Classes will be held at both Kelly Hill and the Sand Hill areas. Sixty students have enrolled at the Sand Hill Center and 30 have registered at Kelly Hill. Kelly Hill classes will begin later this month.

In a statement released to the members of the division Major Gen. R. H. Wienecke, commanding officer, expressed his desire that all non-commissioned officers and specialists in grade E-5 and above have at least a high school education.

Div. Alerts Personnel Against Fire Hazards

Second Infantry Division officials sounded a warning to all personnel this week that the danger of fire is on the increase with the coming of fall and the extremely dry conditions it brings, especially in forest areas.

Millions of dollars are lost annually in property and natural resources as the result of fires that begin by simple means, the tossing of a lighted cigarette from a car window, campfires left unattended to smoulder into ashes, or to flare again and ignite surrounding areas.

Costly, too, is the aftermath of fires in grasslands and wooded areas as topsoil is eroded away when natural protection is burned out.

Due to dryness of the autumn season and the susceptibility of wooden structures to fire in areas of the Second Division, Division officials pointed out that it is extremely important that all fire prevention measures be observed to the utmost.

If a fire should occur in any area, the person discovering it is advised to alert all personnel in the immediate area, sound the fire alarm, telephone the fire department giving name, unit, organization, location and location of fire. Then remain in the area to guide the fire trucks.

Gen. Dahlen Heads Div. Safety Council

By 2nd Div. PIO
 A meeting of the Second Infantry Division Safety Council was held Sept. 11 in the Division's Court Martial room.

Brig. Gen. Chester A. Dahlen, assistant division commanding general, made his first official appearance as chairman of the Safety Council since he assumed his new duties with the Second Division.

Sgt. Lawson will leave the Army Sept. 28.

BEST MESS . . . Major Gen. R. H. Wienecke presents the Best Mess award to SFC Porter T. Davis, mess steward of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, First Battle Group, 87th Infantry. The award for August was presented Sept. 8.

Drivers Bring Accident Drop

By 2nd Div. PIO — The army motor vehicle accident rate within the division was reduced considerably from July to August. The division safety officer, Capt. Thomas M. Valette, announced last week.

The division's motor vehicles experienced 411,393 miles of operation resulting in only one accident. The accident occurred by a driver backing his vehicle in a parking lot without a ground level, consequently striking a vehicle in his rear. The division safety officer states that the low accident rate is a good reflection on the drivers of the division.

WRONG DRIVER — A driver in Wilmington, Del., was fined $30 for drunken driving after he pulled into a brightly lit police station parking lot, tossed his horn, told a policeman he was there for curb service and ordered coffee and a hamburger.

The Lill Injun

BY SGT. WARREN A. KELSAY

SAFE DATE amid the wake of over 400 Labor Day fatalities was kept by Indianheads who mourned thousands of miles during the long week-end without a single major accident. Happy warriors turned in their passes Sept. 2, and were counted alive at reveille. Succeeding weekends had been equally safe and sane.

PENNIES TO HEAVEN were wafted by Division Chaplains last week in the form of a $200 check in favor of the American Bible Society. Chaplain Ingram forwarded the donation to the president of the society, Dr. Edward L. R. Ellison, Washington, D. C., who, incidentally, is Ike's pastor.

HORSE CENTS was displayed by pennywise M-Sgt. Bill V. Woods of the ninth Infantry when he was given the choice of a horse or money as the winner of the recent Hunt Club contest plugging the Special Service play, "The Men On A Horse." Sgt. Woods couldn't dig the horse with the current alfalfa shortage in supply rooms, but accepted $200 in lieu.

REIN REINS once more as the former Civil Air Patrol official dons civvy and clones the Army uniform, and became the basic trainee who was selected in the First Infantry as Company C's "Soldier of the Month." Touring Sweden as a member of the Air Patrol's exchange program, Pvt. Dennis J. Rein, then a lieutenant in the civil air patrol, was greeted by Sweden's King Gustav VI.

SPEAKING OF HORSES and kings, here's some cabbage hurled at modern, mechanized Frankentsteins who drink gasoline and burp torpedoes and litterly put in the pants. We dusted off an old 12th Artillery tabloid this week which was published at Fort Sam Houston in 1941, which struck a low blow at horse meat manufacturers as follows: "The United States has the best Army in its history, right now, and someday horses are going to make these mechanically minded soldiers eat their camps and gear."

INDIANHEAD SAYS "me smokin' honest cigarette with thinkum many filter and they are mild. 1st Inf. Co. Wins Best Co. Trophy
The first "Best Company" trophy brigade commander, presented the trophy and flag to Group was won by Company C, First Infantry. Col. Vincent M. Witter, deputy.

The selection was made for superiority in unit supply, mess training, proficiency testing, marksmanship, training inspections, physical and intelligence training, administration and personnel.

Company C made a total of 10 points out of a possible 60. Company A was runner up with 40 points. Col. Witter congratulated the officers and men of Company C for their achievement during the first eight-week training cycle.

11th Infantry Driver Chalks Up 160,000 Accident Free Miles

By 11th Inf. PIO — Specialist Robert N. Crumley, First Battle Group, 11th Infantry, has quite a record as a driver. He has racked up more than 160,000 accident free miles on two continents during his 12-year military career.

During World War II, Specialist Crumley served in the Canal Zone where he registered more than 40,000 miles of safe driving. He also has an outstanding record while serving with the 86th Infantry Regiment in occupied Germany in 1946 by adding some 40,000 accident-free miles to his own drive record.

Specialist Crumley has received awards, commendations and letters of appreciation from every major command to which he has been assigned.

The 11th Infantry has completed the first phase of its physical fitness testing. This phase of the testing was the beginning of what will be climaxed in the final week of training with units competing for the battle group rotating trophy. In the unit standing at the completion of the first round, Company C is at the top with an average of 254 points and in the individual standing Pvt. Harry E. Young, Company A, holds the number one position. He amassed a total of 623 points, scoring 100 points each in the pullup and sit-up tests.

The Battle Group soldier of the month for August was Specialist Pvt. Robert C. Leary, Company B, 11th Infantry, who was presented the trophy for his achievement and will represent the battle group in the division competition to be held Sept. 24.

Pvt. Russell Hendenshot, 215. Information Room Plaque for the outstanding appearance of the Troop Information Room. The 87th Infantry received their full contingent of trainees last week as Companies C, D, and Mortar Battery received 200 trainees each. They began their Basic Combat Training Sept. 18. Among the new trainees are men representing Brazil, Holland, Poland, Germany, Ireland, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Norway, Iran and several states in the U. S.

Col. William A. Purdy commanding officer, First Battle Group, 87th Infantry, announced last week that Sgt. Edward N. Ewell, Headquarters Company, had been chosen as battle group soldier of the month. He was chosen for his neatness, military bearing, knowledge of military subjects and current events. Sgt. Ewell was inducted into the Army Dec. 6, 1956, and received his basic training at Fort Dix, N. J.

Sgt. Ralph W. Franks has been named the new battalion motor sergeant. He recently transferred to Service Battery from Headquarters Battery.

Also newly assigned to the battalion shop is Pfc. James H. Stephens.

Pfc. Horace H. Brady has returned to the battery for two weeks training. Last summer he was assigned to the personnel section until his release to attend college.

Sgt. Jimmie L. Kennedy was recently married. Back from short leave, he and his bride will live in Pine City, Fla. Following Sgt. Kennedy to the air is Pfc. Robert M. Hume who will be married to Sgt. Grange, Ga., this week.

Taking advantage of the brief respite between the battery's artillery commitments, several men have gone home on leave. Among them are Pfc. Eugene L. Davis and Pfc. Edward L. Amannowicz. S-Sgt. Leland E. Scott has returned from New York with his family.

Continuing his line carpentry work for the battery, Pfc. Ronald W. Thompson has completed a sign-out stand for the orderly room. Designed for display as well as utility purposes, the stand will hold 500's and safety regulations, calling each man's attention to his conduct and appearance when he signs out on pass or leave.

Sr. Clarence Holland recently became the father of a baby girl. Six Holland has taken a six-day leave with his family.

Pvt. Ernest L. Smith, who recently joined Battery C, is holding the position of mechanic. Pvt. Smith's home is in Pine City, New York.

Sgt. Paul Calvert is on a 15-day leave and is planning to be married before returning.

Quemoy Strong, Brucker Reports

No U.S. troops are needed to defend Quemoy from attack by Communist China, Secretary of Army Wilber M. Brucker said at Fort Benning on closing day of Conference of Civilian Aides to Secretary of Army and Army Commanders.

Top military and civilian leaders were at the Infantry School Sept. 17-20 for the annual meeting to orient the 46-man aide group on the modernized fighting Army.

Defense Strong
 "They have a very strong defense on Quemoy. They have every Chinese soldier there they need. They could use some guns and ammunition, but no U.S. soldiers are needed on Quemoy," Brucker declared.

"The Nationalist Chinese have over 600,000 ground forces. They're a strong well-trained group," Brucker pointed out.

The secretary returned to the U.S. Sept. 15 from a Far Eastern tour which included the Taiwan, India, Pakistan, Thailand, Republic of Vietnam, Republic of Korea; and the British Crown Colonies of Singapore and Hong Kong.

Test for U.S.
 "There are two million in uniform in the countries I've mentioned who are allied to us. They are waiting to see if the U.S. would stay with them. They have been told we are a paper tiger, one with big talk and no bite. That's why the President's strong statement of last Friday," Brucker said in discussing President Eisenhower's firm stand on the Taiwan situation.

"Certainly the Communists military police activity for a full 24 hour period commencing at 6 a.m. Sunday. Officers and men of the Honor Guard company have received special courses of instruction which

Military Police Corps to Observe 17th Anniversary September 28

The only "day off" in the duty year of Fort Benning's military policeman will be the birthday of the Military Police Corps Sept. 28.

Though the actual anniversary date is Sept. 28, members of the Provost Marshal's Sections of The Infantry Center and the Second Infantry Division have joined forces to observe the day next Sunday when more than 700 members, their families, friends and invited guests will gather at the Infantry Center Recreational area on Second Armored Division Road for a picnic-type dinner scheduled for 1 p.m.

Post to Mark Prayer Day

Special services will be held in Fort Benning chapel Oct. 1 in observance of the National Day of Prayer for 1958 as proclaimed by the President of the U. S.

All chapels on the post will be open for prayer and meditation. The day will mark the only day in the duty year when Fort Benning military police will be completely relieved of all official duties. Crack troops of the Infantry Center's Honor Guard company, under the command of Capt. Myron Lee will substitute for the military police by covering all phases of the

Civilian Will Get Heroism Award

An employe at the Fort Benning Main Officers' Mess will receive the Army's highest award to a civilian at ceremonies in Washington, D.C., today.

The Decoration for Exceptional Civilian Service will be presented to Charles Hollis for his heroic action in helping to pull an Army officer from a burning vehicle wrecked on Lumpkin Road at the Taiwan, India, Pakistan, Thailand boundary of the reservation March 18.

The presentation will be made by Secretary of Army Wilber M. Brucker.

Enters Burning Car
 Eighteen-year old Hollis was on his way to work at Fort Benning when he saw the burning car, stopped and ran to the aid. He entered the burning automobile and helped remove an unconscious, seriously injured officer. His actions saved the life of 1st Lt. James P. Johnson, driver of the vehicle, according to officials.

Hollis was assisted by Sgt. Ivon M. Abney, who also

Two end-of-the-month pay days for military and civilian personnel are expected to provide a big in boost contributions to Fort Benning's Community Activities Association fund drive, according to officials.

The two pay days are Sept. 26 for military and Sept. 30 for military personnel.

Lawson Leads
 Leading the list in percentages of the major commands only is Lawson Army Airfield with three of its units having reached 100 per cent participation at the end of the fourth week of Fort Benning's annual major fund raising campaign.

The three units and their captains are Detachment 62th Weather Squadron, Capt. Charles M. Dunn, 62nd Pathfinder Team, Capt. William R. Morgan Jr., and Signal Corps Meteorological Team, 2nd Lt. Donald G. Buck.

The Lawson Field command has reached 84 per cent or $1,000.25 of its $5,000 goal.

Defense Publishes Facts on Medicare

WASHINGTON (APFS)—A 12-page fact sheet outlining the Oct. 1 changes in the Dependents' Medicare Program has been published by the Office of Armed Forces Information and Education, Department of Defense.

Intended for distribution through Armed Forces Information and Education channels, the pamphlet brings dependents up to date on the Medicare Program and spells out the changes for military families.

The fact sheet also reviews the Medicare program generally, indicating the revisions that have been made since it went into effect on Dec. 7, 1956.

Conference

have up to now been very aggressive. This shelling of the offshore islands has not been a coincidence. It can have one of two purposes—to open up a real blast or to open up the way to a summit conference," he added.

Notes Statement
Brucker termed Eisenhower's Sept. 12 pronouncement "the strongest statement that's been made" since World War II in trying to keep the Communists from starting a full-scale war.

"The American people have spoken through the President. We are partisan . . . but the Communists will come to learn that the President of the U.S. speaks for all of us and it's more important to stand up for principles than deal in appeasement," the secretary stated.

The speaker emphasized that the President and Congress have drawn the line at Formosa. If they (the Communists) come over to Formosa and mistake the President's words, there no doubt about it, there will be an implementation of that," he added.

Talks About Missiles
Having just returned from a six-hour visit at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., for a missile briefing with the civilian side leaders in the field of public relations, professional men, military presidents and judges," Brucker said.

"The conference is a two-way street. We impart to the sides all the information we have about the Army. In order to give advice they've got to know more about the Army than simply a correspondence course. And getting acquainted with them helps me as well," he went on.

Visitors for the sessions also included Under-Secretary of the Army Hugh M. Miller, III, three assistant secretaries of the Army, Gen. Lyman L. Lemmonier, vice-chief of staff Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commanding general of U.S. Continental Army Command, commanders of the six Army areas in the U.S., and 10 other general officers.

Among the participants were five who have not been previously announced. They are Col. (ret.) Clement E. Kenedy, president of New Ocean House, Swampscott, Mass.; Howard Hennessey, president of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, Greensboro, N.C.; and Dr. Benjamin F. Clark, St. Johnsburg, Va., civilian aides representing their home states. Dr. S. O'Dea of the Army's Office of the Chief of Research and Development and Brig. Gen. David P. Gibbs, commanding general of the Signal Corps Training Center, Fort Gordon, Ga.

The civilian sides group viewed demonstrations Ranger hand-to-hand combat and mountain jump operations and an airborne presentation in the parachute lowers area during the conference. At Bunn Hill they witnessed an Infantry-tank team assault supported by helicopter firing rockets.

During the three-day session, conferences participated in group discussions in addition to hearing talks by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, and Brucker at official dinners Sept. 17 and 19, respectively.

The aides are appointed to two-year terms to assist Brucker and represent the Army in their home communities.

"The aides give counsel and advice from a civilian standpoint. With an army in part of 73 countries and all the posts and garrisons of the U.S., it's a tremendous job to administer the U. S. Army. We try to seek counsel not only of Army leaders but also these

Anniversary

Two-Way Veterans

That it is observing its 17th anniversary Sept. 26, the Military Police Corps is veteran of two armed conflicts, World War II and the Korean police action. It was Sept. 28, 1941, that the present corps was established to meet the threat of World War II, which demanded troops highly trained in police duties consonant with requirements of a vastly expanding Army.

The position enjoyed by the Military Police Corps in the family of services is aptly described in the many congratulatory messages which it has received.

"Speaking for all the men and women of the Army," wrote Gen. Hugh M. Miller, Army chief of staff, "I extend congratulations to the officers and men of the Military Police Corps on its 17th anniversary."

Gen. Bruce C. Clark, commanding general, Continental Army Command, and the oldest of the youngest branches, the Corps has earned a respected place in the history of the high standards of performance in war and peace.

From the Provost Marshal of the Eighth Army, Korea, Brig. Gen. H. M. Hobson came the message: "Operating here in the shadow of the Bamboo Curtain, the role of the military policeman requires constant alertness and readiness to combat the ever present threat of aggression. My personal regards and best wishes to military policemen everywhere."

The same theme contained in the message from Gen. Hobson was contained in the message sent by the Provost Marshal of the Army's European Command, Brig. Gen. Edward F. Fenahol, who said, "In this time of international crisis, it is more important than ever that we continue to raise our performance standards in assigned field of endeavor. We should remember that imaginative and bold execution need not be confined to the combat arms."

"We must observe that the strength of our tradition is found in the motto of the Corps, 'Service to the Troops'," said Brig. Gen. Dietrich P. Schorr, Jr., commander of the Provost Marshal General Center, Fort Gordon, Ga., "and that the outlook for continuing to improve our service to the troops shows great challenge and equally great promise as we look forward to a new year as a vital member of the dynamic Army team."

Award

had seen the accident. Sgt. Almy has been recommended for the Soldiers Medal, highest award for military personnel for heroism not involving armed combat.

Presented $300
At Fort Benning ceremonies in the office of Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of The Infantry Center, Holtis was presented a cash award of $300 and cited for his "conspicuous courage and complete disregard for his own safety and personal risk involved in this heroic act."

Gen. Freeman and Mr. Holtis will fly to Washington, D.C., today for the secretary of army awards presentation ceremonies. Gen. Freeman will present Holtis to the secretary. Accompanying them will be Lt. Johnson and J. Frank Spear, executive secretary of The Infantry Center's Incentive Awards Division.

Prayer Day Proclaimed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is President Eisenhower's message in proclaiming Oct. 1 National Day of Prayer.)

Our fathers trusted in God, and they were not confounded. Believing that all men are "endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights," they conquered the wilderness, built homes, charted the course of free institutions, and defended their liberties against forces which threatened from within and from without.

In our time, buffeted by unprecedented changes and challenged by an aggressive denial for Divine Providence, we have continuing need of the wisdom and strength that comes from God, and we shall always find our highest satisfaction in a steadfast purpose to know and to do His Will.

In this spirit, the Congress, by a joint resolution approved April 17, 1952 (66 Stat.) 64, has provided "That the President shall set aside and proclaim a suitable day each year, other than a Sunday, as a National Day of Prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at churches, in groups, and as individuals."

It is a privilege to carry out this resolution, and I accordingly set aside Wednesday, the First Day of October 1958, as a National Day of Prayer, and I call upon my fellow Americans and all who may be visitors in our country, each according to his own faith, to join in prayer for our nation and all mankind, and especially:

First, that we may be humbly mindful that this nation, under God, arrived at its present position by the toil and sacrifice of many citizens who subordinated personal interests to the common welfare and passed on to us a heritage with which we are singularly blessed;

Second, that we may have divine guidance in our efforts to lead our children in the paths of truth and to provide a healthy environment in which they may grow in body, mind, and spirit;

Third, that we may ever exercise a compassionate concern for human suffering, whether at home or in distant lands; and that we may strive to alleviate hunger, eradicate disease, and advance the well-being of our neighbors;

Fourth, that we may be saved from blinding pride and from any act harmful to the concord of free nations joined in building a just and durable peace under the guiding hand of Almighty God;

And, finally, that we may have courage to move forward in the unconquerable spirit of a free people, strong in faith, having a will to endure the burdens which have been given us to carry in our day, and to work towards goals of human betterment which may be attained only beyond our span of years.

International Roundup
Jets May Hit Reds
If Quemoy Collapses

WASHINGTON — The United States is believed to have warned Communist China that if Quemoy is in danger of falling to the Reds during U. S.-Chinese talks, jets may attack Red mainland artillery positions, informed sources said Sept. 22.

It was considered possible this warning was transmitted to the Reds during U. S.-Chinese ambassadorial talks on the Formosa crisis now being held in Washington. State Department officials refused to comment on this, however.

Source here said this country apparently was trying to remove any doubts the Communists might have as to U. S. intentions regarding defense of Nationalist-held Quemoy and the few miles of the Red mainland.

The sources said the Reds' Nationalists appeared on the verge of losing Quemoy, the United States would first consent to Nationalist bombing raids on the Communist artillery positions in the Red mainland.

If the Nationalists were unable to silence the big guns along American jets would join the attack, the sources said.

CHANCES LOWERED
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared Sept. 22 the Chinese Communists are rapidly shooting themselves and heads.

Chaplain's Corner

The Parable of the Talents is one of the best known of all Bible stories. The master of the household, who was going away, called his servants to him and gave each of them talents to the first, five; the second, two; and to the third, one.

The first one gained five others, the second gained two others, and the third his one. We consider the content of the story from its practical and additional background. The first place it is of Jewish origin and basically encourages people to be businesslike, but his Bible context is allegorical as parables are meant to be.

The Master is God, the servants, are God's people. The Talents, which actually were money, become the God-given skills that we all possess in different measure. Before entering our attention upon the last, the Untied Talent, let us think for a moment about this matter of talents.

In the story, the talents they were placed in the hands of several men where they could see there—they can't see what they had. Even in sleep, life is not so simple. If you do have not talents, and tragedy in the world comes what with us are best fitted to do. After finishing college, yet again he goes to a seminary, and dogged until graduation day when he is in the firing line. In fact, all through life we are intermittently assailed with the challenge of our talents.

We are all aware that there are some things we can do, and some things we cannot do. Some things that we would like to do, but simply do not know how to do, but especially in the field of the chosen way of life.

The first two sought to do the will of God. In these modern times discern the will of God, and what we can do. We can do it, we can do it, we can do it, we can do it, we can do it.

Now, can man, in these modern times discern the will of God, and what we can do. We can do it, we can do it, we can do it, we can do it, we can do it.

The Judge Says...

Experts have defined juvenile delinquency as boys who have problems rather than problem boys. Although you may not agree with this definition, the fact remains that the damage and injury caused by teen-age and younger child delinquency are increasing national problem.

There are several interesting problems which are involved in this subject. If you are to realize the responsibility of all of the actions of your children, at least the consequences of the program of supervised recreation for children of all ages. There is no excuse in this conduct. Therefore, any acts of vandalism caused by teen-age or older child is responsible for his acts and can be liable for such wrongs as trespass (entering someone else's property without permission) or assault and battery (intentionally and unlawfully striking another).

Both the parent and the child may be liable for damages of the wrong if the wrong is committed by the child in acting under the direction and control of the parent who is liable even if not in control of a child. This

For Formosa
Past Reveals 63 Years
Of Tension

The island of Formosa, latest center of the ever-shifting world military and political storm, has had an uneasy history for the past 63 years. In 1895, the island was ceded to Japan at the end of the Sino-Japanese war. When war broke out between the Japanese and the United States and its ally, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill pledged Formosa's return to China after the war.

In 1945, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces captured the island and the Japanese surrendered. Technicians remained under Japanese flag, pending peace negotiations. When the Chinese Communists drove the remaining Chinese Nationalist forces from the mainland in 1949, Formosa became the refuge of the Chiang government. The Republic of China claimed the island as part of the mainland and vowed to retake it.

The following year Red China and the Soviet Union signed a 30-year treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual assistance. On Sept. 8, 1951, the United States and Japan signed a peace treaty, formally ending the war in the Pacific. Formosa provision, Japan relinquished control of Formosa, but it was not returned to China because there were two Chinas, Nationalist and Communist.

Program Will Honor 14th Int. Sept. 27

Recreational units at Fort Benning and Columbus have joined forces again and are sponsoring a military unit from Fort Benning at an all-day affair Sept. 27.

Officially designated as the 14th Infantry Day, the program planned for this particular group is the result of the continuing efforts of the Special Services Office and Service Clubs, together with the 15th Avenue Y-MCA, the NCCS-USO, and the Armed Services Y-MCA on 11th Street in Columbus.

It is being planned with the cooperation of Col. G. H. Gardner, commander of the 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry, and his staff.

Recognized as the highlight of the dance will be the crowning of the Girl of the Month for September by some 14th Infantry Man. GSO girl Miss Shirley Harrell, chairman of the dance activity, has a few hilarious features up her sleeve for the evening, among them a coin tossing contest as well as a bingo game at 7:30 p.m. preceding the dance.

Plans now are to have a unit recognition day for a military unit again in October and November, and will be held at the Center Church, O. H. events include door prizes to be given away at intervals to the holders of lucky numbers, and the refreshment table where guests will be invited to enjoy the open house period. Jans for hostesses from the three sections of the unit. The unit of Columbus will be on hand to help with this program. All 14th Infantrymen are invited to come acquainted with facilities and persons interested in this program that they may welcome the 14th Infantry Day program that night from 8:30 until 11 p.m.

Proceeding the dance, a free bingo game will be held from 7:30 to 8:30, on the "polly, wright permitting." Dancing will be on the second floor of the "Y." GSO girls and their guests will be present; Miss Shirley Harrell, GSO chairman of the dance, will also be responsible for serving refreshments.

Other events for the week at the "Y" include: Sept. 26-9 a.m.; Java Club with coffee and donuts for all late risers in the dormitory, 3:30 p.m. Home Hour, when Miss Louise Daniels and her senior volunteers serve punch and cookies.

Teaching and directing of Russell County Home Demonstration Clubs. A special birthday party will be given on Oct. 5, when the ladies from the Westside Baptist Church present a special service to the board of directors. Leo Koc, Superintendent of the Columbus, states: "The purpose of this letter is to ask you to join our organization and monthly feature will be given by the Pilot Club of Peach County, Georgia, on the 11th birthday, in September will give special recognition. GSO will be present for the occasion."

Sept. 28 is TV night at the Fort. There are two TV sets on both channel programs can be seen simultaneously.

Second Dancing and Entertainment will be held at 8:30 p.m. with Chuck Jourdaines spinning records and Sammie DeLoe singing. Charge of 25 cents per person. In various forms, the letter stated.

There are no financial obligations to join the guild, officials said. Announcements to local dairy farmers will be made during the first Saturday of the month, they added. Further information may be obtained by calling Miss Shirley Harrell at Columbus FA 2-2822.

Post Masquers Grew Out Of Little Theatre Group

The Masquers of Fort Benning, MU 85706, or Capt. C. S. Yee, FB 23141 or FB 33274.

In 1956 the theatrical group was reformed as The Masquers. Since that time they have been presented, such as "The Happy Journey," "Zizine as the Driven Snow," "Zizine and the Landlord," "Fear of Blows," and more recently "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

The Masquers this year are presenting "Suds in Your Eyes," by Jack Kirkland. Tryouts have been held and the cast is now starting rehearsals. The play is to be presented in November.

There are still many vacancies open on the production staff. Stage hands, lighting technicians, costumers, sound technicians, make-up people and others are needed. You do not have to be experienced to participate. Just your interest is all that is necessary. Be sure to call a member and keep posted on the next meeting of The Masquers.

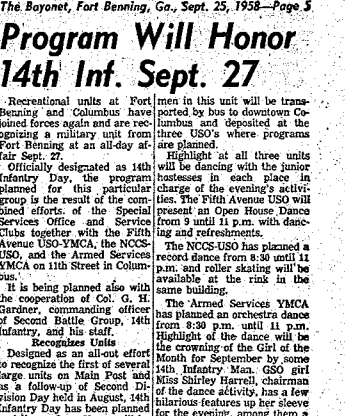

The Masquers are planning a studio night, where one month series of one-act plays will be presented. A production is already planned for October. Some of these plays are original French plays and were translated by Mrs. Cecile Cooper and others for presentation. These acts have all sorts of character parts.

The Masquers Workshop is beginning first class. The play is in make-up presented by Mrs. Stafford. As soon as a date is established, an announcement will be made in this column.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Stafford, FB 21216; Capt. E. S. McCall, FB 21216; or Mr. W. B. Barris, FB 21216.

Barin, Herve. Qui J'ose Aimer. 1956.

"An affair between a 16-year-old girl and her stepfather, set in modern Brittany, and very skillfully told from her point of view. One of the best-selling novels of 1956."

Camus, Albert. La Chute. "The philosophical monologue of a judge-penitent who accuses himself in order to accuse all men of complicity in the injustice and absurdity of the world. Expressing complex ideas in simple language, it is Camus' first novel since Le Peste (1947), a great event for intellectual readers. Already published in English as The Fall."

Camus, Albert. L'Exil et le Boyennais.

"A collection of six short stories in the clear, beautiful language full of natural symbols which has given Camus an undisputed place among the great writers of today. Some readers like these stories better than his novels. The one called L'Exil is especially recommended."

66th Holds Open House For Families

Approximately 85 families of members of Third Medium Tank Battalion 66th Armor, attended an open house at Harmony Church Sept. 13.

Family day was organized to call attention to Army benefits and to give the families an opportunity to see the tools of trade of their husbands and sons, and the place where they live and work.

Dependents of men grades E and below, with families in the Fort Benning-Columbus-Phenix City area were sent invitations.

Events included display of various types of vehicles, a ride in an M-59 armored personnel carrier or a Jeep, and movies concerning a choice of the Army as a career. Next came a short discussion by the battalion commander Lt. Col. Russell W. Ernst, on the reasons the Army is interested in retaining its trained men, the costs in dollars and cents in exchanging it and a men for raw recruits and the feeling of satisfaction in serving one's country to protect the freedoms founded by our forefathers.

Sgt. For W. Wagle Jr., Fort Benning Re-enlistment NCO, presented a 25-minute lecture on Army benefits using several display examples which added to the appeal.

The main attraction was a visit to the company areas to see orderly rooms, supply rooms, barracks, and the mess halls where cookies with hot and cold drinks were served.

"The first priority of the funds we got had to go to transporting our high school children to Columbus, the general said."

"We then decided to have the older children in the post schools, who are more responsible, walk and the younger children ride," he stated.

Capeland School Adequate Gen. Ruggles announced that he has just visited the temporary Capeland School in the old Army Hospital area which will be utilized until the new school is completed next year.

Capeland School Adequate Gen. Ruggles explained to the group that this year, Infantry Center funds could not cover the transportation of all students in the Fort Benning Children's Schools.

ber faculty and administrative staff and commented on the children's School program.

"No one can say that the life and work of the children's school is not the focus of the space age began in October of last year in the news and many people's minds are such questions as 'Are we meeting the challenge of the space age?'" she said.

"Of all changing community attitudes, the two which have the greatest popular impact behind them are the demand for greater attention to the gifted child," Mrs. Scudder added.

Alert For Special Talent "All gifted children are called upon to be especially alert to identify the child with special talents and ability and to encourage and moderate his full development."

"This year, we are planning some special classes for children with particular talents and abilities in addition to the regular classroom instruction," she said.

Need To Explain "We realize that it is more necessary than ever before for teachers to explain to parents what children are doing in the classroom and what they learn," the educator said.

Plan Sent On Pro Pay

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The directive establishing a uniform policy for awarding proficiency pay throughout the services has been submitted to the Bureau of the Budget for approval, according to the Defense Department.

Once the proposed funding is cleared there, the program then must receive sanction of the Armed Forces Policy Council, after which the Secretary of Defense will sign the instruction to the services.

As a "permissive" provision in the 1958 pay legislation, Congress gave the Defense Secretary the option of making proficiency awards not to exceed 15 per cent of the enlisted strength of the service.

Army Offers Many Educational Benefits

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles as written by Sfc Roy W. Hamrick, Fort Benning, Ga., NCO.)

"OK," you say, "I know about the many benefits both immediate and future, but just what can I expect from a career in the Army?"

This depends entirely on the individual. You can set your own goals, the methods and speed of achievement are up to you. Unlimited possibilities are present for the person who sets his sights high and strives toward self-improvement in accordance with this goal.

Army's modern Army is constantly searching for personnel who can think clearly, make logical decisions, and constantly seek to improve their native abilities through advanced education and technical training.

Explains Programs "Let's talk about education first. Let's suppose you have decided on a career in the Army. You will be afforded a special opportunity for improving your level of intelligence, regardless of your educational background. You can progress from elementary subjects, if necessary, up through advanced college courses. All of this is either free or for a very nominal fee.

The Army Education Center, you will find one located on each post, is the hub of all Army educational programs. These include: Correspondence or self-teaching courses of elementary, high school or college level subjects, administered by the United States Army Education Center (USAEC), Madison, Wis. Courses of the courses through USAEC in a 90 initial enrollment period. You may take as many courses as desired at no additional cost, provided you maintain a certain scholastic average, forward each course after completion for credit and complete the required number of credits during a set period.

Extension Courses Under the reorganization, each unit is assigned to one of the 24 Coast Artillery regiments. For example, the 62nd A.A. Bn., Segon, Wash., now is the 24th Missile Bn. (Nike-Ajax), 60th Arty.

Army Renames All AAA Units Under New Plan WASHINGTON (APPS)—Antiaircraft artillery units of the Army are no longer identified by the familiar "AAA" designation. All battalions of 13 Army Air Defense Command were redesignated Sept. 1, and assigned to artillery regiments under the Army's Combat Arms Regimental System.

Unit Holds 'Family Day' Re-enlistment Program

One of the first "family day" re-enlistment programs held at Fort Benning attracted nearly 50 soldiers and their wives and children Sept. 5.

Company A, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, was host to the affair.

Purpose of the family-day series was to acquaint dependents of soldiers eligible for their first re-enlistment with benefits of an Army career.

A demonstration by the 29th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon, riles for the children on an Army mechanical walk, and a talk by Sfc. Lois D. Johnston, 29th Infantry re-enlistment counselor, were highlights of the program.

Soldiers attending the event were all of the rank E-4 or lower. The Fort Benning re-up campaign is especially aimed at these individuals.

Special guests at the program included Major James M. Roy, Third Army re-enlistment officer, and Capt. August J. Siebert, re-enlistment officer of the Infantry Center.

The soldiers and their families were first served refreshments at Company A, a d greeted by Capt. Edward S. McNulty, company commander.

Following the scout dog show they were addressed by Sfc Johnston in the battle group classroom. Col. Richard F. More Honored "They who educate children well, are more to be honored than they who produce them; for these only give them life; those the art of living well."—Aristotle.

Col. Murray Elected New YAC President

Col. Roy A. Murray was elected new president of Fort Benning Youth Activities Club at the recent annual general membership meeting of the organization.

Units Train For Two Weeks

During September, Companies A, B, and C of the Third Medium Tank Battalion, 6th Armored, are each spending two weeks in the field. One week is spent sharpening up their shooting on the range. The second week is devoted to tank platoon tactics and night operations.

To add realism to the platoon problems, the Recon Platoon with elements of the Battalion Motor Platoon, is acting as aggressor.

Col. Murray, who has served as the organization's interim president since May, is the Infantry Company G-3. He came to Fort Benning in 1956 following his graduation from the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. He served first as director of the Army Infantry School's Staff Department.

A 1952 graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Col. Murray was called to active duty in 1946 as original member of the First Ranger Battalion, he took part in the activation of the battalion in Ireland. Later he was in charge of 44 Rangers who participated in the Allied raid on Sledge. Col. Murray served as a Ranger company and battalion commander in the invasions of North Africa, Sicily and Italy.

He then visited the school's Airborne-Air Mobility Department to view demonstrations of airborne training and aerial delivery techniques.

Gen. Gale was honored with an official reception and dinner in the Main Officers' Mess Sept. 11.

Graduates Hear Gen. Von Kann

Brig. Gen. Clifton F. Von Kann, assistant commander of the 82nd Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N.C., spoke at graduation ceremonies Sept. 19 for the Infantry School's officer candidate class.

Approximately 120 candidates received gold bars of second lieutenant at the exercise in the Main Theater.

A native of Massachusetts, the 42-year-old officer is only 27 days older than Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commander, who is the youngest general in the Army.

British General Says Emphasis on Arms

British and the U. S. will rely to a large extent on new weapons to deter Soviet aggression, British Gen. Sir Richard M. Gale said while visiting the Infantry School Sept. 11-12.

Gen. Gale, deputy supreme Allied commander-designate for Europe, will assume his new duties as right-hand man to Gen. Lauris Norstad this month, replacing Field Marshal Viscount Bernard L. Montgomery.

"Both sides of the Atlantic are determined to make the fullest use of the most modern kind of weapons and to make the fullest use of those weapons to save manpower," Gen. Gale emphasized.

"The general tendency is to reduce elementary manpower and replace it with advanced weapons, not necessarily atomic weapons, but the whole field of weapons," he added.

"The question of whether the Allies should employ atomic weapons, Gen. Gale said, is a decision to use any weapons of great destruction must rest with governments. Soldiers can't give the answer."

"Europe forms for the U.S. as it were, an outpost of defense. I'm not certain what part of the world it would be more important for the Soviets to try to capture," the visitor commented on the odds on Europe's being the main battle field in an all-out war.

Gen. Gale stated he was not in a position to say how markedly the Allies could delay an all-out Soviet advance to the west as he had not yet assumed his duties at SHAPE. "However, there wouldn't be much use in our being there which we live in ahead of production. No sooner do we decide to put a new weapon into production that it becomes out of date. That applies to practically everything, aircraft and most other things," he added.

The four-star general noted that "it may be possible to defend Europe by manpower alone, but if you did this the call on manpower would be much greater than it is now."

Government Decision
 On the question of whether the Allies should employ atomic weapons, Gen. Gale said, is a decision to use any weapons of great destruction must rest with governments. Soldiers can't give the answer.

During the meeting, statistics on sports participation and other activities for the past year were announced. Sports included baseball and softball with 615 boys and 96 girls active; basketball with 411 boys and 60 girls; boxing with 60 boys; bowling with 50 boys, and swimming lessons with 350 boys and girls.

In the scouting program which is sponsored by YAC, Fort Benning has 28 Girl Scout troops with 450 girls active. Approximately 15 Boy Scout troops are functioning with about 500 boys participating.

Seeded top man in the tourney, in the semi-finals 7-5, 2-6 and 6-4. Adams went down swinging with his two handed Pancho Seguro style that had gained him the tournament trophy for the past three years.

The finals saw Lt. Stevens win 7-5, 4-6 and 6-4 over B. H. Newman who was seeded number two in the tournament. Lt. Stevens, a Distinguished Military Graduate of Mississippi Southern, Class of 1957, is a veteran of 10 years in the tennis game. He won his first tournament, the Nashville City Junior Tournament, when he was 17. During his collegiate play he was top man at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute and at Mississippi Southern. He won the Mississippi State Intercollegiate Tournament in 1957 and played in the River Oak Tournament at Houston, Texas, this year.

DOUBLES WINNER... Major Owen O. Osburn and Mrs. John F. Kearns, left, runners-up in the fall officers tennis tournament, congratulate mixed doubles champions Major and Mrs. Robert McHugh. Each of the four took home at least two trophies. Major Osburn was senior men's champion, Mrs. Kearns was the women's champion, Major McHugh was runner-up in the senior men's division, and a member of the men's doubles runner-up team, and Mrs. McHugh was runner-up in the women's division.

The McHughs have been playing as a team for over 15 years and have won a number of major tournaments in Florida, South Carolina, New York, Colorado and Alabama during that span.

Mrs. McHugh started her tennis career in Miami, Fla., and became an established professional star by playing number two with the high school state champions for two consecutive years. Major McHugh, a veteran of many Army tournaments during the past several years, captained the 1957 First Army Tennis Team to the All-

Marine Sets Fitness Mark

MCRD, San Diego (APFS)—"was a little overweight," compiling the first "possible" score of 500 points on the final recruit fitness test ever recorded at this depot. Marine Pvt. Lloyd C. Phelps carved a niche in the record book that will be difficult to equal.

Phelps shattered a previous Minnesota gymnastic club champion only scored 298 on his first test 10 weeks prior to his record-setting performance. "I was setting the new record," Phelps shattered a previous mark of 488 which was set last year by a recruit.

Also noted for his boxing prowess, Phelps as a 127 pounder was the Minnesota Golden Gloves champion, 1957. He must have had the credit.

First Infantry Captures Division Softball Crown

By Ted Dtv. F10
Second Battle Group, First Infantry became the Second Division softball champions when they downed Division Artillery 7-2 last week at WAC Field.

The champs were presented a trophy by Major William M. Rulenan, Division Special Services Officer, on the field after the game. The runner-up, Division Artillery, were awarded a trophy for second place. Cigarette lighters were given to the members of both teams.

The game was scoreless in the 1st inning but Division brought home a run in the top of the second. Rulenan of Division scored the first run off a single by Jones.

The First Infantry scored their first run when Hartford, the catcher, home on a single by Fulton, the short stop. Jessup, the second sacker, then stepped up and slammed a homer bringing in Fulton and putting the First Infantry in the lead by a score of 3 to 1.

In the bottom of the third inning, the First Infantry hurtler, got on with a single and

Narine Hits Perfect National Rifle Score

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (APPS)—The pinnacle of success was reached at the National Rifle and Pistol matches here when Marine T-Sgt. Michael Pietrotte copped the National Trophy Individual Rifle Championship with a record-shattering perfect score of 250 x 200, with 52 Vs.

In performing the feat, Pietrotte became the first man in the history of the matches to achieve a perfect score since competition began in 1903.

By placing all 50 of his shots in the bullseye, including 23 in the V-ring, the Leatherneck marksman topped 2,000 of the country's finest military and civilian shooters.

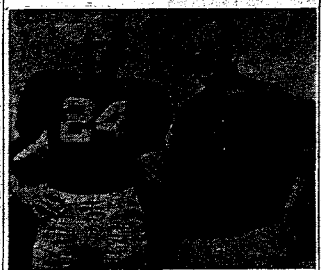

Close behind was Sgt. Gordon

Voss, Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, Fort Benning, who scored 248 x 250 to take the second place.

Despite the fact that Voss's score was high enough to break the old mark record of 247 x 250, set last year by Marine T-Sgt. Paul Bailey, it just could not equal Pietrotte's unprecedented shooting.

Army walked away with third, fourth and fifth places also, to clinch the top position in the match for military shooters.

Sgt. Norman Shappess' 24 x 250 earned third place and Sgts. Leslie Prince and Ferdinand Eysel tied for fourth with the same score but fewer hits in the V-ring.

TSB Trains Skin Diver, Water Skier

Second Lt. James R. Simpson, an expert salvage diver and water skier from Beverly Hills, Calif., is now a member of 25th Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade.

Simpson has water skied from Seattle, Wash., to the southern tip of San Diego and is a member of the American Water Ski Association. He has also had the opportunity to try his favorite pastime in Hawaii, Acapulco, Mexico, and Miami, Fla.

Lt. Simpson has also put his hobbies to work for him and has gained experience instructing water-skiering during the summers in Greenwich, Conn., and on Lake Minnetonka in Minnesota. He has also worked as a salvage skin-diver at Lake Arrowhead, Calif., recovering such items as wrist-watches, rings, onboard motors and boats.

Lt. Simpson highly recommends the sport of water-skiering and cites it as the most popular and exciting sport of the pastime today. He hopes to find the waters around Columbus as favorable as many of the national stars have (the Na-

Finucane Urges States Provide GIs Voting Data

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (APPS)—The Defense Department is making every effort to see that servicemen have voting information available on local candidates and issues.

Charles C. Finucane, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Personnel and Reserve), in an address before state secretaries here, said he believed "voting interest" would be greatly stimulated if each state had information available for servicemen if they requested it.

A man who has been away from home for many months, Finucane said, has difficulty in informing himself accurately on election returns.

If the states adopt a plan to have information available on candidates and issues, the secretary said, all of the services would insure that it would be available to servicemen upon request.

Guid Will Meet September 28

The Baller Guild of Columbus will hold its next meeting on September 28 at 4 p.m. in the W. C. Bradley Memorial Library.

All Fort Benning personnel who are invited to the meeting in the air-conditioned conference room in the library's basement.

Co. A Wins 1st Infantry Swim Meet

Spectators saw the rebirth of swimming for the Second Battalion Group of the 2nd Infantry when Company A splashed its way to victory over all other companies in the Group in seven event swimming and diving competition.

Company A's outstanding performance highlighted the meet and gave them a first place total of 27 points over second place Mortar Battery with 30 points. Company D placed third, while Headquarters and B Companies tied for fourth. Charlie Company finished fifth.

The meets opening competition found Kenneth W. Giles of A Co. taking first over second place Franklin W. Latham, B Co., in the 50 meter free style. Gary A. Haupt, Mortar Battery, won the 100 meter backstroke and David W. Crane, Co. A, placed second. The 200 meter freestyle was topped by Stanley B. Lyzak of D Company over William A. Cavatolo of Company A. Company B's Edward A. Brewer was fast man in the 100 meter breast stroke with Richard X. Patch a close second.

Following a diving demonstration by Calvin H. Curtis, Mortar Battery, Paul Bridgewater and Larry Cash of Post Special Services, A Company's David Crane beat Franklin W. Latham of B Co. by one point on the three meter board in the diving competition trophy.

The Mortar Battery team placed 120 meter race and Company A took second. But, in the 200 meter relay, the team reversed the decision by taking first honors over second place Headquarters.

Following the meet Colonel Charles G. Shettle, Commanding General, presented trophies to the winners.

The Lill' Injun

BY SGT. WARREN A. KELSAY
TURK QUIRKS are seen in the old legend told of a Turkish outfit arriving at dusk in France in 1945, and set up camp adjacent to the Second Infantry Division supply point. Noticing the Indian-head sign "Second to None" the Turks, having very little equipment, hastily went into conference to choose a motto for their outfit. The selection made, they proudly erected a sign next to the "Second to None" division, reading: "None."
DIV. DIVERS dunked anew Saturday for the first swim meet since Indianheads camped on Chattahoochee banks. All companies in the 1st Inf. submerged in a Ft. Benning pool, and Alpha Company emerged as champs.

HEAP BIG POW WOW for Indianheads, papooses, squaws and surrounding natives will mean much thunder when Indianhead Warriors have heap big celebration for happy birthday of division. Indianheads 41 moon ago got tum warriors for first time.

Wines Replaced Gore of Yore At Christenings

NEW YORK (APPS)—Ever watch a ship christening in the movies or TV and wonder why flying glass from the smashed champagne bottle didn't draw blood?

If it did it would mark an accidental throwback to the earliest known ship christening in the 1000 years ago. For centuries involved spilling human blood on the vessel to appease the gods and insure smooth sailing.

Why doesn't today's christening bottle shatter glass on the spectators? Because it's filled with a 1-1/2-inch flexible mesh holding jacket.

The ancient Greeks and Romans used water for christening, believing it would purify the ship. The English, early in their history, replaced the human blood of pagan times with red wine.

A messenger of the king would be offered a golden goblet of wine. He would toast the future of the ship, spill some of the wine on the deck, and then toss the goblet over the side.

Eventually the red wine was in turn replaced by champagne.

OC Gray Scorches Qualifying Ranges

FIFTH Student Battalion, SOUTH COMPANY — A "hot" man with most Army small arms attending Officer Candidate School. He is David B. Gray, and assigned to the School Brigade's 5th Company. He is a member of the 5th Company, 29th Infantry.

When members of his company fired the caliber .50 pistol recently, his score points out of a possible 300 took top honors. He has also qualified for the assignment of Rifle, machine gun, and the Browning automatic rifle. As a second student at the University of Texas, Gray was on several rifle and pistol teams, garnering many medals and trophies for his shooting ability.

First Student Battalion, SOUTH COMPANY — Started in Advance Class No. 3, now in their 21st week. He has received an assignment of Rifle, machine gun, and the Browning automatic rifle.

THIRD COMPANY — Capt. Donald E. Pointer has been assigned as battalion adjutant and reassigned to 4th Company for duty as company commander. First Lt. Eugene Schuler is his replacement.

SEVENTH COMPANY — M. Sgt. Jack R. Finn, former first sergeant, was transferred to Company C, 14th Infantry, and upon his promotion to the new grade of E-4. Pfc Samuel H. Chandler received his release from active duty Sept. 15.

SEVENTH COMPANY — The unit has two new men. They are Sgt. Billy T. Gilland, assigned from Hq. and Hq. Company, Nov. 25.

For Training Classes

Red Cross Will Register Volunteers on Oct. 2-3

Registration for Fort Benning American Red Cross volunteer training classes will be held Oct. 2 and 3 at the Red Cross field director's office on Wilbert Avenue on the Main Post. Hours for registration are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Red Cross volunteers will be available to assist with applications and answer questions.

Training courses for Staff Aides, Gray Ladies, and Nurses will be arranged to begin Oct. 13. The Red Cross volunteers are a vital part of the operation of the Martin Army Hospital, officials stated.

All Fort Benning women who are interested and can volunteer are invited and urged to inquire about services they can render.

Complete information may be obtained from the Martin Hospital Red Cross office by telephoning Fort Benning 3-7207. Pamphlets may also be picked up at the office. Chairman of volunteers is Mrs. George McClellan, Miss Clara Sweeney.

U. S. Packs Strong Punch In Far East

WASHINGTON (APPS)—U. S. fighters force the Pacific area now, or soon will be, equipped with some of the most formidable missiles in the nation's arsenal.

The Army has officially confirmed assignment of a Nike-2 missile to the Pacific area. The Nike Hercules, a dart-shaped guided missile 27 feet long, is designed for surface-to-air work. The missile is described as an integral part of a weapons system which electronically directs the missile to intercept the target.

To reduce over-strength, according to a Sept. 16 letter to major commands from the Adjutant General, the following controls will be invoked immediately:

No grade E-6, E-6 and E-7 personnel will be trained or classified into 28 MOSs with surplus.

Promotions to and within these grades in the over-manned fields will be suspended until further notice.

Officers reverting to enlistment status will not be awarded MOSs in any of these specialties.

The occupation fields frozen in these grades are: 115, 161, 162, 315, 321, 421, 555, 558, 621, 622, 631, 632, 714, 715, 717, 719, 727, 763, 764, 767, 785, 941, 942, 943, 961, 973 and 974.

Shortages of personnel still exist in some 36 critical occupational specialties, the Army said, adding that individuals in these specialties must be encouraged to volunteer for retraining at service schools in order to acquire skills in short supply.

The advantages of this to soldiers in surplus categories, the Army said, are: (1) surplus MOS areas will continue to receive priority over fields with overages; (2) as the program progresses, non-surplus MOS areas will receive "first priority" to both in time phasing and in the proportion of the total payments made.

Steps Taken To Cut MOS Surpluses

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Army, which halted mobilization of new recruits, is now taking steps to reduce over-strength, according to a Sept. 16 letter to major commands from the Adjutant General, the following controls will be invoked immediately:

No grade E-6, E-6 and E-7 personnel will be trained or classified into 28 MOSs with surplus.

Promotions to and within these grades in the over-manned fields will be suspended until further notice.

Officers reverting to enlistment status will not be awarded MOSs in any of these specialties.

The occupation fields frozen in these grades are: 115, 161, 162, 315, 321, 421, 555, 558, 621, 622, 631, 632, 714, 715, 717, 719, 727, 763, 764, 767, 785, 941, 942, 943, 961, 973 and 974.

General Schorr Outlines Duties of Platoon Leader

Basic opportunities for the platoon leader to gain respect of his men were pointed out by Brig. Gen. David P. Schorr, commander of the Provost Marshal General's Center, Fort Gordon, Ga., at graduation exercises in Fort Benning's Main Theater Aug. 28 for the Infantry School's basic officers class No. 15.

One hundred and eighteen members of the class received certificates at the ceremonies. The class included officers of the Jordan Army.

"You have learned that the art of military leadership is to influence and direct your men, inspiring confidence, obedience, loyal cooperation and respect so as to accomplish the mission," Gen. Schorr asserted.

"Make yourself available to your men," the speaker stressed.

He noted that with many officers living off-post and using car pools, the tendency to be a clock-watcher is a temptation.

"You cannot be an effective platoon leader at 7:30 a.m. on a 5 p.m. basis," Gen. Schorr emphasized.

Among other opportunities for the junior officer to gain the confidence of his troops, the speaker said that platoon leaders should have the elements to check posts and should not confine night inspections to the school course. Eight of the 10 in high school are expected to pass being conducted at the Airborne-Air Mobility Department began its second phase Sept. 15.

The classes are being conducted by Capt. Fredia A. Dyer, department administrative officer, to prepare personnel to take the high school GED battery tests.

Company D Captures Re-enlistment Plaque

Company D won the Battle Group re-enlistment plaque for August with a re-enlistment percentage of 117 per cent of all eligible men residing. This makes the third month that Company D has won the plaque since its beginning in January, 1958. M-Sgt. Archie Hatfield is the re-enlistment NCO for the Company.

They are Sgt. Ester Lamar and Sgt. Cleo Thomas.

Mortar Battery
Ten enlisted men seven of which are from the first firing platoon, have left for the personnel center at Fort Dix, N.J., to process out. They all will go to their homes in Puerto Rico.

Sgt. Joe Hicks is back for duty after playing for Fort Benning baseball team in Fort Campbell, Ky.

Five nonstamen were transferred to Company B in the battle group and Company B sent seven men to Mortar Battery.

Pfc Russel Moiley and Pfc

Danne Snyder are back to duty after 15-day leaves at their homes in Oklahoma.

Two of the company's men, M-Sgt. Walter Dundas and Sp4 Bob Stanger, are taken on the responsibility of coaching 170 of the YAC Biggy League softball teams. The youngsters on these teams are comprised of seven to 10 year old sons of the military personnel stationed at Fort Benning.

Making a short trip from west door are nine men assigned to the company from Company B of the battle group. Most of these men have been in the battle group for some time.

The company has been assigned M-Sgt. Ernest Samarga, Sigs James Amos, James Holmes, and Joseph Simon. Sigs. Jacob Alberry and James Owenby, Sp4 Robert Kissel and Pfc Robert Fuller and Joseph Graham.

Headquarters Company Sgt. William Angel, battle group career counselor, has shown the men that he has found advantages in the service as he sews on new staff sergeant stripes.

Raymond Dussault, message center clerk, was promoted last week to specialist fifth class.

Sp4 David Moore, company clerk, has returned from Martin Army Hospital where he was recovering from an operation.

The operation room is pick-up in efficiency since Sgt. Ernest Reed found an assistant, Sgt. Everett Garrett, who is working on the large personnel assignment board.

OCS Honors W. Knowland

Senator William F. Knowland, California, is being honored as one of several outstanding graduates of Officer Candidate School. He was inducted into the Army in June, 1942, and graduated from OCS in February, 1943. He was assistant G-3, Northwestern Sector, Western Defense Command Fort Lewis, Wash. He attended the School of Military Government and later became the Assistant Director of the Public Relations Office, Headquarters, 13th Army in Europe. Senator Knowland was released from active service in August, 1945.

SEN. KNOWLAND To Be In Hall Of Fame
During his career in the Senate, Senator Knowland has been a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, the Armed Services Committee and the Foreign Relations Committee. In 1956, he was appointed by the President as a member of the U. S. Delegation to the United Nations 15th General Assembly.

54th Medical News Group Planning New Program of Training

Under the provisions of a newly organized program of combat medical training, the 54th Medical Group Plans to improve markedly the operational efficiency of units in the command. Lt. Col. Peter S. Scoles, commanding officer of the Medical Group, announced.

Previously had been virtually impossible for units of the Medical Group to have enough men available to implement a feasible training program. This condition had resulted from the heavy support commitments which were distributed among the various companies in the 54th Medical Group.

In the future, through a new system of programmed scheduling of training, each unit will be allowed sufficient consecutive uninterrupted weeks in which to conduct unit training satisfactorily.

The improvement in the program will be effected by two methods. First, the total support commitment load will be lightened by eliminating all unnecessary commitments. Secondly, one unit will handle the entire commitment load for each two-month period. Thus other units will be free to conduct uninterrupted training for two or more months.

Although each individual unit will handle its own particular training exercises, the common objective will be to attain and maintain the highest possible level of operational proficiency of all units in the Medical Group. Post-cycle training will be conducted on a high level of training after each unit has successfully completed the annual Army Training Test.

With such a system of training in effective use, the 54th Medical Group will be an even more highly effective combat-ready organization. Lt. Col. Scoles pointed out.

Trails in Field
The Third Field Hospital under the command of Major Hoke S. McGee, moved out of the Fort Mitchell, Ala., area field on Sep. 9 for their Army Training Program.

Upon leaving the quartermaster area early in the morning, the Field Hospital traveled approximately 100 miles in a motor march before reaching the Fort Mitchell, Ala., area where the hospital was set up.

A number of differences in the program will be put into practice during the time that the hospital spends in the field. Day and night moves are planned, along with various defense tactics to keep the hospital safe from aggressors. Actual field hospital functions will be practiced with the use of "patients" from one of the three hospital units of the Third Field Hospital. They will be utilized in a rotation system that will give all units training in the care of the wounded.

While two units combine and act as field hospital personnel, the other unit will act as the sick and wounded. Then the units will rotate and perform and fill opposite duties.

Realism will be enhanced greatly by the use of moulages, which are rubber moulds that are painted to resemble wounds which would occur in combat.

Recreation for the men will be introduced into the field training by setting a time for athletics and by showing movies and tapes during the bivouac area.

GOAT BRIGADE . . . Second Lt. Lowell S. McGill lends a helping hand during the unloading of 25 goats which the Army imported last week to keep the grass and underbrush cropped close in the ammunition dump area at Fort Benning. The goats are expected to eat approximately a ton of forage a month, replacing work of about six men.

Rescue Patients
Once again the 57th Medical Detachment assumed its familiar role of providing a casualty evacuation by helicopter. Early in the morning Sgt. Casey Winham, Operations NCO who was in charge of the detachment, received a telephone call that an emergency evacuation was needed for a soldier who had been bitten by a poisonous snake while in the field.

Since the entire 27th Medical Detachment was on bivouac in the Fort Mitchell, Ala., area, Sgt. Winham had to relay the urgent message to his unit by both radio and telephone. A helicopter was dispatched immediately from the Fort Mitchell area. A heavy fog which blanketed the Chattahoochee River and the Lawson Army Air Field made a successful takeoff appear to be a risky venture at first but the helicopter, piloted by Capt. Louis Evans, with Sp4 Gene McDaniel, medical aidman, and Sp4 Raymond Law, crew chief, proceeded quickly to the end of Jamestown Road where it landed. After aidman McDaniel had applied first aid to the stricken soldier, who was a member of a group on a field problem, the victim was placed aboard the helicopter and flown to the Martin Army Hospital.

After Vivaldi's death, almost all of his compositions suddenly disappeared and for two centuries lay completely forgotten.

(Thank You for Continuing) marshals" in their own right. Fire prevention posters prominently displayed on school bulletin boards, carefully coached fire drills and prepared lectures have been entirely productive. "One of the most effective ways we have found to instill consciousness of the dangers of fire and its hazards," Linder said, "has been the distribution of Fire Prevention questionnaires to young students. These questionnaires are taken home by the children who conduct their own tours of inspection for fire hazards and fill out the appropriate blanks. The completed and signed questionnaires are then returned to the Fire Department through respective grade teachers."

Just how effective these questionnaires have been has been underscored in several instances where fathers have phoned Chief Ward to report that they had just been reminded very pointedly that "they had left a cigarette burning in the living room."

Demonstrations Planned
For civilian personnel and troops, a series of Fire Prevention demonstrations and expecially prepared lectures will be given in the Sand Hill, Harmony Church, Kelly Hill and Main Post areas in which the various types of fire fighting equipment will be explained and demonstrated. Open House will be conducted at all Fort Benning Fire Stations throughout the week and will be open to all military and civilian members of the installation and their dependents and guests.

Fort Benning has rated high among world-wide military installations. Chief Ward has pointed out and earned a Certificate of Merit in 1957 for placing seventh in the field of Fire Prevention. Certificates had been won previously when placed third in 1954, 12 in 1955, and ninth in 1956.

Honored at Luncheon
He was honored at an official luncheon at noon in the Main Officers' Mess. Rep. Walwright ate dinner in the field with the school's Platoon Tactics Committee after viewing an officers leaders class receive instruction in the Code of Conduct.

He devoted Oct. 1 to Weapons Department classes. That morning he participated with an advanced officers class in M-1 and Browning automatic rifle instruction on Roosevelt EXPLAINS SUGGESTION . . . Explaining his suggestion to Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggless, right, deputy commander of The Infantry Center, is Walter S. Ginn, civilian employee of The Infantry Center Engineer Section. Ginn received $185 for his proposal for using portable blinking red lights during night range firing. The lights, which are expected to result in an estimated annual savings of $5,200, are a safety precaution. They are placed at the entrances to the ranges being used at night in lieu of the red range flag which is used for daytime firing.

Col. Beers Talks On Civil Defense Functions in U.S.

Col. (ret.) B. W. Beers, special assistant, National Civil Defense Administration, Silver Spring, Md., spoke on the "Mission, Organization and Operation of Civil Defense" Sept. 19 at Fort Benning.

More than 400 Infantry School officers advanced class students and faculty and staff members held the talk at the Main Theater.

Col. Beers served as chairman of the interdepartmental committee which wrote the post-World War II Civil Defense plans and drafted the public law creating the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

29th Lists 80 Per Cent Re-enlistment

First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, helped to boost the First Infantry Brigade into second place in the major command re-enlistment program for the month of August.

Martin Army Hospital and the School Brigade tied for first with 73 per cent. First Infantry Brigade re-enlisted 41 out of 65 of those eligible for 81.1 per cent for second place. First Battle Group re-enlisted 20 out of a total of 25 eligibles for a percentage of 80 per cent, which was the highest of any unit comparable to a battalion group or battalion size unit. St. Louis D. Johnston, last talking re-enlistment for the battle group, said "It was easy to sell on re-enlistments if you get the support of the company commanders and the unit NCOs."

Col. Tallent Assumes Command of ICTC

Div. He went overseas with the 100th and participated in all the divisions campaigns until wounded and evacuated in April, 1945. After a year in three hospitals in the States, he was pronounced fit for duty. He then began a series of assignments which included service in Germany, Alaska and Korea.

Prior to his present assignment he served as Civilian Component Advisor to Reserve Units in New York City. Lt. Col. Eddy, his wife, Mary and daughter Karen, are residing at 119 Sigler Road at Fort Benning.

Meet Mighty Hercules

FORT MONROE, Va.—Soldier, meet Hercules. And be thankful he's on our side.

Hercules is a missile—a surface-to-air missile. Like the mythological Greek her for whom it is named, he is muscular and remarkable for his power.

Hercules is built of hit, the target, he is meteor-fast. And he seeks out his prey, enemy aircraft, with the sure homing instinct of a starved pigeon winging homp to the nest.

At present Hercules is the only operational missile, along with his dependable older brother, Ajax, in our air defense system today.

Just how good, how reliable, is this super-biller of the skies? In proving ground tests, targets were sent zipping through the skies.

Good news for taxpayers, including our soldiers who have to pay our taxes too: Hercules is low priced.

The complete Hercules air defense system was developed, tested and proved in only three and a half years.

Here is another factor which helps to make the Hercules air defense system the United States has today, with none to dispute its capability and reliability: It is highly mobile and fast-firing.

The Hercules can range far from its command launcher truck to search remorselessly for the enemy over a 20,000 square mile area of sky.

It's Hercules. It's Army all the way. It's here now. And if it isn't quite as infallible as chow call and pay day, it's the best there is in air defense.

Nationalists Employ U.S. Missiles in Air Attacks

TAIPEI — Nationalist Chinese warplanes have been downing Soviet-built MIGs with jet-to-air missiles.

Three separate and responsible sources reported that the first battle in which air-to-air missiles went into combat took place last Sept. 24.

The MIG jet fighters flying from Communist China coast airbases were believed armed only with conventional guns.

College Notes Major Gains In 1st Year

MITCHELL AFB, N. Y.—(AFPS)—Mitchell College, the only basic field college situated on a U.S. military installation, recently observed its first anniversary with an ambitious program of physical expansion. At the same time it adopted a new and more liberal accreditation policy for associated standing evaluation of military service schools and experience a change which should speed enrollments of servicemen and women under the Operation Bootstrap Program.

Its estabishment of a Long Island University extension program, Mitchell College was officially dedicated as a residential liberal arts college of the university in September 1957.

Its steady growth has been encouraged by Lt. Col. Richard L. Conolly, himself a retired admiral and former president of the Naval War College. He has been called one of the country's most outstanding leaders in education.

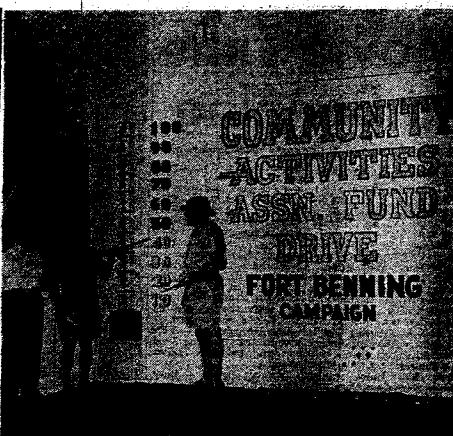

Today the college is clear testimony to the recognition by the Armed Services of the importance of higher education.

Approved by the New York State Board of Regents, and fully accredited by the Middle States Association, it has the authority to confer bachelor degrees in arts, sciences and business administration.

Almost 500 servicemen enrolled for the college's opening classes this year. The program is open to all military personnel on active duty, reservists and in local units. Desirable to military employers and military dependents.

The college's current expansion program aims for new buildings of colonial style arranged in a quadrangle complete with campus. These facilities will accommodate about 1,500 students and will include classrooms, physics, chemistry and biology labs, a lecture hall, student lounge, cafeteria and a 15,000-volume library.

Mitchell's unique AF educational program was pioneered by Col. Milton Fisher, who is now College Military Coordinator and professor of Military Science and Public Speaking. The college's 20 instructors are full-time day instructors at AFU and C. W. Post College.

COMMITTEE ACTIVITIES ASSOCIATION MEETING AT FORT BENNING CAMPAIN

REACHES 40 PER CENT . . . Fort Benning Community Activities Association has reached the 40 per cent mark in its drive for $103,833.42. Noting the $41,112.04 total posted on the campaign's big sign adjacent to the Main Theater at the end of the driver's fifth week are, left to right, John E. Smith, fiscal accountant in The Infantry Center Special Services Section; Col. Adrian L. Hoebcke, commander of the School Brigade and chairman of the drive, and Major Emmett C. Townsend, Infantry Center special services officer and project officer for the fund raising effort.

Benefit Assn. Reports Growth for Past Year

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Armed Forces Enlisted Personnel Benefit Assn. recently ended its fiscal year with insurance in force totaling $12 million. Maj. John J. Krasinski, president of the association, said that during its first year of operation it paid out $50,000 in death claims and also made three $200 emergency loans to members.

Loans of this nature are available, the association head said, to most manual family members. There is no age limit, no travel restrictions, no war life insurance policy, and $12.50 clause and no exclusions, the association said. Association headquarters are located at 622 Washington Blvd., Washington 5, D.C.

The association is controlled by a board of directors who are senior enlisted men on active duty, one from each service. They are elected annually and serve without compensation.

"At the close of each year," an association statement declared, "after claims and expenses are deducted from the gross premium contributions, the remainder, except for a small reserve, is returned to the members."

"Now that the first fiscal year has ended, the directors will meet to decide how much can be returned to members. Announcement is expected within a few months. All grades of regular enlisted personnel in all branches of the service are eligible for the association. Basic rates are 60 per cent for the $10,000 group

Copter Used For Rescue

BISHOP, Calif. (AFPS)—An Air Force test pilot, flying an experimental gas turbine-powered Army helicopter, rescued a seriously injured mountain climber in the high Sierras here.

Believed to be the first rescue ever accomplished in a craft of this type, the YH-40 was being tested by the Flight Test Center. Powered by a Lycoming T-53 gas turbine rather than a conventional engine, the Bell YH-40 had been previously flown to 15,000-foot altitudes by Capt. Hodgson during tests in the Sierras.

Developed as a utility and rescue vehicle, the copter had been completely checked out at the altitude where the rescue was performed.

Fall Season Opened By Command, Staff

Wives of officers of the Command and Staff Dept. of the Infantry School had their first luncheon of the fall season Sept. 31 in the Main Officers' Club with the wives of Alpha Committee acting as hostesses. The luncheon tables were overlaid with white tablecloths and each held an attractive arrangement of late summer flowers. The head table held a lovely centerpiece of yellow mums and white snapdragons. After the luncheon was served, Mrs. Frank Isenor welcomed ladies and introduced the special guests, Mrs. John E. Gogates and Mrs. Stanley Larson. Other guests recognized included Mrs. Sonya Scholl, side table of gold leaves and small pine cones with blue candles. Mrs. Carson Base of Betty Base Flower Shop described several of her dry floral arrangements. An arrangement, donated as a doorniece, was won by Mrs. George Seilly. Hostesses for the affair were the ladies of the Fourth Trans-Portation Company assisted by Mrs. James Woods. Guests were Mesdames John F. Rugles, Mary Jim Romberlin and Sue Burns. Welcome into the Philippines were Mesdames Mary Clappell, Charles Carney, Robert Kuhn and Clair Heinbach. The state of officers for November elections was read and the candidates introduced to the group. Sixty-five ladies attended the luncheon.

fantry School, Mrs. Freeman, Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, the school's assistant commandant, and Mrs. Larson. First Lt. Frank J. Simmons of Bellpage, N. Y., side-of-camera to Gen. Freeman, introduced the guests. The six guests of honor are members of the armies of Argentina, Belgium, Burma, Chile, Colombia, Denmark, Ethiopia, Great Britain, Indonesia, Iran, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Libya, Mexico, Nationalist China, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Republic of Vietnam, Saudi Arabia, S. P. A., Switzerland, Thailand, Turkey, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Special guests were six faculty members of the Infantry School who were chosen by the Allied students as their favorite instructors. They are Lt. Col. Harold A. Hicks, Major George W. Ahrensman, Major Harry L. Moore and Capt. George A. Meighan all of the Special Subjects Department; Major John W. Collins III, Command and Staff Department, and Capt. Madis E. Marve, Ground Mobility Department.

Among the new members welcomed to the group were Mesdames Edward Barkdull, Rudolph Baxley, Cecil Brewer, Floyd Bridson, John Dobrosky, Julius Fritz, John P. Gundaker, Samuel Hayes, Raymond Kennedy, Sheldon Kidder and Robert E. Williams.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the hostesses of the evening, Mrs. J. W. Hay and Mrs. E. B. Wood.

GI Insurance WASHINGTON (APPS) - The VA explained, These include the servicemen's number and kind of dependents, and his basic monthly pay.

Waiver Can Mean Less In Benefits Not affected by an inservice waiver is the payment of GI policy proceeds to the "designated" beneficiary or beneficiaries.

Service men whose policies are still under the waiver should determine if waiving the premium is in the best interest of their survivors. If not, the VA advises, they should cancel the waiver, and resume full payment on the policies.

Complete information on GI insurance is available from armed forces personal affairs officers, or at any VA office.

Army Helps Europeans Grow Foods

FRANKFURT. Germany is the sole vegetable supplied entirely from the United States, and most citrus fruit is also grown state-side.

European farmers, reluctant to assume responsibility for loss in crops new to them, were encouraged by teams from the Quartermaster Market Center here to raise the two crops from seed sent from America. The Center contracted to take specified quantities of their crops which meet quality specifications, thereby assuring vendors and growers of a bulk market.

The Market Center, part of the Northern Area Command, procures fresh fruits and vegetables for all military and civilian personnel of the U. S. Army, Europe, in a logistical complex extending from North Africa to Scandinavia.

In some cases, however, the inservice waiver might actually increase benefits to survivors, the VA said. Generally, the VA points out, higher debt payments authorized last year by the Survivors Benefit Act do not apply to the beneficiaries of those who die while GI policies are under the premium waiver, although survivors are eligible for the older and lesser amount of compensation.

Several factors determine which is the greater benefit, can wait.

Army Given Job to Build Super Thrust

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's latest high-priority project for space flight—building a missile booster with a 1.5-million-pound thrust—has been assigned to the Army.

The "go" order to speed construction of a liquid propellant engine, which will have about eight times greater thrust than the largest existing U.S. propulsion unit, was assigned by the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency.

The booster, missile nose-cone for the first stage of a multistage rocket, will be built under technical supervision of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

The Army said the booster will consist of a cluster of engines, each with a cluster of nozzles, recently tested rocket motors "packaged into a single unit according to proven engineering concepts."

Main element of the cluster of rocket engines will be a modification of a cluster of engines or similar to that used in the Jupiter and Thor intermediate range missiles and the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

This approach, the Army explained, to development of a "super booster" through a combination of existing motors being used in military missile programs is "considered the simplest and least expensive means of placing very large payloads," which could include manned space vehicles, into orbit. No one else for the super booster engine to be ready was disclosed.

Army work on the cluster will be carried out under a $2 million contract with the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation Corp. Rocketdyne also is building an engine of over a million pounds thrust for the Air Force. The development of a single-chambered engine in the million-pound class, officials said, will make a cluster of six for six-million-pound thrust "relatively easy."

MRS. BOYLE ACCEPTS CERTIFICATE FOR HUSBAND From Gen. John F. Ruggles At Ceremony Honoring Late Col. Boyle

Late Lt. Col. Boyle Cited For Work at Fort Benning

A certificate of achievement has been awarded to the late Lt. Col. Charles T. Boyle, Milton, Mass., for his outstanding service at Fort Benning from July, 1956, to the time of his death from a heart attack last Feb. 4.

The commendation was presented to Mrs. Boyle by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, in ceremonies attended by key staff officers of the Infantry Center. The citation read in part: "Col. Boyle is cited for performance of outstanding service as executive officer of the Planning Committee of the U.S. Army Infantry School's Tactical Department and executive officer of the Infantry Center G-3 (Plans and Operations) Section.

Cites initiative "He exhibited a high degree of initiative, sound judgment and exceptional professional and administrative ability in accomplishing all of his duties in a most efficient and expeditious manner.

"His devotion to duty, cooperative and receptive attitude and sincere determination to produce outstanding results earned for him the respect and admiration of all his associates."

Mrs. Boyle, the former Dolores Mosher of Biloxi, resides at 119 Engineer Drive in Columbus, and is employed as an administrator by the American Junior Red Cross. Col. Boyle also is survived by two children, Bonnie Louise, 14, and Charles T. II, 7, and his mother, Mrs. Nora Boyle, Dorchester, Mass.

assigned to Fort Benning in July 1954, for duty with the Third Infantry Division and went to the Infantry School's Tactical Department two years later. He became executive officer of the G-3 Section in June, 1957.

Col. Boyle was graduated from Fort Benning's Officer Candidate School in February, 1943, and attended the Infantry School's officers advanced course in 1948-1949.

During World War II, he trained with the 411th Infantry in Texas and went to Europe with that unit in September, 1944, participating in the Rhineland, Central Europe and Ardennes campaigns.

From July, 1946, to June, 1948, he served with the U.S. Western Pacific Command pre-coaching assignments in the U.S. for four years. He began a two-year tour with the Army advisory group in Turkey in 1952.

His decorations include the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal and Purple Heart.

The Allied visitors were honored at an official luncheon at 119 Engineer Drive in Columbus, Sept. 22 in the Main Officers' Mess. Their tour of the U.S. will include orientations at Washington, D.C., Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., Fort Sill, Okla., Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., Fort Knox Ky., Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Fort Riley, Kans. and Fort Bliss, Texas.

5 Chinese Students Give Infantry School Banner

Five Nationalist Chinese Army officers attending the Infantry School's associate officers advanced class No. 8 at Fort Benning, Ga., presented a banner of appreciation to the school.

The donors are Col. Wang Ching-Ching, Lt. Col. Lee Yen-Kai, Lt. Col. Su Ting-Ying, Lt. Col. Meng Hsine and Major Sun Chieh-Chieh.

They also gave a copy of the book "Russia in China" by Chang Kai-Shek, translated into Chinese, to Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Infantry School commander, who is in the language.

In 1938 Gen. Freeman was assigned as student in Fengling, China, where he studied Mandarin Chinese at the U.S. Army Chinese Language School. In 1941-1942, he was assigned as military attaché in Chungking, China, and continued his studies at the Language School which had been moved to that city.

He was a member of the U.S. Military Mission to China for three months in 1942, then began service in numerous capacities in the newly-formed China - Burma - India Theater.

From January to July, 1945, he was G-2 on the Chinese-American combat staff of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell at Rangoon, India, and Ledo, Burma, before returning to the U. S. to be a member of the Joint War Plans Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In the presentation ceremonies, Col. Wang expressed his appreciation and that of his fellow officers for the opportunity to attend the Infantry School.

"We really appreciate all the instruction received here and would like to extend our respect and thanks by presenting this banner to the Infantry School and this book to Gen. Freeman," he added.

"We five Chinese officers studying here have learned a lot of the latest military knowledge which will not only meet the present requirements of our country but also facilitate American-Chinese cooperation in any future war effort."

At Carlisle Barracks POWs Built Guardhouse Now Weapons Museum

CARLISLE BARRACKS, Pa. (APFS) — A guardhouse at this Army post commemorated over 6,000 in the past year but any disciplinary problem would be daily denied by the authorities.

Reason: Carlisle Barracks, now the campus of the Army War College, is also the site of the historic old Hessian Guardhouse, a popular tourist attraction. The stone structure, dating from 1777, houses displays that depict the evolution of weapons from the primitive war clubs of the Indians to models of today's electronic missiles. The exhibit of over 100 items includes relics of every year in the history of the country.

As interesting to visitors as the displays is the Guardhouse itself. It was built by Hessian prisoners captured by Washington's troops in the Battle of Trenton. A Congressional order detailed 40 such POWs to Carlisle (then called Washington) "to cut wood, tend stables or anything else needed."

What they built was not a guardhouse for their own security but a structure with Pennsylvania limestone walls six feet thick, intended as a powder magazine. It was used as such to store ammunition moved to Carlisle from Baltimore when the British threatened that city.

The magazine did, however, become Carlisle's guardhouse in the 19th century. His picture and a brief summary of his military career are being placed in Wigle Hall, OCS Hall of Fame.

Col. Anders began his commissioned service July 15, 1942, when he was graduated from OCS Class No. 122.

Col. Anders was first assigned as Platoon Leader, ITC, Camp Robinson, Ark. During 1944-45 he served with the 91st Division in Italy as a platoon leader. Upon returning from Italy in 1946, he was assigned to the 25th Cavalry Team, Fort Benning, and later attended the Advanced Officers Course of the Infantry School.

His next assignment sent him to the 25th Infantry Company in Italy as a company commander and a battalion S-3. From 1952-55 he was assigned to the G-2 Section, Department of Army, Washington, D. C.

Re-Up for Security Provided Thru Army

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a first in a series of articles by Sgt. Roy W. Wade, Fort Benning re-enlistment NCO.)

Retirement may seem to be a long way in the future to some of us, but now is the time to start planning and laying the foundations for it. It is possible to plan a profitable retirement unless you start early in life.

The reason we say that a person should start planning his retirement early is that it is possible for a soldier to plan his second career, after an early retirement, and prepare himself through education and training during his active duty period. For example, a man enters the army at 18 years of age, after 20 years of service he may retire and be placed on the retired reserve list. At this time he is only 38 years old and has a background of experience in leadership and certain skills, plus it has been possible for him to obtain an advanced education to any level he desires. With this background and training civilian life will be more than a happy to place him in position of responsibility with commensurate pay, privileges and prestige. Also you may plan to farm or go into your own business. That retirement check coming in each month would certainly lend a great amount of security and peace of mind because of the economic cushion it represents in the face of where he was chief of Disposition Section and project officer, Policy Section of Security Division in Taiwan in 1954. He returned from Taiwan in 1954 as Command and General Staff College.

Col. Anders' decorations include the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, and Combat Infantryman's Badge.

L.T. D. S. RICKARD
New General's Aide

Lt. Assumes Gen. Larsen Aide Duties

First Lt. Daniel S. Rickard has been named aide-de-camp to Brig. Gen. Stanley F. Larsen, assistant commandant of The Infantry School at Fort Benning.

He succeeds Lt. L. Charles O. Neal, who is attending The Infantry School's officers advanced class.

A 1954 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., Lt. Rickard was a student in The Infantry School's basic officers, Ranger and airborne courses before assuming the duties of a company training officer in the 21st Infantry Regiment at Fort Ord, Calif., in February, 1954.

Four months later he went to Korea where he served as a platoon leader in the Fifth Regiment and assistant S-3 of the 21st Infantry Regiment.

He was assigned as a platoon leader in the Fifth Regiment's Combat Team at Fort Lewis, Wash., in December, 1953, which became the Fourth Infantry Division's 22nd Infantry Regiment the following August. He assumed command of a company in the regiment in October, 1956.

In March, 1957, the 27-year-old officer was named assistant S-3 of the unit, which is now titled the 22nd Infantry's First Battle Group. He served as a company commander in the battle group from June, 1957, until entering the Infantry School's officers advanced class No. 2 last January. He was graduated Aug. 22.

Soldiers Seem Them Rise 3 Old Cannons Salvaged Of Possible Pirate Ship

FORT CLAYTON, Canal Zone (ANF) — Three ancient cannons were recently salvaged from the sunken hull of what might prove to be a pirate ship.

Discovered by civilian skin divers 50 yards off the beach of the 16th-century Spanish fortress of San Lorenzo, the guns were brought to the surface with an Army assist before a surprised audience of some 200 soldiers and their families—all of whom are at least hoping for a pirate wreck.

The surprise was engineered by Mrs. Margaret E. Rainey, service club director here, as "a surprise to a recreational field trip. Having received a tip on the discovery of the hull, and making that it tied in with a recent service club lecture on San Lorenzo's history and the club's salvaged men's advisory council arranged the "coincidental" evening operation.

BROOKLYN DODGER — Valley Forge, Pa. (APFS) — A Brooklyn man, William F. Howard, heard from his draft board the other day. They wanted to know why he hadn't registered. He explained that he was an SFC with 15 years in the Army and would be happy to register if they still desired that he do so. They didn't.

During Summer Training Reserves Construct $17,000 in Roads

Three Army Reserve engineer units engaged in two-week training sessions at Fort Benning during July and August constructed $17,500 worth of roads on the military reservation as training of the post.

Twelve and one-half miles of construction was accomplished on Box Springs, Red Diamond and Cyclone Roads and Yankee and Anze Trails by the 567th USAR School of Columbus, S.C., 401st Engineer Brigade of Birmingham, Ala., and 42nd Engineer Brigade of Vicksburg, Miss., totaling 2,698 men.

In addition, the 401st and 42nd Brigades conducted a $2,400 rehabilitation project on an Infantry School Ground Mobilization Unit, Arthur B. Baldwin Jr. and Major John D. Clift, executive officer and S-3 respectively, of the Infantry Center. The 151st Engineer Group provided assistant instructors, equipment and demonstrations for the 307th School.

Army Deactivating 499th Engineer Bn.

A redeployment of colors company was held at French Field Sept. 13 by the 151st Engineer Group (Combat) as part of the deactivation of the 499th Engineer Battalion (Combat) to be completed by Sept. 22.

The 499th has supported The Infantry School since joining the 151st Engineer Group from Karlsruhe, Germany, in February, 1957.

Parent unit of the battalion, the 540th Engineer Shore Regiment was activated Sept. 11, 1941, at Camp Edwards, Mass. It was redesignated as the 540th Engineer Combat Regiment, Oct. 25, 1941. On Feb. 15, 1945, the regiment was broken up with the Second Battalion redesignated as the 22nd Engineer Combat Battalion. The 540th was inactivated at Camp Kilmer, N.J., Nov. 27, 1945. It was allotted to the organized reserve and assigned to the Fifth Army, Jan. 22, 1947. On Feb. 8, 1947, the unit was activated as an organized reserve unit with headquarters at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Redesignates Unit
June 3, 1948, the unit was redesignated the 499th Engineer Battalion (Combat) with headquarters at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The unit was inactivated at Iowa City, Iowa, Nov. 17, 1950. On Nov. 23, 1954, the battalion was withdrawn from allotment to the organized reserve corps and redesignated the 499th Engineer Battalion (Combat), a National Guard unit, which was returned to state control. All personnel and equipment of the 499th Engineer Battalion were transferred to the 140th Engineer and given the mission assigned to the 140th Engineer Battalion.

During its tour in Germany, the battalion engaged in a training program with frequent field exercises and practice alerts. Aug. 12, 1954, the battalion suffered 56 casualties when three officers including the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Frank R. and S1 E1M from Company A were killed during an air transportability exercise. A chapel bell and tablet were erected in the chapel at Phillips Barracks, Karlsruhe, Germany, by members of the battalion in memory of their deceased comrades. An additional bronze tablet was erected at the Army Engineer Center, Fort Belvoir, Va.

In April, 1958, the battalion received notification that it had been designated a gyoescop unit and would gyoescop with the 7th Engineer Battalion (Combat) to Fort Benning early in 1959. Dec. 15, 1958, an advance party of seven officers and 23 enlisted men left Germany by air for Fort Benning to prepare for the reception of the battalion. The main body of the battalion departed Germany Feb. 15, 1959, on the USNS Geiger, arriving in New York Feb. 25, 1957. Personnel of the battalion who did not take leave, immediately enrolled for Fort Benning, arriving on the Second Battalion (Lafayette) redesignated as the 22nd Engineer Combat Battalion. The 22nd was inactivated at Camp Kilmer, N.J., Nov. 27, 1945. It was allotted to the organized reserve and assigned to the Fifth Army, Jan. 22, 1947. On Feb. 8, 1947, the unit was activated as an organized reserve unit with headquarters at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Completes Training
In January, 1958, the battalion completed its Army Training Program with a field exercise and Army Training Test. A Provisional Training Company was organized Jan. 31, 1958, to train 370 trainees for gyoescop with the 7th Engineer Battalion. With the use of cadre from the 499th Engineer Battalion, the advanced individual training program was successfully completed and the trainees left Fort Benning on June 8, 1958, en route to join the 7th in Germany.

The battle honors of the battalion are: Algeria - French Morocco (with arrowhead), Sicily (with arrowhead), Naples - Foggia (with arrowhead) and (with arrowhead), Rome-Alessandria, and Central Europe.

14th Infantry Sgt. Won 1952 Irish Sweepstakes

Sgt. Floyd Bieker, Second Lieutenant, 14th Infantry, is not a full blooded Irishman, but he believes the old saying about the luck of the Irish. In 1952 he bought two tickets for $4 each on chances of winning the $70,000 Irish Sweepstakes. Naturally the odds were great, but he actually thought that he could wave goodbyes to his $10.00, but never did see his $10 again, but the chances made him $29,000 richer. The English government took out income tax, but even after that he had a sum of $8,000.

The following year Sgt. Bieker recently re-enlisted in the Army for another tour. He put it in the bank.

BIGLERVILLE MESS AFTER SERVING OFFICER DINING FOR NEARLY 37 YEARS
Known Today As Crain Hall, Building Was Headquarters For Gen. Patton In World War II

Last Meal Served At Biglerville Mess

BY TOM MALLOY

Army infantry officers throughout the world will probably have a nostalgic night upon hearing that Fort Benning's Biglerville Mess has served its last meal after nearly 37 years of operation. Since 1921, such renowned military figures as Gen. Eisenhower, Marshall, Bradley, Patton and many others dined in the brick landmark known to us as Crain Hall.

In an informal ceremony Sept. 5, Major Donald Fitzgerald, said secretary of The School Brigade's Student Officers' Open Mess, closed the mess after the noon meal. Estimates place the total number of meals served in the famous mess since its opening at approximately 10 million.

Originally opened in 1921 when Camp Benning was still in its infancy, the hall has served as a mess almost continuously for officers of The Infantry School. Its first occupant was a hay barn for the post polo team and as a post exchange grocery store for a short time.

In 1940-41 it served as the temporary headquarters of Gen. George Patton while he was activating the Second Army. Major Fitzgerald estimates that eight million meals have been eaten there since 1944.

designated in 1947 as Crain Hall after T-Sgt. Morris E. Crain, World War II Medal of Honor winner. In 1954 it became part of the Student Officers' Open Mess, and has remained until the present. During the peak years of the Korean War more than 1,500 meals were served daily, and it was reborn again in 1944 when it served as a mess since then.

AMU to Have Exhibition In Pentagon

A marksmanship display to acquaint the Army's high command with the Army Advanced marksmanship shooting program will be set up Oct. 4-10 at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

The display will consist of weapons, shooting gear, trophies and other awards. Major Clinton Carr will lead an AMU group to Washington to set up the display to explain the AMU group to high military and civilian leaders there. Capt. Charles Gordon will assist him in the project.

Eight members of the International Team which competed in the 1958 World Championships at Moscow will visit the trip. They are Lt. Verle Wright, Sgt. Jack Beach, 1st Lt. David Carter, 1st Lt. David Miller, Sgt. Nelson Lincoln, Sgt. Roy Sutherland, CWO Victor Massas, and S-Sgt. William Blackenshine.

At the same time, Col. E. R. Mason, commanding officer of the AMU and Lt. Col. Thomas J. Sharpe, officer in charge of the Army Rifle Team, will receive the National Trophy won by the AMU at the 1958 National Matches at an awards ceremony in Washington.

Station Slates Broadcasts by 3 Grid Coaches

The big three in Southeastern Conference have returned to the airways at football level heads for the annual season's high.

They can be heard each week on WGSA. On Wednesdays, will be the "Bear Bryant Show" at 5 p.m. Sitting at the helm of the famous "Crimson Tide" of Alabama, Coach Bryant will give the highlights of the previous week's games plus expert analysis on the games to come.

Gen. Johnson Visits Post for Briefing

Major Gen. Harry W. Johnson, deputy chief of staff for combat developments of Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., visited Fort Benning Sept. 29.

The two-star general conferred with Brig. Gen. Stanley E. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, and was briefed on the school's view of each week's game throughout the season.

Jump Club Planned Here Pair Learning Free Fall Parachuting at Ft. Bragg

Major John P. Sadler and Capt. Timothy G. Cannon, members of the Airborne-Air Mobility Department, are attending a course, being conducted at Fort Bragg, N.C., in the techniques of free fall parachuting.

The two officers are attending the course in order to become qualified instructors under the requirements outlined by the Parachute Club of America. Upon completion of the course, Major Sadler and Capt. Cannon will conduct training here at Fort Benning for members of the Benning Sport Parachuting Club.

Doughboys Romp In Home Opener

Richard Van Lom, a 6-2 pass catcher from Hillsboro, Oregon, caught two touchdowns and two passes good for points after touchdown to lead the Fort Benning Doughboys to a 46-0 victory over the Bessemer Rebels' here Sunday night before some 9,000 fans at Doughboys' stadium.

Van Lom, caught his two touchdowns in the second period and then left it up to his teammates, led by quarterback, John Berdick who led his team to a much easier victory than the 46-0 score.

11 Fights on Card Bouts Scheduled Tonight at Post

The third matches of the 1958-1959 Fort Benning Amateur Boxing Season will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Briant Wells Fieldhouse.

First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, is in top shape with 44 fighters. They organized their own club and are better than other units and as a result got off to a good start in the first two matches.

There are 11 matches already made with at least two more, expected to be made at the weigh-ins this morning. In tonight's fights the 29th Infantry has five fighters on the card: Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, five; Second Infantry Division Trains, five; Infantry Company Command, two; Third Medium Tank Battalion, 66th Armor, two, and Second Medium Tank Battalion, 69th Armor, one.

A match which promises to give plenty of action is the heavyweight bout between Sgt. Luis Tapia, Third Medium Tank Battalion, 66th Armor, and Sgt. Ralph Brinson, Second Infantry Division Trains. Tapia and Brinson have been matched twice before but the best fight to materialize because of training requirements. They are both experienced fighters with opposite styles. Tapia beats a boxer and Brinson a puncher.

The next matches are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Oct. 14 in Briant Wells Fieldhouse. The public is invited to all matches. Admission is free.

Gls Will Hear Barber, Rizzuto During Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball fans everywhere will find two well-known sports personalities assisting Armed Forces Radio broadcasts when the World Series begins Oct. 3.

Red Barber, who is the invocation of the Adjutant General of the Army, will make his first military installations in the Far East beginning Oct. 12, has volunteered his services to AFIS and its coverage of the series.

Charlie Quinn Dove Season Ends Here on Weekend

The first session of dove shooting of the fall season will close this weekend after one of the best shoots Fort Benning has seen in years. Almost every shotgunner on post got in at least one lick of dove hunting during the two weeks and many of them approached bag limits.

M-Sgt. Jim Forester, USAIC G-3 Section, was telling me that he had plenty of targets but the speedy rascals insisted upon coming in at shoulder height. This trick coupled with the large number of hunters, made things a little too interesting at times, according to Jim, who picked out an open spot where he could keep one eye on the incoming birds and the other for ever-enthusiastic hunters.

It need not be said that shotgunning can be an expensive game with the cost of shells today, but Major Alfrid Dunn, also of G-3, has solved the problem by some degree. The major has had the art of reloading in and producing shells which are comparable to those better than factory loads at less than half cost.

Tickets for the Fish and Game Maintenance Association's annual Turkey Shoot, scheduled Nov. 23, are now on sale. Some 53 prizes are listed as awards with a car as the top item followed by a number of shotguns.

Funds from the shoot go for the support of association activities. The dove hunting enjoyed in the past two weeks was no accident of nature. It took a lot of expert planning to get those birds to favor Benning fields over the succulent pastures of surrounding civilian farms and a lot of work and expense to keep them coming.

Limited to Membership Fees Association income is almost entirely limited to membership fees and to your support of its two annual whing-dings—the barbecue and the turkey shoot. From these funds the association has to produce the money required to operate a program which, in my mind, is second to none among military reservations and which stretches over a period of 365 days a year.

The vast system of ponds and streams on the reservation is a major problem in itself and the cost of fertilization, restocking and maintenance is no small amount. Yet, the hunter on post expects that his pastime should be given just as much association support as that of the other great greens. The money will be used to the purchase of seed, the installation of other items necessary to provide food and cover for desirable game birds and animals.

Tilling and planting can't be accomplished by hand (although more than once Range Guards have done just that) so farmin' equipment has to be purchased and maintained. A program of predator control has to be continued to protect what game we have. I, well, you get the point . . . your support of the association's activities is necessary to the program—or the program will decrease commensurately.

For next week's column we'll get a list of turkey shoot prizes and run some detailed points on hunting regs and rules. . . and that's it for September.

Vel Hands Dupriest 1st Pro Loss

Welterweight Billy Dupriest, First Battle Group, 28th Infantry, suffered his first pro defeat at the hands of the more experienced Rocky Randall in a 10-round main event held in Rome, Ga., Randall's home town, Sept. 29.

The fight with Randall was the first 10-round match for Dupriest. Prior to the 10-round fight three six-round matches and a four-round match.

Randall, with 185 pro fights under his belt, proved too much for the less experienced Dupriest and had the tall soldier from Oxford, Miss., in trouble in three different rounds. Early in the bout, Dupriest used stiff jabs to finish him off.

Division Announces Basketball Program

Second Division Headquarters released an official statement recently designed to establish a basketball program within the division. The program is to be set up so as to insure maximum participation, and afford the opportunity for interested personnel in the division to develop and improve skills and team play.

Ball basketball will be played at both company and major command level with emphasis on the company level program, both indoors and outdoors during the period November 1 to February 2, 1959. Major commands will determine a company level champion, who will be eligible to compete in the Division Company Level championship.

It is urged that maximum use of outdoor facilities be used as there is only one indoor facility available in the field house.

Company Assigned 14 Vietnam Interpreters

First Student Battalion
Fifth Company received 14 Vietnamese Army officers last week who will be interpreters for Allied Infantry platoons.

The 14 Viet Nam officers were assigned to the new building, 220-A, by Capt. John Smith, Fifth Company commander and Capt. Chuan, in-charge of the Vietnam students. The company now totals 14 interpreters and 175 Vietnam student officers.

Third Company—Three promotions to first lieutenant were received in Infantry Motor Officers Class No. 2 last week. Promoted were Thomas W. Buff, Gaspar Y. Abene, and Walter D. Burdick.

Second Company—There are 47 Allied officers from eight different countries presently attending Associated Advance Class No. 4. Countries included are Belgium, Denmark, Turkey and Vietnam. The largest single group of officers is composed of 20 captains from Vietnam.

First Company—Recently 14 and eight promotions to lieutenant to captain. Five of the officers to join the ranks of captain were assigned to the 1st Company.

The wives of officers of Advance No. 2 had their initial orientation in the form of a coffee. This was the first get-together of the wives of all officers in IOLC are required to undergo.

21st Company approaches the end of its six-week course of instruction. Twelve of the students received orders for Korea. This will be a homecoming for one of the men, 2nd Lt. Paul E. Raetz. His father manages the Korean orphanage formerly established by the 24th Infantry Division.

26th Company—A couple of the better athletes in H&C No. 4 are 2nd Lts. Bob Clark and Thomas C. Looney. While at West Point this past year, Lt. Clark led his company to the intramural championship. He was active both as player and organizer of his company teams. Lt. Looney comes to Fort Benning via West Point where he lettered in football as a center.

Infantry School Detachment
Company A has been assigned a new first sergeant in Sgt. Robert V. Spaul. He replaces Sgt. James W. Sparks. Sgt. Spaul is a veteran of 12 years' service, and his last overseas assignment was Korea. He was

Change Planned To Set Handicap

Company B has been assigned to St. George C. Rogers, and Sgt. James T. Mitchell. Both were assigned to the Communications Department.

Six lieutenants went to the Operations Section and Sgt. Mitchell was assigned to the Supply Section.

Company C was assigned to W. Gries and Sgt. Kermit Tuck. Sgt. Gries has just returned from Germany and Sgt. Tuck was assigned to Company E two years ago. Both men are new arrivals within the past week.

Company F—Sgt. Raymond G. Stach has returned to Company F where he will finish his few remaining months in the service. Sgt. Stach's last assignment was with USA Military District, Birmingham, Ala. He is assigned for duty to the Special Editing and Quarterly Section of the Editorial and Information Department as an information supervisor.

Company G—A day room in the Ramsey Church Wing on Paul has been completed. Newcomers to the vehicle capabilities are Major Bernard M. Jasiniski as chief of the committee; Capt. Rodney E. Thralls as principal instructor; Sgt. Charles R. Edwards as NCOIC, and Sgt. William H. Cleveland as Assistant Instructor.

Fourth Student Battalion
H and S Company—Pathfinder Class No. 2-A, has started its training which will run for approximately six weeks.

Airborne Class No. 6 has made its final jump to get novice wings. They graduated Sept. 25.

40th Company—The unit has gained a new commander and a new first sergeant. Capt. Donald E. Pointer moved over from H and S Company and Sgt. Frank L. Koon was assigned from Hq. and Hq. Company, 1st Air Engineer Group.

2nd Company—The following men from Hq. and Hq. Company School Brigade, has been assigned to the unit: Sgt. Billy C. Davis, Willie J. Whitefield and Stephen Pavlinchak. Sgt. James H. McElfish and Pvt. Charles M. O'Brien.

44th Company—Capt. and Mrs. Ludwig Malfovich announce the arrival of a new son, S-Sgt. and Mrs. Walter Vick have a new daughter, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Albert Behnke, father of 2nd Lt. James E. Behnke, a graduate of the class, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Within the next week or 10 days, new scorecards will be placed in use at the Country Club. The significant feature of the change will be the new handicap ratings for the holes on the championship 18.

The handicap ratings on the old cards were based strictly on yardage. This is to say, the longest hole on the course was rated as the number one handicap hole, the next longest number two and so forth. In actual practice the longest holes were not necessarily the most difficult. For example, the number one handicap hole was the second hole on the course. Yes, as most players realize, it was not a particularly difficult par five hole. The new system will be based on how difficult it is to achieve a par score on each given hole.

The new ratings are based on actual experience. The handicapping committee took the hole scores for every round in the USAIC tournament, Third Army Open Tournament, and the Third Army Golf tournament. These scores were added for each hole and the total was compared with the total that should have been achieved theoretically (number of rounds played times par). Then the holes were arranged according to the number of strokes by which the actual

THE DAY THE NEWSPAPERS DIDN'T COME OUT

Newsboys had no papers to deliver or sell. The city's newsstands were bare. No papers to be bought anywhere. Strikes had halted production of the town's newspapers and overnight this important part of the lives of thousands ceased to exist.

Other media tried to fill the gap, but without much success. Radio cannot illustrate the day's news. TV is impractical on the bus or train to and from work. Neither furnish a memorable printed record for study or comparison. Magazines miss the spontaneity of a fast-breaking story.

The city's business suffered. Merchants missed the throngs who responded to their newspaper ads. National advertisers discovered that their brands remained on dealers' shelves longer.

This actually happened recently in several of the nation's cities. Newspaper shutdowns left voids in the routine of thousands—voids which clearly demonstrate the vital importance of the newspaper.

Your newspaper reports and interprets current issues. It keeps you aware of matters that affect your job, health and safety, children's education and future. It helps make your community a better place in which to live, work and play. It relaxes and entertains you in a score of ways. And, most important, your newspaper guards your freedoms.

Men Return From Duty At ROTC Summer Camp

COMPANY B came from the 66th Transportation Company. They are Sgt. Dan Dwyer, Pfc William E. Laird and Jerry W. Melvin and Pvt. Dell C. Parker.

Sic Francis L. Wright has recently been assigned a new job as platoon sergeant. Wright was formerly a truck driver. M-Sgt. Samuel P. Dawson received orders last week transferring him to the First Battalion, USAFIC.

Company A, Capt. George W. Thomson has recently been assigned as company commander.

It replaces Lt. L. Richard McCroy who is being transferred to the Ranger Department. Capt. Thomson comes to the 39th from Tule Air Base, Greenland, where he was with Detachment No. 31 Army Transportation Terminal Command.

Two members of the company, M-Sgt. Timothy O. Newman and William R. Barkdale, received Certificates of Achievement for 30 years of service last week. The certificates, signed by Maj. Gen. Paul I. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center, and presented to the men by Col. H. F. McFelye, first sergeant of both the men are stationed at Broomfield, Germany. They are in the U.S. for the purpose of coordinating organization and training of the men assigned to the "gyroscopic packets" what will replace the 22nd and 58th Signal Companies in Germany. Upon completion of this mission the lieutenant and sergeant will return to their home stations.

56th Trans. The 56th is host to the men assigned to units currently stationed in the European Command. These men are 1st Lt. James P. Silage of the 58th Signal Company and M-Sgt. Richard D. Foor a member of the 39th Signal Battalion. The parents of both the men are stationed at Broomfield, Germany. They are in the U.S. for the purpose of coordinating organization and training of the men assigned to the "gyroscopic packets" what will replace the 22nd and 58th Signal Companies in Germany. Upon completion of this mission the lieutenant and sergeant will return to their home stations.

51st Trans. Members of the 51st Transportation Company received a letter of appreciation from the commanding officer of the 39th Transportation Battalion, the letter commended the company for its adequate support of the Motor Training Component of the Ranger Dept., USAFIC, during the period Aug. 15 through Sept. 5, 1958.

Approximately 25 members of the company loaded onto 24 trucks early on the morning of Sept. 28 and left for Dahomega, Ga. While there the men will support the Ranger Camp. The group is due to return to Fort Benning Oct. 21.

Sgt Harold E. Humphreys has just joined the company following his re-enlistment Sept. 22. Humphreys re-enlisted for service in the United States, following a tour of duty in Germany.

Indianhead Song Makes Radio-TV Debut Today

The "Indianhead Song" will be the official march of the Second Infantry Division today, the effective date of approval by the Second's commander, Major General R. H. Wieseneck.

Composed by the Second Division bandmaster, Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales, the march is being presented on radio and television today for the first time since it was formally adopted.

"The march," said Morales, "is in three-part form. The first two strains being bombastic and vigorous, a style ideal for outdoor performance. The trip is the actual 'Indianhead Song' it carries the following text:

"We're the fighting Indianheads, so be proud, To the glory of our country, we will work 'til the job is done. Now together, arm in arm we go, in the name of liberty, As we toast the fighting Indianheads.

"We'll keep our country free, we'll write the history of our day, We'll sing in Wuerzburg, Germany while he was bandmaster of the 10th Infantry Division. Shortly after learning that the 10th Infantry would be inactivated after returning from the United States and the officers and men of the 10th would be transferred to the 2nd Infantry Division.

Div. Picks 1st Top Soldier For Month

Private George V. Swauger, Company B, Second Battalion, 23rd Infantry, was named the First Infantry Division Soldier of the Month last Wednesday after appearing before a board at Division Headquarters and competing against top notch soldiers from each unit within the Division.

Rumer-up in the contest was Pfc Frank M. Molliteno, C Troop, Seventh Cavalry.

Selection was made on the basis of superiority in neatness, military bearing and knowledge of military subjects and current events. Only personnel in the pay grades E-4 or below were eligible to participate in the contest.

The board was composed of eight absentee ballot voters, four from the Division's major units.

Besides being chosen Division Soldier of the Month, Private Swauger will receive $25 cash, a wrist watch suitably engraved, a three day pass and a certificate signed by the Commanding General.

Private first class Molliteno, runner up in the contest, will receive $15 cash, three day pass and a certificate signed by the Commanding General.

The Soldier of the Month contest will be a monthly event, selecting the Division's top soldier.

Units Construct T1 Boards

Troop information boards are currently being constructed in all units throughout the Indianhead Division. The boards are being constructed to keep all personnel in the Division informed on current and military events.

The construction of the boards are under the supervision of each separate unit commander. Upon completion of the boards, unit troop information non-commissioned officers and officers are responsible for keeping the boards up to date with current information received from the Division's Troop Information Office.

It was explained, the general objective of troop information is to increase the effectiveness of the army by providing information to increase understanding and develop in each soldier, his belief in the principles of American democracy and freedom, his sense of responsibility as a citizen of the United States, awareness of the threat of Communism to America and the free world, determination to fight to preserve his American heritage, will to continue resistance, when facing military odds in physical, mental, and emotional stress.

Troop Information explains to each soldier the mission of the Army, the mission of his unit, his military service obligations and the current situation and actions which affect him as an individual, his responsibilities in conduct of behavior as a member of the Army, the people, geography, climate and importance of military-civilian relationships in areas in which he may serve and National and international events which affect him as an individual.

Troop Information also helps to convince each soldier that he is of personal importance to the Army.

His duties are essential to the effective operation of his unit and his unit has a vital mission in the role of the Army. The Army has an essential role in the defense of the nation and the free world and Military service is a patriotic duty and merits the support and respect of every citizen.

Plans Set For Division Anniversary

By 2nd Div PIO Organization Day machinery went into high gear this week as the planning committee received the official approval for the Division-wide review, open house, Miss Second Division contest and many other events which are currently being planned.

Major General R. H. Wieseneck, who has been attending to each soldier the mission of the Army, the mission of his unit, his military service obligations and the current situation and actions which affect him as an individual, his responsibilities in conduct of behavior as a member of the Army, the people, geography, climate and importance of military-civilian relationships in areas in which he may serve and National and international events which affect him as an individual.

First Soldier of Month

Pvt. George V. Swauger, Company B, Second Battalion, 23rd Infantry, is the first soldier to be named, Soldier of the Month within the Second Division since it was organized in June of this year.

Old Chief Departs, New Chief Assigned

By 2nd Div PIO The Second Infantry Division bid farewell to Colonel Clifford J. Van Sickle, Chief of Staff, and welcomed Kenneth R. Lindner as his successor this week.

The public announcement of the major staff change was made by the Second Division Commander, Major General R. H. Wieseneck, at a reception honoring the outgoing chief Saturday evening.

Colonel Van Sickle leaves the division after five years of service for a new assignment with the Command and Staff Department of the Army Infantry School at Fort Benning.

Colonel Van Sickle has had the unique Army experience of serving for many of the same staff for the past five years. He was a regimental executive with the 37th at Camp Polk, Louisiana. When the colors of that division were returned to Ohio and the Second Infantry Division was reactivated, he was assigned to the 10th Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kansas. Colonel Van Sickle became Executive Officer of the 10th's 88th Infantry Regiment and later became Division G-3 during Operation Gyroscope.

Shortly after the 10th arrived in Germany, Colonel Van Sickle became Commanding Officer, 88th Infantry Regiment, and in 1957, he was named Chief of Staff.

He remained as Chief of Staff of the 10th until its inactivation here on June 14th when he retired, September 20, with approximately $31,000 in Soldiers Deposit since he entered the Army, October 28, 1953.

Upon enlisting in the Army, Sergeant Lawson received his assignment to Fort Benning, Georgia. During his 20 year military career, Sergeant Lawson served a total of five years over the Second Infantry Division. Sergeant Lawson plans to make his home upon retirement at Olaton, Tennessee.

EM Retires After Serving 20 Years

By 2nd Div PIO A Second Division A-1 Ceter Sergeant has proven Soldiers Deposit is a good savings plan. He retired, September 20, with approximately $31,000 in Soldiers Deposit after 20 years active military service.

Master Sergeant Roy Lawson, Second Medical Battalion, Second Infantry Division, has saved $31,000 in Soldiers Deposit since he entered the Army, October 28, 1938.

Upon enlisting in the Army, Sergeant Lawson received his assignment to Fort Benning, Georgia. During his 20 year military career, Sergeant Lawson served a total of five years over the Second Infantry Division. Sergeant Lawson plans to make his home upon retirement at Olaton, Tennessee.

Major Named Finance Officer For 2nd Division

By 2nd Div PIO Major Victor E. Bess has been assigned as the new Second Infantry Division Finance Officer to fill the vacancy created by the re-assignment of Major Hugh S. McLaughlin, 2nd Division Finance Officer, to Headquarters last Friday, inactivated.

(Thank You for Continuing) official Second Division March. After consultations with the Office of the Chief of Military History for information of the existence of an official march, it was learned that apparently the Indianhead Division never had an official march.

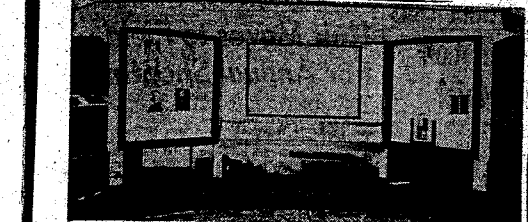

In April, 1958, the lyrics and music of the Indianhead Song was finished. The 10th Infantry Division, which is famous in Europe for its many network radio performances, and the USARMC prize winning division chorus played and sang the "Indianhead March" for the first time. Only a handful of staff members and enlisted men who were in the band heard it. The occasion, however, was historic.

Battalion Constructs Two New Airstrips

57th Battalion

The 151st Engineer Battalion (Construction) has been ordered to design and plan construction of two airstrips at Fort Benning. The project was integrated in the Army Training Program, which started in 1957. The project was designed and designed criteria established. The surveyor under the leadership of Cpl. Arthur J. Pascoe, will then obtain pertinent information from a 4 1/2 location to be utilized in proposed plans. Both airstrips will be in the southern portion of the reservation, one in the vicinity of Walla Range and the other in the vicinity of the 49th Engineer Battalion (Combat). The 57th Engineer Battalion received a large number of officers. Assuming command of the battalion is Maj. Raymond O. Eggleston, former commander of the 49th Engineer Battalion (Combat). Lt. Lee E. Beahler has been assigned as executive officer.

Members of the 57th Engineer Battalion observed Open House at the 10th Artillery Range on Oct. 1, 1958. The 10th Artillery Range is a 100-acre range. The 10th Artillery Range is a 100-acre range. The 10th Artillery Range is a 100-acre range.

Commander Has Responsibility For Men's Moral Life, Ryan Says

The Army commander at all the various levels of command is answerable for the moral and religious life of the men in his command, Army's chief of chaplains, Chaplain (Maj) Gen. J. Bryan Ryan said Sept. 9 at Fort Benning.

On his annual visit, and on his last official visit to Fort Benning before retirement in October, Chaplain Ryan addressed the advanced officers' classes of The Infantry School in the Main Theater.

The Army provides the commander with chaplain for his assistance in meeting this responsibility and the chaplain's mission is to promote religion and morality in the Army, Chaplain Ryan pointed out.

Not to coerce

In fulfilling this phase of his responsibility the commander must energetically encourage men to participate in services.

COL. C. C. NOBLE
New Deputy G-3

Of Infantry Center Col. Noble Assumes Deputy G-3 Position

Col. Charles C. Noble has assumed the post of deputy G-3 of the Infantry Center.

He replaced Col. William M. Linton, who replaced Col. Noble as 1stst Engineer Group commander.

Col. Noble is a 1940 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy and received a master of science degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge in 1948.

After being graduated from the Command and General Staff College, he commanded the 17th Combat Engineer Battalion in the European Theater from September, 1944, to the following September.

Following a year's tour on the Military Liaison Committee to the Atomic Energy Commission, Washington, D.C., and his graduate work at MIT, Col. Noble was assigned as war plans officer in the G-3 Division of Department of Army, Washington.

28th Scout Dog Platoon
Pfc Eldon Howdyshell joined the ranks of married men when he wed the former Wanda Lee Ragsdale of LaFayette, La. The ceremony was performed August 30.

SP4 Paul J. Richardson is leaving the home folks in Detroit, Mich.

Company D
2nd Lt. James D. Podraza is the father of a baby during the week of his assignment to St. Francis Hospital, St. Louis.

His name is Ellison. The baby weighs seven pounds.

Another father is Sgt. Rivera Bernabe, whose daughter was born at Maria Army Hospital. She weighed 11 pounds.

Sgt. Potter R. Lamb is back on duty after a week's stay at the Martin Army Hospital.

5-Sgt. Johnny C. Pelt held up his right hand for a six year re-enlistment to fill his vacancy.

Navy Using Buoys to Spot Hurricanes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new hurricane locating system that may flash storm warnings up to four days sooner than now possible is being tested by the Navy in the Gulf of Mexico.

Three experimental weather buoys already have been anchored in the western and central Gulf, the Navy said.

The new hurricane detectors would give advance storm warnings by virtue of their location. Placed in isolated areas of the Gulf and Atlantic, they would act as a supplement to present observation methods, the Navy said.

The buoys are engineered and designed to withstand heavy seas for prolonged periods of time. They will transmit data for six months or six hour schedule without changing batteries.

But before the new system can be placed in actual operation, the Navy said, a complete evaluation must be made on methods of anchoring, transmission frequencies, seaworthiness and instrument reliability.

Meloy Assigned 4th Army Chief, To Get 3rd Star

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major Gen. Guy S. Meloy has become commanding general, Fourth Army, at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, with three-star rank on Oct. 1, the Army has announced.

Formerly deputy commander of the 1st Cavalry Division, Meloy succeeds Lt. Gen. John H. Collier, who retired Sept. 30.

Collier has headed Fourth Army since October 1955.

27th JCOE To Open Today at Fort Benning

Industrialists, bankers, educators, labor officials, publications and public relations executives are among the 74 civilians who arrive today at Fort Benning for the Army phase of the 27th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference.

The conference will continue until Oct. 12. Getting a firsthand look at the Army's combat readiness and use of the defense dollar will be such visitors as Edward P. Brooks, dean of the School of Industrial Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.; Robert R. Brun, American News editor of The Christian Science Monitor, Boston, Mass.; Clayton Colyer, president, American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, New York City; Horace C. Gannigan, chairman of the Board, Manufacturers Trust Company, New York City; Stuart K. Hensley, president, The Tool Company, Chicago, Ill.; J. Clyde Lottis, president, Kraft Foods Company, Chicago; Robert E. Lusk, president, Boston & Bowles, Inc., New York City; Orrin R. Taylor, director, Ohio Newspaper Association, Archbold, Ohio; and Albert Whitehouse, department, Industrial Union, D. C. AFU-CIO, Washington, D. C.

The conferees will witness demonstrations of the Army's latest tactics and weapons, including an airborne drop team in action, reinforced rifle company in night defense and an amphibious assault.

Other JCOEs who have accepted the invitation to attend the Fort Benning phase of the conference are:

Charles Austin, technical representative (See JCOE, Page 9)

Highway Closes
For Conference

The portion of highway 108 running through the Fort Benning military reservation will be closed from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Oct. 11.

The closings are necessitated by rehearsals and demonstrations for the Army phase of Joint Civilian Orientation Conference, No. 27, Infantry Center officials announced.

New Career Plan Okehed

Establishes Testing System, Competitive Promotions

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Army has shaped the long-range career management plan for soldiers, which, for the first time, established a permanent testing system and charts a fixed course for competitive promotions.

Developed after two years of study by manpower experts at the Enlisted Management Program, the plan aims to enhance career opportunities in the ranks by:

- (1) Setting up a system to evaluate enlisted personnel against Army-wide standards;
- (2) Providing extra awards for greater proficiency;
- (3) Contrasting assignment methods for top-two NCOs and NCOs;
- (4) Offering college training in scientific, technical and administrative fields at government expense to some 1,200 soldier-students over the next four years.

This composite score of records, the Army said, will insure the selection of the best qualified men and women service for advancement, proficiency pay and further career development.

Army's Set at 29,000

Defense Gives Pro Pay Quotas

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—First Defense Department quotas under the new incentive pay system will give some 80,000 enlisted personnel, primarily in critical skills, proficiency increases of $30 a month during Fiscal Year 1959.

The long-awaited retention incentive plan, approved by President Eisenhower as announced by Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, provides the proficiency hikes for approximately 29,000 Army, 20,000 Navy, 6,000 Marine Corps and 25,000 Air Force members in certain occupational fields prior to next June 30.

Although no definite date for payments to start was set in Mr. McElroy's policy guideline, a Defense spokesman said the separate services negotiations will be ready in a "matter of days" and should be in effect before the end of the calendar year.

Starts At E-4
With the exception of the Marine Corps, which includes troops in grade E-5 with more than two years' service, personnel selected for pro pay will be in grade E-4 or above with 90 per cent of the payments being made in occupational fields where shortages exist.

Overall allocations of the awards in these categories are $8,000 to recruitment and $8,000 to retention.

Part of the funds contributed by the military and civilian population of the post are allocated to welfare and service projects conducted at Fort Benning. Another portion is annually allocated to the overall United Givers fund program operated for the total tri-county area of Fort Benning, Columbus, Georgia, and Phenix City. The post funds are especially significant in helping to support various activities in which the military population comprises either a total or high percentage of participation.

These organizations include U.S. Armed Services YMCA, U.S.O. Units, Columbus Boys Club, the Muscogee and Tusculum County chapters of the American Red Cross, Travelers Aid Society, Columbus Speech School, Central Palmy, Boy and Girl Scouts, YMCA, and the Ninth Street YMCA, and the Fifth Avenue Community Center.

Department approval and "early" implementation is anticipated, officials said.

Raise Prestige
To guarantee "thorough" use of the skills and raise the prestige of some 14,500 NCOs and specialists slated for promotion (See Career Page 2)

End of the month military and civilian pay days bring the total of Fort Benning's Community Activities Association fund drive to $29,282.12 or two-thirds of the "fair share" goal at the end of five weeks.

Use Widely
Five weeks remain in the major annual fund raising campaign to make the additional one-third figure for success. The project got under way Aug. 25 and will continue to Nov. 7. Fort Benning's fund drive is one of the thousands being conducted throughout the nation in the traditional annual fall effort of all communities in welfare planning.

Use Widely
Part of the funds contributed by the military and civilian population of the post are allocated to welfare and service projects conducted at Fort Benning. Another portion is annually allocated to the overall United Givers fund program operated for the total tri-county area of Fort Benning, Columbus, Georgia, and Phenix City. The post funds are especially significant in helping to support various activities in which the military population comprises either a total or high percentage of participation.

These organizations include U.S. Armed Services YMCA, U.S.O. Units, Columbus Boys Club, the Muscogee and Tusculum County chapters of the American Red Cross, Travelers Aid Society, Columbus Speech School, Central Palmy, Boy and Girl Scouts, YMCA, and the Ninth Street YMCA, and the Fifth Avenue Community Center.

Department approval and "early" implementation is anticipated, officials said.

M. SGT. ABNEY RECEIVES HEROISM MEDAL Award Pinned On By Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles

Ft. Benning Sergeant Presented Soldiers Medal for Bravery

The Soldiers Medal, awarded by the Department of the Army, was presented to M. Sgt. Ivan M. Abney, Company C, First Battalion, Infantry Center Troop Command, at a ceremony held on Chapel Field Oct. 1.

The 41-year-old sergeant distinguished himself on March 12 when he, at the risk of his own life, entered a burning automobile to remove an unconscious officer to safety. Sgt. Abney's courageous and immediate action in complete disregard for his own personal safety prevented the loss of the injured officer's life.

"At the time, I didn't stop to consider possible consequences," the sergeant stated after the ceremony. "once I saw the situation, I moved in and took the only action possible."

The "action" included the forcing of a door of the furiously burning vehicle which was awkwardly resting on a steep incline, releasing the officer whose body was wedged in the opposite side of the car, and passing him out to spectators who had gathered at the scene.

Fort Benning will observe National Enlisted the Handicapped Week Oct. 5 through 11 in tribute to its civilian and military handicapped personnel.

Throughout the past hundreds of military and civilian workers who have some degree of disability or handicap are performing jobs from clerical, mechanical, or professional nature to skilled and unskilled labor. Approximately 10 per cent, or about 300 civilian employees at Fort Benning are handicapped persons.

Long-Time Helper
A long-time leader in the employment of handicapped personnel, the Army continues to develop its utilization of this valuable source of manpower.

"Although we spotlight our employment program in the annual week's observance of the Handicapped, our program is an every day, year-round project," said Arthur G. Medlock, coordinator for employment of the physically handicapped at Fort Benning.

Typical handicapped employees and their jobs are such individuals as James P. McGroha, supervisor of Auto Stock Control Unit in the Infantry Center's Transportation Section, with 13 years of federal (See CRIPPLED, Page 2)

Auditions Start For Presentation At Christmas

Auditions for the annual Christmas presentation of "The Messiah" are now being held under the direction of the Infantry Center Special Services Section.

"We have specific needs for soprano, contralto, tenor and bass soloists and organists," said Major Ernest C. Townsend, Infantry Center Special Services officer.

Scholarships will be made by Oct. 18. The concert, to be presented Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. in Theater No. 1, is one of the major events of the Christmas season.

Auditions may be arranged and further information obtained by telephoning Fort Benning 3-3122 or 2-3118.

Bear Down on Essentials

Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, CONARC, commanding general, has spelled out a blueprint for bringing the Army to a higher level of combat readiness...

These guidelines were the highlights of a talk made by Gen. Clarke to the National Guard Association convention at Atlantic City, Sept. 29...

"I propose that we eliminate the non-essentials and bear down hard on the essentials in training..."

"I propose that we eliminate the non-essentials and bear down hard on the essentials in training..."

Replacing wrong habit with right habit, the four-star officer went on, "is the training task..."

Such seemingly minor points as wearing helmets and carrying weapons with care...

The CONARC commander put special emphasis on a call for more night training...

Have you had first-hand experience of this? Are you on your way out for a letter of no more than 500 words of my "My Part in Winning Friends for Freedom?"...

Job for People to Finish

In a letter to the editor of The New York Times, George V. Denney Jr., Vice President of the "People-to-People Foundation, made this observation...

"People like or dislike people largely for what they are and what they do, not because of what governments say. The Russian government has a vested interest in hatred, not so the Russian people..."

Intramural sports, off training aids, functional models of military equipment will highlight Organizational Day displays within the 2nd Battle Group, 23rd Infantry at Sand Hill.

The 23rd Infantry will open its doors to the public immediately following the Second Infantry Division Organizational Day ceremony at the Division parade field.

The displays by the units will be training aids most commonly found with instructions presented to trainees involved with Advanced Individual Training. Charts, maps, the functional models of weapons and corresponding items of equipment with appropriate identifying signs will dominate the presentation. For those individuals desiring to ask questions concerning the displays, inform "Aggressors" will be available, armed with correct answers.

The sports program for the day includes volleyball, horse-shoes, races, relays, broad jump and tug-of-war. An additional highlight will be the "Come 'n' Meet" hall which will be open for public inspection and a typical trainee barracks.

The displays will be located in the 23rd Infantry area in Sand Hill approximately 300 yards behind Service Club Number Two.

11th Infantry Wins Best Driver Award

By 11th Inf. PZO
"Driver of the Month" for the First Battle Group, 11th Infantry, is Specialist 4th class Julian C. Terre, a jeep driver for Company D.

Specialist Terre won the award for "the excellent condition in which his vehicle was kept and proper care of the trailer assigned to the vehicle."

For his outstanding performance of duty, Terre will be awarded a plaque and will be given a three-day pass.

11th Infantry Completes Move To New Home at Kelly Hill

The 11th Infantry PZO The First Battle Group, 11th Infantry has begun a relocation move which will place the final elements of the Battle Group will complete their move by the end of this week.

In the new area, troops will be housed in new permanent-type buildings with a 300-man mess hall and all the modern facilities available to the present day American soldier. The headquarters will have adequate space for all staff sections, said to be a vast improvement of the unit's old location in the Harmony Church area where the S-3 and S-4 sections were separated from the 11th Group Headquarters.

Draft training areas are now being planned and laid out for completion before the arrival of trainees for the next cycle which will be designed to give the trainees a completed 16-week course of basic and advanced instruction.

87th Infantry News Co. A Wins Plaque For Top TI Room

By 87th Inf. PZO
The monthly inspection for the Battle Group Best Troop Room contest was held on Tuesday. Room A was conducted this week. Last month, Company B won both coveted awards, the other companies of the 87th were out to beat them this month. Company A of the 87th Infantry moved their TI Room to a new location, a larger room on the first floor, and as a result of a very strict inspection was awarded the Best Troop Information Room Plaque for September.

Company B still walked off with the Best Day Room Plaque for September. It was noted that Company E had done a superb job with the materials at hand to create a new training room atmosphere. This being only the second month that inspections for the awards had occurred, it is felt that the direct result of this type of motivation is gratifying.

Private Ball one of the worlds youngest fire-eaters, entertains a wide open item from a plumbers blow torch with his tongue. He began swallowing things at a tender age and swallowed his first sword, he says, at the age of 12. His parents performed with Ringling Brothers Circus, his mother appeared with the Circus in Springfield and is currently with the world wide Royal American shows. His father is retired.

Last Spring, Private Ball appeared on the "What's My Line" TV network show. He hails from Hoxie, Kansas and attended the State Teachers College at Hoxie, Kansas. He explained that he made his professional performance at the "Biggest and Best" week of basic training with the Second Infantry. He was assigned to Mortar Battery, Second Battle Group, 23rd Infantry. Upon completion of basic training here, Private Ball will be considered for assignment to advanced or specialized training.

Arts League Places Tickets on Sale
The Three Arts League of Columbus is placing a limited number of season tickets for its 1958-59 season on sale starting immediately. The sale will continue through Oct. 15.

Mrs. A. Huges, Three Arts president, said that the larger seating capacity of the Royal Theatre where all Three Arts presentations will be held from now on, is making this possible. The Jordan High School Auditorium was formerly used for the performances.

This is the first time the League's 35-year history that season tickets have been available to the public at any time other than during the membership campaign in the spring.

Nov. 15 is the date of the first of four presentations, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. The Three Arts will also present the Atlanta Symphony with Philippe Entremont as soloist on Jan. 10, the Robert Shaw Chorus on Feb. 15 and Metropolitan Opera star Blanche Thebom on March 16. All performances will begin at 8:30 p.m.

The season tickets are priced in two categories, and information on them may be obtained from the ticket chairman, Mrs. Carl Greenleaf, at FA194x 3-4708 in Columbus, Ga.

From First Infantry Brigade

Col. Divers Transferred To Infantry School Post

Lt. Col. Walter A. Divers, Director, The Infantry School, former executive officer of Oct. 1. He is the assistant director of the First Infantry Brigade, was transferred to the Office of Col. Divers, a graduate of the 1942 class of the United States Military Academy, came to the First Infantry Brigade command from Fort Monmouth where he had served with the Infantry School from March, 1953, to March, 1957.

First Assignment
In 1953, Col. Divers attended the Command and General Staff College, Leavenworth, Kans., and after his graduation became a member of the college faculty for three years. His first assignment after graduation from West Point was as a student pilot at Ft. Bluff, Ark., for a few months and then a short assignment at Camp Robinson, Ark. His next assignment took him to the 56th Infantry Regiment at Camp Cain, Miss., where he trained and went overseas with the regiment to the European Theatre of Operations in June, 1943. While with the regiment he was a platoon leader, company commander, battalion S3 and battalion executive officer.

In June, 1946, Col. Divers returned to the United States and Fort Benning as a student and an instructor in The Infantry School until July, 1946, when he was enrolled in the School of Government, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Refers to Europe
After his graduation from the School of Government he was returned to Europe for occupational duty and served as S3 and assistant provost marshal for the 722nd replacement depot until August, 1949.

In this European tour Col. Divers returned to Fort Benning to attend the Officers Advanced Course and after

YAC Opens Membership Drive Oct. 10

Fort Benning's annual Youth Activities Club membership campaign will open Oct. 10 and continue through November.

Chairman of the Membership committee is Lt. Col. Waldo K. Bess, Infantry School Weapons Department.

Youth Activities Club is an organization to provide wholesome recreation and entertainment which will contribute to the happiness and well-being of the youth of the post. YAC organizes, supervises and programs a wide variety of programs, including the teen-age club, and swimming. The club also sponsors marksmanship for both boys and girls. It has been cited as a "model" organization in the complete activities group of its kind in the Army, according to the Army's Yearbook.

In a letter to the command, Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman said his children live at 300 Miller Loop, Fort Benning.

"Funds have primarily been provided by a grant from the Community Activities Association. However, this grant must be supplemented by memberships in the Youth Activities Club in order to realize a sufficient amount to carry out the programs mentioned above. I consider YAC to be a major part of our community life and give it my personal attention. I am confident you will all agree."

"Specifically at this time, I request your assistance in the conduct of the membership campaign. Your representative for YAC has the details for this membership drive. I hope that every parent will take pride in supporting this vital community responsibility with the full 100 per cent participation it deserves."

The annual budget for YAC is $20,000. Although the Community Activities Association furnishes support for the budget, membership fees are necessary to provide full support, officials stated.

More than 2,000 families on the post with children of ages 8 to 18 are eligible for YAC participation. Membership dates from date of payment and lasts one year.

NEW RANGES SET
CAMP BULLIS, Texas, (ANS) — Twelve new "Train-fire" ranges are to be constructed here, including six target detection ranges, two preliminary 25-meter ranges, two 300-meter field firing ranges, and two 300-meter record firing ranges. Construction will be by Army Engineers and Reserve components as well as other Fourth Army troops stationed nearby will use the ranges.

Hero Serving As New York Police Chaplain
NEW YORK (APFS) — For their new chaplain, New York's "finest" are getting one of the Army's finest. Major Joseph A. Dunne, a Purple Heart veteran of Korea, was appointed Chaplain of the city's largest Police Department, was one of the few clergymen in the Armed Services to receive the Silver Star for gallantry in action. After nine years with the Chaplains Corps he was re-elected for physical disability in 1953.
In Korea, where he jumped with the 10th Air, RCT, the chaplain quickly gained a reputation for bravery under fire. In March 1953 he walked into an uncharted mine field to administer last rites to a man fatally wounded from stepping on a mine.
Less than a week later, Chaplain Dunne himself slipped on a mine, suffering fractures of both feet and the left leg and internal injuries.

UN Dance Slated At YMCA Saturday

Because October is the month of the United Nations, program planned at Armed Services YMCA for Oct. 11 will be a United Nations dance with members of the International Club of the Armed Services YMCA as special guests for the evening.

Concert to Play 'Bogatyrskava'

The recorded concert at the Main Library at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 14 will feature the "Symphony No. 2 in B Minor" by Borodin. Because of its heroic and epic mood this symphony has been called "Bogatyrskava." A bogatyr is a giant commonly found in the ancient epics. It is believed that the composer was attempting to picture feudal Russia in this music. The first movement describes the gathering of the ancient princes, the third evokes the song of the ancient Slav troubadours, and the finale recreates a hero's banquet made festive with the music of primitive instruments.

Policy Allows Some to Convert Term Insurance

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Previously non-convertible term life insurance will soon be convertible, the Veterans Administration has announced. The new policy, to begin next January, will affect more than 685,000 Korean Conflict veterans.

A new statute will provide the thousands of "RS" policy holders (RS preceding the policy number identifies policies affected) with three options:

- 1. To convert their RS term policies to permanent plans of GI insurance.
- 2. To exchange their RS term policies for a "limited convertible" term policy carrying a lower premium rate, but which after Sept. 1, 1960, cannot be renewed by persons who have passed their 50th birthday.
- 3. To keep their RS term policies at the currently established premium rates, which increase every five years.

YAC Opens New Season Of Football

The 1958 YAC football season got under way Sept. 29 at Sightsaving Field when the 10 members of the most highly rated opponents on five grid-irons.

The stands were filled with cheering spectators, many of them doling parents, who stayed to the end to help the young gladiators flex their muscles with vocal encouragement.

The results of Sept. 29 games are: Rams, 0—Redskins, 0; Blue Devils, 26—Blue Battalion, 0; Tigers, 20—Braggs, 0; Panthers, 0—Scots, 0; Terriers, 37—Hawks, 7.

The opening game was preceded by a concert by the Infantry Center Band. Major Gen. Robert Wiesnack, commander of Second Infantry Division, gave a brief talk emphasizing objectives of activity football, stressing health and sportsmanship. Gen. Wiesnack then tossed the coin that put the peppy gridlers into action.

All Biddy league games will be played on Mondays at Sightsaving Field. The Peopy league will play their games on Tuesdays afternoons at Sightsaving Field.

AWAIT OPENING TOSS . . . Team captains in the Fort Benning Youth Activities League await flip of a coin by Major Gen. Robert H. Weinecke, commander, Infantry Center, right, as Major Yoder, Elzie Dewitt, and George Eyster and Douglas McDonald, co-captains of the Tigers.

Fort Bragg Nips Doughboys, 8-0

A spectacular 103-yard runback of an intercepted pass triggered twice-beaten Fort Bragg to an 8-0 victory over Fort Benning Saturday in a swiftest fought battle before 6,000 football fans.

Stopped on the ground by an unwelcome Benning line, Charlie Hinton picked off one of John Brodie's passes, just before the half, and raced 103 yards to score the only touchdown of the game. The two-point conversion came via a pass from Jim Sailer to James Chess.

The Doughboys, victor in the last two starts, had two touchdowns called back on penalties in the first half. The game, except the departments, except the score.

BENNING BRAGG

First downs	12	15
Passing yardage	112	127
Rushing yardage	103	103
Penalties	11	11
Fumbles	1	1
Time of possession	31:00	29:00

John Brodie, former end with the Philadelphia Eagles, completed 12 of 22 passes for a total of 227 yards. The Doughboys led in rushing yardage 127 to 43, and in first downs 15 to 7.

Malone Hart, Don Malone, the Doughboys' leading ground gainer, was hurt on the first play from scrimmage and did not re-enter the game. In the latter part of the second quarter, the Doughboys, with the passing of Brodie and the pass catching of Dick Van Linn, Wallace Munroe and Francis Laney, moved the ball down to Bragg's one-foot line. Brodie sneaked over for what appeared to be the touchdown, but an illegal minutes penalty nullified the score. Benning penalized five yards. With the fourth down coming up, Brodie tried to pass to Eldon Matheson, but Charlie Hinton made a leaping catch of the ball and sent it the way, unreturned, to score.

The young shooter's record-shattering score helped the Army Advanced Marksman Unit from Fort Benning, to smash the National Trophy Team record by 25 points.

No Previous Shooting
What is more amazing is that he had no previous shooting experience prior to entering the Army two years ago. There he was introduced to the M-1 service rifle, the weapon he has used to attain marksmanship fame in the past.

Lozcko has high praise for his marksmanship coaching in the Army. He cites this as a chief reason for his shooting success.

On the Perry firing line that day he had one of the Army's finest coaches, Major Raymond Dobak, AMU. "I was getting top excited," Lozcko said, "and he calmed me down."

But his best friend that day was M-1 rifle and he created a marksmanship legend.

(See Lozcko, Page 18)

Standings Listed In Flag Football

After the first four games played in the flag football tournament at Fort Benning, the standings are as follows:

Team	W	L	T	Pts.
Fort Bragg	4	0	0	100
Fort Benning	0	4	0	0
Fort Rucker	2	2	0	50
Fort Ord	1	3	0	25

14th Infantry Kicks Off Sports Program for Fall

Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, who kicked off its fall sports program. The Golden Dragon currently has four players representing the Battle Group on the Doughboy football team.

Another netty lineman on the squad is tackle Russ Weatherly from the 1st Battalion of the 215th Pz Signal Co. Weatherly is a 215-pound six-footer who was a member of the team's gridiron during four years of high school football. Prior to joining the Army, Weatherly played two years of football with Greenfield, Mass., where he played and quarterbacked Lou Inanuello, who was a former teammate at Syracuse.

Weatherly's high school football experience attained at the Junior College in Chittenden, Vt., where he was named honorable mention selection on the outstanding team.

Charlie Quinn Hunting Can Become Great Fun, or Tragedy

An old boy up in Vermont a few years back tied the antlers of an eight-point buck on his head and went deer hunting. Another time, in New Hampshire, a sport went bear hunting adorned in a nice, warm, black, bearskin coat. In each instance, the alertness of conservation officers was all that saved two so-called hunters from becoming statistics in the records of the National Safety Council.

Some buddies and myself were sitting around a kitchen stove one night after a hunting session when, without warning, this old fellow's pipe exploded. A .22 short had gotten mixed up with his tobacco.

A guide buddy tells the story of the sport who went into the woods after deer and, when he loaded his rifle, had gun grease squirt out the muzzle when he closed the bolt.

Stories Plentiful
Anyone who has spent any time in the woods can relate a story or two of incidents of this nature, some funny and some tragic, but all based on inexperience, carelessness and downright stupidity. That antler trick was pure suicide and, yet, if my memory serves correctly, I think that California records show the same crazy stunt was used by a man who was fortunate enough to have been stopped by another hunter.

The sport of hunting is a great pastime, one which has shown a marked increase in the recent past. Over 12 million shotgun shells will be fired at rabbits alone in the U. S. this coming season, a figure which could well be approached where quail and dove are concerned. Rifle ammunition isn't expended in such vast amounts but enough rounds are being fired to make ammo manufacturers chuckle in-glee. Hunting of all types, including the bow, is on the upswing even though "civilization" is eating up hunting areas in great gobs.

Here on the reservation we are extremely fortunate in a number of respects. Through our game preparation and conservation program we have all the hunting this part of the country can provide. The vast majority of us are, and have been, intimately acquainted with firearms in all aspects. Those of us who haven't had too much experience in the sport of hunting find our Range Guards are ready and willing to offer assistance—and we all shoot under their supervision.

Hunting Rules Available
For the asking is a complete set of hunting regulations which govern the game on post with which we should all become familiar for strict compliance will be demanded to protect your personal safety and mine. Because of these regulations and their strict enforcement we enjoy a fine safety record and there should be no reason why we shouldn't continue to keep adding to that record.

A highly recommended rule of safety is use of the "buddy" system. There's always the chance of a twisted ankle, getting bogged down, getting lost (which has happened on post) or any number of things which would make the presence of a hunting pal more than welcome.

Hunting As Prefect
Some of the most glorious whing-dings ever pitched have been thrown by sports who have used "hunting trips" as pretext. Guys in northern New England, and everywhere I suppose, really earn their money in just making sure that the number of sports coming out of the woods matches the number that went in. Your favorite bartender may be the world's best but even he can't mix guns and alcohol to the satisfaction of everyone. The very possible consequences of drinking while hunting should absolutely rule out the dangerous practice.

Check with the Range Guard on duty upon entering and leaving an area. This will enable him to alert following hunters as to your location and make for better hunting. In checking out but him, he not only knows that you're ok but he can take a reading of the area taken for propagation and restocking purposes.

Common sense, good judgement and fine hunting facilities should make the coming season to you an enjoyable one and that's it for this week.

Smoker Set On Oct. 14 At Benning

Plenty of fast action and free entertainment is in store for fans when the first round smoker takes place at the 29th Infantry Field House Oct. 14. Thirty six rounds in 12 fights are scheduled.

Fights begin at 7:30 p.m. The 29th Infantry's new top place will defend its lead by entering four fighters. A good slugfest is expected in the re-match between 66th Armored's heavyweight Luis Tapia and Second Division's Ralph Brinson. Tapia was the first round winner in the 29th Infantry's light middleweight fight against 29th Infantry's light middleweight Bill Fox will make his third appearance when he meets 14th Infantry's Barbara Berry. Fox has won his last two in previous smokers.

In other bouts it will be 29th's light-middleweight Elison against Train's Erwin Phelps; 29th's light-middleweight Jack Williams vs. 14th's John Schneider; 29th's middleweight Train's Bob Lewis vs. 14th's Donald Ruckman; 29th's welterweight Robert Jordan vs. 66th Armored's heavyweight Ronald Gilliam vs. 15th Div's Philip Butler; 29th's Clarence Rogers vs. 66th Armored's Dale Kellom.

Middleweight 29th's Paul Davis vs. Train's Donald White; 66th's middle weight Daniel Brown vs. 29th's Ernest Biddy Harris. Both fight solid blows throughout the match. The judges gave the match to Johnson.

Plenty of action was seen in the light middleweight fight between Joseph Faison and Second Division's Train's Erwin Phelps. Faison landed enough punches to Phelps' head in the second to make the difference in the fight decision.

The 14th Infantry's light-middleweight, Daniel Brown, won his fight in the first six seconds of the second round against USAICTC's Ernest White. Two old foes met in the ninth fight when USAICTC's middleweight and is starting at tackle for Doughboys.

Drivers Set Road Tests

CHICAGO (AP)—Some six trucks, varying from 300 to 500 selected drivers from the U.S. Army Transportation Center, Ft. Eustis, Va., will participate in the world's largest highway test in the next 18 hours a day, six days a week, for two years.

Under the command of Col. Highway Officials (ASHO), Albert Wilson, the soldiers will occupy a camp which has been established in the vicinity of Ottawa. The Army's part in the two-year test project is under the direction of the Chief of Transportation, Department of the Army, and the Commanding General of Ft. Eustis.

The Department of Defense is cooperating in the test in view of the importance of highways to national defense.

Among those honored were 10-620 Americans.

PLAQUE DEDICATED

KYOTO, Japan — A marble tablet honoring allied soldiers who died on Japanese soil or as prisoners of war during World War II has just been dedicated here. The ceremony, in oriental style, was held at the base of the Kwanon Buddhist Goddess of Mercy statue. Among those honored were 10-620 Americans.

Casualties of nuclear warfare was the subject of intensive training for a few days with actual hospital procedures in effect. This subject was presented by the showing of training films at night. A black-out motor march of 60 miles and a new training area with the reestablishment of the hospital, completed the next phase of the training.

The operation was successfully accomplished as the equipment was set up and the tent operations raised in two hours. The final day of the exercises was spent in operating the hospital and providing medical aid for the patients, after which the unit disassembled the hospital, packed up the equipment and returned to camp.

Simulated combat conditions were utilized during the first stage of the exercises as the advance party was attacked by aggressor forces. But the most successful aggressors were the swarms of mosquitoes and gnats which invaded the training area to harass the troops.

ICTC Holds Pep Meeting On Campaign

Community Activities Association and Pep Unit members from all units in Infantry Center Troop Command attended a meeting Sept. 29 in the Conference room at command headquarters.

He pointed out that in previous campaigns of this sort the command never had any trouble in meeting its quota and that he believes the command will reach the goal this year.

He then introduced Lt. Col. Loyd Talley, commanding officer. Included in Lt. Col. Talley's remarks was the ever present demand pressed upon those charitable agencies for whom the drive is being conducted.

Organized as a result of an appeal from the Paik Sun Orphanage near Kwangju, Korea, and under the direction of Chaplain (Col) M. H. Innie, the campaign aims to provide protective clothing to hundreds of orphan youngsters before the intense cold weather hits Korea this winter.

Space Age Fails to Diminish Role Of U.S. Soldier, Gen. Clarke Says

The role of the American soldier will not diminish, "even if we do hit the moon," Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander of Continental Army Command, told Joint Civilian Orientation Conference No. 27 at Fort Benning Oct. 11.

Speaking at a banquet celebrating the four-star general's appointment to command the Fort Benning personnel will witness the demonstrations of the Army's newly developed firepower and mobility.

In Cold War "We're in a competitive era and we're in the midst of a cold war, which in some cases is pretty hot," Gen. Clarke said.

He emphasized that this country will continue to need "the type of development of human beings and mental attitude that is developed here at The Infantry School. The American ground soldier is so exemplified by this institution and all it stands for that you can go home proud to have been a part of it."

"I hope you go back to your communities with a feeling for the ground combat soldier," the speaker was introduced by Major Gen. Robert H. Wienecke, commander of The Infantry Center while Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr. is attending the Third Tripartite Infantry Conference, in England, and commanding general of the Second Infantry Division.

Approximately 75 nationally prominent business and professional leaders participated in the conference sessions at the Infantry School. In addition, 50 distinguished military and civilian guests of Continental Army Command, 841 students and faculty members from service schools and 4,200 Fort Benning personnel will witness the demonstrations of the Army's newly developed firepower and mobility.

Pro Pay to Begin During November

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—An interim plan with a November target date has been set by the Army to start proficiency payments to 7,000 soldiers in top priority military occupational specialties. The interim plan governs awards between November 1958, and February 1959. The first will go into critical skill fields arranged in order of priority. Payments under the long-range plan will start March 1, 1959. A total of 58,800 individuals will be authorized pro pay by June 30, 1959. Selection of personnel to receive pro pay under the interim plan will be on a best qualified basis, the Army said, and go to about 50 per cent of those eligible in a critical specialty.

Balance of the payment schedules in these specialties will be spread out between March 1959, and June 30, 1959. The extra pay will go to enlisted men whose eligibility has been established as a result of the interim plan must qualify under the provisions of EES when that system goes into effect, the Army said.

Since Drive Began 300 Apply for Local AUSA Membership

Over 300 applications for membership in the Fort Benning-Columbus - Phenix City Chapter of the Association of United States Army (AUSA) have been received since the opening of the Fall membership drive Sept. 1.

In addition to these applications, said the chapter's secretary, Col. John F. T. Murray, Infantry Center Staff Judge Advocate, "we are also receiving a number of requests from present members of the association who wish to transfer into our local chapter."

Although the chapter has been organized only since January, 1957, it had become one of the key chapters in a national association with a strength of membership and its action in support of association objectives.

CG. Comments Position enjoyed by the chapter, both at local and national levels, was expressed by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Infantry Center Commander, in a message at the opening of the membership drive.

"I am confident that many more of our personnel would surely want to become members if they were acquainted with the benefits of membership. Members are the real beneficiaries of the association," (Please See AUSA, Page 2)

Personnel May Register Early For AUSA Meet

The publicly sub-committee in Washington, D.C., for the Association of the U.S. Army announced that members of AUSA may register in advance for the annual meeting throughout the country.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, stated "The members of the Army have consistently demonstrated a sincere interest in the welfare of the numerous communities in or near which they are stationed and have established a record in meeting their obligations as community residents."

The organizations and agencies which rely on the annual national campaigns for funds perform outstanding services to us and to our fellow citizens. It is our duty to support them. (Please See DRIVE, Page 2)

According to the sub-committee, registration is $1 for military and $3 for civilians.

Post Praised For Civilian Aides Meet

Secretary of Army Wilber M. Brucker has commended Fort Benning for its meritorious role in the Conference of Civilian Aides to the Secretary of the Army and Army Commanders in a letter to Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of The Infantry Center.

The fifth annual civilian aides conference was held at the Fort Benning on Sept. 17-20. Secretary-Brucker's letter read in part: "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to express to you my deep appreciation for the large part which you and the members of your command had in the success of the fifth annual Conference of Civilian Aides. I think you should know that this meeting is being hailed by both the civilian aides and our top military people as the best of all such conferences we had."

Class Hears Gen. Zierath

Brig. Gen. Frederick R. Zierath, assistant commandant of Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., spoke at graduation exercises for The Infantry School's officers leaders classes No. 3 and 4 Oct. 11.

Approximately 385 students attending the two classes, 127 of whom are 1958 graduates of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., received certificates at the 10 a.m. ceremony in the Main Theater.

Gen. Zierath was honored at an official luncheon at noon in the Main Officers' Mess.

Lacrosse Tests Supervised By Troubleshooting Sgt.

FORT BLISS, Tex. (ANF)—Sgt. Albert F. Knapp is a man who looks for trouble and usually finds it. But it's all part of his day's work.

The 30-year-old soldier from Roughton, Mass., is chief of the LaCrosse launcher and missile crew in the Missile Division of the Army Air Defense Center here. He supervises testing of missiles and launching systems for use by combat troops.

Knapp is a veteran artilleryman. During World War II he was a gunner's mate on a Navy destroyer in the Atlantic and Pacific. He had two years' service in the Army National Guard and has been on active duty in the Army for nine years.

As a key member of a team of 24 enlisted men and 22 officers and warrant officers, Knapp supervises tests of missiles and rockets under simulated combat conditions to help determine if they are practical for use by average soldiers.

"As soon as we solve one problem we've got another," he says. "We don't have time to get bored."

This, often requires testing missiles under different climatic conditions. Next year he's going to the Arctic to test the LaCrosse Army's all-weather field artillery guided missile for close support of troops.

Knapp recently returned from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., where he and his crew tested the LaCrosse in the Air Force's cold weather chamber at temperatures of 50 degrees below zero.

"I should like to add that one of the most significant contributions to the entire Conference was the splendid department and the evidence of high morale of the personnel of Fort Benning—military and civilian—with whom I came in contact and of whom officers have told me. They were an inspiration to all of us. Fort Benning has rightfully earned the respect and admiration of the Free World by its professional ability in teaching and training the Infantryman."

Knapp was assigned to the LaCrosse. He is a graduate of the Army's Corporal Guided Missile School, a 28-week course, and received similar training on the LaCrosse. He is a graduate of Elyse Park High School, Boston Mass.

Knapp has no doubts concerning the ability of the average soldier to operate complicated missile systems. "Operation is no problem," he says, "but finding qualified electronic specialists is. But the biggest problem isn't just finding the electronics men. It's convincing them they should stay in the Army."

REQUEST STRONG ARMY The Veterans of Foreign Wars recommended at its National Convention here that the Army be maintained at not less than 500,000 men and that the air transport capability of the Armed Forces be increased to allow rapid transport of two Army STRAC divisions to a troubled area.

Urges Contributions
In a statement to all military and civilian personnel of the Third Army area, Lt. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner, commander of Third Army, said, "Community spirit is one of the fundamental principles of our American way of life, and we can best display our belief in this principle by acknowledging the humanitarian accomplishments of the United Funds and Community Chest organizations and agencies and by supporting their campaigns."

With four weeks to go in the Fort Benning drive approximately $34,000 are needed to meet the "fair share" standard and to carry on community humanitarian and welfare work, officials pointed out.

things we were brought here to see. Our eyes have truly been opened and it has been enriching to all of us," Collyer declared.

He stressed that "what is being done here is not for any one individual or any one purpose but is being done for the peace of the world."

"You could, I suppose, rationalize yourself into a corner concerning the damage that the tremendous firepower we've witnessed could cause. But we must remember that there has always been evil. It is necessary that we stamp it out whenever it occurs," he continued.

Concerning the demonstration of Army strength which has been slated for this year and that his plan for the reorganization of the Department of Defense was almost identical to that finally accepted by Congress.

AUSA's local chapter played no small part in the attainment of these and other association objectives, a success which can be attributed to the strength and caliber of its membership. It was explained by Col. Murray, in that the chapter is made up of professional soldiers of the Infantry, officer and enlisted, who are keenly aware of association objectives. Chief among these objectives are the advancement of soldiering as a profession and the promotion of greater recognition of the military profession together with the acceptance of policies which will advance the well-being and opportunities of the professional soldier. To these with these members are many retired military personnel and key civilian leaders of local communities.

"Current in the chapter's program of activities is the planned assistance by many of its members at the annual meeting to AUSA to be held Oct. 17-18 at the Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington D.C. Members who might wish to accompany the group are requested to contact Col. Murray at Fort Benning telephone extension 34211.

Also on the chapter's calendar of events is its own annual meeting which is scheduled Nov. 12-13 at the Wallace Field House where some 700 members are expected to gather to transact business, enjoy a dinner, and hear the guest speaker, Georgia's Senator Richard B. Russell.

First formed in 1950 by the merging of the U.S. Infantry and Field Artillery Associations and further strengthened by the entrance of the U.S. Antiaircraft Association in 1955, AUSA was reorganized in 1956 to since become a group of some 78 chapters of nearly 40,000 members. In closing the ranks of the Army's branches, services and components, the association has become a strong and effective opinion - molding force.

General membership is open to all active duty members of the Army, any person honorably discharged or retired from the Armed Forces and to members of the U.S. Army Reserve not on active duty. Associate memberships are available to Department of Army civilian employees and to any person who supports the objectives of the Association and who meets requirements as regulated.

Membership fees, which include subscription to the Journal ARMY, published by the association, are $5 for one year, $9 for two years and $12 for three years. Application blanks for membership may be acquired at all headquarters throughout the command or from the office of the Infantry Center Staff Judge Advocate, Bldg. 5.

The Infantry Center commander's remarks, in the form of a letter addressed to all levels of the command, also noted that AUSA was in the forefront of those supporting the recent pay raise legislation, that the association was successful in holding a referendum of Army strength which

Send Home to Them

The odds-on choice for Christmas of servicemen overseas is to be home. Show of the ideal gift, they've told American Red Cross field directors, they would like home to come to them—in the form of home-made food, family photos, recordings of family gatherings, hometown papers and, above all, more mail.

In a Red Cross survey, they stated that the best possible Christmas gift was a promise from the folks at home to write regularly throughout the year—"A letter every week for the whole year is better than any single Christmas gift," they all said.

However, homemade food ranked high as a preferred gift—"Any food from home tastes so much better than what the mess halls or local bakeries can provide." Other favorite gifts were small gifts of family groups, sweethearts and friends, especially snapshots of the family amidst Christmas decorations as a reminder of the time when the servicemen were home for the holidays and how it will when they return.

Popular also are recordings of family members, friends and neighbors telling about what goes on at home. All had one admonition—"Keep it cheerful!"

Some servicemen asked for subscriptions to the hometown newspaper, preferably by air mail—"The papers carry lots of little local items which are interesting to read but which nobody thinks to write us about."

Not requested were the latest books and subscriptions to magazines and the latest popular recordings, in 33 or 45 rpm.

American-style civilian clothing is always welcome to the American overseas. Service families with small children all emphasize the difficulty of finding suitable children's clothing, toys, and books at many overseas stations.

A gift of money should be in the form of postal money orders. In the undesirable list are such items as military-type clothing, cigarettes, watches, ties, cameras and sporting goods, all of which can be purchased at most PXs, and at bargain prices.

Use air mail for all letters and Christmas cards, send service parcels by surface mail—ship to servicemen overseas, and by Dec. 10 for delivery by air mail.

Pass High School Work

Obtain a high school certificate by passing the high school level GED test. The high school GED test is used to determine whether an individual has the equivalent of a four-year high school education. The subject areas covered in the high school level GED test include English, social studies, natural sciences, literature, and mathematics.

The high school level GED test is available to military personnel who have completed the eighth grade or who have successfully completed the intermediate level tests. Permission to take the high school level GED test is granted only after an interview with the counselor at the Educational Development Section.

The high school level GED test may be taken by individuals for either or both of the following reasons:

To obtain verification of educational ability equivalent to completion of four years of high school work; Military records of personnel successfully passing the high school level GED test are changed to show that for military purposes they have the equivalent of four years of high school education.

To apply to a high school or State Department of Education for a diploma or equivalency certificate.

It is necessary to consult the education counselor to determine if personnel meet the requirements of a particular state for a diploma from a local high school.

Re-testing is authorized on tests which the individual fails to make a passing score the first time. The re-tests are authorized only when the individual furnishes evidence he has prepared himself by further study for the re-test.

Successful completion of one or more USAFI courses is recommended for re-test applicants. The education counselor will assist personnel in selecting appropriate courses.

Scorpion Described In Latest 'Infantry'

A short cut to the mechanism of the 60mm mortar as an indirect-fire weapon for the infantry in modern warfare has been discovered in the M56 Scorpion Army's new self-propelled, airborne, 90mm antitank weapon.

Recent experimentation with the versatile M56 at the Infantry School reveals that it forms the backbone of the new 4.2-inch and 81mm mortars, the quad .50 mm machine gun, and such regular other infantry weapons. It can also provide the chassis for a new, light, amphibious Infantry personnel carrier.

A detailed discussion of the Scorpion's characteristics and capabilities as a multi-purpose Infantry weapon and personnel carrier is presented in the October-December issue of Infantry magazine in a two-part article, "Tracks for the Infantry," three officers of the Infantry School's Weapons Development who have been working on it since they were in high school.

The new issue of Infantry—official publication of the Infantry School—contains more than a dozen other articles and features of major importance to Infantrymen and those who are in the Infantry. Among these is an article on "military" and a new timing system which will enable Infantrymen to employ 1 1/2 r rifles and other direct-fire weapons with greater accuracy at night and under other conditions of poor visibility.

Another important article discusses "The Effects of Cold Weather on Infantry Weapons." This possibility of future warfare in which combat operations may be conducted in the winter months, this information vital reading for all Infantrymen.

Other significant articles include "How to Inspect Common Equipment," explaining the employment of the 4.2-inch mortar and "The Best Group Commander's Personal Artillery," recommended a role for

Infantry School Tea Scheduled
Nov. 5-6 at Commander's Home

Plans are underway for the fourth annual Infantry School Tea to be held on the afternoon of Nov. 5 at the quarters of Mrs. Paul L. Freeman Jr., wife of Major Gen. Freeman, commandant of The Infantry School, 100 Vibbert Avenue.

The event will be given by officers' wives of the Infantry School, under the direction of Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen, wife of Brig. Gen. Larsen, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, for wives of student officers currently assigned to The School.

Mrs. Robert L. Crouch Jr. has been selected general chairman with Mrs. Adrian L. Hoebcke co-chairman.

Decorations will be in the charge of Mesdames John T. Corley, Norman B. Edwards, and Julian R. Martin. Theme of the decorative motif will be the "Old South."

The hostess committee, composed of Mesdames Samuel T. McDowell, Marcus W. Adams, and William E. Ekman, request that guests be schooled to answer questions of guests concerning the history of the commanding general's quarters, a former plantation home.

Facilities of DUSA Tid Town Nursery have been made available free to all mothers who wish to leave their children there while attending the tea.

Fashion Show Held
A fashion show highlighted the first fall luncheon of the Medical Wives Group of Fort Benning, Oct. 9 in the Main Officers' Mess. The wives of the O-Gyns, X-ray, and Surgical departments were hostesses for the affair and assisted Mrs. John Troller, program chairman, in making arrangements for the fashion show.

Hat boxes, scarves, and jewelry in combination with fall foliage and mums, supplied by Kayser-Lienthal, centered the white ornate tables.

Special guests were: Mrs. Paul Freeman, Mrs. J. Dalton, Mrs. Stanley Larsen, Mrs. Miller Perry, and Mrs. John Ruggles.

Casual and sport clothes were shown by Town and Country and dressy and sophisticated clothing was shown by Kayser-Lienthal. Models were Marjie Banks, Jean Berge, Patsy Chamberlain, Betty Lancaster, Cell McKee, Margie Patterson and Elaine Wegman.

Musical background was provided by Pic Jack Falter.

The door prize was donated by Town and Country. All those in attendance were given a plastic rain hat and carrying case provided by Kayser-Lienthal.

New members of the group are Mrs. P. Schöles, Mrs. F. Blakely, Mrs. J. Wiseman, Mrs. Ferns, and Mrs. L. Lachelt.

BOLD RECEPTION
IOLC No. 5 held its official reception in the Main Officers' Mess Oct. 5.

CLASS RECEPTION
The students of Infantry Officer Leader Course No. 5, 23rd Company, Second Student Battalion, The Infantry School, held a class reception at the Main Officers' Mess Sept. 14. Approximately 19 officers attended with 2nd Lts. Noel E. Brown and Paul H. Vinson as co-chairmen of the reception.

Guests were Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, and Mrs. Larsen; Col. A. L. Hoebcke, commander of The School Brigade and Mrs. Hoebcke; Lt. Col. John B. Zanin, Commander of the Second Student Battalion, and Mrs. Zanin, and Capt. John W. Clario, Commander of the 23rd Company, and Mrs. Clario.

VA Announces Term Policies Not Re-Opened
WASHINGTON (ANS) —The Veterans Administration has announced that GI life insurance has not been re-opened for veterans who allowed their term policies to lapse after World War II.

According to the agency, the statement was prompted by many inquiries from World War II veterans seeking to get back their long-lapsed National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) term policies.

Air Defense Missile Army Makes Nike As Safe As Possible

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Every possible safety device has been built into the Nike system to make it safe for the men that handle the missile and to the surrounding community. The Army announced this week.

"The impressive safety record compiled at the many Nike sites located throughout the United States since 1953 validates the established procedures and drills," reports the statement released here.

Nike is the Army's first supersonic antiaircraft guided missile designed to intercept and destroy the enemy target regardless of evasive action. It is the first guided missile system to defend American cities against aerial attack.

To date, the Nike program has produced two operational systems. The original Nike Ajax and the more advanced Nike Hercules. A third system, the Nike Zeus, is under development.

According to the Army release, the Ajax is a liquid-fueled supersonic air defense missile, approximately 20 feet long and about one foot in diameter, with two sets of fins for guidance and steering. The missile is long and 50 inches in diameter. The missile-booster combination weighs about five tons.

The Zeus, now under development, will provide anti-missile defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles and intermediate range ballistic missiles, the Army said.

Woman's Club Sponsors Many Projects at Benning

Fort Benning has one of the largest and most active Women's Clubs in the United States and is a working organization as well as a social club. Working projects include the Thrift Shop, the dancing classes for children and special projects throughout the year. It is through these projects that the club is able to answer calls for financial assistance by Youth Activities Club, Post Schools, the Post Hospital and other civic and welfare organizations.

In addition to working projects, the club has provided a wide variety of activities for your enjoyment including art, bridge, bowling, ceramics, choral school, dancing, exercise, flower arranging, great books, language and sewing and supervising personnel are encouraged to take part in

Talks Presented By Gen. Canby

Brig. Gen. Clarence P. Canby, director of dental activities at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., recently visited Fort Benning. Gen. Canby addressed a combined meeting of dental officers and dental assistants of the Georgia Dental Association in the Custer Theater Club. He also addressed a group of dental officers and dental assistants at Fort Benning. Gen. Canby's visit is presented in several lectures on "Treatment of Deep Denture Caries" to dental interns training at Fort Benning.

BEGINNING . . . Last week was the 50th anniversary of the first time an airplane was flown on a military reservation. Picture shows aviation pioneer Orville Wright piloting the Wright Type A plane in a test flight over Fort Myer, Va., Sept. 9, 1908. The 50th year since this event was marked by a joint celebration by Army and Air Force at Fort Myer.

54th Holds Unit's First Family Day

The 54th Medical Group held its first Family Day Oct. 11 in the Medical Group area. Wives and families of the group personnel and the husbands were invited to take part in the activities by Lt. Col. Peter S. Scholes, Commander of the Medical Group. The agenda got under way shortly after 1 p.m. as the visiting families converged on the Third Field Hospital mess hall and filled it to near capacity. There they were welcomed by Lt. Col. Scoles and

VA Enlarges Coverage

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Most of the 100,000 Korean veterans of WWII and the Korean Conflict are eligible for new, higher total disability coverage at a small additional premium, according to the Veterans Administration. The new type GI policy rider was authorized by Congress under Public Law 85-67, which goes into effect Nov. 1, for insured members of the Armed Forces and ex-servicemen less than 60 years old. The law provides that policyholders taking advantage of the new rider coverage will receive $10 a month for each $1,000 of National Service Life Insurance if totally disabled from any cause prior to age 60. The previous maximum benefit was $5 a thousand.

Payment under the clause begins after total disability has existed for six consecutive months and continues for the duration of the disability. No benefit payments would be made, however, for disabilities incurred after age 60, nor is there an added premium on a policy. The VA also may waive both NGLI and rider premium if totally disabled more than six months.

The VA said some 85,000 policyholders who now have the old $5 rider may increase their present protection at almost cost. Premiums on the total disability provision will vary with the insured's age, the type of policy and its face value. For example, a 40-year-old man would pay $180 a month for the rider, which would return $10 monthly to him.

Sodality Sets Special Services On October 19

Fort Benning's Our Lady of Victories Sodality will observe Communion Oct. 19 at 8 a.m. Mass at the Infantry Center Catholic Chapel. Immediately following Mass a Communion breakfast will be held. Guest speaker at the meeting will be Father Vincent Fitzpatrick, Holy Trinity, Ala. All sodality members and ladies of the parish are invited to Mass and receive Holy Communion as a group. Reservations for breakfast may be made through the president of the sodality, Mrs. William Harrigan, by telephoning Fort Benning, 3-7200.

School Brigade Highlights

Capt. Dunley Named Class Honor Grad

First Student Battalion, Capt. James E. Dunley was named honor graduate at graduation of Infantry Motor Transportation Course No. 1 Sept. 28. He was followed by the other members of the Austrian Army, who was one-half point behind. Capt. Dunley will continue his assignment with the Rifle Company to his next assignment in Korea while Lt. Eder will remain here for the remainder of the Infantry Company Grade Officers' Course.
Fourth Company - The special class got off to a big start in the First Platoon of Infantry Officer Advance Class No. 1 with a party celebrating the promotion of five lieutenants to captain. New Capt. Andrew S. Davers was assigned to the company last week. He recently completed his first eight weeks basic training with the Second Division. He was assigned to the Editorial, Public Information, and Operations Department, USAIS, and was promoted to the grade of captain. He is now commanding the company. Other members of the company are Capt. J. Crosby, John C. Ebsen and Carlos E. Penula.
DOD Distributes New Fact Sheets On Middle East
WASHINGTON, (ANS) - The Army has distributed the new Department of Defense fact sheet on the Middle East Crisis. It quotes the President's address to the United Nations in which he emphasized that the United States will continue to support the freedom of all people to be ruled by governments of their choice.
"Only then," he declared, "can we exercise the full capacity God has given us to enrich the lives of the individual human beings who are our ultimate concern, our responsibility, and our strength."
RELIEVE TROUBLES
Family problems of servicemen and technicians on duty near the Arctic Circle are magnified by their distance and isolation from home. Red Cross field directors there help relieve these troubles through their contributions to the Community Activities Fund drive, helps the Red Cross, a partner in the campaign, keep field directors at the side of the Armed Forces in the frozen north.
Company G - S-Sgt. David L. Houston, a distant relative of Sam Houston, has recently returned to the States after a three year tour of duty. He is assigned as assistant instructor with the 36th Reconnaissance Rifle Company in the Weapons Department. Sgt. Houston first joined the Reconnaissance Rifle Company in 1946, later on he was assigned as platoon sergeant of a Tamm Platoon.
Second Student Battalion - After introductions the wives were told in general and would be doing in the future by Lt. Col. John B. Zanin, commander of the Second Student Battalion. After the orientation of the women were taken on a tour of the post conducted by Capt. James H. Mapp and Lt. Raymond E. Heap, commanding officer and executive officer respectively.
The map reading test Oct. 1, proved to IOLC No. 8 students just how much they knew about the subject.
28th Company - Infantry Officer School Detachment - The class graduated 180 officers into Air Force School, Ranger School, and troop units.
20th Company - Amateur camera bugs in IOLC No. 5 wishing to photograph the Reformed Rifle Company in the Defense Night Problem, are able to get expert instruction in photography problems.
Second Lt. Everett Bergdahl, an experienced photographer, led a conference and demonstration.

Honor Unit Gets New Leader

Command of the Infantry Center Honor Guard shifted from Capt. Myron E. Lee Jr. to 1st Lt. Vernon C. Halverson in an informal ceremony Monday afternoon.
Capt. Lee, who has commanded Company C, First Battalion, 28th Infantry, since December, 1957; leaves the crack Honor Guard unit for reassignment as supply officer of the First Brigade. His successor, Lt. Halverson, has been with Company C since March, 1957.
Lt. Halverson came to Company C following graduation from OCS in March, 1957. The new commander served in Korea with the 38th "Cactus" Regiment of the 25th Infantry, since 1951 to 1952. He also spent three years in Germany with what is now the Ninth Division.

Drivers Told Permanent Permit Invalid
All Georgia driver's licenses marked permanent, except veterans permits, have expired, post officials advise.
Expiration was effective March 31, 1956, by direction of Georgia Department of Safety in the following paragraph:
"The following driver's license must be renewed: Any license with expiration date of June 30, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954 or 1955, or any license with expiration of any date in 1960 that is printed on a white form. This includes special learners license and the regular learners licenses. Also included is any driver's license that was previously marked or related permanent. The only exception to this is the veterans drivers license. No renewal of the veterans license is necessary or any license that a fee for five years has been paid since July 1, 1955."

Trains Select Miss Meadows

By 2nd Div. PIO
The units of Division Trains, major support organization of the Second Infantry Division, chose Miss Shirley Meadows as their queen in the Miss Division Trains contest staged at Fort Benning's Sand Hill Non-Commissioned Officers Club on Monday evening, October 13.

Miss Meadows is the lovely 20-year-old brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Meadows of 1617 28th Street, Columbus, Georgia.

BETTER SHOE

IT'S A FACT: The cushion-sole sock developed by the Army during World War II proved to be such a great improvement over other socks it absorbs more perspiration and cushions the feet—so it is now widely used by farmers, laborers, policemen, and others who spend much of their time on their feet.

PRESENTS CUP . . . Col. James F. Hughes Jr., Division Training Commander, presents a silver cup to Miss Shirley Meadows as first runner-up.

Col. James F. Hughes Jr., Division Training Commander, pronounced Miss Meadows as the official winner of the title, Miss Division Trains, after she was selected from nine contestants by a panel of five judges.

Colonel Hughes presented Miss Meadows with a silver loving cup and a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Meadows represented Headquarters Company, 5th Cavalry Infantry Division, at the contest and was sponsored by Lt. Willis G. Bacon of 2805 Walker Ave., Columbus.

As holder of the title, Miss Division Trains, Miss Meadows will compete in the Miss Second Infantry Division contest scheduled for the same club on Saturday, October 18.

Mrs. Judy Fletcher, wife of Lt. Richard Fletcher of the Transportation Battalion, received second place honors at the pageant.

Officers and men with their wives of the Trains units attended the pageant.

Judges for the contest were: Lt. Hays E. Dahl, Second Quartermaster Company; Chief W-1 Homer White, Division Trains Headquarters; MSGT. Ralph B. Patterson, 13th Transportation Battalion; Mrs. Grace Jones, representing the Division Band; and Mrs. Arlene Parkinson, representing the 2nd Aviation Company.

Davoli

(Thank You for Continuing) "Miss First Infantry, Mrs. Davoli is that battle group's official candidate for the Division Band contest for the selection of Miss Second Infantry Division." Miss Davoli was chosen on October 18 at the Sand Hill Non-Commissioned Officers Club at 9:30 p.m. The title will be bestowed by the division commander, Major General R. H. Wierneck. In addition to the honor, she will be the recipient of several hundred dollars in prizes and will join the 1st Anniversary celebration of the Second Infantry Division on October 25.

The First Infantry's pageant was staged in the open air recreation area where an atmosphere of carnival and frolic prevailed. Officers and men of the battle group brought their families and joined in contests and games. For the children there were Hula-Hoop contests, pony rides, slides and swings. The men of the First Infantry staged horseshoe and volley ball tournaments.

At picnic tables family groups watched a talent show in six acts presented by each company of the battle group. In this was the same advantage point that battle group families saw the "Miss First Infantry" pageant on the patio.

Following the selection of Mrs. Davoli as "Miss First Infantry" a picnic luncheon was served.

Judges for the contest were: Mr. David Lee of WRB-TV, Major William H. Wierneck, WVTM; Major William T. Hurley, First Infantry Adjutant; and Charles Reynolds of Reynolds of battle group headquarters; Mrs. Charles G. Sherman and Mrs. Barbara Whittle. Mrs. Davolia resides at 415 Mathewson Road, Columbus, Georgia.

PRO PAY smoke signals circle the Pentagon and can be seen on the horizon by Indian-head scouts, but not in cinemascopes. Tracking down the amount and finding out if "High" is eligible calls for more Indian tricks than there are Indians. This much, however, we caught in our trap: Proficiency pay will begin about January 1st and will amount to 20 to 30 dollars monthly. Starting this month the Army will release specific information and list MOS jobs eligible. Pro pay will be paid to grades E-4 and above who demonstrate a specified level of proficiency in their jobs, and who meet eligibility requirements. (Lil Injun signals that Indianheads gettun MOS study aids, or pow wow with Master Sergeant Van Zeldien for study course in MOS field.)

DIG THIS Indianhead who 'swallows bayonets, cleaning rods, and what-nots. Private James (Lucky) Ball is not only hero on such dishes as swords and fire, he also has another trick they didn't tell you about on Page One. The 23rd Infantryman, who performed with Ringling Brothers and appeared on television, mixes his drinks after they have been in his stomach, using dis-assembled clothes hanger as a stirring rod, which is frowned upon by the bartenders union.

THE 23RD INFANTRY who have been charging their batteries by tuning in on Monday night WBLT-TV and rattling their bones to the Dixieland jazz of Second-Division's combo king, Sfc. Morat and his Modernaires, got an earful of the "king" of rhytmo last week. CWJ Morales took over from Morat and presented the entire Second Division Band and Chorus featuring Mr. Morales original composition, "The Indianhead March," which was made official Oct. 2. The March was so well received by nambuzzites that WRBL officials have requested an encore from the band and chorus on October 30. The Modernaires, not forgotten, are expected to Hi Flagain in November.

TOM TOMS of the Indianhead Association are thundering the news about their $3,000 raffle, which kicks off on the first day of the division's anniversary celebration, October 25. Chances will be sold during organization Day festivities, and sales will continue for several weeks. Two thousand dollars in cash and prizes will be awarded lucky ticket holders on December 10, and you'll have just 15 shopping days before Christmas to spend it.

LIL INJUN SAYS whole tribe invited to pow wow to see some pretty squaws and maidens at big fire dance at all units of Indianhead Division for choosun "girl with mostum everything contest. Me also hearp big judge of maiden with mostum everything, but me choosum hearp big squaw to keepum teepee warm.

87th Readies For Division Celebration

The 87th Infantry completed its final plans last week for the 87th portion of the Second Infantry Division Organization Day activities which are scheduled to take place on October 25-26.

The Battle Group will participate in the opening ceremonies on the morning of the 25th by parading with the other units of the division before the Commanding General and guests of the division.

The parents, wives and families of all the trainees now undergoing basic training with the 87th Infantry will be invited by letter to join the organization in celebration, by attending open house activities and other events with their sons and husbands. Other guests are to include the families of permanent cadre and distinguished visitors.

The festivities for the 87th will start in the Kelly Hill area at 11:30 a.m. in order that the visitors may have dinner at the invarious unit mess halls. At this time they may also visit the many displays which will depict the organization and ceremony of a modern day Battle Group and the history of the 87th Infantry. They may also visit any of the barracks.

The coronation of the queen will follow the dinner meal at Essegbarer Field at 12:45 p.m. The selected "Miss 87th Infantry" will reign over all the festivities on the 25th and 26th. Sporting and competitive events will follow the coronation of the Queen at 1:00 p.m. Planned events will include races, sporting tournaments and military rifle competition among the rifle companies. Military events are to include rifle displays of skill as well as rifle assembly, grenade throwing, the manual of arms and platoon drills. A Soldier of the Day will be chosen from among the trainees.

At 3:30 p.m. there will be a military demonstration which is planned to come as a complete surprise to the spectators. This will be followed by a demonstration by the Scout Dog Platoon from the 28th Infantry.

Headquarters Co. Gets New Executive Officer

By 9th Inf. P10
Headquarters Company
First Lieutenant Edward A. Calburn has assumed duties as Executive Officer for the Company; his previous job was Assistant Adjutant for the Battle Group.

On October 9, Captain Ralph C. Colley, Company Commander, presented the Good Conduct Medal to Specialist Fifth Class John Smith.

Sergeant George T. Smith left the unit for duty in Korea. A new member to the unit is Sergeant Kenneth W. Balza who recently returned from Bamberg, Germany where he was attached to the Fourth Infantry Third Infantry Division. He spent 30 days leave before returning to his job as Assistant Adjutant.

Company A
Trained Company "A" completed their fourth week of Advanced Infantry Training with the firing of the sniper rifle. Earlier in the week they were made to march in formation. On October 8, Master Sergeant David W. Eckert assumed duties as the new First Sergeant for the company. Before his transfer, he was Operations Sergeant for the Battle Group.

Captain Bunch Departs For New Assignment

By 11th Infantry P10
Headquarters Company
Captain Duell F. Bunch, the newly assigned commander, leaves on November 1 for his new assignment with the Infantry School.

By nearly seven years Captain Bunch has watched their company grow and go as he remained in the Infantry School. During his assignment he witnessed ceremonial proceedings in which personnel and equipment were transferred to re-designated units, organized under the peacetime structure within the Tenth and Second Infantry Divisions. As the changes were effected, Captain Bunch stepped into other roles with the newly designated units.

As he leaves, Captain Bunch is filled with a strong desire for more duty with the Infantry which he has been so closely associated and his personnel with whom he has worked so long.

Headquarters Company recently had several of its personnel promoted. The newly assigned new stripes were Sergeant Peter Drobok who was elevated

69th Elects Miss Humble As Queen

By 2nd Div. P10
Mrs. Gisela Humble was selected as the 69th Army pageant staged in the Armory auditorium Oct. 13 when personnel of the battalion voted her as winner over her opponent, Mrs. Rosemary Dille.

Fifty-two year old Mrs. Humble is the wife of Sergeant Howard C. Humble, Company B, 69th Armor and is mother of one.

The brown haired, blue eyed, Miss Humble is a native of Linz, Austria.

In the 69th, unlike most of the units which selected their queen by a panel of judges, the personnel of the battalion elected Miss Humble as their queen.

"Well," he went on to say, "the 32d marines together with the 9th and 22d Infantry (the Second Division) broke ranks and charged the 32d."

"You didn't forget the 32d with a smile, "we stopped this parade and we didn't do their banner any good."

The old sergeant chuckled as he recalled the frantic efforts of a lady welfare worker to quell the clash between the "Dangerous 32d." A lot of us didn't forget the 32d on the face of General Le June, he said.

Sergeant Hunter returned to the United States with the Second Infantry Division in August of 1919. He told of the bearing welcome given to them as they paraded down Fifth Avenue, he said.

They must have covered us with tons of ticker tape when we paraded down Fifth Avenue," he said.

During the period between the wars, Sergeant Hunter remained in civilian life. When the United States entered World War II, he found himself back in uniform and has remained in the uniform since that time, serving throughout the Second World War and Korea.

87th Names Sgt. Major Top NCO

By 87th Inf. P10
The 87th Infantry, First Battle Group, has selected their battle group sergeant major, Master Sergeant (E-8) John E. Compton as the Outstanding Non-Commissioned Officer in the 87th Infantry for the month of September.

Colonel Robert Besson, Commanding Officer, last week extended his personal congratulations to the Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers of the 87th Infantry who have presented. Particularly noteworthy have been the performance of Sergeant First Class David Butler, Sergeant First Class Walter G. White and First Lieutenant Hart Weisberg. All three of these men were rated superior on the classes in which they were tested by division training inspectors. Sergeant Butler received two superior ratings in one week and was personally congratulated by Brigadier General Chester A. Humphrey, 87th Infantry Commander, for his outstanding work.

Fighting Reputation Held By Veteran STRAC Unit

PORT BRAGG, N. C. (ANF) — The 82nd Airborne Division has always had a reputation for being at the right place at the right time. Its successful mission of spearheading the Normandy landings in June, 1944, under command of Major General Matthew B. Ridgeway, later Army Chief of Staff, is a testament to its fighting reputation.
In its next decisive operation, the division helped stem the German invasion in the Ardennes, blunting the critical northward salient of the Bulge during the fall of 1945, up the book of Italy and on the Azores.
The entire division was reassembled in England in the spring of 1944 to prepare for the successful mission of spearheading the Normandy landings in June, 1944, under command of Major General Matthew B. Ridgeway, later Army Chief of Staff.

Exercise Set For Limited War Training

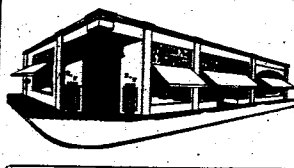

PORT BRAGG, N. C. (ANS) — When Exercise White Cloud is kicked off here in late October, participating personnel will get their first taste of STRAC-type operations.
Planned air combined unit training for all elements of the 101st Airborne Division, the 15th Air Force, and the 1st Cavalry Division, will include transportation, quartermaster, engineer, chemical, and medical elements.
The exercise will portray limited war conditions in an allied nation located next to an aggressor satellite. The aggressor will not be engaged directly but the "brush fire" will consist of a combination of subversion, rebel uprisings and infiltration by satellite-organized "volunteers."
To add realism, linguists of the 52nd Military Intelligence Company and 77th Special Forces will take part along with a CAMG platoon of the Airborne Division's Government Group and a C-47 Augmentation Section from Fort Gordon, Ga.
Early relief and redeployment of airborne units and re-entry into combat by airborne assault is a basic requirement under the "Reorganization of the Airborne Division" concept. This phase will be accomplished by two airborne operations centers at Fort Campbell, Ky., on the first day and the other here later.
SAFETY SIGN
Sitting in his parked car, a man in Rutland, Vt., was struck by a signboard blown down by the wind. The sign was an accident scoreboard erected by the town's traffic safety council.

THE GLAMOUR FRONT

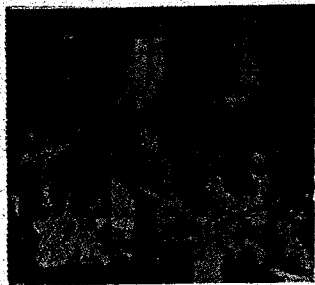

If you wish to protect your skin from the elements when you go riding in open sports cars, apply your make-up—beautifully and thoroughly. Foundation make-up, carried below the chin and over the neck and ears, will dull the edges of nipping winds and filter the sun's bright rays from your skin. Lipstick and creme rouge can prevent chapping on the high planes of the cheeks and the sensitive lip area, and eyeshadow provides effective protection for the delicate skin of the eyelids. Protect a lovely complexion from wind-whipping with a generous-sized scarf or car hat, and like such glamorous motion picture stars as Pat Crowley, your beauty will be at its loveliest during your ride and afterward.

TABLE TOP-IX

It is believed that the very first man-made fiber was made of glass, and that glass was first made as a fiber, long before recorded history. This belief stems from the probability that glass was not invented, but "discovered" accidentally by someone who built a campfire on the sand. Through the embers of his fire, he likely saw a small pool of glowing liquid which curiosity led him to poke with a stick. In doing so, he drew a coarse fiber on the end of his stick—a glass fiber. Glass fibers, however, never made a serious appearance until the Middle Ages when they were seen as flowers and leaves shaped by Venetian glass blowers to adorn their stemware and glasses. The development of more utilitarian applications for glass fibers did not come until the late 1930's.

For those homemakers who have always delighted in the beauty and practicality of curtains and draperies made from glass yarn, a more opaque fabric with a soft natural feel is now available with the introduction of the new Fibreglas Acrocor yarn. A "bulked up" yarn, it imparts the feel of a natural fiber like wool or mohair. There is no sheen apparent—just a soft, textured look.

Curtain and drapery fabric woven of fiberglass has many unique advantages. Dirt doesn't penetrate glass fibers and, therefore, these fabrics require no rubbing, twisting or wringing. These curtains and draperies bring new color to a room as well as practicality to windows by filtering light, yet are strong enough to endure constant exposure to the sun without fading or damage to the fibers. Fiberglass fabrics are unaffected by the harsh glare of sun rays, humidity, mildew and

- Coffee Brownies
- 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
 - 1/3 cup butter or margarine
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
 - 2/3 cup sifted flour
 - 1/2 cup whole bran cereal
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons instant coffee powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Melt chocolate and butter in heavy 2-quart saucepan over low heat. Remove from heat. Add sugar and stir until well-blended. Add eggs and vanilla; beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and coffee; add to first mixture together with bran and nuts and mix well. Spread in greased 8 x 8-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes. This will give you sixteen 2-inch squares.

insects, and are fireproof. They will never shrink, stretch or sag, thus saving alteration, and can be hung at the window without additional lining.

These fabrics have a special inherent beauty because they are translucent. Hung over light, they impart a glow not unlike the effect you get from a stained glass window. Some beautiful effects can be achieved with both solid and printed fabric because of this translucent quality. In addition, the fabric has exceptional draping qualities, enabling Mrs. Sevelid Lady to plan her window treatment with the knowledge that the drape will remain taut.

Post Hosts Top Visitors Of 6 Nations

Distinguished visitors from Thailand, Britain, Saudi Arabia, Philippines, Republic of Korea and Turkey will be entertained on Infantry School activities this week.

The chief of staff of the Royal Thai Army, Major Gen. Chaiern Mar-buddha-nong, got a firsthand look at Infantry School operations Oct. 20 to 22. He was accompanied by Col. Prachar Manayandee of the Royal Thai Army's Directorate of Operations.

They were honored at an official luncheon Oct. 20 in the Main Officers' Mess and viewed demonstrations of battle group vehicles, communications equipment, troop carrier and cargo aircraft, mine warfare, carbines, pistols, sub-machine guns, flame throwers and hand grenades.

British Welcomed British Major Gen. K. C. Cooper, chief of staff of Allied Forces Northern Europe, was welcomed for a two-day visit with an honor guard on Chapel Field at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 21 in the Main Officers' Mess. He left the post at 9:30 a.m. the following morning.

United Nations Day, Friday, Oct. 24, will hold a special significance for The Infantry School, which now includes within its student body 275 Allied officers and enlisted men from 31 countries.

The corps of Allied students closely resembles the world organization, which first came into being on Oct. 24, 1945, in that it contains representatives from countries as large as Great Britain and as small as Viet Nam. Assigned to the school to absorb the latest Infantry techniques and theories concerning Infantry arms, tactics and equipment, the officers, ranging in rank from that of second lieutenant to lieutenant colonel, are joined in the common bond of maintaining world peace through military preparedness.

This preparedness, in consonance with the objectives of the countries of the Free World, is in support of the UN which may, all other measures failing, recommend a collective action to maintain peace. Under its Article 43, the Security Council of the world organization.

Knox Starts Missile Class By Television

WASHINGTON (AP)—A two-hour course in missile studies has been started via closed-circuit television between Huntsville, Ala., and Ft. Knox, Ky., the Defense Department has announced.

Programs originate at Huntsville's Army Ordnance Missile School and are relayed to the Army Armor School at Ft. Knox. Use of television enables the two training centers to economize by jointly using costly equipment and skilled instructors already stationed at the Huntsville missile school.

The purpose of the course is to train high-ranking officers in the methods of inspecting missiles at sites throughout the world to determine that weapons are being kept in instant combat readiness.

The course is to be given weekly deal with maintenance of six Army missiles: the Nike-Ajax, Nike-Hercules, Corporal, Lance, Hawk and Redstone.

The course will be conducted regularly from now through next June, originating from the missile school on the first three Wednesdays of each month.

Use of closed-circuit television by the Army over a distance of 200 miles is the outgrowth of more than seven years study by the Signal Corps and other military agencies.

Tests to evaluate the effectiveness of this technique in missile education will be given the students to determine their reactions to television as a medium of instruction.

Maj. Eggleston Takes Command of 577th

577th Battalion

Major Edmund O. Eggleston has assumed command of the 577th Engineer Battalion. He succeeded Lt. Col. John G. Farmer.

In 17 years of duty at Fort Benning he has been assigned to include: the Lido Road, Burma, and the Old Burma Road in China, Greenland and the North Atlantic, including survey work.

Two big individual monthly battalion honors were bestowed on Sgt. John E. Higgins, who was selected non-commissioned officer - of the month, and Pfc Carl W. Owens, engineer - of the month for September. The honors and three day passes were issued these men by Major Eggleston at a battalion formation.

Monthly honors were presented Sept. 30, in the battalion assembly area by Major Eggleston.

Following a point breakdown used to determine the following honor company for the month, Company C, commanded by Capt. Walter Russell was presented this honor.

The singular honors which helped to bring Company C to the top of the parade were: best supply, best order room, and best day room.

Pfc Charles L. Dorsey has been assigned to Fort Campbell, Ky. Pfc Henry F. James and Willie J. McCollum both received reassignment orders for Fort Stewart, Ga.

57th Company 1st Lt. Robert D. Premier Jr., leader of the third platoon, departed Oct. 13 for Fort Rucker, Ala., to join elements of the company attached there.

Lt. Col. Fred L. Smith, Jr. will assist Lt. Charles F. Pigson in planning and supervising the maneuvers in their role of aggressor forces in operation "Task Objective."

Sfc Andrew J. McBride, third platoon sergeant; Pfc James P. Lessor Jr., and Pfc Charles C. Stuycock, reported Oct. 9 for assignments in Europe.

The 67th went all out in supporting the Community Activities Fund by contributing $184. This put them $44 above their goal and gave them 117 per cent participation.

WARNS OF DANGER: WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Army's Chief of Research and Development, Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau warned this week that the Communist threat to the United States is real and proximate, and that the Communist espionage apparatus is formidable. "I say warned because of fear of contradiction," he told the fourth general convention of the American Society for Industrial Security here, "that the advanced state of Soviet technology today is due more to Soviet success in espionage and subversion than it is to their scientific apparatus."

87th Chemical Gets New Mission Here

87th Chemical Company The 87th Chemical Company, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, recently assumed a new mission at Fort Benning.

The Snake Company now supports CBR training for the Basic Training Committee of the First Battle Group, 87th Infantry, Second Division.

Company B Kurechheim, Belanolan may be quite a mouthful, but it happens to be the hometown of Pfc. Joseph Lachmann who is from Germany.

Pfc. Lachmann has completed Ordnance School at Fort Bragg, N. C. He was, while at Fort Bragg, assigned to the 7th Division. Later, he was assigned to the 90th Airborne unit just prior to being sent to Fort Benning.

Pfc. Ernest L. Greene has been attached to Company B, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry. Lt. Greene is following in the footsteps of his father, Pfc. Ernest L. Greene, who was killed in action during World War II. Lt. Greene's father has retired after 26 years of service. A total of 18 years of his service were spent at Fort Benning.

Three key NCOs were transferred from Battery B. Sgt. Floyd D. Pitman, who has served as mess steward, has been transferred to Europe. Sgt. Desier L. Trammell has received orders sending him to Korea. Sgt. Trammell has been with Battery B one year serving as a gunner in the 1st firing battery.

Col. Oliver D. Strickland, who has been a member of the detail section for the past year will leave for Ireland after taking a 30-day leave at his home in Florida.

There are 45 enlisted men from this unit who are departing for the Egin AFM Ranger Camp in Florida. Most of the members of this month's garrison force are veteran "Enemies" at Egin AFM.

Two men from the company are on leave. They are Sp5 Raymond Stroy who is on a 15-day re-enlistment leave, and Sp4 Lloyd A. Coetzman, operations sergeant also on a 15-day leave. Two other men from the company have just returned from leave. They are, Sp5 Pfc. Kenneth Trohblaus and Pfc. Frederick Buchman are on 15-day leave to their homes in Carlisle, N. J. and Bronx, N. Y., respectively.

Sound System for Saving

A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. A family's future is only as bright as its savings account.

The modern soldier works hard at his Army career and looks forward to retirement. After living in various communities all over the world for 20 to 30 years, gracious living, in the minds of most soldiers, means a comfortable home for his family and a college education for his children.

Today's soldier doesn't have to shop around for a good savings plan. The Army not only has available an exclusive savings deposits system for its enlisted members but pays them interest on the deposits at the rate of four per cent per year, simple interest on all amounts which have been deposited six months or more.

This plan, established as early as May 15, 1872, by act of Congress, is known as the Soldiers' Deposits System and is a flexible means for an enlisted career soldier to build up savings. It is exclusive in that Army officers and civilian employees are ineligible to participate in the plan. Since 1872, more than a million service members have benefited from this method of accumulating savings.

The system allows the soldier to deposit money at any time through the personnel officer or commanding officer of his unit. Amounts deposited must be at least $5 and not more than the individual's monthly pay plus allowances. Only exceptions to these maximums occur at three-year intervals and at the time of a reenlistment without break in service.

Soldiers' deposits and the interest from the deposits are exempt from liability for a member's indebtedness, including indebtedness to the United States Government. Federal tax laws, Internal Revenue Service determines that a soldier's delinquent income tax is a "problem case."

Normal withdrawals are automatic upon discharge for any reason, including military reenlistment. Emergency withdrawals may be made when the health or welfare of the service member or his dependent requires. It is thus not too difficult to withdraw the money when needed.

In case of death of the service member, the amount of his deposits plus interest is paid to his heirs or designated representatives.

So, if you are not now making soldier deposits, given the plan a trial and benefit from the sure, safe, and sound system that millions of servicemen have found worthwhile.

Lucky at Number 13

Thirteen is not always an unlucky number. Oct. 24 this year marks the 13th birthday of the United Nations, a date that has an intimate meaning for all men and women in the Armed Forces.

On the future growth and vitality of the U.N. rests the world's best hope for peace. It's as simple as that.

The U.N. has its critics. Probably it always will have. Some of them are sincere patriots like us who believe that the organization for ulterior motives.

But however much they snipe at its aims and methods, they cannot be blind to its steady growth. The U.N., which had 51 member nations in 1945, has 81 today.

The goal which the U.N. has never wavered in: to maintain international peace and security. Since the founding of the U.N., the world has seen the development of new weapons that, in the awfulness of their destructive power, could make WWII the end of civilization.

Chinese Reds Break Cease-Fire in Strait

TAIPEI, Formosa - Secretary of State Dulles arrived Tuesday for talks with President Chiang Kai-shek on the situation in Formosa Strait.

Dulles faced a grave new situation raised by Communist China's break in the cease-fire in the straits.

The secretary's trip was scheduled while the guns were silent and originally was designed to promote U.S.-Nationalist China solidarity while seeking some agreement of making the cease-fire permanent.

The Reds, blaming the United States, called off the cease-fire and started shelling Monday. Nationalist guns replied.

Preceding Dulles to Taipei were Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Army commander in chief, and Gen. William H. Tunner, U.S. Army forces in the Pacific.

They arrived separately Tuesday morning to be present at the Dulles-Chiang talks.

REBUFFS MEETING WASHINGTON - Secretary of State Dulles Monday rebuffed a Soviet bid for an early Red Cross Gen. S. Ivanov, who had been invited to attend a later East-West conference that would discuss necessary and desirable.

In notes delivered in Moscow published in 1947, Dulles stated that the United States would not be present at the Dulles-Chiang talks.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (MAJOR) WILMER E. BOTTUMS... We are now more godly than in the past. We are more godly than in the past. We are more godly than in the past.

Whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap. Many of us desire more godly community and better world than that in which we live.

Many of us desire more godly community and better world than that in which we live. We are more godly than in the past. We are more godly than in the past.

We may pray for better souls, but this will be effective only to the extent that we work in cooperation with the divinely established laws of nature that man has been fortunate enough to discover.

In the agricultural world, we know by continual experience that man will reap what he sows. Those who plant peaches have reaped peaches.

It is pedantic to mention such a matter in a farming column because it is almost universally known. A fact that is not so widely known is that this same principle applies to the spiritual life of the man.

The Army is vitally concerned with the problems of the individual officer and soldier. The Staff Judge Advocate Section of this command has qualified attorneys to aid him in handling his problems.

Legal Assistance Division of the Staff Judge Advocate Section is prepared to help the individual in many cases. Among the many services offered are the preparation of wills, powers of attorney, and aid in income tax matters.

Much trouble and inconvenience can be saved by the soldier and his family if these matters are taken care of properly, and before an emergency arises. Not only is the individual assured of having these matters settled, but having them done in a legal and correct manner by a competent attorney at no cost to himself.

While the legal assistance program does not extend to having an Army attorney represent the soldier in civilian court, much can be done in straightening the problem out before it reaches the individual secure qualified civilian counsel.

Although an emergency may exist at present, it is a wise course for the soldier to prepare now for his future needs. Provisions should be made for widows and dependents. Provisions should also be made for some one to act for the individual in case he becomes incapacitated and unable to act. Business and financial matters should be settled.

There are many things about the miser who got on a bus and was told the sign "Pay As You Leave."

What happened? "He's still riding."

What happened? "He's still riding."

Collyer Talks Of Others, Not of Self

Clayton "Bud" Collyer, master of ceremonies for such popular TV shows as "Weather Your Nest," "Winner Take All," and "Break the Bank" was one of the dignitaries who attended JCOOC here recently.

Bud, as he prefers to be called, was guest of Officer Candidate F. W. Lengacher, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, who is in command of the School Brigade's 50th Company, Fifth Signal Battalion at a headquarters honoring JCOOC.

According to JCOOC Lengacher, Bud is one of the easiest of men to talk with but who spent all of our too-short 50 minutes talking about his family rather than himself. He spoke glowingly of his two daughters who are now attending college, and of Miss, his youngest son, who is a senior in high school.

"At no time did he voluntarily talk of himself or his numerous shows. When questioned on these subjects he answered in modest, unassuming, humble manner. Not at all conceited or aloof, it is easy to see why he is one of New York's best loved personalities and very popular among Army personnel's wives.

"In this day when he hears so many derogatory remarks from the personnel in the entertainment field, to speak with Bud Collyer is indeed an enjoyable and enlightening experience. He is a man who is so unselfish and so generous that he has the majority of his contemporaries," Lengacher stated.

OVER THE AIR

In recent years, much has been heard about Civil Defense and its importance in the nation's overall defense plan. But most people think of Civil Defense as being entirely a civilian problem.

This week Fort Benning produced, dramatized documentary "Queen of Battle" which tells the story of a woman who served in the Army. It is presented by WRBL Saturday at 8:45 p.m.

There'll be news this week on both radio and television. Sunday at 12:45 p.m. watch WRBL-TV Channel 4.

Mr. Second Div. Busy With Division Activities

By 2nd Div PIO
Sergeant First Class Alexander M. Hunter, who has been named "Mr. Second Infantry Division," has found himself a busy man with all of the activities resulting from the title. Sergeant Hunter appeared on WRBL-TV on Monday, October 13 and has been appearing on local radio stations and the "Army Hour." He is scheduled to appear on WTVM-TV on Saturday, October 27 in a special half-hour, Second Infantry Division Organization Day show.

Sergeant Hunter, currently a member of the divisions 122d Signal Battalion, first joined the Indianapolis Division in December 1947, with the Fourth Marine Brigade, one of the original marine units attached to the division upon its activation in France in 1947. He is believed to be the only man who served with the division in its First World War on active duty with the Indianapolis Division to day.

Sergeant Hunter will be honored during the divisions 41st anniversary celebration October 26 and 27. On the 26th, the First Battle Group, 8th Infantry, in the Division-wide competition among all basic trainees. First appearing before a board of six officers at the Battle Group level, Terrebonne was chosen from five competitors to represent the 8th.

Detachment. The sixty-year old sergeant who fought with the Indianapolis Division from Chateau Thierry to its final victory at Meuse-Argonne has an unflinching devotion to the division which he says has provided him some of his richest experiences. Of its World War performance, Sgt. Hunter says the Indianapolis Division was "Overal." "Second to None." It has no superior, he declared.

On the sixth of June, 1918 he was to attack Hill 142 in the Belleau Woods sector," he recounted. "It was the toughest attack I can remember." Out of the 220 marines I went over the top with, only 30 were left.

AF Plans to Award Pro Pay to 13,300

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force plans to start proficiency payments to 13,300 airmen in 30 different AFSCs on Nov. 1. Next phase in the program, the AF said, will be on March 1 and June 1, 1959. The Defense-authorized quota for Fiscal Year 1959 calls for proficiency payments to 25,000 airmen in 56 AFSCs. The new incentive pay system gives about 80,000 enlisted personnel, primarily in critical skills, proficiency increases of $30 a month during this fiscal year.

Board Elects Terrebonne Top Trainee

By 2nd Div. IO
A board of seven officers selected recruit Robert J. Terrebonne, Jr., as the Outstanding Basic Trainee of the Second Infantry Division for Organization Day. Currently in his seventh week of the basic combat training cycle, recruit Terrebonne represented Company D, 2nd Infantry, in the Division-wide competition among all basic trainees. First appearing before a board of six officers at the Battle Group level, Terrebonne was chosen from five competitors to represent the 8th.

He then went on to win the Division's title in competition over three other trainees by virtue of his superiority in the basic combat training subjects, military bearing, personal appearance, his M1 rifle qualification score, and knowledge of current events, organization and history of the Army. "Second to None." It has no superior, he declared.

On the sixth of June, 1918 he was to attack Hill 142 in the Belleau Woods sector," he recounted. "It was the toughest attack I can remember." Out of the 220 marines I went over the top with, only 30 were left.

Miss Meadows Chosen 'Miss Second Division'

The Second Infantry Division chose Miss Shirley Meadows as their queen in the Miss Second Infantry Division contest staged at Fort Benning, Ga. Hill, Non-Commissioned Officers Club on Saturday evening, October 18. Miss Meadows is the lovely 20 year old brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Meadows of 1017 2nd Street, Columbus, Georgia. Eight contestants appeared before the judges, once in a street dress and then in a cocktail dress. They were interviewed before the judges and audience by George Thieringer of Columbus who acted as Master of Ceremonies. Selection of the winners were made on the basis of poise, personality, beauty and figure. Miss Meadows was crowned as "Miss Second Infantry Division" by Major General R. H. Wienecke, Second Infantry Division Commander. She will be crowned at 8 p.m. with the actual pageant beginning at 9 p.m.

Miss Meadows represented 2nd Division Trainees, at the contest and was sponsored by Lieutenant Will G. Bacon of 2636 Walker Avenue, Columbus, Ga. She is a member of Headquarters Company, Second Infantry Division. The selection of Miss Second Infantry Division crowned a week of pageants which were held in each of the major units of the division. Winners of those pageants were official contestants for the division-wide title.

Miss Meadows will rein over her major activities of the Second Infantry Division's 41st Anniversary celebration, October 26 and 27. Immediately after festivities at the Sand Hill Non-Commissioned Officers Club, Miss Meadows appeared with Rozell Fabian on WRBL-TV, "At Home With Rozell," at 8 p.m. During the morning, she was interviewed by her sister, Miss Marie Ann Meadows, on WTVM-TV at 2 p.m. She has been guest of honor at several luncheons and dinners and is scheduled to appear at all Battle Groups within the Division. This morning "Miss Second Division" will visit Major General R. H. Wienecke in his office and will be a luncheon guest of General Wienecke and his staff at the Patton House. This evening she will be guest of honor at a dinner sponsored by the board of Government Officers of the Second-Infantry Non-Commissioned Officers Club and their wives.

General Wienecke's Message
Sunday October 26th, marks the 41st anniversary of the organization of the division that is "Second to None!" The proud heritage, which is ours today, was forged in the battles of WW I, tempered again in WW II and drawn to a new bright and glorious sharpness in the many battles of the Korean War. As we march in the ranks on Saturday, let us pray on Sunday, let us all remember those who went before us. The Second Infantry Division has and always will be a proud and distinguished unit, an esprit de corps, so that any job it may be given will be accomplished "Second to None." I am sure that the men who have trained, fought and died in the ranks of the Indianapolis division would be justifiably proud of their division today as I am.

Birthday Message

On this forty-first anniversary of the Second Infantry Division I extend congratulations and best wishes to all officers and men on behalf of the United States Army. To each of us, the symbol of the Indianhead is a reminder of the courage and fighting effectiveness which the "Second Infantry" has displayed in the forefront of three major wars. The Second Infantry Division's battle-earned traditions should be a source of deep satisfaction to each soldier as the Division contributes today to the strength and combat readiness in its war-deterrent role essential to the security of our Nation. Joining with all members of the Army I am pleased to express again our pride and confidence in the Second Infantry Division as it completes another year of significant service to our Nation.

General Wienecke's Message
Sunday October 26th, marks the 41st anniversary of the organization of the division that is "Second to None!" The proud heritage, which is ours today, was forged in the battles of WW I, tempered again in WW II and drawn to a new bright and glorious sharpness in the many battles of the Korean War. As we march in the ranks on Saturday, let us pray on Sunday, let us all remember those who went before us. The Second Infantry Division has and always will be a proud and distinguished unit, an esprit de corps, so that any job it may be given will be accomplished "Second to None." I am sure that the men who have trained, fought and died in the ranks of the Indianapolis division would be justifiably proud of their division today as I am.

Army Forms Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new small unit designed to plan and predict radioactive fallout in combat zones has been organized by the Army.

To be known as Radiological Control Centers, or RADCs, the Army said the small five-man units will evaluate and report radiological data gathered by aerial and ground monitors.

The Army said team members would be highly trained since their work demands speed, accuracy and skill. They could be required to handle several hundred readings a day, the Army said.

IN KOREA... 155mm Howitzers of the Second Division Artillery blast away, pounding Communist positions along the central front in Korea on March 6, 1951. The fighting Indianheads fought in all 10 campaigns of the Korean War.

STUDENT SPIES?
A professor in DePere, Wis., was really startled when he checked the student list for his "Philosophy of Communism" course. The first two enrollees were Marx and Engels, Karl and Friedrich, of course. Just Ronald and Mrs. Gale.

1950 Korean War 1954

In the Summer of 1950, the world as events in Korea culminated in the outbreak of hostilities, involving a small garrison of American troops. The world feared an all-out Third World War, but in the twisted shape of things, a localized conflict spread over the Korean Peninsula. Again, with the democratic way of life imperiled by the Communist hordes, the Second Infantry Division was the first of America's fighting teams from the United States to land in Korea. From 1950 until 1954, the Second Infantry Division fought in all engagements of the Korean War and were cited in numerous Orders of the Day in addition to receiving the Republic of Korea Distinguished Unit Citation and the Distinguished Unit Citation.

Twenty-six campaigns — all of them the story of individual sacrifice and valor — all of them another chapter written in the blood of the nation's youth who were strong enough to give added life to democratic peoples everywhere.

This is the story of the men... the outfit... who wear the famous Indianhead patch... who are the men of the 2nd Infantry Division.

Ordnance Gives Division Top Maintenance Support

By 702d QM. PIO

Whether the task involves recovery of knocked-out tanks from hostile territory or routine automotive and small arms repair, the 702d Ordnance Maintenance Battalion is always on hand to give services in the Second Infantry Division in every phase of war and peace.

At its birth in 1918, the 702d was two separate units known as the Service Park Units 343 and 344. One unit was housed at Camp Meigs in Washington, D.C., while the other was located at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

On the 13th of January 1921, the two units were consolidated and redesignated the Motor Repair Section Number 3, Second Division Trains. During the next 17 years the unit was redesignated three times and became the 702d Ordnance Light Maintenance Company in 1942 to furnish the Second Division with third echelon ordnance maintenance and supply.

Preparation for War
The company sailed from New York in October, 1942, for England to prepare personnel and equipment of the Division for the invasion of France. During this period training was conducted on the preparation for the anticipated landing operation.

Ordnance Maintenance Company on November 15, 1945.

History of the Second Quartermaster Company dates back to October, 1917, at which time it was organized as part of the Second Division at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Campaigns in which the Second Quartermaster participated during World War I are: Lorraine 1918, Aisne, Meuse-Argonne, Ardennes, Alsace and Central Europe.

After the start of World War II, the Second Quartermaster landed in Normandy and served through Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes, Alsace and Central Europe.

The end of the Korean War found the unit had served in all campaigns in the war.

Brigade Revives Old Custom Of Bugle Calls

With the installation of a public address system in the Fifth Student Battalion, School Brigade at Fort Benning, the old Army system of bugle calls, long silent to the ears of soldiers, will be revived.

All calls from Reveille to Taps will be sounded at the proper time over the loud speaker.

Bugle calls were an everyday occurrence in the Army of yesteryear. They served as a means of rapid, though not too certain, means of communication to cavalry troops and Infantry in wide-spread encampments. Most familiar of the calls, perhaps, are First Call, Reveille, Taps and the Cavalry Charge.

The calls also inform the soldier of activities which are taking place in the area. It is felt that sounding the bugle calls will revive an old, colorful and important custom of the Army.

At Fort Benning in 1958

After a brief Gyroscop course in Alaska, 1957, the Second Infantry Division was placed under the control of the Department of Army on November 1, 1956. On June 14, 1956 the Indianapolis Division was organized.

Drift Will Call 11,000 in Nov.

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Department of Defense has requested the Selective Service System to provide limited Forces, receiving citations with 11,000 men during November 1958 for assignment to the Army.

The November call is the same as for the months of September and October and is based on attainment of approved strength after allowances have been made for enlistments and reenlistments.

The Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force do not intend to place calls with Selective Service during November.

General Custer Led 7th in Early Wars

By 7th Cav. PIO

Born in the romantic Old West in the plains of Kansas, Gen. George A. Custer led the 7th Cavalry as activated at Fort Riley on December 22, 1866, and almost immediately was headed the mission of projecting settlers from hostile Indian tribes.

Major General George A. Custer led the regiment for ten years in battles with the Sioux, Cheyennes and the Nez Percés Indians.

The regiment's marching song, "Gary Owen" sounded out for the first time in sub-zero weather as the 7th charged in an attack on Black Kettle's band of Indians during the battle of Washita in December 1868. The cunning of such chiefs as Crazy Horse, Low Dog, Big Road and Sitting Bull proved vigorous testing for the young regiment.

An accident prevention program has been actively carried on for many years by the Army—first to reduce the suffering and tragedy of accidents and second to increase the efficient utilization of manpower, equipment and money allocated to carry out the Army's mission. The Army Information Digest reports that typical of the savings generated by the safety program was the reduction in costs to the government in accident injuries and deaths by $12,000,000 during the last fiscal year. "Savings in equipment and material cannot be estimated," the report states, "but obviously they were enormous."

The historic regimental crest of the 7th Cavalry is one of the most familiar of all unit crests. Gold in color, the crest is formed in the shape of a horseshoe surrounding a sabre at "Raisé" position. The term, "Gary Owen" emblazoned on the crest is the name of the regimental song, which was carried to this country by some of the ex-members of the Fifth Royal Irish Lancers.

Graduation Held At 23d Infantry For Company B

By 23d Inf. PIO

Graduation ceremonies were held for the second time for the Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry, Second Infantry Division, Company B, at the graduation of its first cycle of advanced trainees, October 11, at 8 a.m. in the gymnasium.

Colonel Kenneth R. Lindor, Chief of Staff, Second Infantry Division, congratulated the trainees in the War of the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Indian Wars, the Philippine Insurrection, the Boxer Rebellion, World War I and World War II.

Upon completion of the ceremony, Company B trainees departed by air for new assignments in Alaska and Korea.

Then, as now, the 7th Cavalry's river, General Custer moved forward to locate the enemy while he marked on to joining, courage and valor of its troopers.

The 7th Cavalry is best known for its engagements in one of the most disputed battles of those times, the Battle of Little Big Horn, Montana, which took place on June 25, 1876.

At that time, the 7th was commanded by Major General Terry. At the mouth of the well-known force of Indians and his followers were annihilated. The remainder of the regiment was kept on the defensive until the arrival of reinforcements was the extent of the tragedy known.

General Custer discovered the Indian encampment on the Little Big Horn River, but was not aware of their tremendous strength. General Custer deployed his regiment into three columns, sending two of them to attack abreast on his left, while he led the third.

He was surprised by an over-

The 2d Reconnaissance Squadron of the 7th Cavalry, an organic part of the Second Infantry Division, traces its heritage through Troop C of the 7th Cavalry. It was activated June 14, 1957 at Bamberg, Germany. The squadron was a former utilizing the 19th Reconnaissance Company, 10th Infantry Division, as a nucleus.

At Fort Monro, Virginia, on March 26, 1855, the Ninth Infantry was again activated. It has been continuous in service ever since, a period of more than one-hundred years.

From December, 1855 until the year 1892, the regiment served the West by participating in over 400 battles and skirmishes against the Indians.

Initially based in Washington Territory, the Ninth subsequently gave service in twelve states.

In 1867, Company F was dispatched to Sitka, Alaska in assist in opening the newly acquired Territory.

In 1892, after thirty-seven years of continuous service in hostile Indian territory, the regiment was transferred to routine garrison duty at Madison Barracks, New York. Rest was not for long however, as the outbreak of war with Spain in 1898, the Ninth was once

The Ninth Infantry has the proud distinction of having fought in every major conflict in which its soldiers have participated. The honors and traditions of this distinguished unit have survived from the time of its first organization in 1786 through campaigns in the War of the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Indian Wars, the Philippine Insurrection, the Boxer Rebellion, World War I and World War II.

Meanwhile, foreign dignitaries and missionaries, including Americans, were being subjected to the terrors of the Boxer Rebellion in China. On June 1, 1900, the day after the Ninth Infantry received the surrender of General Macabulo, one of the most powerful insurgent leaders, orders were issued directing the Regiment to proceed immediately to China.

Within less than a month, the Ninth was in action in China, and on July 15, made the famous assault on Tientsin. It was there that Colonel Emerson M. Liscum was killed leading the regiment and while dying gave birth to the motto, "Keep up the Fire." As a result of the same action, the Ninth acquired its nickname, the Manchu Regiment and its foremost trophy, the treasured Liscum Bowl, a large and ornate silver punch bowl, now considered to be worth some 50,000 dollars.

Upon termination of the Boxer Rebellion, the regiment returned to the Philippines for more campaigning against the insurgents.

The period, 1912-1917, saw the regiment engaged in peace time duties, relating every two or three years from the Philippines to Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

In October, 1917, the Ninth Infantry arrived in France.

again ordered to combat service, and on July 1, 1938, the regiment acquitted itself with distinction at the battles of San Juan Hill and Santiago. The war in Cuba having ended these short but bloody encounters, the Ninth returned to Madison Barracks to depart in February, 1939 for Manila to aid in suppressing insurgents in the Philippine Islands.

Following the armistice and a short period of occupation duty, the Ninth Infantry returned to the United States, its fourth return from overseas since the turn of the century.

The next 23 years, the regiment served as a peacetime unit at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

World War II, the Ninth Infantry entered combat in Normandy on D-Day plus 1, Campaigning in Normandy, Northern France, the Rhineland, the Ardennes, and Central Europe, the regiment added many more battle honors to its record, including the right to wear the Belgian Fourragere for distinguished conduct in the Battle of the Bulge. Indicative of the Ninth's contribution to victory in the biggest war in the history of the United States these figures: Eleven months of the most continuous combat; over four thousand battle casualties (948 killed) from a unit of 5,965 PIV strength; 9,818 individual awards to include one Medal of Honor, 11 DSC's and 169 Silver Stars.

Korea With the entry of the United Nations into the Korean conflict and the ensuing commitment of the Indianapolis Division, the Ninth Infantry found itself keeping intact its record of fighting in all US Wars. First divisional unit to land in Korea, the regiment subsequently pushed farther north than any other element of the division.

was the first to make contact with the intervening Chinese "Volunteers," and became the last divisional unit to withdraw from Hongcheon.

After four years and ten campaigns in Korea, the regiment returned with its parent division to Fort Lewis, Washington, October 1954. In 1956, the Ninth rotated to Alaska under Operation Gyroscop and Nike Zeus for the nation's defense on November 8, 1957. It terminated service in Korea.

Prime contractor in the anti-missile project is Western Electric which is teamed with Bell Telephone Laboratories, original developers of the weapons system, and Douglas Aircraft Co. in readying the Nike Zeus for the nation's defense arsenal.

Marksman Praised By Gen. Clarke

By 2nd Div. PIO

A Certificate of Achievement from the Commanding General to Sergeant Norman E. Sparnes, a member of the Second Division's Marksman detachment, at Division Headquarters today. Making the presentation was Major General R. H. Wienecke, Second Division Commander.

The certificate signed by General Bruce C. Clarke, CONARC Commanding General, cited Sergeant Sparnes for his outstanding performance of duty as a firing member of the United States Army Rifle Team in the National Trophy Rifle Team Match held at Camp Perry, Ohio, last September.

NINTH'S MOTTO . . . "Keep up the Fire" is the motto gained by the Ninth Regiment during the Boxer Rebellion in 1900. These were the last words of Colonel Emerson Liscum, then the Regimental Commanding Officer, when he was mortally wounded in the Battle of Tientsin.

diagnosed Division at Fort Benning, Georgia on June 14, 1868 and the birth of the Second Battle Group, Ninth Infantry as one of its integral units.

Ten wars, 47 campaigns, unit citations from three foreign governments, two Distinguished Unit Citations from the President of the United States, plus numerous citations and awards to individuals of the unit attest to the outstanding record of the Ninth Infantry.

Contract Awarded For Army Missile WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Army's anti-missile missile, the Nike Zeus, is being speeded toward test firing and full-scale production under a new $18 million contract with Western Electric Co.

Nike Zeus, a third-generation development of the Nike surrage-to-air weapons system, is being designed in a priority program to give an anti-missile defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles armed with nuclear warheads.

Tests on parts of the system already have been completed, the Army said, with further perfection of Nike Zeus components being "pursued vigorously."

Prime contractor in the anti-missile project is Western Electric which is teamed with Bell Telephone Laboratories, original developers of the weapons system, and Douglas Aircraft Co. in readying the Nike Zeus for the nation's defense arsenal.

'Wandering 11th' Has Flown Its Unit Colors in Nine Nations

BY 11th Inf. PIO
The present 1st Battle Group 11th Infantry, 24 Infantry Division came into being on Oct. 22, 1958. Presidential decree signed by President Lincoln at the beginning of the Civil War in 1861. However, as far back as 1798, 1812, and in 1847, several regiments of the Army were sent to Spain in 1808. The 11th Infantry, these organizations, however, were militia or temporary organizations.

In its Civil War record it has been a part of the Ohio and Cumberland Army, taking part in such battles as Shiloh, the Kentucky Campaign, Chickamauga, Murfreesboro, the march through Georgia, and the battle of Atlanta.

Following the Civil War, the 11th Infantry became known as the "Wandering 11th." Between 1888 and 1920, the first Battalion made 29 changes of station, including seven years of foreign service. The third Battalion changed stations 35 times, spending six years on foreign soil. The regimental colors have been flown in nine different nations—Cuba, Philippine Islands, Mexico, France, Belgium, Iceland, Great Britain, Germany and Luxembourg.

Indian Campaigns
Following the Civil War, the regiment was occupied in Indian campaigns and short intervals of garrison life until the end of the Spanish-American War. The most notable of these campaigns was the Puerto Rican campaign with light, with only one major battle at Las Manitas being necessary to reduce the Spanish garrison.

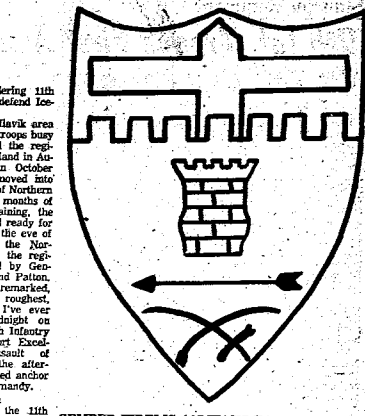

From 1904 to 1913, the regiment was stationed in the Western part of the U.S. and performed duty in San Francisco, California, following the earthquake which almost destroyed the city.

In 1911, the 11th Infantry moved to Texas City, Texas, placed in the proximity of General Pancho Villa's outlaw army. Two years later, the regiment was moved to Arizona, including seven years of border.

World War I
The 11th's next important move occurred on April 24, 1918, when the regiment sailed for France and by May 18 had completed the long trip to Camp Fontenay near Chaumont, France, where it joined the 8th Division. The 11th Infantry then took part in the Vosges Mountain, Saint Mihiel, and Meuse-Argonne offensives. In the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the regiment forced a brilliant crossing of the Meuse near Dun, under intensive artillery and machine gun fire, gained a bridge head across the river and forced the Germans to retreat. For this superb action, the 11th Infantry was chosen November 8th as Organization Day and adopted the striking French "Somme au Meuse" as its Regimental March. After the armistice was signed for occupation duty in Germany and Luxembourg, returning to the United States in 1919.

Three years later the 11th Infantry moved to Fort Benning, Indiana as its permanent station for 17 years of garrison life.

In 1938, the 11th again joined the 8th Infantry Division at Fort McClean, Alabama and SEMPER FIDELIS (ALWAYS FAITHFUL) . . .

The official crest and motto of the 11th recalls the French and Indian wars, old battles of the civil war and a strong bond of faithfulness that forms an unbreakable loyalty in this fearless fighting team. "This is the fittest, roughest, readiest outfit that I have ever inspected," said General Patton in 1944.

Two Cited For Service At 87th Inf.

Two 87th Infantry soldiers were commended for outstanding performance of duty at ceremonies held at battle group headquarters, October 7.

The Army Commendation Ribbon with metal pendant was presented to Major Fred W. Reif, 87th Supply Officer, and Specialist Fifth Class Alfred N. Walther, a senior medical aid man, for meritorious service in Vietnam which she reached in France until March 1956.

Returning to the United States as a member of the NATO Forces until March 1956.

Reif was cited for his outstanding performance of duty at Fort Benning, Georgia, where he served as a member of the 87th Infantry made Fort Ord, California its permanent station and once again assumed the role of training new men.

Fontenay
With the Potsdam reorganization of the Army's combat structure, to meet requirements of modern land warfare in the atomic age, the 8th Infantry Division was withdrawn from the roster of active organizations. On June 14, 1958, the 11th Infantry Regiment was redesignated the First Battle Group, 11th Infantry, and became a component part of the famous Indianhead Division at its permanent station, Fort Benning, Georgia.

We Serve 23rd Earned Impressive Record in Early Wars

BY 23rd Inf. PIO
From its Civil War beginning in July of 1861 down to the present time, the 23rd Infantry Regiment has had a colorful and eventful history.

Consisted of the Second Battalion, 14th Infantry Regiment, the young unit had an impressive record of service as a part of the Army of the Potomac's Fifth Corps. During the Civil War, from 1861 to 1864, it saw action at Manassas, the Peninsula Campaign, the battles of Antietam, Fredericksburg, Virginia, and Chancellorsville.

The unit participated in the great offensive of the Army of the Potomac and continued its efforts in the battles of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Cold Harbor and Petersburg.

Little Bighorn
After the Civil War the Second Battalion was sent to the Department of Columbia with

Washington, and on September 21, 1865, was reorganized and redesignated the 23rd Infantry Regiment. Shortly after being organized, the 23rd fought in the Indian Wars in both Arizona and Idaho, the most famous battle being the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

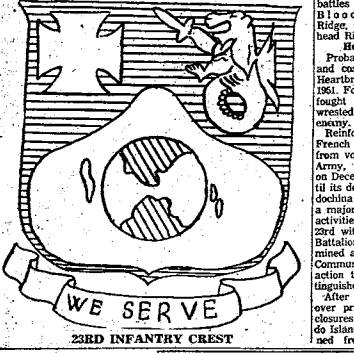

Following the Indian Wars the regiment was ordered to the territory after its purchase from Russia.

Globe Trotters
The close of the 19th Century brought the 23rd Infantry Regiment across the Pacific where it was engaged in the Philippine Campaign of the Spanish American War and later in the Philippine insurrection. Returning home after the Philippine fighting via the Suez Canal and the Straits of Gibraltar, the 23rd became the first United States Regiment to circumnavigate the globe.

This feat became a part of the Second Division in France on September 22, 1917. Taking part in most of the campaigns in World War I, the Regiment distinguished itself in the Argonne, Meuse-Argonne, the Meuse-Argonne, the Meuse-Argonne, the Meuse-Argonne.

In the interim between the World War and the 23rd Infantry Regiment underwent changes in various sections of the unit for the fighting to come.

Normandy
The 23rd arrived in Wales in April of 1944 to prepare for the invasion of Europe. It landed on Normandy Beach as part of the Second Division in June 1944. After hard and bitter combat the 23rd fought its way across Europe, Flanders, Belgium, the Netherlands, and the Netherlands.

the closing days of the war. This included two blocking operations, the first on the Wyoming line and the second on the Keokuk line.

The regiment returned to the Kumihwa-Chorwon sector on June 15, 1953, and while defending outpost Tom Dick and Harry, the cease fire agreement between the Communist and United Nations Forces was signed.

After the truce, the 23rd returned to training and was kept on the alert in order to be ready to serve in their best tradition on call.

On October 30, 1954, the 23rd Infantry Regiment, with the Second Division, again returned to Fort Lewis, Washington. Then, nearly 9 years after its original tour of duty in the territory, the 23rd returned to Alaska. With the Potsdam Campaign the First Battle Group of the 23rd remained in Alaska while the Second Battle Group was reactivated at Fort Benning.

Div. Simulates War For Spanish Minister

By 2nd Div. PIO
The Second Infantry Division was in a state of simulated war on Thursday, October 17, for the benefit of Lieutenant General Antonio Barroso, Minister of the Spanish Army, and other Spanish dignitaries visiting the Division to witness all phases of the Army's reorganization of Combat Infantry Division (ROCID).

Stopping off on the first leg of a nation wide tour of the United States military installations, General Barroso was accompanied by Colonel Benito Miranda, the Spanish Military Attaché, Lieutenant Colonel Enrique Calzada, Major Antonio Martin and Major Pedro Alvarez, all of the Spanish Army.

Accompanied by Major General R. H. Wiesche, Second Division Commanding General, and the Assistant Division Commander, Brigadier General Chester A. Dahlen, General Barroso and his aides attended simulated war briefings. Upon their arrival in the Sand Hill area, the dignitaries were briefed by the Division's General Staff in the Headquarters Conference Room.

Moving into the field, the group attended briefings at the Division Headquarters Command Staff Officers. From the Command Post exercise center at Sand Hill, General Barroso and his staff moved to the 11th Infantry area where field exercises were in progress.

The 11th Infantry under the command of Colonel Thomas Keagy, played a specially designed field exercise to accompany General Barroso with a tank-firing demonstration staged by the 6th Armor and the tank-infantry team in the attack. This demonstration was staged to illustrate the availability of fire-power to the rifle company in the attack.

New Officers Feted By EM Wives Club
Mrs. Dominic Earnshaw, newly elected president of the Enlisted Men's Wives Club of Fort Benning, and her date of officers were honored with an installation luncheon given by the organization of the Rocker Club Oct. 22.

Other new officers of the group are Mrs. Colidge Brunley, vice-president; Mrs. Richard Knight, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Lamb, treasurer. Mrs. Earnshaw served as secretary during the past year and Mrs. Lamb is the retiring president.

Guests at the luncheon included Mrs. George Cain, Mrs. Henry Dugajaski, Mrs. George Ferguson, Mrs. Miles Johnson, Mrs. Donald Rankin, Mrs. Clyde Rena and Mrs. Hadley Warren.

Other special guests were Mrs. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Mrs. Robert L. Winicki, Mrs. Miller O. Perry, Mrs. John F. Ruggles, Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen, Mrs. Paul J. Jarrett, president of the Woman's Club of Fort Benning, and Major Eda Flanagan, WAC advisor of the Infantry Center.

Keynoting the autumn decor, a large arrangement of autumn flowers and pumpkins, corn, gourds, leaves and straw flowers centered the dining area. Arrangements of autumn flowers and tapers in fall shades decorated tables.

14th Infantry Hosts First Brigade Lunch

Ladies of Second Battalion, 14th Infantry, were hostesses at the First Brigade's October luncheon at Crater Terrace Officers' Club.

The theme of the luncheon "Home Decorations" was carried out in table decorations. Attractive groupings of accessories, artistically arranged, were used for centerpieces.

The door-prize, a dried arrangement in autumn shades was awarded to Mrs. Edwin A. Ressler.

Mrs. Glenn H. Gardner presided and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. W. Brannon, interior decorator from Hinshaw Galleries.

Mrs. Gardner also welcomed the following newcomers to the Brigade: Mrs. Gabriel Johnson, Mrs. Thomas A. DeMatteo, Mrs. Mathew Mangav-

Mrs. Merle Garrett played a program of organ selections during the event.

Mrs. Lamb awarded engraved silver plates and silver bracelets to the other outgoing officers, Mrs. James Largent, vice-president, Mrs. Earnshaw, and Mrs. James R. Walton, treasurer.

In appreciation for her fine work as president, Mrs. Lamb was given a leather handbag and gloves from the club.

Guests at the luncheon included Mrs. George Cain, Mrs. Henry Dugajaski, Mrs. George Ferguson, Mrs. Miles Johnson, Mrs. Donald Rankin, Mrs. Clyde Rena and Mrs. Hadley Warren.

Others present were: Mrs. William R. Fenshell Jr., Mrs. Harold D. Harris Jr., Mrs. J. Stone, Mrs. George M. Turner, Mrs. Alvin G. Rowe, Mrs. William Stevenson, Mrs. W. G. Jenkins, Mrs. H. E. Hendricks, Mrs. F. W. Glanzer, Mrs. A. D. Davis, Mrs. E. M. Quigley, Mrs. R. E. P. Dixie, Mrs. P. E. Arnold, Mrs. R. E. Glasgow, Mrs. Lichen-walter, Mrs. A. W. Matthews, Mrs. T. E. Anderson, Mrs. Herbert Gamber, Mrs. James L. Low, Mr. Cary R. Peyton, Mrs. Robert J. Youman, Mr. C. B. Donovan, Mr. W. E. Price, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Roy K. Flint, Mrs. Vassar, and Mrs. Edward J. Husley.

The November meeting will be a covered dish supper with the members' husbands as special guests. Hostesses for this affair will be Mrs. John G. Farnham, Mrs. William Stevenson, Mrs. C. B. Donovan, and Mrs. Robert Yeoman.

HOLD FIRST LUNCHEON
Ladies of the Operations Office held their first luncheon of the season Oct. 14. It was held in the Villa Tea Garden under the direction of Mrs. Robert L. Crouch Jr. and Mrs. Michael Kovalsky.

Guests of honor included Mrs. Eliza Elenbas, mother of Mrs. Kovalsky, who is visiting from Hilland, and Mrs. Clark Potter, who attended a HIRE REAL THING The Rank Organization has a policy of authenticity whenever and wherever filming. When the "No the Moon by Night" film unit went to South Africa for location shooting, the policy was applied in the hiring of local Nepalese citizens for film jobs as bit players and extras. One actor who was hired was Ndawanda for the role of the film doctor in the film. Ndawanda in real life is a practicing wing doctor - his shingle is hanging outside his thatched roof office which is bedecked with the instruments of his craft.

On Modern Infantry Post Orientates Greece's Prince

Fort Benning guns roared out in a 21-gun salute Oct. 27 for the arrival of Greece's Crown Prince Constantine who is on an extensive tour of inspection of The Infantry Center.

The 18-year-old son of King Paul of Greece was met at Lawson Army Air Field shortly before noon Oct. 27 by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commander of The Infantry School, and was escorted to Chapel Field to receive honors rendered by The Infantry Center Honor Guard.

Briefed on Alcatraz later, the prince was briefed on all types of Army aircraft and took orientation rides at the airfield.

Oct. 28, Prince Constantine visited Dixie Village where students of The Infantry School had practical work solving leadership tasks. He then witnessed a demonstration by the 26th Scout Dog Platoon and was oriented on the activities of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit. During the afternoon he visited the Second Infantry Division.

Visits Here First

The Infantry School is the first of a series of U. S. Army installations to be visited by Prince Constantine during his stay in this country which is scheduled to last approximately two months in December. Included on his itinerary are tours of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

During his visit at Fort Benning, Prince Constantine will receive orientations on the latest infantry tactics and techniques and witness problems and demonstrations in the field.

To View Ranger Camp

An officer in the Greek Army comparable in rank to a second lieutenant, the prince also will visit the Argyre Ranger Camp at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

Upon his departure from The Infantry School, scheduled Nov. 1, Prince Constantine will go to Fort Bragg, N.C., the next Army installation listed on his itinerary.

The current visit is his first to the U.S. Upon his arrival Oct. 21, he visited New York and Washington before coming to Fort Benning.

Extra Day Added to World-Wide Infantry Conference Set at Post

The dates for the first world-wide Infantry Conference since 1946 have been extended one day to allow additional time for the presentation of committee resolutions.

The conference will begin at Fort Benning Dec. 2 and end Dec. 6.

More than 200 of the nation's outstanding Infantry leaders are expected to attend the sessions at The Infantry Center.

U. S. Travel Pay Not Taxable

NEW YORK (APFS) — The practical effect of a new income tax ruling is to excuse military personnel from income tax accountability for mileage and per diem based on travel, TDY, etc., in the continental U.S.

Internal Revenue Bulletin 1958 - 27 states in effect that an employee (serviceman) need not report on his tax return expenses for travel and similar purposes paid for the benefit of his employer (the service) if he is held accountable to his employer or if it comes as reimbursement.

An employee, says the bulletin, will be deemed to have made such an accounting if he received a mileage allowance of not more than 24 1/2 cents per mile or a per diem allowance of not more than $15 per day. These excluded rates exceeded normal government allowances within the U. S.

Reading Encouraged Under New Program

The Army is the books' management should be a "step-up" the promotion ladder. The "Military Science and Related Subjects" among military personnel, has reached Fort McPherson.

The Special Services Library on the Third Army Headquarters post has received 15 sets of the book collection of selected works which include John Gorka's "Inside Russia Today," Matthew S. Ridgeway's "Soldier," and Raymond Aron's "The Century of Total War."

Kept in a special room in the library, the series is available to all officers and enlisted men either living or off post. The system has been arranged whereby military personnel not removed from the library can borrow the books by mail. Unofficial word from Department of Army is that the book's content should be a "step-up" the promotion ladder. The "Military Science and Related Subjects" among military personnel, has reached Fort McPherson.

Hub of Infantry Center to Mark 12th Anniversary Nov. 1

Twelve years ago Nov. 1 the Infantry Center came into being at Fort Benning. To coordinate administration of the Infantry Center in 1946, the Army Infantry School, which has been at Fort Benning since the late 1930s, was absorbed by the single headquarters of The Infantry Center in 1946. Later the Airborne School became a department of The Infantry School.

With this change came the dual job held by the post commander, who serves as commander of The Infantry Center and commander of The Infantry School, Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., is now commanding general of the post.

The mission of The Infantry Center has expanded to such an extent to make it a major hub in the infantry wheel. It has become a focal point for the development of Infantry doctrine, instruction, training, tactics, techniques. It is the testing ground for the soldier's clothing and equipment, individual and small detachment and individual ratings and food packets. Its mission also includes the accommodation and furnishing training, administrative and logistical support to The Infantry School.

The Infantry Center has progressed with principles of modern warfare. Today its officers and enlisted men are well-versed in the Pentomic methods and equipment in their combat readiness.

Carnival Set Here Friday

Fort Benning school children will have an opportunity to try their hand at the fish-throw, dart games and bowling during a day Halloween Carnival from 8:15 to 9 p.m. Oct. 31.

ISD to Hold 12th Birthday Celebration

The School Brigade's Infantry School detachment, commanded by Lt. Col. Raymond O. Manasco, will celebrate its 12th Anniversary, Nov. 1 at the Second Cuartel at Fort Benning.

Wives, children and friends of ISD personnel have been invited to the celebration on the northeast side of the Cuartel. Field events have been planned so that all assigned personnel and their guests may participate.

Starting time is 8 a.m., ending at noon.

Recreational events include the football throw and kick, 100-yard dash, the broad jump, baseball throw, circling bases, the high jump, hand grenade throw, pool and table tennis, finals, and the outstanding soldier competition.

Team events include the tug-of-war, dizzy-dizzy and a sack race. A Flag Hoop contest is planned for the children. Trophies will be awarded to winners of individual events. A complete chicken dinner will be the most points.

Refreshments will be served throughout the morning.

Bazaar Set November 1 By Mission

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Michael's Episcopal Church at Fort Benning is sponsoring a bazaar to be held on Chapel Field at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 1.

Among the many items to be on sale are handmade aprons, knit cloths and place mats, hand-decorated Christmas stockings, homemade pickles, cakes and pies, unique hand-decorated candles and knitted baby wear.

In addition there will be an "anti-treasure" booth and a special children's tent where movies will be shown.

A complete chicken dinner will be available to eat at the bazaar or to take home.

WAC Switches To Green Garb Next Summer

WASHINGTON (APFS) — A new series of cotton-duck uniform has been approved for wear next summer by women in the Army.

The Shade 160 series greens will take the place of the present WAC taupe cotton duck uniform as replacement is required.

Under a plan passed through 1958, a new issue of new uniform to recruits will start at the beginning of the 1959 summer season, with further wear of cotton taupe authorized two years later.

WAC will be required to purchase the green dactron from their clothing allowance as the taupe cotton duck becomes unserviceable during the wear-out period, the Army said.

Sgt. Paints Mess Mural

Sgt. Harry Roth, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Second Battle Group, 4th Infantry, believes in doing a job right.

Recently when he had finished redecorating the troop information room for the company, he was asked to paint a mural for the mess hall. He said, "Yes, I will be glad to do it, but you will have to give me a 30-day leave to do it. Imagine taking a 30-day leave to paint a mural for a mess hall. But the old saying holds true, that, 'the artist is a temperamental.'"

The scene depicts a part of Hawaii, with its tropical waters, scenic mountains and palm trees swaying in the gentle breeze.

Firms to Ship New Vehicles Here Directly

Fort Benning will be included in the shipment of large combat vehicles from the manufacturer directly to Army establishments throughout the continental U. S. and Alaska. The Department of Army has announced.

Expected to arrive at Fort Benning in the near future under the new program is the armored personnel carrier T-113 B2, a newer version of T-113 which was tested at the Infantry Center earlier this year. The T-113 armored personnel carrier is made of aluminum and its structure provides equivalent ballistic protection with less weight than comparable steel covering through the thickness of its armor. The reduced weight of the T-113 leads to better air-transportability in that the payload of an aircraft can be increased. The aluminum vehicle has also produced better performance in ratio to the power expended and requires less fuel.

While the new vehicle was Now Bring your carpets "Back to Life" with Youngblood's cleaning service!

Rugs, carpets, upholstery cleaned in your home, office or at our plant! Famous Hild System! Low in Cost!

Even the best housekeeping leaves two to four pounds of dirt in the typical 9x12 rug! Vacuuming and home cleaning methods just can't do a complete cleaning job. The result: accumulated grime makes rugs drab and dingy; ground-in dirt makes them wear out before their time.

Youngblood cleaning renews the life and beauty of rugs, carpets, and upholstered pieces! Youngblood's exclusive new Hild Process gets them really fresh and clean... lively and glowing like new again... at low cost. Leading hotels use the Hild Process to keep their own carpets and upholstered furniture beautiful and make it last... it pays for itself in longer wear. Manufacturers of fine carpeting recommend Hild Process cleaning.

Now's the time to find out how little it costs... how much it can do for the beauty of your home. Hild Process cleaning by our fully trained, careful, courteous men means longer life for rugs, carpets, and upholstery. Call FAirfax 2-5595 for a free estimate... no obligation!

Headquarters for the finest rug and upholstery care; Cleaning—Binding—Sizing—Mothproofing—Storage.

The above picture shows the men of Youngblood Van and Storage Co. using the famous Hild System to clean the carpets in the home of a prominent Columbus family.

Youngblood's 5-Step System renews the life and beauty of rugs, carpets, upholstery!

- 1. Vacuuming — High-powered vacuuming removes all dirt... reaches down into the pile to pull out buried dirt.
- 2. Shampooing — Detergent foam cuts through grease, oil, and stains... lifts them out of the fabric. Special "dry" foam is used on delicate materials.
- 3. Scrubbing — Scientific rotary scrubbing massages away stubborn dirt and stains.
- 4. Vacuuming — Careful final vacuuming leaves the fabric completely clean... and lifts the pile for renewed texture and life.
- 5. Inspection — Detailed inspection of every job assures its perfection... and your satisfaction.

Done in your home, office... or at our plant, whichever is most convenient for you. Wall-to-wall carpeting done without removal or re-installation expense.

Veteran Honored At Field Dedication

By 2nd DivARTY PIO
Brigadier General Miller O. Perry, Second Infantry Division, Artillery Commanding General, dedicated a parade field in honor of a Medal of Honor Winner at a retreat ceremony held at the 15th Artillery, October 24, 1958.

The parade field was named in honor of First Lieutenant Lee R. Hartell, winner of the nation's highest award, the Congressional Medal of Honor, during the Korean War.

The citation reads as follows: "First Lieutenant Lee R. Hartell, Artillery, United States Army, a member of A Battery, 15th Field Artillery Battalion, Second Infantry Division distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United States near Kobangsan, Korea, on August 27, 1951.

During the darkness of early morning, the enemy launched a ruthless attack against friendly positions on a rugged mountainous ridge. Lieutenant Hartell, attached to Company B, 9th Infantry Regiment as forward observer, quickly moved his radio to an exposed vantage point on the ridge line to adjust defensive fire. Realizing the tactical advantage of dominating the area of approach, he called for flares and then directed crippling fire into the on-rushing assault.

At this juncture, a large force of hostile troops swarmed up the slope in a hasty charge and came to within ten yards of Lieutenant Hartell's position.

"Lieutenant Hartell sustained a severe hand wound in the ensuing encounter but grasped the microphone with his other hand and maintained his magnificent stand until the front and left flank of his company were protected by a close-in wall of withering fire causing the assaulting force to disperse and fall back momentarily. After the numerically superior enemy over-ran the outpost and was closing in on his position, Lieutenant Hartell, in a final radio call, urged the frantically straggling fire both batteries continuously.

"Although mortally wounded, Lieutenant Hartell's intrepid actions contributed significantly to stemming the onslaught and enabled his company to maintain the strategic strong point. His consummate valor and unwavering devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and uphold the noble traditions of the military service."

23rd Inf. Pvt. Wins Div. SOM Honor
By 2nd Div. PIO
A 22-year-old Pvt. from Company B, 23d Infantry was selected Soldier of the Month, for the month of October. Pvt. John B. Strummer was selected by a board of officers and enlisted men at Second Div. Headquarters.

Strummer recently completed his advanced individual training with B Company and has applied for Officer Candidate School.

Summerup honors went to Sgt. Shannon R. Owens, C Battery, First Field Artillery Battalion. He entered the Army in June of 1956 and is presently assigned as a Survey Computer in his unit.

Both men were given appropriate awards and congratulated by Second Division Commanding General, Maj. Gen. R. H. Wienecke.

55 Academy Graduates Noen Coms
By 2nd Div. PIO
Fifty-five graduates of the Infantry Division ROTC Academy received their diplomas during ceremonies Friday Oct. 24 at New Orleans Hall in Kelly Hill.

Guest speaker for the occasion was the Division Commanding General, Major General R. H. Wienecke who also presented the diplomas to the graduates, signifying completion of Class 58-A1.

Honor graduate for the four-week course was Sergeant Robert R. Clawson of Company D, First Battle Group, 11th Infantry who was named the first graduate in military aptitude.

Recognition Given To Unlucky Soldier

By 2nd Inf. PIO
The title of being the unluckiest soldier in the Second Division and maybe even in the entire Army is being claimed by Private Juan Batista-Matteo, Mortar Battery, Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry.

Within a four month period while taking basic training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina and with the 23rd Infantry here at Benning he broke his left arm three different times, broke his left arm, the third time in four months.

With all his misfortune Private Batista-Matteo completed his training with honors. He received a letter of commendation from his Commanding Officer, Captain Dwight R. Rowland, for his efficiency and conduct.

After a short leave he reported to the Second Infantry Division for advanced individual training with the 23rd Infantry. During his seventh week of training, he again broke his left arm, the third time in four months.

When then at Fort Lewis, Washington. In 1962, he accepted a commission as Warrant Officer in the position of a unit maintenance officer.

After the war ended, he remained in the service and at the outbreak of the Korean War, was sent overseas and assigned to an ordnance unit. Upon the completion of the Korean War, he was sent to Japan for duty.

After returning to the United States, Mr. Studebaker joined the Second Infantry Division in 1951 at Fort Lewis, Washington.

From Fort Lewis, he was transferred to Fort Riley, Kansas where he was assigned to the 10th Infantry Division.

In 1955, he volunteered to Germany with the division and returned with it in June of 1956 at Fort Benning.

During his 20 years active military service, Mr. Studebaker won the following awards and decorations: The Bronze Star Medal, Asiatic Pacific Campaign Medal, United States Medal, United States Service Medal, United States Army Occupation Medal, Combat Infantry Medal, Korean Service Medal, United Nations Service Medal, National Defense Service Medal and the World War I Victory Medal.

5,000 Attend Division's 41st Birthday Review

By 2nd Div. PIO
Approximately 5,000 persons from Columbus, Phenix City and surrounding areas joined the Division in the Sand Hill area of Fort Benning, Ga., last Saturday, Oct. 25. Commemoration of the anniversary continues through Sunday, Oct. 26, with special memorial services in all five of the division's chapels.

CWO Retires After 20 Yrs. in Army

A division-wide ceremonial review, featuring all Enlisted Men, formally opened the festivities. Troops commanded by non-commissioned officers, with every unit in the division represented, passed in review before a reviewing party consisting of Major General R. H. Wienecke, Division Commander, five honorees: Miss Shirley Meadows, who was chosen "Miss Second Division," Sergeant First Class Alexander Hunter, who was named "Mr. Second Division," Sergeant First Class Randall Corbin, selected top non-commissioned officer, Private Frederick A. Rice, Outstanding Advanced Trainee, and Recruit Robert Terrenceham, the Outstanding Basic Trainee.

Also at the parade field was a static display of modern infantry weapons and equipment. Weapons ranging from small arms to Honest John Rockets were displayed for public examination.

Special parking areas near Wetback Field were designated for civilian guests who were escorted to the parade area in Army buses.

Following festivities on Wetback Field, where free refreshments were provided, the units of the division opened their doors to the public, scheduling contests, exhibitions of military operations, dinners, displays and sporting events.

Some of the more outstanding events of the day were helicopter demonstrations, flyover by fixed wing airplanes, operation of medical aid stations and a softball game between officers and enlisted men.

Everywhere barracks and company areas were open for public inspection.

Major General R. H. Wienecke
Commanding General
2d Infantry Division
Fort Benning, Georgia
Dear General Wienecke:

I would like to take this opportunity to convey to you and all of the Officers and men of the 2d Division just how proud and happy I am to have been selected "Miss 2d Division." It is a great honor and one that I shall strive to live up to, to the best of my ability.

I am deeply appreciative of the honor that has been bestowed upon me, and will henceforth always feel that I am truly a member of this fine Infantry Division which is "Second to None."

Sincerely,
Shirley Meadows
"Miss 2d Division"

Dear General Wienecke:

On behalf of the officers and men of the United States Army Infantry Center, I would like to take this opportunity to extend best wishes to the officers and men of the 2d Infantry Division on the auspicious occasion for its forty-first anniversary.

Since its organization in 1917 the "Indian Head" has rendered yeoman service in the United States Army. Its glorious achievements in World Wars I and II and in Korea are attested to by the battle streamers on the colors and standards of the Division units and by the thousands of decorations earned by the officers and men of the "Indian Head."

Having had the privilege of commanding the Division and of leading its 23d Infantry in combat, I have a deep personal interest and pride in the activities and record of your command.

Fort Benning is proud to be the home of the 2d Infantry Division; I have every confidence that the continued exemplification of the finest in leadership, courage, and devotion to duty will insure that the "Indian Head" remains "Second to None."

Sincerely,
PAUL L. FREEMAN JR.

Dear General Wienecke:

On the occasion of the 41st anniversary of the Second Infantry Division, I recall with pride my association with the unit.
Seven years ago, in Korea, it was my privilege to serve for a time as Commanding General of Division Artillery and of the Division itself. I have carried with me since that date memories of the fighting spirit and proud heritage of the wearers of the Indianhead.

Through three conflicts the indomitable courage of the Division has been outstanding. Changan Thierri, Soissons, Meuse - Argonne, Normandy, Ardennes Forest, Remagen Bridgehead, Woujui, Heartbreak Ridge, Bloody Ridge — all have added glory to the chronical of courage of the Second Division. The story of the Second is a saga of the American Fighting Man at his finest.

On this anniversary, I send to you and to the officers and men of the Division my best regards, and my sincere hope that you may continue to uphold the splendid record of the Division.

Sincerely,

Library Gets USSR Books

By 2nd Div. PIO

As the "Iron Curtain" slowly lifts through cultural exchange, the western world has caught a glimpse of a nation whose life has long been a mystery to us. Authors have taken this opportunity to write on the secrets that the Soviet Union has held for so long. Special Service Library Number Two in the Sand Hill area, recently added a large number of new books to their selection; among them three on Russia.

SPUTNIK INTO SPACE by Mikhail Vassiliev, THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION by Alan Moorehead, and DOCTOR ZHIVAGO by Boris Pasternak, all Number Two in the Sand Hill area, recently added a large number of new books to their selection; among them three on Russia.

In the field of adventure Oakley Hall's novel WARLOCK offers a glimpse of the Southwest frontier in the 1860's, while THE ONCE AND FUTURE KING by Terence White depicts the time of King Arthur. Another in the series of Hornblower sea adventure stories is ADMIRAL HORNBLLOWER IN THE WEST INDIES by C. S. Forester.

James Maurice Gavin in his WAR AND PEACE IN THE SPANISH WARS tells of the United States' defenses in guided missiles and military aeronautics. Mrs. Theodora Williams, librarian, announced that numerous other new books are available. These include AKU-AKU, the secret of Eastern Island by Thor Heyerdahl; SPLENDID LITTLE WAR, the story of the Spanish-American War by Frank Freidel; and SWEAT BY APOLLON, a historical novel by Shirley Barker.

DEFERRED TOO LATE DARMSTADT, Ger. (ANS) —Seventeen months after he entered the Army, Sgt Paul E. Verriese (Battery A, 2d Gun Bn, 23 Arty) has been notified by his Selective Service Board that he has been deferred from the "draft."

NATO Uses Idea Of 'Sword, Shield'

WASHINGTON — To combat the six million men the USSR has under arms, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) uses the "Sword and Shield" concept, reports Don Belding in a recent ARMY Magazine.

The sword is the retaliatory force, says Belding—principally the Strategic Air Command. The shield includes the land and naval forces, the missiles, the combined national efforts of the NATO nations.

"A third leg of the NATO stool is the will to fight if attacked," he declared, "and this determination has never been stronger."

Mrs. Lowe Feted by Division Artillery

By 2nd Div Artillery Second Division Artillery units celebrated October 24 as "Miss Div Art Day". Mrs. Mary Ann Lowe, who was named "Miss Div Art" during the search for "Miss Second Division" spent the day touring training facilities and units of the Artillery.

The day officially began with a coffee call attended by the Division Artillery Commander, Brigadier General Miller O. Perry and the 15th Artillery Commander, Lieutenant Colonel C. S. Singer. Captain J. R. Murray, Jr., of the 15th Artillery, presided at the coffee call.

Following the brief meeting, Miss Div Art was taken on a tour of training within the 15th Artillery, seeing Battery A in CBR training and visiting Battery D bivouac area where the battery was engaged in rifle squad tactical training. This was followed by a visit to mess halls, orderly rooms, barracks and battalion headquarters. She was later shown the communications facilities of Division Artillery Headquarters and had a few quick lessons in communication procedures over the radio network.

BECOME AMBASSADORS

Before touring the 15th Artillery, Miss Div Art had dinner with the officers and men of Battery B in their mess hall.

Miss Div Art's husband is lieutenant Jack W. Lowe, a platoon leader in Battery D, 15th Artillery.

The Lil Injun

GREENS SEEN at Wetherby Field Saturday as Indianhead wore the new uniform through out the Division, for the first time evoked warm praise from Columbusians helping the Second Division to celebrate its 41st Anniversary.

REVIEW DREW an estimated five thousand persons to Wetherby Field from all over the division, Columbus and Phenix City. Organization Day was pronounced by civilians and soldiers alike as a huge success.

CLEAN BREAKS seem to be a special talent of Private Jaun Batista-Matteo of Mortar Battery, 23rd Infantry. Titled "the unluckiest soldier in the Second Division" the young Puerto-Rican thrice suffered a broken arm during basic training. In spite of splints and casts the private took basic training seriously, completed with honors and was awarded a letter of Commendation for his outstanding performance by Mortar Battery Commander, Captain Dwight R. Rowland.

PURPLE PICTURE EATERS consumed film flickers at the 41st Anniversary event. The unit activities at Organization Day festivities. Hundreds of private cameras joined with news hawks and Signal Corps photos in getting hundreds of passing scenes on film. Kids and grownups, officers and men posed for shots ranging from peering out a tank piloting a helicopter, or viewing a medical aid station. Officially, Signal Corps photographers found themselves sipping film and prints throughout the week-end, long after the last picture was shot.

Second shots of the 41st Anniversary event will find their way to the national archives as part of the official pictorial history of the division and the Army.

HALLOWEEN SCENES will figure prominently throughout the area as clubs and units plan Goblin parties and dances this week. WRBL-TV plans Halloween presentation utilizing Indianhead talent on October 30. Your information Staffers, still stiff from Organization Day stuffings, thus far hasn't gotten around to the Witches and Goblins for the TV presentation. Any suggestions?

LIL INJUN SAYS me thoughtum Organization Day cakes heap big and fellow warriors say "Fun-yum." Me so busy watchum Miss Second Division Indianhead parade and heap big powwow that when Lil Injun findum cake, he get tum only lattice work.

First Infantry Holds Graduation Ceremony

By 1st Inf. PIO
The Second Battle Group First Infantry, Commanded by Colonel Charles G. Shettle, held a retreat parade Friday, October 17, for the graduation ceremony of Companies C, D and E, Mortar Battery.

Adjutant's Call found the companies assembled on Todd Field in the Harmony Church area for the trainees last parade before they depart for new assignments.

The Second Division Band supplied music for the parade. The First Infantry Officers have a bowling team entered in the Fort Benning Officers Green League. They were undefeated in their first two matches. We hope to see the fine record upheld.

Spirits were high when this unit ran the infiltration course in their seventh week of basic training even though the weather man contributed a little to much rain. Part of the enthusiasm was probably due to the shave and haircut played on the part of the heavy machine-guns. Master Sergeant Kenneth E. Bilsderback, Master Sergeant Paul F. Zickon, Sergeant First Class James R. Coppice and Sergeant First Class Edward F. Stuckey.

All of the units of the First Infantry are now in their new homes in the Kelley Hill area except Company "B." Company "B" is completing their last week of training and will move into the new area this week.

Don't forget to get your application in to the First Infantry Education office for the English I classes to start in November. All it requires is five hours of your time each week for six weeks to get your credit for that High School GED test. We hope to have the same good response to the English classes that we had in the General Science. Classes for the English term will begin around the 15th of November.

Company A October 14, found the men of Company A moving to Kelley Hill, the new home of the First Infantry. They have informed us that it is a beautiful area.

Company C At the recent retreat parade, trophies were awarded to Recruit Donald J. Rein, outstanding trainee of the cycle, Recruit Joe R. Wilson, high firer on the M-1 rifle, Recruit Ronnie L. Rush, runner-up on the M-1 firing and Recruit Anthony J. Backie, winner of the Battle Group volleyball trophy.

The first platoon was designated as the outstanding platoon during the cycle.

Company D Personnel receiving awards from Company D were: Recruit John A. Riddiford, outstanding trainee of the cycle, Recruit Eugene M. White, high firer with the M-1 rifle and was both the outstanding trainee and high individual firer with the M-1 rifle during the cycle. Recruit Larry L. Buckles was awarded a trophy for runner-up with the M-1 rifle.

Mortar Battery Trophies received by members of Mortar Battery were: Recruit Willie M. Hart, who Mortar Battery selected the fourth platoon as the outstanding platoon during the cycle.

By 7th Cav. PIO
The Seventh Cavalry held a review last week in honor of Miss 7th Cavalry, Mrs. Joyce Gregory; the Outstanding NCO of the squadron and brigade for the month of October, Sergeant First Class Robert A. Kinney; and the Outstanding Trainee of the squadron, Private Robert McCoy. Brigadier General Chester A. Dahlen, Assistant Division Commander, attended the ceremonies and congratulated the three title holders on their achievements. Lieutenant Colonel James A. Akins, Commanding Officer of the 7th, was the Reviewing Officer and Major Joseph B. Fole Jr., the highest score in the squadron. Second and third place winners in the troop were recruits Chester Johnson, 220 points, and Alan Tolson, 215 points.

During Rifle Marksmanship Qualification with the M-1 Rifle, Recruit James B. Kennedy of Troop "C" fired 228, the highest score in the squadron. Second and third place winners in the troop were recruits Chester Johnson, 220 points, and Alan Tolson, 215 points.
The Squadron recently received a new addition to its Historical Section from the Information Section at Fort Knox, Kentucky. It is a picture of a former "Garry Owen" Commander, Colonel Selah H. Thornokins, who holds the proud and unique record of being the only officer in the history of the service who has been every grade from Second Lieutenant to Colonel in the same regiment.

Lt. Vaughn Leaves for Fort Sill; Battery 'A' Gets New Exec Officer

By 12th Arty. PIO
Second Lieutenant John P. Vaughn, A Battery, 15th Field Artillery Battalion left Saturday, October 29 for Fort Sill, Oklahoma where he will attend the Field Artillery Basic Officers Course which starts October 29 and will last for a period of 22 weeks.
The officers of the 12th Artillery gave Lieutenant Vaughn a miniature brass cannon with his name engraved on it as a parting memento.
Lieutenant Vaughn will be assigned a new duty station upon completion of school.

Also, "A" Battery has a new executive officer, First Lieutenant James M. Logan, newly assigned to the battalion after returning recently from Korea.
Lieutenant Logan is replacing First Lieutenant Hubert Lovett who is taking over as Battery Commander of Service Battery, 12th Artillery.
Lieutenant Logan officially assumed his duties as Executive Officer on October 20.

Number 1
Specialist Fourth Class Shannon R. Owen finished second in the competition for Second Division Soldier of the Month for the month of October.
In order to be among the select few who were in the final consideration as Second Division Soldier of the month, Specialist Owen had first to win first place in competition at lower levels. On the basis of his Army knowledge and his personal appearance Specialist Owen, who was representing "C" Battery, was chosen as the 12th Artillery's Soldier of the month.
Specialist Owens then came out on top in the stiff competition on the Divarty personnel list. He was chosen as the Divarty Soldier of the month.
Representing the Divarty in the Division competition Specialist Owen finished in the runner-up slot, competing directly against a dozen other soldiers.

M-Sgt. Hoebe Selected 'Outstanding Non Com'
By 11th Inf. P40
Master Sergeant John P. Hoebe was selected "Outstanding Non Commissioned Officer" of the First Battle Group, 11th Infantry.

During that time, he has been instrumental in the successful operations of garrison and field training programs. He has received numerous commendations for outstanding performance of duty during the course of his 14 year military career.

Packet-type Training
The 11th Infantry has begun packet-type training of replacement personnel for the Third Infantry Division that is stationed at Germany.

Co. B Accomplishments
In recent weeks, there have been various reports of the training accomplishments of Company B, First Battle Group, 11th Infantry.

Having just completed its second basic training cycle under the command of Lieutenant Andrew Perkins Jr., the company took first place in the Battle Group during the Division Proficiency Testing of both training cycles. The result of the testing of the first cycle stood as a Division record for a period of two months.

Proving its determination for more first-place dominations, the company took first place in the physical fitness testing during the second cycle and was awarded the Battle Group rotating trophy.

At the close of the second cycle, the company had five military knowledge, military appearance and current events.

Non-RA Warrants Face Release After 20 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Non-regular Army warrant officers who have completed 20 years active Federal Service, including five years for WO or commissioned status, will be released from active duty unless they are selected for retention, according to the Army. Releases will become effective on the last day of the month following the month they complete 20 years of active service. However, as such warrant officers are qualified for retirement, they may apply for voluntary retirement to be effective not later than their scheduled release date. Warrant officers scheduled for release under the new policy will be notified of their selection for retention or release at least six months prior to their scheduled release date. Those warrant officers who have, or will have, completed 20 years active duty by April 30, 1959, will be released not later than May 31, 1959. However, personnel in the above category who have dependent children attending school after May 31, will have their release date extended to no later than June 30, 1959. The school exception applies to the above group only and will not be granted to those scheduled for release at a later date, the Army said.

The program will not affect non-regular warrant officers who will complete 30 years service during calendar year 1959 but will affect any who will complete 30 years after Dec. 31, 1959. Selections for retention will be based on over-all individual personnel records and qualifications, along with the needs of the Army. The Department of the Army Active Duty Board will make the selections. Non-regular warrant officers who are selected for retention can expect to remain on active duty until they complete 30 years active service or reach the mandatory retirement age (males 62 and females 55), whichever is earlier. However, their retention will still depend on the needs of the service and their performance of duties, the Army said. The adoption of this policy is another step in the long-range program for vitalizing the active Army.

CAPT. R. T. LOMBARD
Appointed New Aide

Captain Lombard Named Aide to General Freeman

Capt. Reginald T. Lombard, Jr., has been named aide-de-camp to Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commander of The Infantry Center. He was graduated from The Infantry School's associate officers advanced course Sept. 30, 1958 graduate of the Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. Capt. Lombard served for two years in Austria with the 39th Infantry Regiment at Seefeld and Salzburg before becoming aide-de-camp to Gen. Freeman, then commanding general of Tactical Command Austria in August, 1952.

He was aide to Gen. Freeman's successor, Major Gen. E. E. Roy, from December, 1952, until coming to Fort Benning to attend The Infantry School's associate company officers course in January, 1954. Following a year's graduate work at the University of Madrid in Spain, Capt. Lombard served as head of the first-year course of Spanish at the Military Academy for three years.

Capt. Lombard's father, Dr. Reginald T. Lombard, South Portland, Me., retired as a colonel in the Army Medical Corps Reserves in 1954 following 34 years of service. He served on active duty from 1940 to 1946.

14th Begins Education Plan

The Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, in an attempt to bring its educational standards up to the current Army requirements, has inaugurated a program to teach fundamentals of English to members of the command deficient in the subject.

The classes are voluntary and will be taught by volunteer instructors from the battle group. Instruction will be given during the off duty hours and will continue until students have acquired sufficient amount of knowledge to enable them to pass the GED test and the USAFI test given at the post Educational Center.

UPS MANAGEMENT

The Army's program for educating its personnel in management improvement and work simplification has been gradually intensified in recent years, reports DA PAM 368-1. During one fiscal year, the pamphlet says, upwards of 10,000 officers and civilians were graduated from management courses, varying from four hours at The Infantry School to 14 months at the Comptroller Course at Syracuse University. "During the same period," it added, "twenty thousand supervisor were trained in management engineering techniques."

CADRE HOLD DINNER
Fourth Battalion cadres held a dinner dance in the Lawson Field Officers' Club Oct. 10. Small bouquets of roses enhanced the dinner table. Farewells was given Lt. Man-Combe who is getting out of the Army and going to Miami, Fla. Guests were Col. and Mrs. Richard T. MacBee. A baby cup was presented Lt. and Mrs. Eugene L. Saller. Twenty-five attended.

Benning Faces Gordon Tonight

Fort Benning Doughboys will meet the Douglas boys at 8 p.m. today at Doughboys' stadium. Admission is free. Both civilian and military persons are invited.

Fort Campbell handed Fort Benning its fourth setback of the season Oct. 23 at Major Quince's stadium, routing to a 49-12 triumph before a large home crowd.

Chad B'ing	Benning
Rushing	223 45
Passing	118 206
Pass attempts	6-13 12-23
First downs	13 19
Fumbles	3 2
Penalty	23 4-31

The Doughboys, Jesse Krask hurled a 45-yard scoring strike to Glen Windrod and the Eagles.

Fort Campbell got off to a fast start in the opening period after taking the kick from the 25-yard line.

In Major Unit Loop 29th Has 12-Game Basketball Schedule

A 12-game schedule faces the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, Camp Toccoa, Ga.

First week action has the 29th taking the floor against the 151st Engineer Gp.

After nearly three weeks of practice, the 29th Infantry, Camp Toccoa, Ga.

Expected to get the starting call for the 29th will be Clint Bair and Jack Clements.

The winners took the opening kick off and marched the ball to the three-yard line.

A fumble at this point gave the ball to Company B.

At half time, the game was deadlocked with neither team scoring.

Not until the third quarter did the game open up.

The final tally came in the fourth quarter with only six minutes to go when Jarvis Jones caught a 20-yard pass.

On offense, the Dragons are capable of fielding an even heavier line than in the attack.

Operating from a single wing formation, the Golden Dragons have thus far outmaneuvered the opposition.

Only 18 points have been yielded by the Golden Dragons on defense.

Some of the "on field" collisions in the league would make an offense.

Charlie Quinn Safety Rules Listed For Hunting of Deer

SPECIAL DEER HUNTING REGULATIONS for the coming season are listed in this week for the benefit of its readers.

AREAS FOR HUNTING DEER: In Georgia, all hunting is prohibited in the area bounded by Dixie Road and 1st Division Road.

CHECK POINTS: Check points will be established at the Hammy Church firehouse and MP outpost No. 3.

WEAPONS AND DISTINGUISHING MARKINGS: Shotguns and bows and arrows are permitted under the provisions of "Hunting and Fishing Regulations."

METHODS OF HUNTING: The buddy system of hunting is encouraged.

CLEARANCE: All hunters are cautioned to comply with Range Clearance Regulations.

IN RESPECT TO deer hunting, it is desired to refer to an old recruiting poster found in the historical files of the 29th Infantry.

At half time, the game was deadlocked with neither team scoring.

Not until the third quarter did the game open up.

The final tally came in the fourth quarter with only six minutes to go when Jarvis Jones caught a 20-yard pass.

On defense, the Dragons are capable of fielding an even heavier line than in the attack.

Operating from a single wing formation, the Golden Dragons have thus far outmaneuvered the opposition.

Only 18 points have been yielded by the Golden Dragons on defense.

Some of the "on field" collisions in the league would make an offense.

It is common knowledge that, if that guard is relaxed, these last would have the potential of every industry.

In Shell Racing Officer Candidate Led Harvard Squash Team

Common among officer candidates is talk of Harvard. One of the best high school boys—he became the captain of the Harvard Shell Racing Team.

Upon graduation he decided to seek higher education at Harvard University.

He is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles G. Turner, 205 Miller Loop, Fort Benning.

This is young Turner's second year at the institute and their fifth victory of the season, and in these five games they have accumulated a total of 169 points against 46 for the opposing teams.

Col. Turner is assigned to the Second Medium Tank Battalion, 6th Armored.

GEN. P. L. FREEMAN, LEFT, VIEWS GOLD CUP TROPHY. LT. COL. W. A. HANCOCK EXPLAINS HISTORY OF PRIZE WON BY ARMY

Benning, Area View Marksman Trophies

Eighteen of the nation's most highly valued marksmanship trophies were viewed by a large group of military personnel and civilian visitors at a ceremony on Chapel Field Oct. 22.

The trophy display came at the termination of a retreat ceremony in which the award was won by the Army during the 1958 shooting season.

The Army Pistol Team of Fort Benning won 16 of 17 team trophies in the Dallas-American Grand Aggregate Oct. 19 for a rousing finish to the 1958 shooting season.

The famous trophies were on display during the week of Oct. 23-29 at Kinross's Department store in Columbia, along with an exhibition from the unit's competitive arms and equipment.

Members of the unit, headed by Capt. Dale Red, Rifle Section, were present to explain history of the trophies and uses of the different weapons including the new M-14 rifle soon to become the basic arm of the Infantry.

The Army Rifle Team coach CWO Carter Brown won the President's Match, firing 117 out of 150.

Winners of the other individual matches are Major Raymond Dehak, Major Charles Fino, M-Sgt. Floyd Frazier, M-Sgt. William Day and Cpl. Charles Davis.

TRAINING THAT SAVED A scrap of tracks, a crash, then silence. Another tragedy on the highway. But three children are alive today because a passing motorist knew Red Cross first aid.

The 14th graders have shown a versatile attack is compelling to watch. Against the 29th Infantry the Dragons scored all four touchdowns on the field.

586th Holds Inspection Of Equipment

An array of vehicles and engine equipment bearing the 586th Infantry's name was inspected by the 151st Engineer Group.

The 586th holds the basic mission of providing technical personnel and equipment to lead, maintain, and supervise erection of tactical steam crossing equipment.

At full strength, the company consists of 700 feet of M165 Bridge, the new aluminum ball structure supported by pneumatic pontoons.

In addition to the M165 bridge section of five bridge platoons, the company also has a support platoon section, which provides light stream crossing equipment.

Athlete to Compete In 'Little Olympics'

By 2nd Div. PIO

A Puerto Rican shot put competitor and one of the country's top athletes will be temporarily released from U. S. Army duty in the Second Infantry Division in order that he may perform with the Puerto Rican track and field team at the 8th Central American Games.

As one of Puerto Rico's top athletes, Sergeant First Class Ramon Rosario-Rodriguez will compete in shot put, discus and hammer throw competition in Central America's "Little Olympics" to be held in Caracas, Venezuela, beginning on November 28. The 18 days of events will find the nations of Central America, and the Bahama and West Indies Islands competing, and leading the Puerto Rican list of contestants will be the record-holder whose abilities were discovered entirely by accident.

Joins Army
As a youth who enjoyed riding his bicycle over the hilly countryside around his home of Orocovis, the agrarian livelihood of his parents fanned little excitement. He wanted to join the United States Army during those years as all of his friends had done, and at the earliest opportunity he did just that.

U.S. Fourth In 14-Nation Pentathlon

ALDERSHOT, England (AP)—Competing in the 14-nation world pentathlon championship held here, the U. S. team garnered 12,810 points to finish in fourth place.

For a time it appeared the U. S. would be third, but a corrected timing after a Finnish protest dropped the Americans to fourth. Finland collected 12,452 points.

Keenly contested, the five-day tournament of five events (riding, fencing, shooting, swimming, running) proved an overwhelming victory for the Russian team.

Aviation Wins Flag Football Competition

By 2nd Div. PIO

The Second Aviation Company defeated the Division Artillery's "Admiral Dewey" last Friday evening by a score of 6-0 in the Second Infantry Division Flag Football Championship Finals.

Major General R. H. Wiestle presented awards to the new division champions, and the runners-up of the play-off in ceremonies following the evening game at Regent Field. Engraved plaques were awarded to the teams and each team member received an "Indian head" fountain pen and stand. Each bore a bronze plaque with the team's "Secretary to Note" motto engraved on it.

Trains Pick Up Points

By 2nd Div. PIO

The Second Division Trains Boxing Team moved into second place on October 14th by winning four out of five bouts. The Trains team picked up a total of 37 points to raise their total point score to 37 for the season.

Private First Class Robert E. Lewis, Second Quartermaster Company, set the pace for the evening by scoring a TKO over Private First Class Donald Rockman, Second Battle Group of the 14th Infantry. Private First Class Erwin Pfeifer lost a close one by a decision to Private First Class Joseph Fallon of the 14th Infantry.

Private First Class David Duerson, Company "B", 13th Transportation Battalion started with a flurry of punches that proved to be too much for his opponent, Private First Class Leon Balentine, Third Medium Tank Battalion of the 28th Armored, who gave up after one minute and twenty seconds of the first round.

Lieutenant Donald Wheat, Second Administration Company, won a decision over Private First Class Paul Davis from the First Battle Group of the 28th Armored.

Unit Installs Driver Program

Company C
The company has instituted a new incentive plan in the motor pool. After Saturday's weekly inspection, one driver is selected as the driver-of-the-week and receives a three-day pass. The determining factor in the selection is the way in which a driver's vehicle has been maintained or improved. To date, the top driver has been Sp4 Edton Twice, a three-time winner. Sgt. Wade Livesey, motor pool sergeant, conducts the weekly inspections.

Sp4 Jimmy Kirkland has just returned after a 30-day leave. Quite a few things have happened since his departure on leave as cigars were in order on his return. A baby girl was added to the family; it was the Kirkland's first.

Company D
Company D, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, boasts the unusual in its day room setting. Company soldiers entertain the masses of a TV room, reading room, reception, and conversation room in the restful atmosphere of outdoor scenery.

The Company's day room walls depict landscape scenes ranging from picturesque South Sea Islands, quiet lakes, and valleys bounded by peaceful stretches of highway, and gently flowing streams to raging rapids broken by scattered waterfalls and cataracts.

Hunting and fishing scenes include bird hunting on the mountain lakes, deer stalking with bow and arrow, still fishing in marshy bays, harpoon fishing on the high seas, trolling for sailfish and varminting in pine forests.

Athletics are represented by pictures of water-skiing, high diving and volleyball.

The paintings were done by Sp4 Heinrich Fahn and Sgt. Floyd Bickler, who is in charge of the day room with the remainder of the company lodging a hand on the incidents of a remodeling. Capt. Robert J. Berens is commander of Company D.

The Engineer Company
Four men from the Company are on leave. They are Sp5 Joe W. McKinnis, Sp4 Jose Rivera, Sp4 Sidney J. Johnston, and Sp4 Kenneth V. Morgan.

Pvt. Jerry H. Cooke is back to duty after an illness in the hospital.

The father in the company is Sp4 Gerald Schmecher, who is on leave celebrating the birth of a baby girl.

Four men from the company are enrolled in night study:

'Pioneer' Another Giant Step in Space

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Air Force's Pioneer moon shot, though falling short of lunar orbit, has been hailed as one of the greatest achievements of man's yet adolescent steps into the space age.

The successful firing of the 88-foot, four-stage Thor Able missile, which hurled an 86-pound payload some 80,000 miles into the universe in the first International Geophysical Year lunar shot, overclouds a trail of previous ventures beyond our planet.

Weighting more than 50 tons, the first stage of the moon missile was a standard Thor IRBM with the guidance system removed and a booster added to like lift-off thrust to 150,000 pounds.

Fired at Canaveral Launched from the AF Missile Test Center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 4:42 a.m. EDT, Oct. 11, the 10 1/2 test vehicle was dinged "Pioneer" by the Defense Department an hour later when it had been determined that "escape velocity" of some 25,000 m.p.h. was attained and the missile was in "free flight."

The theory that "escape" from the gravitational influence of the earth would be possible at a calculated speed of 35,260 feet a second was not quite clear prior to the launching.

To the scientist, however, the only point at which an object flying away from the earth would be free of gravity is infinity and for any practical purpose, "free flight" is non-existent. It was this ever-pulling force that eventually curved Pioneer back toward the earth only to burn and destroy itself on re-entering the atmosphere.

Vanguard Boosters First-stage burn-out time was 160 seconds after firing when a 4,000-pound liquid-fueled Navy Vanguard rocket with eight "mini" rockets — to give Pioneer flight stability — took over for 110 seconds at an altitude of 50 miles.

Experts explain that it was the Thor first stage that carried too high, perpendicularly and resulted in failure to tip to the proper angle to set the vehicle on the correct trajectory for the 2-6 day jaunt to the moon. Launched when the moon was 223,700 miles from the earth, the rocket shot was aimed with a 137,000-mile "lead," estimated to deflect Pioneer into orbit by gravitational attraction when the two space travelers drew near some 221,000 miles away on Oct. 13.

As the second stage was expended at a height of 80 miles, the eight "vernier" or S P in rockets were fired by radio from the Cape and the stage was separated by explosive fired too high perpendicularly, vaned version of the Vanguard with a solid propellant rocket engine, to hurl Pioneer on.

All fall-way of the spent third stage, a tiny vernier cluster encircling the last stage fired to rotate the payload on achieving peak velocity.

The 75.3-pound fourth stage, in addition to a 39.6-pound instrument package, carried a "retro" or terminal rocket which was to be shot by radio command on approaching the moon at an estimated 3,000 m.p.h. in order to slow it down to about 600 m.p.h. Weight of the vehicle on coming into lunar influence would be 61 pounds.

Pioneer's instrumentation, besides banks of chemical batteries, included: An ion chamber to broadcast levels of radiation encountered; the most significant scientific measurement of the probe since it was only recently discovered that a belt of radio-activity of increasing intensity above 100 miles exists around the earth.

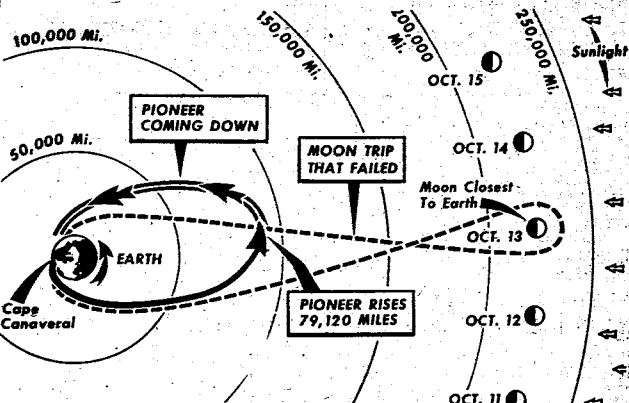

An instrument to record impact of micrometeorites which might strike the vehicle. A radio scanner, in effect, to transmit a "picture" of the trajectory of the moon by recording the highs and lows in degrees of grey and black. This was intended to give man his first glimpse of the moon's far side—the 41 per cent of earth's lunar satellite which has never been seen because it turns on its own axis as it orbits.

The telemetering system by which Pioneer was tracked from ground stations as it moved through space.

While the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division of the Air Research and Development Command at Ingleside, Calif., supervised the probe was in the hands of the newly formed National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

The flight has "truly pioneered" research projects into outer space," President Eisenhower said in a "well-done" message to Dr. T. Keith Glennan, NASA administrator.

"Already it is clear that it will yield knowledge of great benefit to mankind in adding to an understanding of the universe in which we live," President Eisenhower said.

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Although there have been numerous reports of preparations for new lunar probes, none has been confirmed.

Mrs. Spano Stresses Importance Of Parent Interest in Students

In a "Report to the Stockholders" which characterized children as the most important asset, Mrs. Joseph Spano, Columbus, director of the P.T.A. District Division of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, spoke at the October meeting of the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association.

More than 800 members attended the session in Faith School.

Mrs. Spano compared the P.T.A. to a stock company. "It's an old company," she said, "operating in Georgia for about 90 years," she said.

"I'm not trying to sell you a share of stock, because you're already stockholders. I'm trying to sell you a share of interest," she declared.

"The speaker emphasized that the P.T.A. is "a good investment" since it has as its motto the welfare of all children everywhere.

She noted that P.T.A. divisions are usually intangible, such as the fostering of good home-school relations.

Place to Work "It provides a place for parents and teachers to get to know each other and to work together a little," she explained.

The P.T.A. also provides tangible things. Here at Fort Benning you have an impressive training program which is known and envied through the state," she said.

Mrs. Spano noted that the post P.T.A. furnishes encyclopedias so that every classroom above third grade has a set of references. The chapter also promotes teacher appreciation.

Largest Chapter Of 26 P.T.A. units in Muscogee County totaling 14,500 members, the post chapter is the largest. Thirteen of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

Approval was given the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., to make one, and possibly two, moon "shots" employing modified Jupiter-C rockets.

A program calling for three lunar probes using a Thor-Vanguard launch in combination was assigned at the same time in the AF Ballistic Missile Division report to the Air Research and Development Command at Los Angeles, Calif.

Book Provides Military History Of America

This is the second in a series of reviews of the 26 books in the Department of a Army's new Contemporary Military Reading Program.

MILITARY HERITAGE OF AMERICA

R. Ernest Dupuy and Trevor N. Dupuy, McGraw-Hill, 1956. The aim of this book is to provide a military history from the American point of view. Preceding the comment on the conflicts in which America was involved directly, this is a survey of the evolution of military tactics and techniques as practiced from the earliest to the 19th century.

TAKES TEAMWORK

"The Army is a team," says DA PAM 7-5. "It takes a lot of soldiers to dig the trenches from which the Audie Murphy's emerge as heroes. All jobs and all men are important. The Army team can be successful only when every man gives his all."

Army Adds New Radar

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Extended range, three-dimensional radar using an entirely new detection principle will be linked to the Army's Missile Monitor for air defense fire control in the field.

Considered one of the biggest advances since electronic detection devices were perfected, the mobile radar unit gives distance bearing and altitude of a target simultaneously at range increases up to 50 per cent.

Developed by the Hughes equipment, called "Frescanor" for "frequency scan radar," is designed for use with the Missile Monitor, only recently unveiled by the Army as the tactical counterpart of the Missile Master, which coordinates the anti-aircraft fire of fixed Nike sites.

Frequency scanning radars are not only new in principle, Hughes engineers explained, but new in levels of performance and equipment. The complete unit consists of a radar set, a power truck and an antenna trailer.

The revolutionary basic principle of the radar is that it scans electronically without physical movement of the antenna. This is accomplished by radar frequency changes that produce a concentrated beam radiating at different angles as it moves across the antenna.

This concentration of the beam's energy on a small portion of the special antenna with each frequency variation greatly increases the range over the signal of conventional radar, which constantly searches across a large area as the direction of the antenna swings.

"While the all-out assault against the United States is certainly the greatest danger, it is the piecemeal loss of the Free World to limited and camouflaged aggression that constitute the greatest long-term threat to the Nation's security." — Army Information Digest.

Capt. Weston Earns BA Degree After 16 Years

Recalled to active duty in 1951 as an infantry second lieutenant, he was stationed at Fort Benning as an instructor in the Weapons Department until 1953, subsequently, he served overseas in Japan with the eighth Cavalry Regiment, First Cavalry Division, and at Fort Benning with the 30th Infantry Regiment, Third Infantry Division.

Upon completion of Advance Officers and Airborne courses, he was assigned to the Department of Non-Resident Instruction as an editor-writer in February of this year.

Not content to rest on his laurels, he is currently undertaking the GI Bill. The second year course through the University of Georgia at Columbus.

Navy to Test Army Cargo Protectors

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Navy ships in the future may use Army-developed "pneumatic damage" to prevent damage to military supplies during shipment.

Developed by the Army Quartermaster Corps, previous tests in freight cars indicated that use of the air pillows could save 70 per cent in labor and 36 per cent in materials over the conventional lumber stop.

A unit of the new damage weighs 28 pounds. It has an outer casing of nylon fabric coated on the outside with neoprene, and an inner bladder of unspun butyl compound equipped with a large diaphragm which is charged with air.

Only rarely does royalty pay a visit to the Infantry Center, but such is the case this week as Fort Benning plays host to Prince Constantine of Greece. And all of the young ruler-to-be's activities will be covered by the Fort Benning Broadcasting news broadcast this week-end, Saturday afternoon 12-45, for example, you will be able to see the Prince and his entourage the Infantry Center and school via WRDL-TV's weekly edition of radio at 12-45 p.m. spot days over WDAK on "Fort Benning News Parade". You can keep up with the day to day activities of the Infantry Center too, by listening to "Benning News" each night, Monday through Friday, at 9:30 p.m. over WRDL-TV. Music fans will get their due this weekend, as the Infantry Center presented two entirely different versions of "The Fort Benning Bandstand." The best in dance music, featuring Jesse A. Jones and the Military as recorded live at the Main Officer's Mess, is set for the WRDL-TV edition at 5:45 p.m. Saturday. And on Sunday, the report will be presented by WRDL-TV at 12:45 p.m. spot days over WDAK on "Fort Benning News Parade". You can keep up with the day to day

Two Presented Medal for 1958

WASHINGTON (APPS)—Two in-chief. Adm. Rickover, still on active duty, is known as the father of the atomic submarine.

The Army's retired Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther and Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover will receive the medal on this Oct. 27, 100th anniversary of the birth of the nation's 38th president, honoring them for their contributions to the national defense.

HURRICANE HELP
When the wall of water accompanying Hurricane Audrey swept over Cameron, La., last year, the American Red Cross got busy. One result was a free grant of over $500 to a totally disabled man and his family. The money replaced their four-room house for furnishings and bought a used pickup truck and cow. Your contribution to the Community Activities Fund drive helps the Red Cross, a partner in the campaign, lend a hand to disaster victims.

Company Assigned Two New Six-Month Officers

Third Medium Tank Battalion's 66th Armor, has been assigned two officers who will undergo the last part of their six months active duty in the battalion. They are: 2nd Lt. Cameron F. Lyle and 2nd Lt. Jesse L. Wadsworth. Lyle and Wadsworth completed the armor officer basic course at the Armor School in Fort Knox, Ky., Sept. 29-30.

The remainder of their six months training will be with the battalion. Lt. Lyle is a graduate of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and was employed as a soil chemist in Auburn, Ala. Lt. Wadsworth is a graduate of the Jacksonville State College, Jacksonville, Ala., and is a native of Gadsden, Ala.

Sgt. George M. Lehman has been chosen soldier of the month for September. Selection of Sgt. Lehman was made on the basis of a close evaluation by a group of officers and a final interview with the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Russell W. Ernst.

He was chosen for his soldierly bearing and knowledge of military and general affairs from among several candidates for the honor.

Cyd Provides Money's Worth With Million-Dollar Legs in Movie

AFPS Weekly Feature
Annual day-long dependents' cruise of the cruiser Hocheiser off Long Beach, Calif., had "Mister Television" among the Navy's guests. Personal fan Myron Miller Berle was sponsored by SN Marshall Berle. The "Steve Canyon" theme music in the current telecast, composed by the late Walter Schumann, will soon have lyrics... when it gets them the Air Force may be offered the song as its official anthem. Mer vocalizing can be heard at Ft. Ord, Calif., where professional folk singer Pvt. David Medina is straining... former member of the San Francisco Opera Company, he won a scholarship to "Music Man" Meredith Wilson's Idlewild School of Music just before entering the Army. Million-dollar legs are certainly his, and MGM's Cyd Charisse gives the cameras a generous view of them in her upcoming "Party Girl." That big movie about the founding of the Navy, "John Paul Jones," with Robert Stack in the title role, now gets a modern sequence... it shows the Sixth Fleet in position. Another premiere, covered by Voice of America and AFPS for world-wide audiences, was the Manhattan debut of "The Roots of Heaven" to benefit the New York Association for the Blind.

U.S. Expected to Launch X-15 Rocket in December

FORERUNNER OF MANNED SATELLITE
WASHINGTON (APPS)—Roll-out of the X-15 rocket plane, forerunner of the manned satellite, launches the U.S. into an era of space travel. First displayed publicly Oct. 28 in Los Angeles, Calif., by the Army's Aviation Corp., builder of the experimental craft in cooperation with the Air Force and 11 aeronautics agencies, the X-15 will reportedly make its maiden test flight in December. Powered by a liquid oxygen and ammonia-fueled engine producing 60,000 pounds thrust and built with revolutionary innovations for traveling more than twice as high as man has ever flown before, the $100 million rocket ship is designed to soar to altitudes beyond 100 miles at speeds in excess of 3,600 m.p.h.

Radars Could Save Many Lives in War

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Countless lives could be saved in the event of a nuclear war, by the Army's advanced weather radar systems now in operation.

Signal Corps tests of this equipment during recent nuclear clear detonations proved "highly effective," the Army said, in successfully plotting the size and course of "hot" clouds.

Special Photos
During these tests the first photograph of a radar scope showing the nuclear mushroom were made with a special camera. Successive film exposures showed the formation, rise and drift of the clouds, some of which were traced for as long as two hours.

Even if all local communications were to be knocked out in the area of an explosion, long-range radar directed at the probable detonation areas from a safe distance could locate the center of the blast.

This information would be useful in determining what areas, if any, should be evacuated as a safety factor in case of later fallout. In the same manner safe areas for receiving evacuees could be marked off.

Provides Warning
Using radar to detect height and drift of radioactive clouds would also be valuable in providing atomic battlefield troops with fallout warnings.

The radar used in the tests is the same type currently in operation to detect the approach of rain, snow, sleet, electrical storms, hurricanes and weather fronts which might generate tornadoes.

The special advantage of using radar to detect nuclear explosions is that it works during darkness and other periods of low visibility.

TO ATTEND AUSA MEETING AT POST

Russell to Speak At AUSA Meet

Georgia Senator Richard B. Russell will address the second annual meeting of the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the United States Army Nov. 12 at Briant Wells Field House.

Senator Russell is now on an inspection tour of U. S. military bases in Europe.

After the social hour members adjourn to the Briant Wells Field House where dinner will be served at approximately 8 p.m. during which The Infantry Center-Soldiers' Chorus will entertain with a medley of songs.

The business portion of the meeting will then be opened by Col. John W. Woodruff Jr., Columbus, who will also report upon the highlights of the National Association's annual meeting held in Washington last month.

Transaction of chapter business will be followed by the introduction of distinguished civilian and military guests.

Members have been advised according to Col. John W. Woodruff Jr., Columbus, who will also report upon the highlights of the National Association's annual meeting held in Washington last month.

Post Will Honor Veterans Of World War I Nov. 8

Veterans Day, Nov. 11, is observed by the U. S. Army which will be a holiday for Infantry Center with special Fort Benning personnel, will inaugurate marking the 40th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which terminated the hostilities of World War I in 1918.

The colorful activities scheduled to take place on the holiday will be designed as a salute to all veterans of the first World War. Under the direction of Gen. William J. Lewis, Special Projects Branch of the G-3 (Plans and Operations) Plans and Operations Branch, plans have been coordinated with veterans organizations of the Columbus (Ga.)-Phenix City (Ala.) area for joint participation in the program of post events.

The day will be opened by a review at 9 a.m. at Fort Benning's Chapel Field to which local veterans will be transported by bus from American Legion headquarters on Victory Drive. After the review of The Infantry Center Honor Guard Company by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Jr., commanding general of The Infantry Center, veteran guests will witness a precision drill by members of the company and a demonstration by the 26th Scout Dog Platoon.

Following the ceremonies and demonstration at Chapel Field, guests will board buses at 10:30 a.m. to tour the facilities of the Fort Benning field, Martin Army Hospital and Kelly and Sand Hill areas.

For his exceptional courage Lt. Woodfill was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, but it took three years before the American people heard of the man. Following demobilization Woodfill returned to civilian life, then re-enlisted as a sergeant, a nonentity in the ranks of the post-war Army. But singled out by Forrester, Woodfill was given belated honors in 1958 after the burial of The Unknown Soldier.

The American public again forgot Woodfill and eventually he retired to his farm (See WOODFILL, Page 2)

Leaders Get Conference Invitations

The Army's most distinguished leaders, both retired and on active duty, have been invited to attend the world-wide U. S. Army Infantry Conference Dec. 2-4 at Fort Benning.

Attending the conference will be conferees from the Continental U. S., overseas U. S. Army commanders, chiefs of technical services, school commanders, Department of Army General Staff officers, and conferees with combined arms operations, and corps, division and battle group commanders.

Among the military figures extended an invitation to the meeting is designed to provide a comprehensive view of the technological advancement and organizational and doctrinal changes affecting the future Infantry, are such familiar names as Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Gen. John E. Dahlquist, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and Gen. Mark W. Clark, all retired.

Post Will Offer Bugler Course

A shortage of qualified buglers at Fort Benning, of military funerals, reveille and retired ceremonies exists.

To alleviate this shortage a proposed course of instruction consisting of one hour daily for eight weeks has been established at the Band Center, USAIC, Troop Command.

Gen. Ryan says Religion Never Higher in Army

Fort Sam Houston, Tex. (APPS) — "The position of religion in the U. S. Army has never been higher than it is at present day," according to retired Major Gen. Patrick J. Ryan, Chief of Army Chaplains.

Gen. Ryan, who led the Army Nov. 1945 to the Japanese surrender, has been succeeded by Brig. Gen. Frank A. Tobey. He said that 87 million men who were head of more than 1,000 Army chaplains, cited improvements in training and facilities as two of the factors that have led to better Army chaplaincy.

X-15 Flown With New Data System

WASHINGTON (APPS)—An extremely precise inertial guidance system will be used by the X-15 manned rocket when the hypersonic aircraft makes its first space probe sometime this winter.

Heart of the system, developed by the Sperry Gyroscope Co., is a compact, three-gyro stable "platform" which will provide critical attitude, velocity, distance and altitude sensing.

A lightweight computer directs and interprets this data and displays it pictorially for the pilot on specially-developed cockpit instruments.

The equipment, able to withstand accelerations ten times the force of gravity, will direct the pilot from the moment of launch through the high-velocity acceleration phase and provide data enabling him to control the X-15 during the critical period of reentry into the earth's atmosphere.

The first systems are scheduled for delivery to the AF in November in time for planned testing in a supersonic F-101 Voodoo.

Now Sergeant Major Haggerty First Promoted To E-8 at Infantry Board

The first promotion to the new pay grade E-8 for the Infantry Board was awarded last week to M-Sgt. William D. Haggerty.

M-Sgt. Haggerty has been first sergeant of the Infantry Board Detachment and is now assigned as sergeant major for the Board.

He was surprised at a reveille formation when the special order effecting the promotion was read and presented to him by Capt. Richard Auger, detachment commander.

Sgt. Haggerty enlisted in the Regular Army in October, 1956, and was assigned to the 20th Infantry at the Presidio of San Francisco where he served his three-year enlistment. During his second enlistment he was sent to the Second Infantry Regiment, Fort Sheridan, Ill., and was with that unit when it became a part of the Fifth Infantry Division at Fort Custer, Mich.

Sgt. Haggerty's second enlistment ended in December, 1961, and he took a break in service until July 1962 when he enlisted and was assigned to Headquarters Company, XI Corps, in Chicago. In January, 1963, he entered OCS at Fort Benning and is currently major and sergeant major of the Seventh ICC.

Post-Face Changes in 40 Years Gains Accentuated By Recruiting Poster

A recruiting circular used 40 years ago in Harrisburg Pa., brings back memories of yesterday to old timers still around.

The advertisement is from the archives of the First Field Group 29th Infantry.

Gone's the government railroad that took Doughboys to Columbus in 30 minutes. When a GI steps off the post at the entrance to Fort Benning he is in Columbus, a city of over a hundred thousand.

Good hunting in camp eight months of the year has changed to year round since the installation of the Bryant Wells Field House indoor swimming pool.

Added to the bass, coon, possum, fox, rabbit and squirrel for good hunting are turkey deer and wild boar.

The $7,000,000 permanent barracks boasted of in those days have grown to over $23,000,000 worth of modern concrete barracks on the post and in the Kelley Hill area.

One of the things that remains the same in the 29th Infantry is the mission of supporting the Infantry School in training leaders.

TO ROY SCIENTISTS PORT BELVOIR, Va. (ANS)

The Army Corps of Engineers will host this month to 30 science teachers and 30 selected high school students from nearby Virginia counties at a 10-week course in the science of rockets at The Engineer Center. It is planned to follow the 10-week course with a visit by the teachers and students to an Army installation to fire rockets and see sessions. Instructors will be furnished by industrial firms engaged in missile and rocket work.

Dulles, Chiang Reaffirm Solidarity Against Reds

WASHINGTON (APPS)—In an effort to clear the international air of any misunderstanding, Secretary of State Dulles and Chinese Republic President Chiang Kai-shek met at Taipei late last month to reaffirm the basic tenets of their government's alliance.

The representatives recalled that their countries' 1954 Mutual Defense Treaty manifested tight unity "so that no potential aggressor could be under the illusion that either of them stands alone in the West Pacific area."

The two governments restated their solidarity in the face of the new Chinese Communist aggression program manifesting itself in the bombardment of the Quemoy.

Both governments took note of the fact that the Chinese Communists, with the backing of the Soviet Union, avowedly seek to conquer Formosa, to eliminate Free China and to expel the U.S. from the Western Pacific.

Besides dealing with the present military situation, the two governments considered the broad and long-range aspects of their relationship. Secretary Dulles told Chiang that the U.S. recognizes that the Republic of China is the authentic spokesman for Free China and of the hopes and aspirations of the great mass of the Chinese people.

The two governments reaffirmed their dedication to the principles of the United Nations Charter and recalled that they are acting in defensive in character treaty under which they are inter.

We Owe It to Them

Forty years ago the scratching of pens in a French railway car stilled the guns of WW I on Nov. 11, 1918. Armistice Day, one of our most solemn holidays, was born.

But 22 years later, a victorious, power-drunk dictator capered in glee in that same railway car in the Compiegne Forest. Five years of bloodshed and destruction lay ahead before Armistice Day could commemorate the fall of WW II.

Since 1874 we have called it Veterans Day, but its significance has not altered. It is a day when the light of human valor and sacrifice shines on the Tombs of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. It is a day when our gratitude to the Americans who have died for freedom finds its expression, simple but eloquent, in the clean notes of the bugler's "Taps."

The best tribute to our war dead can only be a reiteration of our effort to build upon all that they, by their sacrifice, achieved. Veterans Day loses meaning if we confine our observance of it to an annual ritual.

But if on this day we take a fresh look at the great nation we have become, if we feel a fresh current of identity with the men who fought our wars, we can replenish our energies and are in their debt. We owe it to them to stand upright as inheritors of their spirit. (AFPS)

Veterans Day Message
(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a Veterans Day message to members of Continental Army Command by Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, COMR.)

"On the Eleventh of November it is fitting that we of the United States Continental Army Command join with our fellow Americans in marking the fortieth anniversary of the day when the guns of World War I were silenced. As we honor all veterans who have preserved our nation's liberty in battle, we rededicate ourselves to accomplishing our primary mission: Combat Readiness.

"Providing the American soldier with the training and tools for victory in ground operations is an essential contribution to our Armed Forces' power for peacekeeping. We will continue to help safeguard the fruits of the veterans' sacrifice. As we honor them, let us be sure we are ready and trained to follow in the high battle tradition they have set for us, if the need should ever arise again."

Program Tells GIs Why
WASHINGTON (ANS)—Emphasizing that man is the ultimate weapon, the Army's Chief of Information, Major Gen. H. P. Storke has stated that commanders are now increasing the effectiveness of the Army by explaining the "why" of Army activities to their personnel.

"That is," he wrote in an editorial appearing in the Special Edition of the Stars and Stripes published as a tribute to the veterans of the AFPS. "Commanders today are providing their subordinates with the information necessary to increase their understanding, not only of America's place in history, but also of their responsibilities as soldiers and citizens."

This, he explained, is the modern Army's Troop Information program. (The Special Edition of the Stars and Stripes, planned as an acknowledgment of man's vital role in the Nation's security and of weapons value in extending the capability of man, was prepared as a part of this program.)

(Besides its distribution within the Army, the Special Edition is scheduled as a feature insert in the present day editions of Stars and Stripes overseas, as well as in the statewide editions of Army Times in addition, The Nation, at Tribune, The Stars and Stripes of Washington, D.C. has reprinted it for distribution and sale to individuals. Other newspapers, both authorized Army and civilian, Enterprise, are also offering it to their readers.)

One of the most striking traits of the Old Testament prophets was the plumb-line simplicity and forcefulness in using material objects to convey spiritual truths. This was the true of Amos, the "country preacher." Called to denounce the corruption of his king, he used the figure of the plumb-line to reveal the godlessness of God's own people.

Rainbow Girls Slate YMCA Appearance

The weeks activities at the Armed Services YMCA will be highlighted by the appearance of the Rainbow Girls as special guests of the Girls Service Organization at the orchestra dance Saturday night. The Rainbow Girls will join the USO girls for serving as dancing partners for the fellows. Music for the occasion will be by the Gettrude Handley Trio.

Tonight, there will be two activities at the "Y." The Citizenship Class will run from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. This class is for all foreign born who are interested in studying for their citizenship examination. Instructions for the course is Mrs. Floyd Francisco. Further information concerning the class can be obtained by calling Mrs. Francisco at FA 4-2400.

The fencing class meets at 7:30 p.m. and anyone interested in studying the art of self defense is invited.

Sunday's activities begin with Java-Cub at 9 in the morning. Coffee and doughnuts will be served. Home Hour will be from 3:30-5:30 p.m. with punch and homemade cookies served. The cookies will be baked by the Home Demonstration Clubs of Harris County. Fellowship Supper at 5:30 p.m. will be served by the ladies from Hann Stevens Memorial Methodist Church.

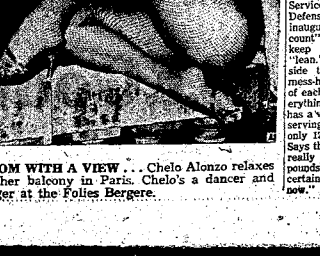

Monday, Nov. 10, the planning council will meet at 7:30 p.m. to make final plans for the December program. Any open interested in serving on this council are asked to call the program department of the "Y" at FA 3-6421.

Nov. 11, Veterans Day, will see the Merchants Association of Columbus conducting their annual "GI Hospitality Program." 200 servicemen will be the guests of the merchants of Columbus. They will be met at the "Y" at 11:15 a.m. and taken on a tour of the business of the city and then treated to lunch. This evening there will be a record dance at the "Y" at 8:30 p.m. with

Magicians Set Performance At Post Today
A pair of magicians, Gene and Jo, who will appear at 6:00 p.m. today at Theater No. 5, have been entertaining for the armed forces in this country and overseas for the past 16 years. They have learned much about performing before military audiences. First of all, they have learned to be patient. Today a magician must have new effects and a new way to keep the audience's attention. The magician does the smallest breed of dog in the world. Gene and Jo were assisted by Lester and Thurston and are a favorite team among the armed forces. Admission price—15 cents.

'CALORIE CURE'
NORFOLK, Va. (ANS)—Sgt. Roderick Barfoot, the Food Service NCO for the 4th Air Defense Artillery Group, has inaugurated a new "calorie cure" service designed to keep the Group's members "lean." Posted daily alongside the menu outside each mess-hall is the calorie count of each item being served. Everything from mess-hall coffee to a whipping 551 calories per serving to lettuce wedges with may 12 calories will be listed. Staff Group: "Anyone who really cares to take a few pounds off should certainly watch those calories."

How much notice must a soldier who rents a home or apartment of post give his landlord if he is ordered to leave? The answer depends upon whether the lease is written or verbal.

A written lease will generally provide for a certain notice (usually 30 days) but the catch in some written leases is that, according to their terms this notice does not become effective until the first day of the following month or the next rental period.

The grand opening of the Fort Benning Entertainment Workshop's new theater, "The Boondocks," is set for Nov. 17-19.

The workshop will see real life at that time, four-year-old dream, a theater on post designed exclusively to house live entertainment. "Even in this time of TV, Radio and Hi-Fi, we feel sure," said Soldier Shows Director Dean West, "there will always be a large audience for live entertainment of all kinds and this is the audience we are hoping will be built up across the wilderness of the Harmony Church to 'The Boondocks'."

The theater, aptly called "The Boondocks," will house both the full-length, three-act Broadway type of show and musical comedy and revue type presentations. An occasional

Concert Sates Brahms Dances On November 11
The recorded concert at the Main Library at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 11 will feature "Eight Hungarian Dances" by Johannes Brahms.

Brahms' enthusiasm for the Hungarian style is well illustrated in at least a dozen of his larger compositions — the 14 "Hungarian Rhapsodies," for example.

Although the Hungarian Dances brought Brahms a big first wide spread popularity, they also earned him considerable criticism. It was charged that he had plagiarized popular Hungarian composers, ransacking their music and giving it his own. But Brahms clearly indicated on the title pages of the scores that these dances were arranged by him. In the dances of the final volumes, however, Brahms is more concerned to follow the manner rather than the letter of the folk music.

Div. Soldiers to Receive New Proficiency Pay

Seven enlisted men in the Second Infantry Division will be among the first in the Army to receive proficiency pay under the new interim program set up to rush the new program into operation prior to its formal implementation Army-wide.

Div. Band Commences First Concerts in Dec.

The Second Infantry Division Concert Band comes into formal existence in November with first concerts planned for the Christmas season.

Chief Warrant Officer Harry Moran, the division's bandmaster, who led the 10th Infantry Division's band and chorus in European fame during that organization's three year tour in Europe, has been organizing the Indianapolis Division's band since he became its director in June of this year.

Beginning with only a handful of musicians who were transferred from the 10th, the Indianapolis Division band made appearances at official ceremonies suggested by personnel from the Fort Benning band.

Thirty-three new members many of them with professional concert experience and graduates of schools of music; have been added to the Second Division Band over a three-month period.

Today, the new band is composed of 53 members. Among them is Private Roger W. Bader, 22-year-old trumpet player who appeared with the Rochester, New York, Philharmonic Symphony for the season, and a graduate of the Eastman School of Music.

Also in formation is a 40 voice chorus under the baton of Private Theodore E. Strassman, a graduate in music from the Northwestern University and who played the French Horn in the Chicago Symphony.

Further eligibility requirements state that individuals considered must be classified in a Primary MOS for which the pay is authorized, and be serving in a pay grade of E-4 or higher, and be classified in a Primary MOS for which duty positions are authorized in his current or higher pay grade.

In addition, individuals are continuously for six months prior to award of proficiency pay. The receipt of a break in service, not exceeding 90 days. It is also required that the individual considered be (See FPO EX, Page 2)

Marksmen Build Pistol Range

A new pistol marksmanship range, built by the Second Infantry Division Marksmanship Detachment, will be used for the first time in detachment marksmanship training. The range is equipped with 25 and 30 yard firing lines.

Detachment Seeks Best Marksmen

A 40-hour small arms school for 40 hours of competitive firing will be conducted by the Second Infantry Division Marksmanship Detachment, November 10 through 22, in order to obtain additional top marksmen for the detachment.

A division headquarters announcement said that the division's marksmanship team in order to continue its development, a spokesman said, "the continuing search for new shooters must be maintained. During the tryout period, beginning November 10, 14 members will be selected based on the results of the competitive firing.

Greek Prince Fires BAR With Troops

The future King and Commander in Chief of Greece's Armed Forces, Crown Prince Constantine, settled down with a group of Second Infantry Division trainees last week at Fort Benning to try his hand at firing the Army's Browning Automatic Rifle.

Flown by helicopter, Prince Constantine toured the Second Infantry Division Museum and returned to Division Headquarters where he met with the commanding general, Major General R. H. Wienecke and his staff.

The prince is currently touring important U.S. continental defense installations and is spending 10 days at Fort Benning.

Three Units Get Plaques For Part in Festivities

By 9th Inf. PIO
Lieutenant Colonel Carl Ulbraker, Executive Officer of the Second Battle Group, 9th Infantry, presented engraved plaques on Oct. 23 to Company B, Company D, Mortar Battery, and Headquarters Company, for their winning efforts in the special events on organization day.

Company B was the big winner of the events as they piled up the greatest number of points, in all the contests. They received a large plaque for collecting the most points, and also a small plaque for being the winner of the basketball contest. Company D also came through with two awards, as they received a cigarette lighter for being the softball tournament which was held early in the year. For their second award they received a small plaque for being the volley ball champions. Other companies to receive small plaques were Headquarters Company, for winning the horse shoe contest, and Mortar Battery, as they were the Battle Group champs of the flag football awards.

The Second Battle Group, 9th Infantry, honored Master Sergeant Albert Perles, Sergeant First Class Randall Corbin and Private Frederick Rielt, in a review ceremony that was held at Signal Athletic Field on 23 October 1958; awards were presented by Colonel Robert Besson, Commanding Officer of the unit.

Before presenting the awards, Colonel Robert Besson stated that three generations of the army were represented at the review. "The past which is the dedicated soldier was Master Sergeant Perles, who is retiring after 29 years of active service. It was men of his caliber that trained new soldiers and stood by the traditions of the army."

Good Examples
The next phase which is the present was Sergeant First Class Randall Corbin, who represents the army now. It is the men like him that is the backbone of the army, and keeps up its standards. The last one to fill out the group is Private Frederick Rielt, who is the future army. It is men like him that are just starting their army careers that will keep the army strong. It is the men of the future that will take their place in the army.

1st Inf. Officer Leaves, Becomes Exec of Trains

By 1st Infantry FPO
Lieutenant Colonel Frank A. Merigold was recently assigned as the Executive Officer of Division Trains. Colonel Merigold was formerly the Executive Officer of the 2nd Battalion, Group, 1st Infantry. He has been with the 1st Infantry since May 1957. Our best wishes to Colonel Merigold in his new assignment.

Ca. A
Captain Rex G. Oliver, Company Commander of Company A, has received his orders for transfer to Iran. He departed this week for the new assignment. Lt. Leonard Priddy, C. Austin, the former Executive Officer of the Company, has now assumed command since the departure of Captain Oliver.

New Plans
The other units of the Battle Group are now settled in their new home at Kelly Hill. They are making preparations for the I. G. Inspection, which is due in the middle of November. Classes are also being reviewed and reassigned for the next group of trainees. Packet training for these trainees will begin on arrival of the next group sometime in January.

Science Tests
Tests for the General Science Class were held on Friday night at the Kelly Hill Education Center. The turn out was not especially good in view of the importance of a High School education to us today in our Army Careers. It's free and now is the time to get that education. Contact the Education Center to see how to get that credit. Building 8010 Kelly Hill, third floor.

Coffee Demonstration Scheduled

By 2nd Div FPO
A visual and practical demonstration of coffee brewing, the elements involved and the results achieved will be presented by Colonel William J. E. Cline, (Retired), Armed Forces Representative of the Coffee Brewing Institute, for the food service personnel of the Second U. S. Infantry Division at Fort Benning, Georgia, on November 4th through 6th.

A feature of the presentation will be a color motion picture of a coffee plantation in Latin America, which shows how coffee is planted, cultivated and harvested.
The Coffee Brewing Institute, a non-profit research and educational organization, cooperates with the military in presenting this program which has the full endorsement of the Armed Forces, according to E. G. Laughey, president.
Three Uses
During the brewing demonstration, three especially designed uses will be used for the purpose of enabling personnel to see what happens throughout the brewing process. Colonel Cline will use the first unit to stress the importance of cleanliness.
In the second he will demonstrate common errors made in the preparation of beverage coffee, and in the third he will brew coffee in accordance with the recommendations of the Coffee Brewing Institute.

Throughout the demonstration Colonel Cline in addition to explaining each step of the brewing procedure will discuss the importance of the brewing formula, cleanliness, grinds, the time factor, correct measurement, consistency, temperature and the proper relationship that must be maintained if satisfactory results are to be achieved. At the conclusion of the meeting there will be a question and answer period, and the personnel will be invited to taste the coffee from each urn.

By 15th Arty. PIO
One hundred twenty six trainees from B and C Batteries have been assigned to Motor Battery of the 23rd Infantry for their advanced training. These men recently attained the highest score in the division basic combat training proficiency test and over half of the group qualified as sharpshooters or better with their individual weapons.

Paraphrase to ponder: Despite the changes that have taken place since its origin, the Communist regime has remained true to the original model—a one-party dictatorship in which a small fraction of the people lords it over the rest of the people in all respects of life from the cradle to the grave. The Communist Party in Russia, points out DA Pam 21-77, numbers a mere 7 million out of a total population of more than 210 million people.

Club Gives Raincoats To Patrols

The EM Wives Club of Fort Benning has donated $120 for the purchase of raincoats for the post's school children patrols.

The 42 raincoats were bought through the Georgia State Highway Patrol, according to Mrs. Robert E. Lamb, treasurer and past president of the EM Wives Club. Instrumental in the project were M-Sgt. Willis M. Grimes, traffic sergeant in the Infantry Center Provost Marshal's Section, and Sgt. W. I. White, assigned to the 7th Division of the Georgia State Highway Patrol.

Sergeant Born In Commanding Gen.'s Office
FORT RILEY, Kan. (AP)—EVER heard of the Army sergeant who got a sound clapping in the Commanding General's office? Funny thing is that Sgt. Charles Colver isn't a bit better about it.
Colver, you see, can literally call Fort Riley home. He was brought into the world in the delivery room of the post hospital which now serves as post headquarters, with Maj. Gen. David H. Buchmann occupying the room where this "Army bear" first saw the light of day.
The Colver family has been around Riley a long time, dating back to its Cavalry days. The sergeant's maternal grandfather, M-Sgt. James E. Grady, who buried the post's cemetery was sergeant major of the 13th Cavalry from 1877 to 1922.

Battle Group, 28th Infantry, leaders of the Major Unit standings since the opening bouts.

In an effort to remain at the head of the pack and secure their hold on the top spot, the 2nd will have boxers matched in seven of the 11 fights.

Chief Opponents
Their chief competition, Second Division Trains, and the Second Battle Group, 28th Infantry, will also enter strong contingents. The 14th will have six fighters, the 6th Armor and Second Division Trains will have four.

Two class 1 bouts will be presented on the card. Middleweight Leon Hall of the 28th will be the last bout and will be the fifth in a series of 10. The next matches are scheduled for Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the same site.

A victory by bantamweight Allan Garrett and a forfeit will give the 28th an additional six points in the race for the Major Unit championship. Their total is now 71, which is a 20-point lead over Second Division Trains who picked up 42 points in the strength of three class 3 wins and a single class 1 victory.

14th Inches Up
The Second Battle Group, 28th Infantry, also included a lithe fighter in the 22nd by pushing their point total to 42 with a 10-point pickup on a pair of class 3 triumphs and one class 1 win.

Other Pairings
The remainder of the pairings are as follows: Allan Garrett, 25th, vs David Durson, Second Division Trains; George Robinson, LAAC, vs Fred Smith, 14th; Clarence Rogers, 28th, vs John Howard, Second Division Trains; Paul Davis, 28th, vs Joe Faison, 14th; Bill

29th Soldier Proves Athletic Versatility

Pfc Allan Garrett is a jack-of-all-trades and sports master of most. A member of the First Battle Group, 28th Infantry, Garrett demonstrated his versatility last week when in a 24-hour period he moved from the basketball court to the boxing ring without missing a beat.

Oct. 28, the 115-pound Dynamo from Cincinnati, Ohio, pumped in seven points as he hit 30 percent of his shots. He made his only free throw attempt, and played a generally outstanding floor game in helping the 28th cage to a 62-42 win over the 151st Engineer Group.

Gordon '11' Drubs Benning, 40-24

Fort Gordon griders ran roughshod over Fort Benning at Dougherty Stadium Oct. 30. Paine kicked the point to win by a score of 40-24, avoiding a defeat earlier this year at the hands of the Doughboys.

The Doughboys downed the Gordon team 20-16 Sept. 16 in the season opener at Fort Gordon in Augusta, Ga.

Fort Benning received the opening kick off and moved the ball to the midfield stripe where they fumbled and Gordon recovered with Harold Campbell and Russ Shultz doing most of the ball carrying. Gordon moved down to the Doughboys' 10 yard line from there Campbell took a

Denman Will Defend Walk Championship

Pfc. Elliott Denman, the School Brigade's Olympic walker, will defend his championship in the Sergeant Sawley Memorial 10-mile walking race on Veterans Day, November 11, at Long Island City, N. Y.

Denman, a clerk in the Officers' Pay Section of the Brigade, won the race last year in a time of one hour and 26 minutes.

The race is named in honor of a World War II Medal of Honor winner and attracts the leading walker of North America. Denman's victory last year was noteworthy as he trounced several national and international champions and fellow Olympic walkers as well.

Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, basketball team under the guidance of Coach John Guishard, Johnson and Jim Spence are ready to defend the Old Post Open House in October for one of their championship titles.

Missus all members of last year's championship five, the Dragons have their work cut out for them in defense of the title.

According to Johnson, the main liability controlled by the 14th team is a general lack of height and consequently rebounding consistency over the 12-game schedule.

Guards Jim Spence and Jim Brown and forwards Donald Reid and Frank Snyder have exhibited good speed and ball handling ability.

Company Renovates Boy Scout Building

Company A, 57th Engineer Battalion, expected to have the addition of a new room to the building located in the Custer Terrace region, completed by Nov. 1. This room is 28 feet long and this additional space can be put to good use by the Boy Scouts of Troop 151.

Company A also added something new to the building which previously had no plumbing. They tapped the M & I Post water line and installed running water facilities in the cabin. Heat for the scouts through the cold months has been provided by gas, and the room has been wired for electric fixtures.

Company A has completed the project they were working on in the Scout division. The company constructed a bayonet assault course to be used to train the 151st Tactical Problems. The Second Platoon, under the supervision of Sgt. Louis Simon, supplied the engineers for the job.

The three goals were scored by Pfc. Jim Miller and Pfc. Leonard McKinney. Pfc. Miller, who was quarterbacking the team, ran the ball off the 50-yard line and one from the 12-yard line. Pfc. McKinney took the ball five yards off and ran it back 50 yards for the third try.

Soldiers Pay 99 Per Cent of Loans

WASHINGTON (APPS)—During the almost 14 years of the G.I. home-loan program the Veterans Administration has paid claims on about 6,000 loans, less than one percent of the more than five million loans guaranteed since December, 1944.

In stating these statistics, Sumner G. Whitner, Veterans Administrator, said not all the claims paid were attributable to defaults by original borrowers. Some were defaulted by persons who obtained the properties from veterans and assumed the mortgages.

Hospital Unit Receives Superior in Exercise

For its meritorious efforts in the 54th Medical Group's Army Training Test in October, the Third Field Hospital was awarded a rating of superior. The award was given by the four officers assigned as umpires to judge the hospital's training test. They included Lt. Col. James M. Polley, Capt. Jesse H. Lafont, Capt. Elizabeth Kewley, Army Nurses Corps, and 2nd Lt. John A. Troller, all of Martin Army Hospital.

to move out would be given later in the day. Quickly the men of the Third Field Hospital began bustling and bustle to get ready for the move out to the test area. At 7 a.m. of the next day they departed in their own formation under tactical conditions.

A little more than an hour after the advance and main groups were "attacked" by aggressor forces from the 56th Medical Company.

The convicts were able to fight off the attackers under simulated combat conditions and make their way to the training test area south of Cassia, Ga. After arriving they set up a sufficient number of hospital tents within 40 minutes to begin receiving "Patients" by 11:30 a.m. By early afternoon the rest of the tents were put up and additional patients were received until 10:30 p.m.

Early in the morning of Oct. 15 the hospital began receiving mass casualties as combat troops of the truck warfare received wounds and injuries. The medical aid was interrupted suddenly by a surprise "gas attack" by aggressor troops who used a weak mixture of tear gas and irritant gas. The gas was used to simulate a simulated bombing raid by an enemy plane from the First Aviation Company, with Lt. Col. Peter S. Scoles, commanding officer of the 54th Medical Group, acting as co-pilot and bombardier, was made with loaded four sacks for bombs.

The training was conducted under conditions as nearly like combat as possible with patients, dressed in hospital pajamas, placed in beds inside the hospital building and bustle to get ready for the move out to the test area. At 7 a.m. of the next day they departed in their own formation under tactical conditions.

Richard Wiltedink, former medical laboratory technician on special duty with the Marine Army Hospital, made the jump from Pfc to Second Lieutenant.

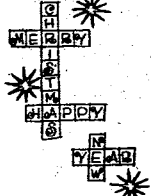

12. Wiltedink's appointment was the result of a direct commission awarded him in October by a board of officers. He entered the Army in September after graduation from Leland College, Sheboygan, Wis., where he received an honorable mention for scholastic work.

Congratulating the newly commissioned lieutenant as he pinned on the insignia, Col. Scoles told him, "I hope you will wear the same success that the officer who used to wear these bars has had." Col. Scoles referred to Lt. A. Donald R. Hall, adjutant of the Medical Group, who had worn the bars when he was a second lieutenant.

12. Wiltedink left last week for a new assignment at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he will attend the Medical Officers' School.

TSB to Hold E-7 Meeting Each Quarter

Something of a tradition may be in its nebulous stage at the School Brigade when approximately 40 E-7s, assigned to that unit, gather once each quarter for a noon luncheon, the first of which took place Nov. 4.

The quarterly luncheon is the result of a suggestion made to the School Brigade Commanders' Enlisted Advisory Council composed of nine NCOs representing the School Brigade's Headquarters and Headquarters Company, the First, Second, Fourth and Fifth Student Battalions, and the Infantry School Detachment.

The luncheon suggestion was overwhelmingly approved by the council as a means of enhancing the esprit-de-corps of the top graders in the Brigade, and will become a common ground where individual and group problems can be talked over. Col. A. L. Hoebeck, Brigade commander, took a personal interest in the suggestion and lent every effort in bringing the idea to a successful conclusion.

Each luncheon will have a guest speaker invited from either the military or civilian communities. The inaugural speaker was Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, and was introduced by Col. Hoebeck.

Dependents to Learn Home Repair To Save on Government Quarters

For just the little time it takes to attend an Army-sponsored "Help - Yourself Class," government quarters on the value of little household hints. The Infantry Center Engineer Section is giving daily classes open to all dependents.

Instruction shows how to properly locate blown fuses and to replace them, to properly defrost an ice box, to clean electric ranges, to operate dish washers and garbage disposals and other common household equipment. At Fort Benning there are some 2,994 government quarters furnished to families. In addition there are 4,178 troops and miscellaneous buildings. These are maintained by a service crew of 38 carpenters, 56 electricians and 22 plumbers.

The average daily number of work orders filled by these servicemen in October was 206. Lt. Col. Lawrence H. Meyer, deputy post engineer, feels that the "Help - Yourself Classes" will cut down work orders, saving time and money for both the Army and occupants of government-owned quarters.

The Engineer Section officials request that the female adult in each family attend these classes, but if that is impossible it is mandatory that the military member of the family attend.

Highlight of Port Cities Day

Bama Gov. Elect Patterson Visits Post

Alabama's governor-elect, John Patterson, was honored at noon on Port Cities Day, Nov. 7, as special guest at a luncheon in the Main Officers' Mess.

tended by a long list of distinguished civilian and military dignitaries including U. S. Rep. E. L. Farraster of Georgia's Third Congressional District, and Major Gen. Frank M. Albrecht, Corps of Army Engineers, South Atlantic Division, Atlanta.

The luncheon was a highlight of Fort Benning's participation in the Port Cities ceremonies sponsored by The Columbus and Phenix City Chambers of Commerce under the direction of James C. Prather, chairman of the Chamber's River Development Committee. In the parade, The Infantry Center Band and Honor Guard (a prominent place as did Army artillery pieces and trailer-mounted Army missiles. Military participation in the parade was under the direction of Col. H. F. McClesley, Infantry Center Transportation Officer who served as co-chairman of the Parade Committee for the celebration.

Formal honors were accorded Crown Prince Constantine of Greece Nov. 7 at Chapel Field upon his departure after an extensive two-week tour of The Infantry Center and Infantry School.

Following the ceremonies, the heir to the Greek throne departed for Fort Bragg, N.C., in continuation of a tour of U.S. military installations to be made before his return to Greece in early December.

During his activities at Fort Benning, the royal visitor received a complete orientation on the organization and operations of The Infantry School and participated in several of the classes in progress.

Post Observes School Week

Schools Hold Open House Today; Ozley Cites Progress of Soldiers

All Children's Schools at Fort Benning will observe National Education Week, Nov. 9-15, with an open house at 7:30 p.m. today.

The schools, Faith, Custer, Main Post, Capehart and the kindergarten section will open its classrooms to all visitors. There also will be a display of the Army Education Center bulletin board to show the development of the educational program. Teachers will be there to meet parents and friends.

Leonard R. Ozley, Infantry Center educational administrator, took the occasion of National Education Week to announce progress in the post's adult educational programs.

Attendee Ozley said there are 404 Fort Benning military personnel attending the University of Georgia and Albany State College branches in Columbus. He added, "Fort Benning soldiers apparently believe that mastery of the Three R's is the best means of meeting the demands of an Atomic-Age army."

"Evidence of that is found at the Army Education Center where thousands of infantrymen have sought to improve their education. "No longer is education in there to meet parents and friends. (See Education, Page 2)

P-TA Postpones November Meet; Open House Set

Fort Benning P-TA will not hold a formal business meeting in November, but there will be an open house at each of the post schools and in the Kindergarten Annex from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today in observance of American Education Week, November 9-15 using the theme, "Keep Up With The Kids."

There will be displays in the rooms of each of the schools, showing progress of the children. Teachers will be present to meet parents.

Assisting Col. Hayes as members of the planning group are Lt. Col. William G. Goers, Combat Development Office, conference project officer; Lt. Col. Arthur F. Haney, Command and Staff Department, USAIS; Major H. Clark, Operations Office, USAIS; Capt. Badger V. Upton, Department of Non-Resident Instruction, USAIS, and 1st Lt. Kenneth E. Yoder, Student Officers' Branch, USAIS.

Attending the conference will be representatives from the Continental U. S., overseas U. S. Army commanders, chiefs of technical services, commandants of service schools, and Army General Staff officers.

Volunteers Needed To Stuff Yule Seals

A total of 150 women volunteers are needed to stuff Christmas Seals envelopes at Fort Benning next week. The volunteers needed to work Nov. 18-19. Stuffing of the envelopes will begin at 9 a.m. on these two days at Salerni Mess. Building 275-B (across from the jump towers).

CORPORAL

Education

The Army merely something that is available for the soldier who happens to want a useful way to spend his leisure time. Formal book learning in conventional school subjects is now a prescribed means of reaching specific educational objectives defined by Department of the Army.

The Army Education Center is prepared to help solitary complete elementary high school and four years of college training.

Educational advisers, mo-

ern testing devices and instructional aids lend a progressive tone to the program and enable the soldier to focus his aims more clearly on ultimate goals.

On-duty preparatory classes are the first step in education offered by the Army. These are classes held during duty hours for the benefit of personnel who have not completed elementary education. The courses offered include English, arithmetic, history, science and geography.

Successful completion of these courses earns students eighth grade certificates and qualifies them to take the high school General Educational Development tests.

A high premium is placed on the GED tests which measure both high school and college educational development. The high school GED tests, if successfully completed, are accepted for admission by many colleges and universities.

These tests consist of a battery of objective-type questions in English, social studies, science, literature and mathematics, all emphasizing the individual's ability to read and think carefully and critically. Many states honor the diploma by granting high school diplomas.

The college GED test is used to determine whether an individual has the equivalent of one year general college education. The subject areas covered in the college level GED test include English, social studies, natural science, and literature.

College credit available. The college-level GED test is available to military personnel who have completed high school or successfully completed the high school-level GED test. The test may be taken by individuals to obtain recognition that they possess educational ability equivalent to completion of first year of college work.

United States Armed Forces Institute (USAFI) courses are available to military personnel on a correspondence basis. The courses cost $5 for registration. Personnel may take others at no additional cost.

In addition to more than 200 courses in USAFI, 44 American colleges and universities offer a wide variety of both high school and college level courses through USAFI.

The University of Georgia and Albany State Teachers College lure about 1,600 Benning students annually. The college pays 75 per cent of tuition costs for military personnel enrolled in recognized civilian schools.

In observance of the 37th annual National Education Week, the Army Education Center, Building 2512, is conducting open house and invites the public.

Council Picks Patterson As President

Capt. Robert W. Patterson, a senior in the school of secondary education, has been elected president of the student council at the University of Columbus Center.

Capt. Patterson represents several hundred civilian students from Columbus.

He enrolled in the Columbus Center in early 1956, beginning his course of study with 43 quarter hours to his credit.

Today he has over 125 quarter hours of college work and will be eligible for his six month final semester plan in June. The six-month final semester plan will end with a baccalaureate degree in education.

Capt. Patterson announced that the first social function of the Columbus Center fall quarter would be a dinner dance at the Columbus College auditorium Nov. 14.

Tickets may be purchased from any student council representative. Following the dinner at 7 p.m. a beauty queen will be elected to participate and ride in the parade Sunday morning before the Georgia vs. Auburn football game Nov. 15.

Plans for future programs will include guests appearances by top disc jockeys from local TV and radio media and local jazz musicians. The program will be presented in a natural hi-fi and stereophonic sound. Program No. 1, Volume No. 1 will present the music of Stan Kenton, Gerry Mulligan, Oscar Peterson, Herb Ellis, Ray Brown, Stan Levy and Curtis Counce. Part one in the history of jazz will also be presented. Dick Wells of WGBA and recording star of Nu-Clear Records will be guest star of the first performance.

Communion Set On November 16

Fort Benning's Our Lady of Victories Sodality will observe Communion Sunday, Nov. 16, at the 8 a.m. Mass at the Infantry Center Catholic chapel.

Immediately following Mass will be a Communion breakfast. Guest speaker will be a missionary priest from the Holy Cross Missions, Notre Dame, Ind.

All Sodality members and ladies of the parish are invited to Mass and to receive Holy Communion as a group.

Reservations for the breakfast may be made through the president of the Sodality, Mrs. William Harrigan, by telephoning Fort Benning 3-7209.

Reading Lamp, Easy Chair

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, writing for the December issue of The Army Information Digest, said that among his basic convictions is a belief that an essential part of each officer's professional equipment is a reading lamp and an easy chair.

"I do not mean that such furniture is important in itself," he explained. "Rather, these objects symbolize the inquiring mind and the habit of study which are indispensable attributes of every military leader."

"In my judgment" he continued, "these attributes are necessary because, for a military man, the process of education and intellectual growth must never end."

The chief of staff then pointed out that although from time to time a soldier will have access to the facilities of the Army school system, a significant part of his education must be acquired by personal study.

"There is no substitute for individual effort aided by book, lamp and chair," he declared.

Stating next that he would not offer advice as to an officer's choice of furniture for his study, Gen. Taylor said he was never-the-less ready to invite attention to some of the books which it is worth while to read.

"Such a selection," he wrote, "is found in the Contemporary Reading Program instituted by the Army."

Continuing his foreward to the AID issue, the chief of staff made it clear that this is no suggestion of official approval of the contents of these books, but that books in the Contemporary Reading Program do represent mature discussions of significant Army and world events, the serious attention of Army men and women.

"They should provide many thoughtful hours of prolonged enjoyment in an easy chair by study lamp," he concluded.

U.S. View of Far East

United States policy of nonrecognition of Communist China "proceeds from the conviction that such recognition would produce no tangible benefits to the U.S. or to the free world as a whole," the State Department has declared.

In reiterating U.S. policy regarding Red China, the State Department also pointed out that recognition would help the Chinese Communists extend domination throughout Asia.

The reaffirmation of U.S. policy came in a comprehensive memorandum sent to all U.S. diplomats abroad.

The memorandum said that the first need in the Far East is to deter Communist aggression "else the free nations will be in grave danger of succumbing to Communist pressures before they have gathered the strength with which to resist them."

The memorandum added that U.S. policy in Asia, as elsewhere, was aimed at promoting "the domestic welfare and strengthening the independence of free nations."

It further stated that such a policy can only be promoted "if the Communist threat is neutralized."

Events in the Far East, said the memo, confirm the U.S. view that "its interests and those of the free world are best served by withholding diplomatic recognition from Peiping." (AFPS)

Nationalists Say Reds May Use New Assault

TAIPEI — High-ranking U.S. military and defense officials here Nov. 9 for an on-the-spot assessment of the war situation in Formosa.

While the offshore island front was relatively quiet, Nationalist military spokesmen sounded a warning that Communist m. may be preparing some type of new assault on the island.

"They should provide many thoughtful hours of prolonged enjoyment in an easy chair by study lamp," he concluded.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (1st Lt.) RAUF E. HARRILL... The fighting was getting pretty rough — but we had to keep going. I ran up a little hill that was dead ahead. When I reached the top, I heard a sickening explosion that seemed to be right on top of me. I felt a burning sensation all over my face and chest. I knew immediately that I had been hit. Then I lost consciousness. I awoke in a hospital. The doctor had operated on my face and removed the pieces of steel from about my body. For the next five weeks I had a fear of removing the bandages and seeing my disfigurement. Then the doctor removed the bandages and told me I would have to have plastic surgery. I wanted to refuse. I hesitated and finally said "Yes."

These are the words of a very close friend who expects to try a period of recovery. He is an Army chaplain. He is an Army chaplain. He is an Army chaplain.

Boondocks Schedules Live Play Nov. 17-19

The mystery of just what and where "The Boondocks" has finally been solved. A crusty old character, somewhat resembling a poor-man's Daniel Boone who goes under the name of "The Boondocks" is featured in this production.

One of the outstanding attractions of this production will be the lovely and colorful costumes designed and executed by Stella Hankins, Sarah Hall and a group of ladies.

With "Third Herd" Herman will appear at Post November 13

Woody Herman, the perennial big band jazz favorite, and his "Third Herd" will appear at Fort Benning in two performances Nov. 13.

Herman's big band will play at the Main Post, and the Army's Adjutant General, Major General Robert M. Jones, will retire October 31, and will be succeeded by Major General Robert V. Lee, now the Deputy Adjutant General.

AL BELLETO TO Appear On Show

AL BELLETO, an equally good and as such is the job of Army Special Services. They accomplish this mission with their clubs, bars, shops, and entertainment.

Actors Polish For Opening Of New Play

With only a week remaining until opening performance of their production of "Side in Your Eye" the Fort Benning Majors are in the final stages of polishing their performance and pointing up the humor inherent in Jack Kirkland's play. COLUMBIA GEM... What lonely soldier wouldn't love Lucy Marlowe, brunette beauty "stemming" from Columbia Pictures.

On the Bookshelf

Feet of Honor by David Cooke. (Putnam, 1958). "Company D of the United States Cavalry was supposed to keep peace, but they faced hordes of Indians, many of them better armed than the soldiers. No wonder some of the soldiers hated all Indians, and could not understand why scout Cal Smith would save one of them."

Cocktail Time by Pelham Woodhouse. (Simon, 1958). "This novel centers around the figure of Frederick Altia-

most Cornwallis Trivedi, who is addicted to practical joking. The sight of a wing suit which operates with Bra-ill notes inspires him to aim at the dignified head of Sir Raymond Eastable, eminent barrister and would-be Member of Parliament. Sir Raymond, smarting under the blow and thinking the prank the work of callow youth, proceeds to lambaste the entire young generation."

Making the Most of Every Minute by Garner Dodson. (Putnam, 1958). "This book covers many aspects of moving. From the conditioning of the children, and the disposition of the old home, this goes on to ways and costs of moving, packing (even leading the car), the list of things to do in advance, traveling, finding a new house, and settling in, handling financial matters, making the right personal, psychological adjustments."

Witnesses Men by Howard O'Hagan. (Doubleday, 1958). "This is an account of ten men of the West—exiles—three Indians, seven white men, who met life, in the forest of the Pacific slopes, in the Rockies, on the northern prairies or in the wastes of the Arctic."

These stories deal with man's battle either with nature or with man. A Hero of Another Color

INVITED TO CONTEST
WASHINGTON (ANS) — Military personnel overseas have been invited to enter the Second Annual World-Wide Bridge Tournament, this fall, sponsored by the Department of State-USA Recreation Association.

According to a State Department announcement, interested personnel may obtain details from any United States Embassy or Consulate office and entry applications must be received by the Tournament Committee in Washington, D.C. by November 15.

"A Mito March mystery laid in New Orleans in which Mills, while checking on clients who had died hunting for pirate treasure, gets mixed up in a dope ring."

"Recent advances in solid propellant technology make it possible to design a missile smaller, lighter, even more mobile than rockets, and with a greater range," the Digest said. "It will provide the Army with a more versatile and flexible weapon, with which to discharge its role on the battlefield of the future."

Stereo Starts For Dancers At USO Club

The USO-NCOs Club, 100 Ninth Street, announced today the addition of hi-fi equipment to the weekly Wednesday and Saturday dance program.

The equipment is a high fidelity stereo system which will give dancers the sensation of dancing live music. By utilizing a normal recording into two channels, one for high frequency and one for low frequency, the original portion of the room as though the performers were live. For example, if one were standing in a room, any place in the room, facing a live orchestra, the sound would always originate from the left side of the room.

The Record Hop will be held Tuesday, Nov. 18, beginning at 8:30 p.m. with Chuck Jordan.

THE BAYONET 2nd Division News Fort Benning, Ga., November 13, 1958 Page 7

Commander Pays Tribute to Veterans

To all of the officers and men of the 2d Infantry Division, I would like to extend my greetings on this fortieth anniversary of the end of World War I. I am sure the significance attached to November 11 is uppermost in our minds while we pay homage to all of these who have served in our country honorably and faithfully. I feel particularly humble on this day and ask that you join me in a prayer for those who gave their lives for our benefit. We must maintain our readiness to defend the principles for which they gave their full measure of devotion. The 2d Infantry Division, Second to None, will carry on the heritage that is ours because of them.

Review Ends Basic Trng. For 600 EM

By 7th Inf. PIO
Review ceremonies Thursday afternoon climaxed eight long weeks of arduous training for 600 privates from Companies C, D and Mortar Battery of the 7th Infantry. At the inspection, the trainees were reviewed by Colonel William A. Purdy, Commanding Officer of the 7th Infantry. For the last time as they graduated from Basic Combat Training, Colonel Purdy was taking the reviewing stand by ten trainees who had distinguished themselves during their basic training.

Recruits John H. Byars from Company C, Philip S. English from Company D and Samuel J. Troutman Jr. from Mortar Battery were selected with a silver-Victory Trophy for receiving the high individual scores in the review.

Division Studies President Proclaims Education Week in U. S.

The President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, has designated the week of November 9-15, 1958, as American Education Week. In his official proclamation the president urged every citizen to participate actively in the observance of Education Week in their schools and throughout their communities. "Let us show the world and remind our children of our faith in the power of education by giving our intelligent and wholehearted support to every constructive measure designed to strengthen our schools and colleges around the land," the president urged.

Plans Underway For Christmas Holiday Project

A program designed to help the needy families over the coming Christmas holidays is currently in the planning stages. The program includes Christmas parties for dependent children throughout the major units of the division. According to Coordinator Captain Thomas J. Valentine, the program will be a joint effort by all units of Fort Benning and will be assisted by the Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers Wives Clubs.

Veterans and Trainees

All sons of the Indianhead Division were engaged in the great Meuse-Ardenne offensive, the battle that from the beginning turned the enemy's counter-attacks into routs and ended with the signing of the Armistice. Winning more decorations than any other American division, the Second Infantry Division participated in every major engagement involving American troops of that war. It captured one-fourth of prisoners taken by Americans, and suffered one-tenth of American casualties.

As they received the division's every successful campaign against the smugler of the United States, November 11, 1944 found Indianheads again interlocked in battle in the Rhineland, and six months later the Warriors lay down their arms in victory. The ten campaigns of the Korean War fell much the same story—courage and sacrifice. Today, the Second Infantry Division, under the command of Major General R. H. Wienecke, is engaged in the enormous task of training thousands of young men for service to their country. The 23 great Indianhead Warriors who earned the Congressional Medal of Honor bear mute testimony to the Second Infantry Division's glorious past. The thousands of lusty young men who graduate from today's basic training classes are the living class of the division's present, which still says they "Second to None."

Austrian Visits 12th Artillery Rocket Site

By 1st Lt. PJO.—The Commandant of the Austrian Artillery School, Lieutenant Colonel Reinhold Mosler, paid a visit to the 12th Infantry Division Artillery today and observed a simulated firing of an Honest John rocket by members of Battery "D", 12th Artillery Battalion.

Following a briefing at Battalion Headquarters by Lieutenant Colonel Allen H. Nottingham, Commanding Officer of the 12th Artillery Battalion, the visiting officer was escorted to an Honest John rocket firing position by Division Artillery Sgt. Major Donald E. Roof, Captain Richard Geo. Infantry School Project Officer, and Captain Clay W. Hix, Commanding Officer of Battery "D".

At the firing site, Colonel Mosler was met by Division Artillery Executive Officer, Colonel James E. Goodwin, while the party observed the actual setting up and loading of the rocket and the simulated firing by the battery.

Col. Turner Transfers From 69th

By 69th Armor PJO.—In an informal ceremony held in the battalion classroom, the officers and enlisted men of the Second Medium Tank Battalion of the 69th bid a farewell to Lieutenant Colonel Charles G. Turner, their commander for the previous 19 months.

Colonel Turner departed for both World War II and the Korean War. He joined the 69th Armor in February of 1958 and accompanied the battalion back to Fort Benning during its "Gyroscope" movement.

A veteran of over 23 years military service, Colonel Turner spent time overseas in Europe, the Pacific, and the Far East. His last duty assignment was with the 1st Cavalry Division, 25th Army European Command.

By 9th Inf. PJO.—Ten members of the Second Battle Group, 9th Infantry, Personnel Office last week completed a one week course in the new military pay voucher system which will soon be used. The classes were held in the Battalion Personnel Office.

Conducting the classes were Chief Warrant Officer Charles E. Sadler, the Personnel Officer, and Specialist Fifth Class Vladimir Furdek, the Personnel Sergeant Major. Main points stressed were accuracy in filling out the new vouchers and the effect it will have on the soldier's pay.

Two New Officers Welcomed; New H. S. Classes Scheduled

By 1st Lt. PJO.—There have recently been two new assignments to the First Infantry's Second Battle Group staff.

W. Billings is the newly assigned Battle Group Executive Officer, replacing Lieutenant Colonel Frank A. Merifield. Colonel Billings is the former Executive Officer of Second Division.

Major Eugene B. Cooy succeeds Lieutenant Colonel Adolph C. Foucault as the Battalion Group's S-3 Officer (training) Reno, Nevada, and is accompanied here by his wife and two daughters.

The men of the Battle Group will like to take this opportunity to welcome these new officers to the "Always First" First Infantry.

Cycle Break
During the break between training cycles, the officers and cadre of the Battle Group are making their recent training objectives to practical use on the rifle range. They are firing the annual qualification course with the M1 rifle.

The Battle Group personnel have rotated to the Company D Mess Hall, which was newly opened on November 3, after eating in a Company's Mess. There should be a lot of competition for the "Best Mess" award now.

A new Battle group barber shop opened in the Headquarters Building this week. It is on the second floor and is presently staffed by two barbers. Plans have been made for more shops to open in the area in the future.

Last week found the annual vehicle safety inspection team from the Provost Marshal's section in the Kelley Hill area. A rigid inspection of the vehicle is required for the issuance of the new windshield stickers.

Review

Troutman from Mortar Battery and also receiving an engraved gold desk clock was recruit Stephen E. Poole with a score of 228.

High Score
In Company C, the first place marksmanship award was given to recruit Jerry W. Kennon with a score of 228. He was awarded a handsome engraved gold desk clock for his accomplishment. In the second place slot from Company C was recruit John C. McGibney with a score of 218. McGibney was also presented a billfold.

Recruit Douglas H. Lattimer from Company D, received the first place award, an engraved gold desk clock, with a score of 225. In second place slot with a score of 221 was recruit Charles R. Heath. Heath was awarded a billfold for his efforts.

The cadre at this point leaved a sigh of relief at the sight of the graduating trainees. The 9th Infantry will not receive any more trainees until the packet training starts for the 8th some time in December. The cadre will now embark upon cadre training in preparation themselves for the coming packet training. Some will go on leaves and after all the hours that were put in to make these fine young soldiers, most of them consider this leave well earned.

Advanced Training Cycle Ends; Awards Presented to Top Men

Company A trainees have just completed their final week of Advanced Individual Training. Their last few days were climaxed by testing for the Expert Infantry Badge. This training marks the first completion of a full cycle of Advanced Training by the battle group unit. Private Frederick Rice, honored last month as outstanding Advanced Individual Trainee of the division, was awarded a cigarette lighter with the Battle Group crest on it for being the outstanding trainee of the Company. Trainees presented plaques for marksmanship performance during the training cycle were Private Robert Gouillard (first place in the automatic rifle); Private Donald Symonds, first place in the machine gun; Private David Poe, second place in the automatic rifle; and Private Stanley Christoph, second place in the machine gun. Newly assigned to the company is First Lieutenant James H. Windsor, a recent returnee from Korea.

Headquarters Company Lieutenant Colonel Carl C. Uisaker, has just completed a two-week course at the United States Army Infantry Center School in Chemical, Biological and Radiological Warfare. Recently promoted to Private First Class are Lonon Bell, Jewel Evans, and Maximilian Kroll. Headquarters Company of this battle group, Private Elias Van Der Woude has departed the company to be reassigned to Headquarters Company, Sergeant James Horn has just returned from temporary duty with the Second Infantry Division Non-Commissioned Officers Academy where he took a course in leadership. First Lieutenant Robert Wands, who was on temporary duty with the Basic Airborne Course, has been placed on further duty with the 44th Company Ranger Course. Master Sergeant Albert Perles was recently honored with a battle group review upon retiring from the Army after 28 years of active service. He will make his home in Trenton, New Jersey. Sergeant Harold Jenkins re-enlisted last week for a period of three years to fill his own vacancy.

Company C Trainees of Company C have completed their sixth week of Advanced Individual Training. Training included record firing of the Machine Gun and Mine Warfare. Second Lieutenant Edgar Death has joined the company from the Fort Benning School of Brigade. Sergeant Hans Jensen has left the company for duty in Korea. Sergeant Oscar Smith and Sergeant Charles Farrell have returned from temporary duty with the Second Division Non-Commissioned Officers Academy, where they attended leadership courses. Staff Sergeant Randall Cobbin, selected last month as outstanding Non-Commissioned Officer in the division, has been promoted to Sergeant First Class (E-7). Sergeant First Class Jose Albino has been placed on temporary duty with the Second Infantry Division Non-Commissioned Officers Academy located in the Kelley Hill area. Veterans Day Messages

On the Eleventh of November it is fitting that we of the United States Continental Army Command join with our fellow Americans in marking the fortieth anniversary of the day when the guns of World War I were silenced. As we honor all veterans who have preserved our nation's liberty in battle, we rededicate ourselves to accomplishing our primary mission: Combat Readiness.

Providing the American soldier with the training and tools for victory in ground operations is an essential contribution to our Armed Forces' power for peace. We rededicate ourselves to will help safeguard the fruits of the veterans' sacrifice.

As we honor them, let us be sure we are ready and trained to follow in the high battle tradition they have set for us; if the need should ever arise again.

BRUCE C. CLARKE
General USA
Commanding

Tuesday, November 11, 1958, will again mark the observance by Americans everywhere, both at home and abroad, of National Veterans Day in tribute to the service given by the veterans of all our wars in the fight for freedom and the American way of life.

Veterans Day in 1958 marks the 40th anniversary of the original Armistice Day, which was set aside to honor the veterans of World War I. In keeping with the occasion, the year's observances will include a special salute to these gallant fighters of the first of our global struggles.

We of the Military Service, in trying to carry on the splendid traditions established by them and other American patriots from the days of Lexington and Concord to the present, face a stern challenge. But through our determination that the work and sacrifices of those who have gone before us shall not prove to have been in vain, we shall, in cooperation with all Americans everywhere, succeed in carrying on the mission that has been passed on to us by those who now hold an immortal place in history.

On this important day I ask all of you to join me in pledging our firm intent to seek the strength to keep America secure and to preserve for future generations the heritage that America's veterans have done so much to build.

CLARK L. RUFFNER
Lieutenant General, USA
Commanding 1

Colonel Billings Leaves

A Division Train officer traded his single silver hair for two black ones when Colonel Elton L. Mansfield was promoted to his new rank on October 1. Mansfield was replaced by Major General William M. Gary. Gary is also a graduate of the Army War College in 1923. He is also a graduate of the Army War College Officers Course, the Heavy Mortar Course and the Advanced Infantry Officers Course. He also attended the basic GIC class at Fort Holston, Maryland.

Lieutenant Colonel Harold W. Billings, Train Executive Officer, has accepted a new assignment as Executive Officer of the 2nd Battle Group, First Infantry. In the short time he has been with Train, Colonel Billings has made many friends and done a fine job. Trains would like to wish Colonel Billings the best of luck in his new assignment. He will be missed by every man of the unit.

Division Trains cagers broke even in the battle of the hard wood last week by defeating the 2nd group First Infantry 50-24 and going under the net of the Battalion, 60th Armored by a score of 45-1. The two games played by Harmony Church.

In the Train-Infantry meet, Trains took an early lead showing a 20-0 score with a half time reading of 16-10. Dahl Robinson of Trains were high scorers for the evening with 13 points each.

Second Engineer News

Second Engineers Take First in Field Meet

By Second Engineer FIO
In a field meet that was held on the Second Infantry Division Organization Day, Alpha Company Second Engineers Battalion came out in first place with 34 points out of a possible 35 points. The field meet consisted of four events: a game played at Gowd Field, Early in the first quarter connected with a 45 yard pass to Ed Keller for a TD. The second run for pay did not come in the second quarter when left linebacker Beatty intercepted a 20th yard pass and 20 yards for the pay off. Both tries for PAT were unsuccessful.

Continuing their winning streak, Trains defeated the 69th Armored 8-6. After a scoreless first half, Weeks of Division Train, scored the second half opening kickoff 80 yards for the Touchdown. Stewart's pass to Raich for the conversion was a good and Trains led 8-0. Trains then kicked off to the 69th Armored and on series of plays the 69th moved the ball back to the Train 25th yardline. Then quarterback Lee, 69th Armored, faked back to pass, could find no receiver, reversed his field, and ran on to the end zone for a 69th Touchdown. The try for conversion failed and the game ended 8-6.

Donations Reach 3,009 Pints In Blood Drive

A total of 3,009 pints of blood was donated by the 11th and First Infantry units this week during the second bloodmobile visit to the Kelly Hill area. The mobile unit of the Red Cross has taken a total of 3,009 pints of blood from the 2nd Infantry Division since July 1958. It was first introduced to the division in their campaign for blood donations.

According to Division G-1, the unit is scheduled for a final visit to the Sand Hill area during December. It is expected that the final visit will be one of the more successful visits and donations will be far over the quota set earlier this year.

Mr. Eddelmann possesses a vast technical knowledge on Ordnance Preventive Maintenance which he imparted to members of this command on November 1 in a class he conducted at the 15th Transportation Battalion Motor Pool. Over 50 NCO's and three officers from Companies A and B of the 15th Transportation were present.

Supporting the Second Infantry Division policy of increasing the amount of money donated to the United Givers Fund, Companies A and B of the 702d Ordnance Battalion carried on the drive with enthusiasm. Master Sergeant Lester of Company B was top man of the Battalion who gave to First Sergeant Sol C. Simpson, United Givers Fund NCO for Company B, a contribution of 15 dollars as his fair share for the worthiness of the organization.

Top contribution for Company A was Sergeant Alfred H. Freinham, who gave 10 dollars as his share to the United Givers Fund. The Battalions Fund Drive was a complete success for the month of October, with 100 percent participation.

23rd Infantry News - Twelve-Year Vet Named To BG Personnel Section

By 23rd Inf. PIO
Company B is firing the Artillery Rifle this week; their third week of the second cycle. Sergeant Charles Hatfield, recently released from the company from Bamberg, Germany, Private Jack Overholser, a hold-over in Personnel Affairs, Sergeant Quintana left the company this week to rejoin his unit in Bamberg. The retention of new Private-holders from the last cycle has been broken up by transfers. Private Robert Boone, Michael Montegary, Freddie Nichols, and Gordon Roll, departed this week for "rough" duty in Hawaii. The remainder of the group was transferred to Headquarters and Headquarters Company within 48 hours.

Sergeant Quintana is married, and the father of four children, ages 5, 7, 7 and 4 years. 2D Cycle AIT Company B and Mortar Battery began their 23rd cycle of Advanced Individual Training recently with a two-hour orientation by the Battle Group Commander and his staff. The hand to welcome the trainees to their AIT units was Brigadier General Chester A. Smith, Assistant Division Commander. Captain William W. Wagner, Officer-in-Charge and Colonel Bradish J. Smith, Commanding Officer, 23rd Infantry introduced Brigadier General Dahlin who greeted the trainees on behalf of the Commanding General and the Second Infantry Division. General Dahlin said, "Your eight weeks with the Second Infantry Division and its 23d Infantry will be trying but extremely rewarding in your future Army career. If you put forth your best personal effort, you will become the Army's best soldiers."

Colonel Smith welcomed the trainees to the Battle Group and briefed them on what they could expect. He then turned the orientation over to his staff. Major Frank M. Reig, S-1, briefed the men on the functions of his office and agencies. The trainees might work through such as the Red Cross, AER and the other Judge Advocate General. He was followed by the Battle Group Medical Officer, Captain Berrios, who told them of the Army's medical care and Martin Army Hospital.

The Sergeant Major, Master Sergeant Knowell, gave the history of the 23d Infantry. He mentioned the fact that the 23d has in WWII and Korea had its share of heroes, a total of eight Congressional Medal of Honor winners and 62 winners of the Distinguished Service Cross. Major Harry H. Shildt, Jr., S-3, explained through the type of training they would receive and pointed out the weapons on display which were the Rocket Launcher, Recoilless Rifle, 81mm Mortar, Flame Thrower, Automatic Rifle and Light Machine-gun.

An Infantryman's Infantryman Battle Hero Receives Advance to E-8 Rank

M - Sgt. George Ferguson, first sergeant of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning, has been promoted to E-8.

The smiling Texan, a veteran of 19 years of Army service, has a chestful of medals won during World War II service in both Pacific and European theaters and a boxful of winner's trophies earned in American and European skeet shoots.

His war decorations include the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, the Bronze Star with cluster, the Purple Heart and the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

His marksmanship awards include the German international skeet championship for two consecutive years, the Pacific coast service championship and the 4th US Army Class AA title in 1956. He has two legs toward his Distinction Pistol Badge.

M-Sgt. Ferguson has been a pistol shooter with the USA AMU unit this summer when he was advanced to the first sergeant slot.

While in Munich, Germany, M-Sgt. Ferguson was custodian of the Bavarian Rod and Gun Club store, which did a $70,000 a year business. His love for competitive firing led him to spearhead the formation of a seven-team Munich pistol league.

A qualified paratrooper and recognized expert in hand-to-hand combat, M-Sgt. Ferguson has an outstanding war record. During his European service in World War II, he was

Charlie Quinn Slow Start Reported For Benning Hunters

Nearly 600 hunters have taken to the woods since the opening of the Benning deer season and reports are, at this writing that only ten bucks have been taken.

What little rain we've had since opening day hasn't helped the hunting much. The long dry spell experienced before the season opened was enough to make the deer change their drinking habits. Where once they had any number of brooks, springs and water holes available in their own areas, they have recently had to change to covers where they could get to water. This change has crossed up those of us who'd spent time getting zeroed in on deer runs and trails. Also, the cover is still as thick as it was back in May. Two or three sharp frosts should help hunting visibility in the next week, or so.

According to our Range Guard Section, a pretty little doe was found in the woods which I'd like to believe was accidentally shot by some hunter who was afraid to report it. The venison was completely spoiled. Doe is NOT legal game but, if one is accidentally shot, the fact should be reported immediately. So should all bucks, which manage to elude its hunters after being shot. Every effort should be made to get such an animal for very obvious reasons.

Ducks, geese and coot are now legal on the Reservation but don't forget that you have to have a Duck Stamp in your possession before drawing down on any of these birds. Almost every pond on post has the smly quantity of black ducks so, after procuring your Duck Stamp, you should put a couple of No. 4 shells in your pocket when you go deer hunting next week-end. They may be the means by which you'll be able to beat having to eat C-Rations two weeks in a row. It may be that ducks will start to come down the Chatahoochee as the weather gets colder up North, but retrieving a downed bird in those waters is just about next to impossible — so I, for one, would rather not try for them on the River.

Come Nov. 20, a week from next Thursday, things will really begin to look up! On that day, Turkey, Quail, Rabbit, together with Deer, Squirrel, Raccoon, Duck, Geese, and Coot will all be legal. In fact, about the only game which won't be legal starting the 20th will be Dove — and those ammo-eating rascals will be fair targets again on the 29th.

From the 20th of November through December, the pockets of a Benning hunter should contain at least three different sizes of shot-rifled slugs or 00-buck for deer, No. 4 for duck and turkey and No. 8 for about everything else. Of course, there are many turkey hunters who say that No. 2 shot isn't too heavy for gobblers and even lean toward double-augh-buck for the heavily feathered birds. At any rate, the trick will be to have the right shell in the chamber at the right time.

One squirrel hunter bagged a 12-pound Tom last year with a load of No. 8's. He was sitting in a stand of oaks waiting for the bushy-tails to move when he saw this gobbler apparently sneaking away from other hunters. He waited the bird out until it slipped into a position less than 20 feet where he had no trouble in putting it in the bag.

Again, I know of a certain old boy who had put in a lot of time trying to get his deer and giving up in disgust, loaded for quail and began to track down a covey when — you guessed it — a fat, young buck jumped up from under a little pine tree, stood looking at our boy from a range of less than 25 yards and then took off like a chow hound at mess call.

While we're on the business of game which is available on post, let's not overlook the cottontail. For my money, br'r rabbit offers the most enjoyable hunting on post. He is present in quantities to satisfy the most demanding shooter and even I have no trouble bagging one or two. We've used beagles to track him down but, this is the truth, more than once we've put the dogs back in the car and kicked rabbits out of the grass ourselves, they were the only ones that we didn't even have to bother with the pups.

By the way, if and when you bag your buck, I'd appreciate a call from you on how, when, where, how much he weighed, how many points, and so on. I know it would make interesting reading for the column.

Despite a wet, slippery field, the Dragons took to the air for both of their touchdowns. The first came early in the game when the 14th recovered a fumble. Four plays later, Russell Motley connected on a pass to left end Harry Ward to draw first blood.

The second touchdown by the 14th came shortly after the Dragons intercepted a 54th pass. Taking to the air again, Motley threw to Billy Curtis to make the score 12-0. The Medics were able to control the ball for a good portion of the game, but could not penetrate the tough Dragon defense. The Dragon defensive unit has held opponents scoreless in five successive contests. The only team to score thus far on the 14th is LAAC. The Dragons defeated LAAC in the league opener 22-13.

HOOD DINNER-DANCE Officers and wives of the Infantry School's Ranger Department were entertained at a formal dinner-dance Nov. 1 at Fort Benning's Main Officers' Open Mess.

Platoon Committee sponsored the affair under the direction of Lt. Col. Daniel W. Presswitt and Lt. Col. Ross P. Frasher. Table decorations, menu and a seating arrangement were made by a committee consisting of Capt. John R. Hardy, Capt. Richard C. Ness, Lt. Joseph F. Milliron and Lt. Norman A. Moffett. The decorations were done in a fall theme, with centerpieces of yellow and white chrysanthemums and white gladioli.

The officers and their wives were received in the Corridor by Major George C. and Mrs. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Stanley L. Larson, Col. and Mrs. John T. Corley, Col. and Mrs. James L. Osgard, and Lt. and Mrs. Lewis H. Williams.

Plagues were presented to the following officers: Capt. George T. Johnson, Lt. George E. Kelly and Lt. Thomas B. Nesbit.

PLAUSON'S GIVES MEET The Lawson Company Ladies Group at Fort Benning held luncheon Nov. 11 in the ballroom of the Main Officers' Open Mess.

Hostesses for the affair were the wives of the unitaries, assisted by Mrs. Anne Julie Ann. A large bronze cornucopia spilled brightly colored fruits, vegetables and nuts around the table. Smaller cornucopias filled with var-colored chrysanthemums decorated the side tables.

School Brigade Highlights Big Jump Scheduled For Navy Students

Fourth Student Battalions R. and S. Company—Three officers and 12 enlisted men of the United States Navy, members of the Underwater Demolition Team, Norfolk, Va., have been attached to H and S. Company to participate in airborne training in Class No. 15. They will be attached to this unit for approximately four weeks and upon completion of the course will return to their base at Norfolk, Va.

Capt. Jack P. Graham has recently been assigned to the Military Advisory Group in Iran where he will be working with a field team.

Headquarters—The 43rd Company has reached 151 percent of their fair share of the Community Chest Drive.

40th Company—Pic's Eugene A. Atkins, Harold J. Miller, Robert H. Ringhand, and Dewayne C. Gifford are playing basketball for the Fourth Battalion. The battalion team has only played one game and was thrown out of the game by Company C, ISD, by the score of 27-9. Pic Atkins was the high scorer for the Fourth Battalion as he scored 10 points for the losers.

43rd Company—Capt. Rich and V. Johnston assumed the position of commanding officer of 43rd Company on Nov. 10. He is replacing Capt. R. H. Loney who is now Director of the Operations and Training Branch of the U.S. Army Infantry Human Research Unit. Another position change is 1st Lt. Charles D. B. who is now executive officer.

44th Company—Sgt. John T. Holliday is now the proud papa of a new baby girl.

Second Student Battalion 20th Company—Bivona occupied the minds of 20th Company students the past week. During the week emphasis was placed on various aspects of patrolling. Day and night, reconnaissance and combat patrols were practiced during the week.

Ending the week for IOIC No. 6 is a 26-hour combat problem. According to representatives of the Ranger Department, this problem comes closer to simulating actual combat than any problem the Infantry has to offer. After taking the objective, a defense was set up and the company did patrolling and maintained a 50 per cent alert during the night. The problem ended Saturday morning with a successful attack on another objective several miles away.

Next week class will again be in bivouac. Advanced patrolling problems will be facing the class as it begins work Monday morning.

22nd Company—Infantry Officer Leader Course No. 7 sponsored the protestant service on Oct. 26, at The School Brigade Chapel. Lt. Jannal Bledy, student coordinator for the service, was soloist, singing "Great is Thy Faithfulness." Lieutenant Bob Tiff and Frank Mordan were the standard bearers, Lieutenants

EMERGENCY . . . Going down a steep hill you step on the brakes, they don't work at all. The car goes faster and faster.

Series Starts On Driving

All drivers, good, bad, and terrible must face emergency road situations if they expect to survive in today's modern traffic. Of course, most emergencies can be avoided by defensive driving, adjusting speed to conditions of the road, weather, traffic, and even the physical condition of the driver.
 Some emergencies are forced upon us by the irresponsible action of other drivers. In any case, the results are the same if you do not know the correct response to the situation.
 For example, the other driver runs a stop signal in front of you, your brakes fail, a tire blows out, forced off the road

WHAT TO DO . . . Pump the brake pedal up and down fast. Pull on the emergency brake all the way. Shift into low gear or low drive if you can. Steer over to the side of the road to avoid other traffic.

Officials Ask Information About Indians

Infantry Museum officials at Fort Benning are seeking information that would help them form a concept of what an Indian village that once thrived on the reservation was like 1,100 years ago.

There is a possibility that personnel who have been stationed at the post "since way back when," can give valuable information that will help the museum put together the envisioned reconstruction of a town that was once occupied by the late Swift Creek Indian culture back in 800 A.D.

Museum officials are trying to locate anyone who may remember what happened to the dirt which was scraped away when grading operations and pipe laying was done in the vicinity of the Army Engineer Section between 1930 and 1933.

Sgt. David W. Chase, curator of the Infantry Museum, feels there might be someone around who remembers the operation if the soil can be located chances are that it contains many ancient relics and hints as to what the culture was like.

First discovery of evidence of the Indian culture was made last October when quartermaster personnel observed shell Indian pottery being thrown out of a pipe ditch in the Quartermaster Warehouse area.

Trace Relics Local archaeologists surveyed the discovery and traced the relics to the late Swift Creek Indians.

The relics gave some indication as to the hunting habits, dietary patterns, utility household items and methods of preparing food.

So far five refuse pits have been explored. However, Sgt. Chase thinks that landscaping operations, pipe laying and concrete work was being done at Fort Benning have complicated an enviable safety record of 2,344 days without a time-loss injury.

THE TALL AND SHORT . . . St. Edward W. Clough, right, believed to be the tallest military man at Fort Benning, stands inspection by 1st Lt. Giles R. Thomas. Sgt. Clough stands 6 feet, 10-inches, and Lt. Thomas stands five feet, five inches. The sergeant is taking airborne training, while Lt. Thomas is platoon leader in-charge of ground training for basic airborne trainees in the Airborne-Air Mobility Department.

No Injury in 2,344 Days Safety Record Set By Ordnance Shop

Personnel of the Ordnance General Purpose Vehicle Shop at Fort Benning have compiled an enviable safety record of 2,344 days without a time-loss injury.

This amounts to more than 1,250,000 man-hours for the 65 workers in the shop. The last time the shop had a time-loss injury was in June, 1952.

The best previous span of accident-free work was 532 days. The duties of the men include mechanical jobs, metal work, painting, machinist work and other allied trades all of which require complex machinery which could be dangerous when improperly handled or supervised, officials stated.

Operating the vehicle shop are Col. John M. Wiestenburg, ordnance officer of the U. S. Army Infantry Center; James F. Martin, superintendent, and Thomas W. Bass, maintenance officer.

Drive Stepped Up To Cut Accidents

Safety officials at Fort Benning predict that there will be four fatalities and 30 disabling injuries in accidents involving vehicles during the holidays starting Thanksgiving and ending New Year's weekend.

The Infantry Center Safety Office has started an all-out drive in an effort to reduce the expected number of accidents. The program includes up-to-date weather and road conditions, safety precaution briefings and reminders to military personnel of their obligation to be especially careful during the holiday period.

Reduces Toll Previous efforts of the Safety Office resulted in a drop in the accident and injury rate in the last few years.

During the 17-day Christmas holiday period last year (Dec. 20-Jan. 7) there were only eight injuries (one fatality) incurred in the operation of private vehicles, less than any other holiday period in recent years.

Could Be Safest If motorists heed the warnings of safety officials, 1954 could prove to be the safest year for drivers in many years.

So far this year there have been six military personnel killed in auto accidents. Last year at this time, there had been 14 deaths.

This shows a marked improvement of better than 100 per cent even though 1957 was way below the average of previous years when fatalities during the year went as high as 25.

It is the aim of the Safety Office to keep improving this record, but as officials put it, "It will require some hard work on the part of each person."

Care Most Dangerous They added that military personnel driving private vehicles cause the biggest headache for safety officials. Last year the total cost for all types of accidents and injuries to Fort Benning personnel was $19,000.

Approximately 25 per cent of the total was compiled in private vehicle accidents. The 214 reported injuries in these private vehicle accidents were 20 per cent of the total. The types of injuries to Fort Benning personnel.

To Maintain Strength Russell Pledges Fight for Army

Over 600 members of the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army received the assurance of Georgia Sen. Richard B. Russell that he would continue his fight to maintain Army strength at not less than one million men.

The statement by the chairman of the Senate's Armed Forces Committee came during an address at the chapter's second annual dinner meeting at Fort Benning's Briant Wells Field House Nov. 12.

Sen. Russell, who was accorded military honors upon his arrival at the Infantry Center, spoke of his views in regard to the several attempts in the recent past to reduce the strength of the military forces and particularly that of the Army.

Fleeced Fight "I personally fight against such attempts," the senator told his listeners, "based upon a leaning toward the use of massive retaliation in the event of national emergency," a leaning which has caused a reduction of 80,000 in Army strength since 1953.

If the American people were genuinely concerned with economy in less important fields, they would then certainly support the spending required to establish the position which tomorrow's Infantryman might occupy and the organization, tactics, techniques and material which he will need.

These studies will be based upon the basic battle concept that man is the only force that remains relatively constant in war.

Chief among subjects selected for consideration will be the Infantryman himself. His qualifications and selection, his training at basic, unit and service school levels and his individual battle needs will be a major topic of discussion.

Conference study will be done by a series of committees being formed and will cover an agenda designed for conference deliberation on the U. S. Infantry of 1959 through 1963, 1964 through 1966 and 1969 and beyond.

Meet to Eye Infantry Role

The future role of the Infantry in the nation's national defense will be the theme of the world-wide Infantry Conference scheduled at Fort Benning Dec. 2-6.

At the conference, the first of its kind to be held since 1946 over 200 of the Army's most distinguished leaders of both the present and the past will spend a week of intensive study to establish the position which tomorrow's Infantryman might occupy and the organization, tactics, techniques and material which he will need.

To Serve 12 Tons Thanksgiving Turkey Post Dinner Planned Since July

Sacks of red cranberries, lean against fat pumpkins on the kitchen table, repeated plump turkeys resting in freezer trays in anticipation of this year's Thanksgiving Dinner but even this farsightedness has been outstripped by Fort Benning planners who are ready to serve 12 tons of turkey for issue to 108 post dining halls.

Record Concert Set For Thanksgiving

A special Thanksgiving record concert will be held at the Main Library on Thursday, Nov. 27, at 1 p.m.

The program will feature a collection of religious music entitled, "God Is With Us," and "Great Protestant Hymns" played by organist Vidal Fox.

"Dining hall staffs all over the post are working overtime in getting their halls decorated for the big day," Sgt. Landor reported, "and believe it or not, although we've tried to predict and supply every pos-least success with the Jupiter missiles. In speaking of the current missile program, Sen. Russell indicated the immediate need for such advances but brought cheers from his audience when he said that "the Army ability to airlift a single combat division in the case of emergency is of greater value right now, than any shot at the moon."

In his address, the chapter's guest speaker noted the excellent community relations enjoyed by Fort Benning and its neighboring communities, Columbus and Phenix City, a factor manifested in the local chapter of AUSA which holds a position of precedence in the national organization.

At the close of his address, Sen. Russell was presented a memento of the occasion, a sterling silver, by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Jr., commander of the Infantry Center.

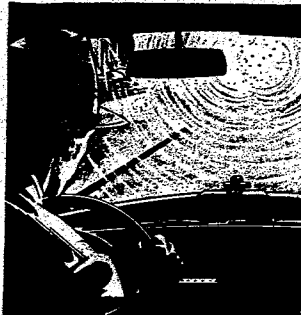

The meeting was conducted by James W. Woodruff, Jr., Columbus, chapter president, who reported upon chapter activities at the annual meeting of the national organization in Washington, D.C., last month. Entertainment was provided by The Infantry Center Chorus under the direction of Pit Irving Corvert. The chorus rendered a program of medleys from "Oklahoma" and other musicals.

Third Army Marks 40th Anniversary

PORT McPHERSON, Ga. — The famous Third Army which helped occupy Europe after World War I and helped claim Europe from the Germans after World War II, celebrated its 40th birthday Nov. 15.

Third Army now covers Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and a part of Kentucky. It contains more troops than any other U.S. Army area.

Third Army Headquarters is located at Ft. McPherson, under the command of Lt. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner. Activated in 1918, the Army was first activated on Nov. 15, 1918, at Light House Point, France, under Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Dickman.

In July of 1919 Third Army reverted to inactive status, and remained inactive until Aug. 9, 1922 when it became a part of the United States' National Defense Plan.

Third Army engaged in training activities from 1932 until it was shipped into shape for use in the European Theater in World War II. Early in 1944 it moved to the European Theater and was met by its new commander, the then Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

See Combat
In August of 1944 Third Army saw combat for the first time. It clashed head-on with the Nazi forces at Aachen, under Gen. A. J. S. Patton, and Gen. A. through the enemy line at St. R. Bolling, and Lt. Gen. Thom- le, and began its legendary as F. Hickey.

push across Eastern Europe. For 281 days Third Army continued its famous drive. Led by Gen. Patton's armored columns, it swept the entire British Peninsula, opened the Seine, liberated Metz, fought in the Battle of the Bulge, broke up the Moselle-Saar Triangle, roared across the Rhine, seized Frankfurt, and on V-E Day held possession of Czechoslovakia and Austria.

The remarkable speed of Third Army in all these engagements is best kept in mind ahead of its operational maps. Third Army forces took more than 1,200,000 German prisoners, 81,000 square miles of enemy territory, and 12,000 enemy-held towns and cities.

Honored Unit
Third Army men won a total of 19 Congressional Medals of Honor, 291 Distinguished Service Crosses, and 4,990 Silver Stars. But they suffered a total of 100,000 casualties.

Forty Army divisions, and one foreign division, were assigned to Third Army at different stages of the war. After V-E Day, nearly 30 years from the time it was first activated, Third Army was again assigned to occupational duty in Germany. It served in that capacity under Generals Patton, Truscott, Keyes and Harmon.

In February of 1957 Third Army returned to Atlanta, Ga., under Lt. Gen. O. W. Griswold. It became operational at Fort Meade, Md., and has been commanded there by Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem Jr., Lt. Gen. John H. Hodge, and Gen. A. through the enemy line at St. R. Bolling, and Lt. Gen. Thom- le, and began its legendary as F. Hickey.

Gen. Ruffner assumed command from General Hickey last May 1. His Chief of Staff is Brig. Gen. R. J. Werter, the Deputy Commanding General, who also serves as Commander of the U.S. Army Reserve Command, Lt. Maj. Gen. Crump Garvin.

Third Army includes: Fort Benning — Known as the most complete Army post in the nation, containing the Infantry School, an Infantry Officers Candidate School, and the Second Infantry Division. Fort Bragg, N.C. — Home of the XVIII Airborne Corps, the 82d Airborne Division, the 1st Logistical Command, and the U.S. Army Special Warfare Center.

Fort Campbell, Ky. — Houses the 103d Airborne Division. Fort Gordon, Ga. — Contains the Southeastern Signal School, developed.

the Provost Marshal General Training Center, and a Military Police School. Fort Jackson, S.C. — A major site for combat training, including one of the Army's largest combat Infantry basic training centers. Fort McClellan, Ala. — Home of the Women's Army Corps Center and the Chemical Training Command. Fort Rucker, Ala. — Home of the Third Army Aviation Center. Fort Stewart, Ga. — Houses the Third Army Antiaircraft Artillery and Tank Training Centers. Third Army also contains many smaller installations, including Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., where the Army's major ballistic missile — such as the satellite launching Jupiter C have been developed.

Pat From Air Force

DALLAS, Tex. (ANS) — When he spoke before the Air Force Association annual convention here, Secretary of Defense Charles H. Douglas described the new Nike Hercules of the Army as "the most effective surface-to-air missile in operational units today."

Added significance to this Air Force evaluation of the country's only fully operational air defense missile was provided news more recently at the first public showing of the Douglas Aircraft Company's plant at Charlotte, N.C.

Douglas (designer and builder of many of the Air Force's most effective aircraft), together with Western Electric and the Bell Telephone Laboratories, for the team which has been working on the Nike family of missiles so long that they now claim a "second generation of engineers, scientists and technicians."

The added significance centered around the Hercules' new-found ability to engage ground as well as airborne targets. In speaking of this dual ability, Major Gen. John B. Medaris, CG of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, recalled the surprise element of certain WWI weapons that were supposedly effective only in anti-aircraft roles.

(The famous German 88, the general pointed out, became one of the most feared artillery pieces used against tanks and ground positions when Hitler's troops suddenly lowered its trajectory and blasted away at ground positions.) General Medaris also stated that the awesome Hercules, which can employ either conventional or atomic warheads, has already been tested in a ground-to-ground role and has successfully fired with great accuracy.

This revelation caused the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal to comment editorially in its Nov. 1 issue that Hercules' versatility "is a natural development of the traditional Army tradition along weapons lines. Any weapon that can be put to use in more ways than one has added value."

The authoritative Journal then stated: "The Nike Hercules is an excellent example of the progressive development of Army weapons. The Hercules is, of course, a direct outgrowth of the formidable Nike Ajax, many hundreds of which are still guarding strategic centers."

Most Important Asset

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor has again emphasized that in this era of continuing world tensions confronting our Nation, the Army regards the individuals who compose it as its most important and valuable asset with which to meet the challenge of the future.

Writing on "Meeting the Challenge" (which recently appeared in a pamphlet prepared by the Missile and Space Vehicle Department of the General Electric Company's Defense Electronics Division) especially for distribution to certain members of AUSA) the Army's Chief of Staff stated it is a basic Army belief that man himself remains the fundamental and ultimately decisive instrument of war.

"This fact is particularly true as the new weapons and materiel from our expanding technology, together with the conditions of the modern battlefield, impose greater demands on the soldier than ever before," the general said.

The manner in which the members of the Army world-wide are satisfying these demands should be a source of enduring pride to all Americans, Gen. Taylor declared.

"As future weapons are evolved to strengthen further our national security, the Army will continue to offer the ranks an excellent opportunity for men of leadership and technical skills.

"With men of this character supported by the modern instruments of battle, the Army stands ready to play its part in keeping the peace through the deterrence of war."

Ticklers

"Here's your allowance, and the next time I borrow a couple of bucks, I don't want you to tattle to your mother."

International Roundup

Army Coup Upsets Sudan Government

CAIRO, Egypt — Sudan's Western Government fell Nov. 17 under a coup led by officers of varying political beliefs. The sprawling East African nation seemed quiet. The coup apparently bloodless, may have been set off over internal matters rather than foreign affairs.

Reports from Khartoum, the capital, indicated a triumvirate of army officers was in charge. Gen. Ibrahim Abboud, 58-year-old commander in chief, ousted Premier Abdullah Khalil, his World War II comrade who had been in power since 1954. But he warned Jordan would deal with the situation in a different way should there be any further trouble. He did not elaborate.

ISRAELI FARMS STUDIED JERUSALEM — The advance party of a Burmese military mission has arrived to study Israeli farm settlements. Members of the mission will work in collective and cooperative settlements for a year.

COMMUNIST SLATE EJECTED

BUDAPEST — Just two weeks after the bloody uprising against Soviet domination, six million Hungarians elected a Communist Parliament Sunday in an atmosphere of indifference. Westerners got the impression that they had discovered many officials of the satellite regime, were just going through the motions. The ballots carried only the names of candidates selected by the Communist Party's Party Front. About 10 percent of the vote went to the Communist slate.

ALGERIA — A French company drilling for oil in the Sahara Desert reports it has struck a rich oil zone. The Edjele oil field, one of the two biggest fields discovered so far in the North African territory.

TAIPEI, Formosa — American officials said they may make unofficial stops in France and Switzerland.

AMERICAN POSTER FREED — CAMPOBASSO, Italy — An elderly American citizen, kidnapped a week ago, walked to freedom Sunday. He had been held in a remote cave after being seized while visiting his Sicilian birthplace. The captors of Alberto Castello, 72, apparently decided to free him after he expressed hope of collecting ransom. But the retired Brooklyn broker said he was still wary.

"I'm not going anywhere without the carabinieri," he told reporters.

Italian police agreed to give him protection until he leaves his home. His release is a condition before a transfer is valid. Commissioned officers are authorized by law to act as notaries. This is not universally true, however. It is the best practice in Italy, and the best practice for military papers whenever one is available to a notary public now live at Camp Lejeune, N.C. The SJA land, N.Y. were on a three-month visit to Sicily.

By George

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (MAJOR) FRANCIS KLANA, CGC. Obedience is not an easy thing. It is not even easy to admit that we have an obligation to obey. For all our dependence on God and people and many things, we are still gloriously and frighteningly independent.

We can, if we desire, defy the world, defy God himself, and in the thrill of defiance snap our fingers at the consequences of our disobedience.

One of the earliest things that a child consciously learns is just this sense of independence. Similarly, one of the first things a child realizes is that he is not obedient to his father or "you must not do that."

We find it hard to admit our obligation to obey that we often flatter ourselves that we would do so many more good things, "if we were not busy" and we excuse much wrongdoing on the plea that we are fed up with taking

There may be some truth in this. The wise parent will not give too many orders. The wise parent will try to justify to his child the obligation to obey. For all that, the obedience of children can never be complete. Children must learn to obey, but they must learn to obey even when the reasons for the command cannot be made clear to them.

The Judge Says . . .

Almost every soldier has signed some type of paper in the presence of a notary public. Why is this necessary?

The main purpose of a notary signature is to identify a person as a witness to deeds and certain contracts which are to be filed for legal record. In advertising a signature, the notary simply acts as a witness. He calls upon the paper after the signing of the document he signs are true and correct to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Common examples of documents which are sworn to before a notary are affidavits, applications for licenses of various sorts and transfers of automobile title or registration. A false swearing before a notary is a violation of the law.

Notaries are appointed by each state to act within the state or its political subdivisions. They are sworn to act as a notary in a different state. The signing of a document in a different state is not authorized to act. Thus, a New York resident cannot act as a notary in Switzerland.

NATO And The Future of Europe by Ben Moore. (Harper, 1958, 250 pages, $4.95). This is a study of NATO. It is concerned with the revolution in military technology, particularly the rule of nuclear weapons in strategy, and the changing functions of national organizations which now link together the countries of Western Europe. These are primarily economic institutions but, like NATO, they are the product of a dual revolution in science and politics.

Battle-Ax Of God by Davenport Dunbar. (Dutton, 1958, 250 pages, $4.95). This is a story of how young Jim Tucker grew to be a man during the months he spent in the hills of East Texas with Sugar, the only armed hunter, and falling in love with a young woman who understood Mexican.

The Postage Escape by Ann Bridger. (Macmillan, 1958, 250 pages, $4.95). Julia Probyn, British reporter, arrives in Istanbul now in Turkey and becomes involved in the escape of a Hungarian priest, his Communist contacts recently released from behind the Iron Curtain.

Short pieces about life in Israel, as observed by a Jewish newspaper editor who seasons his writing with humor, common sense, and precise anecdotes.

BAND STANDS ready to make the first Christmas at Benning a cavalcade of musical memories... appearances at Service Clubs, hospital, and at least five TV presentations, which include "Christmas in Other Lands" are in the works. Private Roger W. Eber, trumpet player who appeared for two seasons with the Rochester, NY, Symphony, and Private Theodore Stresman, who before the Army was with the Chicago Symphony and who will direct the Div's 40-voice chorus, chatted on WRBL-TV on "How to Make A Band."

VETS FRET that the new Army Greens weren't thought of in 1917. "My old '17 uniform was like tissue paper alongside the Greens," says Mr. Dave Allen, President of the Association of World War I Vets. Visiting the Indians heads along with 30 other comrades of the First World War Saturday, Mr. Allen like it so well he returned Monday. Taking dinner with Mr. 2nd Div (Sic) Alexander Hunter) at Signal Mess Hall, Veteran Allen praised the show, every morsel of it, even the bread. "In '17," he said, "we didn't get fine bread like that — It was hard and tough. Fact we didn't know whether to eat it, or use it on the enemy."

DOUBLE TROUBLE is reported by the 87th PIO who tells us that Eliza Twins, Specialist Walter and Ted, are "so identical" that many Conquerors complain of double-vision. Both are assigned to the same unit, CO Captain Raymond E. Gaiser has "problems." And it's something you can't just blink your eyes a day say, "It will pass," because last week the pair retired for three years to fill their own vacancy.

PRO-PAY begins this month as an interim measure for 7 technical slots in Signal and the Meds this month. Tests for MOS proficiency begin in January for 181 Div EM. Both the Sand Hill Library and the Education Section have study guides to assist you.

First Infantry Names Building for Heroes

By 1st Inf. PIO
The buildings of the Second Battle Group will soon have new names, it was announced recently. They will be named after former heroes of the First Infantry who have won Congressional Medals of Honor and a Distinguished Service Cross.

Instructors have been assigned to the technical Army training cycle. Cadre of this unit are presently attached to the 12th Infantry. The Commanding Officers and cadre and suggestions are offered on any improvements that can be made in presentation.

16 Weeks
The next group of trainees are due to begin arriving here the last week in November. Their 16 weeks of training will begin sometime after Christmas. Upon completion of this training these men will be qualified as replacements for the Second Infantry Division in Europe. After assignment to that Division these men will be assigned to a motor pool unit when they again gyroscope to the States.

November 19 found a large number of Battle Group personnel lined up at the First Infantry Dispensary for flu shots. These shots are especially beneficial because of the great day and night temperature change at Fort Benning.

New Officers
Chaplain Lieutenant Thomas J. Tolentino was recently assigned as the Catholic Chaplain of the Second Battle Group of the First Infantry. A graduate of St. John's University, New York, he attended St. Joseph's Seminary in New York where he graduated in 1956. This was his first assignment as a Chaplain.

Lieutenant Theodore Grant is newly assigned as a platoon leader in Company "B." A 1946 graduate of West Point, Lieutenant Grant completed Airborne school and flight training. He is accompanied here by his wife, Judy, and his son, Gregg.

Officers See Army. Punch

By 12th Arty. PIO
Fort Benning officers, and former visitors were given a look at the Field Artillery's "Sunday Punch" last week as Battery "D", 12th Artillery Battalion conducted static and tactical field exercises with its 70mm Rocket.

Officers, including the commandant, Austria's Artillery School, Lieutenant Colonel Reinhold Mosler and Major Friedrich Strohman, Austria's Infantry School watched the battery stage a reconnaissance selection and occupation position with their super-sonic Honest John rockets.

The exercise was a demonstration of the operational procedures and capabilities of a rocket battery of the composite rocket-bowler type battalion in the mission of general support.

CG Commends 11th Infantry, Sends Letter of Thanks

By 11th Infantry PIO
The Officers and men of the First Class Company, 11th Infantry, have been commended by Major General R. H. Windeck, Commanding General of the Second Infantry Division. In his letter to members of the "Headquarters Company" General expressed his appreciation for the outstanding manner in which the unit performed during the recent field exercise which was staged for General Antonio Barroo, Spanish Army Minister, when he visited the Indianapolis Division.

In his letter, the Commanding General stated, "The energies, enthusiasm and high spirit shown in the presentation and conducting of this exercise resulted in most realistic and informative presentation."

Receiving a special letter of appreciation for high performance during the exercise was Captain Theodore P. Alvarez, Battle Group Intelligence Officer. Captain Alvarez served as interpreter for General Barroo during the exercise. He was cited for the high degree of efficiency which he displayed in the Spanish language, making every phase of the operation easily understood by the visiting dignitary.

"Headquarters Company" of this unit will lose some of its key personnel shortly. Major Paul F. Reagan, Battle Group Adjutant, will leave the unit on the 15th of this month for his new assignment with the Infantry School. Major Reagan joined the Battle Group recently after his return from an assignment in Germany. Enlisted personnel who will be leaving the unit are Sergeant Bill Brainer Jr., of the S-4 section and Specialist Fifth Class Everett Progg, both of the S-4 section. Specialist Fourth Class Donald E. Ashby of the motor pool goes to Germany, and Specialist Fourth Class Robert Eichenholz of the Legal section will return to civilian life.

'A' Company
The company has twin training with this cycle, they are James R. and Jack S. Walwright. The twins came to the Battle Group separately, one came to this unit and the other went to Bravo Company. When First Sergeant Russell V. Steare heard about the separation, he immediately conferred with the personnel section and took necessary steps to have both twins assigned to this company.

Specialist Fourth Class Julian C. Terry, one of the best drivers in the Battle Group, is leaving the company for assignment in Hawaii. Terry won the Battle Group "Company of the Month" award for the month of October.

New AO Platoon
Preparation is being made for the advent of advanced training. The Battle Group has chosen a team of four men to form the nucleus of the Assault Platoon. They are Lieutenant Bernard J. Addington, Sergeant First Class Patrick Gregory and William Griffin and Specialist Fifth Class David H. Galt.

The Company Committee consists of 12 recruits, representatives of the five platoons within the company and is responsible to the executive officer, Lieutenant Marvin D. Llewellyn. The co-chairmen of the committee are Recruit Art Sutorius, 2d Platoon, and Recruit Don Dowd, Fifth Platoon. Both are graduates of the University of North Carolina and Illinois respectively with experience in Radio, Television and organizational techniques.

Pfc. Buck Chosen Tops In Ten Guard Mounts

By 12th Arty. PIO
Winning the title of Colonel Orderly is no mean feat, but winning the title 10 consecutive times really proves some individual "sharpness."

Private First Class Darrel F. Buck, of Headquarters Battery, 12th Artillery Battalion captured his tenth consecutive title as Colonel Orderly in the Division Artillery group mount last week.

The orderly is selected by the Officer of the Day from all the Privates of the Guard submitted by units of the Division Artillery. It is from this group that the selection is made with the final selection based on military bearing, neatness and general knowledge of the military.

Battery "A"
Three new officers have been assigned to the unit. They are Second Lieutenants John B. Stearns, Richard R. Evers and Richard A. Grimsrud. All three officers are recent graduates of the Officers' Class at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

"B" Battery
The entire unit wishes Sergeant Ramon Rosario Rodriguez the very best when he arrives in Puerto Rico for the Central American Games. A veteran athlete, Sergeant Rodriguez has completed in international events up to and including the 1952 Winter Olympics in Helsinki.

A new officer has been assigned to the unit. He is Second Lieutenant Ronald L. Beuchemin. A 1957 graduate of the University of New Hampshire, the lieutenant joins the unit from the Officers Basic Course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. His wife Nancy and son Stephen reside in Columbus.

Currently undergoing training with Bravo Battery are five Reserve Forces Art trainees. They are Privates Clyde B. Griggs, George R. Bryant, Willard T. Griggs, Johnny W. Stephens and Carlton D. Bow.

87th Officer Attends School At Leavenworth

By 87th Infantry PIO
Headquarters Company of the 87th Infantry has lost their Commanding Officer and Executive Officer last Monday November 10.

Captain Raymond H. Gaier, Commanding Officer of Headquarters Company has left on Monday to attend the Nuclear Weapons Employment Course at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He joined the 87th Infantry in April 1958. He was the Assistant Adjutant for the 7th Infantry prior to the 87th Infantry's rotation to Fort Benning. As the 87th Infantry closed into Fort Benning, Captain Gaier was transferred from the 7th Infantry, and assigned to Headquarters Company of the 87th Infantry as the Commanding Officer.

First Lieutenant Douglas L. Belling, has assumed new duties as Commanding Officer of Headquarters Company on Monday 10 November. Lieutenant Belling has been in the field last week. The rattle measured four and one half feet long, and had ten rattle bolts. Sergeant First Class Charles Wittix cut the rattle off and has mounted on his main.

Two new Second Lieutenants who just completed Officers Candidate School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, have recently been assigned to the Battery. They are Lieutenant Leon J. Cruise from Baltimore, Maryland, and Lieutenant James C. Loomis of Topeka, Kansas.

Break in Cycle
With the graduation of the basic trainees—last week, the 87th Infantry has embarked on a training program for the cadre to prepare them for the coming packet of trainees which will be received by the

During this break in cycle, the cadre will fire their annual weapon qualification. They will also cover all instruction which will be given to the forthcoming packet of trainees.

Review in training which will be given to the cadre of the 87th Infantry will help increase the effectiveness in which they will conduct their training.

Before receipt of the first group of basic trainees last June, the cadre of the 87th Infantry embarked on the same type of program. It proved beneficial as the review of military subjects reduced the cadre in the essential military elements of training which through dress had been dismissed in their minds.

The cadre of the 87th, for the most part, are veterans of the Korean War and had served in Europe with the 10th Infantry Division in extensive field training. Some of the older veterans of course have the experience of World War II as is the case of most of the officers in command positions.

With this as a background and the review of training which the cadre is presently receiving at Fort Benning, the 87th Infantry will turn out top trainees for the Second Infantry Division.

Sergeant Harold Jenkins last week re-enlisted for a period of three years to fill his own vacancy. This marks his second re-enlistment, previous to which he had re-enlisted in 1954 for a period of four years. He entered the army in 1953 and saw action in Korea. He has been awarded the Korean Service Medal, United Nations Service Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Republic of Korea Presidential Unit Citation and the Good Conduct Medal. At present Sergeant Jenkins is on a 30-day re-enlistment leave. First Lieutenant Ramon Padilla has recently been assigned to Company B from the Second Administration Company, Second Infantry Division.

Company A
Company A's last week ended its first cycle of Advanced Individual Training. The last day of training was eliminated by efficiency testing conducted by division. The majority of the 187 men who completed the training were assigned to the 10th Artillery Group USARV-PAC. Training with Company A received assignments to Korea, Hawaii and Fort Greig, North Carolina. Two men went to Puerto Rico, and one was sent to Germany. Captain Robert Middleton, Company Commander, stated that "the was fifth week of Advanced Individual Training with record firing of the machine gun. Recruit David R. Arty. Pvt. Joins Theater Group

By Arty. P10
A member of Battery "A", 12th Artillery Battalion appeared in the comedy play, "Time Out For Ginger" the three act opening show for this season presented by the Columbus Little Theater.

Prime Clyde Robinson, a performer of talent, was part of the same show two months ago when it appeared at the Broadway Museum in Columbus.

After six weeks of evening rehearsals, the play opened in the Little Theater on November 4.

The play is based on the adventures of Ginger, a female high school football player who runs into trouble when she tries to play on the football team.

TWIN TROUBLE . . . A Second Division Master Sergeant has trouble in distinguishing between two recruits, Elmer A. and Delmer J. Jenkins, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Jenkins of 1028 Pyley Street, Knoxville, Tennessee. The troubled Master Sergeant is Frank E. Chmelka, "A" Battery's Firing Chief of the 12th Artillery. The twins are presently undergoing basic training in his platoon.

Changing Times

Where prison cell blocks once stood, resounding with the wails of disciplined prisoners, now is heard the sound of children's voices. Also gone are the voices of burly prison guards which has been replaced by the gently persuasive teachings of a religious instructor.

Old Stockade Now Used For Church Activities

By DivArty P10
The old stockade area in the Sand Hill area has been completely revised and is now being used as a Sunday School for approximately 165 children of division personnel. The work, supervised by DivArty Chaplain, (Captain) Robert C. Young began approximately five months ago when a shift of division troops from the Kelley Hill area necessitated taking over a portion of the buildings being occupied by the church. Also during this time, more personnel were arriving for duty with the 2nd Infantry Division. Met with this problem, the church was given the old stockade area and the work of face lifting began under the direction of Chaplain Lindvall. John A. Lindvall. The eventual transfer of Chaplain Lindvall put the work in Chaplain Young's hand and the work progressed rapidly.

Staffed with approximately 40 teachers and workers which included dependents, enlisted members and officers of the division, Chaplain Young went to work. Many volunteer hours of labor went into the project. As Chaplain Young put it, "It was nothing to see a ranking officer of the division using his do-it-yourself talents." One of the outstanding workers was Major C. L. Deater, S-4 of the 2nd Artillery Group, 8th Infantry who volunteered many hours to the project.

With the growth of the school, Mrs. Harlo Littlejohn, experienced teacher and wife of McElmurry Elementary School principal in Columbus took over the reins as Director of Christian Education on a full time basis.

The school features departments for all age groups beginning with the beginner department for ages four and five years and ending with the Senior Department for ages 15 to 17. Other departments include the primary, Junior and Intermediate classes broken down to different age groups. Also undergoing construction is a social room where the school's social activities are planned and held. Classes for adults in instructor training will also be held. The training is strictly voluntary and Mrs. Littlejohn said that volunteers are needed to participate. Classes will be given by Mrs. Stewart DeBoer to those interested in teaching religious classes.

Such is the story of an empty area put to good use by the Chaplains, workers and volunteers of the 2nd Infantry Division.

NCO Wives

Mrs. Wienecke Honored By 'Indianhead' Ladies

By 2nd Div. P10
The Ladies of the Big Indianhead, the Second Division's NCO wives club, installed four new officers at its November social meeting in the Sand Hill NCO Club last Thursday.

Sixty-five ladies saw Guest of Honor Mrs. R. H. Wienecke, wife of the Second Division's Commanding General, become an honorary member at the 1:30 p.m. dessert luncheon Mrs. Wienecke then presented the president's gavel to the newly elected president, Mrs. Dorothy Newman. Other new officers are Mrs. Carrie Wingate, vice president; Mrs. Esther Huhns, secretary; and Mrs. Shirley Popick, treasurer.

Committee Chairman named were Mrs. Eva Otley, membership; Mrs. Mary Holiday, program; Mrs. Dolores Roden, publicity; Mrs. Alice Godfrey, welfare; Mrs. Shirley Popick, ways and means; Mrs. Faye Williams, hospitality; and Mrs. Kajia Palmer, entertainment.

The numerous social events of the afternoon including a hula hoop contest, and turkey drawing, Mrs. T. L. McElveen won the 25 pound turkey door prize, and Mrs. Paris Jackson proved herself the most proficient hula hooper of the day.

Each one of the monthly luncheon socials, the Ladies of the Big Indianhead hold teas, division unit parties, and weekly business meetings. On December 11th the ladies will hold a Christmas Party in the NCO Club. One outstanding feature of the monthly meetings is a free baby-sitting service in the NCO Club nursery.

Newly organized membership in the Ladies of the Big Indianhead is open to all NCO ladies in the Second Division.

For information regarding membership please notify Mrs. Otley by phone at Walnut Switchboard number 2187R.

Autumn Formal Held By Weapons Dept.

Officers and wives of the Infantry School's Weapons Department held their autumn formal dinner dance Nov. 14 at the Main Officers' Mess.

The Mortar Committee sponsored the affair under the direction of Lt. J. C. Seidling, Hampton and Major Frederick McConnell. Menu and refreshment arrangements were arranged by Capt. Everett Murray and Capt. Robert Copeland. Decorations were arranged by the committee of the wives directed by co-chairwomen Mrs. McLean Hampton and Mrs. Donald Lauson. Golden pompadour silver and gilt leaves and pine cone turkeys gave an unusually lovely effect to the dining tables.

29th Stands 2-1 in Post Cage Games

After three weeks of Major Unit basketball play, the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, owns a 2-1 won-lost record in a last-second heart-breaker to The School Brigade. The 29th under Coach Robert Bowers has parlayed a trio of speedy, hard driving guards, some rugged rebounding from its not-so-tall front men, and a 45 per cent team shooting record into a smooth functioning quintet.

Drop Engineers
In the season opener the Commanders performed a workman-like job on the 151st Engineers as they rolled to a 67-42 victory. A 17 for 20 performance from the free throw line by the 29th proved too much for the Engineers. Leading scorers in the opener were Ernest "Woody" Wood and Clint Bair with 16 and 14 points respectively. A net scoring 43 per cent from the floor was not enough for the 29th in the second game of the season as they dropped a 68-66 squeaker to The School Brigade. The Commanders led a 10 point lead in the final few minutes of the game as an all-court press proved successful for the Brigade cagers.

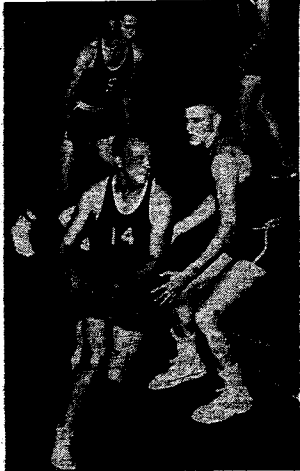

Lead Scoring
Warren McDonald, Bair and Allan Garrett hit the double figures to lead the 29th scoring parade in this one. McDonald had 17, Bair threw in 16 and Garrett managed 14.

The other 29th victory was a 79-49 walk over Lawson Airfield. McDonald with 18 and Wood with 17 provided the scoring punch for the Commanders in the ramp that saw the second team play most of the last game.

After three games the team's (See CAGEES, Page 18)

Lawson Cagers Clip 14th

The 14th Infantry Golden Dragons fell prey to an effective Lawson Army Air Command fast break team by a score of 66-43 Nov. 6 at Briant Wells Fieldhouse. After an evenly played first half, Lawson led 32-26. The 14th went into a full court press after intermission. But Lawson managed to beat the press with its running game as it widened the margin. Tilt Slated at Doughboy Stadium Today With 82nd Abn. Postponed

The Fort Benning Doughboys defeated Tyndall Air Force base Nov. 13 at Doughboy Stadium before some 4,000 football fans, 12-0. The Doughboys put on one of their best showings of the year. They rolled up a total of 186 yards passing and added 202 more on the ground.

With such stars as Eldon Matheson, Wallace Mumford, and player-coach Bob Hoerning doing most of the ball carrying.

The football game between the 82nd Airborne Division and the 1st Air Cavalry, originally scheduled for Doughboy Stadium today, will not be played.

The flyboys could not cope with the aggression of the Bowling team. The Doughboys line play was outstanding. Ed Bailey, back

Late Entry Headquarters Dominates 29th's Bowling League

A late entry, Headquarters Company, dominated the action in the latest competition of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, Bowling League. Paced by Ralph Radd and Ronald Baum the Headquarters' team made a close sweep of the nights honors and boosted their record to an impressive seven won and one loss with a pin total of 4,296. Radd and Baum placed one round for high individual game and best three game team scores. Radd's three game total was 539 with a high single game score of 87. Baum totaled 499 for three games as he posted a 186 for his top individual game.

Charlie Quinn Turkey Shoot Slated On Roosevelt Range

Our annual Turkey Shoot, scheduled for next Sunday morning at Roosevelt Range, bids fair to be the best ever. Always a tremendously popular event in the post, this year's affair has several added features which will solve the Thanksgiving Dinner problem for platoons of participants—Fish and Game Maintenance Association members and non-members alike.

Previously, the Association shoot was restricted to members who were permitted but a single shot. Not so this year! All post personnel, military and civilian, are invited to try their luck next Sunday. Of course, as in the past, Association members will get one shot for free, with each relay shooting for gobblers. For these members a second prize of a ham will be awarded the second place shooter on each relay. Then, if they wish, they may join the non-members in buying a dollar a shot at additional targets.

The shoot will be conducted this way—guests will be grouped in relays of ten shooters with each relay shooting for a gobbler. The number of turkeys will be governed by the number of relays shooting. As a participant you will have posted for you a paper target with two inch cross in its center at a range of about 25 yards. If you succeed in placing a shotgun pellet closer to the intersection of the cross than the other nine members of your relay do on theirs—you've won yourself a turkey.

The fun in the game is that there's no skill attached—it's 99 per cent pure luck. Though you may never have fired a gun in your life, you'll have the same chance of walking off with a gobbler as will the most expert gunners on the range. For this reason, sweet, frail, overlying wives have gone on the line in the past, accepted weapons from attendant Range Guards, closed their eyes, pointed the guns and made their unsuccessful husbands miserable. It wouldn't be surprising if over a 100 turkeys go to lucky people next Sunday for most of the huge crowd expected will shoot. Then, too, an additional 30 turkeys will be awarded among the big list of attendees prizes to be given out during the morning. In anticipation of the largest attendance ever, the Association is planning on awarding a hunting and fishing car, shotguns, rifles, and on and on through a tremendous stack of items. All in all, it's going to be quite a morning commencing at 9 a.m. Incidentally, the Association has fixed it so that even the kids can shoot. There'll be a .410 available for them and who knows but what the little gun won't provide the main dish for your Thanksgiving meal. Juniors under 16 will be eligible to use it.

Deer hunting is booming with some 25 bucks already tagged since the opening of the season on post. However, there's a facet of this year's hunting which I'd like to cover—the loss of wounded deer. There have been seven known cagers so far where deer have been found in the woods with venison completely spoiled. It goes without saying that wounded deer should be tracked down until found if humanly possible, responsibility which the hunter accepts as part of the game. All deer found, including a beautiful 14-pointer, had been hit by one or two 00-buck pellets.

It is suggested that you use the rifled slug when deer hunting. If you do use 00-buck, remember that its range is extremely limited, that its pellets may be deflected by the smallest twigs, and that the load becomes widely dispersed several yards from the muzzle. A slug will get your deer at 50-75-100 yards where 00-buck offers but pure chance—the chance of losing your deer as the six already found will testify.

Don't upset a wounded deer any more than it is. Take off crashing through the brush yelling like a Comanche and you'll scare the animal into running for miles and you'll never get him. Mark the spot where you last saw him and then sit down and relax for 10 minutes or more. Then, very quietly, pick up the trail and, in 10 minutes or 10, you'll find that it will end inside a quarter mile or so. Your buck will have instinctively taken to the best protective cover and will have lain until you jumped him—unless he might have been merely tickled. If he's tickled if you might have killed a doe, the thing to do is to report it to the Range Guards immediately who'll turn it to the venison over to the hospital . . . and that's it for this week.

Action Begins In 14th Inf. Keg League

Company C and 87th Chemical were first-night victors as the 14th Infantry Bowling Alley. The Second Field Artillery teams, the Redlegs and the Straightshooters, fell by identical 4-0 scores to Company C and 87th Chemical, respectively.

The 72nd Engineers won by forfeit over a combined Company A and Headquarters Company team. Roy Schoppert of the Redlegs rolled the high series for the night with a 545. The English wife, "my five dollars."

Fans Flock To Support New Teams

Two men of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, and members of the "Blackhawks," a Roller Hockey Team of the USO-NCSS league, Sp5 Sgt. Eckman and Pfc Robert Mattera are two of the 20 man solution team playing in Columbus.

This league was organized in 1951, with the addition of Blackhawks winning the Championship. The Korean war crossed a lapse in the league, but in the fall of 1957, Ted Huges, rink manager, and Julius E. Markert, club director, restored life to the sport of Roller Hockey.

The enthusiasm displayed by old members of the league, and the interest taken by the new members resulted in the organized, and ready formation of new teams.

Competition has been keen and public interest has grown to the point where it has been expected to become a major sport and recreation for soldiers and civilian members of the USO-NCSS.

Games are currently held at the downtown USO-NCSS Roller rink every Thursday evening at 9 p.m. and Sunday at 5 p.m.

66th Armor News

CO Commends Unit

Lt. Col. Russell W. Ernest, commanding officer of the 3d Medium Tank Battalion (Patron) 66th Armor, extended his congratulations and appreciation to the unit for its performance in the "Fair Share" for this command as established by Headquarters USAIC. The total contributions of the command was $1785.00.

Sp5 Jack F. Miller was made a father of a baby girl.

Pfc Charles F. Punley has just returned from a nine day leave. He was married while on leave.

Bouts

Thank You for Continuing of boxing events slated for Fort Benning through April, 1959.

The final two Major Unit bouts will be presented on Dec. 21 and Jan. 8, with the USAIC Championships planned for Dec. 21-22. These will be followed by the Third Army Championships Feb. 17-20.

Throughout the entire month of March, Fort Benning will be the All Army Training site for boxers who are to compete in the inter-service matches which will be held here April 12.

All of these events will be held at Briant Wells Field House.

Student Stars With 'Greats'

Playing "cow pasture pool" with such golfing greats as Sam Snead, Jack Fleck, Bob Troski and Arnold Palmer, and such a near great as Vice President Richard Nixon is the dream of every golfer the world over. It's not a dream for one player here attending officer candidate school; this individual has not only played golf with them once but with several of them many times.

The golfer in question is officer candidate Peter Cook, presently assigned to The School Brigade's 50th Company, Fifth Student Battalion.

Cook, the 1955 Florida State Amateur Golf Champion, attended the University of Pennsylvania on a basketball scholarship. He is now busily engaged in whipping into shape a company basketball team.

Since coming to OCS, Cook had made good use of his basketball and golfing eye on the various rifle and pistol ranges, being able to judge distances with the best in the business.

Cagers

Leading scorer is McDonald, the former Citadel (Charleston, S.C.) varsity star. The hustling 6'7" forward has bucketed 21 of 34 field goal attempts (62 per cent) and 4 of 6 gratas for 46 points and a 15.3 game average.

Other members of the team scoring in double figures for the three games to date include Bair with a 13.3 average, Wood with 12.7 points per game and Garrett with a 10.7 mark.

Fights

Thank You for Continuing Second Division Training. The bout was halted at 1:10 of the third round after Smith had drubbed his colorful opponent for part of the first and all of the second rounds.

In a close match, George Robinson of LAAC got the verdict over Fred Smith of the 14th. The match was highlighted by some lightning like punches by both men, with Robinson gaining the edge because of his more accurate punching.

In another thriller, speedy little Allen Garrett, 28th display, showed some clever boxing in winning a decision from David Duerson. Second Division Training.

In the two remaining bouts which went the distance Clarence Rogers of the 29th in a wild swinging affair won over John Howard of Second Division Training, and undefeated Joe Fasano of the 14th got the nod over Paul Davis of the 29th.

66th Defeats 14th Infantry In Cage Tilt

Accurate foul shooting prevailed in the cage tilt between the 66th and 14th Infantry Golden Armored units in a USAIC basketball game Nov. 4 at Briant Wells Field House.

The winners tallied 24 free throws to only nine for the Dragoners. Many of the twelve came in the closing minutes of the contest as the 66th fouled frequently trying to get the ball while in a full-court press.

Cradle Shown During Range Presentation

A demonstration of the rifle and pistol accuracy testing cradle developed by the Advanced Marksmanship Unit of Field No. 46 on the unit's test range.

Representatives of four arms companies, the Marine Corps and the Air Force witnessed the demonstration, conducted to show the effectiveness of these testing devices.

Brig. Gen. John F. Fuggles, deputy commander, Infantry Center, was also on hand to view the demonstration. He was received by Col. E. H. Mason, commanding officer of the unit; Lt. Col. Thomas J. Sharpe, officer in charge of the rifle group, and Lt. Col. William A. Hancock, officer in charge of the pistol group.

Civilians who attended the demonstration were Thomas Girkent and J. G. Morin, both of Springfield Army; S. W. Rawlins, Frankford Arsenal; T. E. Van Wilson and George Fred, both of U.S. Mailhead Chemical Corporation, and Frank Palmer, Lackland Air Force Base.

54th Medical Group Rescuers Decorated

Once again three officers and as many enlisted men of the 54th Medical Detachment have been awarded high honors for their participation in Operation Snowbound last February.

The stage for the latest accolade was Stillwell Field on Oct. 30. Brig. Gen. John F. Fuggles, deputy commanding general, USAIC, pinned Air Medals on the jackets of Captains Harland Burroughs and Louis Evans, 1st Lts. William Killo, 37th Medical Detachment, and Paul Blomquist, Martin Army Hospital; also and CWO Charles Alford, 3d Army maintenance officer.

Presentation of the Air Medals, one of the Army's highest awards for flying achievements, was a logical sequence to the award of Helicopter Rescuer Certificates from Sikorsky Aircraft several weeks ago to the officers and EM from Fort Benning who took part in Operation Snowbound.

The enlisted men who took part in Operation Snowbound as crew members are no long-

29th Receives First Buck Sgt. Since '48

For the first time in ten quarters company and will be years a soldier in the 29th Infantry has named the stripes of a buck sergeant.

Sgt. Elmer Stonecipher is on five days emergency leave where he will attend the funeral of his wife's grandfather. Recently returned from Korea and served on his chevrons (three stripes) to become the only buck sergeant in the 29th Infantry.

The buck sergeant, as is known in the old army as the work horse of the unit to which he belonged. He normally commanded a squad or was the sergeant of a platoon.

In 1948 the army did away with the rank of sergeant and all buck sergeants reverted to the rank of corporal. Although they lost one stripe, the pay remained the same. Creation of the new grades of E5 and E6 revised the grade structure to where it was thought necessary to revive the old rank of buck sergeant.

Company B
M-Sgt. Dewey Crassey is filling the sergeant's spot while M-Sgt. William R. Posey is attending the two weeks CBR course.

Capt. Henry D. Pheups has received orders transferring him to the 32nd military intelligence company, Fort Bragg, N.C.

1st Lt. Vincent Terrano, on being integrated into the regular army, traded his infantry crossed rifle insignias for transportation corps insignias. He will be leave for Fort Eustace, Va., home of the transportation corps new school.

For Lawsons Pilots Group Starts Branch Of AAAA

The Fort Benning chapter of the Army Aviation Association of America was activated on Oct. 22, with a membership of 38, most of whom have been members of various chapters around the world. The AAAA is an organization for the furtherance of Army Aviation, to bring about a closer harmony among the personnel in this field, and to aid in the solving of the problems and needs of aviation. At present, there are chapters in most areas of the world where Army pilots and aircrews are based.

The idea of a Fort Benning Chapter was inspired by Lt. Col. Gerald Hough, Maj. Fred

577th Engineer News Company A Defeated In Final Grid Battle

Company A played Company C, 577th Engineer Battalion (Cont.), in the deciding game of the 151st Engineer Group (C) Flag Football League and lost 13 to nothing.

The following men have received their orders for overseas assignments: Sgt. John D. Gorham, and Pfc. Eugene T. Stephens. They will serve in Europe. Pvt. Harold L. Neal is being sent to Alaska.

Sgt. Kenneth Hargraves and Sp4 Alec Wilson are attending the Compressor Operator School being conducted by the 151st Engineer Group (C).

Company B underwent their first week of training for the Army training program. Classes were conducted in the organization mission of the battalion, C, B, R, engineer Hand Tools, and rigging. For a practical exercise in engineer hand tools, the company went to Miller Hall and constructed four types of pioneer road barriers. These road barriers will be carried out under simulated combat situations. The Company is in charge of clearing the land of brush, trees, and all obstacles which would interfere with the fire of the 2nd platoon, under the supervision of M-Sgt. Cecil H. Skelton, who is in charge of the building of all the necessary roads, culverts, and ditches needed at the project site. This project, which is part of the training scheduled for the Battalion during their permanent tour of duty, will be carried out under simulated combat situations. The Company is in charge of clearing the land of brush, trees, and all obstacles which would interfere with the fire of the 2nd platoon, under the supervision of M-Sgt. Cecil H. Skelton, who is in charge of the building of all the necessary roads, culverts, and ditches needed at the project site.

M-Sgt. Darwin C. Peters, first sergeant, received a Certificate of Achievement from the Infantry School for his efforts while assigned to the TIC School. Major Lee E. Baubler, battalion executive officer, presented the award.

Sgt. Chester Talbot has been selected to attend the post CBR school. The school consists of a two week course and upon completion of the school, Sgt. Talbot will assist the company in training of CBR.

Pfc. Fredrick W. Cliff is attending a surveying school conducted by the 151st Engineer Group (C). The length of this course is four weeks.

Pfc. John P. Adams, Pfc. Alford Gibson, and Pfc. Gordon W. Hoffman are going to the post clerk typist school.

Sgt. Charles E. Hunsucker, Sp4 John Tobia and Pfc. Joseph Plaud-Ortiz are attending the intermediate education classes.

The 577th Engineer Battalion (Cont.) held an Officer's bar-b-c-Saturday, Nov. 9, 1958. The entertainment was furnished by Sp4 John Tobia of this Company.

Company C received two new members in the week who are on special duty from H & S Company of the 577th Engineer Battalion. They are Sp5 Harold

L. Curtis and Sp4 Pryor Stephenson, who are here to assist the reconstruction of Bickford Battalion. They are working with cranes and shovels, will improve the drainage on this project.

Project will entitle the entire company to complete the work. The scheduled date for this move to the field is the 17th of November. The 1st platoon, under the direction of SFC Howard W. Haynes, will be responsible for swamp drainage, installation of target boxes, and the construction of lane markers. M-Sgt. Robert G. Foster's 2nd platoon will be in charge of clearing the land of brush, trees, and all obstacles which would interfere with the fire of the 2nd platoon, under the supervision of M-Sgt. Cecil H. Skelton, who is in charge of the building of all the necessary roads, culverts, and ditches needed at the project site.

Two enlisted men from this company, Pfc. Joseph A. Branner and Sp4 Leslie E. Branner, are attending the post typist school. The men started their school on the 27th of October and will continue until the 19th of December.

Pfc. Raymond A. Golab is on special duty to the battalion S-2 Section. He is attending the 151st Engineer Group (C) surveying course.

Colonel Aburrahman A. T. u n Turkish military attaché, will be the guest of the Company C mess on Nov. 19, 1958. Col. Atay is accompanied by his military representative in Washington, D.C., was also shown some of Company C's equipment and barracks.

The football team won the 151st Group Flag Football Championship on Nov. 8, 1958. The game was played at the 151st Engineer Group (C) Sighting Field against Company B of the 577th Engineer Group (C).

Company C defeated their opponents by a score of 13 to nothing. The first score of the game came on a pass from Sp4 Licher to Pfc. Lester, which was blocked from six to nothing. An intercepted pass gave the company its final TD.

Battery C Relocates At New Motor Pool

Battery C recently completed its movement to a new motor pool in the Harmony Church area. The new location, at the corner of Hourglass and Causetta Roads, is a substantial improvement over the motor pool formerly used by the Battery. Facilities such as standing, good wash racks and a well headed and lighted shop are expected to contribute greatly to solving the problem of vehicle maintenance. . . SFC Raymond Campbell of Battery C received orders directing him to USAAMM. . . SFC Campbell was the highest qualified shooter in the second field artillery battalion. . . M-Sgt. Stewart A. Judd, recently was the proud father of a baby girl. . . In the past week two men have been released from active duty. They are Sp4 Karl H. Gaughan, and Pfc Hugh R. Gaughan. . . Sgt. William C. Smith and Pfc S. Mince joined the battery recently. . . Sgt. Smith is presently working with the mess steward. . . The 20-year-old son of the late Col. Robert A. Roberts at an informal ceremony held at battalion headquarters. . . M-Sgt. Jesse L. Moyard has received overseas orders and is now on leave. . . SFC Ernie A. Holton and Sp4 Alvin L. Thompson are also on leave awaiting their reporting date for overseas shipment. . . The battery took part in the change of command parade last Tuesday, November 4, 1958. . . Lt. Col. J. F. Echols Jr. has taken over the duties of Lt. Col. Robert A. Roberts, who was transferred. . . Sgt. Charles C. Daniels has been assigned to the battery. . . Sgt. James L. Knight has recently departed the battery on a TDY tour of attendance at the Adjutant General School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. . . Sp4 Knight will attend a course in personnel management. . . Sp4 Knight's duties in the battery are with the battalion personnel section as chief enlisted record clerk. . . Pfc Thomas H. Dixon has received orders for overseas duty. . . Pfc Dixon is presently on leave at his home in Wisconsin and from there he will report to further assignment to USAK-116. . . Pfc Jimmie W. Cowart is presently enjoying P1 or P1d while on leave with his family for 11 days. . . Most recent arrivals to the battery are Sergeant William A. Seraphin and Private Charles D. Kesler. . . Seraphin was previously assigned to battery A of this organization and is replacing Sp4 Dewey G. Zipprian in the battalion S4 warehouse. . . Pfc Kesler is our new Battery Supply Clerk. . . On November 11, 1958 the Columbus Merchants Association paid homage to several personnel here on the Fort Benning Reservation. . . In a salute to these personnel two were selected from this battery. . . Sgt. John H. Rogers and Sp4 Chester A. Morgan were the guests of Jack Harris, Sgt. Rogers and Specialist Morgan were taken on a tour of the town and were dinner guests at a well known restaurant. . . Service Battery up held its high standards by achieving 100 per cent participation in the current, United Givers Drive. . . The battery commander, Captain Roscoe Melton, wishes to extend his thanks and appreciation to all who made this feat possible. . . First Sergeant Lawton M. Walker is enjoying a five day vacation with his family after recently completing a very successful inspection. . . Siting in for First Sergeant Walker during his absence is M-Sgt. James D. Robinson. . . Sp4 Luther S. Rinehart, for-

Rapid Fire Printer Peaks At 50 Words a Second

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Army will soon test a new electronic typewriter—capable of firing messages at 3,000 words a minute—into its global communications system. . . Printing messages at four lines a second, the machine is 50 times faster than conventional typewriters and 45 times faster than the average typist. . . For ordinary traffic the superior printer will operate at 700 words a minute—the same speed used by other advanced teletype devices in the Army's worldwide network—but it will be available for much faster transmissions in the event of a national emergency. . . The machine has no keys. It shoots letters at the paper electronically from a bank of electrotype guns, each aiming its beam at a corresponding spot to fire any letter or number. . . THE LITTLE CORPORAL

HEY, JOHNSON, I WANNA SEE YOU. YOU TOLD ME YOU WERE A BUTCHER BEFORE YOU JOINED UP. MAYBE I CAN GET YOU A JOB IN THE KITCHEN!

NO THANKS, GORPORA! I GAVE UP BUTCHERING EVEN BEFORE I ENLISTED. IT WAS TOO DANGEROUS.

TOO DANGEROUS? YEAH--SEE THIS LITTLE FINGER?

WELL, IT USED TO BE MY BIG FINGER!

LOOK, GOOCH, WHY DON'T YOU FIT THAT THING AWAY AND NECK FOR A WHILE?

PIGMEAS BOGG & BROOKLES

ARE YOU SURE THIS DOG CAN DO WHAT YOU SAY IT CAN DO?

POSITIVELY! THIS DOG DOESN'T HAVE TO SWIM ACROSS A STREAM. SHE CAN APPEAR IN WALKS ACROSS ON TOP OF THE WATER.

IT TOOK ME TEN YEARS TO TEACH HER THAT TRICK THAT'S WHY IT'LL COST YOU A DOUBLE PEN TO JUST BORROW HER FOR AN HOUR.

TEN BUCKS IS A LOT OF DOUGH, BUT IT'S WORTH IT. C'MON POGG, WE GOTTA MEET SOMEBODY DOWN BY THE CREEK.

CROOK MAKES A BIG NOTHING OUT OF EVERYTHING BUT I'D LIKE TO SEE HIM RUN THIS MIRACLE POUND.

OHAY, PIMM, I MET YOU HERE LIKE YOU ASKED. NOW WHAT IS IT YOU WANNA SHOW ME?

SO YOUR STUFF, GEE.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT, CROOK? THAT DOG IS ACTUALLY WALKING ACROSS THE CREEK.

WHAT'S THE MATTER, DOESN'T THE MULE KNOW HOW TO SWIM?

Dogface Sheedy* was hounded by messy hair till he discovered Wildroot Cream-Oil!

Every foreday it was the same story. The inspecting officer harked at J. Paul "Sheedy, you got a birdy nest under that helmet!" "No sir," whimpered Sheedy, "it's my hair, sir." Then one day his paw sent him a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now his hair always looks neat and well-groomed, without a trace of grease. So if people are nattering about your hair, take a tip from J. Paul Sheedy. Make tracks for the P.K. and get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Guaranteed to make your hair look terrific-like!

CUTTING CORNERS

By Barbara Sue Richards

There's a new paint on the market that's in fifteen minutes. This is going to kill a lot of "bet-pain" jokes... Bargain hunters will find this the month to shop for luggage... Stripes are the latest thing in home fabrics for chairs, couches, drapes and even rugs... Women who are still scoring the chemist will find the one-stand necktie back in style. It should be worn high on the throat... To get the most juice out of an orange, run warm water over it.

Did you know that color can be a clue to your personality? Among the more popular interpretations of color preferences are the following:

Yellow is often the favorite color of the intellectual. People who like yellow may be "long wolvers" but the few friendships they do form are deep and lasting.

Brown signifies patience and steadiness.

Blue-Green (Aqua, turquoise, etc.) denotes a lack of tolerance which often makes those who like this color somewhat difficult to get along with.

Green is the symbol of normality. People who show a strong preference for green are the balance wheels of society.

Blue is the color preferred by the cautious and serious.

Purple, a very subtle color, is actually preferred by very few. However, a person who really likes purple makes charming company.

Red is an exciting color, and those who prefer it are usually warm, hearty and exciting people.

Of course, few people can be accurately described by only one color. Most are a blend of colors.

Shifting color preferences, spurred either by a person unconsciously emphasizing certain personality traits more strongly than heretofore or by the dictates of fashion, can present some difficulties. This is especially true in home decoration where furniture and furnishings represent a sizeable investment and it's impractical to replace them as color moods suddenly make them seem all wrong.

One practical solution, in this day of do-it-yourself, is to

GREER GARSON

THE WIVES

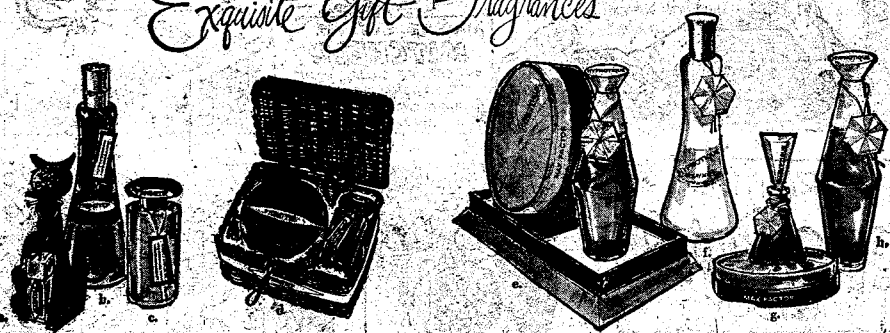

"I'd have been home hours ago, but had a hard time finding something for my last thirty-five cents."

If you are going to have your picture taken, here is a make-up hint that will help you appear your most glamorous self before the camera. Apply your make-up with as much drama as you would for a gala evening. If the pictures are in black-and-white, use a clear, clear red lipstick and avoid shadow-making rouge. For pictures that are in color, add the lovely tint of rouge to your cheeks. Choose, in color harmony with your lipstick which must not be dark and dull, but colorful, so stay with a clear, clear red or vibrant pastel shade. Such lovely screen stars as Greer Garson never appear before the camera without make-up that is beautifully and dramatically applied.

change the color of the background against which furniture and furnishings are seen. Simply by changing wall colors, chairs, rugs, draperies and accessories can take on a new color look: So if you like color; use it. The results will help express your own individuality.

Post to Observe Day for Thanks

Services Set; Special Meal For Troops

The hustle and roar of the Infantry Center operations will cease Thursday, Nov. 26, as this vast military installation pauses to observe Thanksgiving.

In a custom of the service established nearly 200 years ago, Fort Benning military personnel will mark the holiday by attending church services in the morning and by enjoying the traditional Thanksgiving dinner to be served in 106 festively decorated dining halls.

TO ADDRESS INFANTRY CONFERENCE: L-R: Wilber M. Brucker, Gen. Maxwell Taylor

PAUSES FOR THANKS . . . In the tradition of the American Infantry, Fort Benning Doughboys will pause Thursday for a day of thanks. Sgt. Thomas R. Davidson, Hq. and Hq. Co., 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry, is silhouetted against background of the Main Post Chapel.

Togetherness Still Spirit of Holiday Since Pilgrims Celebrated Harvest

By AFPS

That first Thanksgiving Day, the little band of Pilgrims at Plymouth, Mass., felt they had plenty to be thankful for. It was the year 1621, their second winter in the New World. The previous one had reduced their numbers by nearly 50 percent.

But summer had been good; the corn harvest was plentiful and Governor William Bradford proclaimed Dec. 13 as a day of feasting and prayer. The festivities actually went on for three days.

In 237 years, the character of this gentle American holiday has not changed essentially. Some observers occasionally deplore the trend through the

Thursday of November as "a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father."

Thanksgiving thus was established as a national holiday 76 years, until in 1859 President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided a longer shopping period than Thanksgiving and Christmas would help business, but some states continued to observe the traditional date. Congress finally settled the controversy by ruling that the holiday will be surrounded by all the fixin's.

Religious Services of the day will begin with a Mass at the Main Post Catholic Chapel at 8:30 a. m. and Protestant services will be held at the First Infantry Brigade Chapel (Main Post Chapel No. 1), the School Brigade Chapel (Main Post Chapel No. 2), Lawson Army Airfield Chapel and St. Michael's Episcopal Mission (Main Post Chapel No. 3). At 7:30 a. m. the Infantry Center Hospital Chapel, Protestant services will be held at 10:30 a. m. A second Catholic Mass will be said at the Main Post Catholic Chapel at noon.

The second highlight of the day will come shortly after noon when Fort Benning troops will play host to their dependents and friends at tables which will far surpass the storied "grouching boards" of earlier Thanksgiving repasts. Over 12 tons of the finest turkey, stuffed and broiled will be surrounded by all the fixin's.

Meet Will Hear Brucker, Taylor

Secretary of Army Wilber M. Brucker is scheduled to address participants in the worldwide U. S. Army Infantry Conference to be held at Fort Benning Dec. 2-6.

The address by the secretary will be made at a formal banquet for over 200 distinguished military conferees at the Main Officers' Mess Dec. 1.

The conference also will be highlighted by an address by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, who is scheduled to arrive at Fort Benning shortly before noon Dec. 5. He will speak at a conference luncheon at 12:30 p. m. that day.

Army Approves Medicare Plan In Special Case

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Wives and children residing apart from their service sponsors may continue authorized hospital treatment without a Medicare Permit if the sponsor relays the family during the period of confinement.

This new ruling, according to Medicare officials, was made necessary by numerous inquiries resulting from the Oct. 1 modifications in the program.

The ruling also applies to maternity care begun during the period of confinement.

A gigantic all-service operation will be held at Andrews AFB, Washington, D.C., May 9-10, one week ahead of the traditional observance on the third Saturday in May.

McElroy has authorized observance throughout the U. S. and overseas between May 9-17.

The 1959 Armed Forces Day program, the Defense Secretary said, calls for increased attention to the relationship between our national strength and the peaceful aspirations of the U. S. and the free world.

The observance is designed specifically to be held, to give Americans and people of friendly countries a better understanding of the interdependence of the national equipment and teamwork of the various components of our armed forces.

Besides the traditional open house, programs will feature educational exhibits, demonstrations, air shows, parades, special attention to the National Guard and other components of the reserve forces, Civil Air Patrol and similar supporting units.

McClary said the record shows that the public has welcomed this annual opportunity to see their defense team in operation. In 1958, for example, Armed Forces Day programs had a direct impact on nearly 22,000,000 people in the U. S. and abroad.

Attendance at 1,000 community programs in 1958 was estimated at 4,600,000. Approximately 7,000,000 more watched 160 parades in which a half-million personnel participated. Millions of others learned about "Power for Peace" through radio, television and other news media.

Many to Get Passes

While over 25,000 troops and their families are expected to spend the day on post, a large number of men will be issued passes so they may spend the holiday at home in adjacent areas.

In keeping with a recently established custom, the Chief of All Nations of Birmingham,

To Study Period
Another subject which will come in for study will be that of "Division Organization and Operations for the Period 1946 to 1970," to be presented by Col. Lee Wallace, director of the Department of the Infantry Division, U. S. Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Conference committee meeting will be interspersed with establishment of the Club weapons and material, the presentation of pertinent movie films and viewing of static displays of combat equipment.

Displays will be available for viewing by all Fort Benning personnel at the Briant Wells Field House and at Stillwell Field.

2.5 Million Serving In Armed Forces

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The total numerical strength of the Armed Forces on Sept. 30 has been estimated by the Defense Department as 2,539,512.

This figure, based on preliminary reports, represents 900,440 in the Army, 643,372 in the Navy, 185,462 in the Marine Corps and 665,238 in the Air Force.

The figures cover full-time military personnel comprising both regular and reserve on continuous active duty, and of floor candidates including cavalry and aviation cadets and students at the three major service academies.

General Says Religion Still Paramount

FORT McPHERSON, Ga. —

Warning of the dangers of great scientific achievements to religious faith, Maj. Gen. B. Medaris, commander of the U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, old chaplain addressing a conference at Ft. McPherson, Ga., said that they have the same responsibilities their predecessors had in earlier times.

Speaking in the Officers' Club of the Third Army Headquarters post Wednesday night, November 5, Gen. Medaris said that the "Intellectual excitement aroused by the knowledge of space exploration, and the almost limitless energies available through nuclear reaction, may intoxicate men to such a degree that they might forget the blunt alternative—either they act in accordance with Divine guidance or they invite destruction."

The top man of the team which has developed the Explorer space satellites and many guided missiles pointed out that "the awesome consequences inherent in coupling the long-range missile with the released power of the atom is a possibility which is not set up in our power to forestall."

Gen. Medaris continued by saying, "Always from any new knowledge emerge new concepts in political, economic, and ethical philosophies. These new social forces must be adjusted to fundamental religious beliefs."

In giving suggestions to the chaplains and other invited clergymen Gen. Medaris said, "We must get back to fundamentals."

"I have observed," he continued, "a tendency in some churches... to super-coat religion, to dress it up, to make it more palatable, give it the rock-and-roll treatment, and thus try to inveigle young people into the House of God."

The dinner-meeting at the Officers' Club ended the two-day conference of Third Army Chaplains. Present at the dinner were active Army members of Third Army Headquarters, civilian leaders of the clergy from the Atlanta area, National Guard and Army Reserve chaplains, chaplains from Third Army Area, and members of the Chief of Chaplains office, Department of the Army.

Military Training Viewed By Danish Defense Chief

Denmark's Minister of Defense, Poul Hansen, arrived at Fort Benning on Nov. 3 for the first in a series of inspections of U. S. military installations.

At the invitation of the U. S. Secretary of Defense, Hansen opens Monday afternoon, Nov. 3, on a tour of the Infantry School before departing for the Army Air Defense School at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Honors were rendered on Chapel Field for the distinguished visitor and his party after which he received an orientation on the organization of the Infantry School, the scheduling of classes and the school's instructional facilities.

The Danish minister was then escorted to The Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department and to Hook Range where he observed an Infantry problem involving the use of the carbine, pistol, sub-machine gun, flame thrower and grenades.

He left Fort Benning Nov. 5.

In Social Security More Benefits Seen With Latest Changes

NEW YORK (APPS)—The man's compensation no longer affects disability payments. Employees now pay 3% per cent tax and get credit for wages up to $4,200 yearly. Beginning Jan. 1, employees will pay 2% per cent on wages up to $4,200 a year. Employees must match these amounts.

As a result of the changes, many thousands more will be eligible for various social security payments. It is important to keep in mind, however, that an application must be filed in order to receive payments the first time.

To learn how the amendments apply to you or any member of your family, get in touch with your nearest social security district office that federal benefits or work-

13 Generals Accept Meet Chairmanships

Thanks for Thanksgiving

The Pilgrims would have been shocked to their shoe buckles on Dec. 13, 1621, if they had known that their day of thanks was to become a yearly national holiday celebrated by millions of people in the United States and Canada.

For the Pilgrims were discontented against "annual" holidays, and refused to celebrate even Christmas and Easter.

According to research experts with the World Book Encyclopedia, the Pilgrims referred to the religious holidays of the Church of England as "Roman corruptions." They believed in celebrating only when Providence granted them a particular blessing.

As if to prove their disdain for yearly calendar-dated celebrations, the Pilgrims did not have a Thanksgiving celebration the next year. However, other New England colonists picked up the idea and held "thanks days," usually around the end of November.

The Pilgrim-inspired holiday is today a joyous family day celebrated with big dinners and happy reunions, but the history of the holiday in the United States has been fraught with argument.

In 1789 a resolution was presented by a member of the new Congress proposing that a day be set aside to give thanks for the Constitution. The resolution was finally adopted, but there was much opposition by those who believed the Federal Government was meddling in a matter that should be the concern of the individual states.

Thomas Jefferson called such Government - proclaimed holidays a "Monarchical practice" and ignored Thanksgiving during his eight years in office.

Mrs. Sarah Hale, editor of Godey's Lady's Book, worked for 30 years to promote the idea of a national Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Hale had a double-barreled attack she printed editorials promoting the idea and also included tempting recipes for Thanksgiving delicacies.

In 1863 Lincoln proclaimed that the last Thursday in November would be Thanksgiving Day. Each year President Lincoln proclaimed that the United States formally proclaimed that Thanksgiving should be celebrated on the last Thursday of November.

However, some descendants of the original New England Puritans refused to observe the holiday, claiming Thanksgiving should be inspired by the Deity, not by politicians.

The most recent Thanksgiving controversy arose when Franklin D. Roosevelt switched the date of the holiday from the fourth to the third Thursday in November. He hoped to help business by making the shopping period longer between Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Newspapers and magazines carried editorials advising readers to ignore the President and some Governors flatly advised their states to celebrate Thanksgiving on the traditional day. Three years after the change was made, Congress officially restored Thanksgiving to the fourth Thursday.

In view of this stormy history, it might be well to have a Thanksgiving to give thanks for Thanksgiving.

Do you know that the hours between four and eight p.m. are the most dangerous in your life? Oh, you say, being cornered by those safe driving lectures. I've had them till they're coming out of my ears.

One third of the pedestrians killed each year die between five and eight in the evening. Almost 30 per cent of all auto accidents occur in the same time period.

Why? For one thing, the majority of the nation's 67,231,000 vehicles are on the highways at twilight. Drivers are tired, they work all day, they want to get home and relax; irritated by small delays, more apt to take reckless risks.

Big 3 Find Berlin Agreement Difficult

BONN, Germany — Despite the fact that the Western powers were in agreement that they would not recognize any Soviet move to divide the Berlin city.

PARIS — The maple name of Charles de Gaulle dominated the infant Fifth French Republic's National Assembly elections Nov. 23.

It hampered down the Communist party and overruled de Gaulle's other outspoken opponents.

Although Premier de Gaulle tried to remain aloof himself, a wide range of de Gaulle candidates won their races for parliament.

Others informed, however, said it appeared the British were not so determined as the Americans and French to get tough about Berlin, largely because of the fourth to the third Thursday in November.

Jacques Duclos, veteran chief of the French Communist party, was in trouble in the party stronghold, the party itself appeared to be on the way for as to suggest that one million voters.

The Communists, who had a quarter of the seats in the last Assembly, were running behind and were destined to lose if the Communists preaching the Communist aim to whip the Communists and those who run poorly in the Communist East German government.

ALASKA HOLDS ELECTION — The state of Alaska held its first election Nov. 25 as an embryo state will draw $5,000 to $6,000 to the polls, party officials predicted Sunday.

The balloting will be for two new U.S. senators, one congressman, a governor, secretary of state and 80 members of Alaska's first state Legislature.

Chaplain's Corner

By Chaplain (Capt.) Harry G. Campbell Jr. "Bury all the law and the prophets." Have you ever felt like saying that? Most everyone has. Wherever there is a struggle, there is an urge to disobey, and we are all weary of well-doing at times.

What a comfort then, to find such a scriptural warrant for our rebellion! There is no doubt that the Lord is with us, and we are all weary of well-doing at times.

The first part says that we should love the Lord our God with all our heart, mind and strength; we should love our neighbor as ourselves; and we should love the Lord our God with all our heart, mind and strength.

The Judge Says...

Supply economy has been one of the most important phases of military operations since the days of the Continental Army.

The emphasis on conservation and maintenance of supplies and equipment is essential for the successful accomplishment of a mission of any unit regardless of its size.

In spite of the continued emphasis on the proper care and maintenance of military property, many thousands of dollars are lost annually through negligent or willful destruction of military property by individual members.

Under Article 106 of the UCMJ, willfully or negligently damaging, destroying or suffering loss of military property, destruction, sale, or wrongful disposition of military property either negligently or willfully may be punished as a court-martial may direct.

It makes no difference that the property lost or destroyed has not been assigned to the accused as long as it is military property of the United States and such loss was willfully or negligently caused by the accused.

The loss, damage or destruction of military property is fully suffered by one who knowingly or negligently causes or permits such loss or destruction to occur.

YMCA Will Feature Thanksgiving Dance

There will be two big activities at the Armed Forces YMCA this week.

The first will be the Thanksgiving Dance Thursday night.

Big things are also in store Saturday night. The evening will begin at 8:30 p.m. with dancing and then at 9:30 p.m. the variety show will start.

There are 12 big acts featured in the show. Some of the performers are professional entertainers who are stationed at Fort Benning and the rest are amateurs.

After the show, there will be no dancing until 11 p.m. A birthday cake will honor the birthday wishers in November.

Sunday's activities include a service-orientation class at 9 a.m.; Home Front 3:30-5:30 p.m. with punch and homemade cookies; and Ladies from 7-9 p.m. with Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The International Club meets Monday at 8 p.m. This club is open to all persons of foreign origin and their families.

Plans are being made for a Christmas Supper Dec. 13. Jordanians will be back again on Tuesday night to spin the dice for the weekly round.

Thanksgiving Greeting

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE 2D INFANTRY DIVISION

As we look forward to the approaching Thanksgiving Day, we should heed the true meaning of this traditional American Day of Feast. Looking back upon the Pilgrims on that first Thanksgiving Day over three centuries ago, we can visualize the true feeling of appreciation they carried in their hearts, when after enduring many hardships, they finally reaped a harvest of plenty. Our forefathers never forgot that in order for the grain to grow tall, they had to plant and cultivate the seeds.

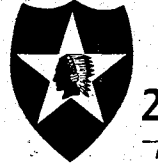

We, too, must continue to plant and cultivate the seeds of freedom so that they may prosper until the day of harvest when all nations may feast upon the table of world peace.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I urge you to give thanks to our Creator for the security that surrounds our families, our homes, our neighbors, and our great nation.

I wish to extend my most sincere wishes to each and every member of the 2d Infantry Division for a safe, joyous and happy Thanksgiving.

56 Non-Coms Scheduled For Academy Graduation

By 2nd Div. PIO

Fifty-eight students, among them 25 soldiers from Main Post units, are scheduled to graduate from the Second Infantry Division's non-commissioned officers' Academy on Saturday, November 29.

Brigadier General Miller O. Perry has been invited to deliver the graduation address. Ceremonies will begin at 10:30 a.m.

In addition to non-commissioned officers from the division, Class 3-A will graduate non-coms from the 28th Infantry, 14th Infantry, 1st Infantry Brigade, 66th Armor, Lawson Air Field, 11st Engineer 10th Artillery and the Infantry School Brigade, all main post units.

Commandants of all units who will have graduates, including those of the Indianapolis Division's units, have been invited as special guests.

This will be the third class of non-commissioned officers to be graduated from the Academy since it began operation in June after the organization of the division on June 24, the Academy began conducting training classes for cadre earmarked for training of thousands of recruits in the division's massive training program. In September, the first class for non-commissioned officers began. Captain Jesse Bewley, announced.

Tons of Turkey
Div. to Celebrate Thanksgiving Day

By 2nd Div. PIO

Thousands of "Indianheads" of the Second Infantry Division will celebrate Thanksgiving in the usual American tradition on Thursday, November 27. Most of the Division's chapels will hold Thanksgiving Services and all of the Mess Halls and Service Clubs will feature special holiday festivities for the soldiers remaining on base for the day.

Seven hundred and thirty soldiers of the Second Division will spend the Thanksgiving holiday on leave.

Protestant Catholic services will be held throughout the Sand Hill and Kelley Hill areas. The Thanksgiving Mass will be said at nine o'clock and 11:15 a.m. at Kelley Hill Chapel Number One and at 9:30 a.m. at Sand Hill Chapel Number Three.

Protestant Thanksgiving Services will take place in Sand Hill Chapels Number One and Number Two at 10 a.m., Number Three at 10:30 a.m., and Number Four at 11 a.m. in the Kelley Hill area. The Protestant services will be held in Chapel Number Two at 11 a.m. and at Number Three at 10 a.m.

Mess Halls throughout the Division will prepare a fine cocktail meal including shrimp cocktail or fresh fruit cup, roast turkey with giblet gravy, bread dressing and cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes or browned sweet potatoes, buttered peas and corn, and assorted hot rolls. The meal will also include pumpkin pie with whipped cream or mince-meat pie, fruit cake, assorted fruits, dates, candy, nuts, and choice of beverages.

Five Tons

The Food Service of the Second Division announced that nearly five tons of roast turkey will be served to the Second Infantry Division personnel on Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving Dinner will be served at the Patton House, Sand Hill Officers Club, from 1 to 3 p.m. and again from 7 to 9 p.m. Meals will be served at the Officers Club for adults and one dollar for children. The NCO Club at Sand Hill will serve continuously from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thanksgiving. The Patton House will serve the "Magna Carta" dinner and 25 cents between turkey and ham dinner costing one dollar and 25 cents for adults and 50 cents for children.

Flour Show

At nine o'clock Thanksgiving evening the NCO Club will feature a six act flour show highlighting the "Magna Carta" dinner with plenty of ceremonies and impressions. The show will be presented by the NCO Club members. The show will be followed by a talent show at 7 p.m. Other clubs will hold "Open House" during the afternoon.

Board Names Sp4 Hamilton Top Soldier

By 2nd Div. PIO

Specialist Fourth Class Wallace E. Hamilton was named "Second Infantry Division Soldier of the Month" yesterday after appearing before a main board at Division Headquarters, representing 14 units, Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the Second Division, Specialist Hamilton was one of eight soldiers from each unit within the Division.

The board, composed entirely of non-commissioned officers, judged the candidates on the basis of military bearing, neatness, and knowledge of military subjects and current events.

This 25-year-old soldier, who plans to make the Army his career, entered the service on October 18, 1956. His home is at 809 Duhan Rd., Brooklyn, New York.

In addition to receiving the title of Division Soldier of the Month, Specialist Hamilton receives an engraved wrist watch worth $25, a 72 hour pass, and a Letter of Commendation for his accomplishment.

Runner-up in the competition was Private First Class Joseph S. Kiernan, Jr., of Headquarters Battalion, Division Artillery.

The Lil' Injun

BY SGT. WARREN A. KELSAY

TALKING TURKEY this week are the Div's Food Service personnel whose vital statistics on the festive birds stagger the appetites of Indian-heads. Div Messhalls will serve 9,235 pounds of Roast Turkey on Thanksgiving Day, plus all the trimmings. Lil Injun Says that if Army travelers on stomach Turkey food with additivity should launch Indianheads, like heap whirlum missile, into outer-space, indefinitely.

BEHIND SCENES the Information Office, the Div Band and Chorus and WVTM are putting together the biggest public appearance program of musicians and songsters, since the Indianheads banned together at Fort Benning last June. Under the baton of Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales, "A Christmas Festival of Music" is almost a certainty. WVTM plans the hour-long telecast for Sunday, December 14, 7 p.m. (Strictly Class "A" TV time). When Mister Morales led the 10th Infantry Division's USAREUR prize-winning band and chorus in a festival of Christmas music at the Huttensale Auditorium in Wuerzburg, Germany, aside from the wee 2,000 who packed the house, the program was broadcast over AFN and Radio Free Europe with a listening audience estimated at 30 millions in Germany, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Great Britain and all of the European countries behind the Iron Curtain.

FORWARD LOOK at the new Indianhead Division Band and Chorus, under the master band-maker, Mister Morales, promises equally notable performances. WVTM plans the Christmas Festival before a live audience from the Munny Auditorium or the Royal Theater.

MERRY MIX UP painfully experienced by Recruit Dennis Childress of Hq & Hq Co., serves to remind us that "An Organization (or a Recruit) Does Well Only Those Things The Boss (or Recruit) CHECKS. Recruit Childress tells us that he happily dashed off a bit of pertinent prose to a girl friend, and since this poem ended in creation, dashed another letter, almost identical, to Girl Friend No. 2. Then he dashed off the address on two envelopes—dash, dash. Too much dash, for, in haste, he addressed both letters to the same girl. Naturally, repeated. (She always does) "You'd better pay more attention to whom you address those letters to," quoth she, and Recruit Childress confesses that this put him in a bit of a dither, a quandary, and a spin, as it were.

THANKSGIVING TIME would have to be post-poned, or ought to be, is someone didn't submit a poem to the Editor. He got one this week, which the Lil Injun retrieved from File 18 (shame, shame) and scoldies this poem ends, all poems on the subject, consider yourselves as having a unique experience. The Bard says:

"Pumpkins' ripe, 'n' leaves are dry, Son
Harvest time is mild and meller .
Thanksgiving time is high, Son
The Harvest Moon is big, 'n' round,
'n' meller
An' I'm a lonesome feller"

Priceless Experience

BY SGT. ERNST M. WECK

Hq. and Hq. Co.

Thirteen years ago, when I lived in the old country, I had ample opportunity to absorb what a real "Thanksgiving" predate the things most people now take for granted.

Thanksgiving — This Thanksgiving to me means not only thanking the Lord for the food he provides us with, it also means thanking him for the knowledge he placed in me and in every man, the patience he gives us during the troubled time, the comforting companionship we receive from friends and strangers.

Many problems, I have overcome since I've been to the service, mostly with friends' help. I also feel privileged that he lets me be part of a team which fights to keep the enemy from deriving us of our "American Way of Life."

Patriotically, we shall fight with all means available to win more friends to share our freedom, whatever happens, I will always be thankful for the once-in-a-lifetime experience which I had received, guiding me toward the goal proving that life is worth living.

The painful feeling of having nothing to eat grew worse each day, driving me to seek food like a blood-curdling hyena. I had a purpose to live. I wanted to live. I was young, praying for help. I continued my fight of survival, but the lack of adequate sustenance gave me obsessive thoughts until I was struck down by the ravine Epidemic which put me through weeks of additional pain. Recovering from the half-dead, I began walking the streets and fields in search for crumbs of food.

Notwithstanding the hardships, I really learned to respect and love to be thankful that the Lord had taken care of me.

Despair

which I had received, guiding me toward the goal proving that life is worth living.

Second Division Trains Frisco 49er Line Star

By 15th Arty PIO
A strapping 220-pound football professional with the San Francisco Forty-Niners has traded his football, helmet and jersey for an M1 rifle, steel helmet and fatigues.

Prior to his induction into the Army, Recruit William A. Kaczmarek played center and tackle for the Forty-Niners following an outstanding four-year performance in college play at Southwest Missouri State. As a lineman there he was chosen a small college "All American," and was picked for the NAIA All-Conference team all four of his college years. The San Francisco pro team signed him to a contract immediately after his graduation.

Currently stationed with the Second Infantry Division's 11th Battery of the 15th Artillery, Recruit Kaczmarek is in his sixth week of basic combat training.

A native of Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania, Kaczmarek started his football career at East Huntington High School where he would like to continue playing football in the service and return to professional football upon completion of his military obligation.

Girl Friend Finds Writing Recruit Pretty Mixed Up

A recruit to the Second Infantry Division, one Dennis Thelma, of Dilwyn, Virginia, made the mistake of last week when he wrote nearly identical letter to each of his two girl friends: Thelma and Mary. The error was not so much the identical letters as the identical addresses he put on the outside of both envelopes.

Lt. Mary received her letter from Dennis as well as Thelma's letter from the same Army recruit.

The results were as could be expected. Mary wrote that Thelma's letter was "real sweet" and that it's "really a shame that she didn't get it." Surprised Mary went on to say, "In my letters you say that you always think of me and in Thelma's letter you tell her that you are always thinking of her. Who are you thinking of anyway?"

In closing the young lady gave the mixed up recruit some sound advice. "You'd better pay more attention to who you address who's letters to," she said—and since then he has.

15 Trgn. Classes Rated Superior in 9th Inf.

By 5th Inf. PIO

Now at the halfway point of the Advanced Individual Training mission assigned the Second Battle Group, Ninth Infantry, members of the training committees have reason to be proud of their work. Of twenty-two classes formerly inspected by members of the division staff, fifteen have received the top rating of superior and seven have been judged excellent. None has received the superior rating.

Members of the superior ratings have been won by members of Captain Robert P. Brink's Branch Training Committee; the other four by Major Henry J. McAllister's Weapons Training Committee.

Most recent instructors to achieve superior performance were Sergeant Earl Bigg of Company B, for a class in patrolling; Sergeant Carl Duke of Company B, for a class in rifle squad tactics; and First Lieutenant Henry Weinberg, also for a class in rifle squad tactics. It was Lieutenant Weinberg's second superior award in his first eight week training cycle.

Hq. Company Lieutenant Edward Colburn, Executive Officer is attending a course in Assault Gun training which is being held in the Harmony Church area. Up on completion of his course, Lieutenant Colburn will organize and later conduct the Assault Gun training which the battle group will begin in March.

Specialist Fifth Class John Small has been placed on temporary duty with the United States Army Infantry Center Transfer Point where he is awaiting separation from the course.

Company B with its first cycle of Advanced Individual Training finished, took a one-week breather before starting its second cycle of training.

Private Joseph A. Gaul Jr., a trainee in the first cycle, scored 235 points out of a possible 280 in the final proficiency test with the division testing team. This marks the highest score that a trainee has achieved since the Battle Group started Advanced Individual Training.

Mortar Battery last week completed its first cycle of Advanced Individual Training with instruction on the automatic pistol, rocket launcher and in mine warfare. The week was climaxed by a series of proficiency tests, including examinations for the Expert Infantry Badge for those qualified.

The 87th Infantry has received three new officers this week. Captain James M. Bartosh, who recently completed the Advanced Officers Course and Airborne Training, has been assigned to the S3 section of the 87th Infantry.

Second Lieutenant Charles P. McGonigill, who has recently completed IOLC here at Fort Benning was assigned to Company C of the 87th Infantry as a Platoon Leader. Lieutenant McGonigill, attended Cotnam College in Louisiana. He graduated this year. He will serve for a six month period as a reservist at which time he will return to a reserve unit. Company D received Second Lieutenant Rodger B. Olson, who has also recently completed IOLC here at Fort Benning to attend flight training while he is in the Army. He took flight training as a student while he was attending Idaho State College.

The officers and ladies of the First Ball Group, 87th Infantry enjoyed a dinner dance last Friday evening at the Main Officers Mess on Main Post in the Anzio Room.

Headquarters Company Master Sergeant John C. Gill, Operations Sergeant, will be COMMEMORATION . . . Master Sergeant John C. Gill, Operations Sergeant for the 87th Infantry received the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant from Colonel William A. Purdy, Commanding Officer of the 87th Infantry at a ceremony held November 22.

Company B would win and the next month, Company A would win.

Last month, Company C received a new Troop Information NCO, Sgt. Tony Sidorczak who is doing a fine job in his work.

This award is for the month of October, since these inspections were coming and every one was preparing for the CMI inspection by Battle Group Headquarters. It was decided that the inspection should be put off until the CMI.

The coming IG inspection during the first week of December will be the month of November for the same reason.

With three companies really into the competition and B Co. and Mortar Battery coming up the competition is becoming real stiff for the TT NCOs in the 87th Infantry.

Company D Sergeant George Stanton completed the airborne school on Main Post last Thursday by making his graduation jump. He will return to his unit this week.

Sergeant First Class Robert Frazier and 1st Lt. Frank Nuge, who are also attending the instruction.

Specialist Fourth Class Hart Stewart received a 25 dollar gift certificate from Kirven's Department Store as first prize in a recent USO NCO's snafu contest. Specialist Stewart won the contest with a snapshot of his son, Charles. The contest was judged by Steve Allen, the famous TV personality and his wife.

Company C Sergeant First Class Jesse W. Boyd is attending the CBR school on Main Post. The commanding officer of Charlie Company, 1st Lt. Willie L. Johnson will also attend the CBR course during the next period of instruction.

Sergeant First Class James D. Napier according to all of the reports that the company has received is doing well in the NCO Academy which he is attending.

Company C of the First Battle Group, 87th Infantry beat the controlling companies out of the Battle Group's Best Troop Information Award. Companies A and B have been controlling the request since the competition was originated here. One month

Sister-Unit Commander Schedules Dec. Visit With 23rd Infantry

By 1st Inf. PIO

The Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry will welcome the Commanding Officer of its sister unit, 1st First Class Group, 23d Infantry on December 1, 1958. Colonel J. H. Wampler, commander of the Battle Group is coming to Fort Benning to attend the Infantry Conference to be held at the Infantry School, Colonel Wampler will be the house guest of Colonel and Mrs. B. J. Smith during his six-day visit and he will be honored at several functions sponsored by the Battle Group. The First Battle Group of the 23d Infantry is currently stationed at Fort Richardson, Alaska.

Hq. Co. Captain and Mrs. Abner B. Moore are the parents of a seven pound, 6 ounce girl born at Martin Army Hospital on November 14. For the Moores, this is the fourth addition to the family. They have two older boys and a girl. Both Mrs. Moore and the new daughter are doing fine. Captain Moore is the Battle Group Motor Officer.

Mrs. Dorris Ledet, wife of Master Sergeant Clarence J. Ledet, Battle Group Operations NCO, was admitted to Martin Army Hospital on November 17 for an undetermined period of time. Her condition was described as good. The 23d forwards its best wishes to Mrs. Ledet for a complete and quick recovery.

Private and Mrs. Zolney Sapp are the parents of a six pound, three ounce girl, Reelin. She was born November 17, at the Naval Air Station Hospital in Jacksonville, Florida. This is the Sapp's first addition to the family. Both Mrs. Sapp and the daughter are doing fine.

The stork has really been busy this week bringing in new 23d personnel. In the 23d this week, a total of four babies were recorded. . . All Girls.

Company A is in its sixth week of training. Last week, the Third Platoon under the leadership of Sergeant Ernest Class Vaclav Kadlac, won the weekly Company Commander's Trophy.

Sergeants First Class William Sims and William Sanchez completed Airborne Training on November 14 and are back with the company while awaiting orders assigning them to an airborne unit.

Master Sergeant Charles Robinson has graduated from the Second Infantry Division NCO Academy and is back with the company.

Congratulations are in order for Recruit and Mrs. James H. Rogers of Baltimore, Maryland. Mrs. Rogers gave the stork double trouble. That's right, a set of twin girls. Recruit and Mrs. Rogers are both recovering nicely.

Company B Sergeant First Class Alfred J. Michel is the new Mess Sergeant of Company B. Sergeant Michel was the Mess Sergeant of B Company unit ROTC came into effect July, 1957.

At this time, he was transferred to another unit in Germany until his enlistment expired. Upon returning to the USA, Sergeant Michel came to B Company and re-enlisted immediately for his old job.

B Company is finishing their fourth week of their second cycle of training Advanced Individual Trainees. The past two weeks have been spent firing the Automatic Rifle and the Machine Gun. The Machine Gun was Recruit Malcom MacBeth, with a highly respectable score of 228. The final score of the machine gun haven't been posted yet, but all indications show there will be some fine scores.

This training cycle will only be seven weeks long; therefore bivouac week will be the sixth week of training. The trainees are looking forward to this because a seven week cycle will enable them to finish training before Christmas.

B Company already has the plans laid for a fine Thanksgiving dinner. Personnel who desire may bring their dependents or friends to the company for Thanksgiving dinner for a reasonable 75 cents a plate.

Several Cadre personnel celebrated their birthdays last week. They are Sergeants Andrew Espinosa and Larry Cole and Private First Class Bob Whitley.

Company C G Company has completed its third week of training. After the Machine Gun qualification scores were in, Recruit John F. Deadman III had fired the company's highest score. Run-up was Recruit Jerry B. Grundstaf. These men will be awarded trophies at a later date.

Specialist Fifth Class Julian Garcia has departed for Corpus Christi, Texas, for a 14-day leave.

Company D In the true "Delta Does It" ed the Church Services at the Sand Hill Chapel last Sunday. Company D furnished members for the choir, ushers, singers and a welcoming committee.

At present D Company is in their fourth week of training and is firing the Automatic Rifle for qualification. Several high scores have been recorded.

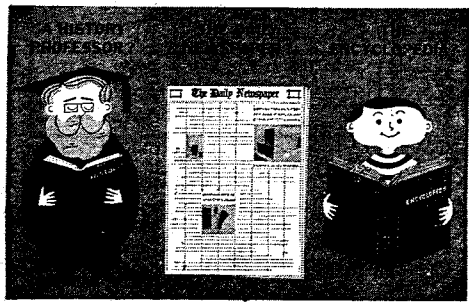

Recruit Epaminondas G. S. USO on November 19.

Company D furnished members for the choir, ushers, singers and a welcoming committee.

GG Champ Works Out With Div. Boxing Team

By 23rd Inf. PIO

From the small town of Phico, West Virginia, a modest, unassuming man, 23 years of age hit the amateur boxing world with the suddenness of a flashed fatality barrage.
This man was Cawthorn
Miree, a six foot, 195 pound heavyweight who, in two short years fought 28 times, won 28 and picked up four Golden Gloves championships and two Ohio Golden Gloves Championships.

quarters Company of the Second Battalion, 23d Infantry. Private Miree is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mosele
Miree of Phico and is the second champion in the family.
His older brother, Spencer, gained the Light-Heavyweight Championships of Vancouver, Canada and Fort Lawrence, Washington while serving with the Army.

Inspired By Brother
His brother's record inspired Cawthorn to enter the boxing ring. After many months of practice, he entered the nearby Cincinnati Golden Gloves Tourney. He defeated his two preliminary opponents by knockouts in the second round. He then repeated in the finals by a knockout and became the Cincinnati Golden Glove Heavyweight Champion.

Fights Locally
After this, he only fought locally until May of 1957 when he fought again in Cincinnati at the Amateur Athletic Union Championships. Again he faced three heavyweights and again he floored them all for the count to become the Cincinnati AAU Heavyweight Champion.

The remainder of the summer and fall of 1957, Miree fought for local benefits and for amateur television fights.
At the end of 1957, he had fought 12 times, was undefeated and had eight of his wins via the knockout route.
The next year, "Miree fought his slips while doing this, he faced
Army veteran Andy Clark,
Cincinnati Golden Gloves Champion in 1953, who he had dropped for the Championship fight in Cleveland, however, the State Championships proved to be a great deal tougher for Miree. In the semi-finals,
Miree won two by decision and one by a TKO. In the preliminary round, Miree faced
Blair, two-time Golden Gloves
Champion in 1951 and ex-
FECOM Champ, was paired with Miree. Blair had fared poorly against Miree in 1951, but was favored to sit beside Blair in two fights prior to their fight.

Sfc Re-Ups At Midnight While on Duty

By 2nd Div PIO Duty Non-Com in the Army Staff Duty NCO until the stroke when his enlistment expired at midnight, and thus, the sergeant would remain at his post for the full tour of duty. And that's how it happened. Sergeant Maddock served as Staff Duty rolled on.

It happened this way. Sergeant Maddock's name came up for Staff Duty NCO on the 22nd. First Sergeant James E. Gocho, of Administration Company, finally came to the front, panned the roster, and what over his and paper it takes, by requesting Lieutenant Robert D. McConaughy, the Staff Duty Officer, to swear his Staff...

Complications... Things became complicated when it was discovered that Sergeant Maddock's enlistment would end at midnight Saturday, November 22. The roster would have to be changed, but then — a ray of hope — the sergeant re-enlisted.

Instinct Tells Wives When Shoot Near

NEW YORK (AP)—Womans' instinct is sharp, as waiting government orders—at least at Cape Canaveral, Fla., where missilemen are forbidden to tell their wives about upcoming launchings.

So reports Harold H. Martin, writing in the Nov. 8 issue of "The Saturday Evening Post." He says that just as tension mounts in the blockhouse at the launching site, so does an electrifying sense of excitement pervade the Beach area where the families of missilemen live in small, pastel-colored houses.

"Under threat of fine or dismissal, the men . . . are forbidden to tell their wives when a shoot is scheduled," writes

Martin. "But the wives know. For days they watch their husbands become quieter, more withdrawn and preoccupied . . ."

"They come and go at odd hours. Sometimes, after a 26-hour absence, they come home in the middle of the afternoon, hollow-eyed and whiskered, to fall into bed."

At the end of the countdown in the blockhouse, the missilemen stare at the television screens transfixed, Martin reports. "Go, you—! Go, you—!" they yell at the lift off.

And meanwhile, he adds, for miles around in every yard and on the beaches, wives and children are leaping into the air screaming "Go, go, go!"

Woman's Club Thrift Shop Rings Up $50,000 Worth of Business

Shopping on another day at the Women's Club Thrift Shop. From left, Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, co-chairman; Mrs. James C. Pleasant, secretary; Mrs. James C. Pleasant, treasurer; Mrs. Edward W. DeYoung, club chairman. Shop does $50,000 a year business.

The Thrift Shop, operated by the Women's Club of Fort Benning, is doing a booming business nowadays—a $50,000 a year business. The shop which just a few years ago was struggling financially does a consignment business of re-merchandising. Under the shrewd business management of Mrs. James C. Pleasant, the shop has realized a profit of $2,200 during the last four months, all of which has been turned over to charity.

The shop was formerly known as the Trading Post and was operated by the Community Chest. It had two salaried workers. But business was bad back in 1955 so Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, wife of Major Gen. Harper, then commanding general of the Infantry Center, recommended the Women's Club take over the Trading Post as a club project.

Infantry School Best Dr. Albert Lauds Officer Training at Fort Benning

Even though a Napoleon might plan a military campaign and have a General Patton to execute it, that plan is doomed to failure if it does not have the infantry lieutenant to carry it out, an officer grad class of the Infantry School at Fort Benning was told Nov. 18.

The statement came during an address by Dr. Allen D. Albert Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., guest speaker at graduation ceremonies of the Infantry School's officer leaders class held at the Fort Benning Main Theater.

Speaking to 208 graduating officers from active and reserve organizations in all parts of the country, Dr. Albert prefaced his remarks by reminding his listeners that the Infantry School was the finest of his type in the world today. After an inspection of its facilities and methods, a group of national educators "had actually nothing to add," he said.

Warns Against Stagnation "You do not dare not to continue to learn," Dr. Albert said, "for with pride there must be a confidence in your ability to inspire confidence."

No lieutenant today should remain satisfied until all men under his command are completely confident in their individual abilities to complete the tasks assigned, the class was told.

It should be the objective of all the speaker said in closing to continue to develop yourselves and your men so that both you and they will know that the country will be safe in your hands.

Golden Dragons Take First Place In 26-6 Win Over Division Trains

The 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry, supercharged by the passing and running of quarterback Russell Motley and the fine receiving of halfbacks Billy Curtis and Richard Noone, rocketed to the Major Unit Flag Football championship Division Trains Nov. 21.

Post to Send Boxing Team To Matches

Fort Benning will have a nine-man team representing the post in the 1958 Florida State AAU Boxing Tournament, Dec. 15 in Jacksonville, Fla. Over 200 boxers, including service teams from throughout the southeast, will compete in the three-day affair.

"Benning's Best" have been selected to make the trip to Florida, according to Coach Don Allen. The tentative squad announced by Coach Allen includes three boxers from the 1st Battle Group, 20th Infantry, the present leaders in the Major Unit Boxing standings.

The tentative traveling team is as follows: heavyweight, Luis Tapis, 165; middleweight, Ralph Brinson, Second Division Trains; light heavyweight, Randolph Wagner, 165; mid-deweight, Leon Hall, 20th; light middleweight, James Johnson, Second Division Trains; welterweight, Robert McFerrer, 20th; lightweight, Hunter Ragland, 151st Ag. Co.; featherweight, 140, and bantamweight, Allen Garrett, 29th.

Leo Swafford, TSP, will accompany the team as trainer.

The Dragons first tally was set up when Vern Tubbery recovered a Trains fumble on their first series of downs. Taking charge of the Trains six, the 14th had a minus six yards to show for three successive pass attempts. On fourth down, Motley faked a pass and skied right and virtually alone for the first score. The Dragons attempted to run for the PAT, but were stopped just short of the goal.

Following the kickoff, Division Trains relinquished the ball after one first down incomplete pass. On their second down, the Dragons pulled a neat job of mid-air larceny (first of many during the game) when they snatched the ball to the Trains 45. From there, the two teams traded pass interchanges with the Division Trains holding possession at the end of the quarter.

Second quarter opened when a third down pass by Trains again strayed into Motley's hands on the 14th 25 yard line. On first down, Motley picked up 20 yards on a nice run to put the Dragons near mid-field. On the next play, tailback Richard Noone took a pass in the flat from the middle of the field and ran moved the ball to the opponents one. After a first down on the 10, the Dragons moved in the end zone on a short pass to make the 12th.

The Dragons narrowly missed another TD on the first half. Taking possession by virtue of an interception by the Dragons, the 14th moved deep into Trains territory on a fourth down play. The Dragons completed a 20 yard pass, but the referee ruled the receiver out of bounds. On the next play, the Dragons moved the ball to the 10. Trains three as the gun ended the half.

In the third period the 14th again dominated the offensive action, but they were unable to score. On many occasions the Dragons gained yardage by both ground and air, but a good portion of these were nullified by the referee at the end of the quarter. Motley hit Curtis with a touchdown strike from 1922 to 1933, the longest of catching catches in Michigan and hauling them off for a few days. The referee picked up more dogs to set a first down and goal to go.

DOUBLE DEALER
Detectives claimed in court that a former dogcatcher in Flint, Mich., was charged with a string of catching catches in Michigan and hauling them off for a few days. The referee picked up more dogs to set a first down and goal to go.

Charlie Quinn Annual Hunt Typifies Thanksgiving Spirit

The traditional Thanksgiving hunt was sure to be a success in the early days when, if a big meal was to be served, the main dishes for the dinner had to be procured with a musket, rifle and, later, the shotgun. There's no little doubt that the tradition has been maintained until the wholehearted support of the women folk who'd just as well have the male members of the family out from under foot until the table was set.

Today, though completely contained and prettily cellophane, Thanksgiving dinners may be obtained at the nearest super market, the tradition of the hunt is still a part of the Thanksgiving tradition. Dads and their sons will check over beautiful weapons the night before, lay out the best of hunting clothes, make sure the 50 four-door is gassed up—and retire for the night to dream the same dreams of their forefathers of two hundred years.

It hasn't always been that simple for some of us, though. Do you remember back to the time when money for more immediate family needs was hard to come by—much less for shotgun shells? At those times, we boys would hoard pennies for months ahead in the attempt to ward off the chilling possibility of a Thanksgiving that would be secretly heaved when Dad would begin to take the old double out one evening and absent-mindedly oil it by the light of a kerosene lamp.

The dogs would come in for more and more attention as the Day approached and they, too, sensed our mounting anticipation. Maybe a mite underfed and spiritless in the eyes of a stranger, the old setters assumed the proportions of Kings and Queens of Dogdom in our eyes and they, and we, trotted after Dad on the night when we all went down to the local hardware store.

We'd stand behind Dad, boys and dogs alike, and listen to him run or let the old dog take them. No. 8's in 20 gauge. Mr. Shalley? And there never was such a night as that so many years ago when the sentence was added: "... and you'd better fix up the lad here with a box, too."

The ceremony, though completed, we'd all retire to the store steps where glowing pipe bowls could be seen and find ourselves spots at the end of the store porch.

When that dog of mine couldn't find a flock of pullets in a barnyard, it would be an opener and then there come pros and cons in regard to the pup mentioned — but all tempered as to whether a stranger was, or was not present. Sitting there, we just listened and yearned for the day when we could join this conversation—a conversation now reserved for menfolk. And, one after another, the glowing pipe bowls would extol the virtues of their respective hunting dogs and before the bottle was knocked out of the first pipe, bets would be made and witnessed—with some of the bettors backing up their dogs with cash or farm animals which they could ill afford. Like the year I walked up the road with a box of shells, under my arm and in a hazeydaze of fear and delight after hearing Dad declare that "Bess will find more coveys and that no-count tad of mine'll drop more birds than any of yours—and there's my best brood sow that says so."

Down on the big Day usually found us up, fully dressed, fed, and out testing the grass with the sincerest of hopes that a sharp frost had "fallen" during the night. The pups would be leashed or piled into, the old bar and as we pulled out of the yard we could see lights in the distance signalling the ragged formation of the convoy to the chosen bird cover.

At the field, we'd stay a respectful distance behind our "Dads" and try to give Bess a final pat of support before Dad wavered but out. And proud we were to hear the first call of the day in his voice: "Point!" and then have him turn, bang over the 20 gauge and say: "Walk 'em up, son!" It may be the difference whether we missed or got a bird. If we missed there was a calm reminder about following through—if a bird dropped, there'd just be a gleam in blue eyes as they watched the plume of the setter's tail coming back through a backwash.

We lost more brood sows than we won—but the memories of those Thanksgiving hunts we'll never lose—nor will hundreds of our readers—HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

Units Capture 2nd Straight Bowling Win

A quick-draw demonstration by Lucky McDonald, a hip shooter of the Wild West variety, raised eyebrows and brought smiles to Muscogee County policemen and U. S. Army pistoleros at Fort Benning Friday, Nov. 21. The Muscogee County police were invited by the Army pistol team to exchange shooting pointers at a joint meeting on the Advanced Marksmanship Unit range. McDonald has taught what he calls "instinct shooting" to all types of shooters — ranging from beginners to veteran policemen. His method is to look at the object, check the gun and fire away. He relies on the eye's natural instinct for accuracy.

Officer Invents Pick-Proof Pocket

FORT MEADE, Md. (APPS)—A pocket that can't be picked is the invention of Maj. Charles D. Ellison, assigned to headquarters of the Second Army here.

After his demonstration, CWO O. K. Wehmeister, coach of the Army Pistol Team, explained to the policemen how a pistol match was conducted and the police pistoleros fired the national match course. Capt. C. B. Faison led the group of Muscogee County policemen who witnessed the McDonald demonstration and exchanged shooting pointers with the Army marksmen.

Cadets Vs. Middies Army to Cross Swords With Navy At Annual Grid Classic on Nov. 29

NEW YORK (APPS)—Traditionally the highlight of the grid season, the 59th annual Army-Navy classic promises to be another thriller when the Cadets of West Point and the Midshipmen of Annapolis clash in Philadelphia's Municipal stadium Nov. 28.

With Army stressing the spectacular running of Pete Dawkins and All-American Bob Anderson and Navy relying on the pinpoint passing of Joe Tranchini, it could easily develop into a high-scoring contest.

Middle coach Eddie Erdelatz has All-America tackle Bob Reisynder and Dick Dempsey, the hard-charging fullback-turned-halfback who scored the tying touchdown against Army in the 1956 game, as dependable performers. West Point coach Red Blak can count on fullback Earl Walters and stalwart line-man Maurice Hilliard and Joe Novgratz. Quarterback Joe Caldwell in his first five games has proven to be an adept

BENNING PAID SURPRISE VISIT BY JOE DIMAGGIO

The esteem in which the famous Yankee is still held was evidenced by the number of requests for his autograph.

Medics Lose First Game, Bounce Back to Take Five Straight Wins

After receiving a sound drubbing from the USAF Troop Command by a score of 99-62 in its initial contest, the 54th Medical Group quintet bounced back with five straight victories and has taken possession of second place in the Regimental Basketball League. First streak was the Third Medium Tankers of the 6th Armor Battalion, 62-53.

John Allendorf led the victors with 200 points, scoring eight field goals and four free throws. "D" Deacon Jones and Barton Parkerson tallied 14 and nine points respectively.

Continuing in their winning ways, the Medics beat the 14th Infantry Golden Dragons in a hard fought double overtime thriller by the score of 84-75. Leading scorers for the 54th were Paul Sotles with 18 points and John Bostic with 14. The score at the end of regulation play was tied at 69 points. The Medics won 13-11 game from the free throw line as they tallied 15 charity points in only two of the Dragooons in the second half and over times.

The Medics easily trounced the Second Battle Group, First Infantry, 76-56. John Bostic with his deadly one-handed dunk nine field goals and two charity throws to lead in scoring with 20 points. Other Medics in double figures were Bill Patton and Barton Parkerson with 14 and 11 points respectively.

The Red Mountaineers of the Second Infantry Division Artillery were the next victims of the 54th Medics. They were knocked from the unbeaten ranks 41-30 in a zip-and-tuck ball game. Standout in this crucial contest for the Medics were Jones who tallied 15 points and Bostic with 10. Win in Second Half

After trailing 23-19 at halftime, the Medics came back and dominated the remaining half for their fourth consecutive victory as final time Jones, Bostic, and Allendorf pilfered enemy passes to set up scores.

The following evening at Harmon Church Field House, the Medics again were victors in a 82-55 win over the 15th Engineer. Playing without the services of Jones because of virus infection, the Medics extended their winning streak to five straight games as Bostic and Sotles took charge in the point making department with 15 and 12. Allendorf playing in his last game for the 54th Medical Group also tallied 12 points.

Capt. Harland Burroughs, Commanding Officer of the 7th Helicopter Company, was named coach of the Medics. Nov. 29, the Medics lost the services of Allendorf, who had a career average of 12 points. Allendorf was one of the best pitching pitchers at Fort Benning this past baseball season and was a member of the 54th Med-

Historic Champion Famous Steed Recalls Memory of Old Army

With the advent of modern means of ground mobility, the Army no longer has a place for the horses that for so long had served as the primary mode of transportation.

Today a typical unit like the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry of the men of the 29th "Cyclone" outdone the famous high jumper "Tippecanoe" whose car-jumping achievements were the subject of a mechanical mule.

However, a particular horse often comes to mind to old soldiers of the 29th on their trips down "memory lane". The horse, a fiery, turbulent steed appropriately dubbed "Cyclone" brought fame to the unit with his exploits as a high jumper.

Shows Special Talent "Cyclone," however, was no ordinary jumper. He had a specialty—burbling automobiles—which he did with more ease and grace than any of his contemporaries.

Discovery of the horse's talent came about quite by accident. He had been sent to the 29th as a troop horse, but because of his vicious nature he was labeled "outlaw" and considered as unsuitable for use in military service.

Before the condemnation proceedings began, however, a Sgt. Ernest Akers of the regimental headquarters company asked and received permission to try to break the horse. After several days of struggle the horse was tamed. During his twisting, churning bouts with the "Cyclone," Sgt. Akers and discovered the animal's

From Cordiner Plan

Committee Evaluates Service Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cordiner pay panel members returned to the Pentagon Nov. 19 for a tally of improvements in career military and civilian service stemming from recommendations in the committee's highly publicized 1957 report.

Formed as the Defense Advisory Committee on Professional and Technical Compensation with Ralph J. Cordiner as chairman in 1956, the 12-member group completed an extensive study of personnel education practices in the Armed Forces of the following year for changes and new legislation to better conditions for servicemen and Civil Service employees.

The present meeting was called at the invitation of Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy for a rundown on results and a follow-through on the former committee's so-called Cordiner Report.

Defense officials summarize the action taken as "timely implementation" of the 16 recommendations made for military personnel. These include: Report proposals for Military pay scales adjustable to a national economy index—the Defense Department is searching for a means to compile an index appropriate to military personnel. Officials explained that current indices do not meet the requirement for suitable interim data for developing an index may be obtained from the Department of Commerce. If this information does not meet the need, however, an index based on special Labor Department surveys will be reconsidered.

More housing for military families with quarters allowances linked to a retail-cost index—the housing program is progressing at a "commendable rate" with 60,000 new Capehart units built since 1957 and government acquisition of 22,000 of the 94,000 total "Wherry units as public housing by the end of Fiscal Year 1959. for Armed Forces members, at monthly funds and 3,500 units constructed through surplus conversion on rental guarantees procured in 1958.

Revision of quarters allowance payments, the Defense Department said, is not included in the 1959 legislative program due to similar programs of establishing an index and the "great fiscal impact of the adjustment."

On the two final Cordiner Committee proposals, Defense officials "agree in principle" with the recommendation for incentive pay for duty in remote areas but defer until last-escrow account" for funds accumulated from savings through increased retention of personnel.

The hardship post pay program has numerous problems, officials said, not the least of which is the "currently prohibited

Airfield Had Meager Beginning; Named After Famed Georgia Pilot

Lawson Army Airfield, well known as a key Army air center, has come a long way since it first employed as a landing place for observation balloons for the Infantry School in 1918.

Its early beginnings were so meager, in fact, that the field didn't even have a name during the first 13 years of existence.

A little over 27 years ago, Aug. 7, 1918, the modest little airfield beside the Chattahoochee River on the Fort Benning reservation was designated Lawson Field in memory of Capt. Walter R. Lawson, a native Georgian and World War I flying hero, who was killed in a peacetime airplane crash in 1922 at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Capt. Lawson was born at Glen Allen, Ga., Oct. 25, 1893. He received his education in local schools and was mustered into federal service with the Alabama National Guard as a second lieutenant in June, 1916.

He held this assignment until April, 1919, when he was transferred to Washington, D. C., to assist in the reorganization of the Office of the Director of Military aeronautics was to assist in the reorganization of the Army Air Service. He was sent to Langley Field, Va., in October, 1919, to attend the Graduate Field Officers School from which he graduated in January, 1921.

In September, 1920, he vacated his commission as a captain, Air Service, and accepted an appointment as first lieutenant, Air Service, Regular Army. He was promoted to captain that same month.

Early in April, 1923, he was sent to McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, on detached service. On April 21, 1923, he was killed in a plane crash at McCook Field on takeoff for Langley Field, Va. The large Martin bomber (a test plane) he was piloting dove into a nearby river during a sudden storm, killing Capt. Lawson and three other men.

Surviving Capt. Lawson are his wife, Mrs. Edna Lawson, and three children. Today, Mrs. Lawson resides in Klasmirre, Fla. Their son Walter, a U. S. Military Academy graduate at West Point, N. Y., is now a colonel. Thomas, their other son, also is a West Point graduate and is teaching high school in Connecticut.

Under the new arrangement awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action July 20 and again on Sept. 13, 1918.

Upon returning to the states in November, 1918, he was promoted to captain and assigned to duty at Post Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Army Moves To Reduce Old Districts

Seven major subordinate Army Reserve headquarters in the Third Army area were reduced to only two on November 15. The move was made to increase efficiency in the training of reserve personnel and eliminate duplication of effort.

Under the new arrangement the military districts of Georgia, North and South Carolina and Tennessee have been incorporated into the XII corps, and the districts of Alabama, Florida and Mississippi are combined into the IV Corps.

The move in the Third Army area is in line with a nationwide policy to centralize reserve headquarters.

The primary aim of the consolidation of the military districts is to improve Army Reserve organization and training. It is expected that this will be gained from the assignment of responsibility to an active Army organization created specifically for that purpose. The Corps set-up will exist solely for the supervising of training, support and administration of the Army Reserve and the ROTC. It will have no connection with the National Guard.

The two major advantages of the consolidation are: Greater simplicity of operation and control and a reduction in the number of personnel required to administer the reserve.

Considerable annual savings are expected to be realized by the improved system of command and administration.

Civilian personnel required in excess by this reorganization will be offered relocation in other government positions or aid in obtaining outside employment.

While activation of the new Corps headquarters was accomplished on November 15, the process of transition will cover many months in 1959.

LT. COL. COOPER Added to Hall of Fame

OCS Honors Col. Cooper

Lt. Col. Osborn Cooper, Ground Mobility Department, is being honored as an outstanding graduate of Officer Candidate School. His picture, along with a brief resume of his military career, is being placed in Wigle Hall, the Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame.

Lt. Col. Cooper began his commissioned service Nov. 16, 1942, when he was graduated from OCS class No. 102. Immediately after commissioning he was assigned to the 411th Infantry, 9th Army, during which time he rose from first lieutenant to major.

During the period from 1943 to 1946 while he was with the 411th Infantry he served as communications officer, company commander, G-3 Section, Third Army ETO, and next to the First Infantry Division, ETO as assistant G-3 and special services officer.

In 1949, Lt. Col. Cooper attended the advanced officer's course at The Infantry School after which he was a battalion commander in the 50th Airborne Infantry Regiment, Fort Bragg, N.C., and USAFFE.

He was next assigned as a battalion commander with the Fifth Cavalry Regiment, USAFFE, and then as G-5, First Cavalry Division, Lt. Col. Cooper then became executive officer of the Five Cavalry Regiment, USAFFE. Upon returning from the Far East, Lt. Col. Cooper then attended the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth.

Lt. Col. Cooper's decorations include the Bronze Star with Distinguished Oak Leaf Cluster, the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Combat Infantryman Badge, and Senior Parachutist Badge.

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second year in a row the Department of the Army has received the National Assn. of Suggestion Systems annual award.

The recognition is for having the most improved incentive awards program among government agencies during Fiscal Year 1958.

LT. B. J. WALRATH Commands Company B

14th Infantry News

Battle Group Named Five New Officers

Five officers of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, have assumed new assignments within the Battle Group. Two of the officers were assigned company command posts while the other three assumed staff duties.

Company B, Capt. Herman H. James Jr., who has commanded Company B, since April of this year, has left the unit to assume the responsibilities of Battle Group S-2. Now commanding the company is 1st Lt. Burton J. Walrath Sr. The former platoon leader of the 11th Signal Platoon, Lt. Walrath is a veteran officer of the 14th, having served here since the Battle Group's activation in 1957.

The company armorer, Joseph Lachman, was promoted last week to specialist fourth class. Also advanced one grade was Pvt. Sidney Abbott, who is now serving on private first class chevrons.

Comeaway D. Captain Robert J. Berens, former commanding officer, is now assigned to S-1. The position as adjutant. Replacing him is 1st Lt. John S. McCord. Lt. McCord was troop require- quiers officer before assuming command of Company D.

Silver Butte has been promoted to specialist fourth class. Sp4 Butte's wife recently presented him with a baby girl. More persons from the company fired expert with the pistol than all the total of the other companies in the battle group. Out of 11 experts hall team this season has been its defense. The company is well represented in this defense unit by 2nd Lt. Leonard Fregosi, Sgt. Walter Malachi, Sp4 Bob Stanger, and Pfc. Charlie L. Deacher. Starting on an offensive end from the company is Sgt. Donald J. Holland.

Pfc. Robert Fuller is replacing from an appendectomy performed at the Marine Army Hospital.

Two men from the company returned from leave last week. They are Sfc Billy F. Addins, and Pfc. Horat Feller, while Pfc. Patrick Shiro, has taken an 18-day leave to visit his home in Bangor, Penn.

There were two promotions in the unit this week to J. Michaels and Pvt. John R. Hatcher, both were promoted to specialist first class. Four men from the company were transferred to H&S. Company this week. They were Pfc. John R. Hatcher, Feller, and Pfc. Paul Haugen. Pfc. Donald Webb, Pfc. Ernest Feller and Pfc. Paul Haugen. Sp4 Sidney J. Journalism is enrolled at the Education Center taking the College GED test.

The enlisted men of the company are giving full support to Company A, on problem 8650.

Ribbon Given To Sawyer For Service

CWO Harold G. Sawyer, personnel officer, Infantry Board, was presented a Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant by Col. Henry B. Kozak, president, at an informal ceremony room November 19, 1958.

The citation read in part: "For exceptionally meritorious service in connection with personnel and administrative matters in support of the development of improved weapons and material for the use of the Army. He consistently and effectively promotes the interest of the company during the year without let down."

Headquarters Company B, Sfc. R. P. Dabberly has added an array of colorful pictures to the mess hall of H & S. Company creating a brighter, more pleasant dining atmosphere. Approximately 75 guests are expected to sample this atmosphere as they partake of their roast turkey Thanksgiving Day. This guest list includes married personnel, their families, and battalion officers and their families.

A recent change in officer personnel finds 1st Lt. Warren L. Andrews as the battalion supply officer. Lt. Andrews comes to the 57th from the recently deactivated 499th Engineer Battalion (Cmbt). Lt. Andrews replaced Capt. William Keutron, who has been transferred to the 151st Engineer Group (Cmbt) as adjutant.

Aides Praise Conference At Benning

577th Engineer News

Engineers Construct New Fortifications

The Fifth Annual Conference of Civilian Aides to the Secretary of the Army held at Fort Benning last September has been commended by conference leaders to Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Infantry School commander.

The aides were unanimous in their praise of the entire program. They surveyed and discussed with 500 military personnel the latest technological and installation advancements while at the post.

Cloyd H. Marvin, civilian aide from Washington, D.C., said "It was a splendid occasion and one which was so carefully planned there was no detail overlooked."

Ray E. Willy, civilian aide from Sioux Falls, S. C., stated, "Everyone at the conference expressed himself as well pleased with the development in modern Infantry tactics, as exemplified by the examples we saw at the school."

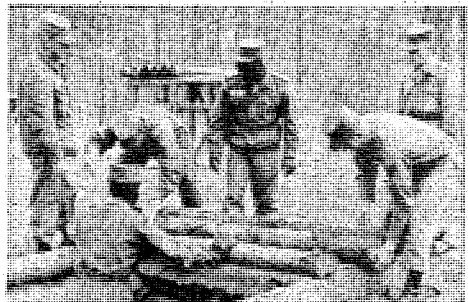

R. J. Hofmann, civilian aide from Cheyenne, Wyo., thought the conference "was one of the best conferences of his kind I have been privileged to attend. It was a new feeling engendered by understanding and utilized by trust in our leadership is recognized by the members of the conference." He added, "Major Gen. Freeman was an inspiration by his and his staff at Fort Benning created a setting for let nothing to be desired."

Allen D. Albert Jr., civilian aide from Atlanta wrote, "One of the marvelous things about (Fort) Benning, indeed, is that its superior quality continues year after year without let down."

Neal receives Service Award. First Lt. Charles O. Neal has been awarded a Certificate of Achievement for outstanding service as aide-de-camp to the assistant commander of the Infantry School at Fort Benning from July, 1957, to August, 1958.

Officers Inspect Dental Activities. Major Gen. James M. Epperly, chief of the Dental Division, Office of the Army's Surgeon General, and Col. Robert E. Hamersburg, dental surgeon, visited Army at Fort McPherson, Ga., visited Fort Benning Nov. 6-7.

The officers inspected post dental activities. NOT NEW EVENT. The Pilgrims at the first Thanksgiving probably thought such a celebration would be a new experience for their 50 Indian guests. However, according to research experts with the World Book Encyclopedia, many Indian tribes along the eastern seaboard celebrated a harvest festival called the "Green corn dance."

NEW PLACE LIKE ENGINEER... Members of Companies B and C, 577th Engineer Battalion, recently completed training by reconstructing the fortifications in the display area at Eiler Hall. The men put the final touches on a machine gun bunker.

Members of the 57th Engineer Battalion (Cmbt) are departing for Europe. Sgt. Richard T. Smith is attending CBR school and Sp4 White, and Sp4 James Lueder are attending air compressor school. 2nd Lt. Luther J. Starr of with a Certificate of Achievement from his fellow officers upon his return from an assignment with the H & S Company, The School Brigade. Lt. Starr received his Parachutist Badge recently as a symbol of successful completion of Airborne Training.

600th Engr. Company Sergeant First Class Grady M. Dooley bagged a deer and became a proud father of a bouncing baby boy. To add to all of this he also received word that he had passed the high school GED test.

Sp4 Albert Egan, Company B, baby son, Jesse Howard Egan is a bridge specialist in the 6th platoon. Mrs. Charlie Lang, unit, wife of the company's adept 1st Sgt. will host a group of 388th Engr. Company wives at her house on December 4 for the annual Kiddies Christmas Gift wrapping ceremony.

Sp4 Stewart Carstens will again decorate the company's mess hall for the Thanksgiving.

Company C received their new men Sp4 Andrey Miller, Sp4 Carl E. Thomas, Sp4 Jack W. Tyndal, and Pfc. Dan E. Loy. These men are attached to Company C from H & S Company during the army training program - construction - rehabilitation of Brickford Range.

To balance the gains, Company C has also sustained three losses. Pfc. Charles Hull has been assigned to the Alexander Company, and Pfc. William Keutron, who has been transferred to the 151st Engineer Group (Cmbt) as adjutant.

Company A Sp5 Sixto Cardona is the father of a new five pound boy, their fifth child. Pfc. Harold Neal was recently promoted from Pvt. 2. Pfc. Neal is now on leave, preparing for a new duty assignment in Alaska.

Company A has recently lost participating in an army training program. The high proficiency of the unit, Companies B and C have completed two weeks of formalized training, and Company A began the same cycle recently.

To Help in TB Fight Post Women Stuff 26,000 Yule Seals

Approximately 50 women of military personnel at the Fort Benning and volunteer workers from the Columbus area, stuffed 26,000 Christmas Seal envelopes Nov. 18 for distribution on the post.

The women volunteered their services as part of the Columbus Area Tuberculosis Association's 1956 drive to fight TB. The campaign will continue through December.

"Tuberculosis is still a serious public health problem in Georgia and in our tri-county area," said Mrs. Martha McGlann, chairman of the seal sale for the military. "In 1957 there were 1,630 new cases of tuberculosis reported in Georgia and tuberculous caused 262 deaths," she added.

Exposito Named Best Soldier

Chosen over 1,600 School Brigade enlisted men, Pfc Robert A. Exposito, 24, 23rd Company, Second Student Battalion, was awarded The School Brigade Seal, since "the support of the tuberculosis association is derived from the sale of Christmas Seals."

Of the money raised in this 81 1/2 per cent remains in the three Muscogee, Harris and Chattahoochee counties to carry on a school program of patient service, health education, case finding and rehabilitation. The remaining 18 1/2 per cent supports the state and national program.

One of the major programs being conducted in Georgia and supported by Christmas Seal Sale money is a patient and family education program at Battery State Tuberculosis Hospital in Rome, Ga. Education for Rehabilitation is to help the TB patient and his family understand the disease help the patients understand and accept necessary treatment and help them return to a normal, healthy life following hospitalization, according to officials.

Eclipse Gives Valuable Data To Scientists

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (APPS)—Back from the South Pacific where they witnessed the solar eclipse of Oct. 12, members of the Navy's Terrestrial Geophysical Year expedition say they were able to accomplish their major scientific objectives.

Thunderstorms during the eclipse, however, prevented the group of more than 30 scientists and technicians from obtaining information about the astronomical phase of the operation.

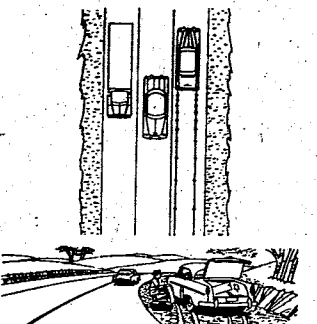

The group sailed last summer for the Danger Islands and returned here aboard the landing ship Point Defiance. They had planned to launch a total of eight Nike-Asp rockets to determine what a total eclipse of the sun is like outside the earth's atmosphere.

The boarding of one rocket by a member of the expedition paid off with an unexpected bonus of scientific data when a solar flare occurred following the eclipse. During this phenomenon the remaining rocket was triggered and climbed 190 miles to gather valuable information on the sun's post-eclipse behavior.

Men aboard the Point Defiance said that when the moon blacked out the sun "it was like someone turning off the lights in a room at night."

EMERGENCY . . . You're rolling at forty on a straight road, with oncoming traffic ahead, when a tire blows out without warning.

WHAT TO DO . . . Don't use the brakes. Get a firm grip on the steering wheel. Hold the car wheels straight. Keep a foot on the gas, but ease up, when slowed down, brake gently. Get entirely off the road.

WHO WILL WIN?... Charles Franklin, left, program director of the Armed Services YMCA in Columbus, and Izadore Monsky, owner of Monsky's Classy Clothes Shop, ponder the question of who will win the free round trip home by plane as a special Christmas present. All service personnel are eligible and all that has to be done is fill out a registration blank and drop it in the Santa Claus Trip Home Box at Monsky's Classy Clothes Shop. The blanks are available at the Armed Services YMCA, P.O. Box 1030, Fifth Avenue USO, Monsky's Classy Clothes Shop, and all service clubs and NCO clubs at Fort Benning.

Pentagon Hits Peak In Employee Number

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Pentagon, the world's largest building for the world's biggest business, today houses almost 29,000 workers, topping a peak of 26,500 during the height of World War II.

This up-to-date figure, plus additional data just released, shows the magnitude of the operation which directs U.S. military activities world-wide.

The Pentagon was built on a "crash" basis in 36 months and completed in January 1943. At one time 13,000 men were employed in the construction of the building on the 24-hour schedule.

Surrounded by 200 acres of lawns and terraces, the building itself covers 34 acres. It has five floors, a mezzanine and a basement. Its five concentric rings are connected by ten spoke-like corridors.

The home of the Defense Department and hub for Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force operations, the Pentagon has 7,000 windows, 65,000 light fixtures, 3,000 clocks, 550 water fountains, 1,800 toilets in 240 rest rooms and 500 shower cabs for fire protection.

Boasting the world's largest southbound bus for Army personnel, the DOD's telephone system handles 270,000 calls a day over 90,000 phones connected by 375,000 miles of cable. The system could not be easily duplicated elsewhere.

The total length of the corridors in the Pentagon is 17 1/2 miles. But the maximum distance between any two rooms—a six-minute walk—is only 300 feet. The distance around the outer edge of the building is about one mile. There are other branches.

LT. R. J. ADAMEK CONGRATULATED By Lt. Col. W. L. Miller On Top CBR Score

Jumpers Aid All Services Learn Ropes

Soldiers, sailors and marines attending the Infantry School's airborne training are proud that Fort Benning is by no means an exclusive classroom for infantrymen.

Enrolled in airborne classes No. 13 through 16 are personnel assigned to the Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps. The Navy leads with six officers and 15 enlisted men. The Marine Corps follows with two officers and six enlisted men, while the Air Force boasts five airmen.

During their four weeks of airborne training, these fledgling paratroopers will be administered by veteran jumpers who form the cadre of Headquarters and Service Company.

Officer Sets New CBR School Mark

The highest grade in the 10 announced that 2nd Lt. Raymond J. Adamek, Company A, Chemical-Biological-Radiological School, Fort Benning, Georgia, has set a new mark for himself with a grade of 98.5 per cent to top the score of 1st Lt. Harley Sybers, Company A, Second Battle Group, 28th Infantry, who made a grade of 98.4 per cent last year.

The grade made by Lt. Adamek was from a series of 10 written examinations and practical work tests. Lt. Col. Carl C. Olsker, Ninth Infantry School Division, was second high with a grade of 96.4 per cent in the class of 32 students.

Lt. Adamek is a 1957 graduate of Stetson University, DeLand, Fla. where he majored in sociology.

Linguist Cashier Makes Allied Officer Friends

Being born of Lebanese parents in Sydney, Nova Scotia and able to speak her parents' native Syrian language, fluently is a decided advantage to a cashier at The School Brothers' Great Mess. She is Mrs. Mary Shabaneh Isaacs, wife of a Fort Benning army cook whose knowledge of Syrian and other Mid-Eastern languages, makes her a one-woman public relations expert among the Allied officers paying their bills.

Top Leaders Eye Role Of Infantry In Future

Talk Slated By Brucker For Tonight
Sec. Brucker, Gen. Taylor to Attend
Over 150 Stars at Meeting

The first world-wide Infantry Conference in a century, designed to study the future role of the foot soldier, enters its third day at Fort Benning today.

Heading today's list of activities will be an address by Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker at the Main Officers' Mess during a formal banquet for the conferees.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, will speak to conference delegates Dec. 5 at 12:30 p.m. during a luncheon. He is scheduled to arrive at Fort Benning shortly before noon Dec. 5.

Underlines importance: Importance of the Infantry Conference, to continue through Dec. 6, is heavily underscored by participation by 80 U. S. and Allied generals. General officers of the U. S. Army, U. S. Marine Corps and the British Army are meeting at conference tables of The Infantry School in a concerted effort to establish that position which the infantry of the future might occupy. Conference presentations, demonstrations and committee discussions will all emphasize the future role of the infantry and the infantryman which may be played on the ever-changing battlefield of tomorrow.

200 Attend: Among over 200 conferees will be seven U. S. four-star generals of the Army's active and retired lists. Six lieutenant (See Leaders, Page 2)

More than 150 general's silver stars can be seen at the Infantry Conference under way at Fort Benning. It continues until Dec. 6. The famous silver insignia, worn by 80 U. S. Army, U. S. Marine Corps and Allied generals, mark the magnitude of the huge conference, the first of its kind to be held in over a decade. The distinguished military leaders will join with approximately 150 infantry officers in attacking the problem of analyzing the latest trends and developments affecting the Infantry and the establishment of a cohesive Infantry position as demanded by changing world conditions.

Among the conferees, according to a list published by Col. James H. Hayes, conference director, assigned to the Combat Developments Office, will attend are: James S. Moore, Herbert B. Powell, Arthur G. Trudeau, Mantion S. Eddy (ret.), Robert N. Young (ret.) and Reuben E. Jenkins (ret.). Major generals in clude Raymond E. Bell, Earl C. Bergquist, Anthony J. Biddle, Haydon L. Boulner, Frank S. Bowen Jr., John W. Bowen, Claude T. Bowers, Bogardus S. Cairns, Charles D. W. Cannon, J. N. Carter of the British Army, John A. Dabney,

Major Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. (USMC), Emerson C. Hochmer, John W. Harmond, Hugh P. Harris, Hamilton H. Howze, Harry W. Johnson, George E. Lynch (ret.), George Martin, Stanhope B. Mason, Lionel C. McGarr, Andrew T. McNamara, John H. Michaels, Martin J. Morin, Francis T. Pachler, Thomas L. Shursum Jr., Robert F. Sink, Harry P. Storke, Louis W. Trunant, Herbert A. Under Heide, John G. Jan. 4 Cutoff For Releases Before Holidays

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army has directed its commanders to release during the period Dec. 10-19, those enlisted men and non-regular officers whose duty tours would normally expire between Dec. 20 and Jan. 4, 1959 with certain exceptions.

Those eligible for early release include personnel stationed in the United States, personnel whose place of residence is one of the Territories and who are stationed in that territory, and enlisted six-month trainees who entered on active duty for training between June 23 and July 20, 1958.

P-TA Will Hold Christmas Party

Col. Lloyd B. Ramsey, president of the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association, has announced that in lieu of a formal business meeting of the P-TA for December, a Christmas Party has been scheduled.

The Christmas Party is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Faith School Auditorium Dec. 9.

The low rate experienced has been attributed to the all-out drive at the Infantry Center to reduce accidents of all types, especially during the Thanksgiving-Christmas-New Years period.

Post safety officials had feared that there will be four fatalities and 30 disabling injuries in accidents involving private vehicles during the holidays. However, the low rate over the past weekend indicates that the prediction may be excessive.

Although 1957 rates were considered to be low, the motor vehicle accident rate reflected an exhibit also has been set up at the entrance to the Main Post by the field artillery units from the Second Division Artillery, Mortar Battery, 14th Infantry, and Second Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery.

3 Involved in Vehicle Mishaps Over Holiday

Fort Benning personnel were involved in three motor vehicle accidents over the Thanksgiving holiday period, none of which caused a fatality.

Two of the cases recorded were collisions of a minor nature and the third involved an enlisted man who was struck by a vehicle while crossing Victory Drive. Ret. Robert F. McGivern, Second Infantry Division, received lacerations to the face and was treated at Martin Army Hospital.

Artillerymen will celebrate Saint Barbara's Day today with a display of artillery pieces and missiles at Chapel Field from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Featured in the display will be the Honest John Rocket, the Corporal and Nike.

Saint Barbara was looked upon by the old artillery man for protection from his own guns, which, in the old days, were sometimes more dangerous to him than the target.

An exhibit also has been set up at the entrance to the Main Post by the field artillery units from the Second Division Artillery, Mortar Battery, 14th Infantry, and Second Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery.

Army Garners Three Woolerys As Buddy Team

FT. CARSON, Colo. (APFS)—"Ban, ba, black sheep, have you any wool?" The Army Reception Center here can answer that nursery rhyme with a succinct: "Wool maybe, but one thing's for sure—we're got Woolerys!"

Not one but three Woolerys enlisted under the Army's handy system which permits them to take basic training and go on to future duty assignments together. All three have their hopes set on Officer Candidate School.

Post Scouts Honored At Dinner Meeting

More than 50 persons attended Faith School auditorium last week at Fort Benning.

Several Fort Benning members were honored at the meeting. Frank Messer of Troop No. 27, and Charles Strong of Troop No. 10, were presented the Highest award for 1958. Troop No. 37 from the Custer Terrace district, received the Unit Recognition Award. Scoutmaster for the troop is Capt. Harry A. Yoder, assigned to the Weapons Department, Infantry School.

Explorer Post No. 37, also from the Custer Terrace district, won the Attendance Award for the year. Capt. Angus Graham of the Martin Army Hospital, is explorer advisor for the troop.

Two members of the Second Infantry Division qualified as scouts for the new exploring program. They are Lt. Col. Neil N. Snider, Jr., adjutant general of the Second Division, and Sgt. George Thomas of the Second Aviation Detachment. Pfc. Justin D. Dibonaventura, headquarters company, Infantry Center Troop Command and M-Sgt. Martin H. Stetten, quartermaster section, Infantry Center, served on the banquet committee.

Use 'Ballistic Blackmail'

BOSTON, Mass. (ANS) — Secretary of Army Wilber M. Brucker, in an address before the New England Conference for Economic Development here recently, pointed out that the Communists have time and time again used the threat of nuclear violence, —ballistic blackmail,—as a screen behind which to seek opportunities for expansion through local armed aggression or other tactics short of war.

"We place great dependence upon the deterrent power of our strategic nuclear defenses," he explained. "The intercontinental ballistic missile may, in a few years, become a weapon far superior in many respects to the manned bomber. However we know that we cannot rely upon our nuclear retaliatory capacity alone."

Secretary Brucker went on to indicate that the United States must be prepared to meet a limited war is a military threat today and that limited aggression must be regarded as a most likely form in which an enemy may employ military power.

"Therefore," he said, "we must have,—and be prepared to use promptly, if necessary,—highly mobile forces-in-being, capable of both conventional and limited nuclear warfare, in order to deal with aggression anywhere in the world."

He emphasized that the Communists must be so impressed by the quality, strength, and versatility of our Armed Forces that they would know beyond the shadow of doubt that they could not profit from military aggression in any form.

"It is evident," Brucker declared, "that if military deterrence is to be effective we must be prepared for every eventuality."

It's Vital to Stay Ready

FORT MONROE, Va. (ANS) — Warning that oceans and allies no longer provide ways to mobilize and train our forces in wartime, General Bruce C. Clarke, Commander, Continental Army Command, told the Reserve Officers' Association's Army Affairs Committee here recently that the Army and its reserves should approach our combat readiness problems with the sense of wartime urgency appropriate to the gravity of our situation.

"Combat knows no distinction between components of the Army," he declared. "There is no difference whatsoever between combat-ready units or individuals of the Active Army, the National Guard, and the Army Reserve. To achieve combat-readiness, the same training and the same principles for guiding training must be applied to all."

Re-emphasizing that oceans and allies no longer provide ways to mobilize and train our forces in wartime, the general added that modern technology has sliced our protective cushion of time and space away-thin.

"In case of attack, the military shield of the free world will require immediate reinforcement," he pointed out. "This need cannot be met by units or individuals that require prolonged periods of training after M-Day."

General Clarke stressed the urgency for training, in much the same words as the Army's top brass addressed to members of the Active Army.

"I propose," he said, "that we approach our combat-readiness problems with the sense of wartime urgency appropriate to the gravity of our situation. I propose that we eliminate non-essentials and bear down hard on the essentials in training. I propose that we move much faster toward achieving a degree of readiness consistent with our mobilization requirements."

Stand First in Line

"The National Guard today as in the past continues to typify the idea of the part-time soldier who prepares himself in peace for his military obligations in war. These volunteer citizen-soldiers stand in the first line of the Nation's defenses as a deterrent to aggression and as a bulwark of our ever-growing ready forces in reserve." —DA Pam 360-1.

Allies Plan Meeting To Set Berlin Policy

BERLIN — The West's campaign plan for the easiest but the most difficult battle of Berlin may emerge from a Paris meeting in mid-December.

Diplomatic sources said Monday foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany will confer to coordinate policy in combating the Soviet demand for neutralization of West Berlin.

The date was not set. But the expectation was that Secretary of State Dulles and his three colleagues will get together in the French capital either before or during the 15-nation Atlantic Pact Council meeting opening there Dec. 16.

The Western Big Three and West Germany probably will propose to meet the Soviets two or three months later in the summit or foreign ministers conference on the whole German problem.

That might be one way of averting a clash between Western and Communist forces on the expiration of Moscow's six-month time limit for acceptance of the free city proposal and withdrawal of the Western Big Three garrisons.

Informed officials in Washington said Dulles is ready to make the trip to Paris.

De Gaulle's office disclosed the development with a communique confirming that President Rene Coty and Premier de Gaulle have been consulting about the election and that Coty doesn't want to stand again.

The fact that De Gaulle's office allowed the communique to be issued was a virtual confirmation of what everyone in France has believed — that the new constitution is tailor-made for De Gaulle as the first president of the Fifth Republic. The job carries tremendous prestige.

De Gaulle's election, in which candidates waving the banner of the Gaullist gained control of the National Assembly in the wind in the present political climate of France, no individual could stand before the overwhelming approval of the 18-year-old general's overwhelming strength.

Chaplain's Corner

By Chaplain (Capt.) Talmadge F. McNeal. The best thing you have in this world is today. Today is your opportunity, but, too often, it is crumbled between two thieves, yesterday and tomorrow. With every rising of the sun think of your life as just beginning. Today you can be happy, not yesterday nor tomorrow. There is no happiness except today's. Most of our misery is left over from yesterday or is borrowed from tomorrow. Keep today clean. Think pure thoughts. Make the most of this day. All yesterday's are buried deep in the past; let them sleep there. Make up your mind to enjoy your life, your work, your play today anyhow. You can do all that anything if you'll only go at it a day at a time.

If you're bereaved, betrayed, heartbroken, why not take a day off and put away your hurting thoughts? Today, your friend; you cannot do anything about yesterday; comfort yourself with but today. Today take some simple joys; today enjoy the sunshine, the birds, the flowers, the friends of the coming days, weeks, years that crushes us. The present is always tomorrow's. The creator who planned this life of ours did well in giving it to us only one day at a time. We don't have to live it all at once.

Why life oppresses you? You don't have to. You don't have to live your life all at once, only one day at a time. Don't let the future oppress you. Attack it in detail and you can easily triumph.

The past is what we have made of it. It is the temper of the present that qualifies it. It depends upon how you now consider it, whether you despise it or encourage it.

Don't let the past unman you, numb you with remorse, weaken you with self-concept.

No matter what may come your way tomorrow, whether good or the best way to be ready is to discharge faithfully today's duties, and to make the most of the time and opportunity given to you.

Today is yours. God has given it to you. All your past never to be recalled. All your tomorrows are still in His hands.

Today is yours. Face your life today and be glad. Take your share of it as the bundle of joy.

Today is yours. Use it so that at its close you can say: "I lived today, wisely, and I loved. Today!"

The Judge Says...

It surely is relaxing to lie on our bed and take a "zip" and smoke a cigarette, just as it is relaxing to smoke a cigarette while we work. We are late for an appointment, who cares if we go a little late than the speed limit?

Who serious is the fact that Corporal Arson smokes cigarettes while he is working in a restricted area, such as an ammunition dump? What has Sergeant Alkey had to do when he keeps a bottle in his foot locker for that evening?

Has anybody been doing a violation of or failure to obey any lawful general order or regulation while we work? We are late for an appointment, who cares if we go a little late than the speed limit?

Cuts Planned For Military Personnel

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to cut 100,000 military manpower cuts made, the services have been ordered by Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy to pare force levels by some 71,000 prior to next June 30.

Personnel limits fixed in President Eisenhower's budget message for the current fiscal year set Army, 470,000; Navy, 320,000; Air Force, 800,000; Marine Corps, 175,000, for a total of 2,365,000.

McElroy reported their estimated numbers at the end of last month to be: 901,739 Army; 322,222 Navy; 863,696 Air Force; and 188,361 Marine Corps, pegging the Armed Forces at 2,575,924.

Quarried specifically on Army and Marine Corps cutbacks, banging fire since the Middle East crisis last July, Mr. McElroy, at his first press conference after returning from a tour of Europe, said U.S. installations, said:

"We have held this off pending a withdrawal of our troops from Lebanon. We think that we are about ready to order these reductions to be put into effect," he explained.

On Nov. 18, less than a week later, the Defense Secretary in a memo to the service secretaries directed that plans to attain the approved levels be submitted to Assistant Secretary of Defense Charles C. Fritchman by Dec. 1.

In announcing the order, Mr. McElroy said, "It is feasible to reach our 1958 strength position by June 30, 1959, such action will not be incorporated in our plans."

The Defense Department, meanwhile, announced that the Army would be 8,000 composed of 100,000 in the next 100 days preceding months.

Army Chief of Staff, General Arnold G. Taylor, 4th Army, Defense officials, despite diminishing calls for inducements have gone on record in strong support of continued need for the Selective Service law, which will expire June 30 next.

The Army, which faces the biggest cut — some 32,000 — earlier in the year said that involuntary separations would be necessary in 1958-59 to meet the authorized June 30 figure. The other services also are expected to make required manpower adjustments primarily through attrition of short-term enlistees.

2 Performances By All-Army Show

Rolling Along of 1958', Department of Army touring soldier show, will perform at Fort Benning Dec. 16 at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in Theater No. 1.

The 90-minute musical revue features selected acts from the grand finals of the 1958 All-Army Entertainment Contest held June 19-22 at Fort Belvoir, Va.

The show will feature a 10-piece band and 12 performers including the top vocal group from Second Army, "The Melodians"; Jack Larson, comic impressionist from Eighth Army; the Kavanagh Twins, song and dance men from Sixth Army; Walter Kopycinski, electric guitarist from Third Army; Jackie Escobedo from U.S. Army Europe; vocalist Jerry Holmes from the Fifth Army; comic dancer Fitch & Jordan from Fourth Army; and Berry Christie, fancy ball twirler from Sixth Army. Many of the acts were featured on the Ed Sullivan TV show July 20.

All of the major Army performances will be featured in the grand finals of the touring soldier show. The entertainment production of soldier shows will feature "The Birds" and "Brazilian Impressions" by Respiqi.

The show was produced by the Special Services Division, Adjutant General's Office, Department of the Army, and directed by headquarters of the First Army.

This soldier show is a musical revue taking as its theme song the authorized June 30 figure. "Rolling Along" always plays for troops in all major Army commands throughout the year.

Management Personnel The officer in charge of the only Major Joseph Donohue, Sixth Army. In addition, there is a stage manager-technical director, Andrew Mikol, and technical assistant, Robert Anello, who also designed the costumes. Both men are from the First Army.

Alaska to Arm With Nike Units

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's operational air defense missile Nike Hercules will be installed to defend strategic areas of Alaska early next year.

Defense areas in the Ft. Richardson - Elmendorf AFB, Anchorage and the Eilson AFB-Ladd AFB - Fairbanks complexes are now being converted from 120mm guns to the atomic capable Hercules.

Personnel to man the Hercules sites will leave for Alaska early in 1959 to form the 4th Missile Bn., 3rd Army near Anchorage and the 2nd Missile Bn., 52d Army, near Fairbanks.

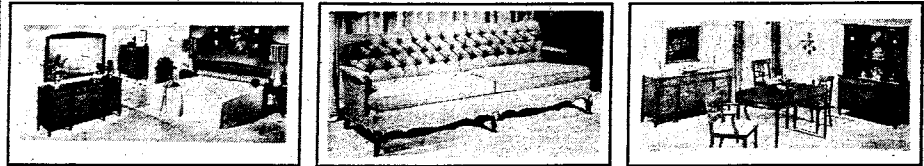

Two ordnance detachments will also move to Alaska to support the operation.

When First Sergeant Charles F. Haug entered the Army in 1941 he performed the unusual feat of becoming a sergeant 120 days after being sworn into the service. This however, was not the last of his out-of-the-ordinary feats, for shortly after, in August of 1942, he was made First Sergeant of his field artillery unit — one of nearly 75 units he has headed during his 17 year military career. He has been a First Sergeant for 16 years. One of the few in the Army who have held the top soldier seat for so many years. Recently assigned as First Sergeant of the Second Aviation Company at Lawson Field, Sergeant Haug served as First Sergeant of the 10th and

15th Arty Fires Salute Honoring Crown Prince

By 15th Arty PIO

The 15th Artillery's Battery "A", which is at present serving as Salute Battery for the Second Infantry Division Artillery will fire a 21 gun salute for the Crown Prince of Greece when the royal visitor tours the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama on December 11.

The battery consisting of 35 enlisted men and headed by Captain Arthur S. Metcalf will leave Fort Benning on December 10 with six 105 millimeter howitzers and will fire the salute on December 11. They will also fire a farewell salute on December 12 when the Prince leaves the arsenal after his tour.

The battery will return to its present station at Sand Hill on December 13.

55 Graduate At Academy

By 2nd Div. PIO

A reservoir of commissioned leaders is provided the Army by non-commissioned officers Academy training. Brigadier General Miller O. Perry, Division Artillery Commander, commended the graduates for their interest and diligence in maintaining a high degree of proficiency. He said that the rewards for proficiency attained during Academy instruction and during the scope of their military careers were obtained through superior leadership. It is from this source, he said, that the nation selects a portion of the personnel for commissions in time of distress.

The general also pointed out (See GRADS, Page 11)

TOP KICK . . . First Sergeant Charles F. Haug assumes duties as first soldier of 2d Aviation Co. Believed to have held the rank of First Sergeant longer than anyone in the Second Infantry Division, Sergeant Haug has had over 15,000 men under his command — the equivalent of an entire division's strength.

The spy, gray-haired sergeant began his career with basic and field artillery training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, in the early years of the Second World War. During that war he spent most of his time as First Sergeant of a tank destroyer brigade in France and England. In 1947 he was a flying messenger in Germany after which he was assigned First Sergeant in the Second Armored Division at Fort Hood, Texas.

Beginning in 1953, he served for 16 months in Korea as First Sergeant of Headquarters Company, 7th Corps, Field Artillery. Returning to the states in August of 1954, Sergeant Haug was assigned to the 10th Infantry at Fort Riley, Kan-

Xmas Festival of Music Slated By 2nd Div. Band and Chorus

By 2nd Div. PIO

The Second Infantry Division Concert Band and 40-voice chorus will present, on Sunday, December 21st, Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales, Second Division Band leaders announced today.

The program, Div's first, will be presented before a mixed audience of military personnel and civilians from the Fort Benning area and will be telecast over WTVM. Curtain time has been scheduled for 8:00 p.m., with the telecast of 6:30 p.m. due for airing at 7 p.m.

The program, "A Christmas Festival of Music" will be similar in format to Mrs. Morales' successful festival broadcast to an estimated 50 million Europeans when he was bandmaster for the 10th Infantry Division in Germany.

With a handful of musicians transferred from his former Infantry Division band to the Private Stressman will conduct the division's 40-voice chorus in the Christmas Festival of Music' at the Royal. Two soloists will be featured, Pvt. Billy B. Stuart, tenor, who received a Masters degree in music from the University of Mississippi; and Pvt. Peter A. Schweendler, baritone, who is reputed to be an outstanding New York City chorus soloist, and who appeared at the Metropolitan Opera.

"A Christmas Festival of Music" will open with the special festival compositions by LeRoy Anderson played by the division band. Mr. Harold L. Walters, conductor of the regiment yuletide melodies, "A Christmas Salute" has also been selected as a major presentation by the band. Other band presentations include compositions by Bach, Mozart and Handel.

Among notable works selected for choral presentation are "It was the Night Before Christmas," Reichardt's "Hallelujah Chorus," "Carol of the Bells," and "How Firm a Foundation."

The program will include traditional yuletide classics as well as popular Christmas music.

Admission to the local theater will be free.

Division Scores Safe Holiday Without Mishap

By 5th PIO

The Second Infantry Division Safety Council has announced that no traffic accidents involving division personnel took place during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Each of the record of the Second Infantry Division's First Thanksgiving at Fort Benning was the participation of the 67th Infantrymen who, prior to the poster contest for units of the 67th Group.

The poster contest was judged by Col. William A. Purdy, Commander of the 67th Infantry and Assistant Safety Director, Mr. Andrew J. Balkwin, who also gave a safety lecture and presented a film to the officers and men of the 67th.

First prize of one cent was awarded to Company B with Lt. Peter M. Leone III, designing the company poster. Lt. Leone is the company executive officer.

OUT OUR WAY a buzz from United Press International says the folks back home are inquisitive about "Do-it-yourself" projects in the Army. Any Indianhead who's engaged, or has completed a Do-it-yourself project for his unit, are asked to buzz your unit PIO and give the full details. UPI says they want to write stories showcasing the effectiveness of these projects within the Army. So, the call is out.

SAPF DATE was again kept by Indianheads during the Thanksgiving holidays as no major accidents were officially reported. Let's knock in memory, memorize the safety rules and remember that the Christmas holidays with the usual jammed highways are upon us. Lill Injun says that Warrior who celebrates with Firewater better off if Celebration takes place in own teepee, and keepum horseless chariot tied to totem pole, so restum braves be safe. 11th Infantry Gives Reception For Departing and New Officers

Thank You for Continuing like his subject, also met a tragic end. Garbe was an extreme opponent of Nazism and was conscripted into the German army early during the war. Taken prisoner by the Russians early in the 1940's, he is believed to have died in a prison camp.

In 1951, a fire in the entrance of the Royal Artillery Mess hall in Woolwich, England enabled Lieutenant Colonel F. T. O'Connell, a member of the Honorable Artillery Company to "Liberate" the patron saint impression on the wall before returning her to the British.

The Impression was presented to Brigadier General Partner W. Edwards, Commanding General of the 10th Infantry Division Artillery in Germany and remained with the 10th Infantry until its inactivation in June 1958. The present statue is a replica and was presented to the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery by members of the 10th Infantry Division Artillery Association.

Members of the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery will also commemorate the event with a parade on December 6 at Knight Field in Sand Hill.

Old Legend

Saint Barbara became the Artilleryman's Patron Saint many years ago. According to legend, Saint Barbara was an extremely beautiful daughter of a wealthy heathen named Dioscorus, who lived and put to death in Asia Minor. Because of her singular beauty and fearful that she would be manded in marriage and taken away from him, Dioscorus jealously shut her in a tower to protect her from the outside world.

Shortly before embarking on a journey, he commissioned a sumptuous bath - house to be built for her, approving the design before he departed. Barbara had heard of the teachings of Christ and while her father was gone she spent much time in contemplation. From the windows of her tower she looked out upon the surrounding countryside and marveled at the growing things; the plants, the trees, the animals and the people. She decided that all these must be part of a master plan, and that the idols of wood and men.

Col. Honors Three Grads

By Sgt Ezra P10

In a graduation review held on November 20, 1958, Lieutenant Colonel Charles S. MacVeigh, Second Engineer Battalion Commander, presented awards to three Honor Graduates of Company C, Second Engineer Battalion. Recruit Jose M. Asensio received an award for high score with 100% on the written test. Place honors went to Recruit Hugh W. Brigham. In the proficiency test, Recruit Raymond G. Sims received a commendation for First place.

9th Plans Holiday
 By Sgt 1st P10

With the approach of the Christmas holiday season, First Lieutenant Norman J. Schaub, but, athletic and recreation officer of the Second Battle Group, Ninth Infantry, last week announced that company level volleyball and horseshoe tournaments will be conducted. The two tournaments will begin on the 15th of December and continue through January 5. All games will be played at the Battle Group area. During these tournaments, all companies are expected to see action with a full schedule of games the first week. The teams will consist of officers and enlisted personnel organized each unit. Awards will be presented to the winning companies on a later date. Lieutenant Schaub but hopes for a large turn out for the games as this will provide recreation for all 11th Infantry personnel over the Christmas holidays.

Grads
 Thank You for Continuing that the course of instruction received at the academy would assist graduates in qualifying for the newly instituted proficiency pay and in qualifying for promotions to the Army's new super grades. Following the address, General Perry, assisted by the school's commandant, Captain Jesse W. Bewley, presented diplomas to the 55 graduating members of Class 3A. Highest honors, Overall Honor Graduate, went to Sergeant First Class Jesse D. Napier, Company C, 1st Battle Group, 8th Infantry. Academic honors were earned by Sergeant Frank H. Neuser, Company B, 8th Infantry. Sgt Napier also was honor student for Military Aptitude.

Staff Judge Advocate Administers Oath Admitting Private to Bar

By 2nd Div. PIO
 To most men who pass their state's Bar Examination to become a practicing lawyer the initial highlight of their careers comes when they are sworn in and admitted to practice by one of the state's highest officials. In the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania it is customary for the Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court to perform this honored duty, but four months ago the Army beat Pennsylvania to the punch by drafting one of the state's new-

Divarty EM Given Letter for Service
 By Divarty PIO
 Specialist Fifth Class Stanley C. Creach, Headquarters Battery, Divarty, was presented a letter of Commendation last week for being named Academic Honor graduate of the Division NCO Academy.
 The letter was signed by Artillery Commander, Brigadier General Miller O. Perry. Specialist Creach is a Radio Teletype operator in the Artillery Communications Section.

Div. CG Fires Rocket During Artillery Maneuver
 By 12th Arty PIO
 The Second Infantry Division Commander, Maj. General R. H. Wiesecke, fired the longest John rocket last week during a tactical maneuver by Battery "D", 12th Artillery Battalion.
 The Commanding General visited the Division Artillery's rocket battery in the field as well as conducted a tactical maneuver which fired the fifth longest John rocket for this year as part of the artillery training program.
 Following a pre-fire electrical check out by the rocket crew, General Wiesecke listened to a 60-second count down given by Captain Jay W. Hix, "D" Battery commander.
 At X-minute zero seconds, the general touched the firing cables to battery terminals and weapon roared off its launcher with an upward speed to its target over five miles away.
 After the successful launching, which was observed by the Division Artillery Commanding General, Brigadier General Miller O. Perry, and commander, Lieutenant Colonel Allen H. Nottingham, General Wiesecke was presented the shooting cap of the rocket's motor by the "D" Battery Rocketeers as a memento of his firing.

Top Honor Given To Pvt. Schick
 By 2nd Div. PIO
 Private Harry A. Schick, a member of Second Administration Company, was presented a Certificate of Achievement by Brigadier General Chester A. Dahlen, Assistant Division Commander, Second Infantry Division, for meritorious achievement while attending a special mechanics course conducted by the Infantry School last week.
 Private Schick was the honor graduate of the first class of forty-two students of a special seven week mechanics course set up by the Ground Mobility Department of the Infantry School designed to meet Second Infantry Division mechanical requirements.
 General Dahlen addressed the graduates and presented each graduate with a Second Division Certificate of Appreciation for successfully completing the course.

Div. Trains Team Moved To 2d Spot in Tourney
 By Div Trains PIO
 Second Infantry Division Trains moved into second place last week in the Fort Benning Boxing Tournament by winning all three of their class one fights. The Trains Team picked up a total of 15 points to raise their total to 66 for the season.
 Private First Class Robert Stevens of Headquarters Detachment defeated Herb Deese, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry in a hard fought fight. Stevens had Deese on the ropes during most of the third round in which he enabled Stevens to win by unanimous decision.
 Private Ralph Brinson, 12th Transportation Battalion won over Specialist Fourth Class Louis Tapia, Second Medium Tank, 6th Armor. Brinson had Tapia in trouble from the first round on Tapia, a game fighter was floored by Brinson in each of the three rounds.
 Specialist Fourth Class James Johnson, Second Medium Tank Battalion, won a close decision over Sergeant First Class Leo Hall, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry in the last fight of the evening.

Bandmaster

CWO Morales Builds Second Division Band

By 2nd Div. PIO
 Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales, Bandmaster, and only a handful of trained musicians who were transferred from the 10th Infantry Division composed the Second Infantry Division band in its early life. At Fort Benning, a special concert was given.
Important History-Making Commitments immediately faced a band, which in fact, did not exist. Augmented by members of the Fort Benning Band, Mr. Morales was able to place together a temporary band that furnished marching music for the Organization Review on June 14th which marked the retirement of the 10th Infantry Division and the organization of the Second Infantry Division here.
 It was able to play for several division parades, and for the ceremonial reviews of welcoming Major General R. H. Wiesecke as Division Commander.
 Mr. Morales was faced with the problem of organizing an all Second Infantry Division Band.

Off post engagements including television performances were the first step in the band's scores.
 Gradually, as the Indianapolis Division increased in strength, prospective musicians were screened and auditioned. The job of building a band was nothing new to this trim, slight built, Filipino who joined the United States Army band in 1951 as an enlisted man. He's been in the band business ever since, and through the years has organized band after band, from scratch, only to see them reduced to nothing by the usual Army personnel turnover.
 It is not unusual for Army band masters to organize new bands from the shreds of personnel losses from new recruits who, although experienced in music, have never played together. The dispiriting factor that places Mr. Morales in a category above the "normal" is the fact that he almost always produces a band of a superior nature that attracts thousands of military and civilian admirers.

Enroute Beat
 Mr. Alan Seaman of the American Forces Network in Germany, who travelled throughout Europe scouting for USAFNR's top band, remarked that in all of his experience he found Mr. Morales' organizing abilities unsurpassed. Then, as bandmaster of the 10th Infantry Division's band, Mr. Morales engineered his Concert Band and Chorus into hundreds of major concerts in Germany.
 AFN producers selected the 10th Infantry Division band for the two major band concerts of the year, Christmas and Easter which the network airs throughout its entire facilities. The 10th's band and chorus were selected for these major broadcasts for 1958 and 1957. They were chosen again for 1958, but were unable to appear because the band was rotated to the United States.
 Called the best "division sized" band in the world by noted critics, Radio Free Europo chose the 10th's band and chorus for concerts beamed to countries behind the Iron Curtain as "heroes" of democracy. The "Christmas Festival" was re-broadcast by AFN's transmitters to 14 nations. The band chorus journeyed to Bern, Switzerland for a special concert at Radio Berlin.

 Noteworthy is the fact that although the 10th's band and chorus experienced a serious personnel turnover between 1956 and 1957, and were actually different organizations, each were received by tough German critics with approval.
Plays for President
 Again, a different set of musicians were tholed into an outstanding Army band when the 10th was stationed at Fort Riley in 1954. Mr. Morales led his band in numerous middle-school concerts and appeared before President Eisenhower at the Eisenhower Museum dedication ceremony in 1954. This was not the first experience Mr. Morales had with the President. In 1957 when Mr. Morales was serving with the Army in China he was in the same outfit as the President, then a major in the 8th Infantry. They met again when Mr. Morales was playing in a Army band in North Africa. Mr. Eisenhower was then Supreme Commander.

Background
 Before his 27 years of Army service, Mr. Morales studied music in the Philippine University. Born in the Philippines, his musical interest began in early childhood. As a boy he began taking lessons on the trumpet from private teachers, and continued private instruction until he entered the Conservatory of Music.
 He joined the United States Army in 1951 and was assigned to the 31st Infantry in the Philippines, where, after Infantry training, he was assigned to the band. Service in China followed and then the United States entered World War II. Mr. Morales was assigned as Assistant Bandmaster of the Third Infantry Division band. After service in Africa and Europe, he received several stateside assignments as bandmaster.
 He served in Korea through the Korean war, and later became a member of the 27th Infantry Division at Camp Polk, La. In 1954, when many of the officers and men of the 37th were transferred to the newly activated 10th Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kansas.

St. Barbara Guards Artilleryman's Life

(Artillerymen at Fort Benning will observe Saint Barbara's Day today. Legend of the patron saint of artillery follows.)

According to legend, Saint Barbara was the daughter of a rich heathen named Dioscorus who lived near Hippopolis in Egypt. Because of her singular beauty and fearfullest she was demanded in marriage and taken away, he jealously shut her up in a tower to protect her from the outside world. Shortly before embarking on a journey, he commissioned a sumptuous bathhouse to be accepted the Christian faith.

As her belief became firm, she directed that the bathhouse be redesigned in the shape of a church, and while her father had planned, adding another window, so that the three windows might symbolize the Holy Trinity. When her father returned he was enraged at the changes and infuriated when Barbara acknowledged she was a Christian. He dragged her before the prefect of the province, who decreed that she be tortured and put to death by beheading.

Dioscorus himself carried out the death sentence. On his way home he was struck by lightning and his body consumed. A pious man buried the body of the saint, along with another who was martyred with her. At this grave the sick were healed, and the pilgrims who came to pray received aid and consolation.

Saint Barbara lived and died around the year 300, and was venerated by the Christian people as early as the second century.

The legend of the lightning bolt which strikes down the persecutor caused her to be regarded as the patron saint in times of danger from thunderstorms, fire, and pestilence. Early artillerymen exploded friendship, and artillerymen were in constant danger from their own guns.

By analogy, Saint Barbara became the spiritual protector of these men, since lightning bolts were their daily companions.

Saint Barbara is usually represented standing by a tower with three windows, carrying the palm of a martyr in her hand. Often, this symbol is in a circle and surrounded by a wreath, and sometimes a banner is displayed near her. In present calendars, the feast of Saint Barbara falls on December 4th.

It is for this reason that all artillerymen are celebrating Saint Barbara's Day, an artillery holiday.

Slingshot-Bullseye and Captain-Bombardier and Captain-Smooth Bore-Billing Plans. The evolution of artillery through the ages cannot include this amazing development without the memory of living men. Concentrated in a single symbol is the masses' line of men who are batteries, military weapons.

Appallingly inhuman, man. Yet for centuries, man, and since virgin's name of man and man. A truth still holds—the national strength lies in the heart and spirit of man.

In Letter to Future President Ike Asks Appointment Of Tot to AF Academy

NEW YORK (APPS) — For the second time in U.S. history an incumbent president has written a letter to a future president that a man be admitted to a service academy.

President Eisenhower, in a note to "the President of the United States in 1972-1976," has asked that 19-month-old Iven C. Kincheloe III be awarded an appointment to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The boy is the son of the late Air Force test pilot, Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe Jr. Capt. Kincheloe was killed while flying an experimental F-104 jet fighter, preparatory to test flying the AF's X-15, designed for a space travel.

Eisenhower, who gave a copy of the letter to Capt. Kincheloe's widow, asked that the 1972 president demonstrate "the gratitude of the nation" by making the appointment.

Presidents may make more than 200 direct appointments to the academies each year. For more than a century such appointments have been reserved for the sons of regular servicemen still in service, retired or dead.

In a similar request, President Franklin D. Roosevelt asked that the son of AAF Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., one of the first U.S. heroes of WWII, be appointed to West Point. Capt. Kelly was killed when his F-17 crashed during the bombing of a Japanese battleship several days after the Pearl Harbor attack.

29th Defeats 87th Infantry In Cage Clash

With three weeks remaining in the first half of the Major Unit basketball season, the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, 4-1 in league action, remains a contender for the championship.

The Commanders kept their hopes alive for the title by dropping the 87th Infantry, 66-41, and Second Division Trains, 45-34, in their latest action.

Well pleased with his cagers at this stage of the campaign, Coach Bob Bushong attributes the 29th's success to a well balanced attack. "We distribute our scoring among three or four players each game," he observed, "making us a fairly tough club to defend."

Statistics after five games bear out his statement. No less than four players on the 29th cage squad are averaging in the double figures, led by forward Mickey McDonald's 14.4 points per game. Following McDonald in the point production department are guard Clint Blair, 13.3; forward Ernest Wood, 12.6; and guard Al Garrett, 10.4.

On the strength of the point production of this prolific foursome, the 29th is breezing along with a per game average of 62.2 points as compared to a 52.8 average for the 87th. The Commanders had built their point total with a shooting percentage of 48.8 from the field and 64.3 from the foul line.

Individual superlatives for the team include most field goals, McDonald, 31; best shooting percentage, Garrett, 46 per cent; most free throws, Wood and Blair, 13 each; and best foul shooting percentage, Garrett, 75 per cent.

The latest addition to the squad is Lt. Jim Podraza, a member of this year's Post football team. At 6'4", 220 pounds, Podraza is counted on to give the 29th some much needed rebounding strength.

By scoring triumphs in three Class One matches, Trains checked on 10 points to its total. This vaulted it into second place ahead of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry and left it only 14 points behind the 29th. Before this card the 29th had a 21-point lead in the major unit standings.

The three winners for the Trains were heavyweight Rajko Brizovic, middleweight Bob Stevens and light middleweight Jim Johnson. All three took decisions from their opponents.

Brinson, the 220-pounder from Detroit, scored knockdowns in the first two rounds over Luis Tapia of the 66th Army and went on to win the judges' verdict.

In a first moving bout featuring some classic boxing, Johnson got the nod over highly regarded Leon Hall of the 29th. Stevens was a winner

Air Rifle Joins Infantry Arsenal

Troops at Fort Benning were joined last week to see the low-velocity rifle used in the Infantry School's vast system of instruction.

Flanked by blasting mortars on the left and crackling rifles on the right, the tiny air rifle was used in Simpson Range by Bobbie "The Boy" McDonald of Thomaston, Ga., in demonstrating his method of "instinctive shooting" instruction for a large group of Infantry School weapons experts.

Officers Win Field Meet Competition

A large and appreciative audience watched The School Brigade's Junior 51st Officer Candidate Company romp to an easy victory over their rival senior officer candidates of the 50th Company in a field day held Saturday afternoon, November 22, at Fort Benning's Stillwell Field and Bryant Wells Field House by their opponents.

Events included volleyball and basketball games, drill team competitions, tug-o-war, the free throw, a rope climb, individual manual of arms, and four swimming events.

In the group events, the 50th Company took top honors in the drill team and tug-o-war competitions, and won the volleyball game by a score of 21-17. The 51st Company won the basketball game by a score of 30-34.

In the free throw event, Peter Cook of the 50th took top honors followed by Richard Scott of the 51st taking second place honors and Frederick Johnson of the 50th taking third place.

In the rope climb, Joseph Oudi of the 51st Company took first place, with Richard Knutson and Arthur Bennett of the 50th and 51st Companies respectively taking second and third places.

In the individual manual of arms competition, the 51st Company took all three places headed by Lewis Gaylor, followed by James Gritz and Paul Finlayson.

In the four out of five swimming events, the 51st Company took all but one of the top three places in each event. In the 100 yard breast stroke, George White came home first, followed by fellow swimmer Everett Baker for second place and Mark Hoke of the 50th Company taking third place.

In the 100-yard back stroke first and second-place winners were James Kellum Jr., and John Clark, both of the 51st Company. The 51st took the 100 yard free style match in one, two, three order headed by David Fleming, John Clark and Gosford Patterson. In the final swimming event, the 400 yard free style salary, the 51st Company's David Finlayson, Everett Baker, Andre Levallo and Thomas Thornton came home for the win.

The Cub Scouts from Pack No. 42, Huger, Alabama, were disappointed not to find M-Sgt. Ernie Bilko, the popular TV star, when they paid a visit to Company A last week. The scouts were treated to a look at the modern soldiers living quarters, the weapons room and mess facilities. The young scouts were accompanied by the Den Leaders, Mrs. Virginia McVey and Mr. Alton Waites. After a tour of the company, the scouts were served the dinner meal in the mess, where

Kenneth L. Boyer is now proudly wearing the stripes of a Specialist Fourth Class. Departing on leave this week are Spt McKenzie Best and Pfc James Young. Sfc Ruben Colon was married last week in the 1st Infantry Brigade Chapel. Sfc David P. Collins leaves this company for the NCO School at the 2nd Infantry Division NCO Academy and will return to his parent unit after completing the school. Company A captured the re-enlistment plaque for the month of November, with a re-enlistment percentage of 60 per cent. Company C packing his bag and baggage and getting ready to depart for his home in Middleburg, Fla. He was a true surgeon before entering the service and will take up where he left off upon returning to his home in Omaha, Nebraska. The 45 EM who comprise Company C aggressor force in Florida will be present for the Thanksgiving turkey and trimmings. It will be a welcome relief after spending three weeks in the Florida swamps at the Ranger Camp.

The company has a father in its midst. Mrs. Robert E. Lusitane presented her husband with their first child, a girl. Sgt. Walter A. Mailech has been appointed armorer for the Battle Group Rifle Team's Weapons for the coming competition. The company's bowling team kept up its pace and placed first in the Battle Group league. The latest victim was Headquarters Company. The bowler of the night was Spt Edwin Kellerman with a 171 average and a high game of 181. The team gave one of its better performances although the team's top knicker, 1st Lt. Howard P. Petty, had to miss the action due to his brief tour of the Ranger Training Camp, Florida.

M-Sgt. Weizle Effer, Platoon Sgt., is now attending the NCO School, which is conducted by the Second Division. Headquarters & Headquarters Company. Sfc Jesse Flores, Sfc Jacob Golden and M-Sgt Marlon Olive are attending the 28 day NCO School conducted by the Second Infantry Division. Pfc Raymond W. Wozny has joined the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry basketball team. He has been playing with the Fort Benning Doughboys Football Team. Sfc Jacob Bolden and Spt Bobby D. McAbee have re-enlisted for two years. Pvt. Dalton B. Robertson has been promoted to Pfc. Pfc James Woodings and Mike Gutierrez have joined the ranks of Specialist due to their recent promotion to Sgt. Major Arthur B. Green has joined the unit from MAG in Iran. Pfc Harold Fisher, Pfc Paul Haugen, Pfc Donald Webb, and Pvt. John R. Hatcher, have joined the company from the 72nd Engineer Company. Pvt's Ronald Baranowicz, Harold Bailey, and Ernest Bell, Jr. came from the 8th Chemical Company, while an former man Pfc David Moss came from Company A of the 14th Infantry.

Motor Battery—The 14th Infantry Flag Foot. The motor battery was the vision for the Second Championship. The 14th downed their opponents by a score of 26-6. The battery has six men on the team which played the entire season undefeated. Pfc Harry Wainwright was selected as Outstanding Sentinel of the Guard and will receive a three day pass. M-Sgt. Stanley Goodman and Sfc John Brunsvick have received their orders for Germany.

Company "B"—2nd Lt. James H. Finbes and 15 men from the company have returned from their trip to Florida. Finbes, a better known as the Ranger Training Camp where they acted as aggressors. Pfc Daniel Brown and Joe Faison, having been victorious in their last fight will represent the 14th Infantry in the coming Third Army Tournament. Sgt. Carlos Colburn and Pfc Thomas Wilson are attending the Radio Repair Course at the Infantry Center.

Company "D"—Company D has 45 men and one officer returning to Fort Benning from the Ranger Training Camp. The company has been running program for ranger students. Sfc James Bray has departed on a 10 day leave which he will spend with his wife and children. Sfc Arthur Wilson, supply sergeant, has left his saddle and jumped in the middle of the supply room after spending 10 days of leave in Oklahoma. 87th Chemical Company Pvt. Coach Fetes YAC Team With Dinner

A dinner was given by CWO Lafayette Pool of the CWO League to honor the YAC team boys on his team, parents and friends, Nov. 20. After the main course of the meal, Col. Glenn Gardner, chairman of the YAC football program, said that "Coach Pool's sincere interest in the welfare of the boys of Fort Benning was something that a money could not buy." This was demonstrated later by Pool's presentation to Coach Pool from the boys of the team which was inscribed, "Best Coach."

Pool began his avocation in athletic management when he was stationed in Puerto Rico and took over the organization of a large group of youngsters and formed a baseball league. When he came to Fort Benning three years ago he contributed free hours refereeing for the Youth Activities Club.

For the past two years he has spent many hours of his time coaching, managing and officiating football, basketball, and baseball on post. CWO Pool is shop officer for the 59th Ordnance Company, Infantry Center Group headquarters. During World War II he was highly decorated for action in the European Theater. Outstanding sports enthusiast is the Distinguished Cross, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart, and the French Fourragere. Attributed to combat in World War II is the loss of one leg.

Officer Commissioned At West Point, IOCS

Lt. George S. Kourakos, newly assigned to the department of non-resident instruction, of Infantry School, holds the unusual distinction of having twice received a commission as Army officer. Lt. Kourakos, commissioned after graduation from the Infantry School Candidate School at Fort Benning in 1947, resigned his commission after two and one-half years of service in Germany to accept an appointment to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., from which he was graduated in 1954. He arrived at West Point, formerly the Main Post Nursery, is located in Buildings 1075-6 Old Hospital Area. It is operated as a non-profit post service, and is a project of the Daughters of the United States Army, Fort Benning chapter, under Mrs. H. B. Kutzig, president.

Mrs. Leeney Fetes Lawson Field Wives

The Headquarters Group of Lawson Field Command were entertained in the home of Mrs. Harry L. Thomas on Wednesday November 19, 1958. Thirty women attended the buffet luncheon and were introduced to the wife of the new commandant of Lawson Field, Mrs. Leeney.

The table was adorned with white linens cloth accented by the centerpiece of multi-colored pink chrysanthemums arranged in a pink cut glass bowl.

Assisting Mrs. Thomas with the serving were Mesdames George Turner, Gerald Dyer, Lawrence Stone, and John Kearney. Mrs. Leeney acknowledged her introduction with a speech and the other new members and guests were then welcomed by the president, Mrs. A. V. Juliano.

Congratulations were in order to members with new babies—Mesdames Milton Benz, William Kester, and John Murphy.

COFFEE DATE HELD

Entertaining at her home on Stewart Avenue recently Mrs. Francis H. Serafini was hostess at coffee for wives of officers of The Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department.

Centering the dining room table, spread with an ecru lace cloth, was an arrangement of choice seasonal flowers. Appointments were in silver and platinum over porcelain. The mantel decor was comprised of dried miniature chrysanthemums and stock in shades of tan.

Mesdames James E. White and Bernard L. Garrett were welcomed as new members of the group.

MRS. JORDAN HONORED AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. Alfred M. Leonard entertained recently at her home on Plantation Road with a Black Shower honoring Mrs. Ruth Jordan. The house was decorated with cut flowers and yellow and green motif.

A large stork stood over a decorated wicker basket ready to receive and deliver the presents. The stork held a diaper containing a small baby doll in

Paintings Aid In Decoration Of Unit Area

Specialist Fifth Class Leo Montana of the 600th Engineer Company (Field Maintenance) has been busy recently decorating the unit mess hall and dayroom. His pictures include "Oriental Scene" in the dayroom, "A Frieze a Scene," "Stream," and one of a float in the 1957 Rose Bowl parade in the Unit Mess Hall.

"The African Scene" and "Stream" are his first contributions to the unit and were painted last January. One depicts a lion which has just made a kill with several Rhinoceroses in the background. The other pictures a mountain stream.

His fourth and latest picture is that of a float in one of the Rose Bowl parades painted from a color slide.

Specialist Montana is assigned as a shop clerk. This duty calls for a versatile man to keep up with the large number

On the Bookshelf

Cultured Miss by Ashley Montagu (World, 1958).

"The author treats the whole subject of our culture and its criticisms of our standards in a method that is readable and becomes objectively clear. The major portion of this book is a method, consisting of fifteen hundred questions and their answers, for determining your own status on the scale of culture."

Westerling by Irwin Blacker (World, 1958).

"A realistic novel in which the reader goes along with wagon train in the 1840's from Independence, Mo., to Oregon with an assortment of people from varied parts of the East and different social backgrounds. The interpolation of sections from one man's careful sober diary is effective."

Black Mark by Doris Disney (Doubleday 1958)

"Young, capable Lucia Ruyter, who works in a bank, is almost a hit and miss character but dismisses the incident until she is the recipient of oblique, anonymous notices. The sneer widens and others are added, talks and breaks the case through a series of long watches."

The Mark by Charles Israel (Simon, 1958).

"A novel about a young man who lived in constant fear of equipment records and status reports for equipment that is repaired within the 600th Engineer Company (Field Maintenance) Shop."

His painting is strictly a hobby by which has greatly benefited the 600th by adding so much to both the mess hall and the dayroom. Needless to say Specialist Montana is never lacking for any spare time. This job allows can be more than filled by any number of requests for pictures to decorate the unit area.

Robinson Appointed To NCO Academy

Service Battery

M-Sgt. James D. Robinson departed from Service Battery to attend a 30 day tour to attend the 2d Infantry Division's Non-Commissioned Officers Academy at Fort Benning, Georgia. He will return to his unit upon completion of instructions and reassignment of responsibilities as Battalion 5 Sergeant.

Sic George J. Savakins is also attending school here at Fort Benning. He began on 24 November 1958, a two week course at the post CBR School. This course is an interesting study of the various gases, their uses and means of decomposition. Sic Savakins is the assistant ammunition supply sergeant for the battalion.

Sic Grandy F. Ferguson has taken up a very unusual time occupation. He is currently taking diving lessons at the Kings school of aviation on Victory Drive. Sp4 Ferguson is flying a Tri-Traveller and is a member of the basic section, has also flown the Cessna 180 and Piper Cubs at the Kings school of aviation for 8 hours flying time from obtaining a pilot's license. Sp4 Ferguson's ambition is to be a commercial pilot after returning to civilian life.

Service Battery, Sp4 Ferguson works as a mechanic.

"Eighteen law enforcement officers from all over the world have contended to this collection—Edna, man, recounting the strangest case of his career. The stories, true except for use of fictitious names, vary from the account of the suave, sophisticated cat burglar of Florida to the case of the Australian Bluebeard whose nine wives became his victims, and the telegraphic police in Vancouver who could read the minds of his criminals."

Come North With Me by Bert Batchelor (Dutton, 1958).

"The Norwegian-born flyer, explorer and adventurer who explored Byrd's Antarctica in the New York to Paris Air Derby, and later flew Byrd's family the South Pole, gives his first-hand account of these events. . . He also records his experiences in establishing U. S. military bases in Greenland, evacuating Norwegian pilots to England, and helping the Norwegian resistance during World War II."

Gen. Lee Named 29th Infantry News To AG Position

WASHINGTON (APFS)— Maj. Gen. Herbert M. Jones, retiring after 40 years service, will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Robert V. Lee as the Adjutant General of the Army on Nov. 1.

The post of Deputy Adjutant General, now held by Gen. Lee, will be filled by Brig. Gen. Bruce Easley, chief of the AG Personnel Division.

Unit Mess Decorated With Indian Murals

Company A, 29th Infantry, returned from the north Georgia Ranger Training camp in time for Thanksgiving dinner, were greeted by a newly decorated dining room.

The beautifully decorated dining room was officially opened when Col. Richard F. Kent, 29th Infantry commander, snipped the ribbon at 4:30 p.m. Nov. 23.

Murals, in bright colors, of tribal life of Indians of the Northwest are enough to catch the eye of any Hadeskin. The scenes include Indians in a war canoe, Indians at a place of worship and many totem poles. The murals are of natural wood over the windows carry out the Indian motif of living.

Capt. Warren P. Brown, company commander served refreshments to officers of the First Infantry Brigade, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, and all members of the company who came to view the paintings. Some 230 persons were present for the opening.

Credit for the elaborate decorations of the dining room goes to Lt. Douglas H. Small, mess officer, M-Sgt. Albert G. Tucker, mess steward, and Pfc Donald J. Robinson, Hq. Co., Infantry Center Troop Command.

Robinson, a graduate of Long Island Agriculture and Technical Institute, is a New York City construction engineer. He has assisted in erecting homes, churches, hospitals, wind tunnels and bridges in and around the city. Interior decorating is a hobby with him and has been put to good use while he has been in the Army. Some of his work may be seen in the mess hall and officers club in the Officers Candidate School area.

Lt. Small selected the murals to be painted and assisted in painting the totem poles.

Sgt. Tucker master minded the assembly of the surplus and scrap materials used in the decorations.

Capt. Brown extends an invitation to members of the post to view the unique decorations.

Jacob Scott donned the chevrons of a buck sergeant, the first three stripes in the company in over 10 years. He received his promotion from SP4 last week and also promoted was John M. Sprague to the rank of SP4.

Members of the company are Pfc. Peter K. Bazzo, Assad Szczerban and Cornelius J. Daugherty.

and has been named Paul Howard. Company D is a boy for 2d Lt. and Mrs. Warren J. McDonald, born at the Martin Army Hospital on Thanksgiving day and named Warren J. III.

The company has been assigned Sgt. David L. Hopkins, Sgt. Harold M. Whitener has received orders for Europe on a duty.

Hoses to Wear Dacron Jacket To Prevent Rot

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Dacron may soon be the new firehose fashion for military smoke eaters.

Under test at the Army's Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Ft. Belvoir, Va., is dacron-jacketed hose that is resistant to mildew and fungus rot, bugboos of firefighters.

Expected to fill the needs of the armed forces for better lightweight equipment, the dacron hose is as strong as the double-jacketed cotton hose now used and weighs 35 pounds a fifty-foot length, compared to 60 pounds for the present fabric-covered hose.

Because of its smaller size and greater flexibility to temperatures 65 degrees below zero, firefighting apparatus can carry a third more of the dacron hose, the Army said.

Navymen Cook Bacon and Eggs On Catapult

With the Seventh Fleet (APFS)—It was hot enough to fry an egg on the sidewalk as the saying goes, and aboard a ship, it was even hotter. The next best thing and the delectable meal of crisp bacon and eggs—all fried to a gourmet's perfection on the starboard catapult!

Snakes, Skunks Send Lieutenant to School

Few Fort Benning residents are aware of the local snake population, but 2nd Lieutenant Richard Marshall of the 1st Battle Group, 25th Infantry has been disappointed by the scarcity of reptiles.

Lieutenant Marshall worked his way through the University of Florida by catching snakes and selling them to zoos, colleges and pet stores. The 22-year-old zoologist sold the reptiles from seventy-five cents to a dollar a pop.

"I've found Fort Benning full of stink about poisonous snakes, but I've never been there when the snake is," says Lt. Marshall. Now a platoon leader and Company A of the 1st Battle Group, 25th Infantry, Lt. Marshall has spent several Sundays afternoons hunting for the rattlers, copperheads, cottonmouth moccasins and coon snakes, but without success.

Not for Amateurs

For hunting poisonous snakes in Florida he used a snake head made from the chest of an old golf club. According to Lt. Marshall, the rattlesnake has a strong fear of falling objects and what needs to be done to capture him is to lift the reptile on a hook so he will be immobilized. Such work is not for amateurs because a slip could be fatal.

The deadly nocturnal coral snakes will not bite. Instead they have to grab a good spot and chew for from three to five seconds to inject their venom. Acknowledging the risks involved in the reptile supply business, Lt. Marshall argues that "You can get hurt anywhere if you don't know what you're doing."

The flying squirrels were gifted on the run of the house and made playful pets. Unfortunately the winged mammals have nocturnal habits; they sleep during the day and are avoid nightfliers. The ensuing nightly noise proved too great and the flying squirrels were let loose.

According to Lt. Marshall the best pet is a raccoon. He kept one in his college fraternity house for two years. The raccoon made an active and intelligent pet, but his favorite activity was scheming to get people to chase him with a pencil or pen or knock over a lamp and wait expectantly to be chased.

At present the Marshall household is devoid of pets with all the attention being devoted to a new baby girl. Lt. Marshall is looking forward to the hunting season because "Fort Benning is loaded with small signs in the Army—the soldier who never sounded off about the chow or the inspections or the training was more to be suspected of low morale than the soldier who did.

Teague Cites Gripe Lack

NEW YORK (AP)—After listening to Rep. Olin Teague, you might wonder what you might wonder what has happened to the U. S. Seventh Army in Europe—or to the Army as a whole.

Not so many years ago it was commonplace to hear that griping was a healthy sign in the Army—the soldier who never sounded off about the chow or the inspections or the training was more to be suspected of low morale than the soldier who did.

Lost Dog Tags Find Forgetful Owner

NURNBERG, Germany—The next time SFC James W. Webster, N.Y., takes his dog tags off and hangs them on a fence post, he'll remember to put them on again. It took him 14 years to get one set back.

During World War II Heaven served with the First Special Service Force, a commando-type unit. After the invasion of Southern France on August 15, 1944, he paused to wash up during a lull before dawn. That's when he hung the dog tags in the rear of a small French inn the next day.

Not long ago he received a letter from his mother with the errant tags enclosed. A farmer digging in the rear of the inn had discovered the identification devices, found the next-of-kin name still legible, and asked the live snail to help their well-known musk glands.

Mrs. Pearl Heaven enclosing can make life very uncomfortable. For would-be skunk brigade, to the pers who got sprayed, the only U.S. to Germany.

Need More Mechanization

"The Infantry can no longer rely on the mach 400 speed of the foot soldier," delegates to the U. S. Army Infantry Conference at Fort Benning were told by Col. Lee Wallace of the Command and General Staff College.

The modernized Infantry division must be provided with increased mechanization and air and strategic mobility, the speaker declared.

In his address to the more than 200 high-ranking Army leaders, meeting for the first world-wide Infantry conference since 1946, Col. Wallace placed major emphasis on the increased capabilities of the future Infantry division in the effectiveness of weapons, surveillance, signal communications and mobility.

"Tactical operations of the future will place greater reliance on the employment of small highly mobile semi-independent combined arms task forces which are illusive, fast moving, easy to hide and equipped with powerful weapons," he said. "Infiltration and tactical cover and deception will be exploited to the maximum," Col. Wallace told the conference.

He also discussed the futuristic organization of the Infantry division which may be adopted as a result of the development of new doctrine and the introduction of new materiel estimated to be available during the period from 1961 to 1970.

Col. Wallace urged the conferees to study ways to reduce the "reaction time of staff operations in the nuclear - missile environment," pointing out that administrative and logistical support functions must be "responsive to the tactical operations."

The speaker told the conferees that a continuous review of organizational and operational concepts of the Infantry division is necessary to ensure progress in the field of doctrine.

Continuing Red Threat

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., (ANS) — "The Communist bloc gives every indication of being able to perpetuate the cold war indefinitely," General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, the Army's Vice Chief of Staff, told members of the West Branch Manufacturers' Association here last week. "The danger we face is not a thing of the moment."

Addressing the Manufacturers' fall banquet on "The Challenge to National Security," General Lemnitzer pointed out that the Soviet Union:

Has an army which, with the possible exception of its Communist Chinese ally, is the world's largest.

Has a very real and formidable submarine force.

Has a substantial atomic stockpile and a growing fleet of long-range aircraft.

Continues its efforts to acquire intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"With such impressive military forces, the Soviet Union certainly has the capability to launch all-out nuclear warfare on a global scale," the General explained. "It also has the capability to wage limited war."

The General also stressed that ever since the Communist Revolution (more than 40 years ago) determined expansion through the most colossal military aggression has been a routine device of the Communist regimes.

"Of the various conflicts which could be classified as little wars which occurred between World War I and II there have been 17 such conflicts, with the Communist bloc nations participating in nine," he said.

He also pointed out that Communist strategy includes economic aggrandizement, propaganda warfare, subversion, infiltration, and the coup d'etat, as well as the massive military threat. Therefore, he declared:

"If past behavior can be taken as an indication of future intentions, the Communists have no doubt either of their aims or of the means they are willing to resort to in order to achieve them."

International Roundup Red VIP Removed; Suspect Demotion

LONDON — The Soviet Union announced Monday night the removal of Gen. Ivan Serov, top security chief, who served as a sort of super-guard and advance agent for Premier Nikita Khrushchev on his travels. Serov was chief of intelligence and counterintelligence.

Moscow radio said he had been assigned to other work but didn't say why. In Soviet procedure this usually means demotion but not purging.

Serov was a specialist in security arrangements and on mass deportations.

A Moscow broadcast said the president of the Supreme Soviet had released Serov from his Security job.

An army general, Serov took over the top police job in April 1954. He was renamed last March to the post — officially the chairman of the committee of state security.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (LT. COL.) JOSEPH J. MORRELL "Now I am a soldier in the most fascinating branch of the service there is... wrote Joseph Kilmer from the Western Front in 1918. And he added that he was living a wonderful life... that this was the finest job in the army... captured Kilmer's imagination... It was proving about the woods, locating the exact positions of the machine-gun nests of the enemy... to Joyce Kilmer was able to see his dangerous—and ultimately fatal—assignment something exhilarating because he had learned to see the beautiful and the good in the trials and tribulations of life..."

The Judge Says...

One of the most precious privileges you possess is the one giving you authority to drive your car on the public highways throughout the United States. Each state, to preserve safety, requires all residents to comply with the rules and regulations of that particular state before a license to operate a motor vehicle is issued. The requirements must be met, so generally uniform; however, some jurisdictions are more stringent than others; in fact, some states will not issue a license to operate a vehicle until the applicant passes a rigid mental and physical examination. In addition, certain age requirements must be met, so that the possibilities of permitting an incapable or incompetent driver on the road are reduced to the minimum.

Since the authority to operate your car is not an inherent right, but only a license, your privilege to drive may be temporarily suspended or permanently revoked, for reasons, by the appropriate authorities of the state wherein such license was originally issued. Some of the best convicted of such license suspension or revocation of a driving license, you are, among others, convictions of serious traffic offenses such as driving under the influence of intoxicants or reckless driving resulting in personal injury or property damage.

It is not an unusual case in the local civil courts to see an individual fined as much as $250.00 on conviction of driving under the influence of intoxicants and, in addition, having his operator's license taken from him by the president of the state. It is the authorities of the state in issue with a recommendation for suspension or revocation based on the seriousness of the offense and the number of prior convictions. Military personnel are not exempt from this procedure. Although an installation commander cannot suspend or revoke a license issued by a state, he may suspend or revoke your privilege to drive in the military reservation, and he may also recommend to the appropriate state authorities that your license be suspended or revoked.

The operation of a car has become a costly change from a luxury to a life necessity. Even those quartered on the post are being charged for the cost of the car, and those without transportation from their homes to their organizations are being charged for the various communities off the reservation suspension or revocation of a driving license, you are, among others, convictions of serious traffic offenses such as driving under the influence of intoxicants or reckless driving resulting in personal injury or property damage.

E-8 Stated For M-Sgt. Wayne Canup School Takes Flame-Eater As Candidate

M-Sgt. Wayne M. Canup has been promoted to the newly inaugurated Army grade of E-8 at Fort Benning.

Sergeant Major of the Infantry Company Command and Staff Detachment, he has been assigned to the department since September, 1957.

Sgt. Canup was personnel sergeant major of the First United States Cavalry, School Brigade, at Fort Benning from October, 1950, to September, 1952. After serving in Korea in the 1st Intelligence Squadron of Eighth Army from September, 1952, to March, 1954, he was assigned to the 6th Division of the Third Infantry Division at Fort Benning from April, 1954, to September, 1957. Sgt. Canup was on U.S. Army Reserve duty in the 1st Cavalry Division.

His awards and decorations include the Army Commendation Ribbon.

On another occasion his team, of which he was the leader, was the first to reach the top of Mt. Kinross, a 10,000-foot high mountain in Idaho's Sawtooth Mountains. These were the first to reach the top of the mountain and required a lot of storm work in finding their way to them out.

Movie Time At Benning

Cinema Highlights

Machete, turbaned drama of murder and romance set on a sugar plantation where a newly arrived wife sets aflame the sultry passions and smoldering hatreds among the men who work and live there. The film stars Mari Blanchard and Albert Dekker. Film is listed as a mature drama and adventure movie.

Winchester '73, family western starring James Stewart, Shelley Winters and Dan Duryea. The picture takes its title from the famed 1873 model Winchester rifle. The film tells of a hunt for the famous "The Gun that won the West." The prize fire arm passed from hand to hand until it reaches the trigger finger of the man destined to claim it for his own.

House on Haunted Hill, mature horror drama with Vincent Price and Carol O'Connor. A ghost story which takes place in a 100-year-old house is centered on haunting and occult party. A blood chilling climax occurs — this you must see for yourself.

Tokyo After Dark, melodrama, stars Richard Long and Moby McCarthy. The film tells of the love-affair between an American G.I. and a beautiful Japanese singer and what happens when the singer is accused of the murder of a Japanese boy.

I Want to Live, featuring Susan Hayward and Simon Oakland, is a mature suspense picture starring Jerry Lewis and Marie McDonald. The story of a woman who could consort with known murderers, and whose best conviction is of jury of prostitution, of passing bad checks, of shilling for a driving license, who also was a devoted mother.

The One That Got Away, starring Hardy Kruger and Colin Gordon in a World War II drama. A remarkable story of persistence, ingenuity, and high adventure from the secret files of British Intelligence.

Library Sets Yule Theme For Concert

A program of recorded Christmas music will be presented at the Main Post Library next Tuesday evening, December 18th.

The featured program will be an album entitled "O Tannenbaum" and Christmas music from "Missa" by Handel. "O Tannenbaum" is subtitled "Christmas on the Rhine." The selections were produced and recorded in Germany, but the spirit they generate is universal. Many of the carols, some of which are centuries old, have been internationally beloved for generations. Simple and deeply sincere, these hymn-tunes have become part of the world's treasury of folk-songs.

The "Missa" was composed in 1741. It is accepted as the greatest oratorio ever written. This portion of the Messiah is performed by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Leonard Bernstein. The concert will begin at 19:30 hours.

SURE THING Stopped his seeking in Hot Springs, Ark., a motorist was asked why he displayed campaign stickers for municipal judges on his windshield. His reply: "I can't believe it or I can't be wrong."

On the Bookshelf At Armed Forces YMCA

The Day I Was Proudest to Be an American by Donald Robinson. (Doubleday, 1956).

"The best things of America... the qualities of character and bearing in which American men take pride," are cited in this anthology of personal experiences as told by a cross section of Americans, famous and obscure, of various colors, creeds, occupations, and opinions, from Edward Curtis to General Curtis LeMay, from Kate Smith to Dorothy Canfield Fisher.

Ako-Ako by Thor Heyerdahl. (Rand McNally, 1956). "In 1955, Thor Heyerdahl led an expedition to the southwest Pacific to solve the mysteries of Easter Island, particularly the origin of the giant stone statues there and the identity of the primitive race who erected them. This account details the adventures and the findings of the expedition."

War and Peace in the Space Age by James S. Gavin. (Harper, 1957). "The purpose of this book is to treat the national defense problem as an entity, in terms of space, of the earth and of the role of all services and the defense establishment that controls them."

Winning by Oakley Hall. (Warlock, 1957). "The southwest frontier of the 1880's, Warlock, a territorial mining settlement, is at the mercy of a gang of cattle rustlers led by a wanton killer. A Citizens Committee hires a peace officer, Clay Blaisdell, a renowned gunman. The novel's action spans the year during which Blaisdell, a cowboy, a marshal—a year of fear, desperation and violence."

Sweet Bird of Paradise by Barker. (Random House, 1958). "An historical novel about a doctor from New Hampshire, who after the death of his first wife, goes to practice in the Hebrides, where he courts the daughter of the local lord. The time is the late eighteenth century."

Much has long been a part of the military, and for centuries has lifted both young and old to new levels of patriotism. The story of military music will be presented this week on "QUEEN OF BATTLE" at 6:45 p.m., Saturday over WRBL. From early Biblical days to the present, music has played an important role in the lives of servicemen.

For the full story on the marching band, don't miss "Queen of Battle" this week. You'll have a chance to keep up with all the different activities at the Infantry Center this weekend too, via radio and television. On the TV side, War and Peace in the Space Age by James S. Gavin. (Harper, 1957). "The purpose of this book is to treat the national defense problem as an entity, in terms of space, of the earth and of the role of all services and the defense establishment that controls them."

The Day I Was Proudest to Be an American by Donald Robinson. (Doubleday, 1956).

"The best things of America... the qualities of character and bearing in which American men take pride," are cited in this anthology of personal experiences as told by a cross section of Americans, famous and obscure, of various colors, creeds, occupations, and opinions, from Edward Curtis to General Curtis LeMay, from Kate Smith to Dorothy Canfield Fisher.

Ako-Ako by Thor Heyerdahl. (Rand McNally, 1956). "In 1955, Thor Heyerdahl led an expedition to the southwest Pacific to solve the mysteries of Easter Island, particularly the origin of the giant stone statues there and the identity of the primitive race who erected them. This account details the adventures and the findings of the expedition."

War and Peace in the Space Age by James S. Gavin. (Harper, 1957). "The purpose of this book is to treat the national defense problem as an entity, in terms of space, of the earth and of the role of all services and the defense establishment that controls them."

Winning by Oakley Hall. (Warlock, 1957). "The southwest frontier of the 1880's, Warlock, a territorial mining settlement, is at the mercy of a gang of cattle rustlers led by a wanton killer. A Citizens Committee hires a peace officer, Clay Blaisdell, a renowned gunman. The novel's action spans the year during which Blaisdell, a cowboy, a marshal—a year of fear, desperation and violence."

Sweet Bird of Paradise by Barker. (Random House, 1958). "An historical novel about a doctor from New Hampshire, who after the death of his first wife, goes to practice in the Hebrides, where he courts the daughter of the local lord. The time is the late eighteenth century."

Much has long been a part of the military, and for centuries has lifted both young and old to new levels of patriotism. The story of military music will be presented this week on "QUEEN OF BATTLE" at 6:45 p.m., Saturday over WRBL. From early Biblical days to the present, music has played an important role in the lives of servicemen.

For the full story on the marching band, don't miss "Queen of Battle" this week. You'll have a chance to keep up with all the different activities at the Infantry Center this weekend too, via radio and television. On the TV side, War and Peace in the Space Age by James S. Gavin. New CO Appointed To Head 505th Unit 505th Transportation Company commander, Capt. William F. Sidley, succeeds Capt. Coe H. Bennett who has been transferred to the Post Motor Pool as a motor officer. Prior to being assigned to the company, Capt. Sidley had served for some time as the SA officer for the battalion. Four new men have been assigned to the company. Three of them, Pvt. Richard L. Barrow, Elwood W. Harbrough and Pvt. M. C. McCardell came to us from the 187th Ordnance Company. The other, SP-4 Earl Hunter, was transferred to the states from a tour in Alaska.

Two men have received orders for Europe. They are SP-4 Walter Burns and Jessie L. Tesgue.

515th Transportation Company returned to the company after an extended stay at Dahloga, where they have been supporting range training.

The first group, headed by 2d Lt. Henry A. Funder, arrived on the 25th from Dahloga. They had been there for the past 26 days. The other group, commanded by 2d Lt. Louis W. Jones, arrived the next day. They had been at Eglin for 20 days.

The EM are on their way to Europe while another is headed for the Far East. Those going to Europe are Pfc Gary A. Smith, Warren J. Funder, Rodney L. Rice, David H. Day, Ralph L. Stroup and William A. Neill. The one headed for the Far East is Pfc Robert L. Jones.

Company A. Company A announces that one of its members has again been named Soldier of the Month. He is Pvt. Daniel J. Sweney, who was in the letterhead division at Leesport, Pa.

13 men, headed by 3d Lt. Carl E. Peters, returned from Fort Monroe, Va. They were there on TDY for 30 days replacing the 68th Signal Company (SP) in the communications center.

During their stay the men pulled up many honors. Their touch football team took second place in the Leigh Moore Post League.

The 560th has a new CO. He is Capt. Arthur L. Boyd. Capt. Boyd succeeds 1st Lt. Frederick R. Dart.

Seven men are now working on Operation South Carolina. They are SP-4 David J. Knowlton, Marcell H. Howie, Everett Butler, Ramon G. Lambolt, Max Clay, Pfc. Alexander DeGeorge and Pvt. Larry W. Ions.

The latest weather and road information dealing with the road exits from Fort Benning will be published for the benefit of groups leaving the post. Also, the Division's chaplains will give an assist to the safety effort in their sermons during the next few weeks.

To give additional emphasis to their safety campaign, the 87th Infantry held a unit wide safety contest during the 8th of the First Battle Group.

Barney Warner, Darner, Captain of the 1st Battalion, commanding officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 87th Infantry Division, emphasized in his safety orientation that "Every man must drive safely and protect himself as well as the man to his front, rear, left and right." He pointed out that "no soldier will be stopped or picked up by the police unless he is doing something wrong."

Division Wide Campaign Gen. Wienecke Expresses Hope Safety Will Keynote Holidays

By 2nd Div PIO
The Second Infantry Division is continuing its all-out campaign to make the forthcoming holiday season a safe and sound occasion for the more than 10,000 men of the famed "Indianhead Division." It is the expressed hope of Major General R. H. Wienecke, Commanding General of the Second Division, that the division's first Christmas and New Year holidays at Fort Benning will be accident free.

Throughout the entire division a long planned holiday safety campaign is currently in progress. Pre-holiday safety orientation lectures are being given by unit commanders to all of their men. These orientations stress the necessity of safe driving as well as exemplary conduct while off duty. Keeping the high accident area, Fifty-three percent of these accidents happened while the vehicles were moving at speeds from 30 to 60 miles per hour, however, all were traveling in excess of the existing speed laws.

Although safety emphasis is a continuous part of the normal activity of the Second Division, the enlarged program has been expanded to directly effect each man in the division beginning on December 15th each issue of the Daily Bulletin will feature a pictorial safety "Emergency Driving Situation." For the past two months composite photographs of accidents have been distributed to all units, visually portraying the importance of safe driving.

Safety Fairs.
Radio appeals and winter driving lectures have been directed to the soldier, and a pink flyer will be attached to each holiday form giving seasons greetings and safety warning. A 20-foot banner at the approach to the Sand Hill exit will also be the safety departing soldier that safety is his job.

The latest weather and road information dealing with the road exits from Fort Benning will be published for the benefit of groups leaving the post. Also, the Division's chaplains will give an assist to the safety effort in their sermons during the next few weeks.

of what can and always does happen during the forthcoming holiday season. Last Christmas 245 of the nation's population died as a result of New Year's death rate the month of December and January had the highest total of accidental deaths in one year ago, in December of 1957, some 8,700 Americans were killed.

Eight thousand more were killed in January of 1958 for a total of 16,700 killed during the two month period.

The National Safety Council points out that approximately three out of every 10 drivers involved in fatal accidents violated speed laws applicable to the particular accident area. Fifty-three percent of these accidents happened while the vehicles were moving at speeds from 30 to 60 miles per hour, however, all were traveling in excess of the existing speed laws.

Colonel Lindner went on to warn that over indulgence in late-night, hitch-hiking, browsing and fast-lighting are primary factors contributing to accidents during off-duty hours and should be avoided to maintain the division's high record of good conduct.

700 Arty Troops Honors St. Barbara With Parade

BY DIVARTY PIO
Approximately 700 troops of the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery paraded before the Commanding General and other military dignitaries Saturday morning as part of the week-long activities celebrating the Feast of Saint Barbara.

DIV BEST MESS... Headquarters Company, 87th Infantry, awarded Best Mess for third time. Receiving the award from Major General R. H. Wienecke, Second Infantry Division Commanding General, is Sergeant First Class Porter T. Davis, Mess Steward.

The review was also witnessed by the Second Infantry Division Commanding General, Major General R. H. Wienecke, the Division Chief of Staff, Colonel Kenneth R. Lindner, other staff officers and civilian guests.

The parade, held at Knight Field in Sand Hill, climaxed this year's celebration of the Feast of Saint Barbara, the legendary figure who is the Patron Saint of artillerymen the world over.

At the beginning of the review, General Perry told the assembled officers and men the reason behind the Saint Barbara celebrations and gave a brief history of the Feast. He also commented on the various accomplishments within the artillery unit during the year.

During the review, the Saint Barbara statuette was displayed to the public.

Highlighting the Saint Barbara activities during the week was a state display on December 16th at Camp Field on Main Post. During the displays, the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery presented a display of the 10th Artillery to show their top awards including the highest self propelled 165 mm mortar howitzer to the 4.5 rocket launcher. Other displays included the eight-inch howitzer, the working mess section, weather section, an Honest John rocket and the powerful Corporal missile.

Ending the Saint Barbara Day activities for the year was a party for all artillery officers which was held on December 6 at the Main Officers Club during which new artillery Second Lieutenants were named First Class Gimmers.

9th Inf. Allows 14 Days Leave For Christmas

By 5th Inf PIO
With the Christmas season holiday approaching, trainees of the Second Battle Group, Ninth Infantry, are already making plans to depart their units for a two-week leave starting on December 20. The Advanced Individual Training Program now being conducted by the Battle Group will suspend operation on the afternoon of the 19th to afford opportunity for the maximum number of personnel to spend Christmas with their families and friends. All trainees who wish to take leave over the holidays will be granted 14 days. Personnel who do not take leave will work only half-day schedules and will be allowed to participate in planned recreation for all companies, the announcement said.

SURPRISE . . . Former Sergeant First Class Ulus S. Gill, Second Aviation Company, received a surprise promotion to Master Sergeant last week. He received the unexpected honor while attending the advanced course at the NCO Academy at Kelley Hill.

Ga. 'U' Begins Winter Register On January 2nd

By 24 Div PIO
Registration for the Winter Register of the Columbus Center, of the University of Georgia, will begin on January 2, 1959. The term will commence on January 5th, and end on March 15th. Second Division personnel who are interested in attending the classes and desire government aid are requested to apply through the Education Center on Main Post at Fort Benning, Georgia (GPO 36111).
"Now is the time to start thinking about the subject which you might want to take," an education spokesman said.

Over 500 See Honest John's Night Flight

By Divarty PIO
Over 500 military and civilian guests of the Fort Benning area got a first hand look at the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery fire power last week, as they observed a night firing mission of an Honest John rocket by members of Battery "D", 12th Artillery Battalion on December 6.
The firing of the missile, the first night firing conducted by the 12th Artillery rocketeers was held as part of a day long training exercise in which approximately 45 troops of the 12th Artillery Battalion participated.

Touching off the supersonic weapons was Colonel James E. Goodwin, Division Artillery Executive Officer who touched the terminals to the battery, sending the 6,000 pound missile roaring to its target.
The firing marked the sixth successful firing of the Honest John rocket by the unit at Fort Benning.

Maj. Collects Old Weapons As His Hobby

By Ith IED PIO

Antique weapons of various types and sizes which are the product of four continents, come major to make a small arsenal in the Fort Benning home of Major Karl W. Volk Jr., 54 officer of the First Battalion, 11th Infantry.

The Major chose the hobby of collecting antique weapons twenty years ago. Since that time, he has collected antique pistols, rifles, shot guns, Chinese hand saws and other antique instruments of war. These weapons range from European models of the early 17th Century to the early 19th Century which was used by the 7th U.S. Cavalry in the Battle of Little Big Horn, Montana during General George Custer's Famous Last Stand in 1876.

In order to acquire such a vast collection of weapons, Major Volk traveled extensively throughout most of Western Europe. While he was sufficiently conversant in the German language, his wife's knowledge of French also helped in communicating with dealers who had old weapons for sale or trade. In countries other than France and Germany, dealers were used to break the language barrier.

Among the various types of weapons in the collection are flint locks, musket 10 c.e. scabbards, piqueurs and percussion caps. Models are Spanish, Greek, American, German, English, French, Belgium and Moroccan.

Hoop Histers 14th Takes Two Games

Two second-half rallies mean the difference as the 14th Infantry Dragoons copped two victories in as many nights at the Harmony Church Field House, defeating the 2nd Battle Group, 1st Infantry 72-67 Wednesday and the School Brigade, 67-60, the following evening.

Behind 45-30 at intermission in the 1st Infantry game, the 14th Golden Dragon five put on a full-court press and tied the game at 67-67 with about eight minutes remaining in the game.

The winners also utilized an effective running game to forge ahead. The press bothered the 1st Infantry considerably and forced several wild passes. In addition, the "hot" 1st Infantry shooters cooled off in the second half while the 14th was enjoying its best half of the game.

Joe Graham, Norm Reid, and Jim Spence were the main cogs in the 14th victory. Graham and Reid scored consistently with jump shots during the second half. Spence kept the Dragoons in the ball game in the first half, scoring 12 points and the team's first three baskets. Graham and Reid had 19 and 12 points, respectively.

Grid Bid Given To Brookie Team

PORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex. (APN) — The Brooks Army Medical Center's Comet will take on Eglin Air Force Base for the service football championship in Galveston, Texas, on Bowl December 14. The Comet, undefeated until they lost to Fort Riley last week, had impressive wins over Hamilton AFB and Corpus Christi University.

The bowl game—a charity tilt—is sponsored by the Galveston Chamber of Commerce for the March of Dimes. Sponsors of the Galveston game indicated that the Comet's "hosted" over Hamilton AFB was a deciding factor in the invitation.

USAC Defeats 29th in Cage Battle for Ninth Straight Win

Three points behind at the end of the first half, USAC Troop Command's undefeated basketball team held off their complacency and thumped through the remainder of the game to defeat the 29th Infantry, Thursday night, Dec. 4, for their ninth straight victory by a score of 79 to 67.

The teams entered the contest with Troop Command having an eight and zero record, the 29th, in second place with seven wins and one loss. A win by the 29th would give them a tie for first place. However, Troop Command met the challenge and emerged with clear title to first place with a two game margin over the second place team.

Keen Eye

The victors were peaced on offense by the keen eye of Les Hawthorn, who directed the scorer for the night with 27 points. Ken Boole and Bob Gilliam were next with 14 each, followed by John Linder 10, and Jim Halakia with 10.

The second half was highlighted by the defensive play of the winners when they held the 29th to a total of 17 points in the second half.

Al Gargiulo under the baskets was outstanding in this half.

Keen Eye

The 29th entered the contest with a 10 and 10 record. Troop Command had a close call in achieving their eighth victory when Division 12 of the School Brigade by the slender margin of two points, the fine scoring of Bob Gilliam, who scored with 14 each, followed by John Linder 10, and Jim Halakia with 10.

The remaining scores were distributed pretty evenly among the rest of the team members.

87th Keglers Move In to Take Top Spot

With Oberon moved back into first place in the 14th Infantry Bowling League with a 4-0 sweep of Company C Wednesday night at the Lawson Field Bowling Alley.

Faced by Jerry Kasmanski's high series of 548 and high game of 207, 87th dominated the evening activity. The 87th fell behind Company C by half a game the week before, but rolled an outstanding team series of 2363 to garner the two high games with its 195 and 162 to regain the top spot. All three marks are tops for the season.

The 2nd Engineers and 87th are close behind with a 7-9 mark.

Melvin Peasley of 87th had the second high series with 537 and 57th's Norwood Cox finished in the runner-up spot for the night's high game with his 204.

WACs Enter Win Column In Basketball

Fort Benning's WAC basketball team's attempt to achieve their first win was successful when they convincingly trounced the girls from Fort Gordon, Saturday Night, Nov. 6, at Briant Wells Field House by the lopsided score of 67 to 37.

The game was an "easy" right from the start as the Fort Girls jumped off with remarkable accuracy. They scored a quick ten points and from there coasted in with a 40 point margin when the game ended.

Betty Hogan, with 25 points, two less than Gordon's total, Jerry Durill, a new arrival at Benning with 18 points and Coach Dorothy Richardson with 10 were the higher scorers for the victors.

Three of last year's team, Mattie Herring, Nedra Martin and Jessie Green, were outstanding in the game. They were constantly stealing the ball from the often bewildered Fort Gordon team.

Fort Gordon's next game will be played when they visit Fort Jackson, Jan. 10. Their next game at Benning is with the girls from Fort McPherson, Ga., during the week of Jan. 12.

Post Boxers Score Victories at Florida

Fort Benning sent nine boxers to compete in the 1958 Florida IATU Boxing Club tournament, which was held in Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 29-30.

The boxers' efforts were highly successful as they brought back the Team Runnership trophy in the Open Division, three weight class champions in the Open Division.

These champions were: Featherweight, Pfc. Eddie Smith, 1st Div; Lightweight, Pfc. Hunter Ragland, 151st Eng Gp; Light-

Chips Down In Slug-Fest For Crown

With the chips piled high, the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry and Second Infantry Division Trains will call each other's hands in a "practice" session last night at Briant Wells Field House in a Major Unit Boxing show-down.

The proposed seven bout card, the next to last to be of Special Services and the finale for this year, will start at the usual 7:30 p.m.

One-Two Follies!

Ranked one-two in the standings with 80 and 66 points respectively, the 29th and Second Division Trains will send a total of nine boxers into action. Of the bouts scheduled, three will be key matches between these two units, the outcome of which could well decide the winner of the Major Unit crown.

The 29th will be trying to wrap up the championship while Trains will be seeking to wrest the lead from the Commanders or at least place itself in a more favorable position from which to challenge in the home remaining card on Jan. 8.

Hall vs. Stevens

Twelve precious points will be in the balance when Leon Hall of the 29th steps in against Bob Stevens of Trains. Clarence Rogers of the 29th goes against John Howard of Trains, and the 29th's Buddy Harris swags blows with the Trains' David Duerson.

If past performances are an indication, the 29th should hold the upper hand in these crucial bouts. While this will be the first meeting between Hall and Stevens, the Major Unit records show that Rogers holds two decisions over Howard, and Harris won a verdict over Duerson.

The frantic scramble for points by the two contenders will also go on in three of the four remaining bouts. Two fighters from the 29th and one from Second Division Trains will be in action in these scraps, thus completing the understandable domination of the card by the two units.

The lineup for these matches include Bill Morgan, 29th, vs. Joe Faison 14th; Bob Woodley, 29th, vs. Hunter, Ragland, 151st Eng Gp; Dan Brown, 14th, vs. John Battles, Second Division; and George Fred Smith, 14th, vs. George Robinson, 14AC.

Korean Finds All He Wants at Ft. Benning

"Everything I expected to learn at his Korean schools, I learned here," said Lt. Lee Kyo Whan, Republic of Korea Army, described his short experience here at Fort Benning as a member of the School Brigade's 102nd Co. in the 25-year old officer is one of four allied officers taking their infantry training with the 24th Company, Second Student Battalion. With Lt. Lee are two other Korean officers, Capt. Kwon Yung Goo and Capt. Pak Chung Kyu. The fourth allied officer is 1st Lt. Alberto Martin Yusy from Spain.

Lt. Lee has expressed a keen interest in the organization of the United States Army and "systematic and automatic" approach to things. The graduate of the Korean Military Academy, also pointed out that he, as well as the other allied officers, have been shown the "best of kindness" by their cadre officers and fellow students.

"Everybody here has been so wonderful to us," Lee said. "I already know that I will always help Americans whenever I have a chance."

Lt. Lee is currently trying to improve the English he

M.Sgt. Ernest M. Sweeney, now 55, was a mere 14 when he faked his birth certificate to enlist in 1918.

At 15 he had earned four battle stars and the Purple Heart, having been gassed and wounded twice in the Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

At 17 he held the rank of sergeant.

"Pop," as Sweeney is known to ROTC cadets at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, retired recently, but as a civilian he'll continue in his ROTC supply clerk slot.

Sweeney didn't keep the circumstances of his first enlistment a secret. When discharged in 1927, he told the Army in his correct age, fully expecting a re-buke. Instead, the Army commended him on his patriotism and called him as the youngest combat soldier in the signed by Army Secretary William M. Bruker and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor. Commander Guests With Men for Holiday

The company held its annual Thanksgiving Day dinner with the battle group commander, as guest of honor. Many of the company officers' and enlisted men's families were present.

First Lieutenant Wayne H. Howard returned Wednesday, 25 November from the Ranger Training Camp, in Florida, with an escort; a King suit. Three men from the company fired "experts" on the rifle range. They are: Sp4 Jack Van Bastler, Sp4 Gerald Harbin, and Pfc. John R. Graves.

Sp4 Jack Van Bastler has been attending a bayonet course in order to be eligible to receive the title of Infantryman's Badge. The course consists of several different classes, such as Mortar Adjustment fire, Field Sanitation and First Aid.

2nd Lt. William Harrell is a recent assignee to the company.

Former executive officer of Company C, Lt. Harrell, is presently working in the S-3 section of Battle Group Headquarters as troop requirements officer.

Sgt. Jacob W. Bolden and Sp4 Bobby D. McCabe re-enlisted on November 25 for a period of six years each.

Mortar Battery

M-Sgt. Mitchell Anderson has re-enlisted to remain a part of the mortar battery. He re-enlisted to fill his own vacancy.

Sp4 John F. Angelow has reported to the Separation Center for further processing for discharge from the Army. Sp4 Angelow was a gunner with the first platoon.

Company A News

Sharing the traditional Thanksgiving Dinner with the men of Company A, were the following honored guests: Capt. and Mrs. George L. Tolson, Lt. Colonel Gorecki, Capt. Braml. Lynch and Rev. Joseph E. Booth, who said the blessing. Many of the officers and enlisted men were accompanied by their families.

Company A is the winner of the Battle Group reenlistment plaque for the month of November. The winning percentage of 60 per cent was made possible by Sergeants Thurston L. Massey, Willie E. Williams, and Louis E. Price. Sergeants

Williams and Price re-enlisted for their vacancy.

Company D News

Another proud father in the company is Pfc Robert Horvath. Pfc Horvath is now spending a leave with his wife and new daughter.

Sgt. Manuel Alvarez, company Sgt. and Sgt. Everette C. Karns, armorer, have departed on 10 day leave.

Sgt. Jack E. Coffey and Sp4 Glenn Musgrave were chosen to represent the Battle Group at a luncheon at the Rotary Club.

Company C News

The company has taken over undisturbed possession of first place in the Battle Group bowling league as a result of its victory over the Straight Shooters of the 10th Field Artillery. The company holds a one-half point margin over 87th Chemical Company when they play with the first platoon.

Four more men from the company are bound for civilian life. They are Sp4's George Lease, Robert Kessel, David Golinski and Pfc Ralph Aronson.

Another proud father in the company is Pfc Garday whose wife presented him with their first child.

The company's arms room is being revamped under the supervision of Pfc Gary O. Colwell, company armorer. The changes are aimed at more efficient storage of the company's crew served weapons.

Most recent recipient of a letter of appreciation is Sgt. Leroy E. Lane, who achieved

Chaplain Wilton D. Pigott of the 577th Engineer Battalion (Const.), performed wedding services for Richard C. Boyer and Barbara Nichols last Saturday, 20 December 1958, at the young couple's home in the 2nd Infantry Chapel. After the ceremony, the best man and the officiating minister, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fassold, held the reception in their home for the bride and the groom.

24 Lt. William A. Towler III has recently been assigned to the company. Prior to his assignment to Company C, Lt. Towler completed Airborne School and a "honeymoon" at Fort Benning Reservation. Company A received instruction in the handling of demolitions, consisting of shaped charges, composition C3, dynamite and cased charges.

Sgt. Edgar E. Miller is driving a sedan for the VIP's attending the Infantry Conference which is in progress here on Post. He will drive for them until the conference is completed.

Pfc Maurice Varin is presented TDY to the Transfer Point awaiting his final discharge.

Pvt. Harry P. Johnson, personnel clerk for "Charlie" Company, is in Martin Army Hospital due to an accidental leg fracture while playing touch football, Friday, 28 November 1958.

Company B loaned two of their men, Sgt. James Eaddy and Pfc Frederick L. Halliburton, and one five ton truck to Major Woods of the Lawson Army Air Field Command, for the purpose of moving a building across the airfield.

Sgt. Eaddy supervised the loading and securing of the building on the truck, transporting the structure across the airfield, and unloading it, while Pfc Halliburton operated the truck.

Using a borrowed fork lift, three five ton dump trucks, and fifteen men, Lt. Robert K. Frink moved all of the battalion's transfer material from the 577th Engineer Battalion (Const.) carpenter shop to the 588th Engineer Company (Const.) carpenter shop.

When You Save

One of the most independent candidates in The School Brigade's 50th Company is the company supply Sergeant, O-C John C. Richardson. Only a man with sturdy mind and body could withstand the onslaught of requests and questions hurled daily at a supply representative in an OC Company and Candidate Richardson adequately fills the bill.

O-C Richardson was born in Breville (Pop. 2000) on June 2, 1937. From his high school days "Rich" has been an athlete. While in high school he won five letters in football, baseball and basketball.

Upon the completion of high school he was offered scholarships to Johns Hopkins, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech and McCoy College for both science and athletics. He accepted Johns Hopkins' offer and majored in mechanical engineering. In addition to this he studied law and his abilities, he has been offered an opportunity by the Milwaukee Braves to join their organization.

For the future O-C Richardson has set as his immediate goal the completion of OCS. After that he hopes to go to Flight School.

Men Remodel For Luxury In Unit Area

600th Engineer Company (Field Maintenance) has been fortunate in having personnel assigned with fair reaching and diversified talents. These men, through their own initiative, have set as their immediate goal the completion of OCS. After that he hopes to go to Flight School.

Some of the projects that have been undertaken are remodeling of the unit duty room, curtain for the barracks, mess hall, day room and administrative offices, and an inside improvement program.

Credit for the landscape of the area goes to Specialist Fourth - Class Millard Bunting who through his endeavor has succeeded with a new cover of bright green grass for most of the area, that was, prior to his efforts, quite bare.

Many loads of fill had to be hauled, spread and planted in order to obtain the final results. Besides this, much shrubbery transplanting and trimming has been done to further enhance the area.

Also other improvements which have added to the appearance are company signs for the orderly room and Maintenance Shop. These were the results of Specialist Fourth Class Harley and Specialist Fifth Class Stairs efforts.

Of course, none of this would have been possible without the help of all personnel of the unit who have contributed much toward the accomplishments of these projects and the upkeep of the area.

Missiles Protect Eight U. S. Areas

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Department of Defense in its pamphlet Guided Missiles and Rockets (to be distributed soon) says that the Army's NIKE-HERCULES system is now operational in eight units in the United States and in some overseas areas. The NIKE-HERCULES, according to the pamphlet, will be used in defense of many SAC bases and will be added to all major population areas now under the protection of NIKE-AXAX as well as to new installations in cities not now protected.

Army Awards Dam Contracts

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Army Corps of Engineers has just awarded Henry J. Kaiser and Raymond International, Inc., Oakland, California, an $8,840,000 contract for construction of the Howard A. Hanson Dam on the Green River in the State of Washington, according to an Army announcement this week.

Scouts Need Volunteers For Program

Proper development of all phases of the scouting program at Fort Benning is lagging because of a shortage of volunteer adult leaders. Colonel James H. Hayes, Scouting Commissioner, announced this week.

Col. Hayes said that leaders are needed for Cub, Boy Scout and Scoutmaster training programs. Previous experience is not a requirement. Adults with an interest in assisting in youth development will receive the necessary training to assure proper conduct of their activities.

Those interested should contact Col. Hayes.

Mrs. Todd Entertains Ladies Of 14th at Coffee Gathering

Mrs. Walter Todd entertained the ladies of the 2nd Battalion Group on 14th Infantry with a coffee at her quarters on Rainbow Ave., December 8th. Mrs. Glenn Gardner presided at the meeting and introduced the following new members: Mrs. Arthur B. Greene, Mrs. Wilbert J. Dishner, Jr., Mrs. Charles A. Robinson, Mrs. William A. Towel, Mrs. Robert J. King, Mrs. Larkin Warren, Mrs. Samuel White.

Christmas activities for the ladies of the 2nd Battalion Group were announced. Plans were made to have a luncheon at Villa Tea Garden in February.

Mrs. Robert J. Berens announced the Bridge Group would meet December 10, at 8 p.m. at Craie Drive, 411. Guests included Mrs. Robert Wittmann, Mrs. Ross Frasher, and Mrs. Annie Sullivan.

Luncheon Held
Colorful autumn leaves, fruit, nuts and pine cones were used as table decorations for the luncheon of the Dental Wives of Fort Benning held Nov. 20 in the Armory Room of the Main Officers' Mess.

Mrs. William Simms was chairman of the luncheon committee assisted by Mesdames James Baldwin, Harold Schauf, and Dennis Weyhe.

Following the luncheon Mrs. William Roberts gave an interesting talk on chess. A new member welcomed to the group was Mrs. Thomas K. Farewell, who was introduced by Mrs. Robert Cochran. Mrs. LaGarde Hinson was a guest.

Mrs. Louis Tressler won the prize which was a beautiful dried flower arrangement.

Guests Honored
Mrs. John F. Ruggles was the guest of honor at the monthly luncheon of the Infantry Center Troop Commanded Ladies which was held in the Armory Room of the Main Officers' Mess Dec. 2. Other guests present were Mrs. M. W. Scheve, wife of Brig. Gen. Scheve of Ft. Polk, Louisiana; Mrs. R. M. Smith, Mrs. J. F. Price and Mrs. R. F. Goldsmith.

The group presented Mrs. Ruggles with carnation corsages. The luncheon tables were beautifully decorated in the forthcoming holiday theme with painted pine cones, evergreen and red tapers. Centering the main table was a lovely holiday arrangement. Painted pine cones, evergreen and red tapers completed the table. A festive table held an inspiring manager scene.

Mrs. J. T. Farrington won the prize which was a lovely Christmas corsage.

Mrs. Loyd Tallent, wife of commanding officer of the USAIC Troop Command, presided at the luncheon at which time she introduced and welcomed the following new members: Mesdames Roy King, A. L. Boyd, and G. B. Cross. Farewell to Mrs. H. M. Tappan.

The ladies brought kitchen articles for a Welfare Box to be used by new members until their household goods arrive. It was decided that rather than the ladies exchanging Christmas gifts, a collection would be taken to aid a family in need.

Wives of officers of Headquarters Co., TSB, entertained with a coffee recently in 3rd Co. lounge.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames Richard Van Lon and Donald J. Fitzgerald. Mrs. Van Lon poured at the serving table.

New arrival, Mrs. Henry Steverson, was welcomed to the group. Guests were Mesdames Adrian L. Hoebecke, Millard O. Engen and John P. Volentine.

Wives of 5th Bn., TSB, held a coffee recently in the Main Officers Club. Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames Willie E. Dickson, Sam Taylor, Walter I. Moreland and George W. Brodri.

Mesdames Adrian L. Hoebecke, James L. Bryan, Eric L. Lewis and Herbert O. Defoe, were Mesdames Hoebecke, Bryan and Lewis.

40 ladies attended the coffee. OCS wives of 5th Co., 1st class, 8th Bn., TSB, entertained with a coffee recently in the 5th Co. Dayroom. Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames James Lehr, Charles Mathison, Ronald Brattain and Claude Ivey.

Mrs. Thomas Stoy was welcomed to the group. Guests were Mesdames Adrian L. Hoebecke, Millard O. Engen, John T. Volentine and James Greer. Deane L. Shurway and Matthew C. Arthur.

Mrs. Eugene discussed the graduation lunch with the wives.

101C Class No. 10, 2nd Squadron Battalion, 24th Co., held an orientation coffee in the 24th Co. dayroom on the 23rd Nov.

Speakers were Major James Moulis, Mesdames Ralph Hubbard and John C. Morrissey Jr. They discussed the husband's course of training. The ladies were then taken on a tour of the post, then came back to the dayroom for coffee.

OCS wives of 5th Co., 1st class, 5th Bn., TSB, held their final coffee in the dayroom of 5th Co. on the 2 of Dec. Hostesses were Mesdames James Wallendingham, James Bice, Ronald Spinks, and Thomas Story. Mrs. Wallendingham poured. Plans were discussed for the forthcoming graduation luncheon and reception.

New arrival, Mrs. Henry Steverson, was welcomed to the group. Guests were Mesdames Adrian L. Hoebecke, Millard O. Engen and John P. Volentine.

COL. A. BONIFAS

OCS Honors Col. Bonifas

Lt. Colonel Arnone P. Bonifas, chairman of sub-committee 3, Platoon Tactics Committee, USAIS, is being honored as one of the outstanding graduates of Officer Candidate School. His picture and a brief summary of his military career are being placed in Wiggle Hall, the Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame.

Lt. Colonel Bonifas began his commissioned service on July 4, 1942, when he was graduated from OCS Class Number 28. He was first assigned to the 381st Regiment, 96th Division, where he rose to Platoon Leader to Battalion S-3.

Lt. Colonel Bonifas was combat in the Philippine Islands, Leyte and Okinawa. In 1947, he was assigned as Military Training Company Commander, U. S. Disciplinary Barracks, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, and Fort Knox, Kentucky. In 1950, Lt. Colonel Bonifas attended the regular Advanced Course, USAIS, after which he was assigned as company commander, 351st Regiment, Trieste.

In 1952 he attended the Command and General Staff College and was then assigned as an advisor to the 2nd Division, Wisconsin National Guard. Lt. Colonel Bonifas went to Korea in 1953 as Course G-3 Advisor, IROK Corps. Upon his return from Korea, Lt. Colonel Bonifas assumed his present duties with the Platoon Tactics Committee, USAIS.

Lt. Colonel Bonifas' decorations include the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster and the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Wings Received By Lt. Webster

Lt. David G. Webster, 2nd Platoon leader, received his airborne wings last Wednesday at graduation exercises on Nov. 26. Lt. Webster attended Class 15 at the Airborne School, Ft. Benning, Ga. Sgt. New Design Lends Luxury to Barracks Ever since Mr. Blandings built his dream house back in 1947, America has been embarked on the rears decade—the era of the "modern home".

Apparently the "modern home" has spread to new and fertile areas — to with the U.S. Army at Fort Benning. Per some of Company A, Second Battalion, 14th Infantry have combined some unique and progressive ideas with a few basic items of material and imaginative ideas to come up with a new look for standard Army barracks.

The project is not completed yet, but the pattern has been established for the alteration and improvement of the company's appearance and ultimate comfort. This is a squad room with the new features incorporated into it — the model "squad room".

Forming the nucleus for the new decor is a lounge area at the far end of the squad room. This area is approximately 10 feet by 10 feet and is formed by wooden, temporary type partitions enclosing the area. Here, a couch, writing table and two single chairs have been placed to provide a convenient reading and writing room. The walls of this compartment formed by the partitions have been artistically and tastefully decorated with painted scenes of the old Roman Empire. In other squad rooms in the process of being converted, other themes of a similar nature, but differing in subject, will be depicted.

The remainder of the squad room has retained its usual appearance for the most part, but some highly decorative features have been added. Newly painted, the large room sports an attractive Infantry blue coloring, highlighted by black glossy trim. Adding a flair of elegance to the setting are dark blue curtains running the full length of the room on both sides.

The traditional theme hasn't been completely abandoned in this up-to-date billet. The footlockers, wall lockers and beds are still present of course, and despite its new glitter the room has retained the basic elements characterizing enlisted quarters. The difference in this squad room and the average one is that it exhibits a special spirit and character, providing more for its occupants than a place to sleep for the night. Regulations, commanders' letters and rosters are present in the room as arranged to detract as little as possible from the warm atmosphere of the room.

Auto Check Marks Battery Safety Drive

Battery B A strict driver safety program was initiated in the battery over the Thanksgiving Holiday. The first phase was a thorough inspection of civilian automobiles. Any defect noted had to be corrected before the car owner could sign out on leave or pass. In addition to a vehicle inspection, posters depicting driving rules and highway safety were given wide publicity.

Electronic Eyes Radar Unit Enables Pilots to Land Blind

Not worrying about the weather is something new for the pilots at Lawson Field. It recently, the weather conditions considerably governed the amount of flying done at the day to day. Now with the new GCA unit at Lawson, all-weather flying has come into being. GCA stands for Ground Control Approach.

It may be said that a GCA unit is to a pilot, as a seeing-eye-dog is to a blind person. When visibility is below minimum, the GCA unit acts in place of eyes for the pilot, steering him within a few feet of the runway, while the operator makes a safe landing visually.

Sgt. Schauerker has recently returned from Florida where he spent 15 days with his family. Sgt. Schauerker's duty assignment is with the Personnel Section in charge of officers' records.

Currently enjoying leave with his family, is Pfc Donald Karp.

From Army Airplane Benning Claims 29 Of 1st to Parachute

The Airborne-Air Mobility Department of The Infantry School has in its organization 29 paratroopers who were some of the first to ever take a jump from an airplane for the Army.

The 29 have a combined total of 5,544 with 45 of these jumps being in combat. His group represents a total of 490 years of service.

The troopers have all been qualified paratroopers since either 1941 or 1942. All have fought with airborne units all over the world in World War II, many in the Korean conflict and most have spent only short periods of time away from airborne duty.

Army Called Injured Youth Requests Unit Patches for Hobby

A Fort Benning youngster has lost 80 per cent vision in one eye in a freak accident. A request for all U. S. Army Units in the world who may read this — please send him your unit patch and unit history if possible. The plea comes from Joe Hooper, 12 year old son of Sfc. Chester Hooper, Company C, 87th Engr. Battalion, Fort Benning.

Joe's story starts a few years ago when, as a young child, he cut that he was holding a boy's toy. "I'm sure that if Army units throughout the country could see the happiness and pride the boy gets from his collection, they would all make a real effort to help Joe," stated Edwards.

Joe Hooper and his family make their home at 1127 N. 10th St., Vincennes, Indiana, but all patches and unit histories should be sent to their present post address — Lot 229, 4th Street, Fort Benning, Ga. Sfc. Caswell Edwards, Joe's sponsor, will also be glad to accept the donated patches at his military address, H & S boulevards, North Sluiter Battalion, The School Brigade.

Stone at Sill Marks Death Of Geronimo

FT. SILL, Okla. (APSS) — Although his name meant "One who yawns," there was nothing drowsy about one of the most wild and emery redskins who ever gave the U.S. Army a hard time — the Apache chief Geronimo.

But the dust of history has settled on the Indian wars, and the Army has placed a huge blue granite boulder in back of the hospital here where the dreaded war lord died a captive.

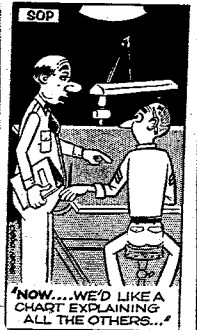

"Geronimo died here," reads the inscription. "Site of Apache prisoner-of-war hospital built in 1899, used by the Apaches until 1914, demolished about 1934. Here the famed war chief, Geronimo, died of pneumonia in his 80th year, February 17, 1909."

Geronimo, chief of the Chiricahua band of the Apaches, led one of the last major Indian uprisings against the U.S. Government.

Sends Flowers to Grave Here Mother Holds Strong Memory of Dead Son

Each year since his death Mrs. Marcado has sent flowers through the Puerto Rico chapter of the Red Cross to the Fort Benning cemetery, to purchase a wreath to be placed on her son's grave in the Fort Benning cemetery. Lt. Marcado was buried at the post four days after his death. There is no information at Fort Benning on why the post cemetery was selected for the officer's burial.

VOL. 17 NO. 14 THURSDAY DECEMBER 10, 1958 FORT BENNING, GA. Price Five Cents Thirty-Six Pages

RE-ENLISTMENT RECORD... Col. Robert G. Sherrard Jr. displays plaque First Infantry Brigade won. With him are (l-r) Sfc Charles B. Erout Jr., M-Sgt. Lois D. Johnson, Sfc William E. Angel, Capt. August G. Seibert, Sfc Floyd N. Palmer. These men are all members of First Infantry Brigade.

Re-enlistment Personnel Receive Formal Honors at Chapel Field

Brig. Gen. John F. Bugles, deputy commanding general of the U.S. Army Infantry Center at Fort Benning, presented the post's Re-enlistment Plaque to the First Infantry Brigade during a formal review on Chapel Field. The review honored the re-enlistment NCO's of Fort Benning and their counterparts from the surrounding community, representatives of the U.S. Army Recruiting Service from Columbus, Ga.

The award for the highest re-enlistment rate of permanent party personnel during the first quarter of fiscal year 1959 was received for the second consecutive time by Col. Robert G. Sherrard Jr., commander of the First Infantry Brigade. Col. Sherrard was accompanied during the presentation by M-Sgt. Lois D. Johnson, First Battle Group, 28th Infantry; SFC William E. Angel, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry; SFC Charles B. Erout Jr., Third Medium Tank Battalion, 66th Armor; and SFC Floyd N. Palmer, Second Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery, re-enlistment NCO's of the units comprising the command.

The idea of a re-enlistment parade was in honor of the re-enlistment officers and NCO's, who are charged with the responsibility for a continuous, aggressive and productive implementation of the commanding general's desire regarding the re-enlistment effort at Fort Benning.

The idea of a re-enlistment program in the Army is a relatively new undertaking; aimed at retaining a well-trained, experienced corps of men in the Regular Army. The first of a series of such programs was initiated in 1949. This lasted as long as the first concrete re-enlistment program was established by regulation.

Re-enlistment Duty
At Fort Benning there are one officer and 15 enlisted men whose primary duty is re-enlistment. Through the efforts of these men the Fort Benning re-enlistment rate has been maintained, either equal to or above the percentage rate desired by the commanding general of the Third U.S. Army.

Although a degree of the success of the Army's re-enlistment program is measured directly with the degree of enthusiasm and effort expended by these individuals, the greatest achievement in the pursuit of this undertaking cannot come only from the quality of leadership demonstrated by the officers and non-commissioned officers at all levels, according to officials.

Post Visited By Officer Of Canada

Col. Norman Wilson-Smith, director of combat development at the Canadian Army headquarters, Ottawa, Canada, visited Fort Benning Wednesday Dec. 10 through Friday, Dec. 12.

He was met upon arrival at Muscogee County Airport by the Fort Benning project officer, Capt. Robert C. Gunter at the Weapons Department, Infantry School, and Major J. G. Haynes, Canadian liaison officer assigned to the Army Infantry School, and Major J. G. Haynes, Canadian liaison officer assigned to the Army Infantry School, and Major J. G. Haynes, Canadian liaison officer assigned to the Army Infantry School.

Gen. Min Tours Benning Infantry

Brig. Gen. Byong Kwon Min, assistant chief of the Korean Army, visited Fort Benning Dec. 10 through 18.

He arrived at Muscogee County Airport at 7:40 a.m. Dec. 10 and later received orientation on the organization of the Infantry School. He met Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., School commandant, before attending an official luncheon in the Normandy Room of the Main Officers' Open Mess.

That afternoon, Gen. Min viewed an Infantry team problem at Bunker Hill and then toured the Main Weapons Pool.

Wednesday morning, Dec. 17, Gen. Min received a briefing on the Airborne Air Mobility Department of the school and toured training facilities. Before lunch Gen. Min received another briefing on the Ground Mobility Department.

7,500 to Leave Post for Holiday

Approximately 7,500 Fort Benning personnel will leave the post and crowd into private vehicles, train buses and airplanes for the annual Christmas trek to wherever home is. Fort Benning officials estimated.

For the ones who will remain on post, in addition to Thursday, Dec. 20, Friday, Dec. 21, the day after Christmas, by directive of the commanding general, L. Freeman, Jr., has been set aside as a holiday. The directive read, "All military and civilian personnel will be excused from duty Dec. 26, unless their services are essential to maintenance, protective security or other critical activities."

Two Invented New Loading Device

A device conceived by two members of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry for simplifying and facilitating the loading of military aircraft is currently being tested by the Airborne Air Mobility Department at Fort Benning.

First Lieutenant Raymond E. J. Church and Pfc. Charles E. Morgan, both members of the device, are on special duty in the air mobility department for the purpose of determining the practicality and capabilities of their "Load Planning-Adjusting" device. The device is being tested on multiple load conducting a staff study, the two men hope to prove that the device is adequate to warrant adoption as an instrument for determining proper loading and arrangement of loads for standard aircraft.

Models Slide Rule
The operation and appearance of the computer is similar to that of a slide rule. It consists of a numerical scale and numerical distance scale with an index. When the index is set on the percentage to be loaded on a given aircraft, the location of the load in relation to the plane's center of gravity is also indicated by the index. It consists of a left or right shift in inches from the center of gravity.

According to Lt. Church, the instrument may possibly mean a reduction of some 12 percent in present computing time. It is also believed to be at least as accurate as present computing methods which involve pencil and paper methods and division sheets, which will be eliminated by the computer. The rule, if proven successful, can be operated by non-technical personnel.

Lieutenant Church, currently assigned to the Ranger Department as an instructor for the Pilotage Tactics Committee, began working on the computer shortly after completing airborne training some four months ago. Then assignments to mortar battery, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry he enlisted.

Death to Take Toll Over Yule Holiday

With approximately 2,700 Fort Benning personnel taking to the nation's highways over the holidays, the Infantry Center safety officers are appealing for extra road caution to cut their predicted two fatalities and 29 injuries from Dec. 19 through Jan. 5.

Photographs of accident situations, leaflets on winter driving, published by the National Safety Council, and letters to 25 parents of age who will be driving motor vehicles asking their cooperation in the safety program are being distributed by the Safety Office to be attached to leave forms.

gunshot wound, one burn and three miscellaneous accidents. However, Mr. Evans added that the fatality figures over the past three years, 1956 - 1957, 1957 - 1958 and 1958 to date, indicate a decided trend downward in the fatality statistics.

14th Takes Maj. Greene As New S-3

ARTHUR B. GREENE
New 14th Infantry S-3

Major Arthur B. Greene was appointed the new S-3, 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry, unit commander Col. Glenn W. Gardner announced recently.

The new S-3 comes from the Battle Group from where he was a member of the Military Assistance Advisory Group and advisor to the 1st Infantry Division of the Korean Army.

The West Point graduate, a native of Webster Groves, Missouri, assumed the position of Capt. Paul Sampson, Maj. Greene's principal duty will be assignment of personnel and equipment for the problems and demonstrations staged by the Battle Group for the Infantry School.

The delegation of officers and non-commissioned officers schools and class lectures also comes under Maj. Greene's duties.

Policy Holders Share Dividends

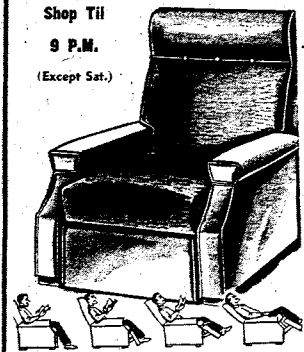

WASHINGTON (APPS)—More than five million veterans who hold participating G.I. life insurance will share in regular annual policy dividends totaling $20 million during 1959, the Veterans Administration has announced.

The dividends are primarily a refund to policyholders of part of their premium payments, and are made possible because the death rate among G.I. policyholders continues to be lower than anticipated when the premiums were established by law.

Dividends will be paid as soon as possible after the anniversary date of each policy during 1959. The V.A. asks that policyholders not make inquiries about forthcoming dividends since inquiries delay processing.

Puckette Plucks GLOBE-TROTTER Plays Hot Hillbilly Guitar

The 3600 Engineering Company has a guitarist that has been playing with hillbilly bands since he has been old enough to pluck a string—he is Sgt. Roland "Eddy" Puckette.

The "husked" platoon sergeant first started playing professionally during the late 1940s on the "Saturday Night Barn Dance" program over Station WJVA in Lynchburg, Va.

In three years "Eddy" and his group became an institution among the hillbilly enthusiasts attending his performances from all parts of the state.

Uncle Sam called "Eddy" in 1947, but this did not interrupt his musical career—for he has spent most of his military service playing the guitar on off duty hours with bands throughout the Army areas.

In 1949, Puckette and his group of hillbilly musicians won the Tokyo Finals in armed forces competition. Puckette served with the 1st Cavalry led "The Tokyo Ramblers" to a third place finish in the Far East Command contest later that year.

Returning to the states in 1950, Puckette appeared with Jimmy Dean in Washington, D. C. while stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Overseas again in 1952, the amiable sergeant appeared in Nuremberg, Germany with a hillbilly band for three years. When he returned to the United States and Ft. Belvoir in 1953, "Eddy" Puckette and his guitar were again in great demand by civilian hillbilly groups in the Washington, D. C. area. However, he soon left for Ft. Riley, Kansas.

In 1957, Puckette returned to Korea with the 1st Cavalry. His new hillbilly band played throughout the division and Seoul area. "Eddy" and his boys were featured regularly during the Chosen Hotel in Seoul.

But Sgt. Puckette is back in the states now, and is looking forward to organizing a new band.

"I'm interested in playing music," Puckette said, "and I have guitar—will travel!"

Army Finds New Agent

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The researchers of the Army Chemical Corps have often resulted in valuable contributions to medical science.

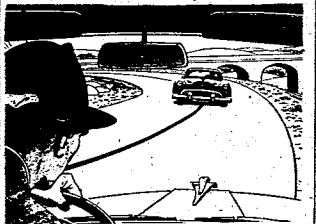

One of many examples is that of nitrogen mustard in the treatment of cancer.

During World War II a bouquet of mustard was blown up in the harbor of Bari, Italy, where the liquid mustard mixed with fuel oil and became a floating contamination danger. Swimmers were reported in a state of shock, did not respond to treatment, and were found to have a reduction in white blood corpuscles.

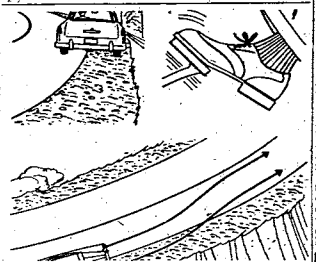

Later the Army Chemical Center produced the same effect.

fects in test animals. He scientists saw the possibility that mustard gas might benefit in the treatment of diseases in the United States.

Mustard type agents, especially the nitrogen mustards, were tried on cases of Hodgkin's disease, lymphosarcoma, and leukemia. The nitrogen mustards do not cure any form of cancer, but they do prolong life in many instances. Today, hospitals, clinics, and laboratories throughout the nation are studying the mustard compounds as a possible treatment for some forms of cancer.

EMERGENCY . . . You are on your side of a two-lane highway, going fast. A car comes at you straddling the center line. You swerve to the right. Your right front wheel runs off the pavement onto the low shoulder.

WHAT TO DO . . . Don't Try to jump back onto the pavement. Ease up on the gas. Get a firm grip on the steering wheel. Straddle the edge of the road. Step on the brakes several times. When you have slowed down, get back on the road. DON'T turn back too sharply; you might cross over to the other lane or swing sideways and roll over.

Peace Set As Foreign Policy Goal

CHICAGO (ANS)—One of the primary objectives of the foreign policy of the United States is to prevent war and lay the foundation for a peaceful settlement of the world's problems, Secretary of State Acheson said today.

"Our will for peace" is supported by flexible military strength capable of dealing with aggression in any form.

The Army Secretary added that "Only in such a way can we erect a strong military deterrent against any aggressive designs the Communists have to enlarge by force the areas under their domination."

Mr. Brucker cited recent events in Lebanon and the Taiwan Straits as dispelling doubts as to the effectiveness of the firm and moral stand which America has taken . . .

Depended to a major extent upon our known ability as well as our willingness to respond promptly to any challenge with appropriate military means, and to bring to bear upon an aggressor the full potential of our Nation."

Army Receives Airforce Base

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The transfer of Camp AFPC, Calif., to the Army has been approved by Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy.

Scheduled to replace Camp Stoneman, Calif., as an Army facility, the base can be maintained more cheaply and also provide greater flexibility for existing requirements.

Present plans call for a portion of the base eventually to accommodate California National Guardsmen for training activities. One section will also be used by the Navy for research work.

Final concurrence for the transfer must still be made by congressional armed forces committees. Camp Stoneman will be devoted to research requirements when final action has been cleared.

Girl Friend Finds Mixed Up GI Really Mixed Up

Recruit Dennis Childress, 22, of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Second Infantry Division, made the mistake of mistakes last week when he wrote a nearly identical letter to both envelopes. Lo, Mary re-to each of his two girl friends, Thelma and Mary. The error was not so much the identical letters as the identical addresses of the envelopes. Lo, Mary received her letter from Dennis as well as Thelma's letter from the same young recruit. The results were as could be expected. Mary wrote that Thelma's letter was "real sweet" and that, "it's really a shame that she didn't get it." Surprised Thelma went on to say, "In my letters you say that you always think of me and in Thelma's letter you tell her that you are always thinking of her, some sound advice. "You'd better pay more attention to who you address whose letter to," she said—and since then he gave the perplexed recruit has.

Editorials 'One Army' for Victory

By General Bruce C. Clarke
This brings a series of messages bearing upon our primary job in the United States Continental Army Command—combat readiness. As with any job, our work will go forward faster if workers know WHY as well as what to do. That is the aim of your commanders' orientation talks. That is the aim of FORWEC's talks. Today's topic is "One Army"—an expression that you will see and hear more often in the future. I want you to know why the idea it signifies is becoming ever more important to combat readiness.

In battle there has never been anything but "One Army." No victory in American military history has ever been won by a single arm, service, or component of the Army. Victory in the field has always been the product of the combined efforts of Regulars, Guardsmen, Reservists and Army civilians with all arms and services working as a combat team.

In the past, however, space, allies and the pace of war have granted us the activate unity and teamwork in the Army after we began. So, in the past, parochial pride and petty rivalry within the Army during peacetime were considered relatively harmless. They were the name of esprit de corps. There was time enough to erase conflicting attitudes and complete the welding process before commitment to combat. Today the time is ZERO!

From the very outset of a shooting war—general or localized—all components and all arms and services would be involved. The unity of spirit and teamwork of performance so essential to combat readiness must exist throughout the Army before the first shot is fired. Today our Reserve Forces are an integral part of our front-line deterrent to aggression.

It is not enough that every member have the peacetime readiness must exist throughout the Army before the first shot is fired. Today our Reserve Forces are an integral part of our front-line deterrent to aggression.

Not all of our "One Army" Team wear Army Green. More than 78,000 men and women in USCONARC alone are Department of the Army civilians. At many posts their average on-the-job longevity exceeds that of the Army garrison. Their stability of assignment and devotion to duty add materially to maintaining working continuity in our efforts.

In our public as well as our internal relations, the "One Army" attitude must pervade all ranks. Public statements which seek to promote esteem for one element of the Army at the expense of another are harmful to all.

Our Army has but one goal: the security of our country. Surely this responsibility is too grave for us to indulge in petty press-agency. Only by unity will the Army Team focus public interest effectively upon the essentials for fulfilling our responsibility to our country.

The "One Army" attitude also bears upon our inter-service relationships with our Navy and Air Force. Army doctrine is TRI SERVICE. When the Army speaks as one, there is no doubt that we avoid even the semblance of parochial bickering.

We have no rivals this side of the Iron Curtain. By unity of Army effort and the support of our sister services, we will maintain the combat readiness to keep our real rivals where they belong.

Education Opportunities

All of us have come across, at one time or another, the familiar match book and its familiar simple boast: "You can earn a High School Diploma at Home."

But how many of us would want to settle for such cheap education of dubious negotiable quality as is here obviously offered? Not very many. Like various other match book boasts, we take this one as a piece of idle advertising and as somewhat of a joke.

What is not a joke, however, is a similar slogan seen on many of your bulletin boards: "You can earn a High School Diploma while in Service." The distinction is definitely a high school equivalency earned by successful completion of the high school General Educational Development test may be exchanged for a certificate which counts as a high school diploma. You may obtain a high school diploma or a state certificate of high school equivalency.

Pope Adds to Staff
VATICAN CITY—Pope John XXIII reinforced the College of Cardinals Monday with 23 new prelates to help him head the growing branches of the Roman Catholic Church.

At one point Rountree's car was also hit by a rock. It cracked but did not break. The left side windshield just in front of the driver's seat.

They carried and waved banners with similar slogans in English. But nothing serious happened at the airfield arrival, mostly thanks to a deft maneuver by the Iraqi military guards. While the crowd surged forward to the main entrance, Rountree's car was whisked away through a far-side gateway.

By CHAPLAIN (1st Lt.) WILTON D. PIGOTT
After the first world war a troopship returning from overseas encountered a storm that continued for days and nights. Clouds gathered in blackness and furious winds blew the ship miles off its course. One night the weary navigation officer who was sitting at his station for a little rest, was awakened by a knock at the door. A sailor called to his stateroom from a little rest, was awakened by a knock at the door. A sailor called to his stateroom from a little rest, was awakened by a knock at the door.

The Judge Says...

Have you ever checked to see whether you are required to file an estimated income return? If not, you may save yourself considerable trouble and expense by reading this article.

What is an estimated income tax return? The law requires that individuals who have substantial amounts of income which is not subject to withholding tax file their tax this income in installments during the taxable year, rather than wait until the final return is filed in the next year.

France, U.S. Statement
PARIS—U.S. Secretary of State Acheson and French Premier Charles de Gaulle left Monday to swear under a solemn agreement to sell their stock.

Two met for an hour and a half in De Gaulle's official residence. Guarded press statements after the meeting made it plain that while the meeting was cordial, the two men saw eye-to-eye only on the Berlin crisis, the issue which is expected to overshadow all else at the NATO talks.

On Berlin, both reaffirmed the Western position before Sunday that Britain, France and the United States would maintain their position in Berlin free to access to the city despite threatening moves from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

After the Dulles-Du Gaule talks, informed sources suggested the French were more positive with the West's desire needs in a diplomatic maneuver to isolate France's role in NATO.

At American spokesmen and Dulles agreed to continue discussions on how to keep each other out of each other's problems. It is noted that Dulles would no further insist that satisfying France's desire for a greater role in NATO.

Council Cites 13th Army Safety Record

WASHINGTON — A man is safer in the Army than if he were working on a farm, in a factory, or just walking the streets of his hometown.

Statistics on this emerged when the National Safety Council, for the 13th time in 15 years, recently presented its "Award of Honor to the Department of the Army."

During the year covered by the award, one in every 14 U.S. workers was injured, on or off the job; it's but one in 64 for soldiers, on or off duty. This record is especially interesting in view of the hazardous activities in which the Army is engaged — chemicals,

54th Medical News 54th Medics Ready For Training Tests

Early in November the 660th Medical Company began its preparation for the 54th Training Tests to be held later this month. After a simulated alert on Nov. 5, 1958, the men packed their gear and field equipment and moved into the field near The Infantry School camp.

The unit, which provides trained medical technicians to administer emergency treatment to battlefield casualties and to assist Army doctors in treating injuries and wounds, also provides ambulance evacuation service for troops in combat and communication zones, received its full share of instruction and practice in its assigned duties throughout most of November.

Working in conjunction with the 50th Medical Company from 12 through 14 Nov., the 660th took to the field again for the 54th Training Tests. The 50th had the job of evaluating wounded combat soldiers and providing temporary medical treatment until they could be evacuated to hospitals. After getting their equipment ready for use in the Lee Field, the two companies began receiving simulated casualties in the afternoon of Nov. 13.

During all these field exercises the unit was given instruction and held classes on field sanitation, blackout driving, camouflage and concealment, and perimeter defense. Blackout motor marches were conducted in each of the exercises. Now after such intensive preparation for the forthcoming (AT) tests, the men of the 660th are confident of passing the rigorous tests with a high rating for their efficiency in performing their duties.

SP4 Gene McDaniel, of the 57th Medical Detachment was selected as Soldier of the Month for the month of November.

Capt. Richard L. McIlhenny, Capt. Robert R. Wengert and 1st Lt. Donald R. Hull comprised the board which selected McDaniel as the outstanding soldier on the basis of his military bearing, awareness of current events and knowledge of military subjects.

The Medics won their sixth game of the Regimental Basketball League last week as they downed the School Brigade 62-22 at the Harmon-Church Field House.

The scoring among the rampaging Medics was well distributed. 1st Lt. John Brock was high scorer with five field goals and seven free throws for 17 points. Barton Parkinson had the second with 14.

The Medics dominated the play throughout the game and were never behind. At one time they led TSB by 19 points.

The team returned to Fort Benning on Dec. 1 when 1st Lt. Bostic received an early discharge to go to the University of Alabama. Lt. Bostic was the Athletic and Recreation officer for the 660th Medical Company and assistant coach of the Post Football team.

After the departure of Lt. Bostic, Capt. Garland Burroughs, coach of the Medics, plans on moving Joe Severia up to a starting position.

The 57th Medical Detachment remained undisturbed in the league by handing the 60th Medical Company its third loss of the season. The "Whitbirds" appear to have the best balanced five in the league so far.

The 542d gained its first victory of the season by topping the 600th 29-22. The flag carrier of the 542d was high scorer with 13 points.

The 54th Training Tests flag football game became the Regimental League runner-up by defeating the 50th Medical Field squad on Nov. 24 by a score of 24-6. After trailing 6-0 in the first quarter, the 54th came roaring back to tie the score and then take the lead which they never relinquished.

Grover Jones put the Medics on even terms with the Lawson Field squad at the start of the second half. Taking the kickoff on his own 25-yard line, the "Deacons" second score came when they had held Lawson Field on four downs and had taken a 25-yard line on the 25-yard line.

Then Player Jones threw a roll-out pass to Jim Holt who leaped into the air to snare the ball between two Lawson Field defenders for another touchdown and a 12-6 lead.

After the Medics kicked off the game in the second half, the field on down. Then after short gains by Joe Ralford and Willis Graves, they took a direct snap from center and crashed through right tackle for another score.

The "Deacons" scored his third touchdown early in the final quarter as he grabbed a roll-out pass and dashed 100 yards to score the goal line touchdown which shattered the defense.

The 11st Engineers had to cover the fence with Private Flanagan said there were about 200 men in the woods. Actual, there were more than 1000," Tessenar said.

Santa Slates Special Visit To DivArty

By DivArty PIO
Nearly 182 dependent children of the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery members are expected to get an early look at jolly old Santa Claus during a party scheduled for December 22 in the recreation hall of the 15th Artillery Battalion area.

The gala early afternoon event has scheduled a full round of entertainment with refreshments, carol singing and other activities planned for the children whose ages are 10 years old and under.

Santa Visits
Highlighting the program will be the visit of Santa Claus, arriving in his jeeppowered sleigh to pass out stockings filled with sorts of goodies. Also on the itinerary is the carol singing program which will be led by Lieutenant (Jr.) Russell, 15th Artillery Battalion plus assorted games and prizes for the children.

SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION BAND CHORUS

First 'Gyro' Move to Germany Slated For 1960 With 23rd Inf. Replacing 30th

By 23d Inf PIO
The 23d Infantry Group, 23d Infantry has received notification that they will be the first unit to participate in "Operation Gyroscope" in 1960. The "Gyro Servers" of the 23d Infantry are expected to gyve to Schweinfurt, Germany replacing the 1st Battle Group, 30th Infantry of the Third Infantry Division.

Schweinfurt, Germany, will be the target date scheduled for the "gyro" movement in May 1960. The Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry will begin its selection of personnel for the gyro move in July, 1959. The men will be assigned in three categories. First preference will be given to the "Gyro Servers" of the Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry. Second choice will be personnel in other division units, and third priority will be accorded Army-wide volunteers for the honor of serving in the 23d Infantry.

Re-Uy
Regular Army personnel assigned to the Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry, will be the "Gyro Servers" of the Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry.

WRBL Presents Xmas Concert

By 2nd Div. PIO
The first major production of the new 40 voice chorus of WRBL, "A Christmas Festival of Music" was televised over WRBL-TV, Channel 4, Tuesday, December 16, at 3 p.m. Directed by Special Agent in Charge Theodore Stessman, formerly of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the concert presented a half-hour show featuring special arrangements of traditional Christmas songs in format to the successful Christmas festival that the division's bandmaster, Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales presented over a European-wide network from Wuerzburg, Germany last year.

The Chorus featured soloist, Private Bill Stuart, formerly of the University of Mississippi and Private Peter Schwertner who, in New York, sang with the Spafax Theatre Choralists and made successful appearances at the Metropolitan Opera.

Choral arrangements of "How Far Is It To Bethlehem" and the entertaining production number, "I Was the Night Before Christmas" were among the selections presented on the program.

The Commanding General of the Second Infantry Division, Major General R. H. Wienceke gave a brief Christmas address during the program.

The half-hour presentation was held in WRBL-TV studios with no live audience participation.

The program was produced by the Second Infantry Division Information Office and the Public Relations Department of WRBL-TV, which was also shown as a public service feature of the station.

Assoc. Funds 50 Day Fund Raising Drive

By 2nd Div. PIO
The Second Infantry Division Association played Santa Claus on December 13 when they awarded 38 prizes as the climax to the "Indefatigable Fund Raising Campaign." Prizes ranged from $50 to $100 dollars in cash and merchandise were given.

Hunters Warned Against Distant Deer Shooting

By 2nd Div. PIO
Second Infantry Division hunters are warned against shooting deer in the Fort Benning hunt areas at extreme ranges with shotguns since the result may be that the deer is wounded and escapes only to die later in an unknown spot. Some of these deer are presently being found that have been shot by unidentified hunters of the wild game.

In order to overcome this undesirable waste, it has been suggested that deer hunters pattern their shotguns in order to determine their capabilities at various ranges. A recommended maximum range for 90 buckshot is 60 yards, since beyond that range, the nine pellets within the shell spreads beyond any recognizable pattern.

Officials desire that each hunter keep in mind so that the deer supply will not be exhausted and the season will be more eventful to all hunters in Germany during the Second of the wild game.

MORE BULL around the 7th Cavalry than you'd think. Saturday, the 7th was visited by three direct descendants of Chief Sitting Bull, who 80 years ago led the Sioux against General Custer's 7th U.S. Cavalry in the battle of the Big Horn, which became Custer's famous Last Stand. Meanwhile back at the Information Office there was much confusion on how much bull we had and which was what bull down at 7th Cav, as Colonel Atkins, 7th Cav. CO showed Margaret One Bull and Sitting Bull IV and V the famous painting of Custer's Last Stand. The information Office with the assistance of Lt. Stachel, P10 23d Infantry, kept us from building a fire and staging a war dance in order to figure out which Bull would be the Chief if the Sioux were still a nation. It came out like this: Sitting Bull begat Oscar 1 Bull who begat Margaret One Bull who married Vincent Codeette and begat the Sitting Bull. Margaret One Bull later married Specialist Fifth Class Matthew Tremmel, who is a member of the 23d Infantry. Meanwhile Margaret One-Bull's son by the former marriage, Sitting Bull IV, begat Sitting Bull V who is on our great list; they say a little bull goes a long way, and little Sitting Bull V came all the way from South Dakota for his visit with the historic 7th. HEAP BIG POW WOW at Theater No. 7 netted 1,000 dollars in cash and prizes to Indian heads. Smoke signals started puffing just as soon as the first script for the Div band and chorus was printed. It was first announced that the Festival would be held at the Municipal Auditorium and then, on the next day, it was decided that the Christmas program would come off at the Roy Theater. So a new script was written. Then came another puff of smoke saying that the show would be staged in WRBL-TV studios. Back to the typewriters and a completely new script. Finally with a huff and a puff, the signals firmed up December 21st as the day of presentation, and it was at this point that New York won the pro-football game which meant that on the 21st CBS would carry the playoffs. Program came off Dec. 16.

CG Fires Opening Shot at New Small Bore Range

By Div Trains P10 Major-General R. H. Wienecke, Commanding General of the Second Infantry Division, cut the tape opening the new indoor small bore range during his recent visit to the Division. Marksmanship Detachment. Accompanied by Colonel James F. Hughes, Commanding Officer of Second Infantry Division Trains, General Wienecke completed the official opening by firing the first shots in the new range with a .22-caliber rifle. Construction of the range designed exclusively for small bore weapons was started in October of this year after the return of the Second Infantry National Matches held at Camp Perry, Ohio. The need for a small bore range was of the utmost importance, to both the personnel of the Division Marksmanship Detachment and to all interested persons within the Division.

Big Asset

It is felt that the range will be a valuable asset to the Marksmanship Detachment as a training range during inclement weather and also for complete small bore firing. To other personnel within the Division and their authorized dependents, it will serve as an outstanding training and recreational facility.

The range was constructed through the efforts to all the men of the Marksmanship Detachment. The range was designed, and the work was supervised by Master Sergeant Herchal E. Bay, assisted by Sergeant First Class Willie R. Huff and Sergeant Albert J. Charles. The entire operation was under the direction of Captain Charles J. Faraci and Lieutenant Jack D. Focht. Building Number 325, the location of the new range, was made available for this purpose by Colonel Hughes.

Materials for the small bore range was obtained through the Weapon and Metal Subject, the Self-Service Store, and the Division Association. Privately owned materials were also donated for the construction.

15th Arty Lt. Becomes Organist; 10 Personnel Changes Announced

By 15th Arty PIO While casting around for a hobby, First Lieutenant Beryl D. Russell of Battery C, delighted in the mellow sounds of the organ. So without any prior musical training in the instrument, he set about learning to play.

His decision of two years ago paid off and he is now adept enough to play for the Division Artillery chapel during their services.

Lieutenant Russell is a graduate of the University of Missouri and is a 1956 graduate of the Field Artillery Officers Basic Course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He has served in Korea with Battery C, 200th Artillery. At present he is an instructor on the 15th Artillery CBR Committee.

Sergeant First Class John S. Samia, has received his order for Civilian Component duty at the National Guard Armory in Arab, Alabama. A platoon sergeant and member of the 15th Artillery Battalion since his reactivation, Sergeant Samia has been in the army since August 1948.

Sergeant Samia is a native of New Bern, South Carolina and formerly served with the 7th Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Divarty in Germany.

First Lieutenant Ellis B. Waketield is now Commanding marksmanship with the M-1 Rifle.

Club Hears Xmas Music

By Ed Div PIO
The Christmas luncheon of the Second Infantry Division Officers' Wives' Club, held Tuesday, December 9, at the Main Officers' Club, was sparked by the performance of the local Fred Allen Choral Group, which is composed of local school children. The presentation, "Choir of God," a Christmas story, was a recitation given by Miss Diana Stillman, student at the Phoenix City High School, backed by a violin solo by Master Jerry Trimble and the singing of the choir, composed of children wrapped gifts.

Sioux Chieftains Meet Unit Ancestors Fought

By Ed Div PIO
Eighty-two and a half years ago, Great Chief Sitting Bull led his Sioux Nation against the 7th U.S. Cavalry, then commanded by General George A. Custer, in the historic battle of the Little Big Horn. Today the grand-daughter of Chief Sitting Bull, Mrs. Margaret One-Bull Tremmel, wife of Specialist Fifth Class Matthew Tremmel, Mortar Battery, Second Battle Group, 22d Infantry, led her tribe to the 7th Cavalry. No shots were fired, no scalps taken when Colonel James Akins, commander of the 3d Reconnaissance Squadron, 7th Cavalry, met the Sioux. Mrs. Tremmel's son and grandson, Sitting Bull V, accompanied her on the tour of 7th Cavalry Headquarters.

Vet. Named Top Soldier In Div Arty

By Div Arty PIO
A veteran of World War II and Korean action has been named as Division Artillery Soldier of the Month for December. Specialist Fourth Class Lawrence H. Bunker, of Battery 122d Artillery, was named top soldier of artillery units after a board of senior non-commissioned officers selected him over other Div Arty competition. The veteran soldier was presented a check for $25 dollars and a certificate by Brigadier General Miller O. Perry, Division Artillery Commanding General during an informal ceremony held in the General's office on December 4. Specialist Bunker will enter the Soldier of the Month competition on division level later this month.

Battery C Gets Improvements In Mess Hall

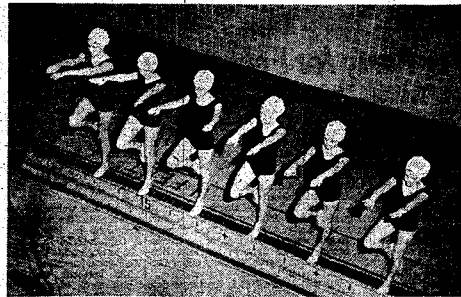

By 15th Arty PIO
Battery C mess hall has undergone many startling changes due to the imagination of its mess sergeant, Specialist First Class Raymond J. McGrath. The most interesting of these is a miniature steam table run by butane gas in the NCO and Officers portion of the mess hall. The steam table was bought from contributions donated by the NCO's of the Battery, and his eliminated the NCO mess line. Other improvements include leatherette table cloths, place mats, new drapes and new table decorations. The renovation also include wall plaques, pictures and stained plywood partitioning.

Sergeant McGrath has had considerable experience in this line during his 17 years of Army service. In 1950 and 1951 he was in charge of the 5th Army General Mess in Chicago, Illinois. He has also been mess steward for the Officers Mess and Club in Stuttgart, Germany and was food supervisor for the 100th Infantry Division trainees at Fort Riley in 1955.

The remodeled mess hall was officially opened for inspection on December 10. On hand to view the improvements and test the new steam table was Colonel James E. Goodwin, Div Arty Executive Officer; Lieutenant Colonel Benjamin D. Capshaw, Battalion CO, Major Fred M. Studley, Battalion S3; Master Sergeant Glen Moore, Div Arty Sergeant Major and Master Sergeant James Nichols, 15th Artillery Sergeant Major.

The miniature steam table is believed to be the only one of its kind in the Second Infantry division.

Specialist Fifth Class and Mrs. Tremmel reside at Number 40 E. Clifton Avenue, Columbus, Georgia.

STRAC Sets Great Store By Tradition

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (ANS)—Although STRAC is the newest concept of modern warfare, selected Infantry units as the Army itself has allowed it into being. Men of the First Ready Company are always in barracks or training nearby — the STRAC "Screaming Eagles" who are prepared to move any time, anywhere, and fight.

Based upon the ceremony of the changing of the guard, the STRAC 401st Airborne Division designates a "First Ready Company" on a weekly rotation basis to bear the STRAC colors and be ready, literally, at a moment's notice to move to any place in the world.

The colorful changeover ceremony was set up to signify the actual transfer of the Alert Force responsibilities and to emphasize the importance of the immediate Ready Force.

At a recent changeover ceremony at which the public presentation of the STRAC colors, Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, 10th Army commander, told troops of the First Ready Com-

Woman's Club Chorus Entertains At Xmas Luncheon The ballroom of the Main Officers' Open Mess was the scene of the military Christmas Luncheon of the Infantry Center Wives Group. Fifteen of the Post Engineers, Post Transportation and G-4 Sections were hostesses for the affair attended by approximately 50 women.

The ballroom and the adjoining room where members and guests met for aperitifs prior to the luncheon, were gaily decorated with candy canes, multi-colored Christmas balls and greenery. The music held an arrangement of polished holly, painted pine cones and gift packages.

Painted pine cones, greenery and gift packages were centered on the white overlaid luncheon tables. Guest List Seated at the head table were: Mrs. Paul L. Freeman, Mrs. John F. Ruggles, Mrs. Chester A. Dahlen, Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen, Mrs. William M. Larson, president of the group, Mrs. Edgar L. Grider, Mrs. Albert T. Stafford and Mrs. Robert S. Moore.

The Ft. Benning Chorus, under the direction of Pfc. Irving Covert, entertained the group with a medley of World War I songs including "Over There" and "My Buddy" and concluded the program with "Deck the Halls With Boughs of Holly." "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day" and "Winter Wonderland."

Chorus Members Members of the Chorus participating in the program were: Sgt. Aaron McCaughey, Pfc. Donald Golden, Pfc. Donald Carr, SFC Charles S. Rogers, Sgt. Ernest Thomas, Jr., Pfc. David Moore, Pfc. Angelo Per-

Robert D. Glaser, Arthur F. Hancey, Duane C. Jensen, Paul R. Kennedy, Harry R. Kent, Carl W. Koster, Karl Lutz, Charles E. Porteous, William N. Quinn, James E. Reilly, and Capt. W. Voder, D. D. Adyburn and Mrs. William E. Wyrick.

The ladies welcomed a new member to the department, Mrs. John R. Jennings, wife of Capt. John R. Jennings, who is assigned to the Nuclear Weapons Committee. The luncheon and sherry tables were decorated in a pretty Christmas theme with pine cones, magnolia leaves, and Christmas trimmings.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, the ladies of the department contributed generously to Christmas boxes of food and money which will be distributed by the Chaplain's Fund of Fort Benning to needy military families at Christmas.

Following the luncheon, the ladies sang Christmas carols. Hostesses for the affair were: Mesdames Van F. Berford, William H. Dilson, John E. Dugan, George A. Meighan, and Charles E. Neilson.

December 9th was the date the Ladies of the Operations Office reminded the members of their second luncheon. The Coq Supper club, which was the scene of the luncheon, was decorated with sprigs of holly and the table featured a spray of flowers for the occasion. The luncheon was under the direction of Mrs. Walter T. Brown and Mrs. Leland M. Hoggins.

Army Trains Sixty Italians In Missiles

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. — Sixty officers and men of the Italian Air Force became the missile pioneers of free Europe at recent graduation ceremonies of the U.S. Army's Ordnance Guided Missile School here.

Each had completed specific training in his assigned technical specialty in the maintenance and use of the Nike-Ajax and Nike-Hercules surface-to-air missile systems. They are now taking a 10-week period of unit training, the second step toward the formation of Italian missile groups which will eventually be stationed on their own soil under the NATO defense program.

"The lives of hundreds of thousands may depend tomorrow on your ability to use rapidly and accurately these new and wonderfully precise weapons and instruments," Italian Ambassador Manlio Gonnella said in his congratulatory message during the graduation ceremonies.

Within the next year the Italian graduates will be followed by classes from several other countries.

Chorus Members Members of the Chorus participating in the program were: Sgt. Aaron McCaughey, Pfc. Donald Golden, Pfc. Donald Carr, SFC Charles S. Rogers, Sgt. Ernest Thomas, Jr., Pfc. David Moore, Pfc. Angelo Per-21st Company—Now entering the final weeks of the Infantry Officer Leadership Course, the 21st Company has completed its final phase of training. The week began with a 30 hour problem in the rifle company in the attack and defense. Following this, the students returned to the bivouac area and the next day began orientation in survival techniques, patrolling and prisoner of war indoctrination. The main activity took place at night with problems in escape and evasion and raids.

The company divided into three groups, alternating between the various problems. The first was the running of a five mile escape and evasion course. The others were raids in both Georgia and Alabama.

4th Company—F took Company C basketballers by a score of 42-22 in a match that saw Company F in command all the way. The game was played December 8 at the School Brigade gym. High scorers were Pfc Nelson with 15, followed by Pfc Grogan and Pfc Kane with nine points each.

4th Company—Promoted to S4 were Joseph C. Belleville, Lee C. Birks, Elliott H. Denman, Warren J. Hawks, Stewart C. Howell, Lowell L. Jurgens, and Donald S. Koch.

Pfc Michael Williams, mail clerk, was chosen soldier of the Month. An informal ceremony, Col. A. L. Hoebeke's commander, presented Williams with a letter of commendation and an electric razor as a result of his selection.

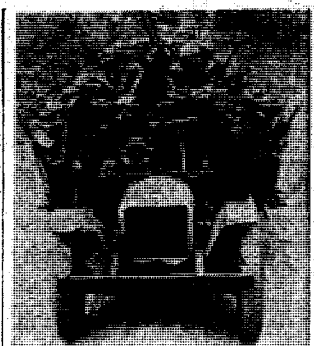

Mrs. Adelle Ruth Boyett, who works in TSB's S-3 Section, is a patient at Martin Army Hospital.

First Student Battalion 1st Company—Advance Class No. 3 held its final formal party on December 5. This was the last social affair before the class departs December 15. Then members of this company departed early on early releases.

Oarsmen Take Tour Of Russian Society

The Soviet Union invited a United States rowing crew to Moscow last summer to race its Olympic and World championship crew. With the U.S. crew was 2nd Lt. Charles Alm, presently attending IOLC with the School Brigade's 20th Company of the Second Student Battalion.

Lt. Alm attended the University of Washington at Seattle and captained the U.S. crew at his senior year. The United States rowing team received State Department approval for a trip to the Royal Henley Regatta in England, and followed a trip to Moscow.

In its first race of the Henley Regatta, the U.S. crew met the Third Rowing Club of Moscow and was defeated. The Soviet crew went on to win the Regatta and the World's title that went with it.

"This was one time we didn't want to lose," Lt. Alm said. "When our Moscow trip was confirmed, we looked forward to another chance."

The second time the U.S. and Soviet crews met there was little doubt as to the outcome. "We lead the Soviet crew at the start," Alm said, "but they were faster and the length grew greater than the length by which they defeated us at the end."

During their stay the crew was treated to a State Puppet show, a local soccer match which drew a crowd in excess of 100,000, the opera Aida in Russian and a visit to Red Square and the Tombs of Stalin and Lenin.

The exchange rate was 10 rubles for one American dollar. Prices were comparable to the U.S. except for luxury items. "Hershey bar was two dollars in our money," stated Lt. Alm.

On Dec. 21 game tournaments will be held by Service Club No. 3 at 2 p.m. and Service Club No. 1 at 2:30 p.m.

On Dec. 22 at Theater No. 10 a.m. the 2nd Division Trains' children's Christmas party will be held at 10 a.m. Dec. 23 at the Harmony Church Field House.

At 6 p.m. there will be a pre-holiday feast at Service Club No. 4.

Christmas services for the Second Division chapels are as follows: On Dec. 23, 10 a.m. at Sand Hill Chapel No. 1 for Protestants.

At 8 p.m. there will be a pre-holiday feast at Service Club No. 4.

Barrels Test GI Drivers' Road Ability

FORT MEADE, Md.—Each morning as drivers of the 120th Transportation Company emerge from the motor pool, they maneuver their 2½-ton trucks through the "obstacle alley."

The "alley" is a labyrinth of barrels placed closer and closer together as the drivers become skilled at avoiding them. Hitting a barrel means loss of points.

The points earned up to "road-out" time late in September will enter into the determination of the winner in that competition.

On Christmas Day, Dec. 25, the 120th Transportation Company will hold a noon meal mess at the Main Post Catholic Chapel and the First Infantry Brigade Chapel.

On Dec. 26 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 4 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

The schedule for Catholic Christmas Day Masses is as follows: 8 a.m. at the Main Post Catholic Chapel, 8 a.m. at the First Infantry Brigade Chapel, 8 a.m. at the Martin Army Hospital Chapel.

On Dec. 28 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

On Dec. 29 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

On Dec. 30 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

Polio Shots Pay For STRACmen

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (ANS)—Polio immunization is paid off big for STRACmen, other military personnel and dependents in the Army area.

Major John H. Painter, Fort Lewis preventive medicine officer, said that there was only one case of polio this past summer among soldiers' dependents in the entire area.

The 1st Painters report platoon of vaccine on hand at Fort Lewis, adding that the "shot" comes in handy for all STRACmen assigned to STRAC units like the 4th Infantry Division.

On New Year's Day, all Catholic Chapels at the Infantry Center will hold the regular Sunday schedule of Masses.

On Dec. 28 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 4 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

On Dec. 29 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

On Dec. 30 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

On Dec. 31 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

On Dec. 31 there will be a coffee hour at Service Club No. 2 at 8 a.m. and a holiday variety show at 8 p.m.

Scientists Set Moon-Man-Rocket Goal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military and space scientists have set their sights on launching a manned space vehicle to the moon and return late in 1960, the director of Armed Forces Research Projects has disclosed.

Roy W. Johnson, head of the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency, revealed the aims in a mapping service objectives before an American Rocket Society meeting in New York City on Nov. 19.

The Titan and Jupiter ICBMs launched last week, the more powerful ICBMs with triple the range—2 tons, Mr. Johnson explained.

To hike capabilities for putting greater weight into space using an Atlas-type booster as a first stage, he said ARPA has given the go-ahead to develop a high energy, liquid-fuel upper stage to launch payloads of four or five tons.

"It becomes quite obvious," he continued, "that a booster of such capability, with appropriate upper stages, might place a manned space station in orbit or could launch a manned vehicle to circumnavigate the moon and return."

"Naturally, the benefits of such programs are still two or three years off, but I assure you, are a part of an orderly, expedited program."

The U.S. will depend largely on Titan, Jupiter, Atlas and B. Taylor.

KEEPING POSTED . . . Addressing a meeting of information and education officers held at Fort Benning on Dec. 9 is Col. Harry W. McClellan, Department of Defense Information and Education officer. Better distribution and use of all information and education media was the topic of the day.

Units Move Two Hours After Alert

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—Despite the fact that units of the Strategic Army Corps' 101st Airborne Division are the field a good part of the time, the division's instant capability to "move anytime, anywhere and fight" is not sacrificed.

During last month's Exercise "White Cloud," for example, when elements of the division were scattered from Fort Campbell to Fort Bragg, N.C., and other units were at air bases in both North and South Carolina, the division commander, Major General William C. Westendorp, directed that "A company of paratroopers with combat gear, packed and vehicles loaded with weapons and ammunition will be maintained at immediate readiness in the Fort Campbell barracks area."

"This company can be ready for loading aboard aircraft at any time in less than two hours, essential contribution for many years to come," he declared.

PARADES . . . The Fort Campbell parade was earmarked to follow.

"Should a battle group or the entire division be required on an overseas mission, they can be at the air bases as quickly as planes can arrive to pick them up."

Sharp Soldier Takes Top Inspection Spot
8th CMBL Company
This week in looking over files of past inspections, it was found that Pfc William Zenger has never had a rating of less than a high Superior for over a year on the job as unit mail clerk.
Men scheduled to leave the company are Sp4 Robert Thomas and Sp4 Edward Oleswia and Sp4 Genesis Bell. Sp4 Thomas, though a two year man, was able to achieve the rank of Sp4.
Company A
After a week as guide for the Infantry Conference, 2nd Lt. Howard Morgan returned to his duties in the company. Along with a number of other officers, acting as company commanders for all the top military personnel, insuring their delivery from the airport to post and escorting them to the demonstration and exhibition areas. Foreign officer personnel and civilians from all branches of service were present for this conference.

Joseph J. Henderson was surprised to find an addition to his uniform. He is now wearing the stripes of Sp4.
Departing on leave were M-Sgt. Curtis Edwards, Sp4 Edward E. Wiegand, Sp4 Hoyt R. Jettich, Sp4 Diaz and 2d Lt. Robert Bisson.
Company C
Most recent appointment to the grade of Sp4 was awarded to Gary O. Corlew, captain of the Infantry Conference. 2nd Lt. Howard Morgan returned to his duties in the company. Along with a number of other officers, acting as company commanders for all the top military personnel, insuring their delivery from the airport to post and escorting them to the demonstration and exhibition areas. Red Throat Real, Says Trudeau

COLUMBUS, Ohio (ANS) — Pointing out that the Soviet Army has about 175 line divisions which should be expanded to 200 within a month's time, Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau (Army Chief of Research and Development) said this afternoon at the National Security Policy Seminar at Ohio State University, here, he emphasized that the Communist resort to coercion, subversion, infiltration, indirect aggression and to any other means they can employ when such will advance their ambitions.
"They also use naked force when they believe that it is necessary," he declared. "They can exist only in a classless world that any means used to achieve that goal are justified."

Rangers' Menu Exotic During Jungle Training

U. S. Army Rangers at the Ranger Department's Jungle and Amphibious Training Center, Ft. Belvoir, Fla., are eating a menu of "exotic" food items at the most unique mess facility in the U.S. Army. The menu includes "Woodcock Hillon", this is the name applied to a wild and primitive 100 watt recipe of the dense Florida jungle where the Ranger's Survival Committee prepares and serves a complete wild foods meal. — so wild that some dishes must be run down and fought with before they can be eaten. Food is prepared over open fires or eaten raw or over troops dine from palm leaves. The occasional Ranger group comes from the water. (Loss of mess utensils is no problem since everyone eats with their hands.)
Preparation is relatively simple, since most foods are served raw. The foods that must be cooked usually, are prepared in a simple, but effective manner. The Ranger mess hall is a simple, open fire pit, forked sticks, a few Ranger knives, and a big tall, hollowed out log. For flavoring and ashes from the fire which are used to season the food are certain plant foods.
As the dinner hour begins, the Rangers are told simply to move to the woods and get a palm leaf — most return with a small amount of food. A menu is distributed, but individual selection is not permitted. Rangers are encouraged to "partake of each item."
Some of the items, like oysters and snails, are fairly hard to all; others require determination, a fast swallow and a strong stomach. The skunk, for example, is killed and cleaned. For the most part, the food is served with a simple, but effective manner. The Ranger mess hall is a simple, open fire pit, forked sticks, a few Ranger knives, and a big tall, hollowed out log. Dozers Retain Top Slot as Pin Topplers

The "Dozers," a bowling team composed of members of the 57th Engineer Battalion (Construction), remained on top in the Pin Officers Bowling League at some late considerably decreased last week; however, members of the team returned from leave and were able to open a sizable lead over the second place team of the 1st Engineer Bn. and 5th Co. Company C.
Sgt. Jasper Lathan has assumed the duties of communications chief of the 151st Engineer Battalion and is supervising the efforts of his men as they reworked and repainted the communications room. Sgt. Lathan replaced Sp4 Rual W. Martin who was reassigned for another assignment.
Sgt. and Mrs. James A. Terry are the proud parents of a five pound two ounce girl. It is reported that the mother and father are doing well.
M-Sgt. William O. Fredrick is presently on leave in Texas. M-Sgt. Fredrick's absence, Sp4 Huey M. Barfield is performing his duties as heavy equipment section leader.
Company A is now in the second phase of the present ATP Construction and Rehabilitation. The company moved to the field Monday, December 1, 1958 and set up its bivouac site at Bickford Range. The company will complete construction of this train - fire range during this construction phase of the ATP.
Company A is continuing its education program with great success. For the most part, their high school GED tests this past week. They were Sgt. Robert Smith, Pfc Pauline, Sp4 Troy and Sp4 May.
Pfc Daniel Mankowski is beginning his College Education by taking the college school GED tests.
Company A is also taking advantage of post schools to further train its men. Pfc Guidice, Pfc Mitchell and Pfc Miller are attending clerk typing school; Pfc Paul H. Freedel, Carl L. Graves, Ross B. Curiale and Sp4 Jim Pittman are attending projectionist school and Sp4 Hargraves and Sp4 Wilson are attending crane and shovel operators school.
Pfc and Mrs. Alfred Bourdeau announced the birth of a six pound four ounce baby boy.
Company B completed their third week of formal training under the ATP. The men had classes in such subjects as military justice, engineer heavy equipment, basic combat training and land mine warfare. Lt. Englick and Lt. Mouton conducted a land mine warfare at Landon Range.
Pfc Bagland of Company B had a very successful trip recently. He went to Jacksonville, Florida, to compete in the Florida AAU Boxing Tournament and returned the winner.

Pin Officers Bowling League

For which he received a trophy. Pfc Bagland will represent Fort Benning in the light weight division in the regional tournament at some late. During which they visited their families at home.
Pfc and Mrs. Cantrina are the proud parents of a baby girl.
Company C
Pfc Louis George, wheel vehicle mechanic for Company C, has received orders for an overseas assignment. Pfc George will report to the casual unit section at Fort Lewis, Wash. on January 27, 1959 for further shipment to the Eighth Army Area.
Pfc Roth and Pvt. Lacroix of Company C recently received notification of their passing through the GED series of tests. The Big Push on education is in progress in Company C and the company's achievement is certainly indicating that the men are trying hard to raise their educational level. CWO Teller, operation officer, will begin CBR School at the post CBR school on the 28th of December.

Engineers Complete Gas Plant To Prepare for Post Shortages

A propane gas producing plant constructed at Fort Benning to be used in emergency situations is expected to be ready for operation, at the first of the new year.

The plant, officially named a Propane Air Peak Shaving Plant, was constructed by the Applied Engineering Company of Orangeburg, S.C., at a cost close to $200,000.

Fort Benning officials believe the plant will pay for itself in just a few years. The need for a gas-producing plant of this type was discovered last winter when Fort Benning had a shortage of natural gas during an unusually cold spell. Schools on post had to be closed, and other offices were forced to bring gas consumption to a bare minimum.

Post engineers have an affirmed limit on natural gas consumption, and when the post exceeds the limit a penalty of $10 per 1,000 cubic feet is assessed. In a 24-hour period at Fort Benning, this penalty can run anywhere from $6,000 to $8,000.

Since last winter a new user, the Caphart Housing area, was cut into the limit of natural gas for Fort Benning.

Wade H. Simons of Columbus, Ga., chief of the Mechanical Branch of the Engineer Section at the U.S. Army Infantry Center, suggested the need of a gas supplement and post engineers after getting the approval of the Third Army, Fort Monmouth, N.J., commanding general of the Third U.S. Army, Fort McPherson, Ga.

Speaking to the school's advanced officers class, the three-star general pointed out several leadership traits which he considered and hoped would be helpful to the graduates in their new assignments.

Knowledge was considered by Gen. Ruffner as the foremost requirement for a leader.

"You cannot command the respect of your men" the general said, "if they have no faith in your knowledge."

Setting an example as a high on the list of requisites, Gen. Ruffner said that dress is important and officers must always be neat and proper.

Moral courage is an indication of leadership also, he said.

"Carry out your decisions, and what you believe to be right and stay with your beliefs if you wish to have your men respect you, Gen. Ruffner added.

Miss Goins, Supply Team Collect Toys for Needy

Approximately 1,000 Christmas toys have been distributed by the Operations Office's Supply Section of the U. S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning to needy children in the Fort Benning and Columbus area.

The distribution of the toys was the culmination of a special project by members of the Supply Section, directed by Miss Beverly Goins.

The volunteers collected discarded toys and repaired them for those children who might otherwise not have Christmas toys.

Miss Goins started the project on her own four years ago. She collected toys from Columbus merchants and other sources available and put much time and some of her own money into the reconditioning on the toys.

Officers and enlisted men of the Operations Office assisted her project and volunteered their help for the 1958 drive. When the project began Miss Goins had expected about 600 toys. But others learned of her drive and the huge response made it possible for the 1,000 toys to be distributed by the Chaplains Section of The Infantry Center and the Salvation Army of Columbus.

Those who volunteered their help are SFC Nolan W. Smith, Cpl. Youlicious Williams, Pfc Gerald Franco, Pfc Grover C. Barker, Va. Specialist Fourth Class Kenneth G. Friel, Pfc James Corbush, SP4 John F. Lidski, and Mrs. Sadie Ratcliff of Fort Benning.

Two Nightspots Now Off-Limits

Two Columbus establishments have been placed off-limits to military personnel by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Jr., Infantry Center commander, on the recommendation of the Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Board.

They are Toddy's Club, 3023 Victory Drive, and Paramount Grill, 817 Eighth Avenue.

Leadership Requirements Highlighted By Gen. Ruffner at Officer Ceremony

Leadership qualities, highlighted by the requirement of knowledge, were outlined Dec. 18 for approximately 150 U. S. Army Infantry School graduates at Fort Benning by Gen. Ruffner, commanding general of the Third U. S. Army, Fort McPherson, Ga.

Speaking to the school's advanced officers class, the three-star general pointed out several leadership traits which he considered and hoped would be helpful to the graduates in their new assignments.

Knowledge was considered by Gen. Ruffner as the foremost requirement for a leader.

"You cannot command the respect of your men" the general said, "if they have no faith in your knowledge."

Setting an example as a high on the list of requisites, Gen. Ruffner said that dress is important and officers must always be neat and proper.

Moral courage is an indication of leadership also, he said.

"Carry out your decisions, and what you believe to be right and stay with your beliefs if you wish to have your men respect you, Gen. Ruffner added.

standing must be practiced, the Army commander stated.

"Remember that no one is perfect," he said, "and that you must make allowances for this. Physical courage is a must, but not the greatest quality for a leader to possess."

In mentioning "determination," Gen. Ruffner told the graduates: "Do not let other things sidetrack you. Particularly in combat, the qualities of courage and determination are essential."

Laos Chief Says He's Confident Of U. S. Army

Major Gen. Southome Pa-thammavong, Laos Army chief of staff, expressed supreme confidence in U.S. military preparedness today (Dec. 23) after completing a two-day tour at Fort Benning.
The general stopped at the post as part of an itinerary that carried him to several military installations throughout the U.S.
When asked what he thought of U. S. military might, Gen. Southome replied succinctly, "I have nothing but confidence to take back to my country."
At Fort Benning, Gen. Southome was especially impressed by the program conducted by the U.S. Army Infantry School.
"The classes and method of instruction in the way the subjects are presented to the students are marvelous," the Laotian chief said.
Gen. Southome toured several of the training facilities on post and received briefings on the Airborne Air-Mobility and Ground Mobility Departments of the school.
At a new lightweight weapon demonstration, the general dug right in with the troops and fired the Army's new M-14 rifle and M-49 machine gun as well as riding the Army "mule" and Scorpion personnel carrier.
"About the troops, the general said, "From every point of view U.S. soldiers, above all the officers, are friendly and conduct a military demeanor and discipline that are gratifying."
On his arrival at Fort Benning Wednesday (Dec. 17), Gen. Southome was honored with a 19-gun salute after he was welcomed by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Jr., commander of the Infantry School.

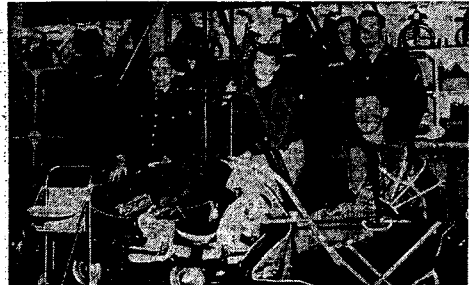

U. S. Sends Logistic Core To Chinese

TAIPEI, Taiwan—An Army of supplies and heavy equipment from ships to shore, over the beach, and inland to depots or transfer points.
In spite of its size and to weight, the BARC moves easily over soft sand or difficult beaches on extremely large, low-pressure tires. Each of the four wheels is independently powered by one of the vehicle's four 18-horsepower diesel engines.
The BARC travels about seven miles an hour in the water and more than twice that on land. As a vessel it maneuvers as easily as a small landing craft and can even be steered by its engines if the runner becomes inoperable.
The most noticeable addition to the Army's fleet of amphibious vehicles is capable of carrying its own weight in the transfer of poring their cargoes of tanks, trucks, artillery, bulldozers and training team of 31 men from the equipped Chinese infantrymen debarked from one vehicle.

Brochure Sent From Overseas

WASHINGTON (ANS)—Personal authorized concurrent travel of dependents will now receive brochures of general information on the overseas area of assignment through the local installation commander rather than directly from the oversea commander.
Circular 55-20 published in November directs that oversea commanders are to furnish such information to personnel prior to their departure toward it by air mail to the installation commander with an appropriate covering letter requesting expedition handling.
Such mail will then be forwarded to the military personnel concerned at his current military address or a leave address maintained by the installation commander in accordance with current regulations.

Third Takes Re-enlistment Honors Race

The third U.S. Army holds a lead in the first quarter of the current fiscal year in the Intra-Army Re-enlistment incentive competition program.
Relative standings for the first quarter are: Third Army, 34.4 per cent; Second Army, 30.8 per cent; Fifth Army, 29.7 per cent; Military District of Washington, 28.8 per cent; Sixth Army, 26.7 per cent; First Army, 25.8 per cent; Fourth Army, 24.8 per cent.

The program was instituted to provide a means for stimulating a competitive effort in re-enlistment. The averages are based on the number of permanent party personnel, those assigned to specific slots, re-enlisting compared to those eligible to re-enlist. Only those re-enlisting immediately are counted. Those reentering the Army within 90 days of date of discharge are not included in the averages.
Therefore, in the first three months of fiscal year 1959, 34.4 per cent of permanent party personnel eligible to re-enlist have done so.
At the end of the fiscal year, a plaque will be presented to the unit with the highest average. A plaque will also be given to the unit which has improved its re-enlistment average the greatest over fiscal year 1958.

Competition begins on the company level, then the battalion level and finally, a panel of School Brigade sergeants chooses the Brigade "Soldier of the Month."
Pfc. Williams was also given a framed certificate, an electric shaver and a three-day pass.

Pfc Named Top Soldier Of Month

Chosen over 2,500 School Brigade enlisted men, Pfc. Michael S. Williams, mail clerk at Headquarters and Headquarters Company The School Brigade was awarded TSB's "Soldier of the Month" plaque for November by Col. A. L. Hoebecke, School Brigade Commander.
The School Brigade "Soldier of the Month" plaque is awarded monthly to an enlisted man for an excellent performance of duty, an outstanding record of conduct, and unimpeachable character, integrity and discretion.

Sgt. Rates Top Honors at CBR

Sr. Jack E. Wilson, Company C, 2nd Battle Group, 14th Infantry, graduated first in a class of 50 students at the CBR.
Unit executive officer, Lt. Col. Walter B. Todd, presented Sgt. Wilson with a letter of commendation, Friday, Dec. 12 at Battle Group Headquarters.
"This type of performance indicates unusual ability, a strong desire to do well, and sincere dedication to your soldierly duties," read part of the letter.
Sgt. Wilson has been a boot graduate of two NCO academies; 7th Army Academy in Munich, Germany and the 10th Infantry Regiment NCO Academy in Augsburg, Germany.
Sgt. Wilson is one of 17 members of the Battle Group who have attended CBR School since September of this year. Held by the Post Chemical Section, the school includes a study of the various chemicals and gases now in use and the defenses against them.

Military Leaders Extend Yuletide Wishes to Service Men and Women

As your Commander-in-Chief and a fellow citizen, it is my privilege to extend Christmas Greetings to the men and women of the Armed Forces of the United States.

Wherever you may be stationed, your basic mission is in keeping with the spirit of Christmas. As Americans, you are giving yourselves, your time and strength to establish and maintain peace on this Christmas and on every day.

Your countrymen are grateful to you. By your service on the frontiers of the world, you enable us at home to live and grow in security. Mrs. Eisenhower joins in sending best wishes to you for a happy holiday season.

Dwight D. Eisenhower

One of the pleasant privileges of the Secretary of Defense is the sending of greetings to the men and women of our Armed Forces. During the past year I had an opportunity to visit with many of you at your duty stations both at home and in our commands around the world.

I know that wherever you serve you are helping to keep the peace and promote mutual trust and understanding among all people of good will.

In times like these there could be no mission of greater importance nor more in accord with the Christmas spirit and tradition.

So it is most appropriate—and a great personal pleasure for me—to send to each of you and to your families my warm regards and my best wishes for this Christmas and for the New Year.

Nail McElroy
Secretary of Defense

The Christmas Season affords me a welcome opportunity to extend to every man and woman in the United States my greetings to both uniformed and civilian personnel—and my warm personal greetings and best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a successful New Year.

To each of you I voice my deep appreciation for the contribution you are making as members of our great United States Army Team. To know that in serving our country you are helping to strengthen the cause of the Free World should be a source of great personal satisfaction. Among the freedoms you defend is one that guarantees the right of all of us to enjoy this Holy Season in peace.

To those of you who are separated from your families, I send my special greetings. You loved ones are thinking of you and are proud of your steadfast devotion to your country's cause.

May each one of you, as well as each member of your family, enjoy the full blessing of this Christmas Season and the happiness of a New Year.

Wilbur M. Brucker
Secretary of the Army

I send my sincere best wishes to all the men and women of our Armed Forces throughout the world for a happy Christmas and a peaceful New Year. Your devotion to duty, despite many hardships, is a source of pride and an essential vital factor in maintaining our freedom. Let us all hope that our efforts will produce a real peace.

Nathan F. Twining
Joint Chiefs of Staff

As the Christmas season draws near, once again we of the Army pause to offer our thanks for the blessings of peace and security which our Nation enjoys. While performing our essential duties in many areas of the world, we stand ready to protect our Christian way of life and to defend the peace. With the advent of the New Year, the Army rededicates itself to the continuing deterrence of war and the ultimate achievement of true peace for all men of good will.

The obligations of the Service will require many of the Army's men and women to observe the Yuletide in a variety of foreign lands. To them and to all other members of the Army and their families I send best wishes for a Merry Christmas, together with my sincere hope for a joyous New Year of continued happiness in their significant service in the cause of peace.

Maxwell D. Taylor
General, United States Army
Chief of Staff

To every military and civilian member of this command, I extend warmest Christmas greetings.

As we enjoy this most festive of all holidays, let us remember that it is the birth of the Prince of Peace, almost 2000 years ago, that we celebrate. Our job is to help preserve that peace which He so vividly symbolizes.

With the advent of another new year, hopes are reborn for bringing calm to our world. With the guidance of God, and the example of his Son, we can face the future with the spiritual strength which is such a vital part of our tradition.

Bruce C. Clarke
Commanding

As the 1958 Holiday Season approaches, I extend to all men and women of the United States Army, both military and civilian, my personal best wishes for a Merry Christmas and the happiest of New Years.

This Christmas finds us of the Army, in company with the members of other services, faced with greater responsibilities than ever before. The threat to the Free World and to our Christian way of life posed by those of different ideology has in no way diminished, and the successful accomplishment of our mission as guardians of peace and liberty will consequently require increased effort and determination on our part. Let us therefore, during this holy time, seek divine guidance and strength to help us achieve our ultimate goal of a world in which brotherhood is universal and where peace and good will reign among all men.

I sincerely hope that all of you, together with your families and loved ones, will have a truly joyous Christmas, and that the New Year will bring you an abundance of success, health and happiness.

Clark L. Ruffner
Lieutenant General, USA
Commanding

As the holiday season approaches, I desire to extend best wishes to all the military and civilian personnel and their families at Fort Benning for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

At the same time, I am pleased to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt appreciation for the splendid accomplishments and devotion to duty displayed by all personnel at Fort Benning throughout the past year.

I hope that each of you will be able to participate in the traditional religious observances of your choice, and that you will enjoy the recreational activities planned for your entertainment on and off the Post.

Chaplain's Cove It all

LESTER J. HOUGHTALING
During the war years so many men and women, with great longing, eagerly looked forward to that day when they could go back home, back to the things they had left. For a time after the war served at a separation center where one of my duties was to give a farewell message and a benediction to a group of boys and girls, both men and women who were homebound bound. Day after day this ceremony was repeated as thousands made their way homebound from all parts of the world. It was a great privilege to have some small part in sending them on their way to rejoin their loved ones, and to continue their civilian activities.

Most of these men and women were looking forward to a return to familiar surroundings and the taking up of life as they had left it. We know by this time that many of them were disillusioned. They had to learn the hard way that we never go back to the things we have left; because when we do go back they are no longer there. Or, if they are, we ourselves have so changed that we no longer want them. I suppose what really happens is that they never quite find out what they are missing when they try to find their way back. It is something like making our way through a jungle of things that we have never seen before. The path seems to lead to a dead end and we cannot retrace our footsteps.

Life is like that. It is a question of closing up behind us, so that we can never go back the way we were repelled as thousands made their way homebound from all parts of the world. It was a great privilege to have some small part in sending them on their way to rejoin their loved ones, and to continue their civilian activities.

The Judge Says . . .

In this atomic age, science, industry, and life itself undergo rapid radical changes. To adapt to these changes the individual must be willing and able to accept changing circumstances. The Army is continually changing and adjusting itself to meet these new conditions. Also, one reflection of this change is in our new grade status. The Army has adopted two new grades that have been adopted to award and compensate the professional and technical personnel who are required of our top-ranking non-commissioned officers. These two new grades represent significant additions to the grade system, but it must be remembered that NCOs in grades E-5 through E-7 retain the pay, authority, assigned quarters, and privileges associated with their particular grades.

Some examples of these privileges are shipment of household goods, assignment to government quarters, and membership in various NCO Clubs. The term "first three graders" probably will be replaced by the term "first five graders." Hence, no one will lose any pay or authority.

Of course, all these changes leave a great deal of confusion as to what insignia should be worn. Three simple rules have been issued to cover the confusion of insignia during the period of change from the old grade system to the new one. 1) NCOs who held Grade E-5 through E-7 on 31 May 1958 are authorized to wear the insignia for their present grade through 31 May 1962. Those who are promoted to a new grade on or after 1 June 1962 will wear the grade insignia for the new grade to which they have been promoted. 2) Individuals promoted to Grade E-5 during the promotion period will wear the new E-5 insignia from the date of their promotion. 3) All NCOs who are reduced in grade as a result of disciplinary action or reductions for inefficiency will wear the new insignia for the grade to which they have been reduced, or immediately switches to the new insignia for the grade to which they are being reduced.

54th Medical Group Now 428th Medical Battalion

The 54th Medical Group, one of Fort Benning's major commands, was officially redesignated the 428th Medical Battalion on Dec. 15. The change in the unit's designation was effected by General Order No. 282, 3d Army Headquarters, Dec. 9, 1958.

Thus the demise of the combat experienced and battle-wise 54th Medical Group took effect 17 years and 10 months after it was first activated on Feb. 10, 1941 at Camp Edwards, Mass.

Only a few changes in the newly designated Battalion will result from the changeover.

The 428th will remain a major command and will maintain the same approximate number of personnel it had as a Group. The Battalion will, however, lose the positions of executive officer and adjutant. When Maj. William A. Casey was named commanding officer of the 428th there was no replacement for his former position of executive officer. And after the departure of 1st Lt. Donald R. Hull on Dec. 24 there will be no adjutant.

First Lt. William P. Frits, Battalion Motor Officer and Commanding Officer of Headquarters Detachment, has assumed the duties of Battalion S-4 officer. He replaced Capt. Robert R. Wengert, who was reassigned early this month to the 8th Medical Group at Fort Bragg, N.C. Capt. Richard L. Milheim will remain as the SS Officer. There will be no changes in the companies assigned to the Battalion or in the Battalion mission.

As the 428th Medical Group, the unit earned its combat laurels on the battlefields of Europe in World War II when it distinguished itself in the Sicily, Naples-Foggia, Rome-Arno, North Apennines, and Fo Valley Campaigns. After World War II the Group was inactivated. When the Korean hostilities ended, it was reactivated and sent to Fort Benning where it became a major, separate command in January 1955.

About 50 men from other posts in the 3d Army area will join the 428th Medical Battalion early in 1959 for Advanced Individual Training under the command of Capt. Ruth Dickson, ANC.

General Wienecke commended the graduates for their interest and good work in maintaining a high degree of proficiency in the military career.

Following the address General Wienecke, assisted by Captain Bewley, presented each graduate with a Certificate of graduation.

Academic honors went to Staff Sergeant James D. Lamar, Co. B, First Battle Group, 87th Infantry, Military aptitude honors went to Master Sergeant (E-4) Russell V. Steare, Co. A, First Battle Group, 11th Infantry, while high total for overall honors was achieved by Sgt. Elton B. Butler, Headquarters Battery, 12th Field Artillery.

Marksman Gets First Credits For High Award

By Div Train PIO

Sergeant First Class Robert L. Hanson, Second Division Marksmanship Detachment, was recently presented the first "Leg" or credit toward obtaining the Distinguished Badge, a coveted award that very few marksmen have been able to attain.

The award was presented by the Division Commander, Major General R. H. Wienecke at a ceremony held at Second Division Headquarters.

To attain the Distinguished Badge, a competitor must place in the top ten percent of all competitors in high level Service Matches or N.R.A. Regional Matches on three different occasions. The awards are made by the National Board, Department of Rifle Practice, Department of the Army.

Sergeant Hanson has competed in four high level matches, the Third Army Matches, All Army Matches, The Tennessee Open and the National Matches which were held at Camp Perry, Ohio during the month of September, 1958. It was at Camp Perry that Sergeant Hanson won his first "Leg." He has only been competing in Rifle Matches for approximately one year. Sergeant Hanson has been assigned to the Marksmanship Detachment since 6 May, 1958. Before entering service, he was employed by the Iowa State Conservation.

By 2nd Div PIO
For the thousands of Second Infantry Division soldiers who travel their homes for Christmas, the annual holiday will bring a welcome respite from the daily duties required of our nation's protectors.

As is necessary at any military installation, however, thousands of others must remain at their jobs to keep the massive Army Infantry Division at the operational level. To enable those remaining men to enjoy the holiday season at Fort Benning, the Second Division has made every effort to keep the division's numerous religious and recreational facilities in full operation.

Services
Highlighting the religious Christmas festivities during the week are services at all Sand Hill, Kelley Hill and Harmony Church chapels for both Protestant and Catholic faiths.

All of the major division units are staging children's Christmas parties, while the Service Clubs all have a full holiday program scheduled. Theater, library, and post exchange facilities will be open during most of the holiday, but will operate on a special holiday time schedule.

Christmas Fete
The Second Infantry Division soldiers will want for nothing in the mess halls on Christmas Day. The traditional feast of roast turkey with giblet gravy and bread dressing will be accompanied by sunny cocktails, fresh fruit cup, cranberry sauce mashed or sweet potatoes, corned beef and cranberry assorted hot rolls with butter, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, mince pie, fruit cake, assorted fruits, dates, candy, nuts, and choice of beverages.

Nor will the division forget the needy. Division Chaplain (Major) Thomas E. Walden, project officer for the Division's Christmas Basket Program, has collected goods which will provide many a needy family with the items essential for a happy Christmas season.

ARC Nels 3525 Pints Of Blood

By 2nd Div PIO

The Second Infantry Division's "American Red Cross Bloodmobile project officer, Captain Thomas W. Valentine announced today that a total of 3,525 pints of blood was contributed by members of the Division during the past six months.

The last visit of the Bloodmobile was made this month ending this year's drive, which began in July. During their last visit the Bloodmobile collected 515 pints of blood, with the majority of the donors coming from members of the 2nd Infantry, 9th Infantry and Second Engineer Battalion.

Average donations per month were 588 pints. The highest amount of donations came in July when 724 pints were collected. Captain Valentine said that the bloodmobile will visit the division again in one year from July through December.

Season's Greetings

On the occasion of this Christmas Eve Mrs. Wienecke and I take great pleasure and pride in extending to each member of the Second Infantry Division our very best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a safe, happy and prosperous New Year.

23rd Infantry Training Committee Rated Superior

By 23rd Inf PIO
The Training Committee of the Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry has received a total of fourteen superior ratings for its instruction during their two cycles of Advanced Individual Training.

The Training Committee, under the combined leadership of Captain Bernard D. Wheeler and Captain Harris D. Alvarez, was inspected a total of forty-three times in the two cycles. In addition to the fourteen superior ratings, the committee amassed a total of twenty-two excellent ratings.

Two instructors, First Lieutenant Thomas Wallington, III, and First Lieutenant William Wilcox, each received two superior ratings to lead their respective subcommittees. Lieutenant Wallington is a chief instructor on the Tactics a d General Subjects Committee. Lieutenant Wilcox, who is currently acting as the temporary S3 (training) in the absence of Major Harry H. Shuckles, is a chief instructor on the Weapons Committee. The only enlisted man to achieve a superior rating of two superior ratings was Sergeant Lester J. Harbeck of the Tactics and General Subjects Committee.

The Second Battle Group, 23d Infantry, spent the Christmas Party for the children of 23d Infantry Personnel on December 27. Highlighting the party was the arrival of Santa Claus with Christmas stockings for the children. Chaplain (Captain) Stewart W. DeBoer opened the program by leading the personnel and dependents in the singing of Christmas Carols. The singing was followed by a cartoon film series directed by Special Services. Refreshments were served by Master Sergeant W. H. Burns.

The party after being visited by Santa Claus moved to Battalion Headquarters where a fire-lighting ceremony took place.

The Officers and men of the 23d Infantry wish all the personnel and their dependents a very merry Christmas and a beautiful and happy New Year.

We sincerely hope that everyone has a safe holiday.

Headquarters Company Master Sergeant Herman F. Breiner, Headquarters Company First Sergeant, has returned on leave with the 23d Infantry where he was hospitalized for a dislocated hip.

Headquarters Company welcomes Master Sergeant Barney E. Lazar, to the unit. Sergeant Lazar, a 22-year veteran, is assuming duties in the company as Police and Sanitation of the company wish him the best of luck.

Lieutenant Edmond Fuchs will take over the company upon the departure of Captain Bingham. Lieutenant Fuchs has spent the last several days in Army Station and is serving for a temporary period on ground duty.

Sergeant First Class John H. Hoke is preparing to take a 30-day Re-enlistment leave to his hometown, Saint Peter, Minnesota.

Company C, Commanded by Captain Gordon R. Pederson, graduated its second cycle of Advanced Individual Training last week in Theater Number Six. During the ceremonies, Pvt. Donald J. Rein was awarded a plaque for the outstanding trainee of the second cycle. In addition, the outstanding trainee under the leadership of SFC Augustine Povont-Camp was selected as the outstanding trainee of the cycle.

This is the second time a platoon led by Sgt. Povont-Camp was the outstanding platoon awarded. Privates Francis M. Bertuz and Jerry R. Grind were the outstanding trainees. Respectively in Automatic Rifle Competition and were awarded trophies for their feats.

Company D graduated its second cycle of Advanced Individual Training last Saturday at Theater Number Six. Pvt. Charles E. Thowley was selected as the outstanding trainee for the second cycle. Pvt. Thowley served as a Trainee Platoon Sgt. of the Fourth Platoon, scored exceptionally well in his tests and was qualified on the Automatic Rifle and Machine Gun.

Company D broke all existing Battle Group records for squad tactical training while in the field last week. The Second Platoon recorded, the highest scores ever posted by a platoon in the competition. The lowest ranking platoon also broke the old record. Company D is commanded by Capt. Wallace S. Tyson.

Mortar Battery
The second cycle of Mortar Battery trainees graduated last Saturday. During the graduation ceremonies, Pvt. Robert F. Smith was chosen as the outstanding trainee of the cycle. Runner-ups were Pvt. James Wood, Laurence Karamer and Richard H. Roe. In addition, Pvt. Robert A. Keith placed first in the firing with Russell A. Mayo finishing second. All were awarded either Plaques or Trophies.

Mortar Battery will pick up its first group of packet trainees. These men will receive their complete basic and advanced individual training with the Battery. These men will arrive during the week of the 15th of February and will remain until August of 1959. They will then be stationed at Bamberg, Germany.

Second Lt. Robert F. Walter, Jr., has been scheduled to attend the Airborne School on Division Units Get Historical Reviews

The major units of the 2d Infantry Division will be the subject of a series of Historical and Pictorial Reviews. The team of photographers and writers arrives at Fort Benning in December.

Produced by the Army and Navy Publishing Company, Inc. of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, the books will measure 8 1/2 by 11 inches, and will contain hundreds of activity photographs and individual portraits of all personnel assigned to each unit.

Present plans call for separate volumes to be produced for each of the Battle Groups of the Division, Division Artillery, Division Trains, as well as several of the separate Battalions of the Division. Special emphasis will be placed on the "packet" training mission of those units receiving trainees during the early part of 1959.

The Army and Navy Publishing Company in a new book prepared over 1,000 reviews for your installations throughout the world. Handling this type of military publication exclusive for the past twenty-five years, it is the foremost authority in this specialized field.

The books will be compiled in addition to being an invaluable souvenir and permanent memento to the individual soldier to provide his family and friends with an interesting and vivid account of his activities and type of duty performed. Each book will be complete in every detail and provide a comprehensive picture of the unit at this particular stage of its history.

The books will be sold on a voluntary basis, by subscription, at the time the photos are taken. Delivery of the books is guaranteed by the publisher and any subscriber leaving the division prior to publication of the volumes will have his book forwarded to him.

Further information concerning the project and the detailed schedules of the photographic coverage for each unit will be forthcoming from the unit concerned.

14th Splits As Hoopsters Take Break

The First Battle Group, 28th Infantry, wound up the first half of its Major Unit basketball schedule in a so-so fashion last week by splitting the final two games on its pre-holiday agenda.

The Commanders of Co. B and Co. C, both of which entered the second half of the campaign with an 8-3 record, a mark that stamps them as one of the chief contenders for the league championship.

During the third shooting of its talented forward tandem, the 28th saddled the Second Battle Group, 1st Infantry with a 73-72 defeat at Briant Wells Field House, Dec. 16th.

Ernest "Woody" Wood and Mickey McDonald, guinea pig of the 1st Infantry with statistics 25 point performances. Following them in the scoring were Clint Bark with 10, and Harvey McGinerny and Coach Busbong with 8 apiece.

The Commanders led the range the following night at harmony Church. Field House as they fell victim to a rugged five from Division Artillery 68-56.

Once again it was McDonald and Wood on the top of the scoring parade for the 28th, but this time the point output fell somewhat shy of their effort 24 hours earlier. McDonald garnered 14 while Wood tallied 14. The only other man in the double digits was McHenry with 11.

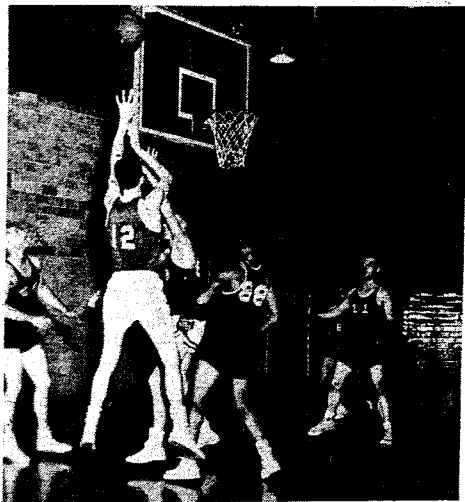

The 1st Infantry saw McDonald emerge as the "out" leader, most consistent high point man in seven of the games to date, and once has he fallen below the 11 point mark. His per game average is now 17.

With play resuming immediately following the Christmas layoff, the primary job of the Commanders and other league members from its lofty perch atop the standings. The Troop Commanders rolled through the first half of the season without a blemish to mar their record.

Teams Meet To Decide Fight Crown

The finals of the team boxing championships will usher in the 28th boxing program on Dec. 24 at 8 P. M. in the Post boxing program. The teams are the 1st and 2nd Infantry. The tournament started in September with the leather pushers from the 28th Infantry jumping off to a lead they have never relinquished as they rolled up a total of 23 points, nine better than the second place team. The nine-point margin is being challenged by the boxers from the 2nd Division Trains.

Eight bouts will be presented and among those scheduled to box are three men who recently won championships in the Jacksonville, Fla. AUC Tournament. They are Sgt. Leon Hall, middleweight, 28th Infantry; Cpl. Fred McFerrin, light welter, 28th; and Eddie Smith, featherweight, 14th Infantry.

JUMPS FOR TWO — Bob Gillam, Commanders, No. 12, sinks a one hander for two points in the final game played against the 87th Infantry on Dec. 17. Ed Williamson, 88 and Jim Martin, 11, both of the 87th look on as the ball arcs for the net.

Watch the Birdie Committee Announces Schedule Of Golf Matches for Half of '59

The Golf Tournament Committee has announced the schedule of tournaments to be held at the Country Club during the first six months of 1959. There are six monthly round three person, and a big Club Championship tournament. The schedule is as listed below:

- January 3 — Monthly Tournament.
- February 7 — Monthly Tournament.
- February 21 — Club Championship.
- February 25 — Washington's Birthday Pro-Am.
- March 11 — Monthly Tournament.
- April 4 — Monthly Tournament.
- May 2 — Monthly Tournament.
- May 30 — Memorial Day Pro-Am.
- June 6 — Monthly Tournament.

Date to be announced. To really enjoy these tournaments you should establish a handicap now, if you have not done so. Those of you who have established handicaps may, of course, continue to use them. If you have no handicap, you should establish one, contact the Pro Shop at the Country Club and they will give you complete information.

There is a considerable amount of work being done on the course at the club, because of this, unless specifically stated otherwise, local winter and U.S.G.A. rules will apply to the tournaments. These are your tournaments and your support is needed. Remember you can become the club handicap champion, so point for the Club Championship tournament.

President Signs Discharge Form Post to Test Life Guard Candidates

MICHAEL APB, N.Y. (APFS) — A major surprise was in store for retiring M. Sgt. Earl R. Young when he checked through his personnel records here. And it was no ordinary major—Sgt. Young found that his first honorable discharge in 1951 had been signed by Maj. D. E. Eisenhower. Now he's got two signatures. Young mailed the vintage discharge to the Summer White House at Newport, R.I. Eisenhower came, revitalized, with a congratulatory note from the President on the sergeant's long years of service.

The "Commanders," USAIC and last none. The Commanders, using a troop command basketball team, took their 11th straight victory Wednesday night Dec. 23, defeating the 87th Infantry. Will Jackson, a fast breaking forward, led the winners in scoring with 18 points. He was consistently out in front of the defenders and under the basket for lay-up shots. Right behind him in the scoring column was James Hlafla who dropped in eight fielders' ball League. They have won 11 for 15 points.

Dragoneers Defeat 87th Cagers 71-61

Posting a third win in its last four games, the 14th Infantry five defeated the 1st Battle Group, 87th Infantry, 71-61, Tuesday night, Dec. 23 at Harmon Church Field House. The contest was the final one in round one of the Golden Dragons. The two teams played on even terms during the opening minutes of the game. But paced by the sharp set shooting of Jim Brown and jump balling of Joe Graham, the 14th, led by Frank Snyder, the Dragoneers pulled away and held a ten-point lead through most of the first half.

An 87th rally closed the gap to 65-62 at halftime. Graham had 15 of his 15 points before intermission. During most of the second half, but did tighten up on the outside, trying to stop the 14th's outside scorers who had hurt them in the opening 20 minutes of play. Their strategy backfired, Cox was Norm Reid and Bob Howard scored underneath on the end of some pretty passes from Jim Sprague and Snyder. The Golden Dragons took a comfortable 62-60 lead with ten minutes remaining in the game.

87th then pressed, but the 14th turned it back. Snyder's two straight baskets quelled an 87th rally after the latter had narrowed the Golden Dragons lead to 10.

Gl's Finish Mechanic Instruction

Personnel at Fort Benning who are responsible for Army equipment in their assignments are to take a new preventive maintenance indicators course. The classes held in the Ground Monthly Department of the U. S. Army Infantry School Transmittal, Radio & Heater, and other maintenance instructions covering the maintenance of all types of equipment ranging from kitchen stoves to jeeps.

Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center at Fort Benning, was on hand to open the classes and stressed the importance of preventive maintenance. "I'm not sorry, I don't want to see you get a flat tire and one block to the right."

Tempter's Return Sankes' Story Told By Lt. Pennington

At Fort Benning's Martin Army Hospital 1st Lt. Neil E. Pennington, entomologist, is known as the "man who likes to play around snakes." But Lt. Pennington dislikes the tag. "Certainly, I've learned to handle these snakes," Lt. Pennington said, "but they are by no means a hobby of mine. They are a very important part of my job." On a floor above his office, the lieutenant has 19 poisonous snakes encaged. With the help of his staff, he sees that the snakes are fed and cared for.

67th Chalks Sixth Straight Bowling Win

The Personal Low Rollers' 67th upset victory over Company C and 67th Chemicals' six straight triumph were highlight of 14th Infantry Bowling League play Wednesday night, December 17th at the Lawson Field Bowling Alley. Second - Place Company C dropped its second straight win of the season as the Low Rollers rolled to its sixth win in as many outings, a 5-1 victory over the 2nd Field Artillery. Their strategy backfired, Cox had the second-highest series of the evening with a 515. But once again 67th displayed its balance as it posted the high team series, a 162.

Roy Schoppert of the Redlegs rolled the night's high game of 200 and series of 646 to lead the Artillery team to a 4-4 victory over the 72nd Engineers. The Redlegs' performance broke a three-way tie for third place and gave them undisputed possession of that spot.

The straightening out of top in the high team game category with a 955. Howard Ford of Company C had the second high individual game, a 199.

Army OKs 12-Unit Train For Remote Area Hauling

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—A $1.7 million contract for a 650-foot-long, overhead train that can haul 150 tons of cargo across Arctic wastelands or other remote areas has been awarded by the Army.

Extensive experimental tests of a smaller, four-unit model have been conducted since 1956 by the Army Transportation Corps.

The performance of the smaller train proved that a vehicle of that type can carry heavy loads under widely varying conditions with a minimum of personnel.

Development of the large 12-unit train will provide the Army with one answer to the need for a combination of mobility and cargo capacity in remote areas, such as polar or desert regions, where roads are non-existent.

The new vehicle, to be built by E. G. LeTourneau, Inc., Longview, Tex., will consist of a lead or control car and 10 four-wheel, individually powered, 15-ton cargo-carrying trailers.

The control car will have accommodations for a six-man crew, a complete communications system and a small, separate power plant with enough power to propel itself when detached from the rest of the train. The main power-generating element will be the rear car.

Israel Sets Tough Basic

NEW YORK (AFPS)—Don't gripe about the hardships of basic training, soldier. Don't sound off about the rigid discipline of boot camp, you sailors and Marines. Let Brig. Gen. J. L. Marshall, the noted military historian, tell you what your life would be like in the Israeli Army.

Recruit training is three-fold tougher than in the U.S. Army, says Gen. Marshall in the October issue of Harper's Magazine.

This program consists of a minimum of 20 months hard training. Road marches? Israeli soldiers get conditioned by 30-mile movements across the jagged ridges of the Galilee country.

If they're potential NCO material they really get the works. Such recruits are divided into teams of three, each member carrying a 25-pound load. For three days running each team follows a march schedule of 40 miles a day over rugged high ground, two-thirds by day, the rest by night.

In another test these NCO candidates must march 40 miles in eight, and one-half mile is allowed to rest. He falls out. If a man shows signs of dropping, his buddies must help him along. If he drops, they must carry him.

Israel has its army reservists too, but they're anything but pampered when they report for their periodic training. On bivouacs they are issued neither blankets nor overcoats. Toughens a man up, sleeping on the cold ground.

Warning Posted For Reckless

During the coming Christmas holiday period, many military and civilian personnel will be departing on leaves or passes. Highways will be filled to capacity with motorists on their way to visit relatives or friends. Highway traffic hazards are ever present, and it should be remembered to keep safety foremost in your mind. Be sure your vehicle is in good mechanical condition. 2. When driving, obey all traffic laws. 3. Avoid drinking when driving. 4. When driving on long trips, don't tire yourself. Rest often and avoid fatigue. 5. Travel during daylight hours when possible. 6. Allow yourself ample time to complete your trip. 7. Adjust your speed to conditions of the road—winter rains make the road slippery. 8. Chance taking is a fallacy—never pass on a curve or hill. 9. Keep a close watch on the actions of other drivers. 10. Remember "Courtesy is Contagious"—try it on the other fellow.

Post Supervisors Keyed On Employee Relations

It was pointed out at a graduation exercise for 19 Fort Benning civilian supervisors Dec. 9, that most people leave or are otherwise separated from jobs because of their inability to get along with others.

The Infantry Center deputy commanding general, Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, cited this point from a report by Dr. Menninger of the Menninger Foundation before making presentation of certificates of training to the graduates.

Combine Knowledge Gen. Ruggles urged the supervisors to combine the knowledge acquired in the course with their inherent understanding of supervisor-employee relationships and utilize these abilities to perform their missions.

Some of the many aspects of proper supervision taught in the 20-week course at the Civilian Training Center at the post were the selection of employees, planned discussions with employees, breaking new persons in on duties, completing the mission of a department most efficiently and the build-

Defendant Has Lawyer's Council At Court Martial

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—Defendants before general court-martial may no longer be represented by persons who are not lawyers, the U.S. Court of Military Appeals has ruled.

Judge Homer Ferguson speaking for the court, said the price paid for incompetence and lack of professional ability is too dear to permit an accused's life and liberty to rest in the hands of one untrained in the law.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (ANS)—Self-contained, so that it is independent of human intervention, the electronic device gives credit as a major factor in the 33 or more successful launchings of the Redstone in the past two years.

Pioneered by the team of scientists and engineers headed by Dr. Werner von Braun, the system for the relatively short range Redstone and Jupiter is capable of guiding giant missiles accurately to targets several thousand miles distant.

Inertia, being "the principle which keeps an object in uniform motion in the same straight line unless acted upon by some external force," must, in light of such distances, have a means of being corrected when affected by wind, atmospheric pressures or other causes.

Technically known as the "pendulous integrating gyroscope accelerometer," the device is brought into play to determine such errors in the missile's trajectory.

Lt. Eberwine, a member of the U.S. Army International Rifle Team, fired on the short-range rifle team which participated in the 1958 World Shooting Championships at Moscow, Russia, in August.

U.S. Slates LaCrosse For Canada

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. —A contingent of Canadian soldiers recently finished training in Ordnance maintenance concepts connected with the LA CROSSE at the Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone Arsenal. Additional troops are expected to receive training at OGMIS in the near future.

Officers also have been training in operation of the LA CROSSE at Fort Sill, Okla., and Fort Bliss, Tex.

The LA CROSSE is a general purpose field artillery guided missile for use in close tactical support of ground troops. It is an all-weather weapon capable of carrying highly effective area type warheads, including nuclear, and is fully capable of destroying strongly fortified pin-point targets. It can replace or supplement conventional artillery. The propulsion system used by the LA CROSSE is a solid propellant rocket motor. The system includes the missile, a launcher mounted on a standard Army truck, and other guidance equipment.

Here's how J. Paul Sheedy* became the handsomest recruit on the post!

"Sheedy, I never saw you sloppier," snorted J. Paul's topkick. "If you don't want to, you're gonna be a 50-year man on the garbage detail." Poor Sheedy was wretched. Then a friend sent him a letter advising Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now Sheedy's hair stays neatly in place all day, in spite of sun, wind and his hot helmet liner. Why don't you try Wildroot Cream-Oil? It's guaranteed to make your hair look handsome!

DOTS AND FLASHES

If you own your own furniture, here are a few things you can do to perk up your decor this year. Try to do a more effective job of color coordination with your decorative fabrics. Patterned or solid color materials are available in identical weaves, enabling you to repeat the background color of the pattern with your solid color fabric.

Be sure not to combine shades that are too vivid. Don't use more than three colors in any one room as shown in the illustration. Keep your chair or rug fabric plain or striped if your draperies are heavily patterned, and vice versa.

When you begin planning your redecoration, choose fabrics that require a minimum of upkeep, thus giving you more time

You can achieve a distinctive type of grooming by developing an accessories hobby. Why not add glamorous accent to your appearance by seeking out gloves, jewelry, shoes, perfumes or even clothes in a particular color that you can personalize and adopt for your own?

To impart wonderful drama to your clothes, accessorize with gloves in shades that match your various ensembles. Many fashionable women maintain a wardrobe of colorful gloves, for this glamorous accessory can change a drab dress into an exciting ensemble.

Of course, when you center attention on your hands with gloves, follow through and assure their attractive appearance with nightly care. Smooth hand lotion on regularly to eliminate any redness or roughness of the skin, and repair a chipped manicure before it contradicts the elegance of the gloves you are carrying.

Make a fashion hobby of your jewelry by selecting pieces that have unusual shapes and designs. Seek clever new ways to wear your best pieces, perhaps attached to your purse or pinned to the sleeve of a suit, and harmonize the stones to the color of the ensemble you are wearing.

Smooth foundation make-up over your entire face and neck, and over the lobes of your ears to provide a flawless setting for your earrings and necklaces. The all-over evenness of your skin tone will impart new luster to the metals and beautiful stones.

Care of the Missing Head

Have you seen this head? It's missing and a whole city is pleading for its return. For 400 years it topped off a statue in Florence, Italy, and helped decorate the Santa Trinita Bridge; designed by Michelangelo. During the war retreating Germans destroyed the bridge. Recently, Florentines reconstructed the bridge piece by piece but the statue's head is still missing. An Italian businessman, Giuseppe Francini, is leading a global search to find the head, believed carted off by a souvenir-hunting G.I. He has called on the American firm he represents, Parken Pea Co. to assist and they have jointly posted a $3,000 "ransom" for return of the head. It is their hope that the ransom word will spread, causing women the world over to search, souvenir collections relegated to attics and storage rooms following World War II. According to Fantoni, the people of Florence plan a great civic celebration on recovery of the missing head of Spring.

THE WIVES

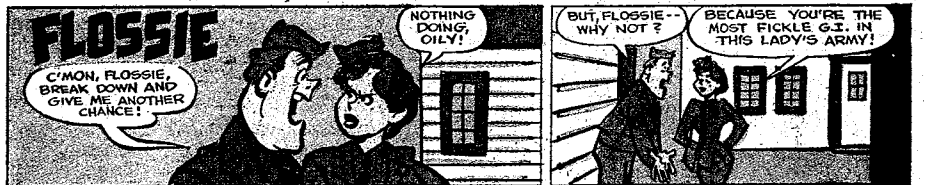

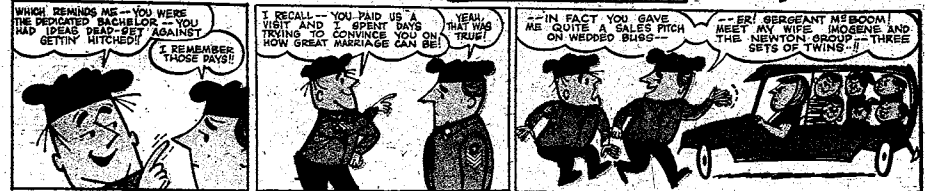

"Well, it looks like this isn't going to be a dull afternoon for you after all!"

to enjoy family activities. More and more easy-care fabrics in stunning traditional as well as contemporary designs are on the market this year.

Fixing up your wood pieces is important, too. If you have any tables on which the varnish has turned white from hot dishes or hot water, it can be restored by rubbing it lightly with a piece of flannel dampened with spirits of camphor. This softens the varnish which, when dried, can be rubbed smooth again with an application of wax furniture polish.

White spots on a wax finish can be removed by sponging with turpentine. Another coat of wax will complete the job but it shouldn't be applied until the turpentine has dried and all the fumes have completely evaporated.

One other thought: Good taste in interior decoration means the exercise of restraint. Resist the impulse to overload your home with too many furnishings. You'll not only be more comfortable, but you'll draw the admiration of friends and neighbors as well.

The Career Officers' Personnel Management Bill, which would amend Title 38 with reference to methods and procedures for making regular promotions and other career matters affecting Regular officers of the services.

Other measures on the DOD's 1959 legislative calendar would:

- Authorize extension of entitlement for a total period not to exceed six years in all services.
- Amend the Career Compensation Act to relieve obligation to repay by husband and wife members of the armed forces for overpayments of starters allowances.
- Provide Family Separation Allowances for personnel whose dependents do not reside at a permanent duty station and validate any such payments made after Mar. 1, 1956.
- Revise the proficiency provisions of the 1954 Pay Act to include a "savings clause" for armed forces members who are promoted or transferred to service schools for training.
- Amend the Contingency Operation Act of 1953 to improve dependent-survivor benefits under the law and, at the same time, reduce service - retiree contributions.

MOS

line and technical service units and organizations.

Congress provided the new E-8 and E-9 grades through the 1954 Pay Act, 1956, personnel experts explained, on the basis of the fact that various degrees of experience and knowledge in the performance of the duties of E-7s could not be equitably rewarded under the old enlisted structure.

Ceilings in the pay law limit E-8s to one per cent and E-9s to two per cent of the total enlisted strength of any service.

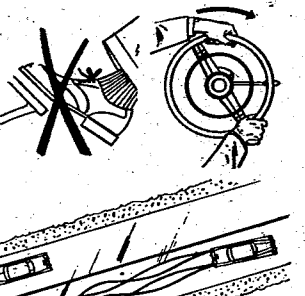

Current Army plans call for phasing the promotion — within legal limits — over a four-year period. Eventually, some 14,000 of the ranks will be top-two graders.

In determining the MOSs having NCIs or specialties serving in positions which may be considered for the super grades, the Army revealed the entire grade structure using as the principal yardstick the key leadership responsibilities of soldiers in both line and technical supervisory type assignments.

Other factors considered were: 1) the knowledge and physical skills required; 2) the scope of action and level of responsibility; 3) the hazards involved; and 4) maintenance of a chain of command to provide normal advancements to grade E-8 or E-9 within a unit wherever possible.

In line with the fourth criterion and as a result of establishing his first sergeant and sergeants major as the top soldiers in a unit, the sergeant in the future must be well qualified in both the combat and technical specialty of the organization and the administrative aspect of the job.

Cagers Begin Berth Tryouts For Army Team

PRESIDIO, San Francisco (APPS) — Competition for berths on the 1959 All-Army basketball team will begin when soldier barcadour standouts throughout the world converge here for eliminations in February.

Team members, selected from 100 candidates, will be named in March and will play against top interservice and AAU teams, with the possibility of earning a place on the 1959 Pan-American Games or the 1960 Olympic teams.

Coach of the All-Army five will be Hal Fisher, famed basketball ace while at Nevada and currently Athletic director here. During the four years he has coached the Presidio team, it has won 174 and dropped only 14 titles.

Lawson Plans Class In Basic Maneuvers

Lawson's Standardization Board states that plans for the New Year will that all pilots at Lawson Field are to be proficient in all the required flying maneuvers.

When a pilot is assigned to the Command, he will go through a week of supervised instruction which covers the development of approximately 30 hours with a final check ride at the end of the instruction to determine his proficiency.

Some of the basic fundamentals that will be reviewed are the techniques of normal take-off, landings, level turns, climbing turns, coordination exercises, stalls, slow flight and similar exercises.

As most of the infantry School problems concern landings and take-offs from unimproved fields with barriers, obstacles, and low level flying, the board is for placing

Clergy Visit Servicemen At Yuletide

NEW YORK (APPS) — U. S. troops in Europe and North Africa were visited by Protestant and Catholic leaders over the Christmas season for another year.

The Protestant representative was the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., who is presiding on Christmas Day in French Morocco.

His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman, after attending the Consistory in Rome, celebrated Mass in Germany, Iceland, Newfoundland, Greenland and Labrador before returning to New York on New Year's Day.

Dr. Dahlberg, whose council represents 27 Protestant denominations and six Eastern Orthodox bodies, also remained overseas throughout the holiday season. His North African stops included Lyauity, Sidi Slimane, Nouasseur and Benguerit. In Spain he will visit Madrid, Zaragoza and Lota.

Cardinal Spellman celebrated Midnight Mass at Hainberg Chapel in Germany on Dec. 26 and thereafter during the day at St. Sebastian's Chapel in the Frankfurt Army Area and at Hainberg Army Chapel.

Man's Destiny in Space

WASHINGTON (FPS)— Earth men know very little about space. But their quest for knowledge, stimulated by daring and high spirit, destined to unlock many perplexing secrets, explain numerous veiled mysteries and possibly provide a basic understanding of human existence.

Roy W Johnson, Director of the advanced Research Projects Agency, DOD, believes this time is not far off. It could be within the next decade.

The technological doorways have been opened, he said, which lead not only to an improved national security, but also to the realistic hope for betterment of our way of life.

Speaking in New York, Mr. Johnson envisioned the day when space travel will be quite normal, when rocket liners will carry passengers and freight rapidly and efficiently from one point on earth to another, from earth to space stations and even from earth to other planets.

And speaking in Minneapolis, Mr. Johnson said, "There soon will be plans under way to put a man in orbit around the earth and return him safely."

Concerning the moon, he said, "I believe the man is now alive who will land on the moon and return." With this accomplishment, he added, it will be a relatively short technological step to make flights to Mars and Venus.

Mr. Johnson spoke of "flying observatories in outer space" which, among other things, will give us a much better idea of the size and nature of the universe—thus dispelling what at present remains conjecture.

Extolling the value of space to our communications systems, he foresaw the launching of satellites into orbit to break down the radio and television communication barrier of oceans and mountains that now separate and isolate many areas of the world.

Meteorological satellites hundreds of thousands of miles up in space one day will look down at weather patterns, predict hurricanes, typhoons and hurricanes in ways now impossible, he said.

Navigation satellites to guide our ships and planes—and perhaps space craft—in a far more accurate way than present navigational systems allow were seen.

Mr. Johnson said he was sure space adventures would arise. But, he said, at all times there will be, either in our conscious or sub-conscious lives, hope that through the work and dedication of succeeding generations, man can take measured footsteps into the unknown.

"It will be foot of the great adventure of man seeking answers to the time-honored questions of why he is here, how he got here, where he is going, and who else or what else, somewhere else, is asking the same questions."

Warning for Drinkers

This New Year's Eve, as in past years, a lot of people will do a lot of drinking.

Some of them will go to the deep end and wallow in the mud. They won't stop until they drink themselves under the table.

If you're one of them, we say: Drink yourself under the table.

Guzzle tonight, groan tomorrow. A whopping hangover can be pretty bad, but it doesn't last forever, and it might even teach you a lesson. At least, you'll have hurt no one but yourself.

But—it is better to be a slob than a slaughterer. The real criminal is the drinker who stays on his feet long enough to get behind a wheel—the man with a lead on who drinks himself, and-or others, six feet under.

Every year on Jan. 1 the papers say it, the radio says it, the TV commentators say it: Don't mix drinking with driving.

And every year on Jan. 1 the papers, the radio and TV report the sorry, shocking toll of dead and injured.

You may think that "One for the road" is scotch or bourbon or gin or beer. It isn't. It's cocktail mixed with formaldehyde, mercuric chloride, zinc chloride and alcohol.

Brother, put down that glass! (AFPS)

Chaplain's Corner

By ALBERT L. SMITH
Chaplain (Lt. Col.)

Disaster kids can find fun. We recall a Brooklyn kid during a hurricane in New York, who attempted to launch his kite made a whole year's record.

There are few of us who have made a whole year's record in avoiding life's realities. It is our thought that as we pore over the early days of a New Year, 1959, we would do well to face them.

All about us who are in the military service are of an age when we have heretofore had our parents face the realities of life. Here is the husband and father who knows how to live, and the young soldier who is unwilling to lay aside his hardy responsibility and accept the reality of homecoming.

"This facing the realities of life is one of the great challenges to the young soldier; he is growing up into independence."

"The military service is one of his first chances to stand alone and make his own decisions—face the realities of life for himself. Here is the soldier who longs to fare forth from home to abroad—but Mommy wants him home—here is the soldier who wants to march but not follow, who wants to march but not follow, who wants to march but not follow..."

"We sometimes hear the description of a grown man: 'He never grew up.' Most of us are a man's fool things, some of retarded growth. Most of man's overindulgence is childishness, over-indulgence in selfishness, over-eating is more so, they are the evidence of a grown person's attempt to deny the truth of age."

All of these very human tendencies are understandable. In us, in the first place, it is desire. In the first place, it is desire to make a man's life. Even in the midst of life, with courage.

International Roundup
French Leader Asks For Belt Tightening

PARIS—Premier Charles de Gaulle told the French people Sunday night the nation was in a dangerous straits and must accept sweeping financial reforms and belt tightening.

"Explaining a sharp devaluation of the franc, partial curtailment of the franc in international trade and announcing the freeing of quota restrictions from 50 per cent of France's imports, De Gaulle addressed a nationwide radio and television audience."

He outlined an austerity budget he cutting into everything from rail fares to politically touchy venal pensions.

"However, De Gaulle promised funds to raise the lowest minimum wage levels as well as unemployment benefits to insure a living standard was guaranteed, if low, annual wage."

Antoine Pinay, De Gaulle's conservative, respected finance minister, followed him on the nationwide hookup and backed up the De Gaulle promise by saying: "I solemnly assure you that the standard of living for the lowest paid will not be reduced and that legislation protecting them will be drafted with loyalty and exactitude."

Pinay also promised to hold the line on the new franc which was devalued 15 per cent Saturday to 483 to the dollar.

The newspaper said on the night of Dec. 27 one Communist soldier and police arrested more than 1,000 persons in the Shanghai slums and arrested some on their charges of being underground reactionary Christians.

The result of this ill-planned maneuver was yet to come. Sgt. and Mrs. Smith, by signing their names to a valid and binding contract, had obligated themselves to accept the books on arrival, and to pay the price agreed. Little did they know that such a wary and both were yet in store for them.

As so many others, they had not read the contract before they signed it, and contained therein was a little proviso to the effect that the books could not be returned if the buyer was dissatisfied with them.

The Judge Says

Last evening after supper Judge Jim's troubles started. It began something like this: "Honey, guess what? Today I've got a sale of books for sale. They were really nice. The most recent edition of the current world events, by the way, is really quite good. It's worth knowing, by the way, and it's cheap, too. They'll be just the thing when little Susie starts talking."

This is not to be construed that Mrs. Smith was the sole person responsible for the events that followed. At the following event, when the salesman returned, Sgt. Smith readily agreed with his wife and within a matter of minutes, they had purchased a set of books costing $142.00.

The result of this ill-planned maneuver was yet to come. Sgt. and Mrs. Smith, by signing their names to a valid and binding contract, had obligated themselves to accept the books on arrival, and to pay the price agreed. Little did they know that such a wary and both were yet in store for them.

As so many others, they had not read the contract before they signed it, and contained therein was a little proviso to the effect that the books could not be returned if the buyer was dissatisfied with them.

One month went by and the books had not arrived. Then at the end of the second month, when the postman was delivering boxes full of books, by the terms of the contract $100.00 was to be returned upon receipt of the books by the buyer.

Girl Gets New Hands From Gl's

KOREA (ANS)—A 16-year-old Korean girl amputee will have hands with which to eat her Christmas dinner thanks to the generosity of I Corps (Group) soldiers and their Amputee Fund.

Miss Hong Myong Sul, who lost both hands during an air raid on the city of Uijongju during the early stages of the war, received both new chancical and artificial hands from the amputee fund.

Started in November, 1952 from donations by I Corps soldiers, the fund provides money for rehabilitation of amputees under 18 who have been injured by an instrument of war. To date more than 1,000 children have received help through this fund.

The fund now only pays for purchase of artificial and mechanical limbs but also provides money for operations which may be necessary for their fitting as well as a rehabilitation training program for children.

Administered jointly by the I Corps Amputee Fund Committee and the National Council of Churches for Christ in Korea, the fund, originally $200,000, is still available to provide help for youthful amputee war victims.

Library to Play Schumann's 4th Symphony in D

The recorded concert at the Main Post Library next Tuesday evening will feature the "Symphony No. 4 in D Minor" by Robert Schumann and the "Symphony No. 38 in G Major" by Joseph Haydn.

The D Minor Symphony by Schumann contains four movements filled with the characteristic music of the master. As a true romantic, he expressed his emotions in art. This symphony is more unified work than Schumann's first three symphonies. Each movement passes on fluidly into the next, but the composition seems to be in a single movement with varied sections.

The "Symphony No. 8 in G Major" by Haydn is one of the best of the best. This composition has a beautiful melody that was not composed to fill a form. It created its form.

Interest in the program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Monkey Travels in Nose. Cone of Jupiter Missile

WASHINGTON (APFS) — A temperature and pressure with monkey has been successfully launched into space in the nose cone of a ballistic missile. The missile in which the passenger rode was an Army Jupiter IRBM (intermediate range ballistic missile) fired from Cape Canaveral on Dec. 15. The flight was termed "completed successfully" by Army officials.

Although the tricky recovery gear didn't function properly and the nose cone was impossible to spot and pick up officials said vital telemetry information was received for 15.3 minutes.

Space medicine experts said the experiment was a necessary step in the national program for manned space flight. As the nose cone traveled through space, descended into the ocean and awaited recovery, measurements were taken on the animal's heart action, blood pressure, respiration, pulse rate, voice response and

Nursery Aids Old Problem Baby Sitting

By DivARTY PIO
Early sitting problems among the church-going set of the 2nd Infantry Division has been nearly solved, due to the effort and foresight of the 2nd Infantry Artillery Chaplain (Captain) Robert C. Young and his fellow workers.

A nursery has been installed by the church to eliminate the problem of finding a qualified baby sitter for the children while the parents attend church.

Featuring experienced baby sitters, the new nursery is well equipped to handle any problems. Each room of the new nursery is equipped with the proper facilities to handle children of all age groups.

In one of the newest additions, the parents will find cribs for the baby with all the comforts of home. In other sections can be found a large play room for the older children. This section is also staffed with experienced assistants although the children will find plenty to keep them occupied. Toys are plentiful with everything from a rocking horse to

Do-It-Yourself Div. Craft Shops Attract "Jacks of All Trades"

By 2nd Inf Div PIO
Do-It-Yourself Craft Shops have been established for use by all Second Division personnel. Four such shops now operating on full scale throughout the division. They have been a center of attraction for many ardent hobbyists and do-it-yourself enthusiasts.

The social aspect of religious pervasion of Chaplain Young located in the Ninth Infantry area, is operated by Master Sergeant John Woychyt, of Headquarters Company 9th Infantry.

Practical Experiences
Sergeant Woychyt, with a lifetime of experience in the field of carpentry, knows how to guide all would-be carpenters through the maze of electrical machinery which is available to all patrons.

Assisting Sergeant Woychyt with the task is Sergeant First Class Lawrence Smith, of "A" Company 9th Infantry; Sergeant William Wright, of "A" Company 23d Infantry, and Corporal Leo E. Hain, of Headquarters Company 9th Infantry.

Machinery Available
Carpentry machinery available runs at a cost of $100, and is free for the utilization of all customers. Nine different size saws ranging from jigsaws to drill presses are part of the facilities.

Special projects, such as bookcases, coffee tables, cabinets and renovating old furniture can easily be accomplished.

For customers with a yen for leatherwork, painting, airplane and boat modeling, a adequate workbench with lighting is available to meet the requirements for any job.

Full Stock
There's no need to rush off to the nearest hardware store or post exchange, because this shop maintains a stock of building materials ready for purchase at a reduced price. Screws, nails, glue and freezers are also available. Finewood and Plywood, can be purchased in all dimensions along with a vast array of Airplane and Boat models.

For leather enthusiasts, leather is available to fabricate anything from your favorite "Lone Ranger Belt" to the expensive-looking briefcase. For painters there is enough oilpaint, canvas and brushes to capture any dramatic scene from nature in form of a picture.

For individuals
The craft shop, with a monthly average of 150 customers open to all Second Division personnel.

Three other craft shops, located at Kelly Hill, Harmony Church, and Sand Hill respectively are operating on the same scale to meet the desires of the most ardent do-it-yourself enthusiasts now with the second division.

THE GREAT FIRE DANCE is over with the first Indianhead Christmas celebrated since camping on the banks of the Chattahoochee. One Brave, M. Sgt. Manuel Pace of Admin. Co., galvanized off to Malta, and another to Germany while several thousand more lit in as many places in 48 states. None, as far as we know, celebrated Christmas in the 49th State.

FESTIVITIES FLICKER out, leaving some smiles, pleasant memories, bills and a few headaches yet to be alkalized. Returning braves tell practically the same story of clan gatherings for the feast, with few variations imposed by circumstances. So it has always been. During the Second War one outfit — and there were probably others — decorated their trenching tools, shovel and pick, using tent pegs for branches. This odd arrangement got the vague notion that it was intended to be a Christmas tree. Tent rope was strung for tinsel, and from the tent peg branches hung the ornaments, mess kit utensils, shotel and pick, using tent pegs for branches. This odd arrangement got the vague notion that it was intended to be a Christmas tree.

Gifts FROM MAGI foot sloggers salvaged Christmas day. Gifts, wrapped in the best paper from Yank magazine, consisted of tins of minced ham 'n eggs from K rations, biscuits, saddle soap, tropical chocolate and the like. These gifts among the men presented much mirth, and broke a spell of gloom that invariably settles upon young men serving far from home on Christmas day. TRUE CHRISTMAS, we are reminded by every third philosopher, has long been forgotten by many of us. Maybe we don't have the Battle of the Bulge in mind, but we feel deeply about it as Indianheads in the Second World War had in December 1944. (But we do have the first of the month to remind us how wisely we interpreted the Gift of the Magi.)

may not lost tonight. But, Oh my foes and Oh my friends, it gives a lovely light . . ." which, says our Medicine Man, leaves the new year in the dark. No wampum in the belt . . . not a cent left in the bank.

LIL INJUN SAYS Wampum saved is Wampum earned. And thus the Lil Injun reminds that the first payday in the new year is a good time to resolve to start Soldier Deposits, class E Allotment to the hometown bank, or buy savings bonds. Five or ten in the sock like the green leaves are still crisp and hard to fold, and the first step is taken to regular savings. Not long ago a sergeant from this division retired with the Army and withdrew more than 30 thousand dollars. Soldiers' savings. That might be discouraging to some who have saved a nickel in their lives, and don't have many years of Army life ahead. But anything we save can be a substantial contribution to security. So if you are not bulging with billions, the small start now may be the lantern that lights up the darkness engulfing the "gates of the year" 1959.

SIX MOONS AGO Indianheads first camped on the banks of the chocolate Chattahoochee. Six thousand new soldiers straight from civilian life spent their first glimpse of Army life from the west-side of the Indianhead path. For the recruits, the experience of basic training — learning to march, to salute, to become proficient in the use of infantry weapons — is a dream. The exacting military discipline which some called "harshness" loses its "harshness" with time, and the situations, created during those first awkward days, along with making new friends are grafted into life until all time is spent. Thus the exacting military discipline which some called "harshness" loses its "harshness" with time, and the situations, created during those first awkward days, along with making new friends are grafted into life until all time is spent. Thus the exacting military discipline which some called "harshness" loses its "harshness" with time, and the situations, created during those first awkward days, along with making new friends are grafted into life until all time is spent.

MANY CHIEFS in the outfit form the hard core of the Indianhead Division, and during these past six moons the shipping of 6,000 carefree civilians into teams of fighting Infantry has been their craft. Still fresh in the minds of most of the hard core is memories of serving the first half of 1958 with the 10th in Germany, concluding nearly three years in that theater. They more significantly, 1958 marked the retirement of the 10th upon its arrival here in June, and the beginning of service in the newly organized 2nd Infantry Division. In July of 1958 the division accompanied its new commander, Major General R. H. Wienecke. In October Indianheads celebrated its 41st anniversary and named its first queen, titled "Miss Second Infantry Division," who was Miss Shirley Meadows of Columbus. ALL POW WOVES brought Indianheads new friends from Columbus, where we got used to American ways again after three years of gestulations in Germany. Somehow, in 1958 we managed to televize the Division's band chorus in "A Christmas Festival of Music" despite the fact that pro-football had a priority on TV time, and there were no less than six changes of plans. This program introduced to our neighbors in Columbus and Phenix City the Division's handmen. And with that, the last sparks of Indianhead 1958 campfires sputter out in the damp, very damp, chilly December air. So with a drop or two of our favorite influenza tonic, we thank our Medicine Man that we survived, at least, to the very end of 1958; and we stand a fairly good chance of being a 59er.
LIL INJUN SAYS: Happy New Year.

DEFINITION: Limited war may be defined as anything less than all out war. It is a war fought with some degree of restriction as to areas of conflict, target attacks or weapons employed. — ARMY INFORMATION DIGEST.

Later they discussed problems common to the three battalions. Some of these being the holiday events, proposed sharing of the guard in the Kelley Hill area, and proper utilization of the Barber and Post Exchange facilities.

It was decided that these meetings should become regular monthly gatherings for the group. The next meeting will be announced at a later date.

The Second Battle Group, First Infantry, commanded by Col. Charles G. Shettle, held a retreat formation on Thursday, December 18. During that time Col. Shettle presented 2nd Lt. Ray D. Weston with 1st Lt. insignia, also a copy of orders confirming the promotion, and congratulations.

In successive addresses, the Battle Group Commander, Col. Charles G. Shettle, and the two Chaplains 1st Lt. Thomas J. Tolentino, and 1st Lt. George C. Karp, expressed their wishes for all men of the Battle Group that do have leaves or are contemplating a leave over the holidays to make it a safe trip home and return.

TC's M-Sgt. Mays Says Good Bye After 23 Years

One of the older members in point of service, the Silver Star, Purple Heart, Good Conduct with two loops, American Campaigner Star, Asiatic-Pacific, American Defense European Theater with two stars, Occupation Pacific, Korean Conflict with five stars and the United Nations Defense ribbon.

Sgt. Mays was a member of Headquarters and Headquarters Co., of the Troop Command at the time of his retirement. His main duties in the army were as recreation supervisor and safety NCO for the Troop Command.

He entered the service from Birmingham in June, 1935 and has served continuously since then. Prior to his assignment to the Infantry Center he was reaction supervisor for the 8900th AU, Seoul Area, Seoul, Korea.

At the outbreak of World War II, he was assigned to the 11th Tank Company at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii. He later served with the Third Infantry Division in Europe (1944-1945).

During the period of 1950 through 1952, Mays was with the 89th Tank Battalion (Delvin Task Force), 25th Infantry Division in Korea.

"Santiago, Miguel." Sgt. Maxwell's hand shook slightly as he wrote. "Next man," he said huskily. "Santiago, Hiram." The sergeant shuddered. "Next man," he whispered. "Santiago, Joseph." Sgt. Maxwell looked bleak. "Next man." "Santiago, Jose," said the seventh. "But this is impossible!" The sergeant wheeled on the last man in the group. "And you—what's your name?" The answer came clear as a bell: "Santiago, Jose."

1958-Year of Progress at Fort Benning

Infantry Conference, New Hospital, Prince's Visit and Propane Plant Were Some of 1958's Post Highlights

MARTIN ARMY HOSPITAL . . . The year 1958 saw the opening of the hospital, one of the newest and best equipped in the nation. This aerial view accentuates the ideal location of the modern building.

INFANTRY CONFERENCE . . . Those who attended the conference had an opportunity to view many exhibits of army progress like this one—jet helicopter being tested by these army men.

(Continued from Page 1) the Fifth Annual Conference of Civilian Aides. More than 110 U.S. business and civic leaders attended the conference. All are aides to Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker who was also present.

Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Jr., assumed command of both the Infantry Center and the Infantry School on Nov. 12. Georgia Sen. Richard B. Russell addressed May 2. Gen. Freeman had been serving as senior Army member of the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering in Washington, since January, 1957. He succeeded Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Powell who left the post April 10 for Fort Monroe, Va.

Many top leaders of the nation and the world visited Fort Benning during the year. Among the more outstanding were Crown Prince Constantine of Greece who stayed two weeks at the post in October and November. The Prince received orientations on the latest Infantry tactics and techniques and witnessed problems and demonstrations in the field.

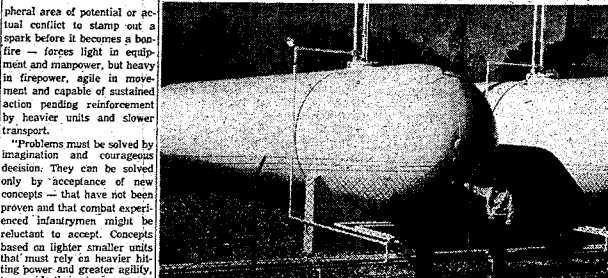

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, visited his post and lectures for the Federal unit, the Second Division on Sept. 18, while here for GREEK PRINCE VISITS . . . Crown Prince Constantine, right, of Greece visited Fort Benning for more than a week this past fall. He toured the post and saw almost everything from latest weapons to the snakes he is viewing in this picture.

CIVILIAN AIDES . . . General Freeman greets the members of the Civilian Aides Conference that met at Benning during the year. Conferences such as this one are one of the means that PROPANE GAS PLANT . . . These tanks are part of the $200,000 propane gas plant to be used to supplement natural gas sources at the Main Post, Capehart and Kelley Hill areas.

SAINT'S DAY . . . Artillerymen of Fort Benning honored their patron saint, Saint Barbara, on December 4th with field displays of artillery weapons and the latest in rockets. In the old days of artillery, there was sometimes more danger from the pieces than from the enemy—the saint protected the gunners.

March collecting data on troop information procedures military training, citizenship training and community relations.

Another Allied visitor was the Netherlands' Secretary of State for War, Dr. Jan Kruisburg, who made an extensive tour of the post in April. His itinerary included orientations on the organization, scheduling of classes and instructional facilities of The Infantry School.

The first world-wide Infantry Conference since 1948 was held in the beginning of December. More than 150 general's stars were displayed as 80 generals from the U.S. and Allied countries attended, discussing the Infantry's role in the future.

Gen. Paul L. Freeman gave the welcoming address and set the tone of the conference. He stated that "a type of Army employment for which the heavy, cumbersome, slow-moving division and regiment of only five years ago are no longer suited. In this dramatic era of atomic plenty and scientific achievement, with the advent of low-yield nuclear weapons available for battlefield employment and with equal attainments in surface and air mobility, a new look at the immediate future and beyond is required if we are to realize the full potential of the infantry."

"As for what might be required of us, the Chief of Staff has stated repeatedly that while we have a role in general war, another of our principal missions is to prepare for the most likely smaller wars. Wars in the peripheral areas ranging from a show of force to organized conflicts such as Korea. Situations that require an adequate, measured application of force — infantry type wars designed to destroy the enemy on the battlefield and not the friendly nation that we seek to preserve. We must develop and maintain compact, hard-hitting forces capable of rapid movement from the U.S. or an overseas base to a peripheral area of potential or actual conflict to stamp out a spark before it becomes a bonfire — forces light in equipment and manpower, but heavy in firepower, agile in movement and capable of sustained action pending reinforcement by heavier units and slower transport."

"Problems must be solved by imagination and courageous decision. They can be solved only by acceptance of new concepts — that have not been proven and that combat experienced infantrymen might be reluctant to accept. Concepts based on lighter smaller units that must rely on heavier hitting power and greater agility, to provide their staying power, attack formations and methods that more resemble a reconnaissance in force than a general advance."

The Doughboy Statue, a monumental memorial to the American foot soldier was unveiled April 1. It is a replica of the German Doughboy statue which stands in Berlin, words, "The American Infantryman's bravest soldiers."

'Copter Drops Santa At Christmas Party

At exactly 10:10 Saturday morning the 20th of December, 1958, Santa Claus arrived by helicopter at the 10th Artillery mess hall for a Christmas party with the children and parents of Headquarters, 1st Infantry Brigade and the 10th Artillery.

Everyone was outside to greet Santa upon arrival and then moved inside the beautifully decorated classroom for more festivities. Santa talked with several children, then began the program by showing several cartoons. Following the cartoons, Santa passed stockings out to the children and talked with them concerning their Christmas wishes.

Battery B played host for the party. S-SSG James F. Chiero headed the decorations committee. A large tree was set up at one end of the room and holly was strung along the sides of the room. Wreaths were placed on the doors and various places around the room. Sgt. Graziano, Battery A mess steward, furnished refreshments for the party and helped to set up the serving lines. A Christmas garland, decorated with (100) lights, was hung from the ceiling to give an archway effect to the gate leading to Santa's "Chair of Honor."

Battery A

The Battery A mess hall recently was judged "the best in the Brigade" for Christmas decorating, and General Freeman is scheduled to pay a visit in the near future. The winning effort, Sgt. Graziano very capably directed the job, and M-Sgt. Diaz contributed his artistic talent by drawing appropriate scenes and figures. The overall job was done with background music coming from speakers concealed in the ventilating system, which greatly helped to create a comfortable atmosphere.

M-Sgt. Diaz will attend the N.C.O. Academy starting January 5th.

A major overhaul has gone into effect in the Battery detail and the results are apparent. A large section of shelving was removed from the center of the room and dispensed with, and a whole new arrangement built at one end of the room to accommodate the commode equipment. A professional job was done by SFC Taylor who did a major portion of the work, along with everyone else who pitched in.

Vets Drop In Number Consistently

NEW YORK (AP) - The number of veterans in civilian life is dropping consistently for the first time since WWII, the Veterans Administration reports.

The figure reached an all-time high last March with a total of 22,745,000. Up to then, the number of servicemen becoming veterans in an average month exceeded the number of veterans all wars who died each month or returned to active duty.

But after March the total veterans population dropped steadily through a six-month period until by Sept. 30 stood at 22,220,000. The decrease of 525,000 strongly indicated to VA officials that after 19 years of increase the number is on a downward trend and, barring another war, should continue to drop with out interruption.

BEST IN BRIGADE . . . Battery A's mess hall was selected most beautifully decorated in the brigade for Christmas. Sgt. Graziano directed the decorating job and M-Sgt. assisted with artwork. Gen. Freeman plans to view the prize-winning job in the near future.

Historians Say Fort Restoration Misses Target

BALTIMORE (AP) - When they restored Ft. Mery in honor of Ft. Scott Key, they must have committed the wrong set of plans.

That's the opinion of two historians and an archaeologist who were assigned to the historic site more than a year ago by the National Park Service.

They say today's visitors do not actually see the fort as it existed in 1814 when the eight of the American flag after British bombardment inspired Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner."

The fact, these experts declare, is a copy of the Ft. Henry that was rebuilt in the War of 1812 appears when it was reconstructed almost a year ago, the historians say. The wrong plans were used.

Austrians Give Medal To ARC for Service

The Gold Medal of the Austrian Red Cross has been awarded to the American Red Cross in appreciation for its assistance in the Hungarian relief program of 1957. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Red Cross president, accepted the medal from Dr. Wilfried Pilsner, Austrian Ambassador, at a ceremony at ARC national headquarters.

In presenting the medal, Dr. Pilsner said that when 190,000 Hungarians refused to enter Austria in 1956-7, it was physically impossible for that nation alone to care for them. "The Austrian Red Cross, therefore, addressed an appeal to its sister organizations among the first to respond in the American Red Cross. In a very generous way it provided volunteers, food, clothing and money."

Red Cross president Alfred M. Gruenther has accepted appointment to the Advisory Council to the Civil War Centennial Commission, in response to an invitation from Major General Ulysses S. Grant, III, chairman of the Commission. In this letter of acceptance, the president said, "You can count on the Red Cross to be of assistance to you in all our work. We shall work with you toward achieving the widest possible recognition of this important era in the history of our country."

Leaders Tell US to Build Brainpower

WASHINGTON (ANS) - With the announced aim of making more and better use of our national brain power, the National Association of Broadcasters has launched a public service campaign to plug up that power under the slogan "Learn - and Live."

Endorsed by prominent Americans in almost every field including the Presidency, "Learn - and Live" has the following objectives:

To develop among all Americans a respect for learning and knowledge, making ignorance un fashionable.

To stimulate among young people a sense of the exciting adventure of growing to their full intellectual capacities.

To impress upon their elders, especially parents, their duty to guide and support youth in obtaining more knowledge and training.

To instill pride among all Americans in doing a job well no matter what that job may be.

Endorsing the campaign, President Dwight D. Eisenhower said: "It is particularly appropriate that the broadcasters are inaugurating this year a LEARN - AND LIVE campaign. I am sure that this will be a fine public service and that the people of our country will benefit greatly as a result."

Drivers of Army vehicles assigned to the old 54th Medical Group, now the 428th Medical Battalion, drop 128.102 percent from July through November with only one accident, reported for an accident rate of 8 percent for the five month period.

The target rate for Army motor vehicle accidents is 55 percent. The Medical Group, with 8 per cent, was just below the target rate, and if the Medics' drivers continue their previous record they will stay well below it for the rest of the fiscal year. A worse record existed in the injury rate among the Medical Group personnel from July through November. Five injuries were reported, two in July, two in September, and one in October.

Leaders Tell US to Build Brainpower

WASHINGTON (ANS) - With the announced aim of making more and better use of our national brain power, the National Association of Broadcasters has launched a public service campaign to plug up that power under the slogan "Learn - and Live."

Endorsed by prominent Americans in almost every field including the Presidency, "Learn - and Live" has the following objectives:

To develop among all Americans a respect for learning and knowledge, making ignorance un fashionable.

To stimulate among young people a sense of the exciting adventure of growing to their full intellectual capacities.

To impress upon their elders, especially parents, their duty to guide and support youth in obtaining more knowledge and training.

To instill pride among all Americans in doing a job well no matter what that job may be.

Endorsing the campaign, President Dwight D. Eisenhower said: "It is particularly appropriate that the broadcasters are inaugurating this year a LEARN - AND LIVE campaign. I am sure that this will be a fine public service and that the people of our country will benefit greatly as a result."

Infantry Board News

Four Board EM Receive Christmas Promotions

Four members of the United States Army Infantry Board's detachment are spending a happier Christmas leave with their families because they received promotions prior to their departure. Those receiving the upgrades were John S. Neilson and Kenneth C. Grantham, Jr. They were promoted to the grade of sergeant. Anthony L. DeLancey and Willie T. Board were promoted to Specialist Five.

There were six members of the Infantry Board who thought they would not be home for the Christmas holidays. It seems that Maj. Roy Oestreich, Maj. Melvin Gustafson, Capt. Herold Underwood, Capt. Harry Glidden, M-Sgt. Abraham Greivitt and Sfc. Luther Gilreath were at Fort Monroe, Virginia on TDY when that area had its worst snowstorm in 50 years. During the night almost 12 inches of snow fell and virtually paralyzed all commercial transportation in the area. Fortunately a few warm days and a lot of hard work by street crews opened the highways and all six returned in time to enjoy the holidays.

Three officers of the Board have been tentatively scheduled for advanced schooling during the 1959 - 1960 school year according to an article in The Army Times. Maj. Robert R. Sine and Capt. Thomas B. Blake are expecting orders to the Army's Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Maj. William B. Stough has been selected for attendance at the Third Army Command and Staff College at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

FLEXIBLE ARMY
 IN MY OPINION: Our force structure must be capable of coping with general or limited war at the proper time with the proper weapons. Our strategy must be sufficiently flexible to permit us to select the most feasible and advantageous course of action.—General Nathan F. Twining, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Army Builds New Missile For Cargo
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is interested in the Lobber, a supersonic ballistic cargo missile, which may develop into a revolutionary first in military logistics. Devised and flight tested early in December by Convair, General Dynamics Corp., the Lobber developers propose that the missile would be useful to deliver food and supplies to embattled or isolated troops in combat in place of regular airlift. Fired from a hand-carried launcher, Convair officials say that quick-disconnect Lobber payload sections could be pre-packed at supply depots and at least 70 per cent of every missile would be recoverable for reuse. In initial testing of the solid propellant missile at Camp Irwin, Calif., the Army's tank artillery range in the Mojave Desert, a nine-foot Lobber reportedly delivered a 50-pound payload intact at a distance of about six miles. Already under development, according to Convair, are such additional Lobber capabilities as transporting small radio transmitters, putting cables across rivers for engineers building pontoon bridges; laying cable trolley lines over impassable barriers; strung communications wire to forward observers; spreading smoke cover for assault landings; and delivery of fuel and munitions to advanced units.

Program Enables Army To Cut Security Costs

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Discussing the Service-wide "De-classification Program," a military spokesman here today said that substantial saving can be made by declassifying documents which no longer meet the criteria of security marking, and said that "Ideas and suggestions are solicited to facilitate this process."

"Personnel who work with classified documents on a day to day basis are especially urged to submit suggestions for improving the declassification or downgrading process, if possible."

Pointing out that cash awards are made through the Incentive Awards Program for worthwhile money saving ideas or improved methods making for greater efficiency, the spokesman said:

"Last year some $64 million was paid to Department of Defense employees for 67,000 employee suggestions which were placed in effect."

In addition, he added, 25 thousand employees received awards for superior performance with a summary of the Government by an estimated $21 million.

"Many people who work daily with classified documents no doubt have valuable ideas or suggestions which, if put in effect, could result in more efficient handling or in more expeditious methods for declassifying such material," he re-emphasized.

"Don't just think about such suggestions," he concluded, "Submit them through the established Incentive Awards Program."

LT. COL. ALLEN

OCS Honors Lt. Col. Allen

Lt. Col. Richard J. Allen, Airborne Air Mobility Department, is being honored as recipient of the 502nd ABG's OCS. His picture, along with a summary of his military career, is being placed in Wigle Hall, the Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame.

Lt. Colonel Allen began his commissioned service on May 1954 when he was graduated from Officer Candidate School Class No. 9. He served with the 81st Parachute Infantry in World War II as company commander, Regimental S-3, Paratrooper executive officer, Battalion commander and Assistant executive officer in Europe.

He was later assigned to the 187th Airborne Infantry Regiment and to the U.S. Army Mission to Bolivia. Upon returning from Bolivia Lt. Colonel Allen became executive officer of G-1 Section, Department for taking his team through the following events: (1) a 120' shuttle run on the ground; (2) an overhead basketball throw from the kneeling position; (3) a vertical jump after reaching height has been checked; (4) pullups as administered in the physical fitness test; and (5) a 60-yard endurance crawl. The sixth event of the test, a two hand coordination test, is administered in a classroom. This last event checks a person's ability to coordinate the movement of his hands and eyes during a timed interval.

Dingos Receive Mascot Dingoes

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Dingo Company, 502nd ABG wanted a dog for a mascot. But the dingoes troops didn't want any old kind of dog.

They wanted a dingo. And they wanted it to come the way to Australia to get it.

The Aussies have more dingoes than you can shake in a tin—and you'd probably have to pay a pair of pants for one at a game farm in Catskill, N. Y., and another at New Braunfels, Texas.

The New York dingo is a tamed male; the Texas is a female and wild. This last fact was pointed out by Richard Case, Sgt. Frank A. Wendle and PFC Carlos Romero who volunteered to drive to New Braunfels and bring back the female.

Ever make a trip from Texas to Kentucky with a wild dingo in your car?

Officer Test Planned To Find Leadership

streamlined version of the DOL battery will be used operationally prior to entrance on active duty as part of the standard for commissioning.

The DOL test battery consists of 18 separate instruments with a combined administration time of approximately 24 hours, and is to be administered through August 1959. The School Brigade is charged with the primary responsibility for the administration of the DOL battery. Representatives of the Personnel Research Branch, TAGO, Dr. Harry Bornstein and Robert Stern, research psychologists were at Ft. Benning last summer in order to observe the initial administration of the DOL battery and to advise on problems concerning its administration.

Dr. Bornstein observed that "The initial test administration as being used as effective as any other administration..." he had seen. "The two psychologists run on the ground" here from time-to-time inspecting the progress of the entire testing program.

The first, or Fort Benning phase of the testing program will require three and one-half days to complete. The first exam requires six hours and covers a range of general information. This test is designed to obtain a large number of measures of civilian interests and activities thought to be related to leadership in different officer areas.

The final test in the first phase is the officer performance rating which indicates the leadership potential in three areas of officer performance: technical, tactical and financial management. These tests take four hours to complete. The tests are designed to measure those civilian experiences which have fairly direct counterparts in Army officer jobs.

The next exam calls for a large amount of biographical information which, in previous research, has been found to be related to successful leadership in combat areas and other leadership areas. The biographical information calls for three and one-half hours of writing time.

A test follows that measures pre-commissioning socio-economic status. Another test assesses the ability to make quick judgments about on-the-job problems. Still another test, the Group Awareness Test, measures the individual's ability to understand the opinions and attitudes of various military groups.

Next, and possibly the toughest, is the physical skills and stamina test consisting of six stoning screen.

New Green Thumb Visits Texas In Person of Star, Russ Tamblyn

Texas was visited by a new kind of "green thumb" when personable actor Russ Tamblyn made an appearance in San Antonio. The green was Army green; the thumb was "tom thumb," the musical extravaganza which has Tamblyn in the title role. He was on his way from Ft. Sill, Okla. Spotted at Parris Island, S. C. for "most nearly attainable" characteristics of an ideal Marine during recruitment training" was James Cagney Jr. The distraction also brought him promotion to PFC and a set of dress blues. Saint Nick Visits Netherland Kids

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (ANS)—Saint Nicholas, the original inspiration for Santa Claus, made his first trip here this year on the afternoon of December 5 to greet Netherland students, their families and friends at the Ordnance Guided Missile School.

The visit of the beloved Saint whose Dutch name of "Sinterklaas" crept into the English language was arranged by officers of the Royal Netherlands Air Force at OCMG.

According to ancient Netherland tradition, Saint Nicholas lives in Spain but makes an annual pilgrimage to the Low Countries on his birthday, December 5, to distribute presents to children.

Santa Claus was a welcome visitor to the Pre-Kindergarten School at Ft. Benning and was the highlight of the two day Christmas program.

The door leading to the school auditorium was flanked by Christmas trees gaily decorated with samples of the children's art. Colorful directional signs were displayed on the playground fence to help parents and guests find the right entrance.

The three-year-olds held their program on December 19 and the four-year-olds held theirs on December 19. The 180 children presented selections including "Angie Belis," "Thank You Prayer" and "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," and they greeted Santa Claus with a roaring welcome and squeals of delight as each received their gifts.

Special guests for the affair were Mrs. John F. Ruggles and Mrs. Paul J. Jarrett.

The school, sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ft. Benning, was enlarged this year and opened to dependent children of both officer and enlisted personnel.

A well qualified teaching staff, 10 classrooms, an easel painting room and a well equipped first aid room has been added.

German Crises

Russians Desire Allies To Leave West Berlin

By Armed Forces Press Service
The Soviet government, on Nov. 27, handed the U.S. a note proposing that the three Western Allies (U. S., Britain and France) abandon their rights in West Berlin in favor of what the communique called a "free city."

The Russians also indicated that unless the three Western powers accept their proposal within six months, the U.S.S.R. will consider itself free of its obligations in Berlin and will turn administration of East Berlin over to the East German government.

The Western Allies are acutely aware of the importance of maintaining a free West Berlin. The suggestion of the city by the Communists would be a serious blow to German morale.

(How West German morale might be affected is perhaps best illustrated by the elections in early December. A record number of voters registered their rejection of the Soviet offer by swamping the Communists, barring them from all 133 seats in the City Council. Said West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt: "The people have said decisively that they will never bow to the yoke of Communism.")

Allowing Berlin to become a "free city" 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain would weaken, in Germany and elsewhere, confidence in the effectiveness of American policy and in the strength of NATO.

Many observers believe that the Communists intend to keep the world moving from crisis to crisis, using each one to make new gains for the Soviet Union and to wear down Western resistance to "peace" on Russian terms. In Germany their maneuvers are viewed as intending to gain:

Withdrawal of Allied garrisons from Berlin.

Recognition of the East German regime by the U. S., Britain, France and West Germany.

Three Bases Set to Shut, See 5.3 Million Saving

WASHINGTON (A.F.P.S.)—Three stateside Army installations — Ft. Polk, La.; Ft. Claiborne, Ark.; and Ft. Miles, Del. — are scheduled to be closed by next summer.

Army officials said the installations will be retained on a standby status after the necessary relocation of activities has been accomplished.

Units stationed at Ft. Polk, numbering some 8,700 troops, will either be transferred to other posts or inactivated.

The major unit at Ft. Polk is Armored Combat Command "A," which will be moved to another post as yet undetermined.

Ft. Claiborne, a basic training center, will be absorbed by other recruit centers. The Army said that since there are no major tactical units presently at Claiborne, the monthlong will not require relocation of large organizations.

Ft. Miles is primarily a firing range for conventional aircraft, artillery, now being phased out of the active Army. Its present station complement of six officers and 45 enlisted men. The Army said there are no known operations that can be transferred to the post for more efficient use of the installations.

More than 2,500 civilian employees will be affected in the closing of the three forts. The employment assistance will be given those workers made surplus by the shutdowns, the Army said. Savings estimated at $5.3 million are expected to be made during the first year the installations are inactivated.

Reduction in end troop strength has cut training facilities requirements, the Army overhead personnel.

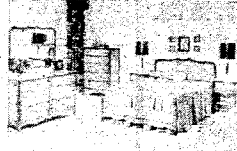

in the extent that consolidation of activities and closing of installations is possible "in the interest of reducing operating costs and the number of overhead personnel."
