Two officers from the Artillery School's Anti-Aircraft Branch and Guided Missile Branch at Fort Bliss, Texas, conducted a three-hour course for The Infantry School's advanced class last Friday. They were Major George H. Cecil and Louis B. Williams of Fort McPherson, Ga., and Edward Coffin, Jr., infantry center signal officer, and signal officials of the 47th Infantry Division. Major Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, former U. S. commander in Berlin, Germany is visiting relatives and friends this week, and will stay with his daughter and son-in-law Capt. and Mrs. John Callaghan, and with Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, infantry center commander, and Mrs. Harper. Gen. and Mrs. Timberman, accompanied by their son, Tommy, will leave this week for Fort Leavenworth, Wash., where the two-star will take command of the 44th Infantry Division. Three Fort Benning officials attended a two-day conference on the use of television in military instruction which opened last week at Camp Gordon, Ga. Attending were Dr. Harold S. Tait, education officer, The Infantry School, Lt. Col. William McBride, assistant director of instruction, and Capt. William S. Hathaway, an instructor on the Staff Department's Training Committee. Capt. Joe P. Touhy has been presented the Purple Heart for wounds received in Korea. A member of Headquarters Company, First Squad Regiment, Cpl. Touhy was wounded July 27, 1953, while serving with the 157th Airborne Regimental Combat Team near Kumma. Three Third Army officials visited the Fort Benning Signal Section last week. Lt. Col. Donald F. Killmer and Mark W. Nieman presented instruction in surface-to-surface and surface-to-air capabilities of guided missiles. The instruction was under the supervision of the Tactical Department's Artillery Committee. Capt. Alvin E. Adkins has been presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant for outstanding service at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. He was cited for improving training techniques while commander of Company B, 52nd Armored Engineer Battalion, Sixth Armored Division from Dec. 29, 1952, to April 24, 1954. Capt. Adkins is a student in The Infantry School's officers advanced course which opened June 14. He entered the 1954 Freedom Foundation Contest. Send your letter of no more than 500 words to Awards Editor, Armed Forces Radio Service, 1150 W. Carson Place, Los Angeles 38, Calif. Your letter must bear your name, rank, service number, and organization. It must be received before midnight Nov. 11, 1954. Letters received after that date will be considered for the next year's awards. (APPS)

Chap. Kosa Joins Vikings MEDAL OF HONOR

Chaplain (First Lt.) Ernest M. Kosa of New Brunswick, N. J., has assumed duties with the 13th Infantry Regiment, 47th Division at Fort Benning. A Presbyterian, Chaplain Kosa served with the 45th Infantry Division and the 1X Corps in Korea from April, 1953 to July, 1954. Commissioned a first lieutenant in October, 1952, he attended the Chaplain's School at Fort Slocum, N. Y. and then was assigned to Fort Bliss, Texas. Chaplain Kosa received his bachelor's degree from Bloomfield College in 1949 and completed his theological studies there in 1949. The Medal of Honor has been awarded to 1st Lt. Benjamin F. Wilson, for his heroic action near Hwachon-Myon, Korea, June 5, 1951. His unit - Co. I, 31st Inf. Regt., 7th Div. - was committed to a daylight attack against heavily fortified enemy positions on high ground. When the spearheading element of the attack was pinned down, Lt. Wilson attacked alone with his rifle and grenades. He killed four enemy machine gunners and neutralized the position which had been holding up the advance. He then led a bayonet attack on a main objective which cost the enemy 27 dead. But, while the position was being consolidated, the Reds counterattacked and threatened to overrun the area. Lt. Wilson countered with a single-handed charge in which he killed seven and wounded two. The rest fled. An American assault struck to within 15 yards of the final objective before it was halted by heavy fire. Painfully wounded, Wilson remained alone to provide covering fire as the outfit withdrew. The enemy counterattacked the item Co. CO and first platoon leader fell - and Lt. Wilson again charged into the oncoming enemy. He killed three with his rifle before he wrestled away from him. Lt. Wilson bludgeoned four others to death with his entrenching tool. The ferocity of his fighting demoralized the enemy while his own company reorganized. Lt. Wilson was wounded again, but he stayed in his position covering the removal of the wounded and the orderly withdrawal of the outfit. (APPS)

Wiles Sings On TV Show

Pvt. John Wiles, a classical baritone from Oklahoma City, Okla., was scheduled to appear on ABC-TV's one-hour variety show, "Soldier Parade" last night. Wiles studied opera in Italy in 1953 and made his debut with the Rome Opera Company that same year. He also spent the 1949 and 1950 seasons with the Dallas (Texas) Opera Company. A 1951 graduate of the University of Michigan, he received his master's degree in voice from that school in 1952. Entering the Army in December, 1953 he came to Fort Benning last May and was assigned to the Special Troops Command Band.

OC Chorus Sings Over TV Program

12th Officer Candidate Company's 20-man chorus, "The Stout-Hearted Men," was the guest of Fred Wuelner on his show, "Open House," over WRBL-TV recently. The chorus, directed by Captain Charles R. Hickey, sang "You'll Never Walk Alone," "Stormy Weather," and "The Bottle Hymn of the Republic," featuring baritone Glenn White. This was the first off-post appearance of The Stout-Hearted Men. Several more are planned before graduation.

Overheard at a faculty meeting: "He's the dumbest student I've ever seen. Most of them don't know anything, but this guy doesn't even suspect!"

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

BY M. D. JOYCE

You can only put so many rabbits out of the hat before you either run out of rabbits, or wear out the hat. The inexorable laws of mathematics caught up with Benning's Doughboys last Saturday as Fort Jackson's Eagles, pre-third army tourney co-favorites, crushingly avenged a second-round defeat by shelling the entire Doughboy pitching staff for 23 runs in 18 innings.

Take nothing away from the Doughboys. They were figured among the also-rans in the advance dope, and pulled the surprise of the tourney behind Fred Kipp as they pushed Jax in ten innings into the loser's bracket, 4-3, early in the proceedings.

Neither Kipp nor his hill comrades could stifle Jax's power-aden attack again, but the Doughboys brought home some hard-ware in the shape of the runner-up trophy and individual trophies not a bad effort for a club that had been organized some nine weeks prior to the Army eliminations.

Benning was the only major entry in the Third Army meet which had not devoted the show window preparation for the monthlong AS A TEAM.

Spotlighting thinks the decision which resulted in a regimental level intramural baseball loop, capped by a short post-level season, was a wise one. In establishing an athletic program, the Officering alternatives must be weighed:

Which will best serve the objectives of an athletic program, a purely intramural program, an intramural program, plus a concurrent post-level state or an intramural program, followed by a post-level season?

When purely intramural program is followed, some player and spectator interest is lost, as there is no ceiling established beyond which a unit team cannot aspire. A post championship is the end of the road. Unit commanders usually prefer that set-up. Unit esprit is boosted, minimum training time is lost.

However, as the '34 baseball season at Benning attests, other

3d Bn. Wins 30th Games

Headquarters Company, Third Battalion Infantry Regiment, made a clean sweep of the recent "Third Battalion Indoor Games," capturing the pool, checkers and ping-pong tournaments.

Edward Molton defeated the Company K representative to win the checkers battle. Walter J. Baker was victorious over another Company K representative in the pool tourney. Jerry Slynka won the ping-pong contest from a Company L opponent.

Members of the pentathlon team, which includes two Navy men, will train in Berlin next month.

CTC Names 11 Fighters

The Combat Training Command boxing team, now training daily, will place fighters in six weight divisions this season. To date, CTC has 11 men, including three CTC defending champs, who will tangle in these weight classes.

Barring changes in the boxers' weights, the CTC aggregation will place these men in their respective classes:

Light heavyweight: Wilbur Harris.

Middleweight: Nathaniel Whitt and Henry Riddle.

Welterweight: Raymond Nelson and Lawrence Peters.

Lightweight: Herman Hinton, Curtis Mullins and Charles Davis.

Featherweight: Dick Woodley and George Daniel.

Miller Selected For Pentathlon World Matches

David C. Miller, of Fort Benning, has been chosen as one of four members of the U. S. Army to represent this country in the world championship pentathlon meet, Oct. 10-15, in Budapest, Hungary.

The modern pentathlon is "the" military athletic event to many nations and it is now the only exclusively military event in the 1936 Olympics.

An excellent prospect for the U. S. Olympic team, Miller was completely unknown as a possible pentathlon performer until he made a clean sweep of the recent "Third Battalion Indoor Games," capturing the pool, checkers and ping-pong tournaments.

Edward Molton defeated the Company K representative to win the checkers battle. Walter J. Baker was victorious over another Company K representative in the pool tourney. Jerry Slynka won the ping-pong contest from a Company L opponent.

Wealth of Experience Used By Vintage CTC Recruiter

BY CPL. F. G. SULLIVAN

Few servicemen can speak with as much authority on the "old Army" as M-Sgt. Robert D. Baker, recruiting sergeant of the Combat Training Command.

On the wall of M-Sgt. Baker's neat brick veneer home at 3225 Glenn St., in Columbus hangs a portrait of Gen. John "Blackjack" Pershing. In the way of explanation, Sgt. Baker comments, "I saw him in person in 1916 at El Paso, Texas. He was crossing the International Bridge on a white horse."

The "old-timer" entered the Army in 1914, at the age of 15. He and a friend conspired to enlist under age by signing each other's papers. The young boys were natives of Manchester, Ky., and both shared the desire to be soldiers.

Enlisting at Cincinnati, O. H. I., Sgt. Baker had his basic training at Columbus Barracks, Ohio. He was then assigned to Battery D, 4th Coast Artillery at Fort Monroe, Va. Recalling his days at that post, Baker says, "They had the old 12 inch scige mortars there for coastal defense. We fired them for gunnery practice every month."

The Mexican Border Incident in 1916 sent American troops rushing to that area. Although he was a Coast Artillery unit, Baker's outfit ended with border patrol duty in Texas. It was here that he saw Gen. Pershing, who was leading the American Expeditionary Forces for France. They landed at Liverpool, England. From there they sailed to Nancy, France where Baker was assigned to the 53rd Coast Artillery Regiment at that time.

The 53rd manned one 16 inch railroad gun which could hurt a 1,500 pound projectile 20 miles. Sgt. Baker's duties included layard, muller and range setter. He remembers, "I took 21 men to fire that thing. The shell was brought up by horse and wagon, and lifted by block and tackle. When it fired it would rock you on your toes."

While with this railroad weapon, Sgt. Baker engaged in the battles of St. Mihiel, Argonne Forest, Marne and Lorraine. Although they had some close calls during shellings by the enemy, Sgt. Baker emerged unscathed. After World War I ended, Baker served with the occupation forces in Coblenz, Germany.

After returning to the States he came to Fort Benning for the first time in 1919. He served with the post office here until 1923, when he was discharged.

Then began 17 years of civilian life for Sgt. Baker as a resident of Columbus. During these days he worked in the grocery and baking businesses, and tried his hand at operating his own business concern, the Baker Produce Company.

In 1920, Sgt. Baker married a Columbus girl, Miss Jessie L. Mann, Sgt. and Mrs. Baker have two children, Robert D., Jr. and Margaret. Robert, Jr. is a veteran of nine years' service in the Army during and after World War I. Margaret is now living with her husband Sfc. Willie J. Lundy, in Germany.

The year 1940 saw the call to serve being answered once again by Sgt. Baker. He enlisted at Fort Knox, Ky., and was assigned to the First Armored Division when it was organized. Sgt. Baker adds, "I was never really happy out of the Army."

During World War II, Baker served as first sergeant of Company A, 4th Medical Battalion at Fort Knox. He later served at Camp Chaffee, Ark., Camp Shelby, Miss., and Brooklyn Army Base, N. Y.

Following the Second World War, Baker went on recruiting duty in Ohio where he served as recruiting sergeant in Stubeville, Cincinnati and Martins Ferry. He arrived at Fort Benning again in 1943 and was assigned to recruting duty in Montgomery, Ala.

Sgt. Baker returned to his office receiving the Alabama Military District recruiting trophy for six months in succession. Sgt. Baker received a personal commendation for his outstanding performance of duties.

The "old-timer" received his second German, occupation medal when he returned to that country in 1929. He served as chief clerk of the 10th Field Hospital for eight months before returning to the states.

After a short stay at Camp Polk, La., Sgt. Baker returned to Fort Benning and joined CTC in May, 1933. He has served as recruiting sergeant of that organization since that time.

Mighty Pretty Cabbage

Black Marketeers Hold Bag When Army Switches Scrip

WASHINGTON — In the face of bombshell effect, it leaves all combining individuals out in left field without a glove. The recall and conversion of Military Payment Certificates, or scrip, at irregular intervals and without any prior announcement is aimed primarily at unauthorized persons and invariably leaves them holding the proverbial bag. Members of the Armed Forces and civilians employed by the U. S. government are recalled from overseas to turn in the old and receive new scrip. Because of the secrecy involved and without prior word of the exchange, black marketeers, counterfelters and other unauthorized holders of the old issue have little choice but to weep bitter tears.

Military Payment Certificates are denominated in U. S. dollars or fractions thereof, which are the official media of exchange in overseas commands or in quasi-official and private agencies working in behalf of the U. S. Armed Forces. The scrip is used in Austria, Belgium, France, Free Territory of Trieste, French Morocco, Germany, Iceland, Italy, Iwo Jima, Japan and outlying islands, Korea, Philippines, Ryukyu Islands, Tripoli, United Kingdom and Yugoslavia.

The MPC's are issued in the following denominations: five, ten, twenty-five and fifty cents; one, five and ten dollars. The scrip, first issued in September, 1946, has been recalled and converted four times. Each recall helps determine the financial condition of the system, thwarts black market operations, prevents financial manipulations and reveals possibly counterfeiting. Charged with printing the MPC's, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has come up with something novel in the latest scrip by using vignettes of two female models. Referring to the new issue, an overseas Army wit was heard to remark: "MPC's—mighty pretty cabbage!"

Government, Press writing and Radio operations. Both Pfc. Pompilio, who will be T&E NCO, and Pfc. Foster, who has been named Public Information NCO, finished in the top half of the class. The school which had previously been known as the Armed Forces Information School, operated under joint supervision until recently. In April the Department of Defense reorganized the school by increasing the length of the course from six weeks to eight weeks, and placing it under the control of the Army.

Army to Help Build A-Plant

FT. BELVOIR, Va. (APPS)—A small experimental, full-scale nuclear power plant—the prototype of the "transportable" or "transportable atomic power reactor"—will be built here in a joint project of the Army Corps of Engineers and the Atomic Energy Commission. The project will be the first undertaken by the military for the development of stationary nuclear power plants. The Army's power plant will be designed solely for electric power utility and/or heating purposes. Other atomic energy projects of the military are in the research, propulsion and weapons fields.

The stationary power reactor is expected to service remote bases, wartime military theaters and war-blasted areas where shipment of conventional fuel is either expensive or vulnerable to enemy attack. The plant, which will produce about 1700 kilowatts of electricity, will be built in components transportable by air. A pressurized-water type reactor, it will be constructed with provisions to eliminate any hazard to nearby communities. In addition to producing electricity, the model will be designed to produce steam heat. The experimental reactor will provide construction, operation and maintenance data, besides giving the Army a training facility that can be used in the regular program of the Army Engineer School here.

Command Conference Stresses!

Our Country, What it Means to Be A Citizen of the United States

AMERICANS—that is citizens of the United States—seem to pride themselves on their cynical approach to ideals, particularly the ideal of patriotism. Sociologists partially explain this attitude by citing the disillusionment of the generation which fought World War I in the idealistic belief that they were "making the world safe for democracy," only to discover some 15 years later that the world was not safe for democracy, nor even for benevolent monarchies. The generation of Americans which fought World War II apparently derived considerable satisfaction from the alleged fact "we conducted the war like a big engineering project," with the role of the dedicated, patriotic individual correspondingly, albeit unintentionally, minimized. And, during the early stages of U.S. participation in the Korean war, a great hue and cry was raised that "our boys don't know why they are fighting on foreign

German Playground Now Maneuver Area

BERLIN — A part of Berlin's favorite playground, the Grunewald, has been turned into a maneuver area for U. S. soldiers. Usually, when the Army goes on maneuvers, it heads for the wide open spaces within the tight boundaries of this island of freedom surrounded by the Russians, so the Grunewald has to do.

The "green forest" is an 11,000-acre expanse of woodlands, but city conservation programs and heavy traffic have cut the Army's elbow room down to 1,000 acres. Here American soldiers of the Sixth Infantry Regiment practice survival games within hand grenade

Sgt. Stevenson Named Opn. Chief

Newly assigned operations chief of the Infantry School Detachment is M. Sgt. Kermit M. Stevenson, of Columbus. Sgt. Stevenson reported to the S-4 job from the 17th Mesage Center Company in Germany after being discharged in New York and then re-enlisting for three years at Fort Benning.

This is his second tour of duty at the Infantry School Detachment. He was first sergeant of Company E in 1952 after being a member of The Infantry School's Weapon Department.

YOU CAN FLY

News From King's School of Aviation, Inc. Victory Drive (Ride Route 2 Bus) "Parasols All Over The World"

An idle person cannot do a good job. A busy person with outside interests is the man who succeeds. Man or girl, we urge you to use your time constructively to develop your abilities. Opportunity knocks for you to learn to fly at King's School of Aviation, Inc. Regardless of who you are, you can learn to fly. There are only four controls to learn: aileron, rudder, elevator, and throttle.

Don't be timid; you don't have to know anything. We can teach you to fly regardless of what you think of your abilities.

Had quite a bit of flying over the holidays. CLARENCE and WILLIE PRIOR flew in their Stinson to Texas for a State. JOHN WARD flew his Skyraider to Little Rock while TOM REES rented a 10 to take a swim in the Atlantic Ocean at St. Simons. GLEN WHEELER rented the 180 for a trip to Panama City.

Post to Be Host To Area Meetin'

Civil defense workers, public officials and food service specialists from seven southeastern states and the Caribbean area will study an Emergency Mass Feeding Program at Fort Benning Sept. 23-24.

Representatives from Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Panama Canal Zone will be among those attending the two-day session, sponsored here by Third Army and the Regional Federal Civil Defense Administration for the second straight year.

The 15-hour program, to be conducted by the Third Army Food Service School, will prepare those attending to set up emergency feeding areas and prepare food in case of national disaster, such as a tornado, hurricane or bombing attack.

The civilians scheduled to attend are home economists, public welfare officials, dietitians, restaurant operators, civil defense workers and nutritionists. They will learn how to build stoves out of salvaged materials, construct a sanitary feeding area and make their own cooking utensils.

A simulated disaster area has been set up to give the students the feel of reality, according to CWO Claude English, the school's training officer.

Bayonet Practice

Young EM Teach Officers How to Parry and Thrust

A dozen young enlisted men are teaching veteran officers and officer candidates at the Infantry School how to handle one of the Army's oldest weapons — the bayonet — a weapon conceived by the French in the 1650's and still basic with the Infantry.

Long drills, in which students parry and thrust in various exercises, are a necessary part of becoming expert with the weapon. But its importance and use are taught more realistically through demonstrations by the Staff Department's Physical Training Committee.

In one of their first classes, students are often startled by a Commande yell from a couple of assistant instructors who dart from nowhere and engage in hand-to-hand combat.

This little attention-getter gives students a good idea of what can be done with a bayonet.

Bayonet instruction, beginning with demonstrations, lectures and practice drills, also employs dummies to illustrate the various thrusts and parries necessary to become proficient with the weapon. Typical of the assistant instructors is Pfc Leroy Kruppa of El Campo, Texas. Kruppa, who has been at Fort Benning since November, 1953, became an expert with the bayonet after 17 months of almost constant use of the weapon.

Before coming to Fort Benning he taught bayonet technique at Fort Ord, Calif., where he attended Leadership School. He was a student in the basic non-commissioned officers course at Fort Benning when he was picked to become an assistant instructor.

The work of Kruppa and his fellow instructors includes, besides their teaching duties, regular practice with the bayonet and physical conditioning exercises. "Keeping in excellent physical condition through an intensive physical training program and maintaining proficiency with the bayonet by constant rehearsal and practice are essential requirements for the enlisted instructors of the bayonet section and the physical training committee," according to Major Elbert E. Kibele, section leader.

Two principal enlisted instructors are M-Sgt. James England of Columbus, Ga., and SFC Ralph Dunahoo of Culbert, Ga. Other enlisted men in the section are M-Sgt. Jack Williams of Vinegar Bend, Ala., SFC William Rabon of Blountstown, Fla., Sgt. Edward Leonard of New Haven, Conn., Sgt. James Cuff of Philadelphia, Pa., Sgt. Kenneth Thayer of Tampa, Fla., PFC Alfred Ramsey of Louise, Texas, Pfc Eugene Toschi of Oakland, Calif., and PFC Edgar Gumbert of Edinboro, Pa.

Bayonet Errs In Medal Epic

AR's and SR's of the 600-series really caught it last Thursday as interested bodies both in TIC and TIS wondered "when did they adopt that medal?" after reading a front-page BAYONET story about Sfc. Hervey J. Rainville receiving the "Good Soldier Medal for Heroism."

While the fruit-salad-happy lads were scanning the regulations, The Bayonet staff muffled the phone bell and squared their jaws. Repercussions, well we guess!

Now to square the record: Sfc. Hervey J. Rainville, 14th OC Company, Fifth Solder Battalion, was awarded the SOLDIER'S MEDAL for heroism. It is a good medal — one of the best, and with the exception of the distinguished Flying Cross, the only authorized award for heroism performed when not in contact with an armed enemy.

And Sfc. Rainville undoubtedly is a good soldier. Maybe there should be a Good Soldier Medal — something between the Good Conduct Medal and the Army Commendation Ribbon.

The Bayonet staff tender their apologies to Sfc. Rainville, but that's the way it was released to us, and we gooted it. Sfc. Rainville will be happy to know that the release sent out by PIO, TIC, credited him with the proper award.

The largest Signal installation in the Army is maintained at Camp Gordon, Ga., known as the Signal Corps Training Center.

WINS RIBBON . . . Capt. Jack M. George of New Truxton, Mo., has been presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant for his work in the ROTC program in the Memphis, Tenn., City High Schools, when he served as an assistant professor of military science and tactics. He is now attending the advanced officers' course here.

Capt. Kemp Joins G-3

Capt. Gibson D. Kemp of Olton, Texas, has joined The Infantry Center's G-3 Section as assistant operations officer.

A veteran of 14 years of service, he was with the Ninth Infantry Regiment, Second Division, in Europe from November, 1943, to November, 1945, participating in the Normandy, Northern France and Rhineland Campaigns.

Capt. Kemp went to Japan in January, 1950, for assignment with Eighth Army headquarters and later with the Japan Logistical Command, returning to the U.S. in May, 1953.

A 1943 graduate of The Infantry School's officer candidate course, he began his second tour of duty at Fort Benning last July with the Information and Education Section.

His decorations include the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal and Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster. Capt. Kemp is married to the former Pearl Akers of London, England.

Reserve Officers Plan Schedule

Army Reserve officers (from Montgomery met last week with Infantry Center officials to plan a training schedule for the Alabama city's 528th Engineer Aviation Group which will be on active duty at Fort Benning Oct. 3-17.

The Reserve Group includes 15 officers and 25 enlisted men. An advance party is scheduled to arrive Oct. 1 to make final preparations for the training camp.

Administrative and logistical support of the Montgomery unit will be furnished by Fort Benning's 78th Engineer (Combat) Battalion.

Conqueror of Yellow Fever

FROM THE SERVICE STRIPE
Slightly more than a century ago in the little town of Belvoir, Va., an unheralded blessed event took place in the home of a Methodist minister and his wife. Almost 50 years afterward in Camp Lazear, approximately six miles outside Havana, Cuba, another blessed event occurred which served as a beacon in Army medical history, resulted in the saving of countless thousands of lives and furthered mankind's knowledge in conquering another dreaded disease.

Principal in both events was Walter Reed, who, after a plethora of experiments and various tests conducted while heading a commission to investigate the causes of yellow fever, proved conclusively that the species of mosquito (Aedes aegypti) that the species of yellow fever. As a result, the Army went into action under the direction of Maj. W. C. Gorgas and cleared out breeding havens of the species. In addition to the saving of thousands of lives, work was soon safely undertaken to construct the Panama Canal, another area where yellow fever existed.

Monday marked the 103rd anniversary of the birth of Walter Reed, who held the rank of major when his untimely death occurred following an appendectomy at Washington Barracks, (now Fort McNair) on Nov. 23, 1902, just 12 days after being appointed librarian of the Army Medical Library. A commemorative bronze plaque at that site serves as a reminder of the passing of the "conqueror of yellow fever."

Maj. Reed earned two medical degrees, one at the age of 17 from the University of Virginia and another in 1870 from the Bellevue Medical College in New York City. Following an internship at Kings County Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., he was engaged in public health work in New York City and Brooklyn.

In 1886 the Reed family moved to Charlottesville, Va. A year later, at the age of 16 he entered the University by special permission. Since his older brothers were already attending the school, the young student could not readily undertake a complete course. Therefore, Reed asked the faculty whether a medical degree would be granted if he passed the examinations. With the promise of the faculty that a degree of Doctor of Medicine was his if the tough examinations were hurdled, the 16-year old college man set out to attain that degree. Nine months later Reed was graduated third in his class.

Reed was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Army in June 1875. Dr. Reed entered the Service because he wanted a future that would be secure so he could carry on scientific research. Following his commission, the new Army surgeon was assigned as assistant surgeon at Willet's Point, N. Y. Eleven years were then spent in the Arizona and Nebraska territories, where he treated both soldiers and civilians.

At the turn of the century, the indefatigable major went to Cuba where he was to accomplish immortality in the annals of Army medical history.

As a lasting tribute a new Army hospital opened on May 1, 1909, now the Walter Reed Army Medical Center was named in his honor.

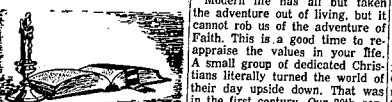

CITED FOR WORK — Miss Alice Obert of Columbus, Civil Service employe at Fort Benning for four years, receives an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement from Col. Edward P. Smith, Infantry School secretary. Miss Obert has resigned her position to attend Florida Christian College at Tampa.

The Chaplain's Corner

Adventures of Faith Still Are Available

(BY CHAPLAIN (CAPT.) PAUL E. KLETT)
Writing to the Christians at Colosse, St. Paul pens a few words that should be helpful to us as we struggle to overcome the problems of life. "And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks unto God and the Father by Him."

Those who make profession of religious faith have the perennial problem of translating their faith into practice. Critics of the Faith of our fathers have recommended a new faith for our times, insinuating that the 20th Century man has outgrown the "faith once delivered to the saints." If we are really honest with ourselves, we will have to admit that we don't succeed too well when we try to put our faith to work. That is one reason for the boredom in our lives. Two prominent Christian laymen reminded the recent convention of the World Council of Churches at Vancouver that the Christian Church has begun to grapple with many problems confronting the man on the street. It is in the arena of life that our faith must be effective as a testimony to the living Christ. St. Paul obviously thought it possible to demonstrate his faith in the business of daily living. As a servant of Jesus Christ, everything he thought, spoke, or did grew out of his relationship with his Master. Every task, no matter how routine, or commonplace it may have seemed at the time, had a place in God's scheme for his life. It was his philosophy of life, and history declared that it worked.

Your life can be different if you are willing to make Paul's philosophy of "doing everything in the name of the Lord Jesus" your own. Approximately four and three-quarters percent of the men returning from a two-year period of duty in the Army are going into active pay status in the Reserve.

WHAT AMERICA MEANS TO ME

Name of the Lord Jesus" yours. The Anglican poet John Ellerton has given us a stanza in a hymn which echoes the Apostle's thoughts:

Time is the loom, the forge, the mart,
The wealth of land and sea;
The worlds of science and of art.

Revealed and ruled by Thee,
Stonewall Jackson used to say that he did not raise a glass of water to his lips, seal or post of a letter, enter a classroom, without a prayer in his heart and upon his lips. It worked for him and it can work for us. Some people, you see, have gotten it all wrong. They believe that the Christian way will deprive them of most of the joys and satisfactions of life, when it is really the opposite that is true.

Modern life has all but taken the adventure out of living, but it cannot rob us of the adventure of Faith. This is a good time to re-appraise the values in your life. A small group of dedicated Christians literally turned the world of their day upside down. That was in the first century. Our 20th Century is challenging our individualism and our organization. It must be received before midnight Nov. 11, 1954. Letters received after that date will be considered for the next year's awards. (AFPS)

MEDAL OF HONOR

Marine S. Sgt. Lewis G. Watkins has been posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor for sacrificing his life to save the marines under his command. While serving with a rifle platoon of Co. I, 3rd Bn., 7th Marines, First Marine Division, Korea, Sgt. Watkins and his men came under heavy enemy fire. The platoon had been assigned the job of getting back an outpost overrun by the enemy earlier in the night. Skillfully leading his men through the hill crest, an enemy wounded by Sgt. Watkins was poured from the enemy's crest partially wounding him. (AFPS)

BY DON LARSEN
"The Student Price," MGM's second big musical in CinemaScope and color, opens at the Main Post Theater Sunday Sept. 19 for a two-day run, with a cast starring Ann Blyth, the highest paid newcomer Edmund Purdom, John Ericson and Louis Calhern, with the singing voice of Mario Lanza. This is a filmization of the famous Sigmund Romberg musical romance telling the story of a mythical kingdom and of a prince who goes to the University of Heidelberg to study and falls in love with a commoner.

Frank Sinatra, singer turned actor, makes a pretty good attempt in "Suddenly" to portray the part of a ruthless killer. Sterling Hayden and James Gleason also star in this story about a psychopathic sex-fi, who kills for a million dollars, attempts to assassinate the President of the United States. Gary Merrill and Jan Sterling combine their talents in Allied Artists new release, "The Human Jungle." The story revolves about Gary Merrill, who as a newly appointed captain of the police force, is called upon to solve a murder. He is disliked by his subordinate officers for his methods and orders. The papers criticize Merrill's failure to solve the crime, but in spite of this, he closes in on the killer after a long chase. Ida Lupino, my favorite actress, portrays a night club singer with a passion for things only money can buy, in Filmmakers' production of "Private Hell 36." Co-starring Hugo Cobran, "Private Hell 36" looks like a sure bet for good entertainment. . . .

Let me mention of the new play in the Broadway night's show, beginning on Sept. 21, the late show will have an entirely different picture than the one showing during the day, so visit Theater No. 1 on that date and enjoy "Criminal Lawyer," starring Pat O'Brien and Jane Wyatt. . . . That's all for now, see you at the theaters.

On The Bookshelf

CONQUEST OF DON PEDRO, by Harvey Ferguson (Morrow, 317 pages)
A colorful and exciting and romantic story of a Jewish peddler's conquest of the New Mexico territory of Don Pedro at the time of the American victory over the Spaniards. Despite the great hostility, Lea Mendes did survive.

TWELFTH PHYSICIAN, by Willa Gibbs (Parry, 277 pages)
Dr. Charles Florian chose to remain in Paris during the reign of terror. Risking the guillotine to meet with his five medical students he sends his wife to safety only to be trapped by a political enemy and sent to Devil's Island.

FINGERPRINTS, by Douglas Browne (Dutton, 266 pages)
This is a book which gives the history of fingerprinting from the very beginning. Fascinating true stories of murder and other crimes in which fingerprints have played a major role are included.

DEAD GAME SPORTSMEN, by Virgil Parfitt (Duell, n.p.)
The "Big" Jim's intangible humor shows in cartoons of the adventures of gamesmen, fishermen and hunters.

THROUGH MALAN'S AFRICA, by Robert St. John (Doubleday, 317 pages)
Anecdotes, stories and profiles tell the story of the various warring factions of South Africa. Taking the reader through the principal cities to the farms of the Afrikaners, the ghettos of the Africans, and the suburbs restricted to Indians, the author gives an inside look on the race problems.

Library Concert

Rachmaninoff's "Concerto No. 2 in C Minor" and "Concerto No. 3 in D Minor" will be presented at the weekly recorded concert at the Main Post Library Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m.
"Concerto No. 2 in C Minor" is to many the best loved of all Rachmaninoff's compositions. It was published in 1902 and first performed by Rachmaninoff himself at a concert of the Philharmonic Society of Moscow in 1901. The work is a product of one of the most interesting and most crucial periods in the career of this composer. Vladimir Golschmann is conductor.

Unit Cited For Movie

A composite platoon of the 30th Infantry Regiment, which recently completed a training film on squad and platoon drill, has been commended for its superior performance.

The entire platoon was cited by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commander of The Infantry School, for its excellent work in producing the film. The platoon was under the command of Second Lt. Julian Marshall, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry.

The group consisted of 38 enlisted men and one officer. M-Sgt. Clifton G. Hobbs of the drill section was cited for his leadership. The platoon was commanded by Capt. F. J. Benfante, 28th Infantry Regiment, from Company

Young Personalities in the News at Fort Benning

OC William H. Dunn
Not every soldier has made a movie. But O.C. William H. Dunn of 14th O.C. Company may not be just "any" soldier. In February of this year, after completing basic training at Fort Dix, O.C. Dunn was selected to be sent to the Army Film Center on Long Island. There he participated in the movie, "Adjustment to Military Life." Bill says it was only a bit part, but adds, "Didn't Clark, Tyrene, and Croy start that way, too?" Bill's wife, Jeanette, who has seen the movie, doesn't share his optimism about a movie career. Actually, Dunn has thought about a career in law when he returns to civilian life.

OC Henry N. Platt
Formerly a missionary to Germany, O.C. Henry N. Platt of 14th O.C. Company still finds time for religious work despite his crowded schedule. He teaches a Sunday School class at Chapel No. 5 and heads a religious contest and study group in 14th O.C. Company. Prior to entering the Army Platt completed a year of missionary work in Munich, Germany. Serving with the Servicemen's Christian Crusade, he led prayer and bible study classes for U.S. Armed Forces personnel stationed in the Munich area. Platt served with this Christian group after completing studies at Soul Clinics in California and Texas.

Slide Artists
The members of 12th O.C. Company have recently been entertained by showings of color slides by two of their fellow Officer Candidates. O.C. Alan Reich, a former student at Oxford who has traveled extensively in Europe, showed his slides of Yugoslavia, while O.C. Michael Thompson, formerly a student at the University of Paris, showed a collection which included views of India, Siam, Hong Kong and Tokyo. Both of the viewings included a running narrative connected with the pictures drawn from the candidates' personal experiences.

Pvt. Olnhansen
Pvt. Vern A. F. von Olnhansen, mail clerk of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, recently received a letter of commendation from the postal section of TIC for outstanding performance.

The letter resulted from a recent postal inspection in Provisional Battalion, 30th Infantry, during which Headquarters and Headquarters Company mail room received a superlative rating. Prior to this commendation, Pvt. von Olnhansen was praised for his knowledge of mail regulations during a recent inspection of the company by Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, commanding general of The Infantry Center, who inspected the mail room.

OC Raymond Flaherty
An airborne ranger during most of his nine year Army career, O.C. Raymond Flaherty has one of the longest and most distinguished service records in the 14th Officer Candidate Company. A former resident of Boston, Mass., Flaherty entered the Army in September 1945. From then until 1949 he served a tour of occupation duty with the 21st Military Police Company in Italy. Since 1949, when he completed airborne and ranger training, Flaherty has seen combat duty in Korea with the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, served a tour of occupation duty in Japan and has spent some time at just about every major Army post in the United States. The former master sergeant saw his first combat in April 1952. In August of the same year, at Chok-ki-Hi, Korea, Flaherty was severely wounded in the face when he threw himself between an exploding grenade and a friend. He saved his friend's life, and despite his wound, continued to lead his unit's attack which successfully overran the objective. For this action he received the Silver Star and the Purple Heart. Upon recovery he returned to combat until December 1952 when he left Korea with the Bronze Star also.

2nd Lt. James Coggins
Second Lt. James Edward Coggins, a student in 14th company of the First Student Regiment, was selected during his college career for Who's Who of American colleges and universities. The award is made annually and consists of a list of outstanding students from various colleges.

LA. Coggins is a graduate of The Citadel, in Charleston, S. C. The young officer also holds the Infantry Association Award for outstanding cadets and the DE White commander of the winning company in close order drill. He is enrolled in Basic Infantry Officers Course No. 2.

OC Arnold D. Sommer
"Like father like son"—this is the motto uppermost in the mind of Officer Candidate Arnold D. Sommer of 14th O. C. Company. "I'd like to follow in my father's footsteps, and therefore I'm in O.C.S."

Candidate Sommer, born at Fort Mills, Corregidor, in the Philippine Islands, knows a great deal about the Army. He has been an "Army Brat" all his life. His father graduated from West Point with the Class of '32 and is now a colonel and the Director of the Logistics Division, Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe. Speaking of Officer Candidate

Stenos Given Top Ratings
Two civilian stenographers employed by Army Field Forces Board No. 3 have been awarded high performance ratings of outstanding. They are Mrs. Mary E. Williams of 702 South Eighth Street, Opelika, Ala., and Mrs. Katherine B. Bross of 1142 Britt Avenue, Columbus. Mrs. Williams, who works in the Field Equipment and Special Projects Section, and Mrs. Bross, who works in the Rocket and Recoilless Weapons Department, received the award for a "level of performance in all aspects of assigned work which exceeds normal performance requirements."

School, Sommer said, "I think that West Point is perhaps a little tougher than O.C.S., though sometimes I doubt it. However, from what I've seen of O.C.S., it will certainly turn out the kind of officers that the Army needs. I hope that someday I may serve as an officer on my dad's staff."

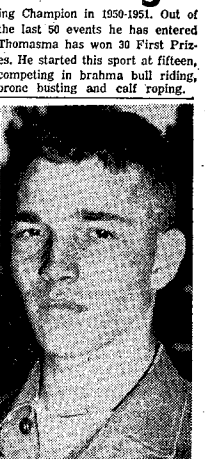

Cpl. Ralph McKnight
Army Service Schools are the life of the Army. That's what Cpl. Ralph A. McKnight of Company A, Infantry School Detachment, had to say after returning from the Advanced Army Administration Course at the Adjutant General's School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. He should know what he's talking about for the corporal from Charleston, S. C., has spent over one-third of his 18 months in the Army attending school's.

First came leadership school at Fort Jackson, S. C., after which he attended typing school. McKnight, who plans to attend Emory University upon the completion of his present term of service, sees Army service schools as a help to him in civilian life. He says lessons learned at the school will help him in obtaining a degree in business administration.

OC Jack I. Thomas
Officer Candidate Jack I. Thomas of 14th O.C. Company finds the "Holds" and "Throws" of the hand to hand combat course easy work. Before coming into the Army a year ago, Thomas was a champion calf roping and rodeo competitor. Coming from Grand Rapids, Mich., Thomas competed in rodeo events throughout the Middle West and was Michigan Calf Roper.

In 47th Field Tests Col. Jones Heads Group of Umpires

Lt. Col. Richard I. Jones, Combat Training Command executive officer, has been appointed chief umpire in the field tests of the 47th Infantry Division. The infantry units of the 47th are being tested to determine how effective this training has been. Col. Jones' staff includes Lt. Col. Earl Avery, Maj. Geo. F. Evans, Capt. Jack Howard, and Capt. W. J. Hanlon. In addition 25 umpires will be furnished by the 47th. Col. Jones and his staff prepared for the test for over a month. A series of problems has been prepared to test the battalions on occupation of a defensive position, night withdrawal and attack during daylight hours.

The attack during daylight hours features a live fire test employing artillery, 4.2 inch Mortars, heavy machine guns, and M-1 rifles. Nine battalions will be tested. Each is being tested separately and the test will last approximately two days for each unit ending Sept. 28.

186 Students End Courses

Infantry School diplomas will be presented 186 officers and enlisted men at two graduation exercises this week. Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, director of The Infantry School's Training Department, addressed 139 graduates of advanced non-commissioned officer class No. 4 Wednesday. Principal speaker for the basic judge advocate general class graduation exercises at 10:30 a. m. today will be Col. Earl Sutton, commander of the Combat Training Command. The exercises will mark the completion of eight weeks of training for the officers and 16 weeks for the enlisted men.

Shooters Win M-1 Trophies

Following their record-breaking effort on the M-1 Known Distance Range, 14th O.C. Company recently honored their individual marksmen at an awards ceremony in the company area. Lt. Col. Edward M. Colomen, executive officer of the Weapons Department of The Infantry School, presented the first place trophy to Candidate Frank E. Frey, who scored 231 of a possible 250 points. Medals were awarded to O.C.'s Richard P. Barre and Charles K. Aakhus who finished second and third, respectively.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Col. Solomon spoke briefly to the assembled company. He expressed the view that, despite the current emphasis placed on atomic warfare, the rifle is still the backbone of the armed forces. "It is the individual rifleman," said Col. Solomon, "who determines the battleships of the world. The exercises mark the ever increasing importance attached to rifle marksmanship in the Army today."

12th Company Reaps Awards During Recent SB Inspection

Twelfth O.C. Company received the several distinctions in the recent inspection of the First O. C. Regiment (now the Fifth Student Battalion) by the School Brigade. The most unusual of these was the 100 per cent rating given to the mess hall in Brigade-wide competition. The mess steward gave credit to the kitchen personnel and to the officer candidates who helped decorate and keep the mess hall in top shape. At the opposite end of the company area, Cpl. Jerry D. Simmons, the mail clerk, won a letter of commendation for himself and the company from Major General Joseph H. Harper for keeping a very superior mailroom. Last year Cpl. Simmons was given a similar letter of commendation by Brig. General Newman. Also rated superior in the company were the Public Information Program, the Information and Education Program, and the Athletics and Recreation Program. The company as a unit was not assigned a rating, but the 5th Student Battalion was awarded a superior. The commanding officer of 12th O. C. Company, First Lt. Richard J. Womack, expressed his thanks

Patrol Cites ISD, 30th Men

Fort Benning's Good Soldier title for superior appearance and outstanding military bearing went to enlisted men of the 30th Infantry Regiment and Infantry School Detachment last week. The Good Soldier Patrol cited Cpl. Otis O. White of Poca, W. Va., assigned to Company L, 30th Infantry Regiment, and PFC Lory Krappa of El Campo, Texas, Company F, Infantry School Detachment.

Cuss Words Cost Plenty

OKINAWA (APFS) — "Put a nickel in the pot, boy; somebody done cussed again." A five-cent buffalo coin is the price for saying a cuss word around the 11th Motor Vehicle Sq. of the 6351st Air Base Wing on the Pacific island. And the two-gallon jug is filling to the brim with fines. The idea of the cussing jug did not come from prudishness but rather to help the Air Force Aid Society's fund drive. All those culprits' nickels will be turned over to the society. If there's a slack season on nickels, profanity is on the decrease. On the other hand if airman continue their cussing habits, the money keeps rolling in.

Rams Open Grid Season Saturday

Meet Bragg In Night Tilt At Doughboy

King Football will reign at Fort Benning one again Saturday night when the School Brigade Rams collide with the strong 506th Abn. Regiment from Fort Bragg in Doughboy Stadium. Game time is set for 8 p.m.

Co-champs of Fort Benning last year, the Rams will field some of the most highly touted stars on the post when they take to the gridiron, and fans should see action aptly when such players as Ed Hamilton, Joe Fortunato, Ed Crook, Frank Kush, Glen Luker, Fred Felbaum, Carroll Papajohn, Edward Donaldson and Joe McDonald take the field.

Season tickets will be good for Saturday night. The TIC hand will be on hand to provide the classic football atmosphere with marches familiar to the football fans of past years.

With plenty of reserve strength, the Rams are expected to be one of the top teams on the post this year and could easily repeat their performance of last season, should injuries stay at a minimum. They are blessed with talent in the backfield and line.

Former All-American for Michigan State, Frank Kush, will be in one of the guard slots and his 185 pounds will be felt many times this season by opponents. Ed Hamilton, halfback, played in three post-season bowl games with the University of Kentucky prior to entering service, and has a contract with the Philadelphia Eagles upon termination of active duty. Then there is "Joltin' Joe" Fortunato, back from last year's Ham eleven. Joe was a member of the All-Post team, but his experience also includes three varsity football at Mississippi State University, where he was chosen All-SEC fullback in '51 and '52. He has a contract with the Chicago club upon his discharge from service. He played in the '52 East-West Shrine Game and the '53 Senior Bowl.

All-Post Star Frank Kush, guard, played varsity football with Michigan State for three years and was chosen All-American in '52. He was also a member of the All-Post team in '53 and played in the Senior Bowl and the North-South classic in '52. Fred Feldbaum is a repeater from the '51 and '52 All-Post Team and should deal trouble to his opponents.

These are just samples of what Fort Bragg can expect from the Rams come Saturday night and Doughboy Stadium should still be rocking Sunday morning from the jolts these two teams will produce.

EXPERIENCE ABUNDANT ... Ed Hamilton will fill a halfback slot in Saturday night's tussle at Doughboy Stadium.

Grandcolas Named to 3A Team

Al Grandcolas, hardhitting Doughboy shortstop, was selected for the starting lineup on the All-Third Army baseball team by the Third Army press representatives and officials.

He was the only Benning player to be picked for the first team as Fort Jackson placed seven men on the team along with three more from Fort McPherson.

Five Doughboys received honorable mention, two of them being edged out of top honors by close rivals Tito Francona and Carl Benz came close, but Norm Selbern and Haywood Sullivan got the nod at first and catch. Sullivan batted .326 in the tourney, with six doubles and four homers. He was the most valuable player in the tournament.

Bob Bush, Fred Kipp and Art May were labored for outstanding performance also. One of the noticed absences from the team was Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, top ace from McPherson, who lost two important games in the tournament.

Other contestants in the batting play-offs were Howard Weaver, Company A, and David Torres, Company D. Weaver was eliminated by Holland and Torres by Page.

Ex-Post Gridders Make FSC Squad

Two former gridders from Fort Benning are vying for the Florida State University first team after their first try-out.

Ronnie Schomburger, an All-Post player at left end last season, and William Cullom tried out last Friday for the FSC team and before the first session was ended both had made such a hit with the coach that he placed them on the first team.

TIC League to Start Sept. 26

The TIC Football League will open play on Sunday, Sept. 26, at Memorial Stadium in Columbus in a benefit game between the 30th Inf. Regt. and the 136th Inf. Regt. In the following weeks there will be three league games played each Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, plus road games between the regimental teams and other post squads.

All the games will be played in accordance with 1954 Intercollegiate rules. Each team will play all other teams in the league and the team with the best won and lost record will be the champions. In case of a tie there will be a one game playoff. Trophies will be awarded to the two top teams and individual awards will be made to the champion and runner-up team members.

The teams are composed of members of eight units, four from the main post and four from the 47th Division. Not more than five officers may be in a game at any one time. The teams are limited to 40 players.

One of the best parts of the football program is the hiring of experienced officials in Columbus to work the games. In case of a protest there will be a five man board of field grade officers to decide.

At the end of the season play, a mythical dream team will be selected. They won't play any games as a team, but will each receive awards and mementoes of the honor.

Army Shooters Sweep to Titles During U. S. Rifle, Pistol Meet

Army shooters ended three weeks of competitive firing at Camp Perry, Ohio, last week with a double barreled triumph which gave the Army its best record in recent years.

With more emphasis on the competitive marksmanship program than in the past, the Army pistol and rifle men showed the effects of the stepped-up competitions held prior to the National matches.

The 40-man rifle squad and the 32-man pistol squad selected to participate in the National matches all received plaquets from veteran marksmen at Camp Perry. The practice sessions at Fort Benning, evidently had sharpened up both the ability and confidence of the shooters and the relatively inexperienced team proved a great surprise in the National Tourney.

In the National Trophy Matches, Army shooters capped the three of the four "big" titles. In the rifle competition, Cpl. Edward F. Crimm, Ft. Devens, Mass., won the Individual Rifle Match with 243 points out of a possible 250. Lt. Col. Paul D. Parter, with the U.S. Army in Alaska, took second place with 241, while Capt. Joseph P. Sainato, a member of the Army team, placed third. Sainato is stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

In the National Pistol Matches the Army won both the individual and team titles. It was the first time since the national matches were begun in 1903 that this was done by one team.

The All-Army Pistol Team fielded its "Grey" Team which took the team title by three points, 1108 to 1105 out of 1200, from the Marine Team. It was the first time on the winning Army Team were Lt. Col. Ellis Lea, Ft. Benning, PFC Richard C. Amundsen, Ft.

Lewis, Wash.; Capt. Forrest R. Smith, Fort Riley, Kansas; and Capt. John F. Dadds, U. S. Army in Europe.

In the National Rifle Association Rifle Association matches, the Army took only one main title, the National Match Rifle Team Championship. The "Red" Team copped that title outpointing the Marines in an aggregate of two team matches. The Nevada Trophy went to the Army while the Marines took the Rumanian Trophy Match. The Army's margin in winning the Nevada Trophy, however, was sufficient for them to win the Championship title.

BY GARY M. CORBETT

Cleveland will win the 1954 World Series. The National league pennant as in many past years is going down to the wire with three teams still in contention. No matter what team wins the title, they will be soundly trounced by the Indians.

There will be arguments from the National league diehards, but they won't stand up against cold facts. Cleveland all but cinched the American title last weekend defeating the Yankees in a crucial double-header. With the Yanks 8½ games out as of last Sunday's double-dose in Cleveland, Cleveland can literally coast to victory saving their pitching and resting their sluggers for the big World Series money. They will go into the series with a fresh team who will out class the weary National League pennant winner.

In the senior circuit there are three teams that can win the honors. The Giants are favored, but Brooklyn and Milwaukee are much to close to allow the New York club to slack off and save men for the series. All this boils down to the simple fact that the American league has only three teams worth mentioning whereas the National league is composed of eight teams capable of beating any other team in the league on any given day. Look at this year's records.

In the junior circuit, Cleveland has mauled four different teams by overwhelming margins; Boston 20-2, Washington 17-4, Philadelphia 17-4, and Baltimore 19-3. The Yankees in like manner have lopsided edges over several teams. In the National column, the Giants best record is against Philadelphia whom they have beaten 13 times while losing three with six games left in the city of brotherly love. The Dodgers have only one large margin over the Redlegs, 14-5.

This is evidence enough showing that the American league which has most always been dominated by one or two teams doesn't give the also ran teams any hope of winning. Therefore cutting the finances needed to build a club. For five years the Yankees have won over Cleveland and Boston. This year the Indians traded places with the Yanks. Next year? Probably a similar situation.

In the other league? Last year the Dodger, this year the Giants, next year possibly a third team. Could be any one of the other seven teams in the league. Last year Cincinnati was a second division club; this year they have fourth place. St. Louis, the leading hitting team in the league is a miserable sixth. They can be proud of that position still because they are in a league that is so well distributed in power the winning team will be worn out for the series.

Cleveland will win this year giving the junior league a 34-19 record over the Nationals in World Series play. Next year and in years following it will probably be the same story until they expand the league from three teams to the badly needed eight.

Post Organizing Outstanding Boxing Year to Start Oct. 15

One of the finest boxing programs ever offered at a military post has been set up this year at Fort Benning. The new program offers levels of competition to give anyone who so desires the opportunity to fight in a class with competitors of equal skill and experience.

Eight units already are eligible to enter teams in the league. These include: School Brigade, STC, CTC, 135th Inf. Regt., 136th Inf. Regt., 164th Inf. Regt., Divarty, and the 47th Spec. Units.

Many of the boxers are training for the bouts. The first are tentatively scheduled for Oct. 15 and will run through March 3rd. The events will be scheduled weekly and held at Gowdy Field, Briant Wells Fieldhouse and the Harmony Church Gymnasium.

Four Classes
This year there are four classes that the fighter will be entered in. "Class I" boxers will be those men who have won amateur or service titles. "Class II" will be composed of experienced veterans who have never won titles. "Class III" will be men who have had 10 bouts or less and won at least six. "Class IV" consists of novices of less than four battles.

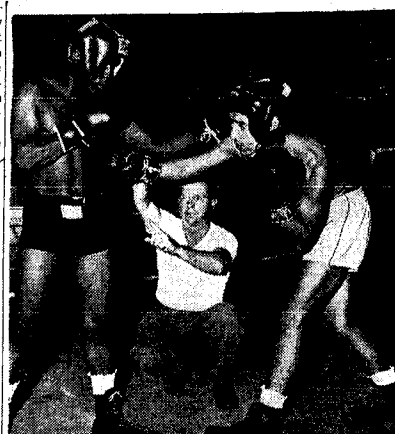

There are several exceptions to the above classifications. If a boxer wins two matches in his class he automatically graduates to the next class. The board controlling the program may also place boxers in higher or lower categories depending on the fighters' ability. A fighter may move into a higher class by challenging members of the class immediately above his bracket and defeating the challenged opponent.

Many awards will be made at the close of the boxing season. Also Third Army tourney participants will be announced. The coaches from the various teams will select the best men in the league to be on the team. A team trophy will be awarded to the winning and the runner-up teams.

Individual Awards
Individual awards will be made to the winners and runners up in each class and 10 individual and runner-up awards will be given to the winner and runner-up teams. A "Most Outstanding Boxer" award will be made as well as an award for "The Most Improved Boxer of the Year."

Before being scheduled to fight all participants must sign a statement saying that they have never had any connection with professional boxing or semi-pro boxing.

Teams must submit a certified roster to the Special Services Section (Attn: Sports Officer) not later than noon, Oct. 27.

WATCH THAT HOOK ... James Lewis, coach of the STC Boxing Aggregation, points out boxing techniques to Elvis Mathews, left, Third Army Lightweight Champ of '54 and Jesus Jimenez, STC's outstanding prospect for the coming bouts, which begin on or about October 14.

Touch Football to Start

Six-man touch football teams are being formed on the Post for competition in a single elimination play basis tournament. Organizations so far eligible to enter teams are the School Brigade, STC, Provisional Medical Group, Post Hospital, Army Field Forces Board No. 3, CTC, 47th Division Artillery, Special Troops of 47th Division and the 135th, 136th and 164th Infantry Regiments.

Company or comparable unit level teams representing organizations not exceeding 300 men are eligible to participate. Any unit with more than 300 men must break its unit into two teams. After the two teams are formed each must submit a letter to the Sports Officer for approval on the designation for that team unit.

No team can carry more than 12 players, including the manager or coach, who is eligible to play. Teams must submit a certified roster to the Special Services Section (Attn: Sports Officer) not later than noon, Oct. 27.

One other rule that makes for an interesting game is the past eligibility rule which states that any player is eligible to receive a forward pass.

The Infantry Center Touch Football Tournament will be played at Gordy Field beginning Nov. 7 and running through Nov. 20.

Post Athletes Score in Local Golf, Tennis

Jim Whitmoyer, 1954 TIC tennis champion, finished second in the Columbus city tennis tournament held last Sunday on the Country Club courts. Ed Adams defeated the Benning ace in two straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

In the doubles competition, Warren Drake of Fort Benning and Bill Newman upset the favored Whitmoyer and Bob Scruton, Benning doubles champs for 1954, to take honors in the doubles matches.

The women's singles were won by Mrs. Janet Bouillier, who was visiting her soldier husband when asked to play in the tourney. She won her title in straight sets, 6-0 and 6-2.

At Nichols 5th In City Golf in other parts of Columbus over the weekend, Alan Nichols of Fort Benning took fifth in the 54-hole medal play. City Golf Championships. At the end of 27 holes Al was tied with Billy Key, champion, but dropped behind as Key blitzed over the course in a score of 202, eight under the 210 par for the course. Nichols fired a one under par 209 for fifth place.

CLOWN'S PILOT

Oscar Charleston

"CLOWN BOY," vells manager Oscar Charleston of the Indianapolis Clowns of the Negro American League as he appears in the coaching box during a game. An inspiration to his club this season, Charleston has lifted the Fun-makers into the NAL lead. "One of the greatest players ever to don a uniform in baseball" is the highest tribute to a ball player and Charleston has received this accolade many times during his brilliant career. The Clowns will be seen in action on Friday night, September 17th at Goldens Park in Columbus, in an official Negro American League ball game against the sensational Louisville (Ky) Clippers, managed by Goose Curry, starting at 8:00 p.m.

Grinols Striving For Third-Crown In 'Shoe Tourney

Harold B. Grinols, two time winner of The Infantry Center Horse-shoe Tournament, is well on his way to another victory this year.

Grinols, coach of all sports at the Infantry School Detachment, won the annual contest at that unit with a score of 50-25, 47-50 and 50-25 over second place Carl O. Elsea of Bristol, Tenn. Grinols will represent the Infantry School Detachment at the School Brigade Contest this week.

Doubles winners were Grinols and Sam Prophet of Company A. Second place in the doubles contest went to John Tormina and Jerry Morgan. Both are members of Company C, ISD.

Grinols, a member of ISD for more than 7 and one-half years with 15 months at the unit since his last tour of duty elsewhere, reports that some 12 to 15 horse-shoe experts competed in the contests.

Sports Quiz

1. Admiral Jonas Ingram helped establish what "first" as an oarsman at Annapolis?
2. In billiards what is meant by the term "messe"?
3. How many hours are consumed in a six-day bicycle race?
4. What swimming "first" was performed by Matthew B. Webb in 1875?
5. What famous football coach was once known as the "Great White Athletic Father"?

ANSWERS

1. Ingram was the stroke of the Navy crew to go to Poughkeepsie, in 1907, and later served as assistant rowing coach at Annapolis. 2. This is a type of shot in which the ball is stroked downward, causing it to curve around other balls or to go forward and then come back.

3. One hundred and twenty-four hours, or six 24-hour days.

4. On August 24-25 Captain Webb became the first man to swim the English Channel. A memorial commemorating his feat was unveiled at Dover by Lord Desborough on Jan 8, 1910.

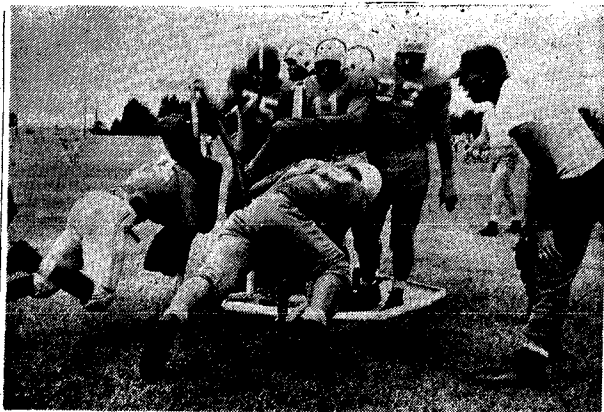

5. Glenn S. "Pop" Warner acquired this title while coaching the famous Carlisle Indians.

CTC Steps Up Pace In Boxing Practice

With the approach of TIC boxing competition, the Combat Training Command boxing team, under the watchful eye of trainer Frank West, has stepped up to full-paced practice.

Working out with the squad is Nathaniel Whitt, who will probably meet competition in the light middleweight division. Nat was a member of last season's team. He joined the group in March, breaking even in two bouts.

A native of Bessemer Ala., Nat had never fought before coming to CTC. According to West, Nat is showing a lot of improvement and should see plenty of action this season.

READY SET . . . The "sled" is taking lots of punishment these days at the 30th Infantry Blues prepare for their opening game Sept. 26 against 136th Inf.

30th Boasts Vet Lineup; CTC Eyeing Rugged Team

The 30th Inf. "Blues" are expected to field one of the toughest teams on the post this season with the aid of plenty of reserves.

Coach "Red" Mitchell is being assisted in the backfield by Clyde Young, a prospective quarterback starter, who is back from the 1953 season. Also assisting is Frank Fuller, a tackle, coaching the line.

Guard prospects are Fred Neget, F. E. Harell, John Vines, who was mentioned on the 1953 All-Army grid squad, and Jacob Slaughter. Glenn Ferguson will also be in the forward wall along with Andy Meyers, a member of last year's All-Post Team.

Working at the tackle spots are Bill Strunk, Frank Borins, Lucky Miller, Guy Scott and Newell Thornberg.

At the end of the Blues will miss the services of Bob Smith, another 1953 All-Post gridder, but able talent such as Bryce Holt, Frank Glenn and Richard Salley should fill the flanks.

In the backfield it looks as if Clyde Young or Bill Atkinson will be the two to battle it out for the quarterback slot. Both were members of the 1953 CTC Team. Prospects for other backfield positions include Bobby Moorhead, Charles McClendon, Conrad Deskins, Joe Gnerre, Lee Collins and Jack Abell. Probable starter at fullback will be Charlie Williams.

ing chores. Art has two able assistants in Vern Jungferman and Dick Jeschhart.

The Commanders will have competition at the end positions with Stan Chelichowski, Rudolph Swope, Jacob Bain and Frank Blansich presenting pass-snatching arms.

Filling in the middle of the line with plenty of weight are tacklees Raymond Benby, Preston Perkins, Fred Wright and George Christopher. Guards Irvin Guzik, Glenn Sommers, Bill Stevens and Bob Matteson show promise as do centers Don Hermandson and Tom Tilley.

In the backfield are fast-moving Dick Taylor and Leonard DeBrady at the halfback slots and hard-charging Bill Rogers at fullback.

Fem Golfers Plan Luncheon

The Fort Benning Women's Golf Association will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 24 at the Fort Benning Country Club.

The affair will serve as a send-off for the fall golf season. Sept. 22 is deadline for reservations, which can be made by calling Fort Benning 3-9239.

With approximately 200 members, the Women's Golf Association hopes to attract more members for the coming season.

Big events include the annual club championship match, the Fort Benning vs Columbus Country Club match and several invitational meets in Georgia. There also will be periodic club handicap matches.

In addition to the competitive meets, numerous golf clinics will be held by Charlie Harper, Fort Benning pro. Beginners and golfers wanting to improve their game will attend.

Queen Crowning Saturday All-States Fair, Ball Planned at USO-NCCS

A roll call of the states will be one of the many events included in the program of the All-States Fair and Ball at the USO-NCCS Club, Columbus, Saturday night.

The largest state or territory delegation will be appropriately rewarded.

Every state and all three territories will be represented at the fair with exhibit material sent by the governors. The exhibits will be open at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

At the ball Saturday evening Miss Mary Ann Crowder of Chicago, Ill., will be crowned "All-States Queen." Miss Crowder's photograph was entered in the "All-States Queen Contest" by her brother, Pfc. John D. Crowder, Company C 164th Inf. and was selected as the winning entry by the judging committee.

The crowning ceremonies will take place at 9 p. m. Participants in the ceremonies will be Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, commander The Infantry Center, Maj. Gen. R. W. Stephens commanding general 47th Inf. Div., Lt. Gen. Manton S. Eddy (ret.), president Columbus Chamber of Commerce, and Vincent P. McCaulley, chairman USO-NCCS Operating Committee presiding.

Following the crowning, the ball will get into full swing with a Grand March to a medley of familiar state tunes. Fort Benning's Hawaiian entertainers will provide the floor show scheduled for 10:15 p. m.; and at 10:45 p. m. there will be the roll call of the states and a parade of the State

The Air Force is studying a proposal to revive the off-post salute. The Army returned on Sept. 1 to the tradition of having EM salute officers when they meet in public, while the Navy and Marines had never abandoned it. However, no immediate decision is expected from the AF.

Korea's top marine, Maj. Gen. Kim Suk Bum, is touring Marine Corps facilities in the U.S. for two weeks. The Korean Commandant, a former infantry battalion commander in the Japanese Army in WWII, will be accompanied by the top man of Korea's Marine Corps Schools. The tour is designed to familiarize them with the training given to U.S. Marines.

The Army is looking for qualified enlisted personnel currently serving on active duty in grades E-6, E-5 and E-4 to apply for appointments as warrant officers in MOS 4898 (Fire Control Instrument Repair Officer) and MOS 4819 (Guided Missile Maintenance and Repair Officer). Applications may be submitted and processed in accordance with SR 140-106-1.

VADM Arthur C. Davis, USN, in addition to his other duties, has been named Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs. He will continue as Director of the Office of Foreign Military Affairs, a post he has held since November 1953.

Weekly Conference

Propaganda Snares To Be Told by TI&E

Remember that scene in "The Huckster" when E. Lelwyn Evans (portrayed in the movie by the sinister green man, Sidney Fastree) bawled and spat span in the middle of the conference table? "Ugly word, spit," said the obnoxious tycoon, and went on to make a case for irritating radio commercials.

Soldiers throughout TIC next week will be discussing another nasty word in troop information conferences. However, unlike the Anglo-Saxon synonym for expropriate, the title of the discussion topic—propaganda—is not intrinsically an unpleasant or nasty thing. According to "Recognition of and Combating Enemy Propaganda," a special pamphlet produced by TI&E Section, TIC, "it all depends on whose baby has the measles." In other words, propaganda is bad only if it is used to achieve undesirable ends.

Well-informed, intelligent people, who have confidence in their leaders, are immune to most types of propaganda, the pamphlet indicates, even to the most insidious and effective means of all—rumors. Examples of three basic types of rumors (Fear, Hope, and Hate) will be explained to conference groups, and means of combating and neutralizing all types of propaganda will be developed during discussions, according to Lt. Col. Charles W. Hall, post TI&E Officer.

Napoleon once said, "In War, the moral is to the physical, as three is to one." The U. S. does not have the physical resources—manpower—to compete on even ground with international communism. We do have the important advantage of morale.

"Let's analyze these stories that are told to us very carefully," the pamphlet says. "What is the source of the information? Is it a reliable source, an official agency? What are the facts? Has this bit of information appeared in the press, on radio or TV, credited to a reliable source? What do your leaders say about it? Nothing? Chances are there is nothing to it! Acquire the reputation of being a hard guy to convince—a doubting Thomas. It's contagious. Asking a few pertinent questions usually will expose most rumors for what they are. And the laugh won't be on you either."

He succeeds Lt. Col. J. A. Cook, chief of the Special Project Division who became acting G-4 when Col. Paul J. Mitchell assumed duties as chief of staff.

Col. Evans, a 1931 graduate of The Citadel at Charleston, S. C., comes here from Korea where he served as senior adviser to the 21st ROK Division since December, 1953.

The new logistical officer was a member of the Planning Staff of the Eastern Assault Force in North Africa from September to December, 1942, participating in the Algerian Campaign. From January to August, 1943, he was assistant G-4 of the 34th Infantry Division and took part in the Tunisian campaign.

RETURNS TO 30TH
Pfc. Herbert E. Cross has returned to Company H, 30th Infantry Regiment, from duty with the Third Army Pistol Team.

A staggering drunk, seeing a St. Bernard dog walk toward him with a whisky flask around his neck, gasped, "At last! Man's best friend and a dog."

WARNER'S HELEN OF TROY... Lovely Rossana Podesta portrays the title role in Warner Bros.' "Helen of Troy," CinemaScope and WarnerColor spectacle filmed in Rome. Retiring Sarge Claims Army Good for Education

There's no better place than the life management. At least, that's the opinion of Sgt. Robert H. Forsyth, former member of Company C of the Infantry School Detachment, who retired from the Army a few days ago. Sgt. Forsyth entered the Army 21 years ago and upon retiring had completed one year of college. What's more, the sergeant plans to continue his college education at the University of Georgia this fall. He plans to get a degree in Wildlife Management.

However, book education isn't the only lesson Sgt. Forsyth learned during 21 years of shuffling back and forth between the Pacific and the U. S. He first entered the Signal Corps in 1931 and was sent to Panama but was returned to the states after a few months and then went to the Philippines where he found a job that was to be his for the rest of the time he was in the Army. His unit, the 10th Signal Service Company, needed a photographer and Sgt. Forsyth, with some civilian experience to back him up, applied for the job and was accepted. He was good enough to keep the job for the next twenty years.

And there was a time, admits Sgt. Forsyth, when it looked as though he would never get to continue the education he had started in the Army. When he went to Korea with the 3rd Division in 1950 he had been there only 13 days when he was hit by direct rifle fire on a combat photography mission. He was then returned to Fort Benning Hospital where he stayed for five and one-half months.

Gee-That's A Long Time At 73 Sgt. Gee Calls it Quits

FORT BELVOIR, Va. — After two careers and three retirements, a 73-year-old Army veteran is calling it quits. "From now on it's going to be nothing but a lot of rest, ball games and fishing," said William H. Green of 6500 Bellevue Blvd., Alexandria, Va., as he retired for the third time after 30 years in the Army and 25 years as a civilian employee with the Corps of Engineers.

Green started his first career back in 1899 when he enlisted in the Army at the age of 17. He saw combat in the Philippines during the Spanish-American War and in Europe in World War I. Thirty years later, in 1929, he retired as a master sergeant, but a few days later came out of retirement to work as a civilian with the Army engineers. Then, in June 1951, he was honored by his fellow workers upon his retirement after 22 years serv-

Board Named To Review Copter Texts
A five-man board has been appointed by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, First Training Command, to review and coordinate helicopter instructional material used at the Infantry School. Mission of the board is to supervise the preparation of special texts and other training literature. It also will make recommendations to Army Field Forces headquarters at Fort Monroe, Va., for helicopter training tests.

JIM MYERS, TED CUTOLO, JOHN WARD, HOMER ALLISON, ROMEO ROBITAILLE, and DAVE ADAMS are flying up a storm working on their private pilot's license. Post MPs Slate 13th Birthday Party Sunday

More than 400 Fort Benning MPs will celebrate the 13th anniversary of their corps Sunday at an all-day barbecue to which their wives and children will be invited. That night, MP officers will entertain at the Main Officers' Mess.

Guests will include Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, section chiefs and Infantry School representatives. Lt. Col. George A. Bieri, provost marshal, will be host.

No reviews or special ceremonies have been planned for the anniversary, but MPs will be given a holiday Sept. 26.

Key NCOs from the 30th Infantry Regiment are being trained to take over the MP duties for the day, the provost marshal said.

"But some of the personnel will be retained," he added.

A smaller party has been planned Sept. 27 for those few who will work on the anniversary date.

Col. Bieri said that the all-day affair Sept. 26 is primarily for enlisted MPs, and all arrangements and plans for the outing have been made by committees of non-commissioned officers. The barbecue was decided following a poll of enlisted men of the Military Police Company.

A birthday cake, entertainment, and special games have been planned for the outing, which will be paid for from company funds.

Although military policemen date back before World War I, the Military Police Corps was not organized until 1941. Until that time, military police activities were carried out by officers and enlisted men from the various services.

The many duties of the MP corps include preservation of good order and military discipline, protection of government property, custody of prisoners of war, evacuation of refugees and protection of the welfare of soldiers.

Lt. Richardson Awarded Medal

First Lt. Nehemiah E. Richardson, Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in Korea.

The presentation was made by Col. Earl Sutton, commanding officer of Combat Training Command, at a Third Battalion review last Saturday. The parade honoring Lt. Richardson was held at Boling Bowl in the 30th Infantry area.

Lt. Richardson was cited for outstanding leadership and exceptional performance of duties while serving with the Second Division in Korea. A native of Petersburg, Va., Lt. Richardson graduated from the University of Akron, Ohio.

Thomas Macaulay, the famous British historian, was only four years old when a lady came up and asked him ruzzingly: "Did you hurt oo's bitty finger?" "Madam," he replied, "the agony has slightly abated."

REQUIESCAT IN PACE . . . The inclusion of First O.C. Regiment into the Fifth Student Battalion (OC) provided a chance for a little facetiousness at the officers party celebrating the change recently at the Fort Benning Country Club. Pvt. Tolton C. Rosser of the STC Band is shown sounding the parting honors.

AWOL Problems to Be Aired

Unit and local problems, policies, and plans will be explained and discussed during troop information conferences on post next week, according to Lt. Col. Charles W. Hall, T&E officer, TIC.

Troop Topic 20-145, "The High Price of AWOL", has been recommended as basis for discussion in units whose commanders consider the topic appropriate. Some unit commanders may take this opportunity to discuss preparations for, or remedial action, indicated by Command inspections currently being conducted at TIC, Col. Hall said.

"The Price of AWOL" delineates some of the monetary costs resulting from a soldier absenting himself from his unit without permission, and stresses the fact that going AWOL is unnecessary. Procedures for obtaining emergency leaves, extensions, or passes are explained, as are the roles of Army Emergency Relief, The Red Cross, the Chaplain and the Legal Assistance Officers in eliminating the most common causes of AWOLs.

Unit commanders or their representatives will explain unit policies and plans for obtaining assistance, passes, or leaves in case of emergency.

AIOC 5 Nears End of Road

Members of the Associate Infantry Officers Class No. 5 are approaching the final days of instruction. In the eyes of First Sgt. John H. Urban and Company Clerk Wilfredo Cruz Rodriguez, 24th Company of the Third Battalion, the busy days of administration never did settle down into a well organized pattern. This has been due to the unusual variety of backgrounds which the students have.

American Army components comprise the bulk of the class, but there are representatives from Ethiopia, Denmark, Haiti, and Costa Rica.

Within the American group are representatives of such branches as QM, TC, MP, CML as well as Infantry. National Guard officers also are attending.

Recent promotions have added the work of correcting rosters to reflect many captains who began the course as lieutenants. Two of the Ethiopian officers have been promoted to major since the start of the course.

Even the status of dependents has not remained constant. Three children have been born since the class started to class members.

Happy Birthday To Men of Co. A
This month Company A of the Infantry School Detachment is celebrating its first anniversary. The company was formed one year ago with Lieut. Gerald Esterline as commanding officer and 227 enlisted men were charter members of the unit.

The company has since become the initial home of almost every man reporting to the detachment. All casuals are assigned to Company A.

Commanders of the company during the past year were Lieut. Gerald Esterline, Capt. R. R. Casper, First Lieut. Oliver P. Head, and the present commander is First Lieut. Leo F. Suller, who was formerly commander of a Dog Scout Platoon in Korea.

A westerner entered a saloon with his wife and six-year-old boy. He ordered two straight whiskies. "Hey, Pa," said the kid, "ain't Ma drinking?"

We are open 7 days until dark at King's School of Aviation, Inc. for your flying pleasure. You can learn to fly. It is impossible to tell you what learning to fly with us will mean to you—a way to occupy your time, a home away from home, developing your abilities, your confidence. Don't waste your time or be bored—fly today at King's School of Aviation, Inc. Remember, we have all flying services and a fleet of airplanes you will be proud to fly or buy. We have a new 150 mph airplane; 4-place Stinsons; Sedan; Champ; 140; J-3; PA-11; twin-engine airplane. Nowhere can you get the service offered by King's School of Aviation, Inc. There is no formal enrollment. Fly whenever you can.

Flight examiner, Dean King, issued private pilot certificates to John Ward and Jim Myers this week. Some new students: Wally Leander; Roy Jackson; Frank Angelo; Herm Carpenter; Richard Hicks; Tom Binder; Robert Haebarger; Don Altman; George Olmstead; and many others. Dave Adams flew a week-end in Charlotte, N.C. in PA-11. Had a breakfast flight to Albany Sunday — four planes with Robert Black, Romeo Robataille; Homer Allison and others. Ed Thompson is getting a multi-engine rating under tutelage of Dean King. Fly while opportunity is available. Don't put it off. If you already fly, let us upgrade you at King's School of Aviation. How Strong Is Russia?

Very few matters are of greater importance to Americans today than the strength of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

As evil as it is, if communism were not being promoted world-wide by a huge 20th century empire, it would not be the grave threat to our way of life that it is right now. But for the Soviet Union—the basis of world communism—it is unlikely that most of us in the Armed Forces would be in uniform today.

In evaluating the Soviet Union's strength, we must take into account several factors: Its location, size, and climate; its resources and industry; its people; its political and social organization; and its armaments on hand.

The Soviet Union is by far the largest single nation in the world. Its 6 1/2 million square miles spread nearly halfway around the globe, and make up one-sixth of the earth's total land area. The most distant extremities of the continental United States are less than 3,000 miles apart, while Leningrad is nearly 6,000 miles from Vladivostok.

In addition to its size, the Soviet Union has the natural advantage of a central location in the great land mass of Europe and Asia. But a serious disadvantage of the Soviet Union's location is its lack of easy access to the major ocean trade routes. Although it has the longest coastline of any country, much of it is useless.

Soviet Russia's population numbers about 210 million and consists of about 20 national groups speaking 200 different languages and dialects. The tightly organized, highly centralized government of a communist dictatorship has several advantages in terms of power that democratic governments do not and cannot have. The ruthless leaders, without consulting their people, can prepare and wage an aggressive war. They can use their enormous spy system to crush any organized opposition to their policies.

But there are cracks in the totalitarian structure of the Soviet Union. The 1952 purge of writers and party leaders showed that strong nationalistic feelings still exist among the minority peoples of the Soviet. After 30 years of absolute control, Soviet planners have produced a lopsided economy in which the average worker's level is still shockingly low. Failing too, is the much advertised program of collectivized agriculture, caused in part by passive resistance of the Soviet peasant.

No government has been able to enslave men permanently. And this is the essential weakness of the totalitarian state. The fact that it does not rely on the will of the people, will always leave the threat of internal dissolution.—From the Fort Dix Post

Why?

If commanders fail to tell their men, "WHY," they fail to utilize every opportunity to make their men aware of what must be accomplished and how the individual soldier can best perform his expected tasks. The average soldier cannot be expected to absorb in the weekly Command Conference Hour all that he should know about the reasons for his being in uniform, the reasons for continuous training; and many related subjects. It is necessary that orientation in these matters be frequent and continuous.

The success or failure in accomplishing complete orientation is readily discernible. The rewards of an adequate information program in the unit is reflected in many ways, but particularly in increased unit efficiency and a high state of morale. Here is one field where the platoon leader can be the equal or better of high commanders even though his command may be limited. The Greatest Leader ever born had direct command of only a squad—the Twelve Apostles, but they willingly offered their lives for a cause they understood and believed in. They knew "WHY."—Selected

Patrol Cites Cpl. Elson

Cpl. John D. Elson of Highland, Tex. and Headquarters Company, 113, was cited by Fort Benning's Special Troops Command, were Good Soldier Patrol last week for members of the patrol that set superior appearance and outstanding record for the honoring the patrol tours the Infantry Center twice weekly to pick enlisted men who possess outstanding military training. Since its organization last January, the patrol has cited nearly 75 men.

Chaplain's Corner Why Go to Church?

By Chaplain (Major) Philip W. Roberts

So often we hear people say, "Of course he never goes to Church, but he's much more religious than many who do." All religions, so far as I know, insist that the individual in worship receives the assurance of His abiding love, to learn about Him and to ask those things which are requisite and necessary as well for the body as the soul. By attending we declare to ourselves, to our neighbors, and to God, where we stand.

Where else could we go to do these things? Only to church.

Jews Plan Holy Days

Jewish High Holy Days will be observed at Fort Benning beginning Sept. 27 with special religious services and ceremonies.

Chaplain (First Lt.) Maurice Lamm of Brooklyn, N. Y., said services commemorating Rosh Hashanah, Jewish New Year, and Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, will be held in The Infantry Center Chapel.

The New Year, which is ushered in at sundown Sept. 27, will be observed with services at 8 p.m. Services also will be conducted at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 28 and 9:30 a.m. Sept. 29.

Yom Kippur services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 6 and at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 7.

Following Yom Kippur, Jewish personnel at Fort Benning will celebrate the longest and most colorful of the Jewish festival, Sukkos, or the Festival of the Lulav.

27th Rates Tops In 198th Artillery

The 27th AAA Battery has been selected as the outstanding unit of the 198th Field Artillery Battalion for the month of August.

This unit was chosen because of its superior achievement of records and performance of duties. Recognition also was given to the excellent administrative affairs.

The 27th has become widely known at Fort Benning by its participation in demonstrations for the month of August, during which its personnel fire their self-propelled automatic weapons. Captain Mildred F. Reece is commanding officer of the battery.

773d Tankers Match Skill And 'Espirit'

BY FRANK H. MULLIFAN

The 773d Tank Battalion of the 7th Infantry Division is one of the outstanding units at Fort Benning, Ga., in its training and operations. This tank unit has the most modern armored equipment in use by the Army today, including an operation by the 773d and M-48 tank carriers, M-48 tank carriers, M-48 tank carriers, M-48 tank carriers, and tank destroyers.

The "Iron Horse" battalion, which achieved an excellent record in World War II, is daily engaged in the mission of training and providing demonstrations for the Infantry School.

Typical of the efficient operation of the battalion in the current training program is the new maneuver way, a "Third Tank School" conceived and developed entirely within the battalion, is now being conducted for the company. This school features training in maneuvering and control of weapons from the tank.

The instruction involved in this school is furnished by a group of actual gunnery sergeants at Camp Stewart, Ga., throughout the month of November at the same time, each company of the battalion will have there for five weeks' training.

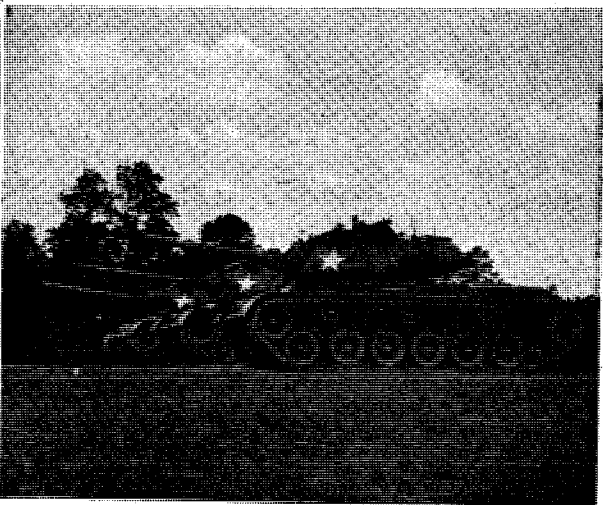

The commanding officer of the 773d, Lt. Col. George B. Williams, is vitally interested in the morale of his tankers. He personally will come increasing tempo and encourage friendly competition among the companies in training.

Always individualistic, the tankers display a lot of spirit in the company. Characteristic moves, such as the low braid, mugs, and the high side of the head, tankers have their nicknames for a tank tank of armor, may be seen in the third picture in this series.

The pictures in this series show scenes that may be observed any day in the training area at Fort Benning, Ga. The pictures were shot by Sgt. Oscar Higgins.

Post Salutes Egypt C. of S.

Fort Benning sounded its second 17-gun salute within a week when Major Gen. Mohamed Ibrahim, the Egyptian Army's chief of staff, arrived Tuesday for a two-day visit.

Gen. Ibrahim's visit follows that of Gen. Keizo Hayashi, chairman of the Japanese Joint Staff Council, who was on the post last week.

An honor guard composed of troops from the 9th Infantry Regiment was held for the Egyptian official at 10 a.m. Tuesday on Chapel Field. Battery B of the 41st Field Artillery Battalion fired the salute. Music was by the 122nd Army Band.

Gen. Ibrahim's party included Egyptian Army Major Gen. Mustafa Youssef, director of military training, Brig. Gen. Abbas El-Shafie, Egyptian military attaché to Washington, Col. Abdel Moneim Mortagy, director of the Chief of Staff's Office, and Lt. Col. Ahmed Sabri Kamal, adjutant of the Cavalry Corps.

ENGINEER EXEC LEAVES
Major John H. Orear, executive officer of the 7th Engineer Battalion of Combat Training Command, has departed for duty in Alaska. Replacing Maj. Orear as acting executive officer is Capt. Clayton Thompson.

Blithe Spirit Stage Manager Plays Key Role

Being stage manager for a community theatrical group can present many interesting problems. Maj. Curtis H. Alloway, stage manager for the Fort Benning Little Theatre's forthcoming production "Blithe Spirit" will attest to that.

The Noel Coward play involves a triangle of live in which one of the parties is a spirit. The situation is complicated by the fact that only one of the two remaining persons can see the spectre. It remains for him to prove the ghost's existence by means of certain demonstrations.

Part of Maj. Alloway's job concerns making pictures move, vases fall, phonographs start playing, curtains drop, and, to top it all, have a clock strike 16. The unique part of these happenings is that they seemingly occur without human assistance.

In addition to these unusual projects, Major Alloway, who is an instructor in the Infantry School's Staff Department, is responsible for construction of the set, light, and sound effects.

Although acting is more attractive to the play's stage manager, Major Alloway concedes that working behind the scenes offers an actor a better perspective of the complete production. "As an actor you learn to appreciate the unending efforts of the stage crew, who never come before the curtain," he said.

The Infantry School instructor made his debut in Fort Benning's Little Theatre when he appeared in "Gramercy Ghost" last season. He became stage manager for "The Moon is Blue," he admitted, "because no one else was available." He is also a member of the senior section and soloist with the Infantry Center Chapel choir.

Assisting him with "Blithe Spirit" is an enthusiastic group of workers. Mrs. Virginia Kelly is in charge of property while Mrs. Eames L. Yates busies herself with set decoration. Also adding their efforts are Major Norman Allen, Staff Department, responsible for construction of the set, light, and sound effects.

To Start Tuesday Chairman Briefed On Chest Drive

Vice-chairmen for the 1954 Fort Benning Community Chest were briefed this week on the annual fundraising drive which begins here next Tuesday.

Chest officials reported no unit quotes have been set for this year's campaign other than 100 per cent participation by all Fort Benning personnel. Success of the drive is based on a half day's base pay from all contributors.

Vice-chairmen have already received contribution forms, posters, and red feathers to be distributed. The drive will continue until Nov. 2 with Col. William H. Fields as chairman.

Fosters will call attention to the drive and the symbolic red feather will be given to each contributor. Chest officials announced that the red feather is authorized for wear with the uniform during the drive. Contributions may be made in cash or by check. No pledges are being accepted.

Lt. Col. Harry D. Temple has been appointed collection officer. He will consolidate returns and make progress reports. Contributions from unit or staff sections may be turned into the collection officer any day during normal duty hours except Saturday and Sunday.

The Fort Benning Community Chest gives direct support to Army Emergency Relief, Air Force Aid Society, Fort Benning Children's School System, Dad's Club, Fort Benning Children's Christmas Fairly Fund, Christmas Baskets for the Needy, Visiting Welfare Nurse for Fort Benning, and the United Givers program in Columbus, Ga. Chest support of the Dad's Club means aid to the many youth activities and special programs the club sponsors, including the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boy Barrows and other activities.

Support to the Columbus United Givers Drive, normally about 10 per cent of the total contributions also goes for activities designed for military personnel and their families, such as the Armed Services YMCA, USO and Traveler's Aid Society.

Among staff subjects are personnel functions, military leadership.

Lt. R. P. Parker Wins Commendation For HUMRO Work

Second Lt. Ronald P. Parker, Co. G, 30th Infantry, has received a letter of commendation for his work here with Human Research Unit No. 2.

The research unit is studying ways of improving infantry training.

Parker, who took part in a project concerned with training Infantryman for night fighting, was cited by Dr. Edgar L. Shriver, project leader.

The latter commended him for outstanding performance of duties as a safety officer and for control of firing and instructional phases of Project MOONLIGHT, one of several being conducted by the civilian-military research unit on post.

Lt. Parker is a graduate of Clemson College and is assigned to Company G, 30th Infantry Regiment.

Pilot Trio Win Awards

Three helicopter pilots of the 506th Transportation Company have been awarded the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant for meritorious service in Korea. WO1s Donald E. Sholberg, Phillip B. Moore, and Norman S. Jacobson were the recipients of the award.

Each was cited for performing the difficult task of hauling supplies to front line units, evacuating sick and wounded from front line units, and hauling troops from one sector to the other during the Korean conflict while with the Eighth Division.

Warrant Officer Sholberg was further commended for providing doctrine and procedures to be used by future helicopter units.

Col. Earl Sutton, commanding officer of Combat Training Command, made the presentation of the awards at a Third Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment, review honoring the pilots.

All in a Class OC 'Blasts' Officer

"Pop off, Lieutenant, I can't bear you!" bellowed the officer candidate. A rare phenomenon, but this is what happened at the 14th OC Company during a recent class on interior guard.

Actually, this unheard of occurrence was part of a planned demonstration on how NOT to conduct an interior guard mount. OC Richard Smith, playing the role of a much-bemused general visiting the class, brought on a case of laughter as he drove up in a convertible and directed the instructor to "stand tall" while he lectured the class on the intricacies of interior guard.

Asked later how it felt to fall a tactical officer to "pop off," Smith displayed a sly grin and would sayeth naught.

Col. Powers Appointed 47th Chief of Staff

Col. John L. Powers has been named chief of staff, 47th Infantry Division, succeeding Col. George G. Laughlin who has been reassigned to Thailand effective in October.

Col. Powers' Army career began after his graduation from high school in Westover, Mass., in 1933, when he was appointed a cadet to West Point. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1937.

In World War II he served in the United Kingdom and North Africa with the First Division and in Italy with the 34th Division. After the war he was stationed in Korea from 1945 to 1947 with the 7th Inf. Div.

Before assuming his duties with the 47th, Col. Powers was assigned

P-TA Reports 42 Per Cent Membership

Forty two per cent membership in the Fort Benning Parent-Teachers Association was reported Tuesday night at a meeting of the Executive Board.

Lt. Col. H. B. Johnson, membership committee chairman said his committee hopes to register 100 per cent before the first regular meeting of the P-TA next Monday night.

The 42 per cent figure was reached during the two days the children registered for school.

In other actions the board elected M-Sgt. Cyrus Y. Sims as first vice president to fill the vacancy created when M-Sgt. E. J. Gomon received overseas orders.

They also heard a report from Lt. Col. J. L. Carson on the programs arranged for the school year.

Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander will speak at the opening meeting. The board also heard a report on school construction, operation, and budget from Col. Frazier W. Rodman, school board president. Plans for this year's Halloween Carnival were outlined by Col. W. H. Smith.

30th-136th Open League Sunday

The 1954 TIC Intramural Football League opens at 2 p. m. Sunday when the 30th Infantry Blues tangle with the Bearcats of the 136th Infantry Regiment at Memorial Stadium in Columbus.

Colorful pre-game ceremonies and a dazzling half-time spectacle will highlight the inaugural.

A charity game, all proceeds will go to the Columbus Boys Club and The Infantry Center Special Services Section.

Expected to be on hand for the pre-game ceremony are Columbus Mayor Ralph Sayers, city and Boys Club officials, Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, Maj. Gen. R. W. Stephens, 47th Infantry Division commander and Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fitzsche, assistant commandant.

The 47th Infantry Division Band, the Jordan High School Band and a close order drill squad from the 30th Infantry will perform during halftime.

A quick look at the rosters shows that it will be a battle of football veterans, with the Blues holding a slight edge in experience and having such stars as Frank Boring, Andy Meyers, John Vines, Bobby Moorhead, Frank Fuller and Bill West.

Boring played at the University of Tennessee for four years along with Andy Meyers; Vines and Moorhead contributed four years at Georgia Tech and were stand-out for the Yellow Jackets; Moorhead was an All-American half-back in 1952; Fuller hails from the University of Kentucky and Oregon State College. The Bearcats also have seasoned veterans, with experience gained at small colleges and universities.

Tom Bruno was an All-State griddler in high school and later went on to play for the University of Maryland for two years; Joe Cassidy was a Georgia All-Stater in high school and put in one year at Florida State University; Tom Ellis was at Iowa for two years; James Jones hails from the Winston Salem Teachers College in North Carolina where he was voted All-Conference; Mike Madzigan was with Brown University for two years.

Out of town football games this weekend will see the 135th Inf. Reg. in action at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, and the School Brigade at Tyndall AF Base, Fla. Both games will be played Saturday.

There are others, but Sunday afternoon will see the 135th Inf. Reg. in action at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, and the School Brigade at Tyndall AF Base, Fla. Both games will be played Saturday.

For the third consecutive time, the Panthers had to boot after receiving on their own 29 and scampered 71 yards down the sideline unimpeded as Rams dotted the turf with simulated Panthers. Frank Kusch supplied the first of four PAT's from placement.

Joe Fortunato sparked a 64-yard sprint after the Panthers booted again following the post-TD kick-off. Fortunato failed from the one, but Hamilton knifed over. Kusch again, 14-0.

School Brigade Runs Wild

Scoring four times before their opponents could register a first down, School Brigade's Rams rambled to a 40-19 rout of Fort Bragg's 605th Airborne Panthers last Saturday in the Doughboy Stadium 's inaugural gridfest.

The conquest, sparked by Ed Crook's three touchdowns, Ed Hamilton's brace of TD's, and Joe Fortunato's single paydirt expedition, broke a three-season winning streak compiled by the paratroopers over Benning opposition, and served notice to TIC league members that the Rams will be beat-

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

BY GARY M. CORBETT and M. D. JOYCE

School Brigade proved that it was worthy of all the pre-season raves coming from everyone except Coach George Michaels. They can field perhaps the best first string conglomeration on post this year, but the bench looks woefully weak. With the exception of Milt Wiekert, who racked up sizeable yardage and played an excellent all around game while the "big boy," Joe Fortunato was getting his breath on the sideline, the subs didn't look strong. This lack of depth could hurt Bragg's chances this year if they lose two or three starters before a big game.

Several teams on post cannot field as powerful a first team as Brigade, but unless the Rams can acquire early margins they may be hurting toward the final periods as the Fort Bragg Panthers proved last Saturday. Brigade will be hard to hold this year and it will take a great team to hold them to less than three touchdowns, barring injuries.

On the other top squads around post, there are many who have played bigtime football and are just as capable of scoring three touchdowns per game as Brigade. STC has a big scoring threat in Andy Kozar, Tennessee All-American.

School Brigade will probably be given the roughest time by the 30th Inf. Blues and the 136th Bearcats. The better of these two teams will be decided Sunday. The Blues, like the Rams, will be a powerful running team with a line averaging 200 pounds. Their backs are on the large side too, topping the scales on the average at 182. Bill West is the big man in the backfield, topping the scales at 215 — that's a lot of fullback. Bob Moorhead at the halfback can run the socks off anybody on the post at his spot, including Ed Crook.

At the other halfback spot, Don Wade, with four years of Clemson ball behind him, will give excellent balance for end sweeps on either side.

The line of this 30th team paced by Frank Fuller, 240 pound Rookie-of-the-Year from the Los Angeles Rams, and John Vines four year man from Georgia Tech will be disastrous to unprepared opponents. Frank Boring and Andy Meyers, who total eight years of football with Tennessee will help to make up possibly the strongest line on this post.

The 136th will be no pushover for the 30th, as their passing attack should not be affected by the strong line of the Blues. With ends such as Goose Jones and Bob Bostad, both all-conference selectees in college; quarterback Tony Adamo, two years with Wake Forest, will be aiming for the jump pass to his sure handed extremists. For these short gains needed for that first down, Norb Miller, Little All-American, will be handy in the fullback slot. The line is not as powerful as the 30th, but it can hold long enough to allow Adamo to hit his men with bullet-like passes.

It should be a good game from the spectator's viewpoint. We think the Blues have the edge over the Bearcats and the score could end something like 32-14.

Add this one to your collection of "famous last words": "We've got one thing in our favor and that's the schedule. We play Pittsburgh seven more times while the Giants have nine more to go against Philadelphia..."

Thus spake Jackie Robinson, self-elected spokesman for the Dodgers, after the Brook-Giant series some two weeks ago. Since then, of course, the lowly Pirates made like the lowly Dodgers of 1935, swept four straight from the dethroned National League champs, and gave Robinson membership in the society founded in '35 by Billy Terry, whose words, "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" made humble pie indeed when the Dodgers swept four games from the Giants and presented the Senior circuit crown to the Gas House Gang.

Unlike Cleveland's phenomenal Indians, the Giants won their place in the Series in the old-time tradition — by beating the brains out of their nearest competitors. Leo's boys took 12 of 22 from Milwaukee, and their pennant-clincher Monday night assured them of at least an identical record against the second-place Dodgers. They won Tuesday and lost Wednesday to end the year 13-9 against the Dodgers.

In the other league, the Indians won the pennant down in the basement, primarily at the expense of a generous Boston club, which rolled over and played dead for Cleveland on 20 of 22 occasions. Washington and the A's also deserve an assist, each posting 4-18 records against the newly-crowned AL champs The best the Indians could do with the Yanks was to split the season series, 11-11, and against the third-place three unsuccessful distance attempts, and the Rams were end-zone bound again. Backed up to his own 48 after a 15-yard penalty, quarterback Charlie Gray went airborne on his own hook, and hit Crook for the third tally, Kusch, 21-0.

Gray again connected midway in the second period, this time to Hamilton for a combined pass-run total of 71 yards and a 27-0 half-time lead. A trooper got a hand on Kusch's placement this time.

With Coach George Michaels sweeping the bench, the Bragg representatives broke the ice in the third quarter, with center Jack Boedit capitalizing on a blocked Ram punt. Brigade immediately applied the crusher by grading 54 yards for their fifth touchdown and a 34-6 three-quarter margin.

Carl West, replacing Fortunato, paced the final tally for the Rams in the fourth quarter with Crook going over from the two.

Bragg drew last blood, aided by a 15-yard penalty and a fumble 19 yards behind the line of scrimmage by Brigade. George Dudley plunged over from the nine.

White Sox, the series stands at 10 victories for the Sox against 10 for the Indians at this writing.

All of which makes one wonder whether the odds-makers aren't setting themselves up for a pasting when they place Cleveland on the heavy end of the sugar.

Five straight series, and a 33-19 American League overall bulge in the Fall classic notwithstanding, the National League still must rank as the tougher circuit. None of the front-running National clubs had a 20-2 cousin in the cellar.

Now look at the junior circuit. Cleveland's 109 victories as of Wednesday include, in addition to a full score over Boston, 19 from Baltimore, and 18 each from Washington and Philadelphia.

Here's how they stood Wednesday against the Yanks, 11-11, against Chicago, 10-10; and against Detroit, 13-6. Totals, 34-27.

And don't overlook the grapefruit series between the two clubs this spring. It was the Giants, 13 times out of 21.

Leadership School

136th Cpl. Wins

Cpl. William G. Perrell, Co. G, 136th Inf Regt, was named honor graduate of the 47th Inf. Div. Advanced Leadership School at recent graduation exercises in the Harmony Church area.

The 22-year-old corporal, who has been in the Army since June 1953, won top honors among the 89 graduates of the original 130 men who were entered in the school's six-week course. His score was 82.47 out of a possible 100 points.

A squad leader of Co. G, 136th Inf. Regt., Perrell received a letter of commendation from Maj. Gen. Richard W. Stephens, CG of the 47th Inf. Div., and the American Spirit Honor Medal, symbol of leadership honors, was presented to him by Col. James W. Totten, executive officer of 47th Div. Arty.

He also received a certificate awarded by the Citizens' Committee for the Army, Navy, and Air Force. In his letter of commendation to Perrell, Gen. Stephens said, "It gives me distinct pleasure to commend you on your successful completion of the Advanced Leadership School course, 47th Inf. Div. Ft. Benning, as honor graduate of the class and recipient of the American Spirit Honor Medal and certificate awarded by the Citizens' Committee for the Army, Navy, and Air Force, Inc."

Your selection as honor graduate of the class could have been achieved only by unit effort and to advance yourself professionally as a soldier and leader.

Your willingness to assume responsibility, your cheerful acceptance of orders and your initiative and performance of assigned tasks have indicated your devotion to duty and reflects great credit on yourself and the military service.

Other men were named outstanding graduates among the 89 who received diplomas signed by Major Charles F. Linmore, commandant of the Leadership School, and Lt. Col. Jack R. Gates, 47th Div. G-3.

They included Pfc. Dale D. Halupnik, Co. H, 136th Inf. Regt.; Sgt. Gordon L. Rozell, Co. H, 135th Inf. Regt.; Cpl. Jimmy E. Joyce, Hq. Btry, 125th FA Bn, 2d Raymond E. Hewitt, Co. K, 136th Inf. Regt.; Pfc. Houston L. Robinson, Co. F, 136th Inf. Regt.; Pfc. Curtis E. Shelton, Tank Co, 164th Inf. Regt.; Cpl. Edgar P. Clifton, Co. B, 135th Inf. Regt.; Pfc. Gene F. Steele, Co. I, 136th Inf. Regt.; Pfc. Peter D. Constant, Co. A, 164th Inf. Regt., and Pfc. Donald M. Chartier, Hq. Btry, 25th AAA.

Included in the course was training in methods of instruction, drill and command, leadership qualifications, map reading, field problems, physical training, and inspections. In addition, the men were graded on their relationship with other students, their attitude, interest in the training program, aptitude, and all around ability as soldiers.

of commendation from Maj. Gen. Richard W. Stephens, CG of the 47th Inf. Div., and the American Spirit Honor Medal, symbol of leadership honors, was presented to him by Col. James W. Totten, executive officer of 47th Div. Arty. He also received a certificate awarded by the Citizens' Committee for the Army, Navy, and Air Force. In his letter of commendation to Perrell, Gen. Stephens said, "It gives me distinct pleasure to commend you on your successful completion of the Advanced Leadership School course, 47th Inf. Div. Ft. Benning, as honor graduate of the class and recipient of the American Spirit Honor Medal and certificate awarded by the Citizens' Committee for the Army, Navy, and Air Force, Inc."

Your willingness to assume responsibility, your cheerful acceptance of orders and your initiative and performance of assigned tasks have indicated your devotion to duty and reflects great credit on yourself and the military service.

Other men were named outstanding graduates among the 89 who received diplomas signed by Major Charles F. Linmore, commandant of the Leadership School, and Lt. Col. Jack R. Gates, 47th Div. G-3.

Included in the course was training in methods of instruction, drill and command, leadership qualifications, map reading, field problems, physical training, and inspections. In addition, the men were graded on their relationship with other students, their attitude, interest in the training program, aptitude, and all around ability as soldiers.

OC Finds Guard Mounts 'Toughest' During OCS

ROBERT L. LEHMAN
... 5,000 Long Hours

For Officer Candidate Robert L. Lehman, 14th OC Company, guard inspections are fairly routine. As a member of the Army's Honor Guard in Tokyo from 1948 to 1952, Lehman served some 5,000 hours of guard duty, including the most rigid inspections, but says that OCS outdoes them all. Lehman, a career soldier who has seven years Army service behind him, feels his four years in Tokyo with the 200-man honor guard which received such dignitaries as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Matthew B. Ridgway, was excellent training for the inspections he is undergoing at Fort Benning. Lehman was awarded scrolls signed by Gen. MacArthur and Ridgway commending his sharpness and attention to duty. "Performing battalion guard under the scrutiny of a Tactical Officer may not be quite the same as standing review for Gen. MacArthur," says Lehman, who has a brother graduate from OCS six months ago, "but the objects are the same — pride, smartness and proficiency in military detail for the future officer."

Gals Outnumbered Rhodes, But Army Reversed Deal

No doubt there are plenty of men who have given up a good deal to enter the Army, but perhaps no one has made a greater personal sacrifice than OC Harold Rhodes of 12 OC Company. Last year at this time he was at Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va., an institution that boasted an enrollment of 110 women and 23 bachelors. Mathematically speaking, therefore, Rhodes had a minimum of 55 damsels at his disposal, assuming maximum effort on the part of the other bachelors. Rhodes remained calm, however, and proceeded with admirable sangfroid to pursue a difficult curriculum in organic chemistry. For four years he kept his eyes fastened on reactions in test-tubes and only the Bunsen burner produced warmth in his life. His perseverance paid off as a Bachelor of Science degree in 1953. Shortly thereafter Rhodes entered the Army. After Leadership School at Fort Leonard Wood he was appointed to OCS. Now Rhodes has applied for Ranger School. Remembering the trials of his days at Madison College, Rhodes explains he is going into the Rangers for rest.

Platoon Praised For Participation In Band Concert

The 530th Searchlight Platoon of the 188th Field Artillery Battalion has received a commendation for superior performance of duty from Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general Third Army, citing the platoon's recent participation in a Third Army band concert at Chastain Park in Atlanta. During the concert, entitled "Southland Pararama," four search lights manned by 10 enlisted men under First Lt. Guy E. Peterson swept the skies with their bands of light concentrating over the center stage. Assisting at the concert also was a firing battery of six howitzers of the 198th Field Artillery.

Lowest, Highest Scorers Trade Places in Tests

14th Officer Candidate Company has increased its physical fitness more than 40 per cent in the past four weeks. On Aug. 12 the company averaged 233.4 on the standard Army Physical Fitness Test. One month later the company average was 326, an increase of 92 points per man. Oddly enough, the platoon scoring low on the first test was high on the second; the high platoon on the first test was low on the second. OC Lloyd Lee was high man of the company with 458 points. OC Jack Sanford was second with 446.

YOUTH FOR CHRIST

Young Personalities in the News at Fort Benning

Hickey
OC Patrick Hickey, founder of 12th Officer Candidate Company's chorus, the "Stout-Hearted Men," sang recently at a party given at the Fort Benning Country Club as a "wake" for the First OC Regiment. His numbers included "Because of You," "Blue Moon," and "Temptation."
Before entering the Army in 1953, Hickey had considerable experience singing professionally in this country and in Mexico.

Oliver
The Third Platoon of 13th OC Company has a skier and mountaineer climber who is more at home on Alpine and Alaskan ledges than on the red clay of Harmony Church.
Peter Oliver of West Englewood, New Jersey was president of the Mountaineering Club and captain of the ski team at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y. In his early teens he began to conquer the highest mountains in the Eastern United States. While in college his interest in rock climbing grew and in 1951 he traveled to the West to master the sport. There he climbed in the Tetons and scaled the treacherous East face of Long's Peak. The following summer he took three members of his club to Seattle where he broke trail in a new and original ascent of Mt. Rainier.
Just before entering the Army OC Oliver fulfilled an ambition. He led an expedition of expert climbers from all parts of the United States to make two "First Ascents" in Alaska: the Cook and MacArthur Mountains and the highly complex conquest of Mt. Logan. He plans eventually to join U.S. ski troop training in Alaska.

Steckley
OC Kenneth Steckley of the 12th Officer Candidate Company, can lay proud claim to being the only member of his unit who has been escorted for miles down a highway in a truck by a swarm of bees. "Fifty-caliber slugs couldn't have been any worse," he said.
It occurred during the war when Steckley was working in his brother's transfer company. He loaded the bees — at that time they were still resting quietly in 670 hives — on his truck at Marysville, Calif. His job was to transport them the 600 miles to Portland, Ore.
His cargo remained quiet until, after several hours passage through desert country, the bees were aroused by the heat and humidity. Escaping from their un-pugged hives, they swarmed outside the trailer and, like a cloud of locusts, trailed for several hundred yards in back of the truck. Rolling through one small town Steckley saw a policeman gesture to him frantically to stop.
At last, Steckley managed to pull his truck over to the side of the road by a stream and pacify his cargo. "I'll never forget it," he said. "I decided then and there that if I ever joined the Army it would be Armor for me. A man needs all the protection he can get."

Wilder
Sgt. Robert L. Wilder, a dental technician in the 832d Medical Company (Clearing) (Separate), Wednesday was awarded the Commandment Ribbon with metal pendant for meritorious service in 1952 with the 7th Medical Dispensary in Korea.
Lt. Col. James R. Francis, commanding officer, 84th Medical Battalion (Separate), made the presentation. Sgt. Wilder was cited for the exemplary manner in which he performed his duties. As the only assistant to three dentists, Sergeant Wilder made all X-rays and took care of the administrative work contributing greatly to the smooth operation of his dispensary.
Wilder, a veteran of World War II and 11 years of Army service is a native of Arlington, Tenn. In addition to the Commandment Ribbon, Wilder wears the Good Conduct Medal, Europe-Africa-Middle Eastern Theater Ribbon with three stars, and the Korean Service Ribbon with three stars. Since entering the service in 1943 he has completed two tours of duty in Germany and most recently returning from Korea in December 1953.

Hurley
Officer Candidate Charles G. Hurley of 14th OC Company, has spent most of his life in one prison or another — most recently Alcatraz.
Though he has never served a jail sentence he has been in jail because his family lives there and his father is a prison supervisor. Hurley has had many interesting experiences in his "prison life." The most amusing concerns the time he and a friend, both age 14, built a small hut on Alcatraz Island for "kicks." A prison guard discovered it and suspected that prisoners were planning to use it for a break. The hut was demolished and a special alert ordered throughout the prison.

Sargent

Fire fight to the average G.I. means an engagement fought with firearms. But to Senior Candidate Walter Sargent of 12th OC Company there are other kinds of fire fights which develop into pretty hot affairs. Sargent, for six months was a fire fighter in the forests of several Western States.
His home is in Boston, specialized in forestry at the University of Massachusetts. To help him gain experience in his field, he accepted a job with the Department of Forestry for six months. His first fire was the worst.
It lasted five weeks and devastated thousands of acres of fine timber.

Party Given Top Platoon

The 102nd Company, Second Battalion, the School Brigade, was host to its second platoon at a party at Patton House last week.

The party was given because the second platoon made the highest score for record firing of the M-1 Rifle.

Lt. Joseph Harrell, cadre company commander, announced that top honors within the platoon were taken by Lts. Dudley Fry, James Graves, Henry Hancock, Allan Hamer, Edward Harris, David Johnson, Carlton Jones, George Knutback, Frank Kincaid, Lowell Knight, Bernard Malone, Morton Marks, Delms McCool, William McCord, Paul McHenry and Merle McMillan.

Top company honors were taken by Second Lt. Hugh Waite, member of the fourth platoon. A resident of Albany, Oregon, and a distinguished military graduate from Oregon State College, Waite scored a high of 244 pts.

REENLISTS FOR 3 YEARS
Cpl. Edward L. Wood, assigned to the duty section of Company E, Fourth Battalion, the School Brigade, has reenlisted for a term of three years to go to the AFPE.

A 1787 resolution authorized an Army of 700 men.

ROK Men Head for Home 154 Win Diplomas

One hundred and fifty-four Republic of Korea Army Officers, ending 20 weeks of training, tucked their new Infantry School diplomas in their duffel bags Friday and left for home.

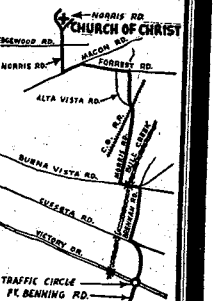

Retired Army Lt. Gen. Reuben E. Jenkins of Columbus, who delivered the graduation address and who was the field commander of the combined I, II and II ROK Corps of the line under the U. S. Eighth Army, reminded them of the brilliant record of their fellow soldiers.

"The Ninth ROK Division literally destroyed four-fifths of the Communists 30th Army, killed 10,000 North Korean ammunition bearers and buried most of them on Whitehorse Mountain in nine days of the most violent and brilliant defensive fighting I have ever witnessed," he said.

Dane Praises TIC Program

The Infantry School's program of instruction justifies its world-wide fame, in the opinion of the chief of the Danish Defense Staff.

"I am greatly impressed with everything I've seen, especially airborne training," said Maj. Gen. E. M. Nordentoft, whose prime U. S. tour interest was The Infantry School here. The Danish party, which included representatives of the NATO country's Army and Navy, saw U. S. Army paratroopers put through their daily routine.

Following a briefing on the mission and training techniques of the Airborne Department, they witnessed demonstrations of physical training exercises, the seven jump commands, how to control a parachute during descent, recovery techniques and jumps from the 34-foot and 250-foot jump towers.

At an official luncheon in his honor at the Main Officers' Mess, Gen. Nordentoft chatted with six Danish Army officers who are training here. They were Major Theodor K. Matzen and Capt. Poul O. Stripp of associate advanced class No. 2, First Lt. Ejnar Gustafsson and Training Aids Section baron Maxhausen of associate company officers class No. 5 and First Lt. Poul Have and Kai Anders Rasmussen.

The Allied general visited the Automotive and Communications Departments, the Weapons Pool and Third Army Training Aids Section. He also observed demonstrations of defensive tactics, 57-mm and 105-mm recoilless rifle marksmanship, and tank gunnery.

Gen. Nordentoft's party included Danish Navy Comdr. J. Elving, aide de camp; Comdr. K. G. Konradsson of the Danish Ministry, Lt. Col. H. A. I. Pedersen, staff member of the Danish Army Officers' School; Major P. P. C. S. Schroeder, Chief of the Defense Staff; Lt. Col. Peter Ward, military attache designate to Denmark, and Lt. Col. William H. Buckley, U. S. tour director.

Daughter: "Oh, I'm sure of that, mother. He told me just the other day that he put his shirt on a horse that was scratched."

FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT DISPLAYED
Safety Program Reduces Fire Losses

Fire Prevention Week Demonstrations Planned

Fire Prevention Week will be observed next week at Fort Benning with a series of lectures and demonstrations.

Military personnel will hear special lectures on fire prevention measures and witness demonstrations of fire-fighting equipment staged by the post Fire Department.

To make troops more fire conscious, bulletins on fire prevention and safety measures have been prepared for distribution throughout the post. Trailers also will be shown at post theaters during the week, and inspections will be conducted by Fire Department personnel.

Plans have been made for school children to tour the Fire Prevention Museum to see fire fighting apparatus and exhibits of fire hazards.

Children also will be asked to complete questionnaires which will require that they, along with their parents, make a safety inspection of their quarters to determine possible hazards.

Theme of the week is "Fire Safety—Your Job Too."

Fire prevention is a continuing program at Fort Benning, under the direction of Col. Louis E. Roth, fire marshal, and Fire Chief Gilbert A. Ward. As a result of the program, Fort Benning reduced its fire loss in fiscal year 1954 by $25,000, compared with 1953.

Baseball on His Mind

FROM THE SERVICE STRIPE

One of last week's Command Conferences brought to light a situation which, in its paradoxical implications, was highly enlightening and almost amusing. During the post-lecture discussion period the lecturer asked, "What value is there in discussing the power of the Soviet Union?" No one volunteered an answer. It is known, despite the fact that people may have exceptional and interesting information with which to contribute to most public discussions, they hesitate to enter the "spotlight" of hundreds of staring eyes in a crowded hall.

A highly intelligent public speaker, the discussion leader attempted to elicit some contributions by arbitrarily calling upon certain individuals in the room that, once on their feet, they would present worthwhile, debatable viewpoints. Instead, comments like "I don't know" and "No opinion" resulted. Again there was a hope that mere timidity was delaying the reactions.

It wasn't until one "courageous" individual put the finishing touch to this debate that we were finally able to realize modesty was not a virtue of this audience. "I think I speak for many of the men here," this soldier began, "when I say I'm interested right now in the pennant race and not in what's going on in the Soviet Union today."

This reaction, we realized, very possibly is the attitude of "many of the men" and was not meant as a "wise guy" remark. Here, we sadly discovered, is the great contradiction. Only in the modern era has any Army ever tried to justify its existence. Never before was the attempt made to spell out to the men in any armed force just exactly why they were called upon to serve. Never before have such extreme efforts been taken to help raise the thinking level of the Serviceman to allow him a more personal involvement within the huge mass of fellow-soldiers. Today the Government wants its men to know where they stand, but sports-conscious people bury their heads in the sand and listen only for ball scores.

We are not implying the baseball situation is one to ignore. Far from it! In fact, the New York Giants are fattening the brow of one fan in this corner. But come October, whichever it is, a day after the World Champion of baseball has been crowned, what bearing will it have on the future?

We wish we could speak for "most of the men" when we say we want to know where we're going, why we're going and for how long we're going to be there. Although the answers may be vague we will seek clarification and a chance to be heard. We are not willing to be docile victims of other people's ambitions or lust for power. If we don't like what we see we'll speak up and demand to cut the deck. We won't leave it for the unseen "next guy" to use his intellectual prowess to protect us. We want in on everything possible, and a say in even more.

'Now Stay That Way!'

Communion Sunday Benefits Related

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) C. W. Lovin We come to the observance of World-wide Communion the first Sunday in October. This is sponsored by all of the leading Protestant denominations in America as a fellowship of the invisible bonds of brotherhood which binds all of us into one great fellowship of Christian love throughout the whole world. Our sister Churches throughout the world will also join with our Churches in America in this observance.

Many of our denominations in America also use this Sunday as a day to take an offering at the Communion table for their overseas relief work and for their Chaplains to have funds to operate on in the Armed Forces. It has come to be a red-letter day in most Church calendars for this reason: Since World War II, our Protestant denominations have emphasized the work of their Chaplains with service personnel and have pledged themselves to support their Chaplains and their programs in the Armed Forces. It is through the various denominational Commissions as well as the General Commission on Chaplains, 120 Maryland Avenue, N. E., Washington 2, D. C.

Chaplains in the Armed Forces observe World-wide Communion Sunday, too, so that we can keep before our service personnel the importance the Churches place upon keeping their men and women in contact with their main program and their respective 1000 churches. It is suggested that you, who read these lines, write to your local pastor and advise a special offering for the program of your Church on this day in connection with this special observance.

World-wide Communion Sunday is also an opportunity for all of us to pray for world peace and

MEDAL OF HONOR

The Medal of Honor has been awarded to 1st Lt. Benjamin F. Wilson, USA, for his heroic action near Hwach'on-Myon, Korea, June 5, 1951. His unit, Co. 1, 31st Inf. Regt., 7th Div., was committed to a daylight attack against heavily fortified enemy positions on high ground. When the spearheading element of the attack was pinned down, Lt. Wilson attacked alone with his rifle and grenades. He killed four enemy machine gunners and neutralized the position which had been holding up the advance.

He then led a bayonet attack on a main objective which cost the enemy 27 dead. But, while the attack was being consolidated, the Reds counterattacked and threatened to overrun the area. Lt. Wilson countered with a single-handed charge in which he killed seven and wounded two. The rest fled.

An American assault struck to within 15 yards of the final objective before it was halted by heavy fire. Painfully wounded, Wilson remained alone to provide covering fire as the outfit withdrew. The enemy counterattacked — the 1st platoon and first platoon leader fell — and Lt. Wilson again charged into the oncoming enemy. He killed three with his rifle before he was wrested away from him. Lt. Wilson sludged four other enemy deaths with his entrenching tool. The ferocity of his fighting demoralized the enemy while his own company reorganized.

Lt. Wilson was wounded again, but he stayed in his position covering the removal of the wounded and the orderly withdrawal of the outfit. (AFPS)

What does America mean to me? As an American soldier now in Korea, America means to me: Super highways on which to move swiftly. Freedom from want through factories, farms and ever increasing research in better things for better living. Freedom from fear, through the building of a strong defense against Communism. Freedom of speech, which enables each American citizen to strive for what he believes is right. Library Concert

Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" has been selected for the weekly recorded concert at the Main Post Library Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Incredible as it may seem to day, "H. M. S. Pinafore" was not a success when it was first produced in London on May 25, 1878. It was only after Arthur Sullivan had conducted excerpts from the score at a "Classical Night's Concert" that business picked up at the Opera Comique where the Operetta was first staged. It was Gilbert and Sullivan's first success as to what kind of a show had such a delightful score.

There were so many unauthorized performances playing overseas that Gilbert and Sullivan were forced to go to America and personally direct an authentic version of "H. M. S. Pinafore" which, in spite of the fact that pirated versions of the operetta had been running for eighteen months, received a rapturous reception.

On the first night Sullivan was in the orchestra pit conducting and Gilbert was supervising the stage production in the guise of a very busy little Midshipman in the chorus!

"H. M. S. Pinafore" or "The Lass that Loved a Sailor" is being presented by The New Promenade Orchestra conducted by Isador Godfrey.

A chorus of 22 officer candidates from Fort Benning who received their gold bars Tuesday exploded into song last Friday night for the polio patients at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

Stork Pays Visit To Four Families In F Co., 30th

The stork made trips to four families of Fox Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, within a period of approximately one week. Second Lt. Alfred Downs is the proud father of a daughter, Dana C. Downs, weighing an even seven pounds, while M-Sgt. Toye E. Ward, first sergeant, strengthened his family by the addition of Therisa Jean, six pound and twelve ounce girl. Col. and Mrs. Marvin E. Taylor announced the arrival of their seventh child, a son weighing twelve pounds and one ounce. The only male member of this quartet is Joseph Frank Kelsey Jr., seven pound two ounce son of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kelsey.

CTC Units Engage In Training Cycles

One unit from each of six battalions of the Combat Training Command is engaged in a four week advanced training program. The units are Companies A, B, C and I of the 30th Infantry Regiment; Battery B, 198th Field Artillery Battalion; Battery A, 418 Field Artillery Battalion; and Company B, 78th Engineer Battalion. The training program will include arms instruction and qualification, drill and other types of basic infantry training.

WW I History Given To 30th By Gen. Bell

Brig. Gen. Marcus B. Bell, (Ret.), of Columbus, has presented two volumes of pictorial history of World War I to the 30th Infantry Regiment. The books, "L'Album de la Guerre" have been placed on display in the regimental trophy room. Written in French, the books contain many early photographs of the war, included are pictures of the Battle of the Marne during which the 30th Infantry distinguished itself.

When the curtain on the stage of new, modernistic Roosevelt Hall parted, the aspiring Infantry lieutenants from the 12th Officer Candidate Company, opened an hour and a half show with their theme song, "Stout-Hearted Men." Then keeping the pace fast with "There is Nothing Like a Dame," a ballad drifted by and left dear old sweet "September Song," the chorus found a serious mood and tempo great. "You'll Never Walk Alone," as usual, were an appreciative audience. With Director Pat Hickey singing the solo lead, the chorus continued with Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" and the ever-popular "Bells of St. Mary's." The applause was not loud. Many of those present had their arms held tightly in braces or could not move them. But the soldier chorus understood, and it would have taken more than footlights to dim out the smiles and gentle laughs. Officer Candidate Glenn White, a football player and champion choraleer from Middletown, Penn., transported everyone to a new scene in a far off place with a lilting "On the Road to Mandalay" and then reminded the audience that there is no use being in love if you are in love "Without a Song."

Master of Ceremonies for the show was Officer Candidate Robert Tressel from Columbus, Ohio. Tressel had a visitor once between songs by the name of "Harvey." He introduced the imaginary rabbit in a superb imitation of Jimmy Stewart's voice and characterization — to the patients as they sat in their wheel chairs or laid on their beds along the ramps and tiers of their especially constructed theatre. "Harvey" was there that night if he was ever anywhere, "big, ridiculous and loveable," taking on everybody's problems." Tressel next introduced a quartet that became the hit of the show, Candidates Arnold Feener, David Forden, Clarence Taylor, and Glenn White. Show Stopper

Pfc. Gustafson Wins Coveted Bn. Title

Pfc. Albert Gustafson of Company K, 30th Infantry Regiment, was recently selected as Soldier of the Month for the Third Battalion. Pfc. Gustafson was chosen on the basis of personal appearance, alertness and knowledge of military affairs. Lt. Col. Gus W. Schlitz, commanding officer of Third Battalion, made the selection. The honor soldier is from Manchester, Conn.

found to his surprise that it boasted at least 10 members with professional singing experience, and one under contract with the Metropolitan, O. C. Patrick Hickey the chorus leader. The men often rehearsed the numbers they sang for the Warm Springs patients last Friday during "breaks" while training in the field of riding their buses to classrooms. The chorus has used the name "Stout-Hearted Men" in their appearances at the U. S. Army Hospital at Benning and over Fred Wilner's TV show "Open House." A select few public appearances were permitted, and encouraged by the Commanding Officer of the Fifth Student Battalion, Lieut. Col. Franklin R. Bricks. The experience of singing for the patients at Warm Springs deeply moved many of the Officer Candidates. On the bus-ride back to Benning one of them, who this reporter had never met, leapt over the dark narrow aisleway and asked, "You know that fourth number we sang?" "Yes, well, . . . we were wondering whether we should include it in the program. We know that many of the patients could not walk, perhaps will never walk. We thought it might seem awkward. But we put it in because we finally decided it was our best way of telling them that we would never forget our being here and meeting them, and that we — and thousands of other Americans each in their own way — were for them and the great work carried on at Warm Springs."

EM to Get Break In Reassignments

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Major revisions in the reassignment procedures for enlisted men, designed to save the Army time and money and to give the noncommissioned officer a morale boost, have gone into effect. Acting upon Department of the Army directives, Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, has announced that transfers within the continental United States will be from post to post without the usual stop-overs at reassignment stations. In addition, the reassignment of all top three graders returning to the states from overseas will be made on an individual basis. This procedure will also extend to Wacs and to all servicemen below the rank of sergeant who are accompanied by dependents. Four Objects Given The new policy is intended to cut down on unnecessary travel delays, to reduce the functions of reassignment stations to the processing of overseas returnees only, to reduce the time spent by an individual in a non-effective status, and to boost the morale of the noncommissioned officer. Gen. Bolling revealed that Army sergeants will now be able to move their family from their overseas home directly to one near their new post. This is how the new policies work. Names of the top three graders, as well as Wacs and lower graders with dependents, will be reported to the Adjutant General in Washington four months in advance of their scheduled return date from overseas. Assignments will then be procured in the continental armies for these service personnel, and forwarded to the overseas command. Orders will then be issued to the individual serviceman directly to his new post. First unaccompanied sergeants to be affected by the new policy will be those leaving in November from overseas posts.

Uncle Sam Building Ocean Radar Isles

NEW YORK (AFPS)—A multi-million dollar program to build permanent radar stations as far as 100 miles off the U. S. Atlantic coast is now under way. A part of the new Continental Air Defense Command's radar warning system, the picket-line of man-made islands is expected to be under construction by spring. The Navy Bureau of Yards and Docks is the construction agency for the stations.

The platforms, which will probably be about 15,000 sq. ft. in area, are adaptations of the so-called "Texas Towers" on which oil well rigs have been constructed in the Gulf of Mexico. The radar "islands" will be built at secret locations on coastal shoals between Newfoundland and Virginia.

The Texas Tower—a development of the DeLong Corp.—is a steel barge on which a series of steel tubes six feet in diameter are mounted. The barge is towed out to the location selected for it. Calsons, more than 100 feet long, are dropped through the tubes to the ocean floor.

A complicated pneumatic process raises the platform above the level of the water and any force-induced turbulence. This movement can be controlled to 1-32nd of an inch.

The radar islands will have a tall radar tower and other equipment as well as housing for a crew of more than 30 men. Each platform will be designed to provide a wide landing space for helicopters which will be used to service the installations.

While the permanent radar stations will not replace aircraft and surface ships for long-range radar work, they are expected to replace the expensive airborne operations nearer the Coast.

Research Unit No. 3 They Improve Inf. Techniques

Two retired colonels are blazing a trail in the creation of balanced teams of scientists and Army officers whose mission is to develop improved Infantry training techniques.

Col. Henry E. Kelly and Lt. Col. John O. Cooper, both of Columbus, have joined the staff of Human Research Unit No. 3 at Fort Benning to help civilian scientists investigate ways in which this can be accomplished.

The importance of their new positions as technical assistants is best summed up by Dr. Francis E. Jones of Holly Springs, Miss., civilian director of the unit, who believes a joint team of experts on both scientific research and military tactics is necessary in any study of training problems.

Dr. Jones says:

"The skills required to implement our objectives most efficiently obviously include more than those psychological - professional in nature. It is just as important to have available within the team military-professional and engineering-professional skills of the highest caliber."

Both colonels are well-qualified for the research unit's current projects which are concerned with improved use of the rifle and other small arms and the problems of small Infantry units.

Col. Kelly has 33 years of service, including in addition to combat service in both World Wars, ten years of experience as an instructor at The Infantry School and The Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. He was president of Army Field Forces Board No. 3, the testing and developing agency for the U.S. Infantry, until his retirement here on June 30.

He is quick to show enthusiasm for his new job and it is easy to see that he has definite ideas about improvement techniques.

"In the past," says Col. Kelly, "the development of new techniques depended largely on the work of individual officers. Much of the development fell upon instructors at service schools who were carrying a full load of instruction and took on this work in addition to their other duties."

"It is, therefore, of some consequence that we may soon have the full-time association of scientists who specialize in instructional methods and testing, engineer specialists who produce training devices essential to realistic training and officers who are familiar with Army needs."

Col. Cooper's qualifications as a military technical assistant include much experience in small arms training. Assigned to the G-3 (Operations and Training) Section of Army Field Forces headquarters at Fort Monroe, Va., at the time of his retirement, he has been interested in the development and improvement of small arms marksmanship throughout his career.

One of the few U. S. military men who holds the title of "Distinguished Marksman" for excellence in marksmanship competition Col. Cooper was director of marksmanship at Camp Rucker, where Human Research Unit No. 3 conducted preliminary research on night firing.

"You know I almost married a violinist," "That so?" "Yep. I was her beau, but she wouldn't string along with me."

Heard, Seen, Told

IT WAS HAPPY DAYS for the private and private first class of the Infantry School Detachment last week. They had help coming up to pull KP in the company mess hall. KP, which formerly came around every 12 to 14 days, will now come about once each 24 days. Fifty-eight new men will help spread the time for the job.

Two visiting general officers were at Fort Benning this week for conferences on Infantry tactics and Infantry Center operations.

Major Gen. James M. Gavin, the Army's G-3 arrived Monday evening for a one-day stay. The commander of the Armored School at Fort Knox, Ky., Major Gen. George Read, was on the post Tuesday and yesterday. The visiting generals will confer with Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, and were briefed on activities here.

TO GET A FIRSTHAND LOOK at the home of the U. S. Infantry, more than 200 members of the Birmingham, Ala., Traffic and Transportation Club visited Fort Benning yesterday as guests of Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper.

Traveling in a special train, the group arrived on the post in the late morning and went directly into the field for lunch. First item on the itinerary after lunch was the Infantry-Tank Team in the Attack Demonstration, a regularly scheduled Infantry School problem.

The group, which includes some of the top transportation and traffic figures in the Southeast, was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Louis W. Truman, Third Army chief of staff.

A DUTCH ARMY OFFICER attending the Infantry School gave the Talbotton Lions Club a first hand account Monday of life in his country. Capt. Johannes Swijnenberg, a family prayers kneeling on the student in advanced class No. 1, cat.

was principal speaker at the club's meeting at 7 p.m. in the Talbotton Community House.

ABOUT 150 PERSONS attended the Associate Advance Class No. 1 dinner recently held at the Main Officers Mess.

A feature of the evening's entertainment was group singing led by several Allied officer class members. The songs sung in French and German brought back memories of service in Europe for many of the United States Army personnel present.

Following the dinner, dancing was enjoyed in the main ballroom. CAPT. CHARLES J. McCABE, company commander of Seventh Company, the School Brigade, began a five day leave before taking over the job of adjutant for the First Student Battalion.

Replacing him as company commander will be Lt. Carl C. Allroad, who is the former Commander of First Company.

THE 101ST COMPANY, the School Brigade, pioneered another Basic Infantry Officers Course in the first formal reception of the School Brigade.

Held at the Main Officers Mess it was intended to introduce the new officers to their social obligations at future military assignments.

Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, Col. Donald Washington, Lt. Col. W. M. Boyce and cadre Company Commander Capt. Emil J. Striker were among the guests. A special color guard from the Airborne Department was present.

Your grandfather's a little deaf, isn't he? one man asked another. "A little deaf?" the other man said. "Yesterday, he conducted the family prayers kneeling on the student in advanced class No. 1, cat."

P-TA

Carnival chairman Lt. Col. W. H. Smith of the 47th Division reiterated the fund-raising aspect of the carnival this year stating that plans are being made to take care of a crowd greater than last year's 14,000.

Lt. Col. John L. Carson, program chairman, listed the scheduled P-TA activities for 1954-55 as follows:

October, Halloween Carnival; November, Open House; December, Christmas Party; January, School Operations; February, Hobby Show; March, Health Show; April, Guest Speaker and Election of Officers, and May, Installation of Officers and Program Evaluation.

In his remarks, Col. Rodman also discussed the rebuilding of Faith School auditorium, reporting that changes in construction specifications to increase structural strength is the cause for the delay. In connection with this he described the cyclone plan which has been instituted in post schools and in which the children are receiving drill.

Through last week end the post school system had registered 1,672 students from kindergarten through the eighth grade. An additional 169 post children are attending Columbus high schools. In 1950 the post student population was 576.

Lt. Col. Lehman H. Johnson, Jr., association president, stated he was well pleased with the attendance at the first meeting at which 1,199 signed the register. This includes some duplication as parents sign for each child in school.

Concerning the increasing membership, Johnson reported that 42 per cent of the families had joined during the two-day registration for school on Sept. 1 and 2. Eighteen per cent more joined during September prior to the first meeting.

Hot Weather Garb

Post Testing New Uniforms

Hot temperate zone tests of the Army's proposed all-purpose hot weather uniform and lightweight load-carrying equipment are being conducted at Fort Benning by army Field Forces Board No. 3.

The tests are similar to those held this summer at Yuma, Ariz., under the direction of Major Hiram S. Tye, who reported that preliminary results are "favorable."

Color of the uniform being tested here is green. The Yuma-tested uniform was tan. Both, however, are identical in design. They are lightweight, and the jacket, resembling an African bush jacket, has a belt that gives the uniform a natty appearance when used for summer dress.

The green shade is designed for camouflage in tropical and temperate zones. The tan will provide a camouflage color in desert areas.

To End Sunday Tests will end Oct. 3 under direction of Major Tye and Major Theodore K. Hudson.

Designed to improve the appearance of the present combat uniform the new outfit also will provide functionally correct combat dress. Uniforms will be given rough treatment during the Fort Benning tests. A 44-man platoon from the 20th Infantry Regiment will wear them on the obstacle, infiltration, and overhead firing courses. The platoon also will take long marches and participate in assault and defense problems while wearing the uniform.

Purpose of the new load-carrying equipment is to provide a more comfortable pack and at the same time decrease the weight and number of items an infantryman carries into combat. Tests on this equipment were conducted last year by the Canadian Army.

Eliminate Equipment The new pack will eliminate possibly 20 pieces of equipment. Among them are the pistol belt, compass case, first aid pack, canteen pack, grenade carrier, cartridge belt and ammunition bags.

The new webbing is lighter, wider, padded at the shoulders and more comfortable. Ammunition is easier to reach. Included in the new gear is a universal carrying strap that can be rolled up to fit in the soldier's pocket. Weighing less than a pound, it is strong enough to carry heavy rations, ammunition and weapons.

Board No. 3 test officers will determine how the uniform and equipment stand up in this weather zone by interviews, observation and questionnaires.

Leader of the test platoon is First Lt. Alejandro C. Martinez of Alfred, N. Dak. Other tests to be conducted with the new equipment of the platoon in March and April and the cool temperate zone tests at Fort Devens, Mass., in June and July, 1955.

15 Airmen Held by Reds

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—Fifteen hands, also accuse the Reds of a direct violation of the Armistice "political prisoners" by the Chit-Agreement by a build-up of military strength in Korea.

The Defense Department said the Communists had adopted the subtlety of classifying prisoners of war as "political prisoners," thus attempting to evade the Armistice Agreement, the Department of Defense has charged.

The Chinese, who alleged that the flyers flew over neutral territory during the Korean fighting and were shot down or forced to land on Chinese soil across the Yalu, admitted at Geneva that the 15 were in their custody. Repatriation of prisoners of war have confirmed their existence.

The Defense Department, in renewing its request that the Communists account for 528 U.S. personnel believed to be in the hands of the Reds, is expected to return Oct. 11.

Know the Guy Next to You

Selectees should regard their period of active military service as a valuable opportunity to attain maturity, learn important skills and techniques, and get to know fellow Americans from every walk of life. Unit commanders or their discussion leader representatives will stress this theme during TIC troop information conference periods next week, according to Lt. Col. Charles W. Hall, post T1&E Officer.

"Government of the people, by the people, and for the people" is not merely a hollow phrase to citizens of the United States. It's a succinct summation of a form of government which has endured for nearly 180 years with only a few minor adjustments to meet constantly changing conditions. No other government can make that statement.

A citizen of a country so governed should freely acknowledge and cheerfully discharge the responsibilities of service requisite to preservation of that government, according to a statement by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director, Selective Service System. Gen. Hershey's statement, and Troop Topic 20-77, "Our Government," will provide background information for next week's troop information discussions, Col. Hall said.

Unit commanders, or their discussion leader representatives, should explain unit mission, their importance to the Army and to the Nation, with emphasis on the individual soldier's contribution to that mission, said Col. Hall.

GOLDEN GATE QUARTET... The nationally known Golden Gate Quartet will give two performances Saturday night at Fort Benning. At 7 p.m. they'll perform at Theater 6 in Sand Hill and at 8:30 at the Main Theater. Admission will be 25 cents, public invited.

Leading Quartet to Present Program at Two Post Theaters

The famous Golden Gate Quartet where it has entertained at Presidential inaugurations, universities and American folk music at Europe where it has sung at coronations of royal families.

The quartet will appear at Theater No. 6 at 7 p.m. and at the Main Theater at 8:30 p.m.

Known as "grand-daddy of quartets," the singing group is credited with popularizing spiritual music. Its fame spreads from the U. S.

Many of their hits have been recorded by Capitol, Mercury, and Columbia, their current affiliation.

500 Start, 400 End Inf. School Classes

More than 500 students began classes at The Infantry School this week and some 400 more graduated.

Opening exercises were held Monday for Ranger class No. 4 with approximately 200 students and Airborne class No. 4 with 155 students. Advanced non-commissioned officer class No. 1 opened Wednesday with approximately 200 students.

Eighty two students were commissioned Tuesday at the Main Post theater when graduation exercises were held for officer candidate class No. 10.

Other graduations included 95 students in enlisted communication class No. 5, 55 in advanced company officers class No. 5 eight in automotive supervision class No. 1, and 164 in basic infantry officers class No. 20.

Woman's Club To Open Year

The Fort Benning Woman's Club, bridge, foreign languages, art, will open its 1954-55 season with a gala tea Tuesday, Oct. 5, at the party cookery, exercise, sewing and tennis.

The tea, to which nearly 3000 ladies have been invited, will begin at 2:30 p.m. A welcoming address will be given by Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, commanding general of the post, at 3 p.m. They'll then enjoy refreshments.

Mrs. Norman H. Wiley Woman's Club president, hopes that all wives of officer personnel will attend. It is the aim of Mrs. Wiley and the Woman's Club board to lead the membership through a year of fulfillment in community life by way of entertainment, service and activity.

This year promises a wide variety of programs at the monthly meetings as well as weekly activities. The activity groups are set up for the enjoyment and interest of all. The groups include bowling, CANADIAN BALL ON TV

4 Wacs Take First Flight In Helicopter

Four Fort Benning Wacs are indebted to their executive officer Lt. Kathleen M. Ford of the WAC Company-for her arrangement with the Lawson Air Force Base to allow them to take to the air for the first time in a helicopter.

Pfc. Nancy Weinhold, Cpl. Betty McElroy, and Cpl. Dolores Lawan made their first helicopter flight recently and received a splendid aerial view of the Fort Benning reservation. Pvt. Marilyn Briggs spread her wings a day later, flying over Columbus and emerging at Muscogee County Airport.

All four Wacs, who are assigned to Headquarters Special Troops Command, agreed that their helicopter flight was a unique event. Two of the aerialists will soon depart from Fort Benning, Cpl. Lawan for overseas duty and Pvt. Briggs for re-assignment to another station.

Pvt. Pattee Scores Highest Mark in Class

Pvt. Donald E. Pattee, Company A, First Transportation Bn., who recently completed the wheeled mechanics course given at Fort Benning, attained the highest academic standing in the class. Pvt. Pattee lacked only 3.6 percent of receiving a perfect score. He received a letter of academic achievement from Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commander of the Infantry School.

Fumbleitis Hurts Bearcats Nudge 30th Inf., 12-0

In a game that showed more excitement than football, the 130th Bearcats beat the 30th Infantry Blues 12-0, in the TIC League inaugural at Memorial Stadium last Sunday afternoon.

For two full periods the game was highlighted only by long punts, pass interceptions and fumbles. The Blues were hurt many times by penalties, but even when they had chances to gain yardage they were hurt by the slashing ends of the 130th who threw them for loss upon loss. Hence, they were forced to punt.

The Bearcats were more effective on their tries from scrimmage, but their weakness was the

STC-Divarty, 30th-135th Play at Benning

Three post teams will make initial appearances in the TIC Intramural League in two games this weekend. Saturday at 2 p.m. the Red Legs from Divarty will tangle with the STC Green Wave at Tiger Field while the 30th Infantry Blues scheduled to face the Red Bulls of the 135th Infantry, 2 p.m. Sunday at Doughboy Stadium.

Coach Andy Kozar, STC's head mentor, and former All-American at the University of Tenn., claims some of the top candidates on the post. His team roster boasts talent from high schools, colleges and service teams. Tom Stengel, another college star, played for the Alabama Crimson Tide for four years and is expected to give opponents a tough time.

Mike Shoar, Divarty coach, will field two experienced men in Phil Smith, a fleet halfback from Alabama and Tom Carroll, a standout at Dayton Univ.

The Blues, initiated in the league with a loss to the 130th Bearcats, 12-0, last Sunday, "are underdogs in their contest with the Red Bulls but could prove dangerous to the Red Bulls since neither team suffered crushing injuries they both should improve in practice this week and be geared for a top-notch TIC contest.

Joe Gnerre stands for little improvement over his performance last Sunday as he played his halfback position well, along with other members of the Blues.

Holding the reins for the Bearcats is James Burick, a former grid star at the University of Alabama.

inability to hang onto the ball. Many times they broke loose for fine yardage only to lose the ball when tackled. Twice in the first period they passed perfectly into the waiting arms of the 30th secondary.

Toward the end of the first quarter, the Blues made their only serious scoring threat. Chip Thomas booted the ball to Nubbs Miller on his own six, who was smashed for a two yard loss by Frank Boring. Miller then ran the ball for a ten yard gain, but John Montgomery lost the ball on the next play by fumbling it on his own 16. Joe Guerre drove for six yards to the 136 10 yard line, but lost the ball on a hard tackle to end the early 30th threat.

In the third period the Bearcats kicked off to the Blues, and two plays later regained possession via the fumble route. This time the Cats capitalized as Montgomery hit Jim Jones who carried the hot potato to the Blues' three. Joe Cassidy on the first play dove over the right side for the first score. Miller failed the attempted PAT.

The second rally came shortly afterward as the 130 again forced the Blues to punt. Cassidy hit the line for five, but Miller lost the gain with a fumble. Montgomery connected with Wagner for a 20 yard pass and Miller, with the aid of Fardig's key block traveled the 33 yards

The Fort Jackson Eagles, who eliminated the Doughboys in the Third Army Baseball title, finished second behind a powerful Fort Ord nine, in the All Army Tournament, at Camp Carson last week.

Ord outslugged Jackson in the final game 9-6 with Pardue getting the loss. Bubba Phillips, who gave more than one headache to Third Army coaches this past season, was voted the most valuable player in the tourney.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

BY MARION D. JOYCE AND GARY CORBETT

Nothing is so pleasing to the sports columnist as receipt of a note from an irate reader and that's right. Even a back-slapping missive fails to bring the same glow as one which starts, "Dear Knucklehead," or "Herks." Which is by way of digging our toes awkwardly into the hot sand and announcing, with all pseudo-modesty, that last week's portion of Spotighting devoted to the relative merits of the Giants and the Indians was read by at least one person — an Indian fan.

This here fellow somehow got the idea that Spotighting was attempting to minimize the achievements of Lopez's lallapaloosers. Was he ever right! (Before we go further, let's get one thing straight. Despite the double by-line, the baseball portion last week was mine, and no one is more anxious to have that known than Corbett. After all, he picked Cleveland to win the series two weeks ago!)

But to get back to the Indians. My theme last week, which apparently got through to our irate correspondent, was to the effect that all Cleveland actually proved this season was that they could whop the beechcreez out of five minor-league teams fraudulently operating under American League franchises, whereas against their peers, the Chisox and the Yanks, they broke even—no more, no less.

As I see it, the American league this season consisted of two segments: the Indian, Yanks, and Chicago comprising one, with five other clubs wallowing around, 40-plus games off the pace, in their own private world with fourth place and a stipend of the Series gate as their horizon.

Only one National club rates (for lack of a better word) with the five-team second division of the junior circuit—Pittsburgh, 44 games off the pace.

More figyans, yuh want? Cleveland cops the flag eight games in front of the Yanks. Lopez and Stengel split the season series. 11-11. Who beats the Yanks? Five guys named Rinkey-Dink. Warn't Cleveland. Giants win by five over Brooklyn. AND THEY EARNED FOUR OF THOSE GAMES THEMSELVES, copping the season series, 13-9. They also closed strong to shove the bumptuous Braves back into their proper place, 12 games to 10.

Nobody knows better than your old father, keed, how dangerous it is to write on Tuesday for Thursday's paper about what is going to happen starting Wednesday. You may have noticed that the outcome of the series hasn't been hazarded. All we're interested in is giving credit where credit is due. The elation of Cleveland fans after five long, hard seasons of second best is understandable. But when they crow about beating the Yankees, it's a bit thin. Or do they feel that breaking even with the Yanks is the equivalent of whoppin' the Sox off any other club?

And speaking about five long years, can you remember, chinking, when the Giants won the World Series? They took it in 1933. In 1936, 1937 and 1951 they made futile stabs at it but that series flag, that something extra special in the sports world, has always eluded them since '33.

In closing, we'd like to reiterate last week's contention: "The Giants won their place in the series in the old-time tradition—by beating the brains out of their nearest competitors." and if a 25-19 bulge isn't more significant than a 22-22 split, we've been to the wrong billiard parlors. The Giants and the Indians will settle their differences before millions of fans. Even if the Indians do win, per the form sheet, don't sell the 1927 Yankees short. THEY played in an EIGHT-team league. M.D.J.

Privately, we picked 40 games last weekend and missed 14, for a 60% percentage. One of the 40 was a game played at Memorial Stadium Sunday afternoon. Predicted score 22-14, actual score; 0-12. Not a close upset, but a thorough beating. The 30th apparently will go down as a team that was too highly overrated for its own good.

The Bearcats won that game by playing heads up defensive football. Their offense needs a lot of polishing, but their defense was tremendous. They had the ability and speed to drive into the Blues' backfield and break up a play before it could get going. Jim Jones and Bob Bostad along with Bob Wilga sliced more holes in the 30th line than three Sherman tanks. They were in on every play forcing a quick pass or a premature lateral. What did this accomplish? There were no open pass receivers, and the early lateral left a naked ball carrier to be nabbed by the nearest Bearcat.

The Bearcats have a lot of ironing out to do, but they are much farther along the way than the (Please See SPOTLIGHT, Page 23)

Behind the seven-hit pitching of Jim Schaeffer, the H.&S. Co. of the 682 Eng. Bn., 47th Division Sp. Units, representing Fort Benning, won the Third Army Men's Softball Championship by beating Fort Bragg 5-0 at Fort McPherson last Saturday.

Notching his fourth straight tournament victory, Schaeffer struck out nine and walked only two. In the four games he struck out 48 men, walked seven, allowed 14 hits and only four runs.

Benning scored four runs in the first inning of the championship game on four hits and three Fort Bragg errors. They scored the final tally in the second inning. Bragg used pitchers Neal Steward and Howard Delano, Steward getting the loss.

Bob Moore, Jack Duncan and Tom Spence, each with a double and a single in the last game, were Benning's leading hitters. No Fort Bragg hitter got more than one hit off the fireballing Schaeffer.

In the Women's Softball Championships, Fort McPherson won 6-2, over Fort Bragg Friday night.

Fort Benning was direly hurt by the loss of their star hurler, Florence Boudreau, who was sick.

Terry Flanders did a fine job as a replacement though winning her first start 2-0 over Fort Jackson. In the second game, against Fort McPherson, the WACS lost 4-0. Flanders this time absorbing the loss. They were eliminated from the tourney 8-2 by Fort McClellan in the semi-finals with Claudia Pass receiving the loss.

Capt. Parks, WAC catcher and company commander, was the hitting star for the girls, collecting two home runs and several singles in the three games.

Saturday, Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commanding general, presented both team and individual trophies to the winners and runners-up in both divisions.

Brigade, 164th Point To '54 Boxing Season

This year's boxing program at Fort Benning should be tantalizing to the spectator with the combination of talents of the 47th Division units and Main post teams battling for the championships.

In early reports School Brigade, runner-up for four straight years, and the 164th Infantry both claim that they will bring home the post boxing title held by CTC.

A quick run down of each team gives ample reason for both predictions. School Brigade is being coached this year by Larry Jones, who coached the ASU Prov. Gp. to four TIC titles. Jones was TIC middleweight champ from 1947 through 1951. In 1949 and 1951 he was the All Army titlist. Jack King, trainer, also a fighter in the lightweight class, holds the All-Southern championship as well as the Ohio Golden Gloves runner-up title. All-Army last year.

Ed Crook, All-Army champ '54, James Boyd, Third Army runner-up in '54, Regis Blair, All-Southern champ in 1954 and King will be the mainstays on the team of pugilists from Brigade this year.

Jones is pleased with his group of eager young fighters. He has several proven batters, and claims the rest will be ready to present a well-rounded team in this year's bout.

William Cash, coach for the 164th Boxing squad, has eight returning 47th Division champs, who composed over half of the Rucker boxing team last year.

This year he has added Aliee Harp, runner-up at Third Army '54, Charles Craig, George Hicks, Leon Nelson, Tom Ellis, L. G. O. Banks, Darney Miller, Lewis Carr (Please See BRIGADE, Page 24)

Two Post Officers to Give Trophies to Gen. Ridgway

Two Fort Benning officers have been selected to present Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, the championship trophies won by the Army squad in the 1954 National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Lt. Col. Ellis Lea, Army Pistol team captain, and Major Carl Byas of Bowie, rifle team captain, will make the presentation in formal ceremonies at Fort Myers, Va., Oct. 3.

On the rituals will be duplicated this year when Gen. Ridgway again accepts the coveted Gold Cup Trophy, won by the Army pistol team. The Army also won the trophy in the 1953 matches. It will be retained in Gen.

Lt. Kirby Named Rifle, Pistol Team Supply Officer

Second Lt. Marvin G. Kirby of Neosho, Mo., has joined the staff of the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Team headquarters at Fort Benning as administrative and supply officer.

Lt. Kirby assumed his new duties after completing the 15-week basic officers course here.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant in January upon graduation from the University of Arkansas, where he received a bachelor of science degree.

Redstone Bows To 135th, 32-7

In its opening game of the season, the 135th Inf. Regt. team gave notice they would be no pushover in the TIC league this year as they downed Redstone Arsenal 32-7, at Redstone last Saturday.

Redstone scored on a 95-yard run on the first quarterback sneak. Their conversion was the last time that they saw the scoreboard change in their favor.

Incensed, the 135th struck back immediately marching 60 yards before George White pulled his way over from the 12 yard line. Quarterback Dean Pour converted.

A 44-yard pass, Pour to Ben Mants scored the second TD of the first half for the red Bulls. Pour's PAT failed.

In the second half, the hard running backs from the 135th plowed 70 yards before White again went over, this time from the six. Pour was successful in this attempt.

Another tally came in the fourth period after a series of punts. The Red Bulls received possession of the ball near the mid-stripe and marched close enough to the Redstone goal for Pour to race over on a quarterback sneak. It was Pour again for the PAT.

The final score came as the result of a Redstone fumble. Joe Whitt Works Out With CTC Boxers

Nathaniel Whitt, a member of last year's CTC boxing squad, is now working out daily with the CTC pugilists. A fighter in the middleweight division, Whitt is preparing for the forthcoming TIC bouts this season.

Whitt joined the CTC team group only a short while in March and won one and lost one bout. A native of Bessemer, Ala., Whitt had never fought before coming to CTC. According to trainer Frank West, he is showing a lot of improvement and should see plenty of action this season.

2. What was the first team to win the National Invitational and N.C.A.A. tournaments in the same year?
3. How many diamonds are on a billiard table?
4. True or False? A basketball player who has fouled out of a game may return for overtime play.

ANSWERS

1. The late Jim Thorpe, after winning the pentathlon and decathlon in the 1912 Olympic games at Stockholm. Later he was charged with playing professional baseball and his medals and records were stripped from him.
2. City College of New York, who won both titles in 1950.
3. Twenty-seven on each long rail and three on each short rail.
4. False. A player who once fouls out may not return to the game.

ED CROOKS CLICKS OFF 30 AGAINST TYNDALL IN SATURDAY GAME School Brigade Wins Number Two, This One Courtesy Of USAF, 19-0

Crooks Leads SB Over Tyndall

Ed Crooks and Ed Hamilton provided a strong round attack for School Brigade as they romped over Tyndall AFB last Saturday 19-0, at Tyndall, to rack up its second win of the season.

In the first quarter, after an exchange of punts, Tyndall was forced to kick from deep in its own territory. School Brigade ran the ball back to the mid-field stripe and marched the 50 yards needed for the TD. Charlie Gray, quarterback, plunged over for the score from the three. Frank Kush's PAT attempt failed.

The last half of the first quarter and the entire second quarter gave witness to tight defensive play on the part of both teams. Frank Kush and Fred Felbaum were the bright lights on the Rams' defensive slate.

The third period started much like the second with a few punt exchanges. Brigade retained possession on one exchange and drove 60 yards for the second score. Hamilton broke loose with a 45 yard end around and then carried the ball into paydirt from the two. Kush again missed the conversion.

The final score came as a result of the fumbling Air Force men. They lost the ball on their 45 and the Rams, sparked by Ed Crooks' 30 yard romp, marched to within striking distance of the goal. This time it was "Joltin' Joe" Fortunato who got the six. Kush's right foot made the score 19-0.

Ed Crooks had several long runs called back because of Brigade penalties. It was a game of errors in one sense, as the two teams managed to compile a total of 250 yards in penalties. The Rams' line proved to be the power it is supposed to be as the Tyndall team got no closer to the Brigade goal than the 20 yard line.

CTC Coach Happy For Boxing Team

"The boys will be in great shape for the opening bouts. They're really improved since the beginning of workouts and looking better every day," trainer Frank West of the CTC boxing squad said as the group neared the opening bouts Oct. 15.

Continuing with the daily runs in the morning and the gym sparring in the afternoon, the CTC pugilists in whom West is placing his faith, should be the top contenders again this year for the Fort Benning championship.

PLAY OF YEAR

dependent 30th. A little polish, one more game, and it's look out School Brigade.

A little prognostication goes a long way. That refers to our well extended necks. This week STC should pick up their first win over Divarty by about seven points and the 135th will edge out a much stronger 30th.

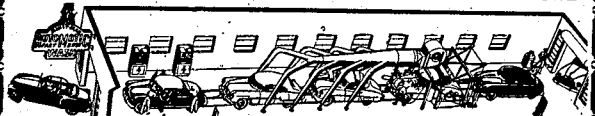

In the college ranks this week, Princeton over Columbia, Florida over Auburn, Missouri over Kansas State, Army tops Michigan, Wisconsin edges Michigan State, Minnesota wallops Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech hits their stride with SMU, Maryland will knock UCLA, Mississippi should have no trouble from Villanova, and Brown will take Yale. These predictions are made with extended neck plus a long prayer. G.M.C.

Scouts Spend Fla. Weekend At TIC Camp

Twelve Explorer Scouts from Port Benning Post No. 27 spent last weekend at The Infantry Center Rest Camp at Destin, Fla. The Explorers, a senior Scout group for boys 14 to 18, spent the weekend deep sea fishing, swimming and learning advanced Scout skills.

A large part of the outing was spent on the motor launch of their post adviser, Capt. George E. Pickett IV of Wilmington, N. C. Also accompanying the group were Lt. Col. Arnold H. Feldman and Cpl. John H. Tillotson. Scouts attending were Bill Scudder, Richard Wright, James Carlile, Dick Eney, Norma Wiley, David Feldman, Jan Jastrenski, Don Dyess, Darrell Nutter, Thomas Carlile, Ricky Coppelman and Robert Barnett.

They Are Saying in Washington That . . .

The Air Force is still seeking to cut down the noise of its jet planes. It has issued a new regulation instructing commanders of flying units to make maximum efforts to reduce noise abatement and the reduction of hazard to aircraft and civilian population by continual reviews of existing air traffic patterns.

Persons so affected must complete or receive credit for both basic combat training and advanced individual combat training prior to enrollment in an OCS course. Full credit can be given for basic training taken in the Marine Corps.

A contract for the construction (AMCU-43) has been awarded to the Consolidated Shipbuilding Corp., New York City at an estimated cost of about $1.8 million. The chief duty of the AMCU will be to locate mines and other underwater obstacles, rather than to sweep them. The craft will have a wooden hull similar to those of the motor mine sweepers of the AMS-60 class.

Army promotion quotas for September show an overall increase of 5700 over the August figures. There are no promotions to master sergeant. New sergeants first class will number 700 and sergeants, 14,900. The quota for corporals is 20,000 an increase of 1500 over the previous month.

With shining chrome helmets, sparkling boots, and white gloves, the 30th Infantry Regiment's Honor Guard of Headquarters and Headquarters Company is now serving Fort Benning by furnishing all honor guard ceremonies for visiting dignitaries.

A unique organization, the Honor Guard is composed of the best soldiers of the regiment. Each member has been carefully selected for his military bearing, ability to drill, and outstanding performance of duty.

The unit is under the command of Capt. Aubrey O. Thornton, commanding officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Company. It is divided into two platoons with First Lt. John G. Couris of Dorchester, Mass., and Second Lt. William W. Bivins of Nashville, Tenn., as platoon leaders.

Second Lt. Julian F. Marshall made the original selection of the 65 enlisted men who make up the guard. Lt. Marshall was platoon leader in the production of the training film on drill made recently by the 30th Infantry.

The primary duty of the unit is to act as honor guard for visitors at Benning and to perform on occasions such as football games. The group trains each morning with the emphasis on drill.

A special "tick" squad of eight men is trained particularly in unusual types of drill, including the colorful "Queen Ann's" manual of arms. These men execute precision movements without verbal commands. They do not perform ordinarily, but are ready to display their talents whenever called upon.

The Honor Guard is the proud possessor of a high state of morale and esprit de corps. Each man within the unit feels the distinction afforded him as a member of the organization. The excellent condition of their barracks and reports of inspections attests to the fact.

Lt. D. Alameda Leads 103d Co. On Rifle Range

Things went well for student officers in Basic Officers Course No. 4, now in 103d Company of the School Brigade, when they fired on the rifle range.

Heading the list of rifle experts in the company was Lt. Don Alameda with a score of 226 out of 250. Runners up in the contest were Lt. Bob Eiton with 225 and Lt. Dick Baughman with 225.

The company cared little about qualification nomenclatures. It was mostly concerned with high scores. Every man went to the range to distinguish himself as the best marksman in the brigade. Had it not been for the rain which finally dampened the range, their goal might have been reached.

Lt. Sieg Appointed To Publications Office

Second Lt. Reno S. Sieg, Augusta, Wis., has been assigned to the Publications and Visual Aids Office of Infantry School District.

Lt. Sieg will be responsible for preparing The Infantry School Historical Diary.

A graduate of Ripon College, he received an ROTC commission in June, 1953 and was called to active duty in November. He completed the basic Infantry officer course here August 28.

Navy A-Sub Off to Sea

GROTON, Conn. (AFPS)—The USS Nautilus, the Navy's first atomic-powered submarine, will be commissioned today at the shipyard here of the Electric Boat Div., General Dynamics Corp.

The Nautilus will complete her fitting out and proceed on sea trials immediately. The usual policy is for the builder of a ship to conduct the first trial runs of a vessel before the Navy accepts the craft. However, in this case the trials will be by the Nautilus' specially trained crew.

Most of the Navy crew, composed of 11 officers and about 85 EM, have been training to operate the Nautilus for about three years. Their work has included schooling in basic nuclear physics and the actual operation of the land-based prototype of the Nautilus' nuclear power plant at Arco, Idaho.

The vessel is the first of several atomic-powered submarines. The second one is the USS Sea Wolf which is under construction here. Congress has authorized two more but these have not yet been named. The captain of the Nautilus will be CDR Eugene P. Wilkinson, USN.

Welfare Fund Rates Altered

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The Joint Welfare Board of the Army and the Air Force has directed revisions in the payments to military welfare and recreation funds in the 21 that will increase the dividend rates for the Army and cut those for the Air Force during the fiscal year 1955.

Effective July 1, 1954, an average of about $2.25 per man per month was made available for the welfare and recreation of Army military personnel within the continental U. S. This represents an increase of 50 cents over the previous rate.

During the same period, an average of $1.50 per man per month will be provided for Air Force personnel, a reduction of 25 cents from the fiscal year 1954.

The payment rates are reconsidered for each fiscal year and revisions are based on the profits from exchanges and theaters.

'SUPERMEN' OF COMPANY E, 4TH STU. BN.

Here's a Co. That Believes It's the Best on Our Post

BY WILBURN WEST

You may think that they have a "sharp" outfit, but here's one that is hard to beat.

Most of the time when someone is on guard, it is difficult to be chosen as supernumerary. The inspections are closely conducted and the officers are particular and demanding. For some reason there is a company in the School Brigade that is not worried about this inspection when any of its men are on guard.

In the past two months, Company E of the Fourth Student Battalion has furnished 18 men for guard duty. Eighteen in two months is not bad. In fact, they were so good that fourteen were chosen as supernumeraries. When you are out of 18 chosen as outstanding, then you can say that you have a "sharp" outfit.

Everyone in this company works together to help one another to be chosen as the outstanding men of the guard. Besides being chosen as supernumerary, there is a three-day pass given to each man chosen.

This company is convinced that

Army to Spike Water Soon

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The Army, Navy and Air Force have been given the green light to begin adding fluorides to the drinking water. This may be done at installations particularly where there are many children, where the water supply does not contain sufficient quantities of the mineral necessary for dental health.

However, it will be quite some time before water containing added fluorides actually begins flowing from the taps.

All three services have set up elaborate procedures to insure the safety of the fluoridation and to guard against the unnecessary expense of setting up the process at installations where sufficient fluorides are already present in the water or where there are not enough children to make the cost worthwhile.

For example, each Army installation requesting fluoridation must have the prior approval of the Surgeon General and the Corps of Engineers, which will provide the equipment and engineering skill needed to install the process.

Medal of Honor Winner

Sergeant Saves Commander

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY Ft. McPherson, Ga. — A young infantry sergeant who gave his life in a desperate and successful effort to save the life of his commanding officer deep in enemy territory in Korea, has been awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously, the Department of the Army has announced.

Sgt. (then a corporal) Gilbert George Collier, of Tichnor, Ark., earned the highest award the nation can give when he distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and indomitable courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Tuyen, (Heartbreak Area), Korea, the night of July 19, 1953, and the following day.

Although suffering painful injuries he refused to abandon his injured commanding officer in enemy territory and later was mortally wounded in violent hand to hand bayonet combat against superior numbers of enemy troops.

Full Over Cliff

Sgt. Collier was point and assistant leader of a combat patrol probing hostile territory. The patrol's mission was to make contact with the enemy in front of F Company, Second Battalion, of the 23rd Infantry Regiment, 4th Infantry Division. As the patrol probed forward through total darkness, both of its leaders, Sgt. Collier in his point position, and Lieut. Richard S. Agnew, his commanding officer, stepped off a 60-foot precipice. Both were badly hurt. The officer suffered a twisted ankle and Sgt. Collier a painfully strained back. Since daylight with its dangers would be upon them before relief and rescue could reach them, Lieut. Agnew ordered the patrol to return to friendly territory.

Sgt. Collier, however, refused to abandon his comrade and despite his own painful injuries, elected to stand guard over Agnew until relief could get through to them the following night.

Crawl Back Slowly

The patrol's other members moved off. With great difficulty, because of the lieutenant's twisted ankle and Sgt. Collier's injured back, the two managed to creep and crawl back up the high escarpment they had tumbled down. Inching up, they lost their radio and one of their two carbines. Easing themselves down into the small valley below, they sought concealment and cover in the sparse low brush. They hid themselves as best they could from enemy observation to wait for daylight before relief by friendly troops or their own return would be possible.

Shortly after darkness fell, they agreed to leave the comparative safety of the hide-out to try to work their way back together through the enemy-infested territory between them and their F Company comrades.

Lieut. Agnew gave the following eye-witness account of what happened then:

"Sgt. Collier's back was getting quite painful as we edged our way back to our own unit that night. Suddenly, in complete surprise, a group of enemy soldiers ambushed us," Agnew, who is presently stationed at the Army Aviation School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, said, "and two of them started to drag Collier off."

"He fought valiantly as they hit him with their rifles. Half-conscious and seething with fury, I kept fighting them until he had killed two with his bayonet and finally drove off the rest."

CLAUDE THORNHILL... Claude and his band will play at Pine Lodge October 6. His orchestra has appeared at such places as the Strand, The Shamrock Hotel, and the Palladium.

JCOOC No. 19 Here Next Week

Group to See Army Phase Monday Through Thursday

To get a first hand look at today's Army, 75 outstanding civilians of the nation will visit Fort Benning Monday through next Thursday, Oct. 11-14.

The JCOOC is conducted twice a year by the Department of Defense to show civilian leaders how the armed forces spend the American tax dollar for national defense. The group will be welcomed upon arrival by Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander.

Goes on Leave, Returns as Pop

Pfc. Hideo Wantanabe left on emergency leave and returned 15 days later, the father of a "bouncing" boy. Wantanabe is a personnel clerk for the 773d Tank Battalion.

According to last reports, the baby and mother are doing fine. So is Wantanabe.

NEW DEPUTY C. G. ... Receives 11-Gun Salute

Gen. E. A. Barlow Honored on Arrival

Fort Benning's new deputy commanding general officially assumed his duties Wednesday following an 11-gun salute welcoming him to the post. Brig. Gen. Ernest A. Barlow, former chief of staff of Third Army, reviewed Infantry Center troops at an honor guard at 8:30 a.m. on Chapel Field.

The 11-gun salute was fired by a battery from the 41st Field Artillery Battalion. Honor guard troops were furnished by Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, and music was provided by the 122nd Army Band.

Gen. Barlow will serve as right hand man to Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, relieving The Infantry Center commander of many administrative and logistical responsibilities. This will enable Gen. Harper to spend more time in the field observing activities and troop training.

The position of deputy commanding general was first filled by Brig. Gen. Aubrey S. Newman, who came to Fort Benning in October, 1953. When he left last May 14 for an assignment in Europe, Col. Wolcott K. Dudley of Eustis, Fla., became deputy to the commander. Col. Dudley retired from active duty Sept. 30.

RED LEG SWEETHEART

Miss Margaret Ann Massey of Memphis, Tex., is the sweetheart of the 41st Field Artillery Battalion, CTC.

13 Reach Top Rung In Drive

Thirteen Fort Benning units have reported 100 per cent participation in the week-old Community Chest drive.

First to reach the top was Headquarters of The Infantry Center Advanced Leaders School, which attained the goal on the first day of the drive.

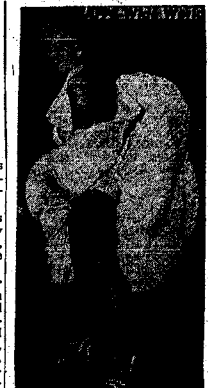

Other units reporting 100 per cent include Human Research Unit No. 3, Third Army Food Service School, Office of the Secretary of the General Staff and the G-2, Quartermaster, Ordnance, Engineer, Chemical, Comptroller, Provost Marshal, Inspector General and Special Services sections.

Several billboards to show the climb of contributions have been placed throughout the post, and the 47th Infantry Division has planned a Soldier's Show to benefit the fund drive.

Chest officials reported no unit quotas have been set for this year's campaign other than 100 per cent participation. Success of the drive is based on a half day's pay from all contributors.

Posters with a drawing by Artist Norman Rockwell call attention to the drive.

(Please See CHEST, Page 23)

JOE MUST GO ... Yes, alas, Joe is out at home. Marilyn Monroe, shown in a picture snapped in New York while her hubby looked on, has made it known that the erstwhile star outfielder of the N. Y. Yankees has been sued for divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty. Their careers, she said, would not let them jibe.

Ridgway on Drive:

Each year men and women of the Army in your command are given the opportunity to participate in local Community Chest Campaigns. The purpose and benefits of the Community Chest are, I am sure, well known to you.

I want to take this opportunity to let you know that I consider the Community Chest eminently worthy of the Army's support and I encourage all members of the Army to participate when the annual campaign occurs in their community. In addition to the spiritual benefits derived from assisting in the humanitarian accomplishments of Community Chest organizations, the wholehearted participation by the Army is an effective method of demonstrating the Army's deep interest in the welfare of the community near which Army personnel are stationed. Active participation in the Community Chest helps to achieve and maintain the most cordial relationship between the local citizens and the military personnel stationed in their midst.

I urge you to give your full cooperation to this worthy cause, and I am confident that the men and women of the Army will again support the Community Chest as splendidly as they have in the past.

GEN. M. B. RIDGWAY

Maj. Gen. H. L. Boatner to Command 47th Division

Major Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, who quelled the riots of North Korea prisoners in the POW camp on Koje Island off South Korea in 1952, has been named commander of the 47th Infantry Division at Fort Benning.

Now deputy commander of the Fourth Army, Gen. Boatner will succeed Major Gen. Richard W. Stephens, who has been ordered to Europe. The change in command of the 47th will be effective in November, according to the Department of the Army.

Gen. Boatner has been assigned to Fort Benning on two previous occasions. He came here following his graduation in 1924 from the U. S. Military Academy for duty with the 28th Infantry Regiment. In 1928 he was a student at The Infantry School.

China Veteran

The veteran Army officer distinguished himself in World War II as chief of staff of the Chinese Training Project in India, which was headed by Lt.

Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell. In 1946 he became chief of staff of the Chinese Army in India and was deputy commander of the Chinese Combat Command when the war ended in 1945.

After three years as professor of military science and tactics at Texas A & M College, he was ordered to Korea in July 1951 as deputy commander of the second Infantry Division.

The two-star general was appointed commander of the United Nations POW Camp on Koje in May, 1952, a post he held until returning to the U. S. in September, 1952.

He began his military career in October 1918 as a private in the Marine Corps. He was a student at Tulane University when he was appointed to the military academy.

47th Co. Since January 1951 Gen. Boatner has been commander of the 47th Division since January, 1954. Before that he commanded the Third Armored Division at Fort Knox, Ky., and Headquarters and Service Command, General Headquarters in the Far East.

He studied at The Infantry School, in 1931, the Command and General Staff College in 1931, and the National War College in 1939.

Gen. Stephens, a 1924 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, served in the Normandy, Northern France, Central Europe, Ardennes and Rhineland campaigns during World War II, and in the Far East from 1949-1952.

Barker Named Trans. Officer

Lt. Col. Stockbridge H. Barker of Douglas, N. Y., Fort Benning motor pool officer since July has been named Infantry Center transportation officer.

He succeeds Col. Sidney P. Kretlow, who retired last week after 30 years in the Army.

Col. Barker who came here from the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., will be responsible for troop movements, handling freight, shipping household goods, and maintaining Army aircraft at Fort Benning, in addition to supervising operation of the post transportation motor pool, largest in the Army.

As motor pool officer, Col. Barker helped consolidate post motor pool activities. This consolidation is estimated to have saved the government approximately $60,000.

The new transportation officer served in Japan for 37 months as fiscal officer at the Second Transportation Major Post, Yokohama, and as assistant battalion chief of staff at the Yokohama Motor Command.

From 1949 through 1950 he was public information officer at The Transportation Center, Fort Busby, Va. He commanded the Highway Unit Training Center at Fort Busby from 1952 to 1953.

He is a graduate of The Transportation School, Command and General Staff College and Borden-town (N. J.) Military Institute.

Young Group Made Up of 60 Children From Fourth To Eighth Grades

Youngsters Forming Top-Flight Band

Some of America's great musicians of the future could well be among the approximately 60 members of the Fort Benning Children's School Band which is learning marching, light classics, operettas and jazz.

The young musicians' curriculum includes music appreciation, folk dancing and creative work.

With percussion instruments, woodwinds and brass, they have started to point for a series of concerts scheduled for the Christmas season. Meeting three times weekly after school, the band also will entertain at assemblies and other school functions.

Organized two years ago by D. E. Kniering, director, who teaches music at Fort Benning school, it is composed of fourth to eighth grade pupils.

Kniering, who played in an Army band for three years during World War II, has divided his band into two groups temporarily. He is using the experiences of older and more advanced students to help assimilate nearly 40 new comers.

"For the time they have practiced, they have accomplished a great deal," the genial bandmaster said.

A 1949 graduate of the University of Alabama, Kniering received a master's degree in music at Vandercook College of Music in Chicago. He taught high school bands at Leland and Itta Bena, Miss., before coming to Fort Benning.

STC Honors Col. Serff

The 4,000-man Special Troops Command massed on French Field at 4:30 p.m. last Thursday to parade for its commander, Col. Paul J. Serff of San Rafael, Calif., who retired from active duty after a 31-year military career.

Three Army bands — Special Troops, 315th and 122nd, were on hand for the farewell ceremony, which was attended by top-ranking post officials and friends.

Col. Serff, who will make his home in Columbus, Georgia, is a veteran of the New Guinea and Philippine campaigns and the occupation of Japan. A 1923 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, he came to Fort Benning in 1952 from the Frankfurt (Germany) Military Post.

His world War II service won him the Silver Star, Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Bronze Star Medal.

He is a graduate of The Infantry School's company officers course and the refresher course and in 1943 completed the Command and General Staff College course at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

Clearing over the many experiences during his 31 years of service, Col. Serff selected his three years in the South Pacific as a regimental commander as the most interesting of his career.

BECOME BONA FIDE REDLEGS . . . These newly assigned members of the 198th Field Artillery Battalion are receiving training to qualify them as authentic Redlegs. Sgt. James Perdue is leading the group in physical training as Sgt. Junior Zarr holds the unit guidon. The unusual Redleg banner was the original idea of Lt. Col. Walter C. Pittman, commanding officer of the 198th.

British Navy Veteran Ends Career--In Army

A military career that started in the British Navy during World War I and continued for 32 years in the U. S. Army came to an end last Thursday.

Major Leslie J. Conroy of El Paso, Texas, closed the book on his career Sept. 30 with the hope that the "younger generation of soldiers will help perpetuate the U. S. Army tradition."

"The Army is in my blood," said the English-born officer who watched it grow "from almost the size of a New York police force to the world's greatest and strongest organization."

Here since May, 1952, Major Conroy left the military ranks as a lieutenant colonel, his promotion being effective the day of his retirement. He was personnel director at the U. S. Army Hospital here.

He received a Third Army Certificate of Achievement which wished him "health, happiness and material success" in the future.

Signed by Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, it was presented by Col. Norman Wiley, Infantry Center surgeon, during a retirement review on Stillwell Field. Units participating were the Hospital Duty Detachment, 24th Evacuation Hospital and the 54th Medical Battalion's 50th, 51st and 52nd Medical Companies, and Headquarters Detachment.

Major Conroy has accepted a position with an insurance firm in El Paso where he will reside with his family.

Pvt. Jesus Quinata Named Week's Soldier

Pvt. Jesus S. Quinata of Headquarters Company, Second Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment recently was selected Soldier of the Week for Second Battalion.

Pvt. Quinata is a native of the Island of Guam, where he attended schools. His parents are currently residing there.

In recognition for having received the honor, Quinata was awarded a three-day pass.

Eight Cited For Saving Post $9,000

Eight persons at Fort Benning have been cited for superior job accomplishments and improvement suggestions estimated to save the Army more than $9,000.

Col. Paul J. Mitchell, Infantry Center chief of staff, presented pay increase notifications, cash awards and a Letter of Commendation to the seven civilians and one enlisted man.

For outstanding performance of duty, Norman Evans, Infantry Center safety director, and Mrs. Clara M. Zehbach, quartermaster supervisory purchasing agent, were presented annual pay increases of $200 and $125, respectively.

Distributor Part

M-Sgt. Charles F. Nichols, assigned to the Automotive Department, received a Letter of Commendation for his suggestion that an adjusting screw be installed in the distributor of an engine used in the classroom. The suggestion is expected to save $1,584 annually.

James K. Freeman, Quartermaster Commissary employe, proposed that roller wheels be mounted on one end of each conveyor section in the commissary warehouses, saving approximately $489.72 per year. He was awarded $25.

A simplified method of processing reports of uniform violations was suggested by Edna F. Marks of Greenville, assigned to the Provost Marshal Section. Her suggestion will result in an estimated savings of $210. She received $10.

Property Items

Oscar Brown, Sr., Quartermaster Section employe, was presented $25 for his suggestion to transfer property items so that family quarters furniture may be stored in the same warehouse, saving the government approximately $346.86.

A reorganization of the receiving and issuing of property system was proposed by Eddie Harris saving an estimated $509. Harris, assigned to the Quartermaster Section, was awarded $25.

George E. Hunt, Sr., Engineer Section employe, recommended a new type of wheel shaft for floor polishers. He received $120 for his suggestion which is expected to save the Army $3,745.05 during the first year.

WATCHING A DRESS REHEARSAL
Mrs. Sarah Sankey, Mrs. J. F. Britten

Tonight at 8:45
Theater Goes Awaiting Benning's 'Blithe Spirit'

Tonight is the night when the theatergoers will find Charles Condomine enmeshed in a plot involving seances and spirits and much laughter.

At 8:45 the curtains will rise on Noel Coward's hilarious comedy "Blithe Spirit." The Fort Benning Little Theatre's first production of the season promises to be a tremendous success and is expected to keep audiences laughing to night and tomorrow night, for after six weeks of hard work, each member of the cast is ready for the footlights.

Backstage, Maj. Curtis Alloway will breathe a sigh of relief when the curtain goes up. While Lt. Arthur T. Shankle is busy on the lights, Cpl. Howard Lenter will be carrying out Major Alloway's orders, aided by Sgt. J. R. K. Kantor, Cpl. Bob Schurer and Pvt. Frank Harris, who will be planning the next move of the scenery. Mrs. Eames Yates will be hoping that you like the setting and the lovely furniture loaned by Kirven's.

Property Girls
The ever-busy properties girls, under the direction of Mrs. Randall Kelly, will be rushing around making sure the right glass is on the right table and the flower vase in its appointed spot.

Waiting downstairs will be Mrs. George Roper, Jr. and Mrs. Sarah Sankey. Between scenes, Mrs. Roper will help the cast make quick changes and then carefully hang up the clothes worn through the courtesy of Kayser-Lithental and Watson-Wade. Mrs. Sankey, with the help of William Estes will be touching up the make-up. Mrs. Arlo Mitchell will be counting up her ticket sales while Mrs. Wade Heritage will be enjoying the play and planning to sell tickets out front again tomorrow from 4 p.m. until curtain time.

Unseen Talents
Because of all these people unseen to you and thanks to their very own special talents, seven others will charm and delight its audience. Mrs. A. M. Leavitt, Mrs. James S. Douglas, Mrs. Kenneth Denham, Miss Sonya Jastremski, Mrs. A. T. Shankle, Cpl. Jerome Moons and Cpl. Sherman Hawkins are expected to give polished performances.

Mrs. John W. Britten, as director, will be deserving of every honor which may come her way. Tonight her task is complete—there remains only the kind word of the audience, the laughter, the applause.

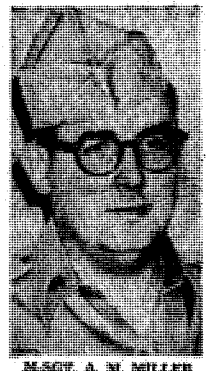

Be a first-nighter, or come to-morrow night, for an enjoyable evening with the Fort Benning Little Theatre. Curtain at 8:45 at the Main Post Theatre. Tickets, 50 cents.

M-SGT. ALBERT MILLER
... To Study Chinese

NCO Chief Slated
For Language Class
At California Post

M-Sgt. Albert M. Miller, president of the Board of Governors of the NCO Messes, has been selected to attend the Army Language School at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif. He will undertake an intensive study of the Chinese language in a course lasting six weeks.

A member of Company B, First Special Troops Battalion, Sgt. Miller has had a busy schedule since his arrival at Fort Benning three years ago. As the president of the Board of Governors of the NCO Messes, he was instrumental in publicizing and organizing its affairs. Making numerous local radio and television appearances, Sgt. Miller was well known for his interest in the promotion of the clubs.

Before coming to Fort Benning, Sgt. Miller spent two years in the Far East. Serving on Okinawa from 1949 to 1951, he acted as the announcer, newscaster, and assistant program director of the Okinawa Armed Forces Radio Service. He was also a correspondent for the Pacific edition of "Stars and Stripes."

A former resident of Industrial City, Mo., Sgt. Miller is married and the father of four children. Upon the completion of his course at the Language School, he hopes to work for the "Voice of America."

Maj. Tate
Named PIO

Major James H. Tate of Rome, Ga., has been appointed Infantry Center public information officer, succeeding Lt. Col. Robert C. Kinkor, who has been transferred to Europe.

Major Tate has been assigned to the Public Information Office here since July following his graduation from the advanced officers' course at the Infantry School.

He was the United Nations Command PIO at the Korean peace talks and later served as chief of the News Division, Public Information Office, General Headquarters of the Far East Command in Tokyo.

During World War II, Major Tate was a company officer in the 28th Division in Europe. His decorations include the Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, Purple Heart, and Combat Infantryman Badge.

Pfc. Oberly Wins
Soldier's Honor

Pfc. Jacob D. Oberly was recently named Soldier of the Week by First Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment.

A native of Uniontown, Pa., Oberly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Oberly. He attended Waynesburg College before entering service and hopes to continue his education there following separation from service.

43 Win Education Awards at TIC Center

Participation in education activities at the Army Education Center at Fort Benning recently paid off in 43 high school diplomas or certificates of high school equivalency from 16 states for personnel of The Infantry Center and Lawson Air Force Base.

47 Handicapped Workers Prove Tops at Benning
Forty-seven civilian employees at Fort Benning are proof that many jobs can be done expertly by people who are physically handicapped. The chief problem is to bring together the job and the worker, according to T. A. Barefoot, civilian personnel director. Careful consideration and study devoted to this problem by the Employee Utilization Branch of the Civilian Personnel Division has virtually eliminated the problem here. The workers have demonstrated the advantages to both employer and employee of fitting the physically handicapped worker into a job he is fully able to handle, Barefoot says. Case histories confirm Barefoot's statement, made last week as the nation observed National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. Aids Defense Effort

Among the physically handicapped civilians contributing to the defense effort at Fort Benning is James P. McGrotha of Columbus, who has been employed on post since June 1, 1945. McGrotha, whose right leg was amputated, is property and supply clerk in the Transportation Office. His mental aptitude makes him well suited for his position, according to his supervisor, Major Lloyd A. Burkholder, who describes McGrotha as an "outstanding and a valuable man." McGrotha's civilian status means no turnover in personnel, another advantage of hiring the physically handicapped.

Two other physically handicapped civilians typical of those employed here are Roosevelt Huff and Bonnell Freeman both of Columbus. Both have been on the Fort Benning payroll since February, 1952. Beginning as shoe repairman in the Quartermaster Shoe Repair Shop, they were transferred to the Metal Furniture Repair Shop in 1950. Repair Specialists Huff, with an artificial left leg, and Freeman, with a collapsed lung, have become specialists in the repair of all types of metal furniture. The shop foreman, Floyd H. Parks, gives three reasons why Huff and Freeman are well suited for their jobs — their mechanical know-how, their permanent status, and their selection for a job where their physical handicap will be no handicap at all.

Albert Henson of Columbus is also an amputee. Employed at Fort Benning since 1950, he now supervises four men in the tent repair shop. Although wearing an artificial left leg, Henson is described as "every bit as efficient, in fact more so, than the average non-handicapped worker" by his supervisor, Mrs. Florence Pierce. Mrs. Pierce has high praise for another one of her handicapped workers, Mrs. Sally Shedd of Columbus. Mrs. Shedd is blind in one eye.

Lt. Steele Tops As 55 Graduate

First Lt. William B. Steele of Vienna, Ga., was honor graduate in the 55-man associate company officer class which received Infantry School diplomas last Thursday. Lt. Steele has been assigned to the 47th Infantry Division. Among the graduates were Allied officers from Denmark, Costa Rica, Haiti, and Ethiopia. Col. Charles Mudgett Jr., of Valley City, N. C., principal speaker at the graduation exercises, told the class that if war comes it will come quickly. He also urged them to look ahead and be prepared for the future. The director of the Non-Resident Instruction Department said that:

"In view of rapid mobilization, try to see what your superiors are attempting to do. Your assumption of higher rank may come without further schooling. The Infantry School has been given you a fine military foundation." The graduation ceremony marked the completion of 15 weeks of training in weapons, tactical communications, automotive, airborne, staff and Ranger subjects.

Scenes of the Army Infantry Center in its First Days

CAMP BENNING 35 YEARS AGO. . . Located just outside Columbus in the area now known as Wynnton when this photo was made, Camp Benning had just begun to look like an Army camp. The photo was taken by a Columbus studio from atop an old windmill which was on the site before the Army moved in. T. M. Mickelson, of 2411 Schaul St., Columbus, who was a sergeant in the Infantry School of Arms, furnished the photo. Buildings which may be identified are 1-Hospital, 2-ISD Recreation Hall, 3-Commissary, 4-Paint shop, 5-ISD Messhall, 6-Bakery, 7-Bakery stores, 8-Knights of Columbus Lodge Hall, 9-Gas station, 11-YMCA, 12-Personnel office, 13-Photo shop, 14-Garage, 15-Small arms dept., 19-Stables, and 20-Bathhouses. The tents in the foreground and directly behind the Small Arms Dept. were officer's quarters and directly behind the garage are tents in which the personnel of the Motor Transport Corps were billeted

Fort Benning, Home of the Infantry, Observes 36th Birthday This Week

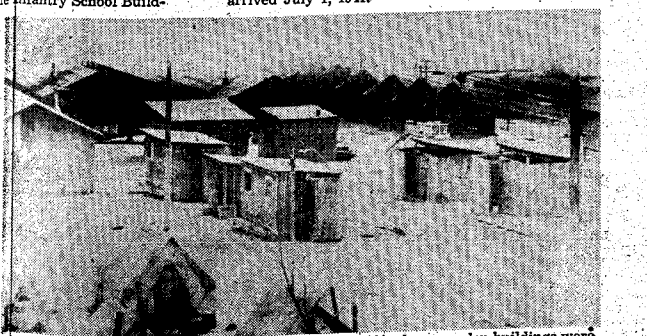

The Home of the U. S. Infantry is celebrating its 36th birthday this week. Born Oct. 7, 1918 when Col. Henry Eames was appointed commandant, Fort Benning has marked its 36 years by continued growth and development, both of physical facilities and training methods. Commanded by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, today it covers 284 square miles, contains more than 5,000 buildings and supports a population of nearly 50,000 persons. Before Camp Benning was established, Army instruction centers for the foot soldier had been scattered throughout the country. Since its birth, Fort Benning and The Infantry have been synonymous, and together they have written many glorious chapters in U. S. history. But it almost died aborning. After the post was moved from its original location three miles east of Columbus to the Bussey Plantation, nine miles south, an economy-minded War Department ordered all buildings salvaged. But Major Jones, who had built the fledgling training center, found that the dictionary defined salvage as "save." He issued an order to paint all buildings. Final orders for organization of a peace-time Infantry School were issued Sept. 25, 1919. First permanent building was Service Club No. 1, constructed in 1920. That same year much of the uncertainty of the future of the post passed when Congress authorized its retention as a permanent military post. Camp Benning became Fort Benning. Opening of the school's second full year of operation, 1921-22, saw the beginning of a pattern that was to develop throughout its history: continued revision of the curriculum to cover modern weapons and tactics and new lessons learned from past experience. Although Fort Benning was overcrowded, lacking in many needed facilities and operating under a reduced budget, the planners went ahead. In 1923 construction was begun on two important recreation centers, Doughboys Stadium and Gowdy Field. Doughboy Stadium was conceived as a memorial to Infantrymen killed in World War I. Named for Hank Gowdy, star New York catcher and first major leaguer to enlist in the Army during World War I, the baseball diamond was dedicated in March, 1925. The New Deal brought over $6,000,000 in appropriations for PWA and WPA construction. The most important architectural project, The Infantry School Building, was completed in 1935. Physical progress was matched by academic progress. New courses were introduced and new weapons studied. When World War II broke out, troops began to pour into Fort Benning until by 1941 every branch of the Army was represented. The first officer candidate class arrived July 1, 1941. More than 100,000 students, officers and enlisted men graduated from courses offered by the school during the war. In addition, 80,000 took airborne training. To train and billet these thousands of troops hundreds of new structures sprang up. Two new areas, Harmony Church and Sand Hill, were opened. Biggest job tackled by the school was the officer candidate program. From July, 1941 to December, 1946, a total of 66,141 Infantry second lieutenants were commissioned. The Infantry School also was training officers and enlisted men in fields ranging from motor mechanics to communications. Fort Benning, with its Infantry School, remained a vital center for the post-war Army. To coordinate administration and eliminate duplication, the Army ordered that the three separate commands The Infantry School, Airborne School, and the post of Fort Benning, be absorbed by a single headquarters to be known as The Infantry Center. This was carried out in 1946. The invasion of South Korea brought a renewed military lustre. The Infantry officer candidate program was reinstated Feb. 18, 1951 and in March, 1953, officer candidate training for all branches except artillery and engineers was consolidated at Fort Benning. Other departments in the school increased their training programs substantially. Although the fighting in Korea has stopped, The Infantry School is continuing its mission to preserve the heritage men defended there with their lives.

Post Grid Fans to See: Brigade-136th, Divarty-CTC, STC-164th

Benning football fans have a full slate on top with games scheduled on Friday night and Saturday and Sunday afternoons this weekend.

Doughboy Stadium will set the stage tomorrow night to open the weekend's menu when the School Brigade Rams meet the 136th Inf. Boercats at 7:30 p.m.

The Rams, unbeaten in three game-ups, will feature such talent as Ed Hamilton, Joe Fortunato, Ed Crook, Frank Kush and Fred Filbaum, and are expected to be in top shape for the tilt. Ram supporters are anxious to see their 1954 team in loop action and a large turnout is expected.

On the other hand, the Boercats sport a win over 30th Inf. in the official opener of the Fort Benning Intramural League, defeating the Blues, 12-0. In that game both of the "week's Stars" were chosen from the Boercats' squad in Norbert Miller and Bob Wilga. To boost the roster, such as Tom Bruno, Joe Cassidy, Tom Ellis and Don Matheson will be worth watching as the season rolls along.

At Tiger Field, out in Sand Hill Saturday, the Divarty Red Legs will collide with the CTC Commanders in another top contest. Divarty, fresh from handing STC a 20 to 12 defeat last Saturday, will be keyed up and gunning for the Commanders, who will be making their initial appearance in the League.

The game will begin at 2 p.m. Kick-off time is also set for 2 p.m. Sunday for the duel between STC's Green Wave and the 164 Inf. Flickertails.

The Green Wave, losers in Saturday's game with Divarty, coached by Andy Kozar, rate

Redlegs Slam Wave, 26-12

BY JIM MONTGOMERY

The rambunctious Redlegs of 47th Division Artillery exploded for four long touchdowns plays Saturday afternoon to turn back the Special Troops Green Wave 26-12 in a game played in comparative seclusion at Tiger Field.

Lean, long-legged Jim Barkhoff, who won TIC championships in the 100 and 220 dashes at last May's post track meet, stamped himself as a definite all-the-way threat by ripping 46 and 53 yards to touch-down, both runs coming on bursts through the STC line from the Divarty T attack.

The Redlegs got off in front late in the first period when quarterback Walter Hill drifted back and ferried a 48 yard touchdown pass to right end Don Bogdonas on a neatly executed out-in-out maneuver. The conversion worked and Divarty led 7-0 at the quarter.

98 Yard Run

Special Troops, its split-T offense sorely hampered by crashing Redlegs forwards, got back in the game early in the second period against the No. 2 Divarty unit. With left-hander Dick Turchen replacing Hill at the man-under post, the Redlegs drove to the Greenies 12 yard line. On third down Turchen pegged a pass into the left flat, but Wave halfback Sam Steele cut in front of the intended receiver at the two-yard line to intercept the toss and outrun the Redlegs 98 yards to pay dirt.

The Greenies failed to convert, and trailed at halftime 7-6.

Early in the second half, Divarty counted again on the first of Barkhoff's two long gainers. Taking a pitchout from Hill, Slim Jim turned his own left end and loped 53 yards to alter the scoreboard to 12-6, Divarty. The placement missed.

Greene's quarterback Jack McKinnon, a nifty T-engineer, then directed the Wave on a 77-yard drive which culminated in a one-yard plunge for the TD by McKinnon himself. Right Half Bobby Feldmore and fullback Fred Arnold were the chief executives on the long march, both contributing sizeable chunks of yardage on jour-

30th Bounces 135th, 32-12

The 20th INF Blues little resembled the fumbling team that was drubbed last week at Memorial Stadium in the Benning loop opener. Apparently they found their game as they completely overpowered the 135th Red Bulls, 32-12 Sunday at Doughboy.

After Bulls fumbled on the second play from scrimmage, the Blues sparked 56 yards to pay dirt. Marking play of the drive was a 35-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Clyde Young to Conrad Deskins. Frank Fuller converted.

Deskins Passes Drive

After the kick off, the Red Bulls marched to the Blues' 42 where they again fumbled. Jim Hall recovered for the 30th. Deskins paced the drive to the 135th 12-yard line. On a bit of Tomfoolery, the Blues made tackle Frank Fuller an eligible receiver. A 12-yard pass play, Young to Fuller added six more. Fuller again split the uprights.

The third Blue score resulted from a pass interception by Bill Atkinson and a 31-yard end around by Don Wade. A five-yard penalty set the Blues back, but Wade again hit the end for nine. Chip Thomas picked up two more, then on a pitch-out, Young to Thomas, Chip went for the score. John Vines missed the attempted extra point.

Early in the second quarter, the Red Bulls forced the Blues to kick. After four plays, Dean Four flipped a long pass intended for George White. White jumped for the ball and knocked it into the air where a 30th man deflected it into the open arms of Gary Fraier, who ran the ball 46 yards for the TD. The entire play covered 80-yards from the line of scrimmage. The Bulls' PAT attempt failed.

30-Yard Gain

Following an exchange of punts, White shook loose for 20-yards and then eight more for the Red Bulls. Four passed, after three unsuccessful ground attempts, to Walter Harris standing in the end zone, as

Brigade Begins Touch Football

Touch football got off to a running start recently as four teams from the School Brigade began battling in the single round robin of play.

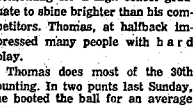

With plenty of action and extremely hot weather, the teams from Headquarters Company and Third Battalion met in the first of the series of games. Third Battalion emerged the victor by a score of 18-7.

When the First Battalion tangled with the Fifth Battalion (OC), the Fifth came through to win, 13 to 6.

The winning team of this intramural play will meet the winner of the Sixth Battalion (ISD) for the right to play in the Infantry Center Tournament for the championship.

Spotlighting Sports

Who Did the Indians Defeat Anyhow?

Who'd he ever lick? CHUCK DAVIES, 1952 — a long procession of video actors with mittens on. But not the Keed!

MIGHTY MARYLAND, 1953 — a long procession of second raters. But not Oklahoma!

CLEVELAND INDIANS, 1954 — five round-heeled AL has-beens, or never wuzzes. But not the Yanks, Chisox, or THE GIANTS!

Who'd he ever lick? The race of sporting skeptics seems to be well on the way to joining the American bison and the Noble Redman in the procession down the trail to extinction. How else can you justify the 17-10 odds on Cleveland's men of straw for the abbreviated fall classic?

Your Spotlighting baseball seer is proud to have been in the vanguard of such distinguished company as John Lardner of Newsweek (Sept. 20th) and Arch Ward of the ChITrib (Sept. 28th) in pointing out the inconclusive nature of Cleveland's AL season record.

Being in the Tt&E business, we operated on the assumption that presenting the facts to the troops is all that's necessary. The American citizen is supposed to be capable of drawing his own conclusions. So, if you dropped a wad by ignoring Spotlighting's comments in the Sept. 23 and 30 issues, chalk one up to failure to draw the right conclusions from a set of facts and figures.

Cleveland supporters who took exception to Spotlighting's efforts to place the achievements of the '54 Indians in their proper perspective, seemed blinded by the aura of American League invincibility established by the dreadful Yankees, and we're inclined to regard as insignificant the fact that the Tribe not only failed to establish their head-to-head superiority to the Yanks; they couldn't even come out top dog with the third-place White Sox!

This year of 1954 eventually may be known as the Year the Bubble Burst. A team which had compiled a won-lost record (111-43) superior to that of the fabulous 1927 Yankees (110-44) couldn't win that first game from a mine-run National League championship team. True students of the form were surprised only in that Lopez's lollypops failed to make it a five or six-game losing series. The writing was on the wall—and in Spotlighting.

The Yanks this year were over the hill, despite their record 103 victories as a runner-up. Those 103 victories stemmed from the same source as Cleveland's 111-five humpy-dump clubs who would have had considerable trouble finishing in the first division of any given AAA or AA circuit this summer. And the White Sox haven't reached the peak yet.

The experts (Ha!) made a great thing of the Cleveland pitching in their previous predictions. Lemon, Wynn, and Garcia had posted a 65-25 conglomerate record. But the experts ignored the fact that these pitching feats were subject to the same suspicion as the Tribe's record slate.

Who'd they ever lick?

Lemon won 18 of his 23 victories from such mighty aggregations as Baltimore (54-100), Philadelphia (51-103), Detroit (68-86), Boston (69-85) and Washington (66-85). (The eighth-place Pittsburgh) Pirates, finished only two more games off the National pace than the fourth-place AL Bosox.)

Lemon's season ERA of 2.72 almost was doubled by the Giants in two games.

Wynn's identical ERA took even a worse pounding.

Garcia's club-low 2.66 survived the Giant assault in the best condition, primarily because of his appearance in the final game after the Giants had completed their offensive display for the day and apparently were anxious to get the thing over and done with.

Who'd they ever lick?

Not the Giants!

The alibis seem peculiarly slow in coming, although the first rumble was sounded after the first game, when Lopez, the genial sonor, casually mentioned the sore shoulder of Larry Doby and the hobbled appendage of Al Rosen. Which naturally raises the question of why these two fragile athletes weren't given rest and loving care during the final two weeks of the season after Cleveland had clinched the flag. Gunning for that 111-game record, Al? The 0-4 Series record on the kite, and it don't fly so well, do it?

The season of '54 someday also may be remembered as the year in which the cumulative effects of

Bridges Leads Weapons To Crown

Rocky Bridges, star pitcher for the Weapons Department softball team, paced his team to the championship in the TIC officer league playoffs with the First OC Regt. which ended last Friday night at the WAC softball field.

Bridges gave up only four earned runs in the five game series. The OCs won the first two games and looked like a sure bet to win one more and the title, but Weapons came back in the third game to shut out the OCs, 8-0.

The fourth game was a complete rout with the Weapons sitting on the heavy end of the 23-7 score.

The final game broke wide open when Sobie Sobieski, unleashed a bases loaded triple in the fourth as part of a nine run barrage. Bridges, pitching, held the lead until the ninth inning, when the OCs rallied for seven runs on five errors.

The 12-team league played a split season, with the OC Regt. winning the first half as a result of the one game playoff with the Weapons Team. In the second half, Weapons was undefeated winning 11 games. The two winners of each half of play then met for the season title.

Starring for Weapons throughout the season were: Rode Rosenblum, third sacker leadoff man who batted .310 and walked 41 times; Mac McKinney, second baseman who hit .410 and stole an average of four bases per game; Willie Ruf, center fielder of the Willie Mays type, who batted .510 and stole enough bases to keep the defense alert and Rocky Bridges, who pitched superbly during season, clinching his record by pitching all five games of the playoffs, winning three of them.

summer event, has been switched to the autumn to catch fishing conditions at their peak. Too, the later date will insure adequate housing facilities for the throng of amateur fishermen who will attend this fishing tournament.

Located in the heart of Northwest Florida's playground area, Destin has a snug natural harbor which is home base for the fleet of party and charter boats that will carry a large number of the rodeo contestants to sea. Many of these boats are manned by descendants of the town's founding fathers who, nearly a century ago, discovered the lush fishing in Destin's off-shore waters. All units of the fleet are skippered and manned by seasoned fishermen with a fine record for safety at sea.

Top money in this year's rodeo is a new automobile with other grand prizes scaled downward proportionately. Rodeo rules provide an equal opportunity for contestants to win the top prize regardless of the type of boat from which they elect to fish. A contestant may either troll or bottom fish and still have a chance to win the prize automobile. Three categories of fish will be considered in competition for the Grand Prizes: Red Snapper, King Mackerel, and the largest edible fish caught.

The passenger-carrying capacity of Destin's fishing fleet exceeds the population of the town and, among the permanent residents, a person who is not a fisherman by occupation or avocation is a rarity. In past rodeos, Destinites fished along with the visitors in competition for big prizes. This year, with the prizes bigger and better than ever, they have ruled themselves out of the contest. Voluntarily eliminating themselves from participation in their favorite sport, at which they know home waters, is the Destin folks' way of saying "Welcome! visit."

47th Winners Seek Post Boxing Title

"I have a fine novice team this year with three fine boys in Benzy Jackson, Alphonse Malone and George Robinson," Fagatogo Brown, coach of the last year's Rucker boxing champions, the 1954 Infantry said one week before the Benzy Boxing season starts.

Twelve out of the 25 members of the team this year have had previous boxing experience. Several are Golden Gloves, but most of them earned their laurels in service rings.

The big three according to coach Brown are Jackson, Florida Golden Gloves Champion, and Rucker post champ; Malone returning member of the 1954 champion squad; and Robinson, a lad of three years Golden Gloves experience.

Other members of team with experience are: Larry Johnson, 138th team '53; Dick Downs, regimental boxing in Korea; Jim Parkers, Washington, D. C. Boys club; Bill Jones, 136th team '53 Jim Benson, All-post team at Fort Belvoir; George Frotling, two years police athletic union and Leo Ger, 139th team '53.

Women Golfers Slate Tourney

The women linksters of Fort Benning opened the golf season last week with a match play against par tournament.

The winners of this event, in the nine hole group, were Rosaline Brown, Helen Thomas, Betty Skardon and Rose Ballita. In the 18 hole group, the winners were Charley Morley, Mary Lee Lindeman, and Dottie Rohlfing.

Plans, which promised an active and very enjoyable time for post women golfers, were discussed last week at the first luncheon and business meeting. A hostess will be at the club to arrange games for newcomers and to explain the weekly tourney.

Tank Units At Stewart

Companies A, B, C and Headquarters and Service of the 77rd Tank Battalion are at Camp Stewart, Ga., on a five-week training maneuver.

Lt. Col. George B. Vivian, commanding the operation, arranged for each company to travel in their own motorized convoy to destination.

While at Camp Stewart, the Tank Battalion will take part in maneuvers and practice gunnery with their 90-mm weapons.

A communication operation will be functioning between Camp Stewart and Fort Benning by the use of liaison planes. These planes will maintain contact and relay information on the progress of training to the Combat Training Command here.

Unit Thrives On Superiors

The Third Battalion, 90th Infantry Regiment, has acquired an exceptional record in its support of the Infantry School in 1954. Under the command of Lt. Col. Gus W. Schiltz, the battalion has participated in 1,068 rated demonstrations and problems since January 1.

Instructors of the Infantry School have rated the men of the Third Battalion as superior in 826 of the problems, and 228 problems have been rated as excellent. There have been no unsatisfactory ratings during the entire period.

In a recent letter to the officers and men of the Third Battalion, Col. Schiltz commended their outstanding record. The battalion commander, however, emphasized that "while superior ratings are tangible public recognition of their efforts, the reputation of the Third Battalion is based on the persistence and determination of the men to perfect their performance in each assignment."

ATTENDING CBR SCHOOL
Second Lt. Donald D. McMullan, of Service Battery, 198th Field Artillery Battalion is attending CBR school at Fort Benning.

ROY HOWELL

After 8 Years

A veteran of eight years continuous service is Officer Candidate Roy Howell of 13th O. C. Company.

After completing four years service in Germany, where he rose to the rank of master sergeant, he was transferred to the Third Infantry Division in Korea, where he served for two years as first sergeant and field first sergeant.

While attached to the Third Infantry Division, Howell, who is from Wyatt, Mo., was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service. Howell says, "Being able to apply my former knowledge to OCS has helped me a great deal."

Lion Hunter

Pfc. Franklin H. Mackley, was born July 10, 1924, in Los Angeles, Cal.

While in High School in Burbank he hunted mountain lions in Nevada, earning $60 for every one bagged.

Perhaps the height of his adventures comes while employed at the Calabasas forest fire fighting camp. He participated in the fight against the famous Lake Hughes fire and it was partially due to his labor that five people were saved. For this he was commended by local authorities.

On May 15th, 1952, Mackley enlisted in the Army and was assigned to Fort Campbell, Ky. He later volunteered for duty with the airborne and was sent to Fort Benning for jump training.

Mackley was part of a Company's huge 1,300 man class, which graduated in January 1954. He was then assigned to Company A as cadre, where his present duties entail maintenance.

Double Superior

Although most people work mighty hard for superior ratings or an inspection they seem to come as a matter of course to Cpl. Harry Grasser of the Infantry School Detachment mail room.

Cpl. Grasser, who handles all mail for seven companies and 13D officers, along with assistant Cpl. Allen Luger of Laurelton, N. Y., has received a rating of superior on two successive TIC inspections, as well as one from the School Brigade. Along with the last superior rating from TIC came a letter of commendation from Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Harper. Another letter commending the young mailman was from the Post Good Soldier Patrol.

Cpl. Grasser came to Fort Benning from Fort Jackson where he had basic training and attended typing school. He has been in the 13D mailroom since December 1953. The Company A soldier is from Southern Pines, N. C.

W. J. SMITH JR.

J. Smith Jr., now an Officer Candidate in 13th O. C. Company, he was in the Near East taking a Master's Degree in Arab Studies at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon.

The story of Smith's interest in travel and work in foreign countries began during his student days at Princeton University. Through contacts at Princeton he took a summer position in 1950 with Quaker International Voluntary Service. That summer he worked in Munich, Germany, as part of a program for resettlement of Sudetan German refugees.

After his return to the United States he was appointed to the organizational staff for Quaker work in Europe and to the presidency of the International Students Association at Princeton. Smith was asked to serve again in Europe as director of a refugee housing project in Ingolstadt, Germany.

Back in the U. S. and attending The Officer Candidate School, Smith is President of the student council of his officer candidate company, the 13th O. C. Company.

Lt. Witters Assigned in School Detachment

Second Lieut. William S. Witters, a physical education major from the University of Washington, has been assigned to Company B of the Infantry School Detachment. He is now a member of The School Brigade football team and has volunteered for ranger training.

Commissioned in the Army last April after completing four years of ROTC at the University of Washington, Lt. Witters came directly to Fort Benning where he attended the Basic Infantry Officers Course.

3RD BN, CO . . . Lt. Col. John F. Melcher has taken over command of the Third Battalion in the School Brigade. Prior to his assignment at Fort Benning, Col. Melcher was with the Army Section of M.A.A.G. in Indochina.

Benning Leads In Reups Again

Fort Benning's 106 reenlistments during September put The Infantry Center out in front in the Third Army area for the third straight month, the Recruiting Office reported Friday.

The September figure brought the 1954 total to 1589, well ahead of its nearest competitor.

Stafford Compiling Outstanding Mark On Rifle Ranges

In slightly more than a year of competition, M-Sgt. Harold L. Stafford of the 198th Field Artillery Battalion has compiled an enviable record in rifle fire.

During this period Sgt. Stafford won 14 place medals and three excellent in competition badges. These three badges (known as "legs" among competitive shooters) are equal to one distinguished marksman name.

This year Sgt. Stafford gained berths on the Combat Training Command, Third Army, and All-Army rifle teams successively. One of the excellent in competition badges was won during the Third Army Matches at Fort Benning. The remaining two were attained at the recent National Rifle Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

His year's record includes third-high place in the Fort Benning matches, fourth high in Third Army, tenth high in All-Army, and 11th high in the National.

WARRANT OFFICER EUGENE FISH, a pilot with the 56th Helicopter Company at Fort Benning, spoke to the Pike County Lions Club at their meeting Monday in the Molena School, Molena, Georgia.

Mr. Fish, a veteran of 16 years' service with the Air Force and the development and its use in today's and future armies.

Mr. Fish spent 16 months in Korea with the 6th Helicopter Company, the first such company organized.

Agency, Washington, recently was here to inspect the telephone exchange system.

He conferred with Lt. Col. Edward C. Fisher, Jr., Infantry Center signal officer, and other signal officers before leaving.

Fort Benning's 5,200-line telephone system has exchanges on the Main Post and in the Sand Hill and Harmony Church areas.

CAPT. GEORGE B. PATTON, Montgomery, Ala., purchasing and contracting officer in the Quartermaster Section attended a small business conference at Third Army headquarters, Fort McPherson, Ga., last week.

PRIVATES FIRST CLASS George Tong and Hugh Monaghan of the 50th Medical Company have been presented letters of appreciation from Col. W. C. Dornay, director of the Georgia State Patrol, for their conscientious and efficient work this summer as cooks at the Schooboy Safety Patrol Camp, Cordele, Ga.

The 54th Medical Group welcomed 11 new men into its organization during the past week. They were Sgt. Harry R. Bond, Cpl. James L. Bradley Jr., Pvt. Clyde A. Crick, Pvt. James Smith, Sgt. Charles F. Modgett, Jr., director of the Department of Non-Resident Instruction.

Chaplain Sherman Is Made Captain

Chaplain Irvin A. Sherman of Special Troops Command was promoted to captain. Aside from his regular duties as chaplain for the command, Capt. Sherman also performs the heavy and often difficult tasks of the stockade chaplain.

Prior to his military service Capt. Sherman acted as minister of Grace Methodist Church in Covington, Ga., for five years. He began his military career in 1951 when he received a chaplain's commission as a first lieutenant, and served in Japan and Korea from July 1952 to Sept. 1953. Returning to the states, Capt. Sherman was assigned to Fort Benning in his present capacity.

TRANSPORTATION OFFICER . . . Col. Sidney P. Kretlow, right, of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Dallas, Texas, receives a final farewell from Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, upon his retirement at Fort Benning after 36 years of service. Col. Kretlow, Infantry Center transportation officer, was presented a Third Army Certificate of Achievement.

First From Yugoslavia 2 Officers Begin AIOC Studies

A new country has been plotted on the gigantic world map in The Infantry School here, indicating the addition of Yugoslav officers to the student body. Capt. Gvozden Z. Vukovic and Mirko V. Vojvodic, enrolled in the associate company officers course, are the first Yugoslav Army students to train at Fort Benning.

Under the auspices of the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact, the two Slav officers, transplanted nearly 6,000 miles from their native mountains, are spending 15 weeks with the U. S. Infantryman to learn American combat techniques.

Multiple Studies They will study M-1 rifle and carbine marksmanship, become friends with hand and rifle grenades, 8.5-inch rocket launchers and portable flame throwers. They will learn the value and use of U. S. mines and mine warfare equipment, 30 caliber machine guns, 57, 75 and 105-mm recoilless rifles, 60 and 81-mm and 4.2-inch mortars and the turret and fire control equipment of the M-47 tank. In addition, the Yugoslav officers will receive instruction in defensive and offensive tactics, the role of associate arms including the capabilities of air power, communications, motor vehicle maintenance, air transportability and aerial delivery. They also will be taught personnel management, command and leadership, public information policies, bayonet techniques, hand-to-hand combat, combat intelligence, map and aerial photography reading, logistics and Ranger tactics.

Will Become Instructors With this information and practical experience, Capt. Vukovic and Vojvodic will return to Yugoslavia in January to resume their jobs as instructors at the Officers Infantry School at Sarajevo, southwest of Belgrade.

Both are veterans 10 years' Army service. Capt. Vukovic whose home is in Arilje has been an instructor at the Yugoslav Infantry School for seven years. Capt. Vojvodic of (Slavice Vajnorona No. 12) has taught there for one and a half years. The Allied officers, in preparation for their U. S. stay, studied English for about four months. The first course was conducted by the Yugoslav Army, the second by an American professor of Slovenian languages. Nice Country "We also read quite a bit about your country before coming over," Capt. Vukovic said.

It is everything the books say it is. It is a nice country and the people are very nice, too. They spent five days in New York City upon their arrival in the U. S., and believe they "know the city from one end to the other after their round of sightseeing. The only real difference between the food in their country and the U. S. is the American love of sweets with a meal. "Our meals are without sweets," they pointed out, as they consumed their first U.S. banana split-between meals. The Yugoslav officers are enthusiastic about their visit here and their Infantry School instruction. However, there was a little objection in the Vojvodic family to the whole affair. "My wife wasn't in favor of it," Capt. Vukovic explained. "You see, I have been married just five months," Capt. Vukovic is a bachelor.

Barrows' Pix Cops 2d Place In All-Service

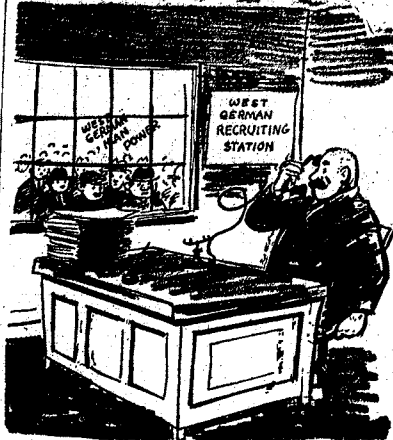

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—A Third Army first lieutenant, assigned to Fort Benning, has been awarded second place in the color division of the Army finals for the Fifth Interservice Photography Contest.

Lieut. James G. Barrows, recently assigned to Fort Benning from Fort McPherson, Ga., took the second prize with his color shot entitled "Pole Tag." The contest was among winners from each of the Army areas and all overseas commands. Lt. Barrows had received an honorable mention in the Third Army contest held at Fort McPherson.

First place winner in the color division was Sgt. Flovo Rossini, stationed at Fort Davis in the Canal Zone. Title of Rossini's photograph was "Hollywood (Korea)." Another Third Army soldier, Pfc. Niles L. Dingman of Camp Gordon won an honorable mention in the black and white division with his picture, "January Rooftops."

First place in black and white was "Coronation Broadband" by First Lt. John H. Livingstone, with U. S. Forces in Austria. Second place was won by Major Leslie C. Wood of Sixth Army and this place by Sgt. Roger K. Mullis, stationed in the Far East.

Europe History To Be Discussed

Next week's Troop Information conferences will be based on a subject prepared by TIAE Section TIC, on the recent accords reached in London by nine Western powers.

These accords, or "The London Agreement," as it is variously called, will be traced in the TIAE subject to their genesis, giving a history of the tensions that have plagued Europe since the Franco-Prussian War in 1870.

Briefly, the London agreements envision a united Western European front against the power of Communist Russia, including for the first time a strong German army; but before the Germans are permitted to "goose-step" again the accords reached at London must be ratified by the several governments concerned.

As one price of French concurrence in permitting the Germans a national army—in this case 500,000 soldiers, plus an 80,000-man air force and a 20,000-man navy, Britain and the U. S. have agreed to keep sizable forces in Europe and, indeed, within the geographical boundaries of West Germany itself. Our portion of these forces probably will remain constant at five divisions, plus corps and army artillery and support troops. The West Germans will be permitted to field 12 divisions, a force to be raised and armed at the expense of the West Germans themselves.

An important stipulation of the London accords volunteered by West German Chancellor Adenauer, is that the Germans will be permitted to manufacture no chemical, biological, or radiological devices, and that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) will supervise and control the manufacture of all arms.

Heard, Seen, Told

FORTY FORT BENNING OFFICERS visited Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., Sunday to observe the Air Force phase of the 19th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference. The three-day Army phase began at Fort Benning Monday.

The group was headed by Lt. Col. William F. Duncan of Summit, N. J., and included representatives from the Tactical, Weapons, Communications, Automotive and Staff Departments, Operations, Director of Instruction, Secretary's, Publications and Visual Aids and Combat Development Offices and the Combat Brigade.

The prominent lay leader spoke at 8 p.m. following a devotional service at the Airborne Chapel, led by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Ernest Westzell of Wayne, Nebr.

FIVE STAFF OFFICERS of the Royal Thai Army were at Fort Benning last week for briefings and demonstrations of Infantry School activities.

The group included Major Gen. Surajit Charusri, G-3; Major Gen. Poch Buranasing, G-1; Major Gen. M. C. Hihand Kritkara, G-2; Brig. Gen. Rasmee Rajsinhat, commandant of the Thai Command and General Staff College.

THE ITALIAN Army General Staff's chief of training arrived last Thursday for a visit at the home of the U. S. Infantry.

Col. Lazaro Deasy witnessed rifle and weapons platoon in an attack problem and demonstrations of automatic rifle and 81-mm mortar firing.

His itinerary also included a conference with Fort Benning officials, briefings on the Infantry School's mission and organization, the instructor guidance program on non-resident instruction and a visit to the Third Army training aids display.

MARTIN R. GRUBER of Atlanta, Ga., president of the Georgia Conference of the Georgia-Alabama Brotherhood, was guest speaker Monday at a meeting of laymen of the Lutheran Church at Fort Benning.

The prominent lay leader spoke at 8 p.m. following a devotional service at the Airborne Chapel, led by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Ernest Westzell of Wayne, Nebr.

FIRST LT. NEHEMIAH E. RICHARDSON has been presented the Bronze Star for meritorious service with the Second Division in Korea.

Lt. Richardson, who served in Korea from April, 1953 to June, 1954, was cited for outstanding leadership and exceptional performance of duties as executive officer of the division's headquarters Company.

He is supply officer of the Third Battalion, 30th Infantry Regiment.

CAPT. JOE BENNETT has been appointed motor regulating officer of the 30th Infantry Regiment. (Please See HEARD, Page 18)

Res. Officers Get New Career Plan

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Active duty Reserve officers are going to have long term career opportunities nearly parallel to those enjoyed by regular officers, the Army has announced.

A new program will develop career patterns for Reserve officers similar to career management for regular officers. Those who are selected for retention will have greater assurance of 20 year active duty tours.

There will also be indefinite term agreements. The current system of one, two and three year categories will be revised. A maximum number of reserve officers in lower grades will be trained on limited active duty periods. Then the best qualified officers will be retained on duty.

Retirement Mandatory Reserve officers who reach the maximum ages of 38 as colonels or 45 in lower ranks will be required to retire at 29 years of active federal service. Other officers will date, that date sets the limit for also be compelled to retire at the 20-year mark unless they are outstanding or there is a requirement for them.

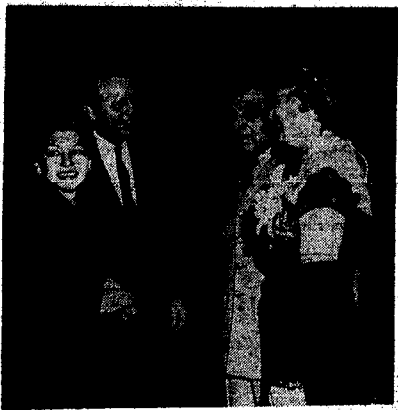

This will result in adjusting the present large proportion of men with 10-15 years of service among the active Army's officers.

Certain reservists will not be able to complete 20 years active federal service before they reach the maximum ages. They will be relieved from active duty on April 30, 1955, or at the end of their categories, whichever is latest.

Some Exceptions However, an exception will be made for certain reservists in this group who are needed for key assignments. Those who completed 18 years by Sept. 30, 1954, and will be able to finish 20 years before they reach age 60 may also remain on duty.

Starting immediately, the Army will approve for qualified officers requests to retest categories for periods which do not extend beyond the maximum active duty limits. If an officer is qualified for 20-year retirement at an earlier service. Other officers will date, that date sets the limit for his new category.

Officers, both regular and reserve, who twice fail to be selected for temporary promotion to captain, major or lieutenant colonel are subject to elimination from the active Army.

Gen. Boatner Visits Post

Major Gen. Hayden L. Boatner, who will assume command of the 47th Infantry Division in November, was at Fort Benning last week for a courtesy visit.

He came to The Infantry Center from Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he is deputy commanding general of Fourth Army.

Major Gen. R. W. Stephens, 47th Division commander, who has been ordered to Europe, and Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, welcomed Gen. Boatner when he landed at Lawson Army Air Field.

Also on hand to greet the two-star general was an honor guard of troops from Company K, 164th Infantry Regiment, and the 47th Division Band.

Following an inspection of the honor guard, Gen. Boatner was guest at a luncheon attended by Gen. Stephens, Gen. Harper, Major Gen. E. W. Riddings, G-3 of Army Field Forces; Brig. Gen. Ernest A. Barlow, deputy commanding general of The Infantry Center; Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant, and Infantry Center staff officers.

Don't Just Think About It

Approximately half of the eligible people at the Center more than likely will not vote when the coming election on Nov. 2 arrives. Neither in person or by absentee ballot will they vote. As astounding as this figure may seem, the fact remains that such a figure will not only be true this year but probably will remain as such a statistic when the next election comes around.

There are countries in the world where the voters are illiterate by our standards but still come and make their mark. They are the same ones who must walk miles barefoot and over roads and trails that would cut your feet to shreds in no time. Ninety per cent is a good average of the number of those who feel the need to come to the polls to fulfill their roles as citizens of the country to which they belong.

Compare the foregoing situation with that in this country. Many people will not even take the time to walk one block to register, much less drive to such a place where they can register for the coming election.

When this country was first founded, the early citizens knew the need for representative government. They made it their business to know what was going on. Their everyday lives revolved around the political situations of the day. You have read in American history of the many incidents brought about by heated tempers as the result of hotly contested political incidents.

Because so many people in early America were so incensed about their individual rights, they were able to do something about it. They were able to break away from a governing land far across the sea and set up their own government. In fact, most of the legislators of this early nation were men in their twenties and thirties. These were men who, early in their lives, took it upon themselves to make this nation what it is today.

We should follow in their footsteps. We in our early years should make it a habit to take an interest in the events which shape the future of this country. We should develop the habit of driving the several blocks to do the simple procedure of registering for the vote. We should walk miles if we have to in order to exercise our privilege to vote.

When November 2 comes, do what you should do. Vote. Don't just think about it. Do it.—FROM THE SERVICE STRIPE.

'Living Up Above'

Above the door of a cobbler's shop in the English countryside there hung a sign which gave the owner's name and then the words "Living up above." This was a simple sign designed to let those who passed know where the owner lived. Over the door of our lives we hang a sign which tells all with whom we come in contact where we live. Whether we are living above the petty things of life or whether we aren't.

Jesus, in speaking on one occasion, said, "I came that they might have life, and have it more abundantly." The abundant life does not consist of material things, but of peace, contentment, happiness and hope. Too often these things are not part of our lives, they are but elusive visions.

Peace of mind, contentment of heart, happiness of life, and hope of the future are not to be found in the life that is filled with pride, hatreds, jealousies and irreverence. It is only as we live above these things that the promise of the Master has fulfillment in our lives.

When the three ignorant fishermen, Peter, James, and John, were brought before those who were considered more wise and learned, they marveled at the fishermen and took knowledge of them that they had been with the Lord.

As one climbs the stairs of Faith and Service to God, the sweeter, purer air of Love and understanding fills his soul, and he has a glorious view of what is fine and pure and noble.

"Living up stairs," is not a simple statement. It requires a desire upon the part of the individual, and a constant effort to maintain the life. It is easy to live upon the "ground floor," but the abundant life is not to be found there.

The ideals we cherish, the words we speak, the acts of our lives are the signs which spell out the place of our abode. These are the things by which we are measured, these are the windows through which the outside world sees us. If these things are born of our love for God and live by our Faith

M-Sgt. Kim Man Soul, ROK Army, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for his part in the valiant defense of "Outpost Betty" in Korea. His platoon—part of the 6th Co., 11th Regt., 1st ROK Div., was hit by heavy mortar and artillery fire by an attacking force of battalion strength.

M-Sgt. Kim called in artillery fire on the enemy positions and he was in action. Defying the artillery fire, the enemy continued to advance—reaching a critical sector in the outpost's defense. Kim moved among his men now engaged in close combat, shouting decisive commands and pouring deadly fire into the enemy with his rifle. He killed seven.

Then, leaving the safety of his position, he showered the enemy with grenades, killing six more, and dispersing the rest.

The determined foe reorganized and attacked repeatedly through the night. Kim met each onslaught with hand-to-hand fighting and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

The enemy did not overrun Outpost Betty. (AFPS)

What does the sign over the door of your life say? Does it cause you to lead it to look up and wish to live where you live? Or does it cause them to shake their heads and turn away with a feeling of pity because you are living in the dust and dirt of strife, of inward and outward discouragement.

You can live up above. You should live up above, then when the sunset of life comes, you to close the door of your life, the sign will still read: "LIVING UP ABOVE."

ACHIEVEMENT
Chaplain (Major) John D. Quick of the School Brigade has been presented a Certificate of Achievement for service with the 16th Field Hospital in Nuremberg, Germany from February, 1952 to July, 1954, for "highly effective religious and spiritual leadership which contributed immeasurably to the welfare of the command."

Dads to Meet At Post School
CWO Russell Copeland, secretary and treasurer of Dad's Club, announced Tuesday that a meeting of the club members will be held at the Children's Post School on Oct. 20, at 7:30 p.m.

The school is located on the corner of Lumpkin Road and Blatzell Ave. and all Dads assigned to the main post, 3rd Hill and Harmony Church areas are urged to attend.

COMMUNIST GUERRILLA WARFARE, by Cecil Dixon. (Praeger, 229 pages).

The first scientific, complete study of the vitally important subject, guerrilla warfare, appears in this book. It is based on German documents, testimony of Wehrmacht officers, and on reports from Bernan and Soviet sources. The actions of guerrillas, their organization and tactical tasks are fully described. The author concludes with a chapter on how to deal with this kind of warfare.

THE BAD STEEP, by Mark Derby (Viking, 244 pages).

A secret agent's paradise in the Far East is threatened by a strange and terrible vengeance. "Knowing it's kill or get killed, he plays out the contest against a background of violent forces, including the special world of the secret service, political cabals, and an eruption of nature at a moment of crisis.

THE HEALING OATH, by Andre Scodras (Putnam, 276 pages).

As a sequel to the book THE DOCTORS, the story of Jean Neroc continues with his assignment as a replacement to a country doctor, while learning to appreciate the enduring values of life, his own life is suddenly thrown into jeopardy by a year of compulsory Army medical service.

THE REBEL YELL, by H. Allen Smith (Doubleday 124 pages).

Hunting for the authentic rebel

Smith travels over the South. Though he did not find the real yell, he did learn a lot about the South, including the fact that it's the Southerners who have been discriminating against the "pore old North" instead of vice versa.

HARD MAN WITH A GUN, by Charles Heckelman (Little 183 pages).

Bob Keegan, a real old-fashioned Westerner, was out for blood. The blood was that of Bill Grange and his Bell Ranch boys, who were moving in on the best land around Benton.

Work on "Symphony No. 3" was spread over two years. It was begun in 1882 and finished in 1895. The honor of the first performance went to Richter and the Vienna Philharmonic, in December 1892.

Brahms found it possible, in each of his creations, to discover a new approach to the musical substance within himself and in doing elched somewhat differently, but always with a master hand, the total image that thus emerged. Brahms symphonies are being presented by the NBC Symphony Orchestra with Arturo Toscanini conducting.

SEE-WORTHY SUIT . . . When it comes to trim and shapely Betty Koch, the fashion dictum of Dior falls flatter than a punctured balloon. Betty supplies the feminine interest these days on the beaches at Los Angeles. She is attractively attired in a cute 14-Karat gold luster swim suit with a neat fig leaf design in gold sequins.

'Twill Be a Great Time Come Halloween On Post

P-TA Planning 'Big Things' For Post Halloween Carnival

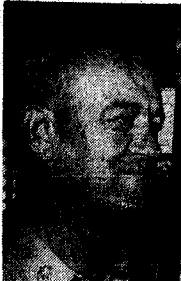

Billy Carrievau turns into a mean looking gorilla as he poses at top left in the costume he will wear at the P-TA-sponsored halloween carnival to be given on post Oct. 30. He is the son of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Edward Carrievau.

On Billy's right, John Goettl allows as how bull fighting is a serious business and stands ready to act his part in the carnival. He is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John J. Goettl.

Nancy Jones (below Billy) wouldn't look quite so contented about her Halloween disguise if she were aware that behind her stands a full-fledged "ghost" in the person of 5-year-old William Pollard, son of Sfc. and Mrs. Derby D. Pollard. Nancy is the daughter of Sfc. and Mrs. Harry L. Jones, who should arrive any minute to rescue their heroine in distress.

It's not often a deer is seen at Fort Benning, but next to Nancy and William is 8-year-old Margaret Roth, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Louis Roth. Certainly she will not be in hiding on the big night!

At lower left is Rosemary Garvey, 8-year-old daughter of WO Victor D. Garvey and Mrs. Garvey, ready to scare the daylight out of anybody who comes along on the big night. Rosemary is here seen, according to the photographer, "perched on top of a tree."

CITED . . . Lt. Col. William B. Stinson, S-4 of the School Brigade, has received the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service as adviser to the Chief of Staff, Korean Army Training Center, and as executive officer, Korean Advisory Group to the Korean Training Center, in Korea from Feb. 16, 1953 to June 7, 1954.

2 Officers Join AFF Board No. 3

A British Army lieutenant colonel and a U. S. Marine Corps major have assumed duties as liaison officers with Army Field Force Board No. 3.

Lt. Col. W. A. Robinson replaced Lt. Col. Charles R. Murray-Brown as British liaison officer and Major Robert E. Lorigan of Bayside, N.Y. replaced Major Leo E. Shinn as Marine liaison officer.

Col. Robinson came to Fort Benning from the Royal Military Academy in Sandhurst at Camberly, England, the British equivalent of West Point. A veteran of 16 years in the British Army, Col. Robinson served in Egypt, Ceylon, India and Burma during World War II. Major Lorigan arrived here from the Marine Corps Educational Center in Quantico, Va., where he was an instructor for two and a half years. He served as an operations officer with the First Marines in Korea from Sept. 1950 to Aug. 1951. During World War II, he was with the First Marine Division in the Pacific Theater of Operations.

FIRST DRESS-BLUE UNIFORM . . . M-Sgt. John W. Baldwin, of Smyrna, Ga., enlisted aide to Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, was the first man from the Third Army Area selected to wear the new dress-blue uniform. Here, Gen. Bolling (right) watches as M-Sgt. Baldwin is presented the new uniform by Col. Donald S. Himes, Third Army Quartermaster.

Fort Benning

We know how much Long Distance calls mean to service men, and we want to give you the best possible service. Here are two ways you can help:

- If you can give the operator the out-of-town telephone number, she won't have to consult "Information" in the city you're calling and your call will go through faster.
- Since you may be hard to locate, it is generally better for you to call the folks back home, instead of their calling you. Charges can be reversed.

To help you get faster service, you'll find out-of-town directories for the larger cities at each telephone center.

30th To Be Renamed

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Once more there will be a 29th Inf. Regt. at Ft. Benning and a 45th Inf. Regt. in Puerto Rico. And the 30th Inf. Regt. is again going to be part of the Third Inf. Div.

These Army traditions will be restored in late November and early December.

The unit on Okinawa presently known as the 29th RCT will become the 75th RCT in November. Then the present 30th RCT at Ft. Benning will change its designation to the 29th RCT in December.

In turn, one of the regiments of the current 47th Inf. Div. at Ft. Benning will become the 30th Inf. Regt. as the entire division changes its designation to the Third Inf. Div.

During the war in Korea, the 30th Regt. was not a part of the Third Div. Instead its place in the line was filled by the 65th Regt.

At the same time these changes are taking place, an active unit in Puerto Rico will be redesignated as the 65th RCT. This unit is presently known as the 296th RCT.

Minnesota and North Dakota will resume control of the designation of the 47th Inf. Div. for their National Guard units.

Navy Flier

First Lt. Edward F. Keeler of the 550th Tank Company, 773rd Tank Battalion served with the Navy Air Force during World War II and is the holder of a number of Naval air decorations. Recently named top graduate of his class in the Associate Armored Company Officers' Course at Fort Knox, Lt. Keeler flew for three years with the Navy in the Pacific. He wears the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters. His flying time came as an enlisted man on board a PB-451 (Navy version of the B-24). He served as radio operator and top turret gunner on the planes operating from the Marianas and later from Iwo Jima.

Following World War II, Keeler joined the National Guard. By the time he had no desire to go back on the water again. Called to active duty in 1950, he served at Camp Atterbury and Fort Riley before attending Officers Candidate School at Fort Knox.

In 1953 Lt. Keeler served with Tank Company, 14th Infantry Regiment in Korea. For heroic action with this unit he was awarded the Silver Star and the Bronze Star Medal. Lt. Keeler joined the 773rd Tank Battalion in February of this year and volunteered for the advanced course at The Armored School. He is from Fort Rife, Pa.

Puerto Rican

A man who has come a long way to attend OCS is Candidate Jose Gonzales-Soto of 14th OC Company. He traveled through two leadership schools, an Army language school, and from Puerto Rico before arriving at Fort Benning.

One of the most likeable personalities in his company, Jose began his Army career in March 1953, when he was inducted at Camp Tortuguero, Puerto Rico. He completed basic training there followed by Leadership School, where he was selected as honor graduate.

For eight months he remained as cadre in Leadership School, and then in February of this year was assigned to Fort Devens in language school. His long and winding road to Harmony Church then led through Fort Dix where he completed Leadership School.

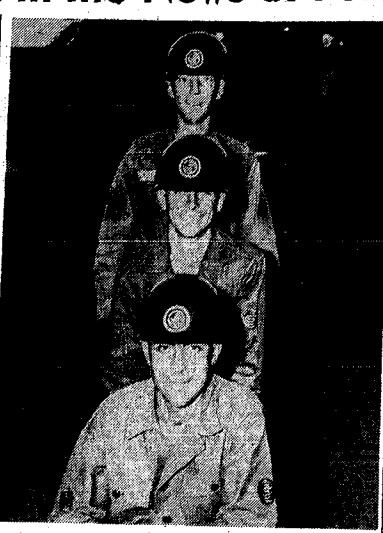

Before entering the Army, 22-year old Gonzales-Soto was an executive in charge of personnel, bookkeeping, merchandising, and purchasing in his uncle's contracting business in Puerto Rico.

Guard Trio

Three National Guard sergeants are currently sharpening up their military savvy with the 14th Officer Candidate Company.

Typical of guardsmen who want to further their military knowledge is OC Philip Rush. A graduate of Baylor University where he was a Physics and Mathematics major, Rush hopes to go on active duty when he completes the Officer Candidate course. Prior to his entrance into OCS Rush was a staff sergeant with a signal unit of the Texas National Guard.

Formerly an Air Force corporal

GUARDSMEN FURTHER TRAINING IN OCS
Top To Bottom: Marshall, Rush, Wise

Raymond Wise represents the Maryland National Guard. Wise, a former SFC with a heavy weapons company, looks forward to active duty upon graduation in January. Wise made the choice of regular OCS in preference to the shortened NC OCS course because of the benefits of extended training. OC Wallace Marshall served as first sergeant with a rifle company of the Virginia National Guard.

Guitarist

On any evening, the soft, sweet tones of an electric guitar may be heard in the Company D area of the School. Brigade. Many of the students, after their jaunt to their bunk or the lawn beside the PX each night, return to relax on their barracks and listen to talented Pvt. Troy Higgins and his guitar.

They often become so absorbed in his music that the company charge of quarters is forced to call a halt to the session to enable the men to get sufficient sleep for the automotive classes the next day. Higgins was touring the Southern States when he was called into the service, but his tour of duty has in no way deterred him from realizing his ambition, for he isle candy or drinks.

daily adding to his fame by displaying his musical prowess to soldiers from all sections of the country.

Pvt. Higgins aspirations for the future is to be a part of the "Grand Ole Opry".

Pvt. Brunner

Most "bull sessions" have somewhere in their stories one concerning a victory in combat. Very few American soldiers can relate a story of complete defeat unless they, like Pvt. Rudolf Brunner, sided in an opposing army.

Pvt. Brunner has been in the U. S. Army for less than six months. However, he has spent over three years in combat. As a sergeant in the Nazi Army he served in Russia and in Northern Italy.

Born in Munich, Germany, in 1927, Brunner witnessed the rise of the Hitler war machine and in 1943 was drafted to help in its disastrous course. He entered the German Labor Camp in preparation for military duty and three months later began training in the 27th Flak Division, an anti-aircraft unit.

He was stationed after the completion of his training in Kiev, Russia, finally making sergeant, and can tell of the 30 to 35 below zero temperatures that he and the men of his battery endured during the Russian campaign. In the spring of 1945 he left Russia and was transferred to Northern Italy, where he served until his capture by American Troops in April 1945.

Pvt. Brunner volunteered some information concerning the differences between the old Germany Army and ours. The first big difference he noted was in training. They had no basic. The training consisted of one day on the job. They were to perform and one day on Infantry tactics. This system continued for a period of nine months.

According to Brunner, the enlisted man had no benefits and was treated roughly. He had no PX, Service Clubs, or NCO Clubs. There was always rationing to put up with, limited cigarettes and very little candy or drinks.

Citations Given 2 Post Officers

Two officers of The Infantry School's Staff Department, who have been cited for outstanding military service, have been presented certificates of achievement.

1. Col. Robert J. McBride of Irvington-Hudson, N. Y., newly assigned chief of the Intelligence Group, received a Certificate of Achievement for "exceptionally meritorious service" with the Joint U. S. Military Aid Group to Greece from June 23, 1952, to Aug. 1, 1954.

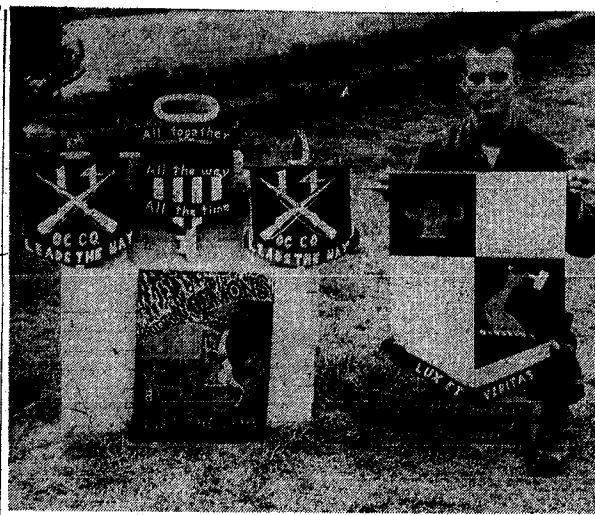

Major George W. King of Oxnard, Calif., was presented an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement for his work on the Staff Department's Leadership Committee as an instructor in personnel management, military psychology and leadership.

The presentations were made by Col. Blair W. Ford of New Kensington, Pa., King of Oxnard, Calif., was presented an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement for his work on the Staff Department's Leadership Committee as an instructor in personnel management, military psychology and leadership.

Major King, a veteran of 13 years of service, is a 1942 graduate of The Infantry School's officer candidate course. From 1942-1945 he served with the Third Infantry Division in Europe and with the 38th Infantry Regiment, Second Division in Korea for four months before being wounded Nov. 30, 1950. He wears the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal and Purple Heart.

SOLDIER OF WEEK
Pfc. Paul M. Almond, Second Battalion, 38th Infantry Regiment, was chosen Soldier of the Week Saturday, October 2. His home is in Alhambra, N. C., where his parents Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Almond reside. Pfc. Almond was awarded a three-day pass.

OCs Improve Company Area With Plaques

Pictured above is some of the plaque-work with which the officer candidates of 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), have recently sharpened up their company area. Each of the three platoons has a distinctive coat-of-arms of its own making, and there is a special coat-of-arms for the company. Behind each one is a story.

OC Clement Greek, who holds the Second Platoon's plaque in the picture led the student committee responsible for the design and display of the company coat-of-arms. A dark blue shield, with gold cross rifles and torch, and the motto "14th O. C. Leads the Way," it hangs nearly on brass chains in four places in the company area.

The large plaque which Greek holds points up the fact that Yale University grads outnumber the

Col. Lea Leaves For New Duties

Lt. Col. Ellis Lea, U. S. Army Platoon Team Captain since 1952, left Fort Benning last week for Washington, D. C., to assume duties as assistant executive officer of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

Under Col. Lea's leadership, the Army took 694 team and individual prizes in sectional, regional and national pistol competition. The veteran shooter has won 417 medals, cups and trophies and is regarded as one of the nation's finest marksmen.

Assigned to the Small Arms Group of the Infantry School's Weapon's Department since 1952, he came to Fort Benning from Fort Ord, Calif., where he was chief of the Rifle Committee of the Army.

A 1934 graduate of the University of West Virginia, he entered the Army in July, 1941 as a reserve lieutenant of Infantry. While stationed in Berlin, Germany, he captured the Army's European Command small bore rifle and pistol championship in 1950.

Capt. William Smith Named Medic Unit CO

Capt. William J. Smith of Beckley, W. Va., has been appointed commanding officer of the U. S. Army Hospital's Medical Holding Detachment here.

He succeeds Capt. Paul Powell, who has been assigned to Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington. Capt. Smith had been intelligence and operations and training officer for the hospital since his return from duty with the Landstuhl Army Medical Center in Germany several months ago.

Jack-of-all Trades Leads CO A, ISD To Grid Wins

The Company A, Infantry School Detachment, intramural football team, led by Coach-Trainer-Captain-Business Manager Sergeant Joe "Crazy-legs" Barrett has shown, so far this season, the spark needed to win quite a few ball games. In league play the team has compiled a 2-1 won loss record.

Regulars on the team include a dazzling array of stars such as Allen "Gluefingers" Luger, Joe "Cochise" Cruz, Harry "The Dribbler" Grasser, Dayt "Scotter" Richardson, Al "Lefty" Weidner, Jack (no nickname) Fox, and Robert "Jet" Jorgensen. An early season interview with Captain Barrett indicated that he wasn't very enthusiastic about his charges' prowess; it was hinted that his team would emphasize character building this season. Maybe, however, he was underestimating his material and this will be the year, who can say?

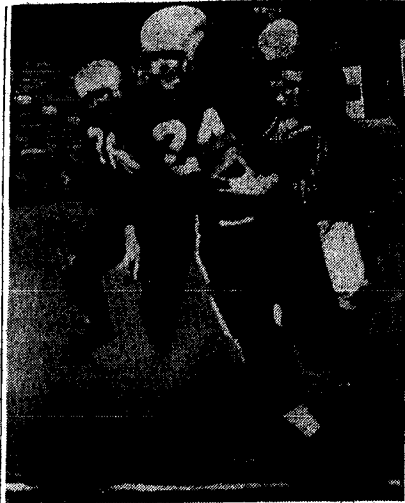

Sports Quiz

- QUESTIONS
1. In baseball how can a fielder make a double play without touching the ball?
 2. A football field is twice as long as it is wide. True or false?
 3. What is the difference between a black and a mottled bowling ball?
- ANSWERS
1. If a runner is hit by an infielder while off base, both the batter and the runner are out, with the fielder nearest the play getting credit for the putout.
 2. False, it is 100 feet wide and 300 feet long.
 3. The mottled ball has a harder surface, consequently does not grip or "hook" the alley as readily as the black ball.

Armed Forces To Bolster U. S. Olympic Teams

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, taking note of the large part the Armed Forces are expected to play in the 1956 Olympic Games, has endorsed National Olympic Day, to be observed throughout the U. S. on Oct. 16. At a ceremony in his office, Mr. Wilson received a copy of a book commemorating the 1952 Olympics. There are only three such books—one each for the President and the Secretaries of State and Defense, all of whom are Honorary Vice-Chairmen of the U. S. Olympic Committee. The books were specially prepared by the committee in recognition of the government's past cooperation in the Olympic Games.

Since the next Olympic Games, to be held at Melbourne, Australia, in the late autumn of 1956, and the Pan-American Games, scheduled for March 1955, in Mexico City, coincide with the college year many U. S. collegiate athletes will be unable to compete.

Therefore, it is expected that members of the Armed Forces will comprise a larger proportion of the U. S. contingent than usual. The Army has called the attention of its units to the observance of National Olympic Day, whose aim this year is to obtain maximum support for the coming Games.

Fort Benning may have found the "pill" to cure traffic headaches.

A long-range traffic plan, designed by Infantry Center Safety Director, Norman Evans, recommends additional electric traffic controls and an unimpeded flow of traffic on main arteries.

Present two-lane thoroughfares will be widened to three lanes and traffic will flow two ways in one direction and one way in the opposite direction.

Still in the planning stage is a traffic light system that will enable vehicles to travel along main thoroughfares at the given speed without stopping for a red light.

The proposed plans are based on the controlled traffic system used in Washington, and along Lake Shore Drive in Chicago.

Lt. Col. George A. Bieri, post provost marshal, says the Fort Benning problem is to find a solution to the dilemma of accommodating an increasing number of automobiles on roads designed to handle only a few.

He says roads on post are in perfect condition, but were built in a situation that exists in most towns and cities in the U.S. During World War II, when the total population was over 100,000, the traffic problem did not exist. At that time there were only 7,000 vehicles registered because of wartime shortages and gas rationing.

Today 29,000 registered private vehicles travel over the main arteries which measure only 32 to 34 feet wide.

Present traffic regulations at Fort Benning were established after extensive studies by national traffic engineers and adhere to the uniform code of the Federal government.

NOW YA' KNOW!

HERE ARE ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS SERVICEMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES ASK THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION EVERY DAY...

Q. Is it possible to obtain additional Korean GI training allowances because I am supporting my parents or are the extra amounts limited only to married veterans?

A. It would be possible to obtain the higher rate of GI allowance if you are supporting your parents and are single. They will have to fill out a VA form "Statement of Dependency," which may be obtained at any VA office. You must submit a certified copy of the public record of your birth, or of permanent plan, on the other hand, the church record of your baptism; does have loan value after it has been in effect for one year.

Q. I want to study law under the Korean GI Bill. Would I be allowed to take a bar review course after I complete my college work?

A. Yes. On your application form, list "Lawyer" as your objective. And put down both "Bachelor of Laws degree" and "Bar Review Course" as your training program leading to the objective.

Q. Is it possible to get a loan on a GI term insurance policy?

A. No. A GI term insurance policy must be submitted to the Federal government for permanent plan, on the other hand, the church record of your baptism; does have loan value after it has been in effect for one year.

Operation Gyroscope Units to Be Rotated In Overseas Move

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The Army has adopted a completely new plan of overseas rotation, according to Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens. It is scheduled to begin by Oct. 1955. As part of the plan, two new Infantry divisions—the 23rd and the 71st Divisions—will soon be created.

Called "Operation Gyroscope," the plan provides stabilized rotation by allowing the replacement of entire units overseas by like units. Under the present system a unit kept in position and individual members are moved in and out. The Army hopes to be able to return divisions from overseas to the same 21 posts after each tour.

Manpower Saving
Career soldiers will move less frequently under the plan and the cost of group movements will decrease. Fewer people will be required in processing stations because units can be moved directly to FOBs. This will result in better use of manpower.

To make the plan possible, the Army will soon activate two new Infantry divisions, from existing non-divisional units such as RCTs. They will be the 23rd and 71st Divisions.

Five training divisions will also be converted into combat divisions during a two year period. This will give the Army a total of 24 combat divisions. The present training mission of these five units will be divided among various combat divisions while they are stationed in the U. S.

Eight Divs. Yearly
About eight divisions will be rotated each year. Four will be sent overseas and about three years will be required for a complete cycle.

The overseas tour will be approximately 33 months and the 21 tour about 31 months. Each overseas unit will handle two separate increments of inductees, each group serving 17 months overseas with a month allowed for travel time. Their first six months of

To provide close fire support in ground combat operations.

A free flight rocket as distinguished from the guided missile is simple in design and simple in operation. It has considerably more battlefield mobility than conventional artillery and one high explosive round can deliver on a target the demollition effect of hundreds of artillery shells.

The Corporal guided missile can be equipped with either conventional or atomic type warhead. It is capable of engaging tactical targets far beyond the range of artillery and enables the field commander to strike selected targets deep in the enemy rear areas.

chanic for the helicopter, was contacted and rushed hastily to the Camp Stewart air strip, where he prepared the 'copter for take off.

Mr. Olsen and Mr. Van Dyke were given instructions to fly to an area called Base Camp, approximately 21 miles from Camp Stewart, and pick up the injured man.

After 15 minutes of flying in complete darkness, they spotted several searchlights designating the objective. A large circle of jeeps and trucks used their headlights to illuminate the landing area.

As soon as the helicopter eased to the ground, the injured man was placed in the "belly" of the seven passenger craft with a doctor and a chaplain. The doctor asked the pilots to fly as fast as possible, but to keep the helicopter steady at the same time. While flying at 90 mph, the maximum speed obtainable, the doctor administered plasma and other emergency treatments.

An ambulance was waiting at the air strip and transferred the patient to the post hospital at Stewart.

Mr. Olsen, Mr. Van Dyke and Sgt. Shelly were praised for their expert handling of the mission by all personnel involved in the rescue.

Kid Party Set For Oct. 30

Plans for the annual Halloween Carnival, scheduled for Oct. 30 on Gowdy Field, were announced yesterday.

A costume parade will precede the Carnival, which begins at 6 p.m.

School buses will be dispatched on all regular school bus routes at 4 p.m. to bring children to their class rooms. Each class will be judged and an award presented for the best costume. Judging will begin at 4:30.

Children of military personnel not living on the post should be brought by their parents to the auditorium of the Main Post School for the judging, carnival officials said.

After judging is completed, children will be taken by bus to Doughboy Stadium where a final judging will take place at 5:30 p.m.

More than 20 attractions are already planned for the big midway on Gowdy Field.

A junior turn-of-war is being constructed by the Airborne Department with the aid of the Signal and Engineer Sections.

Units of Combat Training Command will operate a jeep Merry-Go-Round and the miniature train from Idle Hour Park in Phenix City will be brought to the post.

The Signal Photo Lab will set up a photo gallery and during the evening soft drinks will be given away.

Grand prizes will include two turkeys, two hams and two bicycles.

Carnival officials have asked personnel living on post to walk to the carnival to avoid traffic congestion.

Sponsored by the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association, the carnival serves a dual purpose. It provides post children a safe Halloween and raises funds to supplement the school budget.

A 19-gun salute marked the arrival here at 2:30 p.m. Saturday of Spain's Minister of the Army, Lt. Gen. Agustín Muñoz Grandes.

Top officials gathered at Lawson Army Air Field to welcome the Allied dignitary, whose position is equivalent to U. S. secretary of the Army.

As Gen. Muñoz's plane landed, 19 volleys were fired by the 41st Field Artillery Battalion's Battery B as honor guard troops from the 30th Infantry Regiment stood at attention. An Army band provided music for the welcoming ceremony.

It was evening the Spanish general was dinner guest of Brig. Gen. Earl C. Bergquist, assistant commander of the 47th Infantry Division, at the Main Officers' Mess.

Gen. Bergquist was deputy chief of the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Madrid, Spain before coming to Fort Benning.

Following a conference Monday morning with Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper and a briefing on the mission and organization of the school, Gen. Muñoz witnessed a review of the entire 47th Division.

Ex-Farmboy Is Top Shot

A farm boy from Louville, Miss., received top honors in the 104th Company of the School Brigade last week as sergeant among classmates in M-1 Firing.

Second Lt. Keith Burchfield, an agricultural graduate of Mississippi and a cadet, fired 228 to win the company trophy which he will receive later.

Army Pushing Nike Production

WASHINGTON (APPS) — The Army is pushing production of the Nike guided missile into full swing. It has awarded the Western Electric Co. a $164,850,000 continuation contract to produce the weapon that already is in positions to defend American cities from possible attack from the air.

The Nike, pronounced "ny-key" and named after the winged Goddess of Victory, is a rocket missile that can be launched from ground emplacements. Once aloft, it is guided by radar and regardless of weather conditions and visibility can search out and destroy its target.

With a range of 30 miles, the Nike can reach far beyond the capacity of conventional anti-aircraft guns in attacking high-flying enemy aircraft.

In addition to the continuation contract, the Army has approved a $16,000,000 project to prepare for the production of the Nike at the Charlotte Ordnance Missile Plant, Charlotte, N. C. The project will modify the existing plant and install new equipment and test facilities.

The rehabilitation of the plant is expected to be completed in 1955 when production of the missile will begin under terms of a $20,000,000 Army Ordnance contract with Western Electric and the Douglas Aircraft Co. About 1500 workers will be employed at the Charlotte plant.

Tac Names Col. Williams

Lt. Col. Trevor E. Williams of Martins Ferry, Ohio, has been named an instructor The Infantry School's Tactical Department, and will work with the department's Regimental Commanders.

Col. Williams was commissioned a second lieutenant Jan. 20, 1939, after studying at Ohio Wesleyan University. He attended the basic reference course for rifle and heavy weapons company officers at the Infantry School from January to April, 1940, and is a 1940 graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

From November, 1943, to March, 1945, Col. Williams was assigned to the 351st Infantry Regiment of the 88th Division in Europe and was Pacific Command headquarters in Hawaii from April 11, 1947 to February, 1950. He wears the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal, and the Douglas Silver Star Medal. He is also a member of the Leaf Club and Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Co. H Reaps ISD Honors in all Events

Company H of the Infantry School Detachment, home of the instructors in the Airborne Department, usually are at the top in everything from detachment parades, intramural sports and PT tests, to qualification firing with the M-1 rifle.

Members of this unit of airborne instructors were champs in softball and basketball at ISD during the past season and have won the parade honor plaque so many times that it's almost permanent property in the company dayroom.

Holder of the top score on the PT test with a 500 mark, the highest possible is Sgt. Thomas Zeimer. He also was highest in M-1 qualification fire during the past six months, firing 247 out of a possible 250.

Another specialty of the airborne infantrymen is making supernumerary of the guard. Last week three enlisted men were picked for their outstanding appearance and military bearing as supernumeraries for the Main Post Stockade Tower Guard.

They were Pfc. Robert L. Norton, Pvt. Hillard E. Smith, and Cpl. Gerald J. Miller.

M-Sgts. Fire Highest M-1 Scores

What rank shoots best with the M-1 rifle?

According to classification order scores of Infantry School Detachment personnel over a seven-month period, it's the master sergeant who hits the bull's-eye most often.

In fact, the average score of 152 master sergeants was only two tenths of a point short of an expert rating. Their average was 211.8.

Scores of other ranks went down in order except for privates, who were two points higher than privates first class. Two hundred and sixteen sergeants first class averaged 207.3, 302 sergeants averaged 206, while 150 corporals scored 204. The only rank which beat the privates was the privates who outscored the PFC's by a 128 to 194 margin.

Highest score recorded was 247 out of a possible 250 by Sgt. Thomas Zeimer of Company H.

The qualification course fired included 100 yards standing, 200 yards prone, 200 yards kneeling and 300 yards prone, all slow fire. Sustained fire from the sitting position at 300 yards and from prone at the 300 yard line rounded out the course.

BULLETIN

Today The Bayonet begins a new mode of distribution. Instead of being dropped off in bundles at the various message centers over the post, the Bayonet will be delivered to The Infantry Center Message Center at Headquarters, TIC, there to be picked up by the major commands and distributed to subordinate units. It is requested that commands pick up their usual number of bundles as soon after 8 a.m. on Thursday as practicable.

AWOLs to Get Stiffer Punishment

DENVER, Colo. (APFS)—President Eisenhower has lightened up the provisions of the Uniform Code of Military Justice concerning repeated offenders and persons convicted of going AWOL.

He has authorized dishonorable discharges for servicemen convicted of offenses which, in themselves, do not normally carry dishonorable discharges, for example: persons with three other such convictions during the preceding year. The servicemen also may be compelled to forfeit all pay and allowances and be confined at hard labor up to one year. Dishonorable discharges previously were reserved for those convicted of offenses classed by civil law as felonies or of offenses of a military nature requiring severe punishment.

Punishments for AWOL were eased at several points. For an absence of not more than three days the penalties are hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds pay, both up to one month. For an absence between three and 30 days the penalties are the same except that they may be assessed for up to a period of six months. An absence of more than 30 days now nets a forfeiture of all pay and allowances, hard labor up to one year, and a dishonorable discharge. Previously an absence of more than 60 days were required to warrant this penalty.

Anything less than 60 days resulted in hard labor not to exceed three days for each absent day and forfeiture of pay not to exceed two days for each absent day.

Being AWOL from guard with intent to abandon previously meant six months at hard labor and a bad conduct discharge. To this has been added forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

Forfeiture of all pay and allowances also is an added penalty for servicemen who miss a troop ship or aircraft movement, whether by design or neglect. If it is by design, they may be given hard labor up to one year, instead of the present six months, and a dishonorable discharge.

If it is by neglect, they may be given hard labor up to six months instead of the present three months and a bad conduct discharge.

You Don't Like It But This Discipline Has Its Fine Points

Discipline. The term gets batted and bruised about almost as much as "home" or "mother." Sociologists and quite a few law enforcers and officials attribute juvenile delinquency, among other things, directly to "lack" of discipline in the home or school.

To the tyro soldier, discipline sometimes is an unpleasant word, carrying a connotation of punishment, suppression of individual desires, and subjugation, of his will to the will of others.

In the final analysis, however, discipline merely is a synonym for moral restraint, self-control, and willingness to sacrifice one's immediate desires for the good of society. It's the payoff of religious ideals, a triumph of ethics over self-indulgence, and represents the finest conquest in the field of human endeavor—victory over one's own innate weaknesses.

The Infantry School has a "School" definition of discipline. It goes something like this:

"... the prompt and willing obedience to orders... or, in the absence of orders, doing what you think the orders probably would have been..."

Soldiers throughout The Infantry Center next week will be attempting to arrive at an even better definition during troop information conferences.

Since discipline is the backbone of a military organization, just as it is the basic structural support of any society, unit commanders or their officer representatives will conduct the discussion periods.

DISCIPLINE is the backbone of a military organization, just as it is the basic structural support of any society, unit commanders or their officer representatives will conduct the discussion periods.

ROK Cites Two Officers

Two Infantry School officers have been cited by the Republic of Korea government for meritorious service in 1950-1952.

Lt. Col. Duff Green Jr., of Fredericksburg, Va., chairman of the Tactical Department's Armor Committee, and Major Albert Wing Jr., of Greenville, Miss., a committee instructor, were awarded the Chungmu Distinguished Military Service Medal by President Syngman Rhee.

Col. Green, as commander of the 73rd Tank Battalion, was decorated for "outstanding professional knowledge and extraordinary planning ability in supporting fire rendered to the ROK First Infantry Division from Aug. 7, 1950 to May 25, 1951," while the 73rd Tank Battalion was attached to the ROK division.

Major Wing was presented the medal for outstanding service from May, 1951, to February, 1952, as aide de camp to Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former Eighth Army commander in Korea. Col. Green first came to Fort Benning in July, 1952, to join the 73rd Tank Battalion before going to Korea. His decorations also include the Medal for Humane Action awarded for his work as operations officer of the Berlin Military Post during the Berlin Airlift, the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal and Air Medal.

Major Wing was at Fort Benning in 1941-1943 when he took the basic company officers and basic airborne courses before joining the 87th Airborne Infantry Regiment. From August, 1944-1945, he served with the 512th Parachute Infantry Regiment, 17th Airborne Division in Europe and from 1946 to 1948 was assistant military attaché to Baghdad, Iraq. He wears the Bronze Star Medal, Air Medal, and Purple Heart.

Accidents cost this nation about $60 per person during 1953, according to the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies. The staggering total—$9,000,000,700.

NOW YA KNOW!

Q—I am going to a vocational school under the Korean GI Bill. I understand that I am allowed 30 days absence a year. Do legal holidays and week-ends count as absences?

A—No. However, other days during school vacation periods such as Christmas and Easter holidays would be counted as absences.

Q—I have a permanent GI insurance policy on the endowment plan. At the end of the endowment period, how will I be paid the money—in a lump sum or in monthly installments?

A—You may choose to receive the proceeds in either manner—lump sum or monthly installments, ranging from 30 to 240 in number.

Q—I pay premiums on my GI insurance once each year, in advance. What would happen if I were to die shortly after making my yearly advance payment?

A—The present value of premiums paid in advance of the current month would be refunded to your beneficiary.

Q—I am an ex-WAC, planning to attend school under the Korean GI Bill. My husband is working.

Will VA pay me the added GI allowance for a veteran with dependents, even though he is working?

A—No. You could claim the added allowance for your dependents only if he were in fact dependent upon you.

Q—As a member of the Reserve, I receive pay for attending weekly meetings and going on active duty two weeks each year. Will this pay be deducted from the monthly allowance I receive as a student in college under the Korean GI Bill?

A—No. Reserve pay will not be deducted from your GI allowance. Neither will any other outside earnings you may receive. Under the law, the monthly allowance for schooling veterans remains the same regardless of outside income of any kind.

Q—I have a permanent GI insurance policy which lapsed several years ago. How can I reinstate it?

A—Understand I will have to pay all back premiums. Will I also be required to pay interest on the pre- to your beneficiary.

A—Yes. You will be required to pay interest at the stipulated rate for your type of policy.

Officers Hold New SB Posts

Abolishment of the First Student Regiment and the First Officer Candidate Regiment together with the reorganization of Headquarters, the School Brigade, introduced many new officers and positions to Brigade Headquarters.

Officers now holding positions in Brigade are Col. Donald Washington, commanding officer; Col. Jefferson R. Cronk, executive officer; Lt. Col. Charles K. Egges, assistant executive officer; Major Lyle E. Simons, C-1 and adjutant; Major Robert E. Jacobs, Capt. George Shipman, Lt. Thomas S. Talbot Jr., Capt. Elias Sanchez, assistant adjutants.

Named as Staff Judge Advocate was Capt. Arthur Falkstrom, while Capt. Edward James, Second Lt. John G. Hayward and Second Lt. Ariel Conlin were named assistants.

Capt. John P. Lamond was named to head the Public Information Section and Capt. John G. Hunter was named Special Services Officer. Lt. Joseph F. Fortunato heads the Athletics and Recreation Office.

Serving as Brigade S-2 is Capt. William E. Johnson Jr. with Lt. Wilmot A. Hall Jr. as his assistant.

Lt. Col. James H. Crutcher heads the S-3 Section with Lt. Col. Edward Cielski, Major Thaddeus A. Boyle, Capt. James F. Holt, Capt. Murray B. Horton and Capt. Stanley Wesloski as assistants.

Capt. Kay W. Wynn was appointed to head the Troop Information and Education Section.

Heading the S-4 department is Lt. Col. William B. Sinton with Maj. Patrick Woods, Major Elbert F. Turner, Major Lester D. DeLump, Capt. Henry C. Arnold, Capt. Paul L. Gallagher, Capt. Kermit H. Jackson, Major Howard P. Landry and Lt. James R. Hall as assistants.

Named as Brigade Chaplains were Major John D. Quirk and Lt. John A. Dick. The Evaluation Section is headed by Lt. Col. Charles G. DuBoe.

Lt. Billick Given Diefition Position

Second Lt. Eileen L. Billick of Arlington, Va., has been assigned duties as a dietitian in the U. S. Army Hospital here.

A member of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps, Lt. Billick recently completed her one year dietetic internship at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington.

She has a bachelor of science degree in home economics from St. Mary-of-the-Woods (Ind.) College.

Student Picnic Held at Rest Camp

The student officers of BIOC No. 4 of 103rd Company of Second Student Battalion held their first company picnic recently at the TIC Rest Camp. Lt. Bob Gillis and his picnic committee, working with Tactical Officer Robert McGee, arranged the gathering and provided dates for the bachelor officers who desired them. More than 300 people attended.

The purpose of the picnic was to afford the officers of the company an opportunity to get acquainted with each other, since duty days and classes leave little time for this. The activities included badminton, basketball, horseshoe pitching, team relays, dancing and group singing.

23 Make Expert In ISD Firing

Although Weapons Department personnel assigned to the Infantry School Detachment already have proved their ability with the M-1 Rifle in competition here, members of other departments proved that they too can shoot a good score.

On range firing day for the detachment this month 23 men were rated expert. Leading scorer was M-Sgt. Litton C. Melton, of Company G, with a 231 mark. Fifty-eight men qualified as sharpshooters, while only 16 made a score of 300.

Selected "Fennant Girl" by a recent graduating class of the 90-Day Airman School, Conni Gilmore of Seabrook, N. H., stands "guard duty" at Floyd Bennett NAS, N. Y.

COMMENDED . . . Maj. Frank C. Caldwell, United States Marine Corps, was presented a Letter of Commendation by Col. Donald Washington, commanding officer of the School Brigade, for meritorious achievement in the performance of his duties while serving with a Marine Infantry Battalion during operations against the enemy in Korea from August 7 to November 16, 1953.

BIOC Makes High Mark On Range

Basic Infantry Officers course No. 3 last week qualified a percentage of 98.94 on Course A for the light machine gun.

Topping all other BIOC classes since July of last year, it has 20 lieutenants who got top grade scores for the firing. They were Lts. William Brown, John J. Caswell, John H. Chmbers, Marvin E. Meister, James R. Mellich, Robert N. Gatto, Robert W. Overholster, Robert L. Reid, Candelario Rolden, Edward Rousled, Hilbert Simeon, Vernon Smith, James L. Smith, Thomas Tierret, Thomas White, Leroy Wilbur, and Theodore Noh.

Capt. Bernard W. Galling is cadet company commander.

Cpt. G. J. Renfroe At Post CBR School

Capt. George J. Renfroe, commanding officer of company F, Infantry School Detachment, is attending The Infantry Center Chemical, Biological, and Radiological course.

Capt. Renfroe, formerly S-2, S-3, and T&E Officer of The Infantry School Detachment, reported to BIOC from the Second Student Regiment. He was company commander of Headquarters of that unit.

COMMENDATION RIBBON . . . Presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant by the commanding officer of the School Brigade, Col. Donald Washington, was Capt. David C. Russell who distinguished himself by meritorious service while assigned as assistant to the assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, Camp Gordon, Georgia from Nov. 1, 1952 to May 6, 1954.

Ex-Swabbie

A former seaman who answered the call in 1950 and eventually wound up fighting as a platoon sergeant in Korea is OC Leo A. Ardizzone, now in 34th Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

Born and schooled in Champaign, Ill., Ardizzone enlisted in the Navy upon graduation from high school. After 32 months of seafaring, he resumed civilian education at the University of Illinois in 1950. Then came Korea and, with a host of other veterans, Ardizzone answered the call to duty with the U. S. Army.

Officer Candidate James R. Jones of 14th OC Company may be a unique officer candidate in that he does not have to learn habits of military smartness and neat personal appearance. They are already routine.

Jones was a military policeman before entering OCS and knows the "why" behind these habits. "Like an officer," he says, "an MP must set an example not only

Rescuer

Few of us have ever been in a race for life—that is, in one of those rare human predicaments when someone's life depended on how decisively and unselfishly we acted. Officer Candidate Theodore Townsend of 11th OC Company was in such a predicament during his tour of duty as a sergeant with the Military Police Platoon of the 167th Airborne Regimental Combat Team in Japan.

While stationed at Camp Chicksa magna on Kulusu Island, Townsend, then a corporal, was in his jeep on a routine patrol assignment. Suddenly, rounding a bend, he saw an excited crowd standing on a sea wall. He stopped, looked, and then saw a woman screaming and thrashing about in the water, some 300 yards from shore. He quickly stripped to the waist and, while doing so, sent to the Japanese police for aid.

The surf was checked with seaweed, and it was a half-hour before he was able to reach the woman, floating face down. Swimming was difficult, but Townsend returned to the shore with her body. Then he went home.

After weeks of searching for Townsend, the Japanese officials at Oita-Ken finally traced him down. He was invited to the Oita-Ken Courthouse and there received a letter of appreciation from the family of the deceased, a ceremonial presentation of a Japanese

Marshal Whiting Wins Major's Leaf

Marshal Whiting of Schuyler, N. Y., an instructor on the Staff Department's Intelligence Committee, has been promoted to major.

A veteran of 13 years of service, Major Whiting is a 1942 graduate of the officer candidate course. He completed the associate advanced course prior to joining the Staff Department in April.

From November, 1943, to February, 1946, he served as special instructor in the 25th Division in the Pacific, and was assistant G-2 of the 24th Infantry Division headquarters in Korea from October, 1951, to 1953.

Lt. Marsh Leads ISD Company G

First Lt. Marion W. Marsh has taken over command of Co. G, Infantry School Detachment, during the absence of Capt. Ross A. Sheldon who is attending the associate infantry officer advanced course on post.

First Lt. Marsh, formerly executive officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, the Korean Military Advisory Group, was company executive officer prior to his present assignment.

OC Ackerman

Gene Ackerman, an officer candidate in 14th OC Company with six years in the Army, has disappeared forever the slogan that you have to join the Navy to see the world. But the world he has seen has not been one of picturesque ports and romantic harbors.

Ackerman, whose parents are Hungarian, was born in Mexico in 1929. He was taken to Budapest, Hungary, where he completed elementary schooling and began work as an apprentice furrier when the Germans gained political control of Hungary. As a suspect foreigner, Ackerman was sent to a concentration camp. There, while yet in his teens, he witnessed mass executions and shared the horrors of forced marches, slave labor, and starvation. He escaped three times. Then the Russians moved in as they pushed the Germans out, and Ackerman's hope for a better life was rekindled. But the flame flickered as the Russians soon showed their brand of ruthlessness.

Fortunately, however, Ackerman managed, with diplomatic help, to be removed from the Russian sector and placed in an Allied zone. He then moved to Vienna, to France, to Belgium, to Holland, to Cuba, to New York, and to Mexico before he secured permanent residence within the United States.

Ackerman joined the U. S. Army in September, 1948. He received basic training at Fort Dix, New Jersey, and was sent to Fort Benning's Surgical Technicians School. Since that time his military life has included tours of duty to Germany as a surgical technician; to Fort Devens, Massachusetts, for medical evacuation training (mountain climbing) and a post at the Seventh Regiment's Medical Company and Post Station Hospital; to Puerto Rico for amphibious medical training; to Japan for further hospital duty; to Korea during the conflict as a technician; and later to the Camp Rucker and Fort McPherson hospitals.

famous attack on Okinawa. This campaign paved the way for the back breaking aerial attacks on Japan.

During this attack, Sgt. Ruiz assaulted a heavily armed Japanese pillbox. Despite wounds, he continued dropping hand grenades and pouring automatic rifle fire into the pillbox until it was destroyed, saving the lives of many U.S. soldiers.

Ruiz entered the army in 1943 at Fort Bliss, Texas, and received basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif. Following his basic he was assigned with the 27th Infantry Division in Hawaii and fought with this division in the New Hebrides and on Okinawa.

When the aggression started in Korea, Sgt. Ruiz requested to be sent into action. He joined the First Cavalry Division in November, 1950, and served as a platoon sergeant until his discharge.

In July 1951 he returned to the U. S. and was stationed at Camp Poik, La., and Fort Bliss, Texas. He was transferred to Okinawa for the third time in December, 1952. Following a 19-month tour of duty as a first sergeant on Okinawa, he returned to the U. S. and was assigned to Fort Benning Sept. 23 of this year.

ny the record of the previous mail clerk, Cpl. Bruce M. Bowers, who won a "superior" rating two months ago.

With letters from home kept clean, carefully sorted, and blanketing in brightly painted mail boxes, mail call at 14th O.C. Company is a special event.

Parachutist

Whenever the candidates of 14th OC Company talk of airborne training after OCS, they turn for advice to OC Edward Knotts, a veteran jumper holding Senior Parachutist rating. Since he came into the Army in February 1951, he has made forty-two static-line jumps and two free falls. Besides this, he is a qualified parachute packer and rigger.

Knotts took his basic training at Fort Jackson and then came to Fort Benning for jump school. Until September 1952 he was with Company A of the 608 ARCT; then he joined the 519th Airborne.

Knotts says his greatest thrill when he took part in Operation Longhorn in Texas two years ago. Despite hazardous conditions caused by high winds, Knotts' unit jumped in on schedule and successfully carried out their phase of the mission. This, Knotts says, proved to him the spirit of the paratroopers and their effectiveness as a fast moving Infantry shock team.

Hill

To win two Silver Stars in a period of two months is a spectacular feat for any soldier. M. Sgt. Ronald E. Hill, much decorated first sergeant of Tank Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, holds this distinction for action in Korea.

This, however, is not the complete account of Sgt. Hill's distinguished record. Two months before winning his first Silver Star he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroic action and two Purple Hearts for wounds received during the action.

Sgt. Hill was awarded his first Purple Heart for wounds received while serving with the Sixth Cavalry Division. With this mechanized unit he fought through France, Luxembourg, Germany and Czechoslovakia.

He served two tours of duty in Korea. The first time he was assigned to the 69th Tank Battalion from 1950 to 1951. Returning to the United States, Hill volunteered to go back to Korea as soon as he was eligible. He served with the 69th Tank Battalion on his second tour in 1953.

Hill received his first Silver Star for heroic action in leading a mine-sweeping detail. When heavy enemy resistance killed or wounded every other member of his detail, Hill continued on alone, clearing a path for American troops.

Two months later Sgt. Hill led a reconnaissance patrol behind the enemy lines to gain information. The group was successful, but one member of the patrol fell wounded by enemy fire.

When the group returned to their own lines and delivered the report, Sgt. Hill asked permission to go after the wounded man. He disappeared once more behind the enemy lines in the darkness of the night and returned safely with the casualty.

Although wounded once more in the face and once in the arm, Sgt. Hill managed to return to the front lines each time following hospitalization.

His luck ran out in July, 1953, however, when he was captured by the Communists. He was interned in a POW camp until repatriation after the armistice.

M-Sgt. Hill recently joined Tank Company as first sergeant after serving with Headquarters and Service Company, 73rd Tank Battalion. He is a native of Hawkinsville, Ga.

Army to Adopt New MOS Plan in 1955

WASHINGTON (A.F.P.S.)—The Army is planning a sweeping overhaul of its enlisted MOS program. April 1, 1955 has been tentatively set as the target date to replace the present MOS system. The Army believes the new one will cut training costs and time, produce men qualified to fill a greater number of jobs and lead to increased efficiency.

Under the new structure all the Army's enlisted jobs are divided into 10 major categories, called Occupational Areas. These areas group jobs according to their similarity of skills and aptitudes.

The 10 areas are: combat, graphics, precision maintenance, military crafts, motor maintenance, electronics, electrical maintenance, clerical and supply, general technical, and special assignment.

The biggest innovation in the new system is the use of an entry MOS, which is assigned on the basis of either aptitude or previous training and experience. The needs of the service at the particular moment, of course, remain the most important factor.

Each of the 49 entry MOSs includes jobs on an elementary or helper level in a number of advanced MOSs. This is designed to encourage broad initial training in the basic skills needed for several related specialties, rather than in a single MOS, as is now the case.

A man so trained could handle on a helper level any of a number of jobs in the same area. After assignment to a unit and on-the-job experience, he would get an advanced MOS.

Another new feature identifies the level of skill or leadership within an MOS. Thus, a man's skill ranging from the helper level up to advanced specialist or superior, can easily be ascertained. In stead of requisitioning a man merely by MOS, a unit commander will be able to request one at the precise level of skill needed.

Advanced skill ratings will not depend on pay grade and EM will not be denied skilled MOSs because they lack sufficient rank. Advanced ratings can also be given for training and experience gained before entering the Army.

The new MOS code number consists of three digits, followed by a decimal point and then by one or two more digits. The first digit represents one of the 10 major occupational areas, the next stands for the entry MOS and the third for the specific job. The first digit after the decimal point indicates the level of skill and the final digit shows special abilities such as parachutist, linguist or instructor.

Thus, an MOS of 11278 would be given to a combat (1) infantry (1) rifle squad (2) leader (7) who was also an instructor (8).

DA Pamphlet No. 29-43, already in its way to the field, describes the new enlisted MOS system, and the Army says it will keep its field units informed as a definite time schedule is worked out.

The new system takes into consideration the changing demands of modern warfare. The Army's goal is to keep itself flexible and expandable to accommodate changes in unit mission, as well as technological developments, such as guided missiles.

3 Pupils Discuss Native Education

Three Allied students described the education system in the 10 countries at a meeting Tuesday of the Benning Hills Parent-Teachers Association.

Taking part in the program were Col. Panom Chodpimai of Thailand, Major Mohammed Ali Sobhant of Iran and Capt. Manuel De Maetzu Hill of Spain. All are students in the advanced officers class.

They were introduced by U. S. Army Capt. Robert W. Crowley, assistant secretary of The Infantry School.

Regulations and forms implementing the home loan provisions for career servicemen recently approved by Congress will be ready for distribution shortly. To qualify, a person must have been on active duty for more than two years and be in need of housing. Upon application, the serviceman will be issued a "Certificate of Eligibility" which may be presented to a bank as evidence of his being eligible for the benefits of the new act, provided he meets GHA requirements.

As CG in mid-November. Also assigned to the 25th Div. is Col. George P. Welch, USA, the Deputy Chief of Army Information. He will command the division artillery, Brig. Gen. Theodore S. Riggs, USA, now a faculty member of the National War College, will succeed Col. Welch as Deputy Chief of Army Information.

A selection board report recommending 442 majors for temporary promotion to lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps, has been approved by the President.

The 3000-ton destroyer leader USS Willis A. Lee—the newest of the Navy's four Mitscher-class destroyers—has been commissioned at the Boston Naval Shipyard. The Lee has a complement of 23 officers and 520 EM.

The Army has approved the construction of 500 rental units at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz. The housing project will be privately financed. It will be built on government-owned land and leased to the sponsor, who will be chosen by competitive bidding.

The U.S. will begin sending military equipment to Pakistan this month under a mutual defense pact which was signed last May. The initial shipment is expected to include mostly Army-type weapons.

The last B-29 bomber wing in the Far East will return to the U. S. late in October to be converted into a B-57 Stratojet unit. The 307th Medium Bomb Wing will leave Kadena AB, Okinawa, in three groups. The B-29s will be stored at Davis-Monthan AFB, Neb., and members of the wing will check out in jets at Lincoln AFB, Neb.

The Army's Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff (G-1) Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, US, has been assigned command of the 25th Inf. Div. in Hawaii. He will take over

Army Takes Over Ike's Car

By Armed Forces Press Service
The Army has relieved the Navy of caring for the President's railroad car, the Ferdinand Magellan, at the personal request of the President. It has the responsibility of maintenance and repair on what is known officially as "U. S. Car No. One." While no official reason was given for the shifting of the honor, it was noted that the change was in line with the present policy of having the Army handle ground functions, the Navy sea functions and the Air Force aviation functions.

The Navy is looking for qualified EM to apply for appointment in its NROTC program for the 1955-56 school year. Only a few applications have been received thus far even though completion of the program means a four-year college education, partially financed by the government, plus a commission in the Navy or Marine Corps. Males between 17 and 21 are eligible to apply. Final filing date is Oct. 20.

With the fall hunting season here, the Air Force has reminded its personnel that privately-owned weapons will not be brought onto

Son Is Born Here To Maj., Mrs. Butler

A son, John Lehman Butler, was born at the United States Army Hospital here on September 25 to Major and Mrs. Donald A. Butler.

Major Butler is an instructional team chief and an instructor with Army Field Force Board No. 3.

Mrs. Butler is the daughter of Maj. Gen. (Ret.) Raymond G. Lehman.

Mascot Upsets Inspection Tour

The commanding officer of Second Battalion, 38th Infantry Regiment, Lt. Col. Charles Gibson, was recently showing a visitor around the battalion area when they received an unexpected reception.

Upon entering a three-man room on the first floor of Company 2, the visitors expected to find highly polished floors, well made beds and shined shoes.

All this was found but in addition was Patsy, battalion mascot, much to the consternation of the company commander.

Wagging her tail in the best welcoming mood, Patsy merely grinned at the visitors.

The battalion commanders only comment: "What a fine looking dog."

Mifflin Named To Cmmdt. Post

Col. Thomas Mifflin of Philadelphia, Pa., has been named deputy assistant commandant of The Infantry School. It was announced by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper.

Col. Mifflin's former position as director of the Weapons Department will be filled by Col. Charles F. Leonard, Jr., of St. Petersburg, Fla., effective Oct. 25.

The deputy assistant commandant's post had been vacant since the departure of Col. John M. Hightower for the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Now on his fifth tour of duty at Fort Benning, Col. Mifflin arrived at The Infantry Center in September, 1952, to become deputy director of the Weapons Department. He was appointed director in May, 1953.

WINS CITATION... Sfc. Woodrow Morgan, Company A, First Special Troops Battalion, is congratulated by Major Robert G. Stevens, battalion executive officer, upon receiving the Bronze Star Medal. Sgt. Morgan, a Korean veteran, is attached to the Post Signal Corps.

Students Give Party In 18th Co. Day Room

An example of the general high spirits among officers taking training in the School Brigade was evidenced recently when 18th Company, Basic Infantry Officers Class, gave a party in the company day room.

The only U. S. Navy officer to hold the rank of Admiral of the Navy was ADM George Dewey, who died in 1917.

Students Give Party In 18th Co. Day Room

The affair was given by the two high-scoring platoons in the rifle marksmanship.

Gold cups were presented the high scorers, Lt. E. E. Passmore, Lt. S. P. Walker, and Lt. A. E. Herlitz.

Profs Earn Name Being Scholars

What's in a name? How did the Infantry School Detachment Baseball team get the name "Professors"? Although the reason is that many ISD personnel work as assistant instructors with the departments of The Infantry School, Pfc. Robert Jorgensen, TIAE NCO of the unit, believes there is another reason for the title.

Recent reports from the seven companies of the unit show that 122 ISD men have college degrees while a total of 384 have some college training. Further analysis of the education reports revealed that over 1100 men are high school graduates. That's well over half the men in the detachment. Enough to rate the name —PROFESSORS— according to Jorgensen.

Joseph B. Rabun Promoted to Capt.

Joseph B. Rabun of Waycross, Ga., has been promoted to captain.

Administrative officer for The Infantry School's director of instruction, Capt. Rabun was first at Fort Benning in 1936-1937 with the 6th Infantry Light Tanks Regiment. He was assigned to the Book Department and Publications and Visual Aids Office here in 1940-1941 and from 1946 to 1949 was in the Operations Office. He began his current tour here in April, 1953.

MACHINE GUNNER

An officer candidate who is adding to an already abundant store of military knowledge is OC Rene S. Marfull of 13th OC Company. In Korea he was assigned to the First Cavalry Division as a machine gunner and won the Bronze Star with V-device for his part in a volunteer assault on an enemy entrenchment.

Brigade Rams Sunday 20-0. Opening the season in the cellar, due to a loss to 136, the Blues are now in second place, one-half game out of first. The Rams were tied for first before meeting the 30th and were bounced to a third place tie with three other teams.

First quarter action showed the trend of the game, when Ram halfback Ed Crooks was trapped 18 yds behind the line of scrimmage. The Blue Jackets took over, scored an early touchdown and were never headed.

Conrad Deskins scored in the first period. Although the second quarter was scoreless, the Rams continued to buck a strong Blue Jacket line.

Only one minute and forty seconds after the second half started, the 30th scored its second TD. A pass from Clyde Young to Deskins again set up the score.

Hardy cornerback Yale Larr was a hunted man all afternoon, and for repeated losses by the hard-rushing Blue Jacket line. On one play, Larry was set back 28 yards.

Bobby Moorhead of the 30th scored the game's third TD. The former Georgia Tech star went from seven yards out. Deskins tallied the extra point.

913th Leads Medic Loop

In volleyball last week the 913th Med. Co. continued to be the team to beat in the 54th Medical Group league. Led by Al Keller and George Griffin they moved through four games with comparative ease.

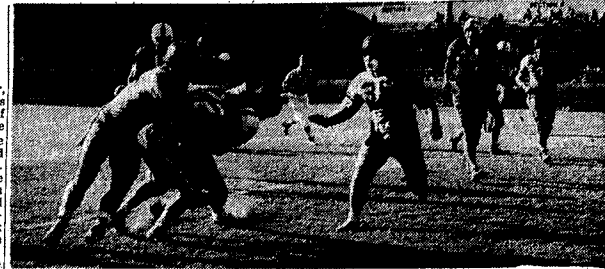

Hq. Det. took over second place with wins over the 932nd Med. Co., 551st Med. Co. and 50th Med. Co., who dropped into third place losing four straight games.

Two each to the 913th and Hq. Detachment.

The 551st Med. Co. split four games to move into fourth place leaving the cellar spot to the winless 932nd Med. Co. who have dropped eight consecutive games.

Hq. Det. Wins Squeaker To Lead 54th Grid Loop

Action in the 54th Medical Group football league last week saw the Hq. Det. lead the league at the end of the second week of play.

Paced by the running and passing of little Clyde Miller the 932d opened the week's schedule with a 15-6 win over the 50th Med. Co.

The big game of the week found Hq. Det. squeaking by the 24th Evac Hosp 27-26, in a close game.

Headquarters took the opening kickoff and five plays later scored on a pass from Tom Harden to Frank Haering. John LaMittina caught a Harden pass for the extra point.

To date, STC has only one team that carries the STC tag. That is football eleven, but, in the near future, STC will have an 11-man basketball squad composed of men presently playing on company level teams.

There are 14 company level hoop squads active at present. One of the things that will likely prove popular to the colonel-named is the formation of STC's bowling league scheduled to start Monday night.

The command has, at present, 13 active fighters in all weights. These men have shown an amazing amount of skill. The only item lacking in these hardies has been the amount they have received from STC personnel.

The commanding officer earnestly urges all personnel from STC to go out and support their respective teams by the most effectual method. . . be there when they play.

Williams Wins CTC Pool Tourney

Raymond S. Williams became the champion of an eight ball pool tournament held by Service Battery of the 150th Field Artillery Battalion.

Williams demonstrated his accuracy on the table by eliminating William Thompson and Wesley C. Mossel in the finals for the eight ball championship crown.

Williams, who copped a sport shirt for his achievement, attributes his success to the practice he attained on a pool table at his home in Keokuk, Iowa.

ISD Cage Loop Enters Last Week

The Infantry School Detachment Intramural Basketball League, sporting teams from each of the seven companies of the unit, is now in the final week of competition.

Leading the league with a perfect 4-0 record is Company F. The closest competition is for second place with Companies G and E tied with three wins and one loss each.

All-Post in 1953 Ed Crook, Brigade halfback, was All-Post at Fort Benning in 1953 and received 25 votes on the All-Army team.

Here's the Answer

SOMETHING NEW... This anti-radar, which prevents a radar to see a target in the dark, has been developed by U. S. Army equipment since WW II. But the Corps of Engineers' Research and Development Laboratories, Ft. Belvoir, Va., recently announced some important improvements in the electronic, infrared device. The new model has longer range, is more accurate, and of more durable construction. The new scope owes most of its improved performance to a more powerful image tube of 20 thousand volts instead of the former four thousand volts.

Pfc. Fails In Pass Try

Sfc. Terry H. Scott, first sergeant of D Company of the School Brigade, made a believer out of one of his cadremen a few days ago.

Pfc. Goodson asked the 36-year-old sergeant what he had to do to get a three-day pass. The sergeant told him if he could do twice as many conventional push-ups as the sergeant could do with one arm, he would get his pass.

The cadremen eagerly hit the floor and proceeded to knock out 54, after which the sergeant dropped down to the one-arm position and finished off 28.

Scott asked the PFC. If he had any questions. Needless to say, there were none.

Sfc. K. T. Henry of the 87th Chemical Company, 180th Field Artillery Battalion, recently was commissioned upon the United States Infantry, in the Army Reserve.

Sfc. Henry joined the unit in July 1952, after an overseas tour in the Far East.

After exploring numerous means of becoming an officer, he first decided upon the United States Military Academy, but later learned that his marriage had eliminated this possibility. He then turned to Officer Candidate School and while procuring application blanks he got wind of the Army Extension Courses. With the hope of obtaining his commission a little faster, he held his OCS application and applied for Extension Course Series 10.

Within several months Henry had completed the course and, in late 1953, applied for his reserve commission. He was happy when informed that the Department of the Army had approved his request.

"It's better to hold two grades than to hold one," he said.

165 Korean Officers Take Class for Allied Officers

Officers arrive by train for school. Capt. Chin Pong Ho, Lt. Pak Jo Kwan, Capt. Nam Yong Ho.

One hundred sixty-eight Republic of Korea Army officers, the eighth group to train at The Infantry School, are in their second week of training in the associate course for Allied officers.

Senior officer in the new class is Lt. Col. Choi Min Do, U. S. Army Capt. John Pensino of Vineyard, N. J., acted as escort officer on the trip from Korea.

The class stopped in Denver, Colo., Ogden, Utah, and Carbondale, Ill., enroute to Fort Benning. As for San Francisco, Capt. Pensino said:

"There was so much fog we couldn't even see the Golden Gate Bridge when we arrived."

During the 20-week course the officers will receive instruction by the Weapons, Tactical, Communications, Automotive, Airborne and Staff Departments.

Purpose of the course is to train Allied students in a working knowledge of U. S. weapons, tactics and techniques, with emphasis on the duties of company commanders and battalion staff officers.

Seoul, Korea (AFPS)—The North Korean Communists have released two Americans—Lt. Col. Herbert A. Peters, USMC, and Army Pfc. Charles Julius—both of whom were captured after the Korean truce.

Col. Peters was held for eight months, Pfc. Julius for five. They were the first prisoners released by the Reds since the end of Big Switch more than a year ago.

Col. Peters was captured Feb. 5, 1954, when he lost his bearings on a routine flight and landed his L-9 on a Communist air strip near Kaesong. Pfc. Julius was seized by a Red patrol after he had stepped on a land mine in the demilitarized zone.

Col. Peters was a member of the 1st Marine Air Wing, Pfc. Julius was attached to Btry. A, 186th FA Bn.

Dad's Club Is Renamed

New officers have been elected and a new name chosen for the Fort Benning Dad's Club. Elected president of the reorganized club, now to be known as the Post Youth Activities Club was Col. Lester L. Wheeler of Chevy Chase, Md.

Other new officers include Lt. Col. Norman A. Campbell of Ocala Grove, N. J., first vice president; Chaplain (Major) John D. Quick of Bonham, Texas, second vice president, and M-Sgt. D. P. Jenkins of Columbus.

Members also voted to broaden the scope of the club to include women and parents with children below school age. The club now will sponsor activities for children from "the cradle through the teens," according to officials.

Before its scope was broadened, the club's activities were limited to children of school age.

The club was started in November, 1952, and programs included at that time: Scouting, swimming, Little League baseball and basketball, a Junior Rifle Club.

SHADOWS OF THE PAST... 30th Infantry Bugler of the Guard upholds old Army traditions.

30th Revives 'Olden Days' With Regular Bugle Calls

Old soldiers of the 30th Infantry bugler of the guard completes his Regiment have been observing a sight which recalls by-gone days—the bugler of the guard blowing daily calls.

As the familiar strains of reveille, retreat, and taps come through the air, old-timers are reminded of former days when buglers were the pride of an Army unit.

These present day buglers are all members of the regiment's Drum and Bugle Corps of Headquarters and Headquarters Company.

As well as performing with the group for reviews and other functions, each bugler is on duty roster with the 30th Infantry guard mount as bugler of the guard. His duty hours are the same as other members and he plays all calls related to the informal mount along with other duty calls.

The day begins with "Reveille" which includes "First Call," "March and Reveille," and "Assembly." Throughout the day numerous drill and fatigue calls are also given. On each Sunday morning "Church Call" is added.

When the sun sets, retreat is called. The bugler then plays "Assembly," "Retreat" and "To the Colors."

Later during the night the traditional "tattoo" and "Call to Quarters" remind soldiers that the end of another day in the Army is nearing.

Finally, with the playing of the somber "Taps" at 11:00 p.m. the Employer to beautiful blonde who has filed a job application: "Miss Jones, under 'Experience,' could you be a little more specific than just 'Oh, Boy!'"

Then there was the bright lad who, when his mother began to learn to drive, nicknamed her "Oh Ma, the dent maker."

Halloween Carnival

Hob-Goblins, Witches Plan Gowdy Field Visit Saturday

If you have a very young imagination you'll probably see witches and hob-goblins in the skies over Gowdy Field this Saturday night. Of course, they'll not really be there, except in the mind's eye of the hundreds of youngsters anxiously awaiting the gala Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

There will be some 40 booths where games of skill and other exciting features will be available. These will include a bigger and better Junior Jump Tower, where youngsters can "go Airborne," a leap merry-go-round, train ride, ball-at-face, shooting gallery, photo-white-U-wait, fish pond and even a Roy Rogers horse.

Also there will be hot dogs, donuts, cider, coffee, ice cream, cold drinks and a gigantic cake and white elephant sale.

Grand prizes to be given away during the evening include bicycles, turkeys, hams, a large doll and large mechanical toy.

Before the opening of the carnival there will be a costume contest and hob-goblins in the skies over Gowdy Field this Saturday night. Of course, they'll not really be there, except in the mind's eye of the hundreds of youngsters anxiously awaiting the gala Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

COSTUME 'BLOOMS' WATERED . . . Four-year-old Lily Hugar, right, daughter of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Charles J. Directing Traffic

MPs in Korea Using Luminous Sleeves

SEOUL — The Army is using "spooks" to direct traffic in Korea. However, the ghostly figures—soldier-drivers see in their headlights are nothing more than glowing military policemen. The spook effect comes from a set of luminous sleeves that glow in the dark. The sleeve set fits over the policeman's outer clothing and adjusts with strips of the same luminous material across the back. Arm length arrows on the sleeves help attract attention to traffic directions. This innovation — latest Army aid to traffic safety — is becoming familiar to Army drivers at many busy intersections in Korea.

MP "SPOOKS" use glowing sleeves to help direct traffic in Korea.

Army Medical Corps Col. John C. McKissick of Covington Grove, Bowling Green, Ky., commanding officer of the 24th Evacuation Hospital, is returning to private practice. He was recently senior military adviser to the surgeon general of the Republic of Korea. Col. McKissick commanded the 50th Station Hospital at Fort Dix, N. J., and the 87th Station Hospital in Iceland. His awards include the Legion of Merit and Purple Heart.

T. A. Barefoot Wins Honor

An outstanding job performance rating has been awarded T. A. Barefoot of Columbus, director of the Civilian Personnel Division at Fort Benning since September, 1947. In announcing the award, Lt. Col. Dav'k G. Wilson, acting chairman of the Performance Appraisal Committee, said: "The presentation was made by Col. Sidney S. Sogard, Infantry Center adjutant general. Barefoot came to Fort Benning in October, 1946, and was assigned to the Quartermaster and Engineer Sections before the Civilian Personnel Division was organized as a separate unit. He then served as chief of the Employee Relations Branch and as assistant chief of the division. AIOC Class Plans Oct. 30 Graduation The Associate Infantry Officer Advance Class No. 1 of Third Company, 1st School Brigade, is in its 13th week and will graduate on Oct. 30. Infantry Officers Advance Class No. 2 entered its 4th week of intensive training. Three Awards Given by 41st

The 41st Field Artillery Battalion presented three awards, including a commendation ribbon, at a review recently.

CWO Charles W. Lowe Jr. was cited for meritorious service from April 1952 to March 1953 while serving as personnel officer for the 82nd Field Artillery Battalion. Mr. Lowe demonstrated outstanding leadership ability and administrative knowledge. Because of his untiring efforts to properly implement directives, he maintained personnel administration at a superior level. Mr. Lowe is presently the personnel officer for the battalion.

Awards were also presented for the best soldier of the month and the best battery of the month.

Coping the honors for the best soldier was Cpl. Elmer R. Walls of Headquarters Battery, C.P. 1. Walls, an instrument operator for the Battalion Survey section, received the award on the basis of his outstanding accomplishments, his military bearing and knowledge, his personal appearance and courtesy.

Service Battery was presented the plaque for the best battery of the month following competitive spot check inspections of barracks, mess halls, supply rooms, equipment and efficiency of operating procedures. The plaque has a large shield type background with the battalion crest mounted in the center. Surrounding the battalion crest are 12 individual metal tabs which bear the names of the best battery of the month for the next 12 months and will be rotated by the battery coping the title for the most times during that period.

18th Co. Spends Week on Range

M-1 rifle marksmanship was the popular subject among the student officers of the 18th Company last week.

The company spent most of its time at McAndrew Range and because of the determination and high spirit demonstrated by its members, the company was able to make a commendable record for itself.

With 201 officers firing, 37 fired expert, 20 fired marksman, and 112 made sharpshooter. Only two failed to qualify.

Gold cups were presented to the three top scorers, Lt. E. E. Passmore, who fired 224; Lt. S. F. Walker, who scored 230, and Lt. A. E. Hortlitz, who fired 230.

At $10 an Acre We Get New Trees 3A Forestry Program Lauded

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Fort McPherson, Ga. — A letter from the Chief of Engineers, Department of the Army, is adding impetus to the Third Army's already active reforestation program. Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general, has announced.

For many years it has been the policy of installations to plant trees on the available land at the many installations in the area, and today the Third Army boasts of several hundred thousand acres of forest land.

In the letter, the Chief of Engineers said reforestation is a phase of proper grounds maintenance on reservations. Burned areas and old fields need trees for furnishing seed that would reforest such lands by natural means. Further, reforestation has been found to be one of the most economical means of controlling wind and weather erosion. Forested lands in most cases are suitable for nearly all types of military training, the principal exception being problems in which gun firing is involved.

$10 Per Acre

Forests can be set out at a cost of about $10 per acre, harvesting the trees will last until about 70 years of age. At that age, a few trees are left when a final cutting is made to reseed the ground with young trees. By this method an area of land becomes a perpetual forest, as the young seedlings which have sprouted up shortly after the last saw timber has been harvested will soon be large enough for the pulpwood cutters to begin the thinning out process.

Large forests are to be found at such Third Army installations as Forts Campbell, Ky., McClellan, Ala., Jackson, S. C., and Benning and at Camps Gordon and Stewart, Ga. The Anniston, Ala., Ordnance Depot also has large forested areas.

The yield of pulpwood and saw timber at Third Army installations aggregates approximately $1,000,000 per year.

AEC Atomic Tests Slated For Nevada in Early 1955

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The scheduled for the Pacific at the present time. He added that tests would continue as weapons development proceeds.

The AEC has warned public officials, ranchers, miners and others in southwestern Utah and southern Nevada that it is preparing the Nevada proving ground west of Las Vegas for a series of atomic tests, probably about mid-February.

The brief announcement said the test series of tests would conform generally with those previously conducted in Nevada. That would include participation and support by the Defense Department and Federal Civil Defense Administration.

The last tests in Nevada were in the spring and early summer of 1952. One of those tests included a demonstration attended by civil defense experts and newsmen.

The announcement of the tests suggested that there might be no tests at the Eniwetok proving grounds before next fall or the following spring.

The large technical staffs needed to conduct the tests rule out the possibility of simultaneous testing at Nevada and Eniwetok which are about 5,000 miles apart.

In an interview, RADM Lewis Strauss, USNR, chairman of the AEC, said that no tests have been

Hi-Fi Craze Hits Benning With a Bang

The bug has hit Fort Benning. It's Hi-Fi—the sweetest music this side of spyglass's heaven. Before the appearance of a certain advertisement in The Bayonet last week, it is safe to say that nobody realized to what extent high fidelity reproduction of the world's best music had invaded the post.

But since then, lo and behold, many of the best people on post have been found with the "bug." Not that having the bug is bad, understand. Conversely, it is very good indeed. And expensive — if you've got a barrel of money.

If you don't have the barrel, high fidelity — the desire for good music on good records — can come at a modest price. That's partly why Robert Hannah and Milton Hirsch set up their store in Columbus, or, rather, their "club." For it is more like a lounging place where one may go to hear and learn about high fidelity than a shop dedicated to profits.

Among Fort Benning personnel already wise in the ways of Hi-Fi are Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, Jr., director of the Tactical Department of The Infantry School; Lt. Col. Walford K. White, Maj. Ed. Rios, and Capt. Phillip Karl, all of the Staff Dept. Maj. Rios' home-built set, according to those who have seen and heard it, is "Hi-Fi" himself.

Best of all, some believe, is the fact that records can be had at the Fort Benning Book Store, which has all of you to drop around and see for yourself.

Hi-Fi ideas and advice are given for the asking by Maj. Rios.

How Many of These Offenses Does Your Jalopying Cause?

Potentially, there were 31 killed and 5 actually killed in the following list of the vehicle accidents which happened since August 1 to post soldiers.

Study descriptions of these common fatal accidents and determine which actually killed soldiers, you can. Avoid making commonplace self-deceptive generalities and face the facts. Think how the real causes and contributing factors may be similar to your own mistakes, attitudes, and driving habits.

Can you pick out the actual fatal accident?

CASE NO. 1: Vehicle struck bridge abutment at 40 mph after a vehicle entered his path.

CAUSES: Whiskey and lack of sleep. Two soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 2: Vehicle went off road at high speed. CAUSES: Passenger (owner of car) did not insist on stopping and did not try to keep driver awake. Both soldiers fell asleep. Driver previously asked his buddy to drive but deliberately continued to drive though sleepy. Two soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 3: Vehicle went off road. CAUSES: Driver deliberately operated his vehicle while sleepy. One soldier involved in accident.

CASE NO. 4: Vehicle demolished when it went off left side of road at high speed. CAUSES: Driver deliberately operated the vehicle while sleepy. Two soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 5: Three hitch-hikers accepted a ride to Columbus offered by another soldier. The driver had been drinking. In one instance he exceeded 100 miles an hour and later crashed into a pole at 70 mph on a curve. Four soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 6: Speed limit 10 mph. Jeep speed was 22 mph on bad dirt road which had deep ruts. Driver failed to decelerate, failed to maintain a safe stopping distance, deliberately maltreated the jeep at such speed, and tried to make a sharp turn. The vehicle skidded, hit a rut and turned over. Two soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 7: Soldier failed to maintain safe stopping distance. He applied brakes on loose sand and dirt and motorcycle turned over. One soldier involved.

CASE NO. 8: Vehicle hit a narrow bridge at high speed and turned over. Driver fell asleep. Passengers willfully neglected to help him stay awake by falling asleep themselves. Three soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 9: Soldier made a slow left turn into the path of another soldier's speeding vehicle. CAUSES: drink and failure to maintain safe stopping distance. $3900 damage. Six soldiers involved in accident.

CASE NO. 10: Vehicle crashed into rear of a stopped car. CAUSES: Drink. Buddies (one of them the owner) fell asleep and failed to insist that driver stop driving. Four soldiers involved.

CASE NO. 11: Vehicle crashed into rear of a very slow moving tractor trailer. CAUSES: Failure to look far ahead, failure to decelerate until too late and possibly overdriving headlights. Four soldiers involved.

MARINE LAUDED... Marine Corps Major Frank C. Caldwell of Spartanburg, S. A student in the officers advanced course, Major Caldwell received the commendation at special ceremonies.

Medal of Honor Winner Cpl. Mows Down 37 Enemy

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, FORT MCPHERSON, Ga.

A 21-year-old Tennessee-born Army infantryman who left 38 enemy dead after his machine gun position in Korea during a series of furious assaults before he was killed in action has been awarded the Medal of Honor.

The Department of the Army announced that Cpl. Charles F. Pendleton, of Fort Worth, Texas, won the nation's highest award for courage above and beyond the call of duty for his action against the enemy in Choe Gung-Dong, Korea, during the night of July 18 and early morning hours of July 17, 1953. He was a machine gunner with Company D, 15th Infantry Regiment of the Third Infantry Division.

When Pendleton's heavy weapons company moved out the night of July 16, it was given the mission of securing ground on forward positions and setting up a defensive perimeter on the strategically commanding ground.

Violent fighting broke out almost as soon as the defensive perimeter had been established. An enemy force of large size launched the attack. Pendleton was the first to see the enemy approach. Using his machine gun, he directed deadly accurate firing into the ranks of the hostile forces, killing about 15 of his troops.

Then he began throwing grenades as rapidly as possible. This almost completely disorganized the enemy's attacking forces.

Still pressing the fight against the enemy, Pendleton returned to his machine gun, but due to the narrowness of his trench he could not properly place the machine gun on the tripod and still protect the flanks of his unit. First Lt. Russell B. Morgan, of Fort Logan, Colo., a platoon leader in the heavy weapons company, has given an eyewitness account of what happened next.

"Cpl. Pendleton picked the machine gun up and, placing it upon his knee, began firing from that position. At one time I saw him spin around and kill an enemy soldier who had jumped into the trench and was about to throw a grenade upon us. Due to his deadly fire, the enemy withdrew to the bottom of the hill and regrouped for another assault. As they began their second attack full force, I saw Cpl. Pendleton again begin firing, refusing to seek cover, though he was dangerously exposed to the enemy fire.

"While the fighting was going on, a grenade landed a few feet away from him on the trench ridge. I saw him jump over, pick it up and throw it down the hill. A few minutes later another grenade landed in his position, wounding him in the shoulder and chest, but he refused medical aid and continued firing on the enemy."

Leg Burned

"The hot shells being ejected from the machine gun were burning his legs, but he would not move from his position. When another bursting grenade destroyed

Capt. Miles C. Vaughan clears up the mystery of the GM angle for the advanced as well as "green" map reader in an article called "GM Angle." Problem of the Past. Capt. Vaughan discovered, and presents, for the first time in print, what is known as the False Line of Sight Method of determining the GM angle. The government provides a variety of survivors' benefits for Army dependents; yet too often wives and other dependents fail to collect their benefits through lack of knowledge of the soldier's insurance program and of their own pension rights. Major R. V. Talbot, but rather stresses good shooting habits.

Unit fund administration is covered in detail in a question-and-answer article by Captain Delmar A. Pugh, complete with examples in statements and a glossary. This report should be of great interest to post, president and/or potential unit fund administrators.

BELGIAN WELCOMED.... Belgian Army Capt. Georges Daene, left, is welcomed to Fort Benning by Lt. Col. C. M. Easley Jr., chief of The Infantry School's Allied Liaison Section. Capt. Daene, a student in the associate Infantry officers advanced class, is representative of the officers and men from 33 free nations of the world who study here under the provisions of the Allied Training Program.

for assignment to the Fort Benning hospital.
His decorations include the Bronze Star Medal, which he earned during landing operations in 1944 in New Guinea, and the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant, awarded for service as sergeant major of a 5,000-bed prisoner of war hospital on Kofe Island.

8th to Dismantle Freedom Village

SEOUL Korea (APPS)—The Eighth Army has ordered the dismantling of Freedom Village, the first stop for United States prisoners of war repatriated last year.
The same unit which constructed the memorable village, the 84th Engr. Combat Bn., has been given the task of tearing down the warhouse used to process 4,800 ex-P.O.W.s in the 32-day repatriation that started last August in Munsan.

OUTSTANDING... Mrs. Lillian Lawson, a civilian employe in the Adjutant General's Section, is presented official notification of an outstanding job performance rating by Lt. Col. John Moeck Jr., assistant adjutant general. Mrs. Lawson has been a Civil Service employe at Fort Benning since 1941 and is a unit chief clerk.

No Womanly Instincts Here

WAC Sharp on Detector Know-How

FORT DIX, N. J.—Most WACs depend upon their womanly instincts to determine when a man is lying—but Capt. Marian K. Rice of Woodbury, N. J., uses a lie detector.
"All in line of duty," you understand.
Capt. Rice, who has been detailed from the Women's Army Corps to the Military Police since 1949, is the only woman graduate of the Lie Detector Course at the Provost Marshal General School, Camp Gordon, Ga.
The course, which runs for nine weeks and includes college level physiology and psychology as well as instruction in use of the polygraph, trains lie detector operators for the other services as well as the Army.

Proud of School
Capt. Rice, a criminal investigator as well as a lie detector operator, is justifiably proud of having completed this most difficult of all MP schools.
"As you know," she said, "the Provost Marshal General—Maj. Gen. William H. Maglin—takes the attitude that the lie detector is only as good as the people who operate it. That is why the Army is so careful about the course of instruction and the people it graduates."
"The lie detector is only a machine—an aid in police interrogation. Too many inexperienced people use it as a crutch, a substitute for good police investigation and interrogation. It is no substitute. It is just another aid to the police officer, whether he be civilian or MP."

Truth Detector Too
"After all, it's a truth detector as well as a lie detector."
Army MPs are taught extreme caution in use of the machine. Operators run not one but a series of interviews before reporting results.
"Sometimes," said Capt. Rice, "I don't have to run even one test. When a suspect is brought to me, I always say at the outset, 'Only one of us knows whether you are guilty—you. When we are through with these tests, we'll both know.'"
"It's amazing how many of the really guilty ones will confess right then and there."

Some Can't Be Read
She said that when errors were made by inexperienced lie detector operators, the mistakes usually showed a guilty person to be innocent. But sometimes, neither the machine nor the operator who reads the charts can give positive answers. Some people can't be "read" by the lie detector. Pathological criminals with no sense of right or wrong have no guilt feelings, and mentally unbalanced and highly neurotic persons can't even record the truth about their own given names.

"Illnesses such as the common cold also void scientific lie detection tests. The machine depends upon respiration as well as pulse rate to tell its story."
Army lie detector operators wear white coats instead of uniforms—"the better to affirm the scientific nature of their job," said Capt. Rice.

Luxembourg Lts. Training on Post

The role of a student in a foreign military school is nothing new for two Luxembourg Army officers currently enrolled in Associate Infantry Officers Advance Class Number one.

Both First Lt. Robert J. Kayser and First Lt. Albert W. Lucas previously studied at United States and British Army Schools in Europe.

Lt. Kayser, who fought in World War II as an enlisted artilleryman in the Belgium forces, also has studied in Swiss Schools. While there he took the all-arms course.
Lt. Lucas attended the Royal military Academy of Belgium. Upon termination of training, both will return to Luxembourg. They are presently attached to Third Company of the School Brigade.

Breaking a mirror is a good sign—it means you're going to live at least another seven years.

Ex-All-American Taking BIOC Here

A former All-American is now attending BIOC instruction at Fort Benning. He is Second Lt. William Dozier, 104th Company, the School Brigade.
The burly back from Ambridge, Penn., was lined up to play with the Chicago Cardinals professional pigskin team, but was called on active duty before the season started. After attending Airborne School and completing his tour of active duty, Dozier hopes to return to the 197 pound Indiana player earning three varsity letters in football. VA Protects Vets' Homes By Warranty

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Veterans Administration has announced new financial protection for veterans who purchase homes under the WWII and Korea GI Bills.
A one-year warranty is to be issued on homes bought by veterans, guaranteeing that construction is in "substantial conformity" with VA approved plans and specifications. The new regulation went into effect on Oct. 1, under provisions of the Housing Act of 1954.

But it applies only to new homes for which VA issues a Certificate of Reasonable Value on or after that date. The warranty does not cover homes already built.

The VA explained that the builders or sellers of new houses are required to give veterans who purchase them a warranty in a form prescribed by VA.
Before VA will guarantee or insure a loan for the purchase of the house, a copy of the warranty must be forwarded to the local VA office by the veteran.
In some instances, veterans purchase homes under terms set by the Federal Housing Administration, rather than VA. Warranty terms stipulated by VA and FHA are identical. But, in these cases, the warranty form prescribed by FHA will be used.

The VA stressed that, under the terms of the warranty, the veteran who buys a home is relied upon to enforce his rights.
He must give notice that the builder failed to comply with construction specifications within twelve months after moving in or taking title, whichever is earlier. If the veteran does not attempt to do so, the warranty does not hold.

cost of the additional fluid milk. The remainder of the cost will be paid by the respective services.
Fluid milk used by the Armed Forces usually is purchased in the vicinity of the installation where it is to be served. It is expected that the additional quantities purchased under the new ration will be obtained in the same manner.
Public Law 690 also provides for surplus stocks of butter, cheese and non-fat dry milk solids to be turned over to the Armed Forces by the Agriculture Dept.

Unbeaten 164 Faces 135th In Key Game

BY JACK MILLER
Another action-packed weekend awaits grid fans as three games roll into the spotlight. Friday night at 7:30, the School Brigade Rams are scheduled to play the Green Wave of Special Troops in a game that was formerly set up for Sunday afternoon. Saturday at 2 p.m. the top-seeded 135th Inf. Flickertails will collide with the 155th Inf., and Sunday afternoon the 30th Inf. Blues will meet the CTC Commanders.

SO NEAR BUT... Ed Hamilton, Brigade halfback, just missed this aerial on Brigade 38 yard line in action last Sunday. Walter Harris (63), of the 135th Bearcats eleven, was there to break up the play.

Triumph 27-12

Rams Regain Form Against 135

The offensive minded School Brigade Rams regained their winning stride Sunday as they whipped a stubborn 135th Infantry Regiment football team 27-12 at Fort Benning's Doughboy Stadium.

Upset by the 30th Infantry Regiment last week in the biggest surprise of the young season, the Rams were more determined last Saturday even though the 135th defenders refused to yield ground on numerous occasions.

Driving to retain their 1953 post title, the Rams slipped into a three-way tie for second place in the loop standings with the 30th and 136th Infantry regiments.

Ed Hamilton's interception of a pass deep in Red Bull territory started the Rams on their way with Yale Leroy hanging over from the one in the first quarter.

Masterminded by Charles Gray, whose deceptive quarterbacking was one of the game's highlights, the Rams' machine drove 52 yards for another six points with crowd-pleasing Ed Crooks legging it across the goal line just before intermission.

The Rams pushed their lead to 20-0 in the third frame on an 80-yard march climaxed by a short pass from Gray to Ed Luke in the end zone.

Line-crushing Joe Fortunato set up the next Ram score with an explosive 54 yard run after which Hamilton squeezed over from the one.

The most electrifying play of the game deserved a better fate, for Gary intercepted a Red Bull pass behind his goal line and scampered 102 yards — only to have the play recalled for an illegal use of hands infraction.

Line-crushing Joe Fortunato set up the next Ram score with an explosive 54 yard run after which Hamilton squeezed over from the one.

Flickertails Sink Divarty, 32-13

Scoring in every stanza but the fourth and exploding for three in the third the fantastic Flickertails of the 164th Inf. Reg. remained in first place as they defeated the Redeges of Divarty, 32 to 13, in an intramural battle played last Saturday at Doughboy Stadium.

It was the Flickertails' bulldozing ground attack that made the difference. Paced by halfback Ed Cirillo, the Flickers racked up 14 points in the first half and came back onto the field in the third frame to score 18 more.

With six minutes remaining in the first quarter Divarty kicked from its 10 yard line in a third attempt. The Flickertails watched the ball roll dead on its 49. Halfback Cliff Kibbe went off right tackle for one and then Tony Spennachio unhooked a 15 yard aerial to Phil Rowell good for a first down on the Divarty 33.

Clirillo scored fullback Clarence Shaw open on the next play and tossed a pass to the Divarty 18. Two plays later Cirillo went off left tackle for the first TD with only two minutes, 40 seconds remaining in the first period. Raxzo Smith's try for the extra counter was good and the Flickertails were in the lead, 7-0.

Midway in the second quarter Divarty, after attempting passes and running plays to no avail, kicked to Wyman Townsell, 1949 first halfback, on the 154 27, and Townsell scooped it up for a rush back to his own 34. Two plays later he went off his own left end for 41 yards to the Divarty 13 and he gained three on the second down after which Spennachio sneaked across center for 5. The fourth down saw Spennachio hand the ball to Townsell who crossed the goal line from nine yards out. Theriault's boot split the uprights and the Flickertails were in front, 14-0.

In the final 30 seconds of the second period, Thomas Dunn, Divarty signal-caller, unhooked a pass to his left halfback, Jim Bark, who didn't stop until he got to the Flickertails' three yard line. Raxzo Smith took the pignskin in the fourth quarter.

Penalties hurt Dunn passed to Vince Stankevitz for five, but the Flickertails were penalized 15, placing the ball on the Flickertails' three yard line. Raxzo Smith took the pignskin in the fourth quarter.

1 Round TKO Awees Crowd At Post Bouts

A near-capacity crowd flocked to the Harmony Church Field House last Thursday night to witness the second boxing program of the season.

Twelve bouts, including two Class III fights, were seen on the card, with two heavyweights, Percy Taylor and Cassie Groom, taking the spotlight. Taylor, punching for the 135th Inf., was a TKO victim as he was completely subdued by Groom in only one minute, five seconds of the first round.

Another exciting fight, featuring Special Units, 47th Div, Groom never let up in his brutal attack and even though Taylor claims 24 winning fights, including Olympic honors, his experience never had an opportunity to pay dividends.

In all, an awesomed seven decisions, four TKOs and one knockout.

In a Class IV welterweight battle, Lohiene Caliano, Divarty, scored a TKO over Charlie Davis, CTC.

Bantamweight McKinley Crockett, 135th Inf., decisioned Ramon Bankcourt, CTC.

Southpaw George Hamlin, 164th Inf., lost a unanimous decision to Gilbert Brantley, CTC, welterweight.

The fourth battle ended in a unanimous decision with Francis Apo, 164th Inf., topping Divarty's George Carlin, CTC.

Benning Duo Wins 'Bama Pistol Meet

Georgia entrants led by Maj. Frank D. Graham of Fort Benning, dominated the 1954 Alabama Pistol and Revolver Tournament Sunday.

Graham won the championship with 2,515 points.

Bearcats Score Early To Blast Commanders

Displaying a powerful offensive attack which netted almost 200 yards on the ground in the first half alone, the 136th Infantry Bearcats methodically punched out touchdowns to defeat the CTC Commanders 39-7, last Friday night at Doughboy Stadium.

The Bearcats scored five times in the first half and once again in the fourth quarter in bowdlering over the injury-ridden Commanders. With five members of their first string missing, the CTC eleven fought a valiant battle but could not stem the 136th offensive machine.

A pass interception by Tony Adams opened the route for the first Bearcat score on the CTC 31 yard line. This was followed by a sustained ground attack by Robert Miller, Benny Tate and Joe Cassidy, with Miller going around end from the 8 yard stripe, the PAT by Miller was good.

Shortly afterwards, the second Bearcat touchdown came on a 31 yard pass from quarterback Adams to end James Jones. Miller again made the extra point for the 136th.

The lone CTC touchdown had its beginning in the recovery of a 136th fumble by Don Hermann on the Bearcats' 48 in the closing minutes of the first half.

Frank West Hopes to Lead CTC Boxers to 2nd Title

This is the second season West has worked with the ten-man boxing team he assisted Coach Frank Boring in training the champion-fighters.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, West draws upon his valuable experience as an amateur and a professional fighter in directing his men. His own record in the ring qualifies him well for his job with the Commanders.

In 1947 West began his fighting career in Golden Gloves bouts and won the Ohio State Welterweight Golden Gloves crown in 1949. Later that year he turned professional.

This began a new role in the pugilistic world for which West has until his induction into the Army in 1952.

In all he fought some 20 bouts in the pro field, winning 15 — three via KOs. His fights took place in Youngstown, New Castle and Pittsburgh, Pa.

After entering the Army, West fought eight exhibition matches while stationed at Camp Breckinridge. These bouts provided the only actual experience in the ring during his Army career.

Unfortunately for the squad, the Commanders will lose the services of West in the near future. He is being separated from the service early in November and plans to return to Youngstown and to the fighting profession.

OC Proved Prowess As Grid, Baseball College Standout

Officer candidate James D. Donahue, of 11th O.C. Co., compiled quite an athletic record during his high school and college days.

Pitching for Aurora High School in 1950, Candidate Donahue had an 11-1 record in the Texas High School Baseball League, which earned him the Texas All-State Baseball Award.

The next fall, Donahue turned to the gridiron and proved that he was as apt at passing as pitching.

In the same league he was again selected as an All-State quarterback. That year he completed 97 of 140 tosses.

In early 1953, Candidate Donahue entered Fort Ord, California. He proved the mainstay of their team when it went into the National Collegiate Baseball finals.

Donahue was an acting platoon sergeant with his basic training company at Fort Ord, California, and now is hard at work mastering the techniques of combat leadership.

Hq. Det. Wins Medic Tilt, 12-6

Activity in the 54th Medical Group intramural sports program last week was limited to one football game that saw the league's leading Hq. Det. hand the 93rd Medical Co. its first loss.

All the scoring was done in the first period in a hard fought 12-6 game, which saw both teams battle over the ever dangerous 50 and the 551st to clinch the title.

The final week of play in the touch football league begins this week with Hq. Det. needing victories over the ever dangerous 502d and the 551st to clinch the title.

Rifle, Pistol Candidates

28 Marksmen Vie for Slots On U.S. International Team

Twenty-eight of the nation's top rifle and pistol marksmen hold a two-day orientation here this week and began competing yesterday for berths on the U. S. International Team.

Tryouts will continue through Nov. 8 when a 26-man team is selected to represent the U. S. in the International Matches at Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 15-27.

With the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Headquarters are 22 officers and began competing yesterday for berths on the U. S. International Team.

Among them are Marine Corps Major Gen. (retired) Merritt A. Edson, executive director of the NRA; Marine Corps Brig. Gen. (retired) Thomas Warnham, International Shooting Committee, and Rear Adm. (retired) M. C. Mumma, Olympic Committee.

Match Schedules

The U. S. International Team candidates were briefed on match schedules and participated in a practice firing session before the tryouts start.

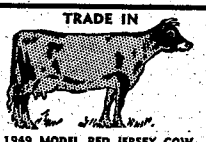

Selected on the basis of their performance during the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, last August and September, the experts represent the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Reserve components and civilian agencies.

Frank T. Parsons of the NRA will captain the tryout team which includes 19 officers, four enlisted men and five civilians.

Three are members of the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Team. They are Capt. John F. Dodds and Capt. R. W. Anthony, both of the Army's European Command, and M-Sgt. Joe Benny of the U. S. Military Academy.

Service Stars End in Top 10 Of Pentathlon

BUDAPEST (AFPS) — Two U.S. servicemen — ENS William J. Andre, USS Albany, and First Lt. Harlan W. Johnson, 118th Eng. Bn., USARET — finished in the top 10 in the individual standings of the modern world pentathlon championships here.

ENS Andre, a Dartmouth College distance runner and member of the U. S. modern pentathlon team that competed in Chile last year, scored 4,285.5 points to place eighth. Lt. Johnson, winner of the pistol-shooting event, finished ninth with 4,232 points.

Swedish Cadet Boern Thofelt of Sweden amassed a total score of 4,634.5 to win the individual championship and Hungary won top honors in the team standings with 12,948 points.

The U. S. withdrew from the team competition when Navy journalist Norman E. Brinker, from the San Diego Naval Training Center, Calif., was thrown and injured in the horseback riding event on the first day of the championships.

Brinker, fiance of tennis queen Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly, suffered a broken collarbone in his fall, but thrilled the crowd when he remounted and made three more jumps to finish 18th.

The modern pentathlon consists of five events: riding, swimming, fencing, pistol-shooting and a cross-country run.

Team Planning Auburn Drill

Fourteenth Officer Candidate Company has organized a precision drill team scheduled to give a half-time exhibition at the Georgia-Auburn game on Nov. 13 in Columbus.

The team has 21 members, all officer candidates, who are giving up many hours of their free time in preparation for the coming performances. Officer Candidate Raymond Flaherty, drill team commander, is advised by Second Lt. Lawrence White, a company tactical officer.

Skeet Shooters Take Mac Meet

Fort Benning skeet shooters took both team and individual honors Sunday at the Invitational Skeet Meet at Fort McPherson, Ga.

The five-man A Team from the post won the team shoot with a score of 459, while Fort McPherson scored 454 points of a possible 500.

Individual honors went to Fort Benning's Sgt. L. McDaniel, who collected 98 points.

Tied for second place were Major William A. Dance and Major Ray Rolf, both of Fort Benning, and Sgt. Earl Hardy of Fort McPherson, with 93 points.

TRAPPED BY A BEARCAT... Henry Turcotte, CTC halfback, was caught in the clutches of this unidentified 136th Bearcat after a short gain in the 39 to 7 victory claimed by CTC last Friday night.

Bearcats

In the opening of the second period the Commanders pushed across their six points on a 19 yard pass from Verr Jungferman to Bobby Bush. Jungferman made the PAT to move the score at 14-7.

The Bearcats, however, moved right back on a 50 yard TD drive which featured a 23 yard run by Cassidy who later went over from the five. Minutes later another pass interception by Adamo set up the third Bearcat score. Benny Pale broke loose for a 33 yard jaunt and Miller bulled over from the one.

A third key interception, this time by Tom Sheehan, began the 196th drive for their fifth touchdown. This drive, the third one in the second quarter, was climaxed by a pitchout to Tom Mayes who traveled 23 yards into the end zone. The half ended 30-7.

The Commanders tightened their defense in the third period as player-coach Charlie Kuehn once more displayed the talent which won him "Star of the Week" recognition the week before. A CTC threat to reach pay-dirt in the period was thwarted by a pass interception in the end zone.

The final Bearcat touchdown came in the fourth quarter on the longest play of the game, screen pass from Adamo to Miller clicked, and he romped 63 yards to cross the goal line.

Flickertail

(Continued From Page 18) the midfield stripe and giving Divarty a first down. Dunn threw to Stankewitz again, but couldn't connect. But on second down, the combination worked and Stankewitz was hauled down on the Flickertail's 25 after a 25 yard gain.

It was first and 10 to go when Dunn tried to unhook another pass but was thrown for a loss back to the Flickertail's 40, but the Flickers were penalized 15, moving the ball back to the line of scrimmage.

The next play saw Dunn connect with a pass to Stankewitz with only one minute remaining. Stankewitz was almost trapped, but

Capt. Headed All RA Once

WASHINGTON—A captain once was the commander of the United States Army. From June 26 to Aug. 12, 1944, the Army was commanded by Captain John Doughty. Under his command were 50 privates with a proportionate number of officers. No officer above the rank of captain remained in service. The 50 privates were divided between Fort Pitt and West Point, 25 at Pitt and 25 at West Point. Their duty was to guard stores of supplies.

Thirty-five student officers have reported in for the Judge Advocate General Class Number 19, attached to Seventh Company of the School Brigade. The majority of the officers attended law school and have received commissions as first lieutenants. The students are well satisfied with the facilities of Fort Benning and hope to spend an enjoyable as well as resourceful nine weeks on the post. After completing the course, the officers will report to their notes. Four abreast, the vehicles are six inches apart with two and a half feet between bumpers.

Band Performs From Jeeps

FORT HOOD, Texas—The man who plays the tuba and the man who beats the drum in the First Armored Division band may find themselves changing a tire during a four-bar rest. That would seem a likely hazard for musicians in a jeep-mounted band—which the First Armored's organization is. Twenty-one jeeps in precise formation carry the 66-piece band in parades and public appearances. Drivers must watch their fenders as closely as the handmen do their notes. Patrol Salutes 3 'Sharp' Men Superior appearance and outstanding military bearing have won the Good Soldier title for three enlisted men at Fort Benning.

Cited were Pvt. Judge P. Mobley of Palmetto, Ga., assigned to Company A, Fourth Battalion of the School Brigade; Sgt. Arturs Fisers of Chicago, Ill., Company E, Infantry School Detachment; and Pfc. Cecil Schofield of Florida, Ala., Company D, 30th Infantry Regiment.

Members of the Good Soldier Patrol were Sfc. James Calhoun, Sfc. Doyle Mordeca, Sfc. Daniel Martinez, and Sfc. Robert W. Anderson, all members of the School Brigade.

Stallings Triumphs In CTC Horseshoes

Kenneth Stallings of 506 Helicopter Co. won the CTC horseshoe elimination playoff last week to determine representation at the Infantry School Tournament. William Daniels, 78th Engineers, came in second.

In the doubles competition, Daniels and Robert W. Wallace were the top pitching pair, with Stallings and Richard Souder's immediate underdogs.

Since Stallings and Souder were unavailable for the Infantry School competition, Norman B. Mekkelson, of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, and Daniels represented CTC at the Infantry School Tournament.

Daniels and Wallace of the 78th Engineers and Mekkelson and Richard L. Martin of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, did the double pitching for CTC at the Infantry School Tournament.

Irving E. Dandy Wins Twin Tracks

Irving E. Dandy of Chickasha, Okla. has been promoted to captain.

Chief of The Infantry Center's Reception Branch, which processes incoming personnel, Capt. Dandy has been at Fort Benning since December.

He has 15 years of military service, including seven years as an enlisted man in the Air Force.

He served with both the 45th and 24th Divisions in Korea.

SIX JOIN 30TH

Company G, Second Battalion, 30th Inf., welcomed six enlisted men into its ranks. They are: M-Sgt. Willie Gynn, Cpls. Homer J. Bray, Charlie O. Hill and John W. Moore, Pfc. Meri H. Spungie and Pfc. Carl G. Edwards. Pvt. Davis Johnson, Jr., of Company G, has been promoted to private first class.

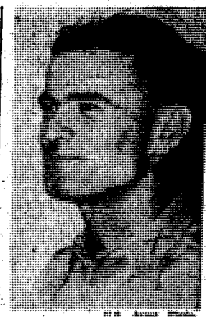

Cpl. Sorter Wins Citation

Cpl. Ervin A. Sorter of Company "B," First Transportation Battalion, Special Troops Command, was awarded a certificate of achievement by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, commanding general of the Infantry Center.

The presentation was made to Cpl. Sorter by Lt. Col. Frank A. Bradbury, commanding officer of the First Transportation Battalion, on behalf of General Harper.

Cpl. Sorter has been Battalion mail clerk from July 1953 to Sept. 1954. During this time a series of postal inspections were made by the Infantry Center and on each occasion the Battalion mail room received superior ratings. This notable accomplishment, the citation said, was due primarily to the "hard work, fine split, and devotion to duty without regard to normal duty hours", that Cpl. Sorter displayed.

From Middle River, Minn., Cpl. Sorter has been in the service since 1947. He was in Korea from 1948 to 1950 with the 80th Engineer Battalion as a mail clerk. During the initial onslaught of the enemy, Cpl. Sorter was wounded and evacuated to the States. After undergoing treatment in a series of Army Hospitals for 23 months, Sorter was assigned to Fort Benning in June 1953.

OAK LEAF CLUSTER . . . Major Sammy E. Radow an instructor in The Infantry School's Tactical Department, was presented a Silver Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service as an adviser to the 20th Infantry Regiment, Republic of Korea Army, and to the 11th ROK Division, from June 15, 1953 to July 25, 1954. Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, department director, made the presentation.

COOKS ASSIGNED

Cpls. Dillard R. Scott and William C. Posty, cooks, have been assigned to Task Company, 30th Infantry Regiment.

The Army's Artillery School was founded at Fort Monroe, Va., in 1824.

They Are Saying in Washington That . . .

(By Armed Forces Press Service)

The Army will not drop below its current fiscal year strength, according to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson. This is two divisions more than the Army originally expected to muster under the "New Look" program. The feat was made possible, said Mr. Wilson, because the Army is making "good progress in getting a higher percentage of people into combat units."

Air Force enlisted grade promotion quotas for October total 64,900. The breakdown by grade: M-Sgt., 800; T-Sgt., 2100; S-Sgt., 10,000; A-1C, 20,000; and A-2C, 22,000.

manders whose dates of rank are July 1, 1950, or earlier and lieutenant commanders in, or senior to, the promotion zones listed in ALNAV 44, Sept. 15.

Air Force recruiters now will get an initial clothing allowance of $80. The allowance for Army recruiters, who previously registered on such duty are now eligible for the new allowance if their assignments do not expire prior to June 30, 1955.

Regulations and forms implementing the home loan provisions for career servicemen recently approved by Congress will be ready for distribution shortly. To qualify, a person must have been on active duty for more than two years and be in need of housing. Upon application, the serviceman will be issued a "Certificate of Eligibility" which may be presented to a bank as evidence of his being eligible for the benefits of the new act, provided he meets FHA requirements.

The Army has approved the construction of 500 rental units at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz. The housing project will be privately financed. It will be built on government-owned land and leased to the sponsor, who will be chosen by competitive bidding.

The U. S. will begin sending military equipment to Pakistan this month under a mutual defense pact, which was signed last May. The initial shipment is expected to include mostly Army-type weapons.

The last B-26 bomber wing in the Far East will return to the U. S. late in October to be converted into a B-47 Stratofort unit. The 30th Medium Bomb Wing will leave Kadena AB, Okinawa, in three groups. The B-29s will be stored at Davis-Monthan AFB, Neb., and members of the wing will check out in jobs at Lincoln AFB, Neb.

A selection board report recommending 42 majors for temporary promotion to lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps, has been approved by the President.

The 3600-ton destroyer leader USS Willis A. Lee—the newest of the Navy's four Mitscher-class destroyer leaders—has been commissioned at the Boston Naval Shipyard. The Lee has a complement of 23 officers and 320 EM.

ALIGNMENT—BALANCING—BRAKE SERVICE and OUR OWN "ROYAL-CAPS"

With two of its heavy cruisers—the Canberra and the Boston—converted into guided missile ships, the Navy is making plans to build a specialized vessel from the keel up. Tests are being conducted on the converted vessels to help determine whether the new ship will be built.

A saving of $22 million has been announced by the Army for the 1954 fiscal year as a result of improvements in civilian personnel management and utilization. The number of regular civilian employees was cut by more than 46,000 to a total of 438,000 as of June 30, 1954.

The Marine Corps has appointed Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg, USMC, as its new Inspector General. Gen. Litzenberg recently commanded the landing force during the Keystone maneuvers in Turkey. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Gregon A. Williams, who retired after more than 37 years of service. Both generals began their careers as enlisted men.

The question whether to pay Army personnel twice a month or not has come up again. The Air Force's announcement that beginning Oct. 20 it will join the Navy and Marine Corps in two paydays each month has raised speculation on whether the Army is planning similar action.

While no official announcement has been made, it is known that Army officials are weighing plans for twice a month pay days.

Navy staff corps selection boards for promotion to captain and commander convened Sept. 28. Eligible are staff corps commanders.

Wilson Set For Course

First sergeant of Company G, Infantry School Detachment, M-Sgt. Earl F. Wilson, will attend the advanced army administration course at the Adjutant General's School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Sergeant Wilson, a former major with the 11th Airborne Division, has been with the Harmony Church unit since March 1, 1954. He was formerly with Company B of the Infantry School Detachment.

Temporary replacement for Wilson is M-Sgt. Kermit M. Stevenson, operations sergeant of the detachment. He had been in that position a month, coming from the 11th Message Center Company in Germany. He will return to the S-3 Office as operations chief when Sergeant Wilson returns from school in January.

508th Slated For Far East

HEADQUARTERS, THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga. — The 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, Fort Campbell, Ky., has been selected for rotation to Japan under the Army's new plan for overseas rotation, which will start next July.

In revealing this change, Lt. Gen. A. B. Bolling, Third Army commander, said that plans call for the Fort Campbell team to rotate with the 187th Regimental Combat Team. The 508th was stationed at Fort Benning until recently and had a distinguished combat record in World War II, during most of which it was an attached unit of the 82d Airborne Division.

Information relayed to Gen. Bolling from the Department of the Army said that under the Army's new plan a total of eight divisions are expected to be rotated each year—four sent overseas to replace four returned home.

Nearly three years will be required to complete a rotation cycle of all divisions. The same pattern of rotation will be followed for selected separate regiments and battalions of the combat arms.

Fort Benning's two visiting nurses don't claim to know all the answers, but they are experts in the care of babies.
As one mother declared: "My baby cried day and night before one of the nurses told me my formula was wrong. I certainly welcomed their advice."
Mrs. Maud M. Dicus of 536 Brown Ave. and Mrs. F. G. Macus of Fort Benning, the military counterpart of the public health nurse offer future mothers advice and instruction before the baby is born, but most of their efforts are directed toward home visits after the mother and child have left the hospital.

Average 306 Visits:
Mrs. Dicus and Mrs. Macus average 300 home visits a month, teaching the new mother how to care for herself and her baby and prepare the baby's formula.
They work closely with Public Health Nurses of Columbus, Ga., and during the summer help Fort Benning doctors give physical examinations to school-age children.
The Visiting Nurse Program, which operates at no charge to the military family, got its start at Fort Benning in May, 1949, under the direction of Brig. Gen. Robert Hill, then commander of the post's U. S. Army Hospital. Since then Army posts throughout the country have duplicated the Fort Benning program.

It is part of the Army's continuing efforts to provide adequate family medical care which officials are convinced helps in raising the morale of the married soldier.

Flinter Dreela Program
Responsibility for the present Visiting Nurse Program rests with Lt. Col. Marcus Flinter of Youngstown, Ohio, preventive medicine officer.

As an example of how the program has grown at Fort Benning, Col. Flinter points to the increase in the number of home visits over the past five years. One nurse made approximately 50 calls a month when the program began as compared to today's 300.

"We are no substitute for the doctor," says Mrs. Dicus, "but we augment his work by helping the mother and child. We also believe that our work relieves the soldier-father of worry, making him more efficient in his Army job."

The Visiting Nurse Program is supported by the Fort Benning Community Chest.

CWO Stringfellow New Field Forces Personnel Officer

Chief Warrant Officer Bertie L. Stringfellow of Selma, Ala., has been named personnel officer for Army Field Forces Board No. 3. Mr. Stringfellow came to Fort Benning after four years as assistant to Army attaches in the American Embassies in Ecuador and El Salvador.

Commissioned an Army Infantry Lieutenant in 1941 after 10 years as an Air Force enlisted man, he spent a year as an instructor at The Infantry School here. He returned to the Air Force in 1942.

Mr. Stringfellow, who rose to the rank of major in the Air Force, became an Army warrant officer in 1947.

2 Instructors Cited by Korea

Two instructors in the Tactical Department have been cited for meritorious service in Korea.

Major Sammy E. Radow, Battalion Tactics Committee, was presented a Silver Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal, and First Lt. John B. Daly, Advanced Tactics Group, received a Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant.

Presentations were made by Col. Joseph W. Sulwell, department director.

Major Radow was cited for outstanding service as an adviser to the 20th Infantry Regiment, ROK Army, and as intelligence and plans and training adviser to the 11th ROK Division from June 15, 1953 to July 24, 1954.

Lt. Daly was decorated for his work as control officer on a unit helicopter problem while serving as assistant plans and training officer of the 3rd Battalion, 27th Infantry Regiment, from March 14 to July 27, 1954.

Major Radow's other decorations include the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, five additional Oak Leaf Clusters to the Bronze Star Medal, the Commendation Ribbon, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster and the French Croix de Guerre. He served in Korea with the 22d Infantry Regiment, Second Division from July 1950 to September 1951 and with the Fifth Infantry Regimental Combat Team and X Corps Headquarters from January 1953 to April 1953.

Lt. Daly joined the 27th Infantry Regiment in Korea in June 1953 and later was with the 27th Infantry Regiment. He came to Fort Benning last month. He also has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

The four fundamentals of flying are: the climb, straight and level flight, the turn, and the glide. You learn all of this with your first 30 minute lesson. Start flying today!

There are only four controls to learn. 1. The elevator (raises or lowers nose). 2. The ailerons (left pressure on stick lowers left wing, right pressure lowers right wing). 3. The rudder (used at the same time you use side pressure on stick to establish turn and bank). Using rudder alone causes skid; we don't want to skid. 4. Throttle (Adv.)

82 Per Cent Is Attained; More Coming

Fort Benning Community Chest contributions totaled $41,000 as of Tuesday, an incomplete report indicated, with more to follow.

This figure represents 82 per cent participation by personnel, said Col. William R. Fields, drive chairman. He pointed out, however, that the total is expected to grow as complete falls come in from all units.

Highest per capita contributions came from four Infantry Center staff sections. Tabulations show that the Quartermaster Section averaged $8.50 per person; the Chemical Section, $8.25; the G-2 Section, $7.40, and the Engineer Section, $7.15.

Wacs Start Job Training

A WAC on-the-job training program began Monday when two student officers reported for a week of special duty.

Second Lt. Wanda J. Ehrhridge and First Lt. Ann M. Lowery were the first to start the training here. Under the program two Wacs will report each week from their Training Center at Fort McClellan, Ala., for on-the-job training as part of the basic officers course. The program will continue for three weeks.

The Wacs will learn the duties of a company officer by actual performance under the guidance of Capt. Alice I. Fowler, WAC company commander, and Lt. Kathleen Ford, executive officer.

Bayonet to Publish Early Next Week; Deadline for News, Pix, Set for Monday

With Veterans Day, formerly known as Armistice Day, falling on Thursday this year, The Bayonet will publish on Wednesday, a day earlier.

Unit PIOs and others who regularly contribute material for publication are therefore asked to get their stories and pictures in by 10 a.m. Monday. Material received on Thursday and Friday of this week will stand a better chance of making the headlines. PIOs are reminded: The newspaper will be available for pickup at the TIS message center at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Wonderland On the Way

Western Wonderland, a Third Army package show, will make three appearances here next week.

The revue will play Nov. 10 at Theater No. 6 at 6:30 p.m. and on Nov. 11 at the U. S. Army Hospital at 2:30 p.m. and the Main Theater at 8:30.

Ceremonies Mark Start Of Project

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held yesterday for seven new 225-man barracks, marking the start of work on the $3,540,346 project, part of Fort Benning's $14 million building program for 1955.

Contract for the barracks was awarded to the Williams Construction Company of Columbus, Ga. The barracks will be built at Kelly Hill off Ivy and Marine Roads.

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, and other post officials were invited to the ground-breaking, including Brig. Gen. Charles Hollo, South Atlantic Division engineer, Col. DeF. Rogers, Savannah District engineer, and C. B. Kneller, area engineer of the Savannah District.

The Atlanta Engineer District will supervise construction of the three-story concrete and masonry buildings.

The barracks, which will have a central heating plant, will be similar to the 17 buildings completed recently in the Sandy Patch area for housing units of Combat Training Command.

Other projects planned for 1955 are an $9,872,000 hospital, a 60-man bachelor officers' quarters, $330,000; Main Post Exchange $391,000; a 30th Infantry Regiment Chapel, $138; a motor repair shop and motor pool repair shop each to cost $48,000; a main road to the warehouse area, $251,000; two light aircraft hangars, $152,000; an engineer field maintenance shop, $239,000, and two ammunition magazines at Harmony Church, $227,300.

Veteran's Day

Holiday Set Next Thursday

Next Thursday, Nov. 11 will be a legal holiday for Fort Benning personnel in observance of Veteran's Day.

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, said military and civilian personnel will be granted a holiday with only those necessary for maintenance and operation of the post, to be on duty.

For Poppies? Surely, Mille

The phone rang in The Bayonet office and a distraught feminine voice said, "I've got to get something in the paper."

It was after the deadline, and we were sorry.

"But I've just got to," the lady pleaded.

"We'll try to melt the publisher," we said, "what's the problem?"

"It's about poppies—You know." We did, and so she got her way. Poppies will be sold on post tomorrow from 8 a.m. till bedtime, and the proceeds go to the American Legion. Buy one, will you?

773d Tankers Renamed 714th Tank Battalion

At an impressive ceremony held at Glisson Pond, Camp Stewart, Ga., last Sunday, the 773d Tank Battalion was redesignated the 714th Tank Battalion, continuing the same mission as a unit of Combat Training Command supporting The Infantry School.

The ceremony at Glisson Pond, where the Battalion currently holds tank firing exercises, included a review and formal exchange of battalion standards and all company guidons.

Col. Frank G. Spiess, assistant adjutant general of Louisiana, received the review and then accepted the standards and guidons from the battalion commander and the unit commanders of the 773d. He commanded the Battalion for nine months of its World War II combat service.

Following the surrender of the 773d standards and guidons, Lt. Colonel George Artman, as the old commanding officer, presented the standards and guidons of the 773d Tank Battalion, deactivated at Fort Bragg, N. C., to Lt. Colonel George Vivian, commanding officer, and to the unit commanders of the newly designated 714th Battalion.

All officers, new standards, and guidons returned to their posts and the new 714th Tank Battalion passed in review for the first time.

Witnessing the ceremony were representatives of the commanding general, The Infantry Center, the commanding officer, Combat Training Command, the commanding officer, 17th Armored Group, and staff officers of the commanding general, Camp Stewart.

Words Can Light the Way

Well, we've been urging you for the last five months now to sit down and write a letter that may bring you $1000. This is the last opportunity you will have to win it for 1954. Slipped your mind, you say? All right, we will bring you up to date again.

We're talking about the 1954 Freedoms Foundation letter writing contest for active duty servicemen. The Foundation is offering cash prizes and George Washington Honor Medals for the best letters submitted by Armed Forces personnel on the subject, "What America Means to Me." The first prize is $1000 and an honor medal. Twenty $100 prizes and medals are offered for the next best letters. Twenty additional medals will be awarded.

So why not take a few minutes off and sit down and give this thing some thought. How does this great country of ours strike you? What does America really mean to you? Does it mean security or the privilege of exercising the freedoms granted us under our Constitution? These freedoms are seldom heard of in many parts of the world today. Think about it—then write about it.

The judges are only concerned with your soundness of ideas and clear thinking on the subject. Remember—it's what you say—not how you say it.

The deadline for submitting your letter in the 1954 contest is midnight, Nov. 11th. However, if your letter is received after that date it will be entered in next year's contest.

Send your letter to: Awards Editor, Armed Forces Radio Service, 1016 N. McCadden Place, Los Angeles 38, Calif.

HERE FROM TURKEY... Brig. Gen. Nazim Aker, left, and Brig. Gen. Ekrem Babacan, right, are greeted in Columbus by Brig. Gen. E. A. Barlow, Fort Benning's deputy commanding general. Gen. Aker, commandant of the Turkish Army Infantry School, and Gen. Babacan, commandant of the Turkish Army Reserve Officer School, are on a two-week orientation of the Infantry School.

Race for Life Must Be Run Skillfully and Earnestly

BY CHAPLAIN (1ST LT.) JOHN A. DICK

In his letter to the Hebrews the great missionary Paul very aptly uses the figure of the Greek runner to illustrate and to compare his own race to the race of life each one of us is called upon to run. "Wherefore," writes the apostle, "seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

The picture which the writer presents to our minds is one very familiar to the great thronging crowds who used to gather together and crowd their ways into the huge stadiums and amphitheatres of the day to watch the great foot races which frequently took place during the early days of the Christian Church. The athletes of the day were fine in physical specimens of manhood. Trained to the highest peak of condition, they eagerly looked forward to an anticipated and anticipated day in the racing contests which drew the people from miles around to the great Grecian cities. Above all, they were earnest competitors who stepped up to the starting line to take his place beside the other competitive runners. Like any intelligent runner, this athlete lays aside any cumbersome equipment or extra clothing which might impede or hinder him in his race. He knows full well that he must be free of anything that will slow him down in the least, so he starts out in this contest. And then, at the starting signal, he strikes forth to "run with patience" this race that is set before him. . . . To those of us who are somewhat familiar with what we call the "long distance running" of our modern day sport, there is a great amount of skill and judgment it takes for a runner to run his best race, in addition to the usual amount of natural ability, condition, speed, and stamina. He must be patient—that is, he must not start his sprint too early in the game. He must conserve his stamina and speed as well as endurance for the last lap in which so many of the great, closely contested races are won. Many a runner so misjudges his timing and anticipates the earlier laps of the race that he becomes spent and is forced to all but drop out when the real contest and final test of heart, strength, and endurance comes so surely in the last straining yards of the course. So, too, with each of us here in the Service—our race of life, day by day, must be run as skillfully, yes, as earnestly and as patiently as that of the traditional Greek athlete of old.

Paul is reminding us that we, who are known as Christian believers, are ever surrounded by a continuing cloud of witnesses on every hand—an endless number of spectators and interested bystanders who are constantly watching and judging our progress as we are continuously marking our course as runners and as competitors in a race whose eventual stake and goal is the everlasting joy and happiness found only in Christ himself. In speaking of certain "weights," impediments which must be cast aside in our race of life, if we would run free and unincumbered, we must put aside fear and misgiving—frustration and indecision—we must cast off all sense of pride and selfishness, and anxiety and worry that would slow us down in our race towards our goal. But above all, we must look to the wise and skillful guidance of our Coach and Trainer who can help us, encourage us, and give us the strength for each step we turn in the track. Then at the end of our race of life, as we finally approach the goal, we may triumphantly exclaim with Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day."

In addition to receiving a superior rating on nearly all inspections of his mess hall, Allen got a letter of commendation from company commander, Captain Roy A. Sheldon, for his outstanding job. Replacing Allen will be Sgt. Richard Price, who is now attending the Infantry Center Mess Management School. Temporary Mess Sergeant is Sgt. Oscar Davis.

Army Refers Ex-POW Cases

Race for Life Must Be Run Skillfully and Earnestly

WASHINGTON (APPS) — The Army has referred to the Justice Department a number of cases of ex-POWs, who have left the Army under honorable conditions, for possible prosecution on treason or other criminal charges while prisoners of the North Koreans.

Several of the cases, the Army said, "could be considered on a par" with Dickenson, Batchelor, Floyd and Fleming. The question of who, if anybody, has jurisdiction to prosecute the ex-POWs who now are civilians, is not completely clear. However, the Army said that it and the Justice Department could act in certain instances, depending on the particular facts of the cases.

The Army added that no returning POW since discharged, had been held beyond their normal separation dates for disciplinary action. However, information obtained on some, after their release, may prove the basis for charges against them.

Canada Tests Slated for NIKE

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Cold weather tests of NIKE, the anti-aircraft missile guided missile will be conducted in Canada during January and February. The tests are designed to determine the effects of extreme low temperatures on the complex component parts of the NIKE weapons system.

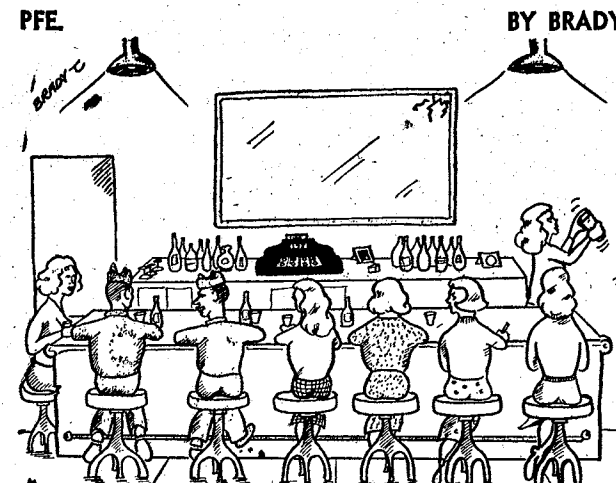

Selected Canadian personnel, trained at Fort Bliss, Texas, at the Army's Guided Missiles Center, will man the weapons. A limited number of U. S. Army technicians will also participate.

Test firings will be accomplished at an artillery range in the vicinity of Fort Churchill, Province of Manitoba. This proving ground is used jointly by the Canadian and United States armies to test new weapons and equipment under extreme Arctic weather and environmental conditions.

Mess Sarge Leaves ISD For Far East

Sgt. William T. Allen, mess sergeant of Company G, Infantry School Detachment, since November 1953, recently accepted a "short discharge" for assignment in the Far East.

In addition to receiving a superior rating on nearly all inspections of his mess hall, Allen got a letter of commendation from company commander, Captain Roy A. Sheldon, for his outstanding job. Replacing Allen will be Sgt. Richard Price, who is now attending the Infantry Center Mess Management School. Temporary Mess Sergeant is Sgt. Oscar Davis.

On The Bookshelf

GOODBYE, MY LADY by Jamaica Street. (Lippincott, 222 pages) This is the poignant and well-written story of a boy and his dog. Using familiar and beloved material, Street has given this story a beauty and excitement of its own—how "Skeeter" makes a lost dog "his" and achieves a maturity, not gained without sorrow, in an unforgettable story. LORD GRIZZLY by Frederick Manfred (McGraw-Hill, 281 pages) The days of the Western frontier are revived again in the character of Hugh Glass, a white scout and mountain man extraordinarily. Attacked by a female grizzly bear, and believing himself to be deserted by his friends, he struggles back to Fort Kiowa, swearing revenge. Here is the true spirit of adventure set in the midst of the wild Sioux country. CROSSROADS OF THE MEDITERRANEAN by Hendrik de Lennw (Hanover House) This book has all the color, variety, mystery, and violence of North Africa, one of the world's most fabulous lands. With the author, we travel to the cities of antiquity and the hidden desert outposts, intimately sharing his travels through the exotic lands of the Mediterranean. ROYAL INTRIGUE by Evelyn Anthony (Crowell, 279 pages) An unforgettable tale, dark with cruelty and hatred yet bright with the brief happiness of love. This novel tells about the struggle between Catherine the Great and her son; Paul, for the Russian throne. For 20 years the Imperial Court watched and waited, gambling all on the outcome of this terrible battle. GRIN AND BEAR IT by Lichy (McGraw-Hill, 124 pages) This is a collection, Lichy's first, of 124 very funny and recognition - provoking pictures of the human animal in action. Here is humor derived from a whole view of life, making one aware that life can by all means have a smile.

Library Concert

The complete Mazurkas of Chopin will be presented on the regular weekly record concert to be held at the Main Post Library Tuesday evening at 7:30. The Mazurkas, a Polish dance, was a creation of the Province of Mazovia in which Chopin was born. It is from the moods of these dances that Chopin composed his

At The Theaters

Two of Hollywoods most beautiful women, Ginger Rogers a n Gene Tierney, combine their talents with those of George Raft and Van Heflin in a new picture, "Black Widow," 20th Century-Foxes new CinemaScope presentation opening at Theater No. 1, Sunday. A suspense drama, it catches a picture of "Who Will Kill This Girl Tonight."

Playing return engagements this week are "Shows of Killmanjaro" and "Thunderbirds." The first stars Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward, and Ava Gardner in a dramatic story with widely varied ingredients ranging from tense African hunting scenes, battlefield action, and amorous adventures in Paris, the Riviera, Madrid and Africa. Top acting talent and costly production make this picture an outstanding attraction.

"Thunderbirds," starring John Derek and John Barrymore Jr., traces the adventures and exploits of two intrepid pilots, one of whom are in love with the same girl. "Yellow Mountains," Republic's current production, is set against the background of rough-house saloon brawls, the crack of lawless guns, mine cave and the blood red valley rich lodes, which makes the story of gold-seekers and claim-jumpers move at a brisk pace.

"An American soldier who returns to his native land on a sentimental journey and the girl who sees in him a knight in shining armor, make trouble in the city as they attempt to make a melodrama. Starring Forrest Tucker, Victor McLaglen, Margaret Lockwood and the one and only Gene Kelly, "The Band Wagon" is "Here's the HOT MAN." "His Majesty O'Keefe," starring Burt Lancaster and Joan Rice, continues their engagement at Post theaters when it plays Theater No. 1 Thursday. I'm sure most people are familiar with this re-issue so that's all I'll say about this film. For the next thirty days, this "columnist" will be relaxing on the sunny shores of California and Bal Kucie will keep you informed as to what's happening at Post theaters. Don't forget the Wednesday afternoon matinee at Theater No. 1 at 3:15 P.M. So long for now, see you At The Theaters.

714th Starts Tank School

Tank Units' Troops to Get 104 Hours on Gun Training

A new school is in operation at Fort Benning. Known as the "Tankers School," it serves all personnel of the 714th Tank Battalion through advanced tank gunnery training.

The idea was originally developed by members of the battalion. It was established by, and control belongs exclusively to, personnel of the unit. All lesson plans, training aids and classroom areas were constructed by the 714th.

Responsible for the organization were Lt. Col. George B. Vivian, commanding officer of the 714th; (All Photos by Hogan)

Capt. Frank W. Houston, operations officer; First Lt. John Henry Friend, liaison officer, and a dozen key NCOs.

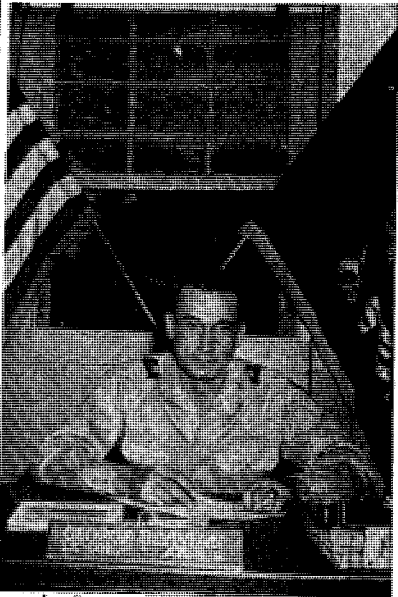

Lt. Friend and the NCOs were responsible for the planning and coordinating of all details. Training aids with intricate drawings and working models were constructed.

Operation is under the leadership of Capt. Kenneth B. Watts, commander. Sfc. Alvin Peterson is the principal range-finding instructor.

Each company of the battalion will receive training in the school. In all, the tankers will receive 104 hours of gunnery training with the major emphasis on range finding. Part of the instruction is given in the classroom and the remainder in the field.

Numerous examinations are given during the course, with a comprehensive test at the end. The individual receiving the highest score in his class on the final exam is awarded a three-day pass.

Climax of the training comes with a five-week period of actual gunnery practice at Camp Stewart, Ga. All instruction given is preparatory to this final live-fire test. (The 714th was the 773d)

14th OC Co. Holds Field Day In 'Little Olympics' Event

Fourteenth Officer Candidate recently staged a "Little Olympics," featuring relay races, platoon drill, and events from the Army physical fitness test. The Third Platoon topped the day, getting six first places.

The contest's climax was the "Laundry Bag Relay," which required each team member to sprint 60 yards, exchange his clothes for those he found in a laundry bag, pass an inspection by the tactical officers to insure proper dress, and then dash back to the starting point.

Outstanding individual performances were turned in by OC Carl Conder, who took first place in the squat jump with 130, and OC Lloyd Lee, performing an amazing 33 sit-ups in two minutes.

The third platoon won the 300 yard relay, but lost to the first in the 300 yard "delay" race, by the slowest runners in each platoon.

Lt. W. L. Groff Joins Tac Officers Staff

Second Lieut. William L. Groff recently joined the tactical officer staff of the 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

A graduate of Texas A&M, Lieut. Groff took the Basic Infantry Officers Course here. As tactical officer he will supervise, counsel, and assist in the selection of officer candidates who show the leadership, stamina, and professional knowledge required.

Full Moon Sparks Party

The appearance of the full moon signaled the first formal party held by the officer candidates of 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion. The candidates entertained their officers and guests with a party at Victory Lodge, that afforded dancing, a variety show, and a humorous interpretation of a military wedding. A buffet lunch was served.

Guests were Lieut. Col. Franklin I. Brickles, battalion commander, and his wife; Company Commander First Lieut. William W. Tombaugh, since appointed aide to Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, and First Lieut. Hugh E. Harrison, present Company Commander, and Mrs. Harrison.

The tactical officers of the company, with their wives and guests, were also present.

12 Per Cent of Class Re-ups for Three Years

Infantry Sound Ranging Class No. 3 of 107th Company (Ranger), Fifth Student Battalion (OC), announced recently that 12 per cent of the 44-man class has reenlisted.

The men, Pvt. Charles S. Gaw, Lewis D. Hoak, Robert J. Dehrans, Oliver L. Guy, and Raymond Allen were Requisite Army and took a short discharge to reenlist for a three-year tour.

Lost Many Battles, But

U.S. Army Is Always On Winning Side

The United States Army has lost many battles, particularly in the early stages of almost every war in which it has been involved, but the Army, and therefore the United States, has never sat on the losers' side of a peace treaty table.

The American Soldier today is the custodian of a glorious tradition of service and accomplishment. He belongs to a branch of the service which usually has the toughest job to do and which has always done it well.

That is the main theme of "History of the United States Army in War," a special pamphlet prepared by the T&E Section, TIC, to provide background material for troop information conferences on Post next week.

Cited in the pamphlet is the citizen-soldier, who, from Trenton to Old Baldy, has demonstrated that with proper leadership and training he is the equal of any fighting man in the world. However, the pamphlet points out, frequently in past wars the American soldier has been committed to battle before he could be trained and prepared.

Present U. S. policy, calling for the largest peace-time standing army and the first universal draft in history, makes the U. S. Army better prepared for any future war than it has ever been.

"The Army has always been the arm of decision in previous wars, and there exists no evidence that such will not be the case in any future war," the pamphlet states. Unit commanders or their representatives will utilize the pamphlet as background material for their presentations, and will emphasize the role of the individual soldier in contributing to his unit's mission and the part which each unit plays in the structure and mission of the Army.

Physical Fitness Test Standout Diminutive Candidate Aims For Perfect '500' Record

For the second time within four weeks, OC Lloyd Lee has led 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, in the Physical Fitness Test. Standing only 5'7" and weighing 140 lbs., the diminutive Lee amassed a total of 458 of a possible 500 points on the latest test. He achieved a perfect 100 points in three events—push-ups, squat jumps, and sit-ups — to which he added 158 points by doing 17 pull-ups and sprinting 300 yards in 48 seconds.

Before entering the Army a little less than a year ago, Lee attended Northwestern Louisiana State College, where he majored in Industrial Education. Although too small for most competitive sports, Lee played on intramural football and basketball teams both in high school and college.

Lee believes that he can score a "maximum 500" before he completes O.C.S., which would place him on a par with West Point's fabulous Glen Davis who was the first to achieve the 600 mark. Knowing Lee, his classmates are confident that the plucky little musclemann can do it.

On April 8, 1952, a Lieutenant and sergeant of the U.S. Army explored the north coast of Greenland with a team of eight sled dogs.

GEN. RIDGWAY PRESENTS COMMENDATION... WOJG Billy I. Wester is presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, for meritorious achievement in handling helicopters.

Sky's the Limit Egg Beater Officer Tries Out 'Heaven'

WOJG Billy I. Wester of the 80th Helicopter Company is the only man in the world to fly a helicopter at 24,600 feet. Mr. Wester, who set the helicopter speed record of 156 mph a month ago, flew the Sikorsky H-39 on his record-setting mission at the Sikorsky testing grounds in Bridgeport, Conn. two weeks ago. This record was made official by the National Aeronautical Association by employing a thoroughly pressure-tested and pre-tested barograph to accurately record altitude and the time required to achieve the climb. The Association installed this instrument in the helicopter prior to take-off and removed it following the flight. It required 38 minutes to reach the peak of the ascent and 20 minutes to return.

H. B. Harrison Named CO of 14th OC Co.
First Lieut. Hugh B. Harrison was named company commander of 14th OC Company recently. He succeeds First Lieut. William W. Tombaugh, who was appointed aide to Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche. Lieut. Harrison, a veteran of the Korean fighting, is an OCS graduate. He served with 14th Company as tactical officer and administrative officer. Prior to his latest assignment he was company commander of 10th OC Company, National Guard.

General Mathew B. Ridgway awarded Mr. Wester a citation for his work as project officer on the H-39 and for the speed record he set. Because of his wealth of experience with helicopters from the time they first became a potential asset to the military, Mr. Wester was chosen for the job of project officer of this new helicopter in November 1953. A veteran of 13 years service, Mr. Wester flew liaison planes behind enemy lines in the Burma-China campaign from 1943 to 1945. He spent 14 months with the Inter-American Geologic Survey in South America doing coastal survey flying. Prior to the Korean conflict, he was assistant aviation advisor to the Kansas National Guard. He was in the first class of helicopter pilot training in November 1951 and was assigned to the 6th Helicopter Company following his graduation. With the 6th Helicopter Company he evacuated sick and wounded prisoners released from captivity. Mr. Wester also holds the Distinguished Service Cross with Clusters and the Air Medal with three Clusters.

than civil defense purposes will be declined. As the last units of U. S. troops in the TRUST Forces withdrew from Trieste following the agreement signed by Italy and Yugoslavia, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army Chief of Staff, expressed the Army's thanks for a job well done. The 3500 men of the 331st Inf. Regt. and supporting units have been moved to Pechum, Italy, pending subsequent deployment. ADM Robert B. Carney, USN, Chief of Naval Operations, has directed all naval commands afloat and ashore to lighten up on the military smartness and bearing of their officers and men. The admiral charged COs with making sure that the uniform was worn properly and that proper military attitudes were observed.

Staff of Leaders Gen. Bromley Cites Need For Studying

The need for military leaders trained for the unexpected as well as the routine was cited Saturday in an address by Brig. Gen. Charles Bromley. Speaking to 189 graduates of officers associate advanced class No. 1, the assistant commandant of the Armored School at Fort Knox, Ky., said that effective leadership demands the continued cooperation of combined arms and education, professional competence and flexibility of minds. "Leaders must study after they leave the service schools. They must develop a sound knowledge of their own arms and their associate arms and prepare to employ all together," he said. The one-star general praised the Infantry School staff and faculty for continuing the school's fine tradition and said that "basically Armor and Infantry units have an identical mission."

Artists to Hold Sidewalk Exhibit At Town Church

The Columbus Artists Guild is sponsoring a sidewalk exhibit commemorating National Art Week in Columbus on First Avenue in the church yard of the Episcopal Church, Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. An invitation is extended to all Fort Benning personnel to attend this exhibit of talent in all mediums of painting and to inquire about becoming a member of the Guild, if interested in participating in art activities in the community. Artists in all fields will be accepted as members, civilian and military alike. Inquiries may be made to the chairman at the sidewalk exhibit. (The Episcopal Church yard is directly behind Kirven's on First Avenue.)

He was introduced by Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant. Former graduate was Capt. William Munyer of Honolulu. Major Glenn Grim of Marshfield, Wis., was distinguished graduate. Brig. Gen. Nazim Aker, commander of the 4th Helicopter Company, is a colonel, a sister who is a major and two other sisters who are "in the military" as wives of a major and a captain. Capt. Hoisington, son of Col. Gregory Hoisington, has been assigned as company commander of Company I, 30th Infantry Regiment. His brother, Perry M. Hoisington, is a colonel in the Air Force, and one of his three sisters is Major Elizabeth P. Hoisington of the WAC. Cooperation of all combat units will continue to be important in modern warfare since "the battlefield will never be eliminated," he declared.

Expressing a firm belief in the combined arms doctrine, Gen. Bromley pointed out that the cooperation of all arms proved its effectiveness in World War II and Korea under different and changing conditions.

Need One? Girl Scouts Start Baby-Sitter Project

One of the many projects carried on by the Senior Girl Scout Troop on post is the newly formed Senior Scout baby-sitting service. For the convenience of the parents who are seeking baby-sitters, a list of the names, addresses and phone numbers of these girls is given. Each girl in Troop 131 is carrying a heavy load of school activities in addition to the numerous Scout projects planned, therefore a two-day notice is requested. For further information, call Mrs. S. Jerome FB 3-2200.

Rules and regulations: Fee 35 cents an hour; after midnight, 50 cents; holidays, 50 cents; and after midnight 75 cents an hour. Discretion should be used by the parents as to the charge for additional children and the duties to be performed. Please have clothing for children ready to facilitate getting them to bed. Extra charge is required if the girl is left with the kitchen to clean. Make arrangements for baby-sitter at least two days in advance. Please leave phone number and address where you can be reached in case of emergency.

Arrange for safe transportation home for the sitter. If the parents have complaints, please contact Mrs. S. Jerome, their Scout Leader on the following day. For help in securing a sitter, please call Mrs. Keller, FB 3-0265. Give the sitter the approximate time you expect to return. Try to be ready to leave on her arrival. Any specific instructions to be carried out please write and leave with the baby-sitter.

Home Loan Application To Be Available Soon in 3A

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. Monmouth, N.J.—Application forms for home loan insurance will be available to eligible members of the Army no later than Nov. 15, Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, has revealed.

This mortgage insurance is available to personnel who have been on active duty for more than two years and who have a need for housing.

The law authorizes the Federal Housing Administration, to insure loans on homes purchased by members of the Army, as well as the other military services, up to 80 per cent of the FHA-appraised value of property but not to exceed $17,100.

The mortgage insurance is available for the purchase of one-family residences. If a serviceman has acquired such mortgage insurance, he may be issued an additional certificate of eligibility only in those instances where, as a result of military orders or situations of an emergency nature, the denial of the certificate would cause hardship or an injustice.

The period during which the military departments pay the premiums on the insurance commences on the date on which FHA insures a loan and terminates when the military department notifies FHA that it will no longer be liable. Termination may be due to death, discharge, or separation from active duty (except when reenlisted the next day), termination of ownership of the property, other termination of eligibility of the serviceman.

Bn. Officers Now Jumpers

Paratroopers' wings are "in season" among the officers of the Fifth Student Battalion (OC). During the last two months, three battalion officers ranging in rank from second lieutenant to lieutenant colonel requested and received temporary duty with the Airborne School and successfully completed jump training.

Lt. Col. Harold R. Kennedy, assistant executive officer for evaluation of Airborne Candidate School, demonstrated that the battalion can follow the airborne tradition of allowing higher ranking officers the privilege of hitting the silk first. He was one of the first officers of his unit recently to apply for training and graduated with Airborne Class No. 4.

Capt. Eugene Fisk, formerly commanding officer of 11th Company and now Fifth Student Battalion S-4, also completed his training with Class No. 4. Capt. Fisk found himself taking his ground and tower training under M-Sgt. Luke Walker, who had been his own first sergeant in a rifle company he commanded in Alaska in 1951—Company E, 196th RCT. With the relationship reversed, Capt. Fisk heard new things from his former top-kick:

"That will be one gig, sir. Drop down and give me ten!" A few days ago Lt. William R. Foley, a former tactical officer in 11th Company, returned to Headquarters Company a graduate of Airborne Class No. 4. And Lt. Willis G. Powell, a graduate of the parachute and glider course at Fort Benning in 1947 and a veteran of 27 jumps, joined the battalion as assistant S-3.

Judging from the number of applications for airborne now on file, it is proving more and more popular with the battalion's officers.

4 KO's Thrill Biggest Fight Crowd

An estimated crowd of 1100 blood-thirsty, yelling followers of the squared circle were treated to a spine-tingling display of pugilism last Thursday night when the season's (and possibly Fort Benning's) wildest card unfolded.

With Briant Wells Field House almost jam-packed, the throng went mad time after time—especially when STC's Jesus Jimenez lambasted William Johnson into a pulp in the ninth bout. Johnson, a 164th Inf. product, sent Jimenez to the floor in the first round, but the gong sounded before the count ended, and both boys threw fists a mile-minute throughout the second and third rounds before the decision was handed to Jimenez. It wasn't until after the decision was announced that the crowd finally settled back in their seats for a short period of relaxation.

(The noise was continuous through most of the night with the exception of a fan who insisted on reading a book. During the entire course of the evening he sat with legs crossed, too engrossed in the story to care about the action in the ring.)

Virtually every possible windup to a boxing bout was seen, with the exception of a split decision. In all, there were four KO's, four disqualifications, and one decision.

It wasn't until the first fight after intermission that the judges got a chance to earn their money. Prior to that, the crowd had seen three TKO's, two KO's and the disqualification.

Leonard Johnson, Spec. Units, 47th Div., became too hazardous and William Hunter, 135th Inf., won after only 1:30 in their second round.

Divarty's Woodrow (Smiley) Eddy took the night's first decision over Lawrence Johnson, of the 135th Inf.

Only one minute had elapsed in the first round when School Brigade's Glenwood Wiseman KO'd Charlie Georgia, from Spec. Units, 47th Div.

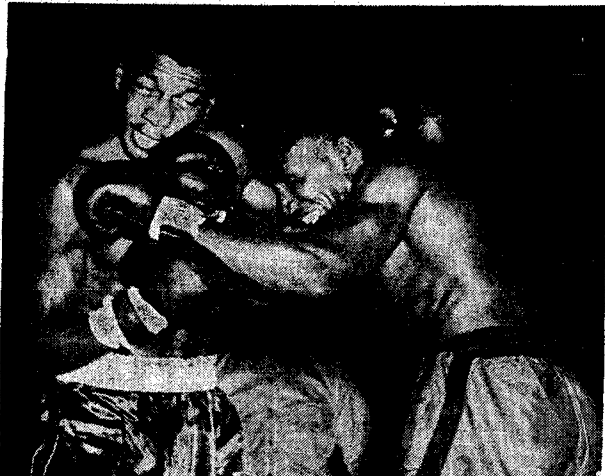

Harold Weems, Divarty lightweight, took a decision over CTC's Lawrence Fender.

In a Class III light-welterweight bout, Homer Pickney, CTC, went down for the count of nine after 1:30 of the second round, and in less than a minute later, his opponent, Alfonso Malone, 135th Inf., found his target again and Pickney fell for the full count.

The evening's finale saw George Robinson, 135th Inf., Class II light-welterweight, cop a decision over Leon Nelson, 164th Inf.

12 Fights on BWFH Card Tonight

Ten, Class IV bouts are on tap tonight at the Harmony Church Arena beginning at 7:30. A large representation of any single with the Class IV fights are one unit and one Class III bouts.

The 135th Inf. Reg. will be represented by five pugilists, the largest representation of any single unit for the night. Following Class I and one Class III bouts.

SMACK . . . It looks as if Alfonso Malone, background, is "puckering for a buss" while Homer Pickney gets down to the business of throwing fists. But Malone, found his target in the second round and sent Pickney to the canvas for the full count in one of last week's thrillers.

Should the 164th aggregation repeat its past performances the unit will advance further on its now existing 10 points, and first place will still be in the hands of 164th.

Leading the card will be Leon Hall, CTC, vs Taft Ellis, 164th Inf., in a Class I light middleweight bout in what is expected to be one of the top bouts thus far in the season.

Squad to Be Picked Friday

U.S. R&P Teams End Post Tryouts

The final team will be chosen Friday at Fort Benning to represent the United States in the World Rifle and Pistol Championships at Caracas, Venezuela, from Nov. 16 to 27.

Thirteen rifle and pistol shooters were selected Monday leaving 12 still to be picked.

Eight of the first 13 members are veterans of the 1952 Olympic and World Championship teams.

The three pistol shooters who will represent the U. S. again are Lt. Col. Harry Reeves, USMC, of Detroit, Michigan, six-time United States champion, Master Sergeant Hueley Benner, USA, of West Point, N. Y., and Second Lt. William W. McMillan, USMR, of Turtle Creek, Pa.

The five international veteran rifle shooters to make the squad were Arthur C. Jackson, of Washington, D. C., Second Lt. Verle Wright, USAF, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Lt. Col. Emmett O. Swanson, USMC, of Minneapolis, Minn., Lt. Arthur Cook, USAF, of Washington, D. C., and August Westergaard, of Sloan, Iowa.

The newcomers to the pistol squad are Capt. John F. Dodds and Capt. Ralph W. Anthony, USA, both of Ft. Benning, and CWO Offutt Pinion, USN, of Norfolk, Va. Neophytes on the 22 caliber rifle squad are William G. McMillan, of Bernardville, N. J., and Second Lt. James M. Smith, USMC, of Camp Lejeune, N. C.

The six pistol and seven rifle marksmen selected Monday represent one-half the squad which will be sent to South America by the National Rifle Association of America. Of the men selected Monday, Reeves, Benner and McMillan also will try to win spots on the rapid-fire pistol squad and riflemen on the team in elimination tryouts which started early last spring.

Thirty-five countries will be represented in the world rifle and pistol championships which will be held in Venezuela. The American team will leave from Mobile, Alabama on Nov. 9.

From all indications the American team will be one of the strongest ever sent overseas and has a good chance of winning several world titles which have been dominated by the Swedes, Norwegians, Swis, and Russians for years.

Flickertails Win 4th Straight Game

The league-leading 164th Infantry Regiment won its fourth consecutive Infantry Center football game, 20-7, against the stubborn 135th Infantry Red Bulls Sunday at Doughboy Stadium.

The Flicks grabbed an early first quarter 1-6 and thanks to a lucky break and stiff neck by Razzie Smith, Tony Spennachio, whose fine arm was responsible for a 44-yard drive to the enemy's two yard line, rifled a pass into the end zone, which a Red Bull defender blocked with his chest.

Smith snared the ball before it hit the ground for the touchdown. The play cost the Red Bulls the services of stellar halfback Gordon McGehee, who was injured and removed from the game.

Center John Snoderly and guard George Wade were defensive stand-out for the winners while the Red Bulls defenders were specked by ends Ben Mahanke and Will Harris and tackle Bill Baltz.

Commanders Rip Blues 26-0 In Power Display

The 30th Infantry Blues dropped drive with a 10-yard aerial to Charlie Smith from Clyde Young for the TD. The point after kick was blocked by Red Bull driving CTC end, Charlie Kuehn. Later in the same period little Joe Gnerre highlighted another scoring drive by scampering 50 yards to the four yard marker, where Bill West forced his way into the end zone. Frank Fuller added the point after touchdown to make the score 13-0.

Following an uneventful first quarter, the 30th put together two drives in the second that were earmarked for touchdowns but failed to materialize. In the third quarter, however, they went right to work and capped a 64-yard

Weekend Action

136 Next for Flicks

CTC Meets Brigade, STC Plays 135

Saturday afternoon at 2 the undefeated 164th Inf. Flickertails will put their unblemished record on the line when the 136th Bearcats take the field in what shapes up to be the game of the week.

Friday night the School Brigade Rams will run through a bracket against the Commanders of CTC, and Sunday afternoon it will be Andy Kozar's STC Green Wave versus the Red Bulls from the 135th Inf.

The Flickertails, proud owners of a 4-0 record, will meet one of the league's tougher elevens, now in the third place spot. Should the Flickertails falter along the way they will wake up in a two-way first-place tie with the School Brigade line, proving, of course, the latter squad continues its present pace.

Charlie Kuehn's Commanders stand small chance of gaining prestige after this Friday night's defeat by the Rams. The Cronkmen from down School Brigade way have no intention of losing their 3-1 record in the weekend opener and Joe Fortunato is as bull-headed as ever in his full-back position. The CTC line is weak except for Kuehn's left end position and their offensive machine won't be ready for the evening's battle.

The Green Wave will have its best chance of the year to get out of the cellar Sunday afternoon by defeating the 135th Bearcats. Former All-American Andy Kozar, STC menter, should be well aware of that fact when the Wave takes to the field. The Bearcats have lost the same number of games as STC (3) even though they have one victory to their credit, but STC is win-conscious at this stage of the season.

Kozar began to hit his stride in the last game and with sharper playing offensively the Wave could possibly move out of the cellar into daylight for the first time this year.

Next Thursday, Armistice Day, at 2 p. m. the Redlegs of Divarty will collide with second place 30th Inf. in a scrap that should see the latter retain its second place standing. The 30th Inf. Blues like their position and Divarty is not the team to put the Blues farther down the ladder.

After a first-half scoreless deadlock, the School Brigade Rams connected with four TD aeriels, two brilliant runs, and a safety last Friday night to defeat the Green Wave of STC, 41 to 0.

It was the Rams' third victory against one defeat and kept them in a second place berth in the TIC league. STC is all but out of the race after the one-sided setback, with their 0-3 record.

Throughout the first and second periods the Green Wave defense, though pounded constantly, refused to give ground to the Ram attack. Then the Cronkmen jumped to the field with new determination in the third period and Coach Andy Kozar's Green Wave couldn't withstand the terrific aerial and ground barrage that brought back memories of last year's Brigade post championships.

Charles Gray's 40 yard pass to Ed Hamilton broke the deadlock about a minute after the beginning of the second half. Joe Fortunato added six more on a five yard thrust, and later Gray found John Middleton open for a 44 yard TD pass.

The rampage continued in the final quarter, as little Jerry Stewart bolted over from the seven yard line and Gray connected with more scores, one a 45-yard aerial his passes to Middleton for two and another for 15.

LAST WEEK'S STARS

Ed Cirillo has been edging toward Back of the Week all season. He has been consistently totting the pigskin around end, through the line, and all over the gridiron. This week he earned the honor for his offensive performance in the Flickertails' rout of the 135th Red Bulls.

His breakout running gained 115 yards on the ground for the league leaders and it looks, at this stage of the season, as if Ed stands an excellent chance of an All-Post nomination.

Coach Jack Youngblood knows that no one man can make a team, but we feel that Cirillo has contributed as much as, and possibly more than, two or three first string griders.

Linerman of the Week also comes from the undefeated Flickertails. It was on defense that George Wade hit the spotlight. For had it not been for Wade's magnificent lightning-like breaks through the offensive line, perhaps the final score of the 164-135 encounter would have been different in Sunday morning's papers.

Wade is not different from any other guard in statistics. He stands 5'11" and weighs 200 pounds. But it is not always the statistics that count. In last Saturday's tussle Wade shone especially on three daring dashes through the 135 forward wall to smother the ball carrier for a substantial loss. His performance gained many favorable comments from fans and we imagine that his All-Post carrier for a substantial loss. His performance gained many favorable comments from fans and we imagine that his All-Post carrier for a substantial loss. Post Presents Grid Program To QB Group

It was Fort Benning Night Oct. 29 at the weekly meeting of the Columbus Quarterback Club and Lt. William Mitchum, toastmaster, had the members practically rolling in the aisles.

The former University of Florida star, now head coach of the 30th Infantry Regiment football team was introduced by Brig. Gen. Ernest A. Barlow, deputy commanding general of The Infantry Center. Lt. Mitchum in turn introduced Post coaches and special services officers who were guests of the club.

After commenting on some of his experiences while at Florida, Lt. Mitchum said that Fort Benning turned out fine football coaches and invited Quarterback Club members to "come out and watch us in action any Friday, Saturday or Sunday."

He also said that head coaches worked as hard as the players—something that most fans don't realize. "They study films of their own team and of other teams over and over again and develop individual series of plays."

"In checking the films of the opposing teams, they see that a squad will develop a pattern and that pattern reflects the coaches personality," he continued.

The night is an annual affair of the Columbus Quarterback Club which annually devotes one of its meetings to a tribute to the athletic program at The Infantry Center.

Quarterback Club Capt. Charlie Dudley who presided at the meeting before the program praised the "fine athletic program at The Infantry Center and the excellent relations which have existed between the Army and Columbus for the past 36 years."

Vejar Plans Siam Fight

Chico Vejar, among the top 12 contenders for the world's welterweight crown, is scheduled to be released from service in January.

His current plans include a trip to Siam at the expense of the Siamese government for a fight with that country's leading welterweight. After that scrap he will return to the West Coast and fight for a few months before making a tour of Europe.

11 Squads To Compete For Title

Four post teams will begin play-off Monday at Gowdy Field for the TIC Touch Football Championship. At 7 p.m. Special Units, 47th Div., will face the Provisional Medical Group squad and at 8:30 p.m., STC will battle the 136th Inf. Reg. Play will continue again Tuesday night at the same time and then will be held up until Monday, Nov. 15, when the semi-finals get under way.

There are 11 teams in the league, consisting of the 30th Inf., CTC, STC, PMG, ISD, AFF Bd. No. 3, 164th Inf., 136th Inf., 135th Inf., Special Units, 47th Div., and Divarty.

For a small number of the squads it will be a tough battle due to the fact of lack of experience, but to CTC it will be a downhill drive if they can manage to take their first game against Divarty.

However, all five teams representing the 47th Division will bear watching since they are full of surprises. The famed 47th athletic squads have been undefeated all year and a large majority of Fort Benning touch football fans are rooting for the Viking teams.

The finals of the tournament will be played on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 8 p.m. with a trophy presentation to follow.

SB Grid Title Won by Co. H

In a game played Oct. 27, Company H of the Fourth Infantry Battalion of the School Student Battalion of the School Brigade, led by the superior passing of Paul Bonair and the glue covered fingers of his pass receivers, overwhelmed Third Student Battalion 40 to 6.

The game was played to decide the champion team in the Brigade. Company H will represent the School Brigade in the Infantry Center Tournament.

Co. H Takes ISD Title

Company H won the Infantry School Detachment Touch Football championship last week with a smashing 34-0 victory over a strong Company A six.

Before the game the two teams were tied for first-place honors, each with a 5-1 record.

Other teams in order of their final standings in the league were Company G, E, F, B, and G.

Co. F Cops ISD Cage Tackle With 6-0 Record

Last Thursday night the Company F team walked away with top honors in the Infantry School Detachment Intramural Basketball Tournament with an impressive 53-46 victory over second place Company E.

The F Company quintet had a perfect 6-0 season record while second place E Company had a 5-1 mark. In third place was Company G with a 4-2 record.

F Company Bagging ISD Cage League

With only one game left to play, Company seems to have the Infantry School Detachment Intramural Basketball League championship in the bag.

The team, with a 5-0 record, is closely gassed by companies G and E, each with a 4-1 mark. Individual end team trophies will be awarded to the winning team at the close of play.

3-Way Meet Starts Tuesday Irene Curtiss Triumphs In Post Golf Tourney

BY JEANNE ARMSTRONG

Irene Curtiss, a seasoned veteran on the golf course and a two-time winner of the Club Handicap Championship, scored again last week as a top golfer and won the women's club three-day tourney with a low 215. Reba Marks trailed close behind and copped second place with 217, and Mary Leo Lindeman was third with 222.

In the nine-hole group Jeanne Hannlon took top honors with 108 and Nancy Leo Beck and Helen Davis tied for second place with 109. They will play off for second and third position.

Mary Ann Magruder had the fewest putts on the last day of the tournament in the 18 hole group with 28, while Jeanne Hannlon had 16 in the nine-hole class.

The most improved players in the tourney were Aleda Lehman, 18-hole, who took 11 strokes off her game and Jean Sadler, 9-hole, who took 10 strokes off.

Awards will be given out at a luncheon on Nov. 22, and the trophy will be presented to Mrs. Curtiss.

The Elebash tournament time is here again. Ladies from Fort Benning and the Columbus Country Club have been qualifying all week for the big annual interclub event. The tournament will start Nov. 9 at Fort Benning. The second and third days of play will be at the Columbus Country Club. Awards will be made at the traditional cocktail party following completion of the final round of play.

Last year the Elebash was won by Columbus's Betty Smith who edged out medalist Mary Leo Lindeman of Fort Benning.

The Oct. 22 tournament was won by Fran Bolling, Gloria Eilers and Mary Ann Magruder in the 18-hole class. The nine-hole winners were Helen Thomas, Jeanne Hannlon and Helen Davis. Last Friday the winners were Irene Curtiss, Mary Leo Lindeman and Reba Marks, all 18 holers. Rosiland Brown, Jeanne Hannlon and Helen Thomas were winners for nine.

First Battalion Wins Special Troops League

Members of the Co. C, First Special Troops Battalion, became Special Troops Command touch football champions Friday by defeating the 146th Trans. Co. (LI. Truck), 9 to 8.

Played in the Third Quartel, the game was controlled by the 146th team during the first half. Howell Parrent intercepted a pass thrown by Donald Daly of Co. C. Parrent galloped for 65 yards for the first and only 146th TD and the score was 6 to 0 in favor of the 146th. As the half ended the 146th, by the threat of defeat, Co. CTC Sends Service Company Team To Post Tournament

In a close and exciting championship game last Monday afternoon the 41st Field Artillery Battalion's team of 22 to 20 to win the

CTC championship and will represent CTC in the TIC competition. The 30th league championship was taken by the Service Company team when they defeated Company H, representing the Second Battalion, in the final game to sport a 4-1 loss record. Service Company lost only one encounter when they were tripped 7-6 by the Company I team in the semi-final league game.

The standings of the rest of the league found the 27th AAA Company taking second place with a 6-2 mark. The 67 Chemical Smoke Company and the 406th Engineer Company, representing the 78th Engineer Battalion, tied for third place with 1-2 records. Headquarters Company, representing 1st Lt. for third place were Headquarters and Headquarters Company and by winning three in a row, losing the 27th AAA Company, representing the 714th Tank Battalion, and then turned the tables on the 188th Field Artillery Battalion, were both eliminated without a win.

Trophies Spur OC M-1 Firers

Before the aspiring Infantry lieutenants of 11th OC Company fired the M-1 for record on McAndrew Range, they had a chance to see the spoils of victory—the trophies awarded for high scoring.

OC Daniel A. Adress of Fort Meyers, Fla., and OC Theodore H. Townsend, of Syracuse, N. Y., fired 228 to tie for second place. Adress was originally stationed with the 101st Airborne Regiment at Fort Jackson, S. C. Townsend, who hadn't fired an M-1 for six years, was formerly a sergeant in the 488th M.P. Company, Fort Lewis, Wash.

GENERALS GREET GENERAL . . . Brig. Gen. Robert N. Tyson, right, new commander of the 47th Infantry Division Artillery, is seen here with Major Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, left, division commander, and Brig. Gen. Earl C. Bergquist, assistant commander. Gen. Tyson commanded the Second Armored Division Artillery in Germany before coming to Fort Benning. He is a 1934 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy.

America Will Honor 20 Million Veterans

Post to Observe First 'Vets' Day

Tomorrow America honors the 20 million living men and women who fought in its wars and nameless others who have died. It is Veteran's Day from border to border and from sea to sea.

At Fort Benning no special post-wide observance has been planned, but numerous events will take place and are covered elsewhere in this issue.

Below is a story of the homecoming of one veteran 33 years ago—the Unknown Soldier, who lies in Arlington National Cemetery.

Tomb of the Unknown Soldier

WASHINGTON — The skies were gray over the capital city the entire day of Nov. 11, 1921. There were fitful moments of sunshine, but these passed quickly as if in deference to the mood of the nation.

From across the Potomac, the guns at Fort Myer fired their relentless dirge at one-minute intervals. They had begun at 8:30 in the morning and they did not stop until their silence climaxed the event toward which this day was building—the burial of a U.S. Army soldier who had died in battle.

At the steps of the capitol, a cortege was forming behind the caisson, draped in black, which carried a flag-covered coffin.

Two presidents of the United States led the mourners—Harding, who was to walk the three and a half miles down the avenues and across the bridge to Arlington National Cemetery; and Wilson, bound by a crippling illness to a horse-drawn carriage.

Following on foot were justices of the Supreme Court, senators and congressmen, ranking officers of the military services, and the personal representatives of foreign heads of state, come across the Atlantic for the occasion.

They were honoring the memory of a man who, in dying, had become a symbol of all men who had given their lives for a cause beyond self in all wars. He had no name in death.

No one knew where he had lived or whom he had loved or what manner of man he had been. He was without race or creed or color; he had no military rank.

But this day—and for all time—he was all races, all creeds, all manner of men; he ranked all who followed him to his final resting place among our country's honored dead.

He was on the last lap of his journey home. The trip started Oct. 22, 1921.

His was one of eight bodies—completely without identity save for the uniform in which they died—exhumed from the "unknown" plots in the four battle areas in France where lay the majority of the American war-dead.

Four of the eight were left behind as alternates in event of last-minute identification of the four who were transported to Chalons-sur-Marne where the final choice of the man to be honored would be made.

So great was the secrecy during this part of the soldier's journey home that no one knew from which cemetery he had come—Aisne-Marne, Meuse-Argonne, Somme, or St. Mihiel.

On Oct. 24, the second stage of his journey was completed.

With the others, he lay in a white coffin guarded by American and French soldiers and a representative of the American Legion. While hundreds passed to do

GIs to Feast Thanksgiving

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Although Third Army troops will have a sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner, one traditional item will be absent—pumpkin pie.

Master menus prepared by the Quartermaster, Department of the Army, in Washington, have left off the pie this year, but instead will call for mince meat pie, fruit cake, ice cream, assorted fresh fruits and candies, coffee and salted nuts.

Pumpkin pie was left off because when two different pies were served at the same meal troops eat only a little of each, thus causing considerable waste.

While pumpkin pie will be missing it will find a place on the Christmas dinner.

Enlisted personnel will be permitted to have members of their immediate families and one friend as guest at the big holiday dinners this year. The cost will be on a flat per-guest basis. This privilege will come under the jurisdiction of the installation commander, and will depend on whether conditions at the installation will be such that the troops can invite guests.

One for Freedom's Book

One man lost his leg that another man might live. There is no high-Nova moral to this story. It's just the way things happened.

It was in Korea in April, 1951, that the Chinese launched their spring offensive in North Korea. OC Jack C. Walt of 11th Company, then a sergeant first class, was platoon sergeant of Item Company, 7th Infantry Division.

On April 26, during the defense of the Kansas Line, Walt was wounded in the head, eye, and leg by shrapnel and small arms fire. Upon being hit, he was pulled to partial safety by Sgt. Elmer E. Harper of Florida.

Minutes after he got Walt back of friendly lines, Harper himself was critically wounded in the leg by a Chinese hand grenade.

Walt remained unconscious for two hours and knew little of the episode "till I awoke to find myself in friendly hands."

Back at Benning, Walt is too busy at OCS to have many thoughts about Korea; except, of course, an occasional one about a sergeant from Florida who made it possible for him to be here.

For Thanksgiving the troops will have a tomato juice cocktail, assorted relishes, roast y o u n g turkey, oyster dressing, giblet can invite guests.

Foreign Leaders Plan Post Visit

Military officials from Denmark and Japan will visit the post during this month. Lt. Col. Albert H. Klokho, commander of the Danish Infantry School, is already here for five weeks of observer training.

He will be followed Nov. 23-25 by two other officials of his country's army, Major Gen. Frode Lund Hvalkof, commander of the Sixth Danish Army, and Lt. Col. Frode Harder Hartvig, commander of the Second Battalion, Fifth Infantry Regiment.

Five Japanese colonels from the Military Assistance Advisory Group will begin a two-day visit Nov. 23 under the auspices of the Military Defense Assistance Pact. They are Col. Shoji I. Ota, Masshiko Takekishi, Junzo Harai, Taro Watanabe and Kazuo Kobayashi. Col. Klokho's training will include briefings on the organization and mission of the Infantry School's headquarters and academy departments. He also will witness training problems conducted by each of the departments before leaving Nov. 29.

Gen. Hvalkof and Col. Hartvig and the Japanese officials will be oriented and witness several demonstrations during their two-day stay.

SET THREE INDIVIDUAL RECORDS

Going Places BIOC No. 5 Steps Out And Smashes Records

During the past ten weeks, 18th Company's BIOC No. 5 has been stepping out in front by stepping on many former records. Composed of half Regulars and half Reservists and National Guard officers, the company has made its mark both in the classroom and on the athletic field.

After qualifying 91 per cent on the map reading course, the class fired a company average of 201 out of a possible 250 on the M-1 rifle qualification course, with 99 per cent of the class firing qualifying scores. The Major Committee announced that the company's performance surpassed any on record for a BIOC class.

Undeclared softball and basketball teams add to the company's record. The highlight game for the softball team was its 15 to 1 victory over BIOC No. 4. Though the basketball season is just beginning, the team already has two wins and has offered an open challenge to all comers.

Extra exercise each afternoon after training has paid high dividends. In five weeks of work the class has raised its average on the Army Physical Fitness Tests from 240 to 269.5, setting a new high for BIOC classes.

In addition, four individual BIOC records were broken. Lt. William Purdue (right) now holds the high score mark with 467 points. He also claims the 300-yard dash record with a time of 46.5 seconds. Lt. William Odum (left) broke the 500-yard record with 2:09.9, and Lt. Charles Storrs (center) the pull-up record with 21.

Spirit and morale are high in BIOC as the class takes on the goal of setting a mark in training and all-round performance that will give succeeding classes something to shoot for.

Chest Drive At 99 Per Cent, Lacking $2,500

Fort Benning Community Chest officials reported Monday that a $50,000 budget for 1955. This total represents almost 99 per cent participation by 200 persons.

Chest officials emphasized, however, that they would not accept defeat. Although the fund-raising campaign officially ended Nov. 2, officials believe that the few organizations which did not reach the goal of 100 per cent participation could put the drive over the top, budget-wise.

Backing the increase for the drive is Col. William R. Fields, 1928 brigade chairman, who is Quartermaster Section's first among the staff sections in the amount contributed per donor.

Sixteen officers of the section contributed a total of $137.25 or an average of $8.58 per person. Other sections ranking in the first 10 according to amount contributed were: Chemical, $8.25; G-1, $7.40; Engineers, $7.15; Special Services, $6.94; Secretary to the General Staff, $6.85; G-4, $6.68; Troop Information and Education, $6.67; Comptroller, $6.55, and Inspector General, $6.46.

First-See Your Legal Man

Sturdley has legal problems, but—like most of us—he doesn't know a habeus corpus from a corpus delicti. Unfortunately, Sturdley will go to his buddy, the "guard-house lawyer" and get all the answers—the wrong answers. But the right answers—just for Sturdley and anyone else in the Armed Forces—are just around the corner at the office of the legal assistance officer.

The legal assistance officer will give you accurate—and free—counseling and advice on all legal problems. Problems brought to him are kept in strict confidence.

He'll help you complete legal documents and get your personal affairs in order. He may not go to court for you, but he'll help you find someone who will.

However, don't seek his advice when you are—or might be—the subject of court-martial investigation or charges.

But in all other legal matters, feel free to seek the legal assistance officer's counseling. He knows his job and his job is to help you. (AFPS)

The Unknown Soldier

homage to the four unknown dead, he waited.

Then came Sergeant Edward F. Younger of Chicago, Ill.—23 years old, a veteran of all four major engagements; wounded in action and twice decorated.

Two times the sergeant circled the four coffins. Then, as if compelled, his arm went out. The spray of white roses he carried was placed on the third coffin from the left.

The sergeant had given a name to the nameless dead: Tenderly, gently, they brought him home.

He crossed the Atlantic on Admiral Dewey's flagship; he came to Washington to lie in state for two days in the rotunda of the capitol on the catafalque which had borne the bodies of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley.

His pallbearers were non-commissioned officers of the Army, Navy and Marines; his honorary pallbearers were generals and admirals. His mourners were the great and near-great and the everyday citizens who were the greatness of his country.

When he was buried that Nov. 11, a whole nation bowed its head in prayer for two minutes. When his body was lowered into the ground the prayers of four ministers—Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, Congregationalist and Jewish—went with it. Upon his bier were laid the highest military honors of the peace-loving nations—the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross of his own country; the Medaille Militaire and the Croix de Guerre with palm of France; the first Victoria Cross ever given a non-British subject; the Belgian and Italian Croix de Guerres; Polish and Czechoslovakian medals.

Then Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, who had introduced the congressional legislation that made this honor possible, placed on his grave the first of those wreaths that were to be a continuing tribute through the years.

Today, not far away from him in Arlington, lies another man—the Sergeant Younger who had put the selective spray of roses on his flag-draped coffin in France so long ago.

Around him lie four generations of hero-dead. They have names and kinfolk and acknowledged creed and color and race.

But only he, the nameless one, is entitled to the simple inscription which reads:

Here Rests in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known but to God.

Most Human Beings Have a Genius, Like Louis XIV, for Wasting Time

BY CHAPLAIN (FIRST LT.) EDWARD M. LAMM
It was the courtyard of King Louis the fourteenth. Bugles announced the entrance of the king, heralds raised their flags, soldiers snapped to attention, the crowd fell silent, and the loudspeakers blared the king's schedule for the day— "Le Roi ne fera rien!" today the King will do nothing. This little seemingly minor incident is a significant omen of the collapse of the French regime, and it marks the beginning of the History of the French Revolution. Subsequently the author refers to Louis the fourteenth as "Roi Faîneant" or the "Magnificent King Do-Nothing."

But the French were not alone in this business of wasting time. The famous Italian phrase that was current before the recent downfall of their government, "L'italiano è pigro, è inerte, è inerte, è inerte," it is sweet to do nothing. I feel quite certain that if we diagnosed the downfall of most nations we would find that one of the major symptoms of decay is the wholesale disregard of time.

Jump Chap. Wins Medal

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. Monmouth, Ga. — Chaplain (Capt.) John C. Francis, a paratrooper chaplain in the Army, has won the Soldier's Medal for heroism.

The medal, presented by Maj. Gen. R. G. Gard, deputy commander of the Third Army, went to Post Chaplain Francis for rescuing soldiers from burning wreckage following the crash of an airplane in a mess hall at Fort Bragg N. C., on 30 March 1954.

His citation reads: "While en route to one of the mess halls in the area, he saw a C-119 ('Flying Boxcar') crash into an occupied mess hall. He ran to the scene and found the aircraft and mess hall in flames.

"Although there was immediate danger of explosion of the gas tanks of the aircraft, with complete disregard for his own safety, he entered the wreckage and succeeded in removing two of the injured. In an effort to rescue another, he again entered the flaming wreckage and attempted to remove a soldier who was hopelessly entangled in the wreckage.

"Falling in this attempt, he remained to administer first aid to the injured man even though flames were creeping nearer."

A native of Morristown, N. J., Chaplain Francis is the son of Mrs. Francis C. Lockwood, New York City, N. Y.

RETIREES AFTER 34 YEARS... Maj. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, Co. F, 1st Div., of Thibodaux, La., was retired from the Army after 34 years active service. A parade in his honor was held by troops of the Infantry School Detachment. Here he shakes hands with Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, while Col. Donald Washington, commander of the School Brigade, looks on.

Sarge Ends Career

Hunted Rabbits at Site Of Post Parade Ground

On the very field where he hunted rabbit as a young soldier 34 years ago, Maj. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche stood while 500 troops of the Infantry School Detachment paraded in his honor.

The sergeant recalled after the parade that when he came to Benning in 1920 there were only cotton stalks and furrows where the massive buildings housing the Infantry School Detachment now stand.

Further reminiscing about his early Army days, the sergeant told how he got up at 3 o'clock in the morning to feed 500 horses and mules that were used to transport officers to their morning problems and classes. The only buildings on the post were tents with a few wooden buildings scattered about.

Entering the service at Jackson Barracks in New Orleans on July 27, 1920, the veteran soldier has been stationed here 27 years, 25 of those with the 24th Infantry and the Philippines.

His latest assignment, construction foreman of the Custodial Section, The Infantry School, brought him a Certificate of Achievement from The Infantry Center.

Army May Ditch 'Bulls-Eye' For Advance Type Targets

The traditional bulls-eye target may disappear as the Army develops a new rifle range for marksmanship training.

Recent tests conducted on this experimental range showed significant improvements in marksmanship skills, reported officials of Human Research Unit No. 3 who developed the range.

Representatives of the Department of the Army, George Washington University and Army Field Forces headquarters were here last week to view the experimental course and test it for themselves.

Designed to give combat realism to rifle training, the new course is the result of more than a year's efforts by the Human Research Unit. It differs from the traditional "known distance" ranges in many ways, including type of target and equipment and terrain, said Dr. Howard H. McFann, project officer.

The course includes motivation, target detection and marking, 1,000-inch range firing and firing at realistic targets which fall when hit.

These targets are fired upon from foxholes and the standing and squatting positions, using various types of cover such as a wall, stump or high rock.

A recent experiment showed that basic trainees using the new course were significantly more proficient in target detection and in accurately neutralizing the targets, said Dr. Howard H. McFann, project officer.

Demos Win Control Of Senate, House

NEW YORK (APFS) - In the biggest and closest non-presidential election in U. S. history, the Democrats won control of Congress, though the results may not be final for several weeks because of the extremely narrow margin of victory in some contests.

Nearly 46 million voters cast ballots to elect the entire U. S. House of Representatives, approximately 100 million voters cast ballots to elect the entire U. S. Senate, 33 in each state and two in the District of Columbia.

The Republican candidate, Clifford Case, appears to have won in New Jersey and the Democratic candidate, Richard Neuberger, who lost in Oregon, But, in both elections, only a few thousand votes separate winner and loser and a recount is in prospect. Officials said absentee ballots could affect the outcome in both states.

The Democrats won other new Senate seats in Nevada, Michigan, Wyoming and Kentucky, where former Vice President Alben Barkley was elected. The Republicans won seats previously held by Democrats in Ohio, Iowa, and Colorado.

If the present results are unchanged by recounts, the line-up in the new Senate next January will be: 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and one independent, Sen. Wayne Morse, of Oregon. Sen. Morse has announced he will vote with the Democrats in the matter of organizing the Senate, thus giving them the committee chairmanships, now held by the Republicans.

Committee chairmen in both the House and Senate are extremely important since they direct the progress of new legislation. Sen. Walter George, (Ga.) is expected to become President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the official who presides over that body in absence of the Vice President. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, (Tex.) Minority Leader, will in all probability be elected Majority Leader of the new Senate by vote of his Democratic colleagues.

As a result of the elections, there are now 27 Democratic governors and 21 Republican governors, a gain of eight for the Democrats. New governors elected were: McFarland (D-Ariz.); Johnson (D-Colo.); Ribicoff (D-Conn.); Muski (D-Maine); Harriman (D-N.Y.); Lander (D-Pa.); Friesman (D-Minn.); Sims (D-N.M.).

In both Connecticut and New York, the results were so close that recounts are to be held.

Approximately 3200 officers and men returned to military control during the prisoner exchange more than a year ago and only about 225 cases were found to warrant additional investigation. After intensive examinations this figure was reduced to about 40 for possible trial.

Continental Army commanders have been authorized to conduct pre-trial investigations in these cases and are responsible for determining the proper disciplinary action. There are fewer than a dozen in any one Army area.

Officers Hold Lodge Party

Student officers of 11th Company, the School Brigade, and their wives held an informal party at King's Pond Lodge Saturday evening.

Sponsored by the Student Council, the party brought to a close the fourth week of the 17 week course for the company.

About 150 officers and their wives attended. Capt. and Mrs. L. E. Enoch, Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Early, First Lt. and Mrs. R. L. Cook, and First Lt. and Mrs. W. H. Dawson.

Second Lt. Turner Olyoe was master of ceremonies for the program which included a piano routine by Second Lt. John Lindley and vocal numbers by Lt. Felix Mendez and Lloyd Fitzgerald.

OUTSTANDING... Second Lt. George T. Griffin was presented the Commendation Ribbon with Medal Pendant by Col. Norman H. Wiley, commander of the U. S. Army Hospital here, for outstanding work in Medical Company, 15th Infantry Regiment in Korea. He is assigned to the 913th Medical Co.

Woman's Club Schedules Tuesday Show by Star

Corneilia Otis Skinner, noted actress, will be presented at Theater No. 1 Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, by the Fort Benning Woman's Club. Miss Skinner, whose performance is open to the public, will be seen in series of character sketches, for which she has become so famous.

This is the second time in recent years Miss Skinner has appeared at Fort Benning. She was here three years ago and those who saw her then are anxiously awaiting Tuesday evening's performance.

Miss Skinner has developed a unique style in her character sketches. She appears along on a barren stage and within moments after the curtain rises she has her audience almost seeing and hearing the persons to whom she speaks.

Miss Skinner has also brought fame to herself through the delightful book, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," of which she is co-author.

Tickets are being sold at Theater No. 1, and in several of the units on post, and at Kaysers-Lidenthal, Town and Country, Baker Music Co., and Humes Music Co. in Columbus. They are $1 each, and no seats will be reserved. Tickets will be sold at the door Tuesday evening. Curtain time is 8:45 p.m.

Enlistments Total 246 for October

Reenlistments at Fort Benning totaled 246 during October, the post Recruiting Office announced.

Among the major units, Combat Training Command was high with 61 reenlistments, followed by Special Troops Command with 52.

The School Brigade reported 51, the U. S. Army Hospital, five, Army Field Forces Board No. 2, and Provisional Medical Group, one. The 47th Infantry Division had 7.

Four communications specialists proved "good scouts" recently at LaGrange, Ga., where they staged a special demonstration for the West Georgia Boy Scout Council. The four-man team, which demonstrated Infantry communications equipment and the use of the Morse Code, has been commended in letters to the Communications Department from LaGrange citizens.

Harry C. Brahm, West Georgia Boy Scout Council executive proctor.

"As you know, Morse Code is one of the hardest parts of the Advancement Program for most boys, and this insight into communications should stimulate the Scouts to do a better job."

Horace Richter, LaGrange attorney who is active in the scout program writes:

"The Scouts showed a great deal of interest in the program and I am sure that it was well worth the time and expense involved."

Mr. Richter added a personal commendation for M-Sgt. Marshall McMillan, who headed the team, for an excellent job.

Other members of the demonstration unit included Cpl. Thomas Owen, Pfc. James Thomason, and Pfc. Thomas Costell. All are assigned to The Fundamentals Committee of the Communications Department.

They went to LaGrange at the request of the West Georgia Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The 182nd Infantry Regiment of Massachusetts is the oldest unit in the Army National Guard.

Trigger squeeze is all important when firing the M-1 Rifle, but when hunting with a 20 gauge shotgun it is a good idea to know what you are shooting at. That is what Second Lt. Richard Elsom of Eighth Company, the School Brigade, found out.

Lt. Elsom took careful aim and fired at what he thought was a squirrel. Upon going to retrieve his kill he found to his regret it was a skunk — and still alive.

The rest of the day was spent scrubbing with soap, water, and most everything used for such purposes.

Scouts Plan Story Hour For Kiddies

A treat is in store for children from the ages of 4 to 7 on Saturday, Nov. 13 at 3:30 in the Main Post Library when Duryea Douglas, Darlene Lamb and Pat Uschold conduct a story hour. The girls, of the Senior Girl Scout Troop 151, will use original artwork to illustrate the stories.

In addition to the program by the Scouts special recordings from the Children's Book Council will be played.

This service is in connection with a nine-week library course in which the Scouts are participating. In the course of the Hospital Library the girls made uniforms and learned how to read books and how to use the library.

We know how much Long Distance calls mean to service men, and we want to give you the best possible service. Here are two ways you can help:

1. If you can give the operator the out-of-town telephone number, she won't have to consult "Information" in the city you're calling and your call will go through faster.
2. Since you may be hard to locate, it is generally better for you to call the folks back home, instead of their calling you. Charges can be reversed.

To help you get faster service, you'll find out-of-town directories for the larger cities at each telephone center.

Bearcats Outplay Leaders In TIC Season's First Tie

BY JIM MONTGOMERY

Reserve quarterback Ben Howze's dramatic 51-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass in the fading minutes enabled the 164th Infantry Flickertails to salvage a 14-14 tie with a victory-minded 136th eleven in Doughboy Stadium last Saturday. The stalemate left the unbeaten 164th atop the TIC league standings.

The Flicks, one touchdown choice before the kickoff, found their backs rammed viciously against the wall by a hard charging Bearcat line which limited the 164th backs to a net of less than 50 yards overland. Unable to advance foot, Howze and starting quarterback Tom Spennocchio launched the airift successfully enough to produce the other Flick tail and also enable the big Green team to move the ball sufficiently.

After a few moments of brilliant line sparring, the Bearcats staked themselves to a man-sized break by jarring the safety man loose from a punt on the 16th yard line, and traversing the necessary distance in seven plays.

Halfback Joe "Hopalong" Cassidy paced the Bearcats' surge to paydirt with his shotgun charges outside tackle. Cassidy slammed 15 yards to the one, then bucked right tackle for the score. Tony Adamo, a nifty T-engineer, converted and the score stood at 7-0 with eight minutes of the opening period left.

The contest then resolved itself into a battle of lines with the Bearcat forwards having a clear-cut edge. Forced to the air in an effort to gain, Spennocchio switch-

Veterans Day

30th Meets Divarty Thursday

For the Veterans' Day sports attraction the third place 30th Inf. Blues will tangle with underdog Divarty at Doughboy Stadium at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

It'll be 30th, say the odds-makers, and should they win this one they will move from third to second place.

Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Doughboy Stadium, two 47th Div. teams will clash. It'll be the rejuvenated 136th Bearcats versus fifth-place 125. The Bearcats, thrilled over their deadlock with the TIC league leading 194th aggregation last weekend, should romp over the Red Bulls in a contest that will provide more touchdowns than shells as Adamo rolls along with his aerials. Should the 136th take this one, they would move into third place in the TIC League.

Tie Gives 4 Teams Chance for Title

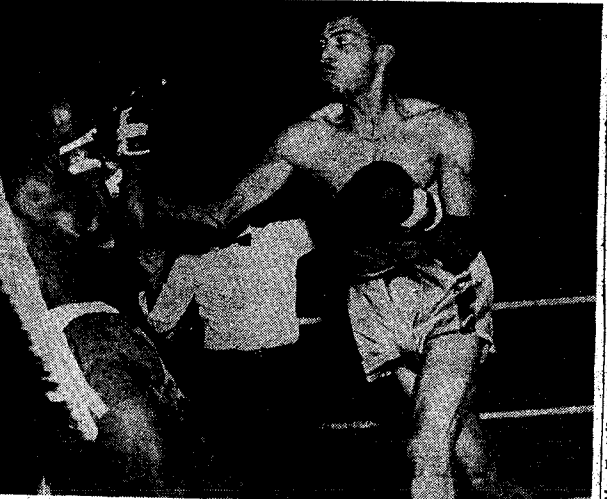

The Nemesis of No-Decision, a members do to each other. Brigade Ram stock took an upswing with the first blemish on the 164 escutcheon. The Rams can repeat as TIC champs by whipping Divarty and the 164th. That would close them out at 6-1-0. Those ties can be murder.

The Blues of the 30th still have a tough hurdle in the 164th. Rebounding from their first-day loss to the Bearcats, the Blues boast a convincing 20-0 humiliation of the Rams. A clean sweep (no ties either) over Divarty, 154, and STC could close the 30th out with a 6-1-0 mark, possibly setting the stage for a playoff with the Rams.

Little Leaguers Start Campaign

The makers of Betty Crocker Cake Mix are again stirring the Little Leaguers to an opportunity to raise funds. The Little League will receive five cents for each box of Betty Crocker Cake Mix sold during the period Nov. 9 thru 20. This offer will be good in most of the large grocery stores in and around Columbus.

- The Little League will sponsor sales in two stores: Kirland's in Custer Terrace and Brooks' Super Market No. 1 on the Old Fort Bowling road.
- This offer has been utilized to good advantage in other sections of the country and if those persons interested in Little League advancement will give some assistance toward publicizing the campaign it could be a success at Fort Benning.
- Representatives of the Doughboy Little League will be at Kirland's and Brooks' on two days, Nov. 19 and 20.

Spotlighting

Title Game May Pit Rams Against Blues

BY JACK MILLER

With the Post grid season rounding the stretch turn let us pause and take stock:

Back in September, a large majority of Fort Benning football fans predicted the outcome of the post, championship. Some wild ideas were thrown into the pot and out came the School Brigade Rams, 30th Inf. Blues and the CTC Commanders.

Now, mind you, all three first place teams were Main Post elevens. The Sand Hill squads were mentioned but not highly regarded as possible champions.

And here it is, half-way through the season and the only undefeated team is a Sand Hill squad called the 164th Infantry Regiment Flickertails and they were tied 14-14 by another 47th team, the 136th last Saturday.

All year long the 47th Division has furnished some top-notch athletes. For instance the Flicks are also leading the boxing program, the 136th Inf. copped the post horseshoe pitching contest in singles and doubles and H. & S. Co. of the 682nd Engr. Bn. won the Third Army softball crown.

However, the Flickertails still have their roughest schedule ahead of them. On Nov. 20 they face the 30th Inf. Then just eight days later the Flicks will find themselves face to face with the Brigade Rams.

Coach Red Mitchum's Blues have been one of the tougher elevens all year, despite an opening day loss to the 136th. "Red" has the material and knows what to do with it; a good combination. When they traveled to Warner Robins AF Base recently, the WRABF coach thought his squad was "playing Georgia Tech instead of an Army team." That's understandable, with four or five former Yellow Jackets in the starting lineup along with 240-pound Frank Fuller, Los Angeles Rams star.

That will be a game to see and we predict the Blues will emerge victorious after a difficult struggle between two offensive-minded teams.

In what may be the game of the regular season on Nov. 28, the big, bruising Brigade squad will face the Flicks and that could decide the post championship.

So there you have the cold, hard facts. The Flickertails have done amazingly well up to now, but from here on out it will be strictly an up-hill job for them.

We predict the Rams and the Blues will meet for the post championship in the Benning Bowl. And with their one-loss records that game will sort the boys from the men.

Chip Thomas, 30th Inf. halfback, stopped in the office for a chat last week and informed us that he has only three months before discharge. He has a contract with the Class AA Shreveport baseball squad and is to report March 1. He will be missed by Benning sports fans, and the Doughboys will have a large gap to fill next spring. He has carried the pigskin for the Blues with a professional touch, and we hope the Shreveport club will enjoy having him around as much as we have.

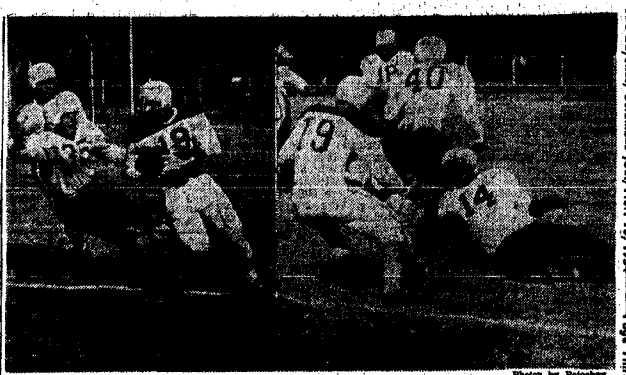

Chip made one prediction while here. He said the Blues will take the post championship, but that was, we think, before he had considered that the Rams are still in the race, even though the Cronkmen went down in defeat at the hands of the Blues in their earlier encounter.

We can't help being curious as to where all the Class I and II boxers are at Fort Benning. Are the trainers holding them? And if so, what for? On four cards so far there have been two Class I, one Class II, six Class III and a whopping 38 Class IV bouts.

Two of the boxing cards have been excellent entertainment. The crowds have been tremendous. The fighters have been trying. But, what's holding the Class I and II boys?

As soon as a Class IV fighter wins two or three bouts he is promoted to a III, and it goes right on down the line until he is a Class I. It looks as if there he stops and is retired from the boxing circle. Why shouldn't he be allowed to keep on fighting? Is he being held for a professional start?

We have asked these and many other similar questions around the local gyms and no one seems to have the answer. We even talked to the post Sports Officer, who says he "has no control" over the matter. Luckily, the first four cards have drawn amazingly large crowds but they have seen only a minimum of good fights. We wonder just how long it will be before the fans realize that they could be seeing some top boxers along with all the beginners.

Club to Hold Swim Class

A course of instruction in swimming is to be conducted by Miss G. Onnalee Wood, under the auspices of the Fort Benning Woman's Club, Mrs. Norman H. Wiley, president, has announced.

Red Bulls Triumph Over STC Wave, 8-0

The 135th Infantry Regiment handed Special Troops Command its fourth straight setback, 8-0, last Sunday in a fumble-studded grid encounter at Doughboy Stadium.

Good Therapy

Army Takes Patients Fishing at Ft. Mac.

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Working on the theory that fishing is good therapy, convalescent patients at the U. S. Army Hospital here are being taken on short fishing trips one afternoon each week.

"A" TEAM WINS... Fort Benning's "A" Skeet Team took top team and individual honors Sunday in a return meet with Fort McPherson, Ga. Members of the A squad, who downed Fort McPherson 455 to 446 are left to right, Col. Robert E. Holman, chairman of the Fort Benning Skeet Club; First Lt. H. N. Henry, who won top individual honors with a 99 out of a possible 100; W. S. Golden, an honorary shooter; Major R. H. Rolf, Lt. Col. W. W. Basteby, and Capt. R. L. McDaniel. Fort Benning skeet shooters also won the October match at Fort McPherson.

Rams Rack Up Highest Score In Bombarding CTC, 59-13

Led by Joe Fortunato's three touchdowns, the School Brigade Rams smothered the CTC Commanders, last Friday night at Doughboy Stadium, 59-13, with a blue touchdown avalanche. The win moved them into undisputed possession of second place and less than one-half game of the league-leading Flickertails.

In recording the highest score thus far this season in league play, the Rams started when Fortunato culminated a 55-yard drive with a five yard jaunt off tackle to score. Frank Kush converted and the Rams led 7-0. Later in the first period Fortunato again scored, this time from the two, to climax an 82-yard march to paydirt.

A Brigade fumble set up the Commanders' first score. Gains by N. B. McKenzie and Bill Rogers moved the ball down to the Rams' 4, from where Rogers went over. Vern Jungferman converted and the quarter ended with the Rams in front, 13-7. Commanders punted to the Brigade 38 after three plays. On the first play Ed Crook on a brilliant run, scooped 47 yards to the CTC 15. A pass from Larry to John Middleton was good for another Brigade TD. The try for Gene Donaldson went over from the 15 yard stripe. A 43-yard punt return by Yale Lary set up the fourth Brigade TD. Three plays carried the ball down to the CTC four yard line from where QB Lary kept the ball on the next play of a 15-yard penalty and the hard with the Rams in front, 28-7. Following second half kickoff the next play Fortunato went off-tackle to score, untouched. The final Brigade TD of the third quarter came on a blue yard jaunt by Milt Wilert.

The final CTC TD of the evening came late in the third quarter on a 43-yard run by Edwin Revels. The quarter ended with Brigade in front, 46-13.

The final two Brigade scores came late in the fourth quarter. A pass interception by Hamilton set up the next TD. With the aid of a 15-yard penalty and the hard with the Rams in front, 59-13. On the Gray to Robert Finnegan.

INCOMPLETE... Richard Taylor (13), of CTC, missed this aerial in the Commander-Ram contest last Friday night at Doughboy Stadium. The Rams won, 59-13.

Sutherland, Glenn to Lead 30th Inf. Cage Champs Again

Averaging 41 points a game with last year's squad, the duo of "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. Outside" promise to spark the championship 30th Infantry basketball team to another outstanding season.

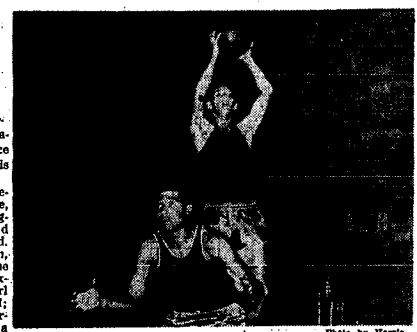

The squad, starting practice last week, features the talents of Frank Glenn and Charles (Jock) Sutherland, "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. Outside," respectively. Glenn, who distinguished himself by gaining All-Post center and the All-Third Army team last year, will haunt the basket from the "inside" zone of the court with a variety from his repertoire of shots. Glenn who averaged 21 points per game for the 30th last season, played basketball in high school and with the University of California. He played semipro ball with the Los Chicanos for three years.

Jock Sutherland gained the titleman on last year's squad, will return to his post as guard this season. Another guard will experience from last year and in college is John Black.

Completing the contingent of returning players are Herbert Thorne, six-foot-four center, Duane Leggett, six-foot-four forward, and Charles Smith, a six-foot forward.

The new men are Frank Ostrub, outstanding record at Duquesne University; Glen Thompson, six-foot-four center and forward; Carl Thomson, a six-foot-four forward; Bedy Massey, a six-foot-four forward of Kentucky fame, and a five-foot-nine guard, Vincent Brown.

Bill West and Bob Holt will join the basketball squad following the completion of the football season.

THE TWO SPARK PLUGS... Of the 30th Infantry basketball team, "Jock" Sutherland, "Mr. Inside," leaps to shoot a field goal while Frank Glenn, "Mr. Outside," prepares to snare a possible rebound.

the conversion that tied the count for the Flicks.

Easily the standout player on the field was Bearcat halfback Cassidy, who consistently blasted the Flick defense for yardage. Team-mate Bob Wilga at tackle anchored the impervious Bearcat line with able assistance from Don Matheson and Jim Knoblauch. Jones' pass catching was nothing short of brilliant.

The 164th stars were the elusive Howze, ends Phil Powell and Don Lippoth, guard Tony Munaf, and center John Snoderly.

Post Trained R&P Teams Off For World Meet

Twenty-one rifle and pistol experts, including some of America's all-time greats, left the U. S. by plane Monday for Caracas, Venezuela, where they will represent this country in the 36th International Shooting Union World Championship Matches Nov. 15-26.

One world champion and eight veterans of the 1952 Olympic and International Shooting Union World Championship teams are among the U. S. marksmen who will compete against shooters of 34 other nations. Team members will be berthed during Fort Benning practice sessions.

Leading the pistol team are Marine Corps Reserve Lt. Col. Harry Reeves of Detroit, Mich., six-time American titleholder, Marine Corps 2nd Lt. William McMillan, of Turtle Creek, Pa., and Army Reserve Lt. Col. Emmett Swanson of Minneapolis, Minn. Air Force Reserve Lt. Arthur Cook of Washington, D. C., and August Westergaard of Sloan, Iowa.

Newcomers to the pistol squad include Army Capt. R. W. Anthony and Capt. John P. Dodd, both of Fort Benning, Navy CWO Offutt Pinion of Norfolk, Va., Marine Corps Reserve Lt. Col. Philip Roettinger of Washington, D. C., Marine Corps Lt. Col. Walter Walsh of Arlington, Va., Capt. John Jagoda of Asbury Park, N. J., Marine Corps Capt. Thomas Mitchell of Lubbock, Texas, and John Forman of El Paso, Texas. Rounding out the U. S. rifle squad are Army Reserve Major Robert K. Sandager and E. O. Franzen, both of Minneapolis, Minn.; Marine Corps 2nd Lt. James Smith of Camp Lejeune, N. C.; Airman 2nd Class Allen Luke of Richmond, Va., and William McAuliffe of Bernardsville, N. J.

Repeate performance John Middleton, CTC guard, was a member of the '53 All-Post eleven and is in line for a repeat performance.

Candidate Sports Fine Swim Record

In Civilian Life

OC Robert R. Stratiff, a fine college sprint swimmer, is now training with 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

Stratiff, backs up his swimming claims with an outstanding record and a large collection of trophies and gold medals.

In high school, Stratiff won the Tri-State Championship Cup against swimmers from West Virginia, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. The chunky, dark-haired swimmer also won third place in the National A A U Swimming Championship meet at Pittsburgh in 1950.

While attending Florida State University, he won first place in a 190 yard event, competing against other Florida local champions.

Stratiff can also swim for distance if necessary. He won the Mile Marathon Trophy in the Pittsburgh Mile Marathon swimming meet.

Stratiff entered the Army last February, and took basic training at Camp Gordon, Ga., and Fort Jackson, S. C.

First Army Helicopter Opens Dec. 7th at Fort Eustis

FT. EUSTIS, Va. (AP)—It may look like a scrambled-up cloverleaf that got misplaced by an engineer building a super-highway—but it's not.

It's the Army Transportation Corps' new experimental landing strip, the first designed specifically for use by helicopters. Known officially as a heliport, it will be opened formally at ceremonies here Dec. 7. Top Army and civilian officials will be present and a display of Army aircraft of all types will be featured.

The basic part of the heliport is a huge circular taxiway which is divided into quarter sections by two 800-ft. runways. Spotted around the outer edge are eight circular landing pads. Both the taxiway and the pads will be used as takeoff and landing areas by helicopters.

Also nearing completion as part of this $700,000 project is a huge hangar capable of storing many large-size helicopters and still having enough room for five maintenance shops.

Adjacent structures include an operations administration building complete with a modern, glass-enclosed control tower, and a warehouse for storing equipment and supplies.

In front of these buildings there is a 750-ft. asphalt helicopter parking area connected to the heliport by two parallel taxiways.

A special stamp has been designed which will be affixed to all letters carried during the first day of flights from the heliport. All who would like to have their letters flown should send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the PIO Officer, Attn: G-3, Air Branch, Ft. Eustis, Va.

GUIDE LITTLE THEATRE . . . Governing committee of the Fort Benning Little Theatre looks over plans for the group's forthcoming production of "Laura". They are, sitting left to right, Lt. Col. C. M. Group Proves 'Play's the Thing'

For the past two years, the Fort Benning Little Theatre, currently in rehearsal for its 10th production, has proved that "the play's the thing" to highlight entertainment on the post.

Although Hamlet used the play to catch the conscience of King Claudius, the Fort Benning group has turned it into enjoyable diversion for this area with such productions as "Over 21," "Feticoat a charter was drawn up, making the Little Theatre a separate organization, The Woman's Club made the first monetary contribution into the new group.

Responsibility for Little Theatre activities lies with its governing committee, whose general chairman is Col. John M. Lynch, The Infantry School's operations officer.

Other members of the committee are Lt. Col. C. M. Easley, Jr., treasurer; Mr. N. F. J. Allen, secretary, Mrs. Harold F. Gasser, publicity chairman; Mrs. Wilfred D. Gower, box office chairman; Mrs. Arlo Mitchell and Mrs. Warren Drake, members-at-large; Mrs. Roper, director, and Major N. F. J. Allen, stage manager.

Non-Royalty Plays
When first organized, the Little Theatre produced only non-royalty plays. This meant trips to the library, copying scripts and mimeographing them for each player. With no theater available, rehearsals were held in Brown Hall.

As in any group in which personnel are subject to transfer, the Little Theatre has had its difficulties.

For example, the male lead in "The Philadelphia Story" last year was called to Washington two days before the opening. He still was not back the day of the production and a worried director and cast began worrying more. He finally arrived one hour before the curtain went up that evening.

Four Plays A Year
The Little Theatre, which is pledged to at least four plays a year, has cancelled only one production.

Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's "The Man Who Came to Dinner" was scheduled for May 1953. Because of transfer, more than 17 roles were never filled, and the play never made opening night.

Majority of the persons associated with the Little Theatre during the past two years have had a wealth of historic experience.

Mrs. Roper, who appeared here in "The Philadelphia Story," is a drama graduate from Texas State College for Women. In college, she appeared in "Our Town" and "Twelfth Night" and directed Philip Barry's "The Male Animal."

After receiving her degree, she continued with graduate work in dramatics. As a qualified teacher of speech, she has at various times held classes in speech instruction.

Others appearing in Fort Benning productions have studied at or been associated with such institutions as the Royal Academy of Arts, the Abbey Theatre Players in Dublin, the Old Vic Company in London, the Denver (Colo.) Grand Opera Company, the Ernie Pyle Theater University in Tokyo and numerous university and college dramatic groups throughout the U. S.

Mock Trials Stir STC Troops

Ever hear of anyone having to stand trial, and being convicted, four times in four days for the same offense?

That's what happened to Sgt. Ralph Thompson, Hq. & Hq. Co., STC, because he "overstayed his three-day pass," while the rest of the company scrutinized every move of the "court," including the belongings to determine Sgt. Thompson's guilt, and the sentence.

Members of the "court," with the exception of Company Commander Capt. Woodrow W. Kelly, president, assumed temporary commissioned and non-commissioned rank for the purpose of the mock trial, conducted in four sessions as a special TIA&E conference by Hq. & Hq. Co. STC.

Temporary Captain Pvt. Robert Richmond became a temporary "captain" for his role as Sgt. Thompson's "accuser" and "company commander," "Trial Counsel" Lt. (Pic.) Justin McCarthy elicited from "Capt. Richmond testimony to the effect that Sgt. Thompson had overstayed his pass and had not notified the company that he was ill, "Defense Counsel" Lt. (Cpl.) Fred Steinberg introduced "witnesses" who indicated that Sgt. Thompson was ill and unable to return to his unit. One of the "witnesses," a "civilian," brother-in-law of the accused, testified that he had failed to telegraph the company commander as requested by the accused. A "witness" for the "prosecution," under cross-examination, indicated that Sgt. Thompson "appeared ill" at the time the witness saw him in Atlanta.

Three Options

After the "president" explained to the "accused" his three options: to take the stand and render unsworn testimony, to take the stand as a witness and be sworn prior to testimony, or to remain silent, Sgt. Thompson chose to take the stand and be sworn. Spectators followed closely the procedure of balloting to determine whether or not the "accused" should be found guilty.

(In actual Courts-Martial, balloting is conducted in closed court, no spectators being present, and in secrecy.) Sgt. Thompson was found guilty and was notified thereof by the "President."

The "Court" again was closed

Poppy Day Sales Net Legion $506

The Fort Benning Women's Club collected $506.38 from Poppy Day sales.

Mrs. Charles T. Claggett, chairman of the sales, said the money had been turned over to the Army Legion Auxiliary in Columbus, Ga.

The Women's Club committee which handled the sale included Mrs. C. Claggett, Mrs. C. Claggett, Mrs. Theodore Matxix, Mrs. Howard T. Cohen and Mrs. John H. Wooden.

Post Helps Fete Veterans Day At Two Cities

Fort Benning units participated in Veterans Day activities Thursday in Birmingham, Ala., and Griffin, Ga.

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, was on hand for the Birmingham observance in which the 122nd Army Band, 30th Infantry Regiment and color guard from the 30th Infantry Regiment and Battery C of the 41st Field Artillery Battalion, took part.

The 30th Army Band and a platoon from Headquarters and Headquarters Company, and Company G of the 30th Infantry went to Griffin.

Even in those days there were deductions in the soldier's pay; a retired Army man was required to suffer a monthly tax of 12 1/2 cents for the support of the Soldiers' Home, an organization similar to our V.F.W.

The little black book suggests the power of the infantryman's rifle by instructing soldiers to fire at the mid-section of their enemy because the ball (not bullet) was not of enough velocity to penetrate the skull of a man.

An eight-hour day was in effect at that time and although a GI could be held for longer hours than prescribed, he would receive additional compensation for this extra time.

Swearing was a very expensive habit in those days, since every officer using profane language incurred the penalty of "one dollar per offense."

The GI of that era was never required to have his horse bear a post license tag, but the GI was restricted to a one-mile radius of camp on passes; so owning a horse was hardly worth while.

Many policies were the same as they are now; such as the ration allowance while on leave, twenty-five cents a day was the 1888 allowance, however, if a soldier decided not to use it for food he could buy four pairs of socks and collect a penny in change.

Heritage Named 24th Hospital's New Commander

Lt. Col. Wade F. Heritage has been named commanding officer of the 24th Evacuation Hospital.

Col. Heritage, 47th Infantry Division surgeon since May, will assume his new post Dec. 27, succeeding Col. John C. McKelick, who has returned to civilian practice. At Fort Benning since 1951, Col. Heritage also has served as deputy commander of the Provisional Medical Group.

After entering the Army from private practice in 1942, he served in the Pacific with the 36th Evacuation Hospital during the Leyte and Luzon campaigns.

He commanded the 161st Station Hospital at Sapporo, Japan, before being named surgeon of the 24th Infantry Division in Korea in 1950. He has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

38 Become U.S. Citizens

Thirty-eight Fort Benning soldiers became U. S. citizens at naturalization ceremonies last Thursday in the U. S. Federal Court at Macon, Ga., before Judge W. A. Boodle of the Middle Federal District of Georgia.

The group included Francis P. Levin, George J. Huppert, Joseph E. Nugent, Martin H. Oling, Angelo Wieland, Antonio N. Grafos, Harry K. Balles, Michael J. Sheridan, Mario S. Zan' and Ionian N. Kostas.

Hans Kunert, Robert E. Struri, Daniel A. Ort, Lawrence H. Miller, Miguel M. Costillances, Heinrich Toetskers, Fritz W. Mueller, John J. Dora, Stanislaw, Blaszkow and Horst O. R. Hampf.

Alfred W. Klichherr, Michael N. Karayannakis, Modris O. Zelmajs, Douglas W. Sedgley, Bruno A. Birn, Stefan Huppert, Gunter E. Hapdorn, Johann Gute, Jr., Waldemar B. Schultz and Ioannis P. Emmanouilidis.

Giovanni Del Re, Ian C. Harter, Erich von Janke, Hans J. Sletchofner, Herbert O. Betal, Ionnis Hitzing, Hermann J. Wittgens and Klaus W. K. Berensmann.

Mother (to son wandering around the room): "What are you looking for?"

Son: "Nothing."

Mother: "You'll find it in the box where the candy was."

First Lt. and Mrs. Merrit Lipsky are proud to announce the birth of a daughter, Laurie Jo. Lt. Lipsky is attending the Judge Advocate General's Basic Course at TIS.

Overtime, LH Salute Once Used

The left handed salute was in vogue in the 1888 Army to "avoid collision" of elbows when an enlisted man passed an officer.

This and other policies of the "Old" Army are reflected in a little black book inscribed, "A Soldier's Handbook" and published by the Secretary of War. This copy is prized as an antique by its owner, First Lt. Frank S. Klein of the Second Battalion Intelligence Section, 30th Infantry Regiment.

I believe it has had its pages turned more times in the past few weeks than during the time of its intended reading. It is quite common in the Second Battalion area to hear someone make a quotation from its pages and then chuckle with amusement at the difference a half century makes in an army.

Tax Deductions

Even in those days there were deductions in the soldier's pay; a retired Army man was required to suffer a monthly tax of 12 1/2 cents for the support of the Soldiers' Home, an organization similar to our V.F.W.

The little black book suggests the power of the infantryman's rifle by instructing soldiers to fire at the mid-section of their enemy because the ball (not bullet) was not of enough velocity to penetrate the skull of a man.

Bands Hold Annual Party

The 313th and 122d Army Bands along with the Special Troops Command Band held their "Annual Party" at the Post Rucker Club with 200 members and guests attending.

Among the guests, with their wives, were Col. Earl F. Kinck, commanding officer of STC; Maj. C. R. Westfall, S-3 of STC; CWO William Trembath, band coordinator of STC, and band leaders CWO Benjamin Cortese of the 122d Army Band, CWO Americare Rochain of the 313th Army Band, and CWO Ben McKinney of the STC Band.

After dining, music and entertainment was provided by personnel of the bands. Playing dance music were the 313th, the General's Salon Group, and Alex Pickens' Band.

Comedian Candy Candido was on hand to add his humor to the party.

Halsted Named To Student Group

Eleventh OC Company recently selected Officer Candidate C-1 Halstead of Commerce, Ind., as their Student Council president. Before coming to Fort Benning, Halstead was a training aids draftsman at Fort Ord, Calif.

Others on the 11th OC Council are Candidates Robert M. Carter, Wesley Coleman, Charles Lollis, David Scott, and Thomas Senn. Acting officially, these men will represent the company on such matters as social events, student opinions, and making appeals or recommendations to tactical officers.

History of Drama Traced by Display At Hospital Library

Illustrations which trace the origin and development of drama and the theater are on display at the U. S. Army Hospital Library. The display, being used in conjunction with National Book Week activities, is open to the public. Hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 8 a.m. to noon, and 1-5 p.m. Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

The illustrations show the rise of the theater from its early stages in ancient Greece to the modern day. Arranged by Life Magazine, the display was distributed by the American Federation of Arts.

OFFICER AND SERGEANT GIVE THEIR EYES TO CHAPLAIN'S WIFE

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)— Through the eyes of an Army colonel and an Army master sergeant Mrs. Sam B. Jones wife of an Army chaplain— experiences a new thrill every day.

Her sight restored after a delicate operation at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Jones recently arrived here by air to join her husband. He is a chaplain with the Second Field Hospital.

"It's wonderful to see him again — to really see him," she told reporters.

Chaplain and Mrs. Jones were married 14 years ago. Her eyesight was falling then and doctors predicted eventually blindness. For years she saw things through a haze.

Then, 14 months ago, the operations started at Walter Reed while her husband waited in Germany. Two undamaged corneas — one from a sergeant and one from a colonel — were transplanted into her eyes. Both men were scheduled to lose an eye because of a disease — a disease which left the corneas untouched.

"The colonel," said Mrs. Jones, "couldn't bear to think of losing his eye. But when he found out that it might save my eyesight he was thrilled."

The colonel's name was not revealed, although Mrs. Jones says she keeps up a correspondence with both of her benefactors. The sergeant is M-Sgt. Roy Kilburn of Syracuse, N. Y.

Two operations were performed, transplanting the corneas. Now, after a 14-month separation from her husband, Mrs. Jones can see almost perfectly.

"I can see things now as I've never seen them before," she said. "Every day I experience a new thrill."

Turkish Officers Leave Impressed
 Two key figures in Turkey's Army training program left Friday with an intimate knowledge of the U. S. Infantryman and his working tools.
 They were Brig. Gen. Nazim Akar, commander of the Turkish Army Infantry School, and Brig. Gen. Ekrem Babacan, head of the Turkish Army Reserve Officer School.
 "We were greatly impressed with what we saw," said Gen. Babacan as he studied a terrain model being constructed in the Third Army Training Aids Shop.
 Infantry on The Job
 What they saw was the Infantryman on the job, his methods of fighting and the program of instruction which has made Fort Benning the heart of the U. S. Infantry training.
 They studied the foot soldier and his airborne weapons, staff and tactical techniques and toured communications and automotive problem areas.
 They were briefed on the officer candidate and Ranger training programs and discussed training with Turkish students.
 Renewed Acquaintances
 During their stay, Gen. Akar and Gen. Babacan renewed acquaintances with many American officers who served with them in Korea.
 Gen. Akar heads the Turkish Army Infantry School, which has a training capacity of approximately 800 students at one time.
 As commander of the Turkish Army Reserve Officer School, Gen. Babacan has the responsibility of training all Turkish Reserve Officers, about 2,000 every six months.

14 Men Form Chess Club
 A 14-man Chess Club has been organized at Fort Benning.
 Meeting Saturday afternoons at Service Club No. 1, the club hopes to increase its membership before holding a post-championship tournament. A match against Fort McPherson, Ga., also is pending.
 Military personnel can join by appearing at the Saturday meetings, according to Sgt. Robert Karch, club secretary.
 Three corporals are the club's leading chess players at the moment. They are Kimball Nedved of Glenwood, Ill., Jerry Sullivan of Knoxville, Tenn., and Cpl. Ralph Hurlen of Union, N. J.
 Nedved and Sullivan are rated experts by the U. S. Chess Federation. Hurlen is the current Fort Benning champion.

Newsmen 'Can Rest' After Benning Visit

A better understanding of today's Army was the result of the Georgia Press Association's second annual tour of Fort Benning last week.
 As Leo Aikman, Atlanta Constitution columnist, said, "I can go home tonight and sleep in peace, secure in the knowledge that our Army is training the best fighting men in the world."
 Members of the GPA, a statewide organization of newspaper editors and publishers, visited guests of Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander.
 Purpose of the trip was to give them an insight into Infantry training and to show them how the U. S. taxpayer's dollar is being spent for national defense.
 "Through trips such as this, we at The Infantry Center hope to dispel rumors and myths that our Army is soft and its training unrealistic," Gen. Harper told the group in a welcoming address.
 Later the two-star general also told the group that, "Members of the press are always welcome here and it is our hope that you end strength authorized the Army will come at any time in your effort to keep the American public well-informed."
 During their stay the GPA members saw demonstrations of bayonet fighting, hand-to-hand combat and physical training. They were briefed on and participated in new types of marksmanship training developed recently by Fort Benning's Human Research Unit, headed by Dr. Francis E. Jones.
 "Copter Demonstration.
 They also witnessed a demonstration of the use and maneuverability of the three types of helicopters used by the Army and of machine gun firing and received an orientation on the Ranger course.
 Friday evening the members attended a dinner dance at the Main Officers' Open Mess.
 Approximately 707,000 Army men will complete their active duty commitments during the next 12 months. Replacements for losses will total approximately 463,000 personnel, of which some 357,000 will be untrained, representing about one-third of the here and it is our hope that you end strength authorized the Army will come at any time in your effort to keep the American public well-informed."

When You Think Of It This Way, Re-Upping's OK

How would you like to be able to go home this Christmas . . . Be there for New Year's . . . Have a pocket full of tin, and know that you have a steady, well-paying job waiting for you when the holidays are over?
 Sound pretty good?
 How about a job that takes you, expenses-paid, to Europe, the Far East, Austria?
 And what if the job offers retirement after only 20 years, complete health and hospitalization insurance, a $10,000 life insurance policy, one month's annual leave with pay, unlimited opportunity for promotion and advancement, and educational opportunities—all on the house?
 Sound even better?
 Finally, what if the job offers an opportunity for rewarding service to your country?
 No other firm, establishment, or organization can make an offer like this—and pay you a whopping big bonus to take it.
 Every soldier at Fort Benning has, or will soon have, invested at least two years of his life in a military career. Why not cash in on this investment?
 Those two years, when added to 18 more, are worth 5 per cent of your base pay to you—that is, the base pay you would be earning after 20 years. You can pocket this investment . . . or you can throw it away. (Retirement pay is computed at 2 1/2 per cent per year of service.)
 Those two years also represent a valuable portion of your earnings—two years spent in establishing yourself in a job.
 And, if you entered the service directly from high school or college without having previously held a civilian job . . . how long do you think it will be before you can establish yourself in a job comparable to the one I've just described for you? Two more years? If you're lucky . . . maybe. Maybe you were holding down a job when you got your "green" assignments. Was it the job you want to be holding down for the rest of your life? What did it have to offer in comparison to the security, insurance, vacation, and retirement benefits of the job I just described for you? How about your motion and advancement? How far can you go?
 Unless you are serving on a Regular Army enlistment right now, you can take a "short discharge" to re-enlist for service in the Far East, your own vacancy, another assignment at Fort Benning, or you can leave it up to Department of the Army to reassign you somewhere in the United States.
 You will be granted 30 days' entitlement leave, plus any accrued leave you have left over from your present term of service. This is in addition to travel time authorized for personnel who have requested overseas assignment.
 The special subject, "Think It Over," will be discussed next week in TIGS conferences arranged by the Troop Information and Education Section, TIC.

Staff Plan Proves Success
 The battalion staff plan created by the 104th Company of the School Brigade, has proved more successful than anticipated, Capt. Edwin M. Freakly, commanding, announced.
 "Student reaction has been gratifying and officers appointed to the various jobs have more than justified our confidence in them," he said.
 Lt. Jay C. Smith, student commandant, said "The first two days were the most difficult for the staff."
 Most of the misunderstandings were cleared up at Officers Call during the second week. Lt. Smith and other members were given ample time to answer questions regarding staff purpose and function.
 "Many thought our job would be to hand out OR's and RBT's and to otherwise keep students in line. Many have learned that this was far from the truth," Lt. Smith said.
 The class benefitted almost immediately from the staff plan when 205 field jackets were handed out in 45 minutes. Staff aid was sought when students were paid and Capt. Freakly said the job was "done in record time."
 Capt. Freakly said he believes administrative efficiency of the company will continue to increase as staff members become more familiar with their jobs.

NOW YA' KNOW!
HERE ARE ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS SERVICEMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES ASK THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION EVERY DAY . . .

Q—I understand that if a Korean veteran's training entitlement runs out when he is half-way through his semester at school, he will be allowed to finish that semester under the Korean GI Bill. I am taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill. What if my entitlement expires before I'm finished? Will I be permitted to complete my training?
A—No. Under the law, entitlement may be extended only in the case of veterans attending school. It may not be extended for veterans training on-the-job for them. GI training ends when entitlement ends.

Q—I have a permanent National Service Life Insurance policy which lapsed two months ago. I want to reinstate it. I know I will have to pay back premiums, but will I also have to pay interest on the premiums?
A—No. You will not be required to pay interest on premiums in arrears so long as you reinstate your policy in the second or third month of lapse.
Q—I have been told that the Korean GI Bill prohibits dancing courses. I have enrolled for a degree in physical education at college, and one of the courses I am required to take is dancing. Will I have to give up this course?
A—No. You will be permitted to take the dancing course, so long as it is offered for credit as an integral part of your physical education program.

The Company area of Headquarters and Headquarters Co. of the School Brigade looked like a chemical outfit last week. The reason was cigars were being passed out by personnel making promotions. Getting their first rocker were Sgt. Raleigh Mathews and Walter Baker.
Corporal stripes were issued to Jerome Abmayr, Henry Biscagestaff, Robert Birnstein, Robert Eubanks, Thomas Heyer, Paul Klaffner, John Leger, Mike Marmolouk, Hal Mulkey, Frank N. Deane, O'Byrne, Gene Ostrum, Louis Rountree, and Frank Fernandez.
Louis E. Johnson made private first class.

Travzel Begins New TIC Duties

Capt. Harold S. Travzel has taken over duties as assistant commandant of The Infantry Center Advanced Leaders' School.
He replaces 1st Lt. Boyd W. Leer, the school's new detachment commander.
Capt. Travzel, a 1947 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, was secretary adjutant of the Physical Training School at Fort Bragg, N. C., before coming to Fort Benning last January.
From July, 1948 to January 1952, he served with the 18th and Sixth Infantry Regiments in Germany.

164th Meets 30th In Top Grid Game

It'll be a hot time in Doughboy Stadium Saturday at 2 p.m. when the league-leading 164th Infantry Flickertails meet the 30th Infantry Blues in Fort Benning's game of the year.

Coach "Red" Mitchum's Blues are tied with School Brigade with 4-1-0 records, just one-half game behind the 164th. It was a 47th Division team that handed the Blues their only loss in the season's opener, and it is a 47th Division team they will face Saturday.

The Blues claim some of the best players in the service. Such names as Frank Flickertails meet the 30th Infantry...

Two Clubs Plan Turkey Shoots For This Sunday

Two Turkey Shoots are scheduled at Fort Benning Sunday. The Skeet Club will stage its shoot from 9 a.m. to noon, and the Rifle and Pistol Club will hold its event at 1 p.m. Both are open to military and civilian personnel in the area.

The Flickertails know they cannot afford to lose this one. Should they suffer defeat they would probably be out of the running.

Youngblood has Ed Cirillo, a fleet halfback if there ever was one. He has Ben Howze, quarterback personified. Then there is Philip Powell, a pass-snatching end from Centre, Ala. who can catch anything thrown in his direction.

Basketball Action To Start Dec. 1

With football season rapidly drawing to a close the time has come for basketball to enter into the picture. And here at Fort Benning, the intramural schedule has been drawn up and plans made for the 1954-55 season.

Special Troops, 164th Inf. Reg., 135th Inf., 138th Inf., 30th Inf. Div., and Combat Training Command furnishing one each.

END-ARMED CLARENCE... THE WIND, 20th halfback, grinds off six yards in the third period of the 30th-164th game Thursday in Doughboy Stadium. The Blues won, 12 to 6.

47th Keglers Seek Competition

The 47th Division has a bowling team that is willing to play any five individual bowlers or any single team on post or in Columbus.

Divarty Hands 30th A Scare Before Losing 12-6 Squeaker

The 30th Infantry Football team kept their championship hopes alive on their own one foot line at Doughboy Stadium last Thursday when they dug in and set up an impregnable wall of resistance.

Conway Wins Pistol Trophy

The Fort-Benning Pistol Club staged a small bore match last Sunday at the club. Two matches were held with the 30yard prone position leading the event.

Standings

Table with columns W, L, T and rows for 164th Inf., 30th Inf., School Brigade, 138 Inf., 135th Inf., Divarty, Special Troops, CTC.

Bearcats Slip By Red Bulls, 13-6

Halfback Benny Pale led his 135th Inf. Bearcat team-mates to a 13 to 6 victory over the 138th Inf. Red Bulls last Friday night in Doughboy Stadium.

The Bearcats' defensive play was the difference throughout most of the game, allowing the Red Bulls only a minimum of play in Bearcat territory.

Spotlighting

Another Crucial Pigskin Game Up

The 30th Infantry Blues will collide with the 164th Infantry Flickertails in Doughboy Stadium next Saturday at 2 p.m. Need we say more?

This contest has been looked forward to for some time now by Fort Benning grid enthusiasts and the Blues' victory over Divarty last Thursday makes it an even more highly important game.

The Flickertails, in first place position, have gone through its schedule with an amazing 5-0-1 record that has astounded Benning "experts."

Coach "Red" Mitchum's Blues own a proud 4-1-0 record and a Saturday victory will place them in at least a two-way tie for a first-place berth.

That tie would mean a play-off game between two of the post's most highly touted elevens.

But, let's get back to next Saturday's encounter: The Flickertails have piled up 130 points in the Blues' 91, giving the Flickers a slight advantage in that line.

On the other side of the statistical column we find that the Flicks have allowed 47 points by their opponents while the Blues only have had 30 points scored against them.

All that, when added up, proves that the game can be a toss-up affair.

Coach Jack Youngblood's Flicks entered the league and started the season unknown by outsiders. The team's green and white uniform became familiar sights almost at once and we would venture to say that even Youngblood himself didn't know what was really going to become of the Flicks.

They have an offense that stands out among other Benning elevens. Their backfield is well equipped with such stalwarts as Ed Cirillo, Cliff Kibbe, Wyman Townsend and last, but by all means not least, that magnificent aerialist, Tony Spennachio.

Tony can thread grandma's needle with his passes and Philip Powell has appeared to have an invisible net waiting time after time. The Spennachio-to-Powell passing attack is a deadly weapon and the Blues have faltered quite a few times this year on their pass defense.

On the other hand let's take a glance at the Blues' roster and see just what they have to offer. First of all, they have the largest roster on the post and that depth is a great advantage. For they can point a finger at practically any man on the bench and get an experienced man. Their line averages 200 pounds while the backs average 182. The Flickertails weigh 200 and 180.

17 Fights Scheduled At Harmony Church

After losing all three of their entries last week at Briant Wells Field house, the 164th will try for a rebound tonight with seven pugilists on the card at the Harmony Church Arena at 7:30.

Seventeen bouts are on the season's largest card, but it is expected that only about 12 of them will be staged," according to Capt. Samuel Goldfarb, Sports Officer. (It is not a rare occurrence for at most half the fights to be canceled at weigh-in time for various reasons.)

The 136th Inf. Regiment was high in last week's fights with four entries and four wins in the Veterans Day card. Following closely, also with a perfect evening, were Special Troops Command and Combat Training Command, with one entry and one win each.

As usual only a minimum number of Class I and III bouts will be seen tonight, with no Class II fights on the one card. That card are scheduled to be two Class I bouts, three Class III and 12 Class IV encounters.

The evening's main event will pit Regis Blair, School Brigade, against Leon Banks, of the 164th Inf., in a Class I flyweight bout.

Other bouts which might as tentatively scheduled are: Class IV, lightweight - Joe Coleman vs Leon Golding, Coleman of the 135th Inf. while Golding will represent the 138th.

Class IV, middleweight - Richard Sterling, 164th Inf., vs Brigade's Ralph Cooper.

Class IV, bantamweight - "Tiger" Kelly, Sp. Units, 47th Div., vs Joe Gibson, 136th Inf.

Class III, light middleweight - John Gibson, Divarty, vs Jack Dunbar, 164th Inf.

Class IV, middleweight - Terry Fields, 135th Inf., vs Calvin Carter, Brigade.

Class IV, light middleweight - Leroy Tompkins, 135th Inf., vs Glenwood Wiseman, Brigade.

Class IV, middleweight - Leroy Hudson, CTC, vs Murphy Dempsey, 135th Inf.

Class I, welterweight - George Hicks, 164th Inf., vs Alfonso Malone, 136th Inf.

Class III, welterweight - Leonard Phillips, 164th Inf. vs Clarence Cole, 135th Inf.

Class IV, heavyweight - Harold Johnson, Sp. Units, 47th, vs Thomas Ship, Brigade.

Class IV, light middleweight - Willie Burley, Brigade, vs William Perkins, Divarty.

Class IV, light heavyweight - Joeide, vs Duane Butcher, 136th Inf.

Class IV, light middleweight - Richard Stevens, 136th Inf., vs Jesse Lamar, Divarty.

Class IV, featherweight - Leo Gar, 136th Inf., vs Arthur Addison, 164th Inf.

Class IV, light welterweight - Woodrow Eddy, Divarty, vs William Jones, 136th Inf.

Class IV, featherweight - Norman Brownley, 135th Inf., vs Ellis Caudill, 164th Inf.

Last week's results were: John Givens, Divarty, dethroned CTC's Nathaniel Wynn in a Class III light middleweight bout.

Divarty's Robert Brazill dropped a decision to Luther Roberts, 136th Inf., in their Class III welterweight fight.

Joe Gibson, 136th Inf. Class IV bantamweight, dethroned John Brace, of the 164th Inf. Reg. Benny Taylor, 135th Inf. Class IV heavyweight, was KO'd by the School Brigade's Thomas Ship after only 1:52 in the first round.

man Brownley, 135th Inf., vs Ellis Caudill, 164th Inf.

Another TKO was seen when Richard Downs, 136th Inf., bested George Hamlin, 164th Inf. Class III welterweight.

The evening's finale also ended via a TKO when STC's Jullian Bryant won his bout over Brigade's Joe Badon, a Class IV welterweight.

Post Welter Champ Hinton Swaps Titles For Crack at Civvies

BY JIM MONTGOMERY Hammerin' Herman Hinton, one of the brightest stars in the Fort Benning boxing firmament and regarded by many local experts as probably the top fighter on post, will not be seen in the TIC squared circle this year.

The stugging welterweight has swapped his GI clothing for civilian togs tomorrow.

Virtually unknown around post at the outset of the 1952-53 season, Hinton blazed his way through 12 fights without a loss to win the Fort Benning light welterweight crown in a breeze.

One of the deadliest combination punchers in amateur circles, the Philadelphia lad won two fights last year in the Third Army Championships at Fort Benning before losing a split decision in the final match to the eventual champion.

Hinton began boxing around his hometown in 1949, and was good enough to win Golden Gloves and Police Athletic League flyweight championships a year later.

In 1953 when his battling fists carried him through district and state Golden Gloves competition to the regional tourney at Evansville, Indiana, Hinton won at Evansville, but was unable to go on to the Tournament of Champions at Chicago. A local draft board dropped him for a T-10.

Joining the Combat Training Command unit team in the summer of 1953, Hinton began his career with the 164th Infantry Center light weight title. His impressive skein of victories aided the CTC tea mheavily as they battled successfully for the post-team championship.

Tired of getting their brains beaten out, local light welterweights ball group will be postponed this month because of the Thanksgiving holidays.

Sunday, Nov. 21, the golfing couples of Fort Benning will hold the first two-ball foursome of the season.

The weekly Friday tournament would have been knocked out of their possible first place tie if the Harms of School Brigade take their game with the Flickertails.

Another TKO was seen when Richard Downs, 136th Inf., bested George Hamlin, 164th Inf. Class III welterweight.

The evening's finale also ended via a TKO when STC's Jullian Bryant won his bout over Brigade's Joe Badon, a Class IV welterweight.

Win Eight Events Post Women Linksters Take Elebash Trophy

BY JEANNE ARMSTRONG Mary Lee Lindeman, one of the top lady golfers in this area, captured the Elebash Trophy for Fort Benning last Thursday with an 8-7 decision over Columbus's Dadi Jordan.

The Championship consolation was won by Irene Curtiss, and Rose D'Orsa was runner-up in the same first flight. Jeanne Armstrong took the second flight honors while Mary Adams was runner-up.

The first flight consolation winner was Charley Morley. In the nine-hole division Rosiland Brown won the championship with Jeanne Hamilton runner-up. Fort Benning had eight winners in inter-club event and are now proud holders of the beautiful trophy.

Three golfers from the post club went to Griffin, Ga., and came home winners from their one day invitational on Nov. 2. They were Irene Curtiss, Addie Lee Burns, and Rose D'Orsa.

The monthly luncheon for the post group will be postponed this month because of the Thanksgiving holidays.

The 136th Inf. Bearcats defeated the 135th Inf. Red Bulls, 13 to 6, last Friday night in Doughboy Stadium, but what would have happened had Benny Pate been unable to play that game? Pate, a halfback for the Bearcats, gained ground consistently throughout the day and his long runs greatly enhanced the 'Cats in their victory. He has been known all season for his brilliant running ability and the pigskin is always sure of one thing when Pate carries it — it won't be for a loss. Thanks to you, Benny, for your outstanding entertainment against the 135th aggregation and congratulations for being selected "Back of the Week" Emil Karas, Divarty tackle, was the mainstay that kept the 30th Inf. Blues' 12 to 6 score as low as it was last Thursday afternoon. Ball carriers thought they were hitting the bleachers instead of the Redleg forward wall when they tried their line bucks. Karas' position was no push-over for the Blues when they ran against his 220 pound frame. His only previous experience was in his home town high school. But, last Thursday afternoon he played like an experienced veteran. The Blues have a roster like none other on the post. Their experienced players are cheaper than horse flies in the barn yard, but they ran up against Emil Karas last Thursday and probably will long remember his stocky frame in their one TD edge.

STC Wins First Game of Year Downing CTC, 20-0

DOWN THE SIDE . . . Vern Jungferman (12), CTC signal-caller, returns a kick-off 30 yards down the sideline in the second period of last Sunday's CTC-STC thriller at Doughboy Stadium. STC won, 20 to 0, jumping out of the cellar, and placing CTC in that unhappy slot. No. 44 is CTC's Bill Senior and No. 40 is STC's Tom Drake.

The Green Wave of STC, sparked by their little halfback Bill Johnson, found their winning ways for the first time this season by dumping the Commanders of CTC 20-0 at rain-soaked Doughboy Stadium last Sunday afternoon. Johnson was the spark plug that fired in all three touchdowns by scoring two and tossing an aerial for the third. His first six pointer came in the second period when he scampered nine yards off tackle following STC's recovery of a bad pass from center on the CTC 14-yard marker. CTC looked as though they might break into the scoring column during the third period when they clicked for sizable ground gains in two drives that came to an end as the result of an intercepted pass and a fourth down plunge that failed to gain the 12 inches necessary for a first down. The contest was put on ice in the last period of play when Johnson uncoiled his 23-yard pass to Tom Stewart, who trotted the remaining seven yards for the touchdown. A minute later, Johnson again clicked for a score when he intercepted a CTC pass on the 12 yard line and was untouched as he scampered into the end zone for the first marker of the afternoon. CTC threatened to recede in the closing minutes of the game when Charlie Kuehr highlighted an 89 yard drive by making circus catches of two passes good for 70 yards and put the ball on the STC six yard line where it was lost to STC on a fumble, ending the threat.

FIRST DEER . . . Bringing in the first deer of the season on the post reservation were Warrant Officer James N. Blair, left, and Capt. Henry W. Davis. The two sportsmen, both instructors on the Small Arms Committee of the Weapons Department, were hunting at a spot on Jamesstown Road past Watkins Range. Mr. Blair shot the deer in the left shoulder with a 12-gauge shotgun.

CHEERING FOR STC . . . In case you've been wondering about the four lassies and two laddies who have been whooping it up at the Special Troops Command's grid games, they are left to right, Bill McCain, Elsie Wood, Marguerite Grassie, Rosemarie Michael, Irene Harsmanka and Don Larsen. The young ladies are members of the WAC Detachment and all six cheerleaders are donating their free time to boost the Green Wave.

History Pageant Dazzles Crowd At Grid Game

In a colorful display of pageantry and musicianship during the halftime ceremonies at the Veterans Day football game in Dougherty Stadium, the STC Band, under the directorship of CWO Ben McKinnie, staged a running musical account of wars in which the United States has participated. Beginning with the Revolution, a Spirit of '76 trio-marched down the field to the 30-yard line. The main band then formed a high "V" that extended for 50 yards. Next, the figure "WW I" was formed and the band played one of George M. Cohans famous tunes of the era, "Over There." When the last notes had died, the band went into a "WW II" figure and struck up one of its songs, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

To complete the show, the 30th Infantry stands were saluted with the Infantry March, "Kings of the Highway," and the 47th Division Band played the "Cassion Song," famous old Field Artillery march.

Headquarters Wins Spec. Troops Loop With Perfect Slate
Hq & Hq. Co., Special Troops Command, became the 1954 Intramural Basketball Champions of STC last Friday by defeating Company C, First Special Troops Battalion 40 to 34 at the Old Gym. Previous to the Company C game, Hq. & Hq. Co. defeated Company D, First Trans. Bn. 68 to 37 in a crucial game in which Art Amaya of STC bottled up Don Keats, who last year lead the STC team in scoring in the TIC league. By swarming over D. Co., the STC Champions assured themselves a virtual tie in the STC league, composed of 13 teams, then by nosing out C Company, Hq & Hq. Co. took the crown which last year was won by Third Army Food Service School.

The victorious Hq. & Hq. Co. team had a perfect 12-0 record at the close of play. Second place D Co., First Trans. Bn., claimed a 9-2 tally, while C Co., First Spec. Trps. Bn., won nine and lost three. The fourth and fifth place teams were the Third Army Food Service School and B Co., First Spec. Trps. Bn., with 8-3 and 7-4 records respectively.

Young Personalities in the News at Fort Benning

Pennington

When Pvt. Henry A. Pennington reported to Company D, School Brigade, the first sergeant interviewed him to determine what position he might be qualified to hold. His background revealed that he had worked with horses and cattle on his parents' ranch.

At the age of 15 he slipped away from the ranch one weekend to compete in his first rodeo. Although he was not among the finalists, he did make a creditable showing. This was enough to whet his appetite for more rodeo riding. From that time on, that dust-eating sport became his favorite past-time.

He competed in meets at Ponder, Fort Worth, Grand Prairie, Stamford, and Irving, Texas. In 1947 he set Texas, and perhaps a national, record in the calf roping contest, with the phenomenal time of 2 3/4ths seconds. He walked away with the All-Around Cowboy title at Stamford, Texas, in 1950, and has captured first places in various events at many meets since, but not enough to win the All-Around cowboy award again.

At the conclusion of the interview, Sgt. Scott, with the finesse characteristic of first sergeants, assigned him to duty as a company mail clerk.

Viers

It's said the best infantryman is a ship-wrecked seaman or a crashed aviator. If this is true, OC Raymond L. Viers, 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, will make a first-class foot soldier.

In November 1953, Viers, assigned to the 3rd Engineers, 24th Division, was flying to Tokyo for a rest.

The plane landed, but not in the right spot. It overshoot the Tokyo runway and crashed about three miles out in the bay. All the passengers, including five USO women on their way to the U. S., were rescued by an Air Force Alsea Sea rescue team. Since that time, Viers has been content to be just another "mud-slogger."

"It may be dirty," says Viers, "but it has a bottom."

Manuel

The operation of a glint "vacuum" cleaner on the St. John River in Florida was an unusual experience for Pvt. Earnest C. Manuel, who spent two years of his life as a dredging crewman. ... Ex-Dutch Marine

First Royal Dutch Marine Brigade. While in the East Indies he acted as Intelligence NCO, and for two years took part in the jungle warfare in East Java.

Returning to this country in October, 1952, he attended Georgetown University, where he studied Import - Export Transportation. After entering the U. S. Army and finishing his basic training at Fort Kasar, 1953, Van Manen attended Jump School here, and was assigned to the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, Fort Campbell, as Battalion Intelligence and I&E NCO. He speaks German, French, English, Dutch and Malay.

In 1945 Van Manen had set his sights on becoming an officer in the Army with the idea of "one day in the future helping the U. S. to protect other unfortunate countries from the grip of communism."

Vets Can Rejoin 508 RCT

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (APFS)—Former members of the 508th Airborne RCT can return to that unit if they fulfill certain requirements. Under provisions of "Operation Gyroscope," personnel formerly assigned to the 508th and currently on active duty may apply for transfer and direct assignment to the RCT if the following conditions are met:

- 1)—A vacancy for the grade and specialty of the applicant exists.
 - 2)—The applicant has a minimum of three years active service remaining under his current enlistment.
 - 3)—If such a three-year period does not exist, the applicant must sign a statement of intention to re-enlist or extend his service to cover such a period.
- The transfer option will be terminated by Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, CG, Third Army, Ft. McPherson, Ga., when the existing vacancies in the 508th have been filled.

Santa Claus to Visit Fort Benning Nov. 27

The Jolly round-man with the big red suit, rosy cheeks and twinkling eyes will forsake his famous reindeer to land by helicopter on the north end of Stillwell Field at 1:30 p.m.

After a formal welcoming by Infantry Center officials, St. Nick will pay his respects to the many Fort Benning youngsters who are expected to be on hand to greet him. It will mark his first visit here since 1948.

Santa will have gifts for all the kiddies, according to Lt. Col. Lawrence Larsen of Copenish, Mich., Fort Benning exchange officer.

Santa and the youngsters will proceed from Stillwell Field to Toyland, opposite the old gymnasium, where he will spend the day, Col. Larsen said.

He will listen to youngsters' "Christmas requests" Tuesdays and Thursdays at Toyland from 6-8 p.m. during December.

Toyland, staffed with toys to satisfy children of all ages, will be open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays during the holiday season.

27-Year Service Veteran Cited For Korean Duty

M-Sgt. Julius Meltzer, a veteran of 27 years service, has been awarded the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant for meritorious service in Korea during the period Nov. 23, 1953, to July 27, 1954.

Along with the award was a commendation from the Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens. Enlisting in 1914 at Park Row, N. Y., he served in the Army when Pancho Villa, the Mexican revolutionist, made his famous raid on Columbus, New Mexico, with 1500 bandits.

Before World War I the years preceding World War I found Sgt. Meltzer in the jungles of Panama building roads and clearing the path for the Panama Canal. In 1918, he was seeing action in Germany as a combat infantryman.

In 1951 Meltzer was stationed in Japan as part of the occupational forces, and after a short stay in the states, he returned to the Far East.

The commendation reads, "M-Sgt. Julius Meltzer, member of the 54th Quartermaster Company (Supply), is cited for meritorious service in Korea during the period Nov. 23, 1953, to July 27, 1954. His untiring devotion to duty, loyalty to command, and thorough knowledge of training and supply matters minimized the difficulties encountered by his organization to such a degree that his company came to be considered a model operation."

Sgt. Meltzer wound up his fifth overseas hitch in October 1954, when he left Korea and was assigned to Fort Benning with Company B, First Special Troops Battalion, Special Troops Command.

6 ISD Men Taking Leaders' Course

'Follow Me' Won't Have A Weapons

Test Director Headquarters, Executive "Follow Me", has announced that no atomic weapons will be used in the field test scheduled for February and March 1955. All atomic play will be simulated.

Army Engineers from the field office at Eufaula, Ala., will begin negotiations immediately for maneuver permits on 879,600 acres of land in southeastern Alabama.

These permits will allow the government to use the land between Jan. 10 and March 1, but will not prohibit normal use of the property by land owners during this period, except where troop and vehicle concentrations require that safety measures be taken to prevent injury.

Use of the land between Jan. 10 and Feb. 10 will be limited to reconnaissance and communications activities.

Damage to private property by Army personnel will be avoided to the maximum extent possible. Various restrictions will be posted on signs throughout the test area and indicated on maps. Commanders, umpires, and military police will be directed to enforce these restrictions.

The U. S. Army in the Frankfurt, Germany, area employs 45 German dentists and 148 German dental assistants and X-ray technicians in its clinics. Hiring natives for these positions enabled military personnel to be transferred to other duties.

Future Leaders Taught 'Real Thing'

Firepower the Answer

Victory Is Aim Of OC Training

BY PVT. HOWARD PHILLIPS

"Victory through Firepower" is a slogan of the hard-hitting U. S. Infantry. But victory comes only through firepower that is expertly controlled.

At Fort Benning, in the Officer Candidate School, the "Lesson of Firepower" is studiously learned by the future Infantry leaders who will direct America's deadly arsenal of automatic and semi-automatic weapons in time of war. Here, in a series of problems designed by The Infantry School companies of aspiring Infantry second lieutenants are exposed at first hand to the fine points of setting up and controlling individual, squad, and platoon fire.

One of these is the Field Target Firing problem. It deals with applying and controlling the fire of the nine man squad, the fighting arm of the Infantry platoon. In this problem, the future lieutenants lead squads made up of their fellow officer candidates to the firing line.

Then the action begins. Waves of enemy soldiers—silhouette targets in line—appear at varying distances. Machine guns open up at unexpected points. Explosions of T.N.T., simulating incoming mortar rounds, fill the air with gray smoke.

In all the smoke and the surprise fire—in all the noise and movement—the officer candidate squad leader must deliberate coolly, select the critical targets, issue effective fire commands, and keep his eight man team covered and under control.

He must balance ingenuity with common sense. The mission and combination of targets vary for each squad. The first squad leader may have started out to lead his squad in the delivery of surprise fire on known enemy positions; the second to knock out isolated snipers, the next to encounter enemy machine guns.

But what target situation will actually confront their squads, none of them know.

The tactical and target situation are varied to test the squad leader's ability to diagnose a situation and to distribute his AR and M-1 fire on targets proper to each weapon and in the correct rate and pattern of fire. Each squad fires 578 rounds, of .30 ball ammunition. It is enough ammunition to give the officer candidate an idea of the decisions and details which will confront the squad leaders of the platoon he may someday command under fire.

It behooves the squad leader to judge soundly.

Immediately behind him in raised bleachers sit over half his company taking in his whole performance. They are there not to cheer or guffaw, but to learn, like himself—and to remember. Following each squad's performance—and the target scoring which indicates the effectiveness of the fire—there is a critique.

OCs Are Judges
Each of the squad leader's mistakes and each of his accomplishments are drawn out, not by the principal instructor, but by the candidates up on their feet describing and contending. It is usually not so much the squad leader personally that is praised or blamed. The instructor, who acts as moderator, edges the class into bringing up the principles behind his decisions and movements. The results are comments like, "He should have shifted his AR's on the machine gun because it was a priority target" and "The best thing against a sniper is another sniper."

Occasionally the principles from the Field Manual get a helping hand from combat experience. A Korean vet rose during a recent critique period and asked, "How should he (the squad leader) er) have known that the No. 5 AR man was out while he wasted his time with that rifleman? Because to a squad leader the sound of both these AR's firing has dug two ruts in his brain. When one stops firing for a moment he knows it."

NOT TO FIRE BUT TO CONTROL . . . Here Officer Candidate Alex Tingirides illustrates the Squad leader's job: to control.

Victory-Firepower

Field target firing, which is conducted by the Technique of Rifle Fire Sub-Committee of the Weapons Department, was designed to be a stepping stone from individual rifle marksmanship and technique of fire to squad and platoon tactics. Officer candidates, in their PFO releases to The Bayonet, have described it as "realistic," "chance for initiative," "best opportunity for critique," "confronts you with the real problem of controlling a squad's fire," "maximum participation and interest."

After all, if America should be tried again, it will be the spirit, initiative, and training of those who have chosen the hard path of leadership, not steel and powder, that will bring—Victory Through Firepower.

DECISIONS DISCUSSED . . . After the squad has engaged the enemy (in top and bottom pictures) the leader's decisions are discussed by a fellow OC, Candidate George Long, with the principal instructor, Capt. Wm. C. Lindahl, standing by.

FOUR OF NINE . . . The fire of nine men is scattered and sporadic—interlacing, steady, concentrated and—demoralizing.

Morgan Promoted To Highest Grade

A member of Company C, Infantry School Detachment, has been promoted to the highest enlisted grade.

He is M-Sgt. Jerry Morgan, a member of the Department of Non-Resident Instruction, who has been in the Army since 1942.

Morgan, holder of the Bronze Star Medal, served in the European and Mediterranean Theaters during World War II and then in Korea action.

While serving with Company C, 24th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division, he was captured and held prisoner until released in Operation Big Switch.

OCs Sparkle With Slogans

Safety slogans are falling like autumn leaves around 11th OC Company, 11th Student Battalion. The company safety council is sponsoring a contest with nullification of a week-end restriction as the weekly winner's reward. Among the much-sighed OCs, competition is keen and interest high. The safety council, directed by OC Wesley D. Coleman, using a miniature sand table and plastic toy soldier, has constructed an unusual display in the company day room. It shows the safety problems arising in tactical field situations. One trooper is smoking near an ammo dump, another is standing in a weapon's backblast area, and a third is reaching for a hot machine gun barrel. Working for 100 per cent safety consciousness among the OCs, the council is counting on an accident free cycle.

Women Proud to Keep OCs 'Starved, Clean'

The bent figure of a soldier doubling with a dozen sets of clean, starched fatigues is a common early evening sight in the Harmony Church area. The soldier is an officer candidate and the fatigues are vital necessities for him and his fellow OCs, who wear a clean set of starched fatigues every day.

With laundry such an important item in his life, the ladies who serve him at any one of the three laundries located in the area, naturally, among his best friends. No matter which establishment he chooses, the candidate will be greeted by cordial, pleasant faces.

Mrs. Willine Brazill and Mrs. Robert Clark agree that it is a pleasure to wait on the candidates because they are well-behaved and polite. OCs rate "tops" as customers, they say. After only a month on the job, Mrs. Frances Blakely of another laundry, already recognizes the importance of prompt service to these men. Mrs. Blakely mainly appreciates the fact that candidates always have their tickets ready and respect the work involved in handling laundry and dry cleaning.

After working in the OCs area for over two years, Mrs. W. E. Blake knows what it is like to go through the school. The candidates, according to Mrs. Blake, realize the work involved in the cleaning business and always show appreciation for any extra service. It was Mrs. Evelyn Gruttner of the same establishment who commented, "It means something to the officer candidate to see a friendly face and a smile after a hard day's work."

OC H. R. PHILLIPS
... Maker of Ships

His Next Whittle Will Be Schooner Inside a Bottle

You probably picture a whittler of wooden model ships as a white-haired old sea captain content with memories, a pipe, a block of wood and a knife.

Candidate Howard R. Phillips of 11th OC Company, whose hobby is modeling ships, is hardly that type of man. Having served in Korea in 1951 with the Eighth Combat Engineers of the First Cavalry Division, and later attached to the 68th Airborne, Phillips is clearly a man of action, not a man of moist-eyed reverie.

Phillips began his hobby shortly after joining the Army in 1950. Since that time he has finished seven model ships, including very difficult three-masted schooners that take six months to build.

Working from photographs, old sailing books, and blueprints, Phillips has reconstructed such famous old ships as "The Constitution" and "The Santa Maria." He also made two sleek Nantucket whalers. He considers his "H.M.S. Bounty" his finest work. Phillips completed this model while confined to the hospital at West Point. He hopes soon to complete a small model schooner encased in a bottle. An old Dutch sailor has given him the secrets of the trade, and Phillips is anxious to take a whack, that is, a whittle at it.

OCs Mourn Beelzebub's Loss

Beelzebub is gone. The alligator mascot of 11th OC Company died early last Sunday morning and was buried that afternoon.

An olive drab "croc" whose proud pedigree went back to the Protozoan age, Beelzebub was found dead by his keeper, OC Adelbert Coon, shortly before reveille. Word spread quickly through the company and the candidates gave their pet a "full military funeral."

Beelzebub's body was escorted from the first platoon barracks by two "honorary" pallbearers. Officer candidate Matthew Knowles performed a brief eulogy while OC Martin G. Decker, company harmonist, played taps. The ceremony thus ended, burial was in the Fifth Student Battalion's Cemetery "for Wee Beasts."

Mrs. Roper Directs 'Laura' Production

The Fort Benning Little Theatre production, Laura, will be directed by Mrs. George M. Roper, a "package of concentrated dynamite," who has a wide background in all phases of the theater.

Mrs. Roper is a graduate in drama from Texas State College for women, with practical experience in directing, acting, costume design and make-up. While in college she appeared in "Mrs. Moonbeam," "Our Town" and stopped the show in "Twelfth Night." She also directed Philip Barry's "The Male Animal" as part of her college work. After receiving her degree, Mrs. Roper continued with further graduate study and directed the Little Theatre production of "The Stage Door in Port Arthur, Texas."

Since her arrival, Mrs. Roper has been an active participant in many past activities, including Girl Scout work, P.T.A., Post Chapel choir, and a member of The Little Theatre board of governors. She was publicity chairman for "The Moon Is Blue," costume chairman for "Billie Holiday" and directed the production of "Gramercy Ghost." She is the wife of Maj. George M. Roper, now with Headquarters, 8th Infantry Regiment stationed in Bad Nauheim, Germany. With her are their four children.

Members of the cast are: Scottie Allen, Capt. Philip Allen, Lt. Col. John Schuyler, Major Rod Stamey, Bert Collier, Private Gary Warren, Marie Fry, and Capt. Paul Offer.

OC P. J. POWDERLY
... Decides to Try

Helped Others Get Through OC Stint, Now Tries Himself

After processing OCS applications for more than two years, Patrick J. Powderly, 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, now finds himself training for a commission with some of the same men whose applications he worked on.

Candidate Powderly, with six General Depot. While at this station he was able to visit Yugoslavia, Berchtesgaden, and Cortina, Italy, site of the Winter Olympics. Numerous visits to Austria, Italy, and Yugoslavia gave him a good background of knowledge on the problems of those countries.

Keeping up the family tradition, Powderly's two brothers recently enlisted in the Army and are presently stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.

Undertaking Biz Was Interesting, Candidate Says

One would never guess, from his cheerful smile, the civilian occupation of OC William Dorsey, 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion.

Back home in Cedartown, Ga., Dorsey was an apprentice embalmer and emergency ambulance driver. The 21-year-old candidate admits his job was an unusual one, but says it was also varied and interesting.

He especially remembers his duty as an ambulance driver because the trips he made were often exciting, and frequently life depended on his driving skill.

Dorsey says, "It wasn't the easiest job in the world, but it gave me a great deal of satisfaction." Dorsey attended Cedartown High School where he played football and basketball. President of his senior class, he was later elected as representative to the Young Congress of Georgia.

14th OC Blazes Way Through Fourth Test

With a company average of 402.9, a figure just short of the all-time OCS mark, 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, recently blazed through the fourth of a programmed series of physical fitness tests on Training Field 24.

The first section of the third platoon, which lead the averages with 410.1, was exempted from all restrictions on the weekend.

Continuing the line of progress from a 235.7 average on the first trial to the latest figure, 14th OC classmen have started working to improve for the fifth and final PT test when the OCs are hoping, the present record will be topped.

Hot OC Tops BAR Record

With a red-hot 188 points out of a 200 possible Officer Candidate Daniel Addiss set a new Browning Automatic Rifle record for 14th OC Company, and a probable unofficial record for the Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

Expert Addiss, a devoted squirrel hunter before he entered the Army last January, also fired the M-1 rifle for second place honors in his company, with a score of 228.

The versatile, red-haired candidate, who has proved himself the company "dead-eye," took his earlier test at Fort Jackson, S. C. Addiss also fired a Georgia Military College cadet prior to entering the Army.

Men Have Different Slants on War

During World War II an estimated young man who was fortunate—or unfortunate—enough to be classified IV-F for the draft, inadvertently stimulated the sales of alcoholic beverages via that great American invention, the juke box. This young man, who might be classified as the Eddie Fisher of his day, contributed to the war effort by means of a lugubrious ballad, or orchestral accompaniment, called "This is Worth Fighting For." No bar, tavern, or cafe was free from Mr. Sinatra's "patriotic" platitudes.

Like the ad-men of that period, who seemed determined to submerge every vestige of patriotism in a vat of treacle, the lyricist of this so-called song indicated that "... a peaceful old valley, with a carpet of corn for a floor..." was "... worth fighting for..."

Of course, the World War II GI was patently grateful to an unknown writer with the Stars and Stripes who placed the ad-men and their sob sister ilk in their proper perspective with a treatise, based on the following ad in a national magazine:

"Dearest Mom: So old Bess has pups again! That reminds me of so much. She had her last litter two years ago—just about this time—when everything was so fresh and new. That's what I want to get back to—the world at home where a fellow can give the sort of welcome he ought to a litter of setter pups in the Spring. To watch them grow up with all the other new young things in a world that's bright and free..."

The writer in the Stripes then remarked: "We think it's high time the copywriters learn that this war is being fought by grown men. We are soldiers, and good ones, and we are fighting because our country is at war and for reasons which grown men understand."

Fed Up
"We got pretty fed up with the sticky ads which begin 'Dear Mom' and end 'and that, Mom, is what I am fighting for—the corner drugstore with its double-extra-special-thick chocolate malted milk. But since the public seems to think that soldiers are simple asses drooling slush in the face of machine-gun fire, we offer the following uncopyrighted 'Dear Mom' letters direct from the front:

Here with are two of the letters:
"Dear Mom: We are camped in an orchard not far from Carantan that you have read about mom, and there are dairy cows grazing in their orchard and the peasants come right out in their wooden shoes and milk them, and mom, one of the cows made fertilizer right where I put down my blankets. Golly, mom, it sure smells good and reminded me of you and dad and old Muley. That's what I'm fighting for, mom, a world in which there won't be no soldiers putting down their blankets right where old Muley wants to make fertilizer, over my blanket."

"Dear Mom: We are going through some hedgerows toward St. Lo today, mom, and a German burp-gun got on me and I ducked in a ditch and set off a Teller mine and a Tiger tank ran right over my ditch and a squad of Boche infantry started heaving grenades at me and I got to thinking, mom, of old Bess and her about to have pups again and mom, we can't have them pups born in a world that ain't free and bright, can we, even if it's the way you said old Bess got out at night and was bred by that mongrel next door, so, mom, I got right out of that ditch and fixed that tank good and proper and also the burp-gun and the Boche infantry, and we will get this here war over, mom, just as soon as we can for you and dad and old Bess and a better, brighter world for that unborn litter..."

Reasons Evaluated
Troops throughout TIC next week will evaluate some of the basic reasons for their military service in troop information periods based on Troop Topic 20-78, "Our Privileges, Our Responsibilities, and Our Freedoms."
Despite all the goo that has been written and expounded on the subject, every American should realize the extent of the priceless benefit that has been transmitted to Americans over the 180-year duration of our nation. At this very moment, states the Troop Topic, men and women are risking their lives to break through the Iron Curtain to escape from Communist countries to the free world. Many of these people have known nothing but hard work and despair all their lives. Most know little about the theories of communism, or of democracy. They flee communism not because they disagree with the theories of communism, but because they have seen the actual results of communism in their villages and towns. They know little about specific American goals of liberty, individual responsibility, equality, government for the people, free enterprise, and peace. What they have heard about are the results of our system of government. Freedoms and Privileges inherent to Americans will be contrasted out private bet that old Bess, and old Muley, and the corner drug store, and the right to boo the Dodgers, will rate pretty low on preserve them. It's a good thing, the list.

Recruiting Fodder

Sees 9 Nations in 8 Years

This is for you sergeants who have an eye on a recruiting job. When describing Army travel to a prospective recruit, you might use the story of Officer Candidate Eulise Gee Young, of 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion.

In his eight years of service, Young has visited almost all the 48 states, plus Germany, Japan, Korea, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, France, Holland, and England, where he saw the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

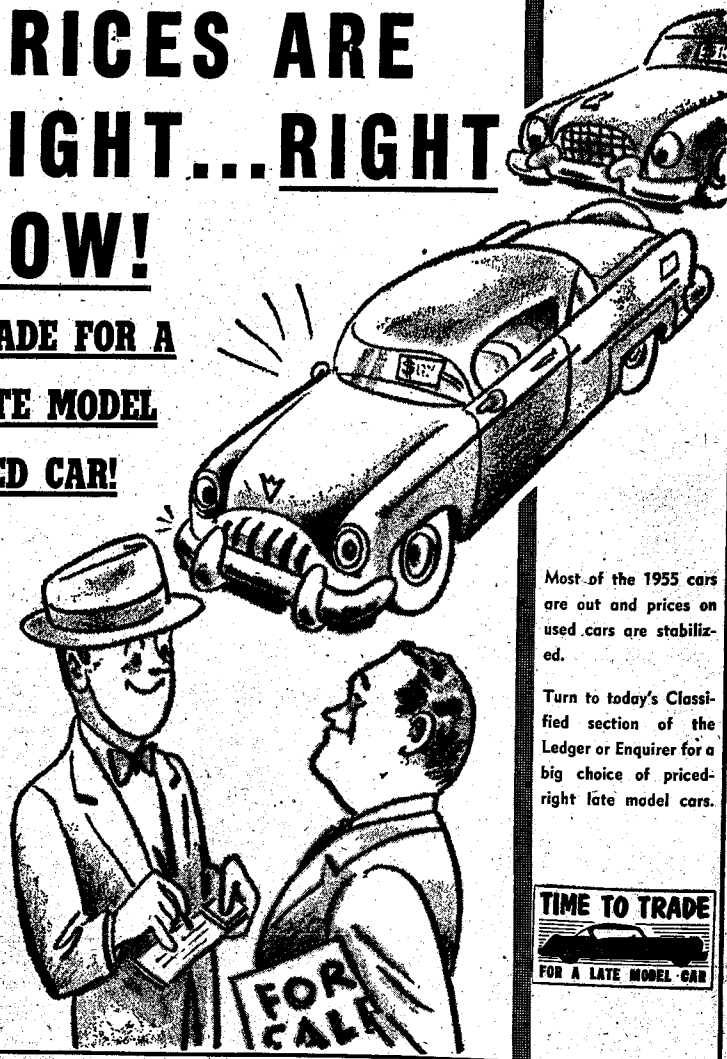

Young said that both in Europe and Asia he found the people friendly to American soldiers and realized they were there to help them.

Young's outstanding Army work is verified by the fact that he was made sergeant in Sept., 1951, sergeant first class in December of the same year, and reached the enlisted top—master sergeant—in April 1951. From New Orleans, La., Young took basic training at Fort Dix, N. J.

They're Here... NEW LINCOLN FOR 1955

See and drive these new beauties!
New Turbo-Drive—most far-reaching advance in no-shift driving in 14 years.
New high-torque, high-output V-8 engine— for matchless performance in every range.

We've just seen the new Lincoln for 1955! All of us have spent the last few hours just looking—and once in a while running a hand, gently, along what seem like the longest, sleekest fenders ever.

This car, in our opinion, is more than beautiful. It is everything a fine car should be—but so seldom is!

Now—come in and see for yourself. The new Lincoln styling—the new colors and fabrics—merit a long look.

And then you must—as we have—drive a new 1955 Lincoln or Lincoln Capt. Because beneath this beauty is new performance words cannot describe.

You must experience Lincoln's new Turbo-Drive to realize how far ahead it brings driving. It gives you, for the first time in any car, ultra smoothness and instant acceleration—with neither left out for the sake of the other.

And the new Lincoln V-8 engine! You've got to feel its silky power in action to believe it. You must feel its incredible response in every driving range from start to superhighway speeds.

AND A NOTE OF URGENCY: our present shipment of new Lincolns may not be with us long. Early orders mean early deliveries.

We're looking forward to showing you this 1955 Lincoln in action.

136th Plays STC Thanksgiving Day

Benning Bowl Pits Brigade, 164th

After being knocked from their pinnacle last Saturday by the 30th Infantry Blues, the 164th Infantry Flickertails will engage in their 10th or-der encounter at 2 p.m. next Sunday afternoon with the Rams of the School Brigade in the second annual Benning Bowl at Columbus Memorial Stadium.

The Thanksgiving battle tomorrow will pit STC against the 136th Inf. at 2:30 p.m. in Doughboy Stadium.

The Flickertails, who led Fort Benning's grid league for five consecutive weeks, are three-touch-down underdogs since the same team who defeated them last Saturday also handed Brigade their only loss of the season on Oct. 17, 20 to 0. Their season, up to the past weekend, resembled the Georgia Bulldog's schedule, playing "justover" teams until late in the season. Their stiffest competition has just begun and they are expected to falter even more prior to season's end.

Even though the Rams are in first place, they are forced to share that slot with the 30th Inf. and all indications now point to a playoff between the Rams and Blues, providing, of course, both elevens win their remaining contests.

School Brigade	5	1	0
30th Inf.	5	1	0
164th Inf.	4	1	1
136th Inf.	3	1	1
135th Inf.	2	4	0
Special Troops	1	4	0
CTC	1	5	0
Divarty	1	5	0

The Rams proudly hold the best offensive record on post with their 187 points and their defensive record is second best, having allowed only 48. The Flickertails hold a 158 for and 73 against. The Special Troops Great Wave will be in their familiar underdog role in tomorrow's battle with third place 136th Infantry at Doughboy Stadium beginning at 2:30 p.m.

30th Ties For Loop Lead by Beating 164th, 25-7

The 30th Infantry football team climbed into a top berth in the TIC competition last Saturday afternoon by dropping the previously undefeated but one-tied 164th Infantry eleven, 25 to 7 at Doughboy Stadium.

After being held at a 7-0 disadvantage at halftime, the Blues scored three times in the second half to drop the Flickertails from first to third place.

Little Joe Gerner continued his rampage as a potential scoring threat from any point on the gridiron, by exploding through guard in the second play from scrimmage and during post the Flickertail secondaries for a 49 yard touchdown.

The 164th accounted for their lone tally when they blocked a 30th punt and recovered the ball on the Blue's five yard marker. Tony Munfao, an alert 164th guard, recovered a teammate's fumble and changed into the end zone for the score.

Bill West a big fullback for the Blues, thrilled the chilly crowd early in the third period when he took a handoff from quarterback Clyde Young and charged past two would be tacklers for 54 yards and a touchdown that turned the tide in favor of the 30th.

An unnecessary roughness penalty in the fourth period gave the Blues the ball on the one yard line where West stepped into the end zone for his second score of the afternoon.

The fourth touchdown drive was set up as the result of a 19-yard jaunt by Bobby Moorhead and a 25 yard pass from Young to Moorhead to the 18 yard marker. For the second time in a row the 164th yard unnecessary roughness penalty against the 164th put the ball on the end zone doorstep where a pass from Young to Frank Fuller completed the one yard necessary for the final tally of the afternoon.

Entries Needed For Sports Book

Fort Benning coaches and managers have been asked to submit their team records to the Armed Forces Sports Almanac for the 1955 edition. Edited by C. O. Kates, AFSA is an annual publication containing the detailed records of service teams in both major and minor sports.

Players, Coaches To Pick 'Stars'

32-6 Lacing Fortunato Leads Rams To Win Over Redlegs

Led by the backfield artistry of Big Joe Fortunato, the School Brigade Rams rode roughshod over the Divarty Redlegs by a lop-sided 32-6 tally. The Rams carried a first place tie with the 30th Infantry Blues in the Post conference.

Midway through the first period a Divarty pass fell into Brigade hands and several plays later Ed Crook scored the Rams first touchdown. Frank Kush attempted the extra point and successfully pushed the score to 7-0.

With only seconds left to play in the first period, the Rams partially blocked a Divarty punt deep in Divarty territory. The Rams pushed to the Divarty 7-yard stripe where Fortunato, on a run, off right end, pushed the score to 13-0. The extra point boot failed to get through the uprights.

A pass from Gray to Middleton, in the second quarter, landed in scoring territory and with a perfect extra-point kick by Kush, the score advanced to 20 for Brigade and 0 for Divarty.

Brigade recovered a fumble on the Redleg 33 yard marker and pushed down to scoring territory but the half time whistle left them on the Divarty 13, with four downs to go.

With 4 minutes remaining in the third quarter, the Rams took over on a punt by the Redlegs and several plays later a pass from Gray to Fortunato lengthened the Brigade lead to 28-0.

Scoring slowed down until late in the final period when an interception again set the Brigade eleven in Divarty territory. A pass from Gray to Upchurch pushed the ball to the Redleg one and Mitchell Charles pushed the half over 'is own right tackle for the final Brigade TD. Kush's extra point attempt was no good and the score settled at 32-0.

The clock showed only seconds to go in the game when the Redlegs intercepted a Brigade pass and took to the air themselves with Philip Powell on the receiving end to score for Divarty. The kick for the extra point was unsuccessful and the score read 32-6 at the games end.

Commanders Bow To Redstone, 12-0

Last Saturday afternoon, on a slippery field, Redstone Aerial Detachment, CTC by a score of 12-0, defeated CTC by a score of 12-0. CTC was able to move consistently on the ground, but lacked a scoring punch.

They were defeated by a brilliant aerial attack by the Redstone team. Costly penalties hurt CTC on two occasions after the Redstone 20 yard line.

But last week's performance convinced the "experts" that this was his big week. So we will give this bit of advice to the Special Troops Green Wave who meet the 30th Infantry Blues on Dec. 4. Don't go West, young men!

FRANK FULLER is a tremendous football player. His towering 6'3" frame is enough to make any average sized man wonder just how he manages to keep his head out of the clouds or navigate without the use of radar.

His gigantic frame carries his 240 pound load around the gridiron like it was all in a day's work. But last Saturday when the 30th Infantry Blues subdued the aggregation on Dec. 4, he caused their 25 to 7 drubbing. Fuller entered the Flick's backfield with amazing speed and caused a 11 handlers a maximum of confusion all afternoon. He has been chosen lineman of the week because of his outstanding defensive play, by grounding ball carriers whenever they got into the path of him. Congratulations, Frank, and in all probability we'll see your name again on the All-Post roster.

PMG Bounces ISD For Touch Title

Halfback Robert Naugle paced his 24th Evac, Provisional Medical Group team-mates to a perfect 3, 7 to 6, and breezing through other shutouts, 35 to 0, over the 135th Inf. aggregation in the semifinals.

Naugle's aerials were the difference throughout most of the Medical's victories, but his three pass interceptions during the playoffs helped insure their 4-0 record. The Medicals gained admission to the finals by coasting through a 26 to 0 win over Special Units, 47th Division, then edging a one point victory over AFF Board No. 3, 7 to 6, and breezing through other shutouts, 35 to 0, over the 135th Inf. aggregation in the semifinals.

In the final tilt, Naugle's amazing passing ability remained unchanged and the ISD quind dined under that deadly passing attack which had previously sent three teams to the sidelines.

Spotlighting

Grid Wins Repeated By 508 at Campbell

BY JACK MILLER
Last year at Fort Benning the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat team made headlines by tying the vaunted School Brigade Rams for the post football crown.

And now, one year later, that same Red Devil eleven is making news at Fort Campbell, Ky. Their record up to the past weekend carried a neat 5-1 mark, the best on that post. Their closest competitor owned a 4-1 tally and still had one game remaining to play, as did the Devils.

While browsing through current news releases we were fascinated by the fact that the Red Devils were doing such a tremendous job two consecutive seasons. They had some of the post's best talent last year, placing one member on the Benning All-Post team and four on the second-place squad. And they are loaded again in '54.

The last game the Devils played at Fort Campbell. They won, 26 to 13, which is enough to convince anyone that pre-game dopesters in Kentucky sometimes go out on the well-known limb, too.

Lafayette Horton was the sparkplug of the victory, as in many of the Devils' wins last year on this post. His name will probably be well remembered at Campbell.

We had the unpleasant task of witnessing another boxing card last Thursday night at Harmony Church. It wasn't the place that was unpleasant, though. The people at Harmony Church have been congenial all year and their sportsmanship is to be commended.

Instead, we are griping about the boxing card again: 12 fights; nine Class IV and a pitiful three Class III duels. That was the outcome of the weighing-in ceremony.

The Sports Office had originally scheduled 17 bouts, including two Class I encounters, but at the last minute, both class I bouts plus three others were canceled. Why?

If we were the only grippers on the post, we would cease and desist. But the spectators have their own way of showing disapproval and they have begun to do so. Last week's card drew the smallest crowd of any so far. Attendance has been slowly declining since the second card. And we will venture to say that if things continue the way they are going the promoters will be lucky if even the judges show up.

The fights have no admission charge. That's fine. It shows that the promoters are big-hearted. They could charge admission or sell season tickets if they wanted to.

With the proceeds they could present nice trophies to deserving fighters. They could also have a banquet at the season's close, the same as in football and baseball. And it is the fighters who so rightfully deserve a banquet. The managers, coaches and promoters are not doing too much in sponsoring the top-notch talent that is available at Fort Benning. The fighters who have stepped into the ring have gone all-out and fought as hard as any—anywhere; but we need new faces and more experienced boxers to keep the boxing program going.

Next Sunday in Columbus' Memorial Stadium, two of Benning's best football teams will meet at 2 p.m. The league-leading 164th Inf. Flickertails will put their championship on the line against the School Brigade Rams. The contest will be sponsored by the American Legion of Columbus and proceeds will go to that organization for distribution to a number of worthy charities.

Divarty Wins Three, Heading Fight Card

The Redlegs of Divarty pounded their way to a perfect slate by winning all three of their boxing entries last Thursday night at the Harmony Church arena. However, it was a sad event for the 135th aggregation, who entered six and lost them all.

Little Leonard Phillips, a 145 pound chunk of dynamite from the 164th Inf., thrilled fans in an otherwise dull card when he exploded with a barrage of punches in the first round of his Class III bout. Almost simultaneously with the bell ending round one, Phillips uncorked a left hook that all but shook the arena. His opponent, Clarence Cole, of the 135th Inf., hit the canvas in his own corner for a TKO.

CTC Perfect Night
A perfect night was also seen by the CTC squad when Leroy Hudson, Class IV middleweight, CTC's only entry, TKO'd Dempsey Murphy of the 135th, after 2:22 of the first round.

Other results of the 12-bout card follow:
John Givens, Divarty Class III light middleweight, TKO'd Jack Dunbar, 164th Inf.
In Class IV featherweight event, Ellis Caudill, 164th Inf., defeated Norman Brownley, 135th Inf.

Southpaw Joe Gibson, 135th Inf., defeated John "Tiger" Kelly, Special Units, 47th Div., in a Class IV bantamweight bout.
School Brigade's Ralph Cooper, a Class IV middleweight, scored the evening's lone KO over Sterling Richards, 164th Inf.

Another decision was seen when the 135th Infantry's Leon Golding outpointed Joe Coleman, a 135th Inf. Class IV light middleweight.
A Class IV light middleweight scrap ended in a decision handed to Glenwood Wiseman, Brigade, over Leroy Tompkins, 135th Inf.

The night's single heavyweight bout saw Leonard Johnson, a Special Units Class IV pugilist, TKO Thomas Shipp, School Brigade, after 2:33 of the third and final round.
In a Class IV light heavyweight battle, John Rolle, Brigade, emerged victor over the loud speaker Duane Butcher, 135th Inf.

CTC Opponents Fear Charges Of Rampaging Charlie Kuehn

He isn't a rubber legged ball carrier on a high riding team, nor do people jump up and down in the stands when he goes into action; but to the 11 men on the other team he's the guy that will always try to stop them.

"John Doe carried the ball for a five yard loss. The tackle was made by No. 37, Charlie Kuehn". How many times has that been heard over the loud speakers of Doughboy Stadium this year?
Beat Defense
It has been said that the best pass defense is to rush the passer. Charging Charlie is a firm believer in this system of defense because he is continually rushing the backs and on many occasions dumps them with resounding tackles before the ball can be thrown. To some of these would-be passers it must seem that Charlie comes from nowhere because in many instances a passer has been taking his time while sighting his target with Charging Charlie only a few inches away, coming in like a mad bull. This has a very startling effect on the passer. To say the least, and often results in a fumble or at the best a pretty poor pass.

Charlie is the coach and right end for the CTC football team and although the team does not have an outstanding record, you will find

Yost Scores 35 BIOC 5 Cagers Defeated By Auburn Team, 84-65

After beating three Fort Benning teams, the hoopers of BIOC No. 5 lost their first game Thursday night in the Auburn Tigers, in a practice game for the SEC team. The contest, which was played in the Auburn gym was a free scoring affair which saw the lead change hands 12 times before the Plainsmen pulled away in the last period to win by a score of 84-65. A large crowd which included over a hundred members of 18th Company was on hand for the game and although Benning quinlet lost the contest the members of the company were well satisfied. They reasoned that 85 points wasn't bad against the Southeastern Conference team. Auburn drew first blood with a fast breaking lay-up for two and then the lead changed back and forth until Auburn led by one point at the half. At the end of the third quarter the Tigers' longer hours of practice and bigger bench began to tell and Auburn grabbed the lead for keeps. The BIOC No. 5 team made up of lieutenants had had a total of only eight hours of practice since the season started.

Higher scorer of the game was 18th Company's 6-9 center, Ray Yost, who managed to rack up the terrific total of 35 points. Yost, who played college ball for Oregon, spent the night wheeling and dealing from the keyhole. Another sparkplug was Dick Littlefield, former Military Academy varsity player. Littlefield garnered 10 points. It was team play however, that kept BIOC No. 5 in the game.

TRIPLE CHAMPS . . . With trophies for Infantry School Detachment basketball and softball championships already won, members of Company H added another set to their collection by winning the Intramural Football League championship. Showing off their awards are, kneeling, Cpl. Robert H. McGinnis, Roy C. Smith, Robert D. Barrow-William C. Angel, and Pvt. Max T. Manning. Standing left to right, Capt. Roy E. Sullivan, company commander and Sgts. Paul J. Bonair, David I. Clark, Gary C. Goth and Oscar H. Foote.

Short OC Proves Height Has No Bearing in Basketball

Take hope you short men who like to play basketball. There is positive proof, in the form of OC Vinlie Coyle, 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, that you needn't be one of the lanky fellows who have air piped up to them, to be a star basketball player. Only five feet eight inches tall, Coyle led his college team in scoring for two years and was named the team's most valuable player while still a freshman. Coyle has crammed a lot of basketball into his 22 years. He has been playing in organized teams since he was 11 years old. An outstanding senior year at Binghamton, N. Y. North High School, where he served as co-captain earned Coyle a Hamilton College scholarship. There, Coyle, was moved immediately to the varsity team with-out freshmen or junior varsity experience. After the first game he was a member of the starting five. His floor generalship and high point average were largely responsible for Hamilton's best season in five years. During the sophomore year, Coyle again led the team in scoring. A steady ball handler and accurate passer, OC Doyle is adept at drawing fouls.

They Are Saying in Washington That...

(By Armed Forces Press Service)

Enrollment in the Air Force's college ROTC program is soaring, despite flight training requirements for graduates. Total enrollment is higher than ever before with more than 103,000 in 206 colleges and universities. Last June about 800 out of about 11,000 AFROTC grads were qualified for flight training and this year the goal will be about 11,000 out of 14,000.

The Army is pushing hard at its goal of boosting the percentage of its men in combat units. Latest figures show this contrast: at the end of WWII only 48 of every 100 soldiers were in operational forces. In June 1953 the ratio had been stepped up to 82 out of 100. And by June 1955 it is expected to be 83 out of 100.

David S. Smith has been sworn in as Assistant Secretary of the AF (Manpower-Personnel). He will assume responsibility for all manpower, personnel, reserve, AFROTC and ANG matters in the AF. Prior to this appointment, he served as special assistant to the Undersecretary of State and was a naval officer during WWII.

Modernization of the Air National Guard continues to make rapid progress. The ANG, which had no jets in Fiscal Year 1953, now is flying more than 700 jet-powered aircraft. Last year 83 ANG squadrons were converted to jets and 13 more are set for conversion this year. If present plans work out, all ANG fighters will be jets by the end of Fiscal Year '56.

COUNCILMAN in Millbrae, Calif., wants to license people to make them responsible for their pet's actions. Yup, it's a dog's life.

Men in Los Angeles, Calif., says he saw a flying saucer land, a little man in a white suit got out, and a truck pick up the space visitor and his ship before he could get the truck's number. Same truck that took the bottle away?

Follow in Port Arthur, Ont., went hunting and police shot a 50-pound bobcat that broke into the hunter's basement while he was away. What did the police do about the kittens the hunter had when he found out about it?

Two Infantry regiments had a friendly but keen rivalry following World War I as to which could claim the title "Rock of the Marne." Both the 30th and 38th Infantry Regiments had fought heroically in that battle and both had suffered some of the heaviest casualties of the war. The 38th won out, however, adopting as its motto "The Rock of the Marne." The 38th chose "Our Country Not Ourselves."

even moral suasion can dissuade people from taking a flatter. Our nation, and certainly our Army, at one time was motivated by moralistic attitudes which were the wonder and the envy of the civilized world. Everyone is familiar with President Eisenhower's quote of a great Frenchman to the effect that "American is great because she is good. If she ever ceases to be good, she will cease to be great..."

Mileage indicator on the '53, low-price range, sedan I drive clicked over to 23,500 the other day, which presents a nice study in economics and mathematics. Based on the purchase price, it has cost your old father ten cents per mile just for the privilege of driving the contraption. Being a collector of unused statistics, I toted up my gas bills (having a credit card provides an accurate record) and learned that it also has cost me 1/4 of one cent per mile to keep the internal combustion engine chugging. A couple of new tires a week and a gas spread over the 23,500 miles runs the tab up by .0015 cents per...

When I got around to computing depreciation, mathematics suddenly lost their charm. It gives your old father perverse pleasure when drivers in the right lane of the new portion of Benning Blvd. close in tight and deny entrance to the wise birds who "rapped the field" between Outpost One and the one-lane feeder onto old Benning road near the gates of the reservation.

Once in a while, however, some misguided Samaritan will ease up and let one of these jokers back in line. That grieves me. Most of the people who use the new road know that it shrinks to one lane at its terminus, yet they tromp on the gas down the left lane and then try to sneak in ahead of their law-abiding compatriots who stayed put in the right lane.

Law-abiding citizens, arise! Keep these smart alecks waiting at their gate! Close ranks and deny entrance to the guy who tries to beat the game. He's a menace to your dime-a-mile transportation. If you're the same guy who crumples your fenders, runs you off the road, mangles himself and his com-

Crest Tells History Of Famed 29th Inf.

The familiar 29th Infantry regimental crest returned yesterday after 11 years when the 29th replaced the 89th Infantry Regiment at Fort Benning.

Worn on the shoulders and caps of the men in the regiment, this crest is the epitome of the 29th Infantry and its history.

As light dispels darkness, so does education dispel ignorance. The lamp of knowledge is represented atop the crest, acknowledging the important role this unit played in the educational work in the Infantry.

The twisted wreath beneath the lamp bears the blue and white colors of the 29th.

In Philippines

The tree represents the mango tree indicative of the regiment's service in the Philippines. The crossed bayonets are the bolo used by the insurgents in the Philippine Insurrection, and the bayonet is the traditional symbol of the Infantry.

The bolo and the bayonet signify not only that a battle was fought in the Philippines but how it was fought. Defeating the bandits was a grinding dust between the men behind the native weapons and the American soldiers behind the bayonet. The bolo also expresses the climatic conditions that the men of the 29th had to combat aside from the bandits.

Ranger Class 5 Leaves For Florida Training

Ranger Class No. 5 finished its initial phase of training recently and departed for Florida. There the men will learn the techniques of jungle operations and engage in tactical waterborne pappine insurrection, and the bayonet is the traditional symbol of the Infantry.

The class, handled by 107th Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), is composed of 89 officers and 39 enlisted men.

the stockpiling of equipment and supplies in England to maintain the effectiveness of the D-Day punch against Germany.

Moves to France

Late in 1944, the unit moved to France to perform security tasks, one of which included guarding the famed "Red Ball Express" highway, the supply artery to the fast moving thrusts of General George Patton's forces.

With the outbreak of the "Battle of the Bulge," the regiment scoured and defended river crossings along the Meuse River, fighting numerically superior forces.

During 1945 and 1946, it performed security tasks, escorted and guarded prisoners of war and participated in the occupation of Germany.

In 1946 the 29th moved to Okinawa. From there it was sent into the Korean fighting in the early days of the conflict.

From Korea, the 29th returned to Okinawa, remaining there until its transfer to Fort Benning.

3d Army Starts Drive For Aviation Officers

HEADQUARTERS, THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — Third Army Aviation officials have formulated plans to send recruiting teams to military installations in seven states in order to enlist more officers for the Army Aviation Flight Training program.

In their continued efforts to spur the Aviation program, which recently received new stimulus in the Third Army Area with the establishment of the Aviation School at Camp Rucker, officials here are initiating a concerted drive for volunteers.

One of the plans of the new drive calls for specialized teams to be established at various military installations throughout the Southeast for recruiting purposes.

The Army is desirous of recruiting applicants for the primary flight training course and the aviation tactics course.

The former is a 17 weeks course in fixed-wing aircraft at Gary Air Force Base, San Marcos, Texas. The tactics course follows immediately at Camp Rucker. Focusing any on tactical training in fixed-wing aircraft, the tactics course is 12 weeks long.

Included among the prerequisites for the flight training program are: one must be a commissioned officer under 30 at the time of application, hold a temporary rank of not higher than first lieutenant; weigh no more than 200 pounds nor exceed 78 inches in height.

Active Army officers must have either successfully completed the company officers' course, the associate company officers' course, (an officers' candidate course) or an officers' basic course in the branch of service authorized by the Army Aviation Program.

Branches authorized include Infantry, Armor, Artillery, Corps of Engineers, Signal Corps, Transportation Corps, and the Medical Service Corps.

Officers not commissioned in one of the branches of service listed above may apply for aviation by requesting a detail or transfer to duty at Camp Rucker. Focusing any of the above branches.

Bryant Given Bronze Star

Sgt. Billy T. Bryant has received the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in Korea.

Sgt. Bryant was cited for duty as a platoon sergeant with the Second Infantry Division in Korea from May 22, 1953 to June 19, 1954. The presentation was made by Lt. Col. John H. Carter, 195th Field Artillery Battalion commander.

A member of the battalion's Battery B, Sgt. Bryant enlisted in the Army in June, 1952, and took basic training at Fort Riley, Kansas.

WINS NON-COM HONOR

Sgt. Wilfred J. Gregoris, S-4 NCO for First Special Troops Battalion, has been named outstanding Non-Commissioned Officer of the Month for STC. A member of Company D, First Special Troops Bn., he is a veteran of 11 years service, four of them having been spent overseas in the Southwest Pacific and on occupation in the Far East.

Candidates Vie In Training Aid Display Efforts

Competition is keen among the officer candidates of 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC) to see who can produce the best training aid for use in command conferences.

No expensive materials are used in the displays and the OC's have come up with everything from slapstick comedy to colored posters.

A typical effort was Candidate Alwyn Scott's conference on the history of the Army from the Revolutionary War to the present time. To illustrate his talk Scott dug up the manual of arms used in 1777. He executed such movements as "cock firelocks," "shut pan," and "slope arms," for the amusement of the class.

Fourteen National Guardsmen won the Medal of Honor during World War II.

Religion Is Great Assistance In Aiding Soldier's Life While Serving in Army

BY CHAPLAIN (LT. COL.) CHARLES W. LOVIN

In the book of Ecclesiastes we have a chapter 12 which deals with youth and the challenge of religion. It is the first verse, we read, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them. This book in the Old Testament is a very pessimistic book and is characteristic of the age in which it was written; namely, one of despair, lack of faith and hope on the part of the Church and the prophets alike. It was an age of fear and cynicism; an age of gloom which characterized this particular age and the author of this pessimistic sentiment saw little hope as he looked up his contemporaries. Therefore, he very wisely exhorted the youth of his day to remember God and learn to do good, for that was their salvation and their only salvation.

Our Armed Forces constitute a large portion of youth today; we are constantly searching for a thrill, a challenge, something with meaning to it and that is as it should be. Youth finds that life has meaning only when it is willing to accept the ancient challenge which we find in this book of the Old Testament here today. The challenge, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth" is just as modern as can be, and this challenge causes us to launch out into the greatest and noblest life we can make even in our youthful years. Religion challenges humanity to lay hold upon the realities of life which mean for a well-entrenched and well-concealed enemy.

The action which brought Lt. Raymond G. Murphy, USMC, the nation's highest honor took place on Feb. 3, 1953, while he was commanding an evacuation platoon with Co. A, 5th Marines, 1st Marine Div. "That was during the 'Reno-Vegas' fighting and I learned that Lt. Murphy's job was getting the wounded moved to safety and supporting the assault troops that were fighting in an uphill battle against a well-entrenched and well-concealed enemy.

It was hard going. Lt. Murphy was painfully wounded by shell fragments but refused to quit the action. Instead, he led his platoon farther up the hill through the withering fire. He made several trips up and down the slope to locate wounded and bring them back to safety.

The assault troops called for reinforcements. Lt. Murphy deployed part of his platoon to provide fire support and moved up with his own men in the lead. In the hard fighting that followed he killed two Chinese with his pistol. When the marines began to disintegrate the enemy, he stayed behind to cover their withdrawal. He kept up the fire first with a carbine—then with a BAR—blasting them as they were suffering intensely from his wounds.

At the base of the hill once more, Lt. Murphy organized a search party and climbed the slope again for a final check on the missing. The patrol found a marine machine gun crew. They picked up their bodies and packed them in litter. Lt. Murphy led the party back through heavy small arms fire, through mortar fire and artillery barrage. He was wounded a second time.

Weak from loss of blood, Lt. Murphy refused medical aid. He made sure that all his men and all the wounded and dead were back in the safety of friendly lines before he quit the fight. For his devotion to duty, and heroism he was awarded the Medal of Honor.

 Seven Days To Lomaland

On The Bookshelf

THE BLUNDERER by Patricia Highsmith (Coward-McCann, 277 pages). This is a tense suspense novel. A young New York lawyer becomes interested in the story of a woman's brutal murder. When his wife is killed in a similar manner, the web of circumstantial evidence tightens, and he fights to prove his innocence.

SEVEN DAYS TO LOMALAND by Eddie Chapman (Houghton Mifflin, 252 pages). Seven Days To Lomaland is an entirely different way of telling how Esther Warner made the long walk across Liberia to help her boy, Comma, prove his innocence of theft by plunging his hand and arm into boiling oil. This is a strange and exciting picture of African ways.

THE PIONEERS by Jack Schaefer (Houghton Mifflin, 193 pages). Here are eleven stories by a writer whose star is rapidly rising in the field of Western fiction. This book contains pictures of a part of American life in color and action and which now a part of history, certainly not forgotten.

NO TIME FOR SERGEANTS by Mac. Hyman (Random, 214 pages). When the draft board summons Will Stockdale, it starts a mad and hilarious sequence of events which are as funny as anything in modern fiction. Will is powerful of body and childlike of brain, and when he meets little Ben, who is as wacky as himself in an entirely different way, the action is wonderful, obvious and irresistible.

BEST CARTOONS OF THE YEAR, 1954, edited by Lawrence Larlar (Crown, 123 pages). This is a selection by the artists themselves, of the best cartoons they drew for the leading magazines in the country during the last year. Every kind of humor is included in a generous helping of family-size entertainment.

Library Concert

On Tuesday evening at 1930 hrs. a recorded concert featuring Bartok's "Concerto No. 3" and Mozart's "Symphony No. 40" will be presented at the Main Post Library.

In "Concerto No. 3" for Piano and Orchestra, Bartok has set in his work, used folk melodies from his native Hungary. However, in employing them he does not merely quote but assimilates them into his own composition in such a way that it is difficult to determine where the folk music ends and where the original Bartok begins. The Concerto follows the traditional classic form and is in the regulation three movements. It has the brilliance of the typical virtuoso concerto, conducted by Fritz Reiner with Dissonances are resolved to a degree of refinement which suggests

At The Theaters

BY HAL KUCHE
 Irving Berlin's "WHITE CHRISTMAS," directed by Paul Powell and in Technicolor, is coming to Fort Benning Theaters. Starring Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye, Rosemary Clooney and Vera Ellen, the story takes place after World War II. Bing Crosby and Danny Kaye rise to stardom as a team on stage and radio. Through a series of capricious circumstances, they find themselves in Vermont to spend a white Christmas at an inn where a sister act, Rosemary Clooney and Vera Ellen, is to head the floor show. At the inn, Crosby and Kaye are surprised to find the proprietor, Dean Jagger, retired major general who was their wartime commander. Business is bad, and the boys decide to bring a sister act, Rosemary Clooney and Vera Ellen, to Broadway to show up to Vermont for rehearsals to stimulate trade at the hostelry. Rosemary, although at first reluctant, understands their motives, thinking he and Kaye are only glorifying Jagger for their own selfish interest, but learns the truth and Cartoons.

THE BAREFOOT CONESA in Technicolor and starring Ava Gardner, Humphrey Bogart, Edmund O'Brien and Robert Brazill, is a daring drama dealing with a down-and-out film producer and Ava being made overnight into star. The picture is told as a flashback starting with Ava's funeral in a cemetery on the Italian Riviera, goes back to three years before when Humphrey Bogart and Ava were together as the picture producer.

Alton Ladd in "DRUM BEAT" is the story of Johnny Mackay, last of the great Indian fighters, who is called back to the scene of a new Western slant, it will prove to the many fans of Ladd's that the past and those great can be brought back to life.

Don't forget our Wednesday afternoon matinee at 3:15 and our Saturday midnight performance at 11:30.

Know Your Lender--It Pays

Usury, the practice of lending money for exorbitant rates of interest, is one of the most evil of human practices. It is in effect, taking advantage of the helpless. If a man didn't need money he wouldn't borrow it. So the man who gets hurt is the man who has an immediate need of money. The man who, because of short pay or a sudden emergency, needs some loot.

The practice of usury is especially damning within the Army. Any number of things may go wrong to cause a man to run short. A transfer, records being fouled up, or even not drawing jump pay which he has been counting on, can bring financial disaster to the individual. Then while his resistance is low, the money-lender makes himself available. "I have here, in my hand $10, all yours for a nominal fee. If you will just sign this IOW for $15.00 payable on the last day of this month I will be glad to give it to you."

When asked how he feels about taking advantage of his comrades, the usurer replies, "It is strictly business, he didn't have to borrow it, did he? A man in 10 foot of water doesn't have to swim either, but it is the best thing to do at the moment. So it is with the man pressed for money.

With normal pay and no special outstanding debts a man can usually get through the month in pretty good shape. But sometimes the situation is all wrong and a man winds up short.

But suppose we let the money lender explain the procedure then. "The other day my buddy came up to me and said he was strapped and needed some loot. He wanted to borrow a little from me. I considered the idea and then I put it to him this way, 'If I lend you the money for no interest I'm going to lose money, because I could loan it out to some one else and have it working for me. I'm sorry, but you see how it is, strictly a business proposition.

Sure it is a business proposition. So is bank robbing a business to thieves. But it doesn't make them any more welcome to honest men, doesn't make them any more respected.

Instead of being so concerned about making a little more money, stop and consider. When is the axe going to fall and bring me up short. And when it does, who am I going to go to loan me a little money. It might pay to think it over, maybe more than 50 per cent. FROM THE BAKKASAN

Death Traps a Gambler

Night rain! Cruel rain! Clawing at the windshields. Streaking like crazy under the rhythmic swish-swish of dead wiper blades.
 Homebound—alone—half-blinded—the driver slows to twenty. Then fifteen. Headlight glare pounds at his tired eyes. If only he could see for sure a little of the road! If only those were alive, new wiper blades! His wife had urged him yesterday—again—to have a pair slipped on. Takes almost no time at all. But he forgot.
 Why hasn't his serviceman suggested new blades? He sees him often. Blades don't cost too much. Let's see. Maybe a couple of bucks a pair. Could be more for curved windshields. He'd give twice that now—see, or three times—or anything! Now he knows. He has gambled against a mere two or three bucks. Seems stupid! More rain! Hard rain. More lights looming ahead! He braces himself. Dead blades! Streakers! Treacherous things. Very next chance he'll change them. Can't risk the wife and kids getting caught in spots like this.
 Twin balls of fire zoom closer. If only he could see! Pinwheels of blazing light tear at his tortured eyes. Blind him completely. Trapped by his weatherbeaten wiper blades. He grips the wheel in panic. Sweat streams down his face. He screams a prayer as his car bounces off the mammoth truck and rolls . . . FROM THE CANNONEER

Fewer Resignations This Year

West Point Boasts Largest Enrollment

WEST POINT, N. Y. — Along with thousands of college freshmen the world over, the 717 plebes at the U. S. Military Academy have settled down into the routine that leads to a bachelor of science degree and a career in a proud profession.

The "dumbbells," as they are known to their seniors in the Corps of Cadets, have a head start on their fellow collegians. They started their schooling in July with a summer training which precedes the academic year.

In three months, the class of '56 has racked up two distinctions: It is the largest group of new cadets enrolled in recent years and has had the smallest percentage of resignations.

Few Resignations

Only four percent of the original 780 had resigned by October. Last year, six per cent of 730 resigned in the same period. Ten percent of 670 went out by this route in 1952 and seven percent of 668 in 1951.

The men who remain in the class of '56 are typical of young men going to colleges the country over with high scholastic standards. They are superior to this group physically, since West Point nominees must meet rigid physical standards in addition to mental and aptitude requirements.

The plebes come from every state and territory as well as Thailand, Peru and the Philippines. One is an American Indian while others are of Japanese, Polish, Lithuanian and English parentage. New York, with 55 cadets, has the largest state representation followed by California, 44; Pennsylvania, 43; and Ohio, 25.

150,000 MILES . . . In 65 vehicles without a breakdown was the reason Sgt. Willie M. Reese, truckmaster of Service Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, received a certificate of achievement from Col. Earl Sutton, commanding officer of CTC, as Capt. Herlity T. Long, commanding officer of the company looks on.

P. T. "PROFESSIONALS" . . . Scoring over 400 seems not to phase Cpl. Donald Handy (left) or Cpl. John D. Parker of H & S Co., Fourth Student Battalion, the School Brigade. Handy had a total score of 471 against Parker's 468 and has been top man twice in the Battalion.

Among the group are 43 high school class valedictorians, 42 presidents of student councils, 127 class presidents, and 108 members of the National Honor Society. Twenty-one per cent have served in the armed forces, and 86 per cent have had one or more semesters in college before entering the academy.

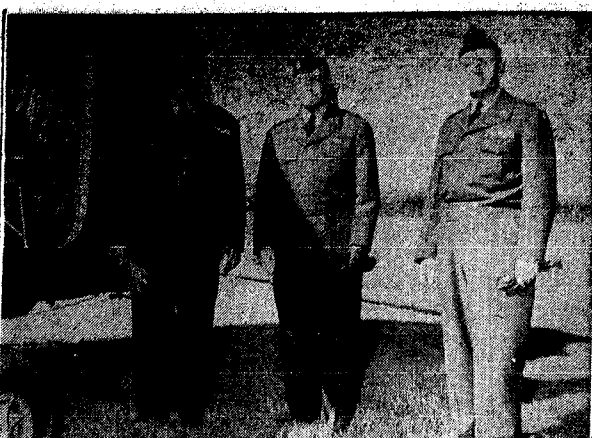

In family background, the new cadets differ from the average college group in that such a large number — 864 — come from service families. Some are the sons of Army or Air Force generals and one is the son of a Navy admiral. Son of a grocer, banker, general, or sergeant, the plebes now are on their own in one of the most selective educational processes in the country — the making of an officer.

Must Make Grades

Like their college counterparts who wear beanies instead of stiff-visored Perching caps, the new cadets must make their grades. But beyond this, they must continue to qualify on points of character, leadership and physical fitness.

The class of '56 still is too new to have separated the "engineers" — outstanding students — from their opposites, the "goats." Nor can they determine which of their number will be washed out or resign.

However, of this much they are sure: Those who survive to join the "long, gray line" of more than 20,000 West Point graduates will have earned their commissions and learned the real meaning of the academy motto — "Duty, Honor, Country."

Alabama Arsenal Tests All Sorts of New Rockets

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The Army is doing strange things with rockets at Redstone Arsenal.

It is shifting them mercilessly from ovens to deep freezers, dropping them on concrete, shaking them violently, spraying them with salt water, and mounting headlights in their noses before firing them.

This may sound silly but it's deadly serious—and it's all in the interest of providing United States Army soldiers with the most effective, foolproof weapons science can devise.

Supersonic rockets must be able to take a beating and still be ready for use against an enemy, and Army scientists at Redstone figure that if rockets still will take to the air after they have finished giving them the full treatment they'll stand up under normal knocking about by troops in the field.

Joe Rush, chief of Redstone's Rocket Development Division, said "thorough and ruthless testing" was vital "if we are to develop safe and effective rockets for use in the field."

"You can design what looks like the best rocket in the world," Rush said, "but if it won't fly it's not a rocket."

Using headlights in the noses of rockets has made one tough job easier. The Redstone scientists much prefer the rockets are fired at night and the headlights make them much easier to track in flight. In daytime, even the most alert and sharpest-eyed have difficulty following the elusive missiles through the skies.

Not all rockets fly through the air, incidentally. Some are mounted and fired horizontally just a few feet above the ground. They fly with lightning-like speed through pickup coils spaced at several intervals. Radar and highspeed cameras then gather precise data.

John Womble, deputy chief of the Rocket Development Division, said sometimes newly designed rockets blew up, came apart, or wandered off course. Rarely, if ever, he said, is a satisfactory rocket developed without a modification in the original design.

"They have improved considerably since World War II," he said, "Some fly at several times the speed of sound and are much more accurate than their predecessors. The greater the speed, the more accurate the rocket."

Rush disclosed that two types of rockets now are being developed at Redstone.

One is a precision rocket — a highly accurate missile that is designed to hit such a target as an individual missile.

"Stoogus" Rocket

The other is a "shotgun" rocket. These are fired in clusters—like pellets from a shotgun. While not as accurate as a precision rocket, a cluster sometimes has a better chance to register a kill.

One of the biggest problems in flight-testing rockets is finding them after they land. This is a "must" for only by doing so can the scientists gather all the information they need to improve design or performance.

A logical solution was to place observers in the approximate area of impact, but this had its obvious hazards.

However, Army Ordnance came up with the solution with little effort. They loaned the scientists a few tanks. Now the observers button up the hatches when they get the word that a missile is "on the way" and watch from safely inside the steel hulls of the armored vehicles.

Hamersley Gets 3A PIO Position

ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga. — Dwight T. Hamersley, recently promoted to colonel in the Regular Army, has been named Third Army Public Information Officer by Lieut. Gen. A. R. Bolling, the Army commander.

Col. Hamersley, who has served with the Adjutant General's Section of the headquarters for the past 17 months as executive officer and later as deputy adjutant general, succeeds Lieut. Col. William F. Nee, who retired from active service on Nov. 30.

The new public information officer received his university education in the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering at the University of Kentucky.

Colonel Hamersley's assignments prior to joining Third Army included service in Europe, Hawaii, England, Korea and Japan, and two tours of duty with the Department of the Army. During his Korean service he was assigned as Secretary to the General Staff of the United Nations Delegation of related experience gained as a liaison officer with the Office of the Chief of Legislative Liaison, Department of the Army.

Craddolph Assigned To Air Force Duty

Sgt. Ronald T. Craddolph, S-3 operations sergeant for the Fifth Student Battalion (OC) has received reassignment orders transferring him to liaison work with the Air Force.

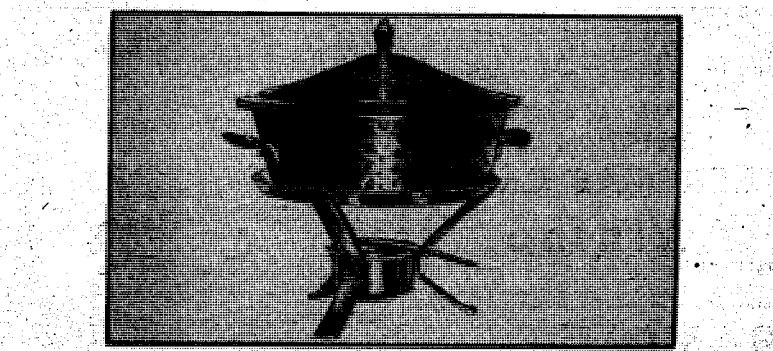

Craddolph, who will be an administrative specialist in his new assignment, has been at Fort Benning for the past year. Before coming here he was with the ROTC at Prairie View A&M College, Prairie View, Tex.

Attending The Infantry Center advanced leaders course, Craddolph won the distinguished graduate recognition for his class.

Atomic Maneuvers May Determine Future of the U.S. Army's Divisions

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Does atomic warfare mean that Army combat divisions have become obsolete?

The answer may be yes, according to the Department of the Army which will soon conduct a series of experiments into the crucial military question.

Next spring, two divisions—the 1st Armored, Ft. Hood, Tex., and the 47th Inf., Ft. Benning—will carry on large-scale field tests in an attempt to determine the most effective combat organization for the atomic age.

The tests will be used on recommendations for a combat unit smaller and more mobile than the present division which, at the same time, will be able to deliver its own massive atomic fire.

Such a unit might be called a battle team. The size of tactical atomic weapons would be modified to allow each battle team to have its own weapons.

According to Army planners, each team would have to be capable of waging a sustained battle on its own. Isolated units might have to depend on supplies delivered by guided missile, so researchers are studying how this can be done.

It's likely more troops would be committed to action in an atomic battle than in a comparable WWII engagement. But they would be deployed over a larger area because too many troops crowded together would present an easy atomic target.

This being the case, in a particular sector of the battlefield there would be fewer men than in WWII. Each unit, from smallest to largest, would be responsible for much more ground. But battle teams would be distributed in depth from front to rear to

Major Charged In Aiding Reds

FT. SILL, Okla. (APFS)—The Army has accused Maj. Ambrose H. Nugent, a former POW in Korea, on 13 specific counts of collaborating with his Communist captors.

The 44-year-old officer, now stationed here, was a prisoner from July 5, 1950 until Sept. 1, 1953. He was advised that seven charges under the 96th Article of War and six under the 13th Article of the Uniform Code of Military Justice have been filed against him.

The Army said two of the specifications allege treasonable activities but gave no details.

Maj. Nugent, a career soldier, denied all charges and said he would trust in a fair trial. No date was announced for his court-martial.

Magicians Plan Shows Dec. 6-7

Sgt. 'Chewed' For Uniform

Everybody in Battery A, 198th Field Artillery Battalion, is laughing about the "chewing out" Sgt. Silas Savell got from the first sergeant, Sgt. Shirley O. Whaley.

Sgt. Savell was wearing a shade of blue with the winter uniforms, his shirttail was out, his "ike" jacket was unbuttoned, his pants were rolled up and his cap was perched on the back of his head. Finally getting a word in, Sgt. Whaley explained that he had been a demonstrator in a class on "How Not to Look in Uniform."

Superiors Easy For Sgt. Tully

It's no trick to make a "superior rating" on an inspection. Hard work is the answer—along with plenty of experience.

At least that's the opinion of Sgt. Tully, supply sergeant of Company A, Infantry School Detachment. And he is well qualified to advise on supply inspections, having earned a superior on all inspections since he became a supply sergeant of Company A in July.

He was known for his outstanding supply room while holding down the same job with Fox Company of the 27th Infantry Regiment in Korea from November 1952 to November 1953.

Sgt. Tully, who entered the Army in 1942, has been working in supply for nine years with outfits from Northern France to Korea.

During World War II he served with the "Bloody Bucket," 28th Infantry Division, in campaigns at Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Battle of the Bulge, and Central Europe. With the 229 Field Artillery Battalion during these famous campaigns, he earned the ETO Ribbon with five battle stars.

Tully came to ISD in January from an assignment in Korea, and worked with the S-4 Section before taking over Company A supply from Capt. Ralph E. Easton in July.

He has about 120 permanently assigned personnel to take care of supply problems for all replacements of The Infantry School, who at one time or another, are assigned as casuals in Company A.

Superior inspection ratings were made on School Brigade, Infantry Center, and IG checks.

13 Men Assigned To ISD Companies

"Unlucky" 13 was the number of men assigned to the Infantry School Detachment during the past week.

The newly assigned personnel, who will work for several different departments of The Infantry School, are: 1st Sgt. Clifton R. Crowe, Sigs. Edward L. Hudson, Thomas J. Delavello, and William L. Stewart; Cpls. Robert L. Fletcher and Albert L. Danison; Pfc. Jack B. Lyons, Miles E. Stadler, David P. Goldstein, John T. Caruso, Jr., Joseph J. Casazza, Henry J. Bernabeu, and Walter C. Jackson.

NEW ISD OFFICER
Newly assigned mess officer of the Infantry School Detachment is Second Lieut. Carlos R. Noriega of San Juan, Puerto Rico, a graduate of the University of Puerto Rico.

More than 50,000 National Guardsmen attended Army service area and unit schools during the past four years.

MEMBERS OF STC HONOR RETIRING SOLDIERS
 Col. Kilne, CWO M'Kenney, M-Sgt. Bailey

Two 'Old Soldiers' Honored At STC Retirement Parade

The most colorful and impressive parade held by Special Troops Command in many years culminated the honorable active service last week of CWO Ben M'Kenney, bandleader of the Special Troops Command Band, after 34 years of service.

Standing in the position of honor on post, honored the former leader with Col. Earl F. Kilne, commanding officer of STC, and M-Sgt. James V. Bailey of C Company, First Special Troops Bn., STC, who retired after 20 years of service.

A 90-piece band, made up of the three on post, honored the former leader with the traditional "Old Soldiers Never Die," and "Auld Lang Syne," played a march during as the troops passed in review.

Mr. M'Kenney enlisted in the Army August 7, 1920 in Columbus, Ohio. He came to Fort Benning in 1928 when he joined the 24th Infantry Band, playing trombone and saxophone until 1939. In 1939 he organized the Quartermaster Replacement Center Band, Fort Lee, Va., and was an instructor at Fort Lee School of Music from 1941 to 1949.

After being commissioned a Warrant Officer in 1951, Mr. M'Kenney served in Korea with the 26th Army Band from Feb. 1952 to Oct. 1953 at which time he came to Benning.

Sgt. Bailey entered the Army on Aug. 20, 1934. During World War II he served in the Caribbean and from 1945 to 1948 he served in Europe. He again returned to the Caribbean in March of 1949 and served operations sergeant until June 1954.

Post Greet Danish General

The commander of the Danish Army's Sixth Division was greeted by a two-platoon honor guard and a delegation of Infantry School officials when he arrived at Fort Benning last week for a four-day familiarization of U. S. Infantry activities.

Major Gen. Frode Lund Hvalkof, was accompanied by Lt. Col. Frode H. Hartvig, commander of the School Battalion, Fifth Danish Regiment, and U. S. Army Col. Bernard Aabel, tour director.

The honor guard from Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 80th Infantry Regiment, welcomed the Allied officials and military band.

A group of Fort Benning officials, headed by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry School commandant, also welcomed the Danish Army officer.

Gen. Hvalkof held a conference with Gen. Harper and was oriented on the Infantry School and its operation.

Gun Collection Said Worth Five Grand

Sgt. Herbert W. Brentnall, Hartford, Conn., has a collection of 78 pistols valued at $5,000.

Brentnall, of 122nd Company, Fifth Student Battalion, started collecting guns when he was twelve years old. A friend gave him his first gun, an old .32 revolver, which he still owns.

The collection grew slowly until he went to Germany in World War II, where he acquired many foreign weapons including his favorites, four German Lugers.

Back To Civil War
The guns in the collection date back to the Civil War, with the outstanding American revolver being a Colt Frontier Model in perfect condition. The weapon is valued at $125.

Others in the sergeant's collection are a Ferris pistol used and used by the Confederacy during the Civil War, and a Star, used by the Union Forces. The oldest gun is an English flint lock.

The latest addition to the collection is a French service pistol purchased in Columbus. One of Brentnall's plans is to collect a model of every Colt pistol made.

Sgt. H. W. Brentnall
Mo Has All Kinds

A sideline with the Sergeant, a student of military history, is a collection of foreign decorations. German helmets, and four German uniforms.

tion is the "Crown of St. Stephen," a Hungarian decoration made of gold and valued at $100.

Airborne Dept. Fetes Post Ladies

The Infantry School's Airborne Department held a Ladies Day last week at Fort Benning.

It began with a briefing by Col. Leland G. Caswin department director. The ladies then were oriented on the five basic techniques of parachuting, methods of parachute control, and air transportability and aerial delivery of heavy equipment.

Following a coffee break, the women went to Fryer Field to observe jumps by airborne trainees. Purpose of Ladies Day was to give women on the post an opportunity to become acquainted with airborne activities.

Amputee Couldn't Miss PFT

The number of times a man can jerk his chin over a bar will be of minor consideration.

As she now stands, the Physical Fitness Test involves the various segments of the body in the following proportions:

- 1. Arms and shoulders (Pull-ups, Pushups), 40 percent.
- 2. Feet and legs (Squat jumps, Run), 40 percent.
- 3. Back and Torso (Situps), 20 percent.

Superficially, this looks like a pretty comprehensive test. Let's consider something your old father feels is a major inadequacy: Soldier A gets the same number of "points" for lifting 190 pounds a distance of 24 inches, as Soldier B gets for lifting 105 pounds 15 inches. (A pullup is a pullup, says the PFT. Height and weight, and/or length of arms, are disregarded. The same criteria apply to pushups).

The running event, and its alternate, the indoor shuttle run, established almost impossible criteria for high scores. The seconds that still is considered pretty good time for the 100-yard dash, ON A STRAIGHTAWAY. The PFT expects a man to complete six 30-yard dashes, around five turns, in 44 seconds outdoors, or 41 seconds indoors. Once in a while someone does it, more's the pity.

Obviously the man who makes a high score on the test is in pretty fair condition. However, "failure" to make a high score is no positive indication that the individual is in poor condition to undertake military operation. Your old father knows of a case in which a 40-minute-per-game basketball player could score only 200-odd points on a PFT administered near the end of the basketball season. The man just didn't happen to be equipped with a muscular set of shoulders and arms. Yet he was in pretty fair condition, leg-wise, wind-wise, and endurance-wise.

There can be no doubt that the PFT favors the small, wiry individual. He has less body weight to "lift" on three of the five events and less weight to "carry" on the other two.

There is little doubt that the present PFT has been weighed and found wanting. The "passing" score constantly has been revised downward, a bit indicating that something is wrong. And any athletic coach knows that physical condition is a transitory thing. A few days' rest of an athlete, the result of several weeks' intensive physical conditioning, (How long is the average trip to the theater of action via troop transport?)

AMERICA'S MOST ADVANCED NEW CAR — 1955 MERCURY

YEARS AND YEARS AHEAD...3 NEW SERIES, 10 MODELS...NEW 198-HORSEPOWER SUPER-TORQUE V-8 ENGINE

STARRING THE DRAMATICALLY LOW MONTCLAIR...THE HIGHEST STYLED, HIGHEST POWERED MERCURY EVER BUILT

No halfway measures here. No holding to the past. Hundreds of ideas earmarked "for the future" went into the design of the 1955 Mercury.

Take styling. Never before has there been such aliveness of line. Take size. These are longer, lower, bigger Mercury. Take performance. No matter what yardstick you use to measure it, Mercury's got it. High V-8 horsepower for all series (198 and 188 hp), 4-barrel carburetor performance. Super compression. Matchless efficiency. Dual exhaust for the two top series. Super pickup in every speed range.

And that's only the beginning of what's new. There's a new Full-Scope windshield. There are new tubeloss tires. There's new, smoother, quicker-acting Mero-O-Matic Drive (optional), with far more getaway power.

Best of all, there's a far wider range of models to choose from, in 3 series—the new ultra-low Montclair, the Monterey, and the Custom.

Better stop around at our showrooms for the first showing—soon!

5 Colonels Tour Post

Five Japanese colonels, assigned to the Military Assistance Advisory Group in their country, stopped at Fort Benning Monday on a three-week tour of U. S. military installations.

Colonels Shoji Ota, Masahiko Takeshita, Junzo Kari, Taro Watanabe and Kazuo Kobayashi, are visiting the U. S. under the auspices of the Mutual Defense Assistance Program.

Arriving on post Sunday afternoon, the Japanese officials began a full day of orientation Monday with a visit to Brig. Gen. Carl F. Eitzsche, assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

Following a briefing on the Infantry School's organization, Secretary's Office and Operations Office, they were guests at an official luncheon at noon in the Main Officers' Mess.

During the afternoon, the Allied officers' itinerary included an orientation on the School Brigade, officer candidate program and the utilization of training aids. They left Tuesday morning for Fort Sill, Okla.

When quizzed on potato production by the local commissar, the Russian farmer replied that the potatoes would make a pile reaching clear to Heaven. "There's no such a place as Heaven!" shouted the commissar. "Well," signed the farmer, "there aren't any potatoes either."

Twinbill Opens '54-'55 Cage Loop

Fort Benning's 1954-55 intramural basketball season officially got underway last night with the Provisional at Memorial Stadium in Columbus. The School Brigade Rams, representing a major unit on the main post and the 47th Division, will play the 135th Infantry, School Brigade A, and the 135th Infantry, School Brigade B, in the first of two twinbill games. The second game will be played at 7:30 p.m. in Doughty Stadium. The first game will be played at 7:30 p.m. in Doughty Stadium. The second game will be played at 7:30 p.m. in Doughty Stadium.

participation, with each team representing a major unit on the main post and the 47th Division. Practically every contest will be played at the Memorial Stadium in Columbus, with the exception of 14 which will take place at the Harmony Church Gymnasium in Columbus. Each night throughout the season, two games will be seen by local fans. The first will begin at 7 while the second will commence at 9:30.

Practically every night of the week will be utilized in order to fill the crowded schedule. The first half slate was published in the Nov. 18 issue of The Bayonet. The eleven teams which will participate have been practicing and getting into condition for what promises to be one of the post's best hoop seasons. Fans will get an opportunity to see some outstanding talent which should promote large crowds, belated by the fact that no admission charge will be levied for any of the tilts.

The coming week's schedule follows, with all games at Memorial Stadium in Columbus, unless otherwise noted: Tuesday — Special Units vs CTC and Brigade B vs 135th Inf. Also Tuesday at Harmony Church Gymnasium may see 135th Inf. vs CTC and CTC vs Brigade A. Wednesday — PMG vs CTC and CTC vs Brigade A. Brigade Safety Trims 164th in 'Game of Year'

The School Brigade Rams win over the 164th Inf. Flickertails by a score of 9 to 7 last Sunday at Memorial Stadium in Columbus. It was definite proof that a game is not won until the final whistle blows.

Until the final seconds of the game, it seemed as though it would end as a tie. But the safety gave the second Benning Bowl victory to the Rams.

John Middleton, a Brigade lineman, crashed through the 164th line and forced John Thrautliff into the end zone for a two-point safety for Brigade, making the score 9 to 7 in what experts called the best played game of the year.

Both clubs had plenty of trouble with the wind throughout the afternoon. Many kicks went only eight to ten yards after having been caught in the gale.

During the first period each team took its turn at running deep into the opponent's territory but both failed to score. During the second period the Flickertails took over and punted out safely. The Rams went as far as the 10-yard line into enemy territory when Haly Lary, back to pun, fumbled, but Frank Kuch recovered for the Rams on the 20. Lary attempted another pass which fell incomplete. The 164th then changed the complexion of the game when they ran, pushed and rushed until Razzie Smith went over for the first TD of the game.

In the third period of the game the Rams came back with a new fighting spirit. With the rushing of Fortunato and the passing of Lary-Middleton, Brigade succeeded in getting TD. Frank Kuch made the extra point good.

The regular season play over the School Brigade Rams clinched the loop last Sunday by handing the 164th Infantry Flickertails a 9 to 7 setback in the second annual Benning Bowl.

However, odds-makers predict the Rams will share their lead after next Saturday's STC-30th encounter when the 30th Blues are expected to move into a tie for top position by defeating the 164th.

For it was Joe Fortunato, 200 pound fullback, who paced the Rams to their victory last Sunday as he has done in all the Brigade victories.

But the Dec. 12 encounter will see a defensive battle that could compare with any grid game in the U. S. Both the Rams and the Blues possess an overflow of talent in their forward walls with All-Americans strung out across their rosters.

30th to Have Edge If Playoff Needed

Football experts are in a dither over the battle and at press time today were calling the game a toss-up affair but some leaned slightly toward "Red" Mitchum's Blues. They defeated the Rams earlier in the season and could possibly repeat their performance providing they can stop the Fortunato line plunger.

For it was Joe Fortunato, 200 pound fullback, who paced the Rams to their victory last Sunday as he has done in all the Brigade victories.

But the Dec. 12 encounter will see a defensive battle that could compare with any grid game in the U. S. Both the Rams and the Blues possess an overflow of talent in their forward walls with All-Americans strung out across their rosters.

And although the playoff tilt is not definite fans at Fort Benning are talking it up and plans are being laid for the event.

Looking back over the season one may notice that the 135th Infantry Bears came within a shade of copping the loop league by defeating STC on Thanksgiving Day and with the help of the 164th last Sunday.

30th Needs STC Victory To Clinch TIC Loop Tie

The second place 30th Infantry Blues will play their familiar "favorites" role Saturday afternoon in Doughty Stadium when they close out their regular season play against the Special Troops Green Wave. Kickoff time is 3 p.m.

Should the Blues emerge victorious from this contest they will tie the School Brigade Rams, forcing a championship playoff.

For Coach Andy Kozar's Green Wave it will be a tough afternoon and the Wave's 15 record will probably be reduced another notch.

Ed Mitchum, 30th mentor, knows very well that this battle will be his last in regular season play and he is also aware of the fact that the Green Wave could defeat the Blues and keep them from a title bid.

If these things added together spell only one thing in the 30th training camp: "This is it, men, follow me."

2 Teams Highlight 5th Student Bn.

The sports scene at the Fifth Student Battalion (5th) has shifted to basketball as two squads of 15 men in each, are hard at work in their off-duty time preparing for the coming season. Both teams are coached by First Lt. Walter Meeks.

One squad, ending in the Post League, shows promise of making a high standing in this year's play.

The team has Frank Barker, one of last year's outstanding TIC players, backed up by John Nibert, Ronald Roth, Richard Mury, Robert Neidigh, Harold Newson, Herbert Chapman, Robert Kueckel, Carl Naegli, Phillips and Slattery.

Most of these men have played on a college level.

The 2nd squad has played four games and has come out on top in three.

McNamara New 3A Sports Chief

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — Capt. Raymond G. McNamara of Duluth, Minn., was named Third Army Sports Officer last week by Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general.

Capt. McNamara succeeds Capt. Hubert L. Odum, sports officer since February of this year. Capt. Odum moves up to the position of Chief of the Recreation Division of the Third Army Special Services Section.

The new sports officer will have charge of all tournaments, directives and policies concerning the Third Army athletic program. He has a background in sports and sports administration.

Capt. McNamara went to the University of Minnesota, where he was a varsity football and basketball regular in 1941 and 1942. He was drafted in 1943, saw combat duty in the South Pacific in World War II, and later returned to the University of Minnesota to graduate in 1948.

Coming back into the service, Capt. McNamara was assigned as Sports Officer at Fort Belvoir, Va. Following his tour of duty there, he went to the Far East from 1949-52.

LAST WEEK'S STARS

To choose a Back and Lineman of the Week from last week's games would be like trying to pick the best grains of sand in the world.

Therefore the judges have felt that selection should be given to the School Brigade Rams and the 164th Infantry Flickertails. For it was certainly their contest last Sunday that stood out among all football contests at Fort Benning this year.

Spotlighting

Brigade, 164th Gave Year's Best Showing

The Flickertails lost a heartbreaker last Sunday. With less than a minute to play, Brigade's John Middleton tore through the 164th Infantry's forward wall like an F-88 to capitalize on John Thrautliff's error and it paid off with a safety. The safety gave Brigade a 9 to 7 victory and the loop lead.

The winds blew with gale-like force and hampered both squads when they punted and when they passed, but the game as a whole, was a thrilling affair.

Only a hand full of fans witnessed the second annual Benning Bowl which was one of the best we have witnessed this year. The field was sloppy with mud and the players looked like chocolate soldiers before the first period ended. But their determination and esprit de corps was magnificent.

Both the Flickertails and the Rams kept their entire first strings in the game throughout the entire afternoon. It was that close a contest.

We would like to hand our heartfelt congratulations to two grid teams who fought as hard a battle as has been seen by Fort Benning teams in many a year.

Thrautliff was nervous because he is human. After he juggled the pigskin in his own end zone on an attempted punt he was hit by Middleton and that lone error cost the Flickertails their last chance for post championship.

Had he succeeded in getting off that intended punt the game would have ended in a 7 to 7 deadlock because the wind was coming from his back and all afternoon long the punts had been blowing 70 yards or more when that "breeze" caught the ball.

The game is over now and has been entered in the records as a Brigade victory.

But there were 22 tired players when the final gun soared. They had fought their hearts out for 60 minutes and each team had played its best contest this year. The teams were evenly matched and were in fine condition.

They had been geared for that event and odds-makers favored the Rams. But they favored them by more than two points.

Why, then, didn't the Cronkmen slaughter the Flicks? We'll venture to say that even the School Brigade Rams were very pleased to settle for what they got. The victory placed School Brigade in undisputed first place position in the TIC loop with their 6-1 record. They have lost only to the 30th Infantry Blues, who are now in second place (5-1).

CTC, Special Units Score Boxing Wins 15 Fights Slated For Harmony Area

Special Units of 47th Division and Combat Training Command had perfect score last Wednesday night on the weekly boxing card at Brian Wells Field House.

It was John "Finger" Kelly, Class IV bantamweight, who scored the Special Units to its victory. Kelly, a popular pugilist, defeated John Braco, of the 164th Infantry, while CTC's Nathaniel Whitt, defeated Divarty's Arthur Hall in their Class III welterweight scrap.

The 164th Infantry suffered defeat with its only entry in a card that saw every participating unit entered in the evening's battles.

Other results follow: Benning Taylor, 135th Inf., KO'd John Rolfe, Brigade, after 1:35 in the third and final round of their Class IV heavyweight bout. STC's Julian Bryant, Class IV welterweight, TKO'd Claude Duplexian, Divarty entry.

Herman Lester, an STC Class IV middleweight, was decided by Alvin Smith, of the 135th Infantry.

Another knockout was seen by fans when Divarty's Melvin Neal defeated Norman Mow, an STC Class III lightweight, after 2:20 of the third round.

A Class IV lightweight, Tony Gate, 135th Inf., defeated Leo Gar, of the 135th Inf.

George Ross, a 135th Inf. product, was defeated by disqualification by Brigade's Ralph Cooper in their Class IV middleweight duel.

The evening's third knockout saw Divarty's Don Bell best Charles Nickens, a 135th Inf. Class IV welterweight.

Keats Leads STC Basketball Hopes

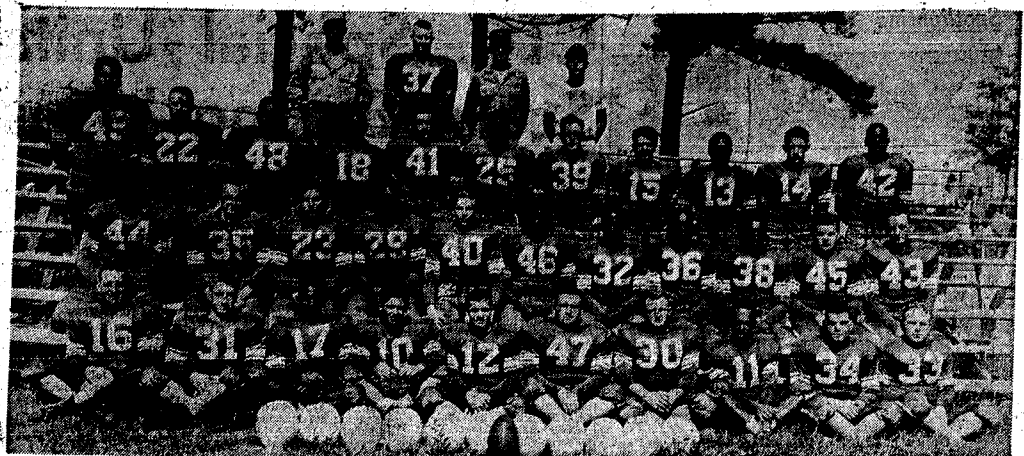

With the opening of The Infantry Center Basketball League, Keats averaged 22 points a game and scored 40 or more points in three consecutive contests. He was selected to participate in the Third Army Basketball Tournament with the All-Post Team. This year he will coach as well as play.

The Raiders will use the services of 14 men during the season, with Keats the only returning member of last year's fifth place STC hoopers.

Bowl Veterans Bob Wilga, 135th Inf. center, played football at the U. of Ala. four years and is a veteran of the Cotton and Orange Bowls.

Tennessee Warvater Both Frank Boring and Andy Meyers, 30th Inf. tackle, a guard, played at the U. of Tennessee four years.

Trinity College's star gridiron center of the past three years has traded in his pads for the round patches of OCS.

OC Donald J. Valz of 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, was the smallest and best known New England college center during 1951-1953. The aggressive Trinity star began his football career at Andover Academy where he performed well enough to be selected to the Massachusetts Suburban All Star team and play in the Lowell, Mass., Sun All-Star Charity Game in 1950.

Matriculating at Trinity, Candidate Valz was then made up for his small size by speed, one-time winner of the half mile in the Massachusetts State Track Meet, and aggressiveness. On the subject of size, Valz says, "Big men are easy to play against. They rely on their size instead of agility and forethought."

Last fall during Valz's senior year, the Hilltoppers finished with a six win, two lost record.

As with all linemen, Valz's biggest football thrill came in a game with Middlebury College where he scored a touchdown. Intercepting a flat pass, Valz ran 45 yards for the score.

Clemson's Stage Alumni Evening

A spirited alumnus lifted a fighting Clemson eleven from the throes of defeat to a hard-fought victory, breaking a Tiger 40 game losing streak. This happened in a comedy skit staged by 14th OC Company at a meeting of all Clemson Alumni on post, held in the Audio Room of the Main Officer's Club on Nov. 18. First Lt. Samuel S. Lewis, 12th OC Company, directed the act.

Lt. Col. John C. Troutman, a former Clemson student star, now Executive Officer for Administration of the Fifth Student Battalion, was master of ceremonies.

OC Dave Pharr, a product of Tulsa University, Tulsa, Okla., plays the former Tiger halfback, who couldn't compete with an All American team and a girl at the same time. One kid inspired him, a second made him faint.

Clemson alumnus, OC Norman L. Lee streaked in to don a jersey at halftime and lead the Tiger juggernaut to a smashing victory. His reward? . . . A kiss from the All America girl.

Third Army Boasts Safety Record For Soldier Operated Cars, Trucks

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Only one fatal auto accident occurs in Third Army-operated motor vehicles for every 10 1/2 million miles travelled, according to figures released last week by Lt. Gen. A. B. Bolling, Third Army commanding general.

Gen. Bolling stated that this low figure is one of the finest traffic fatality rates ever recorded in the Third Army Area.

In the past three months, there was an average of only one disabling injury for every 500,000 miles travelled in Third Army-operated vehicles — or two disabling injuries every million miles.

Gen. Bolling pointed out that the ratio of all accidents involving Third Army-operated vehicles to miles driven reached an all-time low in the seven-state Army Area in the first three months of Fiscal Year 1955. There was only one accident for every 83,333 miles driven by Third Army-operated vehicles during this period, the lowest figure ever recorded for a quarter at Headquarters Third Army. This figure includes all accidents, from fatal crashes down to bent fenders, scratched bumpers, and cracked windshields.

Though accurate figures cannot be kept for cars in the Third Army Area which are privately owned by military and civilian employees, available private vehicle traffic accident figures show very encouraging trends.

Haynes Cited For Korea Duty

Sgt. Macon Haynes of Dallas, Texas, has been presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant for meritorious service in Korea.

Sgt. Haynes was cited for his services as a scout section leader with the 24th Reconnaissance Company, 24th Division, between Oct. 25, 1953 and Aug. 1, 1954.

The citation reads in part: "Sgt. Haynes' outstanding leadership and ability contributed greatly to the organization of an effective patrol system for the protection of valuable U. S. installations."

In the U. S. Army since 1943, the sergeant was a field wire communications sergeant in France and Germany during World War II. He spent 18 months in Korea.

164 Candidates Start 6 Mo. Course

One hundred sixty four officer candidates reported to 12th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, as Class No. 3 started the six-month course leading to a second lieutenant's commission.

The future officers spent their first week having their records processed and receiving orientations on the 24 weeks to follow. The class also has a new company commander, Capt. Emanuel Burack.

Yule Training Sked Curtailed

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, has announced the policy for suspension of training and granting of holiday leave for Christmas and New Year's.

Training, except basic and advanced individual training at replacement training centers, training divisions, and general reserve units in the seven-states-area will be suspended during the Christmas holidays from 8 a.m., December 18 to 8 a.m., January 3.

The two eight-week training phases for new soldiers, basic combat and advanced individual training, will be continued to enable the Army to meet its commitments, the commander said.

Leave will be granted to the maximum possible number of eligible military personnel. Normally about half will be able to take leave over Christmas, and the remainder over New Year's Day.

Because of the existing requirements for a continuous and unbroken flow of trained replacements, any suspension of basic training during this period is not feasible, Gen. Bolling said.

Commanding officers, however, are authorized to readjust their basic training schedules where feasible to allow short leaves for Christmas and New Year's.

Members of the Army's Antiaircraft Command necessarily will be excluded from provisions of the holiday leave policy, since the nation's antiaircraft defenses will continue to be manned on a 24-hour schedule.

STC SOLDIER... Cpl. Douglas H. Pender, interviewer and counselor for Transfer Point, has been named outstanding soldier of the Month for STC. Col. Earl F. Kinck, CO of STC, presented Cpl. Pender with a lighter inscribed "Soldier of the Month."

There will be no scheduled training on either Christmas or New Year's Day.

Fort Mac Named for Yankee

But Streets Named for Rebels

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga.—If a history student wanted to review the Honor Roll of Confederate heroes of the Civil War, he could get a good start by just walking the streets of Fort McPherson, Ga., because most of the Post's streets are named for famous Georgians who served with the Confederate cause in the dark days of the 1860's.

When one enters the Post Main Gate, he is on Gordon Plaza, and front them throughout a tour of the Post he can hardly travel a street which doesn't bear the name of some hero of the Confederacy.

Patton Hall is now the home of the offices of Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, present Third Army commanding general, and other Headquarters Third Army staff officers.

Just inside the Main Gate, Gordon Plaza runs into Hardee Avenue, now just about the main artery of the Post. Hardee is another name steeped in Greely glory.

It earns its name from that of Lt. Gen. W. J. Hardee of Savannah, Ga., who achieved world-wide fame with General Zachary Taylor in the Mexican War. He served honorably in the Civil War, and became commanding of Cadets at West Point, and wrote one of the great military masterpieces of U. S. history: "Hardee's Tactics or the United States Rifle and Light Infantry Tactics."

Colquitt Street, named for Gen. A. H. Colquitt, who was one of the South's outstanding statesmen during the Civil War and later governor of Georgia, extends from Gordon Plaza to Walker Avenue.

Walker Avenue derived its name from the immortal Maj. Gen. W. T. Walker, Georgia hero who was killed in the Battle of Atlanta. Gen. Walker had served with distinction and exceptional gallantry in both the Mexican and Civil Wars, and also against the Florida Indians.

One of the most illustrious figures whose name lives on Fort McPherson street markers is Lt. Gen. Joseph Wheeler, the namesake of the Post's Wheeler Drive.

Gen. Wheeler served in the Mexican War, the Spanish-American War, the Philippine War, and at one time commanded all the Cavalry troops of the entire Confederate Army. He also served several terms in Congress.

Cobb St., which runs through the heart of the enlisted men's billeting areas, has a double name-heritage. It was named jointly for Maj. Gen. Howell Cobb and Brig. Gen. T. R. Cobb, brothers from Georgia.

Both were outstanding military leaders, but compiled greater records in diplomatic circles. Howell was three times a congressman, the last two of these terms being Speaker of the House. He was governor of Georgia and later secretary of the treasury under President Buchanan. During a portion of the Civil War, he served as President of Secessionists.

T. R. Cobb was the leading lawyer of the South, called "The Patrick Henry of the South." He was killed in the action in the battle of Fredericksburg.

Deshler Street at Fort McPherson is named for Brig. Gen. James Deshler, famous Alabama-Georgia General who was killed in the battle of Chickamauga in 1863.

Bartow Street draws its name from Brig. Gen. P. S. Bartow, of Savannah, who was also one of the South's leading lawyers. He had just been appointed Brigadier General when he was killed in the Battle of Manassas in 1861.

While all the Fort McPherson streets aren't named for Dixie heroes, some others have names steeped in military glory and legend. Patton Plaza and Patton Hall

The Lewis and Clark expedition was organized by the Army in 1803.

Smokeless powder first was used by the War Department at Sandy Hook, N. J., in 1801.

Patton Hall is now the home of the offices of Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, present Third Army commanding general, and other Headquarters Third Army staff officers.

Nininger Way, along which many of Headquarters Third Army's offices are located, was named for Lt. Alexander R. "Sandy" Nininger, a native Georgian who was posthumously awarded World War I service, Union commander who was killed in the Battle of Atlanta.

GENERAL WINS JUMP BADGE... Brig. Gen. John W. Bowen, center, deputy G-3 officer of the Army's Far East Command, receives the parachutist badge from Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, left, assistant commandant of the Infantry School as Col. Ben Sternberg of Army Field Forces, Fort Monroe, Va., watches. Gen. Fritzsche, who made the jump with Gen. Bowen, presented the wings on Fryar Field immediately following the qualifying jump. Col. Sternberg took the course with Gen. Bowen.

Young Personalities in the News at Fort Benning

McIntire

No one mourns the passing of the horse cavalry more than the officer, Candidate Robert D. McIntire, 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, who learned to ride almost as soon as he could walk.

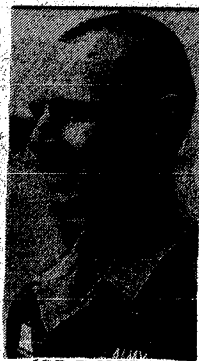

Son of a Colorado rancher, McIntire has spent most of his life herding cattle. "Ranching is not the glamorous, venturesome life you see in the movies," says McIntire. "It's hard work and a serious business managing a 3,000 acre spread."

Granholm

An old Army saying goes, "Once a cavalryman, always a cavalryman." But Officer Candidate Axel R. Granholm of 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, left the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment to come to Fort Benning and Infantry OCS.

"The cavalry isn't all tanks," he said, "and the infantry plays a big part in the success of any cavalry team."

Granholm said further, "In a reconnaissance mission, just as in any other operation, each element, the tanks, half-tracks, jeeps, and infantry has to work in close coordination with the others. This is key to success is teamwork." Son of an Army officer, Granholm entered service in July 1953 and took basic at Fort Dix, N. J. From there he was assigned to the 11th Cavalry at Camp Carson, later moving to Fort Knox, Ky.

OC R. D. MCINTIRE

Mourns Horse Cavalry

As section leader in a reconnaissance platoon, he led Infantrymen who provided local security for the tanks and other armored vehicles of the platoon.

Perhaps the smallest but one of the best liked candidates in 14th OC Company is diminutive Dick Cline. About five feet five inches tall and 145 pounds soaking wet, he balances his size by being a man of firsts.

In his first PT test he recorded a sparkling 401 points and in the 14th OC Athletic carnival he led all competitors in the pullup event with 20 perfect "chins."

Twenty-one year old Cline is from Massena, N. Y., up in the Adirondacks, where two of his favorite sports, skiing and ice skating, are to be had. In Massena High school, Cline added to his string of firsts by making his football team's longest touchdown run of the season—a 72 yarder. The pattern ran true in wrestling, also in his first varsity match, Dick pinned his man in 31 seconds, the record for the season. To complete the cycle, in his first track meet he made the longest broad jump of his career, a leap of 13 feet 4 inches. A shoulder separation in his senior year cut Cline's athletic capers short, so he switched to politics for another first, president of his senior class.

Before entering the Army in September, 1953, OC Cline attended Oswego State College, where he majored in Industrial Arts and competed in his favorite sport, wrestling. Basic training at Fort Lib, New Jersey, six months' High Speed Radio Operator's School at Camp Gordon, Georgia, and finally OCS have spelled his career thus far.

As for his Army future after OCS, our man of firsts expects to take Airborne and Ranger Training.

McGuire

One of the first things a man gets acquainted with when he enters the Army is the chow line. Most men find it a novelty, but a mess officer.

As part owner of a restaurant in Buffalo, N. Y., McGuire of 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion, fed 500,000 people a year in addition to managing a soda fountain and bakery. Although running an Army mess hall does not compare with his civilian job in size, McGuire hopes to pick up valuable experience in the service as a mess officer.

They Are Saying in Washington That...

A Navy selection board will convene here Nov. 30, 1954, to recommend Naval Reserve line captains for promotion to rear admiral. Captains eligible include those on inactive duty who earned at least 12 retirement points during fiscal year 1954, and those who reported for active duty on or after July 1, 1954.

A revised Air Force regulation (AFR 125-45) provides for the uniform application of measures to repress prostitution near AF installations overseas. All identified houses of prostitution are "off-limits" and action will be taken against altermen apprehended while entering or leaving such houses. The program is being adopted, the Air Force says, because "the same high standards are expected of Air Force personnel overseas as is expected of them in their own country."

A familiar name has appeared on the list of Air Force reservists serving brief tours of active duty at the Pentagon. The name is Charles A. Lindbergh, an AFR brigadier general. He is assigned to the Office of the Special Assistant to the Secretary for Research and Development.

Six Ethiopians Taking Airborne

Six Ethiopian Army officers and enlisted men began airborne training Monday at The Infantry School.

Attending airborne class No. 7 are Capt. Mekonen Mollat, First Lt. Getachew Nadew, Bekele Fekede and Negusie Eskote, M-Sgt. Gobenna Dalmo and Cpl. Cheru Gebre Hiyot.

Already taking airborne training is First Lt. Tedesse Adenew of the Imperial Ethiopian Bodyguard. The Allied students will be trained in basic techniques of parachuting and control procedures during descent. They must make five qualifying jumps before graduation.

They are scheduled to return to their country Dec. 17.

BIOC 8 Takes Leadership Class

The Basic Officers Class No. 8 of 11th Company, The School Brigade, completed its sixth week of training last week and became the first class to participate in the new Leadership Reaction Course at The Infantry School.

Previously the course had been given only to OCS and advanced NCO classes. In the future, it may be given to all Basic Infantry Officers Classes.

The course presents small groups of students with the problems that must be solved within a time limit. The minimum of equipment the groups are allowed to use, and with additional hindrances placed in their way, the students are required to use a maximum of ingenuity to solve the tasks.

Recent Army estimates of Russian military strength disclose the following figures: 175 Soviet divisions, plus 2 million men in armies of captive European states; a Red Chinese army of two and a half million men; a Soviet navy said to be the second largest in the world and including a large number of submarines, and an active Soviet air strength of 20,000 planes.

Next of Kin to Get Medals of Honor Won by Heroes

BREAKING THE ICE . . . The first honor graduate of the advanced leaders course from CTC is Pfc. Kenneth W. Smith, Company M, 29th Infantry Regiment. Lt. Col. Richard I. Jones, executive officer for CTC, is congratulating Smith following his address to the graduating class in Eddy Hall last Saturday.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—The next of kin for four Army enlisted men who won the Nation's highest decoration for valor in combat will be presented Medals of Honor this week by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

At Pentagon ceremonies Secretary Stevens will present Leon C. Gilliland of Valley, Arkansas, the Medal of Honor awarded to his son, Pfc. Charles L. Gilliland, an 18-year-old Infantryman, who won the award at Tongman-Ni, Korea, April 23, 1951, in action that cost him his life.

The three other Medals of Honor are scheduled to be presented at an outdoor ceremony at Fort Meyer, Va., today by Mr. Velda A. Heat, of Boise, Idaho, mother of Cpl. Dan D. Schooner; Mrs. Mary M. Hubbard of Fort Worth, Texas, widow of Cpl. Charles F. Fenton, an 18-year-old Infantryman, who won the award at Tongman-Ni, Korea, April 23, 1951, in action that cost him his life.

Fendleton won the Medal for action at Choe Gung-Dong, Korea, in July 1953; when he left 37 enemy dead around his machine gun position before he was killed.

Collier gave his life near Tuyen, Korea, following a desperate, successful effort to save the life of his command and commanding officer deep in enemy territory on July 20, 1953.

The ceremony at Fort Meyer will be held on the post parade grounds, with units of the Third Infantry Regiment and the U. S. Army Band participating.

'Ricans' to Get Home Training

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—The adoption of a new training program for personnel inducted or enlisted in Puerto Rico is scheduled to begin, Lt. Col. A. R. Balling, Third Army commander, was informed by the Department of the Army.

The program, the first eight weeks of which is to be conducted in Puerto Rico by the commanding general of the U. S. Army, Caribbean, will provide the trainees with an eight week course in English language instruction and basic military subjects before transfer to the continental United States for additional basic training.

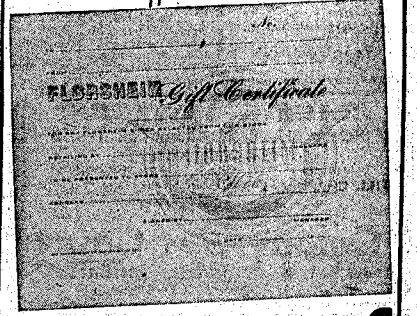

Upon completion of this training, trainees will be given two weeks leave before transfer to replacement training activities in the States, where they will undergo 16 weeks of basic training with continental trainees.

The new replacement training procedure is expected to develop greater English language fluency among the Puerto Rican trainees, who will continue to be reassigned to units throughout the Army upon completion of basic.

Navy to Launch USS Forrestal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The USS Forrestal, the world's largest combat vessel, will be launched Dec. 11 at Newport News, Va. Mrs. James V. Forrestal, widow of the first U. S. Secretary of Defense, will sponsor the attack aircraft carrier named for her husband.

The 1,036-ft. Forrestal, the first of a new and larger class of fast attack carriers, will be launched by flooding the graving dock where her keel was laid July 14, 1952, at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. Island.

The commissioning date for the 200-million warship has been tentatively set for the fall of 1953.

Secretary of the Chesapeake S. Thomas will deliver the principal address at the launching.

With a crew of 468 officers and 3,309 men, the carrier will carry about 90 planes. She is equipped to fuel both jet and propeller-driven aircraft. She has a standard displacement of 59,550 tons and can make a speed of more than 30 knots.

The Forrestal will have four deck edge elevators, an island acoustically constructed to block out external noise and an enclosed bow for improved seaworthiness. The super-carrier will have a canted deck to permit simultaneous take-offs and landings, four steam catapults and air conditioned quarters.

SINGER PRESENTS CONCERT IN COLUMBUS
Pvt. J. A. Wiles, Left, Pvt. D. C. Frost

Musical Career Pays-Off In Concert Appearances

Pvt. John A. Wiles, Special Troops Command Band, was heard last Sunday in the first of a series of Sunday afternoon musicals at the Luke Methodist Church in Columbus, Pa. Donald C. Pfost, 1204 Army Band, STC accompanied Wiles on the piano.

Pvt. Wiles has an extensive musical background, having received his bachelor of music degree from Oklahoma City University in 1952. Last year, he received his master's degree at the University of Michigan where he had worked on a scholarship in voice. During his undergraduate years at Oklahoma City, he won first prize in the state contest of Federated Music Clubs.

He represented Oklahoma at the Lone Star District contest of Federated Music Clubs at Dallas where he again won first prize.

While at the University of Michigan, Wiles sang leading roles in "Don Giovanni," "The Chocolate Soldier," and "The Merry Wives of Windsor." He was soloist in several churches in Oklahoma City and bass soloist at Central Methodist Church in Detroit. Since coming to Fort Benning, he has been one of the Luke soloists in Columbus.

In May, 1952, Pvt. Wiles won a coveted Fulbright Scholarship to study at the Rome Opera House, Rome, Italy. He sang the role of Marcello in "La Boheme" at Spoleto, Italy in September 1953 in a special season planned by the Rome Opera House to introduce new singers to the Italian public. As a result of the performance, he was granted a two-month extension in many band concerts.

This past summer, he won a contest at Fort Benning which carried him to New York City to appear on the Arlene Francis "Soldier's Parade" show in September. He recently won the classical division of Fort Benning All-Army Sing and will compete in the Third Army contest at Fort McPherson.

Chap. Smith Joins STC

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Albert L. Smith of Long Island, N. Y., has assumed duties as Chaplain of Special Troops Command.

A Presbyterian, Chaplain Smith has been in the Army 18 years. He has spent more than 10 years overseas, including posts in Alaska, New Guinea, Germany and France. He was a chaplain at Verdun, France, before coming to Fort Benning.

Commissioned a first lieutenant in the Chaplain Corps in 1941, he has served at Egin Air Force Base, Fla., Camp Sutton, N. C., Fort McClellan, Ala., and Fort Riley, Kans.

A 1929 graduate of Howard University in Washington, D. C., and a 1932 graduate of Union Theological Seminary in New York, Chaplain Smith served pastorates in Kentucky and New Jersey from 1933 to 1941.

The 47th was a Minnesota and North Dakota National Guard division ordered to active duty in January 1951. The Viking Division trained at Camp Rucker. Many of its personnel were transferred to the Third Division and took part in the Korea campaigns.

The 47th came to Fort Benning early this year under the command of Maj. Gen. Richard Stephens. Recently Maj. Gen. Hoydon L. Bonner took command.

The Third Division was welcomed by New Orleans Wednesday with a mammoth parade down Canal Street. Later, men returning with the division were taken to Camp Leroy Johnson for separation or reassignment.

Third Arrives Home Friday

Brockridge, deputy commander of the Fourth Army, and Col. R. P. Rosengren, Fourth Army staff officer, and Hollywood movie star Audie Murphy, known as World War II's most decorated soldier, won the Medal of Honor while serving with the "Marine" Division in Europe.

Gen. Bonner and a group of 47th Division officers took part in the New Orleans activities. Following the parade a special dinner was given for key figures of the Division, leading officials of the Fourth Army and of the New Orleans Port of Embarkation, and Gen. Bonner's group.

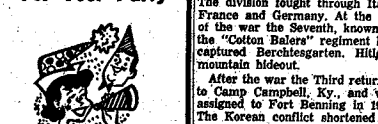

The Third distinguished itself in World War I when it became known as the "Marine" Division with its key units—the Seventh, 15th, and 30th Regiments.

Important Battles

In World War II the division fought important engagements in French Morocco and was one of the first American divisions to meet the Nazi enemy. In 30 months of combat it never faltered of full back and at the end of the war it had 33 Medals of Honor to its credit and 31,221 Purple Hearts. The division fought through Italy, France and Germany. At the end of the war the Seventh, known as the "Cotton Baler" regiment, had captured Berchtesgaden, Hitler's mountain hideout.

After the war the Third returned to Camp Campbell, Ky., and was assigned to Fort Benning in 1946. The Korean conflict shortened its stay here and in 1950 the unit sailed for Korea leaving the 30th Regiment as a training unit. Under the leadership of Maj. Gen. Robert H. Soule, the Third arrived in time to break through the heavy Red traps and permit encircled U.N. troops to withdraw to the Northeastern coast and escape. It later fought up to Seoul and helped other forces trapped in a subsequent Red push.

After the police action ended the Third stayed on in Korea as occupation forces.

Lively Brain, Stable Emotions Back Top-Rate Infantryman

WASHINGTON — The fighting heart of a first-rate combat infantryman is backed up by a lively brain and stable emotions, a U.S. Army psychologist says.

The Human Resources Research Office of George Washington University, working under Army contract, has given the lie to the popular conception that brave, not brains, is what counts on the field of battle.

A study of personality characteristics of 310 infantrymen fresh from the line in Korea shows that fighters, when compared with non-fighters, are more intelligent, more stable emotionally, and have a higher degree of social responsibility.

Greater Potential

In addition, the men who acquitted themselves well under enemy fire showed greater leadership potential and more masculine toughness.

There was nothing haphazard about the way the researchers went about locating 165 men with good combat records and 145 "ineffective fighters" for their tests.

A research team went to Korea in the summer of 1953 and interviewed 947 members of the Second and Seventh and 65th Infantry divisions. All had seen action in the Christmas Hill, Kumha Valley and Forkchok areas and knew the difference between a fighter and what the researchers dub "non-fighters."

Out of the pooled experiences of these reliable eye-witnesses emerged the names of men finally selected for testing on ability, interests and personality.

Fighters Are Better

On intelligence ratings alone, the soldiers who were in there firing when the enemy was advancing had an average score 14 points higher than the non-fighters. They scored considerably higher also on tests designed to measure how much military information they had retained from basic training.

Results of seven tests used to measure emotional stability showed the typical fighter to be a healthy, well-adjusted person. The typical non-fighter tends to be depressed, worries about his health and exaggerates any symptoms he may have.

As a social human being, the fighter is concerned about the welfare of his fellow citizens as well as his own family. He demonstrates a greater interest in such subjects as national preparedness and reducing death by accident and disease. He is tolerant of other people's beliefs.

On both leadership and masculine toughness, the good combat infantryman — is the surprise of no one — scored high. In addition, he was shown to be more poised, spontaneous, independent, socially able, adaptive and resourceful.

In short, the same kind of man who helped put through the school bond issue would be a mighty handy fellow to have around when the enemy fire is heavy.

Q—I am a Korean veteran studying dentistry under the Korean GI Bill. Would it be possible for me to take my internship in dentistry, also under the Korean GI Bill?

A—If it would be possible, provided the internship does not exceed one year, and provided it is an effective "fighter" for their tests.

HERE ARE ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS SERVICEMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES ASK THE SERVICE ADMINISTRATION EVERY DAY.

Q—I am a Korean veteran under the Korean GI Bill, and I want to list my mother and father as dependents for GI allowance purposes. Their only income is a disability compensation check I receive. A WWI veteran, receives each month. Other than that, I have been supporting them. Would these compensation payments bar me from declaring them as dependents?

A—No. VA compensation payments may be disregarded in determining dependency of your mother and father. So long as they do not have any other income sufficient to provide reasonable maintenance, you would be permitted to count them as your dependents (AFPS).

Q—Yes. However, you would not be permitted to convert to an endorsement plan while you are totally disabled.

Q—I am a Korean veteran with a service-connected disability, rated at zero percent. Am I eligible for the permanent GI insurance available to disabled Korean veterans? Or must I have a disability rated at 10 percent or more?

A—You may be eligible for the permanent Korean GI insurance, even though your service-connected disability is rated at zero percent.

Q—I am planning to go to school

'Aggressors' Learn Value of Realistic Training

GOLD BARS TO SILVER. . . Earl T. Tilly, Third Platoon leader in Company K, 30th Infantry Regiment, receives the bars of a first lieutenant from his battalion commander, Maj. A. R. Bolling Jr., commanding officer of the Third Battalion.

Fort Benning has a fighting army without a country.

That Army's soldiers belong to an elite corps known as the Aggressor Force, 40 men used as the enemy during rugged Ranger training problems staged by The Infantry School in Florida swamps and Georgia mountains.

Composed of men from the 50th Infantry Regiment, the Aggressor Force helps The Infantry School mold students of its eight-week Ranger Course into a razor-sharp combat team.

Divided into three phases, the Ranger course consists of four weeks of conditioning at Fort Benning, two weeks of jungle and amphibious training at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., and two weeks of mountain training at Dahlongga, Ga.

Swamp Problems

Aggressors take part in eight swamp problems at Eglin and five high terrain problems at Dahlongga. They employ mock rescues, fire blinks from the air, and sharpen their combat techniques. Often outnumbered by Ranger students, who vary between 30 and 100 per side, Aggressors add as much realism to the specialized training as possible. Always on the move, they are called upon to set anti-guerrilla bands, combat parties and task forces for problems that last from a few hours to three days and three nights.

Typical of these problems is one dealing with a jungle rescue during which Aggressors fight off efforts of students to liberate Ranger trainees. This problem lasts for two days and two nights.

Amphibious Assaults

During these jungle and amphibious problems at Eglin, the Aggressor Forces sleep in wet underbrush, eat their meals out of cans the day and far into the night.

In contrast to the hot Eglin swampland the five problems at Dahlongga take place on cold mountain tops. Longest for three days and three-night raid on a power plant which takes Ranger students over steep mountain terrain where they must overpower an Aggressor Force.

Despite the rugged existence, troops selected as Aggressors apparently like the work, and the spirit of competition is always present. In fact, according to one Ranger Department official, suppressing their high spirits gets to be somewhat of a problem when the two groups close in combat. "We have to hold them back, primarily for a safety consideration. We don't want them to get hurt in simulated combat," he said.

The Aggressors benefit from the training almost as much as the Ranger students.

Realistic Training

In the words of 22-year-old Aggressor Pvt. Carl Russo: "You get realistic training in combat situations because Aggressors must think for themselves. It's a question of capture or kill the Ranger, or be captured or killed ourselves."

Ranger SFC Gerald Brannon, a two-war combat veteran who has worked with Aggressors at both training sites, says the use of Aggressor Forces is invaluable. They are like a "uniformed foreign Army, always launching new attacks and always after the kill."

Aggressor Second Lt. Adeline Bolch concurs because "I don't work together under one command for weeks at a time. This is in contrast to regular training when instructors or leaders in problems change from day to day," he declared.

Although they receive little glory many volunteer for another chance to participate in the action-filled problems.

As one aggressor says, "Infantrymen must always be ready to close with the enemy. We get plenty of practice in that as part of an Aggressor Force."

Pres. Asks 'No Accidents'

Wednesday, Dec. 15, is "S-D Day"—Safe Driving Day. The goal, set by President Eisenhower, is a 24-hour period without a single traffic accident in the nation. Little enough to ask, isn't it? Persuading you and me not to commit mass suicide shouldn't require a special "day." Just a little applied common sense...

Safe Driving Day might as easily have been called "Don't-Drive-Like-a-Madman Day" or "What's-the-Rush Day" or even "Use-Your-Brain-When-You-Get-Behind-the-Wheel Day." In other words, never forget that a car is no plaything. Never forget that it's a deadly weapon in every sense.

That bit of extra care is what will make S-D Day a success. You can play a key role in making it so. All you have to do is remember to play fair with your own life.

Remember. Don't forget the minute you get your foot on the accelerator. (APPS)

Freedom to Choose

During World War II there was a popular song entitled "This Is Worth Fighting For." According to the words, we were fighting for a peaceful little valley and similar rural items. During the same war, patriotic advertisements had soldiers declare that they were fighting to get back to Mom's apple pie, Fourth of July picnics, the corner drugstore, or to watch the Yankees beat the Dodgers.

Among the millions of soldiers who fought in that war, there were probably thousands who didn't like apple pie, who hated picnics, who had grown out of the drugstore, and who wouldn't walk around the corner to see an entire World Series. What is important to one man may mean nothing at all to another.

The freedom for which Americans have fought is both a universal and an individual thing. To all of us it means the freedom to choose what we want. To each of us the use of choice is something different. This freedom of choice probably is the most important product of freedom, for it enters our daily lives in countless ways.

We can choose the church we want to attend, or attend none at all. We can choose the place where we want to live, and move somewhere else when we feel like it. We can choose to do anything in the privacy of our homes that does not interfere with the rights of others.

We can express ourselves freely on public affairs. We can choose to support a political party or to ignore politics entirely.

We can choose to be like our neighbors or to be different. We can join a union or an association devoted to the restriction of unions. We can support a lobby in behalf of a favorite cause, or we can advocate that all lobbies be abolished.

We can choose the newspaper we want to read, see the movies and television shows we choose to see, or choose to ignore all of them.

All of these choices and many more give us freedom to live our own lives, instead of fitting ourselves into a slot someone assigns us. So long as we obey the laws established in our common interest, we can greet the policeman on the corner as a friend who is there to protect our rights; we can live without fearing the government, because we know that it is our government.

This personal freedom makes possible the enjoyment of our inherent dignity as human beings.

Cursing Is a Perversion Of God's Gift of Speech

BY CHAPLAIN ERNEST F. WENTZEL

Psalm 141:3—"Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips."

During the war, signs were posted in many public places with the warning: "Careless talk costs lives!" There is indeed no way of estimating how much damage physical, mental, and spiritual has been caused by careless talk. No wonder that St. James called the tongue "a fire, a world of iniquity," an unruly evil, full of deadly poison. Strong word, but only too true!

Everyone of us, therefore, must echo the Psalmist's prayer: "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips." We need God's answer to this prayer, both for our own sake and for the sake of others.

For ourselves, we need "a watch before our mouth" in order to preserve the consistency of our faith, the sincerity of our worship. It is unthinkable, declared St. James, that of the same mouth both blessing and cursing should proceed. The habit of cursing is a perversion of the great gift of speech which God gave us for the opposite use. Just as there is in nature no fountain that one day sprouts forth fresh drinking water and the next day bitter and salt, so also, it is an unnatural perversion of human tongue and lips, which were given us to praise and thank God, when they are used instead to curse our fellow-men and the rest of God's creature. The mind that is purified with the love of Christ will not produce vulgarity, profanity, or foresworn. The heart in which the Holy Spirit dwells will not be the source of malicious gossip. Evil words come from the Evil One. The very name "devil" means "slanderer." He tempts us to slander God by taking the holy name in vain. He tempts us to slander our neighbor with cruel and cutting words. A loose tongue betokens a loose faith. Earnestly we must pray, "Keep the door of my lips!"

Tables Turned By BLOC Lieut.

Tactics is a subject that not only offers many solutions but also is responsible for the violent arguments that sometimes arise among the best of friends. Last week BLOC No. 4 skidded the building of defensive positions. Every officer was required to look over the terrain and determine available weapons on the position in such a way as to build up the most effective curtain of fire in front of the battle position.

Lieut. Dale Danford worked out a solution. There was no doubt in his mind that his choice of positions for all weapons was the best. When the time came for the discussion and critique of the lesson, the class volunteered him to offer his Defense Order to the entire group. He was embarrassed when he discovered that some entering classmate had not only criticized his map, Defense Order and notes but also helped to "volunteer" him as the target for the arguments to follow.

Lieut. Danford turned the tables, however, when he walked confidently to the instructor, got a few last minute instructions, and proceeded to give a lengthy, but perfect, Defense Order. The class was too amazed to argue. When he asked the group for questions, there was but one from the instructor, "You won't forget to change my notes, will you, Lt. Danford?"

Lieut. Danford truly had the school solution.

Stevens Attends 3d Division Change

(Continued From Page 1) P. Murray and Capt. Andie Murphy, USAF, now a Hollywood star. Shortly after the dignitaries arrived, they inspected the massed troops. Stevens and Maj. Gen. Hayden L. Boatner, division commanding general, lead the group. Then massed color of the 47th Division and the 47th Division band trooped the line. After they had marched past the assembled troops, they returned, and the color came to a halt in a straight line, perpendicular to the reviewing stand. At that time, the Third Division colors, which had been stationed on either side of the reviewing stand, moved out to form another line, each set of colors facing its counterpart. Then General

Boatner and General Canham exchanged words between the two rows of men. The men of the 47th Division then removed their shoulder patches, to reveal the blue and white striped Third Division patches which had been sewn on underneath. Both Stevens and General Boatner addressed the Division and both praised the fine record of the Third since its activation in 1917. Stevens pointed out that probably no other division in the U. S. Army had the fighting record compiled by the "Maras" division, and wished the men, formerly of the 47th Division, good luck as they became the Third. General Boatner reminded the men of the proud history they were inheriting, and said that he knew they would be equal to the task of upholding the fine traditions of the Third Division. He added that there is a war in the future, "we hope the Third and 47th will fight side by side."

All-Post

(Continued From Page 1) nation's oldest state chartered university in 1839 and in 15 years has 109-56-8 record including seven bowl games. His 1942, 1946 and 1949 teams were Southeastern Conference champs. While the largest portion of last year's All-Post team has left Benning, some have stood out again in 1954 and are expected to repeat their nomination. Jolin Joe Fortunato, Brigade fullback, has displayed brilliant ball-handling tactics and is expected to take the All-Post slot for the second straight season. Andy Myers, who was a stand-out performer for the CTC Commanders in 1953, held his guard slot brilliantly for the 23rd Infantry in 1954 and stands an excellent chance of repeating. Others who could be nominated this season are Ed Hamilton, Brigade halfback, who made second string last year; Frank Boring, 23rd Int. tackle, another second team member in '53; and R. A. Center, Joe McDonald.

Ed Cirillo, 20th Inf. halfback who streaked through the Flickertails' opponents like a greased pig and undoubtedly will receive many a vote; Philip Powell, a Flickertail end, has snared passes a plenty throughout the season; Joe Gierraci, who filled his 29th Int. halfback slot like a veteran; another coach position should see player-coach Charlie Kuehn take CTC honors; and Divarty will stand a good chance of placing Emil Karas at tackle. The Special Troops Green Wave may see player-coach Andy Kozar step into a nomination.

Staff Nurses Being Sought

Applications for position of staff nurse are being accepted by the Board of Civil Service Examiners at Fort Benning. The jobs have a starting salary of $3,410 per annum. Applications will be accepted until needs are met. Applications may be obtained from the executive secretary, Board of Civil Service Examiners, Fort Benning or from William Tanquary, Room 115, Benning Post Office Building in Columbus.

8 Post Units Join 23d Division

More than 1,200 troops participated in an impressive ceremony Saturday at Fort Benning marking the organization of the 23rd Infantry Division. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was among the dignitaries witnessing the ceremony.

Gen. M'Gar Sends Greetings To Members of New Division

The commanding general of the 23rd Infantry Division has sent greetings to the eight Fort Benning units of the newly-activated division. Stevens, Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army Commander, and Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, reviewed the troops.

The eight Fort Benning units now a part of the division are the 23rd Infantry Regiment, 23rd Field Artillery Battalion, 73rd Ordnance Battalion's Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 219th Field Artillery Battalion Company C of the 26th Engineer Combat Battalion and 74th Tank Battalion.

Two other units are being activated to join those already here. They are Headquarters and Headquarters Battery and Medical Detachment of the Division Artillery. The 30th Infantry Regiment of the 41st Field Artillery Battalion will have eight units at the Infantry Center. Other units are assigned to installations throughout the Southeast and in the Army's Caribbean Command.

The 23rd Infantry will assume the history and patch of the American Special Troops Command, which was designated honor student of cooking class No. 13, Third Army Food Service School.

Gen. M'Gar Sends Greetings To Members of New Division

It is with pride that I extend my greetings to the officers and enlisted men who now join me in the 23rd Infantry Division. It is my sincere desire and intent that the 23rd Infantry Division, by its discipline, training, esprit, will continue and add to the glorious traditions which it inherits.

"Our division must again become one of the finest battle ready divisions in the United States Army. I know that all the officers and enlisted men in the division share my pride and join me in my determination that the 23rd Infantry Division must be superior in all the elements which constitute an outstanding division."

'Copter Pulls Sergeant Wins Cooking Honors

Flying an F-26 utility "whirlbird" 750 R. T. Wade of Fort Benning's 50th Helicopter Company last week performed another mission of mercy to troops in the field when he and his craft picked up two seriously injured enlisted men near Hurricane, Ala., and flew them to the post's U. S. Army Hospital.

The men had been injured in a deep mishap last Thursday afternoon while on maneuvers. A telephone call to Headquarters, The Infantry Center, was immediately relayed to the Helicopter Company, and WO Wade was off to the scene of the accident. Mission was completed within 30 minutes.

In a letter of commendation from Major Richard J. Palumbo, commandant of the school, Wilkerson was lauded for his scholastic and soldierly accomplishments during the eight week course. In a class of 31 chefs, Wilkerson maintained a grade far above average.

Public to Pay Armed Forces For Services

WASHINGTON AFPS—The Defense Department will begin charging fees for a number of special services provided to the general public, such as searching its records and issuing duplicates of military discharges.

However, most services of this kind rendered to members of the Armed Forces, and their dependents will continue to be given free of charge.

The new schedule of fees, which will go into effect Feb. 1, 1955, was drawn up by an ad hoc committee composed of representatives from the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The charges include $1.50 for the issuance of a certificate in place of a lost discharge and $2.00 an hour for searching the records. Certification and validation of documents will cost 30 cents with seal and 25 cents without seal.

Specifically exempted from fees will be: Any service needed by members of the Armed Forces in their capacity as members of the Armed Forces. Services requested by the next of kin or legal representative of military personnel who were or are in a casualty status. Information on the whereabouts of military personnel by their next of kin or legal representative.

Any service requested by a member or former member of the Armed Forces pertaining to decorations or awards, review or change in type of discharge and correction of records and personal documents retained by a DOD agency. Also, information required to obtain financial benefits, except that a fee shall be imposed for giving information previously furnished.

CWO Wagner Ends Long Army Career

Chief Warrant Officer James Wagner marked the end of 27 1/2 years of military service at a retirement parade held in his honor at Stroup B field in the Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

CWO Wagner received a Third Army Certificate of Achievement at the ceremony, which was attended by Brig. Gen. Carl P. Fritzsche, assistant commander of The Infantry School.

The certificate stated, "Chief Warrant Officer Wagner's devotion to duty throughout these long years of service has earned him the esteem of his associates and has contributed to the successful carrying out of the mission of the Army."

Wagner served as purchasing and contracting officer, supply officer, motor officer, department property officer, and regimental S-4 for the First Officer Candidate Regiment. At the time of his retirement he was supply officer for the Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

Two Tampa Nurses Join Benning Hospital Staff

Army Nurse Corps Capt. Josephine LoCicero and First Lt. Helen T. Millan, both of Tampa, Fla., have assumed duties as general staff nurses at the post hospital.

Capt. LoCicero, a member of the Army Nurse Corps for 12 years, came here from Fort Jay, N. Y. During World War II, she was a nurse in the China-Burma-India Theater, and in 1950 she was stationed in Okinawa.

From 1949-1952, Capt. LoCicero was in Korea as chief nurse of a hospital train. For her service there she was awarded the Bronze Star Medal. Capt. LoCicero trained at Sacred Heart Hospital in Pensacola, Fla. Lt. Millan came here from 8641st Army Hospital, Saebon, Japan. She first went to Japan in September, 1952 as a nurse in the 141st General Hospital in Fukuoka, Japan. Lt. Millan later was sent to Korea with the 46th Hospital, remaining there until May 1953.

Houston Wins Lt. Col. Leaf

Norman R. Houston of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been notified by the Department of the Army of his promotion from major to lieutenant colonel. He has been deputy Infantry Center comptroller since last August. His previous tours here were in 1942-44 as an officer candidate company commander, as a student in The Infantry School's refresher course in 1949 and as an official in the Adjutant General's and Comptroller's Sections in 1948-50. In Korea since 1951, the veteran Army officer returned in 1952 as chief of the Management Assistance Division in the Comptroller's Office.

50 End Studies At 3A Food School

Fifty students graduated Friday from the Third Army Food Service School at Fort Benning. Thirty completed the eight-week cooking course and received completion certificates for the eight-week mess management course, and eight for the four-week mess administration course. Honor graduate in cooking was Cpl. John Urban of Ovid, Colo. SFC Charlie Parkey of Weatherford, Texas, took top honors in the mess management course. Top student in the mess administration course was Second Lt. Thasydes H. Vagelos of New York City.

About 65 percent of the 1,000 employees at a U. S. Army Ordnance Rebuild shop at Boeblingen, Germany, are refugees from countries now behind the Iron Curtain.

NOW YA' KNOW!

HERE ARE ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS SERVICEMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES ASK THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

Q — I am in the organized reserves, and I have been called to active training duty for two weeks. Will those two weeks count in lengthening my entitlement to Korean GI Bill training?
A — No. Training duty may not be counted in determining entitlement to Korean GI Bill training. Only active duty — as opposed to training duty — may be considered in computing entitlement.

Q — I lost my GI insurance policy. If something happens to me, will my beneficiaries still be able to get the proceeds of the policy?
A — Yes. The policy itself, which has been issued to you, is for informational purposes only. It is not necessary to prove to the policy as evidence that the insurance is in effect; proceeds will be paid anyhow, so long as VA records show your policy was in force.

Q — I am attending a trade school full-time under the Korean GI Bill. I have been told that I will be allowed 30 days of absence a year. Is this total prorated on a monthly basis, or are any number of absences during a single month permitted?
A — The absences are not prorated on a monthly basis. You are permitted to take your allowable absences at any time throughout your school year, according to your own needs.

Japanese Newsmen Receive Airborne Orientation, Tour

An airborne orientation and a changing of regimental colors highlighted the visit of four Japanese newsmen last week.

Making a three-day tour of the Fort Benning - Columbus area were Ken-ichiro Ichikawa, editor-in-chief of the Nekkai Times; Naosada Takabatake, editor of the Kahoku Shimpo; Yoshitaro Nishida, editor of the Hokkaido branch of the Hokkaido Shimbun, and Tadashi Nagano, president of Oita Radio and Gog Press Company.

The journalists were briefed on cargo aircraft and the 506th Army Helicopter Company.

Army Sets Date To Reallocate WOs of the RA

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The Army expects to complete redistribution of its RA warrant officers in the four ranks established by the WO Personnel Act of 1954 by no later than Dec. 15, 1954. The procedures set up by DA Cir. 80, dated July 16, 1954, have been completed except for final processing. Those concerned have been credited with a designated number of years of service in one of the four WO ranks for permanent promotion purposes.

At the same time the redistribution is completed, temporary promotions to all warrant officer grades will be resumed. They will be continued until the end of the current fiscal year as vacancies become available.

A selection board now in session to recommend warrant officers, W-1, for promotion to W-2. Recommendations listed from previous boards are on hand for promotions to W-3 and W-4. These lists are expected to provide enough to fill all vacancies of the current fiscal year.

A selection board to consider RA warrants for permanent promotions to W-2 and W-3 will convene about Dec. 15, 1954. The board will consider those whose length of service indicates that consideration for promotion is mandatory under the WO Act.

Army Swaps Status Of 8 Benning Units

Army Reserve and National Guard units at Fort Benning have begun picking up their retirement papers and leaving active service. Two National Guard units, the 714th Tank Battalion of Alexandria, La., and the 196th Field Artillery Battalion of Louisville, Tenn., are being replaced by the 714th Tank Battalion and the 216th Field Artillery Battalion, respectively.

The 379th Ordnance Battalion, to be replaced by the 723rd Ordnance Battalion, will retire to Evansville, Ind.

More than 1,300 spaces have been eliminated in each of the Army's combat infantry divisions during the past three years through status reorganization of the tables of organization.

Those three replacements joined the 2nd Infantry Division. The 690th Medical Company took over the duties of the 618th Medical Company, returning to National Guard status in Senatobia, Miss., Dec. 3.

The 479th Army Postal Unit, an Army Reserve outfit, will retire to Saginaw, Mich., after being replaced by the 539th Army Postal Unit Dec. 17.

Effective Jan. 28, National Guard Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 112th Transportation Battalion will consider its home station, Columbia, Ohio. It will be replaced by Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 203rd Transportation Battalion. Already retired to National Guard status is the 62nd Medical Company of Ellenville, N.Y., replaced by the 542nd Medical Company.

Centers Offer Wide Diversity In Winter Term

Academic work leading toward a college degree again will be available on the post during the winter quarter.

Programs sponsored by the University of Georgia and Albany State College centers are to be offered to both military and civilian personnel. The government supports the program for all military personnel who have no baccalaureate degree by paying three-fourths of the tuition. Many regular Army officers find these programs helpful in establishing the college education for their army record.

Both college centers are offering a variety of courses for the new quarter and all courses carry full college credit, which is transferable to most institutions of higher learning. Courses may be taken to satisfy some of the requirements in the following fields: business, education, arts and sciences, journalism, law, pharmacy, and nursing.

Registration Jan. 5
Official registration will take place on Jan. 3 and 4. College representatives will be at the Albany State College branch at Clifton School, Jordan High School building, and at the University Center on the post. Classes will begin on Jan. 5 and 6. Courses offered at Albany State include freshman composition, music appreciation, personal orientation, history of Western culture, typewriting, shorthand, business mathematics, English literature, French, vocational orientation, physical science, history of education, the family, bookkeeping, accounting, commercial English, and filing.

Courses offered by the Fort Benning Center of the University of Georgia include: First period, English composition, problems of economics, principles of accounting, Russia and the Soviet Union, college algebra, calculus, elementary psychology, introduction to philosophy, contemporary social problems, psychology of adjustment, history of Western civilization, and American government. Second period, English composition, man and his culture, introductory sociology, remedial algebra, American history since 1865, European literature, principles of economics, principles of accounting, English history to 1888, principles of business law, lyric poetry, French, and Trigonometry.

At Columbus Center
Courses offered by the Columbus Center of the University of Georgia include: First period, principles of economics, introductory sociology, American history, and principles of art. Second period, freshman composition, history of Western civilization, elementary psychology, principles of accounting, principles of business law, French, American government, college algebra, principles of marketing, introduction to personal and professional development, and Civil War period of American history. Third period, composition, European literature, principles of economics, elementary psychology, principles of business law, cost accounting, Spanish remedial algebra, human biology, public speaking, and contemporary Georgia.

Tuition Fee Given
Tuition for the courses are based on a rate of $4.00 per quarter hour (1 1/2 quarter hours equals 1 semester hour) with fees payable at the time of registration. Candidates Form Catholic Choir

Under the leadership of Father Alphonsus Sheehan, SDS, pastor of a mission near Phenix City, Ala., a male choir is being organized to sing at Catholic services held Sunday mornings at Chapel Five in the Harmony Church Area.

The choir is composed of cadre and officer candidates from the Fifth Student Battalion (OC). The men met at the chapel each Sunday morning at nine o'clock, where, with Second Lieut. James D. Montz at the organ, they practice for singing a High Mass in the near future. The choir, until they have their first High Mass, will sing hymns during the Sunday morning services.

Lt. L. F. Sutter Named Exec. of Co. F ISD

First Lieut. Leo F. Sutter, former commander of Company A, Infantry School Detachment, has been assigned as executive officer of Company F, ISD. Lieut. Sutter will be replaced by Capt. Robert W. Burch, who reports to the Infantry School Detachment from an assignment with the IX Corps in the Far East.

Reenlistments Soar Under Capt. Wilcox

Capt. Walter J. Wilcox could have reenlisted 85 per cent of all probably retire today if the Army offered recruiting officers bonuses for the number of reenlistments they score.

Since last January, Capt. Wilcox, who handles recruiting for The Infantry Center, has tallied a grand total of 2,896 reenlistments. Records show that November was the biggest month this year, with 348. The reenlistment rate has been steadily growing since Capt. Wilcox arrived here in September 1952. The 1953 average was 180 a month; the monthly average to date is about 210.

During the first 10 months in 1954 Fort Benning has surpassed all other Third Army installations in reenlistments. Latest report from Third Army shows that through October The Infantry Center had reenlisted 333 more men than its nearest competitor.

"Regular Army reenlistments at Fort Benning most probably are the highest, percentage-wise, in the country," Capt. Wilcox said. "For the first 11 months in 1954 we in Europe.

More than 50,000 World War II tanks and trucks furnished to NATO nations by the United States have been rebuilt by Germans working for the U. S. Army in Europe.

Blues Meet Rams for Post Title

Season Standouts to Play Sunday at Doughboy Stadium

With the 1954 grid season ended as far as regular season play is concerned, the championship of Fort Benning remains to be decided Sunday when the deadlocked School Brigade Rams and 29th Infantry Blues collide in Doughboy Stadium at 2 p.m.

The Blues, in second place until last Saturday when they romped over STC, now hold the same record as do the Rams. Their tally includes a win over the Rams on Oct. 17 while losing to the 138th Infantry Bears in the season's opener.

One thing expected to make the battle even better is the fact that both squads are expected to place a number of players on the All-Post eleven, which is now in the process of being named.

School Brigade made a name for itself in 1953 when it had the post championship with the 59th ARCT.

Decker	LB	Decker	Decker

Expected to continue their brilliant line play are Blue standouts John Vines and Andy Myers at guards, Frank Fuller and Frank Boring at tackle, center Vester Newcomb, and Frank Glenn and Bob Holt on the ends. Quarterback Clyde Young has ably called signals for the Blues all season and is not expected to be found wanting in Sunday's scramble. His passing is ready for 29th opponents.

Even though Joe Fortunato, Ram fullback, suffered a nose injury two weeks ago there is little doubt that he will be up to par for the coming encounter, as he always has been. The 220-pound former Mississippi State fullback has been practically a one-man ball club, as he was in all probability when he found another berth on the All-Post team. His line plunges are ground-gaining runs for the Rams.

Frank Kush, Ram guard, has Sunday.

Week's Hoop Schedule

First game 7 p.m. Second game 8:30 p.m.

All games at Briant Wells Field House unless otherwise noted.

Friday—3rd Div. Spec. Units vs Divarty; School Brigade B vs 30th Inf.

Sunday—15th Inf. vs CTC; STC vs 29th Inf.

Monday—PMG vs Divarty; 7th Inf. vs 30th Inf.

Tuesday—3rd Div. Spec. Units vs School Brigade B; Brigade A vs 29th Inf.

Tuesday—15th Inf. vs Divarty; STC vs 30th Inf. At Harmony Church Gym

Wednesday—PMG vs Brigade B; 7th Inf. vs 3rd Div. Spec. Units

Trounce Green Wave 60-7

The 29th Infantry football team [for TIC leadership as they whip a new season's scoring record] led the Green Wave of STC 60-7 and tied the School Brigade Rams at Doughboy Stadium, last Saturday.

4 Quintets Lead Hoop Action

'Crucial' Games Scheduled For Monday, Wednesday

Four quintets emerged with perfect 2-0 records as the first week of the Infantry Center Basketball Loop ended Monday night. The pace quickens this week as three of the leaders compete against each other.

Loopleaders are the 29th Regt., Third Division Special Units, 30th Regt. and Seventh Regt.

A glance at this week's schedule shows the 29th has the easiest competition and may emerge as the Benning's only undefeated team at the end of the week. They meet STC and Brigade STC, has split the two encounters while Brigade has failed to win.

The other three first place aggregations have rougher times ahead with key games next Monday and Wednesday looming.

Last week's basketball action was highlighted by a bunch of refs named "Joe." The Bayonet has a policy of using first names to go along with last names. Since only six coaches have honored the Bayonet's request for team rosters, the sports section has taken it upon themselves to name the remaining stars of the TIC loop—"Joe."

Monday the Seventh meets the 30th and on Wednesday the Seventh must face Special Units.

In other games the leaders will play, Special Units meets Divarty Dec. 10 and OC Regt. Dec. 14. The 30th plays OC Friday and STC Tuesday.

Dec. 6

The 15th Inf. Bearcats defeated PMG Medics, 85 to 63, behind the expert eye of Joe Kuss, who found the basket for 22 points.

Second high for the Bearcats with 21 points was Fred Kipp. Pleasant Harris was high man for the evening for the Medics with his 37 counters while Bob Falos collected seven for second high.

The second contest saw the Seventh Inf. Red Bulls take an 80 to 65 victory from School Brigade with Joe Decker and Joe Cumeo scoring 21 points each for the Red Bulls while Brigade's Joe Economo paced Brigade with 15 counters.

Dec. 5

Sunday evening's first battle of a doubleheader was taken, 89 to 68, by the 30th Inf. Flickertails who edged the CTC Commanders. The 30th paced Brigade with 15 counters.

FINGER TIP CONTROL... Frank Glenn, the 29th "Blue's" powerful center of all Third Army fame, leaps up to tap in a rebound, that counted in the victory his team handed the DivArty quintet 79-68. Coming in is Neil No. 14.

Benner Wins World Title At R&P Meet

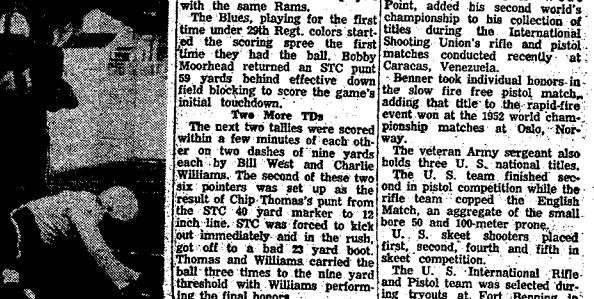

Benner took individual honors in the slow fire free pistol match, adding that title to the rapid-fire event won at the 1952 world championship matches at Oslo, Norway.

The veteran Army sergeant also holds three U. S. national titles, the U. S. team finished second in pistol competition while the rifle team copied the English Match, an aggregate of the small bore 50 and 100-meter prone.

U. S. skeet shooters placed first, second, fourth and fifth in skeet competition.

The U. S. International Rifle and Pistol team was selected during troupes at Fort Benning in November.

Spotlighting

Weigh-in Procedure Kind of Confusing

BY JACK MILLER

Somebody goofed—in reverse.

There were three Class I bouts scheduled for the Harmony Church boxing card last Thursday night and by the time the six pugilists got past the scales and the doctor, there were still three Class I bouts scheduled.

And, lo and behold, when the fights were actually staged we saw all the Class I's that there were supposed to be.

Out of a total number of eight cards up to last Thursday evening event there has been only one Class I encounter. We don't know why. We asked all over the Fort Benning reservation trying to find out just how come no Class I's were being seen by local boxing enthusiasts when there were so many available.

Who gave us the answer? No one. So we decided to visit the weigh-in ceremonies last Thursday morning and see for ourselves just what took place at those things.

Well, as far as we could see, everything was perfectly legit. If a man was one-eighth a pound over-weight he had to stand there and make like a jitterbug until he lost that chunk of fat or else lose his chances of fighting that night. That's fine.

Then, on the other hand, if a man weighed three-eighths of a pound too little, he was told to stand there and inhale that missing three-eighths in air before stepping back on the scales. That's o.k., too, and the thing worked!

But what we can't understand is why so little over or under-weight makes so much difference. If a man has too much weight by a fraction, why not make him get a haircut or take a shower? If he doesn't weigh quite enough why not make him drink a quart of water, or would that be five-minths of a pound too much?

Why, with all that bickering and tension going on at those ceremonies it's a small wonder that the fighter even has nerve enough to step into the ring come fight time. By the time he gets through weighing-in, it's just child's play to step into the squared circle and get knocked from here to there by a fellow who, for all he knows, is one-tenth a pound heavier than he is.

What we are trying to put across is this: If a fellow weighs three-eighths a pound too much on the scales and must get off them to lose that tremendous excess, does anyone doubt that he gains it back by the time he is set for round one?

Blues Picked to Trip Rams

The time is just about here for the big Brigade-29th tussle settling the Fort Benning grid championship of 1954. Sunday at two p.m. the two evens will square off in Doughboy Stadium for what promises to be as great a football duel as has ever been seen at this post. School Brigade lost to the 29th Infantry Blues when they were the 29th Infantry in their initial encounter on Oct. 17 and we have no doubt they will do so again.

Had the tally of that contest been as close as one point, or even one touchdown, we would feel differently toward their Sunday meeting.

But even though the Rams have been powerful enough to stop every other eleven, they just won't be able to muster enough strength Sunday to tear down the forward wall Red Mitchum has built.

Red has not taken all his victories in stride, however. His colleagues say he has worried a few wrinkles in his brow and that he has wished many times he had stuck to his brilliant baritone voice instead of coaching a grid squad. (By the way, if you haven't heard Red warble you have missed a real treat. His vocal chords are well trained to his musical talents.) And we expect to hear him chime out with "Happy Days Are Here Again" after Sunday's encounter.

The Blue line averages 200 pounds per giant while the backfield scales 182. That's enough to make even Bobby Dodd shutter.

And in case you haven't seen his lineup, there are three former Bobby Dodders on the Blue roster. Every one of them is a former Bobby Dodder: Bobby Moorhead? Wow, what roughnecks to be facing for one hour.

Of course Red has other, too. Remaining to be considered for the fracas are such gridsters as Joe Gnerre, Andy Myers, Vester Newcomb, Frank Boring and Frank Glenn, all of whom, put together, weigh 992 pounds. Throw in 240-pound Frank Fuller for good luck and you emerge with over a half-ton of TNT.

However, the Rams are not to be taken lightly. Joe Fortunato escaped the Ram-154th encounter with a badly battered nose, but otherwise he's in top condition.

Paul Bumann Named Post Golf Pro

BY JEANNE ARMSTRONG

The Fort Benning Officers Country Club, which has seen many changes this fall, inside as well as outside, has a new club pro, Paul Bumann, formerly of Brunswick, Ga.

Fort Benning is not new to Bumann, who was stationed here for 21 months in 1932 and 1933. A South Bend, Ind., native and three-year man from Notre Dame, he attended jump school here and was then assigned as assistant pro under Charlie Harper. During his last stay Paul won the Infantry Center Golf Championship in 1932 and 1933. He has also won first place in the Indiana State Amateur Tournament and the Santa Anna, Calif., City Championship. His low on the Benning course is 66.

Bumann is married to the former Ann Twiley of Griffin, Ga., a fine golfer in her own right. He takes great interest in the ladies golf clinics and teaches classes four times a week, as well as giving private lessons.

Another addition to the Country Club is the new pro shop that has just been completed.

The Ladies Golf Association will hold its annual Christmas luncheon Dec. 16 in the Anzio room of the main officers mess. Reservations must be made by Wednesday, Dec. 15, by phoning Mrs. Reichling 15.

Grigore to Interrupt Games for Holidays

The first half of intramural basketball in the School Brigade will end Dec. 16 for the Christmas holidays and will resume at a time to be announced. There are 22 more games to be played.

At the present time the First Student Battalion and the Fifth Student Battalion (OC) are tied for first place.

second contest saw the 29th Inf. defeat Divarty, 79 to 68.

Charles Smith led the 30th win with 18 points while Frank Chan scored a high for the evening with 27 for the CTC aggregation. Divarty's high man was Bill Sexton with 13 while the 29th's Jock Suth-erland took home a 17-point record.

Dec. 4

Highest score of the embryo season was the 104 to 86 tally of the Third Div. Spec. Units over the 15th Inf. The undefeated Special Troops led 52-33 and never relented in their attack until they reached the century mark. Joe Rieget bucketed 37 points and Joe Allen scored 23 to pace the winners. Heading the losers were Vince Stanke with 23 points and Fred Kipp with 22 apiece and Joe Cliff with 16.

In the second game of the evening Brigade won its first game at the expense of OC Rangers 72-67 in a nip-and-tuck battle that saw the OC blow six points in the final lead. Joe Economu led the victors with 31 points while Joe Barker led the losers with 21.

Dec. 3

The 29th and Seventh swept past CTC and STC in a doubleheader. The Blues topped their CTC 82-53 and STC dropped OC Regt. 79-63. In the first game Special Units took a 57-29 lead and romped the rest of the way with Joe Rieget setting the scoring with 53 points. Jim Sexton garnered 14 for the Medics.

Don Keat's 22 points and Bill Moland's 17 got STC off to the right foot and the Raiders went on to whip the OCs 78-63. The scores in the way with Joe Barker's 24 while Ostruh hit 17. Staa, Weiss, and Chan each scored with 22 and Joe Nibet with 18.

Clinch Third Place

15th Inf. Defeats Divarty

The 15th Infantry Bearcats clinched the TIC loop's third place last Friday night in Doughboy Stadium by defeating the Divarty Redlegs 21-13, in their final game of 1954.

'Terrible Tacs' End Year Unbeaten Playing One Game

Ohio State is preparing for Southern California, Georgia Tech, Arkansas game, but out Harmony Church way, the "Bowl Game" is over.

The "Terrible Tacs" of the Fifth Student Battalion reign as pigskin champs of 1954 after defeating the 11th OC gridders 20-13 in a bruising battle.

Starting strong, the Tacs team scored an early touchdown with the passing of Frank Barker and the receiving of Frank Barker and Edw. Mason.

After the half, the officers defended their undefeated record with a series of pass plays and a scoring plunge by "Red" Mason.

The tactical officers ended their season as one of the few undefeated teams in the nation, but this was only their first game.

By Tony Adamo, who has bolstered their offensive machine throughout the season.

Divarty scored first after only four minutes of play when John Franco's swiped Adamo's aerial on the Bearcat 11-yard stripe and ran unmoleted into paydirt.

With only seconds remaining in the first half the 15th picked up a first down when Joe Cassidy jauntied 20 yards to the Redlegs' 18-yard line.

Dead-eye Adamo tossed a spiral to Jim Jones on the next play and the clock stopped with nine seconds left in the half.

After four minutes of play in the fourth quarter Divarty's Phil Smith bulldozed his way across the Bearcat line for a 29-yard TD jaunt.

With less than four minutes remaining in the game, a Divarty fumble proved fatal when Cassidy drove over from the Redlegs' eight after the Bearcat recovery.

uprights and the Bearcats went out in front.

The third period saw Adamo again in the spotlight when he intercepted a Redleg pass and was hit on the Divarty 17, followed by Benny Pate and Norbert Miller taking the ball to the eight-yard line.

Adamo tossed an incomplete aerial to Jones, but the officials ruled it complete due to an interference penalty. As the ball rested on the one-yard line Adamo carried across the end zone prior to booting another PAT.

JAGC Student Sports Top Flight Tennis Record

First Lt. Stephen D. Potts, Seventh Company, The School Brigade, has quite an outstanding tennis record.

While at Darlington High School in Rome, Ga., he was twice Mid-South singles and doubles champion. In the junior tennis circuit, he held the Southern and Cotton State crowns, besides being a finalist in the National Junior Indoor Event. Potts was also a member of the National Junior Davis Cup Squad.

In men's singles Lt. Potts won the city titles of Memphis and Nashville. In the summer of 1952 he played in the European tennis circuit, participating at Wimbledon and clinching the tour by reaching the finals in the Irish National. On his return to this country he was defeated at Forest Hill in the second round play.

While at Vanderbilt University, he played No. 1 man on the team for three years and served as captain during his senior year. He reached the finals of the Southeastern Conference Championship only to bow to Ham Richardson, the National Intercollegiate champion.

Lt. Potts is now attending the Judge Advocate General's Basic Course at The Infantry School.

Bonus Rejected By OC. K. M. Slye

OC Kenneth M. Slye of Wellsley, Mass., was once offered, a bonus exceeding $10,000 to sign with Yankee farm club but turned it down for a college education.

Slye starred in high school ball, while in night games to his credit during his senior year and received an All-State selection for his pitching at Wellsley High School. The Bay State League added to his honors by selecting him as an "All Star."

After graduating Slye turned down the Yankee's offer on advice from his father and entered Wake Forest College.

ed back to his own eight yard line and tossed a perfectly aimed bullet pass into the outstretched arms of Charlie Smith, who ran all the way for the touchdown. The play covered 82 yards from scrimmage.

Little Joe Gnerre, who was fairly quiet during the first 30 minutes of play, exploded for two touchdowns in the second half and set up a third with a 88 yard kick off return. Gnerre's first tally was a two yard plunge and the second was a 39 yard end sweep late in the final period.

Kick-off Returns

Gnerre's kick off return to the 5TC 16 yard marker initiated the first scoring drive in the second half. Bill West charged the remaining 16 yards for his second touchdown of the day.

Andy Mezers, a versatile man at guard for the 29th, took the ball on a handoff from quarterback Clyde Young and scampered six yards on the second play to add his six points to the contest. Billy idol completed the scoring for the afternoon by plunging into the end zone from the two yard stripe. This tally tied the scoring record, held by School Brigade's 59 points. West provided the straw that broke the camel's back when he kicked the record setting extra point.

The Green Wave scored their lone touchdown late in the third period when John Higgs threw an aerial to Tom Drake to complete a 15 yard scoring play. 5TC threatened to score just previous to their actual tally when they drove to the 29th nine yard line only to loose the ball on a fumble.

Imprisonment of U.S. Airmen Caps Red Perfidy on POWs

BY PFC. BERNARD KALAN (AFPS Staff Writer)
NEW YORK — Communist China's recent disclosure that it has sentenced 11 U. S. airmen and two American civilians to long jail terms for "espionage" is the crowning evidence of a Communist doublecross which began with the Korean Armistice more than a year ago.

BIOC No. 4 to Graduate With All-Around 'Rates'

One of the finest basic officers' classes, BIOC No. 4, will graduate from the Infantry School on Dec. 14. The class, which is 196 strong, is composed of 91 USMA graduates, 105 ROTC officers and two officers from the Spanish Army. The group, cooperating to the maximum among themselves and with the various Infantry School Committees, marked up a fine record in academics, physical training, and leadership.

Among the first accomplishments of the class were the high scores of the first Physical Fitness Test. This was brought about not only by the will of the officers to learn but also by the coaching system which was set up in the company among the student officers. Those who desired assistance in any subject found many class-mates willing to give them a helping hand on the free evenings. The class has a long string of superior ratings to its credit.

Although the test was administered to the group several weeks early, the results earned a letter of congratulations from the Second Battalion Commander, TSB, Lt. Col. Boyce, and the Infantry School.

The class set new records in machine gun firing. Only one officer failed to qualify in this firing. The M-1 firing was as impressive as that of the machine gun.

In the academic field, BIOC No. 4 showed its proficiency with an extremely low number of failures. This was brought about not only by the will of the officers to learn but also by the coaching system which was set up in the company among the student officers. Those who desired assistance in any subject found many class-mates willing to give them a helping hand on the free evenings. The class has a long string of superior ratings to its credit.

It was little more than a month later that the Chinese Communists admitted they were doing just that. They even disclosed one of the reasons behind their treachery. Through a Communist newspaper correspondent at Panmunjon, the Chinese announced that USAF Capt. Harold Fischer Jr., a Korean War ace, and an undisclosed number of other U. S. airmen were being held because they allegedly were shot down over Manchuria, not Korea, and therefore were not subject to the armistice terms.

To obtain their release, the Communist mouthpiece said, the United States "will have to negotiate through diplomatic channels." This was generally interpreted as a Chinese Communist bid for U.S. diplomatic recognition.

On Jan. 19, 1954, Maj. Gen. Julian K. Jay, USA, senior U.N. member of the Joint Military Armistice Commission for Korea, demanded investigation of reports that American prisoners had been secretly impressed into two North Korean Army labor battalions. These charges have never been refuted.

At another meeting of the Military Armistice Commission on Aug. 17, 1954, the U.N. representative set the number of U. S. prisoners still "unsatisfactorily accounted for" at 236. That remains the official figure today.

These are U. S. servicemen who were taken prisoner in combat, were not released, and are not known to have died in prisoner camps. The figure does not include the score of Americans who decided voluntarily to throw in their lot with the Communists.

In 104th Company Rotations to Aid Platoon Leaders

Student officers of 104th Company, the School Brigade, with deficiencies while acting as platoon leaders, have a chance to redeem themselves as a result of a rotational program.

Under the new system, student platoon leaders are rotated twice weekly on duty observed by tactical officers. If deficiencies are not ed, they serve another three-day tour to correct their shortcomings. Formerly students served on a weekly basis, but had no chance to "make good" if they received a bad report.

"The new program was designed especially to help the less experienced leaders," Lt. Jay C. Smith, student commandant, said. "Generally, only the leaders who have shown deficiencies are being selected for the command position."

While platoon leaders are being picked for a three-day period only, the other company officers will continue to serve on a weekly basis.

"Since the purpose of the basic infantry officer course is to train men to be platoon leaders, we felt that it was vital to give as many as possible experience along this line," Lt. Smith said.

The new program serves two purposes. It not only gives the men a chance to improve their leadership ability but also helps the tactical officers and are used the success of their counseling program.

Student officers are picked by the tactical officers and a re-briefed before taking over their jobs by the student battalion staff. Leadership positions in the company range from squad leader to company commander.

In addition to the rotational leadership program, the company has a permanent student battalion staff composed of outstanding officers. The student staff functions

(the same as a regular battalion staff, and was designed to assist in the smooth-running operation of the company.)

11th OCs Pen Safety Odes

Officer Candidates of 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), are imitating poet Ogden Nash as they busily write verse after verse reminding the men of the company about traffic dangers during the coming holidays.

The company safety council, with an eye on an accident-free Christmas, chose the following ditty by David Roche as No. 1 in their safety slogan contest:

With the holidays coming 'round Remember candidate you are bound To take the lead and show the way To be safety officers day by day. Second place went to OC Lanston Lamont for:

Gambling George, a careless driver, Bet his little wits a dimer. He would get to work by seven Then drove like hell, straight to Heaven.

THOMAS LORD
... Diesel Man

Ex-Ship Skipper Hopes to Pilot Craft After OCS

Another ship's captain has shown up among the Officer Candidates in the Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

Thomas P. Lord, candidate "captain" from 14th OC Company, is qualified to operate any type vessel, from sailboats to diesel powered craft, up to 65 feet in length. His five-year commercial operator's license was acquired in 1952 after an eight-hour test conducted by the United States Coast Guard.

The examination required Lord on one test time to identify ships by observing their night running lights. As an example, a sailboat has one red light on the port side and a green light on the starboard. According to Lord, if a sailor spots only one red light he knows he has to go to starboard (right to miss the sailboat).

A graduate of Dickinson College, N. J., Lord received a degree in Liberal Arts and Sciences from the University of Pennsylvania. Prior to his arrival at OCS, Lord took the Army course in Diesel Engineering at Fort Eustis Transportation School. He hopes to receive command of an Army vessel in the Transportation Corp after OCS.

150 Cadets Tour Post

Some 150 Georgia Civil Air Patrol cadets toured Fort Benning Saturday.

The cadets, represented squadrons from Columbus, Atlanta, Marietta, Lockheed, Griffin, Macon and Athens.

They viewed the parade by units of the 2d Infantry Division, received a Ranger orientation and witnessed a demonstration of the Army's light aircraft.

The cadets also were given an opportunity to take a controlled parachute ride on the 26-foot training tower used by the Infantry School's Airborne Department.

Three Entertainers Fete 11th OC Party

Three young ladies from Columbus were the featured entertainers at a Christmas party given by 11th Officer Candidate Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), at Victory Lodge.

The Misses Diane Fuller, Mary Starr, and Betty Lofkin appeared in an hour-long show following a buffet dinner for 150 candidates and their guests.

Miss Fuller, a voice major at Wesleyan College, had her own radio show in Columbus, with several TV guest appearances to her credit.

Specializing in classical and semi-classic music, Miss Starr is also an entertainer professionally. Rounding out the show was Betty Lofkin, a popular singer appearing with dance bands in central Georgia.

33,629 Killed In K. Warfare

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Defense Department has revealed its tentative final figures on U. S. battle casualties in the Korean conflict.

The total including killed, wounded and missing in action for the period June 26, 1950 to July 27, 1953 has been set at 142,091. This figure, accurate as of Sept. 30, 1954, breaks down as follows: Deaths, 33,629; Wounded, 102,284; Reported captured or missing but returned to military control, 5,133; Refused repatriation, 21, and Missing, 24.

Separated by services: Army 109,958; Navy 2,067; Air Force, 1,841; and Marine Corps, 28,205.

Fifteen of the 24 listed as missing are definitely known to be alive. They are all Air Force fliers being held by the Chinese communists who claim they are political prisoners not war prisoners. The Reds say they were captured in Manchuria outside the war zone. The U. S. is continuing to negotiate for their release.

The other nine listed as missing are Navy personnel. Although the Reds deny holding them, it is possible that six of them are alive since it has been reported they were paraded through the streets of Swatow, China.

They were shot down by the Chinese in January 1953. The other three Navy men considered missing are believed dead but without sufficient evidence to make it final.

The examination required Lord on one test time to identify ships by observing their night running lights. As an example, a sailboat has one red light on the port side and a green light on the starboard. According to Lord, if a sailor spots only one red light he knows he has to go to starboard (right to miss the sailboat).

104th Plans Review Classes

Special review classes have been set up in 104th Company, the School Brigade, for those students who want to review, in a special way, prior to an examination.

The new program, set up by the student battalion staff, is open to all students. Classes are usually one or two nights before an examination and attendance is voluntary.

So far, special sessions have been held on Map Reading, M-1 Rifle, machine guns, mortars and recoilless rifles. In addition to the instruction, weapons have been obtained so that the students can work to them on their own time.

The program has proved very successful," Lt. Jay C. Smith, student commandant, said.

If possible, the review classes are conducted by the regular committee instructors. If there are no instructors available, students with prior experience in the subjects do the teaching.

Lt. Smith said that the class intended to set a tactical table to help the students set up different problems and solve them when the class begins its study on tactics.

A physical training program has been set up by the student staff to help the student increase their scores in the PT tests.

Lt. Wiener Assigned To Banning Hospital

Army Medical Corp 1st Lt. Harry Wiener of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been assigned duties as a general medical officer at the post hospital.

Lt. Wiener came to Fort Benning after 16 months in Korea where he was assigned to the 137th Medical Detachment. He has been awarded the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant and is a 1940 graduate of Long Island College of Medicine.

COL. WESTERVELT

Surgeon Heads 54th Medics

Col. Frederic B. Westervelt of Pittsburgh, Pa., has assumed command of the 54th Medical Group, succeeding Lt. Col. James H. Francis who will become executive officer.

Lt. Col. John E. Burke, former tactical officer with 11th OC Company, transferred to 122nd Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), where he will assume duties as company executive officer.

Lt. Col. Richard Durance of the Australian Military Mission in Washington, D. C., is visiting Human Research Unit No. 3. The Australian officer is receiving an orientation on research projects being studied by the Army Field Forces unit.

Refilming (Continued from Page 1) PX? And what form of rigorous physical training did the unit undergo, that these underfed, anemic fellows could go through with flying colors, only to fold up like a damp paper container on an approach march?

As a unit commander, your old father declined to star the film to his unit. It's good stuff to show to officers and NCO's to point up inspection principles, but this old greybeard falls to see why he should show his troops a film which says, in essence, "This is what happens when you are poorly and inefficiently commanded." And as far as the chow business is concerned, let's hope a more realistic situation is created in the new film. Let's have them drop out on a training hike, not several weeks after successfully completing advanced unit training, and after an ocean cruise during which they were forced to eat at the mess hall. The PX soda fountain seldom goes as TAT baggage. Anyone who ever made a two-meal-a-day troop transport crossing knows that troops are eager to get anything to eat, even in the mess.

Cronk

(Continued From Page 1) of Troops No. 10 and 27 and of Explorer Post No. 27. Col. Cronk was responsible for the administrative work necessary for the operation of the Boy Scout summer camp and was commended by the Georgia-Alabama Council for his outstanding work in assisting Negro troops in planning their summer camp. During the past football season he coached the School Brigade Rams' football team, which won the Benning Bowl for the second consecutive season and went on to win the Infantry Legion championship.

Col. W. I. Russell Named Benning G-1

Col. William I. Russell has been appointed Infantry Center G-1, being general and later to the chief of staff's office. His decorations include the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal and Combat Infantryman Badge.

Col. Russell is a 1929 graduate of the University of Virginia Military Institute. He was with the U. S. Engineer Corps, building camps and air bases in the U. S. and Brazil, from 1940 to 1943.

Following graduation from the University of Maryland, he took The Infantry School's advanced course in 1942-1943, new division officers course in 1943 on New Guinea, Leyte, Luzon, and Okinawa.

From 1945 to 1947, Col. Seay was G-4 for the 11th Airborne Division in Japan. He returned to the U. S. to become a student and later an instructor at the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

He commanded the First Battalion, 25th Infantry Regiment here in 1961, and the following year became chief of the Command and General Staff Corps Training Group, Military Assistance Advisory Group to Formosa.

Col. Seay was appointed commander of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry Regiment, 4th Division in Korea in 1953, and came to Fort Benning Oct. 7, 1953 for assignment in the G-1 Section.

Mrs. J. H. Harper Boosts Post Sale of TB Seals

The sale of Christmas Seals at Fort Benning reached $2,709 in its first week, exceeding 1953's year's total by more than $1,500.

Of the 39,000 letters already distributed, responses from 1919 has been received at a rate of approximately 200 a day, according to Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, co-chairman in charge of military sales for the Muscogee County tuberculosis fund-raising drive.

Five hundred Fort Benning Girl Scouts between 7 and 16 have stuffed 49,000 envelopes with 80,000 sheets of Seals. This was the Scouts' community project for November.

Contributions will go towards the cost of maintaining two patients at the Muscogee County Tuberculosis Hospital, both wives of servicemen.

Additional Christmas Seals may be obtained from Capt. John W. Dennis at the Post Locator Office, Mrs. Harper said.

Mrs. Charles H. Blaum, executive director of the Columbus area Tuberculosis Association said the response from post personnel "has been wonderful."

"Last year only 8,000 letters were mailed to military personnel, resulting in contributions of $1,200. This year the letters were sent through the post's message centers, and many contributions have been made by entire units."

CO. E PROMOTIONS Four enlisted men of Company E, 29th Infantry Regiment, have recently been promoted. New sergeants are John W. Brooks, Charles L. Dunham, and Charles H. Jackson. To private first class went Eurfracio Vigil, Jr.

'Civs' All Set To Give Blood

The American Red Cross bloodmobile from Atlanta will be on post today and tomorrow to collect blood from civilian employees, according to Leslie M. Ray, Red Cross field director.

Hours of collection will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., in Ward C-31, located in the U.S. Army Hospital area near Bras Barracks.

This is the first time civilians on post have been asked to donate blood, and, according to Mr. Ray, they are enthusiastic about the opportunity.

ASSIGNED TO CO. G Three enlisted men have been assigned to Company G, 29th Infantry Regiment. They are Pfc. John W. Hunt, Pfc. McKinley Fox and Frank E. Lauderdale.

"Where is the balance of your life?" "This is all they gave me, sir."

Chaplain's Corner A Pencil Lives

BY CHAPLAIN (MAJ.) JOHN D. CLUGGS

Stop! Before you read this article get a pencil and hold it in your hand. Any kind of pencil. Now, do you have one? Fine. Now, carefully and stopping to look at your pencil, lets continue. Jesus taught great spiritual lessons with a mustard seed, a lost coin, a farmer, and the other everyday things. In the pencil you hold in your hand is a great lesson in spiritual living.

First, your pencil may be most any color or shape. It may be the common wood type or the mechanical type. It may be an inexpensive pencil or it may have cost you quite a sum. Regardless of its color, size, shape or cost, it is made for a purpose. That purpose is to serve, to do something worth while, to enrich the lives of people. So God has a purpose for you. Regardless of race, color, or condition of life, God made you to serve Him.

God has given you some special work—it may be to teach, to sing, or maybe, just to live for him each day in your home, office, barracks or where ever you are; but you have a place and a purpose. God does not want you to be the most when you are doing what God wants you to do.

When you let our hearts be wrapped up in our own selfishness we are less to God. We must sacrifice our own desires until our hearts are open to God's will before we can be useful to Him. Many of us are unsharpened pencils in God's hands.

Notice your pencil again. At the very top is an eraser. You know its use. When the lead makes a smear or mistake, the eraser is there to rub it out.

So God is always above us to blot out our mistakes, and to help us keep the pages of our lives clean, neat, and in good order.

Who would like for you to consider one more thing. The more you use your pencil, the closer the lead gets to the eraser. Now the more God use you, the more of self your grind off, the closer your heart will come to Him.

There is a lot in your pencil isn't there? More than you ever realized. But the question is not what kind of a pencil you have in your hand, but what kind of a pencil are you in the hands of God.

That has never been sharpened? Try to write with it. It just won't work, will it?

Whatever the purpose of the pencil it accomplishes most when it is in the hands of the Master. The artist can do more with the art pencil than anyone else. A good writer can do more with the common pencil than one who has not learned to write. So God can do more with your life than anyone else. He is the Master who knows your abilities and how to get the most from them. Your life outside the hands of God, is like the pencil in the hands of one who does not know its use.

Then you will notice another thing about your pencil. It isn't the color or shape that is important; it is the INSIDE. The heart of the pencil.

Did you ever try to use a pencil that had a four lead? May be there was a little to much graphite or maybe the lead was broken all the way through and

Capt. Resigns For Ministry

Capt. John E. Reed of Meigs, Ark., former adjutant of the First Student Battalion of the School Brigade, has resigned his commission to study for the ministry.

Reed was awarded the spring term at Duke Theological Seminary in Durham, N. C.

This is Capt. Reed's second educational step since he entered the service as an enlisted man during World War II.

He was discharged from the Army Medical Corps to attend the University of Arkansas. When he graduated in 1946 he received commission under the ROTC program and later was integrated into the Regular Army.

Capt. Reed attended The Infantry School's officers advanced course.

'Hints' Save $176 Million

Washington (APFS) — The DOD drive for employee suggestions appears to be bearing fruit. Savings estimated at $176,517,500 during the 1953 fiscal year resulted from suggestions by civilian employees.

For their contributions, the DOD workers received $1,851,702 in either cash awards or salary increases. During the year employees submitted more than 170,000 ideas. Awards were given for 42,676 of these.

The DOD announcement noted that the savings attributable to the award program increased four times as much as in the previous year when the total savings amounted to $44,800,000.

Key to the Future

Here are a few words — "honor," "decency," and "sense of duty." Think them over. You hear them spoken every day. But how often have you seriously considered their meaning? They are important words. They exert a practical influence on your career in the service and on your whole life. They deserve at least a few moments' thought.

For the serviceman, a long string of precepts is wrapped-up in the single word, honor. It includes the duties and obligations of all citizens, in or out of uniform — obeying the spirit and letter of the law; participating in government by keeping informed and voting; defending the nation when the need arises.

But, for the man in the Armed Forces, the obligations of honor involve even more than they do for the civilian. For him, honorable service might be an even better term to use than honor. It can be defined as nothing less than the logical fulfillment of a military career.

A successful career in the Armed Forces involves the very essence of honor, decency, and a sense of duty. To the serviceman, honor includes all the obligations of the civilian, plus: respect for authority; obedience to orders; strict truthfulness; and steadfast courage.

Tangible proof exists that a man who has served in the Armed Forces has met this rigid test. It is called a Certificate of Honorable Discharge, a piece of paper that will have a crucial bearing on the rest of your life.

Your eligibility for veterans' preference in government employment, for payments for Service-connected disability, for a pension, and many other benefits depends on the type of discharge you receive. The wrong kind of discharge, more likely than not, will deprive you of the career you desire — or, for that matter, any career worth having. The right kind of discharge is the one which shows it has been earned under honorable conditions (APFS)

KATHERINE is a chronicle of the romantic manner which faithfully portrays the background of its turbulent setting.

INDONESIA: LAND OR CHALLENGE? by Marguerite Bro Harper, 288 pages.

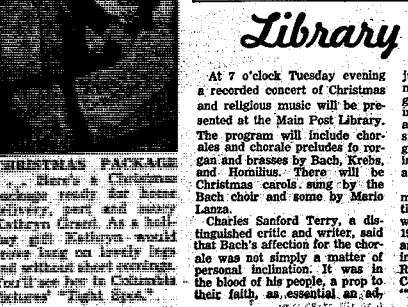

The wife of the attaché to the U. S. Embassy in Indonesia traveled throughout the new republic. In her book she outlines its history and accounts of French and Dutch political parties and their leaders, and describes what has been happening in this plucky little country.

MON. THE MURDERER, by Patrick Quentin (Simon & Schuster, 247 pages).

What does a good, honest, law-abiding citizen do when his son is accused of murder? Every bit of evidence pointed to Jake's son. The reader will be spell-bound as the solution to the crime, solved through one man's faith and determination.

SATCHMO, by Louis Armstrong (Prentice-Hall, 240 pages).

In his own racy style, the jazz legend and academy award winner tells of his life from his early years in New Orleans, which he has resurrected.

BY DON LARSEN
Hello again, and before we start this column I want to thank Bal Kuche for writing it during my absence. Many readers have praised his writing, so thanks for a job well done.

While in Hollywood I viewed many new films soon to be released and from what I saw, it looks like a mighty good film year for '55. During a visit to Republic studios it was explained to me that due to the smog problem in the Los Angeles area and Southern California, studios are filming most of their epics at Flagstaff, Arizona. On my way back I stopped there, and to behold, there was more activity in Flagstaff than in Hollywood.

Some of the current top pictures playing on the Coast include "Brigadoon" and "Desiree" both of which the Main Post has already reviewed. "Brigadoon" and "Desiree" are musts for the moviegoer. The first, "Brigadoon," a marvelous musical in magnificent color, is in CinemaScope. Life magazine calls it a "Bonnie Highland Flinging," a visually delightful movie which, on the Broadway show, has some pretty songs and is strong in its dance department. In fact most musicals call it tops, and that includes "Desiree".

Telling a story of Brigadoon, the little town which comes to life on Wed. and Thurs. years, only the happy legend can explain what happens to the American Tommy Albright. Lost in the highlands with his pal, Jeff Douglas, Tommy finds Brigadoon on his century day. He also finds Fiona, exciting and beautiful. He refused to believe in her life and so he leaves with Jeff letting her vanish for another century. Back in the busy life of New York he realizes how empty reality can be without Fiona and goes back to the highlands to add a miracle to his life.

"Desiree," the second four-star picture at the Main Post Theater this week, stars Marion Brande (and that's enough for any film), Jean Simmons, Merle Oberon (one of the most beautiful women on or off screen) and Michael Rennie. To behold Marion Brande as Napoleon Bonaparte in "Desiree" is to behold a magnificent portrayal of a woman in modern history. This happy wedding of personalities allows Brande to swing, completely dominating the action. He is forceful, ruthless, dynamic, tender and pathetic in fast changing moods that keep the motion picture careening forward at an engrossing pace.

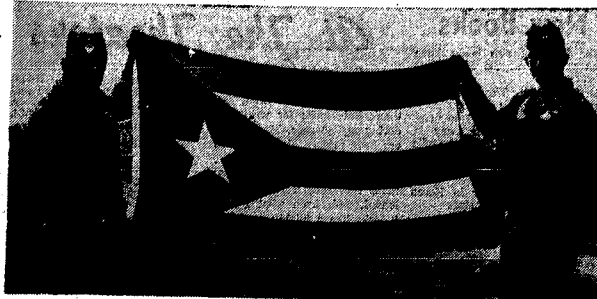

The film relates the romance between the young Napoleon and the academy award winner from Marseilles who is later jilted for the exotic Josephine.

Army Largest Employer

Gen. Mudgett Says Info. Program Vital

The U. S. Army today is the largest employer of manpower and has a great responsibility to its stockholders, the American public, the Army's chief of information declared last Thursday at Fort Benning.

Major Gen. Clinton C. Mudgett, comparing the Army's employee-employer relations with industry believes "the Troop Information Program is the answer to getting the military story told to the stockholders."

"The Army is spending a great deal of money, and the public has a right to see what the money is being spent for. It has a right to see its product. Industry sends reports to its stockholders with its dividends and we, too, have a great responsibility to our stockholders," Gen. Mudgett said.

He advocated the Army's Troop Information Program as an important key to successful leadership. "Successful leaders, especially successful military leaders, accomplish three things in their units. They convince every man he has an important job to do, that each is a keystone of a large organization and that the unit to which he belongs has a mission in a worthy cause in which he believes," Gen. Mudgett added.

Special Troops Parade Honors Two Veterans

With more than 1,000 troops participating in special ceremonies conducted at the Third Cuartel Drill Field, Lt. Col. Jack R. Milton, executive officer of Special Troops Command, decorated two Army veterans for outstanding accomplishments.

Cited were Sfc. Edward A. Scherer of the 22nd Detachment, 725 Ordnance Battalion, recipient of the Bronze Star, and WO Shirley C. Chadwell Jr. of 3657th Ordnance Company, who received the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant.

Sfc. Scherer, the S-3 operations sergeant of the 22nd Detachment, Special Troops Command, earned his award during ground operations in Europe with the famed 10th Armored Division in 1945. Scherer has been stationed at Ft. Benning "on and off" since 1941, sandwiching tours of duty in South America and Europe in the meantime.

WO Chadwell, assistant armament platoon leader with the 3657th Ordnance Co., SVC, earned his citation while in Korea with the 7th Ordnance Company. Serving as technical supply officer from June 1953 to July 1954, he "rendered in-

For Extraordinary Heroism

Lt. Wins 2nd Highest Honor

An Infantry School instructor has been presented the Distinguished Service Cross for displaying extraordinary heroism in Korea even though both his legs were broken.

First Lt. George M. Glivden of Louisville, Ky., received the nation's second highest award from Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, at a parade honoring the 25-year-old veteran.

Lt. Glivden, who spent more than five months in Korea as a platoon leader in Company L, 14th Infantry, earned the decoration for action in the vicinity of Sateari, Korea Oct. 12, 1953.

Since his patrol was still vulnerable, he crawled to a position parallel to the enemy location and poured devastating fire into them. He again was attacked by an enemy soldier armed with a sub-machine gun, who wounded him a third time.

Continues Asaali
"Killing his attacker, Lt. Glivden continued his assault until his ammunition was expended. While returning to his patrol, he collapsed from shock and loss of blood," according to the citation. "Inspired by Lt. Glivden's example, the patrol fought off the enemy as they left their positions while one member of the patrol pulled Lt. Glivden back into the patrol's area," the citation continued.

When Lt. Glivden regained consciousness, he once more took command, "setting up a security guard and personally acting as superior guard during evacuation of all other wounded by his unit."

The patrol was again brought under heavy enemy mortar fire while approaching U.N. lines and Lt. Glivden was wounded for the fourth time.

No One Lost
The patrol successfully neutralized the enemy outpost and returned to U.N. lines with all the wounded. No American lives were lost.

CPL. JEAN TAKASE

Hawaiian Wins WAC Honors

Cpl. Jean Takase of Honolulu, Hawaii, has been selected Wac of the Month for the WAC Company, Special Troops Command. She was chosen as a result of her superior work as court recorder and secretary at the Comptroller's Office, the Infantry Center.

After high school she attended a business college, graduating as a stenographer.

Cpl. Takase entered the Army May 14, 1953 and took basic training at Fort Lee, Va. Upon completion of basic, Jean attended stenographers school at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Inc., before coming to Fort Benning.

She has appeared on numerous occasions as a ball dancer with "The Hawaiian Serenaders." Besides her regular assigned duties, she helps in the company with information and education classes.

A USI graduate of West Point, La. Glivden has been an instructor in hand-to-hand combat in the Ranger Department since September 1952.

He was previously at Fort Benning in 1951 to take the basic airborne course and the associate company officers course. He also was a training company commander at Fort Knox, Ky. He served with the Second Marine Division before entering the military academy.

His other decorations include the Purple Heart with four Oak Leaf Clusters.

Sgt. Malcom Wins Army Certificate

M-Sgt. Archie G. Malcom of Macon, Ga., has been presented an Eighth Army Certificate of Achievement for exemplary performance of duties as first sergeant in Headquarters Company, United Nations Command in Korea.

The 25-year-old master sergeant, now assigned to the 11th Company of the Fifth Student Battalion, served as first sergeant for the Military Armistice Commission Company during the Allied-Communist discussions.

OIL PAINTING PRAISED... Capt. Hampton Rowland Jr., right, of Athens, Ga., receives a Third Army Certificate of Accomplishment from Lt. Col. Ralph Todd, Infantry Center special services officer, for placing second in the oil painting division in the Third Army eliminations of the All-Army Art Contest and Exhibition. Here since August 1953, Capt. Rowland is assigned to the Infantry School's Staff Department. His painting will be submitted in the All-Army contest to be held soon.

All-Post Picks 3 Rams, Blues

Last Period Explosion Gives Brigade Championship

Final Minutes Prove Fatal To Losers

Quarterback Yale Lary passed the School Brigade Rams to the Fort Benning football championship last Sunday afternoon in Doughboy Stadium, 16 to 6, over the highly touted 29th Infantry Blues in the 1954 playoff tilt.

The victory gave Brigade an overall record of seven wins against one loss for the season and proved beyond a doubt that this team is the No. 1 team on post.

Lary was the difference all afternoon long. His magnificent signal calling was not found wanting and the clincher came when he booted a 50-yard field goal that had to angle in the right to get between the goal posts.

It was strictly a see-saw contest throughout the first half with neither eleven able to penetrate its opponent's ground too deeply.

Longest run of the first half came just after the opening kickoff when Bobby Moorhead, Blue halfback, took a Brigade punt on his own five yard stripe and scampered 45 yards to midfield.

Deepest penetration of either squad took place later in the initial period when Clyde Young's aerial to Cooper was dropped but ruled complete due to a Ram error. The penalty sent the ball to the Ram one-yard stripe on first down. But the Brigade forward wall refused to budge on the four downs in an amazing display of defensive action.

Field Goal

On the fifth play of the third quarter, with the pigskin 15-yards in from the sideline, Lary's signal calling and all round knowledge paid off when he booted a field goal that broke the scoring tie.

The third play after the kickoff and the Blues on their own 12-yard stripe, quarterback Young cocked his arm and found a receiver down field and let go with a spiral to little Joe Gerre in midfield. Gerre scampered un molested into the end zone. The boot fell short and the Blues were in the lead, 4 to 3.

The remaining minutes of the third period saw no tense offensive action.

Just after the final four minute warning from the officials, the Rams found themselves on the Blue for yard marker after Lary completed passes to end Ernie Stockard, John Middleton, and Ed Hamilton.

With four yards to go on third down Lary again tossed a soaring spiral, this time to Ed Crook, who was waiting in the end zone. The pass was wide to the right.

With less than three minutes of playing time remaining, the Rams gave the pigskin to Crook on the 29th yard stripe. He jumped the remaining distance for Brigade's final tally, Brigade 15, 29th Blues 6. Lary's PAT split the uprights giving the Rams a 15 to 6 deficit.

The afternoon ended with a 29th fumble being recovered by the Rams.

Turkey Shoot Set Dec. 19

The Fort Benning Fish and Game Maintenance Association will sponsor a turkey shoot Dec. 19 at Roosevelt Range.

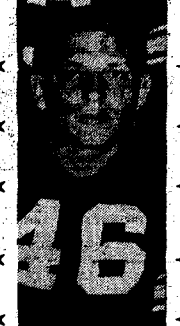

Contestants will register at 1 p.m. and the shooting will begin at 1:30 p.m.

There also will be a competitive shoot in which participants may use their own shotguns and ammunition. Another event will require contestants to use a .22 rifle.

Prizes will include turkeys, hams and chickens. Refreshments will be served.

These Eleven Football Stars Were Tops In This Year's TIC Loop

Fortunato Gets Most Votes Again

BY JACK MILLER

The School Brigade Rams and 29th Inf. Blues each boasted three members on the 1954 All-Post first team. The 15th Inf. Bearcats followed closely with two, while the Seventh Inf. Red Bulls, CTC Commanders and 30th Inf. Flickertails claimed one each.

Largest number of votes was received by the Rams' Joe Fortunato, with a final tabulation of 188. He also led last year's poll. Following Fortunato was his teammate, Frank Kush, with 159.

The first and second all-post teams were announced last night. At the annual grid dinner at the post cafeteria. Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center Commander, presented the TIC loop's outstanding players with trophies. Another highlight of the dinner was an address by Wally Buttz, coach of the University of Georgia Bulldogs and popular after-dinner speaker.

(First and Second post teams listed on Page 14)

While no member of the 29th team were repeaters four members of this year's first team wrested those laurels in 1953. They were Frank Kush, guard; Andy Myers, 29th Inf. guard; Ed Crook, Brigade halfback; and Fortunato.

A roundup of the first team follows:

LEFT END, JAMES "GOOSE" JONES, 15TH INFANTRY BEARCATS — "Goose" became famous in the season's opener when his team-mates received his valuable assistance in their 12 to 0 triumph over the 29th Inf. Blues. From Laurinburg, N. C., the pole-like frame of Jones was an asset in each of the Bearcat victories. He caught passes that looked from the sidelines to be far out of his reach. He made tackles, that sometimes felt as though the entire stadium vibrated.

LEFT TACKLE BOB WILGA, 15TH INFANTRY BEARCATS — Most grid fans remember Wilga at the U. of Alabama, where he made football history when his stay with the Crimson Tide. But for seven grid teams at Fort Benning, he will be long remembered by the jaw-breaking, bone-crushing tackles he made this year.

LEFT GUARD, FRANK KUSH, BRIGADE RAMS — Frank is a 5'7" chunk of muscle who wasn't satisfied with making the All-Post squad for one year. He chose to repeat his performance in 1954 and that he did without any hesitation. He received the second highest (159) number of votes for the team. Weighing 190 pounds, he not only has received honors for his post but was elected All-American in 1952 at Michigan State College.

CENTER, VINCE DELAURENTIS, SEVENTH INFANTRY RED BULLS — Vince was not too popular a player on the post, not because of his ball playing, but because he is just not the type to look for publicity every day. The most popular aspect of the 210-pounder was most widely acclaimed by post grid coaches who know him well. His spine-tlingling tackles threw many ball carriers for losses and when they were asked to tote the pigskin through the center of the Red Bulls' forward wall, they probably shattered at just the thought.

RIGHT GUARD, ANDY MYERS, 29TH INFANTRY BLUES — Myers will go down in the records as making a stellar showing in last Sunday's playoff tilt, even though that game was not included in the All-Post pickings. Having previously from the U. of Tenn., his 205-pound frame has collided with

Brigade Can Boast Finest Team Now

BY JACK MILLER

School Brigade won the 1954 football championship last Sunday afternoon and by defeating the 29th Infantry Blues, 16 to 6, members of the Ram squad can proudly and rightly claim they are the best on the post.

But just what made the Rams click so brilliantly? We don't think it can be pinpointed to any one individual on the team. Sure, Joe Fortunato is a line-driving fullback who gained yardage consistently all year. And Ed Crook's razzle-dazzle open field running paid dividends. Halfback Ed Hamilton was one of the best of the year. Quarterback Yale Lary threw passes as if he used a bomb-night. In the line, honkers could be heaped upon guard Frank Kush center, Joe McDonald, and John Middleton, tackle Fred Felbaum and a host of others.

The Rams were favored, back in October, to defeat the 29th Blues in their first encounter but faltered, 20 to 0. From there on out the Brigade aggregation ceased their winless playing and emerged victorious in each of the remaining contests.

Fans all over the post were praising Joltin' Joe Fortunato's brilliant through-the-line plausings and his end jaunts as well. Sure, Joe has done a tremendous job in all eight of the Rams' encounters. He has our whole-hearted praise for the chore he accomplished in 1953 and 1954.

But Joe's success story is not all his. For standing in front of him was an aggregation made up of muscle, the like of which is hard to endure by any opposing eleven.

But all added up, we believe the members of the Brigade Rams displayed football brilliancy last Sunday that was unparalleled during the entire schedule in 1954. Congratulations are therefore extended to the Rams for a hard-earned victory and the Fort Benning championship.

Tomorrow night in Briant Wells Field House the post hoop season will come to a brief halt for the Xmas holidays.

Play will continue on Jan. 3 when the PMG Medics take on the Seventh Inf. Red Bulls and the 29th Inf. Blues meet the 30th Inf. Bearcats.

It will be a long season for members of the eleven various basketball squads and their efforts should not go down the drain. Perhaps it was because the football season still was in progress, but crowds have been below expectation thus far at the basketball tilts.

But now that the grid season is ended, we look for "SRO" crowds to cheer their favorite team. Each aggregation on the post has talent in quite a number of its players, and their play should not continue unrewarded.

With the presentation of awards last night at the annual football banquet in the post cafeteria, Fort Benning's 1954 grid season ended. The 11 players who were selected as All-Post team members rightly deserved the beautiful gold ash trays presented them. In the center, and raised about five inches, was a characterization of the position for which awarded. For instance, on Tony Spennachio's ash tray stood a player in passing position and on the guard's ash trays there was a rip the opposing forward line apart.

There were four repeaters from last year's eleven. Three of them were from the championship Brigade Ram aggregation; they were fullback Joe Fortunato, halfback Ed Crook and guard Frank Kush. Andy Myers, 29th Infantry Blue guard, takes the laurels for the second straight year.

While on the subject of outstanding gridders we were astounded by the fact that not a single Benning player was selected on the 1954 All-Army first or second teams.

We did, however, place four boys on the honorable mention list. They were Fortunato, Crook, Conrad Deskins, 29th Inf. seacab, and John Snoderly, 30th Inf. center.

Crook and Fortunato received the honorable mention title in 1953 while Deskins and Snoderly made their initial appearance.

While browsing through the Dec. 11 issue of the Army Times we happened to run across the story that told how the voting was tabulated.

So in case you wonder why Benning players were not placed higher on the team and why others did not make it at all, we quote an excerpt from the Times:

"Thirty-two coaches of teams in the regimental leagues at Fort Campbell, Fort Bragg, Fort Riley, Fort Dix and Fort Benning were also invited to forward nominations for the All-Army team. Nominations were received from 14 of these coaches."

Cage Action Halts After Friday Tilts

With the Yuletide season practically here the post basketball league will take a breather after tomorrow night's doubleheader pitting the 15th Inf. against OC and Special Troops versus Third Div. Special Units. Play will resume on Jan. 3. After two weeks of play the 29th Infantry is the only undefeated team having beaten Brigade Tuesday for their sixth straight win.

Tonight's doubleheader has been moved into the Main Post old gymnasium instead of Briant Wells.

There were fewer guys named "Joe" in the TIC basketball action last week. As a result of last week's "plea" one more team roster has reached The Benneval office. Now there are six teams that have their rosters in, leaving five squads with guys named "Joe."

Field House because of the boxing card which was originally set up at BWHF.

At 7 p.m. it will be the CTC Commanders against second place Divarty and at 8:30 School Brigade will tangle with the fifth place 30th Inf. Flickertails in what shapes up to be a real thriller.

As usual forward Stan Weiss is expected to fill the bucket with the aid of his able team-mates, guard Frank Chan and six-footer Bill Thompson, another forward. All are Commander stalwarts.

Divarty took over second place position in the league Monday evening with his impressive victory over the PMG Medics and the Redlegs can still depend on former house of David star Vince Stankewitz, a 5'7" center. The Redlegs can also call on such able talent as Bill Sexton, guard, Capt. of the 1953 U. of Ala. hoop team. Divarty is favored in the tilt but CTC is expected to produce a number of surprises.

The 30th Inf. Flickertails are expected to increase their prestige in the league by downing the School Brigade Rams in tonight's second encounter.

Tomorrow night at BWHF the 15th Inf. Bearcats will tangle with the cellar OC Rangers, who are expected to falter to the wayside again.

Third place Special Units, Third Div., is favored to take its encounter with Special Troops in tomorrow evening's last duel, but predictions are that it will not be a simple chore. STC's Don "Bomb" Keats, Art "Chief" Amaya and Bill "Moe" Moland will lead the Raiders.

Dec. 13

Divarty's Don Stemmerich, six footer center, made good 11 field goals and four free throws to pace the Redlegs to an 87 to 74 victory over the PMG Medics. Center Pleasant Harris led the evening's scoring with his 27 counters while the Redlegs to an 87 to 74 victory over the PMG Medics. Center Pleasant Harris led the evening's scoring with his 27 counters while the Redlegs to an 87 to 74 victory over the PMG Medics.

Upgrading their 13 point lead at halftime, the Seventh Inf. Red Bulls went on to take an intramural thriller from the 30th Inf. Flickertails, 70 to 61. Joe "Bowling" 19 points led the evening's scoring with Joe Smith of the Flickertails, holding second place honors with 16.

Dec. 12

The 15th Inf. Bearcats were en route all the way in their 73 to 64 drubbing of CTC with Joe Cliff hitting the bucket for 17 points and Frank Chan leading the evening's scoring spree with his 21 pointers.

Paced by Frank Ostroh and Jock Sutherland, with 24 and 19 points respectively, the 29th Inf. Blues widened their first place lead by downing the STC Raiders, 74 to 67. STC's Don Keats and forward Bill Moland paced the losers.

Dec. 10

Divarty defeated Third Div. Special Units, 87 to 68, behind the "dead-eye" shooting of Don Stemmerich and Vince Stankewitz with 20 counters each. The 27 to 25 halftime edge fell after the third period and Spec. Units was never able to seriously threaten. Leading the Spec. Units Huskies' scoring was Joe Neigel, plus high for the evening.

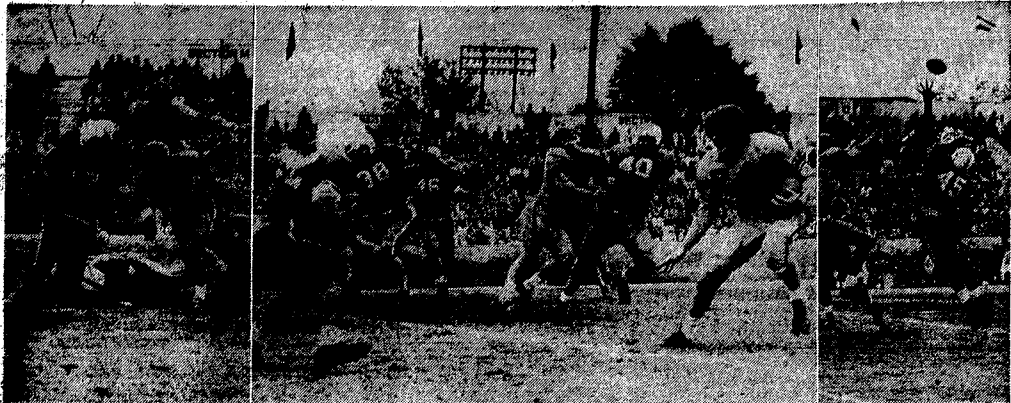

The 30th Inf. Flickertails fell to the loop wayside even though they defeated the OC Rangers, 84 to 72, behind the brilliant shooting of (Please See HOLIDAYS, Page 16) some of the post's top talent on the gridiron this year and he has no broken bones to show for it. That, in itself, is a marvel, for he is another repeater from last year's first team and it looks as though he should remain here for 20 years, he would make the team each year.

EIGHT TACKLE FRANK FULLER, 20th INFRANTRY BLUES—Formerly with the Los Angeles Rams and chosen as their Rookie of the Year in 1953, Frank stands to be one of the largest players at Bowling. And, without a doubt, on this season's top eleven. He weighs 240 pounds and has seen action in all the Blues' battles, playing the largest portion of each. He sometimes switched to right end and held on to passes with his glove-like fingers. His overall ability to harass ball carriers and make tackles far behind enemy lines. His skilled ball carriers usually looked to Frank to carry them through unmolested.

EIGHT END, CHARLES KUEHN CTC COMMANDERS—Chosen as Star of the Week previously, Kuehn had his hands full as he coached the CTC aggregation while brilliantly filling an end slot. His most famous asset, however, was his lightning-like dashes into opponent's backfields almost as soon as the ball itself reached the hands of a would-be ball carrier. He was seen time and again throwing runners for a substantial loss, thereby boosting the CTC aggregation's morale as a coach and leader should do.

Tonight's Fight Menu Woodley vs. Harp Headline Card

Dick Woodley and Allie Harp will square off at 7:30 in Bryant Wells Field House tonight in the main event of a full boxing card that promises a maximum of fistcutting action.

Woodley, one of Post Bowling's most popular fighters, will be working toward the Pan American games trophy, which he has been selected to attend in January, 1955. He will represent the 20th Inf. Flickertails in tonight's battle. Of a total of 103 fights, the popular lightweight will be after his 10th win when he steps through the ropes to battle to the finish with Harp. Woodley is a southpaw and was all EUCOM champ for three years prior to being crowned Bowling champ last spring.

Harp is also a well known pugilist and is considered in boxing circles as one of the best amateurs in the Army today. He has been fighting for eight years and during that period was champ at Camp Rucker in 1953 before going to 15th Infantry Bearcat encounter.

COACH: CARL BAILEY—His warm personality and congenial greetings are famous by-line of Carl. His highly improved Bearcat team ended the season in third place with its 5-1-1 record and Coach Bailey is to be commended for his quick thinking and heads-up sportsmanship.

on to win the crown at the All-Third Army.

Tonight's tentative card shapes up like this:

Class IV, lightweight — Leon Golding, 15th Inf., vs Brigades Bobby Herndon.

Class IV, light welterweight — James Harris, 15th Inf., vs Divarty's Robert Herd.

Class I, welterweight — George Hicks, 20th Inf., vs Billy DePriest, Seventh Inf.

Class II, lightweight — STC's Norman Now vs Mervin Simson, Seventh Inf.

Class IV, light middleweight — Leroy Tompkins, Seventh Inf., vs Richard Stevens, 15th Inf.

Class IV, middleweight — Charles Fluit, Seventh Inf., vs Leroy Hudson, CTC.

Class IV, heavyweight — Leonard Johnson, Third Div. Spec. Units, vs Brigade's Thomas Ship.

Class IV, light welterweight — Russell Gossett, CTC, vs Free Alton, 20th Inf.

Class I, light middleweight — Leon Hall, CTC, vs Tat Ellis, 20th Inf.

Class IV, welterweight — Charles Alford, Brigade, vs Claude Durbanne, Divarty.

Class IV, light heavyweight — John Rolle, Brigade, vs John Butler, Seventh Inf.

stands to be true in all cases. But one must also admit that a receiver is only as good as his most pass or. Tony won his nomination on his passing ability. He was the best signal-caller on the post or he would never be placed so high on the list. Threading the old needle with a pigskin was child's play and his receivers must stand ready to admit that his dead-eye passing ability was second to none.

LEFT HALFBACK, JOE GNERRE, 20th INFRANTRY BLUES—Known by fans as Little Joe, Gnerre never ceased to gain yardage when he toled the ball. He is an average halfback as far as weight is concerned, scaling 175 pounds, but what is so amazing is the small frame that the pounds are stuffed into. He stands just over 5'3" and eludes tacklers with precision.

RIGHT HALFBACK, ED CROOK, BRIGADE RAMS—Even though Ed had an injured leg he still danced and pranced all over the field and dodged would-be tacklers until they thought he was a greased pig. His antics became famous in 1953 when he entertained fans to no end. He weighs slightly over 140 pounds but that is no indication of the damage he has dealt. position of the Rams this season as well as last year when he also made the All-Post eleven.

FULLBACK, JOE FORTUNATO, BRIGADE RAMS—Joe would need no introduction at any athletic event on the post. He is an avid boxing fan and saw grid games practically every weekend besides playing in every weekend encounter. His fullback position was ably filled and to locate someone to fill his slot would be practically impossible. By leading the poll with 166 votes he repeated the high for the second straight year as he was able to high with 166 votes in '53. His line chases and pigskins are seldom exceeded in college or professional ranks and his nomination to the slot was practically automatic since the Rams' initial

Flyweight Champ KO'd Craig, Banks Up 30th Boxing League Margin

The 20th Inf. Flickertails went on a rampage at the Harmony Church Arena last Thursday night and by winning both of its Class I encounters increased its lead by a full 11 points in the TIC boxing league.

It was flyweight Leon Banks who contributed his knockout over Brigade's Regis Blair, 1954 post flyweight champion, Craig's decision over CTC's Leon Hall that boosted the Flicks' tremendous surge over second place 15th Infantry.

Final Target

Banks found his target after 1:58 in the second round and Blair was forced to retire from the squared circle for a period of four weeks, according to rules, which state that in the event a boxer loses his fight by a knockout he must not be permitted to fight for that period of time.

The only change in league standings arose when the Seventh Inf. Red Bulls showed defending champion CTC by the wayside for fourth place. The Red Bulls—wrested CTC's position by taking three out of five duels.

The evening's results:

Class IV bantamweight John "Tiger" Kelly, Third Div. Spec. Units, dethroned CTC's Henry Brown.

Class IV light welterweight Russell Gossett, CTC, dethroned Joe Danyl, Third Div. Spec. Units.

Leroy Hudson, CTC's Class IV middleweight, KO'd Alvin Smith in only 2:07 in the second round. Smith represented the 15th Inf.

Divarty's Don Bell TKO'd John Abernathy, Seventh Inf. Class IV welterweight.

Heavyweight Benny Taylor contributed to the Seventh Infantry's rise when he KO'd Brigade's John Rolle in 2:27 of the second round in their Class IV battle.

The evening's only Class III duel (Please See FLYWEIGHT Page 16)

NIGHTY NIGHT, ALL... While Richard Downs, 15th Inf. welterweight, heads toward a neutral corner, CTC's Homer Pinckney takes the full count in the second round of their battle at the Harmony Church Arena last Thursday night.

 Joe MacKubov's 22 points and Joe Skopplund's 17. The Rangers' high scorers for the night were Vince Coyie and John Nibert with 14 points each.

Dec. 8
 Closest scoring of the week's little was seen this evening when the CTC Commanders edged the PMG Medics, 77 to 84. Commanders 38, Medics 36.

The week's highest score was seen in the 25 to 63 onslaught of the league leading 29th Inf. over the Seventh Infantry's Red Bulls. Jack Butterfield and Frank Glenn led the Blues with 25 and 18 points respectively, while Joe Ruse, Red Bull forward, sank 14 counters. The battle placed the Blues in undisputed first place with a perfect record.

Dec. 7
 Frank Chan's 22 points were good enough to lead CTC's scoring for the evening but not enough to defeat the Special Units Huskies as the latter dumped the Commanders, 94 to 81. Joe Reigel dumped the ball into the hoop for a high of 40 points to pace the Huskies to their victory.

Holding a half-time 46 to 30 lead and following it through the final two periods, the 29th Inf. Blues captured another victory, 76 to 67, over the OC Rangers. Jack Butterfield and Frank Glenn again led the victors with 18 and 17 points respectively, but high for the evening was taken by the Rangers' Francis Barker with 22.

It's always a treat to "get home" — whether by plane, train or telephone. And usually, the faster the better.

That's why it's helpful to call by number when you make your visit by Long Distance telephone. When you give the operator the out-of-town number, she doesn't have to consult "Information" in the city you're calling and you'll "get home" faster.

You'll find out-of-town directories for frequently called offices at each telephone center. These centers are located at the Main Post, Sand Hill and Harmony Church area.

And remember, it's better for you to call the folks back home instead of their calling you, since you may be hard to locate. Charges can be reversed.

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens has disclosed some of the items in the legislative program that the Defense Department will submit to the incoming Congress. These include a "substantial pay raise for military personnel," permanent change of station allowances for service families, more reliable medical care for dependents, a comprehensive revision of survivors benefits, tax exemptions for retirement pay and equal retirement provisions among the services.

Two Air Force general officer promotion boards will meet around the beginning of 1955 to consider and recommend the promotion of ANG and AFR officers.

The Department of the Interior has reported a change in its policy of waiving admission, guide, auto permit and elevator fees for members of the Armed Forces in areas administered by the National Park Service. Servicemen on active duty will be admitted without paying these fees only when in uniform. The waiver applies only to the individual in uniform and not to any civilians in his company.

The Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery has announced that the delivery of influenza vaccine to rear admiral convened Nov. 30.

Selection boards to recommend Naval Reserve commanders and lieutenant commanders for promotion are scheduled for Jan. 4, 1955. Boards considering the promotion of lieutenants will meet Feb. 15, 1955, and for lieutenants, junior grade, May 3, 1955. A selection board to recommend Naval Reserve line captains for promotion to rear admiral convened Nov. 30.

The Army has established an advisory committee composed of six of the nation's leading industrial relations executives to study its domestic and overseas civilian personnel management program. The group, which already has held its first meeting, will report personally to Hugh Milton II, Assistant Secretary of the Army.

The Department of Defense has asked Congress to extend Federal social security coverage and benefits to all members of the Armed Forces.

The DOD suggestion is currently under study by a select Congressional Committee headed by Rep. William H. Bates (R-Mass.). It was submitted by the Committee on Retirement Policy for Federal Personnel of which Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson is a member.

Under the plan being considered, servicemen and women would be eligible for Federal old age and survivors insurance in the same way civilians are.

The Air Force has released a report showing what steps its major commands have taken during the last six months to increase the prestige of NCOs. These include delegation of authority commensurate with rank; inclusion of NCOs on airman promotion boards; elimination of manual details; establishment of separate messes, clubs and sleeping quarters, and paying of NCOs in order of rank.

The Marine Corps is seeking requests from captains and first lieutenants for training and assignment in field artillery and aircraft artillery, engineering and supply. Officers needed are those with previous MOS in occupational field is.

Pater Braves Courses

BY YE PATER

Your old father was one of many officers of TIC who braved wind and sun recently to fire course "A" with the carbine, or the qualification course with the pistol. Last summer I had the pleasure of attending a four-hour course in CBH—also a POR qualification prerequisite. Now, your old father has no quarrel with the concept of annual POR qualification. However, he feels—and this is so obvious it must have been considered at one time or another—that meeting annual POR requisites quite properly and profitably could be included in officer courses of instruction at our service schools.

EVERY ONE OF THE POR requisites—with the exception of immunizations—is touched upon during officers' courses at TIC. Hundreds of rounds are expended by student BIOC's, ACO's, and advanced students. Why couldn't 40 of them be incorporated into the "A" carbine course? Several hours are spent on CBR instruction of each class. Why couldn't we qualify the student officer in that category? The student officer, particularly the student in the Regular Advanced course, is completely divorced from a TOB unit for a protracted period. Chances are pretty good that he will miss his unit's annual POR effort in at least one of the categories. It does seem a little strange that a course designed to equip officers as future regimental (battalion company) commanders doesn't even "qualify" them to go overseas.

YE PATER WAS GRATIFIED to learn last week that his treatise on the refitting of "The Late Company B" has been clipped and sent to the technical adviser for the new opus in New York. Now if they'll only do something about that PFT before the semi-annual grind comes around again.

Holiday Set For Friday

Friday has been declared a holiday for all military and civilian personnel by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander.

President, Wilson, Stevens Wish Troops Happy Yule

Gens. Ridgway, Bolling, Harper Add Felicitations

President Eisenhower and the Army's top commanders have issued Christmas greetings to troops serving throughout the world. Their messages are published here.

Gen. Harper

Christians throughout the world again approach the Holy Day with a dedication never to rest until, in some way, they have helped those who seek to deny the divinity of the Master. Only by a display of strength, fortitude and devotion can we maintain those ideals we so richly cherish.

It is apparent that military strength is required in this effort. The Infantry Center is an important and integral part of our military establishment. Those of us in the military life have an important job to do. Only by doing it well can we remain strong as a nation and preserve the principles taught by Jesus Christ.

This has been a very successful year at The Infantry Center and The Infantry School. To each of you—military and civilian—I extend my best wishes for a peaceful, joyful Christmas and a New Year that will bring you success and an abundance of the good things of life.

When I placed Phenix City off-limits last June, I made the statement I would not again be placed on limits until there was conclusive evidence to indicate that law and order had been established permanently in that city. Until there is no question of doubt that gangsterism has been wiped out completely and that the police force has been revamped and is composed of individuals of integrity and trustworthy character who protect the law abiding soldier's rights, I will not entertain a suggestion that Phenix City be placed back on limits.

Gen. Harper Keeps Phenix Off-Limits

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, Tuesday morning issued the following statement concerning the off-limits status of Phenix City. "Several months ago, Major General Hanna visited my headquarters at Fort Benning and discussed the situation in Phenix City. Yesterday I returned his visit. Again we discussed in a very broad way the conditions which exist in Phenix City today. If I conveyed to General Hanna the idea that I intended to put Phenix City back on limits in two weeks, it was entirely unintentional. At this time I have absolutely no idea when it will be advisable to place Phenix City on limits.

General Hanna's investigation of conditions in Phenix City brought to light many abuses by the police force against Fort Benning soldiers. There were numerous cases of the use of unnecessary force and other police misconduct in arresting soldiers and evidence of false charges placed against them in the City Court for which they were later fined.

"When I placed Phenix City off-limits last June, I made the statement I would not again be placed on limits until there was conclusive evidence to indicate that law and order had been established permanently in that city. Until there is no question of doubt that gangsterism has been wiped out completely and that the police force has been revamped and is composed of individuals of integrity and trustworthy character who protect the law abiding soldier's rights, I will not entertain a suggestion that Phenix City be placed back on limits."

freedom and of brotherhood among men of good will. May this Christmastime inspire in all of us a warm and hurbly dedication never to rest until, in some way, they have helped those who seek to deny the divinity of the Master. Only by a display of strength, fortitude and devotion can we maintain those ideals we so richly cherish.

Christmas is the time of the year when all of us, no matter where we are, think more frequently of our relatives and friends. I know that many of you are spending this Christmas away from home and that you are doing it in the interest of protecting the security of your relatives and loved ones.

At this time I would like to send you my Christmas greetings and the good wishes of all Americans whose safety and security are enhanced by your service.

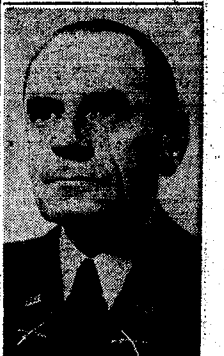

Adm. Radford

My sincere best wishes for a happy Christmas and a good New Year are with men and women of our Armed Forces throughout the world. Wherever you are, it is my heartfelt hope that your life will be richer with the knowledge that your hard work and your fine devotion to duty are greatly appreciated.

Let all of us, in this holiday season, recommit ourselves in an earnest resolve to preserve the fundamental values of our faith, our freedom, and our way of life in the spirit of true peace and security.

Sec. Stevens

To the men and women serving in our Armed Forces I extend my best wishes for Christmas and the New Year. We all hope and pray that the true spirit of Christmas will one

COL. W. F. BURBANK
STC Receives New Chieftan

Col. William Floyd Burbank of Chelsea, Mass., has assumed command of Special Troops Command, replacing Col. Earl F. Kinck, who became commanding officer of The Infantry School Communications Section.

A graduate of the United States Military Academy, class of 1925, the new commanding officer served in Central Burma and India-Burma from 1944 to 1946.

From April 1952 to November 1954, Col. Burbank served with Headquarters Central Command, Far Eastern Command, as chief of staff, deputy commander, and commander.

The new commander is familiar with Benning, having married the former Miss Odette Fernandez in Columbus in 1929. The Burbanks have two children, William Floyd Jr., and Arlene Gertrude, both attending colleges in the South. The Burbanks are residing at Apartment D, 1528 Wildwood Drive, Columbus.

Basketball Champions to Play Here in April

Benning To Be Host To All-Army Tournament

Sports fans at Benning will have a chance to see some of the Army's top athletic talent next year when the post plays host to a number of tournaments and inter-post events.

The All-Army basketball tournament will highlight the 1955 sports program in Briant Wells Field House April 4 through 9, Capt. Samuel Goldfarb, announced.

Encounters with the Keesler AF Base, Miss., and Eglin AF Base, Fla., have been scheduled. Even though the dates are unconfirmed, the bouts have been officially approved at Keesler and Eglin, with one representative from each AF to be named.

On Jan. 18, 19, and 20, the post boxing illuminations will see Benning's best pugilists prepare for encounters with the Keesler AF Base, Miss., and Eglin AF Base, Fla., in whatever your assignment your goal is to help bring closer a peaceful world of justice and Army eliminations. Last year the Doughboys finished fifth at the world's best tournament. Briant Wells Field House is expected to be packed to the rafters when the teams begin play and the hoop enthusiasts it will be a rare treat when former All-Americans tangle with top talent from every corner of the nation.

GIFTS FOR ALL... Santa had a gift for every child at the many CTC Christmas parties held last Saturday. It was a gala occasion for the children as this picture—taken in Hq. & Hq. Co., 29th Inf. Regiment—shows.

Service Chiefs Issue Greetings

day prevail throughout the world, and the sword will be sheathed forever. Each one of you who wears the American uniform—wherever you may be stationed—is playing a most important role in keeping that cherished hope alive. You represent the strength and determination of free men to stand firm against the mighty forces that would destroy all we hold dear.

On this joyous occasion I want all of you in the Army family—civilian employe and uniformed men and women—to know how proud I am of what you are doing in the cause of freedom. May you and your loved ones enjoy the full blessings of Christmas.

Gen. Ridgway
The coming of Christmas affords a welcoming occasion to send my sincere best wishes to each and every one of you—to men and women in uniform of every grade and rank, and to those who, in civilian positions, serve with no less fidelity, devotion and competence.
We all share many things. Some are material. Most are spiritual. Our Army, the finest in the world, is itself a material thing. So too is its uniform.

Yet all the things for which our Army stands, all the things which its uniform represents—its code of honor, its indomitable spirit, its proud traditions, its valor in war, its devoted service in peace—are spiritual. The values we give these things by our acts will determine our Army's future. These values are our heritage, given us in trust by the millions who served in the Army from the War of the Revolution to today.
As the Christmas Season draws us closer to Him whose life is a sure guide, may it strengthen our resolve to hand on these values in still finer form to the United States Army of future years.

Gen. Bolling
I extend heartiest greetings and very best wishes for a Happy Christmas Season to all personnel of Third Army.
Your loyal support and performance of duty throughout another year have been a material contribution to the strength of our great nation. The high standards of achievement you have maintained are a source of pride to me and, I am sure, a source of satisfaction to each of you.
It is my sincere hope that the coming year will bring you and those close to you every happiness, and that our combined efforts will continue to be successful in furthering democratic ideals and the cause of peace.

Ranger Training Starts for 27
An initial group of 27 officers has reported to 107th Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), to undergo what is one of the toughest courses of instruction in the Army Ranger training.
Physical development will be emphasized during the first phase of the cycle. Distance runs, physical exercise, and close combat techniques help prepare the future Rangers for the next phases of training in the Florida swamps.
The class, Ranger No. 8, will be joined by approximately 100 officers, West Point graduates, after they complete the Basic Infantry Officer's Course. The West Pointers will travel directly to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., to commence jungle training.

Seen, Heard, Told Around the Post

CPL. DONALD E. ENGLERT, assigned to the Transfer Point, was named Fort Benning's Good Soldier last week. He was cited for superior appearance and outstanding military bearing. Members of the patrol were SFC Marvin J. Brown and SFC Norman H. Ruth, 50th Medical Company.

THIRTY-ONE STUDENTS graduated Friday from the eight-week cooking course at the Third Army Food Service School. Honor graduate was WAC Pvt. Ethel M. Yamanaka of Honolulu, Hawaii.

COMPANY B, 29th Infantry Regiment, was chosen the best company of the month in the First Battalion at a formation recently. Lt. Col. Henry S. McDonald, Jr., commanding officer of the First Battalion, commended Company B for its excellent rating on unit training, supply, security, and individual performance.

MEMBERS OF THE Public Information Office, the School Brigade, received a letter from their photographer, Jerry W. Heaton, who was released from the service last month and who is working for the Lexington Leader in Lexington, Ky. Jerry worked with Brigade from September to November 1954. His work was outstanding and his photographic coverage of Brigade activities was thorough.

SECOND LT. JERRY W. PAT-

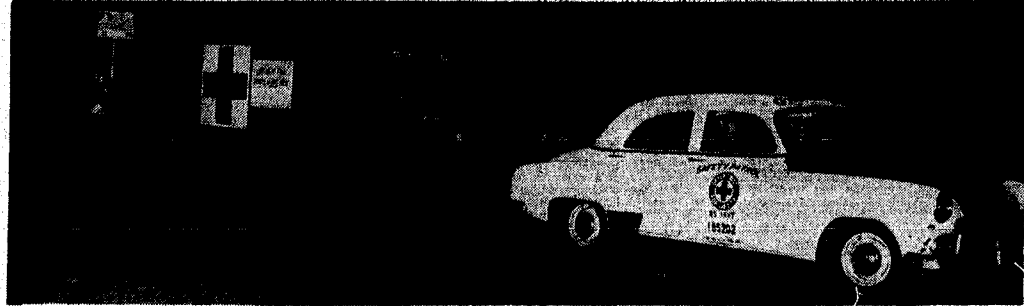

TON of Arlington, Texas, has assumed command of Company M, Fourth Student Battalion, the school Brigade. Lt. Patling was formerly Executive Officer of Company A of the Fourth Battalion.

MSGT. JAMES C. DUNN was recently assigned to Company E, Infantry School Detachment. Sergeant Dunn will serve with the Small Arms Committee of the Infantry School's Weapons Department.

CPL. JOHN APINIS was selected as soldier of the month for the 7th Combat Engineer Battalion for his outstanding efficiency in Company A supply room. As a result of the selection Cpl. Apinis was temporarily reassigned as supply sergeant of the 40th Engineer Company. This adds substance to the military slogan "solidifying your way out of a company."

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL'S basic officers class No. 10 held a formal reception last week in the Ande Room of the Main Officers' Mess. In the receiving line were Brig. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, assistant commandant, and Mrs. Fritzsche; Lt. Col. and Mrs. William M. Boyce, and Capt. and Mrs. Emil J. Stryker, Jr.

PFC. YSIDRO L. RIOS was a

A SOBER CHRISTMAS GREETING... Santa Claus rode through the 219th Field Artillery Battalion last Friday in a jeep following close behind an ambulance and safety patrol car. Santa carries a "Merry Christmas" greeting, but the other two vehicles reminded the men to drive safely and avoid a trip in an ambulance. Thousands of troops in the command signed a pledge to observe safe driving standards.

FINAL-RESTING PLACE... Of the plaque for the best mess hall of the year in the 29th Infantry Regiment is Company G. Receiving the award from Col. Earl Sutton, former commanding officer, (right) are Capt. Felix G. Clarke, commanding officer of Company G; Pfc. Robert Brown, Cpl. David Watson, and Sfc. James J. McKillip.

Bring a Guest to Dinner Troops to Enjoy Hearty Yule Fare

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Troops who remain at their posts during the Christmas holidays will be able to entertain immediate members of their family and one friend at the Christmas dinner in mess halls at practically all Army installations.

Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general, said there will be a nominal charge for each guest a soldier brings to dinner that day.

The dinner this year will be the traditional Christmas menu, complete from shrimp cocktail to nuts. The mess halls will be gaily decorated, and at many messes there will be souvenir menus which the troops and their guests may save as a lasting memento of the day.

The decorations and menus will be paid for out of Company funds, which come largely from the profits of the Post Exchanges and a theatres.
In addition to the shrimp cocktail, other items on the menu will be roast turkey with sage dressing and giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, candied sweet potatoes, buttered peas, assorted relishes, waldorf salad, hot rolls, butter, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, fruit cake, or

2 STC Privates Win Praise From General

Two men from Special Troops Command were commended by Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center Commander, for their personal appearance and soldierly bearing.

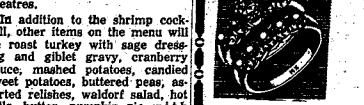

Cpl. Paul M. Ford of the 31st Army Band and Pfc. Donald G. Mayhew of Company D, First Special Troops Battalion, received letters from the commanding general stating that they were observed by the Good Soldier Patrol and were commended on their merits.

Air Force Gen. Tells BIOC Graduates One Atom Load Equals All Past Wars

A single airplane today can deliver an explosive force equal to all that delivered during World War II, the Air Force's deputy chief of staff for operations said here last week.

Major Gen. James E. Briggs, speaking at graduation exercises for 196 students in The Infantry School's basic officers class No. 4, said that as a result of this explosive force the U. S. must back its position at the world's bargaining tables with strength.

For Long Pull

"A position of strength at the council tables must be a position which spells out strength to the Communist mind," Gen. Briggs said. "It must be a position within our capability, and we must be prepared to maintain that position for the long pull without the economic or moral ruin of our country."

The two-star general declared that the greatest development in military power is the development of atomic weapons.

"I speak not only of bombs to be dropped from aircraft, but the whole family of atomic weapons now available to the armed forces of the world. One airplane today can deliver an explosive force equal to all that delivered during World War II. A small formation of airplanes can deliver an explosive force equal to all that delivered during the history of men. These are facts. They aren't fairy tales for frightening children," he asserted.

Gen. Briggs pointed out that the trend and nature of the world situation have changed radically and violently since 1945. He advocated the continual change in the nature of the U. S. military posture.

Tremendous Problems

The Air Force official told the Army officers that atomic weapons bring problems not only for generals and high military leaders but for Infantry Second lieutenants as well.

"The problems of battlefield dispersion, communications and increased mobility are and will be tremendous. These problems have not been completely solved, but they must be solved before much more time has passed — since time is running out," he declared.

Gen. Briggs then urged the newly commissioned lieutenants not to be led into error by history. "For example, the U. S. Army has seldom fought without virtual mastery of the air. The next conflict may be a different story, and you must always reckon with this possibility," he said.

Gen. Briggs pointed out that the Communists possess land armies, in being vastly larger than our own, and possess tactical air forces numerically superior to the U. S. by a large margin.

"We of the Western World outnumber the Communists at sea, but with little comfort, for Russia is the great land mass of the world and has never made a pretense of being a maritime power. Her concentration on the one facet of sea power which is the greatest threat to our world-wide interests is the submarine."

All this military power, Gen. Briggs said, is supported by vast natural resources and an expanding industry supported by technical know-how.

"In addition, Russia's military capability in the field of long-range atomic air power is expanding — a field in which the U. S. has heretofore had the sole capability," he declared.

54th Medics to Get PMG's Duties, Name

Effective Dec. 31, the Provisional Medical Group will be discontinued, it was announced Monday. It will be replaced by the 54th Medical Group which will be a major command at The Infantry Center.

Col. Frederic B. Westervelt of Pittsburgh, Pa., will command the 54th.

Fort Benning units to be attached to the redesignated group are the 24th Evacuation Hospital and the 50th, 551st, 690th and 542nd Medical Companies, all Reserve medical units.

A Fort Bragg ordnance unit has been assigned to Fort Benning and two other post units are to be redesignated in organization shifts.

The 54th Ordnance Ammunition Company, Detachment No. 1, previously at Fort Bragg, will support the post ordnance ammunition activities. Consisting of one officer and 70 enlisted men, the detachment is a part of Special Troops Command.

On Jan. 1, the 530th Field Artillery Platoon will become the 530th Field Artillery Battery. The unit, now consisting of one officer and 24 enlisted men, will increase its personnel to three officers and 40 enlisted men with the additional troops to be supplied by other Fort Benning units.

The increase in personnel, search lights and other equipment will enable the 530th to better support The Infantry School, officials said.

Occupation Units Headed for Rucker

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Camp Rucker, Ala., is to be the new home of the 51st Inf. Regt. which recently ended its occupation duties in the Adriatic city of Trieste.

Two other units previously in Trieste—the 517th Eng. Co. and the 8th Army Band—also will be assigned to Camp Rucker.

66th Signal Takes 50th Designation

A special ceremony marking redesignation of the 66th Signal Battalion as the 50th Signal Battalion was held Friday on French Field.

The 66th, a Fort Bragg, N. C., unit at Fort Benning for a troop training exercise, is an Army Reserve battalion and its color will be retired from active duty to New York City. The unit will return to Fort Bragg following the completion of the training exercise.

Fort Benning, Fort Bragg and Fort Campbell, Ky., officials were present for the changeover ceremony. The 122nd Army Band provided music.

TWO AGENCIES ASSIST IN SENDING MESSAGES... Lt. Col. Schuyler, Lt. Col. Schuyler, and Mrs. J. Mark Mote of USO-NCSS Club

'Hams' Air Messages To Soldiers Overseas

"Operation HAMGRAM" is helping to bring Christmas a little closer to home for Americans in this country and abroad.

HAMGRAM is the name given to a program designed to allow Fort Benning and Columbus area residents to send personal Christmas greetings to members of the Armed Forces and their dependents throughout the U.S. and overseas. It's a joint project of the Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS) at Fort Benning and the USO-NCSS Club in Columbus.

Authorized to operate an amateur frequencies and handle emergencies when land line communications fail, the post station has four transmitters operating daily from 8 a.m. to 10 or 11 p.m.

Messages are being sent free, according to Lt. Col. John J. Schuyler, MARS director. The MARS phone number is Fort Benning-3114.

Col. Schuyler said that messages must be of a personal nature and cannot be used for commercial purposes. He added that delivery cannot be guaranteed, but that it is effected 90 per cent of the time.

The program is receiving strong support and cooperation from the USO-NCSS organization which is receiving messages from Columbus citizens and submitting them to MARS.

The USO-NCSS portion of "Operation HAMGRAM" is directed by Mrs. J. Mark Mote of Columbus. Ham operators on duty at Fort Benning are Col. Schuyler, PFC Albert Winfield and Capt. William Scott. They are assigned to The Infantry School's Communication Department.

USO and Fort Benning MARS officials are planning to continue the message service after the holiday season.

"I'm going to make a deal with my laundry. I'll send back all my pins if they return all my buttons,"

'Eagles' Awarded Four New Colonels

Four Fort Benning officers have been notified by the Department of the Army of their promotion from lieutenant colonel to colonel.

They are G. A. Huff, commander of the Army Detachment at Lawson Army Air Field; Donn R. Pepke, chief of the Advanced Tactics Group, and Joseph R. Reeves, executive officer of the Artillery Committee, both of the Tactical Department; and Paul Roberts, deputy director of the Weapons Department.

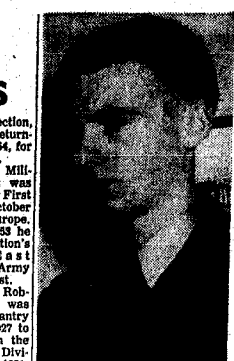

Col. Huff enlisted in the Army in 1933 and received his commission in 1941. He served with the 314th Infantry Regiment, 79th Division in Europe from February 1944 to June 1945, when he went to the Pacific. He was with the 162nd Infantry Regiment, 41st Division, and the 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Division, until returning to the U. S. in December 1946. As commander of the Second Battalion, Seventh Regiment of the 1st Cavalry Division, Col. Huff was in Japan for six months before taking his unit to Korea.

Col. Pepke, who entered the service in 1939, was a battalion adjutant in Hawaii from 1940 to 1941, and in 1943-44 commanded the First and Second Battalions of the 63rd Regiment, 24th Division, until returning to the U. S. in December 1946. He later was G-3 of the Sixth Infantry Division and commanded the 20th Infantry Regiment from 1945 to 1946.

In 1939, Col. Roberts went to Germany for duty in the long range planning section of G-4 Section, U.S. Army in Europe. He returned to the U. S. in October, 1954, for assignment at Fort Benning.

A 1939 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, Col. Reeves was assistant artillery officer at First Army headquarters from October 1943 to August 1945 in Europe. From August 1945 to July 1953 he was assigned to the G-3 Section's Plans Division at the Far East Command headquarters and Army Forces headquarters, Far East.

During World War II, Col. Roberts served in Europe, and was assigned to the Chinese Infantry School as an advisor from 1927 to 1949. In Korea, he was with the 34th Infantry Regiment, 25th Division, from July 1950 to March 1951.

"Travel by private vehicle will be controlled by phased departures to insure maximum travel during daylight hours," General Bolling also said. The Army Commander concluded, "It is necessary that every possible action be taken to prevent undue traffic congestion at all carrier terminals in the general geographical area of each installation, which will delay or interfere with the travel of civilian and military personnel."

Barracks To Repair Spec. Service Items

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Army units with special service equipment or supplies in need of repair have been advised by the Adjutant General's Special Services Division that such work can be done at any of the Army's five disciplinary barracks. The five disciplinary barracks are located at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., Ft. Crowder, Mo., Camp Gordon, Ga., New Cumberland, Pa., and Camp Cooke, Calif. Arrangements for the repair work to be done in the disciplinary barracks shops may be made with the commandant of the barracks concerned or by communicating directly with The Provost Marshal General, Attn: PMGR-ST. Direct communication is authorized of the Army's rehabilitation program for prisoners, which includes a comprehensive vocational training and employment system. This includes facilities for repairing many types of Army equipment.

Answer to Communism Is Strong U.S.

GENERAL'S SON WINS DIPLOMA . . . Second Lt. James E. Moore Jr., right, receives an Infantry School diploma from his father, Major Gen. James E. Moore Sr., who was guest speaker of graduation exercises for the basic officers' class. Gen. Moore is commandant of the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

A strong U. S. ground force, backed by air and sea support, is the answer to communism, said Major Gen. James E. Moore, commandant of the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., in an address here last Thursday. "As long as the Communists practice infiltration and open aggression, we must be ready. We must have a vast Army, Navy and Air Force — combat ready," the two-star general told nearly 200 graduates of the basic officers class.

He declared that to meet this threat the U. S. must increase its warning system, must strike back to destroy Communism, must protect its industrial interests in other lands, and must keep the sea lanes open. Gen. Moore's son, 2nd Lt. James E. Moore, Jr., was one of the officers to receive diplomas. Second Lt. Mack V. Furlow, Jr., of New Orleans, La. Runner-up, was Second Lt. Grayson C. Woodbury Jr. of Haver de Grace, Md. Gen. Moore was introduced by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry School commandant.

2 NG Firers Lead Non-Coms

First unofficial reports on record firing of the M-1 rifle by members of advanced non-commissioned officer class No. 2, 124th Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), give Col. Max Cuzzort, Batesville, Ark., and Cpl. Ernest D. Kurth, Fairbury, Nebr., a two-way tie for first place honors, each man firing 227 of a possible 250 points. Both high-firers are members of the National Guard—Cuzzort from the 93rd (Delta) Division, Arkansas National Guard, and Kurth from the 24th Division, Nebraska National Guard. Cpl. Cuzzort, 19, has been in the Guard two and one-half years. Considered a fair marksman in his parent unit, he attributes his high score to the superior training received here. Corporal Kurth, also with two years in the Guard, thinks Advanced NCO School is "The Best," and believes he will be much benefited by his six weeks at The Infantry School.

Rebs, Yanks 'Feud' Over M-1 Marks

The Rebels and the Yankees are at it again. This time it's in 122nd Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), where advanced non-commissioned officer class No. 1 is seeing some hot and heavy competition in rifle marksmanship. The Southerners "Allow as how" they are going to show the men from the North how to handle the M-1 rifle. The Yankees, meanwhile, aren't taking all this lying down. They say they are going to follow Sherman's example. This week, when the Company goes to the range for record firing, the competition should spur them to record-breaking.

Platoon Humming For Song Contest

The entire First Platoon (42 men) of 114th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), are sharpening up their harmony in preparation for their entrance in the All-Army Song Contest next February. These songs have been chosen by the Officer Candidates for their contest. "There's Nothing Like a Dame," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "You'll Never Walk Alone." "You'll Never Walk Alone," group leader, said, "We have plenty of talent to carry the songs well." Candidate Benny Hamilton will act as chorus soloist during his February meet.

Polio-Crippled Colonel Given Air Force Honor

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. — The United States Air Force decorated a patient at this polo treatment center, Lt. Col. Albert E. Orcutt, commander of Lawson Army Air Field at Fort Benning, bestowing the commendation medal and ribbon on Lt. Col. Walter W. Shegda of Falls Church, Va.

Col. Shegda, a veteran of 13 years in the Air Force as a bomber pilot and intelligence officer, flew 37 wartime combat missions without a scratch and then fell victim to polio in 1938 while assigned to a desk job in the Pentagon at Washington. He has been under treatment at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation here since last March.

The decoration was for "distinguished service" in the Intelligence branch of the Air Force. Col. Shegda previously had been awarded the air medal and the legion of

Audie Plays Pool in 29th

Capt. Audie Murphy, World War II's most decorated hero and well known Hollywood actor, played a game of pool at Camp Perry, 25th Infantry Regiment, prior to a dinner celebrating the arrival of the Third Division recently.

It is believed the pool table was the same one used by Capt. Murphy while he was here with the Company B, 19th Infantry Regiment, Third Division, during World War II. The table was identified as once belonging to Company B when it underwent a complete overhaul, revealing the company stamp.

M-Sgt. Joseph Kelsey was Capt. Murphy's opponent and victor in the game.

Children Hold P-TA Program

Children took over the December meeting of the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association with their annual Christmas program in the auditorium of the Main Post School.

A 45-minute program featured a chorologue by Holmes. "The Three Wise Men," presented by youngsters in grades four to eight and numbers by the school band. The verse choir of 20 with four readers told the story of the Wise Men to the accompaniment of a 40-voice choir. The school band played Largo, Symphony No. 5 in E Minor, "From The New World" by Dvorak, and "Silent Night" by Gruber.

The January theme of the P-TA will be "How We Operate Our Schools," with a meeting scheduled tentatively for Jan. 25. Emphasis will be placed on school finances and how they are used.

Lt. Col. L. H. Johnson, Jr., president, said part of the meeting would be devoted to a discussion and finalization of the P-TA budget. Members will decide how these funds will be used to augment the operating budget.

Col. Johnson said parents who are not already members of the organization are being asked to contact room mothers or teachers before the January meeting.

"Did you get home from the party all right last night?" "Fine, thanks, except that just as I was turning into my street some idiot stepped on my fingers."

Jury foreman: "We find the defendant gorgeous, breath-taking, sweet, lovable, and — oh, yes, not guilty."

12th Annual 'Baby Derby' Is Planned

The first baby born to an enlisted couple at the post hospital in 1955 will receive more than $100 in merchandise donated by Columbus merchants in cooperation with The Bayonet.

L. Ray Patten, advertising manager of The Bayonet has announced plans for the 12th annual Baby Derby, 30 merchants will bestow gifts on the lucky baby and his parents.

The contest is open to all enlisted personnel at Fort Benning and the babies must be born at the post hospital. In case of twins, triplets or even quads or quintts the first baby born will be considered the winner.

Tank Battalion Boasts 100 Per Cent Record In Taking Troop I&E Courses

HAWAII—Book learning with a practical twist is a 100 percent record of the 89th Tank Battalion of the U.S. Army's 25th Infantry Division.

The unit was the first of its size in Eighth Army to attain full participation in the Troop Education program while in Korea.

Every man in the battalion, from the commanding officer to the newest recruit, has enrolled in a group study class or United States Armed Forces Institute correspondence or self-teaching course. This unique goal was achieved through a comprehensive program to link troop education with the military mission of the organization. The program was begun with a centralized information drive. Initiated by Lt. Col. Taylor C. Hayes of Oak Ridge, Tenn., battalion commander, and administered by First Lt. Richard Van Ness of Colchester, Ky., troop education officer, the drive got under way in mid-April.

Only Reason
"The only reason why every soldier does not join the troop education program, as I see it, is ignorance of its advantages," said Van Ness. "We found that once a man knows what it's all about, he joins the program."

Besides explaining to the men that they could better themselves by taking part in the educational program, Van Ness showed them how it would better their chances for promotion. "Men who take the courses related to their jobs in the battalion are able to do those jobs more efficiently," he said.

After the applications began to come in, the competitive spirit in the battalion took over to complete the job. Charts were posted showing numbers of men enrolled in the program, and the companies soon started vying with one another to see which one could be the highest. When one company reaches the 100 percent mark, the others quickly followed suit.

New replacements to the battalion were given orientations on the advantages of troop education. Through the combined efforts of command and TIE personnel every man in the battalion had enrolled in less than one month.

USAFI Courses
Although soldiers of the battalion are enrolled in every type of course offered by USAFI, most of the men are taking courses in auto-mechanics, electricity, and other technical subjects. "All of

Ex-Camper Likes Bivouac

The ants, animals, and aches of bivouac hold no terrors for Officer Alexander, a member of the 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

An ardent outdoors fan, Tingridis has spent a lot of time camped out in the civilian version of bivouac in the wild mountains of California.

Some time ago, while deer hunting with a companion in Boquet Canyon, Calif., his camp was surrounded by a pack of coyotes during the night and Tingridis was forced to stay awake, firing his rifle at regular intervals to keep the predators away.

Coyotes, usually wary, become bold when running in their fall and winter packs, says Tingridis. Judging from the experience above, he is the man who should hunt. An even more hair-raising incident occurred last winter while hunting in the Santa Barbara Mountains. Stationed with his father on a deer stand with dusk closing in, Tingridis was startled by a hissing sound. He turned around and saw a mountain lion crouched about 75 feet away. His astonished shout frightened the cat, which disappeared in a flash, giving one of the mountain lion's well-known cries. OC Tingridis didn't get a shot, but says he'll never forget that wild, woman-like scream.

Therefore, a trip into Fort Benning's tramped, shot-up, and shell-ed woods will be an anticlimax for the roving candidate.

CTC SOLDIERS ARE MAKING SURE THIS WON'T HAPPEN TO THEM

5,000 Put Safety Into CTC Spotlight

BY BOB HARRIS

Five thousand volunteer names on a safe driving pledge are signatures to the building safety campaign of the men of the Combat Training Command.

These men have signed a pledge that they will obey driving laws, use caution, and practice general courtesy while operating a motor vehicle. These men have also pledged not to attempt long trips without adequate time and sleep or after taking alcoholic beverages.

The drive has swiftness to "over drive" and everybody expects to live through a merry Christmas and a prosperous new year. However, it is during this season that undertakers brace themselves for overflow business as the result of the staggering highway death toll.

★ ★ ★ Apologizing Pfc. Wins School Honors

Pfc. John C. Young had been in Company D, Fourth Student Battalion The School Brigade, for but a few days when he was told that he was selected for the Infantry Center Leadership School.

He countered that he did not have enough time to prepare for the school and that he did not wish to leave an unfavorable impression by doing inferior work at the school.

Several days after he completed the course, however, the company received through channels a letter of commendation for Young's distinguished service at school.

Two enlisted men of the 408th Engineer Company, 78th Engineer Battalion, have recently reenlisted for a period of three years. They are Sfc. Charles L. Butler and Sfc. James F. Witherspoon.

Now a Candidate Former Sarge Honored

Officer Candidate Archie G. Malcolm, 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), was recently awarded an Eighth Army Certificate of Achievement for services in Korea from February to July 1953.

Lieut. Col. Franklin R. Brickles, battalion commander, presented the certificate to the 25-year-old former master sergeant who served with the United Nations Command, Military Armistice Commission, during Allied-Communist negotiations in Munsan-Ni, Korea. A veteran of eight years Army service, Malcolm was first sergeant of Headquarters Company, Support Group, UN Fifth Armistice Commission, which played an important part in setting up the itineraries for Allied-Communist discussions.

"Operation Glory," the dramatic return of UN Prisoners of War Dead in August 1953, was one of the major projects OC Malcolm took part in.

Recently Malcolm has been showing his acting talents behind the Victory Lodge footlights.

Modern St. Nick Santa Claus Delivers By Copter, Jeep, Tank

A helicopter hardly looks or sounds like a group of reindeer, but a "whirlybird" was Santa's official transportation from the "North Pole" to Combat Training Command last week.

Later, Santa continued his visits via jeep, tank, and other means of military transportation.

Parties for the families of various units were held on Friday and Saturday with Santa making his first stop at the 506th Helicopter Company. The children eagerly anticipated Santa's "whirlybird" as it came in for a landing beside the mess hall. Several of the kids jumped up and down with excitement and ran to greet Santa as he emerged, dressed in his traditional padded red suit and fluffy white beard.

FORT BENNING'S BEST IN 1954 . . . The annual football banquet held last week in the main post cafeteria was a special event for the 12 men pictured above as they received their trophies for outstanding play during the season just ended. Eleven of them were members of the All-Post team while Carl Bailey, back row, second from left, was selected as Coach of the Year. Others are, kneeling, left to right, James "Goose" Jones, left end; Bob Wilga, left tackle; Andy Myers, right guard; Vince DeLaurentis, center; and Frank Kusi, left guard. Standing, Charles "Killer" Kuchin, right end; Coach Bailey; Joe Fortunato, fullback; Joe Gnerre, left halfback; Tony Spennocchio, quarterback; Ed Crook, right halfback; and Frank Fuller, right tackle.

BENNING CHAMPS . . . Coach Arthur Falkenstrom, right, School Brigade, accepts the trophy for the Rams, top grid team of 1954, from Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, TIC commander, at last Wednesday's gala football banquet.

RECEIVES AWARD . . . Ed Hamilton, right, School Brigade halfback, was chosen the MVP of the 1954 grid season and is shown receiving the trophy from Col. Donald Washington, School Brigade commanding officer, at last week's grid feast.

TIC Grid Players Lauded at Banquet

An estimated 500 football players and their special guests were treated with food and witticisms last Wednesday evening at the annual football banquet in the main post cafeteria. Coach Wally Butts, U. of Georgia mentor, delighted the audience with wise-cracks aimed mostly at himself and the Georgia Bulldogs when he rose from his chair to take over the chore of special speaker for the event.

Col. Praises 29th Coach

However, for 11 players, it was a special occasion as they walked up to Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, TIC commander, to receive their All-Post awards. In addition to the All-Post team being honored, the School Brigade Rams were presented the Benning Bowl trophy for their outstanding showing in that annual contest in Columbus' Memorial Stadium. Ed Hamilton, Brigade halfback, was presented the Most Valuable Player trophy while Andy Myers, 29th Inf. guard, was given the Best Sportsmanship trophy.

BULLDOG MENTOR . . . U. of Georgia's head grid coach Wally Butts, center, made one of his famous after-dinner speeches at the grid banquet honoring Benning's football eleven in the main post cafeteria. Spotlighting SPORTS Hamilton, Myers Eorn Top Awards

By JACK MILLER
When halfback Ed Hamilton and guard Andy Myers received their special awards at last week's gala grid banquet it marked a memorable occasion for the two. Ed received the most valuable player title while Andy was tagged the best sport in the Post's eight first-class football elevens.

To receive either of those awards is an enormous honor. It takes, besides the hard scrimmaging and playing, a whole lot of patience and "guts." There are few gridders as well known on this post as these two men. When either walks into a crowded room he is noticed almost immediately. That, in itself, is an accomplishment among our 40,000 troops.

What makes the choice of Hamilton to the all-deserved honor so unique is the fact that players and coaches did not even vote him into the All-Post team. Why, then, was he so outstanding on the gridiron and why was he presented the most valuable player award? He simply was a great asset to the School Brigade Rams in that he played football with the zest and zeal of an All-American any coach would be proud to possess. He did not gain yardage every time he was called upon for the toting chores. Nor, for that matter, does any other grider—he be sand-lot or All-American.

But when the Ram quarterback called a play which designated it was Hamilton's time to do the toting, 10 Rams were fairly sure they would not be at that scrimmage line any more. For Ed was a break-away runner who tried earnestly to complete his mission, and during the 1954 season he was famous for picking up a Ram first down under the most difficult conditions.

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, TIC commander, summed it all up at the banquet in few words when he commented, "Today's leaders in athletics will be tomorrow's leaders in wars."

Myers has been one of the most versatile guards in all the 29th Inf. battles. He can tackle anything within reach and seldom did a ball carrier ever get by him. To receive the Best Sportsmanship award is quite an honor to anyone. It takes a lot of lip biting to hold back the words that others let fly at the refs. and opposing players.

But Andy is a quiet, likeable sort of fellow in whom everyone puts confidence and faith.

In his 13 years of roughness on the gridiron he has toted the pigskin across the goal line only once. That was in the 29th-STC tussle. He toted six yards after a hand-off on the old guard-around play.

He stopped by the office last week and requested the photo which was published in the Dec. 9 issue and we promptly obliged after he meekly commented, "I have been playing football for 13 years and that was the first touchdown I ever made—so the picture will be nice for a keepsake."

Before Allie Harp's terrific main-event appearance last Thursday we ambled up to him and gazed at the flashy clothing he had poured himself into.

There he stood with a gray wool suit, white shirt, loud tie, and blue hat.

We humbly inquired, "Aren't you fighting tonight, Allie?"

"Sure am", he replied. "Well, then, what are you doing in this double-breasted suit, making like a magazine model?"

He replied: "It's like this: You see, I feel that a fighter, good or bad, should look as prosperous as possible. Even if he doesn't have a cent he should try to look like a million."

Allie was as calm as a sleeping infant and his outward appearance made him look more like somebody dressed for Sunday School than a Class I lightweight minutes before his first bout of the season. Just prior to his entering the ring we stepped into his dressing room and took another look at last year's third Army champ.

Again, he was poised personified and while trainer Jimmy Cooper and coach George Loveless went through final preparations with him the dressing room became crowded with curious onlookers. They knew that here was the one boxer on post who resembled a professional and they all wanted to get a good peek at him.

And if you didn't get a chance to see him in action you missed a real treat for Allie "looked like a million" there, too.

29th, Divarty Run 1-2 in TIC Hoop Race

The 29th Inf. Blues remained undefeated in the TIC basketball hoop this week after their brilliant 95 to 61 drubbing of the School Brigade Rams in Briant Wells Field House last week. Strengthening their hold on second place is Divarty (6-1) while Third Div. Special Units broke a third place tie winning two and dropping one. Seventh Infantry dropped all the way to fifth place losing one game.

Special Troops moved two notches into fourth place. Other changes in the loop standings saw last week's three way tie for last place burst open with CTC moving into an eighth place dead-lock with Brigade, while the OC Rangers and PMG medics hold 10th and 11th places respectively. A roundup of the week's titles follows:

Dec. 17

Encouraged by a 49 to 33 halftime lead the 15th Inf. Bearcats showered the bucket with excellent precision to emerge victorious over the OC Rangers, 85 to 73. Joe Kipp and Joe Gift paced the Bearcats with 23 points each while John Nibert led the evening's tallies with his 20. While the scorekeeper virtually had to use a calculator to keep up with the Special Troops Raiders, the Third Div. Special Units aggregation was having a difficult time holding the Raiders to their 105 to 95 victory. STC led all the way behind the field goal brilliancy of guard Gerry Robbins who tallied for 32 points but couldn't keep up with the Huskies' Joe Riegel, who hit for a high of 48.

Dec. 16

Divarty's Don Stemmerich connected with 18 pointers to pace the Redleg victory over the highly touted CTC aggregation, 80 to 58 in Briant Wells Field House. Forward Bill Thompson led the night's tallies with his 20 points.

It was a nip and tuck affair for the Brigade Rams, who edged the 30th Inf. quintet, 62 to 58, behind the accurate shooting of Joe Economo, who hit for a night's high of 19 points while Tony Spennocchio paced the Flickertails with his 14 counters.

Dec. 15

Holding a 49 to 33 margin at halftime the OC Rangers continued on the rampage to down PMG Medics, 84 to 68, with Francis Barker dumping the oval into the basket for 34 points.

The Special Units Huskies, Third Division, took advantage of their 38 to 30 halftime tally and behind the brilliant scoring of Joe Riegel's 7 points went on to defeat the Seventh Inf. Red Bulls, 84 to 77. Allan Grandcolas paced the Red Bull five with his 22 points.

Dec. 14
Forward Bill Moland's foul shot, with eight seconds remaining in the game, proved to be the deciding factor in STU's 84 to 83 victory over the 50th Inf. Flickertails tonight at the Harmony Church Gym. High score for the evening was STU's Don Keats with 34 points. Joe Riegel continued his leading pace with a high of 37 points to boost the Special Units Huskies to a 91 to 81 margin. Francis Barker led the OC Rangers with 30 points. The 29th Inf. Blues held onto their No. 1 position as Frank Glenn hit for 31 points to lead the Blues to a 95 to 61 drubbing of the Brigade Rams. For Brigade it was Joe Economo's 11 points which were highest.

POOSH 'EM UP . . . Joe Anderson, right, shoots a field goal for his Third Div. Special Units quintet while OC Ranger Francis Barker stands ready for the rebound in TIC hoop action last week in Briant Wells Field House. Special Units won, 91 to 81.

CTC'S STARTING FIVE . . . CTC's starting lineup get last-minute instructions from Coach Andy Myers, right, before entering a contest in the Fort Benning Intramural Basketball loop.

Ex-Champ Whips Pan-Am Hopeful

Harp Thrills BWFH Crowd

Former Third Army champ Allie Harp fought to a glorious victory last Thursday night when he copied a decision over lightweight Dick Woodley in Briant Wells Field House.

Harp was the aggressor in all of the three rounds, but it wasn't until the third that he found his target completely and let go with a straight right that sent Woodley reeling to the canvas for an eight count. Seconds later Harp threw a right upper cut followed by a powerful left hook that caught south-paw Woodley square on the jaw.

The second fall saw a count of five before Woodley could find himself. The main event of a 12-hour card, finale of 1954 at Fort Benning, was eagerly awaited by the some 500 fans who had seen little exciting action prior to the Harp-Woodley duel, which sent blood pressures soaring midway through the first round as Harp threw bone crushing blows to the body and head of Woodley.

Immediately following the bout Harp's fans swiftly displayed their appreciation of the pugilist by raising him to their shoulders and carrying him to his dressing room where a throng of fans was waiting to congratulate him. Woodley was recently selected to attend the Pan-American Games tryouts in San Antonio, Tex., in Jan., 1955. The loss Thursday evening, however, will have no effect in the trials.

Other results of the evening follow:

Divarty's Claude Dupuchlan, Class IV welterweight, decisioned School Brigade's Charles Allord. Francis Apo, 30th Inf., Class III light welterweight, decisioned William Jones, 15th Inf. Class IV light heavyweight John Rolfe, Brigade, decisioned Duane Butcher, Seventh Inf. pugilist. The evening's fourth bout saw Richard Stevens, 15th Inf., fall in the first round to the count of eight, then retaliate to cap a decision over Leroy Tompkins, Seventh Inf. Class IV light middleweight, Welterweight Sammy Baker, 15th Inf., decisioned George Hamlin, 30th Inf., in a Class III duel. Billy DePriest, Seventh Inf. Class

WEARY WOODLEY WALLOPED . . . Dick Woodley, CTC Class I lightweight, takes a count of eight as Allie Harp looks on in last Thursday's main event at Briant Wells Field House. Harp went on to win via decision.

I welterweight, decisioned 30th Infantry's George Hicks. Another decision was seen when Divarty's Robert Brazil topped STC's Julian Bryant, Class III welterweight.

Robert Herd, Divarty, decisioned James Harris, Class IV light welterweight from the 15th Inf. The second and final TKO of the evening occurred when Leon Golding, 15th Inf., subdued Brigade's Welterweight Herndon, in a Class IV light-weight encounter.

Only heavyweight battle of the night saw Leonard Johnson, Special Units, Third Div., decision Brigade's Thomas ship in a Class IV heavyweight.

Class III welterweight Lewis Gilbert Bramley.

HOOKED . . . In for two points is a field goal by Glenn Thompson of the 29th Infantry Blues. This action took place as the 29th defeated the School Brigade quintet 95-61 in the last pre-Christmas game for the Blues.

The pace setting 29th Infantry Blues have won all six of their games by an average margin of 10 points per game to lead the TIC basketball loop.

The starting five, Frank Glenn, Jock Sutherland, Frank Ostruh, Glen Thompson and John McMahon, form a single punch worth an average of 72 points per game while the entire squad averages 84 points in comparison to their opponents, who can claim only 65 per cent.

The duo of Glenn and Sutherland is the hottest one-two punch on the TIC courts so far this season. Jock, known as "Mr. Outside" with tremendous accuracy from the perimeter of the court but when he is closely pressed, a snappy pass to Glenn — "Mr. Inside" — is a very effective means of producing field goals. Glenn, who averages better than 20 points per game, is particularly effective in organization but should be ready for post-holiday competition.

Candidate Sully Fontaine, a veteran with the eyes, will be chief of the still-forming 12th OC fencing team.

A newcomer to this year's squad is Ostruh, who has proved himself a valuable asset to last year's Fort Benning champions with his 15 point average per game. He is a well rounded ball handler and can score from the inside and outside with equal grace. Glen Thompson, 6' 4" center-forward averages the majority of his 11 points per game by tapping in rebounds and hooking his shots from the key section of the court. McMahon is the hardest driving man on the squad and times his driving layup shots with Sutherland, the playmaker and high man in the assist department on the team.

John Blaski, Bedy Massey, Duane Leggett and Herbert Thorne add effective depth to the powerful starting five.

Realistic Display In 112th

In conjunction with the post safety campaign for the holiday season, the 112th Transportation Battalion, Special Troops Command, claims the most impressive display and challenges all comers to produce one that is more effective.

One alighty "light-headed" who walks around the corner of battalion headquarters is likely to get the surprise of his life. He will walk straight into an "accident victim" laid out for the world beyond.

The men of the battalion, which is made up primarily of Army drivers, realize more than the average individual the terrific risks and the extreme hazards of driving. They realize it especially during the season when road conditions are not at their best and are choked with millions of people trying to get home for the Yuletide. Being all this in mind, the officers of the battalion pooled their ideas and came up with this "out of the world" display. Much of the credit for its effectiveness goes to the two Columbus business establishments, Britton and Dobbs Funeral Home, who donated a coffin and Kirven's Department Store for a manikin.

If anyone doubts the potency of this set-up, just walk into Headquarters of the 112th and if you don't think you're at a wake, there will be several persons about to ask you where your glasses are.

The Army Takes Care of Its Own Through AER

WASHINGTON — The Army takes care of its own. By giving emergency financial aid, an organization known as Army Emergency Relief assists thousands of soldiers and their families during periods of distress. Financial aid given by AER is made possible primarily by voluntary contributions from U.S. Army officers and soldiers throughout the world. Once each year, Army members are asked to make a small contribution to help continue this instrument of welfare and morale.

Indicative of its success is the fact that since its organization in 1942, AER has disbursed more than $25,000,000 in loans and grants to more than 270,000 persons. Last year AER aid totaled $2,000,000 to some 20,000 persons. This year, current expenditure rates indicate the total will reach $3,000,000 to 30,000 members of the Army and their families. Ways in which AER has been able to ease the weight of tragedy or to lighten the burden of unusual family responsibilities are illustrated in a few typical cases from the files of AER.

Upon a sergeant having fallen the burden of paying for a series of operations when his mother became seriously ill. His request for financial aid was met by a loan of $600 and an outright grant of $500.

Sgt. Granted $685
In the case of another soldier a loan of $500 was authorized to defray funeral expenses of his mother, a dependent, and also to pay hospital and doctor's bills of his wife at birth of their fourth child. He was unable to meet these emergencies without help and AER came to his rescue.

A grant of $685 was made to a sergeant, who was serving in Germany, to assist his wife and five children when their home in the United States and nearly all their possessions were destroyed by fire.

His mother insisted on assuming the debt, although they were under no obligation to do so. Since its inception in 1942, AER has expanded its facilities to keep in touch with Army forces throughout the world. This worldwide deployment and consequent dislocation of service families has brought into being 189 AER operating sections. One hundred and thirteen sections are located on Army posts in the United States, the remaining 76 sections overseas.

In Many Lands
Today AER stand ready to meet the emergency needs of Army people in Germany, France, England, Austria, Iceland, Greenland, Canada, Korea, Japan, Okinawa, Panama, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Thailand, Brazil, Africa, Alaska, the Antilles and the Caribbean.

Experience shows that most causes for financial assistance arise because of:

1. Non-receipt of pay, allotment or allowances.
2. Loss of pay.
3. Acute illness when government facilities for treatment or hospitalization are not available.
4. Funeral expenses of dependents.
5. Travel expenses due to emergencies.
6. Payment of initial rent, or payment to prevent eviction.
7. Privations of dependents due to any cause.

714th Receives 17 M-48 Tanks

Seventeen M-48 tanks, the latest in combat armor equipment, have arrived for use in support of Infantry school activities.

Nearly four tons heavier than the M-47s which they replace, the new models also have a wider track and larger turret although operated by a smaller crew.

They also can mount the .99-mm gun and the .50 and .30 caliber machine guns.

The tanks have been delivered to the 714th Tank Battalion, bringing the total in use by that unit to 25. They will provide the tank battalion with the latest combat equipment according to Lt. Col. G. B. Vivian 714th commander.

Col. Vivian said that additional M-48s are expected until the 714th is brought to full strength. Some of them will be used in regular armor training.

The battalion's 29th Tank Company, commanded by 1st Lt. Edward Keeler, will be the first to use the new armor vehicles in demonstrations for students.

Scene 1 — Korea in 1951. Capt. Kelly is commanding officer of "G" Company, 15th Infantry Regiment.

Scene 2 — Enter Pfc. Richard P. Cassidy, like any normal replacement.

But Cassidy proved an entirely different type. During the short time he was with G Company, he was promoted through the ranks to M-Sgt. Then came the question. Capt. Kelly needed a first sergeant. Should he make Cassidy his "first" or get a battlefield commission for him?

It was a hard choice but he decided on the latter and M-Sgt. Cassidy became Second Lt. Cassidy and remained assigned to G Company.

Shortly afterward Capt. Kelly was evacuated to a hospital in Japan and Lt. Cassidy followed him one week later. Capt. Kelly left the hospital one day before Cassidy arrived.

Their next meeting was at Fort Benning when Capt. Kelly was a patient in the U. S. Army Hospital there. In walks Cassidy for a visit. Cassidy had been transferred back to the States and was assigned to Benning as detachment commander of the Food Service Detachment, TTC. Subsequent assignments were Basic Officers' Course, STC, and then to Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Special Troops Command, as executive officer, once again with Capt. Kelly.

As an example of the feeling between the two, a quote from Lt. Cassidy: "As long as I can see the bald spot on the back of his head, I'll follow him through hell."

Promotions Given Out In 148th Trans. Co.
The following members of the 148th Transportation Company (Light Truck), Special Troops Command, were recently promoted:

- To corporal: Gordon Lawton Jr. and Daniel Miller.
- To the grade of private first class: Jesse W. Allen, Carroll G. Anderson Jr., Albert R. Ferguson, Guy B. Freeman, Norman G. Mathis, Jim McIntyre, Wilho E. Paulson, Robert C. Rowan, Bob L. Valentine, and Joseph T. Wilson.

Instructor Commended

An instructor in the weapons department has been presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant or meritorious service in Korea.

First Lt. Ralph E. Jentsch of Detroit, Mich., then assigned to Company C, Seventh Infantry Regiment, Third Division, was cited for outstanding work as an instructor at the non-commissioned officers academy in Korea from March 9 to Aug. 30, 1954.

Assistance in the amount of $250 was given to a sergeant in order to permit a delicate operation on an infant child who was born with a serious deformity. The operation was a success; the child is recuperating.

Dedication ceremonies for the new general purpose room at Custer Terrace School were held last Friday.

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, dedicated the 52-foot by 120-foot addition at a ribbon-cutting ceremony which also marked the opening of seven new classrooms and two administrative offices. The general purpose room can be used as an auditorium or cafeteria.

Eight other classrooms at Custer Terrace have been renovated, according to Major Frank McCall, school officer.

Presentation of a flag-pole by the Fort Benning chapter of the National Sojourners was made by Lt. Col. Marcus H. Flintler, followed by a flag-raising ceremony. Included on the program were musical selections by the 516th Army Band, directed by Warrant Officer Amilcare Rocchini of Baltimore, Md.

4 Swap Gold For Silver Leaf

Four Fort Benning officers have been promoted from major to lieutenant colonel, the Department of the Army has announced.

They are Lt. Col. Leroy H. Adams, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C.; Lt. Col. John E. Burke of Long Island City, N. Y.; Lt. Col. James M. Gibson of Winthrop, Mass.; and Lt. Col. Sumner R. Nelson of Charleston, S. C.

Col. Adams, who is assigned to the Department of Non-Resident Instruction, is presently a student in the associate officers advanced course. He has been here since June 1951.

A veteran of 38 months overseas service, he entered the Army in January 1942 and was with the 3rd Division during World War II. Col. Burke, an instructor in the Tactical Department, is a veteran of 62 months overseas service, including duty in the Southwest Pacific, Korea, and Japan. He has been at Fort Benning since Aug. 10.

Col. Gibson, also an instructor in the Tactical Department, has three years of overseas service in Korea and Europe. His decorations include the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and Purple Heart with five Oak Leaf Clusters.

30 Years Not Enough For Reenlisting Sarge

One of the Army's best boosters has reaffirmed his love for military life by reenlisting after more than 30 years' service.

M-Sgt. Robert C. Haig of Columbus, operations sergeant of the training division in The Infantry Center G-3 Section, 1st United States Infantry, has reenlisted for a third time after 30 years in the Army in favor of "the active life."

The 48-year-old sergeant, who hopes about the G-3 office with the vigor of a recruit, has developed this philosophy over the 30-year span of his career: "You want to stay young, keep busy."

Asked why he turned down the attractive Army retirement plan for another enlistment, he said, "I'm hale and hearty, and I still have my health. Besides, I'm too young to retire."

His co-workers claim Sgt. Haig "would make one of the Army's best recruiting sergeants."

From 1940-1943, he was sergeant-major in the Fourth Infantry Regiment in Alaska. He came to Fort Benning for the first time in 1943 as sergeant-major in The Infantry Training Detachment.

Sgt. Haig was a chief clerk in the G-4 Section, Headquarters and Service Command in Tokyo from 1946 until he returned to The Infantry Center in 1952 to take over his present job.

Santa Brings Cash by Wire

Santa will come to Benning again this Christmas in the form of several thousand telegraphic money orders to men going on leave.

If you are one of those "expecting" it is suggested that you take your ID card and other suitable identification when you go to the telegraph office to pick up the money.

Something new has been added to the form blanks for sending Santa Claus messages to children. Such messages sent from the post will show their origin as "NOVEMBER" via Ft. Benning, and will be signed by Santa Himself.

Army School Melting Pot For Linguist

NEW YORK (APPS)—Expert Tower of Babel' tells how at this unique installation the Army is teaching service personnel to speak more than 20 foreign languages. In the process of learning the languages, the students also are given the absorbing facts about the geography, history, and economics of the countries where they are spoken.

More than 2000 military students and instructors are currently at the school. The facility, with a remarkable diversity of backgrounds, has been assembled from 23 nations. In operation since 1946, all of the world's principal races are said to be represented.

RECEIVES HONOR . . . First Lt. Norman F. Atkinson, left, is presented the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant for meritorious service with Company D of the 24th Infantry Regiment, 24th Division in Korea from June 4, 1953 to July 27, 1954. Col. Charles F. Leonard Jr., director of The Infantry School's Weapons Department, made the presentation. Lt. Atkinson is an instructor on the department's Small Arms Committee.

Classes are usually small—no more than five students. They are formed without regard to rank or formal education because the experience of the school has shown that the ability to learn foreign languages has little or no connection with educational background.

11th OCs Plan Book Dedication

The Eleventh Officer Candidate Company classbook will be dedicated to the wives, mothers, and sweethearts of the men of 11th OC, according to OC George Aumock, editor.

Aumock said, "Perhaps this will repay some of the loneliness and anxiety they undergo while seeing their men through. The candidates wanted to show their appreciation by the dedication of this book." If experience is any criterion, Aumock should prove a capable editor. He served as editor of the La Crosse, Wis., High School Yearbook and was a staff member of the University of Iowa annual. After graduation from Iowa, Aumock taught high school at Kelo, Wash., and was faculty adviser to the Yearbook staff.

New Military Pact Makes China Ally

By Pte. Bernard Kaplan, AUC (AFPS Staff Writer)
NEW YORK (APPS)—Nationalist China has become a formal military partner of the U. S. as the result of a mutual defense treaty recently signed in Washington. But the close relationship between our two governments is nothing new. The military pact formalizes a situation which has existed for several years.

The mutual defense agreement pledges U. S. counter-action if any nation attacks the main Nationalist stronghold of Formosa and the adjoining Pescadore Islands, both about 100 miles from the Chinese mainland. The pact gives official recognition to Formosa's great importance to the U. S. military position in the far Pacific. This key relationship was made unmistakably and dramatically clear last night as June 27, 1950—the historic day former President Truman ordered U. S. air and naval units to Korea to help repel the Communist invasion. In the same order—in a move to prevent the war from spreading—the President directed the U. S. Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa and the Pescadores against attack.

He also asked the Nationalists to cease all military operations against the mainland, a request the Chiang Kai-shek government immediately complied with. In 1950, President Eisenhower removed this prohibition, but military action between the Communists and Nationalists has been on a small scale—night raids, bombardments, and minor naval engagements, centered mostly around several small Nationalist-held islands close to the China coast. However, Communist threats to liberate Formosa have mounted in intensity and a strong buildup of Communist forces in the coastal provinces across from Formosa has been reported.

Since 1950, U. S. military and economic aid totaling hundreds of millions of dollars has poured into Formosa. The first U. S. military advisers were dispatched in April 1951. Under Maj. Gen. William Chase, the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group has grown to several thousand officers and enlisted instructors who have helped train and modernize the 500,000-man Nationalist army which was driven out of China in 1949 after nearly four years of civil war. The Nationalist air force received its first shipment of U.S. F-84 Thunderjet fighters in June 1953 and has been steadily converting to jet aircraft.

But the key to Formosa's defense continues to be the Seventh Fleet, operating under the U. S. Pacific Fleet Command. In a press conference last August, President Eisenhower warned that any Communist attempt to invade Formosa would have to run over the Seventh Fleet. The Communists have shown no inclination to try it.

Nationalist China is the sixth Pacific nation with whom the U. S. has signed individual mutual defense pacts. The others are the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, and the Republic of Korea. The U. S. also has joined the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—SEATO—whose objective is to prevent further Communist aggression in that troubled area.

Q—I am studying carpentry in a trade school under the Korean GI Bill. I would like to shift to on-the-job training, also in carpentry. Would that be considered my one-and-only change of course, since I still would be training in carpentry?
A—Yes. The switch would be considered your change of course, even though your objective remains the same. The reason is that course content and instructional methods differ so materially between classroom and job training that the two types of training could not conceivably be considered the same course.

Q—I have just been separated from service, and I want to apply for Korean GI insurance. But I don't want to forfeit the free coverage that I have for 120 days following my separation. Should I wait until the end of that period before I apply?
A—No; it is better to apply early. The effective date of your Korean GI insurance need not necessarily be the date you apply. You can specify that the insurance become effective on the last day of your 120-day free coverage.

Q—I spent four years as a cadet in the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. Will that time count in computing my eligibility for Korean GI Bill training?
A—No. Under the law, time spent as a cadet or midshipman in a service academy may not be counted in computing Korean GI Bill training eligibility.

Q—I am being retired from active service because I have a service-connected disability. What would my deadline be for getting the special GI insurance for disabled Korea veterans—one year from my retirement, or one year from the date VA adjudicates my disability as service-connected?
A—You would have one year from the date VA determines your disability is service-connected.

Q—Could I take on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill in a silversmith shop in England?
A—No. Under the law, the only type of Korean GI training you could take outside the U. S. is college training in a VA-approved course.

Defied Reds as POW

Legion of Merit Given Chaplain

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—An Army Chaplain who, though seriously ill himself, defied Communist captors in a Korean prisoner-of-war camp at the peril of his own life and played a vital role in helping to maintain a low death rate among his fellow prisoners, has been awarded the Legion of Merit posthumously. Chap. (Captain) Emil J. Kapau, a Roman Catholic priest from Marion, Kansas, won the award for exceptionally meritorious service performed while a prisoner of war at P'yoktong, Korea. He died in the prison camp hospital on May 6, 1953, after the Communist Chinese had refused to give him proper medical treatment. "Although seriously ill during the entire period of his internment he continuously and unselfishly cared for fellow prisoners, sought food and clothing and daily conducted Catholic and general services under exceptionally difficult circumstances. By his material assistance and through the unhesitating performances of the most mental tasks, the death rate in the camp was held at a rate far lower than at another nearby camp under similar conditions. "Chaplain Kapau's spiritual guidance assisted many to defy Communist instructions and maintain the hope necessary to remain alive, and physically and mentally to withstand Communist brutalities. "Chaplain Kapau's outstanding humanitarian activities and determination of purpose resulted in a marked benefit to other internees reflecting great credit upon himself and the military service."

U. S. Appropriations Too Low
Russia Will Command the Seas Within 10 Years, Experts Say

WASHINGTON (APPS) — U. S. Navy officials, watching the expansion of the Soviet Navy move full steam ahead, have estimated that at present rate Russia will replace the U. S. as the world's leading naval power in 10 years.

Russia ranked seventh among naval powers 10 years ago. Today, an all-out construction program has put her second to only the U. S. The Soviet Navy, excluding marines, already has more manpower than any other.

VADM Robert F. Briscoe, USN, Deputy Chief of Naval operations, has warned that the U. S. fleet would be outdated by Russian naval power starting within four years unless this nation began an intensive shipbuilding program.

Our Built Years Ago . . . He estimated that it would take $2.8 billion a year over the next 10 years to preserve the Navy's present state of readiness. Congress approved only $1.1 billion this year for new construction and modernization. VADM Briscoe explained that the most of the U. S. fleet was built during WWII and faces "progressive deterioration" starting in 1958 as ships become obsolete.

He contrasted this with the Russian Navy, which consists mostly of modern vessels recently out of the construction yards.

A U. S. Navy fact sheet on growing Soviet naval strength reports that Russia has about 350 submarines right now, 35 to 40 per cent of which are long range types, capable of attacking merchant ships or minelaying.

This is more than double that of the U. S. The Navy pointed out, and currently is the world's most powerful sub fleet. It represents more than seven times as many subs as Germany had at the start of WWII.

Depend on Superiority . . . In the face of the Soviet lead in numbers of subs, the U. S. is banking on its superior personnel and better equipment to offset the ever increasing Soviet undersea force," according to ADM Merlaud Wright, USN, Commander in Chief, U. S. Atlantic Fleet.

ADM Wright said he was very much impressed by the high degree of readiness he saw during the recent inspection of the New fleet destroyers built since WWII.

London, Conn., submarine base. This type of readiness, he added, will offset to a large degree the numerical superiority of the Soviet submarine force.

The Navy also noted that the Soviet building program for cruisers and destroyers was larger than that for all the NATO nations combined. The Russians have built 13 large light cruisers since WWII, more than the U. S. has in active operation.

While the U. S. still leads in destroyers, 179 to 125, the Russian ships include 50 large well armed fleet destroyers built since WWII.

Old Era Beyond Recall

BY YE PATER

In almost any field of endeavor there exists a hard core of "old members of the firm" who seem to feel honor-bound to compare the present state of affairs unfavorably—with the Good Old Days. We have plenty of them in this here new Army, and their influence is highly disproportionate to their numerical representation. It is high time all concerned squarely faced the fact that the "Old Army" is gone beyond recall; victim of a World War and a police action; irrevocably altered by changing times and the influence of millions of temporary soldiers who have passed through the hallowed portals.

GONE ARE the wrap leggings, the canvas leggings, the rough-tanned combat boot, the campaign hat, the Ernie Fyle beanie, the wool-lined, slash-pocketed, zip-front jacket; the G.I. Gone also are the unlettered, tobacco-chewing, horny-handed first sergeants; the six-year corporals; the second lieutenants; and the days when the unit commander signed his morning report and took the rest of the day off for golf or horseback riding.

Gone is the winter soldier, whose enlistment coincided with the first cool breeze of autumn. Gone too, and unlamented, is the Great Depression, which constituted the greatest single recruiting factor our Army has ever known in peacetime. Gone too is the leaving effect of common experience. Our professional soldier today finds himself in a quandary when he attempts to equate such widely divergent experiences as the WWII Italian campaign with the island-hopping maneuvers of the South Pacific; or the bunker-type warfare of the last year of the Korean debacle with the pursuit phase of the ITO base.

WE HAVE the largest Army we have ever maintained in time of peace. We are involved in competition for manpower—and brainpower—with a high-riding industry and other lucrative professions. We employ more manpower than the largest corporation in the world, but 60 per cent of our "employees" did not apply for their positions and are noticeably impatient for their "contracts" to expire.

Twice within the past 15 years we have been forced to expand and contract our organization like an accordion, and not a few fingers have been pinched in the process. This may or may not account for the spread of the blight of "certificatedness."

The Old Army exists only in the romanticized recollections of a mere handful. The New Army, like its predecessor, exists as an extension, and reflection, of the people. (Please See BEYOND, Page 2)

A 'Rebel's' Passing

Through the cold, damp Tennessee dawn, they were taking Sam Davis to the gallows.

The young Rebel soldier had been captured behind the Union lines. In his pocket they found detailed drawings of the Federal fortifications. Who had given them to him? Sam Davis was silent. The plans had been stolen by a Negro boy loyal to the Southern cause. He had given them to Sam Davis to deliver to the Confederate command.

The Union commander halted the march to the gallows. "Soldier" said the officer in blue, "I'm more interested in discovering the leak in my own camp than in hanging you as a spy. You can have safe passage back to your lines if you'll tell me who gave you the plans."

Sam Davis broke his silence. He looked the officer square in the eyes. "Do you suppose that I would betray a friend? No, Sir! I would die a thousand times first!"

Sam Davis was hanged by the neck until dead. Information continued to flow from the Union camp. The loyalty displayed by Sam Davis is what your nation demands of you, as a member of the Armed Forces.

Such loyalty was displayed by the men in Korean POW camps who did die a thousand deaths—but kept their lips sealed through the anguish of brainwashing and torture. They died with their lips sealed rather than betray their friends.

This same loyalty may, some day, be demanded of you. Will you measure up? (AFPS)

Gen. Harper Asks All-Out Support of March of Dimes

During the period 2-31 January 1955, inclusive, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will conduct its annual worldwide March of Dimes. As in the past, the Department of Defense has highly endorsed this very worthy cause.

The Foundation depends entirely on voluntary contributions from the general public for the necessary funds to support its most worthwhile service to humanity. Many services rendered by this organization in the relentless fight against polio require generous contributions by all. Everyone who contributes to the March of Dimes can be proud of the part he plays in developing means to combat this insidious disease.

I urge all personnel, uniformed and civilian, to contribute generously to the 1955 Fort Benning March of Dimes. JOSEPH H. HARPER, Major Gen., commanding

1954 Was Busy, Eventful Year at Fort Benning

Fort Benning highlights of 1954 revealed a busy and eventful year at the Infantry Center and The Infantry School. First three months of 1954 brought to the post one of the largest airborne classes ever to attend The Infantry School and the first contingent of 47th Infantry Division troops. On Jan. 12 thousands of school children lined the streets of Columbus to welcome former cadet of war Major Gen. William F. Dean. His welcome to the post included a 13-gun salute. The following Monday the largest airborne class since December 1944 opened with 85 officers and 1,139 enlisted men. Early in February, the first unit of a $12 million barracks project was completed. This month also saw the 56th "Red Devils" Airborne Regimental Combat team leave the post for its new home at Fort Campbell, Ky. The first contingent of the 47th Infantry Division moved here from Camp Rucker, Ala., in March. On the evening of March 13, violent winds blizzed through the Main Post area and Lawson Army Field at more than 100 miles per hour, taking the lives of two persons and causing damage estimated at more than $20 million. In May and October approximately 70 outstanding business, industrial, and cultural leaders visited Fort Benning for the 18th and 19th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference to see how U. S. taxpayers' dollars are being used for national defense. Also in May Brig. Gen. Aubrey S. Newman, Army commanding general, left the post for an assignment in Europe. (Please See FORT, Page 13)

Army Opens Reserve WO Spots to E-3's and Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has announced that all qualified EM, from grade E-3 up, will be encouraged to submit application for appointment as reserve warrant officers, in a number of MOSs. Applications previously had been restricted to master sergeants, although some exceptions were made. The Army announcement, made in DA Circular 134, disclosed that the program of appointing additional WOs will extend through the 1956 fiscal year. Circular 134 lists 15 specific MOSs plus a classified MOS series for which the new WOs are being sought. The Army also pointed out that a large WO overstrength exists in several fields and urged WOs in those fields to qualify for the MOSs in which vacancies exist. The MOSs that the Army seeks to fill are: 0148; 0224; 0225; 0230; 0232; 1066; 1121; 1184; 1185; 1722; 4906; 4919; 4923; 4930; 6219; 9000 series (classified). Applications should be submitted and processed according to SIR 140-106.1, which is the governing regulation for reserve WO procurement. However, Cir. 134 will take precedence in any conflict with an earlier publication. The circular also provides that

EM on active duty who hold appointments as reserve commissioned officers can submit WO applications. If qualified, they can be appointed temporary AUS WOs so that they can retain their reserve appointments. All seven MOSs in which a WO surplus exists are: 2210; 2900; 3508; 4000; 4110; 4114; 4410.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS

First Lt. Dewey McGowen, USA, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for his gallantry in action against the enemy near Chorwan, Korea, Apr. 19, 1951. He was a private first class then with the Heavy Mortar Co., 24th Inf. Regt., 25th Inf. Div.

His regiment made a night assault against a heavily defended, well-entrenched position and succeeded in establishing a bridgehead across the Han Tan River. Lt. McGowen was a radio operator with a forward observer team.

The enemy counterattacked hard and the American units were forced to withdraw under withering enemy fire. Seeing a wounded buddy, he dropped his radio and hurried his comrade to safety across the river, now churned white by enemy bullets. Returning for his radio he found another wounded man and repeated his first trip of mercy. Then returned again across the contested river for his equipment.

Ye Pater Sees 'Old Army' Beyond Recall

ple and historical perspective of which it is a product. Each year we dismiss our ranks thousands of young lads who become instant recruits for our sister services because we have failed to convince them that their period of service has been worthwhile to themselves, to the Army, and to their country.

NOW YOUR OLD father holds no brief with those who would turn their backs on the past. A people or an institution can be no greater than the sum of its past experiences.

We prize much of the discipline of the Old Army, and many of us tend to regard it as an end in itself, rather than a means to an end. We cite with glee its incidents in which an Old Army non-com directed the digging of a six-by-six-by-six hole for the purpose of concealing a small piece of rubbish. We harken to its discipline in those days, by Harry! Yes we did, in a pig's valise. Successful discipline, in the US Army, has always been based on mutual respect, understanding, and confidence. The brittle counterfeit, based on fear and sadistic practices inevitably fails. The American citizen is a funny breed of cat, and he who does not recognize that fact, and capitalize on it, is doomed to failure.

WE WAIT because we no longer are a small, cloistered group basking in the sunlight of public indifference. We consider it a deficiency that we have Public Information Officers whose main interest in life is to let the public know what we are doing with its money and with the lives of its sons.

We moan because Congress takes a deep and abiding interest in our affairs, and cavil bitterly because higher headquarters reserves training time for us to discharge one of the fundamental responsibilities of command — keeping the Indians amused. . . . in the Old Army . . .

The Old Army is gone. Pax Vobiscum. During the New Year the New Army will take on an even Newer Look. Before the end of the year most of us will be donning a new uniform, the O and his pay-grade Specialist counterpart will be distinguished by their insignia. Operation Gyroscope should be in full swing. We may even get a pay raise. We may Congress witness even see the first batch of our nine-month inductees. We face, in this new Army, a task unique in the military experience of the Nation. Turning our back on tomorrow for a heart-wringing look at yesterday won't solve the problem.

Wrecks Hit Five Times In OC's Life

Officer Candidate Gerald D. Lippert, 14th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC), qualifies as a "world" traveler, although he has never left the United States.

Before entering the Army, Lippert drove trucks and semi-trailers for three years, covering over 300,000 miles — roughly 12 times around the world, of Midwestern highways. More remarkable than the distance covered is the fact that, in all this driving, Lippert never had an accident or traffic violation. Not so lucky as a passenger, he has been in five wrecks when not behind the wheel, emerging unscathed from all of them.

Entering the Army in Jan., 1954, he became a tank driver in the Third Armored Division, Fort Knox, Ky. He plans to attend the Armored School after earning his commission in Feb.

"A tank may not be close to driving a truck," says Lippert, "but it's all the same so long as it has an engine. Anything beats walking."

Rucker to Publish Aviation Digest HEADQUARTERS, THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga. The first issue of an Army-wide publication, "Aviation Digest of the Army," is scheduled to be published Feb. 1, 1955. Responsibility for editing the new monthly magazine has been delegated to the Army Aviation School, Ft. Campbell, Ark., by the Department of the Army.

Col. Richard I. Jones, executive officer of CTC-23rd Infantry, was recently promoted to his present rank from lieutenant colonel. Col. Jones has a total of 22 years service.

During World War II Col. Jones served with the 57th Inf. (PS) and later as commanding officer, Base Depot on Negros. While in this capacity he materially assisted the late president Manuel Quezon of the Philippines as his security officer. For this work Col. Jones was awarded the Philippine Medal of Merit.

Col. Jones was interned in Japan from May 1942 to November 1945. After liberation he attended G & GSC and was G-4 California Military District.

During the Korean conflict he commanded the Third Battalion, 17th Infantry, at the Inchon landing, and subsequently became chief, Military Government Team, with headquarters in Hamhung, Korea. From Korea he went to Japan and became chief statistical officer, Far East Command. Col. Jones returned to the 21st in 1953 and was assigned to his present position. He is a graduate of UCLA.

M-Sgt. Cited for Good Job

M-Sgt. James Hughes Jr., chief clerk in the Secretary of the General Staff's Office, has been awarded an Infantry Center certificate of achievement for meritorious service with the Administrative Division, Third Army Area Food Service School, at The Infantry Center from Sept. 8, 1953, to Oct. 3, 1954.

The certificate, signed by Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Infantry Center commander, was presented by Col. Paul J. Mitchell, chief of staff.

Sgt. Hughes, a veteran of more than 11 years of service, was on duty with 24th Infantry Division headquarters in the Pacific from December 1944 to February 1948. From November 1952 to August 1953 he served with the 190th Infantry Regiment, 40th Division, in Korea.

U. S. Railroads will continue to provide reduced furlough fares for military personnel traveling in uniform at their own expense. The plan was scheduled to expire Jan. 31, 1954, but has been extended for another year. The tax-exempt round-trip fares, good in coaches only, will continue at the rate of 2.025 cents a mile or less, which results in a saving of up to one cent a mile.

The Navy has established a board of getting young pilots for the Naval Air Reserve. The board has met and is completing its study. It will report to the Chief of Naval Operations and is expected to make recommendations covering both long range plans and immediate objectives.

The Defense Department has disclosed that 10 U. S. patrol craft have been turned over to the Nationalist Chinese Navy in recent months. The Chinese personnel who manned the boats were trained to operate them in the U. S. before setting out for Formosa.

For anyone who might have been wondering how many generals and admirals there are in the U. S. Armed Forces, the services have released official figures. The Army leads the field with 448 officers who wear stars on their shoulders. The Air Force has 409 and the Marine Corps 80. The Navy, including eight retired rear admirals now on active duty, has a total of 29 admirals.

Rapid progress continues to be made on the preliminary work for the building of the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. The AF has announced that plans and specifications for the initial construction will be available for bidding by private contractors in the spring and summer of 1955.

The Navy has begun a program of converting its movie theaters in the U. S. and Hawaii to the new wider screens. The change-over will be made gradually as money for the purpose becomes available. It is expected that a number of theaters, which will be unable to convert to the wide screen because of space limitations, will be closed.

Expansion of the Army's Aviation Flight training Program has made necessary a change in the general physical standards required.

Two once-proud warships of the U. S. Navy, minarets of the fleet during the Spanish-American War, are being offered as historical relics to any governmental or non-profit organization that will restore them. The USS Olympia and the USS Oregon both are badly deteriorated and would need extensive repairs before they could be used as public memorials. The Navy will accept applications from interested groups until Jan. 23, 1955.

Previously a candidate could be no more than 72 inches tall and 180 pounds in weight. These restrictions have been boosted to allow men to enter with a maximum height of 76 inches and a maximum weight of 200 pounds. Most other general requirements remain in force.

NOW YA' KNOW!
HERE ARE ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS SERVICEMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES ASK THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION EVERY DAY...

Q—I am attending school under the WWII GI Bill. I am planning to switch to a different school, although my course will be the same. How much time will I have to resume my training in my new school?
A—You will be required to resume your training within 30 days after you leave the old school, or on the first date students are admitted to the course in the new school—whichever comes later.

Q—I am a disabled veteran attending law school under Public Law 18. After I finish my class-take a bar review course, also under Public Law 18?

A—Yes. Review courses are permitted under Public Law 18, but they must be bona fide review courses and not merely a repetition of the course previously taken.

Q—I have a GI endowment insurance policy from WWII. After the endowment matures, how will I receive the money?
A—You will have a choice. You may elect to receive payment either in a lump sum or in a specified number of monthly installments.

How would you like to vacation Alaska, working at odd jobs to earn funds to continue his travels. In the course of his journey, Lawson has been a ditch-digger, truck test-driver, tobacco picker, brush cleaner, and mental hospital "instructor." His favorite job was test driving Army vehicles for the Dodge Corporation. The most distasteful was picking tobacco. After stooping over the fields for 12 hours, he couldn't straighten up for days.

Lawson recommends his method to any young man interested in travel, provided he isn't afraid of hard work and catch-as-catch-can living.

STUDENT BN. GUESTS . . . Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, Fort Benning Commander, greets members of the Ann Elizabeth Sheppard Home in Columbus, who were guests of the Fourth Student Battalion, the School brigade, at a Christmas dinner. Left to right are Gen. Harper, Vernon Smith, Doris Smith, Elaine Williams, Renzie Cruse, Edna Person and Mrs. Grace Morpeth, supervisor of the home.

IN CHRISTMAS SEAL APPEAL . . . Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, wife of Fort Benning's commander, makes a television appeal for the Muscogee County Tuberculosis Association's Christmas Seal sale. As chairman of the military division of the drive, Mrs. Harper's appeal was filmed in Columbus by WDAK-TV for Don Elliott's "Today in Georgia" on WSB-TV in Atlanta. It also will be shown on WDAK-TV in Columbus. During the first week of the fund-raising drive, Fort Benning personnel contributed $2,709, exceeding last year's total sales by more than $1,500.

FIRST CHRISTMAS IN ARMY . . . Pfc. Eugene H. Taylor, left, of Lockhart, Fla., assigned to Service Company, 29th Infantry Regiment, cuts his birthday cake in a mess hall at Fort Benning. The cake was delivered by Jeff Kelly, Jr., right, of the Columbus, Ga., Chamber of Commerce after the 21-year-old soldier's mother, Mrs. E. B. Taylor, wrote requesting aid in the birthday celebration. This was Taylor's first birthday and Christmas away from home.

Navy Sees Carriers As Vital A-Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP)—The role of the Navy's aircraft carriers on the first day of a major war would be to knock out the enemy's offensive and defensive bases within reach and divert enemy strategic bombers from thrusts at the cities of the U. S. and its allies. James H. Smith Jr., Asst. Sec. of Navy for Air, gave this picture of the use of carriers in a nuclear-armed atomic war.

Mr. Smith declared that the "massive retaliatory capabilities" of the Navy's carrier task forces gave them tremendous advantages in an atomic war. Outlining these advantages at a special Pentagon press conference, he maintained that a potential enemy would have to take into account the striking power of carrier task forces. An enemy could not afford to let this threat exist, he explained and therefore would have to disperse his attacking forces and go after the carriers. Stressing the advantage of mobility that carriers have over land bases, Mr. Smith contended that the carrier has the best chance of survival during the early stages of a major war.

He also cited the need for the enemy to build up defenses along every sector that could be approached by Navy task forces. He said it is desirable to make the enemy spend more efforts on defense and disperse his offense. Mr. Smith opposed the view that control of the seas eventually will pass to land-based air forces. He stated that the Navy's major mission is to maintain control of the seas and the air above the seas.

CORRECTION
Following a speech made at Fort Benning on Dec. 16 by Major Gen. James E. Moore, commandant of the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., a news story which misquoted the general was prepared and released. The second paragraph of the story should have read: "As long as the Communists practice infiltration and open aggression, we must be ready. We must have an ADEQUATE Army, Navy and Air Force — combat ready," the two-star general told nearly 200 graduates of the Infantry School's basic officers class. The original story incorrectly substituted the word VAST for ADEQUATE.

ARMY HO4C WORK HORSE LIFTS HEAVY LOAD . . . A Sikorski HO4C helicopter was recently demonstrated when it lifted a heavy load from a boat. The Army HO4C Work Horse helicopter transported a 300 lb. load. In addition to being the first time this program has been lifted by helicopter it is the heaviest load carried by an in-service helicopter.

Manufactured by Sikorski Helicopter Corporation, H.O.C.'s are capable of transporting twenty troops, 12 litter patients plus additional, or two tons of cargo. These helicopters are now being delivered by Army Transportation Corp Helicopter Companies. The HO4C Co. at Fort Benning is one of the Army's helicopter units.

Odd Things Happen In World of Sports

BY JACK MILLER

In looking back over the years it is amazing to note some of the oddities that have been seen by our forefathers in the athletic world.

And while the Fort Benning athletic program is at a stand-still for the holiday period we would like to take time to reminisce on some of the curious things that have happened through the many years of sports.

For instance in 1871 there was a fight that lasted one hour and 17 minutes without a blow being struck. Jim Mace and Joe Coburn staged the farce in Canada for the world's heavyweight boxing title. Mace, a master counter-puncher, refused to make the first attack and Coburn would not be tricked into leading. The two men stood in the ring looking at each other for 77 minutes and the bout was called a draw.

A few years later, in 1893, Andy Bowen and Jack Burke fought seven hours and 15 minutes through 110 rounds in New Orleans to establish a record for the longest gloved fight in history. The fight was called "no contest" by the referee but later changed by the Olympic Club contest committee, and the $2500 purse was divided by the two contestants.

Then there was the fighter who was knocked down 27 times and went on to win. He was Joe Jeannette who defeated Sam McVey in Paris, France, on April 7, 1907. He won in the 48th round when McVey gave up. McVey was floored 11 times.

Then there was the basketball game that required nearly four hours to play. It was between the Syracuse Nationals and the Anderson Packers, Nov. 25, 1949, won by the Nationals, 125 to 123, after five overtime periods.

Swinging to football, there should be a monument erected to little Sewanee. In what was possibly the greatest football excursion in history, the school went on a spree in the fall of 1899 and won five major college grid games in six days when it defeated Texas, Texas A. & M., Tulane, I. S. U. and Miss., in that order. The first game was played on Nov. 9, the last six days later, with one day, Sunday, for rest.

Princeton was defeated on the gridiron by Rutgers, six goals to one, in the first intercollegiate game, in 1869. But that loss galvanized the Princeton gridgers so much that they went for 68 years without losing to Rutgers again, Nov. 5, 1938, when they were beaten 20 to 18.

In what is perhaps the highest score ever amassed during one football game, the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets registered a 222 to 0 drubbing over Cumberland University in 1916. The game ended by mutual agreement one minute before the third quarter was completed.

Probably the only grid team to win three games in one day, the Los Angeles Rams defeated three service elevens at San Diego, Calif., Aug. 4, 1951. Even though each team played 20 minutes against the Rams that day, the Marine Corps Recruit Depot lost, 13 to 0; the Camp Pendleton Marines faltered, 21 to 0; and the San Diego Training Center was defeated, 21 to 2.

The Boston Braves were in cellar position in July, 1914. But the low-man-on-the-totem-pole notices meant nothing to these baseballers, who went on to wind up in first place and then to the world series to defeat Philadelphia four games to none.

Did you know that at one point of his colorful career Babe Ruth quit baseball to enter the boxing ring? It was back in 1918, just after the Babe had helped the Boston Red Sox win the World Series. He decided to hold out for more money next season. In the meantime, a boxing promoter suggested to Ruth that his name would be a big draw at the gate and the Babe actually went into training to become a fighter. But his request for a better baseball contract was granted, so his pugilistic aspirations died.

The baseball world has its "days" the same as picnic lovers. For instance, the Cincinnati Reds for seven years had exhibition games scheduled at Richmond, Ind., but on April 10, 1952, the contest was halted for the seventh consecutive year, due to . . . rain.

The world-renowned Olympics have their odd happenings. In 1900 the U. S. team members believed they were competing in an international meet held in conjunction with the Paris exposition that year. Their first knowledge that they were Olympic champions came when they were presented their medals.

BEST ELEVEN IN ARMED FORCES . . . Here is the 1954 Armed Forces Press Service All-Star Football Team. In the backfield are Tommy O'Connell, Bolling AFB, D. C. (Illinois); Billy Vessels, Ft. Sill, Okla. (Oklahoma); Rick Casares, Ft. Jackson, S. C. (Florida); and Bob Meyers, Camp Lejeune, N. C. (Stanford). At ends—Frank McPhee, Camp Pendleton, Calif. (Princeton); Bernie Flowers, Great Lakes NTC, Ill. (Purdue); tackles—J. D. Kimmel, Ft. Lee, Va. (Houston); Dave Suminski, Ft. Belvoir, Va. (Wisconsin); guards—Steve Eisenhauer, Quantico, Va. (Navy); Bruce Halladay, Ft. Ord, Calif. (San Jose State); and at center Jerry Hilgenberg, Hamilton AFB, Calif. (Iowa).

All-Service Football Teams Announced by Press Service

NEW YORK—Armed Forces Press Service announces its 1954 All-Star Football Team as selected by a worldwide poll service sportswriters, football coaches, and civilian sports-writers.

Halfback Billy Vessels, an Oklahoma All-American and winner of college football's top award in 1952—the Heisman Memorial Trophy—led the voting. Vessels, a speed-merchant, was the sparkling star of the top service team in the West this year. Ft. Sill, Okla.

Runners-up to Vessels in the voting were former Illinois All-American Tommy O'Connell, quarterback for the Bolling AFB Generals, Washington, D. C., and Princeton's two-time All-American end and captain of the Tigers in '52, Frank McPhee.

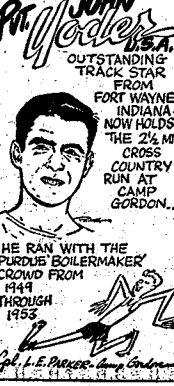

McPhee, a member of last year's All-Star team when he starred at Quantico, Va., did his pass-catching for the marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif., this season.

Also appearing in the All-Star lineup in '55 were two fine running backs: Bob Meyers of Camp Lejeune, N. C.—who also played for the Quantico Leathernecks.

It Was a Great Sports Year for the Soldiers Here 1954 Was Best Seen at Benning, Climaxed by Huge Grid Banquet

Along with the passing of another year go many memories joyful and sad. To Fort Benning sports fans and participants, the year 1954 has meant probably the greatest since this gigantic reservation came into being.

Events ranging from badminton to football have been staged, all on an intramural level with the one exception of baseball.

Among the many athletic events that were staged during the past year were some stellar attractions. The following recap of 1954 by no means covers the athletic program on this post but is intended to remind readers of these events which come to mind:

January
House of David boosters clip ISD Force, 53 to 43. Ellis Lea and Robert Knight chosen to compete with U. S. Army pistol team. 50th Red Devils take hoop lead. Giants Topple In Bid for OC

The New York Giants lost a close contest to Selective Service for the talents of Officer Candidate Jerry Parks, 11th OC Company, Fifth Student Battalion (OC).

The six foot, one inch, 195 pound Parks was catcher for Eastbank High School, West Virginia Champions for three years. Bating in the cleanup spot for the state champs, Sparks hit for a .325 average.

After high school he entered semi-pro ball and while playing in All-Star game was invited by a Giant scout to attend the Camp Club Training Camp in Melbourne, Fla.

Reporting to Melbourne in 1953, Parks received his induction orders.

Completing basic training, Parks traveled to Fort Devens, Mass., where he played on the post team, boasting a .310 average for the season he played.

ONE DAY'S CATCH . . . Fort Benning personnel pose with their day's catch at Boynton Beach, Fla. Lt. Col. John W. Medusky, fourth from right, executive officer of the Staff Department, reeled in the seven-foot, 41-pound sailfish, hanging second from right. It took him 22 minutes to land his catch. Mrs. Medusky, third from right, also was in the fishing party.

Major Given Merit Award

Maj. Alvin D. Ungerleider, acting as secretary to the General Staff, X Corps and X Corps School Brigade, was presented the Legion of Merit in a ceremony held recently. The presentation was made by Lt. Col. William B. Stinson, acting brigade commander.

Maj. Ungerleider was cited for meritorious action in which he distinguished himself while serving as secretary to the General Staff, X Corps and X Corps School Brigade, and secretary to the commanding general of X Corps Group, in Korea from April 9, 1953, to May 1, 1954.

"He welded the corps staff into a well-organized, highly competent team, assured expeditious dissemination of information and orders to the Corps Staff and units, and capably resolved numerous complex problems."

The major is a student in the associate advance Infantry officers course in the First Student Battalion of the School Brigade.

War Emergency May End Soon; Also GI Rights

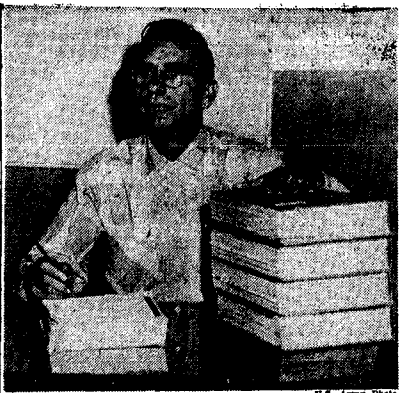

WASHINGTON (APPS) — President Eisenhower is preparing a proclamation ending the four-year-old Korean War emergency, according to his press secretary.

The move would mean no Korea GI Bill benefits, such as education, insured home and business loans, and mustering out pay, for persons entering the service after the emergency is officially declared over.

The Korea GI Bill, as passed by Congress, specifies that its provisions can be revoked by either Congress or the President declaring the emergency ended.

Presidential Press Secretary, James C. Hagerty said a proclamation abolishing the emergency is being drawn up but probably would not be issued for "quite a little while." All servicemen currently on active duty and all those who enter the service before the proclamation is issued will continue to be eligible for veterans' benefits after their discharge.

Veterans Administrator Harvey V. Higley has estimated that each month the emergency continues makes the government responsible for $40 million in potential future veterans' benefit payments.

SAVES $1,013 YEARLY . . . Simon B. Cox illustrates the savings in the amount of paper work formerly required in submitting specifications to prospective bidders on the Engineer Section's purchasing and contracting mailing list. Mr. Cox's single volume, left, reduces the requirements by 75 per cent and will save the post $1,013 annually.

Work Simplification Saves Post $789,194

THREE AT SCHOOL
Three members of Battery A, 41st Field Artillery are attending school assignments on Post. Pfc. Cesar H. Beltran-Garcia is at the Advanced Leadership School; Cpl. Riley F. Crumley, CBR School; and Pfc. Joseph C. Roberts, Central Meat Cutting School.

The Army's Work Simplification Program, designed to increase efficiency and decrease operation costs, is fulfilling both objectives at Fort Benning.

Statistics released this week by the Office of the Comptroller show the Infantry Center program has saved an estimated $789,194. During the past three years, nearly 90-percent of the military and civilian personnel trained under the program have contributed ideas which have improved efficiency in operations.

What success the program has encountered is attributed to a concrete program of "action," centered on getting ideas for improvement and weaving them into daily operations, officials say.

The ideas in most instances are supplied by civilian and military supervisors, 872 of whom have received training under the program. All supervisors are required to attend a 10-hour course of instruction, conducted by the Office of the Comptroller. They are taught how to apply to their own operations proven work simplification techniques. After completing the course, they are required to submit ideas designed to save money, time and effort in daily operations.

Among the civilian employees who have made work simplification suggestions recently are Dewey Forrester, Johnnie D. Wyrick, and Simon B. Cox, all of Columbus.

Mr. Forrester devised a four-wheeled cart with hooks that will save 200 manhours and reduce accidents and injuries to personnel in the Quartermaster Commissary. Used to haul meals weighing over 200 pounds from the delivery platform to cold storage, the cart and hooks replace the hazardous hand-carry method.

Mr. Wyrick installed a buzzer code system in the Quartermaster Laundry which will save an estimated 2,800 manhours annually. His system reduces time wasted by operation stoppages through mechanical breakdowns in the plant. The buzzer alerts the laundry mechanics and indicates the location needed to repair the mechanical defect. Mechanics can trace almost instantly the trouble to any department in the plant.

Specifications sent each prospective bidder on the purchasing and contracting list by the Engineer Section formerly required four volumes. Mr. Cox devised a single volume, reducing by 75 per cent the amount of material needed. As a result, Fort Benning will save $1,013 annually.

Instruction in the Work Simplification Program here is scheduled to continue through June 1955. At that time the Office of the Comptroller plans to contact each graduate of the course for suggestions for further improvement.

Capt. Foster Wins Ribbon, Pendant

Capt. Robert C. Foster received the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant from Lt. Col. William B. Stinson, acting school brigade commander, for meritorious service while a member of the Inchon Sub-Depot, Japan Central Exchange, 8043 Army Unit, in Korea from Dec. 4, 1953 to June 29, 1954.

"As supply officer, he assisted materially in the formation of policies and procedure to assure ample and uninterrupted supply, and expertly coordinated activities and duties to insure maximum manpower utilization, and constantly strove to improve overall proficiency of operations," the citation read.

Capt. Foster, a student in Fourth Company, School Brigade, is attending the Associate Infantry Officers Advanced Course.

Efficiency Awards Civs Lead Soldiers With New $$ Ideas

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga. — Estimated first year savings of more than two hundred thousand dollars were realized by the Third Army during the last fiscal quarter through the stimulus of the Army's Efficiency Awards Program.

According to figures released recently by Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, over $170,000 was saved through suggestions made by civilian employees.

Total awards of nearly $4,000 were given to the employees for ideas submitted during the months of July, August and September, 1954. Fort Campbell, Ky., civilians alone received $1,512.

Almost $30,000 was saved by improvements suggested by military personnel in the seven state Army Areas.

Sixty nine civilian suggestions were adopted by the Army from the 260 submitted during the past quarter. Twenty six military suggestions were accepted from the 168 sent through channels.

Fort Bragg, N. C., led all installations in the Third Army Area in terms of suggestions received in both the civilian and military category. Ninety seven civilian ideas were submitted while soldiers sent in 80.

Camp Gordon, Ga., was second in both categories. Fifty four civilian and 33 military suggestions were received by authorities there.

Fort Benning, Ga., however, led in terms of suggestions adopted in the civilian category with 77. Fort Campbell was second in that line with 14.

Capt. Foster Wins Ribbon, Pendant

Capt. Robert C. Foster received the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant from Lt. Col. William B. Stinson, acting school brigade commander, for meritorious service while a member of the Inchon Sub-Depot, Japan Central Exchange, 8043 Army Unit, in Korea from Dec. 4, 1953 to June 29, 1954.

Fort Benning Had Busy 1954

Major Gen. Joseph H. Harper, former commander of the Fourth Infantry Division in Europe, assumed the dual role of commander of The Infantry Center and commander of The Infantry School on June 15, replacing Major Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr.

On June 28, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia arrived, receiving a 21-gun welcoming salute. He left the following day after a briefing on Infantry School activities.

Brig. Gen. Earl C. Bergquist, former deputy chief of the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Madrid, Spain, became assistant commander of the 47th Infantry Division July 10. Also in July college officials from eight Southern states visited the post to observe the training of 1,200 ROTC cadets on a six-week encampment.

In August, a $50,000 Harmony Church swimming pool constructed by the 78th Engineer Battalion as a training project brought to four the number of outdoor swimming pools for enlisted men and their dependents.

The same month saw the U. S. Army Rifle Team take first and second places in the Burnhold Trophy Match at the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. Each member of the six-man team fired 20 rounds at 600 yards, piling up a cumulative score of 575 out of a possible 600.

Summer training activities for U. S. Army Reservists reached a peak at Fort Benning as more than 600 men arrived for 15 days of active duty.

Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, Third Army commander, presented National Safety Council awards to The Infantry Center and the 47th Infantry Division in ceremonies Aug. 8.

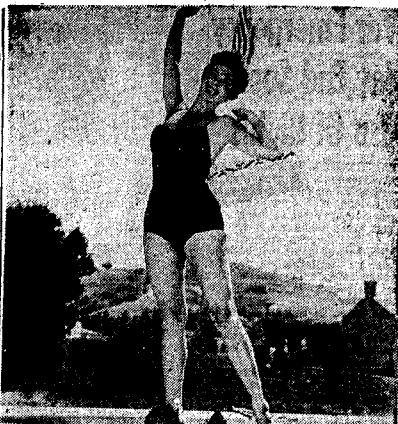

On Sept. 21, the first of two sessions of the Emergency Mass Feeding program opened for 22 civilian defense workers, food service specialists, and public officials from Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee.

Ground breaking ceremonies were held Nov. 3 for the construction of seven new 225-man barracks, a $2,940,246 project in a $14 million building program for 1955.

On Dec. 1, the 29th Infantry Regiment returned from Okinawa to replace the 30th Infantry Regiment.

Two days later, the Third Infantry Division returned to the post after an absence of four years in Korea. At special changeover ceremonies it officially replaced the National Guard 47th Infantry Division, which retired from active duty to Minnesota. Attending the ceremonies were Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Capt. Audie Murphy, well-known movie star, former member of the division and most decorated soldier of World War II.

On Dec. 4, special ceremonies marking the organization of the 23rd Infantry Division were held at Lawson Army Air Field where eight Fort Benning units became a part of the new division.

The cantled deck carrier is 1,036 feet long and 252 feet wide. Scheduled to join the fleet late in 1955, the Forrestal will have a crew of 3500. The gaping holes visible on each side of her deck are for plane elevators not yet installed. The $200 million ship will handle both jet fighters and bombers.

OC Editor Names Aides For Classbook

Editor of 12th OC Company's classbook, Candidate Harvey Abrams, chose the members of his staff recently. They are Candidate Laurence Boyden, business manager, Richard S. Kelly, art editor, and Charles Wright, associate editor.

Abrams brings a rich editorial background to his work. He was co-editor of "Alpha Epsilon Pi," national fraternity newspaper, and feature editor of the National Aquatic School paper. This School is a branch of the Red Cross. Abrams was also associated with Toledo University's "The Collegian" as reporter and publicity man.

Boyden brought several years of Midwestern business know-how to the classbook business manager's chair. He has served as sales manager for Ohio's Miami University radio station - WRMU, and their humor magazine, "The Tuna-bawk." His practical experience consists of six months on the sales staff of Proctor and Gamble, soap manufacturers.
