VA questions and answers

Q — How can I get the money VA owes me for my husband while I was in school on the GI bill and how much time do I have to complete the necessary paperwork?

A — Contact the nearest VA regional office about filing a claim for the money. Claims will be accepted until July 1, 1976.

Q — I have been receiving my pension check from the Veterans Administration monthly without fail until this month. How come?

A — You neglected to notify VA that you moved to a new address.

Q — I receive nonservice-connected disability pension. I recently received an inheritance from a deceased relative. Will this affect my VA pension this year?

A — The inheritance will not affect your pension for the year in which it was received. However, any interest, dividends, etc. which you may draw in years to come as a result of the inheritance will count as income and must be included on your annual income questionnaire requested by the VA.

Q — What is the "man-on-campus" program I keep hearing about?

A — It is an all-out effort by the Veterans Administration to place a man on college campuses to insure prompt delivery of GI Bill educational assistance checks by expediting change of addresses, dependency status or training program.

Benning Doughboys

Atlanta Centurions

Adult football returns to the Tri-City area Saturday night when the Ft. Benning Doughboys open their season against the Atlanta Police Department Centurions at 7 pm in Ft. Benning's Doughboy Stadium.

The 1976 Doughboys are comprised of former college and high school players who have been practicing during their off-duty time since late September under the guidance of Coach Wayne Boles. LTC Boles played half-back for the Arkansas Razorbacks in the late 1950's and has been active in coaching throughout his Army career.

The Ft. Benning offense will be geared to the passing of Joe Duenas, who played for the University of Colorado Buffaloes, and the running of Julian Williams, former High School All-American from Rome, GA. The defense will be anchored by linebacker Gary Pestrak and defensive end Pete Martin, both former West Point stars.

Admission to the game is free and the public is invited.

PEP RALLY!

Doughboys ready

By Jack Barham
Assistant Head Coach

The Ft. Benning Doughboys will be counting on speed and precision to counter size and strength, as the Infantrymen open their season against the awesomely big Atlanta Centurions tomorrow night.

Led by 285 pound middle guard J. T. Kennedy, the policemen present a defensive front five averaging 231 pounds per man. The Centurion offensive line averages even heavier, with end O. J. Richardson listed as the lightest man on the front line at 221.

The big team from the Atlanta Bureau of Police Services counts primarily on a power type offense, with Clarence Hiley, their 225 pound fullback grinding out yardage behind their massive offensive line and speedy halfback Alphonse Carey running power sweeps to both sides of the field.

Depending on who starts, the Doughboy offensive line will average about 210 pound per man, the defense a little more. We're counting on quickness and agility to make up for lack of size, and we think it will. Our offense depends more upon precision execution than sheer power, and offensive line coach Jerry Johnson has really tested his line on quick moves at the snap of the ball.

We're counting on guards George Brown and Carlos Hays and tackles Tim Davis and Ed Winnall to move the big policemen enough to get our fast backs into the defensive secondary. Backing up the first four will be Julian Bridges and Jeff Johnson at guards and Frank Sorrells and Robert Johnson at tackles. Line play, always a critical factor, will be especially decisive against the Centurions.

Outsided or not, the Doughboy coaching staff expects to move the football. The Centurions bring a 2 and 1 record to the game, having lost only to the semi-pro Cougars of North Fulton County. The Doughboys bring six weeks of tough practice, the physical standards of the Infantry, and a stadium full of determination.

We're hoping for a lot of support from Doughboy fans.

fins, furs, feathers

By Denny Blankenship

Being aware of the plight of fishermen's wives, a group of concerned, far thinking fishermen have decided to something about it, they have formed an organization called "Fishermen's Anonymous." So for all you wives, the next time your husband gets the urge to go fishing, call them. They'll send someone over to drink with him until the urge passes.

Boy, you think it doesn't take guts to write something like that now don't go and throw this in the trash can yet, there's more.

I was returning from a fishing trip recently, riding along with two retired colonels when one said to the other, "Joe, you and I have been fishing together for thirty years and all during this time I've saved this bottle of bourbon here. Now I have one favor to ask of you. When I die, would you please pour this over my grave?"

Joe eyed the bottle, scratched his head, thought for a moment and replied, "Sure, but do you mind if I pass it through my kidneys first?"

I know that's enough of that, so on with the news.

The team of LTCol Joe Coffman and MAJ Ken Collins caught ten fish to win the Post Bass Club's tournament on Lake Martin last weekend. The winning duo caught their fish using 4-5 green worms on a 20 foot ledge. Congratulations gang. All you other bassers hang in there now. Better luck the next time.

All you hunters should get off your duff and get on over to PMO and get all the necessary hunting permits. A word to the wise, avoid the last minute rush. I have heard a lot of hammering out in the woods lately. Apparently folks are busy building deer stands. Game management reports a bumper crop of deer on the reservation and if you're any kind of hunter at all you should be able to bag one.

Ponder this until next week: Everytime I think of debate, I think of dafish.

Immunization program begins today

whether their child falls into this group.

Immunizations for civilians should start in mid-November, but is dependent on arrival of the proper vaccine to be used.

In spite of a number of adverse reactions reported in the news media, the influenza vaccine administered so far has been extremely safe.

A poll of Army Posts, which have already started their influenza immunizations, shows no unusual numbers of reactions. Reactions reported at Ft. Knox, KY were after a combination of influenza, typhoid and tetanus shots had been administered followed by strenuous physical activity. The number of deaths in the older age group has not exceeded the expected number and no relationship to the influenza vaccine was found after an extensive investigation by the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Some individuals will develop soreness and fever after vaccination. However, these symptoms should only last a couple of days. If symptoms last longer, the individual should seek medical care. Aspirin should alleviate most reactions. Persons who are allergic to egg or egg products should not receive the vaccine.

With the vast majority of Americans being susceptible to swine flu, it is possible that there could be an epidemic this winter. The vaccine has been tested and should protect most people who take it.

American Red Cross volunteers and volunteer nurses interested in assisting with the Ft. Benning influenza immunization program should call Martin Army Hospital Red Cross at 544-3288 between 8 am and 4:30 pm.

Custom began with 'Jack' and devil

No Halloween would be complete without the traditional jack-o-lantern. A pumpkin, hollowed out and carved with a gruesome face and lighted with a candle on the inside.

The jack-o-lantern is an Irish tradition. During earlier times, people in the old Irish country didn't have pumpkins, but they took rutabagas, potatoes, or turnips, hollowed them out, carved them with awesome faces, and lighted them with a candles to serve as lanterns.

The name jack-o-lantern comes from the Irish tale of a man named Jack who was notorious for his drunkenness and meanness.

According to Ralph and Adelin Linton "Halloween through Twenty Centuries," the story goes that on a certain Halloween night, Jack had taken one drink too many at a local pub and his soul began to slip away from his drunken body. The devil appeared at his side to claim his spirit, but Jack wasn't ready to give it up.

So he begged the devil to have a drink with him before, they left. Satan agreed, but Jack would have to pay for the drinks because he never carried any drinks money with him.

Jack then conned the devil into turning himself into a sixpence to help pay for the drinks.

"I have only sixpence," said Jack, "but you can change yourself into any shape, so they say. Change yourself into sixpence and then you can change back again when I've paid for the tot of grog."

Muttering an incantation, the devil changed himself into a shiny new sixpence. Jack immediately snatched up the coin and put it into his wallet which had a silver catch in the shape of a cross on it. Of course the cross prevented the devil from getting out.

He made the Devil promise to leave him alone for a year, before he would let him out. Jack had it in mind to reform within that year, take his pay home to his wife and children instead of spending it in the pub, go to Mass every Sunday and put the money in the poor box. Then Satan wouldn't be able to take his soul. However, as soon as Jack felt out of danger, he went back to his sinful ways.

That next Halloween, as Jack was hurrying home alone on a country road, the Devil suddenly appeared walking beside him and Jack knew that he had come to reclaim his soul.

As they walked, they came to a tree hung with big red apples. Jack suggested that the Devil climb on his shoulders so that he could reach into the tree for some. As soon as Satan had climbed into the tree, Jack carved the sign of the cross on the tree so that the devil was unable to come down.

He then made the Devil promise that he wouldn't ever come after his soul anymore, before releasing him from the tree.

However, before the next Halloween, Jack's body just wore out and his soul had to go some place. He was turned away from heaven because he had been mean and stingy all his life. When he got to the gates of hell, the Devil turned him away because he had tricked him into not claiming his soul.

"But where am I to go?" asked Jack.

"Back where you came from."

"How can I find my way in the windy dark?"

The Devil answered by throwing Jack a chunk of live coal from the hell furnace. Jack put it inside a turnip he was gnawing and with this "Jack-o-lantern" he has been wandering the earth ever since, a lost soul with no place to go.

10-8 on the warpost

By "HOSS" KACI 4615

Some 60 CBers attended the coffee break at the Main Post Recreation Center October 20th. These coffee breaks are held on the third Thursday of every month.

On the way to the Rec Center, I was channel-hopping and heard some cottonpicker say that he wasn't going because there would be no booze allowed. Mind you, I enjoy a drop of spiritus frumenti on occasion, but I'd have to say that everybody at the coffee break had a good time despite (or maybe because of) the lack of alcohol, and nobody had to drive home after having a few too many.

Anyway, the fun started at 7:30 when Tumbleweed handed out some "13-code" lists. This amusing list had obviously been edited down from an X-rated one. Some examples: 13-7 "If you can't copy me it must be your fault because I'm running 3000 watts"; 13-22 "Lady, is that your voice or did you install a steam whistle?"; 13-46 "That's a new antenna? I could get a better signal out of a six-inch piece of damp string."

Prizewinners at this month's coffee break were: Scooterpie, Red Dog, Good Humor Man, Midnight Rider, Lone Wolf, Blue Pinto, Montana Rebel, Mr. Blue, Seven-up, Texas Hotrodder, Snoopy, Mary B, Dragonfly, Pebbles, Mad Hatter and Checkmate. 13-4 and 13-6 to anyone I missed.

Next month's coffee break will be on November 25th at noon and will be a bring-your-own Thanksgiving dinner. For details, give Checkers a call on channel one. Also being planned is a Christmas party with a band on December 17th. Watch this column for details.

Worst joke at the coffee break: "What do you call the hair on a robot's arm? Tin Fur!"

From the Benning Bulletin: "USAIC Supplement 1 to AR 105-4 is presently under revision. During the interim, all requests for authorization to operate Citizen Band radios on Ft. Benning will be made in four copies and accompanied by a copy of valid FCC license. (DC-E 5-1765)"

Radiant Vibrations

The 18 attractive and enthusiastic singers and dancers from the University of South Carolina are coming back to Ft. Benning on November 6th and 7th. Their performances feature a repertoire of songs, choreography, solo numbers, specialty acts and instrumental selections by their eight-piece combo.

The Radiant Vibrations, directed by Richard Conant, brought the house down when they performed for AIT and were well received at the Recreation Centers and Ft. Benning clubs.

NCOA General Membership Meeting

The NCOA will have their general membership meeting in the form of a Halloween party at 3542 Victory Drive, on October 29th B.Y.O.B. and costume, and fun begins at 7:30 pm.

Tackle Football For Soldiers

A Post Football team "The Doughboys," has been revitalized after several years' lapse. The last time was in 1964 when the stadium was full for every game played at Doughboy Stadium. Three games have been scheduled, and all games will be played at Ft. Benning. In connection with the three games, outstanding halftime ceremonies are scheduled with beautiful girls and marching bands. Plan to attend all of these exciting games provided for your leisure-time enjoyment.

October 30th — Doughboys vs. Atlanta Police Department Centurions.

Halftime: Explorer Post 76 Drum and Fife Corps.

November 13th—Doughboys vs. Baptist Christian College Shreveport, La.

Halftime: Danville, PA Ironmen Marching Band.

November 21st — Doughboys vs. Redstone Arsenal.

Halftime: Troy State Marching Band (tentative).

Education allowance rises eight per cent

Army vets will have it easier in the near future because of recent congressional actions. In one action, the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee approved legislation to bring about an eight per cent increase in education allowances.

Another portion of legislation is a "contributory education program" for soldiers who enlist after December 31st. Under the provisions of this plan, the Veterans Administration (VA) would double the $50 or $75 monthly supplement to further education.

One stipulation of the contributory program is that soldiers wouldn't be able to use education benefits until completion of their first term of service.

Committee approval also insured a number of other items of benefit to the vet. The first would be an increase in the amount of money that he can borrow from the VA. The maximum amount will be $2,000 annually. There is also a change in the time limitation for use of school benefits. All eligible vets can now use 45 months of schooling instead of 36. Prior to this legislation, only soldiers trying to obtain an undergraduate degree were eligible for the 45-month period.

In addition, vets with mental or physical disabilities will be given an unspecified period of time, above the ten year period to complete education studies. This will also include the authorization of full benefits for soldiers who leave the Army early due to a service connected disability. Now, veterans must serve 18 months to qualify for full benefits.

The new legislation will prohibit payment of GI Bill benefits to vets enrolled in a school with a total veteran enrollment of 85 per cent or more and will eliminate enrollment in flight training as of October 1st.

Tutoring benefits will also be increased. This will cover vets enrolled in institutional or technical courses which do not lead to a degree. The tutoring assistance allowance will reflect the overall eight per cent increase.

The 'grant type' of assistance now being used by vets will end December 31st. All soldiers entering the Army after that date (with the exception of some delayed entry personnel) will come under the contributory education program (ARNEWS).

'Skycranes' meet the challenge at Braveshield

The CH54 "Skycrane" helicopter, flown by the 478th Avn Co, 34th Med Bn, proved to be the ideal transport equipment during the annual unit ARTEP conducted during the FTX Braveshield October 8th-18th.

the same time was tested on all phases of unit operations by a team of evaluators from Ft. Benning.

The convoy departed October 8th to the maneuver area near Eglin AFB, FL, where they secured the bivouac area in preparation for their aircraft which arrived October 11th.

Aircraft missions were flown under all conditions, day and night, often with the crews wearing gas masks. CH54s are complicated machines and maintenance is difficult, even in garrison. Field duty stretches the maintenance capability to the maximum due to the other duties required of the mechanics. However, no missions were cancelled due to lack of aircraft. A total of 109 tons of vehicles and equipment and 185 passengers were carried during the ARTEP.

In an ARTEP, the unit is tested in all military skills and the 478th demonstrated that not only is it a flying unit, but possesses other required soldierly skills. Camouflage and concealment, perimeter defense and encoding and decoding of unit radio transmissions were all put to the test and successfully completed by the soldiers of the 478th Av Co, 34th Med Bn.

Evaluation of FY budget

By MAC MCALLISTER

The doomsday sayers may have seen the post-Vietnam Army as regressing to the pre-World War II days of wooden rifles and cardboard tanks, but in terms of the Fiscal Year 1977 budget, the Army is alive and capable of doing some pretty potent kicking.

While the Army budget is not a fat one, the President's signature on the FY77 DOD authorization bill brought a measure of cheer to Army planners. The bill authorized most of the items requested for procurement and RDTE and will permit an FY 77 active Army end strength of 789,000.

All major weapons budget-trimming the Congressional budget-trimming process. This is perhaps the brightest spot in the FY 77 budget picture. Procurement authorizations for bread and butter hardware, along with some sophisticated technical items will be welcomed by the Army.

With the new main battle tank still in the competitive development stage, the Army will add 866 M-60 series tanks and 514 M48A5 tank conversions to the inventory.

Army missile systems are in good shape. New procurement may add 360 nonnuclear Lance; 2,000 Chaparral; 526 Hawk; 9,496 Dragon; and 5,722 TOW missiles to existing missile stocks.

AH-1 Cobra helicopter numbers will be boosted by 82, and 15 UTAS helicopters will be purchased in new procurement moves.

Strength figures will not change significantly as a result of the budget authorizations. The active Army was authorized 789,000 of a requested 790,000. The National Guard got the full 380,000 strength requested, while the Army Reserve, which had requested a 3,300-soldier increase, will maintain its FY 76 authorization of 212,400.

Some civilian personnel spaces are sure to be cut, as the Army will share in an overall DOD reduction of 4,800 spaces.

Significant items in the bill which affect the individual soldier are payment for unused leave and a new method of allocating future pay raises. The bill limits to 60 days the reimbursement for unused leave during a soldier's career, and it strikes out authority for payment of quarters and subsistence allowances as part of subsistence allowances for leave accrued after enactment of the bill.

The new method of allocating future pay raises allows allocation of up to 25 per cent of future pay raises into BAQ and provides for rebates, for unmarried persons living in barracks and BOQs.

The bill sidestepped any hard line on commissary store operation, pointing to the economics which can allow gradual reduction of the commissary subsidy while retaining the savings enjoyed by commissary shoppers. The commissary appropriations issue is, however, still to be resolved by the upcoming appropriations bill.

Reading catalog instructions key

The key to prompt delivery of mail orders from the new 1976-77 Mail-Order Catalog recently announced by the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) is careful attention to the information and instruction section of the 288-page book.

According to Charles Metz, Merchandising Division director at AAFES headquarters, "the information and instruction section of the new catalog provides customers the keys to prompt delivery of merchandise."

Careful adherence to the instructions will ensure speedy computer processing of order forms. Using the catalog's "sample order form" as a guide, the catalog shopper should enter the correct item code number located at the bottom of the text describing every item in the catalog.

The next step is to complete all the information requirements in the unshaded portions of the order form.

Calculation of postage, insurance and registry fees must be accomplished by referring to the tables in the catalog. The postal zip code and zone chart should be used to determine the postal zone to which the order is to be shipped.

Another important point for customers to heed is to calculate all postal charges according to the method of mailing — air, PAL, registered or other. The method chosen affects both the mailing fee and mailing time.

Past catalog order processing experience has revealed that size and color omissions, unsigned orders and checks, orders not verified by an exchange and illegible printing on order forms are factors critical to prompt mail-order handling.

"Following these helpful hints when completing mail-order forms will assure fast, correct processing on order from the new 1976-77 AAFES Mail-Order Catalog," Metz concluded.

Check that used car before you buy and Save

Need transportation? In the market for a used car? Working with a limited budget? If this sounds like you — here are some things to remember and to look for prior to making that investment in a used car:

- If you're buying an older car, especially one that's seen 90,000 miles, give it a thorough going over to determine what is wrong and how much it will cost to make it right.

- Check the sides of the car. Look for ripples and waves that indicate the car has been repaired. Check for rust.

- Check the tread on the tires. Stick a penny edgewise into the tread and if the rubber does not cover at least part of Lincoln's head, the tires need to be replaced. Also, make sure there is a jack and a usable spare tire.

- Look at the tailpipe. If it is deeply blackened or has fluids coming out of it, there is probably some internal problem.

- Remove the radiator cap and check the condition of what's inside. If the coolant is especially rusty, has oil droplets floating inside, or is just plain water, you can be pretty sure something is or will be expensively wrong.

- If the car has an automatic transmission, check the fluid dipstick. The fluid should be a clear sparkling red. If it is orange, has black flecks in it, or smells like varnish, the transmission may be due for an overhaul.

- Check the shock absorbers. Push down on the front and then the rear of the car. If it bounces right back up in one motion — the shocks are good.

- Look for broken seat springs.
- Before test driving the car, check the engine for signs of oil and water leakage, frayed belts and loose or cracked hoses.

The list of things to do and watch for is long but be patient during your search and don't get conned with lines like "Yes sir, this little beauty was only driven on Sundays by a little old lady from Smalltown, USA."

Involuntary extensions eliminated

Officials at DA have announced action for the elimination of the involuntary extension of overseas tours.

The elimination program will not become immediately effective but will be implemented on a phased basis in order to maintain overseas strength and obtain maximum benefit of available funds.

This tour length cut was made possible by the House-Senate Conference Committee's approval of the $638 million Army PCS Appropriation bill. This budget is $53 million less than the Army requested. However, the amount is sufficient to being the elimination of the involuntary tour extension in FY 77.

Earlier, the House Appropriations Committee cut $90 million from the Army's PCS request. Then the Senate Appropriations Committee restored $75 million to normalize tour length and convert Brigade 76 from a TDY to PCS status. In conference, the joint conference decided to split the difference which provides $31 million of the $67.8 million requested to fully normalize tours in FY 77.

NO BUY IN THE COLUMBUS MARKET IS COMPLETE.

...without the Bayonet. The Military community in Columbus, at Ft. Benning, is responsible for disbursing over $24 million dollars monthly in the community, and their growth of 11% in the last year is a sign of the future Fort Benning holds. The Bayonet is a Ledger-Enquirer newspaper, printed weekly on Friday and with a circulation of 17,000 and growing with Fort Benning. ## Random urine testing halted

Department of the Army has directed that the Random Urinalysis Program for drug abuse detection be terminated and resources formerly directed to this program be redirected into the Alcohol Abuse Program.

The Random Urinalysis Program, a part of the Army Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Program, established the requirement that all active duty Army personnel under age 26 provide urine samples at unannounced times.

These samples were shipped to laboratories where they were tested for the presence of opiates, amphetamines, cocaine and barbiturates.

The directive, effective October 1st stated that all other aspects of the program remain in effect. This means all active duty Army personnel are still liable for testing at the discretion of the commander and personnel working in Drug Abuse programs and individuals in various treatment phases of the program will continue to be tested at prescribed intervals.

MAJ Frank Shehulski, installation Alcohol and Drug Control Officer was pleased by the news "The random test program was time consuming at staff and unit level. Commanders will now probably devote more attention to command directed testing and this will provide a considerable deterrent to drug abuse."

Shehulski was also pleased that the resources formally directed toward the random test program could now be redirected toward the Alcohol Abuse Program.

He said "We recognize that we have a Drug Abuse Problem but we also know that alcohol is the most abused drug."

To Anyone Planning To Buy Any Car This Week:

Our advice to you is: "Don't!"

Not until you've priced a Volvo.

We're having a once-in-a-decade sale.

Which means we're not only offering prices on Volvos like we've never offered before.

We're offering more for your trade-in than we could ever offer before.

The Volvo Sale is not a remnant sale. You won't get stuck with some left-over, stripped-down or about-to-be-discontinued model that nobody wants.

You'll be able to choose from a whole selection of fully-equipped Volvos. 2-doors, 4-doors or station wagons. From either our Volvo 240 series. Or from our luxurious Volvo 260 series.

But even more important than the great deal you'll get on a Volvo is the great deal you get in a Volvo.

Without knowing what new car you may be considering, we can safely say this: no other car we know of offers the combination of safety, comfort and intelligent design you'll find in a Volvo.

But don't take our word for that. Come in today and see for yourself.

(Incidentally, if the car you were planning on buying this week was a Volvo all along, we offer our congratulations.

Both on your good sense. And on your superb sense of timing.)

NCOWC News Coffee

Members of the NCO Wives Club spent a lovely morning on October 26th, as the guest of the Service Club Recreation Center, where they were invited for coffee and snacks. The President and members of the NCOWC considers it an honor and a very great pleasure to have been invited to the newly decorated Service Club by Mrs. Cunningham and the Service Club staff. The NCO Wives Club have had the pleasure of working with this organization for many years and are looking forward to many more years of service to them.

Breakfast and Games

On October 27th the NCO Wives Club members and their guest met at the Top 5 NCO Club Annex for their monthly Breakfast and Games. Mrs. Joan Shore came as a special guest, to show the ladies her stock of Christmas toys, from the Playhouse Company. It is never too late for you to join the NCOWC for their fun and activities.

Craft Day

On October 28th, the NCOWC members met at their Clubhouse for their final day of actual craft activities, in preparations for the November 5th Bazaar. All members and heads of tables are asked to meet again on November 4th, same time, same place, with all of their Bazaar items ready for display. Baked goods are to be delivered to the bazaar by 10am on November 5th at the Top 5 NCO Club.

2nd Bn, 1st AIT Bde

On October 15th, the ladies of the 2d Bn 1st AIT Bde met at the Harmony Church Recreation Center for a Salad Luncheon. The tables were decorated in the Halloween tradition and the menu included: coffee, ice tea/lemonade, chef's salad (almost too pretty to eat), small sandwiches and cake. The food was delicious and almost everyone had seconds. Several new ladies were welcomed as newcomers, among whom was: Mesdames Gwen Passen, Maria Berg, and Helga Edmondson. Special guests were: Mrs. Robert Ord III, Mrs. James Young, and Mrs. James Gallagher. Ms Ruby Curtis and Ms Eloise Hurt were also guests, visiting from Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Horace Harrell was the hostess for this affair, assisted by Mrs. Harold Trout and Mrs. Lovie E. Campbell, Sr.

The Ladies of Co C 2d

Bn 1st AIT Bde, met at the home of Mrs. George Swift, for their monthly coffee. This was not a happy occasion, as we said good-bye to Mrs. Harold Trout. The Trout's although they will remain at Ft. Benning, are leaving the AIT Bde. Mrs. Swift presented Mrs. Trout with a beautiful crystal candy/nut dish, on behalf of all the ladies, for her unselfish work in the battalion as well as in the company. A lovely table was set by our hostess, and diets were forgotten for the evening. Everyone had a wonderful time.

Guests for this affair were: Mesdames Jack Farris, Robert Ord, James Young, Larry Gibbs, Horace Harrell and Miss Pamela Trout.

"You will be greatly missed Brigitte, but will always be considered as one of us at 'Charlie' Co."

Being in the right place at the right time caused PFC Charles Hopkins of Laporte, TX to be named the 500,000th graduate of the USAIS Airborne School. Airborne Department Director, COL David Buckner (L) pins Hopkins' parachutist wings on him following the class's final jump on Ft. Benning's Fryar Drop Zone.

Mullins swings to third Post golf title

Bev Mullins swept to her third victory in as many years by winning the three-day 1976 Ft. Benning Ladies Golf Association F&B Championship with a gross score of 248.

Bev fired an 84 to take the medalist honors. On the final day of the tournament, she had a hole-in-one on the 167 yard, par 3 seventh hole on Pineside.

Runner-up in the championship flight was Mia Harris. Other flight winners were:

- 1st Flight — Mickey Harris
- Runner-up — Vera Simmons
- 2d Flight — Lydia Langdon
- Runner-up — Gladys Fowler
- 3d Flight — Maggie Daems
- Runner-up — Lee Regnier

Drexel translates French provincial:

New: Cabernet II

Hinson Galleries

DREXEL

Classic new Cabernet II

It's a lovely bequest from the designers of the 18th Century . . . and French provincial has never been more graceful than in Cabernet II™ by Drexel®. The glory of real carved wood is here, deep moldings and exceptional veneer craftsmanship in parquetry panels. Above all, there's a brilliant new finish on pecan solids and veneers — deep, clear, elegantly distressed. Accent pieces, too, in brushed, striped paint. For bedrooms, dining rooms and your entire home — we recommend Cabernet II to you!

Doughboys rout Centurions in debut

By JACK BARHAM
Assistant Head Coach

The Ft. Benning Doughboys opened their season Saturday night the way they closed it 14 years earlier — winners. Facing a massive and very physical Atlanta Police Force team that was bigger in every position than themselves, the Doughboys used a quick-breaking offense to put 35 points on the scoreboard, and a tough, precision defense that destroyed the power game of the big Centurions.

Quarterback Joe Duenas and the Doughboy offensive line shredded the Centurion defense with the quarterback option and keeper plays. Duenas threw for one touchdown and ran for two more. Julian Williams dove in for a score and Richard Smith swept right end for a 29 yard scoring run.

Coach Dave Bankston's running defense kept the policemen in the hole most of the night, repeatedly turning the ball over to John Ross' offense in easy striking distance of the Centurion goal. The defensive team forced four fumbles, intercepted three passes and held the big Atlanta backs to a net rushing total of 39 yards.

The Centurions scored on two long pass plays from quarterback C. B. King to speedy

The Doughboys will play again this Saturday at 7 p.m. in Doughboy Stadium against the Atlanta Jets.

Ft. Benning OCS goes co-ed

By Betty Zimmerman

A milestone in the history of the United States Army Infantry School will be reached when the Branch Immaterial Officers Candidate Course 1-77 inprocesses Sunday.

The OCS class of The School Brigade's, 5th Bn will be co-educational for the first time. A dozen women will join the 200 men in their quest for commissions.

Ft. McClellan did host a separate women's officer candidate school until October 1st, but now Ft. Benning has the only officers candidate school in the U. S. Army.

Adjustments to the physical training curriculum have been made for the females, but MAJ Lorenzo Fessler, executive officer of the 5th Bn, feels that the standards of the school will not be weakened at all.

He said, "The women candidates will take the womens' advanced PT test for qualification and will run in a separate group at first, but then they will undergo the same conditioning drills as the man (such as push-ups and sit-ups)."

"Their billets will be on a separate floor, but other than these differences mentioned, the training for both sexes will be identical, and our mission of producing the finest of leaders will be kept intact," he continued.

The cadre for the student battalion have been thoroughly prepared for the addition of women in their classes. Seminars, conferences and briefings have been held in recent months. And feedback from Wsst Point's encounters with their women students has been received and reviewed.

"Perhaps one of the most beneficial preparations was the addition of a female tactical instructor to the school's staff," said Fessler. "Her competence has done much to convince her fellow instructors of the capabilities of a woman officer."

AUSA slates General Membership Meeting

The Columbus-Phenix City-Ft. Benning Chapter of AUSA will hold a Fall General Membership Meeting at the Top Five NCO Club at Ft. Benning, on December 1st.

The guest speaker will be COL Frederick C. Turner of the Strategic Studies Institute, Army War College. COL Turner was a panelist at an October 12th discussion on "How Tall are the Russians?" at the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington during the 1976 AUSA Annual Meeting.

COL Turner, who has served two tours of duty with Soviet forces in Germany, said the Soviets are getting taller in terms of military effectiveness and mobility. He said that largely through technological sophistication, the Russians have grown in the past decade and that the U. S. really has no choice but to match or keep pace with their growth in certain key areas while assuring that they do not surpass us in others.

The meeting will begin at 7 pm with a social period, followed by dinner at 7:30. The ticket price is $8 per person. Tickets will be available in Ft. Benning units, or telephone 545-1516. Military attire will be dress blues with four-in-hand tie. Dark suits are suggested for civilians.

The Infantry Chorus is scheduled to entertain the dinner guests.

Tickets available for 'Shenandoah'

Tickets go on sale today at the Main Post Recreation Center (Information, Tours and Travel Office), Bldg. 229 for the Broadway hit "Shenandoah" which will be playing at Marshall Auditorium, November 11th at 8 pm.

Tickets are $4 for students, senior citizens (62 and older) and enlisted personnel E-5 and below. Tickets for all other persons are $9.

Season tickets, which include "Shenandoah" and four other performances scheduled later, are on sale for $28, a savings of $17 or almost two free shows. Season tickets may be purchased by sending checks to Information, Tours and Travel (ITT), Main Post Recreations Services Division, Ft. Benning, GA 31905. Please make check payable to Installation Morale Support Fund.

Two tables will be set up at Infantry Hall the night of the performance. One table will be for tickets at the door and the other for

The Atlanta USO, with a fantastic central location at the Omni International, is there to help you if you plan to visit that city and enjoy its unique attractions.

ISG John Schafer and his family got a taste of just how much Atlanta has to offer the weekend visitor when they won an all-expenses-paid weekend there, courtesy of USO.

Schafer, who is the first sergeant of A Co, 1/58th Inf, 197th Inf Bde was impressed by the quality of the entertainment, dining and lodging the USO provided and the smooth way they put it all together for a real "first-class" weekend.

They found the contest entry blank in "Holiday in Atlanta", the monthly entertainment bulletin published by USO and available on post.

Besides providing the traditional warm, friendly, "home away from home", USO Atlanta can also provide tickets and information on everything that's happening in the city, entertainment-wise. And if any military discounts are available, they can tell you about them.

Take advantage of what the USO has to offer. Pick up a copy of "Holiday in Atlanta" before making your Atlanta trip. You'll be glad you did.

Off-post

Need a place to live?

Military families who are looking for off-post housing are encouraged to check with the Housing Referral Office on post prior to wandering out in the cold.

The referral service lists houses, apartments and mobile homes available for rent or purchase in the Columbus-Phenix City area. The service is provided at no cost to the military sponsor, landlord, owner or realty company.

Property owners desiring to list apartments, mobile homes or houses should fill out a DD Form 1677 indicating that they will make the property available to any military family without regard to race, color, religion, national origin or sex. The forms are available at Room 124, Bldg. 83 on the post.

For information on referral services or listings call the Family Housing Off-post Referral Service at 545-3921.

Marine Corps slates Birthday Ball celebration

The United States Marine Corps will celebrate 201 years of service to the country on November 10th.

It was on that date in 1775 that the Continental Congress authorized the raising of two battalions of Marines who would "Serve to good advantage on land and sea."

In presenting his traditional "birthday message" to Marines the world over, General Louis H. Wilson, Commandant of the Marine Corps remarked, "Marines throughout the globe will recall our founding in Philadelphia and the two hundred and one intervening years. It is a time-tested tradition, a proud tradition, a good tradition. And it is altogether fitting and proper to pass the Corps in review, remembering that being always faithful — whether on or off the battlefield — has borne and will continue to bear a price. This year then, I ask each Marine not to look back on our distinguished march into history, but instead to look ahead to what must be a renewal of our commitment to solid readiness for new service to America."

Since the inception of the Corps, November 10th has historically been the top social occasion of the year for Marines. This "Birthday of the Marine Corps" is celebrated faithfully each year by every Marine in every part of the world.

In keeping with this tradition, the Marines of Ft. Benning will host the traditional

Columbus Square to host art show

By Marshall Jones

On Saturday and Sunday the mall at Columbus Square Shopping Center will be the scene of one of the finest art shows of its kind in the area.

The 12th Annual Columbus Square and Museum Art Exhibition is not only a show and sale but an art competition with prize awards totaling $2500.

Last year the work of 130 artists from a 12-state area were shown. The winning works and other selected works will be exhibited again at the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts.

The Museum is one of the sponsors of the Exhibition along with the Columbus Square Merchants' Association and the Columbus Junior Woman's Club.

On sale will be paintings, drawings, prints, and for the first time, photographs. Fifteen per cent of the purchase price will go to the Columbus Junior Woman's Club Scholarship Fund. This fund makes scholarships available to area college students in the Art and Music fields.

With the addition of a photographic division the 12th Annual Exhibition promises to be the most outstanding yet.

"Birthday Ball" at the Officers Club November 6th at 8 p.m.

The highlight of the ball will be the "cake cutting ceremony." Steeped in tradition, this ceremony serves to remind Marines the world over of the proud legacy that has been passed to them by the many thousands of men and women who have borne the title of Marine.

The threat--South Korea, 1950

Editor's note: The italic print in the following text was taken from "This Kind of War," written by T. R. Fehrenbach on the Korean Conflict.

Then

Who desires peace, should prepare for war

Vegetius

'Forewarned is forearmed' is an old proverb which is as valid today as it has been throughout the history of war. To ignore it is to prepare for failure by failing to prepare.

The unsuccessful early stages of the Korean Conflict were proof of the faulty logic of such a policy of unpreparedness.

The young men of Task Force Smith carried Regular Army serial numbers, but they were the new breed of American regular, who, not liking the service, had insisted, with public support, that the Army be made as much like civilian life and home as possible. Discipline had galled them . . . They had grown fat.

They were probably as contented a group of American soldiery as had ever existed. They were like American youth everywhere. They believed the things their society had taught them to believe. They were cool, and confident, and figured that the world was no sweat.

It was not their fault that no one had told them the real function of an army is to fight and that a soldier's destiny — which few escape — is to suffer, and if need be, to die.

When an army fails to recognize that there is an enemy, then, too, does it fail to prepare for one. But in so doing, it must also be prepared to accept the losses inherent in an on-the-job war such as Korea.

They were learning in the hardest school there was . . . They were learning something they had not been told; that in this world are tigers.

There was no place left to go, and all across the thin Perimeter line American soldiers were stiffening. Hatred for the enemy was beginning to sear them, burning through their earlier indifference to the war. And everywhere, the first disastrous shock of combat was wearing off. Beaten down and bloody from the hard lessons of war, troops were beginning to listen to their officers, heed what their older sergeants told them.

A man who has seen and smelled his first corpse on the battlefield soon loses his preconceived notions of what the soldier's trade is all about. He becomes a soldier, or he dies.

There had been many brave men in the ranks, but they were learning that bravery of itself has little to do with success in battle. On line, most normal men are afraid, have been afraid, or will be afraid. Only when disciplined to obey orders quickly and willingly, can such fear be controlled. Only when superbly trained and conditioned against the shattering experience of war, only knowing from rote what to do, can men carry out their tasks come what may. And knowing they are disciplined, trained, a conditioned brings pride to men — pride in their own toughness, their own ability; and this pride will hold them true when all else fails.

Communist-held hill during action in South Korea early in 1951.

Now

By Louis H. Marcotte
Director of Security

Before the Korean war, we not only failed to recognize the capabilities of our potential enemy, but more importantly we neglected to do anything about preparing to meet him — while there was time! We must never let that happen again!

In order to avoid the mistakes of the past, we must recognize that the environment and type forces we expect to face in the next war play important roles in determining how we design our training and conduct combat development activities during times of peace — while we have time!

Today our tactical doctrine, as set out in field manual 100-5, considers the Soviet Union our main potential adversary and a possible war in central Europe our most demanding challenge. We can expect to fight such a conflict under conditions where we will be significantly outnumbered in men and material. Compared to Korea, the future battlefield will be characterized by extreme fluidity with highly sophisticated forces possessing tremendous firepower operating in a swirling maelstrom of fire and movement.

It will not be unusual for an Infantry company to be attacked by a very modern and mechanized battalion which in reality is a large combined arms team with a solid armor backbone, extensive fire support and excellent mobility. The opposing force will be very definitely offensively oriented and design his tactical operations to exploit firepower to the maximum. Operating initially from well concealed assembly areas, he will capitalize on mobility, speed, surprise and security according to a school-book solution type plan made at regimental level. Subordinate leaders will be allowed little flexibility in execution. We can also expect the opposition to conduct extensive night operations in order to maintain the momentum of the offensive.

Sole parent soldiers must carry their loads

Soldiers who are sole parents with dependent children are expected to carry their own weight according to a DA message to commanders. Informal reports that those commanders have indicated that unit readiness and duty performance have been impaired because of soldiers who have dependent children but no spouses who can take care of the children if necessary.

The policy applies to male and female soldiers alike. Sole parent soldiers are expected to "meet the needs of the Army and must make a meaningful contribution to unit readiness and mission accomplishment." Soldiers without a spouse must be prepared to accept worldwide assignments, perhaps without children. The only difference provided for by regulation is for a period of leave before and following childbirth but

CFC tops goal

The 1976 Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) exceeded its goal of $240,000 yesterday according to Jim Schoonover, project chairman.

"A large turn-in pushed us over the top," Schoonover said. "We don't have a final count at this time, but the total is somewhere in the neighborhood of $241,000."

Schoonover said that his office would continue to accept contributions even though the goal had been reached. "This will allow new personnel and those who may have been missed earlier the chance to contribute," he concluded.

PV2 Marshall Allen, 361st Trans Det, 36th Engr Gp (CBT), performs a daily maintenance check on one of the 60 five ton 6x6 M-52 Semi Tractor/Trailers. Allen is one of an eight man detachment that is assigned to rebuild bodies and maintain the engines of all 60 tractor/trailers. With just eight men, it takes a lot of hard work and they put in many hours.

after that point the female soldier is expected to adhere to the same rules and regulations as other soldiers.

DA officials emphasize that the policy is not an attempt to make restrictive regulations applicable only to sole parents but the circumstances could place an unnecessary burden on assignment personnel and commanders of deployable units, as well as the soldiers themselves.

The DA guidance further stated, "Each member must be able to carry his/her own weight, must have individual assignment mobility to meet the needs of the Army and make a meaningful contribution to unit readiness and mission accomplishment."

Commanders have been advised that they should take necessary action to separate those soldiers whose duty is impaired by parenthood and who cannot or will not take corrective action in order to perform their duties fully. (ARNEWS)

Reputation follows you through life

By Mike Brown

It may be said of a person that there are two things which always follow him throughout life: his shadow and his reputation. Reputations can vary; they may be good or bad, weak or strong, well-earned or ill-deserved, but they nonetheless persist and sometimes form the sole basis of character judgment.

Too often we tend to disregard the effects of our reputation and the part they play in our lives. Consider the case of a new man or woman assigned to a unit. The company commander will look over the personnel records, interview the individual, and form an initial opinion. In a case like this, the facts are there in the 201 file and the interview may bring out any additional information that may not be evident on the surface.

However, suppose such a person comes to a new assignment and is known to be a troublemaker or a former user of narcotics. The reputation preceded the individual and that person may be coming into a new situation with one or two strikes against the soldier. Many commanders believe in giving a new soldier a "fresh start" when assigned to the unit and will tend to overlook any troubles in the past in the hope that the new assignee will be grateful and do a good job. This often works quite well, but the fact remains that if there is any difficulty in the new unit, a bad reputation may work against the individual.

In contrast, newly assigned enlisted people with several letters of commendation in their files, who show initiative toward self-improvement and their military careers, may be looked upon favorably and placed in a position of trust and leadership, which could further enhance professionalism. In the event one later violates that trust mistakenly, or deliberately, the chances are that he or she will be dealt with more leniently than their counterparts who arrived with a bad reputation.

A reputation can speak for itself many times and can lead to a more thorough and judicious investigation of the facts in event of possible misconduct. How many times have you heard someone say words like,

"I'm not a bit surprised that that man finally got into trouble. He's always had a bad reputation?" In contrast, when a rumor of some misdeed is circulated about someone who has previously had a good record, the comment may be something like, "Oh, I doubt he would have done anything like that. He's always been a good worker."

Those who make an effort to build a good reputation will more than likely reap the benefits of their efforts as they progress throughout their military careers. Often, even without their own knowledge, they are considered and selected for choice assignments, leadership positions and tasks which require that extra effort because their superiors are aware of the good reputations and can reasonably expect a professional accomplishment.

Those who criticize and complain and seek to avoid work are merely contributing to their own happiness, for they often fall into a rut by having a bad reputation. In cases like these, when they do something outstanding it is likely to be brushed aside and considered not indicative of the individual's true character.

It takes time to build a good reputation, and, it similarly takes time to change a bad one. However, a bad reputation can be changed by an honest self-appraisal and a good deal of hard work. Such efforts will more likely produce tangible rewards wherever a person may travel.

'Experience the future'--an editorial

By William Abrahamson

Today there are over 20,000 different ways to make a living. Half of them didn't exist five years ago. Five years from now there will be an additional 10,000 new careers while one quarter of those available today will have become obsolete.

Because of this rapid change in career outlook, the concern of vocational guidance counselors is to free the individual from the real and imagined limitations imposed by ignorance, lack of competence; lack of awareness of himself and the world of work; and prejudices of society based on race, sex, ethnic background and socio-economic factors.

The role of career guidance is to facilitate the student's development as a competent, self-directed person, who not only develops his potential as an individual, but accepts the responsibilities of citizenship as well. The free individual believes that he is capable of influencing the course of his own life and the direction of his society. He is self-aware, self-accepting and accepts the responsibility for both his own actions and inactions. He is flexible and capable of adapting to change; yet, at the same time, he is committed to a firm set of values that give him meaning, strength, and direction.

It's never too early to start

Stout S.J.

To grow, the student must have a wide range of real choices and opportunities both in the school and the community where he seeks to find his rightful place. An effective career guidance program should provide the student with opportunities to discover the options of life styles available to them in the world of work.

Options are wonderful things. If variety alone were enough, there would be no need for vocational guidance counseling. However, in order to exercise an option intelligently, one must have knowledge. There just isn't enough time in one life to experience 20,000 career paths.

School counselors help the young to make realistic decisions regarding their careers through knowledge of the available options. Vocational counselors also make their services available to those trapped in unfulfilling careers.

The options are here. Learn and make a choice.

Experience the future!

Catfish Eating Contest slated

The 1976 International Catfish Eating Championship will be held November 11th and as in any international competition, national pride will be on the line.

The Catfish Eating Contest is expected to draw four-man teams from Canada, Brazil, Venezuela, Puerto Rico, Colombia and the U.S. It has become a tradition with the U. S. Army Marksmanship Unit at Ft. Benning and will be held in conjunction with the annual International Rifle and Pistol Coaches Clinic which is November 8th - 13th.

Last year, Clovis Mengati of Brazil set a new world record by downing 51 of the toasty critters and thereby taking home the coveted Catfish Cup. Columbia took top team honors by gorging themselves with 151. A total of 669 catfish were consumed in the 24-man eat-a-thon, an average of 28 fish per man.

The contest was strictly an American affair until 1969 when a Canadian team accepted a challenge and defeated the U. S. team 120 to 108.

For most of the contestants catfish is a foreign dish. But, despite the home team advantage, the U.S. teams have not managed a single victory in the last three outings.

The Catfish Eating Contest is the social highlight of the International Coaches Clinic which will draw 125 participants from five foreign countries. Seminars in rifle, pistol, shotgun and running boar shooting will be featured during the weeklong exchange.

As in previous years, the Catfish Eating Contest will be hosted by Pritchett's Restaurant on Hamilton Road. Competition will commence at 7:00 pm and continue until the contestants call it quits.

For more information on the Catfish Eating Contest, contact Bob Nordan, Public Affairs Officer, 544-4917 or 545-7174.

AUSA Defense Report

Foreign military sales: good or bad?

The United States is currently selling billions of dollars of arms to various foreign nations under what is called the Foreign Military Sales (FMS) Program. Although these arms are being sold rather than given away as in the past, and therefore have a significant beneficial impact on U.S. foreign trade balances, there are many critics who say the program is too big, is immoral, and should be cut back.

Nations are usually interested in buying arms for one or more of four reasons: (1) maintaining internal order, (2) self-defense or deterrence from external attack, (3) preparation for offensive action, and (4) pride, or "Keeping up with the Jones."

Critics of U.S. arms sales tend to consider all such sales as being intended for offensive purposes which is often not correct. Even when offensive use is a possibility, defenders of U.S. foreign military sales point out that with the arms must go U.S. advisors and technicians and with them a golden opportunity to serve as a moderating influence in the event offensive use is being considered, as well as an opportunity to create or improve U.S. friendship with the country concerned.

As one of the top U.S. Army strategic planners put it, "We are being inexcusably arrogant to refuse to sell arms because we believe that a nation does not need them, or should spend the money instead to help solve domestic problems. Once a nation decides it needs arms, it is going to buy them from someone. By not selling them ourselves, we deprive U.S. manufacturers and workers of an opportunity for profit, more important, our nation loses a chance to influence the affairs of the country concerned and thereby assist in maintaining world peace and stability."

The Soviets fully understand what the Army planner was talking about. About 20 years ago, the U.S.S.R. began to export arms to the Middle East. According to the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, an independent organization which takes pleasure in criticizing both the East and the West and therefore has considerable credibility, today the Soviets rank number two among the world's exporters of military arms and equipment.

However, keeping up with the Soviets is not the name of the game when foreign military sales are concerned. But U.S. policy-makers would do well to think "Buy American" when dealing with the subject.

"Take it from me, the best deal in town's a credit union loan."

When you shop for a new car, you hear a lot about the big deal you're getting. But the really big deal is how much the financing will cost. That's where we can help. We offer fair interest rates on new car loans. In fact, our credit union rates could actually make the difference in the kind of car you can buy. So before you deal on the lot, check with us. # Air Force forecasters predict Army weather

By Joyce Walker

Since Lawson Army Airfield received its first airplane, the Air Force has been providing weather service to fully support Ft. Benning and the U.S. Army Infantry Center.

An Air Force unit, the 10th Detachment of the 5th Weather Squadron, provides 24-hour weather service, seven days a week. This service includes monitoring of wind, precipitation, temperature, ground visibility and cloud height; forecasting and continuous radar surveillance of an area up to 120 nautical miles in all directions from the post.

MAJ Terry Warner, commander of the detachment, says that their weather station has more equipment than an average size weather station supporting a regular Air Force base.

The 19-member unit includes seven weather observers, four forecasters, four maintenance personnel and one administrative specialist. They also have one woman in their midst, Airman Mary Jo Bertrand, the first permanently assigned WAF at the weather station and Ft. Benning, says Warner.

"We are a self-contained unit," explains the major, a graduate of Oklahoma University with a degree in nuclear chemistry. "We provide all of our own administrative and maintenance work."

"On the basis of a gentleman's agreement", the Air Force provides the National Weather Service in Columbus with weather support. This support in the form of a phone call, includes informing them of any severe weather approaching.

"We also provide them storm radar information," says MAJ Warner, "because the Columbus station doesn't have a Storm Detector Weather radar." "Radar isn't necessary to good forecasting, but it can be very helpful in detecting severe storm warnings early," he added.

But the self-sufficient unit's primary mission is to provide a total around the clock environmental support to the post. This means weather briefings to all flight personnel, utilizing Lawson Field and wind sounding up to 3,000 feet in support of Airborne and other training programs.

Warner is very proud of his unit and their forecasting ability. "I would venture to say that the number of correct forecasts made exceeds 90 per cent," he said.

But no matter what the weather is, this small efficient group continues to provide total environmental service to Ft. Benning and the surrounding community.

The threat--Then and Now

The opposing force will probably conduct three basic types of offensive operations, ● the meeting engagement, ● the breakthrough and ● the pursuit. He can execute each of these options either mounted or dismounted.

The meeting engagement will occur when the disposition of our forces is unknown and contact is made unexpectedly. Here the opposing force commander will either attempt to overwhelm us with his firepower and concentration of his attacking forces; or if we are stronger, he will fix us with a blocking force and conduct an envelopment.

The breakthrough operation would be conducted when we are in well dug in or fortified defensive positions. The opposing force commander will first attempt to locate our boundaries or identify any weakly defended areas; then by narrowing the frontage of his attacking battalion or by concentrating his forces, break through our defenses. This maneuver will normally be preceded by a concentrated artillery barrage covering the attacking elements deployed in two echelons.

The third type of offensive action is the pursuit, which will be a follow-on to the meeting engagement or breakthrough. Here the opposing force commander will use the mobility of his tanks and personnel carriers to continue pressure on us or strike our flanks as we withdraw.

The potential enemy force which has just been described is without a doubt a formidable adversary, but he does have weaknesses and vulnerabilities which we can exploit. For example, we know that he "got the message" during the recent mid-east war when unsupported tank attacks proved costly in terms of casualties and material losses. We also know that their main concern now appears to be the proliferation of our anti-armor weapons systems. What is significant is that the US combined arms team has a great opportunity to slow the tempo of an opposing force attack in any future conflict by deploying or simulating the type defense which will keep him from playing out his school book solution.

Today the Infantry Center recognizes well the future threat and will continue to monitor any programs, while we have time, in order to exploit vulnerabilities. The overall thrust of our efforts is to produce individuals and units who are prepared in peace time to fight and win the first and subsequent battles of the next war. The degree of urgency assigned to this task is to prepare today as if the conflict were to occur tomorrow, and thus avoid the horrible experience that our forebears endured in Korea.

'People make us what we are'

By Joe Hilton

It's not where you are, it's who you are and how you do the job that counts.

After receiving seven monthly awards for the Best Mess in 36th Engr

Gp, the 524th PSC dining facility has been moved to a newly equipped and remodeled location. In only two weeks of operation, the facility is back on the track to superior performance and is considered the 'mess' to beat in the upcoming competition.

"It's the people that make us what we are — those who eat here and those who do the work," stated SFC Robert Newsome, the mess sergeant. "And we've got the best of both worlds going for us."

The new dining facility is located in the 524th PSC/HHC building. With the new contemporary look, the mess hall will accommodate four companies of the 36th Engr Group and provide seating for eighty-four personnel at one time.

SFC Newsome and the members of his staff all agreed that, "Knowing the job and knowing how to work together has been the key to the success in maintaining what we consider the best mess hall in 'The Group.'"

PFC Cheryl Austin, HHC, 36th Engr Gp, demonstrates the art of preparing the perfect hamburger at the 524th PSC dining facility.

SP5 Kenneth Marshall of the 586th Engr Co gives his pastries the personal touch while on duty as a baker with the 524th PSC. Marshall has been with 'Best Mess' team for the past two years.

SP4 Alvin Minter, 524th PSC, recently promoted to first cook, received the annual letter of commendation given by the 36th Engr Gp for outstanding performance in food service.

EPMS

Some stripes will change

Some soldiers will be changing their stripes soon. According to MILPERCEN officials, the Enlisted Personnel Management System (EPMS) will be changing some hard stripe grades to specialist and specialist grades to hard stripe. MILPERCEN officials say that this is to give soldiers better career progression.

In addition these changes will conform with a revised Standards of Grade Authorization (SGA).

The SGA, which is set by law, does not allow both NCO and specialist ranks in the same MOS and skill level. This will cause the lateral NCO/Specialist conversions.

The main factor in determining if NCOs or specialists should be authorized is the number of positions in the MOS and skill level which require leadership, supervisory or managerial responsibilities.

These conversions will be based on Armywide structure evaluations. MILPERCEN officials emphasize that these evaluations are not a reflection of the soldier's performance or are they a factor in his or her professional development.

Exceptions to the SGA's requirements are E-4s whose MOSs are under EPMS. They may be appointed as corporals even though PMOS structures do not include NCOs in grade E-4 at the soldier's skill level. In this case, the soldier must have served successfully in the NCO position for at least 60 days, have the recommendation of his or her immediate commander, and meet the other requirements outlined in paragraph 7-35 of AR 600-200. This paragraph spells out the policies and procedures pertaining to lateral appointments and will be revised later to reflect policies which pertain to the conversion of personnel under EPMS. (DA Scene).

Cold awareness could save your life

Add the word "hypothermia" to your vocabulary. Your understanding and awareness of its seriousness could save your life.

Hypothermia occurs when your internal body temperature is lowered through outdoor exposure and fatigue. It is caused by exposure to cold and aggravated by rain, wind and exhaustion.

This is the time of year that outdoorsmen particularly love. The crisp, cool days of autumn lure the hiker, camper and fisherman into the wilderness. When the temperature range is between 30 degrees and 50 degrees, the conditions can change from sunshine to rain in a matter of minutes.

Two steps lead to hypothermia:

- Your body begins to lose heat faster than it produces it. At this point, you are aware of feeling cold and begin to exercise to warm up.

- The cold reaches your brain and impairs your judgment and reasoning processes. You will probably not realize that you are in trouble.

There are several ways you can avoid exposure. Stay as dry as possible. Wet clothes lose 90 per cent of their insulating value. Synthetics are the worst in this respect, cotton is only slightly better, wool is best. Your raingear should protect you against wind-driven rain and should cover your head, neck, body and legs.

If you have been unable to stay warm and dry, you must get out of the wind and rain as soon as possible. It's foolish to think that you have to reach a certain point on a hike, or catch a set number of fish.

Make camp while you still have energy in reserve. Remember that exposure has reduced your normal endurance. Your exercising is the only thing that has prevented hypothermia, but exercise leads to exhaustion and if exhaustion forces you to stop exercising, you may slide into hypothermia within minutes.

These are the symptoms of hypothermia to watch for:

- Violent and continued shivering.
- Slurred and sluggish speech.
- Memory lapses and incoherent thought.
- Staggering, stumbling and shaking hands.
- Pink, swollen legs, feet, hands and arms, and cold skin.
- Obvious exhaustion.
- Inability to get up after a rest.
- Drowsiness.

The hypothermia victim will probably not realize or admit that anything is wrong. But even if he resists, you must begin the following procedure for treatment.

- Get him out of the rain and wind.
- Remove wet clothes and get him into dry clothes and a sleeping bag.
- Give him a warm drink.
- Start a fire to warm the camp area.

If the victim is semi-conscious, you must try to keep him awake at all costs. Leave him stripped and put him into a sleeping bag with another person. Body contact is the most effective way to regain warmth.

It's always a good idea to have at least one person with you when you are hiking, hunting, fishing or camping. Agree before hand to call a halt if any member becomes exhausted or begins to shiver violently. If you recognize symptoms in yourself, don't try to be a hero.

Remember you are outdoors for pleasure and recreation — not to imperil your life.

Follow me

They call me "Grunt," and "Crunchy," and I guess I've earned the name. 'Cause I've grunted past the FEBA with the phase lines marked in flame. And I've crunched a lot of gravel between Valley Forge and here. As I learned to deal with tiredness and to conquer pain and fear.

There are lots of funny nicknames you can call me to my face. But be careful how you use them 'til you've tried to match my pace. 'Cause the weaklings never get here, and the cowards never stay. And it takes a man to make it through an average duty day.

I don't mind the "Grunt," or "Crunchy," if they're spoken with respect. And remembrance of the mighty plans of conquest I have wrecked. And a total understanding, that no matter who's around. There is no claim to victory 'til I'm standing on the ground.

Sure, I've left a lot of rubber on the gravel of the world. And I've earned a lot of nicknames while the battle flags were furled. But when aggression threatens the dominion of the free, I don't hear too many nicknames. Then they call me INFANTRY.

I hope you all recall that meeting of concerned Ft. Benning sportsmen that I mentioned a couple of weeks ago. The meeting was held on October 22nd with a good turnout and an ad hoc committee was formed to represent all outdoor sportsmen at Ft. Benning.

The goals of this committee include promotion of good sportsmanship, conservation of wildlife, fellowship and safety. COL Sidney Hinds Jr. was elected president of the committee and the following individuals were elected chairmen of various activities:

Hunting

LTC John Torbush
545-1558

Fishing

SGM Roy Combs
545-1372

Archery

Gene Stalcup 689-4864

Trap & Skeeet
Hank Shaw 689-7697

Other Interests

LTC Buck Russell
545-1677

Let's all get behind these folks and support them in any way possible. One of the best ways to offer support is to make your feelings known in those various areas. Call them up when you have a complaint, comment or suggestion.

It looks like good weather for the start of deer season this Saturday. Game Wardens will be out in force so make sure you comply with all regulations. You certainly don't want to start the season off by getting your license suspended.

The Post Bass Club's November 9th meeting will be held at the Top 5 Club at 7:30 pm. If you're in the area, stop by and say hello, you'll be surprised at the comradeship offered by these bassers. They're a great bunch of folks. If nothing else, you'll get to see a couple of good fishing flicks.

Ponder this until next week: It's a crime to catch a fish in some lakes and a miracle in others.

Zap! You're a drill sergeant

Some Army E-5s will get a surprise when they find that they are on the way to becoming Drill Sergeants. Male E-5s in six different career management fields (CMFs) will be reassigned involuntarily on an as needed basis.

The CMFs involved in the reassignments are: CMF 11 — infantry — armor; CMF 12-engineer; CMF 13-field artillery, (cannon); CMF 15-field artillery (missiles and rockets); CMF 16-air defense and CMF 17-combat surveillance and target acquisition.

In the past the Army has relied on volunteers for the Drill Sergeants program for males. Females have been selected on an involuntary basis for some time.

Dramatizers present ...

The Ft. Benning Dramatizers are rehearsing for "A Hundred Years of Christmas," an original musical revue guaranteed to put you in the holiday spirit.

It marks the Dramatizers first yule season production since 1970. Written and originally performed in Hannau, Germany, the show features scenes from important Christmases belonging to the Beckerman family, from 1900 to the year 2000.

An unusual feature of the production is that three of the musical's five authors are presently at Ft. Benning, handling the directing, choreography, and some of the acting.

The Dramatizers are still seeking interested artists, writers, carpenters, painters, seamstresses and tailors, as well as lighting and sound technicians.

For more information call 545-5057, or stop by the Playhouse, Bldg. 1237 (behind the Infantry Museum).

Girl Scouting

Girl Scouts at Ft. Benning are moving forward into another season of interesting and enjoyable activities.

Members of Cadette Troop 193 completed the Red Cross Lifesaving program and each troop had a special program to celebrate the birthday of Juliette Low, the founder of girl scouting in America. Many other activities are planned in the immediate future.

Training for Patrol Leaders from all of the Junior and Cadette troops on Ft. Benning will be held at Camp Hideaway from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Saturday, November 13. The girls will learn organization, leadership and special methods which will enrich their unit programs and aid in assuring meaningful fun-filled scouting experiences for all Ft. Benning girl scouts. On November 15th, training for new adult leaders and other interested persons will be presented from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Ft. Benning Girl Scout Center, located adjacent to the Federal Credit Union.

Advance Leader Training will be conducted on November 16th.

Persons interested in becoming a part of this worthwhile and pleasurable experience are invited to participate in these special events. By telephoning the Ft. Benning Scout Center at 545-7067 or 545-1806, additional information on these events and the local Girl Scout program can be obtained.

Radiant Vibrations

The "Radiant Vibrations," 18 attractive and enthusiastic singers and dancers from the University of South Carolina, are returning to Ft. Benning Saturday night.

Their performances, at 6:30 and 7:45 pm in the Harmony Church fieldhouse, will feature a repertoire of songs, choreography, solo numbers, specialty acts and instrumental selections by their eight-piece combo.

The "Radiant Vibrations," directed by Richard Conant, brought the house down when they performed for the AIT Bde and the Ft. Benning clubs previously.

Don't miss them this time — there's no admission fee.

Christmas Workshop

If you are in need of new ideas for Christmas gifts or decorations, plan to attend our workshop on November 15th and 16th at 7 p.m. at the Main Post Recreation Center. Mrs. Evelyn Southwood will be the instructor, and her ideas are attractive and inexpensive to make. Plan to attend and bring a friend. For additional information, call 545-1375 after 1 p.m.

Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition

Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229 will host the 8th annual Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition November 25th-28th. This is a great opportunity for military (active and retired), DAC and DAF personnel and their dependents (16 or older) to exhibit their artwork. Ribbons will be awarded for 1st, 2d and 3d place in ten categories, plus a "Best In Show" ribbon. All Civil Service, Nonappropriated Funds and Post Exchange Employees at Ft. Benning are eligible to participate in the Arts & Crafts program. For additional information, call 545-3677 or 544-4624.

The 5th Dimension

Recreation Services Division presents the 5th Dimension at Marshall Auditorium, November 22d. There will be two performances, the first beginning at 7:30 p.m. and the second beginning at 9:45 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the Information, Tours & Travel Office for $5 until November 15th. After the 15th, tickets will cost $6. The public is invited to attend.

Diabetes Association

The Diabetes Association of Columbus, GA, Incorporated will meet November 7th at 2:30 pm in the Gas Light Company of Columbus auditorium. The speaker will be Dr. George B. Hubbard, Jr., Ophthalmologist. His subject will be "Eye Problems Associated with Diabetes." People with Diabetes Mellitus have many potential eye problems. These will be discussed along with the present modes of prevention and treatment. Those persons interested are welcome to attend.

and SSB base stations will be small enough to carry in your pocket. Of course when things reach that point, the pressure is going to be felt.

Some commercial radio stations are already reporting fewer listeners and attributing the drop directly to the increase in CB radios. If things go on, commercial radio could go the way of the Passenger Pigeon, the Dodo and the Great Auk.

I can just imagine sometime in the future telling my great-grandchildren about commercial radio:

"Y'know, Boots, when I was your age, we had commercial radio."

"What was that, Grampa Hoss?"

"Well, they played music mostly."

"Didn't they have 32-track tapes back then?"

"That came along a little later. You see, in between songs the man would read an advertisement. And every now and then he'd give the time or tell what the weather would be. And once an hour there would be five minutes of news."

"You mean you had to listen to someone talk about underwear or toothpaste just to get to hear some music? Couldn't you just use your computer terminal to code in an information request to the central memory bank?"

"No, Boots. We didn't have any of those things in the old days."

"Gee Grampa Hoss, it must have been tough back in the pioneer times."

"It sure was, Boots. By the way, how are things out there on Mars?"

"Pretty good. Are you OK there at Moonbase City?"

"Sure thing, Boots. Well, I'll see you again next orbit."

"G'bye, Grampa Hoss."

Enlisted promotion program to change

There is new news in enlisted promotions. Officials at DA have a number of programs in the mill and they should be breaking in the next several months.

One program that has been decided upon is the extension of Time in Service (TIS) for the promotion to the grade of E-6. Presently the TIS requirement is a minimum of six years. The new plan calls for a minimum of seven years TIS for promotion. This change will go into effect FY '78.

DA officials stated that there were many reasons for this change, one of which was money. One of the major considerations was to "age the force" by allowing the E-5 a chance to gain more experience before moving to E-6.

DA is also considering instituting automated promotion to the grade of E-3. This would insure that many soldiers eligible for the promotion would not be shuffled into a holding pattern.

There is also talk of changing the waiver criteria for promotion to the grade of E-4. Promotion people at DA say that several other plans are being looked at closely but are not far enough along to be considered for approval or implementation at any time in the near future. (ARNEWS)

NCOWC News Coffee

The NCO Wives Club members were guests at a coffee given in their honor, by the Service Club Recreation Center, on October 26th. The Center's Director, Mrs. Smith, presented the club with a beautiful plaque, for ten years of service. The hospitality was so warm, that the NCOWC scheduled their November 10th business meeting at the Main Post Recreation Center at 7:30 pm, featuring an evening wear fashion show from Montgomery Ward, immediately following the meeting.

Hospital Coffee Call

On November 3rd, the NCOWC wives met at Martin Army Hospital for their coffee call. Coffee and doughnuts were served to the patients and staff, as another service to the community. This service is carried out by the NCO Wives Club the first and second Wednesday of the month and is headed by their chairwoman and Red Cross volunteer's Mrs. Elfride Watson and Mrs. Inez Williams.

Craft Day

On November 4th, the members and table-heads for the NCOWC Bazaar, met at the clubhouse for their final bazaar plans. The ways and means chairwomen wish to thank the membership for their support of this event. The NCO Wives Club Bazaar will be held at the Top 5 NCO Club Annex, on November 5th, from 11 am until 6 pm. Members are asked to come early and help to set up the tables.

Note of Appreciation
The family of the late Mrs. Julia Campbell, would like to thank all of their friends and neighbors, for the many acts of kindness shown them during her illness and death. Words cannot express our deep appreciation to all of you.

2d Bn, 1st AIT Bde
On October 15th, when the wives of the 2d Bn met at the Harmony Church Recreation Center for their Salad Luncheon, Mrs. Ruby Curtis and Mrs. Eloise Hurt were listed as guests, visiting from Chicago, they should have been listed as guests, and Miss Anna J. Bell as the guest from Chicago.

'Vacation Pals' winner named

Shawn Minnis, son of MAJ and Mrs. W. H. Minnis, was the winner of the Ledger-Enquirer's "Vacation Pals" contest.

His winning letter described a trip to Ft. Bragg, NC where he visited his friend Billy Montgomery.

The son of Ft. Benning's Canadian Liaison Officer, Shawn would like to attend the Royal Canadian Military College in Kingston, Canada and be commissioned in the Canadian Army.

Shawn is an eighth grader at the Don C. Faith School, Ft. Benning. For his efforts, he receives a year's subscription to National Geographic, with a duplicate subscription to the school.

Doughboys march to victory in season opener

flanker Jimmie Smith, but the policemen never threatened the Doughboy lead.

The Doughboys kicked off and held the Centurions deep in their own territory. The Atlanta punt was returned by Anthony Miledge to the Centurion 29 yard line. A clipping play stalled the drive, and Dave Ward's field goal attempt was blocked by a charging Centurion linebacker.

The Doughboy defense again destroyed Atlanta's power play, giving Ft. Benning the ball on the Atlanta 31. Two plays later, Fred Suggs made a leaping catch of a Duenas pass to come down for the score. A two-point conversion attempt failed for the Doughboys.

On the next exchange of downs, Tony Miledge intercepted a Centurion pass on the Atlanta 40. The Doughboys used seven plays to punch the ball into the end zone, Williams plunging the last yard for the score. The extra point kick was blocked.

The first time they received the ball in the second quarter, the Doughboys drove 68 yards for a score. Much of the yardage was consumed by the darting runs of Duenas, who baffled the giant Centurions all night long. Richard Smith scored the TD on a 26 yard option play. An enraged Centurion defense again blocked Ward's kick attempt.

The policemen came back with the first long strike from King to Smith, and the score at halftime was 18-6, Infantry.

Early in the third quarter, Dave Ward kicked a 23 yard field goal to make up for the three missed extra points, and give the Infantry a 21-6 lead. With the Ft. Benning defense again out-moving the larger police team and partially blocking a punt, the Doughboy offense again got the ball deep in Atlanta territory. Duenas scored from six yards out on a quarterback bootleg. Ward's point was good and the Infantrymen led, 28-6.

Atlanta responded with another long King-to-Smith scoring pass. The Doughboys then produced the longest sustained drive of the night, moving from their own 30 yard line to the Atlanta end zone. Highlighting the drive was a fake field goal play in which quarterback Guy Richardson rose from his holder position, rolled to his left and hit end Joe Hutchings with a 25 yard pass to the Centurion nine yard line. On the next play, Joe Duenas again bootlegged the ball around right end for the score, and Ward split the uprights with his extra point kick.

Though happy with the win, the Doughboy coaching staff is concerned with eliminating the mistakes that cost the team 170 yards in penalties. Mistakes can be expected from a young team operating a complicated offense in its first game, but practice this week will be devoted to fine-tuning that offense to cut errors to the minimum.

The Doughboys play the Atlanta Jets, a big semi-pro team composed of ex-college players, Saturday night at 7:30 in Doughboy Stadium. The Jets are expected to be even bigger than the Centurions and will present the Infantrymen with perhaps their biggest challenge of the season.

Duenas and McCants

Top Doughboys named

By Jack Barham

Lonzie McCants and Joe Duenas have been chosen by the Doughboy coaching staff as the outstanding players in the Doughboy victory over the Atlanta Centurions.

McCants, of Co C, 1st Bn, 58th Inf (Mech) led a defense in which all players did an outstanding job, holding the policemen to just 39 net yards on the ground and shutting off the air game except for two long strikes that gave the Centurions their only points.

Despite his relatively small size (5' 11", 189 lbs) McCants plays middle linebacker for the Doughboys. Besides making tackles all over the field, he intercepted two Centurion passes and recovered a fumble. Two of these turnovers led to Doughboy scores.

He consistently beat the blocks of the 250-lb Centurion linemen to make fackles at the line of scrimmage, and his coverage of Centurion pass receivers was flawless.

Duenas, the little quarterback who used to thrill crowds at the University of Colorado, kept Doughboy fans on their feet all night with his darting runs between around and over the black-shirted policemen. Duenas opened the scoring with a long strike to end Fred Suggs, then iced the Centurions with two touchdowns on keeper plays.

Other top performers for Ft. Benning were defensive ends Pete Martin and John Butler and defensive back Tony Miledge.

Protecting Duenas, guards George Brown and Carlos Hayes had especially good ratings, while tailback Richard Smith had an eight yard per carry rushing average.

Cub Scout leaders to hold Pow Wow

By Marshall Jones

The annual Chattahoochee Council Club Leaders Pow Wow will be held at Bldg. 4, Ft. Benning, Saturday, November 6th.

In a happy, fun-filled atmosphere, the Pow Wow acquaints adult Cub Scout Leaders and interested parents with the techniques of running Cub Scout packs and dens.

From 10 am until 4 pm, the halls and classrooms of the East Wing of Infantry Hall will be active with classes conducted in such areas as Skits and Puppets, Ceremonies, Games, Pack Administration and Crafts. Displays put together by each of the seven districts in the Chattahoochee Council, will liven the halls and supplement the classroom learning.

Training for Den Chiefs will also be offered. They will learn how to take charge of a den meeting and how to assist Den Mothers. Boy Scouts attending should plan to bring a lunch. The $1.50 charge for the training includes the Den Chiefs' Handbook.

About 300 people are expected to participate in this year's Pow Wow. Cub Scout parents who are newcomers to Ft. Benning or to Cub Scouting are encouraged to attend along with present Cub Scout leaders and committee members. Attendance at the Pow Wow is one of the requirements for the Scouter's Key and the Den Leaders Training Award.

Annual Catholic picnic a success

An estimated 800 persons attended the post-wide Catholic Parish Council's annual picnic recently.

TRADOC directives initiated the parish council program to facilitate and insure active lay leadership in Army chapel programs. This picnic was their first venture and through the efforts of Mrs. Lorna Reinke and the 11 committees, the picnic was a success.

Three-hundred and fifty tickets were issued free to AIT and airborne school students and many of them joined the permanent party personnel and dependents in the afternoons various events and entertainment.

Soldiers activities were selected and programmed to ensure intermingling of troops with permanent party and dependents. The soldiers were very much a part of the program, which included worship, a live Blue Grass music concert, games and contests.

The religious affair took place on the Field of Four Chaplains following Noon Mass and continued until Evening Mass.

"I'd rather do a tough job I like
than a soft job I hate."

That's the way SP5 Tom Burt feels about his job in a Mortar Squad.

"It's rough every now and then. Especially when your unit's short of men and everyone's doing someone else's job too. But it beats doing the same dumb thing day after day.

"And you're only as good as the people in your unit. So even if you don't start out so good, if everyone pulls together and has pride in their unit, you'll end up with a unit the Army can be proud of too.

"As far as reenlistment goes, I'm going to reenlist and reenlist. I got out of the Army awhile back and got my Associate of Arts Degree. But I guess I couldn't get the Army out of me, because here I am. And if I had it to do over again, I'd have stayed in.

"In fact, if anybody tried to talk me out of reenlisting, I'd tell them to go to hell."

Some officer year groups to change

Year group identities of some commissioned officers are being changed. However, DA officials say that the adjustments will have no effect on professional development or assigned consideration including school selection and promotions.

Officers who entered on active duty or have a Regular Army adjustment date during the period July last through September 30th will not be identified within a year group one year earlier.

This administrative change has no effect on those officers who entered on active duty or have an RA adjusted date during the period October 1st through June 30th.

Appropriate year group date changes have already been made to the officer master files and will appear on officer records briefs.

Commissioned officers are designated a year group identity for personnel management purposes. This grouping usually corresponds to the FY they entered on active duty. The change in year groups was prompted by the change of definition of the term Fiscal Year. Until this year, it had been defined as the period from July 1st through June 30th. The FY now is that period beginning October 1st and ending September 30th.

Some officers have recently expressed concern over being identified with an overstrength year group. The chief concern, DA officials say, centers around the possibility of a RIF of the year group. However, DA officials indicate there is currently no expected need for any additional RIF's. (ARNEWS)

Has your entrance into the Army caused you to get behind in paying off your debts?

You may be allowed to pay off your bills on a reduced schedule. In some cases you may get to delay payments until you get out of the service or are better able to pay.

If you incurred the debts before coming into the Army, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act may help you out of the problem. The Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act was passed by Congress to help men who were drafted and took a big pay cut as a result, but it applies to today's volunteer Army as well.

The Act is not designed to let you forget your debts; it may help you suspend legal action, thus giving you valuable time to make the change to Army life and Army pay.

If you have any questions about the Act, contact the legal assistance office at 545-3281.

New raincoat
in '77

A new dual purpose raincoat and overcoat approved for optional wear by the Army is now in the initial stages of development and the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) estimates that March 1977 will be earliest date the coat will be available for sale.

"This is an entirely new uniform item that requires development of new patterns and a special polyester and poplin fabric," explained Charles Metz, director of the AAFES Merchandising Division. "Realistically, with all the stages of production still ahead, we cannot expect the raincoat to be ready for sale for at least seven months."

Mr. Metz said the optional wear raincoat is now in the first phase of the schedule — a 60-day period in which specifications are finalized. A month will be required for Natick Laboratories to certify the fabric from which the raincoat will be made. Then the fabric mills must produce the 50 percent polyester-50 percent cotton poplin material. Early in 1977, the manufacturing process will begin, and in February AAFES quality assurance personnel will inspect the raincoats prior to shipment.

"If all time phases are maintained, beginning with initial fabric production being acceptable to Natick color standards and continuing through the manufacturer passing AAFES quality assurance inspection at the time of shipment, first coats will reach our stores in March 1977," Mr. Metz concluded. "We know that many customers will want this new coat, and we ask their understanding about the production schedule and the various steps that must be taken to insure a quality product."

The combination black raincoat and overcoat will be a single-breasted model, with a zip-out acrylic liner.

Redskins top Steelers

The Biddy League Redskins led by running backs, Bappy Barber, Tracy Rucker and a tenacious defense, defeated the Steelers in a rainsoaked game at Doughboy Stadium, October 30th.

Moving from their 40-yard line, the Redskins ground out the yardage, on the running of Barber and Rucker, scoring on a burst up the right side by Barber. The two point conversion, was good for an 8-0 Redskin lead.

After stopping a Steeler drive, the Redskins failed on a fourth and short yardage play, and turned the ball over to the Steelers. The name of the game was, hard hitting and gang tackling. The Redskins outstanding defense kept the Steelers from scoring until the final play of the first half.

The Steeler extra point try was unsuccessful and the Redskins led at the half, 8-6.

Barber took the 2d half kick-off and almost broke for a score before being tackled from behind on the Steelers 37 yard line.

Barber scored the second Redskin touchdown, a few plays later. The 2 point conversion attempt was good for a 16-6 lead. With the score 16-12, and two minutes remaining, the Redskins offense, directed by quarterback, Phil Chelf, ran out the clock to insure the Redskin victory.

1977 BUICK OUR SELECTION AT CLIFF AVERETT IS FABULOUS AND NEW CARS ARE ROLLING IN EVERY DAY!

Regal

Regal is the exception to the average mid size car rule. Regal fuses some of the best full size Buick features into a mid size content, a superb blend of comfort and maneuverability. A beautiful car, a no nonsense approach to luxury and comfort, a true Buick.

RIVIERA

What was true 14 years ago is still true today, the 1977 Riviera, like the first Riviera built in 1963, is designed to be a personal luxury car of great distinction. It represents the best of two worlds: a sporty, responsive road car with the interior of the best luxury car.

CFC drive ends with $250,000

By Betty Zimmerman

The Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) closed with total donations of $250,000 according to the USAIC project officer.

The money was divided among three major groups: the International Service Agencies — $13,255, National Health Agencies — $38,975 and the United Way Agencies — $197,800.

Funds from the United Way Agency come back to Ft. Benning through the Community Activities Association. This year $40,000 will be added to profits from the July 4th Carnival and funneled into the budgets of various post activities.

Some of the local groups which benefit are: the post school's dental health program, the Army Community Service's (ACS) food locker, the dependent housing area's community centers, the chaplain's section English language program, the Red Cross and ACS volunteers nurse fee payments, and a large portion goes to the Youth Activities budget for their sports and recreational programs.

Since the Combined Federal Campaign began in 1971, Ft. Benning and other federal activities in the area have received over one and a quarter million dollars which has enabled state, national and international health, service, welfare and recreational activities to carry on their humanitarian work.

Immunization program

Second phase begins today

By Edward Ponataski

The second phase of the Ft. Benning Influenza Immunization Program begins today for high risk and essential service civilian personnel. Vaccines will be administered as follows:

Friday, November 12th

Classroom 20, Bldg 4 - 10:30 am-4:30 pm

Friday, November 19th

Classroom 6, Bldg 4 - 10:30 am-4 pm

Friday, December 3d

Classroom 20, Bldg 4 - 9 am-4:30 pm

These personnel will be immunized with the bivalent A Vaccine for Swine and Victoria Flu and monovalent B for the Hong Kong Flu. The vaccine is for persons 18 and above. The Pediatric High Risk group (3-17) will receive their immunizations when the vaccine becomes available.

High risk persons 18 years old and above are defined as: persons 65 years of age and over; persons with chronic heart disease of any cause; chronic lung diseases, such as asthma, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, cystic fibrosis, bronchiectasis, and tuberculosis. Also included in the group are persons with chronic metabolic disorders, such as diabetes, persons with chronic kidney disease and others as recommended by their physician. Essential service civilian employes of Ft. Benning are defined as Fire Department personnel, DFAE work order personnel, medical and dental personnel, Lawson Army Airfield key civilians, Division of Communication and Electronics personnel, and all civilian division chiefs.

All civilians must sign a privacy act statement, read an information sheet, and sign a registration/consent form prior to receiving the vaccine. These will be available at the shot clinics.

Serious reactions to the influenza vaccine have not occurred at Ft. Benning. Mild reactions such as fever, running nose, headache and muscle aches have occurred in a small percentage of individuals. Personnel are reminded to avoid strenuous physical activity for 48 hours after vaccination.

Questions concerning the influenza immunizations program can be referred to the Health and Environment Activities, 545-3518.

197th to test readiness against opposing force

The 197th Inf Bde, well known Army-wide as a leader in the development of new techniques in modern warfare, will soon be put to the test.

In a challenging two-week Field Training Exercise (FTX) at Ft. Stewart, GA the 'Forever Forward' Brigade will be pitted against the 1st Bde, 24th Inf Div in an opposing force concept exercise.

Beginning early next week, all but one of the brigade's sub-units will depart Ft. Benning to engage in extensive training which will be highlighted by a five-day combined arms task force problem. In a bid to claim a position as one of the top Combined Arms Teams in the world, the 197th has been preparing for this, their last major exercise of the year, for the past several months.

Providing the opposing forces for the Intensive Combined Arms Team (ICAT) exercise, COL Kenneth Leuer's 1st Bde, 24th Inf Div will also gain significant training and experience during the exercise.

The 197th Inf Bde, commanded by COL Fletcher Ware, will terminate the exercise with a tactical live fire mission, complete with artillery and indirect fire support.

Aside from the ICAT portion of the training, sophisticated electronic warfare operations will also be utilized during the entire FTX and most of the 197th Spt Bn will undergo their annual ARTEP.

Just in time for Thanksgiving, the 'Forever Forward' 197th will return to Ft. Benning deserving of a hard earned holiday.

Flu shots relatively safe

By Edward Ponatoski

From the beginning of the National Influenza Immunization Program through October 30th, a total of 9,613,029 shots were administered to persons 18 years of age and older. The number of deaths reported associated in time with influenza immunization is substantially less than the number expected to be coincidentally associated. Deaths in groups of high risk individuals 65 and over have been related to other factors (heart trouble, strokes, etc.). No deaths have been casually related to influenza immunization.

About 6,000 flu shots have been administered at Ft. Benning as of November 5th and there have been no serious reactions reported from the flu vaccine. About 10 to 15 per cent of flu shot recipients have had mild reactions of sore arms, low grade fever, headache, muscle aches which persisted from a few hours to two days. Aspirin or other antipyretics often alleviate this reaction in an hour or so.

About one person in a thousand has had a more severe reaction of the above type which required medical evaluation. These cleared up with a day or two of bed rest, fluids, and aspirin.

Education Week Proclamation

November 16-22

WHEREAS, our schools represent the best efforts of the community, the state and the nation to improve the quality of life; and

WHEREAS, defining the schools' goals and evaluating their results are the responsibilities of an informed and involved citizenry; and

WHEREAS, there is a widespread need for better communication and more cooperative relationships between professional educators and the community; and

WHEREAS, this command has committed itself to making the Fort Benning Dependents' Schools second to none in the nation, NOW, therefore, I, Major General Willard Latham, Commanding General, United States Army Infantry Center, Ft. Benning, Georgia, do hereby proclaim November 16 - 22, 1976 to be American Education Week on this installation and do urge all citizens to —

- Reaffirm their commitment to improving education on all levels, and*
- Translate that commitment into action by visiting local schools, and*
- Donate their services to one or more of the volunteer programs in existence at the schools*

Problem, gripe, suggestion?

HOTLINE!

Nobody listening? Need help?

HOTLINE!

Got a better way to do things?

HOTLINE!

Bugged, concerned, confused?

HOTLINE!

It's your way to the top. Sound off and be heard by people that are there to help.

Dial 545-555 and you'll get a specialist, who will answer your call and direct it to the people who act. Based on the complexity of what you suggest, complain about or want answered, you'll get action within 72 hours by phone or letter.

Dial 545-555, give your name and number and let it fly.

If you're a soldier, civilian employe, dependent or concerned civilian with a question — dial 545-555 and get action.

Note: Dialing 545-555 shouldn't be the first thing you do if you encounter a problem.

There's a chain of command for active military, a grievance committee for civilian employes and a viable suggestion program with monetary awards for all government employes.

If all else fails, let the HOTLINE take it from there — dial 545-555 and get results.

Origin of 'Army Greens' offered

Know how or when the Army Green uniform was named, and how it came about? We'll tell you.

In 1956, when the uniform was about to be issued, the Army held a contest to determine the name for the new uniform.

CPT Norman L. Williamson, then at Ft. Chaffee, AR, suggested the name, "The Army Green," as did 33 others of the total 1,696 entrants. His was considered the most outstanding reason: "The Army Green most effectively joins the old tradition with the new," and he won the $300 check.

He received the check on Nov. 14, 1956, and immediately went to the Post Exchange (PX) to purchase a set of the new "Greens," but had to wait since the PX would not cash a check for more than $100.

Williamson retired from the Army as a lieutenant colonel in February 1968 at Ft. Benning. He joined Civil Service in September 1968 and he is presently the Chief of Personnel Services Division, Directorate of Personnel and Community Activities at Ft. Benning.

Policy on cap wear clarified

Which cap do you wear with Army Greens? vehicle or commercial vehicle.

In accordance to AR 670-5, Officers and Warrant Officers should wear their service cap (with bills) unless in a travel status or otherwise stated by their commander.

Enlisted personnel have the option of wearing either the garrison or the service cap.

When traveling in vehicles, caps are not required to be worn when they may result in the unsafe operation of that vehicle. There is no requirement to wear a cap in a

A Comparison Guide For Health Care Plans

Compare other plans' benefits to those provided by Blue Cross & Blue Shield Government-Wide Service Benefit Plan (High Option*)

IMPORTANT NOTICE ABOUT PAYMENTS TO PHYSICIANS AND HOSPITALS
 Physicians: Payments made to all physicians by the Service Benefit Plan are based on the usual, customary and reasonable charge for the service. In many areas, special arrangements have been made with certain physicians known as participating physicians. This is important because:
PARTICIPATING PHYSICIANS HAVE AGREEMENTS TO ACCEPT THE PLAN'S PAYMENT AS FULL PAYMENT FOR COVERED SERVICES.
 Non-participating physicians do not have such agreements. If the non-participating physician's charge is higher than the usual, customary and reasonable charge, the insured may have to pay the difference. The following areas have participating physicians:
 Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia (counties served by Columbus Plan), Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York (except counties served by Rochester Plan), Ohio (Ahtabula, Cuyahoga, Geauga, Lake and Lorain Counties), North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Virginia (except Scott County), Washington (except Yakima County), West Virginia (except area served by Clarksburg Plan), and Wyoming.
 Hospitals: Most hospitals across the country are member hospitals. Member hospitals have agreed to accept the Plan's payment as full payment for covered services. Non-member hospitals do not have such agreements. Payment in non-member hospitals is 85% percent of covered charges, except full coverage for emergency medical and accident care.

Women playing increased role in today's Army

It's certainly no secret anymore that women's assignments are playing an ever increasing role in the actions of today's Army.

A recent indicator of this fact has been the significant rise in the number of job specialties being opened to women. Currently enlisted women may serve in 384 — 92 per cent — of the 419 MOSs listed on the Army's inventory.

Those jobs from which women are excluded include positions in Category I units whose missions require direct combat operations and slots which involve closed job specialties such as instructors of Infantry tactics at training centers.

Previous assignment limitations eliminated include those which restricted WAC personnel from the following: working in mess halls which serve only male personnel; performing medical duties on closed male wards in hospitals; recruiting male personnel; conducting initial classification interviews involving male soldiers and working in law enforcement activities pertaining to men. Further, women are no longer restricted from: working as physical activities specialists with male personnel; assignment as unit supply specialists, first sergeants, command sergeants major, or commanders except in a WAC unit and driving of vehicles larger than the 2½-ton truck.

Other changes that directly affected WAC assignments include the following:

- Since Nov. 15, 1972, WAC members have been eligible for overseas service immediately upon completion of training. Prior to 1972, members of the WAC were required to complete one year of service in CONUS before becoming eligible for an overseas hitch.

- The requirement for enlisted women to have excellent conduct and efficiency ratings to be eligible for overseas assignment was rescinded Jan. 1, 1974.

- The overseas tour length for men and women was equalized. Shorter overseas tours for women bachelors no longer apply as of January 1st this year.

- On July 1, 1974, WAC officers were permanently detailed to other Army branches, with the exception of Infantry, Armor, Field Artillery, and Air Defense. The career management of WAC officers parallels that of their male counterparts.

- WAC officers are now selected for command positions for which they are eligible by DA selection boards under the same criteria as male officers. Command position exclusions for women are those associated with combat units.

- WAC officers are fully participating members of school/command selection and AUS promotion boards, no longer restricted to the evaluation of women only. (ARNEWS)

Female weather observer assigned to Benning

By Joyce Walker

Airman Mary Jo Bertrand is the only woman assigned to the small Air Force unit of the 10th Detachment of the 5th Weather Squadron, which provides 24-hour weather service to Ft. Benning and the surrounding community.

She is also the first woman in the Air Force to be permanently assigned to Ft. Benning, according to her commander, MAJ Terry Warner.

Working as a weather observer in the post weather station, the 20-year-old Green Bay, WI native, readily admits that she is still adjusting to her new Army and southern surroundings. As a weather observer, her duties include the monitoring of wind, precipitation, temperature and ground visibility.

Prior to arriving on post October 5th, she attended 15 weeks of Basic Weather Observers School at Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois.

"I've always been interested in the weather" she said. "I find meteorology a very challenging field. Everyday there is something different because everyday the weather is different."

Neatly attired in her blue Air Force uniform, Mary Jo presents a modest efficient image while going about her duties. Contrary to her quiet demeanor, she is quite socially active after duty hours and takes an active interest in almost every sport especially bowling, tennis and jogging.

Being the only enlisted Air Force woman in the HQ Cmd barracks doesn't rate Mary Jo any special privileges. She's expected to maintain her room and attend all barracks "GI parties" (formal barracks clean-ups) like the Army enlisted women.

'Why didn't YOU see ME?

By Bobby Trotter

The alarm clock suddenly shatters the silence and shocks you awake.

It's time to get moving if you're going to make it to work on time. As you throw back the sheets, you feel the morning chill surround you. You ignore it and rush through your morning preparations; then you run outside only to find your car's windows have a thick frost covering them.

Since you're in a hurry, you can't take time for trivia like the side windows. You scrape the icy film from the front window and give the back a quick once-over to open up a space to see through.

Now you're ready. You hop into the car, mutter a few exclamations because the seat is so cold it makes your teeth chatter. You start the car up and, after a few seconds, you pull out and you're on your way.

Approaching a traffic light, you observe another car with all its windows fogged up and think to yourself. "That dummy's going to have an accident trying to drive when he can't see through the front window." A mile or so down the road you spy an accident involving a car with fogged windows. The car had struck a telephone pole.

Aloud you say to yourself, "That's a heck of a way to get back at the telephone company for raising the rates."

As you near the base, you pass a car on the left side, go on a few feet, and then proceed to get back in the right lane. You strike the car and both of you hop out yelling, "Why didn't YOU see ME?" You totally ignore the fact that YOU couldn't see him because the side and back windows are still covered with frost and are fogged up. You scream to yourself. "How can this happen to me?"

Many accidents each year are caused by people who are "in a hurry," who don't stop to take the necessary time to protect themselves. By following these few precautions, you might save the life of another driver, a pedestrian — or even your own.

- Clean all windows completely to insure complete visibility.
- Warm your car up before setting it in motion to avoid chattering teeth and possible impairment of reactions.
- Make sure all headlights and taillights are free of frost; thus increasing the chance of your being seen.
- Drive defensively — make allowances for the other driver's oversights. And be especially sure to slow down when roads are icy or wet.

Human life is precious. Take the time to safeguard yours.

BRAVESHIELD adds realism to 34th Med Bn training

By Bill Walton

Putting their military training to use, members of the 34th Med Bn gave its support to BRAVESHIELD XV, the joint Army/Air Force training exercise at Eglin Air Force Base, FL. from October 2d-26th.

Commanded by LTC Donald Hull, the 34th was the command and control headquarters for all non-divisional medical units participating in the FTX. During the exercise, the medical personnel provided 'live' medical treatment and evacuation in contrast to the simulated training experienced during their quarterly FTXs.

The medical side of the battalion was represented by the 2d Cmbt Spt Hosp, the 926 Med Det (Prev Med), the 261st Med Det (Med Equip Maint) and the 498th Med Co (AA). The 478th Av Co (HV HEL), which provided heavy lift support to the 82d Abn Div and successfully completed its annual ARTEP during the exercise, represented the aviation units of the 34th.

To reinforce the concept of a joint exercise the 34th contingent was augmented by the 646th Med Co (Amb), a New York National Guard Unit on its two weeks active duty for training, the 547th Med Co (Clr), Ft. Stewart, the 427th Med Co (Amb), Ft. Rucker, 257 Med Det (Dental) and 73d Vet Det, Ft. Jackson and the 714th Med Det, Ft. Bragg. In addition an Air Force Communication unit was attached to the battalion to provide a staging facility for Air Force Medical Evacuation Aircraft.

The 2d Cmbt Spt Hosp set up a 40 bed field hospital aided by doctors, dentists and nurses from the Health Services Command. The hospital was constructed from the conventional tentage and an inflatable MUST (Mobile Unit Self-contained Transportable). It was equipped with surgical suits, pharmacy, X-ray and a laboratory all interconnected with power and climate control that was provided by a turbined engine power pack.

This hospital provided both emergency and inpatient medical care for the approximate 11,000 troops engaged in the FTX. Some 764 patients were treated by the hospital personnel with the most serious being a Pneumo-Thorax (sucking chest wound).

One major effort of the hospital was treating the various sprained ankles, backs and knees which occurred as a result of the night drop of the 82d Abn Div. Patients who could be treated and released in 48 hours or less were kept in the hospital. More serious cases were evacuated by Air Force Aircraft to their home station. The heliport outside the hospital was used by the 498th Med Co (AA) as a landing area in their helicopter evacuation of emergency cases from throughout the maneuver area to the hospital site.

Bad check Bad news

Soldiers who write bad checks are flirting with a lot of trouble. First of all, there is the damage to the soldier's reputation, but that is only the beginning.

The offender has seven days from the time of notification to redeem the bad check. If the check is not bought back within seven days, the soldier's ID card will be over stamped, and check cashing privileges will be suspended for six months.

A second offense in less than one year will bring a one year suspension of check cashing privileges, even if the check is redeemed within the seven day period.

If this second check is redeemed after the seven day period, check cashing privileges are suspended indefinitely.

A copy of the notice stating the terms of suspension is placed in the 201 file.. Even if the soldier has a PCS reassignment, the suspension will follow.

Art Contest slated

By Marshall Jones

The Main Post Recreation Center will host its 8th Annual Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition November 25th-28th.

Amateur artists among active and retired military, DA civilians, NAF personnel and dependents of the above who are at least sixteen years old are eligible to enter.

Entries must be the work of the person submitting them and will be accepted at 1 p.m. November 22d. They may be submitted at the Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229 on Ingersoll at Dixie Rd until 8 p.m., November 24th.

Each work must have a title and be matted or framed. First, second and third place ribbons in each category, plus a "Best in Show" ribbon, will be awarded at 4 p.m. November 27th.

Persons may enter as many of the following categories as they wish: charcoal, pastels, pencil, pen and ink, oils, acrylic, tempera, water color, sculpture (any form) and open media (please specify).

After the show, entries should be picked up by 8 p.m. November 29th. The Recreation Center will insure that security is maintained, but they cannot accept responsibility for loss or damage.

NCOWC News Board Meeting

The NCOWC's President (Mrs. Terry W. Bass) invited the Board and Chairwomen of the NCO Wives Club, to her home on Nov. 8th, for their monthly board meeting. The main topic of discussion was their recent Bazaar, which was a total success. The President and Bazaar Chairman (Mrs. Philip Richard), expressed their deep gratitude to the Board and Chairwomen for their contributions and support toward this success.

Business Meeting

On November 10th, the NCO Wives Club members accepted the very generous hospitality of Mrs. Smith and the Service Club Recreation Center's Staff, for their monthly business meeting. The wives and their guests met at 7:30 pm for their business, at which time the President and Bazaar Chairman thanked the members for their very generous support in making the bazaar a success. After the meeting, the ladies were treated to an Evening Wear Fashion Show from Montgomery Ward. Hostesses for the month are: Mesdames Franklin Henry, James Villagomez, Henry Rosiak and Davin Hancock. The NCOWC's Business Meetings are held each second Wednesday of the month.

Tour

The NCO Wives Club took a tour of Tom's Food Center November 11th. It is always fun to visit this center, especially just before the holidays.

2/10th FA

Mrs. James Goodwin and Mrs. R. Dee Howell were hostesses for this month's coffee, which was held in the Carriage House of Columbus. They received a very warm welcome, after which the Bn Commander's wife (Mrs. Paul Makowski) held a short business meeting. It was a most enjoyable evening, browsing through the beautiful rooms of the Carriage House. A special thankyou, to Ms Lou Hudson, who gave us a short history of the Ethan Allen Galleries, and to Fran and Peggy for such a unique idea.

4th Student Bn (Abn)

On October 30th, members of the 4th Student Bn and guests, were entertained at a Hobo Party in the home of LTC and Mrs. Patrick McClintic. Honored guests were COL and Mrs. Eldon D. Carr. Prizes were given to the best dressed Hobos (CPT and Mrs. Rodney Markham. Voted as the most likely to succeed, was Chap. Knox Herndon. Everyone contributed a can of vegetables to the hobo stew. Dinner was eaten out of tin cans, on newspaper tablecloths. Farewells were made to 1LT and Mrs. Franklin Varnedoe and 2LT and Mrs. Robert Cole. Welcomed to the Bn were, MAJ and Mrs. Thomas Mueller and CPT and Mrs. Donald Thomas. Musical entertainment was provided by Chap. Herndon and 1LT Stephen Herbert.

Free concert at Three Arts Theater

Armed Forces Bicentennial Band to perform

The United States Armed Forces Bicentennial Band and Chorus will perform at the Three Arts Theater November 29th at 8 pm. The performance is sponsored jointly by the Columbus Area Bicentennial Committee, Columbus College and the United States Army Infantry Center.

The event is free; however, tickets will be distributed only to those requesting them in writing and enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. No more than four tickets will be sent to any addressee. The request should be submitted to the Columbus Area Bicentennial Committee, Post Office Box 1022, Columbus, Georgia 31902.

The band and chorus, authorized in 1974, began performing in January 1975, will eventually perform in every state capital and as many other cities and towns as possible. The 90 performers also plan to visit Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The joint service organization, which became known as "America's Own" in 1975, consists of Army, Marine Corps, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard members. There are 65 instrumentalists in the band, and 24 voices in the evenly-divided mixed chorus. The unit is commanded and conducted by LTC Richard Thurston, U. S. Air Force. His associate conductors are CPT Lesley Shelburne Jr., U.S. Army and LT William Brittain Jr., U.S. Navy.

The band chorus members hail from throughout the United States; their ages range from 18 to over 40 years; and their time in service extends from under two years to more than 20.

Headquartered at Ft. George G. Meade, MD, the unit represents the finest of military musicians, each specially interviewed and auditioned for a place in the band or chorus. Though inter-service bands have been assembled for special events, this is the first musical unit to combine all five services for an extended period of two years.

In its concerts, which are always free and open to the public, the band and chorus performs the very best of American music from our nation's first two hundred years.

fins, furs, feathers

By Denny Blankenship

I certainly don't profess to know all there is to know about hunting dogs or any breed of dog for that matter. But I will venture to say that the knowledge I do have is the important knowledge, the knowledge that all hunters and dog owners should know about their favorite canine.

For example, do you know why dogs, upon meeting, immediately sniff each others' posteriors?

I didn't think so.

Well listen up, you may learn something.

Once upon a time, there was a dog party and all the dogs in the world were invited to attend. As they filed into the great hall to enjoy the festivities, in keeping with proper dog etiquette, all the dogs detached their tails and hung them on convenient hangers. The party was going strong with all the dogs in the world in attendance when someone shouted, "Fire. Fire."

The dogs panicked and rushed for the exit, grabbing any tail they could get their paws on.

Ever since, dogs have been going around trying to find their own tails.

Now if that doesn't satisfy all you folks that have been wondering why I don't write about dogs, let me know. There's plenty more where that came from.

Perfect weather blessed deer hunters this past weekend as the Georgia deer season got underway. While I was preparing for and celebrating the Marine Corps Birthday, hunters managed to bag 72 deer on the reservation last Saturday. And while I was suffering the horrible aftereffects of Saturday's celebration, hunters bagged 32 more deer on Sunday to bring the total killed on the reservation to 108 deer as of Monday morning. The largest deer killed was bagged by Thomas Brown III. Brown's deer, taken from area "O" had eight points and weighed in at 152½ pounds field dressed.

Fishing reports have been slow coming in, but from all indication, water temperatures are cooling fast and bass are biting slower. This normally calls for smaller crank baits and a slower retrieve.

It wouldn't be justice to leave you without a fishing story, so here goes: Two fishermen were returning from a fishing trip soused to the gills when one confided to the other, "I'm afraid to go home. My wife said she wouldn't let me in if I'd been drinking."

"Here, take a bite of this Limberger Cheese, she'll never know the difference," said his helpful friend.

Sure enough, upon arriving home, the fisherman found the house door locked with an irate wife on the other side.

"Breathe through the keyhole," shouted the wife. "If there's no whiskey on your breath, you can come in."

Whereupon the fisherman obliged and the outraged wife shouted back, "I said BREATHE through the keyhole stupid."

Ponder this until next week: The fishing's always good, it's the catching that varies.

December promotions up

Promotions for grades E-5 through O-6 are up slightly for the first time in three months. DA officials say that December promotions will total 5,653. There are 5,565 November hikes planned.

Total enlisted promotions number 4,941 and will include 3,500 to E-5; 1,041 to E-6; 288 to E-7; 92 to E-8 and 20 to E-9. After the December hikes, 6,415 names remain on the E-7 list; 1,684 on the E-8 list and 716 names remain on the E-9 list.

Promotions to E-5/6 are made from local lists per DA published monthly promotion cutoff scores for each MOS.

DA officials forecast that December officer hikes will total 712. There were 494 November promotions and about 874 officers promoted in October.

Officer promotion schedules call for 52 hikes to colonel; 169 to lieutenant colonel and 224 to major. Also tabbed for promotion are 179 to captain; 19 to WO-4 and 60 to WO-3.

After the December officer promotions 580 names will remain on the O-6 list; 1,278 on the O-5 list; 1,547 O-4s and 510 on the O-3 list. One hundred-eighteen names remain on the WO-4 list and 595 on the WO-3 list.

MOBEX '76 to evaluate mobilization readiness

Selected units of the Army National Guard and the U.S. Army Reserve (USAR) throughout the continental United States are participating in a month-long Mobilization Evaluation Exercise, MOBEX '76.

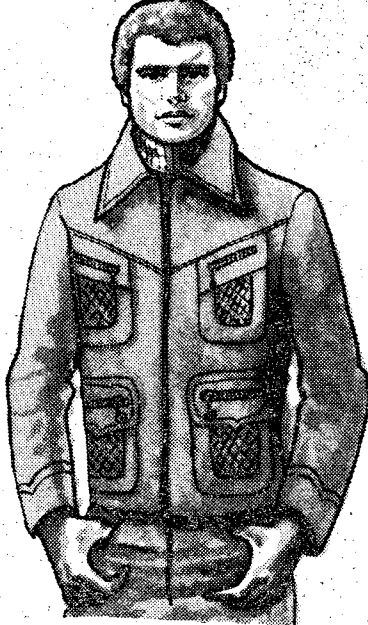

The unilateral Army-wide exercise which began November 8th is being conducted by the United States Army Forces Command (FORSCOM) to evaluate mobilization planning and the capabilities of U.S. Army commands and selected installations. The evaluation is a pre-planned exercise which in no way reflects the current world situation. With the exception of two general support type USAR units, no actual assembly or movement of troops will be generated by MOBEX '76.

FORSCOM, which is conducting the exercise as executive agent of the Department of the Army, has responsibility for maintaining the combat readiness of all deployable Army troops in the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Canal Zone in Panama. FORSCOM's three continental Armies supervise the training of the Army National Guard, and also command the U.S. Army Reserve troop program units.

'Today, I'll abuse my child'

By Joyce Walker

No one wakes up thinking that. Yet last year in America, an estimated one million children suffered from abuse.

Within the past 15 years, a great deal of professional and public interest has emerged about the problem of child abuse in our country.

Studies conducted at various military installations have shown that while child abuse and neglect may not be more prevalent in the military population, there are some aspects of military life which may relate to the occurrence of child abuse.

For example, generally, most cases involve either young newly married couples who are poorly prepared to assume family responsibilities or older parents in which abuse is secondary to alcohol abuse, according to MAJ Myra Gulley, chief of Social Work Services at Martin Army Hospital.

The Army's policy of assignment of quarters may be another major factor, says MAJ (Dr.) Gentry Yeatman, chief of pediatrics "It tends to increase social isolation and financial pressures in the families of young, low ranking soldiers. Usually, the lower ranking soldiers with a lesser amount of income are not eligible for on-post housing."

The unaccompanied tour may also have some influence on child abuse. It may cause financial difficulties because the family is forced to maintain two different households, added MAJ Yeatman.

Public Law 92-240, the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act, was passed by Congress in 1974. It defines child abuse and neglect as "the physical or mental injury, sexual abuse, negligent treatment or maltreatment of a child under the age of 18 by a person who is responsible for the

Mail today—strike may cause delay

You better consider mailing those Christmas gifts to loved ones stationed overseas as soon as possible. Like maybe the day before yesterday.

Why? Because certain U. S. Postal Service bulk mail centers are being swamped with business normally handled by United Parcel Service (UPS) Inc. — whose drivers, package sorters and handlers are on strike. Spokesmen for both sides of the strike have indicated a long work stoppage is possible.

The region primarily affected by the strike includes all of New England and all states from the Great Lakes to the Carolinas. UPS normally handles about two million parcels a day in this region. This business is now going to the postal service.

DA officials say that this will impact on Christmas packages mailed in CONUS to overseas areas. Delays at Christmas time are normal anyway. However, further delays in mail reaching APOs can be expected considering the large increases in postal mail — about three times the normal workload.

The following summary of the 1976 Christmas mailing dates reported earlier thus takes on added importance.

Parcel Air Lift (PAL) for Europe and the Far East should be sent by November 27th. Space Available Mail (SAM) for these areas should be sent before November 20th. The deadline for Surface mail was October 28th. Items for the Near East should have been sent before November 8th. Generally, other locations not listed here vary between November 1st and the 25th.

child's welfare, under circumstances which indicate the child's health or welfare is harmed or threatened thereby."

Using the philosophy that child abuse represents not only a personal tragedy to the children affected and their families but also a serious health and moral problem to command, Army regulation 600-48 was implemented. It sets forth the Army-wide approach to protecting its Army children from abuse. Any installation serving 2,000 or more dependents may set up an Army Child Advocacy Program (ACAP) to handle its child abuse cases — providing protection for the child and professional help for the parents.

This regulation recognizes the fact that certain Army institutional policies do have a role in the occurrence of child abuse. In order for a soldier to fulfill his military obligation, his family members may have to undergo some emotional and social strain.

ACAP calls for a Child Protection and Case Management Team (CPCMT). The Child Protective Services Council which is staffed by Martin Army Hospital and Ft. Benning personnel was established in 1972. The CPCMT consists of the Chief of Pediatrics and representatives of Community Health Nursing Service, Social Work Service, Occupational Therapy, Martin Army Hospital Chaplain, Staff Judge Advocate, Psychiatry, Juvenile Division of the Provost Marshal Office and representatives from the Muscogee and Chattahoochee County Department of Family and Children Services.

It provides for a multi-disciplinary approach to the problem of child abuse and neglect at Ft. Benning. It calls for a uniform military program committed to the early detection and treatment of families where child maltreatment has occurred or may occur.

According to Gulley, the potential to abuse is acquired over time and may result from at least five factors:

- The way the parents themselves were reared.
- Isolation and feelings that they can neither relate to or trust others.
- Passivity and inability to give emotionally.
- Poor self image (feelings of worthlessness).
- Unrealistic expectations of their children. "A parent may see the child as different — too smart, hyperactive, retarded, spoiled or stubborn."

MAJ Gulley added that with such existing potential to abuse it only takes a crisis, major or minor, to lead to the abuse of a child — the washing machine breaks, the soldier's pay gets fouled up by the computer, the family is separated for weeks, months or possibly years while the husband goes to the field or overseas. It is a combination of events occurring at the right time in the right order that leads to physical child abuse.

The CPCMT is also concerned with cases of child neglect — insufficient food, clothing or supervision. The child who appears in cold weather inadequately dressed, who needs medical care, often dirty and unkempt or left alone is an example of the neglected child.

Some people who readily report the mistreatment of animals, will hesitate in reporting the abuse of a child. They don't want to be responsible for getting their neighbor or friend in trouble or locked up.

MAJ Yeatman maintains that it's not a matter of getting your neighbor in trouble, "but rather it's a matter of protecting the child, or helping the family, because child abuse is a family problem."

"We're not in the business of taking children from their parents," he added. The purpose of the council is to help the family. A high priority has been given to programs for education. Classes for methods of handling children, proper methods of parenting are conducted by Occupational Therapy section.

Open dating protects shoppers

In this age of consumer advocacy, food shoppers want to know what they are buying and how fresh it is. The question of freshness can be answered by "open dating" used in commercial supermarkets — and in Army commissaries worldwide.

In the past manufacturers dated most of their products in codes the average consumer could not interpret — a "closed dating" system.

Open dating is a method of stating in plain terms either when the product was manufactured — or how long it can be expected to remain fresh.

However, manufacturers, processors and retailers may use different dating methods. A processing date doesn't necessarily give a good indication of how long a product will stay fresh.

Use of a "pull" date may answer this problem. That is the last date the manufacturer recommends an item should remain on sale before it is pulled from the shelf. The product may remain usable after the posted pull date — but the period is hard to fix.

Perhaps the most definite date is one that

Some simple problems of neglect may be due to a lack of knowledge on the parents' part. There may be no mal-intent involved.

Any cases of suspect child abuse may be reported to the Social Work services, 544-1662 or the Department of Pediatrics, 544-3218. Your identification will be kept strictly confidential; however, it is not necessary to identify yourself. In case of an emergency or after duty hours, call 544-2041, for the information desk and they will contact the Pediatrician or Social Worker on call.

Maj. Gulley summed up by saying "The Army doesn't make people child abusers but until the society from which we draw our personnel can resolve the problems that lead to the maltreatment of children, the military community will continue to have families in need of protective services."

identifies the last date the product is to be used by the customer. But even that date may be indefinite since manufacturers tend to add a "fudge factor" to be on the safe side. Usually, if the product looks and smells okay, then the inclination is to use it.

Date marking of food is voluntary, done as a service to the consumer. Unless legislation is passed to standardize the dating system and terminology, consumers will be called upon to make judgments based on limited information.

Soldiers overseas are presented with a special problem. Most manufacturers date their items for sale in CONUS where the turnover is greater and supply lines are not as long.

Perishable commissary items shipped overseas often are frozen during shipment making the date stamp no longer accurate. To know how fresh the item is, commissary shoppers would have to know how long a product was frozen.

However, the Army commissary system has safeguards to assure freshness of perishable items. All food items shipped overseas are inspected at various stages by Army veterinarians. Items are sold only when certified by these inspectors to be wholesome.

Items may be out of date by a CONUS dating system but still be wholesome and safe to eat. In some instances the price may be reduced so the item will be sold quickly.

It's important — until some standard dates are agreed upon — for the military shopper to understand what the date on the item means. For instance the date on most egg cartons is the date they were packed. That date could easily be confused as an expiration date.

The most knowledgeable local sources of information are the commissary officer or Army veterinarian. They can give an idea as to how long the item was frozen in the case of meat and how long other items may retain their freshness.

In the meantime every effort is being made to protect the health and safety of the Army's soldier and his family. (ANF)

Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition

Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg. 229 will host the 8th annual Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition November 25th-28th. This is a great opportunity for military (active and retired), DAC and DAF personnel and their dependents (16 or older) to exhibit their artwork. Robbins will be awarded for 1st, 2d and 3d place in ten categories, plus a "Best In Show" ribbon. All Civil Service, Nonappropriated Funds and Post Exchange Employees at Ft. Benning are eligible to participate in the Arts & Crafts program. For additional information, call 545-4404 or 545-1375.

Thanksgiving Day Cornucopia Party

Come celebrate Thanksgiving Day at Kelley Hill Recreation Center. The fun begins at 2:30 pm with refreshments, contests, and prizes galore. For information, call 544-1721.

Thanksgiving Dinner

Ft. Benning Army Community Service will sponsor a Thanksgiving Turkey dinner from 12:30 to 2:30 pm on November 25th at the Follow Me Dining Facility, Bldg. 73 on post.

The dinner is for all retired Army personnel, service widows and unaccompanied military dependents and their families.

Tickets will be on sale until November 15th at the Follow Me Dining Facility. Cost of the dinner is $1.75 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Christmas Workshop

If you are in need of new ideas for Christmas gifts or decorations, plan to attend the workshop on November 15th and 16th at 7 pm at the Main Post Recreation Center. Mrs. Evelyn Southwood will be the instructor, and her ideas are attractive and inexpensive to make. Plan to attend and bring a friend. For additional information, call 545-1375 after 1 pm.

Thanksgiving Buffet Party

Enjoy yourself Thanksgiving afternoon, November 25th, at Harmony Church Recreation Center's Buffet Party starting at 4 pm. Participate in activities such as Turkey Darts, Pumpkin Penny Pitch, Cornucopia Guess and Luck Turkey Number. Prizes will be awarded to winners. Enjoy the buffet and pumpkin pie while having fun with friends.

AUSA General Membership Meeting

The Columbus-Phenix City-Ft. Benning Chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army (AUSA) will hold its annual Fall General Membership Meeting at the Top Five NCO Club at Ft. Benning, December 1st.

The guest speaker will be COL Frederick C. Turner of the Strategic Studies Institute, Army War College. COL Turner was a panelist at an October 12th discussion on "How Tall are the Russians?" at the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington during the 1976 AUSA Annual Meeting.

COL Turner, who has served two tours of duty with Soviet forces in Germany, said the Soviets are getting taller in terms of military effectiveness and mobility. He said that largely through technological sophistication, the Russians have grown in the past decade and that the U. S. really has no choice but to match or keep pace with their growth in certain key areas while assuring that they do not surpass us in others.

The meeting will begin at 7 pm with a social period, followed by dinner at 7:30. The ticket price is 18 per person. Military attire will be dress blues with four-in-hand tie. Dark suits are suggested for civilians. This is not a stag meeting.

The Infantry Chorus is scheduled to entertain the dinner guests.

Recreation Services Division will present the 5th Dimension at Marshall Auditorium, November 22d. There will be two performances, the first beginning at 7:30 pm and the second beginning at 9:45 pm. Tickets will be on sale at the Information, Tours & Travel Office for $5 until November 15th. After the 15th, tickets will cost $6. The public is invited to attend.

It only takes a minute to reach a ready market

Medical Badge testing slated

By Jim Wilbert

The Expert Medical Field Badge testing at Ft. Benning will be sponsored by the 34th Med Bn November 29th.

Last year during the month of March EMFB testing was held for 113 candidates. Units providing participants were the 197th Inf. Bde, 34th Med Bn and the 427th Med Co from Ft. Rucker, AL.

Candidates must be able to demonstrate proficiency in emergency medical care and several other military subjects. Radio communicatons, map reading, military intelligence and chemical, biological and nuclear warfare are all included in EMFB proficiency course.

A physical fitness test will also be administered to include a 12-mile road march and a litter obstacle course.

The purpose of the EMFB is to provide recognition to the members of the Army Medical Department.

Eligibility requirements can be found in AR-672-10. Personnel wishing to participate in the course can contact the EMFB project officer at the S-4, 34th Med Bn or by calling 545-5361.

Doughboys whip Atlanta Jets, 50-0

By Jack Barham
Assistant Head Coach

The Ft. Benning Doughboys demolished the Atlanta Jets, 50-0 Saturday night, establishing a two game scoring record of 85 points against 12 for opponents. If anybody wondered whether the Doughboys were for real, Saturday night should have convinced them that we are at least as real as the best teams in the tough Atlanta semi-professional league.

The Infantrymen were again heavily outweighed in every position, yet the offense scored almost at will, and the defense continually took the ball away from the massive Jets, blocking two punts and seizing five fumbles and two interceptions.

Next Doughboy game tomorrow night 7pm at Doughboy Stadium

Late in the game, a pass interference penalty gave the semi-pros the ball on the Doughboy one yard line. Miffed over what he considered an unfair penalty, Dave Bankston sent his first unit defense back into the game. On two running plays, the Doughboys drove the Jets back seven yards. On the third play they took the ball away by intercepting a pass.

A special nod of commendation must go to the special teams, known as the "Wild Bunch." These men, mostly second and third unit players who compose the kick-off and punt return teams, were largely responsible for destroying the Jets morale. Twice in the first quarter they broke through to block Atlanta punts, once for a safety and another time to give the offense the ball on the other defensive lineman mentally prepare themselves for their next defensive play.

Atlanta nine yard line. Their "suicide play" on kickoffs continuously downed the Atlanta backs inside the 20 yard line.

Joe Duenas had another mildly successful night, throwing three touchdown passes and running for two more scores. His first strike was to end Roland Hubbard. The next two were to wingback Gary Anderson. Guy Richardson hit end Joe Hutching for another score and ran in a two point conversion.

Julian Williams scored once on a four yard plunge. Kicker Dave Ward hit four extra points and had two blocked.

The Doughboy defense was simply superb. They scored enough points to win by themselves, and simply beat the giant Jet offensive linemen into physical and emotional submission. Outstanding players could be picked from any name on the defensive roster, but linemen Pete Martin, Mike Dawkins, John Thornton, Steve Rogers, Joe Duggan, and Minor Swackhammer were especially outstanding. Cornerbacks Anthony Milledge and Ed Cochran also played really tough football.

John Ross was proud of his second unit offensive line, especially guards Jeffer Johnson and Julius Bridges, center John Takarewicz and end Joe Hutching, who made several great catches, including his 12 yard score.

Saturday night, Baptist Christian College invades Doughboy Stadium to present a new look to the Infantrymen. We know very little about them except that they are a small college in their first year of football competition.

We expect to face younger, quicker athletes and better overall team speed than we've seen from the big semi-pro teams we've faced so far. Chances are that they won't be as big as the Centurians or the Jets, but the Doughboys have shown that they can handle size. We haven't been tested against a really quick team so far.

With the confidence gained from two lopsided wins, the Doughboys should present increased poise and team maturity. We haven't really been tested so far. Tomorrow may be the day.

Sacking the quarterback is what the defensive tackles job is all about. Doughboy Mike Dawkins (No. 64) is in hot pursuit of the Atlanta Jets quarterback Robert Grimes (No. 22) before he gets the ball into the air.

Sharks down Cougars to clinch championship

The Ft. Benning Sharks won their seventh in a row and the Doughboy League Championship in a 41 to 12 victory over the Cougars at Gordon Field Saturday afternoon.

The Sharks fell behind early as the Cougars took the opening kickoff on the 40 and capped a 60 yd. drive with a touchdown, to make it 6-0.

The Cougars then kicked off and the ball was run back to the 40. On the first play from scrimmage, fullback Bryan Hight connected with flanker Larry Free for a 60 yard T-D pass, the run conversion was good and it made the score Sharks 8 - Cougars 6. From that point on it was all Sharks.

The next score came on a Bryan Hight run. A short time later quarterback, Chris Baird, plunged over from the one to score.

Then on a Cougar kick, fullback, Coyle Permetter broke loose on an 80 yard scoring run. On the day Permetter had 101 yards, on the year he has 949.

This left the first half score 29-6. Bryan

Hight kicked one of the 1st half conversions, which is very rare in this age group.

On the second half kickoff fullback Coyle Permetter ran the ball back for a TD, but it was called back due to an illegal block. On the 1st play from scrimmage halfback Charles Thomas broke loose over right tackle for a 30 yard TD run. Thomas also had a pass interception and a fumble recovery early in the game.

The Cougars came back on some fine running by their backs Lahr and Harris to make it 35-12, late in the 3rd quarter.

The only score in the 4th quarter came on another long bomb from Bryan Hight to tight end Gary Moon, to make the final score 41-12.

Head Coach Bob Woolley was pleased with the team's all around performance of 252 yards rushing and 128 passing. Defensive coach, Ken Coleman, was especially pleased with the way the defense pulled together after the Cougars early score. The Sharks are looking forward to their remaining two games with the Grizzlies and the Rams.

Redskins rout Packers

By Christine Bass

The Biddy League Redskins scorched the Packers 26-8 on Saturday morning at Blue Field.

After the kick off, strong defensive playing enabled the Redskins to take the ball over the Packer 41 yard line. Three plays later, Tracy Rucker crossed the Packer goal line on a 30 yard scoring run.

Baxter Barber scored on the run for the extra point and an eight point Redskin lead.

In the second quarter, strong defensive play by the Redskins stopped the Packers again. A four yard run by Barber, ended an eight play scoring drive for a 14-0 Redskin halftime lead.

The third quarter was a see-saw battle, with neither team making much headway until Barber returned a punt to the Packer 19 yard line, and one play later Barber scored again for a 20-point Redskin lead.

An 11 play drive, capped by a touchdown run by Barber, provided the final Redskin score. An outstanding touchdown run by Bell, for the Packers, made the score 26-8. The game ended with Erick Voegeli intercepting a pass and returning it near the Packer goal.

Outstanding players for the Redskins were: Bryson, Rucker, Russ, Kramer, Barber, Corkins, Chelf, Wagstaff, Johnson, Parris, Cook, Koehler, Rumburg, Williams, Erickson, Dorr, Parker, Voegeli, Graves, Hebert, Gonzales and Olivares.

PRIVATE FIRST CLASS PATRICK J. KESSLER, ACTING WITHOUT ORDERS, RAGED 50 YARDS THRU A HAIL OF MACHINE-GUN FIRE TO DESTROY AN ENEMY MACHINE-GUN NEST. AFTER COVERING HIMSELF, HE THEN SNAKED HIS WAY OVER 50 MORE YARDS. UPON BEING DISCOVERED HE PLUNGED HEADLONG INTO THE HEAVY FIRE REACHING A SPOT WITHIN 6 FEET OF THE NEST. HE STOOD OVER IT AND ANNIHILATED THE TWO GUNNERS, CAPTURED ANOTHER AND WOUNDED THE REMAINING GRENadier MEMBER. AFTER SEEING TWO MORE OF HIS COMRADES KILLED, HE CRAWLED 35 YARDS TO THE SIDE OF ONE OF THE CASUALTIES AND TOOK HIS BAR AND AMMUNITION. HE HEADED TOWARDS-

ANOTHER STRONGPOINT 125 YARDS AWAY. CRAWLING 75 YARDS THROUGH A MINE FIELD TO WITHIN 50 YARDS OF THE ENEMY, HE ENGAGED THE MACHINE GUNS IN A DUEL. WHEN A SHELL BURST GOT TOO CLOSE, HE LEFT THE DITCH AND ADVANCED ON THE POSITION IN A SLOW WALK FIRING HIS BAR AT THE HIP.

ALTHOUGH THE ENEMY POURED HEAVY FIRE AT HIM, HE OVERPOWERED THEM AND KILLED THE GUNNERS AND CAPTURED 13 GERMANS.

WHILE TAKING HIS PRISONERS TO THE REAR, PFC KESSLER WAS FIRED UPON BY TWO SNIPERS. AND SEVERAL OF THE PRISONERS ATTEMPTED ESCAPE. HOWEVER, PFC KESSLER ROUNDED THEM UP AND THEN CAPTURED THE SNIPERS. PRIVATE FIRST CLASS KESSLER WAS KILLED IN A SUBSEQUENT ACTION.

OWC Emblem Design Contest

The OWC of Ft. Benning is launching a postwide contest in search of an emblem which will symbolize the OWC of Ft. Benning. This emblem is visualized as being a permanent insignia which would be instantly recognizable as denoting the club, its members, and their endeavors.

Any active duty military person or their dependent is eligible to enter the contest. The design should be done in pen and ink and should be no larger than 9 x 12. The deadline for submitting a design will be December 9th. All entries should include name, address, telephone, and military status (active duty or dependent).

The design can be left in the OWC office, Monday through Thursday, from 10 am - 2pm. All entries become the property of OWC upon submission and if selected can be used on all and any OWC material. Non selected designs may be reclaimed at the OWC lounge after the winning contributor has been named. The winner will be awarded a $25 savings bond. For more information, call Muriel Parrish, 687-6979.

Communicate is looking for new writers and photographers. We need your help and support — remember, YOU MAKE THE DIFFERENCE. Please contact Diana Loftin, 687-8985, or Janet Jones, 689-3308.

We will no longer have monthly staff meetings. Please bring articles to Diana Loftin at 117 Dial Street. Remember the deadline for the January issue is November 15th, and the deadline for the February issue is December 6th.

If you enjoy your Communicate and would like to contribute your talents, we welcome you to our staff!

Soldier's pay can be attached

For many years, the pay of a military member could not be attached because of a state court decree for alimony or child support. If a servicemember refused to pay the amount and was out of the state where the decree was awarded, no legal action could be taken against him or her. Pursuasion by a commander often resulted in payments; however, moral and command pressure was the sole recourse against a recalcitrant spouse.

Such is no longer the case. On January 1, 1975, a Federal law was enacted which provides that the wages of Federal employes, as well as members of the Armed Forces, can be taken and-or attached — to satisfy child support or alimony decrees. This procedure is known as garnishment — a legal method by which a holder of a court decree can go directly to the employer and request that the specified amount (determined by state court) of the delinquent spouse's pay be diverted to satisfy child-support or alimony obligations.

This order is then sent by certified mail to the individual's service finance center along with the name, social security number and current duty station. Once the finance center receives and verifies the court decree, a servicemember's pay will be decreased accordingly.

Some of the type of military pay that may be garnished in whole or in part include base pay, special pay, incentive pay, retired retainer pay, accrued leave pay, and Reserve bonus pay.

Military legal officers are available to assist individuals who are having difficulty either in receiving support or in meeting their financial obligation. Since a garnishment order is difficult to repeal, a servicemember should consult the local legal advisor before getting too far behind in payments.

Don't strain the drain

Many substances that are easily poured down a drain or into a toilet are not so easily removed from the wastewater at the sewage plants. So, here are a few "no-nos" about the use of the sewage system.

- Never dump unusual, toxic or otherwise possibly hazardous materials into the sewage system (street drains, toilet, sink) without first checking local environmental or health officials, since vapors from these substances can be a serious hazard to wastewater plant workers.
- Use no or low phosphate laundry detergents. Some wastewater plants have no treatment process to eliminate detergent suds.
- Never use the sewer system to dispose of plastic items, rags or other inappropriate items.
- Put grease, oils and fatty food waste in plastic bags or empty milk containers and place in the garbage, instead of your sink.

Amateur radio is definitely a step up from CB. But ask yourself "Do I really need to step up?" Here are some things you should take into consideration in forming your opinion.

License
A CB license is inexpensive and no technical examinations are required; one license is good for all authorized CB frequencies and covers all members of your immediate family.

A ham license is also inexpensive but requires passing both an electronics and a Morse Code test (granted the Novice class exams are easy to pass, but frequencies, transmission modes and power are restricted); there are several different classes of Amateur licenses carrying different privileges, all of which require separate exams and the license is only good for one person.

Equipment

CB transceivers are inexpensive (some are even cheap), easy to operate and require no elaborate antenna or installation.

Ham gear is generally more expensive, somewhat more complicated to operate and may require several different antennas or special equipment.

General

CB offers low-power,

short-range, universal-access communication.

Ham radio is highpower, long-range, limited access communications.

So there it is — if you like the idea of building your own transmitter or receiver, or if you get a kick out of operating an amateur radio station that's more powerful than some commercial ones, or if you're into shooting skip from Podunk to Petaluma or Poughkeepsie to Patagonia, by all means get into ham radio.

But if you're more into finding out where the good restaurants are in a strange town; or always having someone to talk to, especially in an emergency; or just being able to listen in on the discussion of whether it was Aunt Fannie who threw an ironing board at Uncle Elmer or Uncle Elmer who threw a pie at Aunt Fannie; well, good buddy, welcome to the wild and wonderful world of CB-America's party line.

Veteran numbers increase

The nation's veteran population is increasing. During the past year, it has risen from 148,000 to 29,607,000 VA officials say.

Vietnam-era vets exceeded the eight million mark for the first time through the month of June. The largest segment of the veteran population continued to be the 13.4 million World War II vets, down 200,000 from the previous year.

Nearly a million vets were 75 years of age or older. Included were 867,000 World War I vets.

Some 675 Spanish-American War vets were the elder statesmen among the former service members.

Nine states continued to house more than half of the vets at 15.7 million.

The largest state increase — 39,000 — boosted Florida to 1.2 million, moving the Sunshine State into seventh place ahead of Michigan. California continued to lead the nation with 3.3 million vets.

Other states with more than a million vets were New York, 2.5 million; Pennsylvania, 1.8 million; Texas, 1.6 million; Illinois, 1.6 million; Ohio, 1.5; Michigan, 1.2 million; and New Jersey 1.1 million.

Alaska's 41,000 veteran total remained unchanged. (ARNEWS).

PV2 John Millett (l) has his airborne wings pinned on by his father, COL (Ret) Lewis Millett, who received the Medal of Honor for heroism during the Korean Conflict.

By Betty Zimmerman

Traditionally, the Airborne School recognizes all second generation paratroopers at their graduation ceremony. Last week 32 out of 331 had followed in their fathers' footsteps and received their wings.

One of these graduates has some heavy footsteps to follow, however. Eighteen-year old PV2 John M. Millett's wings were pinned on by his father, COL (Ret.) Lewis L. Millett who went through jump school in 1955 with the 11th Airborne in Germany.

COL Millett received a battlefield commission during World War II. Then in February 1951, he earned the nation's highest award for bravery during combat, the Medal of Honor.

A captain at the time, with Co E, 27th Inf Regt, Korea, Millett is credited with leading the last bayonet charge in the U.S. Army. Despite grenade fragment wounds, he led his men through hand-to-hand combat to the crest of a hill by using their bayonets with such lethal effect that the enemy fled in wild disorder.

COL Millett retired three years ago and he, his wife and daughter live in Trenton, TN.

Private Millett is ready for his assignment to Ft. Bragg's 82d Abn Div and rightfully proud of his maroon beret and "badge of courage" wings.

Keep family informed of benefits

"I cannot emphasize enough the importance of veterans keeping their families informed of the various benefits to which they may be entitled in the event of the veteran's death," says Georgia Veterans Service Director Pete Wheeler.

Burial expenses, plot allowances, free headstones or grave markers are some of the benefits available to veterans' survivors. Also, in certain cases, pensions, dependency and indemnity compensation, education benefits and medical care expenses may be payable to a veteran's survivors.

Important documents such as discharge papers, marriage and birth certificates, divorce decrees and insurance policies should be kept in a safe place and family members should know where they are stored.

In regard to insurance policies, Wheeler has another word of caution: "Keep your beneficiaries up to date.

Not doing so could result in the wrong or unintended party being the recipient of your insurance benefits. Names of beneficiaries must be kept current. They cannot be changed by last will and testament."

GEN Kerwin to speak

Artillery Ball slated

By Robert Upchurch

GEN Walter T. Kerwin, Army Vice Chief of Staff, will be the Guest Speaker at the 1976 Artillery Ball on December 4th at the Ft. Benning Officers' Open Mess.

The ball is a gala event that has traditionally been one of the social highlights of the year for Air Defense and Field Artillerymen who gather at military posts throughout the world to celebrate as loyal members of the order of Saint Barbara.

Invitational flyers have been circulated to all known Artillerymen at Ft. Benning for the purpose of making reservations for the Ball. Any Field Artilleryman or Air Defense officer who did not receive an invitation and desires to attend, contact MAJ Upchurch, 545-2841; MAJ Georgecink, 544-4133; or CPT Felt, 544-2687. The theme of this year's Artillery Ball is "AN ISLAND OF RED IN A SEA OF BLUE."

In addition to GEN Kerwin's talk, events include a dinner, initiation of new gunners and dancing.

—VA questions & answers—

Q -- Does my VA ability, include compensation check, for allowances for my service-connected disabilities, include children?

A -- If the service-connected disability is rated at 50 per cent or more, the amount of compensation will include amounts for all qualifying dependents that have been reported to the VA.

Q -- Can a veteran receive community nursing home care at VA expense?

A -- Nursing home care service at VA expense is limited to veterans whose condition is service connected and to VA hospitalized non-service - connected veterans who are unable to defray the expense.

THANKSGIVING

... a time of joy and togetherness.

Published each Friday by the R.W. Page Corporation, Columbus, Ga., a private firm in no way connected with the Department of the Army. Opinions expressed by the publisher and writers herein are their own, and are not to be considered an official expression by the Department of the Army. # Thanksgiving Message

Thanksgiving Day has special significance during 1976 when we are celebrating our nation's beginnings. This oldest of American holidays is a time for expressing our gratitude for this country's enduring freedoms.

America and the world have changed significantly since the first Thanksgiving Day when those early colonists, far from home in a lonely wilderness, set aside a time to thank God for a bountiful harvest. The spirit of self-sacrifice, however, still motivates Americans today, and is exemplified by the men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces who voluntarily serve at home and abroad to insure our national security and contribute to peace and stability in the world.

On this Thanksgiving, I express my personal appreciation to our men and women in uniform, to their families and to all members of the Department of Defense whose deep commitment to the defense of freedom deserves the thanks and admiration of the nation.

(s) Donald Rumsfeld
Secretary of Defense

Thanksgiving was originated by the Pilgrims in 1621 after a long and arduous year of terrible hardships. They invited their Indian friends to join in giving thanks for the bountiful harvest.

Today we Americans still have much to be thankful for. Over the centuries many inventions and advanced technology have greatly improved our standard of living. Unfortunately, these modern conveniences have introduced new hazards into our lives. The greatest of these hazards is the automobile. Annually approximately 50,000 Americans die on our nation's highways. Many of these highway fatalities occur during holiday periods.

If you must travel during the Thanksgiving holiday period, use commercial transportation. If you do drive, plan your trip, get your car mechanically ready, and allow ample time with scheduled rest stops.

Ft. Benning has enjoyed five consecutive fatality-free Thanksgiving holidays. Let us all think and act safely, use good old common sense and return to work on Monday safe and sound.

Post Dependent Schools report

To insure that Dependent Schools are providing the highest possible level of instruction, the Commanding General recently charged his staff and the Superintendent of Dependent Schools with assessing the programs now being offered.

Since then, numerous actions have been taken to evaluate the programs and the possible changes that could be made to improve it. At the slightest doubt that a program is not attaining the highest level possible, it receives a continuing study until problem areas are corrected.

Two trips were taken by the Superintendent and members of his staff to other schools whose programs were deemed worthy. A testing program has been re-initiated to determine if the level of excellence is being maintained and an Assistant Superintendent for Instruction has been employed to make a detailed analysis of the programs and curriculum. Another significant change involved the reorganization of the School Board, which should provide a closer contact between board members, parents and teachers.

The Assistant Superintendent's evaluation uncovered some areas where uniformity was needed. Changes are being made and the assessment is continuing. The visitation to other school systems revealed very few areas where Ft. Benning schools were not exceeding or equalling other programs.

The School Board meets at 7:30 p.m. every fourth Monday of each month at Dexter School. These meetings are open to the public unless otherwise stated before they meet. (There will be some meetings where items for Board consideration of a personal nature concerning employes which cannot be conducted in public). The next meeting is November 22d.

The Superintendent wishes to assure all sponsors that a quality education program is being conducted in the Ft. Benning Dependent Schools and with the increased interest on the part of the parents, an even better education will be provided.

Chrysler gets development nod for main battle tank

Chrysler Corporation has been selected to continue developing the new U. S. Army main battle tank according to Secretary of the Army Martin R. Hoffmann.

The $196.2 million contract awarded them ends the competitive development validation phase of the program.

During that phase, Chrysler Corporation developed and produced a prototype XM1 Tank, a mobility test rig and a ballistic hull and turret. These were tested extensively during February, March and April as well as models of other corporations.

The program will continue for 36 months during which time, 11 pilot tanks with associated hardware, will be produced. Also, Chrysler Corporation will provide full logistic support to further developmental and operational testing which will be done by the Army.

The XM1 tank will have a dual capable turret design to accept either a 120mm or a 105mm gun. It will have a 1500 horsepower turbine engine and will be superior in all respects to current tanks.

Other features include a stabilized fire control system with a laser rangefinder, computer, and day/night sight, plus the tank has greatly improved protection for the four-man crew.

Landlord/tenant laws

Effective July 1st, the General Assembly for the State of Georgia enacted major changes in the landlord-tenant laws. Although all changes do not apply to every rental by military personnel, there remain a significant number of cases where military personnel are particularly affected. Security deposits is one such area.

The General Assembly has broadly defined what a security deposit is. However, the law affecting this area applies only to those deposits received after July 1, and does not apply to individuals who own ten units or less and do not employ managers. The primary area affected is the large apartment rentals.

In those areas where the law applies the security deposit must be placed in an identifiable account where ownership remains in the tenant. Prior to collecting a security deposit, a written list of all defects on the premises must be given to the tenant. Absent a noted exception by the tenant, this list then becomes the basis to determine what damages the tenant will be charged; and in turn what percentage of his security deposit will be returned. Exceptions must be made within five days in writing.

In the event the landlord violates the tenant's right, he is subject to damages as much as three times the amount in controversy, plus reasonable attorney fees.

Other areas of change include a requirement on the part of the landlord to mitigate damages and attorney fees as a prerequisite to retaining the security deposit. The eviction procedures have also been amended so that a legal eviction can occur within fourteen days of initiation of eviction proceedings. There are also major changes in the landlord's obligation to make repairs and maintenance and a lessening of the defense previously available to the landlord.

In conclusion, the military soldier has available to him new laws that protect his interest in the leased premises. With these new changes faithful performance under a lease assures performance on the part of the landlord.

Soldier's Medal

An instructor in the USAIS's Tactics Department received the Soldier's Medal from the post commander in a ceremony earlier this month.

CPT Daniel F. Cronin earned the medal for his heroic actions in Panmunjom, Korea on Nov. 3, 1975.

The Infantry captain was assigned to the Joint Security Area which is a part of the sensitive demilitarized zone occupied by both American and North Korean personnel.

An American serviceman armed with a loaded M-16 rifle and .45 calibre pistol had disarmed a group of his fellow soldiers and was threatening to shoot them when Cronin entered the building.

Cronin, with composure and courage, attempted to talk the man into putting his weapon down. But the man's only response was to shift the selector switch on the M-16 to automatic and point it at Cronin's mid-section.

When the man became momentarily distracted, Cronin jumped him. The weapon discharged and 18 rounds were quickly fired. One round hit CPT Cronin in the leg and four more put holes in his trousers, but he managed to hold the assailant until the other hostages in the building could help him.

CPT Cronin is a native of Port Washington, N. Y., husband, and the father of two children.

During apartment fire

Soldier comes to the rescue

By Betty Zimmerman

Quick thinking and fast actions by SP4 Cary Parler Monday morning very possibly saved the life of a woman whose apartment was on fire.

Parler, who lives in the same apartment complex on Mason Drive, was preparing to leave for work when he noticed flames in an upstairs window.

He ran to the door but got no answer when knocking, so he went downstairs and found out from the neighbors that there was a woman living in the apartment. He called the fire department and went back upstairs.

This time he kicked in the door of the burning apartment and called out. Someone answered from the bedroom, so he low-crawled through the smoke-filled room and carried out the woman he found lying on the floor.

By the time Parler got the victim back downstairs, the fire engine arrived, so he left things in their hands and hurried to work.

The victim was treated and released at Martin Army hospital.

Parler is assigned to Hq Co, HQ Cmd and works at TASO.

fins, furs, feathers

By Denny Blankenship

After overhearing a conversation between two avid hunters last week, I feel it's time to dispel a few myths concerning the whitetail deer. Many hunters believe that the number of points and size of antlers indicate the age of an individual deer.

The only scientific means of determining age is by the condition of the teeth, which are 32 in number, and this method requires considerable study and experience as well as knowledge of local conditions. In areas where there is considerable sand, age determination is more difficult as the teeth are worn down more rapidly by obstructive grinding.

Bucks in this area shed their antlers each year, usually by the beginning of February. New antlers will begin showing in May, when food is again abundant. For several months, the new antlers are covered with a soft, spongy tissue called "velvet." At this time, they are sensitive and the buck avoids contact with trees and heavy brush which might injure them and affect their development. By September they are fully formed and the velvet begins to peel. This peeling process is speeded up by the bucks, who rub their antlers against trees. The desire for perfected antlers is stimulated by the sex urge, for this period marks the beginning of the "rut."

The first evidence of the rutting urge is the swelling of the neck. "Within a six weeks period, the neck of a mature buck often has swelled to a degree that has increased its circumference by 10 inches." Bucks in this area are well within the rutting period and should be coming up out of the swamps in pursuit of the does. A buck will remain with a doe about three days and then move on in search of another.

Ponder this until next week: How much does a coffee urn?

Annual Swim Meet slated

The Ft. Benning Barracudas swim team will host the Second Annual Pilgrim Invitational Swim Meet at Bryant Wells Pool November 20th-21st.

Warm-ups will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday. More than 200 swimmers from throughout Georgia will participate in the AAU sanctioned event.

Coach Jim Reardon invites all interested swimmers and non-swimmers to attend this weekend's competition. Reardon, who became head coach in October has had 10 years of experience and two years experience as an assistant coach.

"The team has great potential," says Reardon, "but we're always looking for new swimmers. I invite anyone interested in joining the team to come to practice and try out. We are especially interested in senior division swimmers."

Practice is held Monday through Friday from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at Bryant Wells Pool.

Don't be a turkey this Thanksgiving

The Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving back in 1621. It was celebrated less than a year after the colonists settled in the new land. The first dreadful winter had killed approximately one-half of the 100 original settlers.

After harvesting a good corn crop in the summer of 1621, Governor William Bradford decreed a three-day festival to thank God for a plentiful harvest. The Pilgrims had much to be thankful for just as we do today.

Over the years Thanksgiving has become a family day celebrated with big dinners and joyous reunions. Our modern technology had changed our lifestyle greatly over the years. This technology has brought new hazards with it that the Pilgrims didn't have to face. The automobile is probably the greatest of these.

The majority of traffic accidents involve the ordinary, everyday driver who simply doesn't take his driving seriously enough. At a time when everyone should put safety first, many drivers feel that getting there fast is more important. They drive at speeds too fast for conditions; take chances passing; cut curves and corners; pass on hills or at intersections; and try to travel too far in too short a time. It is far better to arrive late than not to arrive at all.

Traffic accidents are not the only hazard during Thanksgiving. Some people will be injured climbing trees or mountains.

Hunters will shoot themselves or others because they failed to follow firearm safety rules. Someone will pour gasoline or kerosene on a fire to make it burn better. A child may pull a pot of boiling water off a stove. The list could go on and on. The common factor in most accidents is that a little safety-mindedness and the use of good common sense would have prevented them all.

Very few people carry on activities that are really dangerous, but everyone does things that can cause injury if little thought is given to safety.

During this long Thanksgiving weekend, make sure you are safer than a turkey. Don't stick your neck out to an accident.

Play it safe !!!

Being a veteran is a plus

According to the latest figures released by the Veterans Administration, veterans of United States armed forces have an average yearly income which is $3,930 higher than that of non-veterans.

The VA Annual Report for FY '75, recently issued, compares incomes of veterans and non-veterans as of mid-1975 by educational level as follows:

Educational Level	Average Income Veterans—Non-Veterans
Less than high school	$ 6,870	$ 4,730
Some high school	9,830	7,340
High school grad	11,350	8,870
Some college	12,620	6,750
College grad	17,240	11,870

According to the report, the fact that non-vets with "some college" education were earning less than their high school graduate counterparts was because almost half of the "some college" group were between 20 to 24 years of age, were still in school, had no significant work experience, and little or no personal income.

The report also pointed out that, despite the considerable publicity about veterans of the Vietnam War having difficulty in finding jobs, the unemployment rate for all veterans was only 4.7 compared to 8.3 for non-vets. Considering only the veterans of the Vietnam War, their unemployment rate was 9.7 compared to 10.0 for non-vets. Only the youngest Vietnam vets were in job trouble, having an unemployment rate of nearly 20 per cent. Vietnam vets 25 years old and above had a rate of 7.6 per cent, which was better than the national average of 8.7.

Veterans were also better educated than non-veterans according to the report, having attained a median education level of 12.6 years of schooling as opposed to 12.3 for non-vets.

The Report covers the more than 29 million veterans on VA rolls. About seven million are from the Vietnam era, nearly six million from the Korean War, and about 13.5 million from World War II.

The VA Report which was compiled with the close cooperation of the Bureau of the Census, makes it clear that today's veteran is better educated, more consistently employed and making more money than the non-veteran.

Thanksgiving Day

Plenty to give thanks for, even if no turkey

When the Pilgrims sat down to the first American Thanksgiving feast in 1621, no records show that the long-legged "Turkeys" that sped through the New England forest graced their table. The bushes were laden with cranberries, but scholars doubt that the Pilgrims had yet contrived a use for them. There is no evidence of there being any pumpkin pie on the table either.

Records show that the Pilgrim wives prepared a simple meal of venison, roast duck, roast goose, clams and other shell fish, succulent eels, white bread, cornbread, leeks and watercress and other "sallet herbes," with wild plums and dried berries for dessert. This was washed down with red and white wine made from wild grapes.

On the other hand, Ft. Benning personnel and their invited guests will be served 3,600 pounds of turkey along with 2,200 pounds of ham, 1,200 pounds of shrimp cocktail, 7,000 pounds of fresh potatoes and 360 six-pound cans of green peas.

The elaborate holiday feast will also feature giblet gravy, cornbread dressing, glazed sweet potatoes, buttered lima beans, buttered broccoli, butter flake rolls and butter and 360 seven-pound cans of cranberry sauce.

Two thousand pounds of lettuce will be served in a salad with celery seed dressing and a golden glow salad with salad dressing.

For dessert, there will be 960 pounds of fruit cake, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, mince meat pie and an assortment of fresh fruit.

There will be 600 four-pound cans of nuts, 900 pounds of unshelled nuts and an assortment of candy to munch on.

All this to be washed down with coffee, tea, milk or soft drinks.

A day of family togetherness based on tradition

Many Americans believe that the celebration of Thanksgiving is derived from the first ordered day of thanks by Governor Bradford in 1621. Actually, harvest celebrations are as old as civilization itself.

Certain passages in the Bible make reference to harvest celebrations. In the book of Judges, one can read of the Caananites:

"And they went out into the field and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes and held festival, and went into the house of their god, and did eat and drink."

In ancient Greece, the feast of Demeter, the foundress of agriculture and Goddess of harvest, was celebrated in Athens in November by married women only.

"Two wealthy and distinguished ladies were chosen to perform the sacred function in the name of the others and to prepare the sacred meal, which corresponded to our Thanksgiving dinner. On the first day of the feast, amid great mirth and rejoicing, the women went in procession to the promontory of Colias and celebrated their Thanksgiving for three days in the temple of Demeter. On their return a festival occurred for three days in Athens, sad at first but gradually growing into an orgy of mirth and dancing. The symbols of the fruitful goddess were poppies and ears of corn, a basket of fruit and a little pig."

The Romans annually worshipped the harvest deity Ceres on October 4th. It was celebrated with processions in the field with music and sport activities ending with a feat of thanksgiving.

In England, the fall fest was called the Harvest Home which may be traced back to the Saxons during the time of Egbert. The festival started with a special service in the village church which was decorated with fruits and flowers, followed by dinner in a tent and concluded with rural sports competition.

When the Puritans first fled to Holland, they became accustomed to the more respectable and religious feast of the Dutch. So the celebration of Thanksgiving was in their blood long before they reached American shores.

The first authentic American harvest festival was held by the Pilgrims. After suffering through a long, hard bitter cold winter, they were thankful for a bountiful season and the peace they had made with the Indians.

Governor Bradford declared a holiday, "so that all might, after a more special manner, rejoice together."

They invited their neighboring Indians for the three-day festival of recreation and feasting in gratitude for the bounty of the season.

They held another celebration the next year and repeated it more or less regularly for generations until it became a tradition throughout New England to enjoy a harvest festival. This tradition was then transferred to other parts of the country as the pioneers moved westward.

It remained a regional or local holiday until President Lincoln, during the midst of the Civil War, proclaimed it a national holiday on the last Thursday in November in 1863. It became an annual holiday proclaimed yearly by the President and the governor of each state.

In 1941, an Act of Congress established Thanksgiving as a national holiday on the fourth Thursday in November. Turkey is the traditional meat that is usually served along with the other autumnal foods of pumpkin pie and plum pudding.

The day is also commemorated with special church services by all faiths. A home festival with religious overtones, it is the coming together of family and friends for a gay and plentiful feast.

Army Sports Clinic Program

USAREC has tasked TRADOC to provide qualified soldier/athletes to perform as clinic sports instructors from January 17th to February 4th.

Selected soldier/athletes will serve as instructors within the Western Regional Recruiting Command. Soldier athletes with technical skills and the ability to instruct are required for the following sports: volleyball, soccer, tennis, wrestling, golf and archery.

Interested athletes should contact the Sports Branch at 5444516 for additional information as soon as possible.

"A Hundred Years of Christmas"

Do you automatically smile when you think of Santa Claus and his merry little elves hard at work this time of year? Or do you need a little dose of Christmas spirit? Either way, the Ft. Benning Dramatizers stand ready to provide the place, the time and the show.

It's called "A Hundred Years of Christmas" and it has that warm, bittersweet, happy quality that Christmas brings to most people. It tells us of the Beckerman family . . . their album of Christmas memories from the past, with a little trip into the future. But add to that the fact that their dreams and fantasies are also coming true and you have a pretty amazing combination.

So if you'd like to help with this special production, dial 545-5057, or stop by the Playhouse, Bldg 1237 (behind the Infantry Museum). There's a place for anyone interested in theatre . . . and there's something about seeing a host of unlikely characters singing, dancing, romping and frolicking on the stage that brings out the best in Christmas!

Results of Boy Scout Pro-Am Gold Tournament

A 36 Hole Handicap Golf Tournament was held at Sand Hill Golf Course October 30th-31st to select a team of three golfers to represent Ft. Benning in the Boy Scout Pro-Am Golf Tournament to be played on the Mountain View Golf Course, Callaway Gardens, on November 8th. The Ft. Benning Golf Team was selected from 18 golfers who participated in the 36 hole event. The three players who qualified to represent Ft. Benning were:

CPT William C. Thomas - 10th Co, 1st Bn TSB
SFC Ernst Rinn - HHD, 197th Spt Bn
SFC Victor Montanez - Co C, AIT

The Benning team finished 2nd in a field of 36 teams with a score of 61 low ball with full handicaps. Individual honors went to SFC Victor Montanez, Co C, AIT, who received a Gift Certificate in the amount of $250 and a golf trophy. Montanez fired a gross score of 73 and his net with handicap was a 67.

Army hitch provides appealing headstart

Today's youth find Army life more attractive; their reasons are as varied as the people themselves. Some enlist for travel and adventure — and some to "find themselves." Another group of young people join the Army to begin their college schooling. Others join because they can't find jobs.

Another newer reason for joining is higher Army pay which makes it competitive with the civilian economy. Five years ago, the Army could not hope to compete with beginning salaries of industry. Now young people are finding attractive salary — coupled with greater opportunity.

Recruit pay compares favorably with that of a worker beginning in industry; the fringe benefits may exceed those of industry.

An increasing number of enlistees also find that Army pay beats the starting salary of some college graduates. The American preoccupation with a liberal college education seems to have caught up with the job market. A liberal arts college diploma is no longer a guaranteed ticket to a job and graduates are having to accept lower paying jobs.

According to Census Bureau statistics for 1974, the latest available, male high school graduates earned about $7,300 and women earned about $5,300. Male graduates of a four-year college could expect to earn slightly more than $8,000 a year while women earned about $7,500. Including benefits, today's first termers can match or exceed those salaries.

A congressionally-sponsored study recently found that an E-1's pay, including benefits, totalled $7,305 per year. An E-3 in less than three years has an income of $8,251 which exceeds the average college graduate's salary. At the same time the E-3 may take advantage of the Army's educational opportunities.

As a result, the education level of today's enlisted force has risen almost 10 per cent in the last three years. In 1972, 70.6 per cent of the enlisted force had a high school diploma or its equivalent; in December 1975 it had risen to 79.3 per cent.

The trend toward higher quality, better educated recruits should continue as more people take advantage of the opportunities the Army offers. The Army will no doubt reap benefits from the new wealth of talent with a stronger, better motivated force to carry out the Army's mission. A task that apparently is becoming more acceptable to today's youth. (ANF)

The Wedge. Zenith built it for people who want high performance sound and professional features.

The Wedge brings you the clear, rich, natural sound of Zenith's finest Allegro stereo system. Its long list of sophisticated features includes our most precise tuner-amplifier.

High performance?

The Wedge delivers 12 watts of power per channel (min. RMS) into 8 ohms, yet total harmonic distortion is held to a low 0.5% or less (power bandwidth 40 to 18,000 Hz).

Professional features?

A Hi-filter lets you switch off high-frequency hiss. The sensitive AM/FM/Stereo FM tuner-amplifier features highly advanced electronics for improved selectivity and reception. And, there's FM muting. Tuned RF on AM and FM. Dual Gate MOS FET. Phase Locked Loop IC Stereo FM Multiplex Decoder. Automatic Frequency Control. Precision Vernier Tuning. And a large, accurate Tuning Meter.

The precision automatic turntable features the famous Micro-Touch® tone arm, a dual-radius diamond stylus, and smooth-performing, viscous-damped Cue Control.

The 8-track cartridge recorder/player has Pause Control for easy editing and Dual Level Controls with meters for accurate stereo recording.

The remarkable performance of the Wedge is further enhanced by the unique Zenith Allegro Tuned-Port speakers. They free the deep bass sounds many other speaker systems trap inside. And they work so efficiently that comparable size air-suspension speakers need fully twice the amplifier power to achieve Zenith's overall sound performance.

The Wedge brings you all this in a handsome, compact modular system with all functions matched and balanced. Now you can forget about all the confusion and uncertainty of trying to match up different brands of complicated components.

The unique Wedge — just one of a complete line of Zenith Allegro sound systems, precision-engineered to please your ears and your budget.

Hassling MP could make bad situation worse

An increasing number of awkward and distasteful incidents involving the Military Police and motor vehicle operators on Ft. Benning is becoming a problem. Such encounters normally follow this particular pattern:

MP Patrolman — "May I see your operators license and Military I.D. Card please."

Traffic Violator — "Why did you stop me?"

MP — "Sir, you were observed by radar to be traveling 33 miles-per-hour in a 25 mph zone."

Violator — "Now wait one minute private; I never speed. I was driving at exactly 25 mph. Obviously your radar isn't working! Now get out of my way, I am late for an appointment."

MP — "Sir, I am sorry but you will have to remain here until I complete this violation notice, and please remain in your car."

Violator — "Perhaps you don't understand young man, I out rank you and you have no business telling me what to do. Now give me my I.D. Card and drivers license before I get you into so much trouble you'll need a bulldozer to get you out."

This conversation could continue, but at this point, the violator is on the verge of being apprehended for interfering with a law enforcement officer.

The Military Police are responsible for maintaining law and order on post. On Ft. Benning, the MPs have exclusive law enforcement jurisdiction over all persons, military, civilian, and military dependents. The MPs also share concurrent jurisdiction with the local law enforcement authorities on Highway 27 which runs directly through the Ft. Benning Reservation.

Any person who is subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) is required by regulation to obey the lawful order of an MP even if the policeman is subordinate in rank. This requirement is defined in article 92 of the UCMJ. In addition, paragraph 19 of the Manual for Court Martial specifies that MPs are authorized to apprehend military personnel if there is a reasonable belief that an offense has been committed.

The Military Police also maintain jurisdiction over civilians in so far as they are tasked to up-hold the law and maintain order on post. Thus, anyone who refuses to follow the proper instructions of an MP is subject to judicial action, either under the UCMJ for military or through the Magistrates Court for civilians.

It is both wrong and unproductive to argue with or pull rank on an MP. At the least, it is a waste of time and could possibly result in charges of interference of a law enforcement officer in the performance of duty.

If you are stopped by an MP and you feel that you were detained unjustly, that the charges are not valid, or if you wish to pursue the matter for any reason, you should contact the Provost Marshall's Operations Officer. He will listen to the complaint and do his best to see that justice is rendered.

Brazilian team eats way to International victory

By Bob Nordan

Danilo Benvenuti of Brazil chomped his way to victory in the 1976 International Catfish Eating Contest last week by downing 46 of the crispy critters and easily outdistancing runner-up (or maybe eater-up) Hugo Kerquelen of Colombia. Hush puppies and french fries lay ignored since only the bare backbones shed of its tasty morsels counted.

Four-man teams from Canada, Venezuela, Puerto Rico, U. S., Colombia as well as Brazil competed in the annual eat-a-thon, but the Brazilian team walked away from the table with top team honors as well, having consumed 124 of the Georgia delicacies in the 45-minute contest. The U. S. team made a valiant, but futile effort managing only 101.

The rules were simple. There were three 15-minute periods with a 5-minute rest period between each. At least 90 per cent of the meat on the fish must be consumed and only bare backbones count. No contestant may leave the room during the contest without an escort representing an opposing team. An "upchuck" is grounds for dis-

Some people eat catfish for pleasure, others for record. Bruce Buck (l) of the US team seems to be preoccupied with getting every bite while Danilo Benevenuti of Brazil demonstrates the winning style which lead him to the victory in the 1976 International Catfish Eating Contest held at Pritchett's Restaurant last week.

Individual and team awards were presented as well as a "Most Nervous Stomach Award." The latter went to Bill Marsh of Canada who could only manage a measly 10 catfish and a couple of hush puppies, which didn't count.

Close to 100 spectators and "casual" eaters turned out to Pritchett's Restaurant on Hamilton Road to witness the spectacle which is sponsored by the U. S. Army Marksmanship Unit at Ft. Benning. The contest has become a tradition during the annual weeklong International Shooting Coaches Clinic when coaches from many Western Hemispheric countries descend on USAMU to learn the latest techniques of coaching in international competitive shooting.

Despite all the pointers the coaches learned from the champions of USAMU, you can bet the first topic of conversation when they returned home was the Catfish Eating Contest.

FOR 12 HOURS, MASTER SERGEANT VETO R. BERTOLDO, DROVE BACK ENEMY ATTACKS WHILE IN FULL VIEW OUT IN THE STREET OF HATTEN, FRANCE, HE MOVED BACK INSIDE THE COMMAND POST, WHICH HE WAS DEFENDING. HE CONTINUED THE DEFENSE AGAINST 88-MM FIRE FROM TANKS ONLY 75 YARDS AWAY. ONCE HE WAITED CALMLY AS A TANK AND PERSONNEL CARRIERS MOVED IN. WHEN BELOW HIM, HE LEANED OUT OF THE WINDOW AND KILLED THE ENTIRE GROUP OF 20 GERMANS, AS THE COMMAND POST WAS EVACUATED, HE MOVED HIS GUN TO ANOTHER BUILDING WHERE ANOTHER COMMAND POST WAS SET UP.

THERE HE DEFENDED THIS POSITION THROUGHOUT THE DAY, HURLING WHITE PHOSPHOROUS GRENADES UNTIL THE ENEMY RETREATED. HE WAS REPEATEDLY BLASTED ACROSS THE ROOM BY THE FORCE OF HEAVY 88-MM FIRE FROM NEARBY TANKS BUT ALWAYS RETURNED TO HIS POSITION TO CARRY OUT HIS DEFENSE.

THAT NIGHT AS THE MEN WITH-DREW, HE SINGLE-HANDEDLY COVERED THEM WITH A RIFLE. MASTER SERGEANT BERTOLDO HAD COURAGEOUSLY FOUGHT WITHOUT REST OR RELIEF FOR MORE THAN 48 HOURS!

'Open Category' added to annual art contest

A new category has been added to this year's annual Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition.

In addition to charcoal, pastels, pencil, pen and ink, oils, acrylic, tempera, sculpture, water color and mixed media, entries such as photographs, leatherwork, sand art, weaving, etc. may be entered in the new "Open Category."

Contestants may submit up to three entries in each of the eleven categories.

Two professional art teachers from Columbus College and one from the local school system have been invited to judge the entries. Ribbons will be awarded to first, second and third place in each category, plus a "Best In Show" ribbon at 4 pm on November 4th.

All entries must be the work of the person entering it. All military personnel, active and retired, DAC, NAF personnel and their dependents 16 years of age and older are eligible to enter.

Entries should be submitted to Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229 on the corner of Ingersoll and Dixie Road beginning at 1 pm, November 22d-24th.

Contest rules and entry forms may be picked up at Main Post Recreation Center, Kelley Hill Recreation Center and Main Post Library. For additional information, call 545-4404/1375, Monday-Saturday 1-10 pm, Sunday 10 am-7 pm.

SUICIDE

Suicide ranks among the first ten causes of death in the industrialized world. It is the tenth leading cause of death among Americans and the sixth among young Americans. Each year, 20,000 to 40,000 Americans commit suicide and another 20,000 to 40,000 kill themselves by indirect means, such as by automobile accidents, alcoholism and drug overdoses.

Researchers have found that individuals who experience periods of acute depression can't always find realistic solutions to problems. For them, suicide becomes the only answer to their unanswered questions. They develop a "mental myopia."

Many suicides can be prevented if the signs are recognized early and proper action is taken. A person with suicidal tendencies often exposes, his or her plight, both behaviorally and verbally, while there is time to help the individual.

The suicidal person will usually reveal all or most of the following characteristics:

- (1) Ambivalence: the desire, either conscious or unconscious, to live and to die, at the same time.
- (2) Feelings of hopelessness and helplessness, futility, inadequacy to handle problems.
- (3) Feelings of physical or psychological exhaustion or both.
- (4) Morbid feelings of unrelieved anxiety or tension, depression, anger and/or guilt.
- (5) Feelings of chaos and disorganization, with the inability to restore order.
- (6) Mood changes. For example, from agitation to apathy or withdrawal.
- (7) Cognitive construction, inability to see alternatives, limitation of potentialities.
- (8) Loss of interest in usual activities, such as sex, hobbies and work.
- (9) Physical distress, such as insomnia, anorexia, psychosthenia and psychosomatic symptoms.

What can we as individuals do to help prevent suicide?

Emile Durkheim, a French sociologist, said that "the greatest barrier against committing suicide in times of personal stress is a sense of involvement and identity with other people."

During informal coaching, a method of counseling, the leader guides the conversation to gain information about an individual while showing honest concern for that individual.

If leaders at all levels informally coach their personnel more often, most problems can be identified and resolved in an early stage. Praise can also be given in the same manner.

The tendency to commit suicide might be someone else's problem, but the prevention of suicide is everyone's responsibility.

Orienteering

Orienteering is designed to encourage non-competitive runners to try a new sport. Not only does Orienteering keep the body and mind physically fit, but it also teaches the individual of all ages, young or old, to use a compass and read a topographical map.

If you are tired of the same old running or jogging routine of going around the same old track or road, then this new sport is the one to try. The first organizational meeting will be held on November 19th, at the Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229, at 7 p.m. For additional information, call 545-4404 or 545-2539.

2 BEDROOM APARTMENT

$12

*SINGLE OCCUPANCY

Camellia is an apartment motel. We don't rent rooms, we rent furnished apartments with all the features of a regular motel plus added conveniences that cannot be provided with just a single room — and all at the same, or most times lower rates than the single-room motel. For example, our "standard" unit is comprised of two bedrooms, combination living room-dining room, bathroom and fully furnished kitchen including refrigerator, stove, cooking utensils, and table service for six people. These are some of the "extras" but at no extra cost. Our 150 units are in separate buildings with usually four apartments in each building, which adds to a person's or family's privacy.

- SEPARATE HEAT & AIR-CONDITIONING FOR EACH APT.
- FULL SIZE SWIMMING POOL

GI home loan interest rates lowered again

Interest rates on GI home loans have been lowered for the third time this year. However, VA officials note that the rate change does not affect existing loans. Once a loan is made, the interest rate remains the same for the life of the loan.

The new maximum rate of eight per cent has been effective since October 18th. This is a reduction from the past eight and one-half per cent set on March 30th. The rate had been decreased from nine per cent to eight and three quarters on January 5th.

For a veteran buying a home with a 30-year, $30,000 GI loan, the one-half of one per cent decrease lowers the monthly payment by about $10.50. It could result in a savings of almost $3,800 over the life of a 30-year loan, according to VA officials.

The eight per cent rate was agreed upon by VA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. An increased supply of mortgage money is the main reason for the lower interest rate, VA officials say.

VA guarantees loans made by private lenders to eligible vets, unmarried, surviving spouses and active-duty military people. During FY '76 the VA guaranteed almost $10 billion in home loans, a record dollar volume.

More than 9.5 million vets have obtained over $129 billion in loans to purchase homes under the VA loan guaranty program since its inception in 1944. (ARNEWS)

"You can't be Combat Arms all by yourself."

That's how SP4 Michael Montoya feels about his job as an infantryman.

"I'm in the Army for myself, all right. But not just for myself, and not just by myself, either. I like the feeling you get when you can depend on the next guy to do his job as well as you do yours. I like to help people, too. Because working with good people makes me better.

"I hate for somebody to say, 'You can't do it, Montoya.' Because I like to do the kind of jobs in the Army that most people think they can't do. I guess that's why I liked Pathfinder training. I like jumping, both static line and free fall. I like to be the first to get there, too.

"It's just not your everyday kind of job. It's tough. Not everybody can do it. But somebody has to do it, and I'm glad I'm one of the people who does it. That's why I reenlisted for Combat Arms."

10-8 on the warpost

By "HOSS" KACI 4615

All CBers are invited to participate in a "bring your own" Thanksgiving dinner at the Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229 on November 25th.

Please call Checkers on channel one and let her know how many members of your family will be attending and what kind of dishes you will be bringing.

After dinner there will be pool, pinochle and other games available in the Recreation Center for your enjoyment. Also, the Recreation Center will put out a buffet supper so you can come at noon and stay all day.

The Benning CB Social Club is conducting a food drive to provide Thanksgiving baskets to needy families in the local area. Donations will be accepted this Saturday from 10 am to 6 pm at the following locations: Winn-Dixie Store, Peachtree Mall; Piggly Wiggly, Midtown Shopping Center, and Piggly Wiggly, Traffic Circle Shopping Center.

WAC Post Basketball Team

There will be a meeting at Briant Wells Field House, Bldg 933 on November 19th, at 7:30 pm for any WACs interested in playing basketball on the Post Team.

For additional information, contact the Sports Office at 545-2063 or 545-5063

ACS Welcome Center

The ACS Welcome Center will be closed November 25th (Thanksgiving Day). Emergency leaves not covered by the Red Cross will be handled by the ACS on-call officer after duty hours. ACS on-call officer can be reached by contacting SDO, Bldg. 4 (Infantry Hall) at 545-2218.

The 5th Dimension

The 5th Dimension is not like most groups, they thrive on change and challenge. Just after celebrating their 19th Anniversary, they brought in two new members who are adding exciting new direction and dynamics to an already powerhouse group. Meet Florence LaRue Gordon, Lamonte McLemore, Ron Townson, Danny Beard, and Marjorie Barnes at Ft. Benning's Marshall Auditorium on November 22nd.

The group doesn't merely come out and sing a medley of their hits, but instead they have developed a high-polished, fast-paced act which spotlights the individual singing and dancing talents of each member of the group, as well as featuring the tightly-knit group arrangements.

The track record of the group is already musical history with 14 gold records to date (8 gold albums and 6 gold singles; including such releases as "Up, Up, and Away," "Aquarius" "Let the Sunshine In," "One Less Bell to Answer," "Wedding Bell Blues," "Stoned Soul Picnic," and "(Last Night) I Didn't Get to Sleep at All."

But the 5th Dimension is not a group to rest on its laurels. With the newly revised group, they are on a constant touring schedule of clubs and concerts all over the United States, with tours of Europe and the Far East in the offing.

Recreation Services Division presents The 5th Dimension at Marshall Auditorium, November 22d. Tickets will be on sale at the Information, Tours & Travel Office for $5.00 until November 15th, after that date, tickets will be on sale for $6.00. There will be two performances, one at 7:30 pm and another at 9:45. The public is invited.

Doughboys crush Warriors, 53-23

By Jack Barham
Assistant Head Coach

The Ft. Benning Doughboys crushed their first college opponent Saturday night, blasting the Warriors of Baptist Christian College, 53-23. We put the game away in the first half and let everybody but the cheerleaders play in the final two quarters.

The Warriors won the toss and elected to receive the ball, which led to a now familiar scenario. Dave Bankston's "Wild Bunch" stopped the kickoff return inside the eight yard line and in three plays the regular defense drove the Warriors back inside their own five. The wild bunch then forced a hasty punt, and the offense took the ball at the Baptist Christian 25-yard line.

The Doughboy offense required six plays to cross the goal line. Primary credit for the drive can be given to the deadly downfield blocking of guards George Brown and Carlos Hayes, who paved the way for a long-gaining sweep by Richard Smith, then drove back the center of the Warrior line for Joe Duenas' sneak for the score.

The college team was far from cowed. They took the ensuing kickoff from their own eight yard line and in fourteen plays, aided by a 15-yard penalty against the Doughboys, were on the Benning three-yard line. An unlucky Warrior fullback tried to plunge in for the score, but was scissored between tackle Mike Dawkins and linebacker Gary Pestrak. The resulting fumble was knocked through the back line of the end zone and, after some confusion on the part of the officials, was scored as a touchdown for the Warriors. The Baptist Christian kick was good, and for the first time this season, the Doughboys trailed in a football game.

The Warrior supremacy was short-lived. For the remainder of the first half, the Doughboy offense scored on every possession. Duenas ran in from a shotgun sweep, then on the next possession, hit end Fred Suggs with a short pass over the middle. Suggs put on an impromptu demonstration of broken field running and pure speed and left the Warrior secondary flailing at air as he sauntered across the goal line after a 45-yard carry.

Guy Richardson came in to spell Duenas, and promptly connected with end Joe Hutchings on a 25-yard scoring pass. Duenas

The Doughboys powerful defense show their strength as demonstrated by Peter Martin (No. 81) by bringing down corner back Steve Highlander (No. 12) of Baptist Christian College. Backing Martin up is Mike Dawkins (No. 64), defensive tackle for the Doughboys.

Run for your life! Those are the thoughts running through Gary Anderson's head as he races down the field. The Ft. Benning Doughboys ran all over the BCC Warriors last Saturday night with the final score 53 to 23.

Last Doughboy game Sunday afternoon 2 pm at Doughboy Stadium and Suggs returned to repeat their act. Dave Ward kicked the points after each score, and added a 37-yard field goal just before the half ended.

Meanwhile the Doughboy defense destroyed the Warrior game plan, covering a fumble in the Baptist Christian end zone for a two-point safety (their second safety of the season), and limiting the Warrior offense to four first downs. The score at halftime was 39-7, and the Doughboy coaches started wondering how to keep the score down.

The Warriors never quit, and in the second half pushed two scores across against the second unit defense. Meanwhile, the Infantry second offense scored twice more and added a two-point conversion to bring the final score to 53-23.

We expected more team speed from the Warriors than was demonstrated by our first two opponents, and we found it. The speedy college pass receivers kept our secondary busy most of the night, but with the experience of two games behind us, the Doughboy defensive backs proved tougher than the challengers.

Our final game is Sunday, November 21st, at 2 pm against the Redstone Arsenal Rockets. Redstone will be our first military opponent. Readers may be growing a little tired of this line, but . . . this time, we really do expect a challenge.

AUSA NEWS

COL Turner to speak at Fall General Membership Meeting

The fall general membership meeting of the local Association of the United States (AUSA) chapter, December 1st, will feature COL Frederick Turner as the guest speaker.

COL Turner is the Director of Foreign Military Capabilities Studies at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, PA. He is also an expert on Soviet military forces, having spent a total of five and one-half years in Russia with the Military Liaison Mission to the Commander-in-Chief Group of Soviet Forces in Germany.

His speech will present comparisons between the present Russian soldier and his World War II counterpart. He will also describe the capabilities of the Soviet forces and compare their combat readiness with the United States military.

For instance, Turner says, "The equipment the Soviets use now is, in most cases, as good as or better than what we field now. Chemical and electronic warfare are two areas where they are ahead of the U. S.," he said.

"However, while their equipment and combat readiness figuratively makes them seven feet tall," Turner said, they do have some shortcomings. For example, their society doesn't place a premium on using initiative or thinking for yourself. If things fall apart, the average Russian soldier is at a disadvantage, he said, because the tendency is to do nothing rather than make a mistake."

The meeting will begin at 7 pm in the Top Five Club with a social period, followed by dinner at 7:30 pm. Tickets are $8 per person, and are available in all units, or call 545-1516. Military blues and dark suits are the requested attire for men and appropriate corresponding dress for women. The Infantry Chorus will provide musical entertainment during the meeting.

Holiday early outs announced

Christmas early release dates have been announced by DA officials. All eligible personnel whose ETS or release date is between December 18th and January 5th (inclusive) will be separated or released during the period December 1st - 17th.

Officers eligible for release under this policy may be held on active duty by their command until the normal adjusted release date when operational needs dictate.

The following personnel, according to DA officials, are not eligible for early release.

- Reserve component personnel (officers and enlisted) undergoing active duty training (ADT) under special training programs.

- Officers being involuntarily relieved from active duty on specific dates as directed by DA — other than early release.

- Personnel who currently have favorable personnel actions suspended. Check out AR 600-31 for more information.

The majority of overseas returns will be processed at Ft. Dix, N J or Ft. Jackson, S. C. Others will process through Oakland Army Base, CA.

If you haven't done so already, check with your local MILPO. Tell them to check out DA msg DAPE-MPE-S 091704Z November 1976. ARNEWS).

The Marathon-a challenge from within

By Thomas Lopez, Jr.

If you ever run in a marathon it's an experience you'll never forget. If you run and finish, you will have overcome mental and physical fatigue that is incomprehensible.

Nine Ft. Benning runners tasted the rigors of a marathon last weekend when they participated in the Ft. Bragg All-American Marathon. Competing against 200 participants from across the country, the Benning team completely dominated the military category of the race and fared very well in the overall category.

CPT James Kee who was the top military runner and one of three men to break the course record was asked his observations about running in general and the marathon.

Jim Kee (foreground) overtakes an opponent in the the first leg of the 26-mile marathon course as Geoff Wilhelmy brings up the rear. Kee was the top military runner in the competition.

Avid Fan: You've been running since high school, you captained the track team at West Point and run several long races locally. How many marathons have you run in your career?

Kee: I've run in two marathons, the Boston Marathon and the All-American at Ft. Bragg last Saturday.

FAN: Can you describe what it feels like to run in a race that covers over 26-miles?

Kee: Mentally a person cannot run more than two marathons a year and expect to finish. The greatest marathon runner in the world, Olympic Champion Frank Shorter, has only run eight marathons in his entire career. The recuperation time is roughly two to three weeks.

Fan: How would you compare the world famous Boston Marathon with the course you ran at Ft. Bragg?

Kee: Ft. Bragg was definitely a much tougher course than Boston. Boston is basically flat except for a few hilly areas, Ft. Bragg is basically hilly except for a few flat areas. The chilly 35 degree weather and gusty winds added to the toughness of the course.

Fan: It's incredible to most people to find out that the superstars of marathon running average just over five minutes a mile for the 26-mile course. How does the Ft. Benning Team compare to those times?

Kee: Well our strategy was to average right at six minutes a mile, and try to get as many of our team to finish the run as possible. As a team our performance speaks for itself.

Fan: Well you personally averaged 5:57 a mile for the course, was there a point during the race that was particularly rough?

Kee: Yes, right at the 20-mile mark we were faced with the biggest hill on the course. After running 20 miles, the body's fuel starts to give out and the muscles don't respond to the brain very well. You have a punch drunk feeling and time becomes inconsequential. Six minutes a mile or ten minutes a mile, it really doesn't matter how fast you're going at that point.

Fan: Why do you run? I mean even the training for such a race would scare off most people.

Kee: Well, I found I had an aptitude for running as compared to other sports. As far as the marathon, I think it's the ultimate challenge. After watching the marathon in the Olympics and hearing Erich Segal talk about the "physiological barrier" at twenty miles, I wanted to experience it again. As Frank Shorter stated, the marathon is different from other races because the competition within yourself is probably more important than competition with other runners.

Captain Kee is on temporary duty with the 36th Eng Gp (CBT) after completing Infantry Officer Advanced Course here at Ft. Benning. He is due for re-assignment to Brazil as an exchange officer. Enroute he will study Portugese at the Defense Language Institute, Monterey, CA.

Redskins hold Cowboys

By Christine Bass

A ferocious defense led the Biddy League Redskins to a 6-0 win over the Cowboys, Saturday morning at Gordon Field. This gives the Redskins a season of 6 wins and 2 loses and firmly establishes them as the leaders in the race for the championship.

Pursuit and gang tackling was the name of the game, as the Redskins held the Cowboys scoreless. Kicking off to the Cowboys, the Redskins quickly established the pattern for the game.

On the first play from scrimmage, Willie Williams tackled the ball carrier for a five yard loss and again on the 2d down, Williams threw the running back for an eight yard loss. The third down was an incomplete pass, forcing a Cowboy punt. Quickly gaining a first down, it appeared the Redskins were going to be able to establish their running game. However, strong Cowboy defense forced the Redskins to turn the ball over after a 4th down short yardage play.

Early in the 2d quarter, Baxter Barber broke around the Cowboys defense on a 48 yard run for the only touchdown of the game. The two point conversion try was unsuccessful. The remaining half was a back-and-forth battle, with Redskin defenders; Baxter Barber, Tim Bryson, Damon Dorr, Mark Ericksen, Eric Graves, Tracy Rucker, Paul Parker, Billy Wagstaff, Willie Williams and Eric Voegell, time and again, stopping the Cowboys' plays for no gain.

The Redskin offense ran out the clock for the big Redskin team victory.

At All-American Marathon

Benning runners take honors

By Thomas Lopez, Jr.

It was billed as the Ft. Bragg All-American Marathon, but it quickly turned into the Ft. Benning Parade of Champions. Ft. Benning dominated the Ft. Bragg classic which consisted of 200 class runners from around the country.

Nine Ft. Benning runners participated in the marathon and walked away with eight individual awards and first and second place in the military team category.

Overall, Bill Hall of Durham, NC, won the race in 2:32:25, followed by Larry Friedman of Rutgers University in 2:32:35. CPT Jim Kee of Ft. Benning finished thlrld in 2:35:23 as the first three runners broke the course record on the hilly 26-mild, 385 yard course.

Kee was the top military performer and was followed by teammate Dennis Trujillo who is a former All-American cross country star at West Point. Ft. Benning runners took four out of the top six places in the military category.

Thanksgiving religious holiday services slated

An Ecumenical Bicentennial Thanksgiving service sponsored by the 1st AIT Bde will be held November 25th from 10 am to noon at the Harmony Church area of Dickman Field.

It will feature a gospel music concert by the Speer Family, who are known throughout the country as "The First Family of Gospel Music." Following the concert, GEN Ralph Haines, Jr. (Ret.) will be the principle speaker during the Ecumenical Worship service. Haines is known for his zealous spiritual life. In his retirement address to Congress, he stated that he is a "private in the Lords' Army."

GEN Ralph Haines (Ret)

The public is invited to attend. In case of inclement weather, the program will be held in the Harmony Church Field House, building 4993.

GEN Haines will also be the guest speaker for Thanksgiving services at the Sightseeing Road Chapel, Bldg 2820 at 9 am and on Friday he will assist with a Christian and Military Leadership Workshop at 10 am. Haines will also conduct Charismatic Renewal Service at 7 pm on both Thursday and Friday evenings in Bldg 2820.

The Speer Family will perform at Dickman Field

Conserving energy Save$

By William Darrell

How would you like to cut your utility bills in half? You may think that you don't pay utilities since you live in government housing.

WRONG! You still pay utilities. Not directly to the gas or electric company as a renter or home owner does, but a portion of your taxes goes to pay the utility bill for Ft. Benning. These bills, by the way, were $3,259,206.14 for electricity and $1,800,381.17 for natural gas in FY '76.

The energy shortage is not over. It's still with us and will get worse until technology makes available solar power, nuclear power, or harnesses wind or ocean currents as feasible sources of energy which we still require.

There are many things each of us can do to reduce the amount of energy we use. Here are just a few:

- Turn off lights when not needed (don't forget basement lights).
- Turn down the family quarters thermostat to 68 degrees (USAIC Reg 420-441).
- When you do the laundry, wash and dry full loads.
- Clean the lint filters in your washer and dryer after each use.
- Change, or clean, the furnace air filter.
- Use only the wattage light bulb necessary.
- Close your drapes and curtains at night and open them on sunny days.

- Close fireplace flues when not in use.
- Weather strip around doors and windows.
- Do not block heating vents with furniture.
- Compost leaves; commercial fertilizer, believe it or not, has a petroleum base.
- Keep closet doors closed and close vents in unused rooms.

Some of us are already doing our part to reduce energy consumption, but if we all help it will make a tremendous difference. Some banks even offer lower loan rates on energy saving homes and cars.

Maybe each of us can have one day a month when no electrical appliances are used. No TV, no electric can openers, no hair dryers, no irons, no clothes dryers or dishwashers, no light (use candles). It would save a gargantuan amount of energy and might even be fun. One civilian employee tried it last winter for two weeks and cut his utility bill to $12.00 and had a good time doing it.

In addition to electricity and natural gas, we also need to reduce gasoline consumption. So walk or bike when you can. If you must drive, arrange your schedule to take care of as many things as possible at one time, form car pools, keep your engine tuned, inflate your tires properly, and drive defensively.

The energy you save will help all of us and make you stronger in the process.

"IT'S A GOOD THING YOU'RE STANDING TALL THIS MORNING, PVT. GUARD."

Retired military account for about five per cent of the total Federal work force. Although it seems like more, there are 141,817 retired military out of almost three million Federal workers. The Air Force retirees lead the pack with about 50,000. The Army is second with almost 45,000 and the Navy comes in third with about 36,000. Eighty per cent of the retired military who are Federal employees were enlisted personnel. (ARNEWS).

'Pay-as-you-go' service offered for state taxes

Payment of state income taxes is required, unless the state law exempts military personnel. The recently enacted tax reform law now extends a "pay-as-you-go" service to soldiers if their state of legal residence has a state income tax, DA officials say.

This pay-as-you-go service is nothing new. Since 1952, civilian employees of the Federal Government have been able to meet their state income tax obligation on an automatic basis. The highlight of this military tax payment service is automatic withholding from soldier pay checks. This should eliminate many of the problems that troops now face at tax time. In addition, DA officials think that this service will better enable soldiers to manage and budget their personal finances.

However, soldiers can only enjoy the automatic payment plan if the state having an income tax enters into agreement with the Treasury Department. States have the right to request withholding from members who are legal residents of their state. DoD and the Treasury Department are developing the withholding procedures to be used.

At present, 42 states and the District of Columbia tax soldiers' individual income. Active military personnel are not excused or exempt from state income tax liability unless the state law so provides.

DA officials note that the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act prevents soldiers from being subject to double taxation. Under this law, a person's state of legal residence — not necessarily the state in which the soldier is assigned — is the one which has the authority to tax.

The following states have no tax on individual income: Connecticut, Florida, Nevada, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, and Wyoming. However, Connecticut does tax capital gains while Tennessee taxes interest on dividends. New Hampshire taxes on interest and dividends and a commuter tax also is collected.

Alaska, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, and Vermont exempt all service pay from taxes. A partial tax exemption for some or all service pay is granted to soldiers with legal residence of Arizona, Arkansas, Indiana, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, and Wisconsin. Soldiers stationed outside of California receive a full exemption and a partial exemption when on duty in that state. In the case of Idaho and Pennsylvania, soldiers must not pay state taxes when on duty elsewhere. However, all are expected to pay in full when assigned within the state.

The other 25 states plus the District of Columbia do not exempt military pay. There are certain circumstances, however, that exempt soldiers from state income tax in New Jersey, New York and West Virginia.

For more information, talk with the local JAG officer at 545-3281.

New clinic for AITers

Martin Army Hospital recently opened a Podiatry (foot problem) Clinic Annex at TMC No. 8 last week to serve trainees from the AIT Brigade. The Annex will be opened from noon-3 pm, Monday through Friday. According to Maj. (Dr.) Dan Hunt, Chief of Podiatry at the hospital, lost training time due to podiatry problems will probably be cut by 75 per cent. The clinic will help avoid lengthy hospital visits and personnel being recycled because of an excessive amount of lost training time.

Use Christmas Seals ...

It's a matter of life and breath

Did you know that ...

Women ROTC rolls have increased for the fifth straight year, DA officials say. Currently, 11,857 women and about 42,751 men are participating in ROTC. The total female enrollment is about 2,500 greater than the last academic year when approximately 9,300 women were in the program. ROTC first was opened to women in the 1972-1973 academic year and had 212 female participants. All but four of the 285 colleges and universities with ROTC programs permit women to participate. (ARNEWS).

VA questions and answers

Q. — I was originally covered by a National Service Life Insurance Term Policy and converted it to a 20-year Payment Life Policy five years ago. Do I have the option to change back to term insurance?

A. — No. Once you elect to convert to a permanent plan, you cannot change back to term insurance.

Q. — My service-connected disability was increased from 10 per cent to 30 per cent. How much will the VA allow for my dependents?

A. — Only those veterans whose service-connected disabilities are evaluated at 50 per cent or more are entitled to allowances for dependents.

Q. — I am interested in obtaining a speaker on veteran's benefits for a noon luncheon. How can I arrange this?

A. — Contact the director of the nearest VA regional office.

Christmas seal History offered

"The story of how the Christmas Seals became an American holiday tradition is to a great degree, a story of the power of the press. Because it was a crusading newspaper that helped convert a tiny piece of gummed paper into a potent weapon in the battle to defend the lungs," claims Ms. Barbara Murrin, 1976 Christmas Seal Chairman for Ft. Benning.

Seventy years ago, the most deadly disease was tuberculosis. A Danish mail clerk, Einar Holboell, came upon the idea of using stamps to fight TB while he was handling the mail. In two campaigns Denmark raised enough money to build two children's TB hospitals.

At about the same time Emily Bissell, a public health worker in Delaware, was asked to help save a TB sanitarium. She read of the Danish campaign and on Dec. 9, 1907 and gave it a try. Christmas Seals went on sale in the lobby of the Wilmington post office.

Sales were dishearteningly slow so Miss Bissell sought help from the "North American", a newspaper in Philadelphia. A young columnist, Leigh Mitchell Hodges, learned of her idea, became inspired and interceded with the editor who had previously showed little sympathy to the cause.

Finally convinced, the editor promised all the help the paper could give. In that first year, Miss Bissell collected $3,000 instead of the $300 needed to save the sanitarium.

Americans every where became more confident in the fight against tuberculosis and a new tradition was born.

Today TB, though not completely stopped, is under control. What has been done to the other lung diseases like emphysema and bronchitis. Generous responses to one's Christmas Seal letter can make the difference.

It's a matter of life and breath.

Top slots now open for 'tops'

High level staff positions up to and including DA level may be filled with E-9s. If approved by DA, the jobs will be positions equivalent to those tasks performed by action officers but within the functional area of the E-9s career management field (CMF).

The positions will be titled Senior Staff Noncommissioned Officer and DA officials believe that the high level staff positions will provide broader and more challenging job opportunities to senior enlisted soldiers. It will also allow staff offices to benefit from the experience of the seasoned NCOs in their sections.

DA officials emphasize that this new position should not be confused with administration noncommissioned officers. Also it is not intended to replace currently authorized officer and warrant officer positions. The E-9s will be used in those staff sections where officers were required but where the authorization had been downgraded to enlisted.

An initial review by major commands identified 140 positions which will be authorized. Additional positions may be approved later if necessary. (ARNEWS)

197th returns from the 'front'

By Ron Fowler

"Glad to be back" were the words best expressing the sentiments of the "Forever Forward" soldiers of the 197th Inf Bde as they returned from the 'front lines' of Ft. Stewart, Tuesday.

After an intensive field training exercise against aggressor forces of the 1st Bde, 24th Inf in the mud and rain the brigade can enjoy its well-earned holiday. But, come Monday, it'll be business as usual.

The 197th, minus elements of the 1/58th Inf and 2/69th Ar, deployed to the swamps of Ft. Stewart on November 11th. Once there, they immediately established a tactical posture and were deployed in a corps reserve position.

It wasn't long before they were called into action.

And so, the 197th went to 'war.'

Through the rain and the mud, the 'Cottonbalers' of the 3/7th Inf departed Monday morning on a 40 kilometer tactical road march into an assembly area near the southern end of the Ft. Stewart reservation. There they established defensive positions in preparation of an expected attack by the aggressor forces — elements of the 1st Bde of the 24th Inf Div.

"We emphasized the positioning and

Important changes made on Leave, Earning Statements

Leave and Earnings Statements (LES) for November will have a number of important changes. At first glance the form appears the same, but there are some format changes plus additional information blocks.

Army Finance and Accounting Center (USAFAC) officials at Ft. Ben Harrison, IN, explained that the revision was necessary because of new requirements for additional information to be posted on the LES. The new information includes reporting of state taxes, legal residence and withholding information.

The LES changes include:

- The "Unit ID Code" has been moved to block two to allow for easier mailing.

- The "Social Security Number" (SSN) has been moved to block five, line two, so that the LES can be folded to cover this number during delivery, if desired. The "v" that will appear in the shaded area to the right of the SSN means that the number has been verified with the Social Security Administration and MILPERCEN.

- The "Tax Information" line has been changed to show the "State Legal Residence" in block 25. A two-digit, alphabetic code indicates the selection you made when you filled out your Form W-4 (Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate).

- The "State Income Year to Date" amount will be shown in block 26 of the "MISC" line. The addition of blocks 25 and 26 will allow you to be aware of any State income tax liability.

- The number of days leave paid since February 10 will be shown in block 33. USAFAC has been keeping track of these payments because payment is presently limited to 60 days during a member's career.

The new information added to help your finance office is:

- Block 43 will show either the Enlisted Basic Active Service Date (BASD) or the Officer Aviation Service Entry Date (ASED), and

- Total Federal Officer Service (TOFS) will be shown in block 44.

Soldiers should check with their local Finance and Accounting office to correct any errors which may appear on the form. (ARNEWS)

Endurance check!

Running five miles with or without a protective mask under 50 minutes is no problem for Sgt. Chris Martin from Co C, 2d Bn, 1st AIT Bde. While running his five miles recently, Martin decided to test his endurance under adverse conditions by wearing the protective mask. Martin, who usually runs the five miles in 30 minutes, had a recorded time of 42 minutes with the mask.

Clerk makes $550 suggestion

Saving the government an estimated $9,950 annually has earned Sp4 Tony B. Davis, Co A, Hq Cmd, a cash award of $550.

Davis is a personnel clerk with the promotion section of COMPACT in AG Division.

He suggested an improved administrative procedure for standardizing monthly promotion quota requests of E-2 and E-3s submitted by 130 reporting units to the AG Division.

His idea eliminated the need for individual unit reports by substituting the use of information obtained as a printout from the SIDPERS Base, thus saving many manhours that were required to individually screen each roster.

Legal eagle, top trainer 'run' away with awards

Ft. Benning's Staff Judge Advocate, Col. Robert S. Poydasheff, received the Hq Cmd Professional Fitness Award for running five miles in 38 minutes and 10 seconds.

This patch may be earned by qualifying in one of three categories. Either by running five miles in less than 40 minutes if age is over 40, or less than 35 minutes if younger than 40. Another way to earn the fitness patch is to score 485 or more on the PCPT test.

At the same ceremony Tuesday morning, Col. Jack Farris, commander of the 1st AIT Bde, was recognized for reaching the 500-mile mark in the post's Run for Your Life" program.

Maj. Gen. Willard Latham admires the 'trophy' (a battered Infantry blue helmet) presented by Capt. Steve Sullivan, player-coach of the 197th Inf Bde flag football team, in recognition for outstanding performance in the first annual 'Super Trooper' bowl conducted last week after the 197th's FTX at Ft. Stewart, GA. The 197th defeated the 24th Inf Div, 20-0.

emplacement of our anti-tank weapons and mortars during the first phase of the FTX," remarked Capt. Robert Palmer, commander of the Anti-Tank Co, 3/7th Inf. "Those weapons really paid off for us in the long run, especially the anti-tank weapons."

On the second day of the FTX elements of Trp A, 15th Cav passed through the defensive lines of the 3/7th task force to scout the forward area. Once out front, they began to establish contact with the aggressor forces and sporadic skirmishes were reported. Friendly and aggressor air strikes were also reported to higher headquarters from many of the units in the field.

Corps headquarters reported a heavy buildup of "enemy" forces to the brigade on Wednesday and the 197th Spt Bn was forced to relocate due to enemy pressure. Aggressor reconnaissance teams also began to establish contact with the brigade's forward lines and tried many times without success to infiltrate the brigade's area of operations.

Then came the request.

Brigade received a call from corps at noon on the third day requesting that the 3/7th Inf be extricated from their positions and begin planning for a large scale airmobile operation. Elements of the 2/69th Ar moved into position as the 3/7th pulled through to the rear.

Another request came down to brigade from corps late Wednesday requesting that the TOWs of AT Co, 3/7th Inf block an enemy force threat to the west of the 3/7th airmobile objective. Brigade responded and after a swift motor march, the TOWS moved into battle position.

"It seemed like we were called by corps and moved into battle position just in time," said Cpl. Lionel Haynes, a TOW gunner in AT Co, 3/7th Inf. "We met with some armor resistance after moving into our positions and we were credited with killing three tanks and six armored personnel carriers."

While the AT Co's TOWS staved off the enemy armor threat from the west, the rest of the 3/7th Inf pulled off a massive airmobile assault in which three-fourths of the 'Cottonbalers' were dropped into landing zones (LZ) by helicopters provided by both the 121st Aviation Co and the brigade's 197th Avn Plt.

SP4 Danny Hopkins, a team leader in Co B, 3/7th Inf, talked about the airmobile assault. "Once the sortie of helicopters set down on the LZ, we unloaded and headed for the treeline where we assembled to begin our attack. Overtaking the objective was pretty touchy, but we finally took it."

The airmobile assault brought an end to Thursday's action. Trp A, 15th Cav successfully ended the field problem on Friday by securing their hard-fought objective on Ft. Stewart's swampy Canoochee River at noon.

"We had a tough time for a while because of the rough terrain," commented Cpl Anthony Allen of Trp A, 15th Cav. "But we finally massed our forces and pushed through to secure the objective."

The 197th went on standdown Saturday to begin cleaning equipment for future training exercises.

"The FTX was pretty miserable from the standpoint of weather," stated PFC Willie Sellers of Co A, 197th Spt Bn. "The rain and mud seemed to get over all of our equipment and stick there," he said. "The weather compounded the many problems that we faced during the FTX."

"We had a multitude of objectives that we sought to accomplish during this FTX," stated Col. Fletcher K. Ware, commander of the 'Forever Forward' 197th. "Some of these were to provide for: training for deployment of the brigade; planning and conduct of airmobile operations; training to plan, integrate and provide all types of firepower; Intensive Combined Arms Training; and training in the planning and conduct of electronic warfare operations in an active electronic warfare environment. I feel that the soldiers of the brigade performed well, accomplishing all these missions and more. I'm very proud of the soldiers of the 197th. They've proven that they truly are the 'toughest cats around'.

The 197th Inf Bde, well known as an Army leader in the development of new combat techniques and doctrine, will embark on other strenuous training mission after the holiday. Maintaining their standing as one of the "World's Finest Infantry Brigade" is a full time job.

Leadership -- South Korea, 1951

Editor's note: The italic print in the following text was taken from "This Kind of War," written by T. R. Fehrenbach on the Korean Conflict.

Then

We was rotten 'fore we started—we was never disciplined;
We made it out a favour if an order was obeyed.
Yes, every little drummer 'ad 'is rights and'
wrongs to mind,
So we had to pay for teaching'—an' we paid!

Rudyard Kipling, "That day"

A soldier of the 31st Inf Regiment, 7th Inf Div, catches "40 winks," oblivious to the action going on around him, near P'ap'o-ri, Korea.

Problems in Korea generated from unpreparedness — an unpreparedness not so much in the ability of the machinery of war to function (once the economic wheels of the country began to turn), but rather in the training of the people called upon to operate the machinery and their leaders.

There were many young men . . . who had come to Korea with no concept of war. Panic began to sprout.

. . . an officer — for there were young men wearing bars . . . who were never soldiers, either— ran along the stalled line of trucks, shouting: "It's every man for himself! We're trapped! Get out any way you can!"

Men got down from the trucks and began to run for the circling hills — and the officers and sergeants followed. Here . . . we committed a grievous error . . . we broke faith with our fellow soldiers

There were 180 wounded men in the trucks, and no one said anything to those men as they were abandoned.

Leadership is an inborn trait — not everyone can lead — it takes a special type of individual to be a leader of men.

This may be so, however, it matters little whether the traits are there if the resources and know-how aren't. A leader can only lead based on how he is taught to lead.

He may know what to do but his training determines how he does it.

On arrival in Korea, the regiments had been at 70 per cent strength — but worse, their tactical integrity had been destroyed. Each regiment had only two battalions, instead of the normal three . . . regimental commanders could have only one battalion on line and one in reserve, or two on line and no reserve at all.

The Army schools, assuming that before being committed to action the Army would get its "fat" restored, had developed no new and startling ways of making do with too little, too late.

He who supposes all men to be brave at all times . . . does not realize that the courage of troops must be reborn daily, that nothing is so changeable, that the true skill of a general consists of knowing how to guarantee it by his positions, dispositions, and those traits of genius that characterize great captains.

From the French of Maurice de Saxe,
REVERIES ON THE ART OF WAR

. . . George's 4th Platoon leader commanding the company mortars, discovered a group of artillerymen huddling together inside one of the battery's canvas tents. Fire from the hills was beginning to spray over into the valley now, and the mortar men and gunners were being hurt.

"Hell!" this officer barked at them. "A squad tent won't stop bullets!"

Despite this officer's urging, none of these men would go up on the hill to give the riflemen a hand. Faced with being overrun, they seemed to feel that because their primary military occupational specialty did not include handling a rifle, no one had the right to make them use one.

A recently-abushed convoy of the 23rd Inf Regiment, 2nd Inf Div is checked after being hit by Chinese Communist forces while retreating south.

. . . Soldiers fight from discipline and training, citizens from motivation and ideals. Lacking both, it is amazing that American troops did even as well as they did..

Leadership--Ft. Benning, 1976

Now

Today's Infantry platoon leader must have the mental toughness and discipline to accomplish any mission assigned, yet possess the sensitivity to deal intimately with the individual soldier and his problems. He must be forceful yet kind; firm yet understanding.

It is the mission of the Infantry School to develop this highly-complex leader. Combining projected needs with lessons learned in battles past, the school has developed a curriculum designed to produce the best product in the shortest time possible. The Infantry leader circa 1976 has the benefit of the finest training yet devised by the United States Army.

"Our platoon leaders are taught to be the complete soldier beginning with learning how to be a follower," says LtCol. Douglas Fingles of the Infantry School's Command, Staff and Leadership Department. "The old principals and traits of leadership still apply. Now the emphasis is on implementing them."

Twenty five years ago it was a popular conception that leaders were born, not made. And when the United States suddenly became involved in a massive land war in Korea, the Army found itself with an excess of young officers ill-trained to lead in combat. It was not uncommon for troops to panic in battle as the result of poor leadership.

"Today we train our junior officers and NCO's with emphasis on decision making,"

Leadership

says Capt. Jack Daniels, a leadership instructor. "We place the leader in a realistic situation and watch him respond under pressure. Here our training is geared to deal with fear and prevent panic in combat situations."

"Not everyone can be a Patton or Rommel," Fingles admits, "but with training and practice, we have discovered that most of our people can effectively lead. The key is patience and understanding, helping the leader to know himself — his capabilities and limitations."

By fully examining his own strengths and weaknesses, the leader can better deal with his men. He is taught self discipline, emotional control, spiritual and moral strength, and how to attain and maintain standards. He is taught to lead by example, to "Do as I do."

Another major concern of the school is teaching the leader to be sensitive to the problems of the individual soldier. While the mission always comes first, the welfare of the men is also of prime importance. According to Capt. Carl Fedde, also a leadership instructor, "We have courses designed to place leaders who believe in accomplishing the mission at all costs, as well as those who may forsake the mission to cater to the needs of his people. Both kinds need to be identified so that adjustments can be made. What we are after is the complete leader."

And when the complete leader is developed, it is the contention of the Infantry School that the finished product will be equipped to lead men in combat without reservation. Because he has the expertise and confidence to lead by example, his subordinates will follow him unhesitatingly.

"The leader must make each soldier feel as though he is a member of the team," says Fingles. "This is the first step in complete leadership. He must provide the incentive to make the individual soldier believe in himself."

"If he can do this; make the soldier believe in himself and get him to work as a team member, then, he can call himself a leader. The men he leads will get the job done because they want to rather than because they have to. The soldier who performs because he wants to will still be doing the job when the leader's back is turned."

"Our job is to develop this kind of leader, and the first thing we look for is someone who gives a damn!" concluded Fingles.

Initial reactions to SQT favorable

Initial reaction to the new Skill Qualification Test (SQT) now being tested Army-wide is highly favorable, according to TRADOC officials.

TRADOC added, "A lot of soldiers said they were really surprised by the SQT. It was a lot different than they thought SQT would be, but then again reaction included those who expected it to be an easy test, but found it challenging."

Comments from field units testing the SQT have been equally enthusiastic. Col. Robert D. Wiegand, Commander of the 3d U.S. Inf (The Old Guard) said the SQT is a real advancement. He noted, "The troops think it's great. Their comments have been most favorable." The Old Guard recently completed SQT testing.

TRADOC said the SQT "shakedown" is turning up a few administrative bugs, "but that's why we decided to test the system first, then the soldier."

Soldiers participating in the Army wide trail run include those in MOS 11B, MOS 16J, MOS 45B and MDS 95D.

SQT, which includes three major components, will be administered for the record to soldiers in Career Management Field 11 beginning in April 1977. MOSs involved include 11B, 11C, 11D and 11E.

TRADOC urged soldiers not to fool themselves into thinking the SQT will be only hands-on. SQT includes a written test, but the beauty is that questions come right out of the Soldier's Manual.

"If a soldier can perform the critical tasks listed in the Soldier's Manual, the SQT will not be difficult. Questions on the written portion are realistic and every effort has been made to provide simulation devices or tools that normally would be available to the soldiers in a real job situation."

Tasks that are more accurately measured on the job will be included in the hands-on portion, it was pointed out. In addition, those tasks which are time consuming, too large or expensive to test will be certified by the commander.

Soldiers will receive a personal copy of the Soldier's Manual which cover their MOS, current skill level and next higher skill level.

TRADOC pointed out that the soldier's manual is the basis for the SQT. The new manual contains the critical tasks required to perform the job at each skill level and includes standards for measuring "go" or "no go" for performance on the SQT. (ARNEWS)

legal briefs

Would you rent an apartment without ever reading the lease? Probably not. However, after a quick once over, you may not know a whole lot more than you did when you started.

One thing to watch for are conflicting clauses. Suppose a line printed in your lease says, "No pets allowed." But "dog okay" has been typed into a blank space on the form. In case of a dispute with your landlord about Fido, which of these two conflicting clauses would the law recognize?

The second, typewritten clause, allowing you to keep Fido in your apartment.

Generally speaking, words that are inserted in a lease by typewriter, rubber stamp, or handwriting carry more weight than the printed language.

"(Inserted) words," explained one court, "are the immediate language selected by the parties themselves, while the printed form is intended for general use."

This is one of the rules the law invokes to achieve fairness in the interpretation of legal documents. Here is another:

In case of ambiguity, the lease is interpreted against the party who drew it up—usually the landlord. For example: SP5 Casper's one-year lease on an apartment mentioned an option to renew, but did not say for how long. The landlord pointed out this omission in trying to evict her at the end of the first year.

But the court ruled that the woman was entitled to another one-year term. The court said the tenant should get the benefit of the doubt since the landlord having provided the lease, was more to blame for the lack of clarity.

Of course this does not mean that the printed portions of a lease can be ignored. If the language is clear, and not in conflict with inserted words, it will ordinarily be enforced. The fact that you just didn't bother to read it is not an excuse in the eyes of the law.

As one court warned: "Signatures to obligations are not mere ornaments."

Camellia is an apartment motel. We don't rent rooms, we rent furnished apartments with all the features of a regular motel plus added conveniences that cannot be provided with just a single room — and all at the same, or most times lower rates than the single-room motel. For example, our "standard" unit is comprised of two bedrooms, combination living room-dining room, bathroom and fully furnished kitchen including refrigerator, stove, cooking utensils, and table service for six people. These are some of the "extras" but at no extra cost. Our 150 units are in separate buildings with usually four apartments in each building, which adds to a person's or family's privacy.

The dream came true--an editorial

Wayne C. Boles
Doughboy Head Coach

The Bayonet Staff extends a special note of appreciation to Lt. Col. Wayne Boles, commander, HQ Cmd, for his untiring efforts and resounding success at reviving the sport of tackle football at Ft. Benning.

Boles has been working for a Ft. Benning football team for four years, starting with the creation of the annual "Infantry Bowl" faculty-student games of 1973, 74 and 75. He was instrumental in developing the idea for those games, worked many hours to secure necessary equipment and personally coached the faculty team.

In 1976, Lt. Col. Boles envisioned a post team, drawing both students and permanent party personnel into a single unit and playing established teams from other areas. With a few volunteer assistant coaches and great support from Mr. Frank O'Malley, Recreation Services Director, Boles began his drive to revive the long dormant Doughboys.

With unceasing dedication, the devotion of literally every minute of his free time, considerable personal expense, and inexhaustible energy, Wayne Boles slowly forged a group of sometimes-confused, often disheartened soldiers into an undefeated football team. He sold the program to the command group. He sweet-talked sporting goods stores into providing a great deal of equipment at prices the post could afford to spend. He unscrambled a myriad of scheduling problems. He battled and begged commanders at every level to get ball players to the practices. He developed rosters, counselled players, established schedules and did practically everything but blow up the footballs (and he personally found volunteer managers to do that).

It was entirely fitting that Lt. Col. Boles enjoy an undefeated season as head coach of the Doughboys. In that capacity he took most of the administrative burden for running the team, permitting his assistants to concentrate on coaching. During the long practices he set the tone of hard work, dedication to excellence and team spirit.

Wayne Boles will probably be moving on to another assignment before another football season comes to Ft. Benning. He deserves the gratitude of all who enjoyed watching the Doughboys play and all who felt a touch of pride that nobody beat the Infantry in 1976.

Bidding on post buildings open

An invitation for bids for the sale and removal of three buildings located at Ft. Benning has been extended by the Savannah District, Army Corps of Engineers.

The buildings are family housing units of brick veneer construction with a covered area of 1,422 sq. ft. each. To arrange for inspection of the property, contact Mr. J.J. Radecki, Chief, Real Estate Section, DFAE by calling 544-4302/545-7144.

Further information regarding the terms, conditions, and instructions of the sale may be obtained from the Real Estate Section or by contacting the District Engineer, U.S. Army Engineer District, Savannah, ATTN: SASRE-MD, PO Box 889, Savannah, Georgia 31402 or by calling (912) 233-8822, ext. 451.

Sealed bids will be accepted until 2:00 pm December 15th at the place of bid opening in Savannah.

Non-support cases pose a problem

Within the past five months, non-support of dependents has become an increasing complaint at Ft. Benning, according to SGM Mark H. Ward, SGM of the Complaint Investigation Branch of the Inspector General's office.

"The problem of non-support at Ft. Benning is evenly distributed throughout the ranks to include all the enlisted and up through junior field grade officers," said SGM Ward.

The IG Section works hand-in-hand with the Staff Judge Advocate Section (SJA) in combating the problem.

"Complaints in the area of domestic relations and non-support generate more man-hours than any other area in the Legal Assistance Division," say Cpt. Henry L. Gillis, Judge Advocate lawyer in the Legal Assistance Division.

Anyone with a military connection (dependent, servicemember or one who helps as guardian of the child) is entitled to legal assistance on post, according to Gillis.

Ward explained that "The IG Complaint Investigaton Branch mainly responds to cases of people who are married and not getting any support from their sponsor. It usually involves wives in the local community who have husbands stationed elsewhere."

"The Army takes the stand that failure of the servicemember to support their dependents reflects badly on the Army," he added.

Any action taken by JAG or the IG is primarily governed by Army Regulation 600-20, Chapter 5, Section II.

In accordance with the AR there are two ways in which they can handle the problem. In the case where there is a Court Order or a Separations Agreement, they obtain a copy of the agreement and/or a copy of the birth certificate(s). A support letter is drawn up stating what the AR says, with a paragraph

Hitchhiking

Inexpensive, fast, convenient illegal, dangerous and costly

By Terry Ragan

Hitchhiking is a pretty good way to travel. It's inexpensive, fast, and relatively convenient. Just point yer thumb in the direction you want to go, and you're off.

Hitchhiking is also illegal on every service installation in the world, and a lot of states have outlawed the practice too. So despite the convenience and swiftness with which you could travel across this land, chances are pretty good you'll spend some time in the hoosegow if you travel with your thumb.

The heck with all that, you say. After all, anyone can relate stories about how they traveled clear across the country and back again without so much as seeing law enforcement officials. All well and good. But what about the chance (a small chance, given thousands of hitchhikers on the road in any given month) that some driver means to do harm — either to your body or your pocketbook. (Or maybe YOU'RE the driver, and some hitcher decides to ruin YOUR day.)

There's a legal phrase that has been kicking around for a long time now, and the consumer movement has made the phrase almost as common as "let's eat." The phrase is caveat emptor, or "let the buyer beware." Beware of what you might be getting yourself into. Not all drivers (or riders) are the kind of people you'd want living next door.

And for soldiers, there's a double whammy in store. Your company commander may have to pick you up at the MP station if you're caught hitching on post. Or he'll have to get you out of the hospital, if you survived that other guy's inhumanity.

Either way, Dale Carnegie would not recommend either of these methods as the proper procedure for winning over and influencing your CO.

There are authorized share-a-ride stations on Ft. Benning, but you're still at the mercy of the person who offers you a ride. He might be a swell guy, but then again he might not. The question is, how good are you at judging human character? So you hear a snap in your head when something doesn't seem right about that other person?

Despite the laws both on and off post, there will always be hitchhiking. Hitchhikers also have friends who could provide transportation, and then it's no longer hitchhiking. Think about that. If there's a better way to keep your body safe from another person you don't know or can't judge, it might be worth staying away.

It could also save a life — yours.

"A Hundred Years of Christmas"

Do you automatically smile when you think of Santa Claus and his merry little elves hard at work this time of year? Or do you need a little dose of Christmas spirit? Either way, the Ft. Benning Dramatizers stand ready to provide the place, the time and the show.

It's called "A Hundred Years of Christmas," and it has that warm, bittersweet, happy quality that Christmas brings to most people. It tells us of the Beckerman family . . . their album of Christmas memories from the past, with a little trip into the future. But add to that the fact that their dreams and fantasies are also coming true, and you have a pretty amazing combination.

Performances will be conducted at the Ft. Benning Playhouse, Bldg 1237 at 8 p.m. on December 2d, 3d, 4th, 9th, 10th and 11th. Also on December 5th and 12th at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

For information and reservations, call 545-5057. Admission is FREE. The public is invited.

Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition

The Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229, will host the 8th Annual Amateur Art Contest and Exhibition November 25th through the 28th. Ribbons will be awarded to the top three entries in eleven different categories, plus a "Best In Show" ribbon.

It's a great opportunity to see the latest and best in charcoal, pastels, oils, sculpture, weaving, leatherwork, and many more.

So stop by and get some great gift ideas for the Christmas holiday season.

Christmas Shopping Trip to Atlanta

Recreation Services Information/Tour/Travel Office, Bldg. 229, has 32 spaces available for a shopping trip to beautiful Cumberland Mall, Atlanta's largest shopping complex boasting over 100 shops.

Cost of the roundtrip will be $4.00 per person and will be filled on a first come, first served basis. The bus will depart from Bldg 229 on Saturday, December 4th, at 8 a.m. and return to Ft. Benning by 7 p.m. All military, active and retired, DAC, NAF personnel and their dependents are eligible. For further information, call 545-7414.

Football Weekend in Atlanta:

Recreation Services Information/Tour/Travel Office, Bldg. 229 is offering a "Football Fling" December 11th and 12th. The Atlanta Falcons will be pitted against the Green Bay Packers in an exciting, action-filled game.

Tour costs are only $44.00 per person (based on double occupancy) and include roundtrip transportation, one night's lodging in one of Atlanta's finest hotels, welcome champagne, 1 dinner in the Steeplechase Restaurant, breakfast, reserved seat tickets to the game, pro football schedule, plus transportation to and from Atlanta Stadium.

All military, active and retired, DAC, NAF personnel and their dependents are eligible. For further information, call 545-7414.

between the parties concerned or a court order, the member will be expected to provide support payments in an amount not less than a basic allowance for quarters (BAQ) that he receives."

The JAG will turn the case over to the IG when they can't get a response from the servicemember's unit. The IG deals with the command authority and is in a better position to reach the people involved. They bring the IG, commander and servicemember together.

When the IG or JAG are unable to secure the cooperation of the servicemember in supporting his dependents in accordance with Army policy, there are some administrative and punitive actions the commander may take.

He can consider the servicemember's elimination from service through the use of appropriate procedures (AR 635-212). He can also bar him from re-enlistment.

In accordance with Department of the Army Pay Manual, paragraph 30236, "failure to support a dependent on whose account BAQ is claimed may result in non-entitlement to BAQ."

"We have had cases when we have had to do this," says SGM Ward.

"We are here to protect the servicemember their dependents and their rights, but we also have to protect the government," he concluded.

SGM's Wives Coffee

The SGM's Wives were the guest of Mrs. John Whitley, on November 3rd, at her home in Plains, GA. The ladies really had an exciting day, as this was the day after Election Day. Not only did they marvel at the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Whitley in her lovely home of the old colonial styling, but many of the ladies toured Plains and as a grand finale, shook hands with President-elect Jimmy Carter and chatted with Mrs. Carter.

Needless to say, this was an experience that the ladies will treasure for a lifetime. This month's hostesses were: Mesdames James Gallagher, C. C. Quick and Lawrence Mosely.

2d Bn, 1st AIT Bde Coffee

On November 15th, the ladies of the 2d Bn, 1st AIT Bde, met at the Harmony Church Recreation Center, for their monthly coffee. Company A hosted the affair and the ladies were honored with a most interesting talk by Father Flaska, one of the AIT Chaplains, followed by a salad luncheon, in the Thanksgiving setting.

Coffee and cake, rounded out a most enjoyable day. Newcomers to Company C: Mrs. Lynch and Mrs. Lowery, were introduced to the group. Guests included: Mrs. Jack Farris, Mrs. Harold Trout and Mrs. Doris Miller. Mrs. Edmund Moeller was the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Horace Harrell.

HHC 197th Inf Bde Coffee

On November 15th, the ladies of HHC, 197th Inf Bde met at the Special Service Recreation Center, for a "Cookie Exchange" coffee. Hostesses for this most enjoyable evening were: Mrs. William Reehm, Mrs. Guy Sodano, Mrs. Donald Blake and Mrs. Richard Brown. Mrs.

Fletcher Ware welcomed the ladies and introduced Mrs. Harold Bowen, who demonstrated the art of cookie decorating.

A warm welcome was extended to special guest, Mrs. Manuel Porth. Mesdames Eric Witcher, Daniel Peterson, Robert Clouse and Samuel Kellett were welcomed as newcomers to HHC. Sad farewells were given to mesdames Godwin Ordway, Charles Belan, Bryant Sneed, Raymond Brandenburg, William Reehm, Larry Farrell and Juan Valera.

The departing ladies were presented with engraved silver trays. After a brief business meeting, the ladies enjoyed tasting and exchanging all of the delicious Christmas cookies.

Mortar fuze display provides unique training aid

By Marshall Jones

platoons and rotate through the leadership positions.

The students come from varied backgrounds. About one-third are key NCOs, who will assume leadership positions at the higher skills levels in the platoon. The rest are lieutenants trained as Platoon Leaders. They come from active Army, Army Reserve and National Guard units to work together, prompting Donlon to remark, "We're still one Army."

After the graduation of the students from the most recent IMPLC, the display was moved to the lobby of Infantry Hall where it has been since last week. Says Donlon of the importance of the display, "This multi-option fuze will, for the mortarman of tomorrow, result in his being able to respond more quickly to calls for indirect fire support."

It is this capability for immediate responsiveness coupled with precise teamwork that builds the confidence essential to the mortar platoon leaders. "Only through intensive training can we attain the levels of competence, confidence, and teamwork essential to the Infantry Mortar Platoon Leader," Donlon concluded.

Students in the Infantry Mortar Platoon Leaders Course (IMPLC) began using a unique training aid in the form of a multi-media display on loan to Ft. Benning from the Harry Diamond Laboratories, Adelphi, MD. The Harry Diamond Laboratories is the developer of the Army's multi-option fuzing system of tomorrow.

LtCol. Roger Donlon, chief of Mortar Division, Weapons Department, was responsible for arranging the loan of the display. Donlon first saw the display at this year's AUSA Annual Meeting in Washington where he recognized its potential training value to the students in Ft. Benning's IMPLC.

The use of this device illustrates the varied and professional training the future mortar platoon leaders receive. The six-week course covers tactical employment of the 107mm and 81mm mortars. Included in the training is fire planning, mortar gunnery, forward observer procedures and fire direction center procedures.

The final phase of the school is a three-day Field Firing Exercise where the men are organized into 26- and 32-man mortar

"FIRE!"----- Are you prepared?

"Fire!" is one of the most frightening words in the dictionary and yet so many of us fail to prepare ourselves for the possibility of fire in our own homes.

Unfortunately, most fatal home fires start when you are asleep and least prepared. And, believe it or not, most deaths are not caused by burns but by deadly smoke and gases. A cigarette carelessly dropped on bedding can produce gasses which could bring about unconsciousness or death by suffocation before the smoldering materials actually burst into flame.

To protect you and your family, you should prepare a fire escape plan. Here are some good suggestions which will enable you to have a workable plan:

— Draw up a floor plan of your home and allow at least two escape routes from each bedroom.

— Agree on a warning device to waken and warn each member of the family — a whistle or some other signal device.

— Have the entire family practice escape procedures.

— Agree on a meeting place outdoors for a head count.

— Sleep with the bedroom door closed — it will increase your escape time. If you suspect fire, test the door. If it is hot don't open it — the hall is already too hot to enter. If you think it's safe, open it cautiously, but be ready to slam it shut if smoke or heat rushes in.

— Call the fire department from a neighbor's house in Columbus at 322-5454 or Ft. Benning at 545-2117.

Besides your escape plan, you should have your furnace and other heating and cooking devices inspected, cleaned and repaired before that cold winter weather sets in.

For those of you who live in high-rise dwellings, remember these fire safety rules:

— Do not use elevators to escape — they can stop if the power fails and you will be trapped.

— Know where the fire exits are — make sure your family also knows where they are.

— On the way out alert your neighbors.

— If trapped in your apartment, close the apartment door, seal the cracks around it that can admit smoke. Take refuge in a room with an outside window. Get as many closed doors between you and fire that you can. Open a window at the top and bottom for ventilation and hang out a sheet as a signal for help. Don't panic and don't jump — wait for help to arrive.

— Stay close to the floor, take short breaths and breathe through your nose. Cover your face with a damp cloth to filter out smoke.

Hopefully you will never be faced with a fire in your home but should one occur, these safety measures may be the difference between a tragedy and a happy ending.

OWC Emblem Design Contest

The OWC of Ft. Benning is launching a postwide contest in search of an emblem which will symbolize the OWC of Ft. Benning. This emblem is visualized as being a permanent insignia which would be instantly recognizable as denoting the club, its members, and their endeavors.

Any active duty military person or their dependent is eligible to enter the contest. The design should be done in pen and ink and should be no larger than 9" x 12." The design may be left in the OWC office, Monday - Thursday, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. All entries become the property of OWC upon submission and if selected will be used on all and any OWC material. Non-selected designs may be reclaimed at the OWC lounge after the winning contributor has been named.

A $25 savings bond will be awarded to the winner.

For more information please call Muriel Parrish, 687-6979.

OWC December Luncheon

The OWC luncheon to be held December 8th, will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a gift wrapping demonstration during the Sherry Hour.

The luncheon program will be a fashion show, "Happy Holidays," presented by Peggy Hood of Montgomery Wards. Musical entertainment will be provided by the "Benning Belles."

Hostessing units will be the Airborne and Ranger Depts.

Units to be spotlighted at the luncheon will be the Airborne and Ranger Depts., Command Group, AIT Bde, and the IOAC classes.

Please make reservations through your unit.

ACS Sav-A-Toy

ACS needs your usable toys for their Sav-A-Toy project. Please bring your donations to Bldg. 83 (yellow archway) by December 8th between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m.

MEDDAC OWC

All MEDDAC officers wives, members and non-members are invited to a Christmas Tea December 1st, 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A. Hitzelberger, 507 Baltzell Ave. No reservations will be necessary.

We are still collecting food for the MEDDAC food locker. MEDDAC was responsible for the month of November, so if you have forgotten your donation, you may bring it with you to the tea.

In January, we hope to take a tour of the hospital.

The best way to keep informed is through the clubs news letter, "MEDDAC MUSING." If you are not a member you will no longer be receiving our news. Don't miss out on our many activities which you will stay in touch with you. If you wish to join, please call Marianne Krakowiak, 689-8304 or Gemma Stanford, 689-1191.

OWC Benefit

On December 9th the OWC will present a benefit performance by the "What You Will" players. The program will be a Christmas tapestry of music, song, dance, poetry, prose and drama.

The benefit will be held at the OWC School of Dance Bldg located in the Thrift Shop complex, from 7-9 p.m. Admission will be 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children 8-14. The program is not recommended for children under 8 years of age.

This will be a one time performance. For more information please call Brenda Hotard, 687-4233.

SGM Wives Luncheon

All SGM wives are invited to a Christmas buffet luncheon to be held December 1st at 12:30 p.m. at the Top 5 Annex. The luncheon will be $3.25 per person. Reservations must be in by November 29th. The Faith School Chorus will sing for everyone's enjoyment and there will be a $3 gift exchange.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Rowena Cherry, 561-0454, Mrs. Peggy Denaney, 687-9719 and Mrs. Jean Ryecharde, 689-2368.

Engineers act, avert water shortage for 400 families

The post FOD, SDO and Hot Line received calls Thursday, November 18th, around 7 pm that a water main had broken in the Bouton Hill area and seven families were without water.

Fast action by the Post Engineer Emergency Repair Unit resulted in a team of four plumbers, two supervisors and Director of Facilities Engineers, Col. Robert Corley on the scene within two hours.

The nature of the break demanded that the water supply for 400 families be turned off and left off until the break could be located and repaired. Because of the uncertainty of locating the break, Col. Corley arranged for two 4,500-gallon water trailers from the 36th Eng Gp be provided the area on a stand-by basis.

The break was located at 1 a.m., repaired by 5:30 and the lines flushed and back in service by 6 am with few of the 400 families even realizing that they were without water during the night.

George Schladensky, Chief of Utilities Division, said, "We try to provide prompt service all the time to our customers, and usually do. I'm proud to say that we have as good a service for our people as any local municipality in this part of the country, and we appreciate the perseverance and patience as these things are bound to occur."

GS jobs opened for short-timers

Soldiers getting out of the Army may now get a helping hand from Uncle Sam in finding a civilian job.

The President has approved a special employment authority that may help the soldier get a job at the GS-1 to GS-5 level ($5,500-$9,000) in government. There are four eligibility requirements that the soldier must meet to take part in the program.

- The soldier must have served on active duty during a portion of the period Aug. 5, 1965 to May 7, 1975,

- The soldier must take advantage of the program in the first year after receiving an honorable discharge.

- The soldier must have completed no more than two years of education beyond high school graduation,

- The soldier must agree in writing to take an approved program of education while working.

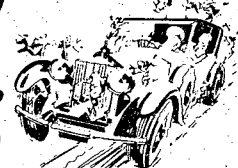

For jobs at the 1 to 3 GS level, the soldier's military service is equivalent to the minimum standard of qualification. Grades 4 and 5 require the applicant to meet the minimum standard for the job and may include a test. The employing agency will determine whether or not the applicant is qualified.

After working in the job for two years, the employee will receive a regular appointment, providing performance on the job and in the educational or training program has been satisfactory.

For additional information, contact the nearest Civilian Personnel Office, local Veterans Assistance Center or Civil Service Commission Federal Job Information Center.

10-8 on the warpost

By "HOSS" KACI 4615

Most people I have talked to about CB say that they're in it for fun — they just like to talk to people on the radio. But every now and then you run onto one who just wants to raise hate and discontent. Now I'm not talking about the Cber who has a legitimate beef and argues it out on the air while identifying himself. I'm talking about the carrier-thrower, the dead-keyer, the name-caller, the noise-maker, the idiot who just wants to disrupt the channels and doesn't give a hoot in hell as to the consequences. This guy is in the same ballpark with obscene phone callers and you know the special mentality it takes to be that kind of jerk.

How do you deal with him? The best way is simply to ignore him. Remember he is looking for attention and the more you react on the air, the more he is going to continue disrupting. Do all you can to identify him or get a fix on his location. Then report him to the FCC and keep reporting him until they do something about it.

The same applies to the other types of illegal operators. The ski-shooter, the linear amp user, the guy who won't use an FCC call sign; they're all illegal operators and don't deserve the use of CB frequencies.

Well then, how do we go about getting some of these things legalized so we can enjoy them without the fear of being raided by Uncle Charlie? Write to your Congressman and ask him to push the FCC to get on the ball. If enough people get behind the issue, somebody will have to take notice.

How's this for an idea: Reserve a couple of the newly-opened 17 channels for skip operations and authorize use of linear amplifiers on those channels only. Let me know what you think about this or any other idea for improving CB.

VA Q & A

Q — May a veteran obtain a mobile-home loan through the VA loan guaranty program?

A — The VA will guarantee loans, obtained through private lenders, for purchase of mobile homes with lot up to a maximum of $27,500.

Q — I am a widow eligible for Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Veterans Administration (CHAMPVA). If I remarry, how would this affect me and my children's entitlement?

A — Your remarriage would not affect your children's CHAMPVA entitlement, but yours would be terminated.

Q — I borrowed the maximum available on my National Service Life Insurance policy and did not pay the interest on the loan. I was later notified that the loan and interest amount was more than the reserve value of the policy. I took no action and the policy was canceled. Is it possible to reinstate the policy?

A — If the insured, after notice, permits the policy to be canceled because of excessive indebtedness against it, it may not be reinstated.

DEFENSE!! That was the name of the game Sunday as the Ft. Benning Doughboys played the Redstone Arsenal Rockets. Linebacker Gary Pestrak (No. 69) reaches out to stop Rocket's John Matthews (No. 44) from gaining yardage, along with Mike Dawkins (No. 64) coming in fast to help Pestrak.

Block that kick! Defensive tackle for the Doughboys, John Tytla reaches up just in time to block a Redstone kick.

Doughboy's--undefeated

By Jack Barham
Asst. Head Coach

It was only a four-game season, but the Doughboys beat everybody they could find to play, finishing last Saturday with a 20-7 win over the Redstone Arsenal Rockets. It was the closest game of the year for the Doughboys, made so by a combination of Redstone toughness and Ft. Benning mistakes.

Dave Bankston's defense was again superb, holding the Rockets to just five first downs from scrimmage. Tackle John Tytla, 2/69th Ar, and end John Hester of the Abn Dept, each made tackles in the Rocket end zone for two-point safeties. Linebacker Gary Pestrak, 5th Bn, TSB had nine sacks of Redstone ball carriers behind the line of scrimmage. With a shortage of healthy linebackers, Bankston put himself into the game at critical periods and stopped a couple of Rocket threats, once with a crushing tackle of a ball carrier trying for a first down, and again with an interception.

The Doughboy offense, while not up to their usual point production, was good enough to convincingly whip the military team from North Alabama. Highlights of the game were the running of tailback Richard Smith Jr., Co A, HQ Cmd, who scored both of the Doughboy touchdowns and gained 130 yards rushing, and the kicking of Dave Ward Jr., Co A, 197th Spt Bn, who booted a 49-yard field goal in the 4th quarter. Though accurate statistics of Doughboy games of earlier years are not available, it's likely that Ward's kick represents a record for Doughboy stadium.

The bright November sun created a definite pass-catching hazard Sunday, and for the first time this season, Doughboy quarterbacks did not throw a touchdown pass. Joe Duenas suffered watching two of his tosses bounce off the numbers of sun-blinded receivers in the Rocket end zone, but close only counts with horseshoes and hand grenades.

Fumbles and penalties hurt the Doughboy offense throughout the game. Several long gains, including a 40-yard run to the Redstone five yard line by tailback Ernest Butler, HQ Co, Hqs Cmd, were nullified by penalties. Nine fumbles also impeded Doughboy progress.

The Redstone score came in the middle of the 4th quarter on a long pass from quarterback John Hooser to receiver Bob Taylor, who also kicked the extra point.

So Doughboy football closes its first year of activity since 1963, as did the Doughboys of old, with an undefeated season. Players who will return next year, and prospective players who would like to try out for the 1977 season, are notified that there will be a spring practice of about two weeks, scheduled for late April of 1977.

Next season should see an expansion of the Doughboy playing schedule, tougher opposition, and a continuation of the excellent halftime features arranged this year by the Ft. Benning Recreation Services Division.

Brown, Kiki Holmes, Sandra Brown and Becky Morgan.

SAVE HEAT THIS YEAR

Some helpful hints are available for service families during this time of falling temperatures and soaring utility bills.

The Office of the Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs and the Institute for Applied Technology have compiled a list of seven methods for improving personal comfort while reducing heating costs.

They are:

- Weatherstrip and caulk around all windows and doors. As much as 30 per cent of a family's heating bill is caused by warm air leakage or cold air infiltration.
- Install storm windows or insulating glass. Storm windows reduce by half the heat lost through the windows of a house. An investment in storm windows will pay for itself within a decade and, thereafter, return an annual dividend of about 13 per cent or more on the investment.
- Install overhead and sidewall insulation. Such insulation will contribute greatly to comfort in both winter and summer and will pay for itself by reducing winter heating bills and summer air-conditioning bills.
- Maintain an efficient heating plant. Operating efficiency of a heating plant is very important regarding amount of fuel used.
- Close window draperies at night. A closed drape helps average the temperature on its two sides.
- Close and seal all openings into the attic. Warm air flowing from the house into the attic causes considerable heat loss. To prevent condensation of moisture on insulation or building materials, keep outdoor air vents in attics and crawl spaces open in winter.
- Turn off utilities when not needed. Every kilowatt-hour of electricity, every cubic foot of natural gas, and every gallon of heating oil saved, not only benefits the individual through lower utility bills, but also benefits the country by conserving resources.

VA pension rate increase okayed

A seven per cent increase in monthly benefit rates for Veterans Administration pensioners, plus increases in the annual income limits on which the pensions are based, becomes effective January 1, 1977. The pension changes were approved by the President on September 30th.

Affected are about a million veterans and 1.6 million veterans' survivors receiving VA pensions, VA also pointed out.

The increases are estimated to cost $432 million in fiscal year 1977.

Income limitations were raised as follows: To $3,540 for veterans or surviving spouses without dependents and to $4,760 for those with dependents under the current program; to $3,100 and $4,460 for those under the prior pension law; and for parents under the dependency and indemnity compensation program, the limits were raised to $3,540 for a single parent and $4,760 for parents living together or with a spouse.

The maximum unearned income limitation for children entitled under the current pension program was increased $190 to $2,890.

A significant addition in the new law provides for a 25 per cent added differential to all pension rates for eligible veterans who are 78 years of age or older. Primary beneficiaries of this provision are some 318,000 World War I veterans whose average age is 80.

Aid and attendance rates for veterans on the pension rolls was increased by $22 to $155 and the housebound rate by $4 to $57. For surviving spouses on the pension rolls, parents receiving DIC payments and surviving spouses and parents receiving death compensation, the aid and attendance rate was increased to $74.

Another new provision permits payment of a reduced aid and attendance monthly allowance to eligible veterans whose pension payments are denied or terminated because annual income exceeded the statutory limitation by less than $500.

Pensions are paid to wartime veterans who are totally disabled from nonservice-connected causes if they are disabled before age 65 and come within income limits. After age 65, only income is taken into account. Pension payments to widows of wartime veterans are determined by income limitations.

VA Q&A

Q — I had two enlistments, the first was honorable and was a completed enlistment. The second enlistment was under dishonorable conditions. Can I be granted service connection for disabilities that occurred in either of these enlistments?

A — You may be paid compensation for disabilities incurred during the first period of service. Compensation would not be payable for service which ended in a dishonorable discharge. Disability payments may be made only where service upon which the claim was made is terminated by release under conditions other than dishonorable.

Q — Can a veteran be certified for fewer school credits than he is actually taking, in order to preserve his GI Bill educational entitlement?

A — No. The school must certify the total number of credits being pursued.

Q — I have been separated from active service for seven months. Am I eligible for VA dental treatment?

A — Veterans have one year from separation date to apply for dental treatment from the VA. Any treatment thereafter can be granted only for conditions resulting from combat injuries, service training or prisoner of war status or as an adjunct to a service-connected disability.

Q — Would receipt of parents dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) be a bar to a widow's receiving death pension?

A — No. Receipt of DIC, based upon the death of a son, would not be a bar to the receipt of pension based upon the death of another person.

Q — May a veteran receive educational assistance for attending college and for on-the-job training at the same time?

A — No. He will be paid educational assistance for only one type of training at a time.

Your car is a lifesaver

Ever thought of your car as a lifesaver, as well as a very convenient transportation device? During emergencies, it contains the hardware for survival.

Your horn can alert rescuers as far as a mile downwind. The flat, round top of the air cleaner can be used for digging trenches or throwing up earthen windscreens.

There is a reservoir of oil under the hood. A quart burned in a hubcap in the still air of sunrise spews a miniature cloud visible for miles. Every hose converts to a siphon for getting at gasoline. The windshield wiper tubing becomes an effective tourniquet. The dip stick is a skewer for hot dogs or toast. The hood can be removed and used as a heat reflector behind your fire.

Your car serves as a bunkhouse. Convex gauge lenses or the dome light's glass can be a sun-focusing fire starter if you don't have matches or a cigarette lighter. A burning tire make a hot fire that won't go out and lasts for an average three to four hours. For night signaling, remove a headlamp from its housing and direct its beam upward in wide, sweeping arcs.

Food for thought

What have you done lately to enhance the military image in the eyes of your civilian counterparts? Are you aware that the military is not an island unto itself, but rather, an integral part of the civilian community to which it belongs?

Just being a member of the Army team carries with it the responsibility to portray the image which is expected by the people who pay our salaries. To conduct yourself otherwise is similar to cutting your nose off to spite your face.

Everytime you go down town you represent the Army whether you realize it or not. Whatever you do reflects either favorably or unfavorably on each and every soldier in the Army and especially those at Ft. Benning.

It's a mutually beneficial endeavor, a give and take situation, which binds the Phenix City-Columbus-Ft. Benning community together.

Be a key part, play an active role, assume the responsibility which is inherently yours.
— GET INVOLVED.

Phase Three to begin

Flu shot program continues

The third phase of Ft. Benning's flu shot program will go into effect December 6th through the 9th at the Main Post Recreation Center, Building 229, for dependents, retired personnel and civilian employees 18 and older. Persons over 65 or those with chronic illnesses may also receive shots at this time.

Shots will be given December 6th and 8th from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and December 7th and 9th from 1 to 8 p.m.

Phase Four of the flu shot program which began November 30th will continue through December 15th for children considered to be in the high risk group (six months to 17 years) at the Allergy/Immunization Clinic, Bldg 322 on Baltzell Avenue.

Children must be accompanied by a parent or adult with a certified special power of attorney (TRADOC Form 645-R) and the yellow shot record and ID card.

High risk children are defined as children with: chronic bronchopulmonary disease, e.g. asthma, cystic fibrosis or heart diseases; chronic kidney disease; diabetes and other metabolic diseases; neuromuscular disorders; malignancies; or immune deficient states.

Shots will be given on Tuesdays and Fridays 8-11 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. and on Wednesdays from 8-11 a.m.

For additional information call the Allergy/Immunization Clinic at 544-1365.

Guided by a pathfinder from the 187th Inf Plt (Pdr) Abn), a UH-1H of the 121st Avn Co, 34th Med Bn brings in a 197th Inf Bde jeep during a simulated combat assault conducted at Ft. Stewart recently. The 121st "Soc Trang Tigers" supported the "Forever Forward" brigade during their combined arms exercise against the opposing forces of the 1st Bde, 24th Inf Dev. The "Tigers" successfully completed their annual Army Readiness Training Evaluation during the exercise.

Soldiers' questions get needed answers

What do you know about Article 15 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ)? Do you know who may be punished under Article 15, what punishments may be imposed, or how it differs from a court-martial?

What procedural rights does a soldier have when faced with an Article 15? Here are some answers to these basic questions:

●What is an Article 15, and when is it used?

Article 15 provides administrative, non-judicial punishment of soldiers, both officer and enlisted, who violate the Uniform Code of Military Justice when the violation is "too serious to be disposed of by counseling or other administrative responses, but not so serious as to require trial by court-martial."

Article 15 punishment is often used in response to short AWOL's, failures to go to appointed place of duty, failure to obey regulations, and other minor violations of the UCMJ.

●What punishments may be imposed?

Commanders are encouraged to take full advantage of non-punitive disciplinary measures, but once a commander has decided to impose Article 15 punishment and the individual has accepted the Article 15, the commander must decide the amount and kind of punishment which may be imposed.

The punishment depends upon the grade of the offender, the grade of the commander imposing the punishment, the seriousness of the offense and any mitigating circumstances.

Punishment may include reduction in grade, forfeiture of a portion of a soldier's pay, placing the soldier in correctional custody, restriction to certain specified limits, assignments of extra duties, detention of pay and certain permissible combinations of these punishments.

●What are the Servicemember's rights?

Before Article 15 punishment can be imposed, a soldier is given certain rights to insure that any punishment is fair and just. No Article 15 punishment can be imposed without first notifying the alleged offender of the commander's intent to do so, and informing the Servicemember of his/her rights with respect to the proposed punishment.

Most important among these rights is the right to consult with an attorney.

The soldier may also request a personal hearing with the commander and submit written statements which set forth defenses and mitigating or extenuating circumstances surrounding the offense.

●How does an Article 15 differ from a court-martial?

The decision to demand trial by court-martial involves a number of considerations and should not be made without the advice of legal counsel.

The primary differences between Article 15 punishment and trial by a court-martial are the formality of the proceedings, the amount of punishment which may be imposed, and the permanency of the record.

Unlike a court-martial, an Article 15 punishment involves no formal proceedings, no judge, no jury. Furthermore, the maximum punishment imposable under Article 15 is less than the maximum which may be imposed as the result of a finding of guilty at a trial by court-martial.

Perhaps the most significant difference, however, is that a conviction by court-martial is a Federal court conviction which will remain on the individual's criminal record even after he has separated from the Service.

Article 15, on the other hand, does not amount to a federal court conviction. It is placed in the personnel file and remains there for two years or until the members separates, whichever is earlier. However if the service member is on a second enlistment the Article 15 will remain a permanent part of the 201 file.

●When is punishment imposed?

Only after a soldier has had the opportunity to consult an attorney and submit statements does the commander actually impose the punishment. After punishment has been imposed, the soldier has 15 days to submit an appeal which will be considered not by the commander imposing the punishment but by the next higher authority.

What do you do?

Handling the drunk guest

If you give a party where alcoholic drinks are served, it's possible that someone will drink too much. Getting drunk is not a humorous affair. Many people do not know their capacity for alcohol.

The number and kinds of drinks that will get a person drunk vary from person to person. In fact, in the same individual the effect of alcohol will vary depending upon circumstances. Variables include:

- How fast a person drinks
- Type of beverage
- Body weight
- Whether the person has eaten
- Individual body chemistry
- Drinking history and experience
- Such things as current mood and attitude

When someone becomes drunk at a party, the easy alternatives have been to get rid of him or her as quickly as possible, or to search for a fast way to sober up the individual.

There is no way to sober up quickly. It takes time for the body to metabolize the alcohol that is in the bloodstream — about one hour for each average drink taken. Black coffee, a cold shower, or even a whiff of oxygen simply are not effective as sobering agents.

If possible, see that the drunken guest gets home safely, but do not let him drive. It may take some ingenuity and determination to part an intoxicated guest from his car keys, but it must be done to protect both his safety and that of the public.

Often the kindest thing you can do for an intoxicated guest is to make him comfortable and let him sleep it off until he is sober enough to take himself home safely.

It is hospitable to serve a snack with coffee, tea, or other non alcoholic beverage before guests leave, even though this will not sober up an intoxicated person. However, the food and time required to eat it will reduce to some extent the effects of alcohol and will allow planning for safe travel.

Your Efficiency Report ... and you

By Jenny Alexander

Why do you need an EER/SEER?

An EER (Enlisted Evaluation Report) or SSER (Senior Enlisted Evaluation Report) monitors your progress and compares you to others in your grade. It shows your skill levels, leadership qualifications and characteristics and how you do in your job. It can be used for counseling to improve your job performance.

An EER/SEER shows if you're a good or bad performer. If you don't belong in the Army, it identifies you as soon as possible.

It affects school, promotion and re-enlistment. If you keep getting outstanding EERs, you may be up for promotion sooner. If you keep getting bad ones, you're more likely to remain in the same grade. Your EER score is part of your overall MOS score — so the better the EER, the better your MOS score.

What is an EER/SEER?

An EER is a performance report for E-5 and below — the SEER is for E-6 and above.

When do you need an EER/SEER?

There are four kinds of EERs.

- Initial reports
- Annual reports
- Change of rater reports
- Special reports.

Initial reports are prepared during the 17th month of continuous service and end the month of the initial PMOS Test.

Annual Reports

Annual Reports are submitted according to the following schedule after the initial report has been submitted:

Pay Grade	Closing Date
E-4 and below	August 31
E-5	November 30
E-6	January 31
E-7	March 31
E-8 and E-9	May 31

All supervisors should rate and counsel E-5s now and turn their EERs in before Dec. 16.

An annual report isn't required if a special or change of rater report has been submitted within 60 days for E-5 and below or 90 days for E-6 and above.

Change of Rater

Change of rater reports are submitted when you or your boss change jobs. Closing date of the report will be the month the change occurs. Raters or endorsers relieved for inefficiency or misconduct will not complete reports.

Special Reports

Special reports are submitted only when the soldier's performance has been so outstanding or so deficient as to clearly warrant the report before the annual is due. Rating may be for a period of 30 days and the report must be reviewed by a field grade officer in the direct line of supervision of the rated individual.

Special reports must have ample justification and shouldn't be submitted solely for providing a report for periods less than 60 or 90 days. They will be submitted when an individual is relieved for cause and the report doesn't violate criteria in paragraph 8-5. AR 600-200.

If you go TDY more than 60 days for E-5 and below or 90 days for E-6 and above, you should have an EER.

Make sure that your supervisor makes out an EER when you need one. If you don't, you'll have gaps in your records and your MOS Test score cannot be processed.

If your supervisor doesn't make out your EER, go through your chain of command beginning with your endorser or battery commander. If you still don't get results, contact the EER section, Bldg. 83, Rm 324, 545-1060/4786.

Who is responsible for making out your EER/SEER?

Everyone should know who his rater, endorser and reviewer are and they should be posted. Those three people are responsible for giving an accurate report of job performance.

Your rater should be your direct supervisor — an E-6 or GS-6 civilian or above. Your endorser must be senior to your rater in pay grade or date of rank, and in direct line of supervision. Your reviewer should be in direct line of supervision over your endorser. (If the rater or endorser is a brigadier general or above you don't need a reviewer.)

When you get an EER, make sure your rater and endorser counsel you so you know why you got the rating. The rater should complete his portion of the EER and counsel you, then the endorser should complete his part and counsel you again before you sign the EER.

You should sign an EER. Even if you don't think you received a fair rating — sign it. You have two years to appeal an EER by contacting the EER section. If you elect not to sign, it will not hinder the processing of the EER, and it will still require that an appeal be processed in order for it to be changed.

Raters should counsel individuals several times during the rated period using a blank EER as a guide. When it comes time to make out the actual EER, take out the counseling statements and it should only take about 10 minutes to fill out the EER.

The reviewer can add any opinions to the EER about the rated individual based on his own observations. His job is to make sure the rating is fair and valid in his opinion.

For information on EER/SEERs or appeals, contact the EER section, Bldg. 83, Rm. 324 or call 545-1060/4786.

Theatre arts blended into 'X-mas Pudding'

The "What You Will" players will present a program of music, song, dance, poetry and drama, artfully blended into a sophisticated tapestry of Christmas entitled "A Christmas Pudding" on Thursday, December 9th.

There will be only one performance from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Officers Wives Club School of Dance building located next to the Thrift Shop. Admission will be 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children 8 thru 14 years. The program is not recommended for children under eight.

The "What You Will" players are a newly formed group under the direction of Betty Britto, past president of the Springer Opera House and long-time performer in theatre.

Players involved in this production, which blends the various theatre art forms to express man's delight in the joy of life are Wes Carr, Bruce and Carol Wolff, Jack McElheney and Brenda Rotard.

The production uses literary material in an imaginative way by combining selections from various periods and styles to make a total statement. It is hoped this approach will give added insight to literature.

"A Christmas Pudding" offers works ranging from the Norse legendary poetic Ed-da, dealing with the story of creation, to the contemporary poetry of Ogden Nash.

Post runner wins 50-mile race

Eight hours, 39 minutes and 50 miles from the beginning, a Ft. Benning representative in the 14th Annual John F. Kennedy Memorial 50-Mile Run finished first in the 40 and older, age class at Boonsboro, MD, November 20th.

LtCol. Patrick McClintic, commander of the 4th Stu Bn (ABN), also finished 36th in the field of 560 entrants of which 400 completed in less than 14 hours.

The gruelling run, which started at Boonsboro and ended in St. James, included 15 miles of the Appalachian Trail up into South Mountain, then down to the Chesapeake and Ohio Tow Path for 28 miles and finally seven miles into St. James.

Another TSB representative, Capt. John Carney, the brigade adjutant, placed third in the 35 to 40 years old class.

The Cumberland Valley Athletic Club first sponsored the race as a hike for its members in 1963. Eleven entries began the scenic course and four finished 13 hours and ten minutes later.

Through the years, news of the race has steadily increased participation to a high of 600 runners. The winning time this year was five hours, 59 minutes.

Chaplain (Capt.) Dave Myers, 2d Combat Support Hospital, 34th Med Bn, is the fastest chaplain on Ft. Benning. His best time for the weekly five mile course is 35 minutes, 14 seconds. He normally runs it in 39 minutes or less.

34th SOM proves 'Stateside Swap' works

By Bill Walton

Some people don't believe that the "Stateside Swap" column in the ARMY TIMES is for real. However, the 34th Med Bn. Soldier of the Month for November, PFC Larry Wilson is living proof that not only is the column for real but it is in fact an effective way to get stationed closer to home.

PFC Wilson, from Columbia, SC, enlisted in the Army in June 1975. He went through basic at Ft. Jackson, SC, and AIT at Ft. Sam Houston, TX, and was then assigned to Ft. Ord, CA, as a line medic. Wanting to be stationed at Ft. Jackson, he advertised in the ARMY TIMES for a "Stateside Swap" with someone having his medical MOS. The closest bid he received was from Ft. Benning. The swap was made and he arrived here in August and was immediately assigned to the 690th Med Co. (Amb), 34th Med Bn.

PFC Larry Wilson, ambulance driver for the 690th Med Co (Amb), 34th Med Bn was recently named the 34th Med Bn Soldier of the month for November. PFC Wilson got a stateside swap to Ft. Benning in August and was assigned to the 34th Med Bn.

His duty assignment is as an ambulance driver, which according to PFC Wilson, is a tremendous improvement over his Ft. Ord duties. He says that field medics in a school situation, are like firemen in that most of the time it is "sit and wait." He recently had his first actual medivac when an airborne trainee suffered a broken thigh bone in an accident off the 210 foot tower.

Support battalion supplies 'all' for 197th Inf Bde

By Ron Fowler

Ever wonder who supplies the chow, the ammunition, the fuel and the clothing to the men who do the nitty-gritty work in the field? The answer is hard-working individuals like the soldiers in the 197th Spt Bn.

"The primary mission of the 197th Spt Bn is to provide all administrative, medical, supply and transportation and maintenance support to the 197th Inf Bde," stated Maj. Bobby Pickron, 197th Spt Bn. "Believe me, it's a huge task, but having outstanding personnel makes it much easier."

The 197th Spt Bn underwent their annual Army Training and Evaluation Program (ARTEP) during the 197th Inf Bde's FTX at Ft. Stewart last week. They took on the tremendous task of providing needed support to the "Forever Forward" brigade in a tactical atmosphere.

"Our company was tasked with providing all administrative support to the brigade all through the FTX," said Sp4 Dale Paulo of Co A, 197th Spt Bn. "We had a tremendous job on our hands, but we handled it with very few problems. It was some kind of experience."

A monkey wrench was thrown into the 197th Spt Bn's machine, when in the middle of their ARTEP, they were forced to move their entire operation 12 kilometers because of increased 'enemy' pressure in their area of operation.

"It was pure hell moving our section in the middle of the night," commented Sgt. Donald Dickerson, one of the section leaders in Co C, 197th Spt Bn's POL Plt. "You wouldn't believe what kind of a job it is moving all that fuel and all those fuel tankers and bladders in the darkness of a Ft. Stewart night. It was so dark, you couldn't see your own hand in front of your face and the rain and mud didn't help matters at all."

Before, during and after the move, the 'Ever Ready Support' battalion constantly strived to 'deliver the goods' to each of the units in the brigade. It provided all the ammunition for the weapons used, all food consumed and all maintenance work required during the extensive field problem.

"We try to do our jobs the best way that we know how," concluded PFC Jose Lopez of Co C, 197th Spt Bn. "Sometimes we might not get the credit for it, but where support is needed, whether it be medical, mechanical, administrative or whatever, you can count on us being there."

'Tis the season for joy and conservation

By Bill Darrell

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house,

Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse,

The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,

And lights out by two — Santa was there.

That's the guidance for indoor lighting this Christmas season. On Christmas Eve and until 2 am Christmas morning, indoor lighting may be left on. Prior to this, the hours for indoor display lighting are from 6-10 pm daily.

Further guidance states there may be an outdoor lighted tree at Martin Army Hospital, Infantry Hall McGraw Manor and Lavoie Manor Community Centers, and illuminated nativity scenes at designated chapels. All other displays will be non-lighted.

This Christmas, our nation's second hundredth, it is especially appropriate to have our decorations and displays designed to conserve energy and reflect our heritage.

So make your own ornaments, string popcorn, make chains of colored paper, cut out designs, place fruit and nuts on the tree, hang stockings, make wreaths and use your Christmas lights conservatively. Also remember to keep water in the tree stand to keep a freshly cut tree from drying out too quickly; if you have an artificial tree, insure that it is flame proof.

Updated SQT manuals delayed

Armored reconnaissance specialists (MOS 11D) and armor crewmen (MOS 11E) Armywide will be getting Soldier's Manuals that contain the most up-to-date information.

According to the US Army Training and Doctrine Command, which is developing the individualized job manual, major changes have been added to the new MOS 11E Soldier's Manual (all skill levels) and an add-on will be given for MOS 11D at a later date.

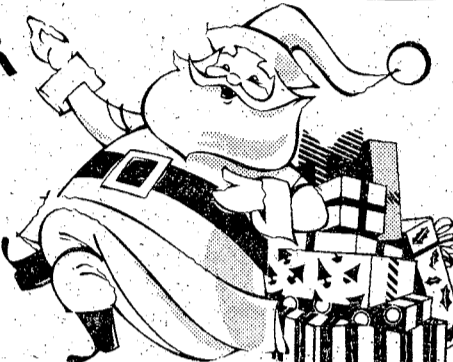

The changes in the 11E manuals will not create more than a one-week delay in receipt of Soldier's Manuals, TRADOC said. World-wide distribution of 11D and 11E Soldier's Manuals is expected to be completed by Feb. 1, 1977.

Soldier's Manuals for MOS 11E (Skill Levels 1 and 2) will include some 52 pages of updated information outlining critical skills necessary to perform the job.

The manual also includes standards for judging performance and detailed reference information on available Field Manuals, Technical Manuals, Training Extension Course lessons and other self-paced training devices.

The MOS 11D Soldier's Manual (all skill levels) will be augmented in the near future, but the basic manual will still be the principal guidebook for the new Skill Qualification Test (SQT).

Poverty—a question of responsibility

By Chaplain David Myers

We live in a wealthy nation.

The national budget each year is staggering. The FY 75 Federal Budget sent to Congress was 304 billion dollars. Yet "we live in plentiful poverty, one paycheck removed from bankruptcy," continued one housewife.

The nation's problem is not how much wealth she claims. The words of Andrew Carnegie still ring true: "The problem of our age is the proper administration of wealth, so that the ties of brotherhood may still bind together the rich and poor in harmonious relationship."

A 1968 New York news release reported two billionaires, six half billionaires, and 153 who have a net worth of more than 100 million each in the United States. At the same time, poverty nibbles away at about 20 per cent of the population across the United States from the Bowery of New York City to the lettuce fields of Imperial Valley, GA; from the ghettos of the big cities to the back roads of the South. Even the lower ranking government employes are caught in the poverty squeeze.

Is poverty wrong? If so, what can be done about it? Is man responsible for doing something about poverty? If so, what? Expand welfare?

Fredrick Taylor, father of scientific management, viewed man as an economic man who would work harder only if he would improve his economic position by doing so.

Does welfare encourage man to improve? What about guaranteed employment?

How much does one bring poverty on himself by over-extending his credit or by enjoying a standard of living above his income level? When I was a child my father worked for the railroad and later the steel foundry. He was earning good money until he was laid off. It wasn't long after that my father lost our home because he could not pay the mortgage.

Whose fault was it? The steel foundry for laying him off? The bank for not extending his credit? My father for not managing his money adequately?

Consider the military family which is struggling financially and is facing a PCS move. Is the family responsible for its financial embarrassment? Is the military responsible for adding to the problem?

Perhaps the first question that needs to be answered is, "Who is responsible for poverty?"

When that is answered we can address the question, "What can be done about it?"

Camellia is an apartment motel. We don't rent rooms, we rent furnished apartments with all the features of a regular motel plus added conveniences that cannot be provided with just a single room — and all at the same, or most times lower rates than the single-room motel. For example, our "standard" unit is comprised of two bedrooms, combination living room-dining room, bathroom and fully furnished kitchen including refrigerator, stove, cooking utensils, and table service for six people. These are some of the "extras" but at no extra cost. Our 150 units are in separate buildings with usually four apartments in each building, which adds to a person's or family's privacy.

Pregnancy--not a ticket to freedom

Though no hard statistics are available on the subject, speculation has it that a number of unmarried female soldiers have gotten pregnant to get out of the Army.

Some WACs are surprised to find themselves in a family way while others plan the pregnancy with great care, their goal an Honorable Discharge, an easy out.

Is it an easy out? Not necessarily. Though a lot of thought may go into planning of the "how and why" of WAC pregnancy, in many cases very little goes into the "what after."

European Stars and Stripes recently ran an article stating that WACs may now receive abortions in Europe. This has been common practice in the United States for some time. In fact, WACs have come back to the States to terminate an unwanted pregnancy and then returned to their European units.

Some male soldiers have questioned whether WAC pregnancies can be termed wanted or unwanted in the first place. With the number of contraceptives and the ease of availability through Army medical facilities, many men feel that it should take care of unwanted babies.

Chauvinism aside, (of course it takes two to tango) those women soldiers who become pregnant have the option of an abortion or having the child. If she decides to have the child she has several other options. First she may keep the child or she may put it up for adoption. If she keeps the child she will be retained on active duty or she may request a discharge.

There are women soldiers who have had children and remained on active duty. They find that this is very difficult. They are still in the Army, they must pull duty just as any other soldier. Babysitters during the day, during field exercises, CQ and other military duties is one heck of a financial burden to be placed on a young unmarried woman soldier.

It seems that the majority of women soldiers who become pregnant use this pregnancy as a ticket to civilian life.

What they don't realize is that it is just as hard to live and support a child on the outside as it is in the Army.

Though the woman may work regular hours and receive more pay for what she does, the increase is generally not substantial enough to live comfortably. There are now medical expenses to be paid for out of the pocket, the commissary prices are a thing of the past and housing costs are not included in the weekly pay envelope.

Many WACs try and rationalize the "easy out" method of discharge through self centered means. "I don't like the Army, I don't want to be here, I want to go home, etc., etc."

Though the Army is becoming more liberalized in its thinking towards women, it is not in the best interest of the military or the individual woman to become pregnant just for that ticket to freedom.

Women throughout the Army who may have entertained the thought of pregnancy, for discharge should stop and consider the consequences of their action before committing themselves to the hurt, heartache and frustrations that will certainly come.

Beards can be irritating--an editorial

Misunderstanding is the cause of many racial problems in the military. One question that has arisen is, "Why are some black men allowed to wear beards while the rest of us are forbidden?"

It's not what some people are calling it — reverse discrimination. It's a medical problem common to young men and particularly to black men, and it's called pseudofolliculitis.

The disease, also called ingrown beard, is a chronic, pimple-like inflammation of the beard area, particularly along and below the jawline and on the throat, and once started, may be cured by letting the beard grow and proper hygiene.

Not caused by shaving as some people think, ingrown beard is caused by the way a man's beard grows. The black man's beard grows in a curved follicle, and describes a short arc so that a beard hair comes right back in contact with the skin.

The end of the beard hair may just slide along the skin until a harmless coil has formed, but it may also penetrate the skin and be driven through the stratum corneum, the epidermis, and into the dermis (three layers of the skin).

An inflammatory reaction occurs, and usually, a simple abscess develops and is aggravated by the presence of skin bacteria. This is the disease, pseudofolliculitis, or ingrown beard.

Once the disease has started and been diagnosed, the cure is relatively simple: don't shave. Allowing the beard to grow results in a temporary worsening of the disease as the hair penetrates deeper into the skin, but in approximately two weeks, the hair will begin to pull back out of the abscess.

Eventually, the hair pulls completely free of the skin and the abscess fades away after the disease has run its course which usually takes from two to three months.

Resumption of shaving does not mean a certain return of ingrown beard and, in fact, sticking to a rigid schedule of shaving is the basic preventive measure in combating ingrown beard.

Using a very low setting on an adjustable razor and shaving often enough so that the hair does not grow long enough to complete its arc and dig into the skin is recommended.

Shaving with a low blade angle, it is almost impossible to cut the skin or even the tops off the bumps or pimples which must be particularly avoided by black men. It is sometimes recommended that they leave a light stubble.

Scrubbing the beard area daily will help to dislodge any hairs that might be cutting into the skin, and they can also be freed manually, with a sharp toothpick. They should not be plucked, but left until the next shave.

So, the next time you see a black man in uniform with a beard, you don't have to wonder just why he's getting away with something you can't. He's probably got pseudofolliculitis, and it's being treated medically by a popular method — letting the beard grow.

A few additional facts concerning pseudofolliculitis are worthy of note:

- An initial no-shaving profile is given for a period of three to six weeks based on the severity of the case. The man is then taken off the profile. If he develops the affliction again, he is again placed on profile for three to six weeks.

- A permanent no-shaving profile will only be given after the man appears before a board of medical doctors who determine on a case by case basis whether it is warranted.

- A no-shaving profile carries with it the requirement to maintain the beard length at one-quarter of an inch or less.

Any additional information on pseudofolliculitis is contained in Technical Bulletin (Medical) 287 or by calling 544-4054/1568.

RMC: The total soldier pay picture

Regular Military Compensation (RMC) gives soldiers an idea of how their pay compares with the pay of civilians. RMC is defined as the total of basic pay, quarters (BAQ) and subsistence allowances, and the tax advantage which results because BAQ and subsistence are not taxable.

The tax advantage portion of the pay is often misunderstood according to DoD. Most people have a tendency to compute "tax avoided" rather than "tax advantage." Tax advantage is the additional amount of income a military member would have to earn, if his basic pay and allowances were fully taxable, to yield the same cash take home pay as is now received when only basic pay is taxable. Stated another way, it is the additional amount of the civilian must earn to realize the same take home pay as the military member.

The chart is an approximation for each pay grade by years of service. The actual RMC varies with each individual soldier and will depend on several factors such as number of dependents and whether the soldier itemizes or chooses to take the standard deduction. It will also vary if the soldier has any other income which would influence the "tax bracket," and whether or not BAQ is being received or government quarters are being occupied.

Legal clerk's hobby pays for itself

By Jim Wilbert

Sp5 Bill Potter, an assistant legal clerk, HHD Med Bn spends his off-duty time raising rabbits and various species of game and domestic birds. Among these are African Geese, Muscouvee, Khaki Cambell ducks, Button Quail, Ringneck Silver and Gold Pheasants. His rabbit stock includes several registered breeds such as Siamese, Red Satin, Rex, and Dutch.

Sp5 Bill Potter and his wife Georgia check the progress of a baby rabbit while its father Virgo, mother and brother take a nap

The question that immediately comes to mind is what does he do with all of these animals and how can he manage the feed bills? The bills are approximately $150 monthly and the answer is simple-Potter raises them for both profit and as a hobby.

By selling a portion of his animals as breeding stock and stocking his freezer, he manages to break about even on the feed bills.

As a member of the American Rabbit Breeders Association, Potter exhibits his stock for the chance to upgrade his registration papers. For every competition won, he comes closer to being a Grand Champion holder. To become a Grand Champion, it requires four wins or as it is called in the rabbit breeders circle-fourlegs. With Virgo (a Siamese Satin rabbit), he is one leg away from recognition. When this happens, which he is sure it will, Potter's breeding stock will increase in commercial value.

Potter has a total of 77 birds and animals, half of which are rabbits, but he admits readily that this number changes rapidly. The average litter runs from eight to 15 per rabbit every three months.

The operation requires a great deal of space and to provide for this, Potter has purchased a five acre home. After he completes this his sixth year at Ft. Benning, Potter plans to settle outside of Phenix City and put his hobby to work for him full-time.

1.9% Vets are women

Women account for 1.9 per cent (577,000) of the nation's 29.6 million veteran population, VA officials say.

About 135,000 women served in the Armed Forces during the Vietnam era, 75,000 during the Korean Conflict and 12,000 in World War I. Some 57,000 saw service during the cold war period between the end of the Korean Conflict and the beginning of the Vietnam era.

Army service was the preference of 285,000 women vets. About 174,000 served during World War II — a portion of these being Army Air Corps members. There are a total of 169,000 Navy vets; 87,000 former Air Force women members and 36, 000 women Marines Corps vets.

Among women vets, 447,000 are married and 55,000 are heads of households. There are 110,000 between the ages of 50 and 54. Less than 2,000 World War I women vets are 85 years of age and older, VA officials say. (ARNEWS)

FIRST LIEUTENANT RAYMOND O. BEAUDOIN, WAS LEADING HIS PLATOON WHEN A CURTAIN OF FIRE PINNED THEM DOWN.

BY ROTATING HIS MEN, THE ENTIRE PLATOON DUG-IN WHILE HE DUG-IN

THE ENEMY PREPARED A COUNTERATTACK AND ONCE HIT HARD. LT. BEAUDOIN DECIDED TO DESTROY

THE MOST DAMAGING SNIPER NEST, SO HE CRAWLED 90 YARDS OVER EXPOSED GROUND, COMPLETELY IGNORING THE HEAVY FIRE CONCENTRATED ON HIM. TEN YARDS FROM THE ENEMY...

HE STOOD UP AND CHARGED AT POINT-BLANK RANGE. HE SHOT AND KILLED TWO OF THE OCCUPANTS OPERATING THE MACHINE-GUN NEST, AND ANOTHER WHO TRIED TO BAYONET HIM... HE OVERPOWERED AND THEN...

HE KILLED HIM WITH THE BUTT OF HIS CARBINE. THE LAST SNIPER WAS KILLED BY THE PLATOON'S FIRE AS HE ATTEMPTED TO FLEE. STILL FILLED WITH COURAGE, LT. BEAUDOIN CONTINUED...

Holiday travel rates reduced for soldiers

The holiday season is just a few weeks away and thousands of soldier travelers will be heading home for Christmas.

The Military Traffic Management Command (MTMC) in Washington, D. C., passes along the following bits of information concerning holiday travel rate reductions. The airlines are offering reduced fares to soldier travelers ranging from 25 to 35 per cent less than the coach fare. Reservations must be made in advance, except on Eastern's shuttle flights where tickets may be purchased on board. Soldiers can expect to pay reduced rates at all times except on American Airlines. The special rates will not apply on December 17th, 18th, 22d and 23d and January 2d and 3d.

Travelers should check with the airlines well in advance of departure date for the fares and conditions currently in effect, since tariff rules vary between carriers, according to MTMC officials.

Reduced bus fares are limited to selected points in the eastern states and between eastern and midwestern states. They apply to one-way and round-trip. There are no restrictions on days and times for travel.

Rail fares are reduced by about 25 per cent on both one-way and round-trip coach tickets. These rates apply at all times except on Metroliners.

Not everyone can get these reduced rates. Soldiers must be on active duty and traveling at their own expense. They also qualify if they are enroute home traveling within seven days of separation. This will include many of the persons to be released soon by the Christmas early out policy.

All soldier travelers should be prepared to show ID cards, leave papers or orders upon request. And remember, you can wear those civvies when you fly this year. Uniforms are not required.

Talk to your installation transportation officer (ITO) for more information on holiday travel planning. (ARNEWS)

Fish

By Denny Blankenship

Ft. Benning echos with the sounds of rumbling tanks, clanking armored personnel carriers, gun and mortar fire and the shouted commands of Infantry leaders as each training day begins.

Lost among these sounds and largely unnoticed is the steady hum of a farm tractor's engine, the gentle "plop" of catfish food entering a pond and the quiet, cautious probing of the forest in a never ending search for data.

These barely detectable noises are made by the members of the Fish and Wildlife Management, DFAE going about their daily chores.

With over 182,000 acres on Ft. Benning to attend to, this little known branch of dedicated outdoorsmen accomplish their mission quietly and efficiently leaving benefits for men and game alike.

Located in the Harmony Church area, the branch consists of six civilian employees headed by Roy Johnston. In explaining the various functions of his branch, Mr. Johnston stated, "We have a very diversified game management program underway with one of our biggest projects being planting. We currently have 6,000 acres under cultivation and the necessary equipment to take care of this."

Spread planting of crops such as rye, millet, sorghum and corn over a 12-month period insures that many of Ft. Benning's

Mr. Ruben Holloway stocks Victory Pond with channel catfish. Recently Twilight and Victory Ponds were stocked with 67,000

"fingerlings" to maintain a natural balance in the fish population.

Russ Pond is but one of the 18 scenic water retreats maintained by the Fish and Wildlife Management Branch. It reflects the efforts of Ft. Benning toward providing ecological balance and recreational opportunities on post.

The Bayonet, December 3, 1976

and Wildlife Management

game species have food year 'round. This planting coupled with the fact that the Forestry Branch of DFAE conducts controlled burnings which provide an additional two to three years of seed, have had a dramatic impact on many game species. This is particularly true concerning the bird population. A recent sighting of a flock of 18 turkeys was cause for elation among branch members.

Seeing the results of one's work is most gratifying.

Asked about Benning's deer population, Mr. Johnston stated, "From a hunters point of view, it's outstanding. However, deer are their own worst enemy. They can reproduce themselves out of existence. That hasn't happened here yet, but we're constantly checking to see that overpopulation does not occur.

In addition to wildlife management, the branch also has the responsibility of fish management for the reservation's 18 ponds. These ponds are all man-made as the nature of Ft. Benning's terrain will not hold water. Many of the older ponds on the reservation were used years ago for the grinding of corn meal.

A good example of the branch's work in the fish management area is the recent stocking of 67,000 channel catfish in Victory and Twilight Ponds. These fish ranged from 6-12 inches long and half of the total were stocked in each pond.

The branch's responsibility does not end with the stocking. Catfish in both of these ponds are fed three times a week with food of the floating pellet variety consisting of 33 per cent protein.

"One of the best bargains for the fisherman," explained Mr. Johnston, "is the ten dollar fee charged for these two ponds. Any kind of fisherman at all can catch ten dollars worth of catfish in a few outings."

In conjunction with stocking, each spring the branch also checks the spawn in various ponds. This is accomplished with 16 and

Mr. Roy Johnston, the chief of the Fish and Wildlife Management at Ft. Benning, checks on one of his corn fields. Crops such as barley, corn, rye and sorgham are planted in selected locations on post to provide year 'round food for wildlife.

60'seines. If an imbalance among species is found, restocking is accomplished by shifting fish from pond to pond. "One thing we don't need," explained Mr. Johnston, "is any helpers with this. For some reason, people will catch fish in one pond and release them in another. We monitor the balance between species carefully because it is very easy for one species to become dominant in a particular pond."

Tied in with all these major programs is a continuing program of ecology practiced by the branch and its members. The draining and the cleaning out of ponds is a major effort which requires a massive effort from branch employes. Think of the effort in-involved the next time you gaze over a clean peaceful pond tucked away in some remote corner of the reservation.

One may ask himself about the cost of such an operation but you, the outdoorsman, bear a big share of the cost. As Mr. Johnston remarked, "During the past couple of years, $30,000 in post hunting and fishing fees have been poured back in for the benefit of all concerned."

What qualifications do these outdoorsman, trusted with such a responsibility, have?

Employes of the branch keep informed on all the latest practices and procedures of fish and wildlife management. They do this by attending various conferences such as the Southeastern Wildlife Conference which will be held in Mississippi later this month.

The importance of Benning's program is pointed out by the fact that they, along with representatives of all 50 states attend such conferences. Experiences learned and shared provide the input to better programs of wildlife management throughout the United States.

"My people are very dedicated," said Mr. Johnston. "They're well trained for the job and the job certainly couldn't be done without them. There all good men and I can't say enough for them."

But there is a lot to be said. All outdoorsmen who use the Ft. Benning reservation owe these dedicated men a word of thanks. The next time you're out hunting or fishing and you see a member of the Fish and Wildlife Management Branch going silently and methodically about his task of preserving the outdoors for you, give him a friendly wave and hello.

He'll appreciate it.

The rotary brushchopper is one of the many items of equipment available to aid in the planting of rye, millet, sorghum and corn to provide a year 'round food supply for wild game species.

Atlanta Football Weekend

Trick Shot Pool Contest

Display your pool skills at Kelley Hill Recreation Center's Trick Shot Pool Contest. The fun begins at 7:30 a.m. on December 4th. Prizes will be awarded for the best trick shots. For information call 544-3079.

The Recreation Services Information, Tours & Travel Office, Bldg 229, is offering a "Football Fling" December 11th-12th.

The Atlanta Falcons will be pitted against the Green Bay Packers in an exciting, action-filled game. Tour costs are only $44 per person (based on double occupancy) and include roundtrip transportation, night's lodging in one of Atlanta's finest hotels, welcome champagne, dinner per person in the Steeplechase Restaurant, breakfast per person, reserved seat tickets to the game, pro football schedule plus transportation to and from Atlanta Stadium.

All military, active and retired, DAC, NAF personnel and their dependents are eligible. For further information, call 545-7414.

"A Hundred Years of Christmas"

Do you automatically smile when you think of Santa Claus and his merry little elves hard at work this time of year? Or do you need a little dose of Christmas spirit? Either way, the Ft. Benning Dramatizers stand ready to provide the place, the time and the show.

It's called "A Hundred Years of Christmas," and it has that warm, bittersweet, happy quality that Christmas brings to most people. It tells us of the Beckerman family . . . their album of Christmas memories from the past, with a little trip into the future. But add to that the fact that their dreams and fantasies are also coming true, and you have a pretty amazing combination.

Performances will be conducted at the Ft. Benning Playhouse, Bldg 1237 at 8 p.m. on December 2d, 3d, 4th, 9th, 10th and 11th. Also December 5th and 12th at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

For information and reservations, call 545-5057. Admission is FREE and the public is invited.

Pinochle Marathon

A Pinochle Marathon will be conducted at the Main Post Recreation Center, December 11th at 1:30 p.m. All active and retired military, DAC, NAF personnel and their dependents 19 years of age and older are invited to participate. If you like double deck pinochle and the hours involved in an exciting game, we invited you to join us on December 11th.

"Parents Without Partners"

"Parents Without Partners" will hold an Orientation Meeting at the Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229 on Monday, December 13th at 8 p.m.

All single parents including active and retired military are invited to attend. Custody of children is not a factor; however, it is mandatory that you be a single parent by reason of divorce, separation, widowed, or never having been married. Capt. Jerry Caldwell, Social Worker at Martin Army Hospital will be our guest speaker for the evening.

The President, Brenda Dunning and other members of the Board of Directors will be there to answer questions and inform you of what PWP is all about. For more information call membership director, Ms. Gay at 323-9685 or 545-5641.

Christmas Dance

Come join in the fun and excitement and dance to the beat of Ernie B & the Night Shift at the Main Post Recreation Center. The dance starts at 7:30 p.m. and everyone is invited.

Trim The Tree Party

Kelley Hill Recreation Center is having a Trim the Tree Party on December 8th at 7:30 p.m. Prizes, refreshments and fun for everyone. For information call 544-3079.

Christmas Eggnog Party

Kelley Hill will be celebrating the holiday season with a Christmas Eggnog Party December 24th at 7:30 p.m. Prizes, refreshments and fun galore for everyone. For information call 544-1721.

Candle Crafts

Kelley Hill Recreation Center is offering a candle crafts class on December 6th and 9th at 7:30 p.m. For information call 544-3079.

New Year's Eve Party

Bring on the New Year at the Mall Bowling Center. Recreation Services will host a New Year's Eve Party which will include all night bowling, party favors, refreshments, dancing and breakfast.

The festivities will start December 31st from 11 p.m. until 4 a.m. The lounge will be open for cash-bar services. Reservations may be made at the Mall Bowling until 6 p.m. December 31st. For additional information, call 544-1985. The Mall Bowling Center will be open on Christmas and New Year's Day from noon-11 p.m.

Net assessments: Panacea for military budgeteers?

The Department of Defense has taken an old planning tool and modernized it to assist materially in improving DOD planning and budgeting so that the United States can better maintain a worldwide balance of military power.

In a little noted speech on June 17th, Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Ellsworth said that the new system, called the net assessment approach, "will provide an overall framework within which our Planning, Programming, and Budget decisions are now beginning to be made and will continue to be made in the future."

Net assessment is the process of understanding and then comparing the overall balance of military capabilities between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. DOD is now looking closely at five "key balances" between these two countries, and according to Ellsworth, the best judgment on their current status is:

1. Strategic Nuclear Balance: Rough parity exists. The U.S. is ahead in bomber force capabilities, missile accuracy, total numbers of available strategic warheads, and discriminating use of high accuracy-low yield warheads. The Soviets lead in bomber air defense, civil defense, development of land-mobile missile systems, and overall momentum. The Soviets are catching up in technology, an area where the U.S. has had clear superiority.

2. Naval Balance: The U.S. is facing an adverse shift due to the great growth of Soviet naval power. However, Ellsworth said, "as of today, the U.S. Navy should be able to fulfill its assigned tasks in most areas of the world, although not without considerable losses in certain areas."

3. Ability to Project Power Overseas: U.S. is ahead, thanks to amphibious forces and strategic airlift advantages.

4. Central Europe Balance: NATO has current capability to respond adequately to Warsaw Pact attack, conventional or nuclear. But, "the balance in the long run is less secure than in the past."

5. Defense Related Investment Balance: U.S. aim is to maintain a sustained investment in military capabilities and research and development to: (1) counter Soviet developments, (2) efficiently devote limited resources toward attaining U.S. goals, and (3) retain necessary flexibility for proper response to future uncertainties. The rough equivalence of today will not hold if present trends, exemplified by Soviet outspending U.S. by 40 per cent in 1975, continue.

In Army Claims Bulletin No. 1, the Army announced that it will not pay claims for loss of CB radios if they are taken from the passenger compartment of automobiles. Soldiers should provide their own insurance coverage for CB radios to protect themselves against theft.

CB radios are prime target of criminals and thefts from POVs have reached epidemic proportions. In announcing its decision not to honor such theft claims, DA cited the low cost of coverage being offered by insurance firms and reasoned that if a soldier could afford CB equipment, then he could afford the insurance.

The Army may,

however, pay claims for CB radios which are stolen from quarters, loss or damage to CBs in the shipment of household goods or claims based on alleged negligence of government employees. The Army may also pay claims for loss or damage to CBs in a locked, secured area in a vehicle other than the passenger compartment.

The maximum limit for any claim of loss of CB equipment has been set by the Army at $200. Check out DA msg 271901Z October 17th for more information.

Soviet Union deploys latest medium class tank

T-72 INTELLIGENCE HIGHLIGHTS

The Soviets recently deployed their latest model medium tank with their forces in East Germany.

Called the T-72, the Soviet tank features a new hull, turret and suspension system while retaining the low silhouette of previous Soviet tanks. The T-72 is slightly smaller than the older T-62 and weighs approximately 35 metric tons.

The new tank's main armament appears similar to the T-62's 115mm smooth-bore gun and its accuracy is probably improved by a new fire control system with laser rangefinder.

The main gun reportedly features an automatic loader, permitting a reduction of the tank crew from four to three.

A redesigned engine compartment indicates an improved engine, and the driver's position has been shifted from the hull's left side to its center.

Unlike other Soviet tanks, external stowage is extensive with attachment of stowage boxes to the outside of the turret.

The T-72 has been in production for about two years. Currently figures indicate more than 2,000 have been produced.

Further information can be obtained by contacting 1LT Stephen Reeves of the Intelligence Branch, Command, Staff and Leadership Department in Room 344 of Building 4 (telephone 545-3393).

Quartermaster and Transportation soldiers will soon get a chance to participate in May apprenticeship programs. DA officials estimate that program implementing instructions should be published in about four months. Post education officers will get the word out as soon as they receive it.

The first apprenticeship program — being developed by the Transportation School — will affect marine engineers (61C), marine hull repairmen (61F), aircraft electricians (68F) and airframe repairman (68G).

The Quartermaster School is developing a cook's apprenticeship program for food service specialists (94B), bakers (94D) and hospital food service specialists (94F). It is also planning a food certification program in conjunction with the American Culinary Federation. Program instructions will be released along with the apprenticeship programs.

Soldiers completing the apprenticeship programs will be awarded a Labor Department certificate noting their journeymen skills.

NCOWC News

On Saturday morning, November 27th, the NCO Wives Club began their gift wrapping booth at the Main PX Mall. All members are reminded that their help is needed to make this project a success and not an ordeal for a few working members. Call Esther Richard and sign up for your turns immediately. She and your President are counting on you.

Muscogee Nursing Home

On Monday November 29th, the NCOWC made their monthly visit to the Nursing Home for fun and games. Mesdames Wayman Howard, Billy Dinnell, James Daley and Gerald Jones were accompanied by other club members on their visit this month. Next month's visit will include a Christmas Party for the patients there.

Youth Activities Cheerleaders

On Friday night November 19th, the Redskins cheerleaders directed by Mrs. Howard Dorr, won 1st place in the cheerleading competition held at the YAC. Participants in this group included: Sheyrl Hutchinson, Dawn Voegeli, Leslie Remencus, Christine Wagstaff, Michele Wagstaff, Tiffany Dorr, Jennifer Jones, Christy Bryson, Beryl Barber, Tracy Scott, and Tausha Rucker.

Youth Activity Football Redskins Win Championship

With the excellent coaching of Butch Wagstaff and assisted by Eli Barber, Tatum and Skip, the Redskins clinched the 1976 Bidby League Championship on November 20th, when they defeated the Steelers 20-8. Team effort throughout the game was truly outstanding.

Responding to the encouragement of the spectators, each player was determined to prove that the Redskins were the champions from kickoff until the final whistle.

The Redskins were really "fired up" and literally dominated the entire game. They scored touchdowns in the 2d, 3d and 4th quarters for the 20 point total, with Tracey Rucker scoring two and Baxter Barber scoring one. The dynamic Redskin defensive unit held the Steelers scoreless until late in the 4th quarter.

The Redskins represented Ft. Benning in the Peanut Bowl at Memorial Stadium in Columbus on Saturday November 27th. Congratulations Redskins for an excellent season.

AMU hosts International Coaches Clinic

International shooting coaches from seven Western Hemispheric countries and Finland recently gathered at Ft. Benning for their annual seminar aimed at raising the level of competitive marksmanship in this part of the world.

Eighty-four coaches from Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Puerto Rico, Canada, and Finland as well as the U. S. descended on the U. S. Army Marksmanship Unit for the weeklong clinic which was punctuated by the social highlight of the week, the 1976 International Catfish Eating Contest.

The annual session is hosted by USAMU, home of U.S., World and Olympic Champions, and generally recognized as the foremost organization of competitive shooting expertise in the world.

Rifle, pistol, running target, trap and skeet were the shooting disciplines included. Emphasis was placed on improving coaching techniques rather than improving the attendees' personal shooting skills.

However, in the case of the running target seminars, instruction was necessarily basic. Running target is a little-known sport in much of the world.

To be a good skeet shooter, a person must have perfect timing. He must know when is the best time to fire at his target so as to ensure a hit. Sp4 Joe Clemmons points out to W.A. Rodil the best position to break a clay pigeon. Rodil from Puerto Rico is attending the International Coaches Clinic at Ft. Benning.

But, the coaches are very interested in making their national teams competitive in this international and Olympic event.

"They're going to have to learn how to shoot it before they can teach it," commented CPT Mike Theimer, Chief of the Running Target Section. "Most of them are smallbore shooters who have never used scopes before. "We're trying to teach them how to use the reticle systems in the scopes."

Theimer hopes that this seminar will help promote this very popular European sport in this part of the world.

In contrast, all of the international trap coaches are accomplished shooters. "We're trying to concentrate on mental training," says Sp4 Dan Carlisle, member of the world record-holding U. S. Trap Team. "They have to learn to concentrate totally and have confidence in themselves so they can teach these techniques to their shooters."

In addition to other things, the pistol section emphasized the importance of timing in rapid fire pistol, an event which requires that competitors "duel" against silhouette targets.

The international rifle section included a class in weather effects and "wind reading" as well as practical exercises in correcting faults in shooters' positions.

The U. S. competes solely against the other Western Hemispheric countries in the Pan American Games and the Championship of the Americas. In recent years, Americans have tended to dominate these competitions. However, these tournaments don't require the same levels of expertise necessary in the European Championships.

Clinics such as the one held last week, promote free exchange of information, raise the level of competition in this hemisphere and generally help Western nations achieve better results in Olympic, World Championships and other international competitions.

fantry Center Chapel. Sponsored by the Protestant Women of the Chapel, the service will be preceded by a fellowship time at 9 a.m. in the annex of the chapel.

The Chrismon Service has become an annual part of the advent season in the Christian Church. A Chrismon is a monogram of Christ. All designs of Chrismon ornaments are symbols for Christ which have passed down through Christian history.

All of the Christian community of Ft. Benning are invited to participate in this service of worship. Free child care will be provided at Tot Town, but reservations will be necessary. Children under six months of age will be cared for at the chapel.

Protestant women are reminded to bring food items for the ACS food locker and new or good used toys for the nursery of the Religious Education Center.

OWC Emblem Design Contest

The OWC of Ft. Benning is sponsoring a postwide contest in search for an emblem which will symbolize the OWC of Ft. Benning. This emblem is visualized as being a permanent insignia which would be instantly recognizable as denoting the club, its members, and their endeavors.

Any active duty military person or their dependent is eligible to enter the contest. The design should be done in pen and ink and should be no larger than 9"x12". The deadline for submitting a design will be December 9th. All entries should include name, address, telephone, and military status (active duty or dependent).

The design may be left in the OWC office — Monday through Thursday between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. All entries become the property of OWC upon submission and if selected will be used on all and any OWC material. Non-selected designs may be reclaimed at the OWC lounge after the winning contributor has been named. A $25 Savings Bond will be awarded to the winner. For further information, please contact Muriel Parrish, 689-6979.

Special Christmas Staining Class

The OWC Ceramic Shop will offer a class on finishing tree ornaments with Aqua Lustres. Samples may be seen in the OWC Ceramic Shop showcase.

Instructions include one finished ornament. Paints will be provided but you must furnish your own brushes. Classes will be held Tuesday, December 7th from 10-12 noon and 7-9 p.m. Cost will be $2 per session. Sign up by calling Diana Landau, 682-0176, or the Ceramic Shop, 687-3939.

OWC School of Dance

All parents of children attending classes at the OWC School of Dance are invited to visit their children's dance class during the week of December 13th - 17th. Refreshments will be served and all the children are looking forward to having you visit their classes.

The Combined Federal Campaign this year raised slightly more than $250,000. United Way's share of this amount is approximately $197,000, which is added to the more than 1.2 millions they raised in the civilian community to help support 28 humanitarian agencies in the area. The Cerebral Palsy Center is one of the agencies. It handles about 60 patients from a seven-county area at its Warm Springs Road location. The Center provides rehabilitative training and therapy to patients who range in age from infants to stroke victims in their sixties.

Christmas seals; working for you

"Christmas Seals are being mailed to 60 million homes, offices and organizations throughout the U.S.," reported Ms. Barbara Murrin, 1976 Christmas Seal chairman for Ft. Benning.

This is in great contrast," Ms. Murrin said, "the first campaign in 1907 totaled $3.00. The final sum for the nationwide campaign last year was over 38 million dollars. Georgia's total was slightly over $700,000."

Only a small percentage, 10 per cent to be exact is paid to the national organization, the American Lung Association, the 90 per cent that's left, stays here in Georgia to help the very community that contributed it.

This year's Christmas Seal drive is geared to meet the needs of a program much wider in scope than the campaign to save a TB sanitarium years ago. It involves the prevention and control of lung diseases afflicting millions of adults and children, the most serious and crippling of which are emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma, and dealing with still persistent problems of TB which are on a far smaller scale today. Air conservation and reduction of cigarette smoking, two of the greatest lung hazards, are also primary objectives of today's Christmas Seal organization.

"Christmas seals are a matter of life and breath," said Ms. Murrin. "We hope the 1976 Christmas Seal campaign will meet with the same public interest and response that was stirred up by the first campaign seven decades ago."

fins, furs, feathers

By Denny Blankenship

It was a disappointing "turkey" weekend for Benning outdoorsmen due to the continuous rainfall during the period. I, like many others, did give the old woods a try though. One thing I found out was that foul weather is definitely not a deterrent to deer hunting. Most deer were on the move throughout the weekend and those I observed were feeding along their merry way in a steady downpour. If you can take it, so can the deer.

The four day doe season accounted for approximately 100 more deer killed to bring last Monday's total to 445 deer for the season. Game officials state that this total is well ahead of last year and that the season total will definitely be up this year. If you didn't bag a doe, don't despair and quit. There's another doe season from the 18th of December through January 1st.

Members of the Post Bass Club braved chilling rains and high winds for their November tournament on Lake Martin.

MSgt. John Campbell was declared the winner after a torturous day of fishing. Campbell caught his limit of fish along steep banks using a Bomber "model A."

Catfish are on the beds now so if you know where there's a sandy bottom in shallow water, you shouldn't have any problem catching some big ones.

Crappie fishing has also started to pick up down on the river. Fish minnows at six to eight feet and you should catch some nice ones. Try the mouths of feeder streams.

Ponder this until next week: A great deal of deer hunting goes on around here but the deer aren't yet aware of it.

The last thing you need is another lecture on how much good the 55 mph speed limit can do.

What you really need to know are the facts.

Fact: If everybody slowed down to 55, we'd save as much as eight and a half million gallons of gasoline a day.

Fact: In 1975, 9400 fewer people were killed on our highways than in 1973, when speed limits were above 55.

The point is, the 55 mph speed limit isn't simply something we can take or leave. It's a law. With tickets and fines and all the rest - just like any other law.

And it's my job to make sure it gets the chance to work.

Not just because it's a good idea. But because it's the law.

OCS Hall of Fame

School namesake inducted

By Betty Zimmerman

A special ceremony inducting LtCol Don C. Faith into the Officer Candidate School's Hall of Fame took place November 18th because of extensive research by two Ft. Benning junior high students.

Linda Fry and Catherine Weiher, writers for the Don C. Faith School newspaper, undertook the project, last spring, to learn more about the Korean War hero who was the school's namesake.

During their research, they discovered that the Medal of Honor winner was an OCS graduate but had not been included in the OSC Hall of Fame.

Prerequisites for OCS graduates inclusion into the Hall of Fame are: they must have obtained the rank of Colonel; or received the Medal of Honor; or been elected to a high state or federal office; or made an outstanding contribution as a civilian to the welfare of the country.

Faith graduated from Ft. Benning's OCS in February 1942. He was killed in action in Korea while commanding the 1st Bn, 32d Inf Regt, 7th Inf Div on December 1, 1950. He was awarded the Medal of Honor, not for one deed, but for five continuous days of valor in combat at the Chosin Reservoir.

Linda and Catherine made over 25 phone calls, wrote at least ten letters, visited the Infantry Museum, three libraries and the post engineers, and they personally interviewed former friends of LtCol. Faith.

One of those interviewed was Miss Mary Alice Arnold, a former Columbus High School teacher and friend of Don Faith. She provided much insight into the feelings of the young man and even furnished letters he had written during World War II.

She attended the ceremony as did retired BrigGen. Marcus B. Bell who was a friend of Faith's family. Faith's father was also a brigadier general and was stationed here at Benning from 1932-35.

During the ceremony, a letter from MajGen. Matthew B. Ridgway was read. During WW II, then Cpt. Faith was Aide de Camp to Gen. Ridgway in Europe.

The girls were commended for doing an outstanding job with their research project and bringing to light the omission of Faith's name on the Hall of Fame roster.

The two people responsible for researching Don C. Faith's life history and discovering his omission from the OCS Hall of Fame are Linda Fry (r) and Catherine Weiher (c). Miss Mary Alice Arnold was a former teacher of Lt Col. Faith and helped the girls immensely.

Shape up or ship out

By Chuck Blische

Fat cat troopers with "pot-bellies" to boot had better plan to start shapin' up. The latest word from DA is that fat is out. Active and Reserve Component (RC) soldiers should see increased command emphasis being placed on physical training and weight control programs early next year.

The revised Army Reg 600-9 — "The Army Physical Fitness and Weight Control Program" — calls for revitalization of current policies. Every officer and soldier, regardless of age or duty assignment, will engage in an effective PT program on a regular year-round basis.

Tougher standards will soon require everyone under 40 years old to take a PT test. And, according to the reg, be expected to pass it. Troops in school—eight weeks or longer — must also pass the test. A failure will be recorded in the soldier's academic report.

Trainees who fail a PT test will receive intensive training and be tested again prior to the end of the training cycle. A second failure at this time will result in either recycling, assignment to a special training company or appropriate administrative action — which could include a discharge from the Army.

Army personnel 40 years and older are

Benning to participate

Holiday parade slated

By Betty Zimmerman

Ft. Benning personnel will join Columbus merchants and organizations in presenting a gigantic Christmas parade on December 14th.

Over 120 units will participate in this colorful event which will feature several high school bands, two units of baton twirlers, a clown unit from Taylor County, and floats, floats, floats.

The parade will begin at 13th Street and 3rd Avenue at 6 p.m. It will proceed west to Broadway where it will turn left and continue down Broadway to 6th Street where it will disperse.

The post will furnish a six-man color guard, the Infantry Chorus, the 283rd Army Band, ten floats, and nine members of the Ft. Benning Hunt Club on horseback. The Chief of Staff, Col. John Henchmen, will represent the Commanding General and accompany Columbus Mayor Jack Mickle in the VIP vehicle.

"An Old Fashion Christmas" is the theme of the float from the 36th Engr Gp. It will feature "Johnny Comes Marching Home Again" with a WW I trooper and log cabin.

The 34th Med Bn will have a float depicting an astronaut on the moon.

The youth activities section of recreation services will put together a scene with a Christmas tree and packages.

The wives clubs are preparing two beautiful floats. The officers wives will have the "Benning Belles," a snowman, tree and bay window while the NCO wives will build a living room scene complete with a fireplace and a father carrying in the freshly cut tree.

Another float will be by the Explorer Scout Troop 76 and it will feature a large drum with drum and fife members on the top.

The School Brigade float will show an outdoor scene with a colonial soldier, a horse and wagon and a Christmas tree.

The 25-foot float from the 197th Inf Bde will tell the story of the "CAT" brigade by featuring a huge black panther and the shields of the seven battalions in the brigade. A tape backdropped with Christmas music will give the unit's history and there will also be two soldiers representing 1776 and 1976.

Naturally, Santa Claus will be there, so pick your place somewhere on Broadway between 6th and 13th Street and be prepared to watch an hour and a half of Christmas spirit.

not required to take the PT test. However, they will be required to participate in a physical fitness program of some sort.

A revised weight table is listed as an appendix to the fitness reg. Weights are set according to a person's height. This table is different in one respect from the old chart in that there are no references made to age. According to the table, if you are 5'9" you should weight between 119 and 186 — whether you are 18 or 48 years old.

The terms obese and overweight are further defined in Chapter 2 of the reg. Obesity is not the same as being overweight. Being overweight means that the individual's weight exceeds the standards listed on the weight table. And being overweight does not necessarily mean that the problem is due to fat. Some troops are big-boned and muscular and may be overweight — without being fat — when compared to persons with average builds.

Obesity will be determined by a physician at the local medical treatment facility. The reg defines obesity as a type of weight problem caused by excess fat. Obese soldiers, according to DA standards, are always overweight for their build and sex.

Commanders have been tasked with reexamining their physical conditioning programs and policies. In addition, they are to insure that all common members understand the necessity for maintaining a satisfactory level of fitness. The reg notes that troops should strive for a level of fitness that will permit total performance of assigned duties in a combat environment.

The responsibility for keeping physically fit and maintaining proper body weight rests with the individual soldier. Commanders will continuously monitor all command members to insure that they maintain proper weight, according to DA officials. Soldiers who aren't keeping up with Army standards will be identified.

Special emphasis will be directed to identification early in a soldier's career, DA officials say. The more years of service a member has, the more difficult it is to make a decision that could result in an early end to that person's career. The reg notes that as age increases so do the difficulties of losing and maintaining weight within acceptable limits.

Commanders have been instructed to administer corrective actions and educate and train these persons in the merits of maintaining proper weight. Those who fail to lose weight — even after participation in a fitness program — will be referred to a doctor and placed in the weight control program.

At this time, the soldier must respond or face the consequences. Neglect for maintaining one's weight may be reflected on the next efficiency report. In addition, a long and persistent history of being fat and a failure to respond to the Army-directed weight loss program may result in the person being considered for elimination from the service because of unsuitability.

If the medical officer discovers no underlying disease as the cause of the soldier's condition and classifies the person as obese or overweight, the doctor will certify this fact and recommend a diet and/or exercise program.

Realistic weight loss goals will be set to include the number of pounds to be lost and the number of weeks given to lose the weight. Weigh-ins will be made every two weeks to determine progress. The commander will administratively remove the individual from the program once the set goals have been met, according to the reg.

Those not meeting goals after a set period of dieting and exercise will be referred to the doctor for reevaluation. If the doctor determines that satisfactory progress is being made — even though certain standards were not met — one six-month extension (one year for RC troops) may be granted.

If satisfactory progress has not been made after the extension, it may be concluded that the condition is due to apathy or lack of self-discipline. These persons will be recommended for bars to reenlistment or discharges from the service.

Face it... you're FAT

By George Sungy Jr.

Are you really FAT? It's hard to get a person to admit that he or she is really fat. Generally, people prefer to think of themselves as being a little heavy, large boned, or muscular and solid. To admit being FAT is to admit failure, to acknowledge that you're on the decline — on a highway marked by declining vigor, declining resistance to disease, declining appeal to the opposite sex, and declining longevity.

Many of the ills awaiting at the door of advancing age actually should be blamed on obesity. The public has come to consider a little plumpness as an indication of health. Actually, OVERWEIGHT, even a little, is a health hazard. The more overweight, the greater the hazard.

Think for a moment — if you could lose enough weight to be considered "average," maybe for the first time in your life, your only life would be much improved.

You would have less of a chance of getting diabetes, high blood pressure, heart disease, kidney disease, and many more; you would have greater success if you ever needed surgery; have a greater tolerance to exercise; you would look better, feel better, and gain more respect from your friends. Finally, you would have less mental discomfort and less anxiety.

Three "Super Soldiers" from the United States Army Infantry Board attained 1484 points out of a possible 1500 points on their PT test recently.

Col. Willys E. Davis, Deputy President of the Infantry Board, scored 497, closely followed by SFC William E. Pittman and SP4 Sylvester Young Jr. (r) who logged 494 and 493 points respectively. Each of the three men also participated in marathon runs at Ft. Benning. Davis took first place in his age category in a 13.1-mile mini-marathon, and Pittman and Young competed in 10-mile events.

Benning 'Super Soldiers'

It appears that running five miles in 42 minutes was not a great enough challenge for Sgt. Chris Martin, C-2-1. Martin recently donned his mask again; this time for the Advanced Physical Fitness Test. He maxed it with a score of 500 points.

SFC Robert Newsome of the 524th Personnel Service Company, 36th Engr Gp was presented a Letter of Commendation by Maj. Gen. Willard Latham for managing the post's 'Best Small Unit Dining Facility of the Quarter. Awards for foods service excellence are not new to Newsome. He has been recognized for dedication to duty and superior knowledge of food preparation and mess operation many times by the 36th Gp. "This award means quite a bit to me but it could not have been possible without the combined effort of all the members of the dining facility staff. They are responsible for its success," Newsome said with a knowing grin.

Engineers -- World War II, 1944

Editor's Note: Quotes in the following article were taken from publications describing actions taken by engineer soldiers in World War II. It is not the intent of the writer to portray the engineer in a poor light, but rather, to site his unpreparedness to assume an Infantry role in combat in the past.

Then

Battlefield reports from North Africa to southern Italy during World War II were full of praise for the engineer soldier. That same engineer soldier while praised for his ability to perform as an engineer — building bridges and roads — was chastised for his inability to perform as an Infantryman — green, unpolished, unprepared.

As one private expressed his contempt for his lack of training: "I know so well those men were cut to ribbons . . . , and I know why . . . they were thrown into confusion, panicked by attacks, and accepted their fate almost paralyzed."

"When they jumped in foxholes to let tanks roll over them, and were bayoneted in those foxholes by the infantry that came behind the tanks, they died with an astonished look on their faces, as if they wanted to ask: 'Could that be possible, would they really do that?'"

• • •

Engineers were trained to be just that — engineers. Why should they be expected to understand other than engineer functions.

• • •

When he visited the command post of the 143d Infantry . . . to discuss the operation, now three days away, Berry, (an engineer battalion commander), was somewhat shocked by the cavalier attitude he found. "The infantry greeted me warmly," he said,

"but when it came to business, treated me casually."

What bothered Berry was the failure of the infantry and engineers to have developed a close coordination founded on mutual appreciation of each other's capabilities and limitations. For an assault against a defended river line, and particularly at the Rapido, the closest kind of teamwork was necessary.

• • •

Many infantrymen resented or ignored orders given by engineers. Lack of familiarity on the part of one branch with the techniques of the other provoked misunderstanding; both, as someone said later, "had their share of the foul-ups."

• • •

An engineer, is an engineer, is-engineer.

Engineers -- Ft. Benning, 1976

Now

Today's engineer soldier is more than the hammer and nail, make a bridge construction man of the past armed conflict in which he participated.

"In World War II the engineers did poorly when called upon to perform infantry duties," stated LTC Wallace Franklin, the 36th Engr Gp executive officer. "What we learned in past conflict we carried with us and practiced on the battlefield as late as the Viet Nam era."

The philosophy of the Corps of Engineers is now directed toward more infantry training as evidenced by the conversion of engineer units in the 36th from construction to combat heavy units.

Developing the "fighting engineer" is not an easy task. This must be accomplished through intense physical and mental training. He must be able to perform under simulated and actual combat conditions and accomplish his duties — fighting and construction to facilitate the movement of friendly forces.

"Unlike many specialties, the engineer is more than merely an engineer. He must be willing and able to perform his duties under adverse conditions; excelling not only at tasks for which he is technically prepared, but also those in which he is tactically proficient," added Franklin.

The 43rd Engr Bn (Combat Heavy) recently participated in an Army Training Evaluation Program, in which their ability to perform combined engineer and infantry missions was tested under simulated combat conditions.

Today's combat engineer is proficient in his chosen specialty — construction, demolition and heavy equipment operation. Additionally, he is prepared to take up arms and to fight as an Infantryman. His training emphasizes both roles. Here members of the 586th Float Bridge Company, 36th Engr Gp (CBT) construct a light tactical raft to facilitate the movement of friendly forces.

The unique combination of construction specialist and fighter produces something more than the pioneer Infantrymen who served in armies of the past.

Applying his civil training in the latest construction techniques and use of equipment combined with continuing emphasis on Infantry skills, the engineer of today is prepared to meet the challenge. The unprepared engineer of battles past has become obsolete.

"Our credibility with the Infantryman must remain firm," added Franklin. "We must understand each others capabilities and limitations, iron out our differences and accomplish our missions. The training we emphasize in Infantry tactics and missions has aided significantly in creating a setting for mutual understanding."

The key to success in today's Army is maximum utilization of the combined arms team, of which the engineer is a major player. His ability to perform both roles — engineer and infantry man — could easily make the difference on the modern battlefield.

Black receives AUSA award

Charles Black (l), Contributing Editor to the Enquirer, is presented an Association of the U. S. Army desk plaque by Chapter President Brown Nicholson Jr. The award was given at the December 1st, AUSA Dinner Meeting at Benning's Top 5 NCO Club for Black's "timely, accurate and thorough reporting on AUSA and the Army."

The holiday season for the Allied Students going through IOAC-5 was kicked off Tuesday night at the Officers' Supper Club, with the twenty students receiving honorary membership in the Association of the United States Army.

On hand to present the AUSA memberships were R. LeGrand Hinson Sr., Chairman of the Allied Students Committee, and USAIC Chief of Staff Col. John Henschman who presented the students with the Distinctive Allied Insignia. Prior to this, the Head Allied Officer, Col. Thamier Al-Sadoon of Saudi Arabia gave Col. Henschman a plaque with all of the students names and countries inscribed. Col. Al-Sadoon, in his closing speech, told everyone there how much all the Allied Students valued the information they have already learned and the respect and freindships they have made.

A surprise visit from Santa Claus, along with the singing of Christmas carols by Phillipino and Spanish speaking students highlighted the evening. Entertainment for the evening included a musical ensemble and the artistic dancing of 'Sabdah,' also known as Mrs. Janet Barber.

Allied Students coming to Ft. Benning have both military and civilian sponsors who volunteer to help the students with their adjustment to American living. Both the sponsors and the students benefit from this arrangement. The exchanging of customs and the way of life in different countries is a learning experience for all, and a rewarding one.

The Allied Students Training Division is always welcoming new sponsors for the students. Any officers who are interested, should contact Mrs. Osterburg at 545-3894.

Now that's entertainment! A highlight of the Allied Students Christmas party on Tuesday night was the superb dancing of Mrs. Janet Barber, alias 'Sabdah' who everyone enjoyed... especially 1stLt. Al-Badah of Saudi Arabia.

Expert Field Medical Badge

39 compete for coveted award

The distaff side of the Medical Corps was represented at the Expert Field Medical Badge Test by CWO2 Joann Dingley (I) 197th Inf Bde, who completes the communication part of the test under the watchful eye of a grader, PFC Geneva Turner, 34th Med Bn. Dingley was also one of the 10 successful candidates for the Expert Field Medical Badge out of 39 participants.

Thirty-nine candidates representing units of Forts Benning and Rucker competed in testing for the Expert Field Medical Badge (EFMB) conducted at Ft. Benning by the 34th Med Bn last week.

In the test which provides recognition to members of the Army Medical Corps who demonstrate the highest level of proficiency in field medical functions, military knowledge, physical fitness and leadership, members of the 34th Med Bn, 36th Engr Gp, 197th Inf Bde and the 427th Med Co, Ft. Rucker participated.

The first day of the five-day test began with the Advanced Physical Fitness Test in which Pvt. Joseph Oglesby, 690th Med Co netted the high score of 431 points.

This was followed by the Litter Obstacle Course which requires the candidates to operate in four-man litter teams and transport a litter-patient through a 250-meter obstacle course. The course consists of a series of hills, ditches, barriers, a culvert and a stream. Successful negotiation requires both strength and stamina and a knowledge of the proper methods and techniques of litter bearing without causing further injury or discomfort to the patient.

A written test covering all facets of military field medicine was given the morning of the second day. Since medics must also be able to find their way across country, the written test was followed by a day and night compass course. This narrowed the field of competitors for the coveted badge.

The third day of the test involved candidates in the real meat of the problem — a series of stations requiring them to demonstrate their knowledge of and skill in several of general military and medical subjects. Areas of concentration on the test were military courtesy and discipline, military intelligence, field sanitation and hygiene, map reading and use of the compass, transportation of the sick and wounded, basic signal communications, bandaging and splinting, chemical, biological and nuclear warfare, emergency medical treatment procedures and medical records.

The last event was the forced road march. In this event the candidates were required to march a 12-mile distance in three consecutive hours. The fastest time was recorded by PFC David Gottlieb, 690th Med Co Battalion who completed the 12 miles in 2 hours, 15 minutes.

Expert Field Medical Badges were awarded to the 10 successful candidates by Maj Gen. Joseph P. Kingston, Office of Chief of Staff for Operations, Washington, D.C., in ceremonies conducted in the headquarters of the 34th Med Bn on November 30th.

Choose toys wisely

Many toys that are safe for older children can be dangerous in the hands of infants and toddlers. They just don't realize that sharp points and edges are hazardous, and that small pieces aren't meant to be put in the mouth.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission recommends that when you choose a toy for an infant or small child, select one that:

- Is too large to be swallowed;
- Does not have detachable small parts that can lodge in the windpipe, ears, or nostrils;
- Is not apt to break easily into small pieces nor leave jagged edges;
- Does not have sharp edges nor points;
- Has not been put together with straight pins, sharp wires, nails, etc. that might be easily exposed;
- Is not made of glass nor brittle plastic;
- Is labeled "Non-toxic"; avoid painted toys for infants who put playthings in the mouth;
- Does not have parts that can pinch fingers or toes nor catch hair;
- Does not have cords nor strings more than 12 inches in length. (Courtesy of NSC Publications).

Chemical warfare--a military reality

"The Congress must come to grips with reality, as unpleasant as any involvement with chemical warfare may be, and provide the means to create a safe retaliatory stockpile."

This conclusion was reached by the Association of the United States Army in a position paper titled, "Chemical Warfare — A Military Reality," which documents the decision by the Soviet Union to use deadly war gases as part of its tactical plan to overrun NATO forces in Europe.

While the United States has foresworn the "first use" of chemical agents in any future war, the long-standing position of the U. S. government, through several administrations, has been to maintain a viable capability to retaliate if another country breaks the Geneva Convention ban on deadly chemicals.

Congress has been generous in providing funding for research and procurement in defensive equipment and the Army is in good shape in those areas, the paper says. The retaliatory stockpile is another matter.

The stockpile is in the form of tons of nerve gas stored in weapons and bulk containers at Denver's Rocky Mountain Arsenal and other locations. As the material ages and leaks are found it must be destroyed. Since there are no operating nerve gas plants the stockpile cannot be replenished.

Army scientists have developed a "binary system" in which two non-toxic materials are combined to form nerve gas just before the artillery shell or aerial bomb they are in is detonated over an enemy. One of the components is not even loaded until just before firing. A stockpile of binary weapons would eliminate current safety and shelf-life problems.

So far Congress has declined to fund construction of a binary production facility. The AUSA position paper sets the scene for a reversal of this position.

Copies of the position papers are available at the Post Public Affairs Office, Room 602, Infantry Hall.

Cigarette prices up

The price of PX cigarettes has gone up 20 cents for the second time in about a year, according to AAFES officials. The last increase took place in December 1975. Both price hikes were brought about by higher manufacturer charges. In the U. S., the carton price of king-sized cigarettes has risen to $3.55 and 10 cents more for 100 and 120 millimeter varieties. In overseas areas, king-sized now cost $2.85. A carton of extra-longs now sells for $2.95. If you buy them by the pack, it will cost you a nickel more in CONUS, up to 40 cents from 35. Overseas, the pack price will remain 30 cents. (ARNEWS).

DEAD BATTERY?

Watch Your Step When You Jump!

Jump starting seems an ideal way to save the day when you are stranded in a vehicle with a dead battery. Now that jumper cables are available to most drivers, more and more cases of loss of sight, facial disfigurement and even death are occurring when auto batteries suddenly explode while attempting a jump start.

To help prevent this from happening, never connect the cables to the four battery terminals. Instead follow these steps:

- Attach the red cable to the positive dead battery terminal and then to the positive live or booster battery terminal.
- Attach the black cable from the negative live battery terminal to the engine block of the vehicle with the dead battery. . . well away from the battery.
- Stay away from the area of the batteries when you attempt to start the disabled vehicle.

To remove the cables, reverse this process.

Disconnect the black cable from the engine block and from the negative live terminal. Then disconnect the red cable from the positive booster and finally from the positive dead battery terminal.

No one should feel lonesome at Christmas. Even people who don't have families of their own. The Salvation Army becomes a sort of second "family" for many during the holiday season. Old people in nursing homes. The man or woman serving time in prison. An alcoholic drifter who has lost touch with his own family. Little children whose parents can't afford to buy toys — they find that they haven't been left out at Christmas.

The Salvation Army is busy every day of the year helping needy people — but especially at Christmas. That's why I think all of us should support The Salvation Army — especially at Christmas. You can help others have a happy holiday by giving to The Salvation Army.

Tot Town Annex provides added services

By Betty Zimmerman

As a result of numerous suggestions by users of the post nursery services, changes in policy, hours of operation, appointment procedures and other areas of operation have been initiated.

The most significant change will be in the hours of operation of the Tot Town Annex located in the Ft. Benning Mall. It now offers all-day child care from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. with not limit on the hours that a child may be left at the facility. Additionally, hot lunches will be served, however, parents may also leave sack lunches for the children if they so desire.

The nursery annex location in the Mall area is ideal for persons using the PX or commissary and is significantly closer to Martin Army Hospital than the main post facility.

Nursery board chairman, Susan Legare, said there have also been changes made affecting both facilities. They now have an open door policy regarding parents touring the nurseries.

They have hired more employees while at the same time reducing the number of children allowed in the nursery at any one time, thus providing more individualized service.

Their programs have been revamped to provide more variety and interest. The older age group (3 years and older) has been divided further into peer groups. The supervisor, Mrs. Ida Barnes, emphasized that even though Tot Town is a babysitting service not a day care center, they try to maintain the children's interest through art, music, games, toys, puzzles, slide shows and television.

Another innovation takes effect January 1st. Reservations by telephone will be possible if the caller has first posted a $10 deposit. This deposit will cover the entire time a family spends at Benning and will be refunded if they do not abuse the telephone reservation privilege. However, if you have a reservation and do not show, you may go to the nursery and pay for the time your child would have been there. This will enable you to retain your $10 deposit and preclude forfeiting it. The former method of personally making the reservation at the nursery with a $1 fee will still be available to those not wishing to post the $10 deposit.

The nursery is also available for late openings for any group which can guarantee sufficient patronage to make it worthwhile to the nursery facility.

The DUSA sponsored nurseries are non-profit and even with the recent rate increase to 50 cents an hour, they usually operate in the red. DUSA, by the way, is an organization whose members are adult daughters of United States Army officers.

Christmas Tree safety could prevent tragedy

With Christmas right around the corner, the Consumer Product Safety Commission reminds all of us that a fresh tree will stay green longer and is less of a fire hazard than a dry tree. To check for freshness, remember:

- A fresh tree is green;
- Fresh needles are hard to pull from the branches;
- When bent between your fingers, fresh needles do not break;
- The trunk of a fresh tree is sticky with resin;
- When the trunk of a tree is bounced on the ground, a shower of falling needles shows that the tree is too dry.

Do not rely on only chemical coatings or sprays to flameproof your tree.

Place tree carefully, away from fireplaces, radiators, and other heat sources. See that it is out of the way of traffic and doesn't block doorways.

Cut off about two inches of the trunk and mount tree in a sturdy, water-holding stand with widespread legs. Fasten large tree to walls or ceiling with thin guy wires. They'll be nearly invisible.

Fill base holder with water and keep it full while tree is indoors. Remember, heated rooms dry trees out rapidly, creating fire hazards.

When it comes time to decorate your tree, make sure that the ornaments you use are fire-resistant. Check the lights for frayed wires and broken sockets before they are on the tree. When using lights both as indoor and as tree decoration remember conservation. Indoor display lighting on post is allowed during the holiday season from 6-10 p. m. daily. On Christmas Eve and until 2 a. m. Christmas morning, lighting may be left on.

Let's make sure that this Christmas, our nation's 200th, is a safe one.

Keep poisons out of kiddies' reach

Poisons are killers and their primary targets are children.

The majority of the poisoning accidents which occur every year take place at home where children, aged five and under, spend the better part of their time.

Children's curiosity tempts them to taste new things, often pretty pills and liquids.

'Pretty pills and liquids' are often mistaken by youngsters for candy, soda pop or milk. They turn out to be weed killers, pesticides, prescription and patent medicines, household cleaners, cosmetics or lotions, all of which are poisonous; some more than others.

Parents can protect their children by being aware of the danger of poisonous materials and by storing them in a safe place. Tips to follow when putting poisons out of reach are:

- Put all prescription and patent drugs under lock and key.
- Don't give children empty medicine bottles.
- Rinse out bleach, ammonia, clorox, gasoline and turpentine containers before throwing them out.
- Put all cleaning agents, waxes, polishes, insecticides and weed killers out of sight and reach of children.
- Never leave poisonous substances unattended.
- Tell children what is poisonous and what it can do to them.
- Never coax a child to take aspirin or any medication by calling it 'candy'.
- Re-seal all child-proof safety caps with tape.
- Don't switch any household chemicals or medication from one bottle to another without also switching the original label.
- Storing poisons near food could result in a fatal mix-up.

If the unexpected does happen, the following steps should be taken:

- Call for help.
- Keep the child warm and try to find out exactly what he ate or drank. If possible, find and keep the container. That will help in giving the proper antidote.

New Year's Eve Party

Are you looking for a quiet, non-alcoholic, family-type party place where you can welcome the New Year? The Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229, will host such a party from 8 p.m.-1 a.m. on December 31st. There will be dancing from recorded music, games and fun for children and adults, party favors and refreshments. For reservations, please call 545-4404/1375 beginning December 17th from 1-10 p.m. Monday thru Saturday. Reservation deadline is December 26th.

Christmas Eggnog Party

Kelley Hill will be celebrating the holiday season with a Christmas Eggnog Party, December 24th at 7:30 p.m. Prizes, refreshments and fun galore for everyone! For information, call 544-1721.

New Year's Eve Party

Bring on the New Year at the Mall Bowling Center. Recreation Services will host a New Year's Eve Party which will include all night bowling, party favors, refreshments, dancing, and breakfast. The festivities will start December 31st at 11 p.m. and continue until 4 a.m. The lounge will be open for cash-bar services. Reservations may be made at the Mall Bowling until 6 p.m. December 31st. For additional information, call 544-1985. The Mall Bowling Center will be open on Christmas and New Year's Day, 12-11 p.m.

"A Hundred Years of Christmas"

Do you automatically smile when you think of Santa Claus and his merry little elves hard at work this time of year? Or do you need a little dose of Christmas spirit? Either way, the Fort Benning Dramatizers

Ft. Benning Boy Scouts will do a good turn for Goodwill Industries on Saturday, December 11th. Recently the scouts distributed Goodwill bags to quarters throughout post. Donations of clothing, small housewares and electrical appliances placed in the bags outside your front door will be picked up by the scouts. Please have the bags ready by 9 am.

Special volunteers needed by ACS

Would you like to be a special ACS volunteer? We need your help with emergency situations.

The Ft. Benning Army Community Service is compiling a list of volunteers for emergency babysitting. These people will be called if an emergency should occur where children would have to be cared for due to the hospitalization of parents or in situations where parents, friends or relatives aren't available to care for the children.

For example: Sgt. and Mrs. John Doe, have two children. They have been in an auto accident, and must remain a day or two in the hospital. They have just moved to Ft. Benning and they do not know anyone. It will be a few days before someone in their family could arrive to help out and they don't know which way to turn. At this point they should be able to call Army Community Service for help.

We need sufficient volunteers so that no one volunteer would be overtaxed. The volunteer would receive full credit for being an ACS volunteer even though they might only be on a list waiting to be called. This service is a real gift of love.

Potential volunteers discuss this with your husband and if you're interested please call Elaine Brady or Alice Geary at ACS 545-1169 1233.

The Ad Hoc Committee of concerned outdoorsmen, headed by Col. Hinds held a meeting last week to discuss their progress to date. A few complaints of Benning outdoorsmen were aired and corrective action is being initiated. These folks are very sincere in their efforts and certainly have your interest at heart. Keep in mind, if you have a complaint or suggestion let the committee know. If you have forgotten who to call, contact LtCol. Russell, MTU at 545-1677.

Many favorable comments were received concerning the article last week about the Fish and Wildlife Management Branch, DAFE. I wasn't really surprised when many folks weren't aware that this highly important group of people existed, much less what they were involved in. If you have a comment of any kind, call 545-6120. I'm sure they'll appreciate it.

For all you sharpshooters and those who like competition, there's a Turkey Shoot scheduled for Sunday, December 12th at Phillips Range. Weapons will be shotguns, 22 rifles and pistols. Ammunition will be available. Shooting time will be between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. and a good thing is that a Turkey will be given away for every ten shooters. For further information about this Shoot, call 545-7022.

Deer season is rolling right along and all indications that the bigger deer are starting to come up out of the swamps. I wasn't too surprised when a friend, Capt. Ray McCormick stopped by the house the other evening with a nice ten-pointer he killed in the Lightning Road area. I had been rag-mouthing Ray about a doe he had killed earlier. (My excuse is I only hunt for trophy deer). I ended up with my mouth getting the best of me again. Congratulations Ray. It must have been amateur luck.

Conditions are so bad that I don't even want to mention fishing this week so all you fishermen will have to settle for the following.

I know a fisherman a while back who flipped out and went completely nuts. It got so bad that all he wanted to do was roar up and down the river wide-open with his 150 Merc. This in itself wasn't so bad except that when he reached the flat-out stage with his powerful engine, he would suddenly throw it in reverse, causing the boat to do a coupla back flips, ricochet off the banks and the engine to smoke like hell. After finally bringing the boat under control, this particular fellow would sit there and smell the smoking engine. This was how he got his kicks see. Smelling the smoking engine sent him to that great Lake in the sky. Well, one day a unknowing friend of mine agreed to go fishing with this nut. Sure enough, he opened her up all the way and they were zipping along at about 5600 rpm when the nut throws the engine in reverse. After flipping around three times and tearing up 500 yards of shoreline, he finally brought what was left of the boat under control, sniffed the air and said, "umm boy, smell that." My thoroughly shook friend answered, "smell it hell man. I'm sitting in it."

Ponder this until next week: If you want to drive your wife crazy, don't talk in your sleep just smile.

Linguist requirements may change

The Army may have some sweeping policy changes in the mill relating to foreign language proficiency. According to DA staffers, a recent Army Linguist Personnel Study (ALPS) has come up with some recommendations to help keep pace with Army requirements in the identification, training, and retention of trained linguists.

The details of the new policy include:

- All officers are encouraged to attain at least an elementary proficiency in a foreign language.
- Officers and Warrant Officers in the intelligence or area specialty fields must have proficiency in a foreign language.
- Noncom and other enlisted are encouraged to attain an elementary language proficiency.
- Noncom and others enlisted in linguist MOSs must maintain the required level of proficiency.
- Training time will be provided by the Army for acquiring and maintaining language proficiency.

- Language and educational programs will be emphasized to provide the means for learning and staying current in a language.
- Strong command emphasis will be placed on the development and maintenance of language skills.

Officer linguists will continue to be managed under OPMS and enlisted linguists under CMF. DA staffers say the present management systems are capable of managing the program.

The development of a career progression to E-9 as well as enlistment and reenlistment incentives in the linguist program will be an important factor in the retention of linguists, according to the study.

The Defense Language Institute (DLI) has the responsibility for all language training except in dependent schools and the Service academies. According to ALPS, the DLI is expected to be able to meet the Army's linguist training needs through FY 81. (ARNEWS)

Christmas musical has something for everyone

By Joe Hilton

For those who feel talent, genius and creativity are forever stifled in the military environment, let us call your attention to Chief Warrant Officer James Walters, 43rd Engr. Bn., and family.

A hundred Years of Christmas, an original musical written by James Walters, Martha Walters, Chairel Walters, Jacqueline Kaupinsky and Burton Taylor, is before the footlights nightly at the Benning Playhouse through December 12th.

The musical is centered around the Beckerman Family who immigrated to the United States from Germany in 1899. The plot, traces the Beckerman Family through World War I, the Depression, World War II, today and on to the finale — a space age Christmas.

The play was written two years ago as a special Christmas gift for the Hanau, Germany military and civilian community. "We felt that we needed a show that is universal for children, for grown-ups, for everyone," said director-co-writer Martha Walters.

"Staging a Ft. Benning production was not easy," Martha Walters explained, "Originally the play was written for a different type of theater and audience, so several segments had to be rewritten for the Ft. Benning Playhouse."

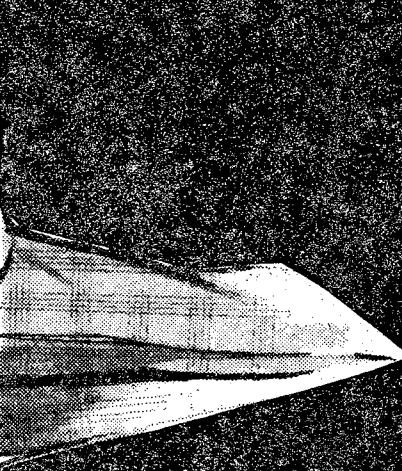

Miss Chariel Walters, daughter of Jim and Martha who recently appeared in Hot L Baltimore at Columbus College, added a special touch of song with Christmas in Kilarney, Silver Bells and Christmas Waltz.

"I have been associated with Army theater since I can remember and I love it," said Chariel "after graduation from Columbus College I would like to work for the Army as a theater director.

An extremely creative scene, The Toyland Dream, features a ballerina (Le Ann Taylor), a bear (Robert Munro), two soldiers (Jay Barber and Earlie Butler), jack-in-the-box (Mike Thomas), and rag dolls (Janie Kerr and Garth Harris) all come to life in colorful costumes and animated movements.

Santa Claus, characterized by Jim Walters, proposes a special message for children about the true meaning of Christmas. An extra treat comes at the end of each performance when Jim appears in the lobby offering candy and Christmas wishes to the younger attendants.

Musical highlights of the program included favorites like: O Holy Night, It Came Upon A Midnight Clear, Frosty the Snowman, White Christmas, What Child is This and The Christmas Song.

'Forever Forward'

Ivey to command 2/69th

In a colorful mounted review ceremony, LtCol. Herman V. Ivey assumed command of the 2d Battalion, 69th Armor at the Combined Arms Field, recently.

Succeeding LtCol. John Tedesco, LtCol. Ivey comes to the "Forever Forward" 197th Inf Bde from his duties as Chief, Alcohol and Drug Abuse Control Office, V Corps, USAREUR.

LtCol. Ivey is a graduate of West Point and the Armed Forces Staff College. Since his graduation from the USMA, he has served with the 52d Avn Bn and the 101st Abn Div in Vietnam, the 2d Ar Div in Europe. He returned to West Point as an Assistant Professor of English and served as the Asst G-1 with the 1st Ar Div at Ft. Hood, TX.

LtCol. Tedesco served as the commander of the 2/69th from May 1975. His new assignment will be with the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, DA.

Rotary Club to visit

Demonstrations of rappelling from helicopters and MOBA will highlight the visit of the Rotary Club of East Columbus to the 197th Inf Bde.

The "Forever Forward" Bde will host the Rotary Club on December 14th. The guests will visit various troop areas of the Brigade including tours of billets, dayrooms and training areas. They will be treated to lunch in a 197th dining facility. Various displays of M-60 tanks, MICV, APC and other special weapons used by the Brigade will provide the Rotarians with an insight to the Army's Combined Arms Team concept.

Soldier of Month

Sp5 James Moore, Co B, 197th Spt Bn was recently named the 197th Inf Bde Soldier of the Month for November.

Sp5 Moore competed against six other members of his battalion for the chance to appear before the brigade board. Questions were asked in such areas as basic weapons, first aid, current events, history of Ft. Benning and other general military knowledge.

Sp5 Moore has been assigned to the 'Forever Forward' brigade since August.

When asked about his future plans, Sp5 Moore said, "I would like once again to be able to attend jump school and volunteer for Special Forces training."

For his outstanding achievement, he received a brigade certificate of achievement, a $25 Savings Bond, a four-day pass and exemption from the duty roster for 30 days.

Cook of Month

Sp4 Steven Lindley, HHC, 3/7th Inf, 197th Inf Bde has been selected 197th Inf Bde Cook of the Month. Sp4 Lindley and four other members appeared before the brigade board to compete for the title.

"I did quite a bit of studying and I guess it paid off," Lindley remarked. "I'm sure glad that I received the help from the people I work with because it helped me a lot."

While before the board, he was judged on such things as personal appearance, knowledge of his MOS, general military knowledge and current events.

"Most of the questions asked of me when I appeared before the board were related to my MOS," he explained. "With all the studying I did, plus practical experience, I didn't have any problems at all."

Sp4 Lindley entered the Army March 1976 after serving four years in the Navy.

For his outstanding efforts in winning the Brigade Cook of the Month competition, he will be presented a brigade certificate of achievement, a $25 Savings Bond and a four-day pass.

stand ready to provide the place, the time and the show. It's called "A Hundred Years of Christmas," and it has that warm, bittersweet, happy quality that Christmas brings to most people. It tells us of the Beckerman family ... their album of Christmas memories from the past, with a little trip into the future. But add to that the fact that their dreams and fantasies are also coming true, and you have a pretty amazing combination. Performances will be conducted at the Ft. Benning Playhouse, Bldg 1237, as follows:

December 9th, 10th, 11th at 8 a.m.

December 5th and 12th at 2 and 8 p.m.

For information and reservations, call 545-5057. Admission is free. The public is invited.

Christmas Dance

Come, join in the fun and excitement and dance to the best of Ernie B & the Night Shift, at the Main Post Recreation Center. Dance starts at 7:30 p.m. and everyone is invited.

"Parents without Partners"

"Parents Without Partners" will hold an Orientation Meeting at the Main Post Recreation Center, Bldg 229, on Monday, December 13th at 8 p.m. All single parents including active and retired military are invited to attend. Custody of children is not a factor; however, it is mandatory that you be a single parent by reason of divorce, separation, widowed, or never having been married. Capt. Jerry Caldwell, Social Worker at Martin Army Hospital, will be our guest speaker for the evening. The President, Brenda Dunning, and other members of the Board of Directors will be there to answer questions and inform you of what PWP is all about. For more information, call membership director, Ms. Gay, 323-9685.

Pinochle Marathon

A Pinochle Marathon will be conducted at the Main Post Recreation Center, December 11th at 1:30 p.m. All active and retired military, DAC, NAF personnel and their dependents 19 years of age and older are invited to participate. If you like double deck pinochle and the hours involved in an exciting game, we invite you to join us on December 11th.

Use of PX & Commissary by Disabled Personnel

Blind or other severely disabled personnel who are eligible to purchase in the Exchange and Commissary may be accompanied within these activities by a person of their choice, whether or not this person is an eligible patron. Letters authorizing disabled patrons to be accompanied into the Exchange and Commissary may be obtained from Personnel Services Division, DPCA, Room 623, Infantry Hall, during normal duty hours."

Christmas Dinner for Retirees, Service Widows

Ft. Benning Army Community Service invites all retired personnel, service widows, and unaccompanied military dependents and their families to the post for a Christmas dinner at the Follow Me Dining Facility, Bldg #73 on December 25th. Cost for the dinner is $2.40 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12 yrs. Tickets must be purchased at the ACS Center, Room 109, Bldg #83. No tickets will be sold after December 15th. Contact the ACS Center, 545-1233 for additional information.

Retired Outpatient Record Information

If you are retiring in the Ft. Benning area and plan to use Martin Army Hospital facilities, report to the Outpatient Records Section, MAH, with your health record so it can be copied and an outpatient treatment record initiated. Upon your retirement the original health record is forwarded to the National Personnel Record Center and information necessary for your continued care would be immediately unavailable to your physician.

3rd Annual Ft. Benning Mini-marathon slated

The 3rd Annual Ft. Benning Mini-marathon sponsored by the Columbus Track Club begins sharply at 9 a.m. on December 11th in front of Infantry Hall. A record field, surpassing the 480 runners of last July, is expected.

Finishers of the grueling 13.1 mile road race will be awarded a special T-shirt commemorating the athletic event. In addition 20-inch trophies will be presented to the first three finishers and Olympic style medals to the next five finishers.

A torrid battle for individual honors is expected with the return of defending champion and record holder Mike Wilson, and the powerful Ft Benning Marathon Team, which recently captured four of the top ten places in the Ft. Bragg All American Marathon. Mike Wilson, a biology professor at Tuskegee Institute set the course record last July with a fast 1:11:50. He displayed his current form two weeks ago by finishing only one second behind Olympian Marty Liquori in the Birmingham Vulcan Run.

Registration will open at 7:30 a.m. in front of Infantry Hall. The groupings are 19 and under, 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50 and over, and women. A registration fee of $3.00, to partially offset the cost of the awards and T-shirts will be charged.

Ft. Benning Officers' Wives

This is an open invitation to all the Ft. Benning Officers' Wives from your Officers' Wives Club Program Chairman.

The OWC slogan for this year is, "YOU MAKE THE DIFFERENCE." Without you there can be no OWC and so, you see, you really do make the difference. Therefore, I urge all of you ladies to join us and enrich our club with your multifaceted talents and help make our club the best of its kind in the entire US Army. We try to please as many of you as we can with our programs, but this is extremely difficult when you are not with us and voicing your opinions through your representatives or your active participation on our many committees. Your suggestions are always welcome and your active participation in OWC functions solicited. If you are interested, please contact me or any OWC Board member.

Hope to see all of you, especially any newcomers, at our next function. We have a special table just for you at the monthly luncheons. My name is Mona Rabin and I'd like to meet you. Thank You

OWC Emblem Design Contest

The deadline for the OWC Emblem Design Contest has been extended until January 13, 1977. For more information, please contact Muriel Parrish, 687-6979.

Annual Chrismon Service

The Protestant Women of the Chapel will meet on Wednesday, December 15th at the Infantry Center Chapel for the annual Chrismon Service. The social hour will be at 9 a.m. in the annex before moving into the chapel.

The "Benning Belles" will have a short program of inspirational music as a part of the Chrismon Service.

Ladies, we are reminded to bring our gifts for the nursing home, good or new toys for the Religious Educations Center nursery, and food items for the ACS food locker.

Child care is provided free at Tot Town, but reservations are necessary. Children under six months will be cared for at the chapel.

NCOWC NEWS Board Meeting

On December 6th, the officers and chairwomen of the NCO Wives Club met at the club house for their monthly board meeting. There was much discussion on the many activities scheduled for December. Mr. Jerry Battle was also on hand to offer his assistance and advice on our financial and book keeping procedures.

Hail and Farewell

On December 7th, the NCO wives met at the Top 5 NCO club for a Hail and Farewell sponsored by the NCO Club. All NCO wives are welcome at this monthly affair.

Hospital Coffee Call

Mrs. Elfriede Watson and other members of the NCO Wives Club met at Martin Army Hospital for Coffee Call on December 8th at 9 a.m. All members are urged to support this activity each 1st and 2d Wednesday of the month as a service to our community.

Business Meeting

The monthly business meeting of the NCO Wives Club was held at the Club house on December 8th at 12:30 p.m. Final plans were made for our Christmas Baskets, Christmas Parties and the Muscogee County Nursing Home Christmas Party. The Nursing Home Party is to be held on December 21st at 2 p.m.

Gift Wrapping Booth

If you happened by the NCOWC Gift Wrapping Booth on the afternoon of December 9th and saw our special male helper, yes you were at the right place. SSG Harel Mitchell is an avid NCOWC supporter and volunteered to help us at this busy location on his afternoon off duty. Thank you SSG Mitchell and a belated Happy Birthday to you.

Kraft Kasel

The NCOWC's Gift Shop opened at the Club House, on December 3d at 7 p.m. There was quite a turn-out as this was family night. Judy Neff and Roxanne Campbell are the chairwomen and invites all of the members to get there items in. There was cake and coffee, and a lovely cake it was, compliments of Donna Hale.

Officers Candidate Wives Club

The 50th Company Officers Candidate Wives Club held their organization coffee on Monday, November 29th at the 50th Company Mess Hall.

The Christmas theme was used and everyone enjoyed a wide variety of refreshments including eggnog and Christmas cookies. The coffee chairman, Mrs. George Escher and her committee members; Mesdames Dennis Andersen, John Bennett, Billy Emerson, Rodger Everett, Luis Lulia and Robert Rische deserves a lot of credit for an outstanding job.

A tour of the barracks was held and officers for the club were elected as follows; Chairman: Mrs. Robert Rische, Co-Chairman: Mrs. Donald Ball, Secretary: Mrs.

Gerald Fiske, Treasurer: Mrs. Michael Meyers, Publicity: Mrs. Delmont Soule, Hospitality: Mrs. Scott Jordan and Telephone: Mrs. John Murphy.

43rd Engrs sponsor tour for local youths

By Joe Hilton

Engineers from the 43d Engr Bn recently took time off from training and provided a host of new experiences for a group of developmentally disabled adults.

Eleven residents of the West Central Georgia Regional Hospital were treated to a guided tour of the battalion area. The tour-field trip was part of an activity formulated by the 36th Engr Gp Clinical Pastoral Education Program.

Chaplain (Capt.) Daryl Goldman of the 36th Gp has worked with the residents of the West Georgia Regional Hospital for the past few months. "The field trip for the residents was an idea formulated in our group counselings," said Chaplain Goldman. "We felt if this was a success, we could sponsor other activities for the residents.

"Residents of the hospital are more fortunate than most, to live in a hospital recently accredited by the joint commission on accreditation of hospitals. Their living conditions are well above average, training and care are excellent and through community activities like this 'They will realize someone does care,'" noted Chaplain Goldman.

The field trip was a success. It began with a tour of the battalion area, followed by a demonstration of the heavy equipment used by the engineers then on to the dining facility for cookies and soft drinks.

The highlight of the event was when residents were allowed to ride (supervised) in bulldozers, tractors and jeeps. "Wow, I have never seen that much excitement among the residents," observed Goldman.

Even to the casual observer it was pretty obvious that the men of the 43d Engr Bn would long be remembered by the residents of West Central Georgia Regional Hospital.

"I'd rather do a tough job I like
than a soft job I hate."

That's the way SP5 Tom Burt feels about his job in a Mortar Squad.

"It's rough every now and then. Especially when your unit's short of men and everyone's doing someone else's job too. But it beats doing the same dumb thing day after day.

"And you're only as good as the people in your unit. So even if you don't start out so good, if everyone pulls together and has pride in their unit, you'll end up with a unit the Army can be proud of too.

"As far as reenlistment goes, I'm going to reenlist and reenlist. I got out of the Army awhile back and got my Associate of Arts Degree. But I guess I couldn't get the Army out of me, because here I am. And if I had it to do over again, I'd have stayed in.

"In fact, if anybody tried to talk me out of reenlisting, I'd tell them to go to hell."

Today's Army gets better every time a good man reenlists.

Short timer's program helps in finding jobs

Soldiers getting out of the Army may now get a helping hand from Uncle Sam in finding a civilian job.

The President has approved a special employment authority that may help the soldier get at job at the GS-1 to GS-5 level ($5,500-$9,000) in government. There are four eligibility requirements that the soldier must meet to take part in the program.

— The soldier must have served on active duty during a portion of the period Aug. 5, 1965, to May 7, 1975.

— The soldier must take advantage of the program in the first year after receiving an honorable discharge.

— The soldier must have completed no more than two years of education beyond high school graduation.

— The soldier must agree in writing to take an approved program of education while working.

For jobs at the 1 to 3 GS level, the soldier's military service is equivalent to the minimum standard of qualification. Grades 4 and 5 require the applicant to meet the minimum standard for the job and may include a test. The employing agency will determine whether or not the applicant is qualified.

After working in the job for two years, the employee will receive a regular appointment, providing performance on the job and in the educational or training program has been satisfactory.

For additional information, contact the nearest Civilian Personnel Office, local Veterans Assistance Center or Civil Service Commission Federal Job Information Center.

AMU marksmen sweep Puerto Rican matches

Members of the US Army Marksmanship Unit scored impressive wins during the Fourth Invitational Rifle Matches hosted by the Puerto Rico Rifle Association of San Juan, December 3-5th.

Olympic gold medalist and current world record holder, Maj. Lones W. Wigger defeated teammate Lt. Ray Carter by virtue of international tie breaking procedures after both individuals turned in identical scores in the 50 meter rifle event. Maj. Wigger was declared the winner because of his higher score in the final series of ten shots. Both fired scores of 1,159 and 1,154 in the two day event.

In the English match event, veteran of two Olympic teams, Army Reservist Victor Auer of Canoga Park, CA, jumped to an early lead of two points over Wigger after the first day with a score of 598, only one point under the present world record. Wigger came back the final day however, to win the event by three points as Auer slipped to 6th place.

Steady shooting by MSgt. Charles Davis in the Running Target phase carried him to first place with a final score of 1,100 points. Army Reserve Maj. Tommy Pool captured second place with 1,083.

In team competition the U.S. Army made a clean sweep winning three out of three gold medals.

Skill Qualification Test

The key to unit readiness

"There is no way the unit commander is going to pass his Army Training and Evaluation Program (ARTEP), unless his soldiers pass their skill qualification tests (SQTs)." As pointed out by Gen. William E. DePuy, commanding general of the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC), SQT applies not only to soldiers, but also to commanders.

It's a fundamental principle that soldiers who cannot perform their individual tasks will negate the unit's ability to accomplish its assigned mission.

What then is SQT and what does it mean to commanders?

Basically, SQT is a job relevant test of the soldier's ability to perform the critical tasks required in his or her occupational specialty. As a test, it is basically different from the military occupational specialty (MOS) test which it is replacing. The SQT is based directly upon the critical tasks in the soldier's MOS and makes use of high fidelity performance tests.

The SQT is designed as a three-part package, but individual tests include one, two or all three of the major components. Each SQT will have a written component and may include a hands-on component as well as a performance certification.

Development

Development of SQT was based on an analysis of critical skills required to perform in a given job or MOS. The test developers asked: What tasks are critical, not just nice to know, to perform a certain job at each skill level?

Under the new enlisted personnel management system, skill levels are es-

The best Christmas I ever had!!!

It was Christmas night and the snow was falling. All of a sudden chains were rattling. Who can that be? The door flew open. Santa Claus came with a big sack of toys saying: Ho! Ho! Ho! My father gave him a drink. Then he unloaded all our toys. My little sister kissed Santa. Soon he left and we opened all our presents. That was my happiest Christmas because that was my first time seeing Santa Claus in real life.

The best Christmas I ever had was when I was in First Grade and my father came home from Vietnam for Christmas. We had a wonderful time when he came but he could only stay for a week.

Editor's note: The following letters were submitted as entries in a contest sponsored by the Columbus Ledger/Enquirer and have been made available for use in the BAYONET. These letters have been selected at random and do not reflect the results of the contest nor will their publication influence their selection by the Columbus newspapers.

The best Christmas I ever had was when I came to United States, It was 1972 back when I was 12 years old. When I was in Korea I did not know that Christmas was big holiday. When I came to United States everybody was talking about Christmas on December. So that was best Christmas I ever had in my life.

Young Su So

The best Christmas I ever had was in 1973, because it was the day we called our relatives. We hadn't heard from them for a long time. When my mother heard my grandmother and my brothers, she started to cry and so did my sister. When I heard my nieces, I started to cry too. When my grandmother heard us, she started to cry. We were so happy to hear them. That's why that was the best Christmas I ever had.

Holiday Safety Message

The Christmas and New Year holiday season is a time of prevailing good will, being with family and friends, and of great religious significance to millions of people all over the world.

As I extend my best wishes and greeting to all Fort Benning personnel, I sincerely desire that each of you and your families derive maximum pleasure from this holiday season. I am concerned because of the many factors that may cause this season to also become a time of tragedy for some. I refer to the devastating impact on the family of anyone involved in a serious accident. The carefree spirit of the season often results in a relaxation of the normal precautions and inhibitions that generally serve to keep people out of trouble.

This is a season when we should think of others. Let us all be concerned and exercise due caution and restraint during the holidays to help protect us from accidents, thereby giving family, friends, and others a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

New records set in post's 3rd Annual Mini-marathon

By Geoff Wilhelm

Over 300 athletes braved threatening skies last Saturday in the 3rd Annual Ft. Benning Mini-marathon sponsored by the Columbus Track Club.

The grueling 13.1 mile race set new record times, led by Robert McDuffie's winning time of 1:08:11. The course record from the last race of 1:11:5; was bettered by five runners.

The field, composed largely of AIT trainees perhaps inspired by the participation of the AIT commander Col. Jack Farris, included an extraordinary 255 finishers.

Recent IOBC graduate, 2ndLt. Dennis Trujillo was the first soldier to finish with a time of 1:08:31, which earned him 3rd place.

MP foils armed robbery attempt

Sp4 George Burns

Alertness and conditioning played a heavy part in the Ft. Benning MP's capture of a suspected armed robber in an incident that occurred on the reservation early this month.

On the afternoon of December 2nd, Sp4 George Burns, assigned to the Provost Marshal's Office, was escorting funds and entered the National Bank of Ft. Benning on Wold Avenue. Specialist Burns' attention was attracted by an individual who was apparently being robbed by another man. As the attempted robbery was foiled and the culprit fled, Burns pursued him on foot and apprehended him near Olson Hall after a lengthy chase.

Subsequent investigation conducted by the FBI resulted in the suspect being charged with armed robbery. He was bound over for trial to the U. S. District Court.

2500 miles

Lt. Col. Donald Hull, commander of the 34th Med Bn, recently passed the 2500 mile mark in the Army "Run for Your Life" Program. He has been in the program since November 1972 and competed in the both the Volksmarch and Mini-Marathon at Ft. Benning in 1976.

Capt. Campbell Motley, platoon leader in the 478th Avn Co (HH), 34th Med Bn, burns the last of the "midnight oil." After two years of intensive off-duty study, under the GI Bill, he completed the necessary requirements and obtained a Master's Degree in Educational Administration and Supervision from Georgia State University.

Take-home pay in '77 may be lower

The New Year may well bring to some military personnel the withholding of State income taxes from their monthly or bi-monthly pay checks for the first time.

Defense officials say they expect some but not all States to require mandatory withholding of State (including the District of Columbia) income taxes from military pay checks. While the beginning date is uncertain, officials believe withholding could start sometime during the first six months of 1977.

Under certain conditions, a new law — the Tax Reform Act of 1976 — requires mandatory withholdings of State income taxes from the pay of Armed Forces members.

Those Liable

State income tax withholding cannot be done unless two important conditions are met: (1) the State must have an income tax law on its books specifically requiring withholding by all employers; (2) the State must enter into agreement with the Federal government, the Secretary of the Treasury, to initiate State income tax withholding.

Defense officials point out that some States do not have income taxes for either the military or for civilians. Other States defer or excuse taxes on income tax returns of military personnel. Yet others have income taxes for all, but not automatic withholding, and some have both.

Whether or not the new law applies to you is determined by the law of your State of legal residence, officials said. Examine your IRS Form W-4 "Employees Withholding Certificate" to determine if your military Service has a correct statement of your legal residence.

Citizens Pay Taxes

Like all Americans, members of the military are obligated to pay the income taxes of their State of legal residence, Defense officials underscored. The new law applies only to the possibility of withholding required by some States and does not impose added responsibilities on Service personnel to pay income taxes.

Actually, withholding is probably the easy way for a military member to pay his tax bill, as it is in the case of Federal income taxes.

Multiple Tax Protection

Officials stress that the provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act are in no way changed by the new law. It is the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act that protects military personnel from multiple state taxation by limiting their income and personal property tax liability to only that imposed by each member's State of legal residence. If you have any questions concerning your State of legal residence or your State income tax liability, check with your unit, tax officer and if he cannot help you than he will arrange for an appointment with the Legal Assistance Office. (LAO). Do not go to the LAO without first checking with your unit.

Officials point out that it is you personally, not your Military Service, who is responsible for paying State taxes. In this tax matter, the role of your Military Service is to provide withholding tax service when States require it, much the same as the Military Services provide in the case of Federal income taxes.

Bottle deposit to be tested

Soldiers at three selected Army posts will be paying a five cent deposit on all beverage containers sold, starting February 1977.

The nickel increase at Ft. Knox, Ky, Ft. Huachuca, AZ and Ft. Riley, KA, will be part of a one-year test of the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Guidelines for Beverage Containers.

This test will evaluate the deposit system on the sale of beverages in PXs, commissaries, messes and package stores. Test results should give DoD a good idea concerning which CONUS posts will pay the container deposits on a permanent basis.

The five cent deposit refund, DoD officials say, encourages the consumer to return the empty bottles for recycling purposes. Stores selling beverages will collect returned containers and sell them for reclamation.

DoD officials noted that refilling and recycling these containers will help reduce post litter and conserve much-needed raw materials and energy.

A joint executive agency task force has been formed to develop and manage the test program.

The key to unit readiness

established to correspond to certain pay grades; thus skill level one includes graduates of advanced individual training through E-4; skill level two, E-5; skill level three, E-6; skill level four, E-7; and skill level five, E-8, E-9.

The evaluation system using SQT will work this way:

- A soldier is first tested in the 17th month of service to determine promotion and reenlistment eligibility.

- Upon promotion to E-4, the soldier becomes subject to testing every other year. The test covers his or her present skill level and the next higher skill level. For E-5s, the SQT covers skill levels two and three; E-6s, skill levels three and four; and E-7s, skill levels four and five.

- The score which the soldier makes on the test will be used for two purposes: verification of current skill level and award of the skill level corresponding to the next higher grade.

Introduction

The SQT is being introduced in an Army-wide field validation test. Soldiers participating in the "shakedown" include those in MOS 11B, infantryman (skill levels one and two); MOS 16J defense acquisition radar crewman (skill levels one and two); MOS 45B, small arms repairman (skill levels one and two); and MOS 95D, assistant special agent (skill levels one through three).

Other MOSs will be phased in on a quarterly basis through the fall of 1979. However, first "for-the-record" testing will begin in April 1977 in career management field 11, maneuver combat arms.

Commanders will become actively involved in the SQT system. They are the top trainers in each unit and must see that all materials needed to increase job proficiency are provided the troops.

A number of TRADOC training developments are available to make that task easier. Top item on the list is the Soldier's Manual, the basis for SQT. This manual outlines the critical tasks required to perform in a certain MOS and skill level together with the commander's supplement.

Each commander has the responsibility to see that each soldier gets a copy for his personal use. Distribution of the first increment of Soldier's Manuals began last summer and will precede each SQT by six months.

In order to perform well on the SQT, soldiers must have had the opportunity to work with their Soldier's Manuals and use individual MOS lessons provided by the training extension course (TEC).

The key to SQT is training, and, with command interest, every soldier should perform well.

Scoring on SQT will give the commander feedback on which tasks need special attention. The report will also tell the commander where his unit strengths are — on the basis of individual soldier proficiency.

The SQT scores will reflect absolute standards which have been determined by the proponent service school commandant. Three standards will exist in SQT results: below verification, verification and a qualification score.

Soldiers receiving a "verification" score will be considered qualified at the current skill level. If the soldier achieves a "qualification" score, and meets the "on-the-job experience" or noncommissioned officer education system (NCOES) requirements, he or she will have qualified for award of the next higher skill level — one of the requirements to compete for promotion.

If a soldier fails to attain even a "verification" score, he or she will not be considered qualified at his or her current grade and will be required to take the test again in one year. Those who fail again will be reclassified.

Each MOS will be tested annually even though the soldier has to take the SQT every other year. Soldiers desiring to try for a higher score can volunteer to take the test one year later.

Requirements

An important portion of SQT is the performance certification, completed by the commander. If skills cannot be tested in the hands-on portion or in the written component, each commander must certify the critical skill was performed successfully during the previous 12 months. Such tasks include those which have a high skill content, are impractical to test or are difficult to simulate. Examples might include tasks such as helping erect a Bailey Bridge or grading a roadway.

Commanders also must work with the local test control officer (TCO) to iron out local testing requirements and conditions. A good working relationship is the key to reaping the benefits of SQT.

Commanders also must see that affected soldiers receive the SQT notice promptly. This insures maximum time to dig into the Soldier's Manual and to use such learning tools as TECs and other self-paced training devices.

The SQT has the advantage of being both a tool to initiate and determine needed training, as well as telling both the commander and the individual soldier where extra help is needed on critical skills.

Soldier reaction to SQTs--favorable

Initial reaction to the new Skill Qualification Test now being administered Army-wide is highly favorable, according to TRADOC officials.

TRADOC added, "A lot of soldiers said they were really surprised by the SQT. It was a lot different than they thought SQT would be, but then again reaction included those who expected it to be an easy test, but found it challenging."

Comments from field units testing the SQT have been equally enthusiastic. Col. Robert Wiegand, Commander of the 3d U.S. Infantry (The Old Guard) said the SQT is a real advancement. He noted, "The troops think it's great. Their comments have been most favorable." The Old Guard recently completed testing.

TRADOC said the SQT "shakedown" is turning up a few administrative bugs, "but that's why we decided to test the system first, then the soldier."

Soldiers participating in the Army-wide trial run include those in MOSs 11B, 16J, 45B and 95D.

SQT, which includes three major components, will be administered for the record to soldiers in Career Management Field 11 beginning in April 1977.

MOSs involved include 11B, 11C, 11D and 11E.

TRADOC urged soldiers not to fool themselves into thinking the SQT will be only hands-on. SQT includes a written test, but the beauty is that questions come right out of the Soldier's Manual.

"If a soldier can perform the critical tasks listed in the Soldier's Manual, the SQT will not be difficult. Questions on the written portion are realistic and every effort has been made to provide simulation devices or tools that normally would be available to the soldiers in a real job situation."

Tasks that are more accurately measured on the job will be included in the hands-on portion, it was pointed out. In addition, those tasks which are time consuming, too large or expensive to test will be certified by the commander.

Soldiers will receive a personal copy of the Soldier's Manual which covers their MOS, current skill level and next higher skill level.

TRADOC pointed out that the Soldier's Manual is the basis for the SQT. The new manual contains the critical tasks required to perform the job at each skill level and includes standards for measuring "go" or "no go" for performance on the SQT.

Holiday travelers take note, avoid the hassle

Holiday travelers on MAC aircraft may have to open Christmas packages if metal detectors at the terminals detect any metal in the package. Passenger service officials say that even the large staples used to close some cardboard boxes may set off the machine. X-Ray machines — that will make the inspection unnecessary — have been ordered. However, they are not expected to be installed until after the holidays. In the meantime, if TDY or Space Available passengers expect to carry any boxes with any metal in them, they should not be wrapped with Christmas wrapping paper.

VD-- The gift that keeps on giving

Down through the ages, Venereal Disease (VD) has been known as the "Soldier's Disease." There are reports of VD afflicting troops in almost every war ever fought. The Visigoths, Huns, Romans, Moors, French under Napoleon, the Russians under Czar Nicholas, the trench fighters of World War I, the beach landers of World War II, the insurrection fighters of Korea and even the forces in Vietnam, have all fallen victim to venereal disease.

VD is no longer confined to the victims of war and poverty. Now runaways, dropouts and drug users run the greatest risk of contracting the disease. But, as with drug addiction, VD cuts viciously and impersonally across all lines of race, class, socio-economic backgrounds and sexual lifestyles. Syphilis and gonnorrhea, once the bane of the adventurer and fighting man, are now afflictions of the "girl and boy next door."

There are several things a person can do to avoid getting VD.

Know your sex partner and make sure he or she is VD-free. All moral judgments aside, the more sexually active you are, the greater the risk you run of coming into contact with someone who has VD and doesn't know it.

As an obstetrician/gynecologist observed, "No one ever died from not having intercourse."

Wash your genitals thoroughly with soap and water immediately after sexual contact.

Urinating immediately after sexual intercourse can also help get rid of VD germs in the body.

Men can use a condom. Women can make sure men use a condom.

For women, washing and douching can help remove and kill gonnorrhea germs.

Review the facts, toss away the myths.

These considerations may be after the fact now, however, the following pertain to males and females.

If you've noticed an itch, a burning sensation when urinating, or if you notice a whitish discharge; or if you've noticed a painless sore called a chancre, which may look like a pimple or a blister, get help. Get in touch with the doctor at your local dispensary or go to the VD clinic located in Martin Army Hospital on the 8th floor or call 544-2574. If you prefer, you can usually contact a free VD clinic by calling your local city hall.

All cases are treated confidentially.

At a clinic a blood test (a Wasserman) may be taken for syphilis or a sample of the discharge if gonnorrhea is suspected. The clinician will contact you and tell you if the "test reveals something that should be checked."

When you are notified of positive test results you will be asked where you may have contracted the disease and for the names of your most recent sexual contacts.

It's necessary for every male and female to ignore and overcome the social stigma associated with VD and seek early treatment.

Fear of social opinions and embarrassment are pretty poor excuses for risking sterility, blindness, insanity, and even death. By providing the names of your contacts you are serving the community effort to stamp out VD and showing a great deal of concern for the individual.

With changes in the living and loving standards and the advent of "the pill," today's young men and women suffer more because of their sexuality than ever before. The false sense of security offered by the use of "the pill" makes VD prevention doubly difficult. In fact, physiological changes by which "the pill" prevents conception actually encourages infection.

Getting down to the nitty gritty may take the magic out of "love story," but a little less magic and a little more caution will make for a "healthier" relationship.

Are you getting more than you bargained for?

Rec Center hosts Christmas dance

By "Hoss" KACI 4615

The Main Post Recreation Center will host a Christmas dance in honor of all Ft. Benning CBers tonight beginning at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to join in the fun and dance to the music of Ernie B. and the Night Shift.

Ernie B. Hamm is no newcomer to the music scene; he already has 14 singles and one album released. In January, he will be releasing another single, "Move Over Truck Driver" backed with "The Scar." Ernie has also made several television and radio appearances and has been selected twice as "Artist of the Month" by Record Review of Nashville, TN.

Ernie B. Hamm

Prior to coming to the Columbus /Ft. Benning area, Ernie appeared with such artists as Porter Wagoner, Del Reeves, Johnny Paycheck, Kitty Wells, Tex Ritter and Charlie Pride. Since his arrival, Ernie B. and the Night Shift were chosen as the Best Variety Group in the Chattahoochee Valley Harvest Festival and won First Place in the 1976 AUSA Battle of the Bands. Other group members are Eddie Carden, Robert Richardson, Gary Byers and Danny Wombles.

Although the dance is in honor of post CBers, you don't have to be one to attend; come on out and find out what CBers are really like. Bring the kids along as Santa Claus will also make an appearance. For more information on the dance, call the Rec Center at 545-4404 or shout for Cookie on CB's channel one.

VA will pick up tab for tutoring

The Veterans Administration reminds veterans and servicemen enrolled in college under the GI Bill that if they need tutoring help, the VA stands ready to pay for it.

Uncle Sam didn't pay for tutorial assistance for World War II and Korean conflict veterans but under present law VA will pay as much as $65 a month for tutoring up to a maximum of $780.

And the tutorial help is not charged against the veteran's basic educational entitlement, VA pointed out.

In addition to veterans and active duty servicemen, tutorial benefits are available to widows, widowers, spouses and children studying under the VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance Program.

Veterans and servicemen studying at the post-secondary level on at least a half-time basis are eligible if they have a deficiency in a subject required in an approved program of education, VA said.

Application should be made within a year of the tutoring. It should be submitted to the VA regional office which maintains the veteran's claim folder and it should be certified by the school, VA said.

Personnel files to be converted

All Official Military Personnel Files (OMPFs) are being converted from hard copy paper documents to convenient microfilm sheets called microfiche. The conversion process should be completed by late 1979, according to MILPERCEN officials.

About a third of all warrant officer files are now on microfiche, under the OMPF conversion that began in January 1976. All O-6 records have been converted and the changeover of the remaining officer records is scheduled for completion by September 1977. Conversion of enlisted soldiers' records to microfiche began in early September at the Enlisted Records and Evaluation Center (EREC), Ft. Benjamin Harrison, IN, and is scheduled for completion about three years.

Conversion to microfiche files permits up to 98 individual documents from a soldier's OMPF — including photographs — to be microfilmed and arranged in seven horizontal rows and 14 vertical columns. As many film sheets as needed are used to reproduce the entire file. Before each official file is converted, all documents contained in the OMPF are thoroughly reviewed to insure that only authorized documents are microfilmed.

The benefits of microfilmed records already have been made evident to personnel who have had the opportunity to review a microfiche OMPF rather than a bulky paper file. Once the conversion process is completed, soldiers will be able to review their OMPFs without having to travel to MILPERCEN in Alexandria, VA, EREC or the Reserve Component Personnel and Administration Center (RCPAC) in St. Louis, MO. This will result in more efficient review procedures and will save the soldier and the Army travel time and money, MILPERCEN officials point out.

With microfilm files, the soldier will have the advantage of multiple copies of an OMPF readily being available to support authorized personnel actions requiring DA approval. Duplicate copies of microfiche OMPFs already have been used by HQDA selection boards in a few instances. In the past, competition for the single OMPF occurred when more than one selection board, for example, required all or part of a soldier's records at the same time. Under the microfilm system, the master file never leaves the custodian. It easily can be updated or corrected when additional documents are submitted and quickly reproduced without sacrificing any part of the file.

With this year's RA colonel promotion selection board, board members for the first time used microfiche OMPFs rather than paper documents. As file conversion progresses, other boards also will be using microfiche records to make promotion selections RA and school determinations, etc. Eventually, all DA selection boards will use microfiche files.

The microfiche system is viewed as an evolutionary and improved method of records administration and maintenance, MILPERCEN officials say. It offers significant improvements and benefits for all records users — particularly the individual soldier. (ARNEWS)

Some officer career fields overstrength

The latest word on OPMS is that many officers were designated in overstrength career specialties. And DA has singled out OPMS specialty 54 — Operations and Force Development — as being overstrength in grade O-3, O-4 and O-5.

DA is encouraging these officers to consider asking Branch to redesignate them in an understrength career specialty.

Other over-aligned career specialties in addition to number 54. Are: O-4/O-5 Aviation (15), Counterintelligence /HUMINT (36), Aviation Material Management (71), Armament Material Management (76) and Traffic Management (86), Research and Development (51) and Tank /Ground Mobility Material Management (77).

O-3 General Troop Support Material Management (83).

Officers desiring redesignation are encouraged to contact their career manager at MILPERCEN, Alexandria, Va.

Carbon monoxide is deadly

Cold weather driving means additional hazards for the motorists — snow-covered roads, icy bridges, and frosted windshields. Cold weather also intensifies a less obvious, but just as deadly hazard — carbon monoxide.

An invisible, tasteless, odorless gas, carbon monoxide is produced by the incomplete burning of fuel. It attacks the body by attaching itself to red blood cells, blocking the attachment of oxygen, which is normally carried by the red blood cells to nourish body tissues. Carbon monoxide combines with red blood cells 200 times faster than oxygen, and the oxygen starvation caused by carbon monoxide poisoning can cripple or kill victims within minutes.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is a greater hazard in cold weather, because cold weather usually means drivers roll their windows up, cutting off ventilation that would normally sweep fumes out of the passenger compartment.

Positive ventilation — a movement of fresh air through the car's passenger compartment — is a strong defense against carbon monoxide poisoning. Opening fresh air inlets at the front of the car and lowering side windows slightly can give this kind of ventilation.

Just opening side vent windows won't always ventilate a car. Vent windows opened to their normal position draw air out of the passenger compartment rather than funneling it in, and the result could be to help draw in exhaust fumes already seeping into the passenger compartment. Vents should be closed to avoid drawing in exhaust fumes from other vehicles when a car is inching along in slow traffic or moving through a tunnel.

Driving a station wagon with the rear window partially open, or driving a car with the trunk lid partly open, is particularly dangerous because exhaust fumes tend to hang behind a moving car and can be sucked into these openings. If you must have a trunk lid or rear window open while driving, a positive ventilation flow through the passenger compartment is absolutely necessary.

Never idle the engine of a standing car to keep the heater working. A standing car with the windows rolled up has no adequate ventilation.

Stopping exhaust leakage at its source is even better than just providing good ventilation. Motorists should have their exhaust systems checked to find and fix blown gaskets, leaking pipe connections, and holes in mufflers and tailpipes. Holes in the floorboards, firewall or trunk also should be patched because they can provide an easy entry for fumes leaking from the exhaust system.

Motorists could reduce the carbon monoxide content of their engine exhausts by keeping their engines in tune and giving prompt attention to problems like sticking automatic choke assemblies. Even in a properly maintained car, however, motorist should be aware of the possibility of carbon monoxide poisoning.

If you find yourself getting sleepy or sick at the wheel, suspect carbon monoxide immediately. Get out and breathe some fresh air. Then drive with the windows open more than usual and have the car's exhaust system checked at the first opportunity.

(Reprinted with permission of National Safety Council Publications)

The Ft. Benning Safety Management Office has another factor for you to consider; the effect of alcohol coupled with carbon monoxide. Your respiratory system is particularly susceptible to carbon monoxide if you have even small amounts alcohol in your body.

By Denny Blankenship

Wives of outdoorsmen are a unique breed and whenever the opportunity presents itself, I tune in to their conversations to gather insight into their feelings concerning the great outdoors.

This is particularly true of social gatherings such as that held by the Fish and Wildlife clan at Harmony Church last Friday.

The ol' party was going strong when I overheard one of the wives, Ella Holloway remark to a friend, "I understand that Rube, my husband, assumed the name of Johnny Cash on the last hunting trip. Wonder why he did that?" If you don't know Ella, we certainly don't. This same gracious lady was heard to complain, "Some idiot is using my deer stand. I don't mind that so much except that he drinks my diet cola I keep stored there." Now come on gang, if one of you insist on using Ella's deer stand, give her a little slack and at least leave her diet cola alone.

In an effort to console Ella and the wives of all outdoorsmen, I offer the following on behalf of my fellow outdoorsmen: Today's married woman has it made. She has her bills paid the rest of her life. Granted she has to keep house — but she never catches the really tough jobs. She doesn't have to be a fire-fighter, blast furnace worker, garbage collector, steel worker, policeman or any of a hundred others.

Women collect 80 per cent of all life insurance, 63 per cent of all inheritances. They own between 55 per cent and 60 per cent of all savings accounts. They live five years longer than men, are less likely to wind up in jail or insane asylums or in debt.

Man is four times more likely to be killed by someone else. Law Courts are more lenient towards women. Besides, and this is the greatest part of all, women get to marry men.

With all these obvious advantages, the rational person would think that women would be satisfied. But no, every now and then along comes a Marie Guzman who kills a three-point buck and hubby Gus is deerless to date. Come on now Gus, you're letting us down.

Deer season is still clicking along with 475 deer killed to date. Doe season is set to open again on Saturday, December 18th. Let's be especially careful on those deer drives and don't go shooting any fellow hunters. Make sure it's a deer and you have a good clear shot before you start blasting away. Use your head.

Tournament fishing in this area during the winter months is tortuous to say the least. Contending with bad weather conditions and water conditions for a twelve hour period of non-stop fishing would seem a "lettle" crazy to most folks, but certainly not to the tournament fishermen. Such was the case last Saturday when members of the Post Bass Club fished Lake Eufaula for their

December tournament.

After a hard ten hours of fishing, Bob Kramer was declared the winner with Billy Beard a close second. A newcomer to the tournament fishing scene, Charlie Shepard caught enough fish to capture third place. In only three tournaments, Shepard has managed to establish himself among tournament fishermen as a fisherman to contend with and you'll probably hear more about this dedicated basser in the future.

I can't leave you without a story to chuckle about, so here goes: A fisherman friend of mine, Billy Rumburg, recently visited a doctor friend in Florida for a few days of bass fishing.

In search for a few ways to entertaining Billy, the good doctor invited him to a dance that was being held at his clinic where he worked with deaf and dumb patients.

"But how on earth can I ask a deaf and dumb girl to dance?" asked Billy. "Just smile and bow to her," explained the doctor who was very familiar with the routine.

So Billy picked out a pretty girl, smiled and bowed to her, and away they danced. They danced not only one dance, but three. Billy was at the point of smiling and bowing for another dance when a strange man approached and said lovingly to the girl,

"Darling, when are we going to have another dance? Its been over an hour since I danced with you." "I don't know dear," said the girl tenderly, "I don't know how to get away from this deaf and dumb idiot."

Ponder this until next week: Historians tell us about the past and economists tell us about the future. Thus only the present is confusing.

All-Army tryouts slated

Soldiers athletes hoping to play on an all-Army sports team this coming year had better start working out. Tryouts for several sports will be held during the first few months of 1977.

The Army plans to field teams in the following sports: basketball, wrestling, boxing, team handball, track and field, volleyball, bowling, softball, tennis and golf.

If you think you're qualified to play, jog on over to the post sports office. Tell them you want an Army trail camp application or call 544-4516 for additional information on trial dates.

Army sports officials request that all applications be submitted at least six weeks before the camp starts.

the usual boxing camp will not be held this year. It has been replaced by an all-Army elimination tournament.

Soldier drug use articles clarified

In response to numerous questions regarding the recent publishing — by the civilian media — of an article on soldier drug use, DA Drug and Alcohol Abuse officials held a recent press briefing.

The article stated that 47 per cent of all soldiers used drugs. This was an error in fact. The information was taken from a study of a specific group of soldiers (approximately 700) in a specific area doing specific tasks. The group selected was not representative of the entire Army.

DA spokesmen went on to discuss — using a question and answer approach — the drug and alcohol program presently in operation in the Army.

The first question dealt with the end of random urinalysis, to which officials replied, "There is presently insufficient data to determine the affect of the program's end. The actual dollar savings realized by the termination of this program will be small in that the testing labs will continue to function. They will still handle program referrals and 'command directed' urinalysis."

Command-directed testing

The spokesmen stated that they felt the emphasis would now be placed on command-directed testing as a management tool in the detection of drug users.

"Services need the option of urinalysis," they went on to say, "but the soldier is better educated concerning drugs and alcohol and commanders are more attuned to the problems."

The drug and alcohol program appears to be operating effectively. In the 3d quarter of FY 77 (TQ) 3,279 soldiers were admitted to the rehabilitation program (down from 4,482 during the 1st quarter FY 1976): 34 per cent for marijuana, 25 per cent opiates, 13 per cent amphetamines, 9 per cent mandrax, 10 per cent barbituates, 1 per cent cocaine and 8 per cent other drugs.

During the same quarter, 2,552 soldiers were admitted to the program for alcohol abuse. Of the total 5,831 admissons, 40 per cent of the alcohol and 20 per cent of the drug cases were self-referrals.

There are presently 18 resident drug and alcohol/rehabilitation programs Armywide. The resident program deals with inpatient care at medical facilities. In addition, there are 158 nonresident programs that operate on an outpatient basis.

The latest statistics show that 15,005 soldiers are in the drug and alcohol rehabilitation program. The program is divided into an active portion which covers 60 days of inpatient and active help and the outpatient portion which is 10 months in length. At the 60-day point in the program, drug and alcohol officials must make an evaluation of the individual and decide whether the servicemember will be retained or discharged from the Army, as a rehabilitation failure.

Rehabilitation or Separation?

The soldier entering the rehabilitation program under the exemption policy as outlined in AR 600-85 cannot be given any disciplinary action for drug or alcohol use prior to his admission. If the soldier does not make an active attempt at rehabilitation during the program, and continues to use drugs, the servicemember may then find himself separated from the Army.

In recent Army survey, 3,184 soldiers responded to a question on marijuana use over a six month period. It was determined that marijuana use as portrayed in the press has been highly inflated. The survey found that 68.0 per cent had never used marijuana, 9.5 per cent rarely, 10.8 per cent sometimes, 10.8 per cent often.

In its new rules and regulations, the Federal Communications Commission deletes all mention of channel numbers and designates channels by frequency only. While no industry-wide policy has been set by the manufacturers, my best guess is that channel numbers on the 40-channel sets will be indicted as shown. Note that the frequencies for channels 24 and 25 actually lie between channels 22 and 23.

These new frequencies will have to be shared with some 4000 land mobile licensees until December 31st 1979, when they will become the exclusive territory of Cbers. The FCC has indicated that the land mobile users won't be given any special interference protection, so come January 1st 1977, it's every Cber for himself from channel 1 to 40; oops, beg your pardon, from 26.965 MHz to 27.405 MHz.

If you've been operating on an FCC Form 555-B Temporary Permit while waiting for your CB license and the 60-day period runs out, call the FCC at 202-632-7175. You may be issued a 90-day Special Temporary Authority while your application is being processed, but it's illegal to operate without some kind of permission from Uncle Charlie. Above all, don't write instead of telephoning, they're still swamped with applications.

OCCUPANCY

Camellia is an apartment motel. We don't rent rooms, we rent furnished apartments with all the features of a regular motel plus added conveniences that cannot be provided with just a single room — and all at the same, or most times lower rates than the single-room motel. For example, our "standard" unit is comprised of two bedrooms, combination living room-dining room, bathroom and fully furnished kitchen including refrigerator, stove, cooking utensils, and table service for six people. These are some of the "extras" but at no extra cost. Our 150 units are in separate buildings with usually four apartments in each building, which adds to a person's or family's privacy.

Shoplifting:

Ripping
provid

By Rick Wasser

Years ago, shoplifting was treated as a not-so-serious infraction of the law. But staggering increases in this crime have resulted in a crackdown by the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES).

The Yuletide season is inherently notorious in that it seems to generate even more shoplifters than during the rest of the year. And with the Christmas season just upon us, PX officials are beefing up their systems to catch the potential shoplifter.

Additional personnel

"At Ft. Benning we have hired additional security personnel for the Christmas season," says Mr. Thomas J. Martin, general manager for the entire Benning Exchange system. "Some customer may be very surprised because the girl in the mini-skirt beside him may be one of our security force."

Martin added, "the reason we are so interested in curtailing shoplifting is that everytime someone takes something out of the PX, they are taking it out of the soldiers pocket. Shoplifting results in increased prices for our customers."

Higher prices

The general manager emphasized that whether it is a five-cent candy bar or a $40 dress, the results are the same — the average military customer ends up paying higher prices for his items.

"Shoplifting has increased this year over last," Martin said. "We feel that inflation has played a part in this increase — when money gets tighter, people have a tendency to try and take advantage of the situation. The military has only shown a slight increase as compared to what the local retail stores are experiencing."

According to Mr. Martin, "there is no pattern to shoplifting at the PX. The offenders are military, dependents and retirees. They cover all age groups and they take any of a number of different items. There is simply no pattern — anyone can be guilty of it."

So what have we got? You know that shoplifting is illegal. And you know that the PX is on the lookout for the sticky-fingered folks that are driving up prices in the Exchange. But suppose you decide to rip-off the PX anyway. Maybe it was on a dare from a friend (some friend) or perhaps you just did it for 'kicks'; whatever the reason, you'd just better be prepared for the consequences.

On the lookout

"All cases of shoplifting are turned over to the Military Police," Martin notes. "Without exception I have directed my people to contact the MP's in all instances of shoplifting." So you see, whether you are a smooth-talking GI or an alluring young dependent in a sexy dress — it matters not. If you rip-off the PX, they're going to prosecute!

Well, exactly what happens to you when you do get caught? Will it be taken lightly, sort of a prank? Not on your life.

According to Maj. Robert Pegg, Operations Officers, PMO, the majority of shoplifters are soldiers, but 30 per cent are juveniles. "When they are apprehended, the case is brought before the Ft. Benning g off the PX, only es a dismal future

FREE PACCELETS LIFTERS! SE NECESSARY!

Adolescence Advisory Council. The Council, chaired by Col. Robert Reinke, Post Provost Marshal, decides whether the case is handled by the Juvenile Division, PMO or if it is turned over to the Chattahoochee County Juvenile Court."

Stiff penalties

In the state of Georgia, shoplifting is a criminal act and carries severe penalties. Under the 'theft by taking' statute, shoplifting of an item under $100 carries a maximum penalty of 1 year in prison and a $1000 fine. If the item is valued at over $100, then the crime is a felony — punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Ten long years. Is it worth it? Not hardly. In addition, even the first offense shoplifter can lose PX privileges for up to six months.

Not a very pretty picture is it? But don't stop now, it gets worse. SFC Walker stated that dependents arrested for shoplifting, or those not covered by the Uniform Code of Military Justice, can be turned over to the US Attorney and investigated by the FBI, because the crime took place on a Federal reservation. That's a pretty tough row to hoe for a record album or a pants suit, isn't it?

Soldiers caught ripping-off the PX are processed through the Military Police station and then turned over to their commanders. At the commanders discretion, the GI can receive a warning, an Article 15, or even a trial by Courts Martial. The circumstances surrounding the theft would determine the commanders action.

"There is one thing that is certain though," Maj. Pegg added, and that is no matter how severe the larceny offense is, the soldier is now the owner of a Federal Conviction. A permanent record that will follow him for the rest of his life."

With that kind of a record, it is difficult to go into certain types of businesses and professional endeavors where a special license is required. Insurance, law and real estate are only a few.

Limited future

Why limit your future for such a stupid mistake? Thinking of going back to school when you ETS? Not with a criminal record. Some colleges and institutions of higher learning refuse admittance to anyone with a criminal background. And if you have been convicted of shoplifting, that's just what you are — a criminal.

The message is simple: the kid gloves are off. If you steal from the PX, you can expect to get caught. And when you are caught, you can expect a pretty dismal future. Worth the risk? We think not.

Military, dependent air travelers rights offered

One of the largest groups of air travelers in the world is made up of members of the Armed Forces and their dependents. They travel TDY, to new duty stations in the United States and overseas and on pleasure trips from a duty station to vacation destinations.

Military air travelers using airlines within the U. S. and to and from overseas points have certain rights that they seldom use — rights that they should be advised of in advance of travel.

- What conditions or restrictions apply on a ticket because of the type of fare chosen.

- What additional charges, if any, may be made for music, movies, food or beverages.
- What the liability limits of the carrier are for damaged or lost baggage.
- What the traveler can do to protect baggage over and above those limits, such as additional insurance coverage.

- What steps can be taken for the traveler to have a voice in bringing the complaint to the attention of the proper authorities.

In return, the military traveler has an obligation to the airline to reserve a seat only on a flight that he or she intends to use. In addition, the soldier must follow airline check-in requirements. Also, when placing a claim for lost or damaged baggage that claim must be fair and accurate.

If a problem does arise with an airline, the first action the soldier should take is to contact the airline management. Air travel is a competitive business and most airlines are anxious to provide service that is satisfactory to the user.

If the airline does not respond to a complaint or if the complaint is not resolved, the soldier should write to the Office of the Consumer Advocate, Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Washington, D. C. 20428.

Select Christmas ornaments wisely

Decking the halls for Christmas requires more than a creative hand with boughs of holly. Christmas decorations must be selected with safety in mind, and used with care. To avoid trouble with trees and other Christmas decorations, follow these suggestions offered by the Ft. Benning Safety Office:

1. Flameproof artificial trees are the safest. The greatest hazard of the natural tree is fire. Even a small tree can turn your living room into a raging inferno in seconds. Make these Christmas tree precautions a holiday safety tradition in your home:

- Select a fresh tree and keep it in water.
- Replace light strings that have worn insulation or broken wiring. Look for the Underwriter's Laboratories label on new purchases.
- Light strings on a metallic tree can electrocute you. Use an off-tree spotlight instead.
- Keep tree away from fireplace, radiator, any heat source.
- Decorate with nonflammable ornaments.
- Never burn evergreen boughs or gift wrapping in the fireplace.
- Tree lights should be small to avoid excessive heat.

The tradition of gift-giving has made Christmas a magical time for children, an occasion warmed by their delight and surprise with the toys and gifts Santa brings. But sometimes a dangerous toy can turn the occasion to heartbreak. When selecting gifts for children:

- Consider the age and abilities of the child and select your gift accordingly.
- Look for an Underwriter's Laboratories label on electrical toys.
- Watch out for playthings that have points, sharp edges or removable parts, especially for little ones.
- The popular "rocket" and shooting toys can put an eye out. Present them only to older children who can understand their danger.

Overcoat/Raincoat OKd

Soldiers soon will be stepping out in style. The Army Chief of Staff recently approved a new men's combination overcoat and raincoat to be worn with the Army greens, blues and tans.

The new coat will replace the dark green polyester-cotton raincoat and the heavy wool overcoat. It is black in color, water repellent and wrinkle resistant. The coat is single breasted, with a concealed button front and a zip-in liner.

In addition, the combination coat features two slash pockets, a back center vent, and shoulder loops for insignia. There will be a convertible collar with storm tab which can be worn open or closed for added warmth.

Troops should be able to buy the coat in the PX next summer. It will become a part of the Army general issue by fall 1978. The coat was developed at the U.S. Army Natick Research and Development Command (NARADCOM) in Natick, ME.

A unique concept-- the Soviet BMP

The Soviet BMP is a unique concept in light armored infantry combat vehicles. The BMP combines the features of a light tank, anti-tank guided missile carrier and an armored personnel carrier. It represents a Soviet success in incorporating all of the desirable features of their previous armored personnel carriers into one vehicle.

The BMP has significant firepower capabilities, including the Sagger wire-guided anti-tank missile, a 73-mm smooth-bore gun and a coaxial mounted 7.62-mm machinegun. Additional firepower is provided by the combat troops firing through the firing ports located on both sides of the vehicle.

The BMP is normally operated by a two-man crew and can transport nine combat equipped troops. Powered by a 280 horsepower, watercooled, six-cylinder diesel engine, the BMP can travel at road speeds up to 80 kph (50 mph) and has a cruising range of 500 km (310 miles). The BMP is also amphibious and is capable of crossing water obstacles at speeds up to 8 kph (5 mph). The turret is electrically driven and can traverse 360 degrees. There is also an infrared searchlight and sight on the BMP for conducting night operations.

The BMP is assigned to Soviet motorized rifle regiments and is considered one of the world's best armored infantry combat vehicles. It has been exported to most Warsaw Pact and Soviet-aided countries.

Ruling cuts dislocation allowance for many

Married service couples stand to lose part of their dislocation allowance in the near future because of a new interpretation of the allowance law.

The Comptroller has ruled that when both spouses are in the service, neither can claim the other as a dependent. Because of the ruling most families will get only one allowance at the without dependents rate when making a PCS move. The new interpretation reasons that when only one household moves, only one allowance should be paid. In the case of children or other family dependents, one of the two service spouses can draw a with-dependents allowance.

Couples now receive two allowances — each at the without dependents rate. These payments exceed the with-dependents allowance paid to a household with only one spouse in the military.

The allowance paid to one spouse-in-service couple will remain the same.

Dislocation allowance is the equivalent of one month's basic allowance for quarters (BAQ), (ARNEWS)

Avoid credit buying problems, plan holiday purchases wisely

By Chuck Blische

It happens every year right after the holiday season. Just like the ghost of Christmas past, bill collectors suddenly appear to haunt overzealous soldier shoppers who have fallen behind on their payment.

It is no real secret that — in most cases — the collection agencies would rather have you pay the money. They will make more in the long run off the interest you must pay on the unpaid amount. However, if push comes to shove, they play the role of the bad guy and try to repossess the merchandise.

If you have fallen behind on your payments, there is a better than average chance that the terms of the installment contract have been broken. And this usually means that the seller is legally entitled to the goods.

Usually the store from which you bought the goods will make the first of several contacts to remind you of your outstanding bill and lack of payments. When they are convinced they cannot collect, the account is sold to a bill collection agency. If you think the store was bugging you, just wait awhile. You ain't seen nothin' yet!

Once the agency is convinced you will not pay, they will attempt to repossess. In essence, the agency has become the seller. And state law notes that the seller can repossess your property if it can be done in a peaceful manner. This means that they can only repossess with your permission. Repossession over your objections — with no court order — is illegal.

The situation should never get this far along. Your best bet is to make an effort in good faith to remedy your wrong. You'll come out ahead if you cooperate with the seller. If you have any doubts as to the seller's claim for repossession tell them you want to settle the matter in court. But don't forget, even after you have informed the seller of this decision, it's not too late to reach a compromise.

If you still can't come to some sort of informal agreement, the seller will be forced to use the judicial processes to satisfy his claim. And sellers don't like to do this. Unless, the value of the property in question is great, the court costs will wipe out most of the damages recovered.

Even though it is usually written in your contract that the buyer will assume any court costs related to the seller's repossession action, this action is usually ignored by the court. Because it is not economical for the seller to go to court, most will bend over backwards to settle with you out of court.

Not only can the soldier-buyer expect grief from the bill collector, the commander may make things a little uncomfortable.

When the bill collector sends dunning letters to the commander, he has several alternatives available to him. The first is counseling. If financial counseling on the part of the CO or responsible financial management personnel does not produce results, disciplinary action may be taken.

The commander may impose an Article 15 for nonpayment of just debts. In this case the soldier is actually worse off. He might get a reduction in grade or a fine (the last thing he needs if he can't pay his bills). The commander may recommend the soldier for discharge if he proves to be chronically in debt.

Other items to be considered are the revocation of the credit privilege, a bad credit rating, embarrassment and constant harrassment.

This holiday season, and every season, plan your expenditures wisely and don't get in over your head . . . you might lose it!

Defense profit and production -- The myth and the reality

The Association of the United States Army has released a position paper, Defense profit and production — the myth and the reality, in support of the Defense Department's efforts to encourage competition for defense contracts and to insure the existence of an expandable production base in the event of a major mobilization.

The AUSA paper attacks the still-prevalent notion that dealing with the armed forces is a sure path to high profits. Defense contractors actually get a smaller profit margin than their civilian-oriented counterparts.

The Department's "Profit '76" program is designed to allow added profit incentives to contractors who make investments in production equipment or improve their productivity. The Department will even help bear interest expense involved in loans for capital improvements to support military production.

Ideally, all defense contracts should be awarded in a competitive atmosphere but, at the present time, so few manufacturers are interested in getting involved in marginally profitable defense work that between 50 and 70 per cent of defense contracts are awarded without competition.

The Department is also examining ways to build-in a "surge capability" that will carry the armed forces through the first few months of an emergency through the use of stockpiled equipment and the ability of defense contractors to immediately expand production. Defense project managers will be encouraged to develop plans for this expansion capability in their negotiations with prospective producers.

Copies of this position paper, plus past position papers, defense reports and similar documents are available at the Post Public Affairs Office, Room 604 in Infantry Hall.

Hangover cures

Drink Alcohol

"A bit of the hair of the dog that bit you," they call it. Of course if you drink enough, today's cure can be tomorrow's hangover.

Oxygen

Inhaling pure oxygen is supposed to help your system oxidize the alcohol. No Good! In fact, your hangover is partly the result of oxidizing alcohol.

Vitamins

Some say super doses of vitamins will build up your body's ability to fight off the hangover. (It doesn't work.)

Tranquillizers

The only thing you may accomplish this way is an overdose of tranquilizing drugs on top of the overdose of alcohol.

Exercise

UGH! Suffering may help your guilt feelings, but your hangover will survive the exercise better than you.

Eat

Stuff yourself with a gigantic breakfast. And if you keep it down, you will still have your hangover — plus a full feeling.

Drink Something Disgusting

After you concoct the awful drink and manage to swallow it, the taste is supposed to make you forget your hangover — but nothing that bad.

Don't think about it.

If you ignore your hangover it will go away. It will, but very, very slowly.

The Cure

At last, modern medical science has found the perfect, failproof, 100 per cent effective cure. You guessed it: Preventive Medicine. The only sure way to cure hangover is before it happens.

Roland--a new look

This is an artist's drawing of the U.S. Roland system, mounted on the chassis of the M-109 self-propelled howitzer. Roland is the French-West German developed missile selected by the U.S. Army to meet requirements for an all-weather, short range air defense missile system. The U.S. is avoiding the tendencies to modify the Roland to U.S. standards. Only three changes have been made — one is a safety feature on the rocket — the other two involve radars. In addition to being able to use compatible missiles, the U.S. version will have 560 interchangeable field replaceable parts with its NATO allies, says Brig. Gen. Frank P. Ragano, the Roland project manager.

Custer Terrace Officers' Club to re-open

Due to an increasing demand to simultaneously accommodate large units, staff, command and student functions at the Main Officers' Club, a decision has been made to reopen Custer Terrace Officers' Club Annex.

This means that the normally scheduled dancing now scheduled in the Supper Club on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, will be scheduled for Custer Terrace. This will allow the Supper Club to be used for catered functions. Initially bands will be booked for Custer Terrace, however the increasingly popular disco concept will eventually be integrated to insure availability of popular, high quality music and preclude last minute no shows of booked bands.

Custer Terrace will open at 5 p.m. till 1 a.m. on Fridays, from 7 p.m. to 2 a.m. on Saturdays and from 7 p.m. to midnight on Sundays. Happy Hour will be held during normally scheduled hours on Fridays from 5 to 7 p.m. Additionally, Custer Terrace will be available for catered parties Monday - Friday.

Theme IV awards presented at 34th Med Bn

By Bill Walton

One of the most satisfying things a person can do is help his fellow man. The rewards for involvement in such activities are varied and many.

Four individuals who distinguished themselves through participating in community enhancement projects were recognized at the 34th Med Bn recently. Bicentennial Clocks were presented to Mrs. Wallace Scott, Col. (Ret.) Jeremiah McKenzie, PFC Robert Bickford and Maj. Bill Drollinger by LtCol. Donald Hull, the 34th Med battalion commander, for their support of Theme IV of the USAIC Bicentennial program.

Since 1956, Mrs. Scott has been working in the Ft. Benning Sunday school program as a teacher and a department director. When the religious program was decentralized in 1974, she became the head teacher of 2d grade Sunday School at Patch, Main Post, Davis Hall and Bouton Heights.

Col. (Ret) McKenzie became superintendent of the post-wide Sunday Schools in 1965. He served in this capacity until 1974 even though he retired from active duty in 1969. Presently he is serving as director of the Patch, Main Post, Davis Hill and Bouton Heights Sunday Schools.

In the last seven months PFC Bickford has contributed approximately 100 hours a month of his off duty time assisting the professional and non-professional staff in the emergency room of Martin Army Hospital. He has been an able assistant in all phases of the emergency room procedures and is especially useful in situations requiring rapid patient evaluation and response.

Sensing the need for an organization to perform during the Bicentennial and the need for worthwhile, wholesome career oriented co-educational activities for the young people of the Ft. Benning and Bi-City Community, Maj. Drollinger organized the Ft. Benning Explorer Post 76 Drum and Fife Corps, Boy Scouts of America in April 1975. Through his efforts this organization has become a showpiece of the area and has performed 58 times including a performance for President Ford. They have won 12 honors for their music and marching performances.

Some qualified E4s not being recommended

Many qualified E-4s are not being recommended for promotions by commanders and supervisors. That's the latest word put out in MILPERCEN's December promotion score cutoff letter to the field.

DA officials say that their records show 16,000 E-4s had recommended list status as of August 31st this year. However, there are about 55,000 E-4s who have completed 36 months or more active service as of August and that more than 18,000 additional personnel have completed between 33 and 35 months.

MILPERCEN wants to set the record straight. All commanders and supervisors should recommend all troops who are eligible to compete and be recommended for promotion.

Soldiers who are not recommended to go before a promotion board should be told the reason why. This will allow them to make an effort to improve their chances.

In addition, there are 11,000 E-5s presently on a standing list status for promotion to E-6, many in overstrength specialties. MILPERCEN has advised commanders to identify those E-4s and E-5s on the list in overstrength specialties and counsel them about the opportunities available through reclassification.

These counseling sessions should point out the following:

- Volunteer action will enhance their career development, open promotion flow and assist in achieving that promotion which the high overstrength MOS cutoff score now prevents.

- Continued retention of an overstrength MOS may stifle career development, lead to involuntary reclassification and limit reenlistment options available under year group management.

The December 1976 cutoff letter to the field is designed to assist the commander in identifying those specialties which are short or critical for promotions to E-5.

For promotion to E-6, the minimum score for getting on the promotion list is 600. Because of the small number of personnel that can be promoted each month from the standing list, a low cutoff score is not always an indication that the MOS is short. Nor does a high score always indicate overstrength. Soldiers should check with the servicing MILPO to identify those MOSs that offer the best promotion opportunities. (ARNEWS)

The best Christmas I ever had!!!

The best Christmas I ever had was last Christmas. You see in March of '75 my dad was transferred to Korea. He sent us letters and pictures. But that wasn't enough. I missed him like a bee misses honey. I wrote him and told him the only present I wanted was for him to come home that Christmas. He did come home.

One day my father had an operation on his leg. We thought that my dad wouldn't come home for Christmas. We were all sad and lonesome.

One night we went to bed. Then we heard something drop. We went downstairs to see what had dropped. When we got downstairs we saw it was my father. We were so happy my dad could come home and spend the Christmas with us. Merry Christmas to all.

These letters have been selected at random and do not reflect the results of the contest nor will their publication influence their selection by the Columbus newspapers.

The best Christmas I ever had was in Germany when it snowed real deep in back of our house. We had fun and had big parties that were great and we would go sledding and get all wet and cold but it was a great Christmas and the Christmas spirit will live for a long time.

The best Christmas I ever had was when I was six. All my relatives were there. The house was packed with people. The house smelled very good. Everyone finally went home. My grandparents stayed the night. The next morning was very cheerful and fun. Wrapping paper was everywhere. It was a very fun day.

I think Christmas should not only be cheerful but we should also remember that it is Christ's birthday. I think we should think of others not only ourselves. We should remember that it's the thought of the gift that counts.

Seasons Greetings 1976

During this holiday season, we wish to extend to all United States Army personnel our personal greetings and best wishes. We hope that this holy and joyous season will be a time of peace and happiness for you and your loved ones.

The spirit of this season reinforces our belief that "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men" can become a reality. As we approach our Nation's third century of freedom, let us rededicate ourselves to help achieve a lasting peace and a feeling of true brotherhood for all mankind. As our Nation looks to the men and women of the Army to help attain this goal, we wish to express to you our deepest gratitude for your devotion, dedication and sacrifice.

May God grant each of you the very finest of holidays and a new year of good health and happiness.

(s) MARTIN R. HOFFMANN
Secretary of the Army

(s) BERNARD W. ROGERS
General, U. S. Army
Chief of Staff

This season is one of joy, hope and peace to all of us of the Judeo-Christian heritage. We have the high privilege of freely expressing our faith in God and His message of good will toward all men. It is a time for renewing ties of brotherhood with all men.

No one contributes more to the dream of a just, honorable and lasting peace for all the people of the world than our American soldier. For two centuries he has protected our freedom and helped others who seek freedom from tyranny and aggression. The unselfish and loyal service of the entire Army family, both military and civilian, is known and greatly appreciated. All personnel of Fort Benning can be justly proud of their dedication to the American dream.

Mrs. Latham and I extend to all personnel of Fort Benning our best wishes for a safe and joyous holiday season and for a new year of health and happiness.

fins, furs, feathers

By Denny Blankenship

After ostracizing Gus Guzman from the brotherhood of man last week, I'm happy to report that ol' Gus came through with a six-point buck last Friday. That should show wife Marie that her little three-pointer isn't so hot after all.

Welcome back Gus. Just don't let it happen again.

I don't mean to come down on women so hard, it's just that, well they're so confusing at times.

You know I was roaring down Hwy 27 last week on my way to a hot deer stand. Below the Harmony Church area, I noticed a woman motorist whose car had stalled. I pulled over, assessed the situation and told the distraught gal, "Your car is out of gas." "Will it hurt the car," she asked, "if I drive it home with the gas tank empty?"

Let's get off women and back to deer hunting. These are my thoughts concerning what should happen after a deer is shot.

Proper care of venison begins the moment a deer is shot. The first thing you must do is to make sure the animal is dead. I know of a hunter who approached his downed deer, straddled it knife in hand, ready to field dress, when the wounded buck jumped to its feet with the startled hunter astride its back. The deer finally collapsed after a 50 yard dash through the woods.

The thoroughly shook hunter suffered three broken ribs, numerous cuts and bruises and most of all wounded pride.

Assuming the deer is dead, the hunter should gut the animal. Cutting the throat is a waste of time, because once an animal is dead, the heart stops pumping. You should be very careful when gutting your deer to prevent puncturing the intestines.

Nothing will sour meat faster than contaminating the meat with partially digested food from the deer's stomach. The same applies to the bladder. Urine from a punctured bladder will quickly turn good meat bad.

Once the intestines are free of the deer, wipe all the blood from the body cavity, then prop the rib cage open so air can circulate and cool the meat.

After you have field-dressed your deer, it should be processed or butchered within a 12 hour period to prevent the formation of bacteria. When doing this make sure you trim all bloodshot tissue from the carcass as this will turn sour and could ruin the entire deer.

One other item I would like to mention is the removal of the musk or scent glands. I find this a waste of time and in fact, it can help contaminate the meat. If you cut the scent glands from the deer, then use the same knife to cut any portion of the meat, that meat will be ruined from the contaminated knife. It's a known fact gang, that if the deer is butchered 12-14 hours after killing, the scent glands will not contaminate the meat.

Fifty-five deer were killed this part weekend to bring the season total to 547. The longer doe season seems to be accounting for the slight increase over last year.

One buck has been checked in without antlers. Wildlife officials state that due to the early winter and a corresponding early "rut," a lot of the bigger deer have started to lose their antlers earlier than usual. Don't be surprised if you kill one without horns.

My brother-in-law was visiting from Ohio awhile back and was admiring my hillside garden in the back of my house.

He said, "How did you grow that garden? It looks pretty steep."

"I don't plow it," I answered, "When the spring thaw comes, the rocks rolling down hill tear it up."

"That so? How do you plant it," queried my astonished relative.

"Don't plant it really," I answered, "Just stand in my back door and shoot the seed in with my shot gun."

"Is that the truth," asked the unbelieving Northerner.

"Hell no," I answered, "but it's something to write about."

Ponder this until next week: Fish are creatures that go on vacation about the time most fishermen do.

Camellia is an apartment motel. We don't rent rooms, we rent furnished apartments with all the features of a regular motel plus added conveniences that cannot be provided with just a single room — and all at the same, or most times lower rates than the single-room motel. For example, our "standard" unit is comprised of two bedrooms, combination living room-dining room, bathroom and fully furnished kitchen including refrigerator, stove, cooking utensils, and table service for six people. These are some of the "extras" but at no extra cost. Our 150 units are in separate buildings with usually four apartments in each building, which adds to a person's or family's privacy.

Legends tell Christmas tree origin

By Pat Maybin

As the white December fog lies curled against the tall and bountiful forestry of Georgia, our thoughts turn to festive trees of the Christmas season.

At Christmas as we look at the glowing tree around which the carols are being sung and peals of laughter ascend, we return to the land of make-believe. If we do not go ourselves, we visit it by proxy through the eyes of each new generation of childhood as we tell them legends of how the little Christmas tree earned the job of sheltering all of Santa's wonderful gifts.

One Christmas tree legend tells the story of St. Wilfred of the Seventh Century who introduced Roman practices in England.

One day he was standing in the midst of a crowd of his converts, and in order to indicate that they had severed all connection with the Druids and such heathen practices, he chopped down a giant oak, which was one of the principle objects of the Druidic worship. As it fell to the earth with a thunderous noise it split into four pieces and from its very center grew a young fir tree, pointing a green spire toward the sky. The converts gazed in amazement.

St. Wilfred let his ax drop and turned to speak, "This little tree, a young child of the forest, shall be your Holy tree tonight. It is the wood of peace, for your houses are built of the fir. It is the sign of an endless life, for its leaves are evergreen. See how it points toward the heaven. Let this be called the tree of the Christ child; gather about it, not in the wildwood, but in your own homes. There it will shelter no deeds of blood but shall be surrounded with loving gifts and rites of kindness."

TREE OF LIFE

This same little fir tree has another legend which states it is the tree which once bloomed and the foliage became shrunken into tiny needle-like leaves. But on the night that Christ was born it began to bloom again.

The Vikings of the north also chose the fir tree as their Christmas plant. When Ansgarius preached the White Christ to the Vikings, Jacob A. Riis tells how the Lord sent his tree messengers, Faith, Hope and Love, to light the first tree. They sought a tree that would be as high as hope, as wide as love, and that bore the sign of the cross on every bough. Upon seeing the balsam fir in the forests, they chose it as the tree which best met these requirements.

FRENCH TALE

In France one man saw a vision or experienced a real phenomenon among Christmas trees. It was Christmas Eve and Bochevalier was going through the deep forest, when he saw from afar a tall evergreen tree. Even in the distance it seemed aglow with lights and a star appeared to rest among its topmost branches.

As he went nearer, he saw the tree was covered with candles; some were hanging down and others stood upright. What seemed to be the star at the top of the tree was really a vision of a child with a pale amber halo about its lovely head.

When he told this story to the wise men of his community they shook their heads, but his mother was not puzzled about the vision.

"My son," she said, "your fortunate journey through the forest has revealed to you the Tree of Humanity. The candles were people. The good persons were represented by the upright candles; alas, the bad ones were inverted. And the Child at the top, the Infant Jesus. He watches over all the world of humanity. All France, is indeed, blessed by your vision."

EGYPTIAN PALM

An Egyptian version infers that the Christmas tree originated in their homeland. The palm tree is known to put forth a shoot each month so that a spray of the tree with 12 shoots on it was used as a symbol of the year completed in Egypt. Since this was used in connection with the festival of Isis, the goddess of nature, the Egyptian folklore has it that this is the real origin of the Christmas tree.

In all Scandinavian countries it is common to give the birds a Christmas tree. A former minister to Sweden tells how he first saw the Christmas trees for the birds. "One winter day at Yuletide I had been skating on a pretty lake, Daljen, three miles from Bothenburg. On my way home I noticed that at every farmer's house was erected, in the middle of the doorway, a pole to the top of which was bound a large sheaf of grain. "What is that?" I asked my companion. "Oh, that is for the birds, the little wild birds. They must have Christmas, too, you know." There is not a peasant in all Sweden who will sit down with his children for Christmas until he has first raised aloft a Christmas dinner for the little birds that live in the snow."

The Scandinavians also relate the story of a service tree which sprang from the blood-drenched soil where two lovers had died. On certain nights of the Christmas season, mysterious lights were seen from its branches — lights that no wind could extinguish. So here again is a legend dealing with our present light-bedecked tree which has become the symbol of Christmas.

NATIONAL TREE

In the United States a national Christmas tree was shared. At high noon on Christmas day, 1925, the famous General Grant tree, located in the General Grant National park, was designated as the Nation's Christmas Tree. This park is 64 miles east of Fresno, CA, and the tree was estimated to be 265 feet high. Devotional and patriotic services were held beneath the "big tree" each year and were broadcast over nationwide hookups. For years following the tree designation, large numbers of visitors attended this unique ceremony.

There are many famous Christmas trees in the United States. At Altadena, CA., at the foot of the Sierra Madre mountains, there is a mile-long avenue of deodar cedars. The story of how they happened to be planted gives credit to Captain Frederick J. Woodbury, a world traveler of 1882. On the slopes of the Himalaya mountains, between altitude of 7,000 to 12,000 feet, he saw the magnificent deodars of India. The older trees of the ancient forest rose to heights of 150 feet.

He gathered their seeds and planted them on his ranch in residence. The captain and his ranch are no more, but the avenue is a public thoroughfare today. These trees are illuminated each year and thousands of visitors come great distances to see this Christmas-tree row.

In Wilmington, N. C., there grows an extremely large live oak tree festooned with Spanish moss. The spread of the branches of this tree is in excess of 110 feet. Several years ago it was said that 10,000 people attended the celebration beneath this tree. More than 750 multicolored lights and over 1,000 ornaments were used to decorate this tree. Beneath it, on a cross, illuminated with 12 lights typifying the 12 Apostles, and at the left of the platform a Christmas crib scene was staged.

No matter whether the tree for Christmas is large or small, the sentiment is the same around the world — giving and receiving with kindness so that all may have pleasant associations with the CHRISTMAS TREE.

the benning lady

By Christine Bass

Due to the death of my Grandfather, the Benning Lady will not appear next week, as I will be out of the area. May I take this opportunity to wish you all a Very Merry Christmas, and I look forward to serving you again next year.

A Special Merry Christmas
As President of the NCOWC, I would like to wish a Very Merry Christmas to Mrs. Phillip Richard, and to express my sincere appreciation to her for a fantastic job in organizing and carrying out the Gift Wrapping Booth for the NCO Wives Club, and also to her family for being 100% behind her during this trying period.

Children Party
On Saturday, December 18th, the Top 5 NCO Club sponsored a Christmas Party for children of their members, twelve years and under, with the NCO Wives Club as hostesses. The children were entertained with a play, given by the students of Wilson School, under the directions of Ms. Pemberton. The stars were:

Henry Johnson, Tommy Utley, Greg Sollars, Steve Campbell, Bonnie Ray, John Scott, Tommy Johnson, Joe Quajardo, Victor Watts, Tammy Reyes, George Byrd, David Hobbs, Troy Creech, Jimmy Lawrence, Cynthia Maisano, Debra Norman, Michelle Dumont, Robert Steedley, Robert Duh and Laura Cone. The Children enjoyed an afternoon of treats, a dance contest, prizes and a visit with Santa and a variety of refreshments. Special mention goes to Mesdames Roegiers, Mccalla, Hancock, Mills, Jackson and Barger, for a well planned afternoon.

Breakfast and Games
On December 20th, the NCOWC members and their guests met at the Top 5 NCO Club, for breakfast and games. This was the last social meeting for the members for the year. We look forward to a new year of charitable and social activities.

Muscogee Manor Christmas Party
The NCO Wives Club sponsored a Christmas Party at the Muscogee Manor Nursing Home on December 21st. All of the patients received gifts and refreshments, served by Mesdames Howard, Dinnell, Jones, Daley, and other members of the Wives Club and their older children, in an afternoon of fun and entertainment for the patients.

MEDDAC News
The ladies of the MEDDAC OWC started the Christmas season off with a tea at the home of Mrs. Anton Hitzelberger. Honored guest for the special event were: Mrs. Willard Latham and Mrs. John Henschman. In keeping with the spirit of the season, a box of food was collected for the ACS food locker, which is given to needy military families. We thank you Karen, and all of the other ladies, who baked and planned the lovely tea.

197th Inf Bde Christmas Tea
A Christmas Tea was held recently, for the ladies of the 197th Inf Bde, by Mrs. Fletcher R. Ware, wife of the Bde Commander. Surrounded by gorgeous Christmas decorations, the ladies thoroughly enjoyed a musical toast to the Christmas holidays, presented by the Faith School Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Ann Evans. Mrs. Dean Laftin also sang several Christmas songs for the ladies entertainment. Among the many special guests attending the Tea was Mrs. Willard Latham, wife of the Post Commanding General. Co-hostesses for the tea were, Mrs. Guy Sodano, Mrs. Theron Hill, Mrs. James Bagdanov, Mrs. William Seeley, Mrs. Herman Ivey, Mrs. Paul Makowski, and Mrs. Charles Belan.

197th Inf Bde Christmas Formal
The 197th Inf Bde held their Christmas Formal on Saturday, the 11th of December, at the Officers Club. The hostessing Unit was the 2/10th FA. After dinner, music was provided by the Infantry Chorus. Special guest for the event were: Mayor and Mrs. Frank Roberts of Phenix City, Col. and Mrs. John Henschman, and Col. and Mrs. Wallace Veaudry.

Don't take the merry out of 'Merry Christmas'

Unfortunately for many Americans the Christmas-New Year holiday season changes from one of merriment to deep sadness because a loved one has been killed or injured in an accident. The principle hazard is exposure on the nation's highways. Personnel planning to travel long distances are urged to use commercial transportation as their chances of safe arrival are much improved by leaving the driving to the experts.

If you do plan on driving or riding with someone else in a privately owned vehicle, consider the following safety tips:

Plan the trip in advance.

Be sure the vehicle is in a safe operating condition.

Check the weather report between points of departure and destination.

Plan rests stops and use them.

Use the Interstate highway system as much as possible since you will be much safer on these controlled high speed arteries. You will also make better time.

Insist on no drinking. Save your drinking and merrymaking until after you arrive.

While on leave remember to obey the rules of defensive driving. You can get killed after you arrive through only a moment's carelessness.

If by chance you find yourself exposed to the very serious danger of riding with a reckless, careless or drunken driver, you must remove yourself from this very serious situation. If you can do so safely, turn off the ignition, remove the switch key and get out after the vehicle stops. Above all, remember, you have only one life, don't let some fool squander it for you.

Plan your return trip as carefully as you did the trip home. If you are going to be late, accept it. Call your unit. They would rather have you back late than not at all.

Christmas can be merry for you and your loved ones if you will think and act safely.

Social Security: guaranteed income

Every month soldiers have money deducted from their paycheck but few understand where the money goes and even fewer give any thought to when they will get the money back. The deduction is for Social Security. Everyone understands that the money, like income tax, must come out, but give it little further thought.

Social Security is a form of national insurance against being disabled or too old to work. If that should happen, the person receives a regular check depending upon the number of years worked and the total average earning amount. The soldier pays money into the account while young and it is paid back in monthly payments at the age of 62 or when disabled.

For many civilians, Social Security is the only retirement they will receive. However, soldiers will receive Social Security payments in addition to the regular benefits from being a retired soldier. A percentage of the person's taxable income — 5.85 — is withheld and that amount is matched by the employer. So, in the case of retired soldiers, the government pays the regular retirement plus half of the Social Security.

An account is opened in the individual's name when a Social Security number is applied for and any money paid in is credited to the person's account. The same Social Security number is used throughout the person's lifetime and great care should be taken to make certain the number given to employers is correct.

A soldier is fully insured after 18 months of active duty and anyone who has credit for 10 years of work is fully insured for life. That means that the person has qualified for certain kinds of benefits but it does not determine the amount of such payments. The amount of the payment will depend on the contributor's average earnings over the period of work. A person must be fully insured to receive monthly retirement benefits at 62 or later.

Certain benefits may be paid to survivors of Social Security contributors if they are currently insured when he or she dies. To be currently insured, a contributor must have Social Security credits for 18 months of work within the three-year period before death. Disability payments may also be paid after certain periods of work, depending on the age of the contributor when becoming disabled.

Every year, there is a rise in the maximum amount of earnings for Social Security purposes. For the year 1977, Social Security will be withheld from the first $16,500 in taxable income earned. Most enlisted soldiers do not reach that mark, so Social Security payments are deducted throughout the year. For others who pass that point in the year, no more Social Security is taken out afterwards — thus they may experience a slight rise in the take home pay near the end of the year.

The maximum amount any soldier will pay into Social Security in 1977 will be $965.25. (ARNEWS)

By Lisa D'Luhy

More than 4.5 million Americans will marry this year, however, 1.8 million of these will experience the emotional and financial heartbreak of divorce, if the present trends continue.

They will be drawn into disputes over points of law so complex and intense that negotiating a corporate merger is often easier. Aside from the legal aspects of financial details and the division of possession, there is the trauma of human break-up which includes an alteration in life styles, change in friends and acquaintances and if children are involved, the matter of who they will live with — where — and for how long.

In the United States, the divorce rate has risen to over 970,000 cases a year, compared to 56,000 in 1900. There are now over 4.4 million Americans over the age of 45 years who are either divorced or separated, more than twice as many as ten years ago. The percentage increase of divorces per 1,000 has risen to five per cent per year.

How many of these divorces involve military?

Due to the availability of getting a divorce in civil courts, there are no exact number that can be given but one thing can be said — divorce is on the rise.

Why do people seek divorce as a means to solve family discourse? The answer to this is not simple.

All too often, the Army is labled as a major contributing factor because of many reasons related to the demands of the job. The 40-hour week which in reality is sometimes longer. The requirements to be away from home occasionally for duties such as Charge of Quarters, guard duty or field exercises which the spouse doesn't or refuses to understand. The unaccompanied short tour which takes the military member away from the home for as long as 13 months.

The inability to cope with or understand the needs of the service can lead to problems which could ultimately end in separation or divorce. People who were experiencing problems adjusting to married life as civilians may experience a heightening of these problems when they enter the service. A separation can be traumatic for both partners involved.

"Some people are emotionally unprepared for marriage and what it involves," notes a post chaplain, "Marriage is a period of adjustment, and in the military, that adjustment takes awhile — for both individuals."

According to Capt. Lewis Gillis, the chief of Benning's legal assistance division, divorce stems from a communication barrier coupled with the failure to compromise to each others needs.

Modern Christmas tree originated in Germany

By Joyce Walker

As with many of our American holidays, the Christmas season is steeped in folklore and tradition. The many traditional customs connected with Christmas have developed from many sources.

For example, the setting up of the modern Christmas tree, an evergreen, usually a balsam or douglas fir, decorated with lights and ornaments, originated in western Germany.

The main prop of a German medieval play about Adam and Eve was a fir tree decorated with apples representing the Garden of Eden. On December 24th the religious feast day of Adam and Eve, the Germans set up a "Paradise tree in their homes wreathing it with wafers (symbolizing the host, the Christian sign of redemption) and candles too were often used as symbols of Christ.

The custom was widespread among the German Lutherans during the 18th Century. It was introduced into England in the 19th century and popularized in the mid-19th century by Prince Albert, husband of Queen Victoria.

The old German legend of the origin of the Christmas tree introduces two children sitting by a fire on a cold wintry evening. A knock is heard at the door and the boy runs to open it, finding a child standing outside in the cold with no shoes on his feet, and clad in thin, ragged garments. Shivering with cold, he asks to come in and warm himself.

"Yes," cry both the children, "you shall have our place by the fire, Come in."

They let him in and share their supper with him give him their bed while they sleep on a hard bench. In the night they are awakened by strands of sweet music and looking out the window they see bands of children in shining garments playing on golden harps approaching the house.

Suddenly, the stranger-child stands beside them clad in a silvery light and in a soft voice he says, "I was cold, and you took me in. I was hungry and you fed me. I was tired and you gave me your bed. I am the Christ-child, wandering through the world — to bring peace and peace and happiness to the hearts of all good children. As you have given me, so many this tree every year give rich fruit to you."

So saying, he broke a branch from a fir tree and planted it into the ground. It grew into a great tree and every year bore golden fruit for the two kind children.

A military life includes long hours, irregular work schedules and being away from home for unknown periods of time. However, similar conditions appear in other occupations as well.

Factors attributing to divorce may vary anywhere from financial hardship and differences in goals to poor sexual relations. The 'cultural shock' for the newly introduced partner to the military may be an over-riding consideration.

The military has a language of its own which may not be familiar to the newly initiated spouse and she may be unable to relate to it. If the couple can not communicate with each other — can't express their goals, needs or desires to one another — dissatisfaction in one or both partners develops. The combination of the inability to communicate, a financial problem, hubby having duty and a sick child could easily be the beginning of the end if help is not sought.

Chaplain Duncan Sinclair explains it this way, "When a young couple gets married, small problems are always there. If you add on the fact that the new bride hasn't seen her husband in a couple of days, she could become depressed. A crack begins to form. Marriage problems like that crack could start to grow when the pressure is applied."

"There are some factors that military life may add to a couple's problems, but it isn't the influencing one. Many couples are emotionally unprepared for marriage or too immature in many cases," the chaplain added.

Most people associate immaturity with youth, however, this is not always the case. An inability to communicate, unclear goals and aspirations and a lack of understanding are all symptoms of immaturity and there are no age barriers involved. Before a couple realizes it, there is a marriage in name only — no longer is there mutual trust and understanding and the crack continues to grow as the pressure is applied. Separation and divorce could follow.

All too often, a spouse will try to blame something or someone when a marriage begins to fail, and when the military is involved — it becomes as good a scapegoat as any. The military realizes the importance of a solid marital foundation — from the standpoint of family happiness and togetherness to duty performance. When a marriage fails the people involved suffer and the military suffers.

Problems of all sorts are faced by couples whether they are civilians or in the military. Many are able to cope with these problems, some are not. Problems left unattended can only grow, therefore it is vital that help be made available to those who need it or want it.

The Army provides many services in these areas. From financial management classes and counseling to assistance during trying times, the Army is there to help. Legal assistance is available for those who need it — from assistance with wills and powers of attorney to state tax information and problems with leases or budgeting — the Army stands ready to serve. Religious counseling and guidance is available.

Religious counseling and guidance is available for those who want it. The Army Community Services provides many services to newly arrived families and is ready to help anyone in time of need.

The key to preventing problems from getting out of hand is the ability to recognize that something is wrong and then to take measures to correct it. Whether a family problem can be handled merely by discussing it with your spouse or requires outside assistance is something you must decide for yourself. But do it now before that small problem grows, gets out of hand and you become a marital statistic.

Christmas (Internationally speaking) is different

By Joyce Walker

Christmas, a Christian festival commemorating the birth of Christ, is celebrated world-wide. This international holiday is observed in many ways. Some of the Allied Officers currently at Ft. Benning, explain how Christmas is celebrated in their homeland.

"For the French, Christmas is a time for the family to come together for a big family feast, explains LtCol. Phillippe Guilbaud, the French Liaison Officer.

"Each year, the family usually sets up a Christmas Crib, (Nativity Scene) which features a donkey, ox, a small replica of St. Joseph and the Virgin Mary, but the manger remains empty," he continued.

Guilbaud went on to say that a week before Christmas, each child in the family is represented in the crib by a sheep. If the child is good, the sheep advances toward the end of the table, if the child is bad, it goes back. If the sheep hasn't advanced to the edge of the table by Christmas eve, the child isn't entitled to any presents.

On the evening of the 24th, the family gathers together to attend midnight mass. When they return from mass, they put the Christ child in the manger. Before going to bed, the children put their shoes before the chimney with hopes of finding them stuffed with gifts in the morning.

In the morning, everyone gathers in the drawing room around the Christmas Crib and the children receive their presents.

"We don't celebrate Thanksgiving, so our "Repas de Noel" (Christmas Dinner) features a turkey," said LTC Guilbaud. Usually, there is also oysters, goose liver, pork meat, white pudding and a special Christmas desert, "Buche de Noel" (loosely translated as Christmas Log cake). It is a roll cake, especially decorated to look like the trunk of a tree garnished with decorative holly leaves.

A Venezuelan Christmas is also accented by a big dinner featuring turkey according to Capt. Omar Pacheco, an allied student from Venezuela attending the Infantry Officer Advance Course -5.

A sure sign that Christmas is almost here is an Advent Wreath with all four candles burning. A tradition from Europe, four Sundays before Christmas the first candle is lighted and on each successive Sunday an additional candle is lit until the last Sunday before Christmas when all four are burning. Traditionally Christmas-carols are sung while the Advent Candles are burning.

The special dinner is characterized by a special dish made only during Christmas. "Ayacka is a corn flour base, chicken and pork meat pie that is wrapped in a banana leaf," he explained.

"The meal is eaten at midnight and then the children go to bed. While they are asleep, Jesus comes and puts many toys under their beds. The adults continue to eat, talk, and drink and party well into the next day," Capt. Pacheco concluded.

"In Nigeria, there is much merrymaking, with the kids setting off fireworks, dressing up in traditional dress and going from house to house collecting sweets, much like the kids do in America on Halloween," says Maj. Anthony Ukpo, who is also a student of IOAC-5.

On Christmas eve, the Christians attend midnight mass. During the day, the Nigerians exchange visits with their friends exchanging gifts and food. They form into age groups to buy sheep and goats, which are slaughtered and barbecued at outdoor parties.

"The day is also punctuated with many plays and demonstrations in public playgrounds for anyone who wants to attend until eight or nine in the evening," Maj. Ukpo added.

"The Ethiopians, whose calendar is seven years behind the American calendar, will be celebrating Christmas on December 29, 1969," says Maj. Haiyu Highland another student of IOAC-5 from Ethiopia.

"The Ethiopians get up around 6:30 Christmas morning, dress in their native costume, and attend a special religious song ceremony at their church which usually lasts for about three hours."

"When they return home, they invite friends over to enjoy a festive feast. It is also a time when a special circular bread made only at Christmas is eaten, Maj. Highland concluded.

This is but a small sampling of how Christmas is celebrated throughout the world. However there is one host who prevails at each one. That is the Christmas spirit of peace and goodwill towards all.

It only takes a minute to reach a ready market

Once upon a time, there was a man named Scrooge. He was a crotchety, penny-pinching old miser who thought that people who collected for charities were money-grubbing parasites. "Humbug" he would rumble. "They're all a bunch of phonies."

Now Scrooge happened to have a CB in his car, but only because it had come free with the car. He had grumbled about the extra paperwork, but had dutifully filled out the license application. He never talked much on it because he thought there were too many "phonies" and "do-gooders" using it. Scrooge also disliked Christmas. "Trees, presents? Bah! Humbug!" So it wasn't unusual for him to be working late one Christmas Eve. When he left his office that Christmas Eve long after dark, snow had been falling for some time and the streets were quite slick.

and caught in the wreckage. He panicked and began to beat the window seeking a way out. Then, nearly exhausted, he noticed the CB. Gratitude was not a normal emotion for Scrooge, but he felt it when he saw the power light come on in that CB set. Turning to the emergency channel, he keyed the mike:

"Break 9. Emergency! Somebody help me!" "This is emergency monitor KCDE 2253. What's the trouble?" "My car went off the road, please help me!" "We're calling the Highway Patrol now, sir. Please give me your location and the extent of any injuries."

"I went through the guard rail on Highway 19 about five miles south of the Beltway. There's nobody else here and I can't move my legs."

"Break 19. This is Mr. S. Where's the coffee break?" "Good evening, Mr. S. This is Lonesome Polecat. We're having a coffee break down at the Elite Truck Stop all night tonight. You see, there's a young fellow called Tiny Tim who needs an operation so he can walk and we're trying to raise enough money to finance the operation as a Christmas present. We only need a few more dollars to make it and any contribution would be welcome, 10-4."

Even through his agony, Scrooge marveled at the voice. Though sounding cool and professional, it was the voice of a teenage boy. The voice continued:

Scrooge didn't even bother to reply. "Another bunch of do-gooders," he thought as he snapped off the CB. He had become so engrossed in anger that he didn't notice the curve until he was already skidding on the icy pavement. Before he could recover, he went crunching through the guard rail and down a hill.

"Please remain calm, sir. The police and an ambulance are on the way."

When he came to, his first thought was to get out of the car. But when he tried to move, he found that his legs were crushed

"Don't worry about your legs, sir. I know many doctors and they can work wonders. I'm sure you'll be walking again in no time."

Then as he watched the flashing red and blue lights approach, Scrooge realized who the emergency monitor was, and a great change came over him. Silently vowing that, no matter what happened to himself, he would see that one other person would walk again, Scrooge keyed the mike one final time.

"God bless you, Tiny Tim."

"God bless us all, sir. Merry Christmas."

"God bless you, Tiny Tim."

Benning woman qualifies for EFMB

Joanne Dingly, a physician's assistant with Co B, 197th Spt Bn, recently became one of Ft. Benning's first women to qualify for the Expert Field Medical Badge (EFMB) when she completed the rigorous testing program presented by the 34th Med Bn.

A woman keenly dedicated to the well being of others, CWO2 Dingly accepted the challenge offered by the EFMB to test her own capabilities. "I found the test both physically and mentally challenging," said Dingly.

The purpose of the Expert Field Medical Badge is to provide recognition of those personnel who have attained a high level of skill and proficiency in the performance of field medical functions.

A native of Minneapolis, MN, Joanne Dingly first entered the Army in 1962. "I came in the Army to get an education and I've been getting one ever since," she said. In 1973 she was one of two women to graduate in the first PA course offered by the Army at Ft. Sam Houston, TX and has been stationed at Ft. Benning ever since.

Extremely responsive and conscientious, CWO2 Dingly serves as the resident medical expert at Troop Medical Clinic #6, (TMC-6) and as such is responsible for the kind and quality of medical care extended there. TMC-6 serves the 5th AIT Bn, 43rd Engr Bn, Co D, 197th Spt Bn and the 2/69th Ar Bn. "We see between 70 and 90 people per day," said CWO2 Dingly who sees about 20 per cent of those herself.

When the 34th Med Bn offered the EFMB program, CWO2 Dingly knew it would be tough, but characteristically, she went about it with sincere dedication. In addition to the medical aspects one would expect to find on a medics test, it also included a 12-mile forced road march, basic signal communications, a physical fitness test and a day and night compass course.

In her spare time, she unwinds with a good book and fine music; that is if she isn't riding through the woods on one of her three horses or off scuba diving with her husband.

CWO2 Joanne Dingly, resident medical expert at TMC-6 checks the blood pressure of SFC Eugene Brooks, HHC, 2/69th Ar. during a routine examination. CWO2 Dingly recently qualified for the Expert Field Medical Badge, becoming the first woman on Ft. Benning to receive the honor.

Honored Service Members

AFTER A SUDDEN COUNTERATTACK BY AN ENEMY PLATOON, SERGEANT JOHN J. McVEIGH STOOD UP IN FULL VIEW AND DIRECTED THE FIRE OF HIS SQUAD UNTIL HIS POSITION WAS ALMOST OVERRUN.

HE THEN DREW HIS TRENCH KNIFE AND CHARGED SINGLE-HANDEDLY TOWARDS SEVERAL OF THE ENEMY.

IN A SAVAGE HAND-TO-HAND STRUGGLE, SGT. McVEIGH KILLED ONE GERMAN WITH HIS KNIFE, HIS ONLY WEAPON, AND WAS ADVANCING ON THREE MORE OF THE ENEMY WHEN HE WAS SHOT DOWN BY SMALL ...

JOHN J. McVEIGH

SERGEANT

MEDAL OF HONOR

McVeigh Barracks, a Ft. Benning building dedicated Mar. 3, 1948 in the name of Sgt. John J. McVeigh, Medal of Honor recipient, is located on the Main Post in the third quarter north of Wold Avenue between Anderson St. and Dilboy St. McVeigh was killed in action during WWII near Breast, France on Aug. 29, 1944.

Gun laws explained

Soldiers who commute to their daily duty stations across state lines may now buy a firearm in the state in which they are on active duty as well as in their state of residency, according to Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms officials.

In the past, troops could only purchase a weapon in the state in which they were stationed.

The Gun Control Act of 1968 requires that a person be a legal resident of the state in which he or she purchases a firearm. For the purposes of Federal firearms laws, a member of the Armed Forces is considered a resident of the state in which his permanent duty station is located. If a member of the Armed Forces commutes daily from his residence in one state to his duty station in another state, he would be considered a resident of both states under the new ruling. This means he can purchase any type of legal firearm in either state.

In states with military bases near borders with other states, such as Ft. Benning, the ruling means military personnel who purchase firearms may now take them home from either the state where they work or reside.

A WINNER.

Nobody figured on America to lead the field. But when we won the Battle of Saratoga, things started to look a lot better. People started taking this bunch of revolutionaries seriously. Badly needed funds came pouring in. And then, with the people's support, America and her army won.

Today, America's still a winner. Thanks to millions of Americans who buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Every time you buy Bonds through your Payroll Savings Plan, you're helping your country stay out in front.

And you're gaining interest on what it takes for the vacation, education or home improvement you've been planning.

So buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

It's one sure way to finish in the money.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Orthopedic services temporarily discontinued for some

Due to a shortage of operating room personnel, operating space and physical therapists, many orthopedic services to dependents of retired and deceased personnel will be temporarily discontinued.

The cut-back in service affects patients seeking non-emergency orthopedic surgery, operating out-patient care and related physical therapy.

There will be no reduction in services for acute injuries to include fractures, dislocations, lacerations, acute infections or conditions which require emergency surgery. Post-operative follow-up care will not be discontinued.

Most patients affected by this policy will be eligible for CHAMPUS benefits. Additional information is available at the Patient Administration Office at the post hospital.

Army ROTC scholarships being offered

Active duty enlisted men and women now have the opportunity to finish college and earn a commission — all at Army expense.

Beginning January 15th, Army ROTC will be accepting year college scholarships for the 1977-78 school year. Applications must be received by April 15th.

These scholarships pay full tuition, books, educational fees and $100 per month subsistence allowance for up to 20 months. In addition, students are paid while attending the Advanced Camp, normally between the junior and senior years of college. Along with the scholarship benefits, winners may also be eligible to receive GI educational benefits.

Applicants must have at least one year of active duty, be under 25 when eligible for commissioning, have at least two years of college credit, have a GT score of at least 115, have been accepted by a college for next fall's enrollment, and be a U.S. citizen.

Following graduation, the former enlisted members will be commissioned as 2nd Lts. They must then serve a four-year service obligation.

Check out Army Reg. 145-1 for complete details.

Scholarship applications may be obtained by writing: Army ROTC Scholarship, Ft. Monroe, Va., 23651.

Soldiers end with split decision

By Marc Davis

Soldiers won a few and lost a few with the 94th Congress which adjourned on October 1st. Per diem allowance rose to a maximum of $35 per day and higher in certain areas but enlisted members were limited to a maximum of 60 days leave they could sell back over an entire career. The current GI education bill ended for future soldiers but it was replaced by a contributory education program in which the soldier pays for part. And for retirees, Congress ended the one per cent kicker but also assured soldiers who remain on active duty that they will not lose retired pay.

Compensation and Benefits

Many of the legislative measures dealt with the area of compensation and benefits. The increase in per diem rates came in two increments with Congress approving a ceiling of $35. The first rise was a DoD mandated rise to $33 per day last May and a further increase to $35 in October. Certain high cost areas were designated with rates of $40 to $50 per day.

Enlisted members were put on the same level as officers as far as leave sell-back is concerned. Enlisted soldiers now can sell back a maximum of 60 days leave during their entire term of service. Also any leave accrued after Sept. 1, 1976 will be paid at the basic pay rate only and not for BAQ and subsistence.

Congress indirectly affected the October 1st pay raise. Legislation was passed to allow the President to reallocate up to 25 per cent of the basic pay increase to the allowances. The President directed that the full 25 per cent of the pay raise go to BAQ.

Congress voted to continue the full funding of military commissaries. If they had not, costs would have risen requiring soldiers to pay more for commissary goods. Without the full funding measure, commissary patrons would have had to pay the full costs of shipment of goods and salaries for commissary workers thus reducing the savings of shopping at commissaries.

Educational Benefits

During the final hours of the 94th Congress, legislation was passed that terminated the GI Bill for soldiers entering the Army after Dec. 31, 1976 and instituted the Post-Vietnam Era Veterans' Education Assistance Act of 1977. The change had little effect on current soldiers except that the bill set a deadline of December 1989 for use of benefits.

Soldiers entering the Army on or after Jan. 1, 1976, to receive educational benefits, must contribute up to a maximum of $75 per month with the VA matching two for one. For every dollar contributed by the soldier VA will contribute two.

The act also terminated the current Predischarge Education Program (PREP) which was funded by VA. DA plans to continue a high school completion program which is Army funded.

Retired Pay

Congress ended the one per cent retired pay "kicker" which was originally intended to help the retired servicemember keep up with the changes in the cost of living.

The one per cent was added to the rise in the Consumer Price Index (CPI) to offset the delay from the CPI rise and the actual retired pay rise. The kicker, in fact, raised the military retired pay increases above that of civilians.

The measure established the dates of March 1st and September 1st of each year as the date of pay increases rather than keying the raised to follow the CPI rise. The retired pay raise will still be adjusted by the CPI rise but over a six-month period.

Corrective legislation was enacted that eliminated the potential for military members to face a loss of retired pay by virtue of continued active service. The Retired Pay Inversion measure assured servicemembers they would receive the maximum amount to which they would be entitled.

PCS and Moves

An increase in PCS funding by Congress will allow the Army to terminate some overseas tour extensions. The extensions were necessary to cut down on moving costs.

There may be sufficient funds available to completely terminate the extensions in FY 77.

Legislation was passed making permanent the exemption for military to report moving expenses as reportable income. Had the legislation not been passed it would have placed a severe burden on soldiers making PCS moves in less than 39 weeks and for distances of less than 50 miles.

Movement of dependents in conjunction with a short tour would have been taxable also.

The FY 76 Appropriations Act passed by Congress permits

New Year's Message

To each member of the Training and Doctrine Command I extend best wishes for success and happiness in the New Year.

I am proud of your accomplishments this past year and ask that you join with me in the coming year to make our best contribution to the Army and our nation.

(s) W. E. DePUY
General, United States Army
Commanding

I wish to extend best wishes to the military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning and their families for a happy and prosperous New Year.

I am pleased at this opportunity to express my appreciation for the splendid support and devotion to duty displayed by members of this command throughout the past year. All of you may reflect with satisfaction and pride upon your contribution to our mission as guardians of our Nation.

I hope that each of you will be able to attend the religious observances of your choice and that you will enjoy the festivities planned for you on and off post.

(s) WILLARD LATHAM
Major General, USA
Commanding

LtCol. Wayne Boles, HQs commandant recently received a 750 mile award in the "Run for your Life" program. He earned recognition in the Headquarters Command Professional Fitness Club by scoring 494 on the PT test and running five miles in 34 minutes. In the 40-45 year old five-mile bracket, he placed 1st in the "Volks Fest" of May and October. As the head coach of the 1976 Doughboy football team, he directed them to an undefeated season compiling 158 points four games.

Sp5 Joseph L. Clarke of the Bernheim Dental Clinic, MEDDAC, recently received a $1,500 cash award for suggesting an improved procedure to repair inoperable High Power Radar illuminators by the use of dental acrylic. His suggestion resulted in an estimated saving in Army man-hours and material of $46,344 annually.

Reserve Components

Several legislative measures directly affected members of the Reserve Components. The President now has the authority to order up to 50,000 reservists to active duty for a period up to 90 days. This authority will be utilized only when a crisis cannot be met using volunteers.

One measure was important because Congress did not include it in the FY 77 Appropriations Act. That was an effort to end the double pay for reservists holding civil service jobs. The measure was not included in the final bill so Civil Service workers in the Reserve will continue to receive their regular pay check and their reserve pay check for the two weeks of active duty each year.

Civilian Workforce

Federal civilians had a close call with political independence last Spring as a result of Congressional legislation. Congress approved a bill that would have essentially repealed the Federal law, known as the Hatch Act, which prohibits Federal employees from taking an active part in partisan politics.

The President vetoed the bill and Congress could not muster enough votes to override the veto. The President cited subtle pressures which could be brought to bear on Federal employees as his reasons for vetoing the bill.

Other Legislation

New tax reform legislation provides for the automatic withholding of state income taxes from a member's monthly pay. The tax withheld will go to the soldier's state of legal residence and not necessarily to the state in which the member is assigned. States must formally request the withholding and to date eight states have asked for such assistance in collecting taxes.

A new law was passed which provides protection in malpractice cases for medical personnel of the Army, including the Reserve and National Guard. The law covers military and civilian physicians, dentists, nurses and other medical support personnel.

Changes to the CHAMPUS program were made as a part of the Defense Appropriations Act. Now CHAMPUS funds may not be used to pay claims for non-emergency inpatient hospital care if care is available at a uniformed service hospital within a 40-mile radius of the patient's residence.

• • •

Legislation was also passed authorizing the Secretary of the Army to collect up to 25 cents more from each enlisted soldier and warrant officer to help pay the costs of running the U.S. Soldiers' and Airmen's Home. The legislation also authorized the Home Board of Governors to collect from Home residents, up to 25 per cent of their retirement or annuity checks. Soldiers now contribute 25 cents per month.

Unresolved Legislation

A number of legislative proposals were not completed prior to adjournment.

- Family Separation Allowance for the lower four enlisted grades,
- Special pay for new Veterinarians and optometrists coming in after July 1, 1976,
- The "Fair Market Rental" system for soldiers in government quarters. Occupants would pay what the house is worth and not just forfeit the quarters allowance,
- The Uniformed Services Retirement Modernization Act (RMA) to revamp the military retirement system,
- A bill to extend enlistment and selective reenlistment bonuses past the June 30, 1977 termination date,
- Several bills which would have permitted women in combat and combat units,

- A bill to authorize expanded flexible and compressed work schedules which go further than the "flexitime" schedules now

- in use by a number of Army activities,
- A bill to standardize the Services rules for collection for bad checks.

This is the story of Uncle Charlie and the seven CBers.

Once upon a time there were seven CBers who lived together in a large house on the edge of the forest. Their handles were Skipper, Bleeder, Barefoot, Bootleg, Jawjack, Freqout and Pottymouth.

Ever morning the seven CBers would get up and go to the salt mine where they would work all day. Then they would come home in the evening and talk on their radios until the wee hours of the morning. This went on until one day, while they were at the salt mine, Uncle Charlie came to visit.

Now Uncle Charlie was the boss of that forest but he worked at the Friendly Candy Company which was far away on the other side of the forest.

Uncle Charlie had given the seven CBers permission to operate their radios and had told them that there were some rules that they would have to follow. But that was a very long time ago and although they all knew that Uncle Charlie could come to their house at any time and see if they were following his rules, they thought he had forgotten all about them.

So they began to ignore the rules; Skipper started talking to people a thousand miles away, Barefoot hooked up a linear amplifier to his radio, Jawjack would talk for hours at a time and Bootleg let his license lapse but kept right on operating. Bleeder's modulation was up so high that he could be heard on all the channels. Freqout worked on unauthorized channels and Pottymouth was extremely rude with everyone he talked to.

Now on the day Uncle Charlie came to visit, the seven CBers knocked off early at the salt mine and went home for a few extra hours on their CBs. Uncle Charlie had hidden himself nearby to see if they were still following his rules. When they started operating in their usual manner, Uncle Charlies became quite upset.

He listened until he was sure that they were deliberately breaking his rules, then he left.

He returned a few days later though, with a posse of assorted sheriffs, marshals and policemen and with several official documents. He confiscated their CB equipment and fined them all several thousand dollars.

When he found out that they couldn't pay, Uncle Charlie threw the seven CBers into his dungeon and told them to make license plates and mailbags until they earned enough money to pay the fine.

This all happened many years ago but the seven CBers are making mailbags and license plates to this very day.

Moral:

Uncle Charlie may live on the other side of the forest, but he does have long ears.

Enlisted Evaluation Reports

Department of the Army has announced the following changes to Chapter 8, AR 600-200, effective January 1st: DA Form 2166-5, Enlisted Evaluation Report (EER) will no longer be submitted for personnel below the grade of E-4. Initial EERs will be submitted upon the first report requirement (i.e., annual, change of rater) after the soldier reaches pay grade E-4.

Personnel in pay grade E-5 may serve as rater provided they are at least one pay grade higher than the rated soldier. There are no changes to submission procedures for DA Form 2166-5A, Senior Enlisted Evaluation Report (SEER).

MOS Testing

Department of the Army has suspended, effective January 1st, all MOS tests except those administered as an on-demand reenlistment qualification test. The requirement for this reenlistment qualification test will continue until replaced by the appropriate skill qualification test (SQT) for each MOS.

Camellia is an apartment motel. We don't rent rooms, we rent furnished apartments with all the features of a regular motel plus added conveniences that cannot be provided with just a single room — and all at the same, or most times lower rates than the single-room motel. For example, our "standard" unit is comprised of two bedrooms, combination living room-dining room, bathroom and fully furnished kitchen including refrigerator, stove, cooking utensils, and table service for six people. These are some of the "extras" but at no extra cost. Our 150 units are in separate buildings with usually four apartments in each building, which adds to a person's or family's privacy.

A year in review

Editor's note: 1976 has been a year of progress. A year which will long be remembered in the history of Ft. Benning. Journey with us through some of the highlights of the past twelve months and reflect on days gone by.

JANUARY

A ceremony activating the 1st Advanced Individual Training Brigade (Infantry) was held on York Field. It is envisioned that the brigade will consist of five battalions with a total of 24 companies and 1,650 permanent party support personnel to train approximately 5,000 trainees when it reaches full strength.

A Ft. Benning civilian employe, Mrs. Cam Slomka, chief of the Customer Assistance Section, Property Control Branch, Supply Division, was named the 1975 Boss of the Year by the Chattahoochee Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

2ndLt. Christopher F. Burton was named the outstanding honor graduate of the U.S. Army Infantry School's 1975 Branch Immaterial Officer Candidate Course and winner of the 23rd Robert P. Patterson Memorial Award.

Some 150 men from the 197th Infantry Brigade flew to the U.S. Army Northern Warfare Training Center at Ft. Greely, Alaska to learn methods of fighting and surviving in the frigid and hostile climate of the northland.

A Grand Tattoo and Torchlight Parade highlighted the July 4th festivities commemorating the 200th anniversary of our nation's birth.

Col. Jack B. Farris (l) passes the guidon to Lt. Col. William J. Windham, the incoming 4th Battalion commander, of the newly formed 1st Advanced Individual Training Brigade (Infantry).

FEBRUARY

For the second year running, Company A, 1/29th Infantry of The School Brigade captured the post's Best Dining Facility of the Year award in the small unit category.

The National Infantry Museum has been slated for a move. After being housed for more than 16 years in temporary, wooden quarters, Building 396 (the hospital annex) has been designated as the new site for the showplace of the Infantry.

The 34th Medical Battalion unveiled a headstone on the grave of Thomas Wiggins, a world famous blind, black musician known as "Blind Tom."

Sgt. Franklin O. Mills was honored as the Military Policeman of the Year by the Exchange Club of Columbus at its Crime Prevention Banquet held at the Martini-que Motor Hotel.

2ndLt. Dale R. Conner was awarded the Army Commendation Medal for saving the life of Sp5 Arthur McCann who suffered a severe reaction to a bee sting, crashed his vehicle and was revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by Conners.

Six new national records were set on Ft. Benning pistol ranges at the year's first outdoor pistol tournament.

PFC Annette E. Keene was selected to represent the post in an upcoming tour with the American Bicentennial Freedom Train.

A nine-man dispensary team from the 676th Medical Detachment, 34th Medical Battalion departed by convoy to Ft. Bragg — destination earthquake-stricken Guatemala.

The Columbus — Phenix City — Ft. Benning Chapter of the AUSA held its annual George Washington Birthday Ball at Harmony Church Fieldhouse with 700 attendees seeing the "200 Years of Readiness Pageant."

MARCH

Combat Support Company, 2/69th Armor out-played all competitors to capture the post's basketball championships.

Benning broadcaster, Sp5 Chuck Farrell, won second place in the television spot announcement category of the 1975 Keith L. Ware Award competition, a nation-wide Department of the Army contest, for his 60-second TV spot entitled "The Army Birthday."

In a major change of command ceremony, Col. Eldon Carr assumed command of The School Brigade from Col. George Ball and Col. Fletcher Ware assumed command of the 197th Inf Bde from Col. Joseph Wasiak.

The 1st AIT Bde received an initial input of 650 trainees.

Competitive testing between two versions of the utility tactical transport aircraft system (UTTAS) began with a demonstration and display of both prototypes at Lawson Army Airfield.

Seven soldiers died in a helicopter crash near Dahlenega, Georgia. Memorial services for three of the crash victims stationed at Ft. Benning were held at the Infantry Center Chapel.

The 197th Inf Bde celebrated its third anniversary as an integral part of the Strategic Army Force (STRAF) with an organization day.

APRIL

1st Battalion, 58th Infantry (1/58th Inf) departed for three weeks of desert and mountain training in Ft. Bliss, Texas.

Sgt. Donald Haldeman of the U. S. Army Marksmanship Unit won an Olympic Gold Medal in trap shooting.

The 498th Medical Company (Air Ambulance) successfully completed its 300th Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic (MAST) mission.

Testing of the new Mechanized Infantry Combat Vehicle (MICV) began with an operational demonstration at Patton Range.

The U.S. Shooting Team, lead by SFC Hershel Anderson, dominated the 13-nation Benito Juarez Shooting Championships held in Mexico City. The U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit at Ft. Benning captured 18 of the 25 gold medals in contention.

The U.S. Army Combat Arms Training Board (CATB) at the Infantry Center was presented the Outstanding Instructional Development Award for 1975 (Military Category) in recognition of the Training Extension Course (TEC) program and its significant contribution to the field of institutional technology.

The 4th Student Battalion (Airborne) squeaked by Hq & Hq Company, U.S. Army Infantry Board, 16 to 14 in the final game to capture first place in the post volleyball championships.

The Columbus — Phenix City — Ft. Benning Chapter of the AUSA sponsored the ninth annual Invitational Junior ROTC Rifle and Drill Team Competition, hosted at Ft. Benning. More than 1,000 cadets from 44 high school competed.

MAY

Sp4 James J. Zdun of the 197th Support Battalion was selected as Ft. Benning's Soldier of the Quarter for the three month period ending March 30th.

The first cycle of Advanced Individual Trainees graduated after seven weeks of intensive Infantry training at Ft. Benning. The 1st Advanced Individual Training Brigade will train and ship out approximately 34,000 Infantry soldiers a year.

Ft. Benning's first Annual Spring Volks March was held with more than 3,200 walkers and runners participating to cover over 16,000 miles in various events.

Approximately 550, 197th Infantry Brigade soldiers returned from two weeks of Jungle Operations Training at Ft. Sherman in the Panama Canal Zone.

Miss America 1976, Tawny Godin visited Ft. Benning and spend a day with the 1st AIT Bde at training.

Make it a prospe

The year, which will shortly come to a close, has been one of significance for the nation as well as for Ft. Benning.

It marked the 200th year of our existence as an independent nation, saw a President of the United State of America elected from the state of Georgia, resulted in the creation of the 1st Advanced Individual Training Brigade at Ft. Benning and set a precedent in furthering goodwill and understanding among all people — regardless of race, creed, national origin, sex or age.

With these accomplishments behind us, it becomes extremely important that each person sets new goals for the coming year. Goals which are realistic, attainable and in the interest of progress. The gains of last year must be used as stepping stones to better years ahead.

This will be no easy task.

It will take the total involvement of all concerned to insure that the future is one of growth and prosperity.

Here the responsibility rests on each of our shoulders, not just on the shoulders of those in high places of leadership. As an individual, you are the captain at the helm of your ship of destiny. To run that ship aground is a failure on your part; however, no ship sails sithout passengers and a crew, just as no one goes through life alone. You, therefore, become responsible for the success of failure or many.

On the other hand, you are also aboard your superior's ship of destiny — a failure to BrigGen. Fred K. Mahaffey assumed duties as the new Deputy Commanding General for Combat Development, Doctrine and Education and the Assistant commandant of the Infantry School, replacing BrigGen. Paul Mueller Jr., who was assigned to Iran in April.

Two Ft. Benning shotgunners, Sgt. Don Haldeman and Sp4 Charvin Dixon, blasted their way into Olympic competition by taking the top two spots in the U.S. International Clay Pigeon Championships held in Pacific, Missouri.

JUNE

The first increment of approximately 400 Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) cadets from universities and colleges throughout the United States and Puerto Rico arrived at Ft. Benning to take the nine-week Ranger course, which will substitute for their normal ROTC summer camp.

The 1/58th Infantry spent two weeks in Ft. Bliss, Texas on extensive desert training exercises.

The U. S. Army's 201st Birthday and Flag Day were celebrated with a formal retreat on York Field. James Woodruff Jr., Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army and National AUSA President, and MajGen. Willard Latham spoke and dedicated a plaque commemorating the visit of President Gerald Ford on the Army's 200th Birthday in 1975.

SSgt. Michael Barnes of Company C, 5th Battalion, 1st AIT Brigade was selected as Ft. Benning's top Drill Sergeant. He will participate in the upcoming Drill Sergeant of the Army competition to be held at Ft. Monroe, Virginia.

Four rifle and pistol shooters, Capt. Lanny Bassham, Capt. Margaret Murdock, SFC Hershel Anderson and 1stLt. Mike Theimer, from the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit earned berths on the U.S. Olympic Shooting Team in Phoenix at the 16th International Shooting Championships and Olympic Tryouts.

Men of Company C, 3/7th Infantry marched 100 miles to an Atlanta Braves baseball game where they participated in a flag presentation.

ous new year!!!

do your part as a crew member endangers the future of all aboard.

As the threshold of a new year approaches, it becomes important that the successes as well as the mistakes of the past year be reviewed and new goals be set. It is time again to plan a course into the future, analyze the crew and passengers aboard, make adjustments based on the strengths and weaknesses of each and set sail with a well-defined purpose and destination.

Anticipate course changes, rough seas and intermediate stops along the way and make the required adjustments.

Be responsive to your passengers' needs.

Make only course changes that are absolutely necessary and keep those aboard informed.

Solicit the advice of the navigator, bosun's mate and communication experts.

During uncertain times in the journey, let those aboard know by your example that the ship remains sea-worthy and all is well.

Never become so involved in what you are doing that you lose sight of the future — the ultimate purpose of your journey and destination.

Take a moment to reflect the year past. Consider the goods and bads of it. Reflect upon the future for a moment. Decide on the destination you desire to arrive at next year at this time. Plan a course which will take you there.

And now — the most difficult part — follow it. Beginning now!

Revolutionary War Infantryman, Pvt. John O'Quin, was honored in a ceremony held at the graveside of O'Quin and his wife, Rhoda.

Sergeant Major of the Army, William G. Bainbridge, visited Ft. Benning to address the graduating class of the Advanced Non-commissioned Officer School.

Brown Nicholson Jr. was elected president of the Columbus-Phenix City-Ft. Benning Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army at the organization's annual membership meeting.

The oldest 'Skycrane' company, the 478th Aviation Company (Heavy Helicopter) celebrated its organization day with a picnic and honor ceremony.

Lt. Col. Phillip Cannella Jr. won the World Military Rapid Fire 300-meter Rifle Championship during the Conseil International Sport Militaire Matches held in Thun, Switzerland.

Four-hundred runners competed in the Ft. Benning Bicentennial Mini-marathon. Mike Ham of the Huntsville Track Club lead the field in the 13.1-mile run with a time of 1:11:50.

Miss Ft. Benning 1976, Vicki Walton, was crowned at the 4th of July carnival.

A Grand Tattoo and Torchlight Parade highlighted the nation's 200th Birthday Celebration held on York Field July 4th. Gen. (ret.) Harold K. Johnson, former Army Chief of Staff, delivered the keynote address and former Benning commanders, Gen. Hugh P. Harris, MajGen. George E. Lynch and MajGen. Thomas Tarpley, were on hand for the festivities.

Ft. Benning officially honored Bastille Day with a ceremony on York Field with MajGen. Willard Latham and LtCol. Philippe L. Guilbaud, the French liaison officer, participating.

PFC Merlyn Stevens of HHC, 1/58 Infantry was awarded the Army Commendation Medal for saving the life of PFC Richard Comston, Company A, 1/58th.

Ft. Benning Headgear Patch

The Ft. Benning headgear patch is available at the Post Exchange for optional purchase and wear on headgear currently worn at Ft. Benning. It may be worn by all military personnel who are currently authorized to wear the USAIC distinctive unit insignia ("Follow Me" crest) in lieu of that insignia. Personnel, including officers, who opt to purchase and wear the patch will wear it under the insignia of grade. The patch will not be worn on the garrison cap.

New EM Double-knit Uniforms
The Enlisted Men's new Army uniform, Shade AG 434 (texturized woven fabric), which has replaced the old double-knit uniform Shade 444, is now available for purchase at the Military Clothing/Book Store, Bldg 285. The uniform has the stretch and crease resistant attributes of the double-knit fabric, but does not have the snag or pull problem inherent in the double-knit.

Relocation-Pathfinder Br, Airborne Dept
The Pathfinder Branch, Airborne Dept. has relocated to Bldg 2335. Telephone numbers remain the same as before.

New hours — Family Housing
The Family Housing Branch, Quarters Assignment Branch, Rm 118, Bldg 83, will close for business at 4 p.m. daily effective immediately.

Friday Morning Bowlers Wanted
The Friday morning "Better Halves" bowling league needs women bowlers. Call 687-2827 for information and registration.

National Infantry Museum Needs Donations
The National Infantry Museum is always trying to improve its collection and is happy to receive donations of military and military-related artifacts. One item needed for the collection is a blocked fatigue of the type worn during the 1950's — Louisville Pop Up. Please contact Capt. Jim Smith, 544-4762 for further information.

Vet income reports due

Georgia veterans and dependents who are on the Veterans Administration's pensions rolls have only a few days remaining in which to file reports on their income for 1976. Income Questionnaire cards which were mailed with November 1st pension checks must be returned to the VA by Jan. 1, 1977.

Georgia Veterans Service Director Pete Wheeler said that the VA must receive this information by January 1st in order to determine the pension amounts for the coming year. "Failure to complete and return the 'IQ' cards by the Jan. 1, 1977 deadline," Wheeler said, "could result in a suspension of payments, or a repayment of some benefits to the VA. In fact, those who fail to return the questionnaire by January 1st will, in lieu of receiving their January check on February 1st, receive a letter from the VA explaining why their pension payments have been suspended."

Veterans and widows receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities and deaths are not required to file income information. Also, veterans and widows receiving pensions, and parents receiving dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) need not file, provided that they are at least 72 years old, have been on the pension rolls for at least two consecutive years, and have had no significant increases in their incomes.

Although some pensioners are not supposed to receive the "IQ" cards, if for some reason, they have received a card, they should fill it out and mail it back to the VA by the January 1st deadline.

fins, furs, feathers

By Denny Blankenship

The holiday season is almost over and most outdoorsmen are trying out their newly acquired outdoor equipment. Although wives are confusing at times, they do come through with the right gifts about this time every year. Thank heaven for that.

Holiday parties have interfered with some outdoor activity. I can't think of anything worse than sitting in a deer stand in 18 degree weather following a good night of celebrating. God, it's torture! I know of a gent who stumbled out of his house one morning following such an event, drove to his deer stand and behold he had forgotten his gun.

Another red-eyed gent got lost in the early morning fog and ran out of gas twenty miles from nowhere. One did not dress properly, probably because he was half embalmed with spirits, a three day flu-ridden bed stay followed. It's tough being a dedicated outdoorsman this time of year.

Ft. Benning was fortunate in having as a holiday hunter, Mr. Alez Montgomery of the Southeast Fish and Wildlife Agency. Mr. Montgomery has held and still does fill, several important posts with the Southeastern Fish and Wildlife folks. During his stay at Ft. Benning, Mr. Montgomery and his two sons were the house guests of Ruben and Ella Holloway. The Holloways pointed them in the right direction and they managed to bag a couple deer during their three day stay. Visits of this nature can only do good for Benning's wildlife program's.

Well, enough of the straight stuff, lets get on with the bull.

A friend, Dan Terry and I were zipping along down Hwy 27 going hunting awhile back when we saw a half-grown pig running loose beside the road.

I braked my AMC to a halt, Dan jumped out, ran the pig down, gathered it in his arms and returned to the car, "We can't leave this pig out here," said Dan, "sure as hell he'll get run over by a car." "You're probably right," I answered. "What can we do with it though?" Dan asked with a puzzled expression. I thought for a while and replied, "Why don't you take it to a zoo." "Good idea," shot back Dan, "Drop me off at the house."

A week later, I was barreling down Hwy 27 again when I passed Dan driving south with the pig in the front seat next to him. I honked and Dan pulled over. "Hey Dan," I yelled, "What'cha doing with that pig, I thought you were going to take him to the zoo?"

"Oh I did," answered Dan, "and we had such a good time, I'm going to take him to Disney World."

Ponder this until next week: A scorpion, being a very poor swimmer asked a turtle to carry him on his back across a river. "Are you mad?" exclaimed the turtle, "you'll sting me while I'm swimming and I'll drown."

"My dear turtle," laughed the scorpion, "if I were to sting you, you would drown and I would go down with you, now where is the logic in that?" "You're right," cried the turtle, "Hop on." The scorpion climbed aboard and halfway across the river gave the turtle a mighty sting.

As they both sank to the bottom, the turtle resignedly said: "Do you mind if I ask you something? You said there'd be no logic in your stinging me. Why did you do it?"

"It has nothing to do with logic," the drowning scorpion sadly replied, "Its just my character."

"Take it from me, the best deal in town's a credit union loan."

Why not take advantage of the 10.5 Annual Percentage Rate, including Credit Life Insurance, at no cost to you individually?

When you shop for a new car, you hear a lot about the big deal you're getting. But the really big deal is how much the financing will cost. That's where we can help. We offer fair interest rates on new car loans. In fact, our credit union rates could actually make the difference in the kind of car you can buy. So before you deal on the lot, check with us. We're ready to help you make a really good deal.

Belly dancing troupe highlights

McGraw Manor X-mas party

The McGraw Manor Association held their annual Christmas party recently. It went as most Christmas parties go, with lots of food and merriment except for one thing — the entertainment. Troupe Karshlimar, a Middle Eastern dance group, put on its first performance ever, providing many of the guests with a new insight into the increasingly popular art of belly dancing.

The Troupe was formed when a group of women (all from Ft. Benning) headed by Farasha, a professional dancer and instructor in Columbus, began to view belly dancing not as a passing fad but as an ancient art form and a beautifully varied means of self expression. Talk to any one of the members and you'll find they're all very serious about what they're doing.

It's their hope and aim to see the general public also accept the belly dance for what it truly is and accord to it the credit it deserves.

—VA Q & A—

Q — Both my mother and father were veterans and both are deceased. I am drawing non-service connected death pension from my father. Can I draw pension benefits from my mother also?

A — If your mother had sufficient qualifying service, you are eligible to draw pension benefits from both simultaneously.

Q — My husband was killed in Vietnam, but his remains were not recovered. Is there any kind of marker available to be placed in the national cemetery located near his place of birth?

A — memorial marker or headstone may be furnished to the next of kin to commemorate any member of the armed forces who died in the service and whose remains were not recovered or who was buried at sea.

Q. — I am a widow in receipt of a VA pension with the aid and attendance allowance. Am I eligible for drugs and medicines from VA?

A. — No. This provision applies only to veterans in receipt of pension with housebound or aid and attendance allowance.
