. Ester H. Carson, left above, was responsible for layout design. Mrs. O. L. Baker completed the sewing on a special zig-zag machine.

Tillery Chosen 198's "Soldier"

St. William C. Tillery, chief of firing Battery, Battery B, 138th Field Artillery Battalion, has been selected as the outstanding soldier of the week by his battalion commander, Lt. Colonel William J. Tackler.

Sgt. Tillery won the title in competition against five other enlisted men, representative Headquarters, A. C. Service, and the 22nd AAA Battalion.

He enlisted in the Army in 1947 at Fort Benning and served 30 months in Japan and Korea. Among one of the first to arrive in Korea after the outbreak of hostilities, he won the Silver Star for heroic action at the Choson Reservoir in 1950. He also received the Purple Heart for wounds received there.

The following record concert will be held at the Main Post Library next Tuesday at 8 p.m. BARTOK: Concerto No. 3 for Piano and Orchestra, with Gyorgy Sandor at the piano and Eugene Ormandy conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra. SAINT-SAENS: Concerto No. 3 in B Minor, with Tino Francecasti a violinist, and Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York.

Community

year during the Community Chest Red Cross and the March of Dimes drives.

The most successful was the Community Chest. Under the chairmanship of Col. Donald Washington of Sanford, Me., commanding officer of the Infantry School Detachment, the drive netted over $40,000, part of which went to United Givers, in Columbus.

Charities Supported
The Red Cross drive, headed by Col. Max Gooder of Devils Lake, N. D., commanding officer of the School Brigade, topped $23,000 and the March of Dimes campaign, conducted by Col. Paul Serff of San Rafael, Calif., commanding officer of Special Troops Co in a drive, brought in over $10,000.

Another service organization active at Fort Benning is the Red Cross Gray Ladies group, which has 39 members.

These volunteer ladies assist in the care of patients at the U.S. Army Hospital, including letter writing, arranging ward parties, and accompanying ambulatory patients on tours and to social events. Gray Ladies also help entertain children in the hospital, while others work in clinics and at the Blood Donor Center.

The Fort Benning Little Theater group, organized in December, 1951, has produced six plays, including The Women, Ten Little Indians, Arsenal and Old Lace, and Frettcott Fever. More than 9,000 people have seen these productions, indicative of support wholeheartedly given group endeavors on the post.

Woman's Club Largest
Headed by Col. Robert G. Sheridan Jr. of San Antonio, Texas, the Little Theater is governed by a board of six members elected by the group. Membership is open to all military personnel and their dependents at Fort Benning.

With 65 members, the Woman's Club is the largest women's civic group active on the post. The club's officers include Mrs. G. S. Mealy, Jr., honorary president, Mrs. Carl F. Fritzsche, advisor to the board, and Mrs. Charles F. Mudgett, president.

The club's activities are divided into several categories. It sponsors special interest groups which meet weekly for such activities as art classes, bowling, Spanish lessons, golf, bridge, and flower arranging, and sewing classes.

The group also holds monthly meetings, which often feature nationally known artists and literary figures, and sponsors a nursery

A touch of Hawaii highlighted the recent mid-cycle celebration of the men training with 13th Officer Candidate Company in the U. S. Army.

Approximately 300 Vanda orchids and leis, flown to Fort Benning from Honolulu, heightened the party. They were gifts of the Hawaiian Visitors Bureau, Crosby's Flowers and Gifts, Honolulu, Miss Violet Coong, Honolulu, and Mrs. Mary Merrills, mother of Officer Candidate Clarence Merrills who arranged to have the orchids sent for the party. The orchids were given to the candidates' dancing partners as favors.

Capt. Wales Gets Gallantry Award

Capt. Perry W. Wales Instructor for the Staff Department has been presented the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in Korea. Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commander, made the presentation at a review parade at French Field.

As member of the 31st Infantry Regiment, Capt. Wales was leading a patrol up a steep hill when he encountered heavy enemy fire which forced the patrol to halt. When he noticed a platoon down artillery observer unable to reach a suitable position to direct artillery fire, he disregarded his own safety and moved to a position to direct the fire. According to the citation, although wounded he continued to direct the fire. He also has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal and Purple Heart.

PIO Radio Programs Slated In Honor of Anniversaries

The Infantry Center Public Information Office will offer radio listeners three programs this weekend commemorating anniversaries of the founding of the United States Army and Infantry, the Corps of Engineers, and the Quartermaster Corps.

On Saturday at 4:30 p.m. station WGBA in Columbus will present "Fort Benning Feature Page," honoring the Corps of Engineers on its 175th anniversary. This program will feature an interview with Colonel Richard F. Ebbs, post engineer.

Also on Saturday, at 6:15 p.m., station WRFL will present a presentation by student WPKX in Phenix City of "Fort Benning Reports," will honor the United States Army and Infantry, 100 years of service. On this program you will hear messages by General John R. Fogden, Chief of Army Field Forces, and Major General Guy S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commandant.

On Sunday at 6 p.m. a 15 minute presentation by student WPKX in Phenix City of "Fort Benning Reports," will honor the United States Army and Infantry, 100 years of service. On this program you will hear messages by General John R. Fogden, Chief of Army Field Forces, and Major General Guy S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commandant.

The shooting schedule of the feature-length movie, based on the World War II exploits of the famous 101st Airborne Division, was originally scheduled to get under way this month, but selection of a suitable ending has delayed production for several weeks.

Pre-filming conferences have been held by representatives of Edward Small Productions, Ralph E. Black, unit manager, Joseph Small, location manager, and Col. L. H. Schweiter, Army technical adviser, conferred with Infantry School and Infantry Center officials.

Major K. K. Koshan of Freeport, Ill., is Fort Benning project officer for the production. A former member of the 101st, he is now with headquarters of the third Battalion, 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

MPs To Aid Civilian Police
A new program for Fort Benning Military Police working in Columbus has been placed in operation. Under the new program, military policemen accompany city officers on roving and foot patrols from 8 p.m. until 2 a.m. Two MPs work with the city police in the Sixth Avenue and Eighth Street areas. Other military policemen will be assigned to the downtown area on designated nights.

The new program is designed to develop better understanding between the civil authorities and the military police. This will result in increased military personnel being turned over to the MPs. It is anticipated that the new program will prevent many soldiers from becoming involved in serious trouble, as military police will be able to correct many minor infractions committed by servicemen before they become serious.

Big Inning - Fitcher Art Previs, who was ailing from the final victory, grounded out, Earl Lawson, who was ailing from the final victory, grounded out, Walker, Larry Jones grounded out also with another run scoring. Second sacker Martin Brady reached first base after Rams Phil Phillips committed an error. Fredy stole second while Eddie Baldwin was looking Hetschmidt's serves over. Baldwin singled and Previs scored as Phillip committed another error. Previs caught on Wists was safe on first after Horace Cook stole home widely to second. Luther Mitchell's single sent Wats down to second base. Walker, who came to bat for the second time in the inning blasted a two bagger which scored Wats and Mitchell. Toone was walked, but both he and Walker piled a double steal. McClenny was a strikeout victim of Lloyd Brill, who relieved Hetschmidt during the big inning.

Benning Wins 4th Place In Track Meet

Fort Benning's Larry Golts and Willis Hames were the only two Infantry Center athletes who brought home the bacon in the 1953 Third Army Track and Field Meet which was held last week end at Fort McCallen, Ala.

Every year, hundreds of young fellows from every section of the United States turn out in full force to try their hand at baseball. Some of these youngsters are scouted by the major league baseball clubs, while others learned their fundamentals of the National Pastime, huring rocks at bottles or painted bulls-eyes on the sides of barns.

Usually on the recommendation from the scouts who follow the high school, college, semi-pro players around the nation, many are picked and sent to the parent team for evaluation. There, usually in the spring training camp, the top brass get a look-see at the potential rookie's ability and reputation to big leaguers. In most cases, this takes place under fire.

Quite a few of these youngsters get the break they are seeking and formed out to the rail and pepper leagues more seasoning. If a player is outstanding enough, he'll eventually work his way up through the minors and then get his crack at the big time league.

Also some ball players get their "minor league" experience playing service baseball. Many an Army, Navy, Air Force or Marine base has a baseball team and several players who have the capabilities and potential of making some big league club.

Here at Fort Benning, we have six league teams and each team has some players who have already played in the salt and pepper league and others who can make it.

On the School Brigade Rams team, third baseman Lloyd Brill was in the Inter-State League in 1952 with the Salisbury Club. Dick Myers hurled Class C ball. George Mottie is in the Pittsburgh Pirates farm system.

On the Combat Training Command team, Martin Frady was a member of the University of Florida baseball squad and was on a semi-pro All-Star team. Luther Mitchell was in the Pine Belt semi-pro league. Shorship Bill Toone was on the Yonkers, N.Y., All-Star club. Pitcher Gene Mitchell was with Shreveport of the Texas League in 1950.

On the 508th Airborne team, catcher Dick Gimpampa was the man in the mask for the New York Oaks. Outfielder Rocky Grimsley hit .360 in the Carolina League. Pitcher Fred Taylor got his baseball experience with American Legion clubs. So did first sacker Don Trumbo.

On the Special Troops Command team, Nap Fielders played for Chattanooga in the Negro Southern League during 1947 and there he had a .297. Catcher Ray Newton has four years of semi-pro ball with Nebraska and Iowa.

On last year's TIC championship ISD baseball team, Fred Aug was with the Chicago Cubs in 1950. Bob Holland was with the Quincy, Mass., semi-pro club. Jim Lewey led the mound in the Class III Carolina League for Winston Salem.

On the Lawson Air Force Base team, shortstop Chuck Olson played for Cadillac, Mich. Paul Sumann played for Pleasanton in Charlotte, N.C. Pitcher Charlie Urwinowich was with St. Antonio when he played four years of ball.

Everyone of these would-be major leaguers is a different personality and is handled as such. Each one has some marked ability in a definite direction that has led someone familiar with major league baseball to believe that he might make the grade.

More often than not, the fellows who are told to pack their bags and go home don't ask why they haven't been chosen. They seem to realize that they need more training and experience.

Every once in a while, though, they will ask "What is wrong with me?" That is a good question and deserves to be answered for the benefit of all the boys who aspire to the ranks of the called 400 players who comprise the major league teams.

Every manager or scout has his own set of standards, but all generally look for the same thing in a fellow who wants to follow the bus route in the majors. It is recognized and realized that the individual rookie will be perfect, or even outstanding, in every qualification. However, what a player lacks in one department, he may compensate for in another department. For example, a kid may be a poor fielder, but a terrific hitter.

It is the potential and willingness of a player to work hard towards conditioning and perfection that will carry him to the top. As in all sports, once a man's legs fall flat, he might start searching the way out of the stadium in the hometown newspaper.

EUCOM Champ Vies For 1953 Army Rifle Berth

A veteran of Army rifle competitions, Capt. John W. Kolb of Headquarters & Headquarters Company, 1st OC Regiment, will be among the best service sharpshooters June 28 when they vie for the Fort Benning rifle berth on the 1953 U. S. Army Rifle Team.

Kolb will be trying to duplicate his 1952 performance when he was named to the U. S. Army Rifle Squad which, in the national competition, won the National Team Trophy.

An old hand with weapons and the men who fire them in competition, Kolb has won 26 sharpshooter has completed in some 200 matches in the 14 year Army career. He is credited with forming and coaching the 28th Infantry Regiment rifle team which in 1949 topped 89 individual and team trophies.

In 1951, his team won the 1st Infantry Division and the EUCOM Big Bore titles and the EUCOM Small Bore titles.

Kolb holds the EUCOM record for small bore firing which he set in the 1951 matches at Nuremberg, Germany. Firing 285 out of a possible 300, he took top honors in last year's TIC rifle matches with a score of 590 out of 600.

In 1950, he joined the Army rifle team representing EUCOM which placed second in the British Suidia Rifle Competition. He has been awarded three Excellence in Competition Badges with Rifle Class and in 1952 was awarded the Distinguished Marksman Medal by the Department of the Army.

A former range officer with the TIC tournament, Kolb has a range named in his honor in Germany in 1950.

Water Ski Champion Now In OCS

Give Officer Candidate John W. Bell a pair of skis and he feels at home at the beach or Georgia's cays.

The 24-year-old candidate from Oyster, N. C., who is assigned to 20th OC Company, is equally adept at water and sand skiing which he claims are fast growing in popularity among athletes.

A member of the intercollegiate water ski team at Florida Southern College, Bell hoped to win the trophy in the annual tournament at Cypress Gardens, Winter Haven, Florida. He also participated in the Dixie Tournament at Cypress Gardens, in the Lakeland Tournament at Lakeland, Fla., and in the National Slalom Championship Meet, all sponsored by the American Water Ski Association.

Water skiing consists chiefly of three phases, he says, trick riding, slalom, and jumping. Trick riding involves intricate maneuvers in prescribed patterns and slalom the art of criss crossing a line of buoys at various angles. Jumping involves being drawn up on a ramp at about 30 miles per hour and landing on the skis.

The maneuvers are easy when you know how," he says, "but you should be able to swim before trying."

Candidate Bell says sand skiing is a by-product of the water sport. While at Florida Southern, he took first place in the International Sand-Ski Tournament.

A hill of about 450 feet is just about right, he says. "Get to the top of the hill, don skis, and take off," are the simple directions he gives about the sport. Bell acquired his skill with the sports from Glen Kirkpatrick, national slalom champion.

of the crowd who sounded off on the plate umpire's ability. Coach Guyton then notified both umpires, White and base ump Charlie Gaines, that the game was being finished under protest.

Bell ended the inning and the ball game by grounding out.

A reporter for the Bayonet circulated through the crowd, before, during and after the ball game and seems most of the baseball fans are down on White as an umpire.

The players have to have him call a game because he is incapable of calling outside pitches. Besides that, they say that he gets up and calls the pitch before the catcher or even has the ball in his mitt.

almost entirely responsible for American freedom.

Following the end of the American Revolution, the Army was quickly disbanded, with Congress authorizing a standing force of only 80 men. Twenty-five to guard the stores at Fort Pitt and 55 to guard the stores at West Point." The latter group became Battery D of the Fifth Field Artillery Battalion, the oldest active unit in the Army.

The U. S. Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802, but the War of 1812 found the American Army unprepared to wage war.

During the War of 1812 uniforms became fairly standardized, and one important improvement was made in ammunition. This was the invention of the percussion caps, which made possible in 1838 the first successful breech-loader.

The Mexican War of 1846 was the first engagement in which troops of the U. S. Army fought on foreign soil. It was the first time that officers trained at the Military Academy went into battle.

During the Mexican War now opening itself in a war of opposing ideals.

The Army and ammunition for both sides were mixed assortments, with at least six different models of the rifle alone being used by each side. Late in the war the fore-runner of the machine gun was used in battle at Charleston, S. C.

With the sinking of the battleship Maine, the United States found itself thrust into the Spanish-American War. But this time the United States discovered that it had a nation more unprepared than itself. Although the Spanish soldier did not meet much opposition, tropical diseases in Cuba did thousands dead from malaria and yellow fever.

During World War I, more than 4,000,000 entered the Army to fight in Europe. Under the command of Gen. John J. Pershing the American Expeditionary Force defeated the Germans at the battles of Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry, and the Marne.

An event of local interest during those years immediately following the war was the founding Oct. 1918, of Fort Benning, which was to become the home of the U. S. Infantry.

After the war, demobilization seriously crippled the Army's strength, which fell to approximately 100,000 men by 1920. When war broke out in Europe, the United States again started to mobilize.

The bombing of Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, revealed the unpreparedness of U. S. military forces, and while heroic men on Bataan fought to delay the Japanese march of conquest, the Army started its frantic mobilization effort.

ports which ultimately brought 10,000 into uniform.

The Army struck its first blow against the Germans in November, 1942, when American forces landed in North Africa.

Following North Africa, the Army struck the enemy in Italy to batter the enemy into defeat with the invasion of Sicily and island-hopping in Europe, Guadalcanal, Bougainville, New Guinea, and Iwo Jima.

Home of Infantry

Fort Benning, the home of the U. S. Infantry, grew to a peak strength of 100,000 men. It was the first Army knowledge and since that time has continued to maintain its place as the world's greatest training center.

Techniques and tactics have changed with the times and today

Gen. Maddox Leaves

Major Gen. H. G. Maddox, chief of staff of Army Field Forces at Fort Monroe, Va., arrived Monday for a three-day orientation on the Infantry School and left yesterday.

The orientation dealt primarily with weapons and tactics being used by the U. S. Infantry in Korea. Gen. Maddox's next assignment is in the Far East Command in the "Queen of Battles."

YOU CAN FLY

You can learn to fly by flying. The instructor demonstrates to you what to do. Fundamentals of flying are the glide; turn; climb; straight and level flight. To turn use side pressure on stick and rudder pedal at the same time in the same direction; then neutralize the stick, taking your foot off the rudder pedal at the same time. The airplane continues to turn. To return to level flight, use pressures in the opposite manner. To climb, increase the throttle and add a normal amount of back pressure on the stick. To lower the nose, gently add forward pressure. To glide, keep the nose below the level flight position with throttle closed. Fly straight and level by keeping stick and rudder neutral, wings and nose level with reference to the horizon. King's School of Aviation, Inc., Municipal Airport on Victory Drive, would like to have the opportunity to show you how easy it is to fly. The days are long and it's easy to take a lesson after duty hours. We are open 7 days weekly until dark. Call for Jack or Dean, telephone 2-4758. (Adv.)

A thief in Houston, Tex., stole a six-foot long concrete pipe from the city zoo. Now what kind of a snake in the grass would do that?

A surgeon claims stiff, straight military posture is wrong. He prescribes a crouching attitude of retreat. Did you ever see a hen-pecked husband do that?

Owners of a milk farm in the east protest work on a nearby road, say the vibration will frighten mama milk and they know that milk won't shrink!

The British Broadcasting Company reports Moscow Radio is playing outdated music. That ain't all that's outdated behind the Iron Curtain!

No Brutally "Naturally we found it difficult to get accustomed to our new surroundings, but we did not receive any rough treatment from the Communist soldiers," he said. "We were required to attend Communist classes every day where the party doctrine was preached. Our only news sources, surprising to me, were American Communist papers, the Daily Worker and The Peoples World.

"We Americans were allowed to write letters, but none of mine ever left the camp, nor did I receive any," King explained. "We did not receive any packages or visits from the Red Cross, either, since the Communists do not recognize the Red Cross."

In December 1951 Sgt. King was moved to Camp Five on the Yalu River near P'yak-tong, the main POW camp in North Korea. He remained there until August 1952 when he was moved to Camp Three, about 30 miles south. The 29-year old sergeant was in Camp Five, which was a main collecting point for all prisoners who were to be exchanged.

Diets Believe Exchange News "The Communists told us we were going to be exchanged, but we didn't know it was arranged at Freedom Village and were actually released to the UN," King said. "It was in the fall of 1952 that we were exchanged. We moved first, spending one night in Fuzhou and then to the Army Hospital. After a week there, I was flown to Los Angeles, and two weeks later I was in Russia, and I arrived home," he said.

"My parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd L. King of 1418 Chesaca Street, Orlando, could hardly believe it was true. They had received no word about me for two years," he added.

"I was two years I'll never forget," said King. "But I know that I'm lucky to be back alive. There are still many wounded GIs in Red prison camps who had things even rougher than I did. I can only thank God that I made it back."

CTC Pfc. Was POW At 15

BY CORPORAL BILLY J. MCCORMACK

A former German prisoner is now training with the 30th Regimental Combat Team. He is Private First Class Max Muller of Service Company.

Pfc. Muller, who was born in Chusur, Czechoslovakia, was made prisoner when he was 15 years old. He and his parents, a brother and other civilians and taken to Kamenec Podolska, a town in Russia, and put in a prison camp by Hun- garian troops.

Later that year while on detail Pfc. Muller made a break to get food for his parents. After ob- taining enough, he went back to the prison camp and was told that they had all been shot. He got back home somehow and lived with his grandmother.

In 1943 the Germans occupied Czechoslovakia and once more he was forced to live the life of a prisoner. In two months he had made another escape, as part of a group of around 200 men that had been sent out to work on the railroad. He went to Budapest, and a group of prisoners were taken to a store for five dollars a week.

Then the Hungarian police put him in the Budapest jail. Later he and a group of prisoners were hustled aboard a train and taken to Germany, where he was again imprisoned.

In the closing days of the war, Pfc. Muller was freed by the Russian army and was allowed to return home. But he found a Russian commissar occupied his home when he got there.

So, at the age of nineteen, Pfc. Muller went to the UNRRA and was assigned to a displaced persons camp. It was here that he met Bessie Adler, a girl from his home town. The next year she entered the United States on her uncle's affidavit, spoke to him about her friend, and the uncle signed an affidavit for Muller's entry. On August 17, 1946, Muller had his first look at the Statue of Liberty.

Mr. Muller married Bessie Adler on December 11, 1949, and they settled in Chicago. In June 1952 he was drafted into the United States Army and reported to Fort Sheridan, Ill., where he was processed and sent to Fort Sill, Okla. for basic training before being transferred to Fort Benning and the 30th Regimental Combat Team.

Fritzsche and the corporal attended an officers' candidate graduation at Main Post Theater and then went to a luncheon at the Main Officers Mess. There he was introduced to Lt. Gen. Carl Aivan C. Gillem, Jr., who had been the principal speaker at the graduation ceremony.

In keeping with the policy of giving the enlisted aide an overall picture of Infantry Center operations, he was taken on a guided tour of the central mess cutting plant on Main Post Wednesday afternoon. Following that tour, the group visited the Quartermaster's office.

Thursday afternoon Col. LeDuc, accompanied by Lt. Col. Kenneth Grimes, Infantry Center special services officer, inspected the varied activities of the Special Services Section. Included on their tour were visits to Service Club No. 1, Theater No. 11 in Harmony Church, The Infantry Center Read Camp in Sand Hill, and the Sand Hill golf course.

Friday afternoon Gen. Moloy, who had returned that morning, and Col. LeDuc toured the restoration inspecting the various construction projects.

The courtesy house tour of duty as enlisted aide ended June 6, a fond comment: "It was a wonderful experience, but the week went too fast."

Army Sends 68 Officers For Parley

Sixty-eight officers, ranking from first lieutenants to colonels, are at Fort Benning attending the five-day Infantry instructors' conference which started Monday. Representing service schools in 22 states, the conferees are receiving information on the latest Infantry developments and trends and weapons training and technique. Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander, welcomed the visitors to Fort Benning Tuesday and during the day, the instructors received an orientation on the Infantry School's operations and participated in a discussion of Infantry instructors' problems and recommendations. Other briefings included Infantry developments and trends and the techniques of employment of Infantry counterintelligence platoon.

Yesterday the conference scheduled consisted of presentations on staff subjects, such as trends and developments in organization, operations, and training, and on weapons training and technique. The instructors will receive addi- (See ARMY, Page 17)

Ceremonies Announced For Bridge

Ceremonies marking the official opening of the new Uptal Creek bridge will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander, will speak briefly before cutting the ribbon across the $300,000 bridge during a 15-minute ceremony. The span will be closed to traffic for about an hour.

A number of prominent military and civilian engineers, contractors, and civic officials have been invited to attend the official opening. They are Major Gen. Samuel G. Sturgis, Army chief of engineers; Gen. Charles E. Collins, engineer for the South Atlantic Division; Col. George K. Withers, Third Army engineer; Col. Edwin E. Wilkey, Savannah District engineer; Malcolm W. Forte, Muscogee County Commissioner; Major William J. Long, Muscogee County Commissioner; Gen. Charles E. Wright, Jr., president of Wright Construction Company, and Tom W. Good, chief engineer of the Wood County, Tenn., bridge.

The new bridge, which was opened to traffic two weeks ago, will be closed to traffic for one day. (See BRIDGE, Page 17)

Military Justice School Projected

Plans for a Staff Judge Advocate General School for Army Reserve to be held here Aug. 2-16 were made Thursday at a pre-conference.

Approximately 100 Reserve officers from throughout the Army are expected to attend the Reserve school, which will offer fresher courses, both basic and advanced, in military justice.

Colonel Wiley Selected New Chief Of Staff

The Eighth Army's former information officer in Korea has been named Infantry Center chief of staff, Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Fort Benning commander, announced Tuesday.

Col. Noble J. Wiley, Jr. of Jacksonville, Fla., now serving as chief of the Information Section at Army Field Force, Fort Moore, Ala., will succeed to the post being vacated by Col. Charles H. Owens of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, who returns July 31.

Col. Wiley is expected to report on or about July 15. A classmate of Gen. Meloy's at the United States Military Academy, from which he graduated in 1928, the new chief of staff went to Korea in September 1952 to head the Eighth Army's Information Section. While in Korea he handled many of the big news stories coming out of Eighth Army headquarters during the early days of the conflict. He also arranged press conferences for the visits to Korea of Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, and Gen. George Marshall, then U. S. Secretary of Defense.

Red Devil Wins Coveted Post As EM Aide To General Bolling

A Cornell University graduate, who by regular Army title of reconnaissance platoon sergeant, Hober has been commended on several occasions for his efficiency and soldierly qualities. He was lauded by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, in October 1951 when he graduated with top honors from the intelligence and reconnaissance course. The following year he was again commended by Lt. Sidney Slesnick for his part in a demonstration problem, assault of a fortified position.

The young soldier attended Bedford Rippon School, Phillips Exeter Academy, Millbrook School for Boys, and Cornell University, from which he graduated in 1951. At Cornell he was a member of Delta Psi and Kappa Beta Phi fraternities.

He has risen to his present rank in slightly more than two years. He was promoted to private first class in August 1951 and to sergeant the following October, to sergeant in September 1952 and to sergeant first class last March.

His wife is the former Betty Merrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Merrill of 26 Peachtree Ave., South Atlanta. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Huber of Barlow Street, Mt. Kisco.

Back, Maybe? Sgt. Crump Says Goodbye

Sergeant Jerry K. Crump of Ligolton, N. C., holder of the Medal of Honor, has bid adieu to his buddies at Fort Benning. He was discharged from the Army last Saturday.

While a member of Company L, Seventh Infantry Regiment of the Third Division in Korea, Sgt. Crump, then a corporal, saw a live hand grenade lobbed down in the middle of a group of wounded soldiers. He had four times exposed himself to fire in order to bring them to shelter.

Without a moment's hesitation, according to official records, Sgt. Crump threw himself upon the grenade and smothered it with his body, thus saving the lives of his buddies. (See MEDAL, Page 17)

Lieut. Newton Wins Citation

First Lt. John G. Newton of Andalusia, Ala., has been presented the Silver Star for his gallant action in Korea.

Lt. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Newton of Charlotte, N. C., was presented the medal by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander.

Now assigned to the Medical Holding Detachment, Lt. Newton was rewarded for his action July 24-25, 1952, while serving with Company B, Ninth Infantry Regiment, 3rd Air Division, in the vicinity of Chorwon, Korea.

Although wounded, he continued to direct supporting fire while leading his patrol in an orderly withdrawal under fire by the enemy from three sides, according to the citation.

The action took place as he was leading an 18-man combat patrol deep into enemy territory.

work and set up a distribution Armed Forces Radio Service agency for Stars and Stripes which has more than 200,000 U. S. troops in Korea.

He was the first senior public relations officer to visit the Munsan Base Camp at the beginning of the peace talks.

While on duty as a public information officer at the Munsan Base Camp, he was the public informed of the progress of the war. During the early stages of the fighting, he supervised the moving of the correspondents' billets and communications facilities six times and in such a manner that news stories continued to move out of Korea smoothly.

He left Korea in September 1951 and returned to the U. S. for assignment to Army Field Forces headquarters.

Here thrice before the veteran infantry officer has been at Fort Benning on three previous tours of duty. He came to the Infantry Center for the first time following his graduation from the Military Academy in 1928 for assignment with the 29th Infantry Regiment and later took the Infantry School's company officers' course, graduating in 1922.

Col. Wiley returned to the post in 1937 as a student in the school's tank course, which he completed in 1938. The new chief of staff, who has been awarded the Legion of Merit once by the Army and twice by the Navy, served with the Tank Destroyer Command at Camp Hood, Texas, during World War II before going to the South Pacific Base Command in June 1944, where he was on duty with the Operations Section. The following November he was appointed to the staff of the Fifth U. S. Fleet commander as Army liaison officer, a position he held until November 1946. It was for his work on the fleet commander's staff that the Navy twice awarded him the Legion of Merit.

Held Many Posts
Col. Wiley's post-World War II assignments took him to Japan for duty as deputy C-4 for logistics for the Eighth Army and later as that Army's special services officer.

He previously had been a member Army Field Forces Training Section and had commanded the Ninth Infantry Regiment at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Col. Wiley also is a graduate of the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and of the Army and Navy Staff College.

His decorations, in addition to the three Legions of Merit, include the Bronze Star Medal, Air Medal, and Commendation Ribbon.

He is married to the former Catherine Bates of Jacksonville, Fla. Col. and Mrs. Wiley have two children, Ann, a junior at Florida State College, and Noble J. H., a high school junior.

Some weeks ago the Columbus Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors visited Fort Benning for lunch and a tour of the post. After the lunch, which was held in the 50th ARTY area, the board members started off by bus to tour the post and witness several demonstrations that had been arranged for them.

The bus carrying the group of the distinguished Columbus visitors was about half way to the first demonstration area when it broke down, stranding the group along the road.

Several civilian and military vehicles that came by stopped and offered to carry the Fort Benning guests to the point of the first demonstration while efforts were being made to obtain a replacement for the crippled bus.

One of the persons who was courteous enough to offer the visitors a ride in his private automobile was a Fort Benning warrant officer.

Blood Urgently Needed

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — Colonel E. M. Page, Third Army surgeon, yesterday reasserted the vital need in the armed forces for whole blood collected through the national blood program.

Colonel Page, former Eighth Army surgeon under General James A. Van Fleet in Korea, said the recent discovery of Dextran and Serum Albumin, which are equal to blood plasma in prevention and treatment of the shock, require whole blood in their production.

"The continued support of the National Blood Program by the American people must be encouraged and maintained," he declared.

Chaplain's Corner Eternal Life Begins Now

By CHAPLAIN CAPT. CLARENCE M. WALTON

Many people speak of eternal life as though it were something that will begin in some future after this present life has been completed. But eternal life is to be eternal at all, must include the past, the present, and the future. We already are living to be eternal. Here and now, and that which we put into our living now will determine what our lives shall be like in the future.

Eternal Life is not a reward or a punishment for being good or bad, but it is a continuation of the quality of life we have been living in this world. If we have been kind and helpful and lovely in this world, we shall continue to be kind and helpful and lovely in the hereafter. If we have been mean and resentful and cruel in this world, we shall continue to be mean and resentful and cruel in the hereafter, and that will be hell.

When this earthly life is over, we simply take with us into the hereafter the qualities of character that we have developed here. We already are living to be eternal. Here and now, and that which we put into our living now will determine what our lives shall be like in the future.

Eternal Life is not a reward or a punishment for being good or bad, but it is a continuation of the quality of life we have been living in this world. If we have been kind and helpful and lovely

Gen. Bolling Announces-- New Regulations for R. A. Appointments

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — In an effort to provide more efficient processing of applications for appointments as Regular Army officers, a number of changes in Army regulations have been announced by Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general, Third Army.

Under the new plan, applicants will be required to: (1) Make a qualifying score on the Educational Requirement Test; (2) Distinguished graduates of Officer Candidate Schools must apply within one year of graduation; (3) Military students must be granted if such experience is acceptable to the Department of the Army.

Applicants under certain sections who do not have a Master's or a Doctor's degree, may request a waiver of such requirement provided they possess a Bachelor's degree and have at least three years of practical experience in the field of their technical training. Such waiver will be granted if such experience is acceptable to the Department of the Army.

Applicants for Women's Army Corps appointments will be similar to those of male applicants.

Here's Chance to Get That Mower!

The Fort Benning Exchange announces a sale of used exhaust fans, upholstered mops and chrome chairs, lawnmowers, lawnmowers, gas heaters, restaurant and office equipment, and many other items.

They will be available for inspection tomorrow in Building 1683 in the rear of the Red Cross Building, Main Post.

Sealed bids for individual items or entire lots will be accepted through next Monday. The terms of course, are cash. Military Personnel welcome to bid.

Post Puts 3-D To Its Own Use

Third Dimension (3-D) is being used on post by Infantrymen trying to get a new slant on their careers.

The Infantry School is calmly going about its business. Three-dimensional instruction with the result that tank gunners are riding on students' legs. This technique has been going on since the first of the year.

The Tank Weapons Committee of the Weapons Department, which is using prospecting gunners in a range finder, has found that a stereo projector utilizing polarized light and mounted stereo "pairs" of natural color terrain slides gives students the full effect of participating with the tank gunner in the ranging operation.

Post Potpourri

Transfers and new assignments are being personnel of the 50th Airborne Regimental Company, 1st Airborne Division, at Fort Benning this week.

Chief Warrant Officer Henry M. White, Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, has been reassigned to the Infantry Center, with duty as ROTC ration breakdown officer.

Sgt. John D. Guttery is the new first sergeant of Company E, Sgt. Guttery transferred to the 50th Airborne from the 8th Airborne, where he was an instructor in the jump group.

Sgt. John C. Guffitt has taken over duty as operations sergeant in Headquarters, Third Battalion, following his transfer from Company M.

Pfc. Darrell F. Branstetter, formerly with Company H, Airborne Battalion, has joined Company A, 50th Airborne, as a private.

Pvt. Edward Solover and Pfc. James Thomas have been assigned to Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, for duty with the mess.

Sgt. Wiley Watson is the new supply sergeant of Company K, A. Transferee from the Airborne Battalion, he served with the 5th Regiment in Korea, where he was wounded.

Sgt. Donald L. Brawe and Cpl. Arthur Radtchik have been transferred from Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, to Charlie Battery, 320th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, as first sergeant and communications chief, respectively.

Last week at the Separation Point, Special Troops Command, eleven men who were inducted, around the foundations of a tent together were discharged.

The eleven all took basic in Co. B, 94th Med. Tc. Bn., Camp Roberts, Calif. They spent the rest of their time in the 320th Airborne, 68th Infantry, 2d Infantry Division, 2d Army.

Another fix-up cleanup project for the School Brigade has been the installation of a concrete floor in the Officers' Mess.

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Holley, division engineer of the South Atlantic Division, was at Fort Benning last week to confer with Infantry Center officials.

Gen. Holley, who was also guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Columbus Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, inspected engineering projects under construction on post with Col. Richard F. Ebbs, post engineer.

Gen. Holley was accompanied by Col. Ellis E. Wilhoit, Savannah District Engineer, and Col. G. K. Withers, Third Army engineer.

The troopers of the 98th Airborne Regimental Combat Team who participated in the Armed Forces Week celebration were commended for their contribution to the success of the occasion.

The commendation is a letter from Colonel Jefferson R. Cronk, Armed Forces Week Project Officer at Fort Benning, said the exhibit displayed by members of the

THE RIGHT AND WRONG WAYS TO BEAT THE HEAT

HOT AND DISGUSTED SOLDIER? ... They do say things mean and clean and in order day by day. Summer and all, than to let them pile up heater-skeller and have to spend all night cleaning up for an inspection?

CLEAN UP TIME

When the word came around to keep things clean, including the companies outside areas, the 87th Chemical Smoke Generator Company of Combat Training Center has gone all out to comply with that order. Here Pfc. Milton Ploft and Pvt. Herbert Thomas are cleaning from around the shrubs in the company.

BREAK TIME

At a recent dance given by the Elks Club in Columbus finds officer candidates and their partners relaxing with refreshments. The Elks Club holds a monthly dance for Fort Benning personnel at their home in Columbus.

Withers, Third Army engineer, your command and the appearance and conduct when they paraded, was outstanding. The window display and the sign equipment in Columbus were excellent and reflected the many hours of hard work by the officers and men of your organization.

It is with pleasure that I commend to all members of your command who were responsible for making Armed Forces Week a success.

NEW EXECUTIVE OFFICER... Lieutenant Colonel Harry M. Smith has replaced Lieutenant Colonel Willis J. Adams as executive officer of the School Brigade. Colonel Smith served in the European Theater from April 1942 to December 1945 and in the Far East Command from November 1951 to April 1952. He has been awarded the Silver Star with Oak-Leaf Cluster and the Bronze Star with "V" device and three Oak-Leaf Clusters. His predecessor is on overseas orders.

Nature's Havoc Put to Route By Clean-Up in 508th Area

The corners of all sidewalk junctions and intersections have white picket fences. Earlier this spring 200th Tom Sawyers' got out buckets of whitewash and painted not only the fences but all building foundations, trees and curbsides.

Other 200th Clean-up projects include a new Command Post identification sign with the battalion insignia painted on a background of artillery red and yellow. The sign and signs for each battery were designed by Corporal Donald Williams of Chicago, Ill. Cpl. Williams also designed a new sign featuring crossed cannons and parachutes wings, which is at the entrance to the artillery area.

And on top of artillery hill a unit sign stands, commemorating the active service of the 200th in two World Wars.

A former eyecore, Marshal Bowl parade field, was dusty and rutted until the area was graded and planted with grass. It is like a green carpet, and an attraction to visitors to the 508th area.

A final attack was directed upon the wooded areas adjoining the artillery area, where rubbish and blown-down trees met the visiting eye. Under the direction of CWO Frederick Fitzgerald, battalion adjutant, the area was cleared and the rubbish thoroughly whipped.

Professionals Enliven USAH With Stage Show

A bit of nightclub atmosphere drifted through the U. S. Army Hospital last Friday. The "Four Satans and an Angel" group donated their services for an afternoon of pleasurable listening and entertainment groups to perform for the patients in the future.
The group was led by Johnny Raymond and although the performance took place in the outside patio of the Hospital, the staff of the Hospital radio station arranged to have the music piped to the bed patients.
Vocal selections were given by Mr. Raymond and Miss Jackie Ray, who also plays the bass. Freddie Bernard, who also gave impersonations of Harry Halloway.

and Al Johnson served as master of ceremonies.
Pfc. Tommy Williams and Pfc. Tommie Williams were in charge of the group. Efforts are being made to secure other entertainment groups to perform for the patients in the future.

Twins Make Buddy Team Pay Returns

The map reading committee of the School Detachment recently received a "pair" of new personnel, twin brothers, Corporals Harry and Larry Lehman, from Valdosta, Ga.

On August 16, 1951, the Lehman brothers enlisted in the Army together and have remained together ever since. After basic training they were sent to the Far East Command and both were in combat on Korean battlefields.

They wear the Korean Campaign ribbon, the Korean Presidential Citation, and the Purple Heart. After 13 months in Korea, they returned to the States last April.

While in high school, Harry and Larry formed the pitcher-catcher combination for the Habira high school. They also played together

S-2, ABN. BN., 'SUPERIOR'

As a result of the Third Army Inspection held last January, WO2 Jerome Perlman, head of the S-2 Section at Airborne Battalion Headquarters, added a second letter of commendation from Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, to his personal file.
For the second year in a row Mr. Perlman received a Superior rating for the work of his section.
Last year Mr. Perlman received a letter of commendation from Major Gen. William A. Beidelind, then acting commandant of the Third Army.

Traffic Violations

During the period June 5 to 12 three post personnel had their driving privileges suspended for a period of 30 days. There were no revocations.
Pvt. James Cannon, Company K 39th Infantry Regiment, had his license suspended for speeding on the reservation.
A 30-day suspension was given Sgt. Robert Johnson, Co Battery, 31st Field Artillery Battalion, for speeding.
Sic. Lois A. Baker, 18th Transportation Truck Company, had his driving privileges suspended for 30 days for driving 20 MPH above the speed limit.

Six Raise Strength

The strength of the 7th Engineer Battalion has been increased by the arrival of one officer and five enlisted men.
The new members are 2d Lt. Ernest M. Norworthy Jr., assigned to the 40th Engineer Company; Sic. Kenneth K. Hill, Sgt. Wayne Gray, Cpl. Julian E. Pasmore, Pvt. B. Davidson, and Pfc. William S. Kimbrough, who were assigned to Headquarters & Service Company.
In the United States the average diamond sold for an engagement ring weighs one fifth of a carat.

Wives Invade Cadre Club

Americana magazines are loaded with articles telling the public that American women rule the roost. Airborne soldiers have always been proud of the fact that their wives, sotto voce, perhaps, "I'm Airborne and I'm the boss in the house."
We don't know if anybody really believed that boast but we had no way of proving or disproving it.
What we did know, however, was that Airborne soldiers had a cadre club on post when they could meet and have good times and vent to their hearts content—away from the female influence.
Things changed last week in the Airborne Cadre Club.
The male members invited their wives to hand together and become an auxiliary. And, lo and behold, the wives accepted.
Then one afternoon recently they elected officers and decided to "help promote the Airborne Cadre Club, increase its efficiency, and straighten it out." In addition they propose to support any charity drive undertaken by the Airborne Battalion, by holding bazaars and dances.
Elected to office were Mrs. Mildred King, president; Mrs. Marion Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Loraine Dombrowski, secretary, and Mrs. Zelda Masters, treasurer.

Red Devil Record? Makes Lieut. In Under 3 Yrs.

Master Sergeant Antonio A. Cataldi, of the 59th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, has received his commission as Second Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve.
The 22-year-old sergeant is the First Sergeant of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, and one of the youngest First Sergeants at Fort Benning.
The Red Devil non-commissioned officer was encouraged to apply for his commission last January by his company commander, Captain William F. Johnson.
Although Sgt. Cataldi is assigned to Fort Meade, Md., with the 59th AR, he will remain First Sergeant of Headquarters and Headquarters Company until notified by the Reserve that he is to report to active duty.
Sgt. Cataldi's rapid rise in rank began November 1, 1950, as a private, and after going through the enlisted grades in less than 12 months, he was promoted to Master Sergeant, November 17, 1951.

Scribes Backing 'Sweetheart of 9th'

Highlighted by a contest of name, "The Sweetheart of the Ninth," Candidate Guther plans to distribute Mimeographed biographical forms for the candidates to fill out and to have a company photo contest and a beauty contest that will decide who will be "The Sweetheart for the Ninth."
Other members of the staff are demobilized 300th, business manager; Harold Hoffman, photo editor; Loring Eatem, art director; and Albee Sproul, copy editor.
Holywell in North Wales is named after St. Winifred's Well, which has long been a shrine for pilgrims.

YOU'LL "GET HOME" FASTER
BY THE NUMBERS

It's always a treat to "get home"—whether by plane, train or telephone. And usually, the faster the better.
That's why it's helpful to call by number when you make your visit by Long Distance telephone. When you give the operator the out-of-town number, she doesn't have to consult "Information" in the book you're calling and you'll "get home" faster.
You'll find out-of-town directories for frequent callers listed at each telephone center. These centers are located at the Main Post, Sand Hill and Memorial Church areas.
And remember, it's better for you to call the toll-free book home instead of their calling you, since you may be hard to locate. Charges can be reversed.

Post Girds For Dad Of Year

A "close shave" in the world of young Johnny Hutson as he here works on his father, Sgt. John T. Hutson, contestant from Headquarters and Service Company, Airborne Battalion, describes exactly the state of the Dad of the Year contest being sponsored on the Service Club No. 1, according to latest reports.

Every unit on post is gleaming its ranks for the best qualified Dad. Each major unit is expected to present at least five or six names of enlisted men only to Miss Helen Baker, director of Service Club No. 1. These will then be presented to a board of judges consisting of four members of the Enlisted Men's Council of the Service Club and four commissioned officers from the Dad's Club on post, which is working in conjunction with the service club.

The winner and "champion Fort Benning poppa" will be presented with a golden chain and a trophy in the lobby of Theater No. 1 at a Service Club No. 1 Open House on Father's Day. Entertainment at the Open House in honor of the Post's "Dad of the Year" will be provided by ten acts performed by Best Barracks and members of Mrs. Alexander's group. Master of ceremonies for the show will be Don Goldstone of Company G of the Airborne Battalion, a member of the Enlisted Men's Council.

RIGHT TO WIN Eight enlisted men have been assigned to the 7th Engineer Combat Battalion. They are Sergeant Melvin L. Messer, Corporals Sammie L. Swanson, Horace Thomas Jr., Tommy B. Wiggins, Norbert Jenkins, and Wilton F. Mann and Private First Class Leon Moore. Star for outstanding leadership and Private Emmett E. Gogorth.

WARMIN' THE REIN

FOUR EM TO SV. CO. Corporal Willie J. Paschall, Corporal Fred Mack, Private David B. Thomason, and Private Nicko D. Borruel, have been assigned to Service Company, 30th Regimental Combat Team.

It's a little early in the season to be thinking about "Rookie of the Year" awards, but an unusually large crop of Major League newcomers have already established themselves as potential candidates for the selections.

Pitchers again appear to have the inside track. Both leagues boast at least ten fledgling crossers who seem to have made the grade. Last year's rookie laurels went to hurlers Joe Black of the Dodgers and Harry Byrd of the Athletics.

Among the most heralded of AL freshmen are hurlers Alva "No Hit" Holloman (Browns), John Dixon (Senators), Al Aber (Inds.), group Mill Bolling, Gene Stephens and Tom Umpshett (Red Sox), Harvey Kump (Tigers), Don Bollweg and Bill Reema (Yankees), Bill Hunter (Browns), ex-Service man Jim Lemon (Indians) and Frank Carswell of the Tigers, and you have the top candidates for the year's outstanding rookie selection.

Holloman and Kump have been considered by many baseball officials as the leading AL newcomers to date. Holloman returned the season's first no-hitter when he blanked the A's 6-0. Reema, a 22-year-old player from the Class B league, has supplied much of Detroit's offensive power while turning in a creditable performance around the shortstop.

The National League has some outstanding new pitching talent in Johnny Podres (Dodgers), Bob Holtz (Braves), Dick Cole and Carl Bernier (Pirates), and Ray Jablonski and Rip Repulski of the St. Louis Cards.

Bob Buhl's great mound showing along with the clutch hitting of Rip Repulski and the all-around play of Junior Gilliam have given these newcomers a jump in the race for Service Club rookie honors.

Officers

"His frequent inspection of forward elements to gain first hand information on troop welfare and combat effectiveness, extensive studies relevant to defensive capabilities and adaption of artillery and mortar support, and effective liaison with Turkish contingents and other combat units enhanced unification of effort and esprit de corps, contributing significantly to tactical successes of the 25th Infantry Division," it added.

"Gen. Fritzsche's exemplary achievements and devotion to duty furthered the United Nations' first armed campaign for world peace, reflecting great credit upon himself and upholding the esteemed traditions of the military service," the citation continued.

Two others cited Col. Lynch, while serving as commander of the Ninth Infantry Regiment, Second Division, from July 13, to Dec. 28, 1951, distinguished himself by demonstrating outstanding leadership and a comprehensive knowledge of military science and tactics, according to the Legion of Merit citation.

"Personally supervising the tactical deployment of his men, he frequently visited front line positions under heavy enemy fire, developing the confidence and fighting spirit of the troops," the citation continued.

"His exceptional technical proficiency, organizational ability and consistently sound judgement throughout the campaigns of Bloody Ridge, Heartbreak Ridge and the Mundungul Valley were reflected in the operational skill and esprit de corps of the command," it stated.

Col. Zide served from Nov. 13, 1951 to Jan. 24, 1953, as a senior advisor to the 16th Regiment, Eighth Division of the 8th Army, senior advisor of the Sonam Command and assistant senior advisor and senior advisor to the Southern Security Command in Korea.

"He displayed outstanding administrative ability and through knowledge of military science and tactics in assisting his Korean counterpart during extensive anti-guerrilla operations," the citation stated.

"His diplomatic liaison with Korean officers and superior performance of advisory duties contributed significantly to neutralization of guerrilla and bandit activities in South Korea, reflecting credit upon himself and the military service," according to the citation.

Rough, Tough Coon Caught

Sgt. Leroy Ratzlaff of Company F, Infantry School Detachment, doesn't usually go in for big game hunting, but the other day he latched onto a "critter" behind French Field that was almost more than he could handle.

The "critter" is a ring tailed raccoon which Ratzlaff has named Mickey Spillane because he's so "doggone tough and ornery."

Company F, Infantry School Detachment, started climbing up after him. About the time Ratzlaff was halfway up the tree the coon took short cut to the ground and headed for the tall grass.

Ratzlaff got out of the tree and headed him off just in time. Catching the coon by the maps of the neck and watching out for his sharp teeth, he carried the animal off home.

WAC Softballers Win

Fort Benning's WAC Company softballers defeated the Fort M. Pherson WACs in Atlanta last week by the score of 16-8.

The girls play their next game Sunday afternoon against the Fort M. Pherson Lady Marines. The game is set for WAC Field, Main Post.

Swim, Tennis Meet Dates Announced

Dates for the 1953 Infantry Center Swimming and Tennis Tournaments have been set at Fort Benning.

With National AAU Swimming Rules prevailing, the swimming meet will be held at the Sand Hill Pool, July 23-24, and the tennis tournament set for July 15-18 on the second court.

All male military personnel at Fort Benning are eligible to participate in events of the swimming meet. The events, that are scheduled by Special Services, are 500 yard medley relay, 200 yard free style, 50 yard free style, one meter diving, 100 yard backstroke, 100 yard free style, 100 yard breast stroke, 400 yard free style, three meter diving, 150 yard individual medley, and 400 yard free style relay.

Under the diving competition, required dives on the one meter board are the running front dive and the running half gainer. Four optional dives are allowed. On the three meter board, the same rules apply except that three optional dives are allowed.

A first place victory will be worth five points, while second place is worth three points and one point is awarded for third place.

The most capable individuals in each event will be selected by the coaches to represent Fort Benning in the Third Army Swimming and Diving Meet which will be held at Camp Gordon, Ga., Aug. 28.

A team apiece from the Infantry School Detachment, First O. C. Regiment, First Student Regiment, Second Student Regiment, Special Troops Command, CTC, FMG, South Airborne, and Lawson TFC Tennis Matches.

A team will consist of six players and each unit may enter players in singles competition and two doubles teams for the competition. A player, entered in the singles, will be allowed to enter the doubles.

The official rules of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. will govern the play and the tournament is the single elimination type. An official match will consist of the best four of seven games with championship matches being six of eleven.

One point will be awarded for the tall grass.

Under the diving competition, required dives on the one meter board are the running front dive and the running half gainer. Four optional dives are allowed. On the three meter board, the same rules apply except that three optional dives are allowed.

Operation 'Traffic' Continues on Post

An extensive safety program, known as "Operation Traffic," will continue on Post until September 1, according to Norman Evans, Infantry Center safety director.

During the first four months of the year eight Fort Benning personnel were killed in private vehicles and 63 were seriously injured.

The safety program is in line with Third Army's safety program, ordered by the Third Army commander.

All unit commanders at Fort Benning have announced the program to the men of their respective commands. Training films, exhibits, and other materials are available to them.

Each traffic violation and accident is to be fully investigated. Disciplinary action will be taken and driving privileges revoked if the case warrants.

Persons found guilty of violations will be required to attend a

Medal of Honor to PFC Richard C. Wilson
MAY TIMES HE LEFT COVERED POSITIONS TO AID WOUNDED SOLDIERS AND TO REPAIR WEAPONS. WHEN HIS UNIT WAS ORDERED TO MOVE, HE REMEMBERED THE MAN WHO WAS WOUNDED, UNARMED, AND LEFT HIM TO BE TAKEN CARE OF BY THE ENEMY. PFC WILSON'S HEROIC DEEDS WERE RECORDED BY THE ARMY AND HE WAS AWARDED THE MEDAL OF HONOR.

Hq., 1st Trans. Bn., Wins 'Clean-Up'

Special Troop Command "Best Grounds and Area" award for May was presented to Headquarters Company, 1st Transportation Battalion, in a recent ceremony at Command Headquarters. Since the company is quartered in Third Main Post Courtel Area, most of their clean-up effort has to be directed toward the maintenance of these permanent buildings and the general beautification of the grounds. Great pains have been taken in improving the company's grass areas. Seed is continually being planted and the men make a special effort to properly cut the grass and keep the ground clear of weeds. A bill factor in the Headquarters Company's "win" has been the genuine pride of the men have for their company area.

Chaplain Selected For Infantry ROTC
Chaplain (Major) Cecil R. Hickman of Jackson, Tenn., has been appointed chaplain for the 1952 Infantry ROTC camp at Fort Benning.

Chaplain Hickman, who returned to active duty June 2, had served as minister of the First Christian Church in Jackson since 1946. During World War II he was a chaplain with the 26th Armored Division in Europe.

Gen. Fritzsche Inspects Camp

Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, the Infantry School's assistant commander, inspected the Ranger Department's mountain training camp at Wahogee, Ga., recently. It was Gen. Fritzsche's first trip to the north Georgia base since he became assistant commander. He was accompanied by Col. R. F. Ebbes, post engineer, and Major Fred W. Herres of the Operations Office supply and budget section. Gen. Fritzsche inspected the 22 buildings at the new camp, which opened in February. Rangers formerly took mountain training at Dahlonega, Ga., 18 miles from the present camp.

Deputy Commander Of Third Army Pays Post Visit

Major Gen. Charles D. W. Canham, Third Army deputy commander, was at Fort Benning Monday to inspect training activities. Gen. Canham inspected the Third Army Food Service School and received a briefing on the ROTC encampment scheduled at Fort Benning June 20-July 31.

2,187 Cadets Here For Training

Training camp in constant Monday morning for the 2,187 cadets attending the 1953 Infantry ROTC summer camp at Fort Benning. Official opening ceremonies were held at Training Field No. 7 when Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., infantry center commander and camp commandant, welcomed the cadets.

Administrative processing for the cadets, representing 71 colleges and universities in the Second, Third, Fourth and part of the Fifth Army areas and Puerto Rico, were completed Sunday afternoon and administrative crews worked around the clock to register the students who reported in over the weekend.

During their six-week encampment in the south section of Harmony Church, the cadets will receive instruction and practice in individual and crew-served weapons, take part in field exercises and tactical demonstrations by Infantry School troops.

Father Of 4 Named In TIC Contest

Father's Day, 1953, will be long remembered by M-Sgt. Frank J. Hill of the 77th Troop Carrier Squadron at Lawson Air Force Base. Not only did this day bring M-Sgt. Hill the recognition due all fathers on "their" day, but he was awarded an extra tribute.

In the post-wide competition staged by the Infantry Center's Service Club No. 1 and Fort Benning's "Dad's" Club, Hill was chosen the most outstanding father on the post, and crowned the "Dad of the Year" at special ceremonies at the Service Club.

The committee which chose M-Sgt. Hill was composed of four representatives of Dad's Club and four representatives of the Infantry Center's Council of Service Club No. 1.

Selection of the winning candidate was based on his participation in post, religious and community activities and his Army record. M-Sgt. Hill has been in the Air Force twelve years, six of which (See DAD, Page 15)

Needle, Stuck In Bone, Feeds Blood Thru Body

A new method of blood transfusion has been demonstrated to Army doctors at Fort Benning by Dr. Henry Turkel of Detroit. He spent 20 years perfecting an instrument for injecting blood directly into the bone marrow, a system which could save many lives during a disaster such as an atomic bombing.

Dr. Turkel, consultant for the Education and Training Division, Surgeon General's Office of the U.S. Army and Air Force, demonstrated the transfusion method to 17 doctors who are now ready to put it to use when and if needed.

Explaining how marrow infusion, Dr. Turkel said there are small blood vessels in the bone which carry the blood immediately into general circulation.

It is an alternate procedure to be used when transfusion of blood or fluids into the veins may be impractical or impossible," he said.

The bone infusion is of greater use in cases of severe burns, shock due to hemorrhage, circulatory collapse, or obesity. In these cases, the superficial veins are not accessible to puncture. Dr. Turkel told the Fort Benning doctors.

The needle is injected usually in the breast, hip or leg bones. It is more stable for repeated infusions, and the patient has greater freedom of movement he exercises. (See BLOOD, Page 12)

508th Sergeant Chosen As General's EM Aide

As aide to Gen. Meloy, Sgt. Kavanaugh will accompany the commanding general on inspection trips and to meetings and special (See AIDE, Page 15)

Sgt. Morton Kavanaugh, Jr., of Ruston, La., and the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team will serve as aide to Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr. for one week, beginning June 22. For one week, Kavanaugh is the second 508th trooper to win honors this month as a general's aide. SFC Arthur A. Huber of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., was chosen aide last week to Lt. Gen. A. B. Bolling, Third Army commander, and is now on his two-week tour of duty at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Independence Day Program Set By Fathers

The Fort Benning Dad's Club, in conjunction with several Infantry Center units, will sponsor an Independence Day program at Frunch Field from 6 to 9 p.m. July 4.

The holiday celebration, to which the public is invited, will include a gigantic fireworks display, a concert by the 22nd Army Band, a drill team performance by the Special Services Section and an Indian dance by the Order of the Arrow of the Columbia Boy Scouts.

A Junior Jump tower also is being constructed by Fort Benning's 80th Airborne Regimental Combat Team and the military train from Idle Hour Park to Phenix City will be on hand for rides. The Soldiers Show will feature both Hawaiian and hillbilly music. Dad's club officials announced. Bleachers will be available, ample parking space will be provided. Refreshment stands also will be in operation.

508th Stages Mass Jump

A mass parachute jump by more than 500 men, one of the largest evening airborne operations held at Fort Benning in the past year, was held Thursday night by the 508th Airborne Regimental C o m b a t Team.

This is the second of a series of mass night jumps by battalion size groups of paratroopers from the 508th.

Twenty-seven planes from the 46th Troop Carrier Wing from Lawson Air Force Base Transport.

Two officers have been assigned to Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 30th Regimental Combat Team. They are WOLF George C. Britton, who will take over as unit administrator and Sergeant Arthur Anderson, who is to be the new 1st Sergeant.

Judo Experts Floor Writer
Judo-it's not for me!
But it's for Corporal Walter Valee and his associate, Master Sergeant Wayne Coulter, both of whom are National Guards assigned to the 107th Company (Rangers) Second Student Regiment.
Both graduates of Tamaras School of Judo, Chicago, Ill., they possess the degree of "Brown Belt," second class. Having trained for more than three years under the famous Judo expert, both are earnestly trying to win the coveted "Black Belt," the highest degree.
Recently they gave a demonstration of various methods of attack and self-protection to the officers and men of their regiment. When requesting volunteers for various demonstrations they had difficulty in obtaining any, tho this reporter failed to understand why. However, after offering my services I readily understood the reason, as I was helped forthwith from the ground into a chair—Time, 9:00!
The service club in Harmony Church and Sand Hill have used Valee and Coulter for demonstrations, and it may be said, the boys are more than willing to take on all comers in this competitive sport.

Display Urges Men To Use Supplies Wisely

1st OCs Catch Up In Clean-Up Drive

As part of the post-wide clean-up campaign, men of the First Officer Candidate Regiment's utility and maintenance shop have been unusually busy especially because of the debris left by recent wind storms.

According to 1st Lt. Warren E. Osburn, utilities and maintenance officer for the regiment, the 7th Engineer Battalion went to work cutting the downed trees and hauling them away. Men from the Officer Candidates' companies also aided in clearing the Regimental area of the storm's debris.

Lieutenant Osburn said he is at least catching up and added that as far as he is concerned, "the next storm can pass the First Officer Candidate Regiment."

Display Cites Penny's Power

In line with the Army's continuous program of cost consciousness and supply economy, Special Troops Command, through the efforts of the 52nd CIC Detachment, recently prepared a display shown above.

The exhibit stresses the value of using wisely the small, cost items of Quartermaster issue — items like typing paper, pencils, paper clips, and general office supplies.

The theme is based on the fact that men have created great forests while popularizing the merchantable concept of the "five-and-ten cent store."

Object of the display is to assist the money-worshiping individual in the fact that although the cost of the item is small, the total cost to the Army is a "fortune."

Dad's Club Sponsors Classes For K-9 Pets

A class to teach children how to train their dogs is being held each Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Blue Field under the sponsorship of the Fort Benning Dad's Club.

The hour-long sessions, conducted by the Fort Benning K-9 Club, are for children seven years and older. All breeds of dogs may attend the classes but must be on a leash.

The children are taught to make their dogs respond to such commands as "sit," "come out" and several other disciplinary commands.

Trainers for the sessions are Capt. Henry Berendsen, president of the K-9 Club, and Major E. D. Baker, both of the School Brigade, and Major R. H. Hitchcock of the Infantry School's Tactical Department.

They are qualified trainers and use their own dogs for demonstration purposes.

"It will take a child approximately 15 to 20 minutes a day for six weeks to teach his dog the fundamental commands," Major Hitchcock said.

He added that the classes, which are free, are only to instruct the children in the method of teaching their dogs to obey and that the children must spend at least 15 minutes a day for the dog to respond to training.

Col. Wood Leaves For New PM Job

Lt. Col. Alonzo E. Wood of Lynchburg, Va., Infantry Center provost marshal, leaves Fort Benning in July to assume duties as provost marshal of the Signal Center at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Col. Wood reports to the New Jersey post July 15.

He will be replaced at Fort Benning by Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald who is scheduled to arrive at The Infantry Center today from Korea.

Col. Wood, who became Fort Benning provost marshal July 22, 1952, was an enlisted man during World War I and fought in France from 1917 to 1918 with the American Expeditionary Force.

He received a second commission as a captain when he reentered the Army in 1942. He has served two tours of duty in Europe, one during World War II and the other from 1947 to 1952.

From November, 1950, to May, 1952, Col. Wood commanded the 728th Military Police Battalion of the Eighth Army in Korea.

Col. Wood, who has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal in the name of Mrs. Mary E. Wood of Lynchburg.

He is married to the former Margie Irene Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Murray at Lynchburg, Col. and Mrs. Wood have two sons, Alonzo, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and Kenneth of Richmond, Va.

508th Platoon Cited By TIC

A platoon of troopers from Baker Company of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team was cited for "a superior performance on a testing operation for Army Field Force Board Number 8704."

The citation noted that "The nature of the work was such that it required unusual adaptability on the part of the officers and non-commissioned officers who participated as leaders in these positions of leadership were: Master Sergeant Chester O. Street, platoon sergeant; James A. Gorman, Lee J. Guikry, Sergeants First Class Edward H. Thurman and Lawrence A. Janikowski."

The commendation submitted by the Weapons Department of the Infantry Center at Fort Benning further stated "The attitude, appearance, and performance of the platoon itself was typical of those found throughout the Airborne Regiment."

The commendation was approved by Lt. Col. Leonard Garrett, Secretary of the Infantry School.

Comedy Team Entertains Bed Patients

In keeping with U S A H policy of making the patient's stay as pleasant as possible another professional group donated their talents to the Red Cross.

Gene Gory, a comedy team gave several performances to both ambulatory and bed patients. An hour long program was given in the Red Cross Recreation Hall. It was presented along with the weekly coffee hour given for the patients by the Red Cross.

Miss Hazel Turnage of the Red Cross Staff assisted with piano accompaniment.

Gene Gory, a very versatile violinist, played many requests of a popular and semi-classical type. He and his wife, Roberta, also performed to several comedy routines. Mrs. Gory's pet skunk, Shalamar, also helped to entertain the proceedings of the show.

Refreshments served at the Coffee Hour were provided by the Tilling-Hurst Home Demonstration Club and the wives of the medical officers at USAR. The patients were served by The Gray Ladies.

Pfc. Tommie Williams of Armed Forces Radio Station, OFFER provided the arrangements for the performance.

Attractiveness Is ISD Aim In Cleanup

The Infantry School Detachment has launched an ambitious clean-up campaign to make its area as attractive as any on the post.

The Airborne Battalion Company is painting the curbing around its area as well as garbage racks and garbage cans. Troops of that unit also are adding more green cans and trash cans and painting the old ones, in addition to spraying the shrubbery and giving grassy areas a fine trim.

Company F has added new brightness to the offices of the company commander and executive officer by using fresh coats of paint. The Day Room boasts new curtains on the windows, and the plane has had a complete face-lift, including a repainting and new toys. The detachment's Company G has had new installed in its shower room.

Army Mailmen Must Learn Tricks

One of the more unusual units of Special Troops Command is the 497th Army Postal Unit. Unusual because this five-man contingent handles any mail besides their own.

The main job of the detachment is the training of needed Army postal personnel for overseas replacement. To do this the unit conducts a school in which qualified people are taught regulations and methods of handling mail, whether it's overseas in combat zones or just away from a good old U. S. Post Office.

The question often is asked, "Why do we have to send a mail man to school?" The answer is, "even a mail man must find better ways to do his job and know the newest tricks of his trade. And the only place he can find out" about these trade changes is in school. With new postal regulations, methods, and directives coming along at all times, even the civilian mail handler finds it valuable to taken an occasional refresher course. The same holds true for the Army mail clerk.

The story of the 497th APU goes back to 1948 when the unit was organized. At that time it was known as the 172nd Army Postal Unit. In September 1947, the 497th was deactivated and affiliated with the U. S. Post Office at Soghanaw.

Mich. As a reserve component it was kept in a state of readiness on call to active duty at any time. Reactivated again on September 3, 1950, the 497th reported to Fort Benning a few days later. Later in 1952, in conjunction with its practical classwork, the unit participated in exercise Long Horn near Fort Hood, Texas. During the maneuvers, the 497th provided complete postal service for nearly 10,000 troops.

For this work during the maneuvers the unit received another commendation, this time from the postmaster general in Washington.

Mercury
now brings you

POWER STEERING

3 times easier handling Whenever more than finger-tip pressure is needed on the wheel, new Mercury power steering goes to work . . . removes the strain from parking and turning yet doesn't sacrifice that safe "feel of the road."

POWER BRAKES

50% easier stopping An ounce of toe pressure is multiplied hydraulically into pounds of braking power. Your foot pivots effortlessly from accelerator to the closer, lower suspended brake pedal, giving faster, smoother stops.

4-way POWER SEAT

MOVES up and down, too New first-includes 4-way power seat gives you the position from which you can see the best, drive the easiest. Handy for raising you out of the sun's glare and shifting your position for more relaxation.

Power steering, power brakes, 4-way power seat, white side-wall tires and full-die hubcaps optional at extra cost.

Here are three big reasons for adding Mercury to your "must" list to see and try.

For Mercury's far-advanced power steering removes all the real work from driving and parking. Mercury's power brakes take little more toe pressure than the accelerator. And Mercury's power seat adjusts four ways to give you new driving comfort and safety. Add Mercury's years-ahead styling, famous economy, proven V-8 engine backed by our exclusively V-8 history, and a reputation for the highest trade-in value in its field—and you get more for your money with Mercury.

Drop around and try a Mercury real soon. How about now?

3rd Army Second In AA Track

Seven new records were set during the first day's running of the 1953 All-Army Track and Field Meet which was held at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Four new running records were set in the book in the 400 Yard Hurdles, the 100 Yard Dash, the 440 Yard Run and the 800 Yard Run because the 1952 records were measured in meters.

However, the three new marks set in the field events were records that topped last year's. These were set in the Women's Shot in the Running Broad Jump, and the Javelin.

Outstanding winners were Jim Golliday, Third Army, winner of the 100-Yard Dash in 9.6, just ahead of last year's 100-meter champ, Alex Littman of Fourth Army. Ollie Matson, Sixth Army, winner of the 440 Yard Dash, George Brown, Sixth Army, who set a mark of 35 feet, one and three quarters inches in the broad jump, and Larry Goins of Fort Benning, who threw the javelin 220 feet and three inches.

Inter-Service Forty-two third Army participants in the All-Army show will represent the Army in the Inter-Service Track and Field Meet which is also being held at Fort Jackson. These men will compete against teams from the Navy, Marines, and the Air Force.

Among these representing the Army will be Jim Cooke of Fort Jackson who won the discus and high jump events. Harry Bright, another Jackson star who took the 400 low hurdles and placed second to Hop, Step, and Jump winner, Charles Holloway of Sixth Army in the 200 hurdles. George Brown, Olympic broad jumper and dashman who set a new record of 22' 3" in that event. Jim Golliday, former Northwestern athlete who won the 100 yard dash in 9.6 seconds. Alex Littman, Fourth Army, who edged out former San Francisco All-American Ollie Matson in the 220 yard dash after Matson had won the 440 yard dash the day before. And distance man Warren Druetzler and Phil Coleman.

SETS NEW RECORD . . . Fort Benning's Larry Goins, a member of the Third Army Track and Field Team, set a new All-Army javelin record when the ISD spear carrier hurled the javelin 220 feet, three inches at Fort Jackson, S. C. Dick Smith of the Sixth Army finished second while Jim Huntsman of the Fourth Army was third.

Druetzler, former Michigan State runner, won the mile, and three-mile in record-setting times while Coleman won the two mile Steeplechase in a time that would have been creditable even without the barriers and water obstacles that he had to cross over.

Goins will be facing tough competition in the Marines' Bill Miller of Camp Pendleton, Calif. Miller hurled the javelin 222 feet and two and one half inches in the All-Marine Meet. This was five feet short of the 227 foot mark which he registered in taking second in the 1952 Olympics.

Six more records went into the books at the conclusion of the All-Army meet this making a total of 15 going down. All running events had new marks because the 1952 records were measured in yards except for the 149 seconds 500 Yards race registered by Bill Brooks of Sixth Army in the 120 yard high hurdles because of a six mile fall wind pushing him. New records in the field events were set in the pole vault.

Unofficial team winner was Sixth Army with 81% points and in second place was Third Army with 82% points. There was no official team score but based on what each Army's individuals did, that team score was compiled.

OFFICIAL COMPETITORS:
Hammer Throw — Cliff Blodgett (First Army), Earl Putman (Sixth Army), Henry Laughlin (Fifth Army), 157' 10 1/2" Running Broad Jump — George Brown (Sixth Army), Roland Sobie (Third Army), Robert Cook (Sixth Army) — 25' 1 3/4" Javelin — Larry Goins (Third Army), Dick Smith (Sixth Army), James Huntsman (Fourth Army) — 220' 3" Shot Put — Cliff Livingston (Sixth Army), Earl Putman (Sixth Army), James O'Connell (Third Army) — 49' 7"
440 Yard Hurdles — Harry Bright (Third Army), William Schimmel (First Army), Robert Cooke (Third Army) — 9.6 seconds
100 Yard Dash — Jim Golliday (Third Army), Alex Littman (Fourth Army), Ollie Matson (Sixth Army), winner of the 440 Yard Dash, George Brown, Sixth Army, who set a mark of 35 feet, one and three quarters inches in the broad jump, and Larry Goins of Fort Benning, who threw the javelin 220 feet and three inches.

Stotz Wins Four Events

Officer Candidate Irwin Stotz, former University of Georgia swimmer, was four events and paced his section to victory in the 10th OC Army swimming meet last week.

Stotz, Georgia AAU champion in the 400-yard free event, outpaced his section to victory in the 50-yard back stroke, the 100 yard free style, the 75-yard medley and was anchor man on the winning 700-yard medley relay team.

His team, the second section of the third platoon, scored 54 points. Turnersup in the meet was the second section of the first platoon led by OC Dan Costello. Costello, former Purdue University football player, won the diving event and was second behind Stotz in the 50-yard free style.

Winning times: 75 - yard medley relay — 10:15.50, 50-yard backstroke — 1:08.50, 100-yard free style — 1:25.50, 75-yard medley relay — 10:15.50, 50-yard freestyle — 1:08.50, 100-yard freestyle — 1:25.50, diving — Costello (83.8 points).

Traffic Violations

During the period, 12 June to 19 June 1950, two post personnel had their driving privileges suspended and three persons had their licenses revoked for varied periods of time.

Pfc. James Fernandez, Support Company, 50th Airborne RCT, had his driving privileges suspended for a period of thirty days, as he had another's post tags on his vehicle.

Pvt. Donald W. Smith, Company

MOWW To Hear Col. Kelly Speak

The regular meeting of the Columbus chapter of the Military Order of World Wars will be held June 25 at 12:30 p.m. in the Main Officers Mess at Fort Benning.

Principal speaker will be Col. Henry E. Kelly, president of the 50th Army Area Unit, Board No. 3, who will discuss Our Nation's Development Problems.

Lt. Airborne Battalion, First Student Regiment, had his driving privileges suspended for ninety days for speeding charge.

Sgt. Campbell P. Williams, 46th Maintenance Squadron, Lawton Air Force Base, had his license revoked for a period of four months for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

On June 15, Lt. William C. McGinnis, Company F, 26th Infantry Regiment, had his driving privileges revoked for a period of four months for reckless driving.

For a civil speeding charge, Cpl. Howard D. Dancy, Company B, 50th Airborne RCT had his license revoked for his Commanding Officer for a period of one year.

Aide

The enlisted aide program is designed to acquaint enlisted men with the work of the post commanders and staff at Fort Benning.

Kavanaugh, who has been in the Army a little more than two years, has risen rapidly from private to his present rank of sergeant first class.

He has been at Fort Benning since the spring of 1951 when he enrolled in The Infantry School's aide course after completing basic training at Fort Bragg, N. C.

He joined the 50th in May, 1950. The airborne MOWW unit was to serve as aide to Gen. Meloy in competition with the four battalions of the 50th. His selection was based on the "superior manner he has handled every job assigned him."

As a former troop information and education NCO for the First Battalion's Company B, Sgt. Kavanaugh persuaded 25 enlisted men to take the General Education Development Tests to further their education and has 25 additional men prepared to take the tests.

Although he has been considered for positions on the battalion and regimental staffs, Kavanaugh has been allowed to remain with his platoon at Fort Benning since he prefers his duty to office work.

The Red Devil sergeant has been commended on many occasions for the manner in which he performed his duties. Lt. Col. Murray Harvey, First Battalion commander, called him a credit to the outfit, adding that "he is the type of leader I would like to serve with on a combat mission."

Col. Harry M. Grizzard, commander of the First Officer Candidate Regiment, praised Kavanaugh for the "splendid job he did as regimental troop information and education NCO when he had nearly 100 50th enlisted men filled in for that regiment during a shortage of trained personnel."

Last February, he graduated among the top 10 in his class at the Armed Forces Information School at Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Kavanaugh was a veterinary student at Louisiana Tech when he enlisted in the Army.

Two New Chaplains Scheduled For Post

Two new chaplains are scheduled to report to Fort Benning next week for duty in the Chaplain's Section.

They are Chaplain (Major) Philip W. Roberts of Shelton, Conn., and Chaplain (Capt.) Mildred L. Jenkins of Fairfield, Ala.

Chaplain Roberts is coming to Fort Benning following duty in Pinebluff and Chaplain Jenkins, who has been pastor of the Fairfield Highlands Baptist Church, is returning to active duty.

Blood

It can remain in a patient's bone for a month, protected by a glass covering, and could be used for later infusions of blood.

Dr. A. E. A. Hudson of Goldsboro, N.C., who accompanied Dr. Parker of Fairfield, Ala., said that great significance is being placed on bone marrow infusions.

The two doctors are touring all Third Army medical installations to lecture and demonstrate the new method.

YOU CAN FLY

You can learn to fly by flying. The instructor demonstrates to you what to do. Fundamentals of flying are the glide; turn; climb; straight and level flight. To turn use side pressure on stick and rudder pedal at the same time in the same direction; then neutralize the stick, taking your foot off the rudder pedal at the same time. The airplane continues to turn. To return to level flight, use pressures in the opposite manner. To climb, increase the throttle and add a normal amount of back pressure on the stick. To lower the nose, gently add forward pressure. To glide, keep the nose below the level flight position with throttle closed. Fly straight and level by keeping stick and rudder neutral, wings and nose level with reference to the horizon. King's School of Aviation, Inc., Municipal Airport on Victory Drive, would like to have the opportunity to show you how easy it is to fly. The days are long and it's easy to take a lesson after dark. We are open 7 days weekly until dark. Call for Jack or Deans, telephone 2-4758. (Adv.)

Good Will Over Area Maintained

Fort Benning's community relations program—the reason for its existence and how it works—was a topic of discussion for the troop information hour and officers' call for this week.

The troop information hour, and officers' call are designed to acquaint officers and enlisted men with current topics of interest.

Discussion leaders described in detail the problems arising between the civilian and military communities and explained how the Army, and especially Fort Benning with the aid of the civilian communities, is attempting to solve them, using as a guide a special booklet prepared by the Fort Benning Public Information Office. The booklet outlines the policy of the Army in dealing with the American public. According to the Public Information Office that policy is based on the following principles:

Policy Outlined

"The public is entitled to the fullest report on the activities of the Army and its personnel.

"Every military installation should be a living part of the community in which it is located.

"Complete understanding of the Army by the public will result in Army in the accomplishment of its mission."

"The individual soldier, the booklet states, is the basic factor in the community relations program. He does the most to affect the program, and he, in turn, is the one most affected by it.

"Military personnel and their families should seek to be regarded as good citizens who participate in the life of the community and give their full share to it," the booklet points out.

"In addition to the individual soldier's role in the community relations, the military post itself also can "play the role of the good neighbor" by participating in civilian ceremonies by providing troops and bands and holding open houses and guided tours of the installation.

Organized in 1946

The booklet traces the history of most community relations program which, in many cases, revolved around the Army Advisory Committee.

These committees were organized (See AREA, Page 11)

Second SR Sponsors Lad In Town Soap Box Derby

BY MURRAY E. HORTON
A boyhood dream became a reality this week when officials of the Second Student Regiment notified an anxious contestant that they would sponsor him in the Columbus Soap Box Derby.
Billy McCarley, a 14 year old, freckle faced, blonde headed boy from Phenix City, Ala., received the news with mixed emotion, and commenced plans for his vehicle.
The following morning, a hair combed, Billy rode a bus to Fort Benning, to meet his sponsors and to be their guest at a luncheon held in his honor. Having been introduced to Lt. Col. Melvin Fletcher, Commanding Officer, Second Student Regiment, Billy was immediately being helped by members of the unit inquiring as to the type of vehicle Billy intended to build.

Spectacular Celebration Set For 4th

Fireworks, Martial Music, Gun-Salutes--All Planned

A special Independence Day program, climaxed by a gigantic fireworks display, has been scheduled at Fort Benning July 4, which will be observed as a holiday by all military and civilian personnel.

The public is invited to the celebration, which begins at 11:45 a. m. with a band concert at the flag pole in front of The Infantry School building.
The 12nd Army Band will provide music during the 15-minute concert of patriotic music which ends at noon with the 46-gun National Salute to be fired by the 41st Field Artillery Battalion.
The carriage flag will be flown

Blue Field, across from the Polo Hunt Club, is the only location at Fort Benning where fireworks may be exploded. This spot also will be used by the 66th Club for its fireworks display tomorrow night.

At half-staff until the salute is fired it then will be raised to full staff.
Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, also has requested that flags be displayed in front of quarters by facilities residing on the post.
At 5 p. m., the 66th Club, in conjunction with several Infantry Center units, Columbus Boy Scouts, and Phenix City's 4th Hour Park, will sponsor a special program at French Field for children of the post and the surrounding communities.

The 12nd Army Band will open the program with another concert, followed by a drill team performance by elements of the Combat Training Command.

Hawaiian and hillbilly music will be features of the Soldiers Show portion of the program, to be provided by The Infantry Center Special Services Section.
The Order of the Arrow of the Columbus Boy Scouts will present an Indian dance, and the 4th Hour Park of Phenix City is sending its band to train for Fort Benning for the children to ride.

Safety Council Gives Benning Highest Award

The nation's highest safety award has been presented to Fort Benning.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, accepted behalf of Fort Benning the Award of Honor for Distinguished Service To Safety presented by the National Safety Council.

Presentation of the plaque to Gen. Meloy was made by Lt. Col. A. R. Boling, Third Army commander, at a command staff conference at Third Army Headquarters, Fort McPherson, Ga.

This is the first time Fort Benning has received the award, which is made annually by the Department of Army and the National Safety Council.

Selection is based on a standard set on the award for the past century. The winning command must show a favorable improvement on this standard as well as on its own safety records for the previous two years.

Consideration is given to the six major categories of military accidents. These are civilian injury rate and civilian fatality rate, military injury rate and military fatality rate, motor vehicle accident frequency rate and motor vehicle fatality rate.

The Department of Army recommended to the National Safety Council that Fort Benning be given the award for the 5th year.

Improvement shown in the Infantry Center's 1952 safety record over its accident record of the previous two years, and because Fort Benning showed the greatest safety record improvement of any installation in the Third Army area.

We Take A Bow

Bayonet Acclaimed Excellent Paper

Additional recognition came to the Bayonet this week when results of a survey indicated that the Fort Benning weekly newspaper is well liked at other military installations.
The Troop Information and Education Section, under whose supervision the weekly tabloid is published, had asked all posts on its mailing list to comment on the publication.

Ninety-five per cent of those participating in the survey expressed a desire to remain on the mailing list and a large number commented on the "excellence of your publication."

The Bayonet, a civilian enterprise newspaper published by The Ledger-Enquirer Company for the officers and men of Fort Benning, has twice been awarded top honors by defense establishments.

First recognition came to the newspaper in October 1951 when it was the best service publication. During that time supervisors of the Bayonet was exercised by the Public Information Office.

Comments from the survey just completed came from Army Forces and Marine Corps installations, Army libraries, service clubs, Special Services offices, Military Districts, and recruiting offices.

Among those commenting was Sgt. Richard Warden, editor of the Bull's Eye at Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., who called The Bayonet an "excellent newspaper" and added that his office visited with your staff.

Miss Margareta Barr, librarian at Fort Monmouth, N. J., said she thought The Bayonet was a "very interesting paper, and the men here enjoy reading it."

The USO-NCCS Servicemen's Club in Columbus found the newspaper "very informative and helpful," according to Director Julius B. Markert.

According to the Delaware Military District, The Bayonet's make-up is excellent, and the Troop Information and Education Center at Fort Slocum, N. Y., called the Fort

Benning weekly a "fine paper."

Mrs. Betty C. Cain, public information officer at Aberdeen, Md., proving ground, said The Bayonet is a "very good newspaper," and Miss Phyllis L. Snyder, editor of Service Stripes at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, termed it one of the "best exchange papers."

"An excellent newspaper," is the way Lt. Col. Herald F. Lewis, public information officer at the Boston, Mass., Army Base, described The Bayonet, and Capt. Jack Parsons, public information officer at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., went even further by declaring it to be "the best" (See BAYONET, Page 11)

Rudy Orchestra To Appear At TIC In July

The Ernie Rudy orchestra, as it is billed will appear at the Infantry Center Wednesday, July 22, at the Main and Theater at 8:30 p. m. Rudy is well known, having been with the 1st Army and the 1st Army Kaye orchestra for several years.

Benning's Special Services Section announces that the public is invited to this program, and that the admission will be so exact.

Worthwhile Articles Appear In July Infantry Quarterly

The July issue of the Infantry School Quarterly features articles ranging from marksmanship to topics on what to expect from a duty assignment in Korea.

The Quarterly is an unofficial publication of Fort Benning, Ga. Infantry School edited by Lt. Col. John K. Enzy.

Major Kenneth G. Groom, an Infantry School instructor, is author of an article entitled Marksmanship, which is considerably brightened by the generous use of cartoons. According to Major Groom, there is no "royal road to good marksmanship. It's a matter of proper training."

He points out in the article, among other things, the reason for using a sling on the rifle, despite the claim by a mythical sergeant that "I never used a sling in combat and don't know anybody who did use one."

The author also explains positions, trigger sequence, sustained fire, smoke cards, windage, long rounds, the soldier's job, use of the manual and competitive shooting.

Major Groom's cartoons, which have gained him recognition at Fort Benning when they appeared in his feature appearing in the Bayonet under the title Pic. Sanchez, help to brighten his eight-page article. He uses 11 to illustrate Marksmanship.

Col. Edward L. Rowny's Going to Korea, written in the form of a letter to a friend who is on orders to Korea, discusses the problems of a station commander in combat. He tells his friend not to regard "my comments as doctrinal" but rather think of them as ideas and lessons acquired by a regimental commander.

Among the ideas or lessons he lists such suggestions as a determination to succeed, a realistic picture of the enemy, impersonal dealings and close supervision and adds that "you should avoid being foolhardy."

Col. Rowny, a member of the Infantry School's Tactical Department, also develops considerable space in his article to a few lessons learned about the Red Chinese from the material which the most significant lesson concerning the Red Chinese is that he is "not easily maneuvered out of position."

He ends his article with a warning, "Anyone who concludes that he fought his war in World War II is deceiving himself."

A feature appearing in the Quarterly for the first time, Pic. Quiz, which is a test of military knowledge, is authored by Lt. Morris P. Wolf, an Infantry School instructor. The quiz asks such

Ex-Narcotics Agent In SR

Among the many strange and unusual incidents assigned to Fort Benning from time to time, the 1st Student Regiment feels that it is currently playing host to one of the strangest.

It is at any time in the future you happen to be lighting up a cigarette in a nice relaxing smoke and notice a mysterious individual peering at you from behind a telephone pole on picking up your discarded cigarette butt and sniffing it, don't be surprised; it's probably Pvt. William A. Smith, clerk typist for the 115E section, 1st Student Regiment.

Stores Sea Legs; Seeks Commission As Foot Soldier

Commissioned one before, Otis Candidate William B. Felton is now working for his second commission as a member of the 13th OC Company. Before enlisting in the Army last July, Candidate Felton was a lieutenant, junior grade, in the Maritime Service.

Commissioned a warrant officer in 1945 after attending Maritime OCS, Felton left San Francisco aboard the SS Marine Snapper one year before his 19th birthday on a trip that lasted a year and took him around the world.

Felton's last four years at sea were spent aboard the SS Hawaiian Retailer on a run between New York to Honolulu. While on this tour of duty he passed through the Panama Canal 39 times. Comparing Infantry OCS with the maritime schooling, Felton said, "The inspections and garrison life are much the same in both schools. American Theatre Medal, ETO Ribbon with 5 stars and the United Nations Ribbon."

SILVER PROMOTED

Sic. George W. Siler, Jr., Company B, 78th Engineers (C) Battalion, has been promoted to the grade of Master Sergeant. Sgt. Siler, a Korean Veteran, entered the Army in June 1940. Siler holds the American Defense Medal, Good Conduct Medal, Korean Ribbon, American Theatre Medal, ETO Ribbon with 5 stars and the United Nations Ribbon.

Promotion For Lt. Col. Barnett

Lt. Col. Frank L. Barnett of Perkinston, Miss., assistant G-4 for administration and supply, has been promoted to the rank of colonel on Department of the Army orders.

Col. Barnett, who came to Fort Benning from the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., has been in The Infantry Center G-4 Section since July 1950.

A 1922 graduate of Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, he received his Reserve Army commission in 1933 and became a Regular Army officer in 1946.

Col. Barnett took The Infantry School's associate company officers course in 1940-41 and served with the 31st Division until 1943. He also was in Europe during World War II with the 17th Airborne Division from 1944 to 1945, where he served as provost marshal of the Munich Military Post in Germany from 1946 to 1949.

Col. Barnett is scheduled to attend the 10-month course at The Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., beginning in September. His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters and French Croix de Guerre and Silver Star.

He is the son of Mrs. Josephine B. Barnett of New York City, N. Y. Col. and Mrs. Barnett reside at Fort Benning.

Fags Now Cost One Penny More

After holding the price firm on cigs for three months despite a wholesale cost increase of nearly a penny a pack, PX's increased their retail price one cent a pack yesterday.

The wholesale price increased in March, and most civilian stores were forced to increase their retail price then, but PX's kept to the old price and passed out one extra savings to customers.

Company M, 30th Regimental Combat Team, received all supplies on the inspection and once again has taken top spot in the CTC. Mess Hall, Day Room, I.E., Company Administration and Individual Equipment Displays were all perfect.

For nearly a week before the inspection M-Sgt. James E. Kea could be heard telling a detail of men to "Get that patined 'Clean that up' or 'Police Call.'"

Ten sergeants went right along with him and the final leader to be heard was when they all teamed together with the men from the inspection. M-Sgt. Sam T. Smith, in the Machine Gun Platoon, Sgt. Ernest P. Walton in the Recorders Rifle Platoon and Master Sgt. Eddie K. Baldwin in the M4 Mortar platoon really functioned, with superior the result.

Capt. Jack M. Fumlinson, Company Commander of Company M, said "I've got good NCO's and they are the one's who really get the job done. The huge problem of retraining the company's administrative functions went to Sergeant Isham W. Alexander, first sergeant. The result: Superior by the inspection officers."

What's In A Name?

THIS FELLOW'S CAN GET HIM INTO TROUBLE

A "wise guy" assigned to Howby First Sergeant Robert Young, Company of the 52d Airborne, stopped smartly forward, one by one, at the cue, "Next."

One Red Devil stepped off on the wrong foot. When the first sergeant, without looking up, queried, "What's your name soldier?" "Gues?" was the trooper's prompt reply.

The first sergeant growled and pushed his chair back. "What are you a stupid Gue?" he demanded. "The started trooper managed to mutter, 'No, Sergeant, my name is Phillip E. Gues of Logan, Ohio.'"

After mutual apologies and a belated laugh, trooper Gues left the orderly room convinced that a name like his could get a fellow into a lot of trouble, especially with a strange first sergeant.

4.2 Tops With Greeks

The United States Army's 4.2-inch chemical mortar has been termed the Greek Army's "top artillery piece" by six weapons instructors from the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

The six, two officers and four enlisted men, have returned from Athens, Greece, where they served since early January as technical advisers in the instructional committee which taught the use of the mortar to a class of Greek officers and noncommissioned officers.

Following the graduation of the first class, the instructors returned to the States. The graduates of the first class remained at the Athens Heavy Weapons School to teach future classes and form the heavy mortar companies of the Greek divisions.

Cited by Greek Army, the six men, who received letters of commendation from the Greek Army for their work, are Capt. Joseph Markham of Service Company, 1st Lt. Richard W. Thomas of Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, M-Sgt. Robert Gallant, Sgt. James A. Ghent, Sgt. James A. Miller, and Sgt. Delfo Ferranti, Jr., all of the 508th Support Company.

Italian Gen. Makes Study

The Italian Army's chief of staff arrived last Monday for a three-day study of our training facilities.

Gen. Giuseppe Pizzorno, who is visiting the U. S. for the first time, will observe the functions and methods used by the Infantry School's training Department and will visit several units.

The 62-year-old Italian general has played a major role in the re-constitution of the new Italian Army and holds several of Italy's highest awards for valor and merit.

In May, 1941, while chief of staff of the Northern Theater Command in East Africa, Gen. Pizzorno was captured by the British. He was re-captured in 1945.

He became chief of staff of the Italian Army Oct. 1, 1952.

Area Relationship At High Standard

A brief interview with the Public Relations Officer, at first was to support recruiting programs, but they were soon expanded to include the general military problems in the communities.

Typical of these Army Advisory Committees is the one at Fort Benning, which is known as the Citizens-Military Council and recently serves Fort Benning and the surrounding communities. Actually the council, established with Major Gen. John W. O'Daniel, then Infantry Center commander, as its prime mover, predates the organized Army-wide program. Its first meeting was held here in 1946.

Officers Miss on Oct. 11, 1946.

Membership is wide. The council, advised in capacity, consists of leading officials of the military and civilian communities, including commanders, Post Benning and Lawson Air Force Base, top staff officers, the mayors of Columbus and Fort Benning, chairman of the Russell and Muscogee County commissions, presidents of the two Chambers of Commerce, president of the Ministerial Association, Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, the publisher of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer newspaper, representative of the three Columbus radio stations, and the superintendents of schools in both cities.

The Citizens-Military Council has the following stated in its constitution as its aims:

To act in an advisory capacity to established agencies and matters pertaining to relations between Army personnel and the community for the purpose of settling difficulties which may arise due to either local military or civilian policies.

To promote better understanding and develop joint Army-community interest in each other's activities and problems.

To determine how the Army and civilians could best do their share toward attaining these ends.

To report on public relations and opinion concerning existing and new Army procedures and policies.

To assist the Army in keeping the public informed.

Problems Arise Many projects and problems have been aired and solved by the council in its six and one-half years of existence. They have ranged from the standardization of a 1:1 ratio between the post and the city to the maintenance and support of service organizations and club-rooms in Columbus. Problems such as housing, which became critical with the tremendous building program in 1950 and 1951, credit terms and others also have been tackled by the council or one of its sub-committees.

But the booklet points, good community relations between Fort Benning and the civilian communities existed from the very start of the post in 1918.

During the war years of 1941 to 1945, the booklet states, community relations between the post and Columbus were magnificent. It was due largely, it points out, to the widespread patriotic fervor which characterized military-civilian relationships everywhere.

Following the war, the Citizens-Military Council was organized to continue the fine relationships which existed. But, the booklet adds, the fine relations were not maintained by the council alone. It was the individual, day-to-day meetings and transactions between the members of both communities which have "moderated the magnificent work relations of the communities."

Public Together The booklet lists the following as examples of how the individuals of both communities work with one another:

"A Japanese bride of a sergeant talked to a Columbus Girl Scout troop on life and customs in Japan.

Infantry School Lauds Paramedics

Four paramedics from the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, credited with a recent life-saving feat, were commended by an Infantry School official and the 508th commander.

Sgt. Robert E. Cook, Corporal Ronald Steinmetz, Privates First Class Hubert R. Gonzales and Robert L. Seary were credited with saving the life of the two more seriously injured of five persons wounded by artillery fire on a recent Infantry School problem.

Principal instructor with the Tactical Department of the Infantry School, Capt. John C. Hughes commended the medical and their unit for their "conduct and performance of duty as medical aid men. The injured persons receiving the most efficient and timely first aid care, and comfort during the necessary rapid evacuation."

QUARTERMASTER BIRTHDAY . . . The 178th anniversary of the Quartermaster Corps was celebrated at Fort Benning with a luncheon in the Main Officers Mess, at which this cake was cut by Mrs. William R. Fields, wife of the Post Q.M. Lt. Col. Fred Koenig, executive officer, stands between Mrs. Fields and his wife, who is seated.

"Without a doubt," continued the TIS official, "your outstanding performance contributed directly to the saving of the life of at least two of the injured officers. Your personal conduct reflected great credit upon yourself, your unit and the medical corps."

Colonel George O. Pearson, commanding officer of the 508th, added his personal commendations to the men and their company for the "superior first aid treatment rendered and the excellent training exhibited."

Fragments from a short artillery round was responsible for the injuries to the five men who were running the problem. The Rifle Company in Attack Strapped from the ill-fated round deep into the arm and side of two of them to the extent that their lives depended on quick and efficient care. Out eighteen miles in the field the wounded men were evacuated in a matter of minutes after first aid by the medics.

Capt. Weston E. Fairbanks commands the 508th's paramedics, a unique unit in the medical corps and in the army.

Benning Exchange Renders Service To Post Visitors

For the convenience of the families, relatives, and friends visiting enlisted personnel, the Fort Benning Exchange operates four guest houses. One is located in the center of Sand Hill Area, one in the center of Harmony Church Area, and two are located on the Main Post.

These locations make it possible for visitors to be near when enlisted personnel are on duty. There is a time limit for visitors of three days. However, exceptions are made in this rule when the facilities are not crowded. Rates reasonable, as the primary purpose of these establishments is the rendering of a service to military personnel and their families.

In the vicinity of each guest house is a snack bar or cafeteria where visitors may obtain meals.

508th To Provide Support For ROTC

Airborne troops of Fort Benning's 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team will provide the major troop support for the annual summer encampment of ROTC students this year.

Approximately 400 Red Devil troopers have been assigned administrative and training duties for 2,400 college infantry trainees from the Third, Fourth and Fifth army areas, according to Major Richard W. Davis, Jr., 508th ARCT, who is the summer ROTC operations officer.

Fort Benning's summer encampment will run from June 29 thru July 31 this year. The 508th is scheduled for a mission similar to its present support role of the Infantry School and will act as demonstration troops in tactical training and weapons instruction classes for officers.

Additional airborne support for the ROTC camp includes a cadre of 100 paratroopers and a rifle force to handle supply and ration details. Plans are under consideration for the colleges to observe a mass tactical training drop by 508th personnel.

TWO EM TO 734
Two enlisted men have been assigned to Company C, 734 Tank Battalion. They are Privates Fred M. DeVoe and James L. Edwards.

Buman Fires 288 To Win TIC Golf Meet

Takes Golf Crown For 2nd Year

Paul Buman of Montebello, Calif., the 1952 post golf champion, successfully defended his crown by becoming medalist of the 1953 Fort Benning Golf tournament Friday with a two-over-par 74 for an even par 288 during the 72-hole tourney.

Buman won the '52 meet when he qualified with a 69 for the old 18-hole layout, tied for medalist and fired a 13-under-par for 91 holes of match play.

The assistant gold pro led the field in the first round last week with a four-under-par 69. He was the only golfer to break par over the 6,528-yard Country Club course.

Always long off the tees, Buman's accurate iron play to the greens and his fine putting accounted for his low scores.

Gerville Folkerts captured second place at the top of the count with Navil Koebbe, third place winner. Both fired an even 300.

Joe Lawrence won fourth place with a 304, while Lawson Magruder, Benning Country Club Champion, finished fifth with a 309.

Claude English of Buford, Ga., and Bernard L. Kayes of Geneva, N. Y., tied for sixth play with a 27-hole total of 310.

The first six winners will compete in the Third Army Golf Tournament at Fort Bragg, N. C., to be held July 7-11. The winner of the Bragg tournament will represent the Third Army in Army-wide competition which will be held at Pebble Beach, Calif., in August.

Army Trackmen Take Top Honors In Inter-Service

Goins Second In Javelin Throw

JAVELIN WINNERS... Bill Miller of the U.S. Marines beat out all other service men in the javelin throw of the Inter-Service Track and Field Meet which was held at Fort Jackson, S. C. Larry Goins of Fort Benning was second while the Air Force representative in that event, Bobby Hall, was third.

Brill Wins 6th; Rams Defeat Raiders, 3-0

With right hander Lloyd Brill, for him as the Rams hurler set down the Raiders in a row. Brigade came up with two runs in the first inning when Phil Phillips walked and then stole second base. Third baseman Herman Consolo tied out last Ted Heitschmidt, got another walk of Clyde Britton, who suffered his third loss against four.

The league leading ISD Pirates punched out a single to left field scoring Phillips who took third on George Swyers, Ernest Fann, manager.

Goins Second In Javelin Throw

The 1953 U. S. Army Track and Field Team romped to an easy victory last week scoring 88 points to win the Inter-Service Track and Field Meet which was held at Fort Jackson, S. C.

The Navy Inter-class came in second with 59 1/2 points; third was the Marines with 37 points while the Air Force placed fourth with 35 1/2 points.

Fort Benning's Larry Goins, who captured the Infantry Center, Third Army and All-Army javelin title, placed second in the Inter-Service event. First place winner was Bill Miller of the Marine Corps with a spear throw of 228 feet, one inch and one half inches.

Sixteen Army athletes who participated in the Inter-Service are going to the National A. U. Championships at Dayton, O., where they will be joined by some thirty other service stars.

Winners and top flight men in the National A. U. Meet will be selected to make trips to Europe for meets with European and a d American Service teams.

The men going there will also compete as individuals rather than as members of teams.

Men picked for the Army include Werner in Athletics, three distance events in the Inter-Service and chosen the Most Outstanding Athlete also. Trackers, Robert Cook, Ronald Sobel, and George Brown; Dashman Jim Goody; Alex Litman, Javelin thrower; Larry Goins, Middle Distance runner; Harry Bright and Henry Cramer. Other Army men going include Bill Miller, winner of the javelin and Charles Holloway.

THE COMPLETE RESULTS: Hammer Throw - Sam Fabian (Navy); Clifford Blair (Army); Duane Taylor (Air Force); Bert Swanson (Marines) - 180' 7" (NR).

Bob, Skip, and Jump - Jim Gerhard (Navy); Mose Hunter (Marines); Robert Cook (Army); Ben Witherspoon (Army) - 48' (NR).

Pole Vault - George Mattos (Air Force); Robert Smith and Leonard Kohl (1st); Frank Warner and George Appel (tie) - 14' (NR).

Discus - Ron Drummond (Navy); Jim Cooke (Army); Earl Putnam (Army); Duane Taylor (Air Force) - 157' 8" (NR).

100-Yard Dash - Jim Golliday (Army); Bob Boyd (Navy); Jim Cook (Air Force); Alex Litman (Army) - 9 7/8 second (NR).

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

In a few weeks from now, the top two sports attractions here at Fort Benning will be taken out of football and paraded for one and all. By this I mean that The Infantry Center Football and Boxing Leagues start practicing for their weekly performances to please the post personnel.

Four teams are slated for the football circuit while the boxing league will have the same number of units participating as last year. School Brigade, the 508th Airborne and Combat Training Command will definitely field grid squads. Special Troops Command may have to combine as it did in 1952 with Infantry School Detachment to form a football squad.

In boxing, the First Student Regiment with WOJG Jerry Perlman as coach; Special Troops Command with Sgt. Frank Harby as coach; 508th with Cpl. Harry Breeze as coach; CTC with Nat Trout as coach, and who will handle ISD, who will be trying to get its personnel out for the pugilistic sport, is a moot question.

For a quick rundown of last year's football drama, the combination Special Troops Rams, composed of First Student Brigade and Provisional Medical Group, had an undefeated but led record of five, zero and one. The Rams were tied early in the 1952 season by Coach Jack Fabian's ISD-ASU Green Wave, 6-0. CTC took second place in the league with a two win, three loss and one tied game record. The 508th Airborne was third with a two and four record while last, but not least, the ISD-ASU with a one win, three loss and two tie record.

In boxing, the Special Troops won the post mitt championship by scoring 111 points for the 28 bouts that they won. First SR was second with 109 points for 46 bouts. The Red Devils were third with 85 for 37 bouts while CTC was fourth with 57 points for 30 bouts. ISD was last with five points in nine bouts.

Of the four football teams that will be formed, the 508th Airborne could put out a call for gridmen today and tomorrow have a full squad. Most of last year's players are still around and with the acquisition of some Rams players from the post championship team, they have a formidable squad. However, there big question is who is going to coach.

Of the three coaches that they had in '52, Don LeBlanc and Dick Thomas are still here. Head Coach Jim Phillips is in ECOM while LeBlanc is a company commander and Thomas has recently returned from Greece. It is unknown whether either one of these boys want to assume the mantle of head coach.

Most of last year's champions, the Rams, are gone now, overseas and to other units. However, the coaching staff still remains. Gus Dielens is a company commander in the First O. C. Regiment while Bill Thaxton, Bill Lawrence and Lia Jordan are in other Brigade organizations.

Dielens, a former West Point player, has voiced an opinion to me about not having anything to do with football on an intramural basis. But when he hears the trod of cleats upon the turf and sees the fellows in scrimmage, he will be out. Cecil Dickerson of CTC is the only other coach of last year who is still at Fort Benning. But the Ole Miss and ex-Los Angeles Rams player will not be here for the grid season. Uncle Sam has a better assignment for him elsewhere.

The only Commander left at last year's team is Herman Men Angel, Jim Guthrie, another blue and white player, will be leaving soon for ECOM.

Harold Manley, who took over the coaching reins from Fabian in the middle of last year, is now a school teacher and he will take a trip, westward ho. Just who will handle the coaching reins of ISD and if they once again combine with Special Troops, is a good question. But a good bet to handle the coaching reins is Arnold Galiffa, the former U. S. Military Academy star, who is now in ISD and playing some baseball.

A number of players who I come in contact with still would like to see a single football team at Fort Benning. They all remember what happened to the Rams when they journeyed to Tallahassee for a game with the Florida State Marines. I too would like to see a Doughboy team, but we all know what post policy is.

Benning Skeet Club Invites All to Shoot

Shotgun enthusiasts stationed at Fort Benning are missing a unique opportunity to improve their scatter gun technique, enjoy a fine sport, and meet some top shooters.

The Fort Benning Skeet Club, located at Hook Range, is open every Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning and all military personnel are welcome to come out and shoot.

One round of skeet consists of 25 shots from different positions at clay targets propelled through the air by steel traps. This game is as near to live-bird shooting as man as yet devised. It is excellent training in gun handling and (See SKEET, Page 18)

Joyner entered in Japan in August 1946 at Savannah, Ga., and served in the Army and Korea.

In Second Week

Hard Work Order of Day For Infantry ROTC Cadets

Hard work has been the order of the day during the second week of training for the 2,187 cadets attending the Infantry ROTC summer camp at Fort Benning.

Highlighting the second week of the Summer camp was a visit by Maj. Gen. Charles D. W. Caban, deputy Third Army commander, who spent Monday inspecting the camp's training facilities and observing classes.

Up to this time the future officers have received training on the M-1 rifle, automatic rifle, light machine gun, .45 caliber pistol, recoilless rifle, rocket launchers, grenade, and flame thrower.

The cadets, who represent 71 colleges and universities, have already become acquainted with many basic Infantry weapons and tactics.

Several good scores have been recorded by cadets firing the M-1 and automatic rifles, however, the champion marksman will not be determined until all companies have completed firing.

Map reading and individual tactical training have also taken up a great deal of the cadets' time. Infiltration course training was completed Tuesday, and the first night problem took place that evening with eight ROTC companies participating.

The camp's athletic program got under way this week with company teams formed in five sports. This year each company will field teams in basketball, volley ball, horse shoe pitching, badminton, and softball.

Competition will be on a company level to determine the battalion champions. Regimental championships will be played off during the final days of the camp. Since this year's camp has many college athletes who have stannards on campus during the school term, competition is expected to run high.

The cadets will get a breather beginning tomorrow night. The half-day training schedule for Saturday morning has been suspended in observance of Independence Day.

The camp ends July 31.

STC Cities Units For Performances

The following units were presented with Best Performance Awards for May, by Colonel Paul C. Seiff, commanding officer of Special Troops Command.

The "Best Bless Operation" planing unit went to the 58th Signal Construction Company. Best "Training Award" was given to Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Section II, 3410 ASU. The WAC Health and Conduct Award, "while Headquarters, 1st Transportation Battalion, was given a plaque for having the best grounds and area in the command.

Two awards were given to the 27th Transportation Car Company for best maintenance and best safety records. The 66rd CIC Detachment won the command's best supply award for the fifth straight month.

AF Stresses Safe Driving Under 'Operation Impact'

"Operation Impact," the Summer driver-education program at Lawson Air Force Base, reaching its peak tomorrow prior to the Fourth of July week-end.

The campaign, designed to dole out 100,000 off-base motor vehicle accidents by Air Force personnel, will continue through Labor Day. In cooperation with seven other 18th AF Bases, all under Tactical Air Command, Lawson is emphasizing safety in driving during the summer vacation period.

The 46th Troop Carrier Wing is stressing safety in off-duty, off-base driving upon Lawson personnel. All safety officers and safety NCOs within the unit are pushing "Impact" to the members of their unit. Part of the Wing Information and Education Hours has been utilized by the Council to impress upon personnel the simple rules of the road.

Special information bulletins on driving have been widely distributed. Notices in the Daily Bulletin and base paper all have emphasized the importance of careful driving.

According to Eugene L. Newman, director of ground safety, Headquarters, 18th Air Force, off-duty accidents within 18th Air Force have reached an alarming figure. During 1952, accidents involving private and government-owned motor vehicles accounted for more than 50 per cent of ground accidents. These accidents caused 23 deaths and 474 disabling injuries, and cost the government $1,251,932.

4 Lanes to Traffic Circle To Be Reality at Long Last

Broadening of Benning Boulevard to four lanes got under way this week as Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, turned the first-spade of earth for the estimated $128,000 project.

In a brief ceremony, Gen. Meloy said the building of the two additional lanes in the first phase between Fort Benning and Muscogee County.

Gen. Meloy also expressed appreciation to the county and the state for the cooperation displayed in getting the complete job of traffic congestion solved in one part.

An additional bridge across the Upper Creek at Outpost No. 1 has already been completed and opened to traffic.

Malcolm W. Forte, Muscogee County Commission chairman, joined Fort Benning's commander in expressing appreciation for the cooperative spirit showed by the post, county, and state in correcting the traffic problem.

"When this new highway is completed we really will feel a part of Fort Benning," Mr. Forte said. "In a short time we hope we all can be driving over the new lanes."

Contract completion date is 150 days from the start of construction. The Hewitt Construction Company of Columbus has the contract to broaden the boulevard to the reservation boundary, where the state and county will take over and continue construction of the two new lanes to the traffic circle.

Attending the ground-breaking ceremony were the new Outpost No. 1 were Col. Paul J. Mitchell, Infantry Center G-4, Col. Richard P. Ebbs, post engineer, William Price, project engineer for the Savannah District, Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald, provost marshal, William J. Long, Muscogee County engineer, and C. B. Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald, of Pawling N.Y., has been appointed Infantry Center provost marshal. He succeeds Lt. Col. Albert E. Wood of Lynchburg, Va., who has been named provost marshal of the Signal Center at Fort Monmouth, N.J.

Col. Fitzgerald came to Fort Benning from Korea where he was on duty for the past two years as senior advisor to the Republic of Korea's National Police. The new Infantry Center provost marshal was executive officer in the office of the Provost Marshal General in Washington before going to Korea. Before that he had been a student and a faculty member at the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The 62-year-old officer entered the Army with the New York National Guard in 1917 and received his commission in the Guard in 1920.

Recalled to active duty in 1949, Col. Fitzgerald was provost marshal of the 27th Infantry Division, commanded the 47th Tank Destroyer Battalion, and was provost marshal of the 10th Army. He was integrated into the Regular Army in 1948.

An ordained minister, one of the leading fighter-bomber pilots of the Korean conflict, picked up another title when he graduated from Company C of the Airborne Battalion Last Friday.

Thirty-six year old Col. Dean E. Hess, senior Air Force representative at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., opened another phase of his contradictory career when he won his parachute wings.

One of the deadliest pilots of the Korean war, according to Harold Martin in an article in the Saturday Evening Post, Col. Hess sought airborne training because he felt he wanted to know more about the men who jump from planes.

His story opens when he was an ordained minister of the Disciples of Christ with a congregation situated in several little towns in northern Ohio.

At the beginning of World War II he was classified by his draft board as 4-D. After much thought and consideration, he volunteered for pilot training because he wanted to do his part in the war. Against the advice of his friends and the leaders of his church he joined the Air Force.

Assigned to the Ninth Air Force he found the going rough at first. His fellow pilots couldn't understand the quiet, religious fellow unadorned as a Thunderbolt pilot, the colonel won the Distinguished Flying Cross for stinging an attack on a German anti-aircraft position that drew fire away from his comrades while they assaulted a com-

Platter Pusher Program Opens Sunday at Club 1

The program, a contest to determine the most popular disc-jockey of 12 picked from Columbus and Muscogee City radio stations, will run 12 weeks, with one contestant appearing each Sunday.

Balloons and ballot boxes will be in the Service Club so the audience may cast ballots for their favorite sound-wave monster, whether he play hilariously or semi-classical renditions.

Pete Watkins, the first to brave the critical ear of the Fort Benning troops, spent five-and-a-half years in the U. S. Navy and has been with local radio stations for the past nine months. He hails from New York, N. Y.

Contests die at Service Club 1 within the next three weeks are Jimmy Dillard from WDBL, Ramon Evans from WBLB, and Jimmy Deer from WDAE.

St. Barbara's Barrage Tillerymen Build Shrine

From small acorns great oaks grow—and so a passing remark gave the men of Fort Benning's 20th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion a campaign filled with a fighting spirit but conducted in the songs of a dove.

A former artilleryman, Cpl. Francis A. Castiglioni of Brooklyn, N. Y., now of Fort Bragg, N. C., returned to the post last Fall after a visit to his home in Union Springs, Ala., and said:

"Follows, how would you like to build a church?" The question was passed through the ranks of the 20th and the campaign to construct Union Springs' first and only Roman Catholic church was started.

Now each week-end between 6 and 12 men from the unit go to the Alabama city to actively participate in the construction. A groundbreaking ceremony has been held, the area cleared, and the foundation poured.

On Dec. 4, St. Barbara's day dedication services will be held, and the edifice thereafter will be known as St. Barbara's in honor of the patron saint of the field artillery.

With the planning of the seed of thought laid by the 20th soldier, enthusiasm spread and word of the project was carried to the Bishop of Mobile, who requested that the Catholic Extension Society match the $5,000 which Union Springs residents and 20th troops had set as their goal.

Back at Fort Benning work then began in earnest. Father P. G. McConville of Newton Center, Mass., chaplain of the 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, of which the 20th is a part, headed the fund-raising drive on post, and donations, by both Catholics and Protestants, soon reached $1,500.

A plot of land was donated by one of the parishioners, and the dream of the 40-member congregation drew nearer to reality, Union Springs Catholics soon would no longer have to crowd into the home of a member while Father Frederick Lawrence of nearby Eufaula, Ala., said Mass each Sunday.

Work Weekends Carrying through their original plans, which gained momentum as time for the actual building moved forward, the men from the 20th each week-end climb about a tenth of way on the road to Union Springs, go their work side by side with the parishioners in clearing the grounds for the $10,000 church, and at night they stop to share the southern-style picnic lunch prepared by the wives of the congregation.

When they are through with batches, saws, and grass cutters for the day, they can up Later, many can be seen on Union Springs' main street, escorting the girls from the church to a movie or to the drugstore for a soda.

Those who remain overnight are made welcome in the homes of parishioners. Plans are announced in advance so arrangements can be made by the hosts and hostesses for their week-end guests. Information, such as the number of 20th men scheduled to make the trip and how long they will remain, is phoned in before their arrival.

A ground-breaking ceremony recently was held, and among the Fort Benning representatives present were Major Charles Lozano of San Gabriel, Calif., and Father McConville.

The color guard was composed of Sgt. T. Zahorowski of Bridgeport, Conn.; Pfc. E. J. Hoeh of St. Paul, Minn.; Pfc. R. B. Craven of Louisville, Ky., and Pvt. J. F. Humble of Horton, Mo.

Other members of the 20th were Pvt. John H. Edwards of Arcola, S.C.; Pvt. C. R. Hannah of Grand Louisa, La.; Pfc. L. G. Burrows of Acapulco, Iowa; Pvt. J. F. Veon of New Brighton, Pa.; Pvt. E. E. Col. Edmund L. Bourke, 20th commander, and Major Adolph L. Shamba, executive officer, have been prime movers in the fund-raising campaign, according to Father McConville.

OC Declares That Alligators Are Practically Easy to Take

Few people possess any desire to meet an alligator or a snake, soon grab a log.

A native of Oklawaha, Fla., Kennon said, "Sometimes, if you would be chasing gators we'd be shoulder high in water. Every once in awhile one of them would go for the shore and if we were in the water they'd knock us down. I had one go right over my head, but he didn't hurt me."

According to Kennon, hunters shoot gators in the wet season but when they hole up in the dry season it is a little more difficult. Then, they often have to be prodded out of cave with fire and foot poles. Using these, one man prods into the darkness of a cave until he forces the reptile out.

Then another man chops at the alligator's head with an axe. Kennon has also captured a large number of snakes—cottonmouths, rattlers and coonheads—which must be captured alive to bring full value. According to Kennon the Army is now using the venom of cottonmouths for medical purposes.

Transporting the snakes was often a big problem, Kennon said. "A good many times they'd get loose in the car and hide in the upholstery. One night we had six of them get loose from the car and let them crawl around until morning. Then we got them."

Kennon's grandfather went to the Everglades 50 years ago to trade with the Seminole Indians and every year since some members of the Kennon family has hunted snakes and alligators there.

UP THE LADDER W/OJG Jerome Periman climbed another rung up the ladder last week when he was assigned to the adjutant's position in the Airborne Battalion of the First Cavalry Regiment. Mr. Periman was the adjutant with additional duties of coaching the boxing team for the Regiment during the Winter-Spring season.

COMPANY M OF 30TH GETS 20 NEW MEN The company strength of Company M, 20th Regimental Combat Team, has been boosted by the arrival of one officer and 19 enlisted men.

Second Lt. John R. McHenry has joined the company after his graduation from the OCS on post. Fourteen enlisted men arrived from Fort Jackson, S. C. They are: Andrew Lee, Sergeant; Charlie Daniels, Cpl. John W. Burns, Pfc. Charles Astor, Pfc. Olo Carter, Pfc. Curtis J. Rhone, Pfc. Graham H. Sorey, Pfc. Joseph E. Ross, Pvt. Willie E. Hughes, Pvt. Reservation A Mushroom Of Tents

Twenty quartermasters, a misplaced flagpole, and a fire which might have cost thousands of dollars, are a few recollections still fresh in the memory of a Fort Benning Civil Service veteran.

Lawrence Lee Woolbright of Columbus, chief clerk of the Infantry Center Quartermaster Section, celebrated his birthday and his arrival at Fort Benning the same day—Oct. 22, 1922—and during his 31 years on the post has worked for 20 different quartermasters.

His potentialities in the quartermaster field were recognized as an enlisted man during World War I at Camp Wheeler, Ga., where he designed a new adjustment voucher which gave the correct cut on quartermaster items. Word came down from Washington that the adjustment procedure was one of the best.

When the war ended, Mr. Woolbright had worked himself up to a second lieutenant's rank and was offered a Civil Service job by the Fort Benning quartermaster, who had been his senior officer in the Army.

Mr. Woolbright recalls the reservation had the appearance then of an enormous circus grounds with tents mushrooming everywhere.

There were only five or six permanent brick structures on the post, and a few wooden barracks for troops of the Infantry School Detachment.

Just about this same time, a master sergeant took one construction problem to heart. He spent at least 12 out of 24 hours wondering "who in thunderation had put up the flagpole in the middle of the reservation where there were 57,000 acres on the reservation to choose from."

The flagpole then was in the middle of the street near where the Infantry School headquarters now stands.

One of the most memorable incidents in Mr. Woolbright's

Officers Win Korea Awards

Two Fort Benning officers were presented decorations Monday for their service in Korea.

Lt. Col. Lytle E. Edelblute of Manhattan, Kans., received the Star Medal and 1st Lt. Leon I. Graham of Roseboro, N. C., the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant.

Col. Mack M. Green of Columbia, Tenn., Infantry Center surgeon, made the presentations at a special ceremony at the U. S. Army Hospital.

Col. Edelblute, now chief of Biological Services at the hospital, received the Bronze Star for meritorious service in Korea as a radiologist. According to the citation accompanying the award, he devoted a great deal of time to "making the only scientific approach to incision of pulmonary disease among Korean prisoners of war on Koja Island."

Before going to Korea, he was radiologist and assistant chief of the U. S. Army Hospital in Tokyo.

Lt. Graham won the Commendation Ribbon for "outstanding service while in charge of construction and establishing a mobile Army hospital in Korea." According to the citation, he "showed superior initiative in getting a section of the hospital moved and functioning within an eight-hour period."

Mr. Graham is now in charge of the Infantry ROTC camp district, Sgt. Sam G. Herdman and penary at Fort Benning.

HE SERVED UNDER TWENTY QUARTERMASTERS Lawrence Lee Woolbright Of Columbus

Civil Service career was the big fire in 1929 which burned all the Quartermaster Section's records.

"We could see the Fire Department was waiting a losing battle," said Mr. Woolbright. "After it was over, every record of every item that had ever been issued by the Quartermaster Section was in ashes."

The section then had 15,000 individual items on which to keep tab.

There was no way of knowing who had what or where it was. It looked as if the government was in for a tremendous loss.

"The next morning an order went out for the return of all unit and quarters records on quartermaster issue. When everything had been returned, there were between 50 and 60 bundle baskets of bundled records in the temporary quartermaster office.

It took four months to straighten out the havoc of the fire, but this action saved the government thousands of dollars.

"When Mr. Woolbright arrived at Fort Benning in 1922, there were only nine civilian employees in the entire Quartermaster section. Today there are over 500. Three of the early nine are still employed."

"Washington was constantly on a see-saw as far as the budget was concerned during the post's young years. Once all construction was ordered stopped and buildings salvaged, Mr. Woolbright and his salvaged order was "interpreted" as meaning to put into a state of preservation, so everything was neatly painted and put in ship-shape order. That is how the post was saved, according to Mr. Woolbright.

Mr. Woolbright, who resides at 829 Second Avenue in Columbus, graduated cum laude from Emory University and for two years, from 1915 to 1917, was principal of the Commerce (Ga.) High School.

He is married to the former Ruby M. Eppes of Starville, Ga. She is now, currently an Army second lieutenant at Fort McClellan, Ala.

ROTC Men Big For Real McCoy

2,187 Youthful Cadets Learning to Lead Infantry

Training manuals and M-1 rifles have replaced textbooks and lecture notes for the 2,187 advanced ROTC cadets at Fort Benning for their annual six-week Summer camp.

The youthful cadets, from 71 colleges and universities in the U. S. and Puerto Rico, are learning the practical application of military science and tactics theories which they studied in classrooms during the academic year.

Their course of Summer training, with emphasis on leadership, is preparing the cadets for future roles as infantry platoon leaders. Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, said the ROTC camp commandant, outlined the purpose of the training with these words: "You are here to learn to command the finest fighting men in America, the U. S. Infantryman." And during these six weeks that is exactly what the cadets are doing.

During a typical day of work the ROTC cadets may participate in as many as 10 distinct types of training. One group trains on the infiltration course, another fires the 30 caliber machine gun, and others receive preliminary instruction in the use of the M-1 rifle, the basic arm of the Infantryman, the 75 caliber pistol, Browning Automatic Rifle, and 81mm mortar. Students also study dismounted drill and leadership in the Department of Infantry weapons and tactics will occupy almost one-half of the 22 hours of instruction planned for the cadets. Ninety-six hours will be devoted to the study of Infantry weapons, while another 40 hours are allotted to Infantry tactics.

Weapons the future Infantry leaders will study include the Gas and M-1 rifle, 30 and 50 caliber machine guns, rocket launchers, 60 and 81mm and 4.2in mortars, and the 37 and 42mm recoilless rifles. Offensive and defensive tactics, ranging from rifle squad to the Infantry battalion, will cover 40 hours of instruction, including demonstrations by Infantry School troops and practical application by the cadets themselves.

Leadership training will take 30 hours of instruction this year. Subjects will include training in leadership, indications of leadership, and role of a leader in administration and command. Instruction in leadership will be emphasized by a leader's reaction test which tests each cadet in four practical situations under field conditions to demonstrate his reaction as a leader.

For the first time the cadets will be required to rate the other members of their platoons on such criteria as cooperation, initiative, appearance and military bearing. These rating reports will be similar to the "buddy reports" which are required of officers candidates in the ROTC program. They will be encouraged to consider what they believe would be the student's conduct under combat conditions.

General subjects, such as physical training, dismounted drill, parade and marching, biological, and radiological warfare, have been allotted 80 hours of the class schedule.

Athletes also are scheduled to play an important part in the training of the cadets. Intramural leagues are planned for softball, volleyball, basketball, and golf.

Biggest event on the athletic schedule will be the military field day scheduled for July 27. Competition will be held in the field events will be based on both the individual and team level in its equipped drill, manual of arms, and

Cadets Using Firing Ranges

The 2,187 advanced ROTC cadets attending Summer camp were last week using five ranges this week for firing Infantry weapons. A major portion of the cadets' six-week training program is devoted to the study of basic Infantry weapons, including the M-1 rifle, Browning Automatic Rifle, 30 caliber machine gun, hand grenade, flamethrower, recoilless rifle, and mortar.

Two Third Army officials have already inspected the training camp. Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, spent one day last week observing the cadets on the rifle range and in classroom. Major Gen. Charles D. W. Cochran, deputy Third Army commander, visited the encampment in the Harmony Church area.

Other military officials are expected to witness training here now and the end of the six-week camp July 31. Officials from 71 U. S. and Puerto Rico colleges and universities represented also will see the progress of the training period sometime this month.

Col. Forrest E. Coakson, deputy camp commander, re-emphasized this week that leadership training is being placed on major stress in the ROTC program. He stressed the qualities of a good Infantry leader and will be graded by his fellow cadets before graduation.

Athletes are playing a big role in the summer schedule, with football, badminton, horseshoe pitching, and volleyball. Basketball teams will be organized this week. Camp officials said that each week also is being devoted to physical training.

Seventy-five enlisted men from the 56th perform duties as support troops in supply, ration, break, and maintenance sections and in weapons pools and the fire department.

4,500 Reservists to Stage Invasion

Approximately 4,500 Army Reservists are scheduled to train at Fort Benning during this month and next.

They will utilize the post's firing ranges, bivouac areas, training facilities, equipment, and classrooms, and study quartermaster, chaplain, ordnance and judge advocate activities, under the jurisdiction of corresponding sections at Fort Benning, as well as receive basic training.

Scheduled to train here are the following Army Reserve Organizations: The 300th Air Station complement of Orlando, Fla., 33th General Hospital and Detachment of St. Petersburg, Fla., Third Army Quartermaster, Ordnance, Judge Advocate and Chaplain Corps personnel, Infantry Reservists and Third Army Reserve instructors. In addition to ROTC units, also will train at the Infantry Center.

The 300th Air Station complement, scheduled to be at Fort Benning from July 12 to 25, will train under the supervision of the Special Troops Command. From July 26 to August 9, the 300th General Hospital and detachments will receive basic Infantry instruction and on-the-job training at the U. S. Army Hospital. The 300th Station Hospital and its detachment will undergo similar training July 9-28.

The Quartermaster School will be held August 2 to 16. Students will train with Quartermaster units on the post and attend a supply school. Of the approximately 190 Reserve Quartermaster officers scheduled to train here, 24 will comprise the staff, 30 the general faculty and the remainder will be students. The Reserve enlisted men are expected to number about 40. The advance party for the camp will arrive July 28, the remainder August 1. Bivouacs, mess hall and classrooms will be provided by the First Student Regiment. The Infantry School will furnish necessary coordination and support for demonstrations and other facilities needed during the training period. Fort Benning's Quartermaster Corps personnel will aid in the instruction.

The Reserve group will see demonstrations of air transportability, aerial resupply, an Infantry-tank team in an attack, and receive instruction in the principles of war, organization of an Infantry division, principles of defense, map and aerial photograph reading, military leadership, and physics.

Fort Benning chaplains will conduct a Chaplain School August 2-16. Local chaplains will work with the students and instruct them in conducting Army religious services and in other duties. Regular Army training and instruction in the latest Infantry tactics will compose the Reserve group for armytrainees to be held August 16-30.

The Reserve school for instructors is scheduled for August 10-15, but has not yet been confirmed. Army Reserve units from the Atlanta General Depot will hold several sessions of range firing and browse July 13-14, July 22-23.

Two to 3637th Class Allotment men have been assigned to 3637th Ordnance Company. They are Sergeant First Class Henry F. Barber and Private First Class Allen J. Henderson.

Curriculum Adds 2 New Inf. Classes

Two new courses of instruction will be added to the curriculum of the Infantry School this month, according to Col. M. Hightower, director of instruction.

They are the basic Infantry officer course, designed to give a professional background to newly commissioned officers, such as ROTC and U. S. Military Academy graduates.

Most of the instruction will be on platoon level. The 11-week basic Infantry officer course is designed to give a professional background to newly commissioned officers, such as ROTC and U. S. Military Academy graduates.

The 22 scheduled classes, of which there are 22 scheduled this fiscal year, are authorized 20 students each. Approximately 187 West Point graduates are expected to enroll in the class which starts July 29.

Two new courses on the basic level school will be added. They are the basic Infantry officer and the officer candidate course.

On the intermediate level there is associated company commander course for company commanders and staff officers, and the advanced level school will have courses for top level officers such as battalion commanders and a staff officer.

The Infantry heavy mortar course will be conducted for regular Army or Reserve officers on active duty assigned to an Infantry unit. The course will be held August 16-30.

Most of the five-week instruction will be in the Weapons Department. Covers Wider Scope Students must be graduates of the Infantry officer candidate school, associate Infantry company officer course, or have equivalent credit.

There will be five classes this fiscal year with each class held 50 students. Also now is a wider scope of mine warfare instruction, which began last week under the direction of the Weapons Department's technique of rifle fire committees.

The study will be of U. S. mine warfare rifles has been started. Students will receive practical work in locating, laying, and removing mine fields and will learn to arm mines.

All classes must include at least five hours of mine instruction with a maximum of 15 hours. The study course will be in the regular class schedule.

A new program, dealing with the maintenance of the Infantry Weapons Department. Students will learn how to disassemble and assemble the rifle, its functions and how to repair it.

One and a half hours of the four-hour instruction is practical work. Previously only a lecture had been given on the rifle.

This problem is for associate Infantry company officers, non-commissioned officer classes, and officer candidate classes.

Five Ecuadorian Army officers spent a week on an officers tour of The Infantry School, left Friday for Washington and New York.

The group included the director of the Ecuadorian Infantry School, Major Juan Esteban Gallardo and Capt. Jaime Villacres, Luis B. Jacome, Luis A. Roforio, and others. They visited the Weapons, Automotive, Communications, and Airborne departments and saw demonstrations on the use of armor, combat boots, and sawdust fired from a mortar platoon, hand-to-hand combat, and a recoilless rifle platoon in attack.

WORK SIMPLIFIERS... John E. Smith, left of Columbia, Ga., chief clerk in the Special Services Section, and CWO E. C. Park, center, of Roodhouse, Ill., assistant G-1 for administration, receive work simplification certificates from Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, deputy commander of the Infantry School. Smith and Park completed the work simplification course and submitted work improvement suggestions which qualified them for the certificates.

Sunday Programs for Family

Service Club No. 3, directed by Mrs. Anabel (Kronum) Dade in the Harmony Church, has announced a series of Sunday afternoon events designed to bring out the entire family.

Mrs. Dade, who recently transferred from Sand Hill, has designed a program of events for "young or old, sick or weak, male or female" to be conducted each Sunday afternoon commencing at 2 p.m. until closing.

The opportunity for the entire family to be at the Service Club each Sunday afternoon without the bother of baby sitters was made possible by the establishment of a "play room."

While the little ones engage themselves in whatever it is little ones engage in, the elders can sit around the cool club playing bridge or participate in the numerous other programs being conducted—plus a snack bar.

ropan history at the University of Ohio and was working on his Doctorate at Ohio State University when he was recalled to duty.

After a stint as recruiting officer he was assigned as information officer for the 35th Fighter Wing in Japan. When Communist aggression began in Korea, the colonel asked for combat duty again.

Colonel Hess found himself on June 25, 1950, at Taegu as commanding officer of the 616th Air Base Unit. Although his organization was officially responsible for housing and feeding Korean airmen, his real duty was to train the South Koreans. So the colonel took his pilots right into combat. He felt it was a waste of time to spend hours on flight procedures and gunnery practice when all hands could learn more from actual combat. After several missions his students began to agree with the first fighter.

He shuttled his unit from Taegu to Sachon to Chinju, and finally to Khabang, a short distance from Taegu. Chinbae had only a small, inadequate airstrip, but Col. Hess and his crew were happy to be close to the fighting. The colonel himself went to Taegu to bring in the first fighter.

"Fly," became a familiar sight to the 25th Division members as together they lashed the foe.

In acknowledgement of his help the 25th Division awarded Col. Hess the Silver Star.

During the year he was assigned to the Korean Air Force, Colonel Hess flew more than 250 missions believed to be more than the total of any other fighter-bomber pilot at the time.

Not all of Col. Hess' sojourn in Korea was spent in war. During the Chinese offensive at Seoul, he assisted Air Force chaplains in setting up the famed "Operation Siddy Car."

In one day this operation moved 1000 starving, homeless orphans from Seoul to the safety of Chaiu Island. After setting them up in buildings, Col. Hess and his men continued to help them. Pooling all their supplies, money, and anything they could garner from other units, they turned everything over to the "Orphan Home of Korea." In addition they appealed to the folks at home. Hundreds of packages poured in.

Even when he returned to the States in July 1951, Col. Hess did not forget the orphanage in Korea. As soon as he returned to Air Ground Operations School, Southeast Pines, N. C., he told each class about the children. Donations amounting to thousands of dollars came voluntarily from the students.

Lawson Crew Sets Record

A maintenance crew of the 774th Troop Carrier Squadron, 46th Troop Carrier Group, set a record at Lawson last week when they made a complete engine change and intermediate inspection in one working day.

One of the two engines on an aircraft was removed and another installed, and both inspected in the record-breaking change.

Normally this takes from three to five days.

The crew, hand-picked by Line Chief M-Sgt. Andrew J. Moore, was divided into four men on the engines and ten to perform the inspection.

The four on the engine crew were A-2c Frederick J. Hedges, A-2c Donald R. Schinwey, S-Sgt. James Crossin and M-Sgt. Joseph P. Scott. Inspection team was composed of A-2c George C. Spear, A-2c Curtis R. Hill, A-2c Harley J. Hinkel, A-2c Douglas Brasher, A-2c Wayne D. Joyner, A-2c Edd Scott, A-2c John L. Scitvanich, A-2c John J. Baker, A-2c John L. Gilbert, and S-Sgt. Roland Schickelzahn.

The team was granted a three-day pass by Maj. E. H. Alberta Jr., 774th T. C. commander, at the direction of Col. James Evans, commander, 46th Troop Carrier Group.

Capt. and Mrs. Happy in Scouting

Capt. Richard F. Morgan of Company 1, 1st Student Regiment, and his wife Marie, both are interested in Scouting that they have become Scout Masters in Columbus.

Capt. Morgan is pack master of Cub Pack 128 in Edgewood. He has been on the pack committee for more than a year. He is proud to say that his pack is listed as the second leading pack in Muscogee county, with a Fort Benning pack holding the lead spot.

Last year his senior Cubs, boys turning 12 years of age, went to Atlanta in a special car of the "Man O' War" and toured Atlanta, Stone Mountain, and Northern Georgia. The State capital and Governor Talmaugh impressed the boys most.

This summer the 46 boys are enjoying outings at Camp McKenzie, the Boy Scout Camp, and Flat Rock Park. Games, swimming, and barbecue freshly roasted over an open fire, are the boys' favorites.

After the big April tornado demolished the Edgewood school, Wells Dairy Co. donated their auditorium for the use of the Cub Scouts and Scout packs. Colonel James Mabry, assistant district leader of Columbus, recently has shown films there of Hawaii that he took while stationed on the islands.

Capt. Meyer was wounded in the early stages of the Korean War and evacuated to Japan where he later became aide-de-camp to Major Gen. Walter Weible, then became a Regular Army officer. Capt. Meyer returned to the U. S. in 1951 to attend The Infantry School's advanced officers course from which he graduated in June 1952.

He has been on duty with the Combat Training Command's 29th Infantry since that time, except for the few weeks' temporary duty as-

Ingenuity Recaptures Prisoners

Private Herbert M. Wilson, Company C, First Transportation Battalion, Special Troops Command, recently received a letter of appreciation from Lieutenant Colonel Max Denton, commanding officer of the 3501st Air Police Squadron, Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, for his ingenuity in recapturing two escaped prisoners.

On June 18 two long-term prisoners escaped from the Air Base stockade. Both men were being held under maximum-security custody.

That same evening Private Wilson was driving his bus back to the air base. He overtook the pair hitch-hiking along the road and picked them up. Recognizing them, he continued on to the field and turned both over to the air police.

In 30th RCT

Globe-Trotter Settles Down

Sfc. Washington Glenn, mess steward of Company K, 20th Regimental Combat Team has traveled around considerably during his Army career.

Glenn enlisted here on August 8, 1940 and was assigned to the 29th Infantry Regiment, which, in 1941, went to the Pacific. Glenn, a cook at that time, started his overseas assignments at Guadalcanal and Okinawa.

He returned to the states in 1945 as a mess steward and was sent to Fort McClellan, Ala. He processed there and was again sent back to Fort Benning. After spending two weeks here he left for Camp Lee, Va. and again went overseas, this time to Europe. He joined the 370th Infantry Regiment in Germany and to Fort Benning. He was assigned as an instructor at the 3rd Army Food Service School on the main post. It seemed that he would finally be stationed with one unit for awhile, but he received orders assigning him to the Combat Training Command. Today Sgt. Glenn is mess steward at Company K, 30th Regimental Combat Team, where he hopes to stay put for some time.

Sgt. Glenn has been in the service for more than 12 years, spending almost nine years overseas. He has received the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart, Combat Infantryman Badge, Good Conduct Medal, United Nations Ribbon, American Defense Service Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, American Theatre Ribbon, American Campaign Medal, and the Korean Campaign Ribbon.

ROTCs Finish Night Problem

A night problem for the 2,187 advanced Infantry ROTC cadets attending a six-week summer camp at Fort Benning was completed last week.

Eight ROTC companies took part in the problem which was designed to teach movement, position, location, and sound-detection at night.

All cadets will have completed training on the infiltration course. Weapons still consume a large portion of the training schedule. The cadets have received instruction in the M-1 rifle, light machine gun, pistol, automatic rifle, rocketless rifle, and grenade.

Map reading, patrolling, leadership, and physical training also have been included in the schedule so far, with special emphasis on leadership.

The students represent 71 colleges and universities in the U.S. and Puerto Rico.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR 18

Three enlisted men have been assigned to Headquarters and Service Company 73rd Tank Battalion. They are Pvt. Billy R. Bryant, Pvt. Donald F. Fieber, and Pvt. Ben Pogue.

Seven have been assigned to Company A, 73rd Battalion. They are Sfc. William E. Flowers, Cpl. Jerry A. Lacey, Pvt. Leroy Smith, Clarence W. Thompson, Donald W. Paper, Richard W. Price, and James D. Hargrove.

70 Riflemen Vie For Team Berths

BY MARGE COBB
Nearly 70 sharpshooters, who could stand on firm ground even beside such renowned gun-toters as the old wild west produced, moved onto the Fort Benning range today to begin training for the 1933 U. S. Army Rifle Team. Of the 70 shooters, now gathered at the Infantry Center in installations throughout the U. S. and Hawaii, 12 will be selected to carry the Army khaki to the National Rifle Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. The first week in September. In the National Matches, they will compete with the best of the Marines, Navy and civilian groups have to offer. But it is a long road to be traveled before going to Camp Perry. At Camp Lejeune, N. C., for the Southeastern Regional Matches, according to Col. Frank L. Barnett, the Infantry Center's deputy G-4, who is captain of the team for the second year in succession.

Schedule
The training schedule for the 1933 Army Rifle Team is being conducted on a 44-hour week basis. It includes eye and rifle exercises, sighting and aiming, preparatory marksmanship positions, trigger squeeze and other practice firing. During sighting and aiming practice, the prospective members of the team will see a demonstration and hear a discussion of sight alignment and sight picture. They do practical work in prone, sitting and standing positions during training in preparatory marksmanship position, while trigger squeeze instruction teaches them the use of the M-2 aiming device and the spotting scope to improve trigger squeeze. There also will be a conference on the care, cleaning and checking of critical points on a rifle which affect its accuracy. The sharpshooters will fire four records on July 9, July 14 and 16 and July 22 and 24.

Record
These firing records will determine the 32 men who will participate in the Southeastern Regional Matches at Camp Lejeune Aug. 9. Then on to Camp Perry Aug. 24. Then on to Camp Perry Aug. 24. Then on to Camp Perry Aug. 24. Then on to Camp Perry Aug. 24.

Double Steal
Phillip and Hetschmidt got the sign and pulled off a double steal. George Mattie drew a walk leading the bases. Then right fielder Bill Brooks blasted a single to center and the fleet shortstop and Hetschmidt came home with catcher John Strong getting charged with error. The South receiver threw the throw in from center get by him. George Sweeney fly ball to center fielder Buddy Grimley enabled George Mattie to score the third. Rams tally. Brooks also attempted to score, was out at home plate.

Prof's have an easy time of it when they dropped the lowly Lawson Field Flyers deep into the CTC cellar with a 11-2 shutout. The Flyers are a full 11 games behind the league leaders. In Friday evening's contests, the 50th Airborne made sure that Special Troops Command was firmly entrenched in fifth place by beating the Raiders, 8-3 at Gowley Field. Charlie Stewart, the 50th's top pitcher, racked up his fourth victory while left Herb Hartman of CTC received his fifth loss of the season.

Shuffle Lineup
At Bullett Field, the Prof's shuffled their lineup slightly as they beat the second place CTC Commanders, 4-3 at Bullett Field. Dick Kenney hurled a four-hitter while Gene Mitchell, who batted fourth in the CTC lineup, was handed his third loss.

RIFLE TEAM CAPTAIN . . . Head of the Army Rifle Team for the second year is Col. Frank Barnett, deputy G-4 of the Infantry Center. Col Barnett led the 1932 squad to the National Team Trophy during the National Rifle Association Rifle Matches which were held here last year.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

At the conclusion of the Shaughnessy Playoffs, the six coaches in the 1933 Fort Benning Baseball League will sit down with Special Services sports officials and select an All-Post Baseball Team which will engage in Third Army competition. This Doughtboy team will be the first since 1920 when the post had a winning squad. Fort Benning and baseball go together like peas and hot water, and the annual diamond delights in its Infantry post always command a large share of interest in the sports calendar. There are a half dozen good playing fields scattered around the post, three separate areas, but the official league contests take place in Gowley Field, a stream-lined plant, well-lighted by minor league standards, seating 3,500 fans, and Bullett Field as well.

Less famed, but no less mighty in their own arid halls have been the Fort Benning Doughtboys, official name of post teams which have always been prominent in service competition and in winning Third Army titles. The 1932 squad included Bud Kinard, Terry Scott, Joe Scott, Joe Smith, Bill Brooks, Jim Shirley and Paul Bonar. These six plus the Silex, Harry Griffin, Ray Cathen, Tom Gallagher, Lin Carson, Ralph Terry, Bob Cronin, Herby Myatt, and Ed Strickland went after the regular season of play to win the Third Army Baseball Championship for Fort Benning.

In 1931 and 1932, there wasn't a Doughtboy all-be came a new police force featuring white eliminated the post team and substituted an intramural system of play. The 1928 Doughtboy team was well-known. It garnered plenty of laurels as it won the Georgia, Alabama and Southeastern leagues. The team which won the 1928 title was coached by Wichita, Kansas, where the squad was eliminated in the quarter-finals.

Special Services figured out a way to utilize most of the diamond talent on post this year by conducting an intramural league with teams representing every major unit stationed here. Few teams and hamlets in the lower minor leagues could match the top two or three Fort Benning League entries. The teams that are active this year, as far as we know, are the Infantry School Detachment, Professor's, Combat Training Command Commanders, 50th Airborne, School Brigade Rams, which is composed of First O. C. Regiment, First SR, Second SR, and Brigade personnel, Special Troops Command and the Lawson Field Flyers. CTC combined with the FMG Medics.

A discussion started up the other night about which players in the league would be considered for the 1933 All-Post Team. After much consideration and deliberation over a few hours at 10 p. m., we partners in crime settled upon these ballers. For the catching staff we would like Robert F. Dewes and Barney Haynes. On first base would be George Sweeney. Second base would be George Mattie, while Bill Thone and Kitch Jockey would be in a race for the shortstop position.

On third base we would like to see Frank DePaulo or Horace Conzolo. The outfield would be composed of Luther Mitchell, Buddy Grimley and Bill Brooks. The utility men, fleet-footed Phil Phillip and Ken Hart, will do.

The pitching staff will be composed of Lloyd Brill and Jim Lewey, both presently tied with 54 records. Then a Clyde Britton who has a 43 record and Gene Mitchell with a 42 record. With a 11-2 record as a CTC Carew of Lawson, who has a 44 record, and possibly Fred Taylor with a 34 mark.

To coach and play if necessary, we selected Woody Burt of 15K. It may be hard for you readers to see why Curney was picked. Well, the hurler has a fine arm with plenty of savvy on the ball. His only misfortune is to be on a club that hasn't won a ball game as yet. Ask any ball player who traded with him and most of them will agree as to his pitching prowess. This team listed above is way over the prescribed player limit for the TIC Baseball League which allows only 17 men a 4-2 record. However, there is no law which states just to be in uniform. However, there is no law which states just to be in uniform. However, there is no law which states just to be in uniform.

On this page, there is a ballot for you baseball fans to fill out and send to the Bureau Sports department. I would like to see whom you think should be on the All-Post Team. The ball will not in any way guarantee that your nominee will be on the team, but I am sure that the baseball coaches will be interested in see them and maybe using them to bid their own selection.

FATHER AND SON . . . Capt. Bickford E. Sawyer Jr., of the Training Literature Section of the Training Publications Department, visits in Washington, D. C., with his father, Maj. Gen. Bickford E. Sawyer, Army Chief of Finance. Before assignment to The Infantry School, Captain Sawyer served as a platoon leader and company commander in Korea with the 2d Division. He was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action during September 1950. A graduate of the United States Military Academy, Captain Sawyer served with the 11th Airborne Division from 1945 to 1948.

OC Regt. Grateful to 508th.

Appreciation for a job well done during an acute personnel shortage in the First Officer Candidate Regiment, merited a sincere "thank you" for 54 troopers of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team. The commanding officer of the First O. C. Regiment expressed his appreciation for the Red Devil administrative aid.

Colonel Harry M. Grizzard, in a letter to Colonel George O. Pearson, commanding officer of the 508th, said that the men performed their duties in a cheerful, courteous, outstanding, and efficient manner. "Their discipline, conduct and personal appearance were of the highest order," Col Grizzard wrote. "I assure you that the men are a credit to your organization, and it has been a pleasure to have had them on temporary duty with this regiment."

Maj. James C. Hatfield, first sergeant of the 508th, said, "It has been a pleasure working with Sfc. Morton J. Kavanaugh of Company B and M-Sgt. Teddy A. Zerkowski, NCO in charge of the men from the 320th Airborne Field Artillery."

Education Center Open Five Nights

The Army Education Center, in an effort to make its facilities available to the maximum number of Fort Benning personnel, has arranged to keep the registration office open five nights a week. This, it felt, will enable men whose duties keep them from visiting the center during regular office hours to register for USAFI courses in their off-duty time.

The registration office is primarily established for enrollment in courses offered by the United States Armed Forces Institute. Almost all courses currently available are self-study courses, similar to ordinary correspondence courses in which the individual studies a prescribed lesson plan, submits written assignments, and is given an end-of-course examination.

The new hours, effective July 13, will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday until 8:30 p.m., and Tuesday and Thursday until 10:30 p.m. The registration office is in building 2512 and the telephone number is 3-2271.

The remedial reading laboratory, also a function of the TI&E Section, is open three nights a week, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday until 8:30 p.m.

The testing section will not be open in the evening; however, appointments may be made at the registration office to take any of the general educational development tests available at the center.

Service Clubs Make Hollywood Cameras Available to EM

A new service has been made available to the enlisted men of Fort Benning by the post's five Service Clubs. Each club has obtained a supply of "Hollywood Cameras" for loan to patrons.

These book-type cameras come to the club loaded with a twelve-exposure roll of film. They will be signed out and, when the roll is "taken," are sent directly to the manufacturer who develops the film, reloads the camera, and send them back to the Service Club from which they were loaned. The only cost involved to servicemen is for developing the film.

Traffic Violations

During the period June 19 to 26, four post personnel had their driving privileges suspended and eight had their license revoked for varied periods of time.

Sgt. Herman Wilson, HQ & Hq. Sec II had his driving privileges suspended for 60 days.

Sgt. Thomas J. Moore, Company I, 20th Infantry Regiment had his license suspended for 30 days for speeding.

One civilian worker of the J. A. Jones Construction Company was suspended for 30 days on a speeding charge.

T-Sgt. Orlando A. Anderson, T-32, Lawson Air Force Base, had his driving privileges revoked for four months for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

A reckless driving charge revoked A3C Lawrence A. Hunter's driving privilege for a period of four months. A3C Hunter is a member of 43th Communication Sqdn., Lawson Air Force Base.

Sfc. Bonny E. Worford had his privileges revoked for four months for illegal use of post tags. He is a member of Hq. Btry., 198th PA Bn.

Sgt. Leila B. Browning, WAC Company, had her post driver's license revoked for four months for allowing another to operate her vehicle without driver's license.

For illegal use of post tags Cpl. Rufus J. Daniels, Hq. & Hq. Co., 3d Bn., 20th Infantry Regiment, had his privileges for an indefinite period.

Second Lt. James B. Buckley had his license revoked for four months for driving while under the influence of alcohol and speeding. He is a member of 113th Company, 2d Student Regt.

Commanding officer of the 14th Transportation Company Adjt. Pvt. Walker M. Lord's driving privileges for four months for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

HAND OF WELCOME . . . Sfc. Morton J. Kavanaugh, Jr., of Ruston La., is welcomed by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander as the general's EM aide. Sergeant Kavanaugh, assigned to the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, was accompanying Gen. Meloy on inspection trips and to meetings and special ceremonies during the week. The selection of an enlisted aide every week is part of a program designed to acquaint Fort Benning enlisted men with the work and responsibilities of top commanders and staff officers.

Sunday School No Softy's Job

Upon first meeting Pfc. Robert Nelson, one would not think of him as being a Sunday School teacher. His large, husky build would lead one to think that teaching children in a Sunday School would be too soft for him. Yet his success as superintendent of Sunday Schools at Harmony Church, Gaudalacanni, and New Caledonia, upon discharge in April, 1945, he returned to his home state of Minnesota, in December 1950 he joined the Air National Guard in Duluth and was activated in March 1951. While serving in this branch he conducted a weekly Chaplain's school which was aired over the Duluth radio station.

In both the Marines and Air National Guard he gained experience in religious work. A few days after Pearl Harbor he enlisted in the Marine Corps, serving with the Chaplains Branch in such places as New Zealand, Guadalacanni, and New Caledonia. (Upon discharge in April, 1945, he returned to his home state of Minnesota, in December 1950 he joined the Air National Guard in Duluth and was activated in March 1951. While serving in this branch he conducted a weekly Chaplain's school which was aired over the Duluth radio station.)

To fit him for this work Private Nelson has worked on his various experiences gained in the service. In December 1951, Pfc. Nelson enlisted in the Army and was sent to Fort Raley, Kansas, for training. He was then sent to Fort Benning with people called him to be selected a platoon sergeant. February 1952 saw him transferred to Fort Benning, where he once again put his talents to work. Although Pfc. Nelson has recommendations for his Sunday School work during his off duty hours, he has a responsible job with the USAFI headquarters administrative staff. Lt. Col. O. R. Brown, hospital executive officer, has voiced praise of Pfc. Nelson's work in the hospital.

What Would You Do?

1st SR Personnel Section Geared to Fast Thinking

"What would you do if a private reported for duty from another post without orders?" This is what Pfc. George W. Dalton asks people who try to find him about his job in the 1st Signal Regiment's personnel section, which has the problem of keeping the records straight for some four thousand men and women, most of whom are at Ft. Benning for only a brief time.

What is done when this recurring situation comes up is that a records man checks all recent orders from that particular post and eventually comes up with "pay dirt." Existing orders are typed up and distributed to all concerned with the private.

The section in its overall aspect is broken down like this—the cadre section handles the records of all civilians, enlisted men and officers on permanent duty in the regiment and in School District Headquarters—a total of more than 1100 persons. The non-Airborne section handles students in the First and Third Battalions—14 companies in all with an average of 200 men in each. The Airborne section takes care of all Airborne students, at a rate of 300 to 500 men a week, each of these three sections operates separately from the others as each has its own unique problems to solve and special procedures to follow.

On-Job Training
To counteract a large cadre turnover in the office as well as in the regiment, the whole personnel section conducts continuous on-the-job training to keep operations running smoothly. Perfect records on each man is the only standard, for The Infantry Center check-board demands such records before any man can clear the post.

Men follow a typical company—say an enlisted company of 500-odd students from all categories of the Army—through their first few days on post to see how this particular personnel unit handles its unique problems. One, bright, sunny morning, after this company now have to put all this information down on each man's individual record.

Job Helms
The big problem now is the special handling procedures needed for each type of individual in the class. The company contains men from the Regular Army, the Reserves, National Guard, and possibly, men from other services as well. For instance, a National Guard student is paid by Army finance, but the State that his unit is from must reimburse the Army, by way of much paper work for the personnel section.

Before very long, our company of students joyously greets that final day of graduation. They turn in their equipment and first that the personnel section has their advance travel pay, meal tickets, orders and records all ready and waiting. The whole procedure operates so smoothly that the students are on their way before they realize how rapidly they have been processed.

GM Stage Show Coming; Billed Tops by 7 Million

General Motors Corporation has scheduled eight performances at Fort Benning of its educational show, Previews of Progress, a scientific presentation which outlines the "opportunities awaiting the youth of America."

The show will be presented July 27 in Theater No. 4 at 10 a. m. and 1 p. m., July 28 in Theater No. 6 at 10 a. m. and Theater No. 2 at 2 p. m., July 31 in Theater No. 2 at noon and 2 p. m., and Aug. 1 in Theater No. 6 at 9 a. m. and 10 a. m.

It is being sponsored by the Troop Information and Education Section.

A dramatic, educational non-commercial stage show, Previews of Progress uses original experiments in popular science to develop its theme of "Unlimited opportunity." More than 7,000,000 people have seen the show.

Experiments shown during the presentation include: "The Bottle with a Tempe," a scientific curiosity used to illustrate principles in the study of strength of materials, and "Synthetic Rubber," an unusual demonstration of the manufacture of synthetic rubber developed by Avery Morton in 1949.

Other demonstrations on the program are "Bivibrational Control," showing control of mechanical vibration, "Freeze" demonstrating a wonder refrigerant which freezes flowers and runs a steam engine, "Communications," story of communication from the telegraph to the modern electronic methods of transmission; "Jet Propulsion," a capsule version of 2,200 years of jet propulsion, and "Sun Motor," showing the operation of a motor by the heat from a candle and the light from a 150-watt lamp.

SIX TO SFC IN CO. 1
Recent promotions have upped six sergeants to the grade of sergeant first class in Company 1, 50th RCT. Receiving promotions were Sergeants Levern Taylor, Richard E. Woodley, Harry D. Jones, Alfred L. Johnson, Ernest E. Miller and Walter Wilson.

On January 1, 1953, the Scandinavian country of Norway had a population estimated at 3,343,000 according to the Norwegian Information Service.

Long and successful hours of labor have produced a gardener's dream of thick, rich grass in soil that was once sandy and eroded by the rains. And in each company, laborious building projects were undertaken despite the heavy duty schedule of a rotation committed to long hours of support for The Infantry School and the Infantry Center.

Second Battalion Headquarters company employed their Pioneer and Ammunition platoon as aggressors and dug a long drainage ditch lined with sand bags through-out the company area. And a volleyball court was laid out with a pine border and filled with sawdust.

Company E troopers say they are the best drainage system in the battalion. Fifty-five gallon drums were procured and cut in halves and laid a base for carrying off rainwater. Sandbags support the old drums. A white picket fence stands in the front of the orderly room, reminding trooper-

Squadron Pins Hopes on 'AF' Derby Racer

The 48th Maintenance Squadron is pinning its hopes for a winner in the Columbus Soap Box Derby on little Derrick Barlar. Derrick, son of James K. Barlar, sheet metal shop foreman, is also hoping he will be the lucky winner, and in that way, repay the members of the squadron for their backing.

MaJ. W. L. Morris, commander, with approval of members of the squadron and the help of Lt. John Coughlin, aircraft maintenance officer, and MSgt. Clifford V. Christensen, chief inspector, set up boxes throughout the squadron. In a short time mounting enthusiasm assured Derrick of the material for his racer.

Sticking strictly to the rules of the derby, Derrick refused the willing help of members of the squadron in constructing his car.

At the end of six weeks it was ready for the paint job and the lettering was done by A-1C Benjamin F. Maldonado of Air Base Group.

Eleven-year-old Derrick lives at 501 2nd Avenue, Phenix City, and is a student at Girard School. This marks his first entry into the classic race.

Derrick's father, James Barlar, has been employed in the Maintenance Shops for 12 years.

One Busy Man

EM Aide Amazed At Many Important Jobs Our Post Commander Whips Each Week

After spending a week as enlisted agent last week accompanying the 50th Infantry Center commander on inspections and to meetings and special ceremonies on the post and in Columbus, said he was "greatly impressed by the daily schedule of his commanding general, who had hardly a spare moment of his own."

Selected to Competition
Sgt. Kavanaugh was selected as aide for a week in competition with representatives from four battalions of the 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team because of his superior manner in handling every job assigned him.

During the week he sat in on staff meetings, inspected the Infantry ROTC training camp, toured all departments of The Infantry School, and met and accompanied dignitaries visiting the post on inspection and orientation tours.

Sgt. Kavanaugh accompanied Gen. Meloy to a Rotary Club meeting in Columbus and was introduced to club members. Last Thursday's schedule included a briefing on new infantry weapons at Army Field Forces Board No. 3 and inspections of the new post housing project and Russ Pool.

Accompanies Commission
He then accompanied West Georgia Commissioner Theodor Biskin and his party on tours of the Operations Office and Weapons Shop.

Kavanaugh said his tour as aide was "very beneficial," and taught the staff and faculty for the smooth operation of The Infantry School.

During staff meetings he was given a chance to voice his opinion on some of the school's policies. Kavanaugh, who has been in the Army a little more than two years and has risen rapidly from private to his present rank of sergeant first class.

He has been at Fort Benning since the spring of 1951 when he enrolled in the airborne course. He joined the 50th in May 1951. The aide program is especially ### Post Youngster Rarin-To-Go 'Private' Cemeteries Get Special Care From Cpl.

A sprightly young kid, mildly freckled, with stars in his eyes, William E. Bray, Jr., will enter the Soap Box Derby under the sponsorship of the 29th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, Support element of the 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

The first set of stars that one sees twinkling in Billy's eyes is for the Derby; he is hoping to win. The second, however, has to do with his life's ambition to go to West Point, maybe "even don the stars of a general someday."

A kindergarten scout, Billy is the eleven year old son of Warrant Officer William Bray, of the 29th. He'll be scouting downhill in a red and yellow racer, number eight, in Class 3.

3 Months Work
Little Billy has been working eagerly for the past three months in an effort to get his slick racer ready for the big race. Salvaging an old piano case soaked in water and pasted on the frame, he designed and then painted it in red and yellow, the artillery color. He designed and then painted it in

On the side of the race is the 29th and on the nose is the coat of arms of the 29th. Billy has been planning for the race ever since last year's event found him a year too young to enter. "I've got as much chance to win next year as the next fellow," he affirms, "and I'll certainly be in there trying."

Racer Weighs 229 Pounds
Weighing in at a scant 229, including his racer, Billy was thrilled at working on the large racer. It was constructed entirely by him in his backyard. The total cost was a thrifty seventy cents less than the $10 limit set by the small family plot of one or two graves for a former church cemetery of several acres. Most are located in designated danger areas, making it impossible for civilians to maintain them.

That's where Corporal Parker comes in. He frequently visits each plot, cuts the grass, cleans up the general area, and keeps the fences around the graves in repair. If a grave should settle, he builds it up again.

Corporal Parker works with the 1st Infantry Center Department of the Post Engineer. And he has been doing such a job at this unusual occupation that the department is preparing a special commendation, which they plan soon to present to him.

Asked about his job, Corporal Parker says he doesn't mind cleaning the grass, maintaining the area, or even building up the settled graves. But he does not need for preparing the fence around each plot.

"I don't know about fencing," he said. "Them that's out don't want it and them that's in can't get out."

Film Worth 10,000 Words
NEW YORK — Love, glamor and adventure—essential ingredients of Hollywood productions—take a back seat when the Army steps into the limelight with its own miniature movie industry.
"The busy little industry cranks out features such as "Tremendous Trifles," "Keep It Clean," and "How To Get Killed in One Easy Lesson" at the rate of about 550 a year. Approximately one-fifth of these are filmed in color.
The Army-produced films play an important part in training soldiers. Used in conjunction with various training programs, the films help teach a soldier the thousand and one things he needs to know to protect himself against the enemy and the great outdoors.
The films also are used in information and educational programs for other military and civilian personnel within the Department of Defense.
Army movies roughly can be divided into three main categories: The main group concerns itself with the basic fundamentals of Army life. The men are shown how to do things that are vital to the low-down on personal hygiene, first aid, when and when not to salute, the Geneva Convention and human rights of other subjects vital to the welfare of individual soldiers.
In this category, such films as "Wise Guy," "Dangerous Journey" and "Figures Don't Lie" save Army teachers thousands of words of instruction and explanation.

ROTCs Inspected By Army Officials

Civilian educators and military officials observed training this week at the 1953 Infantry ROTC camp here.
Arriving Tuesday to see training facilities at the six-week summer encampment were Lt. Col. Philip W. Hutton, information officer in the Office of the Army's Chief of Information, Lt. Col. Frank S. Kelly and Major James W. Carender of Army Field Forces and Major Robert J. Herbert, lieutenant colonel, chief of the Reserve and ROTC Affairs in Washington, D. C. Major Robert J. Herbert, executive officer of the ROTC camp Wednesday. Others who accompanied the Army officials from the personnel and operations offices who will tour training activities.

Enlisted Aide Proud Of Service To General

The Red Devil enlisted aide to the Third Army Commander has just returned from two week tour of duty "unseasonably impressed" with his recent experience.
Terminating his tour on July 3, Sergeant Huber received a commendation and a group of officers and cigarette lighter in addition to several letters of recommendation.
The Red Devil aide will assume the duty of operations sergeant of the Post-Non-Commissioned Officers School.

New Cable Laid To Rifle Ranges

A 9.3-mile underground telephone cable is being laid at Fort Benning to provide better service for a briefing of his duties. The official tour began Monday morning at the general's residence where he met the Third Army Commander and two of his aides.
A flight to Ft. McClellan for an inspection of the 30th Infantry Division summer encampment was the first of a series of flights to Forts Jackson, Benning, Bragg, and Camp Gordon. At these installations they met officials, attended inspections, attended luncheons and witnessed reviews.
A review at Fort Bragg provided the thrill of the tour being permitted to stand on the reviewing stand with Lt. General John H. Hodge, Chief of Army Staff, Lt. General A. R. Bolling, Third Army Commander, and Major General Thomas F. Hickey, formerly commander of the XVIII Corps was "A greater thrill" declared the enlisted aide.
"When General Hickey turned around upon the termination of the review and said, 'Don't I know you?' I was amazed that he should remember me from an inspection I made years ago when I was a private in the ranks of George Patton's 101st Airborne Division." Other highlights of the tour included a conference of all the first commanders in the Third Army area. "I was impressed," said Sergeant Huber, "with the central stability of the ROTC system."

'Sad Sack' Too Battalion Receives Accident Plaques

The entire First Transportation Battalion, including the 38th, 146th, and 624th Truck Companies, sojourned recently in the post automobile building to hear results of the battalion's June accident report and advice on how to avoid future accidents.
First Lt. Jack Templeton, company commanding officer of Company A, conducted the meeting and addressed the guest speaker, TIC Assistant Director Norman E. Evans. Evans commended the drivers of the battalion for their fine safety record during the month.
The Infantry Center as a whole more than one million miles were driven with only 28 minor accidents. Of this total Transportation Battalion drivers covered more than 256,000 miles and were responsible for only two minor accidents.

Plagues Awarded

Lt. Col. Charles R. Fernandez, commanding officer of the First Transportation Battalion, announced that Companies A and D, as well as the 38th and 624th Truck Companies, had completed the month without an accident. The 146th, because it had the most "accident free exposure" miles was awarded the battalion safety plaque. Captain James V. Johnson, commanding officer of the 624th, received the award for his company.
Colonel Fernandez, the battalion's "Sad Sack Plaque," this trophy also awarded monthly, but to Evans pointed specifically to the causes of many of our highway accidents. He cautioned the drivers to

'Spelling' Not A Food, But A Hobby Of Officers

Two of the few "Spellers" in this area are in the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team. Recently they made what may prove a discovery of some historical significance.
Spelling, the sport of caves, is the hobby of Second Lieutenants Stephen Hoyt and Delbert E. Gants of Headquarters Field Artillery Battalion.
On a trip into neighboring caves the spellers found an inscription on the wall of the Nickajack cave in Tennessee. Dated 1863, the inscription is believed to have been made by a Confederate soldier. Lt. Hoyt said the inscription was hardly legible but apparently was the work of a corporal. "We are checking what we believe to be the correct name through zoological channels for its authenticity," he said.
"Spelling is relatively a new but an interesting sport," said Lt. Gants. It was Lt. Colonel Sterling Abernathy of the 30th Infantry who briefed us on the possibilities of spelling caves in this region.
According to Lieutenant Hoyt, spelling as a sport is unbeatable for soldiers. "It's the best way I know to beat the heat," he said.

Sgt. Buck Asks For FECOM Duty

McSgt. Edman M. Buck, long-time member of the First Company, First Student Regiment, leaves Fort Benning this month after volunteering for another assignment in the Far East Command.
Once retired Sgt. Buck was recalled to duty here in 1951. To date he has completed 29 years of active service, including a tour in China in the early 30s under Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, deputy commander of the Infantry School, then a lieutenant.
Sgt. Buck has the Soldier's Medal, the noncombat equivalent of the Distinguished Service Cross, which was awarded him for the rescue of a soldier suffocating in a large gasoline storage tank. While at Fort Benning he received a certificate of achievement from Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, for his hard work and organizational ability while first sergeant of First Company.
All of the sergeant's efforts haven't been as rewarding, however. A deep scar over his left eye was his reward from a mule. The ungrateful quadruped gave him a kick in the eye after Sgt. Buck had cut him loose from a burning stable.
Capt. Patrick Buck After AG School
Capt. Forest Patrick, commanding officer of the 49th Army Postal Unit, Special Troops Command, has returned to duty after attending the associate adjutant general company officers course at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.
In twelve weeks of training, the school offered classes in all phases of personnel administration, the organization of the Army Service, and the relationship of the various Army service forces, such as the Quartermaster, the Medical and Adjutant General, to combat units.
Capt. Patrick will be on special duty with Headquarters, Special Troops Command, as project officer for the 300th General Reserve Unit of Orlando, Fla. The reservists are holding summer training here.

We know how much Long Distance calls mean to service men, and we want to give you the best possible service. Here are two ways you can help:
1. If you can give the operator the out-of-town number, she won't have to consult "Information" in the city pages and your four call will go through faster. Ask for a free folder for recording telephone numbers.
2. When you may be hard to locate, it's generally better for you to call the tolls back home, instead of their calling you. Charges can be reversed.
Long Distance lines are generally less crowded before 6 P. M. and after 9 P. M.

Class 56 Graduates

Told Korea Is Limited Aggression

Warn of limited aggression have been a thousand times more prevalent than all-out wars of unconditional surrender.

Speaking at graduation exercises for OC Class No. 56, Brig. Gen. Carl P. Fritzsche told the new graduates that he has seen many Americans think we have ourselves in a mess today.

He stated out that the defeat of Germany in 1945 was so important that it persuaded a generation of Americans that this was the only kind of war that was unique in history.

"We have taken world leadership from Great Britain," Gen. Fritzsche added "who was always involved in 'brush fires' or border clashes, as they were called.

"I make reference to this international situation as it affects you gentlemen in uniform," Gen. Fritzsche told the officer candidate graduates.

Combat records and OC Class No. 56 men prove that the Army's role is the most dangerous, the most exciting and the most rewarding of man's physical, mental, and moral strength.

"There is no counterpart in civilian life for the professional soldier," the assistant commander said.

New Workers For Red Cross

Two new Red Cross workers have been assigned duties at Fort Benning's U. S. Army Hospital.

Miss Evelyn Thaxton of Dublin, Ga., has been named head recreation worker, and Miss Patty Sparks of Fitzgerald, Ga., has been named to the hospital Red Cross staff as a recreation worker.

Miss Thaxton graduated from Georgia State College for Women and did graduate work at Columbia University.

Miss Sparks, who came to Fort Benning from Fort Clayton, Panama Canal Zone, has also been a Red Cross employee for eight years.

Rams Win First Playoff Game

Defeat ISD In 12 Innings 8 To 5

A long two base hit off pitcher Hal Grilo in the top of the 12th inning evening by player-coach Barney Hayes scored three runs and enabled the School Brigade to defeat the Fort Benning champions, Infantry School Detachment, 8-5, in the first game of the TIC Baseball League's Shagwagnesse Playoffs.

The Rams and the Profs meet in the best of three series on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights while the CTC Commanders and the 50th Airborne meet in their best of three series on Tuesday afternoon, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

The Rams were ahead of ISD in the bottom of the ninth inning, 5-3. Then shortstop Kitch Joseph of ISD opened the frame with a single and Hank Leuve, first baseman, punched out another single. Rams hurler Lloyd Brill, who fell ill early worked hard and deserved a lot of credit for his performance. Catcher out Norm Harris. Mel Southall loaded the bases by getting another single off the Rams top batter.

Lewey Trips
Hal Grilo, who pitch hit for catcher Paul Ritchey in the 11th out victim of Brill. Then Jim Lewey, who has the same season record as Brill, 7-0, blasted a long triple to tie up the ball game. Ken Harris, the top of the ISD batting order, then grounded out. Out to three, leaving the score tied at five all.

Harris blasted an inside the park home run in the sixth inning to tie up the score at two all. The fast center fielder was off like a quarter horse and around second base before the ball landed in center field.

During the Rams half of the ninth, a rebound developed that game was being "hubbud under the tree." It all started when Phil Phillip, Brigade shortstop, drew a walk off Lewey, but went down on an attempted steal. Three case men, Horace Conoso got another free pass and immediately stole second base and then third.

Gus Dietzen, left fielder, smacked off a fly ball foul down the third base line and Mel Southall caught it and Conoso came in to score.

TIC Baseball Schedule

Table listing the TIC Baseball League schedule for Gowdy Field at Main Post and Bulliet Field at Sand Hill. It includes dates, times, and participating teams (Rams, ISD, CTC, etc.).

The ISD Profs meet the School Brigade Rams in a best two of three series and the CTC Commanders tangle with the 50th Airborne in a two of three series. ISD and the Rams will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, if necessary, while the 50th and CTC play on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, if necessary. All games start at 8 p.m.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

In the first place, golf is a game. But the sports angle is lost when the golfer makes a business of it. For them it is work. Golf is also work for some people for whom it is a game. Sometimes it is impossible to decide what golf really is, and we are sorry that the subject was brought up.

"In any event, I manage to slice and hook my shots and the balls always land in the rough or woods when they are supposed to be on the fairways and greens. One of these days, they will straighten out.

First off, to play the sport, you select three companions who look as if they know less about the game than you—preferably strangers—and nine out of ten cases, they beat the living daylight out of you. Anyhow, you and these three innocents comprise a foursome, which is what you want when you play golf. (Why a foursome, I do not know. In the book?)

Also you usually play golf in shorts and trousers. So many people around.

With the members of your group, you wind your way to where a crowd of morose, silent individuals is swinging at tufts of grass and empty cigarette packs. You may think at first you are in the wrong place. But, no. You are at the first tee.

When your first session is begun, about an hour or so after arrival, you keep your feet as close to the hole as you can while pelting with postmarks on the skin, on a little piece of turf, a seat at pedestal, stuck into the ground. This for some duffers requires a great deal of patience.

The approved method is to take the ball off this pedestal with a slender club. This is a golf club. (A club is also something you join for business reasons, and which collects money, duties and delinquency notices, keeps the grass cut on those parts of the course which you almost never cover a buffet on the maid's night off.) You should have more than one of these to play with — golf clubs.

Now in position with the ball balanced, the player rests his club head behind the ball, fixes his stare upon the ball—kind of an interlocking look. Then, as you begin to draw the club back, pour steam along a hypodermic state that would be the envy of Svangari or a practitioner of the double whammy. You are ready to hit the ball, and in fact, you will probably make some greater waves than that.

I had the experience to observe one golfer and categorized it "department method." This is the kind of method that finds the duffer concentrating on each step of the process with the intensity of a chess expert playing 25 games blindfolded. Sometimes the player's lips move as he recites his golf beads, and you can almost see him think at each step of the procedure. The grip, the stance, position of the head and eyes, left arm, right arm, right hip, left hip, right shoulder, wrist-cock, wup, wup, best watch that right arm—left hip, now, weight on the left leg, follow through.

While this type player is in the halfway hole, it is best for

Warmin' The Bench

When July 14 comes to Cincinnati's Crosley Field and the 27th playing of the 21 year old All-Star series (there was no game in 1936 because of wartime restrictions) there will be few more interested parties in turnstile receipts than the Association of Professional Ball Players.

Since its inception July 6, 1933 in Chicago's Comiskey Park, the Babe Ruth hammering a homer for a 4-2 American leap win, 799, 128 fans have poured $1,275,620 into the box office.

And the lion's share, everything above actual expenses, has gone to the sponsoring Association for their welfare support and for the 100,000 ball players and families. The first eight games kicked in $238,384 to these players.

During WWII these games netted $287,714 for wartime relief organizations. Service ball clubs and the USO.

High mark receipts was registered in the 17th game at 4:24. Santee ran the fourth fastest mile ever recorded. Only Guler before him set the record at 4:21.4-4:01.5 and John Landy's 4:02.2. He finished Santee and the unconquerable four-minute mile.

One of the chief reasons for Milwaukee's success this season is their productive farm club system. Five of the best regulars (Bill Ruster, Eddie Krawiec, Dick Crandall, Jack Dittmer and Del Crandall) were developed in minor league clubs in 1952.

Starting pitchers Don Liddle, Bob Hall and Johnny Antonelli and relievers Alfie Johnson and Dave Cook are also farm products. At present the club owns or has working agreements with 12 farm teams, with Toledo topped the list.

508th Confident Of Winning TIC Swim Title For 3rd Year

The swimmer believes they have the pep and aquatic know-how to take the approaching meet. Results of daily workouts at Bryant Wells, Russ and Sand Hill Pools, have convinced the mermen that they will win the title.

"We've got our sights fixed on the trophy," Major King said, "and we aim to get it."

Jim Moore, newly elected team captain, and co-captain Bernard Latman, are putting the swimmers and divers through their paces every afternoon. Both men expect the team to lower several marks recorded at the 1952 meet.

Team manager Art Boyle is doing a great job handling the team's records for this year.

After tagging up, here is where the fun begins.

Third base coach Ed Gulvisky was out of the coaching box when the pet from South Carolina's trying to get Conzolo at home. ISD coach Woody Burt protested the score on the basis that the runner was out of the coaching box. The umpires, at present the Burt man stroking and Gulvisky, objecting to strenuously, was given the seven-

Another protest came up over Conzolo and whether he was safe or out since there was interference on the play. After much moving, by players and umpires, the game was continued over Conzolo and Conzolo came in to score later on in the inning.

Both teams in the extra innings had men in position to score. But masterful pitching by Brill and Conzolo, who relieved Burt, prevented scoring until the top of the 12th frame. There the Rams tallied.

With two out, George Matile walked and stole second base. Brooks walked. George Swyers got on base because of an error committed by Josie Haynes, who had other opportunities to be the hero of the game, connected and the game was in the bag.

A matter of baseball ethics came up when Burt hauled out catcher Andy Zakanyeh after he ISD received committed two errors on which men scored. Paul Ritchie came in to catch for the Profs and a dejected Zakanyeh walked off the playing field in the middle of the inning with the Rams at bat.

On Friday evening, CIC and STC played a make-up game and the Raiders came out on top, 4-3. The other games that were postponed during the regular season, ISD vs STC was cancelled, and Lawson Field forfeited to the 98th Airborne, 7-0.

Athletic and Recreation Officer, claims, "That team should make a clean sweep of the entire meet, because of the early workouts, and a head start on the opposition."

New red and white swim suits have arrived and will be worn for the first time by the team, on the 3rd and 24th of this month when the team enters the first meet of the Fort Benning tournament.

Lt. Bob Carmichael, Red Devil.

Spotlighting Sports

You to head for the 13th hole and refreshments. Golf gives such a player brain trouble. Much attention is given by the experts to what they call the mental side of the game. This is a strong medicine for dubs, who should leave this side of golf to those who can figure the odds in a fast crap game.

After you finally get the ball off the pedestal, you keep worrying it along the ground with various other tricks of different shapes and lengths. In the general direction of the green and eventually the cup or hole in the green. The cup is a long way off, and is what is known as a receding object. Eventually, however, you poke the ball into the cup. After you finally sink the ball, you look around and ask who the heck is keeping score and ask him to mark you down with a four, or no, maybe it is five to be perfectly honest.

That is all there is to golf. When this process is repeated 18 times, it is a game or a round of golf. Before departing the course, you pay your foursome partners off.

Capt. Joe Ondisko of Second SIC is a retired marble chumpion from Ohio. Like all other marble champions, he has retired from the game because of an injured knuckle.

All sports fans here at Benning will be sorry to see Frank DePaulo of ISD leave. Frank, one of the few all-around athletes on post, has been discharged last week and headed back to Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Another sports figure who will be leaving is Charlie Urbanovich of Lawson Field. The Flyers baseball and basketball figure will be transferred to San Antonio, Tex., within the next few weeks.

773rd Observed Birthday In Spirit Of Its Motto

Fort Benning's 773rd Tank Battalion observed its 12th birthday Wednesday in the spirit of its motto, "Fit Via Vi" — Forward With Force.

After 12 years of tough training and grim combat the 773rd is now serving in the vital role of a supporting unit for The Infantry School.

Under its present commander, Lt. Col. John O. Woods the battalion and its attached units play a big role in preparing today's students to be tomorrow's combat officers and soldiers.

Organized in July, 1941, as the 73rd Anti-Tank Battalion, the unit later became the 773rd Tank Destroyer Battalion and finally was designated the 773rd Tank Battalion.

When Fort Benning became the 773rd's new home in August, 1951, it was another in a long list of stations at which the unit has been stationed, including Camp Shelby, Camp Claiborne, Fort Hood, the Dyer Corning Center at Shiloh, Camp Artillery, and Camp Polk.

Originally designated as a National Guard unit and allotted

OCs Dance, Dine At New Patio At Club

Dancing and dining at Victory Pond is a new attraction recently added to the Officer Candidates Mess at Victory Lodge.

The concrete walk, 80 feet square, was first used during the Fourth of July weekend and will be open every Saturday and Sunday this summer. Local and soldier bands will be featured each week.

The patio, built under the supervision of 2nd Lt. Albert Nichols, assistant SSO, 1st OC Regiment, is situated in a landscaped area near Victory Lodge. Tables and chairs have been placed around the patio to accommodate officer candidates and their guests.

The OC Mess, which is modeled after officer and NCO clubs, is under the supervision of the Central NCO Mess. Cpl. William H. Shubin is club manager and Pfc. Robert D. Harvey is assistant manager.

Free-Fall Master 'Chutist in 508th

A three-year veteran free-fall and master parachutist is being ment as a parachute rigger for duty with the 508th line company, the newest addition to the roster of George Company, 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

Intending to recruit this month, Private Darrell F. Branstetter, formerly of the Airborne Department, has left his former assignment as a parachute rigger for duty with the 508th line company.

His rather outstanding record as a trooper was highlighted in May, 1952 when he took third place in a jump contest sponsored by the Airborne Department. With a prize of a three-day pass and a ten-dollar bill, he ended his wife, Virginia, took off on their honeymoon. Private Branstetter has had 89 parachute jumps but into his boots since graduating from school. Two of these were free falls which he described as frightening only "before I left the plane." Jumping from 2000 feet he pulled the ripcord 500 feet later.

Prizes Will Be Offered In Supply Economy Move

The Infantry Center Special Services Office, in conjunction with the Comptroller's Office, is offering cash prizes in a contest to publicize the cost-conscious and supply economy program at Fort Benning.

The purpose of the contest is to furnish new ideas for billboard display on cost consciousness or supply economy.

Only enlisted men and civilian employees, including those at Lawson Air Force Base, are eligible to compete for the $15 first prize, $12.50 second prize, and $10 third prize.

Ideas may be submitted verbally or as sketches, rough drawings, slogans, pictures, or cartoons.

Entries are to be submitted to the Infantry Center Special Services Office or the Comptroller's Office before midnight July 31. They will be judged on originality and usefulness and no entries will be returned.

Entrants may call Major Norman R. Huoston at 2-2121 or Lt. Albert B. Fitch at 3-3155 for further information.

Columbus Lions Hear Japanese

A Japanese National Safety Forces officer attending the Infantry School was guest speaker at a meeting of the Columbus Lions Club on Tuesday.

Superintendent Third Class Tadamasa Sakai, a student in the Japanese National Safety Forces school, spoke on Japan in the Pacific War.

Sakai, whose equivalent U.S. rank is major, is a graduate of the post-graduate department of Tokyo University. He was a drafted into military service in Japan in 1942 and served as a quartermaster officer until 1945.

He joined the Japanese National Police Reserve in February 1950, and now commands the 54th Infantry Battalion in Tokyo.

Before becoming a member of the police force he was in the U.S. Army Major Gerald Cook, who is escort officer for the 54 Japanese NSF officers at Fort Benning, and NSF Superintendent Third Class Jiro Tokuyama, instructor, also attended the meeting.

Awards for ROTC Competitions to Fill Military Field Day

A Military Field Day highlight of competition among cadets attending the Infantry ROTC camp, has been planned for July 27. Representatives from each of the 18 companies taking the Summer training will participate in the exercises to determine the best-drill squad, platoon, and individual, the best-trained 81-mm mortar squad and 1 1/2 ft machine gun team, the fastest four-man oral relay team, and best physically qualified cadet.

Awards also will be presented to the cadets who assemble, in the shortest length of time, such weapons as the M1 rifle, carbine, and machine gun. Other awards will go to the cadet who is most accurate in throwing a grenade, the cadet who can throw a grenade the greatest distance, the cadet with the best command voice, and the winning team of cadets in a tug-of-war contest.

ROTC camp officials have reported that a special series of competitions, in addition to the Military Field Day, has been established with the purpose to encourage competition between individuals and companies.

Awards also will go to the outstanding cadet in each platoon, company and battalion, officials said. Winners will be selected by ROTC marksmanship awards will be presented before the camp closes.

SMITH APPOINTED 2d Student Adj.

Captain Robert L. Smith was recently assigned Adjutant of the Second Student Regiment, replacing Major William Knudock. Major Knudock will start the Adjutant Infantry Officer's Advance Course this month.

Captain Smith recently returned from EUOCON where he served as assistant adjutant with the First Infantry Division in Bamberg, Germany. A graduate of Georgetown University, School of Foreign Service, he received his commission in 1945, after completing Officer Candidate School here.

The captain led the army in 1944 in Alexandria, Va., and has served in the Pacific and in Korea.

Anniversaries Marked By Proud Units On Post

'King of Battle,' Medics, 'Gen's. Lawyers,' Celebrate

Artillerymen at Fort Benning joined all other members of that proud branch of service last Tuesday in observing the 178th birthday of the "King of Battle" while next Monday and Wednesday the Medical Corps and the Judge Advocate General's Department—will observe theirs respectively.

Shortly after the Revolutionary War the colonies consolidated all their field guns, siege mortars, and fixed coast defenses into a single unit, and in 1792 were re-named the American military artillery.

First formed into three regiments, the artillery has become one of the three largest branches of the Army. In order to maintain its hereditary position in the military forefront, the artillery is now being reorganized to play a prominent role in atomic warfare.

Of the three artillery units now assigned to Fort Benning, the 41st Field Artillery Battalion has been here longest, having been organized here in 1948 by cadre from the 54th Field Artillery.

Assigned to 30th The 32nd Airborne Field Artillery Battalion is assigned to the 30th Airborne Infantry Regiment and its team. It is an outgrowth of the 20th Glider Field Artillery Battalion which served in World War II. The 32nd was re-activated under the command of Col. John W. Grady in August 1951. In six months the "paratroiler" reached a degree of efficiency that took World War II "rockets" outfit a year to attain.

The most recent artillery unit to be assigned to the Infantry Center is the 16th Field Artillery Battalion. Its history dates back to 1847. It was active in the Civil War as the Third Kentucky Volunteer Infantry. The 16th participated in the Spanish American War and both world wars.

On December 24, 1951, the 78th Engineer Combat Battalion received the 330th Searchlight Platoon. (See BIRTHDAYS, Page 15)

Two Get Staff Assignments

Appointment of two officers to general staff assignments at the Infantry Center has been announced by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., commanding general.

Lt. Col. William W. Sellers of Cumberland, Md., has been appointed deputy chief of staff succeeding Col. George W. Childs of Belden, Nehr., who will attend the Armed Forces Staff College this fall, and Col. William J. McConnell of Shreveport, La., has been named assistant chief of staff, succeeding Col. Sellers. Col. McConnell is presently deputy for training of the ROTC.

Col. Sellers was a member of the 331st Infantry Regiment, 83d Division, in Europe during World War II and in 1946-47 commanded the 112 Military Police Battalion at the Army War College, Washington, D. C. A 1948 graduate of the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., he was assigned to the 789th Headquarters Group in Heidelberg, Germany until coming to the Infantry Center. ## Ideas Sprout 'Lettuce' Long Green Given Out By Suggestions Judges

Four civilian employees and a Army captain have been presented cash awards and certificates for their work improvement suggestions. On the receiving line here were:

Thomas C. Joiner, 1560; Albert L. Martin, 1125; Mrs. Elmont B. Black, 325; Miss Beverly G. Goins, 140; and Columbus, Ga. Police Officer W. E. Fairbanks.

Joiner, employed in the Ordnance Section, suggested a mechanical travel lock for the inside of a tank turret to lock weapons in place during problems where weapon are required to be in firing position.

The suggestion, according to the situation, is of great value since tanks now are operating with two crew members rather than five because of personnel shortages. It is estimated that $5,000 will be saved annually through the improvement.

Signal Section Suggestion A method of opening and closing testing meters when repairs are required was suggested by Martin of the Signal Section. Formerly broken meters had to be replaced with new ones, but certain types of meters could not be replaced, which left a testing unit out of use. An annual savings of $8,000 was estimated as a result of the suggestion.

Section suggested a new filing system to make follow-up requisitions easier, saving the government an estimated $504 annually. Joiner suggested a memorandum receipt property for the ROTC camp was designed by Miss Goins. (See LONG GREEN, Page 3) use provides close control of the property and saves an estimated $365 annually.

Litter Idea
Capt. Fairbanks of Medical Company, 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, suggested a method of locking the nut on the bolt which holds the extension bar. The litters, used in airborne operations, are subject to rough treatment, sometimes resulting in a useless litter. Estimated annual saving on salvaged litters is $300.

Officials Praise Enlisted Aide

Praised as "an outstanding young soldier," the Third Army Commander's enlisted aide, Sgt. Arthur Huber, selection was termed "justified in every way" by the Third Army Commander, the Infantry Center Commander, and the Commander of the 508th Airborne RCT.
Addressing Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy, TIC Commander, the Third Army Commander, Lt. Gen. Alexander Bolling declared, "Although I have observed Sergeant Huber only this short time, I do not hesitate in saying that he is an outstanding young soldier... He applied himself enthusiastically and cheerfully and displayed the finest characteristics of behavior and courtesy."
General Meloy forwarded the commendations and endorsements and added that Huber's performance brought "credit not only to himself but reflects admirably on the entire command."
Presently operations sergeant of the Post NCO School, Sergeant Huber, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, received a personal letter from General Bolling which said in part, "It is with pleasure that I commend you for your outstanding and efficient service during the past two weeks as my enlisted aide. Your selection as the outstanding soldier at Fort Benning, Ga., was a distinct honor and participation to compete and win serves not only as personal gratification but also reflects admirably upon your record and is indicative of the confidence that was placed in you as an individual to represent your station and the Third Army area as a whole. After meeting you personally, I am convinced that your selection was justified in every way."
Red D. E. Williams, Col. George O. Pearson, extended his appreciation and congratulations to the sergeant for "a job well done and for maintaining the confidence placed in him by the command. Selected as the outstanding soldier at Fort Benning," Colonel Pearson continued, "you have represented the type soldier indicative of the high standards and the reputation of the 508th Airborne RCT."
When selected as enlisted aide, Sergeant Huber was platoon sergeant of the Intelligence and Communications Platoon.

Benning Host To Brazil Gen.

The commander of the Brazilian Air Force Division arrived yesterday afternoon for a three-day visit to the Infantry School.
Brig. Gen. Nestor Pomba Brasil conferred with Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry School commander, and Brig. Gen. Carl F. Pritschke, assistant commandant, following his arrival.
Immediately after the conference, he received a general orientation on the school's training methods and facilities.
His itinerary today includes a visit to the Airborne Department and Operations Office, and a tour of the rifle platoon defense area. He also will see a demonstration of a rifle and weapons platoon in an attack, and will be guest of honor at a reception and dinner this evening in the Main Officers Mess.
Tomorrow he will visit the Weapons Pool, Automotive and Communications Departments, engineering training area, and the Weapons Department's problem areas.
The Brazilian general was accompanied by Army Major Magus Smith, escort officer.

Privates Attending Food Service School

Pfc. Bobbie L. Jackson and Pfc. Richard W. Price, Company A, 773d Tank Battalion, are attending the Third Army Food Service School on post. Pfc. Clyde B. Smith of Company A has completed a course at the school and is now a cook in the company.

COLORFUL CEREMONY OF FORMAL GUARD MOUNT IS REVIVED Third Battalion Holds Review on 508th's Drill Field

508th Holds Formal Mount At Sand Hill

An old and colorful traditional mounting of the guard—formal mounting of the guard—being revived at Sand Hill.
On the drill field of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team every Friday afternoon, music of the 122d Army Band strikes a martial cadence to the interior guards by officers of the day and of the guard.
Every week, one battalion is assigned formal guard mount duties and the review is run "according to the manual" with Class A uniforms, sharp commands, and exaggerated facing movements emphasizing the spirit of the ceremony.
The battalion sergeant major is the key man of the show, the liaison man between officers and enlisted men. His movements are precise and military to the extreme, so that his appearance was his nomination as "star" of the review.
Visitors are invited to witness the formal guard mount, which is held at 4:30 p.m. at regimental Headquarters.

CTC Catches Cleanup Fever

Today the watch word for the men of the CTC is "Cleanup." Every man in the command is taking part in this drive to make their area not only the outstanding area of Fort Benning but of any installation in the Army.
The order of the day is cleanup, trim, pick-up, and be proud of your own area. Each unit of the CTC is envious of the job they are doing and a little point applied to a spot by one unit immediately becomes the signal for all other units to do something a little better.
"The Sand Hill area, which at one time was not the place to make one admire the landscape, is now becoming an area of neatly cut grass. Banks along the roads that at one time were unsightly are now neatly sloped or terraced. The usual roadside collection of papers, broken branches, and what-have-you, are a thing of the past. The men of the CTC have worked wonders with a landscape that would have made others tremble with despair.
Not only is Operation Cleanup being carried out on the outside of the area but is being applied to the inside as well. This is not an "all front and no back" maneuver. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 310 Infantry Regiment, was awarded the plaque for the month of July for having the best mess hall, so they immediately began to repair and redecorate the inside of their mess hall. Being the best wasn't just a goal, it had to be better. That is the spirit prevailing throughout the CTC in this campaign, "not just enough, a little better."
Although great strides have been made, the job is not yet done. CTC is satisfied that his area is second to none at Fort Benning.

Post Will Stage GM Progress Show

General Motors "Previews of Progress" will be shown eight times a week at the Post Theater. The show is comprised of eight pertinent popular science shows of the advantages and opportunities afforded the youth of United States by the breaking of a goblet with a musical note. "Freen," the wonder experience in amusements, "Propulsion," depicting the history of jets dating back 2,000 years; and "Sun Motor," harnassing the sun's energy.

Group Picks Barry Story

The Fort Benning Little Theater has selected Philip Barry's "The Philadelphia Story" for its opening production on Oct. 16 and 17. The play will be held at Brown Hall Aug. 17.
Mrs. Carl C. Hardy will direct the sophisticated comedy made famous by Katherine Hepburn's portrayal of Tracy Lord. Her in-birthed, romantic daughter of the "privileged class" will be played by Mrs. Hardy received her degree in the field of directing from Calhoun University and has had extensive experience in amateur play production.

Your Army Education Program On Post

Since the Department of Defense instituted the Army Education Center Program, Fort Benning's Education Center has grown in facilities and stature with each passing year. At the present time an individual, no matter what his education level or interest, may attend or take part in civilian-type instruction from the elementary grades through the second year of college without leaving the post.

USAFI offers in multitude of courses ranging in level from low elementary through advanced graduate level. Besides offering academic subjects, USAFI offers courses in the vocational field of education. When past strength and interest wane, USAFI offers study courses as set up with qualified instructors to teach the student on off-duty time.

The Infantry School Insignia

The Infantry School insignia symbolizes the ideals and the role of the institution and it represents. The blue shield bearing a bayonet in its center and the inscription "Follow Me" across its top suggests the story of the Infantry. The shield itself is similar to those used by the foot soldiers of the Middle Ages in color and design.

Laundry Rescues Doggie Before Bag Hits Washer

What have you lost lately? A doggie in a laundry bag? A wedding ring? Money? Your little black book? Well, chances are that if you missy over to the Quartermaster's laundry the folks there will be waiting with the welcome sign out your doggie in the window, and your ring, money, and little black book safely cached away and waiting. Virtually everything comes to the laundry sooner or later, according to Capt. Vincent Necci, laundry officer, not excepting the little dog that arrived in a bag. He was none the worse for wear, however, having been found and rescued before the bundle started its crushing way through suds and water.

Other things that have shown up at the laundry, according to Capt. Necci, include medicines, p a w n tickets, watches, keys, Bibles, signal, address books, cuff links, false teeth, and, upon occasion, a bottle containing the stuff that "cheers". However, according to Capt. Necci, everything that comes to the laundry in bottles is not strong drink. There was the case of the bottle warmer, the bottle and the formula. A distraught mother wring her hands while baby wailed and papa double-quickly it back to the laundry when the loss was discovered. The laundry, of course, had them. "And a distraught bride-to-be stood in a post chapel while her flustered bridegroom red-faced it over to the laundry to retrieve the little gold band.

The laundry officer takes all these occasions with becoming grace, but if the truth were known it is a pretty safe bet that he wishes to high heaven his patrons would clean out their pockets before putting their laundry in the bag—and then look in the bag.

54 Pistol Marksmen Here For Army Team Tryouts

BY MARGE COBB
Bull's eyes just don't have a Chinaman's chance at Fort Benning these days.

With the 54 crack pistol shots selected from U. S. Army installa-tions around the world to train for the 1954 Army Pistol Team, even the minute ring within the bull's eye is getting a little weak under the pressure.

Prospective team members, the best shots from Army posts in Europe, Puerto Rico, Panama Canal Zone and 18 states in the U. S., are vying for seats on the team which will participate in the National Pistol Matches Aug. 23-25 at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Major Ellis Lea of Charleston, W. Va., and The Infantry School's Weapons Department, captain of the 1953 team, puts his men through a rigorous 46-hour weekly training schedule to determine who will represent the Army in the Camp Perry competition.

The candidates are on the range daily, firing their .22, .33 and .45 caliber service pistols at 25 and 50 yards. They are also on the range from 30 to 100 rounds of practice sessions.

29 Eliminated By Army Rifle, Pistol Teams

Twenty-nine candidates have been eliminated in trials of the Fort Benning rifle and pistol teams. The 51 men who were seeking places on the pistol team, 39 are still in the running. Fifty-one will be chosen to represent the rifle team.

Shooters Will Be Comfortable At Camp Perry
FORT McPHERSON — The 1953 National Rifle and Pistol Championships will be conducted by the National Rifle Association of America on the Ohio National Guard Ranges at Camp Perry, Ohio, beginning Aug. 20 and running through Sept. 7.

The Camp Perry facilities were made available by the Adjutant General of Ohio, and a battalion of Marines have been assigned to the camp to operate the range.

Programs for the events and individual entry forms can be obtained from the National Rifle Association office at 100 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C.

A limited number of M1 service rifles will be available at Camp Perry for issue to members of the NRA and Military personnel who are properly identified by appropriate credentials.

Service ammunition will be issued to high power rifle and 45 caliber pistol competitors for use in NRA matches, but practice ammunition is not available, and military personnel entering the matches are advised to bring their own ammunition for practice firing.

JOE BENNER... top pistol shooter

Benner Leads Pistol Team In Shooting

M-Sgt. Huelst L. Benner, World and Olympic pistol shooting champion, continued to pace firing at Fort Benning as the number of candidates for the Army Pistol Team was cut to 39 on Monday.

Curtis is no novice at the firing range. He captured the 1942 National Individual Matches and took home the Custer Trophy, named after Gen. George Armstrong Custer. This was the first time an Army man had won the Custer Trophy since 1905.

Politics Make Strange Bedfellows!

Serves You Anywhere

COSMIC QUEEN... Talk of trips to Mars, the moon and other similar spots have been spurred on by the recent selection of lovely Mari Blanchard as "Cosmic Queen" of Interplanetary Space Travel of 1953. If she goes to the person making the first flight, there should be no limit to volunteers.

STRICTLY FRESH

A BOOK of poems was returned to a small-town library after being checked out since 1895. Probably by a slow reader.

Detectives spotted a suspicious-looking man and took him along when checking a robbery only to have him identified as the holdup man. Guess you'd say he was one holdup man held up by the long arms of the law.

Ambling for a driver's license got a middle west motorist jailed for intoxication when officials noted his untidy gait. Suppose even in the gasoline age a rider must watch his gait.

A Maine lady picked up a rock to toss at a cat and found some long-tail jewels in her hand. Sounds like a case of happy happenings.

A power-saw blade tore itself loose and zoomed through houses, walls, the head of a bed, and landed in a field. Just another flying saw-ear!

POOR CINDY... Cheerful Cindy Robbins sits on top of a stack of bills the $1,500,000 which has been given away as prize money on the TV show "The Big Payoff." However, the smile probably comes from the fact that it is the sponsor who foots the bill each week, not she.

Birthdays

The local unit is composed of six 800,000,000 candle-power lights. The missions of the platoon in combat is to light the battlefields for night-firing missions. The 530th whose motto is "The Way," executes approximately 2,000 missions for The Infantry School each year.

The remaining artillery unit is the 27th A.A.A. (anti-aircraft battery). It is attached to the 18th Field Artillery Battalion and performs all training problems requiring anti-aircraft support. The 27th has the distinction of being the only strictly anti-aircraft unit stationed here.

Medica Join Observance
On Monday the Fort Benning Medical unit will join with the entire Army to observe the 178th anniversary of the Medical Corps, organized in 1775 at the request of General George Washington.

Fort Benning's hospital, which was organized in 1918 when Camp Benning was established, has made great progress in the field of medical research since that time.

Col. Mack Green, of Columbia, Tenn., hospital commander, explained some of the hospital's operations during the past year.

In 1952, over 19,000 patients were admitted to the hospital at an average of 42 patients each day. This accounted for an average of 722 beds being occupied by Major Walter Reed of the 27th. Figures show that 570,888 out-patients were treated.

During the last twelve months, 2,187 major operations and 2,138 minor operations were performed. Immunizations for the year total—entire Army to observe the 178th anniversary of the Medical Corps, organized in 1775 at the request of General George Washington.

At Fort Benning, Col. John A. Carrigan, staff Judge Advocate, looks forward to another busy year of supervising military justice, giving legal assistance, and handling government claims.

Established by Congress in 1772, 29 days after the first Articles of War were written, the department's head was originally referred to either as the "Judge Advocate" or "Advocate General." In 1884 the designation "Judge" came into official use.

The department, which prior to World War I included only officers, grew to 425 officers by 1918 and expanded to 2,800 officers during World War II. Following the war, the War Crimes Division was established as part of the department and was given responsibility for prosecution of Axis war criminals.

The sobriquet "The General" of great value.

Many Babies Born

One cheerful note can be observed in such statistics as that 2,412 babies were born in the hospital," Col. Green said.

At present there are 41 doctors stationed on the post. Along with them are 30 medical service corporals, 69 nurses, 312 enlisted men, and 236 civilians.

The Army Medical Corps has a long list of noted doctors and scientists whose contributions to medicine have benefited humanity throughout the world. Perhaps the best known is the discovery by Major Walter Reed of the transmission of yellow fever in 1900.

"The General's Lawyers" celebrate their 178th birthday next Wednesday.

colt and was assigned to the Airborne Department for two years before assuming duties as assistant secretary of The Infantry School.

He served with the 17th Airborne Division in Europe during World War II and won the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal, and Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster.

"Lawyer" comes from the fact that acting orders from the Department of the Army, the Advocate General can represent a general in court in a case involving the interests of the government.

At Fort Benning the Judge Advocate has jurisdiction not only for the Infantry Center but also for Orlando Air Force Base and Eglin Air Force Base.

Benning Controller Leaving For Similar Hawaiian Post

Col. Daniel H. Hundley of St. Louis, Mo., Infantry Center controller since 1951, leaves August 1 for duty as Army controller in Hawaii. He will be replaced by Lt. Col. Norman Campbell of Ocean Grove, N. J., now assistant controller.

Col. Hundley, who spent many hours working in the interest of the education of children of military personnel, has been a well-known civic leader at Fort Benning. His wife also was active in civic and social affairs and served as president of the Fort Benning Women's Club.

Col. Hundley was a student at the Infantry School in 1932 and 1933 and returned in 1940 as a staff officer and instructor for two years.

He was in the Philippines from 1929 to 1930, in Puerto Rico from 1931 to 1937, and during World War II was chief of staff of the 43rd Infantry. He was commanding officer of the 103rd Infantry in the Solomon Islands and was with the G-3 Section of the U.S. Ninth Army in Europe. In Japan from 1949 to 1950, he was assigned to G-1 Section of GHQ and

Review Held For Retiring Colonels

A review of approximately 1,900 Fort Benning troops paid final military tribute to two retiring colonels at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Col. Frederic H. Bockoven, post dental surgeon, of Newark, Ohio, was retiring after 37 years of active service. The former staff judge advocate, Col. E. J. Walsh of Washington, D. C., was marking the end of 32 years of active service.

The colonels reviewed troops of the Second and Third Battalions of the 30th Infantry Regiment and the 41st and 181st Field Artillery Battalions at French Field. Music was provided by the 122nd Army Band.

Participating in the retirement ceremony were Lt. Col. S. H. Abernathy of Fort Seward, Ark., executive officer of the Combat Training Command, who was commander of the reviewing troops and Col. F. L. Elder of Kernshaw, S. C., commander of the Combat Training Command and the 30th Regimental Combat Team.

Entered Army in 1916 Col. Bockoven, entered the service Oct. 27, 1926, and has 9 months overseas service. He holds a D.D.S. degree from Ohio State University, graduating in 1916.

His stateside assignments have included Columbus Barracks, Ohio, Columbus, N. Mex., Fort Bliss, Texas, Fort Sill, Okla., Fort Riley, Kansas, University of Minnesota ROTC, Headquarters, T-11 1/2 Corps area, Baltimore, Md., and the War Department General Dispensary, Washington, D. C.

He also has been stationed at Madison Barracks, N. Y., Fort Belvoir, Va., Fort Meyer, Va., Camp Hood, Texas, and Bruns General Hospital, Santa Fe, N. Mex.

Col. Bockoven, who holds the Legion of Merit, came here in December, 1946.

Following his retirement, Col. and Mrs. Bockoven plan to live in San Antonio. They have one son, Capt. Frederic T. Bockoven, stationed in Washington.

Began Career with Guard Col. Walsh was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Maryland National Guard April 15, 1921, and four months later joined the Regular Army.

Time Is Changed For Guard Mount

The time of the 508th's new guardmount has been switched from Friday afternoon to Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

The unit revived the colorful tradition recently and every week one battalion is assigned formal guardmount duties.

The review will continue to be held at Sand Hill with visitors invited to attend.

Col. Sharrer Leaving Post For School

Lt. Col. Robert A. Sharrer, commanding officer of the Airborne Battalion, First Student Regiment, leaves tomorrow to attend the Command and General Staff School at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

Col. Sharrer has been stationed here since September 1950. During that time he has held down jobs in the First, Second, and Officer Candidate Regiments. He has commanded the Airborne Battalion for one and one-half years.

He received his master jumper's badge this month after completing 1,000 jumps.

(See COL. SHARRER, Page 7)

Saturday Set As 3rd Army Day

Fort Benning, which trained many of Gen. George Patton's fighting men in the Third Army, will observe the ninth anniversary of the St. Lo Breakthrough Aug. 1—a date designated as Third Army day.

Two famous divisions which helped to spearhead the mighty Third Army drive from the hedgerows of Normandy to the shattered villages of Czechoslovakia, received their training at The Infantry Center before leaving for the European Theater. These divisions were the Fourth Infantry Division, which was reactivated at Fort Benning in 1949, and the Second Armored.

(See ST. LO, Page 25)

3,000 To Parade In Honor Of Retiring Chief Of Staff

COLONEL CHARLES H. OWENS

508th To Observe Activation Day

A precision spot-jump contest tomorrow will feature the second anniversary of Activation Day for the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

"Twenty-six Red Devils in baggy pants," representing each company-size unit in the regiment, will play this thrilling game of human starts and attempt to land in the center of a 10' by 10' panel made of white cloth—all from an altitude of 1,000 feet.

The entire Activation Day program will take place on Tiger Field, inside the 508th ARCT area, except the spot jump itself, which is set for nearby Mervel Air Strip (from 2:30 to 3:30 in the afternoon). The general program will commence at 9 a.m. with a parade and formal review with music by the 122nd Army Band. In the morning program are a band concert, athletic contests and awards for athletic achievement during the Spring and Summer months.

A special Activation Day steak dinner is planned for the afternoon and parties and dances are scheduled for the evening. The entire day has been declared a holiday for 508th personnel.

The Mervel Air Strip is one of the smallest jump areas at Fort Benning. A maximum of four or five jumpers could safely land in the area and no more. This means the volunteer jumpers, who will hit the silk two at a time from C-54 type aircraft, will have only approximately five seconds to "aim" for the center of the field.

All contestants will pose on the strip once to check wind drift and get their bearings before actually making their jump. On the ground, white smoke grenades will be released on a further check of wind drift at ground level.

Spot jumping as a national sport is popular in the Soviet Union.

Tribute Slated For Col. Owens 5 p.m. Today

The Infantry Center will pay a final tribute to its chief of staff at 5 p.m. today on French Field as a 3,000-troop review honors his completion of 30 years of service.

Col. Charles H. Owens, who has been chief of staff here since May 1923 will inspect six battalions of 400 men each composing the retirement parade.

On hand for the ceremony will be military and civilian personalities, who also will attend the reception honoring Col. Owens at Major Gen. Robert M. Young, G-1 Mess following the review.

Battalions participating in the parade are the 122nd Army Band, Training Command, Student Regiment, First Officer Candidate Regiment, Special Troops Command, 30th Infantry Regiment, the 508th ARCT, and squadron of 150 men from Lawson Air Force Base.

Col. Paul C. Serriff of San Rafael, Calif., commanding officer of Special Troops Command, will be commander of troops. Col. Harry M. Grizzard of Fort Worth, Texas, commander of the First Officer Candidate Regiment, will be in charge of the first composite regiment, and Col. Kenneth D. Macomber of Modesto, Calif., commander of the Second Student Regiment, will be in charge of the second composite regiment.

The 122nd Army Band will provide the music.

The dignitaries expected to attend the retirement ceremony and reception for Col. Owens are Major Gen. Robert M. Young, G-1 Department of Army; Lieut. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, commander of Army Field Forces, Fort Belvoir, Mo. (See COL. OWENS, Page 12)

Gen. Meloy States: Cost Awareness Saving Thousands

The great strides in economy made under Fort Benning's "cost consciousness" program were described recently by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander at a luncheon meeting of the Military Order of World Wars. He quoted figures of annual savings to the government which ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"Just this morning I awarded 13 cost simplification certificates to 13 civilian employees and military personnel," Gen. Meloy said. "These were awarded for work improvement suggestions which may save the Army up to $102,000."

Print to Gen. Meloy's address, the Military Order of World Wars included its newly elected commander, Col. Samuel Salters (Ret.) of Columbus, Ga.

General Taking Airborne Class

Brig. Gen. Derrell McC. Daniel of the 101st Airborne Division at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., is enrolled in the Infantry School's Basic Airborne Class No. 4.

Gen. Daniel will be on temporary duty at Fort Benning for about five weeks en route from the Far East Command to Camp Breckinridge.

The airborne course he will take consists of three weeks of basic parachute instruction and 40 hours of air movement training.

A native of South Carolina, Gen. Daniel is a 1949 graduate of the Armed Forces Staff College at Carlisle Barracks, and a 1947 graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth.

He has B.S. and M.S. degrees from Clemson College and a Ph.D. degree from Cornell University. Gen. Daniel wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star

Review Presented by ROTC Cadets

The 2,186 Infantry ROTC cadets put on parade gear and presented the only full regimental review of their summer camp last Friday on Todd Field.

The cadet regimental commander was Frederick H. Mitchell of Galveston, Texas, a cadet from Texas A&M. Cadet Mitchell, the son of Col. and Mrs. H. E. Mitchell of Galveston, was honored earlier by being named "Best Cadet" for the 1953 training period.

As the companies strove for the honor of "Best Cadet Company in the Review," they were reviewed by Col. Forrest E. Cookson of Clemson, S.C., professor of military science and tactics at Clemson Agricultural College, deputy camp commander; Col. Richard R. Middlebrooks, FMSA at North Carolina State University, Raleigh, N.C., camp executive officer; and Pfc. William J. McConnell of Shreveport, La., deputy for training.

Wives Of OCs Graduate Same Day As Husbands Do

Graduation day for officer candidates has become "grad-u-mation" day for their wives.

The spelling of "grad-u-mation" is not found in Webster. However, the word "grad-u-mation" means to witness what graduation means to their husbands. After 24 weeks of neurotic life during which she sees him pick up or deliver laundry or to be told that he cannot leave the company area for the week-end, she can return to the normal chores of a wife.

While candidates await the start of their graduation ceremony the wives assemble in the lobby of the Post Main Theater to receive diplomas designating them "Grad-u-mates." Each wife who is a member of the Officer Candidate Wives Club receives the "PFT Degree — Puff Hubby Thru, that is."

The 12 by 15 inches diploma certifies that the wife has successfully completed the required course in feeding, care and cooking of her husband, and in retaining mental and physical fortitude in the discharge of her duty.

Candidate Recalls Rough Ocean Trip Aboard Sailboat

Although not an Ancient Mariner, Officer Candidate Hubert F. Watson of 26th OC Company tells a tale of an ocean voyage that lacks nothing but the albatross.

He signed as first mate aboard a 65-foot sailboat on a trip from Hawaii to the United States. His story includes a becoming of three days, violent storms, food and water shortage, and sickness among the crew.

"We left Honolulu in June 1952 with enough water and food to last 20 days," Watson recalls. "We also carried an extra set of sails and an auxiliary motor."

The first unexpected incident was a dead calm. For three days the crew went the short rations, hoping to make their meager provisions last.

"When the wind finally rose," Watson says, "it turned into a squall that tore the sails to shreds and they could be lowered."

What's more, the automatic pumps broke down.

Later the crew repaired the damaged boat as much as possible and continued the trip, only to run into another storm. They became seasick and one appeared to have pneumonia.

Watson turned doctor and administered penicillin.

When the coast of the mainland finally appeared the voyagers ran into another squall which destroyed their remaining sails. However, the auxiliary engine powered the boat to shore.

Candidate Watson calls Kauna Kakai Molokai, T. H., his home. He was born and raised in Tacoma, Wash., however, and gained his seamanship on Puget Sound.

3003rd To End Training Cycle

Forty-eight officers, one warrant officer, and ten enlisted men from the 3003rd Station Complement, an Army Reserve unit from Orlando, Fla., are at Fort Benning for their annual 15 days of summer training.

Their first week was devoted primarily to on-the-job training, orientations, and a study of methods of instruction, according to C. L. Floyd, Col. of Winter Park, Fla., commanding officer.

During this week the 59 men of the reserve unit will prepare lesson plans to be used during the next year. Carbine and pistol firing will end training Sunday.

The Russian of the 3003rd, if called to active duty, would be to serve as permanent administrative personnel for an Army post.

While at Fort Benning, members of the unit will serve with their counterparts in post units. They will work as signal, quartermaster, and transportation officers, and in technical service and administrative posts.

This is the fourth year the 3003rd has trained here.

Reserves Here From Memphis

The 330th General Hospital, a reserve unit from Memphis, Tenn. is now undergoing its two-week summer training period here.

The unit is commanded by Col. James G. Hughes, Commanding Detachment 1 of the 330th is the colonel's twin brother, Col. John D. Hughes, also of Memphis.

The unit is composed of 25 medical officers, 8 nurses and 17 enlisted men. During the year all of the doctors with the 330th are instructors at the University of Tennessee School of Medicine of the Kentucky General Veterans Hospital in Memphis.

The first phase of the unit's training consisted of three days of field work. During this time the unit participated in range firing, map problems and bivouac.

The remainder of its tour of duty here will be spent in training at Fort Benning's Army Hospital.

Sgt. Recalls First Jump Outside U. S.

BY CPL. JIM MITCHELL

The first American paratrooper to jump from an aircraft outside the Continental United States was "jumping" hasty, changed much in all these years.

Master Sergeant George W. (Poison) Ivy, of Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, is one oddities who refuses to discuss at length about "you youngsters think its rough now but you ought to have been around in the old days." He says the only changes in jump technique are in the training aids. The sergeant will help the 508th celebrate Activation Day tomorrow.

M-SGT. G. W. IVY

The Bayville, La. lookie-see being the first American to jump outside the U. S. early in 1941 when a platoon of jumpers went to the Panama Canal Zone from Fort Benning by way of three jumps. This was in the early stages of American paratrooping and officials wanted to test jumpers by dropping in hazardous places.

Ivy was looking at a photograph of that platoon taken in the Canal Zone, and he reminisced as his eyes scanned the picture. "We were making a pass over a field not far from the canal and eight dummies were about to be dropped with parachutes to check the wind drift. I talked the officer in charge into letting me be the eighth 'dummy.' The jump was fine but a few seconds later I thought the world had come to an end. I had landed on a native's straw hut and the whole family looked up in terror as I came through the roof."

Strange feeling now I got when I made that first jump."

Sergeant Ivy recalled that jump uniforms are quite different today. "No one knew exactly what uniform was best to train in or jump in, so we used our own judgment," he said. "Some of us made these early jumps with no headgear while others wore fatigues, caps, helmets, or aviator's caps."

Ruggedness, however, says Ivy, was the watchword of the early test platoon. "We started the day with an eight mile run around Lawson Field and followed with dumbbell exercises, sledge games, and practice jumps from grounded airplanes. Then we would run backwards for a mile to chow."

Other memories

A second photograph from a collection on his desk brought back memories of the first parachute trainees. The photograph was dated Friday, August 13, 1940. It pictured the first six men to make a jump at the parachute training school at Fort Benning. Sergeant Ivy was third from the end. "Funny," he reflected, "but I get the same

Two Post Sections Observe Birthdays

Chaplains Date Back To 1775

Through every military conflict and personal difficulty, the American soldier has had a solid friend—the U. S. Army chaplain. The fifteen chaplains on duty at Fort Benning passed yesterday to observe the 177th birthday of that friendship.

One of the chaplain's major projects involves the character guidance program. This program, which directly concerns every person in the military, is not an exclusive chaplain's program but an important part of its work.

In explaining the mission of the Chaplain (Chap) in the Program of the Chaplain (Chap) at Fort Benning, Chaplain (Chap) O. Sheffield, Infantry Center, chaplain guidance program in a vast and complex project, its basic objective is to judge a soldier or officer in terms of individual responsibility in every officer and enlisted man. Technically, the program is a command responsibility, and the actual job of character guidance rests on the shoulders of every unit commander.

Chaplain Sheffield asserted that chaplains are constantly striving to impress a deeper sense of individual responsibility to God, family, fellow-man, and subordinates in the soldiers stationed here.

A chaplain's duties are even more complex than those of his civilian counterpart. He can devote only a fraction of his long working day to the preparation of his Sunday services. Hours weekly are devoted to counseling, character guidance, and visits to hospital patients and prisoners in the stockade. The chaplains supervise the various branches of the post chaplain's ministry, the teen-age "The Bar-B-Qs." They are frequently called upon to help solve personal problems that arise not only among servicemen themselves but among their dependents.

The chaplains conduct services throughout the week to the 7th Cavalry on the post. Religious films, choir rehearsals and hymn-sings are all popular pastimes with the men.

In civilian-military affairs, the Infantry Center's chaplains are extremely active. They serve on the Citizens-Military Council, Travelers Aid Society, United Civilians, and the board of directors of the Armed Forces YMCA in Columbus.

Although Chaplain Sheffield is not primarily concerned with the statistics of his work, they do reflect the activity of his section. Benning Statistics

Fort Benning ministers conducted 144 services on the post since June, with 8,091 persons attending. Thirty-six Sunday School classes were conducted for 1,879 students. Off-post they conducted 28 services in civilian churches for 381 members of the community. In reciprocity, civilian ministers conducted 64 services on the post to an aggregate attendance of 6,582.

The history of the U. S. Army chaplains began in 1775 when George Washington issued a call for ministers to serve in his Army. On July 28 the Continental Congress adopted a resolution founding the Chaplains Corps of the United States Army. The allotted salary was $20 a month, and the first chaplain was Capt. John Steele of Carlisle, Pa.

When the United States entered World War I there were only about 67 chaplains on active duty, however, some 2,383 chaplains served with the Army during the conflict. The corps of chaplains grew to a maximum of nearly 14,000 in 1951. The ideal of one chaplain for every 1,000 servicemen.

A customer got down in a smart restaurant and tied his napkin around his neck. The manager asked the waiter to make the man understand it isn't done here, but he looked at the waiter and said, "Shawl or hairnet, sir?" The waiter asked.

11th Birthday Set For Transportation

Dedicated to the mission of getting the U. S. Army there first and keeping it there with the most, the Transportation Corps and the Fort Benning Transportation Division was established on the eleventh anniversary of the corps as a separate branch of service.

The corps here has three main activities. The first of these is the Transportation Officer, the service center of all transportation operations on the post. Col. Sidney Kriewol, of Oklahoma City, former transportation officer, directs all passenger movement by air, rail or bus.

Another function of the office is the making of travel arrangements for military dependents going overseas and handling all freight for the post.

The second activity is that of the Motor Transportation Regulation Branch, headed by Major Arthur Canfield of Los Angeles, Calif. Major Canfield's group handles all technical and administrative responsibilities of the corps. The third activity of the Transportation Corps is the Post Motor Pool under the command of Major Byron Fischer. The motor pool maintains and furnishes all administrative vehicles for use on the post and operates several sub-pools at various points.

Other transportation units on the post include First Transportation Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Charles E. Fernandez of Centerville, La.; 33rd Transportation Truck Company, commanded by Capt. O'Dell Stampbill of LaPrayo, Texas; 18th Transportation Truck Company, commanded by 1st Lt. Warren G. Harding of Groton, Conn.; 22nd Transportation Truck Company, commanded by Capt. George W. Kilmer of Des Moines, Iowa, and the 66th Transportation Truck Company, commanded by Capt. James V. Johnson of Marietta, Ga.

All Transportation Corps activities on the post including support of Lawson Air Force Base function under the Infantry Center O-4.

The corps was organized during 1917 when the United States entered World War I.

Up to that time all Army transportation operations were the responsibility of the Quartermaster General. Because of increased requirements during the war it became necessary for the War Department General Staff to assume responsibility of the Quartermaster General's entire transportation organization.

Following the war transportation again went to the Quartermaster General. In 1940, with the nation preparing for World War II the Transportation Division of the Quartermaster was formed.

The Engineer Committee of Technical Department has announced the assignment of two officers to that section. They are Major Rolf E. Mickelson and Major Norman C. Shepard.

Major Mickelson served with the 22nd Armored Engineer Battalion, 1st Armored Division during World War II. On a second tour of duty overseas he served with the Eighth Army and the Japanese Logistics Command. His most recent assignment has been as a student at the Engineer School, Army Information School at Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Commanders from 23 major units in the Third Army area will attend an orientative course today and tomorrow at the Infantry School's Ranger jungle and amphibious training area at Eatin Air Force Base, Fla. They will be shown how the Ranger Department develops the toughest fighters in the world.

Col. Gerald C. Kelleher of Albany, N. Y., director of the Ranger Department, heads the delegation at the Florida training camp. Assisting are Major Charles E. Kahn of Munnah, Pa., Ranger Department operations officer; Major Fred H. Hicks of Taylor, Texas, executive officer of the Ranger's coordinating group; Major George Tassery of Savannah, Ga., supply officer; and Lt. Robert C. Sanders of Murfreesboro, Tenn., Ralph Puckett Jr., of Tifton, Ga., and other tactical instructors in the Ranger School Ranger Officers Class No. 1 will run all the field problems for the visiting officers.

Officers from Fort Benning attending the orientation will be headed by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant of the Infantry School. Others from the post are Col. John M. Higdon, Las Cruces, N. Mex., director of instruction; Col. Max M. Gooler of Devils Lake, N. Dak., commanding officer of the School Brigade; and Lt. Ivan Slavich of San Francisco, Calif., aide-de-camp to Gen. Fritzsche.

Major Gen. Wayne C. Smith, commanding general of the XVII Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg, N. C., heads a delegation of six Corps officers from that post.

The commanding general of Fort Bragg's 82nd Airborne Division, Major Gen. Gerald J. Higgins, is being accompanied by the demonstrators by seven of his officers.

Major Gen. John A. Dabery, commanding general of the Eighth Infantry Division at Fort Jackson, S. C., heads a group of seven officers from that post who will attend.

Camp Rucker, Ala., will be represented at the conference by its commanding general, Major Gen. Robert L. Dulany and five of his officers.

Canadian Visits Infantry School

A member of the Canadian Joint Air Training Command has arrived for a week of orientation at the Infantry School.

Lt. Col. H. F. Cotton of Riverbank, Canada, is studying the Airborne Department's operational procedures and training methods as compared with those of the Canadian Army. He also will visit Army Field Forces Board No. 2 and other departments.

He will visit Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant of the school, and Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, prior to leaving the post Saturday.

ROTCs Stage Big Field Day, Mark Final Week

Cadet John I. Risch of Milwaukee, Wis., three a hand general, headed 262.3 feet to highlight the annual military field day at Fort Benning Monday.

The event, which featured competition in strictly military specialties, began the sixth and final week of training for the more than 2,100 Infantry ROTC cadets who are here for the six-week encampment.

Following completion of the field day, the cadets moved into the field for a three-day problem which required them to bivouac on the reservation while they tested under field conditions the practices and techniques learned during their first five weeks.

Fifteen events, involving both individuals and teams, composed the program. In his event, Risch, a cadet of Michigan State, far outdistanced the field.

Martin A. Ball, Paducah, Ky., was the best-dressed cadet. He represented the University of Indiana.

A group from Allen Military Academy, headed by Francis N. Upchurch of Houston, Texas, took honors as the best-dressed squad.

Georgiana Top Platoon

The best-dressed platoon award was given to a team composed of men from Georgia Military Academy and The Citadel. Richard E. Black, Jr., of Seaford, S. C., was the platoon leader.

The disassembly and assembly of the M-1 rifle was won by Cadet Clarence Stafford of Oklahoma A. M. His time was 28.5 seconds. Another Oklahoma A. M. man, Gerrol B. Powell, placed first in the disassembly and assembly of the Browning Automatic Rifle. His time was 80 seconds.

The disassembly and assembly of the light machine gun was won by Charles E. Adkins of Augusta, Ga., in 64.7 seconds. He is a student at Auburn Polytechnic at North Georgia College.

Albert W. Tolar, Jr., of Columbus, Miss., paced the field in the weapons scramble event with the winning time of three minutes 46 seconds. In this event three weapons—the M-1 rifle, the M1918 A-2 rifle and the .30 caliber carbine—were disassembled and their parts heaped into one pile. The cadet must assemble all three weapons to win.

Texas First in Mortars

A team from Texas A. and M. commanded by Frederick H. Mitchell, placed first in the 81-mm mortar drill. Mitchell is from Galveston, Texas.

The light machine gun crew drill was won by a team from St. Norberts College, Paul W. Bossert, of N. Y.

Review Held For Col. Foster

Troops of The Infantry Center's Special Troops Command staged a review Tuesday for Lt. Col. Andrew P. Foster, Jr., executive officer of the unit, who is retiring from the Army tomorrow.

The 122nd Army Band furnished music for marching troops from the First Special Troops Battalion, First Transportation Battalion, 54th Signal Company, the Military Police Company and the WAC Company. The review was held in the third quarter area.

Col. Foster was born in St. Augustine, Fla., graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1923. He attended the company officers' course at The Infantry School in 1952. Upon his graduation in 1952, Col. Foster was assigned to The Infantry Center as executive officer of the ASU Provisional Group, later designated as Special Troops Command.

Col. and Mrs. Foster and their two children Andrew P. Foster III, a student at Auburn Polytechnic Institute, and Henry G. III, plan to make their home in Columbus, Miss.

New Display Featured At Columbus Art Museum

A group of oil paintings, watercolors, and etchings is the newest display of fine arts being presented by the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts.

The show is a collection of contemporary works by some 27 professional and student artists who spent part of the year painting in Western North Carolina. The exhibition has been shown in a number of museums, libraries, and educational centers in the South.

John W. Bloomer acting director. The show not only includes works by four members of the National Academy of Arts — Walter Emergent, Walter B. Lester Stevens, Giovanni Martinelli, and Antonio Martino — but also a portrait character study, "Terry," by Edward S. Shorter, director of the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts.

ROTC GRADS 124-To Get Bars At Ceremonies

Lt. Gen. John R. Dahlquist, Army Field Forces commander will be principal speaker at graduation ceremonies tomorrow for the 124 ROTC cadets who will be commissioned second lieutenants.

The ceremonies will be attended by the entire cadet regiment, 2,186 men who are at Fort Benning for the summer training.

The 124 men who will receive their commission Friday have completed the required four years of senior ROTC training, are at least 21 years of age and have graduated from college or completed the equivalent of four years of college.

The ceremonies, to be held at 10 a.m. at Training Field No. 7, will mark the official close of the six-week ROTC summer camp which started June 20.

Other awards, which will be presented during the ceremonies, include the trophy for outstanding cadet and the Warrior of the Pacific trophy. This letter is given to the company which has compiled the highest aggregate score in marksmanship during the six-week camp.

Silver and bronze medals also will be given to cadets who have been selected as the outstanding men in their battalions, companies and platoons.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, will introduce Gen. Dahlquist, and Col. Richard R. Middlebrooks, camp executive officer, will administer the oath of office to the 124 senior cadets.

Infantry Center, Chaplain (Col) L. O. Sheffield will give the invocation and benediction. Music will be by the 122nd Army band.

CTC Private Reaches Goal At Long Last

Private First Class Wallace B. Johnson, Headquarters Detachment, Combat Training Command, may be years from mastering his skill in building, but, according to him, there had to be a starting place somewhere.

He was taught that it took time to build things. For several years he had worked on this or that and had never completed anything. But at last he made the grade. He has put the finishing touches on a combination working and sewing table.

Although this is only a start for Johnson, he views a forthcoming future in which much of his spare time will be spent in the Sand Hill bobby shop.

M-Sgt Shelvin Is New T1&E NCO At Food School

Master Sergeant John T. Shelvin recently was assigned to duty at the Third Army Food Service School as Troop Information and Education NCO.

Sergeant Shelvin will conduct the weekly command conferences for the school and assist personnel with their educational problems. Sergeant Shelvin spent almost two years in Korea, where he served as a T1&E NCO at Eighth Army headquarters. During his duty in Korea, he was awarded the United Nations and Korean Ribbons with five campaign stars and the Republic of Korea Commendation Ribbon.

Transportation Viewed By Third Army Officers

The dramatic incident in Ft. Francis J. Fanning's life is his coming adoption by the family of his Korean war buddy, Francis J. Fanning, orphaned in infancy, struck up a friendship with Capt. George Lippi while both soldiers were members of Company C, 2nd Infantry Regiment, Second Division, in Korea.

Four enlisted men have been assigned to Battery A, 18th Field Artillery Battalion. They are Sergeant Johnny Bradshaw, Private First Class Donald Wiggins, Private Cannon B. Carlson and Private Frank J. Busch.

Road-E-O Honors Won By 3 Lawson Airmen

Three Lawson Air Force Base airmen look top honors in the Ninth Air Force finals in the Tactical Air Command's Road-E-O at Shaw AF Base, S. C. last week.

A-2C Willard E. Cashner, 64th Motor Vehicle Squadron, took first place in the 29-passenger bus class, A-2C Edwin C. Juseman, 77th Troop Carrier Squadron, was top man in the 1½-ton truck class and A-2C Donald H. Jacques, 64th Motor Vehicle Squadron, came in first in the semi-van trailer class.

These Lawson winners, along with two airmen from Donaldson Air Command finals.

Army Air Reviewed By Inspection Team

An inspection team from Washington and Third Army Headquarters were here last Thursday and Friday to review Army aviation activities.

The inspectors were Majors Mordecai Light and Charles Ellis of the Air Transportation Office, Department of the Army, and Major N. W. Parks of the Air Transportation Office, Third Army.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., commander of The Infantry School, said there will be no let-up in training or standards. The winner of the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry in action at Taegu, Gen. Meloy said their tax dollars in sound military training and improved efficiency, he said.

Korea Ends But No Let-Up In Training Here

The Korean War may be over, but it won't show up in the training schedule at Fort Benning.

Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy Jr., commander of The Infantry School, said there will be no let-up in training or standards.

Maj. Thomas Receives 2d Oak Leaf Cluster

Major Douglas R. Thomas of Atchison, Kan., was awarded the second Oak Leaf Cluster to his Bronze Star Medal at special ceremonies recently.

Major Thomas received the award for meritorious service as a sergeant of the 179th Infantry Regiment in Korea from Nov. 18, 1952, until April 30, 1953.

According to the citation, Major Thomas skillfully coordinated all regimental staff activities pertaining to training and combat operations. By personally inspecting the front lines he was able to obtain first-hand information as to terrain features and knowledge of equipment and supplies on the line.

508th Wins Benning Swim Title Brigade-Red Devils In Playoff Finals

7 New Marks Set By '08 Mermen

The 508th Airborne mermen turned the Infantry Center Swimming and Diving Meet into a competition among team mates last Friday afternoon at Briant Wells Field House as they splashed and dived to a team total of 99 points, 81 more than the second place and only other team to win, place or show.

The Red Devil swimmers and divers set seven new Fort Benning swimming marks in the racing events and scored more points in the one meter and three meter diving events than last year. The Combat Training Command swimmers secured only nine points while Special Troops Command and First Student Regiment were blanked. The Commanders had a second place and three swimmers to show.

The 50th, coached by Sam King and in tip-top physical condition, was unbeatable. Bob Nagy and Ian Hadcock each won two first places for the Red Devils enabling them to retain their swimming and diving title for the second straight year.

Nagy won the 50 yard free style event in the time of 26.5, four seconds ahead of team mate Charles Brockman. The blond crew cut youngster set a new record in the 100 yard breast stroke with the overhead stroke when he reached the finished line in 1:10 flat shattering the old record by 10 and three tenths seconds. Hadcock set a new mark in the 200 yard free style when he finished the eight laps in 2:27.7 knocking 16 seconds off the 1952 mark. He also broke the 100 yard free style mark by one and one tenth second when he sprinted the four laps in 1:01.5.

The 508th started the afternoon off by bettering the 300 yard mark by relay mark by 6.4 seconds. Bill Brinn, Harry Kenney, ISD Morris, and J. M. Stewart, 508th Chilton, 508th Grinnis, ISD Myers, Rams, E. Mitchell, CTC Watts, CTC

The Red Devils then proceeded to show the small crowd that they could dive also and Bob Foley racked up 207.1 points with team mates Bernard Lattman and Bill Hall winning second and third place with 184 and 173.9. Then Nagy in the next event, won the free style, and Hadcock followed with his 100 yard free style record.

Nagy took the breast stroke and won it as a 71.7, 71.7, or called (See 508TH, Page 16)

508TH SWIM COACH, MAJOR SAM KING, GETS THE HEAVE HO AFTER VICTORY. Red Devil Swimmers Throw Mentor Into Pool After Sweeping Post Swim Meet

S. S. Council Upholds ISD Protest

One of Lloyd Brill's most desired feelings during the 1953-Fort Benning baseball season was to see his pitching rival, Jim Lewey of Infantry School Detachment who equaled the School Brigade Rams batter's season record on seven wins and no losses.

Brill accomplished this feat last week when the Rams defeated the ISD Profs, 5-0. But the ISD baseballers lodged a protest with Special Services commenting that Brill was not eligible to pitch during that contest since his transfer to Separation for discharge.

The Special Services Council considered this protest on Friday afternoon and ruled that the game be stricken from the books because the Rams right hander was ineligible for that third and deciding play-off game. Lewey's loss was wiped out along with Brill's victory. But the satisfaction still remains with Brill, who finished his tour of Army duty with a eight win and no loss record which includes the playoff games.

The game was replayed on Saturday evening and the Rams knocked the hide off the baseball beating the Professors, 11 to 1. School Brigade now meets the 508th Airborne in a best of three series and the winner will meet ISD in a best of five series to decide the post championship.

During the second Shaughnessy Playoff contest between the CTC Commanders and the 508th Airborne Red Devils, Charlie Stewart hurled two hit ball as the paratroopers defeated CTC for the second straight time. Player coach Ken Watts, who appeared early in the season on the mound for the Commanders, did the hurting in this game and was charged with the 3-0 loss.

With Brill on the mound for the second game, Curtis capped the third match with Benner taking the fourth. The fifth match, an aggregate of the scores of the first and second games, was won by the Rams, 5-0. (See S. S. COUNCIL, Page 21)

In all, 40 shooters, including 11 civilians and five members of the Alabama Highway Patrol, were entered in the matches sponsored by the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club.

CWO Oscar Weimmeister placed second to Benner in the 22 and 30 caliber competition and Major Ben Curtis trailed Benner in total points for all matches fired. Herbert Smith of Birmingham, Ala., was high man among the civilian shoot-

SWIM CHAMPS . . . The 508th Airborne trio of Norm LaMothe, Bob Nagy, and Bob Moore set a new record for the 300 Yard Medley Relay during the Fort Benning Swimming and Diving Meet. They were clocked in 3:25.8.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

In a few more weeks, the spikes will be put away in mothballs and the tread of hard rubber cleats will be heard around Fort Benning. But before the Fort Benning baseball season is over, many people will be happy over the 1953 All-Post Baseball Team that is participating in Third Army competition.

For one and all know that this team is the first Dough-boy since 1918 to take the athletic field wearing the post's colors since 1918. All the coaches have been sending in their ballots to the Special Services sports office and the team should be announced any day now.

It is a shame though, that Lloyd Brill of School Brigade Rams will not be around to pitch for this All-Post team for the big right-hander was given his walking papers last Saturday. Brill compiled a season record of seven wins and no losses and was credited with two more victories in the playoffs. One of these wins was a 12-inning contest.

The other pitcher who is certain of a berth on the A-P team is Jim Lewey of the ISD Professors. Lewey compiled a season record with seven wins and no losses. However, he was charged with one Shaughnessy Playoff loss.

Sgt. Clyde Britton, Special Troops Command pitching mainstay, is the new operations sergeant for Special Services. Brit replaces Sgt. Ed White who will become a member of the Raiders Athletic and Recreation staff. White, who deserves some recognition for his baseball umpiring, will be coach along with Jim Lewis of the STC boxing team this year. Frank Hartley, who led the Raiders to the post team title, will handle the match-making.

Ernie Fann, Benning heavyweight champion and holder of many amateur boxing titles, has transferred to Fort Eustis, Va., for military police duty. Fann will be missed in these parts.

Special Troops Command has over fifty men working out from 6 to 8 p.m. every evening, weather permitting, for berths on the football team. It is understood that the Raiders will combine with the Provisional Medical Group and Lawson Field to form one team.

The post loses one of its top-notch sports figures soon when CTC's Cecil Dickerson, their football coach of last season, leaves for Alaska. Before reporting to the cold lands, Dick will help coach the College All-Stars next month for the meeting with the Ducks of the National Football League at Chicago. 'Ole Miss' grid will leave Special Services without a boxing referee.

The first football game of the 1953 grid season is scheduled for September 27th and the initial boxing match will be on September 28th. To open the '53 grid festivities, Special Services contacted the Columbus authorities and got permission to hold the first game in Memorial Stadium. I hope that they do it again this year.

The post boxing season opened in 1952 with outdoor bouts in Cowley Field and after a few weeks, moved into Briant Wells Field House because of the cool weather.

Bill Dunton, catcher for the School Brigade Rams, is trying to sell his 1951 Mercury. Shel Vignessy of STC PIO and I. E. School, Merv Melter of Brigade PIO has just returned from there.

One of the participants in the 1953 Fort Benning Swimming and Diving Meet which was run off last week at Briant Wells Field House is Lt. Col. George M. Weir, who swam in the 100-yard breast stroke. The 508th swimmers looked real sunny in their new red trunks.

The Infantry Center Tennis Tournament was postponed after the singles contest was completed last week. The doubles still has to be run off this week. It seems that this famed Georgia weather is spilling all post sports since it rained out a whole week of baseball play also.

Benner has it that Lt. Bill Lawrence will be the head coach of the School Brigade football team. His assistants, and Starter, center, Bill Thoms, tackle, and Iln Jordan, end. Last year's winning coach Gus Diezels will not be associated with the team, it is understood.

The Airborne Battalion of the First Student Regiment won the regimental football league. The 1952 Blackshirt team, which won the Georgia State Championship, is mentioned in the Amateur Baseball Annual.

The 508th Airborne gotters beat the Lawson Field clubbers at the Fort Benning Country Club links last week, 11-4. The Red Devils have eight teams in their softball league and the Headquarters, Second Battalion squad is on top of the standings with a three win and no loss record. A number of the 508th would be footballers, including last season's assistant coach Capt. Dick Thoms, went up to the University of Georgia football clinic.

Some of last year's grid players have been wandering whether Fort Benning will have an All-Post team at the conclusion of the season, just like the baseball team that will be formed this or next week for active competition. However, the Third Army and All-Army haven't any tournaments for grid team scheduled.

Britton Heads Benning WAC Softballers

Fort Benning's WAC softball team starts play this week under the coaching of Sgt. Clyde Britton, who is already a familiar figure on the field, having served as umpire in several of the WAC home games.

Britt is taking over as coach after former coach, Lt. Dorothy L. Love, was reassigned to recruiting duties. Britton is the third coach the girls have had this season, having started the season under Lt. Reginald Buxton, now overseas.

In spite of the numerous changes in leadership the girls have done very well so far this season. They have played five other women's service teams and won twice.

The service teams include the Fortis Island lady Marines and WAC teams from Fort Jackson, Camp Gordon and Fort MacPherson. A return match is planned this week end with the Fortis Island Marines and the Benning Blue Belles intend to get revenge for an earlier set back.

At the beginning of the season the Benning team tried to join the Columbus girls league. However, Fort Wess Service Station, one of the city teams, has come to the post to play the girls. The WAC's had just lost several of their girls by transfers and using inexperienced players. (See BRITTON, Page 21.)

CAUGHT IN AIR . . . By Cameramen Joe Wolfe and Robbie Ray is 508th Airborne diver Bernard Lattman. The Red Devil co-captain captured the three meter diving crown and was second in the one meter event.

First OC Sgt. Thinks He'll Run 100 Dash In 9 Seconds

BY JIM ROSENSTONE
The experts say it's impossible, but Sgt. Simon Perkins Jr., of Evansville, Ind., still thinks it stands a good chance to be the first man to run the 100-yard dash in nine seconds. There is a reason for his optimism.

First, at the age of 22 he has already tied the world's record of 9.3 seconds. This was accomplished last April at the Colorado Springs Invitational Track meet. Second, he has already proven himself an all-round athlete by starring on the University of Indiana football team in 1947-48.

Perkins was picked as the All-Pacific left half back in 1952 when he was stationed at Okinawa. This plus his college career, brought him to the attention of Steve O'Neil's Philadelphia Eagles, who offered him a contract to play professional football.

"At My Peak"
"I'm at my peak right now," explained Perkins. "Many track stars who have run close to the nine-second mark were older. The day before I hit the 9.3 mark, I ran 9.4 three times in practice, and I can just keep training and running, maybe in a couple of years I'll do it," he added.
Perkins explained that the offer from the Eagles would still be good for a tryout when he is discharged from the Army in 1954.
"Of course they told me I would have to make the grade, and with that in mind I am trying to stay in the best condition I can. That's one reason I like trying in a land cleared. Running is probably the finest conditioner a man can take."
Perkins joined the Army in the spring of 1946, and the following November he landed in Korea with the 17th Infantry of the Seventh Division. After the war started in Korea he was wounded in a land mine in the fall of 1951. Paralyzed in his left side, he was left for dead by his Communists who had overrun his position. Eight days later, when UN forces pushed the

508th Fifth In Athens, Ga. Swim Tourney

Swimming against national competition Saturday at the Annual Crackerhead Swimming Meet in Athens, the 508th Airborne aquatics scored in seven events to place fifth in the overall competition.

Eleven teams competed in the national "knock-out" meet. The trio of Norman LaMothe, Robert Nagy and James Moore took third place honors in the 100 yard relay race.

Nagy, Charles Brockman, Bill Mathison, and Ian Haddock finished fourth in the 400 yard free-style relay and Nagy made an individual fourth in the 200 yard breaststroke event.

Jim Moore, team captain, finished fourth in the 400 yard free-style swim and fifth in the 150 yard individual medley race.

The 508th divers took sixth place in the Athens meet.

White Replaces Barnett As Rifle Team Captain

Lt. Col. William G. White, of Carmel, Calif., has been appointed captain of the Army Rifle Team, succeeding Col. Frank Barnett of Parkinston, Miss.

Col. White, who is operations and training officer at Schofield Barracks, Oahu, T. H., is at Fort Benning on temporary duty with the Rifle Team.

Col. Barnett, Infantry Center supply officer, is leaving Fort Benning to attend the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Lt. Col. C. B. White
New Rifle Team Boss

White was initiated to national rifle competition in 1929 when he competed at Camp Perry, Ohio, in that year's national rifle match.

He competed in the Marine Corps from 1932 to 1937, and was on the 25th Infantry Division Rifle Team in the Far East in 1947.

The new head rifleman has been in the military service since 1920, having served in the Marine Corps from that year until 1941 when he was assigned in the Regular Army. During World War II, White served with two Infantry Regiments in Europe. Following the war he served for two years in Japan. He was sent to Korea at the outbreak of Korean hostilities, and served there until January, 1951.

His Fort Benning assignments include Officer Candidate School in 1942, Associate officers' course in 1943, 67th Infantry Division, 1945, and instructor in the Ranger Department in 1951.

The new team captain's decorations include the Silver Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the Purple Heart with nine clusters and the French Croix de Guerre with Silver Star.

Haddock followed him again with the 100 free style title. Norm LaMothe of the 508th set the next new 7:10 record when he backstroked his way home in 1:11 flat. Frank Mandel of CTC was second in a close race.

The 508th divers once again, Lattman, Hall and Foley in that order, took the three meter diving event. Lattman scored 197.6 points while Hall and Foley scored 163.1 and 157 respectively.

Bob Moore chipped off four seconds in the 150 individual medley and Jim Moore really sprinted to set the next new mark in the 100 yard free style. He did the 16 laps in 5:06, 18.8 seconds to the better.

The 508th free style team set another new mark in the 400 relay but a judge disqualified them for one of the racers did not touch on a turn. They churned home in 4:18.5 but this was thrown out.

Golf Champ Is Longtime Titleholder

When Officer Candidate Thomas W. Barwick, 20th OC Company, Candidate Regiment's golf champion last month his fine play promised all outsiders.

Seven years ago, at the age of 17, Barwick beat out his closest opponent, Al Mengert, by three strokes to win the West Coast Junior Championship with a three under par 71. Mengert was last year's runner-up at the National Amateur Championships.

While a member of the University of Washington golf team, Barwick amassed 11 more trophies, in 1951. He placed second in the highly rated Pacific Coast and Western Conference and at the NCAA tournament in Columbus played an average round of 1.2 under par per round. Winning varsity letters all four years, he captained the team in his senior year.

In high school Barwick also won four letters in golf and was captain in his senior year. He was member of the Seattle All City team for two years.

Candidate Barwick attributes his interest in the game to his parents' enthusiasm and the proximity of

Post Boxing Rules Viewed

A contestant in each of the five weight classes in amateur boxing will be initially placed in one of five classes based on his experience as a fighter.

A class one boxer will be a winner in an amateur or service championship.

A class two boxer is an experienced person who has never won a championship.

A class three boxer has an average record.

The Jackson Golf Course is his home in Seattle.

"I practically lived on the course, especially after I acquired a very mixed set of clubs. I used to swing anything that looked like a club," he remembers.

Benner Bests World Marks In 45 Firing

M-Sgt. Huelst L. (Joe) Benner of Paragould, Ark., world and Olympic champion, bettered 14 world records recently at Fort Benning while firing the .45 caliber pistol during tryouts for the Army Pistol Team.

The records were bettered while Benner was firing the National Match Course for the .45 caliber pistol. First record to fall was the score of 295, which the 1952 Olympic champ, set in 1949 during a regional match at Jackson, Mich. In practice the sergeant fired three identical scores of 29 for a total of 297.

The 38-year-old sharpshooter also bettered the aggregate score for the National Match Course when he strung together totals of 285, 295 and 297 for a grand total of 887—five markers over the world mark which he established during a 1950 match at Quantico, Va.

The first two scores of 295 equalled his recognized record. What did Benner think of his firing? "Just shooting over my head," he explained.

The National Match Course consists of 10 rounds slow fire at 50 yards, 10 rounds time fire at 25 yards and 10 rounds rapid fire at 25 yards.

A shooter is allowed 10 minutes to fire the 10 rounds at slow fire. For the time fire he is given 20 seconds to fire a string of five rounds and then another 20 seconds for the next five. In rapid fire the time is cut to 10 seconds for each five rounds.

Specialized training courses are held on bases CTC 9, 2066, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

Morning Report 'Champs' Best?

A Letter of Commendation for errorless morning reports in the 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team prompted the 50th Airborne Engineer Company to challenge anyone for the title of "errorless morning report champions."

Perfectionists by no means, but through checkers in the strictest sense of the word, W. Sgt. Warren G. Hayes and Cpl. Lawrence W. Ashlock made an error on a morning report in the 560th on the fourteenth of August, 1952. That's slightly more than four weeks without a single error.

Capt. Klein Made 4th Co. Commander

Captain John M. Klein became company commander of Fourth company, First Student Regiment, this week. This is his second stay at Ft. Benning, having been here in 1945 to attend Officer Candidate School.

First Lt. Nix J. Daniel, formerly assistant legal officer of the First Student Regiment, is filling Capt. Klein's former assignment as S-4 and acting officer of Third Battalion. Lt. Daniel comes from Orange, Texas, while Capt. Klein's home town is Mobile, Ala.

Col. Cook Made Project Chief

Lt. Col. J. A. Cook of Mount Holly, Vt., has been appointed chief of the G-4's special project division of The Infantry Center. A 1960 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, he attended the advanced officers course here in 1952, then joined the 82nd Airborne Division, and served in Europe from 1949 to 1948. He became commander of the Third Battalion of the 504th Airborne Infantry Regiment.

Col. Cook wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Bronze Star Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Belgian Fourragere, Dutch Langendriek and Wilhelmina's Order, Knight Fourth Class.

SOME WEEDS... Sgt. Artis McDaniel, Co. L, 30th Regimental Combat Team, who spears the cleanup of grounds in the CTC, says that if all the weeds he has cut recently were baled and laid end to end they would reach to Korea.

Nope, Sgt. Sharborough Isn't Planning to Stay on Forever

He hasn't taken up permanent at the hospital, says that residence, but after spending nearly two years in the Army hospital here Sgt. William Sharborough of Holy Bluff, Miss., has become pretty well acquainted with the standpoint of discipline and cooperation.

The Korean veteran entered the hospital in October 1951 and since that time has undergone repeated bone grafts to his lower right leg. The operations were necessitated due to wounds received during his service in Korea. He still has about three or four operations to go.

Before entering the Army 1.3e sergeant attended the Chamberline Hunt Military Academy at Port Capt. F. L. Fowler, commander of the Medical Holding Detachment, State College.

Gone Are The 508th's 'MP's'

Visitors can stop asking questions about the military policeman on duty at Post Out No. 1, and his many counterparts over the post, who didn't look quite regulation, meaning that the airborne troops with the peaked caps and spiffy cordovan boots have been returned to airborne duty.

The seven-month shortage of military police corporals came to an end the other day, and the 42nd Infantry Division's 508th Airborne Central Postal Directory, which had been hastily pressed into police duty last Christmas, returned to infantry duty.

Bobcat Attacks, Chews Officer

A vicious wild animal and seriously injured Lt. John W. Leonard, Company K, 30th Regimental Combat Team, when the officer sought to quell what he took to be an ordinary cat fight. The lieutenant, coming in the other night, was disturbed by the eerie squalling of a cat in the CTC BQ area. Upon investigation he saw two cats, one large and one small. The small one ran away but the other hugged the ground.

Lt. Leonard picked up the larger cat and when he saw its face, he was jerked. Instead of a medium sized wildcat, he had a medium sized wildcat. Not a "Felix domesticus" but the short-tailed bobcat.

The cat sprang into action. It made a vicious swipe at Leonard's face but missed, then it attacked his hand.

Freeing himself, Lt. Leonard

Maj. Hood Gets Comptroller Duty

Major B. F. Hood of St. Paul, Minn., has been assigned to the organization and Methods Section of the Comptroller's Office here.

A veteran of 14 years service, Major Hood was with the 8th Infantry Division in Europe from 1942 to 1945 during World War II, and from 1946 to 1949 was on occupation duty in Austria.

Major Hood, a 1943 graduate of West Point, received his M.A. degree in business administration from the University of Alabama before coming to Fort Benning. His decorations include the Bronze Star Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

Major and Mrs. Hood, the former Marcia Filipek of Minneapolis, Minn., have three children, Kathryn, 5, Dan, 5, and Tom, 3.

He went to the dispensary where he received medical treatment for a badly chewed and clawed hand and arm.

St. Lo. Breakthrough Marked By 3d

Division, which received its original training here.

Aug. 1 was designated Third Army Day by the Third Army commander on July 4, 1945, because it signified the date on which the Third Army became operational in World War II. The Army with headquarters today located at Fort McPherson, Ga., is commanded by Lt. Gen. A. R. Holt.

Originally organized during World War I, the Third Army was not engaged in any fighting until World War II. Its primary task during the first world conflict was to serve as the American Army of Occupation in Germany.

But during World War II, under the daring leadership of the brilliant General Patton, the mighty Third Army gained more ground in less time than any other Army in History. Elements of the Third liberated 82,000 square miles including 12,000 cities and captured 186,000 enemy soldiers while inflicting 855,338 casualties.

Following the breakthrough at St. Lo on Aug. 1, 1944, the Third Army began an advance which led to the capture of the Meuse River and fighting 600 miles apart with almost 1,000 miles of practically unopposed flanks. The Third smashed across France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia, where it was stopped at a fixed restraining line by the German High Command.

Because of the swiftness of its advance, the Third was often hampered more by the supply problem than by German arms.

In 1946 elements of the Third Army, spearheaded by the Second Armored "Hell on Wheels" Division were sent to the relief of the 101st Airborne Division at Bastogne, breaking through the German ring of steel after seven days and nights of continuous fighting.

Reserves Hit New Tempo For Summer

Chaplains, Quartermaster, TAGs Directing Courses

Reserve officer training hit a new tempo at Benning this week as approximately 200 officers and men from seven Southeastern states arrived Sunday to begin two weeks active training in the Third Army Quartermaster School. They were followed Monday by 65 reserve and active duty officers for the Judge Advocate General School and by seven reserve chaplains who are taking on-the-job training for two weeks.

The Quartermaster School is commanded by Lt. Col. John E. Corrad of Roxboro, N.C., Commandant of the 368th Army Reserve Area Service Unit, Durham U.S. Army Reserve School. Personnel of ARASU school staffs from Fayetteville, Greenville, and Raleigh, N.C. and Greenville, S. C. have been attached to the Durham School for the training.

The school is designed to provide members of the Officer's and Enlisted Reserve Corps with summer field training supplementary to that received in their respective hometown reserve units and to keep them abreast of the latest developments in military organization and operations.

The staff of the Quartermaster School includes the following personnel from North Carolina: Col. Perry E. Moore, deputy commandant and troop commander, Raleigh; Lt. Col. Michael Berber, executive officer, Chapel Hill; Lt. Col. Joe Galloway, plans and training officer, Chapel Hill; Lt. Col. John Tilly, assistant plans officer, Durham; Major Logan Pratt, personnel officer, Chapel Hill; Capt. Clarence B. Whitfield, assistant personnel officer, Durham; Capt. Barney L. Davidson, (See Page 2)

End Marked For All-Inf. OC Classes

The last all-Infantry officer candidate class held graduation exercises Tuesday in the Math Theater.

Brig. Gen. Derrill McC. Daniel of the 101st Airborne Division at Camp Borden, Ky., was a principal speaker, addressing 118 officer candidates of class No. 59.

Future classes will have officer candidates from many branches. Following graduation the new officers will go to service schools of their respective branches.

Under an economy move, the Army last March transferred all officer candidate training, except artillery and engineers, to the Infantry School. The course will continue to be 21 weeks.

Gen. Daniel, who was introduced by Brig. Gen. Carl P. Fritzsche, assistant adjutant general, is attending the school's basic airborne class No. 4.

He is a 1944 graduate of the Cavalry Barracks at Fort Leavenworth.

The Regulations
Patrolman, virtue, fidelity, and ability were stressed by Gen. Daniel as the principal traits the Army expects in its officers. Of these, the patrolman general pointed out that fidelity is all important.

"The core lies in the word fidelity," he declared. "It is the common denominator — the vital link that connects us in positions of responsible leadership in a humane and civilized world."

He said that some important concepts that lie in the word fidelity are: loyalty, devotion, faith, and constancy.

"In so far as patriotism is concerned, every man loves his country," Gen. Daniel said. "If he does not, he is not a citizen, seek a commission at his hands."

Distinguished Graduate
He added that it is his duty to every man to perceive the nature and depth of his personal courage.

Sleepless Years In City End As OC Dreams On Army Cot

Officer Candidate William A. Campbell of 20th OC Company got his first good night's sleep in five years after being drafted. He says that even the rugged schedule of Officer Candidate School allows him more shut eye and slumber than he was able to get as a civilian.

The 21-year-old candidate, who will be commissioned in the Medical Service Corps upon completion of his course.

Board Chosen At Service Club

At a recent meeting of the Enlisted Men's Council of Service Club No. 4, a new governing board was elected. The TIEE NCOs of the board are from units in the immediate vicinity of the club.

Members of the board are: Sgt. Robert H. Jennings, 53rd Signal Const. Co., Sgt. Melvin E. Bellingham, 56th Trans. Trk. Co. and Pvt. Frank K. Lander, Hq. and Hq. Detachment, Special Troops Command.

The functions of the council are to assist the club director, to offer suggestions for new programs or variations of standard program ideas, to assist in actual presentations.

The next meeting will be held Aug. 13 at 8 p.m. All enlisted men are invited to join in the meetings and become members. For further information, phone Mrs. Malow of Miss Parks at FB 2220.

No Cows Allowed

Sfc. Panei Grows Grass Despite Lack Of Bovine

The green thumb of Company C, First Trans. Battalion — Sfc. Lawrence Panei — had to ditch a brilliant 2-edge idea recently. He is the man who makes grass grow around the second quarter in spots where grass either doesn't like to grow, or can't, for reasons known better to the grass than to the sergeant.

The idea involved the female specie of the most facile creature of the world — the milk cow. "If we only had one," Sfc. Panei said, "she would help make the grass grow where it doesn't want to grow and help keep it down where it does want to grow."

But like so many other brilliant ideas, it had to be abandoned for the more practical method of digging.

NEW TIEE NCO
Sfc. David C. Smith, Headquarters and Headquarters Company 30th Regimental Combat Team, has been assigned as the new TIEE NCO of the Combat Training Command.

JEAN TERRY

p.m. August 12. The program is open to the public.

The purveyor of "America's New Look in Music" will feature vocal list Jean Terry, "plano stylist" Lennie Lowe, the trumpet artist of Sam Nita, Arthur Godfrey latest winner Charlie Rhodes, the Hudson a Cappella choir, and the "Fidelium Six."

The Hudson band was picked as the first band to perform on coast-to-coast television using the coaxial cable for networks.

Leave Well Spent Col. Crisson Wins Wings

Lt. Col. Robert C. Crisson of Birmingham, Ala., has received his jump wings but he didn't get them on company time.

As a member of the attack group of the Tactical Department, Col. Crisson never seemed to have time to attend other training. He finally solved the problem by spending his leave taking the jump course.

Completing the training in less time than the average student, he was presented his wings in a special ceremony at the Airborne Depot. Crisson was commended for attending the graduation exercises for his class.

Col. Crisson served with the 84th Infantry Division in Europe from April 1944 to November 1945, and by the end of World War II was commanding a battalion. From 1949 to 1951, he was military advisor to Gen. James A. Van Fleet's staff in Greece.

New Faces Seen At Skeet Club's Saturday Shoot

New faces put in an appearance this weekend at the Fort Benning Skeet Club's Range and the increased enthusiasm and competitive spirit is beginning to bear fruit.

W. M. Milroy carded a 98 x 100 with his first 50 and Sgt. Boutin repeated his 25 to ring the bell for the second consecutive week of shooting.

Other shooters who broke 25 birds straight are Dennis Shaw, Cpl. Foulin, Boutin, and Louis Rowles.

School Is Toured By Canadian Col.

The deputy commander of the Canadian Joint Air Training Command, Lt. Col. H. F. Cotton, completed a tour of the Infantry School Saturday morning.

During his week here the Canadian officer spent most of his time reviewing the training methods and techniques of the Airborne Department.

In addition to visiting the Airborne Department, he also inspected the Operations Office, the library, Training Publications Department, and the Third Army Training Aids Shop.

 Capt. Charles E. Sill, training aids officer, St. Paul; Capt. Paul McClung, headquarters commandant, Fayetteville, and St. Blake L. Carroll, sergeant major, Willow Springs.

JAG School
 The Third Army Reserve Judge Advocate General School, in which 65 reserve and active duty officers are enrolled, opened here Monday for a two-week session.

The officers, ranking from Lieutenant to colonel, and representing the seven Southeastern states in the Third Army area, were welcomed by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Infantry School commandant, and Brig. Gen. Eugene M. Caffey, Third Army Judge Advocate General, during the opening meeting.

Gen. Meloy told the group that the Infantry School realized the great value of such training and urged the officers to visit the regular units on the post.

Col. William G. Buecheler of Jacksonville, Fla., a reservist of the Florida Military District and commandant of the school, outlined the policy and course for the next two weeks.

Major Thomas H. Birch of Cherokee, and Fort Benning, Judge Advocate Section, is project officer for the school.

Seven Army Reserve chaplains from the Raleigh, N.C., area have begun a two-week on-the-job training course of chaplain's activities.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Graham E. Baker, pastor of the Fairmount Methodist Church of Raleigh, is directing the course, assisted by Chaplain (Major) Marvin Vok, pastor of the Mebane Methodist Church.

The visiting clergymen will receive instruction in staff principles and procedures, personal counseling, the character guidance program and chaplain supplies, equipment and funds. For on-the-job training they will work with various post units and assume temporary duties at the post hospital.

Other chaplains participating in the Summer training program are Major John K. Ormond, pastor of the Abbeville, N. C., Methodist Church; Capt. Broder Patton, Fayetteville, N.C.; Major Robert Poole, pastor of the St. Paul (N. C.) Presbyterian Church; Major Thomas E. Belcher, superintendent of promotion, Abbeville Baptist Association, Greenwood, S.C.; and Major Harvey E. Johnson, pastor, First Congregational Church, Marietta, Ga.

The course ends August 16.

Blood Center Receives 60 Pints of Blood
 Fort Benning's Blood Donor Center reported 60 pints of blood were collected last week.

Heading the list of contributing units was the 50th Airborne DCT with 21 pints.

Other major units donating were Special Troops Command, 5th Infantry School Detachment, 5th School Brigade, 6 Army, Fort Benning, No. 1; civilians, 3 and Provisional Medical Group, 1.

JAGS OPEN TRAINING... The Third Army Reserve Judge Advocate General School opened here Monday with ceremonies. At the speakers' rostrum are, left to right, Maj. Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry School commandant; Brig. Gen. Eugene M. Caffey, Third Army Judge Advocate; Col. W. G. Buecheler, commandant of the JAG school from Jacksonville, Fla., and Col. John A. Carragan, Sr., Infantry Center Staff JA.

Two enlisted men have been assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters Company Battery, 180th mt 1 Detachment.

508th Celebrates 2nd Anniversary

Generals Bolling, Meloy Congratulate Unit During Anniversary Activities

The 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team celebrated its second anniversary last Friday with a series of demonstrations and contests. The unit also received congratulatory messages from Third Army Commander Lt. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling and Infantry School Commanding Maj. Gen. Guy S. Meloy, Jr.

Highlights of the day was a spot jumping contest with 26 participants. M-Sgt. Walter Partridge, Cambie Heights, Long Island, N.Y., won the jump from 1000 feet by parachuting 50 feet from the ground. He represented the 508th Engineers. M-Sgt. Ralph Porter, Hq. Co. 2nd Bn., a former smoke jumper from McCall, Idaho, wound up second at 50 feet. Spectators witnessed an unscheduled sight when two jumpers, M-Sgt. John Smith of Hq. Co. 1st Bn. and Sgt. Joe Wolfe, representing Hq. & Hq. Co., closed in and became entangled during the jump. Both demonstrated admirable presence of mind and safety technique in holding their hands stiffly and far apart all the way to the ground. Their air conduct brought praise from ranking military observers. A freak air current forced them together.

Other events included a push-up contest with Cpl. Edward Kuziel and Hq. & Hq. Co. winning with 155 push-ups.

FUSH-UP WINNER . . . Cpl. Eddie Kuziel, Hq. & Hq. Co., tries to make it 156 push-ups as M-Sgt. James H. Franklin, Hq. Co., 1st Bn. grimly counts. Kuziel won the 508th anniversary program push-up contest with 155.

BAT RELAY RACE . . . The baseball bat relay race provided keen but hot competition on Tiger Field during the 508th celebration activities. Special Units Battalion won the event.

RED DEVIL . . . The 508th anniversary celebration was complete with the famed "Red Devil" appearing in person. Cpl. Lloyd Wright, 1st Co. "arrived on the scene" by helicopter and gave his pitchfork to Col. George O. Pearson, commanding officer.

'Chutist Made Plans Officer

Lt. Col. L. H. Johnson of Kenly, N. C., has been appointed plans officer in the office of the Director of Instruction, effective Aug. 1. A veteran of 13 years in service, Col. Johnson, a senior parachutist, attended the advanced officers course here in 1943 and is a 1946 graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

From April 1944 to November 1945 he served with the 187th Infantry Regiment, 11th Airborne Division, in the Pacific and Japan.

Col. Johnson was senior advisor to the Seventh ROX Division in Korea from 1951 to 1952. He wears 28th Division, Silver Star and the Bronze Star.

Lt. Col. McDonald Assigned To Staff

Lt. Col. Robert J. McDonald of Palo Alto, Calif., has been assigned to the Staff Department.

As a member of the leadership committee, he succeeds Major Robert Allen Cuzick of Jeffersonville, Ind., who leaves this weekend to attend the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Col. McDonald joined the Army in 1941, and is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. From September, 1948, to August, 1949, he was a company and battalion commander of the 101st Airborne Division in Europe. In Korea, he was with the 107th Airborne Regimental Combat Team and later commanded the Third Battalion, 27th Infantry Regiment, Korea from 1951 to 1952. He wears 28th Division, Silver Star and the Bronze Star.

4 Sergeants Promoted In 508th Airborne RCT

Four Sics of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team were promoted to master sergeant during July. They are Liahentia Brown, of Support Co., Kenneth E. Ryals, Co. 1, Pete Tessler of Hq. Co., 1st Bn., and Jay E. McAulay of Service Co.

Sgts. Brown, Ryals, and Tessler, all platoon sergeants, were assigned to the 508th in the Summer of 1951. Sgt. Ryals was transferred from the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, as was Sgt. Mc-

Chaplains Win Jump Badges

Two chaplains were among five both in addition to specialized airborne training.

Four of the five to receive badges are from Hq. & Hq. Co. Chaplain (1st Lt.) Paul G. McCoville headed the list by winning the Master Parachutist Badge.

Awarded the Senior Badge were Chaplain (Capt.) Charles A. Wood of Hq. & Hq. Co. and Capt. Wilbur A. Sidney of Co. 1.

The two Red Devil Non-coms to receive Senior Badges were Sgts. Vernon R. Spence, vice chief, and Sgt. John A. Baranski, assistant platoon sergeant of the Anti-Tank and Mine Platoon of Hq. & Hq. Co.

The badges are awarded for successfully completing a minimum 50 jumps for the master badge and 20 jumps for the Senior Badge.

Drive Needs Push, Safety Group Acts

The 198th Field Artillery Battalion Safety Council, at a recent meeting, discussed ways a d means for putting more "steam" into the battalion's safety drive. Plans were made to impress upon the drivers of the battalion the safety value of having films in the proper driving and care of their vehicles. The showing of more safety films and the scheduling of an occasional motor-match to teach drivers proper convoy discipline and control, were discussed.

1st Lt. James R. Whitfill, battalion safety officer, is making plans to bring to the attention of every man in the battalion the fact that the cost of accidents in an average month at Fort Benning runs into approximately $30,000. But this in itself, he said, is secondary to the needless loss of life in off-duty accidents caused by careless driving on the highways.

Col. Walsh Praises CTC

The following letter has been received by the Combat Training Command from Colonel (Ret.) Edward J. Walsh:
'I consider the ceremony of Saturday, July 25th, in connection with my retirement from the Army the greatest honor I have ever had, it is more so because I was privileged to review the Combat Training Command together with the 122d Army Band. The troops participating I consider to be the finest in the United States Army, and I request that appropriate action be taken to transmit to your command and to the Army Band my sincere and deepest appreciation.'

End Marked

That and abilities are natural variables that depend upon heredity and environment.
'This nation has never tried to draw its officers from any particular class in society,' he said. 'It has tried to select men with one basic factor among them—diligence.'

Lawson Launches Air Force Aid Drive

The Air Force Aid Society's annual fund raising campaign has started at Lawson AF Base with Lt. Col. Jesse Zeller, executive officer, 40th Air Base Group, as chairman.
The Air Force Aid Society, a civilian corporation, is designed to supplement and augment the emergency assistance programs of the American Red Cross and other national and international agencies in maintaining the morale and welfare of the Air Force personnel and their dependents in times of unforeseen emergencies and problems.
Hoping to exceed the $1,750,000 contributions of last year, the committee is pushing the membership drive in all organizations on the base. In addition to the membership drive, a rally for Base personnel will be held on August 14 with awards to the lucky performers.
Colonel Zeller said there are two types of memberships open to military and civilian personnel. The annual memberships include associate members, $25; sustaining members, $10; benefactor, $50 a year, $5, and members-at-large, $1. The permanent types of memberships are patron members, $500 and Life Members $50.
'Last year the society loaned Lawson AFB personnel and their dependents $7,850,' the chairman said. 'It is our hope that Base personnel will be as generous as possible in their contributions during the present drive.'
The drive will end on August 8, 1953.

Ahoy, My Hearties!

First Ship In At Victory Pond, OCs Look to Water For 'Legs'

The Navy isn't musing in on the training of officer candidates here, but the landlubbers OCs will have a chance soon to try out their sea legs. Already, as they say, the first ship is in.

—The first of the fleet, that is, didn't steam in in battle formation. If a lone ship can be said to be in formation, but when joined by her sister ships in the very near future, the OCs ought to be able to "Cross the T," or some other thing like that, without any trou-

The fleet, he it said without further ado, will be composed exclusively of row boats—the kind of dinghies, you know, that a fellow can take out on Victory Pond and make like Admiral Nelson at Trafalgar.

"The boats ought to take their 1000 miles off infantry training for a few hours on Saturdays and Sundays," opined Capt. Donald A. Conner, special services officer for the 1st OC Regiment.

General Warns No Letdown Now

"The truce in Korea does not necessarily mean peace," Lt. Gen. E. E. Eubank told members of the 193 Infantry ROTC group here last Friday morning.

Speaking at the camp's closing ceremonies, the Chief of Army Field Forces told the 2,186 cadets that the Korean truce meant only a cessation of firing.

He also presented commissions to senior cadets who completed the necessary educational and military requirements to earn the gold bars of a second lieutenant of Infantry.

"The truce does not necessarily mean peace," the general said. "The greatest tragedy would be to think that it means we can let down our guard."

But Korea was not a failure, the World War II commander of the 36th Infantry Division emphasized. "We did destroy the North Korean Army and we did stop aggression. Now the United States is facing the most trying period since World War I. No one knows what lies before us."

The general compared today with the end of World War II. "Aug. 15, 1945, presented us with the greatest opportunity ever known to ensure peace, order and tranquility," he said. "The forces of aggression were wiped out. Germany and Japan were destroyed. But the opportunity was lost.

"The last eight years have been a bitter pill to swallow. The American people got just the opposite

Civilians Tour Fort Benning

Forty civilian members of Army Advisory Committees from five Florida communities will visit Fort Benning today and tomorrow, for a first hand view of famed Infantry School activities.

The Florida advisors are visiting the post at the invitation of Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, and Major Gen. G. S. Kelly, Jr., Infantry Center commander, to effect a closer liaison between civilian leaders and the military. The visits show the civilians what they are receiving in defense effort for their tax dollar.

The group will receive a general orientation before beginning its tour. This afternoon the visitors will witness signal training in the field and tour the Engineer classroom and area.

Friday morning they will witness Airborne training, a rifle platoon in the attack demonstration and attend an orientation of the officer candidate program. The visit will end Friday noon with a lunch with Officer Candidates.

Gen. Meloy and Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commander of the Infantry School, will be with the Floridians during their visit. They will be joined for the Officer Candidate School phase Friday by Gen. Bolling. The visitors are representing Army Advisory Committees in West Palm Beach, Orlando, Jacksonville, Tampa and Panama City.

Army Advisory Committees which are established in communities throughout the U.S. consist of local civilian leaders interested in the military. They assist the Army in maintaining close liaison with the public and working out civilian-military problems.

Kinney

Lewey, second baseman Norm Harris, and Kinney out of the game because they objected to a third strike called on Burt.

The champions took the second game, 6-4. They started the ball rolling in the first inning when the top of their batting order blasted a single to center and then stole second. Aug followed and was safe on a fielder's choice. Harris went into third safe and came home on a wild pitch.

It was a hard-fought ball game right down to the bottom of the ninth inning with the score tied at 4-4. In the tenth, the Pros drew two walks and capitalized on two 50th errors to break the deadlock.

In the third playoff game, the Red Devils bounced back against the pitching of Bill Chilton. They shutout the Pros, 1-0. Cateber Strong scored the sole run when the '08 pulled a double steal.

The 56th pulled off a "hidden ball" trick in the sixth inning just after Josey smacked a double. With two out, Josey, thinking Chilton had the ball since he was walking back to the mound secretly, took a short lead off second and before he could say "Jack Rabbit," he was tagged by Ed Broussau.

TENNIS CHAMP WARMS UP
U.S. Army Photo by Harry Linsky
Lt. John D. Cullum, Company D, 1st Transportation Battalion, doesn't let the recent wet weather stop his work outs. He is working out in the hand ball courts in Bryant Wells Field House when the rain prevents use of the outdoor courts.

Infantry Center Tennis Title Goes To Cullum

Lt. John D. Cullum won the Infantry Center Tennis singles championship for the Special Troops Command by winning three matches and drawing a bye in the four round tournament defeating Frank Redding 6-0, 6-1, Dewey Kessler 6-3, 6-2, and Lonnie Jordan 6-3, 6-2.

Tennis is an old game to this racket man. He has played for about 18 years including high school and college varsity teams. For three years Cullum was on the University of Tennessee's team of Volunteers who tied twice for second place and once for first in the Southeastern Conference and won the doubles championship in 1951. For two years Cullum was co-captain of the team.

After school, he toured Europe from March to May 1953 with his old team mate, Bill Davis, a w champion at Lackland Air Force Base. He has also won the Blue and Gray Championships at Montgomery and was post champion at Fort Eustis, Va., during his ROTC summer course.

Cullum wants to go to the Third Army tournament next week at Redstone Arsenal. The team that goes is to be picked as a result of the Fort Benning eliminations and former experience. The winners of the Third Army tourney will go to the All-Army Tournament August 25-27 at a First Army post. Cullum may meet his old partner here and is looking forward to it.

Pertman

is primarily a team affair with points being awarded for participation. The more fights your team appears in, the greater number of One or Two. In case you didn't know, boxing here at Fort Benning points can be made. For instance, if the Rams have a single fighter who is good enough to win the post championship, that man doesn't get any more points for his victory than a novice who wins his first bout.

Without great depth in number and lower classification pugilists, it is quite easy to see that Pertman will be having headaches getting his boys matches.

Spotlighting Sports

Barney Haynes, Brigade baseball coach and catcher, paced the Brigade Headquarters team on to victory in the opening round of the School Brigade Summer Golf Tournament. Haynes fired a handicap 69 over the Fort Benning Country Club greens as his eight man team turned in an average 71 on the par 72 course. The tournament is a strictly handicap affair with scores based on a players performance in comparison to the Country Club course's par. A total of ten clubs are competing in the present round.

Umpire Charlie Gaines had a little trouble during the first playoff game between ISD and the 50th Airborne. Working behind the plate, Gaines called a third strike on ISD's baseman, Woody Burt. The rhubarb developed over the call and Prof's huzler Jim Lewey, second baseman Norm Harris, and Dick Kinney were given the heaveho. Before the players left the field, Gaines requested that Military Police be called.

Speaking to Lewey after the incident disclosed that Gaines said, "Take two more steps and you're out." So, the three players took two giant steps and were ejected from the game and ball park. Sitting in the stands and chucking over Gaines' actions were former-league umpires Ed White and Jimmy Lewis.

The Doughboys are working out in Gowdy Field every morning and have already played some pre-Third Army Baseball Tournament games. They played Fort McPherson yesterday and will be in the Third Army Headquarters next week.

Coopers Bobby Dewey and Manager Emory Albritton are having some trouble in getting the squad put on orders. Ken Harris of ISD reports to separation soon. Jim Lewey, Prof's pitcher, has requested leave. Dick Kinney, Woody Burt, Herb Lavne, and Kitch Josey all have important jobs and do not want to lose time from them.

Tacticians Add Three Members

Three new staff members have joined The Infantry School's Tactical Department. They are Col. John S. Blair III, of Providence, R. I., senior artillery instructor in the associate arms group; Lt. Col. William J. Boyle of Brooklyn, N. Y., chief of the defense group, and Major Albert E. Lockhart of Akron, Ohio, instructor.

Col. Blair entered the Army in 1928 and is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. From 1942 to 1945 he served in the Pacific with the 162nd Field Artillery Battalion and rose to battalion commander. Before coming to Fort Benning he was assistant commander and commander of 1 Corps Artillery for 15 months in Korea.

Col. Boyle, a veteran of 14 years service, fought with the 51st Parachute Infantry Regiment in Europe from May 1944 to March 1945. He was with the 127th Airborne Infantry Regiment in Korea from September 1950 to June 1951.

Major Lockhart entered the service in 1944 and a year later was with the 26th Regimental Combat Team in Europe, serving there for 36 months. He also served in Korea from September 1950 to December 1951.

3 Post Teams At Ft. McClellan

Demonstration teams from three post units are participating in an ROTC instructors' school at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Instruction for Army personnel assigned to college and university ROTC units will be conducted through Aug. 30, to bring instructors abreast with the latest industry equipment and tactics.

Three officers and 11 enlisted men, representing the 78th Tank Battalion, 78th Engineer Combat Battalion, 460th Engineer Combat Company and the Army Aviation Section, will support the component field training.

The tank demonstration team will be at Fort McClellan until Aug. 9. The Engineer team will remain there until Aug. 26.

The helicopter team, consisting of Major Robert Winkler and 1st Lt. Robert L. Sibre was at Fort McClellan July 10, and is scheduled to return for further demonstration Aug. 24.

Tank demonstration team members are 2nd Lt. Guy De Mark, Sfc. Edgar R. Hodson, Sgt. Carmen D. Baguince, Sfc. Samuel M. Litten, Marvin H. Wing.

The Engineer team consists of 2nd Lt. James P. Smoly, Sgt. Alfred Scott, Cpl. William R. Baker, Cpl. Charles C. Jones, and Cpl. Julian E. Fassmore, all of the ## Release Set For 8000 Army Reserve Offs.

WASHINGTON — About 8000 Army Reserve officers in addition to those whose tours of duty will normally end during the next 11 months, will be released prior to July 1, 1954, the Army has revealed.

Officers whose categories expire during this fiscal year may continue to submit requests for renewal, as outlined in SIR 135-215-5.

Limitations placed on officer strength have forced the Army to plan on releasing the 8000 from extended active duty.

Selection boards are scheduled to meet early next month to start determining which officers may have to be released. The boards are expected to conclude their work by October.

First lieutenants are expected to bear the brunt of the cuts since the highest percentage over-strength now exists in that grade. However, the Army makes it clear that officers in all grades will be considered.

Those finally selected for separation will be given at least three months notice prior to the date of their release.

The facilities the resigning, voluntary relief from active duty will be permitted if all will at a few categories for officers who have (Please See RELEASE, Page 28)

Smokers Blast 86% Of Insects

The men with the smoke are at it again. In the last few weeks it seemed that the whole post was alive with smoke rising over the roofs tops. But a closer look revealed that the 6th Chemical Smoke Generator Company was in action.

Their smoke harassing operation will continue in and around Sand Hill and Main Post areas. What actually is intended is to kill bugs, flies, mosquitoes, and all annoying insects. Mosquito traps were erected in the post areas prior to the use of aerosol solution and the traps now indicate that there has been a reduction in pests by an 86 per cent knock out.

The solution that is doing this wonderful job is a mixture of DDT and smoke generator fog-ol.

Family Split With Six Sons In Army, Navy

The Boyce family of Boaring Branch, Pa., has been playing its own version of the Army-Navy game.

OC Foster P. Boyce, Ninth OC Company, led the score for the five services last August at three all when he was inducted into the Army. He was the sixth son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Boyce to enter the military services since the outbreak of World War Two.

The line-up for the family's Army-Navy "feud" lists John W. Manly, and Foster, Jr. for the Army—the Infantry, to be exact—and Stuart, Roger, and Robert for the Navy. Robert is awaiting orders to attend the Marine Corps OCS.

Cpl. Flanders Is 'WAC of Week'

Cpl. Margaret Flanders was selected 'WAC of the Week' for her exceptional work in her company and in her duties as a medical laboratory technician at the Army Hospital.

Cpl. Flanders from St. Petersburg, Fla., has been in the Army for 18 months. She completed basic WAC training and attended the Army Medical School at Fort Sam Houston, Texas and has been at Fort Benning since September 1953. Before joining the Army, Margaret was a student at the University of Florida, where she studied Medical Technology. She likes the Army and plans to make it a career.

At the hospital, Margaret spends most of her time in the health department, or blood testing section of the medical laboratory. In the company she takes part in all activities, especially sports, and is an excellent on this year's WAC softball team.

'Gypsies' Go To Capital, Then Dayton

Fort Benning's "Gypsies," the 506th Helicopter Company, will stage several demonstrations at Washington, D. C. and Dayton, Ohio.

Today one platoon—seven aircraft—of the cargo-type H-19s will participate in the retirement ceremonies for Gen. Omar Bradley, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Three weeks later another platoon of whitebirds will exhibit their wares at the International Air Races at Dayton, Ohio.

The nickname "Gypsies" has been adopted by the 506th because the company of 14 platoon, one of its platoons, is almost constantly engaged in some type of cross-country operation. Since its arrival here last November the 506th has flown 8,426 tactical miles.

Its travels have ranged from the cold of "Operations Snowstorm" at Camp Drum, N. Y. to the heat of the Nevada desert, where the company participated in the Spring Monte tests.

Monday the first platoon of copters, commanded by Capt. Robert C. Robertson of Siler, Ill., left Fort McNair, Washington, D. C., where the retirement program for Gen. Bradley will be held. Capt. Robertson is the executive officer.

On Sept. 1, the other platoon of "gypsies" will under the command of Capt. Robert C. Robertson, leave for Fort McNair, Washington, D. C., where the retirement program for Gen. Bradley will be held. Capt. Robertson is the executive officer.

Three Majors Win
Silver Oak Leaves

Three Fort Benning majors have been notified of their promotion to the rank of lieutenant colonel. They are Lt. Col. Edward Gielinski of Cleveland, Ohio; Lt. Col. Harold G. Gelwick of Seattle, Wash.; and Lt. Col. James W. Graham of Hamilton, Ohio.

Col. Gielinski, who was commissioned July 28, 1949, served in Europe during World War II and in Korea with the 15th Infantry Regiment, Third Division from September 1951 to August 1952. He has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

Col. Graham, a 1941 graduate of the United States Military Academy, saw service with the 28th Division in Europe during World War II. He came to Fort Benning in 1950 for assignment to the Pacific Department. He has been awarded the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Purple Heart.

Col. Gelwick received his commission in April 1946 and was called to active duty in 1941. During World War II he served in the Pacific Theater and later in China. He is now enrolled in the advanced class at the Infantry School. He has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

Capt. Ramos Talks To Columbus Lions

Capt. Francisco J. Ramos of the Allied Liaison Section addressed a dinner meeting of the Columbus, Ga., Lions Club on Thursday.

Subject of his talk was the Allied student training program being conducted on post. This program is part of the Mutual Defense Assistance program.

Under its provisions selected personnel attend regular courses at the Infantry School with the aim of improving liaison and standardizing procedures among the Allied armies. Approximately 30 countries have students here at present.

Prior to coming to Fort Benning, Capt. Ramos served as translator and assistant officer of the Spanish in World War II. He also served with the 64th Tank Battalion in Korea.

Food Service Conducting Emergency Disaster Course

Drawing from the military's vast experience of operating under disaster conditions, the Third Army Food Service School is conducting an emergency disaster food preparation course here today, tomorrow, and Saturday for 40 civil defense workers from six Southeastern states.

During the three day school, the students will be taught how to set up kitchens and prepare food under disaster conditions. The first of his kind to be conducted in the South, the program will train personnel to instruct other civil defense workers in their home communities.

The training is aimed at preparing for natural disasters such as flood and fire as well as war. "In an effort to make the course as realistic as possible," said Major Richard J. Falumbo, of Lake Flacid, N. Y., school commandant, "we have scheduled a part of the instruction in the field." Students will be required to construct a stove from brick, old sheet metal, and cans, and to prepare a meal on it. Classes will be conducted in the prevention of food contamination, mess layout and feeding arrangements, and waste disposal. The last construction of disaster kitchens, safety precautions, water purification, and waste disposal. The last two subjects will be taught by post military authorities.

Persons attending the course were selected from civil defense units. He was assigned to 508th as a home defense platoon group, school platoon sergeant in November 1946.

Nobility of Traditions

A distinguished civilian, after his retirement from the military, said that the most impressive feature of the Army was its nobility of tradition. Traditions are sometimes cast both ways, and in some cases little progress; but for the main part they do act together and provides a basis for a strong and cohesive force.

The United States Army inherited many of its traditions from European armies, who in turn based their traditions on armies that preceded them. Many traditions of our Army have been developed on the principles of freedom which it has fought so hard to achieve, making it a unique and powerful weapon for the continuing defense of freedom.

The customs and taboos that are an integral part of our present Army are as much a part of the law of the Army as are the regulations and policies that form its written law. The traditions, customs and taboos have been likened to a "common law" of the Army. This common law is in many cases as binding as the written law, and any one violating the taboos receives the censure of those persons aware of the transgression.

When a person joins the Army he becomes more than a jobholder—he becomes a member of an official family. He is expected to support and assist the activities of his unit, social and recreational as well as military. This applies to both officers and enlisted men. He accepts the responsibility for being a good military citizen. As his grade and rank increases, so do his responsibilities.

The concept of an official family shows itself in such time-honored customs as the honor accorded to officers and enlisted men on their retirement after years of faithful and honorable service. The old Army custom

Chaplain's Corner Why We Pray As a Group In Public

By Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Bernard A. Bissman

Many times I am approached by people with the question as to why they should attend religious services. They ask, "Why is it that we pray as a group in public? It is just as good to pray in one's own home or room?" In response to this question, I think we have to examine the need for worship.

Worship is a conscious effort to establish a relationship with God by prayer. Prayer is the language of faith and aspiration. It directs our hearts and minds toward God. It voices the greatest needs, our highest hopes, and the most far-reaching aspirations of man seeking self-realization. It is the value of public worship to the individual. It also has a social value.

We Should All Practice Our Belief In God

We are a Nation that prides itself on its belief in God and Religion. All of us are concerned for God and Religion. We are not the first people who have felt this way. The Hebrew nation during the time of Moses made such a claim about their relationship with God. They attended regularly with church, synagogues, and temples. Sunday and Holy Days were their days of worship. Their teacher and said, "Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word of the Lord. And they come unto you, and they sit before you as my people, and they hear thy words. And to you shall come all the people of the earth, and they shall say, 'This was good, as it is good that we today came to you, and we heard thy words, and we are glad that we have heard thy words.'"

Lawson Boasts Enivable Airborne Jump Record

When an American paratrooper makes a jump anywhere in the United States, the chances are even that he will be dropped by the 46th Troop Carrier Wing at Lawson Air Force Base.

Similar taboos and customs apply to members of the officer corps. Young officers learn that as an officer their official word or statement is ordinarily accepted without question, and that because of this they must be sure of the truth of their official statements. They learn that although within the officer corps are occasionally stressed, the fact that they are observed as common law can be illustrated by the simple fact that one never goes into an officer's office carrying an umbrella—a taboo still in existence.

The responsibility of Colonel Troy W. Crawford, currently in accounting for about 30 percent of all airborne drops being made by U. S. military services. Air Force and Airborne records show that better than 125,000 paratroopers have hit the silk at Lawson AFB since Jan. 7, 1952. Crawford, commander of the 46th Troop Carrier Wing, and its predecessor, the 46th Troop Carrier Wing, bulk of these parachute jumps, some 100,000, were made by student paratroopers undergoing training by the Airborne Department of The Infantry School. The remainder of the drops were made by instructors or were tactical training jumps by members of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

Emphasis Growing At Lawson In Airman Monthly Contest

Plans for increased emphasis on the selection of an "Airman of the Month" at Lawson Air Force Base have been revealed by Col. Troy W. Crawford, commander of the 46th Troop Carrier Wing.

Colonel Crawford said that each month a board of officers and enlisted men on the base will select a man on the base for the month, each winner will receive a $50 cash award.

SYMBOL OF ESPRIT DE CORPS—One of the most beautiful flags on the post is the one to be seen in the Third Battalion of the 508th. It is decorated with the battle-honored blue winged foot and battle stars earned while fighting in World War II. Beneath the flag is a miniature 10-gauge salute gun which is believed to be the only one owned by a battalion sized airborne infantry unit in the Army. Holding the flag are, left, M-Sgt. Julian Guzman and M-Sgt. Ralph Potterfield. Both were among the first cadre assigned to the Third Battalion.

WELCOMED TO THE REGIMENT—M-Sgt. Robert E. Lamb, a Benning resident, is being welcomed by the 508th Airborne Infantry Regiment. At right is Capt. Jack Tomlinson, company commander.

Lt. Kenney Awarded Oak Leaf Cluster

First Lt. Edward B. Kenney of Aiken, S. C., last Saturday received the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star for "meritorious service" in Korea.

Col. Oines Peret, operations officer, presented the award to Lt. Kenney, who is assigned to the post's Information and Education Division.

The award covered the period Jan. 6 to May 5, 1953, when Lt. Kenney was assistant operations officer of the 179th Infantry Regiment of the 48th Infantry Division.

Lt. Kenney, he citation reads, performed his duties with "proficiency, spirit, and intelligence." His administrative ability and knowledge of tactics were "incalculable to his associates and enhanced the operations of the entire unit."

LEGION OF MERIT . . . Lt. Col. Donald R. Ward, right, of Rochester, N. Y., is congratulated upon receiving the Legion of Merit for service in Korea by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant of The Infantry School at Fort Benning. Ward was presented the award for "exceptionally meritorious service" in Korea from Feb. 19, 1952, to Feb. 15, 1953.

Radio And Stage Star In OCS

A stage and radio actor with eight years professional experience, Officer Candidate John Reynolds, holds at least one distinction in the OCS Company—he had a date with movie actress Elizabeth Taylor.

A veteran of juvenile roles in such radio favorites as Tom Mix, Ma Perkins and Jack Armstrong, Candidate Reynolds played the part of John, the second oldest son, in the stage hit, "Life With Father" when he was 15 years old.

When he was 16, he went to Hollywood and took a screen test for the role of John in the screen production of "Life With Father." He passed the test, but didn't accept because he wanted to go back home to school.

It was on this trip that he had a boyhood crush on Cathy Zell and his date with Elizabeth Taylor. He was 16; Miss Taylor a vivacious 14.

Candidate Reynolds started his career when he was four years old in his hometown of Chicago. He began playing the piano after many years of practice and lessons traveled to Paris for further study. In 1948 he played a solo with the Fountainhead Orchestra.

When he returned to the United States he enrolled at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C. While at Georgetown, he gave several recitals and received an invitation to solo with the National Symphony Orchestra.

The Goodwin Theater Players School, a drama school in Chicago, initiated Reynolds into the theatrical limelight. Besides playing radio serials from 1943 to 1945, he at one time played in Romeo and Juliet with Lawrence Olivier and Vivien Leigh. This led to his part in "Life With Father" which played in Chicago, Washington and Boston.

Founded in 1899, the Swedish ship of Kiruna is 90 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

Instructors Learn Training Means

Sixty-six Army Reserve instructors have begun a week of orientation on the latest Infantry training methods and equipment.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry School commandant, addressed the opening session of the school on Monday in Wharton Hall.

The instructors, representing Reserve units from throughout the U. S., will receive 44 hours of instruction. Ten hours will be spent in weapons study, nine in Infantry and combined armed tactics, two in signal communications, and two in automotive subjects. There also will be 12 hours in general subjects.

198th Bolstered By New Unit, Men

With the addition of the 320th Field Artillery Battalion, the 198th Field Artillery Battalion has resumed its position as one of the top units on the post.

The 198th is the oldest artillery unit at Fort Benning and Third Army. Recently its strength diminished in a series of transfers and moves.

However, in the past few months additional men have bolstered the outfit. In June 197 men, mostly Korean War, were assigned to the 198th.

Van Loo Scores 15 Second Knockout At Mobile, Ala.

The smashing fists of Gordon Van Loo wrote a new chapter in amateur boxing records last week as the Grand Rapids, Mich., light middleweight 'k'd Southern and Alabama Golden Gloves champion Carter Wilson in 15 seconds in the first round of a scheduled three-round main event at Shrine Auditorium in Mobile.

Van Loo, representing Fort Benning's School Brigade sent his opponent into the arms of morphine by countering a right cross by Wilson with a left hook to the head and sent the Barin Field sailor to the canvas.

Wilson tried to get up at the count of eight, but collapsed back on the floor of the ring as the referee counted him out.

The lightning fast knockout, according to all available information, is the fastest ever recorded. Considering the fact that 10 of the 25 rounds were taken up by the count, the knockout itself took place within five seconds of the opening gong.

23rd Victory
The win was the dark-haired youngster's 23rd since he began the service in February in 1952, and the ninth knockout he has scored under the coaching of Jerry Perlman. Among the championships held by Van Loo are the Third Army and All-Army 156-pound titles.

Van Loo began his amateur boxing career in 1948 when he was urged of a close friend, he started in the ABA in his hometown. He progressed so rapidly that he fought for the year out, he won the 147-pound championship of the Michigan State Golden Gloves. He repeated the feat again in 1950.

Arriving at Fort Benning in 1952, the First Student Regiment boys underwent Airborne training and after obtaining his wings, he began his pugilistic career in earnest. The 27th stage fought at post and then, after winning the Third Army title, went on to National AAU boxing matches at Boston where he fought in the finals and he was in the Inter-service Meet where where fighting caught up with him in the ring.

On Friday, the Doughboys journeyed to Rucker and that evening Benning went down to a 3-1 defeat. Ted Hiltchenschlag was charged with the loss. However, Buddy Grimsley slammed a 386-foot homer giving the Doughboys their sole run.

On Saturday afternoon, Charlie Stewart started on the mound for the Benning Doughboys and the innings by Bill Chilton. The Rebels scored four runs on six hits while the Doughboys collected one run on seven hits and committed one error.

The big bat in this game was Conrado who went two for three, a triple and a single.

BITTERENGRERS

Warmin' The Bench

Everybody loves a winner, unless the winner is winning too often. By now the caught ball to do with the Yankees, we are told by folks out west—writing west of the Hudson. Some of the best paying customers in Chicago, down the Mississippi, and back in the Coonac Mack Stadium are now reeling from a black indolence memory of the terrible defeat. The silence hangs wrought on their weaker consciences.

OC Corbett Is Billiards Champion

Billiards or bullets, Officer Candidate Corbett of the 30th OC Company shoots them both and at the age of 22 is a billiards champion.

Corbett began playing the table when he was eight years old in his hometown of St. Louis, Mo. His father first taught him the fundamentals, but because of his age and clear-headed mind, Corbett had quite a bit of difficulty furthering his interest in billiards in his hometown. It was Jacksonville, Fla., while on his practice.

Later, in Mobile, Ala., Corbett learned to play pool in tournaments and usually finished himself in first place when the tournaments began.

When he enlisted in the Army he was assigned to Fort Benning. He was assigned to Fort Benning, Ga., where he met and played pool with other soldiers first on a Battery and later Battalion level.

Corbett admits that a bottom English is his secret of success. His best shot, he states, is when the cue ball and the numbered balls are frozen on the same rail and are separated by a side pocket. Here the English applied to the cue ball will cause it to bypass the table and spin the opposite rail, track back and send the string ball plummeting into the pocket.

Fashion Arbiter To Japan

The wife of a Fort Benning lieutenant colonel will soon become the first American designer to fashion clothes on a national scale for Japanese women.

She is Mrs. Hal D. Steward, who is known professionally as Dawn Benjita. Her husband is public information officer of Fort Benning.

Mrs. Steward, who formerly designed clothes in her native New Zealand and in Washington, D. C., has completed an agreement with Japan's largest department store to design clothes for nationwide sale to Japanese women.

Mrs. Steward will leave by air for Japan on Aug. 19. Her contract is effective Sept. 1. Col. Steward also will be leaving Fort Benning soon. On Sept. 15 he departs for an assignment in Europe.

MRS. HAL D. STEWARD

Designed in New Zealand before coming to the United States with her husband in 1946, Mrs. Steward was a leading New Zealand fashion designer. During her husband's tour of duty in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Steward fashioned clothes for the wives of foreign diplomats there in the nation's capital.

For the past four years she has been a fashion columnist for the Nippon Times, largest English language daily newspaper published in Tokyo. She lived in Japan for three years and Mrs. Steward was stationed in Japan and Korea with the First Cavalry Division.

Mrs. Steward has been designing clothes professionally since she was in her teens. In the past a book on fashions that is scheduled for early publication in the Japanese language.

When notified that final arrangements had been made for her to travel to Tokyo, Mrs. Steward said, "I am looking forward to this task with much anticipation because the Japanese make some of the finest materials and color designs in the world."

Japanese Leading Designers

While being interviewed by the press in Tokyo in 1949, Mrs. Steward predicted that Japanese women would, and could, take the lead in feminine fashions in the Orient. Today she had this to say about that prediction:

"In four years this goal has almost been reached. The advance has been so rapid I predict that within two or three years Japanese women will be unrivaled fashion leaders for the Far East. I further feel that many of the Western styles will then be patterned and copied after those created and styled in Japan."

Under Mrs. Steward's contract with the Tokyo department store, she will create a new line of fashions that will be sold through the store's branches.

Mrs. Steward's contract also involves radio and television appearances in Japan, a series of magazine articles and possibly a second book on fashions to be published sometime next year.

Officers Move Around in 508

Three Promoted in 1st OC Regt.

Three officers were promoted last week in the 1st Officer Candidate Regiment.

Capt. Calvin O. Wilson, assistant executive officer for administration was promoted to Major while 2nd Lt. Warner Lewis Jr. and Robert B. McJilton Jr. received silver bars.

Maj. Wilson entered the Army in Sept. 1942 and was graduated from Officer Candidate School in Ft. Benning, Ga. He was promoted to 1st Lt. in 1944 and was commissioned in the Infantry Division in Europe during World War II and with the 25th Infantry Division in Korea. He has served with the 1st OC Regt. since September 1951.

2nd Lt. Lewis was commissioned in the Infantry Division in Europe during World War II and with the 25th Infantry Division in Korea. He has served with the 1st OC Regt. since September 1951.

2nd Lt. McJilton was commissioned in the Infantry Division in Europe during World War II and with the 25th Infantry Division in Korea. He has served with the 1st OC Regt. since September 1951.

Fate Reverses Friends' Ranks

The hand of fate has "reversed" rank for two old Army friends.

Second Lt. Ell Smith, when assigned to the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, walked in Company 1 for his first assignment. The first person he saw was M-Sgt. Julian Guzman, who, three years ago, was his platoon sergeant in Company L of the 508th Airborne Infantry at Fort Bragg, N. C. Back then, Lt. Smith was a corporal and squad leader in Sergeant Guzman's platoon.

About a year ago, both troopers met at the enlisted night and heavy weapons course here and Sergeant Guzman suggested Smith's coming to the 508th. Later, Smith was appointed to Officer Candidate School, graduating last July with orders for the 508th.

Medal Given To Col. Ward

Lt. Col. Donald R. Ward, of Rochester, N. Y., Saturday received the Legion of Merit for "exceptionally meritorious service" in Korea.

Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commander, presented the award to Col. Ward, a member of the Combat Development office.

Col. Ward was cited for his "disregarding personal safety, he made numerous trips to advanced forward elements to insure maximum utilization of troops and to give advice and assistance," the citation declared.

Traffic Violations

During the period August 1 to 7 one enlisted man had his license suspended and five others their driving privileges revoked.

Pvt. Richard R. Palmer, Company C, Airborne Bn., had his license suspended for 90 days for allowing an unlicensed person operate his vehicle.

Cpl. Julius C. Parkman, Company D, 1st Transportation Bn., lost his driving privileges on letting the insurance on his vehicle expire.

Two members of Co. and Co. personnel of the 508th Airborne Regt. were cited for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Pvt. Irma Lawson and Pvt. Charles Dyer, Jr., had their privileges revoked for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Pvt. Joseph Williamson, Company B, Infantry School Detachment had his driving privileges revoked for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Most men of the command are assigned to duties outside the regular training program. With this training they maintain their POR qualifications. No record is kept of the men who are trained in any way but many have served with high distinction in Europe and the Far East.

CTC Now Using Latest Tanks

There's a "New Look" in track of vehicles on various problems from the Combat Training Command. Members of the 350th Tank Company (90mm Gun) now run their tanks with the very latest in armored vehicles the Walker Bulldog, named for Gen. W. Walker, who was killed in Korea. These tanks replace the obsolete M4A1 and reports from crew members say they are faster, easier to drive, require less maintenance and "look much better on inspections." Captain F. W. Houston, company commander and an old tanker, recently returned from Korea says the interest shown in CTC problems has increased greatly as well as the men's pride in their new vehicles.

Tankers Entertain 66th Oldtimers

Members of the 77th Tank Battalion played a big part in the entertainment of the 66th Armored Regiment reunion here last Saturday. Members and their wives were guests at one of the Infantry Schools problems. The latest in tactics and in tanks were shown these old tankers.

Following the field problem, they were guests in the 77th Tank Battalion Motor Pool. C Company displayed several M47 Patton medium tanks, and showed an OV10 (on vehicle material) layout. One old-timer, a veteran tankerman of 1919, upon viewing the row of Patton tanks stated it was almost unbelievable there had been so much progress since the first drive and commanded the old M47 with the 544th Tank Battalion, later to become a part of the 66th.

Active veterans of the 66th Regt. is Sgt. Byron R. Graham, 350th Tank Company motor sergeant. In 1928 and 1929, as a member of the 66th Regt., he had as his company commander Lt. Guy S. Meloy Jr., now post commander. Sgt. Graham knew many of these veterans from days long before the war.

Two enlisted men have been assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 77th Tank Battalion. They are Corporals Ira L. Toole and Waymon Smith.

purchased the largest amount with $1,479.90 which represents 84 new tanks. The 77th Battalion of the 10th Infantry lead for the month of July in initial sales with 121. The highest participation achieved by a Battery of Company 2502 was a Service Battery of the 1st Field Artillery Battalion. This unit has an assigned strength of 45 enlisted men of this number 38 were above the table and 37 of these bonds totaling $1,000. Their percentage of 77.3 is high for the CTC. A tabulation of July bond sales in the CTC show that 342 bonds were purchased totaling $3,709.60 plus a previous figure of eight bonds amounting to $750.00. The overall figure of 350 bonds sold brings the total to $5,645.00 for the CTC bond drive.

Praise Given By Gen. Collins On Retirement

Gen. J. "I cannot complete my tour as chief of staff without paying heartfelt tribute to you the men and women of the army military and civilian alike for your loyalty, sacrifice and constant devotion to duty. "During the past four years your splendid achievements have enabled the army to meet unprecedented responsibilities in a superb way. Fighting a war in perspective on a battlefield more than 5000 miles from home while at the same time building our strength to deter new aggressions elsewhere or to repel them if necessary required unprecedented effort. "Korea has already become one of the finest chapters in our military history. Beginning that day 3 years ago at the little village of Osan, three American soldiers raised our strength to deter new aggressions elsewhere or to repel them if necessary required unprecedented effort. ## Officer Candidates Told Red Goals Won't Alter

Brig. Gen. Willis S. Matthews sees little hope that Communists will ever change. Speaking at graduation exercises for officer candidate class No. 61, the former executive to Gen. Omar N. Bradley pointed out that the cold war is still being carried on, but with a new technique—war by the Soviet satellites. "As world leaders," Gen. Matthews told the 113 graduates, "Americans should realize three things: (1) Communism shows little prospect of changing; (2) There is little hope that the nature of the enemy will change; (3) We must understand the principles of military action." Gen. Matthews, who is here to attend an Infantry School refresher course before going to Europe for assignment, also listed these qualities that every American soldier wants in his leader: "Those who know their job, who willingly share the soldier's danger, who are fair, forward, and loyal." Gen. Matthews said that science has made war complex, resulting in the necessity of providing officers with a sound technical education. This technical knowledge is counted on to win wars as well as cost and loss of lives he said. Honor and distinguished graduate of the OC class was 2nd Lt. Sgt. Victor J. Yunker, son of Capt. Yunker of Anchorage, Ky. The 22-year-old officer has been assigned to the 50th Airborne Regimental Combat Team. Distinguished graduates were 2nd Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kokoruda, Sr., of Columbus, Ohio; 2nd Lt. Kari H. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Miller of Assonet, Mass.; 2nd Lt. Edward L. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips of Richmond, Va.; 2nd Lt. Patrick E. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Reese of Charleston, W. Va.; and 2nd Lt. Francis V. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Young of Herford, Texas.

Body Is Found By Engineers

A nine-man rescue team from the 78th Engineer (C) Battalion was called late Sunday night to aid in the search for a drowned person at Bartlett's Ferry Lake, north of Columbus. Lt. Edward J. Bierman, 18, was drowned Sunday night when the boat in which he was riding capsized. The 78th received a call at 8 p.m. Sunday and the team was on the way by 9:30. At midnight the search began and about ten minutes later the body was brought to the surface. Maj. John H. Oresar, Battalion commander was in charge of the team. Three weeks ago, he was assigned to occupation duty in Korea and participated in five major battles. Now assigned to 124th Company as supply sergeant, Marshall plans to make a career of military service.

AL School To Open Rugged Curriculum

An advanced leaders school for noncommissioned officers will start here Sept. 1. Seventy-seven senior non-commissioned officers from the post's major units will constitute the first class to go through the three-week course. The school, to be conducted by the 1st Officer Candidate Regiment, is the result of an agreement with Lt. Gen. John E. Dahlgren, chief of Army Field Force, which outlined the objective as an effort "to increase the leadership ability and command ability of non-commissioned officers possessing full the inspection and merits will go to the outstanding soldier of each platoon. Merits will be based on the appearance of the individual and his barracks. The school will be rugged, as at which such subjects as methods of instruction, drill and command, and leadership will receive primary emphasis. Much of the instruction (Please See SCHOOL, Page 2)

"QUICK, WATSON, THE DICTIONARY..." Little Michael Horton, 10 months, our constant reader and severest critic, seems to think he's found a word misspelled in our paper. Well, maybe he has, but we've got news for the tyke, who is the son of Capt. and Mrs. Murray Horton. We're going to...

It's going to take some doing, but we've got lots of backing. Every FIO, and that goes for Dad, is on one side. And writers everywhere — except for a few starchy old crackpots — are going to support our banner. Then, Michael, you'll see typewriters spinning again. They'll move out of stores, out of cold storage, and out of the shops where fellows put them in the stockpiles on bread and water. You won't have to cut your teeth on such words as "helicopter," "hotrod," and "the." But it may take time. Great a changes, even when pushed by The Bayonet, are not wrought overnight. So don't throw the speller away right now. And keep telling us when we go astray. We're depending on kids like you, depending on you for a lot more than correcting us when a silly word gets us down.

Carbine Only Gun 'Wanting'

Infantrymen—who fought the Communist armies in Korea to the standstill and stopped all six of the Red's major offensive short of their goal—are convinced that their weapons were the best in the world.

Study by The Infantry School disclosed that veterans of the war in Korea were unanimous in their praise of all basic rifle weapons, with exception of the .30-caliber carbine.

From Korea have come reports that some of our weapons were ineffective. This was true during the early days of the war when most were reconducted World War II types. But this situation was corrected quickly as new weapons were speed to combat forces.

"I've never seen an M-1 fail in any kind of weather," said a veteran rifle squad leader. "It can be fired at fast as it can be aimed—and that's what counts."

The .45-caliber semi-automatic Army service pistol, little used in World War II, became a popular weapon in Korea.

"It's particularly good at close range—20 to 35 yards—and the carbine's (Garand rifles) instead of carbines."

Despite its weaknesses, however, the carbine still was considered superior to the pistol because of its greater range and accuracy. Virtually every rifleman questioned agreed that the Garand was the most dependable and accurate individual weapon ever brought into play on a battlefield.

"I've never seen an M-1 fail in any kind of weather," said a veteran rifle squad leader. "It can be fired at fast as it can be aimed—and that's what counts."

Post Visited By Israeli Army Officials

The director of Israel's military intelligence, who arrived Sunday afternoon, conferred with Major Gen. G. M. Meloy Jr., Infantry School commander, Monday morning as the first step on his tour of post facilities.

Col. Benjamin Givli, accompanied by Lt. Col. Daniel Gelman, assistant military attaché at the Israeli embassy in Washington, received a general orientation on the Infantry School immediately following his visit with Gen. Meloy.

The intelligence officer during the afternoon witnessed a rifle company in attack of an ever line and toured the rifle platoon defense and engineer training areas.

His schedule Tuesday included a tour of the Airborne Department to study training techniques, a visit to the school's library and classroom, and a visit to the Automotive Department and Weapons Pool.

CAPT. C. P. SHEARER Resumes Duties as Capt. Shearer Ends Engineer Course

Capt. Clyde P. Shearer has resumed his duties as Acting safety officer at Lawson Air Force Base after completing a flight safety engineering course at the University of Southern California.

Capt. Shearer, a senior pilot, has been assigned to Lawson since February 1952. Before coming here he completed a three-year tour of duty in Germany.

The course attended by Capt. Shearer covered aeronautical engineering, physiology, accident investigation, accident prevention and psychology.

The Israeli officers left Wednesday to continue their tour of U. S. military installations.

"Clothes Slashed... Shoes In Tatters" Mountaineer OC Used To Life Of Hardships

The hardships commonly associated with mountaineering were only a pleasant vacation for OC Joseph E. Murphy, Jr., of 19th Company, Barrage Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division, as he climbed the rugged peaks of the Canadian Rockies.

The initial attempts to climb a hazardous peak in the Canadian Rockies met failure, and it was only by rope descent from an adjacent, higher peak that the party was able to begin the final ascent.

The 22-year-old candidate for the Pacific Coast Range of British Columbia, Murphy practiced in several different areas. In one instance, the approach was so difficult that only two officers were covered in one day.

Youngsters Love Stories Given By Tyro Father

"They laugh while their parents sing," said the baby sitting Chaplain's Assistant of the 26th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

Recently while attending services, choir practice, and altar gatherings, the chapel members of the 26th who are parents became faced with a problem: "Who is going to care for our children while we're in church?"

The problem was solved when Chaplain's Assistant, Private First Class Gerald S. Cowan, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, volunteered to perform the duties of baby sitter, and Chaplain Charles A. Meek succeeded in obtaining a former day room for the baby sitting venture.

Without expense, Pfc. Cowan, stepped into the drivers seat and assumed control of his charges as if he were the father of many.

Supplied now with movies, color books, cutout books, baby beds, bassinets, small tables and chairs, pacifiers, and numerous toys, the new baby sitting haven is in full swing.

Every Wednesday evening during choir practice the Red Devine Baby Sitting Society, opens its doors. "If the parents can conveniently help the church and their selves, I will do my best to ease their minds in caring for the children," said Pfc. Cowan.

"The baby-sitting evening runs along this order," said the Pfc.

field, Major, third number, I put sing," said the baby sitting Chaplain's Assistant of the 26th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

While this practice of the United States Army is still carried on in England, "Continued Cowan," who plans to sing songs or stories to the babies and know or care for them while the parents are in church.

By this time the parents begin to come here, if the children do not come first, they are allowed to sit out dolls, some, some, or do what ever they think best, but may be called for.

'Rags' Untwist Tongues In FeCom

SEDUL—Army newsmen in the Far East are in a tongue-twisting business that makes Peter Piper look pale as papaya.

The 26th Infantry Division's Tropic Lightning News, for example, carries stories in English, Turkish and Korean. A weekly, it is edited and proofread by Americans who speak neither Turkish nor Korean and hand set by Koreans who speak neither English nor Turkish.

The problems of the Tropic Lightning News are typical. The printers make mistakes, of course, because they are familiar with only one of three languages.

But they make fewer mistakes in setting Turkish copy than they do either on English or their own Korean.

In the English and Korean copy, they sometimes assume they recognize a word from the first two or three letters without checking further. Mistakes crop up when the guess is wrong.

But they have almost no experience with Turkish, so they have to set the material with great care, letter by letter.

Troop Information and Education editors who put out the Army's unit newspapers in order to keep attached United Nations units abreast of the news.

The Third Infantry Division, for instance, has been energetic in bringing out multi-lingual newspapers. The division at various times has published editions in Korean, French, Flemish, Spanish and Greek.

The Third Infantry Division paper was the first of many to bring out a Korean edition. It was making out Korean-language editions as early as September 1950 in Japan.

Since then, soldiers of many tongues have been able to read the news in their own language, courtesy of the Army papers.

THEY SING... Pfc. Gerald S. Cowan, chaplain's assistant and part-time baby sitter, takes care of the 26th's babies while parents attend services. Military functions are an important non-military social day youngsters.

A common Army newspaper so, such a headline as this one practice is to print items side by side in two languages, or to use one page for the English-speaking readers and the next for the attached foreign units.

Army foreign language papers are not confined to the Far East. In the Panama Canal Zone and Puerto Rico, Spanish editions appear for troops speaking that language.

Many papers give short language lessons in every edition. The skeptic then asked: "Why do the men wear black?"

While this practice of the United States Army is still carried on in England, "Continued Cowan," who plans to sing songs or stories to the babies and know or care for them while the parents are in church.

By this time the parents begin to come here, if the children do not come first, they are allowed to sit out dolls, some, some, or do what ever they think best, but may be called for.

New Supply Officer At 30th

In the recent change of personnel at the 30th Infantry S4 office, a new assistant regimental supply officer has been added.

CWO-Andrew B. Tromble, who has 29 years service became assistant S4 replacing CWO Bonnell, who is slated for Far East duty.

Mr. Tromble served with the First Infantry Division in the invasion of Africa, the invasion forces on Sicily, and the invasion forces at Anzio. During this time he received five battle stars, the Bronze Star, and the Purple Heart.

Leaving Germany, he was sent to the Infantry Center here and spent three years in the G-4 section. From here he was sent to the Far East and again worked in the G-4 section. From Japan, except for a brief visit in the states, he was shipped again to Germany.

From there he was sent to the post.

Lawson Starts Safety Drive

Accident prevention at Lawson Air Force Base received new impetus with establishment of a safe-driver award for its safely-conscious drivers.

The project is being launched in connection with Operation Impact, the current Tactical Air Command Safety Program, but will be made a permanent project.

The award will be known as the Lawson Safe Driver Award. Its purpose will be to give recognition to drivers for safe driving and to serve as an accident prevention tool by stimulating interest in safety.

In announcing plans for the award, Col. Troy W. Crawford, commander, 46th Troop Command Wing, said that recognition is deserved by drivers who demonstrate their concern for safety by following good driving practices, obeying traffic rules, and by using good judgment and forethought in their driving.

"This award program is planned to give such drivers that recognition."

Drivers receiving the award will be selected on recommendation of a group and unit commanders with the aid of roving Air Police patrols alerted for drivers following good driving practices.

Money's Big Mouth Shut As 1st OCs Teach Lesson

Although money still talks, as the old saying goes, soldiers of the First Officer Candidate Regiment are not giving it much chance to sound off. The muzzling of the green is part of the regiment's management improvement program designed to save equipment for the Army and money for the soldier. The program is a combination of supply economy and cost consciousness.

CTC Officers Find They Are At X-Roads of World

The crossroads of the military world. That seems to be how soldiers long have felt about Fort Benning and the Infantry Center, and the latest incident tending to confirm occurred recently in the Combat Training Command.

Maj. William R. Windham, recently assigned to the 26th Infantry, CTC, and Capt. James C. Murphy, now RSO of the 26th Infantry, both of the 26th Infantry, were mentioned their experiences in World War II. The major mentioned his PW days back in 1945 and how he and a messenger were wounded and captured when the Germans tossed a grenade into a building they were helping to defend.

Major Windham then spoke of days with little food and much pushing around until they reached the German PW camp at Lager-Hammelburg.

"I was there!" Capt. Murphy exclaimed. "We had followed the 8th Armored when they chased the Germans out of the Gemund Valley, and the 3rd Armored was the spearhead as we raced for the PW camps."

"I'll never forget that place," Capt. Murphy continued. "That was where we had so much trouble getting out the prisoners and getting them started back home. There were Englishmen, Frenchmen, Pole, Russians, and others from nearly every allied country in the war."

"That's right Captain," the Major said. "And I was one of the PWs you packed on a slow train for home."

400 Reserves End Training

Almost 400 Army Reservists changed into civilian clothes over the weekend as five Summer courses closed at Fort Benning. Ending their two-week training, Quartermaster and Judge Advocate General Corps personnel and ROTC instructors, Army Reserve instructors completed one week of active duty.

The 106 Quartermaster and six Chaplain Reservists received certificates of completion at graduation exercises Friday in Pratt Hall. The Reserve Quartermaster School, commanded by Lt. Col. John E. Conrad of Fortboro, N. C., stressed the role of the Quartermaster Corps in support of a combat unit on the front line. It also instructed the Reservists in the technique of close defense of QM supply installations in rear areas of combat zones.

The six chaplains, whose school also was attached to the Quartermaster Section, received instruction in the basic duties and responsibilities of chaplains within the Army. Chaplain Lt. Col. Graham Eubank, pastor of the Fairmount Methodist Church at Raleigh, S. C., directed the course.

The Judge Advocate General School, whose graduation exercises were held Saturday, was attended by 66 Reserve and active duty officers from seven Southeastern states. Commanded by Col. William G.

Mrs. Hal Leaves For Rising Sun

Mrs. Hal D. Steward, wife of Fort Benning's public information officer, leaves by air today for Tokyo. She will there become the first American designer to make clothes on a national scale for Japanese women.

Known professionally as Dawn Bendala, Mrs. Steward is the wife of Lt. Col. Hal D. Steward of Fort Collins, Colo., and Ed Paso, Texas. She signed an agreement two weeks ago with the Shirokiya Department Store in Tokyo to design an entirely new line of feminine fashions that will be sold through the firm's branches here later, becomes effective Sept. 1.

The young fashion expert, who designed clothes in her native New Zealand before coming to the U. S. with her American husband, has had $2,500 into the drive and at least another $100 is expected.

Drive Ended By AF Society

Lawson Air Force Base concluded its annual fund raising drive for the Air Force Aid Society last week.

The Air Force Aid Society, a civilian corporation, was established in 1942 for the purpose of aiding Air Force personnel and their dependents in distress.

Compliments showed the base has put $2,500 into the drive and at least another $100 is expected.

'Fly Or Get Out' Cadets Told Discharge Nears For Novice 'Chutist With 165 Jumps

WASHINGTON — This September's military flight training will have their AFROTC cadets beginning their senior year of college must pledge themselves to undertake flight training when commissioned or else drop out of the program.

Dr. John A. Hanna, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower and Personnel, told a Senate subcommittee the Air Force would be unable to absorb these men if they did not prepare to leave.

Of 1953 AFROTC graduates about 6,400 are due to be called up appearing for ground training. Also there are 3,200 who have volunteered for flight training. These two groups and retraining imposed on officer strength will necessitate within the next 18 months the retirement or separation of about 12,500 officers now on duty in the Air Force, manpower experts said.

Names to Draft Board

Only 1000 or so ROTC graduates, presumably from next year's class, can be used in ground jobs in the AF—in such specialized fields as engineering.

Doughboys Downed By Ft. Jackson, 9-1

Post To Play Second Game At Rucker

BY LES DUNN
Bayonet Sports Editor

CAMP RUCKER, Ala.—The Fort Benning Doughboys were downed into the losers bracket of the double elimination Third Army baseball tournament when the Golden Arrows from Fort Jackson, S. C., defeated them yesterday afternoon.

The Doughboys will meet the winner of the Camp Rucker-Fort Bragg contest today.

The arrows started right off in the top of the first frame when their first two batters drew walks off lefthander Dick Myers. The next batter then dropped a sacrifice hit down the third baseline, but Horace Conzolo threw wild to first sucker Ken Watts allowing two runs to score.

Jackson cleanup hitter Joe Tanner then singled to left scoring another run and he went into second on Myers first wild pitch of the game. The sixth Jackson batter slammed a two bagger which accounted for more runs and the next batter drew the third walk of the inning off Myers.

Catcher Frank House, former Detroit Tiger receiver, reached first base on a fielder's choice and proceeded to steal second base.

"Pitcher Roger Craig, who has an 8-2 season record which includes a no-hit game, struck out the top of the batting order. Mike Kordeck grounded out to end the frame."

The Fort Jackson hitters collected six runs on two hits and two Doughboy errors.

The Doughboys came to bat with second sacker Fred Aug getting on first with a walk. Conzolo went down swinging and big Bill Boadie drew the second free pass off Craig moving Aug to second. Cleanup hitter Woody Burt singled to short center and Aug slid in under house who took the throw in.

After that, things settled down and Myers and Craig both hurled good ball. The Doughboy pitcher man twice pitched himself out of trouble when Jackson had the bases loaded.

Post Swimmers 3rd In 3A Meet

'08th Mermen Win Two 1st Places

Competition at the meet was stiff. A majority of the swimmers were former college athletic stars with big Test experiences.

The Benning mermen, however, came up from the depths to take a first place in the 100 yard breast stroke and third place in the 400 yard free style race; third place in the 400 yard free style relay, 220 yard free style and the 100 yard back stroke; fourth place in the 100 yard back stroke and fifth place in diving.

Bob Nagy and James Moore were the star swimmers of the post team. Nagy, along with Moore and Norm LaMothe, who set a Benning record for the 300 yard medley relay, came from behind in the same event to bring the team a first place.

Nagy, who was team coach, set a record for the 100 yard breast stroke at Benning. (Please See POST, Page 14)

Benning Units Have Names For Teams

Most of the Fort Benning units have nicknames for their sports teams. The 508th Airborne teams are known as the Red Devils; Combat Training command as the Commanders; Infantry School Detachment as the Professionals; "Profs" for Provisional Medical Groups as the Medics; First Student Regiment as the Blackbirds; Second Student Regiment as the Rocketeers; First Officer Candidate Regiment as the Generals; Special Troops Command as the Raiders; and the Lawton and Fort Base athletes are called Flyers.

Doughboys Clobber Rucker For 13 Hits And 10-3 Win

It took the Fort Benning Doughboys six games to win their first pre-Third Army Baseball Tournament contest and when they did last Thursday evening, Gowdy Field had a path worn between the Camp Rucker Rebels bullpen and the pitcher's mound.

The Doughboys feed off for 13 hits off four Rebels hurlers as they broke into the winner's circle with a 10-3 victory. They had previously suffered five straight losses.

The Benning All-Stars ventured into Alabama territory two weeks ago and the Rucker team handed them their first defeat number two and three. Playing on a home and home basis, the Rebels recuperated Doughboy hospitality by beating them again for less number five.

Manager Emory Albritton surprised one and all by shifting Big Ken Watts from first base to the pitching staff. Watts, a left hander, came through in his first Doughboy start with a seven hit game bolstering everyone's spirit, including his own.

Watts had been murdering the horsehide in batting practice but in the previous ball games, he only brought one hit in 115 at bats. In this contest, the former Combat Training Command player - coach went up in the first inning with three runs on four hits and was joined by an extra base hit by right fielder Woody Burt.

In the fifth inning Harold Robins came in to relieve Boyd and the Doughboys clobbered him for 13 hits and 10 runs. The ball bounced out of the park and White ruled that it was foul and another strike.

The Doughboy hitting parade was paced by centerfielder Boody Grimsley who had a perfect evening, four for four. Everyone on the lineup hit safely except coaching first baseman Bobby Dew and he got on base safely when he was hit by a pitched ball which forced in a run.

Doughboys Explode

Rucker hurler John Boyd was struck by a first victim, Fort Benning catcher Gene Mitchell, in the top of the first inning with three runs on two hits, one of which was an extra base hit by right fielder Woody Burt.

In the fifth inning Harold Robins came in to relieve Boyd and the Doughboys clobbered him for 13 hits and 10 runs. The ball bounced out of the park and White ruled that it was foul and another strike.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

"To call, or not to call, that is the question: Whether 'tis nobler in this game to suffer the taunts and yells of outraged players or dodge the curves and drops of vegetables from the bleacher mob."

(Believing in the spirit of fair play, The Bayonet is willing to give every man his day in court. We therefore publish the following, which, we believe, gives the umpire's side of the story pretty well. They wrote it! We dodged all the vegetables but one—a tomato—Sports Ed.)

In recent weeks there has been quite a bit of criticism about the post umpires. Sports fans should stop and realize that the umpires are not better than the league in which they work. Prior to baseball season, a call was sent out over the post for qualified umpires to contact us so we would get organized and give the league good officials. No one contacted us, so we used what we had and let the good umpires call from the press box and the stands.

Our sports writer from The Bayonet seems to think we didn't know where the strike zone was. With some of the scoundrel-arn players we had, the umpires didn't see enough balls pass through the strike zone to get a chance to develop a good eye for calling balls and strikes. From the press box you can call balls and strikes better, and we appreciate the assistance our sports writer gave us by use of the loud speaker. When we would make a call he would tell the fans know that he thought we missed it and yell, "bear down," and, being the official scorekeeper, I'm sure we all agree that he was using the best of press box etiquette.

There was also a lot of complaints from the players when The Bayonet published the batting averages. It seems that the poorer thought a sacrifice or a walk was a time at bat, therefore pulling the players' batting average down. Let's hope these mistakes don't affect any of the players in the event, a talent scout decided to look at the averages.

Quite a few comments have been made about the rhabber and the umpires since players from the same. Anyone with common sense should know that with some of these bush league prima donnas (former class AAA, AA, A players) that the best of umpires will have trouble.

Half the coaches and 98 per cent of the papers didn't know the basic rules of baseball. How can anyone think baseball and not know the rules? For example, a runner is on second and none out, fly ball to third baseman, and runner goes to third and stands there without tagging out. BASEBALL? One advice to the coaches and players, "Learn the basic rules before trying to coach or participate in any sport."

To the sports writer, "Learn to interpret the rules of a game before trying to write about it. And please, Mr. Sports Writer, spare a little midnight oil before the evening football season and learn the difference between a touchback and a safety."

We hope to see better officiating and sports writing on the post in the future.

Sports Figures Join 508th

The number one contender for the Texas Lightweight Championship in 1952 and a famous daredevil of the hot rods are two of the latest sports figures assigned to the 508th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion. They are Don L. Hoffman, professional boxer and James L. Kolston, of hot rod fame.

Known in the ring as "Don Glenn," Hoffman still holds in the Austin Texas Area the record for the fastest knockout—34 seconds in the first round.

An amateur in three years, he had won the Southwestern Texas AAU Champion and the Athletic Champion twice. Professionally he was managed by Mickey Riley, first manager of the famous Lew Jenkins, and by Jack Blinn, number one contender for the Lightweight Championship of the World.

Hoffman's experience is expected to be utilized in the 508th Bn. fighting team this year, but will not be able to box because of his professional status.

The other sports figure, Jimmy Kolston, is also a champion in his field. He is better known to hot rod and slower cars. He is a member of the Texas Hot Rod Club, "Jim Canton of the Joy Wheelchair Daredevil." Kolston has traveled through 42 states and has been in 1000 cities. He has appeared at some of the most famous speedways in the country for 12 seasons as the champion doing such during things as roll

Microbe Hunters Battle Rats

SEOUL—A small group of U.S. Army medical men in Korea is fighting armies of tiny disease-bearing enemies.

This 12-man research unit, the 219th Medical Detachment, is studying the habits of rodents and insects in order to find new ways to prevent and fight disease. In their one-year battle against enemies of health, the unit's two entomologists—authorities on insects—and 10 preventive medicine scientists have recorded more than 73,000 identifications of rats, lice, mites, fleas and mosquito larvae and adults. In doing this work, they traveled thousands of miles over insect-infested areas of South Korea.

16 Jumpers Get Chufist Badges

Lt. Col. Edward Bourke of Fayetteville, N. C., heads an August list of 16 30th Airborne Regimental Combat Team paratroopers who were awarded senior and master jump badges. Col. Bourke, commander of the 32nd Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, was awarded his senior paratrooper badge.

Chufists who qualified for their master paratrooper badge, and have made at least 30 jumps, include Capt. William P. Brant, Headquarters Battery, 32nd; second Lt. Fred Gehrmann, Company F, 1st Sq.; Francis E. Redfern, Company G, and Sgt. Nathaniel J. Lamirande, Battery B, 32nd.

Jumpers who earned their senior badges, with at least 20 jumps, include Capt. John Comely, Headquarters Battery, 30th; Second Lt. Leo Harold Dalton, Company F, and John Todd, Company F, 1st Sq. Harmon Callier, Battery A, 32nd; Sergeants Robert Murock, Company B; George McClain, Service Company; John Conn, Battery A, 32nd; and Howard Zwald, Battery B, 32nd.

Also, Corporal Richard Brittain, Battery B, 30th; James MacDonnell, Company C, 32nd; and Arturo Villarreal, Company H,

Brigade Launches Drive Aimed At Safety Measures

Colonel Max H. Gooler, commanding officer of the School Brigade, has initiated a "double barreled" safety program throughout the brigade to stress safety consciousness at all levels.

Highlighting the program is the presentation of a brigade safety plaque to the Regiment with the outstanding safety display. The regimental commander selects the best display from the companies in his regiment and in turn compares with the displays from the other regiments.

As part of the campaign the brigade will publish a special black-bordered letter for every company each time there is a traffic death in the unit.

Issuance of the letter is aimed at cutting down traffic accidents. It will include a complete description of the accident and the action which could have prevented it. The letter will be posted on bulletin boards in the brigade area for one week.

Norman Appointed To Red Cross Post

Joseph H. Norman of Moultrie, Ga., has succeeded Charles E. Rodgers as assistant director of Red Cross field office here.

Rodgers has been transferred to Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Ga., as field director.

Norman, who has worked for the American Red Cross since November, 1945, was at MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., before coming here.

More than half of his time has been spent overseas. He was stationed in Europe from 1946 to 1949 when he was transferred to the Far East. He returned to the U. S. in 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman reside at 81 Stonewall Drive in Columbus with their children, Larry, 13, and Nancy, 4.

Photog Upped To M-Sergeant

Promotions to master sergeant were recently awarded to SFCs Joseph F. Wolfe, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, and Willis L. Powell, of Company F, 30th Airborne.

Sergeant Wolfe, formerly with the 48th Airborne Field Artillery Regiment, 17th Airborne Division, and Company H, Airborne Battalion, Student Training Regiment, transferred to Headquarters Company Third Battalion, 50th, in October 1951, to undertake the duties of photographer in FIO. He later transferred to Headquarters and Headquarters Company, but his duties remained the same. The Pontiac, Mich. sergeant, received his Parachutist Badge in October 1942, and now, a qualified Master Parachutist, he holds a record of 247 parachute jumps.

Sergeant Powell, of Guthrie, Okla., received his Parachutist Badge while he was assigned to the 11th Airborne Division occupation force, in Yonotai, Japan, March 1946. He is now a qualified senior parachutist, in line for the master jumper's badge. Powell was assigned to Company F, while the Regiment was still at Fort Bragg, N. C. He has served in the capacity of platoon sergeant since the 30th Regimental Combat Team was officially activated.

Army Authorized To Pay More On Outside Tuition

Under provisions of the Appropriation Act of 1954, Army field officers are authorized to pay a larger share of the tuition cost for enlisted men attending accredited civilian educational institutions.

And for the first time, the government will defray part of such costs for warrant officers and first and second lieutenants.

Under the new regulations, and beginning with the fall semester of the Fort Benning TIEE officer is authorized to pay up to 75 per cent of such tuition for enlisted men and 50 per cent for the named officer grades.

The monetary limit of $7.50 per semester hour for enlisted men and $5.00 for officers is set by the act.

Heretofore the government would only 50 per cent of the cost for enlisted men and made no provisions for officers.

78th Engineers Add 43 To Battalion

Forty-three enlisted men have been assigned to Company B, 78th Engineer Battalion. They are Sgt. Eddie C. Klett, Sgt. Paul L. Andrews and Artin G. Gentry, Pvt. Abraham Beckett, Alex A. Mancini, Kenneth A. Robertson, Charles W. Roush, Paul D. Wanger, Hugh T. Sherwood, Joe A. Graham, Curtis L. Reid, Charles W. Powers, Norman F. Reed, Gene C. Wright, Louis Houston Jr., Roosevelt Varnado, Walter J. Danahy, Ralph Dupont.

Also Rufus Whitby, Joe L. Banks, Linwood Hicks, Jr., Dennis Humble, Luther Jacobs Jr., James R. Kline, Eddie W. Bullman, James E. Reynolds, Robert James Schmidt, James Henry Cooper, James Albert Troutman, Will T. Lee, John W. Patman Jr., William C. Willie, Bobby L. Todd, Lester R. Lewis Jr., Arnon Vanzant, Nolan Martin, John W. ### Four No's Make For Perfection

No AWOLs, no DRS, no resignations, and no washouts. That is the record hung up by class No. 7 of the Infantry course at Second Student Regiment.

Honor graduate of the 47 students was Sgt. James H. Fuller, Jr., the only first-class graduate in the class. For the six week period, Sgt. Fuller received 983 points out of a possible 1,000, an average believed by the grades and records section of the highest yet attained for the course.

The course trains selected enlisted personnel to control and supervise the training and tactical employment of an Infantry regiment counterfire platoon.

Editor Taking Training Tour

Ogden R. Reid, editor of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune, Monday began a six-day active duty tour at Fort Benning.

The newspaperman, a Reserve Infantry captain, broke his training Tuesday for a quick trip to New York for a conference with President Eisenhower. He returned Wednesday evening.

Reid, the son of Mrs. Ogden Reid, president of the Herald Tribune, received a general commission in the Infantry School Monday morning. He also was briefed on the organization of the school and heard a discussion of the Army education system conducted on post.

The editor also toured the Airborne Department to study the changes in training techniques and equipment since he took the course in 1944.

Reid witnessed an individual night training problem Monday evening.

Tuesday morning he viewed an attack problem and received an orientation on The Infantry School's Ranger Department.

Immediately before leaving for New York Tuesday evening, the editor visited the Communications Department to see a display of equipment and systems used by an Infantry regiment.

stood fast against odds as great as 50 to 1, the story of the fighting in Korea was a story of daily hardship, determination and valor. The Eighth Army reorganized and rotated 3 times in the face of the enemy who live in history as the first United Nations fighting force and as one of the invincible armies of all time. All this would not have been possible without the magnificent response not only of our regular army but of our national guard and organized reserves who have added new brilliance to their citizen soldier tradition.

"To every man and woman, wherever you are, I want you to know that I have been proud to serve with you in our great army and I am sure you join with me in paying homage to those of our fellow soldiers who have made the supreme sacrifice in action in Korea. They embody the spirit and patriotism by which the army has always defended our nation, expressed in the words 'duty honor country'."

PX Called Vital Factor For Morale

WASHINGTON (APFS)—A Congressional subcommittee investigating service exchanges has issued a report saying that "most of the charges made against the operation of the exchanges are baseless and reckless."

The subcommittee, which is part of the Armed Service Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives, admitted that there are "occasional lapses," but said that on the whole the exchanges are doing an important job. They were cited as a vital morale factor which helps keep noncommissioned personnel in Service.

The report also pointed out that if service personnel should be required to pay the civilian rate on all merchandise, it would be necessary to grant a pay adjustment. However, under the present set-up the exchanges operate as self-supporting enterprises, pay Federal taxes, and benefit enlisted men and women by the purchase of recreational facilities from the profits. Were it not for exchanges, the taxpayer would have to provide Service libraries and athletic equipment.

The committee noted that servicemen and women, who are shifted from place to place, have no opportunity to determine integrity of nearby merchants. The government protects Service personnel against unscrupulous characters by operating exchanges.

The committee did recommend regular study of sales slips for purchases in excess of $5 to prevent overbuying by individuals or families. It also condemned incentive pay for employees based on volume of sales.

Army Cites Comptroller For Report

The Fort Benning comptroller has been cited by Third Army for the publication, "Performance Analysis Report," which was selected as instructional material at Syracuse University.

Lt. Col. Norman A. Campbell of Ocean Grove, N. J., received praise for the report in a letter of appreciation from Col. William H. Hill, Third Army deputy chief of staff. The letter was endorsed by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr.

The publication, a monthly report, is a monthly report. (Please See CITIES, Pages 27)

'Juke Box' Peps Mess Hall Spirit

Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th RCT, has taken a big step forward in providing a pleasant atmosphere for its members with the installing of a "juke box" in the mess hall. The spirit of the men has increased noticeably throughout the room meal and from all indications such a fact will help the morale of any unit.

This is the first juke box to be installed in a company size mess in Fort Benning, as far as the 30th RCT is concerned. It will be the first not only in the Third Army Area, but the entire army.

Post Children End Summer Vacations

Tots, Teens Face Books Sept. 8th

Vacations are almost over for about 1,000 Fort Benning school children who begin registration Sept. 1 for the 1953-54 year.

School No. 1, Faith School, and Custer Terrace School will register children from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday according to school officials.

Children from kindergarten through the eighth grade who reside in the Custer Terrace, Battle Park and Upstar Terrace areas will register at Custer Terrace School, and children in grades nine through 12 will register at Faith School on the main post.

Children residing on the main post or in Benning Park planning to enter kindergarten or the first through third grade will register at School No. 1, Faith School. Faith will handle registration of children in grades four through 12.

Parents need not bring their children for the initial registration, and children in the sixth grade or above may register alone if they are able to give school officials all the information requested.

Birth certificates will be required of children to be enrolled in either kindergarten or the first grade and who have not previously attended Fort Benning schools. A child must be five on or before Jan. 1, 1954, to enter kindergarten and six to enter the first grade.

Transfer students should have in their possession transfer certificates or similar documents. All pupils are required to present proof of immunization against diphtheria and typhoid on the opening date of school. If a child is not already vaccinated, the procedure will be deferred until November, based on the post surgeon's recommendation.

REBELLION... Little Judy Ann Koncir, like so many other post children, doesn't want vacation to end. "I just want to stay home and play," she tells her father, M-Sgt. Paul M. Koncir, chief clerk of the T&E Section of the Infantry School, who is trying to get her off. But no pulling or tugging can budge her.

EDUCATION... Sgt. Koncir, remember, is part of the post's Troop Information and Education setup. So what could be better than a little education right here? "This insignia," Sgt. Koncir says to Judy, "tells what I am asked to do by my commissioned officers and what I ask everybody under me to do. That's the way it goes. So how about it?"

SUBMISSION... Convinced by "Follow Me," Judy strode down the walk, her dog Blackie following like Mary's little lamb. "But you can't come," Judy said, patting the pet lovingly. "School is just for children." And then she marched proudly off as if going to class. (She lives with her parents at 322 Andrews Road, Columbus, and attends Holy Family School there.)

Bares Arm Every Week

Sgt's. Blood Tames Dread Disease

Sgt. Thomas Nolte of the 20th Evacuation Hospital (SM&L) cleared off his desk for the day and glanced at the calendar. The next day was Tuesday. Time to give more blood, Sgt. Nolte told himself.

And because the sergeant bares his arm to the needle every week, babies from far and near are born free of a dread and deadly-hemolytic disease—the destruction of red corpuscles before birth.

Attamirano who has found only one person on the post with this same type.

Nolte's blood is used to prepare an antigen, or substance, to detect the Rh antibodies in expectant mothers. And antigen is a substance which is injected into the blood of expectant mothers as an anti-toxin for typhoid. The typhoid serum is actually an antigen.

As the antibodies in the mother increases, her blood begins to react upon the unborn child, which results in a disease called hemolytic disease of the newborn.

It is with this developmental process in mind that the sergeant's blood is used to detect the approximate 3,000 expectant mothers per year that bear the Rh negative blood. If a mother is detected having

Infantry School Lists 23 Courses For Year

Twenty-three courses of instruction, with an authorized total enrollment of more than 37,000, are now in progress or scheduled for the academic year at the Infantry School.

The largest student group, 15,400 officers and enlisted men, will be enrolled in 47 three-week basic classes to be conducted by the Airborne Department during the 1953-54 school year which began last month.

Other classes scheduled include: Infantry Officer Advanced (26 weeks); Associate Infantry officer Advanced (15 weeks); Allied Associate Advanced (20 weeks); Infantry Field Grade Officer Refresher (four weeks); Associate Infantry Company Officer (15 weeks); Basic Infantry Officer (11 weeks); Allied Associate Company Officer (20 weeks); Infantry Company Grade Officer Refresher (10 weeks); Infantry Heavy Mortar Officer (five weeks); Officer Candidate (22 weeks); Rifle Marksmanship Instructors (two weeks); Light and Heavy Weapons Infantry Leader (15 weeks).

Also Basic Non-Commissioned Officers (eight weeks); Advanced Non-Commissioned Officers (15 weeks); Operations and Intelligence Specialist (six weeks); and one officer Communications (15 and one half weeks).

Also Infantry Sound Ranging (six weeks); Infantry Enlisted Communications (17 weeks); Infantry Radio Maintenance (17 weeks); Infantry Motor Transportation (18 weeks); Infantry Automotive Supervision (10 weeks) and Ranger (eight weeks).

The majority of the courses consist of basic instruction by the Weapons, Tactical, Communications and Staff Departments. Specialized classes such as communications, automotive and Ranger, have more intensive instruction in those particular fields.

The recently inaugurated Basic Infantry officers Course, designed for newly commissioned second lieutenants from other than Infantry Officer Candidate School, includes study in weapons, tactics, communications, automotive, air transportability and staff subjects. Other courses which also teach air transportability are the Infantry company grade officer and officer candidate courses. The OC and re-commissioning courses also include a Ranger orientation.

In addition to such subjects as command and leadership, physical conditioning, bayonet, map reading, aerial photography and intelligence, the Rangers receive swamp, jungle and mountain training.

The Weapons Department provides instruction for most of the classes in practically all types of infantry weapons, including mines and tank weapons.

Offensive and defensive tactics are among the subjects taught by the Tactical Department. All classes include signal communication instruction with the exception of the motor transportation course for officers and the automotive supervision course.

The Staff Department instruction includes personnel management and administration, military leadership, officer indoctrination, public information, combat intelligence, operations, logistics and maintenance.

AWOL For Days, Patsy Brings Eight Home To 30th Inf.

Need a mascot? Patsy, mascot for Headquarters and Headquarters Company, CTC, supplied enough mascots for eight units with her recent litter. M-Sgt. John Artym sees that the proud Mama has all the comforts of home.

MASCOTS FOR ALL... Need a mascot? Patsy, mascot for Headquarters and Headquarters Company, CTC, supplied enough mascots for eight units with her recent litter. M-Sgt. John Artym sees that the proud Mama has all the comforts of home.

Where is that dog gone? That was the cry in Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry, when their mascot, Patsy disappeared for a couple of days. But wherever she went she's back now—and with a new family of eight with her.

"Touched" by the sight of a mother and eight whelps with no roof over their heads, M-Sgt. John Artym went to work to provide suitable shelter.

Before the last mail was driven home, Patsy had her offspring in the dog house. However, at the present time, Patsy and family are guests of the Fort Benning dog pound for a 14-day check-up before taking up domestic life again in the Second Battalion.

COOL AND COZY BUT PAINFUL AT TIMES—THAT'S HARMONY CLINIC

Cool and comfortable but painful at times... these words give an accurate idea of what the Harmony Church Dental Clinic is like. The clinic, which serves mainly the First Officer Candidate Regiment, is staffed by 13 dentists, 7 enlisted men, and an attractive female surgical assistant. Up-to-date magazines and air conditioning help apprehensive officer candidates relax while waiting and help them forget "the boring hours."

Major I. W. Ghent, the officer in charge, estimates that the clinic handles close to 2000 patients a month. The majority of these are merely fillings, but the clinic also handles extractions, surgical cases, and prosthetics (false teeth, to you).

dent, the lieutenant has only a few minutes to look in a person's mouth to check each section of the country he or she is from.

As a group, the staff at the clinic feel that the OCs keep their teeth in much better condition than most of the military personnel. Some cannot be said for some of the dependents that the clinic handles regularly on Friday afternoons. Take the case of a young woman who was in severe pain and needed an immediate extraction. "It can't be done," the young lady insisted. She believed in astrology, and "the signs were all wrong." She waited, in pain, till the following week.

Candidates sometimes faint when given "the needle." According to the clinic's staff... the bigger they are the more likely they'll need spirits of ammonia.

Sfc. Barrett Begins Duty As Enlisted Aide

Sfc. Leon Barrett, of Glen Rose, Texas, a veteran medic with 64 months overseas service, was chosen Tuesday, to serve until Saturday as enlisted aide to Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander.

The 32-year-old sergeant, who works in the preventive medicine office at the U. S. Army Hospital, began his rounds of getting a firsthand view of what a general's duty schedule includes.

Barrett, who has served as an enlisted medical aide with nearly all branches during his 13 years, works with the preventive medicine officers here in inspections and is administrative non-commissioned officer in the section.

During World War II he served as a medic for 42 months in the Asiatic Pacific Theater. He also was on occupation duty in Europe for 21 months. Before coming to

Preparedness Watch Word Around Lawson's Air Crash Departments

Preparedness is the watchword of the aircraft crash departments of the Rescue Department of Lawson Air Base. Preparedness that can mean the difference between life or death to crewmen of crashed aircraft.

Based on the theory that the unexpected can happen at any time, all fire crews are being prepared to handle any emergency that might occur. They are receiving orientation and training on all types of aircraft used by the Air Force today.

"It is not likely that a B-52 Stratofortress would ever land at Lawson and crash in landing, but if that ever did happen, we've got to know what to do," said WOJG Earnest R. Goodman, fire fighter superintendent. He continued, "We prepare our crews so they will know what to do in an emergency of any type."

Although the 47 crew members are qualified fire fighters, a continuing training program is in process. In addition to their routine duties, each shifts spends part of the duty hours in some phase of training. In this way fire fighter personnel become familiar with the location of strategic points of a plane that play a prominent part in successful rescue and fire extinguishing work.

The primary duty of the section is not forgotten in this extra training for each member of the crew must undergo rigid practice on routine duties.

On days when the flying is light at the base, the crews are taken to an area a short distance from the fire station. In this area, they practice extinguishing fires on a salvaged fuselage, setting up rescue lanes, and making rescues from the plane. If traffic is heavy, the period is devoted to lectures.

All instruction periods are conducted by WOJG Goodman, John H. Henderson, Chief, and assistant chiefs George B. Lewis and Travis M. Whitley. Their combined experience in this line of work totals 21 years.

In addition to the training, the Rescue Department of Lawson AF Base, preparedness that can mean the difference between life or death to crewmen of crashed aircraft.

Most of the military personnel come into the section from basic training. They are trained in the basic fundamentals of fire fighting. Following this training, they are assigned as on-the-job apprentices. From there, if they show ability and qualifications, they can work up to the senior level, fire fighter supervisor, and finally to warrant status.

The civilian members of the crews are ex- servicemen and have had experience either in the Armed Services or in city fire departments.

According to Chief Henderson, the unusual flying safety record at Lawson is not luck. "A combination of a good Flying Safety program, good pilots, and good mechanics, plus the desire to maintain our splendid record," said the Chief.

At the present time, the section, commonly referred to as the Crash Fire Department, is making plans for a program to train auxiliary firemen to aid the regular crews. They are also looking for the ground crew for participation in the annual observance of Fire Prevention Week. The work totals 21 years.

HONORARY RED DEVIL . . . Post Commander Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy listens appreciatively as 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team commander, Col. George S. Pearson, reads official making the general an honorary member of the 508th "Red Devil" team. General Meloy holds new, official "Red Devil" necktie, arrival of which occasioned a celebration. The 508th is the first American Army unit to adopt its own regimental tie, of dark blue silk, embroidered with diagonal rows of white parachutes and red devils.

Two EM Cited For Saving Life

Two Fort Benning enlisted men, on temporary duty at Camp Natural Rock, West Point, N. Y., have received letters of appreciation from the acting superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy for their roles in saving the life of an Army sergeant injured in an automobile accident.

Cpl. William Richardson and Pfc. Edward Scott, members of the 501st Medical Ambulance Company, were cited by Brig. Gen. J. H. Schuman for their "efficiency, attention to duty, and alertness in rendering medical aid to a sergeant injured in the accident."

The two men, who have been stationed at West Point since June, return in September.

Traffic Survey Made By Camp Gordon MPs

A traffic survey was conducted last week by Capt. George H. Higgins, Jr., and Capt. Frederick G. Penick of the Military Police School at Camp Gordon, Ga. The two officers have been studying traffic limits and surveying parking areas and traffic control. Long range traffic and road building programs also were discussed with traffic officials at Fort Benning.

THIS ONE'S FOR IKE . . . There's nothing in the regulations that says a fellow can't dream, is there? At any rate, Cpl. Marvin Crawford, Jr., club attendant at the Sand Hills golf course, says he's going to be ready with the finest services and golfing aids should the President ever honor Fort Benning with his presence.

Third Army Inaugurates 'Farm Hospitality' Program

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, much in common. Replies from Nashville, Tenn., suggested by Lt. Gen. A. R. Boll-Savannah, Ga., and other cities in the area indicate that the plan will be seriously considered and the feasibility of putting it into operation will be investigated. Gen. Bolling first heard of the program through an article reprinted by the National Recreation Association of New York City, which told of its operation in Lebanon County in relation to the men of the Indiana Gen. Military Reservation. In that area, the men are taken into homes and treated, not as guests, but as members of the family with whom they would have family.

Known as the "Farm Hospitality Program" and fashioned from the plan now in operation in Lebanon County, Pa., the program calls for military inductees with farming backgrounds to spend weekends on nearby farms and visit with people as guests, but as members of the family with whom they would have family.

Originality Wanted Lawson Sponsoring Emblem Contest

A contest to establish an appropriate emblem for the 464th Troop Carrier Wing is being arranged at Lawson Air Base.

Personnel will be urged to participate in the contest and enter drawings for a suitable emblem. A substantial prize will be awarded for the winning entry.

The winning design entry, following approval by U. S. Air Force Headquarters in Washington, will become the official emblem of the wing and its permanently attached units for use on flags, guidons, etc.

The contest to establish an emblem for the wing was planned after a check of historical files at Air Force Headquarters revealed there was no record of an authorized emblem for the wing.

The wing was activated at Lawson last winter following deactivation of the 494th Troop Carrier Wing reserve organization which was called to active duty.

20 Airmen Win New Promotions

Promotions announced at Lawson Air Base elevated 20 airmen to new rank. Topping the list of promotions were three new master sergeants. They are Harry Mikoy, 464th Troop Carrier Wing Headquarters; Sidney G. Brantley, Motor Vehicle Squadron; and Margie Burman, 464th Air Base Group. Promoted from staff to technical sergeant were William N. Allen, 78th Troop Carrier Squadron; Roland L. Schickelstein and Halsey C. Slade, both of the 77th Troop Carrier Squadron, and Paul R. Salsbery, Wing Headquarters.

Promotions to staff sergeant from sergeant were received by Winston P. Hentley, Arnold L. Kelly, Everett S. Duggins, James N. Greene, Jr., Marvin W. Maldes, Ellis G. Riggs, Charles F. Tubbs, Leonard B. Coleman, Wilford K. Collins, Sotero Reyes, Robert W. Whitzel, Joseph F. Herchak and Williams C. Walker.

Why Wurlitzer is America's favorite piano

More Wurlitzer pianos are sold than those of any other name.

Keep that fact in mind when you choose a piano. Remember the back of your feet reaction to the rich, abundant tone, the dramatic beauty and the special features of a Wurlitzer Spinette, there stands a record of proved accomplishment. Understand that the ever-increasing popularity of Wurlitzer Spinettes has good reasons behind it: First, a fine musical instrument . . . certainly! And then—smaller, more attractive encasements that blend with all types of home furnishings . . . sturdy, scientific construction of carefully seasoned materials . . . and what's so important—many thousands of satisfied owners who will tell you that their moderately priced Wurlitzer Spinette pianos have stood the test of time and the enthusiasm of children, and bring great musical enjoyment into their homes.

35 Airborne Men Qualify As Jumpmasters Following School

Thirty-five graduates of South Team Jumpmaster School class A in jumpmaster, the correct methods of packing roll containers and bundles, the proper use and place for SOP equipment and containers, parachute operations.

Included in the course were one officer, and 32 non-commissioned officers.

Under the control of First Lt. Robert W. Black, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, the course was completed within a four day period.

The purpose of the course, and similar courses to come, is to qualify enough officers and non-coms in units of the 30th, to enable a complete parachute operation should the opportunity and necessity arise.

From Aug. 10 to 13, approximately nine hours each day, the men were taught the responsibilities of parachute fittings, marshaling area and drop zone control and the communication used as a help in controlling the area and zone.

During this four day period, the troopers made three parachute jumps in the capacity of jumpmasters. The first jump was held during the daylight hours at McKenna Drop Zone. The men carried SOP equipment and containers with them. The second jump was held at Midwest Drop Zone during the daylight hours, and this time the men used roll containers and bundles, while in the process of making their exits from the aircraft. The third and last jump for the students was carried out at night.

After each jump a critique was held in the drop zone area, for the purpose of discussing the proper and improving the improper methods used in preparation for the exit and the actual exit from the aircraft. Aircraft used for these jumps were a C-119 and a C-46.

BIGGER BARGAIN LATER!

The same smart styling, the same advanced design that makes Mercury look so good right now means more trade-in value later. Independent market reports prove that Mercury tops its class for trade-in value.

Mercury sets new marks in production and sales — now offers you bigger selections, a better deal, and top trade-in value for the future!

Figure it any way you want to. Real car value begins and ends with smart style. That's why people buy Mercury now—and why more and more people want used Mercury, too. And when you lack great style with still greater performance, it means you've got the car you want now, the car most used car buyers will go for later.

One look tells you why. Take a fresh long look at Mercury's lines. You'll see the smooth, crisp design that sets it apart from other cars.

Take a demonstration drive and you'll learn more. You'll learn about Mercury's proven V-8 engine, most advanced in Mercury's exclusively V-8 history. You'll learn about Mercury's optional power steering, power brakes, and 4-way power seat.

Most Reveal Satisfaction

WASHINGTON—What does the soldier think of his job? The Army Adjutant General's Office has the answer. It has interviewed 100 enlisted men leaving the service, got this answer:

Most soldiers are satisfied with their job, work at tasks for which they were trained, and think their work is necessary.

Questionnaires were completed anonymously.

Men at 16 Army installations were selected so that each section of the country as well as different types of Army installations would be represented.

Four significant differences emerged between attitude of men drafted and volunteers for the Regular Army.

Q. Do you feel that the job or training you performed longest in the past year was necessary to the Army or not?

A. Draftees: almost all was necessary, 56 per cent; some was not, 23 per cent; a lot was not, eight per cent; most was not, four per cent; none was, two per cent.

RA's: almost all was necessary, 70 per cent; some was not, 15 per cent; a lot was not, eight per cent; most was not, five per cent; none was, two per cent.

Q. How satisfied were you with your Army job?

A. Draftees: very satisfied, 18 per cent; satisfied, 57 per cent; dissatisfied, 18 per cent; very dissatisfied, seven per cent.

RA's: very satisfied, 24 per cent; satisfied, 53 per cent; dissatisfied, 18 per cent; very dissatisfied, seven per cent.

Q. Did you spend most of your duty time in the past year working on the job for which you received Army training?

A. Draftees: yes, most of the time, 61 per cent; about half, 15 per cent; most of duty time on other duties, 24 per cent.

RA's: yes, most of duty time, 58 per cent; about half, 12 per cent; most of duty time on other duties, 32 per cent.

Q. In general, do you think a soldier with ability has a good chance for promotion in the Army?

A. Draftees: very good chance, 18 per cent; fairly good chance, 41 per cent; not much chance, 35 per cent; undecided, eight per cent.

RA's: very good chance, 25 per cent; fairly good chance, 30 per cent; not much chance, 36 per cent; undecided, eight per cent.

It's an old joke in the Army that most operations boil down to "hurry up and wait." Is there any truth in the saying? Here's a clue: Q. During the last year in the Army, did you have to spend too much time waiting around and doing nothing?

A. Draftees: yes, about every day, eight per cent; yes, quite often, 21 per cent; not very often, 71 per cent.

RA's: yes, about every day, 10 per cent; about half, 19 per cent; not very often, 71 per cent.

How about popularity of the different branches of the Army? Among the men questioned, duty with the Engineers scored most desirable.

Q. During your time in the Army, which branch would you have selected if you had been allowed to select it?

A. All separates: Engineers, 17 per cent; Ordnance, 13 per cent; Quartermaster, 12 per cent; Signal, 10 per cent; Transportation, 10 per cent; Artillery, nine per cent; Medical, seven per cent; Infantry, five per cent; Military Police, five per cent; Armor, three per cent; other, nine per cent.

Q. Do you feel that the job or training you performed longest in the past year was necessary to the Army or not?

A. Draftees: almost all was necessary, 56 per cent; some was not, 23 per cent; a lot was not, eight per cent; most was not, four per cent; none was, two per cent.

RA's: almost all was necessary, 70 per cent; some was not, 15 per cent; a lot was not, eight per cent; most was not, five per cent; none was, two per cent.

Q. How satisfied were you with your Army job?

A. Draftees: very satisfied, 18 per cent; satisfied, 57 per cent; dissatisfied, 18 per cent; very dissatisfied, seven per cent.

RA's: very satisfied, 24 per cent; satisfied, 53 per cent; dissatisfied, 18 per cent; very dissatisfied, seven per cent.

Q. Did you spend most of your duty time in the past year working on the job for which you received Army training?

A. Draftees: yes, most of the time, 61 per cent; about half, 15 per cent; most of duty time on other duties, 24 per cent.

RA's: yes, most of duty time, 58 per cent; about half, 12 per cent; most of duty time on other duties, 32 per cent.

Traffic Violation

During the period August 14 to 21 only one person had his driving privileges revoked and there were no suspensions. During a similar period the week before there was a perfect record with no revocations or suspensions.

Pfc. Garland Messy, Headquarters and Service Company, 78th Engineer Battalion, had his driving privileges revoked by his unit commander for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Guard Division Cites 2 Demonstration Teams

Two Fort Benning demonstration teams have just received letters of commendation from the Commanding General, 51st Infantry Division.

1. One, an armored demonstration team commanded by Lt. Guy DeMark, Company A, 78th Tank Battalion, has just returned from Fort McPherson. The other, an Engineer team commanded by Lt. James P. Smyly, Company A, 78th Engineer Battalion, is still attached to the 51st for demonstration purposes until the end of August.

These letters were forwarded to each of the teams' higher headquarters, from Maj. Gen. John C. Henagan, 51st Division commander, Gen. Henagan's words of commendation are as follows:

"I wish to express my appreciation for the excellent support rendered this division during our field training encampment here for the past two weeks by a team headed by Lt. Guy DeMark—Lt. James P. Smyly."

2. The contribution made by this team added to the effectiveness of our training program, and it was an aid toward the accomplishment of the organization's regular monthly meeting.

Members are urged to bring their families and a picnic basket. Transportation and refreshments will be provided. All members who expect to attend are asked to call Lt. Davis at 3-2210 or Lt. Ivan L. Slavich Jr. at 3-2112.

The organization elected the following officers at their July meeting: president, Lt. Davis, vice president, M-Sgt. John A. Young, secretary, Sgt. Robert A. Karsh, and treasurer, Lt. Rufus C. Lawrence.

Lt. Col. Leslie W. Bailey was named chairman of the executive council. Other members elected to the council were Capt. John C. Hughes, Lt. Slavich, M-Sgt. Chester C. Celejevski, M-Sgt. John C. Kimbrel and Sfc. Chester S. Smith.

Major Frank Rathbun was named chairman of the training committee. Those members who attend the association's August reunion at the

Col. Noble J. Wiley, Jr., Infantry Center chief of staff, will be principal speaker at graduation ceremonies Saturday for The Infantry School's Ranger officer class No. 1.

Approximately 40 officers will receive diplomas at the exercises scheduled for 11 a.m. in Building JIC-5831.

The 448-hour Ranger class, first to graduate in the 1953-54 academic year at The Infantry School, is sending eight weeks of training which included jungle and mountain problems.

Trio Too Sharp, Win 'Best' Award

Three men were chosen last week as "Best Soldier of the Week" from the 87th Chemical Smoke Generator Company.

Pfc. Joe O. Adams, Pvt. William L. Harrell and Pvt. William F. Van Kirk, each were awarded three-day passes for their effort and skill shown during the inspection in the barracks.

Capt. Franklin A. Reis, company commander, aided by other company officers, selected these three and were unable to break the tie among them. So all were awarded three-day passes.

OC Accordion Player Played At Famous Carnegie Hall

It isn't often that a 12-year-old brought long applause. Critics were unanimous in their praise of the young accordionist.

The squeeze-like music of the instrument fascinated Mauck long before he could distinguish its notes and tones. First lessons began when eight. Soon Mauck was taking lessons from such masters as Stanley Valenta and Otto Sorostok. It was Sorostok who first organized the Symphony Accordion Society stage where so many musical greets have appeared, he said.

"When the curtain went up I played like I had never played before. When the final curtain came down

Bond Goal Made

At least one unit in the Combat Training Command has reached the 100 per cent mark in the current U.S. Defense Bond drive.

Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment, reached the goal last week after diligent work by the Bonds and Savings officer, WOOD George C. Britton.

Previous high for the Training Command was Service Battery of the 1st FA Battalion with 97 per cent.

Post Units Begin Football Workouts

BY BOB KOVALCHIK
In the various areas on Fort Benning, the 2-3 shift can be heard. That can mean only one thing and it isn't a conga line — it's the call that all football enthusiasts love to hear.
For them it is time to get the raccoon coat and the ear muffs out of moth balls in preparation for the coming opening games.
But as the football fan prepares so does the football player. The coaches of the four squads representing the different organizations on post have their men running through the preliminary warm-ups. Each manager, coach, assistant coach and in fact, all those who have something to do with the team have their eagle eye open hoping to find another Red Grange or a Johnny Lujack.
Out at Bullet Field practice got underway for the 1953 Combat Training Command football team. Several players reported for the first practice session and many more are expected.
Only Three Back
Only three players are back from last year's Commanders squad, but bright prospects are expected to more than plug the gap left by last year's squad. Those returning are Mel Anglen, tackle, Harry Quarterback, and Otis Perry, quarterback.
The coaching staff now consists (Please See FOOTBALL, Page 22)

Army Pistol Squad Goes To National Tournament

The 14-man U. S. Army Pistol Team, which has been holding elimination firing at Fort Benning since July 1st Saturday for the National Pistol Matchday at Camp Perry, Ohio.
The team includes Lt. Col. Ellis Lea, team captain, eight team members, two alternates, two coaches and Billy Heath, administrative officer.
During firing in the past several days the four-man No. 1 team has bettered all the winning scores of the 1952 National Matches including the record, 1,174 achieved by the 1952 U. S. Army Pistol Team.
Three of the team's present members, M/Sgt. Hosielt L. (Joe) Benner, Major Ben. Curtis, and CWO Oscar Westminster were members of the 1952 team. Col. Lea will serve as the fourth member in place of Lt. Col. Thomas J. Sharpe of the 1952 team, who is now serving in Korea.
Probable lineup for the No. 2 team is CWO Robert Knight Capt. D. H. Thomas, Major J. H. Sanguetti and Capt. Ralph W. Anthony.
In the National Trophy Team Match which requires the use of the .45 caliber service pistol and service ammunition, Capt. Lawrence E. Asterkin will replace Col. Lea as the fourth member of the

Warlick Suffers Zygomatic Arch In Softball Game

The game of softball is sometimes referred to as a sissy game, but anyone can get a sore argument on this viewpoint from Sgt. Robert Warlick of Headquarters and Service Company, 7th Engineer (C) Battalion. In a recent softball game Warlick went racing across the diamond after a hard hit ball. This in itself is not unusual, but what was unusual was that another player with his path. Result: Warlick suffered a bruised Zygomatic Arch.
To the uninformed Zygomatic arch is that small bone located underneath the eye or high on the cheek bone. In modern lingo, it is to be downright vulgar, "the arse-ant, had a bout of a shiner."

Post Loses 1st 3 A Title Since '46

For the first time since 1946, just waited till we made an error the Fort Benning Doughboys did not win the Third Army Baseball Championship. Why? Because an All-Star team can not defeat an All-Post team.
The Fort Benning team was one of the few teams that participated in last week's tourney at Camp Rucker, Ala., which was composed of players that were selected from the intramural league. Fort Bragg, Camp Rucker, and one or two more squads were in the same tourney game.
The All-Post squads, like Fort McPherson and Fort Jackson, run-ner-up and winner, respectively.

ANOTHER RUN . . . Left fielder Ted Tappe comes home in the first inning of the Fort Benning-Fort Jackson game in which the Golden Arrows came up with six runs. Doughboy catcher (29) is John Strong. Fort Jackson dropped Benning into the loser's bracket, 9-1.

OUT AT FIRST . . . The throw to first baseman Bobby Dewes is in time to put out Fort Jackson's third baseman Bubba Phillips. Dewes came in to pinch hit for Ken Watts and moved to first base when the Doughboys were retired.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff
According to the U. S. Army, all athletic competition is supposed to be on an intramural basis. But last week at the Third Army Baseball Championship which was held at Camp Rucker, Ala., most of the 10 participating teams have been representing their home stations all season long.
As everyone here at Fort Benning knows, the Doughboys were formed to represent The Infantry Center at the conclusion of the post intramural league. We were at a distinct disadvantage because Manager Emory Albritton did not know all the best player combinations; the team did not play many games together like the other Third Army teams; and some of the team players shouldn't have even been named for the 1953 Doughboys. As a result, Fort Benning lost to Fort Jackson and Fort Bragg and eliminated from the tournament. Both Jackson and Ft. McPherson have been in competition all season long. (The Golden Arrows have a 55-9 season record.)
Why can't Fort Benning have a Doughboy team in all sports all year long?

TOURNAMENT NOTES: A number of the Benning Doughboys were downcast at the two slugging losses. They feel that a different lineup should have been used. WOODY BURT, who coached SSP to the post championship, says that he would have had HORACE CONSOLDO, third sacker, leading off followed by center fielder BOODY GRIMSLEY. Basing third would be shortstop GEORGE MATTLE and in the cleanup slot, left fielder BILL CHILSON. Burt says five in the batting order would be catcher BOBBY DEWS followed by first baseman WOODY BURT. Right fielder HARRY JONES would bat seventh and second baseman FRID AUGT eighth.
Fort Jackson is loaded with major and minor league talent. Their three top ball players are catcher FRANK ROUSE of the Detroit Tigers, pitcher JOE LANDRUM of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and PAVE TROBERT of the Boston Red Sox. Baseball scouts from all the major league clubs were in attendance at the week long meet to see how their respective talent now in service is faring. They most likely sent in good reports to their bosses.
HORACE CONSOLDO's kid brother, BILLY, broke into the Red Sox lineup a week or so ago against the Detroit Tigers and slammed a homer and a double. BOODY GRIMSLEY and BILL CHILSON received word of their promotions to sergeant prior to leaving for Rucker. The bulk of all jobs in the Benning team quarters was catcher JOHN (HEAD) STRONG.
There were many complaints about the Rucker baseball diamond. The players say that you run uphill to first and second, downhill to third and sideways home. The outfield hasn't any fence and many extra base hits wouldn't have fallen in if the park was enclosed. Also the chicken wire which covers the whole front of the stands makes fan stands hit your eyes.
As usual, ball players complain about the umpires which were from the Southern Association. Also, wherever thought up these ground rules for the park, should have his head examined.
All the players and visiting firemen were very lavish in their praise of the food and accommodations that the personnel of Battery B, 256 AAA AW Battalion provided. Everyone would like to eat more of the Rucker cafeteria food. The rain and inclement weather delayed the beginning of the Fort Benning-Fort Jackson game for over an hour. The weather also forced postponement of two other games during the tourney. Despite the weather, the fans turned out well on game days. Music during the games was provided by the 6th Infantry Division Band and the games were broadcast over radio station WOJK, Viking Division commander Maj. Gen. ROBERT DULANEY attended most of the games with his staff. The Third Army commander also put in an appearance as did many officials.
TED HEITSCHMIDT committed the first balk of the tournament in the Fort Bragg contest. WOODY BURT was the man who drove in all three Doughboy runs. The players from all teams were tendered a banquet after the tournament and Third Army Certificates of Achievements were awarded to all of them. After being knocked out of the tournament in the first and second day, two of the teams piled into their busses and went to Florida for a vacation arriving back at Rucker in time for the final Fort Jackson-Fort McPherson game. JIM BROWN, coach of Fort McPherson got the biggest band during the banquet.

The jackets were wool, blue and white, with a large white "L" on the front. During the season the Lawson AFB team played in the Fort Benning League and against other military teams in the Southeast.
The 48th Engineer (C) Co. is represented on the Combat Squad by Company and the 50th Engineer (C) Co. by Platoon. Pvt. Alphonso Ford and won three and has no de-Amnos Moody. These four men alternate in league play. The two toughest committed to football practice will soon meet to decide the 1953 day report for football practice which is to be the league leader. ## Benning Net Players Win 3-A Championship

Fort Benning's six-man tennis team has returned to the post after winning the Third Army tennis championship at Redstone Arsenal, Ala.
Compiling 34 points for their nearest opponent, the Benning members won both the singles and doubles championships.
Capt. Robert W. Nollenburger, captain of the team, said that four members of the Fort Benning group have been selected to represent Third Army in the Army-wide tournament to be held Aug. 25-29 at West Point, N. Y.
The four Fort Benning netmen chosen are Warren W. Drake, Leslie C. Jordan, Singleton D. Keener, and John C. Collum.
Others selected to represent Third Army include Charles Lake of Fort Bragg, N. C., and Ralph E. Hartmann of Camp Gordon.
Clare H. Draper, Jr. also is a member of the Fort Benning tennis team, but he and Capt. Nollenburger will not make the trip to West Point.
The Army-wide tournament is expected to attract teams from each of the six continental Army areas as well as Europe and the Far East, according to Capt. Nollenburger.

TENNIS CHAMP . . . Lonny Johnson was most satisfied with winning the Third Army singles tennis championship at Redstone Arsenal. He teamed with Dewey Keesler to win the doubles competition the same day. Now for the All-Army net title.

Lawson Field Gives Awards To Athletes
The current baseball season had been brought to an end at Lawson Air Force Base Saturday following a brief presentation ceremony in which 14 members of the team were awarded jackets.
Col. Troy W. Crawford, commander, 464th Troop Carrier Wing, made the presentations of the jackets to the team members.
At the same time tennis trophies were presented to Edward J. Cole and William F. Redding, runners-up in doubles play during the Lawson AFB tennis tournament last month.
The jackets were wool, blue and white, with a large white "L" on the front. During the season the Lawson AFB team played in the Fort Benning League and against other military teams in the Southeast.

508th Rifle Team Wins 3-A Matches

The 508th Airborne scored a victory over the Third Army Rifle Team at the annual regional high power meet at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and returned home with five medals and three silver spoon awards.
The Red Devils are now adjusting their sights for the big game trophies at the National Highpower Rifle Matches which will be held at Camp Perry, O., this week.
The team is made up of Sgt. Paul Kunde, Sfc. Willie L. Powell, W/Cpt. Francis E. Redfern, Sgt. Charles Markham, and Sfc. Charles Markham.
Edging out the Third Army Rifle team, the trooper riflemen left the tournament with the high score in the combined sharpshooter and marksmanship classes. Individual scores posted were 228 for Kunde; 231, Powell, and 222 for the others.
In the match fifteen shots each, slow and rapid fire, 200 yards standing to sitting, Kunde scored a near perfect 90, winning a silver spoon. In the marksmanship class 20 shots at 200 yards standing, Kunde fired a 98 while Markham came in with a 91.
After the match Kunde said, "We were competing against the finest Marine teams in the country. Due to the difference in classification, the 508th did not compete against the Marines as a team. We met the 'warthoggers' in individual matches."

the wall to whip the Yanks 3-2 and stop Bevins short of lasting fame.

The following season Bevins came up with a sore arm and was released by the Yanks when it failed to respond to treatment.

The big hurler dropped out of sight after that, sometimes appearing up in boxscores in various places. I remember seeing him in a game up in West Haven, Conn., his arm looked strange—most of all he appeared to have regained his confidence.

The Cincinnati Reds drafted him in 1951 when he won 20 games for Salem of the Western International League. However, the sore arm came back to haunt him again and his return stay in the majors was ended.

The rest of the story includes the last two steps down the ladder—the San Francisco Seals and the Salern club again.

Sports Quiz

QUESTIONS
1. Who is taller, Poe Wee Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers or Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees?
2. Which team has won more games in the Notre Dame-Army football series?
3. Was Clifton or Stymie the top money winner?
4. Which sport in the U. S. has the largest paying spectator attendance?
5. What were the results of the three Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano fights?

ANSWERS
1. Reese stands 5-10; Rizzuto, 5-6.
2. Notre Dame, 23 victories; Army, seven with four ties during 1913-47. No game was played in 1918.
3. Clifton won $1,088,760; Stymie, $218,480.
4. Basketball with 105 million attendance annually. Softball attracts from 22 to 15 million, but only 7,500,000 are "paid attendance."
5. Zale retained his middleweight title on a sixth round KO in New York (1946) and lost it in Chicago (1947) by a KO in the sixth. In Newark a year later, Zale won back his title with a KO in the third.

hard pressed to pull through a victory, as was indicated by the match between Team No. 1 of Brigade Headquarters, and Team No. 7 of the 1st O. C. Regiment last week.

After the play and all totals had been computed it was found that a tie existed between the two teams, and the winner had to be determined by the previous week's play.

Play is based on PGA rules, and the 8½ basis handicap has been established to give a fair spread to the golfers.

The low man for the week has consistently shot in the mid or upper 60's with his net score. Major Houston of Team No. 5 was low man for last week's play with a sparkling 60 net.

Capt. Cleo Brewer, Team No. 5, 1st Student Regiment is the only team captain that can boast of a record with an undefeated record up to this point in the tournament. At present they hold a 4-0 week-end record. The team will have to continue to shoot good golf though, for there are 10 teams right behind with a 3-1 record waiting to take over the number one spot on the list of the Company, 1st Student Regiment has yet to break into the win column.

The tournament will be played over a span of nine weeks, and the winner will then be declared on their won-lost record over the tournament play.

things, but Fort Jackson started first lining. Benning starter lefty Dick Myers of School Brigade led the first two Arrows and the third hitter was sacrificed bunt down the third base line. Rogers Consolo, another team member, stepped to the team, picked up the ball and heaved to first sacker Ken Watts of CTC.

But the crowd was wild and two runs tallied.

Jackson cleanup hitter Joe Tomner then threw a left-handed curve, another run and he went into second base on a wild pitch, the first of three by Myers. The third Jackson batter slammed a two-bagger which accounted for more runs and Myers then preceded to walk the next batter.

Catcher Frank House, former Detroit Tiger bonus player, reached first on a fielder's choice and proceeded to steal second. Pitcher Roger Craig, who had an 8-2 season record which includes a no-hit game, struck out and the top of the batting order, shortstop Mike Kordeck grounded out to end the frame.

The ten Jackson hitters collected six runs on two hits and two Doughty errors.

Benning came back with one run when second baseman Fred Aug of ISD slid home. After that, the game settled down and Myers and Craig batted good ball. The Doughty boy manmansen twice pitched himself out of trouble when the Arrows had the bases loaded.

Jackson accounted for three more runs in the top of the ninth when House and Craig slammed triples with men on board.

The Doughtys, after being dropped into the loser's bracket posed to stay in the meet by knocking off Fort Dodge, who suffered a loss also.

Alhatten, former South Arrows diamond coach, started CTC's Gene Mitchell and the Doughtys came through behind him getting two runs in the third frame. Mitchell started the scoring with a single to left field and Aug dragged a walk off Bragg's hurler, Billy Howman.

Consolo laid down a bunt and beat out the throw to load the bases. Bill Brooks of the Rams popped up to second and cleanly of Red Mitchell and Jim Guthrie. Jimmy Heft is expected to take the latter part of this month. Mitchell is a graduate of the University of Florida where he starred as tackle and fullback in 1950. That year he was picked by the Air Force as the best lineman of the week for three consecutive weeks.

He also received that year honor-able mention on the "Little All-American" team.

Guthrie attended East Mississippi Junior College where he played all halfback and was the leading ground gainer in the All State ### Conference during the season of 1950. He was picked for the All State conference that same year.

Granite and Groans. Switching over to the Special Troops Command, we heard the same grunts and groans—and the latter part of this month. The players but from the coach-also working out daily. At the demanding change of a bunch of muscle pound football candidates to an ever slick, smooth working team.

At Brigade it is Bill Lawrence, head coach, Bill Thuston, Lin Jordan and Bill Satter as assistants. They certainly don't want any to know who and what's on the team. In it because they have collected a team with triple threat grunts like in Gus Dielen's of the All State backs, and a powerful, hard-hitting head coach.

Hangar Built For Supplies, Not Airplanes

The new oval shaped hangar being built at Columbus, Ga., Property Disposal Yard is not planned to house airplanes, as some might mistake it for, but to store the many items that come into the yard every day.

The new building is 145 feet wide and 164 feet long and will store eight times the amount of closed storage available at the present time.

An old office building has been renovated and the contractors are now at work constructing a concrete retaining wall along the railroad tracks. This retaining wall will eliminate a major safety hazard caused by the weight of the cranes disintegrating the old wall.

The foundation has been laid for the mounding of a metal hydraulic hauling press. This press, when put in operation, will increase the return to the government by $3.43 per bale by speeding up the processing of sheet metals.

All this construction was made necessary because of the vast quantities of materials which must be handled at a post the size of Fort Benning.

HIS HEIGHT IN BOOKS
Sgt. (then Cpl.) Ralph Crosby shows Librarian W.A. Sgt. Marretta H. Munday the number of books he's read at Library No. 3. The 508th non-com plans to double this batch if the fan and the ice water at the library aren't taken away.

Post Library 'Overrun' By 508th 'Bookworms'

Bookwork is hardly the tag one would hang on an airborne Red Devil. But the shoe (pardon us the boot) fits one of them rather well.

It's at least the right size, even if it doesn't wear too well with several of the troopers in the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team who spend a good bit of its library at St. Louis Hill.

One young trooper in Item Company, Sgt. Ralph Crosby of Wichita, Kansas, has read his height in books since September. He is only one of several troopers who, like Pfc. George Brady, a paratrooper from Shalimar, Md., have averaged a little better than 36 books since September.

Perhaps the most avid readers in the 508th, and maybe on the Post, were Major and Mrs. Louis F. Felder who drew from eight to 12 books at a time to read within the two week period. They kept three cards filed at library three aside from cards at other libraries.

The "high brow" of the 508th, however, is a trooper from the 50th Jumping Engineers, Sgt. Saul Sorkin of Brooklyn, N. Y. This former seabee has read more fiction in a comparable period than anyone in the 508th. From heavy machinery to heavy reading is a little better than 36 books since September.

The librarian, Miss Elise Fox, at Library No. 3, has her own idea about why her library is a favorite in the 508th. Jokingly she said, "It's one of the places on the hill where one can get 'ice-cold water' while retreating from the sweltering heat."

It may be that she is right. But while not all are great readers, a large portion of them like Col. Lendon Treadway Company I, of Springdale, W. Va. give vent to their artistic talents, while still others relax to the soothing tones of Chopin or "dig the latest crazy piece of Stan Kenton" in this "unusual retreat" for airborne Red Devils.

Portuguese Officers Postpone Sept. Tour

The visit of two officers of the Portuguese NATO Division, originally scheduled for Sept. 16-18, has been postponed until around Dec. 1. slated to tour Fort Benning are Gen. Paulo Ribeiro, commander, and Lt. Col. Manoel Das Neves, chief of staff of Portugal's NATO Division.

Three Civilians Win Awards For Suggestions

Cash awards totaling $400 were presented Monday to three civilian employees for suggestions for more efficient operators in their sections.

Receiving checks were Lemuel S. Johnson, of Columbus, 3723 James N. Fuller of Phoenix City, 375, and Joseph H. Avery, of Columbus, 89.

The awards were presented by Col. Noble J. Wiley, Jr., Infantry Center chief of staff.

Johnson, who is employed in the Ordnance Section's Armament shop, suggested a modified breechblock lawn mowers simultaneously.

Johnson's suggestion was adopted by the 57 man retooling staff, which allows the breech to be opened and closed without the user's hands being placed in the path of the breech.

A form letter to notify officers of charges against their pay was suggested by Fuller of the administration branch, Finance Section.

Avery, employed in the building and grounds branch of the Engineer Section, built a machine that will sharpen two mechanical designed a modified breechblock lawn mowers simultaneously.

Col. Carson Gets Legion Of Merit

Lt. Col. John L. Carson of Dallas, Texas, assigned to the Weapons Department, has been awarded the Legion of Merit for outstanding performance of duty in Korea.

He was cited for his service as commander of the Second Chemical Mortar Battalion and the 42nd Infantry Battalion from June 26, 1952, to April 23, 1953.

"Col. Carson's aggressive actions," read the citation, "and willingness to assume responsibilities effected close support and teamwork against a fanatical, numerically superior foe, and his significant achievements contributed significantly to the United Nations' campaign against overt aggression, reflecting great credit upon him."

OLD ARMY OFFICER:
First Lt. John J. Berry has been assigned to Headquarters Battery, 41st Field Artillery Battalion, and will continue to serve himself and the military service of a veteran of eight years service. Col. Carson served with the 2nd Chemical Mortar Battalion in the Pacific from July 1944 to January 1946. He arrived at Fort Benning June 8, 1953.

Col. Carson, chairman of the mortar committee, was presented the medal by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant.

Sgt's: Rare Blood Tames Disease

Continued from Page 1) ing his negative blood she is re- garded to be doubly sure. After establishing the is negative the mother is then checked monthly until the sixth month of pregnancy. It is this constant checking that utilizes Nolte's blood. A substance in the antigen, mixed from his blood, is used to detect the amount of antibodies in the mother's blood. When the concentration of antibodies in the mother's blood reaches a certain level, it is dangerous for the baby. Measures are taken after the sixth month to deliver the child before it is harmed. Before knowledge of the Rh factor, the infant was often stillborn. Although the antigen can be purchased commercially, the substance prepared with the aid of Nolte's blood is more effective. Parents of the children dependent on Nolte's aid owe him an unpayable debt of gratitude. Nolte is making a career in the Army's Medical Branch and, has served five years. His interest in medicine is undiminished. He remembers when one sees the number of relatives he has in the professional ranks. He is taking over for Maj. Calvin O. Wilson as regimental adjutant and First Lt. Billy M. Vaughan succeeds Capt. Joseph Flores in the S-3 position. The three officers being replaced are to enroll in the advanced officer course here.

Post

(Continued from Page 1) Registration hours are from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 2 and 3 of the Columbus high school. High school authorities require that students bring with them an approval slip from the Fort Benning Children's School, a birth certificate, a record of promotion or grade placement and a record of a doctor's certificate showing immunization against diphtheria, tetanus and 5 Teachers

Fort Benning's Children's School expects at least 1,000 children to enroll this year. Forty-five teachers will make up the faculty, and several new courses have been added to the curriculum, school officials report. Among the new courses being offered this year are art, vocational industrial art and home living. The home living course, referred to as home economics last year, has been expanded with additional equipment and a new classroom. School is scheduled to begin Sept. 8. Bus transportation will be available to transport children to and from the Fort Benning Children's School. Children living in outlying districts will be furnished transportation to school No. 1 and to Columbus high schools.

Arrangements have been made with the Howard Bus Line for free transportation for students attending school in Columbus. At the same time the approval slip is obtained from the school of origin, each student will obtain an identification card which will permit him to procure free bus tickets for September.

Cafeteria facilities will be provided only at Faith School. Other school children must bring their lunches or arrange to go home during the school hour. Transportation will not be furnished during the noon hour except for kindergarten children.

YOU CAN FLY

News from King's School of Aviation, Inc.

Well, things have really been buzzing during the last week. Had quite a few fellows to solo, among them: Lt. Roy Dean Heard, 10th AF; Major "Wild" Bill Heston, advanced infantry course; those two AF aces, Sgts. Harold L. Smock and Clarence Priour. Dean King gave private check rides to Lt. Robert M. Landau and Lt. Wallace Reed, both of whom received their private pilot's certificate. Sgt. Chester Smith of the 99th is working toward soloing as is Lt. Col. Riley Meador. We are going on a breakfast flight to Thomaston, Ga., this Sunday. All airplanes are practically signed up for the trip. The helicopter boys, Glenn Wheeler, Chuck Phillips and Joe Torma are working on their flight instructor ratings. Fellows, don't have any doubt about your ability to learn to fly. When you come by King's School of Aviation, Inc., Municipal Airport on Victory Drive, be prepared to step into the airplane. That's how easy it is to start. We issue student and private licenses right on the field. You can fly and we guarantee you that you will enjoy it. Come see the pilot makers, King's School of Aviation, Inc. Telephone 2-4784.

Three Week Stint

75 NCOs Start Leader's Course

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, opened the Advanced Leaders School Tuesday with a lecture on introduction to leadership.

Approximately 75 senior non-commissioned officers begin processing today to attend the first of several planned classes at the leaders school. Guest speakers will include Col. Noble J. Wiley, Jr., Infantry Center chief of staff, Col. Frank L. Elder, commander of Combat Training Command, Col. J. M. Lynch, director of the Infantry School's Tactical Department, Col. George O. Pearson, commander of the 59th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, and Lt. Col. Edward Bourke, commander of the 326th Field Artillery Battalion.

The three-week school will be conducted primarily by non-commissioned officers of the 508th, the unit responsible for carrying out the course of instruction. Staff sergeants will serve as tactical instructors. (Please See 75, Page 3)

Tooters Needed For Lawson Band

Formation of a band based on the 508th Airborne has been planned at Lawson Barracks. Personnel of the band who can play musical instruments are being sought for the band by the base Personnel Services Officer. Band members will serve on a voluntary basis and will perform with the band in addition to their normal duties.

The band will play for military and entertainment events.

Post Welcomes Ass't Secretary

The assistant secretary of the Army and two other prominent military figures are visiting Fort Benning to view operations as a training at The Infantry School. James F. Mitchell, accompanied by Major Gen. Robert N. Young, Army personnel officer, and Lt. Gen. A. H. Bolling, Third Army commander, arrived Wednesday morning.

Highlights of the assistant secretary's visit include a briefing on the Operations Officer's light board, which shows the location of units and problem areas on the post, and an inspection of the Separation Pay, through which Army personnel of this area are processed for discharge from the service. The Army officials received an orientation on The Infantry School, followed by a briefing on the Operations Officer, nerve center of the school Wednesday.

Drive Shows Safety Cut Of 45 Pct.

Caution Paying Off Here During Post-WW Program

General Issues Safety Plea

TO THE PERSONNEL OF FORT BENNING:

As each Labor Day weekend approaches, the experts in traffic safety issue grim statistics on the number of deaths and injuries that the holiday may be expected to produce.

When the weekend is over and the casualties counted up, the actual toll usually approaches or exceeds the prediction of the experts.

The cost of this annual adventure in mayhem is staggering. The nation can ill-afford to pay this yearly levy.

To the dollar value of this waste must be added the incalculable cost which accident victims must pay in pain and suffering.

Most of the killing and maiming will occur on the public highways. The statistics will list these as "accidental" deaths and injuries. Safety engineers know that these "accidents" are for the most part preventable. They result primarily from carelessness and irresponsibility. Sometimes they result from violations of the law; they always involve violations of the rules of common sense and the elementary canons of safety.

I sincerely hope that no member of the Fort Benning garrison will become a casualty this weekend. This hope can become a reality if each of us will exercise his common sense in the observance of the simple rules of caution, safety and good manners on the highway.

G. S. MELOY JR.
 Major General, USA
 Commanding

The Infantry Center Safety Council has reported a 45 per cent reduction in traffic deaths and injuries among Fort Benning troops since inauguration of an intensive safety program May 25.

Although troop strength has increased since Operation Safety began, accidents declined steadily during July and August. Officials believe this is due to the education campaign which is part of the program to reduce accidents.

Norman Evans, Infantry Center safety director, says that about 80 per cent of the post troops have received from one to five hours of instruction in traffic safety, and the Safety Officer has distributed 476 accident pictures, 1,500 safety booklets, 200 warning light posters and 15,000 other safety reminders.

To date 536 traffic violators have attended a 10-hour course in safe driving habits, and results show that 473 completed the course.

Medal Winner Crump Re-ups

Medal of Honor winner Sgt. Jerry K. Crump of Lincolnton, N. C., received his third Medal of Honor for Fort Benning's 3657th Ordnance Company.

Sgt. Crump, who won the nation's highest award for conspicuous gallantry in action in Korea, had been assigned to the 3657th before his reenlistment. He was awarded the Medal of Honor after spending two months as a civilian.

The young soldier, who was a sergeant in the 1st Infantry Division at the time he won the medal is one of the few men to undergo a five band grade with a promotion and live to tell about it. The action took place on September, 1951, near Chongju.

He says now that smothering the enemy's gas was an intensive movement on his part and that he did not feel it explode. When he regained consciousness, he was in an Army Hospital.

From Korea Crump was flown to Fort Bragg, N. C., where he was hospitalized from September, 1951, to February, 1952.

He came here last October, when the 3657th Ordnance Company joined the 1st Infantry Center command.

Gen. Bell Addresses OC No. 63 Graduation

The Army Brig. Gen. Marcus B. Bell of Columbus, Ga., addressed The Infantry School's Officers' Course No. 63 Tuesday at graduation exercises at the Main Theater.

Brig. Gen. Bell marked the end of 22 weeks of training for the officers of the course who were commissioned second lieutenants. Gen. Bell, who retired in November, said the government has been "very generous" in its support of the Infantry School's company officers course in 1953 and is a graduate of the "Infantry School," Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, Fort Leavenworth.

Blues On Parade

Comments Aired On New Uniforms

Mixed opinion following the Department of Army's authorization of the new blue formal uniform for enlisted men resulted from interviews throughout the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team at this week.

The optional dress uniform, consisting of a dark blue coat and cap, white shirt, white gloves, black necktie, sky blue trousers, gaiters with gold braid, and black shoes and socks, has been carefully examined by several troops, who in their mostly favorable comments, said they would prefer wearing the overseas cap with the hat patch. Several commitments were voiced on the army's choice of colors for the dress, and all agree the blouse still possess a personal note in type coat as the ideal style for formal wear.

yet sophisticated appearance of the airborne soldier had been neglected in the final decision of approval. A few troops feel that the "flying saucer" or garrison hat takes away the privilege of wearing the sacred airborne hat patch, and they would prefer wearing the overseas cap with the hat patch.

Others insist that the brazened blue necktie, or garrison hat, takes away the privilege of wearing the sacred airborne hat patch, and they would prefer wearing the overseas cap with the hat patch. Several commitments were voiced on the army's choice of colors for the dress, and all agree the blouse still possess a personal note in type coat as the ideal style for formal wear.

in favor of the formal dress. Ivy said, "I think the blues would be more suitable for dress, because of their formal appearance. Through the Class A, khakis, or G.D.s are now the dress uniform of the Army, the new blues would suit the purpose better."

Thomas remarked, "I'll go along with the uniform all the way. If they make one change, and that is let the paratroopers wear the overseas cap with the hat patch. It would be far less trouble and expense to carry the overseas cap with you, than it would be to pay for the 'saucer' and have it in the hat check room at a formal affair, and run the risk of having someone else make the mistake of walking off with it. That is just one reason why I'd prefer the overseas cap."

Ivy, in turn stated, "There is no bad feature about the entire dress and that is the $200 price tag. There should be some method to prevent the entire cost from being allowed on the troops' allowances. Either the uniform could be listed as an item of issue, or the entire allowance could be commuted on a similar to a clothing allowance," agreed Thomas. "The men should be given some commutation agreement to the process of adopting the uniform for a long time."

Reserve Voices Appreciation To Lawson Base

Assistance given two Air Force reserve units during summer training programs has brought the 46th Troop Carrier Wing at Lawson AFB a letter of appreciation. The letter, voiced the appreciation of the 48th Troop Carrier Wing and the 2455th Air Force Reserve Combat Training Center given by 24th liaison team during summer encampments of the two reserve units. The 13-member Lawson liaison team, headed by Lt. Col. Albert W. Baboy, Jr., wing operations officer, spent two weeks with the reserve organizations assisting them in training programs during summer training at Atterbury AFB, Columbus, Ind.

Major's Wife Takes Post Sunday School New Position

Mrs. Johanna McHenry, of Bradenton, Fla., has been appointed superintendent of the newly-organized junior department of the Sunday School. Organization of the new department was necessitated by increased Sunday School attendance, according to Chaplain (Capt.) Clifford L. Beaman of Tallahassee, Ala., who is in charge of Sunday School activities. Money to purchase hymnals for the new Sunday School department was donated by the Fort Benning chapter of Army Daughters. Mrs. Albert W. Alexander, of Columbus is the director of the Sunday School.

Snake Bite Protection

Summer months bring snake bite danger and this Summer has been extremely "full" of snakes. Part of last week's field training for Third Bn Troopers emphasized first aid for reptile bites. Sgt. Edward Carberry extends his arm from Sgt. Ray Shields to operate suction pump which is in the emergency snake bit kit. Both demonstrators, from Med. Co. gave classes to the troops who bivouaced all week.

To Post-Grad Studies To Post Grad Studies

Blues

Armed with a scalpel Capt. Luigi Pellegrini, surgeon of the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, has left his post with the 107th Dispensary No. 2 to don the clothes and carry the books and weapons of a civilian medical student attending a post-graduate course at one of America's best-standing universities.

Born in Italy, Capt. Pellegrini, formerly a combat medic, served as the surgeon for the First Battalion, 8th Infantry BCT, 2nd Division, Korea, for 18 months. He was assigned to the 508th, October, 1952, as RCT Surgeon, finishing his tour of duty this week.

Capt. Pellegrini intends to continue his education in General Medicine, Post Graduate Course, at New York University, a field in which he will advance to the available medical courses that will put the finishing touches to his education in medicine, and ready him for his own practice.

During the captain's absence, First Lt. L. L. Campbell, of the Main Post Hospital, is temporarily filling in until the RCT gets a permanent surgeon.

Capt. Pellegrini said, "But I see the need for advancement in my field and I believe that a continuation of studies will help me more than any temporary practice would at the present time."

Labor Day Warning

As the Labor Day weekend approaches the nation's newspapers will devote many editorial columns to predicting the mass slaughter that will occur, primarily on the highways. And Tuesday morning's editors will devote much space to tabulations and lists of figures showing how close the nation came to fulfilling the estimates of the National Safety Council or how far it succeeded in passing them. The news on Tuesday will be a familiar one of casualty list from the one with which we have been familiar.

Yet the senseless killing will go on. All the words written will not convince people that accidents can be prevented by the right thought and caution. The price of safety, like that of liberty, is eternal vigilance.

Many soldiers on the post will be in a hurry to get away this weekend. The idea will be to get there as quickly as possible, stay as long as possible and get back as quickly as possible. All three elements of this idea are equally dangerous, but getting back as quick as possible will claim a number of lives during the early morning hours of Tuesday. If statistics are correct there will be a fatality every twelve minutes and an injury every two seconds on the nation's highways.

The Safety Council of the Infantry Center has sponsored a vigorous campaign during the past year to reduce all types of accidents and has expended much time and effort particularly in educating drivers with the dangers on the highways and behind the wheel. The result has paid; there has been a 45 per cent reduction in traffic accidents and deaths since May of this year. But the Safety Council can not prevent accidents; it can only educate and warn. The responsibility rests on every man who drives a car or who rides in one.

Chaplain's Corner

The Nobility of Labor

BY CHAPLAIN CAPT. CLARENCE M. WALTON

Work is the noblest and most sublime activity of the human race. It involves not only doing a job, it embodies acts of worship, devotion, a service to humanity and a service to love and helpfulness to one's fellowmen. We should never look upon work as a necessary evil, but should consider it an opportunity to help in the building of a happier world. It is the spirit and purpose of Labor Day to promote this attitude. We observe Labor Day each year to emphasize the importance and nobility of labor.

Without hard work there could never be any of the conveniences that we enjoy in our modern civilization. Without a lot of preparation and hard planning we would have no houses, no churches, no skyscraper buildings, no roads, no automobiles, no furniture. Without the exhausting labor of ditch-diggers and plumbers there could be no water systems, no sewage disposal systems, no gas systems. Without the long, hard work of farmers and ranchers in blistering sun and dust and rain there could be no production of foodstuffs. Without the patient hand work of those who teach, the human race would be in ignorance. Any work that serves a useful purpose is just as honorable as the efforts of the better world. It is the spirit and purpose of Labor Day to promote this attitude. We observe Labor Day each year to emphasize the importance and nobility of labor.

Hard work also serves as medicine. A great deal of exercise is necessary in order to keep the purifying blood swirling vigorously through one's system. There are many bodily ills that result from inactivity, but there is no cure but there can be avoided by doing of a better world.

ADM. ROBERT B. CARNEY, USN
Chief of Naval Operations

ADM Robert Brewster Carney, USN, born in Valley, Calif., Mar. 26, 1895, has succeeded ADM William M. Feeheler, USN, as Chief of Naval Operations. ADM Carney was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1916.

ADM Carney served aboard the USS Panamint when she captured the German submarine U-569 Nov. 1917.

ADM Carney's postwar assignments included command of two destroyers, and duties within the Navy Department.

In the early months of WWII, he was Chief of Staff for Commander, Support Forces, Atlantic Fleet. Then he commanded the USS Denver in action against Japanese during 1942-43.

He was successively Chief of Staff to Commander, South Pacific Force and to Commander, Third Fleet from 1944-45. The Navy Cross was awarded to the Admiral for extraordinary heroism during his battle for Leyte Gulf, Oct. 23, 1944.

Little Theater Rehearsing "The Philadelphia Story"

The Fort Benning Little Theater production of "The Philadelphia Story" is scheduled for presentation at the Main Post Theater is now in its second week of rehearsals. Directed by Mrs. Earl C. Hardy, the Philip Barry comedy relates the better world. It is the spirit and purpose of Labor Day to promote this attitude. We observe Labor Day each year to emphasize the importance and nobility of labor.

Safety Group Meets On Auto Accidents

The 41st Field Artillery Battalion Safety Council had a meeting recently which discussed motor vehicle accidents, off duty safety, and local traffic problems.

It was suggested that a MP be placed at the intersection of Third Street and Boyington Avenue each evening between 1615 and 1730 hours. A recommendation that the gate at the west end of Arrowhead Road, between the railroad and old Cantata Road, be opened to relieve the congestion at Third Street and Cantata Road.

An increase in the speed limit in the battalion area was also recommended during the meeting.

510 Checks Awarded To Contest Winners

Two Post Benning enlisted men have been presented checks for $10 for winning the Infantry School Detachment's safety slogan a day poster contest.

Winners were Cpl. Paul D. Hanna, Jr., who had the winning slogan, "Safety is the key to a better life," and Cpl. Fred Feas, who authored the best slogan.

Training Aids Teach Tough Topics

Electronic brains are doing their thinking caps to help the Army train its men.

One of the newest training aids is a simulated radar scope to teach soldiers how to track guided missiles, aircraft, artillery or mortar shells. The device can reproduce the "pips" of various targets from Korea which were served with the 35th Infantry Division.

This device saves time because it can be used in any kind of weather. Without it, part of the instruction for radar operators could be given only on clear days. Students would have to learn how radar tracks planes.

The device was developed at a simulated atomic bomb which was tested at Operation Snowdrift. The Army's winter maneuvers held this year at Camp Drum, New York.

The "booby" gave off a blast and smoke mushroomed into the air in such a realistic fashion that the soldiers who were present were able to win in many future maneuvers.

Another training aid still in the development stage is a demonstrator which shows the hydraulic system in the weapon. It is the Army's newest and largest automatic anti-aircraft gun. It is made of transparent plastic tubes.

These are only a few of the brightly-colored liquid in the tubes which shows the course of the hydraulic system in the weapon. It helps train maintenance crews in the proper care of the airplane.

These are only a few of the Army's vast stock of intricate devices which simplify training in the most difficult topics of soldiers in today's highly technical Army.

WPNK DISC JOCKEY - Fat Sam Dillard of WPNK will be the disc jockey at Service Club No. 1 on Sunday, Fat Sam, a veteran of 15 years in radio, conducts the Fat Sam Show Middy Merry Go Round daily. He is the publisher next year and the composer of several songs.

508th Conducts Sunday School

"The family that prays together stays together," says Chaplain Charles A. Meek, when talking about the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team's Sunday School, recently put into operation for the benefit of the sons and daughters whose parents are members of Chapel No. 2.

Children attending the Sunday School are up to nine years of age, and are often heard saying, "I want to go back to Sunday School," or, "Are we gonna go back there soon?" This brings confidence into the many families who attend the services of the chapel. It makes the parents feel that their children are being given careful consideration, as they become introduced to a phantasmagoria of new things more easily understood than when being tutored by responsible, capable persons.

The Sunday School has a set agenda for its sessions and classes with the little ones starting at 10:00 a.m. Sunday, and lasts one hour, the entire time that the parents of these charges are able to give their own adult services, in the chapel.

Arrives Early
The children usually arrive early at the Sunday School building located to the rear of Company B, 508th, and sing songs and hymns that are easy to understand. In no time at all the young Sunday School members are formed around the piano, with Pfc. Daniel Deliz, Headquarters and Headquarters Company cook and volunteer worker, leading the singing, and Pfc. Gerald S. Cowan, Chaplain's Assistant, accompanying the singers with piano music, when the school session begins.

The altar, which is close to the piano, is in position to allow the group to have their opening prayer. A short bible discussion is then conducted, followed by the offering, and a closing prayer and hymn, which put the finishing touches on the first portion of the program.

Knight Named Top Airman

The children are then divided into three groups, Nursery, Beginners, and Intermediates, and sent or taken to the various sections. The Nursery set has proved to be a difficult group to handle, in that they are not easily controlled in stage places. They have to be amused with playthings that are adaptable to their particular age group. For this class, the Sunday School has provided toys, puzzles, blocks, pacifiers, rattles and toy dogs.

Object of Class
The object of this class is to amuse and content the young ones who cannot clearly understand bible history, and to gradually acquaint the three year olds with bible prayers and hymns, to enable them to enter the Beginner class when they become of age.

Competitions are more outlined in the four to six years old Beginners Class. The Beginners start their class with a review of the previous Sunday School lesson, and then move into a prepared lesson for the present day.

Lessons are presented to the class in picture story form. A picture folder is passed to the youngsters, so that each has his or her own lesson. Volunteer teachers read stories to the class, and then discuss them. The teacher points out important facts of a story, which are printed on a large picture, made specifically for that purpose. Questions are then asked relating the story to the day's lesson. The children then do cutouts of photographed pictures, which are a part of the lesson and paste them onto a colored background, forming their lesson into a picture, similar to that from which the day's lesson came. If the children so desire, their work is placed in the wall of their class room, for inspection by other Sunday School members.

The Intermediate group is instructed with approximately the same program as the Beginners, but the children being of the ages six to nine, can be taught lessons that are more technical, due to their increase in age, and learning ability.

To minutes prior to the parents arrival, the children gather at the piano, for a closing prayer and hymn, and after singing a good bye song, they begin gathering their playthings together and replacing them in the proper place. Should the parents be delayed the Sunday School has color books, with names on each cover for proper identification, which are passed out to the boys and girls to utilize the spare time.

To stimulate further interest, a prize for the member with the best attendance record for a three month period will be awarded.

Competition High At CTC Inspection

Members of the 77th Tank Battalion and the 550th Tank Company, going on guard, are inspected daily with a "fine tooth comb" before regimental mount. M-Sgt. Burley F. Whittington, sergeant-major of the 77th, diet the inspecting and the winner is relieved from guard duty and gets the following day off.

Standing in for this inspection, here is what you are likely to hear: "Who's the Chief of Staff? What's happening in the news? Who's the CTC commander? Who's the assistant CTC commander? and so for appearance, it usually boils down to clean finger nails, who doesn't have a clean handkerchief and who doesn't have an I. D. card.

Four of the Battalion's sharpest are shown in the photo above. Pfc. Ramsey has won the battalion mount award five times since May when the contest started. Prior to that he was selected as colonel's orderly or super-nursery for the CTC five times. Since coming to Fort Benning in January, he has never walked a guard post.

Cpl. Clodfelter is another repeated winner. Pfc. Bumgardner has won the battalion mount six times and the CTC mount five times and also has never walked a guard post since coming to Fort Benning.

Eddy Praises Americans At Military Order Meeting

World conditions call for "the greatest faith, the greatest steadfastness and the greatest courage" from the American people, Lt. Gen. Manton S. Eddy said last Thursday here.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Military Order of World Wars, Gen. Eddy lauded the reactions of the American people to their leaders' decisions in Korea, adding:

"Conditions in the world of today are too complex to place the total responsibility on just one man. We must back the entire American plan," he declared.

The former commander of United States Forces in Germany, who is now living in Columbus, praised the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and credited its growth as one of the major causes for Russia now attempting to overrun Europe.

"The very fact that American forces were present in Europe in 1950, although still equipped with World War II materials and weapons, was another major block to Russian domination of Europe today," the retired general pointed out.

"Russian forces in 1950, were superior to ours in equipment, numbers and location, but the fact that we were in Europe at the time meant that any Russian aggression would have been the beginning of World War III."

NATO of today is a far cry from that "policy equipped for a mission which was struggling in its infancy when I arrived in Europe in 1950," Gen. Eddy continued. "Our communications system, weapons, forces and disposition are such today that we could starve off any Russian attack," he declared.

Yet Learns 3 Years Later Writer Kept His Promise

It took three years but a post magazine finally learned that a Life Magazine correspondent kept his promise to give his buddies "a big splash for their heroic actions."

Sgt. Arthur Rogers, Company D, 50th Airborne, served with the 27th Infantry when he met the correspondent. The writer told of Rogers' action in the "Battle of Bowling Alley."

He wrote in a 1950 issue of the magazine: "Mess Sergeant Rogers while preparing hot chow found himself and his pots attacked from the rear. He and one of his helpers dove for a .50 caliber machine gun. When they ran out of ammunition, Rogers crawled 20 yards under fire for more. When his body was killed, Rogers picked up the gun and chanced off a platoon of Reds in that terrible sort of rage which mess sergeants reserve for KPs who put too much salt in the potatoes."

After seeing the picture and the story, the 50th mess sergeant had only one regret. His buddies never lived to know "he kept his promise."

RE-ENLISTMENTS
The Second Battalion, 30th RCT, chalked up four more reenlistments recently when Cpl. Matthew Anderson, signed up for another three years with Company F. Ff. Bobbie J. Thompson, took on three and Robert Smith and Clifford M. Hall, six each with Company H.

TWO RE-ENLISTEES

An instructors' school currently is being conducted by the 46th Supply Squadron at Lawson AFB, in preparation for establishment of a supply procedure school for base supply personnel.

Some 40 supply supervisors, noncommissioned officers and specialists are being trained in the three-week instructors course. Conduct classes in the supply school which will be set up in the near future.

Both the instructors course and supply school are under the direction of Maj. Elmer A. Dobbs, base supply officer. The school will train military and civilian supply personnel in supply procedures.

Conducting the instructors course, which will be completed next week, are First Lt. John A. Coughlin and John L. Smith.

Safety For Drivers
The 19th Field Artillery Battalion Safety Council discussed plans at a recent meeting for a drive to increase the military driver's pride in his vehicle. The council suggested that pride in a vehicle may result in a more careful and alert driver.

The council also formulated a schedule for the showing of a safety film at least once a month. It was also agreed that the battalion safety officer would determine the need for new caution signs in the battalion motor pool.

Ord. Spotlights Safety Drive

Realizing the need for greater highway safety, the 567th Ordnance Company, is conducting a week-long drive prior to the long Labor Day weekend this Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Lt. Dean Blanchard, company safety officer, from Winchester, Mass., working with the Combat Training Command Safety Office, displayed a large campaign bulletin board in the company area with safety posters, pictures of wrecks and death, and stories to make the highway traveler stop and think before being careless with his driving habits. In addition to this, mention of safety over the weekend is being made at company formations.

At the regular weekly T. I. & E. class Friday, a good part of the program will be devoted to this subject.

First Meet Held For Off-Duty Project Group

The armored - airborne team in exploitation was the topic of discussion Tuesday when members of the Infantry School's off-duty Project group held their first meeting of the 1953-54 year.

Capt. Roland A. Dessert, a member of the Airborne Department was the discussion leader at the meeting in Fort Benning's Patrick Hall.

The Off-Duty Project is a discussion group approach to interesting and important military problems. Emphasis is placed on development and speculative thinking.

The project, inaugurated last year, will be conducted semi-monthly and is primarily for Infantry School instructors. All Fort Benning officers, however, are invited to join in the discussions, group officials said.

Several subjects last year actually assisted the Infantry School in an official way, according to officials. The discussions serve as a clearing house for new ideas.

Ex-Vocalist Peps Up OC Unit

When the officer candidates of the 12th OC Company seem off-circuit, Radio and TV followed with a song, there's one voice that stands out clearly from the rest. It's the bright tenor-baritone of Candidate Paul Blum, whose vocal interpretations sometimes cause the most spirited songsters of the company to stop and listen.

Blum appreciates an audience and a look at his past in good that audiences like to listen. From the time when his voice was high soprano and he sang in a 2000 ft. Md. choir, Blum has kept "sound" control over his listening audience.

Singing in events at high schools in his home town of Baltimore, Md., and later at Temple University led to spots in summer stock, radio television and nightclubs.

It was during a show at one of Maryland's recreation centers that he was discovered. An agent heard him sing and after quizzing Blum about his repertoire asked him (as Paul puts it) if he had any "objections" to singing professionally.

Candidate Blum assured the agent that he was ready mentally as well as physically to start a professional career — and he was.

Bill James F. Clifford and Glorice Blum soon found himself with man A. Kernitt.

OC To Mark 15th Year In States With Commission Training Ends

300,000 miles is a lot of traveling. It's nine times around the earth at the equator. It's years out of the life of a 24-year-old Officer Candidate. The family toured France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, England, and Austria.

For the moment, "the traveling Von Koschembahr" has settled in Tye, New York. Where they'll be next is anyone's guess.

Summer training ended last Saturday for Infantry Reserve officers from the Third Army area who have been attending a special two-week school here.

During the 1930's passports were absolutely necessary because of the tense political situation in Europe. On a trip to Austria, the OC's mother mistakenly took the wrong passport for Von Koschembahr. Thinking quickly, she covered your face with a blanket and begged the border guards not to awaken the sleeping children to check their faces against the passport photos. The ruse worked.

Instead of disbanding like some of the other Third Army baseball teams, the Fort Benning Doughboys will try to play ball until the beginning of this year's football season.

Special Services sports officer, Capt. Elmer Kuskey has arranged a schedule for the Doughboys to play Camp Rucker and Fort McPherson and possibly some more teams.

The Rucker Rebels spent two days here at Benning last week and racked two baseball victories over the Doughboys. They now hold a 2-1 game lead.

In the first game, the Rebels defeated Benning 5 to 1 behind the pitching of John Boyd. Then the following evening, they clobbered the Doughboys for 11 runs and hits with Hank Gill going all the way.

Rucker second sacker, George Kram, slammed a triple with most game scoring two runs. This extra base blow knocked lefty Rick Myers out of the box. Bill Chilton, who came in to relieve the Brigade

1953 Benning Grid Schedule

Here is the 1953 Fort Benning Football League schedule with all time entertainment (which most likely will be in Columbus high school bands as last year) planned, transportation schedules for teams and bands, NBC's recorded for stadium police and their official ruling sections, and finally, the drawing of a schedule to place the teams, each of whom naturally demanded only 80 per cent of the best.

At this point now you would think that Kuskey would be able to sit back on the 50-yard line and enjoy the fruit of his labor. Alas and alack, he will have to be on duty at every game, and also very important, so will every member of the Special Services sports office. That's a lot of weekends to give up, but if the 1953 teams respond with the action those of last fall provided, and if you fans will pack 'em Doughty, all will be pleased.

And this Fort Benning League bowl will be pleased if it is not forced to retreat to the trackless waste of Alabama under an assumed name after venturing the following prediction: It must be said now that it will not be here for the 1953 football season due to my separation prior to opening game.

If the view is murky (or murky) blame it on the fact that I have been looking into an eight ball instead of the customary crystal ball. I haven't seen any of the four teams in action and whether the life goes to Special Troops Grease Wava or the CTC Commanders is harder to say than picking a goldfish's teeth.

The 50th Airborne seems to have made the most of the latest on sport grabbing a number of the 532 Special Troops Rams line-men for this year's team. Bill Dietz, Buddy Goatsley, Crayton Mast, and their quarterback will make up a tough backfield. CTC will be missing Capt. Dick Blackman and George (Ding Dong) Bell. Mel Angler, big Commander Inman, is the sole first string returnee from last year.

Last year's championship club, Special Troops Rams, is hunting for everything but the players that they have working out seem able to give one and all a pretty rough time on the gridiron. Most of their talent is gone but Bill Thurston, Bill Stetter, and Lin Jordan, to name a few are back for this year's clashes. The Green team is made up of a whole lot of new faces and the only one that looks familiar on the club will be that of Fred Felbaum, who spent some time in the hospital recently.

It is a lineup as to which club will be the 1953 Fort Benning Football champion. But to the fans all I can say is that the 508th seems to have the best. On paper anyhow.

At a meeting of boxing officials and Special Services sports people, it was decided that the first boxing bout of this contest campaign will be held on or about Sept. 23rd with at least 10 fights on the card. Included in each fight program, two per month up to December last then one per week, will be two or three heavyweight and paper weight bouts.

Depending upon the weather, the bouts will be held at either Gowdy Field or Briant Wells Field House. Attending the meeting was WOJ2 Jerry Fermin of Battery C, 1st Infantry Abn Battalion, Capt. L. A. Gugel of Special Troops Command, CWQ, Russell, CPTC of the Youth, Activities, Committee and Capt. Elmer Kuskey, sports officer.

Airborne Bn Wins Benning Softball

The Airborne Battalion of First Student Regiment defeated the Combat Training Command softball team last week, 2-1, in 10 innings, to win the Infantry Center softball Tournament and the right to represent Fort Benning in the Third Army tournament which will be held at Fort McPherson, next week.

The Commanders started the scoring off with a sole run in the top of the second inning capitalizing on airborne errors. However, Trooper Terry tied the ball game up in the bottom of the fourth with a homer.

The game continued on at one all until the last of the 10th when the Blackhearts got a man home on one hit and two errors.

Both hurlers, Alphonse Broussard of First SR and Isaac Davis of CTC pitched fine ball. Broussard set down 13 batters while Isaac, fanned four.

First SR Team No. 5 Tops Brigade Golf Tourney

BY CAPT. EMERSON BIERE
As the School Brigade Golf tournament enters its sixth week of play, Team No. 5 of Second Company, First Student Regiment remains undefeated with a record of five wins and no losses.

Capt. Cleo Brewer, team captain, has uneasy feelings each week but up to this point, he has managed to garner the top spot in the tourney. His team has also been able to produce the low individual score for two consecutive weeks now, and has managed two out of the five weeks competition.

The real test of the team's strength comes this week however. Brewer's team is matched against the Brigade Headquarters team, which is currently in the number two spot with a record of four wins and one loss. If the squad can garner a win in this crucial match, it will be a hard uphill fight for any team to catch him anymore.

The tournament is conducted according to PGA rules, and net scores are computed on a handicap basis. The tournament will run for a total of nine weeks.

There are ten teams entered in the tournament of eight members each. All the major units of the School Brigade have at least one team entered. The teams are as follows: One team each from Brigade Headquarters, The Infantry School detachment, and the Airborne Battalion. Two teams each from the First Officer Candidate Regiment, and the

The Fort Benning Women's Golf Association opened its season last week when 100 lady golfers attended the first luncheon and business meeting at the Country Club. Plans were discussed for the coming weekly tournament and the Golf Clinic which will be conducted by Charlie Harper, golf pro. Every one is urged to sign up for the Blind Bogey and Old Pat Tournament which will start soon.

Softball Champs

The Combat Training Command 56th Engineer Float Bridge Company, won the softball crown of the 78th Engineer (C) Battalion softball league last week when they defeated the Headquarters and Service Company of the 78th by 16 to 0 score.

During the softball season there were 500 spectators and 200 men taking part in this sport. It is expected that these same figures will hold true in the coming volleyball and touch football inter-company tournaments of the 78th Engineer (C) Battalion.

3A BASEBALL WINNERS . . . The Fort Jackson, S. C. Golden Arrows went undefeated through the Third Army Baseball tournament which was held at Camp Rucker, Ala., Aug. 17-22. Many professionals are on the roster of the Arrows. Catcher Frank House was a bonus baby with the Detroit Tigers. Right fielder Faye Thronberry was with the Boston Red Sox. Pitcher Joe Landrum was with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

By Lester Diaoif
If you are a typical Fort Benning football fan, you'll arrive at Doughty Stadium on Sept. 27th in time to block the aisles during the kick-off and step on some VIP's toes sitting in the front pews, will drink some sort of beverage water and chew some peanuts, grown in Georgia naturally, most likely rear the officials and root for the underdog team.

The teams that will be in the limelight are the Combat Training Command Commanders and the 508th Airborne Red Devils. Both grid squads opened last year's season and the Red Devils were victorious at Columbus Memorial Stadium, 19-4.

Then you will go home secure in the knowledge that you have maintained the proper standard of incoherence toward the poor lackeys who have to janitor the vast pigskin pit, and every fan worth his salt will wonder why they do not have more teams and more games each week.

Each college as mentioned above is known roughly as football fever and Fort Benning has an acute case every fall. The post football frenzy swung into action a number of weeks ago as Special Services, with the sports officer bearing the heavy burden was getting a budget approved for the football teams who will be allowed to dress 21 players for each game. After that came meetings with sporting goods representatives to select uniforms and other equipment that is needed, meetings with coaches to review and explain rules, determine eligibility and draw up a schedule.

All these decisions had to be approved by Special Services Officer, Lt. Col. Kenneth Grimes, by the Special Services Council and, finally, by the commanding general. The teams could start selecting players then, but for the sports officer, Capt. Elmer Kuskey, the aspirin season was just beginning.

Arrangements had to be made for qualified first officials, Doughty Stadium maintenance repairs, progress to be made on a second year ready-made equipment, half of all time entertainment (which most likely will be in Columbus high school bands as last year) planned, transportation schedules for teams and bands, NBC's recorded for stadium police and their official ruling sections, and finally, the drawing of a schedule to place the teams, each of whom naturally demanded only 80 per cent of the best.

Benning Skeet Club Defeats AF Shooters

A five man Fort Benning team defeated the Warner Robbins Air Force Base shooters Sunday afternoon to win their first match of the year.

In addition to competing with the Warner Robbins team, the Benning Club was also participating in the national five-man club team championship sponsored by the National Skeet Shooting Association.

The team broke 461 birds out of 500 thrown. Individual team members were: Bill scores are: R. J. Paulin, 97x100; W. H. Harper, 86x100; William M. Milroy, Jr., 82x100; Kenneth Mayne, 91x100; and D. T. Doerflinger, 45x100.

Individual and combined scores were all mailed to NSAA Headquarters at Dallas, Texas, for consideration in the national shoot. This is the first match won by the Benning shooters. Our team was a little slow in starting, but in the meet, they really proved their mettle. At no time during the meet was the outcome in serious doubt. We took a sizeable lead on the first course and maintained it with ease throughout the match. It is hoped that increasing interest in the sport will result in an increasing number of victories as time goes on.

Hit Plus Slide Broken Thumb

Sgt. Robert Stewart, Battery C, 198th Air Transport Battalion, took a few minutes time for a case of baseball while on leave recently and thereby hangs a tale.

No notion of sweat with a bat, the sergeant did get a hit, however, and perched on first base, eyeing the keystone sack. The sergeant was too great and the sergeant took off.

By Cobb, in all his greatness, he never went sliding into second as did Stewart; but, instead of hooking the bag, he hooked his thumb into the belt of the second baseman.

As proof of his baseball fame the sergeant now displays to the members of Battery C a fractured thumb with all the trimmings. However, no words have been received as to what direction the umpire moved his "thumb" on the play.

Swim Champ Now In OCS

If swimming were substituted for running in the Army's Physical Fitness Test, Officer Candidate John R. Scarborough of 12th OC Company would probably make quite a splash.

Candidate Scarborough, is more at home in the water than he is on the sands of Georgia. Ever since the age of five he has been competing in, and winning swimming events.

Scarborough had an almost perfect record of wins in high school competition, and was selected to compete in the tryouts for the Olympic games in 1946. Only an emergency appointment kept the OC from possible representation of the United States in the Olympics.

Teaching people to swim in Columbus favors pastimes. He has taught some 2,500 children a day at the swimming pool at the American Red Cross National Aquatic School in Cor-de-plaine, Idaho. The OC's favorite pupil was an 85-year-old schoolteacher, who finally took to swimming as a full time hobby.

Thanks to Scarborough's instruction, the only student that the young man considers a failure in his mother, who absolutely refused to go near the water no matter how much Scarborough coaxed.

The OC says, "I want to thank Lois Newell (8-3126).

Most of the women in Fort Benning's WAC Company are very careful about their weight and appearance. "We do have a few overweight girls who would look much better if they lost a few pounds, but they are in the minority," she explained.

About 70 WACs eat each meal at the company mess hall where the menu call for 2,400 calories daily. However, women doing moderately active work may have 2,800 calories. This is 1,200 calories fewer than in meals served to the male soldiers here.

Ex-Devil Picked For Medal In Korea
A former trooper of the 500th Airborne RCT has been nominated for the Medal of Honor for action recently with the Seventh Division in Korea.
Cpl. Richard McKinley, was nominated for the nation's highest award by Brig.-Gen. S. E. A. Marshall, who was at that time touring the Seventh Division Sector on a special reporting mission for the army.
The young infantryman served as a human bridge during a counterattack on a Division outpost by throwing himself across a barbed wire barrier. The men of his platoon escaped withering enemy machine gun and automatic weapons fire by leaping over McKinley's back.
McKinley, formerly assigned to Company I, returned the 500th May 21, 1951, and remained in the line company until his redeployment to Korea, January 1953.

Col. Russell New C.O. of 2nd SR
Col. William T. Russell, Brookdale, Md., has recently assumed command of the Second Student Regiment.
Graduated from the University of Maryland in 1929 with a degree in Mechanical Engineering, Col. Russell was awarded a second lieutenant rating in the Army. In the 24 years since then, he has seen extensive service both at home and abroad.
He was assigned in Europe during the latter part of World War II as the Military Government Civil Affairs Officer, and was awarded the French Croix de Guerre with star. Other decorations include the Bronze Star Medal, the Occupation Medal for both Germany and Japan, the Legion of Merit, and the Korean and UN service medals.
Sgt. Assigned Mess Duties In 508th RCT
If the new mess steward for the Officer's Mess of the 508th Airborne can handle his job as well as he has in the past, he will be in for a big jump from an airplane as the Officer's Mess is a good hands.
Sgt. Walter G. Kitchens, formerly mess sergeant for Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, 508th, has recently been assigned to the 508th, to assume the duties of mess steward, in the Red Devil Officer's Mess.
Kitchens, with a total of 34 parachute jumps, captured the prize money for coming in third at last month's post jump contest, held during the 508th Airborne RCT anniversary celebration.
The Andersonville, Ga., sergeant has been assigned to the 508th after being contacted in the service at Philadelphia in 1943.

Gran'pa is in an awful hurry to fix the storm cellar! He just heard about the atom bomb.

GETS MOVIE BID . . .
Going up the steps to fame and fortune is curvaceous Myrna Hansen, who in the recent "Miss Universe" contest was named "Miss U. S. A." Incidentally, for the literal minded service personnel, the letters "U. S. A." of her title does not mean that she is government property.

ULYSSES' SIRENA . . . Silvana Mangano, well known among the red-blooded American males for her roles in "Bitter Rice" and "Anna" goes all out in her next - "Ulysses". In the movie version of Homer's classic, Silvana will play Penelope, Circe and Calypso, which is a lot of woman for any actress.

Warning Given By GI Skivvies

The newest and most unusual training aid here is underwear shorts splashed with safety signs. They are used by the safe driving school to make traffic violators more safely conscious.

According to Lt. Albert R. Mittera, who is in charge of the school, a graduate of the course will model the colorful shorts on the opening night of each class. The yellow shorts are designed with black and white squares reading: O-G-Slow, Curve Ahead and other caution signs.

Post Greet's Turk Army Gen. Acar

Brig. Gen. Sirtir Acar, who commanded the Turkish Army Brigade in Korea, will renew an old acquaintance when he visits Fort Benning.

The Turkish general's brigade was attached to the U. S. Army's 25th Infantry Division, whose assistant commander was Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, now assistant commander of The Infantry School.

Gen. Acar, who took command of the Turkish Brigade in August, 1952, will be entertained Thursday evening by Gen. and Mrs. Fritzsche.

To begin his tour of the Infantry School Thursday morning, the Allied officer will confer with Maj. Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry School commander. He will leave the post Saturday.

Florida Impressed

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga., Tampa, declared: "I wish to express appreciation to you and your staff for the hospitality and courtesies during the visit of our Advisory Committee to Fort Benning. Most of all I was impressed with the operation of your vast organization. It is apparent that even minor details are planned with much thought."

Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army Commanding General, who accompanied the group on a portion of the tour, has received numerous letters of praise for the numerous letters of praise for the numerous letters in which the troops are being trained.

The distinguished visitors were shown various training methods of the Infantry Officer Candidate School and the Airborne School. The itinerary also included a demonstration of the firing of all Infantry weapons.

Sgt. McLean Wins T-5 Certificate

Sgt. Roger S. McLean of Wausau, Wis., has been presented an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement for "meritorious service."

Col. Donald Washington, Infantry School Detachment commanding officer, made the presentation.

Post's Children Set School Record

A record enrollment in the Fort Benning Children's School System has been reported by school officials.

Mrs. Hazel J. Scudder, principal, said that 120 children registered Monday and Tuesday for the school year, which began Tuesday.

Sixty-seven children also registered for Columbus high schools. Last year's registration was 117.

First C-119s Arrive In LAFB Conversion

The 46th Troop Carrier Wing, Lawson Air Force Base, received its first three C-119s last week to begin the wing's conversion from the C-46 type aircraft, Col. Troy Crawford, base commander, announced.

The planes, manned by Lawson Air Force base crews, were flown direct to the base from the Fairchild factory at Hagerstown, Md.

Sixteen of the big transports are scheduled for delivery to the wing by the end of September, the colonel said, and conversion is expected to progress rapidly.

A C-119 training program, with the aid of the Mobile Training Center, is now in progress at Base, Ill., will be conducted for other base personnel while the conversion is being carried out.

Benning To Get New Deputy C.O.

Brig. Gen. Newman is a veteran of the Pacific campaign during World War II, beginning his active combat career in Hawaii and moving across the Pacific to Leyte. He held a variety of assignments primarily with troop units, before World War II. While still a lieutenant, he competed in the 1928 Olympic Games at Amsterdam in the Modern Pentathlon.

August Shows Reup Record

August was a banner month for reenlistments at Fort Benning as 354 men were sworn into the Regular Army.

This figure represents 73.14 per cent of those eligible for reenlistment and is the highest monthly total in two years, the recruiting officer reported.

School Brigade topped the mark with 271 or 65.2 per cent of those eligible.

Other unit reenlistment totals and the percentages they represent include: Combat Training Center, 128, 66.30 per cent; Special Troops Command, 51, 75.75 per cent; Provisional Medical Group, nine, 81.81 per cent; 25th Airborne Regimental Center, 10, 50 per cent; 1st Air Force Team, five, 41.66 per cent; U. S. Army Hospital, one, 25 per cent; and Army Field Force command officer, made the presentation.

Boy Scouts To Hold First Meet Friday

Fort Benning Boy Scout Troop No. 27 will hold its first meeting since the school year Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the post's Boy Scout Cabin.

Lt. Henry McNichols of St. Louis, Mo., scoutmaster, said that all boys 11 years of age or over are eligible to become scouts. He also asked that all Post Boy Scouts transferring from other troops bring their transfer papers to the first meeting.

Jewish Soldiers Celebrate Holidays With Services

RAM'S HORN OPENS JEWISH NEW YEAR. Capt. Myerson reads prayer; Capt. Joseph blows horn.

BY CHAPLAIN (1st LT.) BERNARD A. MUSSMAN

From the immemorial, Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, which was ushered in at sundown, yesterday, has been a time of earnest resolution and stocktaking for the individual Jew.

The blowing of the Shofar (the ram's horn) is a summons to men to probe deeply within themselves to the end that they may be a better person and a better member of the community in which they live. The plaintive note of the Shofar is at once a plea and eloquent reminder to men to lead a life of dignity and serve the cause of justice and peace.

The Jewish New Year and Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which comprise the High Holy Days are days not of rejoicing, but of solemnity days devoted to earnest self-inventory and the presence of God, the Eternal Judge. These are the Days of Penitence and are

Lt. Col. Kinkor Named As New Benning P.I.O.

Lt. Col. Robert C. Kinkor, of Chocoma, Wis., has been named public information officer succeeding Lt. Col. Hal D. Steward. He will assume his new post Sept. 15 when Col. Steward leaves for an assignment in Europe.

LT. COL. KINKOR

The 37-year-old civilian public information officer, who was commissioned in 1951 following completion of ROTC training at the State University of Iowa, was detailed to active duty by the War Relocation Authority in September, 1945, and in December, 1946, during which time he took part in the Pacific Theater-Army and Maritime Department Campaigns.

A 1937 graduate of the University of Iowa, Col. Kinkor received a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1940 and did graduate work at Iowa University from 1941 to 1942. He has been employed by the National Public Service in Yellowknife, Ark.

THREE AWARDS... Three of the 150 graduates of the 1953 ROTC training at the State University of Iowa, who were detailed to active duty by the War Relocation Authority in September, 1945, and in December, 1946, during which time he took part in the Pacific Theater-Army and Maritime Department Campaigns.

Falling bombs and Nazi spies were the subject of a British subject taking officer's training course at the University of Liverpool which was a favorite target of the bombers of the Luftwaffe in World War II. Masters spent many hours in bomb shelters. He became accustomed to the noise and began to casually walk the fields from the streets. When the young man's recollections were discovered he was quickly packed off.

Masters was evacuated to the small island of Anglesey, just off the Welsh coast. To the youngster it was just "a dank, foggy place, whose only redeeming feature was that it had no schools." It did have a large hotel. The owner was commonly known to be a German spy, "but no one was inclined to do anything about it."

Angelsey turned out to be as dangerous as Liverpool. The island lay along the path of the German bombers and when attacked by the RAF, the enemy just dropped the bombs on Anglesey. At the war's end, Masters was ready to enter Cambridge University. When he was offered a Fulbright Scholarship and the chance to come to the United States to study, Masters accepted. He came to American in September, 1946 and went to Brown University and decided to become an American citizen.

"My opportunities are much greater here than in England," says Masters. "I'd like to see my younger brother come here, but can hardly deny him the freedom of choice that I had."

Civilian Owners Would Love Sand Hill Station Business
Sgt. Calvin Cook and Sgt. Lenwood Beasley, operators of one of the gas stations in the Sand Hill area would have a prosperous business were they civilian and owned this gasoline station. Pumping gasoline from the 1.5 million gallon tank, they get two pumps at a daily average of 1,500 gallons into government vehicles they put out about 48,000 gallons per month. Figured at the rate of 30 cents per gallon their gross income per month would amount to nearly $12,000. This amount of money would come from gasoline alone and if they carried oil and other items of the civilian filling station they could retire with a modest income in much less time than twenty years.

Soldiers Enjoy Columbus Clubs

Civil-minded Kiwanians and Rotarians, who have adopted a "good neighbor" policy of inviting Fort Benning's military personnel to their regular meetings, are doing "a great thing for community relations," report five troopers from the 56th Airborne Regimental Combat Team who have attended the weekly club luncheon.

Second Lt. Wilbur Middleton, Brunswick, Mo.; Sgt. Joseph Wolfe, Columbus, and Frank Gryscak, Cleveland, Ohio, Sgt. Morton Kavanagh, Ruston, La., and Col. Harry Paul of Leesport, Ind. are unanimous in their approval of the invitational plan, believing it makes the average soldier feel more a part of the Benning and Columbus communities.

Our 'Former' Comrade

Some people are mighty hard to convince. The recent tragic demise of a former comrade is a case in point. This man had been having a difficult time with his automobile — there was the usual trouble of a vehicle not taking kindly to a mixture of gas, oil and alcohol. Our former comrade was picked up on a charge of "driving under the influence." This was early in August. His post driver's license was revoked for a period of four months. He was sent to the post school for traffic violators. The school is designed to teach the principles of safety. It does good job at making pertinent information available. Unfortunately, it has no way to force its principles into the minds of the students. Our late comrade was exposed to the principles of safety, but they apparently didn't take root. He couldn't drive on the post, but the lack of a post driver's didn't keep him off the public

Citizenship Letter Awards

With stories of treatment in Communist prison camps and starting citizens of East Germany still fresh in our minds, there is plenty of material available in answer to the Freedom Foundation's call for letters on "What America Means to Me." The service-wide letter contest is open to all military personnel on active duty with the Army and Air Force, and provides servicemen with an opportunity to express themselves and receive recognition for their contributions. The first award is $1,000 plus the George Washington Honor Medal. Second award includes 20 prizes of $100 plus the honor medal. In addition, a third award of 10 or more honor medals will be made. The contest closes Oct. 15 and letters received after that date will be entered in the 1954 contest. All applicants must submit their entries through their unit TIAE officers. The Awards Jury of Freedom's Foundation and the Army will select the 31 or more recipients. Preliminary screening of letters will be made by a panel of 100. Honor winners. Announcement of winners will be made on George Washington Day, Feb. 22, 1954, at Valley Forge, Pa. Letters submitted for consideration should not exceed 500 words, and soundness of ideas and clarity of expression will be given consideration from the judges. All letters must be signed with the author's full name, grade or rating, service branch, and military address. Letters must be submitted in three copies. As servicemen, there is a better opportunity to see democracy in action. Soldiers who have served in combat know the price that must be paid for freedom, and all should have some good ideas on the subject "What America Means to Me." The Freedom Foundation's awards offer an opportunity of a lifetime. The Allied Forces in the South Pacific, followed by assignment as Commander of the 1st Air Force, July of the following year he was placed in tactical command of all Army, Navy, Marine and other Allied Air Forces in the South Pacific. He was transferred to the 15th Air Force in Italy in November, 1943, as its commander, serving with the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32nd, 33rd, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 41st, 42nd, 43rd, 44th, 45th, 46th, 47th, 48th, 49th, 50th, 51st, 52nd, 53rd, 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th, 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, 62nd, 63rd, 64th, 65th, 66th, 67th, 68th, 69th, 70th, 71st, 72nd, 73rd, 74th, 75th, 76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82nd, 83rd, 84th, 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92nd, 93rd, 94th, 95th, 96th, 97th, 98th, 99th, 100th.

Follow Me' Moral Too

BY CHAPLAIN (CAPT.) TILDEN E. JUNKINS

The two important words "Follow Me" have a significant meaning for the personnel who are stationed here. Every phase of training embraces the slogan "Follow Me."

Aside from the strictly military meaning the slogan has moral implications, especially to our fathers. Fathers do not have to say to their sons, "follow me," for they will anyway. Mothers need not say to the daughters, "follow me," for they will also follow without being commanded. The children learn to talk like their first teachers, the parents. There fore they think like them which brings about like actions. Many parents are deceiving themselves into believing that they are the way and at the same time teach their children to follow an other path, but this does not seem to work. The "do as I say and not as I do" method of teaching has never been effective in any kind of instruction. It works the least in the matter of morals. So those of us who wish to guide their children in character building, which includes a workable faith in God and moral life, must do it by the "Follow Me" method.

Visual education is becoming more popular each year. Learning by seeing and hearing has become popular in the modern school. However, this is the most ancient method. God used this method of instruction in the Garden of Eden.

It's a simple observation that shows the sober-minded parent face to face with the question: "Where am I leading my child?"

In what direction do we want our children to go in the matter of religion? One would not leave a child to his own judgment in the matter of manners. Cleanliness, drill and drill the child in this phase of his culture. Children just don't seem to be naturally inclined to take a bath, to be good, to be moral and moral life, to be naturally good morally. Man is by nature bad. The earth, therefore, being the earth, thus, one sees the necessity of children being "led to God and the living Christ." This can be most effectively done by the leaders, the parents. The home and the Church are the best places for this instruction.

Church in the home and the home in the Church is the ideal. Follow us to the Bible, and to the Church of the Bible, and to the wise parents. They are following you, whither bound.

Chaplain Dick Returns To Chapel Of Wedding

First Lt. John A. Dick, new chaplain of the First Officer Candidate Regiment, has come back to preach from the pulpit of the chapel he was married in 10 years ago.

The lieutenant was graduated from the Officer Candidate School and commissioned in the Infantry in May 1943 and married in Chapel No. 5 the same day.

As usual, the gal kept the guy waiting. The bride to be, the former Dorothy Reynolds, was tied up in Columbus' traffic and needed a motorcycle escort of MPs to get to her wedding.

Chaplain Dick served as a planman leader in World War II and saw action in Italy, France, Germany, and Austria. He wears the Silver Star, the Purple Heart, and the Distinguished Service Cross.

He was during the fighting in 1943 that he first decided to become a chaplain. He said, "I saw what having a chaplain around on the line meant to my men and to myself. Unfortunately, we just didn't have enough to go around."

When released from active duty at the end of the war, the Chaplain taught French and English at Blackstone College for Women in Virginia, and later at Presbyterian College in Clinton, N.C., where he doubled as wrestling coach. In between he did graduate work at the University of North Carolina.

In 1950, the young Infantry officer entered the Presbyterian Seminary in Louisville, Ky., intending to become an Army chaplain. Lt. Dick became an ordained minister in the Army and requested active duty with the Army.

The Chaplain is particularly happy in his new assignment. He enjoys working with young men,

Sgt. Johnson Recalls Days Of German POW Prisons

The prisoner exchange just ended in Korea brought back memories for 1st major sergeant who was in the Australian Army at the time of his capture by the Germans in World War II.

M. Sgt. Thomas L. Johnson, 32, comparative newcomer to the U. S. Army but the sandy-haired soldier is no stranger to war. For nine and one half years he served with the Aussies.

Born and raised in the "Down Under Continent," Johnson joined up the day after war was declared against Germany in 1939. Sent half way around the world to fight, he received his baptism of fire Christmas Day 1940 in Africa. For his subsequent actions in the North African campaign, Johnson was awarded the coveted Military Medal, the equivalent of our DSC.

When the Wehrmacht smashed across Greece, the Sixth Australian Division, in which he was a platoon sergeant, was sent to Crete to defend that strategically important island. Four days prior to the actual event, word was received that the Germans were preparing history's first major airborne invasion. The defending forces, having neither air cover nor sufficient anti-aircraft artillery were powerless to stop the maneuver.

According to the Sergeant the top was nothing short of spectacular. The Germans dropped right on top of the Australians' positions. Johnson was severely wounded and taken captive in May 1941. During the invasion, he was first confined in Stalag 8, but soon afterwards was shifted to another camp in Austria. . . . In the course of the next year and a half Johnson was transferred to about a half dozen prisons. Finally in 1943 he was sent to a camp in Poland, it was there that he first came into contact with the Russians. There were some 50,000 Red POWs at the camp and about 1,600 other prisoners. Thinking back Johnson maintains that the Soviet troops in his compound made the Germans look shy by comparison as far as their outward arrogance and air of superiority was concerned.

Throughout his period of confinement he made numerous attempts to escape, but each time was recaptured. Luck was with him each time however and capture was made by the military authorities. Not many escapes caught by civilian police ever led to see another stockade. This was especially true of Air Force personnel who were violently hated by the Germans.

As the war drew towards its end, Johnson and a group of other POWs were marched 300 miles towards Hanover. They lived off the land as they moved. It was below Lubek on May 2, 1945 that the group was liberated by advancing British forces.

In the spring of 1946 the sergeant was sent to Japan as a member of the Commonwealth Occupation Force.

Sergeants Disagree About First Juke Box At Benning

The honor of being the first unit to have a juke box in a company mess appears to be disputed among the men of the 30th RCT. In a recent issue of the Bayonet, an article appeared which stated that "Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 20th RCT, had installed a juke box in the company mess hall and as far as could be ascertained it was the first juke box ever installed in a company mess at Fort Benning.

Evidently from conflicting reports that have been received the ascertainment was not ascertained into the past history of the post. Five sergeants now with the Third Battalion, 30th RCT, have come forward with claims that the juke box put in an appearance in a company mess as far back as 1946.

1st Sgt. Grever D. Hunter, Walter Section and Earl D. Johnson stoutly claim that while they were members of Company G, 25th RCT, before the Second Battalion of the 25th became the Third Battalion of the 18th RCT, their unit mess hall numbered among its assets one juke box. However, they could not agree as to the presence of the juke box after the change to the 15th.

MAJOR MATTHEWS

508th Names 1st Bn. Exec

Major Robert A. Matthews, of Shoshone, Idaho, is the new commander of the First Battalion, 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

The announcement by regimental headquarters, moves the former battalion executive officer into the position that was held by Lt. Colonel Murray Harvey, of Loveland, Texas. Col. Harvey was transferred to become commander of the Airborne Battalion of The Infantry School.

Major Matthews is a graduate of the University of Idaho and saw combat duty during World War II as an airborne artilleryman with the 37th Parachute Field Artillery Battalion, serving both as battery commander and intelligence officer.

A veteran of Korean fighting Major Matthews served as battalion executive officer of the Fifth Infantry Regimental Co in a 1st Team while it was attached to the 23rd Division, and with headquarters of the division.

A graduate of artillery officer's Candidate School in 1942, Major Matthews transferred to the infantry after World War II, accepting a Regular Army commission. He has served as 508th ARCT operations officer before moving to the First Battalion.

World War II Units Now Train Post Soldiers In Warfare Arts

Two Fort Benning units, which helped bring peace to the Pacific eight years ago, are busy honing their military muscles to deliver a haymaker against any future aggressor.

While Gen. Douglas MacArthur was accepting the Japanese surrender on the battered island of Sept. 2, 1945, troops of Fort Benning's 18th Field Artillery Regiment were on Okinawa preparing for the invasion of Japan's home islands.

The 198th, which distinguished itself on Leyte and in other island-hopping campaigns in the Pacific, is now the authorization unit for Infantry School classes and helping to train tomorrow's Infantry leaders.

V-J Day found the 78th Combat Engineer Battalion on Luzon Island in the Philippines, where it was regrouping after months of hard fighting. Following the surrender, the 78th was ordered to Japan as an occupation unit.

The 78th is still building roads and bridges, but today they are used for training purposes. In addition the engineers also serve as demonstration troops for realistic combat problems coordinated by The Infantry School.

Thousands of miles from the Mir-souri on V-J Day in Frankfurt, Germany, The 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment, now Fort Benning's 508th Airborne RCT, was serving as an honor guard for the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, then supreme Allied commander in Europe.

The 30th Infantry Regiment, which spearheaded U. S. victories in two world wars against Germany, spent V-J Day on duty as occupation troops in Europe.

Today, eight years later, the 30th is part of Combat Training Command, offering students the benefit of its know-how and experience.

In 1945, the post was engaged in training men to lead infantrymen against an armed enemy. V-J Day brought a temporary respite as with the commanding general, much of its energies to separating from the Army men who had fought and won the war.

Gen. Meloy Celebrates 50th Birthday With Work

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., celebrated his 50th birthday at Fort Benning Friday by carrying out his usual rigid schedule as Infantry Center commander.

No formal celebration marked the occasion, but a small group of officers and friends gathered at 8 p.m. in the Main Officers Mess to wish the commanding general a happy birthday.

Following a busy day in his office, Gen. Meloy ate a special birthday dinner with his family and spent a quiet evening at home.

On hand for the private celebration were Mrs. Meloy and their two sons, Second Lt. G. S. Meloy III, a June graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., who is now taking the basic officers course at The Infantry School, and John N. Meloy, who left Tuesday for prep school in Washington, D. C. A third son, William N. Meloy, is in the Navy at Kingsville, Texas.

508th Meets Rucker Boxers

Pro Gridder Heads CTC For '53 Clash

Capt. James C. Hefl, coach for the Combat Training Command "Commanders," has returned from temporary duty in Alaska and has assumed the head coach job for the CTC eleven.

Hefl, a graduate of St. Lawrence University, played college football for four years. From college football, he joined the Washington Redskins and played two years.

While in the Army in Japan, Hefl, coached service football for three years prior to his coaching the CTC gridmen this year.

Line coach, Lt. Bill Mitchum, acted as head coach prior to Hefl's return and from all indications has gotten the team off to a fine start. At present there are 55 men on the football roster with vacancies.

Officers Mess Tennis Meet Begins Saturday

The Officers Mess Fall Open Tennis Tournament opens Saturday with an array of the top netters in the Army and Southern colleges.

Lonnie Jordan, winner of the last five tournaments in the series, will more than likely be extended to make it six in a row.

Jordan will have as his competitors six men returning from last year. Several new men, with college experience, are expected to fill the vacancies left by the men of last year's squad.

A group of those returning from last year, include quarterback Joe Perry and half back Harry Langdy. Mel Anglin, defensive tackle from last year will also be back along with guard Bill Williams.

Several new men that are bright prospects for the season include Mississippi Junior College, and a line coach, Lt. John Vines from Georgia Tech, expected to fill a tackle position on the football roster with vacancies.

Post League To Begin On Sept. 23

Boxing for Fort Benningites will get underway this evening at Gowdy Field when the 508th Airborne pugilists play host to the Camp Rucker Rebels. The opening bell will be at 8 p.m. and admission is free.

Opening the fistfight season, the card tonight will feature 10 bouts of all weights, although the flyweight and heavyweight entries are still doubtful according to Red Devil boxing mentor Emory Abrinton.

Rucker is fielding an All-Post squad this year and a lot of fast action is expected.

Only three veterans from last year's team are back to see action in the squared circle this season — Jesse Flores, runner-up at the Center lightweight division; Ray Kiley, Benning and Third Army feather champ but eliminated early in the All-Army show; August Wolf, a leading contender in the lightweight ranks.

Two weeks of workouts under the supervision of Abrinton and trainer Harry Breeze have trimmed the 508th team to 20 men, most of them novices.

RAY KILEY ... 508th's Post Champ

Army Shooters Win Match At Camp Perry

Crack Army Rifleman from all parts of the world began shooting last week in the National Rifle Association High Power Rifle Matches after an intensive week of instruction at the Small Arms Firing School at Camp Perry, O.

Capping off the week-long firing was the National Trophy Team Match on Labor Day. 17 events were scheduled for the whole week. Two Army men finished high in the results of the International Free Rifle Match. They were Lt. Mark F. Radke of Lincoln, Neb., who came in third in the Marksman Class and Capt. William S. Brophy of New Hampshire who placed sixth in the Expert Class.

Radke is a member of the Army team from Europe and Brophy, a member of the U. S. Field Team, is stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland. They competed against a field 78 entrants.

The International consisted of 20 shots in each position, prone, kneeling and standing, at 300 meters.

The Army fliers, as well as their competitors, were fortified for the match and for subsequent events by the five day Small Arms Firing School which re-emphasized the principles of effective rifle marksmanship. The infantry school to promote uniform rifle training across the country, in the interest of national defense.

Benning Units Have Names For Gridders

Most of the Fort Benning units have nicknames for their teams.

For the 1953 football season, the 508th Airborne is known as the Red Devils. The Combat Training Command will be called the Commanders. The combination School Brigade-Provisional Medical Group team is known as the Flams and the combination Special Troops Command-Infantry School Detachment - Lawson Field grid team will be called the Green Wave.

430 LBS. OF GUARDS... Bill Williams and Bill Hennessee (right) total 430 pounds of brawn, muscle and meanness for the 1953 Combat Training Command football team. Williams is a returnee from last year's team and has played for the Third Division Doughboys here at Fort Benning in 1949. Hennessee, a six-footer, is playing his first year of Army ball.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

One of the big question marks (?) in Fort Benning athletics is why the 1953 Doughboys have won only one baseball game in 11 starts. Can their losing streak be attributed to the attitude of the ball players, coaching or managing, lack of fan support, or what.

I have asked six persons, who in my opinion are qualified to answer, to give some sort of explanation to this question. Player-coach Bobby Dews states that the best player talent, that was selected by the coaches at the end of the intramural league, never reported to the Doughboys.

Fort Benning game goers are only interested in a winning club and since the team did not win at the outset, the fans did not support them. It is a proven fact that a post has to plan a year in advance to field a post team in order to have personnel that will compare with that fielded by other Third Army teams.

COL. SERFF BOB DEWS CAPT. KINSLEY times on, the Doughboys played the champion Fort Jackson Golden Arrows to a standstill for seven innings and were defeated twice by the runner-up Fort McPherson Colonels by one run.

A die-in-the-wood baseball fan, Col. John Carrigan, says that only lately have the Doughboys found their best lineup. He states that a lack of fan support and a definite lack of publicity is a contributing factor to their losing streak. Many more post personnel would turn out to see the Benning club play if they were given advance notice of a game.

Another post sports fan, Col. Paul Serff of Special Troops Command, gave another opinion. Having attended most of the intramural league contests and the Doughboys contests, Col. Serff states that the best player talent is not available to us here and and as a result there is no outstanding player. Also, a definite lack of interest on the part of the fans tends to keep the ball club down.

The official scorer for all Gowdy Field games, Ed Gomon, at first said that "they didn't get enough runs or the opponents got too many." Upon serious deliberation, he thinks that the main fault is with the hitting department, realizing that the best talent is not available, and our knack of leaving men stranded on base. Also, the crowd never seems to give a heater or harder some applause after making a good play or walking up to the plate.

Sports officer, Capt. Elmer Kinsley states that the Doughboys are not given any support by one and all. The other main factor that contributes to their losing streak is that the players have not been playing together for a long time and that the best talent here at Benning is not on the club. Also, when the stands are empty, a player will not be doing his best.

Russell Copeland, who may be seen as the umpire at most of the Doughboy games in Gowdy Field, says that many of the top players didn't come out for the team and that the best commanders didn't urge them too. At the start, the Doughboys had lots of hustle, but afterwards, they seemed to have a change of heart. Maybe a bigger turnout by the crowd would have helped.

Capt. Harry Blomquist, another rabid sports fan, says that purely from a spectators viewpoint from high in the grandstand, the Fort Benning Doughboys weren't truly representative of the post. Too many of the chosen All-Stars did not play and that the selected substitutes who did appear, tried hard but couldn't match the other Third Army teams.

Previs Heads 13-Man CTC Boxing Team

The Combat Training Command make it three in a row. Elmer Blair, last year's heavy-previs, is rapidly getting into weight title holder, has had outside shape for the opening bouts of his gloves to take over the job of trainer for the CTC boxing team. George Lovelace, another experienced handler of boxers is also being to get the CTC men into condition.

Hotton Smith, lightweights, Richard Woodling and Sam Brown, light welterweights, Manuel Meadevoss and John Harris, welterweights, John Lattimore and Frank West, light middleweights, Bertie Moore and Hall, middleweights and Frank Moore, light heavyweight.

This year the CTC boxing team title last season only four will have a man for every weight. Successful bouts. Last year's win class except among the heavyweights for Hall, gave him the middle-weights. In the flyweights will be the second string: Bob Bennett, James E. Pinkney, Training Command at Doughboy. This season he expects to featherweight, Herman Hinton and Stadium in the opening.

GRID KICKOFF

The 1953 Fort Benning Football League will begin Sept. 27 with the 508th Airborne meeting Combat Training Command at Doughboy. This season he expects to featherweight, Herman Hinton and Stadium in the opening.

Warmin' The Bench

All athletes are shown, some with a better developed knack for the game than others. Television didn't discourage this three ring air of the ballpark, but it did give the umpires bigger headaches.

Even the reticent character in centerfield will, before TV, do nothing but play centerfield is now likely to charge in from his regular position. He'll be in his crouched, shouting, with nothing at the nearest man blue.

You don't doubt his sincerity until he allows the camera sufficient time to focus. Look into the lens and all but dofs his hat as if to say, "look ma, it's me, your son, Sam."

And who can call the kettle black when managers indulge in the same practice in a manner suitable as a freight train. Giant Dodger contests have been delayed hours by ball-examining committees which either Dreeson or Leo demands his constitutional right to look at the ball—ostensibly to see if it is serviceable after each throw.

The, too, there are the classic stylists like Harry (The Hat) Walker who, as they say in cigar ad verbiage, by actual count, removed and replaced his hat 27 times during one tenure at bat.

But where baseball and its careful fluctuations remains national, one of our publicized prize lady tennis stars, Guiseppe Moray by name, shocked the international set when she appeared on stand old Wimbledon's center court with frilly lace tennis undergarments.

F & G Assn Schedules Dove Shoot

The Air will resume with the field of shotgun when hunters from Fort Benning go into the fields for the annual Dove Shoot which is scheduled to take place on September 21st at 1:30 p.m. Members of the Fish and Game Maintenance Association will be assembled at the association's office and will be directed to five fields comprising 400 acres where an estimated 350 doves will be waiting to match their speed and agility against the marksmanship of all comers.

Anyone desiring to participate in the Dove Shoot may join the Fish and Game Maintenance Association by contacting the office located across from Block 13 NCO Club or phoning 2-3125. Membership brings with it many advantages for the outdoor man, whether he prefers fishing or hunting. If you enjoy the thrills of the field and stream, contact the association for all the details regarding membership and the particulars for the 1953 Dove Shoot.

Post Boxing Rules Viewed

Amateur boxing here at Fort Benning operates under the 1953 AAU Rules and the Boxing Board will be governed by these requirements when classifying a boxer. Class I — Winners of an amateur or service championship. Class II — An experienced boxer who has never won a championship. Class III — A boxer with an average experience of 10 bouts and who has won at least six of the 10 fights. Class IV — A novice who has not participated in more than four bouts.

Post Skeepers Victorious At Blue-Gray Meet

The Fort Benning Skeeet Team made a clean sweep at the Blue and Gray Open Skeeet Championship. All Bore Evert held at Montgomery, Ala., on Labor Day. The teaming team won the five-man team championship by a handsome margin with a score of 218 birds broken out of 250 throws. Their nearest competitor was a team from Eglin Air Force Base who carded 204-750.

In addition to the five-man team championship, individual trophies were won by W. H. Harper, All Bore Champion, and W. N. Miley Jr., Class B, Champion. Poulin teamed up with Chester Jack from Eglin Field to win runner up money in the two-man championship. Individual team members and their scores were as follows: W. H. Harper, 149 x 150; B. J. Poulin, 147 x 150; W. N. Miley Jr., 145 x 150; Kenneth Mayne, 142 x 150; B. F. Keist, 138 x 150.

The Fort Benning Gun Club is holding its first registered shoot of 1953 at the Skeet Range Saturday. This will be a Lewis Class Shoot and is open to all shooters. The fliers are classified according to their own shooting ability and each can win some awards. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and everyone is urged to attend.

G-3 Announces 30th RCT Unit Attacks New Erosion Problems Five Changes

Five personnel changes in the G-3 Section were announced Friday by Col. Gines Perez, of Tucson, Ariz., Infantry Center.

Officers assigned new duties are Lt. Col. Jack A. Reaugh, of Los Angeles, Calif., executive officer; Major Glenn M. Harvey of Camp Wyo., chief of operations; Major George M. Tower, of Greensville, Va., and Major Carl E. Byas, of Bowie, Texas, assistant range officers; and Capt. Lewis Stein of Tompcock, N. J., chief of the Third Army Training Aids Center.

Col. Reaugh, who has 14 years of service with the First Infantry Division in Europe from August, 1942, to October, 1944. Before his arrival at the Infantry Center he was assigned to headquarters of the U. S. Army of Europe in Heidelberg, Germany, from 1950 to August, 1953.

Col. Reaugh is a 1950 graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. He wears the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart.

Major Harvey, new chief of operations, replaces Major John J. Navarro of Long Beach, Calif., who has been named troops requirements officer. He entered the service in 1941 and is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. During World War II, he served in Europe with the Ninth Infantry Regiment, Second Division. He was in Korea from August, 1950, to November, 1951, and then served seven months in Japan. Upon his return to the U. S., he attended the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

He holds the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal with four Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

Major Towers arrived at Fort Benning in January. A veteran of 10 years service, he was with the 13th Infantry Division in Europe from December, 1944, to June, 1946. He served in Japan from February, 1950, to December, 1952.

A 1944 graduate of The Infantry School's officer candidate course at Fort Benning, he wears the Bronze Star Medal and the Purple Heart.

Major Byas, who also is captain of the U. S. Army Rifle Team, has been in the service for 17 years.

In 1941, Major Byas took the officer candidate course at Fort Benning and the field grade officer course in 1951. He wears the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal and Purple Heart.

Capt. Stein replaces Capt. Robert E. Sprouse of Wheeling, W. Va., who has enrolled in the associate infantry officer advanced course. He entered the service in 1942 and fought in World War II and the Korean conflict. In 1948, 1949, he was assigned to the 130th Infantry Regiment, 33rd Division in the Pacific Theater, and with the 22nd Infantry Regiment, 4th Division in Korea from June, 1952, to July, 1953.

Training

An Army man in the first World War, I take great pride in noting the progress which has been made to train our youth. West Palm Beach, reported: "We were greatly impressed with the efficiency and good management that was apparent everywhere on the reservation. The training in leadership and in new methods and techniques given in your infantry school must pay off in lives saved."

Col. Cagwin Named Head Of Airborne

Col. Leland G. Cagwin of Carlisle, Pa., has assumed duties as director of the Airborne Department, and Lt. Col. Oscar E. Davis of Tucson, Ariz., who was acting head, has been named assistant director.

Col. Cagwin received his commission as an infantry officer in 1940 upon graduation from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. A veteran of World War II, he served in the Pacific with the 103d Infantry Regiment from May, 1942, to March, 1945; his Pacific campaigns include the liberation of the Philippines. Following the war, he was appointed an instructor in the Medical Department at the Infantry School, a post he held from May, 1945, to August, 1947. While here he also took staff training. Cagwin graduated from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., in May, 1948. He then was assigned to the Army's Plans and Liaison Division in Washington, D. C., until August, 1951.

After graduating from the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va., and completing the basic air course at the Infantry School in 1952, he was ordered to Korea where he served as executive officer and later commander of the 7th Infantry Regiment, 25th Division until January, 1953. From January to July, 1953, he was group commander of the British Liaison Detachment in the Far East.

Visit Begins Today For Vietnamese Chief of Staff

Major Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, chief of the Vietnamese Armed Forces' general staff who was originally scheduled to visit Fort Benning earlier this month, arrived today.

He was accompanied by two Vietnamese officers and U.S. Army Capt. Allen C. Percial, tour director.

Post Warned Of Civilian Job Cutback

Reduction Made Necessary By Decrease in Army Funds

Fort Benning yesterday was given notice of a new civilian personnel cut. The post public information office confirmed a report that a decrease is pending.

Third Army headquarters in Ft. McPherson issued a blanket warning to all of its civilian personnel body of staff restrictions to be made Oct. 15 because of "substantial reductions in funds." Fort Benning is in the Third Army area.

The announcement said that although a vast majority will not be affected it was being issued as a warning to provide those to be affected plenty of notice. A Third Army spokesman said at least 10 days will be needed to determine which employees must be laid off.

Announcement of the cut confirms a statement made at Fort Benning Sept. 9 by Assistant Secretary of the Army James P. Mitchell.

Mitchell predicted a decline in the number of civilian personnel employed by the Army. He said that as the Army's workload reduces as a result of the truce in Korea, there will be a corresponding reduction in the number of non-military personnel hired. He added this would be on an Army-wide basis and he had no figures then on how many jobs will be affected at Fort Benning.

The Army will probably decrease its civilian strength by two methods, Mitchell said. One would be a failure to hire new employees and the other would be a reduction in force of temporary employees. Mitchell explained that the Army does not intend to cover its personnel or career employees. Several hundred civilian employees at Fort Benning were laid off from the personnel roll there last March.

School Officials Plan Safety programs and poster contests are being planned by school officials and a schoolboy patrol is being considered. The post P-TA also has pledged to work with the child safety program. The program has been endorsed by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander, who (Please See COUNCIL, Page 20)

Ranger Dept. Conducts Orientation for Officers

The Infantry School's Ranger Department conducted an orientation conference on mountain training this week for Army commanders and their staffs.

The orientation took place at the Ranger Department's Camp Wahsega in the Smoky Mountains near Dahlsoega, Ga.

Ranger Department officials invited Army leaders on the mountain phase of the training program conducted by the Infantry School. Conferences also observed student officers in training as well as some several demonstrations.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry School commandant, was host to the Army officials attending the conference. Brig. Gen. Carl F. Pritsche, assistant commandant, and Col. John M. Highower, The Infantry School's director of instruction, also attended.

Conducting Training The Ranger Department conducts its specialized training in three phases. It maintains a training camp at Fort Benning in Florida where jungle and amphibious tactics are taught, in addition to the mountain camp in north Georgia. The first phase of the eight-week course, which includes physical conditioning and a review of basic military subjects, is spent at the Ranger base. Purpose of the orientation is to familiarize Army commanders with the Ranger course and what they may expect from men under their command who have taken the training, according to Lt. Col. Lewis L. Copley of Durham, N. C., who is the commanding officer of the Ranger Department. Among those who were expected were Major Gen. E. B. Sborne, deputy commander of the First Army; Brig. Gen. O. P. Newman, assistant commander of the Ninth Infantry Division; Col. H. N. Scamler, commander of the 27th Regimental Combat Team; and Col. W. V. Marta of First Army's G-3 Section. Major Gen. Floyd L. Parks, commander, will head the Second Army's list of visitors. He will be accompanied by Major Crying Towels Needed... Page 17 New Red Caps... Page 17 (Please See RANGER, Page 20)

$$$$ Waiting For AF Contest Winner

There's going to be a pretty pile of money going to the winner of the 45th Troop Carrier Wing's contest to establish an emblem for itself. And in addition to the cash prize of $100 the contest winner will be recommended for a three-day pass. Emblem designs, it was announced, should reflect the tactical mission of the wing, show originality and simplicity, and conform to other requirements outlined in the contest rules. As an aid, the following notes on the wing's history are given. The wing was formerly the 464th Bombardment Group (H), organized in 1942 and shipped overseas for World War II service with the 15th Air Force. The group participated in the campaigns of Southern France, Po Valley, North Apennines, Rome and Northern France and Air Combat, SAME theater. The wing was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation for action over Austria, 7 July 1944, and Czechoslovakia, 23 to 24 August, 1944.

Connelly Recalls Life as 'Guard'

If there were an MOS calling for a "professional guard and trouble-shooter extraordinaire," Officer Candidate Martin Connelly of the 2d Co. Company would be the successor of this title. Connelly's experiences have ranged from pulling guard duty at the Waldorf Astoria hotel to accompanying over five million dollars worth of paintings across an ocean. Shake well and add duties as honor guard for a President and his cabinet and operations sergeant for an Infantry Regiment in Korea and you have what might be termed "an eventful life." Candidate Connelly was born in Boston, Mass. in 1926. Upon graduation from high school in 1944 he joined the Army and saw combat service with the 17th Engineer Regiment in Italy. Immediately upon cessation of hostilities, he was assigned as a military policeman in Florence. After 10 months of duty in the Mediterranean Theater, he was recalled to the States and assigned to the 71st Military Police Battalion at Fort Belvoir, Va. It was while assigned to this unit that he had the honor of being guard for the Council of Foreign Ministers, which convened at the Waldorf late in 1946. There Connelly lived in "high style," brushing elbows with some of the foremost architects of world history. Upon termination of the foreign ministers meeting, Connelly was assigned to the Third Infantry Regiment in Washington, D. C. His duties included honor guard at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and special escort to the President and his cabinet. Connelly remembers his conversations with General Eisenhower, ex-President Truman, and ex-Secretary of State Marshall. In 1949 Connelly acted as special guard for a group of German paintings, valued at over five million dollars. He accompanied these on their return trip to Germany following a showing in the States.

Silver Bars Given Officers in 1st SR Three 30th Units Have New Weapon Carriers

Two officers assigned as students with the 30th Infantry, First Student Regiment, have been promoted to 1st Lieutenant. They are B. Taylor and William H. Blackwood. Lt. Taylor, whose home is in Johnsons city, Tex., has been in the Army since 1939. During World War II he saw service in the Pacific as a platoon sergeant. He received his commission in 1952 after spending five years as a first sergeant with the Military Police at Fort Devens, Mass. Lt. Blackwood served with the 26th Infantry during World War II. He enlisted in the Army in 1942 and graduated from OCS in February 1946, earning his paratrooper wings a month later.

Btry C Wins 2d 41st Mess Plaque
 When Mess Sgt. Clay Williams, Battery C, 41st FA Bn, accepted the CTC Best Mess award for July, he vowed that his dining hall would win the award for the successive three months. Last week, Williams moved one step closer to his goal when Battery C captured the award for the second consecutive month. The unit that received the honor the greatest number of times a year gains permanent possession of the plaque. With four months remaining this year the battery is tied with "M" Company, 30th Inf. Regt., with three apiece.

NEW ASSISTANT S-4
 CWO Albert H. Jackson has been appointed as assistant S-4, Headquarters Company, Third Battalion and has assumed duties as assistant S-4. CWO Jackson was formerly with Company K, 50th Infantry Regiment.

Three units of the 30th IRT are now sporting the latest in the army's new trucks. Heavy Weapons Company of the 30th, "D", "H" and "M" companies each received four new one-quarter ton trucks recently. These vehicles will replace the old quarter ton, known the world over as "deeps" and are especially designed to carry the Infantry's new 160mm Recoilless Rifle. A stronger load has been designed to support the weight of the tube in front and strongest support for the breach in the rear. Other modifications include several changes on the power plant and the overall appearance.

"M" Company of the Third Battalion has already had their new quarter-ton converted to carry the 160mm rifle by the Ordnance Department at Sand Hill and plan to use them on school problems. Currently they have been using 105's from the Post Weapons Pool for this problem. Capt. Jack M. Tomlinson, company commander of "M" company, stated that the 105 produces a much better problem than the 105's which had been used until recently. These four 105's are now TOE to the Heavy Weapons Company of the Infantry Regt., and replace two of the four 105mm rifles now in the organization. M Company, is the first unit on the post and may be the first unit in the Third Army to have these weapons attached as TOE to their organization. Crews for these vehicles have been selected from "M" Company.

Join Fight Against Rumors

One of the most harmful and least recognized facts of the Army must combat is the rumor. And the most distressing fact about the Army's battle is that the majority of rumors are born within its own ranks.

Ever since the beginning of time when man communicated by word of mouth, rumors have crowded their way into the facts to distort the truth. In many instances, the rumors have done ones suffered through anxious days and months before the Army made the record straight.

The same problem was evidenced in World War when it was the story of German ingenuity in devising weapons resulted in a general fear of the Nazi potential. The Army quickly and wisely turned this "fear" into a healthy respect for the German's power, and this nation went ahead to consistently outclass the "supermen" in equipment as well as fighting spirit.

Rumors usually originate when there is some question to be answered. When the answer is not readily available, people begin to speculate and create their own answers. The form these ru-

Citizenship Achieved in Army

Almost every soldier knows of the benefits afforded him both during and after his military service. USAFI, a college education, loans, and free medical care are just a few. But how many know that duty with the Armed Forces can reward some men with the most precious gift of all — American citizenship?

One soldier who does is Pvt. Johann Ruf, a student with the 17th Company, First Student Regiment.

Pvt. Ruf is a native of Germany. He came to the United States 11 months ago from the continent which has seen death and destruction. His contact with the occupation forces in Europe convinced him that the "American Way of Life" was not a myth at all, but a reality.

He has been assigned to the 17th Company, First Student Regiment. He has been assigned to the 17th Company, First Student Regiment.

Lt. John Cullum Given Top Role in 'Story'

Lt. John C. Cullum will play one of the leading roles in the Fort Benning Little Theatre Story, Philip Barry's popular sophisticated comedy scheduled for October 19-16 at the Main Post Theater.

Assigned to Company D of the First Transportation Battalion, Cullum has an extensive background in stage and radio production. He was a drama major at the University of Tennessee, playing leads in such productions as "The Merchant of Venice" and "The Taming of the Shrew." He was also an actor for the University of Tennessee radio station as well as a participant in experimental radio there.

In addition to his numerous dramatic roles, Lt. Cullum is a talented performer in musical comedy. He was leading actor in the Knoxville civic production of "Up In Central Park." He is a trained radio dancer and has appeared in various ballet productions with the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra. Lt. Cullum is a member of the Fort Benning Chapter Choir.

Lt. Cullum is also known for his ability as a tennis player. He won the Post Tennis Championship and played with the Army tennis team in the recent matches at West Point, N.Y.

This is Lt. Cullum's first appearance with the Fort Benning Little Theater. He will see action in the role of King Carter, the fast-changing news reporter with whom the beautiful and beautiful actress, including beautiful roadshows.

FROM PENNSYLVANIA CRIMINAL WORK HERE "Midge" Enck, Civilian Typist, Makes Big Switch

Skater Tackles Typist Job In Second Student Regiment

A recent "addition" to Second Student Regiment is diminutive "Midge" Enck, civilian typist for S-2 and S-3, who hails from Philadelphia, Penn. She came to Fort Benning with her husband, A-3 Donald P. Enck, who is currently assigned to the utilities shop of the A.I.O. Squadron, Lawson Field.

The Encks are both roller skating enthusiasts and have participated in several amateur roller skating competitions. Ironically,

10th OC Takes Top Awards

BY CAPT. EMERSON BIERE
The 10th Officer Candidate Company, First Officer Candidate Regiment, commanded by First Lt. A. J. Dielens, has added the Brigade Safety Plaque to its list of winning awards, and the safety council has named it for the second consecutive month.

The safety program within the brigade is a continuing award, passing from unit to unit, and the awarding of it is based on the overall safety record of the competing companies for an entire month. Also considered is the display within each unit that are prepared to keep before the men in that organization a ready reminder to be safety conscious at all times.

Tenth OCS Company has a long line of first, though, that go along with this, and only now have they reached their climax. For soon the company will graduate and the unit will no longer be eligible to enter the competitions.

Other notable accomplishments:

are: Winner of the Regimental Safety Award for two consecutive months; Winner of the Regimental Best Mess Plaque for two consecutive months; Winner of the Regimental Singles and Doubles Rowing Championship for September; Winner of "Line Company" designation in a Regimental Parade in July this year; the recipient of every six months; Company furnishing the winning entrants in the Regimental Safety Contest and the Safety Slogan Contest; and last but by no means a small accomplishment, the company in the OC Regiment with the highest overall average in the Physical Training Test, a mighty 577 point average.

In commenting on this long line of firsts, Lt. Dielens was quick to point out that he as company commander deserved none of the credit. The candidates in the company have been the real fire behind all of the awards, and once they got the winning feat in their blood, there was no stopping them.

The safety council of the company under the chairmanship of OC Dock and his six assistants have done a remarkable job in making the company safety conscious. Not only did they arrange a winning display in the Company Day Room, they insisted through their platoon representatives to set up small safety displays in each of the company barracks, and, as a final touch, secured a wrecked automobile to put on display in the company depot. The OC Regiment has a duty to further remind such companies of the perils awaiting the careless driver on the highway.

Col. Harry M. Grizzard, company commanding officer of the Officer Candidate Regiment, was so pleased with the idea of displaying the wrecked automobile that he had the vehicle moved to a prominent place of display at the entrance to the regimental area.

FIRST SARGE TURNS MAIL ORDERLY DURING FIELD PROBLEMS Sgt. Jerry W. Smith Does It Out During Company B, 508th Bivouac

'Twasn't Too Bad Bivouac Breaks Barracks Blues

A soldier in the field lives pretty much the same as he does when sleeping in a barracks. About the only difference is that he spends more time out of doors and he sleeps without the comfort of a bed.

Paratroopers of the 508th Airborne found this was true when recently they spent more time in pup tents than they did between sheets in their Sand Hill barracks.

They also discovered that except for the close quarters, their Army life remained relatively unchanged. Of course, they didn't have hot showers and they used their mess kits for eating, but on the whole they claim a week in the field is not a bad deal at all.

During the week, units of the 508th took part in exercises, toned up their map reading ability, improved their knowledge of communication on first aid. All this was in addition to many hours study passes and picked up additional information on first aid.

534th Signal Co. Digs To Wire Laying Record

According to Second Lt. Ronald P. Russell, of the 534th Signal Company (Construction), the company so far has not found any job too difficult to handle. What the men can't do, the machines do in a stride.

He was speaking about the award the company received for the record of wire laying in the construction of a 27 mile open wire line from Camp Mackall to Fort Benning. This three million dollar job was expected to take at least three months, but the 504th did it in 49 days.

In those seven weeks the company drilled enough post holes—10,000—so that they could be driven in if they were all combined—would be deeper than any known oil well and set enough poles to reach from here to LaGrange. To top it all off the men strung some ten miles of wire on the poles.

The entire project, from survey to turning on the power, was done by the 534th in only seven weeks.

This is the only operational signal construction company in the Third Army area. It is completely self sufficient, except for supply, and is organized so that each of the platoons can operate as a separate unit when working in isolated places. Each platoon even has its own cooks and field kitchen.

The company has nearly seven million dollars worth of equipment, ranging from hammers and nails to delicate signal instruments and heavy construction vehicles in the motor pool.

One of the company's intriguing pieces of equipment is its automatic earth auger, or post hole digger, which was used to dig the holes in North Carolina. There are three of them, and Lt. Russell said that they have "dug enough holes to reach almost halfway to China."

Organized in January 1952, the 534th was given the mission of maintaining all open wire lines on the Fort Benning reservation, receiving instruments from the Post Signal Office. At present the company is building an underground cable on Hook Range.

OC Hall Relates Story Of Wide Open Spaces

Shades of the rugged pioneer days are brought to mind when one considers Officer Candidate William W. Hall of Ninth OC Company. A man possessed of the untamed wilds, twice. He tested the length of the Mississippi in a canoe and liked the Appalachian trail from Maine to Georgia.

Hall arranged for a travel agency to supply him with a canoe in return for publicity and set out to conquer the wilds of the Mississippi. He started out from his hometown of East Liverpool, Ohio, and followed the Ohio River into the Mississippi and went down the river to the Gulf of Mexico.

His trip was punctuated with numerous hair-raising incidents. Among them were the capsizing of his canoe in mid-river during a storm and an encounter with razor-back hogs. Among Hall's souvenirs were keys to 30 cities and memories of his six-week struggle with 1700 miles of water. His trip culminated in New Orleans with an interview with Governor Earl Long.

Soon after his Mississippi adventure Hall hiked from the base of Mt. Katahdin in Maine to Georgia. Highlights of the trip included stumbling over a Diamond Back rattlesnake and a night spent with a wildcat clawing at his pup tent. Four months after he had set out

Medic Honored, Leaves Post

Capt. Manuel D. Altamirano, formerly of Guayaquil, Ecuador, has received a letter of appreciation from The Infantry Center commander for his "superior work" at the hospital here.

Maj. Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., made the presentation last Friday, citing the Army medical technician for his work as hospital laboratory officer and his "cooperation in research problems with doctors in both the medical and obstetrical services."

Capt. Altamirano, who has been here for more than three years, left Monday for Camp Stoneman, Calif., for assignment to the U. S. Army Hospital there.

A veteran of Japan and Korea, he was one of four medical specialists sent to Warner Robbins, Ga., when a tornado struck that city last April. He received a commendation from the Air Force for his relief work there.

While at The Infantry Center, Capt. Altamirano was instrumental in the hereditary blood disease research program.

New Addition

Cigars were presented to the CTC Public Information Office last week by Lt. Dusty Miller, 508th Tank Company, because of an addition to his family.

Lt. Miller and his wife, Jean, became parents of an eight-pound five-ounce boy last week and have named him Dusty Miller III.

Remember The Date! OCTOBER 8 THE BAYONET

Fort Benning's 35th Anniversary!

The pageant of 35 years of history will pass in review through the pages of the October 8, 1953 edition of The Bayonet.

Fort Benning, mighty infantry center, celebrates its 35th Anniversary this year, and we're publishing a special edition to celebrate it!

You'll be amazed to see how your post grew from a small collection of tents to the huge infantry center it is today. Your unit's story will be there too. Every unit and every department that has contributed to Fort Benning's growth will be mentioned.

Non-Coms Stage Staff Review

A bit of the "Old Army" was revived here last week when the Infantry School Detachment held the first in a series of "alienist" reviews. A group of the unit's and "Capture the Flag." Also included in the program was a course in safety education.

M-Set. William H. Ryan, ISD sergeant-major, acted as detachment commander. The parade adjutant was M-Set. Albert Miller of St. Joseph, Mo. Others in the reviewing party were M-Sgt. Don Voss, of Walnut Cove, N. C., and Sgt. William H. Marlowe of Gainesville, Ga.

Acting company commanders were first sergeants of Companies B, C, F, and H.

The idea for the review, which has been endorsed by Col. Donald Washington, detachment commander, originated at a character guidance meeting of noncommissioned officers.

LET US SHOW YOU EXACTLY WHY IT PAYS TO SWITCH TO MERCURY

DISCOVER YOUR SAVINGS ON ORIGINAL COST

You get more money for your present car. Mercury's soaring popularity lets us operate at a higher volume, lower profit per deal. We can afford to give far-better-than-average trade-in allowances.

You get more new car for your money. Mercury prices start below some models of "low-priced" cars. Yet you get luxury features unmatched in cars costing far more than Mercury! You even save on optional power features—up to 22% on power steering! And only Mercury in its class offers you a 4-way power seat that adjusts up and down as well as back and forth.

SEE HOW YOU SAVE ON OPERATING COST

You save by the mile. Compare Mercury's past 4-year record for economy (with overdrive) in official tests. (We'll be glad to show you the figures.) You'll discover that no other car can match its consistent record. You save by the gallon. You can use regular gasoline. You save by the year. Mercury's stamina cuts maintenance to a rock-bottom low. (91% of all Mercury ever built for use in this country are still on the road!)

COMPARE FUTURE SAVINGS ON TRADE-IN VALUE

Mercury consistently tops its class for trade-in value. (We have authoritative market reports that prove it.) The reason? People recognize extra value. They know that Mercury's year-ahead styling will protect their investment best by staying newer-looking longer. They know that Mercury's performance is proven V-8 performance—for Mercury is the only car that has always used V-8 engines exclusively.

Why not stop around at our showroom, or phone us, today? Let us show you exactly—with figures, features, and at the wheel—why it will pay you to make your next car a Mercury.

Big Turnout For First Fights

Rucker Wins Five Of 8 Matches

The Fort Benning fight crowd got a preview last week of what can be expected during the forthcoming Infantry Center boxing season when the 508th Airborne played host to the Camp Rucker Rebels at Gowdy Field.

The 508th Airborne will travel to Camp Rucker this weekend for a return go with the 47th Division fighters. The regular Benning boxing season will open on the 22nd of this month.

Camp Rucker won five of the eight matches, one of which was a knockout victory. However, most observers of the slightest agree that all the Rebel boxers, who have been fighting for a number of months and are in tip-top shape, were underclass.

The Red Devils, supplemented by one boxer from the First Student Regiment, were good in the ring. However, even though they were fighting three two-minute rounds, the majority of the paratroopers were out of shape.

Top Flight

The top fight of the evening was the one affair featuring Jesse Flores, Red Devils runner-up to the Fort Benning lightweight championship, and Leon Nelson, Rucker's leading lightweight.

Flores, who could easily win the post's popularity contest if he wished, knocked Nelson through the ring ropes and almost into Judge Curtis Cooper's lap during the third round of their match. The Rebel fight coach did not allow Nelson to climb back in so Flores was awarded a technical knockout in 1:30 of the third stanza.

Both Nelson and Flores were pretty evenly matched with the Rebel lightweight maybe having a slight edge due to his previous bouts this year. Flores, not in the best condition, slipped in and under Nelson's defense. Prior to knocking him out of the ring, the 508th lightweight sent Nelson down for an eight count.

Second Lieutenant William K. Lawrence bends up the coaching staff of the School Brigade-Medical RAMS football team for the '53 season. Coach Lawrence served in a coaching capacity last year as the coach under Head Coach Gustafson.

Lawrence is no new-comer to the sport of football though he played with Columbia Military Academy and Mississippi Delta State College prior to entering the Army. While at Columbia Military Academy, he was named All Mid-South Center for two years in a row. From the Academy, he went on to play (Please See BRIGADE, Page 15)

Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame, is a happy-go-lucky fellow compared to the Combat Training Command's football coach Jim Hetti.

A paper line and a backfield that is doubtful if the CTC will be able to muster eleven men to take the field for the opener.

Skeeters Were A'humming In Final Shoot Of Year

BY COL. W. K. DUDLEY

Skeet shooting is not new at Fort Benning. This fine sport has been here since April, there has been held a well attended registered shoot.

In each of these monthly competitions, Lewis class system rules apply. Following the shoot, scores are arranged in order of excellence: high scores first, low scores last. They are then divided into as many groups as there are classes.

Beginning in March of this year, however, a few enthusiasts determined to wage a campaign to revive interest in the center gun. The efforts bore respectable fruit, with the result that one Sunday

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Lester Dinoff

DEAR STAN, I happened to be present at both baseball games played by the Fort Benning Doughboys at Fort McPherson over the weekend. I have never seen a team take a field that possessed more sportsmanship than your Doughboys. Several decisions made by the umpire were most definitely wrong, but not one complaint nor ruckus took place.

I might add that Fort Benning won the first game and it was one of the finest games played here this year. Fort McPherson won the second.

Please pass on to the captain of your team and ask that he pass on to the members of the team the admiration we have for all of them and their true American sportsmanship. With very best wishes, I am

Sincerely,
A. R. Bolling

This above letter, which was shown to me by Lt. Col. Kenneth Grimes, Special Services Officer, was addressed to Maj. Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander. The Doughboys have closed out this season with a three and twelve record during the last four games that the team played, the Doughboys split with Fort Mac and Camp Rucker behind the pitching of Ted Heitschmidt and (surprise) Horace Conaso.

Gen. Meloy added his own commendation to the remarks by Gen. Bolling, Third Army commander. He asked that Col. Grimes extend to the Doughboys "my own personal thanks for acquitting themselves in such a sportsmanlike way."

Everything seemed to be going wrong last Thursday evening at the 508th Airborne and the Camp Rucker boxing team. The ring was suddenly thrown into darkness when the lights failed. Then, a few rounds later, the ropes sagged. A chain underneath the ring snapped, etc. Out of these chains of events, most likely the right crowd will be yelling all season long. Put the lights on!

It seems that the opening game of the 1953 Fort Benning Football League is earmarked for Doughboy Stadium. Special Services sports officer, Capt. Elmer Kinisky tries to be the opener between Combat Training Command the 508th Airborne, staged at Columbus Memorial Stadium, but the plans fell through. So be at Doughboy Stadium on Sept. 27th at 2 p.m.

For those who plan to take in the 1953 World Series, here is some news. A box seat will cost $10 and reserved grandstand seats $8. This boost in ticket prices is under consideration by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Ex-PIO for the School Brigade, Hank Reed, presently working with the Municipal Golf Course in Birmingham, Ala., will keep in touch. He submitted to me a story about a dyed-in-the-wool golfer, Cpl. Samuel Hampton of the Magic City.

Hampton, assigned to Service Company, First Student Regiment, earned a 549-345-415 in the Labor Day Tournament. He came back to Fort Benning full of brag and happily exhibiting a half dozen golf balls.

The 508th Airborne boxing team has a "Mighty Night." Cpl. William J. Duggan is the smallest (tweeper) and the lightest fighter. In his stocking feet, Duggan stands five feet, two inches, and weighs 112 pounds. According to Coach Emory Albright, Duggan looks like a natural born fighter in training.

The Combat Training Command Horse Show Tournament ended last week at Patten Field with the 198th Infantry winning taking the doubles and Hqs. & Hqs. 30th Infantry attaining the singles. Jerry Patrone and Arthur Lamont teamed up to beat Jerry Laftins and Gene Leroy two out of three for the doubles crown. John Warren outlasted Arthur Smith in a best of three games to take first place in the singles competition.

The Red Devils also conducted an intra-unit Horseshoes meet. After the funds and a steady falling stock ended, M-Sgt. Jay McAnuly won the singles event and teamed with M-Sgt. Leory Brusseaux to win the doubles.

Coach Frank Hartley, the guiding spirit behind Special Troops Command pugilistic squad, is quite sure that the Rebels will retain their Fort Benning boxing superiority once again. He also stated, after seeing the 508th-Rucker matches, that the opponents of CTC will know that they have been in a boot after meeting Hartley's trainees.

Lewisson Air Force Base is conducting a softball tournament and leading so far is the 77th Squadron. Chuck Olson, former Flyer shortstop, is now on leave being a new papa.

F & G Assn. Plans Big Session For Sportsmen

Just as the young man's fancy and stockage, woods lore, safely turns to thoughts of love in the Springtime, the thoughts of the outdoor man are directed to well-stocked fields and streams in the Fall.

At Fort Benning, plans are already underway for special events and tournaments which will lure many sportsmen into the woods. The Fish and Game Maintenance Association has announced plans for its annual Dove Shoot and is currently working on plans for a Deer Hunt, Turkey Shoot and Fish and Skish Tournament.

The association, which has a long history, is a federal license to hunt and fish on the reservation and rent association boats at a nominal fee. Besides this, many hunters have the added satisfaction of knowing that the funds they have received from their dues insure such things as game management, rodent control, pond maintenance

When the leaves turn crimson and the air takes on a nip and the woods call out their chant which no true sportsman can ignore, it is a good thing to pay tribute to the men who seek to keep the forests and streams of Benning the way Nature intended. The only requirements that the Fish and Game Maintenance Association set up for membership is that persons applying be members of the armed services stationed at Fort Benning, their immediate families or certain veterans selected under criteria established by the Commanding General and that they have a genuine love of the outdoors and a desire to preserve its timeless beauty.

Now is a good time to join—now all these special events are coming up—events which all hunters and fishermen want to know about. If you are not a member, contact the Association office across from Block 12, NCO Mess or call 3215.

Members of the 1953 U. S. Army Rifle team won special certification for their marksmanship in the International Aggregate, one of the matches at the National Rifle Association High Power Rifle Matches at Camp Perry, O.

The Army winners were Capt. Mervale O. Belson of Macon, Ga., who finished eighth with 660 out of a possible 800 points; M-Sgt. Francis B. Conway, Jr., of Worcester, Mass., who finished in 18th place with 676 points; and Capt. William S. Brophy of New Hampshire, who placed 24th with 676 points.

The winner of the International Aggregate was Emmett O. Swanson of Minneapolis, Minn., a Lt. Col. in the Marine Corps. Swanson scored 734 out of a possible 800 points to win the Master Trophy and a trophy picture.

A total of 35 shooters representing 25 per cent of the 140 International entries, received honors in the match. These men include the three Army shooters who had obtained the highest total scores.

The International Rifle Association Match and the Navy Cup Match. The next most important match in the week-long tournament is the President's Match. The results of this match, added to the scores of three other events will produce the 1953 National Rifle Association Service Rifle National Champion.

Capt. John W. Kolb of Little Rock, Ark. Infantry Center champion and member of the Army team, entered this match in fourth place, three points behind Marine M-Sgt. Maxim K. Heebe.

In service weapon shooting, Army shooters failed to make as impressive a performance as they did in the early part of the tournament. However, nine fifters did score high enough to finish within the first ten. All of the winners will receive bronze medals.

In the Marine Corps Match, sixth, seventh, and eighth place were won by Army shooters from the Alaska and Fifth Army teams. Each of them scored 97 out of a possible 100 points, losing to the match winner, Arnon E. Bol of Hummelton, Va., who fired a perfect score.

In the same division, service rifle, of the Leech Cup Match, third, fourth and fifth places were taken by Army shooters. One Army rifleman, a member of the fourth team, finished among the top ten scorers in the service weapon division of the Sport Trophy. He was Lt. Col. John H. Belles.

Finishing in eighth place, Col. Belles fired a 98 out of a possible 100 beating out Marine PFC. Damon R. Austin of Paris Island, S. C.

Secretary Of Army Lauds Pistol Team

The Army Pistol Team, which trained here under the direction of Lt. Col. Ellis Lea of Charleston, Va., has received "warm congratulations" from the Secretary of the Army for dominating the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

The team, which included three Fort Benning officers, won 59 individual prizes, the national 32-caliber team championship and a National Trophy team title.

Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens lauded the team for "exceptional performance" against crack shots from the Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and civilian teams.

The Army team, coached and captained by Lea, was selected and trained at Fort Benning in July and August.

Other Fort Benning officers on the team included Capt. Frederick J. Keifer, CWO Robert E. Knight, and Capt. Ralph W. Anthony.

Lea placed sixth in the National Trophic Individual Match, Knight was 16th, Keifer 46th and Anthony 50th. The Army team placed second in the National Rifle Association

GG Champion Trains With CTC Boxers

Hermen Hinton, Golden Glove Champion, is now training daily with the Combat Training Company boxing squad in the 30th ROT arena.

Holder of the 112-pound Golden Glove crown in 1950, Hinton moved up into the 118 pound class in 1951 and took the diamond belt at the AAU boxing tournament in Philadelphia in 1953 at Evansville, Indiana, he defeated all in this class to retain the title.

He has fought as an amateur in Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston in AAU boxing tournaments and expects to continue his climb upwards in the coming Fort Benning bouts on 24 September.

Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, 30th Inf. Regt., last week saw Sgt. Felton Jackson, the unit's major sergeant, reinitiated for six years.

When asked to comment on the prospects of his current team, and Post Championship defenders, the crying towel came out and was brandished freely. Coach Lawrence commented at great length on the lack of depth, but seemed more than pleased on the prospects of his backfield, and especially halfbacks. Three players stand out at the present time in this position.

When asked to comment on the season coming so soon, he said: "I have no predictions to make as regards the outcome of the football season. I have no word on the strengths or weaknesses of the other teams in the league, but I feel sure that the league will be very evenly matched and the brand of ball played will be excellent. My greatest worry now is my lack of depth in some of the positions."

Coach Lawrence hopes to keep the injuries to a minimum. The Troops Command Green Wave.

Helping Coach Lawrence in the coaching department is his Bill Thuston, who played tackle on the squad of last year. Bill Stetler, center, from last year, and Lin Jordan, All-Post end of last year's squad.

In closing "Bill" expressed the hope that his team of 1953 would repeat the performance of the 1952 RAMS of the last two seasons and bring a third Post Football Championship to rest with the Brigade-Medics football squad.

YOU'LL "GET HOME" FASTER BY THE NUMBERS

It's always a treat to "get home"—whether by plane, train or telephone. And usually, the faster the better.

That's why it's helpful to call by number when you make your visit by Long Distance telephone. When you give the operator the out-of-town number, she doesn't have to consult "Information" in the city you're calling and you'll "get home" faster.

You'll find out-of-town directories for frequently called cities at each telephone center. These centers are located at the Main Post, Sand Hill and Hanesway Check area.

And remember, it's better for you to call the folks back home instead of their calling you, since you may be hard to locate. Charges can be reversed.

Skeeters

Link—73 x 100; C Class Runner—50 x 120.

As an interest developing side light, the best guns among the regulars have represented Fort matches with other teams. It took a little time for our people to get choken down, but as you read in last week's issue, we finally cleaned up handily against some top flight competition. We have no closed team. There is a skeet ladder and when a team is required the top men on the ladder represent the group unless one or more individuals are in a slump in which case the next best man is chosen.

Present plans call for opening of the range each Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m., and each Sunday morning at 9 a.m. through the winter providing attendance justifies. The range is available to all military personnel and their dependents. Government ammunition is issued to service personnel. Ammunition is available for sale to dependents and bona fide house guests. A fee of 50¢ per round is charged all shooters to defray expenses (tripp attendance, etc.).

At the close of the hunting seasons next March, monthly registered shoots will again be held and in May the annual club championship match is scheduled. This annual event is of major interest to all shooters. It resembles a no handicap golf tournament, in that high scores determines the club champion, however, all shooters are teamed in classes according to their skills and the shoot offers an opportunity for everyone to compete against men of comparable ability. Old timers are placed in the class determined by their previous average, while the new men establish their class in his first and third rounds of the tournament.

Here is one sport where the novice can be assured of top notch coaching by experts free of charge. No new shooter is ever ridiculed at skeet, and no new shooter can make errors long before a friendly and helpful advice is forthcoming. Gun safety is rigidly and firmly enforced, and courteous, friendly treatment of the new man is an unwritten law of the sport.

If you have ever had the desire to learn how to handle a shot gun, you have a splendid opportunity at the Fort Benning Skeet Club near Hook Range. If you're an old bird hunter and would like to get in trim for the Quail season, come out with your pet gun and get reacquainted.

Yours for better shooting. The Skeet Committee.

said in a letter to all Fort Benning parents:

Traffic accidents are always tragic and are even more distressing and wasteful when children are the victims.
It is pointed out that traffic kills more than 4,000 children under 15 years of age each year and injures 20,000 more. With the opening of school, this hazard is a greatly increased, he declared, urging greater care and more constant vigilance by parents, motorists and children.

Motorists Parking
Gen. Meloy also has asked that motorists park their cars in drive-ways or garages rather than on the street and that drivers check on and behind their cars before backing. He also asked parents to teach their children to play in off-street areas and to "instill in them an attitude of respect and obedience to pedestrian traffic rules."

Fort Benning, however, has an enviable child safety record, according to Evans. "In the eight years I have been here only one child has been killed in a traffic accident, and very few injured. If we are to maintain this record, parents, motorists and children must become safety conscious," the safety director declared.

THE BAYONET

VOL. 12 NO. 1 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1953 Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. for America's Most Complete Army Post

Twenty-four Pages

With the end of Summer and the slowing away of the last baseball games, football once again has taken a dominating role in Fort Benning's sports parade.

Sunday the post grid schedule gets under way when the 50th Airborne and Combat Training Command collide at 2 p.m. in Doughboy Stadium. This year's race is expected to be a close and tight one right down to the final wire. Besides the inaugural teams STC-15D-Lawson AFB and School Brigade-PMG will field teams.

The photos show members of Sunday's opponents brushing up on the fine points of the game. On top Melvin Boykin literally lifts the air between Commanders James Vestor, Newsome, left, and Mel Anglen. In the bottom pit Charles Stewart shows how to fly over Hansen Owen Mudd, left, and Ronald Jersey to pick up needed yardage. The top photo was snapped by Cpl. Karl A. Berg while the one on the left was taken by M-Sgt. Joe Wallace. Complete horse, prospect and additional pictures of this year's grid season along with schedules of the post league and nation's colleges will be found in today's Bayonet.

Pfc. Hits 'Jackpot' on TV Show

30th Soldier Tells His Story

Pfc. Francis J. Fanning of Company G, 30th Infantry Regiment, has returned from an experience, one-man invasion of New York City, the proud owner of a huge food freezer, 10 storm windows, a wrist watch, a Cocker Spaniel, and enough food to keep the dog in fine fettle for a solid year.

How come?
Fanning, 21, appeared on the TV show, "Wheel of Fortune," and told millions of viewers the story of his lonely life as an orphan since birth and how he was adopted by a New Jersey family as a result of a hillside incident in Korea.

His parents having died in 1932, the year he was born, Fanning spent virtually all his life in an orphanage until he entered the Army in 1950. It was a year later that he met George Light in Korea. They became buddies, and when Fanning returned to the states he got in touch with George, who had preceded him.

Fanning accepted George's invitation to visit with him and his huge food freezer, 10 storm windows, a wrist watch, a Cocker Spaniel, and enough food to keep the dog in fine fettle for a solid year.

What use has Fanning for storm windows and a food freezer? He's giving them to the Lippel family, with whom he spent 15 days immediately before returning to the post.

The figure represents 75 per cent of those eligible for reenlistment.

Camp Rucker, Ala., was second with 235 reenlistments, or 65 per cent of those eligible, followed by Fort McPherson, Ga., with 22 reenlistments, or 46 per cent of those eligible.

Electronics Officer Assigned to Lawson

Capt. Leo D. Hofelich has been assigned to the 46th Troop Carrier Group at Lawson Air Force Base as group electronics officer. Prior to this assignment, Capt. Hofelich, a pilot, was electronics officer for the 77th Troop Carrier Squadron.

Post Plans Chest Goal Of $47,000

Separate Drive Slated For Civilian Personnel

Fort Benning's 1954 Community Chest drive will kick off Sept. 28, aimed at record goals of $47,000 in contributions and 100 per cent participation by military personnel, Col. H. M. Rund of Champaign, Ill., chairman, said yesterday.

Meanwhile, Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., Infantry Center commander, announced that civilian employees will not be solicited for contributions to this year's fund-raising drive, which closes Nov. 2.

Gen. Meloy said in a letter to T. A. Baroford, chief of the Civilian Personnel Division, that civilian workers for the first time will be asked to donate directly to the United Givers Inc. of Columbus. A separate Community Chest fund campaign for civilians will be conducted at Fort Benning, concurrently with the post drive, however, under the chairmanship of Mr. Baroford, and all contributions will go to the United Givers drive in Columbus. The Army will assume no responsibility for such funds, Gen. Meloy declared.

More than a dozen agencies and organizations will benefit from the Fort Benning Community Chest fund, including Army Emergency

TV Is Tested As Probable Inf. Weapon

TV has gone to war. A new field of stars—the U. S. fighting Infantryman—is being employed at Fort Benning to determine whether the television camera should become a part of the Infantry's equipment.

A 31-man crew attached to the Signal Corps Mobile TV System of Long Island, N. Y., is following Infantry School students into combat problem areas and transmitting the camera's findings back to the main post and Harmony Church.

To judge the value of television for tactical and training purposes, eight exercises will be televised here through the first week in October. The first two-hour program was transmitted last week.

On the filming schedule are such problems as the technique of a

Musicians Plan Night Of Opera

Opera and Operetta Night, sponsored by the Informative Group of Columbus, will be held in the Main Theater at 8 p.m. next Thursday.

The show, which includes scenes from some of the world's foremost opera, operetta and musical plays, will feature talent from Columbus and the post who will sing arias from "Fuglie," "Marriage of Figaro," "Carmen," "Lohengrin," "La Boheme," "Madame Butterfly," and "Pique."

Among the operettas and musical plays will be "The Mikado," "The Brigadoon Fugue" and "Bess, and the Desert Song."

Admission will be free and the public is invited.

675 To Visit From Maxwell

Approximately 675 officers from the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., will arrive Oct. 2 to witness training demonstrations by The Infantry School.

The Air Force unit will begin with an orientation of the Airborne Department, where the visitors will study training methods and equipment used by paratroopers.

After lunch with the airborne Infantrymen, the group will watch a demonstration of types of field artillery fire and inspect all equipment and weapons display.

The officers are scheduled to eat dinner at the post and will spend a night problem of a reinforced rifle company in defense before returning to their base.

Born At Benning M-Sgt. Will Serve As General's Aide

A master sergeant of the Tactical Department who was born at Fort Benning 30 years ago takes over next Monday as enlisted aide to Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander.

Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr. will serve in that capacity for one week as part of a program to orient enlisted personnel on the duties of the commanding general and other post officials. Major Meloy will accompany Gen. Meloy to meetings, special ceremonies, and on inspection tours.

Sgt. Tweed, son of retired M-Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas Tweed, was born in the Army Hospital here in 1923. It was located near what is now the Main Theater.

Sgt. Tweed, who had retired in 1946 after serving at Benning since 1919, went through elementary school on the post. He recalls that Gen. Meloy was a captain then and Mrs. Meloy was in charge of the school playground.

He also remembers that when he was 15 his father ran the Infantry School units on Sunday mornings. He has been on bird hunts with such well known military figures as Gen. George C. Marshall, Gen. Omar N. Bradley and Gen. Courtney H. Hodges. His relatives also include Gen. George Patton when he was assigned here.

In December 1950 he followed in his father's steps and entered the Regular Army.

From May 29, 1943, to Dec. 4, 1945, Sgt. Tweed served in Europe with the 118th Infantry Regiment, 29th Division and was with his unit when it made the Normandy invasion. Nine days after the invasion he was wounded by a machine gun fire while serving as a rifleman.

Following the war Sgt. Tweed was assigned to Fort Benning for duty with the Range Section, a job he held from March 29, 1946, to May 11, 1950.

He went to Korea in September 1950 and fought with the 77th Infantry Regiment, Seventh Division, until Oct. 20, 1951. He was wounded in action while serving as platoon leader.

The Army sent the sergeant home on Jan. 26, 1952, and he became chief non-commissioned officer of Committee B of the Troop Star Medal, Purple Heart with five stars and Combat Infantryman's Medal, with Star.

His decorations include the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart with five stars, Combat Infantryman's Medal, with Star, and the Army of Occupation Medal.

6 506 Men Receive Conduct Medal

During a company formation Major William J. Kilmer, commanding officer of the 50th Transportation Company (Hqs) awarded the Good Conduct Medal to six men in the company.

The six are mechanics whose duties are to service the H-19 Sikorski Helicopter used here in support of the Infantry School Division and reconnaissance missions.

Pfc. Leonard A. Geisert of Derby, Col.; Pfc. Louis E. Casner of Norfolk, Mo.; Cpl. Marvin G. Miller of Cokato, Neb.; Cpl. Ralph Schmitt of St. Louis, Mo.; Pfc. John E. Maier of Hill City, Kans., received the ribbons.

3 WACS LEAVE
The WAC Company lost 14 of her girls last week. Pfc. Maxine McCarty was transferred to Camp Stoneman for duties in the Far East. Pfc. Betty Lindsey received orders to Europe and Sgt. Dula McGinnis was assigned to recruiting duty in Nashville, Tenn.

MAJ. W. L. MORRIS Major To Retire From Air Force

Maj. William L. Morris, staff maintenance officer, 66th Air Maintenance and Supply Group, 49th Troop Carrier Wing, Lawson Air Force Base, will retire from active duty Sept. 30.

Major Morris started his Air Force career in the old Army Air Corps in 1929 and took basic training at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. The major served as an enlisted man for 15 years and received a direct commission from master sergeant to second lieutenant in 1942.

During the war years, he served at Pratt Air Force Base, Kansas, as aircraft maintenance officer in charge of maintenance on B-17s and B-24s. In 1946, Major Morris was transferred to Lawson Air Force Base, Alaska, and assigned as aircraft maintenance officer.

Returning to the states in 1948, he was appointed aircraft maintenance officer, Stewart Air Force Base, N. Y. His next transfer was to aircraft maintenance officer, 434th Troop Carrier Wing, Attlebury Air Force Base, Ind. He came to Lawson with the wing in January 1952 with similar duties.

Following his retirement, the major and his wife, Mrs. Lucille Morris, will move to a farm at Springville, Ind., which he purchased when he was stationed at Attlebury Air Force Base, Ind.

Lt. Rhodus Takes School Supervisor
First Lt. T. H. Rhodus of Lexington, Ky., has assumed supervision of all schools operated by the Engineer Section, according to Col. Richard F. Ebbes, post commander. He succeeds Capt. Vernon Cheek of Nashville, Tenn.

The schools give instruction in the operation and maintenance of silicon equipment, space heating and cooking equipment, floor covering, and insect and rodent control.

Sfc. Hunton Assigned To 122nd Army Band
Sfc. Robert M. Hunton joined the 122nd Army Band this week upon his return from Germany where he spent 25 months in the Fourth Division Band.

Hunton was a member of the 72nd Army Band here from 1946 to 1951. In 1951 the band was attached to the Fourth Division and later went overseas with the division. His last appearance here was at the ceremony in November 1951 that was given upon the arrival of the 122nd Band from Cleveland, Ohio, to become the post band.

Sgt. M'Lain Named To ISD Co. E Position
Sgt. John J. M'Lain of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been named operations sergeant of Company E, Infantry School Detachment. A veteran of more than 11 years service, Sgt. M'Lain recently returned from Korea where he served with the 72nd Tank Battalion.

Monkey Makes Meal of Tree; Captain Makes Monkey Flee

"The monkey must go," by a lot of cheeping and chattering. "When do we eat?" But who owns the monkey?"

The question was answered by the top-branch monkey admitted being guardian of the unit's latest addition. However, the "top" failed to mention a few bad habits of the monkey, one of which proved nearly fatal to a cook. A teasing bout with the monkey ended with the cook reaching the kitchen door one jump ahead of the chattering brute.

No objection to the presence of the monkey was voiced by the unit commander, however, until one day he discovered the best making a meal out of the palm tree which sheltered his office door. It was but a small tree, but it had lots of promise until the ravenous simian anthropoid demonstrated a monkey in the attack.

The sentence of doom was pronounced shortly and the last part of the monkey was his departure upon the shoulders of his officer.

Sergeant First Class William R. Holder, Medical Holding Detachment, had his driving privilege revoked on a reckless driving charge. Sgt. Bob L. Humphrey had his driving privilege revoked for driving while under the influence of intoxicants. EM, a member of Company C, Infantry School Detachment.

Enginers To Resume

No Specs Needed Theater No. 11 Will Get 3-D Movie Installation

Cinema will be installed in Theater No. 11 in Harmony Church. The Infantry Center Special Services Section has announced.

The "Spare Parts" Battalion of the 30th Infantry Regiment held its first review before Colonel Frank L. Elder on Tiger Field last Saturday morning.

This battalion, under the command of Major Cecil W. Parks, is composed of Headquarters, Heavy Mortar Company, Service Company, 587th Ordnance Company, 87th Chemical Smoke Generator Company and Medical Company.

Work will begin on the project as soon as all the equipment arrives. The 90-seat theater will show regular five-dimensional films when there are no cinema films available. The new process provides all the innovations of 3-D without the necessity for wearing special viewers.

Weekly Command Conference
"The Soldier and His Money" will be the subject of next week's Command Conference, according to the Post TIA officer.

The talk to be held in units throughout the post is a special program subject which was prepared by the TIAE section and is presented quarterly. It deals with financial problems the soldier is most likely to face.

ARE YOU a weak link? IN THE CHAIN OF SECURITY?

There are men, who working under the direction of God, have caused the course of history to the world down through the ages. And yet, God's voice hasn't been sent to a select few. He has made his presence felt to all men in all parts of the world from the beginning of time. God has revealed himself in one way or another to all his children - not a particular race, or a select nationality, or even one faith.

A good many centuries ago there lived a man whom God was successful in using to carry out his purpose for mankind. Moses was a man who was sensitive to the voice of God and spoke to him one day and informed him as to what he wanted done. Moses at first was thunderstruck over this profound religious experience and began to express reluctance but eventually he responded and such things as the Aurora Borealis or sun spots will at times make him completely dumb. It gets so cold during the winter that a hand taken out of a glove to fire a rifle, will freeze almost before the bullet leaves the muzzle. Another difficulty is the fact that flesh will freeze to cold metal and this makes any kind of metal contrivance hard to handle.

Cpl. 'Twelves' Way To Ripley Strip
Believe it or not, a Fort Benning corporal saw himself in a syndicated newspaper cartoon recently.

Cpl. Robert L. Pierce of Cod Artillery, Ga., returned to Sept. 10 to Robert Ripley's feature "Believe it or Not." And because of the number 12, it seems Pierce was born on the 12th of the month of the year, and he was the 12th child in a family of 12.

The clincher for Ripley: he weighed a bounding 12 pounds. Now assigned to Headquarters Detachment of Fort Benning's School Brigade, the 23-year-old soldier, who works very well since he was 17. And when his present enlistment runs out in 1956 he will be a sergeant - if you guessed it - 12 years.

Nary a Sour Note
This OC Could Sing Commands to His Men

If Officer Candidate John H. Hilliker's first love is singing, he is not alone. First OC Duke University afforded him the opportunity to show his talent to his command, his tactical staff and fellow candidates just smile and nod their heads knowingly.

A man of no mean talents, this candidate from Ashburn, N. C. has combined skill in sports with a golden baritone voice. In spite of his early fame as a local basketball hero in baseball and basketball.

New Problem Aired By 773d Tank Bn.
The H&S Reconnaissance Platoon, 773d Tank Battalion, recently demonstrated a new problem in the tactical use of a recon platoon acting as an enemy at a strong point.

This platoon is the only one of its kind at Fort Benning and its use is called upon to demonstrate the use of armored personnel carriers supporting a tank company.

Heard Through The Ages The Still Small Voice of God

BY CHAPLAIN (44 LT) WILLIAM W. OWEN
Those to whom God speaks are indeed blessed beyond all measure.

JAMES H. DOUGLAS
James H. Douglas was nominated by President Eisenhower to be Under Secretary of the Air Force Feb. 26, 1953. He was sworn into office Mar. 3, 1953.

His was born in Columbus, Ohio, Mar. 11, 1920. During WWI he was on active duty as a second lieutenant of infantry. He was graduated from Princeton in 1942 and from Harvard Law School in 1944 and then began the practice of law in Chicago. This he interrupted in March 1942, for 15 months as a member of the Executive Staff of the Treasury.

Douglas entered the Air Force during WWI as a major and attained the rank of colonel as chief of staff of the Air Transport Command. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. Following his release he returned to his law practice.

In addition to his work with the Air Club, Hiller also attended to participate extensively in extracurricular activities on campus. He was elected as a member of the Duke Chapel Choir and a member of the Alpha Kappa Psi, he was an officer of the camera radio station and assisted in production work.

Upon graduation from Duke, Hiller enlisted in the Army and in 1942 was elected to the Honor Council.

Deadline Extended In Emblem Contest
The deadline for submission of entries for the Achievement of an official emblem for the 464th Troop Carrier Wing at Fort Benning is being extended to Sept. 20 to midnight Oct. 15.

All officers and airmen are eligible to compete with the exception of members of the wing staff and personnel serving as judges.

NEAT STUFF, EH? . . . The well-known "poncho roll" adopted in 1951 by the 508th ARCT because a trooper complained—and designed by Lt. Col. H. V. # MPs Slate Events In Observance Of 12th Anniversary

A parade and review, an open house, a picnic and party are scheduled Saturday by the officers and men of Fort Benning Military Police Company in observance of their 12th anniversary.

The program will start at 10 a. m. with a review at Chapel Field during which Major Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander, will present two Commendation Ribbons and several Good Conduct Medals to military policemen.

Following the review, open house will be held at the Provost Marshal's Office, Military Police Company, and Visitor's Information Center. The public is invited.

In the afternoon the Military Police Company will picnic at a Columbus farm.

Dinner Dance

Officers of the MP's will entertain at a dinner-dance this evening in the Main Officers' Mess. Guests will include Gen. and Mrs. Meloy, Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commander, and Mrs. Fritzsche and Col. Noble Wiley, chief of staff, and Mrs. Wiley.

Although a provost marshal was appointed to the Army after the United Colonies in 1776, it was not until 1941, when Germany and Italy were marching across Europe, that the Military Police Corps was founded.

At Fort Benning the Military Police Platoon, composed of special duty personnel from The Infantry School, was redesignated that year as the Military Police Detachment and its members donned the crossed pistols of the Military Police Corps.

During World War II thousands of MPs were trained by the Army to maintain law and order, protect government property, and prevent and investigate crime.

Fort military policemen are under the jurisdiction of Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald of Ft. Monmouth, N. Y. provost marshal, number 300. These MPs are responsible for the protection of millions of dollars of government property, for directing thousands of vehicles daily, and for enforcing the law throughout the reservation.

Traffic Control

Probably the best known section is the one charged with traffic control, headed by Capt. John A.

MRS. AMERICA 1954 . . .
Only 24 hours after a Pennsylvania beauty was crowned Miss America, Erna Snyder, mother of two sons, was awarded the title of Mrs. America at Asbury Park, N. J. In addition to her title, the lovely Mrs. Pennsylvania wins $10,000 in prizes and a trip to Guatemala with her husband.

'Jockeys' Picked By Service Club 1

Fort Benning enlisted men have selected Daddy Jule and Pete Watkins of Radio Station WFXB, Ralph Burgess of WGRA, and Jimmie Deer of WDAK as their favorite disc-jockeys.

This announcement came Monday when voters were tabulated at the end of a 12-week series of Sunday afternoon contests in service Club No. 1 at which disc-jockeys from four local radio stations appeared.

The four finalists will present a joint record roundup at the Service Club on Sunday when the audience will elect "Fort Benning's Favorite Disc-Jockey-1953." The program will start at 5 p. m.

OFFICER BACK

Capt. Philip J. Frank will resume his position as commanding officer of the Third Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment after being away for four weeks at Fort Benning's Infantry School.

Lawson To Adopt Supply Procedure

Preparations for inauguration of a new supply procedure at Lawson Air Force Base which will pattern the handling of certain classes of supplies after retail store methods were announced today by Col. Lawson, the commander, 464th Troop Carrier Wing.

Three major branches of expendable supplies will be stocked in the store, and the simplicity of handling and issuing these items with retail store methods will result in considerable saving to the government.

Plans for the supply store service will be designed along self-service lines with bins and shelves containing the merchandise and cashiers in the front.

Classes of supplies to be stocked include automotive parts, hardware, plumbing and electrical, and office and janitorial supplies.

Proud Papa

Sgt. Harry Woodruff had to call a halt to the activities of the CTC football squad the other day in order to make a special announcement. Woodruff, working out for a position on the CTC team announced to fellow squad members that on Sept. 2 he had become the proud papa of a baby girl.

Sickening Lurch At Sea

OC Was Aboard Athenia

A sharp explosion and the sickening lurch of a sinking ship are among Officer Candidate John Kurkie's early boyhood memories.

In the memorable year 1939 the shadow of Fascism was spreading over Eastern Europe and the hullabaloo had already left its imprint on Kurkie's homeland, Czechoslovakia. America spelled freedom to the Kurkies and he, with his mother and sister, began the flight out of the country. With great fortune on their side, they made their way through Germany to England.

With numerous other refugees, they booked passage to America on the Athenia. A few days out of port, the ship was attacked by a German submarine and sunk. In the confusion Kurkie was separated from his Mother and sister. Kurkie ended up back in England. His mother and sister were taken to Canada. After three months the family was reunited by the Red Cross.

Thus, at the age when most boys classed touch with war through comic books, Kurkie had been one of the lucky survivors of a first world English ship to be sunk in World War II. Previous to his induction into the Army, Kurkie served with his parents in Gardfield Regiment, OC Company of the First OC

P-TA To Hold First Meeting

The 1953-54 Parent-Teachers Association session will get under way at Fort Benning Monday night with an opening address by Maj. Gen. G. S. Meloy Jr., Infantry Center commander.

Gen. Meloy's remarks will precede a reception at which the 48 teachers in the Fort Benning children's school system will be presented to past parents, according to an announcement by Lt. Col. J. J. Kramers, P-TA committee man in charge of the opening program.

The meeting will be held at the auditorium of Faith School building at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be served following the presentation of teachers.

Parents of children enrolled in schools on the main post or at Custer Terrace are eligible for P-TA membership and are invited to attend all meetings of the association.

Lt. Theodore J. Kopeckowski, Sgt. Raymond Thompson and Pvt. Denver G. Milton all became members within a week's time. P-TA membership goal is "100 percent of the eligible parents at The Infantry Center."

Cupid Scores As 3 Of 10th Go Benedit

Cupid scored again last week with the "marrying off" of three men of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 50th Inf. Regt.

Lt. Theodore J. Kopeckowski, Sgt. Raymond Thompson and Pvt. Denver G. Milton all became members within a week's time. P-TA membership goal is "100 percent of the eligible parents at The Infantry Center."

RETIREMENT SALE!

after 45 years

J. E. HUMES

to retire from business

I have now reached the age in life (77) where I have definitely decided to retire from all business cares. The entire stock of pianos of the Humes Music Company is owned by me, therefore, I have decided to offer our entire inventory of pianos to the public in a great retirement sale.

In this sale, there will be offered piano values that have never been offered elsewhere by anyone—bona fide reductions of hundreds of dollars on every piano in the store. These savings will be so great that it will be to your best interest to come by and select a piano, even though you may not feel the immediate need of one.

We have a large sum due us from installment accounts (pianos previously sold). Some of these accounts have up to twenty months to run. Since this is the case, we will, during this retirement sale, grant up to twenty months to pay on your purchase. There will be no advance of the sale prices, only a nominal carrying charge will be added.

Our stock is made up of the strongest line of pianos manufactured as follows: Steinway, Knabe, Beyerst, Story & Clark, Wurlitzer, Winter, Cable-Nelson, Sterling, etc. All pianos will be marked with the manufacturer's guaranteed list price and from these prices the discounts will be plainly shown.

Non-Coms Build Models

Three enlisted men of the 30th Infantry ICTT built miniature air planes that actually fly.

Sgt. Eugene Goodman, Sgt. Jerome Dragger and Wagon Burd, of Headquarters and First Company, Second Battalion, spent their off-duty hours amid glue pots, paint and razor blades making model fighters and bombers.

Sgt. Draeger has built a training plane which is equipped with a Goldwing gas engine and has a U-Control. This plane takes off, performs stunts and makes a three point landing without a hand touching the miniature controls.

Sgt. Burd has built seven planes, and among these are a Cutless, a Panther Jet and a P-47 Thunderbolt.

Two Appointed To Staff Jobs In Logistics

Two newly assigned Lieutenant colonels have assumed duties with the logistics group of the Staff Department. They are Lt. Col. Joseph V. Smith of Los Gatos, Calif., and Lt. Col. L. Low of Watertown, S. D.

Col. Smith, transportation instructor for the logistics group, succeeds Lt. Col. Earl Brown who has been assigned to overseas duty. He entered the service in 1928 and fought in World War II and in the Korean conflict.

From 1943 to 1945 Col. Smith served with the 131st and the 152th Infantry Regiments in Europe. He was assigned to the Third Logistics Command and the Second Area Command in Korea from 1950 to 1952, when he was ordered to Japan for nine months.

Col. Low, who has 13 years service, fought with the 3rd Infantry Regiment in the Pacific from June 1942 to November 1944 and with the 152th Infantry Regiment in Europe from February 1946 to May 1946. From May 1952 to August 1953 he was assigned to the Military Advisory Group in Formosa.

STC Company Starts Weekly Soldier Awards

From now on it will pay to be a sharp soldier in Company C, First Transportation Battalion, Special Troops Command.

First Lt. Oscar A. Durbin, company commander, has initiated a policy of giving passes to members of the company for being the best soldier of the week on the basis of daily inspections. Also, the best driver of the week is awarded a three-day pass.

To make things interesting the runner up at daily inspections for the week gets a prize. At the end of the week the winner gets a three day pass and the runner up a 48 hour pass.

Post Is Tendered TV Talent 'Invite'

The Infantry Center has received a standing invitation to present Army talent on Columbus' prospective television station, WDAK-TV.

Capt. Dale W. Roby of the Special Services Section has announced that the show's master of ceremonies will hold try-outs each Wednesday night at the Soldier Show Shack on the main post.

The contemplated program will be called "Showboat," and will be premiered Sunday, Oct. 3. It will be a variety show and all talented personnel at Fort Benning are eligible to place their bids for a television appearance.

PIANO LESSONS

The Mann School of Piano will give private lessons in your home on the post and in Battle Park and Benning Hills areas.

ENROLL NOW FOR FALL TERM
Ph. Cols. 7-2830

Sgt. Goodman, has among his collection a suber jet which he is planning on installing a CO2 cylinder which he claims will drive the plane through the air at a tremendous speed.

Burd also is the builder of miniature automobiles and has at the present time a Stanley Steamer, a Stutz Bearcat, a Model T Ford and a Buick Runabout with a mother-in-law seat.

Lt. Esterline Named ISD Co. A Commander

Lt. Gerald Esterline has been named commanding officer of the newly organized Company A of the Infantry School Detachment.

First Sergeant of the unit is M. Sgt. Don J. Voss of Walnut Cove, N. C. A large part of the personnel were reassigned from Company B and Headquarters Detachment.

Other personnel include Second Lt. Daniel F. Braun as executive officer and Pfc. Don Fowler, company clerk.

'OLD FASHIONED' MILITARY WEDDING . . . Held in the Catholic Chapel on the main post last Saturday honored newlyweds Capt. and Mrs. John E. Connolly, who are shown as they hurry under the arch of swords held by officers of the 508th ARCT. The bride is the former Miss Nina Carson, assistant field director of the hospital Red Cross here. The groom is Capt. John E. Connolly, of Headquarters Battery, 320th Abn. FA Bn.

What does "SALVAGE" Mean, Major Jones?

On January 7, 1919, an order was received by Major John Paul Jones to abandon Fort Benning and salvage the equipment. Major Jones interpreted 'salvage' to mean save and he ordered all the building painted. As a result, the investment became too valuable to "salvage" and "Camp Benning" was retained as an Army Post!

Major Jones was no ordinary man. Throughout Benning's early years, he was an important factor in establishing Benning.

The full story of Major Jones and the early days of the Infantry School can be found in the October 8 edition of The Bayonet. The Bayonet is publishing a special edition in honor of Fort Benning's 35th Anniversary.

Red Devils, Chutes

Regimental Tie Adopted

In what is believed to be a move unprecedented in U. S. military circles, the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team is making an entrance into the world of fashion.

Col. George D. Pearson, a commander, has announced the arrival of the new regimental necktie, making the "Red Devils" the first American military unit to officially adopt their own tie design.

It is patterned after the regimental striped tie now favored by distinguished European military units, except that the stripes are being replaced by alternate diagonal rows of white parachutes and red devil heads on a background of dark blue. Woven of silk material and designed by Col. Pearson, it is manufactured by an eastern clothing house.

Radical Departure
Although a radical departure from the standard regimental pattern, the cravat is of a conservative nature and can be worn at formal social affairs.

Deciding last Spring to adopt a standard emblem, Col. Pearson adopted the necktie as a symbol of esprit de corps and as a souvenir of lasting memory for those Red Devil troopers returning to civilian life.

"Every trooper in our combat team has come to us as a volunteer," the colonel said, "and it is fitting and proper that we have a permanent and useful memento of that volunteer service to his regiment."

Novel Step
A novel step to introduce the new ties was a party held recently at the Fort Benning Country Club to which the Post commander, Major General Gus S. Meloy, himself a paratrooper, was invited and made an honorary member of the 508th.

The new ties are available for wear by all present and past members of the 508th and may be had by writing to the commanding officer of the 508th.

The tie's debut at the ballrooms and cafes of Europe probably will be sponsored by Sgt. D. Maurice Florio, who leaves the regiment under the GI Bill of Rights. "I'll sure take a handful with me," he said.

600 Attend Revival
Almost 600 soldiers attended Protestant revival services last week marking the opening of a new troop chapel in the second quarter.

Chaplain (Capt.) Clifford L. Junkins of Falkville, Ala., delivered the sermon each night. Theme of the revival was "Follow Christ." Choirs from Fort Benning, Columbus and Phenix City churches provided music.

Pfcs. Given Contest Awards

Two Pfc. have received $15 as first place winners in a poster and slogan contest on supply economy and cost consciousness.

Pfc. Sydney A. Maxton of Ford, Va., and Pfc. Tom L. Buckingham, of Jacksonville, Texas, were presented checks by Lt. Col. Norman A. Campbell, of Ocean Grove, N.J., Infantry Center commander.

Second place winner was Pvt. Roland A. Markham of Muskegon, Mich., who was awarded $12.50, and third place honors went to Mrs. Dorothy D. Colney, of Columbus, Ga., who received $10.

The first place winners, both of Special Troops Command, designed a poster of Army equipment and its cost. The slogan was "Be Careful. The Dollar You Save May Be Your Own."

Markham's poster showed a plucky hawk with a coin about to be dropped in and a flare shooting from the coin. In the flare were items of Army equipment. The slogan was "It's Money in the Bank."

A civilian throwing money into a waste basket and a soldier in a foxhole was the design of Mrs. Colney's winning poster. Its slogan was "Wasted Money Can Mean Wasted Lives."

WACs Announce Company Changes

Recently assigned to the WAC Company were Sgt. Jacqueline Weaver, who is classification and assignment clerk in Special Troops Command Headquarters, Pvt. Joanna Blom, with Operation Section, Pvt. Evelyn White, with AG Section, and Pvt. Marguerite Grassie with the station hospital.

Captain Margaret Lloyd was transferred to Fort Jackson, S. C., and Private First Class Elias McQuilian was transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C.

Sgt. Elizabeth Gunter, Cpl. Frances Green, PFC Cleo Collette, Cpl. Mercedes Danno, and Pvt. Mattie Reese were discharged. Clarice Trussell, Phyllis Hearn, Sarah Kirkland, Alva Lott, Dorothy and Marian Real, Virginia McQuilian were transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C.

Honorable mention in the contest went to Sgt. James L. Turber, First Student Regiment, M-Sgt. Paul M. Knocir, T1E Pvt. Loring Estenney, of ISD, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Reeves, of Training Publications Department, and M-Sgt. Charles B. Davis.

The poster contest was sponsored by the Office of the Comptroller in conjunction with the Special Services and Public Information Section.

Rub A Dubs Compete In O.C. Regatta

It was Regatta time at the Victory Point "Yacht Club" last week when twenty-two hale and hearty contestants vied for honors in the 1st Officer Candidate Regimental Regatta. Spirits were high and tempers short as eager voters cheered their favorites on to victory. The yachts in the race were speedy Chris Craft rowboats purchased and constructed by the individual companies in the regiment. Bright colored T-shirts and jaunty caps added to the festive nature of the occasion.

Judges and officials were surprised to see the finishing line buoy float away in the midst of the afternoon's festivities. However, quick thinking and characteristic Yankee ingenuity saved the day. A new finishing line was designed and the Regatta continued with-out further mishap.

It was rumored that 2d Battalion had planted mines the evening before to harass 3d Battalion's progress. Consequently, 11e Regimental S-3 prescribed seat-cushion life preservers as the order of the day.

Despite several minor collisions and one contestant who found difficulty finding the finish line, the Regatta was carried off without serious mishap.

A steak dinner with all the "trimmings" went to John F. Hickman of 5th OC Company who copied the singles honor over the quarter mile course with a record time of 1:16. The doubles cham-

Ex-Marine Seeks RA Commission

From private to lieutenant in the Marine Corps and then to sergeant and lieutenant in the Army, is the partial story of Lt. Arthur T. Jackson of Seventh Company, First Student Regiment, who now has applied for a Regular Army commission after successfully completing his competitive tour of duty.

Lt. Jackson joined the Marines in 1942 and served in the Pacific. He then enlisted in the Army, made master sergeant, and went to Korea where he joined the 1st Regiment of the 24th Division. Major Gen. Guy S. Meley, Jr., was his commander.

TIS Small Arms Firing School Praised At Camp Perry Meet

An Infantry School Instruction team returned to Fort Benning from Camp Perry, Ohio, last week where it conducted a 36-hour course on the M-1 rifle for officers in the National Rifle and Pistol Matches.

Headed by Lt. Col. Walter J. Felten of San Antonio, Texas, the team was composed of five officers and enlisted men from the Small Arms Committee of the Infantry School's Weapons Department.

Purpose of the course was to standardize instructional methods and training aids throughout the Armed Forces, the National Rifle Association and civilian organizations. The course was primarily concerned with showing the student the Army's method of teaching the M-1 rifle.

The course covered mechanical training and functioning, preliminary rifle instruction, new developments, range management, zeroing the rifle, and firing the national match course.

Col. Felten delivered a two-hour conference lecture in which he discussed new rifle courses and latest developments in training aids.

Lt. Col. Ellis Lee, captain of the Army's pistol team, also gave the shooting a short lesson on how to make the M-1 shoot better.

More than 400 shooters attending the national matches received diplomas at the conclusion of the instruction.

The Army furnished new national match M-1 rifles to shooters.

VERNON LYONS
The 25-year-old candidate from Santa Monica, Calif., now assigned to the 22d OC Company of the First Officer Candidate Regiment displays equal dexterity and success in handling either a basketball or a volleyball.

Upon completion of his undergraduate studies at the University of California at Santa Barbara, he turned to professional basketball in 1950. He played for the Santa Barbara Stars, members of the Southern Association League of California. The league's roster included several greats, among them Jack Sison, All-American of Kansas State University.

Alldridge aroused quite a sensation in his first season, compiling a 47.5 point average per game. His outstanding play won for him a berth on the league's All-Star team.

The Army maintains 11 reception centers for the top 100 basketball players in the United States.

Of the first string 1952 Fort Benning mythical All-Post football team that was selected by the four Infantry Center league teams, only six members will be here so see action in this year's grid campaigns. And as an idea of what you may expect in the battles this fall, none of them can be certain of being named to the dream team again.

The halfbacks are Bill Felt of the 508th Airborne, Fred Felbaum of the STC-ISD-Lawson AFB Green Wave, Linton Jordan, Bill Thurston, Bill Stetter and Bill Strickland, all of the 1952 post champions.

BILL DIETZ

Benning Boxing Begins

Benning Swimmers Win At Oak Ridge Tourney

The swim team of the 508th Airborne won the 1953 Fort Benning boxing season opened last night at Gowdy Field as the 508th Airborne in everyting except guts and spirit. He finished basic training at Fort Dix and was transferred to High and Hqs Co., First Signal Regiment, where he will be the athletic NCO.

Under the post boxing rule, four classes of fighters competed last night. They included: class one, winners of amateur or service championships; class two, an experienced boxer who has never won a championship; class three, a boxer with an average experience of ten bouts and who has won one of the ten bouts; and class four, boxers not having participated in more than four bouts.

Grid

Those scheduled to fight were Carl Ortiz, School Brigade vs. Harold Hensley, 508th Airborne, batman-weights; David Miles, Special Troops vs. James Pinkney, Combat Trng. Comd., featherweights; Fred Denton, School Brigade vs. Hilton Smith, Combat Trng. Comd., lightweights; Wilfred Ching, 508th vs. Harry Stover, School Brigade, middleweights; Billie Griffin, Special Troops vs. Marton Naumoff, 508th, welterweights; Jimmy Hensley, Special Troops vs. Arthur Green, School Brigade, light middleweights; David Dellinger, 508th vs. Amelio Georgotti, School Brigade, welterweights; Herman Hilton, Combat Trng. Comd. vs. Mearidy Andrews, Special Troops, lightweights; Juan Jaramila, 508th vs. Elvis Mathews, Special Troops, lightweights; Norman A. Salvato, 508th vs. George Stampo, School Brigade, middleweights. Scheduled to fight an alternate bout were William Henry, combat Trng. Comd. vs. Patrick Tamburo 508th, light welterweights.

All Post

The other steller backfield men that the Red Devils are depending on are Dale and Graydon Mast, returnees from the '52 team, and Bob Morland and Charlie Stewart of Brigade fame.

The 508th line averages 195 pounds per man. Pete Overton and Willis Hames are holding down the end positions. Both are vets of last year's squad. At tackle, you will see Harry Bailey, former Rams player, and Larry Smith, hard-driving lineman who was injured in the post-season game with the Pacific Island Marines. Pat Lockman and Ernest Cates will be the guard positions secure while Jack Clark wears center's cap.

Trophy Winners

Chico Vejar Gets Athletic NCO Job

Last week another great in the world of sports joined the long list of pros that have been stationed here. The black curly headed youngster, only 22-years-old, is Chico Vejar, the number six welter weight in the country before coming into the service.

Chico has seen a lot of action in his young professional career. He has won 33 in 55 bouts. Thirty-three of these wins were KOs. That's quite an impressive record for one coming into the service.

3 Red Devils Take Part In Nat'l Matches

Three marksmen of the 508th Airborne represented the Infantry Center, through the National Rifle Match at Camp Perry, Ohio, during the first week of September. Sgt. Charles W. Vinson, Sharpshooter, won second place in the Navy Cup competition, and second place in the President's Match.

Sic. Paul Kunde, Marksman, won fifth place in the President's Match, second place Standing Aggregate, and fifth place in the National Individual Match out of 750 contestants.

M-Sgt. Willis L. Powell, won first place in the National Individual Match, out of 750 contestants. As a team, the men placed 25th out of 75 teams in the Enlisted Mens Team Match and 12th out of 65 teams, in the National Trophy Match.

CHICO VEJAR ... welterweight pro

Then the long arm of the biggest promoter of fighters, Uncle Sam, came along and put the little mamey wrench to the vejar machine. He finished basic training at Fort Dix and was transferred to High and Hqs Co., First Signal Regiment, where he will be the athletic NCO.

He doesn't plan to fight here in Columbus but does plan to do some fighting in Florida, probably Miami.

Brigade Hqs. Cops 7th Week Golf Honor

BY CAPT. EMERSON BERRY
In the seventh week of the School Brigade Summer Handicap Golf Tournament, the Brigade Headquarters team topped all the Sumboners.

Colonel Max Gooler, Commanding Officer of the School Brigade, was the real winner, winning three prize golf balls for his prowess out on the links. His net 68 gave him the honor as low man for the week, low man on the team for the week, and the score enabled the Brigade team to be low team for the week.

The tournament is played according to PGA rules and the net scores are based on a 3 1/2 handicap basis.

There are ten teams entered in the tournament, representing every major unit in The School Brigade. Presently, team No. 5, captured the

Sports Roundup

SCIENTIFIC APPROACH

SFC. J. M. DUNCAN (SEATED) EXPLAINS CARE OF A .45 CALIBER PISTOL. Listening In Are Pfc. R. L. Wiggins And Sfc. Caleb Sexton

Team Begins Inspecting Small Arms

The 3657th Ordnance Company's small arms inspection team began its annual inspection of the Combat Training Command's small arms in Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, last week.

One of the missions of the 3657th is that of checking each small-arm weapon of the CTC at least once a year, and the current inspection will continue until every pistol, rifle, carbine, and machine-gun has been checked.

WFCJ John M. Kohl is in charge of the team, which includes Sfc. Jesse M. Duncan, Sgt. Billy E. Moring, and Cpl. Hobart Walser. Their primary mission is to give a thorough course of instruction on the care and storage of small arms in unit supplyrooms.

And The Wind Blew 30th Reels Under 'Top' As Rains Mess Up Mess

Last Sunday everything was peaceful and calm for the men of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment. It was a rare September day, with just a promise of Fall in the air. But more important the pleasing clang of cooked and cooking food was in the air, and the men were hungry. Trays were heaped with dishes, and under the tent, every chair was occupied.

Then the rains came and the wind blew, and down came the tent. Bottom took over as the big top made one feeble show of resistance and collapsed upon the heads of the diners.

Such a clattering of trays and bounding of cups had not been seen or heard in these parts before, one disillusioned soldier said afterward.

Anyway, the men of the company hope that it will be a long time before their mess hall has to be painted again.

Col. Davis Gets 2d Valor Award

Lt. Col. Oscar E. Davis, of Tucson, Ariz., has been presented Second Oak Leaf Cluster, with device for valor, to the Bronze Star Medal for services in Korea.

Col. Leland G. Cagwin of Carlisle, Pa., director of the Airborne Department, made the presentation.

Team Chronicles, Pictures Benning

A Look Magazine writer-photographer team was at Fort Benning last week to gather material for an airborne training story which will appear in the weekly publication some time within the next six months.

George Leonard, department editor, and John Vachon, photographer, recorded the airborne story in words and pictures and covered all phases of airborne training for their magazine.

HE HELPED WRITE THE 'BOOK' M-Sgt. Grysko Checks Sgt. Charles Fehler

Guard Mount Expert Guides Tradition's Rugged Duties

No wonder the sergeant in the 508th's formal guard mounts "moves like he knows what he is doing." He ought to. He helped to write the rules.

M-Sgt. Frank Grysko, key man in the traditional of formal guard mounts in the 508th, was at one time a member of the Fort Benning committee that drew up the regulations for guard mount procedure.

First soldier of the Third Battalion, Grysko was a prime mover to revise the tradition. After a week of "crack drill" to get in the finer points, Sgt. Grysko and his battalion then posted the first formal mount. The easy movements of the sergeant rind him at once the star of the show.

Other manuals that Grysko worked on, in addition to the drill were the Close Combat and Physical Training manuals. He also demonstrated while a member of the committee the newly developed procedure for bayonet training for Infantry School classes.

Formerly a member of the 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment in Germany during World War II, Sgt. Grysko also pulled a tour of duty in Palestine prior to coming to Benning. Assigned to the 508th, he was a platoon sergeant in Item Company before he became the Third Battalion first soldier.

At a recent retreat parade four members of the 72nd Tank Battalion and one member of the 550th Tank Company received letters of commendation for their work as instructors with the National Guard in connection with the 51st Division at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Lt. Guy DeMark, Sgt. Samuel M. Linton, Sgt. Edgar R. Rhoads and Sgt. Carmen D. Baggioano of Company A, 72nd Tank Battalion and Sgt. Marvin H. Wing, 508th Tank Company, were recipients of the letters for Infantry School classes.

Sky Screens Check Muzzle Velocity

WASHINGTON—The Army uses sky screens to make doubly sure its big guns will deliver their outgoing shells to right enemy bunkers in time of war.

The sky screens—optical eyes sensitive to light conditions coupled with electronic counters—measure the speed, or muzzle velocity, of the Army's artillery weapons.

To compensate for this error usually due to low muzzle velocity—the battery commander uses the data made available by the sky screens to make the necessary correction so that all guns within his battery have the same approximate point of impact. This results in accurate mass firings.

How It Works
In playing their trade in Korea, sky screens teams are officially known as Ordnance Ballistic and Technical Service units—bounced up and down Korea's mountains from one gun position to another.

These Ordnance teams place their sky screens at two different points forward and directly under the line of fire of the gun being tested.

When all is in readiness, the gun is fired and first photographic eye detects the silhouette of the passing projectile. As the projectile passes over the "eye," it screens out or changes the intensity of the sky's light which makes detection possible.

As soon as the first intercept is made, the "eye" sends a pulse to the electronic counter. This counter then remains in operation until the second "eye" detects the passing projectile when another pulse is sent to the counter which causes it to cut off. The recorded count is the time of flight of the projectile between the two sky screens.

Knowing the position of the gun, the position of the sky screens, and the time of flight between the two "eyes," the ballisticians then use this data to determine the muzzle velocity of the gun being tested.

Organized in teams of 12 enlisted men and two officers, the ballisticians also check the inside of the gun tube an after-allotment efficiency of the guns. This is done because wear and tear on the gun tube and the firing chain after prolonged firing will cause a decrease in muzzle velocity on change the point of impact of the outgoing shell.

Shells falling short of their targets not only are less effective but also cause artillery men to expend costly ammunition that otherwise could be saved.

When artillery men aim a gun to fire at a designated target, certain firing conditions must be compensated for in order to get the maximum effective range. Two of the more important conditions that must be made compensations for are muzzle velocity and muzzle velocity.

MAIL CLERK
Pfc. Quarles, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Quarles of Johnston, S. C., is the Mail Clerk for the 4th Benning for five months and in the Army for nine months.

US Army photo by Sgt. Hart shows the art of "aiming" as practiced by certain shady individuals is not only a dangerous profession but leads to the penitentiary. ## 2 C-119s Swell Number to 5

The build-up of C-119 type aircraft for the 46th Troop Carrier Wing at Lawson Air Force Base was continuing with the expected arrival of two more of the new transports this week.

Ferry crews from Lawson were expected to return this week with the two new C-119s, bringing to five the total of the big transports received by the wing so far this month. The aircraft being delivered here are picked up at the Fairchild Factory at Jangerstown, Md.

Course Started By Food Service

The Third Army Area Food Service School has started another Mess Administration Course. The course is composed of officers from units throughout Third Army. It is designed to better acquaint mess officers with their duties and to teach them methods of performing these duties in an efficient manner.

CTC To Donate Blood Today

The Combat Training Command and other units of Fort Benning will have the opportunity of contributing to the quota of 200 pints of blood that has been set as a goal when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits Columbus today. The visit of the bloodmobile has been arranged by Col. James Lodge No. 111 BPO. Blood donations by CTC men are being arranged through Major Cecil W. Parks, Hqs. & Hqs. Co., 30th Infantry Regiment, telephone 72121. Transportation will leave Hqs. & Hqs. Co. area at 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on blood donor day.

Danes To Visit Fort Benning

The Danish Army's chief of staff and an officer of the Norwegian Army are expected to visit Fort Benning within the next few weeks as part of the tour of the U.S. They are Major Gen. Erik Kragh, Denmark's top soldier, and Major Gen. Nils Hunsdal, commander-in-chief of Norway's District West. Gen. Kragh arrived last week in New York, accompanied by Major Hans Fretsel-Hansen, assistant personnel officer for the Danish Army. Gen. Hunsdal will arrive in New York Oct. 3 and will remain in the U. S. until Oct. 23. He will be accompanied to the U.S. by Col. Eggund Moe, chief and general inspector of the Norwegian Army's Quartermaster Corps, and Col. Ludvig Idicus, chief of the Medical Corps.

Three Confer Here On Allied Training

Three representatives from the Departments of Army and Defense visited Fort Benning Wednesday through last Saturday conferred with officials on Allied training at the Infantry School. They were Col. E. S. Thomas Jr., of the military assistance office, Department of Defense, WAC Lt. Col. F. A. Labreque of the G-3 Section, Department of Army, and Major J. E. O'Leary of the Army's G-2 Section.

SGT. PROMOTIONS

Funds turned over to the Dad's Club also help support Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, Teen-Age Children's Club, Little League and American Legion baseball and other youth activities.

Other charities that will benefit from the drive include the post's Children's Christmas party and Christmas baskets for the needy. Part of the funds will be used to pay the salary of the visiting welfare nurse and will supplement donation requests from the March of Dimes, American Heart Fund, American Cancer Society and others selected by the Fort Benning Chest Fund Council.

Gen. Meloy emphasized in his letter to military personnel that in addition to supporting charitable and welfare activities, United Givers provides more than $50,000 annually to benefit service personnel through such organizations as the Family Service Bureau and Travelers Aid.

He said that each military and civilian member of an organization will be provided a personal opportunity to make a voluntary contribution.

Gen. Meloy concluded: "I am confident," Maj. Gen. Meloy declared in a letter to military personnel urging their support of the Communally Chest campaign, "that each of you will cooperate in the drive and contribute as liberally as you can. Your generosity will help to maintain and improve the security, health, welfare and happiness of the people of this community, military and civilian alike."

Each chief of staff section will appoint an officer who will accept in the drive and contribute as liberally as you can. Your generosity will help to maintain and improve the security, health, welfare and happiness of the people of this community, military and civilian alike."

How Mercury's Soaring Sales can mean "Money in the Bank" for You!

- 1 YOU PAY LESS NOW!
Our higher volume lets us operate at a lower profit per deal. You get the advantage of a far bigger allowance for your present car.
- 2 YOU GET BACK MORE LATER!
Popularity boosts future trade-in value. Even now, Mercury returns more of the original price than any other car in its class.

Mercury dealers, on an average, now sell more cars per dealer than any of their competitors. We are, therefore, in a better position to give you a bigger allowance for your present car. Ever mounting popularity tends to boost Mercury's trade-in value even higher. A Mercury's true cost (original price minus future resale value) is reduced to a point lower than any other car in its field. So why not start saving—and enjoying the extra value that Mercury offers like year-around styling, proven V-8 performance and economy, and the widest choice of optional power features available on any popular-priced car. # Who Said Moving Day Is Rough? Asks STC

During the Summer everyone lives in anticipation of the next great "Day" on the calendar. When Independence Day, Memorial Day, or Labor Day rolls around, everyone plans to celebrate. But there is one that comes now and then, especially to the Army, that is not popular. Few celebrations are planned for this day because by the end of it everyone is so tired he can hardly stand up, much less throw a party. That dark day is Moving Day—but it was given a real welcome recently in the Special Troops Command.

Headquarters Detachment, Section H, of the First Special Troops Battalion, moved into the north side of the third canteen and became Company D, First Special, integrated Troops Battalion. The 32d, 148th, and 66th Transportation Companies of Harmony Church moved in to the quarters that Company D vacated.

To make room for Company D all the units of the north canteen had to move around. The mess-

When everything was ready it was "Right shoulder, footlockers, left shoulder, trucks, and forward march" for the men in Company D. It was easier for the men in the transportation units. They just loaded everything into trucks and rode down to their new home.

General Meloy Ex-Champ Win Trooper Wings

Brig. Gen. Gay S. Meloy Jr., assistant commander of The Infantry School, and a former lightweight champion of the world, now an Army master sergeant, won silver paratrooper wings last week. The master sergeant who won his wings along with General Meloy was Lt. James J. ...

General Meloy, left, and Lt. James J. ...

Both General Meloy and Sergeant Jenkins made their qualifying jump Thursday morning. Graduation speaker was Major Gen. Robert N. Young, Infantry Center commander, who took the airborne course at a colonel in August, 1950.

General Meloy said he found the course "very thorough, very expert and very complete."

"Airborne training is designed to build a more personal confidence, and it certainly accomplishes this," the 49-year-old general declared. "I have always been proud of the men in the Airborne Department, and now I am doubly proud of them," he added.

The Airborne Department is part of The Infantry School of which General Meloy is assistant commander.

Sergeant Jenkins echoed General Meloy's praise for the airborne course.

"If every soldier in the Army were required to take the physical training portion of the airborne course before going into combat, our battle losses would be considerably less," the 36-year-old boxer said.

"I feel right now that I am in as good shape as I was in the high jump when I won the championship (lightweight title)."

GENERAL MELOY-HOOKS UP FOR FIFTH JUMP Received Parachutist Badge At Friday Ceremony

The 1952 Community Chest Fund drive got off to a good start, Col. Donald Washington, drive chairman, reported Tuesday.

The first company-size unit to re-organize contributions has been established. They are: colonels, $5; captains, $4; majors, $3; lieutenants colonel, $4; majors and Regiment, composed of 150 Korean officers attending The Infantry School.

The S-2 and S-3 section of the First Student Regiment also reported 100 per cent participation. All men had contributed to the fund by 11 a. m. Monday, kick-off date of the drive.

Colonel Washington predicted that this year's campaign would be successful, and should surpass last year's total.

In a statement Tuesday the colonel reiterated his twin goals of 100 per cent participation and $35,000.

Off-Campus Rolls Hit New High

A record total of 172 Infantry Center personnel have enrolled for college courses at the Fort Benning branch of the University of Georgia.

In addition, 18 Benning soldiers have signed to attend classes at a university center located at Columbus, Ga. Joe Mabus, senior in the Fort Benning branch, reported Tuesday morning.

Enrollment figures were expected to rise further before the first session of classes Tuesday evening, Mabus said.

The present figure tops the 137 students who enrolled for the previous session of classes which met in the center's quarters.

Thirteen courses in the junior division of college work will be offered at the center.

Circus Opens Here Friday

All the magic and pageantry of the big top will be on display when the Polack Brothers Shrine Circus plays a two-day engagement at Gowdy Field this weekend.

The "Shrine Circus," which is directed by the center's chief of Special Services Section in cooperation with Columbus Shriner will play four performances Oct. 3 and 4. Matinees are at 2:30 p. m. Friday and at 2:15 p. m. Saturday. Evening performances are at 8:15 both nights.

Polack Brothers is one of the finest French-style circuses in the United States at present. Only one act is presented at a time for one of the two rings which are used.

Two of the 30 acts featured in the show were used in the movie "The Greatest Show on Earth." The Italian Zoppo Farina acrobats, also performed in the same motion picture. A circus ballerina, Miss Doretta, performs her act on the high wire and is said to be only one performer active today who rides the unicycle across the high wire.

Other outstanding aerial attractions are Don Dorsey, who performs on a single trapeze high above the floor of the big top, and Willie Robbins, the Great Eldorado, who does dangerous balancing stunts on the giant 100-foot wheel.

The stage of the aerial act is erected in the outside of Gowdy Field.

Acrobatic troupes include the Four Aces, who execute Col. Carlos Mayo, director of the show, will execute Col. Manuel Garcia, representing the Argentine circus, and Col. Chire Strom, U. S. Air Mission chief to Peru; Lt. Col. James J. ...

Blood Center Total To 984

The Blood Donor Center collected 588 pints last week, raising the September total to 984.

Last week's collections put the Blood Donor Center 28 pints over the way quota of 240 for 72 pints ahead of its monthly quota.

First Student Brigade has had week's donors with 136 pints. Other units contributing include The 588th Airborne Regimental Combat Team's 89 pints; Area Service Unit Provisional Group, 15 pints; Infantry School Detachment, 13 pints; Provisional Medical Group, 40 pints; Army Field Forces Board No. 3, three pints; and Combat Training Center, two pints.

Four Fort Benning civilians also contributed last week.

4000-Line Phone System Set For Dec. Completion

Installation of new telephone equipment for the normal, but the Fort Benning system has been carrying a work load of 35 to 50 per cent.

The new equipment, replacing the 3,000-line exchange now in operation, is a 4,000-line exchange, which can be expanded to as many as 5,000 lines.

The changeover from the old to the new system will take place at 10 p. m. Dec. 5, when all present lines will be connected to the new equipment. The changeover will take about 10 minutes.

Above Capacity The present system has been operating above its capacity for some time. Lt. Col. C. L. Martin, Infantry Center signal officer, said. He pointed out that in commercial telephone operations, work loads of 85 to 70 per cent are considered normal, but the Fort Benning system has been carrying a work load of 35 to 50 per cent.

The new equipment will increase the number of trunk lines to Columbus. This increase, which doubles the present capacity, is expected to eliminate the difficulty of getting a line through to Columbus during peak hours of business.

1,500 Calls About 17,000 Columbus and 200 long distance calls are handled daily here, according to Mrs. Odella C. Adams, chief operator of the telephone exchange. Between 1,500 and 1,700 calls are placed hourly during the rush period.

Fire Prevention Week

National Fire Prevention Week begins Sunday, and it is only fitting that we take time out for a commendation of the Fort Benning Fire Department. For a total fire loss of $114,000 in 1950-51, our fire department slashed fire costs to $20,617 for the fiscal year just ended.

A breakdown of the losses for 1950-51 shows that damage to buildings totaled $28,000; the contents of buildings damaged or destroyed cost a staggering $85,000; and private property destroyed amounted to $5,000.

Now let's compare the figures for this year:
• Building damage, $30,311. Contents, $17,068. Personal property, none.

This is an admirable record the fire department has recorded in one short year, and one that should all be thankful for, because no one can tell where a fire is going to strike next.

Fire Chief Gilbert A. Ward Jr. and his 127 firemen deserve a vote of thanks from every soldier and civilian here. Manning six stations necessary for 24 hours throughout the post, these men stand 24-hour guard over our lives and possessions.

National Fire Prevention Week yearly brings focus to the fire-fighting activities of hundreds of state, federal and private groups actively engaged in reducing the fire menace. But too often, after exhibiting an over-zealous vigilance against a smoldering match during this one week, people revert back to normal after it has passed. Let's make every week of the 32 Fort Benning Fire Prevention Week, and cut our losses for 1952-53.

"I Pledge Allegiance . . ."

How many times have we recited that since we were children? Those of us fortunate to be born here may take many of the privileges for granted a person born in a foreign country who becomes a citizen of the U.S. knows what it is not able to enjoy any freedom.

Last week was proclaimed "Citizenship Week" by Congress. This gives each of us a chance to stop and think about the freedoms we enjoy. Am I a good citizen, am I tolerant of my fellow man, do I examine the facts before I come to a conclusion, do I obey the laws and regulations, do I exercise my privilege to vote?

In about a month, people from all over this great nation will cast their votes to determine who will be the representatives in our government. But before anyone can vote he must register. Voting for Armed Forces units is simplified. Federal law requires that Standard Form 78 be delivered to every person without request before the general election Nov. 4. This is for a ballot and his registration to vote in the national election. The Department of Defense has published a pamphlet summarizing

Chaplain's Corner The Only True Friend

By Chaplain (Capt.) Ray L. Abbas
There are certain men who have three friends. The first of these is loved dearly; the second he also loves but not so well as the first; the third he received but scant attention.

Now the king of that country who day dispatched a summons to this man to put in immediate appearance before the throne. His heart was filled with terror; he trembled lest that he might seek the aid of his friends? He would beseech them to accompany him on the fearsome journey of his national resources.

But the first flatly refused, without explanation, to go. With sinking heart he turned to the second, who replied, "I will go with you as far as the palace gates, but not beyond." Desperately he sought the neglected third friend. This one assured him, "I can go with you all the way and be with you at the throne."

Now the first friend is a man's money and other material possessions, which he must leave behind when he goes from this life into God's eternity and judgment. For it is written, "Riches profit not in the day of wrath, and the fruits that they bear are perished as dew."
The second friend is our family and loved ones, who at our death can accompany us to the grave, but is not, "For again it is written, 'None can get additional power to it.'"
The third friend is the only one who can accompany us, even Him who died and rose again. For in the Word it is written, "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me," and "I will go forth in the strength of the Lord."

Now, when can we expect the summons to come? Unfortunately, that is out of our province. We do not know! A wise rabbi once told his students, "prepare to meet God on the day before you die." But when can we know that day? They would ask, "We cannot. Therefore we must be ever ready to meet Him."
And I close my little modern parable with a word from Phillips Brooks:
"The only way to die in peace with God is to live in peace with Him."

Report from Washington

VA Tells How To Avoid Delay

By Armed Forces Press Service
These important words for veterans to avoid unnecessary delays in applying for education and training under the new K-Vet Bill have been announced by the Veterans Administration. (1) Veterans should send their completed applications for training to the nearest regional office. Under no conditions should the application be sent to the VA Central Office, Washington, D. C. (2) Veterans should include photostatic or certified copies of both sides of their separation papers, along with their applications for training. Information contained on these papers is necessary for processing applications. (3) All five copies of the application form must be filled out. They are: a) application of the veteran; b) program of education and training applied for; c) education and training received while on active duty; d) civilian education; and e) employment experience.

New types of flight meals and a wider selection of food items have been planned for crewmen and other personnel who will be aboard Air Force aircraft. New features will include six types of flight meals, a la carte service for air evacuation patients, and an individual flight food packet consisting of 16 meals.

Indefinite appointments will soon be appointed to 220,000 Army Reserve officers and warrant officers not on active duty. A similar plan was announced last month for those on active duty.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, announced that changes must be made in Service regulations next year if the Armed Forces need to get the men they need. He said that probably the best way to get additional manpower is to "fight and fight hard to get them out of the 4-F." On Aug. 1 this year there were 1,484,054 4-Fs. Gen. Hershey indicated that he thinks men who could be used are being rejected on physical grounds.

The seventh national-wide competitive examination for qualifying in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps has been scheduled for Dec. 13, 1952. Successful candidates will be given a four-year college education with government assistance and will be commissioned as officers of the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

The albatross - one of the largest of sea fowls - is found chiefly in the Southern Hemisphere. There has long been a superstition among seamen that each albatross harbored the soul of a departed sailor. It was therefore considered bad luck to kill one.

News Brief

Naguib Vows to Oust British From Nile

The new premier of Egypt, Gen. Mohamed Naguib, has vowed to oust the British from the Nile Valley.

Making a tour of Northwest Egypt the new strongman of the Middle East, who had been exiled to France into exile, stated that he did not feel that the new movement in Egypt would be complete until the evacuation of the Nile by England and the unification of Egypt and the Sudan was accomplished.

Observers accompanying Naguib said that the enthusiasm with which he was greeted by the common people was the most spontaneous ever staged in modern times for a Middle Eastern leader.

Everywhere he went he was greeted by ovation and corn farmers with cries of "Love your enemy or your enemies, the landlords." The cry was a reference to the Communist line in breaking up the vast land holdings of the wealthy for sale to the poor.

On The Bookshelf

GENGRIS KIAN by Harold Lamb, Doubleday and Co., Inc. More than 750 years ago the bones of Genghis Khan swept across Asia and threatened to engulf the Christian nations of western Europe. Great cities were demolished, lands laid waste and entire armies routed. It is said that 100,000 Turks were killed in a single battle.

Before destiny had run its course Genghis Khan ruled approximately one-half of the world. History can show no rival to the Khan. The exploits of Alexander, Napoleon and other great conquerors pale in comparison. Although he could not read he established a code of laws which guided more than 30 nations for several hundred years. So complete was his rule of his empire that it was boasted that "a vicar with a sack of gold could ride unharmed from one border of his empire to the other."

In his book Harold Lamb has accurately portrayed the exploits of history's greatest warrior. His requests were halted only by death.

FLYING WATERMELONS

... Flying saucers have nothing on Lt. Col. Samuel Perry, who has flying watermelons growing on his back porch. Last July, the colonel dropped some watermelon seeds near his porch and promptly forgot them. Next thing he knew the vines had climbed his porch and watermelons were sprouting all over the place. The first was suspended in a basket to support it, and while it outgrew the basket was placed on a board. Meanwhile, another melon came along to occupy the basket. At present, Colonel Perry has four melons growing in the air.

Lawson Reports 100 Per Cent Unit

The Aircraft Crash Rescue and Fire department at Lawson, Air Force Base is the first unit there to report 100 per cent participation of its personnel in the civilian Defense Bond Drive.

Daniel Mann, chairman of the Lawson drive, said that in addition to this section, four other units have reported over 50 per cent participation of personnel.

The over 50 per cent participating units are Aircraft Crash Rescue and Fire Department, 100 per cent, Supply Warehouse, 75 per cent, Aircraft Maintenance shop, 72.1 per cent, Air Installations office, 71.4 per cent, and Headquarters area, 58.3 per cent.

These five organizations will be awarded a special certificate and a gold star for each additional 10 per cent over the 50 per cent, the chairman said.

TIS Publishes Guide Booklet

A 69-page booklet describing the organization, mission and functions of The Infantry School's nine academic departments has been published.

The booklet, an outgrowth of the management improvement program, will serve as a guide for officers newly assigned to The Infantry School, as well as personnel already on the post.

The new publication, first of its kind, has diagrams showing the chain of command of The Infantry School and a description of each section's function and mission.

Approved by Brig. Gen. C. S. Mealy, Jr., the school's assistant commander, it was prepared under the direction of Col. George Bush, deputy assistant commander for training, Major James M. Galt, chief of staff, and Lt. Col. John Butler, management and improvement officer of the Academic Department.

It was published at a cost of $20 and took four weeks to complete.

It is designed so that additions or deletions of material because of changes at The Infantry School can be made easily. Col. Butler said, departments of The Infantry School include Training Publications, Army Extension Course, Airborne, Automotive, Communications, Ranger, Staff, Tactical and Weapons.

Second Show Set For 'Theatre' Star

When the curtain goes up on the Fort Benning Little Theatre production of "Ten Little Indians" at the Main Post Theater at 5:30, Mrs. Alice Ducewirth will make her second appearance in the local audience.

Previously cast in "The Woman in the Agatha Christie murder mystery comedy" and "The Embittered Spinster" her portrayal as a masterpiece of characterization drawn from a rich background of theatrical experience.

A speech artist major from Ohio State University, Mrs. Ducewirth appeared in many of the University Players there. Later, she graduated from the Schuster-Marlin drama school in Cincinnati and taught dramatics in Greenfield, Ohio.

She was a member of the drama club at radio station WLW in Cincinnati, and appeared professionally throughout Ohio as a monologist. In addition to numerous on-air appearances, she also starred in "Must Fall," "A Doll's House," and "The Last Days of Pompeii."

She has been here since 1949 and is the wife of Major B. R. Now.

Electronic Brain' Solves For 'Theatre' Star Tremendous Problems

(ANF) — The Army's newest "electronic brain" can multiply 100 times faster than the human brain and come up with the right answer in a matter of seconds.

Solving such eyebrow-raising problems that would make all but despair for the human brain, it can do as much work in a week as the best figures expert equipped with a desk calculator could.

A leading feature of the "brain" is its spacious and accurate memory. The memory capable of storing 1,024 pieces of information on the face of one tube, or 40,960 pieces of information on all 40 tubes—acts as a storage house for all instructions and intermediate results.

When it needs a piece of information, it extracts it from the tubes in 30 millionths of a second. Notices of its kind in the world.

Airborne, CTC Display Team At Birmingham Fair

Two officers and 26 enlisted men of the Infantry School and 30th Infantry Regiment are displaying airborne weapons and equipment at the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham this week.

The Infantry School's Airborne Department will display four paratroopers fully equipped for a combat jump, along with paratrooper aids, parachute packing exhibits, aerial delivery containers and personnel and equipment parachutes.

Among the weapons to be displayed by the 30th Infantry Regiment are the 30 caliber heavy machinegun, 81 and 60 mm. mortars, 57 to 75 mm. recoilless rifles and 30 caliber light machinegun.

Each enlisted man on the 30th Infantry team will display an Infantry weapon or piece of equipment and answer questions pertaining to its characteristics and functions.

Two members of the airborne Infantry display team, SFC B. U. Gumble and Sgt. Jack D. Gumble, are natives of Birmingham. Gumble will demonstrate a platform used in heavy parachute drops. The platform will be loaded with a half ton truck and have a 100-foot parachute attached to it.

Dutchmen Say Tis 'Excellent'

Six Dutch Army enlisted men attending the Infantry School have earned excellent Lie instruction scores as they recover in a community camp course.

Sgt. Gerardus D. Joesse of the Royal Military Academy at Breda said he was speaking for the group when he praised both the instruction in Lie and the school's Communications Department.

"There are two things I particularly miss, however," said Sgt. Joesse. "... Dutch meat and potatoes."

Reindeer Pupils Leaves Sled, Comes To Army

BY LT. E. M. RICH
 Second officer in the Second Student Regiment and in charge of the district and turn his reindeer out to pasture when called to active duty last January.

A student of reindeer management in Alaska, he had just completed a year in Sweden where he learned first-hand methods from the Swedes who have large reindeer herds.

The officer first studied agriculture, majoring in animal husbandry at the University of Alaska. Upon his graduation in May, 1938, he was sent to Sweden to further his knowledge of Northern agriculture and to learn reindeer management first hand, from the Lapps.

LT. Lang was sent as an International Farm Youth Exchange student, a project sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation and, in this case, the University of Alaska Extension Service.

LT. Lang lived, worked, ate, and drank as his hosts in order to get a better understanding of their way of life. "Home" in Iceland was made of bark and sod and the food consisted of dried reindeer meat saw fish, "sour bay", goat cheese, and coffee.

One of the highlights of his trip was when he was a guest of Count and Countess Falkenberg of Sweden. Here he was entertained, in royal style, as he had been in the States here and the other 50 exchange students were dined in high style at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City by their various sponsors. Then, after being interviewed and televised several times, the students returned to their home states.

LT. Lang returned to Alaska and started a one month speaking tour which carried him to nine cities where he spoke before numerous civic groups before being called to active duty.

Company C Wins Honor Plaque

Company C of the 78th Engineer Combat Battalion was presented with the "Honor Plaque" at a recent ceremonial parade held on the Medical Drill Field in Harteau Church last week.

Maj. John Herina, battalion commander, presented the Plaque to Pfc. Edward Hoke, Company C's soldier of the week.

The award is given weekly to the men who show the highest inspection scores. Company C rolled up 64 of a possible 100 points to take the Plaque.

Contract Let For Shop Conversion Unveiled

A contract for $20,000 has been let here for the conversion of an Ordnance-type warehouse into a Signal Corps Maintenance Shop. Work is scheduled for completion by the end of the month.

The new shop will provide 3,800 feet more floor space and allow the maintenance of Signal Corps equipment. Several pieces of new equipment are being ordered. Work will be required for the maintenance crew to test up operations in the new building. During this time the Signal Section will utilize two mobile shops to perform fourth echelon repair work.

The stocky candidate began his job as a tender age and by 1946, when he graduated from high school in his hometown of Northampton, Pa., he had organized a successful band of his own. Candidate Polko and his trumpet made enough money to finance half his education.

Today, parade ground melodies are a part of memories of famous Albertus Meyers, former trumpet soloist for the all-time marching king, John Philip Sousa.

NEW FIRST SERGEANT
 The H. Thomas has replaced M-Sgt. Howard H. Jennings as first sergeant of Headquarters Company, 1st Signal Troop, 2nd Signal Battalion. Sgt. Jennings is on orders for the European Command.

Sojourners Open Season

Fort Benning chapter No. 8, of the National Sojourners association, will open their Fall season with a cocktail party and buffet dinner on Wednesday evening.

The announcement of the first of many social events which will be conducted by the Sojourners was made by Capt. Gordon Symptom, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The affair is open to all officers who are members of the Masonic Fraternity and their ladies. The cocktail party, provided by the chapter will commence at 6:45 p.m. and special tables will be served for the buffet dinner. The dinner will be handled on a "pay as you go" basis. Dancing will follow the dinner.

All sojourners are urged to attend the affair and bring a mason's friend.

ISD Gets New Exec Officer

Maj. Herbert A. Smith, Jr., of Providence, R. I., has been named executive officer of the Infantry School Detachment.

He replaces Major Francis B. Gandy, who is enrolled in the Georgetown warfare course at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

Major Smith received his reserve commission June 19, 1946, and took the Infantry School's Signal Corps Maintenance personnel course the same year.

He was in Africa and Sicily with the 18th Infantry Regiment, First Infantry Division during World War II, first as a platoon leader and later as a company commander.

Major Smith was Army Field Forces liaison officer at Fort Devens, Mass., in 1945, and the following year was appointed an assistant professor of military tactics at Oregon State College.

He returned here in 1948 to take the Infantry School's advanced officers course. His decorations include the Bronze Star Medal and Distinguished Infantryman's Badge.

Sergeant Runs CBR Courses

Sgt. Richard D. Astry, Chemical - Bacteriological - Radiological Warfare NCO of the Airborne Battalion, has the responsibility of instructing battalion personnel with the many new aspects of gas, chemical and atomic warfare.

A regular program of instruction and instruction in training schedule is included in the CBR courses. He has witnessed the firing of an atomic bomb at Camp Deserting officers familiar with the latest methods of test tube destruction, flocks of a nuclear explosion.

Sgt. Astry is a graduate of the post CBR School, where he learned the detection of the known types of masses, germs and atomic radiation. He has had practical experience in the use of the Geiger counter and in the use of the various types of detectors used to measure the amount of an individual's exposure to radiation.

Navy Crews Swap Ships, Save U.S. $$

BAYONNE, N. J. (APFS) — For the first time in Navy history, the entire complement of two carriers "swapped" ships in an operation estimated to have saved $1,500,000.

Crew members of the 27,000-ton carriers Shangri La and Antietam carried out a ship swap here recently from slipper on down to seaman apprentice.

The Shangri La is being sent from the Atlantic Reserve Fleet to the Pacific Reserve Fleet, the Antietam from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Had the original crews remained on board their ships, the government would have had to pay the cost of transporting the dependents of nearly 3,000 men across the continent.

Regular Units Slated to Give Basic Training

WASHINGTON (APFS) — In a move designed to train inductees efficiently and at the same time more economically, the Army has assigned basic training to five General Reserve divisions and several non-division units.

Selective service calls for 77,000 men in the next two months encourage the move. General Reserve units are to be trained, equipped and ready for immediate duty. These units will provide 16 weeks of basic training to men who would have been sent to replacement training centers for non-division units.

Army Obtains Napalm Patent

WASHINGTON (APFS) — After nearly 10 years of napalm in combat, a patent covering its early major working in its development has been obtained by the Army Chemical Corps.

Dr. Louis F. Fieser, professor of organic chemistry at Harvard University, and a group of colleagues began the search for a gasolene thickening agent for use as flame-thrower fuel shortly before Pearl Harbor. Their interest at that time was in the use of rubber mixed with gasoline.

With the Japanese aggression, the rubber supplies were cut off and the scientists had to seek some other thickening agent.

As a result, their research led to the present napalm, made basically of the aluminum soaps of coconut fatty acid, aluminum naphthenate and unsaturated fatty acids.

The application for the patent was filed in 1943, but, due to national security implications, issuance of the patent was held up until early last month.

Infantry Blue Insignia Set For Oct. Issue

Blue shoulder cord, collar and cap insignia and scarf will be issued to Infantry troops the latter part of October.

These items are designed to enhance the prestige of the Infantry and identify combat-ready Infantry units of the Army. Lt. Col. Fred Koenig, Infantry Center Quartermaster said.

The blue shoulder cord will be formed by a series of interlocking square knots around a center cord. It will be worn over the right shoulder on both summer and winter uniforms.

The blue plastic collar insignia will be worn under the present insignia so that a blue outline appears. The cap insignia, also of blue plastic, will be worn in a similar manner. This latter item will be optional.

A nine-inch wide rayon scarf of infantry blue will be tucked beneath the collar of the OD jacket. Post commanders will be responsible for prescribing the manner in which the scarf will be worn with the summer uniform.

Both officers and enlisted men will wear the blue scarf and cord, while the blue cap and collar insignia will be worn by enlisted men only.

Each student is required to have about 18 different cards, and they will be processed by the section. About 60 sets of cards will be turned out each week when the printing operation gets under way.

When Cpl. Thornton was first assigned to the section he noticed that one machine was not being used. After making a check, he found that the machine was worn out, and that it was to be turned in as salvage.

Figuring that he had nothing to lose, Cpl. Thornton began to tear it down during his spare time. By using some spare parts, and a little welding he was able to put the machine back into operation. It is now being used to print metal plates for the addressograph machines and dot tags.

The machine has now been in operation for the Infantry and the addressograph class for five men. The classes which were held four hours each day for two weeks, taught the men how to run the machines and establish the type of system which brigade plans to use in receiving student officer classes. These men are now operating similar sections in the First Officer Candidate Regiment, First Student Brigade, and Sec.

The 300-pound craft is the first pulse-jet helicopter for military service. It is powered by two jet units resembling stove pipes, attached to the ends of its whirling rotor blades.

The midjet jet 'copter can be hoisted in a jeep trailer, hoisted up to fit into a container 5 by 5 by 14 feet, which can be dropped by parachute. Its top speed is 80 mph and it can stay aloft for an hour and a half. The new 'copter's gross load is estimated at 600 pounds, twice its own weight.

Hailing this copter development, Sec. Pace commented: "Even though it's not yet ready for the infinite purposes for which it may be used, the Army recognizes that this weapon like all others must be geared to the jet and atomic age."

By applying a little mechanical talent Corporal C. B. Thornton of Headquarters and Service Company, First Student Brigade, was able to repair a worn-out Graphtype machine and save it from being salvaged.

Cpl. Thornton works in the Addressograph Section at Brigade headquarters, under the supervision of 1st Lt. Edith Reeg, assistant brigade adjutant. Lt. Reeg also is the Management and Improvement officer for the First Student Brigade.

When Cpl. Thornton was first assigned to the section he noticed that one machine was not being used. After making a check, he found that the machine was worn out, and that it was to be turned in as salvage.

Faith Festival Set Sunday

A Festival of Faith sponsored by the Columbus - Plains City Ministerial alliance will be held Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Golden Park.

The guest speaker at the festival will be Dr. Duke R. McCall, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. Dr. McCall, a world-traveler, scholar and Christian statesman, was formerly pastor of the Broadway Baptist Church in Louisville and president of the New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

Others who will participate in the Festival include Chaplain WAC Major Mary B. Fannin of Troy, N. Y., Monday donated her fourth pint of blood to the Fort Benning Blood Donor Center. Major Fannin, a quartermaster last officer at Army Field Forces Base No. 2, is the sister of T. C. Bailey of 74 Eagle Street, Troy.

In a recent evacuation mission, the USS Constellation was equipped with a 60 by 60-foot landing platform for the H-13. Eighteen Navy men, including signal men, medics, and firefighters, banded the landing operation.

Rams-Greenies Up Sunday

The other two entries in the Fort Benning Football League are the Special Troops Rams and ISD-ASU's Green Wave. Break from the barrier Sunday afternoon in a game that has more angles than a successful horse track bet.

The Rams take a one-to-two touchdown favoritism after a 33-0 rout of Shaw Air Force Base and a 6-0 win over a rugged 82nd Airborne Artillery in non-league matchups.

They grabbed the championship marbles last year with six wins, no losses and two ties and went on to win the title.

20,000-Plus See 508th Beat CTC, 20-6, In Opener

Probably the most ferocious clash on post, Fabian turned a hodge-podge flow of candidates from ISD and ASU into a well-oiled grid machine which clicked off a 20-6 win against Donalson Air Force Base two weeks ago.

That prep season was easily Harold Manley, a star from U. of Alabama who picked up nearly half the Greenies' ground gain against the Flyers, twisted his knee in the second half and almost positively will be a bench jockey Sunday.

In large part, the remaining Greenies are made to limit, but inexperienced. Most of the offensive backen will be satisfied to the signal calling, and pitching air to the ground. Manley, out from Florida A & M that you can call quarterback without tongue in cheek.

Bob Both, 185, of last year's Rams, and Eddie Hinton, from U. of Oregon, figure to handle most of the remaining Rams' line. They showed well against Donalson last week. Manley, out from Florida A & M that you can call quarterback without tongue in cheek.

The 508th Airborne wrote the first 1952 record for victory race with a 20-6 pop over Combat Training Command heard by a record 20,000-plus Sunday at downtown Memorial Stadium.

It was the largest crowd for a Fort Benning opener since the service-sweetened days of World War II. The Red Devils gave them a real show by coming off the deck from an 0-6 first quarter deficit to score in each of the remaining periods.

Statistics made it look pretty even, and the Commanders did have three drives which carried in side the Airborne's 15, but the die was cast after the 508th took off.

It's first stanza built lingering and buckled CTC's big yet woolly, inopportune line.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

by Cpl. Charles Johnson

YOUTH WAS served royally Sunday, all except this youthful gridiron handicapper, who found himself handicapped indeed after picking Combat Training Command to mangle 508th Airborne in the Fort Benning League curtain raiser. This since-beleaguered bureau had followed the sports maxim of always stringing along with a winner, and hadn't CTC cloberbed the frisky Red Devils twice last year?

My crystal gazing went awol, egad, when what I suspected was a fly speck, platted there by a lucky from the heinous Lepia League in good old Siberia, turned out to be the X that marked the spot where Tom Masereau hand picked Jim Phillips for his successor as 508th coach.

Phillips in just 25 years old and until last Sunday had been suspected by rival Benning masters of suffering from the case of dampness behind the coaching chair. Obviously, Masereau, who had James-boy as a private on his 11th Airborne team, which was the Pacific Theatre championship in 1946, and on his 1951 508th team as a first lieutenant, thought differently.

Phillips showed a excellent command of coaching fundamentals and a satisfactory ability to extract the utmost from his men in directing them to their 20-6 inaugural triumph, proving he learned as well as a wingback at Clemson in 1945, when he was 17, and as a 2' quarterback with Arkansas in 1940-43.

Suddenly confronted with the loss of two of his regular backs when GI Downey, of TCU, and Bill Redmond, All-Post honorable mention, suffered dull injuries, the handsome freshman coach avoided disaster by changing Crayton Mast from back to fullback with less than a week's practice, a move that displaced Bill Dietz, who was only selected unanimously as 1951 All-Post fullback.

"I would have been disappointed if Dietz hadn't performed spectacularly wherever I used him," said Phillips by way of explanation. "His for Mast, he came to me after we concluded a conversation against Fort Bragg and stated out that their cad was always crashing on these plays. He suggested running the best conversion around the hole left open by that end, and I let him, when Redmond got hurt, I thought of Mast, he's the fastest lineman I have and from an academic standpoint probably knows as much about the game as any player on the post. That's why he was calling the plays instead of the quarterback Sunday."

Phillips attributed Sunday's success to his defensive team, which led up admirably in the face of a slew of early fumbles blamed on nervousness of the young team performing before the largest crowd of their lives, and physical conditioning superior to that of CTC. As a whole, however, the game drew raspberries on many technical points from a lot of Benning critics hardened to post fight competition in the post circuit, rival coaches included.

This change was answered by Phillips with a war, "we weren't showing anything we didn't have to. I'll settle for 2-0 if we ever see this kind of a crowd again. We'll be glad to use as possible." Which probably explains why although CTC was using an eight and seven a nine-man line against them a goodly portion of the time, the 508th boss only twice took it at crucial moments, with a double wing spread formation.

Phillips is rightfully reluctant to discuss even those special plays which he exhibited, but with football defensive geniuses fast catching up to the standard light 7, it's a good guess that he has a complete set of spread variations among the 60 plays he employs with the 508th.

All of which reveals an amazingly astute attitude for a young man.

508th Opens Post Football Schedule

A highly favored 508th Red Devil football team will take the field at 2 p.m. Saturday for their second non-league game as they play host to Donalson Air Force Base, S. C., at Doughboy Stadium. About 1,000 fans are expected.

The 508th, in their first start, dropped an 18-13 decision to the 82nd Airborne at Fort Bragg, N. C., but bounced back to top the 1952 Fort Benning Football League opener beating the Combat Training Command, 20-6, before 20,000 fans in Columbus.

100 Play Pro-Am Golf Meet Today

The first pro-amateur golf tournament ever held at The In-All-Star Club will be played over the famous Fort Benning Country Club course starting at noon today.

Between 30 and 40 top golf professionals from the southeastern area are expected to participate in the one day event. There will be some $500 in prize money offered.

Pro Charles Harper will be one of the featured players. He won the Southeastern PGA tournament last week in Memphis with an 11-under-par 271 for the 72 holes, beating out Cary Middlecoff by six strokes.

Other top entrants include Bob Hayes, of Atlanta, current Atlanta Open champion, Broyles Crenshaw, Valdosta, Ga., current Georgia PGA champion, and A. Scuddy Horner, of Montgomery, Ala., 1951 Southeastern PGA winner.

Harper says he expects more than 100 entries for the event. Charlie will team with amateur (Maj.) John Menlon, Lt. Orville captain, 21 first and second lieutenants, warrant officers and enlisted grades E-7 through E-9, 32 and 41 telephones are in operation in these areas.

Suggested amounts for civil service employers are: grades 11 and 12, $4.0 to $9.0; 13 to 15, $2.00 to $4.00; 16 to 18, $1.00 to $2.00. All non-appropriated fund employees are asked to give $1.

"Not Mandatory"
Contributions to the fund are not mandatory, nor are the suggested amounts, Major Gen. Robert N. Young, infantry center commander, wrote in a letter addressed to all Fort Benning personnel.

In his letter General Young urged commanders of all echelons and chiefs of departments and staff sections to cooperate to the fullest so that all military and civilian personnel are given a chance to do their part.

Organizations which benefit from the drive include: Army Emergency Relief, Fort Benning Children's School, Boy and Girl Scouts (Cub Scouts and Brownies), Teen-age Children's Club, Fort Benning Children's Christmas Party.

telephones on the Main Post and Lawson Air Force Base. At present about 2,500 phones are in operation in these areas.

The Sand Hill and Harmony Church areas have dial exchanges of their own. In addition to dial equipment, the telephone office also will have a cashboard and employees are assigned to give $1.

Work on an underground cable between the Main Post and Lawson Air Force Base has already been completed. It replaces the aerial cable which formerly connected the two areas.

Edward Bower, foreman, estimated that more than 1,000,000 soldered connections and thousands of miles of wire will be required to install the office equipment.

An equipment for the new exchange will be housed in a renovated office building next to the present telephone exchange, which was built last February.

Two buildings from the Signal Corps Plant Engineering Agency in Washington, D. C., and eight technicians from Third Army headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga., are installing the dial equipment. Although actual installation work is expected to be completed by mid-October, outside work, such as numbering cables and terminals, will take longer.

More Economical
It is more economical to install a completely new system than to repair the old one in most instances. Equipment now in use will be sent to a Signal Corps depot for rehabilitation once the new system begins operation.

Telephone numbers now in use on the Main Post will be changed from four to five digits in the 20-21-22-23-24 groups. Directories of new listings will be issued about November.

Signal officials said that they were looking to the future needs of Fort Benning in installing the new equipment. Building projects, such as new housing, mess hall, and bachelor officer quarters, pose demands for future telephone requirements, they pointed out.

TIS Quarterly Hits New High

Circulation of The Infantry School Quarterly, published by the School's Training Publications Department, has reached a new all-time peak of 13,083, according to Lt. William Barrett, circulation manager.

The Quarterly, which had a circulation of only 7,154 two years ago, is edited by Maj. John K. Kelly of Annapolis, Md., and Capt. Curtis L. Anders of Commerce, Texas.

It was established in July, 1947, following the increased demand for information by Infantry Reserve Guardsmen and Organized Reserve units concerning changes in weapons and organization. Before that time, The Infantry School sent out a semi-annual documentary Infantry School Mailings List, which had been functioning since 1859.

The Infantry School publication, which has worldwide readership, is published in January, April, July and October and stresses articles on small unit tactics, new Infantry ideas and training aids.

Any Army men may contribute to the magazine. Authors are paid based on the quality of the manuscript.

EM To Censor Mail Next War

Washington (AP) — Army enlisted men will censor troops' mail in event of another war.

The plan to use enlisted men down through the rank of private first class, as censors was disclosed in a new Army special regulation. The regulation added the job of censorship examiner to the duties of enlisted "intelligence specialists."

During WWII, troops' mail sent to the U. S. from overseas was censored by officers.

The new duties would be enforced only in the event of total mobilization. There is no mail censorship now, even in Korea, the Army said.

Officers Start Study Group

A voluntary study group of officers at the Infantry School has been inaugurated at Fort Benning.

The unofficial group meets every two weeks for two hours for discussions and constructive thinking to prepare its members for future assignments and commands, according to Major William T. Long, Jr. of the school's Director of Instruction Office.

Fort Benning Marks 35 Years Of Service

BENNING'S FIRST HEADQUARTERS . . . The work of administering The Infantry School once went on behind the ivy-covered walls of this shingled building. The school at that time was located on what is today Stilwell Field, a giant parade ground on the Main Post. In 1935 it moved into its present modern headquarters.

SYMBOL OF LEADERSHIP . . . In the many battles the U.S. Infantrymen have fought to protect us against aggression, they have learned to look to their leaders, most of whom have trained at the Infantry School. From second lieutenant to five-star general, Army leaders have received expert guidance, based on experience and a tradition inspired by a record of military successes during their weeks of study here.

Home of Infantry Becomes Famous Throughout World For Its Training

BY ROBERT SHOGAN

Fort Benning, castle of the "Queen of Battle," celebrates its 35th birthday this month.

It was Oct. 7, 1918, when the appointment of Col. Henry Eames as post commandant became effective, that the home of the Infantry was born.

From South Korea to West Germany, infantry privates and generals will be wishing many happy returns to Fort Benning, now the U. S. Army Infantry Center, which has served the nation through two world wars and the Korean campaign.

Memories of Benning will be as varied as the myriad activities of the post, whose 35 years have been marked by continued growth and development in physical facilities and training methods.

Today the home of the Infantry, commanded by Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., covers 284 square miles, contains more than 5,000 buildings and can support a population of 50,000 persons.

It has come a long way from the seven-day wonder, built on the double by contracting Quartermaster Major John Paul Jones in the early fall of 1918. Original location was at Macon Road, three miles east of Columbus.

World War I has brought home to the War Department because of the diversified land and relatively moderate climate. In addition, the citizens of Columbus were enthusiastic in their support of the plan to locate the school in their area.

As Gen. Pershing pointed out, "The rifle and bayonet are still the supreme weapons of the soldier, and the ultimate success of the army depends on their proper use in open warfare."

The Columbus site was chosen by the War Department because of the diversified land and relatively moderate climate. In addition, the citizens of Columbus were enthusiastic in their support of the plan to locate the school in their area.

Birthplace of 'Camp'

With the birthplace of "Camp" Benning the Infantry at last had found a home. The story of the two has been synonymous ever since, and together they have written many glorious chapters in U. S. military history.

As a sector of North-South suddenly, the new post was named after Gen. Henry Lewis Benning, a famous Confederate officer from the Columbus area. And shortly after opening of the camp, Col. Eames chose Ann Caroline Benning, daughter of the general, to raise the first flag on the post.

Almost as soon as the flag was raised, the infant installation began to have growing pains. Structures in the Small Arms Firing School complained that firing facilities were not suitable. Colonel Eames investigated and found a better location at the Bussey Plantation, nine miles south of Columbus, Ga. The switch to the new site went smoothly and the post began to grow rapidly.

At the end of World War I, amidst the conflict and shearing, the War Department was forced to think of economy. Plans were made to abandon Camp Benning, and the order was given to salvage all buildings and equipment. But when all seemed lost, Major John Paul Jones and a dictionary came to the rescue. Like his Navy namesake, Major Jones had just begun to fight. Checking Webster, he found that "salvage" meant (Please See SERVICE, Page 9)

All Roads Lead to Benning For Famous VIPs

In the 35 years of its existence, Fort Benning has become the military mecca for thousands of important personages coming to pay homage to the Queen of Battle.

From Warren G. Harding, the first presidential visitor, down through the years, VIPs from all over the world have come to the home of the infantry to observe, learn, speak or dedicate.

The visit of an important personage, which throws most military installations into a hectic excitement, is so commonplace here that it seldom disturbs normal operations of the post. Only those arrays to be visited are alerted and a story appears in the local radio stations. And the VIP departs with little fuss.

The nonchalance with which the post handles the visitors comes not from any lack of respect. It results instead from the number of important persons who visit the post.

In the first eight months of the year approximately 300 visitors were recorded. VIP status among these were Theodor Blank, defense minister of Germany; Field Marshall Bernard Montgomery; James P. Mitchell, assistant secretary of the Army; Gen. John Dahlquist, chief of Army Field Forces, and Gen. James A. Van Fleet. A compilation of VIPs who have visited Fort Benning during its 35 years would be an international "Who's Who."

Leading Generals Give Benning as 'Alma Mater'

Fort Benning has been the training ground for many of the Army's most famous figures. A list of the heroes connected with the post during its 35 years of service to the nation reads like a military Who's Who.

Here they acquired much of the knowledge and experience they were to call upon in later years. The man whose name leads all the rest was a football coach on Fort Benning's all-Army team of 1928. A major in the 24th Infantry Regiment at the time, Dwight D. Eisenhower was to go on to lead the Allied nations to victory over Germany and then become President of the United States and Commander in chief of its Armed Forces.

Another alumnus who became a distinguished statesman was Gen. George C. Marshall. The former Army chief of staff and secretary of state was assistant commander of the Infantry School as a lieutenant colonel from 1927 to 1932.

Hodges Commandant

Gen. Courtney H. Hodges who led the First Army in its march across Europe in World War II was commandant of the Infantry School from October, 1940, to March 1941. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, recently retired as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, succeeded Gen. Hodges at the Infantry School and held the command until February, 1942. Gen. Bradley's World War II commands included the US II Corps in North Africa and the 12th Army Group in Europe.
