Blankenship won the 45 caliber aggregate by creaming the Navy 1149 to 1138 while the Air Force came in third with 1132.

National pistol champion, PO1 Donald Hamilton, won the center fire competition with an 835 followed by Army's MSG R. O. Thompson, and Whitacre with 833 and 820 respectively.

Army Blue won the center fire team match defeating the Navy 1170 to 1166.

Marines Won

In the 22 caliber match GSG R. C. USMC, won with 822, while Hamilton was second with 819, and MAJ Franklin Green, USAF, was third with 817.

The Marines won the 22 team match beating the Air Force 1169 to 1162.

Galkic has only been knocking down pins for four years. He bought his first bowling ball in 1963 and now competes in five leagues. He rolls about 30 lines a week, 15 of them in league play.

He maintains a high average of 187 and a low of 181. He says he has never taken a bowling lesson but feels he has picked up a good deal of valuable information watching the better bowlers in action.

Street Frenzy

In the preliminary street tryouts at Lackland Air Force Base Monday and Tuesday PFC Dan Boordess of the USAMTU Street Team captured the individual honors in the 220 ball competition with a 100 kills Bonus.

Only 13 days earlier, Galkic topped the 700 mark for the first time, with a 783 in the R. C. Cola League, also at Victory Lanes. That night he rolled the game scores of 247 and 230.

Jack Nicklaus Sets Exhibition In Columbus

Jack Nicklaus, the world's greatest golf player and longest hitter, will be in Columbus April 30 to give an exhibition and play an 18-hole match at the Country Club of Columbus.

The event is sponsored by the East Columbus Boys Army, Inc. (proposed), and all proceeds go to their building fund, according to Jack Key Jr., chairman of the exhibition.

Nicklaus, the strong man from Columbus, Ohio, has won the U. S. Amateur twice; the U. S. Open and the PGA championship once each; the Masters Tournament in Augusta, Ga. (on a row); the British Open and the World Series of Golf twice. Earlier this year he won the Bing Crosby Tournament in California.

The local appearance by Nicklaus will feature an exhibition clinic on the practice tee at 1:30 p.m. and at 2:15 Nicklaus will pair with Charlie Harper in an 18-hole match against Hugh Rayer and Billy Key.

Tickets for the exhibition will be available next week and may be purchased from members of the board of directors of the East Columbus Boys' Club, from some local area stores and from pro shops in the area. Price for advance tickets is $4 (through April 29). On the day of the match tickets will be $5 each.

3rd Netters Win Post Army Match

Netters of the 41st Co. (Abn.), TSB, won the 2nd post volleyball championship, defeated the Fort Rucker squad in their first contest since the military volleyball tournament this week.

The 41st took the first two out of three to win their installment of the mobile elimination competition now underway at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Represented in installations in the tourney are: Fort Benning, Fort Campbell, Fort Rucker, Fort Gordon, Fort Stewart, Fort Jackson, Fort DODM, Fort McClellan, and Fort Bragg.

The Observer

— by Larry Mahoney —

"All The News That's Fit to Print." The New York Times' famous motto might also be applied to a new paperback I have here on my desk, but the slogan says "All The Statistics Fit to Print." Sports statistics are, as compiled and edited by Frank Litsky and Steve Tyno, Times staffers.

Now if you're a person who finds figures dead dull, allow me to explain a certain fascination I've always had with them. I confess to reading such seemingly dry material as "The World Almanac, The Statistical Abstract of the United States and census reports.

"Why, the poor feller's tetched," you may mutter. Well, where else can you find how many people live in Oceania (16,800,000), the population of Vienna, W. Va., (9381) as compared to The Vienna (1,670,804), Barry Goldwater's votes in Nesbota County, Missa., (6817), and the depth of the Caspian Sea (3215 feet)?

Bits of information like these contribute much to a man's overall view of his world. So it is, too, with what is often called the world of sports. Nowhere has there been a graphic presentation of the scope of athletics and sporting events.

The Timesmen have managed to classify what we generally term sports under 87 headings, from the majors down to sumo wrestling, roque, sled-dog racing, Gaelic football and hurling, barrel jumping, horseshoe pitching, luge, skittles and something vaguely called wheelchair games.

The names are there, and so are the records from 1867 to date. Detail is the book's strength and it speaks in specifics solid enough to settle even the most argumentative sports fans' disagreements.

College basketball? Included in 24 pages about the 1966 season are the final polls, the national collegiate championships, results of all the big tournaments, the all-American selections, the conference standings, individual leaders in scoring, field goals, free throws, rebounds, single-game scoring, team offense, defense, junior college statistics, AAU competition with colleges, and, finally, the lineups for crucial tournament games.

Names and numbers add up to an impressive picture of a major human activity.

For me, however, it is the odd event, the remote sport figures, that I find most appealing. Some examples: A Russian named Krestyukov is adjudged to be the world's best parachutist; a team from Greece won the International Tuna Tournament by landing a 598-pound fish in 1956; the world champion skeet shooter is from Chile; and Japanese athletes took 78 gold, 53 silver and 33 bronze medals in dominating the Asian games at Bangkok.

The diversity of human activity in any field is amazing. It seems particularly so in sports.

As a person with a keen interest in sports, participation can be summed up thusly: A bench warmer for the world basketball team in West Florida seven years ago. As a spectator, I have never seen a horse race, a professional baseball or football game, nor anything that might be considered a major international event.

Thus I am happy to report to you that, through the grace of leave, I'll be down at Sebring for the big race a week from tomorrow. It will be a first for me and a couple of columns will be devoted to my impressions.

Candidate Took Army Over Boxing Career

Not many professional fighters make their way to OGI, but the 73rd Co., 7th St. (OC) claims candidate Frank Cox is such a rare bird.

Cox began his career at the age of seven when he started boxing in the civic center of Elmira, N. Y., under the supervision of two uncles, both of whom fought professionally. From then until he entered high school, Cox fought successfully as an amateur, winning several local tournament titles.

At 16, he was invited to compete in the New York Reunion Slated By Local Alumni Of Clemson Here.

Members of the Fort Benning - Columbus, Clemson Alumni Club will celebrate their annual 'Clemson Around the World' next Friday with a ladies night in the Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Club.

Clemson alumni clubs all over the country use the last week in March to get together in their respective communities and catch up on the current news of the college. They are usually addressed by a representative of the school.

After a social hour at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m., the highlights of last year's football season and other campus scenes will be shown.

Coach Banks McFadden, former all American basketball and football star at Clemson will comment on the film and speak to the group. McFadden is assistant to head football coach Frank Howard.

For reservations call COL William Smith, 545-4211 or 545-5014 before 4 p.m. March 29.

Slate Golden Gloves tournament. Fighting in a middleweight, Cox captured second place and a berth in the finals which he had to forego due to injuries sustained during qualification bouts.

Continued to fight in the preliminary and club fights through high school. At 18, he signed a contract to fight in Bell who was then training welterweight in the world at that time. From there he started his pro career with a TKO over Ray Sabin in Philadelphia.

In the summer of 1966, Cox re-enlisted and, while enroute to the 73rd Co. (OC) after basic training and IAIT, he met Clay in the Atlanta airport. Again they talked briefly and each went his own way.

Cox says of Clay, "He is a great fighter — maybe the best ever — and it will be a long time before he'll ever be beaten."

Copernicus boxing in general he still spars once in a while but has lost most of the interest that he had while still actively fighting. "There are too many things for young people to get into other than boxing," he said.

MTU Pair Cops Shooting Honors In Phoenix Meet

LT Thompson fired 1121 to win the 50-meter iron sight free rifle aggregate, defeating teammates MAJ Tommy Pool at 1119 and Gunnarsson at 1115.

In the 300-meter iron sight free rifle competition, Gunnarsson shot 1111 to outpoint CPT Bruce Meredith's 1109 and Pool's 1107.

Gunnarsson placed in each of the long range events. He fired 384 prone for second place, 329 kneeling for third position and 338 standing for second spot.

In the 50-meter matches, Gunnarsson won the prone match with 382 and the kneeling match with 381.

David Kimes, a former Army team member firing as a civilian, won the 50-meter standing match with 358.

At the longer range, Pool won the prone match with 386 and the standing match with 360. Thompson fired 372 to win the kneeling competition.

Quote of the Week

"The Long Gray Line has never failed us. We're not to do it, a wild flow ghosts in olive drab, in brown khaki, in blue and gray would rise from their white crosses thundering those magic words: Duty, Honor, Country." — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, at the U.S. Military Academy, May 12, 1962.

Merced scored 585 out of 600 in the team event to outpoint U. S. Army Drake's 582 and First Army's 590.

Aggregate winners of the individual matches fired at 200, 300, and 600 yards was SFC James L. McQuien, who fired a perfect 400 with 355, placing second was SFC Chester Hamilton, 1st Army, with 347 while SSG Robert L. Meeks was third with 397-33.

About Rifle Team

MSG Robert L. Pruden is coach of the 11 S. Army Blue team, the winningest pistol team, the Army, or for that matter, any of the services, has ever had.

The 1966 National pistol champions have just completed training matches on the "Citrus Circuit" as affectionately call the Palmest - Miami, Fla. Winter Tampa, and the Dixie - Jacksonville Pistol Club.

Army Blue did not win all the team matches - but at each match they did win the team aggregate, composed of scores for the 22, center fire and 45 caliber competitions.

This triple win makes of the long range events. He fired 384 prone for second place, 329 kneeling for third position and 338 standing for second spot.

Coach Pruden says, "These men are the best foursome I've ever had the pleasure of working with."

Team members are MSG Ralph O. Thompson, SFC Robert Wilkerson, SSG Matthew Jones and SSG Em Heugatter.

Pruden continued, "They work well together. Each has a different personality but they get on that line - they're Army Blue all the way!"

96th Co. Spartans Use Overtimes To Cop 9th Bn. Basketball Crown

The 96th Company (OC) Spartans completed the 9th Bn. basketball season last weekend with a blinding record of 11-0 by winning two double-overtime games in a row at Driant Wells Field House.

After completing the regular season with an unblemished 9-0 record, the 96th went into the tournament as the top-seeded entry.

Having drawn a bye in the quarter-final round, 96th met with an inspired team effort by 97th Co. in the semi-final round.

The 97th Co., inspired by an overwhelming victory in the quarter-finals, led the favored Spartans until the closing moments of the game, when James Lyons, 97th Company maintainer, left the game on fouls with the score tied at 55 all.

After a scoreless overtime, marked by numerous fouls and poor shooting by both teams, the Spartans ripped the nets with 12 quick points and outlasted to a 67-58 victory.

The 96th's Roger Garrity, Mike Andrews and Neal Hanscomb all hit for double figures with 22, 28 and 14 points respectively.

After a short rest, Spartans began the final round against a determined 96th Co. five, easy victors in the two preliminary afternoon rounds.

At halftime the Spartans hold a two-point lead.

The 96th, coached by LT John Terrell, began the second half by utilizing a conservative, deliberate pattern of play but were unable to contain the aroused 96th Co.'s offensive efforts.

Again in the closing moments a concentrated team effort by the Spartans tied the game with seven seconds remaining.

A free throw at the buzzer by 96th Co. sent the game into overtime with the score tied at 55 to 55.

The first overtime period was scoreless.

The Spartans pumped overtime victory and the basketball championship. High scorers for the Spartans were Don Montgomery, Hanscomb, Garrity and Lyons.

Following the game, LTC annual battalion basketball tournament to the Spartan's commander, awarded the company commander, CPT Harold Baughman, winner's trophy for the first time.

Services Survey Results Commentary on MOOM Results In Improvement of Club System

As a result of the Post-Wide Survey conducted during the last year, improvements to the Main Officers' Open Mess System have been made. For the convenience of the enjoyment of the membership of the Main Officers' Open Mess, a continuous effort is being made to improve the facilities of the mess, with the ultimate goal of providing the membership with one of the best MOOM facilities in the country.

A concentrated effort is being made to improve the service and quality of food offered at the mess. A new chef has recently obtained a new selection of food with more gourmet items available than in the past.

Members who are new to the club are being welcomed and one waiting room is being provided. The MOOM tennis pro offers lessons six days a week and, additionally, is sponsoring a Spring tennis clinic for both women and children.

The mess has added a third barber shop to the two already operating for members. This new barber shop will be in Bldg. No. 589 and will be open until 10 p.m. each evening to accommodate the many officers living in the area.

MOOM members who enjoy bingo can play this game every Monday night at the supper club starting at 8 p.m. Most of the varieties of bingo are played.

For the members' recreation during the coming year, numerous improvements are planned for the club of a southwest Reno, Nev., swimming pools which are scheduled to open April 15. Two of the MOOM swimming pools which are just picking donations.

Army Seeks Test Range For Program

MAMIE VAN DOREN says:

"There's something about an AQUA VELVA man!"

Here's how to top off any shave! Just splash on Ice Blue AQUA VELVA for that refreshing, bracing sensation. AQUA VELVA contains Humectin, a wonderful skin conditioner that keeps skin from drying out. You'll like its clean, manly scent—she'll love you for it! And that wonderful scent really lasts. Get Ice Blue AQUA VELVA after shave lotion today. Regular or Menthol.

You Can Bet on It...

Compiled by Joseph Mendel

... In 1842, U. S. Army officers were required by regulation to grow beards.

... James Fenimore Cooper, famous writer and author of a scholarly "History of the Navy of the United States of America," spent a few years in the Navy after his expulsion from Yale in 1806. Joining that Service, he was an enlisted man until 1807, commissioned a midshipman in 1808, and resigned in 1810. Some of his duty as an officer was as a recruiter in New York City.

... Betsy Ross was a smart business-woman ... continuing to manufacture flags for the Government until she died when, in 1836, her daughter took over the business.

... Graf (Count) Ferdinand von Zeppelin, famous German inventor and builder of rigid airships, was a balloon observer for the Union Army in our Civil War.

... Youngest soldier in World War I's AEF was 11-year-old Eugene Lebrun, who hitchhiked from Montana to New York, stowed away on a troop transport headed for France, avoided being returned home, and later became 6th Cavalry's official mascot.

... Two French princes, grandsons of King Louis Philippe, served without pay as aides-de-camp to General George B. McClellan in the Civil War.

... Americans taken prisoner by the British during the War of 1812 were sent to England to demonstrate their deadly marksmanship with rifles.

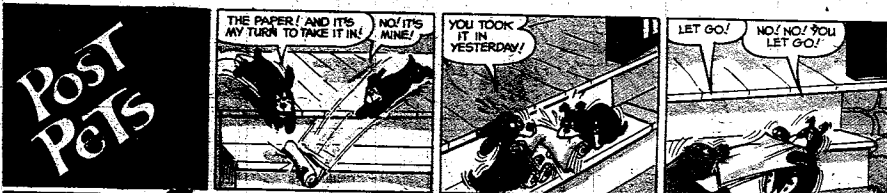

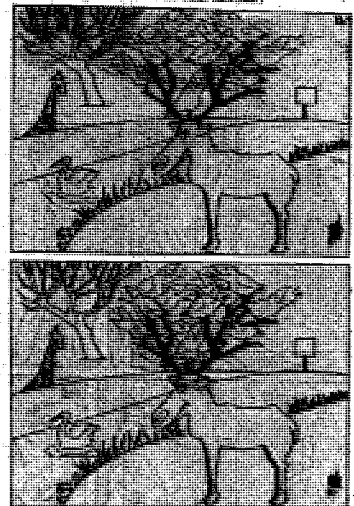

... A recruiter from Fort Logan, Colorado, was designated a student at the Army's Command and General Staff School for the 1925-26 course. His name was Major Dwight D. Eisenhower.

... Not a single man of either side was killed or wounded in the Civil War's opening battle, the two-day attack on Fort Sumter.

... Willie Sherman, age 9, son of General William T. Sherman, was a sergeant at that age, in the 13th U. S. Battalion.

Spot The Seven Goofs

Do you feel smart? Although the two pictures look alike, they differ in at least seven spots. If you can find seven spots, you really are smart.

Published by W. B. Bradbury Co., a private firm. Opinions expressed by the publishers and writers herein are their own and are not to be considered an official expression by any Military Department. The appearance of advertisements in this publication does not constitute an endorsement by any Military Department of the products or services advertised.

Will Rogers said, "The income tax has made more liars out of Americans than golf has."

A booklet is published entitled "How to Win at Golf." Inside the book is one word only—"Cheat!"

In an oft-repeated gag, one partner says, "How do we lie?" and the other partner says, "Lie like hell!"

Golf is pictured as a pastime for chiselers who will break any rule when nobody's looking and will fib about their scores for the sake of winning 25 cents.

It's a bum rap. In fact, fellows like Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and the rest of the great touring pros are among the most honorable men in sports. If they inadvertently ground a wedge in a trap, find there are too many clubs in their bag, play the wrong ball or violate any of the other seemingly giggling rules, they're expected to penalize themselves. And they do.

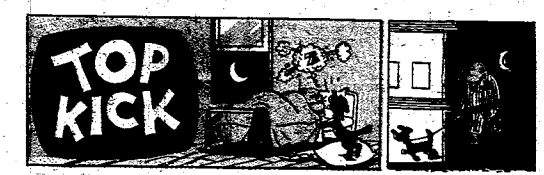

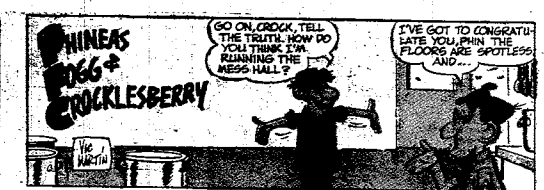

Can you imagine a halfback saying, "Hey, red, I was guilty of clipping on that last play. You must dock me 15 yards."

Or a second baseman saying, "No, ump, he's not out. I missed the tag."

Or a basketballer: "I fouled him, sir. You should give him two free throws."

But in bigtime golf it's the honor system all the way. Think of the fortitude required to call a two-stroke penalty on yourself at a cost of several thousand dollars in standings money. Those who do are sportsmen.

And even among weekend hackers it's probably true that the majority are not deliberate cheaters. They break some rules through ignorance and bend others for convenience, but they respect all their strokes. Or, at least, all that may have been observed by their opponents.

RUN, BUDDY, RUN

What do Roger Bannister, John Landy, Peter Snell, Herb Elliott, Michel Jazy, and Jim Ryun have in common? Right, they're all four-minute milers.

Quite a group, considering that 15 years ago there were old-timers predicting that no human would ever be able to run a mile in four minutes. Moral: Don't believe old-timers.

As of writing, Ryun holds the world record at 3:51.3. He is—now hold onto your hats—a teen-ager, an American teen-ager. He's 19, a student at the University of Kansas. When he was only 17, he beat the four-minute mile for the first time, being then the only high school boy ever to do it. Since then, he has kept getting speedier.

Records fall like turpins in an earthquake and his amazing 3:51.3 may be clipped by somebody. No matter, Jim Ryun will long be remembered as the kid who beat the men, the boy who ran "faster than is humanly possible."

SHORT SHORTS

Spring training is when managers try out their new players and sports writers try out their new adjectives.

Billy Casper's been golfing well on a diet of buffalo steaks. No doubt he cooks them at home on the range.

The way the whizzes play it now, ping pong should be renamed tat-tat-tat. (The way I play it, it's still ping pong... and oops!)

America FIGHTING HEROES

The Story of Major Louis J. Sebille (AIR MISSION)

NEAR HAMCHONG, KOREA, ON 5 AUGUST 1950, DURING AN ATTACK ON A CAMOUFLAGED AREA CONTAINING A CONCENTRATION OF ENEMY TROOPS, ARTILLERY AND ARMORED VEHICLES, HIS AIRCRAFT WAS SEVERELY DAMAGED BY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE.

MAJOR SEBILLE WAS FULLY COGNIZANT OF THE SHORT PERIOD HE COULD REMAIN AIRBORNE...

HE DELIBERATELY IGNORED THE POSSIBILITY OF SURVIVAL BY ABANDONING THE AIRCRAFT OR BY CRASH LANDING...

AND CONTINUED HIS ATTACK AGAINST THE ENEMY FORCES, THREATENING THE SECURITY OF FRIENDLY GROUND TROOPS.

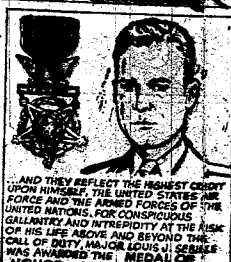

HE WAS DETERMINED TO INFLICT MAXIMUM DAMAGE UPON THE ENEMY...

HE AGAIN EXPOSED HIMSELF TO THE INTENSE FIRE OF ENEMY GUN BATTERIES.

HE DIVED ON THE TARGET TO HIS DEATH.

THE SUPERIOR LEADERSHIP DARING AND SELFLESS DEVOTION TO DUTY WHICH HE DISPLAYED IN THE EXECUTION OF AN EXTREMELY DANGEROUS MISSION WERE AN INSPIRATION TO BOTH HIS SUPERORDINATES AND SUPERIORS.

...AND THEY REFLECT THE HIGHEST CREDIT UPON HIMSELF, THE UNITED STATES ARMY AND THE ARMED FORCES OF THE UNITED NATIONS, FOR CONSPICUOUS GALLANTRY AND INTREPIDITY AT THE RISK OF HIS LIFE ABOVE AND BEYOND THE CALL OF DUTY. MAJOR LOUIS J. SEBILLE WAS AWARDED THE MEDAL OF HONOR.

CONSEIL INTERNATIONAL DU SPORT MILITAIRE

MILITARY OLYMPICS

SINCE ITS INCEPTION SHORTLY AFTER THE END OF WORLD WAR II, THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY SPORTS COUNCIL (ISM) ONLY HAD ONE FAR EASTERN COUNTRY ON ITS MEMBERSHIP ROLLS. THE LAST WEEK OF SEPT. 1966, THE 21ST GENERAL ASSEMBLY MET IN KOREA... THE ONLY FAR EASTERN REPRESENTATIVE... TO TRANSMIT ITS YEARLY BUSINESS, AND VOTE ON NEW MEMBERS.

AT KIWO INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT IN SEOUL, BRIG. GEN. ROYAL WATSON, ISM PRESIDENT, AND W. G. McMANAMA, ISM CHIEF OF INFORMATION, ARRIVED FROM THE UNITED STATES ON 22 SEPT. AND WERE GREETED BY A GROUP OF KOREAN OFFICERS, LED BY MAJ. GEN. PARK HEE-DONG...

AFTER READING A MESSAGE FROM PARK CHUNG HEE, PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF KOREA, KIM SUNG-EUN, MINISTER OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, ANNOUNCED...

I NOW DECLARE THE TWENTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY SPORTS COUNCIL OFFICIALLY OPEN.

ON SUNDAY, 2 OCT., THE DELEGATES TOOK TIME OUT FOR A SOLIDARITY DUTY... TO LAY WREATHS AT THE GRAVES OF THE SOLDIERS WHO FELL IN THE KOREAN WAR. THE KOREAN MILITARY DELEGATION REPRESENTING THE UNITED STATES... CALLED A MEETING ALL THE WAY FROM SEOUL TO HONOR HIS SLAIN COUNTRYMEN.

BACK TO BUSINESS THE NEXT DAY, THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY MOVED TO ADD NEW MEMBERS. VIETNAM WAS WELCOMED INTO THE ISM FAMILY...

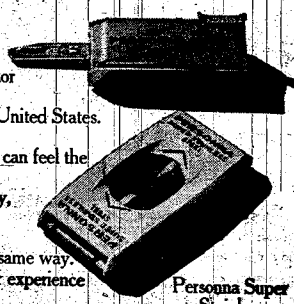

WHEN THAILAND, JOBBAN AND COSTA RICANS WERE SLEGGED A FEW DAYS LATER, THE REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES, WHICH HAD BEEN INVITED TO JOIN, ACCEPTED THE INVITATION.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE 21ST GENERAL ASSEMBLY WAS THAT NOW, WITH THE FAR EAST'S FOUR MEMBERS, THE LAST AREA OF THE WORLD HAS BEEN COVERED BY ISM.

THE MEETING ENDED, THE DELEGATES PREPARED TO LEAVE FOR HOME... BUT FIRST, PRESIDENT PARK CHUNG HEE WAS AWARDED THE ISM GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR, THE 12TH CHIEF OF STATE TO BE SO HONORED, AND THEN THEY LEFT... THE FEELING OF PEACE AND UNDERSTANDING GENERATED BY COMPETITION THROUGH SPORTS WAS STILL WITH THEM ALL AS THEIR PLANE ALIGHTED ON EACH HOME LANDING STRIP.

If you can trust us with your appendix, you can trust us with your beard.

The same people who make Personna stainless steel razor blades also make surgical blades. More stainless steel surgical blades than anyone in the United States. And, oh, are those surgeons fussy. The teeniest, weeniest imperfection in a blade and you can feel the ground shake from here to Kookamonga Medical School. We formed the habit of making surgical blades one way, and one way only. Flawlessly. And we make our new super stainless razor blades the same way. If you like the shave we give you, just chalk it up to our experience with your appendix.

Local AUSA Chapter Hails Speech By Senator Talmadge

By Al Spratley
Sen. Herman E. Talmadge last Monday night with enthusiastic applause from some 100 members of the Columbus-Phenix City - Fort Benning Chapter, Association of the U.S. Army (AUSA), attending a semi-annual dinner meeting.

Filing a Lawson Army Airfield budget to near capacity, members of AUSA's largest chapter indicated they were in complete accord with Georgia's junior senator when he advocated "culling in the generals and the admirals" to get the country out of the "mess" in Vietnam; the politicians had gotten it into.

Introduced by chapter president, R. L. Hinson, Talmadge, who is a Navy combat veteran of South Pacific action in World War II, also expressed exception to the policy of selected bombing targets.

He said he could not see bombers bypassing SAM (surface to air missile) sites to knock out a small bridge that could be replaced overnight, and then getting knocked

OCS Commissions 150 New Officers

An officer must be a teacher and a student, MG Robert F. Seedlock told 150 graduates of an Officer Candidate course here last week.

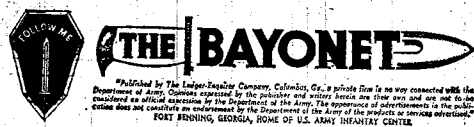

MG Seedlock is commander of the Engineer Center and commandant of the Army Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va.

He spoke of the role of the Army's Engineers — "To speed the advance of friendly forces, to delay the enemy and to fight as Infantry if necessary."

"Promotion opportunities are greater than ever before," he told the new second lieutenants, the 17th class to be graduated this year. They were members of the 72nd Co, 7th Sigs. Bn. (OC), The Student Brigade.

Effort and distinguished graduate and top man academically was 2 LT D. S. Williams.

Leadership honors went to 2 LT Mark E. Thompson.

Thousands Seen Giving To Fund Drive Today

By PFC Larry Mabose
Today is payday at Fort Benning and thousands of servicemen and civilians will be contributing to the Federal services campaign of the National Health and International Service Agencies.

The six-week fund drive, which began eight days ago, is seeking donations from all military and civilian personnel. It states a two-point goal — "Better health for everyone."

At the driver's kickoff, COL David G. Sherrard, deputy post commander, told an audience of drive keymen and team captains why a soldier should give.

"Last October, we asked everyone to support the United Fund," he said. "This campaign was oriented to the community, and it was a tremendous success. Now we are engaged in a campaign on the national and international levels.

"We have a basic responsibility to look after our fellow men," he said, "and the NHA and the ISA offer the opportunity to help in important humanitarian programs."

"Twelve national health organizations and four international service agencies are the goal."

Six Receive Cash Award For Ideas

By SSG Snow Wilson
More than 600,000 alumni will join The Infantry School in celebrating its 60th anniversary tomorrow.

But few, if any, are still alive who were present when the school was started on a hill above "Cannery Row" overlooking the Pacific Ocean at the Presidio of Monterey in California.

Called the School of Musketry, this first school for Infantry leaders came into being when MG Arthur MacArthur lent his support to the concept that commanders should be trained for leadership by specific, organized and uniform methods.

Three Wars
That concept has seen hundreds of thousands of officers and enlisted Infantrymen from practically every nation in the free world, receive the preparation needed to win three major wars.

It has been, and is today in Vietnam, training in that particular brand of leadership which gives its alumni the courage to sing in the mess what often on the battlefield is true — "Follow me and die."

Today's Infantry School actually dates its beginning to (See WORLD WAR, Page 16)

A master sergeant at Martin Army Hospital and two enlisted men in the 197th Inf. Bde. last Monday were rewarded for money saving work improvement suggestions.

MSG Marilyn Murphy proposed an improved storage arrangement for mattresses and bedboards at the hospital. This suggestion is expected to save $487 per year in manhours. He was given $50 for the idea.

For another suggestion in connection with the handling of medical smocks, Murphy received $25.

SP4 Willard J. Bailey and PFC Gregory M. Benson were given $15 each for an improvement in methods of reporting action taken by units after receiving Department of the Army reassignment messages.

Mrs. Jeannette Sanford received $15 for suggesting that message center carriers use placards to deliver out of the air by one of the missiles.

Stopper Needed
"It's time we put the stopper in the bottle," he said, "and quit trying to mop up the leak."

In outlining three alternatives to bring the Vietnam conflict to its conclusion, he said turning tail was unthinkable and negotiation at the peace table evidently out of reach.

The only alternative left, he said, is "to press forward, as America has always done when all other efforts for diplomatic solutions have failed, to a military victory."

Other events on the program included posting and retiring of the colors by the 10th Aviation Group and music by the Infantry Center Band and Infantry Chorus.

COL Ned B. Mabry, commanding officer of The Student Brigade, who is soon to retire from active service, was called to the rostrum where Hinson presented him a plaque in appreciation for his support to AUSA.

The bulk of the chapter's 11,349 membership is made up of officer candidates from the career management of enlisted personnel in the senior grades.

A letter of appreciation was presented to 2LT Arvin R. Burton, also a member of the Adjutant General Section, for suggesting that Savings Bond slogans be printed at the bottom of official letterhead stationary used at Fort Benning.

Free transportation can end up costing you plenty

Earlier this year, two soldiers were offered a ride to their unit by four persons in a privately owned automobile from a club at the post. The next morning the ride thinking they were getting free transportation.

Instead, they were driven to an isolated area, a greater distance from their unit than they were at the club, and were beaten and robbed of property valued at $145. CID fare would have amounted to approximately 70 cents and the robbery would not have occurred.

The above is just one of several incidents involving robberies of military personnel assigned here and other Third Army installations. Soldiers are robbed after they are picked up as hitchhikers, when they are walking alone in isolated areas and when they are in laundries in some questionable business establishments. They are advised to avoid if proper precautions are taken.

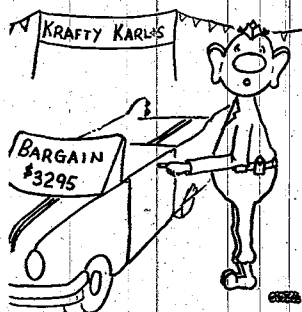

Don't hitchhike. Do not hitchhike in addition to violating state and post regulations, the hitchhiker endangers his life and prosperity by accepting rides with people he does not know.

b. Do not give rides to strangers. In many instances a robber uses this means to obtain a robbery victim.
c. Do not walk alone in isolated areas. Even two or three persons are easy victims to a person with a weapon.
d. Use government or commercial transportation. It will be cheaper in the long run.
e. Make a note of the make and description, to include state license and post tag number, of automobiles in which persons are riding that attempt to get you to ride with them. Furnish this information to the Military Police. You do not have to become involved, yet you might prevent a fellow soldier from being robbed or beaten.
f. Report to the Military Police any information you have regarding persons in the possession of weapons, either on their persons or in their automobiles or some other unauthorized storage area.

Remember that the Military Police will respect your confidence and you can make your area a safer place for yourself and your fellow soldiers by taking preventative precautions.

A power of attorney can create serious problems

When the Sunday School teacher asked Johnny who God was, he replied, "a man who makes you do just what you want to do." Very much the same lack of precise thinking exists with respect to powers of attorney. Although they frequently have some usefulness to members of the service whose duties prevent them from fully managing their own affairs, they also create serious problems and have highly undesirable results.

A power of attorney is a written instrument by which one person (the principal) authorizes and empowers another (the agent) to act for him, either generally or in the performance of certain specified acts.

It is customarily used by an individual who is unable to be present at a particular time when important matters affecting his interest must be transacted.

Two Types
The scope of power of attorney may be as broad or as narrow as its maker wishes. A general power of attorney covers each and every act which its maker might perform himself. It constitutes, in effect, the complete power of its maker's signature — his credit, in the full sense of the word.

A special power of attorney, on the other hand, may be limited to authorizing a single specified act or may be so broad as to cover nearly everything included in a general power of attorney. In either event, such power should never be granted unless there is absolute trust and confidence in the person to whom it is granted.

Powers of attorney are useful in a variety of situations. As a general rule, they may be drawn up whenever a truly urgent and important business matter must be acted upon in a person's name and he cannot be present to act for himself. Typical examples, depending upon the urgency of the circumstances include the sale of a home or an automobile.

Cycle accidents claiming alarming number of lives

A serious public health hazard has been gaining momentum over the past several years and now evolving into a national epidemic. It took an estimated 2000 lives in 1946, just about double the 1944 toll. Added to the rising death toll is the increasing number of severe disabling injuries suffered by its victims.

Magnifying this tragedy is the fact that these deaths and injuries endanger one of our nation's most valuable assets — its young people.

Just what is this national epidemic? Who are these young people whose lives and limbs are in danger? The problem involves a relatively small but rapidly growing segment of our society — the motorcycle.

As the number of motorcycle registrations increases dramatically each year (up 40 per cent in 1946), the automobile driver is increasingly exposed to more and more motorcycles. The motorcycle suffers most from the exposure.

Drastic Consequences
This ever-increasing exposure will continue to have increasingly drastic consequences until some positive efforts are made to reduce the number and severity of motorcycle accidents. The attitude of some, who regard motorcycles as a nuisance, is to abolish the two-wheelers altogether.

This view is unrealistic. The motorcycle is an economical, convenient and dangerous means of transportation is here to stay. It is vitally important to two-wheel and four-wheel drivers to learn to share the road.

The most common cause of serious multiple and fatal injuries suffered by automobile occupants is ejected from the car in a crash. The chances of a person's sustaining serious or fatal multiple injuries are four to five times greater if he is ejected from the vehicle and tumbled along the pavement with flailing arms and legs, hitting various objects along the way until he finally comes to rest. This is what routinely happens to motorcyclists in a crash at high speed.

Seat belts mean and do keep people in the car but the driver of a motorcycle is not afforded even a degree of protection. To prevent possible death or injury, the motorcyclist must drive in such a way as to avoid accident situations. He must constantly exercise the greatest degree of caution, control, concentration and courtesy. He must drive defensively.

Unequal Contest
As long as he insists on competing with automobiles, he will continue to come off second best. It's an unequal contest. There have been 28 hours in such contests here at Fort Benning in the past 20 months. These were fatalities. All were preventable. Defensive drivers don't cause accidents. They are those who regard motorcycles as a nuisance, is to abolish the two-wheelers altogether.

Importance of dental care made clear by Civil War

The inability of the soldier to afford dental care created a manpower problem, as indicated by the estimated one man out of every 30 on the sick list because of dental ills.

To complicate the problem, dentists were drafted into the Confederate forces as infantrymen, thereby reducing the number of civilian dentists who also had to serve the military.

Finally, several dentists were commissioned as officers of the Medical Department. The first official assignment was that of Dr. W. Leigh Burton to a Confederate hospital in Richmond, issued dental equipment. From his extensive reports we learn that he was appalled by the complete power of an extremely filthy and unproductive individual.

While Confederate dentists, the patient's jaws after several unsuccessful attempts to hospitals and not out in the field, where the need was. It is nothing else, the bloody history of the Civil War has proved, the importance of dental care to the nation's health and an ap-stewards rendered the two positions of the services of medical services available to trained dental personnel.

Farewells Given '1st Lady' By Training Center Wives

Officers wives of the United States Army Training Center, Infantry, gave parting mementos to Mrs. Robert E. Edwards, their first "first lady," and Mrs. Edridge C. Dudley at their second annual spring tea last week at the Fort Benning Country Club.

The silver appointed tables featured a formal arrangement of pink and lavender gladioli flanked by candles in white and silver. The tables were draped with lighted white tapers. The white tablecloths were overlaid with graceful drapes of lavender net caught up at the corners with pink nosegays.

Wives representing the Center from September 1965 to August, 1966, were presented a fluted silver bowl in appreciation and gratitude for her enthusiastic efforts in organizing the distasteful side of ATC.

Theatre Star to Attend London Drama School

A Fort Benning Little Theatre actress, and the leading actress of their latest production "Romanoff and Juliet" has been accepted to study at one of England's leading drama schools.

Diane Hall, daughter of LTC Wilmet Hall, assistant inspector general, will be giving classes next fall at the New College of Speech and Drama in London.

She went to England March 18 for an interview and audition, and was accepted immediately.

"I'd like to go to the New College for a year or so, then transfer to the Royal Academy," says Miss Hall.

Dear Community Services

I have to have my husband home. I've been to the Red Cross and they say they can't help me at all. The reason I have to have him home is that things are just too hard without him.

I worry all of the time. I'm getting more nervous every day and the children won't behave very well without him. It's just not right that I should have to put up with all this. So far I haven't told him how bad things are because he does have enough on his hands without worrying about me, but I do not know how long I can hold out. Will you get him home? MISERABLE!

Wives Are Feted At Ranger Coffee

A variety of entertainment was presented to the wives of the Ranger Department at their luncheon at the Main Officers' Club recently.

Mrs. William Brooke Roberts of a Columbus school of dance and one of her students, Stephen Mirick, first demonstrated the "chacha" and the "tango" for the wives, after which they laughed at the wives to do the "pomp pom."

Dr. Richard E. Thompson, a member of the St. Luke Methodist Church choir of Columbus sang, "When Iris Eyes are Smiling." He was accompanied at the piano by Jerry Kelley, Kelley, winner of the annual state Voice of Democracy contest, also played his own interpretation of "Mama's Blues." Mrs. Gerald Buller, Mrs. Willard E. Harrison, Mrs. John B. Overcast, Mrs. Johnnie Rockett.

Petticoat Portrait Mrs. Grace Has A Flair For Art

By JANE DAVIDS

Great artistic talent, never ceasing energy, and homemaking expertise only begin to describe Mrs. Nathan Grace, chairman of the OWC ceramics group. For Mrs. Grace thrives as a busy wife, mother, ceramics teacher, artist and interior decorator.

Mrs. Grace's art work began as a plan for a career as she attended the High School of Music and Art in Manhattan, N. Y. Her plans for a career as a professional artist vanished, however, when one day soon after high school graduation she kept a sister's broken appointment with the dentist, Dr. Nathan Grace.

MRS. NATHAN GRACE
Multi-Talented

Three months later they were married. But Mrs. Grace does have a career as an artist in her home—a career as an artist frequently called upon by Officers Wives' Clubs, as a commercial artist and as her own interior decorator.

Her artistic work includes painting, sewing, work in ceramics, and gourmet cooking. As a result of her need to decorate her various homes, painting became her first concern. One beautiful pastel portrait of a peasant girl which hung in her living room was finished because, as she admits, "I needed something over the fireplace." Something so lovely out of need!

As her first project as a commercial artist, she is illustrating an English workbook for use by the Voice of America in teaching English overseas.

In November, 1955, Mrs. Grace was introduced to ceramics. From the first she became completely absorbed and fascinated by ceramics. She says of ceramics, "You don't have to be artistically talented to produce beautiful work. The materials work for themselves. You can do so much with ceramics—make dishes, mugs, vases, lamps."

Her enthusiasm for ceramics has spread throughout the Grace family. LTC Grace, at his first attempt with ceramics, made a beautiful vase in rich tones of brown and orange, and her son Steve made a Fiji island god figurine.

Some of Mrs. Grace's own pieces in ceramics include a plate with an exotic black fish finished in mar-ol-porcel, a child's lamp with the lamp's base finished as a little peasant girl and geese and a ceramic lemon tree to center her dining room table.

Her interest in ceramics has prompted her to teach classes at the OWC shop in such subjects as glass inlay, staining, the beginner course, intermediate techniques, clay carving, and advanced techniques. The Graces have three children, Sharon, 18, Steve, 13, and Lauren, 9. The family also, of course, includes the pets, Tina, the miniature poodle who thinks she is human, and two parakeets. Pets have always been a part of the Grace family. The Graces once traveled across country with Tina, four birds, a turtle and the children in the car.

The Grace family first became "army" when Sharon was a year-and-a-half old. They were first stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass., for a year and were then sent to Stuttgart, Germany in 1951 for two years.

After the Korean conflict they again became the private dentist and family. After three years of private practice, however, Dr. Grace missed the excitement of military life and rejoined the Army.

They were next stationed at Douglas Proving Grounds, Utah, for four years. Mrs. Grace was the OWC treasurer there from 1952-1954. There the Graces sang in the church choir and in the Little Theater, the Graces played Mr. and Mrs. Kirby in "You Can't Take It With You" and played "It Out of the Frying Pan."

After Utah, while her husband was again in Korea for a year, Mrs. Grace and the children stayed in Miami, Fla., near her family.

From 1954-1956, they lived in Fort Bliss, Tex. Mrs. Grace was busy there as hospitable and projects chairman for the OWC.

In 1956, they spent nine months at Fort Sam Houston while LTC Grace attended the career course at the Medical Field Services School.

In June, 1955, they came to Fort Benning. Of her many activities, Mrs. Grace laughs and comments, "My only problem is that I don't have the time any more to do my own thing, for my own enjoyment." One can understand that.

Spice CABINET

RIGHT IN THE KITCHEN
Ever wonder how to get rid of sour odors from baby clothes?
An answer can be found right in your spice cabinet. A baking soda and water solution will almost instantly remove these sour odors. Put the solution in a spray bottle and spray clothing as needed after spit-ups.

After laundering, a rinse in this solution removes the source of the sour odor.

Freeze It
Ever have a gravy that you thought so good you hated to toss the leftover gravy away?
No need! Just freeze it. First reheat it to keep quickly and pack it into regular freezer containers. Moisture-vapor proof cover will hold for up to a few months.

10th Artillery Couples Meet

Corned beef was the fare at the Infantry Center recreation area as the officers and their wives of the 2nd Bn. (Composite) 10th Arty. met to celebrate Saint Patrick's Day.

LTC Charles M. Hall presented silver trays to departing members of the Battalion, LT James B. O'Connor Jr. and LT and Mrs. John C. Weatherford.

Introduced as guests were LT and Mrs. Rod Storrs, recently assigned here and house guests of CPT and Mrs. William H. Murdough Jr. Hall also welcomed Jerry Hundis who is visiting his sister, Mrs. Weatherford.

Hosts and hostesses for the evening were CPT and Mrs. Thomas L. Patrick, LT and Mrs. James A. Cowan and the officers and ladies of Battery E.

83rd OC Wives' Luncheon Features Puppet Show

A luncheon for the 83rd OC Wives' Luncheon featured a puppet show, honored guests. Other guests: Mrs. Samuel E. Kinchlow, as Downey and Mrs. Philip William G. Carter and Mrs. Brady, Mrs. Raymone Loutis (OC) was held recently in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers' Club.

Attending the coffee were Mrs. George W. Runyon, Mrs. B. Gaurethers, Mrs. Henry R. Thomas Jr., Michael Derrick, Mrs. Thomas. Cadre hostesses were Mrs. J. o h a n Gary Sanquet.

Depicting the title of the luncheon "Mamas and Poppas Present Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," at the head table was a colorful work emerging from a tunnel bearing the inscription "Bearing or Bust" with similar inscriptions on other cars.

Positioned on and about the train were dwarf figures, pine trees and mushrooms. Train sections and track segments appeared on track segments with picks and shovels denoting the place setting.

Dwarf puppets made up the nametags for the wives and the honored guests wore distinctive snow white nametags.

Mrs. Robert J. Clausen handled the Mama Puppet (Gemma Noses) and narrated a revised version of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Cast in starring roles were Snow White and her Prince. Outstanding complete with blue beret and green dress uniform complemented with an OCS scarf.

In addition to the traditional Happy, Sleepy, Bashful, Grumpy and Dumpy, two new characters were presented. Dressed in purple and completely incapable of the dwarfing right was the quarrelsome "Grass," Epitomizing laudate and bedecked in Army Green was "Fatigue."

Banished from the "Land of Lumphkin" by the wicked Queen, Snow White found shelter in the forest home where the seven dwarfs lived until a bite from a poisoned apple sent her into the sleep of death.

The episode climaxed with Prince Outstanding awaking the Princess with his magic kiss of love.

The puppets were made and manipulated by the wives of the Officer Candidates Wives' Club.

Honored guests were Mrs. Robert H. York, Mrs. Ned B. Mabry, Mrs. Oliver J. Willford III, Mrs. Wilbur A. Ross and Mrs. Robert H. Stuecker. Other guests were Mrs. Wayne L. Davis, Mrs. Donald C. Miller, Mrs. Robert M. Lellan, Mrs. Louis B. Fink, Mrs. Antonio SanPera, Mrs. Barry McNeal, Mrs. Frank Galvin, Mrs. John A. Weldon and Mrs. Paul B. Hatters.

Hostesses for the luncheon were the student wives of the company.

GALTY DEBATED with an Easter theme the day room of the 72nd Co. 6th Stu. Bn. (OC) was the setting for a coffee held recently by the wives held recently by Mrs. Charles Leadbetter presided over the meeting, introducing Mrs. George E. L. O. a g, who discussed with the wives the customs and courtesies of the Army.

Mrs. Gail Furrow introduced and welcomed the new wives to the club.

Charles Mount Jr. and ladies of the Army Training Center. The gilded cage, the center of the luncheon decorations, will be one of considerable proportion. 12-foot tall and surrounding a fountain entwined with colorful spring flowers and graceful multi-colored butterflies.

Charles Jones and members of the Columbus Little Theatre of the Springer Opera House will present a musical program. Special stage decorations for this program will be created by ladies of the Headquarters Group of ATC. The main attraction of this "Breath of Spring" luncheon will be the election of officers for the 1967-1968 club year. The candidates will be presented to the membership at this time.

Chairmen for the luncheon include Mrs. Ben Ward, Mrs. Walter Gemmill and Mrs. Henry Hardenbergh, decorations, Mrs. Robert Leon, and John Parker, Mrs. William White and Mrs. Patrick Thomas, coordinating committee. Mrs. Robert Baden publicity. Mrs. W. R. Evans, Mrs. William Rousseau, Mrs. Howard Blumhardt, Mrs. Lawrence Thompson and Mrs. Carl Zill. The sherry hour and table arrangements.

Members living off post must pay advance reservations to Mrs. Donald Clark at 686-066 or Mrs. Charles Vemity at 689-3435. Four special interest groups of the Officers' Wives Club will begin their last classes for the club year early in April. For those interested in future refinishing, call Mrs. J. W. Brucker at 689-8345. Mrs. Brucker will give detailed information about what materials are needed for the class. The last German class will begin April 6. This class meets at 9:30 a.m. Thursdays in the language lab at Bldg. No. 38. To enroll, phone Mrs. Leo A. Goff at 545-1266. Mrs. William Gillingham has announced that a new knitting class is in session. For details on what is needed to begin lessons, call Mrs. Gillingham at 545-5567.

Unit Is Tops in All Areas Of Recent Training Cycle

Company B led all the way when it came to deciding which unit of the 2nd Brigade, 21st Army Training Center, infantry, would receive the highest ROTC program trophy for a recent training cycle.

The 2nd Brigade USATC March was played for the first time during graduation. The march, played by the 21st Army Band, was written by Chaplain (MAJ) Llewellyn M. Murdoch.

Unit Saves U.S. Money

(LNU) - A gas-generating unit here, the 1st Logistics Command's 518th Eng. Det., is saving the U. S. Army money.

Round-the-clock detachment bottles oxygen or acetylene in 200 lb. bottles. The gas is used by welders to feed their torches for cutting and welding metal.

To keep the bottles from over-heating, water is sprayed over the bottles. Producing the gas in Vietnam costs the Army less than $3 per bottle, according to 1st Lt. Larry A. Clark, officer in charge of the unit.

He estimates that this is about one-tenth the cost of shipping it from Okinawa, the previous source of much of the gas.

Slew Get Away

Fleeing outside after stealing $10 from a Los Gatos, Calif., shop, the robber returned for three minutes. Reason: his get-away car had not arrived yet.

Teenagers Rebel At Teen Square

Authorities here expressed concern this week over dwindling interest in Teen Square programs.

During the past few weeks in which the Friday night dance has featured the Shondells, Paul Bevers and the Raiders, The Monkees and the Rolling Stones, attendance has dropped to a mere handful.

Youth Activities Club (YAC) officials said the situation came to a head this past Friday, when some 300 teenagers refused to come in Teen Square but remained outside picking with placards demanding, "We Want Wels," "Send Us Symphonies," and "We Burn for Van Cliburn."

Officials said they believe "youth must be served," and tentative arrangements have been made to schedule the New York Philharmonic "at an early date."

So What Was It?

A Royal Air Force plane, which was making a landing at Plymouth Airport, skidded near the airport hedge and its wing hit a bus.

Police said it was definitely not a road accident. The airport manager disagreed. "The plane was on the ground, so it can't be an air crash." A decision has not yet been reached.

ROTC Seeking Army Retirees

ATLANTA (ANF) - Atlanta Board of Education is seeking retired Army officers and non-commissioned officers for military instruction in its city-wide Junior ROTC program.

Further information is available from the Senior Army Instructor, Military Department, Atlanta Public Schools, P. O. Box 709, Station C, Atlanta, Ga. 30309.

Army Seeks 'Drugstore' For MUST

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is developing for the Department of Defense a test range in a 90,000 square mile area of Arizona and New Mexico for use in the evaluation of automatic map-making equipment.

The BAR XC test range extends over an area approximately 300 miles. It includes most of the state of Arizona and a strip of western New Mexico.

In this extension of test ranges, the acquisition of additional land and construction of photographic targets will be held to a bare minimum. In those cases where it will be necessary to lease land, the Los Angeles District Engineer will negotiate directly with the individual land-owner.

Army Map Service civilians and soldiers of the 20th Eng. Bn. (Base Topographic), Fort Belvoir, will conduct the survey operations. The advance military party has established its headquarters in Globe, Ariz. The BAR XC project is scheduled for completion within the next 18 months.

17 EM Complete Course Under Accelerated Plan

Most students who take The Infantry School radio maintenance course complete it in 12 weeks. Last week, there were 17 exceptions to the rule. These students took the course on an accelerated basis under the guidance of the Staff's Communications and Electronics Department. They finished in times ranging from three to nine weeks. For a student to be placed in this accelerated program, he must have had some previous training or experience in the electronics field and have passed the acceleration examination. When a student is placed in the program, he remains enrolled in his registered class, but does not participate in the classroom sessions. Instead, the student progresses at his own speed through self-teaching with the assistance of:

Examinations are administered to the student at his request for progress warrants, and he is reported for reassignment as soon as his completion date can be predicted accurately. Of the 17 who took the accelerated program, only two completed the course in a record time of the three weeks. They were PFC Michel R. Schuster and PVT Bruce C. Smith. Those who completed the course in six weeks were PFC Thomas L. Aho, Thomas J. Ciesielski, James E. Misnerbater, John C. Painter, Leonard O. Skilton Jr., and PVTs James A. Finn, Jerry R. Hurst, Lawrence M. Kaiser and Richard J. Meyer. Those who completed the course in nine weeks were PFC Kenneth A. Krismann, and PVTs Samuel D. Dillawo, John D. Kesling John F. McCue, Robert E. Petroff, and Jimmie L. Wood. During the past 18 months, 28 of the students have been accelerated similarly.

4000 Children Look To YAC for Activity

Over 4,000 children at Fort Benning look to the Youth Activities Club (YAC) for recreational and sports activities throughout the year. YAC offers over 18 different programs to its members. Of these, a recent survey indicated that boys, ages 8-12, preferred football, Boy Scouts, baseball, swimming and basketball, whereas girls of that age group chose Girl Scouts, swimming, bowling, typing classes and basketball. Teen's Differece Membership Fees: A nominal annual membership fee is charged for participating in YAC. For officers it is $5 with one child and $1 for each additional child. Enlisted parents pay $3 for one child and $1 for each additional child. For membership in Teen Square the teenager must be a member of YAC and pay an additional $1 for Teen Square membership card. It is expected expansion of the services and programs of the Youth Activities Club will continue for at Fort Benning. "Children are our greatest asset." For further information on the Youth Activities Club program call the custodian at 545-2130.

Story Tells Leaflet Use In Vietnam

CAMERON STATION, Va. Paper bullets may not kill but they can cripple an enemy's combat effectiveness according to an article in the May issue of ARMY DIGEST. The official monthly magazine of the Army presents the story of "The Leaflet War". It tells how the propaganda war is waged in Vietnam and how the efforts of the United States and the Viet Cong fare. Free copies of ARMY DIGEST are available in unit day rooms, post libraries, service clubs and information offices. Other highlights in the May magazine include: "The ROK Army" — a report on the impressive Korean Army. "CONARC Conquers the Z-D Thing" — telling how there really is time to do things right the first time.

Post Orders New Vehicles To Herd OCs

"Cattle cars" used for transportation of officer candidates, are "on the way out" - a usually reliable source revealed here today.

According to the informant, a fleet of vistadome, air conditioned buses has been ordered from one point to another on their training schedule.

"There have been many instances," he said, "in which candidates have been completely unfamiliar with any segment of the post except that in the vicinity of Infantry Hall, even though they've traveled every square inch of some of the outlying areas."

"This is a beautiful post," he continued, "and we want them to see and enjoy the sights as they travel... and in comfort."

Describing the buses, he said they would be outfitted with movie projector and screen for those who tire of seeing the great outdoors.

"A number of one-rotors has been ordered," the spokesman said, "with titles such as, 'A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Boondocks,' 'My Tac, I'm Turning Blue In Spite of You,' 'I Love the Action in Leader's Recreation,' and others."

Accident Rate Is Viewed In April Aviation Digest

Looking back on 1966 it now appears that the Army aircraft accident rate greatly improved during the year.

Not all the reports are in, but enough have been reported that the U. S. Army Board for Aviation Accident Research (USABAR) is able to see a marked improvement.

In a story on 1966 aviation accidents published in the April issue of the U.S. ARMY AVIATION DIGEST, USABAR says: "Both the active Army and the National Guard have made an appreciable improvement in the accident picture during the previous year when the increase in flying hours is considered."

In another article in the same issue of the magazine the possibility of using "parawings" as a means of infiltration is discussed.

Parawings are a new development in the process of dropping supplies to troops in combat zones. They have the stability and reliability of parachutes but can also fly and be controlled like a glider.

In 1966, the U. S. Army parachute team at Fort Bragg, N. C., conducted jumps to see if the parawing could be used to carry men.

The surprising conclusions drawn from these tests are reported in the U. S. ARMY AVIATION DIGEST, and should be of interest to all aviation-minded soldiers.

SNOW CHILLED TENT CITY OF WORLD WAR I Camp Site Was Located On Macon Road In 1918

SOLDIERS' ARSENAL OF MORE THAN FOUR DECADES AGO Infantryman With Bayonet Took The Foreground From Them

World War I Brought School to Present Location

(Continued From Page 1) 1928 when an Infantry School of Practice was started at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., by MG Edmund P. Gaines. The need of fast moving Cavalry against the Indians in the West spelled the end to that school in two years.

"School Renamed" The School of Musketry was renamed The Infantry School of Arms in 1912 and moved to Fort Sill, Okla. Auxiliary schools were later created at Camp Perry, Ohio, and Camp Hancock, Ga.

Fort Benning itself was not established until late September, 1918, and only after GEN John J. Pershing convinced the Department of the Army that a special training center was needed to provide Infantry replacements to his units then fighting in France.

COL Harry Eames, commander of the school then at Fort Sill, Okla., ordered his construction Quartermaster, MAJ John Paul Jones, to Columbus, Ga., to set up a site three miles from town on Macon Road.

Jones, who arrived in Columbus on September 23, had only seven days to get the camp ready to receive troops on Oct. 1, 1918.

Task Accomplished The nearly impossible task of the beginning of what has become through the years one of the finest examples of day to day civilian-military cooperation.

A Columbus newspaper publicized Jones' need for men and materials and the Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations put all of their support behind the project.

Laborers were rounded up and businessmen set aside their orders to lumber mills to have priority.

On Oct. 6, 1918, two officers, a Medical officer, and 500 enlisted men arrived to find ready to hand power lines, electric lights and water main installed, and over 300 tent frames "completed" as well as some mess halls and warehouses.

First Class The first class, all West Point graduates, arrived less than two months later and on Dec. 11, 1918, Miss Anna Carolina Benning officially raised the flag. The Infantry School's home was named after her grandfather, Henry Lewis Benning, a former Columbus, Ga., attorney and associate justice of the Georgia Supreme Court, who had distinguished himself on Civil War battlefields.

Specific, organized and uniform methods of Infantry training came into being but the Columbus Ledger newspaper of that date revealed, "Residents in and near this section selected for the center have been notified to clear the way by Wednesday morning." COL Eames decided to find another area.

The sprawling plantation of Arthur Bussey, high above the Chattahoochee, by the Upper, offered perfect terrain.

It was perfect for a rifle range with 100 to 1000-yard firing lines and "Riverside" a beautiful Southern mansion owned by the Bussey family, would make a perfect home for the post commander.

Post Expanded Today, "Riverside" is still the residence of the commanding general, but that original need for a flat stretch of land containing "about 10 square miles" has grown to Benning's present 200 square miles.

Few of the 2000 troops at the Infantry School's first Christmas dinner, 1918, believed Jones who said, "Fort Benning will have the most beautiful buildings of any post in the entire country."

Married officers and their families were living in a tent village at the time.

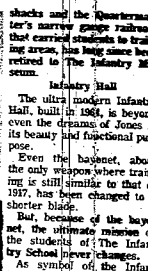

One wife, who was to see her husband become a general, beautified her canvas home by spreading layers of newspapers over the plank floor. Discarded tar paper from the more permanent-type buildings was then tacked down and painted. This somewhat air-tight floor was then shellacked and waxed.

COL J. S. LERSON Deputy Assistant

The future GEN Lloyd R. Stryker's wife was taking no chances with her ornate rugs.

"Salvage" But less than three months later, on Jan. 7, 1919, an order from the U. S. Military Affairs Committee called for the new school to be "salvaged and abandoned."

COL Eames, with a true Infantryman's courage, looked up Webster's definition of "salvage" and decided the politicians meant "save." He then put his troops to work painting the completed walls to separate miles" has grown to Benning's present 200 square miles.

Evidently everyone conveniently forgot the "abandon" part of the order for the first class graduated Feb. 26, 1919, and final orders for the school's organization were issued on Sept. 25, 1919.

MG MacArthur's early concept was then refined when the mission was declared as to develop and standardize the instruction and training of all Infantry officers in the Infantry School.

Today that mission has Modern air conditioned shacks and the Quartermaster's mess hall on railroad, that carried straight to training areas, has long since been returned to The Infantry Museum.

Infantry Hall The ultra modern Infantry Hall, built in 1961, is beyond even the dreams of Jones in its beauty and functional purpose.

Even the bayonet, about the only weapon where training is still similar to that of 1917, has been changed to a shorter blade.

But because of the bayonet, the ultimate mission of the students of The Infantry School never changes. The Infantryman will "clear with and destroy the enemy," the bayonet is the "emblem of the Infantryman whose abundant lead map throughout the free world with the command of "Follow Me!"

classrooms, with closed circuit television, have replaced the art of command and leadership.

The school also "initiates, develops and evaluates Infantry, airborne, and Ranger doctrine, organization, tactics, techniques and material requirements relating to the employment of Infantry units and combined arms."

Special emphasis, directed toward Vietnam, permeates most of the courses at the present time.

During the year, it has awarded over 10,000 Ranger tabs, 200,000 Parachute badges and prepared over 50,000 officer candidates for commissions.

Award Made Last year, Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor presented a Distinguished Service School award to the school in recognition of more than 50 years of outstanding contributions to the national defense.

The Infantry School's student strength has also grown through the years from the 100 in the original class to a monthly average now of over 400 resident students and 2000 tabbing non-resident courses.

ROBERT H. YORK Major General, USA Commandant

Anniversary Message

TO ALL PERSONNEL OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY INFANTRY SCHOOL

I extend congratulations and best wishes to all personnel of the United States Army Infantry School on the occasion of the school's 60th anniversary, April 1, 1967.

Although technological advances have required changes in techniques and equipment within the Army, the Infantry School is still the deciding factor in warfare and the Infantry School is largely responsible for his achievements.

For six decades the Infantry School has provided the finest training for the Infantryman and has met the challenge of repeated world crises. During the past year the war in Vietnam has once more put us to the test of meeting such a challenge. Again we have responded with every facility at your disposal and have provided muscle, manpower and leadership for our fighting forces.

You may well be proud of your achievements. You have preserved the proud traditions of the Infantry and have accomplished your objectives despite severe turbulence. I want to thank you for your energy and your devotion to duty. I am confident that you will maintain the high standards of proficiency in the future which you have so ably exhibited in the past.

Correspondence Course Guide Shows All A Path to Take to Career Advancement

PORT MONROE, Va. The enlisted man, whether a private of six months or a sergeant with 10 years' service, wants to get ahead. The goal is promotion, better pay and better assignments.

To them is directed a new guide of correspondence courses helpful to career advancement or preparation for MOS evaluation and proficiency testing.

The Continental Army Command publication, CON Pam 350-2, lists educational guidance for career programs, schools participating in the extension program and treated and new correspondence courses.

Programs for furthering military education in selected MOS from the lowest to highest grades are outlined in the pamphlet. Each career group list shows courses and subcourses available through correspondence study from CONARC schools.

For example, an enlisted man in the MOS Career Group (98) Signal intelligence can turn to the pamphlet for titles, scopes, lesson titles, credit hours and references pertaining to the field of study which will be useful in planning his Army career.

In this instance, the cryptanalytic specialist course will be useful to grades E-3 and 4 with MOS 98B05. This course requires 307 credit hours and includes such study topics as advanced operations, basic cryptography and CBR operations.

As an individual advances in the career group he may take the cryptanalytic supervisor course which requires 341 credit hours of study in such advanced areas as military cryptanalysis and manual and aerial photograph reading.

Senior NCO Level

As an E7, 8 or 9 with MOS 98250 he is offered the Signal intelligence operations NCO course which requires 179 credit hours of study in such areas as basic communications security, electronic intelligence, and radio procedure.

CON Pam 350-2 also provides a listing, by school, of the individual courses available for correspondence study in preparation for MOS evaluation, and proficiency tests.

The Army Air Defense School at Fort Bliss, Tex., for example, offers extension subcourses in map and aerial photograph reading for artillery for MOS 13F Automatic Weapons Crewman.

New items included in the mid-February publication are the aviation and branch senior NCO courses which now are listed in Sections II and VII of DA Pam 350-2.

The Army extension correspondence program is available for use by enlisted personnel and officers of all components of the Army.

Team Seeks Local Photos For History

Here's your chance to help make history — a history book, that is. For nearly half a century and in three wars, Fort Benning has figured prominently in American and world history.

The camera has captured many of the most famous faces of Fort Benning, including visiting Presidents Harding, Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower, and military giants Marshall, Bradley and Patton.

A team of writers and artists is preparing a pictorial history of Fort Benning to be published in 1968, the post's 50th anniversary.

If you have personal photographs of the fort and its men during the past five decades, these writers would appreciate a chance to see them. If published, the prints will be carefully reproduced and returned immediately to the owner.

The writers are particularly interested in photographs depicting training and everyday Army life here during the 1920's, 1930's and World War II.

If you would like to help make history with an old photo, please call PFC Lawrence Mahoney at the Public Information Office, News Branch, (545-4622) or SP4 Michael McNulty, Infantry Magazine (545-3030).

NCO Wins Certificate For Idea

A Certificate of Appreciation will be presented today to SGT Hiram Willoughby, in recognition of a suggestion he submitted in the continuing Incentive Awards program.

As a result of Willoughby's suggestion, sanitary facilities for some 200 workers in the Messkit Repair Section will be moved from their present location, 300 yards from the work area, to a more convenient, indoor area.

It is estimated the improvement will save approximately 200 manhours per day.

The certificate is being presented by the members of the Messkit Repair Section.

The Drill Sergeant NCO Will 'Stay Army' While Service Useful

"I want to stay in the Army as long as I can usefully serve the service and my country."

So says SFC Emmitt D. Simmons, senior company drill sergeant in Co. B, 2nd Bn., 1st Bde. U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry, NMA.

Patriotism is not just another word in Simmons' family. Four brothers have worn or are wearing the uniform of one of the Armed Services. A sister is married to a retired Navy chief petty officer.

Ottawa Road With seven training cycles behind him, Simmons will soon return to the Military Police Corps, his branch of service before becoming a drill sergeant. He will leave for Okinawa in the near future.

"I've learned a lot about young men since I came here," Simmons said. He added that he felt that his knowledge would be invaluable to him in leading troops in future assignments.

"Nearly all of these trainees want to become soldiers. They come here expecting to work hard and expecting to find it tough. Sure, they gripe when things are rough, but you'd find that they don't want it any other way," Simmons said.

Trainees Individuals "Trainees today feel that they are individuals and not just numbers," the 30-year-old sergeant claims. "We try drill instructors try to learn the names of our men as soon as possible after we meet them at the Reception Station. It probably takes 10 to 14 days to know each one, why it worked, but it did.

Lay Flat One of a homemaker's iron gripes is bacon that curls, but or do anything except lie flat while "We're trying."

To remedy the situation, the homemaker who discovered this didn't know why it worked, but it did.

In TSB Drive 782 Pints of Blood Donated

A recent Student Brigade Red Cross blood drive drew 918 volunteers and netted 782 pints of blood. 2LT Michael W. Panicia, project officer, said today.
 Panicia credited much of the drive's success to the number of volunteers who helped the Red Cross workers of the Atlanta Bloodmobile unit.
 These volunteers, mostly unit members, put in six hours each of the two evenings. The drive was conducted Sunday at Doughboy Station. They assisted by serving refreshments to the soldiers after donating the blood and performing other non-medical tasks.
 According to Panicia, the brigade during the evening hours and it worked out very well.
 The drive was conducted from 3-9 p.m. March 16-17.

Roof Garden to Grace Top of Infantry Hall

Plans were announced today for construction of a roof garden atop Infantry Hall.
 Decision to install a recreation area for lounging and sun bathing for Bldg. No. 4689 workers followed a survey conducted by representatives of the Government Accounting Office (GAO).
 Concerned over low expenditures, the GAO team was casting around for ways to increase the installation budget when one member hit on the idea of offering a roof garden atop Infantry Hall.
 He said he had noticed people rushing to the cafeteria and back to their jobs with such haste it actually created a hazard.
 He was almost knocked down by one secretary, he said, "as she literally ran down the hall to get back to her desk."
 He said refreshments and soft drinks would be served on the roof and lounge chairs would be provided along with individual transistor radio sets.
 "We are going to make every effort to make sure the Americans win - if necessary, to keep these people on their break and on their lunch hour for the maximum time," the GAO spokesman said.

Easter Worshippers Hear Former Post Chaplain

As a soldier must have a commander he can respect and obey, so must man have a God he can love and serve, 2500 worshippers were told in the early days of Easter Sunday at Doughboy Station. Former Post Chaplain and guest speaker at the 28th annual Easter sunrise service here, said, "As I look back over my career, I thank God that I have had the opportunity to serve both my God and my nation as a military chaplain."
 Recalling Easter sunrise services in Horse Shoe Bowl that he participated in while at Fort Benning from 1947 to 1950, Chaplain Hale said, "This always is a rewarding experience. The music of Easter has captured the wonder of this historic observance."
 The speaker said some get up early to attend sunrise services out of habit and reaction by the Infantry Center Band directed by CWI William J. James.

70,000 Troops to Participate In Exercise This August

HQ, THIRD U. S. ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga., said today the United States Strike Command will conduct a large-scale exercise in August, 1967. The maneuver, nicknamed KITTY HAWK, will be held in North Carolina.
 Approximately 70,000 members of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will participate in the eight-day exercise.
 Major participants in Exercise KITTY HAWK will include:
 Army: Elements of two airborne divisions, one National Guard Infantry division and one National Guard Infantry brigade.
 Navy: Two amphibious squadrons.
 Air Force: Two tactical Air Force headquarters, two tactical fighter squadrons, tactical troop carrier aircraft and tactical reconnaissance elements.
 Marine Corps: Two Marine battalion landing teams.

low, then east to include the joint task forces: The first, the Savannah District of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, will begin contacting land owners in the proposed maneuver area in the near future to obtain necessary permission for military use of their land.
 Claims Procedures - The U. S. Strike Command said that it would use for the 100,000 man joint exercise SWIFT STRIKE III held in the Carolinas in the summer of 1963.
 Almost all claims for damage to the infrastructure within six weeks after the maneuver were completed. Many claims were settled on the spot and within 24 hours.
 Participants in the exercise will be aligned into two of the airborne assault forces.

Circular Change Cites Local Claim Procedure

Inquiry regarding reimbursement claims must be made with the Installation Transportation Officer and not with Third Army Headquarters to assure expeditious handling, according to Change 4, Third Army Circular 55-71.

Such direct communication is unauthorized and delays settlement, since the claims must be handled at installation level.

The circular also gives guidance regarding the rental of cargo trailers for transporting personal effects. Individuals should seek the advice of the installation Transportation Officer before renting them.

In most cases where cargo trailers are used, the individual funds upon submission of his claim that he does not receive the full amount he actually paid for the rental of the trailer.

After proper counseling by the Transportation officer, if the member wishes to use the trailer rental method for personal reasons, the decision is made with a company average of 62.4 hits. This also was above the goal set by the brigade.

The 3rd Brigade goal for the individual proficiency test is a company average of 62. The company surpassed this with an average of 61.29.

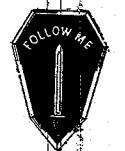

Individual awards were presented to three trainees by the brigade commander, COL William R. Hanks.

PVT William C. Gray received the outstanding trainee trophy, accompanied by the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry, Certificate of Achievement.

Achieving the high score in the company on the individual proficiency test was PVT David K. Zabel.

Scoring 79 out of a possible 84 hits on the record first of the M14 rifle, PVT James R. Harding received the rifle marksmanship trophy.

Fort Benning Bank Forms Board To Advise on Banking Services

In a joint statement released by BG M. B. Bell, (USA Ret.), and William A. Lyman, chairman of the board and president of the National Bank of Fort Benning, it was announced this week that the bank has organized an advisory board of directors.

At its organizational meeting on March 22, the advisory board elected W. A. Minn as chairman and John D. Davis as vice chairman. Also elected at this meeting was SGM Warren A. Paduk as secretary.

Members named on the advisory board are: MAJ Goldman E. High, (USA Ret.), a local representative of Liberty National Life Insurance Company; SGM Lawrence E. Kennedy, of Headquarters, U.S. Army Infantry School; MAJ L. R. Browning, (USA Ret.), of the Royal Crown Cola Company; SGM Frank C. Flinn, of Headquarters, U.S. Army Infantry School; SGM John F. Whitley, office of the chief of staff, Fort Benning.

Milam is with the Post Engineer Section, SGM Paulk is with the 1st En. Troop Command, and Davis is with the Post Engineer Section.

A spokesman for the bank further stated that the purpose of this advisory board is to advise the bank's board of directors on matters affecting the banking services of the National Bank of Fort Benning and the continued improvement of such services to its world wide customers.

Quarterly Meetings
The advisory board will hold quarterly meetings and will make its recommendations directly to the official board of directors of the Na-

Two precedents recently established at the Infantry School here by SP4 Paul A. Goeb, a member of the instructor staff of the electronics committee, Communications-Electronics Department, directed by COL Richard C. Horne III. Goeb was the distinguished honor graduate of his instructor training course class. Additionally, in less than a month, he further distinguished himself by winning an outstanding rating for his presentation to a class of students of the Infantry radio maintenance course. He received a Letter of Commendation from BG J. S. Timothly, assistant commandant.

Post Sees Severe Shortage Of Drill NCOs; Seeks More

During 1967, it is anticipated that a severe shortage of drill sergeants will be experienced in the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry at Fort Benning, because of the peak losses of individuals completing the 18-month stabilization period and the non-availability of trained drill sergeants returning from overseas.

In order to fill the requirements which will exist, it will be necessary to train eligible soldiers available at Fort Benning.

Plan to Assist Rehabilitation Of Pen Inmates

To aid prison rehabilitation programs, and at the same time provide needed personnel, the Civil Service Commission has approved eight work release agreements covering 60 Federal positions in the following agencies:

- Veterans Administration, Army, Defense Supply Agency, Bureau of Prisons, General Services Administration, Defense Contract Administration and the National Bureau of Standards.

Of the 13 prisoners who have been employed under the agreements, all but one have proved satisfactory. Some agencies intend to offer full-time employment to the employees when they are released.

Support Group Is Operating School for Training Drivers

The 16th General Support Group driver training school is now a reality. A final test is given before the license can be issued. With a start two weeks ago at the 66th Trans. Co. lower motor pool in the Sand Hill area, a lot of stalling and grinding of gears could be heard.

Under the watchful eye of the officer in charge, 2LT Thomas R. Collins, and with the instruction of MSG Alfred Tomene assisted by five other non-commissioned officers, the school produces qualified drivers at the end of the week long course.

During the first day, an orientation is given on what is to be expected and what the students are required to do.

The following day, after an eye test, students begin to drive 1/2 and 2 1/2 ton trucks around the motor pool with licensed drivers seated beside them.

The third day, the students drive in convoy over a 10 mile course, going up and down hills and through sand and ditches.

Driving continues the fourth day with blackout driving that evening. The final day, maintenance and care of the

U.S. Military Leaders Laud Red Cross Work in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (ANP) — U.S. military leaders have praised the humanitarian battle being waged by the American Red Cross in Vietnam and in disaster areas around the world.

GEN W. C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. Armed Forces in Vietnam, said, "In the United States, this is the national Red Cross month. But in Vietnam every month is Red Cross month to the commanders and men who benefit from the many services the Red Cross provides."

"Speaking for all commanders here — commanders who are vitally concerned with the morale and welfare of their men — I commend the Red Cross to you for its fine, unselfish, and dedicated work," GEN Westmoreland continued.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said, "As the instrument chosen by the Congress to act as the means of voluntary relief and military, Fort Sill, military press newspaper; the ARMORED SENTINEL, Fort Hood's Command Information staff was cited for furnishing the best content for a civilian entered press newspaper. ## Military Review Lists Stories in April Issue

F O R T L E A V E N W O R T H, Kan. — The April issue of the MILITARY REVIEW, the U. S. Army's professional journal, features "Ground Warfare in Vietnam," "What is the Threat?" and "Service Unification in Canada." "Ground Warfare in Vietnam" by Anthony Harrigan, associate editor for the NEWS AND COURIER in Charleston, S.C., provides a good description of the men, the equipment and the battles in Vietnam. Harrigan also lists the essentials he feels are needed to obtain victory.

COL Irving Heymont (USA Ret.) is the author of "What is the Threat?" He states that the main source of information on a threat is usually a threat study which is a formulation and analysis of the expected or real situation.

Variables
He also describes the many variables in the large field and suggests means of handling the threat factor.

Retired Wing Commander John Gellner of the Royal Canadian Air Force explains the motivation for "Service Unification in Canada."

Since Canada has an all-volunteer force, he feels that the only way out in fulfilling all existing commitments is to do so with fewer installations and fewer men. Unification provides this.

Others
Other articles in the April edition are: "The Commander and Civil - Military Relations" by LTC Irvin M. Kent. "German Reserves and Replacements" by Eric Waldman, professor of Political Science at the University of Calgary in Alberta, Canada. "Tchou: The Goetz's Decision" by retired CPT H. Pat Tomlinson, and "Ho's Mistake" by MAJ Dave R. Palmer. "Turkish Army's Role in Nation-building" by COL Clifton C. Fox. "A New Look at the Minutemen" by MAJ John R. Galvin. ## Total Hits 15,648 In Cookie Sales By Girl Scouts

A total of 15,648 boxes of cookies is a lot of "goodies," Mrs. Lauren Overby, post Girl Scout cookie chairman, said that is exactly how many were sold by post Girl Scouts during the recent cookie sale.

Cadet Troop 187 sold the most with 3184 boxes. The second highest number was sold by Junior Troop 118 with 1884 boxes, while third highest with 1476 boxes was Junior Troop 163.

Cadet Troop 187 plans to use its share of the proceeds to sponsor an overnight camp-out.

Profits will be used by the Conchary Council of the Girl Scouts, Inc. for the expansion of camping facilities in its 12-county area.

Two-Man Platoon Awaits Mission

A platoon consisting of two initially will be a basic platoon, the lieutenant said. There is such a platoon, the MP schools. He added that recently formed 62nd Military Police platoon, attached to the 98th MP Co., Center Troop Command, Fort Gordon, Ga., will be assigned a mission as a T O and E unit, said Kranson.

The commander is 2LT David L. Kranson. He and his platoon sergeant, SSG Robert J. Hewitt, are currently with only active members in the platoon.

The platoon will be billeted with the 98th MP Co., but will only be attached to and not part of that company. It is to be primarily an escort guard platoon.

DOD Nearing Distribution Of XM16E1

The Department of Defense will begin distribution in the immediate future of XM16E1 rifles to certain maneuver elements of the South Vietnamese and Korean forces serving in South Vietnam.

Plans call for distribution to be complete by the end of June. Issue of the weapons to both South Vietnamese and Korean units will be made concurrently.

Units to receive the weapons are Republic of Vietnam Airborne and Marine Corps maneuver elements and the Republic of Korea Army and Marine Corps maneuver elements.

Adequate supplies of weapons are available to accomplish the re-equipping of these troops.

To date, a small number of XM16E1s have been provided the South Vietnamese and Korean forces for training purposes.

At the present time, all U.S. Army maneuver units in Vietnam are equipped with the XM16E1 and all U.S. Marine Corps maneuver units either have the weapon on hand or enroute.

Distribution to U.S. combat service support elements is proceeding according to schedule.

The weapon is manufactured by Colt Industries, Incorporated, Hartford, Conn. Acting as executive agent for the armed forces, the Army procures the weapon as the M16 and the XM16E1 (equipped with the forward bolt assist mechanism).

These rifles are the military models of the Colt AR-15, a private commercial development.

Colt is the only producer of this weapon, possessing manufacturing license agreements with the developer, Fairchild-Hiller Corporation, Hagerstown, Mo.

Benning Cub Scouts Begin Model Racer Eliminations

It is race time for Fort Benning's Cub Scouts now as they begin the annual Pinewood Derby eliminations.

Cub Pack 227, of Wilson School, opened elimination contests March 25 on one of the Fort Benning Boy Scout District's two portable eight-lane tracks.

Winners of Benning's Cub Scout Packs will compete in district run-offs and finals to be held during the Chattahoochee Council's Scout-O-Rama April 8 at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium.

Although speed will determine most winners, some prizes will be awarded for the best looking cars. Racers have been constructed by Cub Scouts and their fathers during the past month.

To insure fairness during competition, each tiny car had to be constructed of material furnished by Cub Scout officials.

Early last month, blocks of 14 pine wood, with slots sawed for axle and seat positions, were furnished each boy during a den meeting. Included in the parts were the official Scout-O-Rama April 8 at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium.

Official rules limit the maximum weight of each car to 6 ounces and to a maximum length and width. All parts must be firmly secured, eliminating any addition of weight, such as taping on coins at the last minute.

Scout-O-Rama Displays In addition to the Pinewood Derby, at the Scout-O-Rama will be displays, exhibitions and demonstrations of scouting activity in the Chattahoochee Council.

'Romanoff and Juliet' Opens Tonight

By SSG Pat Moser
The Fort Benning Little Theater tonight raises the curtain on "Romanoff and Juliet" which promises to keep the audience on the edge of their seats while giving an over-stimulated funny bone.

While the whole world might love a lover, it is an entirely different story when love threatens to tear a cold chill into the midst of diplomatic hopes for an Indian summer in the Cold War.

This is the plot of the fable, "Romanoff and Juliet," created by multi-talented Peter Kravino, whose approach to earth-shaking events is a striking tongue-in-bearded-cheek.

In the not so well ordered world of Ustinov, U. S. ambassadors' daughters are nice but they play a deadly game of international politics when they do the undiplomatic act of falling head-over-heels for the son of the Russian ambassador.

Rick Sotia as Igor Romanoff, is the son of a Russian ambassador to the smallest country in Europe. Juliet, played by Diana Hall, is the daughter of

The well-intentioned General intervenes only to let diplomatic secrets spice his resounding rhetoric.

Riding the storm are Juliet's parents, the U. S. ambassador and wife, played by Ray and Eleanor Sova. Sitting equally between the Kremlin's frowns and world-wide embarrassment are the Russian ambassador and his wife, acted by Rick Chapman and Mary Kathryn Plummer.

SSO Announces Winners Of Entertainment Contest

Philas for the Fort Benning monthly entertainment contest were held at South Harmony Church Service Club Saturday.

Winning first place was "The In Three" vocal trio made up of SP4 Edward A. Price, PVT David V. McCollins and SP4 Thomas A. Corcoran. The trio sang "Ain't Down Yet" from "Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Taking second place was "The Motory Gospel Singers," SP4 Jeremiah Harris, PVT William Burke and PVT Milton Bigdaren, pianist-baritone, with their selection of "Waiting on You."

PVT Richard C. Fischer, a finalist, won third place with his presentation of "Syrinx" by Debussy.

Judges for the contest were CPT Robert A. Ephraim, WO Jackie Alexander, director of the 291st Band, and SP5 James Whitaker. Each of the three top winners received a cash award of $25.

COLOR UNIT NAMED

The 666th Troop Co. was designated color company during a VCO review held last week by the 16th Gen. Supt. Gp. Cavalry Troop Command.

The troop was chosen as the best performing unit of seven companies and will keep the color company title until the next review.

New port-call procedures begin April 1 for unaccompanied military personnel assigned permanent duty overseas, except for commissioned officers in grade O-4 and above, and warrant officers.

DA Message 80105 says that new orders will list their port call data, overseas reassignment station, and future unit. The grades accepted use standard procedures.

SYNOPSIS

HOMRE - Captured while a youngster and raised as an Apache, John Russell (Paul Newman) has no intention of returning to his people. However, when he inherits a boarding house in town, he becomes involved with the very people he wishes to avoid.

First there is Jessie (Diane Cilento), who will lose her job as manageress of the boarding house which Russell wants to sell for a herd of horses.

Next there is Faver (Fredric March), a dishonest Indian agent who has been embezzling money on beef contracts, and finally Grimes (Richard Boone) who has a plan to rob Faver.

On a journey to southern Arizona, the stories and characters of each of these people are shown, but Russell continues to remain cold and aloof.

It is only after the party is held up and robbed by Grimes' gang, that Russell shows any feeling. In his attempt to save the members of the group, he is gunned down. Based on the novel by Helen Hunt Jackson.

FRANKIE AND JOHNNY - Frankie (Donna Douglas) loves Johnny (Elvis Presley), but since he loves another girl, she refuses to marry him.

Together they earn their living singing as a team on the Mississippi gambling showboat owned by Clint.

Air Line Proposes Reserved Seats For Servicemen at Reduced Rate

Men and women of the armed forces will be able to reserve seats on United Air Lines flights at two-thirds the regular jet coach fare beginning April 23, 1967, if the Civil Aeronautics Board approves an application filed by the airline.

The new fare applies to servicemen and women traveling at their own expense on leave or furlough. It will be honored on all United flights within the continental United States.

The fare will be in effect at all times except peak travel periods during holidays from noon to midnight on Fridays and from noon on Sundays to noon on Mondays.

The only military discount now offered allows space available travel at half-fare. United's suggested positive space fare would also be approximately 16.7 percent more than half-fare.

The stand-by fare will remain in effect, so if United's suggestion is approved, military personnel will have a choice of traveling space available or paying a slightly higher fare and making reservations.

Personnel traveling on the reserved space discount will be accommodated in coach sections.

Scout Dog Training Seen

The assistant commandant, James S. Timothee, was introduced to the 17th Infantry Brigade's scout dog training program last Friday.

The general was briefed there on the organization, the record and future plans of the scout dog program by MAJ Anthony W. Davis, British Army exchange officer and assistant commander COL Jack L. Treadwell, BG Timothy W. McKimsey, commander of the 29th Inf. Platoon (Scout Dog), which is attached to list Bn, 29th Inf.

The briefing concluded with a tour of the actual training facilities which was followed by an opportunity to see some of the actual training being carried out.

In the kennel area BG Timothee watched members of the 2nd U.S. Army Replacement Packet (SD) - in their second day of training - conducting basic obedience drills.

The briefing concluded with a helicopter trip to field training area U-1, where the general had an opportunity to see the training at a more advanced stage.

Since its inception in December, 1965, when the 29th Inf. Platoon was the only active scout dog unit in the Army, this program has trained more than a dozen dog platoons for the Army and Marines.

A recent addition to the program is the replacement packet, a platoon of dog handlers trained to take over a unit whose members are scheduled for rotation back to the U. S. The units dogs and equipment remain with the new handlers in the overseas area.

Highlights of the actual course of instruction given the men and dogs during the 12-week program were covered for the general by MAJ John

Army Seeks Applications For USMA

The current expansion of the United States Military Academy has created a need for additional outstanding candidates for appointment to West Point.

Army enlisted men are urged to apply for an appointment through the U. S. Military Academy Preparatory School at Fort Belvoir, Va.

No tests are necessary in applying for the school as applicants are selected solely on the basis of their records and the recommendation of their unit commander.

Interested soldiers must apply before June 30. Applications should be sent through your unit commander to the Commandant, U.S. Military Academy Preparatory School, Fort Belvoir, Pa., Zip Code 2260.

Campbell Spikers Clip Doughboys for 3A Title

DEFENDER ATTEMPTS TO BLOCK SPIKE BY BENNING'S ALL ARMY PLAYER LLANOS, RIGHT

Fort Benning's volleyball team, representing the 41st Co. (Abn), TSB, blew a 1-0 lead in the second game of the deciding series to hand Fort Campbell, Ky., Army Squad, Aviair, Sarkin in the Third Army tournament held last week at Fort McClellan, Ala.

The Benning squad had succumbed to the strong Kentucky team in two straight in the second round of play and had to battle through the loser's bracket to gain the championship encounter.

The finals of tournament were best of five under international volleyball rules and it took all five games to decide the winner in a fitting climax to a finely played tournament.

Campbell went into the finals a slight favorite because of their undefeated record in tournament play while the Doughboys fought for their life for two days in the loser's bracket.

Campbell appeared to be in trouble at this point. Then with Samuel Wright setting and Teddy Maxwell hitting, Campbell made its move to take the next three games and the championship 15-9, 15-12, and 15-8.

In ceremonies following the match COL Macon A. Hipp, commander of Fort McClellan presented team and individual trophies to the winners and runners up.

The 41st volleyball team opened the tournament with an impressive two straight over Fort Benning, Ala.

After losing in the second round to the champion Fort Campbell spikers, the Benning entry easily trounced the Air Defense sextet, 15-3 in two games.

The 41st downed Fort Gordon, Ga., 15-10 and 15-12 to move into the semi-finals against tough Ft. Jackson, S. C.

Jackson edged the locals in the first game 15-14, but lost their touch in the second to be humiliated 15-6. The Benning team kept their momentum and breezed to a 15-11 score in the deciding third tilt.

Alberto Colusso of the 1st Co., and Benning all-star Leon, who, along with Cagle, Russell, led Michigan to the semi-finals of the 1966 NCAA tournament for spot on the team.

Red Auerbach, former coach and now general manager of the world champion Boston Celtics, has given ample testimony in behalf of Brown's credentials.

Although Dix held the contest, Brown set a new scoring record, netting 49 points, drafted him for the Celtics.

Lady Golf Pros to Hold Clinic Here

On April 8 at 2 p.m. a golf clinic and exhibition tournament will be given by a foursome consisting of Kathy Whitworth, Betsy Cullen, and Howard Hobrock and Jim McMahon.

Kathy is the leading money winner on last year's Ladies Pro Circuit and was the 1965 winner of the Glenside Collet Vero trophy, awarded each year to the outstanding professional who possesses the lowest scoring average in LPGA Tournaments.

Kathy's average for 100 rounds of official tournament play was 72.61. She was also named Associated Press Woman Athlete of the Year in 1965 and '66.

Betsy Cullen is a rising young professional. A luncheon will be held at the Country Club before the clinic and play at 1 p.m.

Anyone interested may attend by making reservations before noon April 5, at the golf pro shop in person or by telephone, 345-4120.

The Observer

by Larry Mahoney

A person passing through Sebring, a drowsy town of some 7000 in south-central Florida's highlands, probably wouldn't give the place much thought. Sure, it's a nice enough little city, scattered around a shallow lake and speckled with citrus, palm and pine. For all appearances, Sebring should be only a dull haven for senior citizens, shuffleboard, memories of Muncie, Ind., and Ashland, Ohio, and all that.

However, the construction of a massive complex of runways by the Army Air Corps back in the early '40s, led to an annual event that has given Sebring, Fla., a name of fame, Sebring is synonymous with speed, endurance and the mechanical marvel known in everyday dialogue as "the car." Autos, not airplanes, are the masters of this 5.2 mile strip.

Tomorrow morning, at 11 sharp, hair-raising howls will signal the start of America's greatest endurance race for sports cars, the 12 hours of Sebring in Florida.

The bowls will belong to a new breed of beast, made by men and fondly referred to as Ferrari, Cobra, Porsche, Sting Ray, Chaparral, Jaguar.

This is the first leg of the World Series Challenge Mondial Races. It is followed by the classic LeMans of France, Germany's Nurburgring and Italy's Targa Florio.

Sebring—a testing ground where the newest ideas of the manufacturers are tried and proven, or tried and broken.

Sebring—where the best compete in the driver's seat, champions like Jim Clark, Graham Hill, Phil Hill, Hap Sharp, Dan Gurney, Chuck Parsons, Mark Donohue, Faggy Hopkirk; where the old masters of speed prove something. Stirling Moss, Juan Fangio, Briggs Cunningham, Baron von Hanstein.

Ford, primed by the loose millions of Dearborn, Ill. be there to attempt a repeat of 1966, when auto bearing the name of the original mass-producer himself took the titles of Prototype and GT champion.

Porsche? Ja, the German masters, 1966 Challenge Mondial champions, will run. However, reports in the London press, and elsewhere, say the Ferrari team, unwilling to go against what it considers money-mad Ford, will sit this one out. Ferraris will run, of course, but not under the sponsorship of the manufacturer.

Attention will be focused on the high-powered contestants seeking the overall trophy and the Allitalia Trophy, but others will run. The MG's, Triumphs, Volvos, Alfa Romeos, Austin Healeys, and Renaults will be there, and many will beat the bid for a class win by slipping through the shutdown turns of Sebring as they travel more than 1200 miles in 12 hours.

This may be the last big race at Sebring. A story that must have the Sebring's chamber of commerce has it that the race will be moved down to West Palm Beach, a Gold Coast metropolis far more attuned to the worldly lot who find adventure in the racing.

If it is the last for Sebring, it will still be my first. I've been through Sebring just once, a conscript aboard a train bound for basic training. Today, armed with a 10-day leave, I'm on my way back to check out this thing.

A sports car man I'm not. But even a Volkswagen driver should get something out of it. Even if it's an inferiority complex. I've also heard of the mini and micro skirts, boots and lights worn by blond and raven haired spectators. Thank God for leave.

OC Says Falconry Is The Only Way to Hunt

SFC LEON HALL Gets Ace

SFC Cards Ace On Sand Hill 4th

SFC Leon Hall popped a sixiron shot into the cup on the fourth hole of the Sand Hill Golf Course Saturday for an ace.

The par-three hole is 160 yards long. Hall is assigned to 41st Co., Airborne, 4th Stu. Bn., The School Brigade.

He also eagled the par-four sixth hole, knocking in a chip shot on the 320-yarder. He finished the 18 holes with an 81.

Playing in the foursome with Hall were SSG Frank Byrd, SFC Abraham Adams and SFC Benjamin Baker. Baker scored a hole-in-one on the same course last year. Hall will receive a trophy to recognize his feat from a local bank.

What kind of a pet would a canary? A full grown gold eagle is more appropriate, according to Candidate Robert C. Longstrech, a 68th Co. 5th Stu. Bn. (OC), Longstrech is a member of the California Falconry Association and has had a falconer's license for four years.

Introduced to falconry when 12-years-old, Longstrech has since owned, trained and hunted with sparrow hawks, sharp shinned hawks, Cooper's hawk, red-tailed hawk, a golden eagle and a pigeon falcon.

Of the birds' training, Longstrech says, "It's the only way to hunt. It requires an abundance of patience. When young, take them to their prospective place of keeping and feed them until they could fly. Then I would condition them to human handling and reinforce the idea that food comes from the keeper."

By exposing prey at various distances and rewarding a kill with food I would chance. He firmly believes that the eagle to accompany his is the only way to hunt. It's far more exciting and rewarding than shooting, for the keeper is actually able to use an act of nature for his keeper.

Longstrech had a significant amount of respect for the eagle to accompany his. He is a firm believer that the eagle to accompany his is the only way to hunt. It's far more exciting and rewarding than shooting, for the keeper is actually able to use an act of nature for his keeper.

Dedication

Service Cross for extraordinary heroism. He died in an aircraft accident in 1952 at Dayton, Ohio. The airfield was dedicated in his honor on Aug. 7, 1951.

Scout

A scout sash goes to his pack-troop or post treasury with the remainder to the council and districts to help defray the yearly costs.

To increase sales, prizes were awarded with Boone Johnson, a 19-year-old first class scout of Fort Benning's Troop 51, winning the last half of the Chattahoochee Council's contest this week. Troop 51 meets at the Fort Benning Trailer Park and Boone's prize was an ice cooler presented by the R. C. Cola Company.

All scouts, selling 10 or more tickets, will be awarded Scout-O-Rama pocket badges for their efforts.

At the Scout-O-Rama tomorrow will be booths inside the auditorium and outside midway activities in the parking lot.

The participating units must build their own stands, and ribbons will be awarded for

Four CTC Units Receive Awards

COL Lon D. Marlowe, commander, Center Troop Command, presented four companies under CTC with United States Army Savings Bond Awards. The four companies were: WAC Co. 1st Bn., the award was accepted by CPT Jane D. McCoy, commanding officer; Hq; and Hq, Det., 1st Bn., accepted by 1LT Lloyd J. Cazes, CO; 2d Army Band, 1st Bn., accepted by CW4 William J. James, CO; 15th Finance Disbursing Sect., accepted by 2LT Robert B. Rose, disbursing officer.

Five companies, received the Army Minuteman Award and the Third United States Army Savings Award. They were: Co. A, 1st Bn., accepted by CPT Juris Plakans, CO; Co. B, 1st Bn., accepted by CPT A. S. Cochran Jr., CO; Co. C, 1st Bn., accepted by 2LT Warren D. Barker, CO; HHC, 18th Gen. Spt. Gp., accepted by 1SG James H. Dunlap; 64th Spt. and Serv. 18th Gen. Spt. Gp., accepted by SPS Robert L. Homer.

show will be judged on a 100 point system with a blue ribbon awarded to those receiving 95-100 points. Scoring will be based on readiness of the activity at opening time, the percentage of boys of the unit remaining in the booth, uniforms and other points.

Need seen for new laws to govern motorcyclists

Is there really a need for new laws regulating the use of motorcycles? If there is, who or what determines that need? The cyclist himself and the accident record are the determining factors. If there is generally a good record, little public pressure will be generated for more laws. And if the record is bad?

There is currently a growing public and official concern brought about by the increasing seriousness of the motorcycle problem. Here's why. During the last three years motorcycle registration has doubled. In the same period deaths by motorcycle have more than doubled, from 869 in 1963 to over 2000 last year. These deaths are only a small portion of the havoc being wreaked by motorcycles on their riders. Even in today's deadly traffic jungle the motorcycle is unsurpassed in its ability to inflict permanent crippling injuries on its victims, but motorcycle records will inevitably produce pressure for new and more stringent legislation, both state and federal.

Cyclists are already within the jurisdiction of the new Federal Traffic Safety Act. This will bring about the day when every motorcycle sold will have to meet minimum safety standards of better lighting, better brakes and suspensions, and skid-resistant tires. Concerned public safety experts say this is not enough, that there is a pressing need for a comprehensive accident prevention program for cyclists. This program would include, but not be limited to, special instruction, special licensing procedures, and mandatory safety inspection.

There is a definite need for a training program for novice cyclists. At present there are few places where beginners can learn the art of handling a tricky two-wheeler. Dealers will show a new owner how to manipulate the controls, but fine points in the technique of riding have to be gained solely by experience. "The school of hard knocks" is a phrase which aptly applies — often disastrously.

Football equipment often cause of serious injuries

A special report on a five-year study of football injuries concludes that protective equipment is no guarantee against head and neck injuries and recommends eliminating the face guard.

Dr. Richard G. Schneider, a University of Michigan neurosurgeon, said a breakdown of injuries in 1963 showed that a total of 95 per cent of the directly fatal injuries resulted from injuries to the head, neck and spinal cord. This was an increase of 21.7 percent over the previous year, he told the recent Midwest meeting of the American College of Sports Medicine in Ann Arbor.

Commenting on the suggestion that the face guard should be eliminated, Dr. Schneider declared, "Better to accept the less serious dental and facial injuries and have fewer neck and head injuries."

The neurosurgeon pointed out that statistics from the fall of 1966 through the 1967 season reveal that 80 percent of fatal and serious injuries were suffered by players in sandlot or unprotected play.

Other state laws for cyclists include the provision that only one passenger be carried and then only if a permanent seat is provided. Cyclists are allowed to ride not more than two abreast within a single traffic lane when traveling in a group.

Perhaps the most meaningful approach to the problem is the education of all drivers in the art of defensive driving. A share-the-road attitude must be promoted among all motorists.

A future article will discuss defensive driving techniques for motorcycle riders.

During the past five years the number of cases of cancer of the female genital organs has increased a great deal. This increase in cancer is due to the early detection of cancer when treatment is most successful. Cancer of the cervix is nearly 100 percent curable if found early and promptly treated.

Early cancer detection depends on an annual pelvic examination regardless of age. This can be done easily, quickly and painlessly in the Gynecologic or Cancer Detection Clinic. The pelvic examination includes a cell examination for Cervical cancer, sometimes called the "Pap" smear. The "Pap" smear is a way to detect the presence of cancer by taking a smear of the cells on the cervix and examining them under a microscope. In this way abnormalities may be detected even when a growth is not small to be seen or felt by the doctor, often months or even years before symptoms or signs appear.

A sign which should be investigated is a change in the usual pattern of vaginal bleeding or bleeding after intercourse (change of life). Unusual or irregular vaginal bleeding is not an emergency, but should never be ignored or treated with home remedies.

Remember a simple, painless yearly pelvic examination is one of the best safeguards to your health.

Practice Dangers: Practice swings of the tee are not only dangerous but may be costly. The courts have held that the injured party assumes no risk where he had no reason to suspect that any one would be swinging a club in his vicinity.

Judge Says A golfer should be aware of rules for course safety

Now that our course has been reopened and the golfers are out in large numbers it may be advantageous to say a word about that portion of the law that is concerned with courts concluding, under the circumstances of the particular case, that there was no duty to warn of the danger of injury. But where the fairways are parallel and a hook or slice sends the ball flying over to the next fairway the driver must use reasonable care.

One judge summed up the situation pretty well, and he said that one playing a golf ball should be scrupulously careful not to hit anybody, and if he does, the onus of making an explanation showing the care and caution in the act is much the same as though he had thrown a stone or fired a gun. He added that the golfer must be reasonably sure that the ball, in some way playing a golf ball, where others stand about the hole, is not likely to have more control over the direction of a gunshot than of a golf ball.

AVOID LAWSUITS In order to keep out of lawsuits every golfer should use his common sense on the golf course. Never hit the ball until the players ahead are out of range. Remember, also, that you have no guarantee that your ball is going to go where you intend it. Be careful when hitting a tee box when a fairway runs parallel.

Properly, there is someone within easy reach approaching the driver. Call "fore" under these circumstances. Since all players assume some of the risk, the courts recognize that a participant in a sport must take certain unavoidable chances, all players are well advised to protect themselves. Stay carefully on the line of fair play, and when you hear the word "fore" don't turn around.

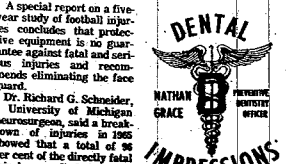

Another area of increasing legal danger for golfers are golf carts. These are becoming more and more popular and as a result we will have more and more accidents. Golf carts should be driven just as automobiles. Early in the season, involving golf carts, accidents and many of these involve very serious injuries and death. Golf carts should be driven just as automobiles.

One would be well advised to get insurance coverage if he uses a cart regularly. It might be that your insurance policy covers you at the present time. It would be wise to check. Most of the injuries occur when the golf carts turn over. The driver should avoid sharp turns, driving sideways on hills and going too fast.

All of us should use our heads under all circumstances on the golf course. This includes being patient and courteous. It might save us a serious injury for a substantial amount of money.

Practice Dangers: Practice swings of the tee are not only dangerous but may be costly. The courts have held that the injured party assumes no risk where he had no reason to suspect that any one would be swinging a club in his vicinity.

Attempts to impose liability for injury to a player on another tee or fairway than that from which the ball causing the injury was driven have usually been unsuccessful, the our dental and facial injuries and have fewer neck and head injuries. The neurosurgeon pointed out that statistics from the fall of 1966 through the 1967 season reveal that 80 percent of fatal and serious injuries were suffered by players in sandlot or unprotected play.

Surgeon Says Yearly pelvic exams spot starting stages of cancer

Each year approximately 30,000 women die in the United States from cancer of the female genital organs. This is second only to cancer of the breast. The majority of these deaths are from cancer of the cervix, the neck of the womb.

During the past five years the number of cases of cancer of the female genital organs has increased a great deal. This increase in cancer is due to the early detection of cancer when treatment is most successful. Cancer of the cervix is nearly 100 percent curable if found early and promptly treated.

Early cancer detection depends on an annual pelvic examination regardless of age. This can be done easily, quickly and painlessly in the Gynecologic or Cancer Detection Clinic. The pelvic examination includes a cell examination for Cervical cancer, sometimes called the "Pap" smear. The "Pap" smear is a way to detect the presence of cancer by taking a smear of the cells on the cervix and examining them under a microscope. In this way abnormalities may be detected even when a growth is not small to be seen or felt by the doctor, often months or even years before symptoms or signs appear.

A sign which should be investigated is a change in the usual pattern of vaginal bleeding or bleeding after intercourse (change of life). Unusual or irregular vaginal bleeding is not an emergency, but should never be ignored or treated with home remedies.

Remember a simple, painless yearly pelvic examination is one of the best safeguards to your health.

Practice Dangers: Practice swings of the tee are not only dangerous but may be costly. The courts have held that the injured party assumes no risk where he had no reason to suspect that any one would be swinging a club in his vicinity.

Kennedys Noted For Hospitality

By Jane Daniels

A welcome place for the woman who would enjoy relaxing, "feeling at home," taking her shoes off and enjoying a piece of pie, and having a long chat would be the home of Mrs. Lawrence E. Kennedy, wife of The Infantry School's sergeant major.

MRS. L. E. KENNEDY Enjoys People

Gifted with the charm and friendliness that comes with Southern hospitality, she welcomes the chance to enjoy people. Certainly an invaluable and necessary characteristic of any Army wife.

Along with being a gracious Southern hostess, Mrs. Kennedy is a busy mother and grandmother for her three children and granddaughter. Her oldest daughter, Carolyn, is now Mrs. W. C. Comer, an Atlanta home maker and the mother of Susan, the little granddaughter. Her daughter, Donna, 13, is a horseback riding enthusiast and an eighth grader at Faith School. Her son, Mike, 18, an employee with the Georgia Health Department, enjoys being a "grease monkey" on cars and on his motorcycle.

From Mississippi When they were in Tupelo, Miss., they purchased a small farm which they had always wanted. The farm, Hickory Acres, is a wooded, secluded area with two lakes and is their own refuge for animals. They've installed a sprinkler system there and planted shrubbery and bulbs. They dream now of building a home at Hickory Acres where they've also been to Bad Nauheim, Germany to Tupelo, Miss., and to Schofield Barracks, Hawaii. In 1965, while SGM Kennedy went to Vietnam, Mrs. Kennedy went back to Amory, Miss.

The family's habit in Hawaii of going to the beach on Sunday afternoons gave them a shock on one of their jaunts. While they were sleeping on the sands, the surf slipped in closer and closer. Finally, to their complete dismay, a big wave suddenly engulfed them. Only later could they laugh about that experience.

Hiked in Germany In Germany, the Kennedys made frequent use of the German countryside for hiking. Even now, they hike on the reservation whenever there's a chance for some quiet relaxation. At Fort Benning she has been publicity chairman for the Ladies of the Big In-dianhead and was vice president and secretary with the NCO Wives' Club of the 11th Air Assault. Of course, a big part of her job is always being ready to go to someone's aid or to a social gathering at a moment's notice. She is now active in the NCO Wives' Club and of the Sergeants' Major Wives' Group.

Officers' Wives To Present Arts and Activities Show

By Lynn Jones

The Officers' Wives' Club's Arts and Activities Show, under the direction of Mrs. Leonard P. Perry, will be presented in the auditorium of Faith School on Sunday, April 16, from 1 to 6 p.m. An open reception is extended to the public. There will be no admission charge and refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Exhibits of arts and crafts displaying talents developed by members of each OWC class will be featured, according to Mrs. Albert N. Ward, 1st vice president and the activities chairman for the OWC.

All retired and military dependents are eligible and encouraged to display art work in all media. Paintings suitable for hanging will be accepted from the hours of 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, April 14 and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, April 15.

There must be identification on the back of each painting and arrangements

Baker High School PTA will hold its next meeting at 8:00 p.m., Monday, in the school auditorium. They will present the second part of the guidance and counseling series for parents.

Dr. Lindsey Mock of Columbus College will discuss the requirements for college admission, and the many programs offered in the Georgia educational system, with emphasis on Columbus College.

Also on the program is Mr. George A. Criley of the Columbus Vocational School, and he will specifically discuss the entrance requirements and wide range of training available at the Vocational School.

This series of counseling has been designed to provide information on professions and occupations for which the student is best suited, and to help both parents and students in selection of attainable goals early in their school years.

The nominating committee of LTC and Mrs. Martin J. Stominsky and SGM A. Stokes will present the nominees to be considered for election for the coming year. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

must be made for all art work to be picked up the day of the show after 6 p.m. For further information, phone Mrs. W. Carr at 688-2722.

A SPECIAL HIGHLIGHT of the Sunday afternoon show will be performing in the OWC Choral Group at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Their program will include favorite selections from "The Sound of Music."

Featured activities and their chairmen include art—Mrs. Richard E. Borden, chairman; adult art instructor—Mrs. Chester Christie; children's art instructor, Mrs. Richard J. O'Neill.

Officers' Club welfare chairman, reminding all qualified high school seniors that the deadline for mailing applications for the OWC scholarships is April 15.

Six outstanding student awards in the amount of $300 each are to be presented to the winners and announced at school assemblies this month. Applications may be obtained at all area high school offices.

High school seniors in the Columbus, Phenix City, Fort Benning Area, in the departments of military personnel, either active, retired or deceased, are eligible. These scholarship awards may be used for tuition, room, board or books.

Six alternates will also be named and each will receive a $30.00 Savings Bond. The Officers' Wives' Club will sponsor a free dance on Saturday April 29 honoring these six outstanding student award winners and the six alternates.

W. Carr; ceramics—Mrs. Nathan Grace, chairman; choral group—Mrs. Kar Brugger, chairman; director—Mrs. R. G. Hertel; furniture refinishing—Mrs. J. W. Erickson, chairman; flower arranging—Mrs. R. C. Bailey; Mrs. D. Knitting—chairman; instructor—Mrs. M. L. Powell; tailoring—Mrs. Robert E. Baden, chairman; pre-kindergarten art—Mrs. W. M. Zimmerman, chairman; Mrs. Gregory Brickhouse, principal.

New Gold Star Wives' Chapter Is Organized Here

A new unit of the Gold Star Wives of America, the Chattahoochee Valley Chapter, has been organized in Columbus.

The president and organizer of the chapter is Mrs. Jack Sanford, the former Miss Jeanette French of Columbus.

The club will meet the second Tuesday night of each month and on the third Sunday afternoon.

This is the second chapter of Gold Star Wives to be organized in Columbus. The majority of the members of the first chapter are widows whose husbands were killed during World War II. As the Korean War brought more members into the club, keeping abreast of all benefits available to them, Mrs. Sanford said, "I am so thankful that the chapter is here. I am so glad to have a writing to me and calling me on the phone."

At her invitation, I attended a two-day conference in Albany in 1966.

Mrs. Sanford said that her husband died in Vietnam during a period of shock, then depression, and finally a "benumbment" time in which she felt nothing, but the Gold Star Wives understood.

"Recently, I made 16 telephone calls to widows I had read about or heard about from friends, inviting them to meet and organize a chapter. We met on February 5 and all but one of those girls joined. Since then, we have grown to 26 members," she continued.

"The purpose of our organization is to do something worthwhile as a memorial to our husbands," Mrs. Sanford explained. "We wear the Gold Star pin, but not as a membership pin. It is a gift returned to Columbus to the 'old kin' who ask for it. We wear the pin with pride as a tribute to the dedicated men who were our husbands."

"It is a sad circumstance that makes a woman eligible to join our group," Mrs. Sanford said, "yet we welcome each one with genuine warmth and gladness. You see, her eligibility is based upon a loss which she and we alike must accept. It is there for her to cope with whether she joins with us or not. We are glad that we have found her and we know that together we can face our mutual problems in a more constructive way than any of us could alone."

"If the new member's sorrow is in those agonizing early stages, the fact that we know what she is faced with must surely help her," the young widow said. "On the other hand, with each addition to our number, we will individually renew our determination to carry on the principles for which our husbands died."

"The intense desire to continue their husbands' work is like another gold star in our hearts," Mrs. Sanford said. "It is a determination to make our lives an experience that will enable us to be strong, useful individuals as dedicated to living worthy lives as our husbands were to serving our country."

"Our club will not only provide the companionship of others who really understand and can share our experience, but it will give us a group of congenial women to work with in many useful activities such as Red Cross volunteer service."

The club is entirely dependent upon newspaper accounts of the death of a serviceman or on friends who know of someone who has lost her husband. No official source of such information is available to them. "There

Community Service

Dear Community Service,

My husband left last week for Vietnam, and he left me a general power of attorney. Since he left, people have been talking to me about planning for the future. He handled all the business before. I have a chance to buy a beautiful house and a financial company will lend me the money for a down payment. I really do want the house. Our car is old, and we had already agreed to turn it in on a new one before he left. Of course, if I get the house, I will need new furniture and things as it is in a very nice neighborhood. We have four children and a nice location and good schools are important.

I know I will be putting us in debt but with his extra money and my getting a job, we can swing it. I also expect my older children to work when school is out. Won't it be nice for my husband to come home and find us so well fixed?

FUTURE MINDS

Dear Future Minded,

Stop! Look and Listen! Don't make a move until you do. If your letter had been about what you have done, you would have signed "YEARS." The extra money can stop, you may not be able to work. Do not buy anything that you cannot pay for out of your husband's normal stateide pay. Don't sign any contract without having it checked first by a Legal Assistance Officer. In fact, come to Community Services right away. We need to talk.

NCO Wives Plan Cover Dish Supper

'Guerrillas' Make Jungle Training Even Tougher

By SP4 David E. Chaffon
 The mission of the 197th Infantry School is to support the Infantry school. And that's just what Co. A, 1st Bn., 29th Infantry, prepared to do as it set up for operations at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. Co. A is now playing one of the most vital and unique support roles that any unit of the 197th is ever called upon to do as it provides the "guerrillas," or enemy troops, for the 1st Ranger Company in their third and final phase of training at Eglin.

The "Rangers, who trace their ancestry to Roger's Rangers of pre-Revolutionary War Days, underwent a rugged and demanding nine-week course. The first three weeks of training are spent at Fort Benning. The second three weeks at Dahlgren, Georgia, allow the Rangers to practice mountain operations techniques. The environment at Eglin Air Force Base during the third three weeks is designed to simulate jungle or swampy terrain, and here important anti-guerrilla operations techniques are learned.

It is also here that Co. A comes into the picture. Forty-eight men of Co. A, including their CO, 2LT Michael Hayes, simulate a battalion-size unit of guerrillas and carry out every conceivable type of guerrilla operation. The Co. A guerrillas are led by a Special Forces Team of 21 men commanded by 2LT W. M. Whitfield. A Team of 5 Western Whitefield. The team is on TDY status from Fort Bragg, N. C. The Special Forces carry out detailed course of instruction just as they would if they were leading and advising guerrilla band. This added touch of realism creates a situation in which there are actually three groups of students.

The Ranger students are learning the techniques of anti-guerrilla warfare. The men of Co. A are learning guerrilla warfare, and the Special Forces team is learning and practicing the techniques of leading and advising a guerrilla force.

Realism Co. A must learn a lot. For 22 days they must eat, think and fight the guerrillas. The problem is so real that, except for the use of blanks in their rifles, the men of Co. A actually are being shot at by leaders seriously hinder the success of a Ranger problem. The guerrillas morale is poor, and they just don't care. They won't play the game."

However, with Co. A, the tables have been turned. The men of Co. A actually thrive on their new environment, whether it is the terrain and the demanding schedule or the change in leadership. All most all the men agree with SP4 Charles J. McGovern, a veteran of 12 months with Co. A and several Ranger problems. "Living in the field isn't bad. I enjoy the change, and, besides, there aren't any inspections."

Traps Being a guerrilla has other compensations. The guerrillas are experienced in building booby traps and man holes. Some of the holes they men dig around their camp reach depths of 9 to 12 feet. They are skillfully camouflaged and impossible to detect even in full daylight. Woe be to the Ranger student who stumbles in, and of these during a pre-dawn attack.

During a previous problem in which the men of Co. A participated, about half a platoon of attacking Ranger students fell into these man traps. If captured during an attack, the Rangers are liable to interrogation, just as a guerrilla would be if captured by a Ranger. The interrogations are sometimes very amusing for the guerrillas. Though the interrogation techniques are not harmful, they are definitely irritating and effective.

Without causing bodily injury, the guerrillas have made Ranger students give them information. In a few cases Rangers have been released from the course or seriously reprimanded for aiding the "enemy." This interrogation is important since 80 percent of any Ranger class is composed of commissioned officers whose ability to resist interrogation must be without question.

An "open period" for Association of the U.S. Army (AUSA) group life insurance has been declared for April 15 to May 31, officials of the national organization have announced.

According to AUSA, there will be no extension of the open period.

Combat losses in Vietnam which have been higher than predicted, are endangering AUSA's ability to offer life insurance without a war clause. Consequently, any present member of the Association may apply up until May 31, but after that date, certain restrictions will be imposed.

Applications will be accepted from new members only during the seventh month of their membership.

Form Helps Servicemen When Flying

Servicemen who wish to fly on a stand-by basis on commercial airlines will have to fill out, and have in their possession, a new military form, DD Form 1580, Military Stand-by Authorization for Commercial Air Travel, is the pipes form to be issued to active duty members for the purpose of flying stand-by.

It also gives the commercial air carriers a means of identifying members who are authorized to be absent from duty as specified.

The form is issued to the service member upon his request, contingent upon authorization to be absent from duty as a result leave, delay en route, pass, or discharge.

This form will not substitute for official authorization for a member to be absent from duty and air carriers have reserved the right to inspect leave, pass and identification of the member.

Of these cards, one is for the ticket issuing agency and one for each commercial flight intended to be traveled.

Middle Managers Complete Workshop, Return to Jobs

Twenty-eight military and civilian middle managers here returned to their routine jobs Monday after completing a week-long workshop on self-development.

The class, comprised of supervisors in the mid-structure of their organizations, were graduated in a ceremony with COL. H. S. Cunningham, Infantry Center chief of staff, presenting the certificates.

In his remarks to the class COL. Cunningham said, "Each of you will be a better manager for having taken this course. You will return to your regular jobs with ideas you have gained here."

The speaker said the purpose of the "Middle Managers Workshop" is to give time to "take stock of yourself," keep up with changes and discuss problems with other managers.

Files Cover 135,000 Locator Service Is Asked 52,000 Questions Monthly

By SSG Sawe Wilson

"Don't you know my son—he's in the Army too?" If any soldier ever groaned inwardly when some little old lady said that to them they should sympathize with Edward Poole and SFC Robert H. Floyd who have similar questions thrown at them about 52,000 times every month.

Of course, as chiefs of Fort Benning's post locator service, that is their job and over a dozen others help them. Like most soldiers, they grumble—but only when they cannot locate someone, which happens about 3000 times a month.

Work Load High

"If people would just put in change of address cards when they move," says Floyd, "our work would really be simple."

"Simple" being the over 150,000 pieces of mail, which need forwarding; that the crew processes each month. Out of the stack they usually have to locate some 40,000 individuals whose letters have no sufficient addresses.

From their files, over 135,000 individuals can be located—almost within seconds. To keep the files accurate, about 50,000 cards are changed monthly.

Procedure

New arrivals here make out three locator cards. One goes into one of the 42 flip-racks that stretch over more than 30 feet in the post room of Fort Benning's post office. The other two stay in the unit mail rooms.

At every change in unit assignment, more cards are made out on the individual so the changes can be made in the files.

Each rack has 40 "flips" and each "flip" has up to 70 locator cards per side. The cards are filed alphabetically with some of the more common names going down to the third or fourth letter in the first name.

'Quick Kill' Aims at Bettering Infantry Marksmen

It is a toy for boys — the common BB gun — but the Army is using the air rifle in a deadly serious new program called Quick Kill which will make the American soldier a far more dangerous man for his enemy.

Despite the advances of modern warfare, it is still the man with the rifle who takes and holds territory. That is what war is all about in the final instant. Quick Kill, being developed at The Infantry School, will make that man and his weapon more lethal than ever.

At a recent demonstration for Alabama National Guardsmen on Fort Benning's Lower Shelton Range, a young sergeant in full combat gear raced down a queue, fell to his knees and dumped 20 rounds into a silhouette 25 meters away. It took him 15 seconds to empty his M-16 magazine.

All hits

Every bullet hit the target in a pattern that could be covered by a steel helmet.

A decisive shot? No, just an above average rifleman. A new kind of sight? No, heavy tape obscured the weapon's sights.

LTC John M. Barnes, the man in charge of the Infantry School's Quick Kill committee, walked toward the bleachers and waved the target.

"If this had been a man," he told the Alabama guardsmen, "he would have got more than a severe case of heartburn."

What is it?

Quick Kill. Just what is it? And how will it be taught to our soldiers?

It is based on a simple physical phenomenon. When a person points his finger at any object at which he is looking, his finger will, with no conscious effort on his part, align itself on the point of focus of his eyes.

In Quick Kill, the rifle comes an extension of the pointed finger. The technician

How does a soldier become adept at Quick Kill? Initial training uses the air rifle and .31-inch iron discs. The instructor throws a disc into the air 7 to 10 feet from the weapon's muzzle. The soldier holds his air rifle, which has no sights, at this height and begins to hit the disc regularly, smaller ones are used.

With an hour or less of training, some soldiers are able to shoot the paper out of the washer's center with half of their shot. They will hit the washer 80 per cent of the time.

With a few hours of Quick Kill instruction, soldiers have been known to hit the ultimate target — a BB thrown into the air.

Silhouettes Used

After mastering aerial shooting (and with his confidence at an all-time high), the soldier fires his air rifle at tiny silhouette targets placed 15 feet away.

Finally comes the transition to a M-14 or M-16 rifle and fatigued targets. The rifle silhouettes are taped, and a wooden rib is placed on the weapon to provide a level plane.

Quick Kill also can be applied to pistol training with but to supplement it. Flexibility can be crucial in Vietnam. A soldier cannot afford to miss a shot or die.

Students Enthusiastic

The teaching of Quick Kill is a unique program, one that generates a true enthusiasm. There are perhaps two major reasons for this. First is the use of the familiar BB gun, a child-like toy, in an age of high muzzle velocity and flat trajectory. Many soldiers were playing with air rifles just a few years ago and if there is a bit of the boy left in every man, shooting like this brings it out.

Secondly, there is a tremendous amount of satisfaction in hitting an aerial target.

It is to eliminate aiming and has been used by hunters for some time.

For its purpose it enables a man to quickly deliver accurate and, if needed, massive fire at close range fleeing targets.

This situation is often encountered in the jungles of Vietnam, where American infantry clashes with guerrillas at ranges of 15 to 30 feet.

Quick Kill, with a practical limitation of 100 meters, would also be applicable to street fighting, like that which occurred in the Dominican Republic.

The technique is not intended to replace sight firing but to supplement it. Flexibility can be crucial in Vietnam. A soldier cannot afford to miss a shot or die.

PRANKER FIRES AT TARGET IN MID-AIR

Soldiers Say It Is Satisfying to Hit Tumbling Disc on the Fly

Get it sends a soldier's spirit soaring when he discovers that it doesn't take a Daniel Boone to hit a tiny, tumbling target in mid-air.

Quick Kill, says COL. William L. Koob Jr., director of The Infantry School's Weapons Department, "is the only military training I have ever seen that soldiers will forego 10-minute breaks to do on their own time."

Why Air Rifles?

Why are air rifles used in teaching Quick Kill?

CG of 199th Pens Approval Infantrymen Trained Here Use Quick Kill in Vietnam

A troop transport knifes through placid Pacific waters. The ship's destination is Vietnam. Its passengers are soldiers of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade. A group of them is engaged in a cautious deck-side activity. A sergeant flips a dime into the air. An air rifle at his shoulder, plinks a BB against the tiny target. He does it again and again. The PFC is a certified Quick Kill. Here is the story of how one Infantry unit put Quick Kill to use in Vietnam.

BG Charles W. Ryder Jr. has high praise for the principles of Quick Kill. He commends the 199th Light Infantry Brigade, which received Quick Kill instruction as part of its combat training at Fort Benning before going to war last December.

The 199th is the first Army organization trained in the principles of Quick Kill to use it in combat.

From Vietnam, B G Ryder recently reported on how this new method has been used by his riflemen. His report was in a letter to COL. William L. Koob Jr., director of The Infantry School's Weapons Department.

"The units of the brigade received a twofold benefit from continuing the Quick Kill instruction aboard ship enroute to Vietnam," BG Ryder wrote. "Not only did it increase confidence in the capability of weapons when there was insufficient time to achieve a perfect sight picture or sight alignment, but it also helped shorten a long sea voyage."

"In a few instances," the Quick Kill is particularly helpful to the foot soldier fighting in the heavily-jungled regions of South Vietnam. The 199th Infantrymen found themselves in a different terrain.

The brigade was deployed in a flat, largely open area covered with rice paddies and canals. The units were located by rivers, canals and streams.

Because observation is usually good, most daylight contacts with the Viet guerrillas have been at ranges of several hundred meters. Sight firing is most applicable here.

Nipa Palms

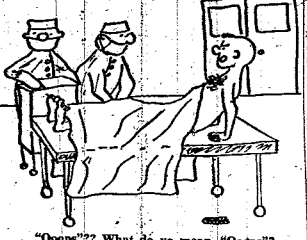

However, a thick growth of Nipa palms along the banks of canals and streams provided some cover for the enemy, and this has resulted in short range firefights at times.

"In a few instances," the Quick Kill method would prove to be of even greater value.

come in close contact and the Quick Kill instructor has been very beneficial.

The war in Vietnam grows in intensity every day and it is with ambushes and it is with ambushes cloaked by darkness that the 199th has utilized Quick Kill to the best advantage.

Hundreds of ambush parties have been placed along suspected Viet Cong lines of water communication. BG Ryder reported, and firepower has been heightened by the use of Quick Kill. "Should we be assigned an area of operations in the more highly vegetated jungle regions, I'm sure the Quick Kill method would prove to be of even greater value."

"Ooops?? What do ya mean, "Ooops"? I know what I'VE done when I say "Ooops."

China Turmoil Growing States AUSA Magazine

"The chaos of 1966 will be no match for the chaos we can foresee in 1967 and 1968," says COL Robert B. Riggs, USA, Ret. in the April Army Magazine article "Chaos in Communist China."

Communist China is in serious internal trouble," states the author, a student of Communist China since 1945. With the deterioration of Peking's military posture and the rise of warlordism, the future of Mao Tseung is in question. He now controls less than half of the some thirty provinces on the mainland. From the Spartan Three-point, writers, and politicians, Special Forces, armies have military theoreticians.

may be the manufacture of a political lesson of technological tradition, and though they fascinate historians, artists, and politicians, they are not so popular among military theoreticians.

Morning Report Means 12,000 Changes a Month for Clerk Here

By PFC Jerry F. Boone

Three morning reports a day, with nearly 12,000 changes per month, are the job of company clerk here. He looks forward to but that is the job of SP4 Ray Neill, company clerk of the 281st Replacement Company.

The company, which will be fully operational sometime in May, will be responsible for the processing of almost all of Fort Benning's soldiers who are either arriving or leaving, or assigned as permanent party, airborne or OCS students.

"A soldier will report to us one evening," says SFC Victor Ortiz, first sergeant of the 281st, "and is picked up on our morning report the following day. During that time, we process his records and send them to the proper units or post. If he needs help in processing, or is missing records, we help locate them or send him to agencies that can give him assistance."

48 Hours Required
Within 48 hours, the soldier has been completely processed, dropped from one of the morning reports (one for processing, one for outprocessing and one for the company's men), given his orders and sent to his new home unit.

The company is presently attached to the 16th General Support Group of Center Troop Command, but after an upcoming Army Training Test, expects to strike out on its own and become part of the post Adjutant General Section.

Under post AG Section, it will be capable of processing up to 5000 men per month. In addition to processing the soldiers, the 281st also will provide housing, food, dayroom facilities and sometimes training.

The company also has a training program of its own. The men are learning how to perform their duties under combat conditions.

"Our job under combat conditions would be much the same," says 2LT James L. Sealey, training officer, "except that in addition to the normal processing, we would also check the soldiers' shot records, legal needs such as wills, etc., and anything else needed before going into a combat area."

The Drill Sergeant Artillery NCO Helps Train Infantrymen

Individual drill sergeants at the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, come from many branches of the Army other than Infantry.

SFC Billy C. Jones is an Artilleryman teaching the fundamentals of soldiering — infantry style — to basic trainees in Co. C, 11th BN, 3rd Bde.

A tall lean Texas Jones' appearance is that of a truly professional soldier. His company commander, CPT Dennis J. Beiner, said, "Sergeant Jones is one of the most professional NCOs I've ever known."

His ability as an instructor is demonstrated daily by the quality of instruction of his classes, according to Beiner. His platoon, the second, consistently wins the best platoon award given within the company.

In February of this year, Jones received a letter from the 3rd Brigade commander, COL William R. Hanks, concerning the sergeant's outstanding presentation of a class in military courtesy.

In the letter COL Hanks stated, "The enthusiasm and thoroughness which were displayed in your highly successful presentation are exactly what is needed if we are to develop highly competent, disciplined, and dedicated soldiers."

His competence as a drill sergeant is further attested to by LTC Carl M. Zilian, Battalion commander. He describes Jones as a serious minded, dedicated soldier, who is universally admired and respected by trainees as well as fellow NCOs and superior.

As a sergeant, he is highly enlisted at Fort Hood, Tex. He will complete 12 years of active service in June.

Silver Star Holder Gets U.S. Citizenship Papers

1LT Richard C. Resoria, the first unit to Vietnam with the 1st Cavalry Div. 7th Co., 7th Sst. Bn. (OC), received his United States citizenship this week.

He was formerly a British soldier and served with the British Army in Cyprus and with the colonial forces in a section of Rhodesia which is now known as Zambia. When Zambia became independent, he left the army and returned home to London and to civilian life.

While in London, he decided to travel to the United States. Shortly after his arrival in 1956, he enlisted and later attended OCS here.

Upon his graduation in April of 1963, 1LT Resoria was assigned to the 2nd Bn. of the 7th Cavalry Airborne. In August of the same year,

New Lieutenants Hear Chief of Staff

"A fine cross section of this is how COL H. S. Cunningham, chief of staff of The Infantry Center, described the graduates of Infantry Officer Candidate Class 19-67, who received their commissions here last week.

COL Cunningham, who finished OCS here in 1948, cited statistics to support his praise of the 163 new second lieutenants.

Some of these facts were: Average education is 14 1/2 years, with 70 men above owning bachelor degrees and three with masters.

Average Age is 22.57 years, and the graduates will represent 36 states. Their average of prior military service is one year.

The lieutenants were commissioned into seven branches of the Army. Their assignments circle the globe, with 20 going to the Pacific, 20 to Europe and the remainder to 42 different stations in the continental United States.

COL Cunningham then projected his statistics into the future. "I predict," he said, "that three years from now, 40 of you will still be in the Army. And 32 will be members of the Regular Army."

"In 10 years, 21 more of you will have masters and 217 others will have PhD's," he said.

"Twenty years from now, all will be majors, some even lieutenant colonels and maybe colonels. You will have 1/2 life apiece and an average of one child in college," COL Cunningham said.

"And 26 years from now, at least one of you will be a general officer," the colonel concluded.

Distinguished honor graduate and first man in leadership was 2LT Michael Dierker, who won the Silver Star as a Grenadier in Vietnam, had a leadership rating of 99.9 per cent.

Academic honors went to 2LT Forrest H. Clark III.

'The Blue Max' to Open Saturday

During the four year span of World War I, the introduction of air power into war was far brought about a new breed of man, the fighter pilot, a daredevil who duelled in the air in the earliest forms of aircraft. The story of one of these winners is told in "The Century-Post" — "The Blue Max," starring George Peppard, James Mason, Ursula Andress, Johnny Kemp and Karl Michael Vogler.

John Guillermin directed and Christian Ferry produced the CinemaScope-Deluxe Color attraction. The screen play by Gerald Hanley, David Pursall and Jack Seddon is based on the bestselling novel of the same name by Jack D. Hunter.

Peppard has one of the most challenging roles of his career as a relentlessly ambitious young flyer. In addition to the drama of wartime skies, the film focuses on the personal story of Peppard's love affair with Ursula Andress, whose role in "The Blue Max" is considerably more demanding than any other she has essayed.

"The Blue Max" was a Maltese cross executed in blue enamel and edged with silver with the German imperial eagle in silver lacquer between the bars of the cross. It was the days of Frederick II when they had downed 20 Albatrosses. The French was the German. The medal was always an impressive occasion.

Ireland was picked as a site for the complex production of its terrain is strikingly similar to the Somme area of France as they were in 1918. It is within easy reach of lines of communications and its skies are not jammed by commercial and private flying, nor is the air clogged by smog, fog or polluted air.

Engineers Blow Outdated Bridge During Exercise

The 3rd Engineer Battalion CTC, recently blew up a bridge over Oswichee Creek, as part of their training program. The old timber trestle bridge was originally constructed by a logging contractor, using native timber and materials.

Because the bridge could no longer safely support its rated capacity, it was decided to remove the original bridge, and replace it with a bridge of similar design.

The demolition of the bridge showed the troops how engineers could perform one of their primary missions, that of impeding the advance of unfriendly forces with the use of obstacles and the destruction of existing routes of advance.

The construction of the new bridge will give the men of the 3rd valuable experience in the techniques of construction which are being used so widely in Vietnam today.

Injury Led OC Hitchcock To Weight Lifting Crown

HITCHCOCK MAKES 400 LB. BACK LIFT Was Collegiate Light-Heavy Weight Champ

John Hitchcock of 75th Co., 7th Sst Bn (OC) is a world traveler, anthropologist and champion weight lifter. Hitchcock was Collegiate Light-Heavyweight Champion of California in 1965 and 1966 and was AAU Middleweight State Champion of California in 1967. Born in San Francisco, Hitchcock showed an early interest in athletics and, after high school, played football for Chico State College. It was here that Hitchcock suffered a serious shoulder separation while playing football which led to his becoming a champion weight lifter. Recommended weights, Hitchcock's doctor recommended lifting weights as a means to strengthening the weak shoulder, and it was this therapy which introduced Hitchcock to weight lifting as a competitive sport.

After Hitchcock's first two years of college, he went to sea with the merchant marine, and took his weight lifting with him. Hitchcock worked out with his weights during free time on board ship and he competed when in port. During his first year cruise, he accomplished a 250 pound military press, a 325 pound snatch, and a 320 pound clean and jerk.

After two years with the merchant marine, Hitchcock resumed study — this time at San Francisco State College. He completed his degree in anthropology and of course his interest in various cultures had been broadened by his time at sea. It was, also during these years of schooling that Hitchcock was actually can be lifted.

He feels that weight lifting as a sport is about forty percent physical and sixty percent mental. Strength is very important but speed, coordination, and style play an important role in building a champion weight lifter. Hitchcock practiced six hours a day during training.

Hitchcock emphasizes the significance of weight lifting as a sport instead of just a method for body building. He suggested that there is a real challenge in being able to lift the amount of weight which was actually can be lifted.

NCO's 13th Anniversary Turns Out Lucky After All

BY CHARLES BLACK
The grenade — wired to a scrubby little tree beside a trail in a Viet guerrilla blow away SSG Yuzel Clemmons' left hand and seemed to rip up all of Clemmons' large and small plans.

Clemmons is an airborne soldier with 18 years in the Army. He had planned to return to Fort Benning when his year of combat with the 195th Light Infantry Division in Vietnam was finished and take up his old job as an instructor in the Airborne Department.

Clemmons left Columbus with his unit, the 2nd Battalion, 3rd Infantry's reconnaissance platoon, in November 1965. Before he left, he had set up all of the details for an elaborate plan as well as thinking about his Army future.

His 13th anniversary party would come April 3, 1967. It would be the first anniversary that he would spend apart from overseas tours and Army travel which always seemed to allow them to be together on that special day. Clemmons had started a tradition of having the biggest, most elaborate cake he could find delivered that day.

On the last day of his leave before reporting to the deploying infantry brigade, Clemmons drove to see a friend who had baked those traditional anniversary and good cakes for the five he and his wife had observed while he was stationed at Fort Benning.

Mrs. Jewel Olds, an employee at Newberry's Department Store, was unusual about the embarrassed airborne sergeant leaving elaborate instructions for the biggest fanciest tiered cake her bakery department could manufacture to be delivered on a date six months in advance.

careful instructions Clemmons gave careful instructions that the cake should be delivered before noon on April 3 and that it should be kept a surprise. In fact, he put instructions on the order blank.

"My wife is not to suspect anything until you deliver the cake on Monday, April 3, 1967. Also she is not to know how any of this was arranged, this is part of the surprise for our 13th anniversary," Clemmons wrote Mrs. Olds he would send her the necessary $30 in time for her to start work on the order, could she find it as well as with so many others like it.

On March 2, Clemmons led his new seasoned squad on a search and destroy mission. When he came back he intended to send off that $30 to Mrs. Olds and have the cake project get under way.

Scrubby Tree

There was that scrubby little tree growing close to the trail, the scouts were feeling out ahead of their battalion. A soldier saw a wire running from it across the trail and called to Clemmons.

Long Range Beautification Plan Set to Enhance Appearance of Fort Benning

Green thumbs are in vogue here as the Post Engineers, professional landscape artists and occupants of family quarters join hands to undertake a long range beautification plan. The project will include improvements to approaches to the main post, park areas and grounds adjacent to installation buildings as well as foundation plantings; family quarters.

Tom Brown, chief of the Engineer Section's building and grounds division, said Fort Benning always has been considered one of the most beautiful Army posts in the world. "Newcomers and visitors are impressed with the area and gently rolling terrain," he said. "Many Army families have planted their favorite flowers and have given their lawns the same enthusiastic care shown by green-thumbs in other walks of life. Flowers, shrubs and native trees and shrubs that are healthy, eliminating the need for replacing only those that are overgrown or diseased.

Early in 1966, COL Francis C. Crow, then post engineer, initiated the effort to beautify the post according to a definite plan. A firm of professional landscape architects was engaged to study the plan for Fort Benning, which was set by the Staff Engineer, with a master design. A contract for $30,000 for the study was let by the Savannah District Engineers. After a six-month survey by the landscape architects, a master plan was submitted to the commanding general and his staff.

Pilot Models As an aid to the officials in considering the proposed plan, the Post Engineers selected two lawns to plant as pilot models. These were the quarters occupied by Dr. Harold S. Tate and by COL Ernest Dameron.

When the job was completed, the two householders were consulted as to the effectiveness of the plantings. They, bringing doorbells, the engineers went from house to house among the neighbors, taking a limited public opinion. (See PLAN, Page 2)

MG York, Sanders Speak To Local AUSA Chapter

For the second time in three weeks a former governor of Georgia has spoken out in support of the Association of the U. S. Army (AUSA), and in particular of the Columbus - Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter.

Carl Sanders yesterday porters means to the military members of the local chapter at the Martinique at 1 p.m. to help kick off a membership drive.

Fort Benning's commander, MG Robert H. York, principal speaker on the program and outlined what the Army's national association of military and civilian supporters means to the military and to the installation here.

Infantry Board Sets Tests Of New Blank Attachment

Testing of an improved M12 Blank Firing Attachment (BFA) for the M14 rifle, received this week, is scheduled to commence this month by the U.S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) at Fort Benning.

Through the adoption of the improved BFA, the infantryman will once again be safe to put realism into his combat training and particularly his blank range firing of the M14 rifle.

Prior to the new development, many trainees were injured by flash burn or by being struck by small undetected particles when the rifle was used to fire blank cartridges in close combat training.

This improved model was developed as a result of comments received from training centers. Local units concerning minor injuries received by trainees and aggressors as a result of the undetected flash and particles.

Many trainees in their enthusiasm for accomplishment of training objectives and realism in hand-to-hand combat would fire the rifle with the blank cartridges at close

608th Ord. Co. Returns After Mission in Europe

The main body of a 200-man Ordnance company that moved to Europe three months ago to assist in the withdrawal of U. S. troops from France is expected to return here this weekend.

The 608th Ord. Co. is scheduled to arrive at Lawson Army Airfield by C-141 Starlifters tomorrow, Sunday and Monday.

The unit helped to relocate ammunition stocks after U. S. troops were scheduled to leave France before April 1. The unit, in less than three months' time accomplished its mission.

For their performance, the U.S. Army Europe Communications Zone headquarters has recommended the company for a unit citation.

GEN Andrew P. O'Meara, U.S. Army Europe commander-in-chief, visited the unit during February and complimented the men on their work.

Initially, the 608th was stationed at Capieux for two weeks for a briefing on their mission.

Before leaving, they trained other U.S. troops on supply and storage procedures for stockpiling of the ammunition.

The 608th is part of the 3rd General Support Group and is commanded by CPT Louis T. Taylor.

from the target during combat training as this could form a habit which could be carried over into combat, with undesirable results.

Defects Parried
The newly developed BFA incorporates a curved projection over the front end of the standard blank firing attachment which deflects the gases and particles downward.

The successful testing and adoption of the improved BFA should cause a significant decrease in training accidents caused by the muzzle flash and should assist in providing for maximum realism in combat training.

Book Names MAH Nurse Outstanding

An Army nurse here has been selected to appear in the 1966 edition of the book "Outstanding Young Women of America," soon to be published.

CPT Rebecca S. Brandon, the 25-year-old daughter of LTC and Mrs. James W. Brandon (USA Ret.) was notified of her selection by Mrs. Patricia Rogle, editor of the annual publication.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson is honorary chairman of the board of editors.

CPT Brandon is a graduate of East High School, Salt Lake City, Utah, and attended Colorado Women's College in Denver. She received her professional training at Mount Carmel School of Nursing in Pittsburg, Kan.

An operating room nurse, CPT Brandon entered the Army in April, 1964, and underwent basic nurse training at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. She served from September, 1965, to August, 1966, at the Third Field Hospital in Vietnam.

ident of the Columbus Bank and Trust Company and president of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, and who will become president of the AUSA chapter here this summer, said that during the membership campaign businesmen, professional organizations, officers, industries and activities would be contacted with "every member get a member" as a minimum objective.

"We need to more than double our present membership," he said, "if we want to get away from the feeling we all have... that we really are 'out of step.'"

Plan

The comments were made available to the staff as they studied the plot plantings and voted to adopt the over-all landscape plan.

First Phase
The plan is now in Phase of a four year period of implementation. Since early last fall, the approaches to Outpost No. 1 have been landscaped. The area around Teen Square has been beautified, also.

Brown said those who remember the rambling frame wards of the old hospital annex, then known as the "ten hundred block," can appreciate the improvements made there.

More and more trees and shrubs will be added during later phases of the master plan.

Other Areas
Phase I also includes quarters on Lumpkin Road and adjacent student quarters. This street was selected for initial planting because it is a main Road and because there was so much overgrown shrubbery in the area.

One ancient redwood tree for instance, had continued an annual "valiant effort to bloom," Brown said, "long past its time."

Most of the planting is being done by a local contractor but the post engineers have done the work at many of the student apartments.

The combined effect of an expert design, the services of a professional nurseman, the skill of the engineers and the cooperation of the house-holders soon will give Lumpkin Road the air of a residential street in a city of homeowners and garden club enthusiasts, in the opinion of Lawrence Moody, chief of the housing division.

Individuality
"We are even achieving individuality," LTC F. W. Boones, deputy engineer added. "To avoid the look of 'little boxes' in a row, we have four alternate planting patterns for each of 18 types of buildings on the post. This, coupled with the occupant's privilege of retaining choice healthy shrubs and adding bedding plants, will make each lawn personalized. All this variety, however, will be in keeping with the over-all postwide theme."

When the beautification plan extends to groups of family quarters or to one of the many unit areas where pride in the grounds is so evident, the cry, "Woodman, spare that tree (or shrub)" will not fall on deaf ears.

The residents, engineers and the nursesmen will work together — a "green laugh army," bent on maintaining Fort Benning's reputation as the most beautiful post in the world.

OWC Art Show To Open Sunday

MRS. WILLIAM MCNALLY SHOWS KILN AT ADVANCE ARTS AND CRAFTS SHOW (Photo by Ken Prater)

The Officers Wives Club's arts and activities show, under the direction of Mrs. Leonard P. Perna, will be presented at the auditorium of Faith School Sunday from 10 to 6 p.m.

The public is invited and there is no admission charge. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Exhibits of arts and crafts displaying talents developed by members of each OWC class will be featured.

Dependents of all active duty or retired military personnel are eligible and encouraged to display art work in all media. Paintings suitable for hanging will be accepted from 4:30 p.m. today and from 10 a.m.—4 p.m. Saturday.

Identification must be on the back of each painting and arrangements must be made for all art work to be picked up the day of the show after 6 p.m. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Wes Carr at 689-2722.

A special highlight of the Sunday afternoon show will be performances by the OWC choral group the Folk Dots at 2 and 4 p.m. The group's program will include selections from "The Sound of Music".

Dear Community Services, My husband is leaving for Vietnam right away. In fact he may be gone by the time this reaches you. He is going to take three months advance pay before he goes. He says we can use it to pay our bills because he will be making more money over there and he will know the creditors won't be bothering me. It worries me to know that it will all have to be paid back and that may not be easy. What do you think?

IN DEBT
Please reconsider the plan I am guessing that you do not have a support allotment made out to you. Do you know that there could possibly be a three-month delay in his pay if all the things that can go wrong, do go wrong? Do you know that he will not draw the extra pay across the board right away because it takes time to change the records? I hope I am not too late for you to put the advance pay money in the bank. Pay the bills each month as you have been doing.

Be a little more economical in your living expenses, as I know he must spend some money on himself for the trip. As soon as you are sure that he is being paid properly over there, then use the extra money any way you see fit. Remember, by the way, three months advance is paid back at around $100 each month for six months for E-5.

Don't be in the spot of being all paid up to day and not enough to eat on top of that. A reminder - a Class E allotment to you or his bank if it is a joint account is the best financial security he can give you.

Mrs. Ashland Purchwell, social chairman, introduced the guests, Mrs. Charles M. Mount, Mrs. D. G. Sheard, Mrs. Edward J. Geaney, Mrs. Martin J. Slominski and Mrs. Robert A. Scherz.

Hospitality House To Mark First Year Tomorrow

A birthday cake, refreshments and an all day open house will commemorate the first anniversary of Hospitality House on Dixie Road here.

From 9 a.m. - 6 p.m., visitors will be welcomed and guided on tours of the facility. Uniformed Army Community service (ACS) volunteers will explain the services Hospitality House provides for newcomers to the post and those leaving it.

Opened a year ago with a ribbon cutting ceremony, Hospitality House has set a high record of achievement. More than 1,000 new families up have followed the welcome center's arrows from the Army House on Dixie Road to the cheerful little cottage - a veritable "home" beside the road for weary travelers.

Over 320 requests for information have been handled by the facility's personnel, and two whom frequenting is a way of life.

Many military families in the past year have made Hospitality House their last stop as they cleared their post, borrowing coats, sheets, dishes and pans for the last night here after their household goods have been picked up. Whether coming or going, Army families are finding help in solving the little commonplace problems of uprooting a household.

It is practical assistance since it comes from people whose "home is the Army" and whom frequenting is a way of life.

Available to the newcomers are maps of the post and the civilian community, by-cures, hospital clinic schedules, information about schools and answers to all-

most any question. Telephone also are available, along with newspapers and help if a family is house hunting.

Indoor games and a well-equipped play yard keep children entertained while parents are getting acquainted with their new duties.

Cots are ready for those who need a quick nap before starting the familiar routine of setting up housekeeping along with baby beds for the sleepy youngster.

For those who arrive unchecked out for a short time, the linen unsundered because all sheets must go back to the Quartermaster laundry before issue to the next family.

A family of Army Community Service, Hospitality House is sponsored by the NCO Wives' Club. Mrs. Wayne Cliff is chairman and Mrs. Donald Potrafka, co-chairman, of a staff of 17 volunteers who keep the well-come agency open and a veritable oasis in an unfamiliar desert.

Mrs. Donald Potrafka, Lady Behind the Scene

By Jane Daniels

When a volunteer at the post Hospitality House needs to know more about her duties or how to fill in a report, and when someone suggests that there is a better way of doing things, the lady to which they turn is Mrs. Donald Potrafka, co-chairman of the Hospitality House, and the one who works "behind the scenes" to see that all runs smoothly.

For her work with Hospitality House, she recently was awarded a certificate from Army Community Service for over 1000 hours service.

Since coming to Fort Benning in 1964, she has also been the membership chairman of the NCO Wives' Club, worked with ACS, and served as an Eastern Star member.

Mrs. Potrafka is from Lansing, Mich., and her husband, now the sergeant major of The Infantry School's director of personnel, is from Alden, Minn. They met through a long standing friendship of his sister and her sister.

Marrried in 1944, The Potrafkas married in 1944 at Camp Beale, Calif., and then made short tours in Fort Marston, Mont., and Fort Sheridan, Ill., before going to Ketzler, Germany, in 1949.

In Wetzer, she helped organize an NCO Wives Club of which she later was elected president and worked closely with the OWC in helping to sponsor orphanages.

Of the many families that she has helped at Hospitality House, she laughingly tells of the most unusual, a whole family of skunks. The skunk family, it seems, decided to share in the hospitality.

The "hairy situation" was handled nicely though when a veterinarian was called to help the little family to find an equally nice home elsewhere on the reservation.

Beautiful Homes

From her many stations and through her many experiences, Mrs. Potrafka has numerous beautiful items in her home. Perhaps the most unusual things, however, are a teakwood table, a heartfelt token of thanks for her husband from a "Thai" man whom her husband had helped during his tour in Thailand, and a framed color photograph of the first hydrogen bomb explosion, on Eniwetok Island.

After Germany, the Potrafkas were stationed in Toledo, Ohio, where as a den mother for Cub Scouts she became involved for the first of many times with scout work.

Then while her husband was stationed on Eniwetok Island in the Pacific, she and her children returned to Lansing. That year gave her a chance to get really acquainted for the first time with their

OCs Celebrate Status At Main Club Function

The 96th Co. (OC) recently became the seventh company in the 9th Stn. Bn., to attain senior status.

LTC Bertram J. Bishop, battalion commander, served as reviewing officer for the review.

CPT Harold D. Baughman, 96th Co. commander, and CPT Harold E. Erickson, commander of 97th Co., completed the reviewing party.

Following the review, a reception honoring the newly attained senior status of the candidates was held in the 96th Company dayroom and mess hall. Cakes in the shape of the letters OCS, topped by blue daisies and ivy, decorated the refreshment table.

"A Night for the Knights" was the theme for the celebration in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers Club. A planning suit of armor stood near the door while accident royal banners hung from the high ceilings. Miniature turkeys basked by iris and cherry sashemans decorated the dinner tables. A canopied platform provided the backdrop for the music of the "Cavaliers."

COL John G. Wine, guest speaker for the evening, encouraged the candidates to take pride in their attainment of senior status, but cautioned them to avoid conceit. He also stressed the importance of an officer's being honest and taking care of his men by providing good training.

Entertainment for the evening included a piano pre-

Many Benefits Are Offered At Benning's Thrift Shop

By JANE DANIELS

A family packs up for moving and would like to sell the bike that their son has long since outgrown. A wife needs a small table to make the den look complete. A close-to-graduation officer candidate would like to buy some still serviceable uniforms at a good price. One young mother would like to sell the still-good-as-new dresses that her little daughter has outgrown.

They can all turn to Fort Benning's Thrift Shop for what they need and for much more.

At the Thrift Shop, military personnel, active or retired, can buy or sell clothes, uniforms, furniture, baby goods, shoes, electrical appliances, toys and pet supplies, to just name a few items. Civilians can also make purchases. Arrangements can be made to have large items delivered on pay.

The shop receives a 15 percent commission of what is sold.

It's a big business. Mrs. Robert White, the bookkeeper who's responsible for paying each client says that she pays out from $50 to 600 checks each month. Even on a very "slow day" the shop takes in $500.

The money that the Thrift

Shop takes in goes for its operation expenses and toward the projects of the Officers' Wives' Club which, in part, currently sponsors or helps to sponsor six $500 scholarships, layettes and a pediatric fund for Martin Army Hospital, Army Community Service, the Religious Education Center and the Red Cross.

The clerks at the shop are all volunteers, through the Officers' Wives' Club, from various units on post. Eating "on the run" and constantly answering questions, they do an outstanding job in serving their customers.

Their volunteer chairman is Mrs. James I. Muir Jr., and the lady who handles the big job as manager is Mrs. Charles I. Taylor. The shop is open on Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.; on the first Saturday of each month from 9:30 until 12:30 p.m. (consignments until 11:30 a.m.).

If you have an instinct for quality... you'll find it here... reasonably priced!

Dance Date Is Changed By Queen Chosen At Teen Club

The Teen Square here would like all members to note that the originally scheduled Saturday dance has been moved to tonight.

The band for the evening will be the "Golden Children", from Fairfax, Ala. Price for the dance will be 75 cents.

With the exception of the dates of members, no one will be admitted without a Teen Square membership card.

New officers for Teen Square will be elected at 2 a.m. Sunday. All Teen Square members are encouraged to be on hand to vote for the candidate of their choice.

Mrs. Daisy Fraker, director of Teen Square, has announced that applications are now being taken for youth employment. All Teen Square members interested in summer jobs should contact Mrs. Fraker as soon as possible at her office or call 545-5508.

Queen Chosen At 'Dixie' Party

All officer candidate companies celebrate achieving Intermediate Status (11th week) with a party but few highlight the event with the crowning of a queen.

The 62nd Co., 8th Stu. Bn., (OC) held its intermediate status party, "Springtime in Dixie," recently, and chosen from among wives, fiancées and dates of the candidates, was Queen Bivita Barry, fiancée of OC David Arthur. The highlight of the week-end was the party and mid-way through the evening Miss Barry was presented a half crown, and proclaimed queen of 62nd company.

Her gown was enhanced by a white orchid and she carried a dozen long-stemmed roses presented to her at the party.

MONTHLY COFFEE

Wives of officers in the Combat Support Group held their monthly coffee in the Corregidor Room of The Main Officer's Club recently.

The centerpiece consisted of mums and roses.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Donald T. Guising, Mrs. Alan D. Nicol, and Mrs. David L. Franklin.

His Worst Experience

EM Here Lived Through Death March on Bataan

By PFC Jerry F. Benson
An Army carpenter calls the Bataan death march his worst experience.
He is 27-year veteran SPS William E. Croson, 58th Eng. Co., Center Troop Company, one of 57 in a 300-man company who survived the 31-day march through the Philippine jungles.
The final American bastion fell to the Japanese Imperial Army April 9, 1942. Croson was among the half starved remnants of GEN Douglas MacArthur's forces.
"I was a PFC on my first overseas tour. I thought I was pretty lucky. I had been stationed only a few miles from my brother and my sister, an Army nurse. All three of us were on Bataan," Croson said.
Plans
The Japanese plan was to take over Southern Bataan, establish a landing and training area there and continue their sweep through the Philippines.
When Bataan fell, the American prisoners had to be moved north as quickly as possible. It was decided to use the town of Balanga as an assembly point and after the prisoners had been rounded up, move them to the captured American stronghold, Camp O'Donnell, some 80 miles to the north.
"As soon as the Japanese looked over the hospital, they killed most of the nurses and patients. Next they took our ration and put us on rice," recalls Croson.

Held At Hospital
After being held for about three days at the hospital, the Japanese herded the prisoners together and prepared them to move out.
The march covered about 30 miles. Most of the patients as well as many paroled prisoners had only robes - no shoes or hats. We started out with about 300 men in the company. At the end there were only 97 alive," he said.
The march covered about five miles a day under a blazing sun that drove temperature above 100 by mid-morning.
"Within a week, most of the men were sick with dysentery and were dropping on the road like flies," he said. "We buried them where they fell. Finally, we got so sick that we didn't have the strength to do even that."
Many Prisoners
The Japanese had underestimated the forces at Bataan. They had figured on capturing around 40,000 prisoners, rather than 78,000.
To move all these required resources the Japanese did not have. Food, water and transportation were all at a premium, not to be wasted on captives.

"We moved in groups, sometimes traveling both day and night. A lot of our treatment depended upon who was guarding us. Some Japanese company commanders treated us pretty good under the Rising Sun. Finally, one night we burned the school down," Croson said.
"We tried our best to give them trouble. We would even sneak into their motor pools at night and fill their gas tanks full of sand," he added.
Forced Labor
After 31 days of marching, Croson and his group reached Camp O'Donnell, where they were put into bamboo stockades for holding.
"Most of the prisoners were well enough to work unloading ships and supplies on the dock. The rest of them, Arthur those who lacked either the strength or will, just laid in the sun, waiting to die," he said.
"Four hours every day was spent in a Japanese school hearing about the heroes of the Rising Sun. Finally, one night we burned the school down," Croson said.
"We tried our best to give them trouble. We would even sneak into their motor pools at night and fill their gas tanks full of sand," he added.
Forced Labor
After three months at Camp O'Donnell, Croson was shipped to Japan for forced labor in coal mines. He worked there until he was exchanged for some Japanese prisoners GEN MacArthur had captured on Okinawa and sent through

Picnic Area Is Planned In Vicinity of Hospital

By PVT Dennis Ray
"It is being done at no cost to the Army and for the most part by volunteers from most of the units on post," said SGM Miner D. Therrell, Center Troop Command speaking of the picnic area now under construction.
The area is located behind the hospital on the site of the old hospital building. It is a favorite fishing spot of post anglers," he added, "but the site was not suitable for picnics or family recreation because of the pollen caused by erosion and the trees and brush."
The post sergeant major, SGM John F. Whitley, and all of the sergeants major of the units on post are cooperating on the project," Therrell said. "But I think SGM Henry I. Hand, TSB, should be singled out for special mention because of his work on the site. He did a lot of work out there, supervising the men." Hand has since departed for Korea.
"Co. D, 43rd Eogr. Bn., has done a great deal of the work," Therrell said. After volunteers have laid out the trees and most of the brush, they moved in to remove stumps and fill and level the area.
The site is now only partially finished, according to Therrell.
Future plans include 4-cent spread over the area, picnic tables, barbecue pits and playground equipment.
Plans call for the picnic area to be "fully operational" by summer.

what it takes to survive this different kind of war
Right out of the blood and mess of Vietnam, in the raw lingo of the men who fight there, comes this straight talk about how to increase one's chances of survival in a war of no fronts, many fronts, everywhere a front.
For men who may be headed there, it splashes a vivid picture of Vietnam's day-to-day realities. It tells about the protective devices created—psychological and tangible—and the devices each man must create for himself to raise the odds.
A war that's everywhere demands knowing and understanding the enemy and his deadly bag of tricks intimately—because getting "zapped" (becoming a casualty) is no more pleasant than it has ever been. HOW TO STAY ACTIVE IN VIETNAM previews and highlights what U.S. military men have learned about this war on many fronts—jungle, mountains, plains, swamps, highways, restaurants, bars, big-city streets. It shows the individual how to prepare for it, the tools that make a chance in it more probable.

new edition of the international showcase of in-use military weapons
Because of the increased pace of firearms development around the world, gun enthusiasts everywhere clamor for more and greater detail about them. Now, out of its long and distinguished career as the standard reference on the firearms of the individual fighting man everywhere in the world, evolves this new SMALL ARMS OF THE WORLD to meet the challenge.
Retaining the original distinctiveness of country-by-country treatment, this new edition reflects in 57 chapters the extensive changes everywhere and the current uses of military submachine guns, rifles, automatic rifles, sub-machine guns, machine guns. Continuing as the encyclopedia and operating manual for world-wide firearms fanciers, it shows in more than 1200 photos and drawings in an never-before detail, the small military armament of 42 countries. Not only are current guns viewed, the reader and researcher is treated to an historical outline of firearms development from the origins of gunpowder through single-bolt actions, semi-automatic rifles and carbines... to handguns and the World War II firepower of the U.S., Third Reich, and Imperial Japan.

Benning's Special Services Libraries Said Efficient

LISTENING TO FAVORITE RECORDINGS
OC Thomas B. Porter, At Branch Library No. 1

By PVT William B. Wallis

Efficient and educational. These are two words which describe the library system at Fort Benning.

Over 130,000 hardback volumes, including the newest books received only a day or two after release from the publisher, support this complex department which serves the entire military reservation.

In a recent interview, Harriet Pitchford, cataloger for Special Services Libraries here, pointed out that a wide variety of facilities and services are available to assist everyone at Fort Benning.

Mississ

Answering routine and not so routine questions, filling educational and research needs, checking out the thousands of written, recorded and illustrated materials, advising patrons on reading materials and at the same time providing a place where the soldier or dependent can lose themselves in the world of books — this is the mission of the library staff of USAIC Special Services.

Fiction and non-fiction books, periodicals, pamphlets and reference materials line the shelves of the Main Post Library and five branch libraries.

Soon to be reopened, branch library No. 3 in the South Harmony Church area will be similarly equipped, Miss Pitchford said.

Main Library

The main post library was reopened February 18 following extensive remodeling of the building next to Theater No. 1.

This modern facility is still awaiting furniture and shelving before a formal opening ceremony can be scheduled but the construction is completed and the new stained glass windows add to the lighting scheme and decorative decor.

Library Week Activities Readied Here

Plans for post activities during National Library Week April 16-22 were announced recently by Evelyn Stephan, chief librarian.

Highlighting the week's calendar of events will be the reopening of Branch Library No. 3 in the South Harmony Church area.

BC Charles M. Mount, Sr., commanding general, U. S. Army Training Center Infantry, will be present at the ribbon cutting ceremony at 2 p.m. April 20.

Open house and coffee hours are planned for the main post library next all areas), open house, 3 p.m.

Scheduled for the week:

Main Post (next to Theater No. 1), open house, 2 p.m. April 16, and children's story hour (ages 5-8) 1:30 p.m. April 22.

Branch No. 1, Martin Army Hospital, coffee hours, 9 a.m. April 19.

Branch No. 2 (Sand Hill area), coffee hour, 8:30 p.m. April 17.

Branch No. 3 (South Harmony Church area), reopening, 2 p.m., April 20.

Branch No. 4 (8th Inf. area), open house, 3 p.m., April 21.

Branch No. 6, Kelly Hill, coffee hour, 3 p.m., April 21.

Branch No. 7 (North Harmony Church area), coffee hour, 1 p.m., April 16, and book bingo party (Service Club No. 5), 7:30 p.m., April 22.

The library division planned the week-long activity schedule to acquaint the military population of Fort Benning and the surrounding area with the services and facilities offered.

Anyone wishing to attend these events is cordially invited to do so.

LIBRARIES HERE SPACIOUS, COMFORTABLE
Branch Library No. 6 A Favorite With All Grades

Still another part of the system is the library Service Center.

Located between Brown Hall and Theater No. 1, this facility does minor repair work on damaged books and receives, processes and sends out to all Fort Benning libraries, their complete stock of books and reference materials.

Other Services

Unique branch locations offer specialized service such as ward service from Branch No. 1 located in the Martin Army Hospital.

A completely modern facility at Kelly Hill, Branch No. 6, was recently featured in the December, 1966, architectural edition of "Library Journal" for design excellence.

This 106,000 site includes a military science reading room, a must-visit room, microfilm reading facilities and reference, novel and non-fiction sections.

Art Study

An unusual and yet commonly used section is the Branch No. 2 collection of art study volumes, photographs, art reproductions and phonograph records from a variety of popular, classical and semi-classical moods.

All of these items are available on a check out basis with a time limit on their return just like books.

Many surprises and adventuresome reading await the curious visitor to the post library facilities and during National Library Week, April 16 - 22, the Special Services library division has expressed the desire that all personnel will inspect the library nearest them, Miss Pitchford said.

MP's 'Rat Patrol' Trains To Become 'Strike' Unit

By PVT Dennis Ray

When they talk about the "Rat Patrol" around the 88th MP Company, they don't mean the TV series.

SSG Robert L. Hamby, training NCO, 88th MP Co., explains that the "Rat Patrol" is a part of training designed to familiarize the men with different types of weapons, and make them a "strike" unit.

Similar to the TV "Rat Patrol," the men work on jeeps mounted with M60 machine guns. They practice firing the weapon with the jeep launcher," said SSG Hamby, "but are not required to stop, and advancing on the targets.

The M60 machine gun, mounted on tripods, can turn in a 360 degree circle and can be moved up or down to line up with the targets.

"The targets are in a staged firing line along a hill approximately 500 meters from the 'Rat Patrol' unit," said SSG Hamby. "They have had training with the M79 grenade launcher and with a rocket launcher."

Lieutenant Freedman explained that the 88th MP Co. is a "strike" unit now on a Basic Unit Training (BUT) status. "As soon as the BUT phase is over, the unit may be called upon to go to a locale where this training would be necessary, if needed."

Aviator Training Expanding Soon

FORT RUCKER, Ala. — In September with a class of 600 aviators, the U. S. Army Aviation School will expand its Army aviator training program, Fort Stewart, Georgia.

These students will receive the final 16 weeks of advanced training and graduate as Army aviators.

To support the new training program, some 600 Army Primary Helicopter will be assigned to the Fort Stewart - Hunter complex. Also, the program will bring an increase in military and civilian personnel assigned to the area, including more than 4000 at Hunter and 8000 at Fort Stewart.

Protestant Women Make Preparations for Events

Preparations for May fellowship day and vacation Bible school were made by the women of the United States Army Training Center, Infantry, last Tuesday at a meeting at the Defender's Lodge. The post-wide May fellowship program is scheduled May 4 at Defender's Lodge, with a portion of the program to be held in Chapel 5. Mrs. Emil Diakel, music chairman, has set a rehearsal for 10 a.m. April 18 at her home at 102B Ruben Avenue.

Mrs. Bob E. Edwards indicated that volunteers are needed for the vacation Bible school, June 8-14, at the Indianhead Road Chapel, Bldg. No. 2820—9 and 11 a.m.

Retreat Planned For 10th Aviation At Resort Area

A Protestant weekend religious retreat is being planned for the men of the 10th Aviation Group at the Three Lakes resort area, near Columbus, April 22-23.

Sponsoring and conducting this retreat are the three Protestant chaplains of the 10th Aviation Group, Captain (LTC) Gordon O. Gebram, Chaplain (CPT) Huston J. Banton and Chaplain (CPT) James L. Moody.

Sessions will include small group discussions, inspirational talks, recreation and worship. A special program of music will close the retreat on Sunday.

A similar retreat was held for men of the group last January.

Because of good response and favorable comments, it is planned to have such retreats once each quarter for men of the group.

Law Day Provides Time to Evaluate Judicial Privileges

The Armed Forces remind service personnel to evaluate their privileges and responsibilities under the nation's judicial system, as well as the Uniform Code of Military Justice . . . in observance of Law Day, U. S. A., in May 1.

Law Day is dedicated to the understanding of justice and recognition of the heritage of freedom under the United States' legal codes.

The annual observance is especially important because of America's commitment to the defense of freedom and justice throughout the free world.

Cash Available For Soldier Suggestions

PORT MONROE, Va. Soldiers with new ideas, inventions or scientific achievements may now receive cash awards ranging from $15 to $25,000 through the Army Suggestion Program.

To swap his idea for cash, a soldier must fill out a DA Form 1045 which is available from his first sergeant or section chief.

The next step is to get the completed form to the Incentive Awards Committee either by sending it directly or through channels.

The suggestion is then evaluated and if it is deemed appropriate for Army-wide adoption, it is forwarded to DA. Otherwise it is approved or disapproved at Army area or installation level.

Cash awards are determined on the basis of money saved through adoption of the suggestion. The Army Suggestion Program is administered by the Incentive Awards Committee.

One of the listening posts Suddenly the Viet Cong closed in and the post was called back in rather than risk being overrun.

Then a platoon led by LT Ronald Paranzore began a patrol along a 100 meter area to their right front. In short while they reported they had found a base camp. They set up security and searched the camp for material of intelligence value and for booty traps.

SSG Robert E. Smith, a member of a demolition team from the 9th Engr. Co., set up his hardware. The explosives destroyed two reinforced bunkers, 18 one-man fox holes, 39 steel poles, one newly-built sampans and two huts.

The mission was completed with a march to the river. This and similar messages were frequently spoken at the 1st Inf. Div. forward area in Minh Thanh during Operation Junction City. For the first time, a Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS) station had been set up in the field.

Operated Daily The station, a substitution of the MARS facility in Di An, was operated daily under the direction of LTC James M. Rockwell, the commander of the 121st Sig. Bn.

LONG BINH — The men of Co. A, 4th En., 12th Inf., found Charlie, and his hideout in the Dong Nai River was anything but a paradise.

They arrived on Navy landing craft early in the morning. After moving for eight hours, they encountered Viet Cong small arms fire. Then automatic weapons opened up, and intermittently, M-79 launched grenades dropped into the area.

Company A quickly began to return the fire, and CPT John Mack, the commanding officer, called for artillery support.

Squad Five After receiving a about a half hour of sporadic fire, the armed helicopters (F-1) which the captain previously called began to arrive.

The artillery ceased, and Mack notified the platoons to mark their most distant positions with smoke for the helicopter gunners.

As the white puffs rose above the tree tops, the gunships began their repeated

Laser Is Featured in Instrument Being Used in Study by Engineers

An instrument featuring a laser will be used by Army Engineers in studying the effects of the earth's atmosphere on very precise measurements of distance made by use of light rays.

Developed by the U. S. Army Engineer Geodesy, Intelligence and Mapping Research and Development Agency (GIMRADA), Fort Belvoir, Va., the prototype "Laser Ultra-Fine Distance Measuring Instrument" is designed to measure millimeter changes in the distance to a reflecting target up to 40 miles away.

One of the most accurate methods of measuring distance between two points is to time the interval required for a beam of light to make a round trip over the path. Although this is done indirectly, accuracies approaching one part in one million are possible.

The present limitation on accuracy, however, is caused by small differences in atmospheric pressure and temperature along the line being measured and, in turn, this changes the velocity of light by an unknown amount.

Through use of this new instrument, which features a laser to provide a highly collimated, highly directional beam, engineers will study ways by which these atmospheric errors may be minimized.

The instrument uses the well known method of triangulation with a modulated light beam.

Comprised of dietitians, physical therapists and occupational therapists, it is a unit originally called the Women's Medical Specialist Corps. When in 1955, qualified men in the three fields were authorized to be commissioned, the name of the corps was changed.

Anniversary Message

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ARMY MEDICAL SPECIALIST CORPS

On the twentieth anniversary of the formal establishment of the Army Medical Specialist Corps I extend congratulations on behalf of all the men and women of the United States Army.

Growing out of the dedicated group of civilians who served as World War I in Army hospitals—as dietitians, physical therapists, and occupational therapists—our Medical Specialists have continued to perform quietly and efficiently in helping to restore normal function to injured bodies. This year finds many of you concentrating your professional talents on rehabilitating the casualties from Vietnam, while others of you are involved in developing new food service equipment for the MUST hospital.

As you begin a new decade of service to our country, you have the best wishes of your fellow soldiers and our confidence in your continuing competence and devotion.

Formed 20 Years Ago AMSC Will Host Party

By Ida Evans

Ten Army Medical Specialist Corps (AMSC) officers at Martin Army Hospital will entertain at an anniversary party from 2-4 p.m. today in the Red Cross recreation building.

The event will commemorate the establishment of the corps April 16, 1947.

Small Corps staff and civilian employees are invited to the party.

One of the smallest corps in the Army, the medical specialists, are making a "very real contribution to the rehabilitation of casualties from Vietnam," COL Mary Lynch, chief of AMSC, said.

The corps physical therapists are especially trained to exercise knowledge, skill, and judgment in helping a patient to overcome a neuromuscular disability.

The therapists must know anatomy, physiology, and the effect of various treatments.

In addition to skill in applying heat, light, sound, water, electricity, massage and exercise, the officers must be able to adapt treatment to the individual patient.

The Army has physical therapists in Vietnam where

Services Survey Results Customer Comments Reflect PX Operating Satisfactorily At Post

The recent survey of exchange patrons reflected that need attention in the PX is for display and stock turnover rates.

A large majority of customer comments reflected favorably on the exchange operations. The comments indicated dissatisfaction with exchange operations are covered in this article.

The survey disclosed that a number of customers are dissatisfied because specific items of merchandise are not stocked in the exchange. A smaller number of patrons suggested that a larger assortment of merchandise be stocked.

Exchange stock assortments are limited by the authorized list, space available for display and stock turnover rates.

Many customers are not aware that exchanges within the continental U.S. can stock only types of merchandise listed in AR 60-20.

Further, many items such as household appliances, radios, cameras, watches, etc., can only be stocked within certain price limitations.

Stock assortments are constantly reviewed to assure the most popular items are prepared in advance of the authorized list. Exchange patrons can assist in getting the items of merchandise which they desire stocked in the stores by filling out customer want slips.

These want slips are available in the Main Store and the customer service counter. These requests are reviewed by the Exchange Officer and where sufficient demand is indicated, such items will be stocked.

Houseware and small electric appliances (i.e. mangle, iron, etc.) were recently moved from the Main Store to the Toy and Garden Store. This change made available additional space for photographic records, tape recorders, records, ladies and children's clothing.

The Main Exchange has a special order section where authorized items of merchant service of a good product, which are not normally stocked, may be special ordered by the customer.

A larger variety of convenient foods have recently been added to the menus in the food activities which can be prepared quickly when customer traffic is heavier than anticipated. A new barbeque beef burger has been added to snack bars and mobile units.

The Sunday hours are of particular benefit to the basic trainees and officer candidates whose rigid schedules do not permit shopping during week days.

One area of concern to exchange customers has long been the parking problems around the Main Store complex. Some relief in traffic congestion was afforded with the additional spaces provided in the vicinity of the commissary.

A parking area extending beyond the exchange, patroned often overlook is the one behind Theater No. 1. This area is convenient to the exchange complex and usually has ample parking spaces available.

There has been a special emphasis placed on training of new exchange employees in their appearance and courtesy to customers. This program requires constant attention due to the high turnover of personnel.

The Drill Sergeant SFC Believes Job Is Rewarding

SFC Ronald Tompkins, Co. A, 7th Bn., 2nd Bde. United States Army Training Center, Fort Benning, a senior drill sergeant, believes that the drill sergeant's job—training and disciplining civilians into disciplined soldiers—is a particularly rewarding one.

"That cycle was one of the best since the company was organized," the sergeant said. "They made higher scores during the various tests high on the PCPT and IPT. During the rifle marksmanship training, they even picked up an extra point."

"The trainees look to their drill sergeant," he says, "to provide an example of what the proper soldier should be. And the example the drill sergeant sets, good or bad, will be followed by the trainees. Quite often they even pick up his personal characteristics. So he has a real responsibility."

Tompkins, as senior drill sergeant among the 12 assigned to Company A, coordinates platoon and training schedules for each cycle of training, in addition to the regular duties of a drill sergeant.

In School
He attended drill sergeant school at Fort Jackson, S. C., in November of last year. He feels that the beefed up drill sergeant program has much to do with the fact that the quality of new soldiers is constantly improving.

"Under the drill sergeant system," he says, "the basic trainees get the leadership and individual attention they need. We have a chance to counsel them. And, since the learning situation is better, the quality of the basic combat training graduates is better. Personal contact with the drill sergeant makes the difference."

Discipline is much improved, according to Tompkins, since it was decided that drill sergeants go to the reception station as new troops assigned to the unit arrive.

"This way we save a lot of the frustration that could develop. The trainees feel quite at home immediately," he said.

Tompkins thinks that the last cycle of Company A trainees was a case in point.

War Injury No Barrier Trooper Wants to Jump

SFC Herbert Huston, 32, likes to jump out of airplanes—irrespective of the fact he wears an artificial leg.

Huston has been a jumper for the last 10 years. While he claims to have lost count, the slim, scarred Viet Nam veteran has divided some 400 parachute jumps between the Army airborne and sky diving clubs.

The Special Forces camp at Pao Co was under siege by two North Vietnamese Regiments in August, 1965, when the 8th Bn., Vietnamese Airborne Brigade, came to their rescue.

Huston, who jumped into the fight with 42 scars from a Viet Cong hand grenade and a larger scar on his right bicep from a Communist bullet, was an adviser to the elite Vietnamese unit.

Booby Trap
During the long, bloody battle with the Viet Cong, Huston's radio operator stepped on a booby trap, and the American adviser, separated by the length of a radio handset cord, had his right foot blown off.

Several operations and 12,000 miles later, Huston has an artificial leg fitted to the five inches of stump below his knee.

That was at Letterman Army Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The Presidio, headquarters of the Sixth U. S. Army, has a sport parachute (sky diving) club.

Jump Schools
Huston has attended the American, French and German jump schools. He is not about to let an artificial leg stop him from jumping.

So in August, 1966, he stepped out into the clean, open air of Northern California and resumed his jumping career.

"I had a little problem" at first," said Huston, "because I wanted to favor my right leg. And sometimes I had a little trouble controlling the leg in free fall. But any reason for getting after I learned the trick, I started making stand-up landings on the artificial leg."

Leaves Hospital
In November, he was discharged from the hospital and reported to Fort Benning for duty with the Air-Infantry.

But most any Sunday he is reported to Fort Benning for duty with the Air-Infantry.

New Device Aids Army Engineers

Army Engineers in Vietnam report significant advances in jungle clearing operations, thanks to a new bulldozer blade device.

A horizontal slicing blade, used to shear off trees and brush at the ground level, has been combined with a vertical wedge-shaped cutter, called a "stinger," which splits trees in half so they can be moved down more easily.

This one-two punch device, attached to a conventional tractor, can clear an average of one acre of jungle per hour.

During Operation Cedar Falls in January, the horizontal and stinger-blade combination aided bulldozers in clearing more than 2200 acres in 16 days.

'Point Blank' to Begin Location Filming at Alcatraz

San Francisco. Alcatraz, the most feared and famous prison in the nation, has been obtained as one of the major locations for MGM's "Point Blank," the contemporary suspense drama starring Academy award winner Lee Remick and Angie Dickinson.

This will mark the first time that anyone other than government officials or the most hardened criminals had access to the island fortress.

In a deal unique in the history of the prison or Hollywood, MGM will move a company of 125 to Alcatraz for two weeks of location work. Producers Judd Bernard, Irwin Winkler and Robert Chartoff worked for many weeks before permission was granted to use the site. Thousands of tons of equipment, including color cameras, generators, giant air lifts, electrical wiring, dressing rooms, sanitary facilities and a mobile commissary will be transported from Hollywood to San Francisco and then from boat to the island. Alcatraz has been closed as a Federal Penitentiary since 1963, 26 years after it was converted to a prison by the government.

Entire Island

Sequences for "Point Blank" will be filmed over the entire island, using prison yards and cells owned by Al Capone, Machine Gun Kelley and Alvin Karpis. In addition to Remick and Miss Dickinson, stars working in the Alcatraz scenes will be Keenan Wynn, Sharon Acker and John Vernon.

Directed by John A. Hoer, "Point Blank" is a Judd Bernard-Irwin Winkler production, produced by Bernard and Robert Chartoff. Rafe and David Newhouse have written the screenplay based on Richard Stark's suspense novel "The Hunter."

New York... "Your Teeth in My Neck" has been set as the final title for Roman Polanski's satirical horror film, formerly called "The Vampire Killers."

The Martin Handoff-Polanski production for MGM features an international cast headed by Jack MacGraw, Sharon Tate, Alfie Bass, Ferdie Mayne and Terry Downes, the world's former middleweight boxing champion.

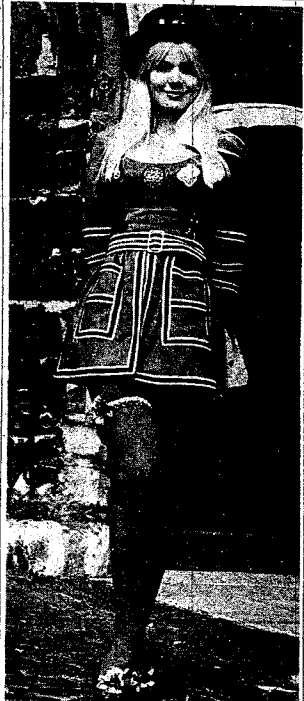

In addition to directing

The Gershwin-Kasbar production, in association with Hall Bartlett Pictures Inc., will be produced by Bartlett and directed by Brian Hutton. Production is scheduled to begin this spring in Hollywood.

For Miss Stevens, equally versatile in comedy or drama, "Sol Madrid" marks her return to MGM, where she starred in "The Secret of My Success" and "Advance to the Rear."

The beautiful blonde actress recycles the exciting and suspense-filled evening which took place in Paris in the summer of 1966. Staged by "U.S. Group," Dorothy Collins and Dominique Lapiere.

"DANA" SAFEGUARDS NEW COLT "MR. POTS"
Second Hunt Club Birth in Four Years

Rare Event at Hunt Club Presents Post Family With 50-Pound Baby

By SSG Snow Wilson
Captain and Mrs. Allen Addison are pleased to announce an addition to their family. A 50-pound baby foal, named Mr. Pots, was born recently, weighing 50 pounds and sired by Mr. Pots, Mother and son are doing fine and girls of oats and grain will be accepted.

Having a 50-pound baby really no novelty and oats and grain are perfect gifts if you are a five-year-old quarter horse mare named "Dana" and reside at the Fort Benning Hunt Club Stable. It is, however, novel the Hunt Club where the event has only occurred twice in the last four years. The new foal is the center of attraction at the stables but his friskiness started problems for the mare shortly after birth when he took to his knobby knees and appeared. "We found him in the pad born recently, weighing 50 pounds and sired by Mr. Pots, Mother and son are doing fine and girls of oats and grain will be accepted."

Having a 50-pound baby really no novelty and oats and grain are perfect gifts if you are a five-year-old quarter horse mare named "Dana" and reside at the Fort Benning Hunt Club Stable. It is, however, novel the Hunt Club where the event has only occurred twice in the last four years. The new foal is the center of attraction at the stables but his friskiness started problems for the mare shortly after birth when he took to his knobby knees and appeared. ## Top Hockey Competitor In Ranks of 81st OC Co.

The 81st Co., 8th Stu. Bn. has an outstanding hockey player among its candidates in Stephen Riggs. Throughout his hockey career as a center, Riggs has compiled a remarkable record.

At Colgate University in Hamilton, N. Y., Riggs was not only captain of the varsity team in his senior year, but he was also on the all-East hockey team for three years and was named the NCAA small college sophomore of the year in hockey. In high school at Potsdam, N. Y., Riggs was also captain of the All-Northern New York State team for four years.

Candidate Cyclist Pedals 4th in Intercollegiate Meet

By OC Arthur Dunn
Olympic hopeful Joe Stager pedaled to a fourth place finish in the recent National Intercollegiate road cycling championships in Fayetteville, N. C.

The 26-year-old Long Island native's performance in the finals was a complete reversal from an elimination heat the day before. "When I crossed the finish line I thought I'd have to pack up my bike and go back," he says.

Stager's strong showing was surprising for two reasons. Although he's been training since January, he has accumulated about 1500 miles. He feels 4000 might have been enough.

Between now and July 4, when the Pan-American trials are held in Minneapolis, Stager hopes to put 9000 more miles on his custom-made Schwinn Paramount.

1965." Stager said. The slender young man won a gold medal in that meet, the only American ever to do so in the cycling competition.

"I stayed right on Allie's rear wheel all the way. But with five laps to go, he was in 9th place. I thought maybe I'd been following the wrong guy," he said.

"Then he started to move and when we got to the last turn he had shot into the lead and I was in second. But I couldn't catch him in the long sprint. He was about 25 meters in front at the finish," he said.

Second and third was a photo finish with Stager half a bike length behind them. "When I saw the white line beneath me, I opened my eyes and counted. I just didn't believe there were only three riders already across," Stager said.

After 9000 miles in three weeks, Stager will go to Fort Sheridan, Ill., to train for the Pan-American Games, the American championships this summer and the Olympic Games next year in Mexico City.

Rifle Team Ends First Leg Of Western Shooting Tour

LACKLAND AFB, Texas—The U. S. Army high power rifle team completed the first leg of a Western shooting tour at Lackland AFB last week-end.

Over 30 top competitors from the Armed Services competed in the Southwest Service Rifle Championships sponsored by the U. S. Air Force.

Later this week the shooters move to Boulder City, Nev., for the Regional High Power Rifle Championship. The Army shooters walked away from Lackland with first place records in the six-man team match and the Infantry Trophy match while MAJ Willis Powell, coach of the service rifle division, won second place aggregate with a 591.2x.

Challenge
With Hq. Co. 43rd Eng Sptal team leading 154 in the fifth inning, Co. B, CTC, finally realized they were no match and forfeited. Having also defeated the Hq. Co., 17th Inf. team last week, last year's All Post team, Charles Taylor, of the 43rd feels it is ready for all comers. They are eager and confident and looking for games; so are there any challengers?

DA Names 800 Seniors To Receive Scholarships

The Department of the Army has announced the names of 800 outstanding high school graduates who have been selected to receive four-year scholarships to ROTC training. These scholarships are awarded to 247 colleges and universities offering the Army ROTC program.

The winners were selected from over 12,000 high school seniors who applied. In addition to the 800 winners, 400 first alternates and 400 second alternates were selected.

Each scholarship pays for the tuition, textbooks, lab fees and provides a subsistence allowance of $50 per month. During a six-week summer camp between the senior and junior years of Army ROTC training, these scholarships also pay for tuition, textbooks, lab fees and $50 per month.

Army commanders in the United States and overseas commands will also announce the names of 250 ROTC scholarship winners today. These are awarded to college students completing their second year of Army ROTC training. These scholarships also pay for tuition, textbooks, lab fees and $50 per month.

The ROTC scholarship program was authorized by Congress in 1964. Approximately 220 scholarships were awarded during the past two years and by school year

The Observer

—by Larry Mahoney—

Baseball has its moments, of course, but there's a slower sport for the average spectator, Tom Ignorant, of its existence. Suspense is plentiful in the original American game, particularly in situations where a pitcher is working his way toward a no-hitter or even in the frequent counts of 3 and 2. Suspense is, however, a poor substitute for action.

OK, you ask, what soured this guy on baseball? Maybe it was that doubleheader between Florida State and the University of Florida back in my college days. Both games went into extra innings, runs were as rare as reptiles in Ireland, and even the men on the mound appeared to be yawning. Seven or so hours of this, my scarp sunburned, my seat splintered, I struggled back to the newspaper, pounded out my story and pledged never to be caught in a situation like that again.

This diatribe is aimed to invite your attention to something new on the American sporting scene. For there will be no joy in Cooperstown Sunday afternoon when CBS network technicians train their cameras on the playing field of Memorial Stadium in Baltimore.

No little men in black will dust off home plate or arrange three sacks of sand into the precise locations laid down by one Babe Doubladay when Martin Van Buren was president. Nor will there be a pitcher perched upon his mound, fumbling with the ball, a bag of rosin and his cap while the crowd and 17 other players wonder if they'll make it home the same day.

Instead, it's going to be all new. For Americans, that is.

There will be 22 extremely active young men battling it out on the green and the nomenclature will struggle to inform you just who is outside right, the sharp leftwinger and center forward.

This will be professional soccer's U.S. debut, the serious play of a campaign designed to turn Americans from the slow motion of baseball to the rocketing, rugged action of the sport that lacks no, 1 internationally.

Those of you who think that soccer is a dribbling exercise for English gentlemen may be surprised at the quick passing and hard body contact that go into the modern game.

The men who are organizing the new American soccer league have swung a large measure of support to their venture. National television coverage of the opener is one example. Newspapers have been backers of it from the start. Take this from the editorial page of Miami's Herald.

"At this moment, the business of soccer is disjointed by a flurry of competing leagues. But as the interest grows along with the skill of American players, we predict there will not be a stadium large enough for those who will want to see the U. S. champions try for the World Cup that is soccer's holy grail."

Here at Fort Benning we're in a good position to watch some of this firsthand. Atlanta, 106 miles north, is the only southern city with a team in the 10-member National Professional Soccer League.

Atlanta's Chiefs will meet Baltimore's Bays in Sunday's television opener. First home game for the Chiefs will be a week from tomorrow (April 22) against the Toros of Los Angeles.

Other cities in the NPSL and the names of their clubs: New York Generals, Philadelphia Spartans, Pittsburgh Panthers, Chicago Spurs, Toronto Falcons, St. Louis Stars and the California (Oakland-Alameda) Clippers.

The Chiefs will play their home games in Atlanta's showplace stadium. This makes Atlanta Stadium home for three professional teams, football's Falcons, baseball's Braves and soccer's Chiefs. For the price of sports

Post Riders Set For Horse Trials

By SSG Snow Wilson
The Midland Horse Trials will see many riders from The Infantry Center competing in a combined training one-day event tomorrow.

The trials, a modification of the Olympic three-day competition, will be held at the Copper Cloud Farm on Pierce Chapel Road near Columbus. Fort Benning Hunt Club members will hold their own show at the post, May 6.

Contests at the Midland Trials will compete in three events covering dress, cross-country riding over solid obstacles and stadium jumping. Entries are classed in beginner, preliminary and intermediate divisions.

The Midland Trials are the third in a series of such events being held this year.

Spectators are welcome to the show that starts at 8 a.m. and can observe the 2 1/2 mile cross country course that starts at 10:30 a.m. from the central point. The stadium jumping events, which start at 1:30 p.m., can be seen from any point.

A total of 58 entrants from Florida, Alabama and Georgia are slated to compete for USCTA points as well as the COL, Granville V. Morse, Cynthia Tompkins Schell and Marion Smith trophies.

Chief judges for the trials Saturday are COL Carl W. Raguse, a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic jumping team and Mrs. Fred Schell who has done extensive teaching and work with junior riders in the South. Both are recognized technical delegates and registered judges of the American Horse Show Association.

The Copper Cloud Farm, owned by William Hart, is located just south of Benning.

Benning Not Yet at 100 Per Cent

Campaign Seeking 'Bell Ringers'

By PFC Larry Mahoney

"Ring the 100 per cent bell."

That's the message of Joe Palooka, who is pushing it on the posters of the Federal Services campaign for the National Health and International Service Agencies.

Fort Benning's fund drive, however, is well below the 100 per cent mark and only two weeks remain until the May 5 closing.

Capt. Grady F. Title, project officer for the campaign, reported this week that contributions have slowed to a trickle and that his office has counted donations from only 26.7 per cent of Fort Benning's 49,000 military and civilian personnel.

Big Paul

"We're up for a big push on the drive's last payday (a week from today)," Title said. "We hope it will boost us to our goal of full participation."

Only one major command individual has been set by the campaign. Instead, everyone could report 100 per cent at the drive's halfway mark. Title is asked to give only what he said. This was the Law-on Army Aviation Command, Twelve National Health organizations and four International Service agencies are participating in the six-week nationwide drive.

Chase Agency

The donor may choose which agency gets his gift, and all contributions are used by the voluntary organizations for programs of research, education and community services.

No "fair share" for individuals has been set by the campaign. "Instead, everyone is asked to give only what he sees fit. Full participation is the goal, not any established sum."

FRANCIS A. HART CHALLENGER

FRANCIS A. HART, challenger for the position of Adjutant General, is seeking votes in the upcoming election. He is currently serving as the adjutant general of the 1st Infantry Center. He is a native of Columbus, Ga., and is a graduate of the University of Georgia. He is currently serving as the adjutant general of the 1st Infantry Center. He is a native of Columbus, Ga., and is a graduate of the University of Georgia.

Schedule Is Announced For Entertainment Week Honoring Post Community

A week of entertainment for Fort Benning's soldiers and civilians, featuring "Spring Varieties" and the national Sing Out group, "Up With People," will be held at Sand Hill and 2 p.m. April 28 at Doughboy Stadium.

The week-long schedule of free programs will be opened at 2 p.m. April 28 at Doughboy Stadium with "Spring Varieties" while the 150-member cast of "Up With People" here last year as "Sing Out '66" will begin its series of shows at 2 p.m. May 1 at Theater No. 1.

Presented jointly by the Infantry Center's Special Services and Comptroller Section, the events are dedicated to the men and women in uniform and civilians here in appreciation of their continued support of the U.S. Savings Bond program.

Other Shows

Other shows scheduled to appear during the week are the Third U.S. Army showmobile unit, "Slowboat Jam-boree" and a Fort Benning soldier variety show.

"Spring Varieties" has been scheduled for other performances at 2 p.m. April 29 at Sand Hill and 2 p.m. April 30 at Harmony Church.

The cast of "Up With People" appearing with "Spring Varieties" will perform at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. May 1 at Theater No. 1 and at 7:30 p.m. May 3-4 in Doughboy Stadium.

Decorations Presented 13 During Ceremony This Week

Military decorations include seven Silver Stars, two Purple Hearts, a Bronze Star Medal and other awards were presented to 13 soldiers in a ceremony on York Field here at 1:30 p.m. last Wednesday.

The medals, given in recognition of service and combat in Vietnam, were presented by Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, Fort Benning commander.

Music for the award ceremony was provided by the Infantry Center Band. The honor guard was formed by Co. C, 1st Bn., 28th Inf., 197th Inf. Bde.

Capt. Richard C. Ragland, received a Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, Soldier's Medal, Purple Heart, and the 11th through 26th Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal.

Maj. John B. Reese was also awarded the Silver Star and first through third (See Decorations, Page 2)

Army Commanders Send Auburn Congratulations

From Vietnam, Gen. W.C. Westmoreland and his student body have been dispatched by a number of ranking officers of the U.S. Army praising the achievement realized during an on-combat blood drive for fighting men in Vietnam held earlier this month.

Fort Benning's command general, Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, said in his message, "Fort Benning congratulates Auburn University students for an inspiring display of patriotism in a record-setting blood drive for Vietnam. We salute the War Honor winners Lt. Col. John L. Tomlinac and 1st Lt. Walter J. Marm Jr., both of Fort Benning, who traveled to the university to participate.

Heading the list of those sending messages was Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, who said, "Not only will they be proud, but the courage and steadfastness of our fighting men will be strengthened by this tangible expression of concern on the part of their contemporaries at home."

Rangers Seek Instructors in EM Ranks

If you are a 11B4P, 11B4R or 11C4R, Regular Army and a promotion looks slim, write to the Ranger Department of The Infantry School. Slots with excellent promotion possibilities from E-6 to E-8 are open now.

Starting in July, the Army's Ranger Course will almost double the intake of students and MCO instructors are urgently needed.

Qualifying may prove a little difficult, however, for Ranger instructors must display all the qualities of a true Ranger leader. Applicants also must have a sound background in patrol, map reading, physical training.

Avoid summer larcenies with proper precautions

Larcenies are a constant problem in any community, civilian or military. It would be nice if all persons were honest and everyone could afford the luxury items that some persons have. However, there have always been those that want what others have and they steal what they want if the opportunity arises and they feel that they will not get caught.

In a few weeks, the local schools will be closed and both military dependent children and children from local civilian communities will have more time and will spend a great deal of this time away from their homes. These children will frequent the snack bars, gyms, swimming pools and other facilities where military personnel frequent.

Some of these children, as well as military personnel, will lose property unless the proper precautions are taken. A chief looks for an opportunity to steal whenever he goes. Other persons will take things if the opportunity is afforded even though they might not have intended to.

Protect your property and enjoy the use of the property. Below are a few tips and don'ts that might prevent the loss of your property:

DON'Ts
1. Don't leave valuables lying around unsecured while you're utilizing gyms, swimming pools, ball parks, picnic areas and other post facilities.

2. Don't allow strangers to look in your barracks.
3. Don't encourage children, including scoundrels and shoeless boys, to enter your barracks.
4. Don't give children money to run errands for you to buy things. Sometimes the children return with either the item they were to buy or the money.
5. Don't leave the keys to your automobile in the ignition of your automobile and don't continue to drive an automobile with a faulty ignition switch. The ignition switch repair bill might be cheaper in the long run.
6. Don't accept rides with strangers. If you go to sleep during a ride, you might lose some of your property.
7. Don't lend your car.

DOs
1. Do report to the Military Police any children trespassing the troop area.
2. Do request identity of all strangers in the troop area.
3. Do secure all valuables at all times when they are not being utilized.
4. Do utilize commercial or government transportation when traveling on the reservation.
5. Do mark or be able to identify all valuables so that, in the event they are produced, they might be recognized.

Higher in March
For some reason, the caries rate in New England is higher than that of other parts of the country. It was discovered, some time ago, that corn and milk produced in New England will produce more caries in rats and hamsters than corn and milk produced in Texas.

Research moving toward solution to decay problem

Dr. Robert S. Harris, professor of biochemistry at M.I.T. stated recently, "Progress in dental research has been so rapid in the past decade that we predict the caries problem will be happily solved within the next 20 years."

This forecast, of victory over caries, is based on recent studies of fluorides, phosphates and other factors which tend to arrest this disease.

It is believed that the outlook for phosphates, an anti-caries agent, is improving rapidly. In a recent study in Alabama, a 50 per cent reduction in caries was noted following the use of chewing gum containing this compound. Studies with phosphate-supplemented cereals are producing encouraging results.

For some reason, the caries rate in New England is higher than that of other parts of the country. It was discovered, some time ago, that corn and milk produced in New England will produce more caries in rats and hamsters than corn and milk produced in Texas.

Surgeon Says

Avoidance of plant only Way to prevent poison ivy

By Capt. Peter J. Lipeck, MC
The poison ivy season is here again and some family reminders may be helpful. Recognition of the plant is the key to prevention of the disease.

Although much is made of the specific color of the plant and the difference in texture between the top and underside of the leaf, children will not remember these subtle differences and it is best to warn them to avoid any three leaved plant.

Avoidance of the plant is the only way to avoid the disease as there are no satisfactory means of immunization with pills or shots.

The difference between poison ivy and poison oak is poison sumac are of secondary importance only because the "reaction" is the same in all three and all three cause an identical skin rash. The eruption due to poison ivy appears within 24 hours after contact with the plant; any eruption beginning immediately after contact with a plant is not poison ivy.

The rash usually begins on exposed areas of the skin with small blisters on a red surface. These blisters may grow quite large at times. The eruption usually occurs on the covered areas of the body if from sweaters, the time of contact.

Oil Becomes Attached
The oil from the plant becomes firmly attached after contact and no amount of washing will remove it after that time. Washing before that time may be helpful but under no circumstances should the skin be vigorously scrubbed.

Many of our common vitamins, amino acids and the B's are involved in the complex oxidative process of this disease.

Some of these substances retard and prevent caries while others encourage it. Future studies will develop an understanding of the manner in which these disease develops and progress and it can ultimately be totally eliminated.

Common sense prevents rotary mower accidents

When grass is growing most people cut it with a rotary mower—either gasoline or electric. The question is how to use it safely.

There are now more than 20 million power mowers in use in this country. They are, according to U.S. Public Health Service, an estimated 10,000 persons every year, sustaining facially. Common injuries include: lost toes and fingers, lost hands and feet and lost eyes.

Unfortunately, a large portion of these injuries are suffered by children who happen to be too near the mower in operation. By-standers are often hit by flying blades. You don't have to be maintaining right next to the machine to get hit.

This backyard mischief maker will shoot debris for hundreds of feet in all directions. Rocks and bits of metal can pierce walls and windows, as well as people.

Use Common Sense. It's up to you to use common sense.

Women Greet New CO's Wife During Brunch

The ladies of the Infantry Agency welcomed Mrs. LeRoy B. Wilson, wife of the new Infantry Agency commander, at a brunch held recently at the Main Officers' Club.

An "April Showers" theme brought more than fifty flowers to the brunch tables. The hostesses were Mrs. Albert W. Braun, Mrs. Virgil L. O'Dell and Mrs. Edward B. Bennett.

Mrs. Braun introduced two new committee chairmen—Mrs. Jay E. Castle, thrift shop and Mrs. Carl W. Knudtson, publicity. Appreciation was expressed to outgoing chairmen, Mrs. Jack A. Metcalf and Mrs. Daniel A. Schreiber.

Mrs. Joseph H. Schmalhorst, hospitality chairman, introduced newcomers Mrs. Robert Hitchey and Mrs. D. P. Davison.

Facilities Are Seen by Wives Of Map Group

The wives of officers of the map reading committee of the Infantry School company operations department learned just what's "all in a day's work" for their husbands when they toured the committee's training facilities recently.

In a briefing about the purpose and function of the map reading committee, Lt. Col. George W. Ellis, chief of the committee, told the wives that map reading is as much a tool of the trade of the Infantry officer as his weapon. The committee teaches the reading of the military map to members of the Officer Candidate Course, the Combat Platoon Leader's Course and the Infantry Officers' Career Course.

After Mrs. George V. Ellis served refreshments, the wives toured the terrain association problem at Craston Hall, received an orientation of the navigation problem on the Yankee Road and were given an orientation at Fuhrmann Road on the students' examinations.

A demonstration on the use of the telephone highlighted the monthly Officers' Wives' coffee, held in the Corregidor Room, Main Officers' Club recently.

The demonstration was given by Juanita Passarella of the Columbus telephone company. She presented a program showing the proper use and courtesy used on the telephone, both for home and office.

Mrs. Len D. Marlowe Jr., president, held a short meeting, discussing plans for the May luncheon and the need for volunteer workers at the thrift shop where the main topics.

The wives of the officers of Headquarters, CTC, joined the coffee, with Mrs. Gerald C. Royal and Mrs. Joan Jenkins, serving as hostesses. The door prize, a floral arrangement, was won by Mrs. Perfect Oliver.

Two newcomers, Mrs. Roy L. Nicholson and Mrs. Richard D. Elliot, and an out-of-town guest, Mrs. Virginia

Fashion Show Highlights Medical Services' Lunch

A young peoples' fashion show for the Medical Services Officers' Wives' luncheon at the Main Officers' Club recently proved that children could be as fashionable as their mothers.

Mrs. Warren Pomerance, representative of a Columbus dress shop, narrated the fashion show as Mrs. William Guthrey played background piano music.

Children's fashions were modeled by Gayle Garnise, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. David Garnise; Michele Birds, son of Maj. and Mrs. Ronald Hinds; Stacie Zwelling, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. William Zwelling; Kathleen Hughes, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles Hughes; Steven and Stacy Keuls, twin son and daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Hans Keuls; and Danny Pennisi, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Oswald Pennisi.

Ladies' fashions were modeled by Mrs. James Wall, Mrs. Robert Hudgens, Mrs. Stephen Karpinski and Mrs. James Purdy.

According to the show were children cut-outs and Spring flowers at each table. The hostess committee was chaired by Mrs. Norman Eggleston.

Mrs. John Gore, Mrs. Jeffrey Herrman and Mrs. Anthony Molante were welcomed as newcomers. A special guest was Mrs. Lee Farnes, daughter of Mrs. Patrick Brady. Farewells were said to Mrs.

James Flynn, Mrs. Russell Horton, Mrs. Norman Goldberger, Mrs. Milton Osefeld, Mrs. Laurence Schartz and Mrs. Joseph Murray.

Officers nominated for the coming year were: Mrs. William Hartsock, president; Mrs. John Leone, vice president; Mrs. Crit Hobbs, recording secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Purdy, treasurer; and Mrs. John Moody, assistant treasurer.

The election of officers will be in May. It was announced that the Medical Services Officers' Wives' Club will hold its annual formal dinner and dance at 7 p.m. April 29 at the Main Officers' Club.

MP Wives Attend Main Club Coffee

The Military Police Officers' Wives held a coffee recently in the Main Officers' Club.

Mrs. F. Bailey Anderson and Mrs. James Bramer, hostesses, served champagne punch, tea sandwiches, coffee and cake. Mrs. Gora Elzworth was awarded the floral centerpiece at the dooryear.

Petticoat Portraits Decorating Is Specialty At Bainbridge's Home

By Jane Daniels

Modest, talented, extremely interesting, charming and gracious describe Mrs. William G. Bainbridge, wife of the sergeant major of the Army Training Center.

She makes every home a beautiful home. Her beige living room is accented with touches of red and gold. The warm tones and curves of Early American furniture seem to beckon welcome. Mrs. Bainbridge has used her talents to frame delicate cream-embroidered flowering plants and to make a floral book-end rug.

On another wall hang three framed German scenes, wrought in intricate detail from wood inlay. A pastel picture in tones of soft blues and lavender is a gift from an old friend.

A coffee table with flowered wood inlay and the soft hues of Hummel child figurines complete the comfortable touches she gives her home.

Accomplished Cook Besides delving into embroidery and bookbinding, Mrs. Bainbridge is accomplished in the fine art of cooking. "Too many times when we've hurriedly to put a quick meal on a table, we also forget how to really cook. It can easily become more of a 'heat and serve' process," she said.

In Pillsbury's 16th Grand National Recipe and Baking Contest, she was selected as one of the 10 best bakers from Kansas for her original recipe, Bits O'Bar, a coffee cake with square pieces.

She says that she would like to enter the contest again. Meanwhile her husband's favorite is her recipe for beef stroganoff and she admits loving German food, particularly the meats.

Endless Talents Her talents for expert homemaking never seem to fade. She also enjoys sewing. Two suits that she's made from soft English wools are her favorites. "They're wear-over-the-shoulder suits," she comments.

Her other hobby is gardening. Roses and pansies are blooming at her front door. "We're going in for hydroponic gardening now, in growing tomatoes, squash and cucumbers. We got interested in it after husband had leave there while stationed in Vietnam. "We packed in as much fun, family-sized and exciting places as we possibly could during that short leave. Now it all seems like a wonderful dream," she said.

She says, "We do enjoy every new place. Wherever we've gone, we've met so many interesting people, people who make our stay a real pleasure." The Bainbridges, both from Williamsfield, Ill., have been stationed at Camp Maxey, Tex. For 11 years. Mrs. Bainbridge was born in Sherman, Ill., Fort Riley, Kan., and Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. She stayed in Fort Riley, Kan., during her husband's tour in Vietnam before they came to Fort Benning in September 1966.

Best Tour The highlight of all their stations was their three-year stay in Stuttgart, Germany. There she took upon herself the responsibility of escorting senior Girl Scouts on trips in Europe. She took 10 Girl Scouts across Europe and then across the English Channel by boat on a tour of London. They had one "fun" evening with a group of English Girl Scouts and saw the Tower of London, Windsor Palace and Buckingham Palace.

In addition, she took eight senior Girl Scouts by train to spend one week at a Swiss mountain-top chalet.

She said, "We do our own cooking, carried our food, set up the mountain and slept on pillows of shelled corn. Highlight of our trip was seeing the American representatives at an international Girl Scout flag raising ceremony at the International Girl Scout Chalet at Adoloboden, Switzerland."

Love to Travel The Bainbridges love to travel. Every weekend that they can, they snatch an opportunity to see some new place.

Recently she traveled halfway across the world to Hong Kong. Her husband had leave there while stationed in Vietnam. "We packed in as much fun, family-sized and exciting places as we possibly could during that short leave. Now it all seems like a wonderful dream," she said.

OCs Celebrate Status With Main Club Party

"FANTASY IN GLASS" was the theme of a luncheon held recently in the Supper Club by the 5th Co. OCWives' Club.

The centerpiece was a lamp chimneys surrounded by azaleas and tissue paper tulips in shades of lavender and pink. White hostesses with vines and large butterflies adorned the walls.

Last stop was the Springer Open House where Mary Margaret Bryant, wife of the 1st Lt. for the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer, related the history of the building, its renovation and plans for the future.

Prior to the tour, the members met at a local hotel for coffee and doughnuts.

Excuses for the morning were Mrs. Sam T. Simbers in charge of refreshments and Mrs. Bobby L. Owens responsible for tour arrangements.

Honored guests were Mrs. Robert H. York, Mrs. Ned B. Mabry, Mrs. Robert H. Robinson, Mrs. Luis Rodriguez, Mrs. Mell R. Gobbe, Mrs. John B. Amos and Mr. Thomas. Mrs. David W. Haynes was the hostess for the event.

Painting Topic Of Lunch Held By CAR Wives

"Paintings for the Home" was the topic of a recent luncheon for 50 wives of the 2nd Bn., 2nd Stu. Bn., Infantry Officers' Career Course.

Mrs. John Stoief, a Columbus artist known professionally as C. Cooper Stoief, told the wives that buying what you like is the foremost consideration in choosing a picture for the home.

She also emphasized the quality of the painting, color and the room in which the painting would hang, as criteria in successfully decorating the home with paintings.

Wives of the company's second platoon were hostesses.

Topiary trees made of bright flowers formed the centerpiece.

The ladies also exchanged paintings, jewelry, hand goods and other handcrafts which they had made.

10th Artillery Wives to Give Time to ACS

A decision to volunteer some of their time to Army Community Services was made by the wives of the officers of the 2nd Bn. (Composite) 10th Army, at their April coffee.

The group met at the Columbus apartment of Mrs. Charles A. Shipp, Mrs. John Bryant was extended a welcome by Mrs. Charles M. Hall. Mrs. Paul Radice was appointed hospitality chairman.

After the short business meeting coffee and cakes were served by Mrs. Harvy J. Faraska and Mrs. Lawrence Booth, co-hostesses with Mrs. Shipp.

Pre-School Registration Set May 45

Registration for Fort Benning's pre-kindergarten school will be held May 45 at the school.

The pre-kindergarten school is located in the old hospital area on Main Post in Building 222.

Registration hours will be from 9 - 11 a.m. on both days.

There are classes for both 3 and 4 year-olds, but children must be three years of age before the fall term begins in September.

The pre-kindergarten school is open to dependents of the military, retired or active duty.

Mrs. William Zimmerman is chairman of the Fort Benning pre-kindergarten school, which is sponsored by the Officers' Wives Club. The school's principal is Mrs. Gregory Brickhouse.

Tropical Flowers of tissue paper and fresh fruit turned the Mountain Room of The Main Officers' Club into a Hawaiian setting for a recent luncheon of the 6th Co. OCWives.

To complete the setting several Hawaiian dances were performed and the meaning of each dance was given.

Mrs. Louis B. Pincock presented diplomas along with a gold bar engraved with their initials. The diplomas were for "Pushin' Hubby Through", a "degree" awarded for assistance rendered to their husbands while attending OCS.

Newcomer Mrs. Carl Chickelatz was welcomed to the battalion and fellows were bid to Mrs. Erin Burns and Mrs. Gary Murphy.

Dear Community Service, I am in terrible trouble. I would be taken care of later. Well, they were right to let me be in Vietnam and they're aren't paying him anything until the $1200 is paid. I'm not getting anything and I have three children. He says there is nothing he can do.

Dear Alrad, It is too late to tell you that no one can spend money that is not rightfully theirs without getting into trouble. It is always harder to pay it back than it is to spend it. You know that now.

Write to your husband immediately. Ask him to apply for a reduction in the rate of repayment in view of the hardship on you and your children. Stretching out the payments will make you restrict your normal spending for some time but will provide some money for living expenses each month.

If there is an immediate emergency, come in to the office. We will also help you write the letter.

Anniversary Is Celebrated By Post Hospitality House

Fort Benning's command post, Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, last Saturday lit a candle, assisted Mrs. York in cutting a cake, and remarked on how rapidly time passes as he took part in ceremonies marking the first anniversary of Hospitality House.

Gen. York said it was hard to believe that a year had passed since he cut the ribbon to officially open the service facility.

In that short space of time, however, Hospitality House has assisted incoming and departing families with 1088 loans of emergency household items. According to 2nd Lt. F. X. Quinn, chief, Army Community Services, this represents a total savings to the families of an estimated $163,200.

Quinn said volunteers at Hospitality House had handled almost 6000 requests for information during the year and made outright donations in 22 cases.

Visitors and patrons at Hospitality House have represented 25 different states and seven foreign countries.

As an agency of the Army Community Service and sponsored by the "NCO Wives' Training Unit since July 1, 1963. He and his wife, Skip, will return to their home in Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Terrell Paulk Appears In International Event

Terrell Paulk, director of the prime minister of Belgium, Fort Benning's OWC School of Dance, was a featured performer at the International Azalea Festival held in Norfolk, Va., April 19.

This is the third year that Paulk has been invited to appear as a guest artist at the festival.

He danced "The Drummer Boy" from the Ballet Graduation Ball by Strauss.

Other guest Azalea Festival performers were Gayle Young of the American Ballet Theatre and Christina Serbe of the Washington Ballet.

Queen of this year's Azalea Festival was the daughter of

Coffee Conducted By Infantry Wives

Coffee for the ladies of 8th Bn., 31st Inf., 197th Inf. Bde., was held recently at the home of Mrs. George Hamm. Mrs. Roger Howe was co-hostess.

The theme of the coffee was "April Showers".

After coffee, Mrs. Charles Smith spoke on plans for the May luncheon. Progress reports were made by the committee chairman.

Mrs. Thomas H. Godwin and Mrs. James P. West were welcomed to the group.

MTU Commander Farewell Given Col. Peot At Round Of Ceremonies

Col. and Mrs. Jos. J. Peot of the US Army Marksmanship Training Unit were honored recently with a round of farewell ceremonies upon the occasion of his retirement from the Army after 32 years of service.

The USAMTU NCO Wives Club bid farewell to the colonel and his wife at a coffee in their honor at the skeet club. Mrs. Ralph O. Thompson, president of the club, presented Mrs. Peot with a centerpiece of flowers.

The officers and wives of the USAMTU formally bid their adieux at a dinner party held in the Corridor Room, Main Officers' Club. Mrs. Peot, in a moment of jollity, was given a "snow shovel" for her use in the snow country. In a more serious mood, she was presented a silver tray.

Col. Peot commanded the USAMTU since July 1, 1963. He and his wife, Skip, will return to their home in Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

COL. AND MRS. ROBERT PEOT and Col. and Mrs. Peot were the honored guests, Monday night at a "Hall and Farewell" buffet supper, given by Lt. Col. and Mrs. Jeremiah McKenzie at their home.

Col. Peot is the new commander of the 7th US Army Marksmanship Training Unit replacing Col. Peot.

Special guests for the occasion were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert H. York, Mrs. Bruce C. Clarke, wife of General Clarke, Col. and Mrs. Hubert E. Cunningham, Col. and Mrs. Wiley B. Wisdom, Jr., Col. and Mrs. C. W. Youngman, Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. A. Pierce and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Louis C. Fry.

Services Survey Results

Post Laundry, QM Sales Store Follow Up on Survey

The most recent quarterly survey of customers of the post laundry indicates that the areas in which most patrons were dissatisfied have been greatly reduced. Maximum efforts are continuing to provide patrons with the best possible service.

The post laundry provides the following services to meet requirements at Fort Benning.

Payroll deduction plan (EM only). Individual is authorized to send one bundle weekly, not to exceed 22 pieces plus laundry bag, at a cost of $4.40 monthly. This is deducted from the individual's pay. Three-day laundry processing service is provided. Bundles are turned in and picked up at the unit each month or see their supply sergeants. This service is placed on the company bulletin board about the first of each month.

The most economical available and will save money. All outer uniforms, items are starched and pressed.

Hanger Service Hanger - special service. This special one to two day laundry processing service is provided for the individual's uniforms and poplin shirts. These items are returned on hangers. Price is 40 cents per uniform. Pickup points are available at the following locations:

Post laundry, Bldg. No. 2300, corner Marchand and Infantry Bldg. Open 7 a. m. - 8 p. m. daily, Monday through Friday.

Bldg. No. 394, located in 6th Bn. OC area, main post. Open 5-8 p. m. daily, Monday through Friday.

Sand Hill area next to service station. Open 7 a. m. - 8 p. m. daily, Monday through Friday.

Regular Cash Service Regular cash bundle service. Deliver and pickup at post laundry, three-day service. No limit on number of items in bundle and cost is established from prices listed on laundry tickets.

To assist the individual in providing better service, the following actions by individuals and units can be most helpful.

Units: should pick up their organizational work and pay-as-possible after they are notified it is ready. (If not adhered to, overcrowded work areas develop which impede the work flow and slow production. The laundry shipping section to open from 7 a. m. - 11 p. m. daily Monday through Friday; should turn in field jackets and trousers and organizational clothing in the laundry superintendent or have their supply sergeants take care of it. Bonafide shortages will be replaced; should send no more than 25 pieces in payroll deduction bundles an excess pieces will be held at the laundry until laundering cost of the excess pieces is paid in cash. (If over 25 pieces are turned in, the outer garments will be considered as excess.) who use the hanger special and regular cash bundle service. Requested to pick up their finished laundry as soon as possible. (Failure to pick up their laundry results in overcrowding and wrinkling the finished laundry and requires periodic purtailment of this service due to lack of adequate space).

Thus, present hours are 9 a. m. - 8:15 p. m. Monday - 9 a. m. - 4:15 p. m. Tuesday - Friday. The store is closed Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

The clothing sales store was established to serve the military. All male clothing allowance items are stocked, plus selected items of TA 56-901 (organizational items).

Clothing for WACs and nurses of the command is obtained through the Quartermaster on a "small order" basis.

Adequate stocks of try-on clothing sizes are available to facilitate accurate ordering by the clothing sales store.

Army OKs EIB Award

WASHINGTON (ANP)—Army National Guard and Reserve commanders now are authorized to award the Expert Infantryman Badge.

A change to Army Regulation 600-73 gives commanders of Reserve component divisions, separate brigades, and Armored Cavalry regiments authority to administer tests and award the badge.

The Expert Infantryman Badge bears a polished silver bullet on a rectangular blue background. It may be awarded only to Infantrymen on active duty, or who are assigned to an active unit in the Reserve Component.

Vision Standards Changing For Duty in Combat Arms

WASHINGTON (ANP)—The Army will lower its vision standards for assignment of officers to combat arms and personnel to Airborne Ranger and Special Forces training of duty.

A change to Army Regulation 40-501, approved by the chief of staff and the assistant secretary of the Army, will adopt revisions recommended by an advisory committee. The change is being processed for publication.

The advisory committee, the Armed Forces National Research Council Committee on Vision of the National Academy of Sciences, made these recommendations:

No standard be required for uncorrected vision for assignment of officers to combat arms and personnel to Airborne Ranger and Special Forces training on duty.

The standard with correction should be 20/20 for the better eye and 20/30 for the poorer, with special examination if certain corrections are required.

Now Prescribed

The prescribed standard at present for Airborne, Ranger, and Special Forces training and duty as uncorrected vision of 20/200 in each eye, correctable to 20/20 in each eye.

The current standard for assignment of officers to Infantry, Artillery, Corps of Engineers, Signal Corps, and Military Police Corps is uncorrected vision of 20/200 in each eye correctable to 20/20 in one eye and 20/40 in the other eye.

Don't be stood up on stand-by.

Going home, you'll want to fly on military stand-by. You save half the regular fare, and that's worth saving.

So come to United Air Lines first. You'll find us at airports serving 111 U.S. cities. From more of them, we have more flights to more cities than any other airline.

And United has the largest commercial jet fleet in the air, so there are more seats available. Less chance of having to wait around on stand-by.

Men and women in United States uniform, with authorized military leave or furlough papers, fly stand-by at 50% off regular Coach fare. (This fare also applies within 7 days after discharge.) You can sit wherever the seats are—even First Class when the other seats are filled.

Here's hoping we see you soon. Back home, they miss you.

Vietnam Service Benefits

U. S. Approves Specific Privileges for Combat Zone

Approximately 35 per cent of all Army personnel stationed outside the continental United States are serving in the Republic of Vietnam—more than in any other country overseas. In recognition of the effort of these men and women who are serving to maintain free world strength, our Federal government has authorized special benefits for them.

Certain overseas service benefits have existed for some time. Recently legislation now provides a number of specific privileges for soldiers serving in the Vietnam combat zone.

Income Tax Exclusion
Enlisted men and warrant officers may exclude the entire amount of taxable income for any month served in the Vietnam combat zone or when hospitalized as a result of injuries or illness incurred there.

Commissioned officers may exclude $50 monthly of all similar circumstances after Dec. 31, 1966. These exclusions apply to Federal income tax only, beginning with the 1966 Federal income tax return normally filed by April 15, 1967. Officers and enlisted men may take up to 180 days after leaving the combat zone in which to file their returns.

Free Mailing Privileges
In addition to postcards and letters, servicemen may mail personal tape recordings. Any home postage free. Such mail is flown from Vietnam. All other mail, however, may weigh less than five pounds, may be flown to the United States at surface postal rates.

30 Days Non-chargeable Leave—All soldiers who voluntarily extend their tour of duty in South Vietnam for at least six months are authorized 30 days non-chargeable leave. The government will pay all transportation costs to and from home or days following his return to the United States.

There are provisions for withdrawal of funds in emergency situation while a soldier is in Vietnam.

The deposits and interest are exempt from liability for debt, including indebtedness to the United States and are not subject to forfeiture by sentence of a court-martial.

Variable Reimbursement Bonus—Persons who reenlist during a month in which they have served in Vietnam do not have to include the bonus as taxable income. The same applies to soldiers who reenlist while hospitalized as a result of wounds, disease, or injury incurred in a combat zone.

Foreign Duty Pay (FDYP)—Enlisted men and women are granted overseas pay ranging from $8 to $22.50 per month for service in Vietnam, based upon pay grade.

Family Separation Allowance—A sum of $30 monthly is paid to individuals, serving in a restricted overseas assignment, whose dependents are living in other than government quarters.

The special benefits accruing to the combat soldier is acknowledgment of the very special nature of his service in this connection. President Johnson has said: "It is essential that we convey to them (members of the Arm-

Heritage, Tradition Said Theme of June's Digest

June's issue of ARMY DIGEST generally presents the theme of "Heritage and Tradition."

Among the articles now scheduled to appear are:

"The New Korea" — On the seventeenth anniversary of the invasion of the Republic of Korea, ARMY DIGEST puts the spotlight on the new nation which has emerged from the holocaust as a full-fledged partner of the U.S. in the Far East.

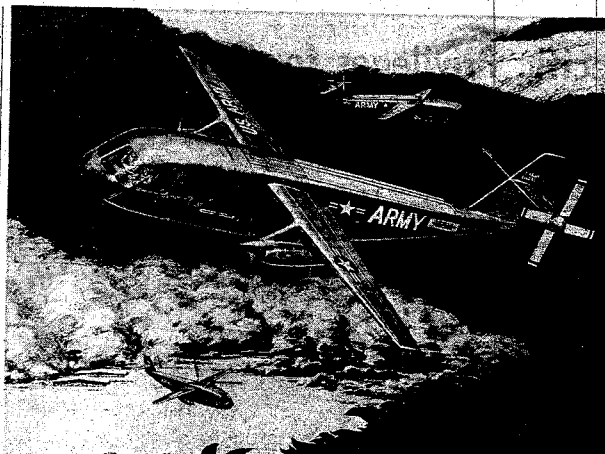

"Redeye" — ARMY DIGEST sends a crack writer-photographer team to Fort Bliss, Tex. and Fort Campbell, Ky., to report on the "Redeye" missile. What it can do, how it operates, how the troops in the field can use it—all of these items are touched on in crisp prose and sharp pictures.

"Combat Art Program" — Men fight today in Vietnam and the U.S. Army has dispatched brave men and soldier-artists—the fight-fronts to record their deeds in action. How the program began, how it works, and splendid examples in color of the artists' work are shown in the pages of the colorful June ARMY DIGEST.

"Army Operations Center" — At the heart of Army headquarters in the vast Pentagon is the Army operations center, nerve-center for military operations and communication. The big "DOC" and how it functions day by day, night after night, maintaining control over the extensive missions of our U.S. Army throughout the world.

Also scheduled in this issue are articles on the Army Picitorial Center, the history of Army history, the birth of the Army and in glowing color—the pageant and glamour of ROTC units on campus throughout the nation.

'RETRACTED ROTOR' AIRCRAFT . . . The Lockheed-California Company has received a $1.9 million study contract from the U. S. Army for the detailed analysis and component investigation of a "retracted rotor" aircraft that would take off, hover and land like a helicopter but would have the speed, range and flight efficiency of a fixed-wing plane. After a vertical takeoff and transition speed is reached, the composite aircraft would stop its rotor blades and fold and stow them into the fuselage. The aircraft's fixed wing would then provide lift and the propellers thrust for forward flight that could be more than 400 mph. The rotor blades would be extended again when the aircraft is ready for a helicopter-type landing. The study contract was awarded to Lockheed by the U. S. Army Aviation Materiel Laboratories, Ft. Eustis, Va., which is the Army aviation research center.

Unit Named To Design Radar For Nike Missile

General Electric Company (BTL) at Syracuse, N. Y. has been selected for design and development of a new perimeter acquisition radar (PAR) for the Nike X missile defense system.

The new radar will be a major subsystem of the Nike X system and is expected to increase significantly the range at which the system can detect targets.

General Electric will perform the work under a subcontract with Bell Telephone Laboratories (BTL), Whippany, N. J., which is responsible for overall Nike X design and development.

This sub-contract carried an initial funding of $1 million.

More to Study Viet Language

The Defense Language Institute plans to teach Vietnamese to 11,320 in the military during Fiscal Year 1968, an increase of 22 per cent over the number of students scheduled to take Vietnamese in the current fiscal year. In addition, the number of students taking other Southeast Asia languages will increase 223 per cent over 1967 to 520. The increase is primarily in the Burmese, Cambodian, Laotian and Thai languages. Several courses in Vietnamese will be taught. These range in length from a 100-hour elementary introductory speaking course to a 47-week program designed to give a basic professional proficiency in comprehension, reading, writing, and speaking the language. (ANF)

U.S. Will Observe Army Forces Day May 20 This Year

Armed Forces Day will be May 20, a day set aside to honor the nation's service personnel and provide public understanding and support of the Armed Forces. The eighteenth observance of Armed Forces Day will spotlight the work of the individual U. S. soldier. In addition to his major responsibility of being ready to fight in the defense of his nation, today's soldier must be a teacher, humanitarian, linguist, diplomat and leader. He plays a key role in the military preparedness of the United States. This readiness is reviewed during Armed Forces Day along the themes of "Landpower Missions Unlimited" and the Army's role in contributing to our country's "Power for Peace."

Board to Control Ammunition Types Common to Forces

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The military services have established a board to allocate and control on a worldwide basis the distribution of selected items of ground ammunition that are common to two or more services. The board, called the Military Services Ammunition Allocation Board, was created by mutual agreement of the chiefs of staff of the Army and Air Force, the chief of Naval operations, and the commandant of the Marine Corps. The board will be composed of a representative from each service.

'Dragon' Name Given New Anti-Tank Missile

An anti-tank weapon that hurls guided missiles and is fired from an infantryman's shoulder has been named "Dragon," the Department of the Army has announced. Now under development by the Army and the McDonnell Company, system prime contractor, the new tank killer formerly was known as MAW, from initials describing the type of weapon (Medium Anti-tank Assault Weapon). Dragon is the Army's first guided missile system light and portable enough to be carried and fired by one man but powerful enough to destroy tanks and other infantry targets. It weighs about 27 pounds. Highly accurate against both moving or stationary targets, Dragon will be far superior in range, accuracy and lethality to the current medium anti-tank assault weapon it will replace, the 90mm recoilless rifle. Successful test firings of an exploratory development configuration of Dragon have been conducted at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., headquarters of the missile command which directs the program. Because of its light weight, Dragon is particularly suited for airborne or airmobile operations and for employment in areas where terrain is difficult for vehicles. In addition to destroying armor it can be used against bunkers and other field fortifications. Sight On Target With Dragon, which employs a command-up-the-line-of-sight guidance system, no ranging or leading the target is required. All the gunner has to do is keep his sight on the target. The Army said Dragon will be so simple to operate that it can be used by field troops without extensive training.

Army to Use Wider Bed in U.S.

The Army is replacing the 30-inch-wide bed currently used in the continental United States with a modern, more comfortable model that is 6 inches wider. The new standard 36-inch-wide bed will have springs that prevent sagging and a new mattress with a wide innerspring for greater comfort. The length of the new standard bed, also used by the Navy and Air Force, is 79 inches, an inch shorter than the old model. However, a study of the future need for a longer bed and mattress is being prepared by the U. S. Army Natick Laboratories in Massachusetts. The Army plans to purchase 110,000 new beds during fiscal year 1967 and 80,000 during fiscal year 1968. The blankets and sheets now in stock will be used on the beds but new mattress covers will be required. (ANF)

Three NCOs Receive Cash for Safety Idea

Three enlisted men in the Airborne Department of The Infantry School received cash awards here last week for devising a safer way to rescue a student jumper in the event his parachute should ever drift into the underpinning of the 250-foot "free tower" on Rabanks Field. Instead of sending a man up the side of the tower to untangle the chute and risers, the new procedure calls for the rescue man to don harness and be pulled up by cable to the level of the stranded student. Then, by means of a dangle rope, he is guided over close enough to unhook the parachute and, secure the student's harness to the cable. Both student and rescue man are then lowered to the ground. Sustained superior performance awards were given to Staff Sgts. Donald Yelvington, David L. Shirkey and Richard L. Wilkinson, who proposed the new rescue technique, received $50 in an award ceremony at Infantry Hall headquarters of the Infantry Center and School. Col. H. S. Cunningham, Infantry Center chief of staff, presented the checks to the trio. Awards also were given to Dr. Harold S. Tate, educational advisor to the school. Outstanding ratings and salary increases went to Lewis F. McDaniel, a raise of $225 per year, and Mrs. Peggy W. Upchurch, $178. Outstanding ratings with cash awards for sustained superior performance were received by William T. Patterson and Jephtha V. Warren, $200 each, and Mrs. Kathleen F. McKenzie, $100. Superior Performance awards were given to Donald E. Goodroe, Jack L. Price and Hilton Roberts, $200 each; John Y. Brown, Kenneth A. Covatts and William B. Dixon, $150 each, and Felton Smith and Joseph Williams, $100 each. Col. Cunningham presented certificates of achievement to two civilian employees who are retiring. They are Mrs. Ruth McGraw, who has served 42 years and George H. Draughton, 30 years.

DA Announces Moves For General Officers

WASHINGTON (ANF) — to replace Gen. Abrams as vice chief of staff. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U. S. Army vice chief of staff, has been assigned as deputy commander, U. S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam. Gen. Abrams succeeds Lt. Gen. John A. Heintges as deputy to Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, commander, U. S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam. Gen. Westmoreland also is commanding general, U. S. Army, Vietnam. Gen. Heintges will become deputy U. S. commander in Europe. Lt. Gen. Ralph E. Haines, Jr., commander of III Corps, Fort Hood, Tex., was named to replace Gen. Abrams as vice chief of staff. Gen. Haines will be nominated for the rank of general. USMA Graduate Gen. Abrams, a native of Springfield, Mass., graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1936 and served during World War II with the 4th Arm. Div. During the Korean War, he served successively as chief of staff of I Corps, X Corps, and IX Corps. Before his appointment as vice chief of staff, Gen. Abrams was commanding general of V Corps.

After the war he was with the 88th Div. most of the time as an Infantry regimental commander. Before he assumed command of the III Corps, Gen. Haines was deputy assistant chief of staff for Force Development, Hq., Department of the Army.

VC Express Dissatisfaction With Conditions in North

PHU LOI, Vietnam—Three members of a Viet Cong guerrilla unit voluntarily turned themselves over to men of the 2nd Bn., 28th Inf. while the 1st Inf. Div. battalion was on search and destroy missions two miles south of Phu Loi.

All three expressed dissatisfaction with the Viet Cong governing body and the actions they were now undertaking. Promises that were made over a year ago by the Viet Cong were never kept. Lack of food was another reason for those three to rally.

Fear and uncertainty was quickly overcome as the three gulped down cans of ham and lima beans. Can Never Return. The men told the "Black Lions" that they could never return to their former units because they would face either slavery or death. They went on to say that if more Viet Cong knew how the Chief Ho program worked, more would probably surrender.

As soon as confidence was instilled into the three, they volunteered to accompany the "Black Lions" on patrol and would volunteer what information they could.

It was learned that the three knew they were turning themselves in to the "Black Lions" because, "They ate out of tin cans and moved very fast."

PHU LOI, Vietnam—Toll-free issue from a "C" ration accessory pack was responsible for saving Pfc. Dwayne E. Byrd from injury when these rolls in his pocket stopped shrapnel from a Viet Cong booby trap.

Moving through a jungle clearing Byrd, of Co. 2nd Bn., 28th Inf., was just about to turn the corner around some jungle growth when the man in front of him tripped a booby trap.

"I thought I'd been hit," Byrd said. "The explosion knocked me down and I started looking for blood. I noticed that a pocket on my jacket was torn and looked inside and found that a plastic spoon was broken and the three rolls of toilet paper had holes in them."

Byrd found a piece of shrapnel imbedded in the third and last roll.

Byrd chuckled, "I knew that the articles contained in the accessory package were a real help while in the field, but I had no idea just how much."

DI AN, Vietnam—The 25th Med. Det. (AS) is meeting with success in training two Vietnamese women to be dental hygienists. The program is under the practiced hand of Maj. Raymond K. Morrow, deputy commander of the detachment, which supports the 1st Inf. Div.

The two young ladies are constantly on the go as they travel from town to town with the doctor. Morrow, a dental surgeon, handles all cases which present themselves to him, although he is inclined toward children.

Since the beginning of March the doctor has treated and given instructions on proper dental care to 570 people, including 597 children. At present, all the instructional work is being done by the students and school staff alike. The instructions include the care of gums and teeth and oral hygiene backed by visual aids. On completion of treatment One teacher noted, "The use of our people to give the classes and explain the purposes behind the treatment alleviates anxiety and distrust in many of the patients. This method gives the impression the Americans are working for the people and not over them."

and will permit the children to practice good health by modern methods, even if they themselves stay with the old ways."

Teacher Notes. The use of our people to give the classes and explain the purposes behind the treatment alleviates anxiety and distrust in many of the patients. This method gives the impression the Americans are working for the people and not over them."

He added, "By teaching the old as well as the young, a hurdle is being overcome. The old are wary of change and new ideas but they are aware of what is going on

Three OCs State Alaska Holds Great Opportunity

Alaska, with a population of 250,000 holds a wealth of opportunity for a civilian of three former residents now in Officer Candidate training with the 75th ComBat Avn. The three are Jergen K. Anderson and Peter L. Price, of Anchorage, and Billy J. Stoddard of Juneau.

Club Honors Commanders For Support

Miss Vel Johnson, director, and Miss Carol Ann Ross, program director, of the South Harmony Church service club held a coffee call recently to honor and thank commanders, sergeants major and others who have supported the activities in the club during the past year.

Those specifically mentioned were the commanding officers of the 43rd Engr. Bn., Lt. Col. Jesse L. Ramos; 1st Bn., 58th Inf. Lt. Col. Vernon J. Walters; 4th Bn., 68th Armor, Lt. Col. Harold L. Lusby; and 3rd Bde, USAF-CI, Col. William B. Hanks, and their respective sergeants major.

Both directors are leaving Fort Benning in the near future. Miss Johnson has accepted an assignment at Fort Meade, Md., and Miss Ross is leaving for a tour of duty in Japan.

167 OCs Given Bars Last Week

"Look ahead, choose some long range goals and periodically check the course you are on," Maj. Gen. John M. Wright, told 167 graduates of an Officer Candidate Class here last week.

Gen. Wright, Chief of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Force Development, was introduced by Brig. Gen. James S. Timony, assistant commander of the Infantry School.

Distinguished honor graduates were 2nd Lt. George W. Vessell, 2nd Lt. Burton H. Earnest was first in leadership. Academic honors went to 2nd LT. Patrick C. McCormick.

Commendations were awarded to class members in six branches. Infantry led with 180, Adjutant General 15, Military Police 16, Chemical seven and Finance one.

Anderson said there is a decline in the gold mining and fur trapping industries. But these are being replaced by fishing, oil and the tourist business as major state industries.

Price had close ties with the fishing industries and prior to entering the service was the skipper of a crab boat which ran from Kodiak to Dutch Harbor on Alaska Island.

He said that crabs, salmon and shrimp are the major catches. For instance, millions of pounds of salmon are canned each year. Last year the salmon catch was so large that Japanese processing ships had to be called in at Kodiak to supplement the American processing facilities.

Shipped Boat. Price operated a 70-foot crab boat which ran from Kodiak to Dutch Harbor on Alaska Island.

The boat held 37,000 pounds of crabs valued at from 16 cents a pound in Kodiak to 34 cents a pound in Kodiak.

Stoddard said, "Alaska is a slower moving populace — it's not the busy rush you find in the 'Lower Forty-eight' from any river or stream in let for conservation purposes, however, new and thriving home city, Juneau, is the only state capital in the United States which is inaccessible by road."

Ferries, tourist ships and planes carry passengers to Juneau at regularly scheduled intervals.

Col. R. F. Bayard Is Named New Commander of MTU

Col. Robert F. Bayard assumed command of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit here last Monday. Col. Jos. J. Peot, retiring after 32 years service, turned the command over to Col. Bayard, who became the fifth commander the unit has had in its 11-year history.

Col. Bayard, a graduate of Michigan State University, came to the USAMTU from the XVIII Airborne Corps.

Two U.S. Firms Given Contracts For Helicopter

The Army is proceeding with plans to develop an aircraft with the combined capabilities of helicopters and conventional fixed wing planes. An evaluation of study concepts for the composite aircraft has been completed and contracts of $1,900,000 each have been awarded to Bell Helicopter Company and Lockheed Company for further research and design work.

The aircraft would combine the hovering capability of the helicopter and the range and flight efficiency of the fixed wing plane. The Army has selected two design ideas for further study. Bell Helicopter Company's "tilting rotor" concept, in which the winged-chopper's rotor blades and propellers rotate 90 degrees for both vertical and horizontal flight. Lockheed Company of Burbank, Calif., has envisioned a so-called "stopped-stowed rotor" concept.

Under this idea, the aircraft would lift off vertically with its rotor, and then upon reaching transition stage, would turn off the rotor, tuck it out of sight, and fly horizontally by means of its wings' and conventional propellers.

SPACE THEME

FORT MONROE, Va. — Many people are discussing outer space, but Army librarians and others are interested in inner space — the space between the ears.

"Explore Inner Space Ready" is the theme for National Library Week, ending tomorrow.

During World War II, Col. Bayard saw action in the Pacific Theater, participating in the North Borneo, the Cebu Defense and the China Offense Campaigns.

Following the war, he served as chief of the Japanese Korean Reparation Program China Theatre, was chief of staff of the Military Advisory Assistance Group in Indo-China in 1950, and in 1952 returned to the U.S. to assume command of the 1st Tank Bn. He subsequently was appointed Inspector General of the 11th Airborne Div.

Col. Bayard served as chairman of the Israeli-Egyptian mixed armistice commission in 1956 and 1957 under the late secretary general of the United Nations, Dag Hammarskjöld.

In London He also served as chief of the U. S. Standardization Group in London, England, which coordinated the U.S. U.K. Joint Long Range Weapons Research and Development Program.

He returned to the U. S. in 1963 to assume command of the 1st Airborne Battle Group, 18th Airborne Division. Upon the division's reorganization, the colonel commanded the 1st Brigade and participated in the Dominican Republic operation in 1965.

Col. Bayard is a graduate of the Command and General Staff College, the Armed Forces Staff College, the armor officers' advanced course, and the basic airborne course. He is a master parachutist and a sports parachutist.

The colonel has been awarded the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star with three oak leaf clusters, the Command Citation Medal with two OLCs, the Combat Infantryman Badge, the United Nations Medal, the Breast Order Yun Hui and the Special Breast Order of Yun Hui.

Fort Benning Will Host Advisory Group Members

Thirty eight members of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Service (DACOWITS) was established in 1961 by the Secretary of Defense. Membership is limited to 50 women selected on a basis of their outstanding reputation in business, a profession, public service and their record of civic leadership.

The women, representing many fields of activity throughout the nation, will arrive at Lawson Army Airfield at approximately 9:30 a.m. for a five hour orientation on activities of the Infantry Center and School and attend a five hour orientation.

There will be an official luncheon for the group at the Main Officers' Club. Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, Fort Benning commander, will be host.

Tentative plans for the visitors include observation of students engaged in practical problem solving on the Leader's Reaction Course at Dixie Village and a helicopter ride to the Training Center.

Soldiers Using Ration Box Tops For Post Cards

Members of the 25th Infantry Div. have come up with a handy device for their fellow soldiers in Vietnam. They use the postcard answer backs for the troops in the field who would like to write home but haven't any paper to write on.

The combat trackers team and the 81st mortar section of the 2nd Bn., 25th Inf., are using Cration box tops as post cards. Since any kind of written matter can be sent home free-of-charge from Vietnam, the men began writing on the reverse side of the box top.

It hardly resembles a picture postcard with beautiful scenery — but the soldiers reason — what better souvenir could be sent to the folks at home than the splendor in the field?

Dr. Dibble To Give Lecture On NATO At Main Post Club

Dr. Earnest Dibble, associate professor of history at the American University, will lecture on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at 8 p.m. next Tuesday evening in the main post service club, on Signlighting Road.

Dr. Dibble received his doctorate from the American University in Washington, D. C. and was on the faculty there until he transferred to the Fort Benning branch two years ago.

Presently the doctor is teaching a sequence of graduate courses.

Mickey Rooney Has Major Role After Long Absence

HOLLYWOOD... After absence of eight years, Mickey Rooney will return to MGM, the studio where he became the world's most popular juvenile actor, to portray a major role in MGM's "The Extraordinary Seaman."

He joins David Niven, Faye Dunaway and Jack Carter in the romantic comedy adventure, to be directed by John Frankenheimer and produced by Edward Lewis and Jack Cushingham.

Rooney, winner of a special Academy Award for his roles in the Hardy family films, was twice nominated for the Oscar and is one of the screen's all-time great figures.

Voled "King of the Movies" in 1939, Rooney's long list of

Orth Has Habit Of Being on Top

By Lee La Combe

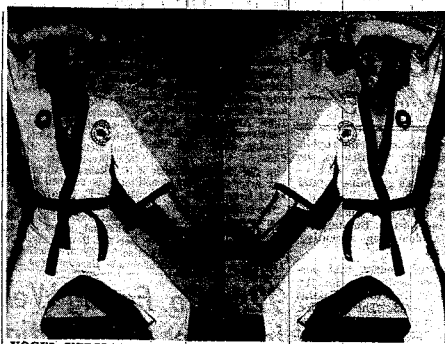

A member of the Fort Benning Doublois national service championship football team is now in command of a basic training company at the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry.

First Lt. Gregg R. Orth, who was a tackle on the famed squad which defeated Fort Eustis in the Mississippis Bowl at Orlando, Fla., to take the title, is commander of B Co., 7th Bn., 2nd Rde.

"Enlist had handed us our only loss during the regular season," Orth recalled during an interview, "and we wanted to beat them pretty badly. But, they were a tough ball club and we had our hands full taking the championship. We beat them 97."

All Army

Orth, who was named to the All-Army football team that season and received an engraved wristwatch from Army Times Publishing Company, is no stranger to the

Rifle Team Scores Win In Boulder City Matches

The U. S. Army high power rifle team scored decisive wins in the individual and team events last weekend at the Boulder City rifle championship tournament, Boulder City, Nev.

Staff Sgt. William R. Lee, Distinguished Army rifleman, fired a 900-33 with a bolt gun to outscore teammate Staff Sgt. Patrick Boyle who fired a 954-22 using the service rifle.

Staff Sgt. Herbert L. Dunbar, a bolt gun, won three out of the five first places and placed third in "and many of the shooters asked me if I was related to Frank Orth. I checked and found out he was a cousin of my dad, so I wrote to him and we exchanged several letters."

MTU Shooters Conduct Clinic For University

Three top pistol shooters from the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit conducted a pistol clinic at Auburn University, Auburn, Ala., yesterday.

M. Sgt. Ralph O. Thompson, Sgt. I. C. Robert D. Whitson, and Sgt. I. C. Lawrence K. Mosley were selected to instruct members of the Auburn student body in pistol shooting.

All three are veteran members of the U. S. Army pistol team and have competed in both national and international competitions.

The distinguished shooters held two sessions for the ROTC classes.

The veteran shooters presented a series of lectures on shooting positions, gun safety, trigger control and mental discipline.

OC Plans To Initiate Judo Club

OC Kenneth Sukimoto is a small person who doesn't look very dangerous. But, as happens so often, looks are deceiving.

Just four years ago, Sukimoto won the national high school judo championship. Today, as a member of 9th Co. (OC), TSB, Sukimoto wants to organize a judo club, exclusively for Officer Candidates.

"The club, as he puts it, would include the basics of judo, as well as a few of the more complicated moves."

The reason that he wants to limit the club to Officer Candidates can be explained by the fact that they spend only six months here before moving on to a new position.

The time that a candidate spends in OCS is not enough to only become acquainted with the sport.

However, OCS provides the ideal situation for a club such as the one proposed by Sukimoto. In OCS, the candidate is surrounded in an atmosphere of learning. This atmosphere extends to his personal time, and what better way is there to improve oneself than by attending judo classes.

Judo is fast becoming one of the more popular participation sports in America and the classes would provide the candidates with an insight into this ancient art of self-defense.

Sukimoto is a first degree brown belt, which is just one step below expert. He plans on helping to instruct the class, along with another candidate from 9th Co., Candidate Otto Vander Green, who is a fourth degree black belt in karate.

By Infantry Board Modified Helmet Liner Tests Underway

Testing of a modified helmet liner suspension system for use by combat infantrymen is currently underway at the U.S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) here, it was announced this week by the board president, Col. James L. Mair Jr.

The modified helmet liner has six metal slats in which the current suspension system by USAIB, will save the taxpayer dollars by its greater longevity. This is made possible by its removable suspension webbing.

The present liner webbing is permanently fastened to the slats in the helmet liner.

This all gives the new modified liner two distinct advantages in that the suspension webbing may be removed for replacement or, if being laundered and dried, it may be adjusted easily.

These advantages of the modified helmet liner suspension will also bring greater comfort to the wearer.

The ability to adjust each strap in the suspension webbing to accommodate different head sizes along with the provision of being able to remove the webbing for laundering will greatly enhance the life of safety to the infantryman's use.

This will also greatly extend the life of the liner as it will not be replaced as frequently because of a broken strap or soiled suspension webbing. This all adds up to savings in tax dollars.

As part of the current test by USAIB, the new modified helmet liners are currently being worn by troops at Camp 15, 1st Bn., 1st Training Brigade, during range firing and live-fire work.

CAMERA ANGLES

By Ed L. Marvin Wall
Editors Note: This is the first of a continuing series of camera and related items. It is intended to be about things that are a variable cost, and the flow of a variable cost, which can be opened or closed to permit users to get the most out of their camera by using it in the most appropriate way.

And there's a host of people who unwrapped complicated things with lots of buttons and put it trying to figure the machinery out until the weather got men.

So in this first column I'm going to take a look at some of the basic controls common to most cameras and then drop a couple of hints on how to make the most of whatever camera you have.

A camera, no matter if it's a $100 or a $1,000, is a light-proof box with a lens for focusing light on the film, a shutter to let the light in for a while.

The box may be metal or plastic or even wood. It might be all three. The lens is one of one or more elements.

It's not the least expensive of things. The cheapest lens is actually a variable cost. In most cases, the flow of a variable cost, which can be opened or closed to permit users to get the most out of their camera by using it in the most appropriate way.

The exposure is made by varying two factors: the shutter speed and the aperture. The shutter speed is how long the shutter remains open and how wide the iris in the lens is.

As the camera has a de-energized shutter, the photographer is determining where to focus the lens and what area the camera is taking in. This is called a range-finder or a reflex viewfinder and may be incorporated as part of a reflex viewfinder system in some of the more expensive cameras. A reflex system permits the photographer to see what he is taking in. The more sophisticated cameras have a mirror and five sided (called a pentaprism) prism for this purpose.

Six Trainees 'Max' Test To Help Unit Set Record

Six trainees from Co. 11th Bn., 1st Bn., 1st Training Brigade, received a maximum of 69 points on an individual proficiency test given at the end of the training cycle, helping to set a company average of 64.75 to exceed the Training Center's former record of 62.15.

This was noted at graduation ceremonies by Lt. Col. Carl M. Zilian, battalion commander.

Company C scored an average of 52.5 this during the test.

Pvt. John H. Tompkins was a multiple recipient. He was awarded the American Spirit Honor Medal, the outstanding trainee trophy, and the Certificate of Achievement, accompanied by the size of the rifle marksmanship trophy.

The six trainees who received the individual proficiency award were Pvt. Joseph E. Emmer, Pvt. Herweg Jr., Terry D. Hanz, Pvt. James G. Rollins, Pvt. Shaulkin, and Daniel J. Yachits.

Receiving identical scores of 69 on the physical combat proficiency test, Pvt. Donald Hubbard and Robert S. Petty were awarded the physical combat proficiency trophy.

Sport Shorts

By Rod Reed

There's an award for every major accomplishment in sports except the best choral rendition of "Goodbye, Allie."

Notable this season was the naming of Johnny Longden as Southern California's Athlete of the Year. This Helms Athletic Foundation award isn't new. It's been going on since 1900 when James J. Jeffries, the heavyweight champ, won the honor, but this is the first time a jockey ever got the citation.

Longden, 60, only recently retired, and career winner of more races than anyone else, has plenty of credentials as a man of skill, fortune, stamina and endurance. Yet there are those who contend no jockey is truly an athlete because the horse does all the running.

Is he or isn't he?

And consider the mighty Hickock trophy, a $10,000 diamond-studded, gold-trimmed belt, awarded to the Professional Athlete of the Year. Frank Robinson got it. Nobody will deny he's an athlete. Bart Starr came in second, Sandy Koufax, third, and nobody will deny they're athletes.

Fourth and fifth in the Hickock list went to a couple of fellows who play what used to be sneeringly called Cow Pasture Football—Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus. Are golfers athletes?

Famed columnist Jimmy Cannon is vigorous in denial. "The sports I take seriously depend on speed, agility. The golfer doesn't need these qualities. It is an effete skill and a man doesn't have to be an athlete to play it."

A national panel of sports writers and sportscasters does the Hickock voting so obviously many of them disagree with Jimmy. Continuing to study the ballots we find there's a ninth place tie between the Heavyweight Boxing Champion of the World Who Gets Sore if You Call Him by His Maiden Name and a bowling whiz, who doesn't get mad if you call him Dick Weber.

Is a bowler an athlete?

Probably not in the view of Cannon and other "purists." Their evaluation key seems to be whether or not a participant must be able to run. You must run in football, basketball, baseball, track, lacrosse. Hockey calls for legwork on skates and may be included. Boxers have little running room but some make the most of what they have.

Weber's New American Dictionary has a more liberal view, defining athlete as, "A competitor in sports; one trained to great physical skill and strength."

And Toots Shor, host to heroes, once pointed at Eddie Arcaro and declared, "There's the greatest athlete of them all."

Who's really an athlete?

Never mind—all out for the pie-eating contest!

SHORT SHORTS.

Little League umpires are almost as brave as school bus drivers.

Roller Derby is a rough sport, even if some of the skaters are bucking for Oscars.

If they put the World Series under lights, that'll kill the old thrill of sneaking off the job to watch it.

Putters are putters.

There was a Top Sarge in dress blues, Who spent hours shining his shoes; But his buttons went quick—Brasso did the trick. Now he can't wait to spread the good news!

TENN-SHUN!
Send 5¢ Brasso linerick to Brasso Div., R. T. French Co., Rochester, N. Y. 14609, U.S.A. We'll pay you $5 for each linerick published.

New!
Schick Super
Stainless Steel
Injector blades-

with the Super Krona
Comfort Edge

This triangle marks the Super Krona Comfort Edge—only Schick has it. Here's why:

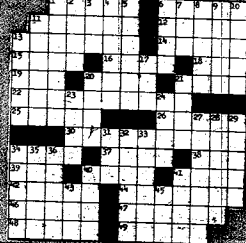

1. New Schick Super Stainless Steel. Gives uniform smoothness blade after blade.
2. New 3,000 Foot Strip. Schick polishes the Comfort Edge to a flawless finish.
3. New Polymer Coating. Schick coats the edges so slippery smooth there's no pull at all.

Available now in 7 and 11 blade packs and with Dual Injector Razor kits.

You Can Bet on It...

Compiled by Joseph Neumaier

... Sam Houston, famed American pioneer, warrior and statesman, was made a Major General and unanimously elected Governor of Tennessee before he was 29 years old.

... Freelance artists and writers owe their distinctive reference to the professional soldiers of the Middle Ages. They, the freelancers, sold their services to any feudal lord able to meet the market price. On occasion, a free-lancer also was a roving knight commanding a band of accoutred horsemen.

... Massé Amund, on March 2, 1925, was the first man enlisted in the Army known to have been born on a dog-pulled sled. He came into the world aboard the sled in Northern Alberta, Canada, while his father munched his way toward a Far North settlement.

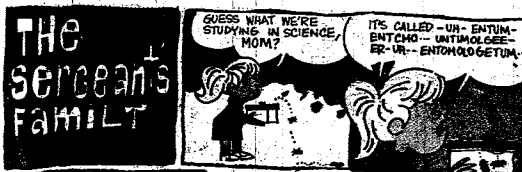

... Due to the scarcity of lead for bullets at the time George Washington assumed command of the revolutionary forces, a statue of England's King George III at Bowling Green, New York City, was melted down and issued in small quantities to the soldiers. In turn, they remelted it and molded bullets which they fired into the British ranks.

... Baseball great, Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, was first spotted as Big League material while pitching for the 15th Field Artillery in the 1930's.

... Brevet Brigadier General Ely S. Parker, aide to General Grant in the Civil War, was a full-blooded Seneca Indian chief.

... The Purple Heart, created by George Washington "for military merit," was awarded to only three soldiers in all the Revolutionary War—all were sergeants.

... Marauding hawks and owls raiding Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, for tasty Signal Corps pigeons in the spring of 1832, resulted in the posting of around-the-clock guards armed with shotguns.

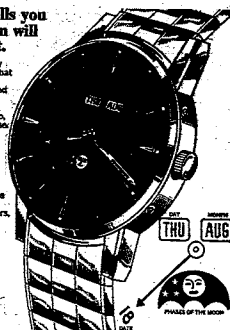

This watch tells you what the moon will be like tonight.

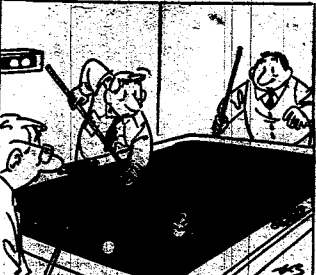

In addition to what day it is, what date it is, what month it is. And what time it is, accurately and dependably, year after year. It's self-winding. Has a stainless steel back case. Black or a white dial with raised markers and a matching band. Shock-resistant precision movement, seventeen jewels, lifetime unbreakable matching and balance staff. An exceptional watch for moon watchers, sun worshippers, or anybody who'd like to know the time of day. #1737, $12.95.

Does a girl go with every can of New Improved Rapid Shave?

No, but girls certainly go for the men who use it. They notice how smooth and soothing it leaves a man's face. And no wonder. Rapid Shave has a great new formula which combines a really rich, creamy lather and 17 beard softeners—all working double-time to give those tough G.I. beards the closest, smoothest shaves you've ever seen. Ask for new improved Rapid Shave at your F.A. in three formulas: Regular, cooling Menthol, and exciting new Lime, the tangy fragrance that makes shaving a tropical breeze.

And try Palmolive After Shave Lotion too... soothes in seconds, refreshes for hours.

If you can trust us with your appendix, you can trust us with your beard.

The same people who make Persona stainless steel razor blades also make surgical blades. More stainless steel surgical blades than anyone in the United States. And, oh, are those surgeons fussy. The teeniest, weeniest imperfection in a blade and you can feel the ground shake from here to Kookamonga Medical School. We formed the habit of making surgical blades one way, and one way only. Flawlessly. And we make our new super stainless razor blades the same way. If you like the shave we give you, just chalk it up to our experience with your appendix.

If we'd created it just for you servicemen...we couldn't have done a better job!

Service life can be extra tough on your hair. So you need something extra special to keep it looking great. Non-greasy Groom & Clean is the answer! Other hair-dressings build up a greasy looking film that can trap dirt and dandruff on your hair. But just wet comb with Groom & Clean helps clean away dirt and loose dandruff...prevent greasy build-up. Try It. Get Groom & Clean at your PX...today.

Local Performances

Local residents saw "Spring '66" when it visited the post in November, 1965, and February, 1966.

Since these two appearances, the cast has traveled to Germany, Spain, South America, Mexico and Canada at the invitation of national government leaders.

The Third U.S. Army, Fort McPherson soldier show production, "Showbest Jammer," will be staged at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Theater No. 11 instead of 5:30 p.m. tomorrow as announced last week.

The troupe's latest appearance at Fort Benning will feature the debut of F. D. Devoe Osborne, a baritone who, before entering the Army, was a featured performer with Bill Monroe and his Blue Grass Boys of Grand Ole Opry fame.

Other performers appearing are Spec. 4 Delores Freeman, vocalist, Spec. 4 Eddie Grimes, trumpet player and Pfc. Jeff Winter as a tenor soloist of the Mod Mistrals.

Douglas L. Crumple is technical director, Addison G. Stacy is music director, and Gilbert Gross, soldier shows staff director, serves as production supervisor and director for the production here tomorrow.

An inclement weather schedule has been announced for the performances of "Spring Varieties." One several shows playing to Fort Benning audiences during the coming week, which has been dubbed "Spring Swing Up."

In case of inclement weather, "Spring Varieties" will move.

PMO to Conduct Calibration Check For Post Drivers

As a courtesy to motorists who drive on Fort Benning, the Provost Marshal's office will conduct a radar calibration check for privately owned vehicles for those who desire to check their speedometer against radar equipment.

The courtesy check will be conducted on 82nd Airborne Division Road between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. tomorrow.

To arrive at the check point, proceed to the intersection of Bradshaw and 82nd Division road, make right turn and proceed north around Lawson Field on 82nd Airborne Division Rd. until an MP gives you instructions.

All motorists are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to check their speedometer before the calibration driving period.

Parade

From 2 p.m. today at Doughboy Stadium to 2 p.m. today in Theater No. 11. From 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sand Hill amphitheater. From 2 p.m. tomorrow at Theater No. 7. From 2 p.m. Sunday at Stroup Field in Harmony Church to 2 p.m. Sunday at Theater No. 11.

You can avoid drownings by using caution in water

The drowning season is fast approaching. Each summer season is marked by a large number of drownings which could have been avoided if the swimmers involved had entertained a proper respect for water.

Water is an element which can quickly turn hostile to the swimmer, the foolhardy, the impatient swimmer or loafer.

Each year in this country hundreds are drowned while swimming in unguarded lakes, rivers or ponds.

New benefits discovered by research in fluorides

More information has been added to the fund of knowledge of fluorides by researchers throughout the world. Soviet scientists have suggested that fluorides in drinking water can be effective in preventing deposition of strontium - 90 (from nuclear fall-out) in the bones.

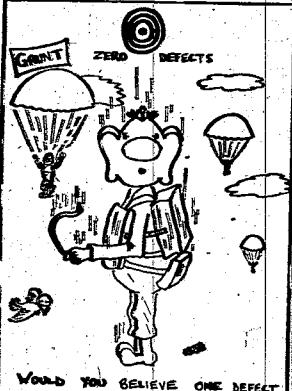

Statistically, the lower levels of strontium - 90 were found in teeth and bone samples from people who lived in towns with optimum fluoride levels than in those from towns without fluoride in their water.

Prevention of special fluoride benefits for the aged, retarded and children has been demonstrated in a study in North Dakota. It was found there that persons who lived most of their lives on a high fluoride water supply had less osteoporosis than those consuming water of low fluoride water containing fluorides by 60-70 per cent.

Judge Says Observance set Monday for 10th annual Law Day

Monday marks the tenth annual observance of Law Day in this country, the objectives of Law Day are to foster a deeper understanding and respect for the law by the general citizenry and to encourage the observance of the law as well as rights and to emphasize the contrast between the rule of law in the United States and the rule of law in Communist.

The theme of this year's Law Day is "The man is above the law and no man is below it." It calls to our attention the American principle of equal justice for all men. In our country, no person is so mighty as to be above the law and no person is so weak that he cannot depend upon the law for justice and protection.

The law in the United States has established the sanctity of the individual under the principle that is: "divine freedom is a permanent to government itself."

Post MPs on the look out to correct sloppy soldiers

Military Policemen at Fort Benning have been told to enforce strictly regulations on the wearing of the uniform, both on and off post, and to make "spot" corrections of the personal appearance of individual soldiers.

However, there is something more to the uniform a soldier wears. It has nearly two centuries of tradition, sacrifice and dedication behind it. Thousands upon thousands of Americans have worn the Army uniform through the decades and brought to it all that it stands for.

Let's go back to the business of personal pride and self-respect. A lot of people wear uniforms in this world today. Airlines pilots and their crews, the local high school bands, football teams, car boys - just to name a few.

Clock Watchers Take Note!

When a 72-hour pass not a 72-hour pass! Like this weekend, when it's an hour shorter thanks to the Uniform Time Law and Georgia's concurrence with it.

Daylight Saving (and "leap") Time goes into effect at 2 a.m. Sunday.

You push the clock up an hour.

If you think this will give you a break because of pre-dawn sunrise formations, forget it. Harsh and bright brass will be inspected if they have to do it with flashlights.

The best thing to do, of course, is to plan right now to take a three-day pass commencing the last day of October. That weekend will last for 73 hours when the clocks get turned back to their normal time.

Couples Feted At Club Event

"A Holiday in Spring" was the theme for the formal dinner-dance of the Weapons Department officers and their wives and guests last week, at the Main Officers' Club.

Different parts of the world, each fashioned in a spring setting, emphasized the theme.

Dance music was provided by a band, the "Modernaires," directed by Maj. Curtis Hogan.

A special addition to the entertainment was the performance of the Officers' Wives' Club's choral group under the direction of Mrs. Robert Hertel, who sang selections from "The Song of Music."

Honored guests were Col. and Mrs. William Koob, Col. and Mrs. John Robert Jr. and Col. and Mrs. Donald Barracough.

Mrs. O'Neill Known For Energy and Wit

By Bonnie Meher

Active, energetic, frank, fun or just plain busy are words that can be used to describe "Skip" O'Neill. As the wife of Col. Richard O'Neill, the director of the company operations department, the mother of seven children, the owner of one dog, 10 puppies and one cat, the welfare chairman for the Officers' Wives' Club, and a woman who manages between times to take a breath of air, Mrs. O'Neill is in truth a whirlwind dynamo of action, managing to squeeze time and a half into her busy schedule for everything in which she takes an interest.

She is the wife of Col. O'Neill, Mrs. O'Neill married in 1943 which he was on a two week leave.

While he served overseas, the new Mrs. O'Neill joined the WAC (Women's Army Corps) and seven years later her husband's return, when he was transferred to Fort McClellan, Ala.

Since that time the O'Neills have had three tours to the Postdam, being assigned to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Heidelberg, Germany and to Berlin.

In 1952 Col. O'Neill went to Vietnam and returned to the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. Before coming to Fort Benning in the summer of 1964 he served a three year tour at Fort Richardson, Alaska.

In Alaska, Mrs. O'Neill was on the OWC executive board for two years as program chairman and among nurse's aide for three years.

Greatest Adventure

In Alaska, she experienced her "greatest adventure," the earthquake of March 27, 1964. She and all her girls except Terry, were caught by the quake as they returned home in their car from an Easter shopping trip to Anchorage. They were thoroughly frightened although unhurt, and they found their home in a shambles.

One of her greatest things: Mrs. O'Neill remembers about the quake was the tremendous spirit of the Alaskan people, their determination to recover the help they offered one another and their optimism in the face of tragedy.

A few months after the quake, the O'Neills were transferred to Fort Benning. Here Mrs. O'Neill is known for her wit and energy. "Skip" O'Neill is respected and loved around the post, her vivacious personality and her abundant go-power. One friend said of her: "She has an ability to make others work as much as she does. You just want to please her because she inspires you. No one works as hard as 'Skip' O'Neill."

Dear Community Service: My husband just left for Vietnam to join the 1st Cavalry. My friends whose husbands belong to 1st Cavalry tell me that I will be getting two checks from the government. I can't understand this.

When he was overseas before, he made out an allotment for me and he did the same thing this time. Please explain what is going on. No body can explain why, they just say to expect two checks.

CURIOUS
Dear Curious: Congratulations on having a Class E allotment made out to you before your husband left. This is very important. I can explain the two checks.

Some organizations in Vietnam, and the 1st Cavalry is the largest one, have a very fine pay system. It has a long name, but its short title is CAMPS. You will receive your allotment check, just as you did before. Any other allotments your husband has requested will be paid just as before.

However, under this pay system, he can send all the rest of the money that he doesn't actually need wherever he wants it to go. He can have it saved for him until he gets back, send it to you, or anywhere else by completing the proper forms. All of these checks will come from Fort Benjamin Harrison where your allotment check comes from.

WAC Officer Selected For List of Top Women

Capt. Sarah L. Morris, Adjutant and chief, Personnel and Administration Division for the U.S. Army Infantry Board here was notified this week of her selection as one of America's outstanding young women for the year 1966.

This honor brings with it the added distinction of being selected to appear in the 1966 edition of the book "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Selections for this publication were made on an impartial basis by local women's clubs throughout the United States, college and alumni associations and military branches. The purpose is to recognize and honor the truly outstanding young women throughout the country.

Capt. Morris is a graduate of the University of Colorado where she studied voice and graduated with a Bachelor of Music Education.

Following graduation, she went to Denmark for three years as an exchange student and attended two of that country's famous opera and folk singing schools, the Ryslinge Folk College and the Royal Conservatory of Music in Copenhagen.

Coffee Held By Geographical Wives

A trip to Hawaii was the treat for the Geographical Wives at a coffee hour last week at the Main Officers' Club.

Henry A. Peckham, representative of a Columbus travel service, showed the wives a film on Hawaii and told them of the places of special interest to a person first visiting the tropical state.

Centerpieces of fruit, pineapples, and name tags, the shape of tropical fish set the mood for the "trip." Travel bags and beach bags were given as doorprizes to Mrs. John Hardy, Mrs. Charles Rhodes, Mrs. Richard Sharp, Mrs. David Peterson and Mrs. Allen Carlisle. Special guests were Mrs. Joseph Zenzila and Mrs. Thomas G. Block of Buffalo, N. Y., guests of Mrs. Thomas R. Block, and Mrs. Michael F. Brown of Centerport, Long Island, N. Y., guest of Mrs. Robert LaMonte.

Newcomers welcomed were Mrs. Robert St. Louis, Mrs. Aaron Larkin, Mrs. Charles Hanson and Mrs. Richard Sharp. Farewells were said to Mrs. Walter Jones and Mrs. Thomas Hyeck.

Housewives were Mrs. Donald Drummond, Mrs. Persons, Mrs. Seymour Byron, Mrs. Emmett Reynolds, Mrs. Miles Hedrick and Mrs. Thomas Hyeck.

Group Pilots Fly New Bell 'Copter For 'Reaction'

Army Aviators of the 10th Aviation Group headquarters had the opportunity last week to fly the newest helicopter being produced by the Bell Helicopter Company.

Called the Jet Ranger, the helicopter is presently being produced for individuals or companies who need private air transportation.

Leonard D. Kulick, military application sales engineer for the Bell Company, explained that efforts are currently underway to interest the Army in purchasing the new helicopter for pilot instrument training on turbine powered engines.

Kulick explained that the instrumentation on the helicopter is very similar to that of the UH-1D "Huey" and the new Huey Cobras manufactured by the same company, but that the Jet Ranger is less expensive to purchase, maintain and fly.

The helicopter can carry 317 horsepower out of a 100 pound powerplant and cruise at 140 mph.

It has a range of 400 miles and room for a pilot and four passengers.

Last week's visit to Fort Benning by the helicopter was designed to get Army aviator reaction, Kulick said.

Medal Awarded Posthumously To Staff Sgt.

A Bronze Star Medal has been posthumously awarded to Staff Sgt. David P. Spears who died in the service of his country.

Sgt. Spears was decorated for distinguishing himself by meritorious service in connection with ground operations against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam from Dec. 22, 1965, to July 24, 1966.

The citation read, in part: "The energetic application of his extensive knowledge has materially contributed to the efforts of the United States mission to assist that country in ridding itself of the Communist threat to its freedom. His initiative, zeal, sound judgment and devotion to duty have been the highest tradition of the United States Army and reflect great credit on him and on the military service."

Sgt. Spears' widow, Mrs. Shelby J. Spears, lives at 1141 Lakeland Trail, P.O. Box 990, Morris Road, Columbus.

Begins Confirmatory Tests

The critical eye of an interested visitor was very much in evidence last week at the United Kingdom when the firing of the 81mm UK mortar by the U.S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) here.

Col. Jos. J. Peot was honored with a review last Wednesday upon retirement from the Army after 32 years of service.

Col. Peot was presented a Legion of Merit by Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, Fort Benning commander, for distinguished service in the competitive marksmanship field.

Since July, 1963, Col. Peot was commanding officer of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit here.

He was directly responsible for selecting, organizing and training rifle and shotgun teams to represent the Army and the United States in national and international competitions and was credited with their many successes over the years.

Mechanical Engineer

The colonel graduated from Sturgeon Bay High School in 1938. In 1934, he received a BS degree from the University of Wisconsin in mechanical engineering. After a post graduate course at the University of Wisconsin, he returned as a faculty member in the department of mechanical engineering.

His military career has included service as a faculty member at the U.S. Army War College and the Command and General Staff College.

He is a graduate of the Signal Corps radio communication course, Advanced Officer's Course, the Command and General Staff College and the nuclear weapons course at the CGSGS College and the War College.

He served as Signal Officer for Gen. George C. Marshall when he was special ambassador to China.

Col. Peot was recently selected as a member of the National Safety Council shooting safety committee, an organization made up of leaders of technical and recreational groups interested in gun safety.

Official Observer

The colonel has served on the NRA international shooting committee and was the Army representative at the quadrennial meeting of the U.S. Olympic Committee. He served as official observer for the U.S. Army at the world shooting championships, Wiesbaden, West Germany, last July.

Col. Peot is best known for his untiring efforts in furthering international shooting throughout the United States. He has been instrumental in establishing shooting clubs in universities, colleges, and General Staff College.

He was directly responsible for selecting, organizing and training rifle and shotgun teams to represent the Army and the United States in national and international competitions and was credited with their many successes over the years.

Mechanical Engineer

The colonel graduated from Sturgeon Bay High School in 1938. In 1934, he received a BS degree from the University of Wisconsin in mechanical engineering. After a post graduate course at the University of Wisconsin, he returned as a faculty member in the department of mechanical engineering.

His military career has included service as a faculty member at the U.S. Army War College and the Command and General Staff College.

He is a graduate of the Signal Corps radio communication course, Advanced Officer's Course, the Command and General Staff College and the nuclear weapons course at the CGSGS College and the War College.

He served as Signal Officer for Gen. George C. Marshall when he was special ambassador to China.

Col. Peot was recently selected as a member of the National Safety Council shooting safety committee, an organization made up of leaders of technical and recreational groups interested in gun safety.

Official Observer

The colonel has served on the NRA international shooting committee and was the Army representative at the quadrennial meeting of the U.S. Olympic Committee. He served as official observer for the U.S. Army at the world shooting championships, Wiesbaden, West Germany, last July.

Col. Peot is best known for his untiring efforts in furthering international shooting throughout the United States. He has been instrumental in establishing shooting clubs in universities, colleges, and General Staff College.

USAIB Is Firing Newest 81mm Mortar

The critical eye of an interested visitor was very much in evidence last week at the United Kingdom when the firing of the 81mm UK mortar by the U.S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) here.

Col. Jos. J. Peot was honored with a review last Wednesday upon retirement from the Army after 32 years of service.

Benning's Sergeants Major to Perform New Duty

Sergeants major of this post will take on an additional duty commensurate with their rank next Monday as the first "Sergeant Major of the Day" (SGM OD) goes on duty.

Sgt. Maj. Robert L. Henderson, senior noncommissioned officer of the post Adjutant General Section, has been selected for the first tour of duty under a new directive published by The Infantry Center April 18.

The sergeant major detailed in the duty will represent the commanding general and will be under the direct supervision of the post sergeant major. His tour of duty will extend from reveille to retreat, Monday through Friday.

Every sergeant major assigned to the major commands at Fort Benning will be eligible for the duty.

According to Fort Benning Regulation 210-8, which sets up the new detail, the responsibility of the SGM OD will include personal observation of military courtesy. He will make on the spot corrections and when deemed appropriate, obtain names and other pertinent information from the violators.

The hierarchy of the SGM OD generally will be optional, but he will visit snack bars, bowling alleys, clubs and other activities to curtail loitering and perform such other specific tasks as may be assigned by the post sergeant major.

Each SGM OD will be briefed before his tour of duty and will submit a report at its conclusion.

The regulation spells out the purpose for establishing the senior sergeant post in a few words, saying, "... he will continuously strive to improve conditions in all areas to meet USAIC (Infantry Center) standards."

Contemporary Military Reading List Adds Six Volumes for 1967

The military man interested in military science and world affairs in his job, his career, and his country will also be interested in the U. S. Army Contemporary Military Reading Program as outlined in AR 28-56.

Each year a reading list of up-to-date titles in the field

Belvoir Unit Gets Renewal of Mission

Logistics support for U.S. researchers on the Greenland icecap during the summer season will be the task of the U.S. Army Research Support Group, Fort Belvoir, Va., for the twelfth year.

The 140 officers and enlisted men will support scientists and engineers of the U.S. Army Map Service and the U.S. Army Cold Region Research and Engineering Laboratory.

A resurvey of the icecap will seek to determine movement of its ice flow. The study is part of the Army's research in operational problems in polar regions.

The men will stay at Camp Thule, 15 miles southeast of Thule, from May 1 to June 30.

Following are annotations of six books which were added to the 1967 reading list. All of these books are now, or will soon be, available from the Special Services Library system here.

Let them help you become an active member in today's modern, thinking Army!

THE OBLIGATIONS OF POWER: American Diplomacy in Search for Peace by Harold Cleveland (1866) man written by a former assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs and the present U. S. Ambassador to NATO, this book is an excellent review of and very readable account of U. S. successes in the war emphasizes lessons for crisis management, means of maintaining peace, and the usefulness of development as assistance. DECISION MAKING FOR DEFENSE by Charles J. High (1965) A composite of military of the lessons to be learned. PROBLEMS OF NATIONAL STRATEGY edited by Henry A. Kissinger (1965) This anthology of readings on basic national security policy is of equal value to the general student of national strategy and the lay reader. In the presenting viewpoint on both sides of key issues, Dr. Kissinger, professor of government at Harvard University, provides an excellent representation of governmental scientific and academic thought on the major defense policy problems confronting the United States today.

GEORGE C. MARSHALL: VOL. 1 - EDUCATION OF A GENERAL, 1880-1940 VOL. 2 - ORDEAL AND HOPE, 1940-1942 by Forrest C. Pogue (1962 & 1966) The first two volumes of a projected four-volume definitive biography of Volume 1 follows Marshall's progress from his childhood in Uniontown, Penn. to 1900 when Hitler marched into Poland and Marshall took the posts as chief of staff of the United States Army. The development of the United States as a world power, and Marshall's early role in that development, are shown. AMERICAN STRATEGY: A New Perspective by Urs Schwar (1966) This book presents an interesting and balanced study of the growth of strategic thinking in the United States as seen by the author, newspaper editor of a Swiss foreign editor of a Swiss newspaper. After tracing the both World Wars to 1966, the author concludes with the analysis that NATO has failed to keep pace with and the struggle to strengthen the thinkers and leaders have failed to understand the strategic theories and concepts advanced by the United States.

Soldiers Bound for Vietnam Guaranteed 15 Days Leave

WASHINGTON — Soldiers heading for Vietnam on completion of AIT, specialists of functional training, will be given a minimum of 15 days pre-embarkation leave, regardless of how long they have already taken. The Army's new leave guidelines for trainees — spelled out in the April 18 Message 806339 — permit soldiers to draw leave in advance if they have to in order to have a minimum 15-day period of pre-embarkation leave for Vietnam-bound trainees. The message says that for trainees who were not authorized leave during individual training, the Army says their pre-embarkation leave will be in lieu of and not in addition to leave authorized upon completion of training.

The Army's general policy — in effect since January 1 — is not to permit recall leave until completion of AIT. There are exceptions, however, and these exceptions have forced the Pentagon to clarify its leave guidelines for trainees.

The Army currently assigns a trainee being assigned to an AIT or service school an average of 14 days pre-embarkation leave upon completion of AIT. Other exceptions permit soldiers who have been assigned for airborne training (for example, in AFRC driver training) in TDY status to take 14 days leave between AIT and start of training. If they attend the course in TDY status, they will receive no additional pre-embarkation leave, the Army said.

The message clears up a policy that has been confusing to many commanders on just how much leave should be granted a RVN-bound trainee who has already had 14 days leave at some phase of his individual training.

Guest Speaker Scheduled At Fellowship Day Meet

Mrs. Aaron R. McCray at the Fellowship Day to be conducted by the Women of the Chapel Council here next Thursday.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. at Defenders Lodge, Sand Hill. Participants are requested to bring a salad for the lunch.

Mrs. McCray, a sister of Mrs. A. J. McClung of Columbus, is a counselor on the staff of the dean of women at Tuskegee Institute. She was one of 11 American women selected to represent United Churchwomen during the 1966 Christian Caseways, Direction: Africa, on that continent.

Mrs. McCray is president of the Tuskegee Council of Church Women United.

During the morning session of the fellowship day, Mrs. McCray will discuss "How Can All Share?" In the afternoon, assisted by Mrs. J. G. Sweet, she will show slides of a visit to Africa.

Mrs. Joseph R. Andrews will lead the devotion. Special music will be sung by a sack lunch for each child.

British-Born OC Awaiting 3rd Battle: Citizenship

Officer candidate Michael E. Charlton wasn't born in a quiet hospital like most people but was brought into the world under the same situations he is now studying at the Infantry School.

Charlton, 25 years old, was born in Cardiff, Wales, during World War II. In fact, he took his first breath during a bombing of that city by the Germans.

Now a candidate with the 74th OC (he came to the United States in 1964, he said, because he had always been intrigued with the United States and its way of life.

Charlton decided to join the army in order to obtain his citizenship under a three-year service program, and he's already fought for 13 months in Vietnam to earn it.

The OCS candidate was a member of a 30-man Marine Corps and Special Serv. psychological warfare and intelligence team based in Da Nang. "I believe we were the first such team to operate in Vietnam," Charlton said. "I was a photographer among other things."

His team produced propaganda leaflets, which they also dropped from planes, went into villages for civic action programs, and also took part in search and destroy missions.

Charlton, in his intelligence role, talked to many Viet Cong who had surrendered under the "open arms" program, which the candidate identified as an amnesty declaration for those Viet Cong who surrendered voluntarily. "They said the Viet Cong were very demoralized due to the bombing a defoliation program going on," he noted.

He was also responsible for determining if Viet Cong soldiers who were captured were sincere when they said they were ready to defect from the VC ranks.

Charlton went on most of his assignment with a Vietnamese general — General Thi, who is now in the United States.

Charlton has only a mat-zenship, and he is also awaiting a future assignment in Vietnam.

The Drill Sergeant

NCO Leads Platoon to Top Honor

Sgt. L. C. Oliver H. Cessna, who has been training recruits for more than 10 years, has just graduated a 3rd Battalion honor platoon at U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry.

Comparing basic training "then and now" he said, "There's no doubt that the new soldier gets far better training these days with this variety of subjects he must learn."

Cessna, who fought in World War II and Korea, took his basic training in 1945 at Fort McPherson, Ala. In those 18 weeks of basic training, even the recruit specialized. In Cessna's case it was in the water-cooled .30 caliber machine-gun.

"A man had to know everything about the machine-gun but he didn't get much training in other fields," he said.

Total Training

According to Cessna, now a man gets total training in just about every field he'll need for combat.

"It's then you know that

Cessna began training recruits at Fort Hood, Tex., with the 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, later the 1st Armored Division. Training unit plan, all men were trained in one specialty, then stayed with that unit permanently. Cessna trained his men in the 42nd mortar.

Assigned to the basic training center at Fort Ord, Calif., he was graduated from drill sergeant school there in 1963 before coming to Fort Benning's Training Center later in the year. He is now a platoon sergeant in Co. D, 3rd Bn., 1st Bde.

Council said of Cessna, who was promoted only last week, "He has the responsibility of training and giving example to the younger drill sergeants — those who haven't had the experience of opening three new training centers."

Maj. Joseph B. Plancher, battalion executive officer, said, "Cessna is one of those rare men who are consistently superior in their performance. The drill sergeant is the work horse here, our best training tool."

There is a certain experience that a man does not get from training marmosets, Cessna has gained this experience from maturity and dedication.

Plancher said, "Both are a must for the superior drill sergeant."

54 Enlisted Men Learn Skills of Aerial Gunnery

Helicopter door gunners churred the soul of Fort Stewart as they learned the art of a two-week aerial gunnery school conducted by the 137th Avn. Co., 44th Avn. Bn., 10th Avn. Group.

The live fire exercise at Fort Stewart was the final phase of the training program which began here for 54 men of the 25th Avn. Co., 44th Avn. Battalion.

During the first phases, students learned aerial observation and survived in a one-week ground school.

They also learned to fire and maintain the M-60 machine gun which, when modied by attachment of handles, is mounted on helicopters as the M-23 machine gun system.

Upon conclusion of the ground school the students moved to Fort Stewart by bus for practice and qualification with the M-23.

Each student fired 400 rounds from helicopters stationed on the ground for practice.

Professional Journal Lists May Articles

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. — Ten original articles appear in the May issue of the U. S. Army's professional journal, the MILITARY REVIEW.

Lewis A. Frank, an economist and practicing consultant on defense research, wrote the cover feature entitled "The ABM Debate."

He traces anti-aircraft systems and then provides counterarguments to these. He feels the anti-ballistic missile is our best protection against Soviet and the future Chinese missile threats.

Major Writts Army Maj. Ronald L. Stapleton, writes about "Trung Luong — Selpiece Vietnam." He praises the fighting ability and efficiency of the RVFF (Regional Force - Popular Force), the main defensive forces in many areas. He reports that the simple and repetitious lessons learned at Trun Luong are constant activities for the RVFF, practiced deftly and with speed.

In the third cover feature, "Education at the Academies — Where Next?" Dr. Richard de Neufville, professor of civil engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, remarks that many of the skills taught today in colleges and academies will be practically worthless within 25 years.

New Goals He says that the academies have modified curricula in the past few years but new goals should continue to be set.

Dr. de Neufville also states that the U. S. military academies are among the leaders in American education and in engineering education in particular.

He writes that the educational consensus seems to be that the challenge of the scientific revolution and the great technical changes can be met with an adaptable, flexible curriculum emphasizing creativity and independent thought.

Soldiers Getting Briefing On Obligations in Buying

The Department of the Army's new regulation, which puts merchants and military buyers squarely on notice of their respective obligations, is now being explained to Fort Benning military personnel.

Local businessmen have already benefited on the new regulation, AR 210-7, by Fort Benning officials.

With the intent of the regulation directed toward the welfare of military personnel, it offers the soldier a guide to follow as a consumer, a buyer, when negotiating financial contracts and related matters.

Featured in the regulation are ten standards of fairness, a form designed to disclose in full all information necessary to identify the loan and a certificate of compliance.

The standards of fairness identify the loan, shows the computation of interest rate, the rate of the loan and other identifying information.

The certificate of compliance shows that the seller has complied with the standards of fairness and has filled out the full disclosure form.

Benning Area Provides Attraction for Family

There is a natural affinity between the Robert D. Bentley family of Columbus, Ga., and Fort Benning.

Col. Bentley was commissioned a second lieutenant in the post in November, 1942.

He returned Tuesday to play gold bars on his son, David L. Bentley, newly commissioned from the 94th Co. (OC) in the afternoon, Col. Bentley was inducted into the Student Brigade's Officer Candidate Hall of Fame in Wigle Hall.

Sandwiched between combat and staff assignments over the past 25 years, Col. Bentley has been drawn back to Fort Benning for tours of duty as an Airborne student, then as an instructor, back again for the Infantry Officers' Career Course and another hitch as an instructor.

White here in 1946, he married the former Gloria Bentley of Columbus. A year later, son David, now 2nd Lt., Bentley, was born at Fort Benning's Martin Army Hospital.

Present with Col. Bentley for the two ceremonies Tuesday were Mrs. Bentley and her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Hodgson, formerly of Columbus but now living in Norfolk, Va.

2nd Lt. Bentley will remain here for assignment to the Infantry School Brigade. Col. Bentley is presently a student officer at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Those inducted into the TSB Hall of Fame are Officer Candidate graduates who have received the Medal of Honor, have attained the rank of colonel, or who have distinguished themselves in civilian pursuits.

OC Receives Commission, Award of DSC Here Today

A former Special Forces medic who graduates today from Infantry Officer Candidate School here will receive the Distinguished Service Cross for valor in Vietnam.

Officer Candidate James T. Taylor of Coatesville, Pa., will be presented the nation's second highest military decoration during graduation ceremonies for the 7th Co., 7th Stu. Bn. (OC), The Student Brigade.

Presenting the medal to the newly-commissioned lieutenant will be Brig. Gen. James S. Timodhy, assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

Class Leader Taylor, a sergeant first class when he entered OCS, will be his company's top man in leadership ratings and a distinguished graduate. The Special Forces camp at Dong Xoai was attacked by a regiment of Communist troops June 9-10, 1966 and it was there that Taylor distinguished himself during a 14-hour siege.

Another graduate of Infantry OCS fought in the battle of Dong Xoai. He was Capt. Charles O. Williams, then a lieutenant. He received the Medal of Honor for his heroism there.

The citation to Taylor's award reads, in part, "Saw wounded men and fought off attacks to within 10 meters of the building."

Taylor, 30, will be assigned to the Weapons Department assigned unit. Throughout the Infantry School.

There is a certain amount of confusion in the mind of most amateur shutter bugs about the various kinds of color films around what they do that makes them different.

There are two major categories for color films—those that yield a slide, or positive transparency, and those that give a negative.

In general, when a film name ends with "-color," it's a negative film, if ends in "-chrome," it's a slide film.

Negative color is about the nearest thing in the world to a universal film. At present there is but one variety that is easily available in most cities, Kodachrome X. However, there are a number of European and Japanese brands which are occasionally found in some of the larger cities, such as Agia color and Sakuracolor.

Yield Negatives
All of these films yield a negative from which color prints, color slides and even black and white prints may be made. The only disadvantage to using color negative films for making slides is the cost—it's about half again as much as using the slide film in the first place.

However, a great many people would rather have small prints than slides and for those people, who only occasionally need a slide made, Kodachrome is the answer.

The slide films come in a great variety and each type has its own peculiarities. The standard of the transparency field is Kodachrome II, which has been billed with "great deal of accuracy as the finest grained color film with the most true-to-life color ever made. It is an improvement over its older brother, Kodachrome in that it's two-and-one-half times as fast.

More Contrast
Kodachrome X, which is two and-a-half-times as fast as Kodachrome II, appeared on the market shortly after Kodachrome II, has more contrast, and accordingly the naturalness of its color is diminished—the colors tend to be more brilliant than life. It's chief advantage is its speed, for although its grain is excellent, it still rates second to the slower film.

High Speed Ektachrome
Type B, is the same film, but it is intended for use under artificial light conditions. Since most meters are slightly optimistic reading tungsten (lightbulbs) the film is rated a little slower than the daylight variety. The daylight film with fluorescent or other lights.

Ansco also makes several varieties of slide films, which are similar to their Kodak counterparts in that the speed of the film is proportional to its grain. The standard Anscochrome 50, is very favorable compared with Kodachrome, except that it tends to be a little warmer. The available light counterpart, Anscochrome 200, is the fastest color film sold over counter in the world and is similar to High Speed Ektachrome in characteristics.

Finally, Anscochrome T100, tungsten light film, is for the same usage as its Kodak counterpart but a little slower.

The right film for the right job is the watchword, but a word of caution: Most of the films are sufficiently versatile to cover a wide variety of situations—so find one or two that suit your purposes and stick to them. Soon you will know their characteristics better as you know your camera.

Company Film Fast
It's companion film, High Speed Ektachrome, is fast enough to approach the sensitivity of the black and white films and is invaluable to night and limited visibility situations. It suffers a small amount of graininess, compared to Ektachrome, but is still quite acceptable.

Infantry Unit Receives Praise From Rangers

Capt. Wilfred A. Phelps, 197th Inf. Bde., has received a Letter of Commendation from the Infantry School Ranger Department for his part in supporting a three-week Ranger student problem.

The unit has just returned from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., where the Ranger Department conducted the third and final "jungle" phase of its training.

The Letter of Commendation, from Col. Irwin A. Edwards, director of the Ranger Department, cites Company A for its "outstanding initiative and esprit." The men of the company were "never content with mediocrity," and this in turn produced an "attitude of zeal in the Ranger students," he said.

Men of the unit, who simulated a guerrilla force, did "everything within their means to insure that guerrilla play was realistic and imaginative," he said. The letter goes on to point out that the "officers and non-commissioned officers in the company were aggressive and realistic."

The award is among the first of its kind to be presented by the Rangers to a supporting unit.

The citation of the scroll, in a less official tone than the Letter of Commendation, testifies to all who may gaze upon it that the men of Company A "will never be cold, frightened by snakes and alligators; will hardly ever surrender and will always maintain an exemplary flexible attitude."

'VIP's' Wins Bars In Infantry OCS

Graduating officer candidates of class 2347, headed by Col. Albert N. Ward Jr., tell them they are "VIP's" (very important persons) at ceremonies here last Monday.

Col. Ward, director of the Department of Nonresident Instruction (The Infantry School), said that "these young men are going to be the leaders of about 700 of our most precious, prized possessions—U. S. soldiers."

"The job of a lieutenant in combat is not easy," he reminded the 176 graduates. "You cannot think only of yourself. You must think of everyone you are responsible for."

Named honor and distinguished graduate was Second Lt. Robert M. Baucum. He also rated first in leadership. Academic honors went to Second Lt. Terry A. Ruth.

BETTER EQUIPPED... Members of the 43rd Engr. Bn. (Const.), Center Troop Command, promise greater things for the future as they show off two of nine new front loaders recently acquired by the battalion. Costing approximately $18,000 each, the front loaders are used to fill trucks, move earth and lift heavy objects. They are powered by a diesel engine, weigh 25,000 pounds and are equipped with four-wheel drive, rear wheel steerable pneumatic tires and a 2½-cubic yard multi-segment bucket. (U.S. Army Photo)

"How badly do you want to be a commander?" asked Medal of Honor winner Col. Robert B. Nett of 183 new second lieutenants at The Infantry School Officer Candidate course graduation ceremonies here recently.

Facing the questions, "Are you willing to accept full responsibility for your subordinates' actions?" and "Are you a good follower as well as a leader?" Col. Nett, who received his commission here in 1942, added, "Only your own mind can give an honest answer!"

The colonel, now deputy director of The Infantry School Company Operations Department, fulfilled an Infantryman's mission in 1944 when, as a first lieutenant in command of a company and with three serious wounds, he led a rifle and bayonet assault that destroyed a Japanese reinforced battalion in the Philippines.

In pointing out to the new junior officers their responsibilities, the colonel closed with, "A touch of compassion flowing from you to your men is a mark of a great commander!"

Scientists Develop An Artificial Hand With 'Light Touch'

Army scientists have developed an artificial hand which can grasp extremely delicate objects, such as eggs and light bulbs, as well as bulky objects, like a telephone book.

The device is powered by a 12-volt battery-driven motor and grips with an initial force of only 10 ounces.

The covering of the hand comes very close to duplicating natural skin in appearance.

Six of these devices are being made for trial use.

Fort McPherson Hosts Meeting of CD Leaders

Major THIRD US ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga., top civilian Federal agency officials and their emergency preparedness counterparts from seven Southeastern states met with their military counterparts of the Third Army in a joint session at Fort McPherson on last Wednesday.

Gen. Louis W. Truman, commanding general, Third Army, was host for the meeting of the military and civilian defense and emergency planning leaders. Plans have been made for several months to bring together at Third Army headquarters a joint conference of the regional Civil Defense coordinating board (RCD-OB) and the regional preparedness committee (RPO) for Region Three. Members of both groups included senior officials of the various departments and agencies of the Federal government's regional offices, many of which are located in Atlanta.

The meeting included a third Army command briefing, a demonstration of the emergency operations center and a discussion of military assistance to civil authorities in time of emergency.

Top 16th Group EM To Be Enlisted Aides

Candidates for "Soldier of the Month" in the 16th Gen. Spt. Gp. are assured of recognition whether they win the title or not.

Last week the group announced the creation of the honorary position of "Soldier of the Month" which will be staffed by the first four runners up.

The new position resulted from Group Commander Col. Arthur V. Corley's concern of adding prestige to candidates who were selected as the month's best soldiers in their units.

The colonel drew up the plans for each of the four runners up to serve as the enlisted aide for a week.

He has insisted that the position be created for the selected soldiers to attain a first-hand look at the group from the command level in order to understand how his unit contributes to the 16th Gen. Spt. Gp.'s overall mission.

Unit Is Being Developed For Seawater Distillation

The Army and the Department of the Interior are cooperating in the development of a mobile seawater distillation unit for emergency civilian use as well as military application. Now in the design phase, the new trailer-mounted unit will produce at least 500 gallons per hour of safe drinking water from all types of salt or brackish water sources, or from fresh water contaminated with chemical, biological and radiological substances. The Laboratory, jointly with Interior's office of permit extended operation without shutdown for 60 days.

Infantry Board Here Receives Improved CAR-15 for Testing

An improved model of the CAR-15 submachine gun has recently been received for test and evaluation by the U.S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) here.

The original model of the weapon is presently being used by combat forces in Vietnam. Featuring a newly designed noise and flash suppressor, the weapon displays a significant reduction in flash and noise levels for riflemen. Most important, the flash reduction will bear significantly on detection of fire positions after night.

This new model submachine gun is a 5.56mm, magazine fed, gas-operated, air-cooled weapon and is designed for either semi-automatic or full automatic fire through the use of a selector lever. In addition, the improved model features a 30-round magazine and has the same action as the M16A1 rifle. Primarily designed and intended for use by those in confined areas such as tank crews, helicopter pilots and crew chiefs, the submachine gun features a telescoping stock with a retracted length of 28 1/2 inches and a

Medal Won In Vietnam Is Awarded

A Silver Star for gallantry was awarded posthumously to Staff Sgt. Leslie E. Wright in a recent ceremony here. Col. David G. Sherrard, deputy post commander, presented the decoration to Sgt. Wright's widow, Mrs. Eleanor K. Wright, Route 2, Phenix City.

The citation read at the ceremony related the events of Nov. 8, 1966, when Sgt. Wright lost his life in Vietnam. Serving as a platoon leader with Hq. and Hq. Co., 1st Bn., 28th Inf., Sgt. Wright distinguished himself by going to the aid of first one and then another of the injured men in his unit during Operation Attleboro near the Cambodian border.

Regarding his own safety, he braved the fire of enemy automatic weapons, small arms, rockets and mortars to help his men un-

Second Lt. George An. Schig in Portland and at the Georgia general assembly has approved $75,000 effective July 1, 1967, for a new wing which will change the entire appearance of the building originally constructed before the turn of the century.

Present plans call for erecting the new wing in the rear of the present building and facing the Vinson Highway. Upon completion this will be the front of the home.

In planning the addition, the Veterans Service Board discovered that costs for re-locating water and sewerage lines could be held down by changing the front.

A ball park presently in the rear of the home will be relocated.

Wheeler said the 150 new beds would provide space for 50 additional veterans in the home and help relieve present overcrowded conditions.

The home is presently operating with about 100 more patients than for which there is actually room. He said these 100 would be moved into the new structure.

Swell and Associates of Savannah have been selected as architect. The contract is expected to be let sometime after July with first construction planned for October. It is expected to take one year to complete the building.

In connection with plans for the future of the home, Wheeler said there is a good possibility of getting approximately $200,000 in Federal funds to use in connection with the expansion.

The Veterans Administration will provide money for use to construct nursing care wards on a state-matching basis.

It has been determined that there are around 75 veterans in the Milledgeville Home who require nursing care treatment.

He said discussions are being held on making about 75 proposals. If the Federal money is obtained it would raise to over a million dollars, money for the expansion.

In addition, $25 thousand has been appropriated by the General Assembly for improvements in the existing porch and waiting room furniture, and equipment for officers' offices. Still another portion will go toward new furniture, including beds, washable tables, and steel chocking lockers.

Milledgeville Vets Home May Have Addition in '68

ATLANTA — A plan for the Georgia Veterans Home at Milledgeville could become operational within the next 18 months, Pete Wheeler, director of the Georgia Department of Veterans Service, said today.

Jody Mean Tempered Trainee Company Donates Mascot to Zoo

By Greta Badgett

Company mascots are a great moral factor, especially in basic combat training companies, according to Maj. Michael C. McAdams, 8th Battalion executive officer.

But what happens when the mascot becomes too large and vicious to handle properly?

In the case of Jody, a crested eagle from Brazil, it became apparent that something had to be done. Her wing spread had reached approximately four feet and her temperament was such that no one could enter her cage to clean it or make any necessary repairs.

Bought in Florida, Jody was purchased from an animal farm in Florida last year by the men of Co. E, 9th Bn. 3rd Bde. U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry. She was the company mascot for a little over a year before it became necessary to find her a new home.

First Lt. William F. Rogers, company commander, realizing that there was some place that Jody could be properly taken care of and where she could be enjoyed by a great many people, contacted Johnnie Dilbeck, superintendent of the Grant Park Zoo in Atlanta, who agreed to accept Jody for the zoo.

Before making the trip to Fort Benning, it was necessary for the zoo not only to construct a cage to transport Jody, but also construct a permanent home for her.

All necessary arrangements were made by the company, including a specially prepared plaque which will be placed on Jody's permanent home stationing that she was donated to the zoo by the men of Co. E.

Burtons Complete Latest Picture, 'The Comedians'

AGAY, FRANCE. — A 10-month odyssey ended recently as a windswept mountain top near the Mediterranean resort town of St. Tropez.

CALAMITY JANE SAYS: "I GO FOR THOSE MAN-SIZE STEAKS AT BONANZA"

After 72 days and nights of filming in Dahomey, West Africa, Paris, Nice and locations in the south of France, the principal photography on Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Comedians" starring Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Alec Guinness and Peter Ustinov, has been completed.

Produced and directed by Graham Greene, "The Comedians" is based on the international best-seller by Graham Greene.

Production began in the sweltering heat of Colonial Dahomey, January 11. Following a month's shooting in West Africa, the 110-member unit traveled to Paris for three and a half weeks of interior photography, then to Nice for five weeks' work at the studio Victorine and near by countryside.

Leave Riviera Stars Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton leave the Riviera in mid-May for a three-month vacation that will take them to America, Southeast Asia and Wales.

Sir Alex Guinness will also begin a vacation that will include his son's wedding and a trip to the Moscow film festival as a guest of the Russian government.

Peter Ustinov completed his role several weeks ago and returned to Paris to work on his forthcoming play "The Unknown Soldier and his Wife," which is set for filming in Dahomey, West Africa, Paris, Nice and locations in the south of France. "The Comedians" promises to be one of the most important films of the year. The topical dramatic adventure, set in suburban Paris, stars Paul Ford and Lillian Gish, and features Gorg Stanger, Brown, Rose Lee Brown, Gloria Foster, Raymond Saint Jacques, James Earl Jones and Cicely Tyson.

Graham Greene adapted his novel to the screen, the noted author's first screenplay in seven years.

SYNOPSIS
EIGHT ON THE LAM Henry Dimsdale (Bob Hope) widowed and left with seven children and a dog to raise, is a bank teller who finds ten $1,000 bills.

THEORY "A Farewell to Arms" and "Giant" for criticism on record with an Academy Award. He is now signed by MGM to direct "For the eighth time in 'Pot Luck'." It was announced by Robert M. Wolfson, vice president and studio head.

The musical begins production here in June.

Picture-a-Year Starting with "G. I. Blues" in 1960, Taurog has averaged a picture a year with Presley. The Taurog directed Presley films have grossed more than $50 million including the recent "Spinout."

While Golda delays her boyfriend, detective Inspector Jason Lynch (Jonathan Winters) Dimsdale and his family take it "on the lam" in a hilarious chase and a series of wild events, Dimsdale inadvertently discovers the real culprit and the story ends on a happy note.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS — Gig Young, an American public relations man for a big oil company, flies to London to improve the "corporate image" of Rock Hudson, a young executive destined to be the firm's international branch president.

It seems that family respectability is the real enemy of the company's top brass, and Rock has been separated from wife Gina Lollobrigida by a feisty Italian beauty who likes to champion a wild assortment of minority causes.

Both Young and Hudson have their hands full as they attempt to woo Gina back to the heart.

The result is a zany comedy. A return engagement.

Four Driving Schools to Be Held For Sports Car Racing Enthusiasts

Four schools, within easy driving distance of Columbus, Ga., for sports car owners interested in racing, will be held this summer. Tom Whipple, of the Sports Car Club of America, announced this week. Whipple, regional executive of SOWEGA, the local SCCA group, said the schools will be held May 12-14 at Ocoosa, Fla., June 24 at West Palm Beach, Fla., July 9-11 at Bainbridge, Ga., and September 8-10 at Courland, Ala. Almost 30 other training sessions will be held at national schools throughout the United States.

Training scheduled. The training in all scheduled over two day weekends and leads to an SCCA national racing license. Instructors are all professional or leading amateur drivers and hold international and national competition licenses.

"Almost a third of the local region members hold racing licenses," commented Whipple who described SOWEGA as being a "driver's club."

Outlining requirements for attending any of the driver schools the local regional executive said membership in SCCA was the first step.

After applying to the local region the novice driver must pass an SCCA physical examination. Novice permits and copies of the general competition regulations (GCR) and production car specifications are then issued.

Race Prepared. Before any car is allowed on a course it must be race prepared.

STRONG TEAM. The local, Ft. Benning, soft ball league has gotten underway, and Hig. Co. is leading 3-0. They have beaten every team they have played since the season started, defeating A, B and D Cos. At the end of the season, the two top teams from the league will play top teams from the CTC league.

MTU Shooters Lengthen Winning Ways in Phoenix

The U. S. Army rifle team, the 1966 National rifle champions, continued its winning streak last weekend at the Phoenix, Ariz., regional high power championships. Army teams won the top three places with Army Drake firing a 1187.24, to outscore Army Mercer's 1128.53, and Army Combs, 1121.59.

Catching the winning team was Sgt. L.C. Leslie (Puppy) Drake. His team has already won all its matches on the Western training tour at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., Boulder City, Nev. and Phoenix.

Team members have a restful turn match at Boulder City this weekend before they return to Fort Benning.

Staff Sergeant Patrick Boyle placed second in the 200-yard standing match with 196-4 while Sgt. L.C. Albert Nanaio fired 189-4 in the 600-yard slow fire match for third place.

In the rapid fire match (200 yards) fired from the sitting position, Sgt. L.C. Roy H. Combs led his teammates for a sweep of the top three places. Combs fired a 199-4. Staff Sgt. Robert Meeks scored 190-11 and Sgt. L.C. Herbert Duncan fired a 196-9.

Moving back to the 300-yard line for the prone rapid fire competition, Duncan and Meeks fired identical scores of 188 but Duncan's X count was higher and he won the match.

In the aggregate, Duncan and Meeks fired 964-30 and 954-24, respectively, for second and third positions. They were outpointed by Staff Sgt. Walter Mood of the Air Force.

Bob Steve Conroy and Larry Smith of the 2nd Co. (OC) think that double timing is just "like walking." Both candidates are former collegiate track stars.

Smith won his medal as a member of the varsity team at Ohio University, where he majored in Social Science. In the 1966 NCAA cross-country championship, Smith finished sixteenth and just three-tenths of a second short of attaining All-American status.

Smith also competed in the 26 mile Boston Marathon, which he ran in 2:30:00. Smith was also a contender in the shorter races. He ran the mile in 4:27.

Conroy aided St. John's champion from Long Island, N.Y. He graduated from St. John's University with a BA in Social Science.

Conroy aided St. John's varsity team when they won the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Championship of New York in 1965.

Conroy's best event was the five-mile cross-country race, which he ran in 27:01. Conroy and Smith have put Wiesbaden, West Germany last July. Following close behind Thompson in the English Match were Staff Sgt. Martin Gunnarsson with an out-ranked 995, Maj. Tommy Pool shot a 934, and Capt. Bruce Meredith posted a 901 while Lt. Wallace Lyman, a newcomer to the U. S. team, scored a 890.

A Mexican civilian placed second in the position match, record 1155 to beat her score however. Pool and Gunnarsson of 1148 fired at the world's best score fired 1144 and 1142, respectively, championships in respectively.

Team members have a restful turn match at Boulder City this weekend before they return to Fort Benning.

Staff Sgt. Moeller Cops Running Board Match at Lackland

Staff Sgt. Edmond Moeller of the U. S. Army running board team fired 176 of a possible 200 to win the running board match at Lackland Air Base last Tuesday. Moeller, a member of the 1966 U. S. running board team that won the silver medal in the world championships at Wiesbaden, Germany, last July, beat his world games score of 151 by 25 points. "To score the board" hits must be placed in the forward shoulder area as the board moves back and forth across a 50 meter range.

Benning Club To Play Host To Jr. Firers

The Fort Benning Junior Rifle Club is planning to host a series of Junior NRA sectional rifle tournaments. Shooters are coming here from as far away as Alaska, Georgia, and Helena, Ala. to take part in a shoulder match being conducted at the post indoor rifle range, and the Army Marksmanship Training Unit's indoor Range.

Fort Benning is entering a four-man team in the tournament, and the quartet will fire in both team and individual matches tomorrow.

Team members include Kathy Krilling, Jim Leason, Hank Mair and Bill Mount. Kathy's father, M. Sgt. William E. Krilling, who holds several national records, will coach the team during the team match.

The Junior rifle club here fires every Saturday morning, at 8 a. m. Those who are interested in rifle marksmanship are urged to join through the Youth Activities Club.

What is the world outdoor rifle record? Who was the only NRE club to take part in more than 1,000 range during the 1966 season? What training range was the club, was recently named to the National All of Fame. How many states did he win during his career?

What athlete had the highest score of playing in the major league All-Star Game, the World Series and the Rose Bowl during his competitive career? The greatest reported distance for throwing the standard building brick is 125 feet 7 inches by James Cantrell, at Stroud, Okla., on July 17, 1965.

For YAC Teams

Four Tilts Open Baseball Season

YAC intermediate baseball competition began with four games being played in the first week.

In the opening game, the White Sox defeated the Red Barons 17-8. The Barons exploded early and had an 8 run lead before the Sox began to catch up.

In the six inning contest, Combs did not walk a man and faced only 13 batters. Danny Dodge, David Wisdem and pitcher Combs led the Hurricanes batting attack.

Pint Pitcher Ricky Sanford also turned in a fine performance as he scattered seven hits and walked only one batter.

D. Cruz and Tim Thornton singled for the Pints' two hits. The White Sox had to come from behind again in their second game of the week as they punched out 29-3 win over the Golden Pints.

Papa Cummings, Clifford Gruchow and Arthur Essel were the Sox leading hitters, and in relief role, Tony Perex was the winning pitcher.

Pitcher D. Cruz was the leading hitter for the Pints. Hurricane David Wisdom was not on duty in the pitching department.

Wisdom allowed only one single and also rang up 13 strikeouts in his first mound appearance, as the Hurricanes beat the Red Barons 8-1.

Leading Hurricane hitters were Bobby Combs, Noel Cartagena, and Tony Stanley. Wayne Schroeder got the only Barons hit.

Intermediate league action is only a part of the YAC baseball program. There were Billy Decca and Doughty games played last week.

TSB Stages 1st Tourney For Golfers

Winning two days of golfing and a brigade golf tournament last week was the team of Capt. Jerry K. Wall and Capt. Frank Spiers with a score of 63-126.

Wall, former CO of Hq. Co., TSB, and Spiers, CO, 1st Casual Co., TSB, shot 63 on the first day of the tournament at the main post country club.

Tying for second place with 63-127 were the teams of Col. Ned B. Mabry, CO, TSB, and Lt. Col. Ernest J. Chorney, CO, 4th Bn., and Maj. Milton J. Christensen, chief, Allied Student Section, and 1st Lt. Stanley Gann of the section.

The tie was broken by a putt-off, putting Christensen's team in second place.

Twenty-six golfers took part in the first annual brigade tournament according to Lt. Michael Panicia, Special Services Officer, TSB, who also said that another tournament is planned for this summer.

The winners and runners-up were presented trophies with the winners also receiving gift certificates for the pro shop at the club.

The golfers played 36 holes of two-a-man best ball and full handicap in the tournament, ending the final putt-off under the lights.

OC Goes to Bat For Uncle Sam, Former Redleg

By OC Larry Myers

Baseball season is here and Leon Hayden of the 62nd Co. 5th Stu. Bn. (OC) looks for the Doubleday diamond and the green pastures of left field. Hayden had signed contract with the Cincinnati Reds and was ready to "play ball" when duty called.

"I started playing baseball when I was 5-years-old and have never stopped," Hayden said. Hayden had offers from the Reds and the Washington Senators but signed with the Reds and was playing for their farm team, the Tampa Tarpons in Florida.

There he attended Spring training and after two regular season games was called into the service. "When I come out of the service I will have an opportunity to try out again," he said.

Hayden is 20-years-old and from Cincinnati, Ohio, where he played in the Tri State League (Ohio, Ind., and Ky.).

While playing in this league Hayden had the highest batting average two years in the row and was chosen most valuable player in 1966. During his three years in the league he held a .330 batting average.

"Frank Robinson gave me a lot of pointers on professional baseball. He and my father bowled on the same team in Cincinnati and I got to know him personally," Hayden stated.

When Hayden finishes OCS he hopes to continue playing baseball at some level for the Army.

"If I can't get back into professional baseball, I plan to go back to college and then work in some capacity in baseball such as a coach, scout, etc.," he said.

Longest Delayed Drop

The longest delayed drop and the greatest altitude for any parachute descent was achieved by U.S. Air Force Capt. Joseph W. Kittinger, 38, over Tularosa, N.M., on August 16, 1960.

He stepped out of a balloon at 102,200 feet in a 94,700-foot (16.04-mile) free fall lasting 14 minutes 3 seconds, during which he reached a speed of 614 mph, despite a stabilizing drogue.

He experienced a temperature of 34 degrees F. His 28-foot parachute opened at 17,500 feet and he landed after a total time of 13 minutes 8 seconds.

Shotgunners Brave Cold To Win Meet In Waukesha

Waukesha, Wis., was the coldest spot in the world last weekend for members of the U. S. Army trap team.

Snow flurries, gusting 30 mph winds and 37-degree temperature greeted the fliers at the Waukesha Gun Club clay pigeon tournament.

Despite the weather, Army shooters fired respectable scores and won the top three places in the two-day, 200-bird competition.

Private Gene Lumsden led the first day's competition with 90 birds. Jon Olson scored 87 for second place, one more than the 86 registered by Spec. 4 Jim Beck of the Fort Benning team.

Going into the second day's shooting Lumsden posted another 90 for a total of 180. Beck followed Lumsden needing a 94 for a tie, but shot 95 birds for a 91 to win the match.

Pvt. Edward Leventudsky, who won a trout match here March 2-4 with 98-98-196 fired 178 to take third place and give the Army Team the top three positions.

This weekend, the Army trapshooters travel to Kansas City to meet more competition from the Midwest. After the match they will return here to continue Spring training.

The ladies of Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., and the ladies of Fort Benning were "in the swing" recently at the Country Club. The Maxwell Women's Golf Association played Fort Benning's Officers' Wives' Club's Ladies' Golf Association at the annual spring Maxwell Home and Home Golf Tournament.

Local Club Sets Sports Car Rally Sunday at 1 P.M.

Sports car enthusiasts will gather in Columbus on a rally Sunday for a "rallyability" rally covering 100 miles of back roads in Southwestern Georgia.

"This type of rally gives the driver a chance to show his skill," said Tom Whipple, the local Sports Car Club's president and chairman of America regional executive, in describing the event being held by his club.

"The usual time of speed-distance rally is normally won by a team with a mathematical genius for a navigator and a car loaded with computers," he added.

Sunday's event is open to all sports car owners and enthusiasts. Registration starts at noon with the first car off at 1 p.m.

It will start from the picnic area just inside the Fort Benning reservation on the right hand side of U. S. Route 27.

"Bring a picnic lunch," Whipple who said the rally would finish at Ft. Rock Park near Columbus, Ga., where the first three place winners will be presented trophies.

Skeet Meet Set At Ent Air Base

The seventh annual Armed Forces skeet championship will be conducted at Ent Air Force Base Rod & Gun Club, Colorado Springs, Colo., May 22 - 27.

Army personnel may be authorized leaves for these matches, but participation will be at no expense to appropriated or nonappropriated funds.

Individuals who are interested may contact the club directly, according to DA Message 809443.

ID Card Drops Brave's Prices

The Atlanta USO has announced that military members can attend Braves baseball games at Atlanta Stadium for half-price when they present their ID cards at the stadium's ticket windows.

The Braves home schedule through May is: April 29-30, Philadelphia; May 2-4, Chicago; 5-7, Cincinnati; 10-17, New York; 18-21, Pittsburgh; and 22-24, St. Louis.

Hunt Club Sets 5th Annual Show Here Next Week

Hunt Club members here are preparing for the 5th Annual Horse Show to be held May 6 on French Field starting at 9 a.m.

"Competition will include hunters, jumpers and equitation events. There will be a total of 23 classes in competition on the full day's program.

In the equitation, riders are judged on seat, hands, and control of the horse. In the hunter section, where riders are all under 18 years of age, is based on the horse's performance, suitability and soundness.

Mrs. Fred Schell, of Auburn, Ala., and William J. Scholtz of Columbus, will be judges of the show.

Exhibitors from Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery, Ala. and Auburn, Ala., have been invited to compete.

Entry information can be obtained by calling the secretary, Mrs. LaRae Cherney, at 545-5735 or writing P. O. Box 1824, Fort Benning, Ga., 31905.

Tournament Set For Post Netters

The Main Officers' Club will hold its annual Spring Tennis Tournament May 5-23.

Competition will be in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and men's singles and doubles.

A "Class A" tournament will be held for losers in the first two rounds.

Trophies will be given to winners and runners-up in all divisions. Balls will be free.

Returning to defend his title in the Men's Singles Division is Capt. Alan Matthews who defeated Capt. Lyons Williams in the finals of the fall tournament. Expected to defend her title in the Women's singles is Mrs. Lou Kearns.

Battalion Families Invited To See Firing of Missile

The families of members of the 2nd Missile Bn., (1J), 42nd Art'y., and the 197th Inf. Bde., have been invited to see a live fire demonstration of the 42nd's Little John Missile.

The demonstration will be conducted at 5 p.m. May 17, at Fournier Range in conjunction with a battalion field training exercise.

Engineers End Two Projects

Engineers of the 43rd Eng. Bn. (Coast.) recently completed two projects at Fort Benning, including construction of a bridge and a parking lot in the OCS area.

Company B completed construction of a bridge, located near Lawson Air Field.

The effort involved approximately 300 man hours and the use of many types of equipment and material.

The new bridge allows access to the field, and to Ranger and Infantry field problems in that area. It also offers a shorter route to the Airborne drop zones.

Company A finished a two week construction project including repairing the old parking lot near Bldg. No. 4.

The ground was packed, scraped and prepared for resurfacing.

Local AUSA Election Planned

The Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter, Association of the U. S. Army (AUSA) will hold its annual election meeting next Monday at the Craig Hill NCO Club.

A social hour will begin at 6 p.m. followed by dinner and the business meeting. No tickets are required for the meeting but members desiring to have dinner must pay when they are served.

R. L. Hinson is outgoing president of the chapter. The slate of officers submitted by the nominating committee will be to fill Hinson's post, two vice presidents, secretary treasurer and nine members of the board of directors. Nominations also will be taken from the floor.

To Pass the Word

Top NCOs Will Make Ranger Training Tour

Post sergeants major from the Third Army of the Infantry School, will be to fill Hinson's post, two vice presidents, secretary treasurer and nine members of the board of directors. Nominations also will be taken from the floor.

The sergeants major started as early as the Rangers do this morning when they joined a Ranger class in physical training at 5:30, Florida Ranger Camp at Eglin, as well as the local area at Harmony Church.

According to The Infantry School's Sgt. Maj. Lawrence E. Kennedy, there is a concerted program underway to interest more noncommissioned officers in Ranger training.

"One of the best ways to do this," Kennedy said, "is to fully acquaint the installation sergeants major with the program and let them get the word down."

During their first day here, the senior sergeants saw a "Rangers in Action" demonstration, lunched with the Ranger Company and observed demolition instruction by Brig. Gen. James S. Timm.

A versatile, lightweight, portable public address system has been devised in the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry. Users report that it is more dependable and effective than the bullhorn now used at training classes.

The new PA set, housed in a used ammunition box, can have either two or three speakers bolted on the sides, giving 360-degree range to voice instructions.

It was developed by 2nd Lt. Glenn Baumgardner, a distinguished military graduate of the Virginia Military Institute.

CG Is Named To New Post As Lt. Gen.

It was announced last week that Maj. Gen. Robert H. York had been nominated by President Johnson for promotion to lieutenant general and the post of commanding general of the XVIII Airborne Corps and 1st of Fort Benning, and Judge Throckmorton.

A successor to Gen. York as Fort Benning's commanding general had not yet been named at press time this week.

In a number of high level commands, Gen. York was named XVIII Airborne Corps commanding general on Mar. 15, 1967, in recent years has served as deputy commander, U. S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam; chief, Office of Reserve Components, Department of the Army; Director of special studies, Office of the Chief of Staff and senior staff member, military staff committees of the 1966 ceremony, inaugurated by automobile headlamps and gunfire, a dramatic and moving event.

As in years past, the public is invited.

Lieutenant Devises Lightweight Public Address Unit for Training

The standard "bullhorn" not designed to provide the 360-degree effectiveness we need at a company training session," Baumgardner said.

Benning Will Host Seventh All-Service Shooting Event

Support for the matches will come from the competitive marksmanship division.

Army competitors will be defending championships in eight team events. Air Force shooters captured five team matches and four individual titles last year. Three individuals were taken in 1966 by Marine Corps shooters. They failed to win any of the field in the 50-meter, smallbore kneeling match and went on to win the three-position aggregate for International smallbore rifle.

The first event this year, to be fired May 13, will be the free pistol competition, a 60-shot 50-meter match won by

When he was assigned to 12-21.

United Nations. He served as commanding general of the 82nd Airborne Div. from July, 1962-January, 1964, a post he held from February, 1964, until he came to Fort Benning in 1965.

Gen. York was in command of the division when it was deployed to the Dominican Republic to protect the lives of Americans and other foreign nationals there during the uprising in Santo Domingo.

Unit

Baumgardner installed a 16-watt transistorized, battery-powered amplifier in the ammo case and added small trumpet-like speakers, swivel-mounted on the exterior of the box.

The speakers can be detached from the carrying case and installed separately.

The amplifier's versatility is added to its small, hand-held microphone with an extension cord gives an instructor freedom to move about and observe his classes.

Bulhorn Disadvantages

"Some of the disadvantages to using a bulhorn in training classes are its weight, the fact that it must be carried at all times, the trigger mechanism and most important, the fact that it is direction oriented," Baumgardner said. He added that he believes it requires considerable maintenance.

The new set, weighing less than 10 pounds, can rest on the ground even when in use. It has practically no maintenance problems and its versatility has been proved on field problems.

On an ambush class during a night march, Baumgardner used the set with a tape recorder to simulate attacking aircraft and small arms.

fire. He then gave a class on ambush techniques from a hillside as the company was strung out along the road.

His accomplishment was noted by brigade commander Col. Robert E. Baden in a letter of commendation: "The development at your own expense of an effective, reliable and compact public address system will do much to facilitate future training."

Baumgardner has demonstrated his model for BG Charles M. Mount Jr., commanding general, USATC, and his staff. Detailed information about the set has been submitted to the Department of the Army for possible adoption by the service.

cludes problems in live fire and tracking, search and intelligence in a simulated Vietnamese village and combat intelligence during a night problem.

The group will return to Fort Benning and leave tomorrow morning for Florida. Before returning to Fort Benning Sunday from the sergeants major will observe the Rangers as they go through Florida swamp and river crossing techniques. They will return to their home stations from Fort Benning.

Sergeants major who will make the tour include Bob L. Hale, Fort Moore, Ga.; Charles Kennedy, Fort Jackson, S. C.; Curtis Ramsey, Fort McClellan, Ala.; Berton B. Cayton, Fort Gordon, Ga.; Harry H. Larson Jr., Fort Bragg, N. C.; William Sykes, Fort Campbell, Ky.; Frank Sgt. L.C. William Blankenship of the Army last year. The Army also won the team title.

M.Sgt. William Krilling is defending individual title and the Army defending team champion in the smaller rifle prone event. This match is scheduled May 15.

Sgt. L.C. Laurence Mosely and the Army team are defending champions in the rapid fire pistol match slated for May 15.

Also on May 15 is the international skeet competition and Lt. Allen Morrison of the Marines won last year and the Air Force took the team title. It will end May 16.

Completing the day's heavy firing schedule will be the running bear shoot. This was won in 1966 by Staff Sgt. Richard Brown of the Air Force and the Army noted the team crown.

Retirees among eligibles of civilian health program

Part two of a three part series on new Medicare provisions.

On January 1, retired members and their spouses, and children of members who died while on active duty or in a retired status became eligible for civilian health benefits under Public Law 89-614.

Care for retired members and their dependents by Armed Forces medical facilities continues without change subject to the availability of space and facilities and the capabilities of the professional staff.

These retired members and their dependents, when receiving outpatient medical treatment from civilian sources are required to pay the first $50 of expenses incurred for outpatient services each fiscal year (not to exceed $100 per family), plus 25 per cent of the charges in excess of $50 or $100, as appropriate.

The government will pay 75 per cent of the charges for outpatient services in excess of the annual deductible of $50 or $100, as appropriate.

Approval for receiving such care does not have to be obtained from an Army medical treatment facility. For inpatient care they are required to pay 25 per cent of the attending physician's bill and 25 per cent of the hospital bill.

All such civilian bills must be processed for payment by the hospital or clinic rendering such treatment. Necessary forms are furnished by the contract insurance company in the state where treatment is received.

Part 3 Next Week

Children's dental care is often neglected by parents

By Edward P. Pellowicz, Capt., DC Guest Writer

"Why did my mommy let my teeth get so sticky? A penetrating question posed by a school age child. It is difficult to understand why any child in our present day society should ever ask it.

Could it be that adequate dental care is one of the most often neglected parental responsibilities? How sad that the majority of our children have their first meeting with a dentist under truly adverse conditions. Most often they have had a "toothache" for at least a day, though it may have been a week or possibly intermittently for an even longer period.

Rightly or wrongly, they are frightened and justly so; and the "ogre" with the white coat just adds to their misery. Is it necessary, and even more important, is it fair? This dearly beloved has been neglected. Few parents can honestly claim ignorance or poverty.

In an effort to soothe the child's distraught emotions, the tooth fairy is summoned to repair the "bad" tooth with a monetary reward. How much better would it be if the tooth fairy rewarded children for keeping their teeth healthy.

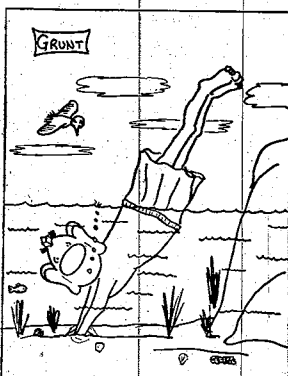

The habits formed as children are most often those kept thru the remainder of life. Parents ought to start them out on the right foot.

Recommendations
The regimen recommended by the American Dental Association is not impossible to follow, it suggests:

- (1) Prophylaxis, or cleaning of teeth, and X-ray examinations biannually.
- (2) "Control" carbohydrate intake.
- (3) Maintain oral hygiene by good home care.
- (4) Use of fluorides in water and fluoridated tooth pastes.

All of these recommendations are totally attainable without undue stress. About 90 per cent of all toothaches are caused by neglect. Dental care is not costly—dental neglect is. With a concentrated effort to maintain the measures outlined above, this figure would be markedly reduced.

Local tv station to carry new national driver's test

Nearly 80 million viewers have watched the National Drivers' Test the past two years—making it the most popular public service program ever carried on a single network.

Now an all-new National Drivers' Test for 1967 will provide one more hour in your life to check your ability at the defensive driving we face today.

As in the past, you will have an opportunity to compare your answer with those of a studio audience of motorists, with friends' and family scores, and with correct answers provided by expert drivers.

Although this is the third time around, the content of the program will be entirely new and challenging. Film sequences will illustrate life saving defensive driving techniques.

Quote of the Week

"The military strength of our Nation rests upon the united, balanced effort of all the Services, each contributing the best in its own field, each supporting the others in their fields." — Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps.

Water sports provide fun and danger for the family

Water is fun for the whole family. Water sports provide good exercise and relaxation for millions each year. They also provide this nation with some very grim statistics.

Each year approximately 7000 people drown. Not all of these, of course, are the direct result of water sports. Many are drowned when they unexpectedly find themselves in the water.

The tragic fact is that these statistics recur every year in spite of massive efforts to promote water safety.

Why? Water is not your natural element, and therefore is potentially dangerous.

Repeated Story Every day in the summer months the following story is repeated somewhere in the United States. Circumstances may vary, but the heartaches and sorrows are the same.

The parents went to town to shop. At home, five children were left to take care of themselves. Their ages ranged from 5 to 15.

It was a warm April day and the children took advantage of it by taking a swim in the stock pond. The details are gusswork. There were no survivors, for none could swim.

Set May 2 The third annual National Drivers' Test will be televised on the CBS Television Network (Channel 3 EDTV, May 22) [All Fort Benning personnel and their families are encouraged to participate in this widely acclaimed and award winning safe driving program.

Test forms are being distributed to all units and activities in sufficient quantity to afford a copy for each Fort Benning motorist. Additional copies are available at Post Safety Office, Bldg. No. 2664.

Lawmakers in action

Legislation now before Congress proposes a 5.6 per cent basic pay increase for members of the Armed Forces.

In this pay bill, the Department of Defense sent a request simultaneously to the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate as part of the Defense legislative program. The measure has been referred by both houses to their Armed Services Committees.

The chairman of each committee has introduced identical bills on the proper bill of this nature, hearings are normally held and Defense Department officials asked to testify.

Once in a committee, the bill may be amended. Assuming a favorable report is made by the committee, the bill is then sent to the floor of the House or Senate to be debated.

At the end of the debate, a voice or roll-call vote is taken and if the bill passes by majority, it is sent to the Senate (assuming the House acted first) where the House bill is considered. If the Senate has not yet held hearings on its bill, it will consider the House proposal, but may amend it and report out a new bill.

If the House and Senate debate their own bills and pass them with any differences between the two or if an amended version of the House bill is passed by the Senate, a conference committee is appointed by each House to resolve the differences.

Once approved by both House and Senate, the bill is sent to the President. The bill becomes law after it is signed by the President or Congress passes a second time by a two-thirds vote over a Presidential veto.

If the President holds the bill 10 calendar days (excluding Sundays) without signing it, the bill automatically becomes law. However, if Congress adjourns during the 10 days, the bill is automatically killed. (AFNB)

Mrs. Swenson Luncheon Fetes Departing First Lady of 10th Aviation

"Memories for Myrtle" at farewell appreciation luncheon in honor of Mrs. J. Elmore Swenson, former first lady of the 10th Aviation Group, was held last week at the Main Officers' Club.

Over 100 ladies of the 10th Aviation Group signed the guest list which was included in a scrapbook presented to Mrs. Swenson.

The scrapbook contained articles and pictures pertaining to 10th Group ladies' activities from June, 1965, when a welcoming tea was held for Mrs. Swenson to Spring flowers.

Luncheon arrangements were planned and coordinated by Mrs. Joseph Lehman, chairman, and Mesdames Harold M. Carter, George Powers, William McPhail Jr., Carl R. Vertrees, William F. Ostermeier, Ray Sova, John Reese, Dennis Clark, Donald Patton, James I. Randolph, Charles Frank, Charles Jones and J. Y. Hammack.

Newcomers were introduced by Mrs. Hammack, wife of the new 10th Aviation Group commander, Col. J. Y. Hammack.

TSB Social Bylines 82nd Co. OC Wives Meet at Organizational Coffee

An organizational coffee and Mrs. Torper were held recently by the wives of 82nd Co. 8th Stu. Bn. (OC), in the company dayroom. A pineapple tree centerpiece made by Mrs. Emilia Louglin, adorned the table. The Hawaiian theme was also carried out through the refreshments.

Capt. William Olds described the entire OC program and what was expected of their husbands in order to graduate. Olds also spoke of ways in which the wives, through their attitude and conduct, could help their husbands through the course.

The wives were taken on a tour of the barracks recently in the Officers' Club. The excursion was highlighted by a visit to the candidate cubicles by their wives.

Mrs. Donald A. Gray discussed invitations, pointing out the difference between those sent locally and those mailed out-of-town.

An election of Wives' Club officers followed the talk. Mrs. William Hardin was elected chairman, Mrs. Phillip Laughlin, co-chairman, Mrs. Robert Judge, treasurer, Mrs. Brian Torper, publicity and Mrs. David Sauer, hospitalities.

Mrs. Oliver J. Willford, Mrs. Robert Stecker and Mrs. Robert W. McClellan were honored guests.

Gift hostesses were Mrs. William H. S. Olds, Mrs. Larry Zedyk and Mrs. Donald Gray. Mrs. William Harding, Mrs. Judge, Mrs. Laughlin and Mrs. Torper were the student wife hostesses.

A PATIO COFFEE for the wives of the 3rd Ph. Infantry was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas H. McPherson recently.

Mrs. Michael E. Moore and Mrs. Keel F. Miller were hostesses. Mrs. Ralph V. Moffitt was special guest.

After coffee, Mrs. Sam T. Smathers presided over a discussion concerning plans for a party which will be held in the future at Victory Lodge.

The Wives' Club of the 94th Co., 8th Stu. Bn. (OC), held a luncheon recently in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers' Club.

The tables were arranged in a U-shape, surrounding a tropical scene around a fountain. On either side of the fountain was a bird cage with live birds, hanging in the midst of tropical flowers made of paper.

The head table was graced by a long, green arrangement of tropical plants and artificial butterflies.

A "fashion spoof," provided the wives and their honored guests with the latest in fashion styles for the well-dressed woman from morning until evening, was presented by the model "candidate-husbands" of the wives of 84th Co.

A prize was given for the costume judged most original. The prize was won by

Mrs. Ed Weyandt for her husband's modeling of a tussle dress with a catskin skirt (made of cans) and topped with a "bird cage."

Honored guests were Mrs. Robert H. York, Mrs. Edward J. Geaney, Mrs. Bertram J. Bishop, Mrs. Ernest L. Stevens, Mrs. George L. Moses, Mrs. Charles L. Cosad, Mrs. Michael E. Ahern and Mrs. Renaldo Soto.

THE WIVES of the 4th Stu. Bn. (Abn.) made the Heritage Tour recently. After boarding buses at the Georgia Welcome Center, they were guided to historic homes of Columbus, visited antique shops, gardens and the Fountain Room of the Main Officers' Club.

Mrs. James L. Patterson and Mrs. Beresford P. Metzger were hostesses.

"APRIL SHOWERS BRING MAY FLOWERS" was the theme presented at the recent coffee for the 60th Co. (OC).

An umbrella filled with crepe paper flowers and accented with a tear drop was the centerpiece.

Mrs. Perna Modest About Many Talents

By Jane Daniels
Mrs. Leonard Perna, wife of the post Adjutant General, paints, runs her household, sings, avidly plays bridge, is active in golf, creates gourmet dishes and does artistic handwork. Yet Mrs. Perna is modest about her many talents and manages, even with all of her activities, always to be beautifully coiffed and beautifully dressed.

Embroidered maps in her hall and dining room—antiqued wood cuts of refers in her kitchen, portraits in rich colored oils and collections of the world's cookbooks, of German beer steins and of mortars and pestles make visiting her home a succession of discoveries. All are a part of her creative and unique personality.

Real Artist
She is a real artist. Some of her works are commercial, although she paints mostly for her own enjoyment. She has exhibited her leisure time works in the library at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. and at the Bethlehem Art Gallery at Newburgh, N.Y.

She won the best of the show award for a still life and a first place ribbon for a portrait of a young woman at the OWC Arts and Crafts Show last year.

Mrs. Perna is a collector of cookbooks and well she uses them. She especially loves to try French and Chinese cooking and is an expert on Italian cooking.

Another unique collection is her set of mortars and pestles in materials which vary in porcelain, glass, brass, wrought iron and wood. Her collection of German beer steins includes a musical stoin that plays a German folk song.

Col. and Mrs. Perna enjoy doing many of their activities together. Col. Perna enjoys work with his hands, and both play golf and bridge. They are best known, however, for their musical talents.

Col. Perna plays the piano as she sings. At West Point they sang in the chorus for "South Pacific," "Camelot" and "Brig-

Families See Facilities On 37th Avn. Bn. Tour

The 37th Avn. Bn. of the 10th Avn. Gp. held an open house last week to acquaint wives, families and friends with the surrounding and equipped the men use in their jobs.

Guided tours were set up to conduct visitors through the soldiers living quarters, where the men had their field equipment on display through recreation halls, dining rooms, mail and arms rooms, supply rooms, the battalion headquarters and the battalion chapel.

Exhibits at the open house included the Army's CH-47 Chinook helicopter provided by the battalion's 17th Avn. Co. and an OH-23 "Raven" helicopter provided by the 10th Transportation Corps.

Entertainment for the soldier's young dependents was not overlooked.

There were movies for them to see, rides on jeeps, a carousel and an antique fire truck.

The fire truck which used to be steam powered but now uses two gasoline engines, was provided by American Legion Post 35.

Highlight of the afternoon was a skydiving exhibition performed by men of the 86th Co. 4th Bn. (Abn.).

Jumping in groups of four and five the sky divers demonstrated various free-fall maneuvers before opening their parachutes and landing on Norton Court in the battalion area.

York City.
Began Married Life
The Pernas began their married life in the Army at Fort Benning with the officer candidate course. Both of their daughters Eileen, 23, and Diane, 22, were born here.

The Perna's son, Leonard or "Les", 14, is now a student at Columbus High School.

After next being stationed at Camp Breckenridge, Ky. they were out of the Army for a short period. They were then stationed at Governor's Island, N. Y., before being sent to a four-year tour at Slutsgart, Germany.

After Germany they were in Washington, D.C. for four years and then Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., for three years.

It was in Indiana that Mrs. Perna began her art lessons under the instruction of Jean Mundy. In Washington, she continued her lessons under Sigisby Gillam and Herbert Abrams.

After Indiana and Korea, they were in West Point, N.Y., for three years. They came to Fort Benning for the second time in 1964.

At Fort Benning, she is always busy. She is a member of the OWC choral group, has been OWC first vice president and both this year and last year she has served as the chairman for the OWC annual arts and activity show.

She will soon be busy, too, with planning a November wedding for her daughter Diane, who will marry an Army captain now serving in Vietnam.

She is always busy on her creative projects which perhaps leads her to say, "With art work, I could never be bored or never have nothing to do or to enjoy."

Medical Services Couples Guests At Main Club Formal Dinner Dance

A Japanese garden was the setting of the formal dinner and dance of the Medical Services officers and their wives and guests, last Friday in the Main Officers' Club.

A formal garden scene with curved bridge over a pool, a little Japanese - costumed boy pulling a rickshaw, a wall mural and a huge oriental fan made Japan seem just a thought away.

Honored guests were Brig. Gen. Charles M. Mount Jr., commander of the Army Training Center, and Mrs. Mount, Col. Hal B. Jennings, post surgeon, and Mrs. Jennings and Col. Edwin H. Smith Jr., post dental surgeon, and Mrs. Smith.

The dinner tables were decorated with oriental candleabra and red and yellow chrysanthemums.

Dance music was provided by "The Statesmen."

Host and hostess were Maj. and Mrs. Dean T. Schamber, and Mrs. Donald Callahan, assisted by Mrs. James Purdy, the chairman of the arrangement committee and Mrs. Lomie McCormick was the chairman of the decorations committee.

Dear Community Service

Dear Community Service,
My husband's personal officer told me to register with Community Service. Would you please tell me why? I've been married to an Army man for 15 years. He has had two hardship tours before this and has never failed to see that everything is taken care of. I know my way around the post and he has taught me pretty much about the Army. I feel pretty well equipped to take care of myself and my children. What is the reason for registering?

Dear Dependent,
Fortunately for the Army there are many wives like you. It is true that more than likely you will not need Community Service. The purposes of registering are:
a. To insure that information about Community Service is available to military families in this area whenever their sponsor is stationed elsewhere.

b. To provide an official record of unaccompanied dependents in the area, as they are, in many ways, the responsibility of the commanding general of Fort Benning and are considered in planning service facilities on post.

In your case, the reason for registering is that Community Service needs you. For example, you may not be interested in volunteer work at all, but you might be willing to lend moral support when needed to a wife whose husband is in your husband's organization.

PACKED 'EM IN . . . A swinging trio of youngsters, part of the 150-member troupe of "Up with People," fill Marshall Auditorium with their message in song during one of the four performances there this week. Hundreds of Fort Benning's soldiers and civilians attended the shows presented here May 1-3. The final performance is open to the public and is being held at Doughboy Stadium tonight, starting at 8 p.m., where the toe-tapping presentation of the group drew area civilians as well as members of Fort Benning's military community last Wednesday night. The week-long appearance is the third for the show at this installation. (U. S. Army Photo)

Sharon L. Grace Is Named Merit Scholarship Winner

Sharon L. Grace, a senior at Easter High School, has won a U. S. Army Merit Scholarship in nationwide competition. She is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Nathan T. Grace, 206 Miller Loop, Fort Benning.

Miss Grace is also the winner of a scholarship awarded by Furman University valued at $500 annually. She has said her studies at Furman will lead to a career in either education or research.

Among her honors and activities, Miss Grace was listed in Who's Who, Spanish 1, 1964 received a N.E.D.T. certificate of merit in 1965, was selected to participate in the Georgia governor's honors program at Wesleyan College in 1966, was a member of the student council in the program, and received a University of Georgia Certificate of Merit in 1966.

She participated in the University of Georgia's semi-annual conference in 1967, was vice-president of the high school English club in 1966-67, was a Candy Stripper at El Paso, Texas, from 1965-66, organized and edited a teen newspaper in 1965-66 and was a member of the Teen Inter-organizational Council from Fort Benning in 1964-66.

Miss Grace is one of three

Columbus area residents who have been awarded Army Merit scholarships this year from among the 14,000 semi-finalists. The others are Carlola M. Heitmann, of Hartway High School and 1047 Betty Drive, and Donna J. Olney, of Columbus High School and 1817 Dell Drive.

There were 116 Army Merit scholarships offered this year. In all, more than 2400 of the nation's ablest high school seniors were named winners last Wednesday in the twelfth National Merit Scholarship program.

Joint Action Is Response To Emergencies in Texas

FORT WOLTERS, Texas—Soldiers at the U. S. Army Primary Helicopter Center here have joined local civilians to form a practical emergency team.

When a range fire broke out adjacent to Fort Wolters, fire departments from nearby Mineral Wells, Hill and Weatherford responded with the Fort Wolters department.

This well-coordinated effort was credited with saving homes, crops, livestock and storage facilities. In addition, the met turned the show into an advantage by diverting it through underbrush and areas previously marked for clearing.

Within an hour after being alerted that three children were lost along the Brazos River, the Fort Wolters crash rescue team was searching from a helicopter and maintaining radio contact with ground rescue squads.

The youngsters were found in 15 minutes, treated for exposure and returned to their parents. The quick night rescue was a result of a previous search and rescue plan made through local civilian military cooperation.

Challenge and Diplomas 72 End Training With Scout Dogs

A challenge was issued when the 1st U.S. Army Replacement Packet (Scout Dog) and the 4th U.S. Marine Corps Scout Dog Platoon formally completed training here.

At a review and graduation ceremony, Col. Hubert S. Manning, Infantry Center chief of staff, pointed to the "terrific achievement of Vietnam" of the scout dogs and handlers serving there and urged the graduating unit to strive to measure up to the standards set by their predecessors.

The colonel told the soldiers that hardly a week goes by without Fort Benning's commanding general getting a letter from Vietnam attesting to the value of the dogs.

The chief of staff then presented Certificates of Training to the members of the Army unit, while the Marines were given certificates by Lt. Col. Paul X. Kelley, Marine Corps representative to the Infantry Center.

Honor graduates Named honor students for their outstanding performance during the course were Pfc. Carl R. Hilton and Pfc. John C. Stewart of the Army unit and Lance Cpl. Dwayne G. Gorman of the Marine platoon.

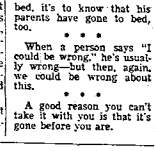

Special recognition was also given the platoon leaders, 1st Lt. Billy J. Langdon and 1st Lt. Jerry P. McCallie of the Army Replacement Packet and Sgt. William O. Hough of the Marine unit.

Col. Cunningham and Kelley shared the reviewing stand with Lt. Col. John Fontaine, commander of 1st Bn., 29th Inf., 19th Inf. Bde., who also addressed brief remarks to the graduates at

STRICTLY FRESH

The more help a man has in his garden, the less it belongs to him.

If any one thing makes a child thirstier than going to bed, it's to know that his parents have gone to bed, too.

When a person says "I could be wrong," he's usually wrong—but then, again, we could be wrong about this.

A good reason you can't take it with you is that it's gone before you are.

Trio Seeks Pollution Control Key

A key to air pollution control is being sought by an officer and two cadets at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y. Their work is being done under a $20,000 contract from the Army Research Office, Durham, N. C. It is the largest sum of money ever received by the academy under a research contract.

OC Unit Joins in Search For Missing Alabama Boy

Officer candidates of the 25th Co., 7th Bn. (OC), volunteered their services and joined with civilian elements and National Guardsmen last week in the search for a missing 6-year-old Russell (Ala.) County boy. Radio and television media issued appeals for help in the hunt for Mark Cole who had disappeared from his Seale, Ala., home at approximately 2:30 p. m. April 26. Despite the rugged search and loss of sleep, every candidate made the class for information, Leach said.

The candidates were forced to leave the searching parties at 8 a. m. commitment on their training schedule. The two cadets will present papers at the Eastern colleges science conference at Fort Ham University, re-dating made the class for their results and conclusions. The work is under the direction of Maj. Robert H. Miller, an assistant professor in the academy's department of chemistry. He is assisted by first classmen William R. Pennington, Stone, Ky., and James A. Tankovich, Zanesville, Ohio. The two cadets will present papers at the Eastern colleges science conference at Fort Ham University, re-dating made the class for their results and conclusions.

Short Active Duty Tour Offered Reserve Officers, WOs By Army

As an exception to policy, Reserve officer officers may now seek short active duty tours for service in Vietnam. A recent change in Army policy enables Reserve Officers and Warrant Officers to apply for active duty tours of less than the normal two years for officers and two or three years for warrant officers, for the purpose of serving a full 12-month tour of Vietnam.

Staff Changes Announced In School, Training Center

Col. Juan Melecio Montecarlo, secretary of the Infantry School, has been assigned as deputy commander of the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry. He succeeds Col. Bob Edwards who has been transferred to Vietnam. Lt. Col. Elmer R. Ochs, chief of the policy and plans section in the office of the director of instruction of the school, has replaced Col. Montecarlo as secretary. Another major staff change at the Infantry School involves the loss of Col. J. S. Leksan, deputy assistant commander. Nominated for the rank of brigadier general, he has left for an assignment in Vietnam. Named temporarily Col. W. J. Higgins Jr., director of the school's operations office is filling the position of deputy assistant commander until a replacement for Col. Leksan arrives.

Medals Presented

A Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroism and a Purple Heart were presented to the family of Staff Sgt. Jimmy L. Patrick who died in Vietnam Dec. 9, 1966. Receiving the decorations were the Patrick children, Glenda and Gregory and Mrs. Patrick, of 1040 39th Ave., Columbia. Col. David G. Sherrard, deputy post commander, made the presentation.

Col. Montecarlo is a 1946 graduate of the University of California with a BS degree. He was awarded a master of science degree in international relations from George Washington University in 1956. Col. Montecarlo, an OCS graduate, was commissioned in 1942 here at Fort Benning with the 1st Reconnaissance Battalion from 1943 to 1945. Also, he served in Korea with the 18th Inf. Regt. from 1950-1951.

Among his assignments have been the position of deputy commander of the School of the Americas in the Canal Zone from 1962 to 1966.

Col. Montecarlo was born in Iloilo, the Philippines, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vivencia S. Montecarlo, who now live in San Francisco. He is married to the former Miss Gloria Fabio, daughter of Justice and Mrs. C. F. Pablo, of Pasay City, Philippines.

Col. and Mrs. Montecarlo have six children, Robert, 20, Melinda, 17, Michele, 16, Patricia, 14, Marie, 12, and Gloria. Commissioned in 1946 Ochs is a 1946 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and holds a mas-

Road Test Completed On Army's 'Chaparral'

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (ANF) — The Army's Chaparral air defense guided missile system has completed a 100-mile road test designed to determine the effects of shock and vibration on the system's components. The missile system was selected recently by the Army to provide field commanders with low altitude air defense in forward battle areas. It was successfully tested at White Sands Missile Range, N. M.

Chaparral fire units and the experimental XM-730 tracked vehicle were driven over rugged terrain at the Naval Ordnance Test Station, China Lake, Calif. Loaded with live, but unused missiles, the Chaparral

Army Is Seeking Problem Areas In Using SSAN

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Army will conduct tests this month to evaluate problems involved in obtaining Social Security Account Numbers for all incoming service personnel. The tests are in response to a Secretary of Defense directive that all individuals entering on active duty after June 30 have a Social Security Account Number (SSAN). The directive is part of the first phase of an overall program to eventually substitute the SSAN for the military service number. The Army test program will be conducted at Armed Forces Examining and Entrance stations in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and Richmond, Va. At the conclusion of the survey May 31, an analysis will be made of problems encountered in obtaining SSANs. Edward A. Nicholas Jr., Company B; John J. Kirovic, Company B; and Taylor I. assigned.

Stream Crossing Provides Change Of Bivouac Routine for Trainees

When trainees of the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, hear the word "bivouac" the first thought that crosses their minds is miles of a long, wearisome and often grueling road march. This is what Company C trainees of Lt. Col. Edward Natney's 8th Battalion also thought before departing for a recent bivouac site. But instead of a routine road march, the trainees were given an opportunity to wearisome and often grueling road march. This is what Company C trainees of Lt. Col. Edward Natney's 8th Battalion also

Schoolgirl Inspires Gifts to Vietnamese Orphans

DI AN, Vietnam — A few months ago, a 13-year-old schoolgirl named Karen wanted to know if the Vietnamese around the 1st Inf. Div. area of operations could use such items as clothing and toys. The reply was that any donations would be well received and put to good use.

Karen's school, St. Andrew Primary in Ho Chi Minh went to work. As their Christmas program the school adopted a drive for these items to be distributed to children in the "Big Red One's" area.

The packages reached Vietnam just after Karen's father, Lt. Col. Joseph Ulster, took over command of the 2nd Bn, 16th Inf. "Rangers" by mere coincidence 1st Sgt. James Johnson had long actively supported the Duc Minh Orphanage in Thun Duc. So when the packages reached battalion S-3, Johnson did not waste any time in bargaining for them to give to the Duc Minh orphans.

Staff Sgt. Joe Yarborough, Hq. Co.'s mess sergeant, also had a trailer-load of goodies for the kids. They know that when the "Rangers" show up, they are in for something good. "I wish that I could get my KPs to load and unload supply trucks with just half the enthusiasm these kids do," dreamed Yarborough.

PHU LOI, Vietnam — A never been in financial trouble and Bn. 22nd Inf. soldier was treated to quite a surprise recently in the form of five crisp new $10 bills.

While breaking down the mail during Operation "SYRETOUR" two million south of Phu Loi, Spec. 4 Luther V. Lester noticed an envelope addressed to him. There was to return address. The letter was mailed from someplace in Vietnam.

Station to Ease Incidence Of Trainee Heat Injuries

In a stepped-up drive to prevent heat injuries among basic trainees, a new wet bulb globe temperature (WBGT) station is now operating in the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, in the Sand Hill area at Fort Benning.

Command emphasis on prevention of heat injuries has steadily reduced adverse heat reaction in the trainees since the beginning of the Training Center at Fort Benning in September, 1966.

The index of the WBGT, which has a comparative value with readings on an ordinary thermometer, is used to determine troop activity adjustments to preclude heat injuries.

The critical WBGT point have been set at 80, 85, 90 and 90 degrees, which have been respectively categorized as I, II, III and IV.

All outdoor physical activity and training are halted when a Category IV warning is disseminated.

The Training Center, combining its own WBGT station with strong emphasis upon prevention and treatment of possible heat injuries, has inaugurated the summer program to minimize heat injuries, particularly among the unacclimated basic training personnel.

Army Scientists Developing Two New Adhesive Devices

Army scientists are developing two adhesive devices, one of them an underwater glue and the other a spray-on liquid for stopping bleeding.

Researchers at the U.S. Army Medical Biochemical Research Laboratory (USAMBL) at Forest Glen, Md., have discovered an adhesive mixture which can glue together most metals, glass, wood or rubber materials which are underwater.

Dr. Frederick Leonard, scientific director of USAMBL, said the glue, still being tested, has proven equally effective on corroded, painted, and clean surfaces.

A patent application for the underwater glue has been filed by Dr. Leonard and George Brandes, organic chemist at the laboratory.

Meanwhile, USAMBL scientists have found that a liquid can be sprayed on human organs, such as the skin or kidneys, to seal a wound and thus stop the bleeding.

Researchers say the heating agent, which solidifies once it is applied, may someday replace the need for stitching up wounds. The spray-on liquid is being tested for the length of time it takes to decompose in the human body. (ANP)

Army Chief of Staff GEN Harold K. Johnson has approved a recommendation that each officer maintain his college data record for career branches for use in determining qualified candidates for advanced schooling.

Current regulations are being revised to insure that each officer furnishes his transcript when reporting for active duty.

The Department of the Army will pay for any costs in obtaining the transcripts. (ANP)

New Overcoat Becomes Standard Clothing Item Starting on July 1

The new Army Green 44 overcoat will become a standard clothing item for active Army enlisted men entering the service on or after next July 1.

According to DA Message 10086, all EM entering the Army prior to that date will be authorized the current Olive Green 107 overcoat as an organizational item, not a standard item, until July 1, 1970.

At that time, the AG 44 becomes mandatory wear for all enlisted personnel.

Those entering the service prior to next July may buy the new coat at their option.

As a general rule, the new overcoat will not be issued until the individual completes his tour of duty.

Those assigned to Vietnam or Korea will receive the AG 44 free of charge upon completion of their tour, provided they have not declined to be hospitalized or have less than six months remaining in the service.

The AG 44 will be treated as an organizational item for National Guard and Reserve enlisted men. (ANP)

'The Water's Fine' Says Ranger Sergeant Major

By Staff Sgt. Snow Wilson

"Now's the time to become a Ranger — the water's not so cold," laughed Sgt. Maj. Thomas A. Becher, of The Infantry School's Ranger department, while describing a source Ranger's first lesson.

"It's called a combat water survival test," said Becher, who has been a Ranger since 1960.

In one of the test, applicants wearing blindfolds walk off the end of a 3-meter diving board into a swimming pool while fully clothed and equipped with an M-14 rifle, web equipment and canteen.

"They pass if they can swim to the edge of the pool after coming up," said sergeant major.

Confidence Test Col. Irwin A. Edwards, director of the Ranger Department, said that the novel qualification is primarily a test of confidence and assures that all students can swim and safely take part in Ranger water training.

Before an application is accepted, service Rangers must be at least 22 points on the physical combat proficiency test. They must also be able to make the 40 yard low crawl in 38 seconds, do 23 rungs on the horizontal ladder.

DA Form 1, the basic record reflecting the official status of the reporting organization and each person as the North Georgia mountains and 19 in the swamps of Florida.

At Benning, students prepare for the other two phases in three phases with 17 days at Fort Benning, 19 in training and physical training.

Instructors Needed NCO instructors are still needed at Fort Benning, and promotion possibilities are excellent and many vacancies need to be filled in the department's TD.

Ranger qualified NCO's as well as those wishing to become qualified should write to the Ranger Department at The Infantry School for further information.

Summer Appearance Due For New Morning Report

The morning report, a venerable Army document dating back to George Washington's day, will take on a new streamlined look this summer.

The major change on the U. S. Army Data Support Command, is the elimination of the personal information that has been traditionally known as "supplemental data."

This information will now go directly to the Data Processing Activity from the personal office that is the custodian of the individual's military records.

This will eliminate much of the administrative workload, from the duties of the morning report clerk.

The new form, in a redesigned, modern accounting format, will clarify and define the terminology used, standardize entries, reduce the number of miscellaneous remarks necessary, and establish a recording sequence that will simplify entries.

The 80-piece concert band of Baker High School under the direction of John P. Grantham Sr. will begin the month-long music filled Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. this Sunday at South Harmony Church Field House.
The success of the Canton High School Band of Canton, Ill., which performed at Kelley Hill Services Club recently, prompted Theodor Gargiulo, Special Services music director to arrange for these four high school bands to appear.
"Our acceptance was evident from the size of the crowd," Gargiulo said. "Nearly 500 people saw the band perform at the school drill team, known as the "Drum Corps." This response was so great that the department decided to give the post more of this type of entertainment."
The three other bands taking part in the festival are: Columbus High School under the direction of John Fenwick; The Arnold Jr. High School with Larry Kirkman, director; and Hardaway High School with George Corradino as the baton.
Appearing with the Baker High School Band this Sunday will be the Baker High School drill team, known as the "Drum Corps." This response was so great that the department decided to band for the last three years, when the band has performed at the Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville, Fla., and is noted for its fine drill ability.

Seven baton twirlers also are to be featured Sunday at the festival. These are: Joe Bocca, percussionist, who will play every instrument in the drum section during a number entitled "The Worried Drummer."
"We play a variety of music," Grantham said. "Every three concerts will be announced."
Grantham graduated from Auburn University in 1962 after graduating from a local high school and serving three years in the Army.
He has had the Baker High School band for three years. There will be no admission charge for these programs and all military personnel at Fort Benning and civilians from the surrounding area are invited to attend.
Specific sites for the other three concerts will be announced.

CARILLON PLAYS MUSIC FOR ALL FAITHS
Pfc. Dennis Johnson, Chaplain's Assistant

Memorial Carillon Plays Traditional Music Daily

A carillon that was played at Camp Patrick Henry, Va., in 1860, is being used for 1,650,000 World War II soldiers enroute to or from the battlefields of Europe, now rings out traditional music of all faiths at Fort Benning.
Originally located in Camp Patrick Henry's "Chapel in the Woods," the carillon was used there from 1943 to 1946. It was moved to Fort Benning.
Now located in the U.S. Army Infantry Center chapel, the carillon is played from noon — 12:15 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 2 — 3:30 p.m. on Sunday.
For many years the carillon was used for daily musical interludes. If a new set during the past four years, no regular schedule was followed and the chiming melodic tones were only heard on special occasions.
The present daily noon concerts and Sunday afternoon programs were instituted on a regularized basis this January.
The musician is Pfc. Dennis Johnson, chaplain's assistant at the main post Catholic chapel.
The carillon is played from an ornate console on the balcony of the chapel.
An inscription over the keyboard reads, "Dedicated to the men and women of Firestone in the service of their country."
A plaque in the chapel sanctuary tells the story of the carillon. Donated to the Camp Patrick Henry chapel in 1943 by Harvey S. Firestone Jr., it was given as a tribute to the people on the service roles of the Firestone Company during World War II.
Dedicated in 1943, the carillon was destroyed by fire a year later. It was rebuilt by Firestone in time to play the Christmas music in December, 1944.
For its wartime service, the carillon was cited by Camp Patrick Henry for distinguished service in freedom's cause. "This beautiful voice of Camp Patrick Henry has been enjoyed by 500,000 officers and enlisted men enroute overseas and by 850,000 returnees. Their spiritual appreciation was truly amazing," the citation reads.
After the war, the carillon was transferred to Fort Benning. Here its mission has continued in an atmosphere in keeping with still another inscription it bears.
Across the face of the cabinet are the words, "There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations. People armed in the Holy cause of liberty in a country such as ours are invincible."

He struck a glancing blow on the edge of a snow-covered ravine and slid to the bottom, suffering a fractured pelvis and severe spinal damage.

Festival of Bands Features Four Local High School Organizations

A "Festival of Bands" featuring four high school bands from the Columbus area is scheduled for this month by the entertainment section of Fort Benning Services at South Harmony Church Field House.

Ceremony Marks Change Of COs in Armor Units

Dual ceremonies of combat and change-over Co. He succeeded in leaving Fort Benning last month in two companies of the 4th Bn, 69th Armor, 19th Infantry Div., Lt. Col. Harold L. Leiby, commander of the 69th Armor, passed the guidons of Co. C and Co. D to Capt. Jerry A. Thomas and Capt. Bobby S. Wallace during the ceremonies at the battalion's "Harmony Church Home of Armor."

Thomas is a recent graduate of the Armor Officer Career Course at Fort Knox, Ky., and has been battalion adjutant since January. He is a native of Mississippi and was commissioned in 1960 upon graduation from the University of Mississippi. As commander of headquarters company, Thomas succeeds Capt. James C. Wallace, who has become battalion adjutant.

Ceremony Opens New Mess Hall For TSB Troops

New mess facilities to serve 1000 men of The Student Brigade were opened in a brief ceremony last week. The mess hall is housed in a building constructed in 1940 but which was renovated inside at a cost of $150,000, to include a large, modern kitchen.

Col. Ned B. Mabry, CO, TSB, cut a ribbon to officially open the building. The color guard inspected the facility and joined mess steward Sgt. Robert B. Kearnes and members of his staff for coffee in the NCO dining room.

Capt. Frank Spiers, CO, 1st Casual Co, TSB, said the mess hall is now the most modern at Fort Benning. A crew of 20 cooks and 15 P.F. is required to operate the facility.

The captain said, "We intend to complete this mess hall into a self-service cafeteria. It could be found anywhere off post. We know this mess hall will be a show place and the front runner of all other mess halls in the future."

The 80-piece concert band of Baker High School under the direction of John P. Grantham Sr. will begin the month-long music filled Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. this Sunday at South Harmony Church Field House.
The success of the Canton High School Band of Canton, Ill., which performed at Kelley Hill Services Club recently, prompted Theodor Gargiulo, Special Services music director to arrange for these four high school bands to appear.
"Our acceptance was evident from the size of the crowd," Gargiulo said. "Nearly 500 people saw the band perform at the school drill team, known as the "Drum Corps." This response was so great that the department decided to band for the last three years, when the band has performed at the Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville, Fla., and is noted for its fine drill ability.

Seven baton twirlers also are to be featured Sunday at the festival. These are: Joe Bocca, percussionist, who will play every instrument in the drum section during a number entitled "The Worried Drummer."
"We play a variety of music," Grantham said. "Every three concerts will be announced."
Grantham graduated from Auburn University in 1962 after graduating from a local high school and serving three years in the Army.
He has had the Baker High School band for three years. There will be no admission charge for these programs and all military personnel at Fort Benning and civilians from the surrounding area are invited to attend.
Specific sites for the other three concerts will be announced.

'Welcome to Hard Times' Realistic Western Drama

Filmgoers looking for a western devoid of the usual clichés of a stalwart hero strutting a lament to an immaculate heroine and cowboys riding into the setting sun are advised to see the new MGM drama, "Welcome to Hard Times," with Henry Fonda and Janice Rule heading a cast of seasoned performers.

Based on the book by E. L. Doctorow, with Burt Kennedy writing the screen play and directing, "Welcome to Hard Times" is an uncompromising drama of good vs. evil. The villain, enacted by Aldo Ray in a performance not easily forgotten, is a drunken, mad-dog outlaw who ravages and burns the small, early West community called Hard Times. Its hero, in an equally memorable portrayal by Henry Fonda, is a tight, mad-dog killer against arrives.

It is now the moment of "Hard Times" is a terrifying decision for Fonda. And one that happens to Fonda. Miss Rule, Young Shea, and the orphaned Michael Shea set out to rebuild it. Miss Rule, who has come to be killed by Ray and who despises Fonda for his cowardice, is certain that the murderer will return and loathes Young Shea to shoot in preparation for that day. In the meantime, they are joined by a traveling show troupe run by Keenan Wynn who decides to settle down in Hard Times and build a saloon patronized by miners from the adjacent hills. Gradually, the town achieves a semblance of order but Fonda knows that it is only a matter of time before the mad-dog killer returns to settle down and when the mines close down and the worst is longer come to Hard Times, the mad-dog killer again arrives.

EL DORADO—When John Wayne rides into the town of El Dorado, he is greeted by old friend Robert Mitchum, who has helped America get on its feet.

Wayne had been asked to take part in a range war, and Mitchum, the local sheriff, averts trouble by keeping Wayne out of town. This is accomplished, but not before Wayne is wounded.

Wayne leaves to recuperate, but the bullet remains lodged dangerously close to his spine. Months later, he learns that the range war is about to explode and Mitchum, by now a drunk and doing nothing to prevent it.

He returns to El Dorado where, in spite of the fact that he is partially paralyzed, he sides with Mitchum to keep the town.

After an action packed climax, peace is restored.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—Elvis plays an American singer who is touring foreign disc jockies.

Shooters Return With Bag of Wins

FFC LEAVENDUSKY Top Trap Shooter

Trap and Skeet Team Competes In Preliminaries

The U.S. Army trap and skeet team competed in preliminary tryout matches for U. S. Championships and Pan-Am American Games in Kansas City, Mo., and Greenville, S.C. last weekend.

At Kansas City the Army trap shooters won the first four places in the 200 bird shooting contest. Pfc. Ed Leavendusky and Staff Sgt. Jim Beck tied for first with 195 apiece but in the shoot-off, Leavendusky was declared the winner. Third place was won by Pfc. Gene Lumsden with a 191 while Pfc. Russell Anderson finished fourth with a 191.

This is Leavendusky's second win this year. He finished 1st for top honors here in March and only a few weeks ago at the Wauchusa, Wis. club he finished third behind Lumsden and Beck with 178, despite cold, winds, and snow.

Joey Hatcher Saves the Day

By Staff Sgt. Snow Wilson

It had been a hard game for pitcher Dave McBarry and everything depended on this last ball. Two men were on but it was two out in the bottom of the last inning — and he had two strikes on the big stick of the Tigers.

A bush fell over the crowd as McBarry went into his windup. He came down hard, sending the ball whistling at the batter but the crack, as bat met ball, signaled doom for Joey Hatcher of the Tigers had done it for the fifth time in the game with a final out. The score was 2-1 in favor of the White Sox.

White a mighty cheer followed Hatcher around the bases. McBarry choked back the tears for it is awful to lose a game when you're only one-out ahead.

But for Joey Hatcher, catcher for the Tigers, it is an unforgettable experience to hit three home runs and a triple with the bases loaded and finish the game with another homer — especially when you too are only 3 years old.

The score was tied Monday evening's game at YAC's Big League Twin Fields on Custer Road.

The final score — 29-28.

The U.S. Army high power rifle team returned this week after a tour where they captured all the top matches and more of their share of the individual honors during the spring training debut.

Completing their training match last weekend at the Boulder City, Nev., Inter-high power rifle tournament, the U.S. Army rifle team won all the individual and team matches.

In the individual preliminary tryout matches for U. S. Championships and Pan-Am American Games in Kansas City, Mo., and Greenville, S.C. last weekend.

At Kansas City the Army trap shooters won the first four places in the 200 bird shooting contest. Pfc. Ed Leavendusky and Staff Sgt. Jim Beck tied for first with 195 apiece but in the shoot-off, Leavendusky was declared the winner. Third place was won by Pfc. Gene Lumsden with a 191 while Pfc. Russell Anderson finished fourth with a 191.

This is Leavendusky's second win this year. He finished 1st for top honors here in March and only a few weeks ago at the Wauchusa, Wis. club he finished third behind Lumsden and Beck with 178, despite cold, winds, and snow.

At the initial Boulder City Match earlier in April, Drake's Team again beat the Air Force 1941-1927.

At the Phoenix, Ariz., regional it was almost no contest as the hard hitting Army rifle team walked away from the competition with a 187-34 victory. Their last week-end victory of 1983 was said, "the points came hard. We had to shoot for every score."

"But," the colonel added, "our team is full of promise. All of our men are products of the U.S. Army marksmanship training program that members were Maj. Willis Powell, U.S. Army rifle team coach, Sgt. I. C. Cecil.

YAC Intermediate

Hurricanes Whip Sox To Take League Lead

The undefeated Hurricanes took sole possession of first place in YAC's Intermediate Baseball league this week when they trounced the White Sox 6-3.

Hurricanes pitchers David Wisdom and John Horne allowed only five hits and struck out 18 in the seven inning contest.

In the sixth inning the Sox led 3-1 when Hurricane Tony Stanley singled in the tying runs.

Timely hits from the big bats of David Wisdom and Bobby Combs drove in the winning runs in the seventh.

Tony Perez and O. Rivera led the Sox at the plate with runner Perce taking the loss.

THE GOLDEN PINTS recorded their first win of the two-week old season by edging the Red Barons 11-10.

Pint pitcher Ricky Sanford went the route for the victory in the contest and Barone pitcher Maurice Buchanan took the loss.

Leading the Pints in the hitting department were Pat Valstager, Doug Crum and Frank Dieme.

Horse Show Set Tomorrow Here At French Field

Riders from Alabama and Georgia are putting the final touches on their riding skills today in preparation for the 5th Annual Horse Show set to tomorrow at French Field.

The competition, which will begin at 9 a.m., will include Jumpers, Hunters and Equitation. The show will last the entire day and will feature 28 different classes on the jumping ring, equitation ring and the outside course.

Highlights of the show will be the open jumper event during which will close the day.

Mrs. Fred Schnell of Auburn, Ala., and William J. Scholtz of Columbus, will be judges for the show.

MTU Shooters Edge AF, Cop Running Boar Meet

The U.S. Army running team returned from Lakeland AFB, Tex., earlier this week with a victory over the Air Force.

Faced by two former team shooters, the Army defeated the Air Force foursome 640 to 626.

The Army team's score of 640 fired by Sgt. I.C. Loyd.

In the individual matches, Moeller, despite strong gusty winds, fired an amazing 170 out of 200 to win the "slow bear" match to King-ster's 172.

Kingster came back strong in the "fast run" match with a 189 to take the lead for the championship.

Finishing out of the winners' column were Crow, 481; Sharpness, 440 and Staff Sgt. Noah Bailey, 430.

The annual Junior NRA Sectional smallbore rifle tournament, hosted by Fort Benning, saw clubs represented from as far away as Augusta, Ga. and Helena, Ala.

Fort Benning's club, coached by M. Sgt. William E. Krilling, the holder of several national records in small bore competition, took more than the lion's share of the trophies.

Besides the first place trophy, each team member received an individual trophy.

Two members of the winning team placed in the individual marksmanship. Mount, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles M. Mount Jr., won first place in the 13 and below age group with a 322 score, while Lennon, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. James Lennon, took third place in the overall individual firing by a score of 248.

First place in individual firing was taken by Richard Jones of the Valley Gun Club of Helena, Ala., with a 326 score. This young Master shooter was the first place in the Sharpshooter division of the National meet last year.

OC Past Track Competitor Of World's Fastest Human

Speed is the name of the game for OC Donald Niksic of the 74th Company, 7th Signal Battalion, U.S. Army. The 20-year-old resident of Chicago is a former track star, racer of motorcycles and a promoter of the Miss America Pageant.

The Illinois state Junior champion in his junior year of high school once had the chance to race against Bob Hayes, the present world record holder.

"It was in Chicago in 1964," recalls Niksic. "It was an indoor 50-yard dash and I was quite nervous. I ran a 5.4 race and finished third, but Hayes of Florida A&M ran a 5.1 to win. It was my best race ever, but that Hayes is some thing else."

Niksic has always appealed to Niksic. After competing in the 1964 state meet, he was named "Most Valuable Player" of the meet.

Understanding Soldier Problems

You are in a command position—squad leader, platoon sergeant, section chief. Things are running smoothly, or at least as smoothly as they have ever been. Then one day you begin to notice a little slowdown. Quietly you check out the situation. You find that one of your men has a problem. This means you have a problem, too.

What to do? It depends on the situation. It depends on the man, his age and experience, and on his actual problem. Your main function is not to solve the problem for him, but to establish a climate of understanding in which the man feels free to seek intelligent help. Therefore, you must get with the man, help him to open up. Be prepared, after diagnosing the problem, to refer him to the right agency. You have a job to do and it's not back on the track. If he mistrusts you, if he is afraid that you will laugh at him or his problem, if he knows in advance that your constant response is: feed him beans, mark him duty—then you have failed as a supervisor.

As an NCO you can endure everything except failure. If you have not already done so, find out what his interests are, his hobbies, his schooling. Knowing these facts will help in knowing your man. Knowing your man is indispensable to proper leadership and supervision. Thus, when a man stops doing something he normally does, or starts doing something he normally doesn't, these are indicators that something is afoot. Stay alert to the implications of change.

You are responsible for the health and well-being of each soldier entrusted to your charge. Don't let drift become your natural attitude. Take care of each man as though he were your own brother.

West Track Meet May 13

The United States Military Academy, West Point, N.Y. will host the 1967 heptagonal track championships, May 13.

The eight Ivy League colleges, plus Army and Navy Academy athletes, will compete in the greatest pageant of champions in the 23 year history of the outdoor track meet.

Defending champions will return in 15 of the 18 events.

Greatest Miser

The largest published estate ever left by a woman was $85 million by the notorious young Betty Howland Green (1888-1916) of New York. Her will was found in a tin box with four pieces of saved soap. She was so mean that her son had to have his leg amputated because of delays in finding a free medical clinic. She herself lived on one porridge because she was too miserly to heat it.

LEAGUE LEADERS

Hq. Co. 3rd Eng. Bn. is leading the battalion drill league with a 4.0 record. It scored a 4.0 by a league of 14-4 this weekend.

Drag Strip To Feature AA Fuelers

A few weeks ago the world championship series Southeast Division grand opener of the National Hot Rod Association's 1967 drag racing season a giant battle was shaping up at the Phenix Dragway, Phenix City, Ala.

As is common in the racing industry, where one can never definitely make a prediction—the giants in fact never met.

For those fans who had anticipated the meeting of Pete Robinson of Atlanta, the World Fuel Champion for 1966 and Danny Ongais of Hawaii, and Carlshad, Calif. one of the shapeliest young all-around drivers of the circuit today, Jerry Coley operator of the Phenix Dragway, has signed these suspended stars of the drag strip for a special best two of three match-race Sunday.

Robinson on his first run of the trailer April 1 set a shattering new National Hot Rod Association national elapsed time record in AA-FD when he sailed his OHC Ford powered dragster to a fantastic 7.38 second jaunt from a standing start through the quarter mile. Robinson's 7.08 was a new official record under the strictest of conditions and certification.

Ongais then came on with a 7.31 from his Dodge powered machine and later he had having continually hit mph of 216 plus—topping it with a 217.90 mph which was a whisper off the official mph record.

The regular program of drag racing is on the schedule for Phenix Dragway along with the Robinson-Ongais showdown.

CHAMPION SWALLOWER

The worst known case of compulsive swallowing was reported by the JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION in December, 1960.

The patient, who complained of having swollen ankles, was found to have 258 items in his stomach, including a 9-pound piece of metal, 26 keys, 15 religious medals, a bracelet, a necklace, three pairs of tweezers, four nail clippers, 39 match files, three metal chains, 88 assorted coins, and three sets of rosary beads.

New Commander Named For Post

By Al Spratley

Maj. Gen. John M. Wright Jr., former assistant division commander of the 1st Cav. Div. (Airmobile) in Vietnam, and who, during World War II commanded the battery which fired the last shot on Corregidor, has been named to succeed Maj. Gen. Robert H. York as Fort Benning commander and commandant of The Infantry School.

Gen. Wright, a prisoner of war for three and a half years following the fall of Corregidor, returned from Vietnam last September and has been assigned at Fort Benning with Department of the Army Office of Force Development.

An Associated Press dispatch said the Army announced Gen. Wright would assume his new duties on July 15. Gen. York has been nominated, and confirmed by the Senate Armed Services Committee, for promotion to lieutenant general and assigned to command the XVIII Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg, N. C. No date has been set for his departure from Fort Benning.

Gen. Wright came to Fort Benning and the 11th Air Assault Division (Test) in April, 1964, following a tour of duty in Germany with the Seventh Army as G3 (Plans and Operations).

He went with the 1st Cavalry to Vietnam after it had been reformed at Fort Benning from elements of the 1st Assault and 2nd Infantry Divisions.

West Point Class of '49, The 51-year-old master paratrooper entered the Army as an enlisted man in July, 1945, and received an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. He graduated in June, 1949.

A native Californian, Gen. Wright served during World War II with the 91st Coast Artillery (Philippine Scouts) in the defense of Corregidor until its fall to the Japanese, following which he was taken prisoner.

During the Korean War he was executive officer of the 32nd Infantry and also G-1 (personnel) and G-4 (logistics) officer for the 7th Inf. Div.

Gen. Wright is a staunch advocate of scouting and has been associated with the Boy Scouts of America for almost 40 years. He also is an honorary member of the Phi Kappa Phi Chapter at Fort Benning.

ENTRENCHING TOOL DUE TESTS

Infantry Board Is Planning Tests Of New Entrenching Tool Design

The Infantryman in a reduced from four pounds to soon be afforded the opportunity of a new lightweight, collapsible entrenching tool for his combat wardrobe.

Following recently completed engineering tests and research development by Natick Labs, the U. S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) at Fort Benning has received a prototype and will soon be giving the newly designed tool service tests to determine its feasibility for use by Infantrymen.

The new entrenching tool has many advantages which should appear it to its bearer.

One of the greatest is its reduced weight. The new tool will be half the weight of the present tool.

Continuous Search This is in keeping with the Army's continuous search for means of reducing the combat load of the Infantryman and thus insuring greater efficiency.

In addition to its weight reduction, the newly designed tool will be more compact due to a folding handle being more collapsible than the present tool.

It will fold into its 9½-inch carrier where the present tool presents a cumbersome 20½-inch obstacle attached to the waist of the combat Infantryman.

Improve Mobility This will improve the wearer's mobility as the present tool is too long, cumbersome and heavy.

The present tool presents a hazard with its protruding handle to the paratrooper (See Board, Page 2)

During the Korean War he was executive officer of the 32nd Infantry and also G-1 (personnel) and G-4 (logistics) officer for the 7th Inf. Div.

Gen. Wright is a staunch advocate of scouting and has been associated with the Boy Scouts of America for almost 40 years. He also is an honorary member of the Phi Kappa Phi Chapter at Fort Benning.

James W. Blanchard Jr. Now AUSA Chapter President

By Al Spratley

James W. Blanchard Jr., president of the Columbus Bank and Trust Co. and president of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce last Monday night became president of the Columbus - Phoenix City - Fort Benning Chapter, Association of the U.S. Army (AUSA).

Blanchard was elected at a meeting of the membership held at Fort Benning's Crain Hall Noncommissioned Officers Club.

R. L. Hinson, outgoing president, who has headed the local chapter for the past year as it increased its membership to become the largest chapter in the worldwide military - civilian organization, presented Blanchard with the chapter gavel and president's lapel pin.

R. L. Hinson, outgoing president, who has headed the local chapter for the past year as it increased its membership to become the largest chapter in the worldwide military - civilian organization, presented Blanchard with the chapter gavel and president's lapel pin.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, Jr. He said that as a result of correspondence with the national chapter he believed that this coming year there would be additional awards for the chapter getting the largest number of new members during the year and also one for the chapter having the largest ratio of civilian members.

The general said that since he was being transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C., he wasn't too sure he would push that point any further. In giving his final report to the chapter he would like to see new members signed up at Fort Benning but who were lost to the chapter upon transfer.

Infantryman and interferes with mobility when scrambling over rough terrain or when running for position.

The primary function of the trenching tool is to clear moving capabilities. The present tool performs this well but drawbacks are its weight, being cumbersome when carried, and lack of a cutting edge.

Blade Changed

The new tool has a newly designed blade with a rolled thicker section near the hinge area tapering thinner toward its cutting edges. One edge of the blade is serrated while the opposite edge is sharpened to an axe edge.

This will enable the user to sever roots by either of two methods, cutting them as with a saw or a chopping action.

In addition to the handle being collapsible, it has a "Duo" type handhold for greater efficiency.

This will reduce the ten-

LEAVES COMMAND

Lt. Col. Vernon J. Walters at 10:15 a.m. tomorrow will relinquish command of the 1st Bn. (Mech), 58th Inf., to Lt. Col. Charles D. Wright in a change of command ceremony scheduled for the 58th Infantry parade field. Members of Fort Benning's military and civilian populace are invited to attend the event which will be held in Theater No. 5 in the event of inclement weather.

gency of the handle to turn in the grip of the Infantryman and will insure his better control for all-purpose use of the tool.

The tool in its collapsible state is the same length of its blade, presenting the Infantryman and not a means of tripping or entangling him in its surrounding growth.

and pistol matches will be fired. Shooting dates are May 27-28.

To Remain

Nearly all of the Army competitors, some 800 in all, that will vie for honors in the Southeastern will remain to compete in the U. S. Army rifle and pistol championships June 1-10.

Since the completion of the Third U. S. Army matches two weeks ago, members of the Competitive Marksmanship Division have been preparing ranges and training personnel for the forthcoming events.

Telephone wire has been laid, ranges spruced up and targets readied for the influx of shooters.

Smooth Operations

Everything is being done to insure smooth range operations and scorekeeping, so that the competitors can devote their energies to concentrating on shooting the matches.

The three events will bring to Fort Benning most of the finest shots in the services from all parts of the world. In the interservice international competition, many of the shooters, who will compete have fired against other nations in Olympic and Pan-American and Council of International de Sports (CISM) competitions.

The Southeastern regional will not only draw the top experts from the Army but many of the country's best civilian, police, Air Force, Marine and Navy fliers.

Shooters, who have survived competition ranging down to battalion level at Army posts all over the world, will be seeking honors in the U.S. Army championships.

Commander

Kappa Phi, professional member of the Alpha Kappa Psi, belongs to the Association of the U. S. Army (AUSA) and the Association of Graduates, U. S. Military Academy.

Military Schooling

The newly appointed Benning commander has a master's degree in business administration from the University of Southern California. His other schooling includes the Infantry Officers' advanced course at Fort Benning, the Strategic Intelligence School, Washington, D. C., Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Army Logistics Management School, Fort Lee, Va., and the National War College, Washington, D. C.

The list of decorations Gen. Wright had received before going to Vietnam includes the Silver Star, with Oak Leaf Cluster, Bronze Star, Commendation Medal, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, Combat Infantryman's Badge, Master Parachutist Badge, German Parachutist Badge and National Order of Merit (Paraspar).

Gen. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wright Sr., reside in Van Nuys, Calif. He is married to the former Helene Tribit, daughter of Mrs. W. M. Tribit, Los Angeles. They have two sons, John III, 25, and Richard, 20.

Blanchard

In the chapter, Hinson cited the accomplishments of the past year, the awards the chapter has received and the awards the chapter had presented to national competition, many of the officers and unit awards. He also presented a life membership in the chapter to Col. William Preston who stepped down after serving for three years as secretary-treasurer. Col. Preston will retire from the service later this summer.

The Judge Says...

Adoption should be formal to avoid harming the child

Sometimes a couple will rear a relative or step child but will not bother to adopt the child formally and legally. Such informal arrangements can be very harmful to the child, legally speaking.

Adoption as we know it is not a part of the old common law. It is a creature of statute. In other words, our laws governing adoption of children were made by the legislature.

A child legally adopted by a person or couple usually assumes the adoptive parent's name and by law becomes the parent's heir just as if she or he were a natural child of that parent.

To adopt a child legally, one must file a petition with the county court at the county where the petitioner resides. Also, there must be written consent of

NOT ONLY IS SHOWING THE WMC ANNIVERSARY AND THE ORDINANCE CORPS ANNIVERSARY... IT'S MOTHERS DAY !!!

Buck teeth can be caused by feeding infant too much

The common facial deformity of protruding or "buck teeth" could possibly be caused by the over-feeding of infants. It is thought that many mothers, while bottle feeding their babies, allow an excessive flow of milk.

The child soon learns that he can stop this overflow by thrusting his tongue against the bottle nipple. This forward tongue movement soon becomes a habit and when the teeth appear, this movement pushes them outward. Very frequently this persists into adulthood.

A simple method has been developed for neutralizing this bad habit. It is called "tongue thrust therapy."

The patient is taught to shift the tongue pressure upward and backward against the roof of the mouth instead of the teeth—lowing. Actually this is a tongue exercise and an effective one at that.

This process, of retracting the tongue, is often ac-complicated in as little as a half dozen short lessons and a minimum of additional exercise at home or elsewhere. Following retraining, orthodontic care is generally required to restore the individual's normal appearance.

The best corrective method is basically a preventive approach. Mothers should exercise care during feedings with frequent removal of the bottle so the child will not find it necessary to stop excessive flow of milk with his tongue.

Surgeon Says Medicare law offers aid to handicapped veterans

(Final part of a three part series on new Medicare provisions.) A special program of health service, training, special education, and rehabilitation was established January 1 for handicapped spouses and children of active duty members of the uniformed services.

To become eligible for this program, the dependent must have a serious physical handicap or be moderately or severely retarded mentally. Services authorized for these handicapped include: diagnosis; inpatient, outpatient and home treatment; training, rehabilitation and special education.

Institutional care is authorized in private nonprofit, public and state institutions and facilities, and when appropriate, transportation to and from such institutions and facilities.

The government's share of the cost of benefits provided each particular dependent under the handicapped program cannot exceed $350 per month.

The member pays a basic amount according to his pay grade plus any excess over his basic payment and the $350 paid by the government.

Dependents

When a member has two or more dependents incurring expense in a given month under the handicapped program, he will not be required to pay an amount greater than he would pay for one dependent under the program. Such a member will be charged on the basis of his dependent incurring the least expense under the program.

To qualify for benefits under the handicapped program, public facilities must be used to the extent they are available and adequate. For services in other than public facilities the sponsor or other responsible family member must obtain a statement from a public official that the services are not available in public facilities.

This statement must be attached to the claim for services provided by private facilities.

Accident picture is good despite increase of boats

Today one of America's fastest growing recreational activities is boating. Nearly forty million people use about eight million boats for fun and relaxation.

Small craft of all types are regularly piloted by weekend sailors without mishap. Any boater, old or novice, who is well informed can use his boat safely.

When you consider the fantastic increase in pleasure boating in the past few years, the accident picture is surprisingly good.

The reason for this is quite simple. Most pleasure boaters have found that their enjoyment is greater if they are safety-conscious. They have learned that safety—people get more done and have more fun.

Basic Rules

Once you learn the basic rules of safe boating, you can put them in practice. Knowing and using a few simple rules of water safety provides you with peace of mind.

It heightens the pleasure in boating and you know that your family and friends are in safe hands your boat.

If you take them out in your boat.

The rules of safe boating are based on common sense — anyone can learn them. The security they provide is well worth the effort.

Learn what you need to make your boat safe. Learn how to handle your boat safely.

Learn what to do in any emergency. Provide appropriate life jackets for all passengers. Instruct them in emergency procedures.

Learn the rules of the nautical traffic signs and road. Learn to recognize signals.

If you are a novice boater, or an old pro who feels that your boating knowledge, take a boating course.

Here in our area the U.S. Power Squadron offers a free course conducted at the Naval Reserve Training Center.

On Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Virgil F. Koart of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will conduct a courtesy boat inspection at the Fort Benning marina.

The Chatahochee River below the small animal cemetery on 10th Division Street.

Boats up to 65-feet will be inspected. There is no charge and deficiencies will be reported. The Coast Guard representative will simply inform you whether your boat meets safe boating standards.

Inspections will be held at the marina on following Sundays until the need is satisfied.

Loyd School Students Conduct Physical Education Play Here

Rag dolls, little farmers, Indians, bat men, and butterflies took over the playground at Loyd School last week.

All was in fun, however, as the school students presented their physical education play-activities day program for parents and guests.

The program, started with a flag ceremony by students from Girl Scout Troops 261 and 76, and Boy Scout Troop 217.

The students then performed marches, dances, tumbling acts and races for their audience.

Mrs. Trower Honored at Artillery Luncheon

Mrs. Paul G. Trower was honored with a farewell luncheon given by the officers' wives of 2nd Artillery, 197th Infantry, recently.

The 24 ladies, including Thomas Patrick, Mrs. Richard W. Cunningham and Mrs. Patrick J. Donovan.

Guests present included Mrs. Thomas Miller, Mrs. Ronnie Shelley, Mrs. Ellen Lehman and Mrs. James Bussolanti.

Missile Group Feted at Party

The officers and ladies of 2nd Missile Bn. (LJ), 42nd Artillery, held a hall and farewell party recently at the Curtis home of 2nd Lt. and Mrs. Clyde F. Stewart.

New arrivals, CWO and Mrs. Jim Willis, were welcomed by Lt. Col. Herbert H. Martin, the battalion commander. Mr. Willis recently returned from Vietnam.

Farewells were said to 1st Lt. and Mrs. James I. Wenlock. Wenlock will attend the Defense Information School, Fort Benjamin Harris, Ind., prior to his departure for a Vietnam assignment.

Martin also welcomed Miss Rita Burns, a guest of 2nd Lt. Larry Kues.

Also leaving the group and receiving charms were Mrs. William H. Murdaugh, Mrs.

Also attending were several former members of the group who drove up from Fort Rucker, Ala. They included Mrs. John Vaughn, Mrs. Cecil Black, Mrs. James Jenson and Mrs. Robert Bunting.

95th OC Wives Stage Luncheon at Main Club

"April Showers" sprinkled the wives of the 95th Co., 8th Stu. Bn. (OC), at a recent luncheon at the Main Officers' Club.

Colton rain clouds emitted bitter raindrops on sky blue place cards.

The wives, nevertheless, were prepared for the rain, with raincoat-shaped name tags and programs.

Colored flowers decorated the tables.

Coffee Staged By MP Wives

The wives of the Military Police held their monthly coffee recently at the home of Mrs. Alberto Graja Jr.

Refreshments of punch, various cakes and coffee were served. A farewell gift was given to Mrs. Stanley Roark as a remembrance of her stay here.

Plans were made by the group for a picnic at Callaway Gardens in July and a schedule was set up for working in the thrift shop.

Mrs. Houston W. Blackledge, who will host this month's coffee, was awarded a cheese board as a doozie.

Dinner Honors New MTU CO

The officers of the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit and their ladies welcomed their new commanding officer and his wife, Col. and Mrs. Robert F. Bayard, at a dinner served in their honor in the Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Club last Saturday night.

Honored guests were Col. and Mrs. Hubert S. Cunningham.

Arrangements were made by the pistol section, commanded by Maj. DeSaussure Bull.

Support Group Conducts Dine-In

An old tradition was revived recently when officers of the 16th General Support Group gathered to hold an official "dine-in."

It was the first "dine-in" to be held by the group since the unit was activated in the Dominican Republic last year.

Guest speaker was Lt. Col. Peter G. Fleming of the British Army. Colonel Fleming's topic dealt with the British Army and its worldwide deployment since World War II. Among the distinguished guests was Col. Lon D. Marlowe Jr., commanding officer of the Infantry Center Troop Command.

Sergeant Major Retains Desire to Learn 'Trade'

The sergeant major of the Army, Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldrige, recently demonstrated that the soldier's military education is never completed.

By enrolling in the Army Extension Program of the Infantry School here he has become one of the many thousands of students seeking to improve their military education through self study.

Troops Respond With Self-Help To Improve Lot

The program of instruction for this particular course, Infantry senior noncommissioned officer career course, is varied.

It is oriented toward the duties of the operations sergeant and includes such subjects as unit readiness, communications, and airmobile operations. Also included are a number of subcourses prepared by other service schools.

Inclusion of these subcourses has been emphasized by the Command and General Staff College as necessary to insure readiness for participation in advanced correspondence study for operations sergeants and sergeants major at that school.

NAMED TO COMMITTEE
WASHINGTON: D. C. Three new members have been appointed to the Georgia State advisory committee to the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights. It was announced by William L. Taylor, staff director of the commission.

Museum Here Is Given Collection by Colonel

Col. Bob Edwards, deputy commander of the Army Training Center, who recently left here for duty in Vietnam, has left the Fort Benning Infantry Museum a legacy from another war.

He donated to the museum his collections of German automatic rifles, pistols, helmets, packs, bayonets, awards and decorations and gas masks.

Col. Edwards collected the items while he was commanding officer of the 68th Arm. Inf. Bn (Sep.) of the 1st Airborne Div. in Europe during World War II.

Col. David M. Bull, The Infantry School's headquarters commandant, presented Col. Edwards with a certificate of appreciation for the donation.

James W. Cheevers, curator, says that the gift almost doubles the museum's German World War II collection.

Col. Edwards said, "The items might have been in even better condition if my sons hadn't enjoyed playing with them for years."

ARMY'S NEWEST ... Making its first public appearance, the U.S. Army's AH-56A—a radically new winged combat rotorcraft—was unveiled last week at the Van Nuys plant of the Lockheed-California Company. With a top speed of more than 250 mph, the AH-56A will be nearly twice as fast as current combat helicopters in Vietnam. This is the first of 10 prototypes Lockheed is building for the U.S. Army Aviation Materiel Command. The combat version of the vertical takeoff and landing AH-56A will escort troop-carrying helicopters and direct fire support missions. The large bubble canopy will give the two-man crew wide visibility. The heavily armed but agile aircraft—called a compound because it has fixed wings and helicopter rotor blades along with a gas turbine engine—will be able to dash suddenly from its concealment to fire on surprise targets and then return to its escort position. It will be able to make a complete turn in a radius far less than that of present combat helicopters and in less time. The Lockheed-designed rigid rotor aircraft is approximately 53 feet long, has a 27-foot wing span, and a 50-foot rotor blade diameter. Design gross weight is 16,995 pounds. Seated in the AH-56A are Lockheed engineering test pilots Herman Salmon and Don Segner (front), scheduled to make the initial flight later this year.

Army Wants Applications

The U.S. Army Recruiting Command is seeking applicants for recruiting duty. Openings exist for both men and women in grades E-5 through E-7 in most areas of the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. All men must have completed at least six years of service, while all women must have served at least three years. The required general technical aptitude area score must be 110 or higher and the applicant must be a high school graduate or have a general education development test equivalent. A valid civilian or Army driver's license is also required. For the best chance of being accepted, applicants should submit their requests on DA Form 1960 at least six months prior to rotation to the continental United States. Any questions regarding qualifications should be brought to the attention of unit personnel officers or career counselors.

With Legion 10 Years

French Liaison Officer Sees Trainees

A veteran of the French Foreign Legion and post-World War II action in French Indochina has had his first look at U. S. Army trainees in Col. Ben H. Ward's 1st Brigade of Fort Benning's Basic Training Center. Lt. Col. J. J. E. Guegot, French military liaison officer to the Infantry Center, toured training areas and rifle ranges observing 1st Brigade trainees, then talked about basic training in the Foreign Legion. A Legionnaire enlists for five years and takes 22 weeks of basic training that covers individual and unit training which is similar to the skills the American soldier learns when he is assigned to his first Regular Army unit.

In addition, he must learn to speak French. The equivalent of Advanced Individual Training is also contained in the six-month basic period. Guegot's tour of the Training Center began with a briefing by Lt. Col. Robert M. Leon, 1st Brigade executive officer. Leon presented the French officer with a Training Center unit crest, then guided his tour of the Malone training range complex where they viewed recruits in combat fire training. Guegot was graduated from the French military school, Ecole Speciale Militaire de St. Cyr in 1940 when he received his commission. With Legion Since then he has served for more than 10 years with the Legion. In World War II, he was assigned to the Submarine Company (Motorized) during the Tunisian Campaign in Algeria. During this time he made his first airborne jumps with the 501st Parachute Regiment at Blida, Algeria, and earned a parachutist badge. In 1946-48, he served with the Legion in French Indochina and in the Algerian crisis between 1952-62.

Fund Campaign Donations Hit 98.3 Per Cent At Post

By Spec. 4 Larry Mahoney
A two-day avalanche of contributions boosted Fort Benning's campaign for the National Health and Interest Post dependent schools, national Service agencies to within a fraction of its goal as the six-week drive closed last week. The last-minute donations, spurred by a civilian and military payday, pushed post contributions to 98.3 per cent of all personnel. It was just short of the full participation sought. Capt. Grady F. Tittle Jr., project officer for the campaign, was pleased with the results, praising 38 units and sections that hit or went above the 100 per cent mark. Topped, 1966 He noted that $43,761.58 was collected for the 12 National Health and four Interest national Service organizations participating in the annual Federal Services campaign. This compared to last year's $35,995.

Title cited the following sections and organization for meeting the 100 per cent goal: Post dependent schools, safety section, civilian personnel, headquarters commandant, director of intelligence, chaplain, director of range control, central post fund, Army Community Services, educational development, director of logistics, reserve components, supply center and comptroller. Also, Marksmanship Training Unit, Infantry Human Research, Finance and Accounting, American Red Cross, Lawson Army Aviation, supply control and storage, central post fund, maintenance section, NCO open mess, Special Services, dental section, information office, 10th Aviation and the Main Officer's open mess.

To Increase Professional Knowledge Aviation Group Starts 'School of the Soldier'

A School of the Soldier, newly organized by the 10th Aviation Group, welcomed its first students last week at classrooms in the 27th Avn. Bn. area.

On hand to present a welcoming and dedicatory address to the first class of 50 enlisted men was Sgt. Maj. Wade J. Vandeman, group sergeant major.

The school has been organized to increase the professional military knowledge of noncommissioned officers and other selected enlisted men assigned to the group.

A manual written for the school explains the two main reasons for its creation.

Normally, noncommissioned officers and enlisted men, the manual reads, have not received sufficient instruction, nor have obtained sufficient experience to be thoroughly familiar with all subjects required of them in their military environment.

This is usually caused by specialized, skill assignments which enlisted men go into soon after earning a military occupational specialty (MOS).

The second reason cited in the manual is that airborne operations and the great variety of operations common in modern warfare require a large number of potential leaders.

Soldiers at the school will be trained in subjects important to a military leader. The school will provide 192 hours of instruction in a four-week period.

Some of the subjects to be taught include military courtesy, weapons, drill and ceremonies and leadership. Most of the subjects are of a combat nature. These include patrolling, first aid, also the officer-in-charge of adjustment of artillery fire, the school.

Benning Craft Shop Hosts Crafts Workshop May 1-5

Fort Benning Craft Shop No. 1 hosted the Third U.S. Army Personnel Crafts Workshop held here May 1-5. Thirty-five recreation specialists in arts and crafts from all Third Army installations gathered at the craft shop for instruction in the construction and casting of jewelry using silver.

The instructors were given lectures and shown films and slides on the making of jewelry.

Projects Designed After demonstrations in the projects of their own design, Dennis E. Allen, staff crafts director, Craft Shop No. 1, said jewelry making is popular with the soldiers because of its low cost and the fact that he can use the end product.

Republic of Korea Plans First Aviation Company

Fifteen Republic of Korea (ROK) officers who will organize their nation's first combined helicopter and fixed wing aviation company are undergoing rotary wing instruction at two U.S. Army posts.

The new ROK element will be formed in Vietnam shortly after the men complete the training. The officers, who range from first lieutenants to majors, began with a special rotary-wing qualification course at the U. S. Primary Helicopter School, Fort Weller, Tex.

They will complete their training with a special instruction course in the UH-1D helicopter at Fort Rucker, Ala. Each of the 15 had previously logged at least 300 hours flying time in fixed wing aircraft.

Six of the men began training in the United States in February, the remainder in March. Six other Korean officers trained last month at the U. S. Army Primary Helicopter School in preparation

Fort Benning Salutes WAC on 25th Anniversary

Story By Spec. 5 Juanita Coates

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the Women's Army Corps on May 14, will be observed by the Fort Benning WAC Company, and other Army in-stations throughout the United States and overseas where WACs are serving.

The Center Troop Command WAC Company here will have an open house from 9 - 11 a.m. today. Women assigned to the company will bring as their guests the officers and non-commissioned officers in charge of the sections to which they are assigned for duty.

The WAC drill team, under the direction of Staff Sgt. Goldie M. Doss, will perform in the company area at 10 a.m.

Capt. Jane D. McCoy of Charleston, S. C., is the commander of the company. The first sergeant is Helen M. Leonard of New Monmouth, N. J.

Forty-four of the 119 enlisted women in the company are assigned in the medical and dental field, serving as laboratory, X-Ray, dental and medical technicians. Others work in the administrative field as clerk-typists, stenographers, finance and personnel clerks. Other jobs filled by WACs are in communications, supply, data processing, public information, food service and Army air operations support.

There are presently 13 WAC officers serving in various jobs and units at Fort Benning.

In 1967, the woman in uniform is a familiar sight in most Army posts. No one is surprised to see a young woman in Army Green performing her duties, shopping in the Post Exchange or attending the movies, service clubs and other facilities on post.

DESIGNED FOR GRENADEIER TRAINING
Designated XM-52 With Fuse XM-225 for Testing

Practice Hand Grenade Infantry Board Schedules Tests on Training Device

A practice hand grenade, simulating the weight, configuration and functioning characteristics of the fragmentation hand grenade M26A2, fused with the impact - time fuse, M217, is scheduled for service test by the U.S. Army Infantry Board (USAIB) soon.

The grenade, designated XM52, is a modified version of the practice hand grenade, M20. The fuse is designated practice impact fuse, XM225.

The grenade is armed in the same manner as current pyrotechnic delay fused grenades. However, after the safety lever separates from the grenade and fuse, there is a 1-second delay in the arming of the fuse.

Impact Detonating.

After the 1-second arming delay, the fuse detonates upon impact, if thrown with sufficient force.

These characteristics permit the grenade to be thrown a safe distance from the thrower before the fuse is armed and the impact - functioning feature prevents the grenade from being picked up and being thrown back at the grenadier, or if thrown uphill or similar elevation, it will not roll or bounce back towards the thrower.

In the event there is no impact, or if for any reason there is no impact - functioning, the fuse has an overriding (self-destruct) time feature that causes detonation in 4 - 5 seconds after arming.

When detonated, the XM225 fuse produces noise and smoke, and is expected to be comparable to the practice hand grenade, M20, with practice hand grenade fuses, M205, in safety characteristics.

The fielding of this item will close a gap in training devices needed by the Army in grenade training.

Units Begin Month-Long Field Training Program

The 242nd Avn. Co., 10th Avn. Group, along with its 51st Med. Det. and 621st Trans. Det. left for field training at McKenna Helipoint last week.

The operation will give each man of the relatively new company a chance to familiarize himself with his duties under simulated combat conditions.

The men will receive on-the-job training in related military occupational specialties and will work together as a team for the first time since the 242nd was organized.

The operation will also serve as a refresher training period for the company's aviators, most of whom have combat experience in the Republic of Vietnam.

LIGER?

About 800 children from Northern Utah attended birthday party last week in Salt Lake City. The party was held at Eagle Zoological Gardens for Shasta the liger, who marked her 19th birthday. She is the world's only known liger—a cross between a male lion and a female tiger.

Approval Given Wear of Medal

U.S. Army personnel may now accept and wear the Republic of Vietnam's highest military decoration, the Armed Forces Honor Medal, 1st and 2nd Class. The government of the Republic of Vietnam recently changed the name and nature of the medal, thus bringing it under the provisions of Public Law 89-257, a law which permits United States personnel to accept and wear Vietnamese decorations. Previously the medal was called the Republic of Vietnam Medal of Honor. (ANF)

Open House to Highlight Armed Forces Day Here

By Al Spratley
 Armed Forces Week observed May 14-20 nationally and overseas wherever U.S. troops are stationed, again will culminate with an Open House at Fort Benning on May 20.

Major Gen. Robert H. York, Fort Benning commander, has issued an invitation to all residents of the Chattahoochee Valley area to visit the House at Fort Benning on May 20, a.m. and 5 p.m. for a first-hand look at the highly trained Infantryman and his equipment.

Armed Forces Week will be observed in this county, which Columbus Mayor Ed Johnson and city council members will take part in the observance Monday at 8 p.m. at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium.

Gen. York also has urged that military and civilian personnel from the area join in this colorful ceremony which Columbus Mayor Ed Johnson and city council members will take part in the observance Monday at 8 p.m. at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium.

As in the past, adequate parking and bleacher facilities will be provided close to the display and demonstration areas on York and Sigant Center.

CTC Earns Minuteman Bond Award

With 447 of its members participating in the U.S. Savings Bond program, the Infantry Center Troop, commanded by Lt. Col. J. D. Marlowe, CTC, has earned a Minuteman Bond Award for the first time.

The award was presented to the command by Major Gen. York, Fort Benning commander, during the period February 1966-February, 1967.

The command was also presented with the Secretary of the Army United States Army Savings Bond Award for the first time.

The award was presented to the command by Major Gen. York, Fort Benning commander, during the period February 1966-February, 1967.

Post Chaplains to Offer Dial-A-Prayer Service

Dial-a-Prayer telephone service will be inaugurated here Monday. For those in need of comfort or spiritual support whether military or civilian, on-post or off-post, the 24-hour prayer service is available as their telephones, by dialing 545-P-R-A-Y-E-R. The letters in the word "prayer" preceded by the Fort Benning exchange number, are identical to 545-7722.

Purchased with money from the Post Chaplain's Fund, the dial-a-prayer machine has been installed at the Infantry Center Chapel section. Chaplain (Col.) J. R. Andrews, post chaplain, said, "Our purpose in arranging for the dial-a-prayer service is to provide inspiration and reassurance to anyone who might need it at any time of the day or night."

The dial-a-prayer equipment is the same type as that used by weather and business centers, Chaplain Andrews said. The prayers, however, will be original, recorded by various chaplains here. Each

CAMERA ANGLES

Special Services has let it be known that the business of mounting a photograph on a slide is a problem, but not an insurmountable one. For those who do not own a dry-mounting press, a Kitcher iron and Kodak dry mounting tissue works well.

Track tissue

Be sure to tack the tissue to the center of the back of the photo before positioning and be sure to use a lint-free press cloth and a warm, not hot, iron. Rubber cement works fairly well also but may bulge slightly if one of the entrance prerequisites is unfulfilled.

This year there will be a prize given locally for the best picture story. This is an innovation for this competition and welcome one. The basis for its continued existence may very well be the amount of interest generated—and this means the number of entries. For full details on the contest, see or call Special Services.

Bernheim Clinic to Be Site Of Dental Assistant Exams

Bernheim Dental Clinic will be the site for examinations by the certifying board of the American Dental Assistants Association tomorrow.

The officials will administer qualifying written and oral examinations to individuals who have completed a 104-hour course of instruction and who have had two field training sessions.

OC Unit Scores Highest in 1967

The map reading competition, Company Operations Department, Infantry Center School, recently announced examination given on March 31st Co., 9th Stu. Bn. (OC), 30, had achieved the highest percentage of correct answers in the map reading and navigation examination.

Local applicants for certification received their technical instruction at Columbus College where the certification course was sponsored by the Western District Dental Assistant Society and dentists of the community.

Chairman for the examination is Army dentist Col. Robert Y. Whitcomb, executive officer for the U.S. Army Dental Unit here and chief of Bernheim Clinic.

He will be assisted by Mrs. Marilyn Andrews, CDA, and Columbus dentists Dr. Robert Smith, Dr. Thomas Crymes, Dr. Charles Lewis, Dr. Gophus Thomason and Dr. Fred Miller.

Mrs. Wanda Dell DeCarur, a member of the National Certification Board, will be present for the day-long examinations. She is president-elect of the Dental Assistants Association.

More Than 215 Institutions OK In Georgia for Users of GI Bill

ATLANTA—More than 215 institutions of higher education throughout Georgia are now approved for veterans' training, Pete Wheeler, director of the Georgia Department of Veterans Service, said today. Under the approval list are:

Three-Week Course Established For New, Non-Flying Warrants

FORT SILL, Okla. (ANP)—A three-week orientation course will be established here this summer for newly appointed, non-pilot U.S. Army warrant officers. The Fort Sill course stems from a recommendation by the Department of the Army Board to Review Army Officer Schools (Haines Board). Pilot warrant officers already receive this orientation as part of their pre-flight training.

Action Is Taken To Hasten Mail

Starting this month, mail sent to United States servicemen in the Far East will be speeded up. About half of the huge volume of space available mailed referred to as SAM mail now going through San Francisco to Vietnam and other points in the Far East, will be diverted to the Seattle post office. This will relieve congestion in San Francisco and prevent delay of any letters, cards, recorded messages, newspapers, magazines, and parcels weighing up to five pounds, prepared at surface files, and addressed to servicemen and women overseas. There will be no change in the way mail is addressed to servicemen in the Far East.

Each school is checked regularly and each veteran training program is supervised by the department. Wheeler said there are now almost 9000 veterans and war orphans in Georgia in the Veterans' Education program and more than 100,000 more who are eligible. He said of the estimated 800,000 servicemen who were discharged nationwide next year, 84 per cent will be trained under the educational program. Georgia will have its proportionate share of this number. Wheeler said the new GI Bill making all post-Korean War veterans eligible for higher education assistance is one of the most important pieces of legislation ever passed by Congress. He urged every veteran who might be eligible for training under VA educational assistance programs to investigate his possibilities. He said, "With the emphasis being placed today on higher education, our veterans should take advantage of every means of gaining vital educational training."

197th vs TSB Baseball Season To Open Monday

Fort Benning major command baseball teams will begin their season Monday at Gowdy field. The 197th Infantry Brigade and TSB will clash in the opener starting at 7:30 p.m. with Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, or his representative scheduled to throw out the first pitch. Music will be provided by the 282nd Army Band. Refreshments will be available at the stadium. There will be no admission charge.

In a recent interview with Roger F. Dillard, post-baseball commissioner, plans for the coming season were outlined. "We have five teams this year," Dillard said, "and a 32 game schedule." Center Troop Command, 10th Aviation Group, and Martin Army Hospital are the other teams in the league.

Rain Limits YAC Action To 2 Games

Rain limited YAC inter-debate baseball action as only two games were played last week. In the first game of the week, the White Sox downed the Golden Pits by a score of 7-4. Sox pitcher Cliff Grubbs threw five strikeouts enroute to the victory. First pitcher Gus McLeod recorded eight strikeouts and allowed only four hits in the effort.

Ken Bradshaw and Bill Rickett were defensive standouts for the Sox. And Robert Santis and Richard Cummings were their leading hitters. Perry Lopez and Tim Thornton were the night leading sluggers. Outfielder Doug Crum played an excellent defensive game, hauling in several fly balls.

The Hurricanes scored their fifth straight win by defeating the Red Barons in the second game played last week. Pitcher Bobby Combs hauled a 14 strikeout no hit ball game letting only four batters reach first. Combs also helped win his own ball game as he banded out a double and two home runs in three trips to the plate.

Other leading hitters for the Hurricanes were John Horne, Clark Wilson, and David Wisdom. Davis Franklin and J. Harndy rounded out the mound for the Barons.

YAC Sending Swim Teams To Atlanta

Members of Fort Benning's YAC Swim Team will travel to Atlanta tomorrow to compete in a pair of distance swim meets for their fourth outing of the 1967 season. Senior swimmers on the team will attend the Georgia Distance Development Meet at the Chandler Murphy Pool.

The younger swimmers, 11 and under, will compete in a similar meet at the Forest Park Recreational Area in Southern Atlanta. The 1500-meter freestyle open and relays, 400-and-900-meter relays, and 100-meter relays in length, will be the featured events at both meets.

Senior girls' competition in the freestyle category will get underway at 9 a.m., boy's freestyle at 11 a.m. Relays will begin at 1 p.m.

Members on the senior team include Patty O'Neill, Sari Wise, Barb Johnson, Cynthia Gorman, Jarge Wahler, Wayne Wahler, Ken Bergquist, Bill Jones and Randy Peixoto.

Those competing in the 11 and under age group are Ken Rose, Lester Wahler, Larry Swank, Ken Sanders, Bob Palumbo, Jim Wise, Cynthia Rose, Laura O'Neill, Doty O'Neill, Anne Daley and Lora Robnett.

Spring Horse Show Pulls Hundreds at French Field

Fort Benning's Hunt Club staged its fifth annual Spring horse show on French polo field last week end. Hundreds gathered on the main post turf to watch the alomoms, bays, blue roans, chestnuts and others walk, trot and jump under the guidance of horsemen of all ages. The event, aimed at appealing to the all but vanished traditions of military horsemanship, was colored by the and Tippetary, Tongo and Wayward Whim, Infantry and Colonel, Plum Duff and Tam.

Tumbling, Hospital Enough To Keep Jack Holden Busy

Equipment. All you need is a little space to work in—and guts. Tumbling does have its drawbacks, in the form of broken bones, Holden says. "Between the hospital and tumbling—it takes up all my time." Current Holden hobbles to class. He broke his foot Easter Sunday while tumbling on Sightseeing Field.

Holden is an expert tumbling artist who likes to practice on the spur of the moment. The first requirement, Holden says, is "You've got to be a tumbler; it's 'You've got to be crazy.'" Holden began his unusual career while in high school at New Bedford, Mass., where he studied gymnastics and earned three letters.

Subsequently he was an acrobatic cheer leader at Worcester Junior College, a tumbling instructor at the New Bedford YMCA, and an instructor at the House of Champions, a tumbling school in New Bedford.

Holden also worked for a carnival for two years. Holden points out that tumbling has an important advantage over other sports activities. Tumblers do not need

The Observer

—by Larry Mahoney—

I'm sitting uncomfortably here not typing, U. S. Army Remington, typewriter holding a pen, and doing my best to figure out a lead-in to a set of sports statistics from which I'll draw another weekly column with which I'll begin an introduction begins to form in the dark recesses of my gray matter. . . . Daylight Saving Time. Why not?

Fort Benning, keeping up with the rest of the country, meddled with Time itself to give the troops an extra hour of daytime. Now lots of people like this, so don't mind me if my attitude toward DST is one of fierce dislike. A traditionalist, I'm bugged when the sun doesn't bow out until 9 p.m., and when the segment rolls me out of my bunk at 5 a.m. I know it's really only 4. It really bothers me.

But for sports, DST is just great. There should be a considerable increase in outdoor recreational activities here this summer. Take golf. Golfers can tee off at 9 o'clock and play a full 28 holes before the bats and wickets take over. Fishermen, yes there are fish at Fort Benning, should get something out of the change, too.

Really, the only value of this DST evident to me is that it might, just might, spur participation in outdoor sports. A busy soldier is a happy soldier, the old DI saying has it, and I guess this is true even if the soldier is busy with softball, golf or any other recreational activity.

Now to vault into a snappy rendition of my statistics, which, really, are quite enlightening.

According to The Athletic Institute, one of these non-profit organizations, this one devoted to the advancement of athletics, physical education and recreation, the most popular participant sport in America is catch this — cycling, with 59 million pedal-pumpers based on 1966 statistics.

Second is boating, 40,370,000 participants, and good old volleyball, a military standby, claims third place with an even 40 million. Camping, and I'm sure they do it even if the business of bivouac, pulls 37 million souls annually, and fishing is credited, with slightly less, 36,200,000.

Give golf 10,025,000 players, a surprising gain over the six million listed for the game only five years ago. Tennis, softball and soccer aren't even mentioned in my source.

Now for some good, non-strenuous figures on spectator sports. Get ready for another surprise. Horse racing is the leading attendance sport. Figures compiled for 1966 by Triangle Publications, Inc., show that thoroughbred drew 40,913,694 and the trotter turned in a total audience of 27,591,760.

Baseball follows the horses, with the majors filling 25,132,209 seats and minors like the Miami Mudcats, managing, somehow, to total 10,061,232. I suspect that figure is padded.

College football, with 25,275,899, packed its arenas with over three times the number of partisans present at the pro battles, 5,237,038 for the National League and 2,160,360 for the American League. You might throw in something called the Continental League, with franchises in cities like Huntsville, Ala., and a claimed attendance of 640,000. Post-season games pro and college combined, were witnessed by 1,124,436.

Basketball, of course, was a big one. The college quints played before 17,107,663. The professionals got 12,586,335.

To wind this up with more multi-digit figures to further boggle your taxed brain: The National Hockey League claimed 2,941,164; greyhound tracks, 11,120,283; boxing, 39,883,000; wrestling, 4,630,000; auto racing, 39,330,000 (oops, that should have been higher in the story); soccer, 2,500,000; and track and field, 2,900,000.

Post Invited Track Meet Is Set At Fort Campbell

Military athletes at Fort Benning have been invited to participate in the fifth annual Commanding General's Invitational Track and Field Meet to be held at Fort Campbell, Ky., May 27.

Since 1963, this event has drawn some of the great college and military track stars of the country to inspire good sportsmanship and to determine workhorses of aspiring Olympic athletes.

The events scheduled for the meet include the 100-yard dash, the 440-yard dash, the mile run, the 220-yard dash, the 440-yard hurdles, the 800-yard run, the 440-yard relay, the two mile run, the one mile relay and the 120-yard hurdles.

Also the broad jump, the high jump, the shot put, the hammer throw, the discus throw, the javelin throw, the pole vault and the hop, step and jump event.

The team from Fort Benning will be allowed four men in each event, except in the relays, limited to one team from here.

The "W" spike may be worn for all events except the javelin throw. The length of 9-16" spike may be worn for this event.

Applicants from the units of Fort Benning are urged to contact the major Special Services sports office at 345-9004 for detailed information.

Entry deadline for Fort Benning participants is May 25.

Helping to accentuate the 25th anniversary of the WAC, Maj. Sally Carroll, twice national woman pistol champion, went out to the pistol range with her new .22 and fired an amazing 891.

In Mexico, Lt. Margaret Thompson, world's woman standard rifle champion, fired scores that did count to lead the U.S. International rifle team to its first two wins in their training matches for the Pan-American Games and the 1968 Olympics. It has a right to be — three of its members are WACs, all champions.

Lt. Thompson won the English and the 3-position match with 596 and 1515, respectively.

Then Staff Sgt. Barbara Hile, the 1966 national woman rifle champion, put together the highest aggregate score ever fired in her life with the .22, center fire and 45 caliber pistols.

The rifle and pistol teams are proud of their WACs and the trio is just as proud of the Women's Army Corps.

Champ Cited By Mexicans

The Mexican shooting team awarded Lt. Margaret Thompson a medal for being the outstanding American shooter at their training matches last month.

Lt. Thompson started out by winning the English prone match and the three position event.

In a repeat of the English match she slipped to 7th place. However, in the three position match she came back strong for a second place and then in the final English Match her 591 was only good for sixth place.

When the scores were added up Margaret was leading by two points.

Her aggregate of 4083 out of 4200 is considered excellent shooting, especially because it was fired at an altitude of 7400 feet where the rarified atmosphere is said to require acclimation of shooters.

OC Nets Ice Skating Fame After Roller Rink Beginning

All his life Michael L. Mullenix, now the Tulsa Co. (OC), was fascinated by ice skating.

Since there was no ice rink in his home town, Mullenix learned his skating skills in dance skating and joined the local roller rink and went to United States Olympic School to hold two national ice skating titles.

Professional skating came in 1960, at the age of 18, at a high price. His skating wheels amounted to $116.

He started his ice skating career with Nancy Powell at Marion Skating Club, Marion, Ind., and placed 14th at his first meet.

In 1962 the team of Powell and Mullenix captured a tri-state championship, a state championship, and later a U. S. championship.

The next year Nancy started college, so Mullenix started skating with a former champion, Rene' Auberry, who was 14 times United States champion.

Running boar competition will feature two world shooting championships, medals, Staff Sgt. John Kingster and Staff Sgt. Edmund Moeller. Kingster is considered the best running bear shooter in the United States.

The trap and skeet team, headed by Maj. Thomas Gilmore and coached by veteran M. Sgt. Max Quick, will be gold medal in figure skating.

The two started practicing for the world championships and then duty called Mullenix. As of now his skating career is at a standstill but he hopes to continue it and pass the sport on to his three children.

His next partner was Ingrid McManis who holds a gold medal in figure skating.

They will defend their 1966 sweep of the team matches and the six individual wins.

The pistol team has M. Sgt. William Blankenship, world champion center fire shot, backed up by Ralph Thompson; Lawrence Mosely, Robert Whitacre, Merriweather Jones, Earlend Reynolds and many others.

They will be shooting for wins in the free pistol, rapid fire and center fire individual and team matches.

Last year Blankenship and Mosely shared victories in the free pistol and rapid fire matches respectively.

Army Shooting Team to Defend Title In All-Service International Matches

Last year's tournament was dominated by Army teams that won seven of nine team matches and eight of the 12 individual events.

This year, even though such big guns as Lones Wigger and John Foster are serving in Vietnam and William Krilling is lost to the team, the star-studded rifle team of world champion Lt. Margaret Thompson, Maj. Tommy Pool, Capt. Bruce Meredith and Staff Sgt. Martin Gunnarsson, along with three new hard shooting lieutenants, will be no pushover.

'Tiger Country' Tiger Teams Fly Banner At Youth Sports Events

By Pfc. Dennis Ray. "This is Tiger Country," these boys would lose out on sports because post schools have no competitive sports program," he said.

The Tiger team has proven that they are one of the best and at the final score, the area may well be declared "Tiger Country."

If you should happen to see this banner flying in one of the three major sports during the past year.

In football, both teams were runners-up for their respective championships. The Little League Basketball championships were gathered in by both teams. In baseball, the Tigers now have a +1 record.

The Tigers were formed about a year and a half ago, said. Many of the boys are dependents of men attached to Center Troop Command.

"YAC is a very good program," he said. "YAC activities help develop a program of sportsmanship activities."

Maj. Gerald C. Royal, S-3 Officer, CTR, assistant coach of the Tigers, said, "I don't believe any other team in Little League has a record which can equal the Tigers's."

The Tigers were formed about a year and a half ago, said. Many of the boys are dependents of men attached to Center Troop Command.

"YAC is a very good program," he said. "YAC activities help develop a program of sportsmanship activities."

Human Research Office Studies to Alter Training

The Army plans to revise Army service schools and the two training development pro- other helicopter pilots, as grants, one affecting the 26 result of studies compiled by the Human Research Office (HURRO) and other Army-affiliated agencies.

Objectives Set
MINERVA set performance objectives for each course with teaching at a pace best suited to each trainee.

HURRO, a component of George Washington University in Washington, D. C., is releasing a separate study conducting a separate study on whether Army instructors training material should focus on the different aptitudes of trainees or on the average aptitude level.

The second Army program which are being applied to daily Army programs.

Projects Accepted
USONARC alone lists as HURRO projects which became a part of Army operations during Fiscal Year 1966.

The research office has conducted research programs for the Department of the Army in the areas of training, motivation and leadership.

Its staff of about 265 persons, most of them experienced in the use of psychological techniques, work at Alexandria, Va., or at laboratories at Fort Ord, Calif., Fort Bliss, Texas, and Fort Rucker, Ala., and other HURRO projects Fort Benning, (ANP)

The WHIRLYMITE helicopter training device for instructing pilots at Fort Worth, Texas.

The idea evolved from a HURRO study and is expected to save the Army up to $400,000 in training per man for the WHIRLYMITE and its attached to a powered ground machine and provides air-borne senses associated with helicopters, enabling novices to practice maneuvers which would be unsafe for a trainee to attempt in an aircraft.

The WHIRLYMITE and new techniques at the 26 Knox, Ky.; Fort Bliss, Texas, schools are only two examples of HURRO projects Fort Benning, (ANP)

Visitors See Ranger Base

Fort Benning's mountain Ranger camp at Dalton, Ga., recently hosted Georgia's top-STAR students.

STAR stands for Student Teacher Achievement Recognition. The group included senior students selected on the basis of scholastic aptitude test scores and teachers of their choice.

The eight-day trip for students and teachers was arranged by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the annual STAR competition.

Aid is Offered State Veterans On Retirement

The Georgia Department of Veterans Service will assist veterans in planning for retirement, Pete Wheeler, department director, said today.

Practically all 65-year-old veterans meet the disability standard of eligibility for monthly VA pension payments. In addition to being disabled, the veteran must meet income limitations and have some wartime service to receive VA payments, Wheeler said.

Expert assistance is required in determining the disabled veteran's income because of the varied interpretations applied by the Veterans Administration to sources of money and assistance.

Veterans under age 65 who meet the disability requirement established by the VA may qualify for pension. Income also determines eligibility and the amount of monthly payments.

A disabled veteran, with no dependents, may be eligible for pension if his income is not more than $1000 annually. With dependents, the income limitation is $3000.

Fort Benning Welcomes Armed Forces Day Visitors

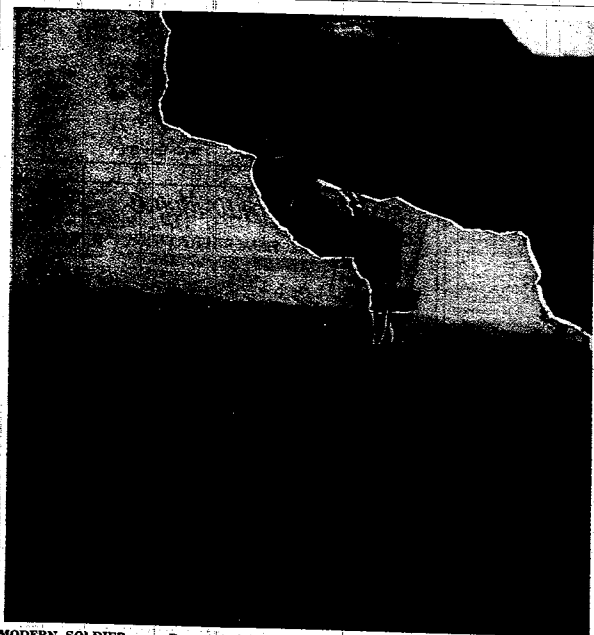

FORT BENNING, GEORGIA, HOME OF U.S. ARMY INFANTRY CENTER
 FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1967

VOL. 25, NO. 36

40 Pages - 10c

'Open House' Preparations Made

Bleachers are in place on York Field with a seating capacity of 4000 tanks and other heavy equipment items are being positioned and the midway is being prepared for the Armed Forces Day open-house program here all day tomorrow.
 During the past three years in which similar observances have been held, the number of visitors has averaged close to 10,000 and post officials are hoping for even more this year.
 Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, Fort Benning commander, has utilized all mass news media to convey his personal invitation to residents of the Chattahoochee Valley area to visit the post for "a first hand look at the Infantryman, his training and his equipment."
 The day's activities and displays along the midway will open at 9 a.m. and remain open to the public until 5 p.m.
 Parking for approximately 1600 cars will be available close to the main display areas on York and Sightseeing Fields facing Infantry Hall.

In addition to static displays, various departments will present demonstrations during the day, certain items of equipment will be available for testing and operation, children will be provided rides in jeeps and fire engines, blank ammunition may be fired from small arms weapons and from machine guns mounted in helicopters.
 As in previous years, the Student Brigade, (See Preparations, Page 2)

General to Visit

Gen. Paul D. Freeman, commanding general, U. S. Continental Army Command, will visit Fort Benning May 23-25.
 The general will be given military honors in a ceremony scheduled at 5:30 p.m. May 23. All Fort Benning military and civilian employees are invited to attend.
 The USCONARC commander will leave here at 8:30 a.m. next Friday.

Post Hosts 3 Local Groups During Week

Armed Forces Week, which started Monday night with the massing and dedication of the colors at Municipal Auditorium and which ends with an Open House here tomorrow, also served as a backdrop for visits by three local civic groups.
 Tuesday some 100 Kiwanis Club members departed the post for a visit with the 51st, 53rd and 56th Companies, 8th Stu. Bn. and 94th, 86th and 97th Companies, 8th Stu. Bn.

Candidate Escorts
 Each Kiwanian had an Officer Candidate as escort and luncheon partner in the company mess halls.
 Following lunch the visitors were taken to Wigle Hall where they were welcomed officially by Brig. Gen. (See Groups, Page 2)

MODERN SOLDIER ... Ranger training at Dahlgren camp, as demonstrated above by a veteran soldier, is one of the types of hard skills "man" is the center of attention and turning out a quality soldier to do a first-rate job wherever required is a year-round task at training centers such as Fort Benning. ### Groups

James S. Timothy, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, who invited the group, and Col. Ned B. Mabry, commander, The Student Brigade, a member of Kiwanis.

The visitors returned to Columbus following a briefing on the officer candidate program. That night, approximately 100 members of the Lions Club of Columbus and their wives had dinner and entertainment at the Main Officers Open Mess.

Ladies Night
Thursday, the annual Ladies Night meeting of the Citizens and Military Council was held at the Officers Club with Maj. Gen. Robert H. York as host.

Ladies Night is traditionally held at the post during Armed Forces Week.

It is the only nonbusiness meeting of the year for CMC which is composed of civic and military leaders who meet regularly each month to discuss matters pertaining to military personnel, their dependents and to foster good inter-community relationships.

Preparations

Refreshment stands will be operated by volunteers from the Youth Activities Club (YAC), and comfort stations will be readily available at the nearby Bowling Center and Main Services Club as well as at field installations.

Scout dog demonstrations will be conducted five times during the day. A public address system will keep the Senior Status Review

An Officer Candidate senior status review will be held at 11 a.m. The review, always a high point in the 23-week officer candidate training course, is conducted during each company's 18th week when they reach senior status and begin to wear the blue helmet liners and shoulder boards.

At 2 p.m., an Officer Candidate battalion will conduct a flag ceremony which will include the 50 state flags, Artillery battery and band.

This will be followed by an exhibition of sky diving. New to the open house program this year is the Chaplain's Section display of its recently inaugurated "Dial-a-Prayer" service. Available 24-hours-a-day to both the civilian and military communities, the service offers two short prayers when telephone.

Gold Star Wives
Also taking part for the first time will be members of the Gold Star Wives of Columbus, a recently chartered chapter of a national organization composed of widows of servicemen killed in Vietnam. They will operate information booths.

Grey ladies, volunteers who assist at Martin Army Hospital and Red Cross facilities, will work at the first aid station and conduct a lost and found service to include children, or parents, who may become lost or found.

The Judge Says...

Marriage can give minor binding power of an adult

Infants are defined in most states as all persons under the age of 21 years. However, in some states, one or both sexes attain the rights of adults upon marriage.

Society views the infant as one who needs protection from those adults who would take unscrupulous advantage of him in business dealings. The general rule is that infant's contracts, specified for necessities are voidable at his option—not void.

The infant may treat his contract as fully binding and the adult party to the contract will be bound.

Some states have statutes relating power to the infant to disaffirm his contract, but these statutes have limited application. Statutes in many states grant such power after arrival at 18-years-of-age or older, the power to bind them-selfs in certain specified legal transactions.

The law in Georgia states that contracts, promissory notes, conditional sales contracts and any other consensual transactions of a minor who is 18-years-of-age or older and married shall be as binding as though such minor had reached the age of 21.

The right of an infant to disaffirm his contract is based exclusively on his minority. Generally, the fact that a minor is well educated, experienced or acts like an adult does not enlarge upon his capacity to contract.

However, if the infant receives property or other benefit as a result of a contract, the infant is bound to return such property after arrival at the age of majority, he ratifies the contract and it is binding on him.

A more perfect union

The Constitution of the United States, which we are sworn "... to support and defend..." by our oath of enlistment or office is one of the most remarkable and influential documents in the history of the world.

Brief, as constitutions go, and incorporating only general provisions for the establishment and conduct of government, it has not only survived wars, depressions and political changes but has had a profound influence on the entire course of history and the peoples of the world.

In other lands, it has been often not only the inspiration, but the example for establishment of constitutional government and recognition of individual rights and dignity.

In our own country, it has carried us from an experiment in democracy by 13 states to the position of the most economically and industrially powerful democratic nation in the world.

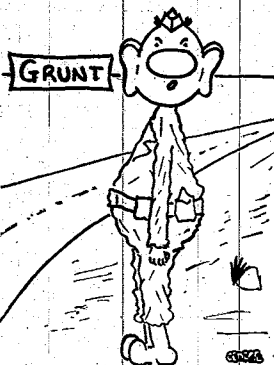

By the very nature of its brevity and general terminology, the Constitution of the United States has proven to be more flexible and durable than even its most optimistic framers might have hoped.

With remarkably few amendments or changes, the basic Constitutional framework has remained unchanged since it was signed Sept. 17, 1787 and finally ratified June 21, 1788.

The three co-equal branches of government, established by the framers of the Constitution, remain; each with powers, but with built-in restraints on those powers; each with powers to check the actions of the other two branches.

The powers and the system of checks and balances set forth in the Constitution have, for nearly 200 years, provided the continuity, vitality and flexibility which have served to preserve and strengthen our nation.

As members of the Armed Forces, we are guardians of a system and theory unequalled as the most influential and unimpeded political concept in the history of mankind. (AFNB)

No, THEY'RE NOT 'OLIVE DRAB PAJAMMS ONE EACH.'

Our banner of freedom

For generations, the American flag has been a symbol of liberty and has inspired men to great deeds and sacrifices.

On sandy beaches, along rugged hedgerows, high in the sky and on tumbled rolling seas millions of men of divergent backgrounds have fought for this flag and nation.

Today the American flag and its message of freedom has been carried to the steaming jungles of another far-off land.

Amid the strife of battle and the tensions of our world it might be well to reflect on the following words that call for respect and honor of the flag and the men who have died for it. "Born amid the first flames of America's fight for freedom, I am the symbol of a country that has grown from a little group of 13 colonies to a united nation of 50 sovereign states. Planted firmly on the high pinnacle of American Faith my gently fluttering folds have proved an inspiration to untold millions. "Men have followed me into battle with unwavering courage. They have looked upon me as a symbol of national unity. They have prayed that they and their fellow citizens might continue to enjoy the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness which have been granted to every American as the heritage of free men.

"So long as men love liberty more than life itself; so long as they treasure the priceless privileges bought with the blood of our forefathers; so long as the principles of truth, justice and charity for all remain deeply rooted in human hearts, I shall continue to be the enduring banner of the United States of America." ### Surgeon Says

Take precautions against summer sprains, strains

The first of a two part article in the previous issue dealt with the prevention and cause of minor warm weather injuries.

Now that hot weather is officially here, many of you are probably planning to take up a new sport, go on a big vacation or just get in shape. Warm weather activities bring many sprains, strains and other minor injuries which could be avoided if certain simple precautions were taken.

Muscle soreness is a frequent complaint of participants in the various sports activities. This soreness often can be attributed to overdoing an activity at the first of the Spring and could be avoided if the sportsman and gamer would begin slowly and then increase his activity or, better still, precede the activity with a few weeks of light conditioning exercises.

Year Round Program
Ideally, such a program should be year round. However, if the muscle soreness should occur one should not completely eliminate the activity, but rather "work out" the soreness with light exercise similar to those which caused the soreness.

Another frequent warm weather disability is the back ache. Some causes of this are overexertion, weeding and shoveling, lifting heavy objects and too vigorous participation in sports such as diving, camping, tennis and horse back riding.

Prevention of these back injuries is relatively simple if one follows certain rules.

First Rule
Rule one is, "break your knees and spare your back." For example, weeding a garden from a standing position puts a terrific strain on back ligaments and muscles. (Weeding should be done in a squatting or sitting position and it is a good idea to have a box to sit on while performing this chore.)

A second rule is to carry heavy objects close to the body thus eliminating excess strain on the back. Activities such as carrying require lifting and carrying of equipment. Whether the object is large or small one should squat to lift the load and carry it close to the body.

A third rule is to avoid unnecessary reaming and twisting. A good example of this is reaching over the back seat of the car for the picnic basket. (Part Two Next Week)

Bill is slowly shaping up for children's dental care

The present administration is preparing legislation designed ultimately to insure adequate dental care for all children. President Johnson expressed his views on this subject early in 1946.

He stated the Federal government's desire to assure necessary dental care for all youngsters before they enter school.

Present planning calls for the Federal government to set up 40 or 50 pilot projects. If parents could pay for their dental care, they would do so. If they could qualify as medically indigent, the government would pay the bills.

The American Dental Association, which supports this project, would prefer to have it handled by the Public Health Service while governmental sources wait

Post Girl Scouts Present Friendship Program Here

By Lynn Jones
In an afternoon ceremony at Marshall Auditorium Saturday, the Girl Scouts of Fort Benning presented a program in celebration of International Friendship. Flags from 83 countries belonging to the World Association of Girl Scouting provided the background for the pageant.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, who has received many honors and decorations throughout his military career, addressed the group. He presented a Girl Scout lapel pin noting his interest and support of Girl Scout activities here.

In his welcome address, Gen. York complimented the Girl Scouts for their excellent citizenship qualities, and for their own re-education program, saying that with future leaders who will uphold the concepts learned in Girl Scouting, he had no fear of "which way America would go."

The hostesses were Mrs. Hawley, Mrs. Donald E. Gonneville, Mrs. William C. Godfrey and Mrs. Michael Olson. Mrs. William Huff, representative of a Columbus florist, presented a floral demonstration.

Captain Judy Slaggs, a head nurse at Martin Army Hospital gave a talk and showed films about her experiences during her tour in Vietnam.

Mrs. Benjamin T. Kapp was welcomed as a new-comer.

Dear Community Service, I know my writing you may appear somewhat out of channels, but I need some information badly. I have just obtained a divorce from my husband, who is still in the Army, and I am wondering what military benefits our children are eligible to receive.

TSB Wives Are Guests At Hawaiian Luncheon

"Hawaiian Hospitality" was the theme for a Student Brigade wives luncheon held at the Main Officers Club. The centerpiece was Ad-hum, bird of paradise, with magnolia leaves and orchids on the tables. The stage was decorated with a map of the islands with the Hawaiian State Seal hanging above.

A luncheon of pineapple halves with fruit, tautau-glazed yams and coconut cake was served.

A narration of points in the islands was given by Mrs. Robert Douglas. Misses Patti and Debbie Smith, Kathy Ballou, Jackie Boyle and Donna Jones, dressed in tea leaf skirts, danced a hula to "Little Brown Gal".

A hula to "Hawaiian Hospitality" was danced by Mrs. Albert Sabitsch, Mrs. Lee Greene, Mrs. George Cressy, Mrs. Mark Jones, Mrs. Charles Boyle and Mrs. Robert Tarr. The flowers and costumes were flown in from Hawaii for the occasion.

Mrs. Edward J. Geaney presented Mrs. Ned B. Mabry with a farewell gift from the Student Brigade. Mrs. John S. Lekson was the honored guest.

Mrs. Charles Moore of the 7th Bn., 18th Art., was a special guest for the occasion. Welcomed into the battal-ion were newcomers Mrs. Homer Hammetter, Mrs. Richard Oullen, Mrs. William Menzel and Mrs. Gary Shamlin.

Farewells were said to Mrs. John Hendrix and Mrs. Buddy Allgood. Mrs. John Tominae presided over the business portion in which plans for the brigade coffee to be held in June were discussed.

84th Candidate Wives Hold Organizational Coffee

Recently the 84th Co. OC Wives' Club had an organizational coffee and the following guests were welcomed: Mrs. Ned B. Mably, Mrs. Oliver J. Williford, Mrs. Robert H. Stecker and Mrs. Donald C. Miller.

A May Pole surrounded by orange and blue streamers with multi-colored butterflies carried at the ends and magnolia blossoms strewn about during out a Spring motif.

Capt. John R. Miley gave a briefing on the Officer Candidate program and conducted a tour of the barracks.

Instructions on formal and informal invitations were given by Mrs. John R. Miley.

Wives of CTC Are Addressed By Alvin Davis

Alvin Davis, president of Mrs. David Sherrard, pass to Callaway Gardens by Callaway Gardens, Pine Mountain, Ga., was the guest speaker at the Infantry Center Troop Command Officers' Wives' Club monthly luncheon held last week.

The luncheon was held in the Corridor Room of the Main Officers' Club.

Davis discussed the entertainment, recreational opportunities and housing facilities at the Gardens.

The 16th General Support Group wives were hostesses for the luncheon meeting with Mrs. Andrew Anton presiding.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Hubert Cunningham and William B. Canion, hospital-ized with their husbands initials. Honored guests for the occasion were Mrs. Charles M. Mount Jr., Mrs. Ned B. Mably, Mrs. Wick J. Nikan, Mrs. Henry R. Thomas Jr., Mrs. Eric Chickelantz, Mrs. George W. Runyon, Mrs. Alexander Scaglione and Mrs. Leo J. Mercier.

"BOUDOIR BOUTIQUE" was the theme for the recent luncheon of the 64th Co. Officer Candidate Wives' Club.

Fashions made of towels, sheets and bedspreads were modeled in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers' Club.

An arrangement of pink ribbon, roses enhanced by miniature decorations of luncheon graced the head table and the remainder of the room.

Mrs. Herman D. Halterman presented each wife with a "Pushin' Hubby Through" diploma. Pinned to the diplomas were gold bars engraved with their husbands initials. Honored guests for the occasion were Mrs. Charles M. Mount Jr., Mrs. Ned B. Mably, Mrs. Wick J. Nikan, Mrs. Henry R. Thomas Jr., Mrs. Eric Chickelantz, Mrs. George W. Runyon, Mrs. Alexander Scaglione and Mrs. Leo J. Mercier.

"SUN - DAYS FASHIONS" entertained the wives of 64th Co. Officer Candidate Wives' Club II students and guests at their Spring Luncheon held recently in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers' Club.

Hostesses for the affair were the wives of the 4th Platoon and Mrs. James F. Youree.

Mrs. Ralph V. Moffett welcomed and introduced honored guests Mrs. Charles M. Mount, Mrs. David G. Sherrard, Mrs. William J. Higgins Jr., Mrs. G. J. Matzky, Mrs. Edward J. Geaney and Mrs. Martin J. Siominski. The tables, covered with cloths of pale gold, were decorated with orange, yellow and gold flowers made of terylene and cotton frangi. The fountain was also covered by flowers made by Mrs. Tomu Poomputi, Mrs. John L. Taylor, Mrs. Michael A. Tryon, Mrs. Charles J. Swanson, Mrs. Kenneth I. Toel and Mrs. Theodore R. Sucher III.

A display of bedspreads and towels was arranged. Mrs. David L. Troft introduced Mrs. Willard Miller, representative of a local military unit, who presented an array of outfits created from bath and bedroom fashions.

These outfits, which ranged from beach to formal wear, were modeled by Mrs. Richard F. Seibert, Mrs. Robert B. Thomas, Mrs. Moate B. Veal, Mrs. Donald F. Walden, Mrs. Donald L. Williamson and Miss Holly Seveik. Background music was provided by Mrs. Ralph B. Garrettson at the piano.

Welcoming hostesses were Mrs. Richard K. Seveik, Mrs. Suher, Mrs. John O. Turange, Mrs. William L. Wilson, Mrs. Patrick M. Franks, Mrs. James D. Williams and Mrs. Reinhard Schumann.

AN ORIENTAL COFFEE was held recently by the wives of 84d Co., 8th Stu. Bn. (OC), A May ba-ket, centered with a Maypole, surrounded by roses depicting "May Day" adorned the table. Chaplain (Capt.) James D. Hull gave a talk on the responsibilities and obligations of an officer candidate's wife. Following a talk on coffee and invitations by Mrs. Dennis M. Morris, Mrs. Wayne Davis demonstrated the proper form of writing an informal invitation having each member write an invitation to the next coffee. A brief talk about social activities, tips on dress and etiquette was also given by Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Oliver J. Williford, Mrs. Robert H. Stecker, Mrs. Louis B. Pinecock and Chaplain Hull were the honored guests.

Petticoat Portraits Mrs. Fischer Enjoys Trying New Things

By Jane Daniels
A beauty of her "Jean can do anything," "Jean," the petite redhead, does seem to be able to do anything she tries doing.

"Jean" is Mrs. Allen H. Fischer, chairman of the Non-commissioned Officers' Wives' Club ceramics shop, corresponding secretary of the NCO Wives' Club, and the club's bingo chairman.

As well, she is the beautician for her neighbors and is the busy mother for her two daughters, Kim, 7, and Audrey, 5.

"I do enjoy trying new things," she says. "Next I think that I would like to try oil painting. I especially enjoy doing projects with my hands."

"Artistic" is truly the word for describing Mrs. Fischer. All over her home are the works from her favorite hobby, ceramics.

She doesn't stop with merely pouring a mold and covering its surface with a glaze or a coat of paint. She strives to make every piece of her creative perfect in every detail.

Fine examples of this attention to detail are the porcelain cigarette set, a ceramic fruit compote and tiny porcelain dolls.

The compote, which sits on her dining table, looks as if it is made of hard rock maple. Only upon the closest inspection does one discover that it is a ceramic piece. To top it off, the three-tiered compote is filled with hand shaped pieces of fruit. It even includes a cluster of grapes, each individually shaped and tied to the center wire.

The extraordinary pieces, however, are her porcelain dolls. Their tiny faces delicately painted, the hair carefully molded of cotton wool and the dresses with little lace petticoats and velvet bows, are then covered with porcelain.

Also she has a hand-painted canister set.

Officers Installed At DUSA Lunch

Heads Test and Evaluation Command

Visitor Inspects Infantry Board

Maj. Gen. Ieland G. Cagwin, commanding general of the U. S. Army Test and Evaluation Command at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., visited the U. S. Army Infantry Board this week on an inspection tour.

The Infantry Board is a subordinate test activity of the Test and Evaluation Command.

Gen. Cagwin, a recent Vietnam visitor, was interested primarily in the conditions under which the testing of equipment by the board was being conducted.

During his visit, he emphasized the importance of conducting all tests under the most realistic manner possible and under comparable conditions as those expected to be encountered in combat.

The general arrived at Lawson Field Monday evening and spent Tuesday observing tests which were being conducted by the Infantry Board. He also inspected the ranges and test facilities which the Infantry Board utilizes.

Gen. Cagwin stressed the timeliness of testing — that all testing must have a sense of urgency in the development of new equipment to assure that our fighting men in the field receive the best equipment in the shortest interval of time.

Col. James I. Muir Jr., president of the Infantry Board, met the general upon his arrival and conducted him on his inspection of the test activity.

Gen. Cagwin left Fort Benning Wednesday morning for Fort Rucker, Ala., where he visited the Aviation Board, another facility of the Test and Evaluation Command.

Medical Service Corps Marks 50 Years of Service

Half a century of service was commemorated by Army Medical Service Corps (MSC) personnel here yesterday.

MSC officers at Fort Benning are engaged in duties ranging from pharmacy to optometry and include the administrative personnel at Marine Army Hospital and other units.

Col. William C. Ingersoll, executive officer of the hospital, while Col. Roy E. Brooks, chief of the supply and service division.

Each section has established requirements for applicants. Regulations regarding age, medical fitness, security clearance and leadership potential are uniform throughout the corps.

Modern Requirement: In addition to their role as medical technical specialists, members of the corps must be adept in the application and techniques of the combat arms. The need for this requirement has become increasingly important in modern day warfare.

Message

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ARMY MEDICAL SERVICE CORPS

As the Medical Service Corps celebrates a half century of service to the country, I extend congratulations on behalf of all the men and women of the Army.

The years since the inception of your Corps have seen you assuming ever-increasing duties in administration, supply, personnel management, and medical action. Today you continue to improve your services. In addition, you are serving with our troops all over the world and are providing especially valuable support to our forces in Vietnam, where lives are being saved through your proficiency in all your traditional specialties as well as in a newer one—that of the Medical Service Corps helicopter pilot.

In continuing to serve as soldiers, scientists, and administrators, you have my best wishes and those of all the soldiers of the United States Army.

Harold K. Johnson
General, United States Army
Chief of Staff

There are over 50 specialties in the corps including biochemists, bacteriologists, parasitologists, clinical psychologists, optometrists, podiatrists, pilots and sanitary engineers.

Other Fields: The corps also includes comptrollers, administrators, and specialists in management, logistics, manpower, teaching, training management, research and improvement and operations and planning.

The corps is divided into four sections, each with its own chief and area of responsibility. They are pharmacy, supply and administration section, Medical allied

Post Sergeants Major See USAIB Testing Facilities

Sergeants major of the post with the lightweight version recently were given a tour and inspected lightweight sleeping gear.

Other items of static equipment displayed included XM755 track weapons carrier, XM48 grenade launcher and instrumented targets that demonstrated the new equipment.

Following the firing demonstration and question and answer period, static displays of equipment from each of the four Infantry Board test divisions were inspected. An NOC at each display briefed the visitors on the equipment.

Debatized, a newly developed trenching tool held the seasoned veterans' attention and its pros and cons were debated at length.

The visitors witnessed further evidence of the Army's efforts to reduce the Infantryman's load when they compared the standard poncho

Air Force, Army Share Team Wins in Opening Events of International Competition

By Lee LaCombe

High scores and close matches characterized the first event of the seventh annual Interservice International Shooting Competition which opened at Fort Benning last Saturday.

The yearly matches, which attract the best shots in the Armed Forces, are hosted by the Infantry Center and sponsored by Continental Army Command.

By Tuesday, the Air Force captured a pair of team titles and the Army one in the early events. The Air Force, Army and Marines chalked up one individual victory.

Air Force shooters, sparked by the individual effort of Maj. Franklin Green, captured the team trophy in the ree pistol match Saturday, edging the Army 219 to 218. The Marines were third with 215.

Green's 560 easily topped the field of 42 shooters. Navy PO Donald Hamilton was second with 553 and Sgt. I. C. Emil Hengatter of the Army was third with 552.

Joining Green on the winning Air Force squad were Tech. Sgt. John Dittmore, 547; Staff Sgt. Arnold Vitarbo, 554; and Staff Sgt. Leslie Foster, 548.

The Army nailed its first victories Monday when world-famed M.Sgt. William B. Blankenship Jr. outdistanced the field in the rapid fire pistol match with a 590 to take individual honor.

Rifle Team: On the smallbore rifle range, Army's Blue team outshot the Air Force, 2340 to 2327 in the 50-meter prone event.

Firing on the winning Army rifle team were Maj. Tommy Pool, 586; Staff Sgt. Martin I. Gunnarson, 587; Staff Sgt. Fredrick S. Capt. Bruce Meredith, 585; and Capt. Fredrick Kendall, 588.

The airmen took the rapid-fire pistol team match however, but were forced to outlast the Army in a shoot-off to win.

Both squads finished the regular course with identical scores of 2326.

Staff Sgt. Alfred G. Richards, Air Force, was runner-up to Blankenship with a 589 and Maj. William McMillan, Marines, was third with 586.

OC Unit Is Presented 'Tiger Tactics Award'

The 95th Co., 9th Stu. Bn. (OC), TSB, was recently presented the Tiger Tactics award by Col. Robert B. Nett, deputy director of the company tactics committee and representing the leadership committee.

This was the first Tiger Tactics award for the battalion and the first time the award has been given since October, 1966.

Col. Nett said that the candidates of the company were chosen because they had shown above average accomplishments in their "Schlitz" spirit, on their last field problem they painted Tiger Tactics on their "Schlitz" emblems and outstanding enthusiasm, spirit and drive to improve their military knowledge through their own course of instruction.

Pistol Team Sets Sights to Attend Pensacola Meet

The U.S. Army pistol team is competing this weekend at the "Fiesta of Five Flags Pistol Championships" at Pensacola, Fla.

Last year M.Sgt. Ralph O. Thompson fired a perfect 90-20 in the center fire national match course and 894.54 in the center fire aggregate to set two national records.

Sgt. I. C. Emil Hengatter will be seeking to turn the tables on POI Donald Hamilton, U.S. Navy, who best him for the pistol championship by one point 2622-2661.

1st Lt. Billie M. McCleskey, CO of the unit, said, "You must instill real enthusiasm in your men and they must show the aggressive, to show their spirit, on their last field problem they painted Tiger Tactics on their 'Schlitz' emblems and outstanding enthusiasm, spirit and drive to improve their military knowledge through their own course of instruction."

During the match, strong competition is expected from all the services and the best of the civilian ranks.

Hermits Film Story of Mrs. Brown's Lovely Daughter

LONDON — MGM's "Mrs. Brown, You've Got a Lovely Daughter," starting nationally recording stars Hermina Hermits, began filming recently at Shepperton Studios under Morton De Costa's direction.

Allen Klein is executive producer and Saul Zaentz is producer, of the Ivorygate Production, based on an original story by Terence Rattigan and Trevor Peacock.

The swinging musical describes the escapades of London's top group who take their racing greyhounds to London for the final heat of the annual greyhound derby.

Their adventures increase after meeting the Brown family, Mr. & Mrs. Brown and their lovely daughter, Judy Peacock, written for the screen by "There's a Kind of Hush" and "All Over the World," has just received a gold record award for selling over 1 million records.

"Speedways" will mark Presley's eighth film for MGM under his long-term contract and his eighth to be directed by Taurog.

The Taurog-directed Presley film has grossed more than $50 million, including the recent "Spinout." Their latest, "Double Trouble," will be released this summer.

NEW YORK — "Speedways" has been selected as the final title for a MGM motion picture for MGM, formerly called "Fox Luck."

The musical adventure, set against a racing background, will be produced by Douglas Laurence and directed by Norman Taurog. Production is scheduled to begin at the Culver City studio in June.

Philip Shuman wrote the original screenplay.

Laurence and Taurog arrived in Charlotte, N. C., recently, to attend the annual Charlotte Speedway, which prominently featured in the film.

"Speedways" will mark Presley's eighth film for MGM under his long-term contract and his eighth to be directed by Taurog.

The Taurog-directed Presley film has grossed more than $50 million, including the recent "Spinout." Their latest, "Double Trouble," will be released this summer.

NEW YORK — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Dirty Dozen" will have its world premiere on June 15 at Loew's Capitol Theater in New York City.

The film, which was announced recently by Morris E. Lasker, president and chief executive officer, and Robert Webber, general sales manager, and Bernard Myerson, executive vice president of Loew's Theaters.

The Kenneth Hyman production, which has become one of the most publicized films of the year, was directed by Robert Aldrich.

The film, which concerns the adventures of 12 condemned soldiers given the chance of redeeming themselves by undertaking a suicide mission prior to D-Day, is being distributed by United Artists.

This recent photo of a favorite girl could mean more to you in your pocket.

The Fort Benning Service craft shops' photo contest has made available more than $450 in prizes to the top three winners in the semi-annual contest's 12 categories.

Photos must be submitted to the Special Services craft section before June 30. All military personnel on active duty for 90 days or more may enter.

Categories in Groups I and II (black and white and color transparencies) are: people, babies and children, animals, and action, scenic, military, life and experimental.

Group III is photo journalism, a series of black and white photographs that portray any subject in a frame-work of best-selling material. Series must consist of not less than five and not more than 12 pictures.

All pictures submitted must have been taken since Dec. 1, 1964.

The contest is being held in conjunction with the Third U. S. Army and 12th Military Photographic Contest.

Winning photos from Fort Benning will automatically be entered in the next highest level of competition.

Help offered by "Craft shop facilities and technical help is offered to anyone wishing to enter the contest," says Hugh E. Cook, shop supervisor and samples of winning photographs of past years are available for consultation.

The photo lab is located in Bldg. No. 394, across from the 789 Club. It is open 10 p.m. on Friday and 10-5 p.m. on Saturday.

Contest information is available through the craft shop offices at extension 516 306 and 517-171.

SYNOPSIS
YOU'RE A BIG BOY NOW — Bernard Chabrier (Robert Kastner), a virginal young man who earns his living as a roller-skating stack boy, is ensconced in a rooming house run by Miss Thing (Julie Harris).

Immediately, with the help of an erstwhile pal, Reef (Tony Bill) and a pretty, biphary assistant, Amy Karen Black, Bernard is launched on the road to mambood.

Bernard is captivated by Barbara Darling (Elizabeth Hartman) but the devoted Amy diverts his attention away from Barbara by convincing him to show her his new, eight - floor - walk-up apartment, an event that ends in catastrophe.

After finally arranging a meeting, Bernard's rendezvous with Barbara is disastrous but he nevertheless invites her to move in with her.

This too results in disaster and there follows a series of hilarious episodes which finally result in Bernard's growing up to be a "big boy."

Based on the novel by David Benedictus.

THE BRIDES OF FU MANCHU — Terror reigns as the evil Dr. Fu Manchu (Christopher Lee) again sets out to conquer the world.

This time his scheme is to kidnap the daughters of eminent scientists so he can force the fathers to perfect his ingenious device to transform high-energy radio signals into explosive material.

Once perfected, the weapon will serve as his tool for world wide extortion.

But Fu Manchu's old nemesis, Inspector Nayland Smith (Douglas Wilmer), is on the trail and with the help of a young doctor rescues the girls and destroys the plans of the evil genius. Based on the novel by Sax Rohmer.

THE FLIGHT OF THE PHOENIX — Blown off course in a violent sandstorm, veteran pilot James Stewart crash-lands his out-of-gas passenger plane in the remote area of Sahara Desert.

Stranded, with little chance of survival or rescue, the crew and the passengers are given hope by German Doridian.

He suggests they build a small aircraft from the wreckage and fly it to safety.

The film recounts the adventures of these 13 men as they labor to build an airplane while trying to cope with murderous desert brigands, harsh conditions and their own fears and weaknesses.

Their very lives are determined by one of the most startling, ironic twists of fate ever experienced in a motion picture.

197th Edges TSB 8-7 in Opener

By Spec. 4 David Chaffon
What started out to look like a free-for-all on the field ended in a squeeze play on the scoreboard as the 197th Inf. Bde. edged by The Student Brigade 8-7 in Monday night's opening game of the post's major unit baseball season.

The final score was not fully indicative of either team's merits, since many of the runs on both sides resulted from errors and were uncoupled. Both teams seemed to suffer from first game jitters.

The first inning was dominated by the 197th batting order. Tom Winkler led off with a single, followed by Ed McDonald's base on balls. Bo Stevenson then singled and Laurence Bruuo was hit by a pitched ball.

In the second inning, Stevenson hit a long drive over the left field fence to make it 2-0.

TSB started their attack in the fourth when Knight singled. An error by Winkler put Burris on base and the third batter walked. With bases loaded, Rava singled to drive in Knight and Burris. Then the pitcher, Dibari, doubled to drive in one run, giving TSB three runs.

In the sixth inning, Burris was on base again with a single, followed by Rava with another single. Dibari doubled again, driving in two more runs and knotting the score.

TSB's other runs came in the seventh and eighth, one on an RBI by Caspewitz and the other by Brown when a wild pitch let him come home from third.

The 197th scored one in the sixth on a triple by Tim Sar-diago, followed by a single by pitcher Albert Miller.

Bravo Doubles
Another was added in the seventh when Bruno doubled and was driven in by Lath's single. The 197th narrowly missed going ahead at this point when Stevenson, who was on base when Bruno came to bat, missed tagging third base on his way home and was put out.

After following a run in the top of the eighth, Miller was relieved by Regelo Negron. Negron faced a no-out, two-men-on-base situation. The first batter he pitched to in the second contest grounded out, and the next of the Fort Benning major unit baseball season, the Center Troop Command baseball team walked away with the game with a score of 12-2.

TSB scored its seven runs on 13 hits, while the 197th made its eight runs on 10 hits. Both teams counted four errors.

CTC recorded two errors for the game. The 197th's next game was with the 197th Bde. The score was not available at press time.

Furnish allowed only three scattered hits in the game, but a Rucker threat came in the sixth when Richardson, Rucker right fielder, walked. Two men fled out and in the fourth inning did things start to happen.

Then Furnish got into a little bit of difficulty when he walked three more batters forcing Richardson making the score 1-0. The Rucker left fielder then pounded a double into left-center scoring all three runs on the bases, but he died on base as the next batter flied out.

In Sunday's contest the Doughboys could not get anything going with their bats as pitcher Bill Cox allowed Benning only two hits for the afternoon.

MOOM Golf Tournament Copped By Gotowicki, Gillingham Second

The setting for the match came after Gotowicki and Gillingham became the last two undefeated players in an elimination contest among the eight flight winners.

Awards were presented by Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, Fort Benning commander, Col. David G. Sherrard, deputy post commander and Howard Holbrook, club pro in a special ceremony Sunday evening in the country club ballroom.

Other flight winners, runners-up and consolation flight winners were: 1st Flight, Capt. Maurice Lord, Col. Sherrard and Capt. John Holter. 2nd Flight, Maj. Joe Sokolowski, Lt. Col. Garmon O. Heeves. 3rd Flight, Col. Lon Marlowe, Gen. York and Col. Silas B. Disbann. 4th Flight, Lt. Col. Gillingham, Maj. Melville Drisko and Capt. James N. Crocker.

Benning, Rucker Split Pair in Weekend Softball Action

The post fastpitch softball team, playing last weekend at Fort Rucker, Ala., won the first of two games 5-4.

The game Saturday evening started slowly with only two hits in the first three innings of play. Rucker got hit in the top of the fourth, but not until the bottom of the fourth inning did things start to happen.

Left fielder Bob McGlaughlin led off the hitting and promptly placed one over the fence in left center field. Teammate David Park, the rightfielder, did the same and before the inning was over, the Doughboys had scored five runs thanks to additional hits by the first baseman, the third baseman and pitcher Ted Furnish.

McJill, the Rucker left fielder then pounded a double into left-center scoring all three runs on the bases, but he died on base as the next batter flied out.

Shooters to Vie In Carrot Match

The U.S. Army and Air Force service rifle teams will be shooting Thursday in the "Carrot Match" on MacAndrew Range.

Started over nine years ago as friendly rivalry between the two teams, the match has generated into one of the most important competitions fired by the two teams.

But there is a gimmick - normally teams shoot to win but this is one match where the Air Force nor Army wants to win. For it is to the loser the trophy is presented.

The Observer

by Larry Mahoney

Television is the medium with the mostest these days. A latter-day oracle from Canada, Marshall McLuhan, calls it "hot" and it obviously is. The tube's awesome power of communication extends into almost every area of national society - politicians, right to the top, think nothing of applying a thick coat of cosmetics to their faces for the right TV image; the National Football League agonizes over a schedule that must be set primarily for network interests.

Power, where it lies, is liable to abuse. Such an abuse came to public view last Sunday at, of all places, a nationally televised soccer game. It offended about every sense of sportsmanship I'm familiar with.

Outstanding defensive play and more timely hitting by Clark Wilson, Junior Carreras and Jim Madson also helped pave the way to the Hurricanes sixth consecutive victory.

Shining defensively for the Pinks were centerfielder Pat Waluster and Hopper while Ricky Sanford and Frank Dickson were on the mound. Jim Hardy led his hitters.

The players, of course, acted affronted by the calls because it wasn't obvious that they were guilty of any transgression of the rules. But, according to the whistle-blower, they were in on the hoax, too.

"The players," said the referee, "all cooperate because it gives them a breather and at the same time it's making money for the league."

The league promptly denied any knowledge of the arrangement and announced an investigation which, as of mid-week, had assured the public that nothing like it would happen again.

I liked The Atlanta Journal's comment on the controversy: "It (the phony foul-calling) presumably structures an exciting, vigorous, but unsegmented international sport into a feasible fare for the American television public. Really there's only one thing wrong with it. It's crooked."

You may have missed this one, though it's being circulated in the Georgia press for several days. It's a fish story, the only one I've ever encountered that contains a hint of sadness over the breaking of a long-standing record.

Seems there was a famous trout - Samantha was her name - and she lived and grew fat at the Chattahoochee National Forest Fish Hatchery for many years.

It has been real dry this Spring in the Southland, from the Everglades to the Blue Ridge where Samantha lived. Like it did to the alligators down in southern Florida, this drought put the urge to move into Samantha.

The big brown trout sauntered out of her sanctuary at the hatchery to a deep pool some 500 feet below the hatchery dam. Dangerous waters, those of the public fishing grounds.

An innocent angler came along. When the excited fisherman reeled in the glistering, speckled trout, all 17 pounds, 2 ounces of it, he did not realize that he had hooked the hatchery pet. In doing so, he shattered the Georgia trout record - as a ringer said, "Busted it all to pieces and by about five or six pounds."

What became of Samantha in death? She did not become a meal. The remorseful fisherman gave the queen-sized trout to Georgia's Game and Fish Commission which announced that Samantha would be stuffed and accorded a place of honor in the State Capitol.

YAC Baseball

Hurricanes Take 7th Straight Win

Swinging into the fourth week of YAC intermediate baseball, the undefeated league - leading Hurricanes outlasted the Golden Pinks, 11-0.

Pitcher John Horne went the distance for the Hurricanes posting 10 strike outs and allowing only one hit - a double by first catcher Bobby Hopper.

The blistering bats of the Hurricanes pounded out 17 hits with a home run by David Wisdom, a triple and a double by Noel Cartagena and a double and single by Bobby Combs and John Hiras.

Outstanding defensive play and more timely hitting by Clark Wilson, Junior Carreras and Jim Madson also helped pave the way to the Hurricanes sixth consecutive victory.

Shining defensively for the Pinks were centerfielder Pat Waluster and Hopper while Ricky Sanford and Frank Dickson were on the mound. Jim Hardy led his hitters.

LATER IN THE WEEK, the Hurricanes continued their unbeaten skin by dropping the Red Barons 15-2. David Wisdom tossed a four hitter and had six Barons hitters swinging at the air. David Franklin worked on the mound for the Barons with J. Hardy throwing in relief.

Steve Gibbons, Clark Wilson and Junior Carreras led the barrage of Hurricane hits, while rightfielder Frank Celone and catcher John Horne posted excellent defensive ball.

IN OTHER INTERMEDIATE league action the White Sox downed the Red Barons 9-2. Robert Santaluz tossed a two hitter and struck out seven Barons enroute to victory. Pitcher Santaluz aided his own cause with a double and triple.

Richard Cummings went one for two at the plate. Baron pitcher Robert Jaeger was tagged with the loss while Jim Hardy led his hitters.

THE RED BARONS and Golden Pinks played a make up game and the Pinks came out on top by a 6-3 margin. Gus McLeod pitched the Pinks to their second victory with the help of the big bat of Bobby Hopper.

THREE GAMES in a row made it a long week for the Pinks and they took it to the chin from the White Sox by Doug Crum chucked for the Pinks with relief help from Marlon Ralph.

Jim Fox, Marcel Jachimowicz, Jim Ikner and Eric Noritz, were the hottest of the Sox batters. Fox had four doubles and Jachimowicz had a double and triple.

Not all targets are standing still. The running bear shot for the shooter to five targets across a 10-meter opening at a range of 25 meters.

In the first two stages eight and six seconds are allowed for the shooter to fire five rounds at five targets about 24 inches apart and 25 meters away.

Another type of precision shooting is international rifle shooting. Squeezing off 40, 60 or 80 bullets in a row is grueling.

Competitive Shooting Tough and Demanding

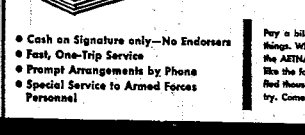

Competitive rifle and pistol shooting is tough and demanding, especially the international type. In pistol competition there are three events: Free pistol which is a slow fire match first at 50 meters, center fire pistol, fired in two stages, precision (slow) and rapid fire and the rapid fire match.

In rapid fire shooting, less than four seconds are allowed for the shooter to fire five rounds at five targets about 24 inches apart and 25 meters away.

Statistics Tell the Tale Defense Transportation Officers Busy

(Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from Transportation Proceedings Magazine.)

There were 799,000 less-than-truckload freight shipments made during Fiscal Year 1966 by the Department of Defense. Nearly 80 bills of lading, nearly 80 shipments every hour.

Nearly 6 million Department of Defense passengers moved on government transportation requests in the United States during Fiscal Year 1966. Over 10 passengers every minute.

Unrated personal property shipments during Fiscal Year 1966 made in the United States on government bills of lading accounted for 77 percent of the total personal property tonnage and 90 per-

Hospital Seeks Cancelling Call From No-Shows

Failing to keep an appointment at a Martin Army Hospital clinic, without taking the time to call in and cancel, keeps someone else from seeing the doctor that day. Not only does this deprive another from getting medical assistance but it needlessly interrupts the schedule of a busy doctor.

The hospital estimates that at least 100 appointments per day are lost through "no-shows."

First Lt. Richard W. Billiard, assistant adjutant at the hospital, said there will be a shortage of doctors from June through September. It is extremely important that patients keep their appointments or call in and cancel someone else, he said.

Wants to Be Airborne Ranger Infantry OC 'Volunteer' In First Sing Out Group

By Spec. 4 Larry Mahoney
 Robert C. Saltzman is a dedicated young man who is allied with Moral Re-Armament's original, "Sing Out" troupe in 1963 and traveled the globe with his message of peace.

Military posts are familiar stops for these fervent youths who feel they are giving it soldiers "a lesson on the concept of freedom." Bob Saltzman sang at more than 50 bases in the U.S., Japan and along the 38th parallel of division.

Recently, Saltzman's role was switched. "Up With People" an outgrowth of "Sing Out" set was playing at Fort Benning and he was soldier in the audience rather than a performer on stage.

New to OCS
 Saltzman, 21, is an officer candidate in the 83rd Co. 8th Bn. (OC), The Student Brigade. A devotee, he brings to the Army the same burning enthusiasm and personal discipline that the Moral Re-Armament movement demands.

"I felt I could learn a great deal from the OCs and I leave," Saltzman said. He wants to be an Airborne Ranger.

Saltzman, who got his "greetings" from Uncle Sam while with the "Sing Out" cast in Puerto Rico, is among some 20 members who were drafted. Almost all chose OCS.

One who received his commission here was 2nd Lt. Steve Wilberding, an academic honor graduate who completed paratrooper training and has tackled Georgia mountains and Florida swamps to become a Ranger.

Moral Re-Armament was more than a personal belief to Saltzman. It is a force in his family.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Saltzman, sold their Miami home, resigned U.S. Army and crossed it west full-time for Moral Re-Armament.

"The family," Saltzman said, "believed it was the best investment we could make in our country."

Brothers
 A brother, Brad, flew to Benning to see Bob and the troupe last week. Brad has 191 Air Sworn As Lieutenants

The responsibilities of executing the duties of a company officer must be accepted, was the advice Brig. Gen. Will H. Lynch Jr. gave the 1st graduating officer candidates of class 27-87 recently.

Gen. Lynch, officer of the Director of Personnel at the U. S. Strike Command at Ft. Cavazos, Texas, told graduates that these diplomas is the phrase "charge the line of duty" which they must live up to if they are to become officers.

Due to military exercises to be conducted by The 1st Air Force Base, Ft. Cavazos, Texas, the Choptank River between the new highway bridge at mile 14 and a point two miles upstream will be closed to all military traffic between May 22 and May 24, 1967.

"Instead, dressed in the cowboy clothes that the east wore then, we went to the campus and passed out invitations. Our show opened with the school's fight song in Japanese. It caught on."

"We got a tremendous ovation and went down into the audience, fending the Japanese students curious."

"These Asian students told us, 'If we know there were Americans like this, American with more discipline than what we've seen in China, we would follow you in a minute.'"

They affirm, rather than deny, American policy in Southeast Asia, believing that "unless freedom is preserved in Vietnam all of Asia might go communist."

Saltzman has already pitched his militant ideology against communism in Asia. This is how he tells it: "We went into a Red-infiltrated university in Japan, a school that produces many leaders. We were the first Americans to go there in 1963 and we were witness to demonstrations and told he would probably be thrown out."

Higher ranking members of the battalion are setting the example, by being the first to sign up for this new Treasury Savings Bonds program.

Sgt. L. C. Billy Gaultney, the battalion Savings Bonds through my Army career. By using this plan, I have been able to save a substantial amount of money, hardly noticing the allotment coming out each month."

He is also starting to save Freedom Shares to take advantage of the higher interest rate on the shorter maturity period, he said.

Present Plaque to WAC

Benning Sergeants Major Visit Rucker

Ten sergeants major from the WAC Center and personnel here attended a reception School. The plaque was presented on behalf of the Columbus-Plexis City - Fort Benning Chapter, Association of the U. S. Army (AUSA), and at Fort McClellan in commemoration of the 28th anniversary of the Women's Army Corps. Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodriddle, sergeant major of the Army, was the honored guest. The Infantry Center's Sgt. Maj. John F. Whitley presented a plaque to Sgt. Maj. Sylvia School's officers, noncommissioned officers and enlisted men shortly after arrival.

NASA's Voyager program, scheduled to be carried out in the 1970's with Mariner and Venus as the primary objects for planetary exploration. The program will attempt to answer such questions as: what do the planets look like; what is their structure and composition; what makes up their atmosphere; what is their weather like; how were they formed and what has been their evolution; how do they relate to Earth and other planets in life present and what was it ever present or can life be sustained there in the future?

Bandsmen Play for Welfare and Morale of Troops

By Pfc. Dennis Day
"We are working for the welfare, spirit and morale of the troops," said Sgt. I. Clyde B. Hammett, first sergeant of the 283rd Army Band, attached to the Troop Command. The 283rd Band plays over 700 ceremonies a year, including military funerals, concerts, both on and off the post, and OC graduations. They also perform at honor guard ceremonies and at the CTC command reveille every Monday morning. Soloist buglers are sent out into the surrounding area for funerals of deceased military men. The 283rd has many components within its makeup. There is an 18-man stage band which plays at official receptions and social functions on post. There are several combos which play at dances and for other forms of entertainment. A rock and roll band featuring amplified guitars, made up by the men of the band on their own time, also appears in some of the performances. All the men in these various groups also perform in the marching and concert band, required of every man in the unit. Musical Variety When the band gives a concert, there is a variety of types of music played, from classical and contemporary, to jazz and pop sounds. This variety was shown at a concert given at Eufaula, Ala., May 27. Beginning with "The Star Spangled Banner," the concert moved through two more military selections and then changed mood with a medley of songs made popular by the Tijuana Brass. Others Highlights of "Hello Dolly," were next followed by Morton Gould's "American Salute." Pfc. Douglas M. Gules then performed two piano solos featuring "Un Sospiro," by Franz Liszt. Following this a selection of jazz and pop numbers were played by the stage band. Among the numbers performed during the last part of the concert were folk songs, Suite for Military Bands and a medley of Henry-Mancini songs. There are 40 men in the 283rd Band. As a separate company it is necessary for men to work in other capacities as company clerk, supply sergeant and so forth. These are additional duties, not the main job of these men. They are, first and foremost, bandsmen. CWO William J. James, commanding officer and band-

Brigade Mess Hall Adds Menu Change for Sunday

The new Student Brigade Mess Hall, grandly opened last week, is truly unsurpassed here at Fort Benning. The mess hall is truly unsurpassed here at Fort Benning. The mess hall is truly unsurpassed here at Fort Benning. The mess hall is truly unsurpassed here at Fort Benning.

"No longer on Sunday is a soldier restricted to what time he eats. He can sleep late, go to church and still find a good hearty meal awaiting him between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.," the captain said.

"There is a large menu offered that includes a choice of eggs prepared for any time during the day, plus hot roast beef sandwiches and many more extras," he said.

"There is also a salad bar and a full time salad chef. In the future there will be an outside patio and grill set up to provide patio service. This

Army Successfully Flight Tests Hybrid Rocket Using Newest Propulsion Concept

The Army has successfully flight tested a hybrid rocket employing a propulsion concept that holds promise of use for future missile and space applications.

The 5-foot-long, rocket — powered by both a solid propellant rocket motor and a hybrid rocket motor — was fired across on the U. S. Army Missile Command's test ranges at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. and impacted in the target area.

The initial test of the series took place on Mar. 23, 1967. The rocket test-fired was composed of two stages. The boost stage was a solid propellant, ignited by an electric squib and burned until a predetermined energy level was reached.

Desired Range
Then, the hybrid stage ignited and burned for a period ranging to the desired range.

The hybrid stage, which is critical in range control, has solid fuel and a liquid oxidizer. In operation, the oxidizer is injected into the interlock place on the hollow fuel grain and the propellants burn.

Thrust termination and therefore regulation is accomplished by shutting off the supply of liquid oxidizer.

Control Problem
Until now, selectable ranges have not been built into a solid propellant missile because of the problem of controlling burning of the solid fuel.

Once ignited, solid fuels which contain the oxidizer as part of the fuel block burn until expended.

Three laboratories of the Missile Command's Research and Development Directorate and two contractors are involved in this hybrid rocket work.

The propulsions systems engineering branch of the Propulsion Laboratory accomplished initial design and development work to establish feasibility of the concept.

Baker P-TA Officers Installed
New officers of the Baker High School Parents Teachers and Friends Assn., Association were installed at an evening meeting of the group last week in the school cafeteria.

Outgoing president Lester J. O'Riley presided at the meeting. Col. Melecio J. Montesclaros, deputy commander of the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry, here, conducted the installation ceremony.

Succeeding O'Riley as president is Lt. Col. Charles

The Ground Support Equipment Laboratory designed the overhead rail launcher and the Test and Reliability Laboratory is conducting the flight tests.

Rohm & Haas Company provided the air-frames "plumbing" and electronics for the hybrid system.

Leprosarium Continues Operations Despite Fighting

PHU LOI, Vietnam — A 10-Vietnamese waiting in line for the 1st Inf. Div. Army "Chopper" ride from the camp at Phu Loi takes you to a place where the war is by no means forgotten, but more or less put on a back shelf so that some other important things can be taken care of.

This is the leprosarium at Ben Sao. Here Vietnamese nuns and a Swiss priest work with more than 300 leprosy-stricken Vietnamese, while a vicious war goes on — sometimes in their front yard.

The leprosarium is an almost self-sustaining community, where patients and members of their families operate a farm, help the nuns or just act as all-around handy-men.

In one portion of the hospital complex, women 9 to 84 years old, bend over sewing machines, lending their talents as seamstresses to the community.

Assistance and Aid
The operation of such a place requires a great deal of assistance and aid comes from too many places to name. One of these "outside" sources is Capt. Russell R. Rice, surgeon for the 1st Inf. Div. Arty. and the Phu Loi camp.

Once a week Rice tries to fit a visit to the leprosarium into his busy schedule. Flying to the hospital by helicopter, he is usually met by Father Victor Berrette, c.m., who acts as the leprosarium's chaplain and official "people-greeter."

He then begins sick call, usually assisted by Sister Helen, the sister superior and head nurse. This sick call comes complete with the problems encountered by others all over the world, with a few problems peculiar to the leprosarium itself.

Many Patients
In addition to the long lines of patients with actual ailments, there are many eager to be kicked off the RD program with two of three phases — clearing, securing and developing.

The clearing process is designed to permanently remove enemy main forces from the area, eliminating any threat of interruptions in RD activities.

Army of the Republic of Vietnam has primary responsibility for clearing operations, with emphasis on small unit patrolling, offensive ambushes and hamlet searches. The Vietnamese National Police and Provincial Reconnaissance Units assist in clearing by providing intelligence data and interrogating detainees.

Typical clearing operations were begun at the village of Dong Hoa in the Di An area April 26, 1967.

The 1st Bn, 26th Inf. "Blue Spaders" departed from Di An after midnight and marched through fields and jungle to a point where they could seal the perimeter around the southern and western sides of Dong Hoa.

At the same time the 4th Bn, 27th ARVN Regt. was sealing off the remaining sides.

Ring Completed
By 4 a.m., the ring around the village was complete and a "Fluzy" was dispatched, circling the village and announcing over a loudspeaker that no one was permitted to leave.

By daybreak the "scouting" infantrymen had collected nearly 20 Vietnamese who had tried to leave during the night. The "Fluzy" returned at dawn, broadcasting the taped messages, while ARVN soldiers moved in to search the hamlet.

The "Blue Spaders" began questioning the 30 detainees who had tried to infiltrate the seal. Most of these were later released but all were held and turned over to the National Police.

The rest of the villagers were taken to an RD center in the nearby village of Di An to receive medical and dental care.

Toys and candies were handed out to youngsters who received medical and dental care and each received a cotton shirt (decorated with the Vietnamese national colors).

Support Unit Taking Shape At 197th Bde.

The first step toward creation of a support organization for the 197th Inf. Bde. was taken Monday with the official activation of the Administration Co., 197th Support Bn.

In addition to the administration company, which has an authorized strength of 17 officers, three warrant officers and 114 enlisted men, authority has been issued for a headquarters detachment of eight officers and 30 enlisted men.

When the new company's first morning report was submitted Monday, only two men were assigned — the company commander, Capt. Dale J. Bickert, and his first sergeant, Sgt. L. C. Robert J. Drow. Bickert was assigned to the 197th from 2nd Co., 2nd Sta. Bn., TSB, and Drow was transferred from TSB's 3rd Ranger Co.

The function of the administration company will be to provide necessary administrative support to the brigade headquarters, including a centralized personnel section and certain elements of the special staff.

The company will eventually include, in addition to its own headquarters, Adjutant General staff Judge Advocate, chaplain, information and financial sections.

The first assignments of men to the company will be the transfer of the brigade's unit personnel office from Sgt. Co., 197th Infantry Bde., to the new company to make up the AG section.

According to Sgt. Maj. Wallace V. Colson, the AG sergeant major, the formation of the administration company will allow better, more of

Gen. Freeman Makes 3-Day Visit Here During Final Tour of Posts

General Paul L. Freeman, Tuesday for a three-day visit. The stop at Fort Benning is part of a final tour of reconnaissance before his retirement at the end of June.

An honors ceremony was held on York Field following Gen. Freeman's arrival at Lawson Army Airfield.

Wednesday's activities began as the general was briefed at Infantry Base on small unit operations in Vietnam and plans and accomplishments of the wildlife conservation program.

General Freeman will also visit the 197th Infantry Brigade and the 197th Support Bn. (See VISIT, Page 2).

Brigade

The 72nd with engineer support operations. A new artillery battalion was formed and attached to the brigade. Initial assignments to 7th Bn, 18th Arty., began in January. The 166mm howitzer battalion is commanded by Lt. Col. Myron J. Longmore.

Less than a week ago, first steps were taken toward the formation of a brigade-level support unit when the Administration Company, 197th Support Battalion was activated.

These units, along with the other five that comprise the 197th Infantry Bde., Hq., and Hq. Co., 17th Inf. Bde., 1st Bn., 28th Inf., 188th Chemical Ft.; 2nd Bn. (Comp), 10th Arty.; and 2nd Missile Bn. (L), 42nd Artillery make up the largest, most unique Infantry brigade in the Army.

The brigade was organized March 12, 1965, and activated here the following September 24 under the Reorganization Objective Army Division (ROAD) concept specifically for support of the Infantry School. It is a tailor-made organization that has been modified to meet the necessities of its unique mission.

Follow Me! Brigade was activated because of its close ties with The Infantry School the brigade was designated the "Follow Me" brigade by the Secretary of the Army May 22, 1965.

The designation 197th Inf. Bde. first appeared on Army rolls in the organized reserves as part of the 99th Div. prior to World War II. When called to active duty in 1962 the unit was redesignated the 99th Reconnaissance Troop and fought across Europe with the 99th Infantry Div., the first complete division across the famed Landerdorf Bridge over the Rhine River at Remagen, Germany.

The 99th Recon Troop was activated in 1945 at the end of the war and remained so until 1962 when the current Headquarters and Headquarters Co., 197th Infantry Bde., was formed here and given the 99th's lineage and honors.

Today, the brigade's mission encompasses a wide spectrum of activities.

After the band plays the national anthem, the participants will move to Infantry Hall where the garrison flag will have flown a half staff since reveille Tuesday noon.

Visit

was followed by a visit to Hospitality House for a tour and a briefing on Army Community Service.

Tuesday will be a holiday for all but those performing essential duties.

Other elements from Fort Benning will take part in a Memorial Day parade and ceremony in Columbus, sponsored by 11 service organizations which comprise the Chattahoochee Valley Veterans Council.

Army

The parade, which will be led by a color guard from the post, will begin at 10:30 a.m. from Third Avenue and 13th Street, west to 15th and Broadway and down a Broadway to the monument in the central mall between Seventh and Eighth Streets.

The ceremony at the monument will include area clergymen, and a rifle squad and bugler from the post.

Unit

efficient support to the brigade and better utilization of personnel.

The reorganization was necessitated by the brigade's growth to a strength of more than 5,000 men. This, in turn has resulted from the brigade's commitment to support the ever increasing training programs of The Infantry School.

When fully organized, the 197th Support Bn. will be commanded by a lieutenant colonel and will take in other support areas such as transportation and maintenance.

No dates have been announced for further activations within the new battalion and a battalion commander had not been named by Tuesday noon.

Gen. Freeman will depart from Lawson Army Airfield today at 8:30 a.m. The general will be retiring in ceremonies June 30 at Fort Monroe, Va. Sixty members of the 197th Inf. Bde. will participate in the ceremony.

Other individual winners for the Army were Staff Sgt. John F. Kugler in running board and Capt. Presley Kendall in free rifle prone.

Surgeon Says

Take precautions against summer sprains, strains

Final part of a two-part series. If, despite precautions mentioned last week, you should have the misfortune to injure your back, you might rub the sore area with ice or use an ice pack on your back and then do the following exercises:

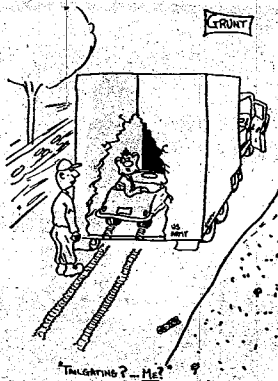

A. While lying on your back with your knees bent, feet flat on the floor, flatten the small of your back against the floor. To accomplish this the tummy muscles should be pulled in. In other words, "think thin."

B. Begin this exercise in the same starting position as the first one. Bring both knees up to your chest and wrap your arms around your knees. Force your knees closer to your chest as you raise your head. Return to the starting position and repeat.

C. Use the same starting position as for the previous exercises. With your arms outstretched in front of you, sit up as far as possible without undue pain or strain. Be sure to tuck your chin to your chest before you begin the sit-up and think thin while doing it.

Two repetitions of each exercise should be done twice daily.

So whether you spend the hot weather months growing prize flowers or touring the country in an automobile, remember that new activities place new demands on the muscle. Use a good dose of common sense when pursuing your favorite sport or hobby. More than one Sunday gardener has lost his toes to a lawnmower in a moment of fatigue or carelessness—will you be next?

Provost Marshal Tips

Many perils accompany the warm weather season

Summer weather has arrived and soon school will be out and the young residents of the reservation will have more free time. Past experience has shown that this period of the year is usually characterized by a number of problems closely tied in with the weather and the amount of free, unsupervised, time young people have. A discussion of some problem areas follows:

VANDALISM—Schools, construction areas, unoccupied buildings, golf courses and other areas where personnel are not employed on a 24-hour basis are generally the targets for vandalism during the summer months. These acts of vandalism frequently are very costly and provide only perverse pleasure to the perpetrators. Parents can help prevent vandalism by knowing where their children are, who they are with, and by establishing set hours for them to return to their homes.

DUES—Every summer one or more incidents involving the finding and/or handing of dues by dependent children is brought to the attention of military authorities, sometimes in a tragic manner. Child should be cautioned about roaming through wooded areas on post and specifically instructed to report dues alone and report their location to military police. They should also be cautioned to stay away from all ranges.

BIKE RIDING—Children of school age have been observed riding their bicycles up the middle of the road even on busy streets like Lumpkin Road. The number of riders increases during the summer constituting a hazard on the streets of the reservation. Parents should instruct their children to ride as close to the curb as they safely can and if a number of cyclists are riding together, they should ride in

The Judge Says...

Rental contract is binding to both tenant and owner

A person who rents a house, terminates the lease, and the enters into a contract with the owner (landlord) for the use of the house and for a certain period of time for the payment of a specified sum of money commonly known as rent.

Such a contract is generally termed a lease and is binding on both the landlord and the tenant. If one breaches the agreement, he subjects himself to a suit for damages.

The lease agreement should be in writing if possible and contain the following clauses for the protection of the soldier:

"This lease may be terminated without notice in the event the tenant receives military orders transferring him, assigning him post housing, or separating him from the service."

"If the premises become untenantable because of fire or other disaster, the tenant may vacate the premises, a single file, not three and four abreast. They also should be instructed that all traffic control devices must certainly pertain to them as does riding on the right side of the road."

WINDOW PEEPING—The arrival of warm weather encourages more people to be outside and at the same time encourages residents to have blinds up and windows open. The "window peeper" takes advantage of these factors, especially during this time of year. Residents should be aware of the fact that leaving blinds up is an invitation for someone to look in the window, particularly after dark. Housing a red as adjoining fields or wooded areas are most vulnerable to this type of activity but even houses in the middle of a group of other houses are highly vulnerable since large numbers of persons may legitimately be outside in the area after dark.

MOVIE ATTENDANCE—It is the practice of large numbers of parents or post to send their young children, unaccompanied, to the movie on post. This is a poor practice for several reasons.

First, there is the problem of crossing a number of streets to get to the movie and back, plus the fact that they may commit acts of vandalism on the way to and from the movie.

Additionally, parents have no way of knowing what goes on inside the theater during the movie and may be unwittingly subjecting their children to a situation where the child may be molested. Parents in most cases would not send their young children alone to the movies if they lived off the reservation, and should not send them on the reservation either, since the population of this post is largely a cross-section of the civilian population of the United States. Parents should ensure that young children are accompanied by older children.

Teething can cause pain and symptoms of illnesses

From the Spring, 1947 edition of "Your Soldier" magazine.

Teething can cause some trying times for child and mother alike. For a child may feel bad when cutting teeth. Although a variety of complications may have been blamed on teething, usually causes only temporary discomfort and rarely causes real sickness.

A teething baby usually drools, of course, and this may produce some irritation and a flushed appearance of the face. Baby may act irritable from time to time as a result of teething, since the gums may be sore, but such irascibility usually is brief. Two remedies usually help in such cases.

First, a "choke proof" large hard rubber ring for baby to chew on, and second, some extra love for a few days until the teething episode is over. (The period of irritability may be prolonged in children past a year old while they are acquiring their molars, since their teeth are longer to erupt; here, an extra dose of patience and love is prescribed.)

While a teething baby or small child may be feverish, have a cough or earache, eat poorly or show other signs of sickness, it is unwise to blame everything on teething. Small children are susceptible to a variety of infectious and respiratory diseases, and these complaints often occur coincidentally with an episode of teething during the more or less continuous process of tooth eruption. So, when a child appears to be sick, tell your physician.

COMMANDING GENERAL'S MESSAGE

The annual United States Savings Bond Person-to-Person Canvass will be conducted during the month of May.

We now have the opportunity to purchase a new Treasury note, the U. S. Savings Note, commonly referred to as "Freedom Shares." These notes will pay 4.74 per cent annual rate. Interest will mature in 4 1/2 years. "Freedom Shares" may be purchased only through the payroll savings plan.

The purchase of "Freedom Shares" will give each of us at Fort Benning an opportunity to help strengthen America and actively support the fighting men of our Armed Forces in furthering the cause of freedom throughout the world. At the same time we can increase our personal savings by investing in these U. S. Savings Notes.

Mrs. L. Smith Enjoys Writing and Traveling

By Jane Daniels
Mrs. Lawrence W. Smith, wife of the manager of the craft shop at Sand Hill, is an accomplished writer, a journalist, a former secretary to the late Adlai Stevenson, former secretary to the late Sen. George W. Pepper of Pennsylvania, a travel enthusiast and a seamstress.

MRS. L. W. SMITH
Benning's Old Timer

A professional writer, she earned her first dividends from writing at the age of 22. During her school years, she earned a substantial amount from the sale of song lyrics, jingles and liner notes. Writing under her maiden name, Dorothy M. Young, she has since contributed her writing skills to many national and local publications. Deutschland Review, Modern Romance, Pan American, Travel Trailer, Travel, Trailer Topics, U. S. Lady Magazine, True Story, True Experiences and several Army publications have published her works. Until recently, her handbook, "Handbook to Germany," was on sale at the PX.

She still writes, although she laughingly admits, "I used to write eight hours a day. Now, however, I'm leading a ceramics dominated life."

She became interested in ceramics six months ago and now she is completely fascinated with her new-found hobby. Hand painted trays, rice-dipped kitchen sets, and figurines are now a part of her lovely project.

She calls herself "Fort Benning's old timer." In her past nine years here she has seen many changes and has contributed much to the post and to Columbus.

She has been president of the 2nd Division NCO Wives' Club, president of the Fort Benning chapter of the Armed Forces Writers' League, entertainment chairman for the 2nd Division NCO Wives' Club and is still a busy member of the National Travel Club and the Chattahoochee Valley Natural History Club.

She also enjoys hiking in the woods near her home, crocheting and cooking. She always loves collecting a new recipe.

Her only regret, she says, "If only I could do some more traveling. I'd especially like to live in Hawaii."

She is an extensive traveler. She has been to 46 of the 50 states, many of the Canadian provinces,

197th Inf. Ladies Feted At Main Club Luncheon

A luncheon for the ladies of the 197th Inf. Bde. was held recently in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers' Club.

The program was a humorous style show.

Participating as models were Mrs. John D. Jackson, Mrs. Larry G. Riddick, Mrs. Bernard G. Guyard, Mrs. George Hamm, Mrs. Narvie Nowling Jr., Mrs. William S. Jamison, Mrs. Samuel E. Walsaff Jr., Mrs. John K. Swaffey, Mrs. Gerald C. Plouff, Mrs. James J. Pollock, Mrs. William C. Andrews, Mrs. Wendall W. Patterson, Mrs. Charles A. Smith, Mrs. Daniel J. Vogel, Mrs. Richard F. Kost, Mrs. Patrick Wiegert and Mrs. James P. Westbrook. Mrs. Edgar N. Kelley was narrator.

The tables were decorated with fashion dolls and green tery.

Welcome to the brigade were Mrs. Myron J. Long, Mrs. Samuel R. Jones Jr., Mrs. David Gates, Mrs. Roger Olney, Mrs. Robert Leinen, Mrs. Lloyd E. Wagner III, Mrs. William Travis, Mrs. Kenneth Kirby, Mrs. Arthur G. Bonitas, Mrs. William A. Phelps, Mrs. Gerald C. Plouff, Mrs. James P. Westbrook, Mrs. Patrick Wiegert, Mrs. Roy J. Wilson and Mrs. John I. Alsejens.

Those leaving the brigade are Mrs. Charles R. Moore.

Charm School Schedule

The chairman of the charm school, sponsored by the Fort Benning Officers' Wives' Club, has announced the summer schedule.

There will be teen-age charm and modeling classes as well as adult charm and modeling classes.

Hail and Farewell Party Honors Newcomers of 1st Bn., 58th Inf.

A hail and farewell party was held recently in the Benning Room of the Main Officers' Club by the officers and ladies of 1st Bn. (Mech), 58th Inf.

Baby cups were presented to Capt. and Mrs. John A. Handberg for their baby girl, Julia Irene, and to 2nd Lt. and Mrs. Ronald W. English for their son, Steven.

Farewells were bid to 2nd Lt. and Mrs. William R. Scoggins and 2nd Lt. William J. Lindvig, who were presented silver trays.

She met her husband on one of her travel excursions to Panama. He was the provost sergeant there. Later they were married in Hammond, N. J.

She was a secretary for Adlai Stevenson when he was a lawyer in Chicago, Ill. She remembers him primarily as "a man with a great sense of humor."

"I sometimes seem to think that I should have been a glamorous job, but it was strictly hard work," she says of that job.

She calls Senator Pepper "a man who could never have been any other way but a gentleman."

The big highlight for her was being selected Lady of the Month by U.S. Lady Magazine in May, 1963.

She has also been featured in local newspapers and on television.

Now she and her husband are preparing for a new adventure after her husband retires Wednesday after more than 31 years in the Army.

They will make their new home at Chatham, Fla., on "Enchanted Oaks," their own 10 acres. They are looking forward to building a home there and would like working as a writer-photographer team.

Mrs. Smith is excited about building the home that she has been planning for years. "I'm going to build into my home many of my own innovations," she says, too, that they would like to do much of the finishing of the inside of their house as their own project.

"Many of these innovations are the things that I had thought of many years ago: partitions instead of walls between living areas, and a sink built into the central work area in the kitchen," she says. They are now the latest ideas in home decorating and architecture. She looks for ideas that give comfort and maximum ease of home-making in the home.

Dear Community Service

Dear Community Service,

My son is a student at the University of Maryland, Munich Campus. He lost his ID card last week, and no one seems to know how he can get a new one. He is graduating next month and needs an ID card in order to get transportation back to the United States. What can I do to get a new card for him as my husband is in Vietnam?

Worried Mother.

If you come into the office we will be able to help you. This office will initiate DD Form 1172, and forward it to your husband's postmaster's office for completion and your husband's signature. Your husband must then forward it to you so that he can get his new card. Please come in right away as time is short and this a lengthy process.

New Chinook Is Delivered To Army for Final Touch

The first of a new model Boeing Chinook helicopter, designated the CH-47D, has been delivered to the U. S. Army.

The aircraft was accepted at Boeing's flight center at Philadelphia International Airport this month. After installation of Army avionics equipment and armor at New Cumberland Army Depot near Harrisburg, Pa, the new helicopter will be assigned to an operational unit.

The advanced Chinook has uprated engines, cambered rotor blades, a blunted aft pylon and strakes along the rear ramp and fuselage for improved flying qualities.

The "B" model, operating at sea level conditions with a full fuel load, is able to transport 15,000 pounds on a 100 nautical mile radius mission. This represents a 54 per cent increase over the payload capability of earlier Chinooks. Cruise speed for the new helicopter is increased by 41 per cent to 155 knots.

Development of the new Boeing Chinook resulted from a U. S. Army requirement for an aircraft with increased payload and speed capabilities. This need grew out of the highly successful helicopter operations now taking place in Vietnam.

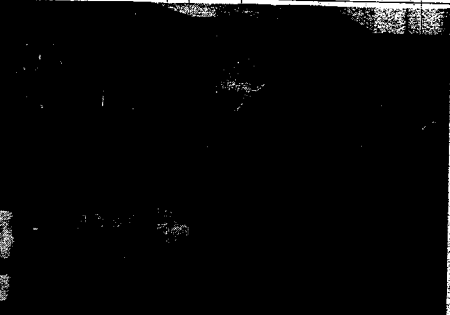

There the Chinooks have been used extensively to transport troops, artillery, fuel, ammunition and civilian refugees. They have also recovered downed aircraft valued at more than $50,000,000.

To date Chinook helicopters have logged more than 70,100 flight hours and 190,000 combat sorties in Vietnam.

The new Boeing helicopter will be powered by T55-L-70 Lycoming engines, which increase power from 2,550 to 2,800 shaft horsepower per engine. The new rotor system utilizes rotor blades with a wider chord and a cambered airfoil. The blade, popularly called the "droop snoot" because of the leading edge shape, provides increased speed and lift.

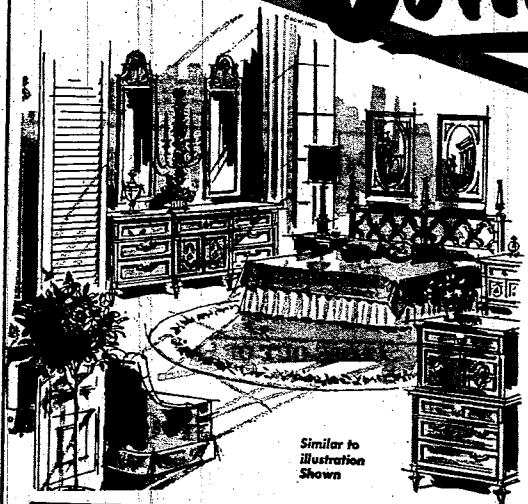

In addition, flying qualities have been improved by blunting the aft pylon and mounting strakes along the fuselage and rear ramp. Both of these changes result in a significant improvement in flying qualities.

Prototype Testing During the "B" model development program, which began in late 1965, three prototype Chinooks underwent an extensive testing program which was concluded by a U. S. Army preliminary evaluation test.

Star of Television Series Here
For Production of Training Film

By Spec. 4 Richard Benson
To Spec. 4 Johnny Crawford the Army is bright lights, cameras and shouting directors.

The 21-year-old actor was formerly in the "Mouseketeers" and the "Rifleman" series on television prior to his induction into the Army. He is presently working on "The wearing of the Uniform" a training film which is being produced here. The training film concerns a soldier, played by Crawford, who finds that the proper wearing of the uniform insures weekend passes that he was previously denied.

Crawford is assigned to the Army Regimental Center in New York City. On weekends there, he regularly visits Rodeo Cowboys Association and recently participated in a rodeo held in Providence, R. I.

He feels that professional rodeo has not been recognized as a sport, and that it should receive more national publicity.

Crawford revealed that his present film for the Army is about the 16th one that he has done. He also stated his main interest after completing his military service, is to return to television and movies and eventually become a director.

Eubanks Field to Be Site Of July 4 YAC Carnival

Youth Activity Club (YAC) officials here have announced that once again the annual 4th of July carnival will be held on Eubanks field.

The day-long carnival will start early with military competition, followed by riding games, a sky diving demonstration, beauty contests, awards ceremony, and will conclude with a fireworks display.

There will be food and cold drinks available throughout the carnival area, as well as a beer garden and barbeque dinner stand.

Rides will include the "bud dy seat", a controlled parachute descent from one of the 25-foot towers on Eubanks field, a 36-foot jump tower, jeeps, trucks, ponies, busses and armored personnel carriers.

In addition, some 29 game booths will feature hoop tossing, a penny throw, fish pond, baseball accuracy and others.

KEY TO A MAN'S WORLD

CAMERA ANGLES

By 2nd Lt. Marvin Wolf

About Flash and Things wall or ceiling, and then use the other day a friend brought me his color snapshots, just back from the frontiers. "They seem to be pretty good," he said, "but why do all my children have funny-looking pink eyes?" I explained that the pink coloration was due to the light reflected from their noses, which are filled with blood vessels. The light was directed into the eyes by the flash gun which was built into the camera.

The secret here, I told him, is that since the angle of incidence always equals the angle of reflection, a light source in the same plane as the lens will reflect the image of the eye back into the camera. In black and white, this appears as a white highlight and is not too objectional.

Flash Off Camera The solution is to take the flash off the camera, if possible. The preferred way is to make the light higher than the camera, or off to one side, for low lighting gives faces a sinister shadow.

For those cameras with built in flashes, about the only thing one can do is put a piece of translucent substance (plastic, glass) in front and try to have the subject project directly in front of the camera.

Another much-abused technique is bounce flash. This involves pointing the light source, be it a flash bulb or an electronic device, at a floor or ceiling, and then use the softening effect of the reflecting surfaces to make natural-looking lighting.

Add Distance The trick here is to add the total distance that the light must travel in order to reach the subject — that is, the distance from the flash to the ceiling plus the distance from the ceiling to the subject.

This distance has to be divided by the reflectiveness of the ceiling — a white, smooth ceiling may give up to 85 per cent reflection while a dark, textured one only 25 per cent.

Only experience can be the final word here, since each unit and flash bulb is slightly different.

Reduce Flash Most people like to take snapshots at weddings and here the key is to cut the amount of light from the flash down when you start taking pictures of a white-clad bridal party and the wedding cake.

One technique I use is a handkerchief held over the bulb in front of my electronic flash — one thickness for over five feet, two thicknesses for under.

Another way is by putting your fingers in front of the flash tube — one, two or three fingers depending on the distance to the subject. Don't try this with flash bulbs, however, since they will burn you.

Claims involving household goods, medical care, Quartermaster laundry and damage to privately owned vehicles are just a few examples of the kinds of claims filed in the legal section, Center Troop Command, every day. Sergeant I. C. William V. Snyder, post claims NCO, says that in his six years in the legal section he has processed claims ranging from a $75,000 claim for facial disfigurement, to a claim for less than $1. filed by a private first class against the 6th laundry.

Fort Benning receives claims for payment for many different reasons he said. A helicopter or fixed wing aircraft which has to make a forced landing in a field, is subjecting the Army to a claim for the cargo damaged during the landing. Snyder emphasized the work involved in processing a claim by resulting a claim submitted on missing personal items which had been shipped from overseas. A total of 254 items was listed. Every item, he said, had to be checked for the approximate date of purchase and the depreciation of the item was figured according to actual. At the final tally, the claim came to over $6,000.

When a claim is submitted, Snyder has to review the facts and, in some cases, see the damage before he can begin processing the claim. Authenticity is a must before processing of the claim can begin he said.

OC Grads Hear Colonel Lemmon
"You have been deliberated... because we want in the officer corps only those men who can take this stress." Col. John G. Lemmon told 162 graduating officer candidates last week.

Col. Lemmon is director of the brigade and battalion operations department at the Infantry School. He urged the new second lieutenants, members of the 6th Co., 6th Stu. Bn., to think of graduating "into" rather than from something.

Distinguished honor graduate and first in leadership was 2nd Lt. Travis W. Mills and top man in academics was 2nd Lt. Michael J. Harigan.

Commissions were awarded in six branches: Infantry, Military Police, Adjutant General, Intelligence, Finance and Chemical. Infantry led with 118.

Snyder emphasized the work involved in processing a claim by resulting a claim submitted on missing personal items which had been shipped from overseas. A total of 254 items was listed. Every item, he said, had to be checked for the approximate date of purchase and the depreciation of the item was figured according to actual. At the final tally, the claim came to over $6,000.

When a claim is submitted, Snyder has to review the facts and, in some cases, see the damage before he can begin processing the claim. Authenticity is a must before processing of the claim can begin he said.

Claims involving household goods, medical care, Quartermaster laundry and damage to privately owned vehicles are just a few examples of the kinds of claims filed in the legal section, Center Troop Command, every day. Sergeant I. C. William V. Snyder, post claims NCO, says that in his six years in the legal section he has processed claims ranging from a $75,000 claim for facial disfigurement, to a claim for less than $1. filed by a private first class against the 6th laundry.

2 Post Soldiers Recall Heroic Helicopter Rescue

By Spec. 4 Larry Mahoney
 Testifying to another man's heroism is a pleasant duty, especially if you owe your life to his action.

Two Fort Benning soldiers, Staff Sgt. Sam Hollman Jr. and Spec. 5 Jackson Wood, had this opportunity recently. An interview from the Aviation-Space Writers Association came here to tape their stories of a heroic incident during the battle of Bong Son.

On Jan. 31, 1966, in total darkness, stored in a UH-1D helicopter into the landing zone for two daring flying feat that airlifted 12 wounded Cavalrymen from a tiny clearing swept by bullets and surrounded on three sides by tall trees. On the ground Hollman and Wood were Crandall received the Avco-AWA Helicopter Heroism Award for this rescue mission. He was chosen from 86 nominees for the award which is presented annually to a pilot, crew member or other individual for outstanding heroism involving a helicopter.

Used Tapes, Photos
 Tapes and photographs of Hollman and Wood along with accounts of Crandall's heroism from others among the rescued, were used in Las Vegas, Nev., ceremonies at which the award was presented.

These are comments from Hollman, now a jungle warfare instructor here, as he remembers the desperate flight from Bong Son.

"I couldn't see how in the world he was going to land in the dark. We didn't have any lights down there. Then someone came up with the idea of using a flashlight."

"I didn't talk to the pilot and I couldn't see him. I wanted to know who he was for the simple reason that for someone to come in, land in a dark place such as that . . . I wanted to meet him."
 Wood, with the 197th Infantry Brigade here, recalled the difficulties and delays caused by withering Viet Cong fire "It had to take some guts on his part because we'd been trying to get a chopper for it seemed. I don't know, an hour or better."

Crandall, now a student at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va., has been recommended for the Silver Star for the same action. The Helicopter Heroism Award may be given to either a civilian or military individual. There are no restrictions on the recipient's nationality, type of helicopter or locale of action.

PT Record Set In ATC Battalion As 6 Max Test

For the first time in the history of the Army Training Center, six men from a single company scored the maximum 500 points on the physical combat proficiency test.

The trainees, all members of Capt. Peter C. Byrne's Co. A, 3rd Bn., 1st Bde, broke the previous record of five perfect scores on the five-part test: One-mile run; 40-yard low crawl; dodge, run and jumps grenade throw; and horizontal ladder. Two other records shattered during the test were the Bn.'s new high of 431 points per man, breaking the old mark of 423; and Co. A new record of 456 points per man, as compared with the old mark of 456.

The six trainees were presented "500" club certificates of achievement and plaques in recognition of their record-breaking performances.

Those recording perfect scores were Pvt. James A. Brazau, 18, Donald J. Comero, 20, Mark G. Hamilton, 19, Richard J. Canse, 22, Barry P. Hatals, 19 and Edward H. Peller, 21.

WAC Mascot 'Korkie' Has Different Idea of 'Dog's Life'

By Pfc. Dennis Ray
 The man who made the dog who seldom barks or whines a poor way of living, obviously never knew for what he thought about a situation such as exists at the WAC Co., Center Troop Company.

Korkie, a registered pedigree dog and mascot of the WAC drill team, leads a life that many people would find favorable over their own situation.

Korkie is owned by Staff Sgt. Goldie Doss and has been with her since he was a pup, five years ago. Staff Sgt. Doss got him when he was a few weeks old while she was stationed at Fort McChellan, Ala.

As mascot of the drill team, Korkie does not participate in the drills but sits by the side and seems to view the girls as they pass. He has his own uniforms, summer and winter, made from the same material as the WAC summer and winter uniforms. His uniforms have brass and the braid of the drill team and sergeant's chevrons on each sleeve.

Staff Sgt. Doss says that Korkie is a well-mannered

19,900 Is Quota For Draft in July
 WASHINGTON (ANP)—The Department of Defense has requested the Selective Service System to provide 19,900 inductees in July to be assigned to the Army.

This is the highest monthly draft call of the year, up from the June call of 19,600. The lowest monthly call this year was for February, with 10,900 requested for induction.

Richard Burton Gets Lead in 'Where Eagles Dare'

NEW YORK — Richard Burton will star in "Where Eagles Dare," from an original screenplay by Alastair MacLean. It was announced by Robert H. O'Brien, president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The Gerahwin — Kastner production is scheduled to begin filming in November on locations in either Austria or Switzerland.

This espionage drama, set against a World War II background, is the second production of the award-winning MacLean currently in preparation for the studio. "Production on MacLean's satirical horror film, formerly called "Your Teeth in My Neck." The author's numerous best-sellers include "The Guns of Navarone," "H.M.S. Ulysses" and his most recent novel, "When Eight Bells Toll."

Burton recently completed a starring role in MGM's "The Comedians," with Elizabeth Taylor, Alec Guinness and Peter Ustinov.

NEW YORK — "The Fearless Vampire Killers of Fardouless, But Your Teeth Are in My Neck" has been set for release throughout the country this fall. Produced by Gene Corman, the comedy was filmed in Fanarion and Metrocolor on locations in the Italian Tyrol and in England.

Polish composer Krzysztof Komeda wrote the score. The young actor, in Acapulco's first try at David McCallum's "Sol Madrid," took advantage of night filming to take some of his peck fishing during the day. One fish was caught and by McCallum. It was a 106-pound sail-fish that took him nearly 40 minutes to deck. Now he has his heart set on a second try and the hopes of hooking a big marlin.

Also starring Stella Stevens, Ricardo Montalban, John Cassavese, Michael Ansara and Pat Hingle, "Sol Madrid" is a Gerahwin — Kastner traffic across the Mexican-U.S. border.

SYNOPSIS
UP THE DOWN STAIRS—On the second Monday in September, Sylvia Barrett (Sandy Dennis) brings her youth and ideals to Calvin Coolidge High School where she is to teach English.

In her disorderly classroom, she realizes that she may not only win over obstinate pupils, but also contend with official directives, lack of supplies and sectarian indifference on the part of the school administration.

The frustrations mount as the semester moves along until finally she submits a resignation. But just as she comes to an end, she discovers that she has been successful with at least one student, which makes up for all the disappointments. Based on the novel by Bel Kaufman, she realizes that she may not only win over obstinate pupils, but also contend with official directives, lack of supplies and sectarian

Col. Smith Outlines History Of OCS to New Lieutenants

The story of officer training programs from the Civil War to Vietnam was outlined in the U.S. Col. Smith told by Col. William E. Smith, director of instruction at the Infantry School, speaking to 173 graduates of an officer candidate course last week. At the outbreak of war he- "Governors appointed of- "World War I saw the be-between the states in 1861, officers at company and regi- mental level," Col. Smith told the new second lieutenants, "but election was common in some units and many were selected on the battlefield it- self, comparable to today's battled commissions."

Only 14,000 officers were on active duty when the German attack on Poland erupted into World War II, Smith said, and it was the officer candidate schools that provided the bulk of junior officers for the Army.

Fort Benning commissioned its first second lieutenants in September, 1941. Two years later, 114,000 men had completed OCS Army-wide, and by the war's end 126,000, almost half of them at Benning, finished the 90-day course.

Over 7,000 went through OCS during the Korean War, Col. Smith said. With the escalation in Vietnam, he added, the Army was in its best-ever shape because the officer candidate programs had been kept alive.

Honor and distinguished graduate of the 30th Co., 5th S. Inf., was 2nd Lt. Frank R. Seppala. First in leadership was 2nd Lt. Harold L. Nobles, and recipient honors went to 2nd Lt. Robert C. Beckman.

Maxwell Taylor Addresses Career Course Graduates

General Maxwell D. Taylor, (USA Ret.), special consultant to the President, former ambassador to Vietnam and military leader of World War II and Korea, addressed the graduates of the Infantry Officer Career Course No. 1, here last week in Marshall Auditorium.

Widow Given Three Medals

A Silver Star for gallantry in action in Vietnam and a Bronze Star Medal and a Purple Heart recently were awarded here posthumously to 1st Lt. John R. Ballard of Tallahassee, Fla.

Mrs. Patricia Trotsman Ballard, his widow, and the Ballard children, Tom, Brett and Sara, received the decorations at a ceremony attended by close relatives.

A member of Co. B, 1st Bn., 27th Inf., 25th Div., Lt. Ballard distinguished himself by heroic action on Aug. 20, 1968. Using his pocket knife, he cut the wires leading to claymore mines which threatened his men. He personally charged a tunnel emplacement, detonating other claymore mines. His gallant action saved his unit from heavy casualties. For this he was awarded the Silver Star.

The Bronze Star Medal was given in recognition of outstanding meritorious service.

"You are going forward," Gen. Taylor told the graduates, and then added, "not from school, but to a school — school — Vietnam — where only you can pass the test."

Commenting on the age of the graduates he said, "To say's young officer must do more than the routine he must be able to deal with the unusual — and in Vietnam he must also consider the pig crop — the rice harvest — the village school."

Reflecting on "what Fort Benning has meant through the years," the general complimented the 19 allied officers who also graduated.

"It is almost impossible for me to visit any allied country in the world without being greeted by an officer with a 'Follow Me' pin from Fort Benning," he said. Gen. Taylor also said that because of today's excellent training of men and units in the United States the time needed for preparing them for combat after they reach Vietnam has been greatly reduced.

Distinguished Graduate of the class was Marine Corps Capt. Theodore L. Gatchell.

The physical combat proficiency award was won by Capt. Aubrey J. McCrede, and Capt. Myron Diduryk was presented the Marshall Award, given for writing the best professional article for publication in The Infantry Magazine.

Also among those receiving diplomas was Capt. Robert T. Adams, son of another distinguished retired officer, Gen. Paul D. Adams, who was commander of the U.S. Air Force Command unit in the service last October.

tries, also was named an honor graduate. A son of the retired general, Capt. Thomas H. Taylor was among the graduates.

New Aviation Company Completes First Field Training Exercise Here

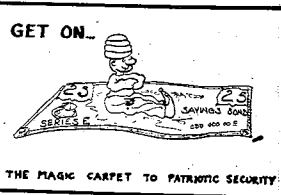

By Spec. 4 Larry Mahoney
Rolling black clouds and steady rain kept the CH-47 Chinooks grounded for safety's sake, but the men of the 242nd Avn. Co. maintained a busy pace as the newly-formed unit completed its first field training exercise this week.

The flying machines—16 of the 242nd's service movement of the equivalent of several battalions of troops and an Artillery battery—but only if the weather broke. Other training for the men of the 242nd included perimeter guard and defense against a mock attack on the base.

A square of tents pitched beside McKenna Airfield at Harmony Church provided a damp base for the 22 officers, 34 warrant officers and 280 enlisted men who make up the 242nd and two attached support units, the 61st Maintenance Det. and the 41st Det. Med. Det.

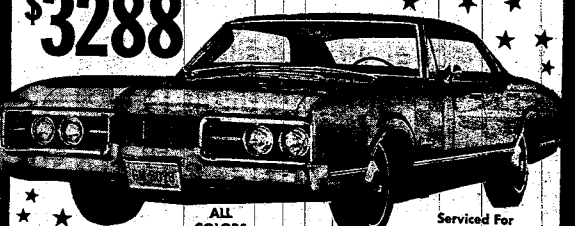

Activated in October and only reaching its full complement of men and aircraft a month ago, the 242nd was burning so well this week that its commander, Maj. Paul Stansel, to say "We're ready for assignment anywhere in the world."

Plans were readied for the men of the 242nd's service movement of the equivalent of several battalions of troops and an Artillery battery—but only if the weather broke. Other training for the men of the 242nd included perimeter guard and defense against a mock attack on the base.

100 years behind the times

We believe in the old-fashioned things at Zodiac. Here's craftsmanship. Skills passed on from generation to generation. Ideas many watch companies have no time for anymore. But you can see the difference in any Zodiac watch. Take the feminine watch for the stylish woman. Gracefully etched, a slim bezel of styling. With two delicate, embossed leaves, sculpted matching bands. A fine motion movement in white or yellow 14K gold case. Model 5242. Only $25. Since 1872, Zodiac has been world famous as the name that gives more watch for the money.

TV and radio are very generous to sports fans, supplying them, in season, with practically every brand of athletic activity except the International Elbow-Bending Finals. In fact, they are far too generous in the opinion of some ever-loving wives who protest that telecasts of baseball or football interfere with the latest episode of "Can Tessie Teaxjerk Find True Love in a Bobbin Factory?" And broadcasters deserve an extra salute for the many ball games they beam to servicemen far from home. Obviously, they think sports buffs, in or out of uniform, are important. But ever so often the TV executives goof. They do stupid things that cause the fan to boil with rage and frustration. An example is the between-inning commercial that drowns out so long that you miss an important play. This sort of thing is on the decrease, fortunately for the sponsors.

Who Won?
Something else that bugs the bugs, and justifiably, is the cutting off of a contest before its conclusion. New York's Channel 9 felt the wrath of hockey fans when the station unaccountably dropped the last ten minutes of a Chicago-Detroit game to put on a re-run of "The Addams Family." And here's a typical letter from a divot-digger to the New York World-Journal-Tribune: "I would like to compliment WPIX for their wonderful coverage of Los Angeles Open golf tourney. After announcing that the program would not be cut, they beautifully, in a way that only Channel 11 could do, cut off the last, most exciting, most important holes of play for one of their magnificent repeat shows. —R. N. The Bronx." A cheer, then, for NBC. A couple of times they forfeited pots of gold by cancelling the regular weekly programs in order to carry games of the red-hot National League race to the final post-out.

In spite of — and possibly because of — complaints, sportscasting is improving. Senior citizens remember a radio station that scheduled five minutes of news on the hour and on the half-hour. It also reported baseball play-by-play. But no matter how crucial the situation on the diamond, came news time, they cut in with the news.

Brooklyn Forever
And those beloved Bums, the Brooklyn Dodgers, were once favored with a radio station that had a disc jockey program slated for late afternoon. If the day game was slow or ran into extra innings, it was cut off in favor of a man playing phonograph records. An irony: the disc jockey was none other than Ted Husing, first of the nationally renowned sportscasters!

That sort of deal would be unthinkable nowadays. Broadcasters are learning that the woman scored bath-so-fury-like a sports fan whose game is cut off before the happy or bitter end. Finish what you start is a generally good rule in any business.

SHORT SNORTS
Fishers accorded of throwing the wetball respond with flames.

It's golf players: Gene Sarazen says, "First thing, go to a pro and get him to show you the proper grip. Everything else will fall into line."

Sometimes the heavyweight champ and the featherbrain champ are the same fellow.

Either way, Norelco rotary blades whisk off your beard without a nick or a pinch. And the famous Microgroove® "floating head" glide over the rough terrain of your face for a Norelco shave that's 35% closer.

And there's a pop-up trimmer for sideburns. Altogether, this Norelco Speed-shaver® 40C has more features than any other shaver on the market.

And if you want to shave with a battery-operated shaver, take this Norelco "Flip-Top" Cordless Speedshaver 20B along. It has an on/off switch, and it works on 4 penlight batteries. The 20B also has Microgroove heads, flip-top cleaning, a new battery ejector and a mirror, too. Either way, Norelco wins the battle against whiskers.

Annual Army Rifle, Pistol Matches Are Underway

DEFENDING CHAMP Staff Sgt. Robert Meeks

By Lee La Cebelo

The "World Series" of shooting for soldier marksmen opens today on Fort Benning ranges with nearly 500 of the Army's finest shots seeking honors in the U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Championships.

The matches are sponsored by the U. S. Continental Army Command and conducted by the Infantry Center. Supervision of the matches and statistical work involved is handled by the competitive "marksmanship" division of TIC.

The tournament is scheduled to last through June 10. High power riflemen will compete in the first events for record today, Thursday they fired in a warmup match.

The big bore shooters will fire a 20-shot standing match and a pair of rapid fire events today. The two rapid fire matches are 20-shot affairs at 200 and 300 yards.

The pistol competitors are attending a coaches clinic today. They will fire three warmup matches Saturday and then get down to serious shooting Sunday.

At stake for the shooters are individual and team titles as well as possible berths on the U. S. Army rifle and pistol team which will compete in the National championships at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August.

The riflemen will compete in six individual events and fire four team matches.

Included in the individual competition is the Excellence-in-Competition match. This event enables a shooter to gain points toward winning the Distinguished Badge, highest individual award available to shooters in the U. S.

There are 12 individual matches, an Excellence-in-Competition event and three team competitions slated for the handgunners.

All scores fired in the rifle matches will become new records for the All Army matches automatically since the riflemen will be firing on the new 10-ring target for the first time.

CG Speaks At Services

BY AL SPRATLEY

Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, commanding general of Fort Benning, in paying tribute to the nation's war dead at the Post Cemetery Tuesday, called for "involvement," personal involvement, everyone contributing their share to insure honor for "our country and its flag."

Before laying a wreath on the grave of an unknown soldier, assisted by two Vietnam war veterans, Sgt. Delwin J. Staller and Sgt. Nathaniel O. Williamson, Gen. York said he did not know what those who were being honored thought as they faced death on the battlefield. He said he was sure they did not want death any more "than you or I."

YAC to Conduct Beauty Contest At July Carnival

A beauty contest will be held this year in connection with the Youth Activities Club (YAC) Carnival, July 4.

The crowning of Miss Fort Benning will take place on York Field on the evening of the Fourth, after judging of the 10 finalists, chosen from all entrants in the initial judging on July 1.

YAC officials have indicated that the judges for the event will be representatives of the NCO Wives' Club, the Officers Wives' Club, and commissioned officers from the Army Training Center and the Infantry Center, as well as a field-grade officer.

Contestants must be at least 15 years of age but not more than 18 on the day of the contest, and the daughters of military families from Fort Benning or within 20 miles of Columbus.

The girl selected will receive a trophy, 24 American Beauty Roses and a $25 Savings Bond.

Eligible girls are encouraged to contact Mrs. Harold Frazer of Teen Squads for further details.

New CO Gets Reins of TSB In Ceremony

The Student Brigade held a miniature review Wednesday, to honor the retirement of the former brigade commander of the brigade, Col. Edward J. Geaney.

Upon retirement Col. Mabry will become director of secondary school Reserve Officer Training Corps at Muskegon County, and will reside in the Columbus area. All battalions and companies of the brigade were represented in the ceremonies held on York Field.

Legion of Merit

Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, post commander, presented Col. Mabry with a Legion of Merit award and commented on his service at The Student Brigade and his retirement from active duty.

The 291st Army Band from Sand Hill presented the march under the direction of WO Jackie Alexander.

The reviewing party was composed of Col. Mabry, and Col. Geaney.

Lieutenant Col. Earl P. Hopper, presently deputy commander of the brigade, acted as commander of troops.

Also retiring at the ceremony and receiving the Legion of Merit was Sgt. Maj. Shod H. Thomas, who returned to Fort Benning for the review. Thomas, long associated with TSB in various assignments, has been at the (See NEW CO, Page 2)

'School of Soldier' Graduates 42

The 10th Aviation Group's School of the Soldier held its first commencement exercise last Saturday at the school. Forty-two men of the 37th Aviation Battalion received diplomas for completing 192 hours of instruction.

The school was organized to increase the professional military knowledge of non-commissioned officers and other selected enlisted men assigned to the group. Honor graduates of the class, Spec. 5 Jimmy L. Tibbit of the 18th Troop Co. was promoted to Staff Sergeant as reward for his outstanding scholastic achievement. Tibbit finished the course with an overall average of 89.22.

Also graduating with top honors were: Robert F. Everette Jr. of the 60th Troop Co., who was promoted to Spec. 5 and Staff Sergeant; Robert Datta, Samuel J. Hooper, David Gomes, Ronnie E. Houser, Howard P. Kna and Richard W. Stark. Graduates of the 609th Troop Co. were Spec. 5 James C. Peacock and Spec. 4 James McMillan and Clive C. Peacock. (See GRADUATION, Page 2)

Pentagon, with the enlisted personnel directorate.

The staff group of the brigade was represented by Lt. Col. Hilton D. Payne, Lt. Col. Donald R. Mortenson, S.2 Maj. Neal T. Jacob, S.8 and Lt. Col. Charles P. Cox, S.4.

The changing of brigade colors from Col. Mabry to Col. Geaney was presented by Sgt. Maj. Frank C. Pfess, TSB sergeant major.

Col. Mabry was born in Albemarle, S. C., to the Carolina, and graduated from high school there. He received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Infantry in 1952 at Fort Moultrie, S. C.

He has attended the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., in 1953, and among his assignments he commanded the 3rd Bn. of the 56th Inf. in Korea, from 1954 to 1955, and served as post commander of Fort Amador in the Panama Canal Zone in 1959.

At Fort Benning he has served as the director of the department of Non-resident Instruction and commander of the 5th St. Bn. Col. Mabry assumed command of The Student Brigade on June 1, 1966.

The present brigade commander, Col. Geaney, entered active military service on June 1, 1948. A native New Yorker, Col. Geaney graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point. He served in the European theater of operations R. Silver died in Vietnam in during World War II with the 2nd Infantry Division.

He has served as section officer in the Manpower division at the Department of the Army, and as an instructor and associate director of the Department of Military Psychology and Leadership at the United States Military Academy at West Point, from 1959 to 1963.

Following a tour in Berlin as an assistant chief of staff, he became the deputy commander of The Student Brigade on Aug. 15, 1966.

Graduation

James E. Crain III, William D. Haneline, Robert D. Huffman, Keith E. Wünsch, Harold E. Rowland, David S. Richards, Robert F. Peck, Robert A. Kelly and Carlos C. Sabinas.

Other Grads: Graduates of the 177th Aviation Co. were Staff Sgt. Robert D. Kimsy; Spec. 5 James D. Misonwager; Spec. 5 Frank A. Simshart; Leonard R. Peacock, Frank A. Boyce; and Spec. 4 Paul A. Freimann, Charles E. Horne and Vernon W. Dudley.

The remaining graduates, Spec. 5 Donald P. Yost, Andrew J. Berume, Kleson Whitaker, and Specialists William H. Clark and Lawrence K. Fuller, were from 289th Trans. Co. Det.

Guest Speakers: Guest speakers at the ceremony were Col. Hamack, 10th Aviation Group commander, and coordinator of the School of the Soldier, and Sgt. Maj. John F. Whitley, post sergeant major.

Flags and wreaths are not enough to honor the war dead. He said that "involvement... personal involvement" is needed on the part of everyone to honor those who have died and to "insure the flag and honor for our country."

Those attending the ceremony, which was opened by the playing of the National Anthem (Capt.) William E. Foreman, and closed with the benediction by Chaplain (Capt.) Donald W. Martin, included active and retired military personnel and a number of parents and widows "personally involved" in Memorial Day Services for the first time.

Among the latter was Mrs. Marlice Silver, 3831 Meadowlark Drive and her five children. Staff Sgt. William November, 1966.

Also attending for tribute to fallen comrades-in-arms of other wars was Lt. Gen. (ret.) Reuben Jenkins, World War II combat leader and Col. (ret.) Reuben Kyle, one-time commander of Fort Benning's Lawson Army Airfield.

Company C, 1st Bn., 29th Inf. of the 17th Inf. Bde. furnished the honor guard, color guard and rifle squad while the 283rd Army Band, under the direction of CWO William J. James, provided music before and during the ceremony.

Other elements from Fort Benning took part in a parade and services in downtown Columbus and at services in the Andersonville, Ga., cemetery.

Capt. Henry B. Thorpe Jr., Ranger Department, 1st Team, deployed to America for a Memorial Day address there to the Rotary Club and then doubled back to Manchester for another address to the Kiwanis Club.

team, won the U. S. Army individual rifle crown last year with a score of 982 out of 1,000.

The pistol title was taken by Staff Sgt. Elgin P. Carter, firing for Fourth Army, with a score of 2,635, which was 22 points under the master record set by M. Sgt. William B. Blankship Jr. of USAMTU in 1963.

Marksmen from one pair of double winners in the rifle team competition in 1966. The SHAGGY Blue squad won the short range match with 890 and the Red entry captured the U.S. Army Rifle Team match with a 1,432. The Infantry Trophy event went to Third Army with 3,660.

Vacation gives youngsters time to roam—dangerously

Today is a great day for a large segment of the Fort Benning population. At 3:30 p.m. this afternoon upwards of 4,000 children will pour from the schools, turned out for the summer. What effect will this have on Fort Benning? It means that instead of seeing the school children on the streets and sidewalks at 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, we will now see them all day, everyday and everywhere. It is obvious that drivers on post must exercise even more caution than before. The entire post, especially the housing areas, in effect becomes one big school zone. While we as drivers have great responsibility to safeguard children, it is also one of the responsibilities of parenthood to train children and teach them the hazards posed by traffic. Even the most cautious and best trained drivers may have difficulty avoiding the unsupervised child. The child who unthinkingly darts from between parked cars is extremely hard to see in time to stop. Young bicyclists are another group who sometimes unwittingly present hazards to the motorists. Parents need to instruct their children in bicycle rules-of-the-road. Many children, for example, do not know they are required to ride on the right side of the road with the traffic, not against it. They are also required to obey all lights and stop and yield signs. The end of school is a happy time for children. Let's see to it that they stay that way this summer by giving our driving even more attention than we do customary. These children are our future, and they deserve all the care and consideration we as parents and motorists can give them.

Prenatal tests necessary to detect Rh blood factor

During early pregnancy, the Rh factor necessitates early and complete medical care. One of two forms. However, when the affected child is born alive, it may demonstrate one of two forms of the disease. The most serious form is development of jaundice resulting from a rapid destruction of the infant's red blood cells. A severe jaundice adds the risk of possible brain damage by the insoluble red blood cell. The milder form of this disease causes gradual destruction of the infant's red blood cells, and leads only to anemia. An exchange blood transfusion to attempt to replace the affected red blood cells and thus reduce the antibody and pigment level is the usual treatment in both cases. It is important that laboratory blood tests be carried out on all expectant mothers on their first visit to the clinic so that the occurrence of this disease may be detected early in the pregnancy. Potential problem cases are detected, evaluated, and monitored by laboratory tests throughout the course of the pregnancy in order that the doctor may be prepared for the proper treatment of the newborn without delay. All Rh negative women who have Rh positive husbands are potential candidates for developing Rh antibodies in the course of pregnancy. Once an Rh negative woman is sensitized, it is detected by routine prenatal tests, additional laboratory studies must be planned, carried out and properly evaluated by the physician in order to predict the severity of disease, if any, to be expected. Repeated tests are necessary and highly important if the physician is to be adequately prepared for the immediate treatment of the newborn and to insure the best possible care for both the mother and child.

Price of liberty

Within the shield of SHAPES' insignia are words and symbols which depict the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's dedication to peace and mutual defense. The inscription says, "Vigilance is the Price of Liberty." Two eagles of the nations indicate the determination of the two gold swords indicate the necessity of armed strength. The position of the swords produces the letter "A," standing for the Allied Powers. The 12 silver fronds represent the original signatories of the North Atlantic Treaty. The design is imposed on a shield of dark green.

Baby teeth are essential to develop dental health

Baby teeth are not only important to the child, they are absolutely essential. Actually, there are four major reasons why these primary teeth are vital for lifelong dental health. First, they are necessary for chewing food thoroughly. At this stage of the child's life, his need for nourishment is greatest and the presence of serious or defective teeth decay limits his chewing of those foods essential to a well-balanced diet. The type of diet that promotes good general and oral health. In addition, infections of these teeth are a health hazard and could conceivably injure the permanent teeth that are forming the jaws. Second, these first teeth, by their presence, aid in proper jaw development and thus affect the child's appearance. Third, they maintain the spaces for permanent teeth and help guide them into their proper places. Fourth, they help the youngster to speak clearly. To insure your child's continuing dental and general health, the following rules should be observed: 1. Teach him to brush his teeth properly. (He may require some assistance for a year or two.) 2. Help him to form sound dietary habits. (Go easy on the sweets.) 3. Arrange for his first dental visit at age two, when all of his primary teeth have erupted. 4. Finally, schedule regular checkups often as your dentist recommends. The most severe form of this

Don't be a statistic

According to U. S. government studies, one family in seven owns a boat and eight million Americans water-ski. Add to these the millions who swim and wade and the more than 20 million fishermen and you have a good size crowd using the resources available for water sports. Unfortunately, a great many of these fun-seekers will become statistics by the end of the summer. They will fall victim to accidents, many of them fatal, simply because they failed to use good sense and follow the accepted rules of conduct and safety for boating, swimming, water-skiing, skin-diving or fishing. Couple common sense and good judgment with knowledge and competent instruction, and you can be reasonably sure of surviving the summer and still have a good time in the process. If you are a boating enthusiast, check with your local U. S. Power Squadron, Coast Guard Auxiliary or boating club to learn about boating safety. Then be sure to follow the advice of experts. Swimming, skin-diving and water-skiing clubs are found in every area where those particular sports are popular. Don't be one of those persons who think, "It can't happen to me." Take the necessary steps right now to insure that it doesn't happen to you and that you'll be around to enjoy next year. (AFNBY)

The Judge Says...

Buyer is held responsible for unfilled building liens

Are you aware that when you hire a contractor to build a house or alter a building, you are responsible to see that bills for the construction, alteration, or repair are paid, even though you may have paid the contractor in full? The law gives to subcontractors, laborers and persons furnishing materials a lien on the property on which the work is done or for which the materials are furnished to secure the payment of their account. If the owner of property hires his own labor or buys his own material, he can be sure that the bills are paid. However, if he employs a contractor, the problem becomes more difficult because the subcontractors (plumbers, electricians, etc.) and buy the necessary materials. These sub-contractors and material men have the right to a lien on the property if they are not paid by the contractor or material man. Thus, if upon completion of the work he is not paid by the contractor, the subcontractor or material man will file his lien. If the lien is not satisfied, a lawsuit may be brought to foreclose the lien, much in the same manner as the foreclosure of a mortgage. To protect himself against liens not yet filed, the purchaser should require a clause in the contract of sale wherein the seller agrees to satisfy any mechanic's liens arising from work done during the seller's ownership of the property. If the law is new, the purchaser may request the seller to obtain the waivers from the contractor, sub-contractors and material men.

Quarterly Event

Hail and Farewell Party Fetes Officers at Main Club

The Supper Club was the scene of The Infantry Center Hail and Farewell party held recently as more than 300 officers, high rated civilians and their ladies gathered for dinner and dancing.

Host and hostess for the quarterly social were Col. H. S. Cunningham, chief of staff, and Mrs. Cunningham. Past-master was Col. Wiley Wisdom, director of Operations and Training, whose section made the arrangements for the event.

In the receiving line, formed on the Supper Club patio, were 36 new personnel, who arrived on the post between February 24 and May 19, and their wives.

At Head Table with Col. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham were 32 officers and senior civilians who will depart between May 20 and July 23. Some of the personnel greeted as new arrivals were also among the number scheduled to depart soon.

Senior staff members among the group of departees include Col. H. R. Hurst, Chief of the Services Section; Col. T. E. Tisdale, director of Personnel; Chaplain (Col.) J. R. Andrews; and Col. Dave M. Baile, Headquarters commandant.

Chaplain Andrews gave the invocation before dinner. Col. Cunningham presented baby cups to Maj. and Mrs. John F. O'Brien and Capt. and Mrs. William C. Moore. A five piece combe played for dancing on the patio after the dinner.

New arrivals in the receiving line were Lt. Col. Robert D. Sweeney, Maj. John B. Phillips, Capt. Albert F. Crowder, Capt. Gus Moutos, Capt. George C. Dellinger, Capt. Robert C. Rogers, Capt. Richard C. Gervasi, Capt. Kenneth S. Mink, Capt. Robert W. Hightower and Capt. John D. Blair IV.

Grants Given Two Seniors

Two outstanding seniors of Columbus have been awarded $500 scholarships by Fort Benning's NCO Wives' Club.

Miss Barbara Hand and Mike Lovell, both students at Baker High School, were awarded the scholarships at the club's luncheon, held recently at Crain Hall.

Miss Hand is the daughter of SFC (Ret.) and Mrs. Francis Hand, and Lovell is the son of Mrs. Edward A. Lovell and the late Staff Sgt. Lovell.

Mrs. Wilburn Hatley, president of the club, presented the scholarships.

ACS Volunteers Attend Seminar

Last week new, and on-the-job, volunteers for the Army Community Service (ACS) here attended the second of two seminars conducted this month by 1st Lt. Francis X. Quinn, Army social worker.

The first session was devoted to "Current Trends in Interviewing," while the second was on the subject of standing operations procedures.

At the initial seminar, Quinn discussed the importance of observation, listening, questioning, direction and interpretation, as techniques of interviewing.

Following Monday's discussion of standing operations procedures a question and answer period was held.

Volunteers who registered at the first session included: Mrs. James I. Muir Jr., Mrs. Dwight Beck, Mrs. S. J. Champagne, Mrs. M. R. Downey, Mrs. F. J. Ealick, Mrs. D. L. Gooler, Mrs. Richard Goularte and Mrs. Rufus McEntire.

Also Mrs. James Morris, Mrs. D. Powell, Mrs. F. X. Quinn, Mrs. George D. Rehkopf, Mrs. George Schei, Mrs. Fred Thompson and Mrs. L. P. Withers.

Petticoat Portraits

Mrs. McIntyre Is Mother, Model

BY JANE DANIELS

Mrs. Stephen McIntyre III, is a young wife and mother turned model. A former North Carolina debutante, she looks young and pretty enough to be a college co-ed and carries herself with the poise and ease of a real Sissy Parker.

When she came to Fort Benning in March, 1965, she decided to do some of the things she's always wanted to do. One of them was to enroll in a class of the OWC Charm and Modesty School. As chairman of the school for 1966-67, she arranged for other wives to attend the classes.

Usually she's caught up in a whirl of fashion shows, of which she has given the recent OWC spring fashion show, "A La Mode."

Show Coordinator As a coordinator of the show, not only was she a model, but actually had the responsibility of organizing and directing the production.

She and Mrs. Theodore Suher visited each of the major stores in Columbus to ask their cooperation, to select fashions, to pick up clothes and to supervise fittings. Then they lined up the fashions and models in order to give a balanced variety of colors and styles and wrote the commentary for the show.

Mrs. McIntyre laughs that of all their experiences for "A La Mode," they had one unexpected one. "We had marvelous cooperation from all the ladies' fashion shops but didn't know what to expect from the men's stores. Nevertheless, we asked a men's shop to select some styles that we might choose from. And goodness, when we stopped by there, the shop had loaned us a huge rack full of suits. There must have been a hundred items. We almost rolled over laughing with glee and amazement. The manager was just bewildered."

With all her work, she enjoyed the show, and it was a complete success. She's also done a commercial on television for a Columbus store and has taken lessons in horseback riding. She enjoys gourmet cooking, sewing and gardening. "I love being here and a yin g baby," she says. Her husband simply says that he's astounded to be married to a professional model.

She's from High Point, N. C. She graduated from high school at Salem Academy and attended Salem College, both in Winston-Salem, N. C. In college, she was a home-economics major.

She and her husband, now Maj. Stephen McIntyre, spent their honeymoon driving to San Marcos, Tex., for eight school.

MRS. S. MCINTYRE Professional Model

Since then they've been to Fort Rucker, Ala., Fort Campbell, Ky., Fort Wolters, Tex., Mainz, Germany and Bad Tolz, Germany.

Never Moved Margaret and Betty Robinson and Annette Warner, Cindy Houser, Vickie Frank E. Weaver, and Mrs. Cliff Whitaker, and Mrs. Jerome C. Faust, and Mrs. Paul J. Kaiser, and

Most of Mrs. McIntyre's busy schedule is with her two little boys Stephen IV or "Mac Mac," six, and Chris, four, who in turn, fill their time with playing with their dog, Big Sam.

The McIntyre home is a lovely place to be. Furnished with antiques and antique reproductions, the rich dark woods and the flowing lines of the Queen Anne furniture give a warmth and charm to the rooms.

A beautiful antique beaten brass planter from Germany, an old picture of the McIntyre clan in a man, a small round German township seal and a bachelor's chest give character and color to the room. Mrs. McIntyre has a flair for interior decorating.

In the future, she'd like to try her hand at interior decorating, and would like to keep enjoying creative projects to date.

It is to leave Fort Benning soon. I've loved it here. My neighbors have been grand, my children enjoy it here, and I like being busy."

Mrs. Fox Gives Useful Items At Coffee Here

Whenever the Army moves, she faces the problem of what to do with the many still useful household items, such as dry starch, aerosol sprays, or paint, that do not warrant being moved.

Mrs. Donald Fox, who will soon be moving to Montana, solved the problem at a coffee held recently in her home.

She put each item in a separate grab bag and invited each guest to choose a house-

Paper Dresses Created At Crain Hall Luncheon

The NCO Wives' Club decided to do something about their woe. "But, Dear, I haven't a thing to wear." At their recent luncheon at Crain Hall, they used newspapers to create their own lony. Fisher and Mrs. H. H. Meyer. The club installed its new officers at a dinner and dance Thursday at 7 p.m. at Patton House.

The club split up into small groups, each in competition to create the most beautiful fashion. The winning dress was accented with roses, matching stole and hat. Its designers were Mrs. Thomas Fish, Mrs. William Carter and Mrs. Gerald Purnell, and the model was Mrs. Lotnar Klein-sim. Hostesses were Mrs. An-nie...

Event Ends Eighth Week For 93rd Company OCs

The 83rd Co., 8th Bn. (OC), held their eighth week party recently in the traditional way. The theme of the party was "Et tu, Charlie Brown".

The company used their mess hall and day room for the setting of Charles Schulz's comic strip. The walls and alcoves were decorated with captions of Charlie Brown and Snoopy speaking of OCS situations such as "Well, today we built Rome, conquered all the known world and scored 44.7 on the Leadership Rating Course" and the reply was "Is that all, and you're asking me for privileges?"

Another scene depicted Snoopy speaking to Charlie Brown - "Sir, request permission to speak?"

The party's honored guests were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Bertram Bishop.

Bishop spoke to the OCs and told them that now that they had completed eight weeks of the course it was time to really get to work.

The candidate presented him with a helmet liner with a colonel's insignia on the inside.

Entertainment was provided by the candidates. "Sugar Snacks", a folk-singing group, sang and OCS such as "Well, today we built Rome, conquered all the known world and scored 44.7 on the Leadership Rating Course" and the reply was "Is that all, and you're asking me for privileges?"

Another scene depicted Snoopy speaking to Charlie Brown - "Sir, request permission to speak?"

OCs Give Help In Repair Work At Scout House

Senior candidates of 82nd Co., 8th Stu. Bn. (OC), donated time and tools recently to a partial re-building of the porch of the post Girl Scout house, located behind the old post gym.

Much of the wood in the porch and steps, rotten with termites and bad weather, was replaced with new logs and boards.

The house, made of logs and panelled on the inside, is used by Girl Scout troops on post.

The Dental Surgeons Wives held a coffee recently in the Main Officers' Club to honor and to say farewell to Mrs. Edwin H. Smith, wife of the post dental surgeon.

Mrs. Smith, in turn, thanked each of the wives individually for her work during the post year on calling committees, with the Thrift Shop, on luncheons, for the Officers' Wives' Club Atlanta

Bible School to Open For Vacation Studies

Vacation Bible School will open here at 8:30 a.m. Monday, June 5th, at the Religious Education Center on Dixie Road.

Plans have been made to accommodate 1,200 children from four years old, through those just completing the eighth grade.

An annual event of the Fort Belknap Sunday Schools, the school will continue through June 14, with sessions Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

The theme of the school will be "The Church and the World," adapted to the educational level of the various age groups. The topic will be developed to emphasize the nature, mission and "out-reach" of the church. Departmental themes will be: Nursery classes, "Thank You God," Beginner and Kindergarten, "Church is Like My Family," Primary, "Church is for Everyone," Middlers, "Worship in Church," Juniors, "The Church is People," and Junior High School, "Great is the Church."

Principal of the VBS will be Mrs. Bob Edwards; Mrs. John L. Waldron will be director. Other members of the staff are: Mrs. Nathan L. South, secretary; Mrs. Charles J. Orman, refreshments; Mrs. E. S. Gresson, enrollment chairman.

Those identified by color-coded flags, will pick up children in all areas of government housing and return them to their homes after school each day. Schedules have been distributed throughout the Sunday School and may be obtained at the Religious Edu-

BEST BOOKS ON UNCONVENTIONAL WARFARE, COUNTERINSURGENCY, and Associated Topics!

WARFARE IN THE ENEMY'S REAR
By Otto Heilbrunn

In this book, Heilbrunn presents the first systematic study of modern warfare in the enemy's rear. Many Allied and Axis forces who fought in WW II in the enemy's rear are dealt with. He discusses the Special Boat Service, the Long Range Desert Group, and the Chindits; the American Rangers, and Marauders; the Australian Independent Companies; the German Brandenburg Division; and the Chinese's Special Formation; and the Japanese Raiding Units, and numerous others; also mentions the operations in France, Russia, Yugoslavia. Goes a long way toward solving the problem of countering guerrilla-type operations.

COUNTERINSURGENCY WARFARE
Major John S. Pustay, U.S. Air Force

Major Pustay offers a practical, down-to-earth policy for the prevention of Communist sponsored insurgencies. He begins with a detailed analysis of the current revolutionary scene: Viet-Nam, Cuba, Berne, Malaya, etc. He then discusses four stages in the growth of insurgent activity: infiltration/subversion, small unit operations, insurrection, and civil war. Following this, the author outlines a strategy that can be effectively employed by the U.S. against insurgencies.

By Special Services
Activities Set for ROTC Cadets
 Post Special Services support activities for the 1967 Reserve Officers' Training Corps summer camp were discussed recently by Mrs. Dorothy Smeds, recreation leader.

"A well equipped service club type facility is scheduled to open on June 5 for the 2,000 cadets expected to arrive at Fort Benning during the month," Mrs. Smeds explained.

The new facility will be located in Bldg. No. 5299 next door to the North Harmony Church Service Club at the corner of Bolling and Turley Streets.

The ROTC club will contain most of the facilities and equipment available in other service clubs but will be more like a day room, staffed with Service Club personnel, according to Mrs. Smeds.

"We will have a sewing machine, an iron, an ironing board, wrapping paper and other materials for sending packages and gifts home, and many small games such as cards, checkers and chess for the entertainment of the cadets during their off-duty hours," Mrs. Smeds said.

"A television set has been installed and ping pong tables will be available," she said.

"The Fort Benning Infantry Chorus is tentatively scheduled to perform in Theater No. 11 on July 1, in a special performance for the ROTC cadets. A complete schedule of sports events and entertainment is being prepared by the respective Special Services departments and will be available soon," she said.

"Hours are being planned for all cadets wishing to participate," Mrs. Smeds said.

"These will include two separate Sunday trips to Atlanta for Braves baseball games and tours of Cyclorama in Grant Park. Other tours will be to Warm Springs, Ga., for a visit to the Little White House, home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and a tour of Callaway Gardens," she said.

A product improvement test for the Army, USAIB will be checking out thoroughly the various items that make up the equipment kit, from new fittings that incorporate a new fabric webbing and brass fittings, the modified equipment utilizes nylon webbing and fabric and aluminum and plastic fittings. Use of these materials reduces the weight of the former total ensemble by one and a half pounds.

In addition, the substituted materials reduce moisture absorption by almost one-half, and drying time by one-third.

Colonel Roberts Speaks to Grad's

"Listen to the advice and suggestions of your fellow officers and noncommissioned officers but make your own decisions... be firm but fair and be loyal to them as you wish them to be to you," Col. John K. Roberts told 124 graduates of an officer candidate class here last week.

Col. Roberts, deputy director of The Infantry School Weapons Department, was introduced by Col. Edward J. Geaney Jr., now commanding officer, The Student Brigade.

Distinguished honor graduate was 2nd Lt. Wallace P. Brown

197th Brigade Celebrates Organization at Kelley Hill

The Army's biggest infantry brigade paraded last Saturday in commemoration of its Organization Day when the more than 6,000 men of the 197th Infantry Bde. paraded in a mammoth review ceremony at Kelley Hill's Munsan Hallport. The high point of the ceremony was the decoration of four soldiers for heroism in combat at the naming of the brigade Soldier of the Year.

One of the nation's highest awards for heroism, the Distinguished Flying Cross, was presented to Sgt. Earnest Campbell for exceptionally valorous actions while serving as a gunner on an armed helicopter flying in support of combat operations in Vietnam. Awards presented by the brigade commander, Lt. Col. Myron Correll, Co. A, 5th Bn., 31st Infantry. His selection was activated here in January. Remarks on Command. In remarks to his command and to the visitors on hand for the parade, including post commander Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, the brigade commander, Lt. Col. Myron Correll, Co. A, 5th Bn., 31st Infantry. The 197th Infantry Bde. view was also taken as an opportunity for the formal presentation of the colors of the brigade to its Organization Day and outlined some goals for the year to come. The brigade supported more than 7,000 training problems during the last year and received superior ratings on more than three-quarters of them. Two brigade command post exercises were conducted and 18 similar battalions exercises were staged. The 197th Infantry Bde. trained and deployed overseas 14 Army and three Marine Corps scout dog platoons. More than 1,000 soldiers were trained in Military Occupational Specialties and assigned duty with the brigade during the last year. Seven new units were activated with the 197th. These include Co. D, 1st Bn. (Mech), 38th Infantry; Co. D, 4th Bn., 69th Armor; Co. D, 31st Infantry; 51st Infantry Ptl. (Scout Dog); 5th Bn., 31st Infantry - the largest battalion in the Army today; 7th Bn., 18th Artillery; and the 13th Support Bn. of the 197th Infantry Bde.

FAREWELL LUNCHEON... First Sgt. Joe B. Blackwell, left, sergeant major of the 6th Signal Co., 10th Avn. Gp., displays awards he received at a recent luncheon. Among the awards was a portrait and a silver tray presented by Lt. Col. Nick J. Nikas, right, 6th Bn. commander. He also received an honorary scroll, letter of appreciation, Follow Me plaque and statue. (Photo by Spec. 4 Richard Benson)

Questions Answered After Recent Adoption of M16

The Department of Defense recently announced the M16 as the Army's standard weapon. It (previously the XM16E1) is approved to the point that it is actually superior to the M14?

A. The M16 is slightly superior to the M14 in effects on the target at ranges between 150 and 300 meters. The M14 is slightly superior to the M16 in ranges over 300 meters out to the maximum effective range of 600 meters.

The M14 has greater material penetration and capabilities at all ranges. However, the higher tactical rate of fire of the M16 offsets this advantage.

Q. As the existing M14 becomes unserviceable, is there any plan to restore to a serviceable condition?

A. The army has a rebuild program for the M14 and M16 rifles which will continue for support of the inventory of these weapons.

Q. Are there plans now for a rifle to take the place of the M16 and if so, when will production begin?

A. It is not known at this time what weapon will eventually replace the M16 family. In our R&D program we are continually searching for better small arms.

Q. How many different rifles are now being issued to members of the Army?

A. Two of the active army—the M14 and M16. The M14 is still being used in some reserve components.

Q. What are acceptable criteria for lethality? Accuracy? Penetration? Does the M16 meet this criteria?

A. The M16 rifle meets or exceeds the criteria established for lethality, accuracy and penetration with the required effective range of an infantry rifle (400 meters). Established criteria are as follows: penetration is greatly improved, more effective weapon for infantry use.

Q. Are small arms weapons having a capability of greater ranges no longer required (or desired) for areas such as European battlefields?

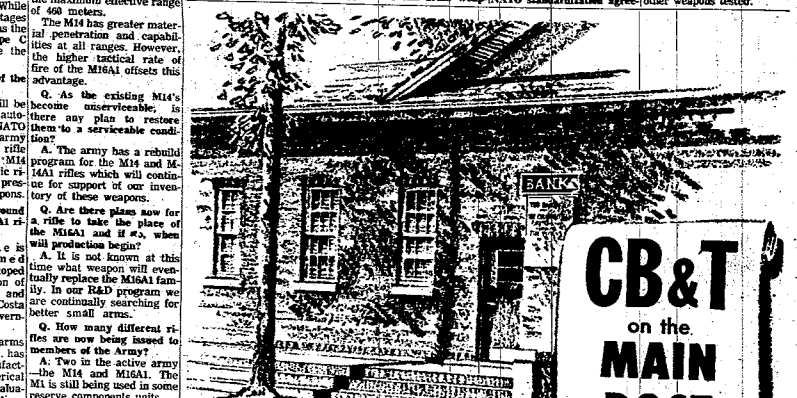

A. Except for special uses, as in the case of the average long range weapon, in excess of 400 meters, because of its difficulty of getting over that range.

Q. What effect has U.S. NATO standardization agreements?

A. It is not anticipated that any problems will arise, however, new and revised agreements may be in order.

Q. Were tests conducted so conclusive as to eliminate all other candidate weapons?

A. The tests and evaluation conducted indicate, on the basis of overall combat effectiveness, that the M16 rifle is preferred over the other weapons tested.

Southeastern Championship Thompson Is Top Shooter At Regional Pistol Match

The match, according to Tom Kirkman, secretary of the Post Rifle and Pistol Club, which sponsored the matches, was a regional championship for the Southeastern Region. The match was held at the post on Monday and Tuesday. Thompson was the top shooter in the match, winning the aggregate and three of the four aggregates.

Thompson, a 2nd sergeant, scored 2,539 points in the aggregate match. He also won the 25-yard pistol, 50-yard pistol, and 200-yard pistol aggregates. He finished second in the 100-yard aggregate and third in the 500-yard aggregate.

Army Outfires Air Force But Airmen Win Trophy

The U. S. Air Force Rifle plaque showing a long team lost a match and won a range carrot, is for losers the "Carrot Trophy" last week. Air Force lost to Army in the shooting game. The Air Force team, which included Lt. Col. Robert M. Williams, lost to the Army team, which included Sgt. William Lee. The Air Force team was defeated by a score of 2-1. The Army team won the trophy.

Scores Lower Marksmen Face New Target in Competition

In 1967, rifles and ammunition are of better quality and more accurate. Shooters are more proficient. They are hard holders, consequently the scores are higher. Perfect scores in rifle shooting are not unheard of. So, what else is new?

Hurricanes Hold Lead in YAC Ball

In the first game of last week's YAC Inter-league league actions the White Sox squeaked by the Golden Pinks by a 1-0 count. The Pinks' John Carter of the Pinks and Oswald Rivera of the Sox ended their innings with a 4-ball game. Is the top of the eighth the Pinks tallied five runs.

However the Sox rebounded for six runs in their half of the seventh as Leon Yerra drove in the winning run. Otis Carter had a home run for the Pinks and Tim Thornton was another leading batter.

Swimmers Meet 3rd in Park Place

The Youth Activities Club girls relay team won the bronze medals by placing first in the events of a meet held recently at Forest Park. The relay team consisted of Tim Perez was 2:2 and Cliff Grucchow was 1:2 for the Sox.

The 10 years and under girls relay team placed third in the girls 200 yard relay.

Swimming in the events were Patty O'Neill, Sam Wise, Barb Johnson and Cynthia Gorman.

The 10 years and under girls relay team placed third in the girls 200 yard relay. Swimming in that event were Cynthia Rose, Lorna Roberts, Anne Daley, Laura O'Neill and Doty O'Neill.

In the boys 1600 meter freestyle distant development event, Ken Rose placed first, followed by Larry Swank, Bob Peixoto, Jim Wise, Ken Anderson and Lester Warner.

The boys relay team, consisting of Jorge Warner, Bob Peixoto, Ken Anderson and Bill Jones, brought home two blue ribbons each. They won the 200 yard and 400 yard relays.

Army Outfires Air Force But Airmen Win Trophy

The U. S. Air Force Rifle plaque showing a long team lost a match and won a range carrot, is for losers the "Carrot Trophy" last week. Air Force lost to Army in the shooting game. The Air Force team, which included Lt. Col. Robert M. Williams, lost to the Army team, which included Sgt. William Lee. The Air Force team was defeated by a score of 2-1. The Army team won the trophy.

There's one sure thing about this Army. A fellow, in no time at all, meets people from just about every crossroad and corner of the country. In basic it didn't appear to be so, my company being composed entirely of men from Ohio, Florida, and Michigan. Since slow beginning, however, I've met soldiers from everywhere—even the great unknowns such as Idaho, Utah and the Dakotas.

One of the results is a friendly battling of regional differences and prejudices. A guy from Florida just can't convince an Ohio native that things are better down south. Texans wonder aloud how anyone could survive the big city, and the New Yorkers hold a gentle contempt for their rural country-men.

A topic certain to stir up a good sectional clash is football. No other seems quite so controversial, even the old Civil War thing. It appears to me that Atlanta, the deepest of Southerners, care a lot more about the fortunes of the Crimson Tide than about the Greys who played a different game under the Stars and Bars.

Remember the agony from across the Chattahoochee, when the Associated Press and UPI ignored the Alabama season and voted once — tied Notre Dame the best in the land. You can still see those Phenix City cars around here with the "To Hell With AP and UPI — Bama's No. 1" tags supplanting the usual ones calling for George Wallace's election to the presidency.

My contribution to these clashes of regional football loyalty is a firm belief, backed by years of disinterested study (that always sets them), that the South in general and the Southeastern Conference in particular is far and above the best.

So I read with interest this week, the comments of one of our country's really distinguished football coaches. He is Ben Schwartzwalder, for 18 years here at Fort Benning, the best football school in the East.

Schwartzwalder is in my corner on this one. According to The Atlanta Journal's sports pages, which are at least as objective about this as I am, Old Ben had more than a few words about the quality of SEC football to say to a Yankee reporter the other day. Here goes:

"The football in the high school is so good down South that they don't come up here recruiting anymore except for some of our fringe players," Schwartzwalder said.

This man, who is president of the American College Football Coaches Association, believes the SEC has "played the best overall college football in the country the last three or four years."

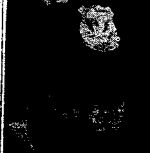

"Warm weather" and "fine high school coaching" are the two major factors Schwartzwalder credits.

"Boys in the North don't learn to run very fast and the weather is so bad that our youngsters don't learn how to throw the ball or catch it," he was quoted, and pointed out that only two New York prep football players could run the 100-yard-dash in less than 10 seconds. Out in California, UCLA alone has 10 freshmen football candidates who qualify as that fast.

Of course, though the South is traditionally the center of football power, this doesn't mean that the rest of the country has had any lack of fine teams and players. Take Schwartzwalder's 116-56-2 record and seven bowl trips headed by the caliber of Jim Brown, Ernie Davis and Floyd Little.

Remember, however, that the Orangemen lost their bowl games against Alabama, LSU and Tennessee.

Post Firers Set For Skeet Meet In Two States

Four members of the U.S. Army Team departed recently from Fort Benning to compete in clay pigeon championships in Kansas and Nebraska. Specialist 4 James Beck, Spec. 4 Steve Thole, Pfc. Edward Leavendusk and Pfc. Russell Anderson, will compete against about 300 shotgunners in each of the championships.

Anderson recently won second place in the 7th Annual Interservice International Shooting Championships here at Fort Benning, while the other three made outstanding showings in the tough competition.

The two matches are part of the training program for the young shooters will compete in prior to the U.S. Championships here in July. They will seek a berth on the top team that will compete for the United States in the 1967 world moving target championships.

The one run that the 197th Infantrymen scored in the sixth was another climactic. With the 10-run rule in effect, the game stopped at the end of the seventh inning, leaving the 197th with 21 runs on 11 hits and three errors.

MAH got two runs on four hits and committed 14 errors. Six of these errors were pitched balls and two were wild pitches.

In the top of the fourth, James Martin of the 197th started putting in his regulars as pinch-hitters. He had started his second string.

The first stringers quickly remedied the situation; but only with the help of some extremely sloppy play on the part of MAH. The 197th scored six runs on only one hit.

In the fifth, things got completely out of hand. Nineteen men, one complete run through the batting order, went to the plate for the 197th and, to the accompaniment of several more wild pitches and passed balls, scored 14 runs on just seven hits. In the inning, Jim Inthar went to bat three times.

The two matches are part of the training program for the young shooters will compete in prior to the U.S. Championships here in July. They will seek a berth on the top team that will compete for the United States in the 1967 world moving target championships.

Best Army Firers Seek Slots With USA MTU Squads

The cream of the crop of Army rifle and pistol shooters covered this week on Camp Perry, Ohio in August. During the Spring and Summer shooting season these men are trained and coached by the seasoned veterans of the MTU. Better shots who have won the competition SFC. James L. McPherson, 100-11, and 200 yard rapid fire champion, Staff Sgt. William Lee, 100-15.

Members of the All Army pistol team hold the following records: center fire rifle, SFC. Robert White, 100-11; center fire national match course, SFC. Earl Bengasser, 299-18.

Each year at the completion of the matches the Army team selects some promising shooters for their National Trophy Teams. These chosen will represent the U. S. Army at the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio in August.

Benning WACs Take Two From Fort McPherson

The Fort Benning women's softball team sparted by the aggressive bat of Penny Ornes in the fourth making the mecs won two games from Fort McPherson.

Ornes batted off five base hits in seven trips to the plate for an amazing weekend average of .714.

Fort Benning's female nine exploded for eight runs in the second inning to help pitcher Capt. Jane McCoy to an early victory Saturday evening.

Benning scored one run in the first inning and three more in the third made the score 12-4. The last Benning run came in the fourth.

Other hitters in Saturday's game included: Donna Bagoly, Darla Wilson, Linda Landies and Geraldine Kurth. Each had a single for Benning.

A real slugger match developed early in Sunday's game, however, as Benning scored three runs in the first inning. Three more runs followed in the second and two aggressive bat of Penny Ornes in the fourth making the mecs won two games from Fort McPherson.

OC Compiled Diving Record While High School Student

Officer Candidate Jim Brinson of the 81st Co., 8th Strider Battalion (OC), is a three-time All American high school diver. He achieved this without competing on a high school swim team and without any formal coaching.

In the shooting fraternity they are "triple distinguished," having won Rifle, Pistol and International Distinguished Shooting Badges.

Other accomplishments included the Western States junior olympics 15-17 age class in 1964; the 64, 65 and 66 Northwest States champion; the 1964 and 65 district and state competition; 64, 65 and 66 Grant's Pass Invitational age group and open division; and he was again selected All American.

During this summer he practiced seven hours a day preparing for the fall, when he placed fourth in the Southern Conference District and fifth in the state of Oregon diving competition. It was after the state meet that he set a goal of winning the state competition the next year.

General Hinds is still a competitor. While traveling in 1961 in India he became the Air Rifle Champion of India. The General is proud of his honorary membership in "Arquebuse" and the 1966 Olympics at his Swiss home, an international shooting club dating back to 1860.

Soldiers Help Children Celebrate Summer Vacation

BIEN HOA, Vietnam — Wide-eyed smiles and shouts of joy usher in a holiday celebration with equal fervor around the world; the last day of the school year. Paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, in conjunction with the Brigade's civil affairs section, collected and distributed cake, candy and other treats to mark the occasion.

The school, located in the Le Van Truc Ranger compound, was built with the help of the 173rd Bde.

The "Sky Soldiers" have participated in many mutual assistance projects at the compound. They are presently working on a well and drainage system for the camp.

The ceremonies began with a brief speech by Major Duong Kim Van, Deputy Commander, 3rd Ranger Bn. He praised the student's achievements over the past year and wished them a happy vacation.

Schoolteachers then awarded prizes to the top ten pupils in each grade.

BIEN HOA, Vietnam — On a quiet, balmy morning just before dawn in the tiny hamlet of Suet Cham, Phuoc Tuy province, a band of Viet Cong marauders struck from the darkness, spreading fear and destruction. Five villagers were killed, four of them women, and eight others were wounded.

Two weeks later, as the moonday sun cast its blistering rays upon this ill-starred hamlet, another group of visitors made its way up the dusty road to Suet Cham, this time it was a Medical Civic Action team from the 173rd Airborne Brigade.

As the medical convoy entered the 100-family hamlet, expressions of fear could be seen on the faces of the adult inhabitants. The children, always greeted the visitors with shouts of joy.

According to Capt. Albert Noel, Bde. Civil Affairs Officer, "the uneasiness of the people is not uncommon when they first enter a village, since the Vietnamese fear retribution from the VC. But by an American show of strength we hope the villagers will realize that they can count on the government for support."

Interpreter Duong Van Vo helped convey the intentions of the medical team. Work closely with the doctors to detect the ailments of the people and legs, the finishing touches to a dam that was being constructed for the refugees of the area.

Along with the construction of the dam, the "Rangers" plan on adding to the national pastime, fishing, by dumping ten-thousand fish in the reservoir.

"Most of the children," said Capt. Joseph G. O'shea, 173rd physician, "are treated for skin conditions, while a majority of the adult treatment is malaria and tuberculosis patients."

Sentiments on Fort Benning

(One night of meditation in Southeastern United States)

Training here — completed.
And we prepare to part.
What holds you now, my friend?
What have you when you've reached the end
Of Summer days in wind-tossed Georgia pines
And banded nights in Winter's bucking cold
Now only memory can hold
Like a faded photograph, the dim defines
Of gay Columbus, the airport where I came,
The curling Chattahoochee, and a girl whose name
Was Franky — she sang for us that night —
A smoke-dim room and cornered glasses.

Memories now, it is a pity,
Are all my ties
To America and our allies,
Iranians, Koreans, Africans, Europeans and Thais,
With whom I hurried back and forth from billetts
To classes. Those many months now seem so short
As I recall Working, Watching Fort Benning, Georgia.
It seems I had just begun to explore
This great post and its "Building Four".
Now they almost seem like home.

Fort Benning!
Where soldiers of many nations meet beneath its blanket sky.
The ground resounds with marching feet as Airborne troopers pass by.
Green berets and Ranger black
And OCS blue and the combat pack.

Fort Benning!
The Spirit of the Infantry
— it the bridge that joins and cements.
All of freedom's continents,
To span the gulf of tyranny.

Now it is the end.
What do you still recall, my friend?
Academ, subjects, all there was to learn,
And so much more to make me turn
My thoughts here in later years.

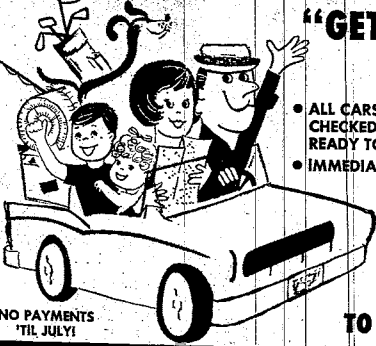

My comrades, we're ready to leave.
You and I
Tensely wait the moment of goodbye.
I always shall recall
The courage and the dedication
Of the United States, a noble nation,
To give its sons, and let its blood
To help our people stem the flood
Of Red oppression.

May the Spirit of America ever give us strength
To bulwark freedom's battlement.

The heart of America
Is as large as the oceans
And as broad as its immense plains.
Tonight the stars are merry, but I am sad.
A deep nostalgic loss —
I jot some lines . . .

In silent conversation with the land around me, hoping
To seal in lasting bond the friendship
Of United States and Vietnam.
With clutching, but determined hands
And head bowed low
I pray for Victory Peace

CAMERA ANGLES

By 2nd Lt. Marv Wolf

Many soldiers, on orders for Southeast Asia, have asked me about taking their Polaroid cameras along. Is film available? Can you buy the cameras over there? What is the best kind of camera to take?

When I first arrived in Vietnam, I saw an American advisor with his Polaroid camera in the then-sleepy village of An Khe. He was taking out 10-second prints as fast as his camera would work and the Vietnamese, children and adults alike, were positively enthralled with his images.

For the soldier whose tour will be spent working closely with the people of Vietnam, the kind of instant film, a bridge to the language gap. The Vietnamese highly enjoy having their picture taken and are not at all mystified by the 10-second process.

Other Cameras

Film for the older cameras, the types that take rolls, is available in relatively large quantities in post exchange stores all over the country, but if a soldier finds himself far from a PX, one can always have it mailed from home. For the newer, pack type cameras, the enthusiast

Silver Star Is Awarded At 10th Grp.

Chief Warrant Officer Leo F. Greentree of the 197th Avn. Co. was awarded the Silver Star by Col. JY Ham-mack, 10th Avn. Gp. commander. The ceremonies were held at the 4th Avn. Bn. last Friday.

Greentree distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous action last September, while serving as pilot of an armed CH-47 (Chinook) helicopter during a combat support mission near Bong Son in the Republic of Vietnam.

In attacking hostile positions, Greentree and his aircraft commander were seriously wounded, the aircraft commander being incapacitated. Greentree was struck in both legs and momentarily lost control of the helicopter.

Although wounded to the extent he could not walk, Greentree regained control and piloted the aircraft approximately ten miles to a secure landing zone. His heroic and gallant effort undoubtedly prevented a serious injury to the nine crewmembers aboard.

To Captain OC Is Awarded Commission In Judge Advocate Corps

"Shall I call you, sir?" said, tary Police.

At Fort Jackson, S. C., for basic training. Butts received word that he had passed the Missouri bar examination. Upon arrival at Fort Benning, Butts applied for a direct commission based upon his legal background. He submitted a letter of resignation from the course to work in the Judge Advocate General's Corps but was approved. He was then commissioned a captain some 50 days from the course to work in the Student Brigade legal office.

Butts attended Guachita Baptist College and graduated from the University of Missouri six-year law program last June while at Miss-souri he was president of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity. Butts' original enlistment self, did not believe that his was for Infantry OCS with application had actually been approved until his roommate branch transfer to the Mil-benefit to me. I have a better understanding of the Army than those who receive their direct commissions course has been of great interest out of law school.

5 Units End Training Test Successfully

Five units of the 16th General Support Group successfully completed annual Army Training Tests last week.

The group, commanded by Col. Arthur V. Corley, took the field May 21, for the six-day exercise.

"The test was highly successful. It was needed and very worthwhile," Col. Corley said.

"The men gained a lot of experience in convoy movement, perimeter defense and functioning in tactical conditions," he added.

During the test, all the units maintained their primary mission of supporting Fort Benning and the Infantry Center.

The units participating in the ATT were headquarters and headquarters company of 16th General Support Group, commanded by 1st Lt. Ernest Ellis; the 15th Finance Detachment under 2nd Lt. John E. Gilman; the 534th Personnel Services Company under 1st Lt. Raymond Clyde; the 261st Replacement Company commanded by Capt. Philip A. Brown; the Maintenance Battalion headquarters and Company A under 1st Lt. Benjamin B. Albert Jr. and Capt. Thomas G. Hendrick.

Elements of the 66th Supply and Services Company provided aggressor activity along with supporting the tested units in Class I and III (food and POL).

SOLDIER OF THE YEAR CONGRATULATED
Spec. 4 Coy L. Cornelius of 197th Brigade

Trainees Finish Basic Training

At recent graduation ceremonies of Co. A, 11th Bn., 3rd Bde., U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, Capt. Charles A. Stuga compared basic training to the foundation of a house.

Without a strong foundation, the house will crumble. He said, adding the same thing applies to the soldier. Hand, rifle marksmanship trophy and Pvt. Zacharias B. Saylor Jr. individual excellence in phases of proficiency trophy.

197th Brigade Names 'Soldier of the Year'

The draft debate that now rages before Congress is likely to go on indefinitely, but the answer to one of its most important questions—What kind of soldier, does the draft produce—can be partially resolved. That the best of the Third United States Army NCO Academy at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Cornelius has been a leader all through his ten months of service. He was a squad leader in basic training and also in Advanced Individual Training with the 5th of the 31st while it was an AIT unit E-4 and below in the 197th.

Graduation Held At Faith School

Wednesday was graduation day for 229 eighth graders at Don C. Faith School here.

The military dependents, many of whom have studied in schools wherever their fathers' careers have taken them, received their diplomas in graduation exercises in the auditorium of Faith.

Guest speaker was Col. Galen C. Moore, president of the Fort Benning School Board. Other speakers were Lt. Col. Carl M. Zilian, battalion commander.

Recipients of the award were Pvt. John M. Goodwin, outstanding trainee trophy; Robert I. Pale second place, and two boys who tied for fourth place. They are Mike Hall, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles M. Hall and Mike Holder, son of SFC and Mrs. Louis L. Holder.

The fourth place winners replaced third place winner Cynthia Semple, who with her parents, WO and Mrs.

Spec. 4 Cornelius has been judged the best soldier of the 197th. Cornelius was promoted to private first class and on the same day, made an acting sergeant and an infantry squad team leader.

While at the NCO Academy, he was near the top of the class, finishing 80, four-tenths of a point behind the next highest man. He is modest about his accomplishments, noting, "I can do it, anybody can."

Cornelius, 25, is the father of two children, one 7 years old and the other six.

Cornelius was chosen Soldier of the Year for his ability, bearing, knowledge and efficiency. That he is a top notch soldier is testified to by the many NCOs and officers of his company.

4 Brothers End OCS Tour Here

Four brothers from Arban-Brig. Gen. Herman H. Hans were among 185 Army Reserve and National Brig. Gen. Charles L. Southward, assistant chief of staff for the Army National Guard, Bureau, spoke to the graduate course here Monday.

The Thompson brothers of Little Rock — Arthur C., Edwin W., Eugene H. and Larry D. — were commissioned second lieutenants. All were in the division commander, Maj. Gen. Ernest L. Massad, and his assistant, Southward told the graduates, "Everytime I see an OCS parade, I think of it as an answer to the protesters." Honor and distinguished graduate of the 72nd Co., 7th Student Bn., was Officer Candidate John A. Dithulis. An eight year veteran of the Guard, Dithulis is a New York City fireman.

Leadership honors went to 2nd Lt. Phillip A. Magyanko, Top man academically was Officer Candidate Frederick G. Clark, Staten Island.

This was the first of two reserve component companies to take the nine weeks of Infantry OCS here this year. Members of the Reserve were commissioned upon graduation. National Guardsmen will return to their home states for commissioning when a vacancy occurs.

Training Is Underway For S.C. Guard Units

Over 500 National Guards-Inf. Bde. in its training as men from six South Carolina units are in the Harmony Church, area recently for two weeks of annual field training.

Included in the group are four companies of the 4th Bn., 118th Inf. with a mission of supporting the 19th

Competition Shaping Up For July 4

Competition for the Commanding General's Trophy is shaping up as officers candidate and 19th Inf. Bde. units prepare for the annual contest held on the Fourth of July as part of Youth Activities Day Carnival.

The 54th Co., 5th Stu. Bn. (OC) has dominated the event in recent years, winning both the individual and unit awards for the last three years in a row. In the expansion of the OCS program is expected to supply a stiff competition from other OC units. Scores of Vietnam returnees in the (See CARNIVAL, Page 2)

Program Begins Sunday For ROTC Group Here

The first of two increments totaling more than 2,000 college men will arrive at the U. S. Army Training Center here Sunday to begin a six-week ROTC basic training program.

Designed to make up the first two years of ROTC program at colleges and universities, successful completion of the program will qualify the individual student as a senior ROTC cadet preparatory to commissioning upon graduation from his school.

The first increment of students arriving Sunday will begin training Monday and will complete the preparatory program July 22. The second increment will arrive in the Training Center June 18 and will complete the program July 29.

Students will be billeted and trained in the 2nd Bde. of Col. Robert E. Baden, The 3d, 8th and 8th Bns. will be the operational organizations responsible for support of the students.

Training center personnel will be augmented by officers and non-commissioned officers assigned to ROTC duty under the guidance of Col. Robert R. Marshall, professor of Military Science at Auburn University.

The cadets will be processed along similar lines as a newly inducted trainee with the issuing of clothing and immunization.

During the six weeks, the cadets will qualify with the M14 rifle, learn military tradition and courtesy, participate in the 14-year history of the matches, SFC Chester Hamilton of First Army captured the issuing of clothing and immunization.

Power Rifle, champion and Staff Sgt. Herschel Anderson, firing with the Europe team, won the U.S. Army Pistol title this week in the All Army Matches which end today.

Hamilton waged a two-man battle with Maj. Willie Powell of the Army Marksmanship Training Unit down to the final shot of the four-day grid before emerging with a narrow, one-point victory. He posted a total of 1,930-22x to 1,429 for Powell.

Tremendous Showing The Army champion paced a tremendous showing by First Army as he and two others won six matches between them. Hamilton bagged four first place finishes and the others were taken by Sgt. Dieter Neumann and Spec. 4 Arthur Riley.

Vietnamese to Receive Commissions Today in OCS Graduation Ceremony

Fourteen Vietnam students in the Infantry Officer Candidate School here will graduate today with the 61st (OC) Co. which they joined last December.

Present for the graduation exercises to be held in Marshall Auditorium of the Infantry School Headquarters building at 9:30 a.m. will be three high ranking officers of the Republic of Vietnam Army, Maj. Gen. Lu Mong Lan, chief, Central Training Agency; Col. Lam Quang Tho, commandant, Infantry School; and Maj. Ha Van T'an, Officer Candidate Group commander.

The Vietnamese officers, who arrived here Tuesday, are being escorted by U.S. Army Lt. Col. William F. Hartman, senior adviser, RVN Infantry School.

The 14 candidates are part of a pilot program designed to align the Vietnamese Army's officer candidate program more closely with its counterpart here.

Before coming to the U.S., the candidates completed 17 months of the 24-month Vietnamese OCS program. (See VIETNAMESE, Page 2) crash and rescue firefighting. Their training will not only include developing all the techniques of firefighting and how to operate equipment but they will also respond to actual fires with the post Fire Department.

Evaluation of the units during the first few days of training indicated a high degree of proficiency. Ratings issued by Lt. Col. Ronald D. Council, a battalion commander in the U. S. Army Training Center, for the first inspections have been "superior".

The battalion is commanded by Lt. Col. John A. Thompson of Laurens, S. C., a World War II veteran with over 26 years of enlisted and commissioned service. His decorations include the Silver Star, Bronze Star and Purple Heart with cluster. Thompson has completed the Infantry Officers Advanced course here.

"Having been at Fort Benning for several tours of duty, I can state that we are indeed fortunate to be among the few National Guard units training here. The facilities of the Infantry Center are excellent and provide our troops with the most modern infantry training."

"The 4th Bn. is the largest infantry battalion in the S & A in Carolina National Guard and has been performing its annual field training at Fort Benning for the last three years. Over 10,000 other S. C. Guardsmen will train later this month at Fort Stewart, Ga.," Thompson said.

197th Bde. can be counted on for an equally strong performance.

In addition, many other post units are expected to enter both phases of the event, and upsets, particularly from large outfits like the 10th Avn. Group may be expected.

The winning unit will receive the Commanding General's Trophy in a presentation ceremony on York Field just prior to a Fireworks display.

Unit competition events will include rifle and pistol marksmanship, the Physical Combat Proficiency Test (PCPT), platoon drill and a drivers proficiency test.

Individual competition awards will be a trophy and $250 cash award for first place while second and third place will receive $100 and $50 respectively.

Events in the individual competition will be rifle and pistol marksmanship.

Skeet Firer Wins Shoot In Kentucky

Private First Class Daniel Voorhees III, of the U.S. Army Skeet Team, was "promoted" to the grade of "Kentucky Colonel" last week, following his 100 bird 12 gauge victory in the Blue Grass Open, in Louisville, Ky.

Voorhees finished the regular shooting with 100 straight "kills" tied with seven other competitors in the 110 member field.

He then went ahead and killed 125 more for a shoot-off victory and the honorary title of "Kentucky Colonel".

The Judge Says...

Many loyal soldiers fail to pass security clearance

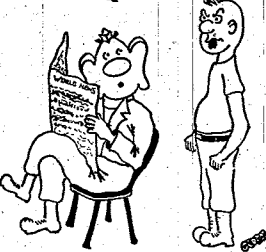

Many of the interesting and challenging jobs in the Army require a security clearance. Aggressive soldiers who plan to hold those interesting jobs assume that the clearance is a formality—something that will be awarded without problem when the time comes. After all, they are loyal to the United States, to the Army, to the Flag.

But the clearance is by no means a formality and many soldiers who qualified in every other way do not get the interesting jobs because they can't get a clearance. A great many of the denials are to loyal soldiers, to the same loyal soldiers that assumed there would be no problem.

Reason for Denials
The reason for the majority of denials is an "adverse suitability factor." The phrase simply means that, although the subject may be loyal, something in his personal life might give enemy agents an opportunity to put pressure on him. And the United States, rightly, isn't going to take a chance.

Who can deny that a man who is deeply in debt might not be tempted to take a bribe? The government isn't going to take a chance on him. With the easy credit payments for everything from a new car to a trip to the Bahamas, it is sometimes a tricky problem. It's a problem, too, for the soldier who already has a clearance. Chances are if he goes in

Summer brings a killer from the sky—lightning

For a period of 55 to 70 days each year, mainly during the summer months, a destructive force of almost inconceivable power stalks the personnel of Fort Benning.

This killer in the past 10 to 12 years has killed 15 soldiers and injured four times that number.

Nationwide, about 600 are killed, 1,500 are injured and $100 million is damaged or destroyed annually.

What is this destructive force? It was once thought by man to be evidence of war between the gods. Even today, it is still somewhat of a mystery to the average man who may be both fascinated and frightened by it.

Webster defines it as "a discharge of atmospheric electricity, usually accompanied by thunder." That's right, we're talking about nature's artillery—lightning.

Electrical Energy
While we know lightning to be electrical energy of tremendous force, what do we know of its potential for destruction? What do we know about avoiding its destructive power?

Lightning strikes fall in the category of "Acts of God," which means they can't be prevented. However, with the knowledge of what they are and where they are likely to occur, it is possible to avoid them.

Thunderstorms build up tremendous electrical potential. A thundercloud will have either an all positive or all negative charge. In the earth immediately beneath the storm an opposite charge develops. As the storm moves along the opposite ground charge travels with it seeking a release.

Great Attraction
When the attraction becomes great enough, the two opposite charges come together with the effect we call

Surgeon Says Patient's morale boosted by recreation program

Most people do not realize that in an Army Hospital the American Red Cross recreation program is a vital part of medical treatment, especially to the military patient who cannot be discharged from the hospital until he is ready for duty. Recreation activities enhance a patient's morale and his attitude toward his hospitalization and treatment program which results in a more rapid recovery. The medical staff at Martin Army Hospital is appreciative of this program and finds their full cooperation.

Simultaneously patients heard are strumming guitars, singing their favorite folk and western songs, playing the latest "hits" on a stereo or on the piano in the music room, listening to the music which is broadcast to the recreational hall and throughout the hospital.

Patients confined to beds are not forgotten. Every afternoon ARC recreation workers and volunteers are seen on the wards conducting activities including quizzes, "Tic Tac Toe," "Concentration," "Comic Parties," "Wax Parties," "Supermarket Parties," as well as all types of card and box games. Many women patients concentrate on card games as well as chess and checkers.

On the Patio
Outside on the patio, adjacent to the recreational hall, the main attractions are horseshoes, out door shuffleboard, badminton or just relaxing in the sunshine.

The recreation hall is available to patients every day during the week. Specific activities are conducted each evening by the Red Cross recreation workers. These activities are suggested by the members of a Patient Planning Council which meets every Monday afternoon. This council membership is composed of representatives of the various wards who are interested and active in the Best Places

The best places, in descending order, are: a large steel frame building, a structure protected by lightning rods, large or small unprotected buildings and closed, roofed vehicles.

Stay away from tall, isolated trees; large masses of metal, wire fences and power or commo lines. Avoid large open areas such as golf courses or beaches, or get off or out of the water.

At all costs, don't let yourself become the highest point in the area. If no shelter is available, get into a ditch or just lie flat on the ground.

Use your head during thunderstorms and you can avoid being hit by the seventy-two strikes per square mile expected in this area during the summer months.

Dental health is varied by individual's resistance

Uncle John is 62 years old. He has never had a cavity or a toothache, never goes to the dentist and doesn't even own a toothbrush. How do you account for this?

All persons have some degree of natural resistance to dental disease. This varies greatly between different individuals. Many factors contribute to these individual differences—heredity, diet and eating habits, general health, temperament, body chemistry and characteristics of the saliva to name a few. As with other diseases, a longer period of time is required for a specific disease to overcome the defenses of individuals with a higher built-in resistance.

Mrs. Allen Noted For Wit, Energy

By Jane Dashi

Mrs. Thomas Allen, wife of the manpower utilization sergeant, Director of Personnel, is the trim, cute little woman who perhaps knows that way by her busy routine of bowling, gay, energetic and witty, she's a marvelous person to talk with.

She has always been interested in athletics. Now she's the secretary of two bowling leagues, the Fort Benning mixed doubles league and the Friday night ladies handicap. Altogether she handles the money and keeps the scores for 14 separate teams. A hectic job for anyone. Yet Mrs. Allen, twinkling, "I love it."

Since her husband also bowls on Friday night with his league, it is "Allen's Alley" every Friday. Trophies, covered the walls of their home prove it.

Quite A Golfer

She's also quite a golfer, although she admits, "Since coming to Fort Benning, the clubs have rarely been out of their bag. No one here would believe that I've ever played so much golf." Nevertheless, she's not out of the swing of things at all over the world—in Japan to the Bavarian Alps.

Besides being stationed at the Fort Benning Hotel and at the site of the famous Masters Tournament, was the inspiration for her interest in golf. Golf pro Mickey Gallagher placed the first golf ball in her hands. Later she laughed, "I was to later play golf all over the world—in Japan to the Bavarian Alps."

Originally from High Point, N. C., she met her husband while working for the Army in the Overseas Replacement Depot at Greensboro, N. C. In her daily rounds to and from camp for 17 post exchanges and two service clubs, she saw soldiers more and more frequently each time she stopped at the beautiful PX.

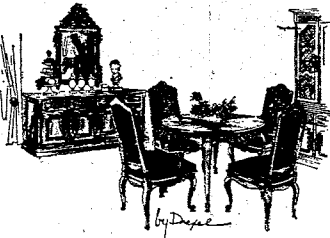

Married At High Point They were married at High Point, and were both transferred to Fort Slocum, N. Y., for six months before.

Wives Conduct Coffee in May

The officers' wives of 2nd Missile Bn. (Lt.) and 197th Inf. Bde., held their home of Mrs. Arlie Walker. Mrs. Herbert H. Martin, wife of the battalion commander, presided over a short business session. Farewells were said to Mrs. Elias L. Earl and Mrs. Emil M. Bilinski.

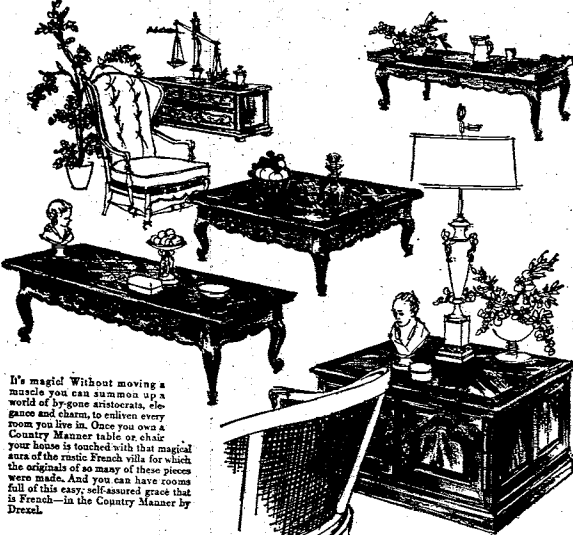

Also attending were Mrs. John A. Shiver, Mrs. Felipe E. Galavie, Mrs. William A. Santorini, Mrs. James M. Kelly, Mrs. Clyde S. Stapp and Mrs. Roger P. Olney.

Form Is Must For Reduction On Air Tickets

Men in uniform are appearing at commercial air line ticket offices and attempting to obtain reduced fare air travel without proper authorization. All commuters should see that military persons of all grades requirements pertaining to reduced air travel and that DD Form 1380 is completed and signed prior to the traveler's application for an air ticket.

Air travel at reduced fare is a privilege of all persons in uniform upon presentation of DD Form 1380 to the air line ticket office. Failure to have in his possession the properly executed DD Form 1380 to present to the air line ticket office will deprive him of his right to reduce fare.

Treasury Gives Minuteman Flag To Army in RVN

The Treasury Department authorized a special Minuteman flag for U. S. Army, Vietnam, as a symbol of recognition of the soldier's outstanding support of the U. S. savings bond program.

As of March 31, 82.5 per cent of Army servicemen in Vietnam were buying U. S. savings bonds through the payroll savings plan. Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor accepted the special Treasury Department Minuteman flag on behalf of soldiers of U. S. Army, Vietnam at the Department of Defense savings bond and freedom share rally held May 8, in the Pentagon center court, Washington, D. C.

The flag will be forwarded to Gen. Dwight E. Beach, the commander in chief, U. S. Army, Pacific, for presentation to U. S. soldiers in Vietnam.

Survey Is Underway Here Studying Rental Housing

Questionnaires are being circulated here as the first step of a survey to determine what rental housing is available to military families in the Columbus, Phenix City areas without regard to race or national origin.

The action, which is being conducted by Fort Benning officials, is being taken as part of a nationwide survey ordered by the Secretary of Defense to determine what rental units are available to military families on an equal basis. All communities near military installations which have 500 or more persons assigned are included.

The survey is directed at landlords in the area of the military post who own five or more rental units in the form of apartment houses, housing developments or mobile home units.

New COs Are Named To 2 ATC Battalions

Lieutenant Col. Earl R. Adams Jr. has assumed command of 1st Bn., 1st Bde. at the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry.

Colonel Adams received the battalion colors from Col. Ben H. Ward, 1st Bde. commander.

Before his assignment to the Training Center, Colonel Adams headed the operations committee of the Brigade and Battalion Operations Department at Fort Benning's Infantry School.

Colonel Adams entered the Army in 1943 and served three years as an enlisted man. He received his commission as second lieutenant upon graduation from Washington State University, Pullman, in 1949.

Study Scheduled To End Erosion Of Niagara Falls

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has been asked to study and to submit recommendations to Congress on ways to preserve and enhance the American section of Niagara Falls.

Large chunks of the crest of the falls have dropped off, causing tons of rock to accumulate at the foot of the falls. This has reduced the curtain of falling water and created a jagged crest line.

The geologic nature of the falls of the Niagara River along the United States-Canada border is such that the hard rock crest is undermined by erosion of the underlying softer strata. This has caused portions of the crest to collapse.

A conservation effort will be aimed at removing the accumulated rock and debris and preserving the remaining crest. (ANP)

Aid Is Offered Orphans of War For Education

Several hundred members of 1967 Georgia high school graduating classes may attain higher education with Veterans Administration assistance. Pete Wheeler, director of the Georgia Department of Veterans Service, said recently.

Under the War Orphans Education Act the VA provides a subsistence of $130 per month to eligible child for up to 36 months of vocational, technical or academic training.

The program applies to the sons and daughters of a veteran-parent killed in the line of duty; or who died as a result of injuries or diseases received in the line of duty; or who suffers a permanent service-connected disability rated at 100 per cent by the VA.

Wheeler said application for benefits under the program should be made now if the claimant expects to attend school next fall.

During Fiscal Year 1967, Department of Veterans Service records show that 591 Georgia children participated in the program, receiving $284,381. The VA expects 550 children to participate in the program, receiving $350,000.

Field officers of the Georgia Department of Veterans Service will assist in establishing the eligibility of the applicant and in filing a claim for the payments.

Ranger of Today Is New Breed of Mountain Man

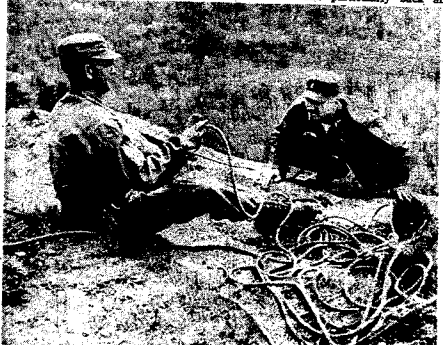

By Spec. 4 Larry Mahoney
Some men climb mountains because they're there. Others, such as Fort Benning's ranger students, scale them for more practical reasons. Up in Georgia's Lazy Blue Ridge, near Dahlonega which was America's first gold rush boomtown, these prospective Army Rangers undergo 19½ days of exacting training that makes them a new breed of mountain man.

In many ways as rugged and capable of movement and living off the rocky land as the original terrain and its impact on combat situations is a key reason for the Ranger program, a nine-week course which soldier students are trained in long range patrolling, survival and mountain and jungle operations.

Threefold Purpose
An outline of the scope of mountain operations, the 303 hours of it that the Ranger gets, states a three fold purpose: To provide a working knowledge and understanding of the face of constantly changing situations and extremes of physical and mental stress. To instill in the student a determination and aggressive characteristics of the U. S. Army Ranger. To provide a working knowledge and understanding of the face of constantly changing situations and extremes of physical and mental stress.

It is in the sprawling Chattahoochee National Forest, under simulated combat conditions utilizing a difficult and rugged mountainous terrain. To provide the student a working knowledge and understanding of the face of constantly changing situations and extremes of physical and mental stress.

Who instill in the student a determination and aggressive characteristics of the U. S. Army Ranger. To provide a working knowledge and understanding of the face of constantly changing situations and extremes of physical and mental stress.

ARMY RANGERS REACH TOP OF LEDGE During Rappelling Maneuver at Fort Benning forth across its Tennessee Divide, that the Ranger student learns rappelling at heights up to 3,000 feet.

Double Enrollment
The Army is doubling the number of men who will take this arduous course. The mountain camp will feel the first of this in July when the student begins rappelling down a sheer cliff, the fitness, and the thought of a hill, of any size, could make them ill. But there is no immediate rest for the student after matching the mountain-plate.

Instead, they fly south for another 19½ days in the mountains and the swamps. Terrain that, in 27 days, a man must master in order to become a Ranger.

Vertical Takeoff, Landing Four Concepts Being Evaluated For Use as Military Transports

Eyed as future military transports, four concepts of vertical takeoff and landing aircraft that will fold back and retract rotor blades in flight are being evaluated by Lockheed - California Company engineers under an Air Force contract, it was announced recently.

The retracted rotor aircraft will fly as high-speed, fixed-wing airplanes when the blades are stopped, folded and stowed atop the fuselage.

Far Faster
These VTOL transport - far faster and with much longer range than pure helicopters - could operate from small unimproved sites on rugged terrain. They could be flying by 1972. On ferry missions - minus payload - range could be from California to Hawaii.

The advanced aircraft under study will be of various sizes and have an assortment of passenger - cargo - distance payload capabilities. Engine systems to be investigated include propeller, fanjet and turbo-prop. Trade-offs will be made for the best possible configurations in accordance with missions, cost and schedules.

In addition to a technical analysis, Lockheed engineers will determine costs and schedules, perform design studies, and make design recommendations.

The seven-month study, which also involves several other contractors in the VTOL field, is sponsored by the Air Force Planning Division, Aeronautical Systems Division of the Air Force Systems Command, Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Research on retracted rotor aircraft has been under way at Lockheed for five years and full-scale stoppable rotor test models have successfully completed wind tunnel "flights."

Tactics Award Added To 62nd OC Laurels

The Air Force Systems Command, Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Research on retracted rotor aircraft has been under way at Lockheed for five years and full-scale stoppable rotor test models have successfully completed wind tunnel "flights."

per cent of all officer candidate companies have won the award since its establishment in early 1966, and because of outstanding performance of the most sought after honor offered an OCS company.

The presentation to 62nd Co. was made in Brown Hall following the Company's final leadership class by Col. Robert B. Nett, World War II Medal of Honor recipient, and deputy director of the Company Operations Department.

In his remarks to the Company, Col. Nett stressed the need for good officers, officers who will make the program in Vietnam as a result of a rigorous training program in Officer Candidate School.

Message to Engineers From Chief of Staff

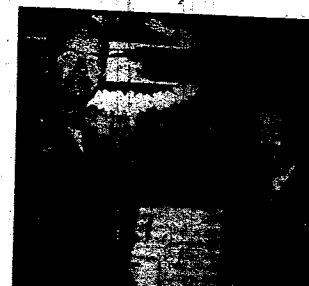

On behalf of the United States Army, I extend sincere congratulations to the members of the Corps of Engineers on the occasion of its 152nd anniversary.

Army Engineers have consistently served the Army and our Nation with courage and distinction. Engineer participation and support have been essential to success in every major battle in our history, from the siege of Bofort to the present magnificent accomplishments in the jungles and swamps and on the beaches of Vietnam. The significance of your motto, "ESSAYONS - Let Us Try" - has again been made clear at Cam Ranh Bay, Vung Roi and Long Binh, among a host of dramatic achievements.

Your comrades in arms also share your pride in being the Army's valiant fighter-builders. Traditionally, you prepare for war while building for peace through the development of our Nation, your achievements are seen in the St. Lawrence Seaway, in our Nation's missile bases, and in your Mississippi River projects. Through such accomplishments, Army Engineers continue to contribute to our national goals while maintaining the skills and leadership required for war.

All the men and women of the Army salute the record of the Army Engineers, with confidence that you will serve our country well in whatever tasks the future may bring.

Army Digest Gives Glimpse Of the Future in July Issue

"The Army of the Future" is the general theme of the July issue of Army Digest, the soldier's magazine.

Among the articles scheduled to appear are:

"Around the World in 80 Days" - What will the Army look like in 1980 or so? The U.S. Army Combat Developments Command deals in the earliest conceptual stages of development, in this article providing a glance at decade hence.

"To the Moon and Beyond" - Who owns the moon? What happens when astronauts from different nations meet in space? These and other provocative questions are answered in this article.

"Battle Lost" - A new regular feature of Army Digest provides eye witness accounts of action in Vietnam. Observations by combat veterans provide tips for future combat soldiers.

"Medic" - He is the man on the spot when the cry "medic" calls for help. He is in the thick of battle, and knows what to do when he is needed.

"Where's the Future?" - Infantryman or communications? The Army's ACT II computer system decides who goes to what position for advanced individual training.

Also scheduled in the 80-page July issue are articles on artillery ride in Vietnam; Engineer OCS, look range patrols, civilian job opportunities overseas and the regular departmental features. One of these "On the Spot," the popular letters feature, is expanded to two pages.

Trophies Given 197th and TSB For Re-Up Rates

Two reenlistment trophies for the first quarter of 1967 were presented by Maj. Gen. Robert H. York during a recent ceremony here.

The all - category trophy was presented to Col. Edward J. Geaney Jr., who accepted for The Student Brigade.

The first term reenlistment trophy was presented to Col. Jack Traskewell, who accepted for the 197th Inf. Bde.

SFC Frederick Oshak is the career counselor for The Student Brigade, and SFC Graham McNeill, Jr., is the career counselor for the 197th Bde.

The ceremony marked the second consecutive time that a reenlistment trophy has been presented to each of the brigades.

Engineer Unit Is Praised For Work at Fort Gordon

Captain Ward L. Sears, commanding officer of a Fort Benning Engineer company which recently completed a temporary assignment at Fort Gordon, was honored and his unit highly praised at ceremonies held prior to their departure.

Major Gen. Walter B. Richardson, commanding general of Fort Gordon, officiated at the ceremonies in which he named the First Oak Leaf Cluster on Ward, commanding officer of 43rd Engr. Bn, Co. C, and presented a plaque to the engineer company in appreciation for their support in helping Fort Gordon prepare for the recently completed Civilian Aides Conference.

"In all my years of soldiering I have never seen an engineer unit so equal yours," said Maj. Gen. Richardson. "Fort Gordon has certainly profited from your invaluable assistance during your stay here. All of us at Fort Gordon appreciate the wonderful help you have given us. You've conducted yourself in an exemplary manner, both during and after duty hours. It's been a tremendous pleasure to have been on the receiving end of your wholehearted, unselfish support."

The plaque was accepted by 1st Sgt. Cornelius B. Sheppard on behalf of the members of Co. C, 43rd Engr. Bn, Fort Benning, Ga., in appreciation for their outstanding and dedicated support during the preparation for the Thirteenth National Civilian Aides Conference at Fort Gordon during the period.

The Hole Story
A firm in Leicester, England, reports that within two weeks it sold more than 80,000 stickers designed to give cars the "James Bond look." The stickers, which sell for a nickel each, give the car the appearance of being ridden with bullet holes.

Major Gen. Richardson, commanding general of Fort Gordon, officiated at the ceremonies in which he named the First Oak Leaf Cluster on Ward, commanding officer of 43rd Engr. Bn, Co. C, and presented a plaque to the engineer company in appreciation for their support in helping Fort Gordon prepare for the recently completed Civilian Aides Conference.

Streamlining Will Improve Readiness of Reserves

"Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance announced last week that the army will reorganize its reserve components in order to improve their wartime strength. Equipment is being procured for the 25 low priority divisions and the necessary support units to maintain equipment and to provide the support required for the reserve component."

"At present, there are 20 divisions, 11 brigades and 13 training divisions in the army's reserve components. The army's reserve will consist of 8 divisions, 10 combat brigades, other combat units, including 13 training divisions, and maneuver commands, the army reserve schools, and the service support units except those necessary to provide for the army national guard and state needs."

"The allocation of all combat and combat support units to the national guard will provide the units most relevant to state missions and will give a basis which has not existed heretofore for allocating a given type of unit to the guard or to the reserve."

There is precedence for this action in the reserve components of the air force. In the army, the army national guard is presently composed of approximately 94 per cent of combat and combat support units. The U. S. Army reserve, on the other hand, consists primarily of mobilization base and service support units with about 79 per cent of its strength in units of that type.

"The realignment is designed to provide army reserve forces as recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Secretary of Defense in April 1967, and to bring the army's reserve component structure into balance with contemporary plans and the supporting equipment program."

"Because of its serious imbalance, the present reserve component structure has serious readiness deficiencies. More than a thousand units are in excess and are not needed. Most of the surplus units are manned at only 50 per cent of full wartime strength and no equipment is being procured for them. At the same time, the army reserve force needs almost a thousand units it does not have."

Base Units

Report Your Cash Tips and Earn Increased Social Security Benefits

Do you depend on tips to boost your earnings? These cash tips can also mean higher social security benefits for you and your family. If you receive cash tips working for one employer, these tips can be counted with your other earnings for social security purposes. The procedure is simple: a written record of your cash tips, give your employer following the month you received them. And make this report to your employer on time; a late report can mean that you will be liable for the penalties and interest that may be assessed by the Internal Revenue Service.

If wages due you will cover the amount of the social security tax on those tips, give your employer a money following with the report of your tips. Your employer will include the tips on the report he makes to the Internal Revenue Service every quarter, and will send the best way to keep track of your tips is to write them down. The social security office has a special booklet, No. 583, especially for this purpose.

Support Group Awarded First 'Minute Man' Flag

More than 800, 16th General Support Gp. soldiers assembled on Parade Field last Friday to see their commander, Col. Arthur V. Corley, accept the unit's first "Minute Man" flag.

The flag was awarded by the Finance Corps for the group's 97.4 per cent participation in the U. S. Savings Bond program.

Medics Skills Also Used to Aid Veterinary Patients

PHUOC VINH, Vietnam—In some instances the skills of Army medics may extend beyond the care of humans. Such was the case with three medics who recently faced the task of treating two water buffalo.

The 1st Bn., 28th Inf. was set up a camp in Quan Lo and patrols were dispatched to guard the perimeter. On one such patrolling mission Pfc Raymond T. Reed encountered a distressed wild animal.

The chief was upset about something but not being able to understand what it was. Reed took him to Sgt. Lewis M. Torres, a great deal of conversation Torres learned that the chief had a wounded cow that had been hit by a charged. Having no experience as a veterinarian, he instructed the chief to bring the wounded animal to the main gate the following day.

The next day, as instructed, the chief brought the gate with two mammoth water buffalo in tow.

Cautionously Sped. 3 Walbura, Spec. 4 Richard D. Rodrigues and Spec. 4 James L. Koester, the three medics assigned to the case made a careful examination of the numerous wounds. The conclusion was immediate, else they would die of blood poisoning.

Not being experienced in the treatment of animals, Walburn radioed Capt. Stephen L. Thompson and Staff Sgt. Martin F. Burkman for instructions. Thompson and Burkman had been scheduled to work on the animals but were sent to a nearby village to help with a Medical Civil Action Program.

After receiving instructions, the medical team performed an operation that lasted for approximately one hour. Torres, who had been watching the operation with interest, volunteered to administer the penicillin shot to the animals. Upon completion of the task Torres said, disheartened but with pride, "That was the first time I ever gave a shot and it would have to be a water buffalo."

To the delight of the operating team and the village chief the operation was a success.

Koester's parting statement to his fellow medics: "No matter what your assigned duties are, you never know what you'll be asked to do next."

PHUOC VINH, Vietnam—The 1st Bn., 28th Inf., just Div. swept into the village of Nuoc Vang with medical aid, gifts and entertainment.

In fact, at times the hamlet looked like "Main Street USA." There was a bandstand that marched up and down and even a fairground of sorts.

The 1st Inf Div band was brought up from Di An to give a touch of pomp and circumstance. As the band made its way through the village, the people came out of their huts smiling.

This was not the first time the citizens of Nuoc Vang were glad to see the "Blue Spaders." Several months earlier they had sought refuge within the battalion's perimeter.

At the time a VC battalion was terrorizing the local populace. They stayed with the Inf. unit until the guerrillas were severely damaged and driven off.

Sergeant Gary Morrill found two villagers that were glad to see the unit and his platoon in particular. "I believe I saw you here," said the man and we saw," related Morrill and his sergeant. "We were both starving. Their clothes were torn and dirty. We had found them rummaging around in our garbage dump."

At that time the sergeant and his men saw to it that she and her child were fed and clothed. Later the men got her a job.

"The last time I saw the baby," said Pfc Keith Hoffmann, "his stomach was swollen and he seemed listless. This time though, when the woman came up to us, he was a bundle of giggles and noise. The woman was proud to show off her child and there was gratitude in her eyes."

Other "Blue Spader" projects were accepted with equal gratitude. The MEDCAP team, though it had no music, was as big an attraction as the doctors and dentists with the complete faith of the patients was trained under the direction of professional medical personnel. The villagers will enjoy continuing medical treatment. "It won't take a long time," said Dr. Story, "but at least we have begun and the people know this."

The grand finale of the day's events was the passing out of gifts and candy. Children flocked around the soldiers and at times the "Blue Spaders" almost disappeared in a mass of shouting, smiling, laughing kids.

The adults lined up and were handed bags of rice, and oatmeal. Captured VC supplies, including bolts of cloth, pants and hammocks were also given out.

CLEAN SWEEP — Putting the broom to collapsible fuel containers is not an uncommon chore for soldiers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade. The fuel drums, made of thick rubber, are used in forward areas. When empty, the drums are cleaned and sent back to Bien Hoa where they are refilled and sent out again by convoy. (U.S. Army Photo)

One old timer exposed his lack of familiarity with modern medicine by sticking his tongue out when his temperature was taken. He apparently had begun and the people to put the thermometer in his tongue, he must look a little funny if you had looked a little funny if you had seen no good purpose in letting him know.

When the battalion first arrived Staff Sgt. Arthur Ky-kid was a bundle of giggles and noise. The woman was proud to show off her child and there was gratitude in her eyes.

Enrollment Increase Seen For ROTC Ranks This Fall

Some 189,000 college students are scheduled for enrollment in the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) Senior Division program during the 1967-1968 school year. This represents an increase of nearly 12,000 over the number participating in ROTC at the beginning of the current school year.

The Army plans to increase the number of college ROTC units during Fiscal Years 1968 and 1969. The Army also plans to expand its Junior ROTC program, which had about 50,000 enrolled at the beginning of the current school year.

The number of units in public and private secondary schools is scheduled to be raised from the present 416 to 465 for the 1967-1968 school year. (ANF)

At present, the ROTC program, a primary source of Army officers, is conducted on 247 college and university campuses in all 50 states, the District of Columbia. More than 150 degree-granting institutions have applied to join the program, which has not added new

Job Completed at Destin Rest Camp by Engineers

Fort Henning Engineers have recently completed a construction project for the Special Services Division at Destin, Fla. Two platoons have been working and living on location, making improvements on the existing facilities and building new structures. Plans call for the eventual construction of two 12 unit motel-type units, for use by visitors. Boats for fishing and water skiing will be docked along a new marina to be constructed inshore near the new motel units.

Exhibit Features World War II Art

War art commissioned by the American and German Armies of World War II went on exhibition at the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts, 1251 Wynnton Road. The 15 pieces of American war art feature soldiers fighting the European and Pacific Theaters. A reception sponsored by the Fort Benning Officers' Wives' Club opened the exhibit, which features the Corps of Engineers, captured the drama graphically with vivid paintings of artillery fire, the jungles of the coral islands, the rubble of cities, foxholes and casualties. Artists who served in the war have continued to distinguish themselves. Olin Adams, whose water color "Early Morning Near St. Lo" as the War Painters and exhibited, is a famous artist who has written and illustrated several books. Other artists of the oil, watercolor, carbon pencil and drawing, whose works appeared include Edward A. Barse Miller, Joseph Smith, Norman Nichols, Steven R. Kidd, Bernard Arnest, and John Pike.

Headquarters at Potsdam, the 80 artists would go to the Eastern and Western Front for months at a time, then return to Germany to finish his paintings based on combat sketches.

Popular in Germany both during and after the war, many of these paintings were captured and taken to the U.S. Included in the exhibit are "The Wehrmacht," which had been ordered by postal piece. Among the artists are Herold of uniformed artists to Adolf Hitler to organize a staff of the First World War veterans' group and Wilhelm Im-

Government Insurance

War Veterans Can Profit By Re-Examining Policies

ATLANTA — Most World War II and Korean War veterans can profit by re-examining their government life insurance policies. Pete Wheeler, director, Georgia Department of Veterans Service, said last week. "The GI policy is flexible and can be changed to meet current needs. The kind of coverage most of us need when we were discharged does not fit our needs today," Wheeler said.

He suggested that policyholders check these particular points: Beneficiary. The government must pay the person named in the policy as beneficiary in case of your death. The policyholder can name his own beneficiary. Payment in case of death. The GI policy offers its owner an option of four types of payments to the beneficiary. Policyholders can best determine their individual needs. Conversion. Term insurance provides protection only for a specified period, and can be renewed at higher premiums. It may benefit the policyholder to convert to one of seven types of permanent insurance. The policyholder should select the one best suited to his needs. Disability rider. For a small sum you can add a disability rider to the policy.

Slot is Filled By Col. Wolff, IG Is Named

Colonel Herbert E. Wolff after 15 months in Vietnam, has returned to Fort Benning, as deputy assistant commander of The Infantry School.

In another change, Col. John J. Roberts Jr., deputy director of the Weapons Department, has been named Inspector General of The Infantry Center.

While in Vietnam, Col. Wolff served first as G-3, U. S. Army Vietnam, and then as Chief of Staff of the 3rd Army (Airborne). Before going to Vietnam, he had served here as director of instruction for the School from May 24, 1956, to March 25, 1956. He was chief of the Tactical Group and Battalion Operations Department from July, 1964, to May, 1965.

Wolff received a battlefield commission during the World War II Luzon Campaign in 1945. A master parachutist, he holds bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from George Washington University.

He is a graduate of The Infantry School, The Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Colonel Roberts came to the post in 1963. He served as deputy commander of The Infantry Center for a year, then as commander of the 3rd Army (Airborne) in 1964. He is a graduate of The Infantry School, The Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Flag Day Ceremony Held

Colonel Valerio M. Mastandrea, deputy commander of the United States Army Training Center here, was guest speaker at a Flag Day ceremony in Columbus, Wednesday at the intersection of 12th Street and Broadway.

The ceremony was sponsored by the Columbus Elks Club and conducted with the assistance of the Fort Benning Infantry Center Band and a color detail provided by Co. C, 1st Bn., 28th Inf., 197th AF Bde.

Lieutenant Col. J. J. Tobin, commander of the 1st Bn., 28th Inf., holder of the Medal of Honor, was guest of honor at Flag Day ceremonies also sponsored by Elks in Lexington, Ga.

In honor of the Army's 102nd birthday which coincided with Flag Day, Fort Benning flew its United States flag in front of Infantry Hall from the various state flags; each leading its own particular race to the display.

Governor to Speak

By Spec. 4 Larry Mahoney, commandant, will welcome the veterans and their wives in the state-wide training camps (racing for a crack at Kaiser Bill, or aboard troop ships steaming for France. Today, 200 veterans of the First World War will be back with the Army, but as guests.

These Georgia veterans of the century's first great conflict will spend six hours at the Infantry School, viewing the training of an Army that still "remembers" their 1917 version.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, DIRECTOR, THE U.S. ARMY TRAINING CENTER, FORT BENNING, GA., speaks to the veterans at the 50th Anniversary of World War I Post Tour.

USMA Cadets Arrive Here for Training Visit

By Al Spratley

Six Air Force C-141s, touched down at Lawson Army Airfield here last night, bringing some 725 senior cadets of the U. S. Military Academy for a 3 1/2 day orientation and tactical training visit.

The lead plane, which was met by Brig. Gen. James S. Timothy, Assistant Commandant of TIS and other staff officers, contained cadets from the Georgia-Alabama area, including three sons of Fort Benning families. They are: senior cadets John G. Hathaway, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John F. Hathaway; William J. Higgins, son of Col. and Mrs. William J. Higgins Jr.; and Neil A. McClean, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Neil A. McClean Jr.

The future officers today will start their itinerary with Gen. York's official welcome in Marshall Auditorium of Infantry Hall at 10 a.m. They then will be divided into three groups for briefings, demonstrations and actual participation in tactical exercises.

AF Academy Group Seeks 'Wings' Here

A different kind of "wings" is the goal for 186 cadets from the U.S. Air Force Academy now training at the Infantry School.

These wings are the badge of a parachutist, worn by men who complete the Army's three-week jump course at the Airborne School here.

The air cadets, one first classman (senior) and the remainder second classmen are also taking a jump course at the Airborne School here.

Others from the Colorado Springs, Colo., academy are spending a portion of the summer at the Jungle Survival School in Panama. And others are learning deep sea diving and underwater demolition from the Navy or taking advanced parachute training at the academy.

Four officers from the academy are also taking a jump course here now. They are Lt. Col. James Banks, scheduling officer for the dean, instructor Maj. Fred Hayward and Capt. Michael Keating, a d'Ardeur native. They are Lt. Capt. Larry Means, aide to the academy superintendent, and Major Martin S. Baker is the air officer commanding the cadet squadron here.

He completed parachute training here last year. He will pass her crown to a new friend all the same.

Benning Queen to Crown New Winner at Carnival

The daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert A. Cronk, she was crowned last year on July 4 at the Youth Activities Club (YAC) carnival.

This Independence Day she will pass her crown to a new friend following a selection of the Youth Activities Club (YAC) carnival.

She has blonde hair and a most piercing blue eyes ever set above a pug nose. Born at Fort Knox, Ky., 18 years ago, this slender beauty is the reigning Teen Queen of Fort Benning, Ninas Cronk.

She plans to avoid marriage "at least until I finish college."

But she has a steady boyfriend all the same. As the daughter of a career soldier, she has visited the youth activities club carnival.

of the epic poem "I Am The Infantry" will follow. A verse on the original doughboys: "At Chateaublanc, Thier, first over the top, in the Argonne, I broke the Kaiser's spine . . ."

After an airborne and pathfinders' demonstration, the veterans will view the Infantry Museum then watch "Quick Kill" marksmanship training.

Training in July, they are Lt. Col. James Banks, scheduling officer for the dean, instructor Maj. Fred Hayward and Capt. Michael Keating, a d'Ardeur native. They are Lt. Capt. Larry Means, aide to the academy superintendent, and Major Martin S. Baker is the air officer commanding the cadet squadron here.

The Combat Development Command charged with testing and development of Infantry weapons and equipment. The cadets will have the evening meal at Hook Range and then journey to Higley Hill for observation of a training exercise involving the rifle company and platoon in counter-guerrilla operations.

Monday's full day schedule will be concluded at Ruth Range, following the Higley Hill exercise, with the staging of a rifle company in night defense which simulates the night defense of Plei Men in Vietnam. The Intralong demonstration is scheduled to begin at 9:40.

An Air-mobility briefing will be conducted for the entire group in Marshall Auditorium at 9:30 Tuesday morning, with closing remarks by Gen. York. The cadets will return to their billets and begin packing for departure with the first planes due to leave Lawson Army Airfield at 12:30.

Fort Belvoir. The cadets will go from Fort Benning to Fort Belvoir, for Army Engineer orientation, then to Fort Monmouth, N.J. on Thursday for Signal Corps demonstrations after which they will return to West Point, N.Y.

Before coming here they visited Fort Knox, Ky., Fort Bliss, Texas and Fort Sill, Okla. Other cadets in the group from Georgia and Alabamian locales include: Georgia, Floyd T. Banks Jr., Thomasville; Charles R. Brooks, Griffin; Richard C. Hines, Thomaston; Daniel J. Kaufman, Brunswick; Rommie J. Lane, Colquitt; Charles S. Mahan, Sparta; James A. Wright, Rome; Larry C. Baker, Moultrie; and Robert A. Brace II, Atlanta.

Llewellyn, Montgomery; Duncan Francis Stewart Jr. and George G. Tillery Jr., Fort Rucker; and Michael E. Havey, who attended Sidney Lanier High School in Montgomery. His parents are now at Sheppard AFB, Texas.

MAJ. GEN. ROBERT H. YORK, post commander, and Mrs. York will host a reception and dance in honor of the Class of 1967 of the United States Military Academy. The event will be from 8 to 10 p.m. this evening at the Main Officers' Club.

Included in the receiving line will be Maj. Gen. and Mrs. York, Brig. Gen. Charles M. Mount Jr., commander of the Army Training Center, and Mrs. Mount, Brig. James S. Tandy, assistant commander of The Infantry School, and Col. D. G. Sherrard, deputy post commander, and Mrs. Sherrard.

Seven hundred and twelve cadets and their guests are expected to attend. Music at the dance will be provided by The Accents and The Crowns.

Hail and Farewell Party Honors Officers

The officers and ladies of the 2nd Missile Bn. (Little John) 42nd Arty, held a "Hail and Farewell Party" recently at the home of battalion commander Lt. Col. and Mrs. Herbert H. Martin.

Those welcomed to the battalion were 1st Lt. Richard D. Cathy and 1st Lt. and Mrs. Donald Z. Messer.

Prior to his present assignment as the 42nd's S-4, Cathy was tactical advisor to an Air Defense command post in Korea.

Messer, who has assumed the duties of communications officer, was assigned from a corresponding duty position in the 96th Armor.

Messer has been at Fort Benning since September 1966, serving most of this period with the Army Training Center.

Farewells were said to Capt. and Mrs. Felipe H. Galaviz, 1st Lt. and Mrs. E. M. (Max) Bilinski, 2nd Lt. Ernest Buys and WO1 and Mrs. Eulas E. Earl.

EARLY BIRD BREAKFAST

An early bird breakfast will mark the monthly meeting of E-4 and E-5 wives at the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry, Tuesday, at 9:30 a. m. at the Sand Hill NCO Club.

Hostesses for the breakfast will be wives of headquarters personnel. Mrs. Foy M. Reeves will coordinate arrangements.

Two firsts were recorded by Army Community Services (ACS) here recently at Hospitality House.

ACS 1000 Hour Club, a club of volunteers who have given at least 1000 hours of volunteer service to ACS, was initiated as the first such organization in the Army.

Mrs. Wayne Cliff, outgoing chairman of Hospitality House, and Mrs. Donald Potrafka, outgoing co-chairman, were then given a special "thank you" cake by ACS in appreciation of their outstanding service at Hospitality House during the past year.

Colonel Robert L. Eaton, chief of the Personnel Management Division of the office of the Director of Personnel, thanked the two ladies for their part in making the Fort Benning's Hospitality House "number one" in the Third Army, and awarded them Infantry plaques.

Mrs. Wilburn Hatley, outgoing president of the Non-commissioned Officers' Wives' Club, presented certificates of appreciation to Mrs. Cliff, Mrs. Potrafka, Mrs. William Bainbridge, Mrs. Othob Valent, Mrs. Frank W. Harber and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson for their service at Hospitality House.

BRIDGE CLASSES SET

Just how much Fort Benning's teen set thinks of Mrs. Fraker is shown by the fact that an April Fool's Day Dance, Mrs. Fraker calmly announced to the teen set last night as director of Teen Square." Immediately as if some great tragedy had struck, only the gasp, "Oh, no!" interrupted the silence.

Mrs. Daisy Fraker is 'Mom' To Many Post Teenagers

By Jane Banker
"Mom" of Fort Benning's teen-agers at Teen Square, is Mrs. Daisy Fraker, wife of Lt. Col. (Ret.) Harold D. Fraker.

Mrs. Fraker is the full-time director of the Fort Benning Teen Club.

Full-time means just that. Being the director of Teen Square would be a large responsibility for anyone, but because she is so devoted to teen-agers and so deeply concerned for every one of the young people, her job becomes a seven-day-a-week all-day job.

"When Teen Square opens, I'm there," she says. "Teen Square is open from 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, from 4:30 p.m. Fridays to 1:15 p.m. Saturdays, and 2 p.m. Sundays. It remains open until midnight for Saturday night dances.

and a swimming pool for the club, and now she's hoping for a club library and a quiet study area.

Through their own projects teens make enough money to pay for the band at their dances. The teen age girls have volunteered their time for work in the post Thrift Shop and for work with the Red Cross at Martin Army Hospital.

Teen Square members work all summer in their own employment program with Mrs. Fraker as its director. "They work for construction companies, the Main Officers Club, and downtown. Their biggest job, however, is selling ice cream on post," she says. Last year the Youth Activities Club's share of the ice cream sales, 10 per cent, amounted to over $2,000.

Mrs. Fraker's success at Fort Benning is not an accident. She has worked with young people all over the world since 1945.

It started with helping in a nursery at Fort Bragg, N.C., then teaching Kindergarten at Aachenburg, Germany in 1951, and being a member of the Board of Governors for schools at Junction City, Kans. "The age levels of my groups got older as my two daughters grew up," she says.

Her work with teens began in Germany. "It seems in preference was dropped, Fort Benning had nowhere to go on its way, and Mrs. Fraker worked her way into the heart of every teen who affectionately calls her "Mom."

Recently, one astonished Cleveland, Ohio, Explorer Scout who was a guest at a teen dance, asked her, "All these kids who are calling you 'Mom'... they're not all yours, are they?" "Son, they certainly are," she immediately answered. And that is exactly the way and Bud Krausmach, she

She started by building a teen club at Schweinfurt, Germany.

When the family moved to Darmstadt, Germany, she took her ideas for a teen club with her. She started a summer program there and her reputation as a teen club director spread throughout Germany.

New Club Cards Now Available At Teen Square!

New Teen Club membership cards are now available at Teen Square from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and are a necessity for those wishing to attend Teen Club functions.

Prior to being issued a Teen Club card, teenagers must go to YAC Headquarters and receive a YAC Club card. These cards will be issued between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

By taking your YAC Club card to Building 1064, Mrs. Daisy Fraker, Teen Club director will issue a Teen Club Card. No teenager will be admitted to any Teen Club function without this card.

The next activity planned by Teen Square will be a dance tomorrow night from 9:30 p.m. featuring the "Stolen Children." All members and guests are invited.

Post Is Given Two Awards For Donation

Distinguished service awards for the post's $47,000 contribution to two recent fund drives were presented to Maj. Gen. Robert H. York here last week.

The awards were given to the general by Bob Brown, International Service Agencies, and William H. Myers, National Health Agencies, both of Atlanta.

Brown said Fort Benning's donation to the joint fund drive was the largest in the southeast region, which is comprised of four states and Puerto Rico.

The framed awards commended Gen. York and the command for exceptional public service.

The two representatives of the agencies also delivered in the drive, will be presented Gen. York awards for Col. at a later date.

Rangers Given Additional Task

The mountain Ranger Camp at Dahlonega, Ga. has temporarily taken on a new type of mission. In addition to their usual training of the Ranger classes they are presently working with the 3rd Squadron, 17th Cav. from Fort Knox, Ky.

The 3rd Squadron is an Air Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron, patterned after the famed 1st Squadron, 9th Cav. which was trained at Fort Benning and is presently in Vietnam with the 1st Air Cav. Div.

During a two-week break between ranger student cycles, the Rangers will teach the fledgling Cavalrymen mountaineering techniques, escape and evasion, survival, helicopter rappelling and combat patrolling.

A Smashing Problem

When one Franklin, Ind., resident gets cheated by the machine age, he gets mad. Police said the man in question tried to make a phone call from a roadside telephone booth.

When the telephone gobbled up his dime without giving him a call in exchange, he hopped into his car and smashed the booth to bits. He was arrested.

Office Opens Here to Give Aid in Financial Matters

A letter of indebtedness can cause stress to a soldier and his commander. The soldier who has a letter of indebtedness is not an asset to his unit," says the distribution publicizing the Financial Management Counseling Office (FMCO) here.

The FMCO which opened recently is located in building 5, Vibert Ave., Main Post, in Room 1303.

"This office was established to provide an effective command program to assist military personnel and their dependents in personal financial management," said the distribution.

Second Lt. William J. Lusey, officer in charge of the office, said, "There are three ways to enroll in this program. You may realize your problem and contact the office, your CO may receive a letter of indebtedness and refer you to the office or a creditor may call this office and the office will contact you to see if you are interested in entering the program."

Entering Program

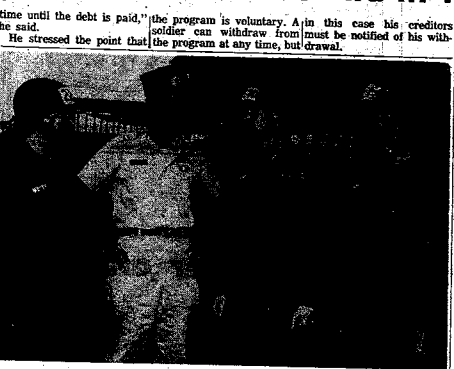

"He went on to explain the procedure of entering the program. The first step, he said, is the initial interview, where the men of the office determine if the problem should be handled by the FMCO.

The program is explained to the man and he is asked to think it over. If he should want to enter the program, he is asked to return and bring his wife if he is married. "The wives have a more complete idea of their debts," Lusey said.

Upon the second interview, the men at the FMCO work out a budget which will help them control the income, by paying the essentials for life and trying to spend what is left evenly among the creditors.

Businessmen informed

"The businessmen in town have been informed of this program," Lusey said, "most of them are going along with our program." "The businessmen that do along with our program are willing to take a small portion of the payment due over a period of

AF JUMP STUDENTS . . . Col. Lamar Welch, director of the Airborne Department, talks with three cadets from the USAF Academy taking paratrooper training here.

The budget drawn up by the FMCO is firm according to Lusey, but can be flexed with no trouble to meet emergencies. It is also renewed every month to take into consideration any new problems which may appear.

Lusey explained that when a man has volunteered for this program, his CO is no longer bothered by creditors for is the man, therefore the soldier can perform his job with greater efficiency.

He further added, "A man under our program can establish confidence in himself and this confidence will spread to the confidence of his job."

Trainee Band Featured At Graduation Ceremony

Throughout their eight-weeks of basic combat training, trainees in Co. B, 11th Airborne, 3rd Bde., U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, have marched to classes and training areas in the regiment of the own trainee band. Since the 3rd Bde. was formed in March 1967, Co. B has had a trainee band in all but one cycle.

At the company graduation ceremonies, Lt. Col. Carl M. Zilian, battalion commander, commented on the excellence of this cycle's band in its rendition of the National Anthem. He further stated that Co. B showed an outstanding display of military courtesy serving as a staff sergeant with the 1st Cav. Div. in Vietnam.

awarded trophies for excellence in various phases of their Basic training. In addition, the Bronze Star Medal was presented to 2nd Lt. Horatio Taveau IV, training officer in Co. B. Lieutenant Trainee was awarded the medal for meritorious service while serving as a staff sergeant with the 1st Cav. Div. in Vietnam.

The awards were presented by Col. William R. Hanks, brigade commander. Music was furnished by the trainee band during the graduation ceremonies. The band included a saxophone, trumpet, snare and bass drums.

Army Nurse in Vietnam Finds Satisfaction in Her Job

LIU CHI, Vietnam — "Rewarding and frustrating love working as a nurse in Vietnam," said Lt. Flora Sullivan. "It's almost hard to explain my feelings but there is so much satisfaction in helping people... people who need us."

"There are times when it can be very frustrating. For example when a patient has a limb amputated. When he wakes up, he'll ask why it happened in him. There's hardly anything I can say. Sometimes I want to cry but I know I can't," she added.

"I worked in a civilian hospital for three months before joining the service and I find that military nursing is far more advanced than civilian. We treat different types of cases and keep up with the latest medical and nursing techniques," she said.

CAPTURED VC... A staggered road patrol moves through a village after over-running a VC tax point. The captured VC ringleader rides bound and blindfolded in the foreground vehicle. Thousands of pounds of destroyed merchandise were found along the tax point roadside where the VC dumped the valuables of civilians who were unable to pay the tax.

MTU Weapons Maintained By Ex-Army Pistol Shooter

Behind the Army Blue Pistol Team, which is the winningest team the Army has ever fielded, are many talented and experienced men. One of them is SFC Jack Maple. He is a gunsmith with accurate guns. Good gunsmiths were not readily available so he tinkered with his own pistols and became proficient enough to become the gunsmith for the USAR-EUR Pistol Team.

524th Holds League Lead In CTC Ball

Make up games and forfeitures because of two teams dropping out of the League. He learned by hard work and research and study on the score of some teams by his own. Since then his training has been formalized by attendance at schools at Starnmetz (Switzerland), the Walther Co., Germany and the Smith and Wesson Co. in the United States.

Hunt Club Set to Compete In 12th Annual Pony Rally

Five horses at the Fort Benning Hunt Club are getting full grown horses. The term Pony Club comes from England where all children's mounts are called ponies. The object of the Pony Club is to encourage young people to ride and to learn to enjoy all kinds of sports connected with horses and riding.

Gun Club Invites Soldiers to Shoot

Soldiers at Fort Benning have been invited to participate in the World Street Shooting Championships to be held at the Forest City Gun Club in Savannah, Ga., from July 29 to Aug. 5, 1967.

Golf Matches Scheduled At Officers' Club Course

The 1967 Infantry Center Golf Championship, conducted by Special Services, will be held July 18, 21 at the Officers' Club GOLF Course. All personnel on active duty at Fort Benning are eligible to participate.

Local Residents To Be Honored By Atlanta Team

The residents of Columbus will be honored at Columbus Night at Atlanta Stadium July 13 when the Braves play the Philadelphia Phillies. Game time will be 8:05 p.m. Among the guests honored will be Mayor B. Ed Johnson of Columbus who will throw the first ball and Brig. Gen. Charles Mount, commander of the U. S. Army Infantry Center. Tickets are on sale at the sport office of Special Services.

The 197th Infantry Brigade baseball team remains top dog in the post league standings taking its two most recent games to boost its worst record to 9-0. In the 197th's second Martin Army Hospital game, the first inning saw the gun cross the plate for the 197th. Singles by Mike Ward, Tito Santiago, Larry Bruno, Rob Montico, Bob Strub; Manuel Crespo and Jim Throver plus doubles by Alonzo Williams and Jim Inlubar along with six walks added up to the surplus of runs. Ward and Bruno both got two singles in that same inning. Ward going to the plate three times.

Two Runs MAH did manage two runs on two walks, a single and an error but with the ten run rule in effect the game was over. This game was probably one of the few one inning ball games in the post league's history. Throver got the win for the 197th. Odd Scores TSIB

In the game with the Student Brigade the 197th trounced the main post team 8-0 on nine hits and no errors. The scoring started in the second inning with the 197th getting one run on Bruno's single and Ed McDonald's double. Five runs were scored in the third. Tom Winkler took first on an error, followed by Inlubar who got on base on a fielder's choice. Bruno then singled in a run. McDonald walked and Crespo batted home three runs on a double. Crespo himself then scored on a wild pitch.

Anti-Tank Missile Arrives Here for Service Testing

The tube-launched weapon can be carried by four men and fired from the ground, or it can be transported by more personnel carrier, or fired from an M113 armor or from the versatile M274 Army Mule. Also, the highly mobile system is air transportable by helicopter and can be fired while airborne.

Liaison Slot Filled Here By German.

Lieutenant Col. Karl-Horst Louis Fordland Gustav von Wulffen was recently assigned as German liaison officer at The Infantry School. Colonel von Wulffen originally entered active service in 1956 at Luebeck, Germany and saw combat duty from 1959 to 1965 during World War II.

He reentered active service in 1966 and was stationed at an Officers' School in Hannover, Germany until 1969, when he was reassigned to the Defense Military in Bonn. From 1963 to 1967, he served as commander of an

General Truman Pays Last Visit Before Retiring

A 15-gun salute on York Airborne Corps, took command of Third Army on July 15, 1965.

Fort Benning commander, Maj. Gen. Robert H. York will assume command of the XVIII Corps at its Fort Bragg Headquarters when Gen. Throckmorton retires from military service July 31.

General Truman, who will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. John H. Throckmorton, present commander of the XVIII

Participating in the welcoming event was an honor guard and colors detail from Co. C, 1st Bn., 28th Infantry, A, 2nd Bn., 10th Arty., and the Infantry Center Band.

General and Mrs. Truman were honored guests at a reception and dinner at the Main Officers' Club Thursday evening.

The next stop during the

ACS Nominated

"Best in the Army" is what Fort Benning's Army Community Service (ACS) is striving for. The ACS here and the ACS of Fort Sain Houston, Tex. has recently been nominated by the Continental Army Command at Fort Monmouth, Va., to compete for the title.

The winner will be named July 23 by the Department of the Army.

As Vets Tour Post WWI Memories Rekindled

World War I. I almost became a reality here last Friday. There was not the roar of cannons, hand to hand combat or trench warfare — just memories. The magnificents were those of the 200th S. J. Dunstan-Clark, Joseph Daniels, Admiral Stross and Gen. Pershing. The book, which was formerly owned by Skinner's father, a World War I veteran, is to be put on display in the Infantry Museum.
