About 75,000 men take part in Third Army National Guard training each summer. This includes about 35,000 men from all seven states who train at Fort Stewart. They make up two armored divisions, 12 divisional and non-divisional anti-aircraft artillery battalions and eight divisional and non-divisional and non-divisional tank battalions.

3-A Receives High Interest For Project

HEADQUARTERS THIRD UNITED STATES ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga., has a 200 per cent interest on your money?

That's about how much taxpayers got back for money paid out in Fiscal Year 57 by Third Army's "Project Paydirt"—the civilian suggestion program, which is proving a roaring success.

In the three months preceding June 30, 1957, Third Army paid out $4,000 to employees who had ideas which result in economy in the Army's operation. The total saving is estimated at $104,262, not to mention intangible savings such as civilian-military servants' tempers and morale.

Of 400 suggestions received from civilians during April, May and June, 150 were distributed and were implemented.

Suggestions by military personnel are not covered by "Project Paydirt," though they are hoping to improve the economy program for military personnel.

Forces Join in Plane Test

The Army and Air Force today teamed ground artillery and a supersonic plane in the first test of its kind to determine the feasibility of artillery spotting by high performance aircraft.

A new, faster than sound RF-101 plane, piloted by Captain Joseph H. Erell of the Air Proving Ground Command, Eglin AFB, Florida, flashed across Fort Benning skies at 9:30 Monday morning as a four gun battery of the 1st Field Artillery Battalion, 9th Artillery, "Marine" Division, fired its rounds into a four-mile distant target.

Flying a "tree-track" pattern three thousand feet above the guns and the impact area Captain Erell radioed live adjustment information to the artillerymen on the ground.

Major C. G. Haynes, 2nd Division Air Force Liaison Officer, noted that this morning's test run would be well below the normal flight speed of 1,000 mph aircraft.

"Our boy will drift along at about 300 knots," he said, "and stay over target for about an hour during the mission."

Observing this first ground-air coordination were Brigadier General John E. Leary, Assistant Division Commander, and Brigadier General William A. Harris, Commanding General, 2nd Division Artillery.

Armed Forces Get 19 New Chaplains

NEW YORK (AP)—Nineteen Jewish chaplains—one of the largest single groups of new chaplains to be inducted since WWII—have entered the service.

Most of the new chaplains will be ready to officiate at military services for Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur in September, according to an announcement by Rabbi Morris Lieberman of Baltimore, Chairman of the National Jewish Welfare Board Commission on Jewish Chaplaincy.

ESTABLISHMENT

Awards badges were presented for first aid, rowing, firing, printing, life-saving, canoeing, swimming, horse racing, citizenship in the home and in the community, Indian lore and personal fitness.

Army Aims Plans For Atom-Truck

In the transportation field the rapid transition to the United States Army has made modern military weapons is illustrated by the Army Transportation Corps under the "Pentomic" concept. The new Pentomic Army Infantry Division contains a Transportation Battalion and a Transportation Special Staff Section. The battalion has two Personal Carrier Companies, equipped with full tracked M108EB armored personnel carriers and a Truck Company with 24 1-ton trucks. The mission: a new departure for the Transportation Corps, is to provide tactical mobility to assault elements for pursuit, exploitation and for other tasks. The battalion commander will also serve as division transportation officer.

Recently the Wall Street Journal ran a headline "Army Reveals Plans Aimed at Developing A to m - powered Trucks." Actually the Transportation Research and Engineering Command has contracted for a technical feasibility study of reactor designs which could be adapted to power TC equipment. Concurrently, the Operations Research Office conducted economic studies on the application of nuclear power to such equipment. The final results of these studies are now being evaluated and the indications are that nuclear power is now both technically and economically feasible for one item of equipment: The Logistical Cargo Carrier—a large road carrier for use in remote areas, such as the Greenland icecap.

U. S. To Issue New Stamp September 3

A new 6-cent Special Delivery United States postage stamp will be placed on first day sale in Indianapolis, Indiana, on Tuesday, September 3, 1957. Postmaster Thomas E. Sikes announced.

The stamp is 0.84 by 1.44 inches in dimension, arranged horizontally, electric eye perforated and issued in sheets of fifty. It will be printed by rotary process and the color will be lilac.

The design of the stamp illustrates a special delivery letter being delivered hand to hand by the messenger to the recipient. The overall stamp forms a dark background for the hands, the letter, and the wording. The lettering "Special Delivery" dominates the top of the stamp.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 30 cents Special Delivery stamp may send address order resistance, to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Indianapolis, Indiana. An enclosure of medium weight should be placed in each envelope and the flap either turned in or sealed.

Vertol Corp. Is Awarded Contract

Vertol Aircraft Corporation has been awarded a $86,540 government contract to explore the use of ducted fans in aircraft wings. It was announced last month.

The research program is being funded by the Army and is being carried out in cooperation with the Office of Naval Research.

"Of the many vertical take-off and landing airplanes configurations investigated by Vertol, the utilization of ducted fans in the wing for propulsion as well as for lift appears very promising," Lt. Douglas, vice president in charge of engineering, stated.

Vertol's primary area of investigation will be the aerodynamic effects of the transition from hovering to forward flight, he said.

The company's research and development section also will seek to learn how the airflows from ducted fans and various wing shapes interact.

32-Mile Trek YAC Scouting Group Enjoys 4-Day Hike

Eleven Fort Benning Explorers and Boy Scouts left the Aug. 24 for a four-day hiking trip on the Lincoln Memorial Trail in Kentucky.

The Scouts went to Fort Knox, Ky., for an overnight visit before starting the 32-mile trek. The famous Abraham Lincoln Memorial Trail which begins at Elizabethtown, Ky., is one of several trails officially recognized by the Boy Scouts of America for hiking trips.

Fort Benning's Boy Scout organization is one of the youth groups sponsored and supported by the Youth Activities Center.

The hikers were on the trail most of Aug. 25 and 26, ending their trip at the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln. On the return route they stopped again at Fort Knox, returning to Fort Benning, Aug. 27.

A command inspection for the Scouts and their equipment was held at 7 p.m. Aug. 28 at the Scout House on the Main Post. Clothing, ration, cooking and overnight sleeping equipment will be thoroughly checked.

"The boys' trip was made possible through the many weeks of planning and preparation by Scout officials, headed by Col. Harry C. McCain, of Saxton, Pa., commander of the 5th Medical Group.

Accompanying the Scouts as hiking guides and counselors were 2nd Lt. Russell E. Dier of Warsaw, Ind., and Donald R. Hull of Fulton, Mo., both assigned to the 551st Medical Company, and Pfc. Justin DiBonaventura of Norristown, Pa., Scouting specialist at the Youth Activities Office.

Explorer Scouts from Post 27 who made the trip are James Coffin, son of Col. and Mrs. Edward C. Coffin Jr. of Richmond, Ga.; Harry C. McCain Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. McCain and Dick Boatman, son of Col. and Mrs. Alford C. Boatman of Reston, Nob.

Boy Scouts from Troop 27 who were among the hikers are Dick Serafin, son of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Thaddeus R. Serafin of Pemberton, N.J.; Fred Cagle, son of Capt. and Mrs. John W. Cagle of Dayton, Ohio; Steve White, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Stephen White of Hagerstown, Md.; Eugene Does, son of Lt. Col. Eugene A. Does of Concord, N. C.; Pat Sullivan, son of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Wilson T. Sullivan of Decatur, Ga.; Jacob Stoner, son of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Trent V. Hunter of El Paso, Texas; Mike Lutz, son of Capt. and Mrs. Karl C. Lutz of Albany, Ga.; and Dennis Collins, son of Capt. and Mrs. Edward J. Collins of Gaffney, S. C.

Col. Wessely Has Big Job In Reserve

Col. William M. Wessely has the task of coordinating training activities at Fort Benning that will mold 2,400 officers and men of the 401st U. S. Army Reserve Engineer Brigade of Atlanta, Ga., straight from civilian life into fighting dependable Army engineers.

The reserve officer from Nashville, Tenn., is filling the command normally assigned to a brigadier general during the two week summer training period from Aug. 18 until Sept. 1.

A 1938 graduate of Carnegie Tech., Col. Wessely also attended John Hopkins University. He received his commission as a captain lieutenant through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Called to active service during the Second World War, Col. Wessely served as battalion executive in the Chinese Burma India theater.

He left active service after the war, but continued active in reserve status.

In 1952 he assumed command of the 401st U. S. Army Reserve Engineer Group, part of the 401st brigade which is still his present duty assignment.

Gyroscoping With Unit Offers Many Advantages

In the recently gyroscoped 826th Tank Battalion which arrived here from Europe in April, there are many who have spent the last three years with this outfit. One of the officers, 1st Lt. Roe B. Healey, of Europe and joined the 826th Tank Battalion in Germany, at communication officer in December 1952. At that time he has held a variety of duty assignments and has "grown up" in this unit since he had only eight months duty in other units prior to this assignment. Another officer, Captain Theodore S. Riggs, Jr., who has just complied with orders reassigning him to Fort Knox, Kentucky for the Armor Advance Course, completed thirty-six months with the battalion on the 13th of August.

"This is the longest time that I have spent with any group or unit since boyhood when I was West Point cadet," says Healey. "I have spent my father's (Brigadier General Theodore S. Riggs, current Chief of the Indiana Military District at Fort Benning, Indiana) from 1934 to 1939."

Sergeant First Class Hurry B. Sherman of Headquarters and Service Company is one of the several men who joined the battalion in 1955. He said:

"I have enjoyed my assignments to serve with the same personnel for such a long period of time. I think Gyroscoping is an asset to the United States Military Replacement system."

A member of the battalion must have been sectioned in 1952, Sergeant First Class William Faulstich has completed over twenty-seven years in the United States Army. He feels that gyroscoping has given the old liners an opportunity to find an outfit that they like and stick with it throughout its moves and different duty assignments. He accompanied unit overseas in 1955 and back in 1957, thereby proving his statement.

Being assigned to this outfit has meant that one has been associated with the same group for extended periods of time and there have been many varied changes that have been undergone with the unit. Some of the changes have been reorganization into the 826th Tank Battalion from the 826th Heavy Tank Battalion, which was constituted in the Kansas National Guard; reorganization into 4 line companies and then back to 3; occupying jointly, with the new German Army, a German barracks in Hammburg, Germany; moving from the Hammburg Koerger to one in Schweinfurt (which is currently occupied by units of the 10th Infantry Division who are due to gyroscope to Fort Benning early in 1958); and growing as a unit to Fort Benning.

Naturally the wives of these service men have had their share of moving too. Some of them have moved five times while their husbands have been assigned to the unit.

The cannon, cannon balls, mortar, and power flat are of the Revolutionary War type. The Phrygian cap is the traditional symbol of liberty.

The Army flag is made up in the national colors, red, white, and blue—with a yellow fringe. It is the standard size for colors: feet 4 inches hoist, and 5 feet 6 inches fly. It bears 148 streamers of ribbon representing the campaigns in which the Army has participated. With all streamers it will weigh approximately 30 pounds.

The flag's background is of white silk, upon which is embroidered in blue, a reproduction of the official seal of the Department of the Army. Beneath the seal is a broad scarlet scroll bearing the inscription in white letters "The United States Army. Beneath the scroll, in blue Arabic numerals, is "1776," the year in which the Army was created by the appointment of General George Washington as Commander in Chief.

The Department of Army seal, constituting the central design of the flag, was first authorized by the Continental Congress on May 8, 1776, and was then known as the War Office Seal. The seal has featured in front of a drum with two drumsticks; below the cannon are three cannon balls. On the right is a mortar on a tripod and below the mortar two power flasks. In the center is a Roman breastplate over a lion's head.

Supporting a Phrygian cap be the seven-pointed star, with an organizational color on each point. Above is a rattlesnake holding in its mouth a scroll inscribed, "This we'll defend."

2 Pakistani Officers Pay Visit to Benning

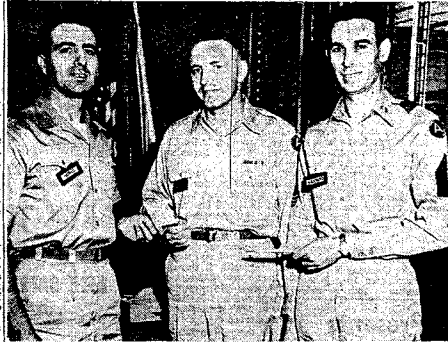

Lt. Gen. Muhammad Aslam Khan, commander of the First Corps, Pakistani Army, and Lt. Gen. Khalid Mosood Sheikh, commander of the Pakistani Eighth Infantry Division, are at Fort Benning for a three-day visit.

The Allied generals are slated for a briefing on and view of activities.

During their Fort Benning stay they will confer with Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commander of The Infantry School, and Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander.

The visitors will tour various academic sections including the Communications, Ground Mobility, Ranger, Tactical and Airborne - Air Mobility Departments. Also scheduled are visits to the Main Post Weapons Pool, several range problems. The Infantry School Training Aids display rooms, and the U. S. Army Infantry Human Research Unit.

Included in the tour will be a visit to the Army aircraft base.

CONTRIBUTION . . . In conjunction with the Community Activities Fund drive, Col. Charles C. Noble, left, commanding officer of the 151st Engineer Group, and M-Sgt. James G. Villyard, right, sergeant major, make the first contributions in the group to Capt. Harold S. Weynart, drive captain, and officially opened the drive in the 151st.

New Chief Has Varied Army Life

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army's new Vice Chief of Staff General Lyman L. Mennitzer has had a varied and brilliant career for the past 37 years as a military commander, planner and diplomat. The 57-year-old West Point graduate succeeds General Williston B. Palmer who has been assigned as Deputy Commander-in-Chief, European Command.

A veteran of both World War II and Korea, General Mennitzer was Commander-in-Chief of the Far East and the United Nations Commands from June 1955 until July 1 of this year. During WWII, the general served in many capacities including Chief of Staff to the Supreme Allied Commander Mediterranean. He participated in the secret submarine mission to North Africa with General Mark W. Clark in October 1942 for discussions with the French military officials just before the Allied invasion and later managed the discussions with the German High Command in Switzerland which resulted in the German Armies in Italy and Southern Austria.

General Mennitzer commanded the 7th Infantry Division in Korea during some of the bitter fighting in late 1951 and 1952.

The 7th Infantry welcomed two members of the German Army last week as a part of the Observer Training Program now in progress in Europe.

The Germans were, T-Sgt. Klaus Jordan, 1st Company, 12th Infantry Battalion, and Sgt. Gunter Hinzl, 3rd Company, 2nd Infantry Battalion. Most of their visit was devoted to company attack problems. In addition to tactical exercises they were given gunnery training and gas chamber tests.

They were escorted on their tour by SFC Daniel H. Scheel, "D" Company, 7th Infantry, of San Antonio, Texas.

Army Tests Irradiated Foodstuffs

WASHINGTON (APES) — US troops will be instructed to the Army's experimental irradiated food this winter in acceptance tests at Ft. Lee, Va., dining halls.

The Army said exact dates of the tests depend upon the availability of the foods.

Expected to demonstrate that foodstuffs prepared by ionizing radiation are palatable and acceptable to soldiers, the trials will be conducted by the Quartermaster Research and Engineering Field Evaluation Agency.

The foods will be selected and approved by the Quartermaster and Surgeon Generals of the Army.

The initial test will be confined to a single irradiated item, which will be served seven times during a 90-day period as part of a regular meal. The same dish also will be on the menu several times during the month in non-irradiated form.

The 300 troops in the test will not be told when the preserved version is being served so that they make an impartial choice.

The Quartermaster has conducted research in the field of food irradiation for the past few years in cooperation with other Defense agencies, the Department of Agriculture, the Atomic Energy Commission and 70 industrial and educational institutions.

MISSILES

In the Army, two Ordnance installations have cognizance over the missile program. They are Redstone Arsenal and the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, which is located at Redstone Arsenal. The Army's Ballistic Missiles Agency works closely with Chrysler Corporation, which is the prime contractor for the Army's big missiles. Ryanolds Metal and Ford Instruments Co. are also important contributors to these missiles, and with them are other subcontractors, involving over 300 contracts.

5-A SOFTBALL CHAMPION... Fort Benning captured the Third Army softball championship last week at Fort Jackson, S.C. First row: Ed Kellerman, Clinton Sprauve, and Arden Munson. Second row: Warren Paulk, Ronald Cotton, Ralph...

Post Cops 3-A Crown

Fort Benning won the Third Army Softball Tournament last week at Fort Jackson, S.C., defeating Fort McPherson, Ga., 6-3. The Benning contingent was the only team to go through the double elimination tournament without a single defeat, winning five straight. Operating with an over-abundance of pitching talent, the Doughboys were able to sweep through the tourney using two pitchers a game. Gene Havelka, Bob Mills, Lou Cox and Warren Paulk held the opposition in check while the heavy hitting of Anthony Harris and Lou Moberg supplied the scoring punch.

Tournament host, Fort Jackson, came the closest to challenging the Doughboys in the opening game of the meet. However, the Benning pitchers, Lou Cox and Bob Mills, combined together to hold the host team at bay. Tony Harris' home run was the difference as Benning won, 2-1. Other wins for the Doughboys were scored over North Carolina Military District, 15-0; Fort McPherson, 4-0; Fort Bragg, 8-2; and then in the final contest, Fort McPherson, 6-3.

Baseball Tourney

30th Infantry Dominates Benning 3-A Contingent

Fort Benning's baseball representative in the Third Army tournament at Ft. Rucker, Alabama, in early September will be dominated by the 30th Infantry team, the Marine Division's winner in the post-regimental league. Fourteen men of the twenty-six man squad are from the champion Rocket team, with the remaining players a composite of all stars from the circuit's nine other clubs.

Doughboys Tame Eagles In Exhibition Game, 8-1

The newly formed Fort Benning Doughboy team fared the best of three Benning mounders during the exhibition game. Campbell, Ky., last Friday night, 8-1, under the lights at Gowdy field. The game, an exhibition contest, is resending the two clubs for the Third Army baseball tournament at Fort Rucker, Ala., next week. Benning's club, led by the post champion, 30th Infantry, and supplemented with all-stars from the other nine circuit teams, showed the edge over the Eagles in every department, hitting sharply, fielding adeptly and pitching strongly.

Army Rifle Team Capture Two Matches

Coach Bob Ferris of the winning team used virtually his whole bench, as his club built a 5-0 lead in four innings, scoring single runs in the first, third and fourth, with two in the second inning. They added their lead with two more in the seventh and a final run in the ninth. Campbell salvaged their game's lone consolation score in the sixth frame.

Re-Scheduled

Foxes, Braves Game on Post Is Cancelled

The game scheduled for next Tuesday night at Gowdy field between the Columbus Foxes and the Jacksonville Braves has been postponed for the local demand. The game, however, will be played at the Foxes home ball park, Golden Park. Fort Benning personnel interested in seeing the red hot Foxes in action can obtain tickets at the U. S. Army Infantry Center Special Services office. Tickets will be on sale for 55 cents.

Other 30th men on the squad include first baseman Al Schalk, pitcher Al Taylor, catcher John Trombino, outfielders John Stohr and John Plinkston and trainer - manager Bino Ripa. From the other league teams are Shary, Hinton, catcher Jean and after allowing an opening game single to John Hammond, Eagle left fielder, held them in check, retiring nine in a row.

His relief man, Milt McLaughlin, who hurled the middle innings for Benning, allowed only one hit also. The single Campbell run, an unearned tally, was scored when Jim Mitchell reached base on short-stop Henri Geller's miscue, and scored on Bill Crosby's double.

The U. S. Army International Rifle team swept the first two matches during the opening action of the National Championships at Camp Perry, Ohio, last week. Led by 1st Lt. Daniel Puckett, right-handed marksman, the Army's international squad captured the first four places in the 500-yard free rifle event in the opening match of the small bore championships (22 caliber).

Pvt. Elliott Denman of New York, N. Y., assigned to Headquarters, 1st Infantry, 1st Cavalry Division, captured the first four places in the National AAU Walking event in Melbourne, Australia. First place honors went to Leo Sjoren of Los Angeles. Runner-up was Air Force Capt. Adolph Weicker. All three participants took part in the 1956 Olympic walking event in Melbourne, Australia.

Lady Golfers Schedule Two Tournaments

Fort Benning lady golfers will open their fall season with two tournaments at the post's Country Club course Sept. 6 and 15. At an organizational meeting last week, the ladies made final plans for the tournaments. There will be three groups, beginning for nine and 18 holes, and regular linksters who play 18 holes. The first tournament will have the three groups teeing off at 8:30 a.m., with the regular 18-hole golfers, while the beginners in both nine and 18 holes will have the option of starting at either 9 a.m. or 10 a.m.

Cubs Rap Yanks For League Title

The Cubs captured the Eastern League title by defeating the Yankees 11-4 in a five-hitting contest at Fort Benning Aug. 20. Tim Boehm and John Shea shared the pitching duties for the Cubs, with Richard Sanford and Stan Robertson hurrying for the losers. The little bears overcame an early 4-1 deficit by tallying three runs in the fourth inning, four in the fifth and three in the final frame. Bob Paulk of the Cubs collected two hits in the six-inning game.

The squad, practicing daily at Ft. Benning's Gowdy Field, will begin for Ft. Rucker on August 31, with tournament play getting under way September 2.

Walker Takes 3d In U. S. Meet

Pvt. Elliott Denman of New York, N. Y., assigned to Headquarters, 1st Infantry, 1st Cavalry Division, captured the first four places in the National AAU Walking event in Melbourne, Australia. First place honors went to Leo Sjoren of Los Angeles. Runner-up was Air Force Capt. Adolph Weicker. All three participants took part in the 1956 Olympic walking event in Melbourne, Australia.

For Army Shooters

Disappointment, Victory Highlight Pistol Matches

A mixture of disappointment and victory highlighted the U. S. Army pistol matches during the National Pistol Matches, Va., made up of the "Blue" squad. For nearly 11 consecutive matches, M. Sgt. Huellet L. "Joe" Benner of West Point, N. Y., set over 1000 competitors in the race for the 1957 National Pistol Championship. Then on the final match of the three-day 2700 aggregate marathon, he faltered in the 45-caliber event to let 1st Lt. William W. McMillan of the U. S. Marines Corps take the coveted trophy.

At Country Club

Annual Fall Handicap Tourney Starts Soon

Plans for the annual Fall Handicap Golf Tournament to be conducted at the Fort Benning Country Club from mid-September to mid-October will be underway. All members of the Military Officers' Open Mess, to include retired Officers and Warrant Officers, are eligible to participate. Members are encouraged to make their entries as early as possible during the registration period. Each entrant has an opportunity to be selected for the Fort Benning Country Club Handicap Champion.

Entries can be made at the Pro Shop, Fort Benning Country Club, between August 31 and September 11. A $1.00 fee will be paid at the time of entry. An absent member may be entered by another member providing the entry fee is paid at time of registration. Pairings will be made from established or computed handicaps. Handicaps will be based on the member's last ten posted scores to include those for rounds played on September 11. Entrants who have no handicaps will be allowed to play at scratch if they so desire. Handicaps for members who have five posted, will be determined by doubling those posted.

Match play will be used. Three-fourths the difference between the handicaps of the players concerned. Fractions of one-half stroke or more will be considered as one stroke. Local winter rules and U.S.G.A. rules will govern play. A player who fails to play his match or schedule must forfeit to his opponent. If both players are equally at fault, the player at the top of the bracket will be declared the winner. Ties will be decided by playing an additional 22-caliber hole with a score of 1111 out of 1200.

Completed the Army's sweep of the pistol team events was the Army "Blue" squad which capped the runner-up spot in the 22-caliber event with a score of 1111 out of 1200.

Sgt. Benner, Lt. Miller, 1st Lt. Dave Carter of Philadelphia, Pa. and M-Sgt. William W. McMillan of Richmond, Va., made up the "Blue" squad. The Third U. S. Army pistol shooters tied their way to several impressive victories in clearing winning at 37 individual awards during the National Pistol Matches.

The next year his team again played in the Piedmont Bowl against the AAA Champion Wilmington, N. C. High School team and won 21 to 14.

Lt. Lyons enrolled in Virginia Military Institute and lettered the varsity football team for four years as center and line backer, and captained the team his last year, winning the State of Virginia's outstanding sportsmanship trophy.

Upon graduation from VMI Lt. Lyons tried out with the Washington Redskins professional team and played in several exhibition games for them, including the East-West game last year. Before the regular season got underway he was called to active duty, ending for the time being his opportunity to play pro ball. Upon completion of his tour of military duty, Lt. Lyons hopes to rejoin the Redskins and take a whirl at professional football.

With Lt. Lyons playing backgroup, Lt. John J. Bredon, TSBS football coach, says "I have no worries about filling the center slot. Lt. Lyons will see plenty of action at that position during the coming season."

Wildlife Group Offers Benefits

This week, I would like to express my appreciation to you for the variety of game—deer, turkey, quail, Bobwhite quail, cottontail quail, rabbit, coon, blue jays, large and small mouth bass, sunfish, catfish, speckled and rainbow trout—that this region does, and fewer regions still have reservation where the hunting and fishing is carefully supervised.

The Fish and Game Maintenance Association is the organization at Fort Benning which controls, maintains, and supplements the wildlife program on this government post. In order to continue to exist and to carry out the program, it is necessary that each sportsman can become a member or renew his membership in the association. Without the continued support of everyone, the past progress of the association will be nullified.

As you as a sportsman, membership in this organization affords you the privilege of hunting and fishing on the reservation. It affords you the companionship of fellow sportsmen throughout the entire year, and it enables you to fraternize with one another at various social functions. To you this will bring an amount of pleasure measurable only by you. Join today.

You may now say to yourself, so what! I can hunt and fish on post. (Above being a member of the association. Here's the drawback to that statement. You can't, even with a license, hunt on post unless you register with the High Point, N. C., office before doing so; you can't fish from the post ponds; you can't have a duck or turkey blind on post; you can't win some of the prizes given away at the annual barbecue—unless you have an association card.)

Also firing will be Furman (S.C.) University's James B. Hancock of Miami, Fla. and Graves L. Boyston of Greenville, S. C.

Alabama Polytechnical Institute will be represented by High Point, N. C., before doing so; you can't fish from the post ponds; you can't have a duck or turkey blind on post; you can't win some of the prizes given away at the annual barbecue—unless you have an association card.

The team is being coached by Sgt. Robert E. Bass of Apopka, Fla., an ROTC instructor at Tennessee Polytechnical Institute at Athens, Tenn., with Capt. George E. Wood of Jacksonville, Ala., officer in charge.

Before competing in the matches the cadets are scheduled to attend the small arms school given by the National Rifle Association at Camp Perry, Aug. 25-29. Competition will begin Aug. 31 and continue through Sept. 14.

Team members include, Joseph Masterosera of Middlesex, N. J., representing The Citadel (S.C.), George D. Livingston of Quincy, Fla., from Florida State University, and James M. Jones of Petal, Miss.

Oregon State Grid Star Dons Brigade Equipment

The School Brigade Rams football team boasts a right year on the All-Conference and from Oregon State College is scheduled to see considerable action this season.

2d Lt. Richard H. Van Lom, assigned to the 4th Co., 758th Mess Officer of the Student Officers' Open Mess.

As a student at Hillsboro Union High, Hillsboro, Oregon, Lt. Van Lom played end on the football team for four years, both forward and guard on the basketball team for two years, and threw the discs on the track team for one year.

During his last year in high school he played on the Shrine All-Star football team, and he made All-Conference and All-State ends.

Lt. Van Lom enrolled at Oregon State College where he again played varsity football as an end for four years, gaining honorable mention for two years on the All-Conference team.

Upon graduation from college, Van Lom was invited to try out for a position on the Philadelphia Eagles and the Green Bay Packers professional football team. He decided, however, to put to use his major college subject of food technology. He found a job with Stokley-Van Camp Foods, Inc., at Albany, Oregon, where he worked for one year, prior to a call to military service.

Asked if he would try professional football upon release from the Army, he says, "Definitely not! Football will be strictly a hobby for me. I will either return to my old job as food technologist or make the same connection with another firm."

Gen. Garvin Visits Post

Major Gen. Clump Garvin, deputy commanding general of the Third U. S. Army, Fort McPherson, Ga., reviewed the post's summer Army Reserve training program Aug. 22.

The two-star general is also commanding general of the Third U. S. Army Reserve Command.

Gen. Garvin visited the Second U. S. Army Reserve Infantry School Branch at Pittsburgh, Pa., which is conducting two-week courses at Fort Benning. The general also inspected the 24th U. S. Army Reserve General Hospital at Miami, Fla., during a field bivouac.

In addition, Gen. Garvin visited the 31st and 36th U. S. Army Reserve Finance Dispensing Sections from Statesboro, Ga., and Gainesville, Fla.

Before departing the post Aug. 23, Gen. Garvin toured the training area of the 40th Engineer Brigade from Atlanta, Ga.

Gasoline Usage Drops at Benning

There were more than 4,000,000 gallons used at Fort Benning during FY 1957.

This is much less than was consumed for the previous year when 5.22 million gallons were used by post units. The first half of each fiscal year normally has a higher consumption rate than the latter part of the year due to Summer Camp training commitments.

The seasonal decline combined with an economy drive during the last half of FY 1957 resulted in a savings of 12,513 gallons ($15,944) over that of the prior six months. Monthly consumption dropped from 286,000 gallons in the first half to 281,615 gallons in the last six months of the year. The 3d Infantry Division was responsible for the major portion of the decreases.

STRONG AND AGGRESSIVE... Pvt. Clay Rice has the spirit and the punch that will make him one of an outstanding light middleweights in the Smokers this season. Rice, USA1C star, has already shown his ability as his team took four out of seven bouts in the first Smokers showing.

Major Lewis Millett

Highest Combat Award Winner Assigned to The School Brigade

A Medal of Honor winner and an astounding Army aviator reported to The School Brigade Monday.

The fantastic story of Major Lewis Millett, 3d Squadron, 1st Cavalry Division, attending Infantry Officers Advanced Course No. 1, 1st Company, 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry Division, The School Brigade, begins with his enlistment in the Army in 1940. He later joined the Canadian Army to get into combat as soon as possible.

After a year in England he went to the American Embassy and requested return to the U.S. Army. He was accepted and sent to Ireland to join the 1st Armored Division's 7th Armored Field Artillery Bn. His wisdom soon came true; he participated in the initial North African landings at St. Lo, Tunisia, and was awarded his first medal for heroism—the Silver Star, at Madaj-al-Babas.

At Kasertine Pass he received his first promotion—to first sergeant. He says, "That promotion meant more to me than than perhaps any promotion I have received since." He was promoted to sergeant at Mt. Cassino, Italy, and in 1944, given the rank of lieutenant.

After the war, Major Millett reverted to a Reserve status and enrolled in Bates College, Lewiston, Maine, studying there for two years. He was satisfied they were profitable, he says, "My military professor made a cutting remark about the narrow minds of members of the military and I stood up to reply that I knew a certain history teacher with a far more narrow mind. After the dean informed me that my stay at Bates was finished, that ended further schooling for me."

Recalled to active duty on the first day of 1949, he eventually seconded up in Korea as a forward observer with the 8th Field Artillery Bn. Promoted to captain while on the Pusan perimeter, he was wounded in the leg and sent to the hospital. He rejoined his unit and was temporarily assigned as an observer's job.

One day while on a mission deep in communist territory he spotted a burning U.S. P-51 with the pilot standing on a rose tree beside the plane. Landing close to the downed plane, Millett stayed behind, thinking of P-51s overhead would fly cover for him. However, the pilots flying above did not know he had been left behind and continued on their mission.

Armed with only a carbine and a few hand grenades, he was forced to fight off a group of Reds, killing two and scattering the remainder. In 45 minutes his plane returned and picked him up.

Major Millett's confidence in the Army was eventually led to his award of the nation's highest award, the Medal of Honor. Army intelligence reported that the communists thought little of American use of the bayonet.

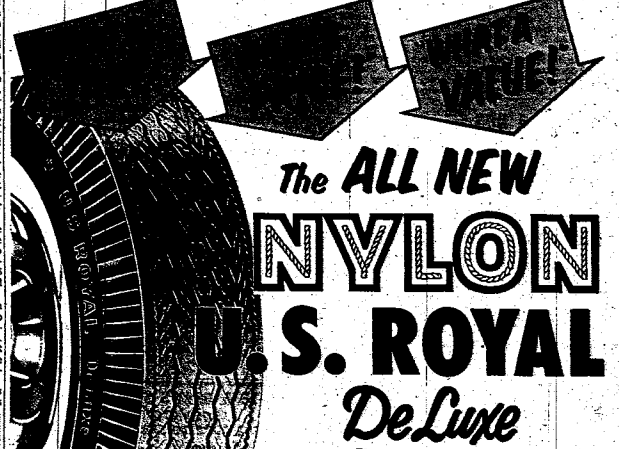

Scouring enough bayonets to equip all the men of his field artillery battery, Millett drilled his men in bayonet training day-after-day until he was satisfied they were proficient. After planning an attack on a shelling gun position, manned by 200 enemy soldiers. Results were in a charge against the enemy, killing 50 men in a devastating of the enemy, killing more than the other two raids.

For these heroic actions in the last day of a completely demoralized enemy in his sector and disregard for his own personal safety, Major Millett was awarded the Medal of Honor. He received the medal from President Truman at the White House on July 5, 1951.

Prior to his assignment to The School Brigade as a staff sergeant, the major served with the U. S. Military Mission in Greece. In addition to the Medal of Honor and Silver Star, he has been awarded four Purple Hearts, two Bronze Stars, two Air Medals, and the G. O. C. Infantryman Badge.

Lt. Glidden Finishes 1st In Course

Lt. Harry R. Glidden, pilot for The Infantry Board, returned this week after completing eight weeks of Instrument School at Fort Campbell, Ky., where he finished first in a class of 23 men.

Lt. Glidden, whose home is in Lancaster, Pa., was previously stationed at Fort Eberhart, Ala., as a fixed wing aviator before being assigned to The Infantry Board in Oct. 1956.

The Infantry Board had several men this week to other assignments. Among the recent departures are Sgt. Irving A. Ortiz, who is going to gyro scope to Germany with the Third Division; Sgt. Walter L. Slach, who is headed for Hawaii, and SP4 Larry B. Hooper, bound for a tour in Europe.

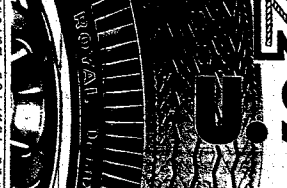

Col. Henry Nelson, deputy president of The Infantry Board, celebrated his birthday Aug. 19. Board members congratulated him for the victory birthday card signed by all the officers on the Board.

Awards Given To 51 REAs

Lt. Col. Charles F. Heagy, Executive Officer, Special Troops Command, presented Certificates of Training to fifty REAs. The REAs who had satisfactorily completed their training at the Third United States Army Training School on Monday, 15 August 1957.

Lt. Col. Heagy in his address to the men included the fact that while the active portion of their military training had been completed they still had a reserve obligation. He expressed the need for a steady reserve and the important contribution they were expected to make by diligently accomplishing their reserve requirements.

These fifty-one "Cast B Personnel" reported to the Food Service School after completing eight weeks of basic training. They were then enrolled in a cooking class for which they received credit for their successful completion of the "cookbook" course. They were retained by the Food Service School and received "on-the-job" training.

SCHOOL BRIGADE'S FIRST CONTRIBUTOR

Major Haynes Assumes Canadian Liaison Position

Major J. Gordon Haynes, commander of a rifle company and Support Company in the Canadian Guards Third Battalion at Camp Valcartier, Quebec. The preceding year he attended the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston, Ontario.

Major Haynes and his brother enlisted in the Irish Republic of Canada in June, 1940, and served in the Royal Canadian Regiment at Brockville, Ontario, from 1941 to 1945. He served in the 35-year-old office completed a two-year tour as

When the Queen's Own Rifles went on Reserve status in July, 1945, Major Haynes was assigned to the Royal Canadian Regiment at Brockville, Ontario. In 1947 he began a three-year tour with the Army Cadet Staff which pertains to high school age youths throughout Ontario.

His subsequent assignments were as a reinforcement company commander at Camp Peawawa, Ontario, staff member of the Officer Candidate School, Camp Borden, Ontario, and as a training staff officer of Camp Borden headquarters.

Haynes, the former Pauline McKullan of Toronto, has two children, Paula Jane, 6, and Gordon, Jr.,

Canadian Unit Rotation Works Similar to Ours

Rotation of Canada's brigade group in Germany this fall will be to serve a depot of arms, the flexibility and scope hitherto unknown, either at home or

The new brigade for Germany will be strictly in keeping with Canada's new and increasingly important role on the great North American continent. A result of Great Britain's decision to withdraw two of its divisions from the continent.

In the past, Canadian brigades fought in Korea and maintained a presence in Germany with only one squadron of tanks.

It is no accident that such a continuation of Canadian mobility and striking power should appear at home and abroad at this time. Today a Canadian brigade and a division are maneuvering at Wright and Gagetown military camps in an effort to arrive at new concepts of both mobility and organization for the war of the future.

Specialist Third Class James D. Johnson, a member of Company A, 28th Tank Battalion, Fort Benning, Georgia, was chosen as liaison soldier for the month of August.

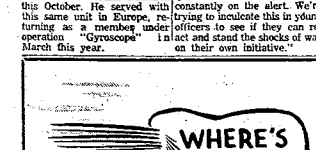

The son of James K. Johnson of Columbus, Ga., Specialist Johnson competed with all members of his battalion for this honor.

"It is an indication of what we must do tomorrow?" Johnson was asked.

He replied: "It is. We must know the largest effective group we can present the A-bomb in an undepended state. How big is this group? How many tanks and jeeps? How fast can it move and fight?"

"How do we support it? How do we supply it? How do we control it? And what about communications?"

Specialist Johnson entered the service on 13 October 1954 after completing his education at South High School in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He joined the Royal Canadian Army in 1956 to May 1957. CWO Raymond C. Scarborough, also commander on Kobe, Japan, on their own initiative.

31 Complete Drivers Test

Thirty-one Fort Benning youths, who devoted part of their vacation time towards learning safe driving habits, received certificates marking their completion of a ten-age U. S.

The youths, Fort Benning dependents between the ages of 15 through 19 years, heard Col. William H. Billings, assistant to the commanding general of the post, review the responsibilities of the obligations of today's young drivers.

Col. Billings pointed out that the responsibilities of a driver driving on the part of young people are not only to themselves but to the nation as a whole. He stressed the great natural resource of the United States.

The commencement ceremony concluded a series of four classes, two and one-half hours in duration, designed to instill in the young drivers a firm background in good driving habits.

The course of instruction included movies, lectures, and a trip to the Columbus Record-Examiner's Court where the students witnessed the actual prosecution of traffic violators. Instructors for the course were from the Infantry Center, Transport Transportation Section, Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department, and the Infantry Center. Present were Major Marshall and Safety Sections.

Gen. and Mrs. Smith also attended the graduation of their son, Carl, from The Infantry School officer candidate class No. 3 Aug. 28.

Gen. Smith conferred with Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry School commandant, Aug. 27 and attended an official luncheon the following day.

Capt. Clifford H. Vaughn, commander of the School Brigade's Third Company, was project officer.

Radar Thank you for continuing to warn motorists about speeding in school zones at Fort Benning. Checks will probably be more frequent in school areas than anywhere on post, he said. Drivers caught speeding at Fort Benning will not get off with a warning. "We have been instructed to cite all repeat violators," Capt. Hurlburt said.

The PM operations officer stressed that the speed limit on most dirt roads at Fort Benning is 35 miles per hour, unless otherwise posted. For general information to motorists, Capt. Hurlburt emphasized that the speed limit in the Wherry Housing project is 20 miles per hour. He also noted that the speed limit has been reduced from 40 miles per hour to 35 miles per hour between the intersection of First Division Road and Dixie Road and the Hook Range cut-off on Dixie Road. Speed limit in that area was reduced recently due to the heavy influx of traffic in the zone, he said.

U. S. Senate Okehs Rank To Post CG The U. S. Senate has confirmed the nomination of Major Gen. Herbert E. Powell, U. S. Army Infantry Center commanding general and Infantry School commandant at Fort Benning, for the permanent rank of major general in the Regular Army.

The 64-year-old officer was named a temporary major general in January, 1951. Confirmation of his permanent two-star rank was announced as Gen. Powell completed his first year as Fort Benning commander.

ROA Chapter Drive

The current membership drive by the Columbus - Fort Benning Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association is of interest to all reserve officers on post.

The ROA is an outstanding organization that commands the respect and support of all the top leaders in our military establishment and our government.

Recently, the ROA held its 31st National Conference at Santa Barbara, California. Among the many distinguished guests attending the Conference were The Honorable W. H. Francis Jr., Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower; General Maxwell D. Taylor, United States Army Chief of Staff; General W. G. Wyman, Commanding General, Continental Army Command and many more top leaders of the Armed Services.

The local chapter has always been active in the affairs of the National Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association. The current drive is intended to build the local chapter into one of the strongest and most active chapters in the Association. According to Major Carl C. Langan, President of the Columbus-Fort Benning Chapter, there are more than 3,000 reserve officers eligible in this area to join the local chapter. Representatives have been appointed in each major command and academic departments at Fort Benning to promote the ROA membership drive.

Heading the Reserve Officers Association for the next year is Brig. General de Lesseps S. Morrison, Mayor of the City of New Orleans, who was elected president at the National Conference in June. He will guide the Association's program for the coming year and assist in carrying out the resolutions passed at the National Conference, among which are included endorsement of the principles of the Cordier Pay Plan and Dental Care for Active Duty dependents.

Membership in the local ROA Chapter demands the careful consideration of every officer. Active participation in affairs of the ROA are mutually beneficial to the reservist and his local and national ROA chapter.

Money for You

Each year the Freedom's Foundation of Valley Forge, Pennsylvania conducts a Freedom's Foundation Letter Awards Program which is open to all members of the Armed Forces on active duty.

This year the letter should be from 100 to 500 words in length on the subject, "MY JOB: PROTECTING AMERICA'S FREEDOMS." Many Fort Benning personnel have already submitted their letters to the Freedom's Foundation in hopes of winning one of the many cash prizes offered for the best letters. Top cash award for the best letter this year will be $1,000. There will be two second place winners each receiving $500 cash awards.

One hundred dollars will be awarded for third place winners. In addition, a George Washington Honor Medal will be given to many hundred more honorable mention contributors.

The Freedom Foundation has prepared a new combined rules-entry blank that has been distributed to all company-size units through the Office of Armed Forces Information and Education, Department of Defense.

Only 12 more days remain before the letter program closes. All entries must be postmarked by 17 September.

The 10 top service winners will be invited to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania to receive their awards during an official ceremony on George Washington's birthday, February 22, 1958. The top winner in each of the services will receive an all expenses paid trip to the ceremony.

A trip to the orderly room for a blank form for the 1957 Freedom Foundation Letter Program could possibly prove to be a rewarding experience for you.

International Roundup

Reds Reject Newest Disarmament Plan

LONDON - Soviet Russia rejected the Western newest disarmament proposals today. The Soviet claim to possession of a world-ranging rocket missile was followed promptly by Russia's rejection of the plan. It was offered by the United States with the support of the NATO Allies against a backdrop of Soviet claims and warnings that Russian scientists have successfully test-fired a missile capable of knocking out a target any place in the world.

LONDON - The Russian announced today that V. M. Molotov, the fallen former premier-foreign minister, has been named Soviet ambassador to West Germany. This appointment was announced in a speech by Molotov in the Soviet parliament. He said that the Soviet Union is prepared to accept the West's U.N. disarmament talks here and rejected Western proposals for a two-year suspension of nuclear tests and an air and ground inspection system.

WASHINGTON - The Navy tonight ordered powerful units of the fleet to remain at sea in the Mediterranean for the time being. It has cancelled previous plans for vessels and crews to visit ports on the French Riviera.

LONDON - Soviet affairs experts and today it is highly likely the Russians find their intercontinental ballistic missile from the Vladivostok area. The Soviets closed the bay of Vladivostok, which is north of Japan, to foreign shipping today. One hundred dollars will be awarded for third place winners. In addition, a George Washington Honor Medal will be given to many hundred more honorable mention contributors.

LONDON - The West tonight proposed an 11-point, all-out diplomatic disarmament package on the long chance that Russia might reconsider its long-held position that the Soviet Union should be the only nuclear power to possess research and launching center.

LONDON - Harold Macmillan urged Premier Nikita Khrushchev to break the East-West deadlock over disarmament. Macmillan said in a friendly letter to Khrushchev that the Western plan "cannot be considered as offering any special advantage to the West." Zorn spoke without taking time out to consider the plan in a speech in the House of Commons. The package contained no big surprise. Already presented

Faults Are Real

CHAPLAIN (MAJ.) WILMER R. BOTTOMS

Much as we would like to have it otherwise, it seems to me a certainty that regarding the situation as a whole, the group reached the ability to do close order drill in an acceptable manner. The faults corrected, but like all faults that are based on ignorance, the correction could result in the fault. Criticism could point to the situation but could not be used as a basis for agreement.

Once I saw an Ordnance Company debarking from a troop transport ship. The dock was a temporary floating affair and the gangplank had its shore end propped up on some blocks and there were other blocks arranged at steps down to the surface of the dock. The blocks were unsteady and the men were being down the gangplank and the other gear that was being taken to the combat job. It was a dangerous situation and men would lose their footing and be injured on the way down. The men were being taken to the combat job and the other gear that was being taken to the combat job.

There was a serious threat of fault here due to human weakness and dangerous circumstances but it was avoided by a helping hand at the crucial moment. Much of life is like that. Perhaps no facts is better established than the reality of human weakness and no one could seriously question a helping hand in the circumstances we must pass through in this world. No one can stand alone and the work that those that stand at the danger points and steady their feet is something that cannot be overestimated on the way to the successful life that lies out ahead.

On The Air

Fort Benning's weekly television of the week's happenings to residents of the Fort Benning-Columbus - Phenix City area holds the spotlight again this week in the setting of broadcasts from the Infantry Center. Titled "FORT BENNING REPORTS," the program features film and pictures taken on the spot at various activities on the post. It can be seen Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. over WRFL-TV (Ch. 4) in Columbus.

There's interesting radio listening this week too with three programs scheduled on Columbus stations. The increased interest we have in the Army is placing on a soldier's ability to appear on a soldier's night in the theme of this week's "QUEEN OF BATTLE," entitled "A Shot in the Dark" this informative program includes an on-the-spot WDA.

Another Saturday program is "BENNING BANDSTAND" as Gene Allen and the Militaires make their regular weekly appearance. "BENNING BANDSTAND" is broadcast direct from the Main Officer's Open Mess at Ft. Benning. It is heard Sunday at 12:40 p.m. over recording of one of the night.

At Graduation Ceremonies

Gen. Leary Stresses Necessity For Logistics in ROK Army

The Republic of Korea Army's need for improved logistics was stressed by the assistant commander of the Third Infantry Division August 30 at the graduation of 39 ROK officers at Fort Benning's U.S. Army Infantry School.

Fifteen hundred ROK officers have attended Infantry School courses in staff work at battalion and battle group levels, communications and ground mobility since September, 1951.

Speaking to the Allied associate officers advanced class No. 2 in the Main Theater, Brig. Gen. John E. Leary was introduced by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, Infantry School assistant commander. Gen. Leary served as senior advisor to the Korean Military Assistance Advisory Group before coming to Fort Benning in June.

"I believe that the most important job for staff officers throughout the ROK Army is to know, understand and properly administer logistics," the speaker emphasized.

"You have just finished a splendid course in the mechanics of being an Infantry staff officer. You have proven and your forebears have proven your ability to fight. But there are many things in running a staff office, particularly the size of your Army, that must be done besides fight," he said.

Gen. Leary brought out that under the U. S. military aid program, the ROK Army is receiving new, modern radio sets and is building up truck transport system.

"Logistics is not simply receiving, storing and issuing equipment. It includes making certain that equipment is put to the use for which it is intended. There must be no duplication of men, money or material in the ROK Army into channels or efforts for which they were not intended," he advised.

"You must plan ahead in a modern Army. We cannot work on a day-to-day basis. You have been learning for the past several months how to plan ahead. Your planning should look toward a strong, completely squared-away Korea," Gen. Leary said.

The speaker pointed out that the better you learned your job here and the better you put that learning into effect when you return will make you a better man—not only as an individual and as a member of the Army, but as a patriotic citizen of a splendid Korea.

"You a nation that produces men who can acquit themselves on the field of battle in the ROK Army has deep there is no need to worry about the future and long-time fate of that country," Gen. Leary said.

Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Wildman, of Bogalusa, La., U.S. Army Infantry Center chaplain, delivered the invocation and benediction.

The Judge Says ...

"Dear Sir: While I was in the Army, I got into trouble, I was tried by general court martial and sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and six months confinement. After doing my time I figured I would get along better in civilian life because there were some things about the Army I didn't like. Well, I figured wrong. I can't get a job and I'm getting desperate. I can't get a GI loan to start a business or go to school or any other benefits under the GI Bill because my dishonorable discharge wiped those out. I will appreciate anything you can do to help me straighten out. I only wish I had known sooner what a dishonorable discharge means. Yours truly, ..."

The above letter is typical of many which have written to me by soldiers who have received a punitive discharge. I have considered what your discharge will mean to you? Discharge day is an important day in our lives. To those receiving honorable discharges it is a day upon which a grateful government recognizes honorable service in the defense of our country. Perhaps it indicates the passage of another milestone in a military career. However, to those who receive dishonorable or bad conduct discharges, it is a day of shame and degradation which will never be forgotten.

Many young men who have been sentenced by a general court martial to a bad conduct discharge, a dishonorable discharge have been denied opportunities of rehabilitation and have received execution of the punitive discharge adjudged.

Generally speaking, a punitive discharge resulting from a sentence of court-martial results in loss of all benefits administered by the Army and all benefits administered by the Veterans' Administration.

These include "such things as the rights granted by the National Readjustment Act, or as it is commonly known, the "GI Bill of Rights". In addition, many rights and benefits administered by other federal agencies are affected by punitive discharges.

For example, civil service benefits, federal re-employment benefits, unemployment compensation, Artillery Battalion, Mrs. Robert A. Dickson, Mrs. Robert M. Robinson, Mrs. James F. Schildt, Mrs. Johnny W. Broshar and Mrs. Vernon W. Meyer.

The red-and-white checked tabclosets were centered with bingo cards, roulette wheels and other games, carrying out a "Las Vegas" theme.

Mrs. Adams was chosen "Miss Columbus, Ohio" by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and twice in her hometown, Xerox, Ohio, at the XV National Convention the following year.

ASCHAFFENBURG, Germany — A mass pilgrimage to a Catholic religious shrine in the heart of the Wildfledcken training area turned into a German-American festival of faith recently when an American Army Chaplain, Father (Capt.) John D. Benson of the 10th Infantry Division's 1st Battle Group, 8th Inf., celebrated Mass before an estimated 8,000 pilgrims.

Every year Catholics from towns around Wildfledcken stage a mass pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Elizabeth, the Shrine of Our Lady of the Holy Hill.

For example, civil service benefits, federal re-employment benefits, unemployment compensation, Artillery Battalion, Mrs. Robert A. Dickson, Mrs. Robert M. Robinson, Mrs. James F. Schildt, Mrs. Johnny W. Broshar and Mrs. Vernon W. Meyer.

Marne Div. SFC Enters OC School

Sergeant First Class Harry E. Warnberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warnberg of Little Falls, Minnesota, has been accepted for admission to Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning. Sergeant Warnberg entered the military service on September 23, 1953, and after completing Basic Training at Fort Rucker, Alabama, was assigned to a machine gun crew with the 18th Infantry Regiment. In December 1954, as a Private First Class, he was awarded the American Spirit Medal upon graduation from the 3d Division Leadership School. The American Spirit Medal is awarded to the man who graduates highest in his class.

Prior to his acceptance for Officers Candidate School, he served as 3d Division Education Non-Commissioned Officer. Sergeant Warnberg will attend OCS through the medium of the "Marne" Division's "Operation Crossroads" program which was instituted earlier in the year by the 3d Division Commander, Major General Roy E. Lindquist. This program is designed to seek out and guide potential leaders in the Division to becoming commissioned officers.

Sergeant Warnberg's papers were processed by the new Division Career Counselor Captain Thomas J. Heston, who comes to the "Marne" Division from Knoxville, Tennessee, where he has been an Officer, Sergeant, and later, at Fort Benning, Georgia. Before entering the Army, Sergeant Warnberg was a school teacher in Morrison County, Minnesota. He and his wife, Emily, live in Columbus, Georgia, at 2113 11th Street.

CITIZEN... Captain Hampton Devis, (right) former commanding officer, Headquarters Detachment, Brooke Army Medical Center, and Major General William E. Shambora, Medical Center Commander, awarding Certificate of Achievement presented Captain Devis prior to his departure for the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. Captain Devis, who has served as Detachment Commander since July 1955, was cited for his leadership qualities, for the superior manner he directed unit training, and the personal interest in the welfare of his men which resulted in high unit esprit de corps.

12 Marnemen Get Training At Fort Sill

Duty in Pack Mule Outfit Termed Best

BAIBERGER, Germany-Kiel, is little more than a nostalgic memory in the history of the U.S. Army. There are few left in the 25 mile marches with the 1st Div. soldiers like M-Sgt. Bibbo Nowell, Sgt. Major, 2nd Bde Grp, 25th Inf. who considers experiences with mules an important part in their military career.

Nowell, a veteran of over twenty years of service, calls today the years spent with the pack mule outfit, the best duty he ever had. His adventures with mules are an indelible source of amusement to him, a combat veteran, whose assignment during WW II and to the Punch with the 1st Div. and the 25th Inf. during the Korean Conflict.

Entering the army in 1937, Nowell immediately received mules only a piece of history, his assignment to the 40th FA. He has been in the infantry since 1954, pipe pulling M-Sgt. and training the men in rather than the other way round with an even thirty years.

what's in it for me?

No matter who asks the question, the answer is "Plenty!"—as far as newspapers are concerned.

It could hardly be otherwise. The daily newspaper covers a galaxy of subjects. They fall into every conceivable category. They reflect the myriad interests of the individual... the family... the community.

And the reader knows it. That's why he goes through his paper, page by page to see "what's in it for me." This kind of "selfish" reader-interest develops wide exposure for the advertising on every page. It helps explain why newspapers continue to serve as a basic medium for tall advertisers.

Athletic Clown Is Unit's Radio Man

SCHWEINFURT, Georgia—Bill Williams, one of the weirdest careers in the 10th Inf's 2nd Bn. Co. belongs to PFC Bill Williams (Rt 1, Eugene, Ore.) Co. B. Admire is a former athletic clown, trampoline artist, and acrobatics teacher who now serves as a radio man with his unit.

When Bill was attending grade school at his home in Eugene, Oregon, he was induced by two of his friends to work out at the local gym on Saturdays and after school in the hope of forming an acrobatic team. "It wasn't long," explains Bill, "before we were doing just that. We called ourselves the 'Olympians'."

"I started working out on a trampoline in grade school and practiced for about six years before we started putting on shows," his first professional effort, he recalls, took place when he was a freshman in high school. "But that was one of those performances that we don't like to talk about much, he laughs.

One summer the Olympians, on a tour of ball parks in the Pacific states, covered cities all the way from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Fresno, Calif. "We ate, slept, and worked in ball parks that summer," Bill reminisces. "I don't ever want to see another ball park again."

Bill's more unusual exploits include a performance during the half-time at an Oregon-Stanford football game attendance, about 50,000 a week contract at the International Exposition in Toronto, and a TV show in Philadelphia. In addition, Bill's troupes worked regularly at circuses, carnivals, sports car races, and drive-in theaters. Once the Olympians were offered an 8-week contract in Caracas, Venezuela. "But I wanted to get married," says Bill, "and that rather threw the deal off."

The colorful infantryman has not only seen his share of the bright light, but he's also met some of the real luminaries in the business. Emmett Kelly, for instance, once taught Bill how to apply make-up. "After that, I usually sported a black derby, white gloves, and an oversized tuxedo — in addition to my brown make-up and fake nose," laughs Bill.

Army's Need of Trained Reserves Emphasized by Gen. Palladino

The Army's vital need for a hard-hitting, fast moving Regular Army, backed by a Ready Reserve, was emphasized by Major Gen. Ralph A. Palladino, chief of U. S. Army Reserve and ROTC affairs, at graduation exercises for the Army's first officer candidate class for Reservists Aug. 23 at Fort Benning.

The U. S. Army has commitments in 72 countries, with our soldiers on duty in many of these countries. Don't let day-to-day events fool you. We must be ever-mindful of the Communist threat," Gen. Palladino stressed.

Regardless of atomic advances, we have to have the good old foot soldier to seize ground and hold it. And we'll be ready when the first shot is fired, because it may be in our backyard," he explained.

Discussing the cost of eternal vigilance, the two-star general said, "We must maintain a

Gen. Palladino urged the members of the class to strive to build up the Army Reserve. He noted that the National Guard had a strength of 422,178 at the beginning of the fiscal year and must adjust to a ceiling of 400,000 by October. The Reserve has 1,008,440 members, with 286,381 on paid status, he said, adding that the Reserve is allowed 300,000 on paid status.

The speaker also brought out the importance of the class' imparting knowledge gained at Fort Benning to their units. "You must be ready to train other men, for the supply of trained leaders is never enough," Gen. Palladino said. Gen. Palladino was introduced by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commandant of Fort Benning's U. S. Army Infantry School.

Sixty-seven candidates received certificates at the 11 a. m. ceremony in the Main Theater.

Unusual Sport

Walking Is His Line Even in the Olympics

A member of the 1936 Olympic track team, who has represented the A-1-A Army track team at various meets held throughout the country, is now assigned to Hq & Hq Company, The School Brigade. He is Private Elliott H. Denman, assigned as a clerk in the Officers Pay Section, TSU.

Denman has not only been asthetically minded. As a student at Taft High School, Bronx, N. Y., he failed to participate in any sport. It was not until his sophomore year at New York University that he became interested in track, principally in the sport of walking.

His first year at walking competition, Denman made the track squad and won a few races. His junior year found him approaching championship style, winning a variety of titles and placing fourth in the one-mile walk in a championship stakes held at Madison Square Garden.

In his senior year at college Denman entered longer races. He finished fifth in the National 25-mile walk in the opening stanza on a double by third lieutenant Warner. The other ladies came in the fifth and sixth places. In the sixth, Braswell reached first on a two-run 300 foot dash over the left field fence and pitcher John Wyatt's 15 strikeout performance stumped Fort Gordon.

Hanifan, who set a new pass receiving record for the University of California's Golden Bears when he snagged 44 in 1954, figures to be in the line to participate in the Olympic games held at Rome, Italy, in 1960.

"Big John" Banard twirled a 5-0, five-hitter Monday against Redstone Arsenal to give the Fort Benning Doughboys their first win in the Third Army Tourney baseball at Fort Rucker, Ala. Other winners in the opening day of the Third Army tourney were defending champions Fort McPherson Co., 84 over Fort Campbell; Fort Brogg, 23, over Fort Gordon and Fort Jackson, 64, over Fort Stewart.

The Doughboys thought they had a two-run lead in the opening inning. Fort Benning's second baseman Tuesday evening trouncing tournament host, Fort Rucker, 11-0. Alonzo Jones of the Division Teams blasted a two-run homer in the second inning when the Doughboys scored eight runs on four hits and three Rucker errors. Doughboy hurler John Alford pitched 12 strike outs to silence the seven visiting victory.

Alonzo Jones of the Division Teams blasted a two-run homer in the second inning when the Doughboys scored eight runs on four hits and three Rucker errors. Doughboy hurler John Alford pitched 12 strike outs to silence the seven visiting victory.

YAC Swim Classes Open September 9

Swimming classes sponsored by Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club will begin Sept. 9 at 4 p.m. in the Brian Wells pool on the main post.

Former Third-Division hurler, Jim Owens, property of the Philadelphia Phillies threw a one-hitter to help Fort McPherson of an 8-1 win over the Screaming Eagles from Fort Campbell. Don Buddin, property of the Boston Red Sox and Steve Korcheck collected six hits believes them to cap slugger honors. Buddin collected two doubles, two singles and a walk in five trips. Korcheck found the range with a long home run blast over the left field fence and a run producing double which just missed spring over the fence.

Fort Brogg, highlighted by Bill Williams' tremendous two-run 300 foot dash over the left field fence and pitcher John Wyatt's 15 strikeout performance stumped Fort Gordon.

In the fourth game of the opening day, Fort Jackson built up an early lead over the first baseman Warner. The other ladies came in the fifth and sixth places. In the sixth, Braswell reached first on a two-run 300 foot dash over the left field fence and pitcher John Wyatt's 15 strikeout performance stumped Fort Gordon.

Commanders Put on Pads And Get Down to Business

Head Coach Bill Lenderman separating the men from the boys last week as the Commanders donned the pads and got down to the serious business of preparing for their grid group against The School Brigade on Sept. 21 at Doughboy Stadium.

"Get tough in there. Slam that guard," yelled line coach Frank Brooks as the School Troops Command football team went through slanting workouts at Sight Seeing Field last week.

Nearly fifty candidates have been working hard for the starting berth. Line Coach Roy Wilkins, an All Southeast Conference Choice at Georgia Institute of Technology, reports that he has several boys with college experience who are seeking the wing positions.

Line Coach Brooks won All Southeast Conference and All American recognition at Georgia Tech. Both Wilkins and Brooks will be playing as well as coaching. These two men provide a racing nucleus for the Commander line which will include several players with college experience.

Coach Lenderman praised the play of backs John Segar and Joe Paulson. Segar played college ball at West Virginia and Paulson, a 210 pound blood-buster, formerly carried the pigskin for Iowa.

It is still early in the season to tell too much, but Lenderman appeared optimistic on surveying the Commander football squad last night. He stressed that every position is still open and the boys who can produce will find themselves in the

BOXING SMOKE TONIGHT... Slated to appear in one of ten scheduled bouts tonight at Brian Wells Field House is featherweight Sgt. L. E. Eley of Hq & Hq Co. 2d Battle Group 14th Inf. The smoker will get underway at 7:30 p.m. Admission is 25 cents.

JERRY ARMSTRONG Cost to Highlight '58 Tackle Gear

Fishermen can expect an increase in cost of some 10 percent on 1958 model fishing tackle, which is soon to reach the market. However, new reels, lines and pastel coloring will be highlighted. The "hot rod" angler will come into prime next year with his own type of rod.

Although the costs will increase, fishermen will have plenty of choice to be a little sportier with the new look '58 tackle will have.

Among the new models sold at the recent National Fishing Tackle Show in Chicago are reels in pastel colors and the usual gimmick that has hit the market is a piscatorial Pied Piper that doesn't catch the fish, but calls them in by making appealing insect noises.

The gimmick is called "Krazy" Fish Caller and is a precision-made, hermatically sealed battery-and-buzzer system delivering a perfect reproduction of an insect's hum.

"Hot Rod" Angling The most unique attraction for the coming fishing season will be a special "hot rod" for winter fishing. The handle of the rod is automatically heated to keep year hands warm, and is adjustable to any temperature.

Another new look, which now has been adopted by the big name tackle companies, is the closed-face reel. Over the '58 model reels will be much improved in performance.

In the lure department, an aluminum-alloy minnow holder, or bait holder, designed to attach to your craft and ride the water without killing your bait also will be featured. This will be a big advantage for the live-bait enthusiast as it will hold more minnows and keep them livelier.

Best Accessories Cited For best sailing comfort or use in outdoor stadium wear will be the aluminum seat with back rest. The rest is equipped with a zipper pocket containing a plastic poncho for inclement weather.

The super-limp mono-filament fishing line, which made its debut last year on the tackle market with much success, will now have a competitor in the ultra-super-limp line. Split casters and flyrod anglers will have a new experience trying this line on the big game fish.

Manufacturers also pledged to dealers at the tackle show to make every effort to cut down "boodleging" of equipment to discount houses. This practice in 1956 and 1957, much

Jackson scored four big runs in the third inning as Fort Stewart defense fell apart momentarily. Marv Breeding, former Third Division Star, with a long triple and a single along with Jacob who garnered two singles and Kajak a potent double, were the big hitters for Fort Jackson.

Games slated for Tuesday were Fort Benning vs. Fort Rucker, Fort Campbell vs. Redstone Arsenal and Fort Gordon vs. Fort Stewart.

Blood Drive Set for Post USAISTC

A blood drive scheduled for Sept. 5-6 in Post Benning's U. S. Army Infantry School Troop Command got off to an early start thanks to the team of headquarters and Service Company of the 628th Tank Battalion.

When Sgt. Ronnie S. Harmon of Masontown, W. Va., learned last week that his neighbor in Phenix City, Ala., was in need of whole blood, he reported it to his commander, Capt. Robert Price of Champan, Ill.

Capt. Price immediately arranged for volunteers to go to the Phenix City Memorial Hospital where the neighbor was to undergo an operation. Seven members of the Reserve Company, Ft. Benning, and Headquarters Tank Section stepped forward. Five of the seven were eligible and gave a pint of blood each. The other two were not eligible because it had been a short time since they previously donated blood.

Those who gave blood are Sgt. Harmon, SP4 William J. Meluhart of Akron, Ohio, Pvt. James Taylor of Saratoga, Fla., PFC Ronald Red of Billings, Mont., and SP3 Robert Hall of Randolph, Maine.

Also volunteering were Sgt. Don S. Cressy of Nashville, Tenn., and SP2 Dykes Parrish of Barrow, Fla.

Ex-Canadian Grid Star To Boost Brigade Line

The next year, he enrolled at Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., and for four years started at guard on the varsity football team.

Upon graduation from college Coughlin played for one year with the professional football team, but was called to active duty in the Army which precluded further professional play.

When queried as to a possible career in professional football, he says he is undecided, but will probably forego such a career for one with United States Steel, hoping eventually to get into the sales department.

Upon graduation from Aquinas Institute, Rochester, N. Y., Coughlin attended the College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass., for one year, winning a letter in guard on the varsity football team.

4-A Boxing Champ Assigned to Division

Supplied with heavy weapons bound as a Marneman, and with his powerful fists, Sergeant John Arch comes to the Third Infantry Division with the 507 heavy weight boxing title of the Fourth Army Area. The 200 pound, plus, North Carolina pugilist is Germany's toughest opponent has been Marshall Crawford, who led a powerful 147 pounder on the way to the 47th Division title in 1952. As a result, representing the U. S. Army, he was assigned to the 34 Division.

Arch first entered competitive fisticuffs in 1948, as a civilian in his home town of Cherokee, North Carolina, under the watchful eye of his uncle, David Squire, a former baseball player. Tutoring his nephew, then weighing in as a welterweight, Squire coached him through nine amateur bouts, eight of which he won.

Arch entered the army in February of 1951, and took his basic training at Ft. Rucker, Ala. In no time at all, he was back in the ring and won the light heavyweight championship of the 47th Division in 1952. As a result, representing the U. S. Army, he was assigned to the 34 Division.

At Fort Rucker
Benning Ball Club
Set for 3-A Tourney

Ft. Benning's Marine Division dominated baseball representatives to the annual Third Army tournament, move out on Saturday for Ft. Rucker, Alabama, site of the week long double elimination tourney.

Composed of the 30th Infantry team, winners of the Ft. Benning Regimental League, and a composite of all other teams, the team is considered a dark-horse entry, fresh from a decisive 8-1 victory over Ft. Campbell's Screaming Eagles in an exhibition contest played at Gowdy Field last week.

Capt. Bob Farris is optimistic about the team's prospects against Third Army competition in the September 27 tournament. He feels that the club's hitting rates with any team, including Ft. McPherson. Very pleased with the performance against Ft. Campbell, Farris thinks that Benning will field a representative, as well as a talented nine.

Primary among the team's assets is the power and consistent quality of hitting. With second sacker Grover "Deacon" Jones, last season's possessor of baseball's highest batting average, and still property of the Chicago White Sox, the Benning club has a top slugger, runner, and fielder.

With Jones in the starting lineup in the exhibition contest against Campbell, was Al Jones, Division Trains instructor, 15th Infantry shortstop Rich Armet, and Divarty third sacker Don Woerner, making it an all-star

Army Team Ready National Rifle Event
In Progress at Perry

The main topic of speculation before the opening events of the National Rifle Championships Aug. 31 at Camp Perry, Ohio, is whether or not the U. S. Army shooters, whose headquarters are at Fort Benning, will be able to duplicate their performance in the recently completed pistol events.

The Army shooters are optimistically going into the rifle matches after watching their pistol teammates capture 12 of the 25 championships, including the coveted places in the .45 caliber service pistol team match.

Last year's showing in the rifle matches gives the Army a record of nine victories out of 21 championships, trailed close behind by the Marine Corps squad which captured eight wins.

Included in the Army's victories last year were three shooters who topped three big events: SFC Joseph E. Kelly, of Greensboro, Del., won the Crowell Trophy, followed by Capt. Francis B. Conway of Worcester, Mass., who topped the Wimbledon Cup, and SFC L. O. G. C. Row, Jr., of Fayetteville, N. C., who gained first place in the National High Power Rifle Championship.

Established by an act of Congress in 1903, the National Rifle Association's Thrift Shop is well stocked with electric washers, stoves, and refrigerators and the furniture department has furnishings for every room in the house. The shop also has a book department, gift corner and bicycle and baby buggy shop.

Technical Courses Available to 10th Division GIs in Germany

WUERZBURG, Germany—A full schedule of intermediate, high school, college, and technical courses will be available at the Schweinfurt Education Center through the 10th Inf Div during the Fall semester, 1957. It was announced today by Capt Paul B. Pisk (Chicago, Ill.), Division Officer.

Ulysses Watkins, Director of the Schweinfurt Education Center, reports that University of Maryland classes will begin for the 10th Div troops in that city on September 23. Offered will be courses in College Algebra, German History, Military Science, and English. Courses in typing and military correspondence are being carried on now and will continue into the Fall quarter.

Watkins is also planning a USAFI vocational program for students interested in mechanical drawing and carpentry, as well as group study courses on the high school level. In Kitzingen, two college level courses are slated to continue during October. Alan C. Reed, Director of Flak Caserne's Ed Center, announced that a course in the Slide Rule will meet Monday and Wednesday evening for a period of eight weeks beginning October 15, and a USAFI Speech course will be conducted on Wednesday afternoon and Friday evenings from October 4 through November 29.

The high school intermediate courses, with 63 students currently enrolled, will be expanded during the Fall season with all Flak Caserne units participating in the expected enrollment of 100 enlisted men. Highlight of Bamberg's Fall program is the offering of Military Science 151, a University of Maryland course dealing with logistics. Charles Dahl, Bamberg's Education Advisor, announced that the course will be taught by Maj. M. B. Christian, currently stationed in Hanau, and a veteran of an University of Maryland instruction.

Other Maryland courses being offered include German I, II, and IV. Each course contains 48 hours of instruction and is the equivalent of three college credit hours. "We are always swamped with requests for German classes," explained Dahlgren, "and I think the results of these classes are best shown by the improved German-American relations in Bamberg."

Also available during the coming months will be a group of requested USAFI courses including Beginning and Advanced Typing, Spoken Spanish, and Analytic Geometry.

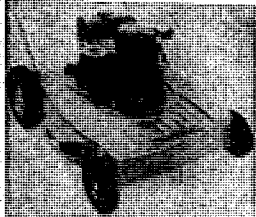

Sergeant at Head-Operations Sergeant at Head-3rd Infantry, last week was awarded the Good Conduct Medal Bronze Clasp with two loops. The award was given for "Exemplary Behavior, Efficiency, and Fidelity for the period June 29, 1954 to June 26, 1957."

Comeback by Rullman Wins 10th Int. Meet

BAD KISSINGEN, Germany—Bill Rullman, veteran of many golf tournaments, made an unbelievable comeback to win the 10th Int Div 1957 Open Golf Tournament held last week in Bad Kissingen, Rullman, behind 11 strokes after the first 36 holes, pulled his game together in the final two holes and played near perfect golf to win by five strokes.

Dunn Receives Conduct Medal

At Sgt. Donald D. M. Dunn, Operations Sergeant at Head-3rd Infantry, last week was awarded the Good Conduct Medal Bronze Clasp with two loops. The award was given for "Exemplary Behavior, Efficiency, and Fidelity for the period June 29, 1954 to June 26, 1957."

Joe Hickey came off the greens after the first two holes on Thursday before they settled who had claim to the fourth place honor. Hickey captured the spot, although he officially shared his net of 83 with teammate Kierman. The best single round was stroked by Alfonso Flores, who turned in a 71 on the final day of competition, too late to boast

Masquers Slate Meet Monday

A general open meeting of the Masquers will be held Monday night, Sept. 9, at Theatre No. 8. Masquers is the post's little theatre group. Any military personnel, their dependents or civilians employed on post are eligible for membership. There are no membership fees.

Business for the coming season will be discussed, and all those interested are urged to attend this important meeting. The first program on scheduled, which is now in rehearsal, is the presentation of two one-act plays adapted from the French by Mrs. Albert T. Stafford. They are "Fear of Slows" by Colette and "Zig-zag and the Landlord" by Emile Durafourt. The plays will be presented in the round on Sept. 26 on the patio at the Main Officers' Club and on Sept. 27 at the Main Post Children's School auditorium. Tickets will go on sale soon and patrons are reminded that for a round performance tickets are available in limited quantities.

no matter how you look at it, the story stays the same!

Advertisers invest more money in Newspapers than in Magazines, Radio, TV and Outdoor combined!

The figures change but not the story. Last year advertisers spent a record $3,305,000,000 in newspapers—again surpassing their combined expenditures in TV, magazines, radio and outdoor.

The figures have changed, too, in daily newspaper circulation—now up to a new high of over 57,000,000. This growth enables newspaper advertisers—national, regional and local—to penetrate anywhere in the nation.

How do advertisers rate leading media by the amount of money they spend? Here are the McCann-Erickson-Printers' Ink Preliminary Estimates of Advertising Expenditures for 1956, published on February 8, 1957:

Newspapers	$3,305,000,000
Television	1,255,000,000
Magazines	782,000,000
Radio	565,000,000
Outdoor	204,000,000

No matter how you look at it—from the vantage points of circulation, penetration or adaptability—newspapers continue to give the best buy for your money.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Ever dream of tossing a coin into the fountain of Trevi in Rome, watching the tropical night away and seeing the moon come up over Kingston town? You're like most girls working today, you have.

And vacation dreams like these can come true. Your two weeks with pay or three months away from schoolroom chores can become once-in-a-lifetime thrills.

And here's how. Sign up for Payroll Savings where you work! Or make arrangements to buy U. S. Savings Bonds regularly where you bank.

The rest is automatic. Any amount of money you stipulate will be saved for you each payday and invested in Savings Bonds. You'll be surprised how fast your Savings Bond nest egg will grow.

The main thing for you to do now is to stop just dreaming about strutting up the Champagne-Byrnes or cruising down to Caracas—and start making these dreams come true. Start investing in Bonds today!

And now Savings Bonds pay better than ever! Every Series E Savings Bond purchased since February 1, 1957, pays 3-1/2% interest when held to maturity. It pays higher interest, too, in the interim years, and matures in only 8 years and 11 months. Now, more than ever, it's smart to save with U. S. Savings Bonds.

Parade Held For Medics

BY PFC JOHN E. BRICE
Stullwell Field was the setting for a Retreat Parade on Monday, Aug. 26, at which several awards were given to personnel and units of the Group. Just prior to the troops passing in review, Col. Harry C. McClain, CO of the Group, presented a Certificate of Achievement to Lt. Col. Julian J. Fried, departing Group Deputy Commander, for his faithful and efficient service. Also cited was Pfc Robert Mietowicz, of the 5th Med Co, who received an electric razor for being chosen Group Soldier of the Month for July.

Several sports awards were also presented at this parade. On hand to receive the trophies for their respective companies were: M-Sgt. Earl Strawner, 542d Med Co, 1st place winner in Group Softball League; M-Sgt. Fred Bush, 531st Med Co, 2d place winner in Group Softball League; M-Sgt. Henry Church Jr., 698th Med Co, 1st place winner in Group Volleyball League; and M-Sgt. Luther Spry, 56th Med Co, 2d place winner in Group Volleyball League.

Commandant Says

Inf. School Develops Leaders for Combat

The U. S. Army Infantry School is developing superior leaders for atomic battlefields, Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry School commandant, told 196 students beginning officers advanced class No. 1 at Fort Benning Aug. 28.

Speaking at the opening session of the 31-week course, Gen. Powell emphasized the importance of evolving leadership qualities.

"The power of decision in battle rests with the Infantry soldiers, who close with the enemy and seize ground. No modern military thought has changed the importance of these soldiers or your importance as their leaders," he said.

"I welcome you to the most advanced, most modern and most forward looking course given in any combat arms school in the Army," the speaker continued.

"Our aim is not to perfect you in basic handling of weapons. Your experience has included that. We will teach you tactics up to and including the battle group, with a orientation on division staff functions as a staff officer and as a commander in these units," Gen. Powell explained.

He characterized the course as a key chance for personal self-improvement, offer-

Uncle Bill Lundy Post Participates in Rites For 109-Yr.-Old Rebel

A 10-man contingent from Fort Benning participated in final rites at Crestview, Fla., Sept. 4, for William A. Lundy, 109, one of the last three surviving soldiers of the War Between the States.

Capt. John G. Dawson, commander of the U. S. Army Infantry Center's honor guard company, and Chap. (1st Lt.) Ralph E. Harrell headed the group of the funeral services in Crestview Baptist Church at 11 a.m.

"Uncle Bill," named to one of the trip of Confederates who outlined the entire Union Army, died Sept. 1, weakened from a gall bladder operation last March.

At 11, he served with a unit of the Home Guard near Elba, Ala. Fairly active almost to the time of his death, Lundy's current interest centered on being fitted with a Confederate general's uniform to be worn as guest of honor at a park dedication near Crestview.

The old veteran's beloved flag of the Confederate States of America had a place of honor

4 Marines Commended By 3-A Chief

Four members of the 3d Infantry Division's 3d Aviation Company have been cited for their efficiency during "Operation Alert" by Major Gen. Douglas V. Johnson, Third Army Chief of Staff.

"Operation Alert" was the nationwide Civil Defense Test held in July. Receiving commendations were First Lt. Harold R. Johnson, Alfred W. Noel, William L. Roberts and William A. Walker, all of whom acted as Courier Pilots during the test.

General Lindquist commented that the high standards of efficiency and performance displayed by the four officers are wholly in keeping with those of the 3d Infantry Division and reflect great credit on the 3d Infantry Division and the military service.

Lt. Col. Merglen

French Liaison Officer Named

A counter intelligence agent during World War II and later an airborne commander in the Foreign Legion, Lt. Col. Albert Merglen is the new French Army liaison officer at the Infantry School.

He succeeds Lt. Col. Louis Bonnigal, who has gone to the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Awarded the Croix de Guerre for bravery during his first three years in combat, Col. Merglen next month completes 20 years of a career that has kept pace with a Hollywood thriller since his graduation as a second lieutenant from St. Michael Military Academy in 1937.

The 42-year-old officer first was decorated in October, 1939 for leading a "hit and run" attack on a German artillery corps across the border near Saurbrücken. Captured the following June, he was interned in Pamernaria in East Germany.

Within six months, Col. Merglen had pieced together a civilian outfit from parcels sent by his wife, Suzanne, and traded his cigarette rations for

Army Defeats Marines In National Trophy Match

The United States Army old record set last year, topped the Marine Corps in the national trophy match at Camp Perry last Tuesday while establishing a new record score of 1440-127's out of a possible 1500 points for the sixteen team.

Another Army team finished in fifth with a score of 1341 points. The first five teams in the national trophy match were: Army, 1440-127; Marines, 1341; Army, 1322; Army, 1318; Army, 1318. Other teams included: Lt. Alexander D. Marchetti, of Batavia, N. Y.; Lt. Charles E. Orr, Jr., of Athens, Ohio; Spec. 2nd Class John Holka, of Fremont, Neb.; Pfc. Sgt. Willis L. Powell of Weston, Okla.; and Sgt. E. Deane F. Stradlin, of Marshall, Ark.

Col. Edwards Named Director Of Ground Mobility Department

New director of the U. S. Army Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department at Fort Benning is Col. Norman B. Edwards of Diamond, W. Va.

He replaced Col. Melvin C. Brown of St. Louis, Mo. who has been assigned to Fort Gordon, Ga.

A 1932 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. V., Col. Edwards comes to Fort Benning after three years with headquarters of the Allied Forces, Southern Europe, Italy. He served with the Strategic Plans Branch and later as Secretary for the staff.

After completing the Infantry School's regular course in 1940, he was assigned to the 28th Armored Division until 1941. He then attended the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and the Armed School of the Infantry at Fort Benning. During World War II, Col. Edwards served at Hqs. ETO.

Army Prescribes Asian Flu Shots

WASHINGTON, D. C. (APNS)—Mandatory inoculations against Asian Flu have been ordered for all Army military personnel, the Department of the Army has just announced.

Initial distribution of vaccine is now being made and by the end of October most Army members will have received the first of two inoculations. The second inoculation, necessary to insure maximum immunization among personnel concentrations, is expected to be completed by December 31.

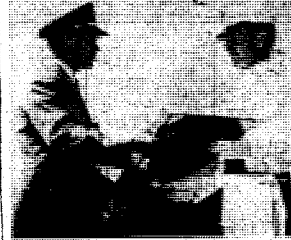

Timing of inoculations will depend upon local delivery after distribution through medical depots. Local commanders will determine and administer their inoculation schedules.

The vaccine will be made available also to Army dependents on a voluntary basis, and to civilian employees at overseas stations including Panama, Puerto Rico, Alaska and Hawaii.

The new strain of the influenza virus suddenly appeared on the world scene, presumably in Hong Kong in April 1957.

From there it is believed to have spread rapidly in two directions, one north including the Philippines, Indonesia, and Japan, and the other attacking Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, Pakistan and India.

Dr. Leroy E. Burney, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, has said the fact that we have had between 20,000 and 25,000 cases in many localized outbreaks indicates that there is a definite probability of an epidemic in Louisiana, for example, over a thousand cases were reported

Fort Benning personnel can register for fall quarter courses at the University of Georgia Sept. 25 and 26 at two local high schools.

Sept. 23, registration will be held from 1 to 8 p.m. at Jordan Vocational High School, 2200 Howard Ave., Columbus, Ga. The following day registration will be conducted during the same hours at Baker High School, located at the intersection of Victory Drive and Benning Drive.

The Army will play for 75 percent of the tuition fee for active duty military personnel who qualify for college entrance.

Partial tuition payment forms must be approved by the post Education Administration located in Building 2312 (Fort Benning telephone 6231).

Fort Benning education officials point out that partial tuition assistance will not be recognized by the University of Georgia unless the form is approved by the Education Administration.

Partial tuition forms will be issued by the Education Administration beginning Monday, Sept. 16.

Lt. Davies Sets New Machine Gun Score

A Fort Benning soldier who never fired a weapon larger than a .22 caliber rifle before entering the Army has shattered a two-year-old machine gun record at the post.

Second Lt. Pete G. Davies of Seattle, Wash., a student in the U. S. Army Infantry School's basic officers' class, fired a score of 179 out of a possible 180 points at Wagner Range, equipping the old record of 178 set in September, 1955.

The young officer was graduated from the University of Washington last December, obtaining a U. S. Army commission through the Reserve Officer Training Corps program. During his undergraduate days, Lt. Davies failed to try out for any of ROTC small arms or weapons teams because he did not feel his ability would qualify him.

After receiving 30 hours of instruction from the Machine Gun Committee of the Infantry School's Weapons Department, Lt. Davies' natural marksmanship ability was realized.

Lt. Davies praised his instructor, Capt. Ben F. Ivey of Chaw, S. C., for the overall excellence of his training and said he and his classmates received a firm foundation in small arms firing while at Fort Benning.

Lt. Davies is in his seventh week of training at The Infantry School. During the 17 weeks of instruction, Lt. Davies and his classmates are studying leadership, tactics, and weapons, designed to prepare them for their first assignment as junior U. S. Army Infantry officers.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Davies of Seattle, Lt. Davies will be assigned to Fort Benning's St. Michael's Episcopal Chapel.

TOPS MACHINE GUN RECORD... Second Lt. Pete G. Davies (in prone position), who recently broke a two-year-old Fort Benning machine gun record, sits in on his target. Lt. Davies fired a score of 179 out of a possible 180 points. The old record was 178 points. Capt. Benjamin F. Ivey, in background, is Lt. Davies instructor.

Post Chaplain Awarded Cross

Chaplain (Capt.) Harry G. Campbell, Jr., of Coopers town, N. Y., U. S. Army Infantry Center Episcopal chaplain, has been presented a silver cross by the Vestry of Fort Benning's St. Michael's Episcopal Chapel.

The sterling silver cross mounted with rubies was presented to Chaplain Campbell at the 18:30 a.m. services Sept. 11. His last service before his assignment here, leaving Fort Benning to attend the Chaplain's School at Fort Slocum, N. Y., The presentation was made by Col. Earl F. Kinick of Toledo, Ohio, chief warrant officer in charge of the quality of its weaponry.

The gift was designed by Ben Skinner of Columbus, Ga., a friend and personal friend of the chaplain.

On completion of the course at Fort Slocum, Chaplain Campbell will return to Fort Benning in December.

Quality of Weapons Key To United States Security

WASHINGTON, (ANS) During one of his latest appearances before a Senate subcommittee, General Taylor declared here, Army Chief of Staff, that the United States cannot remain secure, unless it has the ability to outstrip the enemy in the quality of its weaponry.

"Our research and development programs are the means by which we seek to maintain this vital superiority," General Taylor said to the Senators.

"Our most significant products are the new, complicated, and sophisticated systems of weapons which are fast being translated from blueprints to tangible hardware in view of the evidence of Soviet progress in this field. We can never afford to be complacent about our own successes, brilliant though they often appear. We must never relax our efforts, being sure that the enemy is always doing his best."

A recent issue of the official U.S. Army magazine Army Information Digest, which appeared within a few days of General Taylor's remarks, said "In the future the United States SCOUT MEMBERSHIP

School Brigade Officers' Wives Entertain With Luncheon Sept. 5

Officers' wives of the School Brigade entertained with a luncheon Sept. 5 in the Custer Terrace Officers' Club at Fort Benning.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Earl F. Klinck, wife of Col. Klinck, brigade commander, and Mrs. James L. Bryan, wife of Major James L. Bryan.

On the class was a desk stacked with books, cutlery for the trip to college, and division of football players.

During the affair, Mrs. Bryan played a medley of college songs on the organ.

New comers welcomed to the group were Mrs. Hart, wife of Major Gen. Hart, commander of the brigade's Fourth Battalion.

The guests of honor were asked to "pick up a book for a book report."

The decorations followed a "back-to-school" theme. The luncheon tables were centered with small red school houses.

126th Tank Company Retains Spirit of Former 29th Inf. Unit

The 126th Tank Company roared along with the highest number of donors in the regiment. The unit contributed 190 per cent to the Community Activities Fund.

The newly formed 126th Tank Company has already demonstrated that it is not an orphan organization for this unit called for 18 tracked vehicles, it has 27.

The target tanks in the 126th make the Tankers of the 126th the most "shut up" group of the regiment.

Div. Colors Wave In Calif. Ceremony The Third Infantry Division Colors are to be sent to the President in San Francisco, California, Sept. 25 to participate in the retirement ceremonies of Lt. Gen. Robert N. Young, who will retire from the United States Army on Sept. 30.

Gen. Young commanded the 3d Infantry Division from December 3, 1944, to January 7, 1945. He commanded the "Marine" Division through the Pacific Campaign, which was fought during World War II in the bitter cold and deep snow of the Vosges Mountains in France.

1st Trainees Report to Div. To Gyroscope

Troop strength of the Third Infantry Division began an abrupt upsurge last week with the arrival of the first contingent of men who will begin permanent training with the Gernany-bound Marine Division.

One hundred new Marines arrived last week. Some 10,000 additional soldiers will be in the Division within the next 90 days.

The first group of some 45 men are from the Army Induction Station Fort Dix, N. J. The remainder arrived by bus from Fort Knox, Ky.

On hand to greet the new arrivals were key staff officers and commanders who arranged assignments to training units after a first stop for a hot meal at Army dining rooms. Forty-five of the men arrivals were assigned to the 123d Signal Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. T. F. Schweitzer; the remainder going to the 10th Engineer Battalion, led by Lt. Col. Wilson R. Neff, another group of 40 men will be assigned to the engineer battalion.

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, U. S. Army Infantry commanding general at Fort Benning, will address the Mobilization, Ga., Kiwanis Club Sept. 12.

The two-star general will leave Lawson Army Air Field by helicopter at 9:15 a.m. and return to the post that afternoon.

The Judge Says . . .

confinement at hard labor for five years.

The basic offense defined in the article is the making or presenting of a false claim. The word "claim" means any demand for a transfer of money or property from the government to the individual; it does not include requisitions for the temporary use of property. Examples of claims include requests for pay or allowances of any kind, such as travel and dependency allowances, and claims for loss of household goods or other property interest.

Anyone who makes or presents such a claim, knowing it to be false or fraudulent in some way, is guilty of the offense. A fact making of a claim, unaccompanied by verbal representations, is not sufficient to constitute the offense. For example, one who simply accepts pay or allowances which he is not entitled to does not violate the article. The best illustration of a simple acceptance of money is the receipt of a check, which he is not entitled to, and knowingly delivers less than the amount called for by the check. The guilty of an offense may authorize a man's representative to act on his behalf in making a claim. If the representative is authorized to deliver a receipt from the government to any other person, and who signs for deliveries it without having full knowledge that its contents are true, is guilty of an offense provided his intent was to defraud the United States. An example of this crime would be the signing and delivery by an officer to a private contractor of a receipt supplied the government with certain supplies, when the officer fails to ascertain whether or not they were actually delivered and with the intention of defrauding the government.

On May 9, 1956, in a letter to all commands within the Third Army area, General consideration of the following with regard to the disposition of cases involving false claims for dependent travel: "I desire that positive and prompt action be taken to dispose of these cases with all the severity they deserve. I will not stand for condonation of fraud against the Government and I do not consider in the usual case that mere restitution and administrative or non-judicial punishment constitute appropriate action."

or attempt to use it to obtain payment of the claim.

More serious are the two crimes of making a false oath or forging the signature of another in connection with a demand for which there is a maximum of five years' confinement, regardless of the amount involved in the claim. A false oath may be made by any fact stated either orally or in writing, and is made under this section if obtained for the purpose of obtaining pay, allowances, or benefits. The offense of forging a signature is committed by one who signs another's name with fraudulent intent; it is not necessary that he attempt to imitate the handwriting of the other person.

The final two crimes defined by Article 132 relate to conduct of military personnel charged with the handling of government money or property. Any such person who turns over property or money to another person for a receipt, and knowingly delivers less than the amount called for by the receipt, is guilty of an offense regardless of what his purpose is in doing so. Government property is not authorized to deliver a receipt from the government to any other person, and who signs for deliveries it without having full knowledge that its contents are true, is guilty of an offense provided his intent was to defraud the United States. An example of this crime would be the signing and delivery by an officer to a private contractor of a receipt supplied the government with certain supplies, when the officer fails to ascertain whether or not they were actually delivered and with the intention of defrauding the government.

At Main Post School YAC Schedules Election Of Officers on Sept. 17

Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club will hold its annual election of officers Sept. 17 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Main Post School.

Officers to be elected are the president of the Board of Governors vice-president; and first, second and third vice-presidents.

Col. William S. Shoemaker of Silver Springs, Fla., president of the Youth Activities Club and Infantry Center engineer, urges all members of the organization to attend the election meeting. Fort Benning parents of children from 5 to 20 years of age who are not members also are invited to be present.

The club sponsors all youth groups and programs at Fort Benning. These include Cub, Brownie, Boy and Girl Scout activities, Barracks for teenagers, the Junior National Rifle Association and children's sports. The sports are football, baseball, basketball, tennis, swimming and boxing. The Youth Activities Club is also responsible for playgrounds on the post and the annual Fourth of July celebration.

The organization receives its financial support from the Fort Benning Communities Association Fund and from membership dues.

Benning Loses All-Army Title to Fort Riley, 4-1

Fort Riley, representing Fifth Army, spearheaded by the relief pitching of John Hood captured the 1957 All-Army softball championship at Fort Leonard Wood Monday night by scoring three runs in the thirteenth inning to defeat Third Army's entry Fort Benning, 4-1.

er, Lou Cox, pitched eleven scoreless innings after being touched for one run in the first frame. Fort Riley opened its attack driving across the three big runs on two hits. In the bottom half of the final stanza, Riley's John Hood held the Benning team scoreless to preserve the lead and win the All-Army title.

After winning their first two games, Fort Benning lost to Fort Riley, 5-2, as hurler Joe Albery pitched a masterful one-hitter.

Sent into the losers bracket, Third Army fought through nine scoreless innings with Fort Still before coming up with two runs in the top of the fourth to eliminate the Oklahomaans. Stu Pletcher Ray Judd had a double hitting through the ninth inning, but Fort Benning got to him for four runs in the top of the tenth to win the trophy's second overtime game, 2-0, and gain the finals against Fifth Army.

Left fielder John Flad became Benning's second base runner when he bunted safely with one out in the top of the tenth. Tony Harris fanned but catcher Herb Crank drove a single to left that sent Flad to third and then stole second. Rick Murray provided the games big blow, a single to left that scored both Flad and Crank.

Opening Victory In the opening game for the Fort Benning team against the Fourth Army, the Third Army squad broke loose in the seventh inning for a 3-0 lead, three hits after being held to one hit by Fourth Army's Ray Judd.

With one out, Benning shortstop Saufly Slout took first on a fly to center. Catcher Outfielder Tony Harris then stole the first hit off Judd since the first inning, a run scoring double to right center. Harris became the Third Army's second out when he tried to take third on catcher Herb Crank's grounder to short. However, first sacker Rick Murray kept Third Army's hopes alive with a single through the box that set Arden Munson, running for Crank, to third. Pitch Hitter Bob Colton then delivered a double that scored Munson with the tying run and Murray with the winning marker. Fourth Army, which had an early 2-0 advantage on single runs in the first and third, threatened to tie the count in the last of the seventh. Rudy Calabone, batting for Bob Foust, opened with a single and took second on a passed ball. He stayed there as reliever Lou Cox of Fort Benning got shortstop Ron Ristved on a lead off first. Outfielder Harry Jeffries on a strikeout in the first baseless Vern Holders on a fly to center. Judd, who's fourth hitter included the three bingles in the seventh, fanned 13 hitters. At one point he bunted a string of three hits without a run being scored. Lou Cox surrendered three hits without a run being scored in the first and then only one more after that. The first baseman Rick Murray's fly to right field drove home three runs with a run being scored in the first and then Tony Harris, who had reached third on a fly to center, stole and hit pitch, with the decisive sixth inning run. Seventh and eighth scores came on striking singles by Cox and Arden Munson. Harris' fly to right by pinch hitter Ron Colton and Saufly Slout's single.

A 48-game schedule consisting of 13 teams in a regimental level gridiron program will highlight the 1957 football season at the U. S. Army Infantry Center.

Opening action is slated to get underway Sept. 17 at Bennett Field when the Division Army entrants will meet the 38th Infantry under the arc lights.

A new sports program established last December by The U. S. Army Infantry Center Special Services Sports Council has eliminated all level of competition in favor of an intramural program that will allow a greater majority of military personnel to participate.

According to Major William V. Johnson, assistant Special Services Officer, USAIC, the council felt that more military personnel would be benefited by a program run strictly on a regimental level.

In place of a post gridiron team this year, Fort Benning football fans will be able to watch two regimental leagues in action. The U. S. Army Infantry Center will field a four-team league which will play at Doughboy Stadium on Main Post.

The Third Infantry Division will field a nine-team league which will play a 26-game schedule. Games for the Marmen will be played at Bennett Field on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. and on Saturday afternoons at Doughboy Stadium.

The Infantry Center league comprised of teams from U. S. Army Infantry School Troop Command, U. S. Army Infantry (Please See Oppen, P. 17)

Fort Mac Cops Third 3-A Baseball Crown

The Fort McPherson Colonels captured their third straight Third Army baseball championship last Saturday at Fort Rucker, Ala., defeating Fort Jackson, S.C., 5-4.

All-Army champions the past two consecutive years, the Colonels swept through the tournament undefeated and the team once again represent Third Army in the All-Army tourney at Fort Knox, Ky., Sept. 16-20. Fort Benning's lightly regarded baseball squad, represented by the Third Infantry Division's 30th Infantry, at one time appeared to be a dark-horse of the most sweeping to win in their first two games. The Benning contingent defeated Redstone Arsenal, 6-0 and Fort Rucker, 14-0.

However, the home forces in their third encounter ran into Fort McPherson and the team proved to be a 3-1 setback. The following day the Benning squad was edged by another Georgia squad, Fort Gordon, 3-1, and was eliminated from further contention.

The Benning encounterment with Fort McPherson saw fireworks during the opening stanza for the Colonels. Lead man Al Spangler hit a single, stole second and scored as catcher Steve Korcheck singled in the Third inning a walk to Spangler coupled with a double by Bob McCreary and a wild pitch scored another tally. The final run for the Macmen came on a triple by Gordon Coleman scoring Korcheck who managed to get on on a free pass. Fort Benning's lone score came in the fifth inning when Cliff Hoffer, who Browell singled home Dick Juggins who earlier had knocked a double to right field.

In the game with Fort Gordon, the Benning team drew first blood in the third inning. Dick Arment singled, went to third on Whit and Jones both grounded out. Arment scored on third-baseman's Don Woerner's single. The lone tally looked mighty big till the final eighth

TOM WIERZBICKI Pennant Drive Is On Baseball Fans

There is nothing that can compare to winning a baseball pennant on the final day of the season. Ask the Atlanta Cracker's and Cracker's Association... Better still, ask the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Earl Mann's Crackers had to do it the hard way last Sunday. Saturday night they were one half game out of first. They had to win Sunday and hope for the league-leading Memphis Chickies to come out on the short end of their game with Little Rock.

Was It Fate? Call it fate? No... His real name is George Brunet, a Little Rock southpaw who hurled a one hitter over Memphis, 2-0, while the Crackers were going away, 10-2. Yes, Brunet was the hero of the day. The Crackers — they won the pennant in a whirlwind finish, but it took a pitcher from a seventh place ball team that made it all possible.

For the Atlanta team it was their 16th pennant. Here was a team that occupied first place only eight days the whole season. But the eighth time was the one that counted.

Luck is a word that we do not incorporate in our vocabulary. We would rather term it "statistical probabilities." Why? Well that's another tale. Let us just say that it is these statistical probabilities that separate the pennant winners from the runners-up.

Far-fetched you say? Well, let us look at a horse of another color. Last year the Brooklyn Dodgers copped the National league pennant from the Milwaukee Braves. It didn't follow the same pattern as the Crackers storybook finish, however, the season ended.

An Unsuccessful Evening For some unknown reason we remember the finish quite well. The Braves had a one game lead with three games remaining. On a Friday night in the unfriendly city of St. Louis the Braves were defeated. We heard this account in an automobile heading toward Milwaukee for what we thought was the host team for the 1956 World Series. The Dodgers were rained out in Pittsburgh so a double-header was scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Statistical probabilities entered the picture for the Dodgers. An afternoon twin bill was certainly better than playing two single games under the lights. And the extra day of rest for the Dodgers lunifers didn't hurt too much. When game time rolled around for the Braves the results of the Dodger-Pirate double header was also in. The Dodgers won both games and were one-half game ahead. The Braves had to win. But the scorebook doesn't follow that pattern. The Braves lost and the Dodgers were a full game ahead with both teams slated to play the seasons finale Sunday. For all practical purpose the season was over as far as the people of the "big city" were concerned. Catch the Dodgers with one game remaining, it couldn't happen! They were right — it couldn't and didn't happen. The Braves won their ball game, but the Dodgers wouldn't follow the script and lose. The season was over and all we had to show for it was two tickets to a World Series that never took place.

Ram Coaches Take Stock of Personnel

Head coach and backfield mentor John J. Breidice and the coach Douglas C. Boyd took stock of their football material last week and theorized that they have Fom Toed to expect of The School Brigade Rams football aggregation this year.

Breidice says, "I have five experienced backs in Jim Lavery, Dean Matheson, George Gotschick, Paul Wilson, and Chuck Kozscheck. A real 'steerer' will be Bobby Hill. We have four or five other backs with not much experience but a real desire to play ball.

"At quarterback will be Bill Loyd and myself. Loyd also has had a lot of experience at full back. Both Willie Longshore and Melvin Spencer will play defensive backfield. They are both tall and really fast, and should give our rivals a rough time in breaking up their passing attacks.

"Overall, I believe we have a fairly fast backfield for the team as a whole will give a good account of itself. Our main trouble is in depth. An injury or two to key personnel would be a real problem. Douglas C. Boyd, line coach for the Rams, says, "The line as a whole, is pretty good, but we need more depth in the center position."

Women Head Wrestling Show Tonight

A thrilling wrestling card is set for Valley fans tonight at the Arena in Columbus when the first of three all-star bouts get under way at 8:15.

Two of the nation's leading women wrestlers are in the special attraction when Miss S. Rose Roman, of Chicago makes her debut against another newcomer to the local ring in Miss Ramona TeSelle who is from Paris, France.

Both young ladies come here with enviable mat records and both are reportedly endowed with more than the average charms and beauty of the feminine group.

Tarzan White, the former all America football player at the University of Alabama, wrestles in tonight's main event against Freddy Blasie who is from St. Louis, Mo.

White made a big hit here last Thursday night when he held the present southern heavyweight champion, Kurt Von Brawner, to one hour draw and had the champion hanging on at the bell.

Flying Club Selects Slate of 5 Officers

Sixty-three members from Main Post and Third Infantry Division have become charter members of the new Fort Benning Flying Club.

The club was formed for the purpose of providing facilities for and to encourage flying at a hobby among military personnel. Another added factor in its establishment was for offering off-duty recreation for post persons at a nominal fee.

Awards

Thank You for Continuing... posing a central receiving post for receipt and further classification of serviceable property and for providing storage in serviceable warehouses.

An aircraft mechanic of the Infantry Center Training Center, Section, Farrell T. Cook saved the Army an estimated $8,400 annually and received gas for his efforts. Cook developed a safety tool for securing nuts, bolts and screws on Army aircraft. The job was previously done by hand, requiring wires to make the items secure. Beyond the monetary value, the proposal were the even more important factors of safety and a 90 per cent man-hour time saving, officials stated.

An estimated $4,320 annual savings resulted from the proposal of a simple form of accounting to be used under the Army command management system. Sgt. William S. Sysgs, assigned to the U.S. Army Infantry School's Operations Office, received a 3rd prize military award from The Infantry Center and a Certificate of Achievement. He was presented $100 as first prize under the Third Army military program.

German

Thank You for Continuing... Koenigsberg University in Prussia.

Dr. Sommer served as a judge in the State Courts of Namur, Halle-Saale Naumburg, Solke, Elber-Harz and Stolberg-Harz from 1930 to 1938. Following a two-year term as Local Court Judge in St. John Harz, he was assessor of the South Civil Court in Naumburg-Saale.

After serving in the Berlin Court of Justice in Berlin from 1943 to 1944, Dr. Sommer was a minister in the Federal Chancellor's office in Berlin and an official in the state judicial system in Northrhine.

He was a Judge with the Seventh U. S. Army Military Government in Osterholz-Scharmbeck from 1945 to 1949 and the Army through his "extraordinary heroism, inspirational leadership and tactical skill," according to his numerous citations.

At the Communications Department, Col. Corley replaces Col. Rollin B. Durbin of St. Louis, Mo., who is being assigned to the Republic of Vietnam.

Message

Thank You for Continuing... that will help to bring us ever closer to that final goal of universal love and brotherhood that we all so earnestly desire.

To all of you I extend my personal wish for every success and happiness for this and all the New Years to come."

PM Reports Drive Reducing Post Speeders

A general crackdown on curtail speeding on the Fort Benning road system has been successful, reports Lt. Col. Allen C. Shuler, Infantry Center provost marshal.

Another traffic hazard at Fort Benning is the driver who follows the vehicle in front of him too closely. With 5,200 vehicles entering and leaving the post hourly during the peak hours, a sudden stop could involve quite a number of vehicles in a serious accident.

Traffic control is the assignment of 30 military policemen under the supervision of M. Sgt. Willis M. Grimes of Jasper, Ala. They are equipped with 11 motorcycles and three sedan cars and operate 12 hours a day Monday through Saturday.

According to Sgt. Grimes the "slow police" driver can prove as great a hazard as the speeder.

As a result, he warns motorists especially on Lumpkin Road where the minimum speed is 35 miles an hour that motorists will be given to drivers having too slow as well as too fast.

Patents are cautioned never to allow children to hang out open car windows. This constitutes a safety hazard both to the youngster and to the passing traffic.

Above all, Provost Marshal section officials are trying to install an important and contagious habit in all Fort Benning drivers—road courtesy.

PX to Open New Uniform Section

The Post Exchange plans to open a Military Clothing Store in the Main PX section now occupied by the sporting goods department.

William B. Hallyburton, general manager of the Fort Benning Post Exchange, said the relocation will assist in giving personalized service to purchasers of the new green uniform. Sales of the new green uniform and dress blues are exceeding expectations that enlarged space is needed to accommodate customers, he points out.

The new department will centralize displays, and merchandising of uniforms, along with those items that are worn with or offed to the uniform.

The relocation will begin this week end and will be completed by Sept. 27, Hallyburton said.

All regulation items will be carried in the new uniform department, including insignia, ribbons, patches, military footwear, belts, caps.

Girls' Archery Program Slated

Fort Benning's archery program for girls will begin its fall schedule Sept. 28 at Brat Barracks.

Archery for the post's girls of all ages is sponsored by the Youth Activities Club. Girls who are interested are invited to attend the season's first meeting at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 28 at Brat Barracks.

Registration and organization of the group will be discussed the first session.

Heading the girls' archery activity is Capt. Hampton Rowland, Jr., of Athens, Ga., assigned to the Map Reading Committee, Staff Department, U. S. Army Infantry School.

Military Police Hold Anniversary

Soldiers of Fort Benning, Wash., the men of Company C of the 22d Infantry Regiment's First Battle Group, are receiving a week's orientation before beginning their 28-hour stint as MP's beginning at 8 a.m. Sunday.

The actual birthday of the corps is Sept. 26, 1941, when the threat of World War II pointed out the need for specially trained troops for police duties to cope with the complex problems of combat.

CHECKS SPEEDER . . . PFC Bruce Stevens halts a speeding motorist on his motorcycle at Fort Benning.

LIE DETECTOR . . . A Military Police Criminal Investigation agent gives a lie detector test to a demonstrator at Fort Benning. The lie detector, part of the modern crime lab, can detect an untruth by skin resistance, breathing and blood pressure.

The theme of this year's anniversary is "Progress" and the word is graphically illustrated by the Infantry Center MP operation under the command of Lt. Col. Allen C. Shuler of Jacksonville, Fla.

For example, the Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment at Fort Benning provides the post with a detective staff comparable to a city police force. The size of the staff is the same as that of a city police force in the South, where assistance combines with human ingenuity.

An accused person may take a lie detector test where his breathing, skin resistance and blood pressure provides an accurate record of the truth of his statements.

Those suspected of alcoholism are given an alcometer examination where chemicals reveal the exact percentage of alcohol in the body.

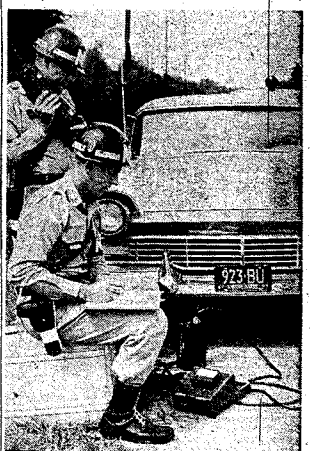

One scientific method used by MP's to discourage puffing in Army billets is to plant a wallet with money in the open and to dust it with invisible powder which shows under a fluorescent machine. Patrols check areas especially near school zone on the lookout for the reckless drivers.

Two radar sets placed at various areas on the reservation check the speed of passing vehicles and summons are given to violators of maximum and minimum speed laws.

The Military Police cooperate with and initiate many safety programs. One of the foremost is the annual bicycle school given by the MP's to instill road courtesy and good driving habits in grade school youngsters.

With more than 5,000 vehicles entering the post hourly during the morning and evening peak hours, the MP's designed a traffic pattern to insure that autos move with maximum efficiency and at a speed consistent with safety.

In describing the mission of the Military Police with the pentomic concept of today's modern Army, Col. Shuler stated, "The dispersed doctrine battlefield does not lessen the need or mission of the MP. With mobility a great factor than ever before the MP's are needed to direct traffic, to guard prisoners over a long distance and to direct our own soldiers who are separated from their units."

"The theme of Progress" is consistent with the methods, mission, and performance of the Military Police Corps today," Col. Shuler added.

Capture Four Trophies

Army Shooters Display Superiority in Matches

BY JERRY ARMSTRONG

The 1957 National Rifle and Pistol Matches have now become history, but they will long be remembered as the year that the U. S. Army shooters demonstrated their superiority with the service rifle and pistol.

In the National Trophy Matches, which are sponsored by the Department of the Army, the Army shooters really showed their skill as they copped four out of five coveted trophies.

The incomparable M. Sgt. Huetel L. "Joe" Benner of West Point, N. Y., who coaches the West Point Academy pistol squad, topped a field of over 350 pistoliers in winning the National Trophy Individual Pistol Match with a record score of 283 out of possible 300.

In the National Trophy Team Match, the Army's Grey squad (composed of SFC Nelson H. Lincoln of Flagstaff, Ariz., M-Sgt. Roy Ratliff of Fayetteville, N.C., PFC Fred Grant of San Diego, Calif., and Sgt. Benner) took top honors by firing their way to a score of 1,200. This was just one point under the record.

The coveted National Infantry Trophy Team Match, which was toward the finale of the matches, once again was highlighted by the shooting of the Army shooters. A six-man team, comprised of M-Sgt. Harold W. Hinkins of Delta, Colo., 1st Lt. Richard D. Wentworth of Escondido, Mich., Capt. Richard M. Conley of Gulfport, Fla., 1st Lt. James G. Brannan of Jarmontown, Tenn., and CWO Ouis Brown of Myrtlewood, Ala. fired a solid 887 out of possible 900.

The grand prize of the matches, which is the National Trophy Rifle Team Match, was the Army shooters' capture top honors. The Blue team composed of M-Sgt. Willis L. Powell of Guthrie, Okla., 1st Lt. Richard G. Hinkle of Hayward, Calif., Alexander Marchant of Bettavia, N. Y., and Charles E. Orr, Jr. of Uhrichsville, Ohio, and SFC John Roka of Oradell, N. J., shot a new match record score of 1,440 out of possible 1,500.

In all, there were 47 individual and team rifle and pistol matches, not including the small bore school. The Army shooters took 21 first places, the Marines 14, civilian shooters 10 and the Navy 5. Eleven of the high power rifle matches went to the Army, while it also set the same number of new records during the six weeks of competition.

These victories by the U. S. Army rifle and pistolers claimed the marksmanship program now underway with guidance by the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning. This unit established by U.S. Continental Army Command in March of 1956 has since that time taken over the duties of selecting and training the members of the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Teams plus the U. S. Army International Rifle squad. These officers and enlisted men under the command of Lt. Col. E. R. Mason of Columbus, S. C., have accomplished their goal of producing the finest marksmen in the country to

SPORTS

Junior Rifle Club Opens for Youths

The Fort Benning Junior Rifle Club, an affiliated member of the National Rifle Association, has been developed to bring out those qualities of sportsmanship, fair play, cooperation and safety in the use of fire arms and ammunition.

The cost for boys and girls between the ages of 11 to 19 years who wish to join the club is 50 cents annual dues and 25 cents per box of ammunition (50 rounds). (Normally a shooter will be allowed to fire 25 rounds per week depending on time and amount of ammunition available.)

Members of the club are taught step by step how to shoot the 22 rifle, beginning with the safety factors in the handling of all fire-arms, continuing successively in training until a shooter sees in the actual firing line to fire his first round at a marked target.

As a shooter progresses in each stage of firing, progress is marked through distinguished citizen, he is awarded a diploma which enables him to purchase the appropriate model of that stage of firing that he has completed with the exception of the Expert and Distinguished Rifleman medals which is given to the member by the National Rifle Association when that stage of firing is completed.

A firing season will be conducted each Saturday morning except school holiday week ends beginning Sept. 14, 1957, 8 a.m. at the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club (small bore range) for Junior shoots and will conclude on June 7, 1958, with the annual trophy match.

The firing each week is conducted under the direct supervision of a minimum of three officers and 10 enlisted men of the Weapons Department, The Infantry School. All parents are encouraged to come to each session and assist his child in any way possible.

All this is made possible by the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club, the Youth Activities program, another step in the progress of the development of the youth of Fort Benning.

FIRING LINE . . . More than 30 young shooters of the Fort Benning Junior Rifle Club take to the firing line during the first session recently of the 1957-58 shooting season. Over 100 young marksmen are expected to join in these weekly firing sessions to be staged at the new range located near the post rifle and pistol club.

Mel Spencer Dons Pads To Play With TSB Rams

A former All-American football star now plays for the School Rams. Private Melvin M. Spencer, assigned to Company A, Infantry School Detachment, TSB, as a mail clerk, will see plenty of action this season as an offensive end and defensive halfback.

Spencer began his athletic career as a student at Dunbar High School, Washington, D.C., where he lettered on the varsity football team for two years.

Upon graduation from high school, he enrolled in North Carolina College and earned a Bachelor of Science degree (four letters on the varsity football team, a place on the All-CAA (Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association) team, and a berth on one of the All-American football teams).

The Los Angeles Rams pro football club tried to get Spencer's signature on a contract for two years, but he had set his sights on becoming a teacher and had given up any idea of turning professional.

Next, Spencer enrolled at the University of Iowa where he earned his Masters degree in physical education. He was not eligible to play varsity football, but he did participate in intramural football, basketball, and softball.

For two years prior to his entry into the Army Spencer taught and coached track and tennis and was assistant coach for both football and basketball at Phelps Vocational High School, Washington, D. C.

Asked if he would try professional ball when his service commitment ends at 30 days "Definitely not. I'll return to teaching because that's the teaching end of it — offers a greater satisfaction than any other work I can do."

"To see an individual develop both physically and mentally under your tutelage is beyond

A former coffin salesman and all-around athlete at Pennsylvania University will fill a guard position for The School Babe Ruth Foundation Sportsmanship Award.

Diognardi began his athletic career at Brooklyn Technical High School, winning four varsity letters on football, track and field teams.

Powell, commanding general of the U.S. Army Infantry Center, coaches one of the young fires at the opening weekly sessions of the 1957-58 shooting season for the Fort Benning Rifle Club at its new range. Gen. Powell officially opened the range, which is located near the post rifle and pistol club. Firing the small bore rifle is Betsy Adams, son of Major and Mrs. Sam H. Adams of Grand Island, Neb.

Officers' Tennis Tourney Slated

The Annual Fall Officers' Tennis Tournament will be held at the Main Officers' Mess Tennis Courts on the 5th and 6th of October. The tournament finals will be played on Sunday, 13 October, at 10:00 hours. Trophies will be awarded in three events: men's singles, men's doubles and women's singles. All adult members of the Fort Benning Officers' Club are eligible to participate in this annual tournament. There will be no entrance fees charge. Interested tennis players should register at the tennis pro shop prior to 3 October. For further information call the tournament Chairman, Colonel Owen T. McCloskey, at FB 26191.

RUNNERS-UP . . . Officer-in-charge of the Third Army Softball team, Lt. Alfred W. Porter, Jr., accepts the 1957 All-Army Softball Championship at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., last week. Brig. Gen. Thomas A. Lane, post commander, makes the presentation to the Third Army squad who lost in the finals to Fifth Army, 4-1 in 13 innings.

STC Jelling Grid Team For Opener

The Special Troops Command football team comprised of players from the 54th Medical Group, Lawson Army Airfield Command and Special Troops Command are rapidly rounding into shape for their opening game on Saturday, 29 September.

The "Commanders" have no former "All Americans" nor any that were feared in the "Big Ten" rivalry in the "Big League" or cheered in the Southeast. In fact none whose gridiron exploits would call for national acclaim. What they do have are football players who play as a team.

Coach George Dorser has been faced with many problems since the start of training but all have been surmounted. What seemed at the start to be a reencarnation of the original May Day at Red Square in Moscow has progressed to the point of what would appear to be an orderly, well coached and trained team. Last week's scrimmage with the Second Battle Group, 38th Infantry, showed great potential and promise for the future.

TOM WIERZBICKI Thrilling Finish Seen in Baseball

Franks, Marcuci, O'Malley, Tyson, Vaught, Wiskerchen. . . lend me your ears I come here not to bury the Milwaukee Braves, but to praise them.

For what, you ask? Well, under the present turn of events in the senior circuit the Braves themselves in a rather embarrassing position. Embarrassing that is, if you want to call a three game lead (this column is being written Monday night) with eleven games to play, in bad taste.

Gentlemen, one point must be cleared up. Just what team has said pressure on the grid, the Braves or the St. Louis Browns (Cardinals, I mean). Now you'll agree that it is the Braves that have to worry. The reasoning behind this assumption is that the front-running Braves have only one place to go and that's downward. Further more you go on to say that the Cardinals have nothing to lose. Gentlemen, let me remind you that there is a pennant at stake. A "miracle pennant" as far as your wishes are concerned.

NO PRESSURE ON BRAVES

This corner has to join the baseball lobbyists, represented by Decker & Company, who believe that there is no pressure on the Braves. As long as they continue coming out on the tall end of the days score you can catch them.

This brings us to the question "can the Braves win these games necessary to keep them ahead of the Cardinals?" Nobody can deny that the fact that the Milwaukee club has dropped eight out of their last twelve games. And nobody can deny that the big bats of the Braves have been silenced since Labor Day. But a battling slump is inevitable, Gentlemen. Tonight (Monday night) may have been the day that the 1957 National League pennant has been decided.

One thing you must agree on and that is the Milwaukee club has been a pretty steady ball club throughout the season. The only slump experienced by the Braves is the one they have just shed (we hope). If any team is to be considered "hot" and "cold" it would have to be the Cardinals. Remember their nine-game losing streak? The Chicago Cubs dealt six of those losses to the St. Louis team. And the Cardinals finished the season in Chicago with a three game series. What team has the pressure on them, gentlemen?

SERIES IN MILWAUKEE

Now there are those who believe that the three-game series in Milwaukee starting Monday with the Braves and Cardinals will decide the pennant. We don't go along with this assumption for by that time the Braves should have a comfortable margin (if this isn't sticking out your neck a week ahead of time, what is?)

Please don't take this epistle as anything more than a Braves fan boasting about his team which at the present is having its best times. We are trying to tell ourselves we're not worried, but the sports world has come up with many a surprise finish. We only hope that there are no surprises in store for the Braves. The fans back in Milwaukee deserve a pennant.

Cardinal fans lend me your ears. . . we're not asking for the world on a platter only a National League pennant. How about co-operating?

FIGHT FILMS GREAT

Re-creation of the August 22nd professional debut of former Army formation, Pete Rademacher in the heavyweight title bout with champion Floyd Patterson is presently showing at the Georgia movie theater in Columbus. Even though we all know the final outcome, a trip to the Georgia will prove enlightening and should show "doubting Thomases" that Pete did a lot better than they thought he would in the fight.

It's your while so don't miss the action packed bout. Watching Patterson go down for the second time in his career as a pro is worth the price of the duct.

Iowa Hawkeye Halfback To Carry Mail for Rams

A former "Big Ten" athlete now plays on The School Brigade Rams football team as a halfback. He is 5'2 1/2, Edson M. Matheson, assigned as Executive Officer for Company "C", Infantry School Detachment, TSB.

Lt. Matheson began his athletic career with Lake Mills (Iowa) High School where he was a standout for four years at football and captained the team his senior year. He also played four years of basketball as a guard, making All-State his last year. He lettered on the varsity track team as a sprinter for four years.

Upon graduation from high school, Matheson enrolled in the State University of Iowa where he lettered on the "Big Ten" team at football as a left halfback for four years, playing a stellar role.

Unblemished Mark Cops Biddy Crown

The Rock of the Marine bidley league baseball team turned in the most impressive record of any club at Fort Benning this year winning 15 straight games in the Doughboy League.

Leading hurler for the club was Frankie Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Saunders of Columbus, Ga. He pitched three no-hitters in company with the game.

Coach of the team was M-Sgt. Fred Denny of Columbus, Ga., assigned to the U.S. Army Infantry Band.

Forces Back Relation Plan

WASHINGTON (APFS) — CARE's American Bookshelf plan is playing a major role in the Defense Department's new People-to-People program in Free World countries. Armed Forces' command worldwide are cooperating in President Eisenhower's campaign to increase understanding between Americans and the people of other lands in the interest of friendship and peace.

The Bookshelf, 99 paperback books selected by the US Information Agency and shipped to institutions and libraries of foreign nations by CARE, may be purchased for $30.

Through CARE more than 200,000 of these typically American books have been distributed in 72 countries. Many have been made available by voluntary contribution of servicemen to unit donations for the Bookshelf packets.

Service organizations desiring to provide an American Bookshelf for any designated area in the People-to-People program may send contributions to: CARE, Bookshelf, New York 18, N. Y.

JERRY ARMSTRONG New Rifle Range Opened on Post

Another big stride toward making Fort Benning the "hub of Army marksmanship" was taken recently when Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell officially opened the new rifle range at the post Junior Rifle Club's range.

This new range, constructed during the summer months by the 394th U. S. Army Reserve Unit from Atlanta, Ga., offers excellent rifle and pistol ranges in the U. S. for junior competitors.

A complete to the last detail, a covered stand made of sturdy treated pine covers the firing, who take their shots on a concrete firing line with full-length firing mats.

Located to the right side of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club, the range will be more than adequate for accommodating the 100 or more junior shooters expected to join the club for the 1957-58 season.

This new acquisition for junior shooters gives Fort Benning the most complete rifle and pistol ranges in the U. S. for competitors from ages 10 to 60. The USAUAF houses the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol team ranges, including the only international type firing ranges in the U. S. The Third Army and All-Army Matches are staged here and now the new junior range gives space for a national junior match.

Fort Benning and Columbus houses the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol teams during Saturday morning at 9 a. m. at French Field when a special review will be held in their honor.

The National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Training On Display

Gen. Powell will be in charge of the review and accompanying the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol teams during the review.

Accompanying Gen. Powell will be Lt. Col. E. H. Mason, commander of the USAUAF, who had charge of both teams during the national matches.

During the matches, the Army shooters completely outclassed the U. S. Marines shooters who have been the high rated shooters in the last few years. In all, there were 47 individual and team rifle and pistol matches, not including the smallbore rifle event.

The Army shooters took 11 of the high power rifle events, the Marines nine and civilians three. They also copied 21 of 47 first places.

Flying Jeep Army's Aim

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The early success of the decision principle in the revolutionary new Flying Platform for foot soldiers promises aerial trucks and tanks for the nuclear Army of the future.

Obstacles on the battlefield take on new meaning in atomic warfare. In addition to natural barriers, large areas are contaminated by radiation, woods and fields set afire by nuclear blast, bridges are out and rubble clutters highways and the forces with the ability to surmount these obstructions will have an enormous advantage.

According to Army aviation experts, the primary goal is to provide a vehicle which can stay in the air several hours, move at speeds up to 50 miles an hour and carry a half-ton of weapons and equipment.

This essential would be flying jeep.

If this machine proves successful, the experts say, the next step will be to enlarge the family — to build bigger vehicles with increased firepower — possibly an aerial tank.

The direct lift principle used in the Flying Platform, which gives 25 to 30 per cent more efficiency than an airplane, is the basis for present Army research to develop the larger machines.

Group Holds Field Event

On Tuesday, 17 Sept., elements of the 54th Medical Group, 54th Medical Company, the 54th Medical Company, and Headquarters Detachment started a three-day training exercise.

During this exercise these units went through all phases of combat operations. There was a night motor march for all vehicles which lasted about two hours and was run under blackout conditions. Casualty ambulance drivers and clearing station personnel as they actually handled the "wounded".

A team of umpires composed of Group officers gave a critique designed to improve the units for their coming Army Training Tests.

The 54th Medical Group was a major factor in the success of the summer scouting program held on the reservation. After a tragic fire destroyed most of the Georgia-Alabama County camp equipment, the Group was called to arrange for cots, mattresses, tentage, tarps, and many other items. While the encampments were being constructed, the Group supplied mess personnel to cook for and feed the Scouts. Aid men were also sent to give instruction in First Aid Merit Badge classes and to provide medical treatment when necessary.

CELEBRATIONS . . . Retirement ceremonies honoring the departure of Capt. William P. Schuh, of Milwaukee, Wis., were conducted in the office of Colonel Max F. Schneider, Commanding Officer of Special Troops Command. Colonel Schneider presented Capt. # 'Tammy' Takes Extended Lease On Nation's Top Juke Number

(AEP's Weekly Feature)
 Piano, fiddle and guitar music introduce the "Ozark Jubilee" TV show. The fiddle and guitar players are still there, but the piano player is in the Army—his Pvt. Milton Armstrong, basic trainee at Ft. Carson. Stan Freberg was born Stanley Victor Freberg in Los Angeles on Aug. 7, 1926. Bing Crosby will team with Frank Sinatra on Oct. 12 for the first telecast by Edsel. Alan Ladd co-stars with the destroyer Stephen Potter, WW II and Korea veteran, in "The Deep Six."
 Billie Admina, 19th Div. radio woman in Schweinfurt, Germany, felt bad if they DIDN'T laugh when he said "Tammy" was a professional clown before Uncle Sam felt some laughs were needed in the Army. Barbara MacDonnell, 23, blue-eyed blonde and loped at 36-22-36, will reappear on the Oakland, N.A.S. Fair, largest aviation event of the year in Northern California. Singer Liz Renay was a quiver bee at the eighth round of the 71st Seabee Assn. in New York City. Rusty Dugger spent $3.25 for his first guitar, and it was good enough to land him his first radio job at Tulsa, Okla., at the age of 12. Andy Griffith's next film will be "Onionhead," which would do for the Coast Guard what "Mr. Roberts" did for the Navy.

 Tops in Page "Tammy" and Debbie Reynolds have taken a long-term lease on first juke box tunes, as shown in this week's survey from "Cash Box Magazine." Others, in order, were: "Diana" (Paul Anka); "Teddy Bear" (Elvis Presley); "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down" (Billy Williams); "That'll Be The Day" (The Crickets); "The Not For Me To Say" (Johnny Mathis); "White Silver Sands" (Don Roddo); "Rainbow" (Russ Hamilton); "Bow, Bye, Love" (Zevyev-Brothers); and "Honkeytonk" (Jimmie Rodgers).

Gen. Powell Opens New Branch PX

Major General Herbert B. Powell, Commanding General USAISTC, officially opened the new Post Exchange in the United States Army Infantry Troop Command area last Friday.

On hand for the opening ceremonies were Colonel Claude M. Howard, Commander USAISTC; Colonel Joseph W. Sisson Jr., Asst. USAISTC Commander; Colonel Lloyd B. Ramsey, 2D Battle Group 14th Infantry; Colonel Joseph G. Sandlin, Commander 1st Battle Group 15th Infantry; Lt. Colonel Lawrence L. Leisen, Exchange Officer USAISTC; Lt. Colonel Richard Smeed, Executive Officer 2D Battle Group 14th Infantry; Lt. Colonel Walter Divers, Executive Officer USAISTC.

The new post exchange will save the men of the USAISTC many dollars as there is a wide selection of magazines, tobacco supplies, candies, military supplies, and civilian type clothing.

The barber shop is well equipped with four barbers and two shine boys to take care of the men of the School Troop Command. The hours of operation of the barber shop are tentatively set for the present time.

On Leadership Course Starts For Scouts

A leadership training course for Girl Scout volunteers at Fort Benning will open Sept. 18 at the Girl Scout Little House.

The basic program leadership course will be conducted for six sessions from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sept. 18, 20, 22, 24, 26 and Oct. 2. The course is designed for volunteer assistants who have not had basic leadership training.

Mrs. Luke Teasley of Columbus, Ga., district director of the Conchary Council of Girl Scouts, will be the instructor. Troop leaders and other volunteers are urgently needed to keep Fort Benning's Girl Scout program alive and productive.

Scout officials stated: Anyone who is interested in working with the Girl Scouts is invited to attend the training course. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Sam Adams, Fort Benning, 27138; Mrs. Rowland, MU 93687; Mrs. Collins, Fort Benning, 28127 or Mrs. Robert L. Runkle, MU 9-503.

Fort Benning's Scout program is one of the activities sponsored by the Youth Activities Club.

Training Class Set For Scout Leaders

A training course for Girl Scout Leaders (including Coaches, Committeemen, and those interested in the Girl Scout Program) will be conducted at the Girl Scout Little House, Bldg. 493, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Sept. 18, 20, 22, 24 and Oct. 2, 4.

This course pertains to Brownies, Intermediates and Senior Scouts. Interested personnel can call one of the following: Mrs. Adams, Fort Benning, 27138; Mrs. Rowland, MU 93687; Mrs. Collins, Fort Benning, 28127; Mrs. Runkle, MU 9-503.

GEN. POWELL WELCOMES 224 New Basic Trainees

Two hundred and twenty-four basic trainees who will participate in Infantry research projects at Fort Benning's U. S. Army Infantry Human Relations Unit during the next three months were welcomed by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, U. S. Army Infantry School Commandant, Sept. 16.

"You will be given basic training to teach you the tools, habits and techniques of your new trade. This group, in particular, has a greater opportunity than the average soldier entering the Army—you will assist in developing the newest, most modern means of training," Gen. Powell said.

The purpose of this research is to find if we are teaching with the best methods and most modern approach the kind of skills you must learn, as a soldier," he explained.

The speaker called for "team effort" in helping develop new training techniques.

"You are the eighth group of basic trainees who have assisted in this work. Preceding groups have conducted research on such projects as an entirely new method of learning to fire the rifle. We call this "Trainfire." We think it is one of the greatest advances

Gen. Harrell Pays Visit to Ft. Benning

Brig. Gen. Ben Harrell, chief of the Infantry Branch of the Army's Officer Assignment Division, visited Fort Benning last week for a two-day orientation of students in the Infantry School's officers advanced class No. 3 on their future assignments.

He was accompanied by Lt. Col. D. H. Hickman and Capt. E. R. Hixson of the Infantry Branch assignment division.

Gen. Powell Welcomes 224 New Basic Trainees

Two hundred and twenty-four basic trainees who will participate in Infantry research projects at Fort Benning's U. S. Army Infantry Human Relations Unit during the next three months were welcomed by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, U. S. Army Infantry School Commandant, Sept. 16.

"You will be given basic training to teach you the tools, habits and techniques of your new trade. This group, in particular, has a greater opportunity than the average soldier entering the Army—you will assist in developing the newest, most modern means of training," Gen. Powell said.

The purpose of this research is to find if we are teaching with the best methods and most modern approach the kind of skills you must learn, as a soldier," he explained.

The speaker called for "team effort" in helping develop new training techniques.

"You are the eighth group of basic trainees who have assisted in this work. Preceding groups have conducted research on such projects as an entirely new method of learning to fire the rifle. We call this "Trainfire." We think it is one of the greatest advances

Any lively little youngster between the age of one and five will get a real delight out of rocking in the elephant glider. You can have almost as much fun making it. Even if you haven't had any experience with do-it-yourself projects, the elephant glider shouldn't take you more than a couple of nights to put together.

To start, enlarge the drawing of the elephant on tracing paper and fasten it to two pieces of 3/4-inch plywood. Carefully cut out the figure of the elephant with a hand jig saw. The rockers, like the seat and the handle, are made from 1 1/2-inch thick pine. To get the curve in them use a band saw. Attach the elephant's legs to the rocker with glue and wood

CUTTING CORNERS

by Barbara Sue Richards

Redesigned with sleek lines and covered with highly styled fabrics for modern living, the old-fashioned wooden folding chair has come back into popularity — especially with service families.

Faced with the problem of constant moving, these light-weight wooden chairs are the easiest type of furniture to transport. But more important, since service families are usually also faced with the problem of space, the folding chairs are extremely functional. Not only are they the perfect sitting equipment for the yard or porch but they can be used for extra chairs inside the house when company is expected.

To get the most out of your folding chair, before buying one you should check that it is made of a genuine hardwood which will guarantee you a sturdy long-lasting chair. Also make sure that all the metal parts have been treated to resist rust. And for comfort's sake, make sure that the chair is properly balanced so that it won't tip easily.

Of course no matter how careful you are in the selection of a wooden folding chair, its life will be cut short unless you take proper care of it. A coat of varnish and an occasional application of furniture wax will protect the finish of your chair and add to its longevity.

A last word of advice: Never leave a wooden chair out in the rain without a waterproof covering. If, however, one of your chairs should get wet, wipe it dry immediately and set it out in the sun to permit it to dry thoroughly.

screws. The seat and the handle should be about 16 inches long and should be fastened between the two sides of the elephant with glue and wood screws, too. Now screw a 6-inch wide 3/4-inch thick plywood to the top of the rockers both in front and back.

After you smooth off all the rough edges, paint the elephant glider with your child's favorite color and add the details of the face in black. A coat of shellac will help preserve the finish.

IN REVIEW

movies...

Frank Sinatra, who, between his records and night club appearances, is busier than the proverbial one-armed paper hanger has just completed another starring role in Hollywood. The picture is called The Joker Is Wild and Sinatra plays the Irish-life character, comic Joe E. Lewis, who lived to joke about being cut from ear to ear by Chicago hoods in the roaring Twenties. In addition to Frankie's songs, the picture is full of guns, gags and gags. A sure box-office hit.

books...

Irwin Shaw who has written plays, movies and novels is back to his first love, the short story, in Tip On A Dead Jockey And Other Stories. Since Shaw is best as a short story writer, the book, which contains ten post-World War stories, is a genuine reader's delight. Although the stories seem to be told simply, there's a deeper meaning than appears on the surface in all of them. The reader who uses his head as well as his eyes will find the book doubly rewarding.

records...

Rodgers and Hart fans will welcome the long playing album, Ella Fitzgerald Sings the Rodgers and Hart Song Book. The two 12-inch discs are jammed with over thirty of the choice songs written by two of the all-time masters of the musical stage. Your favorite numbers from Pulley, On Your Toes, The Continental, Yankee and Bubbles in Arms, to mention just a few of their shows, are all here. And as sung by Miss Fitzgerald, the late Hart's biting and witty lyrics, for a change, get an even break with Rodgers' unforgettable tunes.

on the GLAMOUR FRONT

by Eleanor Kerrigan

Every member of the so-called weaker sex knows the value of a facial and the importance of selecting a good face cream for the job. But it's surprising how few women really know the correct way of creating the face. Unless the massaging is done properly the effect of even the best face cream is mostly dissipated.

For the best results, place the fingertips in the center of the chin and work upwards to the ears. Then, starting at the corners of the mouth, work upward and outward to the temples. Again, with fingertips at the sides of the nose, work upward and outward to the temples. And, most important, never rub in circles or use downward strokes.

peaches, 1 1/2 teaspoons almond extract, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Chill to slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white consistency. Beat with a rotary beater until the peaches are blended. Put 2 tablespoons sugar into 2 egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold the gelatine mixture into the egg whites. Now you can either spoon it into individual dessert dishes or a 3-cup mold and chill until firm.

THE WIVES

"Before you leave would you point me in the direction of the bedroom."

One of the tastiest of these desserts is the Peach Frill. For six big servings, each containing less than 100 calories, you will need:

- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 package frozen sliced peaches (10 oz.)

Mix the gelatine, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/4 teaspoon salt together thoroughly in the top of a double boiler. Beat together 2 egg yolks and 1/2 cup water. Add it to the gelatine mixture and cook over the boiling water, stirring constantly until the gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from the heat and add the completely thawed package of frozen sliced

Concert Slates 'Merry Widow' Tuesday Night

The recorded concert on the Main Post Library next Tuesday evening will feature "The Merry Widow" by Franz Lehár. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. "The Merry Widow" was the first of the Viennese comic operas to enjoy popularity in America. Operetta in the Viennese style was not a favorite in this country until the night of Oct. 21, 1927, when "The Merry Widow" opened in New York. It possessed a glamour not quite approached by any other operetta.

One of Hollywood's best women swimmers, curvaceous Esther Williams didn't become a success in the movie business solely on her ability in water. Out of water, the theater mermaid isn't a bad performer.

OVER THE AIR

There's plenty of good viewing and listening this weekend, with four radio broadcasts and one telecast coming your way from Fort Benning.
This week's "Queen of Battle" provides an insight into the functioning and purpose of the Reorganized Infantry Division. This program is a sequel to last week's show which portrayed the series of events in history which made reorganization a necessity. This week, "Queen of Battle" presents a graphic account of how the Reorganized Army is fully capable of meeting whatever situation it must face in the future — or playing a full and decisive role, whether on the conventional or atomic battlefield. That's a "Change for the Future"—WRBL Radio, Columbus, Saturday at 10:30 p.m.

Ed Wynn Undertakes New Career at 71

SCARROON MANOR, N. Y. (APFS) — Here in the heart of New York State's famous resort country, members of the entertainment industry met and planned a nationwide salute to a member of their profession who at the age of 71, has just crossed the threshold of a new career.
The artist is Ed Wynn, and the salute is his first professional appearance in the industry will be in the form of a nationwide telecast to be on NBC-TV at 10:30 p.m. on Sept. 28, when he is the guest of honor on "Television Command Appearance."
For many of his years known as "The Crown Prince of Comedy," Wynn's new career is that of dramatic acting. His first nationwide exposure as a dramatic artist was as a broken-down boxer's second in a television show's second in a television award-winning "Requiem for a Heavyweight" telecast last Broadway hailed the new actor, and offered him no less than seven plays. But it was seven plays against four grandsons in California, and the grandchildren have Ed Wynn run away from home at the age of 16, and his first professional appearance on Aug. 8, 1922. Since that time the honors, achievements and fame in radio, television and film have been his.
Wynn has done many things in the entertainment industry, but he is the fact that he has never had to tell an off-color joke to get a laugh.
His public appeal was highlighted by an appearance at Cleveland, Ohio, for the Seventh War Loan Drive in WWII in one day, he sold $13,139.76 worth of bonds.

Gator Disturbed;

Most night producers at times get themselves into funny and complicated situations. Raymond D. Dorr, a producer of the Hank Organization's "An Alligator Named Daisy" found himself in such a predicament when he interviewed over 50 alligators for the film. The one that was finally selected, Daisy, was temperamental, especially around blond, buxom Diana. The reason: Daisy recognized a relative in the alligator's head and handstanding adorning Miss Dorr.

Korean Student and Sponsor Hold Reunion at Ft. Benning

BY JULIA BRUMMEK
A Korean student and winner of a $2,500 Stanford University fellowship this week visited his Fort Benning sponsor who brought him to the U. S. eight years ago.
Chong Ik King of Seoul, Korea, visited Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Williams at Booneville, Ky., U. S. Army Infantry Center, for the first time in three years. The Williams returned to the U. S. this summer after an assignment in Germany.
A student at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., Kim on the basis of his academic record won a $2,500 competitive scholarship this year. He plans to complete work on his doctorate in political science.
Kim's friendship with his American sponsor began in 1947 when they were neighbors in Seoul. Then a student at Seoul National University, U. S. This gave him an opportunity to visit in the East and in Nashville, and his American young Koreans prepare themselves to be Christian citizens in a new and free country.
"A good man always attracts a good student," Kim said.
"You know, Korea only became a free nation in 1945. The individual interest and help of people like Chaplain Williams and other Americans will be an outstanding influence in Korean history in years to come," the student said.
"We need trained teachers, technicians, ministers, doctors, businessmen and people in all classes to teach and train ob-

1st Lt. Roger L. Brockenbrough has been assigned as Assistant S-3 in the 1st Engineer Group (Combat).

Lt. Brockenbrough replaces 1st Lt. Robert E. Whitbeck, who has departed for Fort Belvoir, Va. He will be an instructor in the Engineer School.

Before coming to the 1st Eng. Gr. Headquarters, Lt. Brockenbrough was executive officer of the 58th Engineer Company (First Bridge), and prior to that he was assigned to Company "B", 57th Eng. Co.

A 1950 graduate of Parry McCuller High School, Buena Vista, Va., Lt. Brockenbrough received a BS degree in Civil Engineering at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., in 1954.

Commissioned a 2nd Lt. June 9, 1954, at V.P.I., Lt. Brockenbrough completed his MS degree in Structural Engineering there in 1956.

Called to active duty Jan. 18, 1956, at Fort Belvoir, Va., Lt. Brockenbrough attended the Engineer Officers Basic Course. He was appointed to his present rank July 18, 1957.

Lt. Brockenbrough is a junior member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

These pictures are classified as top secret information in accordance with Executive Order 11652, signed by President Eisenhower, both of Phenix City, Ala., employees in the Insect and Rodent Control Branch of the U. S. Army Infantry Center Engineer Section at Fort Benning. The post purchased 50 tons of the insecticide early this summer to battle the rapidly multiplying fire ants. Over 40,000 pounds of the grayish-yellow powder already have been used to snuff out the pesky insects in housing areas.

Insecticide Turns Trick

Post Entomologists Take Sting Out of Fire Ants

By Joseph Zelnik

Fort Benning officials this week reported completion of the first phase of what is believed to be the most extensive and comprehensive attack on fire ants ever undertaken.

Entomologists in the Preventive Medicine Division of the Army Hospital and Office of the Roads and the Insecticide Branch of the U. S. Army Infantry Center Engineer Section claim the fire ant domination which became acute on the 1,179 acre Fort Benning residential area this summer has been stamped out.

William S. Shoemaker of Silver Springs, Fla., post manager, reported that the insects in the housing areas here being annihilated by the application of over 40,000 pounds of granular heptachlor. Officials credited education of post personnel to the success and identification of fire ants, along with the application of granular heptachlor, with turning the tide of battle against the pesky reddish-brown insects.

Post personnel were made fire ant conscious with the help of the Fort Benning newspaper, The Bayonet, and items printed regularly in the Infantry Center Daily Bulletin. Decision to use the granular heptachlor came after it was recommended by the Department of Entomology at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

Previously, an emergency treatment consisting of combination chlordane and kerosene spray was being used in round a day to infrequent reports. The worst case of the ever, since the ants escaped by tunnels as far away from their mounds as 15 feet. The granular heptachlor, applied to the total surface of the ground, eliminated that problem.

Fire ants are believed to have entered this country at Mobile, Ala., about 1925. They are one-eighth to one-quarter inch in length. Several types can fly. Injury to humans occurs when they disturb the ant mound and the ants become aggressive and attack anything in the vicinity.

Fire ants are most easily distinguished from ordinary ants by several features. The mounds range in size from a few inches to several feet in diameter, often go three to four feet into the ground, and are constructed of loose red dirt with no visible holes or openings since the insects enter and leave by tunnels far from the mound.

Plans for Asian Vaccine Shots Slated in October

U. S. Army Hospital officials at Fort Benning continue plans for the administration of Asian vaccine to military and dependent personnel the early part of October.

The first shipment of the serum is expected to arrive at the U. S. Army Infantry Center during the first part of next month. Final plans for the inoculations are in process now, officials stated.

When the vaccine arrives Fort Benning personnel will be notified of the immunization schedule. Hospital authorities have requested that personnel concerned do not telephone for information until further announcements are made.

After the first dose requirements for military persons on active duty have been met, vaccination will be offered on a voluntary basis to military dependents. A single injection of 10 cubic centimeter will be given to dependent adults and children over 12 years old.

Two doses of 0.5 c.c. one week apart will be administered to children between 6 and 12 years old. Inoculation is not recommended for pre-school children.

Two weeks after receiving the serum are required to establish immunity to the Asian influenza. Hospital officials stated that vaccine will not be given to personnel sensitive to egg or chicken protein, feathers or with a history of any type of definite allergy such as asthma or hay fever.

Large Group Slated For AUSA Dinner

Approximately 1,000 members of the Columbus (Ga.) Chapter of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce. A full schedule is planned for the afternoon before the dinner meeting. Activities begin at 4:15 p.m., with the U. S. Army Infantry School staging a presentation on the "Role of the Infantry" in the Main Theater.

Army Research Cutting Chances Of Atomic Injury

Medical research underway in the Army has produced promising protective measures against the thermal effects of atomic weapons. It appears that combinations of protective clothing, shielding or chemical devices and protective creams will provide effective means for reducing this type of casualty.

From 9:15 to 5:40 p.m. a formal guard mount and retreat ceremony will be held at Chapin Field. At 5:45 p.m. the visitors will view a static display featuring the newest, modern Army equipment.

There will be a social hour from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Post Exchange Cafeteria for AUSA members attending the meeting.

Membership in the newly formed Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of the AUSA is steadily increasing each month and has reached 1,051 as of 10/1/57. Membership cards in the local chapter have been issued to about 265 civilians and approximately 1,650 officers from Fort Benning.

The national annual meeting of the AUSA will be held in Washington, D. C. Oct. 29-30. The local chapter will send two representatives to the convention. They are T. C. Reeves, president, and L. L. Gen. (Ret.), chairman. S. Eddy, second vice-president.

Gen. Ruggles-Makes Presentations Six Commended at Fort Benning For Performances, Suggestions

Four civilians and two NCO's and the other received a letter of commendation. Brig. Gen. John E. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, made individual presentations to each of the six. Personnel recognized last week were: Mrs. Thelma R. Thomas, employed at the Infantry Center's Adjutant General Section, received a suggestion award certificate for proposing a card file for un-numbered memorandums. Edward J. Brooks, also of the Adjutant General Section, was awarded a letter of appreciation for proposing a more efficient and economical method of logging incoming messages. His suggestion will save an estimated $760 annually.

Support and Leadership Mrs. Powell Honored For Red Cross Work

Mrs. Herbert B. Powell, wife of Major Gen. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center, was honored for her outstanding support and leadership of American Red Cross volunteer activities at the opening fall meeting of Fort Benning volunteer leaders. A Red Cross volunteer program was presented to Mrs. Powell, honorary chairman of Fort Benning's Red Cross volunteer program, by Mrs. Robert C. Hunt of Atlanta, Ga., director of volunteers for the southern Red Cross area. Mrs. Powell was recognized for her services at Fort Benning and throughout her career as an Army wife.

During World War II she drove an ambulance and a canteen truck for the Red Cross Motor Corps. In 1946 she was the first group of volunteers in the Frankfort area in the first years of the German occupation. Later in Sendai, Japan, she was again chairman of Red Cross volunteers in the Tokyo area. When she and Gen. Powell were in Hawaii, she gave her support and leadership to the volunteer program as its honorary chairman.

New Chairman of volunteers at Fort Benning is Mrs. O. Z. Tyler, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., wife of Col. Tyler, Infantry Center chief of staff. Mrs. Tyler was a member of the advisory board last year which organized existing volunteer services into a full volunteer program. She is an experienced volunteer having served with the Red Cross Motor Corps and Nurses Aides programs during the war. Later when Col. Tyler was overseas, Mrs. Tyler was executive secretary of community volunteers in Jacksonville, coordinating and channeling all volunteers into the various community services.

Lord Mayor in Germany Terms Local Relations Program Tops

Commending well-banned relations between Fort Benning and its civilian community, the lord mayor of Kaiserslautern, Germany, Dr. Arthur Sommer, completed a three-day visit to Fort Benning of military relations program Sept. 20. There are in very good contact. It seems to be the best contact I have ever seen," the chief executive of the West German city of 100,000 declared.

H-37 HELICOPTERS . . . The giant helicopter replaces the H-34 at the Fourth Transportation Troop (HCTPT). It will carry 22 combat troops or a total 10,000-pound cargo load. It is powered by two 2,500 H. P. engines and has cruising range of three and one-half hours with top air speed of 80 knots.

H-37 'Copters Received By 4th Trns. Company

Fort Benning's Fourth Transportation Company is receiving 12 H-37 helicopters, making it the first such organization in the U. S. Army to incorporate the aircraft. The Lawson Army Air Field has obtained to date seven of the new helicopters from the Sikorsky Aircraft Co. at Bridgeport, Conn. These aircraft are replacing the presently used H-34 helicopters. The H-37 medium helicopters are powered by two 2,500-horsepower engines and are capable of carrying 22 fully equipped troops or 10,000 pounds of cargo. The aircraft differs from conventional helicopters in that they have five rotor blades instead of the usual four. In addition, the H-37 features a forward clam shell door that opens in the front of the aircraft, facilitating loading and unloading.

Seven Recognized For Economy Ideas

Seven civilian and military personnel at Fort Benning were recognized in ceremonies last week for outstanding contributions to the operating efficiency and economy of the Army.

They are Omer J. Hatmaker, Mrs. Margie H. Tharps, Mrs. Janet H. Rouillard, Hunt C. Maxwell and Carl H. Norton all of Columbus; 2nd Lt. Charles R. Baker, Little Rock, Ark.; and Miss Alice J. Liddell, Columbus.

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, made a cash presentation and commendations in individual ceremonies under the Army's Incentive Awards Program.

For a proposal resulting in an estimated $1,500 annual savings, Hatmaker, chief clerk in the School Brigade, received an Infantry Center suggestion award certificate. He submitted a proposal to install a copying machine in the School Brigade Personnel Office. Numerous intangible benefits beyond monetary savings will be realized according to officials.

Cash awards of $100 for outstanding job ratings were presented to Mrs. Thary, chief stenographer for The Infantry School's Staff Department, and Mrs. Rouillard, secretary, Staff Department.

A $200 award for sustained superior performance of duties went to Maxwell, a military training school specialist in The Infantry School's Operations Office.

Norton received an outstanding job rating and $100 for sustained superior performance of duties. Norton is administrative officer for the Postmaster of Rifle Firing Committee, Weapons Department, The Infantry School.

A letter of commendation was presented to Lt. Baker, assigned to the School Brigade. Lt. Baker submitted a proposal for the installation of two grills on serving lines in the mess halls. The resulting annual savings is expected to reach $1,500 in the first year.

Miss Liddell was awarded an outstanding job rating for the period June 25, 1956, to last June 30. She is employed at the School Brigade.

Adult Education Courses Open For Personnel

The Muscogee County School District's Adult Vocational School in Columbus is currently conducting a number of adult courses of interest to military personnel and their dependents.

The type of instruction offered is tailored to fit the interests and needs of everyone. Courses range from vocational to general interest classes.

A partial list of classes includes: English, Mathematics, Citizenship, Commercial Art, English for Foreign Born, Sewing, Millinery, Typing, Short-hand and Office Machines.

Many additional courses are offered by the Adult Education School which is located at 318 11th St.

Semester Registration fee is $2. Additional information may be obtained by calling FA-1261.

INDIVIDUAL LOAD . . .

The new Fort Benning tested individual load system is demonstrated by an Infantry soldier. The new pack, which is carried on the gravitational center of the body, eliminates the cumbersome buckles and straps. It was initiated by the U. S. Army Infantry Center Quartermaster Section from specifications by the U. S. Army Infantry Board and the Continental Army Command.

3d Div. Aerial Observer School Opens 2d Class

Brigadier General William Harris, 3d Division Artillery Commander, gave the welcoming address today to the student officers at the opening of the second class of the "Marne" Division Aerial Observer School.

In the Aerial Observer classroom at Lawson Army Air Field, the students and their instructors heard General Harris discuss the transitional stage of Army Aviation and the importance of a thorough understanding of aerial observation.

General Harris stressed the point that the entire success of the Division depends largely upon the speed with which a mission is accomplished, and that aerial observation would play a major part in the new aviation era.

The course is open to all GYROSCOPE designated officers who wish to volunteer for the training of Army Aerial Observers. The prerequisites are that they have no history of air sickness and have passed a physical examination for flight duty.

29th Inf. Grid League Ends in Three-Way Tie

The 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry Touch Football League, reached an exciting photo-finish last week with three teams tied for first place.

The 59th Tank Co., Infantry Scout Dog Platoon and Hq. & Hq. Co. all concluded regular season play with six wins and one loss.

At a meeting held at the Special Service Office of the 1st Battle Group last Friday, the Scout Dogs drew a bye and will play tonight at 8:00.

The Tankers and Hq. & Hq. Co. met last Tuesday night in the semi-final. At the time that the paper went to press, the results of the game were still unknown. In the first racing between these two teams early in the season, the Tankers earned a close 6-0 win.

The 59th squeaked by the Scout Dogs on yardage in its first encounter. Hq. & Hq. Co. threw the league into a deadlock when they soundly thrashed the ISDP in a 14-0 upset win.

Tonights game will be played on field No. 2 right near the new PX. A large turnout is expected to witness the championship contest.

The final league standings are as follows:

Gen. Larsen Gets Briefing at Ft. Ord

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, is receiving a briefing at Fort Ord, Calif., on activities of that post's Combat Developments Experimentation Center.

Gen. Larsen is expected to return to Fort Benning at 10 p.m. Saturday.

Hq. Co. Cops STC Touch Grid Crown

In a closely contested touch football game for the championship of Special Troops Command, Headquarters Company, STC, defeated the 90th Infantry Company, on Monday 15 September, by outlasting the 90th in an overtime period.

The first half of the game was played in a rather heavy rainstorm which hampered the play of both teams throughout the contest, particularly the passing, frequent fumbles were the result. How ever, both managed to score three all. This necessitated an overtime and when Hq. Co.'s SP3 Willis gained nine yards on a run through center the ball game was over.

In winning Hq. Co. gained the distinction of representing Special Troops Command in the Post Tournament which starts on 7 October 27.

END RUN . . . SP3 George Jenkins, (with ball) Hq. Co., STC gained nine yardage around his own right end behind the blocking of SP3 Dick Willis (10), SP3 Class Crowder (2) and PFC Richard Murray (4). The championship in Special Troops Command touch football league was won by Headquarters Company, STC when they defeated the 90th Ordnance in an overtime period.

Girls Archery Program Sets First Meeting

Registration and the first meeting of Fort Benning's girls archery program will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Barracks in the area of the U. S. Army Hospital on the main post.

All equipment necessary for participation in the sport is available and will be furnished for the meetings. Grounds adjacent to Barracks will be used for the shooting area.

Parents who have had experience in working with young people or who are willing to assist in the supervision of the archery groups are needed as volunteers. Youth Activities officials will be in charge of the program and invite parents to attend the opening meeting.

The archery program for girls of all age groups is one of the youth programs sponsored by Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club.

HiWay 103 Will Close

State Highway 103, Buena Vista Road, which runs through the Fort Benning reservation, will be closed during certain periods between Oct. 7 and 11 in order to present a special firing problem for the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference.

The exact times the road is to be closed will be announced at a later date.

Authority to close the highway came in a letter from Georgia State Highway Engineer M. L. Shadoun to Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center.

The road closing has been requested by Fort Benning officials in order to present a sporting fire problem during the 25th semi-annual JCOOC scheduled for Oct. 9-12.

Arnie Sowell of Pitt Fame Olympic Half-Miler Now Attending BIOC

BY CLARK K. BLACKBURN
One of the greatest mid-distance runners of all times and a member of the 1956 Olympic team is now a student officer here. He is 2d Lt. Arnie Sowell, of Pittsburgh, Pa., presently assigned to the 20th Company, 2d Student Battalion, The School Brigade.

Sowell, a 1957 graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, won four letters on the varsity track team as a 400 and 800 meter crack runner. He made the All-American track team three years in a row and was National Collegiate and National AAU champion for two years.

Sowell set a new 800 meter record during the Pan-American games in 1955 at Mexico City. The time was 1:58.2. It was during this college days that the great rivalry between Sowell and Tom Courtney, the "P" or "d" in "Pittsburgh" Sowell's sobriquet, more year than two first met as competitors, and the friendly feud still goes on.

The first time they met was at the ICAE meet held in New York in 1954. Sowell set a new ICAE record of 1:53.4, defeating Courtney in the process. The next track meet place at the National Collegiate meets held at East Lansing, Mich., where Sowell again defeated Courtney with a time of 1:50.3. That winter he and Courtney competed indoors several times with Sowell defeating him every time.

In 1955 the two tangled many times on a cinder path and the indoor boards, with Sowell dropping only one race. He won the 800 meter, 1000 meter race and set a record of 1:48.5, and the National AAU championships and set what was at that time a new record of 1:47.6, since lowered. At the National AAU championship races of 1956, Sowell lost out to Courtney, and five warm-up meets, lost out five times. During the fall at five indoor meets, Sowell reversed things and took Courtney into camp all five times and set a new indoor record of 1:05.3 that still stands.

At the 1956 Olympics Sowell set his waned feet clipped in the 800 meter run, taking fourth place behind Tom Courtney, two winners, Derek Johnson of England, and Audouin Boyson of Norway.

But Revival Started

West Point Missing Depth on Grid Team

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—The Army squad numbers 47, the smallest that Col. —This is revival year for the US Military Academy football team, now in its 15th year as coach and Coach Earl Blaik as coach at West Point, has the Army gridder's work over intensively.

The revival is the renewal of the Army-McJannet Dome series this year, one of college football's most famous rivalries, coming to life after a ten-year lapse. The game will be played at Stadium City, the Municipal Stadium, Oct. 12, and will be made over by Armed Forces Radio Service.

Army faces what is possibly its toughest early season schedule. Nebraska and Penn State will be met in the first two games, and Pittsburgh is scheduled for Oct. 19.

Cadet backfield prospects are good, and for the first time in several years Army has an experienced quarter-back to fill the slot from the contest.

This all-important spot in a formation will be handled by Dave Bourland, who took over there from Bob Kyska when Bob was returned to full-back for the last four games of the 1956 season.

Others slated for backfield assignments will be Gil Roeder at left half, Harry Walters and Ben Barta at fullback, and Peter Dawkins and Mike Morales splitting right half chores. Gene Mikolonis is a dangerous runner and should be a service, but he is a chronic injury problem.

Up front the Army line is thin in depth and the lack of replacements is a problem for Coach Blaik. Key centers will be Capt. Jim Sloan at center, Stan Slater at right tackle, but there are few replacements for injuries. A troublesome factor is the lack of sophomore tackle and guards.

Army Cuts Loss On Fire Damage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is making great strides in reducing its losses by fire, according to a recent Pentagon statement here.

Worldwide Army fire losses for the fiscal year ending June 30 were well below the average for the previous five years.

The average annual fire loss of the Department of the Army for the period from July 1, 1951, to June 30, 1956, including fires in Korea) was less than two cents per hundred dollars of property value subject to fire loss. This loss experience is far superior to that of the home insurance industry, in fact, it is about 35 per cent better than the experience of the home insurance industry, only so call "preferred risks."

The Army's Chief of Engineers, Major General G. G. Itchner, warned that, notwithstanding, the substantial progress made in fire loss reduction, the Army's fire loss problem is to be both predictable and preventable. "Continued progress must be made if interest is essential," the general said.

JERRY ARMSTRONG Hunting Season Nearing at Post

It's about that time again to brush the dust off your trusty 16-gauge shotgun, saddle up the ole boots and start to work on an excuse for the wife with the crisp days of fall about to open another hunting season.

With about a month remaining before Fort Benning's raising of the hunting season, now for you to start getting your gear in shape for the months of hunting ahead.

One thing which should be emphasized again is the fact that this season Fort Benning hunters have to purchase state licenses for both Georgia and Alabama. These can be purchased at the Game and Game Maintenance Association Office.

The coming season looks like a top one with an abundance of quail, including the new variety of southern quail species now available, rabbits galore, deer and turkey.

A few hints for keeping your equipment in shape may save you some money and make your hunting season more profitable.

Carters Cop Post Scotch Tournament

Sixty-four officers and ladies participated in the first round of the Post's Scotch tournament of the 1957-58 season this week.

Col. and Mrs. Martin Carters led the group with a low gross score of 82. Lt. Col. and Mrs. James H. Hingula ran a close second, carding an 83. Third shot in the gross score was captured by Major George Scott and Mrs. Paul Beaman with an 85.

The tournament was conducted by Col. and Mrs. Robert York with a 67. Two couples tied for second with 69's. They are Major John W. Collins and Mrs. Harry W. Muller, Capt. and Mrs. R. L. Ealey, and Capt. and Mrs. George Boyle.

Teams composed of Capt. and Mrs. Richard D. Copley and Lt. and Mrs. William George were guard stroking the pace with their 69's. Tied for sixteenth and eighth places with 72's were Major and Mrs. John W. Roush and CWO and Mrs. Col. L. Ealey.

The highest score for the front nine was the 82 posted by Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert York. The back nine score for the 18 was won by Major and Mrs. Jack Eckberg.

The next tournament is slated to be held Oct. 13.

For the hunters who like to use dogs in their hunting, they should remember never to spray them with fly insecticide because oftentimes they will lick off the poison with their noses. Another hint is to not feed them cooked poultry because the bones are made brittle by the cooking and when broken have needle-like points which can pierce dogs' intestines.

Deer Removing Easy
Deer can be removed quite easily from your gun stocks by using this simple method. Dampen the deer area with hot water, then place a small square of cloth which has been folded several times and soaked in the water over the spot. Now take a hot-dry or steam iron and press firmly over the cloth. Unless the deer is deep, this process will steam it flush with the rest of the stock.

The female hunting enthusiast can now match her outfit during entire the hunting or fishing season. A manufacturing company in Hammond, Ind., now has started producing a series of smock-overs with built-in camouflage and shockproof lining.

Thank You for Continuing Georgia Tech, in 1955, his starting line up about set. He is slated for duty at left guard. The starting line will average 230 pounds with speed to go with all that weight. The backfield will average 175 pounds.

The main worry of the coaches at this time is depth and determination the coaches expect good improvement in the season's progress. The offense of the USAFST squad will be the Georgia Tech "T" with the built-in backfield.

The line is headed by Brooks, John Branley, and Roy Williams. Branley played his college ball at Auburn while Williams was an outstanding end on Coach Wally Butts Georgia team last year. Wilkins is also coaching the line.

The backfield is headed by Joe Pauls who played one year at Iowa University before entering the service. Coach Brooks said, "Paulson could play fullback on any of the Southeastern Conference teams right now." At quarter-back on offense will be Charles Norvick who played college ball at Louisiana State University.

Stranger esprit de corps, improved public relations, more effective personnel management and training systems are long-range goals the Army hopes to achieve under its new plan.

Football

Another outstanding boy is John Seegar who will be starting at left half. Seegar studied at University of Virginia.

"The main problem of the Bulldogs is finding time to practice. All players are students first and athletes second, so all practice is done on off-duty time only. One of the companies is in the field at night, those players miss practice all together. It is a rare occasion to have the entire squad present for practice."

The Bayonet, Columbus, Ga., Sept. 26, 1957—Page 27 MATS Use New System

McGuire AFB, N. J. (AP)—A new communications system that automatically relays the same volume as one from an airplane waiting to take off, distance of 400 miles to the home base is now in use in the Atlantic Division of the Military Air Transport Service.

With the new system, as a plane approaches the east coast, it radio signals are automatically picked up by the nearest receiver and relayed by wire to AF control centers. A separate 151.1 g instructions and weather information can be given from either point.

Previously the approaching plane had to be within range of either McGuire or Dover to talk directly to either base. The system is a combination of telephone lines and ultra high frequency radio. It regulates speech level on a Paton Jr.

Vivian Blaine Sings 'Modesty' In Immodest Night Club Dress

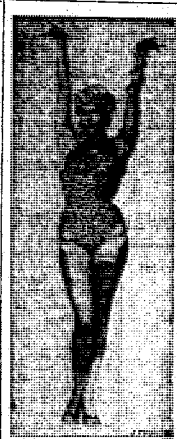

(APPS Weekly Feature) Millions listened to WYVE's radio station WNEW, one of the world's largest independent radio stations and don't know that the "EW" of the call letters stand for Ed Wynm, radio stage, and TV personality. Wynm was the major financier of the station when it was built, with plans that it would be a home base for a fourth major radio network but the proposed net died a-borning.

Vivian Blaine sings a ditty entitled "Modesty" in her night club act, but the lyrics and her costume don't match. When she sings "Darna Yant" and "Dobbie Reynolds are still kees," long-time Broadway hit musicia, Gwen Verdon and Tab Hunter get the leads. Maria Giovanna, singing for do, has been billed as the "Lolibrigida of Italian opera." Modesty is doesn't speak English, but she gets the message across just the same. Sophie Tucker, (Minnie Rodgers); "Tody Beer" (The Crickets); "Honeycomb" (The Crickets); "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down" (The Crickets); "It's Not For Me To Say" (Johnny Mathis); "Wide Lot Of Shakin' Goin On" (Lee Lewis); "White Silver Sand" (Don Roady); and "The Middle Of An Island" (Tony Bennett).

DEAF, TOO (in a low whisper) "You needn't whisper, I did you get that date?" "I got it, but you're a little deaf." "You needn't whisper, I did you get that date?" "I got it, but you're a little deaf." "You needn't whisper, I did you get that date?" "I got it, but you're a little deaf."

DEVASTATING... Movie actress Lori Nelson makes with the big eye as she shows off a new outfit designed to let the wearer get plenty of sun.

SPOTS... If a leopard could change its spots and turn out like Rhonda Fleming, jungles probably would be happier places. The suit really isn't from a leopard. It's silk and sequins made to look like it. Rhonda wears it in her role as a glamor queen of the silent films in a new movie.

Engineer Team's Chief Mission Is Rescue Work

BY JOSEPH ZELNIK
The 588th Company of the 151st Engineer Group (Combat) at Fort Benning goes the often grisly task of emergency water rescue and recovery in the Chattahoochee Valley. The mission of the company's 16-man rescue and recovery team, the only unit of its type in the Third U. S. Army area, is to assist in emergency water rescue and recover of personnel and equipment. The team is composed of an officer in charge, an NCO in charge, one power boat operator, four outboard motor operators, one wrecker operator, one engineer mechanic and seven team members. The team is selected from personnel of the company by duty roster and serves in this capacity for one week. During that time, team members are on call and none can stray farther than 30 minutes from the company headquarters in Fort Benning's Harmon Church area. To get the rescue team into action, requests for its use must first come to the Fort Benning staff duty officer. He, in turn, must get the approval to dispatch the unit from Third Army headquarters before summoning the team through its parent unit, the 151st Engineer Group. Once the team has been called out, it may use a 10-ton wrecker, and as many of the course, much more difficult at a 600-foot floating bridge. Last June, for example, the team was called on at midnight to a small pond 10 miles west of Phenix City, Ala., to search for a missing man. The team began dragging the pond at 1 a.m. after trucks were lined up around the lake with their headlights on. The body was found at 2:15 a.m. The search actually has many other functions in addition to that of maintaining the rescue and recovery teams. It maintains the M-4 floating bridge at Bradley Landing, supports S. Army Infantry School problems, and is equipped and prepared to bridge water with

For Modern Infantry Post to Test Jet's Use in Observation

Fort Benning had a preview of tomorrow's ever-widening doctrine of Army air mobility as two T-37 jet aircraft arrived at Lawson Army Air Field from Fort Rucker, Ala., for an orientation visit Sept. 16. The aircraft will be used in tests to be conducted at the post by the Infantry School, next January. The tests will help determine the feasibility of incorporating higher performance observation aircraft as a part of the modern U. S. Infantry.

Finance Gp. Buys Most Saving Bonds

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Officers, enlisted men and DA civilians in the Office of the Chief of Finance (and in its subordinate activities and installations) are, modestly accepting congratulations as the Army's best bond buyers, following the report of the Army Savings Bond Program. The 1957 Program included a person-to-person approach during recent months with "super salesman" selling the pitch. Each installation, separate activity, and Department of the Army Staff Agency which had not reached the Army-wide goal of 65 per cent participation was canvassed.

After each command agency reported its old and new participation rates, the Army released figures showing that a larger percentage of people in the Office of the Chief of Finance (including all of its subordinate activities and installations) was buying bonds than any other major Army agency or command.

"We're charged with the responsibility for promotion and administration of the 1957 Program," declared one Finance spokesman, "and we practice what we preach."

Department of the Army Circular 608-28 outlined the 1957 Program and emphasized it was a continuing one which should be actively supported throughout the year. Participation, stated the circular, is beneficial to the individual, the Army and the Nation.

"Most important result of the canvass," the Program's report said, "is that a number of major commands and Department of the Army agencies are building a new and vital continuing savings bond program upon the framework established by the 1957 canvass."

Brownies Set Shop Plans

A program planning workshop for Fort Benning Girl Scout leaders will be held Oct. 1 and 2 at the Girl Scout Little House on the main post. Brownies leaders will meet 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Intermediate Girl Scout leaders will attend their workshop Oct. 1 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the same hours.

Registration for the sessions may be made by telephoning the Conchary Council of Girl Scout headquarters in Columbus, Ga., at FA 7296.

The workshop has been planned to assist leaders in the preparation of their schedule of troop activities which must be submitted for the coming year's program.

ORIENTATION FLIGHT — Brig. Gen. John P. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of The Infantry Center, takes an orientation flight in a T-37 jet aircraft at Fort Benning Sept. 16. The plane will be tested at the post by The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department in January to help determine the feasibility of incorporating higher performance aircraft in the pentomic Infantry.

It was established at 200 miles and the capabilities of enemy anti-aircraft have been increased, according to officials. This makes it necessary to have an organic aircraft controlled by the field commander that can penetrate the enemy's front lines, go deep into the rear areas to secure necessary intelligence in formation, acquire targets, adjust the fires of supporting weapons and assist other considerations involved.

The Fort Benning tests, will operate under tactical situations as compared with the T-37. The T-37 can fly efficiently at 110 knots. Lack of vibration added maneuverability can be most important.

The Army's area of responsibility in the combat zone has been divided into adequate or Several top Fort Benning officials, including Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commander, and Brig. Gen. John P. Ruggles, Infantry Center, deputy commanding general, took orientation rides in the jet after a briefing by Lt. Col. Jack W. Ruby, commander of the T-37 unit that will support the Fort Benning tests.

The Infantry School test is part of "Project Long Arrow" which was directed by Department of Defense level after key Army planners envisioned the growing need for higher performance observation aircraft in the Army.

Other tests in this project are being conducted at the U. S. Army Artillery School (Missile School) at Fort Sill, Okla., and the U. S. Army Armored School, Fort Knox, Ky.

The January tests will consist of about 80 missions to be flown by both the L-28 Army aircraft and the T-37 for comparison purposes. These tests will be conducted both at night and during daylight hours under varying weather conditions. Thus the advantages of both type aircraft can be weighed.

Fort Benning officials stated the T-37 is not envisioned as an observation aircraft of the future, but it possesses many of the characteristics that are desired.

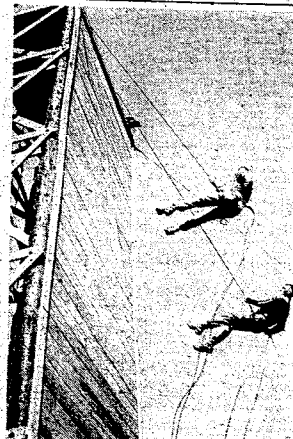

Contrary to popular belief, an aircraft does not have to operate at a slow speed for observation purposes, although the T-37 can fly efficiently at 110 knots. Lack of vibration added maneuverability can be most important.

The Army's area of responsibility in the combat zone has been divided into adequate or

RANGERS DESCEND VERTICAL WALL L-R: Sigs. Edmond Frigate, Sgt. Tommy Fleming

A Ranger confidence course, that tests to the fullest the physical stamina and raw courage of a man has been constructed at Fort Benning by the 80th Engineer Battalion.

The course consists of four obstacles that are utilized by the Infantry School's Ranger Department as part of its jungle, mountain and Fort Benning phases of training.

The course will be the scene of a Ranger Department demonstration to be staged during the 25th semi-annual Civilian Orientation Conference Oct. 1-12.

According to Col. John J. Dallas of Boston, Mass., Ranger department director, speeds up to 60 miles an hour are obtained during the descent.

Principal speaker at the affair will be Rep. George Andrews of the Third Congressional District of Alabama who will be introduced by Roy Smith, Phenix City attorney.

Officers include J. W. Woodruff Jr., first vice president; Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Martin S. Eddy, second vice president; Col. A. S. Sogard, secretary; and Lt. Col. E. D. Fitzpatrick, treasurer.

Special activities have been planned for those attending on Thursday afternoon. At 4:15 p.m., the Infantry School will present "The Role of the Infantry" in the Main Post Theater.

A formal guard mount and stables that are utilized by the Infantry School's Ranger Department as part of its jungle, mountain and Fort Benning phases of training.

The course will be the scene of a Ranger Department demonstration to be staged during the 25th semi-annual Civilian Orientation Conference Oct. 1-12.

According to Col. John J. Dallas of Boston, Mass., Ranger department director, speeds up to 60 miles an hour are obtained during the descent.

A 50-foot rappelling tower is also part of the course. By its use Ranger students are trained to quickly descend a vertical wall by swinging from ropes.

attended by association members from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in the Post Exchange Canteen building.

The local chapter of the AUSA will urge the government to transfer installations at Fort Gordon and Fort Jackson to Fort Benning if they are closed by the economy drive.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Deputy Secretary of Defense D. A. Quarles are scheduled to attend the 25th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference at Fort Benning Oct. 9-12.

This will be the initial visit to Fort Benning for Gen. Twining since assuming his present duties and the first for Quarles.

Other key officers of the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning chapter are J. W. Woodruff Jr., first vice-president; Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Martin S. Eddy, second vice president; and S. S. Sogard, secretary, and Lt. Col. E. D. Fitzpatrick, treasurer.

Presiding over the first general meeting today of the local chapter of the AUSA will be T. G. Reeves, president of the local chapter and prominent businessman from Columbus.

Other key officers of the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning chapter are J. W. Woodruff Jr., first vice-president; Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Martin S. Eddy, second vice president; and S. S. Sogard, secretary, and Lt. Col. E. D. Fitzpatrick, treasurer.

Explaining at a press conference the latest economy move was necessary to bring Defense expenditures within the limits of the $38 billion per cent cut in military manpower during this fiscal year.

Without taking into consideration the Defense Department's edict to trim the Armed Forces by an additional 100,000 men, the Army has 17 divisions, the Navy 967 ships and 133 wings are in the Air Force structure. One Army division already has been ordered deactivated Jan. 1, 1958, to meet the July cutoff, while the AF previously planned a five wing reduction.

Only Half as Bad Now It's the Rub, Bub: Only 6 for de Tubs

Ft. Riley, Kan. (APPS)—You will get along with six washboards, not twelve—and you'd better not order another razor bone for your men in good long time. It took the Army 33 days and 20 infirmosents on the original request to get that message back to a Ft. Riley officer more than a half century ago.

The long-cared document which tells the sad story was found in an old trunk in near-by Junction City by Sgt. Willie Franklin of the Fifth Army Food Service School here.

With the endorsements flitting like battle streamers, the old correspondence will be displayed in the Ft. Riley Museum.

Here's the story the letter unfolds:
On June 13, 1905, the officer in charge of prisoners requested that the commissary issue 12 washboards, one razor bone and one barber's clippers for use in the stockade. The request pointed out that the stockade had been issued five washboards, but no washboards to go with them.

The request started its journey. Passing over the adjutant's desk, it was halted at the commissary by the question of what happened to the "one of good quality" issued only six months ago?

Back to the starting point for an explanation. "The bone was dropped and accidentally broken," was the reply.

This matter cleared up, the document was on its way again and finally reached the mecca of all government paper, Washington, D.C.

On its tenth endorsement, in the office of Chief of Staff, the request went to the Commissary General of the Army. With a commendable spirit of economy that office, endeavoring to cut the washboard request to six and added: "... it does not follow because a bone is recommended this time that another will be in so short a time, the one previously furnished should have lasted, with proper care, for a longer time."

Net result: Six washboards, one razor bone, one pair of barber clippers.

Protestant Chapels Give $276 to Community Fund

The Fort Benning Community Activities Association Fund Drive received a boost this week of $276 in Sunday offerings from Protestant chapels in the post.

In addition, $88 was donated last week from the offering of St. Michael's Episcopal Mission. Catholic chapels on the post have pledged a $200 donation to be made from the offering at masses Oct. 15.

The second of three military post days during the three-month drive Monday gave Fort Benning's major annual fund-raising campaign a big push.

The drive officially started Aug. 22 with an initial contribution by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center. It will conclude Nov. 3.

Funds from the campaign will go to the support of post service activities and Fort Benning Youth Activities Club, Girl and Boy Scout programs, Chaplains Christmas Activities, Army Welfare Nurses, Parent-Teacher Association and American Red Cross.

A portion of the fund is also allocated to the Columbus United Givers which in turn contributes to the local and national U. S. Service Organizations, Inc.

At Chapel Field Formal Guard Mount Honors 3 Officers

A full-dress, formal guard mounted ceremony was seen seeing to close the highway, popularly known as the Bueha Highway, so that it may conduct tests of long-range artillery pieces.

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center, presided at the ceremony. Joseph E. Pfleger, then chief planner officer, Transportation Corps, distinguished himself by an 111.1% achievement from Feb. 24 to May 17, 1957, while engaged in the first 100-hour logistical evaluation test of an Army aircraft. As a fixed and rotary wing pilot, U. S. Army Aviator, Capt. Pfleger will be honored in the future by the award of the Legion of Merit.

Silver Bars Presented To Three STC Privates

An impressive ceremony conducted in the office of Col. Max F. Scheinert, Commanding Officer of Special Troops Company, 1st Cavalry Division, presented three former privates, Philip J. O'Malley, Havertown, Pa.; Harvey Patrick Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Lawrence Kunt Brooklyn, N. Y., commissioned First Lieutenants in the Judge Advocate General Corps.

Col. John C. Caddle, commanding officer of First Special Troops Battalion, assisted in the presentation of the silver bars.

The newly commissioned lieutenants departed this week for Fort Benning, where they will attend a twelve week Staff Judge Advocate Course at the University of Virginia.

Col. O'Malley received his law degree from Villanova University in June, 1956. He entered the Army in January.

Lt. Patrick entered the service in September, 1956 after receiving his degree in law from Brooklyn College and Law School in June 1956. His wife, Mrs. Sheila R. Patrick, was unable to be present for the ceremony.

Lt. Kinin, formerly a clerk in the Staff Judge Advocate section of Special Troops Company, served as an enlisted member of the 37th Engineer Bn. Prior to being assigned to the 57th, Lt. Dean served with the 800th Engineer Company (Field Maintenance).

A survey of officers slated for separation revealed that about 20 per cent may be interested in using the personnel placement service.

U. S., Canada Chart Course In Northwest

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The U. S. Coast Guard is charting a 2,000-mile ocean-to-ocean Arctic waterway across the top of North America.

The last link in a chain of surveys for the deep-water northwest passage was made by three small Coast Guard ships, the Bramble, Spar and Storis, at Bellot Strait, a narrow 12-mile route between the Boothia Peninsula in north central Canada and Somerset Island.

Canada's Arctic patrol ship Labrador recently scoured the strait and found a channel for deep-draft ships.

The patrol vessel is leading the Coast Guard ships through Bellot from where they are expected to have clear sailing to the Atlantic.

Combat Arms System

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles to be published in the Army Information Digest written by Lt. Gen. Donald P. Booth.)

Every Infantry, Artillery, and Armor unit in the Active Army will soon be part of a famous U.S. Army regiment.

Every tactical unit of these three combat arms in the Army Reserve and National Guard eventually will also be part of a distinguished United States or National Guard regiment.

Even when the Army is fully mobilized, every combat arms unit will be part of a regiment.

The regiments themselves will be elevated to a new role as "parent" organizations of the units comprising the Army's combat forces. They will be continuously active regardless of changes in tactical organization or in the size of the active forces, in peace or war.

Each regiment will have a variable number of active units, ranging from at least one in peacetime, up to a dozen or more when the Army expands in wartime.

These features are all part of a new system called the Regimental System—a system of organizing, designating, and maintaining historical continuity of Army combat units. The plan for its establishment was approved by the Chief of Staff and the Secretary of the Army in January. First steps in converting the Active Army units to the regimental system are now being taken in conjunction with the pentomic reorganization of major units. Execution of this phase will extend well into calendar year 1959. Extension of the system to the reserve components will follow later.

By its very nature, the Combat Arms Regimental System is a broad, long-range program which will require a period of years for full accomplishment. It is the product of an extensive study of the problems of achieving continuity in the existence of Army combat units, despite the fact that the size and composition of the Army is never static, but changes constantly.

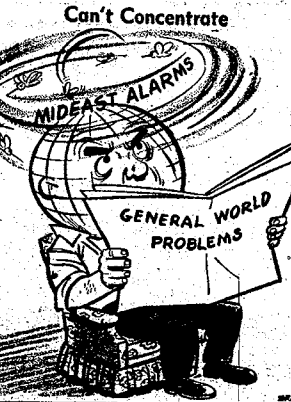

The problem has existed as long as the Army itself, and has grown progressively more acute in recent years. Only basic organizational changes become more frequent in modern times, but also the impact on esprit-de-corps has increased. Out of each war have come increasing numbers of units, with distinguished battle histories, which are recognized for their achievement, units have become more meaningful, and the inactivation of a historic unit is more deeply felt.

Studies of future tactical organization indicate a trend toward a more flexible combat structure, with increased problems of adaptation of historic units. On the other hand, many new units have already been formed with designations that run to three and even four digits, but with little or no combat history.

As an approach to a solution to this problem, analyses were made of the feasibility of establishing an organizational framework which would remain stable, regardless of fluctuations in strength. This could not be done with divisions, because the number of organized combat divisions—and their type—varies directly with requirements. Combat divisions, moreover, must be kept at the strength required by their mission. In fact, no organization which forms part of the tactical structure can arbitrarily be fixed in a continuously active state.

The traditional regiments, however, could be used to build the desired framework. First, regiments are the principal repositories of Army history and traditions; they have comprised the basic administrative organization of the "troops" throughout most of the U.S. Army's existence. Second, regiments could be made available for this purpose, particularly since they have to a large extent been replaced in the tactical organization by self-contained smaller dergome many changes in size and form without loss of their historical importance.

International Round-Up Algeria's Home Rule Plan Suffers Defeat

PARIS—The French National Assembly rejected the government's plan for Algerian home rule in 11 years.

Defeat of the moderate Premier plunged France into its latest postwar political crisis. Bourges-Mourou had survived in office less than four months after his appointment in June last year.

The assembly voted against his modified plan of self-rule for rebellious Algeria despite its last-minute plea for unity on the issue, and a warning that France could not hold the North African territory by force of arms alone.

After a long debate, which began at 9:30 a.m. (3:30 a.m. EDT), the defeat of the 43-year-old Premier was announced at 11 p.m.

MARTIAL LAW—Haiti's tough military government proclaimed martial law and a 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew throughout the republic last week to prevent further political disorders.

For the second time this year, U.S. armed investigators successfully unmasked former Sen. Joseph P. Kamp, whose whereabouts were being mystery in an effort to question him about his military activities yesterday's five-page report in the Strategic Post.

INDIRECT ADVICE—Washington—Red China's military and political situation is being watched closely by the U.S. State Department.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER Our Just Due Is One Big Question

Getting what we think is coming to us occupies most of our waking hours. I suppose one might really say that success, by American standards is judged by our efficiency in "getting everything that is coming to us."

Superficially this seems not to be the way of life that is ours has grown and prospered because in getting what is coming to them. A man is entitled to what is his due. There is what is his due. There is what is his due. There is what is his due.

Many, many years ago there was a man named Job. He was rich, prosperous, happy. His life's reverse must be a signal for help of Almighty God. Job's reverse must be a signal for help of Almighty God.

Let us this day, come to grips with life's inevitable reverses, manfully and with courage. We will get our hand of care that we cannot bear, with the help of Almighty God.

When I'm worried and I can't sleep, I count my blessings instead of sheep. When I fall asleep counting my blessings, I think of when I had none.

I think about a nursery and I think about a nursery. I think about a nursery and I think about a nursery. I think about a nursery and I think about a nursery.

THE JUDGE SAYS...
I sent his side of the argument and consequently the judge would probably forestall it.

Recently I have received a complaint from a civilian lawyer to the effect that one of our young soldiers had been involved in a civilian indiscretion.

Later, when I talked to this young man, he told me that he was not concerned about this indiscretion, because he understood that any such indiscretion of this act is not uniform.

Hard-Hitting Ranger Force Gets Top Jungle Training in Florida

BY NORMAN SOLOJ
Benning and 26 miles from Eglin Air Force Base proper. When the incoming Ranger student arrives at the base, he finds that he is a member of a special battalion formulated to help drive an aggressor force out of Florida. All of the training missions and patrols are slung with this tactical situation in view. As a result the missions are continuously moving from the east section of the area to the west, finally culminating in an attack on Fort Pickens near Pensacola, Fla. which drives the enemy into the sea.

Problem: Setting
This was the setting for the first staging of a new problem by The Infantry School's Ranger Department to prepare the Infantry junior officer and NCO for future leadership assignments, both on the battlefield and behind enemy lines.

Plan Rescue
In this new problem, Rangers receive word from higher headquarters that an aircraft carrying important Allied personnel, including a two-star general, had either crashed or made a forced landing in aggressor-held territory. Intelligence reports seemed to indicate that the had captured the occupants of the plane and a small stockade was being built to house them.

Florida Camp
Further G-2 (intelligence) information reveals that the enemy plans to evacuate the prisoners to the rear lines at the earliest possible moment. The Rangers are then alerted.

Wail Begins
When midnight nears the Rangers know the time for practice is over. Before boarding the aircraft they check each other to make sure their uniforms are just right. An unblackened face or a rattle of a keychain could give the aggressors the alert that would spell disaster to the mission.

Finally the planes are loaded and the Rangers walk for word to take-off. Then a signal comes from the agent that the prisoners are not yet in the stockade and a period of waiting begins.

The change of plans happens quite frequently during the jungle phase of Ranger training. The Ranger student as a future combat leader must learn to adjust to swift changes and be prepared for any eventuality.

At 3 a.m. the word comes. The prisoners are in the stockade and the mission begins. It is only a short distance to the deserted airfield. However, security remains the airfield to fly in a path best suited to avoid detection by enemy eyes and ears. As a result

The outer guards are taken care of silently by the simulated use to a knife or garrote, a piece of wire used to strangle a man while he is unable to make a sound. Then a guard's voice rings out for the password. The spotted Rangers spring into attack. Before the aggressor force can recover, the Rangers have cut the stockade barbed wire, entered the compound and in a short pitched battle with the defending force wiped them out and quickly depart with the liberated prisoners.

Flexible Fire Plow Devised at Benning

A new fire plow, used to dig a furrow around a fire tree to remove the vegetation, has been devised by Fort Benning Forester Norman Force.

The new device resembles the larger plow used for major forest fires and is believed capable of saving thousands of dollars annually.

"The idea behind this plow, which is approximately a fifth

Gyroscope News

Shots Slated For Troops

Major General Roy E. Linquist, Commanding General of the 3d Infantry Division, this week announced plans to immunize dependents of "Merrill" personnel who will GYROSCOPE to Germany at least four weeks before their departing date.

The first of a series of immunizations to be administered at the United Army Hospital will be given to all advanced party dependents early in October. They will receive all of their immunizations by the end of October in order to be prepared for their departure in early January 1958.

Some 400 3d Division personnel will comprise the Advance Party. Families of this group will accompany them to Germany.

The first and second increments to GYRO to Germany in March and April, respectively, will begin their immunizations early in January 1958, so that they may receive the complete series by late February.

The third and final GYRO increment, which leaves in early May, (and any other remaining dependents) are scheduled to begin their immunizations in early February and be completed by the end of March.

By late May, the whole 3d Infantry Division should be at their new home in Germany, replacing the 10th Infantry Division which will occupy the old 3d Division area at Fort Benning, Georgia.

the size of the larger one, is to furnish a more mobile unit and to cut the cost of operations," said Force.

Force made the plow from a used six horsepower garden tractor. He designed an adapter for the rear of the tractor on which is attached a plow and root cutter.

The larger fire plow weighs about 3,100 pounds and requires a ton and a half truck to carry it to the fire. It cost approximately $2,000. The attached plow adds another $500, bringing the total to $2,500.

"My new plow will cost approximately $400 complete with all the necessary equipment. Moving this plow can be accomplished by a small pickup truck," Force points out.

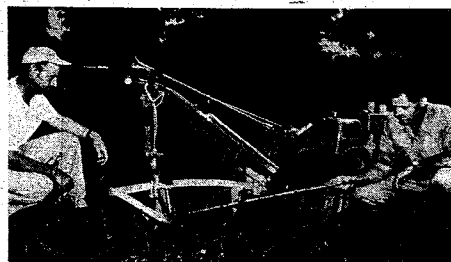

The technical advantage explained to Olin Witherington of Americus, Ga., forester for the Third District of the Georgia Forestry Commission who is interested in the plan, and Floyd M. Cook, Muscogee County forest ranger, last week by force included these facts:

First, the new plow can be loaded and unloaded by one man because it is self-propelled.

Second, one man can operate it at the fire. It is small enough to be handled and moved rapidly around a small fire in its first stages.

Third, by using this plow, a raker and a man with a hose, three men can do the work of a 12-man crew with only hand tools.

Fourth, cost is less than a fifth of the larger plow. Operation costs are greatly reduced. Fifth, even small forestry stations will be able to afford several of these plows where the larger ones would be too expensive.

NEW FIRE PLOW . . . Norman Force, right, of Columbus, Ga., U. S. Army Infantry Center forester, explains the features of the new fire plow he devised recently at Fort Benning. Listening to the explanation is Olin Witherington of Americus, Ga., District Forester for Third Forestry District, Georgia Forestry Commission. Mr. Force has submitted his new plow to the post Incentive Awards.

Major Crea Is Presented Achievement Certificate

Major Robert D. Crea of San Antonio, Texas, budget officer of the U. S. Army Infantry Center Controller Section since July, 1955, has been presented a certificate of Achievement for meritorious service at Fort Benning.

The award was made by Major Gen. Herbert B. Fowler, Infantry Center, commanding general.

The citation read in part: "Major Crea distinguished himself through a display of professional competence, initiative, determination and personal devotion to duty.

He demonstrated exceptional comprehension of a variety of different problems. The tact he displayed in maintaining harmonious relationship with all activity and program directors resulted in the maximum utilization of funds for the best interest of the command."

Major Crea has been assigned to France.

He entered the Army in May, 1941, and served as a fiscal officer with the Northwest Service Command in constructing the Alaska Highway during World War II.

From 1950 to 1954 Major Crea was assigned to Joint Task Force III, 1st and VI, serving with Army, Air Force and Navy personnel in testing atomic devices at Eniwetok and Bikini in the Pacific.

Col. Townsend Says Defense Tie Strong In West Germany

"I found an air of poised confidence in West Germany," Col. P. C. Townsend, Dental Brigade Commander who with a 15-man survey team recently returned from a tour of future "Marne" Division garrison and training areas in Germany.

"The attitude of Americans and Germans, cooperating in the American Defense Plan, is one of determination to see it through," he said.

The colonel, at the direction of Major Gen. Roy Lindquist, "Marne" Commander, made a three week reconnaissance and study of the situation effecting the upcoming garrisoning of the Third Division, and noted that war damage is still visible, but that the industry and imagination of the civilian public, with the aid of American forces, is rapidly erasing these scars.

"I was amazed at the progress made during the post-war years," he said. "The men of the Third Division will soon find themselves in a highly desirable assignment. Troop barracks are all located in former German Army Kasernen. Each Kaserne, of from 700 to 3,000 man capacity, is a completely self-contained unit of modern unit messes, non-commissioned officers' clubs, theaters, post exchanges, commissary, and the usual recreational facilities offered on American posts.

"Our people," he noted, "will be located in five major towns with two to three Kasernen in each town. In addition, a small unit will occupy Bad Kissingen which is about 25 miles from the first Curtin."

"The tempo of training is twice that found in Continental U. S. camps," Colonel Townsend observed.

A 30 meter signal solved STC's Pvt. Richard C. Bartlett's telephone problems last week. Pvt. Bartlett was unable to contact his wife in Miami, Fla., to clear a planned trip by her to Fort Benning. SFC Richard F. Parker, STC-PIO photographer, volunteered his mobile amateur radio (K2ZTK-4) to contact Mrs. Bartlett by radio. Miami amateur radio K4RML was contacted on the 20 meter band. The Miami operator connected Pvt. Bartlett and his wife through the air waves.

A 10 minute two-way conversation, covering 600 miles of wire, left a speechless Bartlett's arrangements for the trip.

SFC Parker, known widely to many "ham" operators as "The Mistletoe Yankee," has a broadcast on the amateur wave lengths from Army posts as far away as Okinawa. His present transmitter is an amplitude modulation DX 100 Heathkit, with 170 watts behind the signal.

"As all amateurs," says SFC Parker, "I plan to modify my equipment to get more distance, and a clearer signal. All that is required is time, money, and space."

Captain Is Commended

Capt. Ian Walter has been commended for superior performance of duty with the U.S. Army Infantry School's Department of Nonresident Instruction at Fort Benning. Capt. Walter, who served as executive officer of the department's Logistical Section from April 22, 1955, to Aug. 12, 1957, is now assigned to the high school-Reserve Officer Training Corps in Memphis, Tenn. Col. Robert S. Cain, director of the Non-Resident Instruction Department commended his former staff officer in a letter of Commendation stating that Capt. Walter's acceptance of responsibility and demonstrated knowledge of the section was most evident.

Post Telephone Exchange Adds Substation for Kelly Hill Area

BY JULIA BRUNNKE
The mammoth Fort Benning telephone exchange system has enlarged its service with the addition of a 220-line substation in the Kelly Hill area.

Operation of the new station began in September. The latest Army field switchboard, it is the first emergency board of its kind to be installed at Fort Benning.

Sgt. Joseph F. Ruzik, Painesdale, Mich., and Pfc. James W. Coody, Memphis, Tenn., installed the new station for the station team from the U. S. Army Infantry Center Signal Section's Wire Division, completed the job in six weeks without interruption of service.

Previously served by a 60-line switchboard, the area now has 200 local lines and 20 trunk lines between the Main Post area, Harmony Church, Sand Hill and the Columbus-Plenik City areas. There are 50 telephones in use. Facilities can accommodate 200.

Eight operators give 24-hour service on the exchange. Approximately 1,800 local calls are handled daily, plus 700 trunk calls per day. Not only has service been increased and enlarged but the system produces 90 per cent more efficient service. James T. Young, Signal Section wire officer, pointed out.

Previously about 500 trunk calls per day had to be handled through The Infantry Center switchboard by individual operators. The new board, which gives direct service, brings much-needed relief for the main switchboard load.

Since the Kelly Hill area, which lies between Santa Fe Road and Harmony Church area of First Division Road, has grown into a troop area in the past two years, the need for service has grown accordingly.

Three other such switchboards are scheduled to be installed for temporary service until the new Santa Fe dial exchange can be completed. It is expected to be in operation the early part of 1959.

Fort Benning's $2 million telephone system the life blood of communication is under the direction of Col. Edward C. Oudin Jr., Richard, Ga., the Army Center Signal officer.

Solo Fixed-Wing Flight Is Made
By Gen. Powell

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, made his solo flight in an Army fixed-wing aircraft last week.

Gen. Powell already a qualified helicopter pilot took the Army L-19A "Bird Dog" into the air for a 30-minute initial flight which included three take-offs and three landings.

His instructor, Master William A. Howell, commander of the Third Transportation Battalion, reported that Gen. Powell is continuing in his program to become a qualified Army aviator in both rotary wing and fixed-wing aircraft.

Gen. Powell, who has over 20 hours in the helicopter, qualified as a rotary wing pilot in February.

Division Slates Gyro Briefings

Wives of "Marine" Division officers and non-commissioned officers scheduled to gyroscope to Germany with the Third Infantry Division have been invited to join their husbands at scheduled briefings on the movement to Germany.

The series of briefings were arranged by Major Gen. Roy E. Lindquist, "Marine" Division Commander, in order to fully inform Division officers, NCOs, and all wives on information gained during recent visit to Germany by the "Marine" commander and the 15-man Advance Planning Group.

In announcing the scheduled time for the briefings, the commanding general emphasized the importance of the information to be discussed, and urged maximum attendance by wives, as well as officers and NCOs.

The briefings will cover: gyroscope movement, housing, school facilities, recreational activities, and most of other important subjects.

Rams, Bulldogs Cop Grid Openers

School Brigade Teams to Tangle Saturday Night

Large Crowd Set to View Grid Contest

Two victors in last week's Infantry Center football action, the School Brigade Rams and 2nd Student Battalion Bulldogs, clash Saturday night at Doughboy Stadium in the feature game of this weekend's grid card. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Rams dumped the School Troop Commanders, 25-6, and the Bulldogs whipped the 29th, 12-0, in first round games.

Both teams boast numerous fine former college athletes with the Student Battalion having an edge in raw talent. The School Brigade counters with a whipping superiority in the perfection of their offenses.

The Rams unveiled a talented pair of passers last week in John Breddie and Alvin Norin. Willie Longshore and James Lavery afford the School Brigade a powerful running game while Mel Spencer and Hugh Tommy give Breddie and Norin two, rony targets. Bullethead Dan Coughlin calls the Ram defensive formations and anchors a rugged line.

The Bulldogs are three deep with average talent but lack of practice time has hindered their offensive machine seriously. With a big fight in front of them, timing and coordination are all Jimmy Thompson, Chuck Florio, Ed Burkhalter, and a flock of other bustling backs need to operate a potent offense.

COMPLETED PASS... Roy Wilkin (85), former University of Georgia star and a member of the USAIA football team catches this one for a 15 yard gain as Gilbert Jones (24), halfback for The School Brigade Bulldogs came in for the tackle in a game last Sunday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium. The Bulldogs won 12 to 0.

Marne Division Grid Action

DivArty, 7th Inf. Show Power in Easy Victories

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG
DivArty and the 7th Infantry Cottonballers played great scoring talents during the last week as they drubbed the 30th Inf. and Division Armor, 44-0 and 33-0 respectively in Marne League Football action.

The 7th, in their season opener to an impressive victory last Thursday under the lights at Statistically the Cottonball Tigers dominated play, picking up 47 yards on the ground and thru the air as they held the Sabers to a tartling total of 25 yards.

The final 7th touchdown came on a pass from quarterback Bob McDonald to Joe Behm, in a play covering 10 yards. Bob Joseph's attempted placement for the extra point failed and the Cottonballers held a 6-0, first quarter lead.

Bob Payne, fleet-footed 7th halfback, broke loose for 29 yards in the second canto to booster his club's lead and Joseph's placement rang thru McDonald, who passed for the first 7th score, tallied their final six in the first half as they added 25 yards on a smoothly executed play.

The final two tallies came on lengthy runs, the first being by the ubiquitous Mr. McDonald. The second came for a point in the last period was matched by Bob Joseph's 49 yard run. Joseph also added both conversions.

DivArty's explosive offense also combined superlative defense and air-tight defense as the Redlegs smashed the 30th Infantry, 44-0 at Doughboy Stadium last Saturday, in a HIGH INTO THE AIR... goes Division Trains end Kirmey Fay to grab the end zone. Fay, however, landed outside of the end zone as he reached ground and the pass was ruled incomplete. 30th Infantry safety man Crooner Jones covers the play for his team which took the contest at Ft. Benning's Doughboy Stadium, 26-12.

Commanders Defeated On Rain-Swept Gridiron

The rampaging School Brigade opened their 1957 football season last Saturday with a thumping 25-6 victory over the Special Troops Commanders on the rain swept Doughboy Stadium gridiron.

John Breddie, a fancy dan quarterback from Boston University, guided the Rams deftly over the slippery and soggy turf. Breddie figured in three TD's.

The Rams rolled to their first score late in the first quarter. Willie Longshore, a towering, handrumning halfback from Miami of Ohio, hustled 7 yards around right end to set up a 61 yard scoring drive. The try for extra point was blocked. A Breddie to James Lavery aerial, good for 27 yards, carried the Rams to the Commanders one-yard stripe. Breddie scored on a quarterback sneak. The conversion attempt was missed.

Willie Stinson sparked the Commanders after the intermission with an interception while moving the ball to the Ram 22. A 15 yard penalty carried the School Troops to the seven and Stinson slashed into the end zone from there. Stinson was stopped on the 1 attempting to crack off left tackle for the extra point.

Breddie, rolling out to the right, fired a 34 yard strike to Longshore for the Rams third TD. Longshore grabbed the slippery sphere on the Commander 12 and powered his way through and around three Commanders to score standing up. Breddie flipped to Longshore for the extra point and the Rams held a commanding 14-0 advantage with 12:29 left.

Ed Burkhalter, a pint sized fullback from the University of Georgia, blasted his way yards up the middle for the first Rams touchdown. Burkhalter and halfback Chuck Florio attempted in packing the pigskin 12 and powered his way through and around three Commanders to score standing up. Breddie flipped to Longshore for the extra point and the Rams held a commanding 14-0 advantage with 12:29 left.

400 Junior Footballers Receive New Equipment

Approximately 400 junior football players ranging in age from 8 to 16 years, members of Fort Benning's 16 boys' football teams, were fitted with rubber tooth and mouth protectors last week.

There were 21 dentists and 10 American Red Cross Gray Ladies on hand to assist Lt. Col. E. L. Fenske in fitting the protectors as the youngsters prepared for the football season.

Boys participating in the football program are divided into three leagues according to age and weight. The Biddy League, composed of boys whose ages range from 8 to 11 and who weigh less than 100 pounds, is the largest of the three leagues. Its 10 teams have about 250 boys on their rosters.

The 120 players, who compose the four teams in the Doughboy League, are 12 and 13 years old and weigh less than 120 pounds.

There are only two teams consisting of 45 players in the Pony League.

Small fry on the Biddy League will open the season Oct. 6 while the Doughboy League will start on Oct. 13 following day. Games will be played at Sighting Field starting at 8:15 p.m.

TOM WIERZBICKI Yanks Vs. Braves In World Series

As hard as College and Professional football may try this weekend to take over the sports scene the best they will do is second place for the climax of the baseball season is in full swing. Yes it's the World Series. The New York Yankees against the Milwaukee Braves. Casey Stengel's Bombers are once again favored to repeat as world champions. Avid Yankee haters (the baseball kind, that is) are picking the Milwaukee team. Braves fans are picking the Milwaukee team. And even the National league managers, as a whole, are picking the Milwaukee team to dethrone the great New York dynasty.

Green Wave Loses 12-0 To Bulldogs

After being held scoreless for two periods by a tired-up Troop Commanding line, the 2d Student Battalion Bulldogs exploded for two quick touchdowns in the second half. Breddie scored on a quarterback sneak. The conversion attempt was missed.

Franklin Brooks, an All-American guard from Georgia Tech, covered the gridiron like the early morning Georgia dew, to completely bottle up the Student Battalion Bulldogs. First half but Brooks suffered a concussion early in the third quarter and the thumb was out of the dice.

Ed Burkhalter, a pint sized fullback from the University of Georgia, blasted his way yards up the middle for the first Rams touchdown. Burkhalter and halfback Chuck Florio attempted in packing the pigskin 12 and powered his way through and around three Commanders to score standing up. Breddie flipped to Longshore for the extra point and the Rams held a commanding 14-0 advantage with 12:29 left.

There are many who feel that athletes on the whole are egotistical snobs. Our job shows us that this is ridiculous. Athletes are no better nor any worse than any other class of individuals. As a whole, athletes are gentlemen worthy of anyone's companionship.

If there is anyone thing that has made an impression on us it would have to be the so-called "top stars" in athletics. We have always found it difficult to see how they could possibly fail to make "stars" anything else but cocky or conceited.

Sports Build Character
We had to see and hear before we could believe how false this premise actually was. If anything, these individuals could be classified as being extremely modest about their achievements. Yes, and we're talking about All-American football players and bonus baseball players.

The field of sports is sometimes laughed at because it is supposed to build character. What else can it be but character that sports in general is building? Modesty is hard to come home any more reach what many call the top of the ladder.

As we look back at the names of stars many of which are today a part of professional sports we feel privileged to have known them just a little bit closer. Names like Don Hollender, Pete Vann, Zeke Bratkowski, Jim Dooley, Johnny Latner, Ralph Gugliemi, Pete Rademacher, Max McGhee, Don Brown, Billy O'Dell, Jim Boyd, Frank Bolling, Dick Shannon, Dale Haupt, Jim Ingram, Kenny Brown and many, many others.

In our book they were really true All-Americans.

NRA Members Invited To Dixie Matches Oct. 11

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION UNITED STATES ARMY, Fort Benning, Ga., Third U. S. Army, invited NRA members to participate in the Dixie Rifle and Pistol Matches in Jacksonville, Fla., October 11-13.

Sponsored by the Jacksonville Police Rifle and Pistol Club, the matches are open to all members of the NRA who may participate individually or with a team.

The agenda of events includes shooting with a .45 caliber pistol or revolver, center fire pistols or revolvers, and smaller rifle.

35 and two plays later, Florida quarterback Jimmy Thompson winged a 32 yard strike to Deet McGee Kansas end, Bill Bell, Stengel's Bombers for the extra point was stopped.

PRESS NOTES - The 2d Student Battalion aggregation possesses a wealth of talent but severe practice limitations have hampered their offense. Sunday night, three important plays for the Bulldogs fully with yards; the first time the offensive backfield ran with the offensive line, and the first time when the performance was not under the lights. Timing was much improved in the second half. The offense started to jell. Deet McGee, both teams looked good but the loss of Brockley broke the back of the 29th.

Point Captain Playing With Bulldog Eleven

The captain of last year's Army football team is now a student officer here. He is Lt. Edward Szvetez, presently assigned to the 22d Company, 2d Student Battalion, The School Brigade.

Lt. Szvetez played center on his Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, High School football team for three years winning two letters and co-captained the team his senior year. He was also awarded the Lineman of the Year trophy and won a letter on the basketball team his senior year.

At the Military Academy, Szvetez played four years of football, winning three varsity letters at center. He captained the team his last year.

Asked what one game gave him his biggest thrill while at the Academy, he said, "It was the Army-Navy game of 1955. Navy was expected to win by a big score."

"Our All-American end, Don Jieder, had been switched to quarterback, so instead of taking to the air we punched our way out on the ground. We took them into camp by a 34 to 6 score."

OVERCOME TAVERN

And police officers investigating an alarmed citizen's report that a group of armed men had taken over a tavern in Ecorse Township, Mich., found the report true. Several detectives had tied into the bar to escape a downpour and had doffed their dampened coats, exposing revolvers.

Company A won the 2d Battalion Group touch football league last week. Company A who went through the nine game season undefeated will represent the 2d Battle Group 14th Infantry in the USAIC Touch Football Tournament running the 7 thru the 10th of October.

Roping-up was Headquarters and Headquarters Company with 72 record. Finishing in a three way tie for third place were C Battery 2d FA BN 10th Artillery, Company C, and Mortar Battery.

Many close and exciting games were played during the season with many going into overtime.

Final Team Standing are as follows:

Team	Points
Company A	100
Company B	60
Company C	40
Company D	20
Company E	10

Strip Near Completion

Fort Benning's newest and largest turf landing strip, was built large enough to accommodate C-123 aircraft.

In addition to serving as a landing strip for U. S. Air Force troop-transport planes, Army Air Force Liaison planes and Helicopters will land there. It will also be used by Airborne units during jump problems and maneuvers.

One of the first landings to be made on the new turf strip will occur during the JCOOC show Oct. 9-12.

BAKEPOT THREE

Police in Fairfield, Conn. who found a shop at a burglarized service station, later arrested the 19-year-old culprit whom they spotted driving a truck with a bare foot dangling out a window.

2 Undefeated Kegler Gps. Still Remain

In the second week of rolling in the Soldiers' Bowling League, two teams remained with out a set back.

The Infantry Board Boarders won 4 points from the 50th Field Company, a 1,000 per cent record. Jerry Gens led the Boarders with a 555 series, while Perkins led the Cr. Co. with a 475 series.

Co. B, 1st STB took 3 points from the Flatfoot Five. Keglers led Co. B to victory with a 538 series. Addison was high man for the Flatfooters with a 482 series.

50th Ord Co and Hq Co STC split 4 points. Shevlin with a 482 series led Hq Co and Goble sparked the 50th Ord with a 462 series too.

Hospital Cadets took 3 of 4 points from the Transfer Pilot. Guerrera was high kegler for the winners with a 521 series and Bumbetta was top.

Johnson Cops STC Pistol Firing Event

More than twenty aspirants for the Headquarters Company, Special Troops Command, and the Second Special Troops Battalion Pistol Teams engaged in competitive firing at the Kearns Pistol Range, Tuesday September 3, 1957.

Sgt. John H. Johnson, Hq. Co., of Atlanta, Georgia who has excelled in pistol shooting during his career, was top man with a 333 out of a possible 350. He was a member of both the Okinawa and the Far East pistol teams.

Sgt. William L. Arrowood, Columbus, Georgia, a member of the MP Co. pressed Sgt. Johnson throughout the firing but could not quite catch up as he finished with 321.

Other units in Special Troops Command will form teams and then engage in company level competition. The best of those will for battalion size teams and then by elimination, a team to represent Special Troops Command in Post Competition.

Hq. Co. 29th Inf. Wins Touch Football Crown

Hq. & Hq. Co. captured the 1st Battle Group, 28th Infantry Touch Football Championship with a convincing 28-6 victory over the Infantry Scout Dog Platoon last Thursday night. The newly-crowned champs rode to the title on the strong passing arm of tailback Foster Elwood. The New Yorker threw five 7d aerials in the two play-off titles last week.

After playing to a scoreless deadlock in the first period, Hq. & Hq. struck swiftly and sent Don Craft into paydirt on a five yard reverse play. Bob Hinington leaped high to haul down an Elwood pass for the extra point.

Lt. Col. Lindberg Is New Third Div. AG

Lt. Col. Paul S. Lindberg has been assigned as the new Adjutant General of the Third Infantry Division. He replaces Lt. Col. Thomas S. Capers, who departed for temporary duty at Fort Benning's Airborne School where he will undergo airborne training pending a new assignment by Department of the Army.

Prior to his present position Lindberg was Chief, Organization and Training Division, Adjutant General's Section, at the U. S. Continental Army Command Headquarters, Fort Monrue, Va.

On a pass play covering six yards, Sparky Skitromo led the Scout Dog second past the Scout Dog secondary after receiving an Elwood-authored pass. Hagerman intercepted a Scout Dog pass man, caught a short pass for

GETS READY . . . Doyle Perkins, former University of Washington tennis star, sharpens his game in preparation for the tennis tournament slated for the Officers' Club courts October 5-8 and 12-13.

Tennis Club Membership Tops 1,000

Chuck Evert, professional at the Fort Benning Tennis Club, revealed Wednesday that the club is now a member of the United States and Southern Lawn Tennis Associations.

The very active Benning club boasts approximately 1,000 tennis enthusiasts out of a possible 6,000 officers on the military reservation.

Eight, all-weather rubico courts are consistently in use during the daylight off-duty hours and two court-provided with lights, see action until the waning hours are done.

The terrific interest in tennis at Fort Benning has prompted promotion Jack Kruger to bring his professional tour to the post three times.

Two of his current groups of outstanding players on the post are Bill Bailey, captain of last year's West Point team, and Doyle Perkins, the 1957 Pacific Coast Conference Northern Division champion.

Former Princeton Sculler Now Assigned to 3d Div.

Among the champions who represent the major sports in the 3d Infantry Division, there is to be found one who is a champion in the rowing field. Private First Class Anthony Fletcher of New Canaan, Connecticut, was a member of the championship crew of Princeton University in 1956 and 1957.

Fletcher, a member of the 3d Infantry's 1st Battle Group, 30th Infantry, started rowing in high school in Belmont, Massachusetts.

Later at Princeton University, he was qualified for the light-crew team. Fletcher was a member of an eight-man team, which competed in the Henley Royal Regatta in England.

In the tournament for the Thames Challenge Cup in July 1957, he recalls that the general race was the toughest. At the opening of the race, his team lunged forward, gaining a lead, but gradually lost their jump on the other team. In the final 30 seconds of the race, they spotted with their last bit of energy and soared ahead to victory thus becoming eligible for the finals.

Competing in the finals for this trophy was no easy task. One race a week is usually normal for a crew, sapping every bit of strength out of each man. In the finals, however, the last two races came within three hours of each other. Fletcher and the Princeton crew displayed spectacular form, and opened to the finish, winning the Cup and the Championship for the second straight year.

The 3d Division "Marneman" graduated Cum Laude from Princeton with a Degree in Politics, and was accepted for admission to Harvard Law School.

The 3d Division soldier is undergoing basic training and while firing on the range last week fired eight consecutive bullseyes, the second time he ever fired the M1 rifle.

Games Meet Underway

Approximately 116 soldiers will be Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Night sessions will be held for badminton, handball and table tennis in Briant Wells Field House. They will begin at 6:30 p.m. and last until 9 p.m.

Winners in the various events will represent Fort Benning in the Third U.S. Army Small Games Tournament Oct. 21 to 26.

Of the five sports featured in the tourney, horsebaes drew the most entrants, with 34 vying in singles and 11 teams in the doubles. Table tennis ran a close second with 22 registering for singles and 11 teams for doubles.

The one event that features only singles, the hand grenade throw, will have 21 men battling for top honors as will the singles in handball. Badminton has 18 singles and 10 doubles signed up.

Competition will be daily, with the exception of Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for all events except the hand grenade throw. This event

Atomic Tests Prove 'Pentomic' Concept

CAMP DESERT ROCK, Nevada, (ANS) — The U. S. Army's pentomic concept with an atomic test has just been tried and proved here at the Nevada Test Site.

A reinforced company from the 1st Battalion, 12th Infantry, Fort Lewis, Washington, a platoon of Canadian riflemen and two companies of helicopters went into action attacking simulated aggressor-held positions after a tremendous atomic explosion rocked the desert mountains surrounding Yucca Flat.

Some 200 military observers watched from a hillside eight miles from ground zero as shot Snooky, equivalent to 60,000 tons of TNT, tumbled up from the desert floor. Surrounding mountains were ablaze and echoed the report of the shot for nearly a minute after the sharp crack of the explosion reached the observers.

Participating troops watched the detonation from the side of an adjacent hill raised a cheer as Snooky's mushroom cloud soared upward. They had been training daily here for more than a month to ready themselves for the 1957 troop participation exercise. The shot had been delayed since the middle of August because of adverse weather and atmospheric conditions.

Radiological monitors sped into the shot area shortly after the blast and pronounced the area of the mushroom cloud nearly 100,000 deposits, which might be denied commissary privileges after the first of their year unless they or their sponsors applied for DD Form 1173 at once.

All persons entitled to privileges, including the 12th Infantry, the 3rd Armored Cavalry and other units, were notified by mail. This last minute cancellation did not detract from excitement which was in evidence at shot time.

The Army's female contingents were not left out of the excitement. They were given a special tour of the Nevada Test Site. The tour was led by Major General William A. B. Stewart, commander of the 12th Infantry, and Major General Raymond F. Ruffel.

Among the ladies who attended were Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen, wife of Brig. Gen. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, and wives of other officers.

Col. Billings Named Lawson Commander

Col. William H. Billings, Saginaw, Mich., has assumed duties of commander of Lawson Air Field, Fort Benning, Ga.

He succeeded Col. Gilman A. Hoff, Jr., Greenville, S. C., who retired from active duty Aug. 30, 1957.

Col. Billings, assistant to the deputy commander general of The Infantry Center, since had held the posts of chief of the Basic Tactics Group, deputy director and director of The Infantry School's tactical Department. He has also served as deputy assistant commander of The Infantry School from October, 1956, until July, 1957.

The colonel previously received his commission in 1952, and entered active service the following year at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

He saw action during World War II as commander of the Second Battalion of the 15th Infantry Regiment from November, 1942, to October, 1943. He served in Morocco, Tunisia, Sicily and Naples.

The Fort Benning officer wears the Bronze Star Medal with V Device and three Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart.

Col. Billings served as G-3 (plans and operations officer) and chief of staff of the Infantry Replacement Training Center at Camp Roberts, Calif., from 1945 to 1946. Before departing for overseas, Col. Billings was an instructor at the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., from 1946 to 1947.

Assigned to Okinawa, Col. Billings served as deputy G-4 (logistics officer) of the RVCTC Command in 1949-1951. Returning to the U. S., Col. Billings was named acting officer of the Department of the Army G-3 Section in Washington, D. C., in 1952.

Col. Billings attended the Army War College at Carlisle, Pa., in 1952 and 1953.

FLIGHT PLANS . . . Checking his flight plan at Fort Benning this week before soloing for the first time in a fixed-wing aircraft is Major Gen. Herbert B. ## Fort Benning Observes 39 Years Of Growth

This week Fort Benning can look back on 39 years of growth, during which time it has developed from a temporary Army training site to the world's largest, most streamlined Infantry Center.

The post was first established in 1918 on a temporary campsite located three miles east of Columbus. The camp was established to train Infantrymen in use of new weapons and modern warfare.

Life of Fort Benning was almost cut short the next year. Congress ordered the then Camp Benning closed. The installation is named in honor of Brig. Gen. Henry L. Benning, a distinguished officer in the Confederate Army.

However, the post's first commander, Col. Henry E. Gaines, convinced the lawmakers that the post was needed to train peace time Infantrymen.

A permanent installation was declared by Congress on February 8, 1922.

By this time the post had been relocated on a track of land consisting of 96,000 acres, located east of the Chattahoochee River and nine miles south of Columbus.

The track of land was known at the time as the Bussey Plantation. The steady plantation home was designated official quarters of the commanding general. It continues as such today.

Today, the Fort Benning reservation covers more than 190,000 acres. Large numbers of Army leaders and technicians are trained here each year.

The U. S. Army Infantry School trains more than 15,000 Infantry officers annually. It has trained 161 personnel representing 51 friendly nations.

Thousands of Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets receive six-weeks of rugged Infantry Training during summer months.

This Airborne was born at Fort Benning. It is the home of the Rangers and Third Infantry Division.

Fund Drive Nears Goal Set for 1957

The Fort Benning Community Activities Association Fund Drive reaches its two-thirds mark this week. Units that have not yet reached their goal must step up their contributions to make this year's drive a success.

The campaign began Aug. 22 with an initial contribution by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center.

Donations to Fort Benning's major annual fund raising campaign will go to the support of post service activities and aid of the Fort Benning Youth Activities Club, Boy and Girl Scout programs, Chaplains Christmas Activities, Army Welfare Unit - a. e. s. Parent-Teacher Association and American Red Cross.

A sizeable portion of the fund is allocated to the Columbus (Ga.) United Givers which in turn contributes to the local and national United Service Organizations, Inc., Armed Services YMCA, Family Service Bureau, Travelers Aid and other charity and service activities.

Col. Col. Kenneth A. Grimes of Indianapolis, Ind., Infantry Center Services officer and aide chairman of the fund, questioned 100 per cent participation by civilian and military personnel to insure successful discharge of fund obligations.

"One's fair share" of responsibility will be the basis of individual contribution. Grimes added. It has been determined that this portion is a minimum of half of one day's pay.

Soldiers Chorus Will Entertain JCOC Visitors

The 40-man Fort Benning Soldiers Chorus will entertain members of the 25th semi-annual Joint Civilian Orientation Conference at Fort Benning Oct. 10.

The chorus will sing four selections at the official JCOC reception and dinner at the Main Officers Mess at 7 p. m. They are: "Tummy," "The Wifedog Song," "Star Dust" and "The Army Song."

An added feature will be a solo by the band on the flute and saxophone by Mrs. John H. Cochran Jr.

101st Airborne Division . . . Paratroopers practice for the mass jump to be made at Fort Benning this week for the 25th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference members and guests. The 101st Division, commanded by Major General Thomas L. Shoykharne, Jr., is scheduled to arrive in Kentucky. The conference will get underway today and continue through October 12.

For Annual Conference Gen. Wyman Visits Benning

There will be more than 50 guests of the U. S. Continental Army Command on hand to witness the various demonstrations and attend the reception with the 75 man JCOC group.

General Willard G. Wyman, CG, CONARC guests will include: Major General John A. Dabney, Lt. Col. H. E. Broomfield, Capt. L. G. Jones, Lt. P. D. Allen, Ted DeGin, C. H. Manning, Robert B. Smith, W. W. Chandler and the Rev. Carter S. Harrison.

CONARC guests from the First Army area who will be accompanying Lt. General Blackheath M. Bryan, Commanding General, 1st Army, are: Lt. Col. Robert F. Curran, Lt. Col. Howard B. Fullmer, Jr., John J. Wilson, William L. Mauds, Vincent Swannburg, Dean Joseph M. Mar-

Fort Benning Observes 39 Years Of Growth

This week Fort Benning can look back on 39 years of growth, during which time it has developed from a temporary Army training site to the world's largest, most streamlined Infantry Center.

The post was first established in 1918 on a temporary campsite located three miles east of Columbus. The camp was established to train Infantrymen in use of new weapons and modern warfare.

Life of Fort Benning was almost cut short the next year. Congress ordered the then Camp Benning closed. The installation is named in honor of Brig. Gen. Henry L. Benning, a distinguished officer in the Confederate Army.

However, the post's first commander, Col. Henry E. Gaines, convinced the lawmakers that the post was needed to train peace time Infantrymen.

A permanent installation was declared by Congress on February 8, 1922.

By this time the post had been relocated on a track of land consisting of 96,000 acres, located east of the Chattahoochee River and nine miles south of Columbus.

The track of land was known at the time as the Bussey Plantation. The steady plantation home was designated official quarters of the commanding general. It continues as such today.

Today, the Fort Benning reservation covers more than 190,000 acres. Large numbers of Army leaders and technicians are trained here each year.

The U. S. Army Infantry School trains more than 15,000 Infantry officers annually. It has trained 161 personnel representing 51 friendly nations.

Thousands of Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets receive six-weeks of rugged Infantry Training during summer months.

This Airborne was born at Fort Benning. It is the home of the Rangers and Third Infantry Division.

Fund Drive Nears Goal Set for 1957

The Fort Benning Community Activities Association Fund Drive reaches its two-thirds mark this week. Units that have not yet reached their goal must step up their contributions to make this year's drive a success.

The campaign began Aug. 22 with an initial contribution by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center.

Donations to Fort Benning's major annual fund raising campaign will go to the support of post service activities and aid of the Fort Benning Youth Activities Club, Boy and Girl Scout programs, Chaplains Christmas Activities, Army Welfare Unit - a. e. s. Parent-Teacher Association and American Red Cross.

A sizeable portion of the fund is allocated to the Columbus (Ga.) United Givers which in turn contributes to the local and national United Service Organizations, Inc., Armed Services YMCA, Family Service Bureau, Travelers Aid and other charity and service activities.

Col. Col. Kenneth A. Grimes of Indianapolis, Ind., Infantry Center Services officer and aide chairman of the fund, questioned 100 per cent participation by civilian and military personnel to insure successful discharge of fund obligations.

"One's fair share" of responsibility will be the basis of individual contribution. Grimes added. It has been determined that this portion is a minimum of half of one day's pay.

Soldiers Chorus Will Entertain JCOC Visitors

U. S. Army Infantry Center Welcomes 25th JCOC Group

The U. S. Infantryman's role in the Army's Pentomic concept of today — a force drawn from the Doughboy of World War I and II — will be viewed by key civilians in U. S. business, industry and government beginning today at Fort Benning.

Approximately 70 members of the 25th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference, 20 civilian guests of the U. S. Continental Army Command are scheduled to see the new Infantry in action in a two day visit ending Saturday.

The conference will have an opportunity to become familiar with the Army's latest aircraft and to learn why the Army is putting added stress on air mobility. A demonstration highlighting an assault by helicopters will depict how the Infantry is using these "workhorses" in the Pentomic concept.

The newest Infantry weapons, in addition to artillery and mortar weapons, are scheduled to be on display.

In addition, there will be demonstrations and presentations on Ranger and officer candidate training, the Infantry's supporting arms and reinforced rifle company in defense, all geared for "ob the atomic and conventional battlefield.

Distinguished JCOC members expected to attend are: Fred J. Ball, Chairman of the board, National Editorial Association, Woodhaven, New York; Paul F. Chaffin, publisher, Record Herald Publishing Company Inc., Wagonboro, Va.

Major Gen. Harry P. Storke, U. S. Army information chief, will join leaders from all phases of U. S. business, industry and labor for the 25th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference at Fort Benning Oct. 9-12.

This will be Gen. Storke's first visit to the post since assuming his duties as chief of Army information.

The conference is held twice a year to acquaint the non-military people with the role of the Army.

Storke

Thank You For Continuing Army on the modern nuclear or conventional battlefield. Gen. Storke was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1926 and assigned to the 16th Field Artillery Regiment, at Fort Sill, Okla.

After attending the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Gen. Storke received his first overseas assignment to the Philippines in 1931. He returned to the U. S. in 1934 as assistant professor of military science and tactics at Iowa State College. In 1938 Gen. Storke was assigned to West Point as an English instructor. Gen. Storke saw action during World War II as assistant artillery commander and deputy chief of staff of II Corps in Italy and Sicily. He wears the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal and Commendation Ribbon for outstanding performance of duty. After the war Gen. Storke was assigned as chief of staff of the Vienna, Austria area command. Returning to the U. S. in 1947, Gen. Storke was assigned to the First U. S. Army at Fort Jay, N. Y., and served as artillery officer and deputy chief of staff. The two-star general received an European assignment in 1949, serving with the NATO Staff Group. Before assuming his present duties, Gen. Storke served as commander of Camp Desert

Rock, New, and artillery commander of the First Infantry Division in Germany. Gen. and Mrs. Storke reside in Baltimore, Md., with their two daughters, Lois and Caroline. JCOC Thank You For Continuing Grocers Alliance, Chicago Ill., Mack H. ## Division Officer Cited With Certificate

1st Col. Thomas Capers, 3d Division Adjutant General, received a Certificate of Achievement for outstanding performance of duty during the past 15 months as Adjutant General. The certificate cited him for his professional competence, selfless devotion to duty and sound planning ability. Colonel Capers was also presented a letter of appreciation for his work during the same period in the processing of some 25,000 trainees. The efforts he contributed in the reorganization of the Marine Division under the "Pennington" concept and assisting in the preparation of the Gyroscopic movement of the Division to Germany. Both awards were made by Major General Roy E. Lindquist, Marine Division Commander. Colonel Capers departed for temporary duty at Fort Benning Airborne School where he will undergo airborne training pending a new assignment. He is the son of Mrs. T. M. Capers, Altona, Pennsylvania. ## Doorman at Officers' Mess Fields Witnessed Post Growth for 38 Years

Tom Fields, familiar doorman at Main Officers' Mess, witnessed the rise of Service Club No. 1, first permanent-type building constructed at Fort Benning. Soon came the caretels and Fields was here to watch as the post grew to be a top U. S. military installation. In later years he had the distinction of serving former Presidents, Harry S. Truman at the Main Officers' Mess. The hardest to please food-wise, Fields says, was Gen. George C. Marshall, a former assistant commandant at the Infantry School. Gen. Marshall liked eggs boiled for exactly three and one-half minutes. And he never meant exact, according to the former mess waiter. If the eggs lacked boiling three or one-half minutes by a split moment, they were sent back to the kitchen. Then the last of his duties would begin all over. The lifable doorman retired from official Army life in 1949.

Combat Arms System

(Editors Note: This is the second in a three part series of articles on the Combat Arms Regimental System which was prepared by Lt. Gen. Donald P. Booth and published in the Army Information Digest.)

The Combat Arms Regimental System employs the regiment as the basic organization. It provides for—

Selecting a specified group of historic regiments to be continuously active as the parent organizations of all Infantry, Artillery, and Armor units and individuals.

Varying the number of active units within each regiment in direct proportion to Army size at any given time.

Organizing each active member unit as an operationally self-contained unit under an applicable TOE, and assigning it to a division or other tactical command as at present. In this way, units of the same regiment might serve in different divisions, and each might be replaced by a like unit from the present, later studies will consider the desirability of extending it to other branches.

Application of this concept to all components requires two kinds of regiments: U. S. regiments for Active Army and Army Reserve units, and National Guard regiments for the National Guard units of each state and territory. The concept limits the regimental system to the Infantry, Artillery, and Armor for the present; later studies will consider the desirability of extending it to other branches.

Thus far, detailed plans have been developed for establishing the system in the Active Army. A total of 124 regiments were selected as parent organizations of Active Army units, with regiments allocated as follows:

- Infantry ..... 55
- Cavalry and Armor ..... 27
- Artillery ..... 27
- Special Forces ..... 81

Regiments comprising this total were selected after a detailed study of historical records, taking age and campaign service into account. Particularly in Armor and Airborne Infantry, there are some comparatively recent regiments whose combat records represent the tradition of new types of units. Among the older Artillery regiments are several formed out of old artillery batteries which have splendid histories, going back many years before the official "birthdays" of the regiment.

Department of the Army has selected the regiments for the Active Army and the general type of units they will have. Designations of Artillery regiments and their member units are still under study.

It should be noted that non-divisional units, as well as those assigned to a division, will be part of famous regiments. This is particularly important, because units of this type often are subject to changes of assignment among several different corps or field armies, and consequently may lack the feeling of having a "home."

Most children learn early in life that if they touch a hot stove they will get burned. But as they grow up some forget that carelessness with fire can do more than blister a finger.

It can roar through a building more quickly than you can wake from a sound sleep and be the best fire department in the world can't always help.

It can level the work of a lifetime in a few minutes. And it can take lives.

Fire prevention, singled out for national attention for a week each year, is obviously a year-round job. (AFPS)

Soviets Launch 1st Satellite in Space

WASHINGTON — American scientists, reporting headway in efforts to fix the orbit of Russia's high-flying space satellite, hoped this week the Soviets will share with the majority of man's secrets it may unlock.

Meanwhile, visual sightings of the Russian baby messenger rocketing along at about 18,000 miles an hour — were announced in Russia and the United States. An American specialist said the Soviet space vehicle, launched Friday, passes over the United States about six times every 24 hours, in a north-south course.

Stafy Moscow, in a broadcast for home listeners, said last night the 23-inch space vehicle has already yielded information which it said is "of great scientific value." The broadcast did not say what this information involved.

It made clear the conference would cover the Middle East, Western nations at the East-West disarmament deadlock.

Hundreds of young persons were reported under arrest but state for Saudi Arabia, told the Russian General As West that it is destroying ties with the Arabians. Saudi Arabia's full solidarity with Syria and asserted shipments of Communist arms to that country is no business of the United States. He called for the United Nations to be skeptical.

True Christian Character

BY CHAPLAIN (Lt. COL) FRANCIS D. BRIDENESTINE
The 130,000 men who have struck you that only the father of a American actually wears a uniform. Why, then, you may ask, a reference to the whole family in uniform? A moment of reflection will give the answer. Isn't it that the wife and children of a service family share with him all hardships associated with military life? Sometimes these hardships are caused by prolonged separation. At times "sticking it out together" under the same roof means poor living conditions. At best "life for the Christian service family is a manner of day-to-day existence, as they today—gone."

One fact stands out: Mom and the kiddies really share with Dad the hardships of military uniform. That's why we proudly acknowledge the fact that Christian service families are truly "families in uniform."

In Nuclear Warfare Col. McClain Writes On Med Problems

Col. Harry C. McClain, chief of the 54th Medical Group at Fort Benning, is the author of an article on medical problems of nuclear warfare which appears in the September-October issue of the Medical Technicians Bulletin. The Medical Technicians Bulletin is a supplement to the U.S. Armed Forces Medical Journal.

Col. McClain's article points out the need for special training if medical support is to be effective under nuclear attack. Photographs from a simulated atomic explosion demonstrate by the 54th Group, which illustrates the article showing proposed mass care.

OVER THE AIR

Times changes mark this week's program of radio and television broadcasts from the Infantry Center Information Office. Two programs shift to different time segments. One of the most popular shows, "Queen of Battle," moves to a better time slot over WRBL radio in Columbus. Previously heard at 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, "Queen of Battle" will be heard at 9:30 p.m. instead, starting Sunday. And the weekly radio report of happenings at Benning, "Fort Benning News Parade," moves to a noon-time slot, starting this week-end over WDAK in Columbus. "News Parade" was earlier heard at Columbus 6:15 p.m. on Saturday.

'Mad Ball' Set Saturday In Columbus

Men of Fort Benning stand tall and face the music! It's all coming from the direction of your 50-500 Club this Saturday night. This gala event is properly entitled "Operation" and will be sponsored by the Martin Theater of Columbus. A "Mad Ball" it will be, for the music makers of the Third Infantry Division don't play the hoo-bers at the Bandstand. Entertainment group will be accompanied by a talented vocalist. It begins at 8 p.m. and ends at 11 p.m. In addition to the Orchestra Dean West of the Main Post Entertainment Section has assured the "Operation" that Fort Benning's top talent will be on hand to add its peppy touch to the big show.

As at any Ball a King and Queen will be chosen and the winners will receive real red carpet treatment. As an example, a car with chauffeur will be made available to them the following Friday and many surprises.

The defendants were Robba King, favorite, and his wife, Frances Howard, divorced wife of the late Major General Howard. They were accused of poisoning Sir Thomas Grenbury, formerly C.M.'s minister.

National Fire Week

Post Displays Fire Program

Fort Benning's program of combating one of the nation's most destructive enemies—fire—will be shown to military and civilian personnel Oct. 6-12 when the post participates in National Fire Prevention week activities.

Fire prevention week is designated each year by the President during the week including Oct. 9, date of the great Chicago fire in 1871.

Activities

Lectures and demonstrations are scheduled for the post's children, other dependents and Infantry Center and Infantry School personnel.

In addition to lectures and demonstrations, every available means are being exploited to make Fort Benning personnel fire hazard conscious.

The post's Fire Department has prepared special fire prevention booklets from the National Fire Protection Association to be distributed to school children and Scout organizations.

Displays

In an all-out effort during the week, special fire prevention posters and other materials will be distributed throughout the post. Each theater at Fort Benning will flash special fire prevention slides daily at each performance. Instructive fire prevention films will be published in The Infantry Center Daily Bulletin and a memorandum will be read to all military personnel.

For those who desire to see the latest in fire prevention equipment at Fort Benning, an open house will be held at all fire stations.

The week will open with lectures and demonstrations conducted at the various schools on the post. The schedule for Monday began at Coastal Terrace School at 9:30 a.m., followed by one at the Main Post School at 11 a.m. The final demonstration of the day was at the Kindergarten at 1:30 p.m.

Fire Equipment

Fire equipment was at Faith School Tuesday for members of grades two through four and at 1:30 p.m. for grades five through eight.

Following these demonstrations approximately 800 children attending the post schools toured The Infantry Center Fire Prevention Museum. The museum depicts scenes and results of fires.

Tuesday and Wednesday there were lectures and demonstrations for military and civilian personnel at Field No. 22 Church and Jackson Roads, Harmony Church area, at 9 a.m. and at 1:30 p.m. At the same time Thursday and Friday, the program is scheduled at Glenn Field on Ingersoll Street.

Open to Public

At each of these sites fire trucks equipped with the latest on hand for inspection by the fire-fighting equipment will be public.

Col. William S. Shoemaker, post fire marshal; Lt. Col. John A. Mulford, deputy fire marshal; and Gilbert A. Ward Jr., fire chief, and their staffs have planned a thorough indoctrination in fire prevention program for the week.

Chief Ward said, "Our goal during this week is to emphasize to every person, military importance of stopping fires before civilian, at Fort Benning; before they start."

On the post during fiscal year 1957, there has been a total of 147 fires causing a total damage of some $80,000 to property. All these fires were they start.

The principal causes of the fires were dumping ashes into combustible material carelessly with smoking material, electrical appliances with short circuits, and children playing with matches.

Improvement

"Fire prevention is not a one-week affair," Ward stated, "it is a continuous, year-round program. The fire prevention program has been in effect at this post for several years. Cooperation by all personnel at this post has resulted in fire losses being greatly reduced during the past several years. Many permanent type buildings have been constructed to replace the old frame buildings. Sprinkler systems have been added to many buildings and improvement has been made on many fire escapes."

Chief Ward points out, "Some personnel are careless and negligent in observing simple fire prevention practices. As a result many lives are lost and millions of dollars worth of property is destroyed each year. Property thus lost are difficult to replace. Let's all back the attack and Don't Give Fire a Place To Start."

FLAMING FACES

Responding to an alarm in Rutland, Vt., firemen sped to the downtown business section. They were met at the door of a building by two men who had inadvertently had set off the alarm. The men were fire insurance agents.

OH FOR A RIDE . . . Big red fire engines hold undiminished fascination for youngsters — and Fort Benning youths are no different. Ed Ragsdale, captain of Fire Station No. 2, explains to Boy Scouts how truck operates.

CARELESSNESS . . . This burned out trailer is the result of carelessness. A pot of boiling meat was left on stove during absence of the occupants. Elimination of such careless acts are stressed at Fort Benning during National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6-12.

FIRE DRILL . . . Students at a Fort Benning Children's School go through all-important fire drills designed to teach youngsters how to evacuate school safely and quickly in case of fire.

Gen. Powell Says

Fire Loss Cut At Benning By Using Common Sense

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry Center commander, this week called for more common sense fire prevention at Fort Benning.

Gen. Powell pointed out that while fire loss on post was low during the past fiscal year, common sense fire prevention could have prevented most of the damage.

He said in a special Fire Prevention Week message: "The total fire loss at Fort Benning of $6,778 during FY 1957 was one of the lowest in several years. Most of this loss could have been prevented, however, by application of common sense fire prevention measures. Of the 147

Three daring deeds on Italy's Anzio Beach May 23, 1944, earned a Fort Benning officer the Medal of Honor, a battle field commission and the Italian Cross of Valor.

Major V. T. Barfoot, Charge, Sixes, served two more tours in Italy between winning the nation's highest decoration and coming to The Infantry School this month to be an instructor on the Staff Department's Leadership Committee. But 24 hours on hotly disputed Anzio Beach remain his clearest Italian memory.

Following an amphibious landing on the beachhead, Major Barfoot's unit, Company L, 45th Division's 157th Infantry Regiment, was pinned down by German fire. Barfoot, then a technical sergeant, went forward alone, destroying two enemy machine gun positions with hand grenades and a sub-machine gun.

Later in the day as Barfoot's platoon advanced, the Germans launched a counterattack including tanks. Intent on achieving the ordered position, he acted alone. With a bazooka he disabled a tank which had retreated to a point only 75 yards from the platoon.

After Barfoot led his unit in repelling the counterblow, he went out and blew up a menacing field piece by placing a charge in its breach. Ordered to withdraw with the platoon, he assisted two wounded soldiers back to the 157th Infantry Regiment.

Seeing Is Not Believing, Camouflage Expert Says

BY NORMAN SOLON
To instruct men in the art of making the enemy see only what the infantryman wants him to see is a major objective of Fort Benning's U. S. Army Infantry School.

SLIGHT-OF-HAND... Pvt. Carl B. Meloche, left, and Joseph J. Ferrigno demonstrate how the screen door cover for a two-man foxhole operates on the camouflage course being built by the 647th Engineer Camouflage Company.

Even the best camouflage, however, is worthless without correct camouflage discipline. Camouflage discipline is defined as the maintenance of all camouflage work and the avoidance of making any changes in the terrain occupied.

By breaking up the lines of the foreground and concealing the feeder roads to the field and then placing temporary obstructions in the field, including haystacks and even dummy bushes and painting the field grass green, the airfield would be almost impossible to detect from the air," he said.

Colonel Ware Addresses Officer Class

Col. Keith L. Ware, chief of the Senate Branch of the Army's office of Legislative Liaison, addressed the Second Year School's officers advanced classes Oct. 7 on activities of his office.

Approximately 400 students attended the 2:15 p.m. sessions in the Main Theater. The speaker was introduced by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commander.

A Medal of Honor winner, Col. Ware served with the Infantry throughout World War II, receiving the National's highest decoration for exceptionally meritorious service in combat near Sigstheim, France.

Col. Ware is in the Army in July, 1941, and was graduated from Fort Benning Officer Candidate School the following July.

In Korea, the 41-year-old of four served as commander of the 34th Infantry Regiment and chief of the Plans Division of the 1st Infantry Division.

Col. Ware is a 1955 graduate of the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va.

Major Gen. Thomas E. de Shazo, commander of the U. S. Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, Okla., spoke at final exercises for the U. S. Army Infantry School's associate officers advanced class Oct. 7.

Division Readies For Inspections In Major Units

Members have begun to prepare for the semi-annual Command Inspection to be held in the 3d Infantry Division Oct. 17. Members of the commands to be inspected are the shaping of buildings, areas and personal facilities.

In addition to inspections of personal areas and equipment, training procedures, supply and administrative details will be considered by the inspection team.

Each major command in the 3d Division will be inspected by teams of officers from the Infantry, Artillery, and Armor Branches, plus representatives from the technical services in the Division.

Although all major commands will be inspected, one or more company-size units will be selected for inspection by Major Gen. Roy E. Lind, Division Commander.

17 Engineer Contracts Effective on Reservation

In a report made public last week, it was announced that there are currently seven contracts in effect at Fort Benning totaling $26,256,266. The Office of the Post Engineer report shows that nine of the construction contracts are District Engineer projects while eight other projects are post engineer contracts.

The largest individual contract is the Capehart Housing Project with the Williams Construction Company of Columbus, Georgia totaling $12,962,200. The Capehart Housing Project calling for 1600 units is 15.92 per cent complete and is expected to be finished in November 1958.

Two other contracts exceed one million dollars. They are the new 500-bed post hospital totaling $6,355,789.27 contracted for by the Jordan Company of Columbus, Georgia which is 94 per cent completed and the

Savings Seen At Transfer Point Turn In

Savings to the Army of over $7,000 weekly are being effected by Transfer Point Supply personnel. An estimated 5,000 clothing items a week are turned in to the Transfer Point supply room by personnel discharged under the provisions of DA Cir 635-2. As the personnel discharged under this circular will have no reserve obligation, they are required to turn in all initial issue clothing. "The careful handling of this clothing," said supply sergeant SPC Everett Lovring, "will allow its reuse." He said most of the items turned in "are entirely serviceable."

Transfer Point Field First, M-Sgt. Robert F. Meyer referred to the project as a "super idea" which he said he has had to assign help to the supply room from other Transfer Point sections, as the turn in "exceeds the normal supply room load."

Infantryman Ultimate Factor—Rep. Andrews

The U. S. Infantryman was called the ultimate factor in the warfare by Rep. George W. Andrews of Alabama at the first general meeting of the Alabama-Plex City-Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army at the post on Oct. 7.

Operated from a jeep or helicopter equipped with standard military radio transmitter and special control with the distance "driver" can manipulate the machine as easily as though he were sitting in the vacant driver's seat.

Engineers also believe that the installation of a small television camera on the tractor will give the operator observation of the machine and allow ing that they are weapons of military value, not of mass destruction. Rep. Andrews said only the Army is capable of using similar nuclear weapons in tactical combat for limited engagements.

Rep. Andrews said that the Army is stressing air mobility, claiming that under the pentomic concept of warfare combat units have been streamlined, securing maximum fighting strength while at the same time being kept easily air transportable.

Rep. Andrews was introduced by T. G. Reeves of Columbus, president of the organization.

Gen. Ruggles Named Deputy CG in April

Brigadier General John F. Ruggles is the deputy commanding general of the United States Army Infantry Center. He assumed his present duties at the giant post in April 1957.

General Ruggles came to the Infantry Center from Alaska where he last served as commander of the Yukon Command. He had previously served 10 months as commander of the Fourth Infantry Regiment at Fort Bragg, N.C., before being named deputy chief of staff and chief of staff of the 22d Infantry Regiment of the Fourth Infantry Division, Infantry Center from Alaska.

Gen. Larsen

Inf. School General Youngest in Army

Brigadier General Stanley R. Larsen, Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School, holds the distinction of being the youngest general officer in the Army. The 41-year-old general is a 1938 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York.

He enlisted in the Hawaii National Guard in November 1933, and served 18 months before his appointment to the Infantry Academy.

Stationed in Hawaii at the outbreak of World War II, he served in the Pacific Theater as a company, battalion and regimental commander in the 25th Infantry Regiment, participating in the Central Pacific, Guadalcanal, North Solomon and Luzon Campaigns.

Gen. Larsen was assigned to the Department of the Army in Washington following the war, serving as assistant secretary to the General Staff in the Office of the Secretariat and aide to the Army's then chief of staff, Gen. J. Lawton Collins.

In 1951 he commanded the 25th Airborne Infantry Regiment at Fort Bragg, N.C., before being named deputy chief of staff and chief of staff of the 22d Infantry Regiment of the Fourth Infantry Division, Infantry Center from Alaska.

Gen. Larsen's decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart. He also wears the Legion of Honor, Order of Chevalier, and the Belgian Fourragere.

Major Gen. Powell Named CG in 1956

More than 75 years of service in the United States Army are represented by the three general officers who are today's leaders at the United States Army Infantry Center as it observes its 35th Anniversary this week.

Major General Herbert B. Powell, Commanding General of The Infantry Center and Commandant of The Infantry School, heads the list with over 31 years of service.

Brigadier General John F. Ruggles, Deputy Commanding General of The Infantry Center, represents more than 28 years of commissioned service in the United States Army.

Post CG Heads Hub of Infantry

Commanding the world's largest infantry center as it observes its 35th Anniversary is one of the Army's senior commanders, Major General Herbert B. Powell. General Powell assumed his present command in August 1956, coming here from Hawaii where he commanded the 25th Infantry Division and Schofield Barracks.

During the general's command of the "Tropic Lightning" Division, a young military writer in the division came up with a most interesting story of General Powell's career. The story goes like this: A banker father and a post office fire nearly colluded to change a lonely young University of Oregon graduate's history almost 30 years ago.

Herbert Butler Powell, whose father opposed his thoughts of a military career, compromised by forsaking dreams of West Point and entering the University as a journalism major.

Destiny took his hand in 1928 when, as a cub reporter for the Bend, Oregon "Bulletin," he went from covering the police beat late one night to the Bend Post Office, hoping for a letter from his fiancée, Miss Jerry King. Instead he found a terse letter from the War Department advising that he could convert his ROTC commission to become a Regular Army second lieutenant if he accepted within 24 hours.

Scant hours later fire gutted the Post Office. It was a dramatic, crossroads in the general's young life; one which accounted for his joining the American flag on the Yalu River 24 years later.

Highly decorated infantryman, General Powell has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, The Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart.

His Army career—marked by his undimmed love of the Infantry—has brought him quiet fame as a "soldier's general." This love for "The Queen of Powell, August 1956 - present.

These senior military officers serve as the leaders of the world's largest Infantry Center and school designated to turn out superior Infantry leaders and technicians for the "postmodern" era in the steady pace of Fort Benning training thousands of infantrymen each year to support the Army's need for its units scattered throughout 73 nations of the world. The Infantry School also trains Allied students from 51 nations.

Fort Benning Celebrates 39 Years As Home Of Nation's Infantryman

BY JOE ZELANK

Thirty-nine years after its founding, Fort Benning still proudly fulfills its mission as teacher, supporter and home of the world's greatest fighting soldier, the U. S. Infantryman. The castle of the "Queen of Battle" was officially established Oct. 7, 1918, with the appointment of Col. Henry Emms as post commander.

From a humble beginning as a tiny tent village, the post survived and prospered through a depression, two world wars and a police action to become the Infantry Center of the World.

Infantrymen from every state in the Union and 51 allied nations have passed through the portals of the post's U. S. Army Infantry School and gone on to prove the substance of their military education on the battlefields of the world.

The principal mission of the post is to serve as a training ground for future Infantry leaders, the men just ahead of men behind the guns. Not to be forgotten, however, is Fort Benning's role as a laboratory for the development of the streamlined Infantry of tomorrow.

Four separate agencies play a major part in this development. They are The Infantry School's Combat Developments Office and Airborne Air Mobility Department, and the U. S. Continental Army Command's Infantry Board and Infantry Human Research Unit.

Ultimate aim of the Combat Developments Office is to increase the effectiveness of the Army in the field. Through research, development and early integration into units in the field of new Infantry doctrine, organization and material, the maximum combat effectiveness is obtained with the minimum expenditure of money and material.

While the office does not actually test new equipment for use by the Infantry, such as the helmet mounted radio, lightweight rifles and armored troop carriers, it carefully monitors and evaluates the progress of development throughout the development process. In addition, this office has contributed to the Army-wide study of the Infantry concept and new tactical and logistical doctrine for Infantry units in atomic warfare.

The Airborne Air Mobility Department is continually testing and evaluating new concepts which will enable the airborne Infantry of the Army to exploit the speed, range and flexibility of air transport for the battlefield of the future.

One of the major steps taken by the Army in recent years has been the reorganization of the World War II Infantry into a new Infantry Group at the Infantry School has participated to a major extent in developing the organization of the new airborne combat group, the basic fighting element of the new division.

The U. S. Army Infantry Board conducts service tests for the purpose of evaluating new Infantry weapons, related ammunition and fire control instruments, individual equipment and protective devices, and combat clothing and ration for the individual foot soldier.

Examples of equipment recently adopted by the Army after being thoroughly tested by the Infantry Board are the new M-49 light-weight general purpose machine gun and the M-274 half-ton weapons carrier known as the mechanical mule.

During tests to determine the ruggedness, portability, shot pattern and barrel life of the machine gun, it underwent strains such as more severe than it would normally receive in actual field use. Personnel of the Infantry Board fired more than 4 million rounds of ammunition during the testing and operated the weapon successfully even after it had been submerged in a mixture of part mud and two parts Chat tahoche River water.

The mechanical mule will relieve the foot soldier of the burden of carrying heavy weapons and equipment in the front line areas. The four-wheel, low platform-type vehicle weighs 1,000 pounds and will carry 1,000 pounds of cargo, the first Army vehicle to carry more than its own weight.

The Infantry Human Research Unit, composed of civilian scientists and military personnel, is primarily concerned with methods of improving Infantry training, motivation and morale. It is responsible, among other things, for the new training technique of rifle instruction, a system of realistic targets under closely simulated combat conditions.

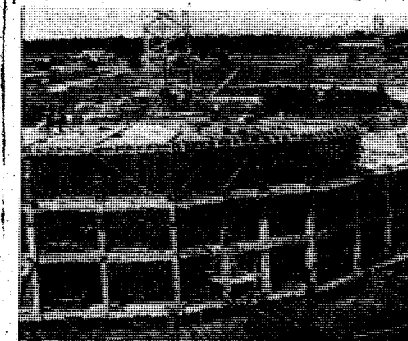

Other projects include one known as Basictrain which has as its objective the development of an improved basic training program for the first eight weeks of a new soldier in the Army, and one entitled Moonlight which is designed to help determine the most effective techniques of night training.

The final test of the success of a military installation is in the heat of battle. Throughout the nearly four decades of its existence, Fort Benning's glory lies in the deeds of the soldiers who have received part of their military education at the post. Men like President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Omar Bradley and Gen. George C. Marshall have written a glorious page of American history which stands as the proud heritage of Fort Benning.

TRAINING TECHNIQUES . . . are constantly checked and improved to meet the changing needs of the Infantry school. Here a 100-mile run is held in 1957 for use against air and ground targets.

NCO QUARTERS . . . in the early days at Fort Benning consisted of wooden frame buildings. They are a far cry from the modern quarters offered the NCO on the post today.

NEW BUILDINGS . . . began to be built in the early 1950s. Here is one of the quarters under construction. It was during this period that much of the early government construction took place.

HORSES AND WAGONS . . . were a part of the everyday life of the Infantryman in pre-World War II days. Here a wagon train halts for a break while moving to the field on maneuvers.

DOUGHBOYS . . . of the World War I era march across the first bridge built over the Upatoti Creek at Fort Benning. The post was opened in October 1918.

MODERN WEAPONS . . . are tested and fired at Fort Benning as the Infantry prepares for the atomic battlefield. Here an Honest John Rocket is fired in a training exercise. It is one of several new weapons that give the Infantry units atomic capabilities in the field.

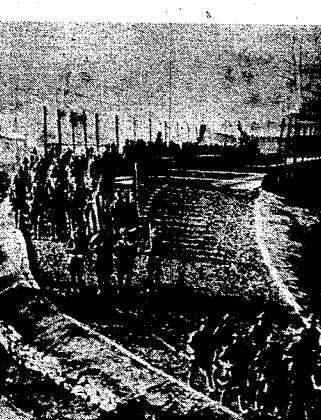

HOME OF THE INFANTRY SCHOOL . . . the school has trained Infantrymen for Army units throughout the world. It has trained students from 51 allied nations since World War II. Fort Benning is also the home of the U. S. Army Rangers.

INFANTRY OCS STUDENTS . . . study the nomenclature and functioning of weapons. More than 77,000 OCS candidates have graduated as 2d lieutenants of Infantry at Fort Benning since the first class of July 1941.

BIRTHPLACE OF THE AIRBORNE . . . the Airborne training began in 1940 and more than 195,000 paratroopers have been graduated. Here is shown the early phase of tower training.

Norin Guides Brigadiers To Victory

The talented right arm of substitute quarterback Alvin Norin guided the School Brigade Rams to a last minute 14-13 victory over the 2d Student Battalion Bulldogs in a rugged contest last Saturday night at Doughboy Stadium.

After the Student Battalion scored with 4:38 remaining in the final period to take a 13-7 advantage, the School Brigade struck back quick.

The Rams returned the kick-off to their own 38. A 45-yard personal foul penalty moved the sphere to the Bulldogs 47 and Norin's arm carried it from there. The 10 set-up play was a 42 yard pass to end Hugh Hummer, carrying the Rams to the Bulldog 5. The Student Battalion lightened its line, moved in its linebackers and held the Brigade for three downs. On the fourth, Norin found the range to John Brodie, who in the deep right corner of the end zone to tally the tying touchdown. Norin and Brodie collaborated again on an identical play for the game winning score. Brodie made special teamer grabs of both passes, leading over a host of Bulldogs defenders to score the tying touchdown.

The touchdown drive consumed only six plays from the line of scrimmage. The Rams scored the winning point in slightly over two minutes.

The first quarter saw the Bulldogs take the opening kickoff and march 57 yards in 12 plays in a quick touchdown. The sustained drive was sparked by the off-tackle slants of Georgia fullback Ed Burkhalter and was capped by an eight yard aerial from Florida quarterback Jimmy Thompson to Brodie. He was the All-Army champion in 1954.

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry Center commander, awarded the certificate. Major and Mrs. Byas plan to live in Temple, Texas. After his assignment to the Infantry Center, Major Byas served as assistant range controller for six months before being named captain of the All-Army Rifle Team for 1954 and 1955. He was a firing member of the team in the national matches the next year.

Commanders Stopped 13-0 In Stadium

Bouncing back from a shut-out loss in the 2d Student Battalion in their season opener, the Infantry School Troops Command, fashioned their own whitewash as they dumped the Special Troops Command, 13-0, in the first game of the 1957 season at Doughboy Stadium last Sunday.

Under the direction of player-coach Frank Brooks, stubborn ISTC defense paced by Brooks, Brantley, Joe Paulson, and Donald Gardner threw up a stone wall to stop any attempts for a sustained drive by the STC Commanders.

On the attack ISTC's split-T play was erratic but effective. After being stopped by the Commanders throughout the first quarter, a pass intercepted in the middle period set up the ISTC's first tally.

A deflected Commander pass was pulled down by Tackle John Brantley at midfield. ISTC rolled to the Special Troops Command's second tally. Elliott Schaff sliced off tackle and burst through the Commander's secondary register a 6 to 0 lead.

John Segar added the point after touch-down. The half ended with ISTC holding a 7 to 0 margin.

In the fourth period Charles Nourcier tipped to Roy Williams grabbed the pass in the end zone for the 13 to 0 score.

The Infantry School Command, which is composed of the 1st Battle Group, 2d Infantry, and the 2d Battle Group, 14th Infantry, pits its defensive squad against an undefeated School Brigade team at Doughboy Stadium. The Rams have amassed 20 points in two outings.

Four Tilts Set Over Weekend

The undefeated School Brigade can figure big in the football action this weekend. The 1st Battalion will meet the 2d Student Battalion in the 1st Infantry School football game this weekend. The Brigade, entertaining a 20 record after its narrow 14-13 victory over the 2d Student Battalion last Saturday night at Doughboy Stadium at 2 p.m. while the Bulldogs and Commanders meet Saturday at 8 p.m.

Alvin Norin, quarterback from Detroit, and John Brodie, a heavy-handed end from the Philadelphia Eagles, combined their talents to carry the Rams to their important victories. Curt Herbert, Dan Cougan, Dick Lyons and Mel Spencer form a strong forward wall for the Brigade.

Marne Football Can Doers Capture Win by 7-0 Score

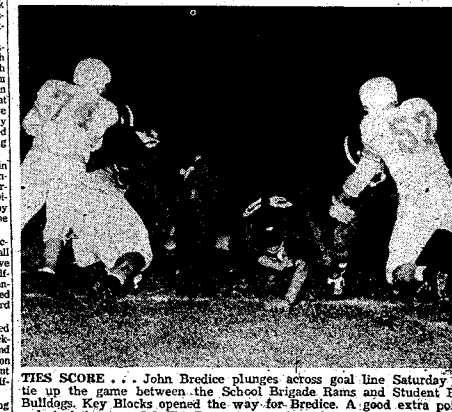

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG

The 15th Infantry "Can Doers" overcame a big hurdle in Marne football competition as they edged a tough and stubborn 7th Infantry club 7-0 Saturday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium. In another contest last week, the Can Doers beat the 7th Infantry 13-0 over a game Division Training, under the lights at Bennett Field.

The 15th won their second consecutive game by dominating the Cottonbales, and remained very much in contention for the football crown, along with unbeaten DivArty and the 30th.

The 7th will not be a push-over for anyone this season, and proved up to the talents of the 15th throughout the contest. They statistically dominated the 15th in offense and matched their defensive agility, save for a game determining second quarter lapse. Charles Dawson struck off-tackle midway in the second period for the 15th, found daylight in the secondary and scored the game's lone tally. Charles Thomas placement for the seventh point complete the day's scoring.

The 7th picked up 310 yards on the ground and through the air, compared to 136 attained

TIES SCORE . . . John Brodie plunges across goal line Saturday to tie up the game between the School Brigade Rams and Student Bn. Bulldogs. Key Blocks opened the way for Brodie. A good extra point unlocked the score 7-6. The Rams went on to take the 11-13.

Nine New Champions Crowned At End of Small Games Tourney

Nine top champions were crowned last Saturday at the Bryant Wells Field House after the completion of the Fort Benning Small Games Tourney.

Presentation of awards was made by Brig. Gen. John F. Williams, Deputy Commanding General of Fort Benning.

2nd Lt. John D. Stein, Chattanooga, Tenn., Hq. and Hq. Co. 14th Inf. took top honors in bodolinnin singles by losing out Pfc Dale K. McCullum of Co. B, 1st Battalion, 14th Infantry, who defeated 2nd Lt. William A. Radcliff and Sp2 Phillip B. Williams. Lt. Radcliff is from Co. B 88th Airborne and Norfolk, Va., while Williams, also from the 88th, lives at Norfolk, N. C.

Competition in the grenade throw was very keen. Pfc Ira L. Dougherty, Hq. Co. 7th Inf. and Fayette Mo., got off the best heave but was followed closely by 1st Sgt. Hardin B. Walker, Columbus, Ga., and the USAIS.

The table tennis championship, singles, was won by 1st Lt. Harry S. Hines, G Co. 20th Inf. from New Bedford, Mass. He defeated 1st Lt. Lewis A. Hamilton, Atlanta, Ga., USAIS, in the final. Pfc Avard Backstrom, A Co. 7th Inf., 30ppa, Ala., and Carlo J.

Three Sergeants Retire in Division

Three Recess Appointments To Aid Army

WASHINGTON (ANS) — In a move to accelerate the announcement of Regular Army officer selections under the Augmentation Program, the Army intends to make "recess appointments" during the next three months, a spokesman disclosed here today.

Present plans call for three "recess appointment" lists before the first of the year. The first list, containing, for the most part, Second Lieutenants with less than three years service, will be released as soon as Presidential approval is obtained.

The second list, expected to be ready for processing by the middle of October, will consist principally of First Lieutenants and Captains with more than three and less than ten years' service. A November list will include Captains and Field Grade officers with more than 10 years service. It has been pointed out, however, that appointments in other grades may appear on the new lists.

These three lists will not contain all the Augmentation Program selections, the spokesman said.

3d Division Aviation Plan Tabbed 'Best'

"The Master Training Program and detailed schedule for Third Division Aviation personnel were the best planned of any aviation unit within this Army."

This was the consensus of a report completed recently by Capt. William D. Proctor, Third Army Aviation Section, concerning the "Marine" Division's 3d Aviation Company.

Capt. Proctor visited the Division's aviation facilities to review the training program and training activities, and to investigate the status of the unit regarding aviation personnel for overseas.

The 3d Aviation Company is presently conducting an aerial egress course for selected officers from the various combat and intelligence agencies within the Division. The conduct of this program was considered superior. Present plans envision conducting this course until the departure of the Division for Germany, at which time a total of 50 personnel will be qualified as aerial observers.

Marne
Thank you for containing all big chunks of yardage, the 4th began a march to the goal line in the 3d period with the big Pennsylvania quarterback climbing the drive from the 4 yard line. An attempted placement to break the tie also missed.

In the final quarter, Howard Wiggins sliced off tackle for 29 yards and the game's deciding TD. Clark passed to elongated end Horace Cabbage-stalk for the extra point and a 16-6 victory.

Baker High School's smart marching band proved to be an inspiration to the Warriors, as well as adding to the crowd's ballgame pleasure. At the midway point the 100 piece band entertained with an "Around the World in 80 Days" theme.

Retires

Thank you for containing your record of duty well performed.

Your work in varied capacities and most recently as range control officer of The Infantry Center since October, 1956, was carried out in a most commendable manner.

Major Brad Cassin, in the Army in February, 1936, and is a 1941 graduate of Fort Belknap's Infantry School. During World War II he served in North Africa, Italy, France and Germany with the 58th Division's 157th Infantry Regiment. His decorations include the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster and Purple Heart.

From 1946 to 1954 Major Byas was assigned to the 101st Government Group in Korea. He served in Korea a second two-year tour, beginning in November, 1951, with the United States Civilian Assistance Command.

He is married to the former Carmen Wicks of Needville, Texas.

Brigaders

Thank you for containing the second man through the hole so instrumental in the initial score.

The Rams came roaring back from the second period to take a 7-6 lead before the intermission. Halfback James Lavery picked off a Thompson action on the 10 and raced back to midfield before being dropped.

Proctor flipped a 22 yard pass to Lavery, Willie Longshore blazed on the middle to the 12, Lavery laid the ball back to Longshore to the 7, Paul Wilcox to the two and then Brodie carried a 40 yard drive to a quarterback sneak. Hugh Toomey was on the receiving end of a brilliant pass for an all important extra point.

The third quarter and six minutes of the fourth featured a battle of the two forward walls and fine punting. The 2d Battalion score in the fourth period came after a favorable point exchange. The Bulldogs regained possession on their own 38 and then moved 63 yards in seven plays to take a 13-7 lead.

A 21 yard drive from Thompson to Burk and the power running of Bill Kuller tied the pigskin score. The Bulldogs packed the mail off eight of the three to tie the 2d Battalion's second TD.

Home of Army Shooters Reaches Ultimate Goal

A goal set during the early part of 1956 by the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning has been reached now that the 1957 National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, have become history.

This unit, established in March 1956, under the direct command of U. S. Continental Army Commander in Chief Monroe, Va., has given a big boost to the history of the championships.

The big assignment was to screen the best shooters in the Army, including all commands in the U. S. and overseas, train them with the most advanced marksmanship methods of today and return them to various commands as instructors.

Lt. Col. E. R. Mason of Columbus, S. C., was given the command of the unit. He was to be in complete charge of establishing the unit, which was to become the permanent headquarters of the U. S. Army Rifle and pistol teams. Two other teams, which would compete in strictly international rifle and pistol events, would be under the guidance of the unit.

To accomplish this terrific task, Col. Mason was given the best qualified marksmen in the Army to form the nucleus of the unit. From this group of selected shooters, the unit would become the national headquarters for the Army's marksmanship program.

The next step was made when it issued a regulation stating that a coaching school be held for all shooters before they enter their area matches.

The school was to be manned by top instructors of the class of service football. From their 1956 starting players Bolling lost three backs and six linemen, including such luminaries as Bert Feleney, Bill Reynolds and Mimi Snivides.

Any team can have an off afternoon, and lively Sept. 21 was it for the Army aggregation. But there is little doubt that the Generals' game in and game out, are again the class of service football.

Following this, the Army area matches in the U. S. and overseas continued to show record-breaking firing in both rifle and pistol events. The feeling of high scores to come was felt by the 1957 All-Army Matches started at Fort Benning.

Many of the current records and several old ones were shattered during the All-Army firing. From the first group of shooters, the leaders of the marksmanship unit selected the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Teams which will represent the Army in the National Matches.

The Army shooters displayed their superiority with the service rifle pistol and also took top honors in the free rifle international shooting.

Fort Benning 'Spotlights Ability' During Week for Handicapped

BY JULIA BRUNNICE
 "Spotlight on Ability" highlights Fort Benning's emphasis on National Employ the Handicapped Week Oct. 6 to 12. "In the past 10 years, the emphasis has decidedly turned to ability and capabilities for the physically handicapped in employment," said Miss Bertha Williams, Fort Benning's Civilian Personnel Division, coordinator of the physically handicapped program.

It is the policy of The Infantry Center to consider applicants for employment on the basis of their abilities and not their disabilities, officials stated. Results have shown that in properly matching individual skills and job requirements, handicapped personnel have been equally as productive as unimpaired workers.

Marneman Poses as Girl Fighting With Guerillas

A New Marneman of the 1st Battle Group, 30th Infantry, was disguised as a girl to gain information from the Germans for the White Russian Guerrillas during World War II.

Private Murray James 23, was born in Yilla, Poland, in 1942, when the Germans overran his town and his family fled to Poland. James and his parents were forced to retreat to a ghetto.

His parents, mainly concerned with their son's safety, placed him in the custody of close friends, members of a Guerrilla band. Murray, who was nine years old at the time, was disguised as a girl and posed as their niece. He remained disguised for nine months, during which time he wandered into German military installations, gathered information from the soldiers, and carried it back to the Guerrillas.

James carried on the disguise safely for nine months, except for an incident at one time when the woman of the town tried to drag him to the woman's public bath for a washing. He studied the woman, and ran away.

The Germans began to suspect James and the man posing as his uncle. They were apprehended, and Murray, whose name was James, was released.

Thomas Building Correct Name Of Benning Finance Offices

Second building in the series is Thomas Building which houses finance offices at Fort Benning. The structure was named in honor of Pfc. William H. Thomas, who was posthumously presented the Medal of Honor for gallantry in combat during World War II.

His citation reads: "Private First Class William H. Thomas, Army Serial Number 28 625 831, was a member of the leading squad of Company B, 149th Infantry, which was attacking along a narrow wooded ridge in the Zambales Mountains, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 22 April 1945. The enemy, strongly entrenched in camouflaged emplacements on the hill beyond directed heavy fire and a hurled explosive charge on the attacking rifleman. Private Thomas, an automatic rifleman, was struck by one of these charges, which blew off both legs below the knees. He refused medical aid and evacuation, and continued to fire at the enemy until his weapon was put out of action by an enemy bullet. Still refusing aid, he threw his last two grenades. He destroyed three enemies after suffering the wounds from which he died later that day. The effective fire of Private Thomas prevented the repulse of his platoon and assured the capture of the hostile position. His magnificent courage and heroic deeds. (Awarded July 18, 1945.)"

Former German Commander Austrian Attending Advanced Course

A former regimental commander in the Austrian zone in Liechtenstein and member of the Austrian Advance Course I at Fort Benning, Lt. Col. Erwin Starkl, now a member of the Austrian Federal Army, comes to Fort Benning from the Ministry of Defense in Vienna to attend the Officer Candidate and Officer Training Programs. Col. Starkl was released from the Ministry of Defense in 1949 when "Trieste" was still a part of old Austria. Germany won Trieste in Italy in 1952. He graduated a Zugführer from the Austrian Military Academy in 1954 and became a captain in the German forces when the country federalized the Austrian Army in March, 1955.

Simulated Flights For Army Aviators

Link Trainers Aid Development Of Safest, Best-Trained Pilots

Fort Benning's link trainer section is aiding in the vital mission of maintaining the reputation of the U. S. Army aviator as one of the world's safest and best-trained aviators. The two-year-old section, which is supervised by Anthony Hatteras today serves approximately 300 pilots from the Lawson Army Air Field Command and Third Aviation Command in the early 1950's to aid in the perfection of an adequate instrument system that would permit aircraft to fly under adverse weather conditions. A link trainer has a cockpit identical to that of a real airplane with instruments and controls that simulate actual flight. Each movement made by the link pilot is recorded on a board and actual missions can be charted. It gives pilots training for instrument flight through clouds and fog in the safety of a building, and offers low cost practice for accredited pilots in maintaining their skills. The initial cost of a link trainer is approximately $5,000 but Fort Benning officials estimate that the savings in flight time and labor more than make up for the expense. Three courses are conducted for pilots of varying degrees of experience and progress. The initial phase consists of 20 hours of instruction. This is aimed at building up a good understanding of the instruments and the capabilities and limitations of the aircraft. An advanced course of 20 hours is conducted for pilots having completed the first phase. The course consists of chief navigational aids available to the pilots. The third phase is a refreshment course designed for accredited pilots as a review for their annual instrument check. This 10-hour program stresses basic techniques and navigational aids.

In Nine Fields Officers May Ask For Special Jobs

WASHINGTON (ANS)—Many officers can now ask for and receive assignments to duties of their own choosing in any of nine specialties areas. The Army Specialization Programs are designed to give officers a chance to specialize in any one of nine specialties areas. Today there are programs in Intelligence, Information, Army Aviation, Atomic Energy, Research and Development, Logistics, Foreign Area, Civil Affairs-Military Government and United States Army Security Agency. Generally these programs involve and use qualified officers for repetitive but not necessarily consecutive assignments in one of the specialized areas. Assignments within his specialty area are programmed to develop the officer's status and Research field by scheduling assignments in order of progressive importance. This careful programming results in highly trained and professionally competent officers in the specialty area.

In between assignments in their specialized field, officers in the program are given assignments in their basic branch for which they are qualified. This branch qualification is also recorded that both they and the so needed to assure that they Army will be boosted. Application maintain their overall military is on a volunteer basis.

Missile Seminar Scheduled Oct. 5 At Inf. School

A guided missile symposium will be held at Fort Benning, Ala., Oct. 5 for students attending the Infantry School's officers' advanced and associate advanced classes.

Efforts

Thank You for Continuing with Company, School Brigade. Each of the JCO's and the Army Command visitors was awarded an Infantry School "Follow Me" pin and a small model of the Army's LeClerc guided missile.

The Infantry Center Soldiers Chorus to maintain the Army's readiness for such a state of readiness as to deter any would be enemy.

In discussing charges of problems resulting from alleged rivalry among the services, McEldred said, "I believe in the spirit of competition." He added that he hoped that entering competition in the Department of Defense would be abused.

He also touched on the cost of defense, saying that prime objectives will be reducing duplication and waste.

"In my opinion, economy is not incompatible with a strong national defense," the secretary stated.

Following the talks by Gen. Wyman and Robbins, the visitors viewed a night firing demonstration by a reinforced rifle company in defense on Ruth Range.

Warning

Thank You for Continuing the car was not covered by insurance. The owner had been driving on the post for quite some time with complete disregard for the post regulations.

The case culminated in the trial by a special court-martial of the offender, and he is now serving a sentence of confinement at the post labor for six months. In addition, he will forfeit two thirds of his pay per month for that period of time.

JCOG

Thank You for Continuing that can operate in a peripheral, small war. This requires a highly trained and educated team of all the services," Gen. Wyman stated.

The speaker emphasized the soldier's role as the factor in Army victories. He noted that the Air Force and Navy consider the term "loss" as the loss of a ship or plane.

"In the Army we regard ourselves as people with weapons in our hands and the cost of battle as the number of lives lost in that battle. We deal in people. It requires a man with confidence and leadership to take an objective," Gen. Wyman explained, adding that men must be carefully trained to take an objective.

Gen. Wyman was introduced by Gen. Powell, host for the three-day JCOG meeting. Robbins praised the interest displayed by the group during the JCOG tour.

"You've taken your mission seriously. I certainly hope you have your interest in the Army's readiness for such a state of readiness as to deter any would be enemy."

Secretary McElroy pledged his efforts "to maintain the Army's readiness for such a state of readiness as to deter any would be enemy."

New Tube Ups Power

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army has developed a new electron tube designed to perform the dual function of increasing the power in the nation's vital radar defense networks and generating basic radar waves.

Called the "amplifier," the new tube is capable of handling a power load equal to that needed to light a small cigarette. It allows lighter fixtures for airliners, long-range storm scatterers, electronic jammers for submarines and surface ships.

The new amplifier works on the same principles as the ordinary TV and radio tube but has a unique design that makes it twice as efficient as previous tubes used in radar. In addition, it can handle the energy output of a radar's basic signal by as much as eight to 14 times.

Fire Week Is Extended Until Oct. 18 at Benning

Due to heavy activities on the post last week Fort Benning's program of combating one of the nation's most destructive enemies — fire — will be extended four days to Oct. 18 as part of the post's participation in National Fire Prevention Week activities.

The various schedule calls for two demonstrations daily on Oct. 15 and 16 at Glen Field, Taggart St., Main Post, starting at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. On Oct. 17 and 18 the schedule will be shifted to field No. 22, Cassels and Acton Roads, Harmony Church Area.

Col. William S. Shoemaker, post fire marshal, Lt. Col. John A. Millard, deputy post fire marshal, and Gilbert A. Ward, Jr., fire chief, and their staffs have planned a thorough indoctrination in the fire prevention program.

Chief Ward said, "Our goal is to emphasize to every person, military or civilian, at Fort Benning the importance of stopping fires before they start."

NGs to Fire Nike Missile

WASHINGTON (APFS) — National Guard anti-aircraft gun battalions protecting cities across the nation will be trained to fire Nike missiles, Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker has announced.

Equipment for these units is at Nike sites now manned by active Army crews, Mr. Brucker said, and the switch of personnel will be made as conversion training of Guardsmen is completed.

During the past three and one half years while Regular Army organizations converted to Nike, the National Guard took over conventional gun sites, operating 101 batteries of WWII anti-aircraft-type weapons defending areas in 10 states.

In announcing the conversion Mr. Brucker said "United States National Guard units have become the first... United States Reserve Forces to be equipped with modern surface air guide missiles."

Army Guardsmen, by their success in manning air defense gun positions, have demonstrated their capability to take over a portion of home defenses, he added.

Although most Guard members will be trained at Nike sites about 140 other, well-qualified men from each battalion will be given additional missile instruction beginning from 12 to 57 weeks at the Army Air Defense Center, Ft. Bliss, Texas.

Junior League Thanks Benning For Aid in Sale

The Junior League of Columbus this week expressed appreciation to Fort Benning personnel for contribution to the group's annual Altie Sale.

In a letter of appreciation to post personnel the Junior League expressed appreciation to the 1957 Altie Sale.

"The Junior League of Columbus wishes to thank you again for your generous contribution to the 1957 Altie Sale. It is only through the cooperation of the civic-minded citizens of this area that this project has proved so successful. As in past years, the proceeds will be used to fulfill a community need.

"It is with a deep sense of gratitude that the Junior League acknowledges the special interest that you have shown in its efforts to serve this community."

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Dexter Feted At Informal Party in Sket Club

BY NADINE SHIPLEY Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert B. Dexter were honored at an informal party given by the officers and wives of the Technical and Rifle Fire Committees School's Weapons Department Sept. 28 at the Sket Club. Col. Dexter, the present chairman of the committee, will soon depart for his new station at Viet Nam.

Major Charles E. Frichard, Capt. Edward J. Collins, Lt. Richard R. Simpson, Lt. Leon A. Kowalski, Lt. Donald E. Sawyer, Lt. Thomas J. Ambrose, and Lt. Leonard A. Greene, officers of the committee, were the actors in a skit entitled, "A Typical Day in the TFC Committee." The skit depicted a series of comically exaggerated events which supposedly occurred during Col. Dexter's tour in the Weapons Department. Later in the evening, Mrs. Dexter was presented an engraved silver ice bucket.

Approximately 50 guests attended the buffet dinner. The beautiful table decoration attractively carried out the "Bon Voyage" theme.

Mrs. A. M. Shomon was hostess at the monthly coffee for the ladies of the Ground Mobility Department at her home at Fort Benning, Mrs. Norman B. Edwards, wife of the department director, presided at the coffee table, which was beautifully decorated with lavender asters and pink candles. Farewells were said to Mrs. Col. C. E. Epps, who is retiring from the Army Oct. 31. Mrs. Epps was presented a corsage and an engraved silver tray. Approximately 20 ladies departed for his new station at Viet Nam.

The U. S. Army Infantry Board enjoyed a formal officers' party at the Main Officers' Mess Saturday, Oct. 12. In the receiving line were Col. and Mrs. Henry B. Kuntze, Col. and Mrs. Jack B. Matthews, Lt. Col. and Mrs. C. Floyd Caulfield, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Angus Irwin, Lt. Col. and Mrs. George Stevens, Major and Mrs. John G. W. Hayes, Capt. and Mrs. Melvin Gustafson, CWO and Mrs. Harold G. Sawyer, Lt. Harry R. Glidden introduced the guests.

The tables were decorated with bronze mums, silver centerpieces, and sprigs of Hawthorne berries. A humorous diploma was presented to Col. Caulfield, who is retiring from the Army at the end of October.

Mrs. Martha Valentine and Mrs. Martin Faber were among the guests.

Col. and Mrs. Robert H. York entertained with a buffet party Oct. 5 in their home at Fort Benning. The white Goddess of Mercy, in a natural setting of greenery enhanced the food-laden table. Mrs. York served one of her favorite recipes of Chinese spring rolls and Pe-

MRS. KLINCK HONORED... Mrs. Earl F. Klincek, left, wife of Col. Klincek, School Brigade commander, was honored at a luncheon given by the U. S. Army Infantry School wives group Oct. 8 in the Custer Terrace Officers' Club. She was presented an Infantry School "Follow Me" insignia silver charm by Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen, right, wife of Brig. Gen. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commander. Following Col. Klincek's retirement Oct. 31, the couple will live in Dallas, Texas.

America in August, 1956, to become the bride of Lt. Dedy.

Mrs. Chew-Mae Lee, in her native dress, will be Rosell's special guest Oct. 24 to demonstrate how to prepare Thuan Guan or Chinese egg rolls.

Mrs. Frank Bashore will present her favorite recipe called Chiquilles in the near future. All of these recipes will be available in the "Infantry Center Cook Book" which will go on sale the first week in December.

Army Tells Plans to Cut 100,000 Men

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — The Department of the Army last week announced steps to be taken to reduce the strength ceiling to 300,000 by June 30, 1958, to comply with Department of Defense directives.

To effect the overall reduction of 100,000 the Army is slated to cut 71,000 by the first of the year and an additional 29,000 by next June 30. Army strength at the close of August was set at 392,413. Fourteen air defense battalions and five aviation construction engineer battalions will be eliminated; one armored combat command will be replaced by one of the two armored divisions in the United States and the regimental combat team in Panama will be reduced in size to one battle group.

An Army spokesman pointed out that the need for air defense battalions is gradually lessening with the introduction of the new air defense missile units and that construction requirements of the Air Force have fallen off, explaining the reasons for dropping those units.

An armored combat command requires only 5,000 as compared to 14,000 in an armored division.

Management Improvement Is Proving Successful at Benning

BY JOSEPH ZELNIK

With efficiency and economy its goal, management improvement is proving highly successful at Fort Benning.

Improvement officials at the Infantry Center reported 77 improvements submitted and installed, resulting in 14,257 man-hours saved, 600 square feet of space made available and over $18,000 in savings and benefits.

Management improvement, then known as management engineering, was born Army-wide in 1953. The Fort Benning brand began in July, 1953, with the specific purpose of organizing the efforts of commanders, section chiefs and individuals, military or civilian, in achieving optimum effectiveness, efficiency and utilization of resources.

The plan is to improve management in all areas and each facet of the Infantry Center. The big picture calls for the conservation of man-power and material without dulling the Army's sharp cutting edge.

Two men at Fort Benning bear the brunt of management engineering. Preston E. Blackwell of Smith, Ala., is the head of management Division of the Comptroller's Office.

Guysie A. Peluso of Panama City, Fla., has the responsibility of management analysis. Under their program at Fort Benning, within the framework of policies and procedures prescribed by higher authority, commanders, section chiefs and every individual, military and civilian, are responsible for the planning and implementation of management improvement.

Savings Bonds Now Fit Even the Smallest Safety Deposit Boxes!

This month the Treasury starts issuing Savings Bonds in a new, more convenient form. These new punch-card Bonds are about the size of a government check. They will save money for taxpayers, help issuing agents and firms economize and be more convenient for Bond owners.

From now on, every Series E Savings Bond you buy will be smaller and easier to keep in your safety deposit box. They'll be easier and more economical, too, for many employers to issue through the Payroll Savings Plan.

If your employer does not provide the Payroll-Savings Plan, why not call this to his attention? If he does, why not sign up? You'll find the Payroll Savings Plan the easiest way to save you've ever discovered. You simply sign the authorization card in the payroll office. Sign for any amount you like. Then, every payday, that amount is saved for you—automatically. When there's enough, a Bond is issued in your name.

Part of every American's savings belongs in U. S. Savings Bonds!

And now Savings Bonds are better than ever. Every Series E Savings Bond issued since February 1, 1957 pays 3 1/4% when held to maturity. It pays higher interest, too, in the earlier years and matures in just 8 years and 11 months.

So start saving for your big dreams with safe, sure U. S. Savings Bonds today. Get them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or buy Bonds regularly where you bank.

Newspaper publishing is a costly business, and we'd like to take a moment to explain to you just how costly bit of business—known as THE BAYONET—comes to you each week absolutely free of charge.

No, it's not tax money! Fortunately the Army doesn't spend a dime in producing this civilian-enterprise publication wholly dedicated to the coverage of Fort Benning activities. Nor is THE BAYONET operating under a large endowment fund led by Sgt. Bilko!

Rather, it is the merchants of Columbus and Phenix City who make this fine weekly newspaper possible for Fort Benning personnel. Their advertising support, together with the helpful guidance of the Ledger-Enquirer news personnel, help make THE BAYONET as good or better than any similar news organ on any post or station.

Certainly the patronage from BAYONET readers makes their investment worth while, but at the same time, they're making it possible for us to continue publication. We just wanted to explain this to our readers and express our appreciation to our advertisers!

Bulldogs Defeat STC Team 44-6

Still smarting from last week's one point defeat, the Bulldogs' Battalion defeated the STC team 44-6 in a game played at Doughboy Stadium.

Army Pistol Team Takes Major Win

BY WILL PERRY

The crack US Army Pistol Team, directed by Lt. Col. William A. Hancock added another major tournament victory to an already brilliant record this past weekend as the 15-man squad from Fort Benning won 14 of 19 individual events in the Second Annual Dixie Pistol Matches, Oct. 14-15, at Jacksonville, Fla.

In extending its phenomenal team shooting record, which now includes championships in 32 out of 34 team events during the past year, the Army's top pistol squad triumphed in a virtual sweep of the three day meet. Team members won each of the three individual aggregate matches (Center Fire, 22 and .45 caliber) together with the cumulative score of the three aggregates, which went to 1-1. David C. Miller and the 2600 score.

It was Lt. Miller who paced the Army squad to its first of three team titles as the team's top marksman fired a 2600 score in the 22-man US Army "Blue" team to win 45 caliber championship. Lt. Miller carried over from A. Grant, and SFC William Blankenship completed the "Blue" winning total of 1146 which was three points higher than the second place US Army "Grey" team.

US Army "Grey" continued the Army's winning performance by taking the Center Fire match with a fine 1194 total out of a possible 1200 points. Comprising the Championship "Grey" team were PFC Grant, Sgt. Blankenship, M. Sgt. Roy Raliff, and M. Sgt. Richard M. Sitman.

"Blue" team won its 1225 score by taking the 45 caliber final win came in the wind-swept 22 caliber team match as its Blue representative fired a top score of 1188 out of a possible 1200 points. Members of the "Blue" team included Lt. Miller, Lt. Carter, Sgt. Blankenship and PFC Sitman.

30th Infantry Gridders Down 38th Infantry By 21-0 Score

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG

With a cautious eye on next week's contest with DivArty, 30th Infantry Rockets bested a stubborn 38th Infantry club 21-0 last Thursday night under the lights at Bennett Field.

Scoring single tallies in the first, third, and fourth periods, the 30th maintained their clean slate to pull even with DivArty in Marne football competition and set the stage for Saturday's battle between the two grid teams.

Using star halfback Grover Jones frequently, the Rockets counted on straight powerful football to defeat the Vikings. Fullback Leroy Young provided the 30th with the second and third yard line and three yard line while Andy and Joe Norwood tallied the initial TD as the recipient of a 24 yard pass from Al Ostasoulez.

Played under a spirited throng of 4,000 fans, the game began slowly with an exchange of punts and an exchange of fumbles preceding Ostasoulez's scoring play to Norwood. The seventh Rocket point was provided by Dave Felix's

Rams Drop ISTC 20-7

Brigaders Undeclared In 1957 Gridiron Season

The league-leading School Brigade Rams struck swiftly on three occasions to drop a stubborn Infantry School Troop Command squad, 20 to 7, in Doughboy Stadium last Sunday. It was the third victory for the undefeated Rams and gave them top spot as the first round of league play ended.

Fullbacks Frank Laney, Paul Wilson, and Charley Kozichek dove for tallies when a kick of return, a fumble, and a rapid succession of long penalties set up goal-line situations for the Rams.

Billy Manning took the opening kick on his 17 yard line and stepped off an 82 yard return sprint up the sideline. A strike from paydirt, Manning was pulled to the ground from behind. On the first play from scrimmage Ram QB Al Norwood led the Rams to the 11 yard line. Kozichek booted the ISTC into a 3 and 1 lead.

Following Manning's return a tightened ISTC defense confined the remainder of the quarter play to TSB territory. On the offense the ISTC unveiled a short punt formation in which Chuck Nourrice launched a passing attack from quarterback.

Converted Georgia end Roy Wilkins paced the ISTC running game. When Nourrice's arm and Wilkins' drives from the fullback slot failed to pick up a first down, Don Klatzinger kept the Rams going by their own goal with his accurate distance punting.

Late in the second period Klatzinger punted to the Rams. Running from a winged-T formation, Manning again broke lose for TSB and added, on a 44 yard pickup to the ISTC 42. Norwood flipped to John Bendire to set the Rams on the ISTC 18. On fourth down Norwood again tossed to Bendire, but Delmar Grant intercepted on the ISTC 14.

ISTC took over with seconds remaining in the quarter. On an attempted draw play Wilkins was smothered and fumbled. The Rams dropped on the ball at the ISTC 9 yard line. Wilson found a hole off left

Third Army Small Games Set for Post

More than 100 competitors from throughout seven states are expected to arrive at Fort Benning for the Third U. S. Army Small Games Tournament to be staged on Oct. 21-23.

Four events, including handball, table tennis, horseshoes and badminton, will have competition during the week of activities at Briant Wells Field House and Doughboy Stadium.

Fort Benning will have a complete team of 12 entries in the event, after the completion of the U.S. Army Infantry Center Small Games Tournament which had several hundred competitors.

This post team will be a representative of all the commands on main post and Third Infantry Division.

The opening of the tournament will be the welcoming banquet to be given for all competitors, officials and guests at Victory Lodge Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Official opening of the games will be staged in the Briant Wells Field Oct. 21 at 1 p.m. The first event to be played will be horseshoes.

Lt. Rees Given RA Commission In Marne Football

First Lt. Terry D. Rees, Newton, Miss., assigned to The Infantry School Dental Detachment, has received his Regular Army Commission at Fort Benning.

Lt. Rees, who is a member of the dental clinic in the Harmony Church area, entered the Army senior dental program while in his junior year at the University of Tennessee.

He came on active duty this year after graduating from dental school, and was sent to the Army Medical Service School at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

After completing his training in Texas, Lt. Rees was assigned to Fort Benning with The Infantry Center Dental Detachment.

Lt. Rees is married to the former Patricia A. McGuire of Baldwin, Miss. They have a son, John, five months old.

The 4th threatened several times in the second half and at one point late in the third quarter, had the ball with first down on the Rams' 10 yard line in the opening period. The 4th also threatened to score. With H. L. Alexander and Glatz running and passing, the Warriors moved from their own 48 to the Rams 17 in six successive plays. A 15-yard penalty halted their march.

With the second quarter came with scores and with both scores came provocative football.

Brig. Gen. Ruggles Flips Coin To Open Little League Season

Col. Joseph C. Sandlin, 1st Battle Group, 28th Infantry commanding officer and president of the Little League Football, greeted Brig. Gen. Ruggles, Infantry Center deputy commander, at the opening of the season last Tuesday afternoon at Sightseeing Field.

Gen. Ruggles flipped the coin in the contest between a 1st year's champs, the Custer Terriers and the 49ers, Capt. Thomas, 1st Battle Group, 28th Infantry, guided his Terriers to a close 7-6 decision.

The Doughboy League contests were played simultaneously at the field. The first game results in the Biddy League are as follows: Bears 3, Stormions 0; Blue Devils 3, Rams 6; Giants 14, Tankers 0.

The Doughboy League started its schedule last Wednesday afternoon. The defending champion Raiders defended their way to a 19-0 victory over the Red Devils. The Blue Posies posted a 7-0 win over Redskins. The Blue Battalion and the Eagles of the Pony League have not played any games.

The League standings are as follows:

AMPHIB VESSEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's newest amphibious transport vessel, the beach lighter, Lieutenant Colonel John D. Page, soon will be launched at San Diego.

The 344-foot craft, named for a Korea War hero who was awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously, will join the Transportation Corps' marine fleet as a new development to meet the challenge of speeding over-the-beach operations in close support of modern, mobile combat units, according to the Army.

Many details were worked out jointly with the Navy to exploit advantages of the Navy's recently launched roll-on, roll-off vessel, the USNS Connet.

30th Win

Thank You For Continuing Best Tied with DivArty's Blakeway as top scorer in the league, had little opportunity to score in the opening period. Logging the piskin only three times in plays from scrimmage he tied up 22 yards and got off a broken field 40 yard punt return.

In picking up its third straight victory, the 30th revealed little in its coaching special to a section full of DivArty scouts. Playing comparative "under wraps," the Rockets have set the stage for what may be the season's most important contest.

Lt. Col. Joseph W. Sullivan led the Fort Benning Officers Golf Handicap Golf Tournament this week when he edged Major Roy W. Turgeon, 2 and 1 at the post country club course. Quarter finals of the tourney will be played Oct. 20. The championship round is scheduled for the country club on Oct. 27. The off time is set for 9 a.m.

Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center, will make the presentation of the winning trophies immediately following the completion of the finals at 3:30 p.m.

Other winners in the first round included: second flight Lt. Col. Warrant Officer Richard Johnson defeated Lt. Col. John H. Bostic 3 and 4; first flight—Major Layton H. Green defeated Lt. Col. Kenneth C. Crawford; fourth flight—Major Raymond L. Mitchell defeated Lt. Col. Jay B. Mowbray 4 up; fifth flight—O. K. Colton defeated Col. Robert S. Cain 2 and 1, and sixth flight—Major George G. Hines defeated Major O. J. B. Edwards 2 and 1.

Quarter final pairings find Major Mitchell playing O. K. Colton, Major Green meeting Mr. Colson and Col. Sullivan going against Major Hines.

Perkins Cops First Place In Net Match

Lt. Doyle Perkins, a bleach-skinned northwesterner with the slow surface net to his advantage in the early stages of the match, finished strong to defeat Lt. Lewis Hamilton, 6-4, 6-0, for the Officers' Club Men's Singles Tennis Championship. The action took place last Sunday at the Officers' Tennis Club.

Perkins, former University of Washington net star and Northern Division Pacific Coast Conference champion, found the slow surface net to his advantage in the early stages of the match. His big service, which would slide on the Pacific Coast, was not quite so effective on the club's rubric courts and he could not hinder to the net behind each service. Lt. Hamilton, playing the typical southern retrieving game, had Perkins going until the westerner slowed down and started to play precision tennis. Beautiful stroking and opportune net play were in evidence throughout the second set which Lt. Perkins won 6-0.

Rev. Smith Talks To Holy Society

The Rev. Father Andrew C. Smith, S. J., president of Spring Hill (Ala.) College, addressed Fort Benning's Holy Name Society at a breakfast meeting Oct. 13.

Members of the Society attended the 9 a.m. Mass at the Main Post Catholic Chapel as a group. Father Smith offered the Mass.

Following the services, breakfast was held at Crain Hall.

President of Fort Benning's Holy Name Society is Col. Owen T. McCloskey.

Pistoleers

Thank You For Continuing Enthusiasm, and MSGT Roy L. Suberlander.

The top individual competitors for the US Army squad were 1st Lt. Miller and Sgt Blankenship. Besides his Individual Championship, 1st Lt. Miller won the 45 caliber and Center Fire aggregates with scores of 803 and 866, respectively, out of a total of 869 points. The same individual competitor added the Center Fire National Match Course score and the 45 caliber rapid fire match to his impressive showing at the Florida tourney.

Sgt Blankenship won four individual matches including the 22 caliber aggregate with an 874 total, fired on all three winning teams, and placed second with his 2306 score in the Grand Aggregate. US Army squad members won the first four of the three-caliber aggregate with Lt. Curtes, 2885, and Col Hancock, 2887 (missing third and fourth).

Other match victories won by the US Army pistoleers included the Center Fire, slow fire and 22 caliber rapid fire events by Lt. Curtes, the Center Fire, slow fire and 45 caliber timed fire matches by SFC A. E. Smith, the Center Fire National Match Course event with the service pistol by Col. Hancock, and Maj Ben C. Curtes's 45 caliber slow fire win.

Closest-to-Hole Golf Tourney Slated Saturday

It's the Divarty Rockets vs. the 30th Infantry Redlegs on Saturday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium, in the football field, the season's most important contest, to date.

Both clubs will enter the fray with perfect slates, although by comparative scores, Divarty must assume the role of "favorites."

Led by their stylish quarterback-coach Gene Hanson and a fine array of running backs, the 30th has depended on straight standard football, with the razzle-dazzle running of Grover "Deacon" Jones serving as an effective change of pace.

Both clubs boast big, fast, hard-charging lines. Coach James Smith of the 30th has a pair of fine passers in David Felix and Al Ozmoutzer.

Both teams will enter the game with over 10 days rest. Kickoff time is set for 2 p.m.

Sgt. Miles G. Brown, member of the U.S. Army International Rifle Team which trains at Fort Benning, fired a possible score of 1600 in the Dixie Roundup Smallbore Rifle Match at Birmingham, Ala., recently to win the "Any Sights" aggregate championship.

One of the country's top rated prone position shooters, Sgt. Brown highlighted the two-day meet with his outstanding score in the four-event "any sights" event. Aided by his fabulous shooting, the Army's nine-man international rifle squad captured all but two of the tourney's 11 first master class awards.

Sgt. Brown of Honolulu, Hawaii, spearheaded the sweep of the matches in the open class awards and placing second in the grand aggregate match.

Several other events have been scheduled for the international shooters including coaching clinics at Clemson S.C. College, the Citadel in Charleston, S.C. and Presbyterian College at Clinton, S.C.

Nation's Leading Slugger

Silver Baseball Bat Given Division's Grover Jones

Marneman Grover Jones, 30th Infantry, was the recipient of a Silver Louisville Slugger Baseball Bat, presented annually by the Hillier and Bradshy Company to organized baseball's leading batter. Col. Raymond Martin, commanding officer of the 30th Infantry, made the presentation to Jones during a regimental retreat last Friday afternoon. Jones hit a strategic 409 during the 1956 baseball season for Dubage of the Midwest League, the highest batting average in organized baseball.

The Chicago White Sox, owned by the late Philip K. Wrigley, Division in early April of this year, and performed during the 1957 baseball season for the 30th Post championship nine. Jones was named to the Fort Benning All-Star team that competed in the recent Third Army baseball tournament. At the outset of spring training last baseball season, Jones was training with the parent Chicago White Sox and was assigned to the Class A Colorado Springs team in the Western League.

Jones' baseball achievements extend several years, when as a 17-year-old performer in the American Legion World Series tournament, he was the first high school student ever to hit a home run in Detroit's Briggs Stadium, and was eventually voted the National Player of the year in Legion competition.

Jones is a graduate of Hiram College and received a B.S. in physiotherapy, a career which he plans to pursue when his baseball days are concluded.

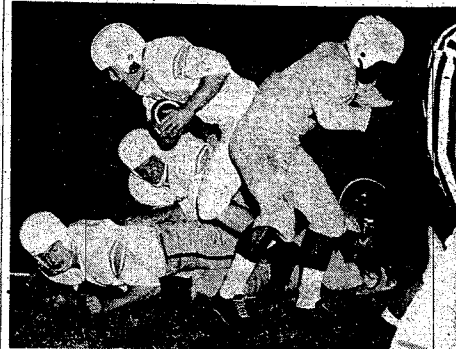

The White Plains, N.Y., athlete is still under contract with the White Sox.

Groups Test Wire Laying By 'Copter

At Low Field recently 703d Ordnance Battalion and 3d Aviation Company, not to mention a new device (not yet officially named) for laying live telephone wire, with use of an H-19 Helicopter.

The cylindrical shaped device was specifically designed for laying wire in inaccessible terrain. The device is capable of holding 14 miles of copmo wire and can lay wire at the rate of a mile a minute. The device makes it possible to put in long wire lines in a short period of time.

The device is made of galvanized tin, an angle iron, and when fully loaded with fourteen spools of wire, it weighs slightly over 1000 pounds.

499th to Repair Damaged Toys

The 499th Engineer Battalion (Combat), located in the Harmony Church Area of Fort Benning, is endeavoring to carry on a program of repairing broken toys and distributing them to needy children at Christmas time. This program was started by the 7th Engineer Battalion (C), formerly stationed at Fort Benning.

The 499th Engineer Battalion (C) will repair and distribute the toys through the facilities of the Salvation Army. In order to make this program a success, discarded toys are accepted by the battalion and all donations will be gratefully accepted. Persons wishing to donate to this worthy cause are asked to call Fort Benning 6-4121 or 61195 for arrangements—do have the toys picked up.

Fort Dix Boasts Top Service Line

FT. DIX, N. J. (APPS)—In 1945 the Ft. Dix Barros opened their football season by losing to Mitchell AFB, N.Y., 19-14, but posting a 5-4 season. In 1956 Ft. Dix posted an 8-2 record, winning their Mitchell opener 19-13. This year the Barros season opened with Mitchell on the short end of a 49-0 score.

That may be an indication of the powerhouse eleven that the Army's New Jersey basic training command has assembled. Another clue could be that in the opener Roosevelt Grinnard Maloy, is fighting it out with Johnny Stephens of Holy Cross and Ed Sammons of the University of Rhode Island.

With apologies to CBS-TV, Barro Coach Jim Ward does not have to ponder long on "What's My Line." The tackle situation might bolster him since he has seven 200-pound factors averaging 240 pounds, headed by the monstrous Grizer at 260 pounds.

Other Ft. Dix stars up front are ends Emmerston Dickie, All East lineman at Boston College, and Russ Dennis, Maryland All-America honorable mention and Green Bay Packers; tackles John Miller, Boston College and Washington Redskins, and holdover Sherrin Plunkett, Baltimore Colts; 275-pound guard John Mallickas, Chicago Bears; and holdover center Ralph Pullechia, 215-pound Wake Forest star.

PRECISION

Look behind the pretty face! Like a future Miss America, a fine timepiece has to have more than a beautiful appearance. After all a watch is a precision engineering achievement, ticking off 18,000 times an hour, 432,000 times in a single day, 156,000,000 times in a year!
The wear, as a result of the tremendous friction of this remarkable machine, can render a mass-produced watch virtually useless, causing it to lose time or stop altogether. The reason is in the quality of the metal parts and the precision of their machining. For example, a balance screw is so tiny that several thousand can fit into a thumbnail.
For 75 years Zodiak has been custom-making fine watches and through these long years has established a reputation for precision timekeeping that has endeared it to thousands of people throughout the world.
Look for... ask for Zodiak fine watches at your Exchange. Take advantage of the low PX price of this world famous timepiece!

Provides Atomic Punch

Gen. de Shazo Outlines Artillery Support to Infantry in Combat

The alteration of artillery battalions to furnish an atomic punch for the combat infantry division was outlined by Major Gen. Thomas E. de Shazo, commander of the U.S. Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, Okla., to the Infantry School's associate officers advanced class at Fort Benning Oct. 7.

One hundred and twenty-nine students received certificates in the graduation ceremony at the Main Theater.

"It's amazing how close the thinking is in our two schools. We've worked so closely together in the combat team, we approach to today's problems with the same thoughts," Gen. de Shazo said of relations between the Infantry and Artillery Schools.

"We are faced with many new concepts. At Fort Sill, we lift ourselves right up to current needs in the missile business," speaker commented.

The general stressed the barrages and harassing fire effects don't take objectives and hold them—it takes the Doughboy to hold and hold ground.

Discussing new tactics of wide dispersion and rapid maneuver, Gen. de Shazo said, "We're concerned about the amount of artillery in the organized infantry division. With dispersed areas and fronts, we realize we can't have the density of artillery the combat infantry division has."

"Through we cannot put down the combined barrages of fire you've had in the past, the ability of atomic delivery in the lower echelons will give wide spread delivery capability," he pointed out.

Gen. de Shazo explained that " firepower will be increased by capability of delivery of atomic rounds at regimental or combat group level, which will make the decision whether the atomic round will be employed. Delays of clearing through higher headquarters will be cut."

"With widespread delivery capability, your delivery means is not limited to one area and is not easily knocked out," he added.

The speaker emphasized, "On the battlefield, you're going to find that most of our targets are 10's (treacherous irregularities) and they won't be formed. So we'll find our firing conventional weapons have many targets for conventional type projectiles."

Gen. de Shazo noted that an

Sergeant Truman O. Olson, ASN, 3624624 Infantry, Army of the United States. For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty. Near Cisterna di Littorio, Italy. Sergeant Olson, a light machine gunner, elected to sacrifice his life to save his company from annihilation. On the night of 30 January 1944, after a 16-hour assault on entrenched enemy positions in the course of which over one third of Company B became casualties, the survivors dug in behind a horse-drawn elevation, placing Sergeant Olson and his crew, with the one available machine gun, forward of their lines and in an exposed position to bear the brunt of the expected German

Army Sends 'Page' to Sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif., (AAS) — Named in honor of an Army officer who was awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously for action in Korea, the Be a C Discharge Lighter "Lieutenant Colonel John U. D. Page," slid gracefully into San Francisco Bay last week moments after being christened by the hero's widow.

The 338-foot "Page" is the Army's newest amphibious support vessel. It will join the marine fleet of the Transportation Corps as the latest development to meet the mobile Army's water-to-shore operations.

The "Page" is a self-propelled lighter capable of transporting large quantities of vehicular and other type cargoes between ships and from ship to shore when shallow craft landings are necessary. Two vertical axis propellers

The quartermaster general of the Swedish Army, Major Erik G. G. Eriksson, visited Fort Benning Oct. 14 through Oct. 17 for a briefing on U. S. Army Infantry School activities and a close look at U. S. Army Infantry Center quartermaster facilities.

His party included Col. F. D. Durkin, chief of the Equipment Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, Swedish Army, Col. Sig. Lagergren, Swedish military attaché in Washington, D. C., and Major D. W. Steenberg and Capt. E. P. Bergman of the Swedish quartermaster corps.

The allied officers toured the Infantry Center's central mail processing and cold storage facilities, stock locker office, quartermaster and parachute maintenance shops, self-service supply center, commissary, laundry, clothing sales center, and property disposal section.

Gen. Lindquist, Division NCOs Hold Joint Meet

Fifteen top-ranking non-commissioned officers of the Marine division met recently with Maj. Gen. Roy E. Lindquist, Marine Commander, the night of the second shift held by Gen. Lindquist since the Division was reorganized under the "Pontonette Concept" last year. It is a revival of an Army custom whereby the commander meets with his non-commissioned leaders to exchange ideas and discuss future plans.

Headed the discussion was the future move to Germany of the Division with 15,000 men, including the allocation of dependent housing by unit area in Germany would be completed by Oct. 15. He also advised the assembled sergeant majors that it was planned to reassign married personnel from areas that were known to be sufficient housing. Also planned is possible relocation of families with children of high school age to other communities nearest their high school facilities.

Other items discussed in the hour-long meeting was the wear of the new Army Green uniform, conduct of an "Open House" ceremonies for visiting families of New Marines and a variety of other subjects.

Brigade Commander Retires Ceremonies Staged For Colonel Klinck

Retirement ceremonies for Col. Earl F. Klinck, the School Brigade Commander, took place last Saturday.

Highlighting the day's festivities were a review of 3 a.m. at French Field, and a dinner dance honoring Col. and Mrs. Klinck at Crain Hall in the evening.

Col. Klinck was born Nov. 13, 1902, in Toledo, Ohio. He attended public schools in Toledo, graduating from Waite High School in 1921. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Denison University in 1925 and did graduate work at Cincinnati University in 1932 and 1936.

He was in the G-2 (Intelligence) Section of General Headquarters, Far East Command, from Oct. 1946 to March 1949, and was commander of the Army Physical Training School at Fort Bragg, N. C., from June 1949 to January 1953. Col. Klinck returned to the Far East in 1953 as G-2 of 1 Corps in Korea, a post he held until July 1954.

The college, a branch of Long Island University, has been named Mitchell College. It is open to members of the Armed Forces on active duty, dependents, civilian employees of the Department of the Air Force Reserve, and certain veterans.

The college offers four-year programs for the degrees of bachelor of arts and bachelor of science, and two-year programs for the degrees of associate in arts and associate in applied science.

Programs for graduate degrees have been deferred until facilities and need recommend their establishment," the college bulletin noted.

At present, a student planning to take a bachelor's degree may choose his major from only three subjects. They

McElroy Takes Over as Nation's Defense Sect'y

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Wilson, who directed the nation's military establishment for almost six years, has been succeeded by Neil H. McElroy as Secretary of Defense.

Mr. McElroy, a former Cincinnati, Ohio businessman, was sworn into office in a ceremony at the White House on Oct. 9. Filing President Eisenhower's most demanding cabinet post since January, 1953, Mr. McElroy held the position as civilian head of the Department of Defense twice as long as any of his four predecessors following unification of the Armed Forces in 1947.

Mr. McElroy, who rose to the presidency of Procter and Gamble Co., after graduating from Harvard University in 1925, was born in Dorset, Ohio.

First College Established On U. S. Military Post

MITCHELL AFB, N.Y. (AP)—The first college on a U.S. military installation has been established here.

All classes are at night. The college, opened in September, is an outgrowth of evening extension courses offered by Long Island University.

Admiral Richard L. Conolly (Ret.), President of Long Island University and former President of the Naval War College, said establishment of the college "signals recognition by both our Armed Forces and by a private university of the importance of higher education in our Armed Forces."

Past Presents Soldier Problem In Form Filing

MANNHEIM, Germany—Filing out Army forms can be an awful chore at times, but few soldiers have as much right to complain about completing this necessary task as Specialist Third Class Joseph A. Geray of Milwaukee, Wis.

Geray's problem usually starts when he's asked where he's originally from and where he's lived since. With an air of resignation he writes:

Both a Turkish citizen in Russia, served in the German army in Austria, captured and sent to a Russian prison camp, escaped to a displaced persons camp in the British zone in Germany, worked as a mechanic in Turkey, then went to the United States via Germany, finally returned to Germany as an American soldier. # American FIGHTING HEROES

The Story of SGT. GERRY H. KISTERS

ON JULY 31, 1943, A DETACHMENT OF ONE OFFICER AND NINE ENLISTED MEN, INCLUDING SGT. KISTERS, ADVANCED AHEAD OF THE LEADING ELEMENTS OF THE UNITED STATES FORCES TO FILL A LARGE GORGE IN THE ONLY AVAILABLE VENUE ROUTE THROUGH CASABLANCO. SGT. WAS TAKEN UNDER FIRE BY TWO ENEMY MACHINE-GUNS...

"TAKE COVER! KISTERS AND I WILL SEE WHAT WE CAN DO ABOUT THOSE MACHINE-GUNS!"

UNARMED, AND IN THE FACE OF INTENSE SMALL ARMS FIRE, THE TWO ADVANCED ON THE NEAREST AVAILABLE POSITION...

BUT NOW THE ENTIRE REMAINING SMALL ARMS FIRE WAS DIRECTED ON THE CAPTURED MACHINE-GUN POSITION...

"WHILE I SEE WHAT I CAN DO ABOUT THAT OTHER MACHINE-GUN..."

"GOOD WORK, KISTERS! WE'VE CAPTURED THE GUN AND THE RESULTS!"

"WE'RE WORSE OFF THAN BEFORE, NOW WE'RE REALLY TRAPPED!"

"KEEP YOUR EYES ON KISTERS' BEST, SIR--"

WHILE VOLUNTARILY ADVANCING ALONE TOWARDS THE SECOND GUN EMPACEMENT, SGT. KISTERS WAS STRUCK FIVE TIMES BY ENEMY BULLETS, RECEIVING WOUNDS IN BOTH LEGS AND THE RIGHT ARM...

BUT DESPITE THE WOUNDS, HE CONTINUED TO ADVANCE AND CAPTURED THE SECOND MACHINE-GUN AFTER KILLING THREE OF HIS CREW AND FORGING THE FOURTH TO FLEE...

THE COURAGE OF GERRY H. KISTERS, WHO LATER BECAME A SECOND LIEUTENANT, AND HIS UNUSUAL WILLINGNESS TO SACRIFICE HIS LIFE IF NECESSARY, SERVED AS AN INSPIRATION TO THE COMMAND. IN REWARD HE HAS GIVEN THE MEDAL OF HONOR.

books...

Rally Round The Flag, Boys! is not only the name of Max Shulman's new book but it's exactly what you'll be doing after reading this screamingly funny novel. Shulman pulls no punches as he pokes fun at anything and everything from "barracks rooms in campus rooms." One of the funniest characters in the book is Second Lt. Guido DiMaggio who is always finding himself in the outfield on some Post baseball team because of his name. (Published by Doubleday and Co. —$3.50).

movies...

The Warner Brothers version of The Helen Morgan Story with Ann Blyth in the title role is even less accurate than the TV version of the life of "the sad-eyed, sweet-voiced beauty of the gay and giddy Twenties" who drank herself to death at the early age of 41. Helen Morgan's mother, Lulu, who played such an important part in the merry-go-round existence of the "grand baby on a baby grand," isn't even in the picture. The film biography even ends happily. Warner Brothers was thinking of changing the title before releasing the movie. They should have changed the picture.

records...

Decca's Satchmo — A Musical Autobiography of Louis Armstrong is a must for every jazz fan. This special album contains a profile of Armstrong, photographs, and notes on the music. In addition to four LPs which cover 48 of the songs made classics by the acknowledged King of jazz. In musically tracing the Satchmo saga over the last thirty years, the listener is doubly rewarded, because he is also getting the historical development of jazz during the last three decades.

THE WIVES

"Now what did you say to mother?"

CUTTING CORNERS

by Barbara Sue Richards

According to the angry wife of an Army sergeant, who had been stuck with a defective second-hand car. "There are more lemons sold in Used Car Lots than in all the supermarkets put together."

Despite the exaggeration, it does point up the importance of dealing only with a reputable agency when in the market for a used car.

Roughly 15,000,000 people buy used cars each year and the majority of them make one fatal error. They are more concerned with getting a bargain than with quality. In buying a used car it's essential that you take a demonstration ride and check all of the following points carefully. The engine should start easily even when cold. The clutch on a standard transmission car should work smoothly when halfway out. On a car with automatic transmission, it should work both smoothly and quietly. The oil pressure should hold steady in mid-range while the car is in motion. The brakes should be well up from the floor and have firm pressure. The ammeter gage should indicate no more than 3/4 charge when driving and, for steering, the car should travel straight without any sway or weave. The shock absorbers should be tested by driving over a normally rough road. A clanking noise indicates trouble.

While inside the car you should also check that the foot pedal pads are not badly worn out. The radio should be tested on more than one station. The heater and defroster should be turned on to see if they work properly, and all the windows should be tried to see if they open and close easily.

All the lights on the car, including the oft-forgotten stop and tail lights, should be checked. Also outside the car, the tires should be gone over carefully to make sure there are no bad cuts or uneven treads.

The body of the car should be free of rust, and smooth. Wavy panels on the side of the car usually indicate reworking after an accident.

Under the hood, there shouldn't be any excess grime or caked oil residue. The battery should be free of cracks and acid deposits. And, very important, the oil in the car when tested should be clear. Water bubbles in the oil can mean only one thing — big repair bills in the future.

If the next time you're in the market for a used car, you keep all these check-points in mind, it's a sure thing you won't end up with a lemon.

TABLE TOP-IX

The next time you have some friends in for lunch you might try serving them something that's as different as it is delicious. — Broiled Cheddar-Salmon Sandwiches. For four people you'll need:

- |                                    |                                     |
|------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1 half-pound can of salmon.        | 1 tablespoon pickle relish.         |
| 3 tablespoons mayonnaise.          | 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper. |
| 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion. | 4 slices cheddar cheese.            |
| 1 teaspoon lemon juice.            | 4 slices toasted bread.             |

Combine the drained salmon with the mayonnaise, chopped onion, chopped green pepper, lemon juice, pickle relish and mix lightly adding a few grains of salt. Spread about 1/3 cup mixture on each slice of toast and top with a slice of cheese. Broil until the cheese melts and is slightly browned.

"the spool yo-yo"

Children get a particular pleasure out of a toy that is especially made for them. Even if you're not real badly here is something you can easily make for them — "the spool yo-yo." Half the fun they'll get is out of watching and helping you make it.

To make "the spool yo-yo," take the biggest empty spool you have and saw off the ends. Sandpaper the cut sections to make sure they are perfectly smooth. Using the cut sections as the outside of the yo-yo, put a little glue in the holes and insert a 5/8-inch piece of dowel rod. If you don't have a dowel rod, a lollipop stick or any round piece of wood that will fit snugly into the spool holes will do.

Next take a strong string about a yard long, and glue one end of it to the dowel. Don't wind the rest of the string around the dowel until the glue has thoroughly dried.

If either you or the children want to do so, you can paint the sides of "the spool yo-yo" before assembling it. If you do paint it, however, you should finish it off with a couple of coats of clear shellac.

on the GLAMOUR FRONT

by Eleanor Kerrigan

The beauty-wise girl makes the most of her eyes because she knows her eyes do the most for her. Obviously only the proper rest and good health will keep the sparkle in them but there are many glamour tips to help you to bring out all their hidden loveliness.

When you apply eye shadow start at the lash roots and go up to the corner of the lid. Although blue is the biggest seller in eye shadow, brown or gray look more natural. If you have dark circles under your eyes use a cover stick to mask them. Apply powder freely on top of this. The less tint in the powder the better.

To highlight the shape of your eyes, outline them at the lash roots with a soft black eyebrow pencil. And when doing your lashes make sure you coat them on top as well as brushing up from below.

With the proper make-up, you can do all these things to and for your eyes and still keep them natural-looking. The time you spend will be worth it. Everyone will say, "The eyes have it!"

RATE YOUR I.Q.

Who has the better vocabulary — man or woman? Off hand the odds would favor the woman who usually gets in the last word. In the quiz we've rigged up, however, the important thing isn't the last word but the right word. Listed below you'll find sets of unassociated words which have a common synonym which you have to supply. For example under number one you'll find: Defraud—Magic. To have answered this correctly you'd have written Trick as the common synonym for these two different meaning words. Now call in your name or date and put your brains to work. To make it official, after you've written down all your answers, swap papers with your opponent so you can check each other's answers which are printed upside down at the end of the quiz. Here's hoping your word is best.

1. DEFAUD — MAGIC
2. HELP — REVERSE
3. ATTRACT — SKETCH
4. JOURNEY — STUMBLE
5. FRUIT — ENGAGEMENT
6. TOY — STREET

Army Okehs Promotions For 52,121

WASHINGTON (APPS) — The Army has authorized more than 52,000 promotions to grades above E-3 and a stipend for privates E-2 as they reach eight months' service during the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1957.

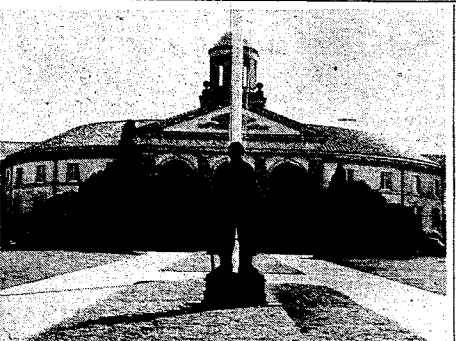

The quotas by grade are: E-7, 101, 84, 153; E-6, 8,701; E-5, 45,168; for a total of 52,121.

For October, November and December, major commands have been authorized to promote all privates E-2 who reach eight months' service on the first day of the month in which they are considered for advancement and who are recommended by their immediate commanders.

Appointments to the top three grades will not be made in any of the following MOS's: 073, 421, 531, 533, 532, 714, 719, 762, 763, 764, 767, 773, 941, 942, 943, 951, and 952.

In addition no promotions will be effected in the following grades and MOS's:

To pay grade E-7: 324, 633, 713, 716, 763, 768; To pay grade E-6: 631, 633, 643, 715, 716, 768; To pay grade E-5: 324, 631, 643, 768.

NEW LOOK... Silhouette of the "Doughboy" statue now appears in front of the Infantry School Building. This is one of several sites being considered for the permanent location of the statue which will arrive from Germany this fall. Fort Benning personnel are encouraged to offer their suggestions for the permanent location of the statue. Suggestions will be appreciated and should be forwarded to the Information Officer, USAIC, not later than Nov. 5. For a view of the statue atop the Infantry School Building see The Bayonet of Sept. 12.

Winter Wear Comes Out Of Moth Balls on Friday

Fort Benning will take on a different look tomorrow as personnel don winter wear. Many Fort Benning officers and warrant officers will be sporting the new green and blue Army uniforms. Certain officers and warrant officers will not be required to wear the new uniform. Department of the Army announced last week.

Buyers Warned Check Warranty On New Uniforms

WASHINGTON (APPS) — The Army has again cautioned officers and enlisted men against buying Green and Dress Blue uniforms which do not carry warranty labels.

Controls in effect since Sept. 16, as established by AR 700-16, as a specialty that firms manufacturing the new uniforms for sale through commercial outlets must submit samples to the Army Uniform Quality Control Board to obtain certification that materials used meet Army standards.

Under this regulation the responsibility for determining that uniforms carry the warranty label rests with the individual.

Commanding officers both in the States and outside the US are required to insure that their controlled list uniforms items bought after Sept. 16, are worn unless they are properly labeled.

In the event such items later are found to be off-color or inferior to comparable garments in OQT stores, military personnel are encouraged to submit their purchases to the Army Uniform Quality Control Office, Natick, Mass., or to an overseas control office for examination.

If an article is determined by the board to be non-regulation, the buyer will be notified so.

Post Plans For Parade' Champions Will March In YAC Festival Nov. 9

Fort Benning's potential champions will be on parade during the Youth Activities Club festival at Lawson Army Air Field Nov. 9.

The "Parade of Champions" Day to be planned as a full day of entertainment, competition and awards for all Fort Benning personnel, both military and civilian. The general public also is invited to attend. Activities for all ages and interests throughout the day have been planned.

Highlight of the event will be the awarding of special trophies to the best military unit on post and to the outstanding individual soldier. Competition in soldiering among the units and individuals is already in progress. Selection of the winners will be based on cumulative points for all phases of competitive military performance.

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of The Army Infantry Center, will present the trophies to the champions at the closing evening program. The best unit, company size, will receive the commanding general's trophy to be kept permanently. The gala carnival program will open between 9 a.m. and 11 p.m. and continue until 11 p.m. It will be held in the hangar area of Lawson Field. A gay booth-lined midway will Please See Parade, Page 2

New School Brigade Commander

Col. Hoebeke Named Brigade Commander

Col. Adrian Hoebeke has assumed command of the School Brigade, following the retirement of Col. Carl F. Klink.

Col. Hoebeke, who has been deputy commander of the Brigade since July, 1956, was named following a review in honor of Col. Klink on French Field Saturday.

A 1933 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., Col. Hoebeke served in various command posts in the Fourth Infantry Regiment at Fort Lincoln, N. D., from academy graduation until 1936. For the next two years, he held other company officer jobs with the 56th Infantry Regiment in Puerto Rico.

Col. Hoebeke attended the regular course at the Infantry School in 1938, and stayed to command a company of the 56th Infantry Regiment for two years.

During World War II he commanded an officer battalion at Fort Benning, attended the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., commanded the 17th Infantry Battalion, attached the Army-Navy Staff College, and was second-in-command of the 2nd Regiment of the 2nd Infantry Division in Japan. From January, 1946, to July, 1947, he served as executive officer of the G-1 section, AFMTC, Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Advance Planners Survey New Home for 10th Div.

Col. C. J. Van Sickle, chief of staff, and an Advance Planning Group of officers and two master sergeants, all of the 10th Infantry Division, arrived at Fort Benning Monday, Oct. 19 after a mechanical trouble delayed them for two days at Brestwood, England, and again at Keflavik, Iceland.

Greeted at Lawson Army Air Field by Brig. Gen. John B. Leary, assistant "Marine" commander, and Capt. Stanley Larsen assistant commander of the Infantry Center, and Third Division unit commanders and staff officers, the Plans Group were introduced to an organization of 10th Infantry Division personnel to bring them for a light schedule before returning to Germany Oct. 19 after a mechanical trouble delayed them for two days at Brestwood, England, and again at Keflavik, Iceland.

Col. Van Sickle said at planside, "I represent every staff and major unit in the 10th Division. We will be here for the next two weeks, working closely with our counterparts in the Third Division to effect the new home for the 10th Division." Prior to leaving for Korea, Col. Hoebeke was senior adviser to the new Korean National Defense College. He was instrumental in developing the organization and curriculum of the college before returning to the United States and his command here at the Infantry School.

The 10th Infantry Division will be reactivated at Fort Benning, Ga., in the next two weeks. Plans for the 10th Division will be completed by the end of the month. Plans for the 10th Division will be completed by the end of the month.

'Water Over Dam' Saves On Fuel Budget in Alaska

PORT RICHARDSON, Alaska—“Water over the dam” this summer was money in the pocket of the American taxpayer to the tune of about $300 weekly, thanks to the penny-pinching ways of Army engineers here.

When they learned that the Bureau of Reclamation's Alutia power plant had “slump power” it gave them the idea which resulted in the drawing up of a contract between the Army and the Bureau.

Dump power resulted when excess water over the dam forced the Elklutna plant in summer fuel costs.

to produce power beyond normal consumption demands.

Fort Richardson's electricity is produced by steam turbines powered through the fort's central heating facilities. Use of the turbines during the summer months, when heat requirements are low, raised electricity production costs.

So the Army contracted in mid-May to buy power from the dam for six months of the year at a rate less than it could produce it. This saved the Army $2870 a week.

NCO OF MONTH . . . SFC Earnest W. Pennington, Ft. G. & H. Company, 151st Engineer Group has been named NCO of the Month. Sgt. Pennington is Food Service supervisor for the group.

U. N. Anniversary

Today is the 12th anniversary of the United Nations.

Having begun with 51 member nations, the United Nations today has 81 participating members, the latest to join being Ghana, the world's newest nation, which became a participant 48 hours after it came into being. Japan, latest country to join the United Nations prior to Ghana, was only this month elected to the Security Council, which comprises 60 of the total members.

Under the aegis of the blue and white UN Flag, 6,000 men from 10 nations brought relative quiet back to the shaky Suez Canal area this past summer, as soldiers of the first truly International Force in history.

Described by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld as "soldiers of peace," these men of the United Nations Emergency Force were told "not to fight a war, but to serve peace and justice and order under the authority of the United Nations."

President's Proclamation

WHEREAS the United States of America is one of the founders of the United Nations and has consistently supported it in its unceasing quest for a durable peace based upon freedom and justice; and

WHEREAS the devotion of the people of the United States to the principles of the United Nations Charter is the expression of a faith deeply rooted in American cultural, political, and spiritual convictions; and

WHEREAS the United States considers that further development of the processes of the United Nations will enable it to promote justice under international law with increased effectiveness; and

WHEREAS world opinion in support of international morality, law, and order has helped to make the United Nations a constructive force for the development of a stable, prosperous, and peaceful world; and

WHEREAS the United Nations has been instrumental in preventing open conflict between nations by offering its machinery for conciliation, negotiation, and pacific settlement; and

WHEREAS the United Nations, in cooperation with the Specialized Agencies, has been helping to create the basic conditions for peace by encouraging greater production of food, better health, higher standards of living, and greater educational opportunities; and

WHEREAS the General Assembly of the United Nations has resolved that October 24, the anniversary of the coming into force of the United Nations Charter, should be dedicated each year to making known the purposes, principles, and accomplishments of the United Nations;

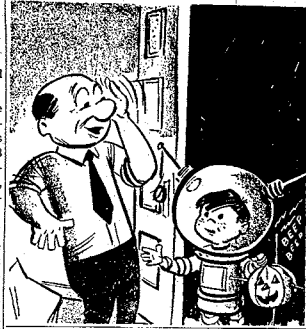

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby urge the citizens of this Nation to observe Thursday, October 24, 1957, as United Nations Day by means of community programs which will demonstrate their faith in, and support of, the United Nations and will contribute to a better understanding of its accomplishments and of the hopes that inspired its founders.

I also call upon the officials of the Federal and State Governments and upon local officials to encourage citizen groups and agencies of the press, radio, television, and motion pictures, as well as all citizens, to engage in appropriate observance of United Nations Day throughout our country in cooperation with the United States Committee for the United Nations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Macmillan to Confer With Eisenhower

LONDON — Prime Minister Macmillan will announce the resumption of wartime cooperation between British and American officials and engineers in the light of his talks with President Eisenhower in Washington this week.

The Prime Minister and his cabinet are convinced, according to authoritative sources said, that it is point after point necessary for the United States to stay ahead in the field of nuclear weapons and to overcome the Soviet Union in the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Soviet Union's success in launching an earth satellite and firing long-range rockets into the sky has prompted a warning that the United States must not allow its individual nuclear developments to be overtaken by the inevitable duplication of effort.

The progress made by the two countries in their joint approach to the development of guided missiles has proved, these sources said, that the scientific body in each country has something to contribute and that the field cooperation should be widened to include nuclear weapons. This would involve revision of the United States Atomic Energy Act.

POOL RESOURCES WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower plans to propose to British Prime Minister Macmillan this week pooling the scientific resources of the Western Allies. He will do this in a letter to Macmillan in which he will state that the United States has a clear superiority over Russia in all phases of weapons development.

It was learned on excellent authority today after Eisenhower had publicly expressed confidence in the officials of the Federal and State Governments and upon local officials to encourage citizen groups and agencies of the press, radio, television, and motion pictures, as well as all citizens, to engage in appropriate observance of United Nations Day throughout our country in cooperation with the United States Committee for the United Nations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Daniel's Life Is Model For Man

BY CHAPLAIN (L. L.) WILLIAM R. FLOYD Almost everyone wants to be "successful." Most people would like to maintain high moral standards and uphold principles in all their dealings. Some people think it is impossible to do both in this complex, materialistic, crazy mixed-up world of ours.

This is no new problem peculiar to 20th century America, but was the problem of Daniel the Prophet almost 2,600 years ago. After Judah was conquered by mighty Babylon, Daniel was captured and given a scholarship to the "King's University" in Babylon. It was expected that he would conform and in every way to the standards set for him, even when this conformity meant giving up his moral standards and violating the law of Jehovah.

It would seem that Daniel never had from a conquered nation, must either compromise with his religious principles or else fall to become a "success" in Babylon. Yet he was successful and faithful because of three factors.

First, as he faced temptation, he refused to be defiled by things that concern us today. "But we have the power," he said. "The only thing to do is to put it together."

The second factor Macmillan conference began Wednesday and continues through Friday. It is certain that the conference will end with a decision in favor of pooling scientific resources.

It also appears certain that the conference will follow the lead of the high-level talks with other members of the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization on how to set up new machinery to accomplish the purpose.

The Judge Says . . .

Do you have any idea how much it costs Uncle Sam each time a person commits an offense while in service, and is subsequently tried by court-martial?

A survey was conducted in 1955 of a typical case by special court-martial. It all began when Joe decided to use his buddy's blankets to finance a short trip for himself to Tokyo.

What made it worse is that he took all three of his buddy's blankets along with a duffle bag. Now, it gets mighty hot at night in the Northern Section of Japan, and it isn't hard to imagine the reaction of the man who has to try to sleep without blankets in zero weather.

The investigation revealed that Joe had a date with a girl which was the first since he was broke decided that probably blankets should be a fair price for the amount of year. Be that as it may, Joe never had a chance to sell the blankets or the money he had earned. Criminal Investigation cost $5,185.11. Preferring court-martial charges against Joe for the offense, pressing the charges and trying the case by special court-martial cost $7,231.

Joe as found guilty as charged and sentenced to confinement at hard labor for 12 months and to forfeit $500 for six months. The sentence was approved by the reviewing authority and the order executed. Cost of maintaining Joe in prisoner (U.S. Government) for six months totaled $2,316.40.

Total cost of the government was $2,412.

In Army Linguo 'It's No Sweat,' Say A-Bomb Test Vets

PORT LEWIS, Wash. — "In no way," being in the vicinity of an A-bomb blast is "no sweat" anyway, not much. That's the word going around the Fourth Infantry Division here on the 3500 of some men who should know—informed by the First Battle Group who have returned to base after five weeks at Camp Desert Rock, Nev., observing the recent series of nuclear detonations.

"It was pretty used to being on the spot when the big one 'Smoky' went off," says Private James Sanders of Tulsa, Okla. "I'd already seen other boys and I wasn't worried at all."

Private John E. Broussard of New Iberia, La., attained impressive heights of calm by doing off white work for Smoky after zero-hour was delayed 30 minutes. He was awakened by the thunderous roar of the bomb's afterburner.

In the charming "Suite Bergameuse" completed in 1952, G. Sharp, admits having been a bit nervous about his big tests, but "had confidence the Army had figured all the safety angles."

"Probably the one thing that surprised the onlookers most was the force of the blast," says one of the veterans. "The music of each early French composer as Copernic and Rameau. The best known section of the music of each early French composer as Copernic and Rameau. The best known section of the music of each early French composer as Copernic and Rameau."

Fillar of Cloud by Jackson Burgess, (Pulitzer, 1937). Set in 1858 this Western is a story of young Garza Cooper who set out from Kansas to cross the prairies. The journey to the west, undertaken by a poorly prepared group of people, was made hazardous by lack of water, prairie fires, and feuds among the Indians and members of the party in their ruins. It includes: Retirees from the Armed Forces prepared by a committee of retired Army, Navy and Air Force officers. (Military Service, 1937).

The subtitle makes the claim that this is "complete and reliable information for those who have retired or some day will retire from the Service. Medical, scientific, and technical advice from retired officers, where to live; getting a job; hobbies, savings and interest; launches it and lands; retirement for professional and general professions for military retirement.

The first of six pieces that form the "Children's Corner Suite" was composed in 1906. The last in 1908. The work as a whole is dedicated to the composer's five-year-old daughter Claude-Emma. The most famous section of the Suite is the "Gullivew's Cakewalk." The melody is something Debussy suggested to have heard played by the Grandeur Gardens in London.

In the charming "Suite Bergameuse" completed in 1952, G. Sharp, admits having been a bit nervous about his big tests, but "had confidence the Army had figured all the safety angles."

'Copters Bend to Need in Combat

The U. S. Army Infantry School, as directed by Continental Army Command, has conducted airborne tests with helicopters and prepared information for use in training selected personnel to plan and execute air transported reconnaissance patrols in exercise "All American" at Fort Bragg, N.C. during December.

In April, 1955, USAIS developed and conducted a series of tests to determine effective methods for the employment of helicopter transported reconnaissance patrols in enemy rear areas. Results of these tests show that helicopterborne operations behind enemy-lines are feasible.

These tests show that numerous deficiencies exist in helicopters and pilot techniques for transporting patrols and equipment by Army aircraft. Infantry School tests were conducted through the use of a series of controlled exercises. Aggressor forces utilized varied, also units, ranging from four-man patrols to an infantry battalion. The exercises consisted of helicopter penetration of enemy forward areas, flying and landing helicopterborne patrols in enemy rear areas, concealing helicopterborne reconnaissance patrols, and employing air control teams in conjunction with air transported reconnaissance patrols.

Helicopter pilots must be highly-trained in navigating at low level during day and night, and must be skilled in techniques of evasion of fire and observation, and in flight deception.

To penetrate enemy forward defensive areas, test reports show, flight routes over terrain which affords minimum cover and concealment must be selected. Enemy fire should be suppressed by placing a 11 types of friendly fires on known and suspected enemy positions along the flight route of the helicopterborne patrol. Close air support may also be utilized.

Since it is essential that aircraft be exposed for a minimum time over the objective area, the desirable formation to be used is one which requires all aircraft to fly relatively close together. This eliminates the capability for the enemy once alerted, to fire on other aircraft. At night or during periods of limited visibility, spacing between aircraft is desirable for safe control.

Aggressor ground personnel Night flying helicopters provide that, under perfect conditions, the pilot can identify landmarks from altitudes of 200 to 300 feet, locate trees, shrubbery and other obstacles on the landing site from the air without difficulty. They also can set down, land or take off without lights.

Although air transported units can sweep troops into areas where atomic weapons have been used.

Army to Evaluate Talos Defense Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Talos Defense Unit, a new land-based version of the Navy's shipboard surface-to-air missile, has been turned over to the Army for evaluation at the White Sands, N.M., Proving Grounds.

Linked to one of the largest and most comprehensive electronic systems ever devised to fire guided missiles, the Talos is equipped with a deadly accurate "mechanical brain." It can travel at supersonic speeds to altitudes higher than a F-105 known bomber can reach and deliver either a high explosive or nuclear warhead.

The land-based unit marks the successful conclusion of two years of work by Army, Navy and Air Force experts cooperating with industry engineers to adapt the anti-aircraft missile to ground defenses.

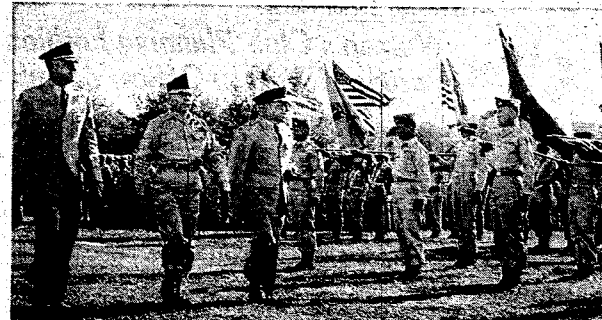

Named for a mythological Greek man of brass who guarded the island of Crete, the 2,000 pound Talos is a thin cylinder 20 feet long, about 30 inches in diameter and is powered by a ramjet engine that attains 40,000 hp.

Knocking a drone bomber from the sky from a distance of 25 miles in highly successful initial tests in 1956, the shipboard Talos system now is being installed on the light cruiser Galveston and other cruisers undergoing conversion.

It is expected that the Talos will be in service by 1960.

Herbert B. Powell, Fort Benning commander; Lt. Col. James L. Bryon, commander of First Student Battalion, School Brigade, and Col. Kinck.

Colonel Kinck Given Citation at Ceremony

A citation signed by Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker highlighted a retirement ceremony Oct. 19 for Col. Earl F. Kinck, former commander of Fort Benning's School Brigade.

Approximately 1,200 men massed on French Field to witness Col. Kinck's receiving a Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant from Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commander of the Infantry School.

Commander of about 2,000 men, Col. Kinck had the responsibility of supervising the feeding of the thousands of students who attend The Infantry School annually.

The citation signed by both Secretary Brucker and Gen. Powell commended Col. Kinck for his leadership and loyalty in the School Brigade since February, 1955. It reads:

"Col. Kinck's attention to duty, initiative and energy together with his discerning judgment and organizational ability contributed materially—not only to the sustained superior method by which the School Brigade executed its mission—but also to the successful visits of the many high-ranking national groups which were supported by the School Brigade. The knowledge of his job assignment and his cheerful and willing attitude were highly contributory in establishing good will between the military, our Allies and our civilian leaders. His unselfish devotion to duty, loyalty and his conscientious efforts are in accordance with the highest traditions of the service and reflect great credit upon himself, the School Brigade, the United States Army Infantry Center and the Officers Corps of the United States Army.

Col. Kinck received his commission under the ROTC program from Denison University in 1932. He was integrated into the Regular Army in the rank of major in 1946.

He participated in the North ern France, Ardennes and Central Europe campaigns of World War II. He was taken prisoner during the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944, and liberated in May, 1945.

His decorations include the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman Badge.

He will join the Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., in Dallas, Texas, as staff assistant to the chief of the Engineering Administrative and Procedures Section in the Engineering Department.

Woman's Club Planning Fashion Parade Nov. 6 in Officer's Club

The Fort Benning Woman's Club is planning a Fall and Winter Fashion parade for the Nov. 6 meeting in the Main Officers Club.

Mrs. E. D. Fitzpatrick, Program chairman for the Women's Club, announced that there will be two fashions shows this year, the one in November and another in the spring. Mrs. James K. Smith is co-chairman. Mrs. A. Roberts, Mrs. K. C. Crawford, and Mrs. W. W. Roberts are the members of the program committee.

Most of the clothes to be shown were especially purchased in New York by a leading department store in Columbus.

All of the models were trained by Mrs. W. W. Roberts, fashion coordinator, who is widely experienced in fashion and modeling. Mrs. Roberts comes to the Columbus area from Washington, D. C., where she was fashion coordinator.

Mrs. Willis H. Pearson, Mrs. Robert D. Bentley, Mrs. Chevalier Lee, Mrs. William G. Barret, Mrs. Dwight L. Adams, Mrs. Clyde Smith, Mrs. A. L. Handley, Mrs. Alfred E. Coffey and Mrs. August A. Diemlers, who were the models for the March of Fashion Show last year, will again model the ensembles for the November parade.

The program will begin with morning luncheon and afternoon ensembles, continue through luncheon and afternoon styles and conclude with evening ensembles as well as fashions for the Holiday Season.

A luncheon slated for the 10th of the month will be the Infantry School's basic officer classes Oct. 14 in the Main Officers Mess at Fort Benning.

Army Legal Problems Aid Law Students

Sgt. John R. Robinson and Pfc. Norman L. Snow are two prospective lawyers who are handling the duties of the courts and board section in the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry.

The many cases and problems that are handled by the clerks will help them when they receive their law degrees in the future. Pfc. Snow graduated with an AB degree in economics from Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y. in 1956. He is a native of Langhorne, Pa., and plans to enter Law School upon completion of his present tour of active duty. He has been working in the legal office since December, 1957.

re-enter upon completion of active service.

Major Alford S. Lampe, Adjutant of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, is the acting legal officer. Sgt. Robinson and Pfc. Snow act as court reporters and set up the courts. They handle summary and special court matters as well as board actions. The two clerks notify court members and arrange for counsel for the Government and the accused.

The legal office of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, is equipped with a legal library, both military law and civil law, comparable to any units its size. The library is always open for any one who has a legal problem.

Skilled EM Benefit Proficiency Program Gets Okeh For Grades E-3 Through E-6

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Proficiency advancements, designed to retain entitled personnel in critical skills, have been authorized for grades E-3 through E-6 early in 1958, according to the Defense Department.

The proficiency plan is an adaptation within limits of present law of the Cordier Committee's long-range recommendations for meeting the military manpower needs of the Armed Forces.

The advancements, equivalent to a one or two pay grade increase, will be restricted to approximately 15 per cent of the total enlisted strength in specialties where shortages of qualified personnel exist.

Phasing toward the maximum 15 per cent under the program will extend over a period of at least four years.

Service men drawing proficiency pay will be authorized to complete retirement on the basis of these grades as though the higher grades were obtained through normal promotion. No proficiency advancement will be limited to one grade step up.

The Secretary of Defense periodically will add to the number of personnel authorized to hold proficiency advances with the services determining the number and grade levels, subject to his approval, in which they will be awarded. These allocations will be reviewed every three months.

According to the directive, the proficiency advances will be employed primarily in military occupational areas where the problem of retention of trained personnel is critical and investment in training is high and where as a result, a significant shortage of qualified personnel exists, or is anticipated.

Merit advancements will require a demonstrated level of skill or outstanding effectiveness in the specialty in which they are awarded. The Defense Department said, and will be contingent upon periodic checks to insure the degree of proficiency or efficiency is maintained.

Failure to retain the necessary effectiveness will result in loss of the advance.

Conversion or reclassification to a different specialty, detail to a duty not requiring exercise of the skill, and promotion in military rank also may serve to revoke a proficiency advancement.

Although proficiency increases are granted prior to a declaration of war will continue to be paid until promoted to a higher rank, no such advancements will be made during a national emergency.

Individuals also must have completed 24 months active duty prior to an advancement and must serve a minimum of six months in a grade, including that attained by a proficiency program.

Under the present pay structure, members of the Armed Forces in grade E-6 will be limited to one grade step up.

Under Reserve Program RIFs May Qualify For Retirement Pay

WASHINGTON (ANS)—Reserve Officers being released through the current reduction in force may still qualify for retirement under the Reserve Program, Department of Army has advised.

Urging RIF personnel interested in continuing in the Reserve to apply directly to the Chief of their home Military District as soon as possible, a spokesman said.

"A Reserve Officer with less than 20 years service will find it greatly to his advantage to continue to earn a minimum of 50 retirement points each year to qualify for retirement pay under Title 10, U.S.C., Sections 1331-1377.

Retirement points are awarded for active duty training, reserve duty training, and preparation of instructor's materials. Points are also awarded for giving instruction to any component of the Armed Forces, to ROTC students, to appropriate groups of civilians and to members of the Civil Air Patrol. Also, points are given for participation as a member of the Military Affiliate Radio System, and other methods as authorized by AR 140-20 and AR 135-150.

These two regulations outline not only the ways of earning retirement points but also the requirements and procedures for retirement benefits. Under them, a Reservist is eligible (with certain exceptions) for retired pay at age 60 if he has completed 20 years of combined active duty and substituted Reserve service, and if the last eight years of his qualifying service was in a Reserve component. (Reserve officers on active duty are considered members of a Reserve component for this purpose.)

Completion of a satisfactory year of Reserve service for retirement purposes requires the earning of a minimum of 50 retirement points.

"A Reservist is automatically granted 10 points for membership in the Reserve, and this is only required to actuality earn 38 during the year," the spokesman explained.

"There are many ways to earn retirement points no matter where a Reservist lives or the extent of Army Reserve activity in his community," he added.

In Mimeograph-Multilith Class

Medical Bystander Presented Top Newspaper Award by DA

The Medical Bystander, an authorized newspaper of the 54th Medical Group, recently received the semi-annual Distinguished Army Newspaper award for the period January 1 through June 30, 1957. In winning this award, the Bystander shared top honors with two other newspapers in the mimeograph-multilith class, of which there are an estimated 500 papers circulating through the Army.

The eight-page, mimeographed, bi-weekly newspaper made its debut on May 15, 1956. Now less than a year and a half since its introduction the Bystander has been recognized as one of the best Army newspapers of its type.

The Bystander is the result of Group Commander Col. Harry C. McClain's desire to have the men in his command better informed. Experimenting first with the value of such a newspaper in his previous command, Col. McClain initiated the Bystander to benefit the personnel of the 54th Medical Group in the same way. Capt. Donald Smith, Group adjutant, was appointed officer-in-charge of the project, a position he still holds.

The first issues were turned out on borrowed mimeograph machines and with inexperienced part-time staff members. Thereafter, appearance and news-worthiness of the paper went up steadily. At the same time, however, the paper's basic virtues were sound enough to enable it to survive its beginnings.

Soon a full-time staff was formed, allocations were arranged from Central Post Funds for purchasing artwork, supplies, and the Bystander began steadily improving. Most of the developments in journalistic style, layout, art work, reproduction, and the gathering of news worthy copy came about as a result of trial and error. Once the recipient of the award, the Bystander was turned to organizing a team of reporters in each of the Group's six units. Through trial and error such regular features as sports specials and personality sketches were adopted.

The present editor-in-chief of the Bystander, Sgt. Ed Brice, took the helm in March, 1957.

Draft to Get 7,000 Between Dec. 1-12

(WASHINGTON (APPS))—The Defense Department, for the third consecutive month, has asked Selective Service to induct 7,000 men for the Army in December.

Draft officials also have been asked to provide the selectees between Dec. 1 and 12 to avoid the necessity for men to leave their homes and report for induction just before Christmas and during the year-end holiday season.

The other services do not intend to place calls for draftees during December.

'Scarcely Any Difference' Canadian Airborne Instructor Now Parachuting at Benning

BY MILLENT C. SCUDDER
A resolute young Canadian who has earned a commission from the ranks in both his country's Air Force and Army is the first instructor from Canada's Airborne School to take parachute training at Fort Benning's Infantry School. First Lt. Frank Poole, of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, is attending the school's jumpmaster course after receiving his U. S. Army parachute badge in airborne class No. 4 last Friday Oct. 19.

Fifty jumps ago—in March, 1953—he won Canadian parachute wings at the Airborne School of the Joint Air Training Center in Rivers Camp, Manitoba. Poole will leave the school to resume his duties as an instructor at the school Oct. 26.

"Our thinking is so much alike that Infantry School paratroopers could fit right into our school with scarcely any one knowing the difference," Lt. Poole commented on similarities between U. S. and Canadian airborne training.

"One cannot avoid being impressed that the spirit and ingenuity of a few of our instructors here are similar to those of our own instructors on Cape Breton Island in Canada's 'New Scotland' with air cadets.

During his next job, a position in the Treasury of the Department of Transport in Ottawa, Poole existed as a Reservist in the Foot Guards in London, England, he was commissioned an Army Reserve lieutenant and attended the Canadian School of Infantry at Camp Gordon, Ontario, for six months.

Volunteering for 18 months' active duty at the outbreak of the Korean conflict, Lt.

Lt. Bryan Becomes Expert With Plants

Lt. Thomas F. Bryan, executive officer Company A, 2d Battle Group, 16th Infantry, has become a specialist in the field of ornamental horticulture—the art and science of fruits, flowers, and vegetables.

While working in the experimental field, Lt. Bryan did considerable work with turf grass to improve its use on lawns and golf courses. He also did some landscaping and designing of lawns. While designing which is becoming more of a fad in the gardening circle. Last June, Lt. Bryan reentered the service and received his regular army commission being assigned to the 26th Infantry at Camp Bragg, where he was assigned to the 26th Infantry. Lt. Bryan was one of the 20,000 ap-

Food Instructor Receives Achievement Certificate

MSGT. Clement L. Petty of Douglas, Ga., a senior graduate instructor at the Third Infantry School at Fort Benning, has been awarded a Certificate of Achievement from the Third Infantry Division. The certificate was presented to Sgt. Petty for meritorious services as mess steward of the Third Tank Battalion, Third Infantry Division, from January, 1956, to July, 1957. Capt. Paul V. Gee of Forest City, N. C., assistant commander of the Food Services School, made the presentation on behalf of Major Maurice L. Smith of Kansas City, Mo., former Lucile Garbett of Douglas, Mo., who was the commanding officer of the school.

Sgt. Petty served as mess steward of the Third Tank Battalion in the absence of an assigned officer. During that time the battalion conducted annual tests, received a Letter of Commendation, and was assigned 440 basic trainees. "He has worked untiringly to maintain the highest standards of performance by the messes under his supervision and has displayed a degree of professional competency and devotion to duty far in excess of that normally required of a mess steward," the citation stated.

Sgt. Petty entered the Army in 1941 and served with the 518th Anti-Aircraft Artillery in the European campaigns during World War II. After returning to the U. S. he was assigned as a mess steward with the

Alabama Educator Says Caring for Pupil Differences Most Difficult School Problem

The most difficult problem in the classroom is adjusting the curriculum to care for individual differences. Theo Dalton, chairman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute Board of Education, said during a recent visit to Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association at its October meeting in Faith School.

Speaking on "Goals for the Good Elementary School," Dr. Dalton stressed the need for effective citizenship in helping each child mature in all phases of growth—physical, mental, social, cultural and emotional.

"The child acts as a total person in any situation and school cannot deal with one aspect without touching all phases of his development," the speaker pointed out.

"One of the most important goals of education is preparation for adult life. We must think in terms of abundant living for our children, which will result in their highest level of growth," Dr. Dalton said.

He added that "the growing child of today will not only be a citizen of his community but a citizen in a closely related world, which is ever changing as a result of its own efforts and blunders. The modern school should help children do critical thinking and to mature in weighing values."

Discussing discipline, Dr. Dalton said the remedial type sometimes is needed but emphasized the importance of wise guidance for preventive discipline.

"Discipline is as modern and up-to-date as jet planes. Enforce it so that children are fair and kind to each other, have a respect for property, obey promptly and do the right thing even when there is no one present to command," Dr. Dalton said.

The Alabama educator brought out that self-discipline will enable boys and girls to learn to solve problems intelligently.

"By working toward self-discipline the fundamental skills are very important. You must not continue to interest on the three R's," he said.

"The good elementary school teaches the fundamentals, together with such attitudes, abilities and skills as are required for effective citizenship in a developing society. The school is a laboratory of living and learning to be operated according to the best that is known in democratic processes," Dr. Dalton said.

"Our schools must exercise the creative aspect of teaching to develop reflective thinking on the part of the boys and girls. We need teachers, principals and superintendents with vision. They share the responsibility of helping the child attain his highest level of growth," the speaker added.

Dr. Dalton advised parents, "You must not look at the report card as telling the whole story of what your child is doing in school. He pleased when he makes progress in keeping with his potentialities. See his potentialities in different ways—not just academically."

Col. William E. Ekman, P-TA president, announced that the Fort Benning P-TA's membership drive will end Nov. 5. Twelve prizes will be awarded to the first homerooms in each school to achieve 100 per cent P-TA membership.

Chaplain (1st Lt.) Murray I. Prerer, Infantry Center Chaplain Section, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Post Small Arms School Commended

A letter from Lt. Gen. (ret.) Floyd J. Parks, chief of staff of the National Rifle Association of America, was recently received by Major General Herbert B. Powell, chief of the Infantry School, commending Fort Benning personnel on their job of conducting the Small Arms Firing School at the 1957 National Matches.

The letter said: "The 1957 National Matches were not only the largest conducted for many years, but undoubtedly the most efficient and most efficient. Enrollment in the Small Arms Firing School totaled over 2,000 students. Once again, the personnel and course in these schools was outstanding. The National Matches benefited directly from the high caliber of instruction, thousands of others throughout the entire country will become better marksmen as a result of the fine techniques of instruction carried back to the communities of those who attended."

On behalf of the National Rifle Association, I want to express our appreciation and commend the fine group of officers and men from your command who so ably conducted the Small Arms Firing School at the 1957 National Matches. Lt. Col. John H. Chambers, chairman of the Infantry School's Special Purpose Weapons Committee, was the small arms instructor for the Small Arms Firing School.

Marne Division Football Divarty Routs Rockets 56-6; 7,000 See Game

By DAVID ROTENBERG

Third Division's griffin powerhouse, Division Artillery, rallied to a 56-6 win over the previously unbeaten 3000 Infantry Rockets before 7,000 stunned fans at Doughboy Stadium Saturday afternoon. The game was the first of the season, with the Rockets leading 6-0 at the end of the first quarter. Divarty accumulated 400 yards from scrimmage, 289 on the ground and 177 in the air. Blakeney and Stewart both gained over 100 yards apiece, carrying the pigskin for 112 and 101 respectively. Hanson passed successfully six times in ten attempts for line.

Quarterback Gene Hanson passed for three touchdowns in the first half and ran for two more in the fourth in leading his club to victory. But it was not Hanson alone, who provoked the outmanned Rocket Fort Jackson, S.C. and Fort Benning met in the field house for drawing and pairings. There are 14 entries in badminton singles and five in doubles tennis.

No Nickname, ISTC Says; Asks for One

The Infantry School Troop Command is a rarity in sports—ISTC is a team without an official nickname.

Unofficially the squad has been referred to as the Golden Dragons, the Dragon Commanders, and the Green Wave. ISTC is currently holding a contest in which the selected title will replace those names which will reward a three-day pass will be awarded to the member of ISTC who submits the selected title. Eronous reference to the team as the ISTC Commanders, the 25th RIC Commanders, and the RIC was discontinued. Please See ISTC, Page 17.

151st Squeezes 7-6 Victory From STC

With approximately 15 seconds left in the final quarter, Charles Truax booted a perfect conversion to give the 151st Engineers a 7-6 verdict over Special Troops Command in the field Oct. 17.

Truax's placement followed a 25-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Bill Bauer which was grabbed by Truax in the end zone. Truax set the stage for the clinching play by intercepting an STC pass with one minute to play. Special Troops Command scored its lone touchdown in the early minutes of the second quarter. Quarterback John Collins passed 20 yards to John Ponder who made a spectacular catch in the end zone. Both teams penetrated the 20-yard line on numerous occasions but changing line play held each team's offense in check at crucial moments.

The 151st Engineers met defeat only once in the double elimination tournament. They arranged their loss to STC by a 14-0 score. Truax had the post game, was elected to head the file matches.

1st Lt. V. L. Bond will have the job of coordinating the file matches.

In winning the title the 151st defeated the 54th Medical, the 30th Brigade, and STC. Nine men will travel to Fort Stewart, Ga., for the third Army football tournament, Nov. 2-12.

HEADS FIRING CLUB... Col. Charles F. Leonard Jr., left, chief of staff for Third Infantry Division, congratulates 1st Lt. Col. John H. Chambers, who is the chairman of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club. Chambers, who is the chairman of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club, has been active with the club for several years.

Lt. Col. Chambers Named Rifle, Pistol Club Prexy

Lt. Col. John H. Chambers, chairman of the Infantry School's Special Purpose Weapons Committee, has succeeded Col. Charles F. Leonard Jr., chief of staff for Third Infantry Division as president of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club.

Col. Chambers has been an active member of the club for several years and is well known throughout the Army as a leader in his outstanding work in the marksmanship field.

1st Lt. V. L. Bond will have the job of coordinating the file matches.

Foreign Area Training Plan Mushrooming

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is encouraging qualified young officers desiring an alternate route to apply for enrollment in its four-year Foreign Area Training Program.

Often called FAST, the continually mushrooming program is being conducted in areas where the Russian, Chinese, Japanese, Greek, Turkish, Arabic, Persian, and Hindustani languages predominate.

Due to the great increase in the international picture by the U.S. Army officers who thoroughly understand the language, customs, geography, and social environment of the peoples of other nations are becoming more and more in demand.

Foreign Area Training is usually conducted at post graduate level with emphasis on linguistic fluency in the language of the area studied, an early oral proficiency. However, this program is designed to produce highly qualified area specialists rather than super-linguists.

The Army's complete Foreign Area Training may take as long as four years. The training is given at the Army Language School, certain civilian universities, and in the overseas area actually studied.

A former stellar football player for Oregon State College is now one of the mainstays on the School Brigade's Student Battalion Bulldogs. He is 2d Lt. Robert H. Buttgenbach, assigned to the Advanced Marksmanship Coaching and Sniping course held at Fort Benning under the supervision of the Rifle and Pistol Club.

Buttgenbach began his athletic career as a student at the Payette (Idaho) High School where he lettered on the varsity football team for four years and, for two years on the basketball team at center.

His graduation from high school, Buttgenbach enrolled in Oregon State College at Corvallis and was a member of the letterman at tackle and center.

He was the head of the National Matches Small Arms School at Camp Perry, Ohio, this year in which some 2,500 contestants received instruction on the rifle and pistol.

Approximately 120 members attended the annual barbeque Oct. 20 at the post club at which time the election of the new officers was held.

Army Firers Named As New Instructors

The Army's outstanding marksmanship program, which became the backbone of a pair of the country's most tried and true shooting championships during the recent National Matches, received an additional premium with the assignment of 10 rifle and pistol instructors to the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Training Center.

Among the recently assigned USAI personnel are three members of the championship National Trophy Pistol Team: W-Sgt. Roy Radloff, Sgt. Nelson H. Lincoln, and Pfc. Fred A. Grant.

Added to the rifle team are instructors were a pair of the young service rifle shooters, SP2 Martin I. Gunnarsson and SP2 David W. Jones.

Lt. Col. Thomas J. Sharpe, OIC of the Rifle Group, announced this week that one of the new arrivals to USAI, Capt. Paul H. Schultz, will act as Head Coach of the US Army International Rifle Team in the absence of Capt. John W. Kolb who is recovering from an automobile accident in Ft. Aitort, D. C.

ISTC

Thank You For Coasting: May, 1957, but the name lingers on to confuse ISTC with the Special Troops Command.

Because ISTC is divided into two battie groups, the 1st Battalion (Group of the 2nd Infantry) and the 2d BG of the 14th Infantry, the team has been cited as the Dragon Commanders.

High point in the confusion came with the labeling of ISTC as the Green Wave in their opener at Doughboy Stadium last month. The origin of that nickname lies in the wearing of green jerseys by the grid squad.

Maj. Orton, Former Rifle Squad Mentor, Retires

Major Roy Orton, former head coach of the U. S. Army Rifle Team, ended 22 years of military service Sept. 24 and will be retired from active duty at Fort Benning.

One of the Army's top-ranking competitive riflemen, Maj. Orton is making his home at 4421 Curry St. in Columbus with his wife Frances, and daughter, Hedy Dianne, 15, and plans to enter some phase of marksmanship at a future date. Major Orton's interest in shooting began in 1940 when he was selected to compete with the All Army Rifle Team at Camp Perry, Ohio, in the National Rifle Championships. Two years later he was selected to represent the Army in the 1942 National Rifle Championships.

Army Rifle, Pistol Teams Return to Fort Benning

The U.S. Army's top rifle and pistol teams have recently returned to their training sites at Fort Benning after showing their mastery over the Oklahoma State High Power Rifle and Park Police Pistol Matches in Washington, D. C.

With their capturing of top places in the National States combined with a big win over the shooters from the Canadian Infantry School, the Army riflemen topped the field in the Oklahoma watch winning nine out of 15 events.

Leading the 10-man rifle team was M-Sgt. Charles J. Finn of Dallas, Pa. who fired a 444 score out of possible 600 to win the individual aggregate championship, M-Sgt. Ja-

Bob Sveta of Fort Angeles Wash. took rammer loops around the earth every 98 minutes. Its sputtering, monotonous howls were picked up by Lt. Walter A. Ratcliff, 31st Trans. Co., (helicopter).

An amateur radio operator, Lt. Ratcliff first picked up signals from the Russian-made satellite while experimenting with a 20 megacycle radio band.

"I can pick up the signals any time quite easily," says Lt. Ratcliff.

Wilkins Filled ISTC's Hole At Fullback

Head Coach Franklin Brooks had a big problem. Joe Paulson, head-driving fullback of The Infantry School Troop Command squad, suffered a back injury while scrimmaging in practice for a clash with The School Brigade Rams. With the powerhouse Rams next on the schedule and to fullback, ISTC launched a search for a substitute fullback. Big Roy Wilkins, a former All-Southeastern Conference and at the University of Georgia, volunteered to move into Paulson's position.

The 6'2", 210-pound Wilkins had turned in a pair of outstanding performances at end in the ISTC's two previous games. Coach Brooks shifted Wilkins into the vacant fullback slot for the Rams encounter.

In his debut as a fullback, Wilkins sliced through the Rams' defense for 108 total yards, averaging 16.8 yards per carry. He topped off the afternoon with a 54-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Even though the Rams beat them 20 to 7, ISTC was relieved by having their backfield problems solved.

Wilkins, however, played his last game of Army ball. He will be discharged prior to the ISTC-Bulldog clash on Oct. 27.

Fiorino Strengthens Backfield for 'Dogs

By M-SGT CLAREN BLACBURN
A former Boston University outstanding all-round athlete is now playing for The School Brigade's Student Battalion Bulldogs as a halfback. He is 2nd Lt. Charles J. Fiorino, presently attending BSC No. 4, 20th Company, Second Student Battalion, TSB.

At Central Catholic High School, Lawrence, Mass., Fiorino won 13 varsity letters in four sports. Four letters were for football as a quarterback and halfback, four on the basketball team as a guard and a final letter as a second baseman on the basketball team. Fiorino captained the football and basketball teams in his last season of play.

LT. C. FIORINO Played with Boston University

His most outstanding football game, according to Lt. Fiorino, was against Boston Catholic College. He says it was a good day for me. I scored one touchdown on an 11-yard run up the middle, and threw a 27-yard touchdown pass. In spite of this, we lost the game 39 to 12.

Enrolling at Boston University, Fiorino was only disappointed in the basketball team, his senior year.

Rockne Tabs Army-Notre Dame Tilt 'America's Football Game'

AFP Service Feature
 Knute Rockne labeled this "America's Football Game" and Philadelphia welcomed the 1957 renewal of the Army-Notre Dame grid classic, after a 10-year lapse, with perfect football weather. There is nothing more American than a football game. . . . The All-America grid was there in all her blonde, brunette and red-lined glory. It took exactly 11 minutes for the Corps of Cadets to march onto the field and assemble. First facing the Notre Dame side. . . . After a cheer for the Fighting Irish, the cadets should-faced and stood bareheaded to salute their Army rosters before double-kneeling to their seats. Navy players were overheard—spies for the Nov. 30 game?

Army went to an unbalanced line to the right on the second play. It was the first time for a Black-headed team to run from this formation and for Terry Brennan and the Irish could recover from the hasty, halfback Bob Anderson scampered 81 yards to pay-dirt. . . . It was the first touchdown scored against NU this year, as the Irish had registered two shutouts previously. Possibly Lew Burdette had been pitching for the Irish in his spare time.

Notre Dame crunched back 80 yards in retaliation with full-back Nick Pietrosante going over 12-14 of the first period to knot the score. . . . Army roared into a 217 lead with TD runs by halfback Pete Dawkins and Anderson in the third quarter. . . . With the Army coach in the field, he returned the kickoff to the 35

Army Rifle, Pistol Teams Take Wins in Oklahoma, Washington

The U. S. Army's top rifle and pistol teams, which train at the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning, recently topped the fields in the Oklahoma State High Power Rifle and Park Police Pistol Matches in Washington, D. C.

While the Army riflemen were taking the honors in the National Matches and a big win over the shooters from the Canadian Infantry School, the Army pistol team again topped the field in winning the Oklahoma match, with nine first places out of 12 events.

Leading in 12-man rifle squad was M-Sgt. Charles L. Miller who fired a 442 score out of a possible 450 to win the individual aggregate championship. M-Sgt. Jacob Sveta took runner-up honors with a mark of 440. Capt. Richard H. Conley and SFC John D. Whitaker grabbed the first two master class awards.

In the team competition, U.S. Rifle Team No. 1 posted a mark of 583 out of a possible 600 to take the 2nd and 300-yard titles. Members of the winning squad were Capt. Conley, M-Sgt. Marvin B. Fitzpatrick, M-Sgt. Harold W. Hankins and M-Sgt. George W. Thurston.

The U. S. Army Blue pistol squad took both the 45 caliber and center fire aggregate matches. The U. S. Army Blue pistol squad took both the 45 caliber and center fire championships with scores of 1,138 and 1,154 out of a possible 1,200.

In Little League Play Terriers, Raiders Remain Undefeated

The Terriers, last year's Bidday League champs, and the Raiders, last season's Doughboy titlists, look like the teams to beat again this year. They both own spotless records as the race for honors enters its third week.

Custer Terriers were running in higher gear last week as they scored a decisive 20-0 victory over the hard-hitting Scorpions.

The Raiders won a hard-fought contest from the Ponies by a 12-6 count. The defending champs had to bear down the entire ball game as a stubborn Pony team gave them a scare. The Giants received their

Porter Aids Brigaders In Backfield Defense

One of the most promising defensive backs to hit the School Brigade ranks in recent years is 2nd Lt. Alfred W. Porter, executive officer of 4th Co., 1st Student Battalion.

An All-State and All-Southern football player for Little Rock, Arkansas High School to a Central High School, Porter had a turn of fate in his athletic career after being graduated from high school. A car accident took three years from the young athlete while en route to the University of Alabama, but he did not fail to fight for more honors on the gridiron.

After completing Basic Infantry Officer Course in January, 1957, Porter attended Airborne Class Eight and Ranger Class Eight.

Since entering the Army in August 1956, Lt. Porter coached the Fort Benning softball team, made up of Company A, 1st Special Troops, to second place in the All-Army championship at Fort Jackson, before being dropped in the All-Army championship in the coaching on the final game by Fort Riley, Kans.

On Oct. 19, as I stopped at the Milky Way for a drink, I heard the voice of "Snowball" Western announcing "Snowball" supporters at "Brot Barracks". After everyone had eaten, the trophies were given out. The champions are as follows: Pfc. Johnny Guinness; ping pong a "Snowball" Wooten, and chess, Miles Perry.

The Georgia-Alabama Company Camporee was held at Camp McKenzie. The camporee is a series of contests testing the various skills of the troops. To hold the rating as Standard Camporee Troop or Patrol, at least 400 points out of a possible 800 must be obtained by a troop or patrol. Judging was under the direction of the company and activities committee and commissioner's staff.

Some of the contests were: signaling, first aid, fire building, and knot tying. Last Tuesday, I toured my transceiveway toward Dugout Joe Stadium and watched the opening game of the 82nd Tank Battalion football season. It was quite a game as the Blue Battalion scored the first victory of the season by defeating the Eagles 12-6. The Blue Battalion started the game with Pete Knight, the co-captain, kicking off to the Eagles who fumbled the ball on the first play. After a series of plays, Darrell Edgus made the first touchdown for the Blues on a pass from Mike Fagan, the company A wide receiver. The extra point was unsuccessful. At half-time, the score was 9-0 in favor of the Blue Battalion. Then Don Watson kicked off for the Eagles. Pete Knight caught the ball on the 30 yard line and ran it to the 40 for the

Actress Gives Director Realism

When the director told the cat that he wanted realism in this one scene of the Rank Organization's "The Gypsy and The Gentleman," fiery actress Melina Mercouri gave him just that. The scene was one where a crowd was to sweep down on the Greek actress and rough her up. Miss Mercouri, in the beat of the existing scene, really went all out. The result was that four extras were injured by Miss Mercouri, who swung a heavy stick, and threw real rocks.

Hospital Commander

Col. Robinson to End Army Career Oct. 30

Retirement ceremonies for Col. Albert H. Robinson, commander of Ft. Benning's U.S. Army Hospital, will be held at Chapel Field Oct. 30 at 4:30 p.m.

Mass colors of all units on the post including the Third Infantry Division, honor guards from the Infantry Center and the Division, and the Infantry Center band will assemble for a full retreat ceremony in honor of Col. Robinson.

Heading the official party in the reviewing stands will be Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center; Brig. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general, and Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, and members of the general staff. Col. Robinson will take part in the review.

Receiving more than 25 years of service, Col. Robinson will make his home in Pikeville, Ky., where he is affiliated with the Pikeville Memorial Hospital.

Col. and Mrs. Robinson were honored Oct. 21 at a hospital reception at the Officer's Terrace Club. Members of the hospital command presented their commander with a farewell scroll in appreciation of his services.

After completing pre-medical work at Ouchita College, Ark., he received his medical degree from Baylor University at Waco, Texas, in 1939. He then was commissioned in the Army Medical Corps and interned at Brooke Army Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Col. Robinson came to Fort Benning hospital in June, 1956, after three years as commander of the 98th General Hospital and the Sixth Convalescent Center at Neubruecke, Germany.

During World War II he served 30 months in the North American and European campaigns. He landed in North Africa in 1942 and served in the Tank Force and was surgeon of the Northern Base Section on Okinawa.

Serving as deputy surgeon of the Seventh U.S. Army in Italy, he landed in Southern France in 1944 and accompanied the Seventh Army into Augsburg, Germany.

Col. Robinson commanded Lewis Army Hospital, Fort Lewis, Wash., for a year in 1946 and was the hospital's chief of Medical Services for the following three years. Later he headed the Camp Pickett, Va., hospital until 1952.

In 1949, Col. Robinson took a year of graduate training in internal medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He also has attended the Medical School, Washington, D. C., and the Medical Field Service School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. His decorations include the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal, and the Croix de Guerre with Silver Star.

Col. and Mrs. Robinson's former Kathryn Rose Bradley of San Antonio, Texas, have two children, Albert Jr. of Philadelphia, Pa., and Bettie Lou, 17.

Third Receives 5,000th Trainee

The five-thousandth New Trainee to enter the Third Infantry Division for basic training with the "Marine" Division arrived in the 2nd Reconnaissance Squadron, 7th Cavalry last week.

Upon completion of his eight-week training cycle with Troop F, Pvt. Frank J. Semlinger will undergo further assignment for the advanced phases of individual and unit training.

He will remain assigned to the 2d Infantry Division and groove with the Division to Germany in March, 1958.

This marks the half-way point in the receiving of New Trainees into the Division. Five thousand additional men will arrive in the next few months, and the "Marine" Division builds its manpower strength for its move to Germany.

RIF Personnel Eligible For 'Readjustment Pay'

WASHINGTON (ANS)—In answer to numerous inquiries, the Office of Chief Finance announced this week that many officers affected by the RIF will draw $1,500 or more in "Readjustment Pay" as well as travel allowances and a lump sum payment for accrued leave upon their involuntary separation from service.

A Finance representative explained that officers are entitled to Readjustment Pay if they are involuntarily released and if they have completed at least five years continuous active duty in a reserve component immediately prior to their release and are otherwise qualified.

"Readjustment Pay is computed on the basis of one-half of one month's basic pay for the grade in which serving at the time of release multiplied by the number of years of active duty." "The maximum amount payable is nine months basic pay."

Upon separation, an officer is also entitled to travel allowances from the separation center either in his home of record or to the place he entered service, according to the spokesman.

"The officer may be paid this travel allowance whether or not he performs the travel," it is stated. "But travel allowances for dependents may not be paid until the dependents have actually performed the travel."

The Finance representative further explained that officers are entitled to a lump sum payment for unused-leave (not to exceed 60 days) including the basic pay, basic allowance for quarters and subsistence applicable on date of separation. Warning that no general statement could cover all individual cases, he suggested that personnel affected should resolve their questions by visiting their local Finance and Accounting Offices.

MODERNIZED BROOMSTICK... The ancient witch of Halloween fame today turned to modern transportation at Fort Benning. She abandoned her crafty, but somewhat slow, broomstick for this superionic "Unhonest Wand" to step up evil making for Halloween in 1957—which is tonight.

Col. Robinson 'Copter Bears L-20 For Another 'First'

Retirement ceremonies for Col. Albert H. Robinson, commander of Fort Benning's U. S. Army Hospital, will be held today at Chapel Field at 4:30 p.m.

Mass colors of all units on the post including honor guards from The Infantry Center and the Third Infantry Division, and the Infantry Center band will assemble for a full retreat ceremony in honor of Col. Robinson.

The Army Transportation Field Maintenance Unit at Fort Benning marked up what is considered another first when it transported an L-20 "Beaver" airplane by an H-34 helicopter to Lawson Army Air Field for repairs.

The unit recently transported an L-20 from Fort Stewart, Ga., to Fort Benning for the longest known trip of this kind. However, this is the first time unit members have known of a Beaver, a much heavier and bulkier airplane than the L-20, being moved by slinging the aircraft underneath an H-34.

While landing at an air strip in the Sand Hill area at Fort Benning, the tail assembly of the Beaver was moderately damaged. The extent of the damage, however, was such that flying it to Lawson Field under its own power was impossible.

The Transportation Field Maintenance Unit was notified of the accident location and type of aircraft. Although no

Col. John Pavick Named Intelligence Chief at Post

Col. John J. Pavick has succeeded Col. Howard W. Greer as chief of the Intelligence Group of the Infantry School's Staff Department at Fort Benning.

Col. Greer has assumed the duties of G-2 (intelligence officer) of the U. S. Army Infantry Center.

Before coming to the post, Col. Pavick commanded the Seventh Army Regiment in Japan for a year and in 1955-56 served with the Korean Military Advisory Group.

A 1948 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., he was assigned to Fort Sherman, C. Z. Fort Bliss, Texas, and Camp Davis, N. C., before being graduated from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., in 1944. Commissioned in the Coast Artillery Corps, he transferred to the Infantry five years later.

Following a two-year tour as an instructor at the Military Academy, Col. Pavick served in the G-2 Section of U. S. Please See Col. Greer, Page 2

Fund Drive Nears End at Ft. Benning

Fort Benning Community Activities Association Fund officials this week expressed hope that the third and last military payday during the campaign will send the drive over the top.

The campaign, which began on Aug. 22 with an initial contribution by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, closes Nov. 9 with the Youth Activities Club sponsored Parade of Champions.

Funds from the drive will go to the support of post welfare activities and aid of The Fort Benning Youth Activities Club which includes the Boy and Girl Scout programs, Chaplain Christmas Activities, Army Welfare Nurses, Parent-Teacher Association and American Red Cross.

A sizeable portion of the fund is also allocated to the Columbus United Givers which in turn contributes to the local Y and national United Service Organizations Inc., the Armed Forces YMCA, Family Service Bureau, Trampers Aid and other charity and welfare activities.

Drive chairman Lt. Col. Kenneth S. Grimes, Infantry Center special services officer, has requested 100 per cent participation by civilian residents. Please See Drive, Page 2

Parade of Champions Festival Slates Trophies, Queen

Awarding of the commanding general's trophy for outstanding military competition and the selection of Miss or Mrs. Fort Benning of 1957 are slated as major events of Fort Benning's Parade of Champions festival Nov. 9.

Sponsored by the Youth Activities Club the gala carnival affair will end with an annual parade of military, beauty and sports champion of the day's activities. Trophies will be presented to all contest winners by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center.

The contest to choose Fort Benning's beauty queen will be held from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in hangar L-10 at Lawson Field where the carnival will be staged. Judy Shattuck, Miss Georgia of 1957 and runner-up in the Miss America contest, has been invited to crown the queen.

All civilian, dependent and military female personnel of the Fort Benning community are eligible to compete. Entries will be in four classes: Junior Misses, ages one to 12 years; misses, ages 13 to 25 years; women, ages 26 and over; and grandmothers of all ages.

Winners from the four classes will then compete for the title, "Miss or Mrs. Fort Benning of 1957."

Judging will be based on beauty of face and form only. Beauty contestants may appear in bathing suits and high-heeled shoes, though heels may be optional. Judges from Columbus will select the beauty. Please See Festival, Page 3

Post to Open Safety Plan For Holidays

Fort Benning will open its holiday safety program Nov. 1, with special emphasis on what Columbus will select the beauty. Please See Festival, Page 3

Plans are under way to distribute lectures and other safety literature, in addition, safety lectures and programs will be conducted by individual units.

The safety campaign, which will continue through the holiday season, is conducted to reduce personnel of the increased possibilities of accidents during the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's holidays.

This is the time of year that there are more accidents due to longer night driving, speeding home on leave and inebriation, according to safety officials.

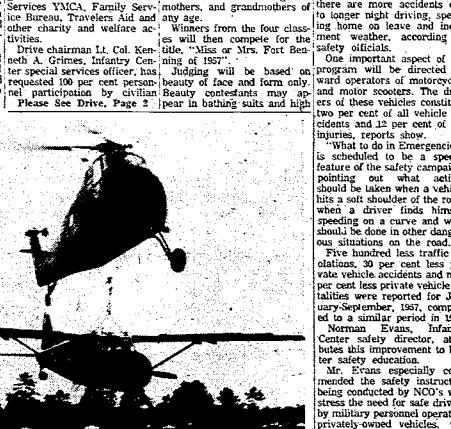

One important aspect of the program will be directed toward operators of motorcycles and motor vehicles. Accidents of these vehicles constitute two per cent of all vehicle accidents and 42 per cent of injuries, reports show.

"What to do in Emergencies" is scheduled to give special feature of the safety campaign, pointing out what actions should be taken when a vehicle hits a soft shoulder of the road, when a driver finds himself speeding on a curve or when should be done in other dangerous situations on the road.

Five hundred leaflets violating, 30 per cent less private vehicle accidents and nine per cent less private vehicle fatalities were reported for January-September, 1957, compared to a similar period in 1956.

Norman Evans, Infantry Center safety director, attributes the improvement to better safety education.

Evans especially commended the safety instruction being conducted by NCO's who stress the need for safe driving by military personnel operating privately-owned vehicles.

Thank You For Continuing and military personnel in order to insure successful discharge of fund obligations.

"One's fair share" of responsibility has been the basis of individual contributions. It has been determined that this portion is a minimum of half of one day's pay. However, due to the decreased strength of the post, fund officials have urged an additional effort by all concerned to help push the drive over the top.

This is Fort Benning's major annual fundraising campaign. Under President Eisenhower's new policy for solicitations for Army installations, and feder-

CWO Billy H. Miller was chosen to pilot the H-34. Sgt. Robert Bladner, Sgt. David Thurman, Cint Parker and Herbert Ingram, four of the more experienced crew members of the unit, were selected for the job of slinging the Beaver underneath the helicopter.

Within two hours after the accident, the damaged aircraft was returned to Lawson Field and ready for repairs.

Festival

Thank You For Continuing. The Infantry Center Special Services Section under the direction of Beon West Director for Soldiers Shows, will sponsor the beauty contest.

Judges will be Mrs. Rorelle Fabiani of the WRBL-TV program "At Home With Rorelle," George Ginnell, program director of WRBL-TV, and Mrs. Mary Daly, society editor of the Columbus Ledger.

Competition

Competition for the individual outstanding soldier contest will include general military knowledge, manual of arms, appearance, pistol and rifle marksmanship, grenade throw, and physical training test. The winner will be chosen on cumulative points.

The Youth Activities Carnival and Field Day will be an all-day event at Fort Benning for families, civilian employees and military personnel. The general public is also invited. A gay county fair midway with booths and refreshments will operate from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Special events include an afternoon horse show and a Gay Nineties Theater giving a series of short plays. Girl Scouts will conduct a cake and cookie sale.

Starting at 5 p.m. a barbecue supper will be served throughout the evening. Hot barbecue, baked beans home style, and all the trimmings will be served under the sponsorship of the 5th Medical Group. Plates for children and adults will be available.

To Eliminate Congestion New Traffic Route Suggested by MPs

MILITARY police have suggested an improved traffic route for off-post military personnel and Wherry Housing Project residents who wish to shop at the Fort Benning Post Exchange or Commissary.

Effective Oct. 31, persons engaged to use the following route to conform with the approved modified parking and traffic plan, which is expected to eliminate traffic congestion and unnecessary delay.

The plan is as follows:

BIGGEST SHARE . . . Pvt. Don Bisplinghoff, Hq. and Hq. Co., 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, has won a large given the biggest fair share at Fort Benning to the post Community Fund. Drive. He contributed $50.

McElroy Okes Further Testing Of Two Missiles

WASHINGTON (ANS)—Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy recently authorized additional testing of both the Army's intermediate range ballistic missile Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor.

His decision to continue tests of both was based on a recommendation of a three-man Pentagon committee headed by Special Assistant William M. Holiday. Other members of the committee were Major Gen. John B. Medaris, of the Army, and Major Gen. B. A. Schriever, of the Air Force.

The Department of Defense named the committee at a request to work out a plan whereby a single land-based intermediate range ballistic missile developed at the earliest practicable date from the Jupiter and Thor test programs.

Two Fort Benning Ranger instructors have left for England where they will attend the British Commando School at Devonshire New, 4 Dec. 21.

They are 1st Lt. Richard M. Rodney and Karl F. Lange, instructors in the Infantry School's Ranger Department.

The officers will study the latest developments and ideas of British commando training. Upon returning to Fort Benning, they will include similar training in their classes at the Infantry School.

The original Ranger course given at Fort Benning in 1942 was based on the training at the British Commando School.

'COPTERS TAKE ARMS . . . Fort Benning is testing the world's heaviest-armed helicopter—the H-34 Sikorsky. At left, a machine gun is being placed in the aircraft's side and at right the H-34 Sikorsky is shown loaded with rockets. The helicopter is equipped with 40 2.75-inch rockets, two five-inch rockets, nine machine guns and two 20mm cannons. It is the first time any helicopter has been armed with 20mm cannons or five-inch rockets.

Fort Benning Testing Helicopter Armed With Cannons, Rockets

What is believed to be the most heavily-armed helicopter in the free world is being tested at Fort Benning for possible inclusion in the Army's Sky Coy concept of air mobility.

Under the supervision of CWO James P. Ervin Jr., an H-34 Helicopter from Lawson Army Air Field was recently flown to the Sikorsky Aircraft Factory at Stamford Conn., and equipped with the latest weapons of warfare. Although these weapons are currently visualized for defensive purposes, future experiments may determine the feasibility of using them on offense.

The rotor aircraft can fire 40 2.75-inch rockets and two five-inch rockets. In addition, the aircraft is equipped with nine machine guns and two 20mm cannons. This marks the first time that a rotor aircraft has been armed with 20mm cannons and five-inch rockets. The machine guns are placed both at the front and sides of the aircraft to repel attacks from all directions.

Sky Coy is the term for an experimental concept using helicopters for reconnaissance and patrol missions, replacing the cavalry which traditionally performs this function.

Also being tested at the post is the use of heavy armament on the small H-12 helicopter. According to Major William A. Howell, commander of the Third Transportation Battalion, this helicopter is extremely suitable for scouting sky cov-

60 Per Cent Of 1st Army RIF's Re-Up

WASHINGTON (ANS) — A recent survey in the First Army Area of officer cutbacks in line with the Department of Defense reduction — in force, shows that approximately 60 per cent have decided to continue in the service as enlisted men in order to qualify for re-employment.

Under this inventory re-employment program, all qualified non-regular Army commissioned officers or warrant officers relieved from active duty may enlist without regard to the maximum age restrictions in determine its effectiveness.

Although AR 601-210 states that personnel over 35 years of age and less than 55 must have had at least three years of honorable service to enlist, RIF'd officers may enlist without regard to these restrictions if they are otherwise qualified.

According to AR 35-129, RIF'd officers will be paid a bonus upon entering the Army in an enlisted status. The amount of the bonus will be determined by the officer's prior service.

The ladies of the Quartermaster and the Post Signal Corps were hostesses at a cocktail party Oct. 28 in the Main Officers' Club in Fort Benning.

The main hall room was beautifully decorated with pink elephants and black omni-page glasses streaming from the chandelier and details on the walls. The fire place and mantle featured a large pink elephant in a whimsical mood. Among the guests of about 220 persons were Mrs. J. H. and Mrs. Herbert Powell, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Stanley Larsen, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John P. Ruggles. Special guests were Major Gen. Renato Trautman, Major Gen. Giuseppe Contafavi, Major Gen. Salvatore Mancuso, Brig. Gen. Pietro Grassetti, Brig. Gen. Alberto Mosca, Brig. Gen. Giuseppe Massioli, and Brig. Gen. Stefano Coisano, all of Italy, who were visiting the Post.

The Ladies of the Technique of Rifle Fire Committee were hostesses for the Infantry School's Weapons Department Coffee held in the Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Club on Friday, Oct. 18. Highlighting the morning's entertainment was a demonstration by the cuisine members of the 44th Squad Dog Platoon Detachment, under the supervision of Sgt. Jerry A. McDaniel.

New members introduced to the group were Mesdames Thomas D. Byrne, William T. Kaser, Manfred Keltman, Clayton Lamberth Wilbur R. Seiler, Owen T. Stephenson and Harry A. Yoder. Guests included Mrs. Julius Krebs, Mrs. Ethel Evans, and Mrs. Martha Leyh.

On the serving table was a fully laid arrangement which was won by Mrs. Sheldon Hicks as a door prize.

Mrs. James H. Cook of Fort Benning is attending the American Dietetic Convention at Dunbar Key, Fla. While in Florida, Mrs. Cook will also visit her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Fox of Miami.

The Infantry School's Weapons Department held its Fall Dinner Dance in the Main Officers' Club on Friday, Oct. 11. Hostess of the affair was the Machine Gun Committee of the Weapons Department.

Farewells were tendered to departing Department members Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Rudy and Mrs. Robert B. Deater. Col. Dexter has left for his new assignment as Viet Nam, and Mrs. Rudy will retire from military service December 31. Baby showers were presented to Capt. and Mrs. Kess Cyren, Lt. and Mrs. Henry H. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, talks with new American Red Cross volunteers at the opening session of the fall volunteer classes Oct. 21 at Fort Benning's U. S. Army Hospital. Left to right are Mrs. William Graves, Mrs. Hampton Rowland, Mrs. Robert Odum, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Edward Kaplan, and Mrs. George A. McGee. Mrs. Powell is honorary chairman of the Fort Benning Red Cross volunteer group.

General Leary, 3d Division Commander, and Lieutenants Colonel Frank Merigold, a visiting member of the 100th Division's Advance Planning Group.

The highlight of the afternoon was a talk and showing of slides by Colonel Merigold concerning the living conditions in Schweinfurt, Germany, the future home of the 2nd Battle Group 38th Infantry. Colonel Merigold told the ladies of the favorable condition of housing, PX and Commissary facilities, schools and recreation areas.

An annual decorative centerpiece, designed by Mrs. Robert L. Curtis, consisted of a small replica of New York City with a miniature Statue of Liberty and a model of the S. S. United States sailing toward the five cities which the 3d Division will occupy in Germany next spring.

Mrs. Joseph Pizzi, hostess for the occasion, was assisted by Mrs. V. Jones, Mrs. Arthur E. Sides, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Clifford Bond and Mrs. Douglas Bond.

The semi-annual election of the Officers for the Ladies of the Main Officers' Club 1st Infantry. Guests of honor were Mrs. John E. Leary, wife of Brigadier Normandy Room of Fort Benning's Main Officers' Mess. The newly elected officers are Mrs. B. E. Wilder, Jr., President; Mrs. Roy H. Bass, first vice-president; Mrs. Milton E. McCall, second vice-president; Mrs. P. R. Hare, secretary; Mrs. Roy S. Dunaway, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert M. Galbraith, welcoming chairman.

Hostesses for the occasion were wives of Company "H" officers; Mrs. James F. Rose, Mrs. Henry R. Thomas, and Mrs. Almona L. Wilson. The serving table was laid with a white linen cloth and the Autumn and Halloween theme was captured with a huge Jack-O-Lantern in the center of the table.

Honored guests of the group were Mrs. Shubbs, mother of Mrs. Roy E. Dunaway, and Mrs. Fredrick E. Charron under the advisement of Mrs. Lewis L. Millet and Mrs. Werner L. Michel.

The ladies held an interesting and informative talk by Captain Royal, a member of the 10th Infantry Division's Planning Group which was visiting the Sand Hill area.

Concert Slated Tchaikovsky's Work Tuesday
Tchaikovsky's "Roméo and Juliet Overture," "Fantasia" and "Overture Solenne" (1812 Op. 49) will be featured in the recording at the Main Post Library Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m.

"Tchaikovsky's 'Roméo and Juliet' was first performed in March, 1868. The conductor was Nicholas Rubinstein, fresh from being involved in a quarrel with the Moscow Conservatory, a quarrel in which he had gained public opinion on his side. When he appeared that night he received an ovation, and the music of the evening went all but unheard. The work was then revised and reached its final form in 1881.

In the following years the work has reached the ears of millions and it has been written no other magnificent music, this work would assure him recognition.

The "1812 Overture" was suggested to Tchaikovsky by Nicholas Rubinstein, and was written to commemorate the events of the year of Napoleon's defeat near Moscow. Plans called for the first performance of the work in a public square with real artillery fired in the place of kettle drums. This performance of the work is presented by Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Group Hears Gen. Hickey

ENDS DUTY . . . M-Sgt. Clifford C. Inman, Morrystown, Tenn., recently retired from active Army duty.

Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, commander of the Third U.S. Army, Fort McPherson, Ga., addressed the Fort Benning Our Lady of Victory Sodality at a breakfast recently. The Fort Benning women's Catholic group attended the 8 a.m. Mass at the U.S. Army Infantry Center Catholic Chapel. Following the services, a breakfast meeting at which Gen. Hickey was the guest speaker was held at 9 a.m. at the Main Officer's Mess.

Special guests at the breakfast included Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of The Infantry Center, and Mrs. Powell; Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general, and Mrs. Ruggles; Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Linsen, assistant commandant of the U.S. Army Infantry School, and Mrs. Linsen.

Provost Marshal Section Housed In Nelson Building at Benning

Editor's Note: According to recent findings of the Fort Benning Topographical Board, many buildings on post are not being referred to by correct names. This is the fifth in a series of pictures of buildings and Medal of Honor winners for whom the buildings are named. Medal of Honor citation of Sgt. William L. Nelson, for whom the provost marshal building is named, follows.

Sergeant William L. Nelson, Army serial number 32,865,606, Infantry, United States Army, for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at risk of life above and beyond the call of duty in action involving actual conflict at Djebel Dardas, Northwest of Soudjenia, Tunisia. On the morning of 24 April 1943 Sergeant Nelson led his section of heavy mortars to a forward position where he placed his guns and men. Under intense enemy artillery, mortar and small arms fire, he advanced alone to a chosen observation position from which he directed the laying of a concentrated barrage which successfully halted an initial enemy counter attack. Although mortally wounded in the accomplishment of his mission, and with his duty clearly completed, Sergeant Nelson crawled to a still more advanced observation point and continued to direct the fire of his section. Dying of hand grenade wounds and only fifty yards from the enemy, Sergeant Nelson encouraged his section to continue their fire and by doing so they took a heavy toll of enemy lives. The skill which Sergeant Nelson displayed in this engagement, his courage, and self sacrificing devotion to duty and heroism resulting in the loss of his life, was a priceless inspiration to our Armed Forces of the United States. (Awarded Nov. 25, 1943.)

Soldiers Feel Atom Heat At Latest Nevada Blast

CAMP DESERT ROCK, Nev. (APFS)—An atomic bomb was set off at the test site near here recently at about 100 paratroopers lay exposed on the desert for an evaluation of their ability to act efficiently in nuclear warfare.

The soldiers, kneeling with their backs to the blast again yards away, felt the heat from the blast and some of them lost their helmets when the shock wave struck a few seconds later.

The shock, heard as a very sharp crack, was followed by the most prolonged rumbling and hill echoes of the series of shots so far set off by the Nevada Test Organization, it was reported.

Two minutes after the blast, the paratroopers moved out in a two-part test—assembly and disassembly of the M1 rifle and a barbed wire infiltration course. Scientists watched the men go through the tests.

A third test, sweeping of a dummy minefield, was canceled when the safety team declared radiation was still too great in the area from a previous blast to risk sending personnel.

GIs in Germany Provided Look at Country's Farms

SCHWENFURT, Germany—The Tenth Infantry Division Like Thomas Jefferson, gentleman farmer of Virginia who loved in farming.

Reaching this, the local Service Club arranges tours of German "bauern" in the region, including a visit to a cooperative venture where several families share the work-land profits of their large, combined farm.

A true Texan, Private First Class James Wiensack of Company C noted the livestock, German dairy cattle, he observed, tend to be of a "block" shape rather than the "triangular" build of common American breeds.

A true American, he was also interested in mechanization, and expressed surprise at how much of it he saw on the German farms.

A soldier from the farm region of Upstate New York, Private First Class Richard Stojek of South Wales, was impressed with the cleanliness and economy he saw. "In view of the difficult conditions under which some German farmers work," he adds, "the results are amazing."

A similar theme was struck by Private First Class Andrew

J. Kurie of Courtland, Va.

"Although America is the largest producer of agricultural products in the world," he remarked after the tour, "there are many things, such as economy of operation, conservation and reforestation methods that we can learn from German farmers."—(ANF)

But Not to Point of Jeopardy

McElroy Encourages Service Competition

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Nell H. McElroy, who became the nation's sixth Secretary of Defense on Oct. 9, upon being sworn into office at the White House, issued the following statement:

"Naturally, I enter upon my duties with profound appreciation of the grave responsibilities which repose on the Defense team. Our primary objective, of course, is to maintain the military forces of the US in such a state of power and instant readiness as to deter any would-be world ruler, from launching a war against us or our free-world allies.

"I conceive the role of the Secretary of Defense to be that of captain of President Eisenhower's Defense team. This team includes also, as top members, the Deputy Secretary—Donald Quarles—the three Service Secretaries, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs and the operating chiefs of the Services.

"Recently, I have read in the newspapers a great deal about two things—the costs of defense—some say we spend too much, some too little; and rivalry between the Services.

Let me talk about rivalry first. I believe in competition. In my experience the desire to do a better job than the other fellow often provides a healthy stimulus toward greater achievement. However, if rivalry goes to the point where it threatens to jeopardize Defense teamwork, produce wasteful duplication of effort, undermine the public's confidence in their military organization, it cannot be countenanced.

"I do not take the negative view that effective teamwork is unattainable within the framework of the present Department of Defense structure. I am confident that the men who represent the various Services of the Defense team are the kind of broad gauge men who will think beyond the point of view of the individual Services and will concern themselves primarily with the defense job as a whole.

"I expect team play and loyal support from all the members of the organization I have been given the responsibility of leading.

"I have had several weeks of continuous inspections, briefings and demonstrations of the most modern implements of national defense. While I have been impressed by their increasingly high cost, I have also been awed by the vastly greater wallop possessed by today's plane, missile and ship and our streamlined ground forces, as compared with their counterparts of yesterday.

"Certainly, as we introduce new weapons, we must continue to help meet their immense cost by reducing duplication and unnecessary expenditures wherever possible. In my opinion, economy is not incompatible with good defense.

"In my travels about the country, I found fine, devoted patriotic, enthusiastic people—ranging from the airplane designers and nuclear physicists to the strategic bomber crews and missile artillerymen. The experience of meeting with them and absorbing a measure of their dedicated spirit was inspiring as background for this new job I am assuming.

"With the able assistance of Donald Quarles, who, as Deputy Secretary of Defense, has a unique position in the government—and I'm extremely fortunate that he has agreed to remain on—I look forward to my tour with the Defense team."

2 Thai Officers View Pentomic School Tactics

Two top-level Royal Thai Army officers visited Fort Benning this week to observe pentomic reorganization tactics at the U. S. Army Infantry School.

Brig. Gen. Aung Potigant, commander of the Corps of Cadets Chulachorakul Royal Military Academy was at the post Oct. 23 to Oct. 26. Col. Jukchai Saphanboon, chief of staff of the Cavalry, arrived Oct. 25 for a six-day stay.

The Allied visitors were honored as an official luncheon hosted by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, in the Main Officers Mess. Their itineraries include demonstrations of Ranger training, river crossings, M-1 rifle firing and airborne-air mobility instruction.

Capt. Stephen L. Hollis, assigned to the Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department, was the project officer.

DONNA DOAK Tryouts Slated For Swim Team

Tonight we'll all be plagued by the constant ringing of door bells and the never ending line of ghosts, goblins and witches, but right now I have a few little odds and ends I'd like to put together. For instance, how about you 'Beat Barracks' members paying your dues. After all, it's only a quarter a month. Like I said before, if we don't get enough money, we won't have a Christmas dance.

During the past week you've probably been hearing about the Parade of Champions scheduled for Nov. 9 at Lawson Field, which I mentioned in my column a couple of weeks ago. This affair is being put on by VAC to raise money for scout expenditures. Among the various events there will be a cake baking contest, and a trophy will be awarded for the best cake. I urge all you teenage girls who have a knack for baking to enter this contest. For further details contact Mrs. William H. Billings at 2820.

Another thing I'd like to mention is the tryouts for the swimming team at Bryant Wells pool this Saturday at 10-30. Boys and girls between the ages of eight and 16 are eligible.

Right now I want to take time out to wish the graduates of the Fort Benning Junior Rifle Club, an affiliated member of the National Rifle Association which meets every Saturday at Smallbore Range.

The club is open to boys and girls between the ages of 11 to 18. The cost for those who wish to join the club is 50 cents annual dues and 25 cents per box of ammunition (50 rounds).

Firing sessions are conducted by three officers and 10 enlisted men from the Weapons Department. All parents are encouraged to come to each session and assist their child. The members of the club are taught how to shoot the .22 rifle, beginning with safety factor, in handling firearms, and continuing in training until a shooter goes on the actual firing line to fire his or her first round at a marked target.

This is another step in the progress of developing the youth of Fort Benning. In a safe, responsible and law-abiding manner.

Well, once again the Blue Battalion defeated the Eagles in a game played last Thursday night at Gowdy Field. The Battalion led the entire game by a score of 18-0.

Service Kin Need Not Pay Full Med. Bill

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Service families are not required to settle in full for authorized medical expenses of eligible dependents incurred at civilian institutions. According to recent Army, Navy and Air Force directives, patients treated at civilian facilities are responsible only for that portion of medical bills as determined by the Joint Service Regulations.

Appropriate contract channels have been established, the directives point out, through which bills for civilian medical care may be submitted by physicians and hospitals for prompt payment.

In cases where wives or children received authorized civilian medical attention and the point of sponsor paid the charges, reimbursement may be made for that part of the bill which the government would have borne under contract arrangements.

Claims for repayment for civilian medical care of dependents in the 21, Alaska, Hawaii or Puerto Rico may be made by sponsors directly to appropriate major commanders.

2nd Award in 6 Months Honors Lt. Col. Amunrud

Lt. Col. Arnold A. Amunrud of Indianapolis, Ind., has been presented his second U. S. Army Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement at Fort Benning within six months. Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry Center commanding general, presented the citation, which recognized Col. Amunrud's outstanding service as finance and accounting officer of the Infantry Center since April, 1956. Col. Amunrud has been assigned to Georgia Military District headquarters in Atlanta.

The citation reads in part: "During this period (May, 1956, to the present), the implementation of the Army Financial Management Plan was causing its greatest impact upon finance in accounting operations, necessitating revolutionary changes in operating policies and procedures and the adoption of entirely new concepts of operation. With enthusiasm and the employment of his outstanding qualities of experience, leadership, initiative and a vision of the job to be accomplished, Col. Amunrud raised the operational

Linguistic Knowledge A Goal for Officers

The Army has set a goal of proficiency in at least one foreign language for every career officer, both regular and Reserve on active duty.

They are encouraged to volunteer for language training either by applying for attendance at the Army Language School or by voluntarily taking a second tongue at post education centers.

Army officers are stationed in 73 countries and experience has shown that their effectiveness is increased if they speak the native language.

The initial emphasis will be on six languages: Mandarin Chinese, Spanish, French, German, Russian and Japanese. With better than half of the active Army on duty overseas in all lines, purely military needs will be filled at the language school for those officers receiving definite assignments to foreign advisory groups, missions, attaché and similar positions. Other available language classes at the school will then be filled by volunteers under the new program.

The Army Language School at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif., presently offers intensive courses in 28 languages to approximately 3200 students annually. Under the new program it is possible that attendance at the school may jump to an average of 5000 yearly.

The formal training of Army linguists began shortly before World War II at the Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., when a small group of officers who had served in Japan recognized the importance of an intelligence unit to cope with problems certain to arise because of the possibility of war.

Under direct secrecy the Fourth Army Intelligence School, with a faculty of 13 and student body of 60, was opened on November 1, 1941. As the need for soldiers with fluency in other languages increased, the school expanded and moved several times during the war until it was finally established at the Presidio of Monterey in early 1946.

The intensive training in each language requires that students first develop mastery of the spoken tongue with pronunciation approximating that of native speakers. Reading ability is the next priority and the third is the ability to write the language. To meet these requirements a maximum vocabulary is taught.

Currently taught at the school are Albanian, Arabic, Bulgarian, Cantonese and Mandarin Chinese, Czech, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Indonesian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Lithuanian, Persian, Polish, Portuguese, Rumanian, Serbo-Croatian, Slovene, Spanish, Thai, Turkish, Ukrainian and Vietnamese.

German-Born Marnemen Aid Buddies

Germany-bound Marnemen with the 30th Infantry will find their home in Schweinfurt quite different from their homes in the U. S. A. Facing what amounts to an entirely new world, confronting people with different customs and who speak a different language, New Marnemen in Germany have many questions concerning their future. Within the 30th Infantry, there are some 25 German-born men who will be serving with the "Rock of the Marne" outfit, now offering German classes at Fort Benning, and who will serve as guides and teachers when arriving in Germany.

Men of the Third Infantry Division, such as Pvt. Wolfgang Forsterling, Pvt. Gerhard Elste, and Pvt. Rolf Nause, have indicated that they would be of great value to the men of their organization when they gyroscope to Germany.

Elste, for example, has told many of the recreational facilities and called the sports of his native land. Sports, concerts, and special holidays, and the company's folklore, have been discussed by Elste, in assuring New Marnemen that Germany will not be dull to them.

Forsterling has talked to his fellow 30th Infantry soldiers of the fine tradition of U. S. troops in Europe, and particularly, Germany had the responsibility of the American soldier there.

Nause, who was rearured during Hitler's regime, has explained advantages and responsibilities of an American citizen and soldier.

Engineer Jumpers Prove Ability To March in Dutch Competition

AUGSBURG, Germany — An outfit that prizes itself in its ability to jump out of flying planes, build bridges and dance, string barbed wire, demolish fortifications and fight like infantrymen, the 127th Airborne Engineer Battalion also considers itself not so hot. Proved it, too, recently in the first annual walking of the "Netherlands International Four-day Marches."

When the battalion heard not long ago that marching men from nearly every country in Europe, from Canada, Israel, Australia and Turkey took to Nijmegen, The Netherlands, to participate in the 200 kilometer (125 mile) jaunt, peeling off 50 kilometers a day, they decided that anything anybody else could do they could do too.

A couple of weeks before this year's march, under First Lieutenant Joseph L. Sargent of Gary, N. C., the volunteers started training for the callous journey. Already in excellent physical condition as working paratroopers, the 12 men finally selected wanted to make a good showing in the event even though its purpose is international good fellowship.

not naming a winner. When they arrived in Nijmegen they found they weren't just representing the 11th United States Army. In fact, except for a few airmen on the NATO team, they were representing the United States. Music by the British Coldstream Guards and a demonstration by Belgian paratroopers started the march, which four footcandle days later ended in the music of the "Airborne Hoochie" chanted all the way to the finish line.

BLOCKED PASS . . . Bulldog Jack Gysegren (41) is on the verge of slapping a pass intended for Donald Carringer (10) of ISTC to the ground during the Second Student Battalion's 33-0 victory over ISTC last week.

'Dogs Put Bite on ISTC, Romp to Victory by 32-0

The School Brigade's Second Student Battalion Bulldog football team crushed USAAMC 32-0 at Doughboy Stadium Sunday afternoon.

The first quarter was packed with fumbles and pass interceptions with the ball being moved from one end of the field to another with neither team able to carry the pigskin over for a tally. Late in the quarter the Bulldogs, with Ed Burkhalter, Earl Lewis, Bill Bell and Jimmy Thompson coming alive, scored the first touchdown, however.

Over the Top
With only 30 seconds left in the quarter, Jimmy Thompson moved over the top from the one for the first score. Try for the extra point failed.

Late in the second quarter ISTC's Donald Carringer ran a duck kick 40 yards, but on the next play Thompson intercepted a pass that started the Bulldogs on the road to another touchdown. After a series of end sweeps, hand-offs, and passes, Earl Lewis plowed down the middle for the second tally, making the score 12-0 with the try for extra point no good.

Early in the third quarter, Bulldog fullback Mill Ewenses swept around left end, reversed his field and ploughed over for the Bulldogs' third TD. The try for extra point was good and the Student Battalion had a commanding 19-0 lead going

SWEETS END . . . Commanders' George Mangrum rips off yardage on an end sweep for STC as George Kelly (51) of the School Brigade Rams close in to tackle. Leonard King (12) plowed ahead of Mangrum to make sure Mangrum had running room. The Brigade won 33-0.

Rams, Bulldogs Decide Post Grid Title Sunday

Victor to Carry Banner At Inter-Service Play

Kingship of Infantry Center regimental football and right to represent Fort Benning during this year's inter-service gridiron competition will hang in balance Sunday afternoon on the green midway of Doughboy Stadium.

Unbeaten School Brigade Rams will be out to take the honors from the fading Second Student Battalion Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs met defeat once this season. It was a one-point loss to the Rams.

Game time is 2 p.m. Sunday. Clash between the two post powers originally was scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Games Cancelled
However, the game was postponed for one day earlier this week when cancellation of this scheduled for Nov. 3, Nov. 9 and Nov. 10 was announced.

Sports officials said the contests were cancelled due to transfer of personnel, combined with player injury in the league.

There is no admission charge to Sunday's game. Pre-game and halftime entertainment will be provided by the Columbus High School band.

Single Less
In an early season encounter between the two post titans, the Brigade was forced to come from behind in waning seconds to gain a thrilling 14-13 victory, handing the Bulldogs their lone defeat of the current season. The Rams have a 4-0 record. The Bulldogs track three wins against the single loss.

Two fine linemen produced by Coach Henry "Red" Sanders at UCLA will give the Brigade a much-needed boost in making headway. Thompson beaved a long pass to end Bill Bell for the Bulldogs' fourth score, making it 23-0. Try for extra point was no good.

The Rams struck twice in the second quarter with less than four minutes remaining before Bill intermission. Halfback Manning hauled in a line-drive punt in running stride on the Ram 20 and ripped his way down the left sideline behind

The 10-man Canadian squad, headed by Col. A. A. Doerksen, Commandant Royal Canadian School of Infantry, is scheduled to arrive at Lawson Air Force Field, Nov. 2, where they will be met by representatives of the USA Army.

Match competition will begin with 600 and 1,000 yards events Monday afternoon following a conducted tour of the spacious Fort Benning Military Reservation during the morning, 7:30 National Match Course, a 200-400 yard shoot, is scheduled for Nov. 3 with a 1,000 yard 20 shot match ending the two-nation competition the following day.

In the National Match Course event, the American M4 service rifle will be pitted against the Lee-Enfield weapons used by the Canadians. Both teams will fire NRA manually operated M70's at the longer ranges.

Nieder will shortly begin training for the winter spring meets. Although he is in the Army for two years, he hopes to have enough time to participate in several large meets including the University of Texas Relays, the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

Asked what he thinks of the new NCA record and break O'Brien's old mark of 59 feet, 2 inches.

Thank You For Continuing Sunday. Brown will be playing his third game with the Brigade. It will be Moreno's first start.

They join regular stalwarts such as the Philadelphia Eagle end, John Bredice; shifty Chicago Bear halfback, James Lavary; San Francisco 49ers great pass catching end and punter, Hugh Toomey; captain, and VMI's 1956 team, Dick Lyons; and Paul Wilson, a hard-running fullback from the University of Colorado.

The Bulldogs may be deeper in seasoned material than the Rams. University of Florida's Jimmy Thompson guides a smoothly functioning offense from his quarterback slot. West Point's Joe Evgien and Boston College's former captain, Chuck Florino, operate from the halfback spots while grizzled Ed Burkhalter, from the University of Georgia, fills the fullback role.

The Bulldogs' huge forward wall is headed by California's Don Gilkey, Ed Skovacek, captain of the 1955 Military Academy team, and Kansas end Bill Bell.

Yards for the fifth touchdown and Francis Lawson crunched two in the fourth quarter. The Rams unbeset what prospects are to be their heaviest scoring barrage of the season.

Off back James Wright hit half tackle from the one late in the third period for the Rams fourth touchdown.

At Porter returned a punt 45

Little Leaguer . . . John Hamilton, tackle on the Tankers Biddy League team, goes through a practice session at Faith Field. His father is Lt. Col. Longstreet C. Hamilton, U. S. Army Hospital, Col. Joseph C. Sandlin, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, commanding officer, and president of the Little League has noted a fine turnout of parents at games.

What's Nieder's goal? You guessed it — 64 feet. And if O'Brien doesn't do it, Nieder probably will.

Popularly known as "Nieder the Leader" by fellow students, Nieder is married and has two children, Robin, 6, and Connie, 2. His wife, the former Sue Wright of Lawrence, also attended the University of Texas.

The Nieder's rates at 303 Matheson Road in Columbia, N. B., are General Power, Brig. Gen. S. R. Larsen, asstant commandant, USAIC, Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Deputy Commanding General, USAIC, Col. O. Z. Tyler, Chief of USAIC, USAIC Col. Roy A. Murray, G3 USAIC.

The 10-man Canadian squad, headed by Col. A. A. Doerksen, Commandant Royal Canadian School of Infantry, is scheduled to arrive at Lawson Air Force Field, Nov. 2, where they will be met by representatives of the USA Army.

Match competition will begin with 600 and 1,000 yards events Monday afternoon following a conducted tour of the spacious Fort Benning Military Reservation during the morning, 7:30 National Match Course, a 200-400 yard shoot, is scheduled for Nov. 3 with a 1,000 yard 20 shot match ending the two-nation competition the following day.

In the National Match Course event, the American M4 service rifle will be pitted against the Lee-Enfield weapons used by the Canadians. Both teams will fire NRA manually operated M70's at the longer ranges.

Nieder will shortly begin training for the winter spring meets. Although he is in the Army for two years, he hopes to have enough time to participate in several large meets including the University of Texas Relays, the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

Asked what he thinks of the new NCA record and break O'Brien's old mark of 59 feet, 2 inches.

Col. Sharpe expects the Canadian team to give a good account of themselves during the game and get in top shape for firing the OIG of the Army's top rifle squad said that "though this match will be fired over our squad which differ considerably from those used in Canadian competition, there should be no trouble in adjusting to the change. After all, they're good shots and that is what counts." The Army officers of the 2nd Company, 303rd Matheson Road in Columbia, N. B., are General Power, Brig. Gen. S. R. Larsen, as-

Tournament Sparkled With Hot Competition

BY ALEX ATKINSON
The Third Army Small Games Tournament came to a close at Fort Benning last Friday with award presentations by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry Center commanding general.

Awards were wrist watches for winners of the singles championships and trophies for winners in doubles and runners-up of each event held.

Recipients of the watches were M-Sgt. Warren J. McBride, Fort Gordon, winner of the badminton singles; Capt. Joseph H. Dalman, Fort Benning, who won in the handball singles contest; Sp4 Franklin C. Rockwell, Fort Stewart, winner in horseshoes, and Pfc Benedict Zernits, Fort Campbell, who won the championship in table tennis.

Runners-up trophies went to Sfc Terry Scott, Fort Benning, for badminton; Major Joseph F. Boyle, Benning, for handball; Edward H. Reese, Redstone Arsenal, was second in horseshoes, and M-Sgt. Edgar M. Barfield, Fort Gordon, received his second-place award for table tennis.

Individual trophies were presented to each member of the doubles teams representing their posts. Sfc William D. Hudson teamed with McBride to take top honors, in badminton, for Fort Gordon. In handball the winning team was composed of Dalman and Boyle of Benning, Rockwell and Frank B. Armstrong paired to win horseshoes for Fort Stewart while 2nd Lt. Carl E. Haas and Pfc. Hugh A. Mason, Fort McClellan, won the table tennis doubles trophies.

The runners-up to receive doubles trophies were 2nd Lt. John D. Stein, who teamed with Scott to take second place for Fort Benning in badminton; Major Frederick J. Peacock and Capt. Jesse Hader, Fort Gordon, took second in handball; the horseshoe doubles runner-up team consisted of Robert E. Bishop and Reese, Redstone Arsenal, while Aldo N. Anderson and Howard S. Rauch, Fort Gordon, paired to win the table tennis championship.

BEST HORSESHOE PITCHER . . . Sp4 Franklin C. Rockwell, left, Fort Stewart, Ga., accepts first place awards for both singles and doubles in horseshoe competition of the Third Army Small Games Tournament. Making the presentation is Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center. Rockwell teamed with Pvt. Frank B. Armstrong to win the doubles.

HANDBALL ACTION . . . Major Joseph F. Boyle, right, Fort Benning, serves to the forward wall during handball singles finals of the Small Games tournament. Waiting to play the ball is Capt. James H. Dalman, also of Fort Benning. Dalman won the match 7-21, 21-4, 21-12.

Army Pistol Squad Captures 35 Team Matches Out of Past 37

The U. S. Army Pistol Team, captained by Lt. Col. William A. Hancock, won all three team matches in the Virginia State Pistol Championships, Oct. 15-20, at Quantico, Va., to extend a record this year which previously included only two losses in its last 37 team matches.

The Army's top pistol squad, which trains at Fort Benning under the direction of the U.S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, Lt. Col. E. R. Mason, commanding, began its imposing shooting during the National Mid-Winter and Planning Open Pistol Championships last March. The squad's near-perfect record against formidable competition continued through the National Matches and has now equaled three consecutive state tournaments.

This Army team won the first of three Virginia team titles as Army "Grey" fired a top score of 1,144 in the 45 event. The great team included Ben C. Curtis, M-Sgt. Richard M. Sinceman, M-Sgt. Roy L. Sutherland, and Sfc. A. E. Sutherland.

Myers Wins Div. 45 Pistol Match
Pvt. Charles E. Myers, 1st and Hqs. Co. First Battle Group, 38th Infantry, won the individual 45 pistol matches in the Third Infantry Division's first small arms firing school Oct. 21-25. Finishing second was Sgt. Joseph A. Daily, Hq. Troop, Second Recon. Sqdn., and third was Sfc. Louis W. Frank, 1st, 68th Tank Ech.

Club Slates Completion Of Stables
Completion of the 37-horse stable for the Fort Benning Hunt Club is expected by the first week in November, according to club officials.

The club is on Marine Road near Newport. Led by its manager, P. Wright's 287 score, the Army shooters won the five man team match with a 1,465 total out of a possible 1,500 points. The Citadel finished with a fine 1,008 score. In the nine man team event, the Army team fired a winning 2,606 score against the Citadel's 2,537 total.

The results of what Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Fort Benning commanding general, called "the finest showing by any team in the history of the National Matches" were much speak to Pappy.

Magician Keeps Unit Spellbound
Pfc. Gerald Hammond, Hq. Btry, Second FA Bn, 14th Artillery, 14th Inf., is keeping his battery spellbound with self-taught magic tricks.

Pfc. Hammond has perfected the art of black magic and shown his ability to the entire east coast, prior to entering the service, with more than 200 personal appearances and several TV shows in the Washington, D. C. area.

Pfc. Hammond attended the University of Maryland where he majored in Industrial Arts and as the University Drum Major. He has given several performances in the Fort Benning-Columbus area.

Can Doers Rip Division Trains 47-12 in Marne Play Saturday

Slaying neck and neck with the Divarty Rockets, the 15th Infantry "Can Do" Dragons ran roughed over Division Trains Saturday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium 47-12 in Third Infantry Division football competition.

With quarterback Kenny Fry calling the shots, and line plays of running by backs Monte Seehorn, Charlie Dawson, and Charlie Evans the "Can Doers" had no difficulty in chalking up their fourth consecutive victory.

Army to Reduce Under-Strength Reserve Units

From the outset, the 15th had complete control of the game. Playing their first contest before their 1700 New Marmenans, the "Can Do" Dragons wasted little time in the scoring department. Early in the first quarter, Fry unleashed a 43-yard pass to Monte Seehorn, down to the eight-yard line, and then, on a quarterback sneak, had the game's first TD. Big Henry Thomas kicked his first of five extra points.

At the end of the opening period, Fry had his second score, in the day's famous run. Following five men running interference, Fry held the ball on a "keeper" spinning from the Comet 44 to the 35, drill spaces.

Finding himself surrounded by a host of would-be tacklers, Fry raced for the opposite field, and outran three Division Trains men, into the coffin corner for yardage. Thomas made 144 of the quarter.

With Evans supplying the punch, two 15th scores were tallied in the second quarter. Evans went over for the first.

The organization said each low strength Reserve unit will be evaluated to determine its potential mobilization strength. The reduction was planned, it was said, to leave the best qualified officers and enlisted men in the 200,000 available from the Comet 44 to the 35, drill spaces.

Army Gets Recognition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Secretary Wilber M. Dawson followed suit last week from the National Association of Suggestions System's President Walter A. Harris in recognition of the Army's recent success in the campaign, "Project Paydirt".

Activities of "Project Paydirt" were also named by the Association's 1957 convention which recently concluded at Atlantic City, N. J. It was attended along with an entry from the American Can Company to receive the award for the best suggestion system promotion campaign among those companies employing more than 5,000 employees.

The Association is an organization of more than 1,200 industrial firms and government agencies that exchange ideas and information to strengthen the suggestion activities of its members and associates.

The Army's "Project Paydirt" was a promotional campaign launched at the beginning of FY 1956 to give the Army greater benefit through increased participation in the suggestion program.

4th Defeats 38th, 18-0, In Division

OVER FOR SIX... Divarty backfield star Don Milten goes for one of his two TD efforts against the stunned 30th Infantry Rockets, as the Redlegs rolled to a 18-0 win at Doughboy Stadium. The Redlegs scored their fourth consecutive loop triumph.

Fred Glatz, Eddie Johnson and H. L. Alexander led the Fourth Infantry Warriors to their second Marne Football league win, as they trimmed the 38th Infantry 18-0 Oct. 22 under the lights at Bennett Field.

Scoring single tallies in the first, second and final quarters, the fourth handed the Vikings their third consecutive setback, following a season opening victory.

Ex-pro football star Glatz was the big gun again for the Warriors, as they brought their record to the 296 mark. Passing, running and punting, playing both offense and defense without rest until relieved in the final minutes when the contest was loed, Glatz was the vital factor in the Warrior win.

The initial score was provided by Johnson, plunging over from the two. The TD followed as exchange of fumbles within the Viking 10-yard line. A 29-yard Glatz to Tom Williams pass had been the key play in the drive.

A second six pointer followed a Glatz to Johnson pass down to the two-yard line, when Alexander went over for the score. Although the third period had no scoring, Glatz's punting, including a 57-yard

Post Cancels 2 Smokers

Two USAIC Boxing Smokers have been cancelled due to lack of participation.

Smokers slated for Oct. 30 and Nov. 14 have been marked off the schedule, officials said. The events were cancelled because there are not enough entrants to be matched in weight and experience classes.

Officials explained that fighters must be matched not only in regular weight categories, but in experience classes also. Class A boxers must have more than five fights. Others with five bouts or less are placed in Class B.

Boxing Smokers are expected to resume Dec. 1 provided fighters are available.

Officials said that anyone interested in competing may contact the sports office in Brickwell Field House.

The School Troop Command boxing team will provide opposition for any others on post, officials said.

PHOTO FINALS

Troops Get Bit Roles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Servicemen who have served a tour of duty in the Far East are sure to recall many memories when they see the movie "Sayonara."

The picture premieres worldwide in December and depicts the feverish days of R&R in Japan during the Korean war. It was produced, in color, by Warner Bros.

Based on author James Michener's best-selling novel, the East-West romance of a jet ace transferred from Korea and a famous young Japanese dancer, stars Marlon Brando and Mike Taka, an American-born Nisei beauty.

The cast includes TV comic Red Buttons, an airman, and Miyoshi Ueki, a picture Japanese actress known to thousands of US troops who pulled duty in Japan, Korea and Okinawa, as "Nancy."

American soldiers and airmen acted bit roles in the movie and hundreds of members of the Armed Forces from Camp Oost, Hanoi AB and Tokyo installations took part in the crowd sequences made in Japan.

The statuesque Miss Taka's rocketing from a travel agency clerk to stardom is a Cinderella story in itself. A spectator at a Nisei festival in Los Angeles, her classic Japanese features attracted the attention of talent scouts who offered her the on-star lead in the production on the spot.

Marne to Show Medal of Honor Winners on TV

When the Third Infantry Division celebrates its 40th Anniversary on November 21, spectators will witness the awarding of the Medal of Honor to two World War veterans and the Division's Medal of Honor Winners exhibit on TV screens.

This unique feature will be the part of the celebration's program when the Division's Chaplain will read the names of those who have been awarded the highest military honor for action in both World Wars and the Korean fighting.

Major General Roy E. Lindquist, commanding the Third Division, has invited the people of Columbus and vicinity to attend the celebration program, which will begin at nine a.m. The opening ceremonies will be followed by a parade review, a military pageant, a tactical demonstration of the Division's capabilities in modern warfare, and a military exhibit.

The military exhibit will allow the public to see the Division's vehicles, weapons, kitchen equipment, medical facilities and aircraft. Well-informed spokesmen will be on hand to explain, demonstrate and answer questions.

10th to Come Here in Six Movements

The 10th Infantry Division will return to the U.S. in six major troop movements from March, April and May of 1958, 10th Division Headquarters announced.

The gyroscop movement will bring the 10th Division to Fort Benning, the third movement will replace the 10th in Germany.

The troops will come here in three increments of three ships each with an advance party leaving 45 days before each increment. Continuing gyroscop activities throughout the 10th Division is Lt. Col. Dale F. McGee, executive officer, Brigade, Gyroscop Project Officer.

Personnel returning with the division will receive notification of their departure date at least 60 days before they leave. All dependents must have a physical inspection at least 48 hours before they leave to insure that they are free of communicable diseases, the announcement said.

Dependents who have reached the end of the sixth month of pregnancy will be flown back to the states. Those who have reached the end of the seventh month of pregnancy will remain in Germany until six weeks after the child is born, the announcement said.

The facilities of Columbus are being advertised extensively throughout Southern Germany. Large display boards have been erected throughout unit areas in the Division depicting the various facilities available in Columbus and Fort Benning. Newspaper clippings from Columbus and vicinity have also been posted to further acquaint the prospective recruits with school, housing, religious and other facilities that most interest the career soldier.

RESEARCH COST

In laboratories and similar enterprises, the Army last year placed almost 2500 contracts of $10,000 and over to support the research and development requirements of the Army of the future.

By M-Sgt. Clark Blackberry per carry and totaled close to 600 yards for the season.

He says the game he enjoyed most in college was against his schools' oldest and bitterest rival, Lehigh University. "We were expected to lose to them by two touchdowns, but we took them to 20-13 upset."

Lt. Koziscek started his athletic career as a tight end at Lafayette and Lehigh. He first started their rivalry back in the 1920's and has played a total of 92 games since that time. That's the most games played between any two schools in the U.S. and the two teams have some times played as many as three games in one season," he said.

Lt. Koziscek's future plans call for a Masters Degree in education at Furman University, and to then return to his senior year in coaching at leading ground games for Lafayette College with 8.4 yards per carry.

Columnist Ends Army Duty Here

When you come to the parting of the way, it's not the road rocky or smooth, but did you enjoy the ride. That in so many words describes my feelings now that I'm writing my final paragraphs for The Bayonet. ETS is approaching ever yonder duck blind. I've enjoyed the many experiences I have had along the way, the many friends on the post who have added so much toward gaining the information necessary for me to write this column and I would like to thank all for the aid. During the month, my goal has been to try and bring to you some of the highlights on post activities, including latest shooting tournaments to how that whopper of a bass was landed at Kings Pond. Hunting, Fishing ideal. One of my finest experiences has been associated with the hundreds of people who hunt and fish and have participated in the Fort Benning, Third Army and All-Army Rifle and Pistol Matches on the vast reservation. It would take days to tell of all the memorable incidents which have occurred during my stay at the post and it has been rewarding to have witnessed them. It's a certainty that when hunting and fishing is mentioned, I'll be able to say from experience that Fort Benning offers some of the best hunting and fishing to be had in the surrounding state. Top Catches Game. For individual records, I think that the post could compete with any Army or service installation in the southeastern United States. During the last hunting and fishing seasons, an 11-pound black bass was landed by a lady angler on the post in Kings Pond, while Col. R. K. Kinnig and 1st Lt. Wheeler of the U. S. Army Infantry Board's hunt brought two turkeys, one weighing 23 and the other 16 pounds. Marksmanship is a word which is synonymous with Fort Benning and I had the opportunity of covering matches with the tops in post fires to the all important All-Army Rifle and Pistol Matches. I got to see the many shooters arrive from all over the world for competition prior to the national matches. I could name dozens of top rifle and pistolners, but the results of the Army's showing in capturing the majority of the awards in the matches at Camp Perry speak for itself in the caliber of shooters which represented the Army. So in closing I would like to express a keen desire to all who have cushioned the way along the road and I hope I have given you a moment or two of information somewhere along the way.

What is a "Quality" Recap?

Here is a picture of a fellow who started a recap shop. He got an old barn, some inferior rubber, some obsolete equipment, other odds and ends and pretty soon he had himself a recap. You couldn't go very far on it... but it was still his recap. Since he had used all of his equipment, material, and know-how, it was the best he could do.

Here is one view of our modern recapping plant with our Shop Foreman, Mr. CECIL FACKLER, in the foreground. Mr. Fackler has over 20 years experience in the tire recapping business and shares our pride in the up-to-date equipment in our shop and the highest quality United States Rubber Company materials which we use. This combination of equipment, materials, and skill will produce your "ROYALCAP" . . . the recap that looks and wears so much like a new tire, you can't tell the difference.

Your old tires are always safety checked to be certain that you will have safe, durable tires on your automobile. For your own protection, come in today and let us give you the best tires for the money you want to spend. We guarantee "QUALITY AND SAFETY" in our "ROYALCAPS!"

'Infantry' Supplies Latest Information

To bridge the gap between the revisions of field manuals and other literature and get vital information to the field in a hurry is the mission of Fort Benning's Infantry magazine named Infantry.

Infantry magazine did not originate in its present form until 1947. It was the brain child of one individual or group of individuals, according to the present editor, Lt. Col. Stephen H. White.

Shortly after World War II it was felt that some of the instruction given at the Infantry School should be made available to other interested infantrymen. Selected lectures, conferences and instructional materials given to students were compiled annually in a publication called the Mailing List.

In 1929, Gen. George S. Patton, then a lieutenant colonel and Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School, had the Mailing List revamped and expanded to include intimate personal letters, dialogue and narrative.

The next major step in the evolution of Infantry, sometimes referred to as the Quarterly because it comes out four times per year, came in 1947. With the advent of the atomic material developed at the Infantry School. Articles are published on techniques and experiences of individuals and units throughout the Army, if they will improve the Infantry.

In addition to other literature, Infantry also lists new training aids, training films, manuals and instructional material and explains how they may be obtained. The magazine concentrates on thinking and "need to know" information for the Battle Group and below.

No appropriations and no advertising makes the Infantry a self-supporting magazine.

When the Infantry School was redesignated the United States Army Infantry School, the magazine changed its name again — to the present Infantry.

Infantry is an official publication of the Infantry School and has a circulation of more than 12,000. It is interesting to note that more than 1,000 of these subscribers are in the Marine Corps.

All departments of the Infantry School — Tactical, Weapons, Communications, Ground Mobility, Staff, Ranger, and Airborne-Air Mobility — submit material for each issue. But, Infantry is not limited to

Is it possible that there aren't any?

Very truly yours, "Doc" Maybe this letter will develop some analysis before spouting out loud. It may have the effect of stimulating some soul-searching about one's own eccentricities. All the letters say, really, is that Juniors and seniors alike are human beings with human failings, but each in his way is doing the best he can for a purpose he believes worth while. Anyway, I believe the letter deserves to live.

Pakistani Officers Reunited at School

Two Pakistan Army brigadiers visiting Fort Benning this week are enjoying a warm reunion with a brother and cousin from Pakistan attending classes at the U. S. Army Infantry School.

Brig. Abrar Husain, director of Staff Duties, and Major Noor Ahmed Husain are seeing each other for the first time since last April, when the latter came here to attend officers advanced class No. 3. It is the first trip to the U.S. for both brothers.

Brig. Rahnimullah Khan, director of Ordnance Services, is getting a student's view of school activities from his cousin, Capt. Mohammad Iqbal of associate company officers class No. 3.

The Husain brothers have served together only once. During Brig. Husain's three-year tour as an instructor at Pakistan's Command and Staff College in Quetta, the younger brother attended the course in 1954. A gifted cartoonist for newspapers such as Pakistan's largest daily, "Dawn," before entering the service, Major Husain enlisted in the Army in 1946 to attend officers' training school.

"He has never stopped drawing caricatures and filled his notebooks at the Command and Staff College with them," Brig. Husain commented. The elder brother is a 1940 graduate of the Indian Military Academy at Dehra Dun. An Infantry Lieutenant with the Baluch Regiment in Malaya, he was captured by the Japanese at Singapore in 1942 and interned on New Britain until the end of World War II.

In the Husain family there are two other brothers, one a journalist, and another in the Civil Service. Brig. CDO In the organization line, CDO aided in the development of the recently publicized Pentomic division organization of five battle groups, first tried out with the 101st Airborne. This unit is now being applied to all Infantry divisions. A Guided Missile Support Command to furnish front line units with the "Sunday punch" of atomic fire on call; a standardization program between the United Kingdom, Canada, and the United States Armies; and liaison with the U. S. Army Infantry Board and Infantry Research Unit on better ways of teaching and hard-hitting structure is now being applied to all CDO's interests. The U.S. can win in any future conflict only by having a better organization, equipped and trained Infantry force in the field than the enemy.

Only Best Personnel May Re-Up for Service

FORT RILEY, Kans.—These are trying days for the Army's career counselors here—the men who used to be called recruiting sergeants.

Here at Fort Riley, home of the First Infantry Division, Master Sergeant Stewart W. O'Shell of Seward, Pa., sums up the situation this way: "I spend a big part of my time checking a man's record when he applies for reenlistment and then, in many cases, it's my unpleasant job to tell him why he can't reenlist."

"The day of the 'professional private' is long gone in the First Division and in every other outfit in the Army," says O'Shell, enlisted chief of the career counselors at Fort Riley.

Recent regulations now in effect mean that the Army is "skimming the cream off the top of the cream" in its reenlistment policies. They now limit reenlistment to men in the higher aptitude brackets. Further, physical requirements

Guided Missiles Tested By U. S. Army in 1880

FORT TOTTEN, N. Y.—The Army tested a guided missile to guard New York City's harbor back in 1880. It was a real guided missile, too, this "Sims Electrical Fish Torpedo."

Based on the principle of the torpedo, the missile was 28 feet long, 18 inches in diameter, carried a 300-pound war-head, weighed 2000 pounds, and was powered by an electric dynamo.

It attained a speed of 11.2 knots at its own depth of 10 feet under water and had steel blades affixed allowing it to penetrate minor obstacles. Detonation was not on impact, but was under control of its operator.

The "fish" could be fired from ship or shore by the operator, who followed its path by observing a signal flag waving from the missile. Control was maintained through a current-carrying cable which extended with the missile for the length of its mile-long run.

At the time of its development, the fish was a formidable threat to New York harbor. To supplement the Army's coast artillery defenses against sea-based attacks, a call went out for an anti-ship weapon.

First the Army tried mines but they were inadequate. In the event one or two were detonated the ensuing gap would permit passage of a ship. Torpedoes felt the mobile torpedo was the answer. But they proved equally ineffective, having a tendency at that time to exhaust their fuel before reaching their target.

Inventor Winfield S. Sims thought that he had the answer with his "fish." Under the supervision of Major General Henry S. Abbott, past commander of Fort Totten's "fish" class which began Oct. 28, Fort at Wilt's Point, the "fish" underwent many test firings over a period of two years.

The project was eve dropped, and New York never attacked from the sea. However the missile tradition has continued at Fort Totten, which is now headquarters for all Army Nike guided missile units in northeastern United States. (ANF)

Committee At Post Gets New Name

In keeping with activities reflecting the Infantry School's emphasis on combat readiness, the Physical Training Committee of the school's Staff Department has been renamed the Combat Conditioning Committee.

In addition to physical training, the committee also conducts instruction in drill and hand-to-hand combat. It is divided into five sections under the direction of Lt. Col. J. E. Reilly.

Army-Congressional Relations Discussed

By Col. Ware

Army relations with Congress were discussed for 600 students attending the Infantry School's advanced officers classes by Col. Keith L. Ware of the Army's Office of Legislative Liaison in a talk at Fort Benning this week.

Col. Ware outlined legislative organization and procedures, touching in particular on the work of the member Armed Services Committee headed by Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell.

"Russell's advice plays a major role in what the Army and Armed Services will receive from Congress next term," he noted in explaining that a committee's recommendations usually are accepted by the entire Congress.

The speaker pointed out the diverse loyalties influencing legislative action concerning military installations.

"These cleavages are contrary to the consistent and district interest of each congressman and senator affected. From a local point of view it is a very difficult thing. Yet it cuts must be made, he knows for the good of the country. These installations must be closed," Col. Ware said.

He said that the congressman's three most important functions are to "make the laws of the land, take care of his constituents and investigate to determine what laws need to be changed or written and keep himself and his constituents informed."

"The Army must keep Congress informed of its activities. We must be good salesmen if we are to sell our product and must have a good product to sell," he stressed.

Takes Over Tot Town

DUSA Now Directs Children's Nursery

Daughters of the U. S. Army at Fort Benning assumed direction of the Post Children's Nursery as its full-time project with an open house Oct. 28. The "DUSA Tot Town" opening, was attended by wives of key officers at the U. S. Army Infantry Center and Third Infantry Division.

The nursery has been receiving financial and advisory assistance from the DUSA Group, but until Oct. 9 was governed by the Children's Nursery Fund Council headed by Col. Charles C. Noble, chief Engineer Group commander. The plant has been extensively redecorated in the past two weeks.

During the last two years, the DUSA organization has contributed $3,750 to the nursery operation. The Main Post nursery was begun in September, 1954, by the Infantry Center Chaplain Section and operated only on Sunday mornings.

Children are three months through eight years are cared for by the nursery. The older children will be provided facilities separate from the day per set. Refurbishments are offered once each morning and afternoon.

Retirements are offered once each morning and afternoon. An adjunct of the main nursery is the Commissary Nursery, which is operated during the Commissary hours.

Children are three months through eight years are cared for by the nursery. The older children will be provided facilities separate from the day per set. Refurbishments are offered once each morning and afternoon.

Valley Residents Invited To Post's 'Parade Of Champions' Saturday

Safe Driving Urged During This Weekend

Fort Benning safety officials urge military personnel to exercise extra safe driving precautions during the long weekend beginning Nov. 9 and continuing through Nov. 11, Veterans Day.

The long weekend is a challenge for drivers to strengthen the holiday safety campaign this year by aiming for a no accident record throughout the holiday period, officials said.

The months of November and December have been high accident months in previous years. This is attributed to increased travel on the highways during the holidays, longer driving at night and inclement weather.

Two projects in the holiday safety campaign during the last week are the distribution of safety posters, and individual unit campaigns designed to control the departure and the holiday period to keep driving at night to a minimum.

A third project is a form letter to parents of servicemen asking their cooperation in the holiday safety program from Nov. 1 through Jan. 8.

Attention also will be directed toward each person to convince him that accident prevention depends upon improving his own behavior in operating his vehicle, setting an example for others to emulate.

NOT IN VAIN... Fort Benning, along with the rest of the nation, will take time out Monday, Nov. 11, to observe Veteran's Day, a day set aside to pay homage to the men and women of this country who have served in the nation's Armed Forces since this republic's birth.

Oops...! We Goofed Columbus Merchants Salute Fort Benning

Approximately 200 enlisted men from Fort Benning will be the guests of Columbus (Ga.) businessmen Nov. 11 in the city's "Salute To Fort Benning."

Sponsored by the Merchants Association, Inc. of Columbus, the Fort Benning soldiers will be the guests of about 80 business concerns for lunch and a tour of various firms and industries.

War Dead Paid Tribute By Chief of Chaplains

We pause today to pay tribute to those soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines of World War I, World War II, and the Korean conflict who made the supreme sacrifice that human freedom and the democratic way of life might survive.

As we take time from our daily activities to pay our humble respects to those heroes, we cannot help but reflect on the state of the world of freedom which they gave their lives to preserve. We cannot fail to note the forces of subversion and oppression which still threaten it on every side.

The Americans we honor today are those who have attained the ultimate in self-sacrifice. Daring to live courageously and to die a hero's death, they gave their "last full measure of devotion" that the final victory might be achieved.

We, too, must have their noble qualities of courage and self-sacrifice in full measure if the priceless heritage which they passed on to us is to be preserved. Inspired by their example, we must do all that is necessary to keep our country strong and free. With their spirit living within us—and under God's guiding hand—we must strive to hasten the day when enduring conditions of peace and freedom for all men shall at last prevail.

CG to Award Trophy; Benning to Pick Queen

Championship day, county fair, gala carnival and fund raising project—all in one awesome feat—is Fort Benning's Parade of Champions to be held Nov. 9.

Planned as a day of competition and awards for Fort Benning personnel, as well as for entertainment, the Parade of Champions is sponsored by the Youth Activities Club. Funds collected from the carnival will be added to the annual Community Activities Association drive and marked for Youth Activities programs including Boy and Girl Scouts and the Parent Teachers Association.

Festivities will be located in the outdoor and indoor areas of Hangars L-10 and L-11 at Lawson Army Air Field. The day's program will open at 10 a.m. and continue until approximately 8 p.m. All residents of the surrounding Chattahoochee Valley community are invited to join Fort Benning's military, dependent and civilian personnel in the grand day of entertainment.

Sixteen trophies will be awarded in the final parade of the day's champions. Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, will make the individual presentations to each winner. Leading in the trophy parade will be the award of the four-foot tall, elaborately designed general's trophy to the best military company.

Other trophies will be presented for their time in each category: basketball, baseball, riding and equestrian. Competition will be open throughout the day.

Parents will have the opportunity to meet their children's teachers and become familiar with activities of their schools during the week devoted to American Education with the theme, "An Educated People, A Free Nation."

The open house replaces the general meeting of the PTA for November, according to Col. William E. Korman of Sarasota, Fla., PTA president.

Observed annually since 1921, American Education Week is sponsored by the National Education Association, American Legion, S. Office of Education and the PTA.

Next to Honor Veterans

Next Monday, Nov. 11, is Veterans Day. Since we have overheard several questions concerning Veterans Day recently, and since there seems to be some confusion involving Veterans Day, Armistice Day, and the Memorial Day, we would like to set forth the following facts pertaining to Veterans Day.

Hostilities of World War I, which began in the summer of 1914, were suspended at 11 a.m. Monday, Nov. 11, 1918, after the signing of an armistice by the contending powers in a railway car in the Compiègne forest.

At that hour along a battle line stretching solidly from Switzerland to the North Sea, approximately 300 miles, the staccato rattle of small arms and the menacing roar of cannon ceased completely for the first time in more than four years.

It was a day of unparalleled rejoicing especially for combat soldiers crawling from their trenches to find themselves numbered among the quick instead of the dead. The rejoicing swept the allied countries on the continent, jumped the channel to Great Britain and crossed the Atlantic to the U. S. and Canada. The spontaneous rejoicing experienced on the actual Armistice Day never was a part of subsequent observances on its anniversary. Within a short time Armistice Day ceremonies became the occasion for paying tribute to the dead of World War I.

On Armistice Day in 1920 the body of a French unknown soldier was buried in the Arc de Triomphe in Paris and the body of a British unknown soldier was buried in Westminster Abbey in London. A cenotaph was erected on a public square in London in honor of the unknown dead, and in Paris a perpetual flame was lighted over the tomb beneath the famous arch.

In 1921, the body of an unknown American soldier was brought from France and on Armistice Day buried in Arlington Cemetery with elaborate ceremonies, after a parade from the National Capitol across the Potomac River to the cemetery. President Harding made an appropriate salute in a Foreign Minister Salas to the body which soldiers stand a perpetual guardian and at which memorial exercises are held every year. Congress adopted a resolution in 1926 directing the president to issue an annual proclamation calling upon the people to observe the day as Armistice Day.

In 1938 President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a law which made Armistice Day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia. It later became a legal holiday in all the states, and in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

By Act of Congress on June 1, 1954, Nov. 11 was officially designated as Veterans Day. "The holiday," says a congressional report on this anniversary, "was dedicated to the cause of world peace, and has been regarded and observed throughout the land as a day to honor the veterans of the First World War who fought, and especially those who died for that cause."

Educational Opportunity

The Army's educational goal for commissioned officers is attainment of a college degree. The army has set up a procedure by which an officer, who lacks only a few semester hours for a degree, can make application for FDY assignment, on full pay allowances, to attend an accredited civilian college or university for a period not to exceed six months, in order to complete degree requirements.

Officers who may be eligible to make application for civilian schooling under the final semester plan are invited to consult Leonard S. Ozeley, or M. Sgt. Peter Balkan, at the Army Education Center, Bldg. 2512.

Application must be made more than 120 days before the beginning of the semester during which the officer desires to attend college, and must be accompanied by transcript of college credits and a letter of acceptance from the college or university concerned.

Officers not within 24 semester hours of college completion, as urged to consult the education advisor in order to plan a program that will eventually make them eligible for the final semester plan.

International Round-Up Reds Thin Zhukov's Friends of Power

LONDON — Reports from Moscow said Soviet army powers agreed not to press a vote their respiration calling for United Nations action. But a few hours later, Soviet Foreign Minister Salas to the marshal himself is likely to be exiled to a remote military job.

Already, according to reports reaching Belgrade, he has been expelled from all positions of power — from the top-level party presidium, the party Central Committee and the Defense Ministry job. "When the Kremlin hierarchy gets around to revealing Zhukov's future and the reasons for his humiliation, other uncensored reports said, it will make him the scapegoat for the Syrian-Turkish Brink-of-war crisis, a crisis which Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev himself stirred up.

Great scientific strides are being made today in psychology. Every field of endeavor is being explored. We are becoming more and more conscious of microelectrons, become better acquainted with the back side of the moon, and of the psychological complex and nervous system. We are gaining increased knowledge and wisdom of things and events which, only a few years ago, did not even cross our fields of consciousness.

We have heard so much about these fields of endeavor that most of them have become fairly familiar to each of us. Many new and useful accomplishments have resulted from these great advances. We are able to fight the dreaded disease of cancer with a flow of electrons, we are able to help restore the mentally ill with the tranquilizing drugs of the block and John Carroll, also cartoon and short.

We find ourselves caught up in great clouds of misunderstanding and confusion. It is hard for us to think clearly and make right decisions. We are so busy with our worldly affairs that we do not really pray. We are so busy with our worldly affairs that we do not really pray.

Scouts Leaders Sate Meeting On November 8

Ft. Benning's Boy Scout leaders will hold a meeting Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Harwood Club. The Trailer Court community building to organize a Scout troop for the area.

CLAYTON DODD, scout executive for the Upson District of the Georgia-Alabama Council of Boy Scouts, will be present to assist leaders and parents in establishing the new troop.

All parents of boys who are 10 and one-half years or older are urged to attend the meeting and give their support to the organization of a Boy Scout troop for the children of the Trailer Court community.

Scout officials have pointed out that the interest and support of parents in training and expanding Fort Benning's Scouting program will be vital to its success.

Approximately 200 boys from ages eight to 18 are being served by four Cub Scout packs, three Boy Scout troops and 2 Explorer Posts.

WAC Controls Air Traffic for Lawson

BY JULIA BRUNKE
A Fort Benning WAC has taken over the job of air traffic control operator at Lawson Air Field—a job only two women have held previously at the Army Infantry Center.

Pfc Edna F. Clouse, a former school teacher and secretary who could easily walk off with a few beauty dollars, spends her duty hours clearing flight plans at Lawson Field.

Planes taking off from the field whether flying in the area or going to any part of the country must submit a flight plan to Pfc Clouse. She obtains local clearance and then contacts the air traffic center at Atlanta, Ga., for final approval. A safe flight and the proverbial "happy landing" begins for the pilot in the delicate responsibility of her job.

When landing aircraft must also get a final clearance from the control tower. "As control operators we must be that final moment be the eyes for the pilot," said Pfc Clouse who is quietly and calmly thrilled by her work.

As a student and speech major at the Southwest Missouri State Teachers College in Springfield, she prepared a speech research paper on the effects of military training on men. "From that point on it just seemed to be a matter of time before I would have to try out military life for myself," she said.

Fort McClellan, Ala. A timely opening at the Control Tower School at Keeler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., gave her what she called "an opportunity to dream about."

Completing the course in May this year she was honor graduate of her class. There were only eight other WACs in the school.

A young woman with patience, determination and a knack for timeliness, Pfc Clouse got an assignment at Fort Benning and headed for Lawson Field. It wasn't easy to overcome a strong natural resistance against wearing an air cap, but she explained, "I know I had to prove myself—and I have to keep on doing it."

AWARD... Sgt. Chester A. Lorch, 80th Airborne Division, Special Operations Troops, was presented an Infantry Troops Certificate of Achievement for outstanding performance in the field.

nance Company of Special Troops Command, is the grandfather. Pvt. Donald A. Lester, former Fort Benning basic trainee now assigned to Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., is the grandson.

Entered Army Poshkus joined the Army in June, 1922. He served in the Infantry in the U.S. and Panama before joining the Army Air Corps in 1930. Two years later Sgt. Poshkus went back into the Infantry and spent what he calls his "most interesting tour of duty" in China for three years.

Leaving China shortly before the outbreak of hostilities, Sgt. Poshkus joined the Army Air Corps for another year and then transferred to the Ordnance Corps in 1942, serving in Africa and Italy. Sgt. Poshkus changed to the Ordnance Corps in 1942. He went to Korea for 18 months in 1952. In November, 1953, he arrived at Fort Benning. He will retire at the post in a month.

Stet Well-Filled The sergeant has two grandsons to fill his slot in the service when he leaves. Donald's brother, Thomas, joined the Army the same time he did and is assigned to Fort Gordon, Ga.

Although Sgt. Poshkus has 30 years in the Army, he says he had nothing to do with both of his grandsons joining. "It was their decision entirely," he said, "and I left it up to them." While Donald, 17, and Thomas, 18, are beginning new military careers, Sgt. Poshkus and his wife, Gladys, will be retiring to sunny Florida.

The system of assigning well-schooled soldiers where their education can be put to the best use works to the advantage of the soldiers as well as the Army. Generally recent college graduates, they rub elbows with some of the best men in their specialized occupations. A number remain as civilians when their active military service is completed. The eagerness to continue to gain knowledge is also very marked at this Army Ordnance Corps arsenal where the average educational level is already 12.42 years. About a third of

Jumpmaster Is Key To Safe Air Drop

PORT BRAGG, N. C. — Leaping out the open door of a "Flying Boreas," a 130-mile-an-hour wind machine, Waugh carries a rare responsibility: lines, tug at helmet straps. "Sound off!" Waugh cocks a hand behind his ear. The "okay" call comes down the line. Satisfied that each man is ready, he leans out and looks for the drop zone. The red light on the tail turns green.

On Sergeant First Class William D. Waugh's command, 40 paratroopers will disappear through the door, aided by his experience, training and presence of mind, 40 troopers will land unharmed and combat-ready on the drop zone below. Waugh, 42 (Hwy. St.), Plains, Pa., is a jumpmaster — a key man in the 82d Airborne Division. Whether an officer or, like Waugh, a top NCO, one orders designates him the jumpmaster; he and he alone must do the job. His authority cannot be delegatied.

And from the time the manifest list is made up until the jumpers — usually 100 — assemble before the descent, these men are the responsibility of the graduate jumpmaster. Waugh's job begins at the marshalling area, where the group meets for a briefing by the pilot. Meanwhile his men are jumping from mock-ups — "master-cars" and practicing landing falls from a platform. Every soldier makes a practice exit and fall, whether he is jumping for the first time or wears the wings of a sergeant and wears a 65-jump master-parachutist.

With the men gathered around a map and blackboard, Waugh, a ten-year Army Veteran, Service crewman aboard the plane in Labrador and helped on the final leg of the long flight.

If I Am Captured . . .

"If I am captured I will continue to resist by all means available. I will make every effort to escape and aid others to escape. I will accept neither parole nor special favors from the enemy."

These three sentences are a declaration of a basic duty of all American servicemen. It is a duty of each man to do his basic job, to fight for his country.

American fighting men have done the job well over the past two centuries. They have fought, been wounded, died living up to the thought behind the phrases above.

Those phrases now are written for all to see. They are part of the Code of Conduct for members of the Armed Forces. The meaning of the Code is clear.

We must live by it. Others have died for it. (AFPS)

Pickpocket in the Crowd

On the ground, the paratrooper's first job is to find the assembly area, marked with a flag or flare. Once they reach the drop zone, the jumpmaster is finished.

Two weeks of expert tutelage in the division's jumpmaster school under instructors like Waugh prepare 82d jumpmasters for their responsibility.

The school believes in training from the ground up. The students, most of them veterans, jumpers, don't object to the repetition of fundamentals. "I've been out of jump school a long time," one said, "and they've brought up some better ways of doing just about everything since."

Newer to most of the students are classes on aerial delivery. The soldiers who jump must be supplied.

Some equipment the jumper can carry himself. A general purpose (GP) bag holds as much as 60 pounds of ammunition or other supplies. Heavy equipment tends to earth on cargo chutes. From theory to practice, students study the monetary device that jetsuons this cargo.

The class on malfunctions and entanglements is one that is conducted with as little practice in the air as possible.

Waugh, originally from Eastport, Tex., where his mother, Mrs. J. H. Waugh, still lives, says his biggest headache isn't getting troopers to jump. It's keeping them from piling out in an airborne mob scene. Crowding, jumpmasters know, increases the chances of entanglement and injury.

As Waugh puts it, "Any man, unless he's a stretcher case, can jump from an airplane. But in the Airborne they expect you to get up and walk away."

He might have added that they expect men like himself to make sure you can. (ANF.)

500 Cub Scouts, Parents Attend Pack 27 Meeting

Approximately 500 Cub Scouts and their parents attended a monthly meeting of Fort Benning's Pack No. 27 in the Main Post School auditorium recently.

Halloween provided a festive theme and setting for the meeting. Each Cub came in costume.

Highlight of the meeting was the welcome of 43 new members and their parents. After being sworn into the Pack, the new Cubs received their Bob Cat pins and began the first stage of Scouting. Each Den prepared an exhibit of Halloween ideas for display. Prizes were awarded to the Den with the best exhibit and to the Den whose members had the best costumes.

Den No. 2 won first place for the best exhibit. Den No. 11 won the prize for the best costumes. Individual prizes for the best costumes went to James W. Lane, son of M. Sgt. and Mrs. James W. Lane, Den 1; Taylor Dempsey, son of Major and Mrs. Jack Dempsey, Den 6; and Roy Murray, son of Col. and Mrs. Roy A. Murray, Den 8.

For Good Behavior Unit Presented Gift By German Town
 GOEPFINGEN, Germany—An American general and his men have impressed leaders in German towns so well that one civic group presented the commander with their most esteemed possession—the town's colors, flown only on special occasions. The mayor of Geislingen was quoted in the German press today following the presentation as saying that soldiers of the "pentomic" Eighth Infantry Division had not been involved in any serious incident since their arrival nearly a year ago and that such fine discipline deserved the appreciation of the German people. The division commander, Major General Thomas M. Wallington, instigated special training for his troops long before they moved to Germany from Fort Carson, Colo., last fall. The orientation program included classes in the German language, history and traffic rules. On the eve of his departure for a new assignment in Paris, General Wallington found himself saying goodbye to as many German leaders as commanders of his major units, located in Southern Germany in an area triangulated by Ulm, Heilbronn and Nurnberg. In addition to the historic flag of Geislingen, the departing general received a special etching of his headquarters

BALL CARRIER BROUGHT DOWN IN FLURRY

Bulldogs Take Revenge In Edging Rams, 13-6

The basic Infantry officers going over the top with 3:07 remaining in the second period. Dudley Badrich's extra point attempt was wide to the left. The Bulldog's threatened late in the second quarter, driving to the Rams eight before being stopped. Brigade halfback Pater blocked a Thompson-Bill Bell aerial to halt penetration and the student battalion went to the dressing rooms with a 6-0 half-time lead.

Defensive Battle
Last Sunday's game pitted two brutal lines locking horns in a furious defensive battle. A pair of long gainers and a break accounted for the scoring.

Don Gilkey, a 230-pound line backer from the University of California playing for the Bulldogs, picked off a short pass from Brigade quarterback Al Vin Norin and returned it six yards to the Rams' 38. Chuck Fiorino scooted to the 21 on a draw play and Ed Burkhalter, Fiorino and Alan McLam alternated to the one foot line. Thompson scored

Canadian Match Ends At Benning

Visiting Team Will Return Home Today

Hampton gave the Canadians two of the top three places in the 600 yard competition with his 50:7V effort.

While at Fort Benning, the Canadian team is guest of the U.S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, Lt. Col. E. R. Mason, commanding. The 10-man team, under the direction of Col. J. A. Dextraze, DSO, O.B.E., Commandant, PCS, were guests of honor at a formal dinner Wednesday at Viceroy Lodge before their departure for Camp Borden, Ontario.

This is a return engagement for the two service teams. The first match was fired at Camp Borden, Sept. 13-15. The ground work for these two matches was laid by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry Center Commander, during his trip to the RCSI last May and is expected to be an annual event.

In Marne Football DivArty to Meet 7th Infantry Nov. 11

Redlegs and the undefeated 15th Can Doers. The 6th hand-dogs will face their stiffest test of the season in Marne Division football competition when they meet the Seventh Infantry, 11th Infantry, at Bennett Field on Veterans' Day, Nov. 11.

In their Veterans' Day battle, the Redlegs will be favored to win, but the Can Doers' tough lines and their hard-running, fast-footed backfield will be tested for the first time this season.

Top Man
Quarterback coach Gene Hanson has been the number one man in the Artillery offense, handling most of the club's passing, doing much of the running, and setting up the sprints of backs such as Don Milton, Julius Blakeney, Jack Fall and Jim Stewart.

Milton and Blakeney are running first and second in the individual scoring department, with seven and six touchdowns scored, respectively, in five contests.

Strong Line
But the Seventh line, which has yielded but two touchdowns in five contests, looks weighty. Please see DivArty Page 19

Fort Benning's Deer Hunting Season Opened

The deer season officially opened Nov. 1 at Fort Benning.

Registration hours are from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. Hunters are required to sign out as well as in at any assigned area.

Due to heavy scheduling of field problems, few sections of the reservation are open for hunting during the season. However, most areas will be open each Saturday beginning at 1 p. m.

The limit per person is one deer per season. Once the hunting bag is down, it will not be permitted to reenter the area and assist another hunter in less getting his deer.

Only shotguns, no rifles or any type, may be used on the post.

LEAVE FOR TOURNAMENT

Defeats Fourth Infantry

DivArty Cops 5th Straight Grid Tilt

DivArty's powerful football squad capped their fifth straight Marne League victory, defeating Fourth Infantry Warriors Oct. 31, 47-0, under the leadership of DivArty's star, Stewart Kidd. He led his first five extra points to give DivArty an early 7-0 lead.

Second Score
Milton and Gene Hanson paved the way for the second score, alternating with the seven touchdowns evenly distributed throughout the contest, with six men sharing in the scoring. Halback Doc Millen tied the TD parade with two tallies, and took over scoring honors for the loop from his teammate Julius Blakeney.

However, it was Blakeney who started the proceedings for the loop leaders, scoring from near the end of the first half.

Millen raced 28 yards for the initial score in the second game, the first of his TD romps, and Paul Peterkowsky joined the long list of DivArty point makers, as he tallied the loop leaders, scoring from near the end of the first half.

Two Teams Knocked From Ranks Of Unbeaten in Little League

Two big upsets were posted last week in the Little League Knockout Series from the undefeated ranks.

The Bears ended their fray as a heavy underdog but refused to roll over and play dead for the high-flying Giants. They handed the favorites a convincing setback.

Lodged in the league cellar, the Red Devils registered their initial win at the expense of the Raiders.

The tough Red Devils defeated a major roll in the victory.

In other Biddy games, the Terriers maintained their unbeaten slate with a one-sided 24-7 win over the Rams. The Tigers fought the Snubborn Scorpions for a 12-0 decision. The 93ers edged the Blue Devils.

Joseph, the Redleg line will be facing one of the circuit's finest, and the number three man in individual scoring.

Kickoff time is 2 p. m. with the contest open to the general public with no admission charge.

DivArty

Thank You for Continuing and speed. Tackle Ralph Wallace and John Abruzzese guards Owen Schroeder and Mike Ryan and center Jim Dillard have all proven themselves as among the league's best.

This is not to deny the Redleg line, an aggregate which is stronger and faster than any forward wall yet confronted by the Coltonbers. Tackles Jean Colton and Lenny Nelson have surrendered little to the opposition and they have been supported by several fine guards, including Bob Barone, Tom Critchfield, Ralph Poehls, a d Ron Goldwizer.

The key to the Coltonbers offense has been the running of Bob Joseph and the passing and quarterbacking of Bob McDonald. McDonald, however, has been hospitalized with pneumonia, and whether he will play remains in doubt.

20-Yard Dash
Midway through the fourth quarter, Milton provided the game's final score as he dashed 20 yards on an intercepted pass. Please See Page 21

A-A Competition Ordered Discontinued Immediately

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Army disclosed today that it will discontinue immediately A-A Army sports participation in various championship sports events.

The Army says it made this major policy change in its world-wide sports program to increase the emphasis on less professional-like sports activities and give all personnel a chance to compete and participate at the lowest practicable level.

Army teams, however, will enter the 1958 Interservice championship competition in boxing, golf, and tennis on a voluntary basis. Outstanding Army athletes will still represent the U. S. in international competitions.

Under the new plan, major commands will furnish only the minimum number of athletes for participation in various concentrated training programs at interservice competition sites. These athletes will represent the Army in inter-service competition.

The policy change does not hinder the establishment of post teams or command companies. However, the Army warned, these activities should not be allowed to hurt the primary objective of obtaining maximum participation in team sports.

The Army hopes the increased emphasis on less professional-like sports will encourage a higher percentage of individual participation in world-wide sports program.

'Niners, 'Legs Tied In Top Bowling Spot

In the USAISTC Bowling League, the officers in close order with the Two-niners and the Redlegs tied for top place, and the Golden Dragons placing third.

The results of last week's games showed high scores with the Two-niners bowling high three games average of 2,760 and high team average of 955, while the Redlegs had a high three game of 2,660 and a team high of 900. Following close behind the Redlegs were the Golden Dragons with a high three games of 2,618 and a high team of 870.

Individual highs in the officers bracket were Lt. Edward Davis, of the Panzers, with a 201, followed by Lt. John Stein, high of the Liners, with a close 189, and third was Lt. Vernon Meyer, of the Redlegs, with a 181. While in the high three individual games were Lt. Davis with 525, Lt. Meyer with 518, and Lt. Moses Smith with 485. In the enlisted men league, Co. ## In Odd Sort of Way

Romans Originated Horseshoe Pitching

Of all the forms of sport and recreation that have been devised by military personnel for off-duty hours, one of the most commonly practiced, with little thought to the origin, is the art of pitching horseshoes.

Although the days of the horse cavalry are gone, despite the supply of shoes for the sport, practically every base, whether large or small, has horseshoe pits.

The game itself originated with people in the rear echelons of the Roman army in about 200 B. C. Pitching horseshoes evolved from the discus throwing of the troops. Unable to buy the expensive hand-tooled shoes, they used the cast horseshoes.

Due to the weight difference, the shoes were soon being thrown for accuracy rather than distance, and the present-day game was on its way. Its military popularity has lasted and it was listed as the number three sport of American troops during WWII.

30th Takes 3rd Place In Division

The 30th Infantry showed its way into undisputed possession of third place in the Marine Division Football League Tuesday night, disposing of Div. Armor 47-0 at Bennett Field.

The outcome was not long in doubt, for the Rockets now four time winners against a single loss — showed over a brace of TDs in the opening round and added two more before halftime, all on short punts.

DivArmor gambled on a fourth down with five to go in the first series of plays. 30th stopped it, took over at the loser's 45 and scored in five plays. Lefty Young fumbled from four yards out, and Al Ocasioville led through the rest of his five PATs, for a 7-0 score.

Minutes later, Anthony Patrio dashed over from the line, scoring a drive that covered 43 yards in six plays. At the quarter, the Rockets led 14-0.

On the first play of the second stanza, Jimmy Reckling tossed 67 yards to end Joe Norwood for the third tally. Then Patrio scooted over for his second score before halftime, a 28-0 Rocket advantage.

Tom Wright backed for two yards and a TD after an intercepted pass had put the Rockets deep in DivArmor territory early in the third period. Gerry Olsen then found pay dirt at the end of a 29 yard dash, and in the fourth quarter he ran over for the final tally.

Marine Division football action resumes again Thursday. Please See 24th, Page 21.

30th Takes 3rd Place In Division

Third Opens Tournament For Boxers

The Third Infantry Division Boxing Tournament opened Nov. 5 at the Harmony Church Field House, with 38th Infantry facing Division Armor and Company Troops meeting Division Artillery.

The tourney is scheduled to continue through Jan. 28, with matches being staged twice each week. All bouts will be open to the public, and present some of the top amateur boxing in this section.

Increase Margin in Spread the contest, the scores gradually increased their margin. Joseph scored his first TD on a 24-yard pass from John Taylor, guard Owens Schroeder lumbered 45 yards with the pigskin following his block of Billy Gray's attempt. Jerry Huggins, 14th Infantry, 38th Infantry, 38th Infantry, Division Artillery, Division Armor Division Troops and Combat Support Troops.

Each team will consist of an entry in each of 10 different weight classes, ranging from the 112 pound flyweight class to the heavyweight scaling over 175 pounds.

Amateur Athletic Union rules will be in effect, with three judges determining the winner in the matches which go the three-round limit.

Tonight, Division Troops will meet 30th Infantry, and 15th Infantry will battle 4th Infantry.

JUST THE RIGHT SIZE... Col. Lloyd B. Ramsey, commander of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, tries new basketball jacket on for size. M-Sgt. Harry K. Butler, sergeant major, helps him with jacket that the recently activated Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, Dragoneers will wear this season.

7th Defeats Cottonbalers In Div. Play

Stocky Bob Joseph led the Seventh Infantry Cottonbalers to a 41-0 victory over the 7th Infantry Vikings Saturday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium in Marine League grid competition.

Scoring two touchdowns, kicking three extra points, and handling his team's punting, full back Joseph picked up the offensive slack in the Cottonbale lineup, caused by the illness of star quarterback Bob McDonald.

It was the Cottonbalers' final performance before their Veteran's Day engagement with the undefeated Divarty Redlegs at Bennett Field, in turning up against the second division Vikings, the Cottonbalers showed complete dominance, led by their fine line and the hard running of Joseph.

A first period TD on a 24 yard sprint by seacab T. V. Gilbert started the Cottonbalers' scoring, and with Joseph adding the placement, the club led 7-0 at the period.

Increase Margin in Spread the contest, the scores gradually increased their margin. Joseph scored his first TD on a 24-yard pass from John Taylor, guard Owens Schroeder lumbered 45 yards with the pigskin following his block of Billy Gray's attempt. Jerry Huggins, 14th Infantry, 38th Infantry, 38th Infantry, Division Artillery, Division Armor Division Troops and Combat Support Troops.

Each team will consist of an entry in each of 10 different weight classes, ranging from the 112 pound flyweight class to the heavyweight scaling over 175 pounds.

Amateur Athletic Union rules will be in effect, with three judges determining the winner in the matches which go the three-round limit.

Tonight, Division Troops will meet 30th Infantry, and 15th Infantry will battle 4th Infantry.

3 Get Sp3; 23 to Pfc

Twenty-nine men of the Infantry Board's Detachment were upgraded this week — six to Sp3 and twenty three to Pfc.

The new Sp3's were: William Bibb, James R. Perry, Gary F. Shelton, Henry H. St. John, Glen R. Hall.

The men gaining their first stripes were: Edwin G. Gonz, Gerald H. Gonz, Clarence D. Zimmerman, William O. Craft, Robert E. Currie, Charles H. Engelhardt, Herbert J. Golaick, Kenneth Britt, John J. Darling, George R. Young, David R. Wiles, Vergil H. Cummins, Albus P. Draper, Richard O. Duffee, Charles E. Eschick, Ronald E. Gates, Larry K. Pusey, Gary D. Tycer, Richard T. Murphy, John D. Watford, Albert E. Yochere, and Robert H. Davis.

Col. Paul F. Terry left the Infantry Board and was assigned to U.S. Army Garrison, Fort Belvoir, Ill. He is replaced this week as Pfc William E. Finley and Pvt. Richard P. Thomas were discharged.

Men of 4th Student Bn. Make Columbus Orphanage Beautiful

4TH STUDENT BATTALION HEADQUARTERS — The Anne Elizabeth Shepperd Orphanage of Columbus is receiving a "new look" through the efforts of the 4th Student Battalion last weekend. The renovation and beautification of the home included new paint, interior and exterior structural repairs, and attention to special projects such as construction of a patio. The all-out support of the project was reflected by the enthusiastic participation of both cadre and students over the weekend.

Doctors See Intern Plan At Hospital

Representatives of the American Medical Association and the Office of the Army's Surgeon General visited Fort Benning last week.

They were Dr. V. J. Johns, Jr., chairman of the Department of Medicine, College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles, Calif., and Dr. H. A. Zintel, director of surgery, St. Lukes Hospital, New York City.

The two doctors reviewed the intern training program established this summer at U. S. Army Hospital.

They also conducted a survey of hospital facilities, staff and number and types of patients to determine if the residency program should be expanded to include other specialties.

For the past six years the hospital has operated a one-year pre-specialty general surgery residency.

Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Army Infantry Center, last Oct. 28 at the Main Officers' mess.

Army Plans War Tests

Factors to be measured against requirements of war projected to 15 to 20 years from now.

FT. MONROE, Va. (AFPS)—A series of day and night engagements, which will put theories and techniques of future ground warfare atomic and non-atomic—under close scrutiny, is scheduled to take place in California through December.

The tests will be held at the Army's Combat Development, Experimentation Center at Camp Roberts' Hunter Liggett M111 Army Reservation, Calif. The organization is directed by US Continental Army Command, with headquarters here.

Troops formed into three rifle companies will operate under conditions of atomic warfare, or non-atomic warfare in which the threat of nuclear war will be used to heighten the realism.

Mobility, dispersion of men and equipment at squad and platoon levels, use of helicopter, airborne, offensive and defensive action are among

Although the Second Army reorganization has not been in operation long enough for full evaluation, the program is being speeded up in other areas. The Army said, in view of the obvious savings in personnel and money.

Plans have been approved to consolidate all 13 military districts in Fifth Army into four Army Corps (Reserve) and two of the five districts in Fourth Army into one Corps.

The remaining Fourth Army districts and those in the other three 21 Armies will be reorganized similarly as soon as plans are prepared and approved by the Secretary of the Army.

Mrs. Adams Will Attend National Scout Confab

Mrs. Sam H. Adams, Fort Benning's Girl Scout neighborhood chairman and troop organizer, has been selected as one of seven delegates from the Conchardy Council of Girl Scouts to attend the 34th National Convention of Girl Scouts in Philadelphia Nov. 11 to 15.

She has been an active Scout leader and worker at Fort Benning since 1954 when her husband, Major Adams, was assigned to the Infantry School. Parents of a 13-year-old Explorer Scout, Sam Jr., and a 12-year-old Girl Scout, Betty, both Major and Mrs. Adams have been active adult Scouters for the past seven years.

In 1952 while stationed at Camp Crawford and Camp Christie in Japan she and Major Adams assisted in getting a Scouting program established. Mrs. Adams received her first Scout training as an adult member for Cub Scouts. Consequently she has served as troop leader, neighborhood chairman and council board member in the Girl Scout program.

The theme of this year's convention directed primarily to the troop leader is "You Can Count on Her—Can She Count on You?" Dr. George Gallup of the National Institute of Public Opinion will be featured on the program with his report on a survey on the interest of girls. The report will be in connection with research and study on more effective programming for Girl Scouts.

Women's Group Is Organized By Protestants

An organizational and discussion conference for women of Fort Benning's Protestant churches was held Nov. 5.

The primary purpose of the conference is to discuss the organization of protestant women in a Christian service, study and fellowship circle. Though inter-denominational in character, the group was organized similarly to women's service organizations in churches of civilian communities.

Part of the expanding chapel and religious life of Fort Benning, the new organization is under the sponsorship of the Army Infantry Center Protestant chaplains. Development assistance will be given by Mrs. Elizabeth DeLark, Christian Education at the post.

Crain Hall at Benning Named For Medal of Honor Winner

Technical Sergeant Morris E. Crain, Army serial number 30728722, Company E, 141st Infantry, led his platoon against powerful German forces on 15 March 1945 in Haguenau, France, during the struggle to enlarge the bridgehead across the Moder river. With great daring and aggressiveness he spearheaded the platoon.

propelled gun fire raked the area, he moved about among his men during the day, exhorting them to great efforts and encouraging them to stand firm. He carried ammunition and maintained contact with the company command post, exposing himself to deadly enemy fire. He was wounded by a mortar barrage became more aggressive and tanks entered the way to cover lost troops while they bombarded our positions with grenades and rockets. As buildings were blasted and the Germans, the Americans fled back from house to house, Sergeant Crain deployed another platoon which had been sent to his support and then rushed through machine gun fire to the small arms fire to the foremost house, which was being defended by five of his men. With the enemy attacking from an adjacent room and a tank firing point-blank at the house, he ordered the men to withdraw while he remained in the face of almost certain death to hold the position. Although shells were crashing through the walls and bullets were hitting all around him, he held his ground and with accurate fire from his sub-machine gun killed three Germans. He was killed when the building was destroyed by the enemy. Sergeant Crain's outstanding valor and intrepid leadership, enabled his platoon to organize a new defense, repel the attack and preserve the hard-won bridgehead. (Awarded Sept. 2, 1945.)

Brothers on active duty are Captain James W. Emanuel at Fort Halabird, Md., and Specialist Third Class Peter J. Emanuel in Germany. Three other brothers are veterans of Army services, and three served in the Navy.

Look behind the pretty face like a future Miss America, a fine timepiece has to have more than a beautiful appearance. After all a watch is a phenomenal engineering achievement, ticking off 18,000 times an hour, 432,000 times in a single day, 156,000,000 times in a year!

The wear, as a result of the tremendous friction of this remarkable machine, can render a mass-produced watch virtually useless, causing it to lose time or stop altogether. The reason is in the quality of the metal parts and the precision of their machining. For example, a balance screw is so tiny that several thousand can fit into a thumbnail.

For 75 years Zodiac has been custom-making fine watches and through these long years has established a reputation for precision timekeeping that has endeared it to thousands of people throughout the world.

Look for... look for Zodiac fine watches at your Exchange. Take advantage of the low PR price of this world famous timepiece!

Sfc Bunn Named Aide to 3rd CG

A decorated combat veteran has assisted the "Marne" Company with demonstrations of its soldierly appearance before the Division's New Marines, and aided him on the reviewing stand during Reorganization Day ceremonies July 2nd.

Sergeant Bunn enlisted in the Army in 1939, and has served in Hawaii, the Atlantic Islands, Guadalcanal, Luzon, five different islands of the Philippines, Germany, and Korea. In January, 1956, he reenlisted for the 3d Infantry, where he has served until this time. He plans to Gyroscopic to Germany with the "Marne" Division when it exchanges stations and missions with the 10th Division next Spring.

Among his awards and decorations are the Bronze Star, Good Conduct, World War II Victory, and Korean Service Medals, and the Combat Infantryman's Badge with Star.

French Chief Attends Post Conferences

The chief of the Airborne Section of the French Army's Technical Services, Lt. Col. Robert Ribart, visited Fort Benning Nov. 1-3 for conferences on air-landed operations.

He was accompanied by Capt. George Sirgant of the French Air Force Proving Ground Center, and Capt. Pierre Vincendon of the French Army's Airborne Section.

Other guests presented U.S. Army Infantry School "Follow Up" pins by Brig. Gen. Stanley Larson, assistant commander of the school, the Allied visitors were briefed on paratrooper (airborne vanguard) activities at the Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department.

The French officers were honored at an official luncheon Nov. 1 in the Main Officers' Mess. Their itinerary also included orientations of night vision and Infantry School Technical Department air mobility operations.

On Nov. 2, the group attended a command inspection of the 5th Medical Group on Stillwell Field. The review was conducted by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, commanding general of the U.S. Army Infantry Center during the temporary absence of Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell.

Col. Ribart's party was escorted by Lt. Col. Albert Ruggles, French Army liaison officer at the Infantry School, during the Fort Benning visit.

Capt. Clarence J. Slinger, assigned to the Infantry School's Communications Department, is the project officer.

Marking 40 Years Marne Invites 100 Dignitaries

Ten Army General Officers, prominent military and civilian dignitaries invited to attend the 40th Anniversary program of the 34 Infantry Division, scheduled Nov. 21, at Fort Benning.

Many of the active duty and retired national figures invited by Major General Roy E. Lindquist, "Marne" Division Commander, have been veterans of the division and directed its wartime action.

Lieutenant General Alexander R. Bolling, now retired, as a World War I Lieutenant, wore the first "Marne" shoulder patch of blue and white. Lieutenant General John W. O'Donoghue, now retired, led the battle-honored 3d Division in World War II as Commanding General, 1st Corps in Korea, directed many of its missions in the Far East, General Mark W. Clark, now President, the Citadel, in South Carolina, was intimately concerned with some of the most difficult campaigns of the 3d in World War II.

United States Continental Army Commander, General William G. Wyman, Third United States Army Commander, Lieutenant General Thomas F. Hickey, and Deputy, Major General George Gurnea, and Chief of Staff, Major General Douglas W. Johnson, and United States Army Infantry Center Commander, Major General Herbert B. Powell, are among the active duty military leaders expected to attend.

Other Army dignitaries expected are Lieutenant General Stanton S. Eddy (retired) and Lieutenant General Reuben E. Jenkins (retired).

The "Marne" Division will celebrate forty years of service, with special activities, which include a tactical Air Force demonstration, parade, and ceremonial review, ground Penomic tactical demonstration and display of ROCID weapons, and Open House to civilian guests.

Prominent political figures from the Columbus-Phenix City area, including Mayor B. F. Register of Columbus, Mayor Leonard Gutter of Phenix City, and leading businessmen are expected to join General Lindquist as official guests of the Division for the program beginning at 9:00 a.m.

SJA Offers Units Class In Justice

A four-hour refresher course in military justice is being offered to officers and warrant officers of the major commands and units of the Army Infantry Center at Fort Benning.

Sponsored by The Infantry Center Staff Judge Advocate Section, the course includes a review and briefing on procedural procedures, conduct of military courts, review of cases, disposition of minor offenses and non-punitive measures.

Since officers are required at various times to sit on military courts or to hold positions of command, the course is designed to keep them up to date and informed on the edge of military justice.

Instructors are Lt. Col. Kenneth C. Crawford, executive officer of the Staff Judge Advocate Section, and 1st Lt. Thomas L. Wolfe, defense counsel.

The School Brigade and the Staff Engineer Group have completed the review study. Other units desiring to schedule the course may contact Capt. Crawford by telephoning Fort Benning 3-211.

TOY GRAD... Honor graduate of cooking class No. 9 at the Third Army Food Service School at Fort Benning is SP3 Charlie R. Moore.

Operation Toy Repair is gaining momentum at Fort Benning's 489th Engineer Battalion as Christmas nears.

Any toy, regardless of condition, will be accepted by the engineers who have established a workshop to make old toys look like new. The toys will be distributed by the Salvation Army in Columbus, Ga., to underprivileged children in the area at Christmas.

The toy project was originally started by the 8th Engineer Battalion now in Germany. The 489th, which changed places with the 78th last year, decided to continue the worthy project which has been so successful.

Anyone wishing to contribute toys can either deliver them directly to the battalion headquarters at Building 404, Harwood Church, or telephone Fort Benning 6-115 to have them picked up.

Began 15 Years Ago North African Landings Paved Way to World War II Victories

WASHINGTON — American soldiers began striding through the surf to the beaches of Northwest Africa on November 8, 1942 — just 15 years ago.

They were the first of more than a million Americans to serve in the Mediterranean during World War II — participants in the first large-scale offensive in which Allied ground and air units engaged as partners in an operation which transformed the Mediterranean from a British to an American theater of war.

This was the first of a series of undertakings which proved to have more extensive and initially intended, each based upon reasons deemed compelling at the time and at the end of hostilities Allied forces dominated the Mediterranean Sea and controlled most of its coastal region.

After liberating French North Africa and clearing the enemy from the Italian colonies, the Allies sought to bring the enemy's French empire into the war.

They reopened the Mediterranean route to the Middle East, liberated Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica, caused Mussolini to topple from power, and brought his successors to abrupt surrender. They drove more than 600,000 German military resources into a stubborn defense of the Italian peninsula, and helped the Yugoslavs pin down German forces against the Allies.

Eventually the Allies delivered a solid blow from southern France against the German forces opposing the Allies' drive from Normandy, made Marselles available for Allied use, occupied northern Italy and Greece, and in Italy forced the first unconditional surrender by a large German force in Europe.

As pointed out in "North-West Africa: Seizing the Initiative in the West," by George T. Howe and to be published on November 8 by the Army's Office of the Chief of Military History, the responsibility for this momentous first step rests more with the civilian than with the professional military leaders of the two countries.

HEART OF THE NEW TRAFFIC PLAN . . . Military police officials state that if every motorist will spend a couple of minutes studying this map, and will be alert in observing the new directional signs in the PX and Commissary areas, traffic congestion during peak shopping hours will be greatly reduced.

New Traffic Plan Further Explained

Military police are pleased with the results of the new traffic pattern for the PX and Commissary parking areas. . . . Officials stated that some motorists are a little confused by the new traffic signs. . . . Numerous signs have been installed in the parking areas at the entrances to the new one-way streets. . . . MP officials stressed the fact that "bad boys" will carry groceries to the theater parking lot.

DOD Housing Corporation Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — A 12-man committee of Armed Forces officials is being formed to draft legislation for a proposed Department of Defense Housing Corporation. . . . The plan, to be submitted to Congress next January, aims to provide uniform administration of government family housing throughout the services. . . . According to the chairman of the committee, John H. Arington, Chief of the Defense Department Family Housing Division, the corporation proposal would solve many of the present problems of design, financing, building and operating government quarters. . . . If the legislation is approved by Congress, the Defense corporation will handle all family housing assets of the military departments, collect forfeited quarters allowances and rentals and use the income for maintenance, improvement and rehabilitation of units. . . . In addition, the corporation would be authorized to issue interest-bearing securities to finance new construction, paying off the indebtedness from the quarters allowance forfeitures of military families occupying government housing. Under a similar plan now used by the military departments, Cleghorn projects are financed by private capital.

Fired in Battle 725 Years Ago

Today's Missiles Developed From Rockets in Middle Ages

Rockets, historically speaking, are credited to the first fired in battle at least 725 years ago, the history of the brilliant color on a Fourth of July evening.

Yet the age-old, commonplace rocket—refined and enlarged—has become one of the most awesome military weapons ever devised. Its swift development in the past few years has lifted it from the class of a picnic spectacular for youngsters to the status of super-weapon. In the process, it has acquired a new name: guided missile.

Traveling through atmosphere and space at tremendous speed, the guided missile is kept on a hairline course toward far distant targets by a built-in "brain." Carrying either a nuclear or conventional explosive charge, the modern rocket soon will be capable of delivering a knockout blow to any point in the world from any other spot.

The Chinese, who are credited with inventing gunpowder, introduced the rocket to the world. The historic date, as close as can be determined, was 1282 A. D. An ancient manuscript, with illustrations, shows that "arrows of flying fire" were used in the battle of Pien-Ching.

Employment of "Chinese arrows" spread and by the news media and leading citizens in Germany and other nations are maintained.

Improvements Increase Fort Benning's Efficiency

The first quarter of the fiscal year 1958 was a productive one in terms of management improvements instituted at Fort Benning's Infantry Center.

As a result of the 82 improvements accomplished in many fields, the overall efficiency of the Infantry Center's operation has been greatly increased.

One of these improvements, that dealing with the rehabilitation of four firing ranges at Fort Benning, was significant enough to be included in the consolidated Third U. S. Army Management Improvement Report. This report consists of five outstanding improvements in the Third Army area, which have special merit on two counts: (1) the overall contribution made to the effectiveness or efficiency of the activity for which the improvement was originally submitted, and (2) the possible adoption of the improvement by other organizations.

The roster of improvements adopted at Fort Benning shows the variety of sources, types and effects of the 82 modifications made. Because of this variation, precise figures of monetary savings are not only estimated at this time. The benefits received represent actual monetary savings that can only be estimated at this time. The benefits received represent actual monetary savings that can only be estimated at this time.

The report presents estimates of five types of savings caused by the 82 improvements already instituted at the Infantry Center: 41,734 man-hours will have been eliminated; vehicle mileage will have been reduced by 21,281 miles; reductions in the use of supplies, facilities and equipment will bring an expected economy of $15,026; 13,222 spaces will have been reduced or released, and annual benefits in the aggregate are estimated at $78,801.

Under the new system correspondence is maintained under general subject matter, and a division series of numbers which identify the originator have been assigned. In addition, the number of file references has been reduced by one-third, and preparation of correspondence has been delegated to definite individuals.

The system is expected to save 336 operational man-hours annually because of the increased efficiency and speed with which these documents can now be handled.

The decentralization of security equipment in the Combat Developments Office of the Infantry School will result in more productive utilization of 312 man-hours each year. Greater operational requirements in the office demanded more effective use of available personnel. By distributing the equipment for storing classified documents directly to the individuals concerned, the Third office was able to dispense with the time, and man-hour consuming job of maintaining a central unit.

Space Part Transfer

The Infantry Center Ordnance Section has inaugurated a program for lateral transfer of spare parts for motor vehicles, creating, in effect, a "pool" of spare parts which an individual unit can draw upon when its own supply section is out of an item. The result is that while additional section is ordered by the Ordnance Section, vehicles are on the road rather than waiting in the maintenance shops for prolonged periods.

These are some of the outstanding examples of the benefits constantly being realized through the management improvement program. The program is not restricted to the period of time covered by this report, but throughout each fiscal year it encourages supervisors and operating personnel to improve and streamline management techniques. In addition to obvious economic advantage, improved management techniques of any effort to maintain an Army ready to do its defense job in the nuclear age.

included in the Third U. S. Army Management Report for the first quarter of fiscal year 1958, ending last September, was a description of the modification of firing range facilities at Fort Benning. Formerly, both the Infantry School and the Third Infantry Division used a single infiltration course. Through constant use, this range became unsafe to operate and in a poor state of repair. It was also felt that the high standards of training were not being accomplished as desired.

Army Studies Plastic Use For Shells

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The brass cartridge case, familiar to artillerymen for half a century, soon may give way to plastics.

A light-weight, low-cost, plastic shell casing has been perfected and successfully tested by scientists at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory. It is a r Spring, Md., working under an Army contract.

The Army will make field and cost studies of the new case. If the results are favorable, plastic perhaps will replace the brass as well as the steel casing developed during the Korean War.

Weighing less than half as much as metal cases, plastic prototypes for the 105mm field gun used by both the Army and Marine Corps show a savings of three pounds.

Other advantages, according to the Navy, are economies in vital war materials and shipping plus the expected lesser cost of mass-produced plastic cases.

Except for a steel base, the cartridge case is styrene copolymer made by Borg-Warner Corp. to performance specifications set by the Ordnance Laboratory.

Some test cases have been fired several times from guns, placed in the heat of a furnace subjected to extremely high temperatures and pressures. Further trials by the Army Ordnance Corps will determine whether the plastic is sturdy enough to withstand rough handling in worldwide shipping and actual use under battlefield conditions.

Army experts also will decide if plastic cases really are cheaper than metal.

"Garde of Stars," Third Army's giant variety show, will give three performances Nov. 19-20 at Fort Benning.

The first performance will be at 7 p.m. Nov. 19 at Theater No. 7. The second show will be at 3 p.m. Nov. 20 at Theater No. 7. The final performance will be at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 20 in Theater No. 1.

Admission is free.

The show will open with M Sgt. Hal Tate as master of ceremonies, who not only acts as emcee for touring military shows but who frequently "gets in the act" with a rousing skit or a song-and-dance turn. Since 1957, when he joined Jack Wardlaw and the Rolling Rhythms Band Show, Tate's travels have taken him far from his native Atlanta. Major's gobs have included "Carnival Story," and "Galsie Girl." Other appearances have included ones with the Bob Hope and Danny Kaye troupes, and the Dick Stabile and Tony Pastor shows.

Also featured in the "Calvalcade" will be EPC Freddy Engel. In his native Switzerland, Engel toured with his family, known as one of the continent's best jugglers and balancing acts. Known as "Anglo-Engel," he gives "Calvalcade" the excitement and glitter of his international tours and appearances in the U. S. at such places as the World Famous Palace Theatre.

A young man who has played many characters on the stage is now studying for a role that he knows will last two years.

Pvt. Kenneth Beidl, a talented 22-year-old from Pittsburgh, Pa., is currently taking training with the Service Battery, 5th Field Artillery Battalion in the Third Infantry Division.

Beidl is unique in that he boasts a vast amount of both education and practical experience in the field of music. He studied at Indiana State Teachers College, Oberlin Conservatory in Ohio and Eastman Conservatory in Pa.

On the stage Beidl has been cast in the role of Joe Hardy in "Dinner at Eight," "Annie," and as "Curly" in "Oklahoma!" He has also appeared in "Fanny Hill," "Carousel" and others.

But it is in one of his first roles—opera—that Beidl has gained the most satisfaction.

Units Hold Inspection

The 54th Medical Group underwent its annual command inspection from Oct. 29 to Nov. 2.

Industry Center Command Inspection teams and Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggies, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, inspected sections and units of the Medical Group on Oct. 29.

Gen. Ruggies also reviewed the troops of the 54th Medical Group Nov. 2 during a parade on Stillwell Field.

Pfc Larry L. Morris, 50th Medical Co., was selected Group Soldier of the Month.

An electric razor was presented to him by Col. Harry C. McClain in a retreat parade ceremony.

Soon to depart for Basic Helicopter Pilot's training in Texas is Sgt. Homer Gay, Sgt. Gay has been personally jerked for the Third Field Hospital.

2d Lt. Joel Shafran joined the 69th Medical Co. this week. He came to the unit from the Third Infantry Division.

RECEPTION FOR CANADIANS...

Officers of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry Rifle Team, who visited Fort Benning Nov. 3 to 8 in a match with the U. S. Army Rifle Team, were honored at a reception given by the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit last week in the Main Officers' Mess. Left to right are Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commandant, Mrs. Larsen, Capt. Peter Hall-Humpherson of Canada, and Col. O. Z. Tyler, Jr., Infantry Center chief of staff.

Receptions Honor Canadian Shooters

Officers and enlisted men of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry Rifle Team were entertained by their U. S. counterparts at a reception and dinner at Fort Benning Nov. 5.

The officers' affair was held in the Main Officers' Mess and the enlisted men's event was in the NCO Mess; both sponsored by the U. S. Army.

Scouts Slate Meet Today At Benning

Fort Benning's Explorer Scouts of Troop No. 10 will hold a Scoutmaster conference today at 7:30 p.m. in the Girl Scout Club House.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Wallace Wood, Explorer Scoutmaster, Troop No. 6 of the Boy Scouts of America, Atlanta, Ga. He will discuss with the group current happenings in the Explorer program.

Advisers, assistants, senior crew leaders, secretaries, crew leaders and unit committeemen are invited to attend the meeting. Adults and Explorers are urged to take part.

Theme of the round table is "Plan That Annual Highlight." Purpose of the session is to discuss planning procedures to successful highlights and to acquaint Explorer leaders with highlight opportunities available in the Scouting program.

Demonstrations, exhibits and projects will be on display. The meeting is designed to discuss and exchange ideas on valuable program material, skills, methods, information and morale builders to enrich the operation of Explorer units.

Explorer adviser for host Troop No. 10 is SP3 James Spencer. Fort Benning's Boy Scout program is one of the activities sponsored by the Youth Activities Club.

Advanced Marksmanship Unit at the Royal Canadian School of Infantry Rifle Team was entertained by their U. S. counterparts at a reception and dinner at Fort Benning Nov. 5.

The honorees of the Officers' Mess were Col. A. D. Tyler, Jr., commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry Rifle Team, Major R. W. Hampton, Capt. Peter Hall-Humpherson, Capt. D. M. St. John, and Capt. H. M. Power.

The Col. E. R. Mason, commander of the marksmanship unit, and 1st Lt. David Miller were in charge of arrangements for the occasion.

Among the guests were Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggies, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center and Mrs. Ruggies, Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commandant and Mrs. Larsen, Capt. O. Z. Tyler, Jr., Infantry Center chief of staff, and Col. George T. Laughlin, Chief of the Williams and Major Glenn R. Grimm of U. S. Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va.

Before the dinner at the NCO Mess, Sgt. Sandy Young, company sergeant major for instruction of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry presented a marksmanship plaque to Fort Benning. The plaque was accepted by Sgt. Hugh Talley, custodian of the Fort Benning NCO Mess.

The plaque is emblazoned with the Canadian Infantry School of Arms, a bayonet placed upon a maple leaf and surrounded by the crests of the three Royal Canadian Infantry regiments.

Other enlisted men on the Canadian team included Sgt. A. D. Young, Sgt. Ronald Purty, Sgt. Ralph Cahillie, Sgt. Harry Edward Toyde, Sgt. Lee White and Sgt. Ian Clark.

Brigade Group Treats 'Daughters' to Carnival

Thirteen girls of the Anne Elizabeth Sheppard Home in Columbus were guests of the adopted Army fathers at the Youth Activities Club carnival at Fort Benning, Nov. 8.

Approximately 200 foster fathers of the Fourth Student Battalion have served as foster fathers of the girls at the Sheppard Home. The battalion's interest and active support of the orphanage dates back to November, 1952, when a battalion fund was established as the Anne Elizabeth Sheppard Assn. and then taken over by the institution to help get the orphanage back on its feet and save money for the girls and some volunteer contributions were made.

In the four years many deficiencies have been corrected and "additional" facilities and comforts provided for the girls. Over $5,000 annually is spent for the fund for this worthy project.

Individual birthdays, Thanksgiving and Christmas are annual special occasions. In addition, other activities include providing school lunches, annual allowances, clothing and repairs to home and grounds.

Many hours of labor also are contributed in the improvement of home and grounds. A recent project was the outside painting of the large three-story colonnade building in an odd-duty hours by men of the battalion.

The entire project is one of having Personnel of the Fourth Student Battalion—cadre, students and wives—all are interested and participate in numerous ways that tell the young girls how important they are.

Trainee Scores 500 in Army's Fitness Testing

A New Memberman who maintained his physical fitness by regular workouts and hard physical labor after college hours has made a perfect 500 score on the Army's Physical Fitness Test.

This unusual and difficult accomplishment was gained by Pvt. James C. McMillan, company C, 2d Battle Group, 38th Infantry of the 3d Division.

Before entering the Army he was interested and participated in mathematics, but found no time for the athletic which he had excelled at during high school.

So, he explains, he killed two birds with one stone by taking a job in a wholesale produce market from 8 a.m. until 7 a.m. This, only kept up his physical fitness, but also paid for his educational expenses.

100 Hear Talk On Future Home In Germany

Approximately 100 Gyroscopically-designated dependents of the Marine Division's 1st Battalion, the Group 7th Infantry, gathered at Fort Benning's Kelly Hill Chapel last week to hear a talk and a showing of color slides on their future home in Germany.

HAPPY-HAPPY If ignorance is bliss, why there more happy people?

Post Private Shows Magic To Soldiers

Proof that non-military talents need not be wasted in the Army can be demonstrated by Pfc. Richard Tansey whose ability as a magician and actor has added a new angle to the "Can Do" motif of his unit, the 15th Infantry.

Pfc. Tansey, who becomes "The Great Dean" when he dons his uniform in favor of a top hat, has presented more than 25 magic shows for Fort Benning soldiers. His acting talents will come into play on Nov. 19 and 20 when he will appear as Commander Jellicoe in "Two Blind Mice" at Theater No. 1.

Pfc. Tansey began his career as an entertainer at the age of eight and later appeared for two years on a teen-age talent vision panel show. He attended Northwestern University where he studied acting and radio and television announcing. Before entering the Army he sold radio and television advertising and in his spare time presented his magic for parties and civic groups in the Chicago area.

These shows began as serious magic acts, Pfc. Tansey explains, but humor soon crept up. The change came about accidentally when a folding table and cage refused to wash up, up a freshly starched sleeve. Instead the apparatus dangled embarrassingly from

RESOLUTION NO. 1
WHEREAS, The threat of Communist aggression, particularly of limited war, has increased in a recent month, and since there is the possibility of outbreaks in more than one locality at the same time, and
WHEREAS, The Army is the dominant force in limited war by virtue of its organization, experience and training, and
WHEREAS, The flexible nature of the Army and its increasing danger in a number of areas and the reduction in the relative strength of some of our principal allies has placed greater dependence on the U.S. Army, and
WHEREAS, Developments in weaponry demand greater dispersion and mobility, with a consequent requirement for more immediately available trained manpower, and
WHEREAS, The more complex weapons and equipment and new tactical doctrine require longer training periods and an expanded school system which require more personnel, and
WHEREAS, The growing burden of training the Army Reserve and the National Guard has increased active Army manpower requirements, and
WHEREAS, The Army cannot support the Army and its worldwide commitments have an adequate strategic reserve, man our air defense and carry out other vital assigned missions with fewer than one million men, as has been recommended by the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army strongly recommends an increase of the U.S. Army of not less than one million men as advocated by the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff as a February 1957 in testimony before the Subcommittee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and that such steps as may be within the means of the Association be taken to publicize nationally the need for such a force.

WHEREAS, Because of the multiplying demands in war, the Army must be given a guaranteed priority for the use of aircraft to move the two divisions at once,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army use all the means at its disposal to publicize the necessity for procurement of sufficient long-range transport aircraft to move immediately and to support thereafter two divisions of the mobile striking force in a guaranteed priority for Army use.

RESOLUTION NO. 4
WHEREAS, The citizen soldier has been the bulwark of the Armed Forces in all of the Nation's wars, and continues to be essential to our future security, and
WHEREAS, Implementation of certain recent policies and procedures of the Department of Defense have militated seriously against the effectiveness of the citizen soldier enrolled in the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve, and
WHEREAS, The spirit of civilian component officers with long experience is being impaired, and the esprit of the future officer, who is being placed in potential jeopardy,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army support all proposals for the improvement of the importance of the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve to the nation's defenses.

RESOLUTION NO. 5
WHEREAS, The implementation of certain recent policies and procedures have seriously impaired the morale of the active and Reserve personnel, and
WHEREAS, The esprit of future members of the Army is being placed in potential jeopardy thereby,

RESOLUTION NO. 6
WHEREAS, Weight and load limitations of Army aircraft and missiles, Army the full fruits of technological advances, and
WHEREAS, These limitations are arbitrary because they apply only to the Army, and
WHEREAS, Since the Department of Defense has admitted that these limitations would not apply in war, these restrictions impose an intolerable prohibition upon the Army's training and preparation for war, and
WHEREAS, These limitations apply to the Nation's developments which the Army could contribute in these fields, and
WHEREAS, No weapon should be denied the use and equipment it needs to further the achievements of its mission, and since the depth of the battlefields in modern warfare is such that present weight and range limitations are inadequate for the Army to fight at its full effectiveness, and
WHEREAS, The aircraft essential to modern ground forces are of prime importance only to the Army,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army use all reasonable means to persuade the Department of Defense and other interested departments of the Government to ease upward the weight and range restrictions on Army aircraft and missiles.

RESOLUTION NO. 7
WHEREAS, National Security in the atomic age demands the adoption of a pay system that meets the requirements and procedures have seriously impaired the morale of the active and Reserve personnel, and
WHEREAS, The esprit of future members of the Army is being placed in potential jeopardy thereby,

Resolutions List Group's Plan For Greater Army in Future

(Thank You For Continuing) leadership and technical skill than ever before, and
WHEREAS, All of the armed forces are suffering serious losses of leaders and skilled personnel because of the relatively low wages and benefits paid to military personnel, and
WHEREAS, The competition for leaders and skilled technicians is at an all-time high,
WHEREAS, The turnover of personnel within the services is costly, not only in dollars, but in the efficiency of our fighting forces and the administration of other activities, and
WHEREAS, With high turnover more combat-effective personnel are detached to train replacements, and
WHEREAS, Compensation to military personnel and to Department of Army civilians has fallen far behind the rise in the cost of living and the competition in the civilian world for similar work and responsibility,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army immediately support the prompt passage of proposed legislation implementing the recommendations of the Committee on the Compensation in the Armed Services.

RESOLUTION NO. 8
WHEREAS, No evidence has been presented to prove that a single service or a single Chief of Staff will promote efficiency and economy, and
WHEREAS, A single service would stifle initiative and competition, lower morale, and retard the progress of Congress and the public, and
WHEREAS, It is essential in the national interest that the only appointed heads of each of the services have equal opportunity to present their views before the highest executive and legislative authorities of the Federal Government,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army actively support maintenance of the separate identity of the services, including the assurance that all shall have parity of expression of their views in the highest executive and legislative councils of the Federal Government.

RESOLUTION NO. 9
WHEREAS, The Armed Services Exchange have since 1893 served as an integral part of military life; and
WHEREAS, The exchange privilege is an attribute of membership in military service; and the exchange is known to be an essential factor in the maintenance of high troop morale; and
WHEREAS, The Armed Services Exchanges are essential to the military family in that they provide a convenient source for merchandise and services they are permitted to supply and sell at low prices; and
WHEREAS, Certain groups are continually excluded from these exchanges insofar as they are not permitted to supply and sell merchandise and services they are permitted to supply and sell; and
WHEREAS, These attacks have in the past succeeded in appreciably reducing the benefits of the exchange to members of the Armed Forces with consequent damage to morale;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Association of the United States Army immediately support legislation against exchanges which it believes are based on erroneous assumptions, and that such exchanges are competing unfairly with private enterprise.

That exchanges be permitted to operate from the point of view that they merchandise and services they offer are based on the needs of the service family and not upon the dictates of these local critics.
That the Congress be requested to take whatever measures are necessary to insure the maintenance of an exchange system which will provide maximum essential merchandise and services for the serviceman and his dependents.
RESOLUTION NO. 10
WHEREAS, A 9,000-pound airborne maintenance shop has been developed by the Army in Research and Development Laboratories, Ft. Belvoir, Va., to speed field repair of the major equipment of the new unit it is in line with Army emphasis on extreme mobility of military equipment.

U. S. Firers Edge Canadian Teams

The Royal Canadian School of Infantry and the U. S. Army Rifle Teams last week ended three days of match competition on the Fort Benning ranges with an eight-man U. S. Army squad firing a 3,437 total against the Canadians 3,292 score.

There were a possible 3,600 points for the three separate stages which included a combined 600-1,000 yard match, the National Match Course and the final 1,000 yard, 20-shot event.

A member of the U. S. Army team, Sgt. Ronald Turner, fired the top individual score in the three-day meet by posting a 435 total out of a possible aggregate of 450 points. Sgt. Turner is a member of the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit which trains and selects the Army's top rifle and pistol teams.

Under U. S. Rules, the Canadian team, directed by Col. J. A. Dextraze, commander of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, fired under American rules for the first time. Despite the unfamiliar match conditions, however, they proved excellent marksmen with their Lee-Enfield rifles.

Heading the way in the Canadian impressive showing was Major R. W. Hampton who posted a 227 score out of a possible 250 points over the tough National Match Course, placed third in the combined 600-1,000 yard match, and finished the three-stage match with an excellent 429 aggregate score.

Second Match Course. Last week's match was the second between the Royal Canadian School of Infantry and the U. S. Army Rifle Teams. The first being fired Sept. 13-15, at Camp Borden, Ontario.

The ground work was laid for these competitors by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Army Infantry Center, during his visit to Camp Borden last May. Lt. Col. E. R. Mason, commander of the Advanced Marksmanship Unit, and Lt. Col. Thomas Sharpe, officer in charge of the U. S. Army Rifle Team, arranged the match details in cooperation with Col. Dextraze and representatives from the Canadian School of Infantry.

MARKSMANSHIP TROPHY . . . Sgt. Sandy Young, left, company sergeant major of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Gordon, Toronto, Canada, presents a rifle marksmanship trophy to M-Sgt. Hugh Talley, secretary and custodian of the NCO Mess of Fort Benning.

Six Teams Entered Cage Tourney Set Nov. 18 to Jan. 29

The annual Army Infantry basketball tournament for the 1957-1958 season will be held at Fort Benning's Brian Wells Field House Nov. 18 - Jan. 29.

There are six teams entered in the league play. They are the U. S. Army Infantry School, U. S. Army Rifle Team, Board and Special Troop Command, combined, 191st Engineer Group, 14th Infantry, 29th Infantry and a team composed of players from the 5th Medical Group, Lawson Army Air Field Command and the U. S. Army Hospital.

The triple round robin play for the tourney will begin at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 18 when the 14th Infantry plays the Infantry School. This game will be followed by one pitting the Board and Special Troop Command against Special Troop Command.

Division Begins Soccer Tourney

Soccer, one of Europe's most popular sports, has been introduced to the infantrymen of the Third Infantry Division. With the nine major companies of the Division participating, a double elimination tournament of this international sport swung into action last week at Fort Benning's Edwards Field.

In the initial day of play, the 7th Infantry "Cottobaleros" took the measure of the 4th Infantry "Warriors" 1-0, while the 15th Infantry "Can Doers" won by the same score over Division Trains. In the day's third contest, Division Artillery took the measure of the 30th Infantry Trains 2-0. The bookers and dribblers will clash daily for the next week to determine the Division soccer champions.

PRESENTED U. S. GIFT . . . Col. J. A. Dextraze, center, commander of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry and captain of the school's rifle team, was presented a swag gift bearing the U. S. Army Infantry School crest by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, left, Infantry School commander, during his visit at Fort Benning last week. Also present for Col. Dextraze's conference with Gen. Powell was Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, right, U. S. Infantry School assistant commander.

Group Sets Turkey Shoot November 17

Fort Benning's annual Turkey Shoot, sponsored by the Post's Field and Game Maintenance Association, will take place Sunday, Nov. 17 at Roosevelt Range on Dixie Road. Over 2,000 members of the association are eligible to compete in the firing which will start at 8:30 a.m. Shooters will fire one shotgun round at target. There will be a first prize of a turkey and a second prize of a ham for each order of 10 persons.

Shotguns and ammunition for the Turkey Shoot will be furnished by the association. Individually-owned shotguns may not be used. Persons desiring to join the association and become eligible to fire in the Turkey Shoot may join that day by paying the annual membership fee of two dollars. Membership fee is open to all military and civilian persons on the post.

15th Infantry Captures Fifth Straight Victory

Maintaining their unbeaten 19th state, the 15th Infantry Can Doers scored their fifth consecutive Marine Division League victory 1-0 last week, clinching the Contest Support Troops 3-0 at Bennett Field. Fullback Charlie Evans led three times to the delight of 1,200 15th Infantry New Marinesmen, part of the 4,500 chills, but exhilarating through the final minutes of the game with the also unbeaten Division Artillery Redlegs. The Can Doers started slowly before turning their slick offensive at half into high gear.

Scoring a safety in the opening period, the Can Doers were otherwise halted from any offensive marches. The two-point run from center to would-be punter John Blumberg of the CST Rans.

On National Team Hockey Star Leaves Benning for Try Out

Second Lt. Edward Hickey, captain of last season's First Point hockey team, left Nov. 10 for Minneapolis, Minn., to report for the 1958 U. S. National Hockey Team.

The team, to be comprised mostly of players from colleges in the midwest, east and New England states, will represent the U. S. in the 1958 World Ice Hockey Championship Games at Oslo, Norway, in February. The team begins training early next month.

Lt. Hickey was taking the basic Infantry Officers Course at Fort Benning before his departure. A native of Boston, he was a college hockey star at the Military Academy, where he paced the Cadets to three of their finest seasons in the school's history. He started his hockey career at Boston Latin School, where he also won four stripes.

For the past three seasons, Hickey was the highest scoring defenseman in the east. Last season, he was the highest vote getter for the All-East Small College Hockey Team. (See HICKEY, Page 15)

CANADIAN TEAM . . . Lt. Col. E. R. Mason, fifth from right, commander of the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, escorts the Royal Canadian School of Infantry Rifle Team on a tour of the marksmanship unit during the team's visit at Fort Benning this week. The Canadians were at the post Nov. 9-8 for a match with the U. S. Army Rifle Team. At an ammunition bunker are, left to right, Cpl. R. J. Purdy, Sgt. R. B. Cathline, WO C. F. Rowell, S-Sgt. H. E. Toye, Sgt. W. A. D. Young, Sgt. Ian Clarke, Col. J. A. Dextraze, commander of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry and captain of the school's rifle team, Capt. D. M. Stillwell, Major R. W. Hampton, Col. Mason, Capt. H. M. Brian, Army liaison officer at the U. S. Infantry School, and S-Sgt. L. A. White.

3rd Division to Open Cage League Nov. 18

Basketball will find the welcome mat Nov. 18 in the Third Infantry Division, as the nine-team league represents the "Marne" Division's major commands, will swing into action.

A double round robin schedule, enabling each club to play 16 games, will be carried through February, with all contests scheduled for the Harmony Church field house. Opening night in "Marne" competition will feature defending post champions Division Artillery, pitted against Division Trains' Cornets in the nightclub with the lid lifted having Division Armor versus Combat Support Troops.

On the following Wednesday, the 30th Infantry Rockets will open their season against the 15th Infantry Can Doers, while the 38th Infantry Vikings meet Division Trains. The Fourth Infantry Warriors engage the Cottobaleros of the Seventh Infantry on Nov. 23 for their first games of the season. Division Artillery's defend.

Hickey (Thank You For Continuing)

While being named the "Most Valuable College Player," as well as the "Top Defense Man" at the Academy, the big defenseman who stands 6-foot-1 and weighs 160 pounds, was given the "Outstanding Hockey Player" award last September.

Under Coach Jack Riley, former Dartmouth star and U. S. Olympic team member, Hickey set an all-time scoring record for a defenseman and advanced his career by pacing the Cadet squad to a top-edged victory over arch-rival, Royal Military Academy of Canada, last season. It was the worst defeat handed the Canadians by the Cadets in the 25-plus year rivalry.

The U. S. team will tour the midwest, Colorado area and eastern U. S. prior to its departure for the championship games and other exhibition games in Europe. Hickey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward I. Hickey of Boston, Mass.

15th Hickey Is the Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward I. Hickey of Boston, Mass.

(Thank You For Continuing) Kuhl, and bulking Arne Bernard, provided Ram backs with a rough evening. While the Can Doers chalked up 14 first downs and collected over 350 yards from scrimmage, CST had but one first down and picked up less than 40 yards from scrimmage.

Jackson Wins 3rd-Army Touch Grid Tourney

Fort Jackson last week won its second straight Third Army touch football championship by defeating Fort McClellan, 13-0, in tournament finals.

Fort Benning defeated Fort Campbell and Fort Rucker before being dropped from the double-elimination tourney through losses to Fort Jackson and Fort McClellan.

Fort Benning's touch football team was composed of 11 men from the 1st Signal Engineer Group, three from 54th Medical Group and three from Special Troops Command.

Brigade Coach Predicts 'Fine' Basketball Team

The School Brigade Rams from Seaton Hall, Lt. John basketball team jumps off to a fast start in the packed season in a game with the 14th Infantry Nov. 18 at Briant Wells Field House. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Coach Paul Wilson, University of Colorado graduate and former athlete, says "I hope to have a fine team this season. Most of the players are well grounded in fundamentals, and have had excellent coaching in the past."

Team members expected to see action are: Lt. Richard Long, former All-American to J. Bredece, Boston University; Lt. Ed. Dison, Michigan State; Pvt. Mel Spruice, South Carolina State; Lt. Babe Hawthorne, University of Iowa; Lt. Rich Masters, Lafayette; Capt. Joseph Smith, Florence (La.) State College; Pfc Lee Bennett and Pvt. Jim Farris, both with high school experience; Pfc Richard Piacenti, University of Detroit; Pfc Leonard Hamner; Pfc Buddy Bennett; Lt. D. H. Johnson, University of Ohio; and Pfc Willie Longshore, Miami University of Ohio. Trainers will be Doug Boyd, San Jose State athlete.

Coach Wilson says that "nearly indications show that I have several very outstanding players, Babe Hawthorne is what I consider an ideal guard—a coaches dream player. You can't beat a center like Dick Long, and Leonard Hamner is a very fast guard."

"Then there is John Bredece at forward who is a very good shot, and should see lots of action. Our schedule calls for 15 games."

In 3-A Boxing Tourney Post's Hope Revolves Around Whittington

BY JOHN LAMONTE

Currently reigning as the Third Army Joe Whittington is a sharp-punching slugger who can bounce into a variety of weight classifications with no apparent effort.

A matralogy on the Infantry School Troop Command squad which has been hunting competition for two months, Whittington has sized up since taking the crown in March.

After the southpaw copped the post light-middleweight title, he put nine extra pounds behind each punch and trotted off to Kentucky to tackle the top fighters in the Third Army area. Fort Benning, defending champion in the tournament, bowed host Fort Campbell, Whittington, in becoming the middleweight title-holder, grab- bed Benning's lone nod over Campbell fighters.

In 1955 Whittington fought his way to the light-middle-weight championship of the Fifth Infantry Division, upon being assigned to Fort Benning he put in a stint as the trainer of last year's 29th crew. This season's post tournament will find him entered as the light-weight contender.

ISPCO has a team which is crossing each bridge in turn. Finding opposition here on post is the immediate goal, and then comes the Infantry Center bouts to determine the best at Benning. But the squad is working toward a crack at Fort Campbell. Whittington has stamped down in preparation for the chance to return the title to Fort Benning.

If the weight-jumping Whittington has his way, Fort Benning should regain the Third Army championship before the season ends.

29th Infantry Redies for Basketball Opener

The First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, hoosters have been bombing the baskets daily in preparation for their opening game against Special Troop Command on Nov. 18 at Briant Wells Field House. Coaches Maurice Willis and Dick Spencer have the squad cut down to 12 men.

At present, every starting position is still undecided and Sam Hagerman, Gary Wolim, Marty Frank, Ralph Slay, John Woodward and Elijah Smith are pressing for a spot on the first five.

Colorado Star Assigned To School Brigade Unit

A former University of Colorado football star is now a hard-charging halfback on the School Brigade Rams football team. He is Eric Paul Wilson, assigned to Company B, Infantry School Detachment. He works in radio supply.

Wilson first carried the pigskin at the Wyandotte High School, Kansas City, Kan., where he lettered three years as a fullback and captained the team his senior year. He made the all-state team one year and played in the All-American high school post season game his last year. He also won two letters on the football team as a guard, and three letters on the baseball team as an outfielder. He earned a birth on the All-Conference baseball team for three years.

Upon graduation from high school, Wilson enrolled in the University of Colorado where he won three varsity letters on the football team as a fullback and halfback and made the Big Seven (now Big Eight) All-Conference team his last two years. He also picked up a letter on the baseball team as an outfielder.

Pfc Wilson also made the State Honor List his junior and senior years.

Upon graduation from college Wilson was offered a co-league with the Washington Redskins professional football team. His pro career was cut short by induction into the Army, however.

Chief Says Anti-Missile Is Needed

WASHINGTON (APPS) — General Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, predicts the U.S. will develop an anti-missile missile despite belief in some quarters that this kind of defense is "beyond consideration."

Addressing some 2,000 members of the Association of the U.S. Army at their annual October meeting here, Gen. Taylor said: "In the light of recent events, we are becoming increasingly impressed with the need to press forward in the development of the anti-missile missile."

The Army project in this field, he said, is the Nike Zeus in which all efforts in research and development at this point in the program have been "crowned with success."

15th Takes Boxing Win In Division

The 15th Infantry thrashed the Fourth Infantry in Third Division's boxing program at Fort Benning's Harmony Club.

Field House last week. A crowd estimated at 1,100 packed the arena for the second night of the tournament.

The 30th Infantry won over the abbreviated card was filled in by several exhibitions which featured some top-notch amateur bouts.

In one of the two bouts counted in the third round, Mach fought up with David Hollister with a TKO 58 seconds deep into the third round. These two men exchanged blows for much of the first two rounds before Hollister got in trouble at the end of the second.

Mach's attack continued at the beginning of the Third, and finally the referee stopped in. In a light welterweight, Thomas Sizer beat Willis McEroy on a TKO in 2:49 of the second round for a Fourth Infantry victory.

Division Assigned Shot Put Champion

All-American shot putter Ken Bantum, has temporarily placed his weighted ball to rest preparing for the challenge with the Germany bound Third Infantry "Marn" Division.

The 1956 NCAA shot put champion, and an Olympic representative from the U. S. former Manhattan College star Bantum is utilizing his massive six-foot-six-inch 245-pound athletic frame in the Third Division.

Undergoing basic training with the Seventh Infantry Company, the New Marneman comes to the Third Division boasting one of the finest records in the world of sports.

As one of the world's few men to toss the shotput 60 feet, Bantum is the first of this small group to have reached the pinnacle in NCAA tournament competition, when he hit his 60 feet and one-half inch mark at the finals held at Berkeley, Calif.

Having competed with the best in the event, including current record holder Perry O'Brien, Kansas University's Bill Nieder and Michigan's Dave Owen, Bantum's many years of conditioning and training with each passing season, through self training, Bantum reached national status, including leading of O'Brien.

Bantum has the highest of praise for O'Brien. He singles out O'Brien as the finest single athlete with whom he has competed or witnessed. He asserts that O'Brien's single and unique determination to specialize in the 16 pound lead sphere, did more to draw public interest in the event than any other single factor.

As a result of O'Brien, and subsequently other top shot put stars such as Nieder, who is also stationed at Fort Benning, and Bantum, there has been a renewed interest in the event.

Third Division Assigned Two Top Weight Lifters

Two of the country's outstanding young weight lifters are now members of the Third Infantry Division. Pfc Lesly Hauserman and Joseph Ingber, both with the 1st Battle Group, 30th Infantry, have amassed a large number of awards, trophies, and medals.

Hauserman a New Marneman of Company C, has 20 trophies and 22 medals to his credit. Ingber, a member of Mortar Battery, has chalked up two championships.

A graduate of Great Lakes Center Long Island Regional Championship in 1956. To win this title, Ingber, thought a series of three Olympic lifts, lifted a total of 575 pounds. In 1957, he went on to win the Central Long Island trophy by Hauserman a New Marneman of Company C, has 20 trophies and 22 medals to his credit. Ingber, a member of Mortar Battery, has chalked up two championships.

Third Cuartel Section Named For Medal of Honor Winner

Sergeant John J. McVeigh, Army serial number 33,304,824, Company F, 2nd Infantry, United States Army. For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty near Brest, France, on 28 August, 1918. Shortly after dusk an enemy counterattack of platoon strength was launched against one platoon of Company G, 2nd Infantry. Since not dug in and had just begun to assume defensive positions about a hedge, part of the line sagged momentarily under heavy fire from small arms and heavy flak guns, leaving a section wide frontage without fire protection. The enemy drove moved so swiftly that German riflemen were soon almost on top of one machine gun position. Sergeant McVeigh, heedless of a tremendous volume of small arms and flak fire directed toward him, stood up in full view of the enemy and directed the fire to his squad on the attacking Germans until his position was almost over-run. He then drew his trench knife and, singlehanded, charged several of the enemy. In a savage hand to hand struggle Sergeant McVeigh killed one of the other gun of the Second platoon to which it was assigned for stopping this enemy assault and allowed the rifle platoon to which it was attached time to reorganize, assume positions on, and hold the high ground gained during day.

Lt. Col. Halbert Named To Post NRI Department

Lt. Col. Howard P. Halbert has been named chairman of the Army Education Course Committee and deputy director of extension courses at the Infantry School's Department of Non-Resident Instruction at Fort Benning. He comes to his new assignment from a 16-month tour as G-4 logistics officer with the 5th Army Military Assistance Advisory Group for the Republic of Korea. Lt. Col. Halbert is a veteran of 17 years of military service. He began his Army career as an enlisted man in the National Guard in 1936. In 1940 he attended officer candidate school from which he entered active duty as a second lieutenant in the Infantry. In 1941 and 1942 he served with headquarters at Camp McCoy, Wis., and Fort Meade, Md. On April 6, 1943, he attended the Infantry officer's basic course at Fort Benning. He joined the U. S. Army Caribbean July 20, 1944, where he served as company commander and battalion operations officer. He came to Fort Benning in December, 1944, to attend the Infantry officers advanced course.

Briefing Attended By Gen. Powell

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, attended a briefing at the department in the Army in Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 and 12.

People gave Shedy* a cold fishy stare till he started using Wildroot on his hair!

"Shedy, you're a real cube," cried J. Paul's favorite flapper. "There's now excuse for such messy hair." "Well, I do," asked Shedy. "It would be a-ice if you used Wildroot Cream-Oil," she said. So Shedy got a bottle of Wildroot and now he feels good about his hair because it stays soft and natural all day without a trace of grease. Non-alcoholic Wildroot will make you feel good about your hair too. Just in glances getting the cold shoulder from the girls, pick up a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Guaranteed to make you a very popular bird.

Scouts Hike Indiana Trail On Nov. 30

A group of Fort Benning Boy Scouts and Explorers will leave the post for Indiana Nov. 29 to hike the famous 171-mile Indiana Lincoln Trail on Thanksgiving weekend. The group, from Troops No. 10 and 27, and Post No. 37, will hike the trail on Nov. 29 and return to the post Nov. 30. One of the official routes recognized by the Boy Scouts of America for hiking and camping, the trail begins at Ferry Park in Troy, Ind., and runs to the Lincoln State Park, covering the route of the Lincoln family in their trek from Kentucky to their new home in Indiana.

Plans for the hike are under the direction of Col. Harry C. McClain, head of Fort Benning scouts. The Scouting program is one of the activities of the Youth Activities Club.

This is the second trip taken by Fort Benning scouts. In September, the boys took the 27-mile trip on the Kentucky Lincoln Memorial Trail.

Post Aims at Safe Holiday Weekend

Fort Benning officials, army-wide with a double-barrel safety program, have set their aim for a safe Thanksgiving weekend.

Persons at the post and in the surrounding civilian community who desire to extend to any of these visitors to the U.S. an invitation to dinner or to join in other holiday festivities are asked to call The Infantry School's Allied Liaison Section, Fort Benning 3-1222, during business hours.

The Allied Liaison Section for several years has sponsored the program of Allied students participating in Thanksgiving festivities in American homes.

About 20,000 pounds of turkey, or 1,400 birds, have been ordered for the main course which will be amply garished with dressing and giblet gravy. For the appetizers of shrimp cocktail and fresh fruit, 1,500 pounds of shrimp will be prepared and 7,500 pounds of bananas, oranges, and apples.

Plans for creating an Infantry Center safety director, this week urged servicemen to plan their holiday trip with care. He pointed out that in making a trip, one hour of driving should be planned for each 100 miles. Evans explained that an average speed of 50

3rd Marks 40 Years All-Day Ceremonies Set To Celebrate Birthday

The Third Infantry Division marks its 40th birthday today with a public exhibition of a penitonic unit ready to accept the North Atlantic Treaty Organization duties it is about to assume.

The Marine Division, which will guesseco to Germany early next year, will pull out, all the steps to demonstrate to its many guests its ability to hit hard and move fast.

All invited.

The Organization Day events will begin at 9 a.m. The public has been invited to attend the day-long ceremonies. Special invitations have gone out to over 100 prominent military and civilian dignitaries. General invited by Marine Commander, Major Gen. Roy E. Lindquist, include: Gen. William G. Wyman, U. S. Continental Army Commandant General; Major Gen. Thomas P. Hickey, Third U. S. Army Commander; Major Gen. Robert B. Powell, U. S. Army Infantry Center Commanding General; Major Gen. Group Garvin, Third U. S. Army Army Chief of Staff; Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Deputy Commanding General of the Infantry Center; and Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Assistant Commandant of the U. S. Army.

Ike Urges Pay Hike

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower says the military services are underpaid.

"We must be fair with them," he said. "Justice demands this, but also compelling is the factor of efficiency in our defense forces."

The President said in a major policy address here that "we cannot obtain and retain the necessary level of technical proficiency unless officers and men will in sufficient numbers will make the armed services their career."

He said further that our military defenses must continue to perform four main functions: to deter, to defend, to fight, and to win.

"First, as a primary deterrent to war, maintain a strong nuclear retaliatory power. The Soviets must be convinced, any attack on us and our allies would result, regardless of cost." (Please See PAY, Page 2.)

Benning to Open Infantry Museum.

The Infantry Museum—a memorial to the Doughboy's prowess in battle—will open at Fort Benning about Jan. 1.

It will be temporarily located in the Building at former G-2 Visitors' Information Center and originally Outpost No. 1.

The museum will be permanently housed in the Sand Hill area near the Victory Highway Bridge over Upatoi Creek.

Plans for creating an Infantry museum at the "Home of the Infantry" began three years ago. Items for the exhibition have been donated in the interim and include the regimental colors of many famous organizations. Military District headquarters throughout the U. S. have contributed material to the project.

The museum will trace the history and development of the U.S. Infantry from the earliest times to the present as an illuminating and entertaining display for the public.

Items which are desirable for inclusion in the museum can often be found in the possession of individuals who have no further use for them. Museum personnel are appealing to each person who has items of historical import to donate, or lend them to the museum. Desired items include clothing, weapons and equipment and pertinent documents and maps of Allied or enemy nations.

Items will be credited to the donor or lender. Lenders will be given a letter stating that the items are in the collection of the Fort Benning now or in the foreseeable future.

Power to Go Off 6 Hours Sunday At Fort Benning

Fort Benning will experience an electrical interruption starting at midnight Saturday, Nov. 23, and concluding at six a.m. Sunday, Nov. 24. During this time there will be no electricity in all dependent quarters, Barracks, BQs, U. S. Army Hospital, Officer and Enlisted Clubs, or Mess Halls on the reservation.

The interruption is necessary to enable the Georgia Power Company and the Contractor, Capehart Building, to complete power switching structure to the Georgia Power Lines.

Personal residences in Battle Park, Custer Terrace, and Upatoi Terrace will not be affected.

EDUCATIONAL DISPLAY . . . Mrs. Helen Shafman, first grade teacher at Custer Terrace School, points out her students' display picturing the arrival of the Pilgrims to a pupil's father, Capt. John S. Loeber, Pittsburgh, Pa., at the American Education Week open house Nov. 12 at the post. The Fort Benning Parent-Teachers Association sponsored the event.

CG Announces Cut in Civilians Eased at Post

Following the policy of keeping civilian employees at Fort Benning fully informed, Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of Fort Benning, announced today that voluntary resignations have eliminated the necessity for the forced release of any civilian employees at this time.

Although the number of authorized civilian positions at Fort Benning has been slightly decreased for Fiscal Year 1958 by higher headquarters because of the current economic crisis within the Department of Defense, there is no forced reduction of civilian employees scheduled at Fort Benning now or in the foreseeable future.

Post Visited By Cambodia Deputy Chief

The deputy chief of staff of the Royal Cambodian Army, Major Thong Van Fan Mung, visited Fort Benning, Nov. 17 to 19 for a first-hand look at U.S. Army Infantry School activities.

Following his arrival at 2 p.m., Major Mung attended a reception given by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry School commandant, and Mrs. Powell in their quarters.

He was the guest of honor at a reception and dinner in the Main Officers' Mess for a group of Allied officers attending Infantry School courses.

While at the post, Major Mung witnessed demonstrations of M-1 rifle corrective firing, mortar battery in action, Army aircraft, river crossing techniques, tank gunnery, tank and armored rifle platoon in attack and leaders reaction course.

He also was honored at an official dinner Nov. 18 and 19 in the Main Officers' Mess. Lt. Col. Waldron J. Winter, commander of the School Brn's 2nd Battalion, was to be the project officer.

Major Mung will visit Fort Benning, U.S. C. in the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., New York City, U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., Fort Knox, Ky., Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and Fort Sill, Okla., during his 24-day stay in the U.S.

United We Stand

For the United States alone to undertake to turn back the threats of Communist in our people.

This would ultimately cost us our freedom. President Eisenhower said in a message to the 85th Congress on the Mutual Security Program.

For other free nations to attempt individually to counter this menace would be impossible. We in our own interest, and other Free world countries for their protection, have therefore joined in a system of collective security in which the effort of each nation strengthens all.

Our government is committed by treaty to provide defense assistance and material support to Canada, 20 Latin American nations, 14 NATO nations, Yugoslavia, Liberia, Ethiopia, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Australia, New Zealand, six Manila Pact nations, Korea, Japan, Formosa and the United Nations.

How did we get involved in all these places? Because with technological progress, the world has come to us because it is no further from Smolensk to Detroit than from breakfast to lunch.

Why must we take so much responsibility? For one reason, because our take is so great. For another, because we are the strongest. For a third, if the frontiers of freedom are breached, we face the aggressor single-handedly.

This situation is not new. During all our history, we stood guard over our hostile frontiers. We lived with the sword in our hands. Today the frontier has returned, only it is as wide as the world, as high as the sky.

What we are doing is simply what Americans have always done: we are protecting ourselves and the Allies. We are depending on them, as we have always done, to help us defend, we are above all trying to maintain peace.

But we are bearing only a share of the burden under the Mutual Security Program. From 1950 to 1956, the United States has spent $1.5 billion on European NATO countries for military assistance, and for such aid to other countries $5.1 billion, for an accumulated total of $17.4 billion.

During this same period, defense expenditures of NATO nations in Europe amounted to $78 billion, and those of other grant-aid Allies some $18 billion—a total of $93 billion spent by these governments in the joint defense effort.

In 1950, our Allies' active ground forces numbered about 3.5 million men, most of them fully equipped. Their navies had fewer than 1,000 ships; and their air forces, 11,500 planes, of which less than 500 were jets.

At the end of 1956, there were 4.8 million troops in these ground forces—an increase of 37 per cent—over 2,300 ships—an increase of 139 per cent—in their navies; and their air forces equipped with over 12,000 conventional and jet planes combined to almost 11,000—22 times as many as they had in 1950.

Through the joint development of these forces, the program has put backbone into our worldwide system of collective security agreements; has stiffened the will of our Allies to resist; has helped insure availability of strategic materials which our economy must import from overseas; and, of paramount importance, has helped provide a global network of over 250 military bases essential to our national security. (AFPS)

Art of Gripping

Effective gripping is easy once you know how. It does not mean complaining loudly and too long about something that irritates you. That may let off steam but it could destroy any chance to get things adjusted.

Instead, get the facts before blowing up. You can cut the gripe down to size. Present a clear and logical argument. Come up with some reasons for a proposed change. Suggest a solution to the problem.

After this process, it's possible to find there really is no gripe at all. (AFPS)

International Round-Up Girard Given 3-Year Suspended Sentence

MAEBAASHI, Japan — Army address Nov. 7, indicates the United States may be able to turn a man into space and guilty of manslaughter by the bringing him back alive. This is no program presently aimed at doing this, said Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala. It is a hopeful project for the future.

In a speech that he said reflected his own opinion, the lieutenant sentence by the three-judge Japanese tribunal rejected a prosecution demand for a flat sentence of five years at hard labor and was brought to a mild end as a case began with international repercussions.

PARIS — Foreign Minister Christian Pineau left for the United States at midnight for crisis talks with Secretary of State Dulles over American and British shipment of arms to Tunisia.

INFORMED sources said he will demand an end to the arms race and full U. S. backing for France in the Middle East. He also said that the United States should not be a party to the arms race.

DETROIT — One of the Army's rocket developers said this week said that the recovery of a Jupiter-C rocket posed serious problems in the space age. Eisenhower in his television address said that the United States is committed to the space age.

THANKSGIVING IS Important Day

BY CHAPLAIN (REV. L.T.) MURRAY L. LEBLANC In honor of the Pilgrims, as well as of all the pioneers who laid the foundations of this great and good country, we pause in the middle of the rushing stream of life to celebrate another Thanksgiving Day. Religion has become progressively less necessary and God less essential in our lives, the message of Thanksgiving addresses itself as a powerful antidote.

Adults and children alike are applied by the eyes of the first harvest festival which speaks for man saying: 'Oh son of man, listen to the rustling of the wings that raise your eyes heavenward, behold the moon and the stars, and let all of these remind you of your frailty and your dependence upon God.' When we think of the early settlers' struggle against the environment, we think of the way it is paralleled in our own lives.

It is interesting to notice that when the members of the Plymouth Colony, having endured the rigors of the first winter in America, were giving thanks to God for the ending of a difficult year and a successful harvest. In 1621, expressed it by setting apart a day of religious observance and feasting for his gratefulness to the Almighty for His merciful blessings upon his people.

The observance of Thanksgiving has become a religious holiday celebrating the completion of the harvest and the joy of the harvest. It is a time when the families and the friends of the past. Let it, therefore, give full concentration to the things of God. Let us, in this time of thanksgiving, give a trail for the millions who follow them; let us give thanks for the things that we have received; let us give thanks for the things that we have received; let us give thanks for the things that we have received.

VIEWERS in a mass manner Thanksgiving has a universal appeal and a message which is pertinent to all people. Let us give thanks for the things that we have received; let us give thanks for the things that we have received; let us give thanks for the things that we have received.

IN ORDER to win the psychological and technological war with Russia, he said, "we must not think in terms of a definite goal to be reached, but rather of a limitless road to be traveled."

HE CALLED it an "open end" sharp reversal from previous policy in which objectives were laid out carefully before work began.

LONDON — George Kennan declared this week that serious problems in the space age could not be solved by summit meetings with that country's leaders.

WASHINGTON — The Soviet leaders in the space age, he said, are "not as honest as we are." He said that the Soviet leaders in the space age, he said, are "not as honest as we are."

WASHINGTON — The Soviet leaders in the space age, he said, are "not as honest as we are." He said that the Soviet leaders in the space age, he said, are "not as honest as we are."

Stars Mean Bars In Iraqi Army
 FT. RILEY, Kan. (APFS)—Soldiers of the First Inf. Div.'s 15th Infantry did double duty recently when two officers were stars on their shoulders began a tour through their area. Then they found that the men were 1st Lie. Yahia Mohamed Mustafa and Ibrahim Tawfiq of the Iraqi Army who were observing military operations as guests of the U.S. government.

Army Offers Commissions To Scientists

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Army disclosed this week that qualified specialists in 20 critical scientific fields have only two months left to apply for direct commissions under "Project 200."

NEWLY ASSIGNED
 . . . Col. Richard W. Mabree has been named deputy commander of the School Brigade at Fort Benning. Initially assigned to the U. S. Army Infantry School's Tactical Department, Col. Mabree has just completed a tour as U. S. Army attaché in Helsinki, Finland.

Pvt. Gets New Bed As Head Gets Red Hanging Over Bunk
 Ft. Richardson, Alaska (APFS)—How to accommodate an 80-inch frame on a 72-inch bunk was the major question here recently. Private Ronald E. Ford, a "B" basketball player, complained to his company commander that he had a rough time trying to sleep on a regular Army bunk. He just wasn't able to stretch out and relax. The unusual request was sent through the chain of command and finally ended up in the quartermaster department where the solution was reached.

Whether the individual enters the program with a bachelor's degree or a doctor's degree, the opportunity exists for further graduate level training in civilian colleges or universities. Then they found that the men were 1st Lie. Yahia Mohamed Mustafa and Ibrahim Tawfiq of the Iraqi Army who were observing military operations as guests of the U.S. government.

Because of the short time left for processing applications under "Project 200," interested individuals who possess the necessary professional qualifications and no other requirements for commission in the Regular Army, should contact their Unit Personnel Officer immediately.

The 20 fields listed in DA Circular 80's include: Agriculture, Naval Architecture, Aeronautical Engineering, Biochemistry, Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Communications Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Electronic Data Processing, Electronics Engineering, Guided Missiles, Health, Physics or Radio Biology, Hydrology, Mathematics, Mechanical Engineering, Meteorology, Nuclear Effects Engineering, Nuclear Physics, Operations Research, Physics, Psychophysiology.

Troops Must Show Labels On Uniforms

WASHINGTON (ANS)—All Army personnel who buy dress and semi-dress uniforms after Sept. 16, 1957, will be required by the Department of the Army to show warranty labels bearing active certificate numbers in the items.

In order to provide a distinct improvement in the quality of uniforms and in the appearance of its personnel, the Army has established a new regulation (AR 700-840-3) called the Uniform Quality Control System.

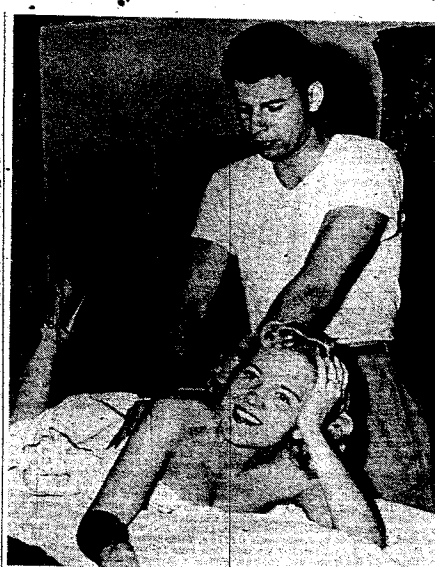

Under this new system, firms manufacturing uniform components for sale through commercial outlets must submit samples to the Army Uniform Quality Control Board for certification that the items meet Army Quartermaster General quality standards. The regulation says the responsibility for ascertaining that uniform items have warranty labels with the certificate numbers rests with the individual.

M-Sgt. Says 3 Is Lucky
 Some people claim that they have lucky numbers. M-Sgt. Joseph F. Foglio of the Third Infantry Division, is one of them and he has plenty of reasons.

Sgt. Foglio entered the Third Div. in February of 1950. He came into 3d Reconnaissance Co. and was sent from there to the 3d Reconnaissance Co. There he was placed in charge of the 3d Platoon.

He was soon promoted to First Sgt. of the 3d Reconnaissance Co. and to platoon leader of the 3d Platoon, same company.

Sgt. Foglio was with the Third Div. for three campaigns: the OCF intervention, the UN Counter Offensive and the OCF Offensive.

FAREWELL DINNER
The Editorial and Fictional Office of the Infantry School held a farewell dinner in honor of Capt. and Mrs. James D. Johnson and Capt. and Mrs. Donald C. Immel Nov. 2.

Capt. Immel is leaving the service this month, and Mrs. Johnson has been transferred to the Staff Department of the Infantry School.

The party, a turkey dinner, was held at the Custer Terrace Club after the guests had gathered at the home of Lt. Col. Gustaf J. Weimann, chief of the office. During the evening, Col. Weimann presented to Capt. Johnson a miniature and gaily wrapped gift package.

Mrs. Harry E. Hornecker, president of the club, welcomed the members to the luncheon and announced the proposed change of the club's name from the Fort Benning Wives' Club to the Officers Wives' Club of Fort Benning. This proposal will be voted on at the December meeting.

STC COFFEE
The Special Troops Command wives held their monthly coffee Nov. 5, in the Main Officers' Club. The hostesses were Mrs. M. L. Smith, chairman, Mrs. Silvatore Bosco and Mrs. Curtis Echols. Mrs. Horace E. Dyer presided at the coffee table.

The centerpiece consisted of a doll dressed in a white and red in the form of a cake with green raffia and pink, red and yellow flowers which surrounded with autumn leaves.

The ladies were presented a name tag of yellow paper, hand made with silver glitter and held erect on steel posts, anchored in rock to resist the pressure of winter snows and prevent the escape of the captured chamois.

First Lieutenant William H. Dykes, of 1244 Whelan St., Columbia, S.C., put it this way: "My men got a kick out of working in the mountains and doing something for game conservation. This 'Project Chamois' has been hard work, but it was good practice for engineers, and tougher on us." (ANF)

EARLY OUT
Officials of a Maryland prison discovered that the inmates to whom they have given the new suit and then released should have been freed in 1938.

"He didn't ask us why he was leaving a year early, either."

Troops Capture Chamois to Rid Mange Danger
HEIDELBERG, Germany — If chamois are saved in Europe from a serious infectious disease, the elusive little game animals can give some thanks to 28 men of the Army's 11th Airborne Division.

The volunteers from the 12th Airborne Engineer Battalion recently helped erect a German government construct a fence two miles long around an enclosure into which the chamois are being herded. Parasitologists will then study them in an effort to find a cure for the deadly mange.

The men cleared rocks, drilled holes and helped erect 700 steel posts, anchored in rock to resist the pressure of winter snows and prevent the escape of the captured chamois.

First Lieutenant William H. Dykes, of 1244 Whelan St., Columbia, S.C., put it this way: "My men got a kick out of working in the mountains and doing something for game conservation. This 'Project Chamois' has been hard work, but it was good practice for engineers, and tougher on us." (ANF)

Drive Launched to Memorialize Battleship Arizona
HONOLULU (APFS) — Public and military concern about the "rusting tomb" that is the battleship Arizona has resulted in the launching of an official campaign for funds to build a suitable memorial over the sunken ship now lying in Pearl Harbor channel.

The ship contains the bodies of 1,102 men who went down with her on Dec. 7, 1941.

The nationwide appeal for funds to enhance the Arizona is to begin formally on Dec. 7. Plans are to encase and outline the hull with steel and concrete, making it a worthy shrine.

Following a brief utilization
Army officers with above normal branch career patterns. School graduates do not automatically become part of the Army Specialist program; however, in certain critical fields repetitive assignments may be made.

Civil Spooling does not supplant the normal features of a career pattern for officers, and will not take precedence over scheduled branch career schools.

Periods of training vary according to the selected field, but usually start in June or September for a period not exceeding two years. During this time, student officers carry a full academic load to ward satisfying Master Degree requirements. Cost of schooling, textbooks, expendable supplies and certain excess expenses are paid for by the Army. Further full pay and allowances continue according to the rank of the student officer.

USAIC Ladies Meet For November Luncheon

The Ladies of the USAIC met at the Main Officers' Club for their November Luncheon on Thursday, Nov. 14. Mrs. Roy Meyer, Mrs. C. W. Tourville, Mrs. E. M. Elliott, Mrs. Lawrence L. Jr. and Mrs. Alfred Stafford, group president, presided over the luncheon. Mrs. Andrew W. Hayes was present for the first time.

Lloyd presenting readings from Thurber, Parker, Browning and Johnson.

LEGGED OUT
Bookmaking charges against a Los Angeles man were dismissed when the judge ruled that examination of the man's wooden leg — where the evidence was found — constituted unreasonable search and seizure.

Read to Mrs. E. R. Schutte and special guests included Mrs. William Brock Taber and Mrs. M. Mock.

The hostesses for the luncheon recognized November as a month of "thanks and giving" by combining the table decorations with the donations to buy toys for the two to four year olds in the children's ward of the Post Hospital. The toy display was an appropriate reminder of the true meaning of Thanksgiving. The members of the committee were Mrs. Kenneth Wallace, Mrs. J. F. Mel-

Gourmet's Recipe Of Beef Stroganoff

Capt. Ted Seely appeared on "At Home With Roell" last week and prepared his recipe for Beef Stroganoff. At the close of the program, WRBL was besieged with telephone calls asking for the recipe. It will be in the Infantry Center Cook Book which will be on sale December 2, but we decided to share it with you now. This recipe has been found to unconditionally satisfy everyone from the fussy child to the gourmet.

Ingredients: (For 4 relatively hungry people) 2 pounds lean beef cut into 1"x1/2"x1/4" hunks—the preferred beef is ordinary round of the mill stew meat. Fatier items are not required or recommended. 3/4 cup diced onions—nothing unusual here. 1 cup sliced mushrooms—it makes little difference as to whether they are canned or fresh variety is used. 2 cloves garlic minced—a little goes a long way. 1/2 cup sour cream—in most civilized areas this is readily available. In times however, the chef may be required to do the trick. 1/2 cup of tomato soup. 1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. 2 tablespoons horseradish. 1/4 cup chopped green onion tops—chives are a highly recommended substitute. 1/2 cup of sherry—in its importance whether this is domestic or imported. In either case do not use the so called cooking. A custom that has evolved over the years dictates that the chef is lengthy, but the results are well worth the effort and guaranteed to please all including the most jaded gourmands. A word for any males who may tackle the compounding of this formula; the chef's responsibility ceases when the dish is served. That which remains is someone else's problem. Was Attache in Pakistan

Col. Millard G. Bowen Jr., of Silver Springs, Md., has assumed the duties of Technical Department, Advanced Group chief at Fort Benning's Infantry School following a two-year assignment as U. S. Army attache in Pakistan. Col. Bowen received a bachelor's degree from Southern Maryland State College in Washington, D.C., in 1952. He joined the Maryland National Guard in 1953 and entered active duty in February, 1941. He served with the 11th and 175th Infantry Divisions in Europe for 26 months during World War II as a platoon leader, company and battalion commander and regimental G-3 (plans and operations officer). Initially stationed in the British Isles, he participated in the

Third Saves Through New Vehicle Use

Establishment of a new system for controlling the use of Army vehicles is expected to effect additional economies in utilization of manpower, petroleum products and vehicles in the Third Infantry Division. Tighter controls on dispatching administrative vehicles for trips outside each major unit area will now be possible through the location of central vehicle dispatch offices in the Sand Hill, Harmony Church and Kelly Hill areas. Each office will be under the staff supervision of Lt. Col. J. W. Macdonald, Division G-4. The Division Transportation Officer, Lt. Col. H. E. Ergan, will provide the necessary technical details in the operation of the dispatch system. The new plan will require major units to coordinate all administrative vehicle trips outside their own area with the central dispatch office. It is anticipated that many duplicate trips will be eliminated by consolidation of trips to that destination through this system.

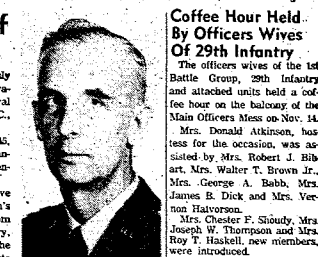

The new system does not affect dispatching of emergency vehicles or vehicles utilized in training activities and commanders will continue to control dispatch of vehicles within their own unit areas.

Army's Role Is Explained In Pamphlet

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army Divisions strategically placed around the world, are a constant reminder to our enemies that we have the power to halt aggression. This is another instance of deterrence and with its passing, nuclear weapons are quickly increasing in power and destructiveness. Likewise, structural organization is keeping pace. Today's flexible, highly-mobile Pentomic units have both atomic and non-atomic capability.

The Army's tireless effort in the development of surface-to-air, surface-to-air, anti-air, and free rocket missiles during the past 15 years has been rewarded by the weapons we possess.

Dr. Lowe Gets Briefing at Post

Dr. Ronald H. Lowe, training research officer of the Canadian Army Operational Research Establishment in Ottawa, was at Fort Benning for briefings on research and training at the post last week.

His agenda included visits to the Infantry School's Ranger Department and the Infantry Board, which develops and tests Infantry equipment. Dr. Lowe also conferred with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center. An official luncheon in his honor was held in the Main Officers' Mess.

The visitor received an intensive briefing at the U.S. Army Human Research Unit, which conducts tests in training methods of the Infantryman.

2 New Nurses Assigned To Fort Benning Hospital

Fort Benning's Army Hospital has a new chief nurse of the occupational therapy section and a new nurse in charge of the Out-Patient Clinic. Major Louise Anderland of Emmons, Minn. replaces Capt. Jean Styles, who has been assigned to the Army Hospital at Valley Forge, Pa., in the occupational therapy spot. Major Anderland is a graduate of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. She took her occupational therapy training at the University of Illinois in Champaign. She completed the advanced officers administration course at the Army Medical Service School, Fort Benning, Wis., she entered the Army Nurses Corps in 1941. During World War II, she was assigned to hospitals at Camp Grant, Ill., and Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. She later served in Tokyo and Yokohama, Japan.

1,000 Receive Approval for RA

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — President Dwight D. Eisenhower approved 1,000 officer nominees for Regular Army integration under the augmentation program by signing the "Recess appointment" list here last week. The new list consists principally of first lieutenants and captains with more than three and less than 10 years service. The next list of about 2,000 officers, which is expected to be ready around the first of the year, will include captains and field grade officers with more than 10 years service. It has been pointed out, however, that appointments in other grades may appear on the new list.

It is anticipated that the remaining officers selected under this program will be announced on routine nomination lists.

ter intense enemy fire and was ordered to withdraw to the cover of a ditch. While treating the casualties, Technician Parrish observed two wounded men in the ditch. Without hesitation he left the ditch, crawled forward under enemy fire, and in two successive trips brought both men to safety. He next administered aid to twelve casualties in the same field, crossing and recrossing the open area raked by hostile fire. Making successive trips, he then brought three wounded in to cover. After treating nearly all of the thirty-seven casualties suffered by his company, he was mortally wounded by mortar fire and shortly after was killed. The indomitable spirit, intrepidity and gallantry of Technician Parrish saved many lives at the cost of his own. (Awarded May 19, 1945.)

has been an outstanding offensive performer for his team, but will also share in the offensive program as well.

In the line, there is little to choose between the two clubs. Both have outstanding centers.

Moving into the vacancy created by the injuries to Dawson and Seehorn, will be newcomer Harvey Seligman.

Sgt. Miles G. Brown, fired the next high score in the match with a 390 total out of a possible 400 points.

The Arkansas team placed second in the match with a 1987 score, while Ouachita College, and Fort Chaffee trailed with 1,838 and 1,786 scores, respectively.

UP IN AIR GO CAGERS OF SCHOOL BRIGADE, 14TH INFANTRY
14th Dragooneers Defeated Brigade Rams, 71-52, In Season Opener

STC, 14th Take Season Openers

The 1957 Infantry Center basketball season got underway Monday with Special Troops Command and 14th Infantry sweeping opening night wins.

Special Troops trounced 22nd Infantry, 69-46. The 14th Infantry Dragooneers topped The School Brigade Rams, 71-52.

The opening night double-header was played at Fort Benning's Briant Wells Field House.

STC's Commanders had to come from behind to stop a fighting 22nd Infantry five.

STC led by a narrow 30-27 margin at halftime, but came back to outscore the 22nd by 39 to 19 points during the second half of the game.

Surge ahead However, at the 10-minute mark in the game, 22nd was ahead by 17-11. The Commanders caught fire shortly before the half-time to surge ahead.

A fast-breaking 14th Infantry team took an early lead from The School Brigade Rams and gradually opened the margin.

Build Up Lead In the final half the Dragooneers built up the score on four letters from Little All-American coach Doug Waldstad, John Bernard and Frank Lee.

Waldstad tossed in 15 points to lead in scoring. Teammates Bernard and Lee followed with 14 each.

Babe Hawthorne was high man for the Rams with 13 points.

Hammond was offered a contract with the Akron Goodyear Rubber Company's basketball team but Uncle Sam had a injury by cutting the Naval Academy duty officer and asked where he kept the goat.

Bill was returned before the same, none the worse for wear. Since that time the schools have made a reciprocal agreement and no more pranks of that sort are allowed.

Unofficial observers estimate that the score is a lot closer in this department. Although there are no records of any duels being fought, the coups by the school and the middlemen are classic among college football rivalries.

Little All-American Brigade Assigned Top Cage Scorer

The nation's highest scoring basketball player and a member of last season's Little All-American team is now assigned to Fort Benning. It is Pvt. Kenneth J. Hammond, 438 Company, Fourth Student Battalion, The School Brigade.

Hammond's athletic career began at Petersburg (W. Va.) High School where he played basketball, baseball and football. He lettered four years as a forward on the basketball team making All-State his senior year and led all other players in the state in scoring.

He lettered for two years on the football team and made All-State as an end this last year. He also won four letters on the baseball team as a shortstop.

Upon graduation from high school, Hammond enrolled at West Virginia Tech at Montgomery where he won four letters on the varsity basketball team, which he captained his senior year. It was here that he made Little All-American as a forward and top scorer in the nation with 33.2 points per game average.

Last March, Hammond played in the East-West All-Star game at Madison Square Garden. It was the first time a player from a small college had been afforded such an opportunity.

Hammond was offered a contract with the Akron Goodyear Rubber Company's basketball team but Uncle Sam had a

In Army-Navy Tilt Off-Field Feats Top Grid Performances

Way back in 1883, in the third game of the Army-Navy football series, an aroused roster challenged an admiral to a duel. The game itself, which Navy won 6-4, aroused such a fury that President Cleveland cancelled the series and it wasn't resumed until 1893.

Since the beginning of the series in 1890, the Army has won 29, the Navy 23, and there have been two ties. But all the scoring isn't done on the football field. Statisticians are unanimous to keep up with scores of the sideline coups that always accompany the big game.

Unofficial observers estimate that the score is a lot closer in this department. Although there are no records of any duels being fought, the coups by the school and the middlemen are classic among college football rivalries.

Credit for the biggest single episode goes to the cadets of 1893. They kidnapped the Navy goat, Bill XIV.

After taking him from his quarters under the football stadium at Annapolis, the kidnapers hauled him by car to Baltimore and then added insult to

The 14th Infantry will meet the 15th Infantry today at Fort Benning.

While rolling over their opposition in six consecutive contests, both clubs have accumulated fantastic statistics, while achieving equally impressive defense records.

In their respective victory marches, both clubs have rolled up impressive margins, with only the Seventh Infantry Cottonballers providing a test for the two teams.

The Can Doers edged the Kelly Hillers 7-0 in an early season thriller, while DivArty took the Cottonballer's measure 20-0 after a near stand still for three periods.

Using their comparative scores as a ruler, the Redlegs rolled over Division Artillery 66-0, while the 15th had almost as easy a time, chalking up a 52-0 victory.

After the contest, each club will have only one contest remaining. DivArty winds up the season against the once victorious Division Trains at Doughboy Stadium on Thanksgiving Day.

Despite the handicap of herding a live-ton tractor in competition with drivers of Jeeps and two-and-a-half ton trucks, Sp3 Carl D. Couch, Company B, 10th Engineer Battalion, was the Third Division's Driver of the Month award recently.

Couch, who has never had an accident in four years of driving in the Army, also operates bulldozers, cranes and other heavy equipment. His history came on his first attempt at driving competition.

COACH... Lt. Tom Ziegenfuss, 15th Infantry coach, provided a surprise in Marne football this year by bringing the Can Doers undefeated through six straight games.

Punchy Pete Gets New Wire System Blue League Standings

A wiring system modification by a civilian employe here to the new Transfire Punchy Pete Blue League as of Nov. 11.

Carson's incoming awards committee has been notified that Leonard Auzardo's simplification of the Punchy Pete control box had been approved by the Naval Training Device Co. at Fort Washington, N.J.

Y. Mr. Auzardo says his latest modification eliminates as many as 100 pairs of wires on one range.

Following are standings and statistics of the Fort Benning Officer's Bowling League Blue League as of Nov. 11.

General Undergoes Training at Benning Brig. Gen. Andrew T. McAnsh, commander designate of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., is taking a week's refresher training at Fort Benning's Army Infantry School before assuming his new duties. He began the training Nov. 13.

15th Drubs 38th, 40-0,

Charlie Evans and Kenny Fry scored three touchdowns each, as they led the 15th Infantry "Can Doers" to their sixth straight victory in Marine League grid competition, trouncing the 38th Infantry 40-0 last week at Bennett Field.

In preparation for today's battle with the unbeaten, untied, Division Artillery Redlegs, the 15th, while chalking up a decisive victory, used their bench strength throughout the contest, and never rested to the limit.

However, the undefeated men of Tom Ziegenfuss did reveal two new potent weapons, in addition to the strength of past contests. Moving quarterback Fry to a halfback slot, the 15th used former Purdue University signal caller Stanley Eaton at that position, whose passing to Fry provided ample offensive dynamite for the loop leaders.

Another newcomer, Harvey Seligran, formerly of Mississippi Southern College as a defensive halfback, intercepted

BALLOT FOR SELECTING ALL STARS
Name Top Football Players In Services

For the first time, service football fans around the world have the opportunity to elect "The Dream Team," the 1957 Armed Forces Football All-Stars. This is the only all-star team selected which represents combined gridiron talent from all the services.

Normally selected by coaches and football writers, it was decided that the individual fan of this year should have the opportunity to select the best in service gridiron talent in view of the high caliber of Armed Forces football.

There are so many All-American and professional football players in the Armed Forces this year that, unfortunately since there are only 11 positions on one football team, some players of this caliber may find themselves relegated to Honorable Mentions.

Engraved certificates will be mailed this year to commanders concerned for suitable presentation to players selected for first and second Armed Forces All-Star teams.

Balloting closes in New York City on Dec. 2.

By observing the following rules fans can insure that their ballots will count:

1. So that the team can be announced as soon as possible after the close of the football season, a voting deadline has been established. Ballots must be received in New York City NOT LATER than Dec. 2, 1957.
2. Balloting is NOT limited in the number of players from one post or station that can be nominated to the team. It is decided that the individual fan of this year should have the opportunity to select the best in service gridiron talent in view of the high caliber of Armed Forces football.
3. You do not have to name a complete team.
4. Mail your ballot, early enough to reach NYO before the voting deadline to Sports Editor, Armed Forces Press Service, 250 West 57th Street, New York 19, N.Y.

B. Pelham Bids Highest for Post Pine Pulpwood

B. E. Pelham of Ellaville, Ga., was the apparent high bidder for the purchase of 4,000 standard cords of pine pulpwood on the Post Benning reservation at $6.98 per cord.

Bids were opened in Savannah, Ga., by the Corps of Engineers.

Other bidders were Hixson Land Company of Calhoun, Tenn., and P. D. Breckneridge of Columbus, Ga.

James F. Solms, assistant chief of the Post Estate Division, Savannah District, Corps of Engineers, opened the bids.

30th Grabs First Place In 3d Boxing

The 30th Infantry moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Third Infantry Division Boxing Tournament last week on the strength of its second consecutive victory, 7-1-0.

Rocks whipped Combat Support Troop to move out of a three-way deadlock for the top spot, and Division Trains beat Fourth Infantry Warriors in the other matches at the Farrington Church Field House.

The 30th is again its victory over CST when lightweight Donald Purnoches whipped Al Fred Abernombie in a first-match decision.

Other 30th victories saw John Hess win over Moses Tontane, via the decision route in a battle of welter weights and Clayton Reiley won a light-heavy weight go from Austin Heard, by decision.

In the only defeat of the night for 30th, Archie Smith proved too tough for Thomas Devreux. Smith won this heavyweight match with a KO 27 seconds in the opening stanza.

In one of the top bouts of the night, Thomas Stiles, Fourth Infantry, belted Howard McAllister, Division Trains. Eric Stiles, it was the second consecutive victory via the KO route.

This was to be the only victory for the night, however, for the Division Trains team came back to win three straight bouts.

Bruce C. Webb cut down David Hollister on a unanimous decision for Trains in a welter-weight event; Zane Shaban won over George J. Lawrence on a knock-out just 1:58 deep in the first round, and Willie Gray whipped Dennis Orion, on a knock-out in 2:55 of the second.

Assigned to 3rd Div. Hockey Star Tries Out for U. S. Team

Pvt. Edward Kirrane, one of the nation's top hockey players assigned to Third Infantry Division, may well get a sneak preview of the Marne's future German home.

The Brookline, Mass., a member of the U. S. Hockey team in the 1956 International games, has been invited to travel to Minneapolis, Minn., for the 1958 U. S. team entered in the World Championships in Oslo, Norway.

If selected for the European-bound U. S. sextet, the 27-year-old, 175-pound, center-forward would be overseas in time to meet the men of the Marne when they arrive in Germany next March and April.

The 22-year-old Kirrane became an efficient tank on the ice at Brookline High School, where he played for the Massachusetts championship club. Following play there, he performed with the Boston University hockey team, developing his talents sufficiently to be named to the undrafted 1957 U. S. hockey squad.

Last year's team, operating on a joint American Hockey Association-State Department budget, first toured the U. S. and then left for competition in Europe last February.

Playing only exhibition contests on a good will tour, and by-passing the organized international games, the U. S. team went to Scotland, Holland, West Germany, Sweden, Norway and England. The team returned home with a perfect record, having beaten all opponents including the world championship Swedish team.

Following his tour with the U. S. hockey team, Kirrane was offered a tryout with the National Hockey League's Chicago Blackhawk, as indication of his talents on the ice.

The final selection for the U. S. outfit this year will be announced preceding a tour around the 48 states, which will be followed by the trip to Oslo, Kirrane, who considers DivArty's powerful Redlegs deep in the Seventh territory when Jerry Higgins was unable to hold on to a fourth down low pass center and lost the pigskin to the hard charging Redlegs forward wall, Jim Stewart's placement followed the score for a 7-0 DivArty advantage, which they held for three periods.

Redleg guard Ralph Foehls, who was in the Seventh's backfield all day, stole the ball from fullback Bob Joseph. Eight line fast stopping Redleg backs in check for three-quarters of the fracas. Three Cottonbaker fumbles, deep in their own territory, proved to be the costly difference in the games outcome.

Quarterback coach Gene Hanson, finding the Seventh line a severe foe, utilized his own passing talents to make the difference. A Harson to Sherry pass for 20 yards provided the Redlegs with their initial score.

The first down department gave DivArty a 57 yard edge, while they picked up 152 yards resulting in a total of 126 yards, 32 passing and 94 rushing.

Statistically, the Redlegs held an edge in most departments, but they failed to secure the impressive offensive yardage to which they are accustomed.

McElroy Places Army Back in Satellite Race

WASHINGTON (APFS)—The Army has been given a "green light" by Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy to prepare for sending a scientific satellite into space by means of a Jupiter-C test missile.

Army Shows Shut-Circuit Color TV

WASHINGTON (ANNS)—The first large, closed-circuit, color television facility in the government is now in operation here at Walter Reed Army Medical Hospital. It is being used to conduct professional medical training and civilian employe and troop informational programs.

Walter Reed's Television Division has given four programs to date and the general consensus of opinion is that they are both entertaining and helpful. Approximately 1,000 civilian and military personnel have viewed each of the programs.

The Civilian Personnel Office here has arranged for monthly use of the new television facility to hold programs covering leave, retirement, appeals rights and procedures, employee conduct, discipline, promotion, training, salary and wage administration, supervisory development, and safety. He says the programs provide experience on methods and techniques of communication by the management.

DivArty found themselves deep in the Seventh territory when Jerry Higgins was unable to hold on to a fourth down low pass center and lost the pigskin to the hard charging Redlegs forward wall, Jim Stewart's placement followed the score for a 7-0 DivArty advantage, which they held for three periods.

Redleg guard Ralph Foehls, who was in the Seventh's backfield all day, stole the ball from fullback Bob Joseph. Eight line fast stopping Redleg backs in check for three-quarters of the fracas. Three Cottonbaker fumbles, deep in their own territory, proved to be the costly difference in the games outcome.

Quarterback coach Gene Hanson, finding the Seventh line a severe foe, utilized his own passing talents to make the difference. A Harson to Sherry pass for 20 yards provided the Redlegs with their initial score.

The first down department gave DivArty a 57 yard edge, while they picked up 152 yards resulting in a total of 126 yards, 32 passing and 94 rushing.

Statistically, the Redlegs held an edge in most departments, but they failed to secure the impressive offensive yardage to which they are accustomed.

Third Opens Cage Season

Third Division opened this year's basketball season Monday night with a doubleheader in Harmony Church House.

In the opening game Monday, Division I trounced Combat Support Troops, 90-51. DivArty defeated Division II, 80-41, in the second game of the opening night.

For the high-scoring Division II game, Bob Brown tossed in 24 points for top scorer, Armand Farr, a teammate, followed with 20 points.

Ollis Tindor scored 20 to grab scoring honors for Combat Support Troops.

For DivArty, former Selton Star Bill Runge sank 24 points. Jim Weber was high scorer for Division I with 12 points.

Light-Middleweight Looks Like Heavyweight Fighter

"A light-middleweight with heavyweight's disposition," that's the description given by Army boxer Joe Whittaker of victories to four straight. Coach Dumpham is confident that Rice will reign as Benning's light-middleweight champion this season. But Rice's customary firm is replaced by a frown whenever the talk shifts to future titles. Rice might only once this season, he points out, "and you've got to compete to improve."

If he speeds up his punching and his footwork, Rice agrees with Rice and continues his drive to ferret out opposition on Fort Benning.

Rice balks at maintaining a stream of jabs and flurries, but likes to unleash furious, banging in the big punches. As a man, wed 23 times, is now enjoying his new, found freemiddleweight last year. Rice dom.

On the U. S. Army team was Sgt. Spradlin who won three events. Besides the state championship, the slender Army sharpshooter won the tournament's opening 200 yards slow fire match with a 99 total out of a possible 100 points and dropped only one of a possible 150 points in the combined 200-300-600 yard slow fire event.

Other U. S. Army team members who posted winning scores included Sgt. Hankins and M-Sgt. Peter K. Gutschick by two "V"s. Both dropped only one point in taking the 200-300-600 yard match with a five 149 score.

The winner in the service rifle (M-1) competition was Capt. Yousey who posted a two-day aggregate of 631 which included a 100-V possible and second place open class award in the 200 yard, rapid fire match.

In the team event fired over the National Match Course, U. S. Army "Blue" coached by M-Sgt. Harold V. Hankins, shot a bolt gun score of 964 out of a possible 1,000 points for the Kentucky team championship.

Finishing three points behind this front running "Blue" team and giving the U. S. Army its first "Gold" team which posted 961 points was the service rifle team coached by Sgt. Gutschick, including M-Sgt. Harold V. Hankins, Sfc John D. Whitford, 245; Sfc John D. Whitson, Sfc Jackson Smith, Sgt. Yousey, 229. The top individual performer was Warren B. Pollard.

51st Co. Plebes Whip Seniors 72-57 in Field Day Events

5th Student Bn. — The champion will be presented with a six-inch trophy bearing the inscription, "Ping Pong Champion, BIOC 2, Ft. Benning Saturday Nov. 9, by defeating them on the event of senior recognition field day. This is only the second time that a plebe company has won over a senior company.

The plebes took first place in all track events, the tug-of-war, the 200 yard run and in drill competition. The final total scores for all events was 1st Company, 72; 2nd Company, 57; and 32nd Company, 52.

2nd Student Bn. — The unit had two promotions last week as Prentice Kirk became a Specialist 3rd Class and Walter Manikes became Pfc.

A large stag party is being planned for the members of Ad Boos and Hack Adams are the favored Class No. 1 at Victory Lodge.

2D COMPANY — Major Helmut Jeserer, an Allied student from Germany, has just returned on a trip to Florida to visit friends. The major took advantage of his open time to buy a ticket to the Pony League game so Brat Barracks can have a Christmas dance.

The game will be at Doughty Stadium, tonight, Nov. 21, at 8 p.m. between the Blue Battalion and the Eagles. The admission is 25 cents. You can buy tickets at the gate or from any member of Brat Barracks.

The money taken from the game will be used for the Christmas dance which will be Dec. 27 at Brat Barracks.

"I'm sure everyone who went to the last formal at Brat Barracks will remember the fabulous band we had. We're having the same band for this dance, too, so you know it'll be great.

Brat Barracks is also going to have a hay ride, 27 at the USAIC rest camp. The trucks will leave at 7:00 so everybody be there.

"I'd like to stick a little note in here to set a few people straight. I didn't really dream I took that helicopter ride. I was just fooling.

"You'll all have to admit that the Parade of Champions was a lot of fun, even though you are broke. YAC made some money so aren't you glad you went.

Basketball season will be starting in a few months and coaches are needed, so if you have a little free time, you'd like to spend constructively call Sp. Wildsmith at the Youth Activities office, during the second week in a row as he spilled piping for a score of 84.

Donna Doak Eagles Meet Blues Tonight

Everybody likes to see kids have a good time, right? Well, then I'm sure you won't mind buying a ticket to the Pony League game so Brat Barracks can have a Christmas dance.

The game will be at Doughty Stadium, tonight, Nov. 21, at 8 p.m. between the Blue Battalion and the Eagles. The admission is 25 cents. You can buy tickets at the gate or from any member of Brat Barracks.

Judge

Thank You for Continuing counsel cannot call witnesses to show bad character. Thus, the accused takes a calculated risk in opening up the question of his character. People who disagree with the opinion that he is a person of good character will have the opportunity to express themselves.

However, the evidence in rebuttal may be limited by the scope of the character evidence introduced by the accused.

Your day-to-day conduct therefore may come unexpectedly to your assistance in the future. Each day you establish a record; each day you create impressions upon those who know you. These impressions should be the very best you are capable of making. Accusations are seldom directed against those who have a good reputation in their units. If an accusation is made, you have a wide selection of personnel who will come forward to testify to your character.

2 Units Get Recognition For Safety

The U. S. Army Infantry Board and the Infantry Center Ordinance Section at Fort Benning have received certificates of achievement for top safety records.

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center presented the certificates to Col. Henry Neilson, deputy president of the Infantry Board, and Col. Dora A. McClelleny, deputy Center Ordinance officer, in behalf of their respective units.

The Infantry Center safety awards are presented quarterly to the major unit and technical service chosen for outstanding work on their accident prevention program.

Under the safety program organized by Major Robert L. Wisor, Safety Officer, the Infantry Board achieved an 80 per cent reduction in military injury and Army vehicle accident rate during the second and third quarters of the calendar year, 1957.

The Ordinance Section received its honor for having no disability injuries or Army vehicle accidents in the second and third quarters of 1957. This record was also maintained for the calendar year 1956. James L. Luderhik is the safety officer for the Ordinance Section.

Rangers, BIOC Begin Classes

Two classes began at Fort Benning's Infantry School this week.

Approximately 50 men started Ranger instruction Nov. 18. A basic officers class with 160 students began today, Nov. 21.

The Ranger instruction is an eight-week course designed to develop practical field training the potential for command and leadership of selected officers and non-commissioned officers throughout the Army to improve the capabilities of fighting units. Two weeks are spent at Fort Benning in concentrated general training. Then the class moves to Eglin Air Force Base for three weeks of jungle training. The final phase of the course is spent in mountain training at Dahlgren, Ga.

NEW THERAPIST... Capt. Eleanor W. Kleit of Wheeling, W. Va., has been assigned to Fort Benning's Army Hospital as a physical therapist. She is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Pa., with a master of arts degree in education.

1st Lt. Bags 10-pt. Buck

1st Lt. Don Melton is the first deer hunter of the company to be able to enjoy a freer fall of delicious venison. On Sunday, Nov. 10, he bagged a 10 point buck on Nüniger Reservation. At least it is some incentive for the other rifle marksmen of the company who spent this weekend sport.

Joining the 1st this week were: Donnie, Grady L. Bernard, Walter E. Dochery, who will serve as an aircraft mechanic with the company.

Donning their civilian clothes this week were Sp4 Leo A. Ehret and Sp4 Billy J. Spurgers. Daniel G. Soyman, Gabriel A. Spera, and Stanley Watson, M.Sgt. John S. Messersmith, and M.Sgt. John S. Messersmith, who will be assigned to 2-2.

Ex-Medic Plans Re-Enlistment As Army Nurse

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex.—Master Sergeant Alfred J. Buschmann, once instructor of operating room procedures for enlisted personnel at the Army Medical Service School, dropped his military title when he left Brooke Army Medical Center here recently, but in three years plans to be back in the Army as a second lieutenant, Army Nurse Corps.

On the strength of a Kellogg Foundation Scholarship and his rights under the GI Bill, he has gone into training at the John Peter Smith Hospital School of Nursing at Fort Worth. Simultaneously he is working to attend night school at Western College to earn a B. S. degree in nursing education, and to serve actively in the National Guard. Buschmann expects this ambitious program to be easier than it would be without his Army experience.

Trained as a vocational nurse for hospital ward duty in the Clinical Technician's School here, he served in several Army hospitals and in Korea, where he earned the Combat Medical Badge. He has been instructing here since January, 1956. (ANF)

CG Marks Thanksgiving By Message

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Fort Benning commanding general, this week issued a Thanksgiving greeting to personnel at Fort Benning, expressing hope for an enjoyable day of thanks for both civilians and soldiers.

On the eve of this traditional American holiday, I extend my best wishes for an enjoyable Thanksgiving to all the military and civilian personnel of Fort Benning.

Post Plans Full Program To Celebrate Christmas

A full program of religious and secular activities is being planned by the Fort Benning community for the 1957 Christmas season.

Traditional services and ceremonies reflecting the birth of the Christ Child with prayers and devotion in hope that the Christmas spirit will bring peace again to a strife-torn world are being scheduled.

Project action officer for planning, coordinating and scheduling the general Christmas program is Major Thomas P. Gaunt.

Officers Christian Union Religious Group Holds Conference Here in Dec.

Approximately 50 representatives of the Officers Christian Union will meet at Fort Benning for the Southeastern Conference Dec. 4 and 5.

A world-wide Armed Forces religious organization, the Officers Christian Union, will meet at Fort Benning Dec. 4 and 5.

Post To Take Part In Rites for Peace

A massing of the colors ceremony dedicating the insignia of the nation's armed forces to peace will be held in Columbus, Dec. 8.

The ceremony will be open to the public. Held last year for the first time in the Columbus area, it emphasizes the role of our defense forces as an instrument for peace.

'Army' Asks For Articles

Fort Benning personnel have been urged to submit articles to Army magazine.

Parade With Colors Following a concert of military and religious airs by the Third Division band, the colors of the nation and of the individual units will be brought into the auditorium by color guards.

Project supervisor for the Christmas program is Major William V. Johnson, USAIC Special Services Officer.

In order to accommodate Christmas shoppers, the main Post Exchange and Toyland at Fort Benning will be open Sunday afternoons, Dec. 1, 8, and 15, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

5 Major Units Go Without Accident In Safety Program

Five major units at Fort Benning have had no disabling injuries from traffic accidents during the first 18 days of the post's pre-holiday safety emphasis program from Nov. 6 thru Nov. 24.

THE HARD WAY... Lt. Col. Allen C. Shuler, Jr., Infantry Center provost marshal, shows the piece of an automobile bumper brought in by a civilian employee who was clearing a post.

Regulations require that the post tag be left at the post before clearing. The lady was unable to bring her car to the post to have the tag scrapped off. So, unable to get the tag off herself, she did the next best thing. She brought in a portion of the bumper.

Scouts Get Presentations

Presentation of the annual Charter and awards highlighted a Court of Honor meeting of Troop No. 10 in the Benning Park Scout House Nov. 27. Explorer and Boy Scouts of Troop No. 10 and their parents attended the ceremonies. Approximately 25 awards of merit, badge and advancements in Scouting were made. The troop's annual charter from Georgia - Alabama Council of Boy Scouts of America was made during a candlelight meeting.

An emergency service award was presented to Troop Scoutmaster Pic Robert Wolfe and Scouts Don Outley and Charlie Rollins.

The award indicates that recipients are qualified to assist in any type of emergency including evacuation service. Slides from the Fourth National Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., this summer also were shown.

In December Issue

Ford Magazine Features Fort Benning, Columbus

Work of Fort Benning artist, Mrs. Mary D. Keatley is featured in the December issue of the Ford Times, national magazine of the Ford Motor Company.

Five paintings by Mrs. Keatley, association adviser on art and photography at the Army Infantry Human Research Unit at Fort Benning, have been used to illustrate the leading article on Fort Benning, and Columbus.

The paintings include scenes of white-columned Columbus mansions, a stern wheel excursion boat on the Chattahoochee River, the Columbus Trinity Episcopal Church, the Fort Benning parachute jump towers and a bus station scene at Fort Benning.

Author of the article, the late Laurence Critchell, writes of Columbus as "a soldier's favorite town" and describes its booming industry and reflect upon the city's friendliness of Columbus and its people. "After the pocket-sized magazine, the thing you remembered afterwards in combat, Columbus shined," he author wrote.

Prominent mention of several Columbus artists is made in the article, such as the Mink home, St. Elmo, the old red brick houses and the hundreds of year-old trees and the Raleigh Hotel.

Atom Age May Make Possible Fall-Out of KP
WASHINGTON (APFS) — Advancements of the atomic age may one day lighten the chore of an old Army institution — kitchen police.

According to Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, "in the not too distant future" progress in the fields of irradiation and deirradiation processing of foods will not only provide better meals for combat troops but, at the same time, may subtract from — if not eliminate — KP.

Col. Piper to Retire Saturday at Benning

Col. Ellis G. Piper, president of the Third U. S. Army Physical Evaluation Board at Fort Benning, will retire from active service Nov. 30.

At a formal ceremony in the office of Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, Col. Piper received a Certificate of Appreciation for his service in the Adjutant General's Corps signed by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Army chief of staff.

Gen. Powell also presented Col. Piper the Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement for his meritorious service at Fort Benning from August, 1956 to November, 1957. He then presented the retiring officer his Certificate of Retirement signed by Major Gen. Herbert B. Jones, Adjutant General of the U. S. Army.

A 1936 graduate of the University of Florida at Gainesville, Col. Piper entered active military service in 1940. He received his bachelor of law degree from the University in 1948.

Before coming to Fort Benning he served with the Army Reserve Advisory Group in Miami. From October, 1953 to July, 1955 he was assigned to the Adjutant's General's Office in Washington, D. C.

During World War II, Col. Piper served at the Infantry Center and later in the Pacific Theater. From 1950 to 1953 he was in Germany with U. S. Army Headquarters at Heidelberg and the Seventh U. S. Army.

Col. Piper is married to the former Ann Scruggs of Monticello, Fla. They plan to make their home in Miami.

Passion Play
Group Writes Appreciation To 'Extras'

A letter expressing the appreciation of the Board of Directors of the Christian Fellowship Association for the recent appearance of 25 Fort Benning soldiers as "extras" in the Black Hills Passion Play has been received by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center.

It was written by Mrs. B. B. Hudson, Jr., Chairman of the Committee sponsoring the Passion Play. Mrs. Hudson states in part:

"The men who participated were certainly a credit to Fort Benning. I think they enjoyed it as well as benefited from helping us. We have nothing but good for them. They were the stage most of the time, and came in direct contact with the audience. They are certainly worthy of commendation in Public Relations."

"Again, may I use that very inadequate expression, 'Thank you.' I do hope that in some way I may be able to express some courtesy and great love to you."

Men taking part in the Passion Play and their units are: Headquarters Detachment, First Special Troops Battalion, Sgt. William V. Kapezaris, Pvt. Christopher Valente and Pfc. Fred C. Knop.

10th Artillery Bn. Will Celebrate In Honor of Saint Barbara Dec. 4

Unit Schedules Display Of Weapons, Missiles

SAINT BARBARA, ARTILLERY GUARDIAN
Protects Against Explosion of Weapon.

The Second Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery, Infantry School Troop Command, will present an artillery display at Fort Benning's Camp Field Dec. 4 in honor of St. Barbara, patron saint of artillery.

A mass formation of the Second Battalion will be held on Camp Field at 12 noon. Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center, will be the guest of honor at the ceremonies. Chaplain (1st Lt.) Francis Kovacic, Infantry School Troop Command chaplain, will be principal speaker. He will present a brief history of St. Barbara as the artillery patron. An Infantry Center band will provide music for the occasion.

A static display of artillery weapons and missiles will open at 12:30 p.m. and be on display until 6 p.m. Included in the exhibit will be the Honest John rocket, the Corporal and the Nike, Army guided missiles and all types of artillery weapons organic to the Reorganized Current Infantry Division. Artillerymen will be stationed at the display to answer questions. The public is invited.

St. Barbara, the daughter of a wealthy heathen, lived in the Fourth Century. While her father, Dioscorus, was away on a long journey she came to accept the Christian faith. She also directed that a bathhouse her father was building be redesigned to include three windows symbolizing the Holy Trinity.

Upon his return, Barbara's father was infuriated at the change in his building and by Barbara's conversion. In anger, he took her to the province perfect who directed that she be tortured and beheaded. Dioscorus himself carried out the sentence, whereupon he was struck by lightning and his body consumed. According to legend, the sick were healed at Barbara's grave, and the pilgrims who came to pray received aid and consolation. The story of the lightning bolt which struck down her persecutor caused the martyr's cult to be regarded as the patron in time of danger from thunderstorms, fires and sudden death. In time she became the special protector of artillerymen who risked destruction when in battle. St. Barbara is usually represented standing by a tower with three windows, carrying the palm of a martyr in her hand. Often she holds a chalice and sacramental water, with cannon displayed near her. On present calendars St. Barbara's feast day is Dec. 4 each year.

PM Assigned Lt. Harstock

First Lt. Frank Harstock has been assigned as operations officer in the Infantry Center Provost Marshal Section at Fort Benning.

He succeeds Capt. Thomas D. Harlow. Lt. Harstock was formerly assigned to the Weapons Department at The Infantry School where he was an instructor on the Tank Recoilless Weapon Committee since Nov. 27, 1956.

He wears the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart and the Combat Infantryman Badge.

Lt. Harstock is a veteran of 11 years of military service. He first came to Fort Benning in March, 1949, to attend the officers basic course at The Infantry School.

From January to November, 1953, he was with the 40th Infantry Division in Korea.

BOWLING LEAGUE

The Fort Benning Woman's Club Bowling League would like to extend a special invitation to all Officers Wives who are members of the Club, to become regular members or substitutes. The League carries 16 teams of 5 members, and at the present time, League is in need of seven regular members and many substitutes.

The regular bowling schedule on Wednesday night, with eight teams bowling at 6 o'clock and eight teams at 8:30 p.m. The teams alternate on the shifts according to the schedule posted in the Main Post Bowling Alley No. 1. All regular members of each team are required by League Rules to pay $1.35 each scheduled night of bowling.

This League is sanctioned by the Women's International Bowling Congress and Georgia Women's Bowling Association and each member is required to become a member of the organization. The fee will be $1.50 for the bowling season which began Aug. 1, 1957 through all the Summer Leagues of 1958.

At the end of the 24-week League, there will be a roll off tournament of team matches, doubles and singles. Immediately following this tournament, a banquet will be held for the presentation of the League trophies and tournament awards. Time and place will be announced at a later date.

Wives Hold Coffee Thurs.

Wives of NCO's from ANCO No. 1 held a coffee in the day-room of the 54th Company, Fifth Student Battalion, Nov. 27.

Mrs. John Perry and Mrs. Lawdy Douglas were hostesses for the coffee. The coffee was held as a get-together gathering for wives who have only recently come to Fort Benning.

BUFFET SUPPER

The officers and their ladies of the 1st Transportation Company enjoyed a buffet supper Saturday, Nov. 16 at the Lawson Open Mess. The honor guests were Major and Mrs. W. R. Howell and Major and Mrs. R. E. McKeloch of Fort Riley, Kansas. Using the Thanksgiving motif, each table had a centerpiece of pine cones and turkeys with rustic feather and olive heads. These were surrounded with colorful maple leaves, pumpkin and pilgrim candles.

DENTAL LUNCHEON

Glittering conceptions, gold foilage, and hand-painted placecards were the highlights for the traditional Thanksgiving luncheon given by the Fort Benning Dental Wives on Nov. 15. The luncheon was presented at the Main Officers Club. Those guests to be represented are: Mrs. Robert Christian, Italy; A. Bobman, Court of Denmark, Holland and Spain.

WPNS LUNCHEON

The November Luncheon for the ladies of the Infantry School's Weapons Department was held on Friday, Nov. 15, at the Custer Terrace Club by the ladies of the Tank Reconnaisance Weapons Committee and featured a highly enlightening speech by Major Ernest S. Ferguson of the Committee. Along with his speech, Major Ferguson presented a display of various weapons and phases of the activities in the Weapons Department as well as examples of instructional material used by instructors of the Department.

Guest of honor for the occasion was Mrs. Stanley R. Carson who was presented a corsage of white carnations. A corsage was given to Mrs. Samuel T. McDowell, who recently returned to the group from Walter Reed Hospital. Mrs. William J. Regner was welcomed as a new member of the group and other special guests included: Mesdames John Graves Sr., Alpheus B. Hussong and Robert Bryan.

The tables were decorated with miniature infantrymen and equipment with red Pyra-cantha berries. Each table held a centerpiece of dried flowers and autumn leaves and the table of honor was centered with a large arrangement of miniature tanks and equipment surrounded by yellow chrysanthemums. The special table was bordered with autumn berries and holly. The motif for the name cards was the Infantry School's slogan "Follow Me".

Trees Planted In Compound By Chaplain

MUNSAN-NI, Korea—Army Chaplain (Captain) Boyce H. Creamer believes in planting for the future. He has transplanted 128 trees and is growing a large Kentucky blue grass lawn and what may well be the only Korean rice paddy inside an Army compound here.

Chaplain Creamer knows that he will have finished his Korean tour long before his young forest begins to cast shade over the regimental chapel area. "But if it will give my successor and the men attending church a more beautiful place for worship, then it will be worth it," he says.

The chaplain began his job in March, digging up small trees from areas almost 20 miles away and replanting them, usually by himself. Then, with the help of some of the men of the 21st Infantry, he cleared two and one-half tons of rock from the chapel area.

"The soil is poor," said Chaplain Creamer of Durham, N. C., and some of the trees died. But I expected this and made sure I had more than enough. A flower garden, with plenty of watering, is prospering.

"By the time I leave things will be growing well," he says, "and some day the chapel grounds will look just like those at home."

Except, of course, for the rice paddy. (ANF)

Benning Opens Lounge For Men of WPNS Pool

A combination lounge and lunch room, the first of its kind for the Main Post Weapons Pool at Fort Benning, was officially opened Nov. 27.

Col. Robert L. Crouse Jr., Infantry School Operations officer, cut the tape at the open ceremonies.

The project was promoted by Capt. Howard W. Whipple, weapons pool officer, security of the lack of facilities for lunch and relaxation during the noon hour for military and civilian personnel at the weapons pool.

Converted from a storage room, the new lounge is a cheerful, well-equipped and attractive lunch room. It is furnished with inviting lunch tables, groups of comfortable sofas and lounge chairs. Coffee, soft drinks and candy packages have been installed. A reading corner with an attractive magazine and book stand offers a variety of current magazines and a representative selection of books.

Yearbook Fills Gap in History Of 7th Infantry

Echoes of a distinguished past extending back to the War of 1812 were revived for soldiers of the 1st Battle Group, a few days ago when they received a 20,000-word history of the regiment from its founding until 1929.

The history is part of a regiment year book sent to the unit by Robert J. Farnsworth of Alhambra, California, son of the late Major Gen. Charles S. Farnsworth, first commandant of the Infantry School at Fort Benning and chief of Infantry from 1920 until 1923.

Mr. Farnsworth also sent letters, pamphlets, photographs and other historical items collected by his father who served with the unit from 1890 until 1908 while it was stationed in Cuba, Alaska, and the Philippines.

Personnel May Communicate Without Charge Messages for 'MARS' Come To Benning Radio Station Daily

BY TOM KELLY
A stranger might confuse at first glance the sign "MARS" at the junction of Fort Benning's Vibbert and Ingersoll Street as having a connection with some outer space station. Upon second glance, however, he would find that MARS stands for Military Affiliate Radio Station. The station is open to civilian and military personnel of the post and vicinity from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Fridays to send personal messages to anywhere in the U. S. and to overseas Army post offices free of charge.

The delivery of these messages is not guaranteed, however. Officers, messengers for the American Red Cross, Army Infantry Center, Special Services Office and Chaplains Section are sent from the radio station. The station is open to licensees.

MARS was established April 18, 1948 and was one of a number of stations organized in compliance with instructions from the secretaries of Army and Air Force Nov. 28, 1948, directing the opening of these radio stations under the supervision of the chief signal officer, Department of the Army.

They were created to foster interest and further training in military radio communication, and to coordinate the practical procedures of amateur radio operators.

At Fort Benning's Parade of Champions Nov. 15, Sgt. Edward G. De Witt, in charge of the MARS exhibit at the parade, reported that over 300 messages were sent that day.

MARS has contacted stations at Johannesburg, South Africa, Victoria, Australia, Bologna, Italy, Santos, Brazil, and Sandstrom, Greenland.

Three radio operators assist in conducting station operations. They are Sp4 Richard Tidwell, Sp4 Joseph Ogrodnik and Pvt. Billy Nitcho.

The radio station provides training in International Morse Radio Code; trainees personnel of military units in operating radios and provides a "quasi-official" system for communications for the American Red Cross, Special Services Office and the Chaplains Section when requested.

Efforts are being made to obtain space in the Main Post Exchange for a pick up point, where messages can be left persons desiring to send messages via MARS.

MARS also provides an alternate communications network which has a primary function of backing up the post's communication network in the event of disasters or the failure of other communications in the Fort Benning and surrounding areas.

Col. Edward C. Coffin Jr. is the director of the station. First Lt. Walter S. Gust is operations officer and Sgt. De Witt is the non-commissioned officer in charge of the station.

Three radio operators assist in conducting station operations. They are Sp4 Richard Tidwell, Sp4 Joseph Ogrodnik and Pvt. Billy Nitcho.

Colorful and interesting pictures are tastefully hung on the walls. In one corner stands a television set which the personnel purchased collectively about a year ago offering its relaxing added attractions.

Army Shows How to Move Heavy Stuff

FT. DIX, N. J. (AFPS)—Some 10,000 tons of massive earth-moving equipment went airborne at nearby McGuire AFB recently in a demonstration of Army mobility.

The demonstration was the result of a field study of three years of planning and drafting board work aimed at increasing loading and unloading speed for major air movements.

The plans were developed to overcome problems encountered with construction machinery during the Berlin airlift in 1948, when disassembly of equipment in two to two and one-half hours.

Sifts Out Low Potential Enlisted Men

Army Ups Caliber of Personnel Through Stiffer Requirements

WASHINGTON — Enlisted men who have conclusively demonstrated that they lack potential for training to NCO leaders in smaller units like squads, platoons and companies who may have to step up to the plate in higher responsibility during combat. Present responsibilities call for the Army to be prepared to simultaneously meet the initial shock of any attack and be capable of providing a cadre for rapid expansion. It is essential that enlisted men on duty at all times have the skills and aptitudes to meet the requirements of the Army coupled with today's and tomorrow's

Post Visited By Officers Of Ecuador

EQUATORIAN DOUGHBOY — Col. Victor F. Aulestia, left, chief of staff to the commander of the Ecuadorian Army, is presented a certificate making him an honorary "Doughboy" by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School at Fort Benning. Col. Aulestia and six other key Ecuadorian Army officers visited The Infantry School to study methods of instruction and receive a briefing on school operations.

commissioned officers of the top three grades who have served at least ten years. This required the services at any time of 13 officers, 100 enlisted men and 70 short-term civilian teachers, the latter at an average annual cost of a quarter of a million dollars.

Literary Training — The TTUs were successors of the Army's program of basic literacy training education from 1951 to 1954 in Europe. The Army sent 40,000 men to school eight hours a day for periods ranging from eight to sixteen weeks. During this schooling, which averaged about nine weeks, the soldiers, many of them short-term inductees or enlistees, performed no military duties but required the services of better-qualified personnel as instructors and administrators. "Transitional Training Unit" students, however, attended classes half days and were given pre-basic military instruction during the remainder of the day. The TTUs were set up at the reception centers following complaints from overseas commanders that operation of elementary schools interfered with their military missions. (ANP)

10 Officers Begin Observation Class

Ten Third Division officers began training this week as "eyes" of the Army — aerial observers trained in reconnaissance techniques and aerial photography.

Brig. Gen. John E. Leary, assistant Division commander, spoke to the men at their first class last week at Lawson Field. He stressed the importance of Army aviation and urged the men to carry information about it back to their units when their five weeks of school are over.

Seven key Ecuadorian Army officers visited Fort Benning's U. S. Army Infantry School Nov. 20-23 to study methods of instruction.

The Allied party included Col. Victor F. Aulestia, chief of staff to the Army commander, Lt. Col. Gustavo Handera, G-2 (intelligence officer) of the Army General Staff, Lt. Col. Alejandro Arillo, director of the Infantry School; Lt. Col. Jorge Garcia, director of operations, Army General Staff; Lt. Col. Jorge Vera, deputy director of the General Staff School; Lt. Col. Jorge Salvador, director of training, Armed Forces General Staff and Major Luis Alfredo Molina, director of logistics, Army General Staff.

They conferred with Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the school, and were honored with an official luncheon Nov. 21 in the Main Officers' Mess.

Demonstrations viewed by the Ecuadorians included platoon drill, foreign mines, obstacle and confidence course, officer candidate training, and machine gun, 4.2-inch mortar, Browning automatic rifle and 105-mm recoilless rifle firing.

Lt. Gen. Hickey Is Honored By Military Chaplains Assn.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Third Army Commander, Tuesday evening, Nov. 19, received the "Award of Recognition" from the Military Chaplains Association of the United States of America.

Ninety prominent clergy and lay religious leaders assembled at the Fort McPherson Officers' Club to honor the occasion—the first time the award has ever been presented in the Southeastern United States.

Former awardees have been President Eisenhower, Secretary of the Army Wilbur M. Brucker, and General Douglas MacArthur.

In presenting the award Rev. James W. May, President of the Atlanta Chapter of the Association, noted that of a people and their national identity; those who asked the clergy for help; those who offered help to the clergy; and those who did everything in their power to aid the clergy. He said he also believed there was a fourth type: the man who has come to great responsibility with the realization of the closely interwoven and dependent relationship of spiritual and worldly affairs. "Such a man," he said, "is the recipient of the award this evening."

The Association cited General Hickey for "leadership and effort in behalf of the moral and spiritual welfare of the Armed Forces."

"Out of his personal dedication to Christian principles has come a sensitive understanding of the inter-relationship of the inter-relationship of the spiritual welfare of the men under his command. He said that he had always considered morality and religion indispensable supports of the nation, particularly of the military—to give it strength and direction."

Principal speaker for the evening was Lt. Gen. Joseph E. Fraser (Ret.) of Hinesville, Ga., a former commander of the 4th Armored Division (National Guard) of Georgia and Florida. His topic was "The Need for Dedicated Men Today."

Pilots to Get Copter Flying By Simulator

LOS ANGELES (APFS)—Helicopter pilots with only 20 hours of flight instruction will be able to fly safely, day or night, under all weather conditions when a new flight simulator is perfected.

That prediction was made at the Army-Navy Instrument Program symposium, here recently by Bell Helicopter Corp. Engineers reported on a screen, mounted in a helicopter, that can produce a synthetic representation of the outside real world.

The research is part of an Army-Navy program set up to fit all aircraft to man's capabilities and limitations rather than continue attempts to condition man to the increasing demands imposed by present-day and future aircraft.

Currently projected on the screen are moving grid patterns from which pilots can discern altitude, speed, turn and other maneuvers.

The degree of accuracy and the psychological ramifications of the device are being measured now by Bell engineers on their study of time interval between condition and response.

One Class Starts Another Concludes At Infantry School

One class began and one ended at Fort Benning's Infantry School this week.

Fifty-six students entered radio maintenance class No. 23. Graduation ceremonies were held Nov. 26 at 9 a.m. for the 23-man motor transportation officers class.

Artist Paints At 14th Inf.

Sp3 Heinrich M. Fahn, Company D, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, has proven his ability as an artist, painting pictures from Munich, Germany in the 14th Infantry at Fort Benning.

Starting his career at an early age, Sp3 Fahn has specialized in life-size painting which include oil and water paint canvases.

Upon his arrival in the 14th Infantry, Sp3 Fahn took up his brushes right away and started showing his talent by painting the 14th Infantry crest and has painted several pictures for the company. His painting of the "Raising of the Flag on Iwo Jima" is hung in the company dayroom.

Sp3 Fahn, a native of Munich, Germany, came to the United States in 1955 to become a sign painter in New Jersey, but entered the service after being in the states for two months.

FINISHING TOUCH . . . Sp3 Heinrich Fahn puts the finishing touch to his painting in the mess hall of company D, 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry at Fort Benning.

Corps Gives Top Soldiers Tough Quiz

UIJONGBU, Korea—What would you do if an atomic bomb burst a mile away? What is the first amendment to the Constitution? What are the requirements of a good leader? Sample questions, there, but from a TV quiz show, but thrown fast at candidates for the "Soldier of the Month" accolade by seven veteran non-commissioned officers of 1 Corps (Group) here.

This is the first time the corps has utilized a non-commissioned board of judges in announcing this new procedure. Lieutenant General Arthur G. Trudeau, commanding general, opined that old line professional soldiers are the best judges of all that goes to make up a good soldier.

"You can bet that they will be tougher and it will take more than just a sharp appearance or ready answers to convince them," he said.

The soldier who ran this gamut with the greatest success is a photo interpreter with the artillery intelligence section, Specialist Third Class Joseph A. Coperstone of (15117 Holmar Ave.) Detroit, Mich.

It earned him more than honors: He had his choice of one of two new uniforms, blue dress or Army green. (ANF.)

Army Gets Big Income From Timber

FORT POLK, La.—Sale of timber and other forest products on the military reservation here has brought the Federal government more than $500,000 during the past three years, according to Postmaster John S. Andrews.

Products sold include poles, piling, sawlogs, pulpwood, fence posts and stumpy wood.

The selective cutting of lumber in Fort Polk forests, by removing poorly formed, insect and disease-infested trees, permits good quality varieties to grow and reproduce more easily and provides a more desirable habitat for wildlife.

The logging work is done by civilian saw mills under the supervision of four civilians employed by the Post Engineer Office. These men mark each tree to be cut and tabulate the amount of board feet by size and species as a guide to contractors in their bidding. These markings also keep the inspector informed of improper cutting practices once the work begins.

The Army foresters also manage the government's timber resources by reforestation, fire control, controlled burning and desilting cut hard woods, and surveying land lines.

Holiday Is Named Guided Missile Head

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has announced that William M. Holaday, present Assistant Secretary for Guided Missiles, will be given new authority under the title of Director of Guided Missiles.

Mr. McElroy, making the announcement at his first formal Pentagon press conference, said Mr. Holaday, as head of the missile programs, will be responsible for research, development, engineering, production and procurement of the weapons systems.

A new single manager system also will be set up in his own office within the next few months, the Defense Secretary said, for administration of missile weapons and space vehicles which are not now already in an advanced state of development.

Asked about the NATO meetings in Paris next month, Mr. McElroy said he believed the U.S. will seek agreements with our allies to arm advanced missile systems.

Scientific and Professional

Commissioner Wins Under Plan

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J.—The cold war equivalent of a battlefield commission has been awarded to an enlisted man at the U.S. Army Signal Engineering Laboratories here.

Second Lieutenant Hayden B. Peake of 6562 North Teutonia Dr., Milwaukee, Wis., is a 1956 graduate of the Rockefeller (N.Y.) Institute of Technology who was employed in motion picture development work in that city when inducted into the Army as a private.

After basic military training, he was assigned as a photographic engineer at the Laboratories here under the Scientific and Professional program which is supervised by the Specialist Section of the Office of Human Resources.

One of many As of more than 30 "S&Ps" there, Peake not only put his ability in scientific research and development—the battlefield of the cold war—to the use of the Army, but furnished his own professional stature by working with outstanding informed and civilian scientists in electronics, communications, photography and the physical sciences.

The direct commission followed not merely because of his professional background, but because of his leadership potential. "It is still basic," points out Major John N. Kopke, commander of the support battalion for the Signal Laboratories Research and Development Company, "that the uniformed scientists and engineers are good soldiers."

Active Duty Upon completion of the Signal School's basic officers' course here, Peake must serve a minimum of two years on active duty as an officer, but assigned to scientific work.

The 1962 Reserve Force Act, which requires only six months of active duty, spared this new personnel approach of presenting enlisted men in the Laboratories with technically trained lieutenants.

After completion of their stipulated military service, such qualified "S&P" officers and men are encouraged to remain in Army uniform in scientific or engineering assignments or to choose a Civil Services career in the Laboratories. (ANF)

Civilian Dentists Receive Training for Disasters

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex.—The military services and the Texas Dental Association have joined hands to train civilian dentists for their role in the medical care of victims of major disasters.

Colonel Lowell E. McKelvey, Chief of Oral Surgery at Brooke Army Hospital here, has organized a team of dental officers.

The course is scheduled for weekends with four hours on Saturday afternoons and four hours on Sunday mornings. The Brooke group, one from William Beaumont Army Hospital at Ft. Pasa, and another from Lackland Air Force Base.

Col. Hyde Pays Visit to Benning

Col. William H. Hyde of the British Joint Services Mission, Washington, D. C., visited Fort Benning Nov. 25-27.

He conferred with Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Army Infantry School commandant, and was honored at an official luncheon Nov. 25 in the Main Officers' Mess.

The British officer was briefed on activities of The Infantry School's Combat Development Office and the Army Infantry Board during his stay at the post.

KP Culminates As-Cook as Cake Captivates Col.

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AFPS) — "which of the cooks baked this cake?" demanded the colonel, munching an inedible delicacy even more tasty than he looked.

"It wasn't a cook, sir," stammered the mess sergeant. "Just a KP who's only been in the Army a week."

"He's not a KP any more, sergeant. He's a cook."

So Pvt. James J. Bongiovanni, now a master sergeant, who honored courtiers in hotels in Italy, France, Switzerland and Belgium before entering the Army in 1941, became a cook.

Week-Long Celebrations Services to Expand Armed Forces Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Armed Forces Day observances for the public at military installations will be extended in 1958 to week-long celebrations in most 21 and overseas areas.

By previous proclamation of the President, the third Saturday of May has been established as Armed Forces Day. Under a Defense Department policy revised to create maximum community interest, 1958 observances may be conducted not earlier than the second Saturday in May nor later than the Sunday following the official Armed Forces Day.

Each installation, according to a new directive, will be expected to schedule ceremonies, demonstrations and displays, depending upon the availability of personnel, equipment and local conditions.

Property Sale Set At Benning Dec. 10

A spot bid sale of used and unused government property will be held at the Infantry Center Quartermaster property disposal yard at Fort Benning Dec. 10.

Bids will be opened at 9 a.m.

Meris E. Hallaway, property disposal officer, stated that the property to be sold is no longer needed by the government and may be inspected at the property disposal yard between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on week days until Dec. 9. Bids must be made in person or by mail and no bid deposit will be required for the sale. No late bids will be accepted.

Officer Devises Landing System For Helicopters

An officer of the Third Infantry Division has devised a new and inexpensive night landing system for helicopters.

The method was developed by Capt. Robert A. McKeon, Operations Officer Third Division Aviation Section, and has been tested within the division for several months.

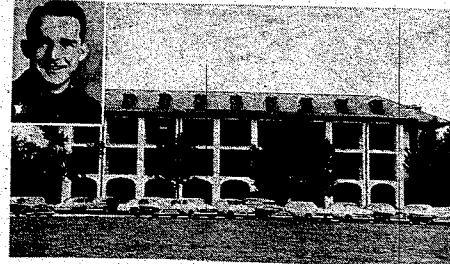

Similar to the "GlideScope," a method which has been previously used, the new development is believed to be a more simple, less expensive method.

Equipment needed for the "Mechoscope" — named for its inventor — includes three short wooden stakes and one longer stake, whereby a generator and box is needed for the "GlideScope."

The method is placed in operation in this manner: The three short stakes are driven to the ground perpendicular to the direction of landing, and are placed fifty feet from the desired landing site. Then, fourth and longer stake, is driven into the ground 20 feet from and perpendicular to, the row of smaller stakes, and is equipped with a green lensed light.

The system is then based on what the pilot of the helicopter sees from the air. In a correct approach, the green light atop the taller stake, will block out the view of the center red light.

It can be made in person or by mail and no bid deposit will be required for the sale. No late bids will be accepted.

Shockley Building Is Named For Medal of Honor Winner

(Editor's Note: According to recent findings of the Fort Benning Historical Board, many buildings on the post are being retrofitted to provide cover. This is the ninth in a series of pictures of buildings and Medal of Honor winners for whom the structures are named.

Medal of Honor citizen for Private First Class William R. Shockley, for whom the western section of the third cuartel (Building 27) is named, follows:)

Private First Class William R. Shockley, Army serial number 6 562 505, a machine gunner with Company L, 128th Infantry, was in position with his unit on a hill along the Villa Verde Trail, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 31 March 1945, when the enemy, after a concentration of artillery fire, launched a counterattack. He maintained his position under intense enemy fire and urged his comrades to withdraw, saying that he would remain "to the end" to provide cover. Although he had to clear two stoppages which impeded the reloading of his weapon, he halted one enemy charge. Hostile troops then began moving in on his left flank, and he quickly shifted his gun to fire on them. Knowing that the only route of escape was being cut off by the enemy, he ordered the remainder of his squad to withdraw to safety and deliberately remained at his post. He continued to fire until he was killed during the ensuing enemy charges. Later, four Japanese were found dead in front of his position. Private Shockley, facing certain death, sacrificed himself to save his fellow soldiers, but the heroism and gallantry displayed by him enabled his squad to reorganize and continue its attack. (Awarded July 26, 1945).

Olympic Competitor TSB Walker Cops Additional Honors

The School Brigade's Olympic walker, Pfc Elliott Demman, recently successfully completed two important walking competitions and has returned to Fort Benning with new honors. First race was the Sergeant Labovsky Memorial 10-mile race on Nov. 10 at Long Island City, N.Y. The event was conducted on a handicap basis with head starts of up to 30 minutes given to some competitors. Demman caught all but five of the starting field of 35 to finish sixth in the time of 1:26.7, fastest in the race. Among the men he beat were Bruce Mac Donald, his Olympic teammate last year and Carl Kure, National 15-mile champion.

The second race was the Ontario 20-kilometer (12.5 miles) walking championship held in the National Exhibition Stadium in Toronto, Canada on Nov. 16. Here Demman finished a strong second to another Olympian, Jim Hewson of Brit-

Olympic Kids To Attend Start Of Youth Boxing

Former Lt. Pete Rüdennacher and Sgt. Jim Boyd, two U.S. Olympic boxing champions, will team up to open the 1957-58 boxing program for the Fort Benning Youth Activities Club at Briant Wells Field House at 9 a.m. Dec. 1. This is the initial meeting and it is important that all boys between the ages of 6 and 11 years, who are interested in participating attend. Training periods will be held each Wednesday from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

It is anticipated that boxing matches will be arranged between Fort Benning and surrounding military installations in the Third Army area.

Dogs, Rams Take Gridiron Awards

Players of the School Brigade Rams and Second Student Battalion Bulldogs swept all trophies presented this year for outstanding gridiron performances in the Infantry Center Regimental Football League.

Lt. Jim Thompson, quarterback for the Bulldogs, was named the Infantry Center League's most valuable player during the past football season. The presentations were made at a School Brigade football banquet held last week in Oran Mess. Awards also were made to top players within the School Brigade and Student Battalion.

The Bulldogs and Rams tied for the Infantry Center football championship. The two teams defeated each other twice last season. It was the only loss for both teams during regimental play.

Outstanding lineman for the regimental league was Lt. Jim Brown of the Rams. Ed Burkhalter, a Bulldog, and Pfc Paul Wilson, of the Rams, were named outstanding backs of the year.

Players receiving trophies from the School Brigade were: most valuable player, Lt. Jim Thompson, outstanding lineman, Lt. Ed Savelczek, and outstanding back, Lt. Ed Burkhalter.

Trophies from the Rams went to Lt. Pete Tonnyney, most valuable player; Lt. Dick Lyons, outstanding lineman; and Lt. Jim Lavery, outstanding back.

Following the presentation ceremony, short talks were given by Col. Richard F. Kent, Infantry Center G-1; Col. Adrian L. Hoebeke, School Brigade commander, and Major Roy W. Borsgen, executive officer of Second Student Battalion.

DivArty Falls to 15th Infantry 10-6 in Battle of Marne Giants

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG
The 15th Infantry's powerful defensive effort knocked Division Artillery from the ranks of the unbeaten last Thursday afternoon as the Redlegs fell 10-6 at Bennett Field. Assuming undisputed possession of top spot in the hoop standings, while scoring their seventh straight victory of the campaign, the Gun Doers held off the highly-touted DivArty running backs with the defensive brilliance of a rugged line and an alert backfield.

First period, 34-yard touch-down pass and a third period 14 yard field goal gave the Gun Doers a 10-0 advantage, which was sufficient to keep defensive unit to protect.

Former Purdue quarterback Stan Eaton unleashed a pass to halfback Kenny Fry from the Divarty 31-yard line, midway in the first period. Handling it in the former Texas Aggie while tipped along the sidelines, avoiding would-be tacklers, and outraced the Redleg secondary, culminating a 74-yard drive which covered nine plays. Hank Thomas made

30th, 7th Win In Division Play

In Third Division basketball competition Monday night, the 30th Infantry beat the 7th Infantry 81-50 and Fourth Infantry downed Divarty 75-63. After Monday's play, 30th Infantry and Seventh Infantry are tied with two wins each for Cage League first place in the Marne Cage League.

Outclassed His Class Fighter Loses Bout Without Getting Hit

Fight fans who had gathered at Briant Wells Field House were witnessing the Infantry School Troop Command's sweep of an August smoker. Many of the evening spectators watched the solemn-faced, curly-haired figure in the center of the ring, awaiting the start of the fight he stood relaxed, casually studying the facing on his left glove. The boxer appeared to the crowd to be indifferent, perhaps confident.

But it was not confidence which he displayed—the bout was only his second in organized competition. Inexperience, as he was, the 22-year-old welterweight realized that eagerness might cost him the fight. He was anxious to keep the ISTC juggernaut rolling, yet his was a deliberate, workman-like style of boxing. At the bell he moved cautiously from the corner, intently searching for an opening in his opponent's defense.

In 15 seconds he had found eight openings, and eight solidly landed punches had been sent whining through to the head and body. He had spool knobby muscles in combination, past the defense of all. The referee stopped the fight. It was then that ISTC's Andrew Martinez was awarded the dubious honor of being a bout without having been touched by a glove.

The match had been designated for Class-B fighters, men who have had less than five fights. Feeling that the ISTC entry handled himself as if he had seen more action than the five maximum, the referee gave the bout to Martinez's battered opponent. Later the bout was declared no contest, and a loss was not charged to Martinez. After a recurrence, however, quickly moved to Class-A rating.

Medics Drop 29th, 54-47

The 54th Medics held off the last-ditch 29th Infantry rally to post a 54-47 basketball victory at Briant Wells Field House last Friday night.

Ed Porter scored 30 points for the winners to lead the Medics to a hard-fought win. Every time the Medics need a score badly the horns shouting Porter took things into his own hands and swished the net.

The Medics had to fight for their every inch of the way. After six minutes of play the 29th Infantry held a 6-0 lead as neither team could find the range with any degree of consistency. The Medics managed to sink enough foul shots to stay in contention.

It was a see-saw battle for the entire first half but the Medics scored three straight baskets just before halftime to leave the floor with a 30-24 lead. At the point, the 29th Infantry's cause looked bad as captain Don Klawetter and Ed Ralph Gray committed four fouls each in the first half.

Forward Sam Hageman played an outstanding game for 24th as he grabbed the 23 rebounds, more than half the rebounds for the losers. The five-foot-eleven, husky man tirelessly up and down the court to mare ball off the boards.

Club Ends Golf Play For Turkey

A 10-day Turkey Tournament, golf competition sponsored by Fort Benning's Women's Golf Club, ended Monday with winners taking home Thanksgiving turkeys.

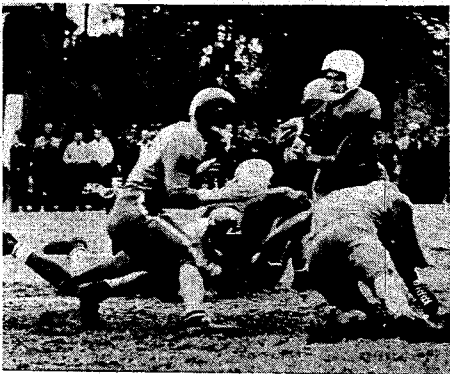

Runners-up in three categories of the tournament, held at Fort Benning Country Club Golf Course, each received a hen.

Winner of the 18-hole class was Marge Carter. Runner-up was Mimi Kozak.

Consolation winner in the 18-hole event was Irene Curtis with Charlotte L. Sogard taking second place.

In the nine-hole category, Joan Nolan came in with the best score and Martha Volentine finished as runner-up. Consolation in the nine-hole competition was won by Rose Young. Peg Hakala took consolation runner-up.

Frances Farrington took first place in the beginners class. Irene Bates was runner-up. No consolation competition was held for the beginners.

TRAPPED . . . Strong 15th line traps DivArty quarterback Gene Hanson. The Redies' usually effective running attack was stopped cold as the Can Doers scored a 10-6 victory over the Artillery eleven. Center Bob McPherson of the 15th is moving in for the tackle.

29th Starts Cage League In Companies

The First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, company level basketball league jumped off to a fast start last week with a four-game slate.

The action was fast and furious as all the teams showed fine talent in what promises to be a good, strong league.

In a Friday night game Company C bounced back from their earlier defeat to edge to a win over Company B.

15th Seeks Football Crown on Tuesday

The Third Division football title is a game away for 15th Infantry. Fresh from their 10-0 win over previously unbeaten DivArty Rockets, the Can Doers need only top the 20th Infantry Rockets in their Bennett Field fracas Tuesday night.

Winners of seven consecutive contests, the Can Doers will find no easy chore in disposing of the once-defeated 20th Infantry eleven. A win for the Rockets would throw the log into a three way tie at the top of the National championship race.

Demann's next start will be in the annual six-mile walking race from Ft. Thomas, Ky., to Cincinnati, Ohio on Thanksgiving day. The race he especially looks forward to is the National Indoor one-mile championship to be held in New York's Madison Square Garden next February. He hopes to be able to cover the mile under seven minutes.

Walker

Thank You For Continuing walked the 15 miles in 2:16. On Oct. 5 Demann was at Atlantic City, N. J., where he finished third in the National nine and one-half mile championship. John Humcke of New York and Kerr preceded him across the finish line. The race was performed in a blunder storm weather on the famous boardwalk by the sea. His time was 1:21.0.

30th Infantry Loses 1st Place in Division Boxing

The 30th Infantry dropped from a first place deadlock in the "Marne Boxing League" Thursday night, losing to the 30th Infantry.

Combat Support Troops downed Fourth Infantry in other matches, and created a three-team deadlock for second place.

The 30th handed the 30th team its first loss of the season by winning four of its five matches for the night.

Cluck Chisolm, started off with a first-round knockout of Donald Panchus. Panchus went into the lightweight battle hole in a previous decision over Alfred Abercrombie of Combat Support Troops in his only showing. Chisolm caught him with a flurry of punches late in the initial round, however, and finally finished him 2:55 deep into the stam.

Robert Hawks, then whipped Karlie Yaska on a first round TKO; Robert Dancha won over Clayton Reily on disqualification, and Lewis Walterhouse whipped Thomas Devereux, on decision.

The lone 30th triumph came when Lewis Clayton knocked out Ronald Keith, in 2:59 of the second.

Alfred Abercrombie won a decision over Darwin Shelton; Willie Ross won on disqualification from Johann Baumgardner; Clarence Bridges, knocked out Clyde Yann, and Austin Hurd won over John Flanagan on a first round in 2:31 of the second round.

Dragoneers Win Second Straight Cage Victory

The 14th Infantry Dragoneers won their second straight game of the USAIC basketball season Nov. 20 by defeating Special Troop Command 66-61.

The Dragoneers were in complete command throughout the game as they built up a 37-20 lead at halftime. With five minutes left in the game and a 15 point lead the Dragoneers substituted freely and at the same time STC started a rally which fell six points short.

The Dragoneers were led by Doug Walstad and Frank Lee, their two sharp shooting guards, with 16 points each. John Barnard played a fine floor game setting up many fast breaks for the Dragoneers!

At Walter Reed Hospital Sergeant Helps Discover Way to Preserve Cornea

WASHINGTON — A Walter Reed Army Hospital sergeant participated in the team discovery of a scientific process whereby the cornea of the human eye can be preserved indefinitely by dehydration. Previously a cornea had to be transplanted to the patient eye within a few days of the death of the donor.

Sergeant First Class Charles W. Furness, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Furness of Stafford Springs, Conn., designed a clamp which is instrumental in preventing damage to the cornea during dehydration. The instrument was presented recently before the annual meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology in Chicago.

In addition to his work with the Ocular Research Unit at Walter Reed Medical Center, Furness works during off-duty hours with the District of Columbia Lions Club Eye Bank and Research Foundation and helped set up a unit to employ the new process in a Georgetown University laboratory.

He works with the foundation, preserving corneas, collecting eyes from Washington hospitals for processing, and helping with the administrative work.

Frogman Proudest Of Infantry Badge

FORT ORD, Calif. — Bosun's Mate, Frogman, deep sea diver, military policeman, observer, criminal investigator, and platoon sergeant — all some of the titles answered to by Sergeant First Class Lambert DeSchler of 1487 Glenross Pl., Toledo, Ohio, now assigned to the Sixth Battle Group here.

A veteran of six years in the Merchant Marine when only 18, he joined the Navy in 1943 and completed two of its toughest courses — Frogman and Deep Sea Diving Schools.

As a frogman in the South Pacific he participated in several hazardous missions including the two Jimas operation. This was followed by deep-sea salvaging off New Zealand, New Guinea and the Philippines, including the recovery of millions of dollars in gold bullion kept in a Japanese Bika during the A-bomb tests.

DeSchler went back to the Merchant Marine for two years then joined the Army and wound up as an MP and investigator.

In Korea in the summer of 1950 he found investigators were in great demand but that forward observers directing mortar fire were.

TWO POINTS . . . Bill Hannan drives in for a two pointer in last week's opening Marne Division game contest. Division Trains' Jim Webber is guarding the Redleg flash, but Hannan and his team mates began their defense of the post court title with a one sided 86-41 victory.

He has volunteered to give a series of talks before local organizations to spread the word on the eye bank. His enthusiasm for his ophthalmology work is no mystery. While stationed with the Corps of Engineers in Hawaii in 1945, he lost an eye in an accident. "I realized then how wonderful vision is," he says. "If you think one eye isn't a great loss, wait until you lose both. After his accident he transferred to the Medical Corps, received training at Tripler Army Hospital, and as an Army student also attended a contact lens fitting course in New York.

Furness considers the most important—and most unpleasant—part of his work the collection of newly removed eyes from deceased donors. He

Trains Upset CST by 2-7

Division Trains pulled a mild yard line. CST's lone score came in the final second of ball competition as they trimmed the Cornish Support Rams 24-7 Nov. 15 under the lights at Bennett Field.

Overcoming a halftime 7-0 deficit, the Cornets burst forth in the second half with a rash of TDs. Pella again led the Scoring for Division Trains as they grabbed their second consecutive win.

Pella scored the initial tally for the winners in the first period, and scored the leading six pointers in the third period to provide the necessary margin for the win.

Both of Pella's scores came on brief plunges from the one yard line. CST's lone score came in the final second of the third period but they were unable to place the game-winning TD. Pella's place on the field was a 44-yard burst into the clear on a 44-second consecutive win.

In the final minute of the contest, second string quarterback Don Conlon unshipped a thirty-yard TD series to end Gene Wabeski's run to the contest into a small riot.

4th Student Bn. Provides Children Joy at 'Home'

PVTs. M. F. KERSHNER, J. W. BICHSEL PAINT IN SPARE TIME Looking On (L-R) Are Ruth Millrons, Debbie Adams, and Myrl Silkes

Children of the Ann Elizabeth Shepherd Home in Columbus have an entire battalion of Fort Benning soldiers looking after their welfare. Members of the Fourth Student Battalion, "adopted" the elementary and high-school-aged girls four years ago. Since then, the battalion has provided hundreds of hours for the home from simple repairs to a $8,000 fire wall around the furnace to make the frame home safer.

Basic support for the home comes from Columbus churches and individuals. However, this aid doesn't go all the way in meeting the needs of these growing youngsters.

Regularly, the battalion maintains the grounds, provides all meals used at the home pays for the children's school lunches, provide weekly allowances for all who do not get one elsewhere and invite the youngsters to the post for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners each year.

Each child is given $10 on her birthday by the battalion to go shopping and buy what she desires. The same holds true just before Christmas when each girl receives $25 from the post of the Fourth to spend on her own presents.

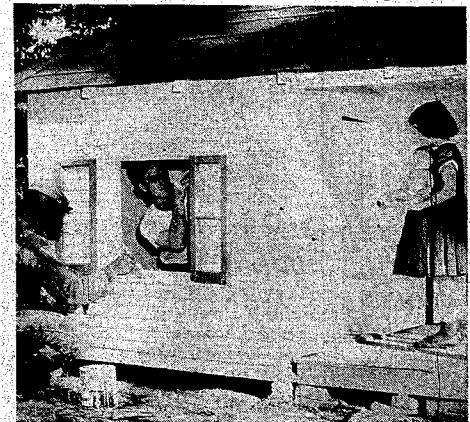

Besides this, the battalion has built an asphalt-surfaced tennis court on the grounds, given the home a washing machine, a typewriter, a vacuum cleaner, a 24-inch television set, a piano, window blinds, living room furniture, window fans and has furnished the home with a bed and dresser for each child.

The battalion project began in the fall, 1953, shortly after the girls had been invited to eat Thanksgiving dinner at the post. Lt. Col. Murray L. Harvey, then commander of the Fourth Student Battalion, requested permission of Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy Jr., Fort Benning commander at that time, for the battalion to take on the Ann Elizabeth Shepherd Home as a local community project. With Meloy's approval, project. With Gen. Meloy's approval, they did so Nov. 30, 1953.

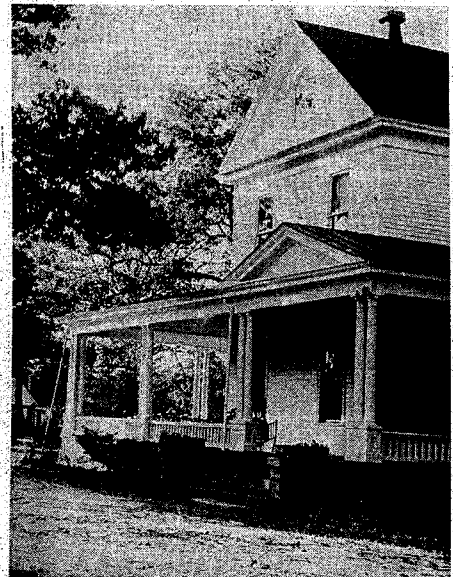

The battalion set up its own "board of governors," elected

Extensive Work During the past few weeks, men of the Fourth have been engaged in an extensive repair and painting project. Long hours and hard work by the enlisted personnel of the airborne outfit has placed the home in top shape for the girls.

Recently the girls were the guests of the Fourth at the help too.

Youth Activities Carnival at Lawson Field and then for dinner at Oklawaha Mesa.

In the near future, the men plan to remodel the interior of the home with new furniture, rugs and a general face-lifting. An officer of the battalion has this to say about the project: "We try to furnish a few things that the girls otherwise would not have. We get a great deal of satisfaction out of doing this and we hope others in the community who are interested in the welfare of children will

H-34 Goes TDY To the White House

4th Trans. Co. 1st Lt. Kenneth L. Wilens and CWO George R. Sabens departed Nov. 21 for 30 days TDY alert stand-by duty at the White House, Washington, D.C., with an H-34 helicopter.

Three ferry crews returned to company from a 10-day TDY trip to Bridgeport, Conn., and Mobile, Ala., last week. A stopover was required at Fobham Signal Depot, Pa., with the new H-34's for radio equipment prior to their shipment to Europe. Making the trip was 1st Lt. Kenneth L. Wilens, flight commander, CWO Worley, Gentry, Henry R. Coleman, Walter J. Carroll, Nelson M. Martin and WO George J. Roth.

Three officers from the Third Transportation Helicopter Company, Fort Belvoir, Va., are presently undergoing 50 hours of training in the H-34 conducted by this unit. Upon completion of their training they will return to their unit and be alert standby for the White House. They are 1st Lt. Glenn E. Spaulding, CWO James P. Ray and WO Harold E. Gowyer.

CWO Clyde Camp and 1st William Brown departed Nov. 20 for eight days TDY at Fort Eustis, Va. CWO's Nathan Schultz and Clifford F. Mat are at Bridgeport, Conn., getting a new H-37 and will return to Ft. Eustis, Va., where the two crews will demonstrate the helicopter capabilities.

Capt. Marshall Vass, flight commander of the Fourth is presently attending a two-week course in CBT training here at Fort Benning. He is due to return to the company Dec. 8.

Pfc. Charles M. Feda was assigned to the Fourth and is TDY to Sky Cav as an electrician. Pfc. Billy G. McCoy, unit mail clerk, returned to civilian life.

Three men of the 152nd Maintenance Detachment received transfers to the Second Special Troop Battalion here at Fort Benning. They are Sp5 Ed. Ward Rowe, and Pvt.'s Jack D. Chow and Ed J. Hartig. Sgt. Billy S. Harris of the 152nd received a transfer to the Third Division. Receiving discharges from the 152nd were Sp5 Diego Paula, Sp4 Thelma L. Molde and Sp4 Alfred S. Monz.

Joining the first this week were 1st Lt. Alan D. Storer. He will serve as a fixed wing pilot flying the Otters. His last assignment was with Headquarters, Seventh Corps Artillery, Stuttgart, Germany.

1st Lt. Jimmy N. Moore, 1st Lt. Harry J. Zellmer, and Sgt. Robert P. Goldstein were TDY to Fort Eustis, Va., to participate in an Army Aviation demonstration for the Army-Civilian Scientist meeting Nov. 21-26.

The tornado alert recently gave the first a chance to test its emergency evaluation plan. Eleven Otters from the First were assigned to Jacksonville Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla., when severe weather was forecast for the Lawson Army Airfield area.

Twenty-two pilots and 11 crew chiefs, under the command of Capt. William Beach, executive officer, made the trip.

Assigned to the company this week were Sfc Maurice Larmillard and Pfc Joseph Solonozes.

MOWW Hears Talk By Air Force Gen.

The International Geophysical Year, the greatest cooperative enterprise ever undertaken by man, will uncover masses of information about the earth and the universe, an Air Force general stated recently at Fort Benning. Major Gen. T. C. Rogers, commander of Air Force ROTC at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., pointed out the magnitude and significance of the IGY in a recent talk to the Columbus Chapter of the Military Order of World Wars. The IGY is an 18-month cooperative study being conducted of more than 1,000 field stations by 61 nations, Gen. Rogers stated. The satellite program is only a small part of the research to be done on the earth and the atmosphere. According to Gen. Rogers, launching a satellite was not a race, and "we couldn't care less" if the Russians were first to launch it. The U. S. could have launched the first satellite but did not direct our efforts elsewhere, he said. Largely because of the controversy over Sputnik, Gen. Rogers added, IGY is being made into a geopolitical rather than a geophysical year.

2 Units Participate In Ft. Bragg Problem

Two Fort Benning units, the 31st Transportation Company and 188th Transportation Battalion, will serve in the aggressor forces in Exercise All-American to be staged at Fort Bragg, N. C., Nov. 29 through Dec. 17. The troop test will consist of two phases conducted simultaneously to evaluate new helicopter and parachute tactics. Fifty of the 96-man contingent from the post will be assigned to Fort Bragg in 11 H-34 helicopters of 31st Company being utilized in the exercise. The remainder will go by truck convoy. Both groups will leave Fort Benning Friday morning (Nov. 29). The Fort Benning participants will be commanded by Major A. V. Juliano, 31st commander. They will serve in the helicopter test phase. The exercise will provide data and determine if helicopters organic to division or from supporting aviation units can be utilized to transport reconnaissance patrols from battle groups to their objectives. A minimum of six patrols will be transported by helicopter and employed under varied conditions of weather, visibility, range and duration in the objective area.

He attached both military and civilian significance to the information expected to be received, but added that its ultimate value will be determined by how effectively it is used. Gen. Rogers pointed out five ways in which the Armed Forces will benefit from the research: 1. Long range navigation will be aided by greater knowledge about changes of pressure, temperature, air density and wind. 2. Radio communication can be improved by knowledge of how to overcome the interference of auroras in the polar regions. In these areas, radio waves are reflected back to the earth and the atmosphere. 3. More accurate measurements of points on the earth will allow for greater effectiveness of guided missiles in reaching their targets. 4. Transportation will be aided through knowledge of the behavior of jet streams and other atmospheric movements. 5. Manned space flight should be the eventual result of research on upper and outer atmosphere. This will also aid operations of jet aircraft, rockets and missiles.

Rangers Featured in Atlanta Journal

CAMP WAHSDA, — The country's Ranger Camp near Dahlsgrove, Ga., gets feature page treatment in the Nov. 29 issue of the Atlanta Journal.

Most of the journal's feature page, page 12, is taken up with five pictures of Rangers in action at the mountain training camp.

Rangers train for 17 days on the rolling hills of Fort Benning, 19 days in the swampland of the New Iberia, La. Marine Air Force Base, and 20 days in the north Georgia mountains near Dahlsgrove.

Completion of the eight-week course brings the right to wear the Ranger tab over their shoulder patch and the pride of being a member of the Army's toughest group of foot-soldiers.

To Minimize Season's Blaze Hazards

Officials List Measures To Guard Against Fires

With this holiday season comes an increase in fire hazards which can turn gay decorations into ugly destruction and sometimes death.

To minimize danger of fire during the present holiday season, and other times when decorations are used, Third Army officials this week issued a list of safety measures.

The recommendations apply particularly to places where personnel congregate, such as clubs, open messes or theaters.

The safety recommendations serve a 2d guard against fire threats in the home as well especially during the Yuletide period.

Recommendations are as follows:
1. Do not plug more than two cords into one outlet, nor over-heat a circuit.

2. Stand tree in water or snow outdoors until ready to use it indoors.

3. Bring tree indoors just before Christmas and take it out as soon afterwards as possible. (Dec. 25 is recommended.)

4. The larger the tree the greater the hazard. Do not get one any larger than needed.

5. Just before setting up tree, saw off the trunk at an angle at least one inch above original cut.

6. Place freshly cut tree trunk in water and keep level of water above cut the entire time tree is indoors. (Check water level at least once a day for absorption and evaporation.)

7. Support the tree well. Do not let it lean so far that it will fall. (If, regardless of fall, it could knock the way out of the room, and out of the house in case of fire.)

Lighting:
1. Do not use candles on the tree or nearby where there is any chance for an open flame to contact tree or combustibles piled beneath the tree.

2. Use only electric lighting sets that bear the UL (Underwriters Laboratories) label. All exterior lighting equipment will bear this label.

Pvt. Wins Chance To Attend Academy
Pvt. Donald S. McBride, who entered the Third Division in September, has won a chance at a West Point cadetship through the Division's "Operation Crossroads" program for encouraging leadership.

Pvt. McBride has received one of 89 presidential nominations made recently through out the country. He will appear before an examining board of the U. S. Military Academy on March 12 at Fort Benning.

Plans Ready For Lighting National Tree

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The traditional lighting of the Capitol's National Christmas Tree, which will be held on Dec. 24 symbolically will throw the switch for yuletide decorations at U. S. military installations worldwide.

A 60-foot tall white spruce, weighing two and one-half tons, donated to the nation by the citizens of Minnesota, will be lit in front of the White House, signaling the start of the annual Christmas Pageant for the year.

The Marine Corps Band and the Naval Cadet Choir will honor the President Eisenhower in a program at the tree-lighting ceremony.

Other tentative Armed Forces participation in Washington's holiday celebration before the White House, in which more than 50 states and foreign legations will be represented by Christmas theme spectacles, includes an hour-long concert by the Marine Band on Dec. 26.

The Army Band on Dec. 28 will play at the Pageant for an International Children's Program to be telecast nationwide.

On Dec. 31, the Air Force Band and the Singing Sergeants will entertain foreign guests at the tree-lighting ceremony.

After month-long campaigns to award theater tickets to courteous drivers, the Traffic Safety Committee in Cranston, R. I., reported it had found only one such driver.

Sp3 Is Named For Instructing German Troops

SCHWEIFURT, Germany—SP3 William A. Strickley, Battery E of the 10th Division of Seventh Artillery has been selected to instruct troops of the German Army in bowler maintenance.

With the aid of an interpreter, Strickley will impart his armyman's knowledge to German mechanics in a series of classes at Jaeger Casern in Altrudsdorf. Purpose of the class is to aid the new German Army in proper handling of the U. S. equipment they are awarded.

Sp3 James E. Maser, 25th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, reads a citation awarded to York.

The award reads: "25th Infantry Division Award for Distinguished Service. By this instrument the 25th Infantry Division takes the greatest cognizance of the faithful and distinguished service rendered in combat in Korea by U. S. war dog York, member of the 29th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon who performed 148 combat patrols between 13 June 1951 and 26 June 1953." It is signed by Major General Samuel T. Williams.

WOULD BE NICE

Wouldn't it be nice if Santa could fit Christmas stockings as well as Mother Nature?

1. Do not set up electric lights or spiritfied tops under a Christmas tree.

Remember:
1. Do not allow smoking near the tree, amidst decorations or piles of wrappings.

2. Have plenty of safe ashtrays around and use them.

3. Plan on what you must do if fire breaks out.

4. Guard against flying sparks from a fireplace with a substantial screen and do not use the fireplace to burn up Christmas wrappings and decorations.

5. Keep matches, lighters, and candles away from tiny hands. Have water-type fire extinguishers that work, buckets of water or even a garden hose connected to a faucet. Switch off the tree if fire should start. First get everyone out of the house, then call the fire department without delay before attempting to fight the fire yourself.

New Educational Plan

An officer can now work toward the interim goal of the Army two-year college evaluation...

This is how it works: 125 semester hours credit are required for the degree. One can pick up a maximum of 66 hours on the basis of military training...

Of the remaining 60 semester hours, 36 may be taken in residence at or by correspondence with any accredited school...

That leaves 24 semester hours to go. But the Army has set up provisions in AR 621-5 whereby officers may apply for a TDY assignment...

The University of Omaha will give any officer, who makes proper application through his education center, a preliminary evaluation...

From Fort Ord Panorama

(Educational Development Section at Fort Benning, Building 2512), has all necessary information on the educational program...

Individual Still Vital

As machinery rises in importance in modern warfare, it's easy to minimize the importance of the individual...

But as Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force Chief of Staff, noted recently, "the requirements for individual proficiency are becoming more exacting all the time."

"With the newer weapons and systems much more depends on how well the individual knows his job and does his work."

Success in superatomic nuclear war, he said, would not depend on the overpowering pressure of massed numbers but rather on the precise use and reliable functioning of fewer but tremendously more powerful combat items.

There's our answer on the part of the individual. (AFPS)

NOT FOR SLEEPING advertisement with cartoon illustration of a man sleeping at a desk.

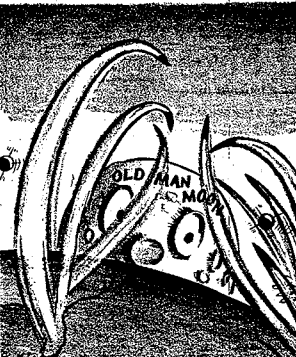

Character guidance sessions are not repeat-intended for sleeping. Taking full part in character guidance programs is as important, in its way, as making sure a rifle is kept spotless, clean.

A rifle is of little use if it won't operate. A man is of little value, to himself or to others, if he can't operate under pressure.

Character guidance is intended to help a man see his place in the big picture, and helps provide him with the spiritual equipment he may need under pressure.

Each man should have something to contribute to such a program. He can't do it if he's asleep. (AFPS)

What Did I Do?

German Police See Unidentified Object

HAMBURG, Germany—German police informed the Hamburg Observatory that an unidentified glowing object was seen plunging from the sky into a meadow south of this biggest West German city Sunday night.

An observatory spokesman said, "apparently there is some belief it could be the carrier rocket of Sputnik 1. But it could well be a meteorite."

A later police report quoted eyewitnesses as saying the object had the shape of a sphere measuring about 20 inches in diameter and falling to earth.

Police said at least 10 persons saw the object plunging into a water-filled ditch in a meadow near the village of Grossrossow, south of Hamburg.

Hermann Pons, mayor of Grossrossow, said a yard-welder cratered could be seen on the edge of the ditch.

A police search turned up no trace of the reported object, but authorities said the hunt would continue.

British and American scientists agreed that the rocket of Sputnik 1 must have plunged to its death.

However, Russia, the country that launched man's first artificial moon last Oct. 4, says the rocket is still circling the world.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here, thinks the object the rocket may have thrown on its 60th trip around the world last night.

The ownership of an automobile can cause many problems to the individual owner, as well as to the general public.

In financing the purchase of a car through an automobile loan, it is wise to use this method for the purchase. A loan can be secured by a chattel mortgage on the car and the legal rate of interest is usually six percent per year on the balance of the loan.

In financing the purchase of a car through an automobile loan, it is wise to use this method for the purchase. A loan can be secured by a chattel mortgage on the car and the legal rate of interest is usually six percent per year on the balance of the loan.

Under no circumstances sign a contract for the payment of a loan unless you understand the terms of the contract.

You should bear in mind that you are likely to be transferred to overseas commands, and payments, although made in time, may not be received by the company on the stipulated date.

Remember this, to properly be accomplished with the assistance of a bank, and automobile finance company or loan company if the money is to be used with great caution.

Ft. Benning Assigned Montie Montana Jr.

An outstanding western entertainer has become a student officer at Fort Benning. He is Montie Montana Jr., now assigned to the 23rd Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade, as a student in BIOC No. 5.

Although he goes by the name of Montie Montana Jr., his real name is Montie Charles Montie. He took his entertainment name from his equally famous father, a western entertainer who succeeded President Eisenhower at the 1956 presidential inauguration.

Montie was practically born in the saddle. When he was three days old, his father took him for his first horseback ride. At three months he was on the stage for the first time. Leo Carrillo, famous screen star, was responsible for the initial appearance and the occasion was a Will Rogers benefit show for underprivileged children in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Learning to ride almost before he could walk, he accompanied his parents to the Portland International Rodeo and a pair of old shoes and then left the owner a quip: "How can honest crooks like us make a living when we get stuck with junk like yours?"

From that time on Montie has traveled with his parents to such rodeos as the Calgary Stampede, Cheyenne Frontier Days, Fredonia Roundup, Kansas City American Royal, Los Angeles Coliseum, the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, and many others in the U. S., Canada and Hawaii. During World War II, Montie worked at many armed forces bases entertaining servicemen.

Montie has trickrooped and played a guitar and sung on radio and television shows throughout the country. While a student at the University of California, where he was graduated in May, 1957, he was president of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, president of the Roping Club, a member of Seaboard and Blue—a national military honor society—and was a distinguished military graduate.

Sale Begins For Tickets

Tickets for the latest three-act comedy produced by Fort Benning Soldier Shows, "Asensic and Old Lace," went on sale this week at the Special Service Office. Tickets 25 cents each.

The sets and lighting for the play will be by Fred Fix, with an assist from Ric Brane and Joe Danahy.

It will be staged at Theater No. 1 at 8:45 p.m. on Dec. 9-10.

One of the funniest farce comedies ever written, "Asensic and Old Lace" is a sure-fire audience pleaser.

Headed by Mrs. Rufus E. Hallmark and Miss Joyce Craft of Fort Benning and Columbus as the charming little killers of lonely old men, the large cast includes Joe Danahy as the Rev. Dr. Harper, Mrs. Roy A. Murray of Fort Benning as his Rufus Hallmark, the slightly pixilated Teddy Brewster, Al D. Santo and Dick Tansy as two confused minions of the law; Dean West as the "same" member of the Brewster clan; Mortimer, Chris Zaccaro as an "almost" victim, Mr. Bibbs; members, Jonathan Brewster, and Don Hancock as his face-changing plastic surgeon pal, Dr. Einstein, with Bob Kingston, whose memory began to play tricks on him some time after he had begun supplementing his recreation pills with sleeping pills washed down by nightcaps. He decides on a restorative trip to India. On the boat he deteriorates rapidly and is the victim of all kinds of tormenting phantasms. Finally, he returns to England to regain his health and his sanity.

VISIT TO A SMALL PLANET — by Gore Vidal, "Little, 1957

A play about a vendeville. The characters are eight men and two women. One set of scenery. First produced at the Booth Theater, New York City, February 7, 1957. A satirical fantasy based on a television

PAIN IN LEO — Doctor: "Well, sergeant, where do you feel pain?" Sergeant: "Oh, doctor, all over. I can hardly lift my ass over my head and it's the same way with my legs."

CUTE COLLEEN . . . This polka dot buff girl graphically illustrates why Colleen Miller has the top feminine role in Man In The Shadow, now at Fort Benning theaters. Although the man is in the shadow, we've been reliably told that Colleen comes out into the light several times during the picture.

On the Bookshelf

WORLD OF CARRICK'S COVE — by Gerald Warner Brace. (Norton, 1957)

Eighty-two-year-old Ben Carrick recalls his life in the New England when men had to depend on their own strength and their wits to do the work. When each community was self contained and self sufficient, and when love between man and woman was stronger, deeper, and more lasting.

ORDEAL OF GILBERT PINFOLD: A CONVERSATION PIECE — by Evelyn Waugh. (Little, 1957)

The story of Gilbert Pinfold, a successful British novelist, whose memory began to play tricks on him some time after he had begun supplementing his recreation pills with sleeping pills washed down by nightcaps. He decides on a restorative trip to India. On the boat he deteriorates rapidly and is the victim of all kinds of tormenting phantasms. Finally, he returns to England to regain his health and his sanity.

UNBROKEN APPROAR — by Clyde Brion Davis. (Lippincott, 1957)

This is a story of good and evil in a western cow town, complete with gambling joints, dance halls, saloons, and a jail. Prominent among the local inhabitants are a fantastic Mexican named Pablo Ningo, and a gorgeous girl named Gloria.

FACE TO FACE — by Ved Mehta. (Little, 1957)

The author who has been totally blind since the age of three tells "what it has been like to grow up in a cultured, but not wealthy, Hindu family in the Punjab at Rawalpindi and Simla and Bombay, to live through the terror of the Muslim Hindu riots at Lahore during partition and to secure his high school and college training in the United States living and working with American students from all walks of life."

THE SETS AND LIGHTING FOR THE PLAY will be by Fred Fix, with an assist from Ric Brane and Joe Danahy.

It will be staged at Theater No. 1 at 8:45 p.m. on Dec. 9-10.

A panel discussion on "Religion in the Family" will highlight the Dec. 10 meeting of the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in Faith School Auditorium. Col. Edwin A. Jones, judge advocate of the Army Infantry Center, will serve as moderator.

Representing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths on the panel will be Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Wildman, Chaplain (Capt.) Francis K. Wallace, and Chaplain (1st Lt.) Murray J. Lerner all of The Infantry Center Chaplain Section.

Completing the panel will be Mrs. James L. Osgard, The mother of three children, she is the wife of Lt. Col. Osgard, secretary of the Infantry School.

A brief business session will precede the panel discussion. The meeting will be concluded with the serving of refreshments.

First Gyros Leave Benning This Week

Two Third Division officers and their families made last minute plans this week to move to Germany, the first of thousands who will make overseas trips by next spring.

Capt. Raymond Major, Second Battle Group, 38th Infantry, and Capt. James P. Woodall, First Field Artillery Battalion, Ninth Artillery, will leave New York early in December with the special mission of arranging housing on the German economy for sergeants taking their families with them to Germany.

GEN. GAITHER'S VISIT . . . Lt. Gen. Ridgely Gaither, center, deputy commanding general for Reserve Forces of Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., chats with 2nd Lt. William Paris, left, and John MacLaren, both assigned to the School Brigade, about basic Infantry officer training at Fort Benning which the two lieutenants are undergoing. Gen. Gaither was briefed on Infantry School activities Nov. 27 to Dec. 2.

Post Named New Chaplain

He will serve as the Catholic chaplain of the Infantry School Troop Command.

Chaplain Kovacic received his military education at the school, undergraduate and theological training at the Pontifical College of St. Joseph, Rome, Worthington, Ohio. He was ordained May, 1954, and went to St. Joseph's Church, Pensacola, Fla., for his first assignment.

Before entering the Army this month, Chaplain Kovacic served with the City of St. Louis, Missouri in Montgomery, Ala., from October, 1954, to October, 1957.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kovacic of Uniondale.

2 Sfc's Retire At Ceremonies

Sfc Othy Currin and Sfc Donald A. Gold were honored at a retirement ceremony conducted in the office of Lt. Col. John P. Cudde, commanding officer of First Special Troops Battalion, Special Troops Command, Nov. 28.

Sfc Currin has completed more than 28 years service, 10 of which were spent at Fort Benning's main Officers' Mess. From 1929 to 1941, Sfc Currin served such well-known men as President Eisenhower, then a Major, and the late Gen. George Patton, then a first lieutenant. He intends to make Columbus his home.

Sfc Gold entered the Army in Oct., 1937, and spent 3 and one-half of the next 20 years overseas.

These new lieutenants, most of them June graduates from among 700 colleges and universities, must complete six weeks training in their basic arms branch before beginning the airborne or ranger course at Fort Benning, Ga.

Only those will be selected for the volunteer courses who are physically qualified and who can, within six months, complete the branch basic courses (usually infantry, armor or artillery), the volunteer course and the required travel and leave.

Fort Benning Recognizes Eight For Performances, Suggestions

Eight Fort Benning personnel recently were cited for outstanding job performances and suggestions for increased efficiency in their jobs.

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Army Infantry School, presented the incentive awards, expressing appreciation to the recipients for having done more than their required jobs.

The Infantry School's Army Field Printing Plant also contributed two award winners: Harvey M. Allen and Carl A. Keith.

Allen received an outstanding rating and $20 for sustained superior performance of duties. Keith was presented a letter of appreciation for his proposal of a simplified method of entering lines on 32½ executive model typewriters.

Awards were also presented to M-Sgt. John H. Waites and Thomas E. Pascock, both as sergeants on National Guard state signed to the Weapons Pool of the Infantry School. They collaborated on a new carrier for 106-mm trenching rifles, expected to bring annual benefits of $16,177. In recognition of their proposal, Sgt. Waites received an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement and $25. Pascock was awarded a check for $160.

An outstanding job rating and $20 were given to Mrs. Sue B. Smith in appreciation of her superior performance of duties. She is employed in the Operations Office of The Infantry School.

In return for her proposal for eliminating duplicate records on National Guard state officer candidates, Mrs. Rose S. Dann, an employee in The Infantry School's Department of Non-Resident Instruction, received an award of $35.

MHW Served Dinner on Time Thanksgiving

Major Charles P. Murray, Third Division Medal of Honor winner, ate Thanksgiving dinner with his old World War II command Thursday—and the time the meal was served on time.

Major Murray, now assigned to the tactical department of the Infantry Center, returned with his wife and three children to spend the holiday with Company C, First Battle Group, 80th Infantry. He recalled Thanksgiving 1944, when the company was engaged in a drive toward Strasbourg, France and didn't get its turkey dinner until it reached Strasbourg two weeks later.

Troops Issued Post Office Data

Personnel of the Third Division will drop "Fort Benning, Ga." from their mailing addresses in favor of one of four Army post office numbers when they move to Germany in coming months.

The Division's overseas addresses will be APO 28, 862 800 and 129, New York, N. Y. There will be no other change in address style.

Thirty days before going overseas, those taking part in the "Operation Golden Arrow" move to Germany will notify newspapers and other publications of their new addresses. The Division is also advising them to notify their correspondents of the change at least 10 days ahead of departure.

Thrift Shop Sets Selling Record During October

Over 5,000 items, a monthly record, were sold at the Fort Benning Thrift Shop during October.

The shop is run by the Women's Club of Fort Benning. Profits from sales go to fund the organization's Welfare Fund. The profit motive is incidental to the shop's operation, however. A reduction in the past 12 months have been mission charged consignors. Mrs. C. T. Clagett, chairman, was put into effect 10 months ago and resulted in an increase in sales since that time. During October, 2,909 items were consigned. Families about to leave the post utilize the shop to dispose of articles which are still usable but which it is not convenient to take to a new station. Newly-arrived personnel use the shop to provide replacements for items lost or broken in the move. Those who have been at the post for some time find that throwing in the shop organization's Welfare Fund frequently turns up a good bargain.

Managing the Thrift Shop for Mrs. Gordon E. Sarre, co-chairman, Secretary is Mrs. Benjamin B. Saffar.

Ladies Attend Wives Luncheon In Columbus

Officers' wives of the Ground Mobility Department of The Infantry School entertained with a luncheon recently.

Nineteen ladies attended the affair, which was held at the Radson Hotel in Columbus. Mrs. L. E. Andrews was in charge of arrangements for the occasion.

Work Cut Out for Army Missile Officer

A fashion show was presented for the group by Davidson's Department Store of Columbus. Mrs. James F. Nabors, wife of Lt. Col. Nabors, was well-attended to the department. Russell W. Jared was a guest.

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (IANS) — As a ground guidance officer for the Corporal Guided Missile Project in the Systems Test Division here, Warrant Officer Amiceto Hlanga Bagley really has his work cut out.

Due to a personnel shortage at the Test Center, WO Bagley is also holding down the fort as radar officer for the Corporal Project. He hopes this is a temporary assignment.

In case these duties do not keep him busy enough, WO Bagley helps train new personnel as an on-the-job training officer. He is also the briefing officer for newly assigned personnel.

One thing is certain, this "jack-of-all trades" officer must be maintained and serviced. Then, there is the matter of paper work. Who is responsible for these added duties? You guessed it — WO Bagley.

Just to make sure he has plenty to do during a normal working day, WO Bagley coordinates the Doppler, radar and telemetering equipment with the project test equipment. Between tests, the equipment does not lack for something to do during a normal working day. And to top it off he is "RA" all the way, he says.

"The U. S. Army offers almost unlimited opportunities to the man who is willing to work hard and study to improve himself. I am more than content with the career I have chosen."

Transfer Point Wins Thanksgiving Contest

The Infantry Center Transfer Point Mess hall topped first place in the Special Troop Command Thanksgiving contest. Others which took top honors for food preparation, personnel interest and decorations were the 90th Ordnance Company, second place, and Headquarters Company, third place. Transfer Point mess hall was given 57 out of 60 points for food preparation, 29 out of 30 points for interest, and 191 out of 20 points for decorations, totaling 394 points. Mess Steward is Sgt. Clarence Roberts. The 90th Ordnance Company, whose mess steward is Sgt. Floyd LaCoste, scored 56 points on food preparation, 10 points on interest, and 20 points on decorations, totaling 94 points. Headquarters Company received 51 points for food preparation, 20 points for interest, and 191 points for decorations, totaling 262 points. Sgt. Emory Williams is mess steward. The messes were decorated with the traditional Thanksgiving corn stalks, pumpkins, pilgrim and Indian pictures. "An added attraction at the 90th Ordnance Company mess was that the waiters were dressed in pilgrim costumes. The windows were blacked out and personnel and their guests ate by candlelight. Corn stalks were placed in the corners and around the posts of the room. Old lumber decorated the walls giving them a log cabin atmosphere. Judging the nine Special Troop Command mess halls was Major Edward L. Whitehead, personnel officer of the command; Capt. James T. Farrington, logistics officer; M. Sgt. Harding Evers, mess hall ice adviser, and Sgt. Eugene Redholz, assistant food adviser.

NRI Dept. Offers Additional Courses

Army extension pre-commissioned courses previously offered by seven branch service schools have been transferred to the Department of Non-Resident Instruction of the Infantry School at Fort Benning. The seven schools include the Medical Field Service, Signal Corps, Engineer Corps, Army Security Agency, Adjutant General, Chemical Corps and Provost Marshal General School. Previously, enrollment in Army extension courses for pre-commissioned study received instruction from their branch service school. About 42,000 military personnel are enrolled in the pre-commissioned course and 9,200 are enrolled in company grade officer and advanced officer extension course at Fort Benning. Cards for all active students are kept in the record room of the Department of Non-Resident Instruction. Courses in the Army extension program offer to military personnel progressive, non-resident military education for all components of the Army. Enrollment in the courses is offered to officers, warrant officers and enlisted men. The completion of the pre-commissioned series does not grant a commission as an officer in the Army, and is not a mandatory requirement for the granting of a commission. However, National Guard and Reserve units can prescribe the course as a step toward the commission. The enlisted man qualifying for a commission. The average time for completion of the pre-commissioned course is two years. Members of the National Guard and Army Reserve are granted one retirement point for each three hours of credit earned through Army extension courses. These retirement points apply only to members of National Guard Reserve units and not to members of the Regular Army.

INSPECTS TURKEY . . . Old Tom Turkey comes under the inspection of Major Gen. Robert G. Britton, right, Infantry Center, commanding general, during the general's visit to Fort Benning mess halls Thanksgiving Day. Mess halls at the post prepared 20,400 pounds of turkey for military personnel and for the more than 9,000 guests who ate Thanksgiving dinner with friends and relatives at Fort Benning. At left is SFC Robert G. Britton, mess steward of Company D, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry.

Sp3 Designs Crest For Signal Battalion
WUERZBURG, Germany — Sp3 Frederick L. Sales received a $25 check and a three-day pass here last week when his design won the Crest Contest at the 10th Division's 10th Signal Battalion. The Signal-Battalion was one of the new units born under the 10th Division's Pentomic reorganization last summer and has had no crest of its own until now.

Reports Tell Army's 1957 Improvement

WASHINGTON, (INS) — The Secretary of the Army's brochure "United States Army Reports—Progress 57," highlights Army progress and accomplishments during 1957. "The story of the Army's progress in 1957 is one of vastly increased firepower and mobility and greater efficiency and flexibility in operation," asserts Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker. "Yet the real story of Army progress lies in the hearts and minds of its members. The striking fact of our modern Army is that the individual soldier has become more, not less, important." The vividly-illustrated brochure highlights the successfully tested Jupiter IRBM and the latest additions to the Army's firepower, Nike Hercules, Hawk, Redstone, Little John, and Dart missiles. It introduces the lighter, more versatile rifle and machine gun and parades the Army's helicopters, aircraft, tanks, carriers, and new communications equipment. Army frontiers and troop deployments including their tremendous firepower and mobility are presented in "Progress 57". It points up the tremendous job the Army is doing as a major element in Air Defense at home through its missiles—Nike Ajax, Nike Hercules, and Hawk. Significant for the future is Army progress in development of the antimissile missile, Nike Zeus. The report deals with research and development in the missile field, new equipment, Army aviation, manpower, reserve forces, logistics and many other important phases which make the U. S. Army the world's best. Our Army today is the most superbly trained and equipped in U.S. history. The report points out that progress is essential to the vitality of the modern Army, and that dedicated men of trained courage create that progress. That is the true description of the U.S. Army of 1957.

RECEIVES HIGH SCHOOL CERTIFICATE . . . Col. Lloyd B. Ramsey, commander of Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, presents high school certificate to Pfc Louis Arthur, 11th Signal Platoon Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, Pfc Arthur finished his education through USAFI.

Engineers Win Div. Fire Award
BAMBERG, Germany — A "Best Company in Fire Prevention" award was presented to Company A of the 10th Division's 4th Engineer Battalion recently. Capt. Alfred Olmstead, Commanding Officer, accepted the award. The award was based on a recent fire prevention inspection of companies on the Bamberg Post, including billets, motor pools, and mess halls. "Best Company" garnered a 91 per cent of a possible 100.

With only two native-born Americans on the squad, the Can Do booters showed their European heritage of soccer competition to great advantage. Fielding an entire squad that will Gyroscop to Germany next spring, Coach Cal Collins' soccer team made three goals in the first period, and twice more in the third quarter.

Doby led the 15th scoring as he had in their four previous games for the Can Doers as the team swept through the league's double elimination tournament in championship style, going unbeaten. Collins' starting eleven featured only one native-born U. S. citizen outside left Jim Moniz from Medford, Mass. The lineup, aside from Moniz, includes Yugoslav forward Wolfgang Mayer of Germany (halbacks Balazar Lelli and Christian Kurth, both of Germany, left halfback Michael Kowalchuk from Poland, and Center-forward Frank Doby, a former semi pro player from Yugoslavia, led the Can Do offensive tallying six of the club's seven goals. Doby scored once in the first period, three times in the second frame, and twice more in the third quarter.

Doby led the 15th scoring as he had in their four previous games for the Can Doers as the team swept through the league's double elimination

Others on the squad are Speros Missis, Greece; Adolph Ger-Saltz, Germany; Peter Myrman, Thopolous, Greece; Siegfried Haesel, Germany, and Johann Triltschbach, Germany.

Head coach Collins hails from Winston-Salem, N. C., and assistant mentor John Sinclair, is a native of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In scoring five straight wins, the Can Doers took the measure of Division Artillery 3-0, Fourth Infantry 3-0, the 20th Infantry Rockets 3-1, and the Seventh Infantry 3-1, and 7-0. While scoring 21 goals in five contests, the Can Doers allowed but two goals to be scored against them.

HEADS UP... 15th Infantry soccer star Wolfgang Mayer plays heads up as he forces Seventh Infantry goalie Tito Guglielmo away from his net, precluding the Can Doers' final goal in their 7-0 conquest over the Colonnels, which won them the Third Division soccer crown.

DivArty Wins Over Trains

Overcoming a first period score, Division Artillery's high-scoring football machine copied a Turkey Day tilt from a Division Trains 39-12 at Bennett Field.

Trains moved into an early game lead and held a ten quarter, and appeared on their way to pulling the season's biggest upset in Marne League play.

Still showing the strains from last week's defeat to the undefeated 10th Infantry, DivArty found themselves in the midst of a ball game, when Comet halfback Charlie Hinton clicked on a 26-yard TD pass to Gene Whalotsky, and the first period ended with Trains ahead by a touchdown.

However, DivArty seahawk Julian Blakney removed any doubts of DivArty's power when he dashed for two TDs in short order midway during the second cant.

On runs of 55 and 13 yards, with Jim Stewart adding the extra point, DivArty took a 12-6 lead and they were on their way.

Two more second period yard plunges, the second by Charlie Sherry when he hauled in a Tom May aerial.

Following Sherry's score, Charlie Hinton returned the kickoff to a 20-yard run, the longest of the season in league play, and the half ended with the Redlegs ahead 21-12.

Can Doers disposed easily of the CST five last week, as they collected a 40-18 halftime lead and struck in an easy 13-0 win. Ed Krickley led the scoring parade with 20 points for the 15th, while former Denver University loop star McCallum pushed 12 through the nets.

Sean Matzke and Byron Gibson again provided the punch for the league leading Cottonbale as they ripped the nets for 22 and 16 points respectively.

BREAK FOR BASKET... Gerry Wollam (13), of 29th Infantry, makes a fast break for the basket as Leonard Hammer (4), of the School Brigade Rams, tries in vain to block him. School Brigade Rams defeated 29th Infantry 62-58 Nov. 27 at Briant Wells Field House.

Sewing Kit Will Travel Across Ocean 4th Time

When Pvt. Don M. Jones goes to Germany with the Third Division next spring, he will take along a piece of equipment that 40 years and three wars have failed to wear out or make obsolete.

The durable item is a sewing kit, made by women of Greenville, Mich., in World War I and given to Pvt. Jones' father in a Red Cross Christmas gift box.

The father carried the kit for almost two years in France. Then in 1943 Pvt. Jones' brother-in-law joined the Navy and used it in the South Pacific until 1946. It saw service again during the Korean War when a brother, Richard, used it.

Having crossed the Pacific twice, the kit will make its second trip across the Atlantic next spring when Pvt. Jones' unit, Company A of the First Battle Group, Seventh Infantry, goes to Germany.

BETWICHTED, BOTHERED AND BEMILDERED . . . That's the way Pfc. Gary Lloyd looks after being smacked on the cheek by scintillating Sandra Kyne during rehearsals for the Fort Benning Masquers production of 'Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter' set for Jan. 16, 17. We don't know about success, but Mr. Hunter, but Sandra Kyne looks like the "kyne" of a girl that could absolutely ruin Pfc. Lloyd.

By ALVIN W. COHN
Recipe for Laughter.
Blend one jugger of saucy blarney.

One quart of mixed up writer.
One dash of perky secretary.
One pound delectated merriment.

Sprinkle with seasonings of kinds and stir with the heavy's fork.
Bring to a slow boil for at least two hours as you sit in a comfortable chair — and your sides will feel the result.

Broadway proved that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." The Masquers of Fort Benning are giving you additional evidence: to wit: "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

Professional writers are urged not to use superlatives often — such as Wonderful! — Great! — Fun! — A Bolshoi Success! — A Frothy Comedy! Absolutely the Greatest! However, you'll dig this show the most superlatives are only fair words to use in describing this dramatic offering. If we said that "You'll enjoy this show," you would not really receive the punch of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter."

This farcical play is to be presented by "The Masquers" of Fort Benning, on Jan. 16-17, at Theatre No. 8 behind Faith School on Post.

"Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter" will be the second Masquers for civilian and military personnel of Fort Benning as well as for Columbus residents. It is the first three-act play to be given this season.

According to director-actor Pfc. Gary Lloyd, "rehearsals are in the final stage and we can guarantee theatre goes a most entertaining evening — one they will not forget for a long time."

Mrs. A. T. Stafford is the producer and co-director. Tickets are now on sale. For reservations call Capt. Edmund McCarthy, Fort Benning 2-3232, or Mrs. Stafford FB 3121.

CG Sends Wire To Army Team
Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of Fort Benning, last week sent a wire to the Army football team prior to its annual gridiron battle with Navy.

"The U. S. Army Infantry Center at Fort Benning, Ga., is proud to wish you well in the big game today. Football fully here will follow the game on television with the interest. From the banks of the Chattahoochee to the Upland the cry is the same: 'Follow Me and beat Navy!'"

GRAPES FOR LUCK
Christmas celebrations in Spain begin on Dec. 24 and continue until Jan. 6. Many people go to the theater, movies, or night clubs on New Year's Eve, when it is the custom to eat 12 large grapes during the time the clock strikes twelve. Those who finish the grapes before the last stroke of the clock believe they will have good luck for the coming year.

Newly assigned non-commissioned personnel during the past week are: Sgt. George J. Renfro, to Second Battle Group; and Sgt. William G. Reed to Special Troops Command.

On hand to greet the Allied officials were Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commandant, and Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center.

The Infantry Center's first Battle Group, 20th Infantry, 2nd Infantry School Troop Command, staged the welcoming ceremony with the Second Battalion, 10th Field Artillery, firing a 17-gun salute.

During their stay they were honored at an official dinner in the quarters of Gen. and Mrs. Powell at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 2. An official reception and dinner also were held at the Main Officers' Mess Dec. 3 at 8:30 p.m.

Included in the tour was a visit to the U. S. Army Infantry School's Human Resources Research Unit, The Infantry School's Ranger and Ground Mobility Departments and Officer Candidate School. As several ranges the Philippine officers witnessed problems in the M-1 rifle transition firing, mortar orientation and firing, and a tank and armoured rifle platoon in attack.

One of the highlights on the tour's agenda was a aerial tour of the post by helicopter.

North Section, 2d Cuartel Named For Pvt., Medal of Honor Winner

(Editor's Note: According to recent findings of Post are not being referred to by correct names. This is the result of a series of pictures of buildings and medals of honor winners for whom the structures are named. Medal of Honor citation for Private Robert T. Henry, for whom the northern section of the second cuartel (Building 73) is named: Henry Barracks, follows.)

Private Robert T. Henry, Army serial number 2450,089, Company B, 16th Infantry, on 3 December 1944 at Lachen, Germany, volunteered to attempt the destruction of a nest of five enemy machine guns located in a bunker one hundred and fifty yards to the flank, which had stopped the advance of his platoon. Stripping off his pack, overalls, until he fell mortally wounded, he sprang forward, hand grenades across the terrain toward the enemy positions. Before he had gone half the distance he was hit by a burst of machine gun fire, overran the position. Private Henry, by his gallantry and intrepidity and utter disregard for his own life, enabled his company to reach its objective. He was awarded the Medal of Honor for his gallantry and intrepidity and utter disregard for his own life, enabled his company to reach its objective. ### Concert Slates Works by Lalo Tuesday Night

The recorded concert at the Main Library Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. will feature the "Symphonie Espagnole," by Edouard Lalo. The artistic principles which guided Lalo has been set down for him by one of his first teachers, Pierre-Auriant. "Lalo," the common and conventional, yet without falling into the error of seeking what is strange," the teacher advised the boy. Recognition came to Lalo late in life because he shunned easy success and would not stoop to conquer. The "Symphonie Espagnole" is not so symbolic as we have come to accept that term.

PRECISION

Look behind the pretty face like a future Miss America, a fine timepiece has to have more than a beautiful appearance.

After all a watch is a phenomenal engineering achievement, ticking off 18,000 times an hour, 432,000 times in a single day, 156,000,000 times in a year!

The wear, as a result of the tremendous friction of this remarkable machine, can render a mass-produced watch virtually useless, causing it to lose time or stop altogether. The reason is the quality of the metal parts and the precision of their machining. For example, a balance screw is so tiny that several thousand can fit into a thimble!

For 75 years Zodiac has been custom-making fine watches and through these years has endeavored its reputation for precision timekeeping that has endeared it to thousands of people throughout the world.

School Brigade Highlights BIOC No. 5 Holds Reception; Group Ends 4th Training Week

2nd Student Battalion 23RD COMPANY — BIOC No. 5 held a class reception at the Main Officers' Open Mess Nov. 24. Approximately 156 officers attended. Lt. Bruce S. Colbath and Roger W. Herrmann were co-chairmen of the reception.

Guests were Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School and Mrs. Larsen; Col. Adrien L. Hoebecke, commanding officer of the School Brigade; and Mrs. Hoebecke; Major Roy W. Turgeon, executive officer of the Second Student Battalion; and Mrs. Turgeon; and Capt. John W. Clario, commanding officer of 23rd Company and Mrs. Clario.

24TH COMPANY — 170 members of BIOC No. 6 completed their fourth week of training last week. The student officers have completed courses in map reading, communications, road mobility and are now undergoing training in marksmanship. Thirty-eight states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico are represented in the class.

25TH COMPANY — Welcomes another Little Infantryman, born to 2nd Lt. and Mrs. Joe Walton Nov. 12.

26TH COMPANY — Members of BIOC No. 4 "jumped" into their tactical phase of training with gust gusto that it put one member of the company in a cast for three weeks.

Student Freed From Flamingos As 'Civvie'

Shades of Clyde Beatty? A first-year, one-teamer and flamingo-liberator is taking BIOC training at the Infantry School. The School Brigade, enjoyed his work as an animal caretaker for the flamingos in the Atlanta Zoo, but his face still turned red at the thought of those flamingos.

Normally, the last joint on the wings of flamingos are removed so that they will not fly away. Lt. Reese pulled out the feathers instead. So, the feathers grew back and the birds flew the coop. At last report, flamingos have been reported all over Ohio and as far away from the zoo as 200 miles.

Lt. Reese is a 1937 graduate of Ohio State University. His favorite animal at the zoo was the elephant which, he says, has a high intelligence. According to Lt. Reese, "an elephant will eat anything. They would grab children's lunch baskets and eat them. One man got to chase and had his glasses snatched from his nose pocket. The elephant ate the glasses, lenses and rim, but discarded the metal case."

While Lt. Reese was at the zoo, it had the distinction of being the only one in the world where a gorilla was born in captivity.

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Most Army officers and enlisted personnel stationed in the 22 or their home US territories, who are due for separation between Dec. 21 and Jan. 5, 1958, will be released from Dec. 10 to 20.

The Army said the Christmas holiday early release policy will not apply to six-month Reservists who entered active duty between June 23 and July 21, National Guardsmen on 11 weeks' training or officers being involuntarily relieved on specific dates.

Regular Army enlisted personnel whose reenlistment bonus or accrued leave pay would be cut by early separation also may be retained until their normal dates of discharge.

Hubert Towery, Pfc Rios Rivera, and Pfc Marvin Reynolds. Standing are Jay Stenzmuller, Exalted Ruler, and Jack Lester, right, past district deputy of Georgia-West. The Elks members also were hosts at the American Red Cross Hospital morning coffee and entertainment, visiting ward patients in the afternoon.

Deadline Set For Medics To Ask Study

WASHINGTON, (ANS)—Regular Army medical officers have until New Year's Day to submit applications for the nine-month formal training course in nuclear medicine sponsored by the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project.

Officers selected for the course will participate on July 1, 1958, at Reed College, Portland, Ore., for five months of instruction and then attend a series of short courses at Hanford Atomic Works, Richland, Wash. until June, N. M., and Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Washington, D. C.

There are still a limited number of spaces available for RA medical officers with backgrounds in the physical sciences and mathematics. An Army Surgeon General spokesman said that early applications are advisable to permit sufficient time for processing.

8 Promoted to Specialist

BQ. and HQ. COMPANY—Eight men have been promoted to the grade of Specialist and answered the call for overseas duty. Mortar Battery — Richard Thieren, Billy Welch and Clarence House were promoted to specialist third class last week. Thieren is currently on the 29th Infantry barbed wire team.

Harry Hoberham served on his PFC stripes last week. Calvin Evans joined the ranks of the first three graders on his promotion to sergeant.

SFC William G. Pritchard displayed his sharp-shooting eyes last week at the turkey shoot by winning a turkey at the Rifle and Gun Club Shoot.

GIVE 'EM A DIVORCE — A woman in Richmond, Calif. granted a divorce, then told her husband: Turned on the gas heater but didn't light it. Plugged the hot water heater. Wired the radio with a bomb that exploded when she turned on the set. Removed all the tubes from the television set.

GI Served Two NATO Armies

BAMBERG, Germany — A soldier serving with the 10th Division's 15th Infantry here claims the distinction of having served in two of the NATO Armies.

Sgt James Marshall, a Battalion Breakdown NCO with 1st Svc. Company served in the British Army and is now filling out his tour in the U. S. Army with the 10th Division.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, Marshall was drafted into the Royal Ordnance Corps of the British Army at the age of 17. In the two years that he served, from August 1950, until July of 1952, Marshall was an ammunition stocker.

In November of 1953, he moved to the U. S. on a visa and, one year later, joined the 10th Division at Ft. Riley, Kan. He was assigned to Germany with the division in 1955. Comparing the two armies, Marshall says, "The training is more realistic in the American Army, but discipline seems stricter with the British."

Cubs Receive '58 Charter

Some 430 Cub Scouts and parents attended a ceremony of the presentation of Fort Benning Cub Pack No. 27's 1958 charter of national recognition at a monthly meeting in the Main Post School auditorium.

Clayton Dyer, field executive for the Georgia-Alabama Council of Boy Scouts, presented the charter on behalf of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America to Col. Harry McClain, head of Fort Benning Scouts.

Pack No. 27 also received a "For God and Country" streamer for the pack flag representing achievement of certain goals in its religious and character building program.

Mike Lutz, son of Major and Mrs. Karl C. Lutz, received a Webelos Badge advancing to the highest rank of Cub Scouting. A plaque for outstanding leadership and achievement by the pack for 1957 was presented to Lt. Col. Robert Piper, pack committee chairman.

The opening ceremony was conducted by Den No. 1. Skits on safety, travel, music, building and Thanksgiving were presented by Dens No. 2, 5, 6 and 7. Dens No. 10 and 11 received prizes for the best exhibits of handicraft by Cub Scouts. Attendance streamers were won by Dens 3, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, and 15 for having 100 per cent attendance of Cubs and parents at the meeting.

"Twenty-one new Cubs and their parents were welcomed into the pack and received Bob Cuts pins. Seven Cubs received Wolf awards, five Bear awards and three Lion awards representing advancements in the Cub program."

Den No. 9 conducted the closing ceremony. The Cub Scout program is one of the activities sponsored by Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club.

Rain Stops Fire, But Not Hay Ride

Christmas is almost here and how I wish it would snow. But knowing Georgia weather I fear that my longings are fruitless. You know that hayride we had Nov. 23 was pretty good. It rained so hard we were not able to build a fire on the beach, but I think in spite of all the rain everyone had a great time.

Boy scouts and explorers from Troop 27 and Post 27 left for the Lincoln trail in Indiana, a 17-mile hike. They returned December 1. The purpose of this trail is not to gain a medal. The scouts will gain many valuable lessons in the skills of scouting from the experience.

The boys from Troop 27 who participated in the expedition were: Steve White, Edward Capp, Gene Dees, Jeff Fenske, Albert Stutants, Jacob Hunter, and Fred Carlin. The boys from Post 27 were: Reggy Haregar, Leslie Fozack, Mike Rozicki, Ronald Spreadner, and Mike Nooney.

The Girl Scouts are pretty busy too. They've already begun spreading around a little Christmas cheer. Troop 22 is fourth down for the Eagles as Bill Calahan drew a wolf. My quote him, "The ball is in my hands like steel to a midget." John ran 50 yards to tie the game, 66. The extra point, attempted by Bill Calahan, was successful.

Provet Marshal lists five "soldier pick-up stations" for the Fort Benning military reservation and urged motorists to give a soldier a lift at these points. Location of the pick-up stations are Victory Highway near Eight Division Road overpass; Victory Highway near outpost Number 4; Intersecting Victory Division and Cusseta Roads; In the vicinity of the USAISFC Chapel and on Dixie Road in the USAISFC area.

In view of the fact that hitchhiking is prohibited, the Provet Marshal recommends that military personnel desiring a ride use the "pick-up stations" listed above.

WO's End Service During Ceremony
Troops and Staff officers of the Third Division Trains bid farewell to retiring Warrent Officers Robert L. Hill and Cecil L. Embrey assigned to Third Administration Company during special ceremonies at Knight Field, last week.

DA Booklet Encourages Productive Retirement

WASHINGTON (ANS)—Years of active and productive living are the rule rather than the exception for Army officers and enlisted personnel upon retirement from active duty. This encouraging knowledge and ways and means of making the most of these years are the main theme in an upcoming DA pamphlet titled, "Changing Your Career."

Published primarily for retired payees, the pamphlet will also be distributed to officers affected by the reduction-in-force program. Listing the many advantages of employment after retirement, the pamphlet is devoted to helpful suggestions on how to start planning, where to look for assistance and limitations, and a preference statement for Non-Regular Army personnel, including the application of the Dual Office Act and the Economy Act.

The Dual Office Act prevents retired RA officers or warrant officers from accepting federal employment if their retired pay exceeds $2,000 annually. It also prohibits qualification by waiver of retired pay. The Economy Act, applicable to certain RA and Non-RA of-icers and enlisted personnel or non-regular Army warrant officers who advance to commissioned grades upon retirement, provides that a person's combined retired pay as a commissioned officer plus his Federal Civilian Service Retirement pay cannot exceed the $2,000. However, under certain conditions, all or part of the retired pay may be waived to accept federal civilian employment when compensation is greater than $10,000 annually.

After touching on the opportunities available to business and industry, government civil-

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Lawson Field by helicopter for the Army's chief of staff, visited Fort Benning Tuesday. Gen. Taylor renewed a 50-year acquaintance with the 10th Army Artillery when he was saluted on his arrival by a firing battery from the 10th Artillery with which the general served in his military career.

Battery B of the 10th Artillery's Second Battalion, the Infantry Center honor guard battery, greeted Gen. Taylor with a 17-gun salute at 9:15 a.m. on Lawson Army Air Field.

The Army chief visited the post to address advanced students and the faculty and staff of the Infantry School. He was accompanied by Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, commanding general of Third U.S. Army at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Gen. Taylor conferred with Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell and Brig. Gen. Stanley H. Larsen, commandant and assistant commandant of the Infantry School. He then attended an Infantry School Combat Development Office presentation on the "Philosophy of the Infantry."

He spoke at 10:30 a.m. in the Main Theater. Among the 800 students attending were officers of the Regular Army, National Guard and the U.S. Army Reserve.

From 11 a.m. to noon Gen. Taylor visited the U.S. Army Infantry Board. He was honored at 10 a.m. and 200 Tank Battalion, Harbony Church, Service Club No. 5 at 2 p.m.

Each party will feature a decorated Christmas tree with a tree.

Sponsored by 14 Major Commands

Christmas Parties Slated For Children on Saturday

Christmas parties for Fort Benning children, under the coordination of the Infantry Center's Special Services Section, will be sponsored by 14 major command units Saturday.

Over 5,000 children are expected to attend the various events. The project is supported by Fort Benning's Community Activities Association. Units giving parties with the time and location are: Headquarters of the Infantry Center, 2015 at 10 a.m.; U.S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, 1488 at 10 a.m.; Lawson Army Air Field, 1488 at 10 a.m.; 10th Engineer Group, Theater No. 11, 2015 at 2 p.m.; Special Troops Company, Theater No. 11 at 10 a.m.; Third U.S. Army Food Service School, the May Building, 5th Mess Hall at 10 a.m.; U.S. Army Hospital, 2015 at 10 a.m.; U.S. Army Cross recreation hall, Building 7, 2015 at 10 a.m.; U.S. Army quarters of the Infantry Center, 2015 at 10 a.m.; U.S. Army Club No. 5 at 2 p.m.

Each party will feature a decorated Christmas tree with a tree.

Post Scouts Will Assist In Xmas Traffic Control

Fort Benning Boy Scouts will assist with other scouts of the Georgia - Alabama Council to assist the Columbus Police Department in the annual "Christmas Eve" congested traffic control program.

Unit Hosts Kids At Party Tonight

The 2d Company, First Squadron, 2d Cavalry Regiment, has invited 20 underprivileged Columbus children to a Christmas party in the Company lounge at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Major Edward L. Kerker, platoon leader of the 2d Company, Advanced Infantry, of the 2d Cavalry Regiment, is in charge.

While the officers contributed 100 per cent to the community activities fund campaign, they decided to supplement this by personally sponsoring a party for needy youngsters.

Soldiers of the 2d Cavalry Regiment, in selecting children to attend Santa Claus visits, the safety part of the program, including a pair of shoes, a toy, and Christmas stockings for each child.

On the evening's menu will be ice cream and cookies prepared by the officers' wives—and a lot of fun.

Contest to End On December 17 For Decorating

Deadline for entering Fort Benning's outdoor Christmas decorating contest is Dec. 17. Entry blanks are available from Mrs. E. W. Hakala at FB 2037 or Mrs. Trent Hunter at FB 2626 and should be turned in to Mrs. Hakala.

Final judging will be done Dec. 22 and prizes awarded at 1:30 p.m., Dec. 23, at the Woman's Club building.

IG Marks 180 Years Tomorrow

A 180-year-old trust, the efficient and economical administration of the U. S. Army, will be honored quite by the Infantry Center's Inspector General Section at Fort Benning on its 180th anniversary.

On Dec. 13, 1777 Congress created the Office of the Inspector General of the Army on the recommendation of Gen. George Washington. The first inspector general to serve as such was Gen. George Fredrick Von Steuben, the Prussian general who volunteered his services to the American Army. Later Alexander Hamilton was appointed to the office with the rank of major general.

The Infantry Center's Inspector General Section is headed by Col. Alfred C. Boatman, with Major Stephen H. Brown serving as the executive officer. The section is staffed with five officers, one warrant officer, six enlisted personnel, and three civilian employees.

According to Col. Boatman the section conducts two primary operations, the inspection division and the investigation division. Of these the largest is the conducting of the annual general inspection and special inspections of particular importance is the investigation of complaints and the (Please See IG, Page 29)

As OC Sees It

Leadership

Editor's Note: Following article was written by Officer Candidate John E. Schroeder, 51st Company, Fifth Student Battalion, The School Brigade, expressing what leadership means to him:

Just what does the word leadership mean? According to Webster, leadership means to act as a guide; go before; go or first in; be in command. True, the word leadership does mean all these things, but to an officer candidate it means a great deal more. There is no all inclusive word or phrase that can sum up the meaning of leadership. In fact the word is dynamic itself.

An officer candidate undergoes the finest training in the roughest school in the United States Army. Why? Because it is designed to produce leaders. Let us take a look at part of the officer candidate program and perhaps we can capture the true meaning of leadership.

Candidates are taught that confidence in leaders is of vital importance. Where the individual respects ability and can accept them, his morale and resistance to stress are bolstered. Poor leadership or lack of confidence in leaders, and a lack of clear-cut, understood, and accepted goals contributes to poor general moral.

In OCS group identification and "Esprit de Corps" is maintained. Where the candidate is able to have the feeling of "WE-NESS." The spirit of the group as a whole seems to be a contagious thing at OCS. The OCS program is built around leadership.

Ask any graduate of OCS if he remembers his first few weeks at the school and I'm sure he'll tell you that he found himself surrounded in the complexities and newness of the school. He was placed in a position perplexed. Indeed everything is a mystery. But things finally begin to fall in a pattern. Here at Fort Benning, the Home of the Infantry, the OCS is a battle, which is indeed an appropriate setting in the know-how in history, tradition and accomplishments, lies the Officer Candidate School.

As we follow our candidate we find him making a transition from this bewildered state to a state of confidence and eagerness. We notice that he is gradually assuming the dignity of an officer, and is gaining in the know-how in handling men. Discipline is rigid, observation close, cooperation and dependability is developed. The highest is demanded. What does this mean? It means that somewhere along the line the essentials of leadership becomes ingrained in your mind.

This is only one of the many facets of the diamond of leadership. Other facets include such elements as justice, decisiveness, endurance, enthusiasm, usefulness, integrity, initiative, motivation, tact, and bearing. Sterling and splendid are these facets of the diamond of leadership. The end result, how can it be measured, dollars and cents, medals and citations, tears and smiles, life and death? Perhaps, let us look to the source of leaders themselves. Among others, one of the finest sources is the Officer Candidate School. At Fort Benning these "men of the United States Army" are produced, through the OCS program.

"A combat leader is a well rounded, self-confident, sterling individual who can control others when their honor and lives are at stake. Combat leadership is developed and strengthened in an individual by studying, understanding and learning how to apply those qualities which control human behavior"—facets of the diamond of leadership — from the Officer Candidate School come such leaders.

On the wall in the day room of 51st Officer Candidate Company, 5th Student Battalion, is written these words, dedicated to those leaders who qualify:

"To those who are muddy, weary, and wet, To those who are damp and dying yet, To those who fight to keep America free, To the men of the United States Infantry."

Chaplain's Corner We Should Learn Before Instructing

BY CHAPLAIN (MAJOR) LESTER J. HOUTHALING

When we speak of the "literacy" rate of a country, we mean the percentage of the population who are able to read and write. The word "literacy" has the opposite meaning—the inability to read and write. Such a person we call an "illiterate."

What would a doctor think of a man who had never even studied high school biology, and who tried to perform a delicate operation? What would you think of a man who did not even know his multiplication or times table, and yet who tries to tell a doctor how to operate a patient?

Someone has said, "A little faith goes a long way, but a little more goes a long way." This is especially true in the field of religion. After a while you will find that the more you know, the more you are able to do.

The Judge Says...

Under the Uniform Code of Military Justice, there are a group of Articles specifically designed to enforce adherence to military discipline. Among these are Articles 89, 90, and 91. These Articles cover the offenses of disrespect and disobedience to a superior officer.

In order to command, one must learn to obey. Remember that those placed over you had to learn to obey just as you are now learning to command. Also that they are still taking orders and passing them on to the commander-in-chief down.

A situation which keeps recurring in the service is the one in which Private J. J. Bigmouth is being offensive and impudent in public. One day Private Bigmouth was talking to his wife and some friends in a duty to the Private Bigmouth to quiet down.

'This Is My Country' Lt. Col. Rai to Address Group at Service Club

The second program of the will be held today in Service Club No. 1 at Fort Benning with Lt. Col. Harish Chandra Rai of India as the guest speaker.

Officer and enlisted personnel are invited to the session, which begins at 8 p.m. The programs are slated for the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at the Service Club. Each will include a lecture by an Allied student at the Infantry School and a group discussion of his country.

The series is planned by Miss Onnie Wood, Fort Benning Service Clubs director, and Miss Oralla Tompkins, program director of Service Club No. 1.

Lt. Col. Clark W. Trainer, Infantry School Allied Liaison officer, assists in making arrangements for speakers.

Sandra Kyne Stars In Masquers' Play

By ALVIN COHN
To those of you who have seen the movie of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," let me say that the LIVE show is definitely not the same. We do have a Beautiful Blonde Bombshell in the lead part of Rita Macdonald AND we do have a Beautiful Redhead as the secretary - BUT - that is where the similarity ends.

As you know, part of the story was taken directly from Faust. Our poor little movie writer, George McCauley, is first bewitched by Rita, whom he sees for the first time scantily draped in a towel having a massage. (GAND GIRLS! Wait until you see the Masquerade then by trying, the devil, until he sells his soul, 10 percent at a time, in order that all his dreams can come true. This includes the acquisition of Rita as his love forever, among other things, of course.)

Sandra is the wife of 2nd Lt. Kenneth Gray, a recent graduate of West Point. They were married several months ago in the Infantry Center Chapel. She is from Santa Barbara, Calif., and attended the University of California. Sandra started dancing for more than ten years, specializing in Spanish dancing. For three years she has led the Fiesta parade at Santa Barbara. This is the main event of the year, commemorating the founding of the city by the early Conquistadores. Sandra has also been in various T. V. shows. You'll agree with George McCauley, "she's so beautiful!"

Easy Lloyd, a housewife from Evansville, who plays the part of George McCauley, has been before the public since he was three years old reading to both

Army Moves To Cut 'Tape' For Leaves

WASHINGTON, (ANS)—Major field commanders have been given greater leeway in granting leaves by the Department of the Army in an Army-wide move to cut down on "red tape" and streamline its personnel administration.

Leave procurers affected in the recently revised AR 629 include emergency leave, R&R leave, excess leave, and moral or compassionate leave. Major overseas commanders now have the authority to approve emergency leave and to further delegate this responsibility to subordinate commanders. Indications are division commanders may soon be exercising this authority which was previously held by DA. In addition, this provision reduces the time required to get personnel home—48 hours in top priority cases. Placement of emergency leave decisions in the hands of field commanders now assures the fastest return of personnel in this category to the U. S. DA officials claim.

The revised regulation permits major commanders in DRUMSTICK DRAGGERS A town marshal in Louisiana inserted this notice in a weekly newspaper: "I have been instructed by the town council to enforce the ordinance against chickens running at large and riding bicycles on the sidewalk."

Organization Meeting Set Today To Establish Air Safety Council

Civilian and military air safety officials have been invited to assist in the formation of a Joint Military and Civil Air Safety Council for Fort Benning, Muscogee County and Columbus, Ga., areas.

The organization meeting of an air safety council will be held at the Ranch Restaurant at Columbus, today at 3:30 p.m.

At the meeting a chairman will be elected, and a discussion of the problems of such a council will be conducted.

Major Jerome Field, new head of the Flight Safety Section, Lawson Army Air Field at Fort Benning, will speak on the purpose of the meeting.

Field has brought into this area an air safety problem, according to officials.

Norman Evans, Fort Benning safety director, has invited the following civilian and military officials to attend the meeting: Col. W. C. Donnelly, director of the Georgia Department of Public Safety in Atlanta; Wayne Cable, tower chief, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Air Traffic Communication Station, Muscogee County Airport; Guy W. Kull, Jr., manager, Muscogee County Airport; Ed Wahlend, president of the Columbus Air Lines, Inc.; Jack A. King, secretary-treasurer, and G. Dean King, president, King's School of Aviation, Inc., in Columbus; William F. Tagg, chief of the Muscogee County and departing Lawson Air Field, Muscogee County Airport; Police Sheriff E. F. Howell, Airport, the extensive use of Army aircraft in training programs on and of the Fort Benning reservation and the new instrument landing systems being constructed at Muscogee County Airport and Lawson Air Field Defense executive officer, Columbus; Tom Floyd, Muscogee County Weather Bureau; J. A. Williams, acting director of the Georgia Department of Public Safety; Garry Moore, manager, Delta Air Lines, Inc.; Joe Peabody, manager, Eastern Air Lines, Inc.; and G. M. Sutton, manager, Southern Airways, Inc.

Col. W. H. Billings, LIAO commander; Lt. Col. A. G. Shuler, Jr., provost marshal; Maj. Feldt; Capt. Adam Smith; Capt. Robert E. Morris, Major Thomas C. Jennings, Training Officer, all of Lawson Air Field Command, and 1st Lt. H. O. Harris, flight safety officer, Third Aviation Division.

Son of Greek Gen. Cooks At 29th Infantry Mess

Pfc Philip Harovas, a cook, kidnapped by the Communists in D Company, 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, is the son of a retired Greek General, Porcelos Harovas. He can spin an interesting story of his experiences as well as he can turn out a tasty pastry.

The 29-year-old Harovas can well remember some battles that he saw between the Communists and the National Greek Army when the Communists attempted to take over the country.

His father was captured by the Communists and sentenced to die, but he managed to escape. A cousin, who was not so fortunate, was executed by the Communists by being stabbed to death with sharp knives.

During this strife, many homes were stripped of their possessions and many of the Harovas family were killed or taken to visit his native Greece.

4 Officers Of Germany

Four West German Army officers headed by Brig. Gen. Oskar Munzel, Inspector for armor and armored infantry, were briefed on Infantry School activities at Fort Benning Dec. 9 to 11.

The party also included Lt. Col. Robert Schott, instructor in methods of instruction, Engineer School; Major Hans-Hoachim Becke, school coordinator, Federal Ministry of Defense, and Capt. Will Schwab of the Training Material, Procurement and Distribution Section, Federal Ministry of Defense.

They were honored at an official luncheon Dec. 9 in the Main Officers' Mess.

Among the demonstrations witnessed by the Allied officers were machine gun firing, night vision, foreign mines and breaching river crossings techniques, sniper scope night firing, physical training and the leaders reaction course. They also toured the Airborne Museum and observed students in the school's officers advanced class No. 3 participating in a mock war game.

AROUND-THE-WORLD CHRISTMAS... Eight-year-old Marsha Smith, center, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Clyde H. Smith, represented the U. S. in a portrayal of "International Christmas" at the December 4 luncheon of the Woman's Club of Fort Benning. The organization's choral group sang Yuletide music of Allied nations as club members appeared wearing native dress of the various countries. Also appearing on the program were Mrs. William Brown, left, wearing a Christmas costume of the Netherlands, and Mrs. Willys H. Pearson, right, in Danish dress.

Anyone who has had experience as an electrician or would like to work on props or costumes is urged to attend the Saturday meeting, according to Miss Madeline J. Partes, director of Service Club No. 2.

Army Places Air Defense About Wash.

PORT MEADE, Md. (ANS)—The Army today put missile master, a fully operational electronic air defense system, in the U.S. into action here to help defend the Washington-Baltimore government-industry complex against air attack.

Another big first was scored by the Army when it placed this electronic system that controls and coordinates the fire of its air defense weapons into operation.

The missile master's automatic electronic system transmits and coordinates information and relays the tactical decision of a weapons battery commander or the defense commander to all other commanders in the area as soon as it is made. It is operated by the Army Defense Command.

Under this system, targets in an attacking fleet can be pre-selected and assigned for destruction by missile master to individual batteries of a missile network.

Safety Aids Military Organization

Able Company had six multi-vehicle accidents and injuries one month. Two key men were hospitalized for injuries. Unit officers had to make court-martial investigations. The CO had to prepare normal routings and created additional paper work at every echelon. Others had to change reports and duty rosters. A Court had to be appointed. Two vehicles had to be surveyed to clear property accounts. The reports of survey took unit officers and witnesses from their normal duties. Now the paperwork can be measured by the pound. One of the Army vehicles caused civilian damage, necessitating appointment of a Claims Officer. He in-turn had to contact and bother a dozen persons to do this routine-breaking job. The Class "A" Agent had to go all the way to the hospital to pay the men—this took a driver and another vehicle. Supply people had to prepare requisitions to replace damaged equipment. The CO tore his hair and took a dozen aspirins. One of the hospitalized men held a key placement had to be requisitioned, and waited for (They don't arrive at the snap of your fingers). The replacement had to be trained—he made mistakes as new personnel did—a half dozen men had to show him the ropes. The two deadlined vehicles held up the unit operations. The morale of several other men wasn't helping because the change necessitated by duty rosters spoiled their plans of long standing.

ACCIDENTS CAUSE UNNECESSARY COST, INJURY, DEATH

SPP Program Produces Top Results According to Director

FORT BELVOIR, Va.—"They are producing some outstanding results—better than we had anticipated," says Col. A. H. Davidson Jr., Director of the Army Engineer Research and Development Laboratories here, speaking of the SPP (Scientific and Professional Personnel) soldiers. The SPP Program is one in which college graduates with technical skills required by the Army may fulfill their military obligation in assignments which use their professional education and training. Once basic training is over, they work for the balance of their two years with slide rules, electronic computers and test tubes instead of firearms. The Laboratories, a major R&D field agency of the Corps of Engineers, has many positions where the enlisted SPP contributes to the research effort. It likes to see this contribution continue by having these engineers, mathematicians, physicists and chemists stay with ERDL when they become civilians. The SPP soldier can, in many cases, choose the field in which he would prefer to work. Typical of these soldiers is Pvt. John Buppert of (Ridge Rd.) Marietta, Md., holder of a degree in biology from Loyola College. He is still never far away from a microscope in his work in fungus control research. Pvt. Sidney R. Sumrall of Sumrall, Miss., works on the minitrack equipment which will help establish precise positions for the Army Map Service from data obtained from the earth satellite. A mathematics graduate of Mississippi Southern College, he taught electronics for two years before entering the Army. Pvt. Richard W. Henke of McDonough, N. Y., civil engineering graduate of Clarkson College of Technology, helps design special bridges. "It is often said that the Government cannot compete with industry in getting and keeping young engineers," observes Colonel Davidson. "We do not accept that here. We believe that industry can compare with our professional and scientific atmosphere. And the salaries we have to offer former SPP soldiers are attractive." After two years in the Army, the ex-soldier with a bachelor's degree who has spent 18 months of his military service at ERDL can be offered a starting salary of $6,000 with a master's degree, $7,000; with a PhD, $7,500. These steady salaries may be adjusted upward to take work experience before induction into account. Promotional possibilities allow a civilian engineer or scientist to go as high as $14,500. Funds are also available to the Laboratories for paying tuition fees for certain graduate studies.

WFBS to Tape Christmas Music Til December 18

Fort Benning Radio Station WFBS will continue to offer free tape recordings of Christmas music to post personnel until 10 p.m. Dec. 18. Civilian and military personnel may obtain recordings of popular Christmas carols at Ward A-11, U.S. Army Hospital, by taking their tapes there. Personnel desiring to take advantage of the offer are asked to call Fort Benning 3933 for an appointment. The station will not be able to record tapes after 10 p.m. Dec. 18 because of previous commitments in preparations for Christmas. Maj. Pendleton, station director, said.

Officers Confer At Fort Benning

Two representatives of the Army Map Service in Washington, D. C., held a two-day conference with Infantry School officials last week to determine the school's map requirements. The visitors were Major R. C. Tyler and Jacob Skop.

Army's Youngest? Sfc Earned Stripes at 17

Sfc Bud Sikes of Cobb Town, Ga., Company, 2nd Battalion, 20th Infantry, thinks that he is the youngest Sfc in the history of the Army. Sfc Sikes entered the Army when he was 16 years old and was successively promoted through the grades to his present rank at the age of 17 while serving in Korea with the Second Infantry Division. Due to his age at the time, he was offered a transfer to Japan but elected to stay with his unit in Korea. Sfc Sikes is entitled to wear the following citations and awards: Good Conduct Medal, Bronze Star, Purple Heart, Combat Infantry Badge, United Nations and Korean Defense and ROK Presidential Citation.

Self Service Passes $1 Million in Sales

Fort Benning's Self Service Supply Center held an open house Dec. 6 celebrating its first $1 million in sales to the 275 military units and activities which it supplies with everything from pencils to wrecking bars. The center, which opened last January, has now reached the $1 million mark. A commemorative of the event, the purchase bringing the total to $1 million, a two-inch, socket wrench, was mounted and presented to Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, by the center's manager, Lt. Col. (Ret.) Robert P. Lindey. Displayed at the open house were all the items sold by the center. Special displays featured some unusual items such as the 100 varieties of paint sold there. Special displays were the high speed labeling and a bookkeeping machine which allow the center to give rapid service. A recent innovation in the Army's supply system, the Self Service Supply Centers at some 50 installations combine in one place all the items which formerly were available only through requisitioning from the Army technical services—quartermaster, engineer, ordnance, signal and chemical. Under the new system, units needing items handled by the centers can send a man to the center to "shop" for the items just as in a civilian supermarket. Purchases are completely governed by the needs of the unit and its available funds. They are charged against the unit's account to be paid for from the regular unit fund. By eliminating the need for requisitioning and by providing direct selection of items from the center's shelves, a considerable saving in paper work, time and manpower is accomplished. Direct savings to the government in materials consumed also result from the new system, by putting all items on a dollar-and-cents basis, many items formerly requisitioned in large quantities are sold in smaller quantities and less frequently. At the Fort Benning center, one type item alone, batteries, are sold at $10,000 per month less than the consumption rate under the old requisition system. Over a year's time, this saving

Troops Answer Need for Blood

Al-Sgt. Malcolm Tucker, Battery C, Second FA Bn., 10th Artillery, was notified that his sister, Mrs. Mary Mathews, of Columbus, needed blood for an operation. Set. Tucker called Sergeant Major Austin Frazier, who passed the need on to units of the Second FA Bn., 10th Artillery, and within 30 minutes there were 80 volunteers. Mrs. Mathews successfully underwent her operation with the help of nine pints of blood donated by the artillery troops.

Unit Stages Air-Landed Operations

The 50th Company, Fifth Student Battalion, The School Brigade, climaxed instruction recently with the tactics command, by planning and executing an air-landed assault with helicopters. The operation was discussed in the classroom Nov. 18. After a discussion of air landing operations, the student company commander, Capt. Airfield, Senior Candidate Harold I. Jones, issued his orders. Nov. 20, through the mist, helicopters dropped into the landing zone. 50th Company organized into a company headquarters and two platoons, rushed from an wooded assembly area. Shortly, the two flights of helicopters were on their way to the objective—Bretow Hill.

New Record Set In Giving Blood' By Volunteers

Third Division set a new record for blood donations last week as blood volunteers overtook American Red Cross, Bloodmobile facilities set up in the Sand Hill area of Fort Benning. Major Jack Eskridge, Division Surgeon, said that existing records for a two-day blood drive were topped as 820 pints were donated by 148 men.

Unit Undergoes Field Maneuvers
BANDURG, Germany — Infantry and field training are in progress under responsible terms. The 10th Division's Second Battle Group, 29th Infantry, now in its fourth month as a Pentomic unit, returned to garrison recently from a full-scale Field Training Exercise during which the both put into field-practice activities learned in garrison. A large variety of goals were set and attained by the battle group, with special emphasis placed on such actions as reconnaissance, movement of units into position, delaying actions, night movements, and counterattack plans.

Strange that the average man, who does not even read the one great Source Book of religion, the Holy Bible, should know so much with so little experience. We need to better learn our spiritual A B C's before we try to teach others.

Teams Urged To Provide Equipment

A limited number of uniforms and shoes will be available through the Infantry Center Sports Officers during the holiday season company level invitational basketball tournament, officials announced this week.

The tournament is slated Dec. 19 through Dec. 23 at Briant's Field House.

Officials request that teams provide as much equipment for their players as possible. Officials point out that trunks and shirts will be made available only when opposing teams have the same color uniform. A limited number of gym shoes will be provided to teams short of such equipment. Shoes may be used for one game, then turned in to be reassured before another player can use them.

None of the equipment made available by the Sports Office is to leave the field house, officials stated.

Game and practice basketballs will be furnished by the Sports Office, however. One officials score book will be kept. Participating teams will provide score keepers. Officials for the cage games are being requested by the Sports Office to call afternoon and night games. Two officials are needed for each tilt.

In Florida Tourney ISTC Will End Bouts on Friday

An 11-man boxing team from the School Command will wind up competition in Florida's annual AAU boxing tournament tomorrow.

No results of any bouts were available at The Bayonet's press time this week, however.

ISTC Unbeaten

Coch John H. Dunham took his fighters, undefeated at a team at Fort Benning this year, to Jacksonville, Fla., on the invitation of the Jacksonville Recreation Department which sponsors the matches.

Coch Dunham said before departing for Jacksonville that while he has a sound, hard-fighting team but fears that his boxers may be handicapped by the lack of competition this year.

Competition Lacking

Two boxing amateurs have been cancelled this fall due to lack of competitors. ISTC is the only major command that has been able to offer a team of competitors.

ISTC not representing Fort Benning at the Florida state bout, however. The fighters are competing as representatives of ISTC.

Won in 1956

Last time a Fort Benning team of boxers participated in the matches at Jacksonville was in 1956 when Heavyweight Olympic Champion Pete Rademacher and Light Heavyweight Olympic King Jim Boyd led goal fighters to a team victory.

Dragoneers Lead Basketball Loop

The 14th Infantry Dragoneers are setting a torrid pace in the Infantry Center Regimental Basketball League, having chalked up six wins against no losses during the first part of league play.

The Dragoneers scored their sixth win over School Brigade with 70-50 score last week.

Dick Long, a former Seaton Hall player, set the pace of the evening with 21 of the Brigade's 60 points.

John Bernard, 5'7" center from Vermont, was top man for the winners with 16 points. He was followed closely by center Wally Lewis and forward Don Bowman with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Field House tomorrow starting at 8 p.m.

Undefeated in 1957 15th Infantry Wins Marne Football Title

The 15th Infantry Can Doers last week clinched the 1957 Marne League football championship.

Crushing 30th Rocket 26-0 Dec. 3 at Bennett Field, 15th rolled to their eighth consecutive triumph of the campaign for an undefeated season.

As it was all season long, Charlie Evans and Kenny Fry headed the effective offensive for the league champs. Score-ing a single tally in the initial half, they went for three more to finish their scoring for the season.

Evans plunged for the first two scores, both from inside the five-yard line. The first one followed a blocked punt by guard Cy Grant deep in the end zone.

Thomas' extra point made it 14-0.

With Fry, Daniels and Evans carrying the 15th followed suit with a 38-yard drive in 14 plays before Daniels scored the third TD of the contest.

Fry broke loose for two yards in the rush for TD land.

Fry puffed a blanket pass late in the half and jaunted 39-yards for the final six points in a play that brought a crowd of 4,000 to its feet.

Fry grabbed an aerial over his head while going the wrong way. If reversed his field, and sent through the entire 100-yard defense, with every man getting a hand on the ex-Texas Aggie star.

The second half found the 15th dominating play, but halted frequently by penalties, fumbles or poor footing on the wet turf. But where offense slackened, the strong Can Do line did not. Again all-league guard Al Kubi performed in an outstanding manner. In on every team, Kubi's offensive blocking was also notable. His line position continually opened holes for Evans and Fry to burst through.

Dawkins Is Named West Point Captain

West Point Capt. Peter Dawkins of Royal Oak, Mich., has been named captain of the U.S. team for Academy's football team for 1958.

Dawkins, a backfield star, served as regimental commander while the Academy's Class of 1959 took their two weeks of infantry training at Fort Benning this summer.

TO MID-SECTION . . . CST's 154 pound Willie Ross connects to mid-section on his way to a unanimous decision over Allen Bolinsky of Seventh Infantry in a recent 11½ middleweight bout held at the Harmony Church Field House. The Third Division boxers met at part of the team meet. The CST ringmen took the measure of Seventh Infantry foes.

ALL-ARMY . . . Charlie Evans, 15th Infantry, Third Division, has been named on the Army-wide all-Army football team. A former Mississippi State star, he was also named back of the year in the Marne League this year.

Brigade Has Swim Star

An All-Army, High School All-American, and First Army Champion swimmer with 22 medals to his credit is now an Officer Candidate training with 50th Company, The School Brigade.

Candidate White won the coveted designation of High School All-American while attending Roosevelt High School in Des Moines, Iowa. He won the Iowa state swim meet in 1952 in the 100-yard free style.

The speedy swimmer swam on the Roosevelt High School 200-yard freestyle and 300-yard medley relay teams which posted one of the five lowest times recorded in the U.S. in 1952.

This qualified him as a High School All-American.

Swimming for the University of Iowa he switched from freestyle to butterfly and breaststroke and set a record in the conventional stroke his freshman year before enlisting in the Army.

As a squad leader with the 7th Regimental Combat Team at Fort Devens, Mass., White swam on the post team and traveled to the First Army swimming meet at Fort Monmouth, N. J. last year to win the area title in the 200-yard breaststroke and 23-yard butterfly.

He flew to Fort MacArthur, Calif. last summer to represent the First Army at the All-Army meet.

White is in the tenth week of Officer Candidate Class No. 6. He arrived at Fort Benning to late in the summer to compete in the post meet.

Benning Visited By PA Games Group Leader

Major Feldt Named Head Of Flight Safety Section

Major Jerome Feldt has been named to head the new Flight Safety Section of Lawson Army Air Field Command.

The Flight Safety Section will supply instruction in the latest safety and accident prevention. It will be responsible for proper and prompt investigation of aircraft accidents.

Major Feldt has just completed a five-week Army air safety course at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

He studied aircraft accident prevention, aircraft accident investigation, aviation physiology and psychology and aeronautical engineering. The course is limited to pilots.

14th Infantry Plays Vital Pentomic Role

Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, was constituted at Fort Benning May 29, 1957, as one of the first of the Army's pentomic units under ROCID.

The 14th Infantry was constituted May, 1861, in response to President Lincoln's call for a larger Army. It was activated Aug. 5, 1861.

As part of the Army of the Potomac the 14th won 11 battle streamers, including Antietam, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and Fredericksburg. When the Union Army was being formed for the Grand Review at the close of the war, General Meade, commanding the Army of the Potomac, was asked where the 14th should be placed.

"Take the right of the line," he said. "The 14th has always been to the front in battle and deserves the honor." The 14th on that day took "The Right of the Line" as its motto and continues to live up to it against the Sioux and Apaches on the western frontier, in the two decades following.

The 14th was first again at Peking in the Boxer Rebellion and at the turn of the Century. During the siege of the city, higher "real class" ships involved in the mass movement.

The Third Infantry Division's Gyroscope move to Germany involving some 12,000 military personnel and over 5,000 dependents, has been announced by the Department of Army.

The Division will begin its move to Western Europe with the departure of a special advance party group from International Airport, New York City, Jan. 10 and will be headed by Col. Charles F. Leonard, Jr., Chief of Staff.

Some ten flights will depart each month during January, February and March with military personnel and their dependents from International Airport.

After unloading Third Division passengers in Germany, the aircraft and ships will return to the States carrying 10th Division personnel. The 10th Division will be stationed at Fort Benning while the Marine Division assumes NATO duties in Germany. It is expected that approximately 5,000 10th Division personnel will be initially stationed at Benning as many of the returnees will be getting out of the service, reassigning to service schools or assume other duties.

"I'LL TRY, SIR" - During the fiercely-opposed relief expedition to Peking in the Boxer Rebellion in 1900, when two companies of 14th Infantry were pinned by heavy fire from the east wall of the Tartar City and the Fox Tower between abutments of the Chinese City Wall near Tung Pien Gate, volunteers were called to attempt a first perilous ascent of the wall. Trumpeter Calvin P. Titus, Company E, immediately stepped forward saying "I'll try, sir." Using jagged holes in the stone wall, he scaled the wall. Titus was followed by the rest of his company who climbed unarmed and hauled up their rifles and ammunition belts by a rope made of rifle slings. As troops ascended the wall artillery fire from Reilly's battery set fire to Fox Tower. In the face of continued heavy Chinese fire, colors broke out in the August breeze as the sign that U.S. Troops had achieved a major step in relief of the besieged Legation. For his courage, Titus was awarded the Medal of Honor.

Crest Signifies 'Right of Line,' Dragon's Might - After the Civil War, when the Union Army was being reformed the Grand Review, Capt. O'Connell, then commanding the 14th Infantry, asked General Meade what position his unit should take.

General Meade replied: "Take the right of the line. The 14th has always been to the front in battle and deserves the honor." From that day hence the motto of the regiment has been "The Right of the Line."

Colors Rededicated to Peace During Ceremonies in Columbus

National colors were rededicated to the cause of peace in a joint civilian-military ceremony Sunday afternoon in Columbus Municipal Auditorium. Prayer, songs, the roll of drums, swinging of rifles and band music were blended into the Massing of the Colors program.

The second annual event was sponsored by Columbus in cooperation with Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, and Major Gen. Roy E. Lindquist, commanding general of the Third Infantry Division. Coordinating the planning was the Columbus Chapter of the Military Order of The World Wars.

Proceeding the main program was a 30-minute concert by the Third Division Band and four selections sung by the Harmonies Chorus.

Against the background of a 249-88 foot American flag behind the podium, 50 units moved into the auditorium, each of them carrying the national colors and a standards of some branch of service — Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force. Each unit consisted of four serivemen or ROTC members. Charles B. Taylor, Columbus Chapter, Military Order of The World Wars, extended the welcome to those in attendance and introduced dignitaries on the platform.

"I welcome each of you and invite you to participate in this second annual Massing of the Colors and their rededication to the cause of peace," Cmdr. Taylor stated.

Rabbi Seymour M. Panik of Shearith Israel Synagogue gave the invocation.

The main address was delivered by Brig. Gen. John S. Ruggles, deputy commander of the U. S. Army Infantry Center.

"I am here on this occasion representing the commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center who, because of a prior commitment, could not personally take part in this ceremony. Gen. Ruggles said, "I feel privileged to be here and consider it an honor to address you briefly at this time. We have just witnessed the massing of the colors in a most impressive and inspiring ceremony.

"These flags can not be rededicated to the cause of peace without a rededication of ourselves. Indeed, May God grant that, cherishing memories that are forever sacred and sustaine" by a faith stronger than death itself, we, both civilian and military, dedicate anew these flags and ourselves, to the cause of peace."

Brig. Gen. John E. Leary, assistant commander of the Third Infantry Division, led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

The program was conducted with benediction by the Rev. Charles A. Jackson Jr., pastor of Wynnton Methodist Church and incoming 1958 president of the Columbus - Phenix City Municipal Alliance, led the Standards carried in addition

Lawson Control Tower Guides Lost Navy Jet to Safe Landing

With only five gallons of fuel remaining, a lost Navy F-100 jet bounced to an emergency landing on run-upway Lawson Army Air Field at Fort Benning Nov. 29.

The pilot, who only moments earlier had been ready to bail out, credited two enlisted men in the Lawson control tower with saving the aircraft and perhaps his life.

Flying the jet was Lt. Lt. Gregory J. Skinner of the 12th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Colorado Air National Guard at Buckley Naval Air Station, Denver. In the tower were James Mulgannon and Sgt. Kenneth W. Griffin.

At 9:30 p.m. that evening the ceiling was 2,500 feet, overcast with intermittent showers; visibility was five to seven miles restricted to one to three miles in the rain.

Mulgannon and Griffin were relaxing since the holiday week-end and inclement weather had combined to discourage all local pilots. No inbound aircraft were expected.

Suddenly the voice of Lt. Skinner came in loud and clear over the Lawson tower receiver. Somewhere overhead the Navy jet was lost and flying with all radio and navigation aids, with the exception of the VHF transmitter and receiver, inoperative because of the electrical storm.

Using their direction finder, Mulgannon and Griffin immediately began a search for the jet. Mulgannon assumed to be Columbus in the rain. Griffin, a resident of the Benning Hills area, who had just been assigned to the tower over Lawson Field.

At the last second, with a true Hollywood finish, the pilot broke through the last layer of clouds and spotted the rotating runway and runway lights. Reaching his supply of fuel he no time for a second approach, the pilot swooped down at a high speed, bounced ten feet in the air as it first touched, veered to one side knocking out a runway light, and burned rubber for some 4,000 feet down the runway finally bringing the jet to a stop with only 100 feet of runway left.

Lt. Skinner was full of praise for Mulgannon and Griffin. "All the personnel at Lawson Field went beyond that required to assist me before and after I landed," said Skinner. "I can only say that I shall be eternally thankful that Mulgannon and Griffin were on duty that night."

Col. William H. Billings, commanding officer at Lawson, cited Mulgannon and Griffin for showing "exceptional calmness and sound judgment in directing a lost aviator in distress to a safe landing."

The two towermen, although trained to handle just such an emergency, don't have much to say about the episode. Both agree that it is not all a day's work and they hope that it never becomes a daily occurrence.

Sound Section to Change Name; Transfer to STC

The Sound Section of the Communications Department, Infantry School, at Fort Benning will be transferred to the Signal Section, Infantry Center, at the end of December, effective Jan. 1.

Personnel of the section will be transferred from the school Brigade to Special Troops Command. The unit is authorized two officers and 30 enlisted men.

Post Sets Special Religious Services for Christmas

Chapels Slate Full Program For Season

Fort Benning personnel will observe Christmas Eve and Christmas Day at special religious services in Protestant and Catholic chapels throughout the post.

On Christmas Eve, a candle-light Protestant service will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Lawson Army Air Field Chapel. Services will be conducted at 8 p.m. in the Infantry School Troop Command Chapel. A special Lutheran Christmas Eve program will be held at 9:30 p.m. in the Infantry School Troop Command Chapel.

Candlelight Communion A candlelight Communion service is scheduled for 11 p.m. on Christmas Eve in the Main Protestant Chapel. Michael's Episcopal Mission will hold Holy Communion at 11:30 p.m.

Catholic Christmas Eve Masses will be said at 12 midnight in the Main Catholic Chapel. (Please See Services, Page 2)

Public Invited To Witness Holiday Show

A cast of approximately 200 persons will present Fort Benning's second annual Christmas Choral Festival in Theater No. 1 tonight at 8 p.m.

The public is invited and there is no admission charge. A special invitation is extended to citizens of Columbus and the surrounding areas.

The festival group is composed of a 30-voice chorus comprising various choirs and choral groups on the post, approximately 30 children from Faith School, the Infantry Center band and Special Services Soldiers. They will present a series of colorful tableaux and choral numbers depicting the story of the birth of Christ.

Lt. Col. Gordon E. Sayre, of the Infantry School Staff Department, is the festival director.

Band overture, "Christmas Fantasy," under the direction of Lt. Col. Sayre.

Army Announces RIF Curtailment

The Army has announced that it will not make any additional forced separations of officers in achieving its year-end strength for fiscal year 1959.

First half of fiscal year 1958 involuntary releases remain unchanged. These releases will be completed as indicated by orders received by individuals concerned. All personnel concerned have already been notified.

The reduced strength for fiscal year 1959 will be reached without forced separation by a combination of reduced procurement, normal attrition and other normal administrative procedures.

Personnel to Get Half Days Off December 24-31

In addition to Dec. 25 and Jan. 1 holidays, Fort Benning civilian and military personnel will be given half holidays beginning at noon Dec. 24 and Dec. 31, according to an executive order issued by President Eisenhower.

Only personnel whose services are essential to maintenance protective security or other critical activities will remain on duty at those times.

CG Asks 'Back Attack' on Accidents

Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, has requested all Fort Benning personnel to "Back the Attack" on traffic accidents during the holiday season. The text of his message, which is being aimed at reducing the usually high holiday toll, and providing a basis for continuing action throughout 1958.

I earnestly appeal the personnel to be extra careful in their traffic accidents. Set an example of safe, courteous driving for others to follow, accept your responsibility for the safety of others and use your influence to improve the driving and walking habits of your family and friends. Your own life, as well as the lives of others, may well depend on a degree of support you give this campaign.

I am confident that all Fort Benning personnel will do their part in this all-out attack on traffic accidents, and will do their full share in this important endeavor.

Hugh Milton Briefed At Infantry School

Hugh M. Milton, II, assistant secretary of the Army for manpower, arrived at Fort Benning Dec. 18 for a briefing on Infantry School instruction.

He was accompanied by John R. Blanford, counsel to the Armed Services Committee; Harry McMeans of the office of Congressman Paul Kilday of Texas; Thad Murray of the office of Congressman Porter Hardy of Virginia; and Lt. Col. L. S. Reynolds of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army.

The party was welcomed with honor guard ceremonies on Lawson Army Air Field at 4:30 p.m.

The visitors were guests of honor at an informal reception given by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Infantry School commandant, and Mrs. Powell in their quarters Monday evening following the official dinner in the Main Officers' Mess.

Their schedule Tuesday began with conferences with Gen. Powell and Brig. Gen. Stanley L. Larsen, assistant commandant of the Infantry School. After viewing at Infantry School Staff Department presentation titled "Role of the Infantry," they attended an airborne orientation at Parachute School, Dec. 19.

Mr. Milton and his party traveled by H-34 helicopter to Veterans Affairs Hospital at 11 a.m. (Please See Milton, Page 2)

Gen. Hickey to Visit Benning Tomorrow

Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, commanding general of Third Army, Fort McPherson, Ga., will address officers' advanced class No. 2 tomorrow. One hundred and ninety-five students will be presented certificates at the 11 a.m. exercises in the Main Theater.

Col. Richhart Named To Benning Hospital

Col. Earl A. Richhart of Anderson, Ind., has been named executive officer of the U.S. Army Hospital at Fort Benning.

Formerly executive officer of the Tokyo U.S. Army Hospital, he left Japan Dec. 1 for the U.S. He is expected at Fort Benning—the first part of January.

Col. Richhart entered the Army in 1925 and was graduated from the non-commissioned officers course at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. in 1929. He also has completed the course at the Army Medical Service School, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, in 1932.

With more than 32 years of service to his credit Col. Richhart has served in numerous hospitals throughout the country. Since 1944 he has served as executive officer in various Army hospitals including the U.S. Army Hospital at Camp

Thank You For Continuing see a banner training demonstration. Later the visitors ate lunch with Infantry School students in the School Brigade area.

They then viewed The Infantry School Tactical Department demonstration of an Infantry tank team in attack at Burnham Hill and observed students negotiating the leaders' reaction course.

The visitors departed Lawson Field at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Milton last visited Fort Benning in April, when he accompanied 44 U.S. Congressmen on a tour of the post.

On Dec. 22, a Christmas candlelight service will be held at 7 p.m. at Sand Hill Chapel, No. 4.

All chapels on Dec. 22 will hold services according to the usual Sunday schedule.

Carriers

Thank You For Continuing available airline seats have been sold for Dec. 20.

Choral

Thank You For Continuing of CWO William R. Thornbush will open the program. Part One, "The Beginnings," will feature the choir in "God so Loved the World." The narration is from Isaiah 22:1-4, Isaiah 40, 28, 31 and 51:9-12.

Continuing from Isaiah, the narrator will read The Prophecies from Isaiah 7:14, Isaiah 9: 2, 6 and 7. The choir will sing Christmas's "Lost in the Night." Mrs. William G. Black will be the soloist.

Part Three presents The Annunciation with the story from Luke 1: 26-33. A tableau of "The Virgin Mary and the Angel" will be given by a cast of the Soldiers Show. Col. Sayre as soloist will sing "Sleep My Little One."

For "The Wise Men" the narrator will be narrated from 2:1-12. In full vocal support, Fort Benning's Soldiers Chorus, under the direction of Col. Sayre, will present the music and tableaux, "We Three Kings." The songs will be portrayed by Sgt. George C. Bryant as Melchior, Lt. Young as Caspar and 2nd Lt. Morris H. Collier as Balthazar.

A climax of the entire program will be the combined choral presentation of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." The closing portion of the festival, featuring the choir, will be "A Little Child Shall Lead Them," which will feature narration, tableaux and choir selections. The Soldiers Show cast with the narrator will give the tender "A Child Shall Lead Them." The children's group in song and tableau has prepared "Come, All Ye Faithful." In a position of closing number the choir will render "Silent Night" with an echo choir, featuring the voices of Mrs. Helen E. Zimmerman, Mrs. Sara D. de Loach, Bryant and Capt. Bannan.

NATO and How It Works

With newspapers and news magazines filled with reports of the summit meetings of the member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which began Monday, this might be a good time to take a brief look at some of the aims and accomplishments of NATO.

NATO is primarily a military alliance, but its great purpose is peace, not war. The 15 members of NATO have pledged that they will regard an armed attack upon any of them as an armed attack upon all. They have also pledged to work together to increase their ability to defend themselves by self-help and mutual aid. NATO stands for peace through unity and strength.

At the end of World War II the free world misunderstood Russia's intentions. Before, and during the war, Russia had seized parts of Finland and all of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. Men of good will in the free world thought that Russia would release these nations at the end of the war. But 1945 Russia set up a Communist minority as the "people's government" in Poland, saw to it that those who objected were imprisoned or killed, and took over the country. The same pattern was followed in Bulgaria, Rumania, Albania, Eastern Germany, Hungary, and Czechoslovakia. Meanwhile, communists sought to weaken and overthrow the governments of France and Italy by strikes, riots and subversion. In the United Nations, Russian delegates systematically destroyed all attempts at peaceful negotiation by their incessant and ever mocking use of the veto.

Within five years Russia seized nearly 400,000 square miles of territory containing 50 million people, without firing a shot. The intent of the Communists became clear: to engulf all of Europe, either by treachery or by war, and so in line to rule the world.

NATO was born as an answer to Russian foreign policy. Of the accomplishments that can be attributed to NATO in whole or in part, the following deserve special attention:

1. There has been no war in Europe—no hostilities of any kind in the Atlantic area—since NATO began.
2. The Communists have not territorial gains anywhere in Europe or the Atlantic area since NATO began.
3. Furthermore, Communist voting strength and internal political influence in almost every NATO country has steadily declined.
4. European military production is now roughly four times what it was in 1949.

Indirectly the NATO relationship has contributed to the development of closer practical unity among European nations and to the moderation of rivalries and antagonisms. The most striking example is found in the Paris Agreements of October 1954 which restored West German sovereignty, created a Western European Union, and tied Germany to the West through membership in both the WEU and NATO itself.

NATO is a partnership to which all members contribute. The size and form of each country's contribution depend upon various factors, such as location, population, economic resources, and industrial facilities. Because of complex coastal defenses involved, there is no magic formula by which each country's fair share can be determined with mathematical precision. No attempt has been made to do so.

But the voluntary character of national efforts has not prevented the NATO program from moving forward. All NATO governments have been more interested in getting the job done than in comparing contributions with one another. They have accepted the principle expressed by President Eisenhower when he first assumed command of NATO's integrated forces in Europe, that "we cannot afford to let the national level afford to look over our shoulders with a suspicious eye that our friend is not doing as much as we are."

European members make valuable contributions to the mutual defense program of NATO, their military contributions help to protect them. They are paying more for their own defense and maintaining their own military forces. It is only certain items of cost that they cannot meet. Actually, our own Government has spent for defense purposes the equivalent of 40 from their own budgets for every dollar's worth of assistance received from the U.S.

Not only have our European allies supplied most of NATO's manpower but their defense expenditures have doubled since 1949. Combined defense spending of European NATO countries has now exceeded a total that is larger than the entire amount of economic assistance provided by the U.S. during the three years of the Marshall Plan. The average citizen of European NATO countries pays to his government in taxes of all kinds, a larger percentage of his total earnings than does the average American citizen.

NATO has become one of the most successful international organizations in which the U.S. has ever engaged. Its program has added enormously to the protection afforded America by our own defense forces. More important, NATO has been a tremendous force for peace. What NATO has cost the U.S. and all other NATO countries since its beginning is less than the cost of a few months of World War II and less than the probable cost of a few weeks of an all-out thermonuclear war. Every member country, including the U.S., is getting far more out of NATO than it is contributing.

For unto this day in the city of David, a Saviour which is Christ the Lord...

Fort Benning CG

With the approach of the Christmas Season, I desire to wish all officers, enlisted men and women, civilian employees and their families a Joyous Christmas and a successful and Happy New Year.

Although many of you are far from home and will miss the traditional celebration of these holidays, it is my hope that pride of service will bring satisfaction to those of you who remain at Fort Benning during this vacation period. With the relaxation of formal duties, I hope that each of you will participate in the many recreational and religious activities planned at this station.

HERBERT B. POWELL
Major General, U. S. Army
Commanding

Armed Forces Chaplain

To the men and women of the Armed Forces, I extend Christmas greetings on behalf of the Chaplains of the Armed Forces.

During this Holy Season, let each of us in a spirit of prayerful contemplation return to Bethlehem. As we stand at the crib to give the Heavenly Ruler homage, let us remember that Christ was born in a stable at Bethlehem; that He came to redeem mankind; that He lived not in royalty; and, finally, that He made the supreme sacrifice on the Cross for us.

May these thoughts of the Christ Child and the Christ Man instill in us those wonderful Christianlike qualities of character—faith, charity, self-sacrifice, and humility—and let us so desperately needed in the world today. May we go forth from the crib at Bethlehem with a renewed sense of service to God, our fellowmen, and our beloved country.

To each member of the Armed Forces, I wish a Holy and a Happy Christmas. May the message of the Angels on that first Christmas—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace among men of good will"—remain in our hearts the whole year through.

MAJ. GEN. PATRICK J. RYAN
Chairman, Armed Forces Chaplains Board

President

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF OUR ARMED FORCES.

Many of you are far from home, but you are never beyond the reach of our hearts and minds. At this time of year we are especially mindful of our gratitude for the vigilance of those who stand watch upon the ramparts of America.

Because of your service, your fellow citizens celebrate the joys of the Christmas Season in the warmth and security of their family circle. And for our part, strengthened by the support of good will, we at home reaffirm to you our pledge to work unceasingly for an enduring peace with justice among the nations.

Mrs. Eisenhower joins me in sending you our personal best wishes for Christmas and the New Year.
Dwight D. Eisenhower

Secretary of Defense

This is the time of year when Christians throughout the world celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ. The significance of this event in terms of its influence for peace and thoughtful consideration of the well being of people everywhere is historic beyond measure.

Sacrifice for others is fundamental in the practice of our Christian faith. Because of the willingness of our Armed Forces to make sacrifices in the performance of their duties, this Christmas will be one of more assured peace. Because of the vigilance of our Armed Forces those peoples who exist in lands where aggression is the rule are sustained by the hope of eventual freedom.

Whether this Holiday Season finds you at home with your families or at duty stations in the United States, at sea, or in foreign lands, the prayers of a grateful Nation are with you for continued success in your mission.

NEIL H. McLELLY
Secretary of Defense

Secretary of Army

At this joyous Christmas season, I extend to every man and woman in the United States Army, both military and civilian, my warmest wishes for a Merry Christmas and my sincere hope that the New Year will bring you an abundance of happiness.

The thoughts and prayers of all of us at home go out especially to those who are far from their families on this holiday occasion. I hope that the time may not be long when you will again be reunited with your loved ones.

To all of you go my heartfelt thanks for your magnificent efforts in these troubled times to preserve our freedom. In the world of such great religious change, it is now more important than ever before that all of us apply ourselves with increased vigor to the task at hand. It should be a source of great satisfaction to you to know that you are serving your country at a time when it is extremely important to uphold the lofty ideals of the entire Free World.

I trust you will be renewed inspiration and strength in the great work you are doing. May God bless all of you and may He continue to guide the world into the way of lasting peace.

WILBER M. BRUCKER
Secretary of the Army

Army Chief of Staff

With the approach of the Christmas season, we of the Army pause once more to give thanks that our country continues to enjoy the blessings of peace and security. Throughout the year, in our performance of duty in many parts of the world, we have never lost sight of our duty to stand ready to defend the peace and to protect our Christian way of life. We shall enter the New Year mindful of the continued retirement for our sustained efforts to banish the fear of war through our visible readiness to maintain the peace.

Although Christmas is traditionally a time of homecoming, the obligations of the Service will require many men and women of the Army to celebrate the holiday in distant lands. To you and to all other members of the Army I send a sincere Merry Christmas and a hope for your continued happiness in a life of fruitful and effective service. May this holiday bring joy to you and to your families and the New Year be witness to the success of your efforts in the cause of peace on earth.

GEN. MAXWELL D. TAYLOR
Army Chief of Staff

The Judge Says...

"Let's have one more drink for the road," said Sergeant Hopwood to his buddy, Sergeant Gellie, just before they left the Non-Commissioned Officers Club about midnight for their respective homes in Columbus. "Sure," replied Sgt. G. "I don't think the MPs on the post will bother us." So, with another drink, they slipped to their car and started home.

It was sheer luck that the meandering vehicle, under the able command of the inebriated Sgt. G., managed to get off the military reservation without incident. However, it came to an abrupt end when, through a fault of his own, a vehicle directly behind him accidentally scraped the rear bumper of their so both vehicles came to a stop at a traffic light in Columbus. Sgt. G. happened to see his shining new car lighting mud and eight feet tall as a result of a "bummer" on the "back road" and with fire in his eyes, approached the driver of the vehicle directly behind him. "Where the hell do you think you're going?" boomed Sgt. G. "The situation attracted the attention of several curious spectators, one of whom promptly called the police. Sgt. G. could make a fast getaway but he was motioned over to the curb by two police officers.

Miss X timidly explained her dilemma, admitting that she accidentally scratched the rear fender of Sgt. G.'s car. However, she was not charged with a distance and not aware that Sgt. X had assumed responsibility for the slight damage to his car, with righteous indignation and clenched fists, approached the policeman and noisily insisted that Miss X be jailed for her wanton disregard for the rights of other people on the highway. At this point, Sgt. G., without a word, put Sgt. G. in his slurring fight in less than time. It would have been a disaster if the public-spirited sergeant had not calmly and discreetly broadcast the telltale "one more drink for the road" which he was forthwith placed in a jail cell. Sgt. G. retained a lawyer to represent him in court; however, in spite of his attorney's best efforts, he was convicted and sentenced to three months in jail or payment of a fine of $10.

We would be happy to say that the story ends here; but it doesn't. Sergeant Gellie, because shortly thereafter his commanding officer was off duty, was offered and willing to accept a non-judicial punishment under the provisions of Article 15, Uniform Code of Military Justice, rather than trial by court-martial, for his delinquent and disgraceful behavior.

Continuing a "meet the cast" column for "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," Masquers this week presents Mrs. Lillian Hofues who plays the role of Miss Logan, secretary to George McCauley in the production. Masquers, Fort Benning drama group, will present the play

Jan. 16-17 in Theater No. 1. Mrs. Hofues in real life is a secretary employed in the IG Section at Fort Benning, she is mother of two children. She was cheer leader in the Council Bluffs High School and also played the clarinet in the high school band. Her other interests in high school were dramatics and also the choir. She attended university of Omaha, in Omaha, Neb.

Her hobbies are swimming, dancing and shooting, both pistol and rifle, and she is a member of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club.

As you will see, Lillian is a beautiful girl, with clear complexion and brownette hair which she will dye red for the play. Let us point out that no one ever had a secretary such as Lillian portrays in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter."

Stuart Baxter, from the School Battalion plays the part of Michael Freeman, the "Playwrote." suave, sophisticated, handsome—the girls are in for a treat when they meet him. Stuart is doing full justice to the part which has some rather long humorous dialogue both with Irving LaBalle and George McCauley.

In private life, Stuart is a graduate of the School of Practical Art in Boston, Mass., and is employed as a commercial artist with the Kennedys of Boston, ice skating, water skiing, music and dramatics are

Scouts Tour Fort Benning

Two youth groups from Bessemer, Ala., and Glenwood, Ala., visited Fort Benning last weekend for a look at the U. S. Infantry on the job.

The groups, which arrived at the post Dec. 13 were 15 members of the Glenwood Boy Scout Troop No. 88 from Bessemer and 21 members of the Glenwood Boy Club, a Methodist youth group. Edward H. Saunders, a Bessemer attorney, escorted the Scouts. The Rev. William Rhoades headed the Glenwood group.

Tours for the youths included a visit to the Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department, an aircraft demonstration at Lawson Army Air Field, an Infantry weapons demonstration in the Harmony Church area and the 26th Scout Dog Platoon.

Both groups, which were billeted in the School Brigade area, stood reveille Saturday morning.

The Glenwood Club members left the post Saturday afternoon and the Scouts departed Sunday.

Janet Deason Crowned Miss Yuletide at Dance

Miss Janet Deason, daughter of Mrs. Crystal Deason of Phenix City, was crowned "Miss Yuletide" at the Armed Services YMCA festivities Saturday night, Dec. 14, amid gay and glittery atmosphere of the 2nd floor lounge. Miss Mary Stewart, 1956 winner, was on hand to crown the 1957 winner.

For days the members of the Girls Service Organization and volunteer servicemen had decorated the room, silver, gold and red stars hung from the ceiling, the center posts were a strip of red cellophane with a cluster of ribboned pine cones covered with snow and apart. The stage was the center of interest with its ceiling to floor drape covering the entire corner. Red, gold, and green stars fastened to the stage curtain were connected with tinsel streamers with ceiling drape of tinsel and side drape of red ribbon and tinsel completing the picture. Two frosted Christmas trees trimmed with icicles and blue lights stood on each side of the stage.

It was in the center of this stage that the candidates for the "Miss Yuletide" crown came to be interviewed by Mrs. Rozel Fabiani, star of her own television show on WRBL, "At Home With Rozel," and mistress of ceremonies for this event.

Other contestants besides Miss Deason were Miss Angela Livingston, Miss Leva Dennis, Miss Barbara Ann McGuire, Miss Betty Sewell and Miss Nancy Taff. Miss Sewell was runner-up for the crown.

Over 200 attended the dance which started at 8:30 and ended at midnight. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Gertrude Handley combo.

Following the interviewing of contestants, and while the judges were making their decision, Miss Betty Ivey sang "White Christmas" and led the entire group in the singing of "Merry Carol," some of which were sung solo or trio by volunteers from the audience.

Judges for the contest were: Dean West of Soldier Show, Miss Joyce Murphy, GSO president, Mr. Wade Stokes, Executive Secretary of the Armed Services YMCA, and Mr. Smokey Burgess, "Sportscenter" WPMX. Both winner and runner-up received many lovely gifts donated by merchants in town for the occasion. It was also the occasion for prizes for the men, too. These donations were given away as door prizes to the fellows holding the lucky numbers.

This big event marks the beginning of the Christmas festivities at the "Y" and it is hoped that servicemen who are unable to go home for Christmas holidays will find some pleasure in attending and participating in the program activities planned for them during this season.

Volunteers are on hand both Saturday afternoon and Sunday afternoons to help wrap Christmas packages free-of-charge for servicemen who wish to mail themselves of this service. The wrapping room is open at all times during the day and might for those who wish to do so. Helping on Dec. 14 and 15 were Mrs. H. E. McCain, Mrs. W. Cole, Mrs. G. H. Rhoades, Miss Faye Johnson, Miss Nell Owens, and volunteer GSO girls. Do your share, too, and let us help you wrap them in gifts and wrap them to mail.

Coming events for the week of Christmas begin tonight when the GSO girls of the Division and participate in a Christmas Party planned for the Marines by the Chaplain.

Saturday night, Dec. 21, an orchestra dance, called a "Holly Dance" will be held with the Merle Garrett combo furnishing the music for dancing.

Sunday, Dec. 22 — Free coffee and donuts at 9 a.m. in the GSO girls' room. Miss Louise Daniels or one of her senior volunteer helpers at 9:30 in the TV area. 5:30 Fellowship Supper served by American Legion Auxiliary No. 151.

Tuesday, Dec. 24, a Carolling Group will go to the Hospital at Fort Benning, has leaves the Armed Services YMCA at 7:00. Everyone is welcome to join the group which will include GSO girls as well as servicemen; husbands and donuts at 9 a.m. in the GSO girls' room. The group will return to the Y afterwards for hot chocolate and cookies.

Christmas morning will find a surprise for all who stay overnight in the dormitory. Coffee and donuts will be served at 9:30 a.m. in the lobby; and open house with snacks of candy, cookies, fruit cakes and other Christmas fare will be provided on second floor in the afternoon and early evening. Christmas records will be played during the singing.

Citizenship class will be held Thursday night at 7:00. Fencing Class will be held at 8 p.m.

Merry Christmas to all of you who are homebound today; those of you who will not be at home, join us at the Armed Services YMCA during Christmas week as we create Christmas spirit away from home.

International Round-Up NATO Nations Split On Atomic Weapons

PARIS — President Eisenhower this week offered America's European Allies a medium-range missile and atomic warheads. The long, tense first closed session of the NATO summit conference then quickly split over how to deal with his proposition.

At one point not directly related to the Eisenhower offer, Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan said the West should look into recent proposals from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

After 4 1/2 grueling hours, the still convalescent President Eisenhower took to his bed early, skipping a formal NATO dinner given by Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium.

PARIS — Premier Einar Gerhardsen of Norway seriously urged President Eisenhower to seek a cold war truce with Russia—even if it means direct negotiations between Americans and Russians on key world issues.

The idea of new parleys with Khrushchev on terms of back-stage support from other Atlantic Pact statesmen too-including in a lesser degree West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer—although there were few explicit expressions of how such talks should be conducted.

LONDON—Two newspapers claimed this week that British scientists have secretly achieved fantastic temperatures, indicating they soon can harness the hydrogen bomb to produce electric power.

The Daily Express said the scientists believe they succeeded in raising gaseous deuterium, a variant form of hydrogen, to 50 million degrees centigrade or 100 million degrees Fahrenheit.

Post Marks Cavalry Birth Army to Help RIFs Find Employment

ARMOR officers at Fort Benning celebrated the 181st anniversary of the U. S. cavalry and its successor on a reception Dec 11 in the Main Officers' Mess.

Plans for the events were of the Infantry School. Army Committee 23th Tank Battalion and Third Infantry Division's 6th Army and Seventh Cavalry.

Approximately 150 guests attended the affair which was under the direction of Lt. Col. Harry E. Ellis and Capt. Wood B. Berrow of the Army Committee.

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, addressed the gathering extending congratulations on the occasion of the anniversary.

WASHINGTON — The Department of the Army has today announced that it will give every possible assistance to Reserve officers being dropped from active duty because of Defense Department cutbacks in strength.

Army commanders have been instructed to establish personnel placement services to help the dropped officers find suitable civilian employment.

For those who choose to remain on active duty as enlisted men, all consideration possible is to be given to offering them assignments where they wish to serve.

At First Army headquarters on Governors Island, N.Y., an employment office had been established before receipt of the Washington order. Lieutenant General Blackhear M. Bryan, Army commander, recognized that several hundred officers of his command, representing a great pool of potential benefits to the industry, were scheduled for separation in the New York-New Jersey-New England area within the next several months.

Acting Chaplain at St. Michael's Mission Rev. Eckel Directs Bellingers In Westminster's Hi Fi Record

BY H. COL. GORDON E. SAYRE
The Reverend Canon Frederick L. Eckel, acting Chaplain for Saint Michael's Episcopal Mission of Fort Benning, has directed and made a Hi-Fi record.

Canon Eckel is the founder, father, and director of the Cathedral Bellingers of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta, Ga. The photograph record, which was produced by Westminster Hi-Fi records, is "Cathedral Bellingers." The musical menu of the recording, which was released in November, consists of 27 choice Christmas carols and incidental music.

Canon Eckel's Cathedral Bellingers have appeared on many television programs and nationally famous for their artistry and dexterity of their performance. They appeared with President Eisenhower at the lighting of the National Christmas Tree in 1964, on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" on Christmas Day 1965, with Arlene Francis on her Home Show in 1966, and are now available to posterity on the Cathedral Bellingers Westminster recording.

The group is composed of an even two dozen grammar and high school students from the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta. The cover of the recording features the group in their colorful traditional medieval costumes and portrays the individual bells used by them in the recording.

Canon Eckel's genius was not limited to founding the Cathedral Bellingers. At the time of organization, he realized that the music normally written for

DIRECTS RECORD
The Rev. Canon Frederick L. Eckel, acting Chaplain for Saint Michael's Episcopal Mission, has directed the recording of the Cathedral Bellingers of St. Philip in Atlanta, Ga., in a Hi-Fi record for Westminster.

This picture of the Rev. was taken when he was a guest at Fort Benning during the 25th semi-annual JCOOC in October.

A particular position, or pair of bells; each bellingier is responsible for two basic notes and their accidental counterparts. This means each player has four bells representing for example an E, and an F on the scale, plus the E flat and the F sharp bells, when those notes are needed. The time of striking of the bell varies in the strength and dexterity of the performer. Each player must know the action of his assigned bells and time his strike perfectly to maintain the rhythm.

The Reverend Canon Frederick L. Eckel is the former Director of the Christian Episcopal at the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta. He assumed his additional pastorate at the Fort Benning St. Michael's Mission during the temporary absence of Chaplain (Capt.) Harry G. # Santa's Helping Hand St. Nick Gets Around In Military Manner

Christmas bells will ring in special happiness for children around the world this year because of men and women in the Armed Forces.

Santa Claus, Kris Kringle, or what you will, flash across radar scopes at lonely outposts as he brings the joys of Christmas to the children in the Far East a happy one.

A similar operation last year brought more than 12,000 pounds of food, clothing and toys to Korean families and orphans in one division area. Servicemen have been helping Santa slip across the Far Eastern skies for more than one year. First was recorded in Manila in 1948, when he flew in on a seaplane.

He was greeted by children who had rehearsed Christmas carols for weeks. A national news broadcast covered the event throughout the islands.

And across the globe in Europe, the winter clubs, service clubs and individuals helped make the season brighter for those around them.

There was Operation Helping Hand in Polynesia, France, December 19, the most comprehensive Christmas program ever attempted in Europe.

Similar parties were given in Germany, Italy, North Africa, wherever Americans were serving.

Plump men were eyed closely, with the red suit with the white trim in mind. Christmas trees were chopped down, imported, or just improvised.

Ornaments were anything, sometimes everything.

Gifts, packages, boxes, boxes planned far in advance for the holidays. Men put in for passes or leaves, and those staying on the installations thought, with relief, of the full treatment the mess hall gives this special day. (AFPS)

For Servicemen in Holidays Bob Hope to Lead Performers Abroad

NEW YORK (AFPS)—Since in Korea, will be filmed for teen, and accordionist Margaret Tavora.

The well-known Johnny Grant is headed this holiday season to stations in Germany and France. Johnny will be accompanied by his usual bevy of Hollywood starlets and accompanying comic Knocoe Ailes.

Headed for holiday shows in the mid-Pacific will be a unit starring Barbara Whiting, younger half of the famed singing sisters, and actor Kent Taylor. Singer April Ames and a dancing quartet, the "Double Dancers," will also tour with this show.

The Whiting group is scheduled for shows at Hickam AFB, Johnston Island, Kwajalein, Eniwetok, Guam, Philippines, Taiwan, Iwo Jima and Midway.

Aiming for entertainment troops in the Alaska zone will be a show headlined Collette Lyons, veteran comedienne hailed in show business as "another Bea Lillie." Glamour stars of this unit will be the dance team of Kevin and Col.

Sgt Bryant is also a member of Fort Benning's Soldier Chorus.

Bryant Enters 3rd Yr in Choir

Sgt Bryant joined the choir in June, 1955, and shortly thereafter began singing solo. He then performed in various Soldier Shows entertaining at posts throughout the Third Army area. Entering the Third Army Talent Contests for the last two years he achieved the distinction of twice finishing second.

Repair Toys For Needy In Columbus Weatherman Goes Electronic in Army

Santa Claus will not miss the underprivileged children of Columbus this year as Fort Benning's 497th Engineer Battalion has more than 650 toys and games available for him to distribute.

In late September of this year, a drive to collect broken toys and damaged games was begun and a headquarters for the repair project was established on the second floor of the Harmony Church Sunday School building. Sgt. Robert W. Clevenger of Company B was placed in charge. Since then toys and games have been repaired regularly as a result of the efforts of the men of Company B and of Chaplain (Capt.) William R. Floyd, battalion chaplain, more than 650 toys and games have been repaired and returned to the ranks. Items repaired have ranged from miniature dolls to full-size bicycles and outdoor playground sets.

WASHINGTON (AFPS)

An electronic weatherman is the Army's newest development for studying high-altitude atmospheric conditions. The new system consists of balloons of approaching storms, hurricanes and other bad weather much faster and more accurately than any previous device, the Army said. That information is vital in aiming long-range artillery and missiles in Columbus.

Also offering the first means of charity high-velocity winds like the jet stream on a routine basis, the system reduces the long complex calculations required to compile data gathered from the flight of weather balloons. It tracks them with a built-in electronic brain to give instant readings.

Specialty designed computers of the system work with a three-pound weather station—called a radiosonde—carried aloft by balloon.

SGT. JOHN MARTO DISPLAYS 300-YEAR-OLD PAINTING
Salvaged Art Piece From Czechoslovakian Farm House

Holiday Season Motivates Return Of Painting to Its Original Owner

The Madonna of Passau, a centuries-old painting taken from the outstretched hand of a dead German soldier by an American GI during World War II, may return home soon.

The more than 300-year-old painting, from an unknown chapel or possibly the cathedral of Passau, Australia, has traveled since March 1945, in the possession of Sgt. John Marto, now assigned to Fort Benning's GI Army Hospital. The picture depicts Our Lady of Help of Passau and her infant child.

Sgt. Marto in talking to his friend, Chaplain (1st Lt.) Donald Kinney, a Catholic chaplain assigned to the Third Infantry Division, seemed to feel the guiding light of Christmas, he said, as a possible way to return the treasure to its home came to him.

Chaplain Kinney will go to Germany in February when the division begins its move to Europe. The two friends agreed that getting the Madonna and her child home was imperative. Chaplain Kinney will undertake the task.

Although the picture will not reach its cathedral for Christmas, the beginning of the end of its return home has culminated in this joyful Christmas season.

In the spring of 1945 a young American officer, 2nd Lt. John Marto, headed a clean-up team in the devastated area of the Czechoslovakian village, Oberplan, across the Austrian border from Passau. The team came upon a damaged and deserted farm house built with the roof curiously still intact. Lt. Marto checked the building from attic to cellar as a possible location for his men. In the cellar he found a dead German soldier holding in his outstretched hand a faded, rolled canvas. The caution of experience sounded an automatic alarm to check for booby traps.

Finding the situation clear, he opened the canvas to find the placid features of a Madonna and Child in the painting of the Virgin of Passau. Attached to the roll was a certificate inscribed in ancient German, signed in the faded script of a Father Diogenes and dated 1782. The text of the certificate is almost indecipherable except to language scholars but it tells of the Virgin's powers to help those who offer their prayers to her.

As a matter of routine, the young lieutenant took the canvas with him and continued his job. The picture remained with him wherever he went for the remainder of his stay in Europe. On return to the U.S. it became a role of the war. Though not forgotten, it faded somewhat into the picture of the past.

However, the American soldier, now reverted from an officer to a sergeant was assigned again to Germany. The Madonna crossed his mind but Oberplan was in Communist territory and it was then impossible to retrace the path to the farm house and from there to the original home of the painting.

Through crudely executed final remarks heard the supplications of the faithful in its dispensary he'd be grounded because a surgeon knows that the treatment might put the patient to sleep at the controls of a plane.

As a part of the specialized training required to earn the wings, the doctors attend the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base, Tex., or the Navy School of Aviation Medicine at Pensacola, Fla.

While at one of these schools the embryo aviation medical officers learn the physiological phenomena of flying, from oxygen starvation to the extremes of pressure learned at first hand in modern pressure tanks.

They then attend the Army Aviation School at Fort Rucker, Ala., for practical application of their newly acquired knowledge and to learn about Army aviation planes and equipment and the duties of its flying personnel.

The Rucker training helps where they help to determine the physical capabilities of crew members and possible medical reasons for accidents.

Bowman Reason 14th Leads League

Don Bowman, Company D Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, is a big reason why the Dragoneers are leading the Infantry Center Basketball League.

Acerate with a jump shot out from the basket, Bowman gives opposing guards a rough time. He fades backwards after firing toward the basket at the peak of his jump shot.

The native of Conover, N. C., stands six feet, four inches tall which he uses to good advantage. He has pulled in 54 rebounds in seven games. During the first seven games he has scored 69 points.

During his senior year in high school, Bowman led the Dragoneers to the state tournament with an 18-0 record. He was a three-year letterman on the basketball squad, averaging 15 points a game.

Army Hospital Aids Tokyo Orphanage

TOKYO, Japan—Impressioned and somewhat toothless smiles met a delegation from the Tokyo U. S. Army Hospital recently during a visit to the local Seiko-ryu Salvation Army Girls Home.

The 43 walls thereby indicated that they knew the renovated kitchen with his new gas range, sink and other equipment, and the futons (troupe bed mats) with covers were gifts of the TUSAJ Orphanage Fund.

As has been the practice ever since the hospital began to sponsor the orphanage more than two years ago, the gifts were no hit-or-miss gesture of generosity. They were selected after a survey visit by the Orphanage Committee and consultation with Salvation Army authorities on the most pressing needs. The kitchen will allow for the preparation of a more varied and nourishing diet for the girls than has been possible in the past, caretakers of the home state.

In special appreciation of the 40 futons, the youngsters violated the international code of schedule that first day. Personnel at the Army hospital donated $686.24 for these most recent gifts. Chaplain (Major) Dean W. Dryden is president of the committee, which is now studying its next orphanage project. Assisting him are First Lieutenant Lacy K. Barnett and WAC Master Sergeant Elizabeth K. O'Keefe, Chief Warrant Officer Marcel Given, hospital treasurer, is fund custodian.

54th Trains Division EM For 6 Weeks

The 54th Medical Group is conducting an intensive six-week course in basic medical subjects for 118 enlisted men from the Third Infantry Division.

The course will be given during two periods of three weeks each. The first period which began on Dec. 2 will run to Dec. 20, 1957. The second period will run from Jan. 2 to Jan. 25, 1958.

The trainees have been placed on TDY with the 54th Medical Group during the six-week training period. Capt. Charles E. Richardson, commanding officer of the 800th Medical Co., is responsible for furnishing billets and administrative cadre. The 55th Medical Co. is operating a mess for the trainees and cadre.

A training committee, headed by Lt. Thomas L. Trudeau, Hq. and Hq. Det., who acts as chairman, is charged with the detailed supervision of the program. Other officers on the committee are the following: 2nd Lt. Jerry R. Burnley, 562d Med. Co.; 2nd Lt. Russell E. Dieter, 55th Med. Co.; 2nd Lt. Robert M. Lee, Hq. Detachment; 2nd Lt. Robert A. Massey, 54th Med. Co.; 2nd Lt. Wesley F. Moody, Third Field Hospital; and 2nd Lt. Wilmer W. Patrick, 802d Med. Co.

Among the jobs of this committee is to prepare the master training schedule and weekly schedules, to select and alternate instructors, to insure that adequate lesson plans are prepared, to inspect all classes and to prepare and administer examinations.

Stockade Closed At Ft. Crowder

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ft. Crowder, Mo., and the disciplinary barracks there will be closed by Jan. 31, because of simulating Army need for confinement facilities. The closing is expected to save about $1.2 million a year.

The barracks, the only activity on the post, houses some 600 in custody. These are released by the inactivation date will be moved to similar rehabilitation institute at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., the Army said.

About 625 Crowder military personnel will be transferred to other installations while 500 civilian employees affected by the shut-down will be assisted in finding other jobs by the Army's Placement Service.

BENNING VISITORS . . . Two distinguished visitors at Fort Benning last week were honored at an official luncheon in the Main Officers' Mess. Left to right are Major Gen. Gilmon C. ### AMU Leads TSB League

The U.S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit basketball team became undisputed possessor of first place in the School Brigade League with a 29 to 23 victory over Hq. and Co., TSB. USA AMU employed a slow, deliberate, positive type offense and a virtually impenetrable zone defensive in its first half which enabled them to gain a 17 to 8 lead at the mid-point. In the second half Hq. and Co. countered with a fast breaking attack and pressed the "Marksmen" to full length of the court. With two minutes remaining Hq. and Co. pulled ahead for the first time with a 25 to 24 lead. It seemed that Hq. and Co. had wrapped up the game when AMU lost the ball under their basket with only 45 seconds remaining, but SP 8 Tom Hollingsworth intercepted the pass for the "Marksmen" and drove the full length of the court. Pins defensive work of Williams held Porter to twenty-one points made the big differ-

ISTC Wins Five Final Fla. Fights

Fighters of the Infantry School Troop Command last week took five of 10 individual championships in the annual Florida State AAU Boxing Tournament in Jacksonville, Fla. Andrew Martinez, Company A, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, who won the Welterweight Championship Novice Division in the matches, was named the outstanding fighter of the Florida competition. Martinez was selected for the honor from among 102 boxers entered in the tourney. Although ISTC took five of the 20 championship bouts, the team from Fort Benning was edged by Shaw Air Force Base for the team championship. Shaw accumulated points in the competition by the fact that the Air Force installation had more than twice the number of fighter entered than ISTC. ISTC entered 11 fighters in the tournament, compared to over 20 that represented Shaw. Following is a fight-by-fight account of ISTC's bouts by Coach John H. Dunham, who accompanied the team to Jacksonville.

Dec. 9. Oshorn Henderson, Company C, 2nd Battle Group, 29th Infantry, lost a hard-fought battle to Richard Field of Shaw Air Force Base. John Segar, A Battery, 2nd FA Bn., 10th Artillery, in the 178 pound class Novice Division won a three-round decision over Patterson Coleman of West Palm Beach Air Force Base. Theodore Bethea, Company D, 2nd Battle Group 14th Infantry, in the 178 pound class Novice Division won a hard-fought

Special Troops Command last week tumbled 14th Infantry from the unbeaten rank in The League by edging the Dragoneers 57-55. The 14th Infantry, however, remained perched atop the league standing with a 6-1 record. Dragoner forward stepped to the free throw line and made both shots in the Dragoneers' act in front. The lead was short as Kenneth Boste hit the free throw line to put the game on ice for STC. Boste, big center for STC, paced the attack with 18 points and pulled in many rebounds. The game was won at the free throw line as each team hit 22 field goals. STC hit 13 free throws while the Dragoneers made 111 free throws. The leading scorer for the Dragoneers was Bernard with 14 points. Don Bowman, with his long jump shots at crucial points in the game, clipped in 13 points and pulled down 10 rebounds.

George Barabard, Hq. and Co. of Company B, 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, defeated Don Israel of Wilder Athletic Club to again become middleweight champion, Florida AAU Championship Matches 1957. In USAISTC's fourth bout of the night John Segar, A Battery 2nd FA Bn., 10th Artillery, beat Robert Pike of Eglin Air Force Base in the light-heavyweight championship of the Florida AAU Championship matches for 1957. In the last and final bout the USAISTC team entered, Lt. E. Ely, Hq. and Co., Company D, 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry, stopped Shaw Air Force

In a letter to Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Fort Benning commander, Col. James A. Dextraze, commandant, The Royal Canadian School of Infantry, expressed appreciation for the success of the recent inter-school rifle competition. Col. Dextraze's letter said in part: "I consider the competition a real success and I feel the school matches should be perpetuated. Many I congratulate you on the quality of the Advanced Marksmanship Unit and the marksmen themselves. Whilst we did not win the competition, we gained invaluable experience both from participation in the new type matches and in the intense desire of your officers and men to pass on to my team, points from their own experience. For this I am most thankful."

ISTC
Thank You for Continuing B, 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, a light middle weight in the Senior Division, lost a decision to Lawrence Howard of Jax Navy. After flooring Howard in the first round he still lost the round to 19 in favor of Howard. Dec. 11

In the first bout of the evening Steve Lago, Company A, 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, lost to Larry Green of Lackawanna Athletic Club. A hard scrap and a game little man. In the second bout of the evening USAISTC's Andy Martinez, middle weight, won a ball home with a second round knock-out over John White of West Palm Beach Air Force Base. In bout number three Clayton Rice Company G 14th Infantry, won three rounds against Wilder Athletic Club's Willie Murrice. In bout number four USAISTC's John Segar fought USAISTC's Theodore Bethea for three rounds of hard fighting but won the privilege of competing in the finals. Bout number 5 saw USAISTC's Andrew Jackson lost to Eglin Air Force Base's Robert Pike. In USAISTC's sixth and final bout of the evening an upset occurred as Joe Whittington USAISTC's hard hitting lighter-welter was stopped in one minute and forty five seconds of the second round by John Dixon of Green Cove Navy.

On Free Throws
STC Tumbles Unbeaten 14th
Special Troops Command last week tumbled 14th Infantry from the unbeaten rank in The League by edging the Dragoneers 57-55. The 14th Infantry, however, remained perched atop the league standing with a 6-1 record. Dragoner forward stepped to the free throw line and made both shots in the Dragoneers' act in front. The lead was short as Kenneth Boste hit the free throw line to put the game on ice for STC. Boste, big center for STC, paced the attack with 18 points and pulled in many rebounds. The game was won at the free throw line as each team hit 22 field goals. STC hit 13 free throws while the Dragoneers made 111 free throws. The leading scorer for the Dragoneers was Bernard with 14 points. Don Bowman, with his long jump shots at crucial points in the game, clipped in 13 points and pulled down 10 rebounds.

Glatz Leads 4th Infantry

Professional football star Fred Glatz led his fourth Infantry Warriors to an 180-point victory over the fabled Seventh Infantry Colts. By copying the contest, in Marine league competition Nov. 25 at Bannett Field, the former Pittsburgh Steeler and University of Pittsburgh for fourth place in the stand-end scored two touch-downs, set up the third, and pointed in championship points over the Colts.

Gen. Fields, Capt. Kane

Army, Navy Nominate 2 for Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Brig. Gen. Kenneth E. Fields (USA, Ret.) and the late Navy Capt. William R. Kane have been nominated by West Point and Annapolis, respectively, to serve as general manager of the 1957 "Sports Illustrated" Silver Anniversary All-America football team.

Fields is currently serving as general manager of the US Atomic Energy Commission. Captain Kane lost his life Feb. 5, 1947, in a plane crash while he was commanding officer of the light carrier service academy Albatross, San Antonio.

The unique All-America team, when selected by judges for the national magazine, honors the 22 college football letter-

Army Places Five On All Star Team

NEW YORK (AP)—There is nothing resembling a unanimous selection on this year's interservice team, but with a concentration of grid-foot coach and a sportswriter and broadcaster, look at the results of worldwide voting in the 1957 Armed Forces Football All-Stars and you will find that the Philadelphia Eagles last year champions anytime.

That's a professional opinion on this outstanding gridiron galaxy, the only interservice football greats, named by sports fans around the world. The team's "outstanding player" was selected on the basis of most votes received.

Whodunit in Sports?

1. Don Hutson, former end for the Green Bay Packers, leads the 1957 National Football League records. One of them involves the shortest completed touchdown pass in NFL history. How long was it?
2. According to USGA rules, if an opponent's ball strikes your ball while on the green and moves it, what action can be taken?
3. Who holds the National Football League's all-time scoring record?
4. Gertrude Ederle of the United States was the first woman to swim the English Channel. Who was the first woman to swim the distance both ways?
5. The University of Kentucky announced that they are retiring the number 79 worn by All-American tackle Lou Michaels. One other football player from the school has his jersey retired, who was it?

1. The answer is 22 yards.
2. The answer is 17 feet.
3. The answer is 1,000 yards.
4. The answer is Gertrude Ederle.
5. The answer is Earl Fudge.

Reds Stockpiling Both Nuclear, Conventional Arms, Writer Says

HEADQUARTERS T H I R D ARMY, Fort Monmouth, Ga. Information gathered and appraised by individual congressmen in the House of Representatives hearings provides disturbing evidence of American backsliding in the arms race.

"Better equipment for fast river-crossing is visible. A better logistical organization is developed (America's has lately been reduced again under the 'economy' program). The Russian arms stockpile, it is estimated, would support 300 divisions for six months—its own evidence that Russia does not think a new war would be over with a couple of exchanges of nuclear missiles.

"Possibly most impressive of all is the fact that whereas the United States Army shies away from developing appropriate weapons, the Russian Army is not. This is the sort of modernizing which is possible only when adequate funds are provided. Russia has provided both throughout the year when from this display of evidence is that the Russian military began developing a post-World War II concept of 'conventional' as well as nuclear warfare immediately after 1945, and set to work creating new field organizations and developing appropriate weapons to suit the new tactics.

"This is the sort of modernizing which is possible only when adequate funds are provided. Russia has provided both throughout the year when from this display of evidence is that the Russian military began developing a post-World War II concept of 'conventional' as well as nuclear warfare immediately after 1945, and set to work creating new field organizations and developing appropriate weapons to suit the new tactics.

"The article, 'New Weapons Evidence of Soviet Gains' continues: 'The new pieces of equipment—some of the replacements for post-World War II types, others replacing types a quarter-century old, and others entirely new even in purpose—include these notable items:

1. Heavy tanks, with 122-mm. guns, faster, better armored, combat range up to 140 miles without refueling.
2. Tracked personnel carriers, armored, replacing the old wheeled carriers and able to keep up with the arm's for 185 miles.
3. Self-propelled 57-mm. guns weighing but 4½ tons and hence air transportable in the Russian's new heavy-duty helicopter.
4. Self-propelled recoilless 12-inch guns, surprisingly mobile.
5. Pull-tracked 240-mm. range guns.
6. Several missile types of 10, 50, 150, and 350 mile ranges, technicians certifying the missile size and the tail wave judge capabilities with fair precision.
7. New guns and howitzers up to 202-mm., the latter a very mobile type replacing the ancient 1801 siege howitzer—both moving 30 miles instead of 3 miles an hour.
8. Mortars up to 240-mm., with range enough to justify attaching shells.
9. Assault amphibians utilizing the hydro-jet propulsion principle—drawing water in the bow and expelling it at the stern.
10. Assault long-range transport using the excellent Diesel engine which now is standardized for some fifteen different pieces of equipment. One Russian tank so equipped gets a mile per gallon; a somewhat smaller American tank gets a mile for six gallons—which helps to explain Russian mobility.
11. A new 85-mm gun drawn by motorcycle—obviously only for enough to load on a cargo plane or amphibian.
12. Small arms now in 80-mm caliber providing identical ammunition for rifle, carbine, submachine gun and machine gun.
13. Entirely new anti-tank weapons piercing up to 12 inches of armor.
Watson adds, 'While America has been cutting down its tank strength, in order to have more funds for missiles, Russia has been improving its armor and in its corps organizations has been increasing the role of armor, which America has performed downgraded.

OVER THE AIR

"Tis the season to be jolly." And the Christmas spirit is the center of attraction this weekend on the radio and television programs from the Infantry Center. On radio, there's plenty of Christmas music to fit almost any taste. Saturday at 8:30 p.m. "The Battle" presents the Christmas Story set to music featuring the voices of the Infantry Center Chapel choir and the Marine Club of Club over WRBL in Columbus.

Another good music show is "Fort Benning Bandstand," scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Sunday over WGBA. Featuring RADIO PROGRAMS

Jupiter, Thor Placed In Full Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department has ordered both of the nation's medium-range ballistic missiles—the Army Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor—into production.

The decision to produce the two 1,500-mile missiles was announced recently by Secretary Neil H. McElroy, while test flying the US missile program before the Preparedness Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, headed by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson.

"We have been undertaking during the past few days an intensive re-assessment of our position with respect to the testing and development program of our IRBM missiles," Mr. McElroy said, adding that the recent tests of both have been highly successful.

"It is now clear," he explained, although neither of the weapons can be regarded as fully developed, "they both are at a point at which we believe we can on the basis of judgment make a sound decision to program additional production for operational purposes."

The Thor, for which assembly lines already have been tooling by Douglas Aircraft Co. developers of the missile under Air Force contract, will be built in California. The Jupiter is being perfected by the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

By making use of the production capacity now available for both IRBMs, an "operational

Bn. Receives Best Rating

The Second Battalion, 10th Cavalry, U. S. Army Infantry Center, at Fort Benning, received a superior rating on its annual general inspection.

It is the first troop unit of battalion size at post to receive this highest inspection award. A letter of commendation of duty reflect most favorably from Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, was sent to the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert A. Roberts.

In his letter Gen. Powell said, "I wish to commend you and the members of your organization for the attainment of a superior rating during the Annual General Inspection, 1957-58."

Of the eight batteries in the unit, six received superior and two high excellent ratings for the overall rating. The unit is composed of approximately 300 enlisted personnel and 22 of Annual General Inspection, 1957-58.

SAFETY AWARD . . . Capt. Emmett L. Hines, right, commander of the First Army Aviation Company, Third Transportation Battalion is presented a Third Certificate of Merit for his company's outstanding safety performance. The company operated its aircraft 7,131 flying hours from Sept. 12, 1956, to last Sept. 11 without an accident. Making the presentation is Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center. Looking on is Capt. Albert L. Knight, company operations officer.

Army Meteorologist Seeks Date With Angel to Prove a Theory

WHITE SANDS PROVING radar people all over the globe. Normani see the creatures daily on their screens. But Beyers, a young civilian meteorologist in the Missile Geophysics Program of the White Sands Signal Agency, thinks he knows what causes an angel, although way to meet one.

An angel apparently is something that doesn't exist in solid substance. A radar set may be pointing toward an empty blue sky when suddenly the angel appears on the screen. High power telescopes have been focused on the exact spot in the sky where the radar indicates the presence of an angel. There has been nothing there. Sometimes the angel moves on the radar screen. Often she is stationary, growing in intensity and then fading. Her size and shape vary from lines to a series of dots. Scientists have advanced many theories about radar angels, but most of them have been disproved. One theory was that an angel is a swarm of insects invisible to the eye at high altitudes. This reason was chased down and ruled out.

Another school of thought held that angels are electronic reflections or "ghosts." The rough investigations proved this theory unlikely. Beyers thinks that angels are caused by refraction in the earth's atmosphere. The air is not deep enough. "You go ahead," "I'll be witch."

McElroy Slates European Visit
WASHINGTON (APPS)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy is scheduled for official visits to England and Germany prior to attending the scheduled NATO meetings in Paris. Accompanied by John M. Irwin, Deputy Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs; Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Army Vice Chief of Staff; and other Defense Department officials, Mr. McElroy will confer with U.S. military leaders overseas and government heads of the two European nations. The Defense Secretary also will meet with the U.S. Air Force's Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Allied Commander, before the NATO sessions Dec. 16-19.

151st Engineer Group

Instruction Prepares Engineers To Fight as Infantry Soldiers

BY SPT BILL HOWLES
A new training program was begun recently by the 151st Engineer Company (Field Maintenance). Classes in the proper methods of equipping engineer equipment is being taught equipment mechanics. Instruction is also being given in all phases of engineer field maintenance operations to maintenance platoon leaders and senior non-commissioned officers.

At 6 p.m., Dec. 5, 151st Engineer Company (Camouflage) launched its Army Training movement conveyed to a tactical area where the company was separated into an aggressor unit and defending infantry squads. The aggressors were outfitted basic combat and infantry tactics with the aggressors. The aggressors were badly defeated.

The men returned to the company area at 2 a.m. the next day at which time a critique was held by the commanding officer, Lt. Eugene L. Fry Sr. Training Program

The 26th Engineer Company (Float Bridge) is now geared to full speed ahead in its fifth week of an eight-weeks scheduled Army Training program at Fort Benning. However, the unit will get a well earned break from training during the 15-day leave season with many of the men expecting to be home on leave with their families and start getting into high gear again during the early part of 1958.

The 588th Engineers have piled up accomplishments in their last week of an eight-weeks scheduled Army Training program at Fort Benning. In addition, commendations have been given for excellent performance in supporting the Infantry School.

Newspaper publishing is a costly business, and we'd like to take a moment to explain to you just how costly bit of business—known as THE BAYONET—comes to you each week absolutely free of charge.
No, it's not tax money! Fortunately the Army doesn't spend a dime in producing this civilian-enterprise publication wholly dedicated to the coverage of Fort Benning activities. Nor is THE BAYONET operating under a large endowment fund left by Sgt. Bilko!

Rather, it is the merchants of Columbus and Phenix City who make this fine weekly newspaper possible for Fort Benning personnel. Their advertising support, together with the helpful guidance of the Ledger-Engineer news personnel, help make THE BAYONET as good or better than any similar news organ on any post or station.
Certainly the patronage from BAYONET readers makes their investment worth while, but at the same time, they're making it possible for us to continue publication. We just wanted to explain this to our readers and express our appreciation to our advertisers!

Volunteers Will Perform Duties Christmas Day

HEIDELBERG — Jewish enlisted personnel serving in Army and Air Force commands in Europe have volunteered their services of KP duty on Christmas Day.
Christian personnel customarily perform the duty during the Jewish holy days while Jewish personnel serve on Christmas and Easter, according to chaplains of both services.

At Fort Benning, the Chaplain's Section has disclosed that Jewish personnel have also volunteered this service for company duties on Christmas Day.
Pfc Arnold D. Robinson, Company B, 499th Engineer Battalion, has been named captain of the team. The company has won a total of 30 games, last 5, and tied 1. Siciliano is the team's high bowler with an average of 155. Other members of the team include: Sgt Jack H. Faulin, Pfc Bernard J. Becker, Pfc Robert J. Hoff, Pfc Frederick W. Johnson and Pfc Josiah Sterling.

At left, two junior misses receive their presents while propped by Santa's knees. At right, youngsters exude glee as St. Nick distributes gifts around the room. The party was sponsored by Second Company, First Student Battalion, The School Brigade. Student officers provided new shoes, stockings and toys for the needy youngsters. Wives of the students made sure plenty of ice cream and cookies were on hand. Salvation Army selected kids to attend the affair.

Benning Hosts Scout Group

Approximately 55 Girl Scouts and leaders from the Tallapoosa Council of Girl Scouts in Opelika, Ala., visited Fort Benning Dec. 7.

The girls were guests of Fort Benning Girl Scouts who attended camp last summer at the Tallapoosa Council Camp on Lake Martin near Montgomery, Ala.

Fort Benning Scouts welcomed the Alabama guests at the Girl Scout Little House on their arrival. The group then were taken by bus with military police escort to visit the Girl Scout Camp Hide Away on the Fort Benning reservation.

The Scouts attended a formal guard mount held at Chapel Field. For lunch they were house guests of the Third Army Food Service School.

In the afternoon a guided tour of the post rounded out the day's activities.

Girl Scouts of the Tallapoosa Council invited Fort Benning Scouts to attend summer camp at Lake Martin this year since there is no Girl Scout camp site at Fort Benning.

Accompanying the Alabama visitors were Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, executive director of Tallapoosa Council of Girl Scouts, Mrs. Edward Mayer, Fort Benning chairman of Girl Scouts, and Mrs. Sam Adams, assisted in escorting the visitors on their day's tour.

Project officer for the trip was 2nd Lt. E. A. Maxey, 50th Company, 94th Medical Group.

Capt. Dwarfs Trees; Gets Blue Ribbon

WINNS AWARD . . . Sfc Donald A. Gold was recently presented an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement after retiring with 20 years of Army duty.

ANSRACH, Germany — An Army officer here thinks nothing of strolling around the 527th Field Artillery Battalion area with a 20-year-old oak tree in his hand.

Captain John A. Dorman hasn't any more muscle than the next man. His trees stand but two or three feet high and weigh only a few pounds.

Dorman is a devotee of the ancient Oriental art of tree stunting, or "bonsai." It's a hobby he acquired when stationed in Japan and it's brought him, among other satisfactions, a personally presented "thank-you" note from the First Lady.

That's the result of his winning a blue ribbon and cash prize for his 16-year-old miniature fir tree entry in a Washington flower and garden show in 1956. A collateral distinction was his presentation to the White House. On last report, the tree was at the Ettenhour farm in Gettysburg.

Dorman, a veteran para-trooper with the wartime 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions, says the practicing bonsaiist must first love the great outdoors enough to wish for a bit of it inside his home. Then it's a matter of faithful and knowing patience in selecting, watering, feeding, transplanting and pruning—root and branch.

Some half dozen of his 100 trees are with him in Germany. The rest are in the care of his brother on his farm in Daagsboro, Del. (ANF)

North Section, 3d Cuartel Named For Pvt., Medal of Honor Winner

(Editor's Note: According to recent findings at Fort Benning, many buildings on post are not being referred to by correct names. This is the 13th in a series of pictures of buildings and Medal of Honor winners for whom the structures are named. Medal of Honor citation for Pvt. John R. Towle for whom the northern section of the third cuartel (Building 38) is named Towle Barracks, follows:

Private John R. Towle, Army serial number 25,083,178, Infantry, United States Army. For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty on 21 September 1945 near Coesterhout, Holland. The rifle company in which Private Towle served as rocket launcher and gunner was occupying a defensive position in the west sector of the recently established Nijmegen bridgehead when a strong enemy force of approximately 100 infantry supported by two tanks and a half track forced for a counter-attack. With full knowledge of the disastrous consequences resulting not only to his company but to the entire bridgehead by an enemy breakthrough, Private Towle immediately and without orders left his foxhole and moved 20 yards in the face of intense small arms fire to a position on an exposed dyke positioned. From this precarious position Private Towle fired his rocket launcher at and hit both tanks to his immediate front. Armored skirting on both tanks prevented penetration by the projectile, but both vehicles withdrew slightly damaged. Still under intense fire and full exposed to the enemy, Private Towle then engaged a nearby house which nine Germans had entered and were using as a strong point and with one round killed all nine. Eagerly replenishing his supply of ammunition, Private Towle, motivated only by his high conception of duty which called for the destruction of the enemy at any cost, then rushed approximately 125 yards through grazing enemy fire to an exposed position from which he could engage the enemy half track with his rocket launcher. While in a kneeling position preparing to fire in the heavy vehicle, Private Towle was mortally wounded by a mortar shell. By his heroic intrepidity at the price of his life, Private Towle saved the lives of many of his comrades and was directly instrumental in breaking up the enemy counterattack. Hospital Bill Cut For Readmission

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Eligible service dependents permitted to civilian hospitals within 14 days after discharge because of complication of the condition for which they were originally hospitalized now need pay only $1.75 daily, provided they paid at least $2 for a previous admission.

The new policy was announced by the Defense Department in the latest change to the Medical Care Program.

Under the revision if a patient had his tonsils removed, was hospitalized for two days, paid the hospital $25, or more and within two weeks after release, re-entered the institution for difficulties arising from the original tonsillectomy, it will cost the family only $1.75 a day, providing, of course, bills other than those authorized by Medicare are not made.

Substantial benefits will accrue to service dependents in the past were frequently re-admitted two or three times for recurring complications with each admission costing $25.

Chaplains Prepare Christmas Baskets

The Infantry Center Chaplain's Section at Fort Benning is preparing Christmas baskets to be distributed to needy families Dec. 23.

The project is sponsored annually by the Chaplain's Section as an activity for all Fort Benning personnel to share in the true spirit of Christmas. Funds from the Fort Benning Community Activities Association are allocated to cover the cost of materials.

Infantry Center units participating in the program are Lawson Army Air Field Command, the 5th Medical Group, the U.S. Army Hospital, the 151st Engineer Group, the School Brigade, Special Troops Command, the U.S. Army Infantry Board, the Second Battalion, 14th Infantry and the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry.

Approximately 100 baskets will be filled with such items as ham, fruit, soup, vegetables, rice, macaroni, cheese, eggs, shortening, bread, flour, sugar, coffee, milk, cocoa, puddings, cake mixes, syrup, jellies, fresh fruits and nuts.

Members of the various paratrooper units will assist the Chaplain's Section in distributing the baskets. Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Ralph E. Harrell, Infantry Center chaplain, is the project officer.

Order Hears Major Naqvi This Evening

Pakistan Army Major Syed Ali Zamin Naqvi, a student at Fort Benning's Infantry School, will speak at tonight's meeting of the Columbus Chapter of the Military Order of the World Wars.

The event will begin at 7 p.m. in the Main Officers' Mess at Fort Benning.

Major Naqvi will be graduated from the Infantry School's 31-week officers advanced class Dec. 20.

He has a bachelor of arts degree from Allahabad University and a master of arts degree from Osmania University, Hyderabad.

A 1943 graduate of the Indian Military Academy, he was initially assigned as a signal officer. He has served as a company commander, brigade major (plans and operations officer) and executive officer of an Infantry battalion.

Major Naqvi completed the Command and Staff College at Quetta in 1953.

Chaplains Set Film Series Starting Sun.

The Infantry Center Chaplains Section at Fort Benning will initiate a series of religious films at the regular Sunday evening worship service in the Main Protestant Chapel at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 29.

Produced in color, the films will present the story of "The Book of Acts" at each Sunday evening program from Dec. 29 through March 2.

The schedule of program and film titles are as follows: Dec. 29, "Called With Power"; Jan. 5, "A Faithful Witness"; Jan. 12, "Light From Heaven"; Jan. 19, "The Respector of Persons"; Jan. 26, "God's Care of His Own"; Feb. 2, "Every Christian a Missionary"; Feb. 9, "Salvation and Christian Fellowship"; Feb. 16, "What Must I Do To Be Saved"; Feb. 23, "Witness Before a King"; and March 2, "Triumphant."

Jordan Sets Appearance

Louis Jordan and his Typing Five will appear at Fort Benning's Main Theater at 7 p.m. Jan. 4.

Jordan, a nationally-known performer, will present a program which exhibits his uncanny ability to combine singing and clowning.

This talent has made him a favorite in night clubs, ballrooms and theaters throughout the country.

Dictating his own arrangements, Jordan has been acclaimed by leading critics and technicians of jazz as a skilled musician of great instrumental range. He is a close student of trends and has a program which blends from ballad and novelties to rock 'n' roll.

Each set is limited to four minutes. Individuals may compete in only one class.

SWAMPY EXHIBITS
The holiday exiles swamped Fort Benning and Columbus transportation facilities. Sixty-four buses carrying 2,300 personnel left the Sand Hill area between midnight and 12:30 a.m. Dec. 20. ## Post to Greet '58 With Many Gone

Fort Benning will usher in the New Year minus some 6,000 troops spending the holidays at their homes.

Approximately 6,000 service men and women left on or about Dec. 20 to celebrate Christmas at home. Most of them are scheduled to return before Jan. 1 to enable an additional 6,000 to greet 1958 at their homes.

HALF DAY OFF

In addition to Dec. 25 and Jan. 1, Fort Benning civilian and military personnel will have half day holidays beginning at noon Dec. 24 and Dec. 31, according to an executive order from President Eisenhower.

Only personnel whose services are essential to maintenance, protective, security or other critical activities will serve on duty at those times.

For those personnel spending New Year's at the post, the Infantry Center's Services section has planned various activities. Service clubs will be open from 1 to 10 p.m. daily through Jan. 5, except for New Year's Eve when the clubs will be open until 12 midnight.

TALENT CONTEST

The Infantry Center Holiday Season Talent Contest will be conducted in two phases. Preliminary contests will be held at Service Clubs 1, 2 and 3 starting at 8:30 p.m. on Dec. 28. Winners of these contests will meet in the finals at Service Club 1 at 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 5.

All military personnel at Fort Benning are eligible to enter the contest. Competition will be conducted in five classes: vocal soloist, instrumental soloist, individual speciality, vocal group not more than four members, instrumental group not more than five members.

Each set is limited to four minutes. Individuals may compete in only one class.

Class Hears General Rich At Graduation

The new concept under the Army's Pentomic organization of dispersion and regrouping places greater responsibility on the battlefield officer, the deputy director for Army military personnel management told student officers at Fort Benning.

Brig. Gen. Charles W. Rich spoke to 362 graduates of the Infantry School's basic officers classes No. 2 and 3 Dec. 14. 2nd Lt. Ernest A. Simon and 2nd Lt. Robert T. Rawls were honor graduates.

Gen. Rich said he had conducted with 27 graduates of the basic course to gather information on the problems that new graduates may face.

Foremost, these officers pointed out that the integrity and leadership of the officer is more important than ever, he added.

"Profit from mistakes in tactical problems," he advised. Officers can profit from experience of non-commissioned officers and should be willing to learn from NCO's, Gen. Rich continued.

Hickey

Thank You For Continuing speaker told the graduates. Gen. Hickey warned that "Communism where it has been successful has robbed man of liberty, honor, dignity and took care of every objective and any moral restraint."

Must Preserve Freedom — "We must preserve freedom or do not surrender our freedom by failing to exercise a discipline that is aimed and unselfish restraint. The military virtues of bravery, chivalry and stamina must not be replaced with self-interest as each of us is dependent on the honor and integrity of his comrades," he stressed.

The three-star general noted that there is no counterpart in civilian life for the concentration of executive, administrative and judicial power in one individual found in the military.

"This hierarchy is necessary because in a military unit one man alone is responsible to his superiors for his men's success or failure. He must maintain his authority and will felt by each individual in his unit," he added.

Standards — "It is fidelity to the standards of this code that makes command and leadership mean the same thing," the speaker said. "We must guard the history and tradition of our officer corps. Those who do not meet its standards must be replaced. Those who do not meet them in peacetime will not suddenly acquire them in combat, and the military commander in combat must display moral as well as physical courage."

Honor graduates of the class were Capt. Solomon L. Hay Jr., who will join the staff and faculty of The Infantry School; Capt. James H. Steel, who has been assigned to Fort Jackson, S. C. He was runner-up for academic honors in the group.

At Fort Holabird Officers Offered Intelligence Course

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS — A seven-week G-2 intelligence Air Officer Course is now being established at Fort Holabird, Md., Headquarters U.S. Continental Army Command recently announced.

The statement was made by Col. L. D. Bothwell, G-2, CONARC, who said the first class is scheduled to begin Jan. 6.

According to the Public Information Division at Fort Moore, Va., the school is designed to provide trained personnel required to develop the Army's target location program and will give added impetus to air reconnaissance as a primary source of intelligence in combat.

The course is sub-divided into six instructional areas: General Intelligence; G-2 Air Operations; Aerial Reconnaissance Planning; Target Selection and Analysis; Photo Interpretation; and Field Army Corps and Division Level Organization Tactics and Operations.

During the first seven-week session, 25 field grade officers will learn air reconnaissance through a media of conferences, training films, and practical exercises. Subsequent G-2 Air Officer classes will include 25 students each with one such class yearly.

Col. Bothwell said, "The improvements made in our weapons systems have dictated a requirement for the rapid, accurate and intelligent collection of enemy target information."

The emphasis being placed on the use of Army aviation in air reconnaissance, the assignment of helicopter-borne patrol and organization of combat surveillance units have given the G-2 Air added responsibility requiring close coordination in the planning effort of this intelligence collection course at Fort Benning. The G-2 Air as a plunger Colonel explained, "The role of the commander on the most efficient employment of all air reconnaissance means within the Army in the field has demonstrated the need for the G-2 Air Course."

"World War II and the Korean Conflict have both been a source for trained G-2 Air Officers, and at the present time, a critical shortage exists. This new program will produce the formally trained personnel needed to adequately perform the G-2 Air function for the Army in the field."

Routed Redcoats

Cottonbalers Mark New Orleans Battle on Jan. 8

Plans are being laid for a full program of events on Cottonbaler Day, Jan. 8, when the Seventh Infantry will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Regiment's participation in the Battle of New Orleans.

The Seventh Infantry, the most decorated infantry in the U.S. Army, was famed in the Battle of New Orleans and won its nickname of the "Cotton Baler" regiment. Using cotton bales as breastworks, the Seventh Infantrymen shot down hundreds of "Redcoats" as the American forces of General Andrew Jackson badly defeated the British in 1815. Since that battle the men of the 7th have been known as "Cotton Balers" and wear a remembrance of that victory a cotton bale upon their regimental emblems.

An open house will follow dedication including a tour of the city hill barracks, tank and armored personnel carrier rides and lunch in unit messes. There will also be field kitchen, aid station and historical displays.

At their Kelly Hill location a cotton bale within a pagoda sits in front of the Seventh Infantry Headquarters. Symbolic of the Seventh "willing and able" tradition, the bale was presented by General Maxwell D. Taylor in Korea, 1954, on behalf of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange. The

OC Served Eisenhower In Post-War Germany

A Brooklyn-born boy of German parents, who joined the Hitler Youth Organization in Germany during World War II and later served in the Junior Dwight D. Eisenhower's household, has completed the Infantry School officer candidate course at Fort Benning.

He is Ralph G. Egenmaier, formally assigned to the 1st Company, Fifth Student Battalion of the School Brigade. Egenmaier was born in 1920 in Brooklyn, N. Y. In December, 1938, at the age of nine, he traveled to Germany to visit his grandparents. He was still there in 1939 when World War II erupted. The German government refused to let him leave the country, declaring him a German citizen having been born of German parents. His mother went to Germany to look after young Egenmaier and his sister who had gone with him. The boy entered school, but in April, 1939, was sent to Hitler Youth organization.

Egenmaier progressed from the Hitler Youth to the German Youth Organization and chose the German Navy as his formal assignment. He was called to military duty at the age of 15 when he was assigned to the Hitler Youth being trained for military service, even though, he says, he was in the Navy list. He was all either sunk or bottled up in various ports throughout the world, he added.

The end of the war found him in southern Germany where the French captured him and other youths thinking the boys were put on farms to work.

As soon as train service started again, Egenmaier and several of his friends hopped a freight for home in Frankfurt.

Both Egenmaier, who actually was an American citizen, and his mother, who knew English and could cook American dishes, were recommended for jobs in Gen. Eisenhower's household.

Egenmaier waited on table when such notables as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Gen. Omar Bradley, Gen. George Patton and others were guests at Eisenhower.

Ed. Center Gives Chance for 8th Grade Education

Some 375 men of the Third Infantry Division who have not completed eighth grade educational work will receive the opportunity to obtain a certificate of eighth grade completion through the Division's Education Center.

In order to reduce the number of men who have not reached the eighth grade level, the Education Center is instituting a program to administer the Eighth Grade General Educational Development Test to these men.

The administration of these tests, which cover language arts, arithmetic, elementary American history, geography, and physical science, requires two full days.

Camera to Shoot Atom Reactions

WASHINGTON, (ANSI) — A camera shutter so fast it makes shooting photographs at the rate of one exposure in five billionths of a second possible, has been developed under an Army contract. It should be especially valuable in helping solve problems of a scientific nature such as high-speed shock waves, explosives and explosions, and certain nuclear reactions.

Scouting for Older Boys

(Editor's Note: The following article on Explorer Scouts at Fort Benning was written by Capt. John V. Szymanski, custodian of Youth Activities Club.)

Exploring is the older-boy program of the Boy Scouts of America. It is a program for all young men 14 years of age or older, regardless of whether or not they have been Boy Scouts.

Exploring is for you: If you like the clean, adventurous outdoor life; if you enjoy the company of other fellows and girls at parties, picnics, or other social affairs; if you wonder what your life work will be and want to explore the possibilities around you; if you want to do something new about your citizenship responsibilities—then you'll like the Explorer program.

The range of activities in Exploring is wide—as wide as the imagination of the young men who plan and carry out the events. With the help of an understanding adult, the Explorer program is designed to provide leadership opportunities to all who take part in its fullest.

In order to meet the needs and interest of young men, the Youth Activities Club sponsors several Explorer programs at Fort Benning. In the Main Post Explorer Post 27 has an active program for the young men in this section of the reservation. Post 27 meets every Tuesday at the Scout cabin behind Russ Pool.

For the young men who reside in the Custer Terrace-Battle Park area, Post 37 offers an excellent Explorer program. This unit meets every Thursday evening at the Custer Terrace Boy Scout hut, located just off Craig Court.

Troop 10, which meets every Wednesday evening at the Benning Park Scout house, also has an excellent program available to those who reside in that area.

The adults who devote their time and service in order that those young men are given the opportunity to become tomorrow's citizens and tomorrow's leaders in number. Those who stand behind the scenes of Fort Benning's Explorer program include the following:

- Col. Harry C. McClain, institutional representatives
- Col. E. C. Coffin, chairman
- Pvt. William Donovan, Explorer advisor
- Post 37:
- Capt. Lauren M. Mooney, chairman
- Capt. E. D. Rozicki, Explorer advisor
- Troop 10:
- M-Sgt. E. Oatley, chairman
- Sp3 Bob Wulff, acting explorer advisor

All three of those units provide an excellent opportunity for young men who desire to be Explorers in the Boy Scouts of America. Those who are interested and wish to join either of the above mentioned organizations may contact the Scouting section, Youth Activities Club for additional information. Also, those adults who would like to assist in either unit, may contact the Scouting section or the leaders in charge of the respective units.

Test of Courage

It doesn't always take a battlefield to test a man's courage.

Men can become heroes when death threatens, but they can reveal themselves as cowards under many less threatening conditions.

Cowardice can break down a military organization in peace as well as in war.

An easily recognized species of the peacetime coward is the man who consistently ducks the responsibilities that go with his job. The stakes aren't big, nothing like life and death—but he makes it his life's work to seek out the blame whenever there's a chance he might be blamed, justly or unjustly, for a mistake.

Often, he won't even stick his neck out to take credit when credit is coming his way. He plays it safe—at the expense of morale and organization.

Unseen Is Now Reality for Man

BY CHAPLAIN (Capt.) LINCOLN B. BAYNE

In 1871 Herschel discovered Uranus. A little over 100 years ago Leverrier in France and Adams in England noticed strange influences tugging at Uranus and discovered Neptune, even before they could see it. In our day Percival Lowell noticed that another planet was tugging at Uranus and discovered Pluto. He saw Pluto mathematically before there was even a telescope in existence large enough to see it. He believed in the reality of the unseen so completely that he built an observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., for the purpose of finding a planet he could not see, a planet that human eye did not see until its own calculations discovered it.

Today many people look into the sky to see spinning and colorful, dust-to-dust-dead, naval battle between a U. S. destroyer and a German submarine.

Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?, a mature comedy in color with Joyce Masford, Tony Randall, Betsy Drake and Joan Blondell. The hilarious satire involving a movie star and an advertising executive which proves that Hollywood and Madison Avenue are miles apart.

Back To Town, a re-release of the family drama featuring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney. A sentimentalized, real life efforts of Father Flanagan to save boys from the evils of crime through the co-operation of the young citizens.

By faith Moses foretold Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he had been, as seeing him who is invisible, he could not see, a planet that human eye did not see until its own calculations discovered it.

The Judge Says . . .

During the past month our legal assistance officer has received several inquiries from various landlords in Columbus in regard to service members departing this station without settling their rental accounts. The hundred matter is one which continually plagues our office. The following case is illustrative of a typical dispute between Landlord and Tenant.

Lieutenant Rollin Stone rented a house from Mr. Gethers. Kato Moss without an written agreement or oral agreement except that the rent would be $50 each month. There was no mention of how long Stone would occupy the house. There was no stipulation of how much, if any, notice Moss should receive in order to vacate and tenant would lose of income.

Rollin Stone lived in the house almost two months when he was discharged from the Army. This was three days before the end of the month. Mr. Moss immediately claimed Stone must pay the next month's rent because he had given no notice. Stone claimed nothing was mentioned about any notice when he moved in and that he didn't intend to pay an extra month's rent or any rent for a house he was not occupying.

Since both parties are partially right in their positions but are short on the law, we will let's examine their respective rights. The Statutes of Georgia provide that where the law does not provide for a particular case, the court may make such order as it deems just and equitable.

There is no agreement to the contrary, either written or oral, a tenant is required to give his landlord 30 days notice prior to vacating. It is also provided that the landlord must give his tenant 60 days notice to vacate. The statute does not provide that a tenant must pay for 30 days irrespective of whether or not the agreement is subsequently nullified. Nor does it provide he must pay any sum in advance before moving.

The law does provide that where a landlord is unable to rent the premises after reasonable effort to do so, during all or a part of the 30 day notice period, the tenant must pay proportionately for the premises vacated.

Some services members assume that when they receive a short notice from the Army to move pursuant to military orders they are required to give their landlords no greater notice. This is an incorrect assumption. One must actually enter into an agreement substantially to this effect; in the event tenant receives PES orders, he shall be required to give notice to vacate in excess of 30 days in order to avoid the penalty given him by the Army. In order to avoid the 30 day notice required, the tenant must post notice in advance to avoid the misunderstanding of Rollin Stone and Gethers Kato Moss is to enter into a written lease for a suitable premises setting forth the desired stipulations of the parties.

Concert Slates de Falla's Work Tuesday Night

The recorded concert at the Main Post Benning Library Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. will feature "The Three Corned Hat" by Manuel de Falla. Manuel de Falla has created a genuine nationalistic music for his country. He was born in Cordiz in 1876. He later went to Paris where, he met Debussy. That was the most important event in his creative life. The beauty and the spell of the French composer, absorbing the ideas of impressionism which were in influence all his major works thereafter.

The ballet, "The Three Corned Hat," produced by Diaghilev in 1919, brought the composer international fame. Falla's music represents the finest and most effective use of the Spanish idiom.

Famous Last Words: "If He Won't Dim His Headlights, I Won't Dim Mine!"

Infantry Board Observes 38 Years in December

The Infantry Board this month observed 38 years of development and testing laboratory for improving the infantry.

It was established at Fort Benning on Dec. 15, 1919. Col. Henry B. Kunzig, president of the unit, spoke on the accomplishments of the board during the past year at an observance ceremony. The affair was followed with a program of festive events.

Each department is composed of approximately six officers and a staff of approximately 40 enlisted men.

Small Arms Work
The Small Arms Department deals with new equipment, including all shoulder-fired weapons except rocket and recoilless rifles, machine guns, ammunition accessories, firing aids and maintenance tools and equipment for these items.

Lt. Col. Averill Is Marine Liaison Officer at Board

Lt. Col. Gerald P. Averill, Marine Liaison Officer at the Infantry Board, received his appointment to that rank, effective Dec. 1, 1957. Col. Averill, a native of Linerick, Me., enlisted in the Marine Corps, Aug. 11, 1944. He attended Parachute and Ranger Schools prior to OCS at Quantico Marine Base, Va., and was commissioned a 2nd Lt. on Dec. 16, 1942.

During World War II, Col. Averill served as platoon leader, 2nd Marine Parachute Battalion, in three major campaigns of the South Pacific during the Korean Conflict. He served as operations officer of the First Division, Second Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment.

His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit with Combat V, Bronze Star with Combat V, Letter of Commendation with Combat V, Purple Heart, and Navy Presidential Unit Citation.

He joined the Infantry Board in June, 1956.

with rockets and recoilless anti-tank weapons and grenades, special anti-personnel weapons and flat trajectory weapons other than those assigned to the Small Arms Department.

Mortar Department
The field of responsibility assigned to the Mortar Department covers Infantry mortars and other high angle curved trajectory weapons, fire control equipment and battlefield surveillance equipment.

The Field Equipment and Special Projects Department works with clothing, equipment and protective devices for the individual, small detachment and individual rations, field mess kits, chemical mess kits and their accessories.

A field section of the board, the Analysis and Control Department, is the principal staff agency for research and development, operational matters, it analyzes and reviews development and test papers.

Work Areas

Most of the planning and projecting of the board's work takes place in Building No. 56, the third quartet. The major portion of the actual test work is accomplished at Sandy Patch Development and Test Area, Pond No. 3 and Farnsworth and Lee Field Ranges.

By keeping up with the latest technological developments and tactical concepts, the board continues to accomplish its mission of looking to the improvement of the Infantry and lives up to its motto: "Only the Best for the Finest."

Col. Kunzig Heads Infantry Bd.

Col. Henry B. Kunzig comes from an Infantry family. His two younger brothers are both Infantry officers. His military background includes tours of duty with the 12th Infantry as a company officer, with the 21st Infantry as a company commander, and during World War II, duty with the Eight Infantry Division as a battalion commander. Col. Kunzig has also been an instructor at the Military Academy and at the Infantry School.

With that background of Infantry experience, he fits the requirements of president of the Infantry Board, which assures the infantryman only the best equipment.

Col. Kunzig arrived at Fort Benning and the Infantry Board in November, 1956. In reviewing the highlights of Board activities for the past year, he also reviewed the events of his first year as its president.

In a short talk to the officers and men of the Infantry Board on the 38th anniversary of the Board's organization, he remarked that the unglamorous and monotonous pick and shovel type work of conducting tests often seems to pass unrecognized — yet it forms the basis for adoption of items

Area Cleared Of Horses For Missiles

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M.—Lasso-wielding cowboys rounding up wild horses — electronic-age soldiers tracking deadly missiles. Both are authentic activities here, seemingly anachronistic but actually connected.

Teams of cowboys ride the range here looking for trespassers who might wander into the dangerous missile impact areas. "Trespassers" might be stray cattle, wild horses, or people.

In the past two years the four range riders have rounded up some 200 horses, about 75 of them wild ones. Captured horses are turned over to the New Mexico Cattle Sanctuary in Truth or Consequences, where they are put up for sale.

Frequently camping overnight on the trail, the cowboys have a more comfortable base of operations in a ranch-style stone house, with a swimming pool, some 80 miles uprange at the foot of the San Andres Mountains.

It is to this corral that they drive the horses, herding them along the rugged, rocky desert terrain.

In the initial roundup of the herd, however, they frequently get an air-age assist. A blue-jacketed cowboy and an Army pilot go aloft in a Sioux helicopter and head for the usual wild horse home area some 75 miles north of the proving ground's main missile launching site.

There, the other cowboys stand vigil, their horses adried, ready to vault into pursuit as soon as the helicopters drive the horses into view on the vast desert wasteland.

While the cowboys ride the range, they are alert to spot the remains of exploded missiles for later recovery by crews of soldiers. It is important to research and development engineers to study and analyze the remaining bits and pieces. (ANF)

Deer Proved Not Dear At Md. Proving Ground

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md.—Authorities here are looking nature hard to discourage.

The deer population—an estimated 300 — on this military reservation is four times what it should be for the available forage, despite the best-laid schemes for humane conservation applied since 1933 by military officials and by state game wardens.

In their ever-widening search for food, the deer leave the uninhabited areas to seek forage on surrounding farms and along roadways and airstrips on the post. This results not only in substantial crop loss, but in serious hazard to life and property. Many accidents involving automobiles and at least one involving an airplane have been caused by the errant deer.

Starting in 1958, more than each year and released in other parts of the state. When this failed to reduce the herd to a size consistent with available forage, permission was given in 1953 by the Maryland State Game and Inland Fish Commission for an annual four-week hunting program.

Sgt. Enjoys Career Sharing Alpine Skill

FORT GREENLY, Alaska—As Sgt. John R. Callahan looked down the sheer 60-foot cliff, turned, and stepped backwards into space. His feet hit the rock wall three times as he descended. On the ground he turned, and said:

"Gentlemen, that is the stuff. Four seasoned instructors will now take you to your areas for practice."

As Callahan cooled his climb, the Army's Cold Weather and Mountain School limbs up its groups and headed for the rocks. In an hour all had roped Callahan's swooping measure with varying degrees of speed and proficiency. But they had all rappelled down the cliff.

Like the other instructors, most of whom are enlisted men, Callahan, 31, is adept at all north country skills. But his great love is the mountains, and he has been teaching how to climb up and down their perilous heights for nine years.

That goes back to 1948 when the school started as the Army Arctic Instruction School and Callahan was a fairly new Army private after three years as a Navy Seabee. He's been at the school ever since. Ex-

Enjoys

Thank You For Containing military skiing, both cross-country and downhill; snowshoeing, use of the Army's camping and bivouac (that includes digging and living in snow caves), winter fortifications, and all other phases of living and fighting in the arctic and subarctic cold.

There is a short pause during the spring weather break-up when instructors review lesson plans and teaching methods and check out the mountain gear, boats, motors and other equipment.

Then they are divided into what amounts to two schools. Callahan is in the group which instructs in rock and mountain climbing and the critical art of moving up and across glaciers. The other crew teaches river and inland waterways techniques.

Callahan, who came originally from Waterloo, Iowa, is like most of the instructors at Fort Benning. He prefers that he be doing to any other military assignment.

"I jumped at the chance to come back here," he says of his few months in the States. A lean, quiet-eyed soldier, he likes the isolation away from towns — "you've got a challenge here that lots of people haven't got," is the way he puts it.

THIRD ARMY FIELD PRINTING PLANT AT FORT BENNING Named Kiner Building in Honor of MH Winner

Plant Named Kiner Bldg. For Private

(Editor's Note: According to recent findings at Fort Benning, many buildings on post are not being referred to by correct names. This is the final in a series of pictures of buildings which are named after Medal of Honor winners. The Third Army Field Printing Plant at Ft. Benning is named Kiner Building in honor of Pvt. Harold G. Kiner, who won the nation's highest combat award during action in Germany during World War II.)

Private Harold G. Kiner, Army serial number 58,407,079, Company F, 117th Infantry, with four other men, was leading in a frontal assault, 2 October, 1944, on a Siegfried Line pillbox near Palsberg, Germany. Machine gun fire from the strongly defended enemy position twenty-five yards away pinned down the attackers. The Germans threw hand grenades, one of which dropped between Private Kiner and two other men. With no hesitation, Private Kiner hurled himself upon the grenade, smothering the explosion. By his gallant action and valor, he saved his two comrades from serious injury or death. (Awarded May 14, 1945.)

Ability Is Only Start In Language School

WASHINGTON—With Army personnel stationed in more than 70 countries throughout the world, the job of winning friends and influencing people speaking languages ranging from Arabic to Vietnamese has resulted in the organization of a four-year foreign area specialist training program that has mushroomed in size and scope as U. S. commitments abroad have grown.

Often called FAST, the program is conducted in areas where the Russian, Chinese, Japanese, Greek, Turkish, Arabic, Persian and Hindustani languages predominate.

Years ago the Army considered itself lucky if the military attaché to a foreign country under this program are just beginning when they've mastered the tongue during a year at the Army Language School, Presidio of Monterey, Calif.

From the Language School the FAST students go to civilian universities for about ten months. Arabic students, for example, who get their field training in Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, American University in Beirut.

Pvt. and Sgt. Company 14th Infantry, played host to Santa Claus last week on an early visit to the unit. To greet Santa were 100 children of 14th members at the company mess hall and gymnasium.

The mess hall was decorated for Christmas, including a 10-foot tree.

Lt. John D. Stein, special services officer of 14th Infantry, was in charge of arrangements.

Pfc Gerald Hammond, Ho Bury, Second FA Bn., 102d Artillery entertained the children with his tricks of black magic.

Also, cartoons were shown in the company dayroom for the children.

When Santa arrived, the children were served ice cream and cake and fruit as they took turns telling Santa what they wanted for Christmas.

Sp2 Harris Reenlists as Cook, Prepared Meal for Roosevelt

Sp2 Henry E. Harris, first cook in Co A, 490th Engineer Battalion, has reenlisted for his last hitch which will more than complete his 20 years of service.

Specialist Harris entered the Army in 1939 and was assigned as a cook to the 21st Infantry at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii.

Before entering service he was given the honor of preparing a meal for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt at New Found Gap, N. C. in 1955.

In 1944, Specialist Harris was stationed at Belfast, Ireland, with the second Infantry Division and later took part in the invasion of Normandy. He was taken prisoner of war at the Battle of the Bulge by the Panzer Division and remained a prisoner from Dec. 17, 1944, until May, 1945.

Specialist Harris claims that among his assignments as a cook, his hardest tasks were getting food to the troops at the front lines.

Specialist Harris has attended mess sergeant, meat cut-

Eternal Vigilance Called Job of Today's Soldier

The Infantry soldier's job in today's uneasy world lies in the old saying "Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom." Major Gen. Lionel G. McGarr, commander of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., said at Fort Benning recently.

A 1948 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, Gen. McGarr spoke at graduation exercises of the Infantry School's class at Fort Benning's Main Theater.

"When our earnest efforts to keep peace may have proven fruitless and the fury of war may break to fight and to win using the new operational and logistic concepts in the progress of your careers is the immutable obligation of our profession," he told the class of approximately 368 students.

Before speaking of operational phases of soldiering, Gen. McGarr emphasized an intangible element believed to be of the highest importance.

"Beyond the realm of cut and thrust, the soldier must be a professional," he told the class.

"You must continue to improve your moral value. A true leader can never hope to do his full duty without faith in himself and the courage to live by the highest standards of morality, performance of duty and personal integrity," Gen. McGarr stated.

In the operational phase of a career, Gen. McGarr pointed out the great conceptual and crucial revolution in the application of the art of war. Since finite answers cannot be handed out on silver platters, knowledge gained in the operational side of our profession has just completed a guide for further study and evaluation in the light of current and future concepts and weapons improvements; be emphasized to the officers.

As a final recommendation, Gen. McGarr said, "Think big—go forward break through the wall of lethargy and place the false front of the status quo."

New Officers Face More Responsibility

New officers will face greater responsibilities under the Army's current personnel situation, Major Gen. Paul A. Disney, commanding general of Army Armor Training center at Fort Knox, Ky., told a graduating class of officers at Fort Benning recently.

A veteran of more than 30 years service, Gen. Disney gave the graduation address at the school's officer candidate class No. 6 at Fort Benning's Main Theater. Ninety-nine candidates received their gold bars as second lieutenants. Gen. Disney also made the presentation of diplomas.

"Since many of our units all types are at reduced strength, both in officers and non-commissioned officers, as new officers you will find yourselves in assignments of greater responsibilities before you have had the 'seasoning process' which young officers usually undergo. It will require the utmost in your leadership training to gain maximum ad-aptitude from personnel in an acceptable fashion — both to you and to them," Gen. Disney pointed out.

In preparing to cope with the new situation ahead, Gen. Disney emphasized several factors:

"Establish high standards for yourself and your subordinates rather than accept low standards simply because they have been set up before you. Adhere to the rules that govern your status as an officer. You cannot be a leader and a 'head-dy' at the same time," he stated.

A new officer must take advantage of every opportunity to learn all that is worthwhile from his subordinates who may be more experienced, the general stated.

Since Early Times New Year's Marked By Mixture of Rites

Although the New Year is celebrated on Jan. 1 in most parts of the world, some parts retain their old traditions. From ancient times New Year's Day has been marked by a mixture of merriment and solemnity.

The early Egyptians, Chinese, Romans, Jews and Mohammedans all differed as to the time from which to reckon the beginning of the year.

Learn the rules and customs by which military and civilian leaders govern their daily social contacts and use these "social graces," he stated.

Honor graduates of the class was David J. White who was assigned to the Second Armored Division at Fort Hood, Texas, after completing airborne training at Fort Benning.

BEFORE AND AFTER... Less than three weeks of work by men of the 40th Company, Fourth Student Battalion, The School Brigade, on their own time, brought about the miraculous change shown above. An unused and battered storage building was turned into one of the most modern and attractive mess halls in the Brigade.

Unused Storage Building Changed Into Modern Mess Hall at TSB

"Necessity is the mother of invention" seems to be the motto of the enlisted cadre and students of the 40th Company, Fourth Student Battalion, The School Brigade. Within a period of less than three weeks, these men working on their own time, have transformed an unused and battered storage building into one of the most modern and attractive mess halls in The School Brigade.

The project was originated because the existing messing facilities, although adequate, were three quarters of a mile from the company area. After obtaining permission and help from the project from the Engineers, the men, under the supervision of Sgt. Keith Lewis, set to work on Nov. 11, with hopes of eating Thanksgiving dinner in the new building.

The existing wall, ceiling, and floor had to be patched and plastered Thanksgiving morning by Brigade and prepared before any interior decoration could begin. With the help of Post Engineers and parts of six old stoves, a new efficient range was assembled within a few days. A completely new set of lighting fixtures was also installed. Other kitchen appliances, including a dishwasher, were taken from the old mess hall and a new and more convenient tray and cup rack was installed near the door.

The light and cheerful atmosphere of the new mess stems largely from its unified mode of interior decoration. With an eye for both beauty and serviceability, the men chose blue and brown and carried this motif throughout the carpentry, wallpaper, and tablecloths. Stained wood paneling was used on the lower part of the walls.

The results of the hard work of the men was viewed on and through Thanksgiving morning by Brig-

Flight Safety Engineers Keep Missiles Home On The Range

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M.—The men who misbehaving missiles don't compromise with safety. Because of the quick-thinking actions of the Missile Flight Surveillance Office more than 5000 missile firings since 1947 have resulted in no deaths or property damage on or off the range.

Headed by Nate Wagner, the Missile Flight Surveillance Officer, a team of 50 men who don't claim to be infallible but who do not make the same mistake twice, has destroyed several hundred missiles in flight. In May, 1947, a modified V-2 went wild and landed in flight. They point out that although the number seems high, the destroyed missiles are test items in process of development, as White Sands is primarily a research and test installation.

Missile flight safety is a new field and Wagner and his men have had to write the book as they went along, designing and installing equipment based on their own experiments. It also takes courage and confidence, they have found, to flick a switch ending the flight of a missile representing thousands of dollars in equipment and research.

Two early incidents pointed the need for halting missiles in flight. In May, 1947, a modified V-2 went wild and landed in flight. Later the same year a V-2 wandered off to the vicinity of Alamogordo, N.M. Fortunately there were no casualties in either case.

These instances, however, emphasized the sobering fact that casualties could have resulted.

About this time New Mexico State College agreed to provide and operate, under guidance of Proving Ground personnel, a system to prevent a missile from over-leaping the range boundaries. In 1949 the technical operation of the range safety system was assumed by Proving Ground personnel.

Each missile launched at the Integrated Range, whether an Army, Navy, or Air Force project, must satisfy the safety requirements of the Flight Surveillance Office.

Any missile capable of leaving the range must be equipped with a flight safety system, either a built-in part of the missile itself or a specially-built "safety package" provided by Flight Surveillance.

Flight surveillance personnel keep an eye on a missile's flight by studying its movement on a plotting board. Radar tracking a missile feeds back data which is converted by special computers to an automatic plotting board equipped with a map of the entire 100-mile range, marked with the "safe" area for a missile flight.

A pen moving over this board duplicates the movement of the missile while another corresponds to the path of the drone target. When the two lines meet a bit is indicated.

Flight Surveillance pilots in advance the expected flight path.

Dr. Hans J. Magens, a veterinarian with the Army Civil Administration of the Ryukyu Islands working to improve strains of livestock, is a herpetologist by avocation. Coordinating with Norman D. King (Col. U.S.A.R.) of the Office of Chief of Civil Affairs and Military Government at the Postagon, he arranged for the dozen snakes to be shipped to the Washington Zoo.

Mario De Frato, head keeper of the reptile house, says the Okinawan snakes are among the fastest-striking he's ever seen and that they're got "awfully long fangs."

Biggest attraction to the three million people who visit the Washington Zoo annually is the reptile house, which on one good day clocked more than 11,000 visitors. (ANP) plain that perhaps missiles are being made too safe, resulting in improper functioning of other equipment. Wagner points out that no missile has failed to perform properly because of safety requirements of his office. (ANP)

CUTTING CORNERS

by Barbara Sue Richards

With the big holidays all around us, those lucky enough to have good china will be bringing it out for Christmas and New Year's entertaining.

Actually, though, china is one of the strongest ceramic products and doesn't have to be saved for special occasions. You can use your best china at least once a day and it will last several lifetimes—if taken care of properly.

The hot water and a mild soap to wash china and rinse in hot clear water. You can even put good china into a dishwasher providing the detergent used isn't too strong.

Never use scouring powder or steel wool on china as they can be harmful to the hand-painted or raised enamel patterns which give good china its distinctive look. For the china immediately as they, too, can damage the designs.

Always dry china with a clean soft cloth and, if you stack your dishes in a closet, make sure you separate each plate with either a paper napkin or wax paper to prevent scratching.

Another very important thing to watch out for is sudden changes in temperature. Chinaware expands and contracts with heat and cold so that a sudden change may cause it to crack.

During this period, too, you'll want to give your home a warm holiday feeling. Even if you don't have room for a tree, you can work wooders with some inexpensive crepe paper and ribbons. A few sprigs of holly greens and some tinzel ornaments on your front door will tell people, "Welcome! Come in, there's Holiday cheer inside."

And most important of all, don't forget the mistletoe.

IN REVIEW

books...

Pulitzer prize winner, James Gould Cozzens, has set himself up for bigger honors with his latest novel, By Love Possessed. It is not only the finest piece of fiction Mr. Cozzens has written but the best novel published in the last decade. Anyone who enjoys good reading can't afford to miss this book. (Harcourt, Brace, $5.)

movies...

The idea of making a movie out of Hendrik Van Zool's classic, The Story of Mankind, must have seemed like a natural. However, despite its star studded cast, Ronald Colman, Hedy Lamarr, the Marx Brothers, and Peter Lorre, to mention just a few, the picture lacks a clear-cut story line and is a big nothing. Cambridge Productions, who made the picture, thought they had a box office satellite on their hands. Actually it's more like a misguided missile.

"Eyes!... Front!"

"hobby horse"

If you have a little cowboy or cowgirl around the house, you can easily build a hobby horse so he or she can properly ride the range.

Remembering that each square on the diagram equals 1 square inch, draw two outlines of the horse's head on 1/4 inch thick wood. (Use some tempered plywood if preferable since it has a smooth grainless surface without sanding and is splinter-proof making it safe for children to handle.)

Use a scroll saw to cut out the heads and then laminate them together. Next cut an old broom stick to a length that can be teated by your child. Cut a slit on one end of the broom stick and insert the horse's head. A few 1/4 inch screws will keep it in place.

After you have primed and painted the hobby horse you can add the finishing touches. Drill a hole through the drawn bit in the mouth and insert some rope to be used as the reins.

DOTS AND FLASHES

If you attach a screen-door handle to one side of your step ladder, you'll be able to carry it as easily as a suitcase.

Make sure to screw the handle in the balance point of the ladder... Before starting awnings for the winter, sprinkle them with ordinary salt or tobacco to protect them against rot and mildew... If a light bulb breaks in the socket, just push a large cork in the broken end and then you can unscrew it without cutting your fingers... Ink spots from ball-point pens can be removed from shirts, or similar fabrics, by a quick rinse with clear water and a washing in warm soapsuds... You can become your local rainmaker. Just wash your car.
