Commended By Council

The feelings of the civilian neighbors were summed up recently in a resolution passed by Columbus city commission commending Gen. Powell for "excellent service" rendered the community and the work he has done to strengthen the ties of goodwill and mutual cooperation which exists between the military personnel at Fort Benning and the civilian population of our community.

Since Fort Benning is the home of the world's largest Infantry center, much of Gen. Powell's time has been spent in hosting a great many visiting dignitaries; military and civilian from all over the U. S., but from Allies throughout the world.

Their entertainment of these dignitaries has successfully enlightened such VIPs on the present-day role of the Infantry and the vital mission of the Army of today.

Scant hours later fire gilded the post office, almost in anger delivered.

Reached Yalu

It was a dramatic crossroads in the young man's life; one which was to account for his planting the American flag on the frozen Yalu river 24 years later.

His Army career — marked by his love of the Infantry — has brought him quiet fame as a "soldier's general" to his troops, and as an officer possessing a combination of tact, understanding, prestige, firmness and personal character.

Herbert Butler Powell, whose father opposed his thoughts of a military career, compromised by entering the University of Oregon as a journalism major.

Destiny entered the picture when in 1926 as a cub reporter for the Bend, Oregon "Bulletin," he went from covering the police beat late one night to the Bend Post Office, hoping to find a letter from his fiancée, Miss Beryl King. Instead he found a terse letter from the War Department advising that he could convert his ROTC commission to become a Regular Army second lieutenant if he accepted within 24 hours.

Letters of Congratulations to Infantry School on 51st Anniversary From Top Washington Officials

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY INFANTRY SCHOOL

On behalf of all members of the Army, I extend congratulations and best wishes to the officers and men of the United States Army Infantry School on the occasion of its 51st anniversary.

Since its establishment shortly after the turn of the century, the school has had a long and distinguished history. It has been the training center for the officers and men of the United States Army Infantry School for the past 50 years. Through the years, it has produced the finest leaders of the United States Army. It has been the source of the finest leaders of the United States Army. It has been the source of the finest leaders of the United States Army.

They, under the leadership of the school, have made the United States Army the most powerful fighting force in the world. They have made the United States Army the most powerful fighting force in the world. They have made the United States Army the most powerful fighting force in the world.

Major General Herbert B. Powell
Secretary of the Army

SECRETARY OF THE ARMY
WASHINGTON
March 26, 1958

Dear General Powell:

There are few who are a part of the world's finest United States Army Infantry School. It is a school of the highest caliber. It is a school of the highest caliber. It is a school of the highest caliber.

As the Army continues its reorganization under the President's concept, the importance of the Infantry School increases at the same time. It will be the responsibility of your successors to train the modern Infantryman in the new concepts of war to insure the success of the United States Army as our type of warfare should the need ever arise again.

On behalf of the men and women of the United States Army, I extend my warmest congratulations to you and your staff on the 51st anniversary of the school's opening. It is a privilege for me, a former Infantryman, to salute the United States Army Infantry School.

Respectfully,
Major General Herbert B. Powell
Secretary of the Army

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
March 26, 1958

Dear General Powell:

As the officers and men of the United States Army Infantry School join in observance of their fifty-first anniversary, I am glad to send my greetings to them.

Since its activation as the Predecessor of the Infantry School, the school has been the training ground for officers and men of the Army who proudly wear the insignia of the Infantry. I know the soldierly discipline and principles of leadership learned there will always add essential strength to the defenders of our land.

It is a privilege for me, a former Infantryman, to salute the United States Army Infantry School.

Sincerely,
Dwight D. Eisenhower
President

No Longer Idle Curiosity

Space Scientists Baffled By Meteorite Mysteries

NEW YORK (AFPS)—Meteorites, once considered items of idle curiosity, now draw the serious attention of some of the nation's leading scientists as man prepares for the conquest of space.

A study of their speed, heat, penetration and survival may help researchers design space vehicles that can re-enter the earth's dense atmosphere without harm.

When a meteorite blasts toward earth it moves faster than air molecules. Air, trapped and compressed in a pocket before it, becomes fantastically hot. The meteorite's surface begins to melt.

Liquid material is sloughed off in a spectacular display of sparks. This is what people view when they see a "falling star."

Dense air and friction finally slow down the meteorite, the hot air pocket dissipates, the fireball vanishes, the molten surface hardens into a crust and plummets to earth.

Hundreds of millions of these space travelers pepper the earth's atmosphere each day, yet only five or six are big enough and solid enough to survive the hazardous trip. Specimens of only 1,700 meteorites have been identified, according to the National Geographic Society.

Yet meteorites have been colliding with the earth since recorded time. Ancient peoples revered them. The black stone in Mexico's Kaaba supposedly fell from the heavens, but has not been analyzed because of its sacred nature.

For many years scientists refused to accept the fact that solid matter could arrive on earth from space. They thought that "the funny looking stones" had been struck by lightning.

A great shower of meteorites at Leigle, France, in 1803, ended their skepticism. Scientific study of these visitors from space started then in earnest, but it's still considered a fairly new field.

Scientists cannot agree on their origin. Many experts believe meteorites originated in the solar system and once were part of solid bodies of perhaps planetary size.

Determining the age of meteorites will help pinpoint their origin, scientists believe.

Sfc Gibson Given Award for Service

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AFPS)—Fourth Inf. Div. outfits near the front line.

This accession to the late Gen. George S. Patton's famed Red Ball express of WWII was made necessary by the fluid, fast-moving battle tactics of the division's pentomic units.

Sfc Andrew M. Gibson Jr., 11 S. Army Hospital, has been presented a commendation ribbon with metal pendant.

The award was presented to him by Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Fort Benning commanding general, during a ceremony at Chapel Field.

Sfc Gibson distinguished himself by outstanding and meritorious service from Sept. 15, 1955, to Sept. 16, 1957, while serving as administrative assistant, 81st Medical Detachment, Poitiers, France.

Brigade Gets Impersonator

A professional impersonator of Lt. Roman was auditioned by practicing only when he was taking a shower in a new student office in the School Brigade. It is 2nd Lt. Roger J. Roman, presently assigned to BIOC No. 12, 2nd Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade.

Lt. Roman says that he liked to impersonate his favorite screen and TV stars, but for fear of ridicule practiced only in the shower.

Roman's first display of his talent took place when Horace Heidt came to his home town of Spokane, Wash. Almost 100 amateurs were auditioned by Heidt for a chance to appear on his program there. Roman and two others were accepted and performed before an audience of over 5,000 cheering spectators.

"This being my first performance outside the bathroom had me all shook up, but the audience liked my performance well enough to gain me many professional appearances" at night clubs, smashes, civic organizations, etc. I liked show business so much that I went to an agent to see if he could get me more bookings," Roman stated.

He turned out to be too good an agent—he had me working almost every night. My college work was taking a beating so one of the two had to go. I decided that I had better get an education while I could. Then perhaps later could resume show business," says Roman.

2 Units Mark 150 Years

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — Two famed Infantry regiments, the Second and Fifth, celebrate their sesquicentennial April 12.

Constituted 150 years ago, in 1808, as the Sixth and Fourth Infantry Regiments respectively, the Second and Fifth are now parent organizations in the Army's new pentomic structure.

Subordinate units eligible to celebrate their "parent regiments' birthdays include the Second Battle Group, Second Infantry Regiment, assigned to the First Infantry Division, Fort Riley, Kan.; First Battle Group, Fifth Infantry Regiment, assigned to the Eighth Infantry Division in Europe, and the Second Battle Group of the Fifth Infantry assigned to the Sixth Infantry Division at Fort Carson, Colo.

The Second and Fifth regiments are a part of the Army's Combat Arms Regimental System which was initiated a year ago to preserve the traditions of its historic "regiments of the line."

An Army spokesman said, "The continuation of regiments which distinguished themselves at Yorktown, Gettysburg, San Juan Hill, Chancellorsville, Normandy, and the Pusan Bridgehead will give today's soldier a link with the past and a stake in the future. They will help focus our attention on the truly illustrious history of the U. S. Army."

Corps Marks 11th Birthday

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — The Army Medical Specialist Corps celebrates its 11th birthday April 16.

This corps, one of six officer corps which comprise the Army Medical Service, has three sections: the Dietitian's, Physical Therapist's and Occupational Therapist's. Congratulating the Corps on its anniversary, the Surgeon General, Major Gen. S. B. Hayes said: "The loyal and devoted services rendered to patients over the years by dietitians and physical and occupational therapists has been characterized by high professional standards. We take pride in the achievements of your Corps and commend the spirit of service of its members."

Outstanding educational and career programs for each of the three professional groups are sponsored by the Army Medical Service, and both men and women can now qualify. A spokesman said that information regarding applications can be obtained by writing to The Surgeon General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C. ATTENTION: Personnel Division.

Gen. Costello Tells Class Army Needs Strong Officer Leadership

The Army's need for strong leadership in the junior officer ranks was emphasized by Major Gen. Normando A. Costello, commanding general of The Infantry Training Center, Fort Jackson, S.C., in a talk at Fort Benning recently.

Gen. Costello was introduced by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry school assistant commander, Chaplain (Capt.) Harry G. Campbell Jr., Infantry Center Chaplain Section, delivered the invocation.

Beow Grad Second Lt. Harry E. Warrburg was honor graduate of the class.

Runners-up for honors in the group were 2nd Lt. Gary W. Howdorn, William D. Reidy, George D. Burrow, and Walter W. Leiken.

"Don't wait for others to guide each action. And don't accept as inflexible everything in writing. Gen. Costello's policies to be interpreted in the best interests of the mission."

Gen. Costello was introduced by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry school assistant commander, Chaplain (Capt.) Harry G. Campbell Jr., Infantry Center Chaplain Section, delivered the invocation.

Beow Grad Second Lt. Harry E. Warrburg was honor graduate of the class.

"The platoon leaders provide the guts and are responsible for the success in battle," he continued.

Gen. Costello pointed out that "the same type of man who comes forward on the field of battle is the man who has gained the confidence of his men in peacetime."

Leaders Needed

"The Army does need leaders and they must come from your generation, not 10 or 15 years hence. Your responsibility, whatever your assignment, will be the same—the leading of men."

"Every organization is constantly looking for good men at every level—the Army is no exception."

"The speaker told the class, 'You as officers will have the full responsibility for your men 24 hours a day, whether they are on duty or on leave.'"

24-Hour-a-Day Job

He noted that no organization other than the military parallels this responsibility.

"This is due to the nature of our mission. We take in the most valuable product the U.S. has, young men, and train them. To do this you must have a leadership that is respected and the men in that unit must be trained to respond to that leadership," Gen. Costello said.

He urged the graduates to exercise their imagination, curiosity and initiative.

TWO MPs CITED

Two military policemen, Pfc Robert B. Darling and Pfc Marvin M. Spivey, have received letters of commendation from Infantry Provost Marshal Lt. Col. Allen Shuler Jr., for their alertness, initiative and attention to detail in preventing an injury or possible death of a fellow serviceman.

Arms School Set Here April 12-19

Third Army Small Arms Firing School will be held at Fort Benning April 12-19. The school for Third Army marksmen and pistol shooters will be held at the post April 27-28.

Attendance at the school is mandatory for active Army firing units in the championships, with the exception of individual entrants from military districts and Reserve Officer Training Corps detachments. Distinguished Marksmen and entrants from the U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit.

Further exemptions from attendance include graduates of the 1957 Third Army Small Firing School and marksmen attending instructor's course at the Infantry School, or the National Matches Small Arms Firing School.

Report April 12 Reporting dates for entrants in the Small Arms Firing School is April 12. Other personnel in the matches report April 19.

Marksmen of Fort Benning will compete in the final stages of firing the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Championships. Individual results of the post competition will decide berths on the teams which will represent Fort Benning in the Third Army championships.

EFFECTIVENESS OF JUDO DISPLAYED
L. E. W. W. H. House, Sgt Thomas Williams

Judo Classes Open To Personnel at Post

Classes in the Oriental art of Judo, the art of bending joints and applying pressure to vulnerable points such as the Adam's apple, third, Tibo Thomas Williams, possessor of a coveted Judo Black Belt, conducts classes at Briant Wells Field House.

As yet a participant never ceases to learn, judo is carefully explained in preliminary instruction by Japanese-taught Williams. His Monday, Wednesday and Friday night classes, introduce novices to the far reaching and varying aspects of judo, and its application towards a broadening experience.

Fundamentals Taught
Beginning with the proper methods of falling and the conditioning of a proper frame of mind, Sgt. Williams develops his more advanced and expertly executed judo in the complex and fascinating five major aspects of judo.

First is the more familiar competitive Kodokan Judo which is an athletic demonstration of the art of striking with the palm of the hand, and kicking the feet, and lastly, the art of striking with a club or sword.

Appropriately, Williams became acquainted with the art of judo in Japan, while stationed there in 1950. A lithe, but solid 5'10", 170 pounder, the Tampa, Fla., native insists that weight and strength is relative and irrelevant in judo.

For the soldier's advantage, Sgt. Williams, a first-rate judo expert and instructor, has opened his Briant Wells Field House at 7 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Time to Renew Hunting Licenses

Turkey gobblers are gobbling up a storm in their cover on post which is a fine sign of a successful spring gobbler season, which is scheduled to run through April 11. It is suggested that, if you're planning on getting out, you should renew your Georgia hunting license. If you haven't already done so, expiration date was March 31.

If you pick up your state license at the Fish and Game Maintenance Association offices, either at Main Fort Benning area or at Harmony Church, you may also renew your Association membership at the same time. This year, Association memberships became effective on April 1 and expire on March 31, 1958. The change was made to coincide with the expiration dates of state hunting and fishing licenses, a change which will prove a convenience for everyone.

Of course, present members will have until June 30 to run out the membership—but renewals will be available to them from now on.

FISH ARE BITING

For the benefit of our angling brethren, fish of all species are hitting at the bait. An eight and one half pound bass made a bad choice of minnow and struck at one under the control of M-Sgt. Paul Strine, Ground Mobility, the other day. Then, Lt. Bob Lewis, The Infantry Center Dental Detachment, hauled out a two and a half pound crappie out of the same waters (King's Pond) without the benefit of novocaine. Let's say that the crappie taken could well be a post record and that it rates as a whopper in any league.

In last week's column we listed Clear Creek Pond as being the site of the "fish grab" to be part of the Association's annual barbecue. There may be a change in that. Our Range Guards want to assign the "fish grab" to the post. For the "grab" so it might be that a pond other than Clear Creek will be selected.

BARBECUE SET MAY 10

The barbecue is slated May 10 and all personnel of the post have been extended an invitation. Tickets for the barbecued chicken meal to be served at the recreational area of King's Pond are now available in all major commands and separate units. They cost 50 cents each.

Attendance award tickets are now also available. Top attendance prize is a 12-foot boat with a seven-and-one-half horsepower Evinrude Outboard motor which will go to some lucky ticket holder. Reserve Saturday afternoon, May 10, as a time to spend at King's Pond. Whether you like barbecued chicken, or not, the Association will provide activities which will be of interest to everyone.

We went out with M-Sgt. Jim Hay, Range Guard Section to observe the guard in Alabama area run his predator trap line. We closed out the day by coming to the conclusion that not all artists wear berets, eat crusts and live in garrets. Using extreme care, M-Sgt. Hay would make a "cat" with a No. 2 trap and when he finished it would be easier for you to find a prune in a coal bin. And the results of Jim's crafty methods, an 18-pound bob cat, a fox and a domestic cat were eliminated from our predator roster.

CATS KILL OFF QUAIL

It is well to note that a "domestic" cat may be "Mama's little puddy cat" while it rolls a ball of yarn across a living room rug but, once on its own in the woods, the housecat becomes a demon of destruction and one of the quail's deadliest enemies. Left alone, a single cat will decimate every quail covey within its wide range. Unwanted cats should never be abandoned on post, nor anywhere, for that matter, but should be turned over to our veterinarians.

Range Guard Section asks that hunters bagging turkeys during the Spring season report their kills to the Section. One gobbler per hunter—shotgun only—No. 2 shot or smaller and—good hunting!

Beck, Brown, Geller Star Brigade's Second Battalion Wins First Place Victory in Track Meet

Jerry Beck, former University of Houston track star, led his Second Battalion, School Brigade, track team to an impressive indoor victory Friday's open post meet.

Beck, along with teammate Jimmy Brown and ISTC's Henry Geller emerged as the star performers in the day's proceedings. Beck capped striking victories in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and in the hop, step and jump, while pro-football star, Brown scored triumphs in the discus and the high jump.

Geller, who made a crossover try from Okaloosa AEM, was top man in the mile race, as well as the 800-yard run.

Gen. Wyman Comments AAMU on Florida Firing
A congratulatory message has been received by the U.S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit from the commanding general, Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., in recognition of the unit's shooting accomplishments during the Mid-Winter Pistol Championships last month at Tampa, Fla.

The message, addressed to the commander of the unit, Col. Edward R. Mason, assigned by Gen. Willard G. Wyman, commanding general of CONARC, read: "Congratulations on exceptional performance by your unit in the Mid-Winter Match. Please congratulate and extend my appreciation to Lt. Col. Hancock and all team members for victory in team matches and to Lt. David Carter for winning the individual aggregate. My best wishes for continued success in all events at 'Flamingo Matches'." The Army Pistol Team, led by Col. William A. Hancock of Grady, Calif., dominated the week-long competition at the Florida pistol range and swept both the individual aggregate

Top Sprinter Takes Training in Brigade

One of the fastest sprinters in the history of the University of Houston has been assigned to The School Brigade. He is Lt. Jerry D. Beck, 20th Company, Second Signal Battalion, who has broken the 100-yard tape in 9.45 seconds and dashed 200 yards in 20.6 seconds. Beck's track potential was evident at Houston (Texas) High School when he was timed in the century event in 9.8 seconds and the 200 in 21.4 seconds while also performing well on the school's mile relay team.

At the University of Houston, Beck distinguished himself as an athlete in four years, reaching his peak during his senior year. Ironically, his best effort that year of 9.45 in the 100-yard dash was no better than second in the meet.

Olympic and world record holder Bobby Morrow finished past the tape in 9.4. Morrow's world record time is 9.3 seconds.

Beck fared better in the 220-yard dash, however, winning with his highest sports thrill, as Houston won the six-team invitational meet. Beck was a member of his team's winning 440 and 800 yard relay teams.

Beck's leadership, scholarship—was maintained as a member of the school's athletic achievements were recognized.

GRIDDERS SWAMP CALIFORNIA POST BUT IT'S NOT FAIR

If football was a spring sport, something resembling a gridder's swamp could be assembled here. No less than eight of the nation's finest football players are winding up their basic training under six months' Reserve Forces Act enlistments.

CRAZY WAZY

He was telling his child a bedtime story and it went, "Fuzzy wuzzy was a bear, Fuzzy wuzzy had no hair, Fuzzy wuzzy wasn't fuzzy, was he?" About that time the kid yelled out: "Mama, the old yellow cat's been flipped again."

PLC PRAISES CARRIER BIRD

nothing but flocks of ordinary pigeons until 1964, when he joined the Nassau-Suffolk Pigeon fancier's Club and began to specialize in a breed called "Show Flights". Says Price: "The distinguishing thing about this type of pigeon is that it can be only yellow, black, red, blue or a mixture of these colors."

Scout Dog Platoon Receives Letter Of Appreciation From University

The Scout Dog Platoon recently received a letter of appreciation from the professor of military science and tactics at Rutgers University, Newark, N. J.

The letter was written by Col. Paul A. Cavallini in appreciation of a demonstration by the platoon for Rutgers University ROTC students on Feb. 15.

The letter said in part: "The exemplary performance of the 29th Scout Dog Platoon was an exhibit of the highest professional competence and training."

Sgt. Harry C. Platt was selected as soldier-of-the-week in the battle group. Sgt. John Johnson, Heavy Machine Gun Platoon, was selected as soldier-of-the-week in the battle group.

The five men in the race were Pvt. James L. Mitchell, Sgt. Ricardo Ramirez, Sgt. John McLaughlin, Sgt. Ernest Broom, and Sgt. Henry Dixon.

Grads Hear Gen. Pence

The need for trained subordinates to assume command from unit commanders at any time if necessary was emphasized to newly commissioned Second lieutenants at Fort Benning March 22 by Brig. Gen. (Ret.) Charles W. Pence of Columbus.

Gen. Pence was guest speaker at graduation exercises for about 100 members of the Infantry School's basic officers class.

The general stressed that an officer cannot be a success and expect advancement by just letting matters take their course.

"You must be doing things at all times," he said. "Mistakes will be made. It is up to you to profit by them. Don't try to avoid them away."

He added that the alternative for any officer is the preparation for battle.

"I may never happen during your tour of service but SAFETY PRECAUTION: A driving school offers this sage advice: If your wife wants to learn to drive, don't stand in her way."

151st Engineer Group

Commander, Class Tour Stations In New Camouflage Training Area

Col. C. C. Noble, commander of the 151st Engineer Group and Major John D. Clift, Group S-3 Officer, inspected the newly constructed camouflage training area located near Ellers Hall on March 22. A brief functional description of the various deceptive devices was given at all the camouflage stations by members of the 67th Engineer Company (Camouflage) who were responsible for the construction of the area. Their presentation also served as a pre-course test for a methods of instruction course presently being conducted by the unit.

An Advance Infantry Officer's Class From The Infantry School toured the 67th Engineer Company's camouflage demonstration area on March 20. The officers were given two one-hour classes on the various training stations by the Engineer Committee, USAIC, assisted by members of the 67th Engineer Company. Two enlisted men from the 67th Engineer Company (Camouflage) were among the top Government during World War II. (Slightly higher rates for older ages.) School Brigade Highlights Company Officer Course Views Latest Ground Mobility Tactics

First Student Battalion
The 20th Company, 2nd March 25 Associate Infantry Company Officer Course No. 1, together with other students and visiting dignitaries, witnessed the latest concept in tactical ground mobility. The program consisted of a review of the principle mobility that has been accepted for the use of the Infantry Commander. The review was followed by a simulated attack employing a tank Infantry team developed as a result of new tactical and administrative vehicles. The company commander was seen to have a greatly enhanced capability to accomplish his mission.

Second Company—Congratulations
are extended to the seven new captains in Associate Infantry Officer Advanced Course No. 1. They are James R. Athey, Paul A. Balcavage, Harry M. Duran, Robert M. Jackson, Alfred M. McCree, Harold J. Maxson and Richard N. Throver.

Fourth Student Battalion
Mrs. Patsy Davis, secretary in Battalion Headquarters, will be leaving soon for Germany with her husband who is in the 7th Infantry Division. In 1967 General Lauson presented Mrs. Davis a $100 award for outstanding performance of duty and a certificate for maintaining superior performance.

Third Company—Congratulations are extended to the new captain of the 3rd Company, Mr. Bell, who was blessed with the birth of a baby girl, March 22.

Second Company—Congratulations
are extended to the new captain of the 2nd Company, Mr. Bruner, who was promoted to the grade of Platoon Leader and will start April 7.

First Company—Congratulations are extended to the new captain of the 1st Company, Mr. Carter, who was promoted to the grade of Platoon Leader and will start April 7.

Lawson Cited For Flight Safety by 3-A

Never panic, never despair, make a flight by Lawson Air Force. The current flight circulating around Lawson Field, the flight instructor, Capt. Lawson, was presented with the Third Army Flight Safety Award for 1957. Also assigned to the unit is 1st Lt. Richard D. Neal Jr., as supply officer. 1st Lt. Neal was assigned with the Third Infantry Division.

The award is made within the Third Army area to the Army aviator who has the lowest percentage of accident throughout the year.

The winning of this award by Lawson is considered a remarkable feat due to the fact that the amount of time flown at Lawson exceeds 30,000 hours annually.

A similar safety award was presented to Lawson Army Airfield by The Army Infantry Center.

Major A. V. Juliano and Capt. Adam Smith, flight safety officers of the field, commended Capt. Charles M. Dunn and Detachment Six, 25th Squadron for their analysis and forecasts of the areas weather.

Army Plans New Unit In Alabama

WASHINGTON (APPS)—A new Army missile agency has been set up at Huntsville, Ala. Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker, announcing the establishment of the Army Ordnance Missile Command at Huntsville, said he had given the new group administrative short cuts and the right of direct access to him and the Chief of Staff.

The new command will place under Gen. Medaris' direct control the Army Ballistic Missile Agency (including the Army Rocket and Missile Agency Project Office of Cape Canaveral, Fla.); the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif.; and the Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville.

The Army said this overall move would "provide the means to carry out more effectively existing and future priority Army programs."

The programs include the development of the Pershing, a solid propellant ballistic missile, and production of the Jupiter IRBM.

School Brigade Highlights Company Officer Course Views Latest Ground Mobility Tactics

First Student Battalion
Third Company—On March 20, the 1st Infantry Company F announces the promotion of six men to Platoon Officers. They are: Grover C. Bruner, Robert L. Johnson, Dale E. Kuykendall, Donald C. McKelvey, Thomas E. Nichols and Randolph Sanchez.

Company G added five new men last week with the assignment of MSgt. William K. Rossi, MSgt. Wade W. Wilbanks, Sfc. Oliver Farrington, Sgt. Clarence M. Grant and Sgt. Bonnie L. Hewitt. All five men were assigned to the Mortar Company.

Second Company—Congratulations are extended to the seven new captains in the Third Division. In 1957 General Larcen presented Mrs. Patsy Davis, secretary in Battalion Headquarters, with the following ten men were the highest academically in the company. They are: Lt. Richard E. Brown, James F. Williams, Donald N. Clement, Frederick J. Condon, Clifford G. Carburg, Mark A. Hodgson, William W. Mook, Richard G. Lennan, Albert W. Tolar, and Michael C. Fallow.

Infantry School Detachment
Company announced last week that Sfc Lewis C. Gaines is assigned as an instructor in the Aerial Delivery section of the Airborne Department.

Company B—Joe B. Bruner was promoted to the grade of Platoon Leader. He is assigned to the Communications Department as an assistant instructor.

Company E—Congratulations are in order for Sp2 Bobby Beecham and his wife who are the parents of a seven pound, eight ounce baby boy.

Lawson Cited For Flight Safety by 3-A

Never panic, never despair, make a fight by Lawson Airfield is the current flight circuit motto around Lawson Field. The flight was originated when Lawson was presented with the Third Army Flight Safety Award for 1957-1958.

The award is made within the Third Army Area to the Army airfield which has the lowest percentage of accidents throughout the year.

The winning of this award by Lawson is considered a remarkable feat due to the fact that the amount of time flown at Lawson exceeds 30,000 hours.

A similar safety award was presented to Lawson Army Airfield by the Army Infantry Center.

Major A. V. Juliano and Capt. Adam Smith, flight safety officers in the field, commended Capt. Charles M. Dunn and Detachment Sfc. Art W. Weiler Squadron for their analysis and forecasts of the areas weather.

Capt. Smith who is also instructor for the Joint Military Civil Air Safety Council attributes much of the record to the proficiency training given to maintenance and flight personnel. "Newly arrived aviators, meaning those just out of flight school," said Capt. Smith, "are given thorough check outs by well trained instructor pilots."

According to Gus Pancel, Lawson flight scheduling officer, the proficiency training given to maintenance and flight personnel consists of a 40-hour course of instruction. During this training the new pilots become familiar with the airstrips on the post and the terrain of the local area.

Sp2 Henry I. Anderson will soon depart TDY to Alameda Naval Station, Alameda, Calif. Sfc. Charles L. Burrey will replace him as training NCO. Burrey has just completed the Ranger Course.

LT. CARTER CITED
First Lt. John B. Carter, The School Brigade, has received a commendation ribbon with metal pendant for meritorious service from Jan. 26, 1956, to Dec. 3, 1957, while serving as executive officer, Company B, First Battle Group, 18th Infantry.

21 Civilian Employees Presented $1,800 Thru Army Awards Plan

Checks amounting to over $1,800 were among awards presented to a group of 21 civilian employees at Fort Benning under the Army Incentive Awards Program.

Fourteen of the awards presented by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, were made for suggestions which have been adopted with savings expected to total over $132,835 annually.

Checks were also received by six employees for sustained superior performance of duty and one letter of commendation was awarded.

Claude H. Davis, Infantry Center Transportation Section, and John L. Smith, G-4 Section of the Infantry Center, were the leading recipients with each receiving a check for $27.50 as a result of suggesting an air dehydrating unit for use in storage of aircraft engines and parts. The adoption of the unit is expected to effect an annual savings of over $32,000.

Four additional members of the Transportation Section received cash awards. William A. Miller was awarded $25 for devising a tool to hold motor vehicle radiator side members in position for soldering.

Rex A. Roney earned $25 for proposing the relocation of the parts room of the Transportation Section.

James D. Rabe, $25 for suggesting securing of center troop seats in 274-ton trucks, and Charles Wilkinson, $20 for proposing a press with dies be used in repairing spherical joints on motor vehicles.

Well over $4,000 in annual benefits will be derived as a result of these suggestions.

Devisee Tool

A member of the Ordnance Armament Shop staff, Vaclav M. Schimek, earned $25 for devising a combination tool with which to cut steel bands and open ammunition crates and other boxes. Joe S. Graves, Lawson Army Air Field Aircraft Maintenance Section, was awarded $20 for suggesting a special wrench for removing and installing aircraft engine manifold bolts.

Five employees of the Infantry Center Engineer Section received the following awards: John E. Blumhofer, $25 for proposing a mole-board gauge to be used in preparing street paving where checks are to be installed; James D. Anglin, $15 for suggesting that a duplicate key to the Roads and Grounds Branch gasoline pumps be provided for use by the truck foreman; John Cline, $25 for devising a load tester for various types of electrical generators; Mrs. Georgia W. King, $10 for sustained superior performance of duties and Tom W. Smith, a letter of commendation for proposing a safer and better method of transporting and storing fluorescent tubes.

Signal Workers Cited

Employees of the Infantry Center Signal Section were recipients of four awards with James T. Young and Mrs. Mary B. Joiner receiving $200 awards for sustained superior performance of duties. Mrs. Frances M. Carter received $100 in recognition of sustained superior performance while Mrs. Helen F. Meyers was awarded $25 for proposing a

Gen. Gailey Pays 29th Inf. Visit

Major Gen. Charles E. Gailey, a member of the 29th Infantry 35 years ago, visited his old organization last week.

The Army chief of civil affairs and military government was at Fort Benning three days to address advanced officers classes No. 11 and 2.

Gen. Gailey was welcomed to the Infantry School Troop Command by Col. Lloyd H. Farnsey, 29th Infantry officer, and Lt. Col. Donald W. Dunte, commander of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry.

Gen. Gailey served in the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning between 1923-24 while he was a second lieutenant. Upon completion of the basic officers course at Benning, he served in the 29th as a company commander and assistant to the regimental and personnel adjutant.

Sgt., Mom Donate Charity To Korean Orphanages

TONGGU, Korea (ANP)—A "It certainly doesn't take her mother in Emmett, Idaho, and long to collect a ton that way," her soldier-son with the First Cavalry Division are making food donations to Korean orphanages, a ton at a time.

Sgt. James Lee delivered the first ton recently, while back home Mrs. Jenny Lee, sometimes driving 150 miles a day, was scouting stores and canning and processing companies for the second ton.

It began purely as a 1957 Christmas project, with Lee distributing 800 pounds of clothes, toys and school supplies to some 600 orphans.

"But Mother said that she couldn't stop just because Christmas was over and so long as we can get the stuff," explains Lee.

She got a good response from local grocery stores, but then had the idea of branching out in more wholesale fashion.

Even the shipping charges are being absorbed by generous business concerns. A trucking firm has offered to carry all food shipments to the West Coast, where from Portland, Ore., a shipping company has agreed to carry the food to Inchon, free of charge.

EXERCISE STRONGARM FT. POLK, La. (AFPS)—Almost all of the Army units here have begun extensive training for Exercise Strongarm, which is scheduled to begin in May.

Major Gets RA Status

Major Robert R. Sine, executive officer of the Infantry Regular Army commission board, was sworn into the Regular Army on March 24, 1958.

Observing the swearing in ceremony, which was conducted by CWO Harold G. Sawyer, assistant adjutant, was Col. Henry B. Kuning, president of the Infantry Board.

Major Sine, a veteran of 17 years service, received his commission under the provisions of the Regular Army Augmentation Act of 1956.

TIS Visited By ROK Gp.

The Republic of Korea Army's chief of staff received a 21-gun salute March 27 as he began an orientation tour of the Infantry School where a number of his fellow ROK soldiers are training.

Gen. Paik Sun Yup and his party consisted of Major Gen. Paik Sun Chin, assistant to the minister of national defense, and Major Gen. Jung Nae Hyuk, G-3 operations officer.

Following the honor guard, which was highlighted by the 21-gun salute, the Allied visitors were briefed on the operations of The Infantry School and its organization.

They were guests at an official lunch at noon in the Main Officers' Mess before attending a demonstration at Hoak Range.

The demonstration, staged by the Infantry School's Weapons Department, included orientations on the firing and operation of the M-14 and M-16 rifles, M-60 machine gun and 106-mm recoilless rifle.

Gen. Paik and his party were guests of Gen. Powell at an official dinner in the Officers' Mess, terminating their tour of the post.

Gen. Paik, who is touring U. S. military installations, departed Fort Benning March 28, following a departure ceremony at Lawson Army Air Field.

29th Holds Competitive Unit Events

Headquarters Company and Company B each captured a first place in competitive unit events, in the First Bottle Group, 29th Infantry, at Bolling Bowl March 22.

Competition concludes this weekend. Additional events include jeep driving, light machine gun and 81 mm mortar drill and physical training.

The five-man cross country team from Company B finished the three-mile course just ahead of the runners from Company D.

M. Sgt. Hickley of Headquarters Company, led a 11-man squad from his Reconnaissance Platoon to a victory in squad drill competition.

In the three-mile run, members of the top team were Sgt. Johnnie McLaughlin, Sgt. Ernest Brown, Sgt. Ricardo Ramos, Sgt. Henry Dixon and Pvt. Gerry Mitchell.

Students See Infantryman On the Job

A group of Bessemer, Ala. Junior High School students saw the Infantryman on the job at Fort Benning March 29 when they received a guided tour of the post's facilities.

The students arrived at 9:30 a.m. Following a tour of the post, they witnessed a scout dog demonstration at Bolling Field presented by the men and animals of the 26th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon.

The next stop for the children was at Chapel Field. There they witnessed a formal guard mount presented by the Infantry Center honor guard unit.

From 11:20 a.m. until their departure at 12:15 p.m. they were guests of the Third Army Food Service School. After a brief tour of the kitchen and bakery, the students were guests of the school for lunch.

Servicemen Vote Seen Vital Factor in '58 Voting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1958 general election, according to an absentee vote of servicemen, William H. Francis Jr., Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Personnel and Reserve), could be an important factor in the November 4 election.

In launching the Defense Department's 1958 campaign to encourage Armed Forces members, civilian employees and their dependents to cast absentee ballots, Mr. Francis said that 33 senators and 435 representatives will run for office this fall.

The Federal Voting Assistance Act of the 84th Congress, operating in conjunction with state laws, enables residents of most states serving in the Armed Forces to cast absentee ballots.

The law was enacted to stimulate absentee voting of the members of all federal agencies who are stationed away from their homes of record.

Since 1955, Mr. Francis said, "state after state has seen fit to change its election code in various ways to assist servicemen and others in casting absentee ballots in state and national elections."

"As a result, we have witnessed tremendous improvement throughout the nation in absentee voting and in ways of simplifying registration and the handling of absentee ballots."

In 1952, when the absentee ballot privilege was first given servicemen, only one per cent of eligible Armed Forces members voted, Mr. Francis said, adding that in 1956, this figure climbed beyond 35 per cent.

School Brigade Assigned Medal of Honor Winner

A M-Sgt. who was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for conspicuous bravery as he engaged in hand to hand combat during World War II has been assigned to Company G, Infantry School Detachment, The School Brigade.

He is Wilbur K. Ross, a member of ISD's Mortar Committee for the second time in his career.

After his basic training in 1942, Ross was sent to North Africa to serve with the Third Division. Ross fought in 11 European campaigns, it was in France in 1944 that he received his decoration.

While manning a machine gun position, Ross almost single-handedly held off a large force of German troops attempting a break-through in Allied lines. As his position absorbed murderous enemy fire continuously for five hours, Ross was officially credited with wounding or killing 58 of the enemy.

Ross left the Army after World War II, but in 1947 he joined the service again and served with the Second Infantry Division, The Infantry School Detachment, and the Third Division before being assigned to Fort Benning's Mortar Committee last month.

In addition to the Medal of Honor, Ross was awarded four Purple Hearts in action Sicily, Italy, France and Korea (in 1950). He said that he felt that the roughest fighting that he had personally encountered was at Anzio Beachhead where he was cut off behind enemy lines for three days.

DAD NAMED TO FCC
Second Lieutenant John F. Cross, at present a member of BIOC No. 8, 28th Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade, received word recently that his father, John S. Cross, has been nominated by President Eisenhower to the Federal Communications Commission. The elder Cross is to fill the position vacated by Richard A. Mack's recent resignation.

Army Says Gen. Hickey To Retire

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga.—Army officials have announced that Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey will retire April 30, after more than 41 years service. A communique announced that Hickey will be succeeded as Third Army Commander by Maj. Gen. Clark L. Rulifer.

The White House also announced that President Eisenhower had nominated General Rulifer for promotion to Lieutenant General and had nominated General Hickey for promotion to permanent Lieutenant General. A spokesman said that General Hickey plans to reside in Washington, D. C., following his retirement.

Since March, 1956, General Rulifer has been Chief of the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Germany and prior to that assignment he commanded the second Armored Division in Germany. He is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Regular Army in June, 1924.

General Hickey has commanded the Third Army since Aug. 1, 1955. He is a former commander of the 8th Airborne Division and the XVIII Airborne Corps.

Troops Offered New York City Guide Booklets

NEW YORK (APPS)—Servicemen and their families planning to visit or be stationed in the New York City area will find three booklets published by Young's Research Inc., various phases of religious books and writings of every day life are discussed.

A recent general topic at one of these meetings, according to Lt. Col. Gordon E. Sayre, chairman of the Infantry School's Atomic Committee and director of the Fort Benning Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, was the impact of the Space Age upon religion.

"The origin of the Christian church, with a small beginning in a small country, recalled the parable of the mustard seed," Col. Sayre said. "It was brought out in the discussion that in spite of the historic Roman opposition and persecution the Christian religion continued and developed."

"It was the general consensus of the discussion group that religion will develop and be correlated to the development of the world."

Brotherhood of St. Andrew Aims At 'Spreading Christ's Kingdom'

The Fort Benning Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which is sponsored by St. Michael's Episcopal Mission, has the keynote of fellowship and the principal purpose of leading someone closer to Christ each day.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew is an association of organized groups of men and boys within the church who have banded together on the basis of the two Brotherhood rules, and who desire to have fellowship with and seek help from one another as they face unmet needs.

Born in 1887, the origin of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew dates back to St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30, 1888, when 12 young men with the approval of their rector, the Rev. W. H. Ubbert, D.D., and inspired by James L. Houghteling agreed to follow the example of St. Andrew in bringing his brother, Peter, to Christ. To accomplish this, they adopted two rules, the Rule of Prayer and the Rule of Service. These two rules are practiced by the Fort Benning Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Rule of Prayer is to pray daily for the spread of Christ's Kingdom among men, especially young men, and for God's blessings upon the labors of the Brotherhood.

The second, the Rule of Service, is to make continuous efforts week by week to bring men and boys nearer to Christ through the church. This is accomplished by the Fort Benning Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew by laymen individually contacting post personnel and making them aware of all religious services held at the post.

The action of the first group in 1888 was emulated by groups of young men in other parishes of the church. In 1886 the Brotherhood became an organized dynamic force. It was incorporated by an act of Congress and now functions as a national organization under a charter signed by President Theodore Roosevelt May 30, 1900.

From its beginning the work of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has been to spread Christ's Kingdom among men, especially young men, and for God's blessings upon the labors of the Brotherhood.

To Prevent Rabies Officials Crack Down On Animals at Post

Garrison regulations govern the care and control of pet animals owned by military personnel and their dependents have been changed to include more rigid supervision. The change was made necessary "due to the increase in rabid animals throughout several counties adjacent to the reservation and the increase in the number of pets owned free throughout the reservation." Under the regulations as they now exist, all pets will be taken to the Post Veterinary Hospital within three days after arrival for post examination and registration. If an animal is picked up and wounded more than three times, the animal will be declared a "nuisance" and the owner will be required to remove the animal from the post or to place it in supervised kennels. Military Police will pick up animals reported running loose and turn them over to the Post Veterinary for disposition. Owners will be informed by the action provost Marshal of the action taken and warned to comply with existing directives. The new directive also cautions military and civilian personnel or members of their families who are bitten by any animal to make the fact known to the Medical Officer upon reporting for treatment. The animal in question will be picked up by the Military Police and quarantined at the Veterinary Hospital or authorized civilian veterinary hospital for a period of two weeks. In conjunction with the increased pet control now required by the Range Guard Section of the Fort Benning Military Police Company is increasing its program of predator control. Working in cooperation with the Fish and Game Commission of the State of Alabama and Georgia, the Section is trapping out bobcats, foxes and skunks which exist in some numbers on the Reservation.

Speaker Notes Problems Of Wartime Civil Affairs

Nuclear warfare may multiply the civil affairs problem manifold by increasing the area affected by devastation. You are in, but your soldiers communications and transport, too, have got to know these; too. You must go through a period of planning and indoctrination. You can't wait until jump-off time for this," he went on. Major Gen. Charles K. Galley Jr. spoke on the combat aspects of civil affairs and military government to officers advanced classes and the faculty and staff of the Infantry School in the Main Theater. "You do not fight battles in a vacuum; wherever you fight, you're going to have the civilian problem and you better know how to handle it," he stressed. In pointing out that military success can be jeopardized or lost by inability to cope with the inevitable presence of civilians in all areas of combat. Gen. Galley said, "There must be a close unity between civil affairs and operations. They have to be integrated. It is a tactical necessity that you know how to carry out your civil affairs functions."

Post School Children Hear Ammunition Safety Talks

A lecture on the dangers of what appears to be harmless ammunition was given to Fort Benning grade school children by Lt. James E. Morse, officer in charge of the 89th Ordnance Disposal Unit, Infantry Center Troop Command. He visited Faith, Main Post and Custer Terrace Schools during the past two weeks. Lt. Morse impressed upon the children the need to leave untouched any of the many types of ammunition found on the reservation. He told of incidents in which this was not done and the results were serious injury to some and the death of one youngster. He stressed the necessity for parents to cooperate by reporting to military police any discovery of supposed duds. He asked fathers not to keep any surplus of this type or at least keep such souvenirs out of reach of the kids. If not entirely out of the house, Lt. Morse, with the assistance of Sgt. Chester E. Fleming, concluded each lecture by answering questions posed by the children. The children also saw ammunition displays.

Post Girl Scouts Get Hospital Aide Awards

Fort Benning's senior Girl Scouts received their pins as hospital aides at ceremonies March 28 in the Girl Scout Little House.

Presenting certificates and pins will be Mrs. Herbert B. Powell, wife of Major Gen. Powell, commanding general of the Infantry Center, and honorary chairman of Fort Benning's Girl Scout program.

Fifteen members of Girl Scout Troop No. 72 have worked on the hospital course since January. On completion of training the high school age group becomes eligible to serve in the U. S. Army Hospital assisting the professional staff in the women's and children's wards.

Instructor for the program is Mrs. Jack L. Treadwell. As Scouts, the girls must give 30 hours of service after training. They will then receive their caps as qualified aides.

At the pinning ceremony Lt. Col. Clara M. Kirby, Karen Peters, chief nurse, talked to the Scouts on the duties and obligations of service. Mrs. Treadwell gave a resume of the course.

Receiving her Curved Bar, highest award in Girl Scouting, was Beulah Suddard, daughter of CWO and Mrs. Woodrow Suddard. She will be leaving the troop to go to Germany where her parents will be assigned with the Third Infantry Division.

Members of the troop who received their pins were Lyda Aybar, daughter of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Victor Aybar, Roxanna

TIS Toured By Pakistanis

Major Riaz Anis, assistant military and Naval attaché, Islamic Republic of Pakistan, arrived at Fort Benning March 27 for a two-day visit with officials of the Infantry School.

Major Anis attended briefings on the organization of The Infantry School, including the scheduling of classes and instructional facilities.

He viewed a Scout dog demonstration, observed an airborne class in training and visited the Ranger Department. In addition the Allied visitor was briefed on the Infantry light weapons system and Trainfire, a new concept in weapons firing techniques.

Nike Hikes Killing Rate

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Army Nike batteries guarding U. S. cities from air attack are doing so with markedly increasing efficiency and accuracy, results of the 1957 competition for the Commander's Missile Battalion Trophy of the Army Air Defense Command show.

The current champion—the 3rd AAA Battalion of Seattle—only emerged after a see-saw competition that forced it to earn 11,280 out of a possible 12,000 points and to hit 11 target drones in 12 engagements.

Three other battalions also scored 11 out of 12 hits, whereas the 1956 champion won its preeminence with but 10 hits, and an overall point score of 8,400.

The score is not determined on "kills" alone, but on efficiency and effectiveness of all missiles fired.

Accuracy of the Nike system is indicated by the fact that 69 firing units (batteries) scored 100 per cent success—4 for 4—in their missile engagements.

The 1956 victor, the 2nd AAA Battalion, also of Seattle, was ineligible for the 1957 trophy because of its selection to carry out a special practice test firing of the Nike system against low altitude and maneuvering targets. During these tests last spring it scored an all-time record of 13 kills out of 14 missiles fired.

VOL. 16 NO 32 THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1958 FORT BENNING, GA. Price Five Cents Twenty-Four Pages

IT'S NOW LT. GEN. HERBERT B. POWELL WITH NEW JOB
Three Star General And Mrs. Powell Depart Today For CONARC

1,200 From Fort Bragg to Support Third Army Rifle, Pistol Matches

Approximately 1,200 members of the First Airborne Battalion, 325th Infantry from Fort Bragg, N. C., will arrive at Fort Benning April 12 to take part in the rifle and pistol matches of ROTC cadets.

The 25th received its baptism of fire during World War I and added to its honors in World War II fighting as a glider regiment with the 82nd Airborne Division.

It lists among its decorations the Distinguished Unit Streamer embroidered St. Mere Eglise, a streamer in the color of the French Croix de Guerre with Palm similarly embroidered, a 2d streamer embroidered Colentia.

Field training.

During the past year at Fort Bragg, it has participated in extensive field training. Its field training included participation in the division's two-week maneuver, "All American," last December and most recently a battle group Army training test. Other field training was a unit air mobility test and a number of group field tests.

The battle group wears a crest upon which is printed the motto, "It's Go," symbolic of the spirit and initiative of the 325th, oldest Infantry unit of the 82nd Airborne Division. Col. Dillender, a senior paratrooper.

Gen. Powell Bids Farewell To Post

Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Powell left Fort Benning at 9 a.m. today to assume duties as deputy commanding general for Reserve Components at the Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va.

Prior to leaving this morning, Gen. and Mrs. Powell were saluted at their quarters by the Infantry Center band. Troops lined their departure route and a "fly" of salutes by the Lawson Army Airfield Command also took part in the ceremonies.

Gen. Ruggles succeeds Gen. Powell has been succeeded by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, who received the rank of Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr. about May 1.

Gen. Powell received his third star in ceremonies at Fort Monroe April 8. He had been nominated for the rank by President Eisenhower in mid-March. The Senate approved April 2.

Star Pinning

Performing the pinning of the stars for Gen. Powell at Fort Monroe were Gen. Willard G. Wyman, commanding general of CONARC, and Mrs. Powell. The new lieutenant general and his wife were then honored at a luncheon given by Gen. and Mrs. Wyman at their quarters.

A retreat review honored Gen. Powell yesterday at the Infantry Center. The review was the Infantry Center honor guard company composed of outstanding troops from the Infantry School Troop Command's 14th Infantry, 20th Infantry, a composite company consisting of one squad from the 51st Engineer, 1st Medical Group, 826th Tank Battalion, Lawson Army Airfield Command and the Infantry Center Troop Command, and the Third Infantry Division honor guard company.

Col. Hoebecke Commands

Col. Adrian L. Hoebecke, 3rd Brigade commander, commanded the troops at the ceremony.

His staff included Lt. Col. Robert A. Roberts, commander of the Second Infantry Battalion; Lt. Col. Gordon E. Murch, commander of the 826th Tank Battalion; Major E. T. Tavis, executive officer of the 57th Engineer Battalion; and Major Thomas J. Wolf, 3d of the 8th Medical Group.

CG Post Taken By Gen. Ruggles

Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles assumed the dual role of commanding general of The Infantry Center and commandant of the Infantry School April 8.

He succeeds Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, who received his third star April 8. Gen. Powell departs Fort Benning today to become deputy commanding general for Reserve Components at CONARC.

New CG in May

Gen. Ruggles will be succeeded by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., senior Army member of the Weapons Systems Establishment group, Office of the Secretary of Defense, about May 1.

Gen. Ruggles has served as deputy commanding general of The Infantry Center since last April.

West Point Graduate

A native of Lyntonville, Va., he was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1951. Initially assigned to the 20th Infantry at Flatland Barracks, N. Y., he began a two-year tour with the 31st Infantry in Manila, Philippines, in 1955.

After being graduated from The Infantry School's regular officers course in 1958, Gen. Ruggles joined the 18th Infantry at Fort Devens, Mass., traveling to the Canal Zone with that unit the following year.

The one-star general served as an instructor at The Infantry School in 1942 and 1943, then joined the 22nd Infantry Regiment of the Fourth Infantry Division in England. Gen. Ruggles served as executive officer and commander of the 1st Battalion, participating in the (See Gen. Ruggles, Page 2)

Post Hosts Talent Show April 14

Some 80 servicemen and women representing 10 installations in the seven-state Third Army area are scheduled to enter the Third Army phase of the All-Army Entertainment Contest April 14-17 at Fort Benning.

These contestants, winners in their specialties at the home stations, will be vying for top honors in the Third Army contest in the Main Theater. This will be their second plateau on the way to becoming All-Army finalists. The competition will be in all phases of entertainment from singing and dancing to hypnosis and acrobacy.

Contestants from Installation throughout the Third Army area arrived at Fort Benning between 8 a.m. April 8 and 3 p.m. April 9. April 10-13 will be devoted to fun practices before the contest. Rehearsals will be staged in the Main Theater and Service Club No. 1.

Fort Benning will be represented in three of the categories by Dana Spear, 2nd Comp. who offered renditions of "An Affair to Remember" and "Love is a Many Splendored Thing." (Please See Talent, Page 2)

Concert Set Here Sunday

The Newberry (S.C.) College Singers will present a concert at Fort Benning April 13 at 8 p.m.

Composed of approximately 60 students from the United Lutheran Church college in Newberry, the group will sing at the Infantry School Troop Command Chapel. The organization of male and female voices is primarily as a capella chorus.

Director for the Singers is Dr. Milton Moore, a native of Kansas, who is sponsoring the visit of the Newberry College Singers.

The program will consist of several numbers by classic and contemporary composers, selections from the field of folk music and a group of Negro spirituals. Among the compositions will be "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place" from "Brahms' Requiem" and "The Heavens Are Telling" from the Country Club between 4 a.m. and 4 p.m. April 12.

2nd 1958 Quarter Produces 52 TIC Management Improvements

The second quarter of fiscal year 1958 was a productive one in terms of management improvements instituted at Fort Benning's Infantry Center.

During this quarter, management improvement officials at The Infantry Center reported 52 improvements submitted and installed, resulting in 41,992 man-hours saved and over $157,000 monetary savings and benefits.

Although improvements reported represent real benefits or savings, it is not possible to designate certain amounts of the total which would be applied to reduction of budget requirements or be made available for turn back to the Army.

Improvements in the field of transportation mileage, actual reduction of operating spaces and turn-in of supplies and equipment represent savings where actual money value can be applied, making it possible for the activities involved to operate within reduced personnel and funding ceilings.

According to Dana Spear, head of the Management Division (Please See Savings, Page 2)

The Woman's Club annual Art Show will be held April 13 from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Fort Benning Country Club.

Participants will vie for first, second and third place ribbons in art, ceramics and flower arrangement.

Entries must be delivered to the Country Club between 4 a.m. and 4 p.m. April 12.

tion of the Comptroller's Office, and Gustave J. Pelous, who has the responsibility of management analysis, six of the Fort Benning suggestions were selected for outstanding by the Third Army. Four of these were among the eight chosen by Third Army to be included in a consolidated report to the Department of Army for possible use in other

One of the suggestions sent to the Department of Army was the elimination of the jumpmaster classes at the Infantry School. The one-week jumper course was presented for officers and first three grade NCOs who had successfully completed the basic airborne course. It was found that a large percentage of personnel taking this course was not immediately assigned to an airborne unit and had no requirement for their knowledge gained for some time. Since those persons who were assigned to an airborne unit were required to attend a similar course with their unit, it resulted in a duplication of effort.

Another improvement was the utilization of individual signal generators during radio repair laboratory exercises.

During instruction in The Infantry School's radio maintenance class, students participate in laboratory exercises where they are required to align and "trouble shoot" simple radio receivers using proper procedures. Formerly there were only four signal generators used to supply signals for the approximately 60 laboratory positions. The improvement now provides a small independent generator that gives each student the necessary signals for his needs permitting him to advance at his own speed.

Other suggestions forwarded to the Department of Army were a design of a schematic grid system for rapid location of other radio sets on schematic diagrams and the establishment of a central motor vehicle dispatch system in the Sand Hill - Harmony Church-Kelley Hill areas of Fort Benning.

Grid System

The first of these suggestions, the schematic grid system, has proved that it will save approximately 10,500 student manhours each year. Although this does not represent an immediate monetary gain, it will be reflected as savings in repair time for electronic equipment.

In the three major sub-areas of Fort Benning it was noted that administrative vehicles were being dispatched for trips outside the areas. Under this system, numerous trips were being duplicated. A central dispatch office now has been established. This office controls all dispatches of organic and attached vehicles going beyond the limits on one of the sub-areas. This has resulted in the saving of an average of 2.4 trips per day out of an average of 40 requested.

These are some of the outstanding examples of improvements constantly being realized through the Management Improvement Program. This program is not restricted to the period covered by this report. It encourages supervisors and operating personnel to improve a and streamline their management and operating techniques.

3,000 Attend Post Sunrise Easter Rites

Under damp overcast skies, approximately 3,000 persons gathered in Doughboy Stadium to welcome the Easter Sunday morning with sunrise service. As the congregation gathered the Infantry Center band gave a 15-minute sacred musical program beginning at 6:15 a.m.

On the field was a white-laid altar flanked with Easter lilies, candlesticks, and centered with a large white cross of lilies providing an inspiring setting for the first of the Easter morning services at the Infantry Center.

Guest speaker for the sunrise service was Chaplain (Brig. Gen.) Frank A. Tobey, Army's deputy chief of chaplains. Using a subject commemorative of the joyful resurrection day, Chaplain Tobey spoke on "If a Man Dies, Shall He Live Again."

At 6:30 a.m. trumpeters sounded the traditional Army church call opening the program. A combined group of St. Michael's Episcopal Mission and Infantry Center Chapel

Choirs, choral group of the Woman's Club of Fort Benning and the Ladies Guild joined his place in the open sanctuary, giving the call to worship.

Preceding the invocation by Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Wildman, the combined choir and congregation sang "Christ The Lord Is Risen To Day." The combined choir group sang the anthems, "Illuminatus (Who Thoo Come from Galilee)" from Rousini and "Hallelujah" from Handel's "The Messiah."

Chaplain (1st Lt.) Ralph E. Harrell, 1st of the responsive reading and gave the scripture, which was read by Chaplain Wildman and Chaplain (1st Col.) Albert L. Smith.

Following the sermon, Chaplain Tobey closed with the benediction.

Other services for the day were held at the various Fort Benning chapels.

A subject commemorative program was broadcast over Radio WRBL in Columbus and over St. Michael's Episcopal Hospital through over Station WFBS, Armed Forces Radio.

treat formation, Gen. and Mrs. Powell were feted at a reception in the Main Officers' Mess. Some 400 guests from the post and surrounding civilian community attended the affair.

In the receiving line were the honorees, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John F. Ruggles, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen and 1st Lt. John P. Cegirowski, aide-de-camp to Gen. Ruggles, who introduced the guests.

Gen. Powell, who served as commanding general of The Infantry Center and commander of The Infantry School since August, 1956, will replace Lt. Gen. Ridgely Galbraith as CONARC. Gen. Galbraith succeeded the late Lt. Gen. Robert M. Montague, who died last Feb. 20 of a cerebral hemorrhage, as commanding general of the U. S. Army Caribbean Command.

Before assuming command of Fort Benning, Gen. Powell was the commanding general of U. S. Army Pacific.

Editorials Road to Peace

New York has oftentimes been called the Gateway to America. The Statue of Liberty rises out of New York harbor as a symbol of freedom, offering security and future happiness to thousands of immigrants arriving in the United States.

There are many people in foreign lands, however, who have no opportunity to come to the United States, see our famous statue and enjoy the blessings she symbolizes.

They gain their impressions of America from the actions of Americans in their land. More than anyone else, the servicemen overseas represents, by his actions and conduct, the American way of life.

Vice President Nixon so clearly pointed out that "... as peoples know peoples, as distinguished from governments knowing governments, which is also important, there is no question but that we will find the road to peace."

Everyone of us, by his courtesy and kindness to these peoples, can be an ambassador of good will and can present the United States in its true light to the peoples of the world. (AFPS)

Pay Linked to Pride

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — While the nation can never fully pay the professional military man for the service he gives his country, he should be given remuneration that will provide adequately for him and his family. Gen. Randolph M.C. Pate recently told Senate lawmakers.

Appearing before the Armed Services subcommittee headed by Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) in military compensation hearings, the Marine Corps Commandant said:

"A stout heart and willingness to serve are not enough when a service career man cannot provide a minimum livelihood for his family and is forced by circumstances to leave his chosen profession."

General Pate explained to the subcommittee that no small part of a man's pride in his career and his satisfaction with what he is doing is the manner in which he job is viewed by Americans in other walks of life.

"He needs to feel that other people respect his choice and his judgment and honor him for it. His position in community affairs bears an important and direct relation to the money he makes," Gen. Pate asserted.

Better Foreign Relations

A Boy Scout troop in Wuerzburg, Germany, recently presented an engraved honorary shield, the first award of its kind ever presented to an American, to a soldier stationed at a nearby base.

He had devoted his off-duty time to serving as the troop's scoutmaster.

Engraved on this shield were the words: "In appreciation of your help for the improvement of German-American relations."

Not every one of us can devote his off-duty time to serving as scoutmasters. But we can do our part to create a feeling of friendship and understanding with our overseas neighbors.

Simply by conducting ourselves as gentlemen and treating our foreign friends with common courtesy, we forge a good impression of America and Americans that completely overshadows any propaganda to the contrary.

President Eisenhower, commenting on his People-to-People program, urged everyone serving overseas to wage peace with the vigor and resourcefulness of wartime.

By putting forth a little effort, each of us can add his contribution to this growing fund of better foreign relations.

When we serve overseas, we accept not only the obligation of being a good serviceman, but that of being a good neighbor as well. (AFPS)

Hangover Ahead?

Can rise and stand and drink more? But drunk is he who prostrate lies. And neither drink nor rise. (Underdetermined Source) You are always left with no booze. By the company he chooses. (From a Drinking Song) ... any intoxication which is sufficient sensibly to impair the rational and full exercise of the mental and physical faculties. (Manual for Courts-Martial, 1952, Paragraph 47.)

There are a few of the many definitions of drunkenness and drunkenness. The first may be labeled the "vertical-horizontal test," and the second, "guilt by association." Many people are interested in the third, which is the one used to determine the guilt, or culpability, of military persons charged before courts-martial with offenses which include the element of drunkenness. A soldier's mental and physical awareness and control is so important, and so frequently court-martial can not rely upon the vertical-horizontal test. A soldier on the range whose mind is clouded by liquor may not remember if his weapon is loaded, a man working in the kitchen may forget to clean the food or to turn on the oven.

While listening to a lecture a drunken soldier may fall asleep, and during a maneuver, being he may not be able to grasp important instructions, such as passwords and fire signals.

Because care with weapons, bullets and shells is a factor in the prevention of drunkenness in the Manual for Courts-Martial is just a person is drunk when he "is not in control of his senses and I can observe him and see that, due to the effect of alcohol, his mind or body is not in control of his senses."

Chaplain's Corner

CHAPLAIN (CAPT.) RICHARD L. CARTY. In the northern part of Africa, near the edge of the Great Desert lived Sheikh Ibn Said. He was a rich man with multitudes of camels, flocks of sheep and many other animals. In his youth Ibn Ben Said had been a mighty hunter. One time the Sheikh's tribesmen brought a young lion cub into camp, so Ibn was determined to tame it.

As a cub, the lion was playful as a kitten and afforded the Sheikh much pleasure a day's amusement. The cub soon changed to a powerful lion. The tribesmen feared the lion may soon desire more than sooked meat and milk.

One day the lion was away and the cooked meat was delayed. The young lion became angry. Next comes the absence from religious services. After missing a service for the first time he had made his own "kill." Periodically at first it was then more frequently until the lion progressed the cub would sink off from the meo around the camp and pounce upon a rabbit and feast its fill.

The lion cub soon began to grow up. Self-consciously he began to resent the lion's presence. One day he was permitted to stand in his way. Consideration of the lion's hand several habits are no longer satisfactory resources. The grown lion was a rebellious and more independent than his father. When we attempted to control it, he became overbold by something the lion and unyielding that it crushed its owner beneath the load.

International Round-Up Bourguiba Declines Border Supervision

TUNIS — An informed source said President Habib Bourguiba has told the American-British good offices team April 4 he could accept no international supervision of Tunisia's border with revolted Algeria. The source, who is close to Bourguiba, disclosed this development on a key issue in the attempts of U. S. Dept. Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy and British diplomat Harold Bealey to reconcile France and Tunisia.

GHANA AID MISSION

WASHINGTON — The United States will set up an aid mission to help the newly independent African nation of Ghana. The State Department said the mission, to be operated by 30 to 40 persons will conduct a technical aid program aimed primarily at helping Ghana's agriculture production.

Concert Sets Menotti Work

The recorded concert at the Main Post Benning Library April 15 at 7:30 p.m. will feature "Sebastian" by Menotti and "Dance Variations" by Gould.

Although the name of Gian-Carlo Menotti is frequently associated with opera, one of his first major works was the ballet "Sebastian." "Sebastian" was given its world premiere in 1944 at the International Theater in New York.

It has been said that Menotti's music is frequently more functional than inspired. It has no apparent identity or distinction. Menotti's music is written to achieve dramatic effect and is seldom an artistic entity in itself. For its rarity it is rarely performed on the concert stage.

At a youthful age, Morton Gould is an acknowledged prodigy in the composition of music which utilizes the American jazz idiom. Gould states that his music is not so much a radical departure as an innovation. He received the influences in our native musical scene.

On the Bookshelf

KAMPONG by Ronald Harpoy. (Doubleday, 1957). The story of a medical unit stationed in the native kampongs (villages) on Ulu Bendu and the Karang in Java. As a unit, the doctors and nurses fought a cholera epidemic; as individuals, they reacted in various ways to the heat of the tropics, the pressure of local politics, and the inertia of the natives.

STAKED PLAIN by Frank Xavier Tolbert. (Harper, 1958). A historical novel set against the background of frontier warfare in the 1860's and 1870's. The plot centers around two real people — Lonnie Nabors and Dulce Dero. Lonnie lived among the Indians and wanted no part of civilization until he met Dulce, a beautiful woman and a skillful gambler who had been a spy for General Sherman's Yankee army. This meeting changed both their lives.

SOUTH BY JAVA HEAD by Alistair MacLean. (Doubleday, 1958). In World War II several survivors of the fall of Singapore

Seers Study Army Future

WASHINGTON (A N F) — Working with Army weapons experts planning bigger, better and deadlier missiles are officers studying the possibilities of smaller weapons with low-level atomic warheads for small combat units of a decade now.

They are part of the ever-changing planning team that blue-printed the Army's new nuclear-missile, stronger-striking battle groups. "What do you think," they ask, "about a lighter Little John rocket, something with a very low-yield atomic warhead, just the thing for a small infantry unit in a sticky situation?" "Or for that matter," they ask, "why can't we come up with a cheap, expendable tank-buster for an infantry squad, smaller than the Panz, something about as easy to handle as a hand grenade?" One of their arguments in favor of these "Buck Rogers" weapons is that their development will help to clip the logistical tail that has always plagued the Army's operation at dog.

Their use will help to reduce the need for the sluggish river of heavy ammunition that must be carried to the fighting units by truck, plane, helicopter, or on the backs of soldiers.

Teams Track Our Satellites

WASHINGTON (ANF)—Six teams of Army Signal Corps men are manning stations in the Western Hemisphere day and night, receiving a constant stream of information conducted by Army Engineers in Georgia, Cuba, Peru, Ecuador and Chile as part of the Army's contribution to the International Geophysical Year.

As America's first earth satellite pours out data on outer space temperatures, micro-meteorite impact and cosmic ray count, the Signal Corps teams relay it to the Naval Research Laboratory and a digital computer center here where it is made available to the IGY scientists for their study of the universe.

Also furnishing data from the satellite are four U.S. Air Force and Navy teams at similar stations, and other IGY teams throughout the world. Equipment used for processing the trackers' data also computed the orbits of Russia's Sputniks.

TIC Assigns Adviser Spot To Crawford

Watson H. Crawford has been appointed an adviser in the Educational Development Section at the Infantry Center. Crawford, a former physical training instructor on the Combat Conditioning Committee in the Infantry School's Staff Department, began his work with the physical conditioning committee in June, 1955, following his eight-year service at Russell County High School at Hartsboro, Ala., as coach, teacher and assistant principal.

The 38-year-old educational adviser was graduated from the University of Alabama with a BA degree in 1941, and received his master of science in school administration from Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn in 1951. From 1942 to 1946, he served as a flight engineer in the Marine Air Corps stationed in the Pacific. During the 10 months of service, Mr. Crawford spent 729 hours in the air. He returned to the U. S. in 1946.

Crawford, in addition to working toward a PhD at Auburn, has a 600-acre cattle and horse farm in Prichard, Ala., which he purchased following this discharge from the Marine Corps.

By Stephen Tillman 'Man Unafraid' Fills Military Aviation Gap

The following book review is reprinted from the Feb. issue of the Air Force Times. MAN UNAFRAID by Stephen F. Tillman fills a vital gap in the history of military aviation—the years from 1908 to World War I. During this period, the airplane took the first faltering steps from novelty to acceptance as a military weapon. The story is largely that of the handful of officers and enlisted men who were its champions.

Watched Wright Bros. Tillman has been absorbed with the period most of his life. As a boy, he watched the 1908 Wright Brothers demonstration flights at Fort Myer, Va., the "road test" that earned the flying machine a place in military thinking. He is, therefore, a member of the Eighth Cavalry, being a scrawpook for his son on aviation events.

The author, a veteran of both wars and a colonel in the Army Reserve, has for several years been associated with Army Times Publishing Co. He is a regular contributor to the Army Times newspaper and the Army - Navy - Air Force Register.

Man Unafraid was published by Army Times Publishing Co.

DUSA Elects New Leaders

Mrs. Henry B. Kunzig has been re-elected president of Daughters of the U. S. Army at Fort Benning for the coming year. Serving with her will be Mrs. Martha Chur Volentine, vice-president, Mrs. Allen M. Goodson, secretary, and Mrs. Harry R. Roeder, treasurer.

The new officers were elected and installed at the organization's April 1 luncheon in the Main Officers' Mess. Helpless for the occasion, which was attended by 23 members, were Mrs. Paul J. Mueller Jr. and Mrs. Reeder. Miniature straw hats trimmed with dogwood blossoms, branches of dogwood and nests of Easter eggs in bright purple, pink and gold tints decorated the luncheon table.

Mrs. James W. Hunsinger Jr., DUSA adviser to Junior Army Daughters, announced that the JADA chapter has purchased the $90 worth of children's books for the Main Library and will collect old children's books for the library.

Army Daughters will sponsor an exercise class taught by Mrs. Jessie Gilman, physical instructor. The course will consist of six sessions and reservations may be made with Mrs. Robert O. Lynch at Columbus telephone MU 9-2017.

Micro-miniaturization Expected To Produce Electronic Promise

WASHINGTON (ANF) — As eleven pounds of scientific instruments circle the earth in the Explorer satellite, Dr. William H. Pickering and staff at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory which assembled it are giving some thought to micro-miniaturization. "Micro-miniaturization" means the reduction of circuits to microscopic size. One of the most severe limitations on the size reduction has been the simple mechanical problem of writing sub-miniaturized transistors into the circuit.

Village Ends Sista To Watch Actress

For the first time in their lives, the Habing village of Spain has done without its Sista. Instead of drawing the shades and retiring to the bed of midday, young and old alike tumble out into the street to watch the Rank, Orphan and the "Sista" play. A story about deep sea salvage tugs starring Victor McLaglen, Stanley Baker and Luciana Paluzzi.

The prediction from the Laboratories is that application of the process will allow from 1,000 to 1,400 separate electronic components to be packed into a cubic inch, compared with about 100 under present techniques. "Micro-miniaturization" can revolutionize the size, cost, upkeep and performance of many civilian items from household equipment and TV sets to automatic data processing machines. From the military hardware point of view, it can do the same with everything from ammunition to guided missiles and aircraft.

Col., Mrs. Lane Visiting Home of Col., Mrs. Noble

Col. and Mrs. Albert L. Lane of Orinda, Cal., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Charles C. Noble, wife of Col. Noble, commander of the 1st Signal Engineer Group. Col. Lane, who served in the Corps of Engineers for 25 years, has recently retired from the Army. He is a graduate of the University of California with a degree in Civil Engineering and several honorary awards.

Col. Lane was one of the Engineers who helped build the Alaska Highway during World War II. While working on that project, he developed a new technique which saved the government much time and money. He was awarded the Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters for his outstanding work on the Alaska Highway. A mountain in Alaska was named "Lt. Lane Mountain" in his honor.

For a number of years in his Army career, he was Captain of the Engineer Rifle Team at Camp Perry, Ohio, and was selected for the Olympic Team that went to Europe. He has been awarded the two highest marksmanship medals: the distinguished pistol, and the distinguished Rifle. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Society of American Military Engineers.

BIOCs Hear Grad. Talk By Gen. Bell

One hundred and thirty-six student officers of The Infantry School's basic officers class heard Brig. Gen. (Ret.) Marcus B. Bell of Columbus speak on "Officer Leadership on Tomorrow's Battlefields" at graduation exercises in Fort Benning, Miss. Theater April 5.

In his address, Gen. Bell compared the leadership qualities required in the officers of other years with those which will be demanded on future battlefields.

The position of an officer of the Civil War was in front of his troops, he pointed out, a position which called for courage. On the battlefield of the future, however, the officer will necessarily occupy a position from which he can exert complete control over the comparatively vast array of tactical weapons now engaged in the combat unit, he added. In addition to courage, Gen. Bell said, tomorrow's officers will have to reflect leadership in an extreme degree to include independence of thought, initiative and physical fitness to meet the demands which will be placed upon him.

Dental Wives Create New Hats As Part of Luncheon Program

Hatboxes decorated in yellow, green and white provided table decorations and indicated the program theme for the Dental Wives' luncheon held in the Aztec Room of the Main Officers' Club March 20.

The committee handling luncheon arrangements included Mrs. Chas. Green and Jr., chairman, Mrs. Barry Abrams, Mrs. John S. Bly, Mrs. Benjamin W. Hardin and Mrs. Wallace Lancaster.

Following lunch, members of each table fashioned a hat from contents of their hatboxes. They were designed using themes of the Easter basket, a flower garden, daisies and hollyhocks, fresh vegetables, breads and rolls, and bath accessories.

Mrs. Benjamin W. Hardin provided background piano music while a member from each table modeled their hat for the judge, the renowned Master Jack (in reality, Major Jack) Duncanson who further entertained the ladies with a delightful commentary on the intricacies and uses of the chap-eaux.

New officers were elected for the coming year. Mrs. Wallace Lancaster will serve as president. Mrs. R. D. Magowan as secretary-treasurer. She will be assisted by Mrs. James Baldwin, Mrs. Samuel C. Morgan and Mrs. Lyman Smith as co-chairman, publicity chairman will be Mrs. Fredricka B. W. Hardin is gift chairman; and Mrs. Jack D. Prestos welcoming chairman.

Jupiter Goes To Overseas Bases in '58

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The Army's first operational intermediate range ballistic missile, the Jupiter, will be launched from the deployed overseas base in May.

Origin of the modified Jupiter-C first used to launch the Jupiter not only has an effective range of 1500 miles, but is mobile enough to insure the flexibility necessary to extend missile coverage to any target.

Oldest of Advanced Schools Fort Leavenworth Houses Army's General Command, Staff College

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Fort Leavenworth, with 130 years of continuous service to the country, is the oldest of the Army posts figuring in the opening up of the western frontier.

Now the home of the Command and General Staff College, it was the site of the Army's advanced schools, was once a jumping-off place for wagon trains travelling the long road into Mexican territory along either the Oregon or Santa Fe Trails.

Several Fort Leavenworth boasts several "firsts" in the history of Kansas: a post office in 1829; the state capital for about six years in 1844; the oldest territorial government lived in a house still used as quarters for officers' families; the oldest incorporated city, in Leavenworth which grew up near the fort and where four years later a young lawyer, William Tecumseh Sherman, hung out his shingle.

Another famous career—that of Western Plainsman William Rufus Bill got its start as a boy before the wagon and pack trains which established here. A pioneer vehicle and equipment museum is appropriately located now at the site of the fort.

During the Mexican War the post was headquarters for Gen. Kearney's Army of the West, and the storied "Doniphan Expedition" of Missouri volunteers set out from here for its march into Mexico.

Baseball To Open At Post April 16

"Play Ball" will be cried April 16 at Cowdy Field welcoming the 1958 Fort Benning baseball season into action.

Brig. Gen. John P. Ruggles, Fort Benning Infantry Center deputy commanding general, will inaugurate the season with the traditional tossing out of the first ball.

Locking grips in the initial contest, an archrival set for 7 p.m. will be the USAIC Troop Command club, hosting the 22nd Tank Battalion.

Ceremonies Pre-concert opening night ceremonies will start at 6:30 p.m. with the band playing along the first and third base lines. Gen. Ruggles will address the gathering, prior to the tossing of the first ball, and the USAIC band will play the National Anthem.

The seven club American League circuit will continue through May 21, at which time the post National League will swing into action boasting the national 10th Infantry Division.

Units vying in both circuits will be the USAIS, USAIC Troop Command, 14th Infantry, 29th Infantry, 151st Engineers, 54th Medical, and the 22nd Tank Battalion.

Following the season opener, the 14th Infantry will host the 29th Infantry on April 18. The 29th Infantry will be the guests of the 14th Infantry on April 20, a Sunday afternoon play.

The action packed three-day tourney at Briant Weis Field House concluded with the USAIC Troop Command team, the victors overcame a 12-15 loss to score consecutive 15-14, 15-10 wins, taking the set and tournament honors in the process.

Breeding Through The winners began their tournament play breezing through with victories over the Lawson Air Field team, 15-8 and 15-11.

The Troop Command seated, losers to USAIS No. 2 team, 15-12, 7-15, 15-12, rallied back in the double elimination structure of the meet, to earn the right to clash with the USAIS No. 1 team for the championship.

Starting their opposition with an opening 15-12 victory, the Battle Group was unable to maintain their unpeopled pace, faltering in the final games, by the slimmest of margins, 15-14 and 15-10.

Table with columns: 1958, COMPANY, DIVISION, PHASES, and various dates and scores for different units.

MAJOR ROLE The maintenance of deferrable power is necessary in consideration of the fact that general, or all out nuclear war, is our most dangerous threat. Limited war, of the Korean type, however, is the most likely threat. In the event of our involvement in limited war, the army of course, will play the major role.

Redlegs Take Bowling Title

He was selected on the basis of military courtesy and bearing and general military knowledge. He was placed on temporary duty with the battle group headquarters last week.

Prior to entrance in the Army, Pfc Bolterman studied business administration at Northern Illinois State College.

Post Shooters Sweep Open Pistol Tourney

Sgt. William B. Blankenship of the U. S. Army Pistol Team pulled out behind to take individual honors at the Flamingo Open Pistol Tournament held at Coral Gables, Fla., March 25-26. His winning three-gun aggregate score totaled 2015-102X.

To take the Flamingo Open All-Around Championship, the sharpshooting pistol shot had to overtake front runner M-Sgt. Heuler Benner, U. S. Military Academy pistol coach and outstanding in world pistol competition, and a Californian civilian, Buck Fisher. However, Blankenship's match-winning score fired in the 45 caliber championship, 475-23X, was more than enough to give him the Flamingo individual title.

ISD'S Company A Grabs Brigade Bowling Crown

Company A, Infantry School Detachment, was officially crowned the School Brigade Bowling champion March 27 as the league finished a marathon 22-weeks of rolling. Never more than four points separated the winners from the second place finishers.

The success of Alpha Company can be attributed to its ace, Al Coche, a keeper well known in Philadelphia bowling circles, anchoring an aggressive quintet that consisted of Andy Anderson, team captain, Joe Barker, Billy Gunther, Joe Mercuro and Skip Hill.

Harold Burns, Company B, won individual honors as he finished the season with a high single game of 297, high series for 65 games.

The player with the highest individual series in the Brigade went to Alfred Anderson with a 676 series. He was also runner up in 163 individual games.

Second of the smaller artillery weapons is the Dart, answer to the infantryman's need for a sure-fire tank buster. The Dart has a warhead capable of defeating the heaviest known armor and, like the Lacrosse, delivers the warhead with pinpoint accuracy.

Paratrooper Leaps Into Missile Field
FORT BRAGG, N. C.—A veteran paratrooper always looks for a good field to jump into, a principal M-Sgt. Willis L. Martin knows well.
Master Parachutist Martin, who pioneered airborne 13 years ago, has now made his big jump into the promising new missile field. He recently left the 82nd Airborne Division here for a 47-week course at the Army's Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Tex., to train for the Nike.
Before making the career switch, Martin made more than 200 jumps from planes, including two in combat in Europe during World War II.

Former All-American football player who participated in five bowl games and has been drafted by the San Francisco 49ers is now a student in The School Brigade. He is Lt. Charles K. Missiles Give Top Support WASHINGTON—When the Continental Army artillery was called upon to reduce an enemy fort, General Henry Knox wheeled up his muzzle loaders and let fly point-blank with solid shot.

Today's Army uses a guided missile for a similar "close-bowling" purpose—but the strong point to be demolished may be as far away as 20 miles.

It's the Lacrosse, an all-weather missile with a solid propellant rocket motor, now in mass production.

Second of the smaller artillery weapons is the Dart, answer to the infantryman's need for a sure-fire tank buster. The Dart has a warhead capable of defeating the heaviest known armor and, like the Lacrosse, delivers the warhead with pinpoint accuracy.

Both new missiles can be delivered from light-weight launchers mounted on standard Army trucks.

Extra 100 Meant A Lot

The best game the University of Pittsburgh played while Brueckman was a member of the team was against the University of Minnesota, who was expected to take Pitt by a lopsided score. Pitt lost by a close 9 to 6.

"In the Sugar Bowl we lost to Georgia Tech 7-0; to Georgia Tech again in the Gator Bowl 21 to 14; in the East-West game, in which I played on the East team, we lost by two 12's; and the Hula Bowl we lost 58 to 34," he said.

Lt. Brueckman stated that the game he enjoyed most was the Senior Bowl. His team won $500.00 per player—the score 400-0 per man. "That extra hundred meant a lot to me as a young college student," he said.

Sfc Thirsts Knowledge At 14th Inf.

Sfc Jack E. Wilson, Company C, 14th Infantry, works faithfully on Army Extension Course to gain more military knowledge.

He started with the Army Pre-Commission Extension Course in November, 1956, and by April, 1957, he had completed 16 subcourses which completed the series.

He is presently enrolled in the Company officers' extension course and has completed 10 of 31 subcourses required for completion. He enrolled in the latter January, 1957.

Sfc Wilson is a veteran of more than six years federal service. Prior to his present assignment, he was a member of Company H, 10th Infantry Regiment, Fifth Infantry Division, stationed in Germany.

His duties varied from section leader to platoon sergeant in an Antitank Platoon (165 BR). While in Germany he completed the Regimental NCO school on two occasions and the Seventh Army NCO school. Sfc Wilson says "the need for self-improvement and more knowledge in military subjects is training," and he plans to do something about it.

Sfc Wilson is also looking over the new Army Regulation (350-560) relative to Army Enlisted Training Program in the program and may consider applying, if eligible.

He is presently enrolled in the Company officers' extension course and has completed 10 of 31 subcourses required for completion. He enrolled in the latter January, 1957.

Fundamentals Stressed By 29th Baseball Squad

Capt. Hal Robbins stressed fundamentals as the 29th Infantry nine prepared for its final week of pre-season training. The USARV team will play the USAC league action for the Commanders' Open April 20 against the 1st Infantry Group. Game time at Gowdy field will be 7 p.m.

The USARV Troop Command and the 28th Tank Battalion will kick the lid off the USARV American league season April 16.

The 29th Infantry baseball squad has been trimmed to 25 players.

Four of the candidates for the team saw action with the 1957 USAC champions from the 30th Infantry, Third Division.

They include John Stahr, outfielder; Henri Keller, who plays either shortstop or second base; Ross Stephens, pitcher; and Jack Woods, utility infielder.

Robbins said that Stahr has been hitting the ball hard in workouts and Stephens shows promise of becoming a reliable relief hurler.

Another likely candidate for the Commanders' pitching staff is Ray Lavette, a strong thrower who played professional ball prior to his entrance in the service.

Robbins' crew has suffered only one serious injury in workouts to date. John Baird, a pitcher, broke some bones in his hand while working in the catcher's slot in a practice session three weeks ago.

Robbins expects Baird to be back in action shortly, however. The cast is slated to be removed this week.

CADETS SEE DEMONSTRATION . . .

Incidents Fall After Latest EM Program

WASHINGTON (ANS)—According to statistics released here recently by the Department of the Army, behavior of enlisted personnel under USAREUR have shown significant improvement in the past few months.

Army officials credit the decrease in incident rates to the Job Performance Program designed to cut out or discharge "incident-prone" individuals and personnel who lack the ability to adjust themselves to the needs of the modern Army.

A spokesman pointed out that the program is a substitute for disciplinary action. Nevertheless, the use of the program in the past few months before they become disciplinary problems reduces the necessity for such actions.

During the last two months of the program, incident rates dropped about 10 percent below rates for the same months in 1956.

14th Infantry News Weapon Platoon Wins 'Best' Title 9 Out of 12 Times at Company C

The best platoon award was won this month by the weapon platoon of the 14th Infantry. They have won the award nine out of twelve times. The platoon is won on the basis of general appearance of quarters and troops condition of equipment and general military knowledge.

The educational standards of the company also are going up as several members of the company have enrolled in night classes. These classes are conducted on duty time two nights per week.

8th Chemical Company
The 8th Chemical Company won the USAFV Bowling Tournament. The team was led by victory by M-Sgt. Francis Cillo. The team members received both a team award and individual awards. The team consisted of M-Sgt. Cillo, Sgt. John Brogan, Sgt. Melvin Penick, Sgt. Henry Kochon, Sgt. Florian Kroll, and Pfc. Robert Spiker.

It is field training time again for the Company again training under the field phase of the

Col. Billings Honored At LAAC Ceremony

Col. William H. Billings, commander of Fort Benning's Lawson Army Airfield Command since September, 1957, was presented an Infantry Center certificate of achievement April 2 during a change of command and review ceremonies.

Col. Billings, who has been assigned as chief of information, headquarters of U. S. Army Pacific, Fort Shafter, Territory of Hawaii, was presented the citation by Major Gen. Herbert B. Fowler, Infantry Center commander.

Col. William M. Brown, formerly of the Staff Department, Infantry School, has succeeded Col. Billings as commander of the Lawson Command.

The change of command ceremonies at the airfield included a fly-by of L-19 Bird Dogs, UJA Army, H4C Cingoes, and L-37 Mojaves, a review of units assigned to Lawson Army Airfield and a static display of aircraft.

Col. Billings began his military career in 1923 as an enlisted man. In 1928 he received his commission. In 1940 he was assigned to the 10th Infantry Third Infantry Division at Fort Lewis, Wash., where he served as battalion executive officer and rifle company commander.

He attended the Command and General Staff College in 1941 and upon graduation received the Infantry School certificate of achievement. He served in combat with that unit through the campaigns in French Morocco, Tunisia and Sicily.

Early in 1955, Col. Billings was assigned to Fort Benning and was appointed director of the Tactical Department of The Infantry School. A year later he was assigned as deputy assistant commander and served in that capacity for two months before becoming Lawson Airfield commander.

647th Administers Camouflage Proficiency Tests to Trainees

Members of the 647th Engineer Company (Camouflage) are administering the camouflage proficiency test to the 151st Engineer Group for its 49th Engineer Battalion (Combat). The Camoufleurs had provided the purpose of locating rock strata suitable for future use as a productive group rock quarry.

Rock Strata
Last week, Major P. 577th Engineer Battalion and the 60th Military Police Company in the Handell Creek vicinity for the purpose of locating rock strata suitable for future use as a productive group rock quarry.

In the process of the reconnaissance, 25 pound charges of TNT with 50 feet of primer cord were used to uncover the types of rock present at this site. Samples were taken of the rubble and sedimentary types of rock found there and further studies will prove the possibilities of this site to furnish these necessary materials.

Mining Ring
Company B, 577th Engineer Battalion has completed the transplaning of the riding ring, formerly located at the Main Post, Lawson Army Airfield. It is now at the Main Post. The new ring, an oblong ring ranging from 60 feet to 110 feet at its extreme diameter, has been filled with 240 cubic yards of clay type material which raised it within its perimeter to six inches above the normal grade.

Also at the Main Post Hunt Club, Company B in the process of renovating and repairing the Hay Mound.

Sofball Tournament
The 49th Engineer Battalion softball tournament opened April with a game between Headquarters and Service Company A. The H & S Company team, captained by Sgt. Clark W. Hastings, won a seven to two victory over the men from Company A. The next contest is scheduled between H & S Company and Company B.

Second Lt. Norman J. Blumberg, formerly serving as platoon leader of Company A, 577th Engineer Battalion, has been reassigned as operations officer of the battalion.

Lt. Blumberg comes from the Lone Star State, where he completed the Army ROTC program at the University of Texas. He was commissioned in June, 1955, and began serving on active duty in December, 1956. He entered the Engi-

At Warm Springs Ceremonies to Honor Roosevelt

Warm Springs, Ga. — Sir Winston Churchill, former prime minister of England and friend of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has autographed a set of his six-volume history, "The Second World War," for the library at the Little White House here. The books will be presented to Churchill by D. A. Bell, acting British Consul in Atlanta, April 12 at the Roosevelt cottage during a ceremony observing the 13th anniversary of the death there of the late president. They will be accepted by Charles F. Palmer, Atlanta chairman of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Commission, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, the British Consul and Mrs. Bell, with Mr. and Mrs. Cason Calaway of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. James S. Peters, of Monticello; Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John F. Ruggles, of Fort Benning; Congressman and Mrs. James J. Flynt, of Griffin; Miss Georgia Wilkins, of Warm Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drilon, of New York; Fred D. Drilon, of the Georgia Foundation; and the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Chaplin, also of the Foundation. Graham Jackson, of Atlanta, who was admiring Roosevelt's favorite musician during his sojourn in Georgia, will play his accordion for 15 minutes before the ceremony and will also play "Going Home" just before the benediction.

School Brigade Highlights Company C of ISD Boasts 252 Of 291 With YAC Membership

Industry School Detachment Company C-O, recipient of honorary membership in the Youth Activity Club, Company C was very successful with 97 per cent of the company of 291 out of a possible 291 contributing to the youth fund. The drive was spearheaded by 1st Lt. John A. Redmond, commander of the company. It is now on record that Company C has the most honorary members of any in the Industry School Detachment or the School Brigade. Company E promoted six men to Sp4 last week. They are: Robert Klonek, William Johnson, Daniel Fergita, Sam McMill, James Painter and Alexander Hyman. All the men work in the Weapons Department. Fourth Student Battalion Headquarters would like to congratulate the bowling team on their achievements during the past season. The eight players that made up the team were: Mike Robert Middleton, Sfc Alfred Anderson, Sgt Anthony Delvecio, Sp4 Richard Nicholson, and Pfc Jesse Johnson, Daniel Blank, James Borgmeyer and Howard Kowalski. The team was runners up in the School Brigade Bowling League. Each member of the team will receive individual trophies, and a trophy for the Battalion. Sp4 Richard A. Nicholson, the unit mail room receiver, received another superior rating in the monthly inspection conducted by the Post Locator Office. With Company — Pfc Isaac Wilson has been on the range for the past few weeks. He is firing the M-1 rifle in an effort to qualify or the Post Rifle Team. Second Battalion — 2nd Company — The company moved into its new hall last week and at present 30 student officers of 2nd Company studied a variety of weapons last week. These included record firing of the carbine, hand and rifle grenades, CBR, weapons, sniperscope, rocket launcher and the 106mm Rifle. Three spots began during the week with 20th Company entering teams in all. Elimination tournaments were held to determine who would represent the company in ping pong and pool. A softball team, coached by 2d Lt. Thomas J. Antonian, has been organized and is practicing. Pfc William Gullikson is a new member of the company administrative center. Advance No. 1 is through with its last test, with only the training of the Battle Group to go. Second Company — Congratulations to M-Sgt. Robert W. Needy, first sergeant, for having successfully completed the CBR Commanders Course conducted here at Fort Benning. Third Company — First Lt. Royce Thomas of Associate Infantry Company Officer Course No. 2, announced the birth of his six pound son March 25. Fourth Company regrets the loss of 1st Lt. Alfred W. Porter, who recently assumed new duties as Tactical Officer of an ACO Class in Third Company. Student Officers — Students of Allied (Vietnamese) Motor Transportation Course No. 1

TOMORROW'S TODAY

A young draftee was startled out of a sound sleep by his platoon sergeant his first night in the Army. "Hey, you!" bellowed the sergeant. "It's 4:30!" "Four-thirty?" mumbled the rookie. "Man, you'd better get to bed. We got a big day tomorrow."

M-Sgt. Fires Perfect Score With M-1 Rifle

A Fort Benning rifeman shot his way into the Hall of Fame of American marksmanship last week. M-Sgt. Harold L. Stafford fired a perfect score over the National Rifle Course with an M-1 service rifle.

In firing 50 consecutive shots into bulls-eyes at ranges of 200, 300, and 600 yards, the 28-year-old Army rifeman accomplished a feat which has been the goal of American marksmen for years.

Achievement
Commenting on Sgt. Stafford's achievement, Lt. Col. Thomas J. Sharpe, officer in charge of the U.S. Army Rifle Team, said, "Just as runners have been missing the four-minute indoor mile by a scant second for a number of years, riflemen have been missing the perfect National Match score with the M-1 service rifle by only one or two points."

According to CWO Coats Brown, Army Rifle Team coach who has been in competitive marksmanship since 1927, the 250-point score had never before been attained.

Usual Record
Sgt. Stafford shot his perfect score on the first day of the post's record firing for 1958, but since the score was not shot in an official National Rifle Association Match, it will stand as an unofficial record.

In recognition of his achievement, Sgt. Stafford was presented a Model 70, 30-caliber Winchester target rifle, a trophy which had been reserved by the U.S. Army Advancement Marksmanship Unit for the first of its members to shoot the 250-point score. Col. Edward B. Mason, commander of the unit, made the presentation.

Post Revives Card Custom

An old Army custom—the leaving of "going away" cards—is being followed by many Fort Benning officers as they prepare to transfer to new assignments.

Upon receipt of change of station orders, it is an Army custom to make paring or "going away" calls. By custom, they are made upon the commanding officer at his quarters and made, to the extent desired, upon friends. Calling cards are left with the initials P. F. C. (our paring colleague) written in ink in the lower left hand corner.

Officers of the major commands at Fort Benning are again following the custom in taking leave of the friends in the Columbus/Fenix City area by leaving "our paring colleague" cards as they make their paring calls.

NEW SHAVING DISCOVERY FOR TENDER, SENSITIVE SKIN

RISE EXTRA COOL with MENTHOL gives you COOLER, SMOOTHER SHAVES in 1/2 the TIME

If you have a tender, sensitive skin, only a special kind of lather can give you a really close, cool, comfortable shave without that hot, scraped, burning feeling.

Rise Extra Cool with Menthol has a special aerated Menthol that gives your skin a cooling, soothing sensation never before possible. It's entirely unlike ordinary stinging menthol. No other lather lets you shave so close, yet leaves your skin so cool. In hottest weather or in skin-chapping cold, shave in comfort with Rise Extra Cool with Menthol.

GRANDIARY LATHER with its big, airy bubbles stays on top of whiskers. Can't soften them. Very razor scrapes and pulls.

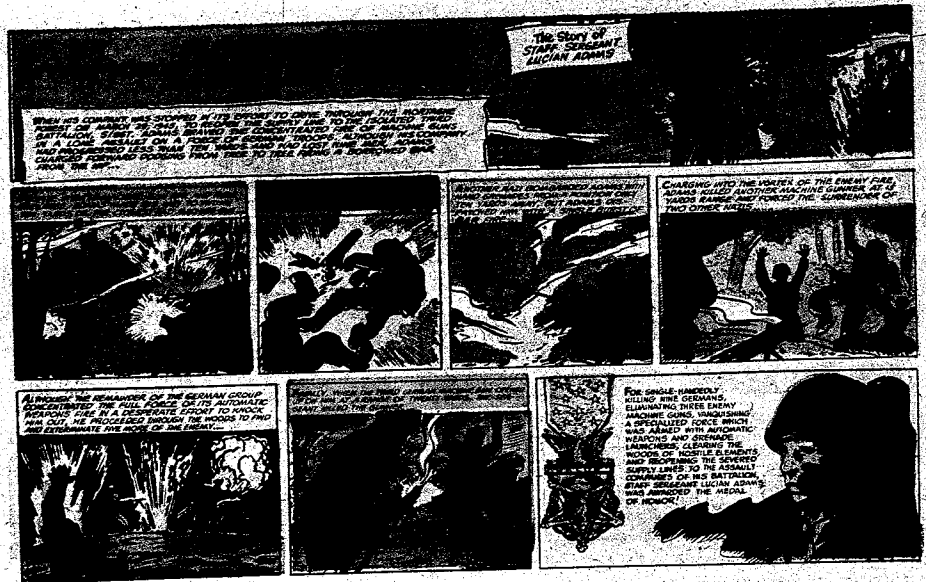

RISE SMALL-BUBBLE LATHER soaks your whiskers right down to the skin. Cools and softens skin with aerated menthol!

DOTS AND FLASHES

Golfers in the service will be glad to know that they can now buy a small chemically treated bag, about the size of a tobacco pouch, in which dirty golf balls can be cleaned quickly while out on the fairway... April is usually a good bargain month for shoes, millinery, handbags, and baby goods... If you have trouble getting medicine down the small gullet of a sick child, the Canadian Department of Health offers a couple of suggestions. Liquid medicine should be given in a glass of juice that is not part of the child's regular diet such as grape juice. Pills can be crushed to a powder which can be mixed with applesauce and capsules can be swallowed easily in a teaspoon of mashed banana... Necklaces made of different colored beads and stretching from the neck to below the hipline will be in style this season.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON MILITARY PAY

Q. Who will be affected by the military pay bill now before Congress?

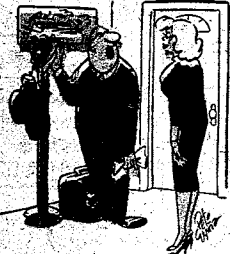

A. Increases are asked for 70 percent of active duty personnel.

Q. What is the percentage of the proposed pay increase?

A. The minimum adjustment will be 6 percent for every serviceman with at least two years' active duty. More than 1 out of 4 members of the Armed Forces will receive more than 6 percent.

THE WIVES

"I know! I know! Your mother's here and wants to talk to me!"

Q. How much will the legislation cost?

A. President Eisenhower has asked Congress to appropriate $518,000,000 for increased military pay.

Q. When will the raises become effective?

A. Funds are sought to put the modern military compensation system into effect on 1 July 1958.

Q. Why has the new military pay plan been proposed?

A. The President has told the Nation it is essential to "recast" the military pay structure in order to assure "present and long-range efficiency and for greater equity."

Q. What is the relationship of the pay bill to the Cordier Report?

A. The $518,000,000 measure is an expansion of the recommendations made by the Advisory Committee on Professional and Technical Compensation (the Cordier Committee).

Q. Will there be any pay changes in the Armed Forces before Congress can take action?

A. The urgent need for revising the present pay system, emphasized by the President, the Secretary of Defense, and the Cordier Committee, is pointed up in the Department of Defense decision to implement quickly a

TABLE TOP-IX

The next time you're planning a special dinner, the word special can take on real meaning if you include as one of the ordinary dishes—such as Banana Shrimp Curry. For four servings you will need:

4 firm bananas, slightly green-tipped	3 cups cooked rice
1½ tablespoons melted butter	1 pound fresh or frozen cooked shrimp
	3 Cups Curry Sauce

Place the peeled bananas in a baking dish. Brush well with butter. Pour half the Curry Sauce over the bananas. Bake in an oven (375°F) 15 minutes until bananas are tender. Heat shrimp in rest of Curry Sauce and serve with bananas on a bed of hot rice.

plan for Proficiency Pay Advancements, though on a limited basis at first.

Q. What are Proficiency Advancements?

A. The PPA's, as they are known, will provide pay grade advancements, without changes in military rank, for outstanding enlisted personnel who have demonstrated proficiency in areas where there are shortages of critical skills. Outstanding leaders also will be eligible.

Q. What is the present maximum enlisted pay?

A. The ceiling is $335.40 per month—for an E-7 after 20 years' service.

Q. What is the proposed maximum?

A. An E-9 with eight years in grade would receive $440.

Q. Is longevity being abolished?

A. No. However, the new plan will recognize continuity of service by providing increased rewards for time in grade, instead of total years of Service.

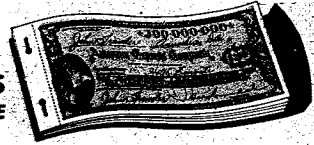

Q. Will this eliminate "pay inversions"?

A. The proposed modern compensation system will end the situation in which thousands of military personnel in lower pay grades and with lower responsibilities receive higher pay than those in higher pay grades with higher responsibilities. These "pay inversions" have hurt morale and tend to reduce the incentive for advancement.

Q. How about longevity for officers?

A. The pay legislation makes no discrimination in the compensation system for officers and enlisted personnel. The same step-in-grade approach will be used for all grades above E-2.

10 Division Cut Army Intends Slash In Guard, Reserves

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army plans for a major reorganization of its reserve components include the reduction over a two and one-half year period of six combat divisions from the National Guard and four from the Army Reserve.

The conversion of reserve component combat divisions to the Pentomic organization. The conversion of some combat divisions to organization designed to exercise supervision and to conduct training of non-divisional units.

After the reorganization, Army reserve components will include 21 National Guard and six Army Reserve combat divisions. Although the current troop basis of the Guard will be cut by six combat divisions, the headquarters of each division will be retained to supervise and conduct unit training.

An Army spokesman pointed out that there will be fewer company-size units in the re-

Plan Aids Efficiency

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Army management improvement program, according to the May issue of Army Information Digest, has already put into action thousands of new ideas. These have reduced costs, speeded up production, saved manpower, simplified procedures, improved organizational structures and produced better products.

This official Army magazine cited one suggestion that saved thousands of dollars right in Headquarters, Department of the Army.

More than 125,000 pieces of incoming correspondence are received monthly by the Personnel Records Branch, The Adjutant General's Office here in Washington, D. C. Hand stamping the date and time of receipt on each item required 3,840 manhours per year. On a suggestion, an electric perforator was installed that can perforate 20 sheets of paper in one operation, thus eliminating 81 percent of 3,120 manhours of effort during the year.

By such suggestions, the Army is taking the leadership in adopting the most modern business practices to its own use, and by other suggestions is profiting in all its activities, both operational and administrative.

What can you suggest to increase efficiency and lower costs on your job?

Buy Authorized Uniforms

Some enlisted men are still improperly purchasing and wearing the Army Green uniform made of elastic material. AR 670-5 prescribes that the enlisted man's Army Green uniform will be wool serge. Army Green elastic material is authorized on an optional basis for officers and warrant officers only, officials warn. (ANS)

Life and Liberty

It's doubtful that every American knows how much the way we live today is influenced by the life and thought of a statesman whose birthdate we observe April 13.

That man is Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States. It was in his lifetime, 1743 to 1826, that our nation came into being, and it was through his life, his thinking, the Declaration of Independence, that much of our nation's future was formed.

In 1774 he wrote that "... the same God that gave us life, gave us liberty at the same time ...". It is that phrase, freedom is pictured as a God-given right, something that automatically belongs to anyone who happens to be alive.

There was another side of Jefferson's thought, a view that lives today in our system of free elections. In this view, freedom is something that must be maintained by democracy. In democracy, everyone must use his vote, as a right and as a duty.

For us as members of the Armed Forces, Thomas Jefferson would point to an extra obligation to vote. As public servants, we are in his view committed to defend our nation not only with missiles and bullets but with intelligent use of the free man's weapon—his vote. (AFPS)

Check Voting Regulations

Although most men in the Armed Forces recognize a responsibility to take an active part in the forthcoming general election by exercising their voting privilege, many servicemen are not familiar with the voting laws of their own state or territory.

All prospective voters are required to be citizens of the United States and of the state or territory in which they vote. In addition, they must have lived a specified time in that state or territory, and in the city, county or voting precinct where the ballot is cast.

There are other requirements, however, that vary from state to state. Literacy tests are required of voters in some states. In others Coast Guard personnel are classified as civilians in absentee voting regulations.

The voting age is 21 in all states and territories, except Georgia, Kentucky and Guam, where the age is 18.

It will pay every member of the Armed Forces to check the voting regulations that apply to him. (AFPS)

Sputnik II Leaves 3 U.S. Space Moons

MOSCOW—Russia officially confirmed Monday night that Sputnik II had fallen to earth. Only the three American satellites still orbiting in space.

An official Tass news agency announcement said the earth satellites entered the earth's atmosphere and "parts of it have disintegrated."

The Soviets agreed with Western estimates that it flamed out of existence somewhere in the Soviet nuclear test field morning according to Moscow night, which would be Sunday night in the Western Hemisphere.

Parts of the Sputnik were dispersed along a route running in the Indonesian region over the small Antilles Islands, Brazil and the Atlantic Ocean, Tass said.

NUCLEAR CONTROVERSY COPEHAGEN—Berlingske Tidende, Denmark's biggest newspaper, said Sunday the Soviet nuclear tests had to be broken off because of a "catastrophic accident."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said, "We have no basis on which to substantiate the story."

REVOLT CALM HAVANA, Cuba—Calm was the word for Cuba this week after a week of bitter fighting between Fidel Castro's rebels and government forces.

Following repeated setbacks, Castro's total war seemed to be petering out. An unofficial check showed that in a week of fighting, rebels had killed almost 250 men, killed or wounded Best available estimates of amounts involved.

The Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (1st Lt.) FRANCIS KOVACIC Patriotism is defined by Webster as "love of country or devotion to the welfare of one's country." Reflection on these definitions reveals a far more meaning in the word "patriotism" than at first meets the eye.

Patriotism means more than hanging out flags on Independence Day or decorating graves on Memorial Day. It has deeper significance than showing content from the top of a building into the street as a band marches by to commemorate our victory on V-J Day. Instead it implies much more than standing at attention during the playing of our National Anthem, for without true patriotism, there would be no Star-Spangled Banner.

Patriotism, therefore, means love of my country, manifested by my willingness to carry out my duty to the best of my ability, whether I am fighting in the front lines or pulling KP in the rear. It means being a good cop and carrying out all my military obligations, even the most menial, because each little job, no matter how apparently insignificant, is part of a great plan which makes the Army operate efficiently. This devotion, yes, even consecration, to duty has won for our country the respect and joy we as American citizens. George Washington didn't have to soldier for a living, but he has lived comfortably at home. But the welfare of his country spurred him to heroic efforts in the struggle and his God.

The Judge Says . . .

Have you audited your personal checking account this month?

The issuance of a so-called "check" is a serious matter and is considered an act below the standards of conduct prescribed for military personnel. The person who writes such a check must establish some fault on the part of the individual to whom the check is written, or on the part of some subsequent holder of the check in order for him to defend himself on the check he wrote.

INDONESIA FIGHTING HEAVY SINGAPORE—The heaviest fighting of the Indonesian rebellion erupted Sunday in Sumatra. Five central government warships arrived off the rebel stronghold of Padang and aircraft bombed and strafed the area.

REBEL COMMANDER LI COI Almed Hansen sought to stiffen morale with an appeal over Radio Pagan to "be prepared to sacrifice all and if necessary, to die for the United States government troops."

TRADE AGREEMENT—TOKYO—North Korea and Czechoslovakia Sunday signed a one-year trade agreement and a three-year payment arrangement. Pyongyang radio announced. No mention was made of amounts involved.

Concert Slates Bells are Ringing

The recorded concert at the Main Fort Benning Library (Library displays her many talents. Judy develops the part of Ella Peterson into a touching and heart-warming individual with a subtly comic performance. "Bells Are Ringing" also introduces Sydney Chaplin to the field of musical comedy. Both Miss Holiday and Chaplin add to the stature of their performances with clever and charming song and dance routines.

The music for "Bells Are Ringing" was written by Jules Styne. The lyrics by Betty Gordon and Adolph Green, and the production was directed by Jerome Robbins.

This history of the early days for the United States Air Force covers the period from 1907-1916. It describes the early flight, Curtiss and Martin planes and tells of the Army air pilots who flew them before and during World War I.

A story based on the American Punitive Expedition in 1916 against Mexico's revolutionist, Pancho Villa. It is about certain minor/fictitious events before and after the last, 1st charge of Jose Azules. The plot concerns itself with Major Thorn, Awards Office of the campaign, ordered by General Pershing to escort five cavalrymen staged for the Medal of Honor, into the barren state of Chihuahua to Cordura and safety.

No Conflict With Navy, Air Force Gen. W. G. Wyman Summarizes Army Doctrine for Future Wars

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army doctrine for future wars, as outlined by Gen. W. G. Wyman, is not in conflict with the Navy and Air Force, according to Gen. W. G. Wyman, the Commanding General of the Continental Army Command. "Army doctrine is Triservice," Gen. Wyman told students at the Fort Benning College. "In my opinion there is no basic conflict in doctrine whatsoever between the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force."

Outlining Army doctrine for future wars, the Gen. said that to fulfill the demands posed by total, all-out war—broad Army doctrine would require an Army force to be in a strong training base as to build and rebuild. In the event of a global war, where limited use was made of super weapons, he stated: "The conclusive role in such a conflict would be performed by Mao on the ground with weapons in his hand. Only when he is in a position to enforce his decision at arms upon enemy peoples where they live can any conflict be victoriously concluded."

Army doctrine for meeting the possibility of a localized war requires, according to the Gen., a strong Army force to be in being with the ability to move to any part of the globe in minimum time. "We see no lines of entrenchment as we have known them in previous wars. No masses of men jammed with trucks moving to the front. In fact, we see no front. Only a battle area," the Gen. described the characteristics of future operations. "Within the battle area, to a depth of as much as a hundred miles or more, we see small mobile units de-

29th Takes Gas Tests

All members of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, underwent full gas mask exercises last week. "Tests included chambers of chlorine and tear gas set up in wall tents at Rolling Bay April 9 and 10. The exercises were conducted under the mandatory annual familiarization program of the Army. As part of the preliminary training, troops and officers of the organization performed dismounted drill wearing protective masks prior to a battle group reveille formation last week. Major R. O. G. Lumpkins, chief of operations, plans, and training, and the 29th program very successful.

To win a localized war, the Continental Army's Commanders declared "the Army must have ready military means as flexible, as controllable and as useable as the Army's but more efficient. "Failure to tailor our defense capabilities to the obvious strategy of the enemy is every bit as critical for the Army and Air Force today as it is for the Army," he emphasized. "Unless the Army is provided with the strategic mobility, the modern tools, and the trained men to deter or defeat limited aggression, the United States in due course may find herself isolated in a fortress America with her freedom of action to defend herself dangerously restricted."

Expert Fired By 17 on 106

"Practicing what they preach" 17 out of 26 instructors of the Basic Recruiters Committee of the Weapons Department at The Infantry School fired expert with the 106 mm recoilless rifle.

On Patton Range the instructors of Company G, Infantry School Detachment, fired the 106, most powerful Infantry anti-tank weapon, for record qualification and steady, unusually high scores.

As a rule only 15 per cent of a group firing this weapon will qualify as expert gunners, but due to the extensive training of this particular group 73 per cent scored expert. The course included firing at both stationary and moving targets.

Top honors went to Sgt. Robert T. Gardner who fired the 170-point course scoring 160.

Inducements Lacking

Service Statistics Uncover Need To Boost Enlisted Men Incentive

By M-SEL. HERB SCOTT, USA
AFPS Washington Writer

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The retired rolls of the Armed Forces give convincing evidence that enlisted service personnel obtaining this goal according to military personnel officials.

Retirement pay generally has been considered one of the prime inducements to follow military life in both commissioned and enlisted ranks. However, retired rosters reveal wide difference in the proportion of officers and enlisted personnel obtaining this goal according to military personnel officials.

A breakdown of current rolls, including the permanent and temporary disabled who represent roughly 40 per cent of the totals, tabulated in the nearest round figure only for the purpose of comparison, by service is:

Officer Enlisted	58,000	52,000
Army	20,000	30,000
Navy	4,000	10,000
Marine Corps	14,000	17,000
Air Force

Considering that the officer-enlisted ratio in the Armed Forces wide has been approximately one to 10 since WWII, these numbers disclose that comparatively few enlisted men remain in the ranks to 20 or 30 year retirement. While actual averages would require involved mathematical deductions, these figures couldn't have been much higher at any time in the past.

They also indicate that there need be little national concern for mounting costs of military retirement but rather for the obligations the government as-

Five Fort Benning civilian employees and a soldier have been presented $700 cash awards for sustaining superior performance of duties and a work improvement suggestion. Recipients of the incentive awards were M-Sgt. Charles L. Bryant, Mrs. Roseanne C. Jones, Mrs. Martha G. Nelson, Horace W. Rundell, John W. Gause and Mrs. Dorothy A. Wilkins.

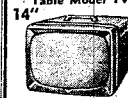

Sgt. Bryant, Team chief of the Instructor Group, Weapons Department's Mortar Committee at The Infantry School, was presented a $100 cash award as first prize in the Third Army Military Suggestion Contest for the quarter ending Dec. 31.

Sgt. Bryant devised an indoor mortar training device which resulted in both tangible and intangible benefits. This device has been adopted by Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va.

Sgt. Bryant previously was presented a Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant and a $25 cash award for devising the device.

Mrs. Jones, clerk-typist, in the Operations Section, Tactical Department of the Infantry School, was awarded a $100 cash award and an outstanding performance award for shortages of men in critical military specialties unless additional career incentives are provided.

Company Slates 45 Rpm Record Of Army's Song

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — A special recording of the Army's official song "The Army Goes Rolling Along" is slated to go on sale by June 1 in Post Exchanges throughout the world. The 45 rpm record pressed by a leading manufacturing features renditions of the song by the U. S. Army Chorus on Side 1 and the U. S. Army Band on Side 2.

Officials say this unique record will become a coveted souvenir item for military personnel and their families and give them a chance to know and accept the official song.

The record jacket has a picture of the Army flag with caduceus or guard on the front, and pictures of the band and chorus together with excerpts from Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker's speech dedicating the song on the reverse side.

Army Extends EM College Deal Deadline

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — The Department of the Army has relaxed the previously set May 1 restriction on applications for schooling next Fall under the recently initiated Enlisted College Education Program.

No new deadline for applications has been announced, but a DA spokesman said that, because of the short time applicants will have to assemble transcripts of academic records and take physical examinations, every effort will be made to consider delayed applications.

The new EM schooling program, which is outlined in AR 150-260 and DA Circular 450-14, will give college training to approximately 200 soldiers and WACs each year. Its purpose is to provide the Army with a hard core of highly-trained career specialists and non-commissioned officers in the future.

After 4 Years of Silence Chapel Bells Ringing Again at Ft. Benning

Chapel bells are ringing at Fort Benning again. Four years ago the carillon chimed in The Infantry Center, Protestant chapel, in silence because they were badly in need of repair.

Play on Easter During Easter week repair work was so near completion that the chiming was played on Easter Sunday morning. Last week the job of completely overhauling the bells was finished. The stentorian tones once more sounded clear and true.

Writers Help In Publicizing Special Day

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The only service organization of military writers will lead the Daughters of the United States in a publicizing campaign for the 1958 Special Day observances held May 16 to 18 at the U.S. Army Center for Public Affairs. Officials of the Armed Forces Writer's League have asked branches of the organization to offer assistance to local commanders in promoting the ninth annual "open house" celebrations for the public, in response to a request for cooperation from the Office of Public Affairs, Department of Defense.

The league, a non-profit organization with branches in many parts of the world, was formed in 1954 for active and retired military personnel and civilian employees of the services who are interested in writing for or art for publication. Providing many special services and educational benefits in the fields of journalism and art, AFWL also publishes a monthly magazine for military writers, editors, information specialists and artists.

National headquarters of the league is located at 2146 N. Oakland, Arlington 7, Va.

More Than 120 Works Exhibited At Woman's Club Annual Art Show

More than 120 paintings in oil, charcoal and water colors were exhibited at the Annual Art, Ceramics and Flower Show sponsored by the Woman's Club of Fort Benning April 13 at the post's Country Club.

The Art Show showed about 100 paintings in oil, charcoal, still life and landscapes. The remainder were painted by officers and dependents of the club. Approximately 75 canvases were exhibited by the children's art class.

Judged in Category Flower Show The paintings were judged according to category in three groups: art class members and the children's class. Mrs. John W. Collins III, of the art class, was the judge. In the children's group, the blue group went to Mrs. Gordon E. Sayre. In the children's group, first prize was awarded to Leo Spence, son of Major and Mrs. J. C. Spence Sr., and Mrs. Robert, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. W. Roberts.

Special awards were presented to Mrs. William Grigg for decorative panels and to Morley Spence, daughter of Major and Mrs. Spence for originality. Rufus Hallmark Jr., son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Rufus Hallmark, was awarded first prize in the non-member children's group.

Ceramics Class Although many members of the ceramics class have studied for only about two months, many pieces in a large variety were shown. Best of the Show winner in ceramics was Mrs. Robert Piper with a large green ashtray.

Sweetstakes winner in the flower arrangement class was Mrs. Clyde D. Gattman. Her winning arrangement consisted of peach colored grapes and bending fruits in a bright blue bowl.

Other awards for art class members went to Joyce Wilson and Doris Magvarena for charcoal, to Mary Cassel, Betty West and Joyce Wilson for water colors, and to Jean Munroe, Betty Gargis and Marie Louise Baldwin for silks.

Yvette Sayre, Mrs. Louis R. Welch and Margaret Faber won prizes for oils in the non-member group. In the combined groups best portraits awarded were Mrs. O. O. Munson, Mrs. R. M. Piper and Mrs. Louis Evans. Winners in specific objects were Mrs. H. C. and Martha Beaver.

In the children's class abstracts were awarded in two groups, abstract and realistic. Abstract awards were won by Leo Spence, second and third; specimen plants, Mrs. O. D. Munson, and in the realistic class, to Becky Roberts, Kimmi McCloskey and Sheila West. In the clay modeling group winners were David Larsen, Atlanta, and Columbus, Mrs. Edward R. Mason was chairman of the course.

'Climax' Seeks Military Scripts

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — Wanted: Army writers who can turn out stories interesting enough to be used by the 60 minute CBS Television Show "Climax".

The producer of the national show, Eya Wolos, has expressed admiration for a story written from Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., by Major W. E. Waters, titled "Ain't No Time For Glory." It was very successful and she claims "Climax" is interested in Army stories of this type suitable for television.

Scripts may be addressed to Miss Wolos at CBS Television, Television City, Hollywood, Calif. However, Army writers should use AR 360-9 as a guide and have their manuscripts cleared with the local Information Officer before submitting them.

Sp2 Buys Farm With GI Savings

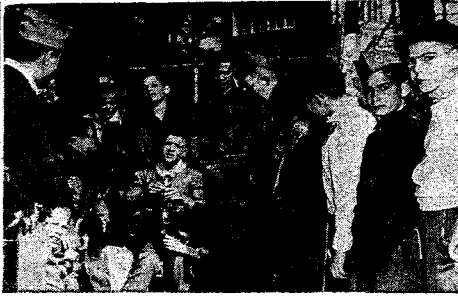

Sgt. Arnold Williams, who has accumulated more than $10,000 in soldier's savings, retires from the Army this week. Sp2 Williams, who entered the Army in August, 1946, has used his savings to buy a new farm near Jonesboro, La., his hometown.

He entered the Army in 1946 and six years later made the initial deposit with the Army's Soldier's Benefit System. From that time he has saved consistently, often depositing all of his pay except necessary expense money.

When he made his last deposit he had saved $5,200 in six years.

Accumulated interest on this sum, saved since 1952, raised the total to $11,520.

SCOUT TRIP . . . Boy Scouts of Fort Benning's Troop No. 27 meet for a check-up on camping equipment before leaving for Kings Pond on the military reservation for a week-end camp session. The boys spent two days testing their camping skill with emphasis on safety program. Support group for the event was the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, which supplied trucks, a 250-gallon water trailer, and medical aid. The Scouting program is sponsored by Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club.

Gains 500 Boys in Year Scout Program Takes Rapid Strides Here

Fort Benning's Boy Scout program has shown rapid expansion and gain during the past year with an active membership of approximately 500 boys, according to Scouting officials.

The program is one of the activities sponsored by Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club. The troops belong to the Upatoi District of the Georgia-Alabama Council of Boy Scouts of America whose headquarters are in Columbus.

Col. Harry C. M. Cain, commander of the 24th Medical Group, became the institutional representative for Boy Scouts at Fort Benning in September, 1957. Under his leadership units have increased from nine to 13 within the present increased membership.

Available to all boys, the additional growth has become the result of concerted efforts to make scouting available to all boys on post.

Two new Cub Scout packs have been organized for the main Fort Benning area. Former Pack No. 107 has been divided into three groups to give the boys proper individual attention. The new units are Pack No. 127 and 227. Plans also are being made for the division of Boy Scout Troop No. 27. With an active membership of approximately 80 boys, the troop will be reorganized to provide an opportunity for more boys to participate in this phase of scouting.

Important Stride
One of the important strides of the post program, officials stated, was bringing scouting children in the 12 and 13 Church Trailer Company Scout Troop No. 51 and Cub Scout Troop No. 51 and Cub Scout Troop No. 51.

Gen. Larsen Talks To Ranger Class
Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, was guest speaker at graduation exercises for Ranger class No. 7 April 9 in Dugelton Hall in the Harney Church area.

The graduates completed an eight week course covering 400 hours of subjects of nearly every kind in a variety of disciplines ranging from snake handling to the art of attacking and killing in several categories.

Hat Contest Held By Women's Club
WURZBURG, Germany — The Wurzburg Women's Club held an old fashion hat contest at its meeting this month with winners announced in several categories.

Mrs. Robert L. Baron was awarded for the "prettiest hat" by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Claude Ingram, 10th Division Chaplain.

Other prizes were given to Mrs. Helen Glidden for her "prettiest hat" and Mrs. Arthur Short for her hat judged the "most original."

Judges for the contest were Chaplain Ingram and Capt. Arthur P. Zwirner, the club's new manager from the Third Division.

At the close of the ceremony, Mrs. Walker B. Yeager received the traditional "hat tray," given to members of the club in good standing upon their departure.

Units Qualify With Carbine At Post Range

Five Army Reserve units from the Albany (Ga.) Military Sub-District participated in a composite multiple drill recently at Fort Benning's Markers Range to qualify unit members in firing the carbine.

Units participating were the controlling unit, Company A, 394th Engineer Battalion, Albany, commanded by Capt. Michael A. Fiveash, Dawson, Ga.; Company C, 394th Engineer Battalion, Cordele, Ga., whose commander was Capt. Ellis L. Whittington, Tifton, Ga.; 42nd Army Postal Unit, Moultrie, Ga., commanded by Capt. John A. Owens, Moultrie, 22nd Transportation Truck port. Except for demonstrating the Albany (Ga.) Military Sub-District will be at 85th Army Postal Unit, Tifton, commanded by 1st Lt. Loy W. Morgan, Tifton.

Each member of the Reserve groups had his individual equipment including weapons. Each unit has been trained to conduct its own mess, firing, bivouac and first echelon maintenance.

All Army Reserve units in the Albany Sub-District will move to their annual training site independently this summer and will function during the two-week training with minimum active Army supervision.

NEW Chemical May Bring on Miracles
NEW YORK (APPS) — Clothing that repels stains, resists wrinkles, and dries fast when you walk in the rain and automobile oil that never has to be changed are in the realm of possibility.

29th Enters Final Week Competition

Company D boosted its lead to 20 points in First Battle Group, 29th Infantry unit competition with only two events remaining.

The race for the 29th's "Outstanding Unit" trophy remained wide open with three other units still in contention.

In form tests of military skills April 5, Company D chalked up two first places and one second place. The action netted the unit 120 points, hitting its overall total to 200.

A possible 125 points can be won in the two remaining events, a double victory by any of the four contenders would clinch the battle group championship.

The two events, slated for this weekend, are platoon drill and unit physical training.

Headquarters Company held on to the runners-up spot, picking up 110 points for second place, one first place, two seconds, and a third.

Training Headquarters Company B, with 105 points, and Mortar Battery, with 125.

Company D finished first in light machine gun crew drill and jeep driving. It scored a second place in mortar drill.

Col. Brown Assumes Command at Lawson

Col. William M. Brown took over command at Lawson Army Airfield Command from Col. William H. Billings in a review and ceremony at Lawson Field April 2.

Col. Brown began his military career in 1934 when he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Reserve. In January, 1942, he was called into active duty as a first lieutenant at Fort McChellan, Alaska.

Col. Brown was born in Knoxville, Tenn., received a Bachelor of Science degree from Davidson College, in Davidson, N.C., and had one year of post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

Col. Brown attended the Advanced Course at Fort Benning from June, 1943, to September of the same year. From March, 1944, to March, 1945, the Colonel served at Fort Hood, Tex. as a battalion commander.

The next two and one half years saw Col. Brown at Fort Davis and Fort Gulick in the Canal Zone, where he was commanding officer of the Third Battalion of the 25th Infantry and Third Battalion of the 3rd

Infantry. During his tour in the Canal Zone, Col. Brown received his appointment in the Regular Army. When he returned to the United States, Col. Brown was assigned as commanding officer of Troops at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

In September, 1948, Col. Brown entered the Command and General Staff College, graduating the following year.

Upon graduation, Col. Brown reported to Headquarters, First Army at Governors Island, N.Y., where he served in the G-3 Section.

The Hague, Netherlands, as executive officer of the Military Assistance Advisory Group was Col. Brown's next assignment where he served until August, 1950.

In September, 1955, Col. Brown was assigned to the Operations and Training Group of the Staff Department, The Infantry School.

Sgt. Invents Perforator For 14th Soil

First Sgt. Charles Strait, Company C, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, has put his engineer skill to work as he developed a soil perforator, designed to loosen the top soil of the lawns to allow the grass to grow much faster through increased aeration.

The perforator was constructed from a 10 gallon cardboard barrel with 6 inch nails driven in it about 3 inches apart. The barrel was then poured full of cement, leaving the nails solid when the cement dried.

The handle of the machine was made from one and one half inch pipe and is so constructed that it can be pulled by two men or by a one quarter ton vehicle. The cost of the machine was only labor as the material was salvaged.

Sgt. Strait's ingenuity has a benefit to the entire 14th Infantry since neither Company C or Sgt. Strait are stung by their resources.

Lt. Col. Stafford Named Transportation Officer

Lt. Col. Albert T. Stafford has been assigned as Infantry Center transportation officer at Fort Benning.

Col. Eugene M. Elliot transportation officer since April, 1955, has been assigned to U. S. Army Forces, Alaska.

Col. Stafford's prior assignment was chief of the Motor Transportation Operations Division and executive officer of the Transportation Section.

He came to Fort Benning in March, 1946, from Korea where he was director of operations and a unit commander with the Seventh Transportation Fort Command at Pusan.

Before his Korean assignment, Col. Stafford served from 1951 to 1954 as professor of military science and tactics at the University of Georgia Extension Center in Atlanta, Ga.

Col. Stafford entered the Army in 1927 and received a direct Army commission in May, 1942, from the rank of master sergeant. During World War II he served with the Engineer Amphibious Command at Camp Edwards, Mass.

Law Day Set For May 1 By President

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Armed Forces military and civilian personnel throughout the world will cooperate in programs observing the first Law Day USA, May 1.

Established by the President, Law Day will direct public attention to the importance of law in our personal, national and international life.

Armed Forces participation in the 1958 local, state and national programs, being planned by the American Bar Assn., has been urged by the Secretary of Defense in a public statement.

Members of the services and civilian employees will fill speaking engagements, appear on radio and television programs, serve on Law Day committees and attend community and state observances.

Band and troop participation in Law Day events on a local command basis, also is authorized, Defense officials said.

The Office of Public Affairs, Department of Defense, has distributed one copy of each of two pamphlets, prepared by the Bar Assn., to each post station and base command in the Army, to each major area command to assist them in promoting Law Day programs.

Drivers Warned to Heed Yield Right-of-Way Signs

Personnel were warned this week to heed right-of-way signs by Fort Benning officials.

Officials cited the following violations from the Uniform Act on Regulation of Traffic on Highways in Georgia (Georgia Code, 1953, November Session, Pp. 556 et. Seq.):

"When the intersection is designated as a yield right-of-way intersection, the driver of a vehicle approaching the intersection shall yield the right-of-way to any vehicle approaching from the right or left of the intersection roads or streets, which are so close as to constitute an immediate hazard. If a driver is involved in a collision at an intersection or interferes with the movement of other vehicles after driving past a yield-right-of-way sign, such collision or interference shall be deemed prima facie evidence of the driver's failure to yield right-of-way."

Know Your Army Aircraft!

Probably the best known and most versatile of the Army aircraft is the L-19 "Birdy". The L-19 is a single engine high wing monoplane, manufactured by the Cessna Aircraft Corporation. It is of metal construction powered by a 212 hp engine and can cruise at 90 mph. At normal cruise, it has a range of four and one half hours.

The L-19 is a two-place aircraft capable of carrying a pilot and one observer. It is capable of performing missions such as reconnaissance, observation, adjustment, delivery, fire, radio relay (with the new ARC44 radio it can work with all combat arms) winged.

It is a rugged and reliable aircraft with a long service life. It is easy to maintain and can be used in almost any type of terrain. It is also very economical to operate.

Company A of 499th Bn. Takes To Field for Training Exercises

Company A, 499th Engineer Battalion will take to the field this week to participate in a training exercise. The entire company along with all TO and E equipment will depart early in the day and remain in bivouac overnight. During this time a tactical situation will exist requiring the company to recognize and fight as an infantry unit in the night position of the problem. Headquarters and Service Company will enter the field during the coming weeks. Recently assigned to Company C, 57th Engineer Battalion was 2nd Lt. Luther J. Starr, a graduate of Texas A&M. He received a Bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering and completed his ROTC training there. Prior to his entry into active duty, Lt. Starr was employed with the Dallas firm of Robert E. McKee, General Contractors, as a field engineer. He is a graduate of the Engineer's Basic Course at Fort Belvoir, Va. He is a member of the Society of American Military Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Texas Society of Professional Engineers. In addition to his duties as Platoon Leader of the 1st Platoon, he has assumed these additional duties: Unit P10 Officer, Platoon Leader of the 2nd Platoon, and Platoon Officer, Educational Development Officer and Assistant CBR Officer.

Deer Range Completed. The mechanical portion of the construction of the Running Deer Range was completed this week by Company B, 499th Engineer Battalion. The range constructed for the Advanced Marksmanship Unit, has a replica of a life-size deer for a target mounted on rails. The target is released from one side of the range and rolls down hill and up the other side in a manner similar to a bowling ball return. This range will be used to train marksmen for the Olympic matches this fall.

New Platoon Leader
Recently assigned as a platoon leader for Company B, 499th Engineer Battalion is 2nd Lt. Jack E. Englick. He completed the Engineer Officer's Basic Course in March, 1958, after receiving his commission in July, 1957.

Lt. Englick attended the Missouri School of Mines in Rolla, part of his curriculum including the basic and advanced phases of the Army ROTC program.

Prior to his entrance into active duty on Jan. 14, 1958, he was employed as an industrial salesman for the National Carbon Company of Niagara Falls, CWO Tillman Assigned.

Another new assignment at the 151st Engineer Group was that of CWO Robert Tillman to the 600th Engineer Company (Field Maintenance) as Platoon Leader of the Second Maintenance Platoon.

CWO Tillman was previously assigned to the U. S. Army General Depot at Schemmady, N.Y., with duty station at Belle Mead Depot. He was Assistant Engineer Supply Officer there. CWO Tillman entered active service at Fort Benning in 1957-1958 Season. Taking the first-half winner's trophy, the Company C keepers removed all doubt on April 4 and wrapped up the League Championship by winning the second-half winner's trophy also. The winning team was composed of Sgt Art Kahn, Sp3 Bernie Beckey, Sp3 Jack Franklin, Sp4 Fred Pittmann, Pfc Bob Holl, and Pfc Joe Sterling. Company A of this battalion took second place in the race for second-half winners.

Softball Wins
The Headquarters and Service Company softball team maintained their unbeaten record in the 499th Engineer Battalion's baseball tournament by virtue of a win over Company B. Strings looked grim for #2 and #3 Company in the second inning when the score was 10 to 2 against them. At this point team captain, Sgt Clark Hastings, talked the situation over with his team and rallied the boys to a 16 to 14 victory over Company B.

Adding to his ever increasing number of trophies, the 600th Engineer Company Bowling Team received the runner up trophy for the 151st Engineer Group Bowling League Championship. Sp2 Walt Dye also received a trophy for high three-strikes series with a score of 590. Team members were, 1st Sgt Ben King, Sp4 Harry Hoover, Sp4 Dick Pierson, Sp2 Dye, Sp2 Cliff Alexander, Sp2 El Woodbridge, and Sp3 Paul Plummer.

Lt. Col. Caddle to Leave For Ft. Knox Assignment

Lt. Col. John Caddle, commander of the First Battalion, Infantry Center Troop Company II, 31st Infantry, will depart Fort Benning next month for assignment at Fort Knox, Ky.

Col. Caddle has served in this capacity since August 1965, following his assignment as G-1 and G-4 adviser to the 26th Division, Republic of Korea Army. He received the Chugnu Distinguished Medal with Silver Star for his service with the ROK division.

The Fort Benning officer was commissioned in the 101st Infantry, 26th Division, Massachusetts National Guard in 1940. In March, 1941, he went overseas as commander of Company II, 31st Infantry, 26th Division, landing on Omaha Beach during the Normandy invasion. In 1947 he returned to Germany and served as commander of the 798th Transportation Company, participating in the Berlin Airlift. In 1953 he was assigned to advisory positions with the Republic of Korea Army. In December, 1954, he was assigned to the Infantry Center Ordnance Section before assuming command of the First Battalion.

His awards include the Bronze Star Medal, which he was awarded twice for valor and once for achievement, and the Purple Heart.

SP3 WALTER DEXHEIMER WITH HIS 'MIGHTY MIKE' For The 14th Infantry, A Shining Example Of His Respect

Sp3 Keeps His Wrecker Standing Tall

"I'm broke down on Sight-seeing Road, send Dexheimer" is a familiar sound that comes in over the dispatcher's telephone at the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry Motor Pool.

This doesn't happen every day, but when it does the men know that they can turn to Sp3 Walter Dexheimer, wrecker operator for the motor pool. Even the CO at Hq. and Hq. Company may answer the phone and hear the same distressing words in the early morning and in turn awaken Sp3 Dexheimer. When asked about the midnight hours that he has to go out, he replied "If a man is out there with trouble, it is my job to get him back even though it is late."

He calls the wrecker the "Mighty Mike" and this vehicle is treated as if it were his personal car. It is a common thing to see Sp3 Dexheimer at the motor pool waxing the Big Mike and having it "standing tall" for any kind of inspection by the Motor Officer. The members of the 14th Infantry look up to the vehicle as a shining example of his respect for the wrecker.

Army Opens Unit to Test Proficiency

WASHINGTON (APPS) — A center to help the Army put round pegs in round holes has been set up at Fort Harrison, Ind.

JIMMY'S CAR WASH 10 Min. 47 Sec. Victory Drive FA 2-9258

It is called the Army Evaluation Center and will serve as the operating agency of the Evaluated Evaluation System. After the tests are given, the answer sheets, together with the commander's evaluation report for each person tested, will be returned to the center for scoring and evaluation. The results will be returned to major commanders indicating the relative standing of enlisted personnel and may be used as the basis for promotions and other personnel actions in Army installations.

Honor Guard Boasts 'Fort Benning's Best'

At every award ceremony, every honors presentation and every major celebration presented at Fort Benning, The Infantry Center honor guard unit plays a major role. The Honor Guard Company is a composition of Fort Benning's best. This ceremonial unit is an exemplification of the Infantry, a smooth working, efficient machine.

Carefully Selected The Honor Company is composed of carefully selected personnel from companies and batteries of the First Battle Group, 26th Infantry, and the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, operating administratively and functionally as Company C, First Battle Group, 26th Infantry.

At present Company C has representatives from Companies A, C, D and Mortar Battery of the Second Battle Group.

Each man selected for the Honor Company has been carefully screened as to his height, military appearance, education and character by the company's Operation Section and by the Honor Company commander, Capt. Myron E. Lee Jr. Capt. Lee, an alumnus of the Infantry School's advanced and airborne courses, regulates and maintains the Honor Corps' rigid standards and entrance prerequisites. Applicants for the Honor Guard must be no shorter than five-feet, eight inches and no taller than six feet, two inches. They must possess a stalwart military appearance, have sufficient aptitude for precision drill and be of unquestionable character.

After an applicant has passed these tests and is admitted to the Honor Company, he receives training unlike that which he has been accustomed. He learns to drill, drill and drill. In fact, he practices drilling approximately 30 hours each week. In addition to honor guard training, he receives all training of the regular Infantry company. Of this training Sgt. Hite Yamno, Honor Company operations sergeant, stated, "Although the Honor Company is one of the finest marching units I've seen, it is constantly spooling for its perfection."

Always Ready The Honor Guard soldier is now ready for his duties. In the course of one week he may be designated for Infantry Center guard and be positioned at the entrance of The Infantry School. He may be a member of a burial detail, ramp escort or one of the guards at a security conference. He will be in many honor guards and ceremonies given for post and visiting dignitaries and will participate in a formal guard

Army to Take Leading Role For Fit Youth

WASHINGTON, (ANS)—The Army is taking a leading role in cooperating with state and local organizations throughout the country to help implement the President's "Youth Fitness Program."

About the program President Eisenhower has said, "The demands of this age put great emphasis on the preparation of the youth of America, in body, mind, and spirit. I can think of no more important subject to merit the attention of our Government and all citizens of our land."

During the First Annual Conference of the President's Council on Youth Fitness last September at the United States Military Academy, it was pointed out that the number of professionally trained personnel able to serve in fitness activities either on a voluntary or employed basis is now inadequate.

31st Trans Company Aerial Display Gains Commendation to 31st

The 31st Trans Company, 31st Transport Squadron, 1st Cavalry Division, Fort Rucker, Ala., during its Command Maintenance week, received a commendation for its participation in an aerial display. The latest letter of appreciation was from Brig. Gen. Bogardus S. Cairns, commanding general of Fort Rucker, Ala. General Cairns expressed his appreciation for the outstanding performance of the unit during the Aerial Combat Demonstration conducted at Fort Rucker, Fla. The letter was further endorsed by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles and Col. William H. Billings.

Pfc Richards Named Week's Best Soldier

Pfc Paul J. Richards was selected as soldier-of-the-week in the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry last week. He is the second member of the 29th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon to be selected since the 29th's soldier-of-the-week program was instituted four weeks ago.

Pfc Gerry Botteman, a recent winner of the 29th's soldier-of-the-week competition, was selected as color guard of the week by the Infantry Center Honor Guard this week.

Sgt. Andrew J. Clark was in charge of a six-man burial detail which served at the national cemetery at Andersonville, Ga., recently. They performed ceremonies for a World War I veteran.

Sgt. Thomas Paine re-upped for six years and is now in Atlanta on re-assignment. Leave status will be granted. Sgt. Alonzo Jefferson will re-enlist for his own vacancy in the company.

Sgt. Paul E. Sikes, one-time youngest Sp3 in the Army, has departed for Fort Campbell, Ky., where he will join the 101st Air Assault Division.

Sgt. Clark has found a way to beat the heat of these Georgia summers. The company's small clerk and troop information man is leaving next week for a 12-month tour of duty in Iceland.

Auto-Buy Week

don't miss the special edition

President Dwight D. Eisenhower

Beginning April 19, Columbus Automobile dealers join with others throughout the country in a historic, private enterprise promotion designed to "keep business healthy".

Part of their program will be a general reduction of automobile prices, maximum trade-in allowances and the easiest terms and lowest financing costs available.

You'll see more about this special "Auto-Buy Week" program and why it is unique in our present-day economy in the special edition next Sunday.

Look here, once America just buys the things it wants, our great manufacturers, will be busy making those things.

Col. Edwards Takes Over as Acting CofS

Col. Norman B. Edwards, last week assumed duties as acting chief of staff of the Infantry Center, Fort Benning, Ga. He will serve in the position until Col. Robert H. York returns from Harvard University to serve as Infantry Center chief of staff. Col. York has been designated to succeed Col. O. Z. Tyler Jr. Col. Tyler has been assigned deputy chief of staff of United Nations Command in Korea.

Col. Edwards was assigned to Fort Benning last August. Upon his arrival at the post, he became director of the Infantry Center. Last month he was named director of instruction.

He attended the West Virginia Institute of Technology at Morgantown, and is a 1933 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy.

Col. Edwards was assistant G3 and deputy chief of staff of III Corps in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany during World War II, after completing the Army Forces Staff College, he was assigned to the Plans and Operations Division of the Army's General Staff in Washington.

With the Far East Command headquarters in Tokyo, Japan, he served with the Joint Strategic Plans and Operations Group and later on the United Nations Command Armistice Negotiation Team in Korea. In 1951 he was commander of the 7th Infantry Regiment of the 25th Division and tactical adviser to the commanding general of Eighth Army in Korea.

Col. Edwards attended the National War College in 1943-1953. He wears the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, French Croix de Guerre with Gold Star, Belgian Croix de Guerre with Palm, Legion of Merit, and the National War College in 1943-1953.

He is attending a three-month advanced management course at Harvard. The course began Feb. 18. Most of Col. York's classmates are executives of major industries and companies in the U. S.

Col. Edwards was assigned to the Strategic Plans Branch, and later as secretary for the staff of the headquarters of Allied Forces, Southern Europe, in Naples, Italy before coming to Fort Benning.

COL. N. B. EDWARDS Acting Chief of Staff

Sp3 Granted Fellowship At Michigan

Sp3 Stewart I. Ross, assigned to the S-4 Section of the Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department of Fort Benning, has been granted a $1,900 fellowship by the University of Michigan.

Ross applied for the fellowship last February and received the grant on the basis of his previous scholastic records. The grant is to be paid in 10 monthly installments. Ross plans to study for a master of arts degree in Fine Arts. He completed his undergraduate work at the University of Michigan and has a bachelor's degree in design.

Ross is from Manhattan, the Airborne Air Mobility Department where he worked as an illustrator for the N.Y. Army, and entered the Army in July, 1946. After completion of basic training he was 19 months.

Dutch War Secretary Ft. Benning Hosts Dr. Kranenburg

The Netherlands secretary of state for war, Dr. Jan Kranenburg, was welcomed to Fort Benning at noon April 21 with honor guard ceremonies on Lawson Army airfield, highlighted by a 18-gun salute. Dr. Kranenburg was accompanied by the post by Major Petrus Spek of the Scientific Research Section, Royal Netherlands Air Force.

DR. KRANENBURG WELCOMED HERE Gen. Ruggles Greets Dutch War Secretary

They received an intensive briefing on Infantry School methods of instruction and modern Infantry weapons. The Allied dignitary met with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry School commandant, at 1:15 p.m. and was honored at an official reception and dinner beginning at 7 p.m. in the Main Officers' Mess.

Following farewell honor guard ceremonies, the Allied visitor left Lawson Field at 9 a.m. April 22. The Infantry School is among three Army installations The Netherlands official is touring while visiting the U.S. Coming to Fort Benning from New York City, he will spend two days at the U.S. Army Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Texas, and a day at the White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., after leaving the Infantry School.

All-Army Bound Standing Crowd Sees 3-A Talent Winners

Winners of the Third Army Fort Campbell, Ky., also Entertainment Contest were named April 17 before a standing crowd at Fort Benning's Main Theater.

The top two finalists in the six entertainment categories performed for both military and civilian personnel in a "Showcase at Stars." The winners will represent the Third Army in the All Army Entertainment Contest to be held June 12-14 at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Rites Slated For 3-A CG

Retirement ceremonies for Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Third Army commander, will be held April 30 at Fort McPherson, Ga. Gen. Hickey is retiring after more than 41 years in the Army. During this service he fought in three wars.

Brig. Gen. Stanley H. Larsee, assistant commander of the Infantry School, will command troops at the retirement ceremonies. Some 600 soldiers from Fort Benning will participate in the funeral. Gen. Among the guests at the retirement will be Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Fort Benning commander.

Gen. Wyman Urges Three-Sided Defense to Bolster U.S. Strength

A "no compromise" battle, for an immediate tri-dimensional defense organization to be able to counter "any threat in the immediate present," was sounded April 17 at Fort Benning by Gen. G. Wyman, commanding general of the U. S. Continental Army Command.

Gen. Wyman, in a talk delivered at the ladies' night meeting of the Columbia Chapter, Military Order of the World Wars, said that "no further quibbling or hesitancy should be permitted to hamper achievement of a true tri-dimensional defense organization." He would be better to have fewer divisions well-trained than to have more divisions occupied with the rudiments of training, he said.

Gen. Wyman added that men are needed to expand training bases in order to guarantee a fresh flow of trained manpower into the fighting ranks.

Gen. Wyman said, "A crack-down should be made on any further variation in obtaining a fully integrated and coordinated defense plan which provides the proper emphasis and means for each service to fulfill its proper and essential role."

The speech was made in the Fort Benning Main Officers' Mess, while in Washington, D.C. there is at present a battle raging on whether there should be a closer and more coordinated unity among the three major services.

Post Honors Col. Tyler Retreat Parade to Mark Past CofS's Departure

Col. O. Z. Tyler Jr., former Infantry Center chief of staff, will be honored with a retreat parade on Fort Benning's Chapel Field April 25 at 5:00 p.m.

He will leave the post the following day to serve as deputy chief of staff of the United Nations Command in Korea. His family will stay in Jacksonville during Col. Tyler's overseas tour.

While at the Infantry Center he has been active in Columbia chapter affairs. Among the organizations with which he has been closely associated are the Columbia chapter of Rotary International, Columbia Chapter of Commerce and the Citizens Military Council of Fort Benning.

Post Attacks Fire Ants From Skies

With the advent of warm weather, Fort Benning has supplemented its insect control program with a plan for aerial extermination of the aggressive fire ant.

The imported fire ant whose stings rendered much discomfort to both adults and children last summer is the post surgeon's Preventative Medicine Division's target for elimination.

The second phase in the control program will be the spraying of a granular insecticide from the C-47 Beaver aircraft.

The first phase of the program has been the ground spraying of the populated areas at Fort Benning continuously since last year.

Wyman

Thank You for Continuing U.S. "build the joint tri-service unit now before the alarm is sounded, and then off we go in a ready team of mutually confident flyers—the Army—the Air Force. One for all—all for one."

The communists have three types of war they could wage against the U.S. Gen. Wyman said. The first is to use the "one-shot nuclear knockout" was the first described. He said that there was always the possibility that the war of the enemy might in the early days of war destroy the air retaliation facilities of the nation.

He said that the might of the air would be needed to supply the striking power to trip the scales of a nuclear stalemate. The second type of war needed was a general war in which both combatants would acknowledge limitations in weapons and targets.

The history of warfare is a record of restraint in the application of force, Gen. Wyman said. That if such a restraint is placed in the war it would be probably against the employing of mass destruction weapons against population centers.

Gen. Larsen Addresses Physical Conditioning Sp.

Brig. Gen. Stanley E. Larsen, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, April 21 officially welcomed more than 40 delegates to the first Army Physical Conditioning Seminar being conducted at Fort Benning through today.

In his opening address in The Infantry School's Walker Hall, Gen. Larsen called for a strong rejuvenation in the future of the physical fitness of today's young men.

The general stated that although there have been many major improvements in the various military fields since World War II, there has been no satisfactory improvement in physical conditioning.

Post Toured By Students

Nineteen students and their chaperons from the Tallulah Falls (Ga.) School toured the Fort Benning April 21.

Their tour of the post included visits to the Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department and the Third Army Food Service School. They also witnessed a demonstration by the 26th Scout Dog Platoon of the First Battle Group, 26th Infantry. Following their tour, the students were luncheon guests of the Food Service School.

The visit to Fort Benning, home of the Army's largest educational facility, was one stop on the Tallulah Falls School's tour of Georgia.

Military Courtesies

At recent retreat parades and other ceremonies held at Fort Benning it has been noted that some of the personnel, both civilian and military, are not completely conversant with the proper honors due the colors during the playing of certain music and calls.

During the playing of the National Anthem, "To the Colors" or ruffles and flourishes, proper courtesy should be rendered the flag by both military and civilian personnel.

When one of these selections is being rendered all military personnel in uniform should be at attention.

These are only common courtesies and should be rendered at all times.

Express Opinion by Vote

In a recent general election, one out of every three qualified voters failed to cast a ballot. Of these people simply felt that one more ballot wouldn't make any difference.

Yet in that same election, a candidate was elected by a margin of just one vote. A rare occurrence, say? Perhaps, but that one unique vote, multiplied by the thousands of people who just don't bother to go to the polls, could amend the Constitution or elect a president.

The point is, every vote does count. It's the key to our whole system of democratic government. And when election day comes around, the vote of a private is just as important as the vote of a general. Everybody has a right and an obligation to take an active part in the management of the government.

Whatever the issue, the most effective way in which you can express your opinion is through your vote. (AFPS)

Maintain Code Ideals

It is easy to forget, in these days of peace, that American fighting men always run the risk of finding themselves in enemy prison camps.

Any prison camp is a rough place for a serviceman to be, but some of its evils can be avoided by maintaining the ideals and tactics of the Code of Conduct for the Armed Forces.

The Code, prescribed by President Eisenhower on Aug. 17, 1955, is a six-part statement of the standards set during the history of this country by its fighting men. Article V declares:

When questioned, should I become a prisoner of war, I am bound to give only name, rank, service number, and date of birth. I will evade answering further questions to the utmost of my ability. I will make no oral or written statements disloyal to my country and its armed forces.

Every American serviceman subscribes to the Code. Its meaning is clear; its importance cannot be disputed. The responsibility is a big one, but one which we can all be proud to bear. (AFPS)

Atomic Shoulder Weapon

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The soldier of the future will carry an atomic shoulder weapon of "almost unbelievable" firepower, predicts Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, the Army's new Chief of Research and Development.

"He will go into battle with weapons and equipment that only a few years ago were to be found only in science fiction, yet today are on the drawing boards of approaching testing models," Gen. Trudeau recently said in Los Angeles, Calif.

The future fighting man may have a two-way helmet radio, television and infra-red equipment and may carry in his own weapon the "thunderbolts of atomic firepower," he prophesied.

"Every item of weapons and equipment produced is obsolescent, but no weapon is obsolete. The trench knife and the club still have their uses and so does every other lethal weapon so long as mankind seeks to solve problems by resort to a fight," Gen. Trudeau, members of the California Chamber of Commerce in an address to the state group.

Soviet Drops Charge Against Arctic Flights

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The Soviet Union Monday night withdrew its demand that the United States be asked to end Arctic flights by U. S. Strategic Air Command on the grounds they could trigger off atomic war, the Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the action in the U. N. Security Council, where a Soviet resolution condemning the United States for such flight faced certain defeat.

As a result of the withdrawal his resolution became drawing its resolution because U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the Council president, had steered the Council toward a veto.

Lodge replied that "The simple fact was that the Soviet Union did not have the voice to push its proposal through."

The surprise Soviet move came after six hours of debate. Eight of the Council's 11 members voted for the resolution.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (LT. COL.) JOSEPH J. MOREZZI

It is a difficult problem to be discussed for a certain time and associated with a difficult process and admitted members of the Converter. Expressing his conviction that human affairs are directed by God, he said "The Holy Spirit sparrow falls to the ground without His will, a nation that exists in life receives its life from Him. Happy is the nation that has religion, that has faith, that has hope."

Therefore, when we assert that the Nation is happy that has many careers, industries, and smoch work, but who bear the burdens of daily life smiling, and in so doing become the pillars of their State. Benjamin Franklin was right when, in 1797, he said "A memorable declaration. At a session of the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia, a certain difficult problem had been under discussion for a certain time and associated with a difficult process and admitted members of the Converter."

The Judge Says...

We're all familiar with the fact action of the sheriff in the western movie. He declares "I'm authorized by the Constitution or Act of Congress, will use of a motorcycle policeman to apprehend a drunken driver. In fact, headlines in our daily newspapers recently referred to the use of a posse to corner a young hoodlum in a series of murders. He fled from Nebraska to Wisconsin on a rampage of death and violence.

The most common examples of what have been considered violations of the Act are found in the cases of Post Commanders who in the past have permitted troops under their command to assist local civil police in directing traffic on highways and in the cities. The authority to enforce such traffic laws is vested in the civilian law enforcement agencies and is a part of the police powers exercised by them, therefore soldiers used for that purpose had no "police powers" and obviously could not effectively be used for the purpose intended. It should be noted that the mere fact that enforcement of traffic laws contributes to the "well being of the general public" does not change the character of the Act, it is the nature of the interest which the Army which is prohibited by the Act.

However, the Army has a long and venerable history of seeing that the conduct of its personnel conforms to the principles of the Army. The use of joint patrols (civil and military police) has been a large proportion of military personnel in the civil community. In these patrols they are instructed that their authority is limited to military personnel who violate military and civil laws, and that they have absolutely no authority over civilians. This is the enforcement of civil laws as such. The joint patrol system has been a most effective and valuable service to the community and in civilian communities adjacent to large military installations. It is interesting to note that it borders closely on what has in the past been considered a violation of the Federal Statute Act.

Grads Hear Gen. Leary

Ninety-two officer candidates at the Infantry School received the gold bars of second lieutenant in ceremonies April 18 at 3 p.m. in Fort Benning's Main Theater.

Brig. Gen. John E. Leary, commanding general of Third Infantry Division remaining elements at Fort Benning, was the speaker for the occasion.

The one-star general is a 1931 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. He attended The Infantry School's regular officers course in 1937-1938.

The officer candidate class was feted at a reception in the Main Officers' Mess at 5 p.m. following the graduation. In the receiving line were Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles,

Ranger Wives Honor Their New Members

Officers' wives of the Fort Benning camp of the Ranger Department were hostesses at a luncheon given in honor of the new members, the officers' wives of the Falcon Scout Regiment.

The committee recently has been incorporated into the Ranger Department.

Guests were welcomed at the entrance of the Custer Terrace Club by Mrs. M. J. R. Dams and Mrs. M. L. Jackson, and were presented name tags bearing the Ranger lab. Refreshments were served at a social hour during which they viewed exhibits, pictures and displays of the Ranger company.

Mrs. Stanford Touchette headed the decoration committee consisting of Mrs. John T. Corley, Mrs. Dams, Mrs. Bruce Wallace and Mrs. Scott Howard. The committee made models of important phases of Ranger training as centerpieces for the tables. The models included the rope drills, death slide, amphibious landing and rappelling. A side table held small model displays of rappelling and an ambulance in the background. The committee also used some larger models of the death slide, the rope bridge and the rope drop which had been made by Lt. James Burkland for the department.

The head table was adorned with models of the Fort Benning camp. The models were placed on a luncheon table in the headquarters building, obstacle course, hand-to-hand combat, physical bayonet training. At each lady's place was a booklet containing the history of the Ranger Department.

Head Table Seated at the head table were Mrs. Corley, Mrs. Alden, P. Stupley, Mrs. D. W. Frewitt, Mrs. A. P. Bonitas, Mrs. James P. Reilly, Mrs. Thomas G. Banks, Mrs. L. Crawford and Mrs. Wallace.

The ladies were served shrimp crole over rice, tiny peas with silvered almonds, bolts and coffee with lime sherbet for dessert.

Mrs. Corley opened the meeting with an introduction of the head table and the guests, and with thanks to those who had worked on the models. After announcements, she turned the meeting over to Capt. Bruce Wallace, commander of the department, who oriented the new Ranger wives with a discussion of the department and the Ranger course. Then Capt. Wallace showed the hand permit and the instruction. A question and answer period followed.

Concert Sets 3d Symphony By Brahms

The recorded concert at the Main Fort Benning Library April 22 at 7:30 p.m. will feature "Symphony No. 3, in F" by Johannes Brahms.

The steady rise of an easterner of the symphonies of Johannes Brahms can, in great part, be attributed to the degree to which it has been revealed to us by his interpreters. The magical clarity of his music, the exquisite balance between instruments, the combination of beauty and strength all fuse into a magnificent whole which casts a spell upon the listener.

Although he composed concertos for piano and violin, several sonatas and a number of songs, he is primarily a symphonist.

Post Hosts 26 Cadets

Twenty-six cadets from the South's famous military academy, The Citadel of Charleston, S.C., arrived at Fort Benning April 18.

The group, comprised of the academy's competitive rifle squad, were hosted by the Advanced Marksmanship Unit for three days during which they observed military operations and functions of The Infantry Center and intensively studied the Army's program of marksmanship.

In the absence of Col. Edward R. Mason, commander of the Unit who is attending the National Rifle Association Convention in Dallas, Texas, the cadets were greeted and oriented by Lt. Col. William A. Hamcock, officer in charge, U. S. Army Pistol Team.

The visiting cadets visited marksmanship supply and small arms repair facilities, witnessed the practice firing of the U. S. Army Rifle Team which also fired the new M-14 rifle and saw the Army's International Rifle Team before their return to Charleston April 20.

Project officer for the cadet visit was Lt. Donald H. Smith, a graduate of The Citadel.

Doubled Enrollment Due At Guided Missile Center

FORB BLISS, Tex. (AP)—This largest guided missile training center in the United States is going to grow bigger—much bigger.

That's the word at the Army Air Defense School here where the enrollment figure is due to double to 10,000 by mid-1959.

These thousands of students are training to serve with the missile system guarding the nation's air defense—the Nike family of Ajax and the bigger and improved Hercules.

The school schedules no slack time. Classes are conducted from 4:30 a.m. until midnight. Maintenance crews move in to "peak up" sensitive equipment during the night.

To combat a 100-hour instruction through rapid-fire at students in solid eight-hour chunks, for almost a year in some courses. This tough material takes studying—every night for most students.

Radar computers, guidance systems, propulsion, and hydraulic systems are broken down to their smallest parts; examined, studied, committed to memory. These men are becoming misanthropes, ready both to operate the system and perform some "on-the-spot" maintenance and repair.

The school also supplies literature and training aids to 50 Army Reserve schools, 200 Army Reserve units, and more.

3-A to Take Part In Law Day Rite

UNITED STATES ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — Many of Third Army's lawyers will observe the passing of Law Day May 1. In this observance, they will be joined by the South's civilian lawyers.

The Judge Advocate staffs of many of the posts of Third Army will have special celebrations to note this day, which has been declared by the President to be a day of special dedication to the principle of government under just laws.

Fort McPherson, however, will not have a celebration, as Law Day coincides with a change of command here. The day is dedicated to focusing public attention on the role which law has played in the development of the American nation.

Greeks View TIS Training

Four Greek Army Infantry leaders received a first-hand look at tactics and training at the Infantry School this week. The party included Brig. Gen. Stavros Drakonlarakos, deputy commanding general of the Fourth Division, Col. Elias Pavlis, Lt. Col. Christos Kokonelis and Lt. Col. Dimitrios Avlitis. They were honored at an official luncheon April 16 in the Main Officers' Mess, Brig. Gen. John F. Bugles, Infantry School commandant, was host for the event.

Among the demonstration witnessed by the Allied officers were airborne and Ranger training, M-1 rifle firing, bayonet course, physical training, testing mortar battery and machine gun firing.

The visitors devoted five of the 21 days they will be in the U.S. to their stay at Fort Benning. They left the post April 18.

Capt. Angelo J. Balafas, assigned to the School Brigade, and Capt. John C. Boyler, Infantry School Staff Department, were the project officers.

German Mourns Gyroing Sp3, Good Neighbor

WUERZBURG, Germany—A German landlady in Wuerzburg praised a 10th Division soldier here recently as an "exemplary kind, and helpful" citizen of the German community.

The entire family of Josef Schmitt was made sad when Sp3 Robert Murray had been in Wuerzburg.

He wrote, "when my son met with an accident, a fractured leg, Murray helped energetically with the transportation in ice and snow and made his car available. Soldier Murray has proven his outstanding human behavior. My family and I are sorry to see Bob go."

Class Hears Grad. Speech By Gen. Bell

Approximately 170 students in the class received certificates at the 10 a.m. ceremony in the Main Officers' Mess.

The speaker was honored with an official luncheon at the Main Officers' Mess following the graduation. Brig. Gen. John F. Bugles, Infantry School commandant, was host for the occasion.

Gen. Bell is a 1927 graduate of the Infantry School at West Point, N. Y. He completed The Infantry School's company officers course in 1931.

A native of Florida, the 54-year-old officer has an outstanding combat record. His decorations include the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

M-Sgt. Standish Designs Joint Wall-Foot Locker

A "new look" in the form of a newly designed piece of furniture for the soldier living in barracks is the item which a School Brigade soldier, M-Sgt. Albert Standish, chief accountant for the Brigade's Budget Section, is a combination wall and footlocker.

According to those who have seen the pilot model, the creation makes obsolete the present issue of two wall lockers and the standard footlocker, yet gives more room for issue items of clothing as well as civilian attire.

The idea for this new item is a long-time dream of Sgt.

Standish's, but it was only last February that he began the construction of his full scale plywood model which cost him $20.

He says that "I have had estimates made as to what the combination would cost made of steel when built on a mass production basis, and have been told it would run $45. The cost to the government for the present three-piece set is $35.50—quite a saving for the taxpayer."

Sgt. Standish says of his creation: "I expect no personal gain—but do hope it will be adopted as standard issue for all barracks-living personnel."

Wives Plan Bake Sale

Officers' wives of the Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department held their monthly luncheon April 17 in the Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Mess at Fort Benning.

During the business session, with Mrs. John J. Pavlik presiding, plans were formulated for the departmental wives' bake sale, April 30 at the School Brigade.

Madame Jeanne Elvington and James B. Colson Jr. were hostesses for the occasion.

"April Showers" was the theme of the decorative motif. Centering the banquet table was an arrangement of white, pink and white springdrops. Festoons of ivy and anemones, interspersed with colored umbrellas in many hues, completed the table decoration. Gift sets flanked the entrance as arranged in wicker baskets. Mrs. Jerome J. Corcoran was awarded the centerpiece as the door prize. Mrs. Ed W. Smith had as her guest her mother, Mrs. F. Johnston of Memphis, Tenn.

BAD CHANGE

While Sponsors Away Dependents Eligible For Services at Post

Dependents of military personnel who are residing in the vicinity of Fort Benning while their sponsors are on duty elsewhere are eligible to receive a variety of services at The Infantry Center.

The Reception Branch of The Infantry Center Troop Command in Bldg. 5 issues the Uniformed Services Uniformed and Privilege Card. Commissionary privileges are available upon presentation of this card.

The Reception Branch also guides the dependents to the appropriate agency for assistance or information concerning such subjects as shipment of household goods, passport, citizenship papers and medical care.

Legal assistance and counsel may be obtained at the State Judge Advocate's Office. All chaplains' services, including counseling, religious services and Sunday Schools, assistance with problems concerning Emergency Relief and in case of death and contact with the Ministerial Alliance in the area are available upon request at the Chaplains Section.

American Red Cross assistance includes counsel in personal and family problems; guidance with reporting and communications between families and servicemen; information concerning federal and state legislation and regulations of allotments, allowances, insurance, civil relief and other benefits; referral service, through which applicants to the Red Cross may be informed or assisted in the utilization of other resources, and financial assistance for emergency basic maintenance and other emergency needs.

Post tags are issued by the Vehicle Registration Office of the Provost Marshal's Section. The PM Section also dispenses services of insurance for privately owned vehicles and counsel relative to military policy.

The Army Emergency Relief Office provides emergency financial assistance for dependents of the sponsor.

Dependents desiring financial aid should apply direct to the AER Office in Bldg. 5, Approval of sponsor must be obtained and an immediate emergency request.

A notary public is available in the Personal Affairs Office of the Adjutant General's Section in Bldg. 5. The Personal Affairs Office also periodically furnishes advice to next of kin of deceased Army personnel.

IF YOU ARE INELIGIBLE FOR NSLI

Let us tell you how you can still apply for old line legal reserve life insurance similar to your old GI insurance. If you are under age 45 and good health, you may qualify usually without physical examination. For the same basic low NSLI rates charged by the Government during World War II (slightly higher rates for older ages).

Tear out this ad and mail it today with your name, address, occupation and date of birth to Life Insurance Co., Dept. 8A, San Antonio, Tex.

SHORT TIMERS NOTE
More than ever before, the Army today is urging promising young men and women to become Department of the Army Civilian Employees through the Co-operative Training Program. Conducted in cooperation with civilian colleges, this program is a work-study plan in which engineering and science students alternately study at college and work in Army civilian jobs. Students are paid for their work, and on graduation are offered beginning positions at the GS-5 Civil Service level. Ask your local Civilian Personnel Director for details.

Callaway Gardens Slates Spring Fashion Festival

One of the years' top fashion events, the Spring Fashion Festival of the Ida Cason Callaway Gardens, will take place April 27. Gardens Director Howard H. Callaway announced today.

The theme of the event, one of a series consisting over 100 "Welcome to Spring" in "Fun in the Sun". Two separate shows, one at Robin Lake Beach at 2 p.m. and another at the Gardens Clubhouse at 7 p.m., will feature beach and sunwear fashions, 1958 version.

For those who think they've seen everything, Fashion Coordinator Betty Shackleton, of Davison in Atlanta, who is in charge of the Show, reveals that "The Sack" has even invaded the bathing suit field. "Several models will be wearing the sack-like bathing suits and beach wear," Mrs. Shackleton said. She also revealed an admission, however, that somewhat skimpy versions would probably remain popular.

Weeks of planning and hectic last-minute transporting of models and fashions, by truck and train, will precede the Fashion Director, Callaway said. The public is cordially invited.

Musical Program Given By Ladies Choral Group

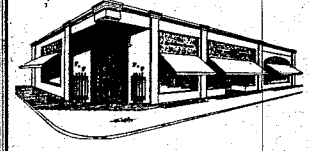

The choral group of the Women's Club of Fort Benning presented a program of musical comedy and light opera selections April 22.

The program included "Getting to Know You" from "The King and I" by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein; "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier" by Oscar Straus; "Almost Like Being in Love" from "Brigadoon" by Al J. Ayler and Frederick Loewe; "I Could Have Danced All Night" from "My Fair Lady" also by Rodgers and Hammerstein; "A Grand Night for Singing" by Rodgers and Hammerstein from the motion picture "State Fair" and "Wait for Two" from "No, No, Nanette" by Irving Caesar and Vincent Youmans.

Antics Threaten Right to Ride Bus

This week I plan to depart from my usual line of news to do a little preaching. It seems that the behavior on the high school buses in this town is to be desired. Our parents and superiors seem to be quite alarmed over this situation and with good reason.

You "cut-ups" ought to realize all the trouble you're causing. How would you like it if you had to pay to ride the bus to school? What if you had to wait for an hour while you would be reluctant to take advantage of your bus privileges.

The army has a contract with Howard Bus Lines to take us to and from school. Now it seems to me that this is quite an ordinary run. You would think that the bus driver could safely drive a bus without any trouble at all. After all these students are teen-agers, young adults I have had one question: Why doesn't this particular group act like "young adults"? I'm not referring to any

ISTC Nips 826th In Season Opener

An opening night baseball crowd at Fort Benning, including Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Fort Benning commanding general who tossed out the traditional first ball, witnessed the Infantry Center Troop Command's 10-5 drubbing of the 826th Tank Battalion under the lights at Gowdy Field last week.

In the contests during the week, the 54th Medics edged the 14th Infantry 3-1, while the 151st Engineers won over the 29th Infantry.

Gargallo Wins
Big Al Gargallo was the big man in the opener, pitching and slugging the victors to their decisive win. Except for a seventh inning slump on the mound, Gargallo was the complete master of the situation. With a 10-1 lead in that frame, he faltered slightly and was marred for four tallies.

Gargallo, along with his battery mate Jim Stewart, collected the big hits during the evening, both being home runs. Stewart's was a first inning blast, following a base on balls. The series ended at 10-5 when never lost by the Troop Command team.

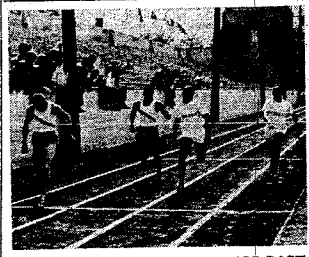

Bernard Losses
In the league's second contest of the year, John Allendorf of the 54th Medics marched the 14th Infantry club 9-1 at Gowdy Field, keeping a fine mound effort turned in by John Bernard of the losing team.

Fanning 15 men along the route, Allendorf surrendered four hits, and the one run yielded was of the unassisted variety. The 54th Medics pushed across all three tallies in the first two frames, and coasted the remainder of the way behind the stout mound work of Allendorf.

The first two scores came when their sacker Will Thompson walked and was followed by Tony Harris' home hit. Crover "Deacon" Jones kept the rally going with another hit, scoring Thompson. Harris scored on a sacrifice play.

Catcher Johnny Trombino scored the fourth tally in the second frame, banking a single, advancing on a sacrifice and some faulty 14th Infantry defense.

Uncleared Ban
The 14th's unearned run came when Doug Walstead reached base on a pair of errors, and scored on Russell Moley's single. Allendorf had his last hit for a 2-3 inning before yielding a single to Wake Forest star over 50

Beck, Geller Big Winners

Fort Benning Defeats Tuskegee Tracksters

Fort Benning track and field athletes gave another fine display of their talents as they defeated Tuskegee (Ala.) last night last week end at Doughboy Stadium.

Again, it was Jerry Beck and Henri Geller making the big noise on the clinders. Former Houston U. star Beck coasted home in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, while Geller scored wins in the mile and 880-yard runs. Both men were on the winning relay teams, Beck in the 400-yard effort and Geller in the mile relay.

Beck's 100-yard victory was taken in 9.9 seconds, and he had honors in the 220-yard dash in 22 seconds, while the 880-yard time was 2 minutes 4 seconds.

Javelin expert Jack Ladner had his best day of the season, throwing the instrument 194 feet, 6 inches. The former Wake Forest star over 50

Charlie Quinn Deer Committing Hari-kari at Post

Three buck deer have been killed at night by motor vehicles on reservation roads in the past three weeks. Each of them crashed into vehicles during the dark hours, apparently being startled while feeding on fresh grass shoots along recently clipped roadsides.

Accidents Must Be Reported

The movements of a deer at such time are harder to predict than the outcome of a cross country race at Alcatraz and are a puzzle to biologists. At any rate, deer continue to commit hari-kari at a very high rate because of this trait which causes them to crash into moving vehicles. It is understood by everyone that such incidents are practically impossible to avoid but the point that we'd like to make is this, any such contact with a deer, no matter how slight, should be reported to the Military Police as soon as possible after the occurrence.

Action will be taken immediately to track down a possibly badly injured and suffering animal. Too, State Game officials concur in the use of this way. So, when driving on post at night, use all caution if you see deer on the roadsides. You may eliminate the chances of a dead deer, a badly damaged car and very possible injury to yourself.

Bird, Trout Reports Wanted

Again on reporting, now that the Spring Gobbler season is over, hunters are requested to make reports of birds killed, and the areas in which they were taken, to the Fish and Game Maintenance association, FT 93125. Reports are also desired on trout taken from Pine Knot Creek. Your cooperation on both these points will assist in the formation of future restocking programs.

Tickets for the annual barbecue and attendance prizes are going at a pretty good clip. Apparently there are more than a few Benningites who hope to put their own craft into the files of the Upatoi Navy with no lateral transfer involved.

This week the column tilts its print in salute to ten-year-old Mike Kunzig, son of Col. and Mrs. Henry B. Kunzig of Austin Loop. Mike downed a 20 pound gobbler, perhaps the biggest of the seven birds taken since the Spring hunting season. In previous hunting trips with his Dad, Mike had provoked up rabbits, quail and dove... which proves that Mike really knows his stuff.

3rd-A Rifle, Pistol Matches Open April 21 at Fort Benning Ranges

Lowering skies and intermittent showers failed to deter the opening of the 1958 Third Army Rifle and Pistol Matches April 21.

The matches were officially opened at ceremonies at which over 500 shooters from nine posts, three divisions and seven reserve areas within Third Army were greeted by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, commanding general of the Infantry Center.

Gen. Ruggles extended best wishes of Third Army Commanding General Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, a successful week of competition. Upon the completion of his address, the general then donned the shooting jacket, and fired a shot from a service rifle on the 200-yard firing point.

Army Fighter Seen As Patterson's foe

FL Sill, Okla. (APFS)—Roy Harris, who now boasts as the logical contender for Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight crown, is currently involved in solving combat methods of another type here.

The fighting school teacher from Cut and Shoot, Texas, undetected in 22 professional fights, is currently practicing up his last months of Army service as assistant executive officer of B Btry, 62nd FA Co. A lieutenant, he is due to be released May 15.

Koer in Training
Although most of his time is consumed by Army duty and study, he has kept up a training schedule that will enable him to return to fighting status shortly after his discharge.

"Of course, it will take me a little time to be ready for a big fight," remarked the contender. "and I'd want at least two regular bouts or exhibitions before I'd be ready to go after a champion. I'll be ready for him then."

"In the Ring Magazine" April ratings, Harris is listed third, just behind Eddie Machen and Zora Folley. The recent 12-round draw fought by these two moves Harris up in to the picture stronger than ever, however.

NBA OKS Best
Last month the National Boxing Association sanctioned a championship fight between Harris and Patterson for this summer in Texas, probably Houston. However, the association must sell the idea to Patterson's recalcitrant manager, Gus D'Amato, and the World Boxing Committee before the fight can be held.

Harris, who will be 25 in June, won 10 of his 22 fights by knockouts. His last victory came at the expense of German heavyweight champion Willie Brezmond in October at Houston, Texas. Other "name" heavyweights to fall before Harris (B) were Frankie Pastore, Bob Baker and Charles Moran.

A graduate of Sam Houston State College, Harris teaches South and fifth grades in a rural school near Cut and Shoot when not fighting.

Andrew Range

The spot was the signal for the exposing of all targets excepting that which had been lettered in the message: 1958—WZC-COME THIRD ARMY SHOOTERS—1958.

Immediately after the completion of the ceremonies, the first rifle and pistol shooters took their positions at the firing lines of Infantry Center ranges, and the week-long matches were underway.

Matches Stated
A total of 15 rifle matches and 23 pistol matches are scheduled to be fired in the five-day session in which the Third Army Rifle and Pistol Team Championships will be decided as well as individual crowns.

Col. Fred J. Perry D. Swindler, Lakeland, Fla., is officiating referee.

Focal point of the 1958 competition for the participating riflemen is the Third Army Commander's Championship Rifle Team Match to be fired on April 25. The trophy is now in possession of the 187th Infantry, 2d Infantry Division, Fort Bragg, N. C.

Friday will also see the firing of the Third Army Commander's Pistol Team Championship now held by the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky.

PISTOL COMPETITION

... Pistolshooters from Third Army are shown taking their first shots during the Third Army Pistol Matches underway at Fort Benning this week. Both team championships and individual titles will be decided in the week-long competition which opened April 21.

Thank You for Continuing our sacker Jack Bryant. Bernard, in pitching the distance for the losers, hurled five wild pitches, and retiring nine men on strikeouts.

Breaking loose with a six-run inning, the Engineers' L. O. Y. Danper and the 29th's Virgil Fowler had the Engineers on top 1-0 before the half-inning. In the top half of the wild and woolly seventh inning, the Engineers' Danper scored home plate, but the eventual winners doubled their lead, seventh frame output, scoring six times.

An additional run in the eighth frame, the Engineer's lead the contest, although the 29th indicated once in the top of the ninth and had men on second and third with none out, before relief burier, Bill Lester, ended the contest in abrupt fashion with some stout pitching.

Geller Defends Three Benning Track Titles

For the second consecutive year, track star Henri Geller is setting the Fort Benning circuiters afire in distance runs.

Former, Oklahoma AAM track and cross-country ace, Geller is the defending meet champion in the 880-yard, one-mile and three-mile runs.

A typical figure of the usual lanky distance runner, Geller is comparatively compact with his 5-foot 9-inch, 162-pound frame. Representing the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, the Dixie, Okla., native already has grabbed two first places, and one first in the 880-yard, two-mile and three-mile events.

While at Oklahoma AAM, the 24-year-old athlete was a member of the national championship cross-country team in 1954 and in 1955 was rated as the fourth fastest in the field and on the collegiate level. He continued his demonstration of mastering all aspects of athletics, when he gained a spot on the 30th Infantry's football squad, before he was curtailed from competition because of a leg injury.

Track Best Sport. But it has been the circuiters where Geller has accumulated the most trophies and grabbed the most headlines. He has reached the peak of his successful career when he won the 3,000-meter race at the 1953 Texas Relays in Austin.

However, Geller's self-imposed rigid training schedule al-lowers for an eye-increasing improvement in his ability. A trackman, it is asserted, often does not reach his peak until in his mid 20's because the training and development is considered of prime importance in the distance event.

While in college, Geller majored in personnel management and became affiliated with the Crane Carrier Corp., following his graduation from Oklahoma AAM. While an undergraduate, he also became a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. He is currently a graduate, he also became affiliated with the former Beverly Hippie, who plays a small part in helping Henri's track program. Track star Geller insists that his wife's continual encouragement, prodding and helping with his diet, is largely responsible for his continued track success.

Brigade Has Top Hoopster

An officer, who has made a habit of playing with championship basketball teams during his scholastic and military careers is now a member of the School Brigade's Third Company, First Student Battalion.

1st Lt. Charles F. Kraak has been a member of the Illinois State Champions of 1950, the National (NCAA) College Champions of 1953 (while attending the University of Indiana), and was picked as a member of the victorious United States Military team which competed against a large international field in Istanbul, Turkey, in April, 1957.

As a forward, the six foot four inch star sparked the team to Big Ten Championships in '53 and '54, and the National (NCAA) Championship in 1953. That year the Hoosiers ran up a brilliant 30-3 record and played the University of Kansas in the finals of the tournament. Kraak scored 27 points in the title game as Indiana won by the slim score of 63-61. Lt. Kraak won regional honors that year, went on a barnstorming tour with the team, and was offered a professional basketball contract with the Fort Wayne Pistons after his senior year.

Lt. Kraak's service basketball career has been one of continued championship performances. Entering the Army in 1955, Kraak was immediately sent to Germany where he played on the Northern Area Command Team while assigned to the 799th Military Police Battalion. That year his team posted an impressive 39-0 record and won the U. S. Army Area Championships.

Kraak gained further recognition when he was named to the C.I.S.M. (Council International Sports Militaire) All Star team representing all United States forces in a tournament held in Istanbul, Turkey. Only the stars of the game were invited—among them were Frank Selvy of the Minneapolis Lakers and Bob Sparrow of the New York Knickerbockers—and the schedule was made up with an international cast. Teams from France, Turkey, and Iran felt before the American seated, and Lt. Kraak led his squad to a brilliant 30-3 record and played the University of Kansas in the finals of the tournament. Kraak scored 27 points in the title game as Indiana won by the slim score of 63-61. Lt. Kraak won regional honors that year, went on a barnstorming tour with the team, and was offered a professional basketball contract with the Fort Wayne Pistons after his senior year.

Rams Expect Pfc Pilarski To Cover 3d

"Playing the 'hot corner' for the USA's 'Rams' baseball team this season will be an evaluation specialist for Head Coach, The School Brigade. He is Pfc Richard J. Pilarski, who gained most of his experience playing sandlot ball in his hometown of Detroit, Mich.

Coach of the "Rams", Sgt. Joe C. Smith of the Infantry School Detachment, says of Pilarski: "He looks great on third. He has real good hands, a good strong arm, and is a good fielder. He'll see plenty of action this season."

Pilarski's participation in athletics began as a high school student at the University of Detroit High School, Detroit, Mich., where he earned two letters on the football team as a quarterback and one letter on the baseball team as a shortstop. He was made honorable and All-State teams. He was graduated with honors and had the lead in his senior class play.

Pilarski enrolled at the University of Detroit on a $1,000 scholarship to cover a four year period granted by the Management Club of the Chrysler Corporation. He won a varsity letter on the baseball team his sophomore year, playing both third base and outfield.

After two and one-half years of college, Pilarski quit college to enter the business world as an engineering trainee for the Johnson Service Company of Detroit, but was drafted into the Army in February, 1957.

Upon completion of a tour of military duty, he will return to the University of Detroit on the remainder of his Chrysler scholarship and work towards a degree in engineering.

Lost Sight in Korean Combat Blinded Pro Golfer Swaps Fairways for Typewriter

Blinded by enemy fire in Korea, ex-professional golfer Ken Crowley has substituted his bag of clubs for a typewriter and is a success in his new venture.

Realizing he could not return to the pro golf circuit to earn his living, Crowley thought he would write a book about his Korean experiences. The Veterans Administration supplied him with a typewriter and he went to work.

"I soon learned I couldn't write," he said, "but I did pick up some skill at typing."

That was the key to his rehabilitation. The VA enrolled him in the Kansas City Business College under the vocational rehabilitation act for the seriously disabled. He progressed rapidly and soon passed the civil service exam.

Crowley joined the Kansas City, Va. Hospital's transcription pool and now turns out 30,000 words of neatly typed material each week after only two months on the job. He works with a dictating machine. Most of his transcripts are in the difficult field of medical reports.

The challenge of his new field stimulates Crowley and he says, "I can scarcely wait to go to work every day." (APPS)

Post Visited By Austrians

The Austrian Army's chief of training, Col. Erich Witzek, visited Fort Benning April 21 for briefings on the latest Infantry School tactics and techniques.

In his party were Col. Josef Hek and Major Anton Fuhrenberg of the Austrian Army. The Allied officers were presented Infantry School "Follow Me" pins by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, the school's assistant commandant. They were guests of honor at an official luncheon April 22 in the Main Officers Mess.

Among the demonstrations the visitors witnessed were Ranger and airborne training, physical conditioning, drill without arms, officer candidate instruction, and a rifle platoon in night defense. They also visited the Main Weapons Pool and Training Aids Section and were oriented on training facilities of the Infantry School Staff Department.

Capt. Jerome M. McCabe of the Infantry School's Operations Office was the project officer.

But Familiar to Few Pentathlon Introduced in 1912 Olympic Games

FORT HOUSTON, Texas (APPS) — "It's a man can run two miles in 16 minutes and swim in four minutes and 20 seconds, we can teach him the rest."

These are the words of Major John Russell, coach of the U.S. Modern Pentathlon team. With these qualifications in mind, you may ask what the coach means by "the rest."

He is referring to the remaining three events that make up the pentathlon competition. The word itself is of Greek origin and means "five (pent) contests (athlon)." In Olympic competition the events are: shooting — pistol or revolver (30 shots at 25 meters); fencing — with epee (duel, run (4,000 meters); riding (5,000 meters cross-country); and swimming (300 meters free style).

Although the pentathlon has been an Olympic event for 46 years, few people are familiar with it. All of the events in the contest are classed as minor sports in the U.S. and a team is composed of only four athletes (three regulars and an alternate).

The Modern Pentathlon, for example, is a combination of a Diur model wares slatogrey plumes on her neck and has the dignity of a debutante. She keeps a swathe shape only by eating non-fatting foods—apples and small snacks. "It just shows you can never tell about a woman," says Rank Organization star Michael Craig. "She" is a crested crane—one of the animals stepping before the Rank Organization camera in the Valley of a Thousand Hills in Natal, Africa, where "The King of Night" is being filmed.

Post Sets Annual Tennis Tournament During May

The annual Officers' Spring Tennis Tournament will be held next month at the Coe, Newguard Tennis Courts, Main Officers' Open Mess at Fort Benning.

The tournament will be conducted May 17 and 18 with semifinals and final rounds to be played May 24 and 25. The championship finals will be held May 25 at 2 p.m.

Events scheduled following classes: men's singles, men's doubles and women's singles.

The consolation tournament will be held for the first round losers and trophies will be awarded in all classes. There will be no entrance fee. Officers and their wives are invited to register now at the Tennis Post Club.

Chuck Evert, tennis professional at Fort Benning, has completed plans for a Youth Tennis Clinic at the Main Officers' Mess Tennis Courts. The clinic will be conducted May 9, June 20, July 19, and August 15. The clinic will be from 4:30 to 8 a.m. It is open to all children nine years old and over. Each tennis clinic will cover all strokes of play and give a complete basic understanding of the game at each clinic. No registration required.

Brigadier to Drop Weights For Yale Medical School

Weight-lifting champion Brigadier General Patrick Cadigan takes on the role of a medical student at Yale University this fall, he will leave behind him a colorful history in both sports.

Lt. Cadigan, now a student in BIOC 12, 24th Company, The School Brigade, leaves his way to the New England Heavyweight Weightlifting and Wrestling Championships in 1956-58. He also told the Eastern Collegiate Heavyweight Championship at the same time. A 1957 graduate and former grid tackle at Boston College, the 265-pound officer received a bid from the Baltimore Colts professional football club last season. He declined the offer in order to enter medical school upon completing his active military duty this fall. His plus average has already gained him acceptance into Yale's medical school.

Lt. Cadigan in the 1956 Olympic weight lifting tryouts in Washington, D. C., and narrowly missed a berth on the United States Olympic team by finishing fourth where only the first two places were selected.

In explaining the various feats performed in weight lifting competition and the events which brought him the two titles, the Belmont, Mass. native pointed out that three basic maneuvers are used. Competitors hoist weights often as heavy as 300 pounds via the press, snatch, and clean and jerk lift techniques.

Lt. Cadigan is a former All-Scholastic high school football player in the Boston area, but did not enter the weight field until later. He became interested in the sport through several friends and worked out with Olympic champion Harold Conolly when he first took up the weights.

Army Captures Title In Interservice Bouts

BOLLING, APR. 23. — The Army captured the title of interservice boxing champion of the Armed Forces when Navy's Chick Brady from the destroyer Dauntless was unable to make the 132-pound weight in the final round of the final round. Army was on the way when Gerry Armstrong, Fort Bragg, N. C., flashing the best jab sent the Navy fighter to his knees. In the third round, Armstrong, wearing a razor-sharp Army m squad, after only the third match of the finals — when Donald Johnson won over Marine Frank Guell in the featherweight division — Army was assured of at least a tie for the team title.

This assurance was possible because of Army dominance in the previous nights preliminary fights, which cut the field of 40 boxers, 10 from each service, into half for the title bouts.

Of the 20 preliminaries, Army won nine, six were won by Marines, three by the Air Force and two by the Navy. As soon as two of the Army men won interservice crowns, a team victory would be in sight.

In the welterweight class, hard-punching Dick Turner scored the only TKO of the finals when he decked Marine Billy Hales. Turner, from Haysville, Kan., missed several opportunities before he got across the punch that ended it for the Quintero slugger. Referee Eddie LaFonde stopped the fight at 2:43 of the third round.

In the 166-pound, light-midweight class, it was Moosevelt Charles of Camp Lejeune, N. C., all the way over Eddie Kitchens, Ft. Riley, Kan. In defending his 187 title, Charles showed tremendous style in heavily outscoring the talented Riley fighter.

Larry Howard, Navy's only fighter to suit up for the finals, was defeated by speedy Dick Lay from USARFOR in the middleweight fight.

Lt. Gen. Clark Gets CONARC Position

WASHINGTON (APRS) — Lt. Gen. Bruce R. Clark, Commanding General of the Seventh Army in Germany, has been named to assume command of the Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va., on Aug. 1.

He will be replaced in Germany by Lt. Gen. Clyde D. Edgeman, Deputy Army Chief of Staff for Military Operations. At CONARC, Gen. Clark will replace Gen. Willard G. Wyman, who is scheduled to retire July 31.

Guardsmen Hear Gen. McGowan

Major Gen. Donald W. McGowan, chief of the Army Division of the National Guard Bureau, spoke at final exercises April 22 for the Infantry School's National Guard of Honor candidate class at Fort Benning.

The ceremony began at 8 p.m. in the Main Theater. The ceremony began at 8 p.m. in the Main Officers' Mess. The two-star general awarded certificates to 94 students of the nine-week course, which is a concentrated version of the school's 23-week OC course. The graduates will return to their units to be recommended for commissions as second lieutenants.

Program Given By German Scouts
 BAMBERG, Germany—Twenty two German Boy Scouts from Bamberg presented a "Trilling Program" recently before their American counterparts here.

The program, held in the Bamberg Service Club, was in honor of the Boy Scouts of America organization which helped to start and promote the scouting movement in Germany. During the evening a movie was viewed which portrayed the growth and development of the scouting program since it was started in Germany following the Second World War.

29th Inf. Picks Soldier-of-Week

Pfc Carl F. Polott was selected as soldier-of-the-week in the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry last week.

He is the second member of Mortar Battery in five weeks to receive the honor. The 19-year-old native of Northampton, Mass. joined the 29th Infantry last August.

He was selected on the basis of military courtesy and bearing, and a general military knowledge. He was placed on temporary duty with the battle group headquarters last week.

Pfc Polott assisted Col. Lloyd B. Ramsey, commanding officer of the Infantry School Troop Command, in an awards ceremony held at the 29th April 11.

Pfc Polott received his basic training at Fort Chaffee, Ark.

Medics Rebuilding Old Fish Pond Into Attractive Recreation Area

Volunteers from the 54th Medical Group have been hard at work on holidays and week ends since last November to develop an old fishing pond on the post as an attractive picnic and recreation area for Fort Benning men.

The plan to develop the site, which is located at Harry's Pond behind Burns Hill about two miles south of Eighth Division Road, originated with Col. Harry C. McClain, commanding officer of the 54th Medical Group. Col. McClain, who is a committee chairman of the Post Fish and Game Association, has proposed that other major commands develop similar recreation sites on the numerous post areas on the post.

The NCO

The 64th Engineer Company (Camouflage), often described as "small in numbers and big in accomplishments," received added laurels to its growing list of feats since arriving at Fort Benning from Fort Riley last June. Sgt. Norman K. Noble and Sp3 Marvin C. Sorey were selected top NCO and Engineer of the 151st Engineer Group for the month of April. Sgt. Noble and Sp3 Sorey represented the 64th in the Group competition for NCO and Engineer of the Month respectively.

Range Covered

Company A, 499th Engineer Battalion has been assigned the project of converting Red Cloud Range from a 1,000 inch to a 500 inch machine gun range. The project will consist of lengthening the firing line to provide for more firing points plus the construction of the 500 inch target line. It is anticipated that the project will be completed by May 1.

Annual Support

The 588th Engineer Company (Post Bridge) is looking forward to again supporting the 151st Engineer Group in the annual USAIC and NG summer training program here at Fort Benning.

Pfc Scores Night Firing Record With New Sight

A marksmanship record in night firing is believed to have been set by a Fort Benning rifleman during test firing exercises with the experimental "Multilite" gun sight. With the fifth round, his third hit, of an eight-round clip fired from an M 1 rifle, Pfc Glenn M. Lindsey hit a blinking, red flashlight bulb which was centered on a 20 by 40-inch target at a range of 300 yards during the testing of the available light-activated, dual-post, adjustable sight. The bulb indicated a simulated enemy weapon. The sight is being developed and evaluated for use with direct fire weapons at night under the Weapons Department's current improvements program at the Infantry School. On the following night, Lindsey, assigned to the department's Technique of Rifle Fire Committee, scored seven out of eight hits at the same target, same range. Multilite is designed to fill the Infantryman's need for a direct fire weapons sight, particularly for small arms, which will be effective under any degree of night illumination from starlight through full-moon and artificial illumination. This sight does not in any manner obscure targets or interfere with the fire's observation. Other results of Multilite in limited testing show it to be more effective than standard equipment and techniques presently available to the rifleman. Multilite promises to give the rifleman something to aim with and something to hold generate self-confidence at night to the point where he can say, "If I can see it, I can hit it," according to officials.

Airmen Excused From Donating In Blood Drives

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has excused all aircraft crewmen from participating in blood donor drives. Members of administrative staffs on flying status also will not be encouraged to donate blood except in emergency according to a new Army circular. "Study of aircraft accidents dictates that all factors which may adversely affect the fitness of aircrew members must be eliminated where possible," the Army said, adding that the ruling was made to keep Army flyers in peak condition in the interest of flying safety.

Army Retires C-119 Craft

The old familiar C-119, "Flying Boxcar," used by basic airborne students in jumps at Fort Benning is being retired. The Flying Boxcar used by the Airborne-Air Mobility Department of the Infantry School has been replaced by the U.S. Air Force C-130 "Hercules" with a capacity of 64 fully equipped paratroopers or fully equipped combat troops.

The Hercules was put into operation at Fort Benning this month. The veteran C-119 has been used by the basic airborne students for six years in major assault on the clay hills of Georgia. The veteran will now join its predecessors, the C-46, C-47 and the C-52 in retirement and leave its mission to the new Hercules, with its ability to land on or take off from unimproved fields, a feature which makes it adaptable for Army use. Many Army veterans will recall the Flying Boxcar as a plane used in numerous operations to transport troops in field exercises and tactical engagements.

GEN. WYMAN, L, WITH GEN. FREEMAN ON FT. MONROE VISIT New Post CG Arrives Today; CONARC Chief To Visit Benning For JCOC

JCOC Scheduled May 7-8; 85 Top Civilians to Attend

The Army phase of the 26th Joint Civilian Orientation Conference, where the fighting might of the modern U. S. Infantry will be on display for approximately 85 prominent civilians of the nation, will be held May 7 and 8 at Fort Benning. Staged to acquaint civilians with today's Pentomic Army, the JCOC demonstrations will be seen by business, industrial and cultural leaders from throughout the nation. Honor guests will arrive at Lawson Army Air Field at 3:45 p.m. May 7 and will be given an escort of troops from the Infantry Center honor guard unit. In the welcoming party will be Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., new commanding general of the Infantry Center and commander of the U. S. Army Infantry School, Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, and Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, Infantry School assistant commandant. The JCOC's will begin their day 8 Infantry with an orientation on Infantry School activities by Gen. Freeman and Gen. Larson in the Main Theater. Also on their schedule that day are demonstrations of airborne and Ranger training, newly developed Infantry weapons, amphibious assault and the reinforced rifle company in defense. The visitors will leave the post at 10:30 p.m. May 8. Gen. W. G. Wyman, commanding general of Continental Army Command, Fort Monro, Va., will be at Fort Benning to view the JCOC program. His party will include approximately 65 CONARC guests for the demonstrations. The CONARC visitors will arrive at Lawson Field between 8 and 9 p.m. May 7 and will leave Fort Benning at 9 a.m. May 9.

Army Makes Training Film At Benning

Filming of an Army training picture entitled "Locating Enemy Weapons" was completed at Fort Benning last week. Three units of the First Battalion, 28th Infantry and two batteries of the Second Field Artillery, 10th Artillery, were involved in production of the film. Here For 30 Days A filming crew from the Signal Corps Pictorial Center in New York City worked at Fort Benning for over 30 days to make the 26-minute training picture. The film illustrates the different methods of determining enemy weapon positions, dealing principally with crater analysis. Shooting locations on the reservation were in the areas of Co. A and Trail, Underwood Road, and Sunshine Road. Unsuitable weather permitted only 23 days of actual shooting. (Please See PHM, Page 2)

Army Approves Housing Layouts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has adopted standard plans for military housing incorporating many suggestions for improvement recommended by service families. The designs have evolved from units found to have the highest degree of acceptability to occupants in Army construction programs over the past two years. In most instances, the Army said, layouts for two and three bedroom homes have been adopted by the Office of the Chief of Engineers.

Welcome Slated For Gen. Freeman

Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., new commanding general of Fort Benning, will be welcomed to post with honor guard ceremonies May 2 at 8:30 a.m. at Chapel Field. Gen. Freeman, who has been serving as senior Army member of the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering, in Washington, D. C., is replacing Lt. Gen. Herbert R. Powell, who left the post April 15 to be deputy commanding general for Reserve Components of Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va. During the interim, Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, has been the commanding general.

Benning to Open Bonds Campaign

The Fort Benning participants in the 1958 nation-wide Individual Savings Bond campaigns will be conducted May 5-6. Preparations for the intensive bond drive are under way. Savings bond officers of the post's military units and civilian representatives of the general and special staff sections met April 23 at 10 a.m. in the headquarters building No. 1 for the first planning rally. The new post commander will receive a 15-minute salute from the honor guard battery and will troop the line with Capt. Myron E. Lee Jr., and LTC band will participate in the welcoming formation. The Infantry Center honor guard officers including the general staff, special staff and department directors of the Infantry School will comprise the official party. Also attending the ceremony will be Brig. Gen. Miller O. Perry, commanding general of 10th Division Artillery, and Brig. Gen. John E. Leary, commanding general of Third Infantry Division remaining elements at Fort Benning. Mrs. Freeman will be fettered at a coffee in the Main Officers Mess following the formation. Mrs. Ruggles will be hostess for the event. The CONARC visitors are expected to arrive at the post and 5 p.m. May 7 and will leave Fort Benning at 9 a.m. May 9. (Please See Freeman, Page 2)

Post Taking DA Survey Of Housing

A Department of the Army directed survey is being conducted at Fort Benning to determine long-range family housing needs for military personnel. The survey is being made under U.S. as part of an overall program to gather information concerning the adequacy of military housing, according to Col. Norman B. Edwards, acting chief of staff of the Infantry Center. A family housing questionnaire has been distributed to all major commands at the post and will be passed along to military personnel residing on the military reservation. Col. Edwards added that letters announcing the survey have been sent to the Columbia (Ga.) Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association. He called attention to the fact that the survey is being conducted at the direction of the Department of the Army to "reflect our present assets and our future requirements." The results of the survey must be submitted to Third Army headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga., by May 19. It is the policy of the Department of the Army to use military housing when adequate military housing is not available. Col. Edwards said, Department of the Army has set certain criteria which must be met before quarters can be approved as adequate, he pointed out. Copies of these criteria were distributed to Benning officers and in the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association.

YAC Announces Swim Schedule

Swimming schedule for Youth Activities Club was announced Tuesday. It is as follows: Mon., Wed. and Fri.: Swimming team practice, 4 p.m. Tuesday: Water ball try-outs. All girls between ages 13-19. Practice will be held at Bryant Wells Swimming Pool at 4 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday: Red Cross Junior and senior lifeguard classes will be held for both girls and boys, between ages 12-19, at Bryant Wells Swimming Pool at 4 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday: General swim for children of Benning. Starts at 9:11 a.m. Bryant Wells Swimming Pool.

FOLLOW ME PIN... Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, right, commanding of the Infantry School, presents an Infantry School "Follow Me" pin to Major Gen. Emilio Formich Remy de Turville, left, commanding general of Italy's "Avelino" Infantry Division, during the latter's three-day visit at Fort Benning.

Freeman

Thank You For Continuing Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. Gen. Freeman attended The Infantry School's 1932-1933 and took course in 1937-1938.

The two-star general was born in Manila, Philippines, Jan. 25, 1907, the son of an Army officer.

During World War II he served in numerous capacities in the newly formed China Burma India Theater, particularly as G-4 on the Chinese American combat staff of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell.

Gen. Marshall's Adviser In 1945, Gen. Freeman returned to the U. S. to be a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He attended the meetings of the Joint Chiefs in 1944 at London, England, and Quebec, Canada, as an adviser on Asia to Gen. George C. Marshall.

His next assignment was as commander of the 2nd Infantry Command, U. S. Forces Austria. In January, 1953, he was named chief assistant to the chief of staff, Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe and the following July began a two-year tour as deputy director of the Plans and Policies Division, Joint Staff of the commander-in-chief, U. S. European Command.

The 50-year-old officer commanded the Second Division, 7th Infantry Division, and later the Fourth Infantry Division at Fort Lewis for 16 months before assuming his duties with the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group in January, 1957.

Among his decorations are the Distinguished Service Cross Silver Star with Oak Leaf, Bronze Star Medal with "V", Purple Heart. He also wears the French Legion d'Honneur and the Brazilian Order of Merit.

Gen. and Mrs. Freeman have one daughter, Sewell, 17.

Post Speeds Ammo Probe

The cleanup campaign at Fort Benning of all types of discarded ammunition found in post areas is being continued in an accelerated safety effort.

The ammunition cleanup campaign to recover discarded exploded and unexploded ammunition is a continuous activity by post officials to prevent injury to personnel or property.

One phase of the ammunition cleanup campaign has been an ammunition safety lectures and demonstrations for Fort Benning school children to create awareness of the danger involved in playing with discarded ammunition.

Assisting in the current cleanup campaign on discarded ammunition are individual troop units which have been allocated specific areas to search for abandoned ammunition.

Only safe ammunition is being collected by these troops. Other types of ammunition found are being reported to the Infantry Center explosive disposal specialists for removal.

Committee Reports Conclude Meet Of Physical Conditioning Seminar

The final session of the first Army Physical Conditioning Seminar was held April 24, completing four days of lectures, conferences and demonstrations at Fort Benning.

More than 40 delegates from civilian agencies and major Army commands as well as representatives from the 1st Infantry Division Physical Fitness Corps and Air Force command members of the seminar's general committees submitted their reports for the group's approval.

The committees reporting were: The Nation in the Army's Progress Toward Fitness, Physical Fitness and Total Military Fitness, Physical Needs of the Modern Soldier, The Program for Fitness and The Evaluation of Physical Fitness.

Academic Subjects Dr. Duncan stated, "The people in general do not believe that fitness of our children and youth is a great problem and school administrators consider the academic subjects to be of far greater importance than a physical education."

and what level of physical fitness is needed under the Post-Seminar Concept. The greatest considered suitable means of measuring or appraising physical fitness, although constant attention must be maintained throughout the entire education program—grade one through college, he said.

Dr. Duncan stated that the main weakness of the school and college program in physical education is that it is available to only the gifted in many instances. He emphasized that athletics should be part of the education of all who attend school.

The Army Physical Conditioning Program, he said, "The big difference between the Army program and that of the schools seems that you are more successful in attaining your objectives and you realize more fully the value of total fitness to the soldier than we realize the importance to the citizen."

In conclusion, the educator West Virginia stated that progress is being made and there is some evidence that America will recognize that physical development is of equal importance with intellectual achievement.

Dr. Duncan stated, "The people in general do not believe that fitness of our children and youth is a great problem and school administrators consider the academic subjects to be of far greater importance than a physical education."

Brucker Describes Successful Missile

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Secretary of the Army Wilbur M. Brucker, speaking here on "Horizons of National Defense," outlined for members of the Union League Club his criteria for judging the success or failure of a big missile launching, saying there were several phases to be considered.

"I think you will agree that Army's big missile program looks pretty good," he commented.

He said he considered a missile successfully launched when it lifted off the pad, turned for a pre-set length of time and headed down the range in the proper direction without straying.

"The second phase," the Secretary explained, "depends on

OVER THE AIR

The regular schedule of radio broadcasts is laid out for this week with program types running the gamut, from news and information to music designed for listening as well as dancing.

In the music field, it's Benning Bandstand, taking to the airwaves Saturday afternoon at 5:45 p.m. over WPNX, and another completely new program for Sunday afternoon at 12:45 p.m. over WGBA. The music of course is by the Millaires, transcribed direct from the ballroom at the Main Officers Open Mess.

For news, you can keep abreast of the day's happenings by tuning to WRBL each evening at 10 p.m. for Benning News, and each weekend at 12:45 p.m. next Saturday. May complete wrap-up of the week's 10, on Channel 4.

Sfc Rosser Placed TDY To Unknown Soldier Rites

Ceremonies planned at Arlington National Cemetery this Memorial Day, May 31, will include the internment of unknown service members of World War I and Korea in their proper places beside the Unknown Soldier of World War I. In order that the highest honors be rendered these deceased, the Department of Defense has issued orders placing all active duty Medal of Honor winners on TDY in order to select body bearers from this group.

Among these placed on TDY is Sfc Ronald E. Rosser of the Infantry School's Airborne Air Mobility Department. Sfc Rosser, then corporal, was awarded the Medal of Honor for acts performed above and beyond the call of duty while a member of the 38th Infantry Regiment, Second Infantry Division.

On Jan. 12, 1952, while engaged in action as a 42 mortar forward observer at Punggi, Korea, in the Kumwha Valley section, Sfc Rosser was credited with personally killing 13 of the foe and, even though

Concert Sets Mahler Work

The recorded concert at the main Fort Benning Library May 6 at 7:30 p.m. will feature the "Symphony No. 1 in D Major" by Gustav Mahler.

Mahler's works show him to be a creative musician of genuine originality, who was inspired by a deep humanity, love of nature and an intense spiritual longing. His creative work was influenced by the question of man's destiny.

"All my works are anticipations of a future life," said Mahler.

The "Symphony No. 1" was composed in 1888 when Mahler was 28 years old. The work met with a storm of violent criticism from both the public and the critics. The work was condemned as a crime against the laws of nature and the realm of symphonic music. Today the genius of Mahler is beginning to be recognized.

This Symphony was recorded. Mahler wounded himself, he assisted in the evacuation of casualties.

Sfc Rosser has 11 years service, having entered the service Nov. 13, 1946, from Crooksville, Ohio. For the past two years he has been a member of the Air Movement and Aerial Delivery Committee, Airborne Air Mobility Department.

A Strange Springtime

Insects Might Be Only Atomic War Survivors

FT. SAM HUSTON, Texas (APPS)—If all animal life, including human beings, perished on this planet, only insects might be left on earth.

This theory, reading like a story straight from science fiction, is considered entirely possible by Lt. Col. Samuel D. Hill, Chief of the Entomology Division, Fourth Army Medical Observatory.

In the process of "tagging" wood ticks for identification by their biology, Col. Hill has discovered they can absorb as much as 60,000 roentgens without death.

He explained it normally takes from 450 to 500 roentgens to kill a human being or animal. A roentgen is a unit of radiation measurement.

Besides resisting radioactivity, many insects have stepped up their ability to break down poison molecules and render them harmless. Successive generations of some insects have increased their resistance to insecticides by 2,000 times.

Col. Hill pointed out that most insects, especially ants and the slow-growing species of the 17-year Cicada live underground and would have their own bomb shelters.

Parade and Reception Pay Honor To Departing Col. and Mrs. Tyler

Col. O. Z. Tyler Jr., former chief of staff of the Infantry Center, received signal honors from the Fort Benning and surrounding civilian communities at a farewell parade and reception staged April 26.

He left the post April 26 for Columbus for his devotion to duty and spirit in solving mutual problems, the citation stated.

Retreat Review
The Infantry Center honor guard company and band participated in the retreat review on Chapel Field at 2:30 p.m. April 25.

With Col. Tyler during the ceremonies was Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry Center commander, and other members of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

"He evidenced leadership and interest in the affairs of the community... and paid a major role in the maintenance of good military-civilian relations in the Columbus-Phenix City area," Reeves said.

The Citizens-Military Council resolution read in part:

Tact and Enthusiasm
"Col Tyler pre-eminently distinguished himself by his outstanding service as a member of the Municipal Relations Committee of the Citizens-Military Council... Through his exemplary leadership, tact and enthusiasm, he contributed substantially to the accomplishment of good military-civilian relations in the Columbus-Phenix City area."

At the time Col. Tyler was awarded resolutions of appreciation from the Columbus City Commission, Military Affairs Committee of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and the Citizens-Military Council of Columbus-Fort Benning-Phenix City.

During the parade the departing officer was presented an Infantry Center Certificate of Achievement by Gen. Ruggles.

Keen Intellect
The latter cited Col. Tyler for "dynamic leadership, keen intellect and a genuine interest in the advancement of teaching methods."

As chief of staff, "the citation continued, "he revealed an easy grasp of organizational problems and staff operations... With imagination, tact and a real appreciation for the importance of public relations in the Army, he helped in large measure to resolve amicably many of the complex problems which existed between this command and the leaders of the neighboring civilian communities."

Presented Scroll
Columbus Mayor B. E. Bag-

ler presented a scroll from the City Commission to Col. Tyler commending "his service to and cooperation with Commission authorities."

"He established for himself a position of admiration and respect with the citizens of Columbus for his devotion to duty and spirit" in solving mutual problems, the citation stated.

Commended For Service
T. G. Reeves, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, commended Col. Tyler for his service as a member of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Never have I known of a community where such a feeling of respect and mutual understanding has existed," he said. Adding his regret to be leaving Fort Benning, he declared "these have been some of the best years we've ever had."

Col. Tyler came to the post in 1955, and initially served as director of the Infantry School's Staff Department. He was named chief of staff the following May.

Final Farewell
A final farewell from Gen. and Mrs. Ruggles and key Fort Benning officers and their wives preceded the Tyler's departure for Columbus on Saturday morning. The Infantry Center band played for the occasion.

Col. Tyler's family will make his home in Jacksonville while he is overseas.

Mrs. Waldrop to Head Protestant Education

Mrs. John L. Waldrop is the new director of Protestant Christian Education at Fort Benning.

She replaces Mrs. Elizabeth DeMark who leaves Fort Benning with her husband for their new station in Germany with the Third Infantry Division.

A graduate of Georgia State College for Women in Milledgeville, Mrs. Waldrop is the wife of the late Dr. John Waldrop, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Columbus from October, 1952, until his death in April, 1957. During her 16 years as a pastor's wife, Mrs. Waldrop has served in Christian education work at the West End Baptist Church in Atlanta, Ga., and at the First Baptist Church in Columbus.

Major Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, commanding general of XX U. S. Army Corps Reserve, Fort Hayes, Ohio, spoke at graduation exercises for the Infantry School's associate company officers class No. 21 April 29.

Baptist Church in Columbus. A former teacher in the 66th (Ga.) High School and in the Columbus Junior High School, Mrs. Waldrop has four children, Sandra, 15, Rita, 13, John, 9, and David, 7.

Duties of the new director are comparable to those of director of Christian education in a large city church. Mrs. Waldrop will direct and coordinate activities of Fort Benning's Protestant Sunday School and serve as counselor for individual Protestant Sunday School on the post as requested. She also will be available for home-visiting and counseling on the problems of Christian education.

Fort Benning's Sunday School program includes classes for nursery through adult levels meeting at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday in the U.S. Army Hospital area. Bus transportation is available.

The director's office is in Sunday School Building No. 109, telephone FT 3-2104. Duty hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Redstone Arsenal Warns Amateurs To Act Safely

HUNTSVILLE, Ala.— Words of safety wisdom addressed to amateur rocketeers come from Major Gen. H. N. Tolley, commander of the Army's Redstone Arsenal here.

"Don't experiment with liquid fuels like liquid oxygen, nitric acid, and gasoline at all."

At the Arsenal development work is carried out behind concrete and steel barricades, with plenty of distance between rocket and experimental materials, and propellants are mixed by remote control in proper containers.

The mixing process performed by a would-be scientist can be dangerous.

"A couple of harmless drug store items like sugar and salt-peter become a deadly weapon when combined," Tolley warns. "Usually the simplest things make the worst projectiles and common black powder is the worst of all."

Science teachers whose students are undertaking a rocket-building program are encouraged to write: Safety Officer, Army Ballistic Missile Agency and Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Metastability a booklet stressing the safety aspects of rocket construction and firing is being prepared for distribution to rocket hobbyists requesting it.

"Whereas, Columbus has been honored in being selected as one of the key 'Share in America' cities throughout this country; and

"Whereas, this campaign will give every citizen the opportunity to share in the economic and military strength of our nation, and is a challenge to all Americans to mobilize the power of their behind our national drive for peace and prosperity; and

"Whereas, our nation is asking us to produce more, spend wisely, and save more in order to ensnare a strong economy at home and to deter aggression from hostile forces abroad; and

"Whereas, United States Savings Bonds are not only a safe investment, but their purchase at this time gives us an opportunity to set an example for all America, now

"Therefore, I, B. F. Register, Mayor of the City of Columbus, do hereby proclaim the week of May 5-10 to be Columbus' 'Share in America' week, and urge all citizens, all business establishments, and all schools to give their support to the U. S. Savings Bonds Program; to buy U. S. Savings Bonds and stamp themselves; and to urge their friends and neighbors to buy Savings Bonds.

Post Visited By Indiana Guard Reps.

Major Gen. Carl O. DeBard, commanding general of the Infantry School instructional activities, 38th Infantry Division, Indiana National Guard, and Brig. Gen. John W. McConnell, adjutant general of Indiana, arrived at Fort Benning April 27.

They conferred with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry School commandant, and were guests of honor at an official luncheon in the Main Officers' Mess April 28.

The Indiana visitors were briefed on the reorganized Infantry division's structure and tactics, Ranger and officer candidate instruction and the Department of Non-Resident Instruction, Grand Mobility and Communications Departments.

They also viewed demonstrations of small unit back forces, conduct of defense, new Infantry weapons and daylight firing by a squad in defense.

April 27 Gen. McConnell was host for a dinner in the Main Officers' Mess for the 15 Indiana National Guardsmen who are attending classes at the Infantry School.

The party left the post April 30.

Capt. Lawrence H. Bulawsky, Infantry School Weapons Department instructor, was the project officer for their visit.

Secretary McElroy Explains Plan To Revamp Defense Department

WASHINGTON (APPS) — An organization plan seeks no draft of legislation amending present statutes to reorganize the Defense Department was sent to Congress by the President April 16.

The bill carries no provisions relating to appropriation of funds to the Defense Department and follows the recommendations of President Eisenhower made in his April 2 reorganization message. New law is not required for many of the administrative actions the secretary of defense has been directed to take in reorganizing the levels of the military establishments.

The President's Pentagon re-

Unable to be present for the ceremony was Mrs. Benjamin Sutton, Alpha Chi Omega, who was selected to serve as treasurer.

White carnation corsages were presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. John D. Faldberg, and Mrs. Vassar.

Post Exchange Service Provided Army, Air Force Around World

The Fort Benning Post Exchange service is provided within the main post exchange with 20 retail branches, 11 snack bars, two cafeterias, three guest houses, three service stations and three beer gardens is a unit in the Army and Air Force exchange service.

In the U. S., the Army and Air Force Exchange Service consists of 179 exchanges, with 1,113 retail outlets, 289 cafeterias, 424 snack bars and 4 fountains, 442 various service outlets which include nearly 3,000 concessionaires operated by small local businessmen on military installations.

An individual exchange will vary in size from a small outlet serving an isolated radar or Nike site with a gross business of $1,000 to one the size of Fort Knox, Ky., which grosses approximately $10 million dollars. The size and scope of the Exchange service expands and contracts with the size of the Army and Air Force.

Worldwide
The Army and Air Force Exchange Service embraces the activities, personnel, property and nonappropriated funds through which the exchange service is provided within the Army and Air Force on a world-wide basis. The Army and Air Force Board of Directors is responsible for the administration of the Exchange service world-wide. He reports to the Board and is an executive member of the Board of Directors.

In executing these responsibilities the Board and the Chief of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service function through normal command channels. Commanders are directly responsible for efficient operations of their exchanges. The Chief of Army and Air Force exchange service has headquarters in New York City with five service centers located in Baltimore, Atlanta, Chicago, San Antonio and San Francisco which provide technical guidance and assistance to commanders.

Prices Uniform
Under existing policies, plans, programs and procedures together with staff visits and field offices is developed and announced by the Chief of The Army and Air Force Exchange Service acting for the Board of Directors.

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service is manned by civilian employees with Army and Air Force officers in executive control. The number of military personnel assigned to the Exchange service amounts to less than one percent of the total work force.

In the U. S. the exchange service employs 39,000 civilian employees, with 85 Army and 90 Air Force officers engaged in exchange work. Executive military control of the exchange service is accomplished by assignment of officer personnel to executive positions at top and intermediate levels of management.

Civilian employees of the Exchange system are paid from exchange funds and are not civil service employees. Leave, group insurance, separation pay, sick leave, retirement plan are provided exchange employees from exchange funds.

'Aggie Muster' Held At Benning April 21

The annual "Aggie Muster" of former students of Texas A & M College was held April 21 at the Justice Terrace banquet of the Main Officers' Open Mess at Fort Benning.

Approximately 50 Aggies and their wives attended the informal dinner and ceremony to carry on a tradition that is 55 years old this year.

A Muster is held each year by students of A & M to pay their respects to fellow Aggies who have passed on and as a humble tribute to the Texas who won their independence from Mexico at the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston 121 years ago.

This year's ceremony was one of more than 400 held by thousands of former students and friends of A & M over the world.

Lt. Col. Daniel B. Porter, Class of 1922, served as master of ceremonies for the evening's events. Others appearing on the program were Major W. F. Graves, 1945, Capt. Julian R. Sleeper, 1949, Lt. Roy E. Weisauer, 1955, and Lt. John Fisher, 1957.

Among the guests were Messdames Adrian L. Hoebek, Jack L. Treadwell, William E. Wyrick, Hugh A. MacDonald, William C. Hammill, John W. Fowler and Robert E. Medlin.

CLASS RECEPTION

Approximately 130 officers attended Lt. Robert G. Hartley and E. P. Pappas were co-chairmen of the reception.

Guests were Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, commanding general of Fort Benning, Lt. Col. John B. Zemin, commander of the Second Student Battalion, and Mrs. Zemin, and Capt. John W. Clarke, commander of the 23rd Company, and Mrs. Clarke.

The reception line committee for the affair included Lt. John E. Fisher, Donald E. Griffith and Pappas. The first committee was composed of Lt. William A. Drouse and James C. Milani, Lt. Roger Roman and Luther P. Dube were the courtesy patrol. Clockroom committee members were Lt. Randall A. Greenwalt and Terry E. Rowe, Jr., Lt. James P. Kovach was the announcer.

RESEARCH

More than 800 reserve officers this year are taking part in the United States Army Reserve's Research and Development Unit program. Soldiers Allowed Jumping for Fun

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Soldiers with a penchant for thrills now have the official blessing of the Army to take part in the exhilarating sport of parachute jumping.

Previously, regulations prohibited Army personnel from making parachute jumps except in connection with military duties or in emergencies.

Growth of the sport in Europe and the U. S. through organized clubs, which observe proper safety precautions, has led to easing the ban on jumping, the Army said.

U-1A UTILITY ARMY AIRPLANE, NICKNAMED OTTER Can Transport Combat Troops; Evacuate Wounded Personnel

'Know Your Army Aircraft'

Otter Latest Addition To Fixed-Wing Family

(This is the third in a series of articles on "Know Your Army Aircraft.")
The latest addition to the Army's fixed wing family is the U-1A utility airplane, nicknamed the Otter. It is a single engine, high wing, light transport aircraft, which is manufactured by the DeHavilland Aircraft Corporation of Toronto, Canada.

Findings Show Athletes Attain More Earnings

Powered by a 600 h.p. engine, it will cruise at 120 mph, with a maximum speed of 140 mph. At a normal cruising speed, it has a range of about 870 nautical miles, with a flying time of a little over seven hours. It is capable of carrying nine combat troops or 2,500 pounds of cargo, plus two crew members, pilot and copilot.

The Otter is capable of carrying six litters and two ambulatory patients, when called upon to evacuate wounded. The take off distance with a full load is 600 feet, with a landing distance of about 600 feet. Since the U-1A may be fitted with skis and landings on snow or water presents no problem.

The wing span is 58 feet and the over all length is 41 feet, 10 inches. Total weight is 8,000 pounds.

The U-1As are organized into Aviation Companies of which there are presently three in the Army. Each company is composed of 31 aircraft, and in one haul could conceivably

EAST LANSING, Mich. (APPS) —

A normal of Michigan State research scientists here has come to the conclusion that former athletes can expect to live just as long as their non-athletic brethren and attain greater economic prosperity.

Other findings by the scientists in their eight-year study of hundreds of athletes and non-athletes include:

Athletes are more prone to suffer violent ends, such as war deaths, accidents and suicides.

A larger proportion of former athletes smoke than is true of other graduates.

Track and basketball players appear to gain the most weight after graduation and football players the least.

Up to 45 years of age a large percentage of former college athletes than non-athletes participates in some sports activity. But after that age the percentage swings in favor of the non-athlete.

PFC PAT COLLINS Impressed Nixon

Nixon Liked Speech Skill Of TSB Pfc

A congratulatory letter from Vice President Richard M. Nixon assures the speaking ability of a School Brigade soldier. Recipient of the letter of congratulations is Pfc Patrick J. Collins, assigned to the Budgeting Section of the Property Office, The School Brigade.

It was as a graduating senior of Long Beach, Calif., City College, residing in a plant which designated him the outstanding graduate that Collins made a speech entitled "Influence of Young Men in Government of California" that brought him to the attention of Mr. Nixon.

There were approximately 250 people present for the occasion, including many dignitaries. The press published his speech, which he had composed, in the newspapers of various cities in the surrounding area and was spotted by the Vice President and resulted in the congratulatory letter commending Collins on both content of the speech and the manner of its presentation.

Collins, not the least bit abashed about his accomplishment, says that "after the word got out about the letter I was asked to speak before many boys' clubs, church groups, and civic organizations. As a pre-law student for three years at Long Beach City College and one year as a law student at the University of Southern California, I accepted all invitations in order to improve my speaking ability, a lawyer's must."

Immediately following his one year at USC, Collins was drafted into the Army. Upon completion of his service obligation, he will return to USC to pursue his law degree and upon graduation will practice law somewhere in California.

Collins says that his ultimate ambition is "to work in a Supermarket in Juvenet delinquency. I've always liked to work with kids and they need to be entertained at the street corners and alleys and encouraged to participate in the many forms of activities sponsored by various boys clubs."

CAPT. AIDEN GETS RA
Capt. Aiden T. Aiken, commanding officer 530th Field Artillery Battery (S1) Second Field Artillery Battalion (Rocket Howitzer), 190, Artillery, was sworn into the regular army by Capt. Kie G. Doty battalion adjutant. Capt. Aiken was graduated from the Advanced course of the Infantry School and received his regular army appointment for the artillery.

Decisions Involve Lives Gen. Eddy Stresses CO's Responsibilities

The tremendous responsibilities that accompany command are discussed by Lt. Gen. Eddy at (ret.) Manton S. Eddy at grand union ceremonies April 22 for the Infantry School officers advanced class.

"There is very little difference in the command of a unit from battle group through division, corps and army; it becomes largely a matter of perspective. You as a commander will be responsible for your unit's discipline, training and preparation of plans for tactical operations and the subsequent issuing of orders for carrying out these plans," Gen. Eddy said.

"You must realize that your decisions involve the lives of young men and the success or failure of the operation," he stressed.

The speaker noted that the prevailing attitude is that "action lies in the hope we may have neutralized itself."

"Yet today we find the world divided between Democracy and Communism—both sides armed to the teeth," he said. "That this struggle has remained a political one is due to a great extent to the Communists great respect for our potential and to the state of readiness of our military forces," Gen. Eddy pointed out.

"A very important factor in that state of readiness will always be the caliber of our military commanders," he added.

"Nothing points to the caliber of a commander more than the manner and ability with which he carries his responsibilities. Worry, like enthusiasm, is contagious. The commander who goes around with a long face will find he's commanding a pretty poor unit," the three-star general explained.

Gen. Eddy emphasized three "musts" for the successful commander—time to sleep, to think and to get out and see subordinate units.

"Decisions can be sound only when you get the proper amount of sleep. And during daylight hours, get out of your command post. You'll know what's going on in your units and the men will feel things can't be too bad if the old man is up there," he told the class.

"In the military, responsibility cannot be delegated, but work and authority very definitely can and must be delegated. It is the commander's function efficiently," Gen. Eddy stated.

"Some of the able men were removed from command in World War II for trying to be the chief of staff of a division and commander of units two and three echelons lower," he said.

The speaker brought out that "absolute confidence must exist between the commander and his chief of staff. The more they work together, the more the chief of staff must become imbued with the thinking of his commander."

and watch out not only in yourself but in subordinate commanders, for overcautiousness in battle. A commander can be overbold, but the man who leans toward boldness is the man who is going to be the more successful commander."

Gen. Eddy was introduced by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, assistant commander of The Infantry School.

Capt. James G. Boatner, son of West Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, Army provost marshal general, was honor graduate of the summer session of academic honors in the group was 1st Lt. Ronald W. Anderson.

Farewell to Gen. Hickey General Larsen Attends Fort Bragg Ceremonies

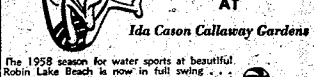

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, assistant commander of The Infantry School, attended a farewell ceremony at Fort Bragg, N. C., for Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, commanding general of Third Army, April 22.

Gen. Hickey retired April 30 at Fort McPherson, Ga., following more than 41 years' Army Service.

Gen. Larsen served as chief of staff XVIII Corps at Fort Bragg in 1952 when his three-star general was corps commander. He also was a regimental commander under Gen. Hickey with X Corps in the Philippines during World War II.

At Gen. Hickey's retirement ceremony April 30, Gen. Larson was commander of troops. More than 600 Fort Benning personnel participated in the formal tribute to the Third Army commander.

French Give TIS Course On Missiles

Two top French aviation officials presented an orientation on anti-tank guided missiles for key Infantry School personnel at Fort Benning April 24. The speakers were Major E. Daum, director of Nord Aviation Company, and Emile Staut, director of missiles for the Nord Company. They were accompanied by Brig. Gen. Jean Erice de Barry, French Army military attaché in Washington, D.C.

The visitors conferred with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles and Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School commander and assistant commandant, preceding their presentation. They were honored as official visitors of the school.

Used by Airborne Group Allied Students See Program On Tactical Field Unit's Job

Three Allied students from the Infantry School Advanced Course were on a demonstration on how an operational medical unit works in the field. The students were Major E. Daum, director of Nord Aviation Company, and Emile Staut, director of missiles for the Nord Company. They were accompanied by Brig. Gen. Jean Erice de Barry, French Army military attaché in Washington, D.C.

The modifications and some of the equipment in the field were explained to Lt. Col. Erwin Starkel of the Austrian Army; Lt. Col. N. Colas E. Ojeda of the Argentine Army, and Major Maria Zetto of the Italian Army by Col. Clyde M. Dillender Jr., 25 Commander, and Capt. John E. Stannard, Group S-3. Col. Dillender told the visitors that a primary concern in the field was communication. "This is the key to control. There must also be mental mobility, careful planning within the allotted time, and violent execution once a plan has been set up. These concepts are what we strive for in all our field operations."

Explains Details Capt. Stannard then explained in some detail the equipment and the actual procedures used by the 325th in the field. "Under the pentomic setup," he noted, "you will see that we have a great deal of common equipment and a lot of small transportation of the one-quarter and three-quarter ton variety; we make the most use of this equipment as is possible in all our operations."

In the field for the airborne assault phase, we are split into three command groups; these are flexible units each of which contains a command element, an S-2S element and a fire support coordination center element. In all our operations we like to play the Atomic Weapons technique. We, naturally, have aids that are our own; we have a field SOP which was drawn up for the group and we employ a coordinated anti-tank plan and reconnaissance plan, we also use a lot of techniques developed for armor in our signal system."

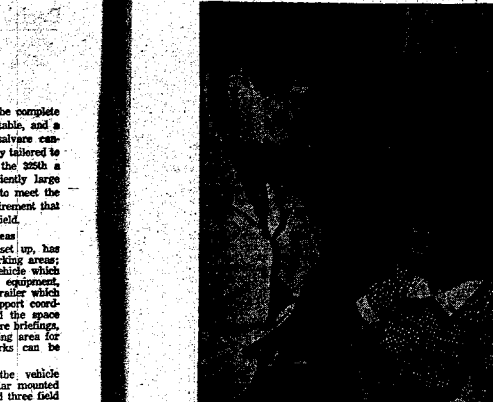

Verbal Orders "It is our usual practice to draw up an extensive operations order before a problem, case in the field, however, we operated on a basis that is almost entirely verbal. Written orders are done away with and saved for an occasional happen- ing to them."

A tour of the equipment employed by the 325th in field operations pointed up the use which the 325th had made of the equipment organic to them. The most striking innovation was the adaptation of a regular three-quarter ton truck and trailer into a battle group command post in the field. Built up sides that can be easily lowered, making the complete unit air transportable, and a tent made from salvare canvas that is specially tailored to the vehicle gives the 325th a mobile, yet sufficiently large area for working to meet the needs of any situation that comes up in the field.

Three Areas The van, fully set up, has three separate working areas; the body of the vehicle which contains commo equipment, the inside of the trailer which houses the fire support coordination center and the space under the tent where briefings, maps and a working area for draftsmen or clerks can be arranged.

The body of the vehicle contained a vehicular mounted PRC 10 Radio, and three field phones. The radio is able to handle a coordinated battle group net and to log in messages for a situation map. It operates both in message and as a temporary command post has been established.

A three-quarter ton truck also served as a net control station for the group, this is the responsible agency for logging in all messages. Equipped with a large 292 antenna it is a strong station that can always act as a relay when the companies are moving or when the CP is being displaced.

On May 1 Walter Reed to Mark 49th Anniversary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reed Army Medical Center, one of the outstanding centers of the health and well-being of Army personnel and benefactor of the nation's civilian population, celebrates its 49th birthday on May 1. Named after the Army major whose discoveries resulted in the virtual elimination of yellow fever, this medical center now includes an Army hospital, a medical research laboratory, and a dental laboratory as well as the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology.

Outstanding achievement CADET VISIT POST Thirty-four ROT cadets from Georgia Institute of Technology and University of Oklahoma received a two-day orientation on Fort Benning training facilities last week.

during its 49th year was the identification of the virus responsible for the Far East influenza epidemic, and the testing of a vaccine for the disease. Also, during this year, a technician designed a "Hobby horse Cassette holder" to be used in making X-rays of children, and three employees of the Army Prosthetics Research Laboratory developed and introduced a cosmetic glove. All of these devices, a spokesman said, will benefit civilians as well as Service personnel.

Army Tightens Reserve Service

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army is now requiring a longer tour of duty in the Ready Reserve for obligated prior servicemen who do not serve in National Guard or Army Reserve drill units after leaving active duty.

Under current law, all men who entered the active Army after August 9, 1955, acquired a six-year service obligation including a maximum requirement of five years to be spent on active duty and Ready Reserve status. The sixth year these individuals are transferred to Standby status.

York Celebrates 12th Birthday at Benning

York, the Army's most decorated dog in the Korean conflict, was given what might be his last birthday party April 28.

The 12-year-old scout dog is not expected to have many more birthdays. He is the equivalent of an 84-year-old man.

A Dozen Candies
Members of York's unit at Fort Benning, Ga., paid tribute to the celebrated canine with a large cake studded with a dozen candies. They also gave him a large beef bone and package of dog biscuits.

In Korea, York registered over 300 combat patrols and won a host of medals and citations. York's patrol was never fired upon first by the enemy.

Retired to 26th
The past year has been in retirement with the 26th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon. The platoon attached to the First Battle Group, 26th Infantry, is the only remaining unit of its type in the Army.

The proud-treat and black German Shepherd, somewhat small stature for his breed, appeared completely at ease before the birthday gathering.

Steady in a Crowd
His handler, Pfc Ronald A. Dugan, said: "The minute he gets in a crowd, York gets real proud and starts to strut."

Dugan has cared for York since last October, grooming and exercising him daily. As a retired war hero, York does not participate in any of the regular field exercises or VIP demonstrations staged by the 26th scout dog platoon.

Active in Korea
York was the most active U. S. Army dog in the Korean action. He arrived in Korea in June, 1951 and remained there until after fighting ceased. One of his handlers received the Silver Star for his actions.

Included in York's decorations were the Purple Heart and the Combat Infantryman's Badge. However, the Army came out with a policy prohibiting the awarding of official medals to animals. The policy was later relaxed enough to permit him to receive an award for Distinguished Service from the 25th Infantry Division on Jan. 26, 1953.

Good Spots
First Lt. Thomas J. O'Brien, commander of the dog platoon, said York generally is still in good spirits.

"Some days he's as playful as a puppy," Lt. O'Brien said. "However, he's showing a little weakness in his hind quarters, a sign of age creeping up on him. We don't think he'll have many more birthdays."

Four Retire In Ceremony At Lawson
Retirement ceremonies were staged April 24 at 4 p.m. at Lawson Army Airfield for four Fort Benning personnel.

Completing their military tours were Major Karl C. Lane, Infantry School Staff Department; Major Joseph H. Williams, Infantry School Ranger Regiment; and Captain James Evans, commander of the Fourth Helicopter Transportation Company, Lawson Army Airfield Command, and M-Sgt. George W. New, also of Lawson Field Command.

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larson, assistant commander of the Infantry School, was the reviewing officer.

The Third Helicopter Transportation Battalion participated in the formation under the command of Lt. Col. Gerald L. Hough.

FIRST BLOOD . . . Miss Janet Hilton and Miss Joan Satchler of the Red Cross Bloodmobile drew first blood from Sfc Jack Burkett and Sfc Clyde Brown, Hq. and Hq. Company, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, on their visit to the USAISPC area where the Bloodmobile collected 603 pints.

826th Leads Blood Drive

The 826th Tank Battalion donated 486 of 603 units of blood to the American Red Cross during a recent two-day bloodmobile visit to the post's Harman Church area.

Members of the group who assisted were Melvin Bess, Houghtaling, Stella Hankins, Marge Fitzpatrick, Marge Dunn, Cecilia Blisop, Renee Linton, Mary Spence, Marie Roster, Pam Carter, Betty Deleannis, Rose Earnshaw, Ray McCre, Madeline Hooback, Billie Jones and William Shoemaker.

Arthur Rossett of the American Red Cross, commented on results of last week's donations by stating: "This is one of the finest turnouts I have seen. They filled every bottle we brought out. Our monthly quota is 500 pints. We got 157 the first day and 406 the second day."

Mrs. Ann McClain, chairman of the Fort Benning Gray Ladies' blood program, stated that she was "very happy with the turnout of troops in donating blood and that it was gratifying to the Gray Ladies who donated their time to make the bloodmobile visit a success."

Says Secretary McElroy

U. S. Security Rests On Sound Decisions

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The future security of the nation rests on the "soundness" of decisions regarding changes in military command, demanded by the new dimensions of warfare, Defense Secretary McElroy has cautioned Capitol Hill.

Less than five years ago, he thought that the U.S. might have only 30 minutes to guard against a surprise attack, belonging to science fiction. Mr. McElroy said on April 22 at a House Armed Services Committee hearing on Defense reorganization.

"However, we live in a time when the speed of change is hard to believe," said the Secretary. Strategy must be based on new weapons and weapons systems "clearly visible over the horizon," Mr. McElroy told the committee.

"To tie-in with today's needs," Mr. McElroy asserted, "the proposed reorganization rests on the continued refinement of the unified command, he said, adding, "this is the device that will do it."

The plan does not contemplate merger of the services any more than the seven unified commands, which are in existence today, have tended to merge or destroy them, Mr. McElroy told the lawmakers.

WHITT HEADS HOME . . . Larry Whitt, right, School Brigade's center-fielder, rounds third base on a successful trip home. The Brigadiers, however, were not enough hardwood to win, as they dropped a game April 28 to the 54th Medical Group 12-3. Third sacker for the Medics is Bill Thompson.

ICTC, 54th Still Unbeaten In Post Baseball League

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG
Infantry Center Troop Command and 54th Medical Group remain unbeaten at the end of the second week of baseball play in the American League. Infantry Center Troop Command defeated 151st Engineers 6-3 last week. The 54th Medical Group, in turn, defeated the School Brigade 12-3 April 28.

ICTC 6 151ST 2
Big Alex Gargulio pitched his USAIC Troop Command club to their second straight league triumph, as he six hit the previously unbeaten 151st Engineers, 6-3.
Allowing four hits and the lone tally in the first two frames, Gargulio began in shaky fashion but ended strongly, retiring 15 of the last 6 men.

A first inning single by Engineers shortstop George Coley began the lone threat to Gargulio. Coley stole second and completed the circuit on a ground ball over second, hit by cleanup batter Bob Norman.

MEDICS 12 54TH 5
John Wagner pitched the 54th Medics to a 12-5 win on a four hitter. He was backed up by 11 hits by his teammates, including a grand slam home run by Tony Harris in the third inning over right center field. The Medics committed two errors.

4 Games Slated For Next Week

Four American League baseball contests are on tap for the next seven days at Fort Benning's Gowdy Field. Locking grips May 2 will be the School Brigade and the 151st Engineers. The "play ball" role will be at 7 p.m. starting time for all league arduous contests.

At 2 p.m. will pit the 54th Medics against the 29th Infantry. The 29th Tank Battalion will clash 5-5 with the 14th Infantry, while the 29th Infantry will host the School Brigade May 7.

82nd Dominates Third-A Matches

The 82nd Airborne Division's marksmen of Fort Bragg, N.C., dominated the Third Army Rifle and Pistol Matches, which ended April 25 after a highly successful week of small arms competition at Fort Benning.

Both Championships
The 82nd Airborne Division's riflemen and pistol shooters took both the individual and pistol team championships. Anchor men of the 82nd's pistol squad were M-Sgt. Herbert Roberts and Sfc. John H. Langle, who accounted for a major share of the individual Open Class awards.

Sgt. Roberts topped his individual accomplishments for the week by winning the Infantry School Championship Pistol 1958 Third Army Individual Pistol crown.

His shooting partner, Sgt. Langle, followed the new champion to take second place in the match. Roberts' winning score was 254-74, while Langle posted 254-81-X.

Spark Team
The two airborne hand gunners then went on to spark the 82nd "Blue" Team in winning the Third Army Commander's Pistol Team Championship. Captained by Cpt. James Duke, the Blue Team shot out 119-51X over the National Pistol Match course, a new record for the match.

The second place trophy was also won by the 82nd when its "Red" Team, captained by Sfc. Dalton R. McCluskey, posted a score three points short of that fired by the "Blue" Team—116-50-X.

On McAndrew Rifle Range
Sgt. Norman Skarpness of the 10th Infantry Rifle Team emerged as the 1958 Third Army Individual Rifle Champion. The "Mountaineer" rifleman posted the high score in the Grand Aggregate Alabama Rifle Match—966-611—an aggregate of scores shot in seven matches. The score will be entered in Third Army record books as a new mark. Runner-up to Skarpness was Fort Benning's M-Sgt. Peter Kuznar, member of the Fort Benning Rifle Team, who totaled 960-77.

Matching the efforts of his INDIVIDUAL RIFLE CHAMP . . . Sgt. Norman Skarpness grins upon being informed that he had won the Third Army Individual Rifle Championship fired at the Infantry Center April 24. The new rifle champion is a member of the 10th Infantry Division "Marksmanship Unit" at Fort Benning.

On May 5 YAC Schedules Season Opener

Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry Center commanding general, will host the 1958 Youth Activities Club baseball program under way at 5 p.m. May 5 by tossing the first ball at the opening game at Green Field Little League diamond.

The two opponents will be the 14th Airborne, coached by B. W. Hart, commander of the Doughty League, four teams in the Pony League and four girl softball teams. Each of these teams will participate in the opening ceremonies by having a representative dressed in their team uniform.

ISD Schedules Softball Opener

Infantry School Detachment softball season is scheduled to open May 5. Company A will meet Company E in the open at 6 p.m. May 5 on Henry Barracks softball field. Company C and Company F will play May 7. Company E will take on Company G May 9.

Fast Pfc Holds Rod Record

Fort Riley, Kan. (AFPS)—Pfc Michael Waters, a radio operator in the 19th Inf. here, apparently was aiming to capture the auto racing award market before he entered the Army.

Pfc. Waters, who has been racing his car for two years, holds 65 awards, including a hot rod speed record of 117.4 mph at a Bakersfield, Calif. track.

Charlie Quinn Turkeys Released For New Flocks

"We've been a little remiss in fish and game matters this week — the Third Army Rifle and Pistol Matches kept us going around like a mouse in a kettle drum."

A small point of interest to trout fishermen — a 26-pound brown trout has been caught up in Tennessee. The monster was 34 inches long and 24 inches in girth and might well beat the standing American record brownie which was taken up in Vermont on a hook tied to wrapping twine and an alder rod.

100 Turkeys Released
There are over 100 new turkeys on post as of now. They are birds which have just been released to make up new flocks in good turkey cover which has been empty until this time. Give them a few weeks to get acclimated and they'll be harder to find than volunteers for Sunday CQ. Right now, though, they still have a tendency to stick to the roads expecting to be tended and two of them have already been hit by vehicles. There's a lot of money represented in these new birds and the post was most fortunate in getting them. So we ask that you keep a wary eye out for them in your driving out in the wooded areas.

We've had no further reports on accidents involving them since we mentioned two such incidents and it'd be a fine thing if the new turkeys get accustomed to the woods before any more of them were hit. They'll have a rough enough time in learning to outwit the tricks of hungry motorists without having to worry about motor vehicles. The hen birds were happy to get out into the Benning cover and, even now, some of them could well be nesting. We haven't been lacking in birds but the newly acquired turkeys will be a shot in the arm to our flocks. With a little care and guarding, they should increase our chances of making a hit come next season.

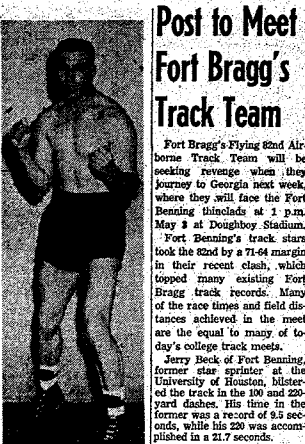

King's Pond Producing Catfish
King's Pond has been producing fish at a great clip for the past couple of weeks and some fine strings of bream and crappie have been taken home by happy anglers. Some good bass have also been hooked but we haven't heard of any lunkers being taken. The column still says that Mrs. Stineke's 11 pounder will stand up to the Benning record and will award a prize comparable to that given by the Fish and Game Maintenance Association for the largest bass of the month. That means that a fish heavier than 11 pounds, 4 ounces, will pay double.

The annual barbecue of the Fish and Game Maintenance Association is slated for May 10. That's a week from Saturday and for the benefit of new readers, we say that it's going to be a whing-ding. The barbecue will have chicken as the main dish and will go for 50 cents a plate. Tickets are available in all major commands and should be picked up before May 6 so that arrangements may be made of the amount of food which will be required.

Barbecue, Tournaments Sailed
The barbecue will be held at the recreational area on the south side of King's Pond long about 3 p.m. at the termination of the sliskish tournament.

Sliskish is the name applied to tournament bait, fly and spin casting and prizes of no little value are to be won by a number of skillful contestants.

A fishing tournament will take place, to commence immediately after midnight and continue until noon and some fine prizes are up for the best bass, crappie, bream, the largest string of bass, and so on. The contests are for Fish and Game Association members only so why not kill two birds with one stone — drop in and pick up a membership and get the complete dope on the contests at the same time. You don't have to be a member, though, to pick up tickets for the attendance prizes — topped by a haul of an aluminum boat and seven and one-half HP motor. A single 25-cent ticket might moor the boat to your very own foollocker. . . and that's it for this week.

SFC BENNY DROLL Fought Kid Matthews Boxers Clash In Columbus Aud. May 2nd

Two Fort Benning boxers will head a card of five bouts at Columbus Municipal Auditorium May 2 at 8:30 p.m. Benny Droll, most impressive Rademacher will be guest referee.

Battling Benny Droll, a Sfc. with the 36th Airborne Battle Group at the post supporting the Third Army Rifle and Pistol Matches, will clash with Joe Lassiter of Charlotte, S. C. in the main event, a meeting of middleweights.

Droll, boxing instructor of the 82nd Airborne Division, won a split decision over Lassiter two weeks ago. A veteran of 91 pro fights including 27 main events, Benny once fought Harry (Kid) Matthews 10 rounds, losing the decision.

In the wind-up, an eight-rounder, Benning's popular Sfc. Larry Jones, assigned to Special Services, will take on light heavyweight Tom Fields of Charlotte.

Two six-rounders and a four rounder will round out the auditorium card. Sgt. Eddie Margotta, a lightweight from the 29th Ordnance Battalion, will meet Charlotte's Ted Rippey. Cpl. Chuck McCrea, a light heavy from the 82nd Airborne Division, will match fists with Ron Richardson of Charlotte.

The four-rounder will feature Pfc Robert Lee, a middleweight from the 82nd, against an opponent as yet unnamed.

82nd Sweeps Third Army Firing Matches

Thank You for Continuing pistol team, the 82nd "Red" Rifle Team captured the Third Army Commander's Rifle Team Championship to take both team championships back to Fort Bragg with them. Captained by Lt. Eugene Madison, the airborne team tallied 1600-114-V to nose out the Fort Benning "Blue" team for 11th crown. The Fort Benning team, led by Sgt. Marvin Wing, scored 1400-117-V over the National Rifle Match Course to take second place.

marked by record smashing of the Fort Benning Pistol Team. A highlight of the week's shooting on McAndrew Range was the score posted by Major Alfred E. Dunn of the Fort Benning Rifle Team. Firing in the 600-yard, slow fire, 29-shot 101st Airborne Match, Maj. Dunn shot the only "post-tilt" score of the contest—101-875—under difficult wind conditions to establish a new record. The old record for the match had been 99-97.

Athlete of Week

Allendorf Familiar Figure On Mound at Ft. Benning

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG

Southpaw John Allendorf was named top Fort Benning athlete for the past week, because of his superlative opening baseball performance. Scoring an impressive 2-1 victory over the 14th Infantry Dragoons, Allendorf, catcher John Trombino's miter with 15 strikeouts via his sharp breaking curve ball and his speed.

Philadelphia Allendorf is no stranger to Benning baseball fans. He is recalled for his fine pitching last season with a 14-1 record. He pitched 147 innings for the Third Division, where he acquired a 5-3 win and lost record, and was named to the all-Fort Benning team.

A graduate of Otney High School in Philadelphia, 21-year-old Allendorf played high school ball and then performed for Cuyana of the Pan-Dele semi-pro league.

Teams Fire in Tour Of West This Week

The Army Advanced Marksmanship Rifle and Pistol Teams at Fort Benning began a Western tour last weekend in midtown at Dallas, Texas, and Ruidoso, N.M.

The rifle team, under the direction of Col. Thomas J. Sharpe, participated in the New Mexico State Championships at Ruidoso April 26-27.

Fired in Dallas

The pistol team, directed by Lt. Col. William A. Hancock of the Pistol Group at the unit took part in the 32nd Annual Southwestern Pistol Tournament at Dallas April 26-27.

Following the New Mexico match, the Army Rifle Team will travel to Camp Matthews, California State Championships May 2-4.

The Army pistol team will wing back to the Midwest to participate in the Third Annual Spring Pistol Tournament at Kansas City May 3-4.

Rifle Teams

M-Sgt. Mack R. Salzman, Sgt. Richard M. Stinnerman, Sfc Maurice E. Betts, Sfc Joseph R. Eversole, Sfc Richard C. Galway, Sfc Lawrence M. Moseley, Sgt. Emile W. Heugarter, and Cpl. Fred A. Grant.

LT. HENDERSON Record Shot Putter

Brigader Puts Shot at Post

A star trackman and football player at the University of Arkansas and an outstanding shooter with the Fort Benning track team, is presently assigned to the 23rd Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade.

2nd Lt. Gerald Henderson, who set a school record in the shotput at Arkansas in 1957, is now throwing the discus and the shot in championships form for the USAIC track team after a minimum of practice.

Henderson attended Conway (Arkansas) High School where he lettered six times in football and track and set a state record in the shot at 50 feet 3 inches. He was also named to the All-District team in football at the guard position. At the University of Arkansas, Henderson lettered four times in track and twice at football and was a member of the 1955 Arkansas team which met Georgia Tech in the Cotton Bowl. In track Henderson distinguished himself by setting a school record for the 16 pound shot with a toss of almost 49 feet.

Now a member of Fort Benning's thin class, Henderson hopes to equal or break his best collegiate effort. "My distances are only about two feet short of my best college marks in both the shot and discus right now, but I really haven't had too much time to practice."

Families Warned To Take Along Pans, Dishes

Washington (AP)—Military families moving to posts in Germany should include china, glassware, pots and pans in household goods shipments to Europe, according to the Army.

These items are no longer being issued for dependents, the Army said, adding that the only kitchenware available to families is silverware service for eight.

Brigadier Set Track Mark

A versatile School Brigade track star who can turn in outstanding performances in the high and low hurdles, the 100 and 200 yard sprints, and the sprint relays, is now a valuable member of Fort Benning's cindermen.

In two meets this season, 2nd Lt. Wallace Cox, 23rd Company, Second Student Battalion, has finished third and second in the high hurdles, and has won the 440 intermediate hurdles against Fort Bragg.

Lt. Cox was a three-year letter man (track, football, and wrestling) at Putnam

2ND LT. WALLY COX Sprints And Hurdles

He is presently in the Army for a two year period, but hopes to get a Regular Army Commission and make the service his career. Now fully recovered from an injury received in his last year of college, Cox hopes to improve on some of his times made in school. Even if he doesn't, he should prove a very valuable addition to the USAIC squad.

WAC Gets Her Share Of Bulls

A WAC pistol shooter, Major Katherine Sutherland, got a good share of the bull-eyes fired in the Third Army marksmanship competition at Fort Benning last week.

A member of the headquarters staff, Third Army, Fort McPherson, Ga., Major Sutherland was the only woman competitor registered in the matches, and was the sole victor of a WAC pistol team which was organized at Fort McClellan, Ala., several years ago.

"I've kept up my shooting ever since," she said, "and have fired in competition every chance I get. It's a wonderful sport, and I believe that the future will see more and more women taking up pistol shooting as a sport."

"My aggregate scores have increased by over 100 points in successive matches in which I've fired," Major Sutherland added, "and I intend to continue shooting during my tour to the service."

The pistol-shooting WAC officer credits her increasing ability to keep her shots "in the black" to the assistance received from many of the Army's crack pistol marksmen.

On April 20 Major Sutherland showed her ability to shoot the .45 caliber service pistol by winning the trophy awarded to the high scorer in the Marksmen Class.

"I hope to go to the National Pistol Matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, next August," she stated, "and the experience gained here will help tremendously."

Benning Red Cross Unit Serves Military and Dependent Personnel

In times of peace as well as giving assistance, Fort Benning's field director headquarters maintains a rapid communication system with 8,700 Red Cross chapters through the U. S. In 1957 two teletype machines transmitted 1,100 messages and received 10,723 messages in cases of urgency.

Red Cross chapters through the Muscogee County Red Cross Chapter in Columbus, Ga., and the Russell County Chapter in Plains, Ga., also serviced 4,771 military persons and their dependent residing within their jurisdiction. These two chapters have provided financial assistance amounting to $34,119 in 599 cases received. Through mail communication 4,037 letters were sent and 2,130 were received.

During the past year a blood mobile unit from the Red Cross Regional Blood Center at Atlanta, Ga., made 12 visits to Fort Benning. From these visits 5,569 pints of blood were rendered to 55 discharges and separation cases and to 221 cases requesting help on government benefit.

Counseling was extended to 4,420 persons. Other services were given to an additional 700 cases.

Financial Assistance
Financial assistance in the amount of $4,397.64 was given to 1,583 cases. Funds extended for emergency leaves total $72,100.75. Family assistance cases received $14,374.54 and miscellaneous personnel needs were granted in the amount of $1,022.50.

A majority of cases handled involve an emergency situation with members of service families. To secure necessary factual information in

Airborne Class No. 10 Training Navy Lt., Marine, Air Force EM

It and S Company reports that Airborne Class No. 10 began training for officers in Air Transportability week. Class 10 has a great number of men from all branches of the service to include a lieutenant of the Navy Air Force and several enlisted men from the Marines and the Air Force.

40th Company — Pte. Howard J. Kowalski has received superiors in the mail room for ten consecutive months.

Second Lt. James J. Levey, executive officer, has returned from a temporary duty assignment at Fort Bragg, N.C. He competed in the field events in the track meet against Fort Bragg 14. Levey placed second in the broad jump and third in the hop, skip and jump events.

Third Company — 1st Sgt. Robert Middleton, 1st Sgt. returned from leave last week.

While on leave Sgt. Middleton prepared his garden for the arrival of summer.

The unit received 380 new trainees last week.

44th Company — Ranger class No. 3 arrived at 44th Company Friday afternoon and after a short rest started for the Ranger Mountain Camp. Ranger class No. 9 will be leaving soon for the Florida Phase of the Ranger.

Headquarters — On April 12 another softball game was played between the officers and the enlisted men of the Fourth Battalion. Unlike the last game the enlisted men won and had a very decisive victory.

Second Student Battalion — Leading the recent parade of promotions in the Second Student Battalion was the appointment of John T. Shaw from first lieutenant to captain.

Col. A. L. Hoebke, commander of the School Brigade, planned the bars on Capt. Shaw in a surprise ceremony held in the Brigade Commander's office on April 11.

The new captain is presently assigned as assistant battalion executive officer. He was recently company commander of the 24th Company. Captain Shaw will soon leave the battalion to attend the Advanced Officer Course.

On April 13, at another surprise ceremony, Lewis A. Steens was promoted to first lieutenant. Lt. Siegel, a Regular Army officer from Bronx, N.Y., received his silver bar from Lt. Col. John B. Zamin, Second Student Battalion commander. Lt. Siegel is currently assigned as executive officer of the 24th Company.

On April 16, Thomas H. Parsons attended a company track meet at Fort Bragg, N.C. Lt. James N. Brown won the shot put, discus event, the high jump and took second in the javelin. Lt. James Lockett finished third in the 40. Lt. Hugo Hartenstein and Lt. Don Watson also participated.

23rd Company — Two third class men from 23rd Company placed in the dual meet between Fort Benning and Fort Bragg April 12. In the 200 low hurdle race and Lt. Wallace Cox placed third. He was leading the field until he struck a hurdle late in the race. In field events 2nd Lt. Gerald Henderson grabbed second place in the shot put event.

The wedding ceremony of 2nd Lt. Ivan D. Stoen, a student in BIOC No. 12, was performed by Rabbi Goodman at the Temple Israel at Columbus. The new Mrs. Stoen is from New York City and a student at Hunter College. Lt. Stoen, also from New York City, graduated from New York University where he was a member of the Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity.

24th Company — A six-man student council has been formally elected by members of 24th Company. Elected to the council were: 2nd Lt. John R. Calhoun, William S. Coblenz, Charles J. Hartnett, James R. Jenks, Jack N. Van Dyke, and Daryl Whitley. Lt. Coblenz is the new president.

The first order of business for the council is the selection of a motif for the class journal to the council.

First Student Battalion — Officers Candidate Class No. 3, under the command of Capt. James A. Mac Donald, has successfully completed its formal bayonet training this past week. The 120 members of the class demonstrated their aggressive spirit and instinctive ability as they ran the bayonet assault course before Lt. Gen. Stylianos Tavoularis and other general members of his staff.

The visiting Greek officials were impressed with the demonstrated balance, strength, speed and endurance of the officer candidates as they traversed the assault course's rough terrain and artificial obstacles.

First Company — There were many promotions in the 57th Engineer Battalion (Construction) returned from a week of simulated combat conditions in a tactical bivouac.

Beginning with a motor march from their home location, the battalion moved by convoy to a point 31 miles away. Upon arrival at the site, they immediately went into intensive tactical and administrative training under simulated combat conditions.

This training was terminated with a night movement back to the battalion's home location.

Trains-Free Ranges — The 49th Engineer Battalion has been assigned the task of converting four existing rifle ranges to "traffider" type ranges. Company A has already undertaken the conversion of Red Cloud Range with a target date for completion set at May 1. Blackford, English, and Roosevelt Ranges are expected to be altered by May 31.

Command Change — The 60th Engineer Company recently had a change in command with Capt. Waldo P. Adams being assigned to USARFAC, and 1st Lt. Fred D. Lehman assigned from USARFAC, taking command.

Capt. Adams, several days prior to his departure, received his promotion to captain at an appropriate ceremony at the office of Col. C. C. Noble, commanding officer of the 151st Engineer Group.

Aerial Observer Targets — The 64th Engineer Company (Camouflage) began construction of aerial observer targets who pays the freight?

Newspaper publishing is a costly business, and we'd like to take a moment to explain to you just how costly bit business—known as THE BAYONET—comes to you each week absolutely free of charge.

No, it's not tax money! Fortunately the Army doesn't spend a dime in producing this civilian-enterprise publication wholly dedicated to the coverage of Fort Benning activities. Nor is THE BAYONET operating under a large endowment fund left by Sgt. Bilko!

Rather, it is the merchants of Columbus and Phenix City who make this fine weekly newspaper possible for Fort Benning personnel. Their advertising support, together with the helpful guidance of the Ledger-Enquirer news personnel, help make THE BAYONET as good or better than any similar news organ on any post or station.

Certainly the patronage from BAYONET readers makes their investment worth while, but at the same time, they're making it possible for us to continue publishing. We just wanted to explain this to our readers and express our appreciation to our advertisers!

Scientists Didn't Know Just Where We Are

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. (APPS) — Satellite scientists here are looking for the United States. What's more, they think they have a pretty good chance of finding it, now.

The awful truth is that they don't know where we are. But there's no reason for the service station attendants who hand out road maps to get excited — it's not their fault. In fact, nobody (on this earth) is to blame.

The moon is the culprit. Scientists here point out that this is nothing new. People haven't known where they are for years, and up to now no one has cared much — except the scientists.

This "who cares" attitude doesn't go when you're trying to fire a missile. If you're aiming at a distant target and don't know where you are, you just can't hit the target.

The crux of the whole problem is to find out where you are. In the past, there have been just about two ways to do this: one to fill up the oceans with dirt and, two, to take a look at the moon, hitherto, earth's only satellite.

The first method would have required too much legislation, so scientists in the past have been watching the moon.

This method has its faults though. The trouble is that the moon has large mountains and valleys, which stick out on the sides, giving it a ragged edge as it moves by the stars.

By using the time that it takes the moon to pass a certain star, a fix can be taken on the moon, thus locating earth's position.

The moon's ragged edge, however, blots out just about every star for a different length of time. Although minute in differences, this throws the whole system off.

Now the scientists have a smooth moon running around the earth (something like a shiny new street marker) to look at.

With the aid of these new sky markers, chances are the scientists can find out just where we have been all these years. When they get a steady satellite and really get down to looking, they may find that entire continents, like Africa or North America, are somewhere they haven't been all these years.

WINNING COMBINATION . . . This combination wall and footlocker was designed by M-Sgt. Albert Standish of The School Brigade. He said the combination has been estimated to cost $45 if mass produced and made of steel. The present three-piece set used by the Army costs $53.50.

MUSCOGEE CHEVROLET, Your Authorized Chevrolet Dealer

Thanks you for the fine business last week and invites you to stop in during the continuation of their Big, Big Sale of New and Used Cars!

ATTENTION!

When reporters asked the President what he meant the public should buy, he replied "anything." "I don't say," he explained, "that you should buy carelessly. Let's be selective in our buying; let's take the things we need."

Muscogee Chevrolet Company of Columbus does not request that you should spend money you cannot afford in order to stimulate sales.

They do, however, urge that if you want a new car and can afford it, buy it now! Now is the time to help keep Columbus business healthy and, at the same time, find a real bargain in a new or used car.

Platoon Goes 1040 Days Without AWOL

Company C

Second Dog Platoon registered its 1040th day without an AWOL April 31. No number of the unit has been absent with leave since the platoon was re-activated on Jan. 22, 1956.

Twenty-seven men and 20 scout dogs are assigned to the platoon. The perfect AWOL record includes cadets.

First Lt. Thomas J. O'Brien, platoon leader, attributed the unit's record to the esprit de corps of its members.

Pfc Ronald A. Dugan is the third winner of the platoon to earn the title of 29th Soldier of the Week.

Twenty-three seniors from Tallulah Falls, Ga. High School were guests of the platoon at a scout dog demonstration last Wednesday.

Eighty-three seniors from the Citadel attended a scout dog demonstration last Friday.

Sgt Harry C. Platt will attend the Kentucky Derby early in May.

Eight handlers and their dogs are at Dahlonega, Ga. in support of the Ranger training.

Company C

Three men from the company received word that they passed their high school general education development test. Pfc Ross Hathaway, Charles A. Warren, and Carl E. Willigson are now eligible to apply for their high school diplomas.

Disorder Caused By Real McCoy's In Orderly Room

PARIS, France (APPS) — Two men proved to be the real McCoy when the Hq. Det. orderly room of the Paris US AGAR dispatched transportation for a newly arrived specialist.

The confusion began when the company clerk received word to pick up a Sp5 McCoy at one of the Paris railroad stations. A few moments later, while the clerk was out of the room, a sergeant got word to pick up a Sp5 McCoy at a local hotel.

When the clerk returned he told the sergeant Sp5 McCoy was picked up. To which the sergeant replied, "How could he be? I just talked to him on the phone."

The not so orderly orderly room was orderly again when it was discovered that Sp5 Billie McCoy and Sp5 Earl E. McCoy were both due to report that day.

Readquarters Company

At a retreat and awards presentation parade, the company was awarded a plaque for reenlisting more soldiers than any other unit in the battle group for the months of January, February, and March.

A letter of appreciation was presented to Sgt Booker T. Armstrong, re-enlistment NCO for the company. For his outstanding work, Sgt Armstrong was given a three-day pass.

Raising their right hands for six more years each were M-1. Her name is Patricia Lynn. Second Lt. Allen W. Crawford is the newest member of the battery.

Cigars were passed out by Sp5 Paul Travow in celebration of his new daughter. The little miss was born at the U. S. Army Hospital on April 18. Her name is Patricia Lynn.

Soldier Rules 1,000 Subjects

Pt. Riley, Kan. (APFS)—A soldier here is a South Sea island chief and rules his subjects by remote control.

The chief is Sgt. Rilla Sala of the First Inf. Div. His domain is the village of Fagasa in the island paradise of American Samoa. His 1,000 subjects live under a communal system, and he maintains his control of them by corresponding with his representatives on the island.

The sergeant, 41, first left Samoa in WWI to fight in the Pacific with the US Marines. He returned home in 1945, but joined the Army in 1950 and fought in Korea. He became a US citizen in 1954 in Hawaii.

No Modern Gimmick

Pro Pay Idea Began Long Ago

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Do you think proficiency pay is just a modern gimmick? Do you think that the paymaster counted out the same money for all troops in the same grade in the so-called good old days? If you do, you're wrong on both counts!

Under the Pay Act of June 3, 1906—before the cost-of-living index and income tax complicated a soldier's life—pay scales varied with types of duty.

A master hospital sergeant and a master engineer, senior grade, drew $75 a month; a hospital sergeant and a master engineer, junior grade, $65; a sergeant first class, Medical Department, $50; but a sergeant first class, Corps of Engineers, received only $45; while a stable sergeant, engineers, and a sergeant, medical, got the same, $36.

In 1908, however, cooks in the Medical Department draw under the Pay Act of July 15, 1870, drew $1,800 a year. This was reduced to $2 in 1909. If the regimental quartermaster, however, also acted as the commissary, he received an extra $6 a month. Where an officer served as aide to a brigadier general, he was given $15 a year in addition to the pay of his rank; if an aide to a major general, $20.

The ordnance storekeeper at the Springfield, Mass., Army was paid $2,500 annually; all other storekeepers, $2,000.

Moated Falred Beiter Company-grade mounted officers did better than those unmoated. Captains, mounted, got an extra $200 yearly; a first lieutenant, $100 more than his unmoored counterpart's $1,500; and second lieutenants, $100 on top of regular pay of $1,400.

Officers serving with troops against an enemy, regardless of rank, received the pay and allowances of the grade appropriate to the command engaged. In time of peace, officers drew 10 per cent overseas pay on foreign service; enlisted men received 20 per cent.

Longevity pay for those below the rank of brigadier general, including chaplains, was 10 per cent of yearly pay for each five years of service. Periodically though, a major, whose base pay was $2,000, in no case could exceed $4,000.

The pay of the Marine Corps was regulated by the laws of Army pay, but for some reason, the additional pay of an aide to a rear admiral was in the nature of an allowance depending upon rank.

PLAYGROUND NAMED REPPENDORF, Germany—The town of Reppendorf, Germany, named in the Main River Valley near Kitzingen has a lasting memento of the 10th Division in the form of a playground named in honor of M-Sgt. Jesse Holbert of the 10th Division's 70th Ordnance Battalion, stationed in Kitzingen. The grounds consisting of swings, merry-go-round and other playground devices were dedicated to Holbert recently during ceremonies in the office of the Village Mayor, Hans Doppert.

Headquarters Building Moved; Company Gets New 1st Sergeant

The Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry Headquarters, completed their move to Buildings 206 and 207, Hq. and Hq. Company M-Sgt. Turmie Williams has been appointed first sergeant. Elmer Knick, Roy Barrett, and Gerald Wise are in the process of clearing the Company for overseas shipment in the near future.

Cpl. Henry Wilson joined the mess hall staff recently after completing the meat cutting school.

The Company welcomed two new members last week. They are Pfc. Norris Lang and Pvt. Billy F. Guyton. Pvt. Donald Christians, Pvt. William Everett, Sps. Quinones Miguel, Gonzalez, Sps. Leonard Jackson, Pvt. William Johnson, Sps. Harold Kusterman, Pfc. Frank Malloy, Sps. Ralph Stephenson, Sps. Neal Lamb, and Sgt. James Watkins are at the Ranger Training Camp, Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., serving as assessors.

The Engineer platoon of the company is remodeling the day room.

Company A
Cpl. William Cozart and Pfc. Herbert Tucker were presented with housing baby boys by their wives.

Sic. Emory Akins, Sgt. Barnard Eastwood, Sgt. Berman Kennedy, and Sgt. Eduardo Sanchez will be departing the company as they are on orders for shipment to Europe.

The Company is in its final week of its two week training period. During this period the entire Company has been relieved from problems to support of the United States Infantry School. The company spent two days in the field under simulated combat conditions. Col. Claude Barton, Co. of the 14th Infantry, will conduct an inspection of the entire company to close the training.

Company A was one of the companies which represented the Infantry Center at retirement ceremonies for Gen. Thomas F. Hicks at Fort McPherson. Five officers and 160 enlisted men represented Company A.

Company B
Capt. Herman H. James assumed command of Company B from Capt. Leon V. Estrada on April 4. Capt. Estrada's new assignment is the Advanced Officer Infantry Course at Fort Benning which Capt. James just completed. Capt. James, who hails from Mississippi, expressed his pride in having been given command of a unit at Fort Benning in which he described as "the finest post in the Army."

Sic. Clifford Stans, operations Sgt. and Sgt. Raymond Adams, Supply, are on orders to Fort Meyer, Va. Recent resigning officers are Lt. and Sgt. B. D. Atwood, M-Sgt. Edward Wilson, and Sic. J. H. Marver.

Eighteen NCO's of B Company successfully completed the advanced sergeant's course. The other NCO's completed the post driver's school.

Ten men under NCOIC S. Dacey left for Florida for an extended period of time to participate in the Ranger training program at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

On the sport side of the calendar Company B, defeated Hq. and Hq. Company and the 72nd Engineers while losing to the 7th Chemical Company.

Company C
Having initiated the current company level education program with a free swimming victory of 97 over Mortar Battery, Company C's softball team defeated their next opponent, Mortar Battery, with some sure ground sharply and some strong armored outfields. Company C warriors seem to be a minimum in defense. Not to be outdone

Combination of Weapons

Weapons Dept. Has Aid to Rifle Units

Challenged to find gun platform with increased mobility for rifle companies of the Army's newly-created 1st Infantry Division, the Infantry School's Weapons Department developed a portable assault gun combination by mounting the 106-mm recoilless rifle on a 90mm assault gun M36 chassis.

After reviewing existing families of vehicles to select an armored personnel carrier best suited for personnel and weapons, a Weapons Department and Combat Development Office committee was set up to study the 1962-1965 period. Realizing the immediate need

Hartline Gets TIS Orientation

The newly named chief of the Army Element of the Joint U. S. Military Advisory Group in the Philippines, Col. Franklin H. Hartline, completed a three-day orientation at Fort Benning on Infantry School tactics and techniques April 25.

Col. Hartline toured the school's Ground Mobility, Communications and Ranger School departments and was briefed on the reorganized Infantry division. "Training" weapons instruction and leaders reaction testing.

Sp3 Escaped Reds by Crossing Minefield and High Voltage Wire

A few hours after daybreak on the morning of July 8, 1955, a young officer of the Czechoslovakian army took a last lingering look at the mined wasteland and the lethal coils of high-voltage wire that guarded the borders of his native country.

Then, without a backward glance, he turned west and walked quickly into the green summerland of Austria, his gateway to the free world and escape from Communist domination.

Quest for Freedom

The man who made his dramatic escape from Communism is now Sp3 Antonin Rezac of the 54th Medical Group. Rezac's story is a thrilling account of a life-risking flight from the stifling prison of political tyranny. The record of his flight is a vivid page in the history of man's quest for freedom.

Rezac's hatred for Communism began when the Reds swarmed into his home city of Brno, Czechoslovakia, shortly after World War II. They quickly crushed all opposition and a possible rebellion and strangled the Czechs' hope for freedom with terror. Among those who learned what Communist "justice" was like was Rezac's father, an impoverished tailor, who was ejected from his shop, which was confiscated by the Reds, and left without means of support for his family.

After finishing his basic training in 1954, Rezac was offered an officer's commission and an assignment to the intelligence core as an interpreter because of his knowledge of the German and Russian languages.

Avenues Closed

Young Antonin eventually was able to get a job to earn enough money to take a course in hotel management, hoping some day to follow his chosen career in some free country of the West. This decision meant that he would have to escape, but at the time all avenues to freedom were closed.

Then, in 1955, he received notice of his induction into the Red-dominated Czech army and his hope for escape revived. He realized that if he could be stationed near the Czech border, from which advantage point he eventually hoped to escape, but was all that he would have a chance to slip through the Iron Curtain. But this opportunity was doomed to last frustration.

Political brainwashing, Basic training in the Czech army proved to be a nightmare of political brainwashing and drudgery. The work day of the Czech soldier, from 5 a.m. to 10 p.m., left little time for recreation or relaxation. And the diversion offered in the form of movies and stage plays was nothing more than thinly disguised Red propaganda designed to condition those who learned what Communist "justice" was like was Rezac's father, an impoverished tailor, who was ejected from his shop, which was confiscated by the Reds, and left without means of support for his family.

After learning from a friend that the electric current which made the barbed wire entanglements along the border a lethal obstacle would be shut off between the hours of 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. on July 8, he made his final preparations to gain his freedom from Red tyranny.

At about 4 a.m. on the 8th, Rezac, armed with two pistols, began walking toward the barbed wire fences. The mined fields were no problem to him, Antonin being an expert in many times and knew the safe paths. His greatest fear was of being captured. But by keeping out of sight and moving silently he avoided being challenged.

A Free Man Finally, after years of frustration and with freedom in sight, he reached the fences. He tested them to learn whether the current was off and found them to be safe. Quickly he crawled through the wire entanglements into Austria—and for the first time in years he was a free man.

Not until months later did he learn the terrible price he had paid for his escape. His father had been arrested by the Red police and killed. "He had nothing to do with my escape," Antonin said. "Who punish him was a blind act of murder."

Political Asylum Rezac was not molested as he successfully made his way westward. Arriving in West Germany he was given political asylum by the U. S. A. 7 m y there. But he soon realized that even West Germany was unsafe for an ex-intelligence officer who had considerable information about Communist activities, so he decided to join the Army under the five-year citizenship plan offered to aliens.

After entering the Army he was sent to the U. S. G. O. in October, 1956, where he was assigned to Fort Jackson, S.C., for basic training and a three-month course of instruction in the English language.

Still accepting his passion for freedom and believing an officer would have a better chance to escape than an enlisted man, he accepted the Commission. Antonin was assigned to a border brigade where he worked as an interpreter for German spies in the employ of the Reds.

He made many trips to the Czech border, from which advantage point he eventually hoped to escape, but was all that he would have a chance to slip through the Iron Curtain. But this opportunity was doomed to last frustration.

Under the supervision of Sgt. T. K. Dykes, the company has constructed a camouflage training area for the Engineer Committee, USAIS.

This area serves as an important part of the camouflage specialist school which began March 20, with two officer groups taking part. Key NCOs of the 647th, who have recently returned from the camouflage school at Fort Belvoir, Va., are instructors and supervisors for the school. The specialist training is set up on the Fort Belvoir level and is expected to attract military personnel from many posts.

The area contains seven stations, each with at least three displays of camouflage principles and practices. The first three stations deal with decoys or representations of military weapons, vehicles and shelters used to deceive the enemy and draw their fire. The last four have to do with dummies (non-military objects), either natural or man-made, for the purpose of concealing manned weapons or vehicles or both.

Engineer Unit Could Hide City

647th 'Camoufleurs' Begin New School for Concealment Training

At present their mission is to instruct and supervise in camouflage principles, methods and techniques. In combat it is to construct and set up decoys in an effort to attract attention away from actual installations and in some cases, draw enemy fire and expose representations of military weapons, vehicles and shelters used to deceive the enemy and draw their fire. The last four have to do with dummies (non-military objects), either natural or man-made, for the purpose of concealing manned weapons or vehicles or both.

Since there are only three such units in this country, the camouflage company may be called anywhere in the U. S. to perform camouflage tasks.

The 647th, commanded by Lt. 12. Eldridge, claims the title "The Best of the Camoufleurs." Their work was recently displayed in downtown Columbus during the 1957 Week celebration there, and has fallen when they participated in JOCX.

Station number one includes a 100 lb. Howitzer made from logs, branches, discarded wire spoils and barbed wire. An mortar made from aluminum sheeting, branches found at Columbus during the 1957 Week celebration there, and has fallen when they participated in JOCX.

The second station displays two jeeps. One of aluminum sheeting, large communications wire spools, old tires and tin cans, the other made of canvas with a frame of branches. The former is usually painted and able to be transported to any site. This station also includes a CP tent and three individual shelters made from burlap. These decoys are the easiest to construct and require little material. Thus, are used when a quick job of camouflage is required.

Next is a dummy tank. Station number three utilizes a scale model decoy M-48 tank. Made of a burlap-covered wood and branch frame, it is similar to a smaller tank used as a decoy but which requires less material. The tank is constructed (about 34 man hours). Also displayed at this station is a CP tent and one-half ton truck of similar size and construction.

Stations four, five, six, and seven are dummies of natural or man-made coverage and concealment. These are usually built over permanent placements (Camouflage). They are set up on the Fort Belvoir level and is expected to attract military personnel from many posts.

Fourth Div. Parade Tune Flavored With 'Dixie' as Salute to N. C.

Medley is the word for the parade tune of the 4th Inf. Div. "Salute" at Fort Lewis, Wash. The history of the division is covered musically in excerpts from "Dixie," saluting its organization in North Carolina, to "New Dawn to Washington," light song of the University of Washington to bring the history up to date. Sandra Banks is the hostess with a bow. She is one of several who, dressed in costumes of "showwood green," will greet pilots arriving at the World AFB, Fla., for the Tusco Corps substitute warehouse at Fort Benning, has received an Infantry Center certificate of achievement upon completion of 30 years service as a civilian employee at the post.

Highlights of the School Brigade

Thank You for Continuing... Well, almost, anyway. The new outfit, which reared into activity April 1, has a total of 110 men. Almost 30 per cent of these are Regular Army. And the RA's are all brand new, regular by virtue of the augmentation Act of 1956. In all, there are 30 RA's in the class. This majority of these 110 are NFO. Six are TOC chemical, three are QMC and three are one each from artillery and AGC. The remainder of the company is comprised of National Guardsmen, Allied officers and Reservists. Fifth Company is now working without the very able assistance of Pfc. Patrick Egan who began a 32-day leave of absence last week. The company opened a new dark room for the benefit of its students and cadre last week. The room has everything needed for complete development and printing of film which should be thoroughly enjoyed by those interested in photography. Ed and Ho Company are now returned to the 173rd mess hall, over the weekend while the mess hall took on a new coat of paint. Capt. Orville C. Folkers, Company Commander, returned April 14 from a 12-day leave. Pfc's Jack D. Butler and Tadous L. Colinski were the winners of the recent company double hurdles tournament. Runners up were Sfc. Gordon Rask and Pfc. James R. Cochran. Infantry School Detachment Company B last week had two promotions. Frederick G. Lanning and Donald L. Wright were promoted to Sgt. Lanning is a radio repairman and Wright is a clerk typist. Both men are assigned to the Communications Department. Company F announces the resignation of M/Sgt. Edmund Lilly for six years. Lilly is an assistant instructor in the Specialized Weapons Committee. Company G - Congratulations are in order for Sgt. Boone and his wife, Mrs. Ann, who gave birth to an eight-pound baby boy born in the receiving line of the Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John F. Ruggles, Col. and Mrs. A. H. Hoelke, Col. and Mrs. C. Howard C. Wright, Lt. Col. and Mrs. James L. Bryan, Lt. Col. and Mrs. William C. McCormick, Lt. Col. Robert E. Eary and Lt. Col. James N. Hall. Infantry School Detachment Company B last week had a platoon and squad in assault, and battle indoctrination. The platoon was commanded by Capt. Dorman who was promoted to captain recently. Capt. Dorman is now assigned as the S-4 officer of the Infantry School Detachment. Before coming to ISD he was assigned to the 29th Fifth Student Battalion, TSB, as a platoon leader. Results of carbine firing were returned to the 173rd officers recently. 2nd Lt. Norbert J. Roesser earned first place honors, firing 156 of a possible 160. 1st Lt. Frederick Banzo and 2nd Lt. Dale C. Lindquist and James S. Stentler are second place with scores of 155. 2nd Company - A daughter, Mrs. Kenneth W. Cooper Jr., April 18. Karry Cooper weighed seven pounds, two ounces at birth. She is the second daughter for the Coopers. The big sister, Cindy, is one year old. Fourth Student Battalion 4th Company welcomes Radio Maintenance Class No. 12 to the organization. The class has a strength of 58 and the leader is Sgt. William L. Barley. The course ends July 15. M/Sgt. Rudolph F. Jones has been transferred to the 43rd Company reports that their new cycle of business are scheduled. Cadre personnel are now wearing blue ribbons around their hats to identify them from the trainees. Best wishes are sent to Warren R. Hilton who entered the hospital for surgery. 4th Company - Work is being started on beautification of the company area. With the help of engineers, graders have

Pfc Paints 29th Sign

The painting career of Pfc Adam L. Blahut, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, was brief but successful. It lasted just 30 days and produced a handsome five-by-five landmark for his organization. Pfc Blahut, a Polish native who came to this country as a displaced person, was assigned the mission of painting an engraved sign for his battle group. He had never handled a paint brush before. But his first attempt earned him wide acclaim in his organization when the sign was mounted by the headquarters of the 28th Infantry last week. Pfc Blahut is assigned as draftsman for the battle group plans and operations section, and also teaches classes in the Headquarters of the post education department. Born in Lovon, Poland, he came to the United States with his parents in 1953. He entered the Army in 1957 and has been a member of the 29th Infantry since last April. Pfc Blahut completed work on the sign on April 15, his twenty-seventh birthday. The sign was designed and built by members of the battle group supply section. Pfc Blahut determined the composition of the signs and the type of lettering, and did all the painting. The sign is chiefly blue and gold with a white background. It contains the organization's crest and list of campaign streamers. He worked on the sign on a part-time basis for about a month. Educated in Germany after World War II, he possesses the equivalent of an American college education in mechanical engineering.

2nd Lt. Haas Takes Tests He Administered as EM

Second Lt. Willis Haas used to wonder how the officers he Graduate by the University Professor of Science and Military Tactics. Among his more notable achievements, Lt. Haas can count the six weeks summer camp that all ROTC cadets undergo, for it was at Camp Lee that he scored highest in the ROTC battalion in rifle Infantry Officer Class No. 13. A Regular Army commission is Lt. Haas' main goal in life. "It is the way of life. A graduate of the University of Pittsburg, class of '57, Haas majored in English and was chosen

Gen. McGowan Tells Graduating Class U.S. National Guard Dependent On Leaders Trained Through OCS

"We of the Army National Guard believe that to keep the Guard a trained and ready component of the Army depends on the qualification of leaders through the National Guard Officers Candidate School." Major Gen. Donald W. McGowan said April 22 in the main theater.

Gen. McGowan, who is chief of the Army division of the National Guard Bureau, was a guest speaker for National Guard officer candidate class No. 1A graduation.

He told the graduates that the postwar National Guardsmen were veterans of World War II.

Future Leaders
"We look to the National Guard officer candidate school for future leaders in the special courses at Fort Benning and Fort Sill and in the 42 officer candidate schools of the National Guard."

Gen. McGowan said, "In 1957, we had 700 enrolled in these officer candidate schools; now we have 2,600," he said.

Gen. McGowan thanked Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Powell for the "splendid course here at Benning provided for officer candidates of the National Guard." Gen. Powell is now at Fort Monroe, Va.

Expressed Thanks
"Gen. Erickson, chief of the National Guard Bureau, expresses his thanks for the job being done in developing leaders, enlisted or commissioned, for 20 years at Fort Benning," he said.

Gen. McGowan recalled that 25 years ago he attended a special session of the National Guard at attendance at Fort Benning.

"In all of your careers, let me congratulate you on your achievement, having passed the National Guard selection process and passed the rigorous officers' screening here at Fort Benning. You have qualified yourself as unit leaders," he said.

Key To Success
He cited his experiences in World War II, where the candidates that small unit leadership is the key to success in combat.

"You now accept a role in developing competent, aggressive and combat ready units."

of the National Guard. In accepting this responsibility as a commissioned officer of the National Guard," he continued, "you must know your job to teach your job to subordinates. You must maintain high standards while cheerfully and willingly sacrificing yourself for your unit and your men. Today, the National Guard is at the high point with 444,000 officers and men."

The schooling is not easy, he observed. "You have made a beginning in your military education in the National Guard, he added.

Use of all available National Guard schools, or non-residence instruction of The Infantry School is a prerequisite for advancement in the Guard to a field grade officer, he said.

Gen. McGowan passed and introduced the graduates, Spc John E. Mutchler, Columbus, Ohio, the 100,000th enrollee in the Army's extension program.

Gen. McGowan expressed a wish that in the immediate future, Mutchler would be a member of the National Guard Reserve officer candidate schools.

He concluded by recalling the motto of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point: "Duty, Honor, Country."

Pass Tarek
"To you, as officers pass down the torch so ably carried by Gen. Bradley, Collins, Eisenhower, Huesner and Eddy to hold up high as future National Guard and Army officers of the U. S.," he said.

Others attending the luncheon were: Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles; Major Gen. Berry of Headquarters, Alabama National Guard; Brig. Gen. Parsons, Montgomery, Alabama Air National Guard; Col. F. H. Hartline, chief designate, Army Section, JSUMAG, the Philippines; Col. C. G. Webster, Jr., New York National Guard; Col. B. Berry, New York National Guard; Lt. Col. Robert A. M. Court, New York National Guard; Capt. Roemer, honor graduate, advanced class No. 1; OC Howard P. Herrmann, National Guard, class 1A, Waukegan, Wis.

Gen. Freeman Takes Twin Role as Head of TIC, TIS

Fort Benning's new commanding general, Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., assumed his new duties May 2 following honor guard ceremonies at Chapel Field.

The Infantry Center honor guard company and honor guard battery staged the welcoming formation at 6:30 a.m. Troops Line.

Gen. Freeman trooped the line with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, and Capt. Myron E. Lee Jr., honor guard commander.

Among officials gathered to honor Gen. Freeman were Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Infantry School assistant commander; Brig. Gen. Miller O. Perry, acting commanding general of the 10th Infantry Division; Brig. Gen. John E. Leary, commanding general of Third Infantry Division retaining elements at Fort Benning, and Col. Norman B. Edwards, chief of staff of the Infantry Center.

Highway Closed For JCOC Show
State Highway 103 on the Fort Benning reservation will be closed from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. today, according to Infantry Center officials.

The road closure, approved by the Georgia Highway Department, is a safety precaution during demonstrations for the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference at the post.

Officials of the Provost Marshal's Section said that during these hours artillery will be fired over the road as part of the demonstrations.

The 56-man official party at the ceremonies included the general staff and special staff of the Infantry Center, Infantry School department directors.

Mrs. Freeman Feled. Mrs. Ruggles was hostess for a coffee at 9 a.m. in the Main Officers' Mess for Mrs. Freeman. Approximately 60 in attendance to the JCOCs, including those of the atomic family, being oriented on Ranger training.

The schedule is the same for CONARC guests, except they will leave Fort Benning, May 7 from 8:30 to 9:10 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. Depart for Mayport, Fla., from Lawson Army Air Field.

Use Legal Assistance

Free legal assistance is available to servicemen at every military base in the world. According to military regulations, a qualified legal officer is always ready and willing to advise you.

All too often a person with a legal puzzle will try to solve it with hit or miss information from random sources. The complexities of the law (which mystify) servicemen and civilians alike can't be clarified by one or a battery of amateurs, or "guardhouse" barristers. This kind of person merely confuses the issue, despite a surface air of assuredness.

Important documents, such as wills, power of attorney, or affidavits can best be drawn up by competent lawyers.

Before you seek help elsewhere, ignore your legal problems or take doubtful action, check with your legal officer. He knows his stuff and you can't beat the fee. (APFS)

Must Maintain Strength

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (ANS) — The Communists are coming close to having the means to accomplish their stated objective of world domination, the Army's Chief of Research and Development, Gen. Truman S. Statter, told members of the California State Chamber of Commerce meeting here at the Hotel Statler recently.

Warning that the United States cannot permit the balance of military power to swing further toward the Soviet Union, Statter said:

"Within the Army, it is our mission in Research and Development to develop the weapons and equipment the Army and our allies must have to win in battle. This means to develop the most advanced ourselves to close with enemy ground forces; to occupy the enemy homeland pending establishment of free governments; and thus to control the land."

Explaining that he had two tours of duty in Korea, once during the shooting war and more recently as 1 Corps Commander in the uneasy truce there, Gen. Trudeau said he spoke with considerable feeling and some personal knowledge of Communist aggression.

"I know that you share with me my deep concern over the continuing safety of our nation in the face of the godless, powerful and despotic system of Communism which is dedicated to the destruction of freedom everywhere and the establishment of a world slave state."

The general said that peace, according to Marx and Lenin, can exist only when a classless world on Communist lines has been established. Any means (including war, starvation, sabotage and murder), the Communist believe, are completely justified to reach this goal.

Regarding the need to halt further Communist aggression, Gen. Trudeau emphasized that the United States Army accomplishes deterrence by its obvious capability (as part of the US's ground, sea and air arm) to help fight and win either limited war or all-out war.

"In a limited war," he observed, "the Army has the flexibility and power when mobilized to cope with any variety of aggression — with adequate Air and Navy support."

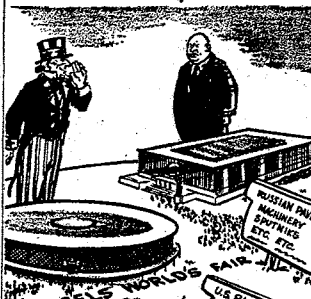

Fact That Disturbs

WASHINGTON, (ANS) — Where will Moscow look the longest this Armed Forces Day? asks Major Frederic S. Otis, editor of the Army Review, in his editorial in the April-May issue of the magazine.

Without a doubt, Major Otis writes, United States weapons (which the Communists can match perhaps twice over) together with U. S. alert and reserve military and civilian units, are prepared and ready to confront what ever danger freedom and liberty may face, who know so well that the truth of Washington's immortal words: "To be prepared for peace is one of the most effective means of preserving peace."

"It is loyalty, it is patriotism, it is faith in our way of life, it is confidence in our government, it is belief in the dignity of man," concludes the editor. "It is this — 'To be prepared for peace' — everything but this, that is our power for peace."

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (1ST LT.) RALPH E. BARRELL

Chester E. Swor has said that the truest test of a man's performance never occurs on the easy road; it occurs on the difficult stretches of the journey. The strength of a tree is never revealed in the blowing of the mild Spring winds, but in the weight of the blizzard's ice and in the impact of the hurricane's force.

The caliber of a football team is never proven in a game with little opposition but, rather, when the adversary is terrific. The chemist determines the characteristics of his substance through the use of the harshest tests. So, with life and people, the crucible test is frequently necessary to reveal genuine strength, courage, unselfishness, dedication or the lack of them.

It is said that long-time workers with various types of timber can tell from the flame colors of burning logs a great deal about the chemical content and something about the quality of life of those logs. To the metal workers can tell a great deal about the content of any piece of metal when it is burned to white heat, and they can, in many cases, forecast its durability. These two examples are logical. Isn't it logical, then, that an individual whose life is tested by stress and strain will reveal in the process of his trials much about his strength or weakness?

However, there are some people who present themselves as a normal part of life. Though they admit readily that the storm is a basic part of the weather, that winter is an integral part of the season pattern, that tragedy is an indispensable part of the field of drama, that "dark cords are an adornment" to divert the profits of a man, that the blizzard and the blizzard's ice and in the impact of the hurricane's force.

The Judge Says . . .

John and Mary, husband and wife, residents of Columbus, just couldn't get along. They resented and argued at the drop of a hat. They decided to go to court to get a divorce. Do you think the court would grant the divorce based upon their incompatibility?

In most states the answer would be no. Divorces can not be obtained merely for the reason that the parties do not get along. Each state by statute provides certain grounds for divorce. These grounds are usually one of the following:

The most commonly used grounds for divorce are adultery, desertion, and extreme cruelty. The length of desertion varies in some states, but generally one year is required. In some states, the desertion must be inflicted physically, and even if mental cruelty will do, the requirement is that it must be aggravated and detrimental to health. Almost without exception a court will not grant a divorce for failure to support on the part of the husband for his own inability, as mentioned above in the illustration.

Champagne Dance Set With Leo LaVerne

Presented as will be a big night for the fellows who are present as well as for the girls. Leo and LaVerne of the Leo LaVerne Dance Studio will present a floor show at the orchestra dance as well as conduct a "Champagne Dance" contest. They have just returned from a series of engagements at Ft. Benning and are ready to start these dance contests.

While in Miami the winners of the contest received prizes. Prizes here will be something just as appropriate as those in Miami.

Also, Saturday night will be the Girl of the Month dance at which time the Girls Service Organization member who has contributed the most number of hours during the month will be honored. Music for the occasion will be by "The Gettysburg Hotel."

The Girls Service Organization is planning a swim party to Ida Con Gardens May 11. The swim will leave the Y at 1 p.m. and return at 8:00 p.m. during Home Hour Sunday afternoon. The cookies will be baked by Home Hour Entertainment Clubs from Chambers County, Ala.

On the Bookshelf

NARROW SEARCH by Andrew Garber. (Harper, 1957) To revenge his wife for leaving him, Arnold Hunter kidnaped their baby daughter. Although convicted of other illegal activities and sent to prison, he refused to tell where the child was. Enlisting the aid of the World War II ace fighter pilot, Clare set out to find the girl. The search could depend — and following just one clue — Clare set out to find the girl. The search could depend — and following just one clue — Clare set out to find the girl.

SCIENCE IN EVERYDAY THINGS by William Charles Vergara. (Harper, 1956) Here is a panoramic story of the ace-fighter pilots of the United States Air Force from World War I through the Korean War. War by war, theater by theater, service by service, Vergara's interesting, colorful, and only the complete annals of our country's air-aces but a detailed sampling of the air battles in which they fought.

GOLD IN THE SKY by Max Catto. (Morrow 1958) The airplane, Gold in the Sky, goes down in a Congo swamp, and is presumed to be dead. But three unconventional people — an English professor, a doctor, and his daughter — and the cynical American Dennis Arris decide to attempt to salvage her.

Gen. Hickey Gives Farewell Message

Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Third Army commander who retired April 30, issued the following farewell message to personnel:

As I leave active service, I wish to express my deep appreciation to you and members of your command for your fine support and job well done. I am sure your very fine cooperative spirit and teamwork will continue to give me satisfaction. My very best wishes for your continued success, and may God bless you.

Warren Covington Brings Dorsey Band Here Today

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, starring Warren Covington will re-create the never-to-be-forgotten music of the "Sentimental Gentleman" at 7 p.m. tonight in Fort Benning's Main Theater.

Unlike the ordinary "boy makes good" story, the decision to place the distinguished former leader of the Tommy Dorsey into the hands of young, handsome and talented Warren Covington was not the fulfillment of a childhood dream. Covington has already been a door, not a drummer.

This decision was, rather, a sentimental gesture. He was designed to insure the preservation of the never-to-be-forgotten music of the "Sentimental Gentleman," Tommy Dorsey. And Warren happily accepted the challenge.

Chris Zachary will be spinning the records. He'll be starting at 8:00 p.m. for the record dance. Lucille Yancy is in charge of the afternoon entertainment.

The Army Wives Club meets Monday night in the main hall of the Y. Wives of servicemen are cordially invited to attend. Music for the occasion will be preceded by a luncheon. At 7:30 p.m. the dancers will commence. This class is open to all who are interested and know or would like to learn how to fence.

States Accept Bonus Requests

WASHINGTON (AP)—New Hampshire, however, Bonus applications are still being accepted for WWII military service—almost 12 years after V-J Day on Sept. 2, 1945—by five states. Still paying a bonus to WWII veterans are Massachusetts, New York and Vermont with no deadline for filing claims for the payments. Servicemen and veterans who have failed to apply for WWII bonuses in these states may file requests at their respective state capitals.

Chaplains Section Guests Area Clergymen Pay Post Visit on May 5

Approximately 100 clergymen from Columbus and Phenix City visited Fort Benning May 5. The visitors were guests of the Infantry Center's Chaplains Section, headed by Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Wildman. They were briefed on the Army's religious activities and toured the post.

Proceeding the day's general activities, the Columbus Ministerial Alliance held its monthly meeting with Fort Benning chaplains at 10:30 a.m. in the Infantry Center Postmaster's Chapel.

Brig. Gen. John P. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, welcomed the guests at a luncheon in their honor at the Main Officers' Mess. A responsive greeting on behalf of the group was extended by the Rev. Charles A. Jackson, president of the Columbus Alliance, the Rev. A. R. Smith, president of the Interdenominational Alliance of Columbus and Phenix City; Father Killian Mooney, Roman Catholic representative, and the Rev. Boyd Armstrong, president of the Phenix City Ministerial Alliance.

Library Receives 2d Prize in Competition

Fort Benning's Special Services Library Section is the recipient of a 2d Army place award in the Third Army competition held during National Library Week March 26-27.

Highlighting the week at Fort Benning were several extra attractions. An open house tea was held one day, and featured visits to the main library by Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, then Infantry Center commanding general, and Brig. Gen.

Author Calls For 24-Hour Operations

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The May issue of Army magazine has a pithy article by Lt. Col. Arthur R. Darnoff titled Night Fighting, in which the author urges more emphasis on "24-hour operations."

"During World War II, he declares, successful night operations were mounted by all sizes of U. S. units up to an Army. The 104th Infantry Division, for example, operated at night most of the time.

However, the colonel continues, only five years later in Korea most of our reverses occurred at night against forces with much less fire support than we had. They seem to argue that we not only dislike but are weak in night fighting.

"To be successful in future atomic combat, he says, "we must make full use of the hours of darkness if we are to retain the initiative, conserve manpower, and overcome many tactical, numerical and material advantages that would accrue to the enemy from operations conducted only in daylight."

Atomic combat will be a checkerboard pattern of forces occupying positions in a very wide and very deep area. Operations will be fluid and under these conditions highly trained units could conduct successful operations in the night.

In conclusion, Col. Darnoff says, "If we are to succeed in future combat we must be 24-hour fighters, who can operate with or without man-made aids. Our objective must be to best any potential enemy by operating him with troops more proficient in this old but underdeveloped dimension of the battlefield. Let's train to be 24-hour fighters."

Benefits Reaped
During the week large posters, bookmarks and various novel displays, noting the observance of National Library Week were posted throughout Fort Benning, drawing attention to the benefits reaped from a good acquaintance with the library.

Special programs also were conducted by other libraries on the post. "Buildings" of books at the U. S. Army Hospital, Sand Hill (Library No. 2) and Harmony Church (Library No. 5) featured special programs and displays.

Scrapbooks
Scrapbooks were submitted to Third Army, revealing and reflecting the week's activities at Fort Benning.

Playing no small part in the success of the Fort Benning Library Week program was the library staff, headed by Miss Norma Hollis. Others on the staff include Miss Nora Holden, head of technical processing; Miss Jimmie Smith, main post librarian and assistant; Miss Harriet Pritchford, Miss Frances Zwack and Mrs. Sally Walton. Branch librarians include Miss Josephine Zinecum, Mrs. Theodore Williams and Miss Carolyn Hall.

First place winner in the contest was Fort Gordon, Ga., while Fort Campbell, Ky. was awarded third place.

Unit Shows Smoke's Effect

Efficiency of 8th Chemical Company, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, was displayed in Army training tests last week.

Only mechanical smoke generator company at Fort Benning the 8th has a big assignment of supporting the Infantry School when smoke tactics are essential in the demonstrations.

The company was activated at the Army Chemical Center, Md., and was immediately assigned to Fort Benning.

The unit has the secondary duty of supporting the Infantry School as infantrymen.

During the Army training test the company made a 15-mile motor move simulating a battle group size movement to a front line position.

They were concealed by darkness when they departed at 1 a.m. and took their position, without being observed.

At 5 p.m. the chemical company went into action producing enough smoke to conceal the simulated troops and gun emplacements.

'Of the Troops and by the Troops' Ceremony Honors Military Police For Service to Post, Community

A special ceremony honored the members of the 560th Military Police Company of the Infantry Center April 26 in recognition of their service to the community and Fort Benning. The ceremony consisting of inspection of the guard, review was staged by honor guard soldiers from the First Battle Group, 28th Infantry and Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry commanded by Capt. Myron C. Lee Jr. It was attended by 13 key military police non-commissioned officers who were guests of Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry Center deputy commanding general also present were military police officers and guests.

Troop the Line
M-Sgt. Raymond E. Lanning, senior military police non-commissioned officer and operations sergeant for the Provost Marshal's Section, Troop the Line with the reviewing officer, Gen. Ruggles.

The 13 non-commissioned officers represented 26 years of Army service, an average of 18 years per man.

Efficient Operations
In a recent Department of Army inspection, the Military Police Company of the Infantry Center was cited for excellent and efficient military police operations.

The 200 enlisted men and five officers commanded by Lt. Col. Allen C. Shuler Jr., Fort Benning provost marshal, and the deputy provost marshal, Major Albert J. Wilton, direct a 24-hour patrol of soldiers. Weekend military police patrols are assigned to areas such as LaGrange, Ga., maintain law and order, crime prevention in connection with military personnel.

Corps Motto
The motto of the Military Police Corps is "Of the Troops and by the Troops."

With the advent of World War II, there was a need for specially trained troops for police duties to cope with the complex problems of combat. The Military Police Corps was activated Sept. 25, 1941.

Perhaps the greatest military police influence on the average soldier and civilian employee of the post is in traffic control.

5,000 Cars Hoerly
Approximately 5,000 cars enter the post here each day. The morning and evening peak hours. Military Policemen have designed by a medical management of mass casualties demonstration which was witnessed by visiting Turkish Brig. Gen. Kayim Gurman and his aide, Col. Sevek Yalag.

To make the exercise as realistic as possible a 100-mile motor march was made from garrison to the camp site in the Fort Mitchell area of Alabama. An advance party had prepared the area by the time the Group arrived, and "Test City" became the 54th's temporary home.

The purpose of the field exercise was to provide training to individuals and units of this command with particular emphasis on motor movement and medical management of mass casualties.

During her visit Col. McDonald also will meet with the hospital commander, Col. Robert Skimmer.

Bar Admits Lt.'s Practice In S. Carolina

First Lt. Robert S. Poydashoff, legal officer of USAIG Troop Command, recently took the bar in South Carolina.

The Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment provides the post with a detective staff comparable to a city several times Fort Benning's size. It is equipped with one of the finest crime laboratories in the South.

Greater Selectivity Told In Promotion of Majors
WASHINGTON (ANS) — In another move toward greater selectivity for officer promotion, the Department of the Army has announced that after July 1, 1958, it will use the "best qualified" method to select permanent and temporary majors.

The "best qualified" method has been used in the selection of colonels and above for some time and was extended to lieutenant colonels effective January 1, 1958. This policy will apply to selection of all Regular Army and AUS captains (except Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Army Nurse Corps, and Army Medical Specialist Corps) on active duty when considered for promotion to major.

The difference between the two methods is: Under the "fully qualified" method of selection, all officers being considered for promotion who are competent professionally and morally and are capable of performing their higher grade duties, may be selected, under standards set by the boards.

By contrast, in the "best qualified" method of selection, officers within the zone of consideration are ranked in order of merit and only the top 80 percent are eligible for promotion.

May Day Tea Entertains Ladies of Weapons Dept.

A May Day tea was given for ladies of the Infantry School's Weapons Department May 4 at the Cater Terrace Branch of the Main Officers' Open Mess at Fort Benning. Ladies of the Technique of Rifle Fire Committee, headed by Mrs. William V. Church, were hostesses for the affair.

The serving table, overlaid with a white cloth, was centered with a beautiful arrangement of pink and white roses. Silver candelabra with white tapers decorated with tiny waxed flowers and silver punch bowls graced either end of the table. Baskets holding pink and white flowers and a large Maypole with pink and white streamers decorated with fresh flowers added to the delightful May Day theme. Following the afternoon were the following ladies of the

Organ Music
During the tea Mrs. James L. Bryan presented a most enjoyable program of organ music.

Mrs. Marcia W. Adams, wife of Col. Adams, deputy director of the Weapons Department, was welcomed as a new member to the group. Special guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. Robert L. Crouch, Mrs. John T. Cooley and Mrs. Lloyd B. Razon.

White carnation corsages were presented to Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Adams, special guests and to Mrs. Samuel T. McDowell.

Mrs. Harold E. Houser had her guest for the tea Mrs. WASTE OF TIME

Army Develops Quick Opening For Parachutes

CHICAGO (APPS)—A parachute that is thrust upward and outward by explosives is being developed by the Army, said Major Gen. Charles G. Calloway in a speech here recently. The general heads the Army Quartermaster Research and Engineering Command, Natick, Mass.

The chute is designed for use by pilots of ground-skimming planes and by soldiers using flying parachutes, recently developed individual lift devices giving aerial mobility to individual soldiers.

The newly developed chute opens in eight-tenths of a second, almost five seconds sooner than the ordinary parachute, he said.

COL. CAPERS CITED
Lt. Col. Thomas S. Capers Jr. has received an Infantry Center certificate for noteworthy performance of meritorious service from November, 1957 to March 1958. He is Adjutant General and from March to April 1958 as Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff for Personnel (G-1).

M-Sgt Reups For 6 Years At 'Infantry'

M-Sgt. Frederick W. Stacey, sales promotion manager of Infantry, the magazine for professional Infantrymen, re-elected for six more years to the Army colorful during a brief but earnest ceremony April 18 in the office of Capt. August G. Seibert, Fort Benning recruiting officer.

M-Sgt. Stacey, a combat veteran of World War II, joined the Infantry staff as sales promotion manager in early January. He entered the Army Dec. 7, 1942, from New York and saw combat with the 14th Armored Division and the Fourth Armored Division during the liberation of France. When hostilities ceased he remained with the occupation troops until 1944.

During 1953 to 1956, the sergeant served as operations and intelligence Sergeant with the 29th Infantry Regimental Combat Team on Okinawa. Returning to the states after that tour he rejoined the Third Infantry Division at Fort Benning. One year later he was selected as an Army Recruiter with Greenwood, S.C. as base of operations.

Brigade Assigned Actor; Film's Loss, Army's Gain

A young actor who at the age of 24 has already done everything from night-club entertainment to award-winning dramatic performances is now assigned to The School Brigade's 24th Company. Although 24 is young, Michael Vorona prefers New York's legitimate stage, upon his release from service he will also be seen on the screen for MGM Studios, and on T.V. from service he will be seen in another picture this fall," he stated.

After the service Vorona also hopes to participate in the Shakespearean Festival held each year in Stratford, Conn. He feels that this would be his greatest experience in acting.

2ND LT. VORONA From Bistrot to Brigadedead

In 1953 Vorona was presented with the highest collegiate drama honor — The Green Door Honor Key. It can best be described as an "Intercollegiate Oscar" — for overall high quality dramatic production and acting. The next season the NYU group won the Intercollegiate Drama Festival and Vorona decided to close the theater his life's work.

From May to November of 1955, Vorona studied at renowned Sorbonne University in Paris and acted in the equally famous "Comedie Francaise," one of the world's most serious acting groups. While appearing in such difficult dramatic productions as "L'Immortelle" by Andre Gide, Vorona did some nightclub singing on the side of some of Paris' more fashionable bistros.

After a short stay in this country, Vorona attended the University of Zurich, Switzerland for a year and gained further acclaim by appearing in the smash Broadway hit, "The Diary of Ann Frank" when it opened at the Shubert in Zurich.

In October of last year, he started working with Stella Adler in New York whom he says without reservation "is the greatest dramatic coach in the world today." According to Vorona, "she has coached almost all the contemporary stars in the profession, and I feel extremely lucky to have had the opportunity to work with such an outstanding person."

While working in New York last fall, Vorona appeared for

Armed Forces Slate Special Observance

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Including defensive power, the alert and preparedness in evidence more than ever as the services celebrate their ninth Armed Forces Day. Observances will be held May 10 to 18 in this and other countries around the world to point up the "Power for Peace" held by the U. S. Armed Forces.

Our forces, though smaller in numbers than last year, are organized even further for defense against the mushrooming power of modern war. In the Army it is the pentomic concept. The Marine Corps has a major reorganization underway. On the sea — and under it — the power and force of the Navy have been growing. And in the sky, the Air Force keeps alert and prepared for the future, should danger wing down from the clouds. The ideas behind all this activity is to have a fast-moving force that can strike quickly, with finality. Power for peace, it has been said, depends on ever-growing ability to defend against an enemy. The Armed Forces Day will show the United States and its neighbors of the world how our military services stand — prepared. The total estimated strength of the Armed Forces was listed as 2,617,732 at the end of February. That represented an increase of 4,418 over January. Recruitment and inductees of all enlisted personnel were estimated at 60,384 in February, a decrease of 3,068 over the previous month. The figure included 13,241 Selective Service inductees, 25,550 new recruits, 18,668 re-enlistments, and 2,007 reservists going on active duty. Army procurement in February totaled $7,638, with 19,229 inductions through Selective Service, 7,073 new recruits, 6,575 re-enlistments and 722 reservists entering active duty. The Army's strength was estimated at 906,911 for the previous month. Navy procurement totaled $3,942, with 7,941 new recruits, 4,804 re-enlistments and 1,718 reservists going on active duty. Estimated Navy strength was $20,800 compared to $23,638 for January. February procurement for the Marine Corps totaled 4,574, of which 2,450 were new recruits, 1,194 re-enlistments and 930 reservists entering active duty. Corps strength was estimated at 192,318. The previous month it was 159,000. Air Force procurement for February totaled 15,268, with 10,000 inductions through Selective Service, 7,785 new recruits, 7,989 re-enlistments and 122 reservists entering active duty. Air Force strength was estimated at $71,700, compared with $77,010 for January. CAMP REGISTRATION—Registration for Fort Benning's Girl Scout summer camp will be held May 12 from 9:30 a. m. to 2 p. m. at the Girl Scout Little House.

Management Improvement Savings Total $202,600 In 3rd Quarter at TIC

Civilian and military personnel at Fort Benning submitted management and money saving improvements of $202,600 at the Infantry Center during the third quarter of fiscal year 1958. From January 1 through March 31, management improvement officials report that 60 individual improvement suggestions which will result in savings of an estimated $202,600, 59,700 man-hours and a reduction of 6,000 miles were submitted. The Quartermaster Section submitted the largest number, 15. However, the Provost Marshal Section, with three suggestions, led all other sections in dollar benefits, man-hour and vehicle mileage savings. The section's three suggestions will eliminate an estimated 27,

When Queen Elizabeth II and her regal party were to fly from Jamestown, Va., to Washington, D. C. last fall, the Army's Chief Warrant Officer George was selected, along with seven other pilots, for the honor. OC George is a helicopter pilot and was a Chief Warrant Officer at Fort Belvoir, Va., when picked to fly the Majesty to the Capital. Candidate George still recalls the impressions made by the Queen's language. He says, "most pieces were as big as my arms." Stamped on a large, gold-plated, plaque, "And, he remembers with pride the rose which gave him for his services. Flying VIPs His memories of flying other notable guests include a week tour of flying Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, and Army life master, Capt. Perry Ohio, and other Pentagon VIPs on similar occasions. OC George, age 28, has been in the Army since he was 16 years of age. During his time he managed to complete a year of college at George Washington University. Civilian Advice While a civilian advisor for the 1st Airborne Corps, he presented a memorandum, dated a secretary in the same building where he worked. As a pilot of Fort Belvoir, he was selected to be a member of a group of pilots to attain a perfect safety record. His participation in helicopter evacuation of some foot-poisoned Boy Scouts at Camp Chester, Va., earned him a letter of appreciation from the commanding general of Fort Eustis, Va. At 17th Battalion Now a member of the 2nd Officer Candidate Company, Student Battalion, The School Brigade, Candidate George says the harassment of academic, CSI and Helicopter School are similar. His immediate goal is the completion of OCS, but Army Flight School is his ultimate aim. OC George is at present the President of the Student Council in Student Company. This is an inclination that his well-known saying of "The only way to go is to climb" will stay with him as he climbs through the ranks and field of aviation which is so much a part of him.

220 Miles in 5 Days

Ranger Walks from TIS to Fla. To Develop Marching Techniques

Covering 220 miles in just five days, Lt. Raymond L. Reade, an intrepid Ranger instructor marched from his department headquarters at Fort Benning's Infantry School to the Ranger training camp near Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., to develop the marching techniques of long-range foot patrols emphasizing speed. On the grueling march, Lt. L. John C. Reade averaged shifting and provided the restlessness of "dopey" sleep. He took a five or ten-minute break each hour and two or one hour of sleep each day. Since Lt. Reade's total break time never exceeded eight hours during the 48-hour period much of his free time was devoted to caring for his feet. He slept a total of only three or four hours each day. The remaining 16 hours per day were all "on foot."

Lighted Cigarette With the exception of his final dash, when he took no break longer than 15 minutes, Lt. Reade said he did not feel a want of sleep. During the last day he kept a lighted cigarette in his mouth during each break to keep from oversteering the allotted quarter hour. Lt. Reade made no special preparations for the march. His Ranger Department duties did not allow time for any training for the trip as such, and he conceived the idea for the march only a week before beginning it. Good Condition He readily attributed his sustained rate of two and one-half and three miles per hour to "all-round good physical condition." First Lt. James M. Burkland also of the Ranger Department accompanied Reade the first three and one-half days of the trip. Ranger's Ability "Lt. Reade's success was due just as much to his self-control and physical courage as physical fitness. He exhibited a real Ranger's ability to take punishment and remain in action," Lt. Burkland declared. "Several positive conclusions were drawn from the undertaking. Inadequate Boot Usually evading his swollen feet, Lt. Reade said the present issue boot is wholly inadequate for extended marches of this type. "The boot does not allow for expansion of the foot and the hard cap creates toe blisters," he explained. He had been forced to slit both sides of the boot to relieve the pressure and allow heat to escape. Aspirin Tablets Lt. Reade found aspirin tablets invaluable in assuaging blister pain and muscle tension. "The expected general fatigue did not materialize and most of best combat efficiency was a direct result of foot problems. Soldiers must accept the fact that long-range marches favoring blistered parts of the feet results in cramped muscles and strained knee joints which are more crippling than the blisters themselves," he concluded. Equal Spawners The lieutenant hopes to further develop march techniques, which he considers an essential to atomic warfare as they were in the days of the Roman Empire. His march was a classic march of the Spartans before the battle of Marathon when they covered 150 miles in three days with full combat load and were prepared on arrival to fight the Persians who outnumbered them 10 to one. Next on Lt. Reade's agenda is a 48-hour, 100-mile march with full combat load. He believes that 50 miles a day for two or three days is a practical goal for infantry training. Patrol Planned Following Reade's pioneering example, the Ranger Department is planning a full-scale combat patrol operations over the same terrain. Aircraft will be employed to supply rations and heavy equipment so that the patrols will need to carry only what they need for defense. Local Residents, Law Enforcement officials and military units will be alerted so that the Ranger patrols also may test security and evasion techniques. Not A Vagrant Civilian reaction to Lt. Reade during his journey was mixed. A. Clayton, Ala., constable checked his papers to see that this young man walking along the railroad tracks was not a vagrant. When Lt. Reade prepared noodle soup in a tin one evening, a friendly farmer came with his "rescue" on a tractor, believing him to be a downed flyer. But the populace of the Eglin Air Force Base a few hours away was not so kind. Lt. Reade was just another lost student from the Florida Ranger camp.

DROLL, CENTER, SENDS LASSITER DOWN FIFTH TIME
Pete Rademacher, Right, Awarded Droll Fourth Round KO

KO in Fourth

Droll Drops Lassiter Five Times

St. Bennie Droll, 325th Airborne Battle Group at Fort Benning, sent Joe Lassiter of Charlotte, N.C., reeling to the canvas five times before winning by a knockout in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round main event at the Municipal Auditorium in Columbus May 20.

The bout ended in 1:54 of the fourth and brought down the curtain on the first professional boxing card held in Columbus in several years. An estimated 700 fans saw the five-bout program.

Only the first round of the headliner was close and even then Droll had the edge. In the second, Droll floored Lassiter twice and again in the third the Charlotte boy was down. In the fourth he hit the canvas once before referee Pete Rademacher called a halt to the slaughter and awarded a KO to Droll.

In the sentimental, Larry Jones, a popular boxer here several years ago, won a unanimous decision over Tommy Fields of Philadelphia. Jones is a Fort Benning soldier. But in winning, Jones was a far cry from the Jones who won handsomely in his previous appearance.

In the first three rounds of the right-round scrap, neither fighter showed too much action. It was in the late stages of the fight when Droll, moving in on his opponent and scoring points.

In another eight - rounder, Bud Stal defeated Bobby Lee in another slow-moving bout and in two six-round bouts, Joe Rodriguez defeated Eddie Marotta.

The Rodriguez-Marotta bout opened the card and was a pleasing scrap although Marotta, the shorter of the two fighters, just couldn't reach his larger opponent with any degree of success.

Annual Picnic Mead

Association to Serve Quarter Ton of 'Cue

More than a quarter ton of barbecued chicken with fixings will be served May 10 at King's Food Recreational area.

The barbecue, the annual picnic meal of the Fort Benning Fish and Game Maintenance Association, will be part of a day's events planned by association members.

Start of the first event will be at 12:01 a.m. on May 10. At that time participants in the fishing contest will drop their hooks into the waters of King's and Harry's Ponds in trying for a long of prize fish.

Prizes will also be awarded to the winners of the skish tournament scheduled to start at 1 p.m. This tournament will be exhibitions of accuracy bait, spin and fly casting by the post's leading fishermen.

Top attendance prize will be a 10 foot aluminum "V" boat, boat complete with a seven and one-half horsepower motor.

"The day will close with a split 'fish grab'." At Clear Creek Pond it is planned to use a commercial chemical to stun the fish which may be caught either from boats or from the banks with dip nets.

At Weems Pond an old fashioned fish grab will take place where hairy souls will wade into the muddy pond after it has been drained and attempt to capture fish by hand.

Through the fishing and skish tournaments are open only to Fish and Game Maintenance Members all personnel are invited to witness the activities at King's Pond. The barbecue will be served to holders of tickets previously purchased but a mobile Post Exchange unit will be available for the convenience of those who might arrive later in the afternoon.

IC C Beats 54th To Stay Unbeaten

Infantry Center Troop Command took control of top spot in Fort Benning baseball as the 54th Medics fell victims to the 29th Infantry 5-4 in a major loop upset. ICCTC took their only contest of the week, easily toppling the 14th Infantry 8-2, while the School Brigade scored their first win of the campaign, edging the 151st Engineers, 3-2.

BY DAVE ROTHENBERG

A surprise blow was dealt to the high riding 54th Medics, as the 29th Infantry snatched the 5-4 May 4 at Gowdy Field. Raymond Lavette provided the pitching mastery for the victors in a contest marred by 12 fielding miscues.

Three 29th hits, combined with a trip of Medics errors, allowed for three runs in the second frame, while the winners added two more tallies in the sixth frame.

The 54th pulled across two runs in the fifth, on four hits, a base on balls and a 29th miscue. This could have been the big inning for the previously unbeaten 54th, but two men were out on the base paths. Dale McCallum was caught attempting to steal, following his second of three base hits, and Grover "Deacon" Jones was nabbed going from first to third on a single. Left fielder Victor Vega cut down the lead-footed Jones.

Lavette had control difficulty in the eighth, allowing two more tallies, but he came through to stifle the threats and engineer the first big upset of the season.

14th 2
ICVCY chalked up their third straight victory as Dick Murray capped his first win of the campaign, downing the 14th Infantry, 8-2.

Officer's Spring Matches

Contestants Sought For Tennis Tourney

Chuck Evert, tennis pro at the General Newarden tennis courts of the Main Officers' Open, Mess announced this week that more entrants are being sought for the Spring Tennis Tournament at the officers' club.

Over 400 entries have been submitted, but tournament officials hope to have about 100 entered by 5 p.m. May 16. Probably many people in the School Brigade and 10th Division will be interested in entering the tournament and they are urged to do so, officials said. They may enter at the Pro Shop any afternoon until 5 P.M. May 16.

Drawing for the matches will be held May 16 and all entrants are requested to appear at the Pro Shop at 1:30 p.m. on May 17 for announcement of first round matches.

Evert pointed out that this is a tournament for everyone and not just "ace players." It affords a wonderful opportunity to the beginner and novice as well, he said. It is a chance to get to know others interested in the game of tennis, Evert said.

There is no entrance fee for the tournament and trophies will be awarded in the men's division for singles and doubles and in the ladies division for singles. It is anticipated that the first two rounds of the tournament will be held on May 17-18 with the semi-finals on May 24 and the finals on May 25.

Charlie Quinn Swims Restricted In Ponds at Post

The sport of fishing is normally as far removed from that bill-of-dundie of the MP's, "D.H.", as is a 155 MM gun from a chess game. Such has not been the case recently, we hear, for several delinquency reports have been issued recently for personnel swimming in restricted ponds and for improper fishing licenses.

It's always a temptation to take a cooling dip while fishing on a hot day but our Garrison Regulations are quite specific in ruling against such dunking. Our ponds are full of snags, weeds, holes and so on. They are, in most instances, miles away from the main area and their waters are of dubious, unadmirable, natural, pond variety. Each of these points, however, is a reason in itself why swimming is prohibited in other than the clean, treated and supervised pools which are now in operation. Top, swimming near a fisherman intent in stalking a trophy could be cause for issuance of two D.F.s. One to the swimmer and one to the fisherman for assorted mayhem.

As for improper licensing, it is apparent that many of our people are not familiar with the Department of Army directive which requires military personnel to acquire state licenses before hunting or fishing on a military reservation. This directive was published in November, 1956, and means that anyone hunting or fishing here on the Fort Benning reservation must have either a valid Georgia or Alabama State license in his possession. A fishing license covering deer, turkey, $2.25 and an all-combination license takes $3.25. Licenses may be procured at the Fish and Game Maintenance office, Bldg. 384, or at the Ranger Guards area at Harmony Church. A valid license from either Georgia or Alabama is good anywhere on post. Let it be hoped that the information proffered above deters the long arms of military guardians of the post laws from reaching out in the direction of any more improperly licensed personnel. We'd rather have our name scribbled across the face of a fishing license than engraved in old english script on a DR any day!

This is the season for fire ants — the perennial immigrant which has infested the South in recent years and against which our military and civil authorities are waging an all-out war. Every means is being used to combat further spread of these ants and we ask all readers of this column to cooperate in the campaign. Their hills, which they can build overnight are usually a foot or more across, loosely constructed and seem to have a large number of entrances. The ants themselves are very small but their viciousness is out of all proportion to their size. If such a hill is seen it is best not to chance even a single bite but to call the Post Entomologists at Ft. 5102 and steps will be taken to destroy it, its wicked little builders.

Remember The Barbecue
Time is getting closer to the hour when you'll no longer be able to purchase tickets for the annual barbecue of the Fish and Game Maintenance Association. The whing-ding is scheduled May 10. Thirty attendance prizes will be handed out, topped by an aluminum boat and seven and one-half M.P. medals. You need not be physically present to be eligible. So pick up a few tickets at 25 cents a lick. And... that's it for this week... and watch out for the fire ants, huh?

Atlete of Week Ladner Displays Good Javelin, Discus Throws

(Editor's note: Fort Benning athlete of the week, a regular sports feature in The Bayonet, is selected by Special Services Officer.)
Second Lt. Jake L. Ladner is star performer in the javelin and discus events for Fort Benning tracksters.

Lt. Ladner has turned in consistently outstanding performances in recent track meets.
The Pittsburgh, Penn. native gained wide acclaim in both football and baseball while attending Wake Forest College before being assigned to 29th Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade. He hopes to continue in the two events (discus and javelin) and to improve on his collegiate marks in both.

At Brentwood High School (Pittsburgh) Ladner lettered in three sports — football, basketball and track. He was captain of the Western (Pennsylvania) all star prep football team, and won a full scholarship to Wake Forest. It was track, however, that led him to him the most. He competed in the 40-yard run, javelin, discus, and the broad jump. He finished second in the javelin, throwing the spear 188 feet.

Ladner attended Wake Forest for four years and lettered three times in track and football. In 1956 he was selected as an all conference (Atlantic Coast conference) athlete and was selected on several conference team's all-conference listings. In track Ladner competed in both his specialties, hurling the javelin to a new school record in his senior year.

Lt. Ladner is in the Army for six months.

Co. B Leads 14th Inf. In Softball

At the end of the seventh week of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, Softball League, Company B is leading the league with three wins and one loss.

The league, which got off to a slow start due to bad weather and military commitments, is rolling along at a rapid pace with any one of six teams having a chance to win.
The competition has been keen as well as fierce as is shown by Sgt. Vernon Turbush of Mortar Battery who is in the hospital with twisted ligaments in his knee. This happened during the first inning of the game between Mortar Battery and Company A.

The standings are as follows:
Company B 3-0
Company A 2-1
Company C 1-2
Company D 1-2
Company E 0-3
Company F 0-3

Brags Drubs Track Team By 104-77

Fort Bragg's 2nd Airborne Division won revenge May 3 as their track stars edged the Fort Benning runners, 104-77, at the Laker's Doughboy Stadium.

Two weeks previously, at Fort Bragg, the Fort Benning tracksters emerged on top. In the recent meet, they competed without stars Jimmy Brown, top point getter on the squad; Henri Geller, undefeated 880-yard and mile man, and undefeated javelin star Jack Ladner.

However, former University of Houston speed merchant Jerry Beak, still running for the Fort Benning team and a 100-yard winning time of 9.5 seconds in the 100-yard dash and 22.6 seconds in the 220-yard dash.

Four members of Fort Benning also took first place in the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.6 seconds, the 400-yard dash hurdles in 1 minute 0.2 seconds; Gerry Griffin's 121 foot, 104 inch discus throw was the best in the meet. The 1000 yard race was won by a Fort Benning runner in 10 minutes 1.2 seconds.

Lenny Moore had his best performance in the 200 yard hop, step and jump, with 22 feet and 44 foot, 10 inches, respectively.

U.S. Leads In Pentathlon

PORT SAM HOUSTON, Texas (AP)—The United States team jumped to an early lead after two events in the International Modern Pentathlon meet here, rolling up 4,640 points in riding and fencing.

The Mexican team was close on their heels, just 24 points out of first place as a result of dominating the fencing tests.

At the end of the first day's competition in riding, the U.S. squads paced the field in the fencing meet. Led by Donald Johnson, high man for the U.S. team, and Jack Daniels, team leader, the U.S. team finished one-two in the cross-country riding.

Johnson was second in individual standings with 994 points and Daniels third with 990. Only two of the 22 competitors finished the 3,500 meter course without a fault—either on their heels, just 24 points out of first place as a result of dominating the fencing tests.

Mexico replaced the U.S. B squad in second place the next day when they garnered 2,532 points in the fencing matches. The U.S. A team followed with 2,136 points and Brazil and B team, and Jack Daniels, team leader, the U.S. team coach.

Post to Hold Swim Meet June 27-28

Fort Benning's Special Services has begun preparations for the June 27-28 swimming and diving meets. For the many events there is to be held for experienced swimmers only.

Persons with officiating experience are encouraged to participate in the forthcoming June events. Winners with experience, too, are urged to submit their names to the Sports Office at Briant Wells Field House.

Qualified personnel will receive briefings and refreshers from the sports staff. The many number of officials needed for a swimming meet makes this a busy date a necessity for contacting qualified persons.

Final line judges for first, second and third places are needed, as are turn judges. Diving officials and timers are also needed. As many as 50 persons are needed for a swimming and diving meet to be held.

Although there will be no Third Army competitions this year, in preparation for the late June Fort Benning meet, units are encouraged to have their own meets. The Briant Wells Field House swimming pool is available for swimmers from the units to practice.

Training time for swimming is left to each individual unit. The sports and recreation officers should be informed of individual representation in swimming or officiating.

(Thank you for continuing.) At Gowdy Field Mary S. Brigades Pitcher Beswell allowed single tallies in the first two frames, but didn't allow a hit again until there was one way in the ninth inning, when opposing batsman Bob Norman collected a hit.

But Norman's hit was to little and too late, although he too pitched well enough to win most contests, yielding but five safeties.

CAPT. DAVIS CYCLED
Capt. Bruce A. Davis of 82d Tank Battalion received the U. S. Army Commendation Ribbon with Metal Fastener at an awards ceremony held at Fort Benning's Chapel Field recently.

Post Hunt Club Holds Grand Opening Here

Boots and spurs mingled with sport shirts and slacks May 3 when the Fort Benning Hunt Club held its grand opening on the club grounds on Marsh Road.

Over 300 members and guests took advantage of beautiful weather in attending the ceremonies and witnessed the cutting of the blue ribbon signifying the official opening of the club by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center.

Gen. Ruggles was introduced by Col. Carlton W. Sargent of the U. S. Army Hospital and president of the Hunt Club.

"These of us who have never served with a mounted unit," Gen. Ruggles said, "have missed one of the most satisfying phases of military service. So it is a fine thing to see the return of the horses to Fort Benning through the efforts of Hunt Club members."

"The organization of such a club," the general stated, "expands the already numerous off-duty facilities which Fort Benning has to offer its personnel and it could well be that Fort Benning might have its own polo team again."

Future Success
Gen. Ruggles closed his remarks by congratulating the organizers of the club on their marked accomplishments and wished the club all success in the future.

Following the remarks by the deputy commander, members and guests witnessed an equestrian demonstration by a group of junior club members under the direction of club instructors, Mrs. Jean Valdespino and Mrs. Betty Ochs. Eleven youngsters gave a flawless demonstration of horsemanship by taking their mounts through three gates, the walk, trot, and canter, Act.

The large audience broke up after the exhibitions to inspect the facilities of the club which include stables, picket lines, riding rings and paddocks. A beef barbecue was then enjoyed under canvas for a picnic grove.

The last of the jumps was accompanied by appreciative applause from the watchers who were delighted to note that Mike's horse was visibly disappointed in being relined in.

Neared World Record

Sprinter Undergoes Training as Student

BY TOM MALLORY
A former Dartmouth College sprinter who in 1956 ran the 60-yard dash in one tenth of a second off the world record, is now a member of The School Brigade's 21st Company, and Lt. Hugh "Chip" Hartenstein posted outstanding times in the 60, 100, and 220-yard sprints during four years of competition which saw him run against such stars as Dartmouth University's Dave Sims and Villanova speedster George Simer.

Lt. Hartenstein was born and raised in Cuba after his father had moved there from Germany almost 50 years ago. He entered this country to attend Christ School, Arden, N.C., in 1952 and while there lettered twice in football, soccer, and baseball. His outstanding athletic record guided him and his teammates to Dartmouth in 1953, and once there he decided to concentrate his sports activity on track.

Runs 9.5 Hundred
Hartenstein ran the 100 and the 220 yard events in the outdoor season, and the 50 and 60 yard sprints on the boardwalk in his senior year, against Boston University, he was clocked at 9.5 for the 100 only to discover that due to a technicality the distance had been re-measured and found a foot short) the record could not stand. However, throughout his collegiate track career, Hartenstein consistently stayed below the 10 second mark and averaged only a fraction over 21 seconds for the 220. During his three years of varsity competition, Dartmouth posted a highly successful record which was marred by only three losses.

It is the extra short distance, as that are Hartenstein's specialties, however. "The shorter the race, the better I like it," said Hartenstein. "I have a good start and I use it to get a jump on the competition in those first few strides." He recalls that his best individual performance was at the NCAA meet in New York's Madison Square Garden in 1956 in the 100 yard sprint. "We had three minutes to get into the semi-finals. I was timed in 6.2 twice during the world record is 6.11 in the qualifying heats running against some pretty stiff competition. In the semi-finals against Sinder, Capert, and Dave Sims, I got off in the lead but just didn't have enough left to stand off the late speed of Sims." The winning time was a fraction of a second slower than Hartenstein's 6.2.

Due to his Latin American background and interest, Hartenstein hopes to enter foreign business after his tour of active duty with the Army.

The White Plains, N. Y., member of last season's championship Fort Benning baseball team of the 30th Infantry. With the winning team and a composite of Fort Benning all-stars, he was a member of the team that caused a small sensation at Fort Rucker, Ala., and the Third Army tournament.

A 22-year-old slugging star, he batted near the 400 mark in his first season of Fort Benning competition, and is hitting .375 in the early stages of this campaign for the second place 9th Medics.

Baseball's minor league top hitter of 1956 is enjoying his second season of Fort Benning baseball competition.
Glover "Deacon" Jones, star second baseman of the 54th Medics, was a 409 batsman for the Chicago White Sox farm team in Dubuque of the Midwest League. For achieving minor league baseball's highest batting average during the season, Jones was the recipient of a silver bat presented by the Hillier-Bradley Company.

Museum Gets Jap Relics

Among the latest historic war relics to be added to the Infantry Museum at Fort Benning is part of a collection of Japanese weapons and combat equipment from Guadalcanal.

This collection, taken from the battlefield by Major Gordon A. Cumbar of Phenix City, Ala., was sent to his brother, Col. Noel T. Cumbar, now at Hickham Air Force Base, Hawaii.

It was first displayed in Court Square in Montgomery, Ala., with an admission charge of a $1 War Bond and accounted for $25,000 the first day. It was then put on permanent display in the War Room of the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., and subsequently has been displayed at various Air Force bases and several cities.

The collection is on display in the Infantry Museum, temporarily located in the Information Building at Outpost No. 1.

TWIN-ENGINE SEMINOLES MADE BY BEECH AIRCRAFT CORP. L-23 Is Easy To Land And Takeoff Over Rough Unimproved Airstrips

'Know Your Army Aircraft'

Seminole Primarily Used To Transport Passengers

The L-23 Seminoles is a six-place, twin-engine, low-wing monoplane of all metal construction manufactured by Beech Aircraft Corporation, of Wichita, Kan.

This aircraft is used primarily for transporting passengers, light cargo and other liaison functions. The L-23 is characterized by square tipped wings and tail surfaces and retractable tricycle landing gear.

The L-23 is the Army's command plane used to transport the Division or Army Commander to the forward units of his command.

The Army is now receiving the "D" model series of the L-23. The "D" model differs from the other L-23's in three important aspects.

First and foremost, the L-23 has de-icing equipment. The first such equipment installed on an Army aircraft. Secondly, the speed is greater and the last identifying feature are two three-bladed props.

ROCKY SHOALS. The L-23's are fully equipped with a radio equipment. There are no provisions for litter in the L-23.

WASHINGTON (ANS). Army troops will land on the coast near San Simon, Calif. The operation following the landing will be held in the vicinity of Hunter-Liggett Military Reservation, Camp Roberts, and the Hearst Estate.

The surveying crew of the 577th Engineer Battalion has started a preliminary survey of a new road to be constructed in the vicinity of Lawson Army Air Field.

Rebocates Cabin. Company 199th Engineer Battalion has gone into the moving business. Log cabin moving to be exact.

The 577th Engineer Battalion will begin at Amphorville Bridge and will parallel the river to Walls Range for a distance of approximately five miles.

Its ability to operate for a sustained period on only one engine is probably the most important characteristic of the L-23 to the pilot.

WASHINGTON (ANS). Rocky Shoals, a Joint Army-Navy amphibious training exercise will be conducted off the West Coast from Nov. 2-11.

M-Sgt. Meeks Gets School Certificate. M-Sgt. Charlie A. Meeks, supervisor and instructor at the Third Army Food Service School, received a certificate of achievement for his outstanding service from August, 1952, to April 30, 1958.

Two Retire From ICTC At Ceremony

SP2E L. HANCOCK. MS-GT J. MAKOVIC Fought On 3 Continents Was In Europe, 1944

Retirement ceremonies were conducted recently in the office of Lt. Col. John P. Cadie, commanding officer, First Battalion, USAIC Troop Command, for M-Sgt. John J. Makovic and Sp4 Edward L. Hancock.

M-Sgt. Makovic enlisted over 20 years ago and among his many assignments he recalls most vividly was with the 1st Armored Division in Europe in 1944. Prior to his retirement he was assigned to the TIC Chaplain Section.

Sgt Hancock performed the duty of senior chief wheel mechanic with the 388th Ordnance Company. Prior service included tours with the 24th Ordnance Detachment in North Africa and Italy in 1943 and Korea in 1951.

Both men were awarded Infantry Center Certificates of Merit. Mrs. Donald Paulsen became parents of a six-year-old son, Robert, on April 28.

Second Lt. John Meahan, former troop information officer for the School Brigade, joined the company, Pvt. Robert Von Astem and Jerry Dohs were assigned to the company as office job trainees.

44th Company - Operation Beautification went into effect on April 28. Sgt. John Tulone, duty sergeant, is really sharpening up our area. Repairing and painting are taking place throughout the 44th Company.

40th Company - Pfc. Huber H. Ringhausen has been running the mile for The School Brigade track team. After a five year layoff, Pfc. Ringhausen was clocked at 4:52 in his first attempt.

Headquarters Moved The 577th Engineer Battalion headquarters has moved from building number 2279 to building number 2281. The first floor houses the Battalion executive officer's office, the trooper room and the personnel section. The bottom 58 section is now located on the second floor.

Sethal Game Headquarters a D Service Company, 49th Engineer Battalion detached Company B of the 49th for to three in a hard fought eight innings of softball. The game was played on April 24 on the 49th's softball diamond. Sgt Roy Denmark of H and S Company was on his way to a no-hitter when Company B broke loose with three in the seventh inning. With the score tied three to three in the eighth inning, Sgt Dick Dohs brought in the winning run to claim the victory for H and S Company.

Teams clashed on a hot night taking a breather in anticipation of the 151st Engineer Group formation play which began May 1.

SNEAK THIEF Cleared of a street-lighting charge, a man in Gardfield, N. J., was back in the same courtroom two weeks later. On his first visit he'd stolen the judge's gavel.

Civilian Buys $500 Bond As House Down Payment

Eddie Preek Fort Benning civilian employee of the Infantry Center Quartermaster Section, believes U. S. Savings Bonds are a sure method of making a down payment on a house.

Preek said that was the reason for his payroll deduction plan of $18.75 for 30 days to receive a $500 savings bond. He is a warehouseman in the Infantry Center Quartermaster section.

Preek's bond was presented to him in a special ceremony at the office of the quartermaster.

YAC to Hold Work Bureau For Summer

Fort Benning's Youth Activities Club will sponsor a Youth Employment Bureau for the post children, ages 14 through 18, for part-time summer work.

The Bureau will operate as clearing house listing job opportunities available, individuals desiring jobs and the establishment of appropriate rates of remuneration for service performed, according to YAC officials. It will be operated by Fort Benning teen-agers under the direction of Lt. Col. Bayard W. Hart, commander of Fourth Student Battalion, the School Brigade.

Fort Benning part-time jobs on the post may register daily at Building 1000, Youth Activities headquarters in the hospital area. Approximately 500 boys and girls are eligible to participate in the employment program, officials stated.

In order to operate the agency teen-agers are needed for managerial posts including general manager, secretary and treasurer, and personnel operators. The general manager will guide and direct overall operations, supervise other office workers, and inspect workers on the job planning daily at Building 1000. Youth jobs will be assigned to the best qualified applicants. Applications may be obtained from the YAC office.

Types of summer jobs include yard care, cat washing, errand, pick-up and delivery service, baby sitting, pool attendant, tutoring service, house care and concession stand.

Further information may be obtained by calling Fort Benning office workers, and inspecting 2-6130.

3-A Salutes Gen. Hickey At Retirement

FORT McPHERSON, Ga.—Seventy-three unit old standards, representing active Army units throughout Third Army Area, will salute Fort Benning Third Army Commander Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey today in a colorful ceremony at Fort McPherson's Hedekia Field, which began at 3:30 p.m. Crack marching troops from Fort Benning, and the guard platoon from the 82nd Airborne Division joined Fort McPherson personnel in the final review. Headed by swift Army bands, more than 20 military units of various types flew by overhead as the last troops departed the post. The reviewing stand. An H-19 type helicopter came to a hover in front of the spectators at 4:18 p.m. "Good Luck General Hickey," Gen. Hickey has served continuously in the Army since July, 1916. During this time he rose from private to three star general. World War I, and the Korean Highlights of Gen. Hickey's career are: artillery commander in World War I; 2nd Army Division, World War II in the Pacific Islands, 1942; chief of staff of the U. S. Army Force in Austria, 1945-50; commanding general 82d Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N. C., since 1950. Gen. Hickey has commanded the Third Army since Aug. 1, 1957.

Twenty-two officers of general rank, representing the active Army, the Reserve, National Guard, and retired forces, along with leading civilian dignitaries, were invited as guests at the review and later at a reception and dinner.

Readied for President Pay Bill Nears Final Congressional Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—House-Senate differences being readily resolved, Defense officials believe military pay legislation can be on the president's desk for signature by May 8.

The Senate version of the bill (H.R. 11470), as drafted by the Armed Services subcommittee headed by Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.), accepted the Defense Department revised pay scale proposed on April 24 with little change.

The House legislation, overwhelmingly approved, carried FY 1959 costs of $38 million dollars. The DOD revisions scaled the House rates downward in most officer and enlisted grades, bringing the total to about $25 million.

The Senate raised the figure again to $27 million, by modest changes in the pay schedules and by introducing a new provision — a "responsibility" incentive for officers estimated to cost $12 million the first year.

Passed in unanimous action by the Senate April 29 on a roll call vote of 87-0, the legislation is ready for White House approval at an early date.

It is expected that the basic scales decided in conference may come even closer to the House version of the measure. There is a possibility, however, that incentive pay for officers could be dropped from a compromise bill.

The Stennis group has recommended that "responsibility" pay be $50 a month for grades O-3 and O-4; $100 for O-5 and $150 for O-6.

The number to receive this differential, based on the importance of duty assignments, would be 10 per cent in O-4, O-5 and O-6, and five per cent in O-3.

2 Classes Start; 4 End at TIS

Six class openings and closings are slated at The Infantry School this week.

A 12-man officers communications class began May 6. Some 162 students entered the advanced noncommissioned officers course May 7.

Graduation ceremonies were held May 7 for 103 members of a Ranger class.

Fifty-seven men will complete a rifle marksmanship instructors class today at 1:20 p.m. in Bldg. 3.

On May 9 approximately 204 students will receive parachute wings in ceremonies at 2:30 p.m. at Parachute Tower No. 6.

Final exercises will be held May 10 for a basic officers class, totaling 138 members, at 10 a.m. in the Main Theater.

Post Attacks Auto Crashes During Leave

Fort Benning's continuous safety program aimed at reducing automobile accidents by the servicemen on leave is being emphasized in a safety letter by Infantry Center officials.

The letter enlists the cooperation of parents of young servicemen in an effort to avoid traffic accidents. The letters are sent to the parents before the departure of the servicemen on leave.

Aim of the letter to parents of unmarried servicemen under 21 years and up to 23 years of age is to secure their aid in preventing late departure, necessitating unsafe speeds, leaving and in preventing the use of alcohol.

Officials stated that leave travel in private vehicles has been a frequent source of accidents resulting in death and injuries in the past, especially the return trip to the post.

In these letters, parents are asked to cooperate by insisting that the return trip be started early enough to permit reasonable speeds and adequate rest.

Unit commanders are being asked to exercise vigilance and care in the dispatch of these letters so they reach parents of the young servicemen before they arrive home.

The admission is free to both civilians and military personnel.

MEMBER CONVENTION WASHINGTON (ANS) - Members of the 10th Infantry Veterans Association will hold their 1958 convention at the Augusta House, Augusta, Maine from May 22-25. For further information, members may write the Association's Secretary, Walter W. Jones, 87 Bay State Ave., Somerville, Mass.

O.C. S. A. GOODMAN Was Supervising Elder

Lt. Spread Mormon Faith Through 'Land Down Under'

A young Mormon missionary, who recently returned from a two year stay in Australia where he handled a 50-man group from the Church of the Latterday Saints, is now completing his studies at Brigham Young University.

Officer Candidate Course No. 4, O.C. Skerrill A. Goodman, assigned to the 10th Infantry, 3rd Infantry Division, 24th Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N. C., also has an unusual pastime and hobby of hand art.

Glamor is added to the show by shapely Wac Claudette Roberts from Fort Jackson, S. C. This vocal stylist worked in clubs in New York before entering the service. She will demonstrate her versatility when she teams with Michael Mitchell, also of Fort Jackson, in a satirical dance.

Another entertainer who will show his fine talent is Pic-Walter Kowalski of Fort Bragg, winner in the instrumental solo category with his unique rendition of "Flight of the Bumble Bee."

Also on the program is vocalist and pianist, Fred Rucker, Ala., whose rendition of "On the Street Where You Live" brought down the house during the Third Army contest.

Group Singers "The Bumble Bee" representing Fort McPherson, Ga., took Third Army top honors in the group vocalist class with their rendition of "Day-O" and "The Saints Go Marching In." They also are scheduled to appear in charge of the gold depository in Fort Benning's May show.

A member of Fort McPherson group to appear will be the "Circle A Trio." Their "sing, pickin', and jokin'" is expected to bring a lot of laughs and applause.

An amazing impressionist, Pvt. Warren B. Clark of Fort Campbell, Ky., will use his gift of mimicry and voice changes to bewilder his audience.

Also from Fort Campbell are the "Columbia Quartet" who will join the Fort Benning "Madcaps" to furnish instrumental background music for the performance.

The admission is free to both civilians and military personnel.

IT'S A BIRD, IT'S A PLANE, IT'S A SKY DIVER
Darrell Branstetter Will Display His Unusual Hobby May 17

'Sky Diving' to Highlight Armed Forces Day May 17

An intricate "Sky Diving" exhibition performed by Darrell F. Branstetter, former Infantry School airborne instructor, will highlight the Armed Forces Day demonstration held at Fort Benning's Sightsseeing Field.

Branstetter's daredevil jump at 4:30 p.m. from an Army aircraft 6,500 feet above earth will be one of the many thrills presented by the Infantry School's Airborne - Air Mobility Department.

The young sky diver will demonstrate a body-controlled freefall as he descends from an aircraft in a horizontal position gliding toward the ground and at the same time forming a figure "9" by arching his body. When he completes his aerial gymnastics he will open his parachute by the use of a Yugoslavian hand trigger device and softly land on Sightsseeing Field.

Branstetter has performed 42 such sky dives in both exhibitions and competitions throughout the U. S. and Europe. In June, 1957, he won the national parachuting competition in Athens, Tenn., and in August of the same year participated in the world competition in Tivat, Yugoslavia. He is commander of the Third Infantry Division.

Gen. Boatner will address the Columbus chapter of the Military Order of World Wars which will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Main Officers Mess. Installation of new officers will be held.

Guest speaker for the occasion is Major Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, provost marshal general of the Army, who once served at Fort Benning as commander of the Third Infantry Division.

Gen. Boatner will address the Columbus chapter of the Military Order of World Wars which will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Main Officers Mess. Installation of new officers will be held.

Benning To Show 'Power for Peace'

The Infantry Center will dramatically illustrate "Power for Peace" the slogan for the 1958 Armed Forces Day celebration, to the people of the Chattahoochee Valley this week.

A gigantic open house to be held at Sightsseeing Field and throughout the various departmental areas of the Infantry School will highlight the Fort Benning ceremonies honoring the men and women of all the Armed Services on Armed Forces Day May 17.

Residents throughout the Chattahoochee Valley are invited to economics at Fort Benning May 17. Last year more than 8,000 attended Armed Forces Day festivities at post.

This week window and street displays, supplied by the various organizations at Fort Benning, have been installed throughout the business areas of Columbus and Phenix City. These displays honoring the Armed Forces will include weapons displays, Airborne Airfield, airborne and many more.

Highlighting the ceremonies in Columbus will be a parachute chute jumps.

While he was a parachute instructor at Fort Benning's Airborne Department during 1954-1953, he placed third in the p.p.t. jumping competition which was presented at the 10th anniversary of the Airborne Department.

Upon his release from the Army, Branstetter formed the first parachute jump school in the U. S. in Atlanta, Ga. The static displays of military equipment and weapons as well as guided tours through the post.

Congress Okehs Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Army will make initial proficiency advances on the basis of competitive scores compiled in a rated evaluation of the job performance of enlisted personnel.

A circular has been distributed, the Army said, as providing "an average order" to familiarize the Army with the new military pay bill, moving towards the White House to be signed into law.

Each service will have authority to make proficiency awards to a maximum of 15 per cent of total enlisted strength by means of pay grade advance or by monthly supplemental payments of $30, $100 or $150.

The reinstatement rate and "training investment," however, will determine and govern the number of proficiency awards to be made to each MOS from the funds available.

The Army expects to start making questions reflecting the indi-

100 Per Cent Bond Buyers

The 38th Field Artillery Battery (Searchlight) was the first battery or company size unit to attain 100 per cent participation in Fort Benning's Share in America U. S. Savings Bond drive running from May 5 through 16.

Commanded by Capt. Jamnie L. Aiken, the entire unit of 46 officers and enlisted personnel are now part of the payroll deduction plan for purchasing savings bonds. Having achieved participation of 66 per cent over in Fort Benning's annual bond campaign, the battery is eligible for the Minute-man certificate award.

Civilian groups having reached 100 per cent participation include the Infantry Center Civilian Personnel Section with 33 employees and the Third Army Food Service School with three civilian employees. Other reports of the halfway mark of the bond drive include the Transportation Section, 75 per cent with 290 civilians; the Quartermaster Section, 60 per cent with 438; and the Ordnance Section, 60 per cent with 245 employees.

U. S. Raises Stockpiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government stockpiles of raw materials but since the Korean War "virtually eliminate" threats of shortages that hindered Defense Mobilization efforts in the past.

With $7.3 billion in strategic and critical materials in government inventories plus production in US and readily accessible foreign areas, the defense industry could easily be expanded for "several war years," according to an advisory committee report made to Gordon Gray, Director of Defense Mobilization.

Entertainment Finals Set At Fort Belvoir in June

For the first time since the inception of the annual All-Army Entertainment Competition will be held in the Washington, D. C. area.

The Department of the Army has announced that Fort Belvoir, Va. June 18-19, will be the site where entertainment teams from the major Army commands will battle it out in seven "div" classes — vocal soloist, instrumental soloist, individual specialty, a vocal group musical and specialty group musical.

In addition, competition in the "recorded" classes, which include barbershop quartets, singing platoons and Army choruses, were also to be judged in the Washington area, or about April 15.

All of the contestants, both live and recorded, strive to secure points for their command to win the coveted Irving Berlin Trophy, which was dedicated by the Secretary of the Adjutant General as a symbol of command excellence in entertainment by the soldier for Europe for two consecutive years which is under the direction of Headquarters, Second United States Army. All of the winners will perform in the Presentation Showcase at Fort Belvoir on June 21 before an audience which will include many dignitaries from the Department of the Army.

The 1957 show gave a total of 248 performances and was acclaimed by troops of all the services in the United States, Germany, France, Bermuda, Puerto Rico, Panama, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, Korea, Okinawa, Iwo Jima, Eniwetok and Kwajalein.

Bonds Strengthen U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, in an appeal to servicemen and employees of the Armed Forces to increase purchases of U. S. Savings Bonds, said:

"The 1958 U. S. Treasury Savings Bond Program is now underway. I urge all Department of Defense personnel to join in this program by investing some portion of their pay regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds through payroll allotment.

"It is gratifying to me that military and civilian members of our National Defense team are already investing more than a million dollars a day in U. S. Savings Bonds. Through this high level of participation you who man our national defense are setting a splendid example for other Americans and are helping to maintain the sound national economy so essential to our security position.

"Investing in our Federal Government through the payroll allotment plan of buying U. S. Savings Bonds benefits ourselves in laying aside money for worthwhile objectives, and at the same time strengthens America's Peace Power."

Wage Total Peace

Two tasks confronting us... far outweigh all others... The first is to insure our safety through strength.

"... Now we have a broadly based and efficient defensive strength, including a great deterrent power which is, for the present, our best guarantee against war. But, unless we act wisely and promptly, we could lose that capacity to deter attack or defend ourselves.

My profoundest conviction is that the American people will say, as one man: No matter what the exertions or sacrifices, we shall maintain that necessary strength!

But we could make no more tragic mistake than merely to concentrate on military strength. For if we did only this, the future would hold nothing for the world but an Age of Terror.

And so our second task is to do the constructive work of building a genuine peace. We must never become so preoccupied with our desire for military strength that we neglect those areas of economic development, trade, diplomacy, education, ideas and principles where the foundations of real peace must be laid...

The only answer to a regime that wages total cold war is to wage total peace.

Tribute Paid to Post MPs

(Editor's note: Following letter, paying tribute to military police at Fort Benning, was received by The Bayonet from Capt. William R. Morgan Jr., assistant G-3 of The Infantry Center.)

"I would like to take this opportunity to pay tribute to the fine group of Military Policemen who, in my opinion, are very fortunate in having here at Fort Benning, Georgia.

"I have observed these men carrying out their duties in all sorts of weather and under most adverse conditions, and yet they never fail to maintain a soldierly appearance and an air of good humor about them.

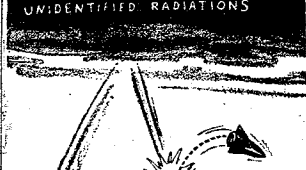

"There is nothing more refreshing while driving to work in the morning than to be greeted by a snappy salute, a pleasant smile and a cheerful 'Good Morning, Sir,' from the Military Police men manning their posts along the way.

"Sometimes I wonder what sort of man he is, one who under continuous pressure and faced with apparently monotonous duties, can continue, no matter how harassed he might be, to be so pleasant and considerate.

"I'm sure this article expresses the feelings of not only the writer but also those of the majority of the personnel serving here at Fort Benning."

Communists Run 2nd In Grecian Elections

ATHENS, Greece.—The pro-Western party of Constantine Karamanlis retained an absolute majority in Parliament May 12 but a Communist-led party surprisingly banded into second place.

The victory of Karamanlis' right-of-center National Radical Union had been expected, but the success of the Union of the Democratic Left (EDA) and the decline of the Liberals were not.

The EDA, which substituted for the Communist party when it was outlawed in 1947, won only 10 per cent of the votes in the 1951 and 1952 elections. The official count of Sunday's votes gave the party 24 per cent and 78 of the 300 Parliament seats.

BEIRUT, Lebanon.—Angry mobs shouting for the downfall of Lebanon's pro-Western government burned another U. S. library May 12 in northern Lebanon, an Iraqi oil pipeline was blown up. Strikes and shootings spread up and down the country.

Rioters smashed through a police guard outside the U. S. Information Agency library in Beirut, hurled books and furniture into the street and set them ablaze. Then they put the torch to the interior.

A general strike brought transportation and business to a standstill here Monday. At least four other buildings were set afire. Automobiles were overturned and rioters forced see if forces exchanged fire several times at different points here Monday.

At least five persons—including a woman and a child—were reported killed and 20 wounded.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (Capt.) TALMADGE F. MCNABE

Someone has defined profanity as "the effort of a feeble mind to express itself forcibly. Profanity is a brutal vice. He who indulges in it cannot be the highest type of gentleman, no matter what kind of clothes he wears or what culture he boasts. Despite all his refinement, the light and habitual taking of God's name in vain betrays a coarseness and unbecoming to a gentleman.

The story is told of a young man who had been extremely profane and thought little of it. After his marriage he made a spasmodic effort to conquer his conversational flip. A few years passed and, then through a little incident he saw the evil of his habit clearly. It happened like this:

One Sunday morning as he was about to be indicted a small cut. And true to habit, he blurted but a single word: "God be as responsible to the second commandment as you are to the first!" The man who had been so profane was the pastor of the church. He was the father of the young man who had been so profane. The little cut laid down her doll and looked expectantly at the room. "God be here!" she asked him. Blushing and ashamed, he replied, "Why do you ask that?"

The Judge Says ...

Have you ever thought whether a careless act on your part could result in a lawsuit? The answer is yes. You are responsible to the second commandment as you are to the first!

Let's take a look at a recent case that happened right here at Fort Benning. A 12-year-old boy was fined a $30 caliber blank cartridge by a young friend of his who had collected several hundred of his own blank unexpended ammunition.

Some rounds were found along the highway adjacent to the military reservation, and some rounds were picked up in the area along the highway.

After placing the cartridge in the ground, the boy shot it with an air rifle and it exploded. A fragment from the round-cut the jugular vein of the boy and killed him.

Could the United States government be held liable to the boy's family in a civilian court for the loss of the boy's life? Yes, if it can be shown that the carelessness of some member of the military in leaving the unexpended rounds lying on the ground was a direct contributing cause of the boy's death. What do you think? It is a close question which is presently pending before the United States District Court in Columbus. It can certainly be said that the government is liable for the boy's death.

Due to the complexity of this case, the boys and no further action will be taken. The largest production helicopter in the world today, and the lack of which the government has been known to have had, needed rounds would attract young boys, and that control of the ammunition would have prevented the ensuing death of the boy.

But where did the private individual get the authority to use the government's helicopter? The Supreme Court, United States Supreme Court, said in 1957 that "A sovereign is estopped from suit... on the ground that there can be no legal right as against the government which makes the law on which the right depends."

This concept was known as sovereign-day Monday this Friday.

Miss Georgia Spectacular Slated As Most Lavish in History Friday

A Miss Georgia "spectacular" will give Columbus its most lavish beauty pageant in history at 8 p.m. May 16. The staging is the boldest and most elaborate ever attempted by the sponsoring Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Nationally famous television star George DeWitt will emcee the show. And officials of the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City are coming to scout the Miss Georgia pageant for new ideas on staging and managing a beauty contest.

"Let's Have A Party" is the theme of this 14th consecutive Miss Georgia Pageant in Columbus.

George Blorquaid, general chairman, said the pageant will rate high in entertainment value, aside from its visual appeal. The 22 Georgia beauties will demonstrate their special talents in such things as piano and organ music, singing dancing, dramatic readings, juggling, flaming batons, and archery.

Production chairman I. D. King and staging director Benjamin, based on special talent in the state's loveliest and most talented young ladies will compete for the Miss Georgia title in this "Beauty Capital of America."

Miss America herself, Marilyn Van Derburg, and Miss Georgia will be in Columbus May 15.

Army Offers Permanent Grades Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army taking a step beyond pay incentives to stabilize manpower, will resume permanent promotion for career soldiers in enlisted grades on July 1.

Permanent promotions for regular Army personnel were halted during the Korean War, with most advancements since 1952 being made only in temporary grades.

The revival of permanent appointments is based on selection of the best qualified, will give professional soldiers added recognition — new assurance of security, according to the Army.

Eligibility for permanent grade status will be established on minimum active service, pay and time-in-grade requirements, plus the recommendations of commanding officers.

Exact numbers to be appointed in pay grades E-7 through E-9 will be announced later, the Army said. Allocations for the top three grades, however, will be placed in to provide a gradual increase to full authorization.

Non-commissioned officers will be awarded warrants of appointment. Lesser grades will be awarded permanent promotion orders, which make no actual grade changes.

They will be considered for permanent appointment. Total service and temporary time: E-7, 15 years; E-8, 11 years; E-9, five years; E-4, three years; E-5, 20 months; and E-6, four months; with two years in temporary grade for E-7, E-8, E-9.

The minimum will be one year.

Concert Sets Bach Work

The recorded concert at the music is heard today on the Main Fort Benning Library piano.

The "Goldberg Variations" is an elaborate work consisting of thirty variations on a state-ly sarabande theme.

The legend accounting for the composition of this work claims that it was written as a soporific. It is said that the Russian envoy to Saxony, Count von Keyserling, suffered from insomnia which was relieved by the clavier performances of Johann Gottlieb Goldberg. Each was therefore commissioned to write a peaceful work to be used especially for the sleep-inducing concerts.

MRS. DAVIS CITED

Mrs. Patsy Davis, for three years clerk-typist for Headquarters, Fourth Student Battalion, The School Brigade, received a Fort Benning certificate of achievement and a piece of luggage from Lt. Col. Bayard W. Hart upon her departure for Germany to be with her husband, a Third Division soldier.

U. S. Plans To Fire Man 150 Miles

WASHINGTON (APFS)—A separate mechanism, the Director of Technical Development of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency explained, would slow the "space probe's" reentry into the atmosphere and return him safely to earth while the "space probe" is in the atmosphere and return him safely in a capsule.

The Army is ready now to make this probe by man into outer space, Dr. von Braun revealed. Eventually entire contingents of troops and supplies can be rocketed to Europe in a matter of minutes by huge intercontinental ballistic missiles, he said.

"I am convinced that if we don't go into this area quickly that this will be one of the next surprises that the Russians are going to pull on us," he warned the lawmakers, adding, "I am not talking about an orbit. I am talking about just a shot up to that altitude and drop again."

The idea is simple, Dr. von Braun said: To shoot a man up to an altitude of 150 miles, separate the nose of the missile from the Redstone, and land him in the cone equipped with aerodynamic brakes.

"He will be up over five minutes in outer space and can make all kinds of observations," the German-born expert said.

The Army already has numerous volunteers for the trip, Dr. von Braun declared.

Housing Plan Calls For 57,724 Units

WASHINGTON (APFS) — The Defense Department has asked for approval to build 57,724 dependent housing units under a military construction authorization bill totaling almost $1.7 billion submitted to Congress May 1.

The family quarters program includes 50,116 units of Capehart housing at bases in the U.S. and territories; 6,673 units at overseas stations to be financed with foreign currencies obtained by sale of surplus farm commodities; and 925 units at various locations using appropriated funds.

The new construction proposal lists projects at 139 installations in 45 states and the District of Columbia, plus added facilities and improvements in Alaska, Hawaii, the Caribbean Area, Europe, Africa, the Pacific Islands and Korea.

The legislation would give the Defense Department authority to construct the projects, which are mainly for additional support facilities at existing bases. A separate appropriation bill will be required to provide the money.

Proposed housing for military families, by service, category and number of units is:

Army: Capehart, 11,477; surplus commodity, 994; appropriated fund, 138 — total, 12,609	Navy: U.S., $258,173,000; overseas, $17,889,000; unspecified locations, $23,000,000 — total, $309,062,000	Air Force: U.S., $796,601,000; overseas, $174,670,000; unspecified locations, $25,000,000 — total, $996,271,000
Air Force: Capehart, 20; surplus commodity, 5,196; appropriated fund, 771 — total, 5,967	Defense Department: $50,000,000 at unspecified locations, for a grand total of $1,664,363,000.

Woman's Club Votes $500 Scholarships

At the final meeting of the season, the annual May Breakfast at the Main Officers' Mess, the Women's Club of Fort Benning voted to donate two scholarships to high school seniors and installed a new slate of officers.

The $500 scholarships will be presented on a competitive basis to a senior boy and girl now attending local high schools according to the announcement made by the retiring president, Mrs. Harry Hornecker.

Brig. Gen. John Ruggles was on hand to install new officers. "I cannot help but take the opportunity to express the appreciation of the commanding general for the fine work you ladies are doing," he told the club.

The officers are: Mrs. Paul Jarrett, president; Mrs. Lloyd B. Ramsay, first vice president; Mrs. Harry A. Stella, second vice president; Mrs. Henry C. Stakes, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Kent, recording secretary; Mrs. Ulrich Hermann, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Shomion, custodian.

Also special guests at the May luncheon meeting were past presidents Mrs. John F. Ruggles, Mrs. David W. Scudder, 1949; Mrs. C. W. Paces, 1950; Mrs. David Wilson of Atlanta, 1956; and Mrs. Harry Hornecker, immediate past president.

Mrs. Ruggles, immediate past honorary president, presented a silver tray to retiring president Mrs. Hornecker.

DA Reports S-P Program Successful

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Scientific and Professional Personnel Program has proved the Army well for almost 10 years according to one DA spokesman. More than 25,000 specialized enlisted men have participated in the program to date.

Initiated in 1948, the S and P Program is designed to place selected personnel who possess specialized training or experience in Army jobs related to their college backgrounds.

Engineers, mathematicians, chemists, physicists, metallurgists, bacteriologists, meteorologists, and certain others are earmarked for S and P slots immediately after entering the Army to fulfill their active military service under the Universal Military Training and Service Act.

Right now there are about 5,500 EM in the program and the actual breakdown looks like this:

Approximately 3,100 are physical or biological scientists, mathematicians, or engineers assigned to work in Army research or development. Approximately 700 have duty assignments as chemical or medical laboratory specialists, topographic computers and surveyors, and similar sub-professional military occupations.

The remaining 1,700 are social scientists, accountants, or business administration specialists assigned to positions in psychological research, personnel classification accounting, fiscal operations, or similar jobs related to their college backgrounds.

Army Sends Pay Forms

WASHINGTON, (APNS)—The Army is now sending its field commanders an Evaluation Form to be used as an interim basis for awarding proficiency pay to selected enlisted personnel as soon as the program is given the final "green light."

Intended as a warning order, Department of the Army Circular 611-12 states that field commanders and d. operating personnel may reproduce DA Form 2004-R (Evaluation Form) and Recommendation for Proficiency Payment) for use pending implementation of the Enlisted Evaluation System early in Fiscal Year 1959.

The Enlisted Evaluation System is expected to include MOS Proficiency Tests and the Commander's Proficiency Evaluation Form. Individuals who receive proficiency pay under the interim system will be subject to loss or retention of "Proficiency Pay Additive" based on the results of proficiency testing.

Determination of qualified individuals and final selection of personnel (not to exceed 15 percent of the active Army enlisted strength) to receive proficiency pay will be made by the Department of the Army.

BIOC Orientation
An orientation for wives of the newly arrived students of the Infantry School's basic officers class at Fort Benning was given recently by the 25th Company, Second Student Battalion, School Brigade, in the lounge of Headquarters and Headquarters Company.

Hostess at this event was Mrs. Donald L. Loa, wife of the cadre company commander. Guest speakers were Lt. Col. John B. Zanin, battalion commander and his wife. Distinguished guests were Mrs. A. L. Hoebecke, wife of the School Brigade commander, and Mrs. W. L. Moulis, wife of the battalion executive officer for evaluation.

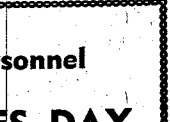

Purpose of the orientation was to give the new "Army Wives" a general picture of the role they play in their husbands' career. It was also designed to acquaint them with the facilities and installations on post.

The first guest speaker, Col. Zanin, outlined for the ladies the course their husbands will take while at Fort Benning. He also pointed out some of the subjects might have a direct effect on the wives at home, such as instruction in mess management.

Mrs. Zanin, the second guest speaker, spoke on subjects with which an Army wife should be thoroughly familiar, and which would help them on any Army post. She also covered the many post activities and functions that the wives could actively engage in during their stay at Fort Benning. After the orientation in the lounge, the wives were given a tour of the Department of the Army.

Gen. Ruggles Says Army Promotes Religious Development of All Men

Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, assured Fort Benning, Columbus and Phenix City clergymen, meeting at Fort Benning May 5, of the Army's firm desire to continue and promote the religious development of young men in the service.

Gen. Ruggles spoke in a welcoming address at a luncheon in the Main Officers' Mess for approximately 100 members of the ministerial alliances of Columbus and Phenix City. In his remarks he noted the close unity that exists between the clergy of Fort Benning and the surrounding civilian community.

The visiting clergymen representing Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths attended a one-day meeting at Fort Benning as guests of The Infantry Center's Chaplain Section headed by Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Willmann. They were briefed on the Army's religious activities and visited several of the post chaplains.

Gen. Ruggles stated in his address that the growing trend within the Army has been that chaplains come to the men instead of the men having to go to the chaplains. He added that commanders now realize the tremendous importance played by the chaplains in fostering a healthy command.

Religious Development "Army commanders are more concerned than ever before that they, too, are concerned with guaranteeing the continuation of religious development for all men in service," Gen. Ruggles said.

Responses for the visitors were made by the Rev. Charles A. Jackson Jr., president, Columbus Ministerial Alliance, the Rev. A. Richard Smith, president, Interdenominational Alliance of Columbus and Phenix City, Father Killian Moore, St. Joseph Preparatory Seminary, Holy Trinity, Ala., and the Rev. Boyd Armstrong, president, Phenix City Ministerial Alliance.

Mothers
Thank You for Contributing a guiding hand to the young men. After the tour, they returned for refreshments and a social gathering in the lounge.

Officers and ladies of the Infantry School's Department of Non-Resident Instruction held a dinner party recently in the Main Officers' Open Club at Fort Benning, W.C. L. Lina S. Stren, recently assigned to Fort Benning, S.C., was honored as the guest of honor.

The motif of the party centered about the Colonial Period and specifically Paul Revere.

Capt. Paul A. Slough, Paul B. Bennett and Elmer J. Cook were in charge of the arrangements.

Range Party
Officers' wives of the Infantry School's Ranger Department were entertained with a dessert party at Victory Lodge May 7 at 1 p.m.

Wives of the Patroling Group of the Platoon Training Committee of the department arranged the affair. Mrs. Lecher Crawford served as chairman of the decorating committee, with Mrs. James H. Morley III, Mrs. Richard C. Gies on her committee. Mrs. Arthur E. Taylor Jr. and Mrs. Clifton H. Zarinier greeted the ladies at the door and gave name tags to each.

Decorations were arrangements of a most original collection of shells, Japanese glass floats and fish tails from Hawaii. These small beach-comber centerpieces adorned each table.

The ladies were served a delicious strawberry shortcake with coffee. Then Mrs. John T. Corley, head of the Ranger wives, welcomed the ladies and guests and complimented the decorating committee. Guests were introduced to the group, among whom were Mrs. Robert L. Waters and Mrs. Angus Irwin, wife of the British Liaison Officer at Fort Benning's Infantry Board.

After the social hour the ladies adjourned to the bleachers at Victory Post to see the Ranger demonstration rehearsal for the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference.

BALTIMORE (APFS) — A jumping jack device that simulates turbulent flight conditions will soon provide answers to the effect of aircraft buffeting on human beings for the Air Research and Development Command.

The machine, which is made up of an aircraft-type seat mounted on a 30-foot elevator mechanism, bounces a man up and down at 19 mph on an 18-foot path.

Weapons Dept. Holds Spring Dinner Dance

The annual spring formal dinner dance was enjoyed by officers and wives of the Infantry School May 9 at Fort Benning's Main Officers' Mess.

Major Gen. and Mrs. Paul W. Freeman Jr., and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Stanley R. Larsen were guests of the Weapons Department for the evening.

Receiving lines in the receiving line were Gen. and Mrs. Freeman, Gen. and Mrs. Larsen, Col. and Mrs. S. T. McDowell, Col. and Mrs. M. W. Adams, and Lt. Col. and Mrs. William V. Church. Guests were introduced by Capt. John H. Schultz.

The main dining room of the Officers' Mess was decorated for the evening by members of the Technique of Rifle Fire Committee. A May theme was carried out on the guest table with lovely center arrangement of white flowers surrounded by white candles throughout the dining room on each table. Pastel-shaded Maypoles and complimenting candles were centered on a base of fern and spring flowers. Cleverly prepared cartoon-type murals satirizing everyday Weapons Department life lined the walls of the dining room.

Col. McDowell presented an engraved welsley tray to Lt. and Mrs. Welsley R. Herflein and Mrs. Welsley R. Herflein. Mr. Engraved welsley cups were presented to Major and Mrs. Joseph W. Powers, Capt. and Mrs. William E. Davis, Capt. and Mrs. Clayton Lambirth, Capt. and Mrs. John D. Yarbrough, Lt. and Mrs. Carlton G. Barber, Lt. and Mrs. John B. Garver Jr., Lt. and Mrs. George M. Scheels, Lt. and Mrs. Harry Wamburg, and Lt. and Mrs. Robert M. Weart.

Dancing followed in the ballroom to complete the evening.

Athletes Nip Braves 6-3 In ISD Play

The Athletics of Company A, Infantry School Detachment, won the opening game of the softball league May 8 when they defeated the Company B Braves by a score of 6-3.

Major James P. Wells, executive officer of ISD, tossed out the first ball.

The Athletics picked up two runs in the first inning with the benefit of a hit when Charles Taggart and John worked Brave hurler Jimmy Moore for walks and scored on an infield out plus throwing errors by the Company B infielders. The Braves came bouncing back with a lone marker in the third.

In the fourth the Athletics went to work on Moore. Coach Ed Proffitt singled to right field, Eddie Terwilliger was singled by a pitched ball and Jerry Reid dropped a nut bunt down the first base line to load the bases. Bill Phillips then strove for first forcing in the third Athletic run and Dick Hemple placed another as he grounded out short to first.

The scoring for the inning was over when Terwilliger lined a single to left field.

The Braves tried to get things rolling as Ron Cavanaugh smashed a Hemple pitch deep into centerfield for a three-bagger and raved home the San Wright's single to right field.

The Athletics closed out their scoring in the game as Leorch in the sixth inning lined a long drive to left for the first home run of the season.

Joe Smith Leads League with Hot 544 Average

Joe Smith, hard-hitting School Brigade first sacker, is Fort Benning's answer to Stan Musial after the first few games of competition in the Infantry Center's American League.

Smith, sporting a .544 batting average, is some 72 points ahead of his nearest rival, George Gallagher of the 825th Tank Battalion.

Little Henri Geller, 28th Infantry's star trackman, also is their big batsman with a .428 average, third in the loop's averages.

Other players among the top 10 are Rollins Hardwick of the 825th Tank Battalion with .388; Al Szan of ICTC with .384; the 54th Medical's Grover "Deacon" Jones and Mill McLaughlin with .364 and .355, respectively; Frank Lee with .347 for the 14th Infantry, and ICTC's Lonny Jackson and Jim Stewart with marks of .330 and .325.

LT. PUCKEL, L. COL SWINDLER Discuss Rifle Which Set New Record

Lt. Puckel Establishes New Mark For International Rifle Course

An Army rifleman established a national record for the International Free Rifle 300-meter course at Fort Benning, May 10. Lt. Daniel B. Puckel, of the 29th Infantry, advanced Marksmanship Unit, scored 1100 and 1102 on the 300-meter and 50-meter ranges in order. Lt. Verle Wright fired 1100 points over the 300-meter while Lt. James A. Eberwein shot 1101 point on the 50-meter range.

Top civilian score at 300 meters was credited to Robert Van Gene, Minneapolis, Minn., who shot 1001 points. Civilian Eric Nelson, also of Minneapolis, took first place among civilian shooters at 50 meters with a score of 1087.

Bunning Deer Range On the Running Deer Range, a civilian rifleman, Joseph A. Decker, Denning, New Mexico, shot a total of 323 points out of a possible 500 to take first place over this difficult course, which is scheduled for fire in world wide competition late this summer, including the World Championships slated to be shot in Moscow, Russia, this fall.

Three courses of fire were shot during the tryouts: International Free Rifle 300-meter course, International Free Rifle 50-meter course and the International Running Deer 100-meter course. The 50 meter course requires the use of 25 caliber weapons.

Best at 50 Meters The all-around ability of Lt. Puckel as a rifleman was established beyond all question when the Indiana marksman finished the 300-meter course, although he had just completed the rugged 300-meter course, Puckel shot the top score registered by the small-bore competitors in posting a total of 1117, 13 points ahead of that posted by team mate 1st Lt. James J. Carter. Lt. Carter also took runner-up position to Lt. Puckel on the 300-meter range with a score of 1113.

Other rifleman who broke the magic 1100 point level during the tryouts were all members of the Advanced Marksmanship Unit. Sgt. Martin Gummerson, first score of 1103 and 1102 on the 300-meter and 50-meter ranges in order. Lt. Verle Wright fired 1100 points over the 300-meter while Lt. James A. Eberwein shot 1101 point on the 50-meter range.

Top civilian score at 300 meters was credited to Robert Van Gene, Minneapolis, Minn., who shot 1001 points. Civilian Eric Nelson, also of Minneapolis, took first place among civilian shooters at 50 meters with a score of 1087.

Bunning Deer Range On the Running Deer Range, a civilian rifleman, Joseph A. ICTC Cops Big Game; Unbeaten

Infantry Center Troop Command overcame their most difficult hurdle of the season in the quest of Fort Benning's American League crown as the league leaders squandered past the aggressive 54th Infantry in the loop's big game of the year.

In other contests, the 14th Infantry had little difficulty in disposing of the 103rd Engineers, 11-4, while the School Brigade nine took the measure of the 28th Infantry, 5-1.

ICTC 5th B A two out, ninth inning single by big Al Gargiulo gave the league leading Infantry Center Troop Command club, an exciting 1-0 verdict over the 54th Medicals. Winning pitcher Dick Swindler, 1-0, pitched a 5-1/2 hour game, allowing only one run, two hits and one error, committed by shortstop Grover Jones, Dick Swindler sacrificed Hodge to second, then when Alendorf fanned cleanup slugger Jim Stewart, the rally appeared halted. However, Gargiulo, star pitcher - first base, scored a single, driving home the winning tally.

In the home half of the ninth, Jones connected for a single, but was retired attempting to steal second base, and Murray had himself an exciting volley. Each pitcher allowed half four hits, with Murray fanning six while walking two. Alendorf walked 10 times, while yielding two passes.

Played Sunday afternoon at Gowdy Field, the contest result had about eliminated the Medicals from any share of the American league title. This was their second loss in four games.

BRIGADE 5TH I The Army Blue Team of the Rifle Group won the California State Team Championship with 884.125 out of a possible 1000. Firing on the winning team were Sgt. Ronald Turner, Major Eugene F. Spradlin, M-Sgt. Marvin B. Fitzpatrick, and M-Sgt. George W. AAMU pistol shooters took the first five places in the grand aggregate at Kansas City. In addition to Col. Hancock, the top shooters and their scores are:

CWO Oscar K. Weismeyer, 2598; Cpl. Fred Grand, 2596; Sgt. Fred Grand, 2596; and 1st Lt. Allyn L. Clark, 2587.

May 16 at Pro Shop Entry Deadline Nearing For Tennis Tournament

Personal interested in the Spring Tennis Tourney at the Main Officer's Open Mess have until 5 p.m. May 16 to enter. Any member of the Officer's Club or their dependants are eligible for play in the tournament and such enter at the Pro Shop next to the General News-garden courts. There is no entrance fee.

Chuck Evert, pro at the courts, pointed out again that this is a tournament for everybody and not just a few ace players and it is designed as such so that it can be fun for everybody and not just a few there will be trophies in the play.

It's an opportunity to get together and meet other tennis interests in the sport of tennis. Evert said. Trophies will be awarded in men and women's singles and such as men's doubles, in addition, everybody and not just a few there will be trophies in the play.

Charlie Quinn 'Cue Successful; Pukas Wins Boat

Yet another annual barbecue of the Fish and Game Maintenance Association has been entered into the annals of the organization with the italicized notation "Best Ever!"

We won't even hazard a guess at the number of members and guests who enjoyed the day but cars were parked in double and triple rows in the wide fields lining the entrance lane to the King's Pond area—clear back to Hourglass Road.

Weatherman Cooperated Even the weatherman cooperated in making Saturday a wonderful day (with bright sunshine and little wind) for everyone. The fishing contest saw most of its entrants working at their favorite pastime long before sun-up with not a few rabid souls fishing at the crack of the opening gun just after midnight.

In the skish contest, held in the early afternoon, fine demonstrations of bait, fly and spin casting were given by fishermen who were vying for place trophies. Judges had a difficult job all the way through the casting tally, the arbitrary displayed with the different rods demanded extreme care in the awarding of points.

M-Sgt. Pukas Wins Boat Space does not permit the listing of all the winners of fishing, skish and attendance awards in this week's column. Too, we'd like to make sure of correct names, a check of which will have to be made by Association officials. However, we'll mention the winner of the top attendance prize, A 12-foot aluminum boat complete with outboard motor went to M-Sgt. Pukas, 14th Infantry.

AAMU Wins Team Titles

Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit's Rifle and Pistol Team won team championships in matches May 2-4. Led by Lt. Col. William A. Hancock, OIC of the Pistol Team, the Army shooters swept all three team matches at the Third Annual Spring Pistol Tournament at Kansas City. Col. Hancock, winner of Southwestern Pistol Tournament at Dallas the week previous, won the grand aggregate with 2611 out of a possible 2700.

Each week the column "fits its print" in salute to an individual, or group, in recognition of an outstanding accomplishment in the field of hunting, fishing and conservation. If we actually did list print this week, there's be print all over the composing room! Needless to say, the fine barbecue activities could not have been provided for our enjoyment had it not been for the prior planning, long hours of work and the operation and coordination of hundreds of people. However, we're sure that we won't be slighting anyone if we give our print an extra tilt in the direction of CWO Robert Armstrong and his class of 39 cooks and bakers of the Third Army Food Service School, the men responsible for the cooking and serving of the delicious barbecue.

Barbecue Served Quickly All too often guests at large barbecues have had to stand in long lines while waiting for their plates. Not so in this instance, for CWO Armstrong and his men had devised a system of serving which permitted immediate serving, and one served, a hungry guest sank his teeth into some of the best barbecue chicken he ever ate! They did a fine job.

More on the prize winners next week—but for the last paragraph we'd like to give a boost to another organization now being formed on the post, the post's archers. The formation of the group is being sparked by Capt. Hampton Rowland, Staff Department, The Infantry School, who is searching out all archers with the hope that the club may become a going concern without too much delay.

PITCHER-INFELDER AL GARGIULO Drove In Winning Run For ICTC Against 54th

Capt. Kolb Retires; Was AAMU Captain and Coach

Capt. John W. Kolb, former captain and coach of the Army's International Rifle Team, recently was given a medical disability retirement after 22 years of service with the Army.

Capt. Kolb, a champion rifle shooter himself, suffered a broken back and other injuries in an auto accident while he was en route to the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in 1957.

Before Capt. Kolb was coach of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit International Team, team members never lost a position team match nor an individual position championship.

At the 1957 National Matches, Business was bad for a Los Angeles appliance dealer. This week into his store and took $7,000 worth of television sets; the following night they returned and took $2,000 more; several weeks later they hauled a brick through the store window and took two more. The store was directly across the street from the police station.

Athlete of Week Gargiulo Gives ICTC Bat, Mound Strength

(Editor's note: Fort Benning's Athlete of the Week is selected by the Special Service Sports Office.)

Al Gargiulo, AAMU Troop Command pitcher-first baseman—is making big news in Fort Benning baseball circles for the second successive season.

Gargiulo, winner of his first Fort Benning Athlete of the Week award, was a Giant fan as a youngster, and while turning in impressive pitching efforts with hard hitting, including a double and a triple in the first three games of the season, he was named Athlete of the Week.

Although big enough to overpower the opposing batters with a blinding fast ball, Gargiulo is most effective when serving up his slower pitches. Gargiulo also knows his way around the softball field as he demonstrated more than once for Divarty's football team in the competitive Third Division Loop.

Mrs. Cullis Scores Ace At Benning Country Club

A golfer's dream came true last week for the wife of a Fort Benning Army officer. Mrs. Robert J. Cullis, wife of Lt. Col. Cullis, scored what she thought to be an "impossible" hole-in-one. Mrs. Cullis, who has been playing golf since only last fall, made her ace on the 120-yard long hole 22 at the Fort Benning Country Club.

"It's something that would happen just once in a lifetime," is the way Mrs. Cullis explained her feat.

Whitt Aids TSB Rams In Outfield

School Brigade Rams have their winning potential bolstered this season by a talented center infielder. He is Lt. Larry H. Whitt, 20th Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade, Ft. Benning.

Whitt ventured into the sports field while attending Florida Military Academy at Saint Petersburg, Fla., in his junior and senior years, Lt. Whitt played football, a d baseball. He made all state for baseball in 1949, and in 1950 he made all state at both football and baseball. Lt. Whitt also won, in 1950, honorable mention for all American high school football.

Lt. Whitt played semi-pro baseball three years with the Elks Inter-Social League of Tampa, Fla.

Upon graduation from high school, he entered Northwestern State College at Natchitoches, La., on a football scholarship. Whitt's diversified athletic schedule while at Northwestern included football, baseball and track. He made all state for baseball during his sophomore, junior and senior years.

On May 17 Post Teams to Face Campbell, Redstone

Fort Benning's Blue and Green track teams will pit their respective talents against Arsenal Bluebirds May 17 at Doughboy Stadium with a 1 p.m. starting time.

Scheduled for the event will be nine field events and 10 track events. Included in the latter will be the broad jump, hammer throw, pole vault, high jump, javelin throw, shot put, discus and 400-yard and 800-yard dashes. On the track will be the one mile run, 400-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash, 120-yard hurdles, 800-yard run, 220-yard dash, three-mile run, 440-yard relay, and one mile relay.

Benning will again rely on their big point makers.

Again the talents of Jimmy Brown, Jerry Beck, Henri Geller, and Jack Laddner will lead the Doughboys.

Brown will participate in the high jump, discus, shot put and javelin. Beck, undefeated former University of Houston spring man, will place his record in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Fred-footed Beck has been clocked twice this season in the terrific time of 9.5 for the hundred.

Big man in the distance events is Geller, former Oklahoma A&M cinder shaver. Geller, improving this season with each passing week, will be the man to beat in the 800 and Geller was boxed in for the first two laps. At the midway mark, he came from next to last place and sprinted the last half in 2:10 to challenge the winner.

"It felt good to run against some top competition," said Geller. His previous best time this year was 4:32 but he hadn't been pushed by any of his opponents.

The native of Bixby, Okla., will meet Conley again in the Georgia State AAU Championships on May 24 in Atlanta.

Geller Loses In Fla. AAU

Henri Geller, Fort Benning track star from the 28th Infantry, was nixed out at the finishing tape twice in Florida AAU championship competition May 3.

The matches, featuring top cindersmen from the south east, were highlighted by the duel in the mile and two mile events between Geller and Mike Conley of Florida State University.

Conley, one of the top milers in the nation, edged the Benning track team member by six-tenths of a second in the mile and by seven-tenths of a second in the two-mile.

Both runners broke the two-mile record at the Gainesville, Fla., track, and Geller ran his fastest mile of the season.

The Oklahoma State University graduate, a member of Company D, First Battle Group, 28th Infantry, ran the mile in 4:26. His time for the two-mile race was 9:55.7.

AAU Seeking Photos of Firers

The U. S. Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning is seeking photographs of U. S. Army and Infantry Pistol and Rifle Teams which made marksmanship history in past years for display at its headquarters.

Persons having such photographs are asked to send them to Capt. Vernon L. Bond Jr., adjutant of the USA AMU, Fort Benning.

These photographs will be framed and exhibited with others in a U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Team collection at the unit's headquarters.

Sfc Mitchell Named Top Student Of Gordon Radio Teletype Class

Infantry School Detachment — Sfc James T. Mitchell successfully completed the Radio Teletype Operation School at Fort Gordon, Ga. He finished at the top of his class with a high average of 87.4. Mitchell is assigned to the Fundamentals Group where he works as principal instructor.

Company E — Sgt. William Turner re-assigned for six years to fill his own vacancy as As-Ltr.

Company G — Another member of the company will soon leave for Officers Candidate School. He is Sfc Carlos Mercado. Sfc Mercado will follow in the footsteps of 2nd Lt. Clinton D. Tenberg, a former member of the unit, who after receiving his commission, is now undergoing Ranger Training. Sfc Mercado is presently assigned as an instructor with the Tank Recruits Committee. Before being assigned to Fort Benning he served with the 24th Infantry Division in Korea.

Third Company — Student officers held their first dinner party at Victory Lodge on May 2. The dinner was commanded by battalion leaders and instructor guests for their outstanding progress as members of Associate Officers Class No. 3. The class which began its active duty on March 1, includes 20 Allied officers. Speakers for the occasion were commanding officer, First Student Battalion; Capt. Charles Winn, commanding officer, Third Company; Capt. Marvin C. Shelton of the USAIS Rifle Committee; 1st Lt. Virgil C. Moore, also of the Rifle Committee; and Capt. Joseph Kozak, executive officer of Third Company. All speakers were special guests. Members of the committee which arranged the dinner party were 1st Lt. William B. Damon, and 2nd Lt. Kenneth C. Patrick.

First Student Battalion — First Company — Capt. Ralph Julian has assumed command of the company, replacing Capt. Eric Lewis who is awaiting overseas orders.

Sp3 Prentice Kirk, the unit mail clerk, is being separated from service.

Second Company — 2nd Lt. Eldon K. Schroeder, executive officer, and Mrs. Schroeder became the parents of a son on May 2.

20th Company — The School No. 11 entered the academic home-stretch last week, completing its 12th week of instruction. Graduation will be on May 24.

The 178-officer class also took the final physical fitness testing offered in the course and successfully completed the defensive tactics examination. An examination in armor and the evasion and escape course remain on the testing schedule.

In preparation for their new military assignments, the officers received instruction in social conduct and change of station orientation. Also scheduled were classes in foreign infantry tactics and defensive tactics and the tank and armored rifle platoon in the stack.

21st Company — The company recently spent several days in the field running through offensive and defensive tactics. The unit is now in its last week of training.

22nd Company — BIOC No. 15 will report to begin its 15-week course of instruction soon. Approximately 150 officers are expected to comprise the class.

Fourth Student Battalion — H and S Company — Sgt. Ernest M. Thomas Jr., a newly assigned cook, is assigned to the organization.

Class No. 10, presently in jump week, will graduate on 9 May 1958.

40th Company — Pvt. Roger Nadeau recently received orders for assignment in Europe. The unit has started a cadre pool tournament which gets under way on May 15. The prize tournament favorites are Pfc Samuel Chandler and M/Sgt. Bruce Minzey. Each match will be played for the best two out of three.

43rd Company — Sp2 Peter Caballero departs for the Canal Zone this week. Caballero, a cook, has been with the company since 1954. Pfc Clyde Titworth and Pvt. Paul Wilson left the company recently. Titworth re-enlisted for a period of six years and is now spending a 30-day leave. Wilson was discharged.

50th Company — Officer Candidate Class No. 2, under the command of Capt. Hugh A. Mac Donald, has completed 16 weeks of instruction. The candidates recently completed their combat operations and communication courses. They have already begun their studies in tactics with classes in combat formations and battle drill.

The study of field fortifications and camouflage, given in the Engineer Training Area, May 15, is the 58th Engineer's first. 577th Laying Cement Sidewalks, Erecting Wall at Pistol Ranges

The 577th Engineer Battalion is doing construction work for the Advanced Marksmanship Unit at the International Pistol Ranges.

The project, being done by Company C, consists of laying cement sidewalks along the ranges and erecting a 15-foot concrete block wall, seven feet high, to divide the ranges. The purpose of this division is to act as a protective barrier wall, and to allow two simultaneous meets to occur simultaneously. 2nd Lt. Charles F. Finson is in charge of the project.

58th Engineer Co. — The 58th Engineer Company (Flat Bridge) is preparing demonstration teams to show the neighboring cities of Army, Air, and Columbus with readiness and adaptability of this important equipment at the M-46 Flat Bridge and the Aluminum Foot Bridge.

As part of the Army Forces Day program "Power for Peace", conducted in Amiston on May 10 and in Columbus on May 15, the 58th Engineer is to show its strength under the leadership of Capt. Lawrence E. Davis.

Two live-iron bridge trucks complete with normal load of class 60 and M416 will be on display. Used in conjunction with this will be a three-ton bay of aluminum foot bridge.

49th Engineer Bn. — At the monthly "pay day" meeting of the members of the 49th Engineer Battalion, Lt. Col. Alex F. M. Donald, commanding officer, presented the National awards to Sgt. Charles Lantz, Defense Medal, and the Gem Company C, and Sp3 Ronald Service Company, Sgt. Lantz.

21st Company — The company recently spent several days in the field running through offensive and defensive tactics. The unit is now in its last week of training.

22nd Company — BIOC No. 15 will report to begin its 15-week course of instruction soon. Approximately 150 officers are expected to comprise the class.

Readies for Summer Camp 151st Holds Meeting With Reserve Units

Reserve units will be dependent on the 151st Engineer Group again this summer for administrative training and logistical support. In preparation for the training, a pre-camp conference was held at the 151st Engineer Group headquarters on May 9 for reserve units scheduled to report to the 151st engineer training in August. Represented at the conference were the 401st Engineer Brigade, headquarters is in Birmingham, Ala., and the 412th Engineer Brigade from Vicksburg, Miss., as well as the subordinate engineering outfits of these two control units from Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Florida.

Purpose of the conference was to establish liaison and to complete arrangements for the coordination of support to be furnished these reserve groups by the 151st. To start the conference, Col. C. C. Noble, commander of the 151st Engineer Group, spoke of the support capabilities of his command. He recalled last year's summer training and said of improved maintenance for the coming training period. He said that "the 151st has made a definite effort to make this the best summer camp training" for the reserve engineers.

Major John D. Cliff, operations officer of the 151st, told the group of reserve officers, which included Brig. Gen. George A. Morris, commander of the 412th Engineer Brigade, and Col. J. P. Pattillo, commander of the 401st Engineer Brigade, that their units must be as self-sufficient as possible in order to gain full benefit of the training period. He stated that the 151st will support the structural support and project support. Members of the 151st will operate the engineer equipment as "co-pilots" to insure correct operation and maintenance of the equipment. He then reviewed with them the projects which will be undertaken by their units in August. The 401st will receive training from August 3-17, with 1,220 men expected to participate. The training period for the 412th will be from August 17-31 with 2,104 attending the summer camp.

RESPONSIBILITY SHIFT ANDREW S. APB, MD (AFSP) - Aerial target planning responsibilities, formerly fulfilled by the Air Research and Development Command, have been transferred to the Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, the ARDC has announced.

Safety Drive Attacks Water Sports Perils

The Fort Benning 1958 summer safety program now under way pinpoint hazards of water sports, the second highest cause of deaths behind traffic accidents.

Water sports including swimming, boating, fishing, water skiing and skin diving are popular summer sports that attract increasing numbers of participants each year, safety officials pointed out.

Officials stated that at Fort Benning two persons drown each year and several others are injured seriously. Most of these injuries are caused from obstructions. One unusual aspect, officials added, is the occurrence of such accidents in the early spring. This is the result mainly of swimmers being unfamiliar with the body of water in which they are swimming, according to reports.

In launching the summer safety program, Troop 4118, has received command conference material prepared by the Troop Information Division, Information Section, U. S. Army Infantry Center.

An illustrative poster campaign emphasizing safety while swimming is part of the overall drive.

Stressed in the campaign is the idea of the "buddy system" in water sports. Officials stated that half of the Fort Benning drownings would have been averted had the "buddy system" been used.

5: Receive Silver Bars At 29th Inf.

Five officers of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, all members of the same basic officers class were promoted to first lieutenant recently.

All five were assigned to the 29th in March, 1957, immediately upon graduation from BIOC No. 4a.

The new first lieutenants are Robert H. Bender, Richard J. Jacobs, George Livioia Jr., Allan R. Mitchell, and Charles G. Oertel.

Overcrowding of boats or use of intoxicated should be avoided and all boats should contain life rings or jackets for each person.

Swimmers are advised always to check for under water obstructions before diving.

Avoid Unauthorized They also are advised to avoid streams and ponds that are unauthorized as places to swim.

Swimmers are further advised to wait two hours after eating before going into the water. Swimmers also are cautioned to realize their own swimming capabilities and not to exceed them.

Final word of advice to swimmers is to learn to swim before engaging in any water sport.

NEW INSIGNIA COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (ANS) — Headquarters, U. S. Army Air Defense Command here announced today that its units throughout the country will be issued a new soldier sleeve insignia sometime this month. The traditional Artillery red and gold colors will remain the same as the new "patch" but the old "AA" design has been changed to keep in step with the present name and mission of the command.

As support troop officers on Infantry School problems they have appeared as demonstrators and aggressors before numerous BIOC classes since they completed the course themselves.

Each of the five is an ROTC officer on two years active duty.

Two of the officers have been virtually linked together during their military careers. Lt. Gertel and Jacobs were commissioned together at the University of Wisconsin, attended the same summer camp and BIOC class, and were both assigned to Company A in the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry.

29th Finds Body Of Man Missing

A search party of troops from the First Battle Group, 28th Infantry, last week found the body of a Columbus man who had been missing for nearly a month.

Fifteen troops from Company B, Mott's Battery, and Headquarters Company discovered the body of the 37-year-old man in a creek off Forrest Road. The man, Samuel W. Beatty, had been missing since April 15.

M/Sgt. Kenneth Cox, Headquarters Company, and Sgt. Francis Ball, Motor Battery, who lives in the Forrest Road area, led the search party.

Higher Military Pay Approved

Thank You for Continuing... highly critical MOS's soon after July 1.

In addition to higher basic rates, the bill provides proficiency pay for enlisted grades as recommended by the House and responsibility pay for officers, written in by the upper chamber.

Allowances for quarters, subsistence, hazardous duty and special pay are unchanged and are in addition to the amounts reflected in the new pay table.

HR 11470, now a clean bill, also raises the monthly checks of most currently retired personnel by six per cent.

The bill, expected to be dispatched to the White House shortly, can be either signed and law by President Eisenhower or automatically will go on the statute books in 10 days unless vetoed.

2 Endorse Ike's Plan On Pentagon

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Two retired Army and Navy leaders, both of whom have held the nation's top military post, endorsed President Eisenhower's Pentagon reorganization plan.

General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff from 1949 to 1953, and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, who held the office until last August, supported the proposed Defense Department changes in a Capitol Hill hearing on May 14.

General Bradley, first JCS Chairman, told the House Armed Services Committee, headed by Rep. Carl Albert (D-Ga.), he was in "general agreement" with the plan and decided expenses "because it could lead to a 'Prussian General Staff' or a man on horseback."

He said creation of an all-powerful German-type staff would be "absolutely irresponsible" under the White House reorganization bill and the idea was unworthy of discussion.

Lt. Col. Dove C. Jensen has assumed the duties of battalion commander, First Battalion, Infantry Center Troop Command, USAIC Troop Command. He succeeds Lt. Col. John F. Caddle who has been transferred to Fort Knox, Ken.

Col. Jensen was commissioned in 1934 and volunteered for active duty in 1939. He was assigned to the then newly-activated Second Armored Division at Fort Benning. He was with the Second during both the African and Italian campaigns and then assigned to the 19th Corps in Europe as the G-3.

In 1945 he was appointed director of the Air-Ground Operations School, Biggs AFB, El Paso, Tex. From there he went to Fort Monroe, Va., to take charge of the Air-Ground operations. He completed fifteen weeks as student at the Air University, Maxwell AFB, Ala., in 1951, and then went to Korea where he served as

Big Picture Gets Big Distribution

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Department of the Army's weekly television documentary "The Big Picture" now has the widest distribution of any syndicated TV series on the air today. It is seen in 287 cities.

The series originates from the Radio and a Television Branch of the Army's Office, Chief of Information and is produced by the Army Pictorial Center, Long Island City, N. Y.

The Big Picture first went on the air in December, 1951. At that time only one station programmed the series. Today, 338 commercial and educational radio stations program it. It is also aired on the 22 Armed Forces Radio Television Stations overseas.

Corps Marks Anniversary At Reception

Fort Benning's 53 Army Medical Service Corps officers observed the 41st anniversary of their organization May 19.

A reception was held for members of the corps at the Fort Benning Club.

Special guests invited to attend the anniversary affair include Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center, and Mrs. Freeman; Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggie, deputy commanding general, and Mrs. Ruggie; Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, and Mrs. Larsen, and Brig. Gen. Miller O. Perry, deputy commander of the 10th Infantry Division, and Mrs. Perry.

Brig. Gen. John E. Leary, assistant commander of the 10th Infantry Division, and Mrs. Leary; Col. Norman B. Edwells, Infantry Center chief of staff, and Mrs. Edwells; Col. Robert B. Sinner, U.S. Army Hospital commander, and Mrs. Sinner; members of the hospital and general staffs and their wives.

Chief of the Army Medical Service Corps is Col. Bernard Anbel. Heading the 33 officer contingent of the corps at Fort Benning as senior member is Col. Earl A. Richhart, hospital executive officer.

Medical Service officers at Fort Benning serve with the hospital, 94th Medical Group, 10th Division, Third Field Hospital, 57th Medical Detachment, First Battle Group, 28th Infantry, the Medical Committee of the Infantry School, and the 82nd Airborne Division.

46 Attend Intelligence Seminar From 23 Major Army Commands

Forty-six visitors from U.S. Army commands throughout the world are attending a week-long intelligence seminar at Fort Benning.

The conference opened May 15 with a welcome by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School. It will end May 23.

Representatives from 23 major commands in the U.S., Germany, Korea, Alaska and Hawaii are participating in the sessions, which deal with intelligence and counter-intelligence problems evoked by the shift in emphasis from the regiment to the battle group.

In addition to the visitors from other posts, 27 officers from the Infantry School's faculty and staff, Infantry School Troop Command and Infantry Center G-2 and seven from the 10th Infantry Division are attending the meeting.

Newly added to the roster of speakers for the event are Col. G. M. Wertz, deputy commander of the Army Combat Surveillance Agency, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C., and Major B. C. Dale of the Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, Okla.

Speakers Listed
Other speakers will be Lt. Col. D. G. Gust of the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence, Washington, D.C.; Major J. D. Carpenter, Army Intelligence Center, Fort Holtz, Md.; Major V. D. Noid, Army Armor School, Fort Knox, Ky.; Capt. W. J. Worth, Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Ala., and Capt. Thomas E. Jones, Infantry School Command and Staff Department.

Panel discussions of approximately 20 specific problems areas and the presentation of panel recommendations to the gathering will round out the conference program.

Reception held at an informal reception May 19. Attending the meeting were representatives from the Office of Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence: Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va.; Combat Surveillance (Please See Seminar, Page 2)

When Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., then brigadier general, left Salzburg, Germany, in 1952, Capt. Edward D. Rozeczi was commanding officer of the honor company, Company C, 850th Infantry, that rendered honors for the general's departure.

When Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr. arrived at this post earlier this month he was met by the honor battery, Battery B of the 18th Artillery's Second Field Artillery Battalion (Rocket Howitzer).

Commanding officer of the battery, none other than Capt. Edward D. Rozeczi.

4,000 See Post Show Parade, Sky Diver Thrill Armed Forces Onlookers

Fort Benning was host to more than 4,000 military and civilian visitors to the post on Armed Forces Day May 17.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the activities included a senior status parade of an Infantry School officer candidate class, "sky diving" by Darrell Branstetter of Decatur, Ga., who thrilled the spectators with the execution of a figure eight at 6,500 feet, opening his parachute at 2,000 feet above the ground, and parachuting to 20 members of the Airborne-Air Mobility Department and various displays of military weapons and equipment.

Children Delighted
Numerous children visited a reptile exhibit presented by the Ranger Department at the Infantry School.

Children also busied themselves by taking simulated parachute jumps from a miniature training tower. Ground-level aviation exhibits at Lawson Army Airfield, inspecting airplanes moving from one exhibit to the other.

In the afternoon, visitors viewed tanks, artillery and armored personnel carriers.

Many View Exhibits
Other exhibits which drew many spectators were the Infantry weapons communications, 54th Medical Group Field Hospital displays, a mine detection unit sent by the Army Quartermaster School at Fort Lee, Va., and engineer personnel.

The three top winners in the spot jumping were Sgt. James Raising the enrollment fee—a one-time charge for most service students—is mandatory because the average cost of materials for a single USAFI correspondence course is now $8.75, Gen. Giffin said.

A new policy relating to the enrollment fee also will go into effect July 1. Individuals who complete a USAFI course in a group study class will be eligible to enroll in USAFI correspondence courses without payment.

School Sets Registration May 22-23

Registration for the Fort Benning Pre-K kindergarten school which will begin Sept. 2 will be held at the school today and tomorrow from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Tuition for the month of September will be collected when the child is registered. It is $10 a month for one child or $18 a month for two children from one family.

It is necessary that the mother of the child enrolled be a member of the Women's Club of Fort Benning. Membership for 1958-59 will be available the days of registration. Membership fee is $2 per year.

Money will be refunded in case of illness, change of station, or any reason which might make it impossible for the child to attend school in September.

Gen. Zwickler Tells Class Career Goes Beyond Combat for Soldier

Above and beyond the mission of combat readiness, the career of the Infantryman extends on a world-wide level encompassing many less publicized aspects than the well known Infantry ground fighting. Major Gen. Ralph W. Zwickler, commanding general of the XX II. S. Army Corps (Reserve) Fort Hayes, Ohio, said recently at Fort Benning, a 1927 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, Gen. Zwickler spoke at graduation exercises of the Infantry School, associate company officers class at 10 a.m. in Main Theater. The 46-member group was composed of Regular Army, National Guard, Reserve and Allied Forces representing nine countries. "Having been well grounded in the Platonic concept of the Army, you are aware that the present is not the ultimate organization but a step in the right direction. As you apply the theory you have learned, on one aspect of your Infantry career is to look for peace. It is well to remember that many of the less well-known activities of the Infantry have been assigned to the Army as an extension of the country's over-all foreign policy, and improvement and let you think to be known so that they will be made." Gen. Zwickler told the class. "The people of the nation look to the Armed Forces for the extended support of policy, established by civilian leadership," Gen. Zwickler stated.

Major Gen. H. Alan Sparling, commander of the Canadian Army Staff, Washington, D.C., was briefed at Fort Benning May 20 and 21 on Infantry School, Infantry Board and Infantry Human Research Unit activities. He was accompanied by Lt. Col. Robert J. Graham, also of the Canadian Army Staff in Washington. The visitors were welcomed at Muscogee County Airport by Brig. Gen. John P. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center. Gen. Sparling and Col. Graham were honored at an official luncheon May 20 in the Main Theater. Other special guests were three Canadian Army pilots attached to the 31st Helicopter Transport Company at Fort Benning. The Allied guests conferred with Brig. Gen. Stanley F. Linstedt, Infantry School assistant commandant, and were oriented by the school's Liaison Officer and Staff, Special Subjects, Weapons, Ground Mobility, Communications and Airborne-Air Mobility Departments Wednesday.

Army, Navy Join In Rocky Shoals

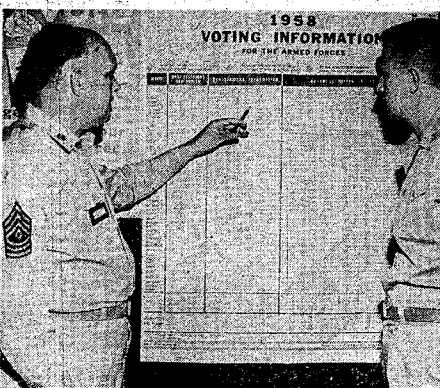

WASHINGTON (APPS) A joint headquarters has been organized at the Presidio of San Francisco for Exercise Rocky Shoals, an Army-Navy amphibious training maneuver to be held near San Francisco coast Nov. 2 to 11. An assault landing to be made on the beach near San Simeon will be followed by a six-day operation in the vicinity of Hunter-Liggitt Military Reservation and Camp Roberts.

Gl's Build Chapel Of Scrap Items

FT. BLISS, Texas (APPS) A chapel has risen from the scrap heap at the Red Canyons Range Camp near here. Because the men at the range were ineligible for an official chapel, they decided to build one. Among its components: a jailhouse door, a bell made from a Nike rocket booster, wood from missile packing cases, steel from discarded railroad rails and contraptions of telephone poles.

Radar to Aid In Tracking Of Satellites

APPS FEATURE Radar, familiar as a beam to aircraft pilots and ship navigators as well as being a boon to highway speeders, has assumed more importance recently due to discoveries that will help scientists 'peep closer' track of satellites and rockets during man's invasion of space. Columbia University physicists, making a major breakthrough in radar research, have discovered a way to increase vastly the effective range of radar by making it noiseless. With the advent of WWII, search on radar was spurred until it became practically a household term. Since the war it has been developed for many peacetime pursuits. Radar has been used for spotting and tracking hurricanes, schools of tuna, survey-

Army Slates Jet Injector

WASHINGTON, (ANS)—Army Medical Service doctors have been conducting tests and studies on a new anesthesia jet injector device that gives painless dental injections, the Department of the Army announced today.

Marking the first basic change in the history of dentistry's injection methods, the jet injector shoots into the tissue a small quantity of the liquid that travels at a speed of about 700 feet per second.

Regarding the announcement, the Surgeon General of the Army Major Gen. Silas B. Hays stated that Army dentists should be able to give painless anesthesia with the device to service personnel in the not too distant future.

Ladies of USAIC Welcome New Persons at Season's Last Affair

The ladies of USAIC met in new members were welcomed to the group: Mrs. Paul L. Freeman Jr., wife of the commanding general, Mrs. William M. Brown, wife of the commanding officer of the 5th Medical Group, Mrs. Braxton E. Small, wife of the Post Signal Officer, Mrs. Thaddeus W. Drolach, whose husband has been assigned to the G-3 section.

Hostesses for the affair, attended by some 150 ladies, were the United States Army Hospital, the Dental Section and the 54th Medical Group.

Tables were attractively decorated with old-fashioned table quilts flanked by small vases of pink. Nosegays were attached to each place card at the head table.

During the brief business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. William M. Linton new treasurer and his wife announced that Mrs. Roy A. Murray would handle publicity.

It was voted to have the silver bowl as a token of appreciation and esteem.

It was voted to have the USAIC coffee at the Custer Terrace Club during the summer months.

Mrs. Linton then introduced Mrs. William W. Roberts who gave an interesting and enlightening talk on "Charm."

30TH YEAR . . . Lt. Col. Hoyne S. Sheldon, right, chief of Infantry Center Protocol Division, is congratulated by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry Center deputy commander, at a surprise party held recently in celebration of Col. Sheldon's 30th year of military service. Protocol Division personnel honored him with the surprise party.

Decorating the luncheon table with pink linen and the centerpiece was an arrangement of honeysuckle and wild roses. Miniature straw hats topped the Maypoles and were also placed down the middle of the table.

The program was a Tupperware demonstration presented by Mrs. Edythe Rinsland. The door prize was won by Mrs. Boyard W. Hart. Game prizes were won by Mrs. James J. Lavery and Mrs. Boccard.

ESP COFFEE
Cadre officers' wives of the Infantry School Detachment were feted at their monthly coffee May 16 in the 1stB information room.

Hostesses were Mrs. Albert J. Ditch Jr. and Mrs. Athos W. Branson.

The ladies name tags were worn in nosegays of Sweet William flowers. The centerpiece was a lovely arrangement of roses, pansies and nasturtium in milkglass containers. Farwell was made to Mrs. Amill William Olivari. Mrs. Anton Luck was welcomed to the group.

Arms Group Party
The Associate Arms Group of the Command and Staff Department held a lawn party at the quarters of the Group Chief, Col. H. E. Arnold, May 19 in honor of five members of the Group who will be departing for change of station at the near future.

Navy Instructor Finishes Basic Airborne Course

A familiar name to football followers was on the list of graduates of the Infantry School's basic airborne course May 19 at Fort Benning.

Among the new paratroopers was Navy Lieutenant Robert R. Zastrow assigned to the Naval School of Pre-Flight at the Pensacola Naval Air Station Fla., where he is one of two officers who instruct potential Naval pilots in some of the basic techniques of parachute jumping.

Scored Against Army Practical Work In Fall

Lt. Zastrow, a star football player at the U.S. Naval Academy in the 1951 game against the Army team, scored a touchdown and passed for another Navy win the game 14-2. If at that time an Army man could give me 10 (quashes), the score might have been entirely different.

Lt. Zastrow's attendance at the course at the Pre-Flight School consists of orientations on the functioning of parachute ejections at high speeds and high altitudes, situations evolving from not having confidence in a parachute, hazards resulting from improper use of a parachute, wearing and inspecting a parachute, landing in trees, wires, and water, and various demonstrations.

Upon completion of this orientation phase, students are then put through practical work in parachute falls, body position, drag recovery, and water landing.

Expert Sees Map Gain By Explorer

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (ANF)—Dr. John O'Keefe of the Army Map Service is happy about the Army's launching of America's first earth satellite for his own professional reason.

O'Keefe, a geodesist working temporarily here with Dr. Charles Landquist, Army Ballistic Missile Agency physicist, sees the Explorer as a tool which will ultimately reduce mapping errors down to a scientist's "precision" worldwide to no more than about 30 feet.

"In mapping we have been required to work from place to place over the earth's surface in a narrow zone just above the surface, much the same as a bug crawling on an apple."

As long as the Explorer is tracked by radio, information is being gathered which permits us to stand off and, so to speak, take a look at the earth, determine its exact shape, and accurately measure inter-continental distances, O'Keefe explains.

O'Keefe came to Huntsville from Washington at the request of the Missile Agency shortly before Explorer was launched. He associated Landquist in translating directions, distances and velocity of the satellite and starting values for the orbit computation.

Chief of the Astropysics Section of the Missile Agency's Research Office, Landquist was formerly stationed here as a private first class. He is one of the first contributors to what eventually became the Explorer project. During his military career he did independent work on satellite and orbital tracking problems, atmospheric effects at extreme altitudes, and components.

Jr. SPACE PROFESSOR Dr. Hubertus Struphold, research advisor at the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph AFB, Texas, is the first person to be awarded the academic rank of Professor of Space Medicine.

HARD-HITTING AND MOBILE . . . Infantry School Troop Command uses some of the latest equipment and methods in its support role. At left, a section from 27th AAA Platoon gives ground support fire to infantry with M-42 twin 40mm and M-16 quad 50 caliber guns. Center, infantrymen formed as skirmishers are shown moving toward an objective under protection of "Mobile Tornado" of 126th Tank Company. At right, a squad of a helicopterborne rifle company, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, hits ground in an attack demonstration.

On May 24 ISTC Marks 1st Year

May 24 has been designated will entertain with a concert as organization day for the Infantry School Troop Command. This will mark the first anniversary of the School Troop Command following its organization last May, when it replaced the 22d RCT as the support unit for the Infantry School.

Major units for the School Troop Command are the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry; 1st Battle Group, 26th Infantry; Second Field Artillery (Rocket-Howitz), 10th Artillery, and the 82nd Tank Battalion.

Duty Suspended
Normal duty and training will be suspended for the day, insofar as possible so that the officers and men of the command may participate in the activities to the fullest extent.

The activities will begin with a review at 9:30 a.m. on the field adjacent to the ISTC Chapel to which the public is invited. After the review the men will be released to join so that guests may have a chance to see how the soldiers witnessing an honor guard demonstration of the precision there will be a baseball game drill. Following the honor at 2 p.m.

The days activities will close with a dinner dance for the officers and their wives at the Fort Benning Officers Club.

COMMAND COLORS . . . Members of The Infantry Center Honor Guard, composed of Infantry School Troop Command personnel, display ISTC colors.

BATTLEFIELD ILLUMINATION . . . The 536th Field Artillery Battery provides illumination for simulated battlefield by reflecting beams from long-hanging clouds.

INFANTRY SCHOOL TROOP COMMAND PLAYS MANY ROLES . . . Support of The Infantry School calls for many and varied performances by Infantry School Troop Command. Also, ISTC units are rich in tradition such as the 10th Artillery. At left, the late Gen. John J. Pershing salutes colors and standards of 10th before decorating them with French Croix de Guerre Aug. 2, 1919, at Andernach, Germany. West Germans Take TIS Ranger Course

Three handpicked young military men from West Germany are receiving the most thorough of trainings on the Infantry School's Ranger Department at Fort Benning. They are actually taking the rugged eight-week course before returning to their homeland to establish Ranger instruction for the West German Army.

The first Germans to take the U.S. Ranger course, the enthusiastic trio is comprised of Capt. B. Lewitzka of Munich, 2nd Lt. Wolfgang W. G. Lamprecht of Dusseldorf and Sgt. Heiner Rey from the village of Schweitzinger near Heidelberg.

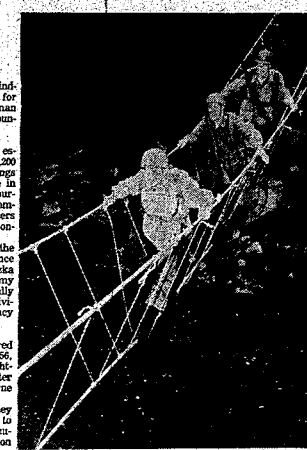

Tough and Realistic
Their 107-man class is getting especially planned for the fighting man. The group will complete the Fort Benning phase of physical conditioning and instruction, amphibious and jungle training in Florida, and mountain training at Doolongga, Ga.

The German students "buddy" on the exciting and demanding Ranger patrol missions are three fellow classmates who are their counterparts in rank. They are Capt. William L. Schreiber, 2nd Lt. John E. Taylor, and Sgt. Michael D. Kline.

The class, which includes 72 officers and 35 enlisted men, has only one other Allied member, 1st Lt. Rodolfo R. Gonzalez of Guatemala.

Good Fellowship
The Germans praise the "good fellowship" exhibited by their class. "When you have only volunteers, you know you have a good group," Capt. Lewitzka declared.

They hope to initiate Ranger courses at the German Airborne School, where Capt. Lewitzka has been serving as an instructor. The school already offers instruction in basic and tactical airborne training, heavy drops, air transportation, rigging and

Sp3 Adopts Korean Child

In June 1954, marked with only a tag telling her date of birth, a five-month-old infant was found in a garbage can near Taegu, Korea.

She was taken to a Taegu orphanage, which notified Sp3 Charles L. Desmuke. He had told the orphanage he wanted to adopt a girl.

When Sp3 Desmuke arrived at the orphanage he found the infant in a state of malnutrition. He adopted her and took her to a military hospital for treatment. She spent the next nine months with him in Korea.

Freia Desmuke came to the U.S. with her foster father in March 1955, and met her foster mother for the first time. Freia is now four and a half and lives with her family in Manhattan, Kan., near Ft. Riley, where Sp3 Desmuke is stationed.

The key word is "family". The Desmukes gave this girl, left to die in a garbage can, a home and a family and the love that goes with these essentials. The Desmukes are Americans, Freia was Korean; their skins may have different color, they may be from opposite sides of the globe, but they are all part of the same universal family of Man. (AFPS)

He was assigned to Fort Knox for basic training and took advanced basic at the same station. In June, 1957, he was assigned to the 82nd Tank Battalion to assist in training of a contingent of tankers preparing to gyneclose to the 72nd Tank Battalion, Schweinfurt, Germany.

Donna Doak Youths Get New Brat Barracks

School is almost over now and most of us couldn't be happier. Finally the teen-agers are getting something that we've waited for a long time. Yes, we're getting a new Brat Barracks. We teen-agers will be taking over the Red Cross building the latter part of June. It will be quite different from the old Brat Barracks. Best of all, we won't get splinters in our feet when we dance anymore.
The new building has nice hardwood floors.
The spring dance set.
That's not all that's happening around Brat Barracks. The spring dance is being planned for May 31. It will be semi-annual. The music will be provided by the Midnight Sun which will make everyone happy.

The biggest news around the YAC office is the new YAC president, Col. R. A. Murray, who is taking the place of Col. Howard Green.
Col. Greer has been a fine president and a wonderful friend to the cause of the youth.
At the same time we all wish you welcome and congratulate Col. Murray as the new president of Youth Activities.
Also one who deserves congratulations is Mike Fagan. Mike is active in YAC, participating in the football, baseball and basketball. He is also the recently elected president of Brat Barracks. Now he has been chosen as manager of the Youth Employment Agency, which opens in June.
Have Youth This Summer
Speaking of the Youth Employment Agency, I'd like to say that it will be run by the youth of Fort Benning and the cooperation of the adults will be plenty of work to do this summer.
Any one not here the kids do it? It will cost you a little, but then you'll have more time to loaf.
Another big thing in the planning at YAC is the combined Parade of Champions and the Fourth of July celebration. The site of the event has not yet been decided. Lawson's Stadium, Green Field and Doughboy stadium are being considered for the scene of the action. The festivities will last for two days.

Boy Scout Values Speaker Emphasizes 'Leader,' Not 'Boss'

The challenge and need to develop leadership qualities were emphasized by Brig. Gen. John E. Leary at final exercises for the Infantry School's officer candidate class No. 2 at Fort Benning recently.
The commanding general of Third Infantry Division remaining elements at Fort Benning spoke at ceremonies in which a candidate received the gold bars of second lieutenant.
"Effective management of the soldier, the individual or in the mass, requires the highest type of leadership. With this leadership, the soldier becomes what he thinks he is—the finest fighting man in the world," Gen. Leary said.
The one-star general pointed out the importance of being a "leader" rather than a "boss."
"The boss depends on authority; the leader depends on good will engendered by trust and respect," he told the class.
Noting the necessity for a certain number of young men to accept leadership responsibilities in the Army, Gen. Leary said, "In any organization, leadership is not a position; it is a quality. It is a quality which must be coordinated and coordinated the efforts of that organization."
Gen. Leary added that the "U.S. soldier is an individualist. He balks at being driven. He is accustomed to a great deal of personal liberty. And he is quick to resent authority. But he will follow his leader to the limit when he is convinced of his ability."
You owe it to yourself to have justified pride in your job, your organization and yourself," he added.
He brought out the value of continuing to follow Boy Scout values throughout life. These values include being trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent, he reminded the group.

Officials Warn Parents Of Handling Medicines

Parents were warned this week to avoid careless handling of medicines and especially to keep dangerous substances out of reach of children.
"U. S. Army Hospital officials cited the following cause of careless handling of medicines: Seven precautions which will keep such cases at a minimum, also are listed.
The case is as follows: April 8, a three-year-old child was admitted to the hospital in coma and without any history as to the cause of the illness. It was determined that the youngster was the victim of Salicylate poisoning. Investigation revealed that this child had eaten aspirin or APC tablets given to him by a playmate. The source of the tablets was a neighbor's garbage can.
Apparently, the neighbor, in clearing quarters, had emptied his medicine cabinet and discarded unwanted medicines into the garbage cans. Some injunctive 8 to 9-year-old child had taken these discarded medicines and proceeded to pass them out to the group of children with whom they were playing.
Many medicines are poisonous when taken in excessive amounts. This is true of all Salicylates, aspirin, APC, Bufferin, Anacin, Oil of Wintergreen, from Tablets, etc. Consequently all medicines must be kept out of the reach of children.
"I will keep all drugs, poisonous substances and household chemicals out of reach of children.
"I will never store nonflammable products or shelves used for storing food.
"I will keep all poisonous substances in original containers having original labels which are discarded. I will never throw them where they might be reached by children or pets.
"I will, when giving flavored or brightly colored medicine to children, always refer to it as medicine, never as candy.
"I will never take or give medicine in the dark. I will be sure-always.
"I will read labels before using chemical products."

Paratroopers Move Fast For Nixon's Protection

"Strong, Tough and Ready Around the Clock."
This slogan of the new Strategic Army Corps came vividly to life this week as a result of the bitter Communist agitation against Vice President Richard Nixon's visit to Vietnam.
In a matter of hours after the vicious mob scene around Nixon's car in that South American capital, two companies of crack paratroopers from the 11th Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., were combat-loaded and transported by air to Puerto Rico. There they went on the alert against trouble that might erupt anywhere in the area.
Should the situation deteriorate and serious troubles develop, and should U. S. neighbors to the South call for assistance, they could have been on their way to help in a matter of minutes. Since, however, the situation composed itself, they have demonstrated what the May issue of Army Information Digest called "The Single Most Important Capability for Landed War!"
The ability to intervene rapidly and decisively to reduce any brushfire anywhere in the world that might develop into a shooting war.
"The task force is under the command of Col. Robert C. Works and includes 28 officers and 496 enlisted men. Twenty-two USAF C-119s were used to complete the movement, which in addition to the troops included basic loads of rationed ammunition and vehicles considered necessary to perform their mission."

Army Names Field For Mott Winner

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—A former Cadet track star and post-humous winner of the Medal of Honor for action in Korea was honored here in the naming of the varsity track and field area as Stone Stadium.
A member of the class of 1952, Richard T. (Dick) Stone held 16 intercollegiate middle distance and cross-country championships during the years as a cadet. He set seven indoor and outdoor academy track records, several of which still stand.

Rites Slated For Selection Of Unknowns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Selection of Unknowns of WWII to be entombed along with the Unknown of the Korean Conflict and the Unknown Soldier of WWI in the Arlington National Cemetery on Memorial Day, will be made aboard the guided missile cruiser Canberra.
Admiral Jeramid Wright, Commander U.S. Atlantic Fleet, announced that a special ceremonial task group has been formed to accompany the USS Canberra on May 26. Caskets bearing Unknowns from both the Korean and the Atlantic areas of WWII will be transferred to the Canberra for final selection, along with the Unknown of the Korean Conflict.
On board the cruiser three teams of pallbearers will be used. The Unknowns will not be known by the final selection team. The Korean Unknown's flag-draped casket will be marked with a small plaque.
Following the special services, the Unknowns will be transferred to Washington to await the May 30 ceremony at Arlington. The Unknown not selected will be buried at sea with full military honors.

SMOKE TANK WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Chemical Corps scientists have developed a new aircraft smoke tank that allows jet planes to lay down a smoke screen to conceal paratroop jumps and other combat operations. The new tank can form a complete smoke curtain from 300 feet to the ground in about 25 seconds as compared to from 5 to 25 minutes for previous types.

Chaplains from all services, representing all religious faiths will be on board the Canberra for the special ceremonies. Many high ranking military officials, civilian dignitaries and representatives of civic, veteran and patriotic organizations will also be present.

Mathias Says Sports Lead To Tolerance

(APFS Feature)

"People the world over, of all ages, are interested in athletics either as participants or spectators. This is why the exchange of athletes through the People-to-People program has proved so successful."

Speaking was former Marine Bob Mathias, two-time Olympic Decathlon champion and a member of the Sports Committee of President Eisenhower's program to better relations between people of the world.

Mathias, whose own story reads like something out of Heracles Alger, speaks with the authority gained from first-hand information. Since his first Olympic Gold Medal in 1948, he has traveled all over the world competing against, lecturing to, and meeting natives of many foreign lands.

In his travels the 27-year-old athlete, movie star, and "ambassador at large" has found that athletic events form a common meeting place for all nationalities.

"When I was in India several years ago, all the natives were talking about Jesse Owens and what a great man he is," said Mathias, "and, although it had been at least two years since he had toured their country, they were speaking as if he had been there just the day before."

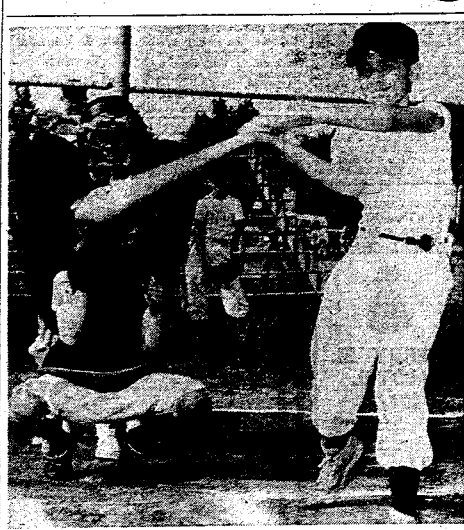

Recently returned from Europe where he and Charles "Chick" Werner, Penn State track coach, conducted a clinic for Armed Forces athletes, Mathias has a chance to observe some German athletes in action and compare.

He was impressed by what he saw and feels that Olympic competition will "get together" as the years roll by. He pointed out that records are made to be broken and many standards thought to be inviolable in past years are falling before today's athletes.

Barred from amateur competition because of his movie contract with John Wayne's Bat-Jac Productions (he's currently starting in the soon to be released "China Doll"), Mathias says that he "feels stronger" today than he was when he won his first Decathlon title in 1948.

For the future, the personable Mathias plans to continue his avid support of the People-to-People program and hopes to continue his acting career. He favors adventure-type scripts, "not necessarily western," and is looking forward to his next challenge. If past successes are any indication of his future, he can look ahead to a bright career on the screen.

All-Army Matches to Open At Fort Benning on May 26

Crack Army marksmen are converging on Fort Benning from points all over the world in preparation for All-Army Rifle and Pistol Championships that begin at the Infantry Center on May 26.

Over 500 riflemen and pistol shots are scheduled to arrive from the six Army areas, Europe, the Pacific and Caribbean areas, the Military District of Washington and the Army Air Defense Command.

The Third Army's "Ride" Team possesses the Army pistol team trophy which it won in 1957 while M-Sgt. H. L. "Joe" Benson, Army's Advanced Marksmanship Unit and one of the world's leading handgunners, will protect his individual pistol kingship.

The matches will be conducted by the Infantry Center's Match Headquarters under the direction of Lt. Col. Thaddeus W. Drobek, chief executive officer.

Support for the Matches will be provided by the 325th Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N.C.

U. S. Scores In 4-Nation Pentathlon

FT. SAM HOUSTON, Texas (APFS)—The United States Team earned the first victory in the four-nation International Modern Pentathlon Meet conducted by the Infantry Center.

Coled by Jack Daniels, who led the highest individual score of 4,669 points, the US team finished third with an 11,971 total. Brazil and Italy followed.

The Mexican team climbed into the top position for a brief time when they scored heavily in the third event, pistol shooting. John Tibbets, the only Marine on the US team, gained points for the US team when he fired 190 x 200 to take second place in the event.

Dan Steinman, of the A team led the US back into first place the next time when he scored 1,045 points in the 300-meter freestyle swim. The A team won the event with 2,846 points.

In the final competition, cross-country running, the US squad came out on top. The team scored 1,248 total, took the first spot with 3,940 points. The A team was second with 3,976.

Boxers Add Sixth Trophy To Collection

(WASHINGTON, ANS)

When its mittmen pounded their way to the Inter-Service Boxing Title recently, the Army added the trophy to its perpetual Inter-Service Trophies to collection.

These six awards were won by Army teams and individuals competing in Inter-Service Sports Championships in recent years. The service winning each award is authorized to retain it for one year or until competition is held again in each sport.

In 1956, Army teams and participants won the Inter-Service Baseball and Track and Field Championships that normally come into contention in Pan American and Olympic years. In addition, it annexed the Forrestal Cup in Golf and the Lecky Cup and Riscoll Bowl in Tennis by virtue of winning the 1957 Golf and Tennis Championships.

An underway Army team cornered the last of the existing Inter-Service Trophies recently by hammering its way to a decisive victory in the 1958 Inter-Service Boxing Championships at Bolling Air Force Base.

20 Trout With Cagers

WINDBERG, Germany (APFS)—Twenty Air Force and Army cagers, hand-picked as the best basketball talent in Europe, are trying out at Hans-Stein-Landshut AB, Germany, for positions on the 1958 U.S. Military, Seventh Army, All-National Sport Militaire (CSM) basketball team.

Coached by Herbert G. Hart, former Northwestern University football star and mentor of several top-ranking AF units, the team will meet squads from Brazil, Korea, Turkey, Belgium, the Netherlands and France in a round-robin tourney at Nice, France, in their quest for the CSM crown. The tournament is scheduled for May 28 to June 3.

Heading the list of candidates for the American squad are four former All American selections, along with several players with professional experience and outstanding amateur cagers.

George Linn, player-coach of the USAFE champion Hammstein Rams, an All America for several years, is a result of action behind enemy lines in Korea.

Also Bob Laskowski, Eighth Inf. Div., and Scott Jamison, NACOM.

WINS MEDAL OF HONOR WASHINGTON (APFS)—Max A. Koffman Jr., 27, a former soldier who heads a sports car enterprise in Fairborn, Ohio, recently received the Medal of Honor from President Eisenhower in a ceremony here. Mr. Koffman received the medal as a result of action behind enemy lines in Korea.

HEALTHY CUT . . . Anthony J. LaCentra, son of Sic and Mrs. Michael LaCentra, lead off batter for the Lions, sponsored by The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department, takes his first swing at the opening game of the Youth Activities Baseball League on Green Field May 5 at Fort Benning. Behind the plate is Charles B. Hart, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Bayard W. Hart, catcher for the Rams, sponsored by the Fourth Student Battalion, School Brigade. The plate umpire is Eric Harold J. Piercey, Headquarters and Headquarters Company Infantry Center Troop Command.

By M-SGT. JOHN SHEVLIN, Brigade pitcher, Boswell, bunted. Rick Murray, pitching for the Commanders, a lefty, caught the ball close to the ground, fired to Lonnie Jackson at second who threw to John Frazier at first. Commanders won 18 by a score of 8-5.

The triple play occurred in the top of the seventh when, with men on first and second, Crisp, pinch hitting for the straight through a loss, the Commanders received tremendous pitching from Murray and pitcher-first baseman Al Gargiulo. Both had three victories and no defeats allowing an average of less than two runs per game. The consistent hitting of Donald Sen, Jackson and Murray was a major contribution to the perfect record.

54th Medics Nip 826th Tankers; Tied for Second Place in Loop

The 54th Medical Group bounced back into a tie for second place in the post-baseball league as it downed the 826th Tank Battalion by a 5-2 score on May 16.

The Medics jumped on Tanker starting pitcher for three big runs in the first inning. Deacon Jones and Dale McMillan made the most damaging hits in this inning, and the five scattered runs were headed. They scored again in the sixth on consecutive singles by Bud Harp, Paul Erb, and Mill McLaughlin.

to put their men in scoring position. John Abendorf, Medic pitcher, again put on a sensational performance as he struck out 19 batters, bettering the league's previous high mark for the season which he himself had set at 18. Abendorf struck out seven men in a row. Deacon Jones and Dale McMillan and third and first batter in the fourth. He allowed only five scattered runs.

Jones led the Medic batters with two hits in three times at bat while Dale McLaughlin and McLaughlin got two-for-four.

7 Complete High School At 154th Co.

Seven men of the 154th Transportation Company have successfully taken one giant step.

These men, Sgt. Clinton G. Alderman, Sgt. Oliver E. Braxton, Sp2 Willie Spikes, Sp3 Robert Goss, Pfc Dean A. Eiler, Pfc Frank D. Spitzer, and Pfc Ed-ward Howell, have completed studying testing and are now the proud recipients of their certificate showing satisfactory completion of the high school General Educational Development Tests.

The certificates were presented at a retreat ceremony May 9 by commanding officer 1st Lt. Guy A. Zoghy. The development that these men made is the result of experience and study. While, for one reason or another, each of these men was unable to complete high school education, each has now, through the Army Program, indeed taken one giant step.

Now at 826th Tank 2 Pvts. Fled Communist Tyranny After Hungarian Uprising Fizzled

"Thank you very much. No
Cosh had no formal instruction in English, and Kriszian could not speak English able from night classes given by students of Yale University to those refugees from Communist countries in a Communist position. Murderers and robbers are considered capable of reform and are treated relatively well. But political prisoners are, in the eyes of the state, forever dangerous, and are kept separate from criminals. Political prisoners cease to have a legal existence and, in consequence, no one much cares whether they live or die.
On July 13, 1951, Krizian entered the State Secret Jail in Budapest.

Loss For Expression

Pvt. Krizian, Company C, 826th Tank Battalion, is one of the two Freedom Fighters assigned to the 826th Tank Battalion. The other, Pvt. Antal Cseh, was fitted in four languages, German,
Russian, French and his native
Hungarian. But when he debarred from the plane at Newark Airport and was transferred to the disposition point at Camp Kilmer, N.J., he was similarly at a loss for means of expression. "What can I tell what 'I am hungry' meant when Pvt. Cosh said it in Russian, or what 'I am cold' could mean when his lips formed it in German."

Now, however, both Cseh and Krizian are able to carry on conversations in English with only slight difficulty, and this return to their homes at the end of the school day, and when on week ends Krizian
metropolitan Budapest and located a street for the outskirts of the city. Mrs. Krizian and his younger brother were awaiting his arrival with the same kind of anticipation all mothers and brothers would feel. Krizian worked diligently and upon his graduation was admitted to Budapest Technical University where, quite logically, he decided to major in architecture. The future was as bright as the future ever is in a Communist country.

One Deviation

There was, however, one deviation from the path he might student is expected to take.
In 1949 Krizian had joined the student anti-Communist organization. "We operated as a chain, each link of which was formed by two men. To escape detection, each one of these would keep in contact with only one member of the chain. In 1950 that Krizian entered the university. He never graduated. On March 8, 1951, the AVH secret police, operating upon who knows what information, arrested Krizian for
"counterrevolutionary" activities. He was never allowed to learn the exact nature of the charges against him, but

Special Compassion

He spent four years there, four years with nine other people in a room two meters by four meters. There was no window. There were no beds, no mattresses. A stool was for nine men. There was a crust of bread, with perhaps a few vegetables. Twice a week, an compassion, there was a small cube of meat.

In 1953 Krizian was assigned to the forced labor camp and was transferred to a succession of coal mines. In each, no labor saving machinery was employed and basic rules of safety were ignored. Krizian's friends were quite literally dying all around him, eight or ten at once when an elevator cable parted or a gallery collapsed. There were other cruelties and much suffering. But the important thing is that,
by an incredible piece of good fortune, Krizian was able to persuade his captors that he was so seriously ill that he was incapable of being as productive as a Communist worker.

America's favorite liquid asset

America's mighty dams mean tremendous reserves of power and water for the future. In the same way, U. S. Savings Bonds mean a financial reserve—a tremendous reservoir of purchasing power for the time of need. For they're easily converted into money to pull you through emergencies and finance "fair weather" purchases as well. Thus they mean greater financial stability for you and your community. What's more, interest rates on Savings Bonds have now been raised to 3-1/4% when held to maturity, making them better than ever.

For the big things in your life, be ready with U. S. Savings Bonds

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. The Treasury Department thinks, for this patriotic devotion, the advertising copy is well worth the cost.

'Know Your Army Aircraft' H-19 'Chickasaw' Used For Evacuations in Area

To hospital and injured personnel on Fort Benning the H-19 Chickasaw has become a familiar sight.
Flown by pilots of the 37th Medical Detachment, the H-19 is used for evacuation of injured personnel on and around the reservation.
One H-19 is always on standby at Lawson Field and at any time during the day an

H-19 can be dispatched and off the ground within 10 minutes.
The H-19 is manufactured by Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation of Bridgeport, Conn. Space for seven fully-equipped men is available within its cargo compartment. This "chopper" can also carry a maximum cargo load of 500 pounds either internally or externally on a sling. A hydraulic hoist may also be installed on the H-19 capable of lifting 400 pounds to the cargo compartment. The H-19 was the type helicopter used by the Marines in Korea to complete the first successful "vertical envelopment".

CDEC Tests Night Devices

FORT ORD, Calif., (ANS)—The U. S. Army Combat Development Experiment at Ft. Ord Center (CDEC) is testing newly-developed versatile infra-red devices that are expected to increase the accuracy of American soldiers during night combat actions.

Developed by the Army Engineering Research and Development Laboratory at Fort Belvoir, Va., these items are expected to add "extra sensitive eyes" to the combat soldier of the future. Among the instruments believed most promising are the weapons sight T-1, the binoculars TSA and the scanned T-2.

ATOMIC TASTE

FORT POLK, La., (ANS)—Troops participating here in Exercise Strong Arm are getting a taste of an atomic burst. A pyrotechnic device that produces the explosion, flash, and mushroom-shaped cloud characteristic of an atomic burst, but with no radioactive material is lending a touch of the real "M.Coy" to the exercise.

Newspaper publishing is a costly business, and we'd like to take a moment to explain to you just how this costly bit of business—known as THE BAYONET—comes to you each week absolutely free of charge.

No, it's not tax money! Fortunately the Army doesn't spend a dime in producing this civilian-enterprise publication wholly dedicated to the coverage of Fort Benning activities. Nor is THE BAYONET operating under a large endowment fund left by Sgt. Bilko!

Rather, it is the merchants of Columbus and Phenix City who make this fine weekly newspaper possible for Fort Benning personnel. Their advertising support, together with the helpful guidance of the Ledger-Enquirer news personnel, help make THE BAYONET as good or better than any similar news organ on any post or station.

Certainly the patronage from BAYONET readers makes their investment worth while, but at the same time, they're making it possible for us to continue publication. We just wanted to explain this to our readers and express our appreciation to our advertisers!

Two Privates Flee

Thank You For Continuing... Krizan and his group fought until they were no longer able to do so. "There was a twelve-year-old boy I especially remember who was more than able in June of 1956, Krizan was returned to the State Secret Jail.

It was in October that the revolution began. There was, of course, some initial success, a provisional government seized control of the country. Political prisoners were released. Krizan's father was waiting for him at the gates of the jail. Krizan spent one day at home. It was his last.

The young men, students and newly-released prisoners, volunteered their services in relief programs undertaken by the Red Cross. Krizan himself acted out of the central office of that organization in Budapest. At the end of the first day, when he tried to return to his home, he found that twenty divisions of Russian tanks blocked his way. On Oct. 15, he left Vienna airport for the United States.

As for Coe, he has much the same story to tell. He was also a college student at the time of the revolution. Armed with submachine guns provided by the Hungarian Army camps in the city, they began a determined but hopeless resistance.

At the outset of the revolt, much of the Russian army of occupation, which knew the Hungarian people and had become sympathetic to their aims, might side-by-side with the citizens against the forces of oppression. But as the fighting continued, the Russians, these fresh troops, hastily assembled from outside the country, into Budapest, and to ensure that these strangers would develop no pre-Hungarian inclinations, the Russian command informed the people of the city that they had actually been transported into Egypt and were opposing the entry of foreign forces into the Suez Canal area.

For the first few months, Coe lived with a Hungarian American family—Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Vebus of Roselle Park, N.J. Krizan came here under the auspices of a Northbrford, Conn. church, and spent his period of adjustment with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sutherland, members of the parish which sponsored him. Both men remember with appreciation the kindnesses of "their" families.

are alike in another respect. Both want to continue their education in American universities. "You know," Krizan says earnestly, "I used to watch my father, who is an excellent architect, direct the construction of an apartment house for instance. He tried to keep his men from wasting materials, and tried as well to give them a little of the spirit of their work. And I used to think that, no matter what the Communists do, there is still a little bit of the capitalist in everybody. The men didn't care. Why should they? The building belonged to the government and no matter how well or how badly they worked they were paid the same amount. But here in America I work and I build a house, I want every body who sees it to say, 'This is the best house that was ever built.' And pretty soon I will build two houses, and then four more. Everything I do I want it to be the best."

That is one thing I've learned about America," Krizan adds. "But the first two words I know are still a work in progress—'Thank you.'"

Stripper Lili St. Cyr Dons Clothes In 'The Naked and the Dead' Role

WIDEST distribution of any Goshawk production of syndicated TV series on the air today is claimed by the Army's "The Big Picture." It's aired on 338 commercial and educational stations in 287 cities in the US and overseas; a big increase from the one station that carried the first show produced in December, 1951.

Lili St. Cyr, queen of the nude dancers; plays a feature role in the Warner Bros. movie, "The Naked and the Dead."

Pvt. Bob Kalbas, graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London and talented radio announcer, MC and comedian, has been assigned to the Army Support Center in Chicago.

Hope Lange and Robert Wagner will star in the forthcoming 20th Century Fox production of "The Hell Raisers" story of Marine Corps action in the South Pacific during WWII.

Bessie Ramsey, nominated for an Academy Award for his portrayal of a soldier in "The Naked and the Dead," is now a basic trainee at Ft. Ord, Calif.

The Navy carrier Midway sailed a singer with a yodeling voice, who's the Seaman Joe Burkhart, who rocks it up with a group called the Bellhops.

NEW CRAFT DELIVERIES: Boeing Airplane Co. recently delivered the 100th KC-135 jet tanker-transport to the Air Force. The fourjet, 600mph KC-135s are replacing the piston-engined KC-97 Stratofreighters in the AF's Strategic Air Command.

Two of the companies five-ton trucks participated in the parade there and, under the cover of a smoke screen, a demonstration team executed sections of a class 60 bridge. This colorful display attracted many interested observers. Members of the company were on duty after the demonstration to the public and explain the mission of a float bridge company.

Strong Arm Operator Capt. Walter E. Rucker, Jr., operations and training officer of the 49th Engineer Battalion (Combat), was selected as the Engineer Observer from the Third Army Area at Exercise Strong Arm conducted in the Fort Polk, La., area. Capt. Rucker witnessed units from Louisiana, North Carolina, Virginia and Texas participating in the field training exercise. This was one of a series of exercises held each year to establish and maintain maximum combat effectiveness of the Army.

The 57th Engineer Battalion (Construction) is probably one of the busiest units in the Fort Benning area. Committed to the never ceasing task of construction and repair of the fort, the company has the recognition of the number of projects completed, or that "in the field," exemplifies the efforts of the unit.

Besides the normal duties to maintain unit pride and personnel satisfaction as a soldier, the price of accomplishment in these projects runs high.

With all the companies contributing to the battalion project as a whole, here are the projects engaged in. Just completed: International P 1 to 1 Range, Rocket Club Parking Lot, Battalion Area Softball Ground; and under construction: 20th St. Tank Park, Girl Scout Lodge, Simpson Range, Shelton Range, 49th Engineer Battalion and the 58th Field Engineer Company.

Certificate of Achievement: Second Lt. Robert E. Bright, Company A, 49th Engineer Battalion, recently received a certificate of achievement from the Commandant of the Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va. The certificate was awarded in recognition of the fact that Lt. Bright maintained the highest academic average in his class while attending the Engineer Officer's Basic Course there.

Plating Bridge: The 49th Engineer Company was demonstrated May 10, at King's Pond where a section of aluminum bridge was assembled by the Support Platoon of the 48th Engineer Company so that anxious anglers, in their attack on the pond's elusive Inshore Bass, could have the convenience of a bridge from which to fish. The event was the Annual Fort Benning Fish Tournament conducted on May 10.

New Silver Bars: First Lt. John P. Hietrick Jr. of the 57th Engineer Battalion has been promoted to first lieutenant. Lt. Hietrick is Mess Officer for Company C of that battalion. He received his promotion while on assignment at Fort Benning. Lt. Col. John G. Farmer, Battalion Commander, presented the silver bars to Lt. Hietrick. Mr. Hietrick has replaced M. Sgt. James L. Ridgeway, 49th Engineer Battalion, as Sergeant Major for the battalion.

Sgt. Ridgeway has been designated Recruiting NCO of the 57th Engineer Group. Sgt. Montgomery entered military service from Williams, Iowa in 1944. He has continuously served with engineer units since entering active duty, and has been awarded the Commendation Ribbon, the American Defense, Victory, and Good Conduct Medals. He was assigned to the Operations and Training section of the battalion prior to assuming his new duties.

New Photo Lab: The importance of photographic coverage for news items from the 57th Engineer Battalion has been recognized by the battalion. In progress now, a new Battalion Photo Lab, under the wing of the S-3 Section, is being constructed.

Drill Results Bring 29th Competition to Virtual Tie

A platoon drill contest last week threw two companies into a virtual tie for the lead of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry. Only one event remains in the race for the battle group's "Outstanding Unit" trophy. Company B moved into second place last 10 points behind the leader by winning the platoon drill event.

A second-placed finish, worth 50 points, kept Company D in front with an overall total of 270 points from the event, hitting its total to 260.

Headquarters Company, with a total of 225 points, remains a contender for the unit championship.

The final event, slated for next month, will be a cross-country test. A possible 50 points to be won, with second and third places worth 40 and 30 points respectively.

The championship chances of Company B hinge on the win of Company D fares. To win the Advertisement

First place finish by Company B and a second place by Company D would leave the two units deadlocked, necessitating a "playoff" repetition of one event.

Competitive unit-events have included a three-mile run, 81 min. mortar and light machine gun crew drill, a squad rifle speed driving, and communication drill.

Pfc Carl Puckert was named driver of the month of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, for April.

Little Difference

44-Year-Old Cpl. Rejoins 29th After 20 Years of Civilian Life

A 29th Infantry corporal who served with the regiment at Fort Benning 20 years ago says the big difference in duty now is the mode of transportation. Cpl. Thomas L. Joiner, Headquarters Company, First Battalion, 29th Infantry, first served in the Army from 1938 to 1958. After 20 years of civilian life, interrupted by duty during World War II, he re-joined the 29th Infantry.

"The mission of the 29th Infantry has not changed, but methods have improved," Cpl. Joiner says. "The big change has been in transportation." The native of Dublin, Ga., remembers when Benning soldiers raised their own vegetables, wore wrap leggings, and drove mules. "In the old days we walked wherever we were going—except when material was too heavy, and then mules and wagons were used," he recalls. "The narrow gauge railroad was a handy contraption for getting around the outlying areas of the post. The 29th Infantry, traditional demonstration regiment of The Infantry School, received its first motor vehicles shortly books...

"Key To Victory: The Triumph of British Sea Power in World War II" is a unique book. Its author, Lt. Commander P. K. Kemp, had access to the official documents of War, both British and German, which is why the book is the only one published that covers the entire field and details all the events and strategy that led to ultimate victory. The volume has all the excitement of a fiction thriller. (Little, Brown and Company, $6.00)

Although there haven't been too many script changes in Warner Brothers' version of "Marjorie Morningstar," there have been enough to make any similarity between the characters in the picture and the characters in the book purely coincidental. The picture stars Gene Kelly and Natalie Wood.

on the GLAMOUR FRONT

by Eleanor Kerrigan

The he in your life is going to need more than elevator shoes to be taller than you if you breed the latest style in hairdos. Coiffures, influenced no doubt by the Air Force, are heading for the skies and the higher they go, the more fashionable they are.

Girls with reasonably long hair will find the first hairdo illustrated the most suitable for them. It has soft curls over the forehead and on top of the head. Those with short hair will find the more casual coiffure, second illustration, most suited to them. Stray curls can be kept in place along the brow line. The third illustration is ideal for girls with medium length hair. It's twisted like a top on top and ends with bangs over the forehead.

A good hair spray is essential for keeping any of these latest-style mountain-high hairdos in place.

Benning To Pay Tribute To Dead

Impressive Memorial Day ceremonies May 30 at the Post Cemetery will pay tribute to Fort Benning's honored dead. The public is invited to attend the colorful 10 a.m. service.

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, will highlight the 30-minute event by laying a wreath at a grave as a firing squad from the Infantry Center honor guard fires three volleys.

"Taps" will be sounded by an Infantry Center Band bagler and echoed by a bagler on a nearby knoll.

Chaplain (Capt.) F. X. Wallace will deliver the memorial address. The invocation will be given by Rabbi Alfred L. Goodman of Columbus, and the benediction by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Joseph J. Morrell, Infantry Center assistant chaplain. The three clergymen represent the Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic faiths. (Please See Clarke, Page 2)

School Sets Graduation For June 4

One hundred and eleven eighth graders, largest senior class to attend the Fort Benning Children's Schools, will be graduated in ceremonies at Faith School Auditorium June 4.

Brig. Gen. (ret.) Marcus B. Bell, Columbus, will be speaker for the occasion. The program will begin at 9 p.m.

The graduating class totaled 120 until the move of the Third Infantry Division to Germany this spring. Certificates will be presented to the remaining graduates by Lt. Col. Richard F. Hill, president of Post Dependents School Council.

James R. Boatsman and Linda Michele Roberts, who won first and second-place scholastic honors in the group, will speak on "Opportunities of Youth in a Scientific World" and "Responsibilities of Youth in a Scientific World." Their parents are Col. and Mrs. Ford C. Boatsman and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert A. Roberts.

The two honor students will be presented silver cups by Mrs. Hazel Scudder, Chief. (Please See Graduation, Page 2)

Lt. and Son Born In Post Hospital 29 Years Apart

"Like father, like son" the old saying goes. It is true for a Fort Benning lieutenant and his son.

James B. Colson III was born May 14 at the U. S. Army Hospital to 1st Lt. and Mrs. James B. Colson Jr., 29 years after his dad had been born in the same hospital.

To trace the old adage back even further in the staff file, Lt. Colson's father was stationed at the 29th Fort Benning with the 29th Infantry as a first lieutenant when he was born.

Lt. Colson, a member of the Advanced Officers Class No. 3 of the Infantry School, and his wife, the former Mary Anne Lempe of Moraga, Calif., also have a little girl who was born when he was stationed with the Army in Germany.

Editorials

Aggression Camouflaged

CAMERON STATION, Va., (ANS) — The Army's official magazine, the Army Information Digest, warns in its June issue that the United States today is pitted against a Communist adversary who is keenly aware that he can achieve his greatest gains at minimum risk by camouflaged aggression and divide-and-conquer tactics.

"Just as the means of warfare have increased in range, intensity and complexity since the 19th century so have the methods of warfare," writes the Digest's editor.

He declared that the methods of war range through an entire spectrum—from the harassment and provocation of cold war, to the manufactured incident with its pretext for bit-by-bit annexation, to the surprise all-out attack with its all-encompassing holocaust of thermonuclear destruction.

"In today's sophisticated era where tensions may be manufactured and incidents made-to-order, the leading exponents of aggression are Communist leaders, who are long skilled in the feints and stratagems of the chessboard, and capable of using captive peoples and populations and their pawns," the editor asserted.

America's national safety hinges on the ability to prevent both general and limited war—or if prevention fails, to fight and win either kind of war, said the magazine's editorial.

"While all-out assault against the United States remains as the greatest danger," the editor reasoned, "it is the piecemeal loss of the Free World to limited and camouflaged aggression that constitutes the greatest long-term threat to the Nation's security."

"Since World War II, there have been some 14 instances of so-called small-scale conventional aggression in the world," he pointed out.

Turning to the Army's role in National Security, the editor emphasized that—by their very presence—U. S. Army deployments overseas help reduce the possibilities of war by presenting clear and convincing evidence that any attack could not succeed, or even be tried without prohibitive cost. He added:

"In the present East-West struggle in which both sides possess capabilities for mutual destruction, the Army increasingly must serve as a precision tool to isolate and pinch off, by rapid intervention, the probing tentacles of Communist aggression wherever they may penetrate."

Day the Duke Laughed

WASHINGTON (ANS) — A recently issued DA Pamphlet (DA Pam 355-10) asserts that the new Army Green uniform is a well styled and accurately tailored uniform; that its basically good design will contribute to the soldierly appearance of both its officer and enlisted wearers.

This assertion is confirmed by the English newspaper, The London Daily Sketch:

"The presence of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh didn't stop officer students coming out with some pretty hot criticism of Army recruiting at the Staff College, Camberley, yesterday.

They'd been asked to speak their minds during a discussion following centenary celebrations. And there was an argument about the accuracy of the poster which boasts: 'YOU ARE SOMEONE IN THE ARMY TODAY.'

Up jumped a captain. "This is my best suit," he said. "He was wearing a baggy battle-dress. He pointed to an immaculately-dressed American officer opposite. And said: 'That man there is somebody in somebody's army.' The American stood up and bowed. And the Duke of Edinburgh laughed.

International Roundup Rumors Sweep Paris After De Gaulle Visit

PARIS — Gen. Charles de Gaulle paid a mysterious, midnight visit to Paris but returned to his village 100 miles away at dawn May 27.

Rumors swept the French capital that the general, fool of rebellious army units and civilians in Algeria and Corsica, met with Premier Pierre Pflimlin and his representatives in a suburb on the grave crisis threatening the Fourth Republic. But an aide said the President worked throughout the evening at the Matignon Palace and then went to bed.

The insurgents in Algeria predicted jubilation that Pflimlin's government would collapse without a push. De Gaulle's big black limousine pulled in at the Charenton Gate on the southeast edge of the city. There De Gaulle went from there was a mystery.

De Gaulle was provisional president of the postwar republic and now has offered to return and save it by his own undisciplined methods. He has said he would have to be given extraordinary powers to be took over to deal with France's problems at home and overseas.

In Algeria, the Gaullist, anti-Paris regime added potential naval air strength to its military. De Gaulle would rise to power without force. Ships of the fleet, which numbered 128 in all, reported to total 17 vessels, arrived at the Algerian ports. They were on NATO maneuvers.

ITALIAN RETURNS

ROME — A tide of votes from Christian Democratic strongholds in Italy's governing party out in front again May 27 in the ballot count for the nation's third postwar Parliament.

Return from 23,000 of the country's 54,827 Senate voters in the district showed the Western-led Christian Democrats had pulled up 438,672 votes or 46 1/2 per cent. That was a sharp increase from their 40.7 final percentage in the 1953 election.

The tabulation at this point—with two thirds of the vote—has indicated the Christian Democrats will head of the combined Communist and Socialist forces.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (CAPT.) FRANCIS X. WALLACE Good character rests on firm, deep convictions regarding moral and spiritual values. Convinced of the truth of these values, the man of good character voluntarily and consistently thinks, decides, and acts in accordance with these values in any given situation.

The man of good character is intensely aware of his personal, private, individual responsibility for his own actions and the consequences thereof. The decisions of the morally responsible man are deliberate free choices. He uses his freedom to act as man ought. He takes into account the fact that his decisions involve his fellowman. His decisive actions are in accordance with the Divine, Moral and Natural Law which is above and beyond himself. He freely chooses what is morally right, avoids what is morally wrong.

The man of good character realizes and accepts the obligations imposed on him by God-given freedom. If I have the right to be a man, then I have the obligation to act as a man ought. This realization

The Judge Says...

I frequently receive inquiries relative to a soldier's rights to seek redress for alleged wrongs imposed by superior officers. In many cases it is readily determined that the individual seeking redress is not aware of his rights under Article 138 Uniform Code of Military Justice, 1951, or is misinterpreting the provisions of this article. The following brief explanation should serve to clarify the provisions of Article 138.

Any member of the armed forces who believes himself wronged by his commanding officer, and upon due application to such commander is refused redress, may complain to any superior officer who shall forward the complaint to the officer exercising general court-martial jurisdiction over the officer or against whom it is made. That officer shall examine into said complaint and take proper measures for redressing the wrong complained of; and he shall, as soon as possible, transmit to the department concerned a true statement of such complaint, with the proceedings had thereon.

Just what rights are granted by this Article? Obviously, unless the types of wrongs are clearly defined, it would be in the power of any dissatisfied soldier to harass his superiors with endless or malicious allegations and the service with troublesome and expensive investigations.

The most common type of wrong for which redress is sought under Article 138 involves reduction of enlisted persons for inefficiency. A general rule expressed in the regulations of the Army is that Article 138 does not cover the redress of wrongs which the complaining member has suffered as a result of the imposition of non-judicial punishment (Article 15, UCMJ).

Redress is directed to allegations that the member's commanding officer has deprived him of some property, right, abused his command discretion or otherwise dealt with him unjustly in a field other than discipline.

Some of the more common types of alleged wrongs for which redress is sought are improper deprivation of pass privileges or leave, improper assignment of duties, or the imposition of a nonconcomitant punishment upon a nonconcomitant offense which tend to degrade the rank; utilization, without proper authority, of subordinates on personal matters, such as cook, chauffeur, valet, gardener and the like; requiring subordinates to purchase from personal funds articles of clothing, uniform, or equipment which are authorized but not required by regulations or custom; and improper

Each case must be weighed and resolved on its own merits. If there is any doubt whether the alleged wrong comes under the purview of Article 138, the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate should be consulted.

In Letter to Director Englishman Recalls Courage of Rangers

An Englishman has recalled the deeds of American World War II Rangers in a letter to the director of the Infantry School's Ranger Department.

The letter from A. Mansfield, Crook, Durham County, England, reveals that the people of England recall with gratitude the wonderful uplift the American Rangers were in those days of strife.

"Not One Gave In" Mansfield's letter to Col. John F. Corley accompanied a clipping from a Scottish national magazine, The Sunday Post, dated March 30, 1956, of a final article of a series dealing with the Commandos, entitled "And Not One Man Gave In," written by Eric S. M. James Edwards Stevenson. It pertains to the training received by American Rangers at the original Commando Training Center in the remote corner of Inverness-shire called Achinarry. The author was an instructor at the training center for six months in 1942.

Grateful For Help Mansfield in his letter states, "We here in Crook" Soldiers' Legion would like you and all your Rangers to know how grateful we were for the wonderful help they gave us in those days.

"It was a camp driver at this Scottish base. I had the great honor of waiting farewell to that wonderful band of heroes. I believe there were a few dry eyes lining the route as they passed on.

"We here hope you will be able to display the clipping for future Rangers to read. They will always have a place in our hearts here. And we are grateful for help.

Cruel March The first week's report on the American Ranger training was not encouraging but he tells of the daily changes for the better that followed. The climax came in a dramatic 15-mile "speed march that would separate the men from the boys," says Stevenson. The march with full equipment had to be done before a soldier could call himself a Commando—the articles relate.

He tells of the 45-year-old Col. Johnston's participation in the march and the fear that the older man would shatter the good record and work of the trainees. Stevenson, who gave the account in the march and who used the quick and double-time remorselessly, depicts the colonel and the boys forcing themselves towards the last in the march, but refusing to give in—until finally, they had completed the march under the time limit.

GREATER CONTACT Our military forces are deployed throughout the world. The men of these forces and their families—men and women alike—provide opportunity for greater individual contact with the citizens of many lands. Through these contacts our peaceful objectives and principles can become better known and understood throughout the world.—OSD Report.

hoping you can send us a Ranger banner for our Legion Hall."

Arrived in Trucks Stevenson describes the arrival in trucks of 120 men, headed by Col. William O. Darr, which was a good sign for British recruits for the Commandos were made to march to Achinarry from Spean Bridge, the nearest railway station, a distance of eight miles.

He relates that the American Rangers had come straight from the U. S. to undergo a special selection course in the heart of the Scottish highlands—a course which ran from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. and included climbing hills, doing cross-country hikes, the "death ride," exercises consisting of a rope stretching across a river from a cliff on one side to where the ground fell away on the other.

It also included, says the ex-commando instructor, an arduous course consisting of waterfalls, bogs, grassy poles, log walls and trip wires. All training was done to the loud accompaniment of live ammunition—no blanks were used. Topping this was the rain, ceaseless and soaking.

'Super Sleuth' Enrolled At Post's School Brigade

A "super sleuth" in the Charles Chan tradition, whose work in civilian life has gained him the position of Special Investigator for the Office of Public Procurement, is now assigned to Third Company, The School Brigade.

Capt. Charles P. Dowson Jr. practices his colorful profession in the city of Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii where he investigates and initiates cases pertaining to Hawaii's half million inhabitants.

Capt. Dowson has spent his entire life dealing with the people of Hawaii. He was born on the Island of Maui where he attended school and lived until he was 18 years old. In 1940 he entered the University of Hawaii and spent a year in school there before being drafted into the Army in 1942. In 1946 he returned to the University where he lettered in football for three years.

The next year Dowson entered the University of Michigan Law School, but after one year he was recalled to active duty with the Army and stationed at Schofield Barracks near his home. It was at that time that Dowson began working as a prosecutor for special court-martial for the Army. After separation from the service Dowson decided that he would come to this country in 1952.

"Why are there service charges on a checking account?"

Pure logic: When the cost of the bank's services to a checking depositor is greater than the interest which the depositor's loanable balance allows the bank to earn, the bank must make a charge. But if you are a checking depositor at our bank you can avoid service charges by maintaining a balance large enough to compensate us for the number of checks you draw. Ask us to work out actual figures—and use our economical checking service fully!

like to make criminal investigations his life's work. He worked his way up through the various departments in the police force and was named to his present position recently.

Dowson related that his work now consisted of "investigation of material pertinent to highly secret matters," but that he also served with the District Attorney as civil and felony cases. He said that after action has been initiated on a graduate on July 24, and will return to his reserve unit (422 "leg work" and correlation of facts in the ensuing investigation.

Capt. Dowson is presently enrolled in a four months reserve course with the First Student Battalion. He plans to graduate on July 24, and will return to his reserve unit (422 Infantry Combat Team) near Honolulu at that time.

College-Bound Girls Entertained At Party By Panhellenic Group

The Panhellenic Group of Fort Benning entertained at a Coke party in the Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Open Mess May 22.

Hostesses were the daughters of military personnel who will enter college this fall.

The guests, this year's graduates from the local high schools, included: Linda Quinn, Nancy Proehl, La Nita Pacey, Lyn Jensen, Sylvia Kunig, Eunice Barr, Sally O'Neill, Sandra Wright, Amy Kelly, Pat Adams, Penny Edsall, Brenda Otley, Brenda Bain, Jody Washburn, Ann Arpete, Julie McCullough and Pat Crow.

The table, decorated by Mrs. Ronald Gillis, featured magenta blossoms flanked by white lilies. Pins of each sorority represented were individually displayed.

Guests were introduced by Mrs. Edith Vassar, newly elected president of the group. Other members of the party committee were Mesdames Claude J. Zwonitzer, Mrs. L. Moore and Edward J. Hurley.

Wives of officers of the School Brigade headquarters were feted at a coffee May 20 in the First Student Battalion lounge.

Mrs. Gene Crisp and Mrs. Charles L. Fogg were hostesses for the occasion. Mrs. Crisp-Phillips poured.

Mrs. Daniel J. Gormley was welcomed to the group. Fourteen ladies attended the coffee.

BIOC LUNCHEON
Wives of student officers attending the Infantry School's basic classes entertained with a luncheon May 20 in the Main Officers' Open Mess.

Hostesses for the occasion were wives of student officers from class No. 10, including Mrs. William B. Hober.

Corsages were presented to Mesdames Paul L. Freeman Jr., Stanley R. Larsen, Adrian L. Hoebke and John B. Zornig. Farewells were made to BIOC classes No. 20 and 21 and welcomed new classes No. 22 and 23.

Following the luncheon the student officers' wives presented an original rodeo program. Narrator for the skit was Mrs. William T. Gano. The queen was Mrs. Dale M. Orzant; the cowboy, Mrs. Phillip J. Bailey; the horse, Mrs. James E. Christ; and Mrs. David E. Jakubowski; the duke, Mrs. Ronald L. Zwonitzer; and the Indian, Mrs. Sanford Habor.

N-R-I PICNIC
Officers of the Infantry School's Department of Non-Resident Instruction and their families had a picnic May 18 at King's Pond at Fort Benning.

First Lt. Wilbur G. Bowles was host for the occasion, assisting him in planning and executing details of the picnic were 1st Lt. Ronald G. Weiler and 1st Lt. Roy T. Etzler.

Following a vivid participation in various athletic games, guests ate steaks cooked on barbecue grills. Col. Robert S. Cain, department director acted as chief of cook.

Later in the evening Capt. Richard P. Walsh, acting as master of ceremonies, displayed wit and humor in bidding farewell to four departing members of the department. Recipients of farewell bouquets and gifts of noncense were Lt. Col. Jonathan E. Adams Jr., Major Gael M. Frazier, Capt. Marion L. Burn Jr., and Capt. David A. Beckner.

Capt. and Mrs. Marion L. Burn Jr. were presented their third departmental baby cup.

GET ACQUAINTED PARTY
Committee C of the Command and Staff Department of the Infantry School enjoyed an informal "get acquainted party" at the quarters of Lt. Col. and Mrs. James W. Hunsale Jr., May 10.

It was the initial social function of the committee which was formed as a result of the recent reorganization of the Infantry School.

Co-hosts and hostesses for the occasion were Col. and Mrs. Hunsale, Lt. Col. and Mrs. John H. Carter, Lt. Col. John V. Rowan, and Capt. and Mrs. Joseph O. Wintersteen.

The committee plans similar functions on a bi-monthly basis.

MOBILITY LUNCHEON
The Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Mess at Fort Benning was the setting May 15 for the final luncheon until fall of the officers' wives of the Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department.

White tapers in three branch silver candelabra flanked each side of the centerpiece which was a composition of early summer flowers, Mrs. Devant T. Williams was awarded the centerpiece as the door prize.

After the business session, with Mrs. John J. Pavick presiding an engraved tray was presented as a memento to Mrs. Slab, wife of Lt. Col. William F. Slab who has left the Ground Mobility Department for duty in the Office of the Director of Instruction.

TRANSPORTATION OFFICER
Wives of the Fourth Transportation Company held their monthly coffee May 21 in the Main Officers' Open Mess.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Alfred Wolfe and Mrs. Louis Sharr.

DELTA COFFEE
On May 15 wives of officers of the Delta Committee of the Infantry School's Tactical Department were entertained in the home of Mrs. N. G. Foss with a coffee.

The glass-top patio table was attractively set and held a handsome spring floral arrangement. Mrs. Lloyd Patch, wife of Lt. Col. Patch, was awarded to the winners at a party at the Officers' Club May 25.

Some 60 members of the class have become adept at fox trot, waltz, jitterbug and latin dances during the four-month class.

MRS. J. E. MURROW DEMONSTRATES Class Gets Fox Trot, Latin, Waltz, Jitterbug!

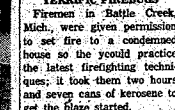

Morrow Sets Dance Class

An adult dancing class taught by Mrs. J. E. Morrow will begin June 4 at 8 p.m. at the Skeet Club. All lessons after that will be held at the Country Club branch of the Main Officers' Mess.

Anyone interested in joining the class may call Mrs. Morrow at MU 9-6767.

In a recent contest held for the last dancing class, Major William L. Richardson was declared "Mr. Tango" and Mrs. Barbara J. Francis was named "Miss Tango."

Capt. and Mrs. L. E. Entenkin were winners of the "Best Couple" award. Trophies were awarded to the winners at a party at the Officers' Club May 25.

TERRIFIC FIREBUTTS Firemen in Battle Creek, Mich., were given permission to set fire to a condemned house so the youth could practice the latest firefighting techniques; it took them two hours and seven cans of kerosene to get the blaze started.

23 Receive Caps, Pins, Certificates

Some 200 guests attended the traditional graduation and capping ceremonies for American Red Cross volunteers at Fort Benning.

Caps, pins and certificates were presented to 23 Nurses and Staff Aides and members of the instructors course for the Home Care of the Sick and Injured. The program was held in the Red Cross recreation hall at the U. S. Army Hospital.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Col. Robert B. Skinner, hospital commander, who told the volunteers that civilian as well as military hospitals today universally count on their service to render the comforting factor to patients and hospital staff.

Lt. Col. Clara M. Kiehl, chief nurse, performed the capping ceremony. Pins were presented by Mrs. George McGee, chairman of Fort Benning Red Cross volunteers. Col. Skinner accepted the group for service and presented the certificates.

Special awards were presented by W. Paston Moss, chairman of the Muscogee County Red Cross Chapter.

Arrangements for the program were under the direction of Miss Claire Sweeney, hospital Red Cross field director. Fort Benning Boy Scouts provided a color guard for the ceremony.

Group Hears Col. Sheldon

Lt. Col. H. S. Sheldon, head of the Infantry Center Protocol Division, was guest speaker May 20 at a tri-departmental coffee at Fort Benning's Guster Terrace Club for officers' wives of The Infantry School's Ground Mobility, Non-Resident Instruction and Communications Departments.

Col. Sheldon included in his lecture all phases of etiquette regarding customs and courtesies of Army life and their connection with the responsibilities of the Army wife. A question and discussion session was held following the lecture.

Pouring from a serving table overlaid in white linen were Mrs. Pavick, wife of Col. John J. Pavick, director of the Ground Mobility Department, and Mrs. Cain, wife of Col. Robert S. Cain, director of the Non-Resident Instruction Department.

Red roses arranged in the shape of a dome with a bouquet of white roses centered the table. Mauve tapers in silver candlesticks completed the appointments which were in silver.

Scouts Tour Fort Benning

Some 75 Cub Scouts and leaders from River View, Ala.; LaGrange and Atlanta, Ga., visited the post May 24. They were met on their arrival by a military police escort.

After orientation on the Infantry Center, the Cubs visited a parachute training area. There they took buddy zests rides which are simulated parachute jumps from one of the training towers of the Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department.

The Cubs also attended activities honoring Organization Day of The Infantry School Troop Command, including a parade, a Scout Dog show and a demonstration on precision drill. At lunch they were guests of the Third Army Food Service School.

In the afternoon the youngsters attended an Army baseball game in The Infantry School Troop Command area. Guide officers for the Cub Scouts were 2nd Lt. Allen W. Campbell of Mortar Battery, 20th Infantry; 1st Lt. Joe J. Shufman of Medical Group; and 2nd Lt. Albert Campbell Jr., of the 589th Ordnance Company.

Never Mind David

Curly Hair not As Good As Helmet in Saving Head

APFS Feature (Adapted from a story appearing in the Camp Lejeune, N.C. Globe)

Although little David knocked off his arch rival Goliath with nothing but curly hair protecting his head, soldiers down through the centuries have wisely failed to follow his example.

As warfare became more and more dangerous, man began to use helmets to ward off the dangers of arrows, bolts, maces and swords. For nearly 5,000 years many improvements have been made to protective headgear.

The helmet designer of the past relied heavily upon tradition and art instead of sound engineering design and field experience.

The mighty Goliath wore armor weighing about 160 pounds; King Charles V of France sported a 43-pound jousting helmet. Although the medieval armor had to use the trial and error method, he managed to forge remarkably effective protective clothing.

As weapons became more deadly, however, the armored helmet became heavier. Even extra pay for wearing helmets didn't keep soldiers from complaining about the added weight.

Finally, the weight became so great that the protective helmet was discarded. In fact, at the time of the Civil War the helmet had ceased to be an official part of the U.S. military uniform.

In 1914, however, the helmet was again issued to troops, but with special construction techniques made it lighter in weight and gave it added protection.

Today's combat soldier not only uses his helmet to keep his head intact, but as a wash-basin, bucket, shovel and even a pillow. The protective helmet, once discarded by the soldiers of the U.S., has once again resumed its prominent position in the combat troops.

POWER PLANT

Your future, and the future of America will be shaped by the kind of power generated in the college classroom

Before the deed, there is always the idea. A single great idea may develop more power than atomic energy. Never in our history has the need for new great ideas been so pressing as it is today; never have we been under such stress to strengthen through education the spiritual, social and scientific foundations of our American way of life.

Yet the very core of our brainpower plant—the college classroom—is being seriously weakened by two factors: a faculty salary scale that is driving gifted teachers into other fields; and an overworked condition that is weakening steadily. Applications will double in less than ten years.

Sponsored as a public service, in co-operation with the Council for Financial Aid to Education, by THE BAYONET

Over the Air

Memorial Day observances and the opening ceremonies of the All-Army Rifle and Pistol Matches headline the activities at Fort Benning this week and will be featured on "Fort Benning Reports," the Monday through Friday Centers weekly television news program. "Reports" can be seen this Saturday at 12:45 p.m. on WRBL-TV (Channel 4.)

The vital role of one of the most important supporting elements of the Army will be featured on this week's "Queen of Battle" program. This enlightening and informative program is broadcast in Columbus at 8:15 p.m. each Saturday over WRBL. Don't miss this week's "Queen of Battle," saluting the "Quarter master Corps."

Dept. Marks Airborne's 16th Year

May 15 marked the 16th anniversary of the Airborne-Air Mobility Department, which is carrying on today the airborne effort begun with the activation of the Parachute Test Platoon on July 1, 1942. The history of the airborne effort then stems from that small nucleus assembled here at Fort Benning, and continues through the giant Airborne Army of World War II up to the present day.

After initial experimentation in jump techniques by the test platoon, the development of mass training procedures was accomplished successfully by the Provisional Parachute Group. Then on May 15, 1942, the Parachute School, which is considered the forerunner of the present department, was activated as an independent organization and continued in such status until Nov. 1, 1946.

577th Engineers Return From 3-Day Training Test

After three days of mounting attacks by guerrilla bands and establishing defensive positions against numerous air, ground and sea attacks by aggressor forces, the 577th Engineer Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. John G. Farmer, returned to garrison today to take up its normal duties as the construction battalion of the 151st Engineer Group (Combat).

The occasion was the annual Army Training Test conducted for the 577th Engineer Battalion from May 25-29. The purpose of the test was to determine the status of training of the battalion. It required the 577th to operate in an assigned area of responsibility in response to an assumed tactical situation designed to provide realism and continuity to the test requirements.

Accompanying the battalion in the test were Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 151st Engineer Group, which acted as the control unit, and the 488th Engineer Battalion (Combat), which provided aggressor forces and umpire personnel, controlled by Lt. Col. William H. Roody from the Combat Developments Office, USAIS, who acted as Chief Umpire for the test.

ATY continued: The test, which required command posts to operate under tactical conditions, and command and staff procedures, to simulate combat operations.

Special Diet May Double Resistance to Radiation

A diet emphasizing cabbage and broccoli may be the means of doubling a man's capacity to withstand radiation on a atomic battlefield, the Army's quartermaster general said at Fort Benning recently.

Major Gen. Andrew T. McNamara explained that experiments on animals indicate the success of this new approach to saving lives in atomic fair-out.

Speaking to officers advanced classes of the Infantry School, the two-star general previewed a wide range of Quartermaster Corps developments geared for the Pentomic Army, including new supply methods, food preservation and clothing.

"No arm depot with a wide range of individuals and agencies, from depots to motorcades and supplies to war dogs. But the infantry is the reason for our existence. It is the 'using element'." Gen. McNamara said.

"The scattered, dispersed, moving units of the Pentomic Army are harder to support. A contradictory aspect is that since combat units are mobile they must have less of a logistical tail. The answer is fewer organic logistical troops and more in the rear," he added.

Aggregate Won By Sgt. Stineman

1st Sgt. Richard M. Stineman, Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, fired 2,400-94X out of 2,700 to win the grand aggregate of the "Fiesta of Five Flies" Pistol Championship in Pensacola, Fla., May 17-18.

Col. Fred A. Grant, AMU, finished second with 2,600-94X out of a possible 2,700. The AMU Pistol Team also won the 45 and 39 caliber team matches. Their score in the 45 match was 1,147-41X.

Col. Ramsey Installed As P-TA President

Col. Lloyd B. Ramsey, commanding officer of the Infantry School Troop Command, was installed as president of the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association at the Organization's May meeting.

Serving with him will be M-Sgt. Dave F. Howell, clerk of the U.S. Army Hospital's Registrar Office, first vice-president; Mrs. Rufus E. Hallmark, secretary; Mrs. Waldo K. Boss, assistant secretary; Lt. Col. Jeremiah B. Monk, Infantry Center finance and accounting officer; and M-Sgt. Warren E. Peteat, Infantry Center Finance and Accounting Officer, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Jack H. Mericle, newly elected second vice-president who has moved from the post, has not yet been replaced. Gen. Ruggles installed Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, installed the new slate.

Gen. Ruggles commended the organization for "donating resources toward the best interest of the welfare of our children."

"You people who are here are the solid and community-spirited people of this post. I know there are other activities which prevent others from coming, but I urge you to start now encouraging your neighbors and friends to participate in PTA activities," the one-star general told the gathering.

Need Support
"This committee we are installing here tonight will need your support," Gen. Ruggles emphasized.

The speaker pointed out that in addition to the traditional PTA responsibilities, you pledge yourselves as well to the objectives of the P-TA.

Citation Given Col. Shoemaker

Col. William S. Shoemaker has been presented an Infantry Center certificate of achievement for meritorious service as post engineer since January, 1956.

Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Infantry Center commanding general, awarded the citation in ceremonies attended by key post officials.

Col. Shoemaker has been named engineer of III Corps, Fort Hood, Texas. Col. William K. Linton, deputy G-3 of the Infantry Center, has assumed the additional duties of acting post engineer.

PFC RICHARD LARSEN AND ELENE! Gal Doesn't Know It's Phony As A 4-Day Pass

Momentarily Stymied

Pfc Names Jeep for Girl Thanks to Tape and Paint

There's a gal in Somerville, Mass., who's mighty proud because a jeep bearing her name is being driven around Fort Benning, she has a snapshot to prove it.

Clashed with DA

Actually the picture is as phony as a four-day pass. It's the product of a 26th Infantry man's ingenuity when an idea to delight his girlfriend back home clashed with Department of Army policy.

Pfc Richard J. Larsen, of Hq. Co., First Battle Group, 26th Infantry, wanted to name his vehicle after his girlfriend, Elene, and to stencil her name on the front of the jeep.

The first time he expressed his desire he learned that what he wanted to do was forbidden by Army regulations. To stencil her name on his vehicle would require approval by the Department of Army, he was told.

Masking Tape

Stymied only momentarily, Larsen achieved what he was really after with some masking tape, paint, and a friend with a camera.

He painted the tape olive (drab, stenciled "Elene" on the tape with white paint, and slapped the tape on the front of the vehicle. Then he got a friend to take a picture of the vehicle with him writing a letter to her on the hood.

The result pleased both the girlfriend and Larsen's commanding officer. Larsen fondly calls the jeep "Elene", all right, but you won't find the name on even the crankcase of the vehicle.

Elene still doesn't know about the ruse, and won't until she visits after his girlfriend, Elene, and to stencil her name on the front of the jeep.

DROP KIT

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Army Quartermaster Corps has developed a new type "drop kit" designed to make aerial delivery of heavy equipment to troops by parachute more efficient and economical. The kit, which has an expendable platform made of plywood and noncombustible paperboard, costs about one-tenth as much as the old one and weighs about one-half as much.

Vessels Look To Hydrofoil

NEW YORK (APFS)—The answer to the problem of constructing high-speed surface ships for the Navy of the future may lie in experiments conducted a half-century ago by the inventor of the hydrofoil, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell.

In the early 1900's, Dr. Bell and his associate, Frederick W. Baldwin, conducted research on the problem of water resistance and the limitations it imposed on a ship's speed.

They developed the hydrofoil—a thin, ladderlike strip attached to the hull of a vessel in lieu of the hull itself, virtually free of water drag, it speeds along on the bottommost stripes.

A ship equipped with hydrofoils is capable of very high speeds and can put to sea in weather considered too rough for conventional craft. Another advantage of hydrofoil design is the smooth ride that results—a boon to the traveler who is prone to seasickness.

In 1919, according to the National Geographic Society, Dr. Bell and Mr. Baldwin roared over the waters of Nova Scotia's Bras d'Or Lakes in their 80-foot experimental craft at the then unheard of speed of 70.8 mph, a world's speed record for boats.

After Dr. Bell's death in 1922, research on hydrofoil design languished, only to be revived during WWII. At that time Germany produced a hydrofoil patrol boat that could do 66 mph.

Today, both Sweden and Italy have hydrofoil ferry boats that travel their courses in one-fifth the time it takes conven-

MRS. REYNOLDS... Mrs. Casey D. Reynolds, chief of Ledger and Reports Branch, Infantry Center Finance and Accounting Section, has received a $25 award for proposing a change in reconciliation of 10-day expenditure reports.

Dr. Bell's work in this field was years ahead of his time," a Navy spokesman said recently. "In his day, the Navy had no applications for speeds so vital today. Now we have uses for hydrofoils, and we find that much of our preliminary work was brilliantly done for us years ago by Dr. Bell and Mr. Baldwin."

Martin Reveals Columbus Potential At AFMA Meet

The analysis of the industrial potential of Columbus was discussed May 20 at a dinner meeting of the Armed Forces Management Association in the Main Officers' Mess by Roy E. Martin, president of the Columbus Chapter of Commerce.

Speaking to more than 50 persons, the Columbus civic leader highlighted some of the varying aspects of procuring new business and industry for this area. He pointed out that $30,000 has been set aside for research on the subject utilizing the staff of the Georgia Tech Research Institute to report findings on Columbus' assets and liabilities.

This is the second time in the entire South, and perhaps the second or third time in the entire nation, that such a thing has been done, he said.

"Columbus is a city so clean, so progressive that it wants to know what is good and what is bad about itself," the prominent businessman explained.

Martin went on to say that this industrial analysis of the Columbus area by the Georgia Tech department would cover a 50-mile radius. He added that this will be a study designed to help Columbus compile data on its economic potential.

After reviewing population trends in several Georgia counties and the employment situation in Muscogee County, the speaker noted that "we have been trading with ourselves. We have to get more dollars coming from the outside."

The answer, Martin said, is more new businesses and industry in this trade area. And, by the scientific planning plan already formulated, Columbus will be able to evaluate itself and show why new industry should locate here. The audit by the Georgia Tech group will supply the information he told the association members.

At Lawson Unit Marks 10,000 Mishap-Free Hours

A special ceremony at Fort Benning's Lawson Army Airfield marked the achievement of 10,000 flying hours without an accident by the First Aviation Company. The certificate of achievement, signed by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center, commended the company for achieving 10,000 operating flying hours from Sept. 15, 1956, without an aircraft accident. The award was presented to the company by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, congratulating the unit and commending its members for their teamwork in achieving the record.

Missile Roster Lists Over 100 Top Units

WASHINGTON (ANF)—The launching of America's first earth satellite by the Army on Jan. 31 was the culmination of a research and development, training and organizational effort that has put more than 100 fully manned and operational missile and rocket units in the field from the Bamhoo Curtain in Korea to the Iron Curtain of Europe.

On Dec. 31, 1957, one month before the Explorer began sending its stream of messages from outer space, the Army had on active duty 60 Nike missile air defense units and 28 major surface-to-surface missile units—the Army's modern artillery.

Also operational were new missile commands, the "medium" type employed by Corporals and Honest Johns, and the "heavy" type employed by Captains and Honest Johns.

Each of the surface-to-surface missile units already operational—the Redstone, Honest John and Corporal battalions—has its own support units. These are small detachments of mobile Infantry, artillery (for fire coordination), engineer, ordnance and signal units to handle maintenance, communications and other chores, leaving the missile units free to concentrate on zeroing in on the target.

Outstanding Missions—Outstanding missions of the First Aviation Company during the past year have been night airlifting of Rangers trainees at Fort Benning and Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., each month. Second mission of outstanding import was the support of the 31st Transportation Company in the desert, Nevada, at Desert Rock, Nev.

Gen. Gallagher Speaks Norwegian Wins Top Advanced Class Spot

An Allied student, Major Leiv Oyn of Norway, earned the most distinguished scholastic record in the Infantry School's associate officers advanced class No. 3 and was named honor graduate of the class at its graduation ceremonies April 1 at Fort Benning.

Safety always has been a primary concern of the organization due to the great variation in types of missions and aircraft loads which present many potentially dangerous situations. Since flying experience is one of the outstanding factors in aircraft progression, the First Aviation Company points with pride to its pilot whole flying time record of 10,000 hours per person.

Major Oyn is assistant commander of the Norwegian Infantry School. His class included 87 U.S. officers and 33 other Allied officers from Denmark, Republic of Korea, Republic of Vietnam and Turkey.

Gen. Gallagher speaks Major Gen. (Ret.) Philip E. Gallagher was the speaker at the final exercises in the Main Theater. "Conduct and Character" was the subject of his talk.

Major Townsend Speaks To Annual GSO Meeting

The Girls Service Organization which is the official junior hostess group of the Armed Services YMCA held its annual Dinner Meeting May 19 at the Officers Club. Townsend, special services officer of Fort Benning, gave a vivid picture of the recreation of Servicemen at Fort Benning.

He described the appreciation of his office and the military for the help the GSO girls were in providing the kind of place and the type of activity to which they could direct the men in their off-post time. "We feel responsible for the man, even when he is off the post, and we feel that you are actually a part of the total program for the serviceman at Benning," he continued.

Joyce Tullman, currently serving as vice president of the GSO, was mistress of ceremonies for the occasion. Following the dinner, presentation of awards and certificates took place. Certificates of service were given by Major Gen. (Ret.) George E. Lynch, program chairman of the committee of management, to the following girls: Betty Bain, Linda Dunn, Judy Brown, Kathy Braswell, Betty Ivry, Lillian Langford Ann Lindsey, Marilyn Matthews, Sue Miller, Betty McDeure, Elizabeth Rodden, Carlene Satcher, Donna Stockey, Marie Scott, Joyce Tullman, Jean Wood, Carolyn Whinston, Lucille Yancey, Betty Nicholson, and Helen Gordy.

Special awards were presented to Betty Nicholson, for over 1000 hours of service, a steering silver bracelet was given to Betty Ivry.

Other guests present for the annual meeting included: Mrs. Louise S. Townsend, don, court reporter in the Infantry Center Staff Judge Advocate Section, has been presented a $200 cash incentive award for superior performance of duties.

An Untapped Resource

DA Encourages Retiring To Enter Teaching Field

WASHINGTON, (AAS)—The Department of the Army has announced the immediate implementation of a six-point plan designed to interest qualified active and retired personnel in the teaching profession as a post-retirement career.

Trigged by Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brooker's personal endorsement, the plan is expected to inform and motivate individuals who have baccalaureate degrees and special competency in at least one "core" subject (science, physics, mathematics, history, languages) to prepare themselves for teaching careers in high schools and colleges.

Under the plan, the Office of The Adjutant General will maintain a name and credential file of personnel who express interest and will refer agencies to individuals and individuals to agencies.

Major Army commanders will cooperate in publicizing the national teacher shortage and individuals coming up for retirement will be encouraged to consider the teaching profession as a post-retirement career.

The new Army program responds to the appeal by the President's Committee for assistance in the recruitment of high quality personnel for the teaching profession as a matter of great national urgency. The committee cited retired military personnel as "an untapped resource" of competent teachers.

retirement will have all the available information on post-retirement careers in teaching at their finger tips, as part of the Army plan.

Highly qualified retired military personnel as "an untapped resource" of competent teachers.

Ceremonies Open All-Army Matches

The 1958 All-Army Rifle and Pistol Championships opened at Fort Benning May 26 with colorful ceremonies on McAndrew Range.

Highlight of the ceremonies was an address by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center.

2,000 on Hand
The two-star general, directing his remarks to nearly 1,000 competitors, match officials and guests, extended greetings on behalf of the secretary of the Army, Army chief of staff and commanding general of Continental Army Command.

"The objective of these matches is to place the Army first in American Marksmanship," Gen. Freeman said. "For from the matches to be fired here will be selected those riflemen and pistol shots who will represent the Army in the National Matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, this summer."

"Some 120 marksmen will be selected to carry the Army colors in the National Matches," the general said, "but it is hoped that those who aren't selected will still retain the enthusiasm necessary to keep a marksmanship the art which it is."

The importance of marksmanship as more than a military skill among the military was also pointed out.

"It will be noted in the match program," Gen. Freeman said, "that usual long-range matches have been eliminated as has the Infantry Match. This has been done to give place to matches of the International type, which will enable the U.S. to become the leader, not only in national marksmanship competition but in world marksmanship circles as well."

Tough Course
The International Rapid Fire Silhouette Match is one of the most exciting and difficult courses of competitive pistol fire.

Shot at a range of 25 meters, the match is fired on life-size silhouettes with "tear rings" centered in the "chest" areas.

A total of 60 shots are fired for record. Four strings of five shots are fired at six seconds per string and four strings of five shots are shot in four seconds each. Of the 60 shots fired by the 28-year-old Army lieutenant, 50 pierced the "tear ring" which approximates the size of a human palm. His remaining 10 shots were all found in the "tear ring."

Second Place Winner
Placing second to Lt. Cartes was another Army marksman, Sfc. Aubrey E. Smith, who registered a total of 284, a scant two points from the existing world mark. Sfc. Lawrence K. Mosley posted a 283 to follow Smith and take third place.

Three additional pistol shots also broke into the coveted "280" circle when Sfc. Joseph R. Eversole and 1st Lt. David C. Miller posted scores of 281 and 280.

2 Shooters Fire Perfect Scores At I-1 Matches
Pfc. Dix, N. J. (AFPS) — Two Army shooters, Pfc. Edward J. Stone, 892d MP Bn, and Lt. Col. Edgar B. Nichols, Army Reserve Unit, Camden, N. J., fired perfect scores in 600-yard slow fire with service rifles during the First Army Rifle and Pistol Championships.

14th Wins, 7-0 Barnard Pitches No-Hitter at 29th

John Barnard, Battery B, Second Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery, and ace pitcher of the 14th Infantry Dragoon pitching staff, tossed a no-hit, no-run game at the 29th Infantry during the Infantry School Troop Commandant's Organization Day last Saturday.

Only four men reached base during the game. He struck out six batters while walking three.

Sharp Fielders
He had 29th hitting the ball on the ground all afternoon and his sharp fielding infield gave him good support committing only one error. Frank Snyder, Dragoon third baseman, who just returned to the line up after missing one game due to an injury, turned in some good plays as did shortstop, Chapman.

The Dragoons scored, what proved to be the winning run in the first inning with two out. Jack Bryant walked and scored on Chapman's triple to left but was out at the plate trying to stretch the hit into a home run.

Scored 3 in 5th
After picking up a single marker in the second, the Dragoon scored three in the fifth as Barnard helped his cause with a single to left. Chapman's triple to right sacrificed him to second. Barnard then scored as Frank Lee singled to first. Chapman grounded to first with Lee scoring and Bryant moving to third. After Snyder's walked home, Barnard was the third baseman three wide at second trying to force Snyder on Doug Weinstadt's sacrifice.

Company A Tops Headquarters In 29th Softball

A big fifth inning gave Headquarters Company A-4 the lead in the 29th Infantry softball game last week in First Battle Ground, 29th Infantry, softball action.

Coach Ed Cospicelli's crew from Headquarters Company received steady pitching from first baseman George Ruffman. Big sticks for the victors were Ralph Smith, Bruce Buckingham, Gus Foy, Phil Weinstadt, and Ralph Maffei.

Bob Garvey, on the hill for Mortar Battery, was a slayer with hits but shaky fielding hurt the mortar men.

Boston U. Cops Women's Firing

BOSTON (APFS) — Boston University's women rifle team, coached by Sgt. Ralph F. Pemberton of the Army ROTC Unit, copied an undefeated season by winning the National Rifle Association's Women's Intercollegiate Championships for the second straight year.

Under the expert tutelage of Pemberton the 14 ladies shooters have won 45 matches in a row over a two-year span. In winning the National title the BU women took 20 of 43 medals offered by the NRA.

Charlie Quinn Winners Urged To Pick Up Prizes

This week most of our column space will be taken up with the listing of barbecue prize winners. There are still a number of prizes remaining to be claimed—so if your name appears below or if you know someone who did, Fish and Game, Maintenance, Association, would be pleased if you'd take action to assist in getting the items picked up.

Fish, Skish Tournament Winners

At this writing the Fish and Skish Tournament prizes have already been picked up but we'll go on to list the winners. Tom Reinschmidt and Joe Jaggers tied in the largest bass category with James Forrester placing third. The largest blue gill honors were also split by Bill Brooks and B. F. Stone with Henry Pender taking third prize. The largest shellcracker award went to M. Caudill with Clifton Stephen taking second. Third Place was split by Alton Crook and R. L. Robertson. Best bass stringing went to F. B. Broz. Second place went to Tom Reinschmidt and Ruth Strine (holder of the Fort Benning largest bass record—11 pounds 4 ounces) took third place.

Best String of blue gill went to Norman McCullough. Second place went to B. F. Stone and R. L. Robertson took third place. Junior Prizes went to George Peavy Jr. who topped all youngsters for the largest fish taken, with John McLaurin Jr. and Robert Bugh taking Second and Third respectively.

Best in Bait Casting

There was a real battle for the Skish Tournament prizes which went to the following: In the bait casting M-Sgt. F. M. Milani took first place, Lt. J. C. Stewart took second and Lt. Col. J. B. Monk placed third.

In the fly rod competition, Sgt. Milani proved his all around skill by again placing first. Pfc. J. O. Alexander took second and third went to Lt. Stewart.

Spin casting awards went to Sfc. H. L. Gromley, M-Sgt. J. M. Langford and Sfc. F. N. Palmer in that order. That about uses up our column space for this week but let's repeat our request for assistance in getting the prizes distributed. There's some mighty fine pieces of fishing gear waiting for about a dozen of the above named people at the Fish and Game Maintenance Office, Building 384.

WP HONORS . . . Capt. Charles Michael Emmett Ekman, son of Col. William E. Ekman, director of Airborne-Air Mobility Department at Fort Benning, was chosen as number one Fourth Classman (freshman) in physical education at United States Military Academy on basis of his achievements in instructional class program, in intramural athletics, and in freshman athletics. The cadet in each class with the highest score in all fields of physical education is chosen annually by Department of Physical Education at the Academy.

3rd Place Won By Army Golfer In Tenn. Meet

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (APFS) — An Army golfer from Fort Chaffee, Ark. led for three rounds before being bowled to four professionals in the $20,000 Memphis Invitational golf tournament.

Mason Rudolph, fourth place finisher in the 1957 Interservice Golf Tourney, fired rounds of 65-66-67-70 for a 269 total and third place in the tourney that was won by Billy Maxwell with a 267. Dr. Gary Middlehoff took second money with a 268.

An amateur, Rudolph was a member of the U. S. Walker Cup team last year. Billmont Robbins, 1957 Interservice champ, and a Walker Cup team member of Rudolph's, finished in ninth place with a 279.

At Preliminary Tryouts for U.S. Team Lt. Cartes Sets New International Record In Rapid Fire Silhouette

A blazing pistol score which exceeded the official world mark for the International Rapid Fire Silhouette Match marked the close of the Preliminary Tryouts for the U.S. Rifle and Pistol Team held at Fort Benning May 17-23.

First Lt. David G. Cartes, a member of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, shot 596 out of a possible 600 points in his besting of the 63 competitors from the Army, Navy, Air Force and U.S. Border Patrol. The officially recognized world's record for the course is 586, held by an European.

826th Nips 29th by 4-3 In Final Tilt
Hitless until the sixth inning, the 826th Tank Battalion broke loose to edge the 29th Infantry 4-3 in a thriller last week at Cowdy Field.

It was the final game for each team in American League competition. The victory gave the 826th a tie for second place with a 4-2 record. The 29th Infantry finished with a 1-5 record.

After being handcuffed by Ron Stevens, 25th hurler, the 826th nine drove him out of the box by hitting four hits and three runs in the sixth and seventh frames.

A 400-foot home run by Jim Johnson in the seventh knotted the score at 2-3.

Three successive T-ner singles in the eighth inning edged Ron LeVert's 29th reduced the winning run. George Gallagher drove in the tie-breaker with a line-single into right field.

The two 29th pitchers struck out a total of 14 batters and walked only one.

Faye Thornton, 826th pitcher, threw a six-hitter, setting down four men on strikes. Ernie Tetter and Norris McKeehan led the 826th with two hits each. Fredor Vign and Ron Nelson each collected two for the 29th.

The losers scored two runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Lt. Fled Trigger Happy Japanese

In early 1945, a 19-year-old Spanish boy and his elderly grandfather joined a group of savage Igorot tribesmen to escape through a hundred miles of dense jungle as the Japanese moved into their town. The boy who escaped this and many other hair-raising experiences during World War II, is now a member of The School Brigade's 20th Company.

2nd Lt. Joseph O'Malley, now attending BIOC, had experienced enough excitement by the time he was 12 to last average person a lifetime.

Japanese Occupation O'Malley, a Sasseur by birth, left Spain with his parents in 1936 during the Spanish revolution. Due to the nature of his father's business, the boy moved to Germany, France, Egypt, India, and Hong Kong before finally settling in the Philippine Islands in 1939. Because of Spain's neutrality in World War II, he and his family were allowed to remain in Manila after the Japanese occupation in 1942. For three years O'Malley's father and mother worked secretly with the American underground until 1944 when they were discovered and imprisoned.

The boy escaped into the mountains with his grandfather, the director of Manila's Spanish Hospital, and lived for several months hidden away in the city of Baguio in Northern Luzon. There they encountered another peril in the form of round - the - clock saturation bombing by the U. S. Air Force and constant shelling by the Navy.

Trigger Happy Finally, as the Japs were pushed further northward, "They became a little trigger happy and fired on anyone with a white face regardless of nationality," related O'Malley.

"My grandfather and I pursued the Igorot tribesmen of the area to help us escape through the jungle and join the American forces about a hundred miles south of our city. It was pretty rough, as I remember it, and to this day I can recall eating grass, and stuffed dogs (a delicacy to the half-savage Igorots) for four or five days.

When O'Malley made the American lines in 1945, he was informed that his father had been killed and that his mother was ill but still alive. Both of his parents' graves (with gold palm) for their heroic work on the island during the war.

U.S. Citizenship When his mother remarried he took the name of his step-father — O'Malley. After gaining his American citizenship in 1963, O'Malley went to Germany where he went to school and later entered the Army. He served there in the 15th Finance Disbursing Section in Stuttgart until 1954.

In the fall of 1954, Lt. O'Malley entered UCLA in Los Angeles, Calif., from where he graduated in January of last year. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year, and was an honorary member almost every fraternity on the campus. At college he met his wife, Jina, who was a Lebanese refugee who had escaped the Russians a few years ago. O'Malley entered the service as a 2nd Lt. on Jan. 30, 1958, for the second time.

Lt. O'Malley states that his plans are undecided for the present, but that he hopes to get into a security agency in Washington and from there to eventually enter Government Service.

ELLIOTT DENMAN To Take A Walk

Pfc Enters National AAU

The School Brigade's Pfc Elliott Denman will be competing in the National AAU track and field championships at Bakersfield, Calif. June 21 as a member of the All-Army track team.

Denman will be competing in his specialty, the two-mile walking event, against the speediest "foot-and-toes" in the nation. Denman, a clerk in the officers' pay section of the Brigade, will be aiming to better his fourth place finish of last year, when he also was a member of the All-Army team.

A fellow soldier, Pvt. Ronald Laird, Fort Monmouth, N. J., recent winner of the national 20-kilometer walk, and John Hurreck, of the New York Athletic Club, national one-mile walking champion, will be the men Denman has to beat.

Open to Civilians, Military Archers Form Club For Bowmen in Area

The twanging thrum of bow strings and the flight of feathered shafts will replace the blast of artillery and the flight of mortar sheaves during off-duty hours at Fort Benning when present plans of a group of military civilian sportsmen bloom.

Now in the budding stage is the formation of an archery club to be known as the Upatol Bowmen, by archery fans from military and civilian circles from the Columbus-Fort Benning - Phenix City area.

Club Organized Fathering the new club is Major Hampton Rowland Jr., Special Subjects Department of the Infantry School. Major Rowland, an ardent fan of the bow for over 20 years, noted in the recent sport and recreation Division at Sand Hill, Secretary - Treasurer of the new club. Lt. Wilcox's telephone number is 72-2223.

The objectives of the club are to promote archery as a bunding skill, as a competitive sport and as an enjoyable family-type pastime.

Membership in the club is open to military and civilian archers, expert or try, and to those who would like to become interested in the sport.

Interested persons may contact Lt. Lt. William H. Wilcox, Company C, Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, 10th Infantry Division at Sand Hill, Secretary - Treasurer of the new club. Lt. Wilcox's telephone number is 72-2223.

The enthusiastic reception of the idea was reflected by over 20 military and civilian archers who attended a recent meeting at which honorary officers were elected and the club named.

Groundwork was laid for the acquisition of a suitable area in which to conduct both "known distance" and "field" bow shooting.

Clarke

Thank You For Continuing Department's presentation on Honorary Citizenship.

The visitor met with the chiefs of Infantry Center General Staff sections, Infantry School department directors, Col. Henry B. Kunzig, president of the Infantry Board; Col. Edward B. Mason, commander of the Advanced Marksmanship Unit, and Lt. Col. George H. Stevens III, chief of the Infantry Human Research Unit. He also was briefed on the school's combat development program.

Gen. Clarke was honored at an official luncheon in the Main Officers' Mess. Gen. Freeman served as host for the affair.

Following a conference with Gen. Freeman, Gen. Clarke left the post to make a speech at Texas A & M.

A 1925 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., Gen. Clarke received a bachelor of laws degree from La Salle University in 1926.

He served with the Fourth Armored and Seventh Airborne Divisions in Europe in World War II, being named assistant commander of the latter in Nov. 1945, and commander of the Fourth the following month.

From September, 1945, to February, 1948, he served as deputy G-3 and G-5 of Army Ground Forces, now Continental Army Command. Next came a year's tour as assistant commander of the Armored School at Fort Knox, Ky., before assuming command of the Second Constabulary Brigade in Munich, Germany.

In World Championships Benner Thinks U.S. May Top Red Firers

M.Sgt. H. L. "Joe" Benner, who has out-fired the Russians in international pistol matches, thinks that the U. S. will have "his best chance in 20 years" of topping the Russian shooters at the world championships in August.

"Only lack of competition could keep us from beating the Russians this year," said M.Sgt. Benner, 1952 Olympic pistol gold medalist.

The West Point pistol coach is training with the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit for the final tryouts for the U. S. International Team scheduled next month.

"The Army puts a lot into marksmanship now," he said. "We still don't train our men the way the Russians do. Little by little we're getting there and this year's team will be the strongest I've ever seen."

In fact, it's so strong that some of M.Sgt. Benner's teammates have been turning in better scores than his.

M.Sgt. Roy Sutherland was alternating with the Olympics

May Top Red Firers

It is believed that this is the world's a strong indication first year they will be held of its chances at the 1960 Olympics. All the top international shooters enter the world showing in Moscow, it matches.

Fine System Ineffective

Girls Pose Problem To Boys' Club Coach

Ten-age girls pose an occasional problem for a coach in the 22nd Infantry. They distract his junior high school baseball players.

Sgt. George L. Oden, Company A, First Battle Group, 22nd Infantry, devotes over 40 hours a week as an athletic manager for the South Columbus Boys' Club.

For the past six months he has worked each week day from 2 to 9 p.m. and eight hours on Saturday with 15 youths. In the mornings, he is a fire team leader in his company.

Sgt. Oden was given special permission last fall by his district group commander to work with the Boys' Club during duty hours.

The 25-year-old sergeant has guided his Little League football and basketball teams to the state tournaments.

Currently he's directing a baseball team in the city. Members of the Little League are slightly older than those on his football and basketball squads, and Oden has no problem.

Between Infantry Schools Brown Bess Donated As Rifle Match Prize

A "Brown Bess", the Infantry musket used by British and American soldiers in the Revolutionary War, will be donated by the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning, Mass., to the 14th British Regiment which was in America at the time of the Boston Massacre in 1770.

Although the 14th was not in that incident, it was called out that night with the 20th British Regiment. Later the regiment fought alongside the German mercenary garrison Gen. Glover and his fishermen at the Battle of Point in New York.

The trophy will rotate annually between the two infantry schools.

This weapon, which was adopted by the Army as its Infantry insignia, will be joined to a maple mounting block by the Royal Canadian School of Infantry. The maple block, to be supplied by the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, is emblematic of Canada's "maple leaf" insignia.

Knowing that the AMU was looking for a rifle of this type, Wilson of High Standard Manufacturing Corp. donated several antique firearms which were known as a Charles W. Moore of Schenectady, who had such a weapon. Donovan notified Col. S. Mason, commander of AMU, who after verification of authenticity directed this "Brown Bess" be procured since it is emblematic of each country.

The AMU's "Brown Bess" is sturdy, has a rifling of .75 caliber and is still in operating condition. The weapon has a 29-inch barrel and appeared in the 17th's.

Marked As Issue Musket It is marked on the rear of the lock plate, and has all the other standard markings of a rifle musket used by British and American soldiers in the Revolutionary War.

Terry Starred, Coached At Washington University

A former star athlete for the University of Washington and who was assistant to two famous coaches Darrol Royal and Jim Owens, is a student officer here.

He is 2nd Lt. Ronald Terry, assigned to the 22nd Company, Second Student Battalion, The School Brigade, as a member of BIOC No. 14.

Lt. Terry began his athletic career playing for Brannan Union (California) High School where he earned 12 varsity letters, four each at football, basketball, and track. At football, Terry won his letters as a tail back, made all league and most valuable player awards.

At basketball he played guard, made all conference player of the year, and most valuable player awards. At track he ran the 100-yard dash and the 40 and 80-yard relays.

Upon graduation from high school, Terry enrolled in the San Bernardino Valley College in California where he earned two letters at football, one as a defensive halfback and one at the split "T" quarterback slot. He made the all eastern conference team.

The next year found Terry enrolled at the University of Washington at Seattle, where he garnered two varsity letters at football, the first one as a halfback and the second year as an end.

Map Maker Travels From Alaska to Iran

SAN FRANCISCO (ANP) — and methods of triangulation and leveling — but he still had plenty to learn. How well he used his previous background and Army training is indicated by the fact that his present duties include training new men as well as supervising field operations.

Since joining the 20th Group in 1951 he has made five trips to Alaska with the unit, where he became intimately acquainted with the terrain, and last year he spent in Iran helping to connect the basic geodetic networks of Turkey, Iraq and Pakistan through Iran.

While there he also helped train Iranian technicians in American mapping techniques, a difficult assignment since his own theoretical knowledge of the subject was limited.

A native of Hawaii, Froberg joined the Army in 1946. His civilian job as a surveyor with the Florida State Highway Department latched him as a trainee for the Corps of Engineers' map service and future globe-trotting.

Lt. Puckel Says Psychology Means Most To Marksman

Mastery of psychology behind shooting has made 1st Lt. Daniel E. Puckel, Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning, one of America's best riflemen. "Once you've mastered the position fundamental, about 90 per cent of it is in the head," he said.

Prime Concentration He showed that concentration under pressure can be set by setting a new national record in preliminary tryouts for the U.S. International Rifle Team. He fired 1,138 out of a possible 1,200 in the 300-meter free rifle match. This was only one point under the current world record of 1,200 held by A. Bogdanov, Russian rifleman.

Lt. Puckel credits ideal shooting conditions and expert coaching as the reasons he was able to fire a record score. A stud of two to five miles per hour, even light and his coach Major Paul Schultz, enabled him to put intense concentration on his shooting.

Individual Coaches Needed He's a firm believer in individual coaches and said, "They're an absolute necessity to a first-class international team." He added that such help is a chief means to achieving superior performance in international shooting.

The 29-year-old officer learned a lot about concentration from Capt. (ret.) John W. Kolb former coach of the AMU International Team who was disabled in an auto accident while on route to the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in 1957.

"Capt. Kolb taught me how to concentrate on the round in the chamber to the exclusion of anything else," Lt. Puckel said.

One At a Time "That's when I learned to shoot, my shots just one at a time."

He admits to a "little nervousness" when he's ready on the firing line, but thinks that only makes him try a little harder. He expects the U.S. to make good showing in the world championships this August. He said, "We'll have a rifle team whose members can shoot scores over 1,100 and that is something unheard of in this country before."

Lt. Puckel won both the smallbore and free rifle championships at the National Matches at Camp Perry last year. He even bettered his own record in winning the smallbore event.

This year he has progressed steadily, firing higher and higher scores. He set victory in the national indoor smallbore championship. His score was 795 out of a possible 800.

WORK IMPROVEMENT The Department of the Army receives between 250 and 300 work improvement suggestions each quarter - year, amounting to millions of dollars in benefits to the Army. From October through December last year, for example, there were 297 suggestions with $125,492 in benefits—Army Information Digest.

'Flying Banana' Proved Worth In Korean Action

The H-21 "Shawnee" or more commonly referred to as the "Flying Banana" is one of the most dependable light transport helicopters ever designed and manufactured for Army use.

Manufactured by the Vertol Aircraft Corporation of Morton, Penn., the "Shawnee" proved its worth in the Korean Police action. This aircraft appears to have two engines, but it is a single engine, tandem rotor type helicopter. The crew of the H-21 is composed of a pilot, co-pilot, and a crew chief.

The H-21 will cruise at 95 m.p.h., with a maximum speed of 150 m.p.h. At a normal cruising speed, it has a range of 250 miles and is capable of carrying 12 fully equipped combat troops or 12 called-upon to evacuate wounded.

The H-21 will carry 10 liters. Army has found it to be a good means of getting supplies to the front lines, for it has a capacity of 4,000 pounds or it will sling load 4,500 pounds of equipment. The H-21 has also been used for jumping, and is capable of carrying 10 parachutists.

The H-21 has been used with great success as a troop carrier in recent exercises such as King Cole, Desert Rock, Jumplight, and Sagebrush. There are three H-21 companies in the Army today. Each company has 21 H-21's assigned to it. One such company could transport 250 men or 60,000 pounds of cargo in the front lines, for it has a

54th Builds New Scout Camp Here

The 54th Medical Group once again has pitched in to assist the Fort Benning scout program.

Men from the group have been busy engaged recently in the construction of four Adirondack huts in the vicinity of Hourglass and Bishop's Lake. These Adirondack huts are three-walled, peaked-roof log cabins capable of sleeping eight scouts each.

These huts are being built to provide all boy and girl scouts in this district with an outdoor camp site. This project is one of the first of its type conducted in the Fort Benning area.

While the bulk of the construction is being carried out by the men of the 54th, the scouts will finish all details of the huts, such as building stoves and outdoor fireplaces for cooking. A total of 32 scouts, or an average size troop can be accommodated at the new camp.

Twenty-two men are engaged in the most recent advanced individual Training classes to be conducted by the 54th Medical Group. Eight men from the 151st Engineer Group are participating in the six-week training course which extends from April 21 through May 31.

At the training, the Engineers will join the Medical Platoon of the 151st in time to supervise this unit to Karlsruhe, Germany.

First Lt. Edward Sexauer, 54th Medical Company, is in charge of the AIT Program, while Sgt. Robert Hill, 54th Medical Company, is supervising Officers and non-coms from all the Group units are acting as instructors.

Capt. William C. Roach Jr. has taken over the duties of the 54th Medical Company, while Capt. James J. Wolfe, who is leaving for Germany, is acting as the former commanding officer of the 54th Medical Company.

Complementary service and distinguished yourself in voluntarily participating in the construction of the huts. Your courageous act of volunteering for hazardous duty, proficiency and dedication to duty which helped minimize loss of life and property, relieved untold human misery, all reflect great credit on yourself, your organization and on the Army.

Col. Harry C. McClain, commanding officer of the 54th Medical Group, and his colleagues to Col. Foutre's commendation in a letter to the men which said: "Such courage and heroism mark you as outstanding among your fellow Army. Such conduct befits the high standards exemplified by the men and officers of this command. You are a great credit to your country."

Fort Benning Hosts Spanish War Vets

On May 26 some 45 delegates attending the 36th Encampment of the Georgia United Spanish War Veterans visited Fort Benning for a tour of the post.

They were picked up and returned to the Ralston Hotel by Army bus. The veterans were attending their annual convention May 25 to 29 in Columbus.

Guide officer for the Spanish War veterans was 1st Lt. Guy E. Sims of Mortar Battery, 14th Infantry.

3 'Copter Crews Cited For Mission of Mercy

The pilots and crews of three helicopters attached to the 54th Medical Group recently were awarded letters of commendation for their heroic efforts in completing a mission of mercy during the "Snow Emergency" in Pennsylvania last February.

The helicopter pilots, 1st Lt. Harland Burroughs, Louis E. Williams, and William Kille, and their crew chiefs, Sgt. Harold Matthews, Sp3 John Schermerman, and Pfc. Leonard Villalobos, of the 37th Medical Detachment, left Fort Benning last Feb. 14 by commercial airplane for the Sikorsky air craft plant at Bridgeport, Conn. There they were to pick up three new helicopters and ferry them to the Tobyhanna Signal Depot, Tobyhanna, Pa., for radio modifications and then fly them to Fort Benning.

After their arrival at Tobyhanna they learned that the freezing weather and mountainous snow drifts which had covered many homes and completely isolated families were to turn their routine flight into an emergency mission of rescue and evacuation by helicopter and the supplying of food and medicine by aerial drops to the storm victims in rural areas along the Pennsylvania-New York border.

The three officers and their crew members quickly volunteered their services and from Feb. 18 to 22 they completed more than 150 sorties of about 500 flying hours in supplying food, fuel, medical supplies, feed for livestock, and in evacuating whole families marooned in snow bound homes.

Relieved Misery

The letter of commendation to each of the six members of the 37th Medical Detachment, signed by Col. Clifford A. Foutre, commanding officer of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot, stated: "You are a great credit to your country."

After the completion of the radio modifications and the ferrying of the helicopters to Fort Benning, the 37th Medical Detachment was reassigned to the 14th Infantry.

22 Serve as Ranger Aggressors At Eglin Air Force Base in Fla.

Company A Lt. Jerry Majures and 21 company men will serve as aggressors for the Infantry School Ranger Course located at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. for 21 days.

Sgt. Eugene Dunn was assigned to Fort Jackson, S.C. last week while Pfc. Raymond Miller was assigned to the Ninth Infantry Division, Fort Carson, Colo.

Company D Company D sent 118 men to participate in an Armed Forces day parade at Mobile, Ala. Pfc. James Boyd, Pfc. Elbert W. Broughman, Pfc. Elton C. Hodges and Pfc. Carl Nice were transferred from Headquarters and Headquarters Company.

Hq. and Hq. Company Sgt. Harry L. Baniel is on a re-assignment leave after reupping for his own vacancy for six years.

New men assigned to the company last week were: Pfc. Francis M. Brunson, Pfc. J. B. Arrington, Pfc. Franklin D. Cunningham, Pfc. Billy Tharrington, Pfc. James L. Richardson, Sp3 John A. Thompson, Pfc. George Morryman, Pfc. Carl Nocer, Pfc. Carlton G. Hodges, Pfc. Elbert W. Broughman, and Pfc. James Boyd.

Sp3 Henry G. Satterfield has been reassigned with the Medical Holding Detachment, U.S. Army Hospital.

Company C Spring cleaning time has hit the company with full force. The duty uniform for anyone not on a school commitment consists of T-shirt, paint and brush. Major changes are in the works for both the day-room and the mess hall.

The softball team has halted its losing streak by winning three. The team has now moved up to fourth place with a record of five wins and four losses. Recent hits resulted in wins over both Mortar Battery and Company B with a loss also to Company B.

Sp3 Steve Lindsay has returned from the Hospital after undergoing operations. Sp3 Lindsay has taken over as the company utilities NOC while Sp3 Moran, his predecessor, has replaced Sp3 Lindsay in the hospital.

Training Never Done Lawson Conducting 3 Pilots Flight Courses

The old saying that a wife's work is never done can certainly be applied to Aviators at Lawson Field. By changing the wording slightly, you may say that a pilots flight training is never done.

Lund, Capt. Ellsworth F. Vassar, First Lt. David A. Stewart and First Lt. James C. Lane, Capt. Lard and Capt. Vassar, both instructed Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell during his flight training at Lawson.

Lt. Col. Gerald L. Hough, deputy commander of Lawson Army Airfield Command and a pilot of long and varied experience believes that these courses benefit substantially to the development of the pilot's judgment, the techniques he employs and his neuromuscular coordination. Col. Hough is convinced that this continuous training is responsible for Lawson Field's fine safety record.

According to First Lt. Gus N. Panoel and First Lt. Carl Lindstrom, both presently undergoing Instructor Pilot Training, this is the most difficult of the visual flying courses.

The IP (Instructor Pilot) training is also a 20 hour course, but it differs radically from the Standardization Course in that the pilot must learn to perform every maneuver from the rear seat of an L-19. In addition he must learn to recognize a dangerous situation brought on by the occupant of the front seat, and make an immediate correction. The reduced forward visibility, the inability to see the instrument panel, and the tremendous responsibility involved combine to make IP training, very difficult even for the experienced aviator.

The company softball team remains in the thick of a hotly contested range for league title with a 4-4 standing.

Mortar Battery The 8th Chemical Company lost to Mortar Battery. Sgt. Joseph Diggs has been hospitalized with the flu.

Paul E. Adams was private first class.

72nd Engineer Company The 72nd Engineers are leading the 16th Infantry Softball League with a record of 8 wins and 3 losses.

11th Signal Platoon Display for Organization Day included radio sets AN-VRG-3 and AN-VRC-18 with accessories on codeboards SB-10-OT and SB-86-P; one each, telephone TA-264P, reel reel LR-159 with wire.

Sgt. John G. Van Hoy Jr. has completed a 12-week course in Field Radio Repair at the post communications school.

87th Chemical Company The 87th Chemical Company softball team is now in second place. This standing was achieved with a 1-5 victory over Company D. The winning pitcher was Pfc. Robert Spikard.

School Brigade Serves 10,000 Infantry School Students Yearly

BY TOM MALLORY
The School Brigade this year will act as host to over 10,000 students of military tactics from throughout the free world as they attend courses at The Infantry School.

Some 11,700 officers and men will have attended the Army's most comprehensive "universality" of infantry tactics and related subjects at the end of fiscal year, 1958. The Infantry School offers over 300 courses which vary in length from two to 32 weeks, and include every kind of training from basic to advanced officer courses.

With such a large and diversified group of courses, and students enrolled from many foreign lands, the administrative and logistical problems present wide-ranging responsibilities. In charge of these responsibilities is The School Brigade.

The Infantry School's students, the Brigade's cadre, and the officers and instructors assigned to the Academic Department of The Infantry School are under the jurisdiction of The School Brigade.

A visitor on this "universally" campus can see training of all types and descriptions proceeding smoothly. Basic infantry Officer and Officer Candidate courses can be seen training and running field problems. Airborne students are constantly completing phases of their training, which includes their first free-fall jump from the 250 foot towers. Advanced officer classes, at-ended by representatives from almost every free nation in the world include instruction for allies on the theories and infantry tactics used by U.S. Army. Advanced marksmanship classes, teaching sniping and coaching with the M-1 rifle, are in session. Basic trainees are being instructed in the Army's new Trainee concept to better prepare them for battle situations.

Charged Three Years
The School Brigade has to keep abreast with the country's needs. Presently the major units of the Brigade consist of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, the First, Second, Fourth, and Fifth Student Battalions, and the Infantry School Detachment. The student battalions must be ready at all times of day and night to receive large groups of students. The supply and administrative work involved with such a large turnover of personnel falls squarely on The School Brigade's shoulders. Many foreign students arrive who can speak little or no English, but with the help of the Allied Liaison Section each unit satisfies the needs and comforts of all the students. Headquarters and Headquarters Company trains, administers, and provides logistical support for all assigned personnel in the operations of The Brigade's Headquarters. This means that most of these men hold jobs that require extensive training and experience so that they may more efficiently administer to the needs and diversified student body contained in The School Brigade.

Advanced Courses
The School Brigade's First Student Battalion hosts students of the more advanced infantry courses. Classes are generally comprised of officers who have had a considerable amount of service and experience. The largest of the classes this year is the Associate Infantry Officers Advanced Course of 1,154 officers.

An international air is always present in the First Battalion as officers from Germany, Italy, Korea, Viet Nam, Turkey, Greece, and other countries study and learn together. First Battalion plans to graduate approximately 2600 officers from its nine courses this year.

The Second Student Battalion's largest course is the Basic Infantry Officers Course. The BIOC classes provide basic training for nearly 3,000 Regular Army, National Guard, and Reserve officers each year. In BIOC, the new officer gains a working knowledge of duties and responsibilities of infantry company grade-officers. United States Military and Air Force Academy second classmen are also hosted by this unit.

Trained 4,000 Jumpers
Airborne, Ranger, and Pathfinder Courses are a major part of the training of the First Student Battalion. Over 200,000 paratroopers have been graduated from its Airborne Classes since 1940. Presently the Fourth Battalion graduates 2,900 students by conducting 12 classes annually. The classes generally run for four and one-half weeks, and despite the intensive physical and mental conditioning required for 1 1/2 courses, between 83 and 97 percent of the students graduate as qualified paratroopers. Training includes practice jumps from the 34 and 250 towers, and a student in his fourth week before the first actual jump takes place.

Marksmanship Courses
Several advanced marksmanship courses and two communication courses add several more hundred men to the Fourth Battalion. The famed Officer Candidate School, which gives qualified enlisted men the opportunity to become reserve officers, is located in the Fifth Student Battalion. For 23 weeks the officer candidate is put through exacting mental and physical (Please see Brigade, Page 35)

WIDE-RANGING RESPONSIBILITIES. . . Headquarters of The School Brigade, nerve center of wide-ranging responsibilities to more than 10,000 Infantry School student officers each year, is shown at left. DA Reveals Lightweight Helicopter

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Department of the Army has revealed that it has ordered five Hughes Model 269A helicopters which will be evaluated for possible future use as "observation-type" aircraft.

Developed without the aid of a military contract by the Hughes Tool Company Aircraft Division, the 269A may represent a new era in lightweight helicopters. A two-man helicopter designed for economy and reliability, it weighs only 800 pounds empty and can carry a 660 pound payload.

Engineers at the Hughes Culver City, Calif., facility claim the new machine will give added dimension of mobility to Army observation, liaison, and training activities. They say it also holds promise for other governmental agencies, such as police, fire, forestry, and highway engineering departments, even though the vehicle is being made available first to the Armed Forces.

The machine is "radical in its simplicity and economy." It has a top speed of 90 m.p.h. and a cruising range of 150 miles. The vehicle is powered by a 4-cylinder, air-cooled 180 h.p. Lycoming engine.

The Army designation for the new low cost helicopter is the YHO-2. The Army Aviation Board and Transporter Aircraft Test and Support Activity will put the five machines through operational tests when they arrive at Fort Rucker, Ala.

Unit Anticipates New River Port Traffic

In anticipation of making the Chattahoochee River a navigable stream, the 158th Engineer Company (Flat Bridge) which maintains the McJannet Bridge at Slaters Landing, is in the process of rigorous training to acquaint all its personnel with the quickest and most efficient methods of removing the center section of the bridge, thus giving any barge or boat access to the proposed new river port of Columbus.

Recently, just such an action was taken to permit an excursion boat on its way downstream from Columbus on a photographic trip to publicize the advantages of using the river for transportation of commercial products.

Exact arrival time of any boat at the ponton bridge is watched very closely by the 158th's company commander, Capt. Lawrence E. Davis, so as to have all necessary work completed and not delay traffic on the river and to cause as little inconvenience as possible to anyone using the ponton bridge.

To Attend School

Capt. James A. Anderson, company commander of Headquarters and Service Company, 57th Engineer Battalion, will be relinquishing his command soon in order to attend the Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Following his reporting date to Fort Belvoir on May 31, Capt. Anderson will spend 12 weeks in the Associate Engineer Officer Advanced Course.

Sec. McElroy Lauds Constructive Rivalry

WASHINGTON (APPS) — The ability of military men to work together "to achieve common goals" is almost as important as the ability to master today's sophisticated weapons, according to Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy.

"There is great strength in competition. It has been a key vitalizing factor in the development and progress of this country" in industry and throughout our society, McElroy said at an Armed Forces Day celebration here.

Rivalry has been a constructive force in military fields as well, he said, where traditions of the individual services are strong and air combat enthusiasts have contributed to their strength.

OC Class No. 3 Assumes Senior Status With Parade, Dinner-Dance

Fifth Student Battalion 50th Company — Officer Candidate Class No. 3 has reached its senior status. On May 17 the 31 officer candidates were formally declared Senior Officer Candidates. Later the same morning, in conjunction with Armed Forces Day, the company took part in a Senior Officer Candidate Parade at Sightsseeing Field. A reception for honored guests, families and wives of the officer candidates was held in the company day room immediately after the parade.

In the evening, a formal dinner and dance was held at Crain Hall. In a festive ceremony Mrs. Theodore Crosby was crowned Queen of Officer Candidate Class No. 3. Among the honored guests at the candlelight party were Col. and Mrs. L. H. Hoebbeck, Major and Mrs. Jack L. Treadwell, Major and Mrs. John T. Valentine, and Major and Mrs. William E. Wyrick.

H and S Company congratulated Charles D. Long on his promotion to first lieutenant. Lt. Long has been transferred to the 43rd Company.

40th Company — Country Radio Maintenance Class No. 13 is now enrolled with a strength of 54 students. Sgt. Clinton E. Savage is class leader. RADM Class No. 10 graduated last week. Pipeline personnel are all reassigned to Fort Carson, Colo.

43rd Company marched to bivouac last week. The march started at Lee Field and ended at North K Range. As a surprise the march included a 300-yard jump through one of the many swamps that dot the reservation.

44th Company — Sp3 George Stashburn, First Student Battalion entry in the Brigade Soldier of the Month contest, walked off with the honor of being the fourth consecutive man to win such honors from the Fourth Battalion. He also walked off with a three-day, three-night, a Norelco electric shaver and the "Soldier of the Month" plaque which he is keeping highly polished.

Industry School Detachment Company E — Sfc James E. Henry and Sfc Reginald A. Smith departed Fort Benning May 12, to attend the Guided Missile School at Fort Monmouth, N.J.

Company E — M-Sgt Leslie McConnell, chief of the Rifle Committee recently re-elected for six years. M-Sgt McConnell was assigned to the Rifle Committee as an assistant instructor Aug. 10, 1955.

Company G — The enlisted members of the Rifle Committee recently took tests on the various phases of mortar instruction. The tests were given to check the professional knowledge of the men, and to help correct deficiencies before the MGC proficiency tests are given later this year. Tests are currently being held on methods of mounting the mortar to determine the quickest, most efficient and simplest method of mounting the mortar.

COL. GREER CITED . . . Col. Howard W. Greer, second from left, Infantry Center G-2, is presented a plaque from Youth Activities Club for his contributions as president of the organization since last August. The plaque was awarded in surprise ceremonies in the office of Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, right, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center. Left to right are Tommy Thomas, 11, son of Capt. and Mrs. Charles F. Thomas, Col. Greer; Pfc Harold P. Percey, assigned to the Youth Activities Club; Joanne Smith, 11, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ed W. Smith, and Gen. Ruggles.

First Student Battalion — Born to 2nd Lt. Col. and Mrs. Donald Griffith was a son, Scott Wells, born May 13 and weighing seven pounds, four ounces.

Hq. and Hq. Company — Sp3 Class Billy C. North is presently being processed to be reassigned from the Army on a hardship discharge. His home is in St. Charles, Mo., where his wife and three children are now residing.

Sp3 North has served 21 months in the Army. He has been assigned to this unit for approximately three months. Before coming to Fort Benning, he was at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. for basic training, Fort Campbell, Ken. for Airborne training, and Fort Gordon, Ga. as a clerk.

20th Company — Lt. Col. John B. Zarin, Second Student Battalion commanding officer, presented the Battalion PT trophy to 20th Company for scoring the highest individual average on the physical training tests since the trophy has been offered. The unit will display it until another BIOC class obtains the 262.6 average attained by student officers BIOC No. 11.

Col. Zarin also presented individual trophies to the four high M1 rifle marksmen and the top four on the physical training tests. 2nd Lt. James Sterling received the first-place M1 rifle trophy for his score of 231 of a possible 250, and 2nd Lt. Bob F. Gordon, 1st Sergeant, scored an average of 413 of 500 on two PT tests.

Fifty-four student officers completed the evasion and mail clerk, Pfc Michael D. Pease, was the remaining 120 BIOC officers either failed to complete the 10-mile course in the allotted time or were captured.

The company became the senior BIOC class in the Army. Company graduated, and soon afterwards the student officers began clearance and packing for their new assignments.

21st Company — First Sergeant, M-Sgt. Shirley O. Whaley Jr., has successfully passed the high school equivalency test. Sgt. Whaley, on two successive days, took five written examinations and passed them all.

Pfc Morton Wargman, another 21st Company private, was selected as Second Student Battalion "Soldier of the Month."

24th Company — Members of the 24th Company enjoyed their second series of three-day passes last weekend. Panama City seems to be tops in the list of places for learning the highest individual average on the physical training tests since the trophy has been offered. The unit will display it until another BIOC class obtains the 262.6 average attained by student officers BIOC No. 11.

Col. Zarin also presented individual trophies to the four high M1 rifle marksmen and the top four on the physical training tests. 2nd Lt. 27th Antiaircraft Platoon Given Top Reenlistment Plaque for April

The 27th Antiaircraft Platoon (Automatic Weapons) (Self-Propelled) commanded by 1st Lt. Gilbert L. Lewis was awarded a plaque for the highest reenlistment rate for the month of April. The award is presented monthly by the 10th Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery to the unit with the highest reenlistment percentage.

Headquarters Battery

Sgt. Thomas A. Glacum returned May 12 from a two-week TDY with Savannah Port, Savannah, Ga. His principal duty while in port was to clarify Third Infantry Division dependents and personnel.

Sgt. Billy G. Fowler, Pfc Samuel Johnson, and Pvt. Dennis E. Dorman departed Fort Benning May 17 for Fort Stewart, where they will serve with the Nike and Corporal missiles for an Armed Forces Day Display.

Sgt. Norman E. Oals, our survey chief of section for the past three years has received orders transferring him to the Eighth Army Area (Korea). Sfc. Oals will report to Fort Lewis, Wash. June 22.

Battery A

On May 16, ten EM and one officer traveled to Mobile, Ala. to display two 106mm howitzers for the Armed Forces Day program May 17. Also, nine EM traveled to Tuskegee, Ala. for a similar display. The displays turned out in a superior manner.

The following named men were transferred to the 10th Division: M-Sgt. Oscar Victory, M-Sgt. Fred A. Lee, M-Sgt. Martin A. Story, Sfc. Gordon R. Allen, and M-Sgt. T. DeBolt. 530th FA Battery (Searchlight) Capt. Jamie L. Aiken, commanding officer of the 530th Field Artillery Battery (Searchlight) has taken a 10-day leave to visit his family during the birth of his son.

The following named men were promoted to Private First Class: Pvt. John R. Cole and Pvt. Richard M. Lowman.

Battery B sponsored the Protestant Services at the Infantry School Troop Command's Chapel May 11. A large number of personnel from the battery attended the service.

Officers for the service were Pfc. George F. Alligauer, Pfc. James R. Corbin, Pfc. Joe F. Fyffe, and Pfc. Charlie McFarland.

Sfc. Floyd P. Pittman has received orders placing him TDY to Fort Stewart, Ga. Sfc. Pittman is trained as a food service instructor and will probably serve in this capacity.

Sgt. Aubrey J. Peterman and Sgt. Raymond D. Bedford were both awarded their high school diplomas after successfully completing the General Education Development Tests.

Second Lt. Larry T. Howard, battery B assistant executive officer, is now attending the CBR school at Fort Benning. Lt. Howard is the second member of the battery in recent weeks to attend the CBR school. Sgt. Billy Coleman recently graduated the two-week course at Fort Benning. He will be promoted to sergeant when he is processed for retirement from the Army. Sfc. Smith was the former Motor Sergeant who was replaced by Sfc. Jim H. Waggoner. He is leaving the service Sfc. Smith leaves behind him 21 years of service to the Army. He plans to get an appointment to a Civil Service job along the same line of work he has performed in the Army. Sfc. Rudolf J. Wells Visited By Personnel

As result of a recent visit by 12 members of the Columbus Merchants Association as guests of The School Brigade, several of the merchants expressed desire that a reciprocal visit be made by members of the Brigade.

May 16, more than 40 officers and enlisted men paid a visit to Wells Dairy.

Perry Gordy, public relations director for Wells, met the group and after a short orientation they saw a movie showing processing of milk products from farm to home.

Members of the military were then broken up into four groups and taken on a guided tour of the installation. The tour ended with an "on the house" ice cream supper.

Future visits to fulfill invitations made by other Columbus merchants are in the planning stage, according to Col. A. L. Hoebbeck, commanding officer of The School Brigade.

"HORSERY ANSWER" "Would you like a baby sister or a baby brother?" the doctor asked the four-year-old boy. "If I have my choice," answered the lad, "I'll take were then broken up into four

Trainees Firing Familiarization In Preparing for German Duty

Trainees have lately been engaged in familiarization firing with the .45 caliber sub-machine gun and the 30 caliber carbine, and in qualification firing with the 45 caliber pistol. Trainees are scheduled to leave the 826th Tank Battalion in late June. They have been assigned to the Third Medium Tank Battalion (Patrol), 7th Armored, Schweinfurt, Germany. Trainees are currently receiving pre-overseas leave.

OO ON LEAVE

Capt. Willoughby Nelson, Company A, commanding officer, began a 15-day leave on May 21. Newly-promoted 1st Lt. Michael Polose will fill in during Capt. Nelson's absence. The audit of mess records is for the month of April showed no deficiencies at the Company. C. Mess Hall. SFC. J. H. Smith, Mess Steward, received commendations from the 54 section. Sgt. Ray Alexander, Company A, is acting operations sergeant in St. Humberto Avila's absence. Sp2 Jerry Flaminio, Company A, is attending Quartermaster School in Fort Lee, Va. He was formerly supply clerk with the company.

Pvt. Richard Ormeroy, Company A, will be married during his current leave.

Company C News

Pfc Douglas Burdick, Company C, will be married on Aug. 2 to Miss Judy Surdell. 2nd Lt. Vernon C. Johnson, Company B, proved himself a fisherman of note by catching an 8 pound bass at Kings Pond, near the battalion headquarters in the near future. He will assist the Mess Steward.

Beautification activities continue in the 826th area. Fencing of the grade on which line companies are located will prevent erosion and the consequent accumulation of debris on the road below the company areas. Fences are being erected and seeding initiated.

18 Scouts to Get Hospital Aides' Caps on June 5

Eighteen senior Girl Scouts from Fort Benning's Troop No. 72 will receive their caps as hospital aides at a formal ceremony June 5 at 7:30 p. m. in the Girl Scout Little House. The teenage Scouts who completed a training course at the U.S. Army Hospital in April have earned their caps by contributing at least 30 hours of service on hospital wards.

18 trainees left for Truck Vehicle Mechanics School on May 21. The 15-week course will prepare selected men for specialized maintenance and repair of armored equipment. Graduates of the school will be forwarded separately to the Third Medium Tank Battalion (Patrol), 7th Armored, Schweinfurt, Germany. Other trainees will accompany the company as a body in the Third in early July.

2nd Lt. William L. Tally has been assigned to Company A, 826th Tank Battalion. A native of Chattanooga, N.J., Lt. Tally is a 1957 graduate of Rutgers University. He entered the army on Jan. 2, 1958, and thereafter attended Armored Officers Basic Course at Fort Knox, Ky. He was subsequently assigned to the 826th.

2nd Lt. John M. Faulhaber of Passaic, N.J., has joined Company C, 826th Tank Battalion, Fort Knox, Lt. Faulhaber entered the army on Jan. 6, 1958. He attended the Chatelet School in Malingford, Conn., and the New York University College, Middlebury, Vt. He was awarded his degree in 1957, and Lt. Paul E. McKinney, a graduate of Furman University, Greenville, S.C., is assigned to Company B. A native of

Gen. Taylor Outlines U. S. Military Forces

NEW YORK, N. Y. (ANS)—The Army's Chief of Staff, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, addressing members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel here on the Strategy of Deterrence, outlined five kinds of military forces the United States must maintain for its security:

1. Strong Air atomic retaliatory forces;
 2. An effective continental defense;
 3. Adequate overseas deployments;
 4. Strong, mobile strategic reserves in the United States with necessary strategic air and sea transport; and
 5. Allied forces capable of contributing to their own defense and to maintain American's strategic objectives.
- "No one," declared Gen. Taylor, "would question the need for the continued maintenance of a powerful air atomic retaliatory force." However, "to complement the offensive striking power of this force, we also need an effective air defense of the continental United States . . . we must at a minimum provide a deterrent reminder to a potential enemy that our skies are not open to his planes and missiles."
- Discussing deterrent forces generally, Gen. Taylor pointed out that the present situation of mutual deterrence "is a massive deterrent." He is also aware of a new circumstance which is arising. "The Soviet bloc," he said, "is collecting blood furnished the Armed Forces, since the national organization is the only one that will accept the blood. Therefore, we in the military must not only provide for deterring a great

DOD to Share Blood Program

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Defense Department has agreed to bear part of the cost of collecting and processing blood distributed to military hospitals by the American Red Cross.

Dr. Frank B. Berry, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health and Medical), said that the Red Cross will be assisted in distributing the expense of collecting blood furnished the Armed Forces, since the national organization is the only one that will accept the blood. Therefore, we in the military must not only provide for deterring a great

Turtle Rarely Turns Maintenance Keeps 826th Tanks Moving

Take a turtle and turn it on its back. Something of the same spectacle occurs when fighting M48 tanks in the 826th Tank Battalion is disabled by mechanical failure. A bulldozer will be once transformed into passivity. The mission of the Armored Maintenance Section, which is comprised of expert personnel from the 826th itself and from the 154th Transportation Company, is to keep tanks, personnel carriers and certain wheeled vehicles of the Assault Gun Section of the 14th Infantry and the Reconnaissance Platoon of the 29th Infantry at maximum combat readiness—to prevent the turtle from ever turning, so to speak. This is no menial job.

According to WO Carl F. Gunderson, maintenance on one tank alone requires 60 mechanic man-hours and 120 crew man-hours. Assisted by Charles W. Smith and Sgt. Clinton G. Alderman, WO Gunderson supervises the removal and servicing for instances of the 850 hp. engines which power the M48s.

More than a few of Armored Maintenance personnel have had extensive experience in armor. Sgt. William Faulhaber has 22 years of service. "I joined armor in 1930," he says. "It was part of the Infantry, then, and the latest style in armored units was the Renault and the old Mark IV." Capt. Frank E. O'Donohue, the Battalion motor officer, has more than 15 years of armored experience himself. "As in many other areas, experience is the sole source of the little, extra-curricular tricks that give you a real battle confidence. There is, after all, more than one way of righting our turtle."

The extraordinary quality of service provided by the Armored Maintenance Section to the Harmony Church area is in large part attributable to the initiative of the unit commander of the 826th Tank Battalion. It was they who directed the consolidation of the maintenance missions of the 154th Transportation Company and of the 826th Tank Battalion. In addition, tank crews are required to assist and observe the performance of the customary first-echelon maintenance executed before each vehicle leaves the shop. This procedure allows crew and mechanics to discover at first hand that the task of keeping a tank moving is, above

On an ordinary day in the Armored Maintenance shops, some of the 123 tracked vehicles serviced during each three-month period are, with medical precision, undergoing a kind of regeneration one wishes were possible for humans, too. Engines, separated from the tanks they power, throbb mightily adjust. Suspension systems undergo a painstaking examination for deficiencies. In one corner, an M48 wrecker retrieves the final spraying which gives it the exterior appearance to match the interior. But, coming to think of it, tanks are nearly human. Ask any tank commander. They are maintenance men, the kind of care provided by the Armored Maintenance Section in Harmony Church. The turtle is rarely allowed to turn, and when by chance it does, it remains that way only so long as it takes the expert of Armored Maintenance to perform their mission.

DA Says No RIFs in '59

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Department of the Army announced that it anticipates making no involuntary reductions in force in the Department of Defense in 1959, the spokesman said.

At the end of FY 1958, the Army will have 105,000 officers and warrant officers compared with 100,100 programmed for the end of FY 1959.

According to an Army spokesman, the reduction in strength will be made by a combination of normal losses such as retirement, resignations, voluntary release from active duty, deaths, and reduced procurement.

Infantry School Briefs Italian Director General

Major Gen. Emiliano Scotti, Italian Army director general, headed a party of 18 Italian officers who visited the Infantry School May 21 to 24. The other visitors were Col. Pio Alberto Nenchia, chief of the Services Office, Italian Army General Staff, and Lt. Col. Mario Tomazino, Pietro Handi, Lillo Barbi, Raffaele Fraia:ini and Michele Fer-

The group's orientation on Infantry School activities in Gen. Scotti and Col. Nenchia conferred with Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Infantry School commandant, May 23. The entire party was honored with an official dinner at 4 p.m. in the Main Officers' Mess.

Lt. Col. Kenneth E. Pell, instructor on The Infantry School Command and Staff Department's Artillery Committee, was the project officer.

The Allied party's three-week tour of the U.S. ended May 27. The Italian officers have visited Washington, D.C., U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.; Fort Bliss, Tex.; Fort Sill, Okla. and Fort Knox, Ky.

Paratroopers Make Tactical Rocket Test

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AFTS) - In the Army's first pentomic division - the 101st Airborne - missiles have moved up front.

When the 101st pioneered the Army's modernization program late in 1956, pentomic planners moved some of the Honest John's forward into the division command.

During field exercise after field exercise the "Screaming Eagle" paratroopers have practiced ways and means of using their new firepower. The aim is to maneuver the enemy and concentrate him so that one burst will result in the total destruction of his front-line troops or even weeks to its defeat.

Within the past two years the division has fired many actual Honest Johns in the field and hundreds more in simulated actions.

Tours Show U. S. to Allied TIS Students

Allied students attending the Infantry School are becoming acquainted with a broad cross-section of the American public and our country's way of life. Through a series of visits to Fort Benning and civilian organizations and businesses, the program is sponsored by the school's Allied Liaison Section in conjunction with the Citizens-Military Council of Fort Benning-Columbus, Ga.

Eighty officers from 19 Allied countries—Austria, Colombia, Costa Rica, Denmark, Ecuador, Guatemala, Iraq, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Nicaragua, Pakistan, Paraguay, Peru, Republic of Vietnam, Spain, Thailand, Turkey and West Germany traveled to Fort Benning, Ga., last Thanksgiving to spend the holidays with these visitors to our country.

The program is sponsored by the school's Allied Liaison Section in conjunction with the Citizens-Military Council of Fort Benning-Columbus, Ga.

During recent months students from 23 nations throughout the world have been given the opportunity to participate in tours of the Ledger-Enquirer newspaper plant, WRBL television station, the Coca-Cola bottling plant, the Shell Chemicals plant, and other local industries.

Orientation visits conducted on the post have included the U. S. Capitol, the Children's Schools and the Third U. S. Army Training Aids, Sub-Center. The program is sponsored by the school's Allied Liaison Section in conjunction with the Citizens-Military Council of Fort Benning-Columbus, Ga.

Some of the Allied officers have addressed organizations in the surrounding civilian community. The most recent of these lecturers has been Lt. Col. Harsh C. Rai of India, who illustrated his comments with slides.

TO VISIT POST. Col. Mary Louise Milligan, director of the Women's Army Corps will visit Fort Benning June 3-5. The fifth director of the Women's Army Corps, she was appointed to her position in January, 1957.

Cannoneers Sent To McPherson

A gun section from Infantry School Troop Command went to Fort McPherson, Ga., May 23 to participate in retirement ceremonies for Major Gen. Edward B. Post, chief of the Georgia Military District.

The 20 cannoneers were under the command of Capt. Edmund D. Rozicki. All are assigned to the 10th Artillery's Second Field Artillery Battalion.

A native of Iowa, Gen. Post has completed more than 30 years' service. He enlisted in the Army in October, 1918, and is a 1923 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Fog Provides Solid Screen

WASHINGTON (APFS)—Ingenuous use of smoke tanks, devised for jet planes by the Army Chemical Corps, has revived the protective aerial screen—abandoned after WWII—for concealing paratroop jumps and tactical moves.

The smoke screen, used with success in the early stages of WWII land and sea operations, proved less effective as the speed of planes increased.

When the chemical agent was released from wing tanks, the rush of air broke the liquid into the dead spaces around the smoke to hang suspended in capsules.

Packet Gyros To Germany On June 8

Under the Army's Gyroscope program, an overseas replacement packet from the 496th Engineer Battalion at Fort Benning will depart for Germany on June 8 for assignment with the 7th Engineer Battalion in Karlsruhe, Germany.

The packet is comprised of a provisional training company which received its training from the 496th Engineers. Consisting of approximately 312 men, the replacement packet will make the move to its new home in Germany through the Army Brooklyn (N. Y.) Transportation Terminal Command.

An escort of five officers and nine non-commissioned officers will accompany the unit via rail to Brooklyn where they will sail on the U. S. General Buckner to Bremerhaven, Germany.

Under the Gyroscope program, units exchange stations and rotations. Therefore, approximately the same number of men will return to the U. S. from the 7th Engineer Battalion in Germany.

Officer in charge of the packet is Major Francis W. Quirk, assigned to the Command and Staff Department, The Infantry School.

Before departure time, there will be a brief ceremony bidding the group "Auf Wiedersehen" with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of The Infantry School, scheduled to be present.

WAR DEAD HONORED WITH WREATH Placed On Grave By Brig. Gen. S. R. Larsen.

War Dead Honored At Rites in Cemetery

Under clear Georgia skies, impressive Memorial Day ceremonies were held May 29 at Fort Benning's post cemetery. The service paid tribute to Fort Benning's honored dead.

The Infantry Center Band, under direction of CWO Earl D. Jones, performed a 15-minute concert of sacred music, including Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Onward Christian Soldiers", for the more than 300 people who attended the services.

Rabbi Goodman Speaks

Following the band concert, Rabbi Alfred I. Goodman of Temple Israel, Columbus, gave the invocation which opened the ceremonies. Chaplain (1st Lt.) William H. Floyd delivered the Memorial Day address in which he quoted the famous words of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

The highlight of the morning ceremony was the placing of a wreath at the grave by Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of The Infantry School.

That, with tiny American flags waving over the graves of 284 U. S. soldiers interred in the cemetery, a firing squad from Fort Benning's 23th Infantry, commanded by 5th Sgt. J. Martin, fired three volleys.

Over the husband's military personnel and their civilian guests, "tags" was sounded by one bugler and echoed from a nearby knoll in the cemetery.

Benning To Host U.S.M.A. Cadets

The 599-man U.S. Military Academy Class of 1960 will arrive at Fort Benning June 12 for an intensive Infantry School orientation on the latest developments in Army tactics and techniques.

To Honor Firers Post to Welcome Lt. Gen. Ruffner

Lt. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner will pay his first official visit to Fort Benning as commanding general of Third Army June 6 and 7.

The three-star general assumed command of Third Army at Fort McPherson, Ga., last month.

Lt. Gen. Ruffner will be welcomed to Lawson Army Air Field at 1:30 p.m. with honor guard ceremonies and a 15-gun salute.

In the official greeting party will be Major Paul J. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center and commander of the 10th Infantry School; Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the 10th Infantry Center; Col. Robert H. York, Infantry School chief of staff, and Col. Norman B. Edwards, Infantry School director of instruction.

The visitor will be honored with an official luncheon at 8 p.m. in the Main Officers Club.

YAC Carnival to Feature 'Parade of Champions'

Fort Benning's Youth Activities Carnival featuring the "Parade of Champions" will be held at The Infantry Center July 4-5.

During this period the "Home of the Infantry" will be colorfully clad with numerous banners, streamers and decorations of all proportion fulfilling the carnival spirit of the Independence holiday.

The carnival will feature more than 25 participation-type booths ranging from fortune telling to the firing of the 106 recoilless rifle sub caliber device. In addition to these attractions calling for athletic dexterity there will be all types of food booths including a cake sale, cotton candy and watermelon booths.

One of the biggest attractions will be the barbecue which will be held on both days. Other activities go over swamp lands, cross streams and climb mountains were demonstrated on film last week at Fort Benning.

Trophies will be presented to the winners of the various contests.

Shaw Rocket May Flash Doughboy Thru Air 'With Greatest of Ease'

Personal rockets which are expected to enable the individual soldier to jump obstacles, go over swamp lands, cross streams and climb mountains were demonstrated on film last week at Fort Benning.

The rockets, dubbed "jump boots", are designed to be worn on the soldier's back. A modification of the revolutionary rocket development also may carry jeeps and heavy tanks across mud rivers, without benefit of boats or bridges.

Showing film and slides of the rocket to Infantry School officials, including Combat Development Office members, were four representatives of the reaction Motor Division of the Thiokol Chemical Corp. of DeWitt, N.J. The rocket is the first piece of hardware

The first group of new trainees, totaling 275, to be trained in the Second Infantry Division arrived June 2 by bus and will be processed here until June 9 at which time they will begin their basic training.

On hand to greet the new trainees, who have been in the Army now approximately six days were Brig. Gen. Miller O. Perry, acting commanding general of the 10th Infantry Division and Col. Thomas A. Kenan, Commanding General of the Seventh Infantry.

The first 275 new trainees are the first of approximately 5,200 which are expected to arrive between June and August for processing and basic training.

The new troops will be assigned to A and B Companies of the second Battle Group, Seventh Infantry. On June 14, when the 10th Infantry Division will be inactivated and the Second Infantry Division will be reorganized, the Seventh Infantry will be redesignated the Second Battle Group, 11th Infantry.

developed under "Project Grasshopper" by the corporation which is concerned with the research and development of liquid and solid rocket engines and propellants.

The Thiokol representatives, accompanied by an officer of the Army Corps of Engineers, described and demonstrated the equipment's operation, application and capabilities.

Termed "quick as a flash", the rockets are expected to be used in combat away from obstacles, swamps, streams or mountains. Able to "shoot" said, they can assure troops just "human grasshoppers".

Troops carrying the small rocket engines on their backs approach a battle area cautiously, then, at the push of a button, cover the final 80 to 100 yards with tremendous burst of speed through the air, and "come up fighting", representatives explained.

"This development will give the foot soldier the greatest element of surprise and maybe the greatest tactical advantage ever introduced into warfare," they added.

Gen. Stresses NG, Reserve Importance

Emphasizing the necessity for National Guard and Army Reserve infantry units "trained and ready to go at the drop of a hat," Major Gen. Charles D. W. Canham, commanding general of XI U. S. Army Corps (Reserve), spoke at graduation ceremonies May 28 for the Infantry School's associate officers advanced class No. 4.

The 137-man class consisted of guardsmen and reservists and Allied students from seven nations. Honor graduate of the group was Capt. Charles E. Willner, S-4 of 110th Infantry Division, Pennsylvania National Guard.

"I have the greatest respect for our civilian soldiers. This country has never relied on a large standing Army. It is increasingly important that our civilian components be ready," Gen. Canham said.

"You must be prepared for a nuclear war or a so-called brush war, for you are the ones who must bear the brunt in the event either happens," the speaker told the Infantry.

"Never lose sight of the fact that in our lifetime there's all ways going to be a demand for the men on the ground with the rifle in his hand and a bayonet on the end of it. We must maintain a strong force in being that has the moral stamina to get in and close with the enemy," he declared.

The two-star general pointed out, "We need a more rugged individual than we ever have in the history of the Army and we need the educated man." He added that successful men in both civilian and military life "have never stopped learning."

"We need individuals in the Army today who are continually striving for bigger and better things. The gate is wide open to get to the top," Gen. Canham said.

"Remember that a commander makes or breaks his unit," he added. "You are dealing with the most precious commodity in the world—human life. It's important that you take steps to help mold the young men coming up. Be just and firm, but let them realize that they have a serious job ahead," he said.

STRAC Gives Army Elite Corps Ready to Hit Enemy Hard in Hours

BY M-SGT. HERB SCOTT, USA (AFPS) Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The U.S. Army's first elite unit not involved in war, has a Strategic Army Corps of some 30,000 hard-hitting troops alerted and ready to strike in any direction within hours. Armed with the most modern weapons, the Strategic Army Corps, or STRAC, is made up of the XVIII Air Corps, headed by Maj. Gen. Robert F. Sink at Ft. Bragg, N.C.; 101st Air Div., Ft. Campbell, Ky.; 4th Inf. Div., Ft. Lewis, Wash.; 1st Inf. Div., Ft. Riley, Kan.; and 82nd Air

Div. Ft. Bragg, with supporting units including rocket artillery and missiles. "It's a versatile fighting force," combining the technical skill of the missilemen with the battlefield experience and knowledge of infantrymen, paratroopers, tankers and engineers, based on world-wide commitments, has "interchangeable flexibility," the Army said in identifying units of the organization.

With 40 per cent of tactical strength deployed overseas in 75 countries, STRAC is the Army's "hot" hard-core army for the cold war. Tailored to meet limited "brush-fire" war, it is ready to move on a moment's notice to reinforce American garrisons in any trouble spot in the world.

For Limited Wars

Army Slates Exercises To Test STRAC Mobility

WASHINGTON (ANS)—The Army conjointly with the other services will conduct a series of field exercises during Fiscal Year 1959 specifically to test the mobility and alertness of its new Strategic Army Corps (STRAC).

A force tailored to deal with limited wars and to move rapidly to potential trouble spots anywhere in the world, STRAC's mission is to be operationally ready on a moment's notice.

Although prepared for any kind of emergency, STRAC's readiness, variety of firepower and mobility are designed primarily for dealing with threatening situations or actual outbreak of limited war. The dominant mission of these "tough, ready" soldiers, therefore, is to confine or smother any conflict before it can spread to a state of general war.

STRAC's battlefield punch, the Army points out, is evident in its streamlined, pentomic organization; the versatility of its weapons and equipment; and the "high state of training" of its men.

The active Army, formed around 15 pentomic divisions geared to win on the atomic battlefield while maintaining the ability to fight conventional war, is supported by equally modern mobile units, Army officials say, and backed up by trained National Guard and reserve forces.

Army elements posted along the Iron and Bamboo curtains are a part of the forward US defense line. With the other services and our allies, the line has the primary mission of deterring aggression. STRAC's mobility and instant readiness to respond and move in any direction gives the man the most assurance that a hostile nation would find aggression more expensive than it could afford, according to military leaders who shape Army strategy.

Benning Visited By 40 Students Of Oglethorpe

Forty students from Oglethorpe, Ga., School visited Fort Benning June 3.

Each year a group of students from the school visits Columbus for tours through various industries in the city, and for the first time, a conducted tour of the post was among their activities.

Included in their trip to Fort Benning were visits to the new Marine Army Hospital, Lawson Army Airfield, airborne training tower area and the Third Army Food Service Field mess.

The students were accompanied by parents and friends, including their teacher, Miss Pauline English.

MBS Cited For Service

WASHINGTON (ANS)—Army Chief of Information Major Gen. Harry P. Stork recently presented a "Certificate of Achievement" to Mutual Broadcasting System President—Board Chairman Armand Hammer in recognition of MBS's meritorious contributions to the national defense.

Signed by Secretary of the Army Hugh M. Buckner, the citation said in part that "the Mutual Broadcasting System has ably demonstrated its effectiveness as an instrument for giving unusual service to the public and the U. S. Army."

Mutual has been airing The Army Hour, a documentary of Army activities in the U. S. and overseas, for the past 10 years.

SOLDIER DEPICTED

The word SOLDIER, according to DA PAM 16-5, means a person who possesses the qualities which we in the military profession value. "You call a man of medicine a doctor," says the pamphlet. "You call a man of science a scientist, a man of letters or art or music an artist. But the man of the Army, from general to private, as a SOLDIER, and in his tasks as the others are in theirs."

Editorials Poetic Infantryman

YAKIMA FIRING CENTER, Wash. (ANS)—The story goes that a soldier from the Fourth Infantry Division was digging a foxhole during the recently completed Exercise Indian River maneuvers here when his entrenching tool unearthed a treasure chest buried by a poetic infantryman many years ago.

Lifting the cache — a rusty Army C-Ration can from the dirt, he opened it with trembling hands. It contained a note and a pair of dice. Adding insult to injured pride, the note read:

"To the finder of these bones, which was buried here by Jones, goes my deepest regrets. For if you lose, don't fret; just bury the dice . . . and dig up another vice."

Voting Is Up to You

Voting is the individual responsibility of each serviceman. He must decide that he wants to vote. He must find out whether the requirements of his state or territory. He must apply for registration if it is required. He must apply for an absentee voter's ballot, and he must mark it correctly and return it to the appropriate elections official of his state at the proper time.

The Armed Forces, however, will assist the individual serviceman in certain procedures. Voting officers in all units are available to furnish information about these procedures.

The law requires that a Federal Post Card Application for an absentee ballot shall "be delivered in hand to each person" in the Armed Forces, without individual request, for the general election in November.

Applications for primary and special election ballots, however, must be requested from the voting officer.

When the serviceman so desires, commanding or voting officers will assist him in filling out application forms and affidavits required by his state.

Voting assistance, then, is available to every serviceman for the asking. The rest is up to him. (AFPS)

Lesson Taught in Korea

Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker, in a speech prepared for delivery at Fort Bragg, N.C., to the Army Scientific Advisory Panel, said that America realized, during the Korean War, it owed its soldiers better weapons, better equipment — a better chance against the massed manpower of the communist enemy.

"Korea gave the impetus needed to begin a vast program of scientific research and development aimed at providing modern military tools," he said.

Today, he declared, the security of America demands that the Army writing from existing scientific knowledge every possible drop of defensive strength. The Army must, he said, continue in every possible way, to support creative research in order to expand existing knowledge.

"I need not labor the point that the Army must be prepared to fight any kind of war that is possible in today's world," he added.

The secretary said that Korea showed clearly that the Army in the future would have to possess weapons and techniques capable of "equalizing" the situations it might have to meet in a limited war situation produced by communism.

"If it had not been for the sheer bravery of our ground soldiers and the consummate skill of our commanders, let me assure you that the Free World, once the Korean War broke upon us, might have gone down to a humiliating defeat in a matter of a few months," Brucker said.

"The United States Army, fighting at a severe disadvantage at a time and place chosen by the enemy, prevented the defeat."

He said the Free World must be ready to oppose further expansion of the communist threat, short of nuclear war, the secretary said. And he explained that these will have to be hard-hitting, mobile forces, using every advantage they can get from science to raise the man-

BY CHAPLAIN (HST. LT.) MURRAY I. LERER
Peace of mind. It is not a possession of modern man. Man's quest for peace of mind occupies a prominent place in our daily lives in the midst of the restlessness and the fury of life about us.

It is this quest for peace of mind, however, either desirable or obtainable? Surely, anyone who is alive today to the grave issues that confront mankind; anyone who is sensitive to the needs of his age; anyone who is sensitive to the needs of his age; anyone who is sensitive to the needs of his age.

Hints Told For Safety In Water

- AFPS FEATURE
- More people will be taking to the water this summer. The Red Cross has issued 10 safety tips that will apply to all who go in for water sports, whether fishermen, boaters, or swimmers.
1. Learn to swim: To save your life, you can't think of a better sport.
 2. Always swim with another person. Make sure someone is nearby to help if you get into trouble.
 3. Swim in a safe place. The presence of lifeguards usually indicates the area is safe for swimming.
 4. Know the area. Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and that there are no hidden objects such as submerged rocks.
 5. Respect the water and know your limitations. Water can be a good friend or a deadly enemy. Don't go beyond safe limits or your ability.
 6. Use discretion. Don't swim right after eating or when overheated or overtired.
 7. Try to remain calm in case of trouble. Assume a face up floating position, keep your hands under water and slowly move your hands and feet.
 8. Keep safety equipment in your boat or canoe. Unless you're really an expert swimmer, it is wise when riding in small craft to wear a life vest.
 9. Stay with your boat or canoe. Most small craft will float, even when filled with water or overturned.
 10. Don't overpower your boat. A motor too powerful for your boat makes it difficult to control and may cause upset or other accidents.

Post Church Group Holds 1st Family Night Supper

Fort Benning's Harmony Church Sunday School and Harmony Chapel No. 5 congregation held its first Family Night Supper and devotional program in the Sunday School Building last week.

Some 150 persons attended the open house which was held as a special observance of renovations and improvements in a beautification and building program. The Harmony Church Sunday School is conducted each Sunday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. for the 180 families who live in the reservation's Trailer Park in the Harmony Church area.

Special guests of the evening were Chaplain (Col.) Albert Williams, Infantry Center chaplain, and Mrs. Williams.

Highlight of the supper was the cutting of a miniature cake chapel symbolizing the progress and participation in the Sunday school improvement program. Mrs. Raymond C. Barr, who has taught in the Trailer Park Sunday School continuously for two years, performed the ceremony.

Following the supper a program was presented in eight acts by the eight Sunday School classes. Individual members of each class were presented to the group by their teachers. A showing of two religious films, "King of the Block" and "The Story of David and Goliath," completed the program.

Post Visited By Director Of WACS

Director of the Women's Army Corps, Col. Mary Louise Milligan, is visiting Fort Benning for a first hand look at activities of the Infantry Center WAC Detachment.

She accompanied by Lt. Col. Lillian F. Foushee, WAC staff adviser for Third U. S. Army, Fort McPherson, Ga.

The two conferred with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, commanding general of the Infantry Center during the temporary absence of Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., June 3 and was honored at luncheon June 4 in the Main Officers' Mess.

They will leave the post today at 11 a.m.

Col. Milligan, who was appointed to her present position in January 1957, is the fifth director of the Women's Army Corps. A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., she has a bachelor of education degree from Carnegie Institute of Technology and a masters in education from the University of Pittsburgh.

Before entering the service she was assistant supervising principal of the Forest Hills School District in Pittsburgh.

Col. Milligan was a graduate of the first Women's Army Auxiliary Corps officer candidate class at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, in 1942.

She was deputy director of the WAC from August 1947 to August, 1952, when she began a four-year tour as WAC staff advisor for U. S. Army Europe.

CUTS CHAPEL CAKE . . . Mrs. Raymond C. Barr cuts the first slice of a miniature chapel cake at the first Family Night Supper and devotional program held by Fort Benning's Harmony Church Sunday School and Chapel No. 5 congregation. Assisting is Chaplain (1st Lt.) William R. Salk Shots Advised To Beat Polio Spell

With the advent of warm weather, take steps to begin or complete the vaccination program for all adults of Fort Benning. A recent survey, conducted by the Health School, indicated that a sizable number of children in the community are still lacking the third polio shot necessary to complete the series and assure maximum protection.

A recent group hasn't even received the first polio shot, while many others, fortunately, have completed the series. Since 1955 it has been repeatedly proven over and over again that this vaccination protects against the crippling effects of paralytic poliomyelitis. This is the form of the disease that smutts lives, condemns people to iron lungs, or to a life as a cripple.

Yes, all this can be prevented by you, mother or dad, if you can spare 180 seconds out of the lives of each member of your family. Yes, that's all it takes—just 60 seconds to receive a shot of polio vaccine.

Since we are in a season of rising polio incidence, consider the problem carefully of family protection, and balance your time in getting the entire family vaccinated against the ravages of this paralytic disease.

Polio is with us in Georgia. So far, in 1958 there has been six cases reported scattered throughout the state. From Jan. 1, 1957 through Dec. 28, 1957, there were 113 reported cases of Polio, including three deaths, and of this group 89 were conclusively proven. Muscogee and Chattahoochee Counties had six proven and two suspected cases of Polio.

These unfortunate individuals lived adjacent to the Fort Benning reservation and many of their children attended schools with children of the nearby civilian community. Polio could easily strike one of our children who is only partially immunized or not at all. This small sprinkling of cases in the community should be proof enough that our neighbor's vaccination doesn't protect us. Start yours and your family's Salk vaccine series now and prevent the danger of a long term date with the iron lung.

What is so strange about the entire program is the pervasiveness of polio in general. Through the years before the vaccine and while it was in shot takes effect within the first 10 days. The second polio shot should be given between the fourth to the sixth week after the first.

This shot gives a greater rise in the blood stream level of polio-fighting particles (antibodies) and should give temporary protection against paralytic polio, but this lasts only for a single season. The third polio shot given seven months after the first gives the longer lasting protection desired against poliomyelitis.

Act now, get the Salk vaccine for your whole family and remember the following points when you are evaluating your family vaccination program:

1. That polio hits men and women harder than it hits children.
2. Your neighbor's Salk shots don't protect you.
3. Your child's Salk shot don't protect you.
4. Salk vaccine shots are safe.
5. One shot is better than none.
6. Two shots will give you more protection than one.
7. Three shots will give you maximum protection from paralytic polio.

So vacinate before it's too late.

Let's consider the problem and the Army's ward it. Generally speaking, the incidence of this disease is low among military personnel and their dependents, but is considered to be of sufficient military importance to warrant the cost of an expensive voluntary immunization program available to all for whom the Armed Forces normally provide medical care.

This importance is derived especially from the prolonged hospitalization and rehabilitation, permanent disability, or death of a relatively high percentage of those having paralytic disease. The social-economic problems created by paralytic poliomyelitis in wives and children of members of the Armed Forces often results in the loss of trained military personnel.

Available information and studies indicate that military personnel and dependents at the greatest risk are those living in family groups in which there are young children; those living in areas where hygiene and sanitation are substandard; and those who may be unlucky enough to be exposed to a community outbreak.

What does the Salk Polio myelitis Vaccine do for you? Simply, it causes you to develop polio-fighting particles (called antibodies) in the blood stream, which prevent the polio virus (virus) from causing paralysis. Three vaccine shots are needed to give full protection. If you haven't had the first shot get it tomorrow at the Hospital Immunization Clinic in Ward A-17. Time: Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. The first shot takes effect within the first 10 days. The second polio shot should be given between the fourth to the sixth week after the first.

Armed Services YMCA

Sat. Dance Features 'Waltonette Review'

A special feature of the Saturday night dance at the Armed Services YMCA will be a 20-minute film show presented by Evelyn Walton's dancers, as they present the "Waltonette Review" June 6 at 8:30 p.m. The variety show will include everything from hula dancers to fan dancing. Dancers range in age from two to 22. Dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m. and last until 11 p.m., with music furnished by Merle Garrett and her combo. Preceding this is a nighttime activity on Saturday will be the regularly held ping pong tournament.

meetings and enjoy the fellowship afforded in this "melting pot" of nationalities. Hostesses for refreshments this night will be Mrs. Maureen Jones from Ireland, Sgt. and Mrs. William McFadden, her co-presidents of the group. On June 10 the regular record dance will be held with Mrs. Zaccaro doing the honors at the turntable as usual. Kathy Broadwell, Sgt. G. I. is in charge of an intermission specialty. Fencing Class will meet June 11, at 8:30 p.m.; Citizenship Class meets June 12, at 7 p.m. June 13 is patio party night. Free bingo will be in full swing at 8 p.m. GSO girls will be in charge of the program. The Armed Services YMCA is open 24 hours a day. Dormitory beds are available at nominal cost; ping pong, pool, and small games are available at your request; information and service items for your convenience are available through the facilities at the Main Desk.

Army Testing New System

WASHINGTON (APPS) — A newly-devised system using an inexpensive "drop kit" will greatly improve the speed and economy of delivering heavy equipment from the air, according to the Army.

The kit is composed of plywood platform, honeycomb cardboard and an independent extraction hook-up for pulling the skid from an aircraft in flight.

Using commercially available plywood, an expendable air drop platform, costing about one-third as much as previous units, can be built in a few hours, the Army said. In a departure from the present method, cargo parachutes are attached directly from an auxiliary power source.

Mrs. Ledbetter, administrative assistant in the Army Field Printing Plant, was presented two incentive awards totaling $200 for proposing an "explanatory chart" for instructors professing "camera ready" copies and for proposing the removal of metal plates on top half of doors in the Army Field Printing Plant. Adoption of her suggestions will result in estimated annual benefits of $7,119.

At 4:30 p.m. in the lobby of the new challengers are needed to meet the current competitors. Activities June 8 include 9 a.m. Java hour with free coffee and donuts; picnic tour by army bus (furnished through the cooperation of Special Services, Fort Benning) to Andrewsville State Park. Sign in advance at the main desk of the Y for a seat on the bus; swim suit along; 25 cents for fee is the required sign up fee.

At 5:30 p.m. at the Y Fellowship Supper will be served by the Ladies from the North-Side Baptist Church. On June 9 at 8 p.m. International club will meet for its monthly get-together. The platform does not bear a load in the drop, but serves only as a base for the honeycomb "shock absorbers," which take up the impact With the ground.

The safe drop speed for equipment now is 25 feet a second with chutes attached to the load-bearing skid. Using the improved system, heavy vehicles and armament can descend at a rate of 40 to 50 feet a second by fewer parachutes with greater accuracy, due to the lack of drift.

Since some cargo chutes cost $1,200 each and frequently cannot be recovered, a substantial saving also is made in the reduced number of canopies. The new system was developed by the Quartermaster Field Evaluation Agency, Ft. Lee, Va., and is being given extensive tests by the Army Engineers at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Gen. Larsen Visits High School Meets, Air Defense School

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of the Infantry School, visited the U. S. Army Air Defense School at Fort Bliss, Tex., June 2 through 5 for missile conferences and demonstrations.

On June 6 the one-day general will fly to Honolulu, T. H., to attend a reunion of the class of 1953 of Panahou High School.

Gen. Larsen is expected to return to Fort Benning June 16.

MULE'S BROTHER . . . Henry C. McCaslin, executive engineer of the Toledo plant of Willys Motors Inc., stands with the new lightweight platform-type vehicle, the XM-443-E1, developed by his plant. Demonstrated at the post's Patton Range, the vehicle is considered a big brother to the Army's mechanical mule. It may be used as a weapons or guided missile carrier, mount for 106-mm recoilless rifle, communications equipment or as an ambulance.

Rocket Experts to Set Their Sights on Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Service rocket experts have been directed to swing missile launchers from earth tangents and set their sights on the moon.

In a series of lunar probes authorized by the White House and announced by Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, the services will push plans to launch a number of small, unmanned space vehicles to gather data in the vicinity of the moon.

To be carried out under the supervision of the new Defense Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy W. Johnson, the space explorations are aimed at revealing the mysteries of the far side of our nearest neighbor in the universe.

The Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., will undertake one, and possibly two, lunar probes and also has been given authority to launch several additional earth satellites. Modified Jupiter-C rockets will be used in the experiments.

The scanning device, which will have to be a "rather simple" instrument capable of being carried in a moon probe vehicle.

The equipment will not be elaborate enough to carry a regular TV camera but it is hoped a crude picture of the lunar surfaces can be obtained.

Attempts to hit the moon—some 240,000 miles from the earth—will not be made in the program, Defense scientists said, explaining that hitting the moon may be neither necessary nor desirable.

Although there is a possibility that a probe vehicle may land on the moon, the scientists say useful information could be obtained from dis-sonance as far as 10,000 miles away.

So little is known about outer space, the program may have no direct military application. However, the experts said all data on cosmic rays, temperatures and other space information will be valuable in Armed Forces planning.

Mr. Johnson said that, although $8 million already has been allocated for the projects, neither he nor other Defense officials would speculate on when the first successful lunar probe would be achieved.

Much groundwork has been done on the launchings in the past several months, according to Dr. Herbert F. York, chief scientist of ARPA.

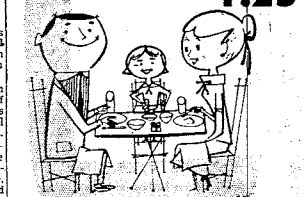

The services, therefore, are not "starting from scratch," he declared.

Schools to Hold Honors Program At Faith Today

The Fort Benning Children's Schools will hold an annual honors and awards program today at 10 a.m. in Faith School Auditorium.

Highlighting the occasion will be the announcement of the winner of the Activities Award for 1958 by Mrs. Hazel Scudder, school superintendent.

A surprise gift will be presented to the member of the graduating class best exemplifying contributions of service, leadership, scholarship and character.

Recognition also will be given students who played key roles in the school newspaper, Student Council, Junior Red Cross, band, safety patrol, field meet and basketball, volleyball and softball championships.

The band under the direction of Emale E. Watson will play for the event.

RECOGNIZED STAFFED AND TESTED OFF . . . Major Frederick Black Jr., M-Sgt. Eldon E. DeGruen, and Lt. Harry Giles Chastain, Vietnamese Army. At right, the Vietnamese officers approach toward two huge planes needed to move them from Saigon to San Francisco. One being boarded is a Flying Tiger Constellation.

MAGG Sends 175 Vietnamese to Post

Saigon, Vietnam — Two groups and students' friends of the Vietnamese Army officers took flight from here last week and for the United States, marking the biggest single movement in America's state-wide military schooling program for Vietnam.

At Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport to see them off were representatives of the Vietnamese Army, the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group and students' friends and relatives.

Nearly all of the officers graduated in March from Vietnam's Military Academy in Dalat and, following the pattern prescribed for American graduates of West Point, will receive schooling in their basic branch before being assigned to troop duty.

All came first to Fort Benning, to take the basic Infantry Officer course. Then the group splits up, some going to schools at Fort Sill, Fort Belvoir and Aberdeen Proving Ground for courses in artillery, communications, armor, ordnance and engineer. Others will stay at Fort Benning and take additional infantry courses.

Making full use of their eight months in the United States, all of them will attend a fraction of the schools before returning to Vietnam.

While this shipment is the largest to date, it is only a fraction of the schools program being administered by Lt. Gen. Samuel T. Williams' Military Assistance Advisory Group here. MAAG has received spaces in Army, Navy and Air Force schools in the United States, Okinawa, Korea, the Philippines and a year around basis.

The Vietnamese nominate students for each course and the MAAG schools section, under Major Frederick H. Black Jr., checks the background of each nominee to ensure he is qualified and can absorb the proffered training.

MAAG follows up on each student, too, checking upon his return from school to see whether his duty assignment corresponds with the schooling he has just received.

Concert Slates Rachmaninoff

The recorded concert at the Main Fort Benning Library June 10 at 7:30 p.m. will feature "Symphony No. 2 in E Minor," by Serge Rachmaninoff.

The "Symphony No. 2 in E Minor" is the most celebrated of Rachmaninoff's three works in the symphonic form. This symphony was written during one of the few tranquil periods in the life of a man who constantly sought peace, but rarely found it.

The second symphony, though complex in structure, does not require detailed analysis in order to be enjoyed. The emotion alone of the music is the most important thing. Here, as in many Rachmaninoff compositions, there appears a conflict of moods. This conflict is not resolved until the conclusion of the symphony.

Second Group Here 16 More to Intern Under Medical Plan

Fourteen new medical graduates and two graduates in dentistry will arrive at Fort Benning about June 27 to begin a 12-month internship at the U. S. Army Hospital.

The new interns will be the second group to train at Fort Benning's hospital under the Army's new medical training expansion program. The dental interns who will be under the supervision of the U. S. Army Dental Section are the first to be assigned to the hospital.

1st Group To Finish

The first group of medical graduates who inaugurated the program July 1, 1956, will complete their work at the end of this month. Fort Benning's hospital was selected as the first post installation to institute an intern program under the jurisdiction of the Army's surgeon general. Previously intern training had been conducted at the larger named general hospitals operating as separate installations.

On their arrival the 16 interns will be commissioned first lieutenants in the Medical Corps and the Dental Corps, according to officials. The medical officers will take a 12-month rotating internship during which they will spend time in nearly all the major services. They also will spend time with some of the sub-specialists in addition, the trainees will be given general orientation to the military organization including customs and courtesies of the service, officials stated.

MPs Clear Runways Of Buffalo

FORT GREELY, Alaska (ANF) — Military police at this northern Army post perform the usual Army MP duties — with one or two unique exceptions.

Sometimes, when a plane is due on the airfield, they are called out to clear the runways. Not of snow — that's the job of the engineers — but of North American bison, or buffalo.

It's a real chase, not a hunt. The herd is a protected one. Not long ago the desk sergeant dispatched some MPs in answer to a frantic phone call from a woman on post who was frightened by an animal scratching at her door. This time their practiced shooting technique was applied against a lean, grizzly bear.

As Post Surgeon

Col. McClain Named To Redstone Position

Col. Harry C. McClain, commander of 5th Medical Group since Jan. 27, 1956, has been named post surgeon at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Col. McClain was born in Saxton, Pa., May 25, 1904. He attended Juniata College in Huntington, Pa., where he received his Bachelor of Science degree in pre-medicine in 1927. He earned his medical doctor's degree at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia in 1931 and was commissioned a reserve first lieutenant in the Army Medical Corps. He has since attended several service schools and courses, among them a course in the Principles of Medical Operations in Nuclear Warfare, and more recently a Military Medicine Refresher Course at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Began Active duty in 1942. Before entering active duty in July, 1942, Col. McClain was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist and an industrial surgeon. His first military assignment was a battalion and regimental surgeon for the 175th Engineer Regiment at Fort Hancock, N. J. Shortly afterward he was sent to the Mediterranean Theater of Operations with this same unit and was later assigned to the 52nd Station Hospital as assistant surgeon and executive officer in the same theater.

Col. McClain also served in the European Theater of Operations in World War II as surgeon at the Allied Control Commission. He took part in the Algeria-French Morocco Campaign, the Tunisian Campaign, and the Campaigns of Naples, Leggia and Rome-Arno.

Korean Medical Advisor. Col. McClain then had assignments in the U.S. and in 1954 he became Corps Surgeon

1ST LT. SIMMONS In Navy, Marines, Army

1st Lt. Simmons Named Aide to Gen. Freeman representative he has helped rocket the Fort Benning scouting program to an all time high and which has more than doubled scout participation in this area.

Several programs with the purpose of furthering scouting have been instigated by Col. McClain.

Recently the 54th Medical Group built four Adirondack Huts for the first scout campsite of this type at Fort Benning.

While at Fort Benning, Col. McClain served as a member of the Dependents' School Board, member of the Youth Activities Club Board, chairman of the Fish Committee of the Fish and Game Association was instrumental in planning the first Parade of Champions, and was active in the Community Activities Program.

First Lt. Frank J. Simmons has entered active Army duty a second time in November, 1956, and served as a lieutenant in the School Brigade's 52nd Company until assuming command of Headquarters Company in the brigade's 29th Battalion last October.

He came to the post a year ago and served as a lieutenant officer in the School Brigade's 52nd Company until assuming command of Headquarters Company in the brigade's 29th Battalion last October.

Among his decorations are the Purple Heart, senior parachutist's badge and glider badge.

Post Schools Set Pre-Registration Of Kindergarten

A 1964 graduate of The Citadel at Charleston, S.C., Lt. Simmons enlisted in the Navy at the age of 17 in January, 1945, and served the major portion of his 18-month tour at the Aleutian Islands Naval Air Station.

He entered the Army in October, 1946, and was assigned to the Consularly in Germany from February, 1947, to April of the following year.

Joined Marines. As a college student, Lt. Simmons joined a third military service — The Marine Corps Reserve. During the summer of 1949 he received amphibious training at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Back in the Army again, Lt. Simmons attended The Infantry School's airborne and glider courses in the summer of 1950. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Reserve at The Citadel in 1950.

RECORD BREAKERS . . . Sfc Nelson H. Lincoln, left, Army Advance Marksmanship Unit, and M-Sgt. H. L. "Joe" Bennett, right, West Point pistol coach, examine special-international type weapons they used to fire record-breaking scores in U.S. Army Pistol matches at Fort Benning May 29. Looking on is Col. (ret.) Perry D. Swindler, International Shooting Committee, National Rifle Association.

During All-Army Competition

Enthusiasm Expressed By Firers At International Matches Addition

The Army's introduction of individual rifle and pistol matches into its All-Army marksmanship competition has met with the highest and most enthusiastic response in pistol shots competing in the 1958 championships at Fort Benning.

Four international-type matches were integrated into the 10-day session of firing. Two matches were slated for the Infantry Center's International Rifle Ranges and two on its metric pistol ranges. Rifle matches into its All-Army marksmanship competition has met with the highest and most enthusiastic response in pistol shots competing in the 1958 championships at Fort Benning.

First of Matches
The first of the matches, the 22 caliber Free Rifle Match, 40 meters, was fired on May 26 in which some 15 riflemen received their baptism of international competition. Firing beside veterans of the Army's Advanced Marksmanship Unit, International Team squad, they shot out a 120 shot course in building Georgia heat.

A member of the Fourth Army Rifle Team was quick to give his opinion of the rigorous course which he had just completed.

"I'm glad to have had this opportunity to shoot a free rifle match," said Sfc. H. L. Lincoln, 35th Engineer Group, Fort Hood, Tex. "It's a great one. It has brought out a number of points. This is the highest form of marksmanship I have ever seen."

The team will compete with squads from Belgium, Korea, The Netherlands, Turkey, Iran, Spain, and host France for the title.

Couched by Col. Herbert C. Hartweg, commanding officer of the Ramstein-United States Army, Germany, the team is composed of the following court ace: Larry Dugan, 3rd Arm. Div., Germany; Jerry Bluff, 10th Inf. Div., Germany; Al Ladd, 4th Infantry, Germany; John Mahoney, 7th Army Hq., Germany; and George Lann, Raussein-Landstuhl AB.

Also John Brooks, NACOM, Germany; Julius McCoy, VII Corps, Germany; Bob Winkler, 8th Inf. Div., Germany; Joe Dineen, 7000 Support Gp., USAF; Walt Oshes, 10th Arm. Div., Germany; Ed McCutcheon, 4th Infantry, Germany; and Jimmy Fields, Raussein-Landstuhl AB.

29th Sgt. Takes Army Rifle Title

A rifleman from Horse Branch, Ky., became the Army's 1958 Individual Rifle Champion when Sgt. Harold D. Quinn, Company First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, posted an aggregate score of 979-102V in seven matches comprising the Individual Championship Match.

In Initial Match Killing Captures Free Rifle Win

A rifleman from the Army's European Command became the first match winner in the 1958 All-Army Rifle and Pistol Match when M-Sgt. William E. Krilling, Company B, First Armored Rifle Battalion, 46th Infantry, 11th Airborne Division, a member of the Army Europe team.

Winner of the fourth open class place award was Sgt. Raymond Campbell, another Third Army rifleman of Fort Benning. Second place was Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery, Campbell's score was 979-80V.

Fifth place was taken by Sfc Ronald Barenaba, Company C, 21st Infantry, of the Army Pacific Team, with 972-80V.

In addition to winning the all-around Individual Rifle crown, Duncan also added the 1958 Army 600-yard championship to his collection of trophies by shooting out a score of 399-84V.

In the long range champion-ship Duncan was followed by four of his Third Army teammates to make it a clean sweep of the open class awards for the Third Army marksmanship.

William Reitz, Fort Bragg, N. C., placed second with 395-44. Third place was won by Lt. Charles Griffin, Fourth was taken by Skarpasnos with 332-40V topping Campbell who shot the same score of 299-44.

The first three men in the event broke the previous existing 59 points better than that of his closest competitor, Lt. Lt. Stanford Brantley, who clinched second place with 36

4 Gls Enter British Golf Tournament

ST. ANDREWS, SCOTLAND (AP)—Four servicemen are among the 14 Americans entering the 14th annual British Golf Championships to be played here June 2-7.

Heading the list of U.S. entries, the smallest delegation since WWII, is Air Force golfer Harold B. Ridgely, who was runner-up to Reid Jack of Scotland in last year's tourney.

Ridgely, from Hawthorn, Pa., was not exempt from qualifying despite his second place finish last year. Because since 1957 he has been a member of his long overseas service, he entered from an English club and had to build his way through the qualifying rounds.

Three other servicemen also had to qualify. Keith Conpton, stationed in Morocco with the Air Force, Robert Collis, with AF in England, and Army golfer John Francis, also stationed in England, all became eligible for the tourney through qualifying rounds.

Charlie Quinn Interest Growing In Sport With Bow

Our first introduction to the heavy bow took place some 15 years ago while we were at Fort Lee. An old boy broke out some gear and set up a target behind the officers' quarters only to find himself the target for verbal barbs and disparaging remarks which emanated from the windows of his quarters. The old boy took it for a while and then politely invited the chief barb caster to come out and try to do better. We shook him good.

Scorning the sissy use of an arm guard, we nocked an arrow, raised the bow, commenced to draw — and stopped right there. That bow string was as easy to pull as a mule out of clover. And speaking of mules — the owner of the bow began to grin like a mule chewing briars. To make a long story short, we mustered all our strength, hauled back, let go, and writhed like an eel in a grease pit while watching a knot raise out of a tortured wrist.

That 70 pound bow quickly made a believer out of this suspicious caster in a hurry. Bow Invented Long Ago

The story of the bow goes back into the mists of time. It wasn't until the advent of the English long bow that archery, as a sport, came into its own. Prior to that time the bow was a comparatively short range weapon. The early Tartars, for example, built short bows out of rams' horns. Something like 40 inches in length to better suit the needs of a mounted warrior, these bows had fantastic pull. We tried to draw one and couldn't get the string out of the vertical. Tests have reflected that pulls of 120-140 pounds weren't uncommon.

Archery enjoyed some popularity in America during the late 1800s but it wasn't until Arthur Young revived the game in the '20s that the bow began a limited return. Young was followed by Dr. Saxton Pope who wrote several books on the sport but still the game was followed by a small handful of enthusiasts.

Reasons For Archery Interest

We give credit to the present wildfire interest in archery to several factors: (1) The shortage of hunting ammunition during World War II which literally forced hunters to resort to the bow (2) movies made by the famous Howard Hill (3) inroads of civilization upon hunting areas which are being closed to hunters using firearms (4) re-awakening of the true hunter to the fact that the bow offered the highest form of challenge to him.

At first, proponents of the rifle and shotgun were (and some still are) highly incensed over the prohibitions against firearms in their favorite haunts but more and more of them are being won over, some willingly and others not. Willingly, or not, they all know that bow hunting is infinitely safer than is hunting with firearms. Factors involved reduce the chance of accident. We say "infinitely" because the word "eliminate" though the game is far safer than that with firearms, bow hunting and target shooting can be only as safe as the shooter allows it to be.

Pleasure for Entire Family

Another point in favor of archery is that the game can be a source of pleasure and sport for the whole family, from dad on down to the tykes. Tackle is now available for use by boys as early as age 7 and almost all sporting goods stores offer post.

On post, interest in the bow has grown to such an extent that a new club has been formed and is being sparked by Major Hampton Rowland of the Infantry School. Called the Upatoi Bowmen, the club's membership is open to any and all archers on post, off post and in between. Membership is family style and, even with almost no publicity, already has nearly 50 members.

The new organization is already a going concern and hopes to secure an area on post where we can shoot and talk about "full fletches," "spine," "working recurves," "cast," "fishines," "draw," "resting," "drawing," "preparing lunch" or get into the yacking themselves. We'd be glad to pass on any information we have on hand about the club as well as Lt. Bill Wilcox of the 10th Division at FB 7-2253. Our number is FB 3-2222 . . . and that's it for this week.

Enthusiasm Expressed by Firers At International Matches Addition

"Thank you for continuing to analyze the reasons for my ever it might be held."

Another Engineer officer, 1st Lt. Charles F. Griffin, 32d Engineer Battalion of the 101st Airborne Division, Fort Campbell, Ky., stated that he'd never before seen the odd appearance of Free Rifles.

These three 40-shot strings were enough to teach me that "haunting 40-shot kneeling position." I never thought that shooting will demand mental discipline and physical conditioning beyond anything known to shooters of the service or other rifles. Concentration and more concentration is the secret.

"We'd better get both feet into this international game," stated M-Sgt. Louis Caudert Jr., Company B, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, Fort Benning. "As a competitive rifleman for a long time I'm tickled to see Continental Army marksmanship provide us with the chance to know these weapons and the international competition is second to none; if given the opportunity to learn and practice the art of marksmanship, I'll be on top of the world keep in nothing flat."

Goal Is Perfection

One of the comparatively few trained international riflemen in the military services, 1st Lt. Verle Wright, Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, who has been observing the firing done by the new shooters, stated that they would soon learn that a premium was placed upon precision and that they would become international riflemen only after realizing that the goal in the game is perfection.

The variances allowed in even the highest level competition with the service rifles and weapons wasn't limited to accomplished marksmen alone. Members of the 32nd Infantry, First Airborne Division, at Fort Benning in support of the All-Army matches were among those most interested. Sgt. Steven P. Jollahan and Sgt. Richard Smith noted the heavy boots and the long leather jackets utilized by the free rifle marksmen and were quick to analyze the reasons for the strange equipment.

"That jacket must serve to give body support in the standing position," Jollahan observed correctly. Smith grinned as he tentatively held a "knee boot" that every foot gear worn by international riflemen, especially while firing the kneeling position, is a kneeling position. "I never thought that kneeling would demand mental discipline and physical conditioning beyond anything known to shooters of the service or other rifles. Concentration and more concentration is the secret."

"Our riflemen with the Second Army team are all well along for a chance to learn the free rifle we've just received," reported Sfc James J. Sullivan, armorer for the team. "and so is our crew of armors. When you come right down to it, our riflemen can only be successful on the international ranges as we armors are in the armament shop. It'll be a change to all of us."

Same on Pistol Range

The same enthusiasm reflected on the Free Rifle Ranges was also heard on the metric pistol ranges.

"Ever since I first saw the Free Pistol shot at Camp Perry in '56, I've been just waiting to get a chance to shoot the course," said M-Sgt. Gerald D. Stockman, Company D, 11th Cavalry, First Armored Division. "I've been shooting pistol in competition for four years but, to shoot the Rapid Fire Pistol, I'll have to learn timing all over again and will be glad to do it."

Battery C CO Leaves For Korea in August

BATTERY C
Capt. Johnny W. Broshear, commanding officer of Battery C, recently received orders to Korea. The captain, who took command of Battery C in February, 57, expects to depart in early August of this year.

Sic Tillman A. Williams, Battery C supply sergeant, has received approval to attend the Artillery Ballistic Meteorology School. Sic Williams will leave the Battery in June.

The following men from Battery C have transferred to the 10th Division: M-Sgt. Robert H. Steele, Sic Alfonso Jordan, Sic Earl E. Phillips, Sgt. Kermit C. Kelley, Sgt. Charles E. Smith, Sgt. Cleve W. Taylor, and Cpl. William T. Clark.

Four other men in the battery are now attending the intermediate education classes in preparation for their G.E.D. tests. They are Sgt. Henry J. Goggins, Sp3 Jessie McGraw, Pfc John S. Hall and Pvt. Jack B. Gaines.

The battery lost the services of 10 NCOs this week. They are M-Sgt. Elmer R. Gibson, M-Sgt. Thee D. McCoold, Sic Walter H. Batley, Sic David Jones, Sic Henry Green Jr., Sic Elbert R. Nixon, Sic William T. Wilson, Sic Eddie Warren, Sp2 Arthur C. Tyndall. The above named men will be assigned to the 10th Infantry Division. Sic James W. Chandler has been transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C.

The entire battery participated in the annual organizational day ceremonies held recently at the Infantry School Troop Command. The battery displayed eight of its 105 m.m. howitzers, and two 4.5 inch rocket launchers.

Sp3 George P. Brown made colonel's order for the third consecutive time last week.

Mars Takes Civil Defense Test Role

Fort Benning's Mars station AMIS participated in civil defense test OPAL 56 May 6-7. This station was a relay point between Army Mars and Headquarters Civil Defense, Thomasville, Ga.

Upon completion of the alert, the following message was received from Georgia District Mars office: "Your cooperation in OPAL 56 added to reaction in putting over the task assigned to Georgia District Two. I feel that you accomplished the mission with honor to the Mars program."

The Mars System provides emergency Radio Communication during disasters or emergencies on a local and national basis. Mars stations are located in all 48 states and form an effective back up means of emergency communication on a local or national scale in the event communication should fail. A large percentage of the Mars stations are portable equipment with gasoline engine power units, making them independent of power lines.

This makes it possible to move a Mars station into a disaster area and establish communication with civil defense headquarters even though there is no electric power in the area at the time.

Company C

Company C was proud to play a part in the Organization's celebration May 24, not only by being well represented on the parade float but also in two field displays. On display was a jeep-mounted 106 recoilless rifle with Sgt. Donald Holland supplying the answers to all questions asked about this weapon and an AMPIC 6 with Sgt. Gary Henderson acting as the information bureau. The company was also glad to act as host to Major Aled S. Lampe, adjutant for the 14th Infantry, and his wife along with 2nd of this unit. A turkey dinner was prepared by Sic Lamb and Sgt. Pruitt Webb.

The softball team again won the bacon once again with a hard fought victory over the 87th Chemical Company. The score was 9-7. As a result the team raised its position to the top for the second place.

The big stick for the team was the red hot bat of Pfc Bob Semmek who hit for the circuit twice, giving him six runs batted in. One other home run was hit by Pfc Terry Blount.

Gen. Advises Class to Stick With Beliefs

"Have the courage of your convictions, and don't be afraid to stick by them," Brig. Gen. Andrew T. McNash said May 24 as he spoke to graduates of The Infantry School's basic officers class.

He told the 177 members of the class that there is no substitute for knowing their jobs well, whether they go back into civilian life, the National Guard, Reserves or stay in active Army.

Brig. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, assistant commander of The Infantry School, introduced the guest speaker, whom he referred to as one of the infantry's great soldiers and a fine personal friend.

McNash spoke to a graduating class about the same time last year, Gen. Larsen recalled, and he did this job so well that he was back for a return engagement.

Gen. McNash entered military service 24 years ago in the Marines Corps, and later was commissioned as an officer in the Army. He is a 1939 graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and a 1944 graduate of the National War College at Fort McNair, Washington, D. C.

Speaking of making the military capabilities of the 101st Airborne general told the graduates to "seize every opportunity to better yourself in the Army. In all endeavors, adopt the 'can do' attitude."

'Know Your Army Aircraft' Choctaw Transports Troops, Light Cargo

The H-34 (Choctaw) manufactured by Sikorsky Aircraft of Bridgeport, Conn., is classified as a troop transport and light cargo transport aircraft. The 31st Transportation Company is the only unit at Fort Benning which flies this "chopper."

The Choctaw often referred to as the "work horse" of rotary wing aircraft is capable of carrying 12 fully-equipped combat troops or 3,000 pounds of cargo within its cargo compartment. Eight litters can be accommodated by folding the canvas tieup seats.

A litter kit is provided with each aircraft and is kept in the storage compartment in the rear of the H-34.

The H-34 can also be rigged with an external sling with a load capacity of 4,000 pounds.

The Choctaw cruises at 104 mph and has a maximum fuel range of three and one-half hours. The H-34 holds the world speed record for helicopters of its weight class.

As a troop carrier the H-34 transferred to the 10th Infantry Division. Replacing him in the operations section of the unit is Sgt. Dale J. LeCaptain.

Sporting new specialist third, Ralph Martin, and Carl Bergstrom.

Men Behind Projects

Draftsmen Provide Work Basis For Engineer Construction Jobs

An engineering project usually means a lot of labor, but the work begins long before actual construction starts. Men behind these projects are the draftsmen, a group of talented men with the skilled hands of artists.

The 151st Engineer Group has four drafting departments. One at its headquarters, and in each of its two battalions, and the 577th Engineer Battalion and the 49th Engineer Battalion, as well as a one-man department in the 67th Engineer Company. According to a Department of Army technical manual, "the draftsman lays out views, and lettering to achieve accurate and orderly representations of objects and structures. He draws different views to scale of a proposed construction project with appropriate drawings when necessary, and shows all details of mechanical and general construction. (He) letters drawings freehand or by mechanical means and completes and enters information such as dimensions, specifications, and legends on the appropriate section of a drawing. He makes drawings, charts, graphs, statistical reports, and visual aids for training and operational uses."

Graphic language is also known as engineering drawing, it is the engineer's graphic language. It presents information of the dimensions of a structure in a clear and precise manner, so that building materials can be used by craftsmen to complete the finished product as specified by the designer. The draftsman is as well concerned with labor, machinery and tools in that his work is the basis upon which the process of job management develops.

The manual again states that "the goal of job management is the successful completion of a construction project within specified time limits." This is achieved through the efficient use of manpower, materials and equipment. This process begins with the primary plans, surveys and estimates (cost, labor and time) which is the draftsman's work and ends with the finished product.

Job Management The components of job management are planning, scheduling and supervision. In the process of planning, a draftsman is able to plan the quantity foreman with the quantity takeoff, which includes the kinds, sizes and quantities of all the construction materials necessary to complete the project.

A look at some of the work of the drafting section of the 151st Engineer Group Headquarters begins drawing plans for construction projects in support of USAR training which is conducted during the summer months to train reservist engineers. The work includes preparing plans for renovating drainage systems, constructing concrete retaining bank obstacles, a grading and earth moving plan, and building two retaining walls at the Fort Benning Tractor Court.

The men at the department are well prepared for the work as their training and background indicate. S-3 Ralph D.

Each year at this time the drafting section of the 151st Engineer Group Headquarters begins drawing plans for construction projects in support of USAR training which is conducted during the summer months to train reservist engineers. The work includes preparing plans for renovating drainage systems, constructing concrete retaining bank obstacles, a grading and earth moving plan, and building two retaining walls at the Fort Benning Tractor Court.

Work on Cabins Recent work done by the 577th Engineer Battalion was the rehabilitation of six cabins at the Infantry Center Rest Center, Destin, Fla. The work order called for repairing concrete and cinder block foundations, replacing floor joists and walls as plumbing repairs. Another of their projects was the recent addition to the commissary nursery for the convenience of Fort Benning personnel with small children who wish to patronize the commissary. Each of these projects began on drafting boards.

Senior construction draftsman at the 67th is SP3 Richard A. Jones is the battalion's construction draftsman. He is a graduate of St. Johns University, majoring in engineering. His majoring in engineering, he was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. He also is a construction draftsman, graduated from Baltimore Polytechnic Institute. He will go long way to offset the manpower advantages of the Soviet general draftsman for the battalion, studied drafting in his homeland, Estonia. These men have recently been working on plans for additions to the Custer Terrace Boy and Girl Scout Cabins.

Similar Projects The 49th Engineer Battalion can be credited with similar projects, all of which started to take shape in the drafting room. Chief of the draftsman team is SP3 Joseph Garcia whose knowledge of his work can be attributed solely to Army service schools. He completed an advanced drafting and surveying course while stationed in Germany, and at present is a construction superintendent. His construction draftsman is Pfc George Leitner, a graduate of a technical high school who received his training from civilian schools in Germany.

M-Sgt. Hardwick Receives Letter Of Appreciation By Chinese Gen.

M-Sgt. Wilfred A. Hardwick, recently assigned to the 600th maintenance company, was the equipment maintenance supervisor and platoon sergeant of the 540th Engineer Battalion, was organized at Camp Seng, Mass., as a battalion sergeant. On June 3, 1958, the unit was redesignated the 49th Engineer Battalion (Combat), and on June 1, it was changed from reserve to regular Army status.

The letter reads: "You have contributed materially to and are credited for the success of Exercise Kun Yang. With pleasure, I wish to commend you for your assistance and participation." The letter was endorsed through channels by H-1A Col. J. H. Gaid, Army Section, Taiwan, and Col. Alfred E. Stevens, chief, Army Second Field Army Advisory Team, Army Section, Taiwan.

M-Sgt. Hardwick served as a member of the Second Field Army Advisory Team, Army Section, Taiwan, for 18 months as an engineer, equipment maintenance supervisor. His duties were to keep the vehicles and equipment of the Second Field Army in good repair. M-Sgt. Hardwick received this letter for the outstanding effort and extra hours of voluntary work he put into the responsibility given to him.

During his colorful career in the Army, M-Sgt. Hardwick has been decorated with the Silver Service Star, Purple Heart, Good Conduct Medal, American Defense Medal, Bronze Star and Bronze Arrowhead. He is a graduate of the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga., and has received the Bronze Star Medal, the National Defense Service Medal. He is a native of Gladstone, Mich.

On June 3, the 49th Engineer Battalion (Combat) celebrated its Organization Day with day-long events, commemorated by the 49th Engineer Battalion. The day was held at the battalion's headquarters at the 49th Engineer Battalion, Fort Benning, Ga. The day was held at the battalion's headquarters at the 49th Engineer Battalion, Fort Benning, Ga.

TIC Chap Sets Col. Moehlmann At Sun. Service

Chaplain (Col.) F. H. Moehlmann, Orlando, Fla., former VII Corps headquarters chaplain during the European Campaigns of World War II, will be the guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service at The highest Wabaco fantry Center Chapel June 8. Chaplain Moehlmann served initially with the Army Air Corps. During his Army career he served with nearly all branches of the Army, participating in the battle of Pearl Harbor and five major engagements in the European theater for which he was awarded five bronze stars.

Fort Benning during January and February of 1958, and in February the engineer training began in earnest. Because of the tremendous number of trainees by the cycle, the company was organized into seven platoons. Such a breakdown placed a burden on training facilities and areas, thus making it necessary to form two groups, subjects being taught to each group at different times. It soon was a common sight throughout the battalion area to see the Training Company moving "on the double" to one of its many training sites. The waters of Victory Pond became a familiar sight to the future engineers as they began bridge training. The same held true for the demolition and mine field areas, both being drilled and marked.

As the trainees moved deeper into the training cycle, the came to know all the weapons that the engineer soldier is required to use. Range firing was conducted with the 30 cal. machine gun, 50 cal. machine gun, and the 3.5 rocket launcher.

The men were also busy completing their training cycle. Daily, the Provisional Training Company furnished the inter-platoon guard for the 49th and 577th Engineer Battalions, as well as furnishing personnel necessary to perform the duties of Main Guard. No less than six battalions completed their operation Grosscope in February, 1957, plans were made whereby the 49th would train engineer replacements for the 49th during their three year tour in Germany. During the latter part of 1957, the men were finalized and many men in basic training throughout the country were notified that they would be assigned to Fort Benning for training and eventual assignment in Germany. These men began arriving at Infantry School Troop Command now has in Battery A, Second Field Artillery Battalion, 10th Artillery, the new eight-inch howitzer, self-propelled, full-tracked M55, for use in the support of Infantry troops.

The weight of this vehicle is 36,000 pounds or 100,000 pounds when combat loaded. It is capable of delivery of either an atomic or non-atomic round.

Weight of the non-atomic projectile is 200 pounds and it may be fired a maximum range of 18,000 yards or over 10 miles.

Power plant in this vehicle is a Continental V12 gasoline engine developing 810 horsepower, which makes it capable of a maximum speed of 30 mph.

Fuel consumption is approximately three gallons per mile. Normal crew for this weapon is six men. Maximum rate of fire is one round per minute. It carries a basic load of 10 rounds on the vehicle and is capable of being fired while all hatches are closed. The loading of the weapon is completely mechanical.

Time required to emplace the weapon and be prepared to fire a mission is one minute. See Jesse B. Hill, Chief of section for the weapon.

Right to Vote Eased for GI

NEW YORK (AP)—The ease with which a serviceman can cast a ballot on election day in 1958 stands out in sharp contrast to the United States at most 100 years ago.

In 1860, when there were 34 states in the Union, 21 of them prevented servicemen from voting. The other 13 allowed Armed Forces personnel to vote if they voted in person on election day. The absentee ballot was nowhere to be found.

In 1864, pressures brought to bear by the Civil War saw sweeping changes in regard to the serviceman's ballot. Twenty-five states instituted some form of absentee or proxy voting, and more than 225,000 fighting men proved that they indeed took a serious enough interest in the country's future to cast their votes. Throughout the years that followed, constant changes to the voting laws of the states set up a uniform procedure assuring every serviceman a chance to have his say through the ballot on election day.

This year, every member of the Armed Forces living in any of the 48 states, Alaska or Alaska has the opportunity to vote on Nov. 4, if he has met the eligibility requirements of his state or territory.

Defense Department officials wholeheartedly urge every member of the Armed Forces to obtain an absentee ballot and to use it on election day. The little amount of time and effort it takes will have a big influence on the management of our country in the years to come.

Post to Observe Army's Birthday To Join Doughboys Around World In Marking of 183rd Anniversary

The Infantry Center will mark the 183rd anniversary of the United States Army and the U. S. Army Infantry June 14. These two significant anniversaries will be celebrated throughout the world wherever men of the U. S. Army are serving. Day and the Birth of the Infantry the entire country will be celebrating Flag Day.

Highlighting Fort Benning's observances will be the change-over ceremony of the 10th Infantry Division as it is replaced by the Second Infantry Division at Weatherly Field 9:30 a.m. June 14.

The commanding general of the Infantry Center, Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, has received for the personnel of his command, congratulations letters from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff; Gen. W. G. Wyman, commanding general of the Continental Army Command and Major Gen. John G. A. Hooten, commanding general, Military District of Washington, in honor of the forthcoming anniversary.

Gen. Taylor's letter stated: "In every way which our nation has fought, the final responsibility for victory has rested inevitably upon the infantry, for only the infantry closes with the enemy and destroys him. In the future the United States should again be created the Finance Department was explained by the Chief of Staff as a means of providing the Army with professional soldiers who were financial experts familiar with all sides of financial management."

DA Revokes Rank Switch

Sweeping changes in Army enlisted titles and insignia were rescinded yesterday by Department of Army. Major revisions in non-commissioned officer and specialist titles and insignia were made last week in accordance with the new grades inaugurated under the new military pay program. Department of Army yesterday notified Fort Benning that the revisions had been rescinded and that new insignia are to be graded as possible. The insignia will be disseminated as soon as possible.

Finance Corps to Celebrate 183 Years of Paying Bills on June 16

On June 16, 1775, the Continental Congress created a Pay Department for the Army. In the intervening years the payment of the Army's financial obligation was made War Department Budget Officer. After the establishment of the Department, and under the aggressive leadership of Gen. Lord, the Chief of Finance was the budget officer, the accounting officer, the auditor, and the disbursing officer of the War Department.

The Finance Department was created by the passage of the National Defense Act signed by the Secretary of War on July 15, 1920. The purpose of creating the Finance Department was explained by the Chief of Staff as a means of providing the Army with professional soldiers who were financial experts familiar with all sides of financial management.

Changeover Set From 10th-2nd

The famed Second Infantry Division will be ushered in and 10th Infantry Division will be retired from active service at a ceremonial review June 14 at Weatherly Field in Sand Hill area. Ceremonies for the changeover will begin at 9:30 a.m. They are open to the public. Men, Equipment and Color of the 10th Infantry Division, which spearheaded the Army's Operation Gyroscop, as the first stateside division to rotate to Germany, will be transferred to the Second Division. The Second has been under the control of the Department of Army, less personnel and equipment, since it completed a gyroscop tour in Alaska in 1956.

AUSA Holds New Member Drive at Post

The Columbus-Phenix City Chapter of the United States Association of Army Officers is conducting a campaign for new members, including officers, warrant officers, enlisted personnel and civilian employees at Fort Benning.

100 Per Cent Goal Project called for each unit of 100 per cent membership in the association. Achievement of this goal will keep Fort Benning as the leading chapter of the association, according to officials. Application blanks for membership may be obtained by telephoning Fort Benning 2-0223 or at the Office of the Secretary, Room 218, The Infantry School.

Officials Urge Return of Flag To Main Chapel

As most people know, many historical flags kept in post chapels here at Fort Benning. Recently the flag of the 67th Infantry Regiment was removed from Main Post Chapel. It is thought that perhaps this may have been done as a prank without the individual realizing that the value of this property exceeds $400 and has much historical significance.

Any individual possessing such colors should be made aware of the serious nature of this offense immediately. If the colors are returned to the Chapel or the Infantry Museum, no questions will be asked. It is requested that everyone make a diligent search of their unit areas and quarters to insure that the flag is not in those areas.

Aviation to Mark Birthday Sunday

Lawson Army Airfield will mark the 16th anniversary of Army aviation June 15 with dramatic aerial demonstrations beginning at 2 p.m. The public is invited. The display will feature the latest in Army aircraft operations and experimental Army helicopters. The only jet helicopter will be on display. For a special feature section on Army aviation, Lawson Field see Pages 16-21 in today's Bayonet.

599-Man Class West Point Cadets Arrive At Post Today for 6 Days

A well rounded program of training and Army hospitality services on the post June 15. They will be guests at the 9:30 a.m. general Protestant service in the Main Post Chapel, 7 a.m. Mass in the Main Catholic Chapel, 9:30 a.m. Lutheran service in the Infantry School Troop Command Chapel and 8 a.m. men's corporate Communion at St. Michael's Episcopal Chapel.

Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, Jr., Infantry School commandant, will welcome the visitors tomorrow morning at 7:30 in the Main Theater. Their itinerary includes observation and participation in demonstrations of the latest weapons, tactics and techniques.

The entire class will be eligible for leave from noon June 14 to 10 p.m. June 15. Guided tours have been planned for groups to visit the Cason Callaway Gardens at Pine Mountain, the Little White House at Warm Springs, and the Bradley Museum in Columbus.

An official reception and hop will honor the West Pointers June 13 at 8 p.m. in the Main (Please See Cadets, Page 2) of staff has also sent congratulatory messages to members of the Finance Corps, Quartermaster Corps, Adjutant General's Corps, their 12th anniversary and one to the Army Signal Corps congratulating them on their 50th birthday.

Gen. Wymann's message to the Infantry Center commanding general said: "In 183 years as the symbol of the U. S. Army, the Indianapolis Division has established a remarkable record. Our salute today is accompanied by the confidence that this proud tradition will continue unbroken. The tools of war, whether they sail through the skies or ride the high seas, are devoted to just one purpose, to gain victory for our tri-service team by insuring that the man on the ground—referred to as the "Home of the Army"—the Infantry—can take its objective where the enemy lives on the ground.

The Army, synonymous with the U. S. Infantry, will begin its one hundred and eighty-fourth year visualizing the future defense responsibilities of our nation maintaining its position as the "Home of the Army."

WEST POINT, N. Y. (ANS) — Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy delivered the commencement address to the 294 graduates of the United States Military Academy Class of 1958. There were four foreign students (two from Thailand and one each from Peru and the Philippines).

Approximately 75 per cent (429) of the class were commissioned Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Army and 148 (97 per cent) received commissions in the U. S. Air Force.

This is the last year the 25 per cent quota of USMA graduates will be divided into the Air Force. In the future, 67 and one-half per cent of the graduating class will receive Army commissions and the remaining 12 and one-half per cent will be divided into the Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force.

Assignments of 1958 graduates to the Army branches include: Armor 47; Artillery, Signal Corps of Engineers, 54; Infantry, 128; and Signal Corps, 41.

Finance

of the Fiscal Director. This did not alter the job of the Finance Department and continued to settle the Army's financial obligation to its soldiers, civilian employees and to commercial contractors. It even assumed an important new activity, that of paying benefits to dependents of servicemen.

The Army Finance Center was established in Saint Louis, Mo., in November, 1945. In 1956, it provided a permanent home for all finance functions, a Finance Center, U. S. Army, was completed in late spring, 1954, at Fort Benjamin Harrison near Indianapolis, Ind. The relocation involved movements from Saint Louis, Indianapolis, Washington, D. C., and other buildings at Fort Harrison. The Center is often referred to as the "Home of the Army Dollar."

As the Finance Corps centers upon its 104th year, disbursing of and accounting for public funds continues to be a major function, but responsibilities have vastly increased. The advent of electronics has resulted in the use of word machines to automatically perform many actions. Such machines are used in the Finance Center and some Finance and Accounting Offices.

The technical presentation of trophies will be made for military and non-military personnel. There will be categories of military championships open only to military personnel, one for the best military unit on the post and one for the best individual soldier.

A rotating commanding general's trophy will be presented to the best military unit scoring the highest points in a designated series of competitive athletic military events.

To the best soldier, judged purely on military skills and astuteness will go a coveted individual trophy.

Shooting and Baking In the field of non-military events individual trophies will be presented to winners of various athletic, shooting and cake baking contests. This competition is open to all personnel.

The presentation of trophies in both military and non-military activities will constitute the Parade of Champions as a major event of the carnival.

Marines OK 1st E-8, E-9 Grades

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The Marine Corps June 1 advanced 677 first sergeants and 344 sergeants major to the newly created pay grades of E-8 and E-9.

The first sergeants, up-graded from E-7, were selected by board committees of the United States Marine Corps headquarters staff. The super-grade increases will boost the sergeants major or pay more than $100 a month, and the first sergeant basic pay about 40 monthly over the former E-7 rate.

14th Makes Training Film

The men of Company D, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, were engaged in a new experience when they were called to make a training film for the signal department.

L. Charles Johnson, Company D platoon leader, was in charge of the 35 man unit. The scene of the film were shot over the reservation since the film covers garrison and combat situations. The action of the 14th Infantry were called upon to do everything from playing ball to loading ammo trucks.

Although not billed as featuring "a cast of thousands," the scene of the film included 118 men. The total shooting time for the film was about two weeks. The men, working side by side with professional actors, soon learned the "cut, action and roll'em."

For several weeks a committee of major unit commanders or their representatives headed by Col. Roy A. Murray, new president of the Youth Activities Club, has met regularly for discussion and planning sessions. Each major command has voluntarily assumed an area of responsibility with other organizations on the post contributing in various sponsorship of activities.

Heading the carnival and Parade of Champions committee as honorary chairman is Brig. Gen. John F. Fuggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center. Coordinating the program and planning is Col. Adrian Hobeck, assistant of the School Brigade. Assistant Col. Hobeck is deputy coordinator is Lt. Col. Clayton A. Quig.

Protect Your Freedom

Because freedom in the United States belongs to all individuals, each individual has a personal responsibility to support and safeguard it.

The most important responsibility of all is the responsibility of every eligible voter to cast a ballot for the candidates he feels best suited to represent him in governing our country.

Perhaps for servicemen filing absentee ballots, voting seems too complicated to bother with. Certainly it is more complex than voting in Communist countries where there is only one candidate and it doesn't matter whether you vote or not.

But you don't live in a Communist country. You are U.S. citizens, blessed with the privilege of voicing your opinion through the ballot on how your country should be run.

This is a responsibility not to be shrugged off as inconsequential or "too much bother." The best way to safeguard your freedom is to take care of it yourself. (AFPS)

Make Extra Time Count

The Armed Forces—despite the age-old maxim that a serviceman is on duty 24 hours a day—offer most of their men a substantial amount of free time.

And seldom does a week go by when a serviceman—especially an unmarried one— isn't faced with the problem of what to do with some of this time. You might find the solution to this problem by having a chat with your education officer.

The Armed Forces have not only given their men off-duty hours, they have also established several educational programs, not the least of which is the United States Armed Forces Institute (USAFI), that will put these hours to a good use.

USAFI offers courses at all educational levels and a wide variety of subjects.

Education means many things to many people; others find it a way to satisfy a general curiosity about a particular subject; still others feel it makes them more interesting people.

Education also has a cash value. A recent survey conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau showed that the average college graduate earned $2,100 more each year than a person with only a high school education.

Whatever the reason, educating oneself can do no harm and will answer the question of what to do with your spare time. (AFPS)

Don't Become a Sucker

More than 800 racketeers have been fleeing the public out of billions of dollars every year.

Unfortunately, targets for these racketeers are frequently servicemen. But what is even more unfortunate is the fact that servicemen are too often successfully victimized by these racketeers.

The confident serviceman may be saying at this point, "Oh, nobody's gonna make a sucker out of me!" Nevertheless, military and civilian police records are full of stories like these:

"He swore it was a 14-carat gold ring, or 'This guy said he'd hold for me while I was with this girl because, like he said, you can't trust women like that.'"

To list all the snares racketeers have set for servicemen would take many columns. Besides, any man intelligent enough to be a member of the Armed Forces should be wise enough to know when he is getting conned.

Sometimes a man's wisdom is overshadowed by momentary foolishness and consequently his pocket is emptied.

The more the serviceman knows about racketeers, the better he will be able to avoid being fooled by them. Knowing the score will save his money, and may save his life. (AFPS)

International Roundup

East Germany Asks Parley on GI Return

BERLIN—Communist East Germany said June 9 that the United States must open direct negotiations for the return of nine U.S. soldiers seized there after their helicopter went down in the East German zone.

The East German move, which followed up a Soviet Union refusal to accept responsibility, appeared to be aimed at putting the U.S. government in a tight spot. The United States and other Western nations do not recognize East Germany and refuse to deal with it. All matters involving East Germany are taken to the Soviet Union.

Eight officers and a sergeant were seized June 7 when their helicopter became lost in a flight over the Soviet-occupied zone. The helicopter was shot down by Soviet-occupied forces. The men were held in a camp near the border. The U.S. government has offered to pay a ransom for their return.

PARASITE PURGE

BUDAPEST—The Communist Hungarian government has started a purge of all "parasites," including profiteers, shirkers, prostitutes and tramps, the newspaper Hetecs said June 9.

SOVIET EDUCATION

MOSCOW—High school men and women are being trained as winners, previously exempt, now must pass entrance tests like anybody else to win enrollment in Soviet universities. New changes in education regulations also provide for the cultivation of today's 100 per cent of the entries will come directly from high schools.

PEASANTS UNIVERSITY

KOBYO—Radio Peiping reports Red China's first peasants university, specializing in agriculture, will open recently with an enrollment of more than 900.

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (LST LT) WILTON D. PIGOTT

What we think about man makes all the difference in the world. There are many ideas today about the nature of man. There is the common sense view that man is just a man, nothing more. There is the scientific view that man is a complicated animal. There is the philosophical view that man is a sample of the universe. There is the humanistic view that man is the measure of all things. The dictators and warmakers say that man is a creature made to be ruled and used by supermen.

But it seems to me that none of these views give a satisfactory answer to the question, "What is Man?" There is another view, the Christian view, which says that man is a creature made in the image of God. Lady Blackwell in T. S. Eliot's play, "The Confidential Clerk," speaks of the image of God in man when she declares: "O creature, there's something in us, which isn't just all in us, which isn't just something unique. The Judge Says . . .

April 24, 1958. Department of Army issued a new and important regulation concerning disciplinary proceedings for civilian authorities if it isn't double jeopardy for them to be tried in a state civilian court and then be court-martialed by the Army. I have ways had to tell them that legally there is no double jeopardy since the military courts are concerned with the Uniform Code of Military Justice on a man after trial by civilian authorities which has resulted in a conviction is a decision which cannot be made by the man's commanding officer. I try never to interfere with a commander in making his decisions.

However, Department of Army, in AR 22-12, has laid down a new guide to help the commanding officer make a decision. In part, the regulation states: "A person subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice who has been tried in a civil court normally will not be tried by a court-martial or punished under the Uniform Code of Military Justice, Article 15, for the same act or acts over which the civil court has exercised jurisdiction."

Major Gen. Stanley W. Jones, Army Assistant Judge Advocate General, recently was quoted as saying: "The Department of the Army has long had this problem (double jeopardy) under consideration, with a view toward achieving a practical and harmonious balance between the interests of fairness to the individual and the obvious need for disciplinary control by the Army over members whose activities in the civilian community bring discredit to the service. The departmental policy, as now expanded in Army Regulations 22-12, 24 April 1958, prevents additional punishment by the Army, save under unusual circumstances."

AR 22-12 was designed to prevent trial in military courts for acts over which a civil court has acted, except in those cases where the military court's action was so light as to be "prejudicial to discipline and good order." In other words, where the civil court doesn't impose an appropriate sentence, it was serious cases. In effect, AR 22-12 prevents trying a man, already tried in a

Concert Sets Berlin Work On June 17

The recorded concert at the Main Library June 17 at 7:30 p.m. will feature the civil air group titled "The Music of Irving Berlin" performed by Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra.

Success stories are a dime a dozen, but none can equal the saga of riches against poverty in Berlin. He was born in Russia in 1888, but when he was four years old his family was forced to flee Russia and take refuge in the United States. When his father died, his family was reduced to poverty and he was orphaned. He was raised in a tenement house in New York City.

He started working in a factory at the age of 10. He was a street singer and a vaudeville performer. He wrote his first song, "Alexander's Weekly," when he was 12. He wrote "Swanee Song" when he was 14. He wrote "The Blue Bird" when he was 15. He wrote "The Great Gigolo" when he was 16. He wrote "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" when he was 17. He wrote "The Music of Irving Berlin" when he was 18.

Reserves Have Summer Hooks Of Their Own

CHICAGO (ANP)—Army Reservists from this area are taking field training this summer. In past years the active Army has habitually furnished hooks for summer training camp, but this year there aren't enough hooks to go around.

So for the past several months, 400 Army Reserve hooks have been contacting the kitchen of Nike sites here to get practical experience and to ensure their units will be self-sufficient at summer camp.

Training sessions for the civilian soldier hooks extend through Sunday afternoons once monthly in lieu of the weekly training meetings.

Dr. Explains Moon Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The technological problems of "shooting" the moon are posed by the fantastic advances needed for further ambitious space exploration, according to the Special Senate Committee on Astronautics.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, NACA director, testifying before the Special Senate Committee on Astronautics, gave an inkling of what complexities will be encountered in man's attempts to reach out into the universe.

An airliner easily flies 300 mph while the rocket travels at the rate of about 68,000 mph. At the same time, Dr. Dryden told the Senate investigators, the sun itself moves at 630,000 mph within our galaxy—the so-called Milky Way—in which the star nearest our sun is Alpha Centauri—25 trillion miles away.

We have to propel a rocket at 25,000 mph in order to escape the earth. In doing this we can reach the moon, Dr. Dryden said, but to travel outside the solar system we will have to overcome the gravitational pull of the sun.

This would require a minimum velocity of some 70,000 mph, he explained, adding that a space craft journey to Alpha Centauri would take over 40,000 years at this speed.

These basic factual areas are a constant reminder of how enormous the task of leaving our earth is. The thousands of galaxies in the universe is, Dr. Dryden said.

SOME MILK . . . Principals in the forthcoming production of "The Milky Way" Soldier Shows drama include June 17, seem to have been drinking something besides milk in these scenes from the comedy. At left, Miss Janet Freeman of Columbus and Pvt. Jud Harmon appear to enjoy rehearsal. At right, Pvt. Hal Hunter and Mrs. Dwight Adams engage in a quiet conversation.

14th Drives Accident-Less For 97 Days

Seventy-six drivers of Fort Benning's Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry have achieved 226,634 accident-free miles in 97 days since March 1, 1958, according to officials.

The achievement of the drivers operating daily 378 vehicles for the battle group on various transportation missions makes them eligible for the Department of Army Safety Award for outstanding performance.

The mission of the drivers range from driving the battle group commanders' vehicles to 6 by 6 ton trucks from the ammunition dump. Since the unit is not assigned a transportation company, it is the Infantryman who must drive the vehicles.

Sgt. Charles Manley of Company C and Staff Sergeant McFadden of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, are two of the most experienced drivers in the unit, which was activated in May, 1957. They have obtained the largest number of miles.

For beginning campers ages 7 to 10 there will be a Day Camp at the established camp. The fee will be $2.50 per child. Reorganization Started In 1947 for Pentagon

WASHINGTON (APPS)—The stage for the current Congressional action on defense reorganization was set in President Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress last January.

In April he restated the need for reorganization by saying that we "must now modernize our Defense establishment and make it efficient, more flexible and more adaptable to enable it to meet the faithful challenge of continuing revolutionary change."

The President has also advised Congress that the changes "are not numerous, they are, however, very important."

Change is nothing new to the Department of Defense. In 1947 the National Security Act united the Armed Forces. This led to the National Military Establishment, which included the Army and Navy Departments and established a Department of the Air Force.

In 1949 a chairman for the Joint Chiefs of Staff was authorized by amendments to the 1947 Security Act. The Secretary of Defense—and not the service secretaries—was authorized to represent the services in the President's Cabinet.

In 1953, as a result of certain shortcomings manifested by the ocean frontier, reorganization again took place. A number of boards and agencies were abolished and their duties transferred to the Secretary of Defense. The Chairman of the JCS also received added responsibility.

From 1947 to 1958 there has been an obvious trend toward giving the Secretary of Defense increased means to achieve a more effective unification—but not merger—of the services in order to attain greater combat effectiveness at the most economical cost possible.

Mobility Cited to Halt Reds by Brucker

WASHINGTON, (ANS)—Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker has again emphasized the need for the Army to remain alert and ready to halt further Communist expansion and to deter the threat of limited war.

"The history of Soviet gains since the end of World War II shows clearly that local wars, manipulated pressure—all types of what we must call aggression short of all-out war—have proved effective weapons to gain Communist ends," he said in a prepared speech to an Army panel recently.

The United States knows that the Soviets are placing more and more emphasis upon building up training and equipping their forces for limited warfare, the Secretary said. He added that Communist military machinery is being reinforced all along the line—from large nuclear weapons to the most basic ground weapons and techniques.

For this reason, he commented, a discussion of Limited War and Tactical Mobility is of great importance at this moment of history.

"Wherever Communist expansion has succeeded over the

Gen. Bell Addresses 111 Eighth Grade Graduates, Largest Class

Characterizing American education as an unparalleled opportunity to develop initiative and independence, Brig. Gen. (ret.) Marcus B. Bell of Columbus spoke at graduation ceremonies of the Fort Benning Children's Schools June 4. Certificates were awarded to 111 eighth graders, the largest senior class in the history of the post school system, by Lt. Col. Richard E. Hill, president of the School Council.

Responsibility
"I think our schools and our citizens have a great responsibility to our youth—a responsibility to provide a free public education for all regardless of physical, intellectual, social, or emotional differences," Gen. Bell said. "Russia is doing a fine job for its youth in producing good students and teachers, but much of its educational effort is expended in teaching the youth of the country communism. Our schools stress democracy and freedom, and I think that's better for youth," the speaker declared.

Way of Life
"It's up to us to maintain this American way of life and to continue to see that our youngsters have the chance to get an education for themselves," he added.

Gen. Bell told the graduates that "now is the time to make your decision as to what further education you want and how you will use it. In grade school, you have received the best fundamental instruction. Each of you has the opportunity to develop greatness."

Fields Open
"We want scientists and mathematicians, yes, but we also need artists, musicians, ministers, writers and specialists in many other fields. In America, all these fields are open to both men and women. Now is the time to start planning for them," he went on.

"You have gained quite a milestone in your education

Band Plays
The Infantry Center Band under the leadership of WO Earl W. Jones played for the occasion.

A reception at the Fort Benning Country Club followed the ceremonies. Col. and Mrs. Howard W. Greer were in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Other members of the graduating class were John B. Starr Jr., Linda Martin, William C. Harrison Jr., Ann Glascock, William B. Heath Jr., Linda Tharp, Robert Kelly, Martha Anderson, Frank Messer.

Platform guests for the occasion were Brig. Gen. Miller O. Perry, acting commanding general of the 10th Infantry Division; Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center; Col. Robert H. York, Infantry Center chief of staff; Dr. Harold A. Hildner, U.S.A. educational adviser; and Chaplain (Col.) Albert C. Wilman, Col. Robert S. Cain, Col. Lloyd E. Ramsey, Lt. Col. Richard W. Ulrich and Major Jack L. Treadwell, members of the School Council.

A chorus composed of 48 graduates sang "The Green Cathedral" and "This Is My Country" under the direction of Emile E. Watson, Miss Bar-

TIS Offers Revised Pre-Officer Course

Beginning July 1, the Infantry School will offer a revised Army pre-commission extension course.

The revised course closely parallels the resident Infantry officer candidate course covering basic military subjects common to all branches of the Army required for appointment in the grade of second lieutenant of a Reserve component. The course is administered by all branches by the Infantry School.

204 Credit Hours
The revised course will consist of 18 sub-courses with a total of 204 credit hours in contrast to the present pre-commission course consisting of 25 sub-courses with a total of 204 credit hours. Only three sub-courses in the present pre-commission course will be retained in the revised course. Some of the sub-courses in the present course will be revised.

44,000 Students
At present, there are approximately 44,000 students enrolled in the current pre-commission course. Of this number, approximately 20,000 are National Guardsmen, 9,400 in enlisted Reserve, and 15,000 are civilian Army Personnel. Numerous enlisted men enroll in the course to improve their professional knowledge and enhance their opportunity for promotion. Many of the Reserve and National Guard units require completion of the prerequisite for promotion within the commissioned officer grades. The revised pre-commission course should attract many more students because of its even greater value.

Personnel enrolled in the current course before July 1 will receive credit for courses completed. After July 1 they will be placed into the new pre-commission course by substitution of appropriate sub-courses in the new instruction as they become available. However, these individuals will be awarded a Certificate of Course Completion upon satisfactory completion of 18 sub-courses which include those satisfactorily completed under the present pre-commission course and appropriate substitutions made by the Infantry School after July 1.

Information concerning application for enrollment in the pre-commission course as well as other Army extension courses is contained in AR 350-60 and DA Pamphlet 350-60. Further information can be obtained by writing the commandant, U. S. Army Infantry School, ATTN: Director of Army Extension Courses.

CIVIL COURTS
The first civil works program for the Army Engineers was authorized by Congress in 1924. From that time to the present, Army Engineers have been leaders in the development of techniques and equipment in their vast field of improving rivers and harbors for navigation, and in harnessing major rivers of the United States for flood control, for the generation of electricity and related uses.

14th Keeps Radio Contact With Rangers

The communications section of the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry has added another facility to their support of the Infantry School Ranger Training Department with the installation of direct radio contact with the Ranger Training Camp at Eglin Air Base, Fla. The section has an AN-GRC 28D Mobile Radioteletype Communication Center set up at Eglin and Fort Benning to keep informed of the progress and operations of the training. M-Sgt. Dale Ivey, section leader, has the tremendous job of keeping the operation for the 14th Infantry running smoothly. These radio units are assigned to operators Sgt. Joseph Belesky and Cpl. Ardis Overby who are operating in Florida and Sicily. Donald Christian and Sp3 William Bryant who are operating from the Fort Benning location. All the men have operated similar radio units. The AN-GRC 28D is a mobile self-contained radioteletype communication center mounted on a truck and can be operated in motion or at a set location. This set has two teleprinters, two radio receivers, a frequency converter, and a retransmitter-transmitter teleprinter. This unit has the capability, when operated at full power, to drive for communication around the world.

OVER THE AIR

Shooting skill takes the spotlight this week on Fort Benning's weekly television news program, Fort-Benning Reports, which features the dramatic accounts of many winners of the All-Army Rifle and Pistol Matches and action shots of contestants trying out for the International Contests in Moscow, Russia, this August. Also on Report will be a preview of what's in store for the public on June 16 at the demonstration of Army Aircraft at Lawson Field, celebrating the anniversary of Army Aviation. That's Fort Benning Reports Saturday at 12:45 p.m. on WRBL-TV (Channel 4).

Garrett Tells Board Of BBB Objectives

"Investigate before you invest—read before you sign," were key points made by Cecil H. Garrett, executive secretary of Columbus Better Business Bureau, in an informal talk recently to members of the Fort Benning Disciplinary Control Board at the monthly meeting in the provost marshal's conference room. He commended cooperation received from the G-1 and provost marshal sections at Fort Benning. He said he assisted in settling complaints through the BBB. Garrett defined the BBB as a non-profit organization of Columbus businessmen to work with and on behalf of business to promote honesty and dependability in advertising, merchandising and fair competition in trade. Its primary purpose is to search out through its own initiative and as the result of competitive or consumer complaints or inquiries concerning all questionable practices in advertising, selling and delivering of goods and services and to strive for the elimination of such practices. Medicare Patients to Pay For Drugs Starting July 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military dependents after July 1, will be required to pay for orally administered drugs prescribed by civilian physicians under the Medicare Program, the Defense Department has announced. The new policy, which principally affects a small percentage of military patients, prohibits drugs dispensed by a doctor or furnished by a civilian pharmacy from being charged to Medicare bills for Armed Forces families receiving medical attention outside military facilities. Such Medicare patients, however, may continue to obtain medicines from pharmacies of the uniformed services upon prescription of a civilian physician if the items are available in the Defense Department's military facilities. The policy of furnishing drugs for dependents confined in civilian hospitals remains unchanged.

Chief Gave Last Solemn Offering

WASHINGTON (AP)—The officials representatives of the countries allied in World War I had all stepped forward to present their nations' highest awards to the Unknown Soldier. The date was November 11, 1921. The place was Arlington National Cemetery. Then Piety Coos, Chief of the Crown Nation, representing the Indians of the United States, he solemnly laid his war bonnet and coup stick on the Tomb. It was the last offering. Today, visitors may see them at the cenotaphy.

"Resolved, that six companies of expert riflemen be immediately raised in Pennsylvania, two in Maryland, and two in Virginia; that each company consist of a captain, three lieutenants, four sergeants, four corporals, a drummer or trumpeter, and pause a moment and consider how far they have come. For the same resolution also reads: "That the pay of the Officers and privates be as follows, viz., a captain, 20 dollars per month; a lieutenant, 15 and one-third dollars; a sergeant, eight dollars; a corporal, seven and one-third dollars; private, six and two-thirds dollars; to find their own arms and clothes."

Garrett Tells Board Of BBB Objectives

It was also resolved that a Mr. George Washington should be on a committee to bring in a draft of rules and regulations for the government of the Army. That was 183 years ago. A good deal happened to the "Mr." in front of George Washington and the Army's progress to date might now make its first general and Commander in Chief stand in awe. (AFTS)

EXTERIOR OF WIGLE HALL. TO BE OCS HALL OF FAME AT FORT BENNING Memorial Is Named In Honor Of 2nd Lt. Thomas W. Wigle, Medal Of Honor Winner

Dedication Set June 21

Wigle Hall to Serve As Main Classroom

Wigle Hall, in addition to being the Infantry Officer Candidate Hall of Fame and memorial honoring Medal of Honor winner, 2nd Lt. Thomas W. Wigle, will serve the Infantry School as the principal classroom of OCS.

The one story concrete edifice located in the School Brigade's Fifth Student Battalion area will house a Medal of Honor Room containing portraits of OCS Graduates who were awarded the nation's highest honor and a picture gallery where photographs of distinguished military and airborne leaders who have graduated from the school will be displayed.

Lt. Wigle's portrait in oil will occupy the place of honor in the Medal of Honor Room just inside the front entrance of the hall.

Dedication June 21
Lt. Wigle, for whom the hall will be dedicated on June 21, but in Italy during World War II and was awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry.

The public, personnel of Fort Benning and all graduates of the Officer Candidate School are invited to dedication ceremonies which will commence 9 a.m. June 21.

At 9 a.m., OCS orientation will be given at Main Theater.

For Savings Bonds Personnel Advised To Join Payroll Plan

Messages urging military and civilian personnel of Department of Army to participate in the payroll savings plan for purchase of U.S. savings bonds were issued this week by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, and the Honorable Earl L. Ruffner, Third Army commander, and Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., Fort Benning commanding general.

Gen. Taylor said: "At the request of the President of the United States and of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Department of the Army is joining with all other agencies of the Federal Government in asking its military and civilian personnel to participate in the payroll savings plan for the purchase of United States Savings Bonds."

"In my judgment, all members of the Army will support this plan and recognize that they are informed of its value as a savings plan and its importance to the national economy. The annual per-100-to-person canvass now taking place is being planned under the provisions of DA Circular 608-8, dated 27 November 1957, for all commanders to acquaint their personnel with the benefits to be accrued from this program.

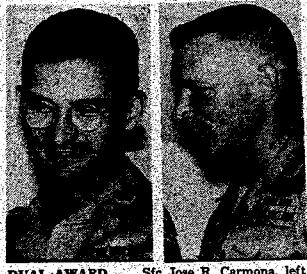

"Many units and installations have already demonstrated their awareness of the value of this program and have won awards for exceeding the Army goal of 60 per cent participation. In some cases over 90 per cent participation has been attained. Should similar results be obtained in the continuing campaign, this year's canvass will provide the additional impetus required to permit the Army as a whole to make a substantial contribution to our national financial stability.

"This program merits the support of all. I urge all commanders to give such support as they feel my order warrants."

Lt. Gen. Ruffner's message is: "The new pay bill which becomes effective 1 June will give a substantial pay increase to most Army personnel. This increased pay provides commanders an excellent opportunity to promote a systematic savings plan for purchase of U.S. Bonds. Additionally, it is a patriotic gesture.

"I join the Chief of Staff, United States Army, in support of this annual person-to-person campaign, and urge all commanders to give this program their personal attention by encouraging personnel to invest their increased pay in U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan."

Major Gen. Freeman issued the following:

"This systematic payroll savings plan has my personal interest and support. "Together with the sentiment expressed by the Chief of Staff, United States Army, and the Commanding General, Third United States Army, I entreat each commander to personally support the payroll savings plan and encourage participation to the maximum extent possible by military personnel of this command."

Pfc Lectures On Aesthetics To Teachers At Kelly Hill Buildings Renamed For MofH Winners

The School Brigade's Pfc Willie Longshore presented a lecture on Art to the faculty of the Harris County Elementary Schools on June 5.

The lecture, given before some 50 teachers, began with some of the artist's personal observations on the field of aesthetics in general. The main context of the talk, however, dealt with the history of painting with the emphasis on contemporary works.

Longshore conducted the lecture with the explanation of the individual's position in relation to the arts and the special importance of the elementary teacher's role today in this field. This lecture was the first of a series to be given throughout Central and Eastern Georgia during the summer. Pfc Longshore is highly engaged, at present, in preparation for his one-man exhibit to be given in August which will consist of many portraits and abstractions done while on active duty with the Army at Fort Benning.

MISSION HOLDS PICNIC St. Michael's Episcopal Mission June 7 held its annual picnic on the lawn of the Mission with approximately 125 members and their guests enjoying the food and fellowship. A merry-go-round, films, and pony rides were furnished for the children while the adults held a short meeting in the chapel.

HOUSING UNITS NAMED Eight troop housing units also have been named in honor of winners of the nation's highest award for valor. Lindstrom Barracks named for Pfc Floyd Lindstrom, Seventh Infantry, Third Division, while Henry Barracks received its name from Pvt. Robert T. Henry, 18th Infantry, First Division. Other barracks have been named for 1st Lt. Walter J. Will, 18th Infantry, First Division; Col. Charles K. Gilliland, Seventh Infantry, Third Division; Sgt. Tony K. Burris, 38th Infantry, Second Division; Sgt. Leroy A. Mendonca, Seventh Infantry, Third Division; Sgt. Charles W. Turner, Second Reconnaissance Squad, Second Division, and Sgt. Curtis F. Shoop, 346th Infantry, 8th Division.

The Kelly Hill Dispensary, formerly known as building 2025, has been renamed Hawks Dispensary in honor of Pfc Lloyd C. Hawks, a former member of the medical detachment, 30th Infantry, Third Division.

A street in the Kelly Hill area has been designated as Watkins Street in honor of 2d Sgt. Travis E. Watkins, Ninth Infantry, Second Division, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for his action against the enemy in Korea.

H-37 'Copter Can Move 10,000 Pounds of Cargo

The Army's largest operational helicopter is the H-37 built by Sikorsky Aircraft of Bridgeport, Conn.

The H-37 (Hojo) is classified as a medium transport helicopter. It is capable of carrying 24 fully-equipped troops or 10,000 pounds of cargo. Twenty-two litter patients can be accommodated in the Hojo.

The H-37 differs from conventional helicopters in that it has two 2100 horse power engines. Other notable features are retractable landing gear and clam shell doors facilitate loading and unloading. The helicopter can transport a three-quarter ton truck of 10000 lbs weight and additional cargo in a single lift.

Clam shell cargo doors facilitate loading and unloading. The helicopter can transport a three-quarter ton truck of 10000 lbs weight and additional cargo in a single lift.

An important feature of the H-37 is the five rotor blades. This increases lift, but more important, is the safety feature which Sikorsky engineers encompassed in the rotor head. Should one blade be lost or shot away, the other four automatically shift to four blade operation to compensate for the imbalance produced by the loss of a blade.

The Fourth Transportation Company of Fort Benning has 16 H-37s, the first being received in August, 1957.

The Hojo has supported many Infantry School problems including JCOC. Visitors to Lawson Field usually express interest and amazement upon seeing the huge aircraft.

Col. Murch Presents Trophies to Top Units

At ceremonies in his office May 20, Col. Gordon E. Murch, commanding officer, 2826th Tank Battalion, presented rotating trophies to unit commanders and their representatives.

Capt. William E. Kerr Jr., commanding officer, Company B, accepted the "Company of the Month" trophy. The trophy is awarded on a point basis, the winning unit being chosen for its outstanding record in such areas as security, fire prevention, safety, disciplinary development, mess standards, company area appearance and consciousness. The 128th Transportation Company was a close runner-up in this competition.

First Lt. Michael F. Polese, Company A, accepted the Safety trophy. The trophy is awarded to the unit for the month's greatest accident-free civilian and military mileage.

Hugh E. Cook, Post Craft Director, on a recent inspection trip to Harmony Church Woodcraft Shop, emphasized that the excellent facilities of all post craft shops are open to every Tanker and his dependents. Located in building number 406, which is reached by taking City Road off Highway Road, the Harmony Church annex is open from 1 to 10 p.m. daily, and on Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m. An instructor is present during these hours to advise on projects. The annex is closed Sunday.

Today's Streamlined Lawson Army Airfield On The Banks of Chattahoochee River Has Grown Into A Vital Center For Army Aviation Since Its Meager Beginning As A Grassy Clearing 27 Years Ago

Fast Expanding Field

Army Aviation Marks 16th Birthday After Lifelong Fight for Existence

Born of a battlefield need around Richmond, Va. and combat-tested and proven Army Aviation celebrates its 16th anniversary this week. Since its beginning in June, 1942, the infant of the nation's aerial power has grown at a rapid rate, adapting its unique capabilities to a wide variety of critical tasks.

Up until 1941 the Army was dependent upon the Air Corps for its observation missions. The Air Corps was called upon to observe the front lines and report on the enemy's positions. The Air Corps was also called upon to observe the progress of the battle and report on the enemy's movements.

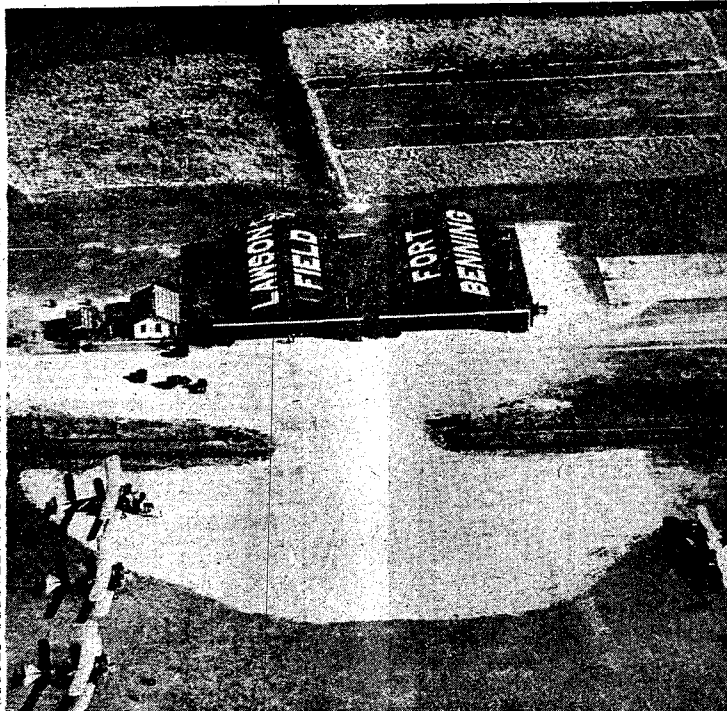

Present day activities are only a preview of things to come which will reveal vertical takeoff and landing aircraft, flying cranes and flying jeeps in addition to many drawing boards. The seed that sprouted this element of the Army's power was the need for closer observation of the enemies activities and better means of artillery adjustment. This was an old problem and first recognized during the civil war when observation balloons were used by the Union forces to gather information of Confederate movements in and disulfid all the requirements in performance and maintenance. In the fall of 1941, after a satisfactory report from the Louisiana testing, directives were issued to form a test group of organic aviation for the field artillery, with Lt. Col. William Ford in charge. The new Army Aviators were not long getting into combat. Just five months after the program was authorized, the first Cubes hopped off the Carrier USS Ranger 60 miles out at sea and headed for the Coast of North Africa as part of the Fifth Army invasion force.

Strangely enough the first casualties in Army Aviation were suffered as a result of friendly fire. Capt. Ford E. Alcorn was seriously wounded by .50 caliber fire from Allied troops and had to crash land this plane in a field near the shore where it burned. After spending some harrowing hours in unfriendly territory, he was evacuated to a US hospital ship. He was the first Field Artillery pilot to be shot down in a combat operation in World War II.

The Air Op was employed extensively through the North African Campaign. Initially, however, they were only partially successful. This can be attributed to a number of factors. First, the supply and maintenance support assigned to the Air Corps was not adequate. The needs of the Army had been overlooked in over planning of overseas stock levels and maintenance units. Improvisation was the key to success in North Africa and much credit can be given to engineering officers and the air mechanics of the various Air OP sections who kept the Cubes flying.

DOUBLE HANGER SURROUNDED BY SMALL CLEARING WAS LAWSON FIELD IN 1933 From 1920-31 Two Hangers Were Used For Dances; Outside Area Was Often Used For Picnics

Lawson Field Grew from Clearing To 'Aviation Cross roads of Army'

From a small grassy clearing to the "Aviation Cross roads of the Army" is quite a jump in 27 years. Yet it was just 27 years ago that the name Lawson was officially bestowed on the air strip serving Fort Benning and the Infantry Center. It was Aug. 7, 1931, when the airstrip was designated Lawson Field in memory of Capt. Walter R. Lawson, a native Georgian and World War I hero, who was killed in an airplane crash in 1923 a McCook Field in Dayton, Ohio.

One of his to South. One of the original Army airfields in the South, Lawson was initially used for observation balloons for the Infantry School in 1918. Its principal mission was to determine whether or no data obtained by balloon observation would be of material value to infantry troops.

The field was no more than a small grassy area surrounded by several farms. The only buildings were two small hangers. There were no runways, taxi strips, or parking areas. Supported School. The Infantry School had long advocated the employment of aircraft for observation purposes and there had been few men at Fort Benning with the 32nd Observation Squadron in May, 1920. On May 22 of that year the 32nd Balloon Company arrived with officers, 100 enlisted men and complete flying equipment. However, the unit remained here for only a year. Thereafter, the school borrowed aircraft for its problems from Maxwell Field in Montgomery, Ala. This practice continued until March, 1921.

When the use of the balloons was discontinued in the late 1920s, the double hangers were utilized for Saturday night dances and the cleared area for picnics. Oldtimers recall many a fox hunt that crossed over the field during the period. In 1931, Flight B, 16th Observation Squadron, was ordered to duty at Fort Benning. Along with a small number of officers and men, the unit brought three Douglas O-26s. The field finally had its own planes. Besides housing the planes, the double hanger housed all the departments of Flight, including Air Corps supply, parachute, radio, photographic, and meteorological stations. Lawson Field continued to grow until 1940 when it became an independent airfield under the direct command of the commanding general of the Air Force. It was in that year that the 16th Observation Squadron from Fort Riley, Kans., arrived. The field continued to work closely with the Infantry School on tactical field problems. Early in 1941, the Lawson Field units were placed under the control of the Third Air Force and remained under its jurisdiction until Aug. 29, 1942, when Lawson was transferred to the First Troop Carrier Command. Barracks, four mess halls, a guard house, infirmary, runways, and parking aprons were constructed that year. During 1942, when the field was designated a Troop Carrier Command Base, thousands of TCC and paratrooper personnel trained for combat duty.

In 1946, reorganization of the Air Force placed it under the command of the Ninth Air Force. In the summer of 1950, the field was given a $400,000 face lifting to support heavier aircraft. In 1951, the runways were lengthened to permit the landing of jet aircraft.

Army Assumes Control. On Feb. 1, 1955, the Army assumed operational control of Lawson Field with Army Col. Gilman A. Huff designated as its first commanding officer. Lawson Field today, under its commanding officer Col. William M. Brown, continues to operate, maintain and secure its facilities and make them available to military aviation units assigned to Fort Benning, and to aircraft utilizing the field on a temporary basis.

At the present time, Lawson Army Airfield Command is composed of the First Army Aviation Company, Fourth Transportation Company (Medical Helicopter), 15th Field Maintenance Team, 31st Transportation Company (Light Helicopter), 15th Maintenance Team, 5th Helicopter Ambulance Detachment, Detachment 6, Weather Squadron, Lawson Army Airfield Detachment and the Second Division, 15th Maintenance Team. The Airborne School also uses the facilities of the Lawson Army Airfield Command. Lawson Army Airfield Command (Please See Lawson, Page 18)

Jet Helicopter Slated Lawson to Display Future Army Crafts

An aerial demonstration featuring experimental Army helicopters and an Army jet on the end of either rotor blade. Other interesting activities will be a helicopterborne assault, parachute resupply by low flying aircraft, maximum performance takeoffs over erected barriers, and the always breath-taking cyclic climb by three types of helicopters. Bleachers will be erected for the convenience of the public on a large open field at the southwest end of Lawson Field. Directional signs will mark the route to the area.

Several humorous acts also have been planned for the show which is being staged by the pilots and other personnel of Lawson Army Airfield Command with the assistance of men and aircraft from the Army Aviation Board at Fort Rucker, Ala. Project officer for the air show is Capt. Albert E. Fitzgerald.

In the past few years the front door by which important people enter a military post has changed from a gate on the highway to the ramp at the Airfield.
 A plaque with the above statement by Major Gen. Hamilton Howze is near the entrance of the Operations office of Lawson Army Airfield Command. The validity of Gen. Howze's remarks has certainly been borne out at Fort Benning.

Very Important People (VIPs) enter Fort Benning. They have arrived in every type of aircraft from the largest Air Force plane to small civilian craft, and from nearly all the nations of the Free World.
 During JIOC and other ceremonies Lawson Operations and the ramp immediately in front remain one of the lobby and entrance to a large civilian air terminal.

Signs have become fairly time-consuming. This sign, standing outside the main entrance to Lawson Headquarters Building is a visitors first welcome to the Infantry Center.
 The resemblance is even more marked since the installation of a public address system. With the new public address system, protocol personnel, the band and crew members of the salute gun are easily informed as to the exact arrival time of all aircraft with official visitors aboard.
 It is during JIOC that the daily number of arrivals begin to climb out of proportion. In May of this year there were approximately 250 arrivals in a three-day period.
 The men who count and coordinate the aircraft arrivals compose the operations section commanded by Capt. Fred Pitt Harris. There are two civilian airway supervisors, two assistant operations officers and eight dispatchers.
 In line with the role as the "Gateway to Fort Benning," the major role in the front-of-building 201 was needed.

4th Trans. Becomes 1st Army H-37 Unit

On Feb. 1, 1958, the Fourth Transportation Company, the company participated in six maneuvers, three National Air Shows, numerous demonstrations and furnished support for the Infantry Center at Fort Benning.
 Besides "Snow Storm" at Camp Drum, N.Y., Operation "Dumfound" at Las Vegas, Nev., where helicopters were used to fly television equipment to a mountain top for the telecasting of an "Atom Bomb" explosion and Exercise "Follow Me" where helicopters were used to deliver a Battalion of Infantry and their weapons are among the major maneuvers in which the unit participated. The company was the first to participate in an over-water cargo haul exercise at Fort Belvoir, Va., where they transported cargo from an L.S.T., that had been converted to a landing ship, to the mission. This mission was accomplished by using the external load and external sling methods.
 In October, 1957, the company received H-34 (Cherokee) Helicopters and sent pilots to Fort Sill, Okla. for transition training in the H-34. After receiving H-34s the mission unit departed Fort Benning for "Sage Brush."
 The unit has participated in Army School missions, two JIOCs, several demonstrations at other military installations and assisted in numerous emergency evacuations and rescue missions. For their work in rescue missions, 18 officers have received "The Winged S" awarded by Sikorsky Aircraft to aviators who participated in mercy missions.
 On May 16, 1956, the 60th Transportation Company, the Fourth departed Fort Benning to participate in "Jump Light" at Fort Campbell, Ky., and Fort Bragg, N.C. The mission was to support the "Troop Test Jump Light" in a four month examination of the Army's newest Pentonite Division, the 61st Airborne.
 On May 12, 1957, four pilots departed for Fort Rucker, Ala. to commence transition training in the H-37 (Mojave) Helicopter. Between May 12, and August 1, 1957, a total of 12 pilots participated in mercy missions.
 Since its activation at Fort Sill, Okla. in June, 1952, the Fourth Transportation Company has received C-45 to be piloted more than 50 rescue and evacuation missions.
 Some of the rescues were: couple, their baby and their dog were plucked from the swirling waters of the Chattooga River in a daring rescue. Being marooned on a five-by-seven-foot boulder, unable to be rescued by an outboard motor boat because of swift waters, an H-34 piloted by CWOs Paul E. Cotton, Robert Anderson and Thomas E. Knoblett hovered a scant two feet above the rock to bring Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Lucas Jr., 41-year-old, one-month-old daughter of the couple, and Domino, their black and white spotted puppy to safety. This took place at 12:26 p.m. on March 23, 1956.

Show Slates GCA Landing

The air show scheduled at Lawson Field June 15 at 2 p.m. will include an actual Ground Control Approach by the GCA operators at Lawson. A pilot will be placed in the rear seat of an L-119 instrument trainer and then black panels will be placed around the windows shutting off visual contact with the outside world. An instrument takeoff will be attempted by the isolated pilot using only the instrument in the rear cockpit. Shortly after the plane is airborne, Sgt. William E. Ford and his GCA crew will "take over." Simulating bad weather the GCA crew will establish contact with the blind flying pilot and begin a GCA run. The aviation during the complete run will have only the cockpit instruments and GCA Controller's instructions to refer to. The Ground Control Approach radio will be connected to the public address system to enable the spectators to hear as well as see the aircraft talk down to a landing. Sgt. Ford and crew will actually talk the aircraft down to a prescribed glidepath to the very end of the runway. At no time during takeoff or landing will the pilot be able to see more than the instruments directly in front of him.

Army Aviation Explores, Exploits To Gain 3-Dimensional Mobility

Mobility, firepower, communications—these are the keys to success in battle today and tomorrow, just as they have been from the beginning of organized warfare. Through World War II and the Korean conflict, the Army gained most of its mobility from wheels and tracks. But these last years of their effectiveness against terrain features such as rivers and dry gages. They lose even more of effectiveness over a battle area measured in many thousands of square miles. To gain speed and fluidity it must have, the Army must now take to the air to gain three-dimensional mobility.

Six Functions
It is the mission of Army research and development to develop the aircraft to do this job. The 1970 aircraft must be able to accomplish a wide variety of missions under varying situations. The task breaks down into six functions: (1) observation; (2) rapid troop airlift in the combat zone; (3) rapid supply airlift in the combat zone; (4) air mobility for reconnaissance; (5) command liaison and communication; and (6) casualty evacuation.

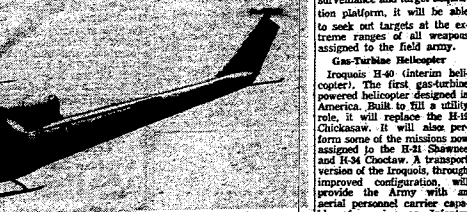

The 1970 aircraft must also meet the following requirements: (1) low maintenance; (2) ability to operate from unimproved terrain; (3) vertical or short takeoff and landing capability; and (4) all weather capability. Here is how the Army proposes to do this: The aircraft stands today in Army Aviation to where it intends to be in 1970.

Evolution
This process of change will be by evolution rather than revolution. It will not sacrifice ability to perform assigned missions during the interim period. It will reduce the family of

It is specifically designed for observation, reconnaissance and target acquisition by use of electronic aids. It, too, will assume part of the present Bird Dog responsibility. It will also be more satisfactory for command liaison.

Highly Decorated Include Majors Olihovik, Jennings For Moving Honest John

Major John Olihovik, 53, star pilot where the pilot Lawson Army Airfield Command, is one of the few if not the only Army Aviator to be awarded the Navy Cross.

Major Thomas C. Jennings, 33, of Lawson Command, has also been highly decorated for tasks performed as an Army Aviator in Korea.

Major Jennings made landings at hastily prepared air strips which were subjected to fire. Without regard for personal safety, Major Jennings then a Captain made repeated trips into the airstrip to evacuate wounded personnel of a unit surrounded by enemy forces.

Major Jennings was awarded the Silver Star. Once again during the period September, 1950 - November, 1950, the Major flew his light plane at very low altitude in order to provide intelligence information on the number, location, movements, and activities of enemy troops.

The worst situation of all, said Major Jennings, was a flight when he was ordered to overlook an enemy unit of 250 soldiers who had expressed a desire to surrender.

"After circling the position once or twice the engine quit cold. I believe that was the quietest moment I ever experienced. I immediately turned toward friendly lines and set up a glide. Our troops were on a high ridge which we cleared by only 100 feet on the other side of the ridge was a rice paddy and I headed for it."

H-37 Tested For Moving Honest John

An H-37 (Mojaev) of the Fourth Transportation Company is being tested at Fort Bliss, Tex., to ascertain the feasibility of using the big helicopter to transport an entire Honest John Rocket Battery over rough terrain.

The experiment at Fort Bliss transports the Honest John Rocket and crew from behind friendly lines to front line emplacements. The complete move takes three trips.

The first load carried by the H-37 is the entire rocket, plus crew. The next trip is the Mojaev carries "wind set" equipment loaded in jeep and trailer and the five remaining crew members of the rocket battery. A 4,000 pound launcher especially designed for helicopter transportation, makes up the third and final load.

Major Jennings, then a Captain made repeated trips into the airstrip to evacuate wounded personnel of a unit surrounded by enemy forces. For this action, Major Jennings received the Silver Star.

Once again during the period September, 1950 - November, 1950, the Major flew his light plane at very low altitude in order to provide intelligence information on the number, location, movements, and activities of enemy troops.

Lawson Commander Military Career Began In 1934 for Col. Brown

Col. William M. Brown, commanding officer of Lawson Army Airfield Command, began his military career in 1934 when commissioned as a second lieutenant in the reserve. In January, 1942, he was called into active duty as a first lieutenant at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Col. Brown was born in Knoxville, Tenn. He received a bachelor of science degree from Davidson College in Davidson, N.C., and did one year of post graduate work at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

Col. Brown attended the Advanced Course at Fort Benning from June, 1945, to September of the same year. From March, 1946, to March 1948, he served at Fort Hood, Tex., as a battalion commander.

When he returned to the states, Col. Brown was assigned as commanding officer of the 33rd Infantry Battalion of the 33rd Infantry and Third Battalion of the 33rd Infantry. During his tour in the Canal Zone, where he was commanding officer of the Third Battalion of the 28th Infantry and Third Battalion of the 33rd Infantry. During his tour in the Canal Zone, Col. Brown received his appointment in the Regular Army.

In September, 1948, he entered the Command and General Staff College, graduating the following year.

Upon graduation, Col. Brown reported to Headquarters First Army at Governors Island, N.Y., where he served in the G-3 Section.

The Hague, Netherlands, as executive officer of the Military Association of Lawyers' Group, was Col. Brown's next assignment and he served there until August, 1955.

In September, 1952, Col. Brown was assigned to Operations and Training Group of the Staff Department, the Infantry School.

Col. Brown is married to the former Miss Virginia Lee Crayton, Chicago, Ill. They have three children: Sandra Lee, Brooke, and William Michael.

3d-A Shooters Sweep Army Matches at Post

Victory Led By Benning Marksmen

Third Army's "Gold" Rifle Team exploded during the All-Army Rifle and Pistol Matches held at Fort Benning last week and produced a brand of shooting never before seen in Army-level competition.

Firing over the National Match Course for the 1958 Army Rifle Team Championship, the six-man team about a total of 1664-10V out of a possible 1800 points to take the trophy and to leave competing teams stunned by the unheard of 1664 score. The national-level record for the team course with the service (M-1) rifle is 1440 while the old and now defunct Army record was 1457. Each man dropped an average of but six points in 50 shots fired, a fiery average of 244 out of 250 accomplishment of the new champion, out of 300 shots fired, 140 were centered in the bullseyes, a single "V" away from exactly 50 per cent.

Captained by Major Alfred D. Dunn and coached by Sgt. William L. Griffin, the "Gold" Team was comprised of Sgt. Gordon Voss, Sgt. Raymond Campbell, Sgt. Herbert Duncan, Sgt. Norman Skarpness, Fort Bragg's Sgt. William Reitz and M-Sgt. Howard Greene.

The "Gold" Team won all four rifle team matches in which it was entered, the Short Range Team Match, the 600-Yard Team Match and the 100-Yard Team Match in addition to the Army Team Match on a 1/4 mile pitch and completed the cycle on Jones' hill. The 14th tied it up in the last into extra frames. The ninth inning, sending the coach threatened to end things in the 10th inning, but Bernard who had singled and advanced to third, was tagged attempting to score from third on a fly to left field.

Set Two New Records

Duncan Least Experienced to Cop Individual All-Army Rifle Crown

Sgt. Herbert Duncan, 29th Infantry, new Army individual rifle champion, is believed to be the least experienced shooter ever to win the crown.

Before the sergeant set two Army records this week to win the individual trophy and the new shooter rifle trophy.

Assigned to Company D, First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, the 32-year-old rifleman won 560 of the Army's top shooters by posting an aggregate score of 919-10V out of a possible 1000 points. Old record for the seven-match event was 875-50V.

Duncan also won the 1958 Army 600-yard championship with a record score of 988-50V, five points and five Vs better than the old mark.

"Sgt. Duncan is a new shooter who listened to some old timers, believed what they said and then went out and did it," said Capt. Lawrence E. Esterline, commander of the 29th Infantry Rifle and Pistol Teams.

3-A Team Member
Duncan was a member of the six-man Third Army "Gold" Team which won the over-all Army team championship, the shot range team match and the 600-yard team match.

ompanied with shooters, averaging about 10 years of competitive firing experience.

Receives Top Awards
In ceremonies winding up the two-week All-Army Matches at Fort Benning, June 7, Duncan received both the all-around individual rifle trophy and the new shooter rifle trophy.

Medics, 151st Win ICTC Goes Unbeaten In Season's 2nd Half

The Infantry Center Troopizing single to "Deacon" Command's hard hitting rifle team continued their winning ways as Fort Benning play resumed June 4, night when they clouted the 151st Tank Battalion 10-2 under the lights at Gowdy Field.

In other games during the week, the 5th Medics edged the 14th Infantry in a 16-inning endurance contest, 3-2, while the 151st Engineers scored their first triumph of the second semester of competition, beating the 29th Infantry 2-2.

The undaunted Troop Command chief presented their foes of the 28th Tank Battalion an early 2-0 margin before their bats exploded in the third inning.

Sparkplug Joe Re initiated the four run third inning rally, beginning a night of reaching base four consecutive times and scoring three times.

Adding on to the run production, the victors scored once in the fifth, four more times in the sixth and a wind-up tally in the seventh frame.

Pfizer Dick Murray, following his allowing of two runs on two hits in the second frame, did not yield another hit for the remainder of the contest.

72nd Engr. Drub Co. D by 27-5 In 14th Softball

In the Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, softball action last week the 72nd Engineers defeated Company D by a 27-5 score and also received a forfeit victory from Company B to remain in second place behind Company C in the league standings.

The 87th Chemical Company split two games last week as they defeated Company A by a 9-4 count while losing to Company B earlier in the week by the score of 11-5. Other games were canceled due to military commitments and will be made up later.

DROLL DRIVES ONE HOME . . . Bennie Droll, 82nd Airborne Division's boxing coach, chalks up another victory June 5 in Municipal Auditorium at Columbus as TKO's Tony Negro of Miami in the sixth round. Droll, who is scheduled to fight Holly Mims, fifth ranked middleweight, on June 17 at Charlotte, N.C., will meet Jake Lamotta in August.

Stephen Brown Tourney Rated Success May 30

The Memorial Day Pro-Air Tournament was a great success. There were 88 entries and the competition was strong.

Matches

Thank you for continuing to be so good only for the two "place" positions. The only actual competition offered the scorching "Gold" team was that of the Third Army "White" team in the Short Range Team Match when the "White" racked up a score of 870 to take second place behind the "Gold" 874.

Leading the individual onslaught by Third Army marksmen was Fort Benning's Sgt. Herbert Duncan of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry. Duncan not only gained the 1958 Army Individual Rifle Championship but the 600-yard individual championship and the trophy for the National Rifle Match as well.

A third championship was just barely missed by Duncan who was placed second to the 1958 Norman Skarpness by a scant two points. Skarpness, from the 10th Infantry Division, placed second to Duncan in the Individual Championship by one point. Both riflemen were mainstays of the red-hot "Gold" Team.

Third Army's Eugene House topped all comers in the Combined Rapid Fire Match and Sgt. Reitz copied the trophy for the 600-Yard Team Match to run the Third Army total of individual and team wins to 10 out of 11.

On the pistol ranges, Fort Campbell's M-Sgt. James W. Surra won the coveted Army's 1958 Individual Pistol Championship in addition to the Center Fire Pistol National Match. A third crown was won by the Third Army "Blue" Pistol Team when it galloped in the Center Fire Pistol Championship. Three match first places were also added to the total bag by the Third Army when Fort Bragg's Sgt. John Lingle won the Center Fire Pistol National Match.

Li Col. Kenneth Crawford of the SIA Section is having some trouble getting matches these days. He claims a 13 hour, a week or so ago him. Howard Hubrock to give him three strokes a side. Ken's 78 was left indelible marks on Howard's wallet and the other members of Ken's regular four some have suddenly developed the deep interest in fishing.

Just got room for the story about the blustering arrogant fellow who told one and all on the first tie low he was going to burn up the course. Several of the 18 holes later, as he was adding up his 100 plus score, he remarked to his caddy, "This is a funny game and I'm not playing it." "Yes sir," replied the caddy, "it is. But it wasn't meant to be."

Duncan

Command matches this spring he averaged six Credits Coaches

The 29th new champ credited his increasingly better scores to the coaching he has received from the Third Army Rifle Team and the improved rifles and equipment utilized on the higher level firing.

He singled out Sgt. William L. Griffin, coach of the "Gold" team for praise. Griffin, on temporary duty with the rifle team, is a fellow member of the 29th Infantry.

Sgt. Duncan modestly credited some of his success to good competition. At the starting of this year with each higher level of competition. At the starting of this level March, he did not finish among the top five rifle men in Infantry-School Troop Command competition. In past level competition, he won the novice class rifle championship with a score of 79-40V out of a possible 85.

In Third Army individual competition finished 40 places behind the number one man, Sgt. Norman Skarpness, a member of the 10th Infantry's Marksmanship Unit. Duncan beat Skarpness by one point and is 16 in the All-Army contest.

The past week Duncan averaged a score of 245 out of a possible 250 points on seven occasions. Previously he had bettered the 250 mark only twice, and in the initial School Troop

Women Elect '58 Officers

New officers for the 1958 season were elected recently at a meeting of the Fort Benning Women's Golf Association, which Margie Carter named chairman of the group.

Jeanne Nelson was picked as co-chairman while Betty D. Lewis was named secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Carter appointed several committees to help during the forthcoming season.

The various committees and their heads include: hospitality, Sequel Wood; Ladies Day tourneys, Miami Roush; beginners group, Betty Hargrave; tournaments, Anne Burnam; telephone, Jeanne Nelson and Carol Dillon; trophy, Irene Curtis; ringer, Martha Volentine; publicity, Anne Bumann.

It was also decided that activities would continue through the summer months. A ringer tourney was started the first of the week and will continue through Aug. 24. All members are urged to participate.

On Ladies Day at the Benning Country Club course, a tournament will be held with play beginning at 9 o'clock. Each Thursday, a beginner's tourney will be held at the same time.

Sunday, a scotch foursome is scheduled with tee off time between 12 and 2 o'clock. Anyone needing a partner for the action is requested to contact Benning pro Paul Bumann.

Monthly coffees are also held by the group, at 8 on the last Wednesday of each month.

CHAMPION FENCER HERMAN VELASCO Seeks Birth On World Championship Team

Velasco to Compete In National Fencing

The School Brigade's All-American fencer 2nd Lt. Herman Velasco, will compete in the National Fencing Championships June 28 through July 5 in New York City.

The former All-American star and NCAA individual champion will compete in the foil division against competition from this country and perhaps even from other parts of the world. A win in this match will virtually assure a participant a place on the team that will represent the U.S. in the forthcoming World Championships to be held in Philadelphia later this summer.

Regan Feasick Early, Lt. Velasco, who is executive officer of the 2nd Company, Student Battalion, has been active in fencing since his high school days in Chicago. At the University of Illinois, under the capable coaching of fencing master Maxwell Gardner, Velasco was named All-American for three years, won both the Big Ten and the NCAA Individual Championships, and was named the United States champion.

For World Shooting
41 Participating In Final Tryouts

Forty-one members of Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit are participating in the final tryouts which will compete in the World Championship Rifle and Pistol Matches at Moscow in August.

The tryouts, sponsored by the National Rifle Association, began June 9 and continue through June 26 at the AMU ranges, Col. (Ret.) Perry D. Swindler, U.S. Team captain, will conduct the tryouts.

Top Contender

AMU rifleman 1st Lt. Daniel B. Fucker is a top contender for a place on the U.S. International team.

He won both small-bore and free rifle events at recent preliminary tryouts and in the free rifle match he fired 1128 out of a possible 1200 to set a national record.

Four AMU pistol shooters, have good chances of making the slow fire national team. They are SFC Nelson H. Lincoln, M. Sgt. H. L. "Joe" Benner, M. Sgt. William Blankenship, Jr. and Sgt. William Blankenship, Jr.

Also taking part in this event are Sgt. Arthur Olsen, CWO Victor E. Mass, and 1st Lt. David Miller.

1st Lt. Miller and 1st Lt. David Caries both have exceeded the world record in the rapid fire pistol event.

Other AMU shooters to compete in the rapid fire tryouts are Sgt. Benner, Sgt. Blankenship, SFC Aubrey Smith, Sgt. Curtis, and 1st Lt. Joseph Decker, and M-Sgt. Marvin Fitzpatrick.

Brigade Gets '58 Olympic Hockey Star

This year's goal for the U.S. Olympic hockey team, which toured Europe, the U.S. and Canada is among the students in The Infantry School's basic officers course at Fort Benning.

Second Lt. Donald E. Uta, assigned to 22nd Company, Second Student Battalion of the School, arrived at the University of Minnesota where he received three varsity letters for hockey before joining the team.

The Olympic team was composed of young athletes from colleges and universities throughout the nation.

They placed fifth in the World's Championships held at Oslo, Norway. Other countries which visited the U.S. were Czechoslovakia and East Germany. In Russia, members of the team were taken on a tour through the Kremlin and were flown to Czechoslovakia on one of the USSR's new jet airliners.

All in all, said Lt. Uta, "it was the greatest experience I have ever had. It was something that you could not find in books."

Rabbi to Assist Jewish Services June Thru Aug.

Rabbi Alfred L. Goodman of Temple Israel in Columbus, will assist in conducting services for Jewish personnel at Fort Benning during June, July and August.

A former chaplain of World War II, Rabbi Goodman will conduct services at the Jewish Center, Building 191 in the hospital area, at 8 p.m. on June 13, July 11 and August 15.

He will serve in the temporary absence of a Jewish chaplain at the Infantry center.

Chaplain (1st Lt.) Murray J. Leyer has returned to his home after completing his tour of active duty with the Army. A Jewish chaplain is expected to arrive at Fort Benning in September, according to the Infantry Center's Chaplain Section.

Regular weekly services will be held at 8 p.m. Friday evenings at the Jewish Center by Jewish personnel on the post.

Breakfast Slated By Brotherhood

On June 15 the Fort Benning Brotherhood of St. Andrew is sponsoring a father-son breakfast at which the honored guests will be Bishop (Ret.) Robert E. Gribben, bishop of Western North Carolina.

Bishop Gribben will be at St. Michael's Episcopal Mission to confirm 16 members. He will celebrate Holy Communion at 8 a.m. and will join the fathers and sons at breakfast at 9 a.m. on the mission lawn.

Gen. Dabney Observes All-Army Firing Finals

Major Gen. John A. Dabney, chief of Infantry at Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., visited Fort Benning last week to observe the final matches in the All-Army rifle and pistol competition. He was accompanied by Col. C. T. Rodgers, British Army liaison officer at CONARC, who will observe operations on Infantry Board, Infantry School and Staff Department activities.

Major Gen. John A. Dabney, chief of Infantry at Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., visited Fort Benning last week to observe the final matches in the All-Army rifle and pistol competition. He was accompanied by Col. C. T. Rodgers, British Army liaison officer at CONARC, who will observe operations on Infantry Board, Infantry School and Staff Department activities.

They were welcomed at Fort Benning by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center. Col. Max F. Schneider, commander of TIC Troop Command, and Col. Edward C. Mason, commander of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit.

Broke Olympic Score

'Little Things' Helped Lincoln Top Record

Sgt. Nelson H. Lincoln, who shattered the Olympic pistol record recently at Fort Benning, said he did it by "paying more attention to details." The Army sergeant, from Flapstaff, Ariz., fired 570 out of a possible 600 points in the All-Army Rifle and Pistol Championships to top the 559 Olympic slow fire record held by T. Ullma of Sweden.

Only minutes before Sgt. Lincoln posted his record score, M-Sgt. H. L. "Joe" Bennett, U. S. Military Academy pistol coach, fired 566 out of 600 to exceed Ullman's record. "So the pressure was on," Lincoln said. "I was just one of those days when everything was going right," Sgt. Lincoln said. "I just couldn't make a mistake."

When everything was going right," Sgt. Lincoln said. "I just couldn't make a mistake." Sgt. Lincoln, a member of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, fired 24 shots in the "10-ring" (bull's-eye) the size of a silver dollar, put 24 in the "nine ring" and shot only four "eights."

Only through constant analysis of his own shooting and correction of bad shooting habits has he been able to shoot this record score. "I went back to fundamentals and began correcting the little mistakes which had crept into my shooting through the years," he explained. "I adopted a more careful stance and changed the way I put my finger on the trigger. It's just been the little things that have increased my scores," Sgt. Lincoln added.

When he shot the record 570 score, he said he didn't even know what his score was. "I was concentrating so much on shooting one shot at a time that I couldn't tell you what my score was," he pointed out. "I knew I had a good score, but I didn't know how good."

The A&M shooter fires in short groups. He said this helps to ease the pressure. On the firing line when he's not

Firers Hear Gen. Ruffner At Ceremony

The role of the Infantry soldier and the man with a rifle plays no small part in the modern Army. This was the message of Gen. Clark L. Ruffner, commanding general of Third Army, at a ceremony at Fort Benning's Main Theater.

In presenting the awards to the team and individual victors of the highly competitive two-week tournament, Gen. Ruffner expressed the opinion that with modern equipment to produce weapons of vast destruction, wars will be limited engagements. With the recent planning of STRAC for immediate combat engagement, the Army must ensure the rifleman is still the man expected to isolate the battle.

The Third Army commander asserted that for those reasons, the Army must continue to improve the U. S. Army Pistol and Rifle matches are considered of great importance to the U. S. Army. Gen. Ruffner opened his remarks by congratulating his competitors with a congratulatory note from Gen. W. G. Wyman, commander of Continental Army Command, who commended the pistol and rifle shooters for their keen sense of competition and particularly the winners and many runners-up.

Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, introduced Gen. Ruffner, and also praised the men who competed in the rifle and pistol matches. "The ceremonies provided an appropriate conclusion for the U. S. Army's Rifle and Pistol Championships held at Fort Benning from Army installations all over the world," he said. "It was a great honor to be here for these 19th anniversary operating ceremonies featuring an address by Gen. Freeman."

Army Aviation Marks 16th Birthday After Lifelong Fight

(Thank you for continuing) After discussing naval gunfire from battleships, and conducting reconnaissance missions, he landed his plane on the ground. The first such plane built to combat specifications was the L-15. When it didn't prove satisfactory in all its field tests, the L-16 military version of the Aeronca Chief was developed.

The infamous "sky-book" has even been employed by the Army Aviators to accomplish landings in impossible places. The Brodie Device, developed by Lt. James Brodie, combined a face "hook" on top of the wings of the plane and a running "loop" suspended on a cable stretched between the loading booms of a merchant vessel. The pilot had to fly during the war. There were only two cargo helicopter companies active during the Korea war, but they proved themselves invaluable in evacuating wounded and supplying front lines.

The expansion in the missions assigned Army aviation, and the arrival of the helicopter in family of aircraft, created problems that had to be solved. To meet this need, a provisional aviation company was formed. Until this time, the standard organization was a small section dependent upon the parent unit for administration and logistical support. The provisional company was organized to be completely self-supporting and capable of its own independent administration.

Grouping all of the aircraft under one centralized command and assigning missions as they were requested insured strict adherence to the principles of employment, and yet maintained a higher degree of flexibility than had previously existed.

Army aircraft have operated in nearly every type of terrain and climate within the same degree of success and resourcefulness. During the invasion of Southern Europe, flight decks were constructed on the docks of LSTs. The flight deck had to start forward of the superstructure of the ship, making it impossible to return to the ship for landing. Once the L-4 was launched, it had to carry out its mission and then land somewhere ashore. One fine description to be carried by an Artillery spot team out of this action when Lt. Julian W. Cummings took off from one of the LSTs for the coast of southern France.

June 12-14 at Bragg Cindermen Compete In Third Army Meet

Fifteen Fort Benning track and field men will compete this week in the Third Army meet, scheduled June 12-14 at Fort Bragg, N.C. Heading the list of stellar doughboy athletes is Jim M. Brown, former all American football ace at Syracuse University, and the National Football League's top backfield man last season as a rookie in the tough, rough, pro loop. Brown has asserted himself as ideally this spring for the Fort Benning track club. Participating in the high jump, discus and shot put, the all-around athlete walked off with firsts in every track meet this season, with a splattering of seconds and thirds.

WELCOME 10th DIVISION!

A Signal Corps open house at Fort Benning will highlight the 98th anniversary of the founding of the U. S. Army's Signal Corps June 21, 1860. The Signal Corps anniversary of the Army's communication nerve center will keynote the forward strides of the Corps in research and development in the fields of improved electronics, communications and photographic equipment for the Armed Services.

Recognition Ceremony Honoring the Signal Corps on the 98th anniversary of its founding which will be observed by signal installations and troop units throughout the world, officials of the Infantry Center and Infantry School will attend a recognition ceremony by the honor guard at Chapel Field June 20 at 5:30 p.m. The open house to which the public is invited is sponsored by the Infantry Center Signal Section which supplies communication service and supervision to all signal units at Fort Benning. Displays will include modern Signal Corps equipment.

Pakistani Army Officer
Infantry School Enrolls 5,000th Allied Student
A Pakistani Army officer, Lt. Col. Muhammad Ishaq, recently became the 5,000th allied student to attend the Infantry School since the program began in 1956. One of 10 Pakistani students taking courses at the Infantry School, Col. Ishaq is in the U. S. for the first time to take the school's advance officers course. He is a member of class No. 3 scheduled to graduate Dec. 18. Commissioned from The Pakistani Military Academy in June, 1942, Col. Ishaq served in the Burma Theater during World War II and was cited for conspicuous service during operations.

He was graduated from the Command and Staff College in Quetta in 1950 and served as a brigade major for two years with an active Infantry brigade. Before coming to Fort Benning he was assistant adjutant general in general headquarters, Pakistan Army. Following outbreak of the Korean conflict a Mutual Assistance Program was established to implement the foreign aid program. The system provided for the training of Allied officers and enlisted men from countries throughout the world.

Benning to Open Reservist Camp

Nearly 8,000 ROTC cadets and Army Reservists are scheduled to train at Fort Benning this summer. The 1958 Reserve Officer Training Corps camp for approximately 1,400 cadets will open with official ceremonies June 29 in the Gregory Church area. The camp ends Aug. 1.

Teague to Speak June 21

U. S. Rep. Olin Teague, Democrat from Texas' Sixth Congressional District, will be the featured speaker June 21 at dedication of the Infantry Officer Candidate Hall of Fame. The OCS Hall of Fame will be called Wigle Hall in honor of the late 2nd Lt. Thomas W. Wigle, Medal of Honor winner who distinguished himself in combat during World War II.

Rep. Teague, Rep. Charles E. Bennett, Democrat, Florida's Second Congressional District, and Carl Elliot, Democrat, Alabama's Seventh Congress, will be the other speakers. The advanced party for the ROTC camp arrived two weeks ago. The cadre, officers and non-commissioned officers who conducted the camp arrived June 11.

Reservists will be satellite in light medical, transportation, artillery and engineer support units at Fort Benning. However, the theme for Reservists this year is to conduct their operations as independently as possible, according to official plans.

Civilian Component
Reserve training at the post is under the direction of the Civilian Component Section at the Infantry Center, commanded by Lt. Col. W. J. Gillespie. The Civilian Component Section will supply a special staff for the ROTC camp and will have the responsibility for overall training of Reserve component units and schools.

23 Universities
The 1,400 ROTC cadets will represent 23 colleges and universities. Arriving from Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Florida, South Carolina, Connecticut, Texas and Puerto Rico, the student cadets will be billeted in the Harmony Church area.

CG Urges AER Support

Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., commanding general of the Infantry Center, in a letter concerning the annual fund campaign for the Army Emergency Relief—Army Relief Society, has urged all unit commanders to give personal and vigorous support to the campaign in order that the established goal of $22,600 may be reached. The sum asked of the personnel of Fort Benning is relatively small when the amount of assistance rendered during the past year is considered. During 1957 loans totaling $16,817 and grants were $1,685.

The Army Emergency Relief—Army Relief Society renders financial assistance under varying types of emergencies and is immediately available to military personnel of Fort Benning and their dependents. This assistance is rendered in the form of loans or grants from Army Emergency Relief Funds in bona fide cases of need.

Lt. Col. Adams Receives Certificate

Lt. Col. Jonathan E. Adams, Jr., chairman of the Editorial Committee of the Infantry School Department of Non-Resident Instruction, has been awarded a certificate of achievement for outstanding performance of duty.

The certificate, signed by Major Gen. Paul L. Evesman, Jr., commander of the Infantry School, was presented by Col. Robert S. Cain, director of the Non-Resident Instruction Department.

Assigned to Alaska, Col. Adams who has been assigned to Eielson Air Force Base, U.S. Army Forces Alaska, was cited for outstanding service as chairman of the Editorial Committee from Aug. 1, 1956, to June 4, 1958.

The citation cited Col. Adams' leadership, initiative, imagination and determination in directing the military and civilian personnel under his supervision in their writing, editing, planning and processing of all non-resident instruction.

national material assigned to the committee.

The certificate reads in part: "With efficiency and dispatch he revised the Army Pre-Commissioned Extension Course Program to more closely parallel resident instruction and to reflect current reorganization of combat Infantry division organization."

Col. Adams also was commended for his supervision of the compilation of the Guide for Preparation of Non-Resident Instructional Material which resulted in a style manual of "incalculable worth" to the editors and writers of the "Editorial Committee".

The citation noted that his professional knowledge and experience enabled him to contribute materially to the successful operation of the committee and that he exemplified the Infantry School's policy of "letting the Infantry School" upon himself and the U. S. Army Infantry School."

Signal

(Thank you for continuing) In Columbus where Fort Benning signal equipment is on display through June 30.

A second display of signal radio and mobile equipment will open June 18 at the Columbus Traffic Circle Shopping Center. The display will continue through June 30.

Briefings Included in the program for the Signal Corps open house are briefings for visitors to the Communications Department of the Infantry School behind the Main Theater.

Each Signal Corps display will evidence the scientific development of the corps since its beginning in 1909 and its establishment as a separate branch of the Army by Congress in 1963. The first signal officer was Major Albert J. Myer, an Army surgeon whose interest in the dead led him to study sign languages. He was later a brigadier general.

Helicopter Display On view at Stillwell Field will be a Lawson Army Airfield helicopter for a demonstration of signal equipment that is installed in Army aircraft. Visitors also will view the mobile switchboard and the military police speed check machine as well as the latest mobile radio and teletype signal equipment.

The Radiosonde equipment used by meteorologists to find actual temperatures and the Calibrator Van placed in 36 passenger bus will be demonstrated. The Calibrator Van is used to set standards for calibrating signal corps maintenance instruments.

Photographic minded visitors will be able to view the latest Signal Corps mobile photo laboratory.

A tape recorder and the two-way radio on military police messians will be another display. Visitors desiring to contact friends via messages sent over MARS (Military Affiliate Radio Station) will be invited to send messages over transmitters at Briant Wells Field House. There is no charge for this service.

Arrangements of Signal Corps displays at the open house are under direction of Col. Braxton E. Small, Infantry Center signal officer. He is assisted by Major Howard K. Merriam, signal operator of officer. Capt. Joseph Zulewski, signal officer, is chairman of the Fort Benning Signal Committee for the 50th anniversary. Capt. L. Charles W. Marsh is publicity chairman of the Signal Corps open house.

5,000th

(Thank you for continuing) Baghdad Pact and the International Defense Board.

The first Allied students were graduated Aug. 30, 1950. Since that time, 5,000 Allied students from 38 different countries have participated in practically every leader-type course offered by the Infantry School.

In addition to the Mutual Assistance Program, there is a non-military plan by which countries not receiving military aid from the U. S. can send students to the Infantry School. Under this plan 18 countries assume the expenses of their personnel.

Carefully chosen The Allied personnel are trained in the use of American equipment and methods to return to their own countries as instructors or key staff officers and to prepare them to work in any joint efforts between the U. S. and various countries. The students are carefully chosen for their potential ability to impart knowledge gained from their course to their own units and service schools. They must pass the same rigid examinations given to U. S. Students.

Watch Out for Your Kids

Fort Benning safety and medical officials renewed requests to parents this week for greater alertness and exercise of care with reference to hazards affecting children.

The renewed emphasis is being directed because of a continued increase in cases of drugs and chemicals being reached by small children.

Officials cite the dangerous practice of parents who leave smaller children in cars, lock the car, and close all the windows. This practice can leave to possible suffocation of the child before the parents return.

Officials urge parents in the Capehart Housing area to safeguard children who play on the streets in that area.

Both sides of the streets in the housing area is used to park cars. This increases the danger for children playing on these streets are cautioned that care of their children while playing on these streets will prevent accidents to their children.

'First Line of Defense'

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Army's forces deployed around the Free World's perimeter constitute the nation's combat-ready "first line of defense."

Backing up the "First Line of Defense" at home is the highly-mobile, swift-striking, infantry-airborne combination—STRAC. Called the "fire-brigade," STRAC elements are on constant 24-hour alert to move out and help snuff out Communist fires before they get started.

An Army spokesman said Communist strategy can be compared to that of a prize fighter who has both a paralyzing right hand punch and superb boxing skill. Up against an opponent with the same equipment in the Free World, the Communists are content to use the jab and hook rather than the big right hand in hopes of taking the bout by decision.

However, the Communists have met their match in the Free World's great championship combination which includes the lethal right hand of STRAC and the staying power and winning capacity of the U.S. Army's "First Line of Defense."

Communist aggression can go far with the tough, well-trained soldiers of the "First Line of Defense" and STRAC, who have the footwork, variety of punches, and stamina to "go the distance," barring the way.

Recognize This Man?

Do you recognize this man? He has to be a leader of a group or he quits. He shifts from one job to another. He likes to be the clown. He talks superficially on many subjects. He favors eccentric dress. He likes sports only as a spectator. He is very conscious of his physique. He has a roving eye. He likes to fix his car himself.

This fellow, according to a Canadian psychiatrist, is the typical accident-prone driver. The findings, as reported to the Massachusetts Medical Society recently, are based on studies of 20 accident-high and 20 accident-low drivers.

If you know any people with all these characteristics, better steer clear. Literally, if you happen to have any of them yourself, you'd better start steering a bit more carefully. (AFPS)

Chaplain's Corner

BY CHAPLAIN (MAJOR) LECTER J. HOUGHTON... There are always those whose way of life is to prey on the weakness, misfortune or in-luck of others.

The spider rushed down the web and began spinning new strands around the legs and body of the victim. The more he spun the faster he spun.

For some moments afterward I sat thinking of how often this tragic drama is enacted with a change of cast. Instead of spider and beetle, the parts of victor and victim are given to those of the hapless.

The Judge Says...

A great many people, including lawyers, go through life and die without making a will. This may, at times, be intentional, but usually it is because of negligence or carelessness.

As a practical matter, in our so-called modern times, the average person may have very little property to pass under a will.

Reduced to its most simple terms, a will is just a means of saying who you want to have your property after you die.

It would be to your benefit to discuss your estate plan and the drafting and execution of a will with your legal adviser.

Life insurance payable to a specific beneficiary is paid, of course, without regard to the provisions of a will.

A will may be very important, however, for any number of reasons. A person may own valuable property in his own name.

Gen. Freeman Says Infantry's Role Vital

The indispensable role of the Infantry in any potential conflict was stressed by Major Gen. Paul L. Freeman, commander of the Infantry School, in welcoming the U. S. Military Academy Class of 1960 to Fort Benning June 15 for a six-day orientation on Infantry tactics and procedures.

"We're not trying to train you as Infantrymen," he told the visitors. "We are showing you what the Infantry does and trying to convince you that the Infantry is forward holding and challenging." Gen. Freeman asserted.

"In the Infantry we require leaders of men. The American Infantryman deserves the best we can give him in the field of leadership. Infantry leaders must be alert, aggressive and able to make sound decisions under the stress of combat," he added.

Following Gen. Freeman's talk, the cadets were briefed on the scope, activities and operation of the Infantry School by Col. Norman B. Edwards, the school's director of instruction.

Discussing future warfare, Gen. Freeman emphasized "The Infantryman will be on the ground floor. To assist the Infantry soldier whose vital job it is to seize and hold ground, the Infantry has developed 'new tactics' . . .

Army OKs New Interchangeable Headgear Frame

WASHINGTON (ANS) — Department of Army has taken a significant step forward in its uniform program with the recent adoption of a service cap frame with interchangeable green, blue and white covers for optional purchase and wear by officers and warrant officers.

The new interchangeable type service cap will afford officers considerable convenience while traveling and cost less than two of the caps if they are purchased separately.

Some officers are presently required to own two and in some cases three different uniforms with associated caps. The three interchangeable covers and cap frame can do the job.

Group Checking Communication

PORT BRAGO, N. C. (AP)—The Second Air Battle Group here has uncorked a new unofficial "secret" weapon.

In an experiment in unofficial, oral communications, "Rock" fig. each day selects and passes a phrase; the test is to determine the speed with which it reaches the men in the rifle companies.

The phrase, usually pertaining to the unit's history, is not announced or disseminated officially.

The program tests the reliability with which the Group could put word-of-mouth communications to use in combat, and also attempts to determine how fast rumors could spread. As a bonus, it brings to mind famous days in the 82nd's history.

EM Won't Lose Prestige In New Grades for Army

(Thank You For Continuing) Commanders, however, are authorized to waive half of the time-in-grade requirement for E-8, which means that those who have outstanding records of leadership or technical skill can be promoted to the top rank after eight months as an E-8.

The Army said adjustments of the time-in-grade rule will enhance the role of sergeant major by making it the highest rank, E-9.

Improve the position of first sergeant and elevate the title of master sergeant by moving both to E-6.

Upgrade the platoon sergeant title by establishing it in grade E-7.

Re-introduce the traditional title of staff sergeant.

Enhance the role of E-6 and E-7 by increasing their "significance" by virtue of fewer numbers wearing the insignia.

Eliminate the "back-sergeant" rank by abolishing a first sergeant title in the same grade and reviving the time-honored rank of "back sergeant."

For all specialist grades, the new insignia has been enlarged but retains the identifying "shape."

Although the revamped grade structure will necessitate a switch in stripes for many enlisted personnel, the Army said "there will be no immediate required date on which this change must be made."

Plans for promotions to the new super-grade call for 3,500 E-9s and 11,000 E-8s by the end of fiscal year 1962 (June 30, 1962), according to military personnel officials. Based on the present number in grade E-7, almost one in three career sergeants will be promoted to the new grades.

This phase-in over the next four years will build up to yearly ceilings of grades E-9 and E-8, respectively, as follows: 1959 — 800 and 2,500; 1960 — 1,500 and 5,000; 1961 — 2,500 and 8,000; 1962 — 3,500 and 11,000.

Appointments to the two top grades will be made on a "best qualified" basis. Selections to E-9 will require 18 years active service and 18 months in grade E-8. For E-8, the active service requirement is 15 years and 14 months in grade E-7.

Between now and next September 30, E-8 promotions will be limited to first sergeants and sergeants major through Department of Army allotment to major commands and the technical services. A quota for 40 E-8s already has been issued.

Officers reverting to enlisted status will not be offered grades E-8 or E-9, the Army said, explaining that present law provides for reversion only to the highest grade held prior to commissioning.

Allies Must Believe In Ground Strength

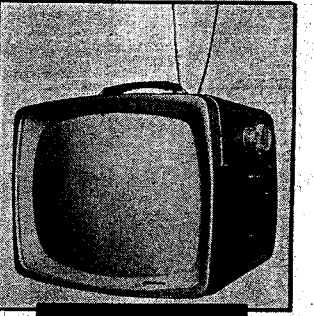

The Army's chief of staff has said that Army forces deployed overseas must be sufficiently strong to convince our allies of our will and ability to contribute substantially to their defense and to convince any aggressor that a forward movement in important strategic areas will be blocked on the ground long enough to permit our heavy atomic weapons to destroy hostile forces since the objective of aggression—ANS.

Each of these events will reflect the glorious heritage of the Corps of Engineers which dates back to June 16, 1772, when the Continental Congress passed a resolution providing for one chief engineer of the Grand Army, with two assistants.

At the onset of the Revolutionary War, the need was (arose) for military engineers who had knowledge of construction, attack and defense of fortified places. Because of the lack of engineering qualifications among the troops of the Continental Army and the resultant shortage of engineers, Gen. George Washington's plan for an organized and well-trained unit of engineers was answered on Dec. 27, 1776, when Congress passed a resolution authorizing him to organize a Corps of Engineers.

The first mission of the Corps was to increase the combat power of the field forces by works of construction and destruction. This mission, though it remains basic to the engineers, has since then been expanded to coincide with the ever-increasingly modern methods of warfare.

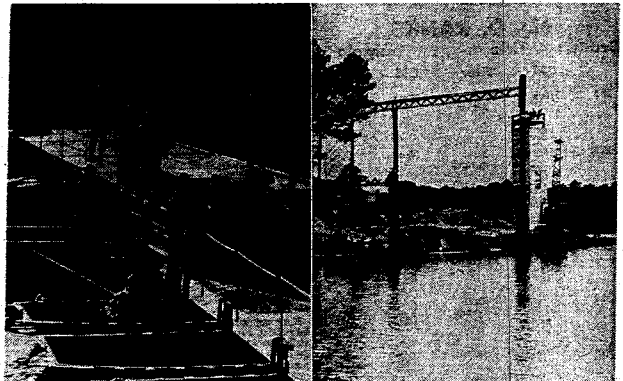

At the time of the adoption of the present U. S. constitution, Congress passed an act in 1794 providing for a corps of artificers and engineers for a term of three years. An act of March 15, 1802, separated the artificers and the engineers, and present Corps of Engineers was given responsibility of the then newly-established Military Academy at West Point. The Military Academy, which was the nation's first engineer school, remained under the corps until July 13, 1826, when it was passed to the Army at large.

After the close of the War of 1812, in which the engineers gained an inestimable amount of distinction, the first engineer combat nature for the corps was the 1,600 mile Alcan Highway. Against rugged obstacles of sweltering mud, swamps and supply difficulties, engineer soldiers completed the project ahead of schedule.

One of the Engineers' greatest challenges had to be met during the Korean War. The rugged mountainous areas of Korea had to be tamed to the extent that U.S. forces could cope with the vastly superior numbers of the North Korean troops. On numerous occasions engineers stored their equipment in the rear areas and moved to the front lines to plug the holes.

A major problem of the engineers was to keep the rail road lines within railroad distance of the rapidly advancing U. N. Forces.

The Corps of Engineers of today, in peacetime again, are still on the job, striving to always be prepared to share its load as a combat arm of Armed Forces.

At Fort Benning, the 151st Engineer Group (Combat) is observing its fourth anniversary.

paid, to Omaha Beach where it landed on June 17, 1944, across France and Germany until the end of the War in Europe found it at Gielser, Germany. The 115th had an enviable combat record during World War II and particularly distinguished itself in river crossing operations at St. Lo, Vire, the Seine, the Meuse, and the Roer, it received campaign streamers for its operations in Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, and Central Europe. These campaign streamers now fly as part of the colors of the 151st.

Headquarters and Service Company, 115th Engineer Combat Group, was returned to the United States after the War and inactivated on Nov. 28, 1945, at Camp Kilmer, N. J. It was redesignated Headquarters and Service Company, 151st Engineer Group (Combat) and allotted to the Regular Army on June 11, 1949.

Headquarters and Headquarter Group (Combat), was activated on Jan. 5, 1955, at Fort Benning, with Col. Louis W. Snyder as commander.

The recorded concert at the Main Library June 23 at 7:30 p.m. will feature the New York Philharmonic Cello Quartet in a concert of selected compositions for four cellos.

Thoroughly the history of music one of the most vital concerns of musicians and composers has been the blend and unity of musical instruments in performance. Yet it has been left to our own times to discover the rewarding, satisfying sound of a quartet of cellos.

B-52 Costs $50 a Pound

WASHINGTON (AP)—A B-52 bomber is worth more than its weight in silver, according to a Defense Department logistics expert.

The Air Force's lethal 106-ton intercontinental bomber also costs 22 times that of a WWII B-17, Perkins McGuire, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics) recently disclosed in Detroit, Mich.

"A stack of dollar bills as high as the Washington monument wouldn't pay for one of today's modern jets," Mr. McGuire said in citing the mounting costs of the nation's new defense weapons.

During WWII the cost of aircraft averaged about $16 a pound. This price jumped to $25 in the Korean conflict, it now runs about $50 a pound, but is expected to climb to about $80 in the next few years.

"A missile costs more per pound than a pound of platinum," Mr. McGuire declared.

Death Claims Father Duffy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A famed survivor of the infamous Bataan "death march," the Rev. John Edward Duffy, died in Letterman Veterans' Hospital at the age of 88.

Father Duffy, during his service in the Philippines, was chaplain to the late Gen. Jonathan Wainwright who commanded American forces at the time of their surrender to the Japanese in 1942.

Bayoneted and left to die, he was saved by Filipino guerrillas, later recaptured by the Japanese, and as their prisoner survived the sinking of two ships.

The heroic priest, whose decorations included the Purple Heart with five oak leaf clusters, was former National Chaplain of the American Legion.

The sergeant raised his eyebrows. "Come again?"

"Ng," the soldier reiterated. And that's his name. Pvt. Khun T. Ng, US5414284, Company C, 826th Tank Battalion, Company C believes this Chinese-American lad has the shortest name in the Army, and invites competition.

Ng, in case you're wondering, is pronounced "in-goo."

TIS Briefs 4 Ethiopians

Four key officers of the Ethiopian Army visited Fort Benning for a three-day look at Infantry School methods of instruction last week.

The party included Brig. Gen. Tedla Makonnen, commander of the Second Infantry Division; Brig. Gen. Wakjira Serda, J-1 (personnel officer) of the Ethiopian Ground Force; Col. Dereessa Dubate, commander of the Third Infantry Division; and Lt. Col. Gabre-Michael G. Tsadik, commander of the Ninth Infantry Brigade.

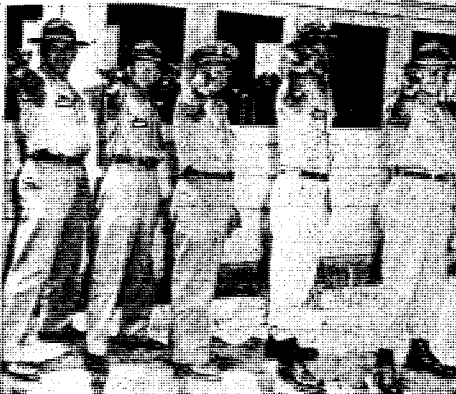

The Allied officers were presented Infantry School "Follow Me" pins during a conference with Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, deputy commanding general of the Infantry Center, and were honored at an official luncheon June 12 in the Main Officers' Mess.

Their itinerary included demonstrations of officer candidate (intelligence officer) at work, small-unit task forces, airborne and Ranger training and leaders reaction testing. They left the post June 14. First Lt. William G. Willoughby of The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department, was the protocol officer.

Gen. Tedla's party began its three-week tour of the U.S. June 1. The schedule includes visits to Washington, D.C., U.S. Naval Base, Norfolk, Va., Langley Air Force Base, Va., Fort Bragg, N.C., Fort Dix, N.J., and National Guard, U.S. Army Reserve and ROTC units in New York City.

U. S. Seeks Pentathlon Competitors

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Texas (ANS) — U. S. Modern Pentathlon officials are looking around for potential team candidates in hopes of strengthening the squad now in training here for the important international competitions later this year.

The U. S. Pentathlon team is expected to enter the World Championships in Almedalen, England, next October, the 1958 Pan American Games in Chicago and the 1958 Olympic Games in Rome.

It is no secret that the squad's immediate goal is to better the nation's fifth place finish in the 1957 World Championships at Stockholm, Sweden, where Russia swept team and individual honors.

Traditionally the military event of the Olympic Games, the Modern Pentathlon is a compelling test of a man's ability in five events — riding, shooting, fencing, swimming, and running.

A former member of the Pentathlon Olympic team, Capt. Fred Fourth Army Chief of Staff, Major General Peter C. Hains says, "To be considered a man should be able to run the two-mile run in 10 minutes and 15 seconds and swim 400 meters in 4 minutes and 30 seconds. Athletes who are well qualified in these events can get good instruction and a reasonable amount of time to become proficient in the rest."

The U. S. Modern Pentathlon team varsity will be made up of three competitors and one alternate. Team members carry their berets during trials which precede each international competition. Although the U. S. has produced several excellent Pentathlon teams, it has yet to win a first place in Olympic competition.

Squad berets are open to both civilians and members of all branches of the service. Civilian athletes who are qualified may contact the U. S. Modern Pentathlon team at Russell, coach of the Pentathlon team at Fort Sam, and a service personnel should contact their Special Service officer.

From Gen. Wyman Letter Congratulates A-A Match Officials

Congratulatory message received by Gen. Wyman as a result of the record-shattering Army Rifle and Pistol Matches completed at the Infantry Center June 7.

Chief among those received was that addressed to Major Gen. Earl L. Freeman, commanding general of the Infantry Center, by the commanding general of the Continental Army Command, Gen. W. G. Wyman.

Gen. Wyman's message reads in part: "I wish to express appreciation for the outstanding manner in which you and your staff have organized and conducted the U.S. Army Rifle and Pistol Championships for 1958. The personal attention given to all phases of the program and the wholehearted cooperation of all concerned has made these matches the most successful in Army Championship history."

In his message the Continental Army commander commended their excellent work. Lt. Col. Thaddeus W. Druke, major executive officer, Major Louis M. Milne, staff sergeant, and Major Edward Dougherty, range director, and Major Hyram Dalings, rifle order officer.

Company C Wins Over 72nd Engr. In 14th Softball

Inspired by flawless defense and an outstanding pitching performance by Sfc Albernard Fort, Company C, first place in the 14th Infantry Softball competition by defeating 72nd Engr. 6-1.

A two-hit performance was checked by Sfc Perry who combined control and a change of pace to allow only two hits but six walks while striking out five. Company C's lead was never questioned as the defensive play broke the back of 72nd Engr. striking them with two men on base in three innings and throwing out one man at home plate on a relay from John Moss to Pete Carroll to Blount.

A navy officer and four members of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit set their sights on a new target this week.

The five pistol shooters will represent the United States at the 1958 world championships at Moscow in August.

Lincoln High Man They are Navy CWO Offutt Philip, Sfc Nelson H. Lincoln, M-Sgt. Roy Sutherland, Sfc William Blankenship Jr., and 1st Lt. David Miller.

Sfc Lincoln was high man of the five over the four-day slow fire pistol trophies held last week at Fort Benning. His score was 2196 out of 2400 points.

The other top shooters and their scores are M-Sgt. Sutherland, 2196 CWO Philip, 2171; Lt. Miller, 2170, and Sfc Blankenship, 2165.

A faulty trigger almost stopped Sfc Lincoln in the final round of the center match, but he fought back to fire the high score.

Harmony Church Pool Swim Meet Set On June 27-28

Swimmers and divers of the Infantry Center will gather at the Harmony Church Field House Swimming Pool, June 27-28 to host for 1958 individual and team titles.

Eight of Fort Benning's major commanders have been authorized to enter teams in the meet, including the First Battle Group, 32nd Infantry, though it will not be eligible to represent Fort Benning in possible higher level competition.

Listed for team entries are The School Brigade, Infantry Center Troop Command, 14th and 29th Infantry, 151st Engineer and 54th Medical Group. For competitive purposes, the Infantry Board has been grouped with the Infantry Center Troop Command while the U. S. Army Hospital and the Lawson Field command will swim with the 54th Medical Group.

Individual personnel stationed at Fort Benning or tributaries are eligible to compete in the tournament which will be played on an individual basis. Retired military golfers are eligible to compete.

A scratch meeting in preparation for the swimming meet will be held at Bryant Wells Field House on June 24 at 2 p.m. with attendance of at least one representative from each major command required.

In the event that higher-level competition is conducted, a team to represent Fort Benning will be selected from the winners at the meet.

Post to Hold Golf Tourney

The 1958 Infantry Center Golf Tournament has been scheduled for play at the Fort Benning Country Club golf course during the period July 1-2 and July 8-11.

Individual personnel stationed at Fort Benning or tributaries are eligible to compete in the tournament which will be played on an individual basis. Retired military golfers are eligible to compete.

Championship, the Senior Division Medalist Championship and the Women's Division Medalist Championship. Competition will be in accordance with United States Golf Association rules and local ground rules of the Country Club's golf committee.

Awards will be presented to the first four places in the Open Division and the first two places in the senior and women's divisions.

Award winners in the three divisions will be selected to represent Fort Benning in possible higher competition. Golfers desiring to enter the tournament should contact their organizational club officers prior to making entries at the Fort Benning Golf Course before 5 p.m. June 23, the entry deadline.

Co. A Defeats Headquarters

Company A walloped Headquarters Company by a score of 2-0 in the 25th Infantry Softball play last week.

The victors put the game on ice in the opening inning with 10 runs, coasting the rest of the way to an easy win.

Company A batters unleashed their bats for three home runs. Second baseman Bill Taylor, shortstop Mike Lewis, and centerfielder Ed McKeown each smashed a home run.

Felix Hiera went the distance for the field crew, while Lawrence E. Entarkin, commander, Third Army Rifle and Pistol Team, Rear are Sgt. Norman O. Skarpness, 245-28V; Sgt. Herbert Duncan, 245-2R, and Sfc Gordon Voss, 245-28V.

BEST SHOOTING TEAM . . . The 1958 All-Army Rifle Team champions, placed a score shortly after it fired the highest Third Army "Gold" Trophy score ever shot over the National Rifle Team Match Course with the service (M-1) rifle, 1464-149V out of a possible 1500 points. Kneeling left to right, are: Sgt. Raymond E. Campbell, Major Alfred D. D. team captain; M-Sgt. Howard P. Greene, Fort Bragg, N.C., 245-21; Sfc William Reitz, 245-24V; M-Sgt. William L. Griffin, Fort Benning; and Lawrence E. Entarkin, commander, Third Army Rifle and Pistol Team. Rear are Sgt. Norman O. Skarpness, 245-28V; Sgt. Herbert Duncan, 245-2R, and Sfc Gordon Voss, 245-28V.

Charlie Quinn Shooters Saluted For Sweep in A-A

This week the column tilts its print in salute to the shooting bunch of riflemen; these old eyes even believe in our Third Army "Gold" Team rats led by Major Alfred D. Dunn and coached by Sfc William L. Griffin, the six-man team just naturally smoked up McAndrews Range in taking the 1958 Army Rifle Team Trophy with their 1464-149V. According to the books no M-1 Rifle Team had ever approached such a total in Army competition. Record for national competition at Camp Perry is only 1440.

Statistics — 246-24V. Sfc Voss 245-28V; Sgt. Duncan 245-24V; Sgt. Skarpness 244-28V; M-Sgt. Greene 243-21V. Sfc Reitz 241-24V. That's shooting!

For the benefit of you shooters, the course of first was 10 shot offhand and 10 shot rapid at 200 yards, 10 shot prone at 300 yards, rapid fire and 20 shots prone slow at 600 yards. And note the "V's" if you will, a single "v" less than 90 per cent of all shots fired were centered in the bullseyes.

Shooter's Been With Last Shot

When Sgt. Norm Skarpness of the 10th Division fired the last shot of the match, I thought coach Bill Griffin was going to swallow his ears when he toted up the final score and the wind-doping buddy had every right to do so.

It just goes to show what Americans can do when they get their hands on rifles. Our history is full of the accomplishments of our military and civilian riflemen and handgunners and, in fact, it was the rifle and the axe which literally built America. Too, the rifle supplied endless hours of sport and recreation in the competition which started before the Revolution and were carried into the late 1800s. Aside from a slight period when some of our marksmen leaned toward the European style of shooting, we've been content with our own military style of competition. That is, until now.

Until this year America has entered international competition on a casual basis and with the exception of individuals like our own M-Sgt. Joe Benner, rated rather low on the list. This position has been grist for the Red mill in the past and Soviet characters have been crowing about Red supremacy, etc., etc. yak, yak, something up with which we will not put.

Therefore, the World Championships to be fired in Moscow will see a United States Rifle and Pistol Team which I have good reason to believe is already causing the same Red crows to think up alibis, excuses and protests.

U. S. Team Looks Good

The American team now in the process of formation at Fort Benning (at the International Ranges) by the National Rifle Association with strong Army support and, from the caliber of the shooters, it appears that the Swiss, the Swedes, the Czechs and the Russians will have to do much more than average shooting to keep individual and team World Championships on their side of the Atlantic.

Until now America has, unhappily, had to prove her rifle and pistol marksmanship largely on foreign battle fields rather than on foreign ranges.

European riflemen and pistol shots had their ways of shooting and we had ours. They had their championships and we had ours. They were happy to let it go that way, however, under the conditions which exist, America feels that it's just about time to do something about that supercilious crowing.

From the shooting being done out on The Infantry Center International Ranges, I'm saying that the Reds have good reason to shake in their boots, find an excuse to default or just plainly go over the hill. All unbelievers have to do is to drop out and watch the International shooters come home guaranteed.

Personally, I believe that, even though most of these men have been shooting the Free Rifle times, they are producing like American marksmen have always done in the past. They've talked to the European style at precision shooting like ducks; to water and, come fall, will give an account of themselves with results possibly adverse to the Red propagandists!

As League Runner-Up 54th Medics Given Trophy for 1st Half

The 54th Medical Group baseball team presented a trophy by Brig. Gen. John F. Ruggles, Infantry Center deputy commander, on June 4 for the first half league standings.

The 1957 team finished in next to last place but this year's best performance was our Third Army League. The league is composed of six teams from the major commands at Fort Benning.

The Medics' fielded a much better team this year than last season, which is borne out by the first half league standings. The 1957 team finished in next to last place but this year's best performance was our Third Army League. The league is composed of six teams from the major commands at Fort Benning.

Company D Rolls To 22-15 Win In 29th Softball

Company D rolled to a 22-15 victory over Mortar Battery in 29th Infantry softball play recently.

The game was nip-and-tuck until the sixth inning when Company D found the range, scoring seven times.

Harold Delaney helped the victors put the game on ice by slamming two homers and driving four runs across the plate.

Jose Santiago robbed the Mortarman, of four hits with spectacular catches in center field.

Lucas Cabal' buried the entire game for the winners as five Battery chuckers went in the hill in an attempt to ball the Company D attack.

The nucleus of the club was built around several former college and professional players. Ace of the Medics' mound staff was Pfc. John Alford, a former pro, who set a league record for strikeouts. He was ably assisted by Pfc. John Wagner, another ex-pro, and Sps Milton McLaughlin, a former college pitcher. McLaughlin was also one of the league's top hitters with a .444 average.

The club was captained by Pfc. Deacon Jones, who is currently the property of the Chicago White Sox. The coaching staff was Pfc. John Alford, Pfc. One of the league's best outfielders was Sps Bud Hay whose powerful arm and tremendous speed made him the top defensive outfielder in the circuit. The leading hitter of the 1957 squad, Sps Tony Harris, again played capably in right field. Pfc. Don Kr-zmiz, left fielder, also batted his way up among the top 10 hitters.

Fort Loaded With Searing 'Real Estate'

FORT McLELLAN, Ala. (ANS)—Army Chemical Corps School here is loaded with radioactive real estate. These grounds are being used for both training and tests and play an important part in the development and teaching of technical "know-how" for nuclear battlefield tactics.

The main "hot" area at the school is a tract about 600-yards-long and 200-yards-wide, containing 600 point-sources of radioactive cobalt. Each of these sources can be raised from its own small well, if desired.

Two important research projects were conducted at the school during the past year. One was a study of the feasibility of using standard Army aircraft for radiological surveying and the other was an investigation of the use of metal shielding on engineer heavy equipment for protection against gamma rays.

Army Maintaining Strong Korea Force

In the Far East, the Army maintains strong forces to help block aggression in Korea. In Europe, our Seventh Army, undoubtedly the most powerful Army ever, is held by this country in terms of personnel, in cooperation with our Allies, a ground defense of the Channel Islands against Communist aggression. This "first line of defense" is essential as a bulwark against aggression and is a constant available reminder to any potential aggressor that if he attacks, he will be met at once by an American soldier—Army Information Office.

NOT THAT MAD

Following a spat with his sweetheart, a young Baltimore, Md., motorist drove down a railroad track to brood; was aroused from his deep thoughts by a passerby just in time to leap from his car before it was demolished by an oncoming train.

The normal water table, which is only 18 inches below the existing grade of the site, rose with rain brought by the bad weather. With the water table above the normal point, the heavy equipment used to bring fill to raise the grade of the airstrip, could not be placed on the work site. Present conditions have alleviated the water table problem.

Located in a valley formed by two small mountainous formations, the airstrip site is bordered on one side by a small stream which runs parallel to it. Due to the fact that the stream was not outside the limits of the minimum obstacles requirements, it had to be diverted. This was done during the original assignment of the project.

A few small springs on the opposite side of the stream originally cut across the strip. Now existing are ditches which accept the spring water, and will accept the surface water from the completed airstrip, and the flow from the higher terrain, directing it to stream to be carried away.

First Lt. Harley Sybers, Company A, Second Battle Group, 14th Infantry, recently completed the commanders CBR school with the highest score attained for the course since it was initiated for officers and non-commissioned officers 18 months ago.

Lt. Sybers finished the two-day course with a score of 98.5. He was the only officer in the class to score that high.

The course consists of familiarization with CBR agents, their uses, and protection and decontamination measures to be applied in the event of chemical, biological or radiological attack. Students receive practical instruction in the field in addition to that given in the classroom.

A test is given on each phase of training at its completion. A final examination covering all instruction is taken by the students on the final day of instruction.

CWO ARMSTRONG... CWO Robert N. Armstrong, director of training at Fort Benning's Third Army Under the new plan, the 29th regular Ranger support detail will be increased to 100 men. The company size and the tour of duty lengthened by eight days. Company B—13-man strength—traveled to Dahlgren last Thursday to put the plan to its first test. An additional group from Company A, scheduled to arrive at the camp on June 29, will bring the unit's strength to 145, including seven off-sets. Formerly, the detail averaged about 90 enlisted men and two officers, and lasted three weeks. Under the new set-up, each soldier will serve as an aggressor in Ranger problems for a total of two weeks and will undergo basic unit training the remaining two weeks. Training will be conducted initially by platoons as the aggressor. One platoon will train for a week while the remainder of the company serves as target. During the final week, the entire unit will train in company-level tactics. Training will encompass rifle squad and platoon combat formations, map reading, organization of a combat outpost, night withdrawals, and offensive and defensive tactics of the company platoon and the rifle company.

ATTACHED TO CANS... Producer George Brown found that Irishmen are attached to the most unusual things and hate to part with them. While filming the Bank Organization's comedy, "Rooney," in Dublin recently, Mr. Brown needed 50 battered and bent-out garbage cans. He went out and bought 50 brand-new cans, and sent members of his unit on a house to house canvass offering in exchange the owners' old dustbins for new ones. The trade was difficult one as many a Dublin home-owner had sentimental attachments to their cans.

Companies to Hold Field Training At North Georgia Ranger Camp

A program which will enable companies of the First Battle Group, 29th Infantry, to conduct training in the mountains of North Georgia was initiated last week. The field training will be conducted concurrently with the organization's normal support of the Ranger mountain training course near Dahlhogga, Ga. Under the new plan, the 29th regular Ranger support detail will be increased to 100 men. The company size and the tour of duty lengthened by eight days. Company B—13-man strength—traveled to Dahlgren last Thursday to put the plan to its first test. An additional group from Company A, scheduled to arrive at the camp on June 29, will bring the unit's strength to 145, including seven off-sets. Training will encompass rifle squad and platoon combat formations, map reading, organization of a combat outpost, night withdrawals, and offensive and defensive tactics of the company platoon and the rifle company.

Hams to Receive DA Recognition For Moon Work
WASHINGTON (ANS) — Department of Army has announced that the Signal Research and Development Laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N.J., is going to send all amateur radio operators who pick up moon signals an acknowledgment or "QSL" card. Before launching each U.S. satellite, it is transmitter and antenna of the Diana moon radio at Fort Monmouth, N.J., bounces signals off the moon to check the moon stations and amateur radio receivers are tuned to the transmitters aboard the U.S. satellites. The amateurs notify the Laboratory of the American Radio Relay League at West Hartford, Conn., as soon as they are given receiving the moon-bounced signals. "Hams," the Army says, make a direct contribution to the U.S. satellite program with their assistance during the calibration period.

Lt. Wigle Gave Life In Seizing Vital Point

The Infantry Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame at the Infantry Center will be dedicated to Medal of Honor Winner, the late Thomas W. Wigle, second lieutenant. Infantry on June 21. For his conspicuous gallantry above and beyond the call of duty he was awarded our Nation's Highest Honor, posthumously. The Lt. received but two other awards as an infantryman: The Expert Marksmanship Medal and the Purple Heart. On the 14th of September, in an attempt to seize a strongly fortified hill position, protected by three parallel high-terrace stone walls, was twice thrown back by the withering cross-fire of machine guns and intense barrages of mortar and artillery fire. Lt. Wigle, acting company executive, observing that the platoon was without an officer, volunteered to command it for the next attack. Leading his men up the bare rocky slopes through intense and concentrated fire, he succeeded in reaching the first stone wall. Having himself boosted to the top and perching there in full view of the enemy, he drew and returned their fire while his men helped each other up and over. Following the same method he negotiated the second wall and returned to the trench. Ordering his men to cover him he dashed through the spray of a machine pistol to the nearest house. Firing his carbine as he entered, he drove the enemy out of the back door and into the second house. Right behind them, he pushed them from this house into the cellar of the third. When his wain rejoined him they found him mortally wounded on the cellar stairs which he had started to descend to force the surrender of the enemy. His heroic action resulted in the capture of 90 German soldiers and the seizure of the strong point.

'Purple People Eater' Chews Way To 'Tops in Pops' After 3 Weeks

(AFPS Weekly Feature)
Questions of the Navy-Marine Corps football stadium fund are 500 richer, thanks to four midshipmen who lack a sense of humor. The quartet, all members of the Class of '58, won the money on TV's "Make Me Laugh" show by keeping straight faces for three minutes while three professional comedians tried to break them up. The midgies then donated their winnings to the fund drive.

Susan Savers, model on TV's "The Big Payoff," has just selected queen of the Third Marine Division in New York. Judy McCrea, co-star of movie actor Joel McCrea and now an Army private at Governors Island, N.Y., played the lead in a recent TV drama. Most expensive TV package of the coming season will be a two-hour offering of "Show Boat." Total production costs are expected to run more than $1 million. "The Purple People Eater," Gerry Crosby, recently discharged from the Army after a two-year tour, stars with Pat Boone and Sherree North in 20th Century Fox's "Mardi Gras." "Tops in Pops," taking over as the top song in the nation just three weeks after its release is Slim Woolley's tonal-guitar-cheek rendition of "The Purple People Eater." Other orders among the top ten, according to Billboard Magazine, include "Honor Roll of Hits," "All I Have To Do Is Dream" (Everly Brothers), "Which Doctor" (David Seville), "Twilight Time" (Pat Boone), "Chanson D'Amour" (Art and Doty Todd), "Return to Me" (Dean Martin), "Big Man" (Four Tops), "Secretly" (Jimmie Rodgers), "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" (Laurie London), and "Sugar Moon" (Pat Boone).

SLOW LEAK
Arrested for driving 105 miles an hour, a motorist in St. Louis, Mo., told police: "I forgot all about the speed limit because I was in a hurry to get to a service station. There was a leak in one of my tires."
