Selected as game captains for the Midgets next week is Richard Pinky Bauguss, first-string quarterback, who has been an outstanding offensive player in both of the Midget encounters this season.

Blandford, as game captain for last week's tussle, was named "player of the week" by Coach Britt. The scrappy guard, who is playing his second season of ball for the Midgets, is a fast-moving blocker as well as an outstanding defensive playr. He is 14 years old, and packs 130 pounds on a five-foot, eight-inch frame.

Benning Midgets: ends; Sutherland and Wilson: tackles; Shaughnessey and Maurer: guards; Blandford and Torrence: centers; Hardin: backs; Bauguss, Doucet, Ruff and Wilson.

Sixteenth School: ends; Cain and Baldridge: tackles; Nichols and Player: guards; Harbour and Pilkinton: center; Talbot: backs; Myles, Fretwell, Parr and Coyle

Navy, Troopers Edge Opponents In Sunday Tiffs

Two of the three remaining teams on the Doughboy gridiron slate for the 1948 campaign, the 82nd Airborne division All-Americans of Fort Bragg, N. C., and the air gobs of Jacksonville, Fla. Naval Air station, bolstered their season's record with Sunday afternoon triumphs.

Jacksonville's sailors, who are scheduled to play host to the Doughs in a Gator Bowl tilt next Saturday night, mixed a passing and running attack to breeze past a rugged Cherry Point marine eleven 26-6, and the paratroopers of Fort Bragg shaded the Parris Island leathernecks by a score of 20-13.

Coach Dan Jacka's big navy gridders, after being held to one touchdown during the first half, pulled away from the Cherry Point squad after the intermission, but the game was considerably closer than the score indicates.

The gyrenes, unable to dent the ponderous navy line at the crucial times, finally took to the air, and chalked up a score score with only 12 seconds left in the game.

With Fort Bragg's troopers it was a matter of stretching a season's winning streak to seven games at the expense of the Parris Islanders, who handed the Dougboys a 12-0 defeat in their first outing of the season. Fort Benning's encounter with the All-Americans is slated for Doughboy stadium on Nov. 28, the final date on the post team's schedule.

The Bragg eleven had somewhat more trouble than the Jax navy bunch in chalking up their victory. Leading only 7-6 at the half, the All-Americans jumped into the lead for keeps by scoring in the third period.

Long-run honors for the game, however, went to the South Carolina leathernecks when halfback E. F. Tetreditch took a trooper kickoff in his own end zone, and dashed 109 yards for a touchdown in the final period.

SPECTACULAR DEBUT

When Stan Levine, University of Maryland quarterback, ran 88 yards to return a kickoff against George Washington university, he scored the first touchdown of his collegiate career.

Olympic Group To Meet

The U. S. Olympic committee will meet in New York on Dec. 5 to complete plans for participation in the Pan-American games to be held Feb. 15 through March 18, 1951, in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Winter Links Classic

The 23rd annual Los Angeles open golf tournament, attracting the cream of the professional golfers, will be held at the Riviera Country club, Jan. 7-10.

STAR BULLET MOUNDSMAN IS SEPARATED

Lefty Willie Conerly, stout-armed curve-baller with the 25th Infantry regiment's Bullet baseball nine last season, was separated from the service last week.

At the time of his departure from the 25th Infantry, Conerly indicated his plans to make his home in New York City where he will try his hand at pro baseball with some of the better-known clubs of the East.

Conerly, who pitched and won more games for the Bullets last year than any other member of the club's hurling staff, feels confident that his left wing will hold up well in the pro ranks. He is carrying along high hopes that some manager will spot him and call him into camp in time for the 1949 campaign.

An impressive record of eight wins and two losses was chalked up by Conerly during his only season with the Bullets. His list of achievements included a no-hit, no-run ehibition, and a one-hit masterpiece.

Defying the old adage that pitchers are weak hitters, Conerly held his own among the top stickmen on the Bullet roster by marking up a .409 batting clip for the season.

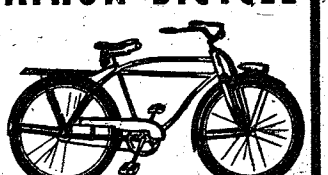
The flashy southpaw was an important factor in the Bullet capture of the 1948 post-season intra-mural baseball toga, and his mound performance aided the Sand hillers in taking the runner-up spot in the 325th Infantry regiment's diamond league.

A native of Louisiana whose assignment with the 25th Infantry was with Company G, Conerly plans to pursue a mechanic's course under the GI Bill of Rights during baseball's off-season.

Engineer Five Nips S-1 Team In Lawson Tilt

The Lawson engineers defeated the S-1 quintet, 48-39, in a fast-moving Lawson field intra-mural basketball game at the base gymnasium last Monday night.

With the score 24-18 in favor of the S-1 team at the half, the engineers built up their total to 48 by adding 30 points during the final half.



Ed Gravely annexed high point honors for the game by dropping in 19 of the engineers' points, and Warren Smith hit the hoop for 18 tallies for the S-1 quintet.

Only a few more games remain on the intra-mural schedule, and trophies are to be awarded to the first and second place teams at the circuit's conclusion. Outstanding players from teams entered in the league will be chosen to represent the local airforce base in the Fort Benning intra - mural circuit, which opens in the Main gym Monday night.

Railway Official Praises Recruits

Recruits who graduated recently from the 325th Infantry Training battalion and who have left Fort Benning for their first assignments were commended on Nov. 2 by A. C. Harris, assistant general passenger agent of the Central of Georgia Railway company, for their "exceptionally good behavior while on our premises and aboard our trains."

In a letter addressed to Maj. C. H. Thompson, transportation officer, Mr. Harris said that approximately 400 recruits had used Central of Georgia trains going out of Columbus during the past two weeks, and their "conduct has been beyond reproach."

He further pointed out that to his knowledge "there have been no complaints registered against these young men while on our line, and I have not heard of any unfavorable comment from other rail lines."

Mr. Harris went on to say that "the fact these young men conducted themselves as gentlemen makes our job easier and adds to the pleasure of serving them."

He also expressed appreciation for the "fine cooperation" of the transportation office and the officers in charge of the men.

Canada's Vice Chief of Staff Ends TIC Visit

Among the visitors at Fort Benning last week was the vice chief of staff of the Canadian army, Maj. Gen. H. D. Graham, who spent Thursday and Friday at the Infantry Center.

General Graham arrived here from Elgin field, Fla., accompanied by 20 instructors and 50 students of the Canadian Army Staff college, Fort Frontenac, Kingston, Ont.

While here the Canadians witnessed airborne and infantry demonstrations, including attack and defense problems. On their arrival at Lawson field in Royal Canadian airforce planes they were greeted by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, post commander. A guard of honor of Companies E and C of the 325th Infantry, a platoon of the 756th Tank battalion, Battery C of the 319th Field Artillery battalion and the 72nd Army band.

Enlisted Group Is Promoted

A total of 16 enlisted men of the Infantry School detachment were promoted on Nov. 5, it has been announced by Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, detachment commander.

Those promoted to corporal were former Pfcs. Amos W. Baker, Curtis G. Calvert, Louis Lang, Charles Oswalt, James E. Robinson, Eugene P. Roush, Junior M. Sampler and George D. White.

Five privates were advanced to the grade of private first class. They were Robert G. Davis, William T. Dickens, Jr., Elwood Ellens, Ralph C. Johns and Horace M. Nichols.

Promoted from recruit to private were William L. Gibson, James A. Jackson and Charles

Sand Hill Families See 'Dream Home' At Service Center Arts, Crafts Show

BY BECKY PORTER

Most G.I's—and a lot of non-G.I's — dream of a modern home — one that is something more than a house with four walls and a kitchen stove, and it was with this thought in mind that Fort Benning's Y.W.C.A. service center at Sand hill chose as a theme for its annual Arts and Crafts exhibit: "A G.I's Modern Dream Home".

Then all those who take part in service center activities — enlisted men and officers and their families from the Bradley area, Simmstown, and the 25th Infantry regiment—set out to prove that all it takes to turn the home into something more than a dream is some G.I. furniture, a few old phonograph records, some 55 millimeter shells, a little imagination and a lot of ingenuity.

How well they proved this was shown Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31, at the arts and crafts exhibit in Service club No. two.

The main attraction was a house completely furnished with articles made or remade by servicemen and their wives. Everything—the hooked rugs on the floor, the repainted, upholstered, and recovered G.I. furniture, the modernistic paintings on the wall, the raffia waste baskets, the ceramic powder boxes, the crocheted spreads—came out of the service center.

Bradley area wives—with a little help from their husbands—made everything in the bedroom, bathroom and nursery—complete with everything but the baby—including the wicker crib, the dressing table,the table lamps which started out as 55 millimeter shells, the flowered bedspread—a plain sheet was the base of that—the ceramic powder box and mirror frame, the bud vase which in its first life was a half pint milk bottle, and the raffia basket which started from nothing.

The Simmstown wives and husbands had charge of the living room. They repainted and upholstered the G.I. furniture, covered the davenport, made the flowered drapes, the ceramic table lamps with their flowered shades, the tall floor lamps, the hooked rugs. They turned bottles into vases and painted pictures for the walls.

The officers and wives of the 25th Infantry regiment made everything in the kitchen and dining room except the stove and the frigidaire. (With a little more time they'd probably have made those). They melted old phonograph records into bases and bowls, crocheted table sets, and turned jelly glasses into cocktail sets.

But work at the service center is not limited to articles for the "dream home," as Mrs. V. H. Deslandes, director of the center, and her assistants, Mrs. E. E Stone and Mrs. M. L. Kemp, can assure you. Among the crafts exhibits shown Sunday were leather handbags and hats, sequin and shell jewelry, glass etchings, and all types of articles of wood, metal, ceramic, plastic, raffia and reed, paper mache, and cork.

Model planes, boats and cars, made under the direction of Cpl. Odell Baker, were displayed, and there was an exhibit of paintings made by Cpl. B. Wingate, and of photographs taken by the Sand hill Camera club under the direction of Pfc. Oscar Robert. Especially interesting was a huge lamp made from a 105 millimeter shell by M-Sgt. John Wilson.

The dresses which many of the ladies wore were created at the center, and Sgt. W. F. Frankin's tailoring was responsible for that "military" look about the uniforms:

The exhibit this year was designed especially to show servicemen and their families how to overcome some of the limitations of housekeeping on an army reservation. Those limitations just won't exist if there's enough ingenuity, and if we can judge by the arts and crafts exhibit, there's plenty of ingenuity around the service center at Fort Benning.

Wynn Is Named Coach Of 999th Ring Team

Selection of Merritt L. Wynn as coach and trainer of the 999th Field Artillery battalion boxing team has been announced Monday by 1st Lt. John H. Maddox, battalion athletic and recreation officer.

Possessing a wide and varied background as a pugilist, Wynn competed in the Chicago Golden Gloves tournaments from 1937 through 1940, fighting as a bantamweight, featherweight and lightweight.

Returns to Active Duty

Upon his return to active duty as an officer, 1st Lt. Robert J. Platt has been assigned to the 27th Transportation Car company. During the war Lt. Platt served on the famous "Red Ball" convoy route with the 3812th Transportation Truck company.

Division Society Meets Tuesday

The Society of the First Division will elect officers and formulate plans for the coming year at their next meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Patrick Hall in the Infantry School building.

All officers and men who at any time served in the First Infantry division, or any of its attached units, are urged to attend Tuesday's important meeting.

The Society of the First Division, founded Feb. 22, 1919, in Monebaur, Germany, is composed of men and women who have served, or are now serving with the division, and their wives mothers, daughters or heirs of blood relationship. Since its organization, every President and every army chief of staff, except Gen. John J. Pershing, has been an honorary member of the sociey.

The membership now numbers 40,000, and the number is growing daily, officials said.

The combat record of the First division is one of the finest to be found. In World War I its casualties were 126 per cent. It was the shock division in the Ansauville, Saizerais, Sommerviller, Cantigny, Soissione, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne engagements.

In World War II the First division added to its glory in the offensives at Algeria, French Morocco, Tunisia, Sicily, Normandy, Ardennes, North France, Central Europe and Rhineland.

Laundry Closed To Individuals

The post quartermaster laundry can no longer accept individual bundles of laundry at piece rates, Maj. C. M. Pollack, laundry officer said this week.

Reasons given for the discontinuance of this service were a loss of 48 civilian employees and lack of funds.

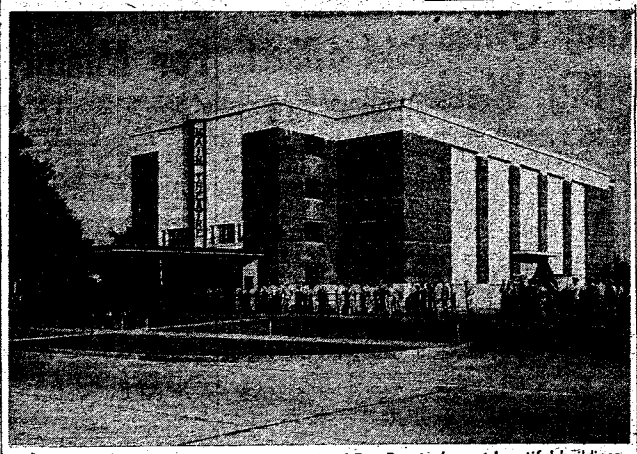
The laundry will continue to accept bundles through companies, Major Pollack added, providing the owner of the bundle is carried on the company laundry list. This laundry will continue to be handled through the units as in the past and at the usual two-dollar monthly rate.

Most affected by the ending of the individual bundle service were officers, nurses and others who have been taking their laundry in themselves and paying for it at piece rates.

World War II Vets To Get Certificates For Army Citations

Maj. Gen. Edward W. Witsell, adjutant general, Department of the Army, today advised all holders of World War II military decorations that they may obtain certificates attesting to the awards by wiring directly to him.

Medal winners will receive certificate of the diploma type each bearing a replica of the decoration for which it is granted.



Nearly 1,000,000 servicemen and women who received decorations during the war have not yet received the certificates to which they are entitled. The army estimtes that 4,300 are authorized to receive certificates for the Distinguished Service Cross, 73,000 for the Silver Star, 20,000 for be Legion of Merit, 126,000 for the Distinguished Flying Cross, 12,000 for the Soldier's medal, 395,000 for the Bronze Star, and 341,500 for the Air medal.

Winners of decorations should address their requests for certificates to the Adjuant General, Department of the Army, Washingon 25, D. C., indicating the number, date, and headquarters of the general orders which awarded the decoration originally, and enclosing copies of the general orders and of the complete citations, if available. In the case of decorations awarded posthumously, the next of kin may obtain the certificate.

Gendron Appointed Executive Officer

Maj. Thomas J. Gendron has been appointed executive officer of the 25th Infantry regiment's Second battalion to succeed Maj. John O. Dickerson, it was announced Monday.

Commissioned in February, 1939, at Headquarters, First district, Syracuse N. Y., Major Gendron entered the army on active duty March 1, 1940 at Governor's Island. He served in both Europe and the Mediterrenean with the First Infantry division during the war, participating in the Normandy, France, Rhineland, Ardennes, Central Europe, Sicily, Tunisian and North African campaigns.

POPULAR SPOT . . . The Main theater, one of Fort Benning's most beautiful buildings, is one of the most used activities on the post. This is a typical matinee scene.

Various Types Of Entertainment Make Main Theater Popular Spot

Fort Benning soldiers are "dy-ed in the wool" movie goers. This fact is born out by the large number of men who attend the Main theater each night.

Located on the post's busiest corner, Wold avenue and Ingersoll street, Theater No. 1 has more than 9,000 patrons each week—an average of more than 500 persons a performance. Two shows are presented nightly, with matinees on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

When Fort Benning became a permanent post in 1922, a theater was planned along with other buildings. Construction on the theater was begun in March, 1937, and the first performance was held in September, 1938.

Built at a cost of $240,000, the theater has a seating capacity of 1,504 and as modern equipment as is to be found in any theater in the country. The projection machines, seats, lights, acoustics and other features are all the finest available.

The lobby is frequently changed to meet the modern trend. There are lounges where patrons may smoke and relax while waiting for the next performance.

During the war years broadcasts of soldier programs, emanating from the stage of the theater, went out to all parts of the world. The programs were put on each week by soldiers stationed at Fort Benning.

There are five picture changes a week: on Sundays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and the latest pictures are shown.

The U. S. army motion picture service was begun in 1931, with army theaters getting the latest pictures at popular prices. Some of the pictures are shown at the local theater even before the public knows they are out.

Cards, announcing the picture schedule, are sent out to the various units every week. The Bayonet also carries a brief resume of the pictures for the next week as one of its features. The fans are also advised as to the type of picture that is to be shown, if it is a family, or adult type of picture.

During the winter months, many fine concerts and other types of entertainment are given on the stage of the Main theater. Plays, shows and other forms of entertainment are also given at various times.

Some of the pictures shown recently at the theater include: "Duel in the Sun", "All My Sons", "Thunder in the Valley" and "Rope."

At the present time, according to the theater officer, Lt. Carl Ficker, repairs are being made to the inside of the theater in preparation for the coming concerts and plays that will be here during the winter.

What kind of shows do the soldiers like? Dont let them tell you that they don't like cowboys an Injuns, because according to the theater officer, this type of pictures is the most popular among soldiers. Second in line of popularity are "mushy love stories."

The Main theater, located in the heart of the main post area, is a testimonial to the fact that Fort Benning is one of the most complete army posts in the world.

30-Year Veteran Reenlists Here

Veteran of 30 years service, M-Sgt. March Worsham of Company H, 25th Infantry regiment, decided to continue his army career at Fort Benning by reenlisting here last week.

Possessor of several commendations from some of the nation's top military leaders, of two wars. He has received letter of commendations from the late General of the Armies John J. Pershing, General Leonard C. Wood, General Courtney Hodges and Maj. General Robert McClure, whom he has served under during his career.

Practically all of Sergeant Worsham's time has been with the 24th and 25th Infantry regiments. While with the 24th he served under Generals Hodges, Wood and McClure. During the Mexican campaign, he served under General Pershing who was at that time commanding general of the Mexican Border Command.

Entering the army in July 1918, he served in France during World War I and in both the Pacific and European theaters during World War II.

6th Recruit Unit To End Training

Graduation exercises Saturday morning for the Sixth company, 325th Training battalion, will mark the end of the unit's training cycle, with the officers and cadre returning to their parent organization, the 325th Infantry Regimental combat team, it has been revealed.

Nearly all the men of the other five companies have left Fort Benning. A majority of them are attending service schools, a few transferred to other posts, and some went to the European and Far East command.

In a commendation to the enlisted cadre of the battalion, Lt. Col. Thomas R. Yancey, battalion commander, expressed his appreciation to the cadre for "the splendid job" they had done.

"The many fine compliments and letters of commendation received by this headquarters from Third army, the Infantry Center, our own regiment, and several civilian agencies," the commendation continued, "are due largely to your hard work."

82nd Divarty Chief to Direct Artillery Fire

Brig. Gen. Robert M. Cannon, commanding general of the 82nd Airborne division artillery, arrived this week to participate in the joint orientation conference for civilians which opens here next Monday morning. General Cannon is slated to direct the artillery fire for the operation.

In addition to the school troops of the Infantry Center, the 319th Field Artillery battalion with 105 mm howitzers and the 999th Field Artillery battalion with 155 mm howitzers, three battalions of General Cannon's artillery command will participate.

Augementing school troops will be the 376th and 456th Airborne Field Artillery and 98th Field Artillery battalions.

General Cannon will set up a division artillery command post for the demonstration, and the reinforced division artillery will function in the support of the attacking infantry battalion, also reinforced, under actual combat conditions.

Field Artillerymen Advanced In Grade

Thirty-one men of the 999th Field Artillery battalion were advanced in grade during the past week, unit officials revealed.

Promoted to corporal were, Pfcs. Willie Brown, James Jackson, Leroy Locket, Andrew Miller and Lewis Walls, Headquarters company, Leo James, Company C, and Clarence T. Young, Service company.

Advanced to the grade of pri- James H. Alston, Baby R. Gatrate first class were Pvts. son, Booker T. Johnson, Curtis Henderson, Charles L. Holmes Casey Jones, Hubert Kirkpatrick, Robert B. Sturgis and Alysen E. Wise, all of Headquarters company.

Benningites Commended For Miami Appearance

A letter from Rear Admiral R. W. Hyler, commandant of the Sixth Naval district, has been received by Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., Third army commander, praising the "truly magnificent X X X appearance" of the Fort Benning troops who served as President Truman's honor guard at Miami on Oct. 18.

The letter has been forwarded to Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, along with a personal letter from General Gillem, commending him and his staff for the "splendid performance X X By the troops during the ceremonies at Miami."

Admiral Hyler said in his letter that the "fine and discipline of the troops could not have been improved." He further pointed out that the President stated that he was "extremely well pleased with the whole performance," and that "although he had been saluted by all of the armed forces, it had never been done so spectacularly."

The admiral was especially enthusiastic in his praise of Col. James F. Torrence, Jr., commander of the 325th Infantry regiment, and Lt. Col. E. O. Gibson, commander of the 325th's First battalion which served as the honor guard.

The 72nd Army band also participated in the Miami ceremonies.

Record Program At Main Library

Next Monday's record convert at the Main library at 7:30 p. m. will feature a symphony, a coloratura soprano and a popular orchestra playing classics.

The concert on the new type long - playing records will open with "Kostelanetz Favorites" as played by the orchestra of Andre Kostelanetz. Next will be the Tschaikowsky Sixth Symphony, the "Pathetique," by the New York Philharmonic under the baton of Arthur Rodzinski.

Officers Cites Recruit Group For Conduct

A group of 49 recruits, who recently completed basic training with the 325th Infantry Training battalion, were praised last week by 1st Lt. John T. Dunphy for their "splendid conduct" enroute to the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, N. J., Oct 23-24.

In a letter to Col. James F. Torrence, commanding officer of the 325th Infantry Regimental combat team, Lieutenant Dunphy said the group was "courteous, willing and cooperative at all times. Their personal neatness was in keeping with the highest standard of military service. They x x x conducted themselves as gentlemen in their relations with the train crew and civilian passengers."

Lieutenant Dunphy further pointed out that the train crew and dining car steward were "well pleased with the cooperation of the men and commented most favorably on their appearance and deportment."

325th Group Represents Cross Section of Country

A large cross section of the country and many different colleges are represented by the newly assigned officers of the 325th Infantry regiment's First battalion.

States represented include Minnesota, Connecticut, Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Among the new officers are Maj. Adler Haaland, Minneapolis, Minn., who has been appointed S-3 of the battalion. He is a graduate of Syracuse university.

Other staff officers include 2nd Lt. Albert H. Hanger, assistant S-1, and 2nd Lt. Joseph W. Chitty, Jr., assistant S-4. Recently recalled to active duty, they are graduates of the Citadel. Lieutenant Hanger's home is in Georgia, while Lieutenant Chitty is from South Carolina.

First Lt. Harry L. Nicholson was assigned to Company D as executive officer, and 2nd Lt. Aton H. Craig, who was also recently recalled to active duty, was assigned to the same company as a platoon leader. Lieutenant Craig is a graduate of North Georgia college.

Also recalled to active duty were 2nd Lt. Roy E. McCord, who has been assigned to Company B as a platoon leader, and 2nd Lt. George H. Kilpatrick, who has been assigned to the same duties in Company A. Both are graduates of North Georgia college.

Assigned to Company C following recall to active duty were 2nd Lts. John L. Holman and James A. Voorhees. Lieutenant Holman is a graduate of the Citadel and his home is in Georgia, while Lieutenant Voorhees is from Tennessee.

Second Lt. Arthur D. Stigall, of Louisiana has been assigned duties in Company D, while 2nd Lt. John W. Trumbo, Arlington, Va. who has recently been recalled to duty, has been named communications officer of Headquarters and Headquarters company. Lieutenant Trumbo is a graduate of Virginia Military institute.

Top-Flight Guests End Two-Day Visit

See How Foot Soldiers Fight

In a two day show at Fort Benning, 54 of America's top-ranking civilian leaders, participating in the first of the series of joint orientation conferences, were given a thorough indoctrination of how the infantryman of 1948 gets to the battle zone, what he has with which to fight and how he uses his weapons when he gets to the battlefield.

In a live-ammunition action-studded series of demonstrations by the Infantry Center, augmented by three field artillery battalions of the 82nd Airborne division and a squadron of fighter planes, the distinguished civilians spent two thrill-packed days which they said impressed them not only from the point of view of what the doughboys fight with, but equally with their training.

Arriving at Lawson field late Sunday afternoon, the visitors started their tour of Fort Benning early Monday at Hook range, where they saw a show employing every weapon used by today's infantryman. School troops fired semi-automatic and automatic rifles, carbines, submachine guns, light and heavy machine guns, grenades and rifle grenades, rocket launchers, mortars, recoilless weapons, tank guns, self-propelled howitzers and flame throwers in a three-hour show climaxed by the "mad minute," during which hundreds of soldiers fired thier weapons simultaneously.

Later in the day they visited with a recruit a company of the 326th Infantry Training battalion which had just completed training. At noon the industrialists and 50 young soldiers sat down to a lunch of the combat five-in-one ration.

For three hours Monday afternoon Maj. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, chief of the development section, headquarters, army field forces, showed and explained to the visitors the latest developments in weapons and equipment. They saw material ranging from rifles to radar, communications equipment, light aircraft, quartermaster, medical, engineering and automotive equipment. Following this, Lt. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, director of logistics, Department of the Army, held a brief conference with the visitors on logistics.

Tuesday morning the visitors witnessed airborne training techniques and trends. They were shown the training of the paratrooper from the day he starts his course here until he makes his jumps.

Then came a short presentation of pathfinder techniques, training and equipment followed by a demonstration. They also watched a gun crew assemble a 75 mm pack howitzer in less than two minutes just as would be done in the field.

At Lawson field Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of army field forces, admitted the group prior to the aerial show. A glider and cargo plane demonstration came next, and two drops of equipment were followed by a mass jump to 80 paratroopers on a drop zone prepared by the pathfinder group.

The two-day show ended Tuesday morning with the infantry-artillery-tank team in the attack, supported by a squadron of fighter planes. For this demonstration a reinforced infantry battalion attacked a heavily fortified and well defended enemy-held hill.

Sixteen F-47 fighters roared over the hill in a successful attempt to reduce a battery of six rocket guns. The first eight planes fired five-inch rockets, and the second eight dropped two 250-pound bombs each.

The artillery preparation for the attack included a TOT with five battalions employed. In a thunderous barrage, 42 105 mm howitzers and 18 155 mm howitzers opened up simultaneously on the objective using a technique designed to get all the shells from all the guns on the target at the same time. High explosive shells landed directly on the hill, while other shells with new proximity fuses exploded overhead.

Through the clearing smoke and dust of the artillery shoot the visitors were able to see infantrymen advancnig in columns supported by tanks, infantry weapons, machine guns, mortars and recoilless rifles opened up and tanks were fired. Disabled tanks were retrieved, tank 'dozers eliminated road blocks, and field artillery gave direct support to the infantry.

After the one-hour demonstration the group returned to the main post for lunch, and at 3 p. m. boarded planes for Eglin field, Fla., where the airforce was scheduled to put on its two-day part of the conference.

School Secretary Named Assistant Attache to Rome

Lt. Col. Charles E. Johnson, secretary of the Infantry School, will leave Fort Benning next week for Washington preparatory to assuming new duties as assistant U. S. military attache in Rome, it has been announced.

He has been ordered to report to Washington Dec. 31 where he will enroll in a five-month course at the Strategic Intelligence School.

After attending the University of South Carolina for one year, Colonel Johnson was appointed to the U. S. Military academy in 1930, graduating in 1934. His first assignment was with the 22nd Infantry from 1934 to 1938. He then reported to the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning, remaining with the unit for one year before being assigned to the advanced class at the Infantry School.

In 1938 he joined the Third Infantry division, then stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., serving first with the 15th Infantry and later with the Third Quartermaster battalion. He commanded an assault battalion of the 30th Infantry in the invasion of North Africa, and his unit was later chosen to serve as guard of honor for President Roosevelt at the Casablanca conference early in 1943.

From the 30th Infantry Colonel Johnson went to Third division headquarters as G-4, and in February, 1944, was named division chief of staff, a post he held until returning to the U. S. in October, 1945, for assignment to the Infantry School.

During his three years overseas, Colonel Johnson participated in the campaigns of North Africa, Tunisia, Sicily, Naples-Foggia, Anzio, Rome-Arno, Southern France, Ardennes-Alsace, Rhineland and Central Europe.

Administration Officer Named

Maj. Arthur E. Le Vey, a recent graduate of the Infantry School's associate basic course, has been named administrative officer of the First battalion, Student Training regiment, it was announced this week.

Before coming to Fort Benning the early part of this year, Captain LeVey served as liaison officer for the technical intelligence branch in Europe, and edited Gen. Lucius B. Clay's report while serving in the control office.

A native of New York City, Major Le Vey was commissioned in the Organized Reserve corps in 1936 and entered active service in 1941. From 1941 until going overseas in 1945, he served in the office of the assistant chief of staff, G-2, in the Pentagon. During his tour of duty in Washington, he acted as liason officer between G-2 and the Federal Communication commission's office of censorship and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Don Cossack Chorus

World-Famous Don Cossack Chorus To Present Concert At Fort Benning

Opening the concert season at Fort Benning, the world famous General Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers will appear Saturday evening at 8:30 in the Main theater to present a varied, colorful program for members of the Fort Benning Community Concert association.

Other artists to appear here during the season include Mac Morgan, lyric baritone, on February 25, the Philharmonic Piano Quartet on March 14, and the Mia Slavenska Ballet Troupe on April 1.

The Don Cossack Chorus is led by Nicholas Kostrukoff, a veteran Don Cossack officer of the last war. They number twenty-seven singers and their program will include traditional Cossack songs, folksongs of their native land, boisterous regimental songs and gay peasant dances, gypsy songs and special selections from the classics. This year they will add a group of songs in English including Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer," Harvey Enders' "Russian Picnic" and Nevin's "The Rosary."

An outstanding feature of the concert will be a series of authentic Cossack regimental dances in which these artists are noted as eperts. These include the Cossack military and national dances and the picturesque and unusual Cossack sword dances.

In the current program, Gabriel Soloduhin is featured in the Lezginka, a barbaric Caucasian dance which begins on the sad lilt of a peasant song and concludes in a wild dance of jubilation. With the entire chorus providing the vocal background, Soloduhin performs the traditional dagger dance which never fails to stir his audiences.

Soloduhin is probably the most photographed Cossack in the world. He has made dozens of motion pictures and is summoned each season to Hollywood whenever there is a call for a Cossack in a movie. He has also been featured by Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's circus in riding spectacles.

This season the Don Cossacks will celebrate the tenth anniversary of their first American performance which took place at the San Francisco World's Fair. In Cleveland on January 15 they will sing their 1,000th American concert. During the 21 years since they sang their first concert together in the Russian Cathedral in Prague in Czecho-Slovakia, following their exile from the Russian Don country, they have given more than 5,000 concerts. Chaliapin was the first musical authority to set the seal of approval and to sponsor them after their foundation in a refugee colony in Czecho-Slovakia in 1926. Since that time they have been heard in practically every large city in the world and have been acclaimed by critics everywhere as one of the best choral groups to be heard in our concert halls.

For the second concert of the series on February 2 the association will present the lyric baritone, Mac Morgan. Now in his second year as star of the Cities Service "Highways in Melody", Mr. Morgan is a favorite of concert and radio.

The Philharmonic Piano Quartet, appearing here on March 14, will feature Ada Kopets, Bertha Melnik, John Scales and Max Walmer, on four Steinwey grand pianos.

Those who had the opportunity to see Mia Slavenska and her ballet troupe in Columbus last season know quite well the treat that is in store for association members on April 1 when Miss Slavenska and her troupe of outstanding artists will be presented. Mia Slavenska was the star of the motion picture "Ballerina" and is former premiere danseuse of the Monte Carlo Ballet.

There are still a few good seats available for the concert series, and anyone interested should apply at the officers' club or to Col. O. P. Bragan, special services officer. The price of six dollars and four dollars includes tax and entitles the holder to attend all four concerts. The membership card is transferrable, but no single admissions will be sold. Newcomers to Benning will be permitted to purchase memberships for the concerts remaining after their arrival here, if there are any seats available at that time. Only members of the association may attend the concerts.

25th Infantry Men Promoted

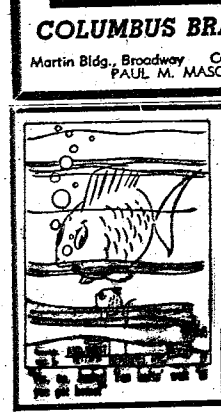
The Second battalion of the 25th Infantry regiment announced the promotion of 31 men last week, Company F leading the list with 22 advances in grade.

Company F. men promoted were Cpl. Mitchell Forte to sergeant; Pfcs. John H. Sampson, Andrew C. Holmes, Josh Elridge, Andrew S. Potter, Harry Dandridge, William Dockery, Robert L. Johnson, Raleigh Mathews, Olin McGhee, Alfred M. Rodd and Walter Walley to corporal.

Advanced to grade of private first class in Company F were Pvts. Zacherie L. Lemelle, Samuel R. Mathis, Richard Runnels, Melvin E. Thomas, Homer V. Gates, Nemo Campbell, Melvin Alexander, Hugh L. Jackson, Henry H. Daniel and Maymon H. Hicks.

Company G men promoted included Cpl. Corsbia Anderson to sergeant and Pvts. Thomas Cameron, Leroy Hudson, Robert B. Lewis, Hercules Moore, Robert C. Phillips and William L. Randolph, all to private first class, and Pfc. Columbus Walden of Company E to corporal.

And, Why Not?



The 154-yard fifth hole at the Norfolk, Va., Officers' club golf course is the favorite of airforce Col. W. H. Councill. The colonel has "aced" the hole three times this year, twice on consecutive days. He used a No. 9 iron.

Lashey Is Ordered To Okinawa Post

First Lt. Francis J. Lashey, former detachment commander of the 121st Evacuation hospital, has left for a 30-day leave at his home in Lima, Ohio, after which he will report for a new assignment in Okinawa, officials have announced.

Local Troops Participate In Armistice Day Fetes

Fort Benning troops lent an impressive touch to Armistice day ceremonies and parades in four cities in the area during observance last Thursday honoring those "who gave their lives in the service of their country during Ward War I."

Brief ceremonies were staged at Fort Benning climaxed by the firing of a 21-gun salute at noon in the vicinity of the flag pole.

All six of the gun sections of Battery A of the 319th Field Artillery battalion participated in the ceremony here. Forty pieces of the 72nd Army band played military selections before noon, and at the conclusion of the ceremonies, the flag, which had been flying at half-mast since revielle, was hoisted to full staff.

The 319th also had a representative unit in the celebration at Birmingham, Ala., along with the Second battalion of the 325th Infantry regiment. Headed by Maj. Don O. Hart, assistant executive officer of the 319th, Battery B of the 319th fired a 21-gun salute to end the ceremony at Birmingham.

The Second battalion of the 325th figured prominetnly in the impressive ceremonies in the Alabama city. Accompanied by the remainder of 72nd Army band, the local group participated in the huge parade in downtown Birmingham. Headed by Lt. Col. E. O. Gibson, second battalion commander, the elements of the 325th included staff officers of the battalion, Headquarters and Headquarters company of the Second battalion and Companies E, F, G and H.

In the reviewing stand for the parade at Birmingham were Secretary of Army Kenneth C. Royall; Lt. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commanding general of the Fleet Marine force, Atlantic; Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander; Rear Admiral R. W. Hayler, commandant, U. S. Navy sixth district; Brig. Gen. Ralph F. Stearley, commanding officer, 14th air force; and Capt. William Sinton, chief of naval air basic training, Pensacola, Fla.

The ceremonial atmosphere was complete with squadrons of fighter planes roaring overhead during the long parade.

Some of the honored guests at Birmingham's ceremony were Harold "Red" Erwin, Congressional Medal of Honor wearer whose heroic efforts have become legend, and Charles Boswell, Distinguished Service cross holder, the blind veteran who now holds the national blind golf championship. Helen Jepson, noted Metropolitan Opera singer, was also an honored guest on the reviewing stand.

Some 120 recruits of the 325th Training battaljon participated in a parade at Anniston, Ala., while 120 enlisted men and four officers of the 328th Ordnance battalion journeyed to Pensacola, Fla., to take part in the holiday observance there.

In Columbus, Fort Benning troops and equipment were included in a huge Armistice day procession. Representing the post were members of Military Police detachment, Section No. 1, 3440th Area Service unit.

Pathfinder Class Begins Monday

Approximately 20 officers and enlisted men will start the Infantry School's 10-week pathfinder course next Monday, it has been announced by the Academic department.

During the two-and one-half-month course, the students will be trained to precede airborne or air transported forces and establish communication with troop carrier formations, to aid in making accurate delivery of the airborne or air-transported force to the predetermined area of operations, to assist with the assembly of troops after landing, and to land on proposed advance landing fields in forward areas. The course also teaches students to survey the fields and report the possibility of landing supplies and troops on them.

The course is designed to make students capable of assisting aircraft in the initial ecehlon to land at advanced landing fields by giving landing instructions, pointing out obstructions possibly unseen by pilots and to act as flying control personnel until relieved by airforce personnel.

Also opening next Monday for approximately 50 enlisted men is motor mechanics course No. 2. The purpose of this 15-week course is to train selected enlisted men to preform organizational maintenance on all wheeled vehicles issued to infantry units.

Trading Post Tells Weekly Bargain Buys

Bargains for newlyweds are predominant this week at the Trading Post.

These bargains range from a practically new dinnette set, which sells for $45, to a series of baby buggies priced from three dollars to $15. A buggy for twins is selling for $15.

Other articles for sale that may interest young maried couples who are interested in furnishing their homes include vacuum cleaners, priced from $20 to $45, including all popular name-brands; a porch glider at $10; a majestic console radio at $25, and a coal heater at $40.

In the clothing department, bargains are offered in officers' formal blues, a new selection of evening gowns and a large selection of children's clothing, including snowsuits.

Santa Arrives Here By Plane Next Saturday

Although Christmas is more than a month away, the genuine spirit of the holiday season will be in the air here Saturday morning with the arrival by plane of Santa Claus at Gordon Field.

Hundreds of Fort Benning kiddies will be on hand to greet the bearer of good tidings when he lands at approximately 10:30 a.m. Also on hand to extend an official welcome will be post officials.

Elaborate ceremonies are planned for Santa's arrival. Prior to his grand entrance Fort Benning school children will entertain with a short holiday skit. Up to press time it was not definite, but plans have been underway to have Saint Nick land with all his toys loaded in one or two more planes.

Following his official greeting at Gordon field, he will proceed to Toyland where he will personally greet the children and present each child with a gift. Toyland is located next to the Main exchange.

AACS Celebrate Tenth Anniversary

The 1926th Airways and Air Communications Service squadron detachment at Lawson air force base celebrated its 10th birthday Monday, Nov. 15.

The AACS unit at Lawson began operation Oct. 1, 1946. Recently the unit was redesignated from the 108th AACS unit to the 1926th AACS Squadron detachment when the organization was consolidated with the communication branches of other services under the main heading of Military Air Transport service. Headquarters for the Lawson unit is at Warner Robins air force base, Macon, Ga.

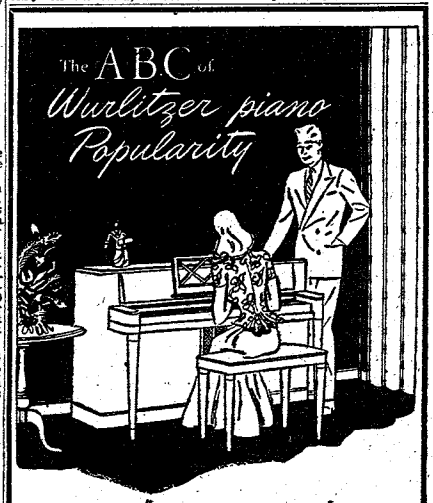
Playing an important role at Lawson, the airways and air communications service unit is divided into four components: tower, air-to-ground station, maintenance section, and radio range. Each section has a section chief who supervises the duties of his section and coordinates his work with the department head, Capt. George Shivers.

The control tower has been termed the center of activity since it is really an efficient "radio station," placed strategically on the field, where the greatest area of the airstrip can be observed by the operators. It stands 60 feet above the surface level of the field to facilitate the handling of taxing aircraft and vehicles.

The air-to-ground section also plays an important part since it is a link in a vast network of other air-to-ground stations over the entire world. Its chief function is to report the position of transient aircraft within its radio range to the nearest flight service, which in turn notifies the aircraft's home base of its whereabouts every 30 minutes.

The maintenance section is charged with keeping the radio receivers, transmitters and other radio equipment in operating order at all times. The radio range is a series of transmitters that send out an automatic signal vital to pilots flying instrument.

The control tower has been termed the center of activity since it is really an efficient "radio station," placed strategically on the field, where the lift, or "Operation Vittles", in Germany.



Not only are the AACS units important in the U. S., but they are vitally important in the air

About Income Tax

There has been much bitterness expressed regarding the impending death of the soldier's income tax exemption act, which becomes effective January 1, 1949. We have found much misrepresentation, and in some cases a deliberate effort to rile the serviceman, to make him feel that he is being discriminated against.

Such attempts will cause a great deal of damage although these same individuals claim they have the welfare of the serviceman at heart.

First of all, allow us to say that we regret very much that the serviceman must pay income taxes so long as his pay is no more than it is. However, that is something over which the individual soldier has no control, and instead of pointing out to him the unpleasantness of withholding taxes from his pay, persons who are really concerned over the morale of the soldier should attempt to explain to him the reason for it as well as to point out to him that he is scheduled for a pay raise soon.

We have learned, although we have no official statement, that sometime after the first of the year, the soldier will get a pay raise to bring his income to the level of his civilian counterpart. Of course, the tax exemption act for soldiers dies January 1, and the soldier will immediately be subject to a withholding tax the same as civilians. However, shortly thereafter, it is hoped that the new pay raise will go into effect, which will more than compensate for any taxation on individual incomes. It is regrettable that the tax exemption act dies prior to the enactment of legislation raising the soldier's pay, but not so catastrophic as some would have us believe.

At present, taking into consideration free medical and dental care, food, clothing, housing and exchange and commissary privileges, the average soldier has quite a sizable income, one which is adequate to fill his basic needs. Certainly, he is not destitute. He is healthy, well clothed and has plenty of free entertainment. In addition, he can look forward to the nation's best retirement plan.

Since we have no close Washington connections, we have no idea why the Congress allowed the tax exemption to die, but it is obvious, in face of growing U. S. commitments abroad and at home, that everyone must do all he can to help keep the larder well supplied. And if we all feed from the larder and do nothing to replace that which is consumed, we can't expect to keep it stocked as it should be. Thus, we can understand why, even though we might not be in full agreement, why the tax exemption act will be a thing of the past come January 1.

We doubt very much that the soldier will refuse to reenlist simply because he has to pay taxes, even though some of the opposition have pointed out that this is likely. He couldn't escape paying income taxes as a civilian anyway.

The soldier is not a prima donna, and does not expect to be treated as though he were. He has never in the past, and will never in the future, feel that he has to be offered special compensation to remain in the army. He is proud of his profession. And indeed he should be, for it is an honorable one.

Strictly Editorializing

Selection of Fort Benning as a point on the intinerary of the nation's leading busines and professional men participating in the first joint orientation conference should make each Benningite feel extremely proud. There are hundreds of army installations in the continental United States; yet the Infantry Center was chosen over all others.

There must be some reason for this selection. We could, of course, say that it was chosen because it was nearer to the naval installation at Pensacola, Fla., and the air force installation at Elgin field, Fla. But we would not be honest in such an assumption since Washington officials could just as easily have selected some other post between here and Washington or even in some other area. The fact remains, however, that this was not done because the army wanted these men to see the best the army has to offer. Consequently, we must asume that Fort Benning was the logical place to visit because it is the best in the nation. We could go even further and say the best in the world.

We would like to commend the troops who provided the demonstrations for the civilian guests. Their performance was excellent, and we feel sure that, regardless of the location of the second joint orientation conference, no better demonstrations will, or could, be presented. These troops are also to be commended for their snappy and soldierly appearance. Indeed all of Fort Benning seemed to shine brighter Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The teamwork and cooperation exhibited here this week provides added proof that there is still as much, if not more, esprit de corps in the infantry as can be found in any arm or branch of the armed forces today. We feel sure that our opinion will be borne out by the civilian visitors.

Chaplain's Corner..

BY CHAPLAIN W. M HALE

If today we could offer people of Suchow, China, and of many other troubled spots of the world the peace of mind and freedom of action we enjoy in America, those people would feel they had something for which they could be truly thankful.

We Americans have reaped the tremendous benefits of a wonderful way of life designed by our forefathers. Many other nations had as much material wealth as we, and, yet, they have not been able to employ their land and their coal and their forests to build the standard of living and the opportunity for self-development that is ours in the United

I believe if we sum up the greatness of America, it would all add up to the fact that no one is bound by the caste system; that no one has to be afraid to live into reality his individual ambitions. The farmer's son can aspire to the presidency and the President's son can understand that he is made of the same material as the coal miner's family. To summarize it all, we can say that America has been successful because every man has been treated as a child of God and has been encouraged to treat his fellowman with the consideration that belongs to God's created children.

Capital has a responsibility to labor and labor has a responsibility to capital. The farmer has a responsibility to the city dweller, and the city dweller has a responsibility for those in other parts of the forty-eight states. Each state is part of a federated union that assumes the responsibility of helping those others who are less fortunate.

But the question is: "Are we thankful?" Do we take all this and forget from whence it came? Are we failing at the center of true greatness? Would we regiment our people until they become robots or will we constantly remember that every man is a child of God created in the same mold who who should have the opportunity to climb as far and to accomplish as much as his aptitude allows?

FRANCIS GOES TO WASHINGTON

A motheaten, swaybacked, decrepit old army mule that talks — that's the story of "Francis Goes to Washington" by David Stern. But this book isn't quite in the Peter Rabbit class. For Francis, the army mule that goes to Washington, talks sense — good, hard, "horse" sense; or perhaps we should say "mule" sense. And that's more than you can say for most of the humans in this book. We refer particularly to Peter Stirling, the ex-army lieutenant who finds himself, a political greenhorn, a Democratic candidate for Congress, with every prospect of picking up less votes than Wallace. He is the completely defeated candidate until Francis steps in as his campaign manager.

Peter Stirling has no "horse-sense," mule sense and very little of any other kind of sense. He is as dumb as Francis is smart. We were at all amazed to hear Francis talk. But we did wonder why such an intelligent mule should waste time on a dope like Peter.

If you read "Francis," the first of these mule books by David Stern, you know how the whole business started. Peter, still a little bewildered and weighted down by his second lieutenant's bars, is lost and wounded in a Burma ravine.

Fourtunately Francis is on hand to take over, but, unfortunately, the lieutenant doesn't have enough sense enough to keep his mouth shut. He can never learn that in the army you don't go around bragging about talking mules who direct your affairs. Lieutenant Stirling's army career from then on could be summed up in a sentence: "Trilby to a mule—a hero on Monday, a psychopath on Tuesday, and then all over again." Then the report came that Francis had been killed in a plane accident, so Stirling could have a little peace, if very little mind.

You know, of course, who wins the election and the girl, but if you're like us, you'll have a lot of fun seeing how it's accomplished. And you'll probably get a big kick out of Francis — though probably not quite so big a kick as some of the various characters who opposed him. At any rate, it will hurt less.

Meanwhile, "Francis Goes to Washington" is at the Main library.

Your Red Cross

By MURRAY E. HILL

For the first time in two years Fort Benning has a Red Cross auxiliary. An auxiliary to a military post is about the same thing a Red Cross chapter is to a community, and it takes a Red Cross chapter in a community to round out the good American way of living. From time to time you will be reading in The Bayonet and other publications of the activities of the auxiliary at Fort Benning which is, of course, made up of volunteers.

There seems to be a general opinion that auxiliary means a ladies' organization. This is not true. A Red Cross chapter or an auxiliary has the need of male volunteers as well as ladies. For instance, most of our water safety and first aid instructors are men. There is certainly no reason why men should not be active in the following committees:

Public relations, entertainment and instructions, to serve as technicians, hobby leaders and discussion group leaders. The motor corps very definitely offers opportunities for men to serve with the Red Cross and even the canteen in many localities is staffed entirely by men.

So, during the next few weeks when the recruitment committee for the Red Cross auxiliary at the post is seeking volunteers I certainly trust that this committee will endeavor to secure the names of men willing to volunteer their spare time as well as women. In fact every one at Fort Benning, officers, enlisted men, civilians, their wives or dependents will be welcome on a volunteer basis to serve in some capacity with the newly formed auxiliary.

You will be interested in the new program of the auxiliary at Fort Benning. But don't wait until you are asked. Contact the Red Cross office on the main post or at the hospital or Mrs. William Duncan, secretary of the auxiliary, and volunteer your services.

It is important, not only to those whom you serve but it is important to you, yourself, that you become affiliated with the Red Cross.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

THE PLUNDERERS (western in trucolor) with Rod Cameron, Ilona Massey and Adrian Booth. This wild-action western culminates in a rousing assault by Sioux Indians on a frontier fort back in 1870. If the audience goes for romance, action, blood and thunder and a slickly developed plot, they will like The Plunderers completely. Recommended for family.

ANGEL ON THE AMAZON (adventure) with George Brent, Vera Ralston and Brian Aherne. A woman who has fled civilization because of a supposedly incurable illness and spends her time in the Amazon jungle is thrown necessarily into contact with a group of her kind when their plane crashes in the jungle. Adventures of jungle variety precede a surprise ending to the complicated situation. Recommended for adult.

JUNGLE PATROL (drama) with Kristine Miller and Ross Ford. This story is about eight guys and a gal defending an air strip on New Guinea against the Japanese Recommended for family.

THE PALE FACE (comedy in technicolor) with Bob Hope and Jane Russell. Armed with a luxury of gags, Paramount has Bob Hope venturing into an Indian-and-bad-man satire that hits the top of the laugh-meter. They made Jane Russell his leading lady and dressed the settings in the finery of technicolor. Recommended for family.

MIRACULOUS JOURNEY (drama in cinecolor) with Rory Calhoun and Virginia Grey. Miraculous Journey gathers a handful of characters into an airplane and then forces that plane down into the heart of the Belgian Congo. There's romance, action, wild life and the sweet and tender to make this a thrilling production. Recommended for family.

To Amuse You Today

Service club hostess: "I simply adore that new step of yours. Where did you pick it up?"

Pfc: "dan't be silly. I'm just tripping over my garter."

* * *

The battalion sergeant major hopped from headquarters into his waiting car, eager to be off. He was puzzled by the quizzical expression of the jeep driver's face. "You do drive, I pray?" he asked.

Driver: o"Sergeant, when I drive, you have to pray."

* * *

"Did you have to borrow much money on your farm?"

"Did I? I have so many government loans on the place that I have to milk the cows with political pull."

* * *

Company clerk: "You look as if you didn't get much sleep last nig t."

Sgt.: "I didn't. The couple next door were fighting all night hammer and tong."

"Clerk: "Who won?"

1st. Sgt. : She did, she had the hammer."

* * *

"So Liz is sore at her husband? I thought he was perfect. He always turned over his pay check to her on the first of the month."

"Yeah, but she just found out he gets paid on the fifteenth, too."

* * *

Talkative wife: "Is everything shut up for the night, dear?"

Tired husband: "Everything else, dear.

* * *

The army psychiatrist looked at the prospective new soldier suspiciously. "And what do you do for social life," he asked "Oh," Zeke blushed, 'I just sit around."

'Hmmm. don't you ever go with the girl ?'

"Nope."

"Hmm, have you any desire to go with girls?"

"Well, sort of."

"Then why don't you," asked the doctor pointedly.

"Pearl, my wife, won't let me."

Soldiers Win On Quiz Show At NCCS Club

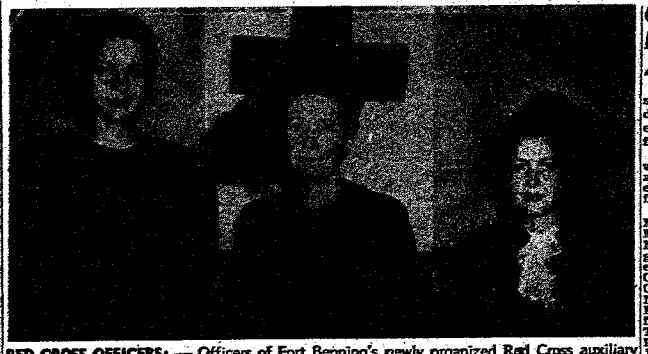
Fort Benning and Fort Bragg G.I's proved that they know all the answers—or most of them anyway—when they defeated the Southern Belle on the quiz show at the NCCS club Sunday afternoon.

The winners in the contest were Pfc. J. J. McGroarty, Pfc. Jon Jacobsen and Pfc. Warren Calkin, who are at Fort Benning on special assignment from Fort Bragg, and Pfc. Chuck Austin and Pfc. Bud Nelson of Fort Benning. The G.I.'s will have a chance to defend their title this Sunday when there will be another quiz show. The time is 4:30 p.m. at the NCCS club.

A special program has been arranged for the Thanksgiving weekend. On Wednesday, Nov. 24, there will be a dance at 8:30 p.m., and on Thursday from 3 to 7 p.m. a tea dance. Bill Cooper's orchestra will provide music for both occasions.

On Nov. 26 there will be table games, and on Saturday evening a semi-formal Thanksgiving ball will be held. Music will be furnished by the 196th Army band.

The Southern Belles will be special guests at the football game at Fort Benning Sunday afternoon and later will attend a tea at Service club No. 1.



Saturday, November 20, there will be a scavenger hunt, starting at 7:45 p.m., at the NCCS club. Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments will be served later in the evening. Miss Faye Chambliss will be in charge, assisted by Misses Amaryllis Hollis, Vivian Miller, Marguerite Whittington and Alice Hicks.

On the committee for the tea dance and Thanksgiving ball are Misses Dolores Vining, Amaryllis Hollis, Barbara Kleman, Vivian Miller, Helen Nowell, Lena Horne and Mary Catherin Ingram.

Joint Orientati

The 54 distinguished civilian guests who spent two days at Fort Benning this week found plenty to keep them interested as these pictures show. Oddly enough, some of the equipment and weapons the visitors saw were manufactured in their own plants. If they didn't build the tanks or guns or other material, most of them still had something to do with the equipment with which the infantry fights, whether it was laboratory research, training scientists, hauling or shipping the supplies or helping to find the money to pay the costs of war.

Photo in upper left shows one of the guests being oriented on a heavy .30 cal machine gun. In the middle left the guests are seen as they listened to a talk on rations, while in the lower left three of them examine a target destroyed by a sharpshooting rifleman Monday.

Lunch for the visitors one day was a typical army meal of combat five-in-one rations and the photo, top center, shows them going through the "chow line." In the picture above three of them are acting as the crew of a 75mm recoiless rifle during one of the breaks of the three-hour infantry weapons demonstrated Monday morning.

Stretching cramped muscles caused by sitting on bleacher seats and at the same time enjoying a cup of coffee while asking questions is one group of the visitors shown in the photo in upper right.

The difference between air-cooled .30 and .50 caliber machine guns is explained to the visitors shown in the midle picture on the right. Many of the visitors stated that they thought the army was well ahead of most peoples' expectations when it came to research and development and the utilization of materials.

In the picture on the bottom, right, Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, is orienting the civilian gronp concerning the 325th Infantry training battalion. Immediately after the post commander told them about the recruits and their training they met a company of the men and asked them what they thought of the army. Joining the civilians at lunch were 50 of the recruits who kept up a lively series of questions and answers since each table was divided equally between civilians and recruits.

Favored Jax Tar Crew Nips Locals

Play Guardsmen Here On Sunday

Stalemated by a power-charged Fort Benning line for more than half of the game, a highly-vaunted crew of Jacksonville, Fla., naval air station gridders broke loose with two last half touchdowns to edge the Doughboys 13-0 in the Gator Bowl last Saturday night.

More than 10,000 spectators turned out for the line-versus-backfield affair which was labeled by observers as the "best show staged in the Gator Bowl this season."

During the first half, the air stars, who boast one of the fastest moving array of backs of any service eleven in the country, concentrated on trying to crash through the fortress-like forward wall of the Doughboys, but were unable to pick up any sizeable gains.

Robert Stars

The gallant stand made by the Doughboy forward barrier was sparked by the performance of reserve center Sam Roberts, who proved a mid-line nemesis to navy ball carriers, and tackle Carl Meier, who held down a sensational 58-minute assignment along the front line.

Soon after the opening of the second half, the navy started to roll when a combined running and passing attack clicked for 65 years with Andy Anderson hitting over center for the touchdown from one yard out. The extra point was kicked by Jax toe specialist "Tizzie" Tisdale.

John Bienemen, a navy scatback from Philadelphia, Pa., sewed up the game for Coach Don Jacka's team in the last quarter when he reeled off a sparkling 66-yard dash to pay dirt. Joe Patterson, who attempted the point after touchdown, missed his target on a placement, and the tars' tally stood at 13.

Doughs Rally

The second-half offensive, however, wasn't staged entirely by the Florida air sailors. After the Jax eleven crashed over the initial score of the game, the Doughs started a trek toward the Flyer end zone which penetrated to within two yards of scoring territory.

The drive opened up when halfback Don Sult heaved a long pass from the Dough 30-yard stripe which was gathered in by quarterback Don Lucas on the Jax 40-yard marker. After the Benning signal-caller had been thrown down on the navy 17-yard stripe, the soldier crew moved down to the two-yard line on a series of running plays. From there, the Doughs drew a five-yard penalty for taking too much time in the huddle, and finally lost possession of the ball on downs in the neighborhood of the Flyer seven-yard marker.

Their loss to the Jacksonville aggregation eradicated the Doughs' chances of winding up the season above the .500 mark. With only two games remaining on their slate, the season's record for the Benningites now stands at two triumphs and five setbacks.

NG Here Sunday

Saturday night's tussle was a one-night visiting stand for the Doughs who returned to the post late Sunday to begin preparations for meeting the Alabama national guard eleven in a Doughboy stadium tilt next Sunday afternoon.

After being rated on even terms or underdog for all their previous outings this season, the Doughboys will enjoy the distinction of being rated favorites for next Sunday's clash, but Coach Joe Shepherd hesitated to tag the game as a "breather".

The chief advantage the Doughs will have over the Alabamans will be in reserve strength. The national guard roster lists only about 25 gridders while the Dough mentor has no less than 40 players he will be able to call into service. In the weight department, the Doughboys also will hold a slight edge.

Drill Schedule

Following their gruelling battle with the Jacksonville tars, the Dough gridders were given a day of relaxation by Coach Shepherd on Monday, but swung into their practice routine on Tuesday. Heavy scrimmages were on tap for the Doughs for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons with the tapering-off process slated to start on Friday.

Coach Shepherd was expected to spend the majority of the drill sessions this week in pointing out the weakness manifested during the Dough - Jax tiff, and working on individual assignments.

The outlook as far as injuries are concerned is bright with only one possible disability seen by Shepherd. Defensive center Ralph Davis, who has been sidelined with a wrist injury, probably will not be used in Sunday's tilt, but tackle Leonard Pinkey, who sustained a facial mishap during the Jacksonville fray, is expected to be back in the lineup for the clash with the guardsmen.

Thanksgiving Tilt Arranged With Termites

Gridmen of the 328th Ordnance battalion will take the turf against the long-unbeaten Choppy's sandlot Termite eleven of Columbus in a charity tilt in the city's Memorial stadium on Thanksgiving night. The kickoff is slated for 8 p. m.

The Optimist club-sponsored clash will end the 328th ordnancemen journey to Atlanta for a Sunday afternoon tilt with the Atlanta General depot eleven. The AGD-ordnance tussel will be the second of the season between the two squads. In the previous game, the Atlantans downed the 328th, 20-6, in Doughboy stadium.

In the Thanksgiving night fracas, the ordnance lads, whose win column for the season is devoid of any digits, will be up against a team which has battled its way to the Optimist club sandlot championship for the past three years, and has run up a string of 28 consecutive victories.

The Termites, coached by Billy Pridgeon, former Jordan high school quarterback, has scored 81 points this fall while holding their foes to a lone touchdown. The ordnance record for the season stands at one tie and four setbacks.

The Thanksgiving program also will feature two teams of seven-to-ten-year-old youngsters who will play an abbreviated contest during the halftime intermission. The two mite elevens are being furnished by the Columbus Young Men's Christian association.

Although arrangements for the music have not been completed, it was anticipated that an army band will play for the grid program.

Tentative plans are for the ordnance squad to donate its share of the game proceeds to the Community Chest fund, and the Termites to furnish their portion of the gate to the Beallwood Boys' club of Columbus.

Prison Eleven Shades 328th

After being within easy reach of their first triumph of the 1948 season, gridders of the 328th Ordnance battalion succumbed to a second-half spree staged by the Florida state prison Tigers in Raiford, Fla., last Sunday, and went down 22-19.

A first-period touchdown put the Tigers out in front 6-0 early in the game, but the local ordnancemen pushed over three quick scores to hold a 19-13 advantage at the intermission.

The initial Tiger touchdown came when the prison crew recovered one of its own blocked punts on the 12-yard line and clicked off a pass play into the end zone.

The flame pot eleven went on the march after running the Tiger kickoff back up to the 40-yard line, and, on a series of surface plays carried the oval into the prison end zone.

It wasn't long until the ordnance eleven again took possession of the leather, and a pass from Dick Weymouth to "Whit" Whitman gave the soldiers another score. Weymouth tossed short to Whitman, but the hard-running ordnanceman gathered in the offering and galloped 40 yards to cross the Tiger goal line. Following the six-pointer, Weymouth took to the air again, and found William Kantak in the end zone for the extra point.

A sensational catch of one of Weymouth's pitches by Bergstrom accounted for the third ordnance score in the first half. Bergstrom, after tucking away the oval, raced 25 yards to touchdown territory.

The Tigers pulled to within striking distance of the ordnancemen in the third period by chalking up two points in a safety. The two-pointer was rung up when a bad pass from the ordnance center on the visitors' 15-yard stripe rolled into the end zone, and was smothered by soldier gridders.

Trailing 19-15 going into the final period, the Tigers came through with a "sleeper" pass which went for a touchdown. A successful attempt to split the uprights gave the Tigers their 22-point total.

Performance turned by Weymouth, outstanding backfield exhibitions were chalked up by Zeke Zanowicz and Kantak. Roy Monroe and Bergstrom were lauded by Coach Robert Agrelius for their accomplishments at end, and Francis Steranko, hard-hitting guard, was named as the ordnance defensive star.

Record Smasher

Bill Porter, Northwestern university Olympic star, has been awarded the John Thornton trophy for the best high hurdle performance in the United Kingdom this year. The U. S. star set a new record of 13.9 seconds in winning the Olympic high hurdles race last August.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

By getting only five red flags out of 27 guesses on national collegiate grid tilts last week, we raised our so-so average of the week before to a nifty .815. And most of our miscalculations were rated by even the most authoritative of pigprognosticators as major upsets.

Definitely in the upset category were Georgia Tech and Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi and Harvard and Brown. Our shortcomings here, of course, were sticking with the favorites and picking Tech, the Vols and Brown.

The other two, we still contend, could have gone either way without spilling the dope. We chose Purdue to topple Pitt because we figured the Boilermakers were about due for another triumph, and Pitt's Panthers looked like the easiest pickings. Wake Forest we picked to trounce Clemson because we liked the way the Deacons manhandled Duke the week before, and Clemson, although unbeaten, hadn't come up against any powerhouse elevens.

However, we just slipped through by the skin of our teeth in three cases. Very narrow margins kept us from having to apologize for our selections of Cornell over Dartmouth, Notre Dame over Northwestern and Army over Penn.

So much for the post mortem: now, let's take a look at this week's offerings.

THE EAST

Columbia over Syracuse: An easy romp for the Lions.

Dartmouth over Princeton: If you picked this one the other way, we wouldn't argue with you too much.

Harvard over Yale: In a traditional battle of two of the nation's oldest rivals.

Penn State over Pitt: The Panthers have pulled several out of the fire in recent weeks, but the Nittany Lions will be a topheavy favorite in this one.

Rutgers over Fordham: With some to spare.

Villanova over San Francisco: But not too handily.

THE MIDWEST

Iowa over Boston University: By several touchdowns.

Northwestern over Illinois: This one could be the battle of the century, but we'll say the Wildcats to keep their bowl hopes alive.

Indiana over Purdue: In a battle for the Big Nine conference cellar.

Oklahoma over Kansas: The winner will be the Big Seven champion of 1948, and our vote goes to the Sooners without much deliberation.

Michigan State over Washington State: A breeze for the Spartans.

Michigan over Ohio State: But the Wolverines won't find Wesley Fesler's Buckeyes any pushover.

Minnesota over Wisconsin: By a trio of six-pointers.

Missouri over Nebraska: The Tigers bowl hopes are dead, but they still pack enough wallop to trim the Cornhuskers.

Oklahoma A & M over Kansas State: The boys from State U have taken one game this year, and that looks like their quota.

THE SOUTH

Clemson over Duquesne: Clemson to stretch its victory string.

North Carolina over Duke: The Tar Heels haven't lived up to expectations in recent outings, but they should have little trouble in trampling the Blue Devils.

Vanderbilt over Maryland: If you wonder why we picked it this way, just take a look at some of the scores Vandy has been running up lately.

North Carolina State over William & Mary: At this point we cast our ballots for an upset.

Alabama over LSU: The Crimson Tide is rolling, and should have little trouble with the Baton Rouge lads after disposing of Georgia Tech last week.

Florida over Miami: The Gators to take this one handily.

Tennessee over Kentucky: To the tune of about 13 points.

Georgia over Furman: A breather for the Bulldogs.

Georgia Tech over the Citadel: The Engineers in a romp to end a two-game losing streak.

Tulane over Cincinnati: Easily.

THE SOUTHWEST

SMU over Baylor: In spite of their near loss to the Arkansas Razorbacks last week, we'll ride along with the Mustangs.

Rice over TCU: This is one we would rate as a toss-up.

THE FAR WEST

California over Stanford: By at least three touchdowns.

Oregon over Oregon State: If the Webfoots lose this one, they can kiss their Rose Bowl aspirations goodbye.

Southern California over UCLA: Where a single point could be the margin.

Midgets Break Jinx By Blanking YMCA

Two First-Half Scores Give Mites Win Margin

The Fort Benning grid Midgets now are firm believers in the maxim: "The third time is a charm." After two fruitless outings during the 1948 campaign, the local school mites took the field in Doughboy stadium last Saturday morning and blanked the Young Men's Christian association prep eleven from Columbus 14-0.

The tilt was somewhat of a "breather" for the Doughboy mites who were outclassed in weight and age in their two earlier games, and the two elevens were being rated on even terms prior to the outset of the contest.

Quarterback Richard (Pinky) Bauguss of the post gridders called for a ground attack to turn back the city crew, and the surface onslaught gave the Benningites a coasting margin at the half.

Receiving the opening kickoff, the Midgets marched the oval from their own 40-yard stripe / down to the Columbus five-yard marker from where fleet-footed Jim Ruff crashed over left tackle to score standing up. The point after touchdown was chalked up when Bauguss went through the center of the line on a quarterback sneak.

The Columbus lads' possession of the ball was brief. Losing the ball on downs, the citians tried to push back another Benning thrust, but Bauguss dispelled their hopes with a 15-yard dash around left end to pay dirt. Fullback Bill (Doc) Luther then drove over guard for the extra point.

The Midgets got a break when the halftime whistle stopped a Columbus drive which appeared to be labeled for a touchdown. After taking a kickoff from the Benning eleven, the YMCA crew moved the ball steadily down to the five-yard stripe in Midget territory before the clock halted their efforts.

Both teams dug in defensively in the final period, and neither was able to cross the payoff stripe.

The best offensive showing of the game for the YMCA eleven was made during the final period when quarterback Henry Moon started hitting his wingmen with aerials. Moon's tosses came after the Columbusites had spent the majority of the first half trying to sift through a stubborn Midget forward wall.

Although Bauguss with seven points to his credit was the high scorer for the Midgets, Luther Tee Wilson, Don Torgesson and Ruff also were cited as big factors in sparking the Benning backfield attack.

Outstanding on the Midget line were end Errol Honakey, a light but speedy right end; Hal Wilson, game captain who turned in an outstanding performance at tackle despite a wrist injury, and Don Thornhill, who recenty was shifted from center to guard by Coach Don Britt.

Plans are in the making for another YMCA-Midget clash later this season, but a date and place for the contest have not been discussed.

LINEUPS

Intra-Mural Boxing Program Opens In Main Gymnasium Friday Evening

More than 100 leather pushers, representing five, and possibly six, Fort Benning units will enter a scramble for post ring laurels when the intra-mural boxing program opens in the Main post gym Friday night. Approximately 16 bouts will occupy the card for the curtain-raising program.

Five unit teams already have entered the program, and a last-minute entry was expected from the 3440th Area Service unit. Organizations which already have indicated definite intentions of fielding squads are the Airborne battalion, the 999th Field Artillery battalion, the Infantry School detachment, the 325th Regimental combat team and the 319th Field Artillery battalion.

Contenders for the post fight laurels not only will be limited to competition within their own weight bracket, but will be given a point classification to insure that all matches will be fought on reasonably even terms.

Fighters who were matched once or more or a program at Fort Benning last year already have been placed in one of five groups, and those who are starting their first year in local ring warfare will have their classification determined by the Infantry Center Boxing board, it was pointed out.

Using skill and experience as a yardstick in setting up the numerical classifications, the athletic office has devised a point system whereby more tallies will be at sake in the fights matching the post's more skillful ringmen. In each Class 1 battle, 45 counters will be thrown in the ring, in Class 2 bouts, 35 points will be at stake, 25 tallies will be risked in each Class 3 fight, a Class 4 decision is good for 20 points, and Class 5 scrappers will be battling it out for 15 points.

In making the matches for the programs, the unit teams will not be used, but fighters will be matched with others near their own ability regardless of which unit they represent in the intra-mural scramble. The only place where the unit teams will figure in is that they will be credited with any points chalked up by a fighter of their team during the bouts.

At the close of the season, expected on March 15, the team possessing the most points will be declared the Infantry center champion, and will be awarded a traveling plaque to be retained by the unit for one year. A three-time winner of the plaque will be granted its permanent possession.

Individual winners and runners-up of each weight class will comprise the team to represent Fort Benning in the Third army boxing tourney next spring.

Appointed Chaplain At Sand Hill Chapel

Chaplain (Capt.) Clifton St. Clare Williams has been assigned to duty with the Second battalion, 25th Infantry regiment as chaplain of chapel No. 3 at Sand hill this week.

Separated from the service in 1945, Chaplain Williams was recalled to active duty in October of this year. A native of Austin, Tex., he was commissioned in January, 1943, at Waco, Tex. and attended Chaplain's school at Harvard university.

Defending Cage Champs Launch State With Win

The defending post champion cagemen, representing the Student Training regiment, the Airborne battalion and Army Field Forces board No. 3, launched the 1948 intra-mural campaign in the Main gym Monday night by squeezing out a 58-52 verdict over a Sand hill quintet from the 25th Infantry regiment and the 999th Field Artillery battalion.

But before the champs posted the game in their win column, they were given a scare by the lanky Sand hill lads, who were out in front 28-23 at the half.

Paced by sharp-shooting Bob Kinard, who sported the toggery of the Airborne battalion champs and the post Doughboys last year, the STR - Airborne-AFF board quintet surged into the lead during the opening minutes of the final half, and held the advantage throughout the remainder of the game.

The long idleness of the summer months left its mark on both squads, and the majority of the players were anything but agile in their maneuvers on the hardwood court.

The scoring parade for the tilt was led by Kinard with eight field goals for a 16-point total. Another big gun in the defending champs' attack was Joe Setley, who dropped in six buckets from the court to account for 12 of his team's total.

Scoring ace for the Sand hill five was Sylvester Scott who plunked in four field goals and as many charity tosses for a 12-point total.

CARL MEIER ..... Doughboy of the week.

Roberts, Meier Dubbed Dough Stars Of Week

Individual honors for the last two outings of the Fort Benning Doughboys have been shared by a pair of fast-charging linemen, who have been big factors in gaining the Benning forward wall a reputation of being one of the best among the South's service elevens.

Ponderous Carl Meier, a 210 pound tackle, who is the only member of the Dough squad this year who was a starter on the 1947 Benning eleven, stole individual honors in the recent clash with Fort Jackson, S.-C., with a long-winded defensive performance. Meier also worked 58 minutes along the line in last Saturday night's Gator Bowl tussle with the Jacksonville Naval air station crew.

One of the most dependable players on the Doughboy squad, Meier worked as a line coach during the pre-season workouts, and still lends a steadying influence to the comparatively young aggregation of Doughmen.

The hard-tackling lineman launched his grid career as a highschool star in South St. Paul, Minn., in the early 1930's. In 1935, he worked out with the pro Green Bay Packers, but entered the army the following year.

While on duty with the Third Infantry regiment at Fort Snelling, Minn., Meier played both service and sandlot football. In 1942, while stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., the versatile Doughboy tackle played with the Sixth Infantry division eleven.

Two and one-half years of overseas service interrupted Meier's pigskin career, but, after returning from Oahu, T. H., he was assigned to Fort Benning, and promptly resumed his grid activities by performing for the Doughboys last year. His present assignments here is with the Heavy Tank company of the 325th Infantry regiment.

Although considerably younger and less experienced than his line colleague, scrappy reserve center Sam Roberts did the bang-up performing during the Doughs' 13-0 loss to the Jax navy crew last week. Generally used as a defensive substitute, Roberts' offensive playing also was outstanding during the tiff with the air tars.

Roberts, a 19-year-old lad, whose stint with the army dates back only to the beginning of 1948, started his grid activity as a halfback with Central highschool of Columbus, Ohio, four years ago.

Infantry Ring Men Win Over Chutists

BY VINCENT GIARRATANO

In a pre-league warmup card between the Airborne battalion and the 325th Infantry regiment last Friday night, the 325th's boxing team carried away its first laurels of the season with five wins out of eight bouts.

Contrary to the impression the results of the show may create, the airborne students proved to be stuff competitions, and each found he had a scrap on his hands when he stepped into the ring.

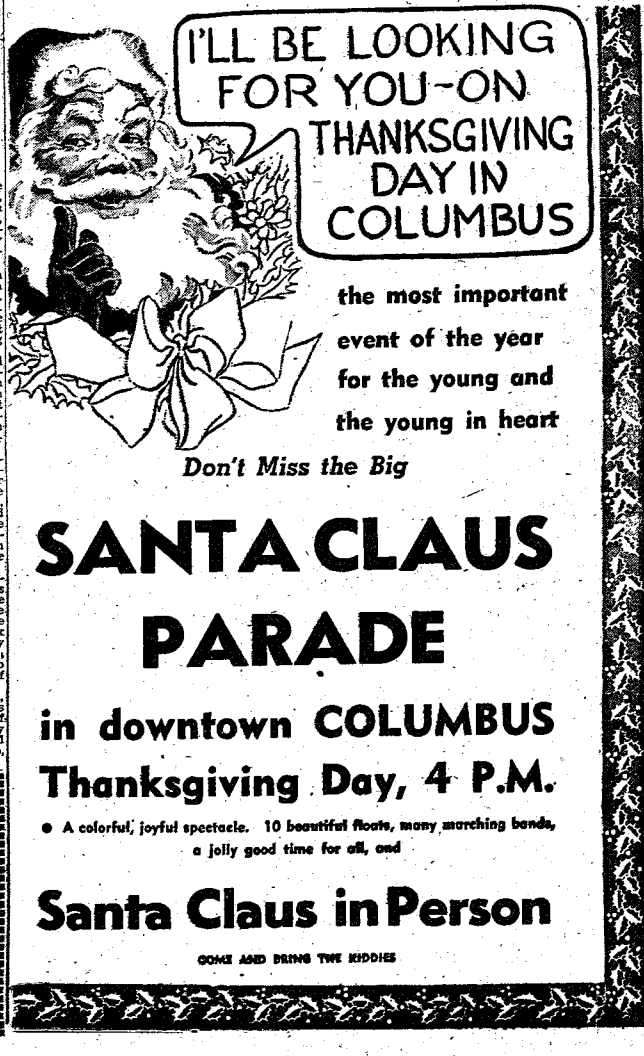
In one of the most exciting bouts of the evening, light heavyweight Joe Klock of the infantrymen's Heavy Mortar company fought through 1:39 of the final period of his three-round tracas before winning by technical knockout from Ed Meinert of the trooper Headquarters and Service company.

Meinert, a Sewickly, Pa., lad, went down for the nine count once in the first and third rounds and twice during the second stanza.

In the same weight class, Frank McCarty, a Phenix City, Ala., lad who carries the colors of the 325th, dropped a unanimous decision to hard-hitting Lee Adams of the Airborne battalion's Headquarters and Service company.

Marlin Cook, a 149-pound middleweight from the First battalion, 325th Infantry, made his first appearance in the ring a sensation by outpointing rugged Alton Carrier, a 154-pounder from Company A of the trooper battalion.

Clinching the middleweight class honors of the evening for the 325th team, Lew Hawkins of the second battalion won by split decision in a rough and tumble slugfest with the Airborne battalion's 150-pound Herb Allen, another Headquarters and Service company scrapper.



Dick Diar, 146-pound 325th pugilist from Company H, fought hard, but dropped the verdict in his bout with fast, smooth-boxing Archie Monroe of Company E of the trooper unit.

The third and final loss for the 325th team came when Jesus Salomon, a scrappy little 124-pounder from Company G, lost by decision to Lloyd Gauntt of Company E.

In the next fight, however, lightweight Tony Perfidio of Company F made up for the 325th loss by outpointing Reimundo Espazze, who crowded him throughout the battle only to lose on a split decision.

Carrying the 325th banner to a final victory in a thrilling main go, 124-pound Raymond Martinez of Company E edged Frank Hodges of the Airborne battalion's Headquarters and Service company to chalk up a unanimous decision.

A touch of comedy was provided the spectators mid-way through the first round of the battle between Martinez and Hodges. Trying to chalk up a knockout or gain a winning lead during the early stages of the fight, the two scrappers became engrossed in an exchange of blows which caused both to tumble over the ropes and out of the ring. Since neither of the two was injured in his trip to the gym floor, the two gloversscampered to their feet, brushed off the dust and went ahead with the bout.

Sunday Encounter To End Idle Month For Bullet Eleven

BY BOB PHILLIPS

After "sweating out" a four week period of inactivity, the post Bullet gridders will swing back into action Sunday when they journey to Fort Jackson, S. C., for an encounter with the post's Headquarters detachment Lions.

The Sand hill eleven, who have not performed active grid duty since dropping a close 8-0 scrap to the semi-pro Panthers of Atlanta on Oct. 2, will be playing their fifth game of the 1948 season. Up to this stage of the season, they are clinging to the tail end of a three lost and one won record.

The anxious-to-play Bullets are looking forward to Sunday's tilt as a "must" win for two definite reasons: first, they don't figure their season's record is up to par and, secondly, Sunday's meeting will be the first between the two elevens, and the Bullets will be out to get an initial win.

With all players off the injured list, the Bullets will enter Sunday's contest boasting lots of power and reserve strength. Plunging fullback Windy Hammond who has been laid up with an injury rejoined his mates this week and is expected to see lots of action. Game captain Mathew Batie, having recovered from an injured ankle, will plug his regular guard position.

Despite their unfavorable season's record, Coach Stacey Hoffman's charges have been sensations in most every department. Some spectacular doings have been supplied by Hudie Langston, brainy quarterback; Phil Tindrell, a swivel-hipped broken-field showman; Cliff Bradford, the Bullets' crazy-legged triple theater; Vern Boswell and Gene Bush, two speedy backs, and linemen Odell Kennedy, Leroy (Doc) Garvin, Harry Arnette Jeff White, Bob Willis, Henry Sanderson, Bob Murphy, Ed Brown and Thomas Brookins.

Despite the loss of wingmen Freddie Hamer and Raymond Rogers, capable replacements in Jimmie Pembrook, Floyd Swanson and Leon Smith will team with rugged Roy Whitehurst in combating the enemy from the flanks.

Special Staff Quintet Takes Cage Laurels

The Lawson airforce base intra-mural basketball tournament came to an end last Saturday night when the special staff quintet topped the engineer five 29-22 to take the base championship.

The first half of the game was rough and close with the red-shirted special staff batting on even terms with the white-shirted engineers. Ed Gravely of the engineers sank a long one in the last few minutes of the first half to put his team ahead 13-11.

In the last half, both teams stepped up the pace of the game in an effort to outpoint their opponents. Special staff took the lead when they sank eight out of 11 free shots. In the course of the entire game, they dropped 1 out of 23 charities while the engineers made only six out of 15.

Taking the spotlight, Gravely tallied 12 points to be high-score man of the game. Knobbie Clark hit the hoop for a total of nine points for the special staff five.

At the conclusion of the game, the first - place trophy was awarded the special staff team and the hard-fighting engineers received the runner-up award.

Records Reaction Of RA Officers To Career Types

Some 95 regular officers at Fort Benning were queried during the past few days, regarding their personal reactions to certain kinds of careers in the services, by Capt. Martin Zacher representative of the troop attitude research branch of the army's information and Education division.

Captain Martin's visit here is one of many being made at various installations by the research branch. The local regular officers are among the many army, airforce and navy men being interviewed in the survey conducted by the research branch.

Following his survey here, which was completed in about three and a half days, Captain Zacher was scheduled to continue his study at the Atlanta General Distribution depot, South Atlantic division and the ROTC unit at Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Survey Team Here To Inspect Messes

A five-man survey team is this week gathering date on the utilization of various ration components in Fort Benning messes for the purpose of improving menu planning.

The team is composed of Majs. Joseph W. Brearley, William F. Dildine, James E. McCulloch and John A. McDonald, of the quartermaster general's office, and Lt. Col. William J. B. Cline, Third army food service supervisor.

They arrived here Nov. 15 and are scheduled to depart Nov. 19 officials said.

Deltagram to Salesmen:

WHAT'S YOUR MILEAGE BETWEEN SALES?

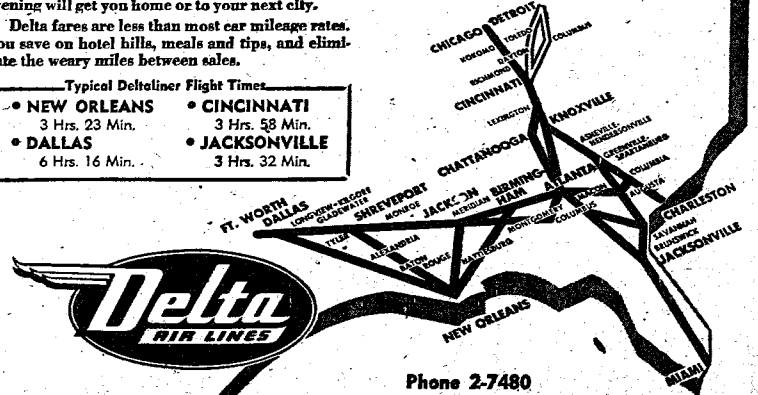
If you are selling door-to-door, this is not for you.

But if your prospects are in other cities and states, if you could make more sales if you had time, then here is how you can make extra calls.

Like many good salesmen, you may be overlooking commissions for yourself and sales for your firm by spending more time traveling than selling.

Discuss the situation with your sales manager. Compare your present territory with the larger area you could handle if you used air travel. Then ask Delta to plan a flight itinerary, with stopovers, to cover this expanded territory.

You'll be amazed at the number of extra calls you can make. An hour of early morning flight will eliminate a day's driving. Another hour in the evening will get you home or to your next city.



Delta fares are less than most car mileage rates. You save on hotel bills, meals and tips, and eliminate the weary miles between sales.

Typical Deltaliner Flight Times

• NEW ORLEANS 3 Hrs. 23 Min.	• CINCINNATI 3 Hrs. 58 Min.
• DALLAS 6 Hrs. 16 Min.	• JACKSONVILLE 3 Hrs. 32 Min.

TO SALESMANAGERS: Have you considered flying as a means to cut travel time and increase calls per man? See how Delta can economically fit into your sales scheme—help increase your sales potential with no added personnel.

TO MANAGEMENT: Customers like to see the boss. Have you called on your more distant ones recently? Fly Delta and gain a true perspective of your market and sales conditions—with a minimum of time away from the office.

Knuth Replaces Weaver At Top Of Kegling List

An off-night on the main post bowling lanes last Tuesday night toppled Robert Weaver of the Company A, Infantry School detachment, squad from the top of the post intermural circuit's individual kegling roster, and the No. 1 spot was taken over by Ewald Knuth of Army Field Forces board No. 3.

Knuth, a member of Fort Benning's Third army championship squad of last year, went to the top of the list by chalking up the high three-game set of the week—571 and running second in the high single game department with a line score of 204. His season's average now stands at 181 for 18 games.

Topping Kruth in the single-game scoring was his teammate Frank Trader, who posted a high of 210. Runner-up to Knuth is the three-game tally was Bob Phelps, a member of the circuit - leading squad from Company A, ISD.

Despite his luckless outing, Weaver held second place in the league's individual standings with a season's mean of 179 for 15 games.

In the team standings, the pace - setting keglers from the ISD tightened their grip on the No. 1 spot by chalking up a grand-slam victory over the 30th Medical group on Tuesday night. The ISD bowlers knocked over 2,466 pins take four points from the medics, who scattered a total of 1,875 pins.

After Headquarters company of the 325th Infantry regiment notched four counters on a forfeit from the 999th Field Artillery battalion to start off last week's program, the second - place Station Hospital medics took three points on a 2,234-2,206 triumph over the Food Service School.

In Monday night's finale, the First battalion of the 325th Infantry regiment racked up three counters by shading Company G of the 25th Infantry regiment in a close 1,965-1,962 contest.

A forfeit by Company H of the 25th Infantry which netted the 756th Heavy Tank battalion four tallies launched the slate Tuesday night, and Army Field Forces board No. 3 and Company B of the ISD battled to an even split in the next match. The AFF bowlers took one game and high total for the 2,367 - 2, 267 match, while the Company B keglers scored high in two games of the set of three.

Since the alleys were closed for the Armistice day holiday Thursday night, all games scheduled were postponed.

Helicopter Brings Santa To Benning

Santa Claus' legendary team of reindeer gave way to the mechanical age Saturday morning when old St. Nick arrived by helicopter to pay an early-season visit to children of Fort Benning.

A multitude of boys and girls turned out in made - to - order weather to get their first glimpse of red-clad, bewhiskered Santa as he came in for a landing at Gordon field.

Santa's pilot set his helicopter down less than 100 feet away from the crowded stands and sidelines, and the well-known Christmas figure made his pompous exit from the plane.

So huge was St. Nick's load of treats for Fort Benning children that he had to bring an auxiliary helicopter to carry a second bag of candies and trinkets.

After alighting from his private helicopter, Santa walked up to the microphone long enough to meet Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander; Lt. Col. A. C. Crawford, regional exchange officer from Atlanta, and Lt. Col. Wallace Hale, chief chaplain of the Infantry Center.

He then told his young followers that he hoped they "would be very happy", and bade them follow him to the Fort Benning exchange toyland. He led the throng pied-piper fashion to toyland where the youngsters waited in front while Santa went around the building to make his entrance through the rear.

Seated on a dais in toyland, Santa spent the remainder of the morning passing out treats to the youngsters and listening to their Christmas supplications.

Promotions Prove Career Plan Works

20 Food Service Troops Advance Following Tests

Final proof that the career plan for enlisted men actually works was brought home to Fort Benning soldiers this week with the announcement that 20 men had been promoted to, and within, the first three pay grades after going through the procedure originally outlined approximately a year and a half ago.

Following the announcement early in October by Col. Arthur C. Purvis, Infantry Center adjutant general, that Benning had been designated a central computing and examining agency for efficiency reports of enlisted men, other duties and responsibilities of the agency were defined. Among them were the handling of examinations for promotions. The 20 men already promoted were among those who took the first tests under the food service career field, the only field that has gone into effect.

Of the group promoted, five were advanced to the grade of sergeant first class and 15 to the grade of sergeant. They included, to sergeant first class, Sgts. Henry H. Tillery and Elmer Wilkes of the 319th Field Artillery battalion; Paul Hayes of 3440th Area Service unit, Section I, Military Police detachment; Hugh W. Shaw, 516th Ordnance MAM company, and Ross A. Wright, Army Field Forces board No. 3.

Promoted to sergeant were Cpls. William E. Surrett and Richard M. Teem, 756th Heavy Tank battalion; William E. Mason, Elbert Cain, James A. Cook, Jr., Alphres R. Morgan, 319th Field Artillery battalion; Edgbert D. Frye, Robert P. Fuller, George Tipton, Raymond E. Sharp, Section I, Military Police detachment; Archibald K. Schaefer, Section I, Station medics, 3440th Area Service Unit, and Ulysees Green, Russell Johnson, George H. Clark and Andrew Coleman, Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section II, 3440th Area Service unit.

The men promoted were among the first 204 who took examinations, the first held here, Nov. 16-19 for promotions in the food service field. Personnel of the computing and examining agency at Fort Benning administered and scored the tests and early this week were compiling

Long Holiday Weekend Planned for Benningites

A full program of religious services and recreational activities are in store for Fort Benning soldiers when the long Thanksgiving holiday week-end begins tomorrow, and all but the necessary duties will be suspended.

At Service club No. 1, open house has been declared from 1 through 10 p.m. Refreshments will be served at 4 p.m., and there will be games with prizes from 7 to 10 p.m.

Service club No. 4 will have open house from 10 a.m. through 10 p.m., with refreshments, games and recorded music. At Sand hill, Service club No. 2 will also have open house starting at 10 a.m. There will be a special entertainment program there beginning at 7:30 p.m., and from 8:30 until 11 p.m. the 196th band will furnish music for dancing.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wallace M. Hale will highlight the Thanksgiving day service with a special holiday message at 10:30 a.m. at the Infantry Center chapel.

Chaplain (Capt.) Harvey M. Hardin will conduct special services for patients and personnel at the hospital Protestant chapel at 10:30 a.m. Personnel of Section II, 3440th Area Service unit, will attend a special service at 9 a.m. at chapel No. 3.

Catholics will observe the holiday with masses at chapel No. 4 conducted by Chaplain (Maj.) John F. Rafferty at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Celebration of the Holy Communion for Episcopalians will be held at 9 a.m. at the Infantry Center chapel, it has been announced by Chaplain (Capt.) Russell O. Kirsch.

A Thanksgiving theme keynoted services last Sunday for men of the 325th Infantry regiment and the Airborne battalion.

Chest Contributions Now Total Almost $14,000

Contributions to the Community Chest from military and civilian personnel, plus the sale of tickets to football games, now total nearly $14,000, it has been announced by Lt. Col. Napolean Rainbolt, director of the drive.

Military personnel have donated $6,857.23 of their contemplated total of $16,041.95, civilian personnel $1064.70 of their goal of $4,538, and proceeds from football tickets total approximately $5,000 for a grand total of $13,921.93.

The drive will continue through Dec. 1, Colonel Rainbolt said, to allow personnel to make contributions on the Nov. 30 payday.

It is also expected that a large sum will be raised through the sale of reserved and general admission tickets at the football game Sunday between the Fort Benning Doughboys and the 82nd Airborne division All-Americans. Reserved tickets are selling for 50 cents, with general admission ducats on sale at 25 cents.

Donations from units on the post follow:

Army Field Forces board No. 3, $193; Academic department, the Infantry School, $739.53; Headquarters, the Infantry Center, $212.50; Student Training Regiment, $1,117; Infantry School Detachment, $1,189.29; 325th Regimental combat team, $1,310.43; 3440th Area Service unit, $869.97; Station hospital, $286.37; 999th Field Artillery battalion, $306.26; 204th Transportation Truck battalion, $324.30, and Lawson airforce base, $308.61.

Civilian personnel donations were as follows:

Headquarters, the Infantry Center, $123.50; Academic department, the Infantry School, $36; Army Field Forces board No. 3, $20.25; Special Services office, $16; Post exchange; $72.25; Ordnance section, $138.75; Engineer section, $291.60; Quartermaster, $53.50; Finance office, $67; Transportation corps, $37.50; Signal office, $20; Station hospital, $58; Provost marshal's office, $10; Civilian Personnel office, $20.75, Lawson airforce base, $44, and the Officers' club, $55.80.

LATEST ARCTIC FASHIONS . . . Three types of uniforms that will be worn by members of Army Field Forces board No. 3 in Alaska this winter are shown here, "modeled" by three of the advance party who are scheduled to leave Fort Benning Saturday. From left to right are Capt. Thomas E. Lawrence, Maj. Werner Holtz and Cpl. Leroy J. Luedtke. Reason for the fur on the parka hoods is to prevent frostbite, an old Eskimo trick. The felt boots are lightweight and look almost fragile but are sufficient for the far north since several layers of socks are worn. Since there is no water to worry about and it's too cold for the snow to melt, the boots are considered by many to be most practical. To protect the hands from temperatures that drop, and stay, as low as minus 50 degrees, special gloves are issued.

Scribe Compares Today's Travel Orders With Those of Yesteryear

BY MERRILL HARRISON

It's Saturday afternoon and everybody at Fort Benning is taking it easy except what the bulletins call the "necessary administrative, guard and fatigue duties". I just get my hat on and start for the door when the boss says, "Harrison, do a feature story on this and give it to me right away." So I put the hat down, and look at what he's got. Humph! Travel orders!

Seems as though some joker up at Fort Belvoir, Va., has dug up (he's an engineer) some travel orders from the Revolutionary war, moving a soldier from New York to Fort Ven Steuben near Pittsburgh. And, brother, compared to the orders that got me down to Benning, those were really something.

The date is July 6, notice THAT) 1779, and the orders are issued by the Office of the Acting Commandant, Federal Defense of Yorktown and New York Harbor in Yorkers, N. Y., and are addressed to the CO, 1st Light Infantry, Braddock Barracks, Miller's Junction, R. I. They read:

"1. Issue necessary orders sending one enlisted man, on horseback, via safest and most convenient route, at Government expense to Fort Von Steuben, on the Ohio River below the junction of the two rivers at Old Fort Pitt, for the purpose of carrying secret dispatches to Maj. Alonzo de LaFayette, who at last official roll call, is the commandant of Fort Von Steuben. If, upon arrival, Maj. LaFayette is either dead or resigned, the soldier will deliver the dispatches to the immediate commanding officer.

"2. The expense section of the Finance Department will supply this courier with the necessary cash to buy himself sufficient food supplies to subsist him the entire journey. If the Finance Department at the destination is not functioning, the enlisted man is authorized to barter with neighboring Indians for necessary salt and other miscellaneous necessities for the return trip. Uniform buttons and musketry badges may be utilized in connection with bartering. If the situation warrants fraternizing with Indian tribes, due precautions will be taken insofar as the relief tepees are concerned, soldier making full use of his medical kit immediately after exposure. The expedition directed is considered necessary in the military service. Government mounts and subsistence will be furnished, and if used in bartering, uniform buttons and marksman medal will be replaced by the Government upon application for same hy the enlisted man concerned.

"3. Upon return to his home station soldier will submit a written report showing the full names and ranks of commanding officers of all military forts visited, so that the Department of War can be informed and bring their rosters up to date."

Boy, what a racket a GI of those days must have had. Permission to swap equipment and fraternize with the natives. And what do you have nowadays? Now they put a lot of gobbledygook in six lines and a guy doesn't know if he's even going where he's supposed to. Like the last orders I had:

Tec 3 Merrill S. Harrison RA-35 330594, (W Army) MOS 274 Mos o-s 36 DOB 10-17 TOE 36 Mos, is reld fr asgd (Operating) this Hq and trfd in gr and WP o-a 17 May 48 to The Infantry Center, Fort Benning, Georgia rptg to CO thereat NLT 2400 hours 18 May 48. TNT and meal tickets. EDCMR 20 May 48. PCS. A 2180425 901-19 P 431-02 S8-9-999. (Auth 2nd Ind. Ltr Da) OQMG, 7 May 48, QMGPE 201 Harrison, Merrill S.).

Don't see a thing there about swapping MY buttons for anything. And nothing about fraternizing with the natives. C'est la guerre, c'est la vie. The army sure ain't what it used to be. And I'd sure like to know what all those numbers mean on the travel orders I got that moved me from Lee to Benning.

Local Board Men Set Alaskan Tests

An advance party of two officers and three enlisted men from Army Field Forces board No. 3 will leave Fort Benning Saturday for Alaska to participate in winter maneuvers and tests in Tanana valley near Big Delta, board officials have announced.

The main body of 27 officers and men is slated to leave Jan. 2, 1949. The Benning group will remain in Alaska until the spring breakup.

Scheduled for testing are new types of clothing, shelters, skis, snowshoes, sleds, gloves, and the functioning of individual infantry weapons in extreme cold. Means of feeding troops in the extreme cold as well as supplying them with water and keeping them clean will also be studied. According to Lt. Col. Joseph D. Raney, assistant test director of the board, the Benning soldiers will observe other test items used by troops in Alaska.

These tests follow those carried on last year in the Big Delta area, during Operation Yukon, and in New York state during Operation Snowdrop. Similar tests were also conducted during 1946 in Wisconsin and Alaska, called Operations Frigid, Frost and Williawaw.

The advance party will travel to Great Falls, Mont., by train and fly from there to Big Delta. Included in the group are Maj. Werner Holtz, Capt. Thomas E. Lawrence, Sgt. 1st cl. Joseph C. Farrell, Sgt. Ralph H. Kingrey and Cpl. Leroy J. Luedtke.

Main body of the winter test detachment consists of Lt. Col. Thomas H. Monroe, Maj. Robert B. Wells, Capt. Victor A. Franklin, M-St. Carlton B. Manly, Sgt. 1st cl. Charles V. Cook, Sgt. 1st cl. Henry M. Smallwood, Sgt. 1st cl. Eugene L. Cornett, Sgt. Milton C. Banister, Sgt. Floyd Redmond.

Cpl. James M. Warren, Cpl. Ernest W. Eldridge, Cpl. Raymond Bostwick, Cpl. Sheridan E. Besosa, Cpl. Robert N. Mercer, Cpl. Roy C. Padgett, Cpl. Audrey H. Welbourn, Cpl. Sam Dimenza, Cpl. John G. Fetkenhour.

Cpl. James T. Strickland, Cpl. William J. McClain, Cpl. Elbert C. Cox, Cpl. Floyd D. Rownley, Pfc. Joe T. Collins, Jr., Pfc. William L. Wagner, Jr., Pfc. Milton C. Willis, Jr., Pvt. Kenneth D. Burnham, Jr., and Rct. Robert C. Longtime.

Leadership School Begins at Sand Hill

A leadership school was launched this week by the 25th Infantry regiment for the purpose of training new and potential noncommissioned officers.

The course is designed to train the noncommissioned officers in the technique of leadership as well as prepare them for the army's career guidance plan, officials said. Classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday night in the troop information and education building at the Sand Hill area.

The instructors include Sgt. 1st cl. Archie Gibbs, common psychology, administration and leadership I; Sgt. 1st cl. Grover Huunter, customs of the service and display of equipment; Sgt. 1st cl. James Randolph, military courtesy; Sgt. Thomas Wimberly, military sanitation; Sgt. 1st cl. Walter Clayton, leadership II, and Sgt. 1st cl. Henry Jordan, display of equipment.

Awarded Promotions

Promoted on Nov. 19 from private first class to corporal were Joseph Smith, Keith B. Rigney and Roy Allman, all of Company A, Infantry School detachment.

Promotion

special orders for the first group promoted.

Computing agency personnel are headed by Capt. Robert M. Kemp. Working with him are Sgt. 1st cl. Edward J. Desrocher and Sgts. Clemis Wise and Ferdinand Konieczney. Assisting this group were men of the Infantry Center auditing team, including Sgt. 1st cl. Paul J. Fraser, Sgt. Robert E. Walton and M-Sgt. James A. Dennis, and from the testing section, M-Sgt. Donald B. Williams.

According to a statement this week by Colonel Purvis, the entire career program should be in effect by the end of 1949. He said that "three or four new fields are expected to go into operation early in 1949 and the other 40 or so fields by the end of the year."

The computing and examining agency was ordered set up at Fort Benning to handle matters pertaining to career guidance and the testing and analyzing involved. It has seven major functions. These include:

1. Administering and scoring of job proficiency examinations.

2. Scoring and evaluating enlisted efficiency reports for every man in the first six pay grades.

3. Computing composite scores as prescribed by the Department of the Army.

4. Transmitting composite scores to higher headquarters for promotions. (As part of the career plan, promotions to the higher pay grades will be made on army and theater-wide bases.)

5. Stocking and accounting for examinations.

6. Completing section 5 of the applications for promotion.

7. Issuing promotion orders when directed by higher headquarters.

Men of the unit here handled all the details this month. Captain Kemp said that the promotions announced were not necessarily all to be made from the group of 204 taking the examinations. These promotions, he continued, were "one-time adjustments. Others will be announced later when the Department of the Army sends the "cut-off" scores.

Trading Post Bargains Told

With winter weather in view, Trading Post officials have announced bargains ranging from radiator covers, priced at two for five dollars, to childrens' raincoats, priced from 50 cents to 10 dollars.

Other bargains in the winter clothing department are officer's winter uniforms with blouses priced at $3.50 to $15, and slacks priced at five to eight dollars. Also for sale are civilian overcoats selling at five to 10 dollars.

In the furniture department, an electric range is bargained at $25, with a five-piece bedroom set, complete with mattress, priced at $75. It is practically a steal at the price, and is one of their best bargains, according to Trading Post officials. Several bargains are also offered in porch gliders.

Other articles at the Trading Post are childrens' sidewalk bicycles and an electric razor priced at eight dollars.

SECOND SILVER STAR . . . Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, congratulates Maj. Orwin C. Talbott after presenting him with a second Silver Star award for gallantry in action in France. At the time of the action for which he was awarded the decoration Major Talbott, then a captain, was a company commander in the 90th Infantry division.

Major Talbott Awarded Cluster To Silver Star

In a brief ceremony last Friday afternoon, Maj. Orwin C. Talbott was awarded an oak leaf cluster to his Silver Star by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Fort Benning commander.

The citation accompanying the decoration read:

"An oak leaf cluster to a Silver Star medal is awarded to Maj. (then Capt.) Orwin C. Talbott, for gallantry in action against the enemy on 13 June, 1944, near Orglandes, France. After suffering severe casualties in an attack on German positions near Orglandes, France, Major Talbott was ordered to withdraw his company along with a flanking company to a safety zone so that friendly artillery could be placed on enemy positions.

"During this operation Major Talbott, disregarding his own safety and at great personal risk searched the battlefield for wounded personnel who had not been evacuated. He then remained with one officer and a lone machine gunner to cover the withdrawal of friendly units. Only after he was sure that both companies had withdrawn to safety and all their wounded were evacuated did he leave his forward post.

"By his clear thinking, calmness and splendid leadership Major Talbott directed the officers and men of both his and the flanking company in an orderly withdrawal. His complete disregard for his own personal safety and his gallant determination that no wounded should be left exposed to the enemy reflect great credit upon himself and the armed forces."

At the time of the action Major Talbott commanded Company G, 359th Infantry regiment, 90th Infantry division. He has just returned from overseas to attend the advanced officers' course at the Infantry School.

In addition to his two Silver Stars, Major Talbott also has been awarded the Soldier's medal, Bronze Star, army commendation ribbon and Purple Heart with two oak leaf clusters.

Let Us Be Thankful

Thanksgiving, like many American holidays, has become so commercialized that we have lost sight of the real meaning for which it was intended. To most people it heralds the approach of another long holiday week-end and a prelude to the gala Christmas season. To others it is merely a signal to dust off the family china, crystal and silver in preparation for the huge feast that has become synonymous with Thanksgiving. Few take time out to give thanks for all the blessings we enjoy as Americans. Few still honor the memory of that small band of Pilgrims who took a few hours off from their arduous task of preparing for a long winter to give thanks to the Almighty for allowing them to reach this land where a new life could be carved.

Most Americans will forget that our forefathers had to fight for the rights that we now enjoy. They will forget that many years passed before Americans were able to live in peace within their own boundaries. They will also forget that they recently fought a war to ensure that their sons and their sons' sons could live as free men. They will forget the heritage that has united them in times of danger, that has given them peace-loving hearts, that has enabled them to throw off the yoke of grudge against their enemies.

Living in the luxury and comfort of the twentieth century, some Americans will fail on this Thanksgiving day to understand the hardships endured by the founding fathers. Many, of course, know the hardships of life on the battlefield, but they forget that their forefathers were in constant jeopardy of their lives right here in America.

A majority of us can't give thanks because we don't know how. The only times we in this century have feared the loss of freedom were during the two world wars we fought. And we forget so easily.

We are no more God's chosen people than the people of Europe, the people of Africa, the people of Asia. It just so happens that we have in America the vast territory, the natural resources that make us the greatest nation on earth. We are a fortunate people with an environment and a government that lend themselves readily to exploitation of the good life, that enable us to grow in stature as a nation, that allow us to progress in every field of endeavor.

This will be our fourth peaceful Thanksgiving since 1941. None of us knows how many more will be spent in peace. So on November 25, 1948, let's give thanks that we are Americans who live in a country where a penniless man can rise to be President, where we vote by secret balot for the kind of government we want and the kind of man we want to lead us, where we can go to bed at night without fear of being routed out of our sleep by secret police, where our government ensures that all men are created equal, where all men are endowed with certain inalienable rights, where among those rights are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Let us be thankful tomorrow. Let us thank God for Thanksgiving.

Strictly Editorializing

From the Greenville airforce base, S. C., Briefer last week came an editorial item which we are quoting in part in these columns this week. It behooves everyone to note and heed the words we are passing along. It's entirely within the realm of possibility that some meningite will be involved in a similar tragedy as indeed some have been in the past.

Here is what The Briefer editor had to say in an item entitled "Eight on a Date":

"There were four on the front seat and four on the back seat of the fourteen-year-old sedan XXX. It was midnight XXX. The XXX dance had grown dull and these eight decided to look for livelier surroundings.

"There wasn't much the investigating officer could say as to the cause of the accident except that the driver must have been getting every last ounce of speed out of the old car because it had rolled over eight times before smashing into a tree. There wasn't enough left of the automobile to determine whether the brakes, lights or tires had been defective. There could be no explanation XXX from the driver because he died instantly.

"One couple XXX also lost their lives, and XXX five suffered serious injuries. All four men were veterans of World War II, and all four had served in battles overseas. They had to come home to find something worse than war."

Chaplain's Corner..

THANKSGIVING

While Thanksgiving in its present form is a distinctively American holiday, its origin can be traced back through the ages and the nations to the land of the Canaanites from whom the Children of Israel copied many of their customs. The ancient Greeks, as well as the Romans, had their harvest festival in which they recounted the blessings Providence had bestowed upon them. In England the festival was called the "Harvest Home," and may be traced back to the Saxons of the time of Egbert.

The first authentic harvest festival in America was held by the Pilgrims in 1621. During the winter the little colony had faced severe difficulties in their attempt to keep alive—46 of their 101 settlers had died. They had suffered cold, hunger, and diseases, and had been terrified by the many experiences of life in the wilderness.

The spring of 1621 opened and the seed was sown in the fields. They watched it with anxiety, for well they knew that their lives depended on that harvest. They realized they were not farmers, but their fields had been blessed by the sunshine and the showers, and the soil brought further a harvest beyond anything they had seen in the "Old Country."

In Mourt's story of the first Thanksgiving he tells of the bountifulness of their table, and of the friendliness of the Indians, and how much they would have liked for those in England to have been able to enjoy what they had received from nature in this new land.

Today, America stands on a new rung in the climb to power. We have finished an expensive, but successful, combat mission which threatened our existence. We look out on the world and see an opportunity to share with other peoples the knowledge, experiences, and successes that have been ours in our 170 years of development.

We have been blessed with resources beyond those enjoyed by many in the world. But above all, we have been blessed by initiative and originality, and a purpose that can only come from the deepest urge within the being of the created man. Today we offer thanks for these abundances, and look toward the future with a desire to help the world enjoy the things that have been ours, and with confidence that we will accomplish what we have set out to do. Yes—today—we are thankful

INVITATION TO LIVE

"Invitation to Live," written by Lloyd C. Douglas in 1940, is back in the library again in a new reprint. We read it because we wanted to see if Douglas had added anything to "Green Lights," "The Magnificent Obsession" or any of his many "inspirational" books. As far as we can see, he hasn't. In this book, as in all his others, he has produced a sermon in story form, designed, apparently, to inspire his readers to go out into the world and do good. Well, the book inspires us all right, but perhaps we'd better not say what it inspires us to do.

After reading any of the Douglas books we always feel the need for a barrel of sour pickles to take the sickeningly sweet taste out of our mouth. The characters are just too, too loveable, forgiving, or just plain "good." However rough and uncouth their outward appearance, their hearts are of the purest gold. (A few more such people and will go off the gold standard with hearts entirely). If just one of the characters could have remained selfish, uninfluenced by the virtues of the hero and heroine, perhaps we wouldnt find the books so utterly unbelievable.

The noble Dean Harcourt of Trinity Cathedral central character of "Green Light" is also with us in "Invitation to Live," still meddling in the affairs of others. Our heroine is the frivolous and purposeless Barbara Breckenridge, who, having just inherited a half million dollars, begins to wonder whether her friends like her for herself or her half-million.

Inspired by the dean, she parks her money in a safe place, gives her pearls to a Chicago shopgirl, buys about ten dollars worth of clothes and a second hand car, and goes out into the world to find her "real" friends. (We might remind you that this was back in 1940 when ordinary people could afford second hand cars). She meddles with a few lives and finally lands a job on a Nebraska wheat farm, as a waitress. Since she has a college education, she immediately becomes head waitress, which proves something or other.

There she meets our hero, Lee Richardson, or Larry Runyan as he is now known, who is — guess what — also a refugee from too much money. They fall in love—or didn't you know—and are both faced with the terrible dilemma. Should they or should they not tell each other about the family curse—MONEY?

But the good dean, though supposedly such a busy man, always seems to have all the time in the world to entertain these people, straighten things out, and make the world a wonderful place to live in. Everybody is happy because everybody is good.

"Invitation to Live" is, as far as we're concerned, an invitation to leave—and go eat sour pickles, and look for unreformable people.

Your Red Cross

BY MURRAY HILL

We particularly would like to call the attention of dependents living on the main post, Harmony church, Sand hill or Benning park to the Red Cross service. This office stands ready to serve them at any time. This Red Cross office is not established by any means for taking care of the problems of just enlisted men or officers, but it is to this office that dependents should turn when a problem arises which they can not solve.

What could be some of these problems? Well, perhaps someone is concerned over some member of his family and would like a health and welfare report. Perhaps some relative is in a disaster area and someone here is concerned about him; maybe someone is having allotment trouble, and besides everything that he and the army are doing to get the allotment straightened out he would like to bring that problem to us that we might aid by directly contacting our liaison in ODB.

These are just a few of the many problems that can harrass a dependent of a soldier.

Understand, of course, such problems do not have to be of a tragic nature, for there are many times the Red Cross is in a position to hep answer a question, the answer being easy if one knew where to turn.

Let me urge all families living on the reservation to come to this office as frequently and as often as they wish with any problem that concerns them.

I trust that you notice I use the phrase, "living on the reservation of Fort Benning. If the soldier's family lives in another community and not on the reservation it is necessary for the family to contact the Red Cross office in the community in which they are living.

For instance, the soldier may be stationed at Fort Benning, but if his family is living in Phenix City or Columbus or any other adjacent community, it is imperative that they go to the Red Cross office in that community for any service they wish.

This policy of the Red Cross is just for the purpose of making it easy and convenient for you, for, after all, your Red Cross is just one big Red Cross made up of you as members, scattered throughout the country in hundreds of localities and military installations, naval bases, etc., just a good neighbor policy. Long before that phrase was ever established it was known that the Red Cross, wherever it was, was the same and would welcome an opportunity to help any who turned to its door.

FEMININE WILLIAM TELL . . . Vivacious Lila Leeds, soon to be seen in Warner Bros. "Always Together," gets set for a little target practice.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

THE MAN FROM COLORADO (melodrama in technicolor) with Glenn Ford, William Holden and Ellen Drew. The Colorado mining country in the turbulent days following the Civil war is the locale of the ruthless behavior of a man who is unable to return to the comparatively mild ways of civilian life. Recommended for family.

THE DECISION OF CHRISTOPHER BLAKE (melodrama) with Alexis Smith, Robert Douglas and Cecil Kellaway. When a child sees his parents drifting toward divorce, should he stand by and see it happen or do something about it? This boy decided to act. Recommended for family.

A DATE WITH JUDY (comedy-romance in technicolor) with Wallace Beery, Jane Powell and Elizabeth Taylor. An amusing show that bears out the teen-agers' conviction that parents are an awful responsibility. Recommended for family.

ROGUE'S REGIMENT (adventure) with Dick Powell, Marta Toren and Vincent Price. The exploits of the French Foreign Legion provide a colorful background for this story of intrigue and secret agents. Recommended for family.

HIGH FURY (melodrama) with Madeleine Carroll and Jan Hunter. Making a life and death decision while dangling on a slender rope high in the Alps brings out a man's true character. Recommended for family.

Intermediate Girl Scouts Have 'Cook-Out' at Lodge

The ten - year - old girl scouts, who grew up from Brownies last year, have been working hard since September to complete requirements for tenderfoot and second class rank.

Last Saturday they had a "cook - out" at Victory lodge. This was followed by a simple investiture service. They are now troop No. 6, and their emblem is the pine cone.

The girls were unsuccessful in their hunt for tadpoles by the edge of the pond, but a kind-hearted soldier fishing nearby presented them with a silver minnow which has been adopted as the troop's mascot and will be known as "Pine Cone."

The new intermediate scouts are Barbara Bernard, Nancy Brooks, Laura Greene, Joanne Hackett, Judy Rodenmayer, Rita Ruff, Marie Scott, Ann Shaughnessey and Jacquelyn Yeager. The troop leader is Mrs. Edwin Lee.

Col. Easterbrook Named Director Basic Students

Lt. Col. Ernest F. Easterbrook has been designated director of special associate basic students, it has been announced by the Academic department.

Students under his aegis will be the new officers commissioned directly from the ranks or from civilian life under the recently announced procurement plan. They will attend the 12-week course now being set up by the Infantry School.

Colonel Easterbrook will be directly responsible to the assistant commandant of the Infantry School for the overall supervision of the students. This includes the evaluation, observation and rating of the officer-students on such items as leadership, conduct and capacities.

The school is scheduled to open early next month, and orders are coming into the Infantry School daily from various sections of the country assigning the newly commissioned officers to Fort Benning to attend the special associate basic infantry officers' course.

The course has been set up to provide training for men who have received commissions in what has been described as the easiest method ever devised. The only requirements for men getting the gold bars which they receive before they attend their branch schools, are:

Honorable discharge papers showing that the applicant was on active duty for at least one year during the period from Dec. 7, 1941, through June 30, 1947. He must also be able to show that his character and efficiency ratings were both at least excellent.

The applicant must have at least two years college education. The applicant must present proof that he has completed half the normal four-year course required for a bachelor's degree at a nationally accredited college or university. He must also not be scheduled to attend a college or university at the time of entry on extended active duty.

Applicants must have reached their 19th birthday and have not passed their 32nd birthday at the time of application. They must also prove their American citizenship and must pass the required physical examination which can be taken at any army medical installation.

The last major requirement is a score of at least 110 on the army general classification test.

Forms required to be filled out for the reserve commissions may be obtained at the recruiting office on the main post or at the army-airforce recruiting station at 10th street and Broadway in Columbus.

Receipt of the commission is contingent upon the applicant's willingness to go on extended active duty immediately upon completion of schooling for at least two years. New officers who attend this course may, if they have not passed their 27th birthday, apply for a competitive tour of duty for a regular army commission. Those between the ages of 27 and 30 but who have not attained their 30th birthday may apply for a competitive tour of duty for a regular army commission under certain conditions granted for wartime service. This last information concerning competitive tours of duty was quoted by adjutant general officials.

Air Parcel Post Doesn't Assure Xmas Delivery

Persons contemplating mailing Christmas parcels to members of the armed forces overseas via air parcel post with the idea of securing prompt delivery have no assurance that the parcels will arrive at their destination at the time intended, according to a bulletin issued this week by the post office here.

For months now, all personnel and their families have been instructed to mail Christmas packages going overseas before Nov. 15. Many hope to effect quick delivery via air parcel post, but the Departments of the Army and Navy have advised that present air lift capacities to the various overseas areas are being taxed to the utmost, and it will not be possible to argument such facilities at this time, the bulletin continued.

Hence, any appreciable increase in mailing of air parcel post to service personnel overseas would result in such matter being transported via surface means at a much later date of delivery than intended, it was pointed out.

It is also suggested by the local post office that personnel, who will be away from the post on Christmas or New Year's leave, advise their families as far in advance as possible, to prevent parcels containing perishibles from being sent to Fort Benning, and remaining undelivered until the return of personnel.

WAC To Accept O-C Enlistments

Young women between the ages of 19 and 28 may apply for enlistment in the army specifically to attend the Women's Army corps officer candidate school, it was announced by the Department of the Army today. The Wac Officer Candidate school at Camp Lee, Va., offers a six-month course. Classes include selected army enlisted women and civilians who enlist specifically as officer candidates. All students have the grade and receive the pay of a sergeant or higher.

Upon successful completion of the course, officers will be commissioned in the Organized Reserve corps and will serve at least two years on active duty. Graduates who meet the requirements and who are identified as the distinguished graduates of their class will be considered for appointment as second lieutenants in the regular army. Others will be appointed as second lieutenants in the Organized Reserve corps. These officers may be considered for appointment in the regular army.

Civilians who enlist for OCS and fail to complete the course successfully may be separated from the army, at request. Civilian applicants who have not had basic training or its equivalent at some time previous to application are given basic training before starting the OCS course. Such candidates hold the grade of sergeant during the basic training period.

To qualify for enlistment for officer candidate school applicants must be citizens of the United States, have two years' accredited college education, be single, between the ages of 19 and 28, and pass certain screening tests before an OCS board. Those who do not possess the college minimum but who are otherwise exceptionally qualified may establish eligibility to apply by passing an appropriate army aducations examination.

Complete information and applications can be obtained from United States army recruiting stations. Applications should be filed immediately for the next scheduled Women's Army corps officer candidate class.

Chief of Staff Orders Army Heads to Meet

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, army chief of staff, has called one of his periodic meetings of top-ranking army commanders in the United States to discuss the recent army reorganization and other matters affecting the army in the zone of the interior.

The meeting, second of its kind in General Bradley's tenure, will be held in Washington Nov. 29-30 and Dec. 1.

Classical Concert At Main Library

Light operatic selections, a tone poem and a full-fledged symphony have been scheduled for the record concert at the Main library at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Nov. 29.

Opening the concert will be Andre Kostelanetz' orchestra playing selections from Victor Herbert. The second number on the program will be the Mozart Symphony 41 in C major, the "Jupiter," by the London Philharmonic under the direction of Sir Thomas Beecham.

Fritz Reiner conducts the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra to end the concert. The work is "Don Juan," the tone poem by Richard Strauss. Requests for selections for future concerts may be made to Mrs. Theodosia Williams at the Library.

Army Speeds Procedure For Recalling Reservists

New procedures designed to speed up the processing of applications of reserve officers volunteering for tours of extended active duty in the army and a sizable increase in the number of facilities authorized to accomplish final-type physical examinations for applicants were announced today by Kenneth C. Royall, secretary of the army.

Effective immediately, reserve officers who desire to be recalled to active duty for a three-year period from an inactive status will submit their applications and associated papers direct to the adjutant general, Washington, D. C. Formerly applications were submitted to local reserve unit instructors and were routed to Washington through army channels for decision by the Department of the Army in respect to recall to extended active duty. Warrant officers and enlisted personnel now in the active military service who hold reserve commissions and national guard officers will continue to submit their applications through military channels.

Under the new procedure, it will apply to applicants three days before the applicant receives telegraphic advice as to whether he will be recalled or not. Orders to active duty or notice of rejection, indicating the reason, will be mailed within one week after the notification telegram has been sent.

In addition to the application form, reserve officers volunteering for extended active duty are required to submit a personal history statement and a report of physical examination. In order to reduce unnecessary travel and expense, authority now has been granted to all recruiting main stations throughout the country to give final-type physical examinations to applicants who have not reached their 40th birthday. Those who are 40 years or more of age, however, must secure the required physical examination at the nearest army or air force medical facility. Written authorization or orders are necessary to receive a physical examination.

Application and personal history statement forms are available at the offices of local reserve and national guard unit instructors and army installations. The personnel of these offices are in a position to assist applicants in every way possible.

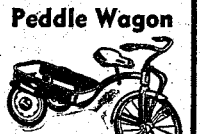
Present requirements for field grade officers have been met except for officers of the Medical department and majors of infantry. No vacancies exist for recall in the grade of warrant officer.

At the present time there are many vacancies in the army for officers in the grades of lieutenant and captain, principally in the combat arms. Vacancies in the Medical department, including the Army Nurse corps, total more than 1,700. The technical services have openings for 3,500 officers. In the Transportation corps 700 vacancies exist.

Reserve officers commissioned in army security, armor, military intelligence, and staff and administrative reserve should apply for extended active duty in their particular specialty.

Set Deactivation For Recruit Unit

The 325th Infantry Training battalion will be deactivated Nov. 30, it has been announced by battalion officials.



Men of the unit who have not been assigned at that time will be transferred to the Provisional company of the 325th Infantry regiment and the cadre, officers and enlisted men, will return to their parent organizations, the 325th combat team.

Of the 292 trainees remaining in the battalion early this week, orders have already been received assigning most of them to various posts, units, theaters and schools. Sixty were assigned to Fort Benning units. Of this number 16 were assigned to the Lawson field detachment, 17 to the 328th Ordnance battalion, nine to the 756th Heavy Tank battalion, two to the 19th Field Artillery battalion and 16 to the 30th Medical group.

Assigned out of Fort Benning were: Physical Training and Conditioning School, Fort Bragg, N. C., two; Ordnance School, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., 2; Seacoast branch of the Field Artillery School, Fort Scott, Cal., three; Armed Forces Information School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., one; Far East Command, 27; European Command, six; Fort Knox, Ky., one; Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va., 38.

Ordnance School, Atlanta, Ga., two; Sign al School, Fort Monmouth, N. J., four; Military Police School, Camp Gordon, Ga., six, and Air Mechanics School, Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., three.

Miss Kernodle, Volunteer Chief, Talks to Council

Miss Ruth Kernodle, chief of Red Cross volunteer services in the southeastern area, addressed the Red Cross Community Service council Thurday, Nov. 18, on "Effective Organization and How the Chapter Gets the Job Done."

Speaking to representatives from approximately 15 Red Cross chapters at their regular quarterly meeting, Miss Kernodle pointed out that "this special council is designed to give all people living in this wide community an opportunity to help the soldier and soldier patients at Fort Benning.

"Requests for aid from the Red Cross at Fort Benning to chapters in the various communities do not mean that the chapters, themselves, must furnish the articles or services requested, but would make the facts known to high schools, churches and civic organizations. These organizations would then have the opportunity of serving that is now the pleasure experienced by Red Cross volunteers."

Miss Mary Fortune, assistant field director at the Station hospital, told the council what is needed at the hospital for the Christmas party. Each chapter volunteered to fullfil these requests.

The meeting was presided over by George R. Jacob, chairman of the Red Cross chapter in Talbotton, Ga., who was recently elected council chairman for the coming year. Mr. Jacob introduced Mrs. Frank M. Lee, Mrs. John H. Van Vliet, Jr., Miss Louise Johnson and James Jones both with the Red Cross staff in Atlanta, and Miss Kernodle, who delivered the main address.

Murray Hill, Fort Benning field director, introduced Brig. Gen. (ret.) Walter S. Fulton, a former commanding general of Fort Benning and now chairman of the Muscogee county chapter of the Red Cross. General Fulton addressed a few brief remarks of welcome to the visitors.

GIFT FROM THE BRITISH INFANTRY SCHOOL . . . Shown here admiring a plaque, gift of the commandant of the British Infantry School, is Col. John C. Blizzard Jr., chief of staff of the Infantry Center. The engraving on the front of the plaque reads, "To the American Infantryman in Admiration and Friendship—From the British School of Infantry, 1948." A letter accompanying the plaque, sent to Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry School commandant, read: "Headquarters, The School of Infantry, Warminster, Wiltshire. The Commandant, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, U.S.A. On behalf of all ranks of the British School of Infantry, I have the honor and privilege of asking you to accept this token. M. M. Alston-Roberts-West. Brig. Commandant." Brigadier Alston-Roberts-West visited Fort Benning last year and Brig. Gen. Whitfield P. Shepard, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, had attended the British infantry conference in the summer of 1947.

Ten Artillerymen Reenlist For Post

Pride in their outfit proved to be the main reason why ten members of the 999th Field Artillery battalion chose to reenlist in the organization over the past week.

They included 1st Sgt. David R. Reed, Sgt. James E. Jackson and Cpl. James Jackson, of Headquarters battery, Cpl. Sylvester Morrison and Cpl. Toney Janes, Battery A; Sgt. Zack Randall, Sgt. Monassee J. Mathews, Pfc. MacArthur Whitehead, Battery B; Sgt. Ernest E. Martin, Battery C, and Pfc. Jesse Hall, Service battery.

Benning Soldiers Read More Than One Thousand Books Every Week

Do Fort Benning soldiers like to read?

The fact that they take out, on an average, over 1,000 books from the Main library each week would certainly seem to indicate they do.

The library, open from 1-9 p.m. daily, including Sunday, is located between the Main theater and the Howard Bus station.

Designed in 1943 by a woman architect, Miss Alice Walton, of the area engineers office, actual construction was begun in February, 1944, and opening ceremonies were held in August of the same year.

It was built by the Williams Construction company of Columbus.

Prior to completion in 1944, the library had no permanent home. It was shifted around wherever there was room for the books. The last place occupied by the library before moving to its present home was a tiny nook in Service club No. 1.

The building is a T-shaped structure, with office space and rooms that can be used as classrooms. According to the librarian, a new wing is now needed for use as a music room and a children's room.

Originally designed to hold 15,000 volumns, the library now contains some 16,000 books. Besides the books, the library also subscribes to 25 newspapers from various sections of the country, and over 150 different types of magazines.

What type of books are preferred by the men? Believe it or not, westerns take the lead, followed closely by actionpacked historical novels and love stories with a heavy background of se.

Among non-fiction books, there is a big demand for modern history-especially division histories. Since the expansion of the Hobby shop, there has been a demand for books on handicraft and among non-fiction books on psychology and like subjects are popular.

The library also has a large number of foreign records used by the army in teaching languages, which are in great demand. The most popular languages are French, German and Spanish.

There are books for children, and over 300 books written in foreign languages. Many of these are popular among wives of service men who were married overseas.

The library is also popular for other reasons besides reading. A new record player and radios are now in the music room and from time to time, the library has art exhibitions. A group of pictures by Mrs. David E. Millotta is now on display there.

Benning librarians are often called upon to perform other tasks. Many times they are asked question like "How far is it from Columbus to Oshkosh?" or questions of a like nature, and large map is kept for that purpose.

During a recent Third army inspection, Fort Benning's Main library was cited as a model army library and as one of the finest in the Third army area.

Radzinski Named To I and E Office

Cpl. Francis C. Radzinski, Company A, Infantry School detachment, formerly with the 756th Heavy Tank battalion's Company B, has been assigned duties with the Infantry Center's information and education office, officials announced Tuesday.

At the same time it was also reported that Cpl. Doyle C. Ivester, Company B, Infantry School detachment, formerly with the Seventh Engineer Combat battalion at Fort Jackson, S. C., has been assigned duties with the academic department's Operations section.

4 Promoted to Corporal

Four men of the 999th Field Artillery battalion were promoted from private first class to corporal last week.

The group included Melvin S. Garrett, Joseph L. Hill, Thomas W. Wood, all of Battery C, and Thomas W. Watford of Battery B.

23 Artillerymen Promoted Nov. 19

A total of 23 enlisted members of the 319th Field Artillery battalion were promoted on Nov. 19, it was announced Monday.

Promoted in Headquarters battery were Sgt. Vincent T. Kalka to sergeant first class, and Pfc. William F. Smith, to corporal.

Service battery promotions included Cpl. Gordon A. Thompson to sergeant and Pfcs. Edward Green and Thomas H. Pierson to corporal.

Cpl. Elmer L. Reynolds, Battery A, was advanced in grade to sergeant. Other Battery A promotions included Pfcs. Argile Chapman, Edward J. Gentile, Bryon T. Johnson, Jessie M. Kiftrell, Charles F. Loveland, Samuel R. Martin and Wilmer C. Murdock, all to the grade of corporal.

Seven men of Battery B were also included on the Nov. 19 promotion list. They were Sgt. James B. McGee, to the grade of sergeant first class, Cpls. Henry M. Gunn Jr., and Ralph Hyson, to sergeant, and Pfcs. Joseph L. Capron, Joseph Davis, Randolph S. Doss and Dennis A. Murphy, to corporal.

Pfcs. Alvin Lawton, Charles W. Marriott and Robert L. Whitehead, all of Battery C, were promoted to corporal.

Basic Airborne Class Entering Fifth Week

Many backgrounds and services are represented in Company C (Basic Airborne class No. 6) of the Student Training regiment's Airborne battalion.

With few exceptions, the officers of the class entered the service in either 1941 or 1942, and have 36 or more months of overseas service. The majority of th enlisted men are newcomers to the army with six months or less of active duty.

The class now is entering its fifth week.

'Airman Proves Infantry Is Still 'Queen Of Battle'

Proof that the infantry, is still the queen was recorded here last week when it was learned that an airforce man has requested transfer to Fort Benning for duty with the 325th Infantry regiment.

Cpl. George P. Lindsey, until recently assigned to the 52nd Food Service squadron and pastry shop at Mitchell airforce base, N. Y., at his own request is coming to the world's most complete army post.

Just prior to his departure from the New York base, Lindsey was presented a Bronze Star medal by Lt. Col. Russell D. Hale, commanding officer of the 52nd Airbase group, awarded for meritorious service in Europe during the war.

He entered the army on March 27, 1944, took basic training at Camp Blanding, Fla., went to Europe with the 97th Infantry division's 387th Infantry regiment in February, 1945. The 97th acquired the nickname of "the most traveled combat infantry division in the U. S. army" having traveled over 30,000 miles in slightly more than one year.

As a rifleman Corporal Lindsey participated in the Rhineland and Central European campaigns and was awarded the Combat Infantry badge and ETO ribbon with two battle stars. He returned to the U. S. in June, 1945, and in August went to Japan as a cook.

He reenlisted in September, 1947, in the airforce.

Eight Sand Hillers Advanced In Grade

Eight members of Company H, Second battalion, 25th Infantry regiment were promoted last week, it was announced Saturday by Capt. Cunningham C. Bryant, unit commander.

Four recruits were advanced to grade to private. They included Woodrow Montgomery, Dock Watkins, Ted Wise and Bob Reddie.

Privates promoted to private first class were Charles Kirby, Lawrence Washington, L. T. Longino and Guildford Mickleburg.

'Re-up' Rate Here Tops In 3rd Army

Fort Benning had the highest percentage of reenlistments of the three major installations in the area during September according to the Third army report.

Benning also had the largest number of men reenlisting for the same post. The percentage figure for Benning was 44, and reelistments in September totaled 137.

For the entire Third army in September, Camp Gordon was highest in percentages with a figure of 75 percent, Fort McPherson second with 60 percent, Benning third with 44 percent, Fort Jackson fourth with 4 percent.

In actual reenlistments of men eligible, Fort Benning topped the area during September with 137 out of 383 reenlisting. Second was Fort Jackson with 72 out of 165, Bragg third with 43 out of 175, McPherson fourth with 43 out of 40, Oliver fifth with 12 out of 31 and Gordon sixth with six out of eight.

Fort Bening also led the list with 35 in extensions of enlistments. Bragg was second with 28, followed by Jackson, McPherson and Oliver General with eight each, and Camp Gordon with five.

In discharges and reenlistments under AR 615-365, Benning was again in the lead with 30, followed by Bragg with 29, Jackson 19, and McPherson and Oliver General with seven each.

Lawson Thanksgiving Schedule Is Announced

Lawson air force base will observe Nov. 25 and 26 as Thanksgiving holidays, according to an official announcement.

The enlisted mess will serve a special Thanksgiving dinner to base personnel, and special worship service will be conducted in the chapel at 10:30 a.m. Thanksgiving morning.

LT. COL. O. O. WILSON
. . . leaving soon

Colonel Wilson Named to Head Fort Riley Unit

Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, commanding officer of the Infantry School detachment, will leave Fort Benning Jan. 7, 1949, for Fort Riley, Kans., where he will assume command of the 87th Infantry regiment of the 10th Infantry division.

A graduate of the U. S. Military academy, class of 1924, Colonel Wilson's first assignment was with the 20th Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., where he remained until 1927 when the brigade moved to Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo. He remained there with the 20th Infantry until 1929 when he went to the Philippines.

From 1929 to 1931 he served with the 45th regiment of the Philippine Scouts, returning to the U. S. in 1931 to attend the Infantry School's company officers' course in 1931-32.

For the next year he was an instructor in horsemanship at the Infantry School, and in 1933-34 he attended the Troop Officers' School at Fort Riley. He then returned to Fort Benning, remaining as instructor in horsemanship until 1939.

In 1939 Colonel Wilson entered the Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and after completion of the course there in 1940, he was assigned again to Fort Benning for a short time prior to going to the Philippines in June, 1940.

In the Philippines at the time of the Japanese attack, he was taken prisoner following the fall of the islands and did not return to this country until October, 1945. Hospitalized for a time after his return, he helped write the history of the Second Philippine corps prior to reporting to Fort Benning in August, 1946 as commanding officer of the Infantry School detachment.

Benning Recruit Office Still Working Overtime

The Fort Benning recruiting office is still working overtime in order to handle the record number of men reenlisting here.

During the two-week period from Nov. 8-21, a total of 325 men reenlisted, most to fill their own vacancies.

The busiest days were Saturday, Nov. 20, when 58 men reenlisted, and Monday, Nov. 15, when 34 men took the oath.

Although Sunday is customarily a day off, the local recruiters keep their doors open to process men seeking to "re-up."

Eleven Soldiers Enlist In Airforce At Lawson

Eleven airmen enlisted at Lawson air force base during November, according to Lt. John Vincent, base recruiting officer.

Eight airmen re-enlisted to fill their own vacancies. They were M-Sgt. Richard M. Byars, supply; Sgt. Fred G. Bailey, alert crew; M-Sgt. Henry L. Kent, Communications section; S-Sgt. James E. Spell, flight line maintenance; M-Sgt. Willie D. Bell, quartermaster supply, and T-Sgt. Lonnie L. Sanders, Food Service Supervisor's section.

Soldiers' Guests To Be Admitted To Post Movies

Following the announcement by the Department of the Army that military personnel may take civilian guests to post movies, the Infantry Center has set up a procedure for Benning troops to follow.

Mimeographed forms may be procured from the theatre officer, and after being filled out by the soldier must be presented to his unit commander or other officer assigned to authorize the admission of the civilians. The form requires that the soldier fill in his name, unit, number of guests and the date on which attendance at the theater is contemplated. It is then signed by the commanding officer or his designated officer representative

Officers assigned to Headquarters, the Infantry Center, and the Academic department the Infantry School, will receive written authority from their section chiefs. The Infantry Center duty officer has authority to grant permission in the absence of section chiefs.

Late Score Gives Doughs 14-13 Win

Alabama Guard Eleven Victims

A 99-yard march to pay dirt in the waning seconds of play in a Doughboy stadium tilt Sunday afternoon kept the Benning grid eleven from being victims of an upset, and gave them a scant 14-13 edge over the Alabama National Guard Rifles.

The surprisingly strong national guard eleven from Selma, Ala., all but tipped over the dope bucket as they went into the fading moments of the game holding a 12-7 advantage over the favored Doughs.

Just one yard short of a clinching touchdown, the Rifles yelided possession of the oval to the Doughs with 45 seconds remaining in the game. Six plays later, the Benningites crossed over into the Rifle end zone.

SUMMARY	Doughs	Rifles
First Downs	14	10
Yards gained rushing	234	219
Passes attempted	8	25
Passes completed	4	12
Yards gained passing	82	126
Passes intercepted	2	1
Yards runback on intercepted passes	0	5
Punting average	47	44
Yards lost by penalties	45	75
Opponents fumbles recovered	0	2

After Bill Carter tossed to Bob Easly from the Doughboy 20 yard stripe for a gain deep into Rifle territory, left - handed chucker Larry Brennan took the ball on a hand-off from Carter and flipped the payoff pass to Easly who sprinted eight yards for the all-important score.

The game wasn't iced for the Doughs, however, until place-kicking specialist Bob Cronin, who also booted the earlier conversion, dug his toe into the leather and sent it sailing straight between the uprights.

Possession of the ball throughout the first quarter was evenly divided, but the Doughboys took over early in the second period, and after a sustained drive, drew first blood when quarterback Don Lucas sneaked over from one yard out. The Benning touchdown push, which started on their own 34 yard line, featured five first downs, and took in 17 plays.

Midway through the third period, the Rifles whittled the Doughboy margin to one point when Bernard Bradford climaxed a 57-yard onrush by skirting left end for the final two yards after it appeared that the red-jerseyed Doughs had him trapped well behind the line of scrimmage. Joe Miller came in to try for the point after touchdown, but his kick went wide of the goal posts.

The Alabamans pulled ahead early in the fourth period when quarterback Moe Daniels engineered an aerial attack which covered 47 yards. Tossing a long one from the Benning 47-yard stipe, the Rifle pass wizard found end Stanhope Frazier waiting on the 10 - yard marker. The pass - snatching end then dashed untouched across the goal line.

Miller then booted one between the uprights to give the Alabamans the 13 - 7 advantage they enjoyed until the Doughboys staged their 99-yard march to pay dirt.

Shortly before the Doughs racked up their game - clinching seven points, they rallied and moved to within 10 yards of the Rifle end zone before Frazier eased the tension by intercepting a pass from Don Suit intended for Don Hemphill.

Following the Doughboy triumph, Coach Joe Shepherd and his tutoring staff named quarterback Lucas "Dough player of the week, largely for calling the pass play which gave the Benning eleven its winning edge.

Outstanding offensive stars for the "Bananas were Daniel and Bradford, who made up one of the best pass combinations seen in Doughboy stadium this season.

Although the Doughboys outrushed the guardsmen 234 yards to 219 yards, the Rifles held the edge in first downs by chalking up 17 as compared to 14 for the Doughmen.

The Doughs, who have shown steady improvement in both offensive and defensive tactics since the outset of the 1948 campaign, will undergo the acid test of their strength in Doughboy stadium next Sunday afternoon when they meet the unbeaten 82nd Airborne division All-Americans of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Sundays tussle with the Braggmen will bring down the curtain on the Doughboys grid slate.

After holding a slight preseason favoritism over the national guard eleven last Sunday, the Doughs will slip back to an underdog rating for the fray with the troopers.

Two of the teams played by the Benningites this season have been victims of the All-Americans. They are the Parris Island, S. C., marines, who bowed out 20-13 to the Bragg crew, and the Red Devils of Fort Jackson, S. C., who were trounced 32 - 0 by the All-Americans. The South Carolina gyrenes edged the local squad 12-0 in the 1948 Doughboy opener, but the Benningites racked up a 13-6 decision over the Jackson Red Imps.

Following a day of rest Monday the Benning eleven started its pregame workouts Tuesday. Mapping his heaviest scrimmages for the middle of the week, Coach Joe Shepherd was expected to spend most of the time working on individual assignments. Emphasis also will be placed on strengthening weaknesses noted during last Sundays tiff with the Rifles.

As far as injuries are concerned, the Doghboys are expected to be in good shape with none of the first-stringers on the definitely disabled roster.

The tilt with the All-Americans will be the final of three games played by the Doughs this season for the benefit of the Community Chest fund drive.

DIAMOND VET RE-UPS HERE

By AL WISE

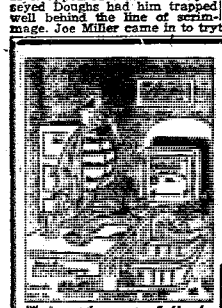
The atmosphere of optimism which pervaded the 999th Field Artillery's Sand hill area this week was caused by Readquarters battery's Dave Reed who recently reenlisted to fill his own vacancy.

Reed, a baseball strategist of note, piloted the triple nine diamonderes through to the 25th Regimental combat team intramural baseball title in 1946 and duplicated the feat during the past season when the artillerymen trounced the highly-touted Second battalion, 25th Infantry, nine twice straight for the 325th Regimental combat team intramural championship.

A native of Jacksonville, Fla., Reed's worship of the national pastime began at an early age. His diamond lore began with attendance at the major league spring training camps where he met, and was later instructed, by such greats as Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Foxx, Tommy Bridges and a host of others.

ISD Bucketmen Trounce Medic Hardwood Five

Cage delegates of the Infantry School detachment, who are regarded the most serious threat to the Airborne battalion's post championship, got off to a good start in the intra-mural basketball circuit Tuesday night by shellacking the 3446th Area Service unit medics 71-39.



Although their start in the game was a trifle slow, the ISD hoopsters pulled out in front midway through the first half, and, as the first phase of the contest came to a close, held a 36-15 lead.

Players on both squads had trouble finding the basket during the first half, but sharp-shooting Charles E. Richards of the ISD quintet started finding the basket early in the second period.

At the final whistle he had accounted for 23 of the infantry quintet's tallies.

Other big guns in the ISD attack were Leon McCaray, who dropped in six shots from the floor and two from the free-throw line for a total of 14 points, and Warren Paulk, whose six field goals and a charity bucket netted the victors 13 counters.

Big James Watkins, who performed close to 40 minutes for the Medics, paced the losers' scoring by dropping four heaves from the court and three from the charity line for an 11-point total.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

The 1948 football campaign is rapidly drawing to a close, but, despite the fact that the issue of teams to play in the Rose Bowl has been settled, there is still sufficient unsettled business to hold the interest of the sport's most ardent followers.

Northwestern's Wildcats and California's Golden Bears are slated to contest the Pasadena New Year's classic, but the other large bowl contestants are still undecided.

Southern Methodist's Mustangs will be the host eleven for the Cotton Bowl classic, and bowl officials have announced that they have arrived at a decision as to which team the bid will be sent. However, they have also stated that they choose to remain silent on their selection for the time being.

The New Year's day programs still in doubt are those for the Orange Bowl and the Sugar Bowl. And, reports are that both New Orleans and Miami have their eyes on the mighty Sooners of Oklahoma. From where we're sitting, it looks like the Sooners will be able to write their own ticket if they can get past the Oklahoma Aggies in a traditional clash this week.

Several other teams have been mentioned for the Orange and Sugar Bowls, and, whether or not they will be sent a bid, will hinge largely on the outcome of tussles either on Thanksgiving or Saturday. Georgia, North Carolina, Tulane and Vanderbilt are among the teams being considered by the two bowls, and all have clashes slated this week.

The Bulldogs of Georgia, if they can shade Georgia Tech's Engineers, undoubtedly will be in much the same position as Oklahoma. Vanderbilt meets Tennessee's Vols in a traditional game up in volunteer country, and Tulane will come up against LSU's Tigers, their old rivals from Baton Rouge.

Assuming that all of the teams mentioned as bowl prospects will get past their opponents this week, let's take a look at some of the other gridiron offerings.

THE EAST

Army over Navy: A battle of rivals that should go to the Cadets easily.

Brown over Colgate: Handily.

Cornell over Penn: Just casting our ballots for an upset.

Villanova over North Caroina State: In a toss-up.

Penn State over Washington State: The Nittany Lions to bounce back after last week's upset by the Panthers of Pitt.

THE MIDWEST

Kansas State over St. Louis: We just had to pick this one in favor of the hapless boys from State U.

Missouri over Kansas: Without much difficulty.

Michigan State over Santa Clara: Easily.

Oregon State over Nebraska: In a squeeze.

Notre Dame over Washington: Any questions?

Tulsa over Detroit: In a close one.

THE SOUTH

Clemson over Auburn: It looks like an undefeated season for the Tigers of Clemson.

Maryland over West Virginia: Another one earmarked for closeness.

North Carolina over Virginia: The Tar Heels in a breeze.

Wake Forest over South Carolina: The Deacons by three touchdowns.

William and Mary over Arkansas: Maybe you picked this one the other way around, and we won't argue with you too much.

Alabama over Florida: Unless Hunsinger gets loose.

Kentucky over Miami: Handily.

Ole Miss over Mississippi State: In another clash where rivalry will hit a high pitch.

THE SOUTHWEST

Hank Gowdy, Released By Giants, Still Remembered At Fort Benning

Hank Gowdy, in whose honor the Fort Benning baseball field was named, recently went on the list of "forgotten men as far as the National league New York Giants are concerned. But old "Hankus-Pankus will be remembered here as long as baseball occupies a place of prominence in the post sports limelight.

Gowdy, who, with another veteran coach, Travis Jackson, drew his unconditional release from the Giants, announced no future plans, but its a safe bet that he wont remain sidelined for long.

Oldtimers on the post who knew the colorful diamond figure during his stint as the Infantry Center special services officer in World War II are convinced that trying to keep "Old Goldenrods away from baseball would be a task as arduous as trying to keep a duck out of water.

Speaking in a patriotic sense the same holds true in his loyalty and devotion to his country. In January 1942, the "Old Sarge, as he has come to be known because of his service as an enlisted man in the World War I, once again laid aside the old baseball uniform to join the line-up in the bigger game in which his country had a second time become involved.

After managing the Cincinnati Reds for 13 years, Hank resigned his post to be sworn in as a captain in his home in Columbus, Ohio, and was ordered to report to the Infantry School at the school's request.

In his capacity here as special services officer of the Infantry School, he piloted the baseball and basketball leagues and football conference. These tasks called for quick strategy and often had the old ballplayer "thinking on his feet" since the frequent changes in organizations raised havoc with his schedules. Still, he found time to manage a 1943 Infantry School nine in addition to his regular duties.

During his last Benning baseball season prior to his departure and return to civilian life, he concentrated on correcting the obvious mistakes made by young players, putting any number of hopefuls on the right road to success in the great national sport.

Baseball, his first love, called him again in October, 1944, and old Hank, then Major Gowdy, responded to the urge and returned to an inactive status. But many fond memories of the man who contributed so much to the promotion of local athletics and army league baseball will always remain. Gowdy Field will stand as a constant reminder of the spirit, and unstinted devotion through which he rose to the ranks of baseball "greats" and soldiers of note.

The field was named after "Old Goldenrods" in 1925 when he was signally honored by the post of Fort Benning which named it then new baseball park in his honor because "Hankus Pankus" was first professional baseball player to enlist in World War I. Gowdy always insisted he thought the field should have been named for Capt. Eddie Grant, Giant star who was killed in action in that war, but post officials thought the honor should go to an enlisted man.

HANK GOWDY
. . . "Old Goldenrods"

Gowdy broke into pro ball as a catcher in 1908 in the Ohio State league and rose rapidly to major league fame as a member of the New York Giants and Boston Braves. He was the catcher of George Stallings "Miralce Braves" of 1914, the team which came up from the cellar on July 4 of that year to win the pennant, and then go on to whip the Athletics in four straight World Series games. Hank caught all four of the games in that series and turned out to be the series hero by hitting the incredible batting mark of .545 for the series. This record has been broken by only one man, the immortal Babe Ruth.

After he returned from World War I, the "Old Sarge" played a few seasons; then turned to coaching, and spent 15 years with Bill McKechnie as a player, coach and manager of the Reds.

At the time the United States went to war in 1917, Gowdy was rated one of the best catchers in the big leagues, but then, and again later, the athlete was eager to serve, and he enlisted in the army, the first major league baseball player to sign up. Attaining the grade of sergeant, Hank served valiantly with the Fourth Ohio National guard. His regiment later became the 166th Infantry regiment of the 42nd (Rainbow) division.

He recalls memories of the old days with this remark, "I had a lot of fun too, but it wasn't all fun." No, it wasn't much fun in the Aisne-Marne offensive, or with the Rainbow division as it made history crushing enemy lines at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne. Hank stayed "over there" with the army of occupation until 1919, then returned to the United States and the Boston Braves. Gowdy played with them from 1911 to 1923 except for the two years he spent in the army.

In 1923, Hank returned to the team that broke him in, the New York Giants, and stayed with them until 1929 playing in the world Series of 1923 and 1924. From 1929 to 1937, he was back with the Braves as a coach. The following year, 1938, found him in Cincinnati piloting the Reds to victory in the 1940 World Series against the Detroit Tigers.

But the war clouds gathered again, and the old soldier just couldnt stand aside and watch the parade go by. So, he again volunteered his services.

After receiving his commission and reporting to Benning, the TIS league became his pride and joy. And, for three years, the major could be seen behind first base, puffing a cigar, anytime there was a game at Gowdy field.

When he left here in 1944, one of his last remarks was to the effect that he considers having Gowdy field named for him one of his greatest honors.

WHAT'S THE REASON?

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following article, written by Frank Tatum, a tackle on the 1948 Doughboy football squad, we believe, expresses the sentiments of many members of the team, who have had to listen to all sorts of amateur speculation as to why they are not consistently in the winning side of the ledger.

BY FRANK TATUM

Why is it that the Fort Benning Doughboys are not winning as many games this year as they have been winning in the past? Who is to blame for it? Is it true that Coach Shepherd is having trouble controling the team? These questions and many others are being asked by confused spectators who are following the games of the Doughboys this year.

Due to the fact that unqualified persons take it upon themselves to provide answers to these questions, there are many vicious rumors circulating the post which are not only untrue, but derogatory in nature and absolutely without any grounds.

I am going to give my personal opinion on the above questions, believing that I am in a more advantageous position to answer them than some of the persons who are attempting to do so.

I believe that the main reason why the Doughboys are not making quite as impressive a record this year as they have done in the past is the lack of weight and reserves. To those persons who are blaming the coach for this year's losses, I would like to remind them that Joe Shepherd, who is present coach, also was coaching here last year. It was an accepted fact last season that Coach Shepherd was the brains of the tutoring staff, and it was largely his strategy that made the 1947 Doughboys the successful grid machine that compiled such an impressive record.

There is another malicious rumor being spread that there is dissension between the coach and the members of the team. Being a member of the team, I also consider myself qualified to answer this false charge. The only criticism of the coach by members of the team has originated either from persons who were cut from the squad or persons playing on the second and third string and wishing for a starting berth. It is fortunate, however, that these persons are in such minority that no one on the team ever takes them seriously. It is my opinion that the player-coach relations on the Fort Benning football team of 1948 is one to be envied by any service team in the entire nation. This goes for the complete coaching staff as well as the head coach. No, there is no dissension between the coach and the players.

The factor of weight, which is very important on the gridiron, is one reason why this year's team is not winning by such impressive scores as last year. Most of the teams we have met this year outweighed us many pounds per man. This is also true of last year's squad, which was heavier than this year's team. By comparing a program of last year with one from this year, I find that in the center of the line there is an appreciable difference in weights. This difference amounts to over 20 pounds per man. The ends are also lighter this year, and the same goes for most of the backfield. Lacking also is an abundance of reserves at most of the positions at which last season's team was well supplied. Reserves provided enough players for a complete two-team system for the Benning gridders during the greater part of the season.

Outside of the fact that last year's team was much heavier, there seems to be no outstanding difference between that team and this year's team. There was, perhaps, a bit more glue on the ends' fingers, and more distance on the punts; but when it comes to the spirit of the team, the willingness to work together, the player coach relations, and the other factors that are more important from the angle of sportsmanship, there is no great difference in the two teams.

Considering that this season's squad has faced many heart-breaking losses such as those to Fort Riley and Parris Island, it is amazing to see the pep and enthusiasm that the team steams up for the all-important next game. Nothing less than good coaching, hard playing and that old faithful team spirit could have put the ill-fated Doughboys back in the winning column when they came from behind to down the powerful Alabama national guard eleven in the last seconds of the game Sunday. It was true team spirit that carried the Doughs that 99 yards in the waning seconds of the game before a handful of supporters, and, even though most of the spectators were cheering the other team, they wrested a victory from sure defeat.

If the above does not answer your questions about the Fort Bening football team, come out to the season's last game next Sunday and answer these questions yourself. Do not take someone else's word for why our team seems to be in a slump: Come out and see for yourself. Moybe the team is no longer in a slump and is fighting its way up the road to a successful season despite great odds placed against it. Come on out and decide for yourself.

Homecoming Tussle Set For Bullet Clan

Festivities Planned For Tilt With Fort Knox Aggregation

By BOB PHILLIPS

It will be "homecoming" for the post Bullet gridsters when they clash with a rugged Fort Knox, Ky., eleven in a turkey day tilt in Doughboy stadium at 2 p. m. Thursday.

Plans for an elaborate celebration in connection with the game have been formulated by th e Sand Hill entertainment council, composed of representatives from the 25th Infantry regiment, the 999th Field Artillery battalion, the 204th Transportation Truck battalion, Service company of the Student Training regiment and the 30th Medical group.

Highlighting the pre-game festivities will be a colorful parade of floats representing the participating organizations and occupied by the candidates for the coveted honor of "Miss Bullet" for 1948.

The parade is expected to be formed in the Sand hill area and proceed along the main route to the post proper. Upon arrival at Doughboy stadium, the procession will stand by until halftime when the floats will pass around the stadium's cinder track for inspection.

Following the tour of the stadium, the Bullet queen-elect will be crowned by game captain Matt Batie.

A program to start in Service club No. 2 at 7 p.m. will follow the game. Featuring the evening's festivities will be the awarding of gifts to "Miss Bullet," her attendants and the organization entering the most elaborately decorated float. An added attraction will be a medley of songs rendered by the Columbus Philharmonic chorus.

A dance starting at 8:30 p.m. will round out the day's entertainment.

Mrs. Kate L. Trent, Service club No. 2 hostess, and Paul Justice, entertainment council president, have taken the initiative in making plans for the "homecoming" celebration. Other council members are Norman Epling, Philip Tindrell, Harry H. Williams, Leroy Garvin, Alius M. Hill and Prescott Sunday.

Rivalry for the Thanksgiving day grid outing is expected to reach a new high for the 1948 Bullet campaign with the Sand hill eleven out to avenge the 13-6 licking handed them by the Fort Knox aggregation last year.

On the loose for the Knox gridders will be Billy Anderson, fast-moving, triple-threat backfield artist and son of Eddie (Rochester) Anderson of screen and radio fame. Guard Bill Malone and fullback John Pennix are also expected to step up the output of power by the Kentucky army crew.

In an effort to match the backfield versatility of the Knoxmen, the Bullets will throw in an array of speedy backs including Phil Tindrell, Cliff Bradford, Vern Boswell.

With all the linemen off the injured list, the Bullets will field a strong forward wall plugged with such stalwarts as Jeff White, Odell Kennedy, Bob Murphy, Matt Batie, Leroy (Doc) Garvin, Bob Willis and Henry Arnette.

Despite the loss of wingmen Freddie Hamer and Raymond Rogers, capable replacements in Jimmie Pembrook, Floyd Swanson and Leon Smith will team with rugged Roy Whitehurst to combat the Knox eleven from the flanks.

Although they recently experienced a month-long gap in their schedule, light daily practice sessions have kept the Bullets in trim and Coach Stacey Hoffman reports that the extended layoff has not resulted in any pronounced staleness.

AMONG THE HARDWARE . . . Completely surrounded by trophies won by athletic teams and individuals of the 25th Infantry regiment are representatives of past and present 25th sports aggregations and the Sand hill unit's two top-ranking officers. From left to right are Maj. Thomas Gendron, unit executive officer; oldtimer Charley Toliver, presently assigned to the unit's athletic and recreation office; Bill Humphrey, a member of the 1948 Bullet footboll squad; Bill Johnson, another former outstanding Bullet athlete, and Lt. Col. John E. Arthur, commanding officer of the organization.

Huge Trophy Collection Pride of 25th Infantry

By BOB PHILLIPS

Since the activation of the 25th Infantry regiment 82 years ago, much stress has been placed on the unit's athletic program. And the prowess of past and present individual athletes and unit teams may be noted in the huge collection of trophies now on display in the battalion's information and education office.

Some of the oldtimers still serving with the organization argue that scores of the regiment's trophies have been misplaced, but a neat collection of approximately 65 awards still is in possession of the unit.

Dating as far back as 1908, the cherished awards include championships in baseball, football, basketball, track and field, boxing, range-firing (including rifle and machine gun) and soccer.

Listed among some of the most prized trophies are the athletic meet in Zamboanga Department cup, won at the P. I. in December, 1908; the mid-Pacific trophy for the mile relay in 1913; the Wright-Dixon baseball trophy won by Company L at Schofield barracks, T. H., in 1914, and the Salvator cup for winning the U. S. army baseball series at Schofield barracks in 1915.

Also included are the awards for the military athletic meet of the mid-Pacific carnival held in Honolulu, T. H., in 1916 (in the classic, the regimental thinnlies scored 70 points out of a possible 86); the Pan - Pacific track and field meet cup for the Honolulu, Hawaii, territorial fair of 1910, and the second-place award for the Southern department track meet at Camp Travis, Tex., in 1920.

The trophy accumulation also includes the awards for the Eighth Corps area track and field championship of 1921; the Bullet basketball trophy, won by Company L in 1922; the Headquarters company soccer champs of 1924, and the Arizona football title of 1923.

The annual Greenway Field Day five-mile run in Phoenix, Ariz., in 1927; the regimental cross-country race, won by Company I in 1928; the organizational field day meet in 1930; the Fort Huachuca, Ariz., baseball championships of 1934 and 1935; and touch football championship of 1942; the twin-state basketball laurels for the Georgia-South Carolina area in 1947, and the intra-mural post-season baseball title for Fort Benning this year have helped swell the trophy collection.

Some of the athletes who have helped the 25th regiment garner the huge crop of trophies still are with the unit. Included in the oldtimer group are Charlie Toliver, Lee Graves, Ulus Hale, Bill Johnson and Leon Coleman.

Former regimental star athletes, whose outstanding athletic performances render them unforegettable, and who contributed greatly to the enormour accumulation of trophies, are Norman Skinner, Moses Graham, Freddie Travis, Lee Jones, Johnnie Coaxum, Eddie Baldwin, Schley Williamson, Bill Harris and Ben Mills.

DOUBLES CHAMPS . . . The paddle-wielding experts of Fort McPherson, Ga., who won the doubles division of last week's Third Army table tennis tournament in the Main gym are shown here with their "take" of the trophies. They are C. Norris, left, and E. M. Barfield. Barfield, who also won runner-up honors in the singles division, was Fort Benning post singles champion while assigned to the 121st Evacuation hospital here last year.

Third Army Toga For Table Tennis Goes to Jackson

Table tennis delegates of Fort Jackson, S. C., wrapped up the Third army championship in Fort Benning's Main post gymnasium last Wednesday afternoon by taking a total of nine team points.

Chalking up top honors in both the team and singles divisions, the Jacksonites yielded only one No. 1 rating to another post—the doubles championship which was won by Fort McPherson, Ga.

Fort Benning ran third behind Fort Jackson and Fort McPherson in the team standings with only four points, and failed to annex any winned or runner-up trophies. The McPherson squad tallied seven points, while Fort Bragg, N. C., was last in the four-team field with only one counter.

Team points in the tourney were awarded at the rate of one per match won in both singles and doubles competition.

Topping the list of singles contenders was G. Paristeras of Fort Jackson, who needed seven games to eke out a 4-3 decision over E. M. Barfield, former Fort Benning singles champ, who is now the No. 1 man on the McPherson delegation. Paristeras won games of 21-15, 21-17, 19-21 and 22-20 from Barfield, and the runner-up scored wins of 21-15, 21-17 and 21-11 over the new champ.

Barfield, who held the Benning 1947 singles crown, teamed with C. Norris, however, to defeat the Fort Jackson twosome of Paristeras and Vitalli for the doubles title. The McPherson duet needed only five games to rack up the four victories necessary for the title tilt.

First-round byes in the two-day tournament were drawn by Fort Jackson in the singles division and by Fort Benning in the doubles bracket. Team points, however, were not awarded for byes, but the players benefited by the drawings could enrich their squad's total by two counters by winning their second-round contests.

Eliminations during the early stages of the meet were on a two-for-three basis, but three wins were needed for a semi-finals verdict. In the finals, contestants had to take four games to garner a match triumph.

The best showing made by a Benning paddle - weilder came when John Booge reached the singles semi-finals before being defeated, 21-14, 21-15 and 21-17 by Barfield.

John Wyatt, No. 1 man for Benning and a heavy pre-tournament favorite, was ousted in the first round of play when he was upset by C. Butler of Fort McPherson to the tune of 12-18, 21-18 and 21-16.

Another local delegate, Sung Chai A. Yang, also was a first-round victim, losing to B. T. Daniels of Fort Bragg in straight games of 21-15 and 21-18.

The other member of the Benning team, Calvin Gray, got as far as the singles quarterfinals before being beaten by Fort Jackson's Vitalli in contests of 24-22 and 22-20.

Yang and Gray, teamed for the doubles competition, got past the first round by downing W. B. Hardin and Daniels of Fort Bragg, 21-18, 18-21 and 21-17, but met their nemesis in the second round when Barfield and Norris took the set for McPherson by scores of 21-12, 21-18 and 21-18.

After drawing a first-round bye, the Benning duet of Booge and Wyatt trailed on scores of 21-15, 21-19 and 23-21 in its semi-finals set with the Jackson team of Paristeras and Vitalli.

Following the tournament, team and individual trophies were presented to winners and runners-up by Capt. James Williams, Third army athletic officer from Atlanta, Ga.

Ordnance Team Ready To Meet Termite Eleven

Columbus' Memorial stadium will be the scene of grid action between the 328th Ordnance battalion and Choppy's long-unbeaten sandlot Termites in a Thanksgiving charity tilt with the kick-off at 3 p. m.

The Turkey day clash will bring the Ordnance boys' who now sport a one-tied, five-lost record, face to face with the team which has won and held the Optimist club sandlot championship for the past three years. The Termites now hold a record of 28 consecutive victories.

Proceeds from the Optimist club-sponsored tussle will be handed over to the Community Chest fund, and to the Beallwood Boy's club of Columbus. The Ordnance squad will donate it's share to the chest, and the Termites will give their portion of the gate to the Boy's club.

Arrangements are being made for an army band to provide the music for the program.

Despite last Saturday's loss in a fracas with the Atlanta General depot eleven, Coach Robert Agrelius bases his hopes for a good showing against the Termites on the team's fighting spirit, condition, and the fine passing and kicking of quarterback Richard Weymouth, and fullback Leonard Zanowicz's ability to drive hard. These factors, coupled with the added weight of two new tackles, Archie Tuberville and Elliott Pasis, should give the ordnancemen a good chance of snapping the Termite streak, Agrelius believes.

Choppy's Termites, under the coaching of Billy Pridgeon, former Jordan high quarterback, have scored 81 points and held their foes to a lone touchdown this fall.

As an added attraction, two teams of seven-to-ten-year-old youngsters, finished by the Columbus Young Men's Christian association, will play an abbreviated contest during the half-time intermission.

'Hotshot' Squad In Bowling Lead

Bowlers of the "Hotshot" team have taken command of the eight-squad kegling circuit of the Infantry School's advanced class No. 1 with eight triumphs in as many trips to the alleys.

Leading the "Hotshot" attack has been Mark Jensen, who strengthened his hold on the No. 1 spot among the league's individual scorers last week by chalking the high game and high set of the week. Jensen recorded a single game tally of 224, and knocked over 590 pins in a three - game set.

The scores chalked up by Jensen in last week's, outing brought to 1,182 his total pinfall for six games, and gave him a loop average of 197.

Activity in the circuit is divided between the Lawson air-force base alleys and the main post lanes with all games being contested on Wednesday. Now entering its third week, the league is expected to continue until after Jan. 5.

Miller On Honor Roll

Cadet John C. Miller, son of Col. and Mrs. John K. Miller, achieved first honor roll rating at Fishburne Military school, Waynesboro, Va., for the academic month ending Nov. 13, having met the requirements of no grade below 85 percent, the school's news bureau said this week.

Marines Laud Fort Benning's Sportsmanship

Fort Benning's Doughboy grid eleven was cited for good sportsmanship in the wake of a severe setback in an article which appeared in the Quantico, Va., Sentry following the leathernecks' recent 64-0 trouncing of the post pigskin crew.

The Sentry scribe, in the issue of Oct. 28, wrote:

"They have good losers down here at Benning and they illustrated the fact by giving the Marines a warm welcome everywhere they went on the post after the game. The NCO club (Pine Lodge) opened its doors to the entire team, regardless of rank or rate, and more than two thirds of the team showed up for the Sunday night dance who were in attendance were loud in their praise for the cordial attitude displayed by the Army personnel."

Commenting further on the show of hospitality during and following the Doughboy-Quantico game; Maj. Carl A. Sachs of the Marine corps, who is on duty with Army Field Forces board No. 3 here, said:

"Most of the players, coaches and observers who saw the game realize that, although Benning was completely outclassed and outplayed, not once was the team outfought or outcoached.

"Good sportsmanship between service athletic teams during peace will pay dividends by closer cooperation between the fighting teams during war," Major Sacks added.

Bolden Is Promoted

Pfc. James D. Bolden, Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I, 3440th Area Service unit, was promoted Nov. 19 to the grade of corporal, it was announced Monday.

Chutists Take Early Lead in Ring Series

More Bouts Scheduled For Next Friday Night

An enthusiastic crowd of 600 fight fans saw some fast-moving action in a ten-bout card presented as the opening gun for the 1948 post intra-mural boxing program in the Main post gymnasium Friday night.

The array of young gladiators, representing the Airborne battalion, the 325th Infantry regiment, the 3440th Area Service unit, the 25th Infantry regiment, the 999th Field Artillery battalion and the 319th Field Artillery battalion, launcher a winter long campaign for local laurels and a spot on Benning's Third army gloves squad.

All contestants in Classes III, IV and V were newcomers to the Fort Benning ring.

Rugged action came early when, in the first bout, welterweight Jimmy Brown, a hard-hitting southpaw of the 25th Infantry, stopped Carl Moss of the 3440th ASU with a 30-second technical knockout in the third round.

Ernest Brown, no relation to Jimmy, but also a 25th Infantry welter, who throws plenty of leather, upheld his team's glory by copping a split decision over the Airborne battalion's Dan Henson. But Ernie really found himself in plenty of hot water in all three rounds when the blonde Henson, fighting somewhat on Brown's own style, stood his ground and countered every lead.

The Airborne battalion, however, wasted no time in recouping it's loss when Ed Remington, at a weight disadvantage, stood up to some very nice boxing on the part of the 25th Infantry's middleweight William Clark, and by using a wicked left hook scored enough points for a split decision over Clark in the evening's final Class V event.

Backing up it's good start, the Airborne took the evening's honors by winning three of six class IV goes to make it the winning team for the week.

The team's points started rolling in as 136-pound Lou Prolago won by decision over junior welter Rullio Lopez of the 319th Field Artillery in one of the best bouts of the evening. Both lads showed fine boxing form, and proved to be very hard hitters. They were so closely matched that the spectators changed favorites several times during the three rounds. Prolago's endurance and faster motion, however, scored a lead sufficient for the win.

The troopers' winning streak in the junior welterweight division continued when Dan Eckley, in an exchange of nose-bloodying punches, wrested a decision from William Hunsucker of the 3440th ASU. Eckley drew blood from Hunsucker in the second round of the battle, and the ASU lad delivered a poke with similar results in the third period.

In a good class IV go, Raymond Hughes, the 319th's lightweight slugger, rushed his opponent, Jesus Salomon of the 325th to a corner in the first, and dropped him for a short count. But Salomon came back fighting and stunned Hughes in the second round with a series of one-two lefts and rights. The bout ended with Hughes winning by a decision.

The seventh, and most exciting bout on the card brought crowning glory to the Airborne battalion when trooper Jessie Poole knocked out middleweight James Holmes of the 999th Field Artillery battalion in one minute of the second round.

Marlin Cook, 152 1-2-pounder from the 325th made up for Salomon's loss by coming back after a first round knockdown at the hands of the airborne's Joe Davis. Cook held Davis off throughout the second stanza, and came out fresh in the third to punch his way to a split decision. The judges had difficulty in arriving at the decision due to the very close rating awarded both contestants.

The 325th took the winning streak away from the troopers with Cook's start, and went on with it when Bobby Carter scored an exciting middleweight win by decision over the airborne's Leo Adams after three rounds of fast action.

Excitement reached a high pitch and brought the 325th Infantry's prestige up to a level close to that of the Airborne battalion as welterweights James Jones of the 319th, and Fernando Aguilar of the infantry unit slugged, countered, and boxed through a hard, fast bout, billed as the main event. The scrap ended in a win for Aguilar by unanimous decision.

Throughout the program the Hawaiian point system will be used in classifying the individual boxers, with the teams occupying positions in line based on composite scores of points racked up by the team members.

Contenders for the post fight laurels will be limited to competition in their own weight bracket and will be classified by the Infantry Center boxing board using skill and experience as a yardstick in setting up numerical classifications.

The more skillful the fighter, the more points will be at stake. Each Class I bouts will rate 45 counters, 35 points will be at stake in each Class II go, a Class II fight will score 25 points, a Class IV decision is good for 20 points, and 15 points is the prize for a winning Class V scrapper.

Under the system, top team honors for the week went to the Airborne battalion with a total of 75 points, with the 325th Infantrymen running a close second with a score of 65. Third in line is the 25th Infantry and 999th Field Artillery consolidated team. The 319th holds fourth place, and the 3440th ASU occupies the cellar largely because of a shortage of participants.

Ring lights will again go on for the second Intra-mural season card at the Main gymnasium next Friday night.

TRUCKERS BLAST FLYERS AS JIM COWLEY DUNKS 31

High-scoring aces of the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers had a field day in the Main gym Thursday night as they romped to an easy 82-33 cage victory over the Lawson field Flyers.

The triumph was the second intra-mural league win for the truck quintet, which wound up the first week of play in the circuit tied with the defending champion Airborne battalion Troopers for the lone lead.

Big Jim Cowley all but downed the Flyers single-handed as he plunked in 13 field goals and five free throws for a total of 31 counters. And, the eagle-eyed bucket shooter only played about 25 minutes of the tilt.

Other high-pointers for the Truckers were John Payne, who scored 16 points on seven field goals and a pair of successful free efforts, and Herb O'Brien, whose five buckets from the court and three counters from the charity stripe were good for 13 tallies.

During the early stages of the game, the Trucker defense kept the Flyers from getting many chances to swish the cords. However, the airmen started a scoring fest midway through the first half, and, at the intermission, had pulled to within striking distance of the Truckers.

Going into the final period on the trailing end of a 36-21 count, the Flyers saw their chances fade as Cowley came back into the lineup and started dunking them from all angles.

Topping the individual scoring roster for the Flyers was Ed Gravely, who fired through the hoop on four field attempts and dunked two free tosses for 10 points.

Trucker Quintet Dumps Artillery Cagers, 55-20

A surprisingly strong quintet of cagemen representing the 204th Transportation Truck battalion launched their activity in the 1948 post intra-mural hoop league last Tuesday night by breezing to a 55-20 victory over a not-completely-organized 319th Field Artillery battalion squad.

Although the entire losing team was composed of members of the field artillery unit, the squad later will include cagemen of the 756th Heavy Tank battalion and Company I of the 504th Parachute Infantry regiment.

Scoring for the Trucker five was paced by Herb O'Brien and James Cowley. OBrien bucketed eight shots from the court for a 16-point total, and Cowley dunked six field goals and a charity pitch for 13 counters.

John DeGruttola, who tossed in three field goals for six tallies, was the high scorer for the field artillerymen.

The Truckers surged to an early lead in the game by compiling a 15-9 margin at the end of the first quarter, and had worked it into a 29-15 advantage before the halftime whistle was blown. As the third quarter closed, the transportation lads possessed a 37-18 lead.

Former Detroit Tiger Manager Del Baker will handle the Sacramento Solons of the Pacific Coast league next year.

Trooper Cagemen Post Second League Decision

In a second-half splurge, the Airborne battalion's defending post basketball champs pulled out ahead of the 325th Infantry Regimental combat team, and chalked up a 50-40 triumph in the Main gym last Thursday night.

The victory was the second of the week for the Troopers who concluded the first seven-day period of the 1948 campaign deadlocked with the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers for the league lead.

Throughout the entire first half of the contest, the two squads had trouble hitting the hoop, and the Troopers clung to a narrow 18-17 edge going into the final period.

The lead teetered precariously during the opening minutes of the second half with neither of the two squads being able to pick up a substantial margin. However, with less than five minutes to play in the game, Bob Kinard and Bud Griffin came through with some timely buckets which gave the Troopers the verdict.

Griffin and Kinard shared high-scoring honors for the victors with 13 points each. Kinard posted his 13 tallies on five shots from the floor and three from the charity stripe, while Griffin dunked six field goals and swished the cords with a free toss.

Individual honors for the game, however, were taken by George Campbell, bucket-shooting artist of the 325th, who dropped 10 field goals and four gratis shots for a 24-point total.

Bullets Trounce Jackson Eleven

After a five-week layoff, the rampaging Bullet gridsters celebrated their return to grid warfare by scoring a rousing 34-7 triumph over a hapless Bulldog eleven at Fort Jackson, S. C. last Sunday.

Once the Sand hill charges got started they appeared mightier than ever and breezed on to register their highest score recorded in a single game for the last three years.

All evening, the Bullets, versatile touchdown twins, "jumpin" Cliff Bradford and piston - legged Phil Tindrell, along with Ben Ashford, Roy Whitehurst, Gene Thomas and Gordon Burke, busied themselves with playing a top-notch brand o football.

Lanky Ashford, who played lots of football in the game, started the visitors off on the winning trail when he crashed through to dump the Bulldogs' Charles Carroll behind his own goal line for a twopointer, during the opening minutes of play.

Shortly thereafter, with the losers backed up deep in their own territory, alert Odell Kennedy, who blocked five Bulldog kicks during the melee, got in the path of another. Whitehurst then gathered it out of the air and scampered over to pay dirt.

The Bulldogs' lone talley came in the second quarter when shifty Carroll churned his way 15 yards to the Bullets two - yard marker, and Ralph Watkins hit the line for the touchdown. Carroll swung wide around right end for the point, and the Bullets' lead was cut to one digit.

The Bulldog rally, however, was short lived. Tindrell grabbed the next kickoff and dashed 97 yards to the 42 yard line. Bradford, who had been a menace to the Fort Jackson eleven all evening, took a hand-off from Hudie Langston, hit off right tackle, reversed his field several times, and zigzagged his way 58 yards to pay dirt. The Bullets rested at halftime with a 14-7 lead.

With Langston and Burke pitching, Gene Thomas catching, and Bradford and Tindrell still running all over the lot, the Bullets' scoring machine got going full swing in the fourth stanza.

Langston and Tindrell alternated to move the oval to the losers' 28 yard line. Thomas glued his fingers to a Langston-pitched pass on the eight, and Bradford dodged the rest of the way to score his second touchdown of the game.

Minutes later, another two-pointer was registered when the whole Bullet line thundered through to drop Carroll behind the goal line.

Another blocked punt by Kennedy then fell into the waiting arms of Tindrell who dashed over the goal line only to have the score nullified when two defensive players were detected handling the ball.

The Bullets' fourth touchdown was recorded when Thomas gathered in a pass from Langston in the end zone.

With the score 28-7, favoring the Bullets and only 20 seconds left to play, mercury-heeled Phil Tindrell electrified the crowd by shaking himself loose and sprinting 40 yds for the winners' fifth and final touchdown.

Two New Officers Assigned With ISD Personnel Section

Two new officers have been assigned to the personnel section of the 61st Quartermaster batment in an effort to meet the needs of rapid adjustment under the career guidance program.

First Lt. John E. Shouse has entered on duties as the detachment's personnel officer, and 2nd Lt. James T. Vowell has been placed in charge of the classification and assignment division of the section.

First entering the army in 1934, Lieutenant Shouse served until 1937 when he returned to civilian life as a machinist. He enlisted again in 1944, and attended Officer Candidate school at Fort Benning.

After receiving his commission, the new personnel officer was sent overseas with the 88th Infantry division, and served as personnel officer of the 351st Infantry regiment in Trieste.

Returning to the U. S. in March 1948, Lieutenant Shouse was discharged to reenlist as a master sergeant with an assignment at Fort Knox, Ky. He was recently recalled to active duty as an officer, and assigned to the ISD.

Lieutenant Vowell recently was discharged as an airforce enlisted man to be recalled to active duty as an officer. During the war, he served as a member of the 61st uartermaster battalion in North Africa and Italy.

Post to Observe Yuletide Season Dec. 22-Jan. 4

What amounts almost to a shutdown of all but the most essential operations has been ordered for the period from Dec. 22, 1948, to Jan. 4, 1949, by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Fort Benning commander, in order to allow as many men as possible to take Christmas furloughs.

In a memorandum issued recently, it was announced that the maximum number of army peronnel who desire, and who can be spared without disrupting vital operations, will be granted leave for all or any part of the period.

Although sufficient personnel will be required for duty in all activities to conduct business properly, if practicable, such activities may operate on a reduced scale, according to the memorandum. They will function from 8 a.m. to noon daily except on Sundays, Christmas and New Year's day.

Enlisted personnel available for assignment immediately prior to the holiday period will be reported and assigned in accordance with established procedures, except that any personnel normally scheduled to arrive at destinations during the period from Dec. 22 through Jan. 4 may be granted a delay en route necessary to effect arrival at destinations not earlier than Jan. 4.

Personnel completing training in courses at the Infantry School during January and February, 1949, who are scheduled for immediate overseas assignment and who avail themselves of Christmas leave, will not be granted the normal pre-embarkation leave, it was pointed out.

Resume Postal Service to Italy

Regular jarcel post service to Italy and Vatican City has been resumed, and parcels for these countries, including the Republic of San Marino, whether sent by suurface means or air, will no longer be restricted to gift parcels, local postal officials have announced.

Previous restrictions limiting personal air mail of German civilians in the American and British zones to air-letter sheets have also been removed and the service extndd to the French zone. Germans in the three zones may now purchase air-mail stamps for use on letters of usual form up to three and one-half ounces in weight.

Reveals Activation Of Ninth Company

The Student Training regiment has activated the Ninth company which will handle students attending the Infantry Schools enlisted classes, it was reported last Friday.

Named to command the unit was Capt. Jack O. Mockbee. Capt. Joseph L. A. L. Bernier and Lt. Daniel Williams, formerly with the 325th Infantry Training battalion, have been appointed company officers.

Officials also announced that the Fifth company will be activated soon to handle students taking the 12-week officers course at the Infantry School.

Sgt. Henley Named Air Scout Advisor

Sgt James O. Henley, Jr., has been named senior scout advisor for Air Scout group No.195.

Group No. 195 was formed recently at Fort Benning and the charter for the organization was presented to 12 charter members the first week of November.

T-Sgt. James McKenzie,former scout advisor, received orders for an overseas assignment recently and will report to his new station in December.

Lt. Miccachion Returns to Duty

First Lt. Richard C. Miccachion has returned to active duty with the Station hospital, officials have announced.

Lieutenant Miccachion has been on an ORC tour of duty with the hospital since June 15, this year.

Prior to that time, he taught at the Admiral Faragot Naval academy in St. Petersburg, Fla.

A veteran of five years service in the army, Lieutenant Miccachion entered the service in April, 1941, as an enlisted man, and received his commission in the Medical Service corps on Jan. 13, 1943.

He went overseas with the 31st Medical battalion, serving with that unit throughout the European campaign, and was awarded the Combat Medics badge while with that unit.

After his discharge in 1945, Lieutenant Miccachion returned to Ohio State university, where he completed the hours required for a masters degree in education.

Enlisted Group Assigned Jobs

New assignments for four enlisted men of the Infantry school detachment were announced Nov. 17 by Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, detachment commander.

Sgt. 1st cl. Robert H. Peary, formerly with the Seventh Engineer Combat battalion's Company A, Fort Jackson, S. C., has joined the detachment's Company C duty with the Academic department's Weapons section.

M-Sgt. Henry H. Pollitzer, who was formerly assigned duty with the Academic department's Army Extension Course section and a member of the detachment's Company C, has been transferred to Company B for duty with the General Subjects section's personnel committee.

Pfc. Riley M. Shamburger, Sr., Company A, who has been on duty with the range detachment, has been assigned to duties with the Athletic and Recreation section.

Cpl. Ray W. Rodgers was transferred Nov. 17 from detachment headquarters to Company A for duty with the Infantry Center's public information office.

Detachment Group Assignments Told

Two former members of the Fifth Infantry division's Seventh Engineer Combat battalion, Fort Jackson, S. C., have been assigned to the Infantry School detachment, Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, detachment commander, announced Friday.

Sgt. Auburey H. Newton, Company A, has been assigned duties with the adjutant general's office, while Sgt. 1st cl. Lushus H. Priest, Company B, has been assigned duties with the automotive section.

Expected to report here Nov. 25 for assignment to Company C, Infantry School detachment, is Pfc. Maurice E. Fox, formerly with the Reassignment Center, Camp Stoneman, Calif. He will be on duty with the army field printing plant.

Class 9 In 3rd Week

Class No. B-9 of the Airborne battalion's Company D has entered its third week of training with 284 enlisted men and 19 officers enrolled.

FIRST TO ARRIVE...Number one arrival for the special associate basic infantry officers' course at Fort Benning, and one of the newest second lieutenants in the army is Woodrow Wilson Gorbach, left. Appointed at Baltimore, Md., Gorbach had just completed three years at George Washington university where he was a pre-law student. Veteran of 28 months overseas, where he served as a private first class with Company A, 135th Infantry regiment of the 34th Infantry division in Italy, he is shown being greeted by Lt. Col. Ray E. Marshall, commander of the First battalion, Student Training regiment.

Welcome Mat Out For Third Division

Jumpers Move To Fort Bragg

The Third Infantry division has been ordered to transfer to Fort Benning, and will be brought to full strength, according to information received from the Department of the Army and Infantry Center officials.

Change in station of the division, which is now a "paper outfit" at Camp Campbell, Ky., has been made effective Dec. 1, it was further disclosed.

Movement of the Third to Benning began this week, but at present affects only a handful of staff officers who have been assigned to the unit at Campbell.

All airborne personnel of the 325th Infantry Regiment combat team here, including airborne personnel now assigned to the 319th Field Artillery battalion, will move to Fort Bragg. Non-airborne infantry personnel of the team will be assigned to the 15th Infantry regiment of the Third, while artillerymen will transfer to the 39th Field Artillery battalion of the 15th combat team.

The Second battalion of the 25th Infantry regiment and 999th Field Artillery battalion, now attached to the 325th combat team, will not be affected by the change. They will remain at Fort Benning, it was stated.

Among the officers transferring to Fort Benning who are now with the Third are Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson, present division commander; Col. O. P. Newman, chief of staff; Lt. Col. W. H. Green, adjutant general, and Lt. Col. John Acuff, Lt. Col. James Luton, Maj. James W. Friend and Maj. William R. Kirschener.

The division will be brought up to strenght with personnel from the replacement stream, it was stated. This may include draftees, volunteers, men returning from overseas and transfers from other units.

One of the outstanding infantry divisions of the [illegible] war, the 16 Chileans Plan Tour Of Center

Fifteen officers and one noncommissioned officer of the Chilean army will arrive at Fort Benning next Tuesday afternoon for a four-day visit to the Infantry School, it has been announced by Third Army.

The visitors will be accompanied by Lt. Col. Marion N. Hardesty of the U. S. army.

Visit of the South Americans, graduates of the Chilean War college, is for the purpose of observing U. S. army equipment and training methods and to inspect some U. S. army installations.

The group arrived at Brookley airforce base, Ala., from the Canal zone last Friday. Prior to coming to Fort Benning they visited Washington, D. C., Fort Belvoir, Va., the Detroit Tank Arsenal and Ford Motor company in Detroit, Mich., New York City, and the Armored School at Fort Knox, Ky. Upon the completion of the visit to Benning the group will depart by plane for Brookley to return

Col. Bernard Byrne

Col. Byrne Is Appointed To TIS Post

With the retirement from active duty Dec. 31 of Col. Lloyd D. Brown, Col. Bernard A. Byrne will assume the duties of coordinator of training, it has been revealed by officials of the Infantry School.

The position of assistant coordinator of training of the Infantry School, the job now held by Colonel Byrne, will be filled by Lt. Col. Ashton H. Manhart, it was reported.

Colonel Byrne entered the army from West Point where he graduated with the war class of 1918. After a brief tour of duty overseas, he returned to this country in 1919 and was assigned to the Infantry School as a student in the first course offered here. After graduation, he was assigned to the 29th Infantry regiment at Benning for three years.

In the summer of 1923 he was transferred to Hawaii where he served for more than four years with the 30th Infantry. He then returned to the States to attend the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Upon his graduation in 1928, he was once more assigned to Fort Benning as an instructor in communications at the Infantry School.

Two years later he returned to Hawaii as aide to the commanding general of the 22nd brigade of the Hawaiian division and remained ther esix years. He was then ordered to Fort Meade, Md., to become adjutant and communications officer of the 16th brigade.

In November, 1939, he returned to Hawaii as communications officer and plans and training officer of the 22nd brigade, staying there until May, 1941, when he was again assigned to the Infantry School, this time as an in-

Class For New 2nd Lieutenants Begins Dec. 13

Forty-eight brand new second lieutenants, who received their commissions under the recently inaugurated procurement officer plan, had reported to Fort Benning by last Tuesday morning to start a 12-week training course, which begins on Dec. 13.

The new officers, who will take the special associate basic infantry officers' course (provisional), are all former enlisted men who have met the requirements for immediate commissions under the new plan. Although today is the final reporting day for men enrolling in this first course, it is expected that the class enrollment will be much larger due to delays en route and travel difficulties.

The new officers are reporting here from all over the country. The group of 48 already reported come from 18 states, with the largest contingents from Florida and Missouri. There are seven from Florida and six from Missouri. Other states and men coming from them are:

Illinois, five; Indiana, one; Rhode Island, one; Washington, three; Iowa, two; Oklahoma, three; Massachusetts, four; Pennsylvania, two; North Carolina, one; Connecticut, one; Texas, two; New Jersey, three; Minnesota, one; Michigan, two; Georgia, two, and Virginia, two.

First man to report in was Woodrow Wilson Gorbach of Bridgeport, Conn. Other new second lieutenants and their home towns are:

T. G. McDonald, Eagle Rock, Va., Hodges S. Escue, Fort Worth, Tex., Hans J. Manz, Springfield, Mass., Warren B. Steele, Red Bank, N. J., Oscar B. Smith, Jr., Fort Worth, Tex., Alvin E. Paratroop Unit Puzzled By Early Yule Greeting

When a first sergeant of the Airborne battalion stormed into the barracks during the Thanksgiving holidays and shouted "Merry Christmas", everybody thought that the poor overworked top-kick had gone off his noggin.

Taken aback by the sergeant's unseasonal salutation, several of the men hesitated before returning the greeting.

The barracks inhabitants were even more convinced that their ranking NCO had gone loco when he failed to acknowledge their good wishes, but explained with a frown that he was a busy man and had no time for monkey business.

If Pfc. Merry L. Christmas had been there, the situation could have been cleared up on the spot. But the chagrined top-kick had a difficult time convincing the men that Pfc. Christmas was to be one of their colleagues in arms, and should have reported for duty on Nov. 26.

A call to the battalion's personnel section to ascertain whether or not Pfc. Christmas' records had arrived produced similar results. Only after checking a ream of special orders were the clerks in that section persuaded that they really were destined to receive the records of Merry Christmas, and that somebody wasn't just having his little joke at their expense.

Although Pfc. Christmas, according to orders, should have reported here on Nov. 26, battalion officials feel sure that there is some logical explanation for his delay in signing in.

Coming to Benning from the Canal Zone, Pfc. Christmas aspires to become a paratrooper, and his first assignment here will be with Headquarters and Service company of the Airborne battalion. After several days of processing, he will be placed on duty with one of the battalion's line companies to undergo his jump training.

Although they are not alarmed at the Airborne candidate's delay in reporting, battalion officials said: "If Christmas waits until Dec. 25 to come around, it's going to keep the clerks working overtime for a while."

Colonel Murphy Named Special Services Officer

Newly named special services officer for Fort Benning, replacing Col. Onto P. Bragan, is Lt. Col. Roland E. Murphy. Colonel Bragan, special services officer for the past year, has been ordered overseas and is due to report to the New York Port of Embarkation Dec. 31 for assignment to the European theater.

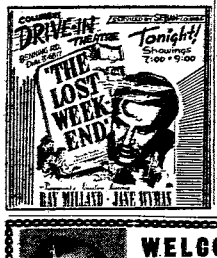
A veteran of two world wars, Colonel Murphy entered service in November, 1917, and served with the First Cavalry regiment. He saw service on the Mexican border, and received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training corps.

Overseas in the past war, Colonel Murphy spent two years in the Mediterranean theater as a civil affairs officer with Allied Force Headquarters from 1942 until 1944.

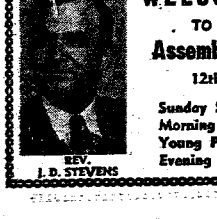
On his return to this country in 1945 he was assigned to the civil affairs training school at Yale university until 1945 when he went to Korea. In Korea from December, 1945, until June, 1948, he was a provincial military governor. Upon his return to the States he came to Fort Benning and was named executive officer of the Student Training regiment.

Colonel Murphy attended the Cavalry School at Fort Riley in 1921 and the School of Military Government at the University of Virginia in 1942.

Xmas Season Bargains Told



Trading post officials, with their eyes on the approaching Christmas season, have announced bargains in such items as Micro "16" cameras, priced at $15 and $20, and a new set of golf clubs, at $35.



A Remington portable typewriter is offered for $25, and an electric toaster is priced at $2.50. Many other bargains are available in cooking utensils and dishes, according to Mrs. L. Shepard, manager of the Trading Post.

Other bargains in household furnishings are Hollywood beds, an air conditioner and an antique club seat priced at $30.

In the clothing department, shoes and boots are offered at prices ranging from 10 cents up. Also in the shoe department, there are bargains in shoe skates and ice skates.

FIRST CUARTEL . . . Longest building in the world, the "first cuartel" as it is popularly known, is one of the three huge barracks housing some of the men of Fort Benning. Nearly large enough to quarter an entire regiment, the cuartel also has dayrooms, mess halls, kitchens, supply rooms and offices. Oddly enough, the "first cuartel" is one unbroken building, the "second cuartel" is in two sections and the "third cuartel" is actually three buildings.

Barracks, Known Here As Cuartels, Among Most Interesting Buildings

Among the most interesting buildings at Fort Benning are the huge troop quarters known as the "cuartels".

Many questions have arisen about the origin of the buildings—when were they built, how many men will they quarter and many other similar questions.

The word "cuartel" is of Spanish origin, and the literal translation of the word is, "A barracks for soldiers or prisoners." There are in reality seven here since each of the divided buildings is considered a cuartel.

When Fort Benning became a permanent army post in 1922, the need for more permanent-type buildings for housing troops became imperative. However, nothing was done about it until the late 1920's. Information as to the actual starting date of construction is unavailable, but the first of the buildings was completed on Feb. 9, 1929.

The first building, the only undivided one in the group, is the largest, and is reputed to have the longest undivided porch in the world—almost a half-mile of covered porch area.

The total cost of the first building was $1,356,026, which is almost half the cost of the other buildings combined. At the time it was constructed, it had a capacity of 2,133 troops.

The second building was completed on Nov. 18, 1929, at a cost of $307,366.27, and was originally planned to house 697 men.

The third building in the group was completed on April 7, 1934, to accomodate 844 men, and at a cost of $477,084.89.

The fourth building was also completed in 1934. It was designed to hold the smallest number of troops in the group-only 138 men, and was constructed at a cost of $103,792.58.

The fifth and sixth buildings were completed during April and May of 1935, the fifth building being designed to hold 162 men, while the sixth building was planned for use by 856 men. The combined cost of the two buildings was $703,290.90.

The last of the buildings was completed on Dec. 15, 1939, costing $745,642.30. Originally designed to house 868 men, it is the second largest building in the group.

The total cost of the complete group of buildings was $3,787,992.47, with a capacity of more than 6,000 troops. According to the original plans, the group was built to accomodate 13 companies.

Those men quartered in the buildings have practically every convenience necessary at their finger tips. For example, on cold mornings, they don't have to stand outside, waiting to get into the mess hall. All they have to do is go down the back steps and there they are!

Also in the buildings are barber shops, cleaning and pressing shops and soft drink machines. Each building has several spacious dayrooms, with radios, pool tables and other things for the convenience of the soldiers.

The cuartels at Fort Benning are among the finest troop quarters to be found anywhere.

Third was, for all practical purposes, inactivated about a year after the end of the war. The Seventh Infantry combat team, comprising the Seventh Infantry regiment, 10th Field Artillery battalion and Company A, 10th Engineer battalion, was reorganized at Fort Benning last spring, remained her several months, and then moved to Fort Devens last September. The division never was entirely deactivated, however, a handful of men continually being stationed at the Kentucky camp.

During World War II, the Third was reduced to zero strength but never inactivated. Tucian K. Truscott, Jr. and Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel. The unit participated in four major amphibious operations and 10 major campaigns. It was in the invasions of North Africa, Sicily, Anzio and Southern France.

Campaigns of the Third Infantry Division during the last war included North Africa, Tunisia, Sicily, Naples - Foggia, Anzio, Rome - Arno, Southern France, Ardennes-Alsace, Rhineland and Central Europe.

structor in communications. He became chief of the communications section in June, 1942, and held that assignment until being named commanding officer of the 320th Infantry regiment of the 35th Infantry division in the fall of 1943.

Overseas from May, 1944, until the fall of 1945, he led his regiment in campaigns in Normandy, Northern France, the Ardennes, Rhineland and Central Europe. Upon his return to this country he was once again assigned to the Infantry School, this time as assistant coordinator of training, the position he has held until now.

Local Red Cross Auxiliary to Meet Thursday, Dec. 7

The Red Cross auxiliary will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, Dec. 7, at 10 a. m. in the Red Cross building on Vibbert avenue.

The newly-formed auxiliary is making plans with the Station hospital for a Christmas party for patients, and the motor corps is being organized. Other activities will be discussed at the meeting.

All Fort Benning women who are interested in Red Cross work are invited.

Post School Unit Gets New Chief

Lt. Col. Arlen C. Brill has been named commanding officer of the Infantry School detachment, it has been announced, succeeding Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson who has been named commander of the 87th Infantry regiment of the 10th Infantry division at Fort Riley, Kans.

Colonel Brill, formerly executive officer of the 325th Infantry regiment, entered the service from North Dakota in 1939 and was commissioned a second lieutenant after taking a competitive tour that saw only 10 percent of those taking the tour receive commissions.

His first assignment was with the Ninth Infantry regiment of the Second Infantry division at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. In August, 1940, he was assigned to the Ninth Infantry division at Fort Bragg, N. C., and remained with that division throughout the entire war.

In his service with the Ninth, Colonel Brill participated in the invasion of North Africa and fought in Tunisia, Sicily, Normandy, Northern France, the Ardennes, Rhineland and Central Europe. Executive officer of an infantry battalion in the invasion of North Africa, he commanded the Third battalion of the 60th Infantry in Tunisia, Sicily and Normandy.

In northern France he was assigned as commanding officer, special troops, Headquarters, Ninth Infantry division but just prior to the end of the war went to the 47th Infantry of that division to command a battalion again.

Colonel Brill returned to the U. S. in July, 1946, and came to Fort Benning as a battalion commander of the 25th Infantry regiment. For a short time he was then commander of the 325th combat team and later was named executive officer of that unit.

He has been awarded the Bronze Star, French and Belgian Croix de Guerre, American defense medal, and ETO medal with eight bronze battle stars and the invasion arrowhead.

November Army Orders Affect Benning Troops

Orders issued by the Department of the Army since Nov. 9 include the following changes affecting Fort Benning personnel:

First Lt. Julius E. Grass was relieved, according to orders issued Nov. 9, from the personnel center at Fort Lawton, Wash., and assigned to the 3440th Area Service unit here. Prior to reporting to Fort Benning, he has been authorized a 45-day leave.

On the same orders 1st Lts. Rita M. Lenssen and Bridget W. McDermott were relieved from duty with the 60th Station hospital at Fort Dix, N. J., and assigned to the Station hospital here.

Recalled to active duty on orders published Nov. 9 for assignment to Fort Benning were 1st Lt. Edith M. MacMullen, 2nd Lt. John W. Mullaney and 2nd Lt. Alfred E. Vanderhoff. Lieutenant MacMullen, of Scotia, N. Y., was assigned to the Station hospital, and Lieutenants Mullaney and Vanderhoff were assigned to the 325th Infantry regiment. Lieutenant Mullaney was recalled from his home in Matoon, Ill., while Lieutenant Vanderhoff was recalled from Fort Jackson, S. C., where he was serving as a staff sergeant with the Fifth Infantry division's 705th Ordnance Maintenance company.

Capt. Elmer C. Navarre, master sergeant with the 2318th Area Service unit at Ashland, Ky., was recalled to duty as an officer on Nov. 15, and is expected to report to the Infantry School Nov. 29.

First Lt. Jimmie D. Bynum was relieved Nov. 11 from the personnel center, Fort Lawton, Wash., and assigned to the Infantry School for duty with the Student Training regiment. Prior to reporting here he will take a 45-day leave.

Relieved from duty with the Camp Kilmer, N. J., personnel center on orders published Nov. 16, 2nd Lt. Howard W. Quick is scheduled to report to Fort Benning Dec. 1 for assignment to the 325th Infantry regiment. He will attend the Infantry School's associate basic course No. 2, opening Jan. 3, 1949, prior to beginning on April 15 a competitive tour for the purpose of obtaining a regular army commission.

Two reservists were recalled to active duty, according to orders published Nov. 16. They were 2nd Lt. Merrill W. Harper, Hartwell, Ga., and Capt. Thomas D. Pollard, then a sergeant first class with Company A, Seventh Infantry Regimental combat team, Fort Devens, Mass. Lieutenant Harper will be assigned to duty with the 325th Infantry regiment, while Captain Pollard will be on duty with the Student Training regiment.

Brig. Gen. Whitfield P. Shepard, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, has been relieved and ordered to report to Fort Mason, Calif., not later than Dec. 28 for transfer to the Far East command in Tokoyo, Japan, according to orders issued Nov. 17.

On the same orders 1st Lt. Wodea Lewis was relieved from the personnel center at Camp Stoneman, Calif., and ordered to report to the Station hospital here following a 30-day leave.

Recalled to active duty as officers on Nov. 17 orders were Capt. Andrew H. Driver, Aiken, S. C., 2nd Lt. Dovie R. House, Hilton, Ga., and 1st Lt. Harry W. Pierce, Hyattsville, Ga. Captain Driver was assigned to the 756th Heavy Tank battalion, Lieutenant House to the Station hospital and Lieutenant Pierce to the Student Training regiment.

WOJG Ernest P. Averill, now with the Infantry School, was ordered on Nov. 17 to report to Camp Stoneman, Calif., Feb. 9, 1949, for transfer to the Marianas Bonins command on Guam.

Lt. Col. John R. Pugh, according to orders published Nov. 18, will be relieved from duty with the staff and faculty of the Command and General Staff college, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., around Jan. 1, 1949, and assigned to the 82nd Airborne division, Fort Bragg, N. C. Prior to reporting to the 82nd, Colonel Pugh will attend the Infantry School's basic airborne class No. 18 which begins Jan. 11, 1949.

Three reservists were recalled to active duty for Fort Benning assignments on orders issued Nov. 18. They were Capt. Peronneau Mitchell, Chatham, Va., 2nd Lt. George G. Rock, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Capt. Henry M. Smith, Springfield, Mass. Captain Mitchell will be assigned to the Infantry School detachment, Lieutenant Rock to the 325th Infantry regiment, and Captain Smith to the Infantry School.

Two Fort Benning enlisted men were ordered on Nov. 18 to active duty as officers. They were 2nd Lt. Edward L. Flaherty, then a sergeant with the Airborne battalion's Headquarters and Service company, and 1st Lt. Tom W. Turner, then a master sergeant with the 325th Infantry regiment's Service company. Lieutenant Flaherty will be assigned to the personnel center at Camp Stoneman, Calif., for temporary duty pending overseas orders to the Pacific area. Lieutenant Turner will be assigned to the Second Infantry division at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Main Library Sets One-Man Art Exhibition

A one-man art exhibit, featuring the work of Murray Hill, Red Cross field director, will be on display at the Main library Dec. 6-11, it was announced this week by library officials.

Approximately 15 water color drawings, mainly depicting rural life in Tennessee, some five or six bird panels, landscapes and other miscellaneous pictures such as a rural carnival and men at work will be included in the display. In addition there will be several oil paintings of land and seascapes.

Mr. Hill's paintings and drawings should be of particular interest since he taught himself to paint less than one year ago. It started with a bet he made that he could paint a picture, it hung in an art exhibition and sell it. He is now a veteran of two art exhibitions and has collected several blue ribbons.

A left-handed artist (his right arm has been crippled since birth), Mr. Hill learned to draw with the aid of an 88-cent art booklet, "How to Draw in Six Easy Lessons" and a collection of books from the Main library.

Three of his pictures were displayed at the Chattahoochee Valley exposition last October, and he was awarded a blue ribbon for the three of them.

Mr. Hill paints mostly from photographs.

4 Civilian Nurses Named To Advise Col. Mary Phillips

Four civilian nurses have been appointed as advisers to Col. Mary G. Phillips, director of the Army Nurse corps, Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, the surgeon general of the army announced today.

The advisory committee will consist of Mrs. Lulu St. Clair Blaine, director, Community Nursing Center for the state of Michigan; Miss Agnes Gelinas, president, National League of Nursing Education; Miss Katherine J. Densford, former president of the American Nurses association, and dean of the school of Nursing at the University of Minnesota and Miss Ella Best executive secretary, American Nurses association.

The advisory committee will be consulted on matters pertaining to army nurse procurement, administration, personnel management, education and other important subjects that affect nurses in the service.

General Moore To Head USMA

The Department of the Army announced Nov. 23 that Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, chief of the Public Information division, will succeed Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as superintendent of the United States Military academy, West Point, N. Y. next Feb. 1.

General Moore has been chief of the Public Information division, Department of the Army, since July 26, 1948. Prior to that he was commanding general of Trieste United States troops, Free Territory of Trieste.

A graduate of the military academy, General Moore was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry on Aug. 30, 1917. At the outbreak of World War II he was associate professor of military science and tactics at the University of Illinois. In January, 1942, he was ordered to the Pacific theater and proceeded with a task force from New York to New Caledonia. This task force was later reorganized to form the Americal division. In October, 1942, General Moore went to Guadalcanal as commander of the 64th Infantry, and reinforced the First Marine division on that island.

General Moore returned to the United States in February, 1943, and in August, 1944, accompanied the 104th division to Europe as assistant commander. Later he became commanding general of the Eighth Infantry division in the ETO, and still later became commanding general of the 88th Infantry division when it was assigned to the occupation force for Venezia Giulia, Northeast, Italy. When the division was inactivated, elements from it remained as the TRUST force under General Moore's command.

General Moore is a native of Ellsworth, Maine, where he was born June 6, 1894.

General Taylor, a native of Missouri, where he was born Aug. 26, 1901, was graduated from the military academy in 1922 and was commissioned a second lieutenant, Corps of Engineers. He later transferred to the field artillery.

Early in World War II, General Taylor was on duty in the office of the secretary of the general staff, War department, and in July, 1942, was assigned to the 82nd Infantry division as chief of staff. He assisted in organizing the first airborne divisions of the army and became artillery commander of the 82nd Airborne division in December, 1942. He served with this division in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns and in March, 1944, became commanding general of the 101st Airborne division, which he led on its airborne invasions of Normandy and Holland. He was appointed superintendent of the military academy in September, 1945. His new assignment will be announced later.

232 Students Graduate From Airborne Course

A total of 232 students graduated from the basic airborne course Tuesday, Nov. 16, it was reported this week.

Of the total, four were officers and 228 were enlisted men. During their five and one-half weeks of training, they were assigned to the Airborne battalion's Company B.

Why Blame the Army?

There has been such a hullaballo raised over one section of the Hopley Report, and so many anti-military fanatics have screamed to high heaven that it reeks of military Fascism that The Bayonet feels a fuller understanding of that section is necessary in order to clear the atmosphere. Of course, since we have not read the entire report, it would be inane for us to assume that we are speaking with absolute authority. Still, from what we have read, it would appear that all this agitating against the army is, to say the least, ridiculous.

The Hopley Report is simply a series of recommendations prepared by the Office of Civil Defense Planning, headed by Russell J. Hopley, of Omaha, Neb., who obtained a leave of absence as president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, to work with the committee, which would serve as a means of mobilizing the civilian population in case of national emergency. This organization was established at the request of Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal, and its recommendations are by no means law. Such recommendations would have to be passed by the Congress, and the Congress is certainly not going to allow any rights to be taken away from the citizenry. It is in a much too vulnerable position. Moreover the army had no part in drawing up these recommendations.

The provision in the report which seems to have created such a vast amount of criticism is, according to some news analysts, the section which provides that the military could arrest a person and hold him incommunicado until evidence against him could be gathered. And the military is being blamed for this.

To get an idea of how baseless this is, however, it should be noted that the Hopley Report does not deal at all with the military, but with the civilian. Responsibility for mobilization of civilians in case of emergency would be the job of the governors of the respective states, and since when did a governor ever call upon the military to help him carry out his job? If there is any freedom to be lost under the Hopley Report, it could by no stretch of the imagination be the fault of the military since the military will play no part in it.

The implementation of the overall plan will, naturally, require federal, state and municipal legislation, but it will be mainly up to the states to give vitality to the program. The military role in such a program would be secondary: its services would be utilized only upon request from the governors of the states.

Surely, no one can deny the fact that some sort of closely knit civilian defense program is an urgent piece of legislation which should be tackled immediately. Just in case we are ever forced into another war, this country will not be able to escape air attack, or perhaps even invasion by the enemy. If something like that does occur, we must be prepared, and the civilian population should not expect to go blithely about its business without helping in some way. We, however, would not even attempt to prove that the Hopley Report is the answer to civilian mobilization.

Still if Americans are so fearful of emergency regulations—which we don't believe they are—how can any sort of adequate civil defense ever be established. Congress, the President, et al, are merely wasting their time if the outraged cries of a few against the Hopley Report are an indication of the general public's reaction.

In attempting to analyze what the report means in terms of future application, one should also be made cognizant of the fact that the military did not ask for any power over the civilian population. The military, as should any patriotic group, desire only to prevent a lack of coordination between themselves and the civilian and to insure that the public, with the public's cooperation, will be safeguarded against any unnecessary dangers. Anyway, the Hopley Report was formulated by civilians for civilians.

Strictly Editorializing

A report released by Third army on November 16 shows that Fort Benning suffered fire loses during fiscal year 1948 amounting to a staggering $165,532.29. the highest total for any installation in the area.

Actually, the number of fires—26—is lower than the number during fiscal year 1947 when there were 32 fires. The total loss because of fires in 1947, however, was only $10,554, which certainly compares very unfavorably with the figure quoted for 1948. On the face of it, it would seem that we at Benning are determined to have bigger and costlier fires than anyone else.

It would be almost impossible to eliminate fires altogether, but by exercising a little more caution, it's feasible that they could be reduced to such an extent that the loss resulting from them would be negligible.

If there is any faulty wiring in your quarters, the post engineer will send someone immediately to repair or replace it. If a fire extinguisher (they are checked regularly) needs refilling, because someone has turned it over without the knowledge of the fire inspectors, the fire extinguisher will be refilled. These are things which the individual can rerort, thus reducing the possibility of fires.

Further, we can eliminate smoking in bed. We can stop throwing lighted cigarettes on the ground without first "field stripping" them and making sure they have been completely extinguished. Indeed we should try to do all within our power to cut down on the number of fires before we burn ourselves out of a home.

Chaplain's Corner..

THANKSGIVING IN AMERICA

By

Chaplain M. Hale

In the olden days there used to be a custom that, before one helped his plate with turkey and dressing and the other fine things that makes Thanksgiving so unusual in the United States, the father put five grains of corn on every child's plate. Then he told them of the days when America started, when food was so low that only five grains of parched corn were allotted to every man and woman.

I wonder how many of us when we sat down to the table last week took the time to recall the sacrifices of our forefathers who could make such bounty possible. Three hundred years ago America was a wild, desolate forest and undeveloped plains. Its rivers had no permanent bridges and there were no roads to span its thousands of miles; there were no railroads or airplanes. The question that comes to our minds is, why was America so entirely remade in three centuries when such great lands as South America and Africa lay undeveloped?

There used to be a story in our history book which said the French came to America for furs, and the Spanish came for gold; but the English came to find a home. That one fact stresses more than anything else why men continued to develop this country and experiment with its resources in a manner that makes it the most unusual nation in the world at this present day.

In conclusion, I would point to the fact that the future of America lies in the reasons that we have for living. Do we want furs, or gold or things of more permanent value? Do we want liberty and the pursuit of happiness and the right to live as God the Creator intended that we should live? If these are our desires then we must further realize that such values as these do not come easily. They have to be paid for in sweat, sometimes in blood, and oftimes in tears. When we have paid this price, we can truly offer thanks.

SMILE PLEASE

Mildred Spurrier Topp's account of a pioneer woman photographer "Smile Please" is an invitation not only to smile but occasionally — frequently —to laugh out loud. If Mrs. Topp hadn't tried quite so hard to wring the last bit of humor out of every situation, her book would undoubtedly have been as hilarious as anything Ruth McKenney or Betty MacDonald ever wrote. As it is 'Smile Please', although interesting and for the most part humorous, occasionally sounds rather forced.

The situations themselves provide plenty of laughs. The author's mother, a grass widow, decided she wanted things for her children that money could buy; so in 1907 she opened up her Photo Gallery in Greenwood, Mississippi, where the Delta planters had plenty of money and didn't mind sending it.

Mrs. Sourrier's two little daughters, Mildred, aged nine, and Velma aged eleven, were soon in the thick of Greenwood "society". With wide an assortment of unusual friends as ever existed outside or inside a book. There is Mammy Lou, the Cunjur Woman, who saves the Montmorencys of Stratford-on-the-Yazoo from disorganizing the Daughters of the American Revolution. There is Ferdinand Featherstone who had a pony and twenty-five cents a week spending money until he got religion at the camp meeting and sold his pony to the gypsies. There is Mr. Dooley, the object of the "Do - Good - to - Dooley" club which Ferdinand and the Sourrier girls formed as their religious project.

And, of course, there are the Sourrier girls themselves. — Mildred, the sainted, who at nine did all her fighting with her teeth, and the more gentile Velma, who didn't bite, but who used a pearl handled knife instead, and Mother who did a little fancy blackmailing on the town banker to get support for the town's fallen woman and her little illegal child.

Enough happens in this small town of Greenwood to fill several books. We wish the author had decided to bring out several volumes and had not tried to crowd everything into three hundred pages. And we wish that some of Mildred's oh so cute malapropisms had been left—if not unsaid, at least unpublished. Nine-year-olds undoubtedly do misuse the English language, but we find it hard to believe that the results are usually so devastating.

But in spite of these faults we think the book is worth reading. We don't imagine it will do much to raise the cultural level of the country, but it will provide a few tears and a lot of laughs.

Your Red Cross

BY MURRAY HILL

Not long ago I had an opportunity to read an article entitled "Is It The Man or The System?" I was so impressed with this article that I decided to pass on this very good thought.

Most of us are prone to confuse people and principles. We are easily impressed or affected by personalities and permit merely human qualities to obscure the value rather than allow ourselves to appreciate and understand the things that are much more durable.

For example a man who lived in a medium size city met on the street one day a friend whom he had seen regularly at church. He remarked to the friend that he had not seen him at church for quite a while. "Why, the man replied, I don't like the Rev. Mr. —— ——, so I changed to another church."

It is much the same in other institutions and organizations. We are so affected by the personalities identified with the organizations or institutions that we often lose sight of the principles for which they stand. We find ourselves criticising the principle rather that the individual.

This confusion of people and institutions is one of the most common of human errors. It is true that some institutions flourish because of the talent of some individual, but this is not true of the American National Red Cross. It flourishes and continues to grow because of its basic principles, its humanitarian policy. We think of the Good Neighbor Policy as something quite recent, but I think the Good Neighbor Policy originated with hte organizing of the Red Cross.

The good your Red Cross does is indisputable. When it fails, it is the individual who fails. Then the question arises who are the individuals. Their number is legend. You do, as contributor, a member of the volunteer workers or paid worker are the individuals.

We know the policy of Red Cross is sound. Hence any criticism of the Red Cross must be directed at the individual. Remember that the next time you hear a criticism of the Red

COMING ATTRACTIONS

ONE SUNDAY AFTERNOON (musical) with Dennis Morgan, Janis Paige and Dorothy Malone. This old story of love and rivalry is dressed up in music and technicolor and described by the producer as a "happy-go-huggy musical lark in the park." Recommended for adult.

A NIGHT AT THE OPERA (comedy reissue) with the Marx brothers, Kitty Carlisle and Allan Jones. This was one of the Marx brothers' biggest hits and is brought back so that you may again enjoy the wild and woozy capers of the screwball trio. Recommended for family.

LET'S LIVE A LITTLE (comedy) with Hedy Lamarr and Robert Cummings. Robert Cummings plunges from one laughable neurosis to another as a harried advertising account executive who hears phone bells that aren't ringing and takes showers every hour or so. His doctor recommended calm and quiet, but how can a guy be calm and quiet with a doctor like Hedy Lamarr? Recommended for family.

RED RIVER (western) with John Wayne, Montgomery Clift and Joanne Dru. Here is a rousing tale of men and the old west, of gunplay and Indian fighting and of the grueling cattle drive which first opened the Chisholm trail from Texas to Abilene, Kans. Recommended for family.

THE COUNTESS OF MONTE CRISTO (comedy and music) with Sonja Henie, Michael Kirby and Olga San Juan. Two movie extras swipe a car and clothes from the lot and establish themselves at a swank resort until the law catches up with them. Miss Henie has ample opportunity to demonstrate her skill as an ice skater. Recommended for family.

The train ground to a sudden stop. A nervous lady called the conductor. "What happened?" she asked.

"Nothing much," answered the conductor, "We just ran over a cow."

"Was she on the tracks?"

"No, replied the harried train official, "We had to chase her across the field."

FEATURED ON WOMAN'S CLUB PROGRAM: Talented young American actress, Mary Hutchinson, who will present a dramatic program at the meeting of the Fort Benning Woman's club on December 13 at the post Country club.

Woman's Club to Feature Talented Young Monologist At Next General Meeting

A special feature of the Christmas general meeting of the Fort Benning Woman's club, to be held at the Country club December 13, will be a program of dramatic monologues by the talented young American actress, Mary Hutchinson.

The program promises to be unusually interesting, and will offer the audience something unique in the field of dramatic monologue. Miss Hutchinson changes from character to character swiftly and easily without waits for costume changes. Yet costumes — even wigs — are changed right on stage by means of a small portable dressing room of translucent screens.

As the actress retires to this she continues her lines all the while preparing the audience for the next character.

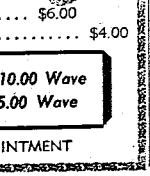
Mary Hutchinson's program abounds in color, drama and theater-lore, beautifully costumed and richly supplied by the artist's experience, showmanship and talent.

She has appeared in many Broadway productions — both the drama and musical comedy — including "Castles in the Air", "The Vanities", "Lady Be Good", "The Yellow Jacket", "Lysistrata" — and has played supporting roles with Walter Hampden, Frank Craven, Charles Coburn, Frances Starr, Gregory Ratoff, Margaret Anglin, Fred Stone, Cissie Loftus and other stars of stage and screen.

She has been starred and featured in many productions at the Red Barn theatre, Locust Valley, N. Y.; the County Playhouse, Westport, Conn.; the Rockridge theatres, Carmel, N. Y.; the Players' theatre, Clinton, Conn. and had six seasons with the Mohawk Drama festival. In coast - to - coast tours she has had leading roles in "The Yellow Jacket"; "Follow Thru"; "Peer Gynt"; "Lysistrata"; "O Judge, Hoopla"; "The Silver Swan"; "Another Language" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream", and has appeared in numbers of radio and television programs.

The program will be preceded by a short business meeting. The tea which was originally scheduled to follow the program will not be held, since it has been decided to use the money for the purchase of CARE packages.

Gift Wrapping At NCCS Club



For all those G. I.'s who want to send Christmas gifts but can't get them done up properly, the N.C.C.S. club has opened up a gift wrapping service, complete with all materials for packing and mailing gifts and with someone on hand to help with the work.

The service is available at the club on Wednesdays from 2 to 10 p.m., on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and on other days from 5 to 10 p.m. Miss Amaryllis Hollis is in charge.

On Saturday evening the club will have a "Christmas decoration" party, with a prize awarded for the most unique decorations.

On Sunday afternoon G.I.'s will for the third time defend their title of quiz champions in the weekly contest with the Southern Debs. Miss Fay Chambliss will act as coordinator.

Home and Gardens Group Hears Talk on Decorations

An interesting and instructive talk on Christmas decorations and gift wrappings by Mrs. Sarah Poole, special service director at Davison's in Atlanta, and a "white elephant" exchange table, were features of the November meeting of the Home and Garden group of the Woman's club at the post Country club Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Poole, who was introduced by Mrs. Carl V. Burke, chairman of the Home and Garden group, spoke on the trimming of front doors, hallways, children's rooms, playrooms and tables for formal and informal occasions. She said she felt that Christmas should be spelled from the front door to the back, and offered many practical suggestions for including the entire house in the decorative scheme.

Among the Christmas notes and novelties which she mentioned were ideas for using old Christmas cards on this year's gifts, and the use of Christmas corsages of holly and mistletoe for placecards. Also quite pertinent were her suggestions for unusual gift wrappings.

In closing, Mrs. Poole reminded her audience not to lose sight of the meaning of Christmas. For decorations, she said, nothing is more effective than the Bible open at the Christmas story.

Following the meeting, tea was served. The table was lovely with tapered ivory candles, and for a centerpiece there was a magnificent handcarved Nativity scene, which was loaned by Mrs. John MacIndoe. A small Christmas tree in the club room was surrounded by the white elephant packages.

It was announced that the Home and Gardens project of the year, a cookbook, will include not only recipes, but also household suggestions and tables of comparative measurements. The next meeting of the group will be in January.

Miss Juanita Halliday Weds Capt. Robert Crabtree Friday

In an impressive candlelight ceremony, Miss Juanita Halliday became the bride of Capt. Robert O. Crabtree at the Lawson chapel Friday evening with Chaplain Victor E. Walter officiating.

Decorations were white gladioli, baby white chrysanthemums and ferns, with burning cathedral tapers in tall candelabra lining the aisles and grouped about the chancel.

Mrs. Lucille Averitt presented a program of nuptial music which included Gounod's "Ave Maria" and "Through the Years" by Vincent Youmans. Sam Benford, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." The soft strains of "Liebestraum" formed a background as the vows were spoken.

Miss Sarah Floyd, the bride's maid of honor and only attendant, wore a costume of bronze crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow tuberoses.

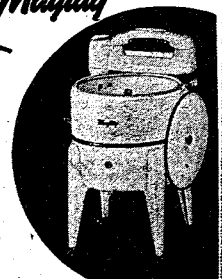
The lovely bride entered the chapel on the arm of her father, W. M. McRae, who gave her in marriage. She wore a stunning gray ensemble with green and gray accessories and a corsage of purple orchids.

Lt. Marion L. Farmer of Robins airforce Base, Macon, Ga., served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Lawson Officers' club. The bride's table was overlaid with a white satin cloth, centered with a large tiered wedding cake, embossed with white roses and decorated with figures of a miniature bride and groom under a wedding bell. Flanking the wedding cake were baby white chrysanthemums interspersed with ferns. At each end of the table, tall white tapers in crystal holders burned. The buffet table was arranged with a clear crystal punchbowl of unique design. Mrs. Otis Osborne served punch.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. G. E. Cox chose a handsome gown of toast crepe with brown accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

After returning from their wedding trip, Captain and Mrs. Crabtree will be at home at 2201 Heard street, Columbus.



Mrs. Crabtree is the daughter of Mrs. G. E. Cox and W. M. McRae of Columbus. She attended the University of Alabama, at Tuscaloosa.

Captain Crabtree is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frank Crabtree of Paul's Valley, Oklahoma. He is intelligence officer at Lawson.

Cub Scout Pack Meeting At Benning School Tonight

Cub scouts from all the Fort Benning dens, their fathers, committees, official guests, den mothers and fathers and other guests will gather tonight in the school auditorium for the first Cub Scout pack meeting of the season.

The program, which is under the general supervision of Lt. Col. A. E. McCormick, program committee chairman, will begin at 7:30 with a display of tree identifications and a selection of the three best den exhibits.

At 7:45 Maj. L. D. Shaw, assistant cub master, will discuss the relationship between parents and cub scouts in his talk on "Parents Meet Your Pack," and at 8 p.m. Lt. Col. C. D. Kepple, cubmaster, will conduct the Bobcats ceremony. At this time all new cubs will be received into the Benning pack.

At 8:15 there will be a presentation of individual awards by Lt. Col. G. S. Standley, followed by an introduction of the official guests, who include Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Chaplain W. M. Hale, Chaplain T. F. McQuire and W. R. Ennis, Jr., scout executive of the Georgia-Alabama Boy Scout council.

All parents and others interested in the Cub Scouts are urged to be present. There will be sign up sheets for each den, and every parent or guest who attends will count one point in the annual Den competition for title of "Outstanding Den, 1948-49, Fort Benning Cub Scout Pack."

Baby Barracks Church Nursery Opened on Post

Baby Barracks celebrated its opening with open house from 2:30 to 5:30 Saturday afternoon, November 20.

Refreshments were served, and parents and children were invited to inspect the nursery and to use it each Sunday morning while they attend any of the religious services.

Baby Barracks, which is located in building 1135, back of Greene hall, is a church nursery for all denominations. It will be open each Sunday morning from 8:30 to 12:30, with two adult mothers to care for the children and direct their activities. It is a modern nursery with ten small baby beds, play pens, toddlers' areas, play areas for children four and five years old, and arts and crafts room for those who are old enough to use the facilities.

Beginning November 21 the one to three year olds in the Protestant Sunday schools will also have their classes in Baby Barracks.

Benning School Youngsters Give Thanksgiving Pageant

On a stage which had been completely transformed into an Indian village, and wearing costumes of the Americans of 300 years ago, the students of Fort Benning Children's school presented a very delightful "Thanksgiving Pageant" Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium. The pageant was written by Mabel Hunter and directed by Mrs. Mary Persing.

Charles Moore as an Indian chief, Michael McCormick as an Indian boy, Pat McNulty as a Pilgrim father, Jerry Pugh as a Pilgrim boy, and Sharon Smith and Mardene Burr as Indian squaws, were quite effective in the leading roles.

Features of the program included an Indian dance by the first grade pupils, songs "Thanksgiving Day" and "Prayer of Thanksgiving" by the glee club, a choral reading "A Good Thanksgiving" by the fifth grade, under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford, and a solo "Indian Lullably" by Sharon Smith.

First grade pupils taking part in the Indian dance were Barbara Ann Wright, Jane Anne Carter, Nancy Blakefield, Marybeth Rosa, Margaret Leahy, Ann Merrill, Michael Yeager, Louise Rashid, Vickie McDowell, Joan Hardenburg, Katherine Nolce, Mary Lynne Stevenson, Ann Gerhart, Tommy Hayes and John Cone.

Indians in the pageant were Bill Luther, Robbie McCormick, Don Huggins, Neil Davis, Jerry Beasley, Sidney Frazier, John Frazier, Bobby Burke, Larry Brown, Roger Burr, Elsie Bonifay, Peggy Thomas, Betty Raymond, Patsy Young, Julie McCoulough, Mardene Burr, Dorothy Frances Dobrosky, Linda Brownfield and Frances Marie McCollum.

The Pilgrims were Donald Torgerson, Betsy Ellen Hueston, Linda Kay Jones, Hal Wilson, Elizabeth Colvin, Barbara Bernard, Mary Ann Freudendorf, Mary Elizabeth Wells, Jack Urban, Patty Johnson, George Douglass, David Kepple and Sammy Burney.

Medical School Grads Become Army Internes

Appointments of medical school graduates to fill 232 Internships in five army teaching hospitals were announced today by Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss army surgeon general.

All the hospitals are approved for such teaching by the council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical association.

Announcement of the assignments of each of these appointees, who were selected from among 800 applicants, will be made shortly.

On July 1, 1949, following receipt of their commissions as reserve first lieutenants, they will go on duty with full pay and allowances. Under the recently evolved graduate professional training program, these young doctors, who have been selected from the top and middle thirds of their medical school classes, will receive a year's rotating internship and will be indoctrinated in the military application of their training. They will be offered the opportunity to apply for regular army Medical corps commissions at the end of their internship. No call to active duty will be made, however, unless the officers specifically request it.

The military internship program was reinstated about a year ago after suspension during the war years.

Large Audience Pleased By Don Cossack Chorus

BY BECKY PORTER

Playing to a large and appreciative audience, the Don Cossack Chorus, under the direction of Nicholas Kostrukoff, opened the Fort Benning concert series last Saturday evening in the Main Theater.

The program, which was divided into three parts, was well balanced with sacred anthems, native folksongs, regimental songs and peasant dances, with something to appeal to everyone in the audience.

In part one, the singers, wearing characteristic Cossack costumes with black tunics in keeping with the tone of the music, presented a series of liturgies and anthems of the Greek Orthodox church, as well as an arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer" in English. Particularly outstanding was the elegy, "Those Evening Bells", a tenor solo sung by V. Kulyk, with the entire chorus providing a humming background.

In part two, the somber note was dropped, the black tunics were exchanged for brilliant red ones, and the sacred music gave way to gay Russian folk song like the "Sieny" sung by the tenor Stanislavsky, and Cossack war songs such as the rousing "Song of General Platoff" with V. Prock, the baritone soloist. This section ended with the "Lezginka", a Caucasian Cossack song and dance, which featured the magnificent Russian toe dance of Tavasieff and the ever thrilling knife dance of Soloduhin.

The mood—as well as the tunics—changed again in part three, which included the satirical "Song of the Flea", the comical soldier's song "Malania", the Russian Soldiers song, which was sung by the chorus without the conductor, and for variety, the sad but very beautiful "Snow Over Russia", with V. Mamonoff as tenor soloist.

The "Kozatchok", national dance of the Don Cossacks, with the dancers Soloduhin, Tavasieff and Lechow trying to outdo each other, provided a fitting climax to a thoroughly enjoyable program.

Gen. Ryder Named Army Civilian Component Chief

Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall announced today the assignement of Maj. Gen. Charles W. Ryder, veteran commander of the IX corps in Japan, as a special assistant to the chief of staff of the army for civilian components.

The appointment conforms to President Truman's executive order of Oct. 18, in which he recommended that the army reserve and national guard programs he accelerated and placed in the hands of "an active, capable, high-ranking officer." General Ryder is considered by the army to meet all these requirements.

Now 56, General Ryder is a veteran of both world wars and saw extensive action in Africa and in Italy as a division and assault force commander before assuming command of the IX corps in September, 1944. In that capacity, he had assembled the corps on Leyte, Philippine islands preparatory to the projected invasion of Japan, when the Japanese surrendered.

A regular army officer, General Ryder is a graduate of the United States Military academy at West Point, N. Y., class of 1915. He was born at Topeka, Kans., Jan. 16, 1892, and was appointed to the military academy from that state on June 14, 1911. General Ryder received his commission as a second lieutenant of infantry on June 12, 1915.

After a period of duty in New York state and Texas, he sailed in November, 1917, with the 16th Infantry for France. He served on occupation duty and in other capacities in that country until his return to the United States in August, 1919.

Following duty at various army installations in this country, he was assigned to China with the 15th Infantry in November, 1929, returning in March, 1933. Among other subsequent assignments, he served as commandant of cadets at the Military academy from June, 1937, to January, 1941, when he became chief of staff of the VI corps upon its reorganization.

In January, 1942, shortly after Pearl Harbor and United States' entry into the war, General Ryder was assigned as assistant commander of the 90th division, one of the first three to be organized under the war expansion program. He became commanding general of the 34th division in May, 1942, and joined it in North Ireland in June.

In July, 1942, he was designated commanding general of the eastern assault force, a combined British-American force of about 40,000 army, air and navy troops which, in the invasion of North Africa, captured Algiers.

General Ryder rejoined the 34th division—which had followed him to Africa—in January, 1943, and commanded it through the Tunisian campaign until the collapse of the Axis army.

Next came the Italian campaing, in which he led the 34th from its landing at Salerno in September, 1943, to July, 1944, including these engagements: capture of Benevento, three forced crossings of the winding Volturno river, the winter advance through the mountains blocking the way to Cassino, smashing of the German line at Cassino, the Anzio beachhead, capture of Rome, and the capture of Leghorn.

After assuming command of the IX corps in September, 1944, he arrived with it in Hawaii en route to the Pacific theater in October, and had led the corps to Leyte when V-J day came.

Unit Inaugurates NCO Classes

The first in a series of bi-weekly classes for newly appointed and potential non-commissioned officers of Company G, Second battalion, 25th Infantry regiment, got under way Tuesday night under the direction of Sgt. 1st cl. Archie Gibbs.

The classes, which will meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m., were organized for the purpose of training non-commissioned officers in the techniques of leadership as well as to prepare them for the army's new career guidance plan. It marks the second time the company has sponsored such a course of study for its personnel.

A faculty comprising the com-pany's top non commissioned officers has been selected to instruct the class. The instructors named and the subjects they will teach are:

Sgt. 1st cl Archie Gibbs, leadership Nov. 2, Nov. 16; Sgt. 1st cl. Grover Hunter, customs of the service, Nov. 18; Sgt. 1st cl. Archie Gibbs, common psychology and administration, Nov. 23; Sgt. 1st cl. James Randolph military courtesy, Nov. 25; Sgt. Thomas Wimberly, military sanitation, Nov. 29; Sgt. 1st cl. Walter Clayton, leadership Nov. 2, Dec. 2, and Sgts. 1st cl. Grover Hunter and Henry Jordan, display of equipment, Dec. 7.

Italy's Top Soldier Sets Benning Visit

Arrives Dec. 13 For 2-Day Tour

The chief of staff of the Italian army, Gen Efisio Marras, is scheduled to visit Fort Benning Dec. 13-15, it has been announced by the Department of the Army.

General Marras' visit to the U. S., at the invitation of Gen. Omar N. Bradley, U. S. chief of staff, is a return visit for the one made by General Bradley to Italy last year.

Italy's top soldier is expected to arrive in Washington on Dec. 2 and will stay in the U. S. approximately 15 days. In addition to Fort Benning, his itinerary includes the Armored Center at Fort Knox, Ky., the U. S. Military academy at West Point, N. Y., and other military as well as industrial centers.

Two army colonels and an Italian army aide and interpreter are expected to accompany General Marras to this country. During his visit in the U. S., Lt. Col. DeMartino, military attache, Italian embassy in Washington, will be with the group. Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., has been detailed as U.S. army aide and tour director.

General Marras will be met by General Bradley at Washington's National airport, and on Friday, Dec. 3, he will visit the Pentagon. At 8 p.m. that evening General Bradley will honor General Marras with an official dinner.

Saturday, Dec. 4, the Italian chief of staff will visit Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal, and the following Monday he will arrive at Fort Knox for a two-day visit.

Following a weekend at Miami, Fla., General Marras will come to Fort Benning, arriving Monday, Dec. 13. That night he will be honored with an official dinner and on Tuesday, Dec. 14, he will be honor guest at a reception.

He will spend three days in New York prior to going to the military academy Saturday, Dec. 18, for a one-day visit.

General Marras will end his visit in Washington on Dec. 22, and prior to departing for Rome will again be honored by General Bradley with a stag luncheon.

Born at Cagliari, Italy, in 1888, General Marras received his commission in the Italian army in 1908. At the outbreak of World War II, he was the Italian military attache in Berlin, and served in that capacity until September, 1943, when he was arrested for his refusal to collaborate with the newly-formed Fascist Republican regime in Northern Italy. On his return to Italy for trial, General Marras escaped to Switzerland.

During the latter part of the war, he returned to Italy to become artillery commander and chief of staff of the Fifth army.

Following the end of the war, General Marras was appointed commander of the III Military Territorial command at Milan, and in January, 1947, he was made chief of the Italian army general staff.

General Marras was awarded the Legion of Merit, degree of commander, by the U. S. in November, 1947.

One of Benning's Original Soldiers Dies On Nov. 25

M-Sgt. (ret.) Frank P. Crosby, 64, among the original troops who established old Camp Benning in 1919, died Thursday, Nov. 25, at 9:35 p.m. at the Station hospital.

Sergeant Crosby, who retired from the army March 31, 1938, had been ill for several weeks.

Born in West Stockbridge, Mass., Jan. 20, 1884, Crosby joined the army in 1910. He served in the calvary with Gen. John J. Pershing in the Philippines and in Mexico. Before being assigned to the newly designated post near Coumbus, he was stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Remaining at Fort Benning for 19 years, Sergeant Crosby served 15 years as post librarian. Following his retirement, he took a civil service job with the post engineers for eight years.

Sergeant Crosby was active in civic affairs and belonged to many organizations. He was a member of the Rose Hill Methodist church, Moulnt Hermon lodge No. 304 of Masons, the Scotish Rite, York Rite and Shrine. He also was past patron of the Augusta Evans chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

At the time of his death, Crosby was chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias, Stonewall Lee lodge, and a member of the American legion.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Margaret Crosby, Columbus; two sisters, Mrs. Kate Hearley Detroit, Mich.; and Mrs. Mae Tarnagni, Brooklyn, N. Y.; two daughters, Mrs. Jack W. Horne, Columbus, and Mrs. Luther Knight, Crown, W. Va., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral was held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Rose Hill Methodist church. The Rev. A. W. Guillian, pastor, and Chaplain Harvey M. Hanlon of Fort Benning conducted the services.

Burial was in Riverdale cemetery, with the Mount Hermon lodge of Masons conducting ritualistic services. Full military honors were paid by a Fort Benning detachment.

Members of the Knights Templar, Saint Aldemar commandry, served as honorary palbearers, with the following active pallbearers:

Sgt. J. O. Willingham, J. C. Knowles, Cecil Darby, Sr., J. G. Strickland, T. T. Vogelgesang and M. C. White.

Army Vehicles To Be Loaned To Post Office

Available vehicles of the army, air force and national guard will be loaned to the Post Office department for the transportation of mail during the Christmas rush season, the Departments of the Army and Air Force announced today.

In the past Fort Benning has furnished vehicles to the Post Office department, and in all probability will follow suit this year, according to local officials.

Postal authorities have estimated that vehicular requirements for the handling of Christmas mail will be slightly greater this year than in 1947, with considerable increases expected in many localities. Both the army and air force may be unable to lend as many vehicles this year because of the needs of the current military expansion program. As a result the national guard will assist in a longer capacity in maintaining rush season mail schedules, officials said.

Board No. 3 Plans Open House Dec. 3

An open house will be held at Army Field Forces board No. 3, Dec. 11, from 9-12 a.m., for families of members of the board and the detachment.

A display, featuring various pieces will be open to families both officers and enlisted men according to board officials.

Purpose of the display is to aquaint families with the type of work the men are doing.

Benning's Rescue Squad Aids Flood-Bound Citizens

Called out last week end when the Chattahoochee river overflowed its banks due to torrential rain, the emergency rescue squad of Company C, 307th Engineer battalion, rescued stranded civilians from islands in the river.

In the first operation last Saturday night, the men were asked to rescue two civilians stranded on 60 Acre island in the river. With the raging water rising so fast, the men were unable to get a boat launched that night. Sunday morning, in another attempt, they were unable to get a line to the island, even though they fired it from a rocket launch.

Called from this island Sunday afternoon to take care of a more serious emergency, this time involving nine people, including a two-months old baby and several women, trapped on Bridge island, they again were unable to get a boat over. Monday morning a navy PBY plane dropped supplies to the beleaguered civilians and later in the morning the crew was able to get eight of the civilians to safety. The ninth declined to be moved from the island.

The crew then moved baek to 60 Acre island and with the help of a helicopter from the Light Aviation section of the Infantry Center were able to rescue the civilians there. Pilot of the helicopter was 1st. Lt. Eugen A. Wilson.

Career Plan In Effect For Army Guard Units

A career guidance plan for enlisted men will be put into effect for army units of the national guard, Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard bureau, has announced.

Objective of the national guard plan is to provide:

(1). A dignified and attractive military career for the part-time civilian soldier with opportunities for advancement limited only by ability and initiative.

(2). An efficient, highly trained non - commissioned officer corps which can be the basis for an even flow of trained, junior commissioned officers to the national guard

(3). Orderly and systematic assignment, training and promotion of enlisted men in the last three grades of recruit, private and private first class.

Under the career guidance program, which is coordinated with the recently announced new three-year training plan, enlisted men of the last three grades will be trained progressively as potential non-commissioned officers.

Personnel in the first four non-commissioned grades would undergo continued and intensive training to become efficient instructors and trained cadremen. Only qualified men would be promoted to these grades.

The following steps will be taken to put the program into effect and determine that the greatest benefits accrue to both the men and the national guard of the United States:

(1). Eligibility lists for promotion to all grades based on individual qualifications will be established.

(2). Guardsmen who have in one enlistment satisfactorily completed the prescribed national guard training programs will be reenlisted with enhanced opportunity for future advancement.

(3). Reenlistment will not be permitted of men who have shown inaptitude, inability or lack of interest in future advancement.

(4). Non-commissioned and potential non-commissioned officers will be encouraged to increase their training, experience and opportunities for advancement through home study, extension courses, unit and service schools, instructor duty and increased responsibility in unit activities.

Unit commanders may promote enlisted men of the last two grades (seven and six) to the next non-commissioned grades (six and five) without regard to position vacancies providing they meet certain minimum requirements.

Whenever practicable, promotions to fill authorized unit vacancies in the non-commissioned grades will be made from an eligibility list of men with "excellent' efficiency ratings who have (a) satisfactorily completed the third year of the national guard training program; (b) had one year of satisfactory service in the next lower grade, or (c) had three years of continuous service in the national guard.

It was also announced that national guard army units will conform to the new grades, titles and insignia established for enlisted men in the army. The new titles become effective Nov. 1, 1948.

The new grades run from first to seven, inclusive, and the equivalent titles are master sergeant; sergeant, first class; sergeant; corporal; private, first class; private and recruit. The first four grades are non-commissioned officers. The three technician grades, third, fourth and fifth, are abolished. The occupational titles of first sergeant and sergeant major are retained.

New enlisted insignia is divided into combat and non-combat types according to organization. Enlisted men assigned to combat-type organizations will wear the combat insignia: blue chevrons against a gold background. Insignia of those assigned to non-combat units will be gold chevrons against a dark blue background.

Local Unit Names Soldiers of Week

Pvts. Robert N. Cobbs, August Hyde and Frank Johnson, Jr., Company G of the 25th Infantry regiment's Second battalion, were named "best soldiers of the week" last Saturday.

Their selection was based on the results of the regular weekly inspection in the company area. Factors considered included performance of duty, soldierly appearance, neatness, cleanness of equipment and ability to answer promptly and correctly questions asked by Capt. Murray D. Whiting, commander of the unit.

Private Cobbs, Washington, D. C., took first place honors and was awarded a traveling kit. Private Hyde, New Orleans, La. and Private Johnson, Dallas, Tex., second and third place winners, received men's toilet kits. The awards were presented by 1st Sgt. Lee A. Graves.

All three men have been in the army less than one year.

Fort Bragg Squad Edges Doughboys

Tilt Closes Slate For Both Teams

Defensive tactics stole the limelight Sunday afternoon as an unbeaten grid eleven from the 82nd Airborne division of Fort Bragg, N. C., closed out its 1948 campaign by splashing through the ankle-deep mud of Doughboy stadium to edge the local gridders 14-0. The tilt also marked the close-out of a nine-game slate for the Doughboys.

Fortifications of the Bragg eleven were spectacular throughout the game as the ponderous forward wall held the Doughs to a minus 16 on yards gained rushing. The Doughmen, after permitting the airborne All-Americans to pick up 182 yards along the surface during the first half, buckled down and limited the North Carolinians to 30 yards in ground gains during the second half.

The outcome of the tussle, however, was a moral victory for the luckless Doughboys of Benning, who had been rated a three to four touchdown underdog.

Rains for the preceding three days had turned the Benning gridiron into a quagmire, and a steady downpour was in progress at the time of the opening kickoff. The precipitation, however, turned into intermittent showers midway through the second quarter, but backs on both squads found trying to hold onto the slippery oval as much of a task as trying to catch a greased porker.

The showers also dampened the spirits of would-be spectators, and the pre-game-estimate of a capacity crowd turned out to be nothing more than a handfull of fans.

	Bragg	Benning
First downs	9	3
Yards gained rushing	212	-16
Passes attempted	1	11
Passes completed	0	5
Yards gained passing	0	27
Passes intercepted by	2	0
Yards runback on intercepted passes	0	0
Punting average of	23	42
Yards lost by Penalties	50	15
Opponent's fumbles recovered	4	4

Neither squad made much headway in its efforts to advance the pigskin during the first period, and several fumbles gave each team an equal opportunity to score.

Only three minutes after the start of the second quarter, Bragg's All-Americans made their first trek into pay territory. With the oval on the Benning 30-yard marker, Don Rattan took a hand-off from Roger Mendivil, went wide around left end behind some stellar blocking, and crossed over the Doughboy goal line standing up. A kick between the uprights by "500" Oden gave the All-Americans a 7-0 lead.

Seven minutes before the half ended, the Braggmen struck again on a play nearly identical to the one which had given them their initial touchdown. Rattan again took the ball from Mendivil, and scooted 11 yards around left end for the score. Again Oden added the point after touchdown by kicking accurately.

While elements of Company I of the 504th Parachute Infantry regiment were staging a half-time exhibition, the Dough defenses became revitalized. Taking the field for the third period, the "Dough defenses became revitalized. Taking the field for the third period, the Doughs stopped the All-American offensive machine cold, and kept the leather in Bragg territory throughout most of the quarter.

In the final stanza, the Doughs started to move, and taking advantage of several long penalties against the All-Americans, penetrated Bragg territory as far as the trooper 15-yard stripe.

After passes from Bill Carter to Bob Easly and Don Hemphill during the drive toward pay dirt had accounted for two of the Doughs' three first downs of the game, the march came to a halt when a toss from Larry Brennan was intercepted by the North Carolinians. Intended for Hemphill, the aerial was gathered in on the two-yard marker by All-American fullback Preston Long.

Following three atempts to advance the leather out of the shadow of their goal post, the Braggmen got a break when Bill Wardell's punt was fumbled by the Doughboys on the mid-field stripe, and the All-Americans recovered.

The tilt was the last of the regular season for both elevens, and left the Fort Bragg airborne crew with an unbroken string of nine victories. In the same number of outings, the Doughboys have been able to crash the win column only three times.

Although all scheduled games for the Fort Bragg squad have been played, plans are in the offing to match the high-flying parachutists against the also-undefeated leathernecks of the Quantico, Va., marine base in a post season game in College Park, Md., on Dec. 18. The marines, who humiliated the Doughs 64-0 earlier this year, and the All-Americans will be battling for the unofficial service championship for the Eastern sector of the United States.

Prior to Sunday's game, the Doughs and All-Americans had played three mutual opponents, the Fort Jackson, S. C., Red Devils, the marines of Parris Island, S. C., and Jacksonville, Fla., naval air station.

In their tussles, the troopers won by scores of 32-0 over the Red Devils, 20-13 over the South Carolina leathernecks, and 12-6 over the Florida air tars. The Doughboys lost to Parris Island 12-0, and to Jacksonville 13-0, but scored a 13-6 triumph over the Fort Jackson aggregation.

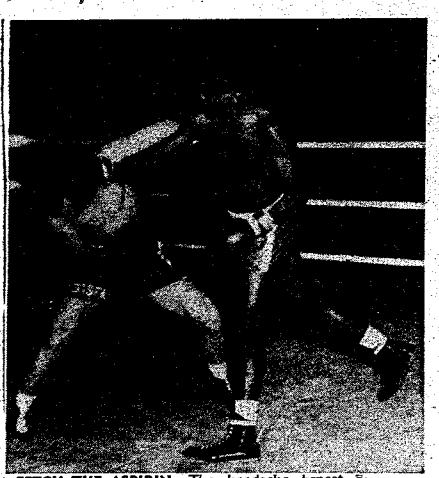
BULLETIN



Fort Benning's volleyball team got past the first round of the annual Third army net tourney at Oliver General hospital in Augusta, Ga., Tuesday night by beating Fort Bragg, N. C., in games of 19-17 and 16-14. The meet is being contested on a double-elimination basis.

Richards Tops Court Scoring With 24 Mean

With two weeks of play in the 1948 post intra-mural court circuit complete, Charles Richards, lanky bucket-shooter of the Infantry School detachment quintet, is pacing the individual scoring parade with a nifty average of 24 points per game.

In three games played by the ISD this season, the speedy courtman has hit the basket for a total of 72 points. As the infantrymen downed the 3440th Area Service unit Medics 71-39 in their first game of the season, Richards swished the cords for 23 counters. He posted the same number of counters when the ISD five romped to a 62-49 decision over the 319th Field Artillery battalion, and dropped in 26 points as his team bombarded the Lawson field Flyers 80 - 45 last Monday night.

It was Edgewood arsenal's gain and Sand hill's loss when versatile Gordon Burke, one of the most outstanding athlete's in the history of the 25th Infantry regiment, was discharged here last week.

However, the star athlete doesn't intend to bring his military career to a close. After spending a short leave at his home in Waterbury, Conn., he plans to reenlist for an assignment at Edgewood arsenal, Md.

During his three-year hitch with the 25th Infantry regiment, Burke proved himself a natural in all of the major sports including baseball, basketball, football and boxing.

As a stellar shortstop with the Bullet diamond nine, his average for each season topped the .300 mark.

Performing as a quarterback with the Sand hill grid eleven, his coolness and knowledge of the game paid off big dividends for the Bullet crew in many of their pigskin outings.

On the hardwood courts, Burke was one of the Bullets' mainstays and top point collectors. He possessed eagle-eyed accuracy on the courts, and his ability to flip in two-pointers from difficult angles made him a favorite of Sand hill fans.

Despite reporting late for court duty during the 1947-1948 season, his sharpshooting brought him a total of 457 points, only 23 less than the team's No. 1 scorer, Gerard Garcia.

Burke sidelined ring activity two years ago in favor of baseball, football and basketball. During his fistic career, however, he gained an enviable reputation as a hard-punching pugilist, who packed a dynamic blow with either hand.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

After Sunday afternoon's 14-0 loss to the All-Americans of Fort Bragg, N. C., an unblessed 1948 Doughboy grid edition was ready to pack its pigskin duds in mothballs for nine months and look ahead to greener pastures next fall.

But, the Monday morning quarterbacks aren't willing to let it go at that.

Those nauseating second-guessers are still at it—offering latent suggestions as to what might have been done to prevent such a hapless season—singing their swan song in every nook and cranny of the post.

A little constructive criticism at the right time and in the right place might have been well taken, but, from our observations, the individuals protesting with the most gusto are the very ones whose absence at the Doughboy games this season made them more than a little conspicious.

Recently we overheard an individual giving it both barrels in panning the Doughboys, and casually asked him if he had seen the game the preceding Sunday. He replied emphatically that he had not, and volunteered the additional information that he could find numerous things better to do on Sunday afternoon than to watch a fooball game.

If that's all the interest the sport holds for this individual, by what token does he consider himself qualified to outline the shortcomings of the Doughboys or any other grid team?

While so many others are doing some non-beneficial second-guessing, we might as well put in our nickel's worth, and say that we believe the biggest single factor contributing the unimpressive record complied by the Doughs this year was lack of support.

This factor manifested itself most last Sunday when the Bragg supporters in Doughboy stadium for outnumbered the Doughboy rooters. Of course, the inclement weather and the fact that Company I of the 504th Parachute Infantry regiment (a component part of a unit whose home station is Fort Bragg) attended the game en masse might partially account for the small Benning attendance. However, we have noticed on numerous other occasions this season that a large part of the Benning stands were filled with "outsiders": that is, people from Columbus and vicinity whose primary objective was seeing a football game, but who took sides with the Doughs because they considered them more or less a local product.

Now, taking into consideration some of the factors normally overlooked in sizing up a football team, let us point out why we think Head Coach Joe Shepherd; his assistants Charles Knudsen, Bill Curran, Carl Meier and Thomas Maertens all the members of the squad, and others, associated with the team have done a wonderful job of salvaging some glory from the 1948 campaign.

Probably the most important thing to take into consideration is the fact that this year's material was neither so plentiful nor so talented as that which the tutoring staff of 1947 had at its finger tips.

When Coach Shepherd took over the Doughboy helm last fall, he sensed a generalized lack of experience on the part of his team candidates, and an issue of the Bayonet shortly before the opening of the season quoted him as saying that he would be "well pleased" if the 1948 edition wound up its campaign with a .500 average.

From the small nucleus of last year's reserves and the determined crop of inexperienced hopefuls, we have watched the Doughboy squad mature into an aggregation which shows plenty of promise and a high degree of team spirit. And if the majority of this year's team members are back for the 1949 campaign, we won't hesitate to predict that they will create more than a little havoc in service team circles.

Another factor which can't be overlooked is the fact that the Doughboys were faced with an extremely gruelling schedule for a relatively inexperienced eleven. Since Benning had long boasted one of the best service crews in the country, it was virtually imperative that the bulk of their 1948 schedule be clashes with other top-ranking service squads.

Summing it all up, we would say that the Doughs have been at a disadvantage this year from the following standpoints: lack of team support, inexperience, a tough schedule and a pronounced shortage of bulk. In their favor, we point to a fighting spirit, good coaching, ability to get along with other team members and coaches and marked strides in adding to their limited amount of experience.

ISD Cagers Beat Flyers In Loop Tilt

An outburst of fancy bucket-shooting by Charles Richards paved the way for the Infantry School detachment cagers to roll over the Lawson field Flyers 80-43 in an intra-mural league tilt in the Main gymnasium on Monday night.

The victory over the Flyers allowed the ISD quintet to remain unbeaten for the campaign, and put them in a tie with the defending champion Airborne battalion for the league lead. Both the Troopers and the ISD now have three consecutive wins to show for their 1948 efforts.

Given an alternative of playing either 10-minute quarters or 20-minute halves, the two coaches decided to play the tiff in four periods.

Although the improved Flyer quintet held the powerful ISD lads to a close score throughout most of the opening stanza, the infantrymen pulled ahead just before the recess, and went into the second quarter holding a 17-9 margin. By the half, the victors had increased their lead to 31-19.

Still boasting a 47-34 edge going into the final quarter, the infantry five, paced by Richards broke loose to rack up 33 counters in 10 minutes of playing time while limiting the Flyers to nine tallies.

Richards' 28 points, registered on 11 field goals and four successful charity tosses, copped individual scoring laurels for the game. Other high scorers for the ISD quintet were Warren Paulk with 14 points, and Bob Williams, who posted 13 digits in the infantrymen's scoring column.

Warren Smith and Jerry Clark accounted for 33 of the Flyers' total with Smith setting the pace by dropping in a total of 18 counters. His score was chalked up on eight tosses from the hardwood court and two from the free-throw stripe, while Clark got his 15 points on seven field shots and a free pitch.

Bullet Crew Meets City Buffalo Herd For Saturday Tiff

The Sand hill Bullet grid eleven will close its 1948 pigskin campaign on Saturday when they meet the rugged Columbus semi-pro Buffalos in a return engagement at Memorial stadium.

Saturday's tussle will be the annual Pearl Harbor day classic between the two squads.

In past encounters, the Bullets have swept the annual two-game series, and will be out to make it a grand-slam victory over the citians again this year. They already have taken the first half of the two-game set, beating the Buffaloes 19-0 earlier in the season.

BOB EASILY—Doughboy of the Week

BOB EASLY IS CHOSEN PLAYER OF THE WEEK

A season-long output of good, steady playing was the key factor in the selection of right halfback Bob Easly as "Doughboy Player of the Week" for the final stretch of the 1949 campaign.

Easly, who was elected game captain for Sunday's tussle with the 82nd Airborne division All-Americans of Fort Bragg, N. C., by his teammates, garnered himself a starter's berth on the Doughboy squad early in the season, and has been outstanding on both defense and offense ever since.

However, to say that the scrappy 175-pound ball-handler didn't wind up the season in a blaze of glory would not do justice to his accomplishments during Sunday's 14-0 Bragg victory. Playing in the Dough secondary on defense, Easly was responsible for dropping Bragg ballcoters on several occasions after they had managed to slither past the Benning forward barrier.

Offensively, Easly threw some key blocks and was on the receiving end of two of the Doughboys' five completed passes. However, he had the same trouble experienced by the other Dough ball-handlers—that of being unable to hold on to the slippery oval and move with agility through two inches of slushy mud.

Easly, a member of Headquarters and Headquarters company of the 32?th Infantry regiment, who has just completed his first season with the Doughmen, lives in Fort Worth, Tex., where he attended and played football with North Side high school.

Pint-Sized Boyd Paces Sand Hill Rockets To Win

Led by pint-sized Charles Boyd the Sand hill Rockets, representing the 25th Infantry regiment and the 999th Field Artillery battalion, strengthened their bid for intra-mural cage honors by bombarding the 319th Field Artillery battalion quintet 66-36 in the Main gym Monday night.

Boyd, the smallest player on the Rocket starting five, had little difficulty in hitting the basket from all angles, and dropped in 12 court shots to annex individual scoring honors for the game with a total of 24 points.

Their win over the artillerymen was the second of the intra-mural campaign for Rockets, whose only loss this season came in their opening tilt with the defending post champion Airborne battalion quintet.

Getting off to a fast start in Monday night's contest, the Rockets hit the hoop for eight counters before their opponents were able to put a dent in the scoring column.

By the halftime intermission, the Sand hill crew had tallied 32 points, while holding the 319th quintet to 15.

Although the Rockets' diminutive forward didn't figure too heavily in the first half scoring, he was credited with sinking no less than two thirds of the Sand hill gang's court shots in the final period.

Topping the scoring roster for the 319th Field Artillery lads was Philip (Cherokee) Smith, who dunked six field goals and two charity tosses for a total of 16 points.

Gloves Champ Takes A Bride

Lawrence Jones, popular 3440th Area Service unit middleweight boxer, made Thanksgiving day, 1948, one of his most memorable holidays by marrying Miss Deborah Persons of Columbus.

Jones won post honors and a berth on the Doughboy boxing squad which represented Fort Benning in the Third army ring tournament last year. He took the championship in his weight class in the army tournament at Fort Bragg, N. C., and went on to compete in the 1947 Chicago National Golden Gloves classic.

The newly-married champ will make his 1948 intra-mural bid Friday night in what promises to be a long remembered event. "The Kid", as the colorful pugilist dubs himself, meets hard-hitting Cliff Wilburn, a 25th Infantry regiment contender and a formidable opponent.

Mrs. Jones a cousin of M-Sgt Joe L. Persons, of Company H, 25th Infantry, who has served a total of nine years at Benning.

72nd Army Band Slated For Reorganization Here

A reorganization of the 72nd Army band to bring the musical unit up to a strength of 56 men and two warrant officers has been ordered by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander.

A special requisition for qualified personnel to augment the present strength of the band is being submitted to Third army, it has been revealed.

AP All-American Squad Represents Eleven Schools

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(AP)—Despite college football's continued trend in 1948 towards subordinating the individual to the team, heroic performers stood out across the land to constitute The Associated Press All-America.

But unlike past All-Americas, no college in 1948 contributes more than one man to the first eleven, not even those great power teams, Michigan and Notre Dame.

Three 1947 first team men are back — Bill Fischer of Notre Dame at tackle; Chuck Bednarik of Pennsylvania at center; and Doak Walker of Southern Methodist in the backfield.

Geographically the All-America reflects the middle west's domination of the sport. Four from the first team come from that area, two from the east, two from the south, two from the southwest, and one from the Pacific coast.

Virtually all the several hundred Associated Press staff writers, newspaper sports editors and broadcasters who joined in nominating the team agreed on five men — Dick Rifenburg of Michigan at end, Buddy Burris of Oklahoma at guard, Halfback Charlie Justice of North Carolina, Fischer and Walker.

The rest of the first team members had sharper competition for their posts — Barney Poole of Mississippi at end, Leo Nomellini of Minnesota at tackle, Rod Franz of California at guard, Bednarik at center and Backs Bobby Jack Stuart of Army and Art Murakowski of Northwestern.

Michigan, Notre Dame and California, rightfully, are the only teams to place men on more than one team. In addition to Rifenburg at first team end, Michigan is represented in the second team backfield with its sophomore sensation, Charles Ortmann, of whom great things are predicted.

Back of Notre Dame's Fischer is Emil Sitko in the second team backfield and Leon Hart at third team end, all sterling performers.

California's Jack Jensen, a highly-regarded back, is on the third team with Franz on the first.

Two Platoon System

Sharpest argument this year over bestowing All-America honors centered on the merit of recognizing men who played only offense or defense under the spreading "two platoon" system.

Separate defensive and offensive All-American first teams were proposed. Should the present cleavage widen this could become a possibility. For the present, however, to deny acclaim to men such as Justice, Rifenburg and Stuart merely because they were used primarily on offense seems unfair. All are great enough athletes to play defense if needed.

The rest of the first team is made of men used throughout the game.

As might be expected at all ends of a highly successful college football season during which no first rate team went unscored on, and the greatest emphasis was put on offense, contention for backfield honors was keen.

The entire second team backfield—Clyde Scott of Arkansas, Ortmann of Michigan, Sitko of Notre Dame, and Johnny Rauch of Georgia—is of first team caliber.

Walter Stewart, who has watched plenty of ball carriers from his vantage point in Memphis, Tenn., says of Scott that "we have never studied an athlete who could buck into the line with such dazzling velocity —with so little lost motion and so much high-kneed venom."

Leading the first team backfield are probably the only genuine, dyed - in - the - wool triple - threat all-round performers left in this day of specialists—Charlie Justice of North Carolina, a 165-pound throwback to the days of infrequent substitutions, and Doak Walker of S. M. U., three pounds heavier. Both run, pass, and punt— and block and tackle as well, when necessary.

Justice, a 24-year-old junior, who was in the Navy during the war and is married and the father of a young son, is modest off field, but a terror on it. "His play and leadership are inspiration," says his coach, Carl Snavely. Typical of his versatile play was his performance against Georgia, defeated by North Carolina, 21-14.

Justice Scored Three

Justice scored all three touchdowns, one on an 84-yard punt return. He completed 18 out of 22 passes for 198 yards, and averaged 42.5 yards on four punts.

Justice is a tricky runner, accomplishing by shiftiness and hip-weaving what others do with bull strength.

Art Murakowski, on the other hand, gains ground through terrific speed and strength. This 195-pound powerhouse of Northwestern's backfield splits opposing lines wide open, and once in the clear he cannot be handled down. He plays both offense and defense, is 23 years old, served in the Navy, including rough action on a destroyer mine layer at Okinawa.

"Murakowski has terrific speed," says his coach, Bob Voigts, "and he's as good a defensive back as there is in the Big Nine Conference today. He's exceptionally fine on trap plays and his speed makes him very good on end sweeps."

Darling of Texas is Doak Walker of Southern Methodist, a 21-year-old junior. "He is one of the greatest players of all time in the southwest, and matches smartness and courage against power," says his coach, Matty Bell.

In the first eight games of the season Walker carried the ball 83 times for 442 yards, passed 37 times with 23 completions for 238 yards and six touchdowns, and averaged 43.4 yards on 23 punts. He returned eight punts for 132 yards, caught 11 passes for 256 yards and three touchdowns.

Walker resembles Justice as a runner, using his interference effectively and feinting tacklers out of position.

Fourth member of the first team backfield is a solid hard-running successor to Glenn Davis at West Point—Bobby Stuart, five feet, eleven inches and 175 pounds. He has to his distinction one of the longest of all touchdown runs—103 yards —an important factor in his team's 26-20 defeat of Pennsylvania.

"He is a great team player, with spirit and drive," says Coach Earl Blaik of Army. Playing his last year at the Point, he had a net gain of 826 yards by rushing before the Navy game, averaging 7.5 yards for each try.

At end is the star of one of the nation's great teams—Dick Rifenburg of Michigan. He is a six foot, three inch, 197-pound senior, the standout on a squad where the level was so high that individual merit often was lost. In Big Nine conference play, the toughest there is, he gained more than 300 yards on passes, scoring four touchdowns, and made 72 yards in ten end-around rushes.

Rifenburg's ability to get behind the secondary, plus his catching skill, is the basis of his playing style. A long-striding runner, he made many over-the - shoulder and off-balance catches.

Seventh Year for Poole

At the other end is George Barney Poole, the same height as Rifenburg but weighing 220 pounds. This is his seventh and last year of college football. He played one year as a Marine V-12 trainee at North Carolina, three at West Point with the great teams of 1944-46, and three at Mississippi.

His experience gives him an edge on his opponents. Between plays he seems almost sluggish and uninterested, conserving his energy for action. On defense, he can crash into opposing backfields almost before the ball is snapped, and as a pass receiver his size and speed make him a terror. "He's a great football player," says Coach Johnny Vaught.

LEE ME IN—James Holmes, sitting on ready, sticks close to his opponent, the Airborne battalion's Lee Adams as the parachutist takes a nose dive out of the enclosure during their middleweight scrap in the Main gym last Friday night. Holmes, representing the Sand hill Rockets, won the Class IV bout from Adams by decision.

Infantry Fighters Move To Top In Pugilist Loop

Garnering a total of 80 points, the 325th Infantry regiment smatched the lead from the Airborne battalion in the season's second intra-mural boxing program held at the Main gym last Friday night.

Eight hundred excited fight fans were kept in suspense throughout 12 thrill-packed bouts which stimulated their desires for fast action. The card for the evening was highlighted by two knockouts and three technical kayoes.

The pace was set early in the program with a second-round knockout in one minute and 15 seconds. The victor was junior lightweight Billy Willis, who won over Gerald Williams, 319th Field Artillery battalion 119-pounder. Willis, a class V fighter, is a member of the 325th Infantry regiment team.

Of the five class V bouts, three were won by the Rockets, the name for the consolidated 999th Field Artillery battalion- 25th Infantry regiment team.

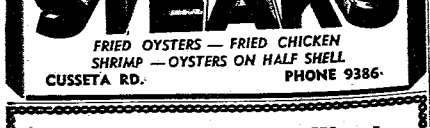
The wind started blowing the Rockets' way when junior welterweight John Dorsey, who appeared to be in better physical condition than his opponent, Roger Beaudette of the Airborne battalion, won by decision over the paratrooper.

Following up Dorsey's start, the Rockets' Trust Brown, weighing in at 160 pounds, stopped another 'chutist, Herman Lang, by technical knockout in the second period when he opened a deep cut under Lang's eye.

Continuing to chalk up points, the Rockets took their third win through light heavyweight James Knox's second-round TKO of Charles Barry of the 3440th Area Service unit. The fight was stopped by the referee on the grounds that Knox outclassed his opponent, and recommended that the Rocket entry be reclassified.

Fans rose to their feet to cheer the first-round rush with which the 325th Infantry regiment's middleweight Dan Matthews and the Airborne battalion's Winfred Cockrell came together for a blow-for-blow exchange which lasted the length of the period. The decision finally was given to trooper Cockrell.

Class IV contenders also proved susceptible to kayo and TKO fever when the Airborne battalion's Lloyd Gaunt earned a victory by technical knockout over Raymond Hughes of the 319th Field Artillery battalion after putting a cut over Hughes' eye.



Excitement reached a still higher peak when bout No. 7 brought Rullio Lopez, lightweight from the 319th Field Artillery battalion, and Lou Prolago, of the Airborne battalion together in a return go. Lopez made a good showing, and appeared definitely improved since his previous week's scramble which went to Prolago by decision. The trooper turned the tables to win in the same manner from Prolago Friday night.

Welterweight Odie Powell, of the 325th Infantry regiment then won by decision over Jimmy Brown of the Rockets, and the Sand hillers suffered another class IV loss when the 319th's James Jones got the nod over Earnest Brown in the ninth bout of the evening.

Middleweight James Holmes partially offset the Rockets' losses by winning a decision over the Airborne's Lee Adams after having sent Adams into a nose dive over the ropes to land headdown on the ring apron.

Rekindling the excitement of the earlier part of the evening, light heavy-weight Joe Klock of the 325th Infantry regiment gained a slight edge over his opponent, the 3440th's Tex Mitchell in the first round. He maneuvered Mitchell to the ropes in the second, and into position for a haymaker that sent the ASU boy toppling over the ropes to land unconscious on the gym floor in the final class IV bout.

Keeping excitement at a high level, Fernando Aguilar, the 325th's welter-weight main-go winner of the previous week, came back for a repeat performance in another main event, this time against Walter Mason of the Rockets.

Famous Monickers Dot Post Personnel Rosters

If athletic officials at Benning had taken a look at last month's reenlistment rosters, they probably would have gone to work and scratched boxing from the post sports agenda.

And who can blame them when the rosters listed the name of Jack Dempsey

However, after a bit of research, personnel of the recruiting office discovered that the Jack Dempsey listed wasn't the Manassa Mauler at all, but just another wearer of o.d., who was convinced that the army offers a pretty good deal.

A glance at the rosters of Fort Benning would find many other soldiers on the post bearing the same names as many Americans prominent in history, sports and legend.

In the world of sports, Fort Benning has soldiers bearing such names as Joe Gordon, who plays second base for the World champion Cleveland Indians; Paul Dean, a former pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, and Dick McCormick, who was a great middleweight boxer during the gay nineties era.

Who will ever forget the deeds of that famous old railroad man, Casey Jones? The pilot of "Ol' Number 99," who became one of the legends of early America, also has a namesake here at Benning.

Benning has many other men bearing names of men famous in American history and the American way of life. Appearing on the rosters here are such names as Tom Paine, Walter Scott, Woodrow Wilson, John Brown, Jimmy Stewart and others too numerous to mention.

Besides being the "world's most complete military post," Fort Benning can also claim the distinction of having some of the most famous names in America on its personnel rosters.

Cage Tourney Being Mapped For Local Unit

A round-robin basketball tournament, which will bring together the top hardwood talent of the Second battalion of the 25th Infantry regiment, is scheduled to get under way Monday afternoon in the battalion's Sand hill recreation hall.

With all of the battalion's companies boasting an array of agile sharpshooting youngsters, not too far removed from high school days, competition in the loop is expected to be keen.

Only teams fielded by companies of the battalion will be permitted to play in the tournament, with each of the five participating units meeting on the court three times during the course of activity. At the close of the meet, the winner and runner-up teams will be matched for a best-two-out-of-three game series to determine the battalion championship.

Companies to be represented in the meet are Headquarters company, Company E, Company F, Company G and Company H.

Knox Eleven Edges Bullets In 13-8 Fray

Thanksgiving Clash Features Jaunts Of Bradford, Tindrell

By BOB PHILLIPS

Dazzling running on the part of two Bullet speed demons, Cliff Bradford and Phil Tindrell, wasn't enough as an air-minded Fort Knox eleven pitched themselves to a savagely-fought 13-8 Turkey Day win over the Sand hill grid delegates in Doughboy stadium.

Although outscored, the Bullets could hardly be considered outplayed since, after yielding 13 points to the heavier Kentucky crew during the first half, it buckled down to bottle up every offensive effort of the Knoxmen during the second half.

The Bullets supplemented their last-half defensive showing by pushing over a touchdown.

Before the game was three minutes old the Bullets went ahead 2-0. Repeated gains by Bradford, Tindrell and Hudie Langston, plus a 34-yard punt return by Gardon Burke moved the oval down to the Kentucky 10-yard stripe where the Bullets lost possession on downs. But when Billy Anderson of the Tankers attempted to retrieve a low pass from center, the ball rolled beyond the end zone where Leroy (Doc) Garvin and Bob Murphy were on hand to flop on the ball if necessary.

The lads from the blue grass country quickly realized that penetrating the Bullet forward wall was virtually impossible, and decided to utilize their passing combine of "pitching" John Pennix and Arnold Redman.

The aerial combination clicked in fine fashion when Redman took a 50-yard heave from Pennix on the 16-yard stripe, and galloped the rest of the way into the Bullet end zone unmolested.

Before the Bullets could recover from the jolt of the initial Knox touchdown, the Tankers struck again. On this occasion, Redman had stationed himself firmly in the Bullet end zone, and was waiting for Pennix's toss. The try for conversion clicked this time, and the half ended with a 13-2 count favoring the Knoxmen.

The Bullets came storming back during the early stages of the third period, and uncorked an air-tight passing attack of their own. Tindrell took Anderson's punt on the mid-field stripe, and sprinted 25 yards into Tanker territory. Bradford then carried the oval down to the 15 before Gene Thomas, who has recently gained the reputation of being a glue-fingered, pass-snatching artist, gathered in a toss from Burke on the 10-yard marker, and advanced the remaining distance standing up.

When the try for the point after touchdown failed, the Bullet total stood at eight.

Still fighting back, the Sand hill eleven quickly worked up another threat when they suddenly appeared on the visitors' seven-yard line before the Knox crew took over on downs.

The onslaught was again sparked by Bradford and Tindrell, but the most thrilling individual performance of the Bullet march toward pay dirt came when Thomas made a one-handed stab of one of Burke's pitches, and moved the ball to the seven-yard marker. Previously Bradford had twisted his way downfield for 31 yards, and Tindrell had reeled off a 25-yard run.

Statistics for the game showed that the Bullets topped the Knoxmen in every department except passing. Passes tossed by the Kentucky squad netted 133 yards while the Sand hill crew advanced the leather only 47 yards by using the air lanes.

Flashy running on the part of the Bullets' array of shifty backs put them out in front as far the running game was concerned with a total gain of 258 yards as compared to 131 for the Knoxmen. The huge ground gains compiled by the Bullets netted them a total of 15 first downs, seven more than their victorious rivals.

More than 1,000 fans attended the Thanksgiving tilt which was billed as the Bullet homecoming affair of the 1948 campaign.

Hotshots Retain Lead in Kegling For TIS Class

Gaining a 2-2 split on the points at stake in their match with the Woodpeckers last Wednesday afternoon, keglers of the Hotshot team of the Infantry School's advanced officers' class No. 1 held the top spot in the class's bowling loop.

The only squad in the eight-team circuit, however, to chalk up the majority of its tallies in the win column last week was the None-Ups, who took three of the possible four counters from the cellar-dwelling Choppers. In other contests, the second-place Strikers split four tallies with the Alleycats, and the Pinpickers divided their quartet of points evenly.

Although he failed to figure in the high scoring picture for the week, Mark Jensen of the Hotshots retained his No. 1 rating on the individual roster with a nine-game average of 187. His mean, however, did take a 10-point dip from the preceding week, when he boasted a nifty 197 average.

The high individual game of the week, a line of 200, was chalked up by Robert B. Walker, and Worthy Cunningham was second with a game of 198. For the three-game series of the week, Frank Gabriel was high with a total of 530, and the runner-up was Melvin Sowards with a pinfall of 524.

In the team series department, the None-Ups dropped a total of 2,307 pins in three games to take top honors.

Tulane Smashes Plans for 2nd Orange Bowl Go

Plans for a proposed "second Orange Bowl" matching Santa Clara and Tulane were smashed today when Tulane Athletic Director Horace Renegar insisted he was "not considering any bowl bid."

Objecting to the selection of thrice-beaten, once-tied Texas as Georgia's opponent in the Orange Bowl gave birth to the plan for a second game, to be played the night of Jan. 1. Santa Clara athletic director Dennis Heenan said in Santa Clara, Cal., he had been extended an invitation by telephone.

However, Renegar said, "The Southeastern Conference has a rule prohibiting participation in any save the Sugar, Cotton or Orange Bowls. We voted for that rule and we certainly do not intend to ask the conference to modify it. We are not considering any bowl bid."

Termites Trim Ordnance Clan

The 328th Ordnance battalion grid eleven bowed to Choppy's Termites, the Columbus sandlot champions for the past three years, 14-6 in a Thanksgiving day charity tilt at Memorial stadium.

Driving 78 yards the first time they claimed the pigskin, the Termites got off to an early start after a 328th quick kick rolled dead on the 22-yard line. Halfback Donald Robinson picked the ball up, pulled a tricky reverse to shake himself loose, and ran the remaining distance around the left side for a goal.

Skeeter Raines kicked the extra point from placement, and also converted again after the second Termite touchdown.

Putting themselves back in the game in the fourth period, the ordnancemen took over on the second play of the period when Ray Berstrom snatched a long 33-yard aerial heaved by Ed Gravely, and romped across the goal line.

Retaliating immediately after the kickoff, the Termites scored their second goal as Robinson, taking a handoff from Dale Fleming, found a hole at right guard and came through untouched in a 65-yard run.

The Termites stopped the Ordnance eleven in their 29th consecutive win minus the services of Clyde Smith, regular left tackle, who was hospitalized recently after an appendicitis attack.

Along with his two payoff runs Robinson came through in the second period with a 31-yard gallop.

Ed Smith starred in defensive play, while further assistance was given Robinson in the running game by Will Pennell, Fleming and Hugh Mullins.

Ordnanceman Bill Kantak stood out, along with Gravely, who tossed the TD pass: Leonard Zanowicz, and Dick Weymouth.

The tilt, the finale of the 1948 season for the ordnance gridders, was played as a charity game to benefit the Community Chest fund and the Beallwood Boys' club of Columbus. The 328th's share of the proceeds went to further the Community Chest project while the Termites yielded their share of the gate to the city boys' organization.

Highly outclassed in most of their 1948 outings, the ordnancemen were able to salvage only one tie from a seven-game slate. After playing the Draper prisoners of Speigner, Ala., to a 6-6 deadlock in their season's opener, the local soldier crew dropped six straight contests.

Win Gives Chutist Cagers Loop Top

The Airborne battalion court quintet took over undisputed command of the intra-mural cage circuit in the Main gymnasium last Tuesday night by humbling the Medics of the 3440th Area Service unit 76-24 in the nightcap of a two-game program.

Their smashing victory over the Medics gave the Troopers an unbroken string of three triumphs for the still young 1948 campaign. Previous airborne victories were over the Sand hill Rockets and the 325th Infantry regiment.

By winning their first three starts of the season, the parachutists strengthened their chances of successfully defending their post cage title of last year.

The bucket-shooting troopers went into the lead in the early seconds of the game, and held the upper hand throughout the contest.

Although the defending champs were on the high end of a 31-14 count at the half, their real display of potency came during the final stanza when they tallied 45 points while holding the twice-beaten Medics to 10 scores.

Leading the scoring-fest for the airborne quintet was Joe Setley, a newcomer to the squad this year, who dropped in 10 field buckets and three gratis heaves for a total of 23 points. Vern Griffin, another lad seeing his first year of service with the chutist five, also was high on the scoring roster with seven fruitful efforts from the court and two from the free throw line for 16 counters.

Scoring column digits racked up by the Medic cagers were not very impressive, but the top spot went to Sam Payne, who hit the hoop for two field goals and an equal number of charity heaves for a total of six points.

Basic airborne courses No. 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 have been extended one week, it has been announced by Infantry School officials. Cause of the extension was declared to be bad flying weather and the Thanksgiving

Infantrymen Nip Trucker-Quintet In Cage Contest

Trucker cagemen of the 204th Transportation battalion slipped out of a tie with the Airborne battalion Troopers for the lead in the post intra-mural basketball league last Tuesday night when they dropped a close 43-41 verdict to the 325th Infantry regiment quintet.

The 204th hoopsters had previously taken tilts from Lawson field and the 310th Field Artillery battalion to give them an unmarred record for the early stages of the intra-mural campaign.

Although the Truckers stayed within striking distance of the infantrymen throughout the contest, they trailed the surprisingly strong 325th quintet during most of the first half, and were unable to grab the lead at any time during the final period.

The Truckers picked up a slight margin during the opening seconds of the tilt, but started to lag mid-way through the first half. By intermission, the infantrymen had pulled ahead 27-24.

A splurge early in the final period deadlocked the Truckers with the 325th lads at 33-33, but the infantry five soon moved in front again, and set the pace for the remainder of the game.

Scoring for the 325th Infantry cage delegation was paced by George Campbell, who dunked six shots from the floor and made good three attempts from the charity line for a 15-point total, and by Bob Phillips, who chalked up 14 tallies on four goals and six free tosses.

Big Jim Cowley topped the scoring heap for the Truckers with a total of 10 points.

Group Assigned Duties In Academic Department

Three Infantry School detachment enlisted men were assigned duties with the academic department on Nov. 12, officials have announced.

Pfc. Jesse L. Buchanan was assigned to the assistant commandant's office, M-Sgt. Forrest R. Parker to the Automotive section and Sgt. Chester W. Huff to the field printing plant.

Boxing Picture Brighter As 1947 Champ Re-Ups

Fort Benning's popularity as a post of choice with reenlistees rates high among athletes, as proven by the recent return of Lawrence Jones, 1947 Third army middleweight champ.

Jones reenlisted here last week for the 3440th Area Service unit for duty as an athletic and recreation NCO with the post special services office.

The champ's ring background dates back to his grammar school days when his earliest efforts consisted chiefly of school contests. And Jones says he suffered few loses. At the age of 15, he decided to try his hand at the game in a more serious way so he started paying frequent visits to Turner's arena and the Liberty Athletic Club gymnasium in his home town of Washington, D. C. There, under the guiding hand of many prominent professionals, Larry picked up the pointers that he eventually developed into his present colorful, wisely aggressive, fast and menacing style.

Boxing comes natural to the 25-year - old champ, who is the son of an old pro well known in pugilistic circles as Eddie Jones. A featherweight, Eddie Jones rose from the ranks during the period 1914 — 1925 to a position among the top 10 in his class.

Along with his reputation as a fighter, Jones sports a fine record as a soldier, beginning his army career in June, 1943. he went through the usual routine of basic training, replacement training, and preparation for overseas movement. In February of that year, he was ordered to the Fort Meade, Md., Replacement depot for shipment to the European theatre, and landed in Scotland in March 1944.

His army boxing career started as soon as he became settled in a unit, and continued throughout his stay in the ETO.

He saw action with the 78th Infantry division in Germany and now wears the Combat Infantry badge, the Purple Heart, and four battle stars on the European Theater ribbon.

Returning to the U. S. in November, 1945, for processing and discharge, Jones reenlisted immediately upon being mustered out, for another duty tour in the ETO.

After returning to the U. S. again in November, 1946, he was assigned to the Second battalion as the 25th Infantry regiment where he continued his boxing and competed in the 1946-47 tournaments at Fort Benning. His service with the unit was continuous except for a short time spent with the Sixth army at Fort Lewis, Wash., after which he was returned to Benning for discharge.

Entering the 1947 intra-mural boxing program as a member of the 25th Infantry Rockets, Jones fought his way up to and won the post middleweight championship, and became a member of the Fort Benning Doughboy team competing in the Third army tournament at Fort Bragg, N. C.

By defeating Eugene England of the 82nd Airborne division, and Spurgeon Griffin, the First army champion, who remained undefeated in 1945, 1946 and 1947, the Doughboy middleweight took the Third army crown with him to Chicago for a crack at the National Golden Gloves title. He secured the position of runner - up by defeating Sammy Davis, the Chicago light heavyweight champ of the 1945 and 1946 Golden Gloves classic. Davis now holds the 1948 light heavyweight championship.

Jones' determined rise ended when he lost by a close decision to Robert Jarrett, middleweight champ of the ETO, in their championship go in Chicago. It was Larry's 65th encounter.

Recruit Training Head Appointed Unit Executive

Lt. Col. Thomas R. Yancey has been named executive officer of the 325th infantry regimental combat team, replacing Lt. Col. Arden C. Brill, newly named commander of the Infantry School detachment, it has been revealed.

Colonel Yancey has been the commanding officer of the 325th Infantry training battalion that has been deactivated.

Colonel Yancey enlisted in the army as a private in 1928, seeing his first service with the 35th Infantry division of the Missouri national guard. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1933.

Following attendance at the Command and General Staff college in 1941 he was assigned to Headquarters, Northern Defense area in Walla Walla, Wash., in 1942. After six months' service there he was named assistant G-2 of the Amphibious corps of the Pacific fleet. From 1943 until 1945 he was with the Fifth Amphibious corps as G-2. He spent a year in Quantico, Va., at the Marine base's Amphibious Warfare Schoo lprior to coming to Fort Benning last July. He then was named commanding officer of the 325th training battalion.

During the war Colonel Yancey participated in the campaigns for Kiska, Kwajalein, Saipan, Tarawa, Guam and Okinawa and was with occupation troops in Japan. He has been awarded the navy's Legion of Merit, with gold cross in lieu of a second medal, the Bronze Star, Purple Heart, Secretary of the Navy Citation, American Defense medal, American Theater medal, Pacific Theater medal, Victory medal, Occupation medal and Presidential Unit citation.

Parade Honors General Shepard

Medal of Honor Winner At TIS

Far removed from the vexations of war in which they received the nation's highest military honor, two holders of the Congressional Medal of Honor, Capt. Robert S. Scott and Capt. C. Van T. Barfoot, are now students at the Infantry School here.

A native of Sante Fe, New Mexico, Captain Scott was awarded the CMH for heroism in the Solomons campaign, while Captain Barfoot, Edinburg, Miss., received his award for gallantry in action at Carano, Italy. Both are assigned to the Student Training regiment.

A graduate of the University of New Mexico, Captain Scott was commissioned in September, 1942, after graduating from Officer Candidate School. With the 172nd Infantry regiment of the 43rd Infantry division during the war, he participated in the campaigns in the Northern Solomons and New Guinea.

Captain Scott was cited for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity near Munda air strip, New Georgia, Solomon islands, on July 28, 1943. After 27 days of bitter fighting, the enemy held a hill top salient which commanded the approach to Munda a second lieutenant) advanced with the leading platoon of his company to attack the enemy position, rushed forward alone to a point midway across the barren hilltop within 75 yards of the enemy. Enemy riflemen charged out on the plateau, firing and throwing grenades as they moved to engage the American troops. The company withdrew, but Captain Scott stood his ground and momentarily stopped the enemy advance with grenades and rifle fire although wounded in the arm and head. His action enabled the troops to capture Munda Air Strip."

Captain Barfoot, who was commissioned on the battfield in Italy, served with the 157th Infantry regiment of the 45th Infantry division in Sicily, Naple-Foggia, Rome-Arno, Anzio, and southern France.

Then a technical sergeant, Captain Barfoot was awarded the CMH for "conscuous gallantry on May 23, 1944, near Carano, Italy. With his platoon heavily engaged during an assault against forces well entrenched on commanding ground, Captain Barfoot moved off alone upon the enemy's left flank. He crawled near a German machine nest, and made a direct hit with a hand grenade Continuing along the German defense line he continued to mop-up gun emplacements and machine - gun nests of the enemy single-handed. After his mop-up activities, he reorganized his men for a counter-attack. Securing a bazooka, he put the leading tank out of action, and continued onward into enemy terrain to destroy an abandoned German field piece with a demolition charge. Though fatigued from his efforts, on return to his platoon he assisted two seriously injured men 1,700 yards to safety. During his raid on the enemy he killed seven, wounded several more and captured 17 German soldiers."

21 Men Arrive Here For Duty In Hospital Unit

Officials of the 121st Evacuation hospital have announced the arrival of 21 enlisted men during the past week.

Included in the group are 18 men who have just completed basic training with the 325th Infantry Training battalion.

Arriving for duty with the unit last week were Cpl. Samuel Davis, who has been assigned to ward duty at the Station hospital, Sgt. Tremphen A. Cruse, who has been assigned duties as special services NCO, and Pvt. Harris Alderman.

Recruits assigned to the unit include Charles J. Noack, John P. Gravallese, John F. Markle, William A. Ireland, Lawrence A. Bennett, Curtis W. Knudsen, John C. Meyers, Francis V. Dziennik, Kenneth W. Stahl, Paul L. Healy, Joseph A. Lefebrve, William E. Magers, Michael O. Blutgen, Ralph Kurtz and Robert V. Williams.

Association Appointee

Sgt. Daniel H. Revill, Army Field Forces board No. 3, has been appointed to the associate board of directors of the Fort Benning Fish and Game Maintenance association, it was announced Nov. 12 by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center.

Civilian Assigned To Entomologist Post at Benning

Robert Z. Page, former naval entomologist, was named post entomologist Nov. 15, it was announced this week by Col. Harold A. Stewart, Infantry Center engineer.

Mr. Page's duties will be supervision and execution of insect and rodent control measures, including prevention of fly breeding, termite control, drainage of swamp areas, application of insecticides in buildings, disinfecting and protecting grassed areas, trees and shrubs and larvicieding for insect control.

The new entomologist, who served as naval officer in the Pacific during World War II, is a graduate of San Diego college. While there, he studied several special courses, such as general, special and medical entomology, parasitology and bacteriology.

During his five years in the navy, he was engaged for one year in control work for the elimination of mosquito breeding places, with corollory experience in the elimination of flies, ants, ticks, termites and other obnoxious insects at the Naval Air Training center, Corpus Christi, Tex.

He also did six months of special work in rodent survey and elimination in connection with a national study of diseases borne by rodents.

88 ROTC Cadets Made Regulars

RUTH ALFORD

Regular army commissions as second lieutenants have been given 88 distinguished military graduates chosen from among 456 ROTC students of 85 of the nation's colleges and universities who were graduated last June, the Department of the Army announced today.

As distinguished military graduates, these former ROTC students are eligible for selection for appointment in the Regular army upon application, provided they are physically qualified. Those remaining among the 456, who have not yet applied for or accepted the tender of a regular service commission, may do so at any time not later than six months after graduation.

Prior to graduation all students enrolled in the senior division of ROTC are eligible for selection as distinguished military students during the course of the final academic year. Professors of military science and tactics base selections of such students on the following high standards:

That the student

1—Have outstanding qualities of military leadership, high moral character and definite aptitude for military service.

2—Have distinguished himself either academically or by demonstrated leadership through his accomplishments while participating in recognized campus activities.

3 — Have completed, or be scheduled to complete, the advanced course, senior division, ROTC, within one school year, and 4—Have a standing in military subjects among the upper third of his ROTC class.

Distinguished military students may be named distinguished military graduates when they have

1—Completed the advanced course, senior division, ROTC.

2—Graduated from a college or university with a baccalaureate degree.

3 — Maintained the standards required during the period between the designation as a distinguished military student and the date of graduation.

Distinguished military students may make application for appointment in the regular army to their professor of military science and tactics during the final year of academic study before receiving a degree. If a regular service commission is not desired, such students may be appointed second lieutenants in the Organized Reserve corps, where ample opportunity exists for continued active association with the military program.

Air Mail Rates Slated For Increase on Jan. 1

Effective Jan. 1, 1949, air mail rates to Canada and Mexico will be increased to six cents per ounce, local postal officials have announced.

The rate for post cards sent by air mail to these countries will be four cents each.

Unsworth Is Promoted

Pvt. Howard N. Unsworth, Company A, Infantry School detachment, was promoted on Nov. 22 to the grade of private first class, it has been announced by Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, detachment commander.

Navy Athletic Head Offered Pitt Position

Capt. Tom Hamilton, athletic director at the Naval Academy, has been offered the athletic directorship at Pittsburgh and university officials believed he would accept.

Chancellor Rufus H. Fitzgerald, who disclosed the offer after a meeting of the executive committee of Pitt's board of trustees, said:

"I have reason to believe that Capt. Hamilton will accept the invitation and be able to obtain his release from his present position." He added that he expected Hamilton to reply within two weeks.

At Annapolis, Hamilton said he was "very flattered at the generous offer" from Pitt, but that he was unable to comment further until be conferred later in the week with Navy and Pittsburgh officials.

Fitzgerald pointed out that Hamilton, as an active officer in the U. S. Navy, is prohibited from negotiating with civilian authorities. The Pitt chancellor said that Hamilton will be offered the job formally "as soon as it is possible for him to properly receive the invitation."

25 Guardsmen To Attend USMA

Enlisted men of the national guard are eligible for 25 appointments to the United States Military academy for the academic year beginning July 1, 1949, Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard bureau, announced today.

Successful candidates will be the 25 top men in the 100 competing national guardsmen from the 48 States, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, who will take the regular entrance examination for the military academy on March 1, 1949.

National guard competitors for West Point vacancies are apportioned according to state enlisted strength. They are chosen through competive examinations similar in scope to the regular West Point entrance tests.

Candidates in general must be between the ages of 19 and 22 1/2 in the case of war veterans with not less than one year of honorable service) and have served in the national guard for an aggregate total of 12 months at the time of entering the academy on July 1, 1949.

Specific requirements follow:

1. The candidate must be a citizen of the United States.

2. As of July 1, 1949, the candidate must have reached his 19th but not his 22nd birthday (24th birthday in the case of veterans honorable discharge after at least one year's service in World WarII).

3. The candidate must never have been married, of excellent character, and with at least a high school education or its equivalent.

4. The candidate must be an enlisted man of a federally recognized unit and at time of appointment must be a member of the national guard. He must also, at the time of admission on July 1, 1949, be an enlisted man of the national guard of a federally recognized unit and must have served as an enlisted man in the guard not less than one year. It is not essential that the service be continuous, so that former service in the national guard may be counted in determining an applicant's eligibility. Service with a national guard organization prior to its recognition by the federal government may be considered, the date of enlistment governing, not the date of the recognition of the unit.

5. The candidate must meet the physical requirements for entrance to the United States Military academy outlined in army regulations 40-100 and 40-105.

National guardsmen wishing to compete for entrance to West Point should apply to the adjutant general of the state in which they reside for application forms and full information.

Ban On Promotion Of Officers Lifted

Italian Army Chief Expected Monday

Gen. Efisio Marras, chief of staff of the Italian army, will arrive here from Miami, Fla., next Monday at 4:30 p. m.

He will be met at Lawson airforce base by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, and will then inspect a guard of honor composed of 15th Infantry regimental combat team units. Forming the guard will be the First battalion of the 15th Infantry, a firing battery of the 39th Field Artillery battalion, a platoon of tanks and the 72nd Army band. Commanding officer of the guard will be Lt. Col. Frank E. Hankinson, First battalion commander.

On Monday night General Marras will be the guest of honor at an official dinner to be given by General Burress at the Officers' club. Tuesday morning he will visit General Burress briefly at the commandant's office and will spend the rest of the morning at the Infantry School's Airborne section.

After lunch Tuesday, General Marras will go to Bickford range to see demonstrations of hand and rifle grenades, the 2.36 inch rocket launcher and the flame thrower. He will next see a special demonstration of recoilless weapons at Patton range after which he will go to Long hill to observe the problem of the rifle and weapons platoons in the reduction of a fortified position.

He will leave Fort Benning by country Dec. 22.

General Marras arrived for a 15-day visit to this country last Thursday. Accompanied by Col. Domenico Fornara and Lt. Col. Umberto Turrini, of the Italian general staff, and his aide, Capt. Giuseppi Cognazo, he was joined in Washington, his first stop, by the Italian military attache, Lt. Col. Umberto de Martino, and Col. Anthony J. D. Biddle of the U. S. army who are with him on the tour.

Upon his arrival at Washington he was met by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, United States chief of staff, and inspected a guard of honor of the Third Infantry regiment. Friday he visited General Bradley at the Pentagon, and that night was honored with an official dinner. On Saturday he placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery and also visited Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal.

General Marras went to Fort Knox, Ky., for a short visit before going to Miami.

From Benning he will go to New York City for a three-day visit and on Saturday will be at the U. S. Military academy at West Point, N. Y., for one day. He will end his visit to this country Dec. 22.

2nd Lieutenant Advancements Now Possible

The hope that springs eternal in the breast of every second lieutenant got a new lease on life this week with the announcement that the long freeze in promotion to first lieutenant has ended.

Information was disclosed early this week that Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, now has authority to promote second lieutenants to the next higher rank. The promotions are still temporary, however, and are in the Army of the United States, but it is not expected that this will cause any howls of indignation from the long-frustrated junior officers.

According to Col. Arthur C. Purvis, adjutant general of the Infantry Center, General Burress now has the authority to promote any second lieutenant in his command to first lieutenant. Only qualifications are that the officer must have spent at least 18 months in grade and merit promotion. This latter, however, is up to the discretion of General Burress, since Colonel Purvis emphasized that the promotions will not be "automatic."

The 18 months clause is, Colonel Purvis said, applicable to all but second lieutenants in the veterinary corps. It includes officers of all branches and arms, the medical service corps and nurses. Veterinary corps second lieutenants need be in rank only

Benning Agency Is Scoring E E R's

The computing and testing agency of the adjutant general's office, recently organized here, is now scoring efficiency reports of enlisted men in the third pay grade in the food service career field, it has been revealed.

Scores will be entered on the enlisted men's Form 20, and the original efficiency reports sent to Washington to be placed in 201 files.

The reports being tabulated now are the annual efficiency reports that were due Nov 30. A total of 322 have already been submitted to the Department of he Army.

Four types of efficiency reports may be made in each career field, it has been announced, including the annual reports. Others are the regular reports, special reports and classification reports.

Regular reports will be submitted whenever the rate or the person being rated leaves the unit. The special report is made whenever a soldier applies for a promotion, and a report has not been submitted within the previous 90 days. The classification board test is called for when an enlisted man's efficiency report score up below the critical core set up by the Department, of the Army.

Six dates have been assigned for the submission of the annual efficiency reports. Report are due for grade six personnel June 30, for grade five personnel Aug. 31, grade four men Oct. 31, grade three men Nov. 30, grade, two men Dec. 31 and first graders Jan. 31. Reason for the staggering of dates is to spread the workload for the already undermanned staff of the computing and teiting agency, officials sa d.

Trucks Loaned To Post Office

Five trucks from Fort Benning have already been loaned to the Colmbus post office and another 13 are expected to be turned over to the organization to handle the annual voluminous Christmas mail, it has been announced by Postmaster L. W. McPherson.

The postmaster warned Fort Benning personnel that in order to insure delivery of packages by Christmas within 350 miles of the Infantry Center they should be mailed no later than Dec. 20. Packages going anywhere else should be mailed on or before Dec. 15 if delivery is desired before Christmas, he said.

PILEUP IN THE POSTOFFICE—Benningites who are mailing Christmas cards and gifts early to avoid the annual rush, found this week that a lot of othr people had the same idea, and while the early birds have managed to dodge the extra long lines that are sure to come, the packages are piling up every day. Here Mrs. Frances Clark, whose husband, Maj. Harry Clark is a student in the advance officers' course, is shown turning over a package to William L. Parks at the post office.

COMFORT WITHOUT LUXURY—Very few fineries will be found in the Columbus and Fort Benning sponsored homeless boys' camp at Bad Vilbel (near Frankfurt), Germany. However, the youths have use dtheir talent s to turn the once deserted encampment into an area where a comfortable style of living may be maintained. In the left picture, one of the inhabit ants of the camp relaxes to listen to a program on a self-constructed radio set. At the right, Cpl. Fremont D. West, a member of the 709th Military Police battalion of Frankfurt, who lives at the camp as a supervisor, joins some of the youths for a simple meal consisting only of soup. Although t he mess hall has been moved to a more desirable location, and camp conditions in generol hove been improved since these pictures were taken, needs of the camp inhabitants are still in abundance.

"Jacko", Entourage Making Rounds Of Area To Aid German Namesake

An "ersatz" Jacko started making the rounds of Fort Benning and Columbus this week in an effort to help the real Jacko—and others like him—in the locally-sponsored camp for homeless boys at Bad Vilbel, Germany.

The Jacko who has been putting in appearances throughout the post and in the city is a heavy cardboard replica of a live Jacko, who is an inhabitant of the homeless boys' camp near Frankfurt, Germany. His mission here is to show how far $7.50 will go toward providing a homeless German boy with clothing and toilet articles.

Jacko's escort for the tour of Columbus and Fort Benning is the Rev. Colin Campbell, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church of Columbus, who has taken the initiative in getting the post and city to "adopt" officially the German version of the late Father Edward J. Flanagan's famous "Boys' Town."

For his tour, Jacko is clad in a woolen shirt, dungarees, woolen socks, gloves, underwear, and a stocking cap. He carries in his pockets a supply of soap, toothpaste, and toothbrushes. Purchased at factory prices, the total cost of the attire and toilet articles is only $7.50.

To stimulate further interest in the project to provide about 200 inhabitants of the camp with essential clothing and toilet articles, Rev. Campbell and Jacko are showing a film, "Seeds of Destiny," at each appearance. The film depicts the affect post-war conditions in Germany have had on the country's youth.

It is hoped by Rev. Campbell and his charge that donations to the project will total enough by Jan. 15 to send a complete outfit, such as the one worn by Jacko, to each resident of the camp.

The plan to supply the youths of the camp with clothing and toilet articles is the first project to be undertaken since Columbus and Fort Benning officially assumed sponsorship of the camp for homeless boys on Aug. 31. The decision to "adopt" the 200 youths was made by Columbus city officials after the commandant of Fort Benning said he would allow Fort Benning organizations and personnel to make voluntary contributions. The sponsorship was announced in a resolution adopted by the city Commission of Columbus at its August meeting.

Not only have the articles to be included in the gift packages been promised at factory prices though arrangements worked out by J. DuPont Kirven, city merchant, but plans to have them shipped from Columbus to Bad Vilbel, via Savannah, Ga., and Bremen, Germany, free of charge have been made.

The shipment from Columbus to Savannah, Ga. is being furnished by the Burnham Van Service of Columbus.

Overseas shipment of the articles is being furnished by the South Atlantic Steamship company.

Distribution of the parcels upon arrival in Germany will be handled by the 709th Military Police battalion of Frankfurt, which is acting as administrator and supervisor of the encampment.

Plans also are in the offing to send a large number of historical and religious books and pamphlets to the youths of the camp.

During a self-imposed tour of U. S. occupied Germany last summer, Rev. Campbell noticed not only a need for the necessities of life in the camp, but a strong yearning on the part of the youths to widen their knowledge of practical democracy. Taking this into consideration, Rev. Campbell has placed the supplying of good literature high on his list of benevolent projects.

The locally-sponsored "Boys' Town" had its inception over 20 months ago when eight young German boys erected two gray-green tents in a clearing on a hillside near Bad Vilbel. Since then, it has grown into a thriving community providing accomodations for the camp's present 200 residents.

Originally, the Evangelical church of Germany took over the sponsorship of the camp, but the limited facilities with which it had to carry on the operation prompted U. S. occupation forces to take over the project. The initial impetus to the enterprise came from the Office of Military Government, the 709th Military Police and army personnel working with German youth activities.

Later, however, the military police battalion assumed sole responsibility for the maintenance of the camp, and has acted as supervisor since that time.

Ages of boys in the encampment range from 14 to 21, and all orphaned German youths, regardless of political or religious differences, are welcome to make their homes in the community.

The program being presented by Rev. Campbell and Jacko is available to post clubs and organizations, and may be obtained by contacting Rev. Campbell at Trinity Episcopal church. Donations to outfit a German homeless boy in the camp may be mailed to the Bad Vilbel Camp for Homeless Boys committee, Box 1146, Columbus, Ga.

12 months to be considered for promotion.

Promotions to the higher rank, if the officer meets the qualifications I. may be made, Colonel Purvis continued, regardless of tables of organizations or lack of vacancies. The "freeze" in rank, he went on, has been in effect for practically all second lieutenants with the exception of certain specialists.

The relaxation of promotion procedures is only for the second lieutenants he said. Promotions to captain through general officer rank are still handled by promotions boards.

Mobile Blood Bank Slates Visit Here December 20

The Red Cross Mobile Blood Bank returns to Fort Benning Dec. 10 for the first time since 1944, and results of the first survey indicate that local troops will give whole-hearted cooperation to the program.

Of the first 200 men of the 309th Field Artillery battalion approached, 175 volunteered to donate blood, and first donations will be made by the unit Dec. 20. The blodmobile will return on the 20th of each month. (In 1944, personnel at Fort Benning donated 3,104 pints under this program, it has been revealed).

It is expected that 150 pints will be drawn from 175 volunteers each day the unit is on the post. Persons who have ever had yellow jaundice, or have had malaria within two years, are ineligible, officials said.

Drawings will be made at the Station hospital, and hospital personel will assist in the program. Part of the blood donated will remain at the Benning hospital for the use of military personnel and their dependents.

It has been recommended that those donating blood should be moderate in their eating and avoid eating fats just pior to the drawing civilians on the post who wish to donate must be over 21 and under 60 years old.

Units desiring to donate blood have been requested to contact Murray H ill, Fort Benning Red Cross field director, to arrange for participation in the campaign. Drawings can be be made at the rate of 32 an hour, and each unit of 32 men has been asked to report to the blood center, which will be selected by the hospital, at least 30 minutes before the hour assigned.

Chileans Tour Infantry Center

Visits to the Infantry School's Airborne, Automotive and Communications sections will highlight the itinerary today of sixteen officers and one enlisted man of the Chilean army who are touring the Infantry Center.

Arriving here yesterday morning, the Chileans, accompanied by Lt. Col. Marion M. Hardesty of the U. S. army, have been visiting army installations and industrial centers in this country for the past 10 days. They are all graduates of the Chilean War college.

The guests landed at Lawson field yesterday morning, and last evening were guests of honor at an official dinner at the Officers' club at which Maj. Gen. Withers A. Buress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, was host. Yesterday they conferred with officials in the office of the coordinator of training and in the operations office.

Tomorrow morning the South Americans will observe mortar firing and see a visual aids exhibit, and in the afternoon will witness a two-hour special demonstration of light weapons of an infantry regiment at Hook range. They will leave Fort Benning by plane from Lawson field Saturday afternoon.

While in the U. S. the Chileans have visited Washington, D. C., Fort Belvoir, Va., the Detroit Tank Arsenal and Ford Motor company, in Detroit, New York City and the Armored Center at Fort Konx, Ky. From Benning they will fly to Brookley airforce base, Ala., on the first leg of their homeward trip which takes them through the Canal zone.

Participating in the tour are Col. Leon Guillard Tricot, director of the Chilean War academy, Lt. Col. Oscar Izurieta Molina, Majs. Ricardo Lecaros Amunategui, Renato de la Cerda Gonzalez, Victor Giudad Vasquez and Raul Ramon Bravo.

Captain Matisin, Lt. Dunphy Get New Duty Posts

Capt. Joseph J. Matisin, formerly S-2 of the 15th Infantry regiment's First battalion, has been appointed battalion adjutant, succeeding 1st Lt. John T. Dunphy who has been transferred to the Student Training regiment as information and education officer, it was announed this week.

Captain Matisin, of Iron Wood, Mich., entered the army in 1934 as private in Company C of the Second Infantry regiment at Fort Sheridan, Ill. In 1938 he went to Panama as a sergeant with the mobile force, returning to the U.S. in 1940, for assignment to the Ninth Infantry regiment at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Graduating from Officer Candidate School here Nov. 19, 1942, Captain Matisin joined the 89th Infantry division. In January, 1945, he was assigned to the State Department in Paris as assistant director of the administrative division of the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner.

He returned to the states and Fort Benning last August for duty with the 325th Infantry regiment.

Lieutenant Dunphy, entered the service in October, 1942, and took jungle training in Panama with the 150th Infantry regiment, later becoming sergeant major of the regiment's Third battalion.

He came to Fort Benning in February, 1945, to attend Officer Candidate School, and following graduation was assigned to Company A of Infantry Training detachment No. 2. Later he served with Headquarters company, First battalion, 37th Infantry regiment as battalion S-3. In addition to being adjutant of the 325th Infantry regiment's First battalion, he also served as the battalion's S-1 and S-2.

Are You A Gentleman

We assume that every soldier at Fort Benning is a gentleman. We further assume that he acts at all times like a gentleman. But there have been several instances recently that more or less belie this assumption.

First of all, there has been a noted increase in "line-bucking" in post exchanges and at theaters, in particular. Apparently, those guilty of these ungentlemanly actions do not realize the impression they are creating among their fellow soldiers. Either that or they simply don't care what others think of them. But since we must live with others, it is necessary that we atempt to do nothing which fosters animosity, and one of the surest ways of becoming an object of scorn is to fail to consider others.

It's natural to be impatient. Most Americans are, which, in the end, accounts for the great progress we have made as a nation. Still, there is a vast difference between impatience and rudeness. And certainly no one can excuse line-bucking by dubbing it impatience.

The post exchange is not going to close before those already inside have made their purchases, and the theater can usually accomodate all those who want to see any given performance. It would seem, therefore, that all the pushing, shoving and jostling involved in this line-bucking business is unnecessary. Still it persists, and those responsible seem determined others will have to be the victims of their bad manners.

Another bit of evidence which brands a few Benningites as ungentlemanly is loud and unseemly talk. On the whole, this is more habit than bad manners, and only occasionally is vulgarity exhibited. Yet, we must admit that loudness does exist, and as a rule loudness and vulgarity go together. Neither are admirable traits and unpleasantness can certainly result. When vulgarity is exercised in the presence of wives and girl friends of Benning troops, husbands and boy friends will not allow it to go unchallenged. As a result, there can be, regardless of how regretable, verbal, or even bodily, conflict.

We fail to see the humor in snide remarks made in the presence of women. It doesn't make anyone appear more clever; on the contrary, it results in creating a bad impression of the offender as well as the army.

So often in the past, the actions of a few have made it "rough" for the many. Men in uniform are more subject to censure than are men in civilian clothes because the army is an organization where men are disciplined to behave as gentlemen and people expect them to conduct themselves accordingly. Consequently, any untoward acts by a man in uniform degrades the army. Since the army is the chosen profession of most Benningites, it is the duty of each to be constantly alert for any breach of propriety because he should be proud of his profession.

Bayonet Preview

The Bayonet will begin publishing next week a series of articles written by Miss Mabel York, Infantry Center education counsellor, on courses offered at the army education center. They will deal with the advantages provided the Fort Benning soldier through the army's magnificent education system, a system which has been lauded by educators throughout the country as one of the most comprehensive and excellent programs in the annals of liberal education.

We are particularly pleased to be able to present these articles because we feel that if the average Benning soldier understands just how important these courses are in relation to his army career, or, for that matter, in relation to civilian life, he will "terall" jump at the opportunity to enroll for the winter quarter which opens January 17.

Miss York is well known at Fort Benning, having been actively engaged in education work here since last May. She received her bachelor's degree from Brenau college and her master's degree from Emory university. During the war she was a training counsellor at Bell Aircraft in Marietta, Ga., and later became assistant director of the South Atlantic division of the army engineers.

Strictly Editorializing

Publicity is an invaluable asset to an organization; yet, for the most part, Fort Benning units do not realize it. As an example of how valuable publicity can be, we might take the case of the recruiting sergeant who wrote the Infantry Center public information ofice a few weeks ago to thank that office for its help in making his job of recruiting easier.

Three or four hometown releases had been sent to the city in which he was stationed concerning men who lived there, but who were serving in the army at Fort Benning. Each time these releases were published in the local newspaper, and on at least one occasion the enclosed photograph of the soldier had also been used.

The sergeant told us that because of this publicity he had been able to recruit several more men. It seems that they had seen these articles and had decided that the army offered them something more than civilian life; consequently, the recruiting officer had little trouble in signing them for a three-year tour of army duty. Without this publicity, it's possible that the army would not today have these additional men.

If unit public information offices would spend a little more time sending out hometown releases on the men in their organizations, and if this example is any indication of the value of advertising, we believe that the army would grow and grow. Then, perhaps, the public information officer and his noncommissioned assistant would not have so many additional duties. There would be enough men to fill all the jobs.

Chaplain's Corner..

OUR COMMON VOCATION
By
Chaplain R. D. Kirsch

There is that in us and around us which persistently draws us away from our true human calling and destiny. However we seek to explain the dark mystery, there is a self-centeredness and a self-assertiveness in our personal lives and in the group life of families and classes and peoples which corrupts us, individually and together. Before we ever make our private choices it has laid hold on us, and we are caught in the meshes of our common human wrong. When we come to a true realization of our human situation, we are faced with a deep and continuing need for forgiveness and cleansing and remaking. So the summons from God comes to each of us, "Thou shalt reach out for this forgiveness and cleansing, and thou shalt make faithful use of every means God offers thee for the renewal thy life needs. Thou shalt make thy life the servant alike of God's creative and life-sustaining purpose, and also of His redemptive purpose for you and for His world."

There is the common vocation of each man and woman. The basic decision of life is their response to this call. For some it comes at a great moment which they can see as the turning point in their lives. Others grow gradually into the realization of its meaning. For all it is a vocation that demands constant renewal.

While this is the vocation of all, it is not something vague and generalized. The calling of God to man is always concrete and personal. It comes to each personally just as he is and just where he is. And because this vocation is total, it includes, but it is never limited to, our work in the world. Our work is only a part of life. Along with it go the relationship of family and friendship, sufferings, joys, play and rest. All of these are a part of the stuff of our lives, and they are all included in our total vocation. But if our work is not included, the whole is not dedicated. We cannot put patches of dedication on a basically undedicated life.

All the innumerable forms of everyday work can be and should be a service to God the Creator and Sustainer and Enricher of life. God has so made the world that men must work to live or that others may live. Those who cannot work or will not work are carried by those who can and do. All are truly called in their work to the service of God's purpose for His world and man. It is not simply our personal lives that need forgiveness and cleansing. Man's family relationship, his work, all of his life alsocry out for renewal.

HELLBOX

John O'Hara's collection of short stories is quite appropriately named "Hellbox," which means, of course, a printer's receptacle for broken type, for if the type isn't broken, the stories themselves certainly are.

We are always more or less confused about John O'Hara's stories, as we are about almost every other story that appears in the New Yorker, favorite boys, and nearly ((O'Hara is, as you probably know, one of the New Yorker's everything in this collection has already appeared in this "humor" magazine.) We certainly cannot call any of these little "slices of life" in the O'Hara collection "humorous." On the other hand, they are not strictly speaking "tragedies," except possibly tragedies of frustration. All we know is that there is not one of the twenty-six stories in this collection that doesn't leave us with a slightly bitter taste in our mouth and a nagging feeling of futility.

There is, for example, "The Decision," a sketch of a doctor who graduated from medical school, but who because there was insanity in the family, never practices. Instead he stayed on in his little village, following the same monotonous program day in and day out, and after forty years still planned to leave as soon as he could decide what to do. A somewhat similar theme is found in "Horizon," which tells of a re-write man who hopes to quit his paper so he can go around and see the other side of the court house.

Perhaps the theme of all these stories would be "People get in a rut and remain there because they haven't the courage or the incentive to get out."

O'Hara undoubtedly knows people like that. We all do. We could perhaps find prototypes of Chauncey Wayne of "The Chink in the Armor" who had everything but real friends, or of Phyllis Richardson in "Other Women's Households" who had too much idle time and not enough faith in her husband, or of Mr. Spring in "Common Sense Should Tell You" who disobeyed the doctor's orders to do something he didn't want to do because he didn't know how to refuse. All of these stories are slices of life, with the characters at least believable. The only trouble is, they're the sort of people we'd rather not believe. A little realism is fine, but an overdose of pessimism is sometimes as bad as too much optimism. People with backbones must certainly exist, but John O'Hara has left them out of "Hellbox."

If you suffer from over-exuberance or are a manic type we'd recommend "Hellbox" to you, but we don't think it's good for periods of depression. Perhaps we're not entirely fair to O'Hara. We admit there were some of the stories we couldn't understand. We always had to read the stories of Henry James, to whom O'Hara is often compared, at least three times before they made sense.

BY MURRAY HILL

The other evening I ran across a simple story about team work, or cooperation. Here is the way the story read:

A famous organist from the big city came to dedicate a new organ in a small town. He gave an excellent recital and was very proud of himself. As he walked back stage for a stretch during intermission, he encountered the old organ pumper who was also strolling around to ease his weary shoulders.

"We are giving them a fine concert," said the old fellow, as they met.

The organist pretended not to hear him.

"I say," began the old fellow again, "we are giving them a fine concert."

The organist haughtily drew himself up and replied, "I am giving them a fine concert," and returned to the console.

After going back on stage his first number opened with a full organ. So he pulled out all of the necessary stops, opened the swell and crescendo pedals to their limits, dramatically waited until the audience had become breathlessly silent, and with a mighty flourish brought his hands down on the keys. Not a sound ensued. The organ was as dead as a last summer's romance. The audience tittered. Greatly disturbed he tried again and again, but nothing happened. The audience now broke into unrestrained laughter.

The organist made his way back stage and there he found the old chap tilted back in his chair. He had not laid a hand on the bellows pump.

In that moment the organist achieved greatness. He cast aside his pompous manner and grasped the old fellow's horny paw, and with great sincerity, said, "You were right my friend, we did give them a fine concert. Give us some wind and we will do even better on the rest of the program."

And together they did.

I think the Red Cross has demonstrated that all men can work together. I think the very greatness of the Red Cross is attributable to team work. All that has been accomplished has come from the true spirit of pulling together. It has taken the skill, ingenuity, and vision of everyone, volunteers and paid workers alike, to achieve the harmonious operation seen throughout the Red Cross organization.

It is a splendid thing to see an organization as mighty as the Red Cross, with millions working together, shoulder to shoulder regardless of social strata, intellect, skill or ability, toward one end. Even little children in the Junior Red Cross play a most important part on this great team.

The oldsters, too, can always find an important part, not as dramatic, perhaps as the disaster worker, or the canteen service, or the Red Cross girl overseas, but just as important.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

THE FAR FRONTIER (Western in trucolor), with Roy Rogers, Andy Devine and Gail Davis. Roy Rogers and Andy Devine team up once again to bring law and order to the wild and wooly West. Recommended for family.

THE KISSING BANDIT (technicolor musical), with Frank Sinatra, Kathryn Grayson and J. Carroll Naish. Frank Sinatra burlesques the antics of the dashing hero of costume epics as he plays a milktoast character who is forced to become a legendary early-California bandit. Recommended for family.

HE WALKED BY NIGHT (melodrama), with Richard Basehart and Scott Brady. This suspense-filled melodrama gives the audience a thorough look into the detailed and scientific operations of a modern police department as it goes about the grim business of tracking down a killer. Recommended for family.

MILLION - DOLLAR WEEK - END (melodrama), with Gene Raymond, Stephanie Paull and Francis Lederer. Is any girl worth a million bucks—a million bucks that a man went to a lot of trouble to steal? That is what Gene Raymond has to decide on a week-end flight to Honolulu. Recommended for family.

WHIPLASH (boxing drama), with Dane Clark, Alexis Smith and Zachary Scott. A decision to throw a fight is easier to make than to carry out as a boxer learns when he tries to solve his personal problems by means of a crooked fight. Recommended for adult.

Fort Bennning Cub Scouts Hold First Pack Meeting

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry center commander, and W. R. Ennis, Jr., executive of the Georgia-Alabama Boy Scout council, were principal speakers at the first Cub Pack meeting of the 1948-49 season, which was held Thursday evening, December 2, in the Fort Benning school auditorium. Approximately 150 parents and guests were present.

The den exhibits of tree identifications were arranged around the room, and visitors and judges had an opportunity to examine them before the meeting began.

At 7:30 Lt. Col. W. A. McNulty, chairman of the pack committee, called the meeting to order, and introduced the assistant cub master, Maj. L. D. Shaw, who gave the parents a brief resume of the history of cubbing, and told them some of their responsibilities as Cub parents.

During Major Shaw's introduction of "Parents to the Pack" the various dens were forming outside the auditorium, and at the conclusion of his address, the cubs, with their den mothers, marched into the room to the accompaniment of a group from the 72nd Army band, led by Sgt. Cortese.

Following the invocation by Chaplain Wallace Hale, the entire assembly sang the National Anthem, after which the cub master, Lt. Col. C. D. Kepple conducted the Bob Cat ceremony in which 11 candidates were admitted to the Fort Benning pack and were given their Bob Cat awards, the first step on the ladder of cub achievements.

Individual awards were in en presented by Lt. Col. C. S. Standley to those cubs who had recevied wolf, bear, lion awards and gold and silver arrows. The award for the best display went to Den No. 3, with Den 5 placing second, and Den 2 placing third. The attendance award went to Den No. 7.

Colonel McNulty then introuced the "Star Scout of Fort Benning", General Burress, who spoke directly to the boys, and through them to the parents. The General said he had not had an opportunity to be a cub, and hoped the boys were aware of the advantages which they possessed. He stressed the importance of American boys retaining their individuality even in supervised play, and compared their look of freedom with that look of regimentation found on the faces of European children of cub scout age.

The General has just returned from three and a half years in Europe, where he had an opportunity to observe German youngsters closely. He said that American boys should share their good fortune with those less fortunate and added that this might be done by sharing toys. He concluded by telling the boys that they looked like good soldiers, were the sons of good soldiers, and had good soldier mothers, and he wished them all good luck.

W. R. Ennis, Jr., executive of the Georgia - Alabama scout council, of which Fort Benning is a member, endorsed General Burress' suggestion that the boys share their good fortune with others and suggested that an excellent way to do this would be by the adoption of a pack overseas, perhaps in an occupied country or in France. He pointed out that the international aspect of scouting affords a sound basis for world understanding.

After the benediction by Chaplain McGuire, the meeting closed with the singing of "Good Night Cubbers."

Boys received into the Cub scout pack in the Bob cat ceremony were Jack Turnage, Marty Brookes, Douglas Pelren, Paul Perry, Thomas Alvey, Robert Johnson, Edward Guinan, Leroy Dowdle, Lindsay Sparks, Charles Enger and David Drain.

Receiving wolf badges were William Luther, Neil Davis, Jon Desguin, William Short, Donald Torgerson, James Polk, Michael McCormick and Linton Brooks. For additional achievements, Neil Davis received a gold arrow, Jon Desguin a gold arrow and two silver arrows, Donald Torgerson a gold and a silver arrow, and Linton Brooks a gold arrow.

Bear badges were awarded to Charles Mitchell, James Dunn, James Chamberlin and James Rucker, and Lion badges to Richard Enger and James Rucker.

Post's Hobby Shop Fast Becoming Popular Spot

Rapidly becoming one of the most popular off-duty recreation spots on the post, especially with the holiday season rolling around, is the Hobby Shop in Doughboy stadium.

Here may be found the tools and materials for making practically every type of article the inventive and ingenious doughboy may want, from metals and plastics to wood and leather. The pictures on this page show some of the things that are made in the shop and some of the tools available to work with.

The picture in the upper left shows Pct. William Hartenstein, Headquarters and Service company, Airborne battalion, fashioning a belt, while opposite him Cpl. James Burton, Company A, Infantry School detachment, puts the finishing touches on a lady's handbag.

Drawing tools is Cpl. Willie H. Price, Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section II, 3440th Area Service unit, while checking out a saw is Sgt. 1st cl. Robert E. Vandeventor, special services office.

The Hobby Shop is open Tuesdays through Fridays from 4 p. m. until 10 p. m., and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. It is closed Mondays.

SPORTS

Jones Takes Nod In Top Ring Event

Troopers Recapture Lead From Infantry Fight Squad

Lawrence Jones, Fort Benning's Third army middleweight boxing champ, made his 1948 debut a successful one Friday night by pounding out a unanimous decision over hard-hitting Cliff Wilburn in the Main gymnasium.

Flying the colors of the 3440th Area Service unit in the current intra-mural ring program, the post's No. 1 middleweight gave his team its first counters of the season. His victory over Wilburn credited the ASU team with 45 points under the Hawaiian point system.

Jones, who remains undefeated in the Benning ring, found Wilburn, a member of the Sand hill Rockets' fight aggregation whose rating under the Hawaiian system is Class II, anything but a pushover. In the second round of their battle, Wilburn delivered a jarring blow to Jones' head that convinced the champ that his opponent was one to be reckoned with.

However, the colorful champ made good use of his wise counter punching.

Illustrating the effectiveness of his style, Jones evaded another of Wilburn's powerful hooks in the second, the force of which sent the challenger to the mat. Jones reversed his style in the third round to back up the challenger against the ropes and deliver a resounding overhand right hook to the head as the bell sounded.

The exciting card also featured the Airborne battlion's recapture of No. 1 position in the league with a 125-point score for the evening to bring its total to 240. The upward move by the Troopers caused the 15th Infantry regiment to step down from first to second place with a total of 170 points, 25 of which were gained Friday night.

Seventy points were added to the Rockets' total of 95 to bring their score to 165.

Rullio Lopez' class III win boosted the 39th Field Artillery battalion's score from 60 to 85, and Jones' successful stand brought the 3440th Area Service unit into the running with a 45-point tally.

Rounding up 30 points each by winning two of the first four bouts, the evening's Class V contests, the Rockets, and the Airborne battalion set off the fireworks with a close race for the lead. The trooper battalion started off with a win by forfeit due to the 15th Infantry's failure to produce middleweight Dan Matthews for his scheduled three - rounder with the airborne's Lee Adams.

The Rockets matched a short-lived lead from the troopers through light heavyweigh Sand Hiller Clarence Williams unanimous decision over John Stefanik of the air borne unit in a tough contest. Williams gained an edge with his one-two counter punching against the trooper's hard right hooks.

William Burton, another Rocket light heavy, sent airborne's Sam Jones to the canvas for the nine count in the middle of the first round of a bout that became a blow-for-blow slugfest, and again at the end of the round in time for a saved-by-the-bell breather for Jones. Coming out fresh in the second, Jones again engaged the rugged Rocketman in a toe-to-toe conference this time sending Burton to the ring floor for a nine count. Jones' third contact with the mat came after 30 seconds of the third round. Although he regained a standing position after a short count, Jones declared himself unable to continue, making Burton the winner by technical knockout.

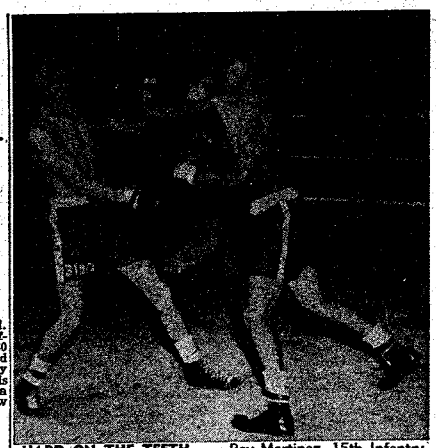
The paratroopers got back in the running with a win by unanimous decision for Burl Cason over middleweight Phillip Pena of the 15th Infantry. Scoring continued for the Airborne battalion in the first of the card's five Class IV go's when the battle between 15th Infantryman Jesus Salomon and trooper featherweight Tommy Rauth went to Rauth by unanimous decision.

Rocket-lightweight John Dorner scored a bloodless win when his scheduled opponent, Dan Eckley of the Airborne battalion failed to show up.

Continuing their second start, the trooper pugilists again stole the limelight from the advancing Rockets with a fast middleweight leather exchange between the Rockets' Henry McCullough and airborne's Jesse Poole.

Both contestants, weighing in at 154 pounds, vied for the aggressor lead. McCullough succeeded in holding the lead in the first, but found his opponent more his equal in the second, and too hot to handle in the third.

Respite, in the form of an official interruption came when the referee stopped action in the third long enough to tie one of Poole's glove laces. The break came at a time when McCullough was slowly but surely becoming a target for a sleeper Poole was deprived of delivering by the bell. Poole's win by decision chalked a Class IV win for the airborne scoreboard.



Following through, welterweight 'chutist Booker Tullis, a disciple of the Joe Louis style, withstood some classy southpaw action on the part of Jimmy Brown of the Rockets. Stalking his opponent, Tullis availed himself of every opportunity to step in with the old one-two, then successfully retreat in cool defense to continue stalking. Finding an opening in the third frame, Tullis delivered a telling barrage of hard left hooks that clinched him the point advantage.

Trust Brown, Rocket - middleweight broke the Airborne winning streak when he defeated 15th Infantryman Harold Rooks by unanimous decision. Rooks showed marked improvement in both the second and third rounds. The Brown-Rooks affair was the card's final Class IV event.

Putting the spotlight on the lightweight division in the only Class III scrap of the evening, Rullio Lopez, classy 39th Field Artillery battalion scrapper, added 25 points to his team's total by copping a split decision over equally classy Ray Martinez, 15th Infantry boxer, in one of the best exhibitions of boxing style and undaunted aggressiveness of the entire card.

Middleweight Billy Williams of the airborne battalion, another top-flight 1947 performer, faced Class III challenger Lester Holt of the Rockets in the only Class II event of the card.

After a first round feeler, Williams found the range and zeroed in a rapid-fire string of left and right hooks that staggered Holt in the second, and moyed in for the kill in the third. The bout was stopped by the referee after one minute and 30 seconds of the third stanza, and Williams was the winner by TKO. Williams stepped up his pace after Holt had landed a staggering, hard right to his jaw in the second round.

HARD ON THE TEETH . . . Ray Martinez, 15th Infantry regiment lightweight, loosens the 39th Field Artillery battalion's Rullio Lopez' mouthpiece in their class IV go at the Main gym Friday night. The battle ended in a win for Lopez by split decision. The crowd unanimously decided that the Lopez-Martinez scrap was the best fight on the card.

Dough Bowlers Beat Alabamans

In an inter-squad kegling match in Montgomery, Ala., Sunday afternoon, Fort Benning's Doughboy bowlers whipped a two-year-old jinx by wresting a five-point decision from the Montgomery Rebels.

During the past two years, approximately six matches have been contested between the Rebels and Doughboys on the Montgomery lanes, but Sunday was the first time the Benningites had been able to outscore the Rebels on Alabama soil.

The Doughboy pinsmen shaded the Rebels in four of the five games comprising the match, and took the fifth point at stake by posting a five-game total of 4,417, as compared to 4,132 for the Rebs.

Game scores posted by the Benning quintet were 930, 849, 923, 871 and 844, while the Alabamans tallied contests of 780, 848, 782, 839 and 83.

Scoring for the Benningites was paced by Bob Short, who chalked up a five-game total of 965. He also registered the highest single game of the meet with a pinfall of 226. Mac McCorvey, with a total of 833, was the leading scorer for the Alabama delegation.

The Rebels will have a chance to avenge their loss to the Doughs on Sunday, Dec. 19, when they invade the main post alleys for a return engagement. Following the match here, approximately four more sets will be played between the two squads this year with the role of host to be shared.

Piedra Draws Unit A--R Post

Lt. Charles Piedra has been named athletic and recreation officer for the Second battalion of the 25th Infantry regiment replacing Lieutenant Robert E. Burns, who is now on duty with Company E of the regiment.

The newly-assigned athletic officer, who has been in the army since May 1941, is a native of New York City. It was there that he picked up his knowledge of athletics, having starred in football and track while attending Morris high school.

After graduating from high school, he entered Pratt institute where he gained an enviable reputation as one of the most outstanding and respected athletics in the state. He later carried his talents as a star footballer into the pro ranks, playing at end for the Bronx Bombers of New York.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

When Referee James Lewis saw fit to stop two fights during last Friday night's intra-mural boxing program, the decisions didn't register much popularity with some of the fans, who apparently thought the bouts should have been allowed to continue until one of the fighters lay sprawled out on the floor or was beaten to a bloody pulp.

This sort of incident always brings up an old controversy dealing with whether or not a bout should be stopped when one of the contestants receives a cut. When the bout principals are amateurs fighting under the regulations of the Amateur Athletic union, the official has no choice other than to stop the fight under such circumstances.

The post boxing program is being conducted under the rules of the AAU, and all ring officials have been instructed to adhere to the provisions of the union's rules governing amateur contests.

The AAU rules are designed to protect the participants from permanent or serious injury resulting from blows received in bouts, as well as to offset the possibility of amateur tournaments becoming tainted by the activities of fight racketeers, who bribe contestants, "fix" fights, and mess up the game in various other ways for the sake of personal financial gain.

Boxing, under AAU rules, is a competitive sport in which the contestants are judged for skill in the science of the sport, ability from both the defensive and aggressive standpoints, sportsmanship, and all-around performance in the ring.

Professional fighters compete for world championships and the huge purses that go with them: boxing is their livelihood, but the necessity to stop an opponent at any cost to his physical well-being doesn't exist in the amateur ranks. The glory among amateurs should consist of nothing more than the recognition as a good fighter.

The December issue of Ring magazine carries a graphic example of what is probably the best reason for the caution exercised by the AAU in dealing with amateur fights and fighters. Under the "Letters From Readers" section of that issue, a fan had cited an instance where perpetual beatings around the face had resulted in permanent injury to the boxer.

The fighter being discussed was oldtimer Sam Langford, who once entered the ring in Mexico for a bout with the Mexican champ of the time. Langford stepped into the squared circle that day almost totally blind because of repeated injuries about the eyes.

In all fairness to the lads who are entering the Benning ring to provide the fans with a good, clean boxing show, spectators should take it for granted that the man officiating knows what he is doing. When a referee stops a bout, the chances are that the injured fighter already has expended his best efforts, and that a continuation of the scrap would mean nothing more than subjecting an already beaten boxer to uncalled for punishment.

Whether or not spectators know it, a terrific beating can often turn a promising novice into a "gum-shy" fighter, and stand in his way of becoming a top-flight pro scrapper.

Although basketball for 1948 still is in its embryo stage here at Benning, we won't hesitate to predict that the Doughboy team this winter will be as strong—if not stronger—than last year's court edition.

There is scarcely a squad entered in the post intra-mural contests which doesn't have at least one outstanding player, and promising new material is turning up at practically every game staged in the Main gymnasium. Several of the lads, who appeared to possess only a mediocre degree of talent at the outset of the season, have made big strides toward working out the kinks they picked up during the summer months.

When the Doughboy crew is formed later in the season, the bulk of the lineup will be newcomers. Only two members of last year's post quintet, Bob Kinard and Frank Tatum, are back in action here this year. Kinard is lending his talents to the high-flying Airborne battalion Troopers, while Tatum made his debut Monday night with the unbeaten Infantry School detachment cagers.

Despite the shortage of returnees, this year's Doughboy basketball coach should have little trouble in picking a game-winning aggregation with such courtmen to pick from as Joe Setley and Vern Griffin of the Airborne battalion; Charles Richards, Bob Williams and Warren Paulk of the Infantry School detachment; Phil (Cherokee) Smith of the 319th Field Artillery battalion; George Campbell of the 325th (now 15th) Infantry regiment, and Jim Cowley of the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers.

BENNING ATHLETIC HEAD ASSIGNED OKINAWA POST

Capt. William C. (Bill) Fannin, who has been associated with the Fort Benning athletic and recreation program since 1926, is scheduled to leave soon for an assignment with the army in Okinawa.

Captain Fannin, who started a pre-embarkation leave this week, has been ordered to report to the Pittsburg, Calif., staging area for shipment to the Far Eastern command on Jan. 21.

Rising from the rank of private to technical sergeant while at Benning, the captain, in addition to his regular duties became actively engaged in such soldier - built enterprises as Doughboy stadium, the golf course, the children's school, Russ pool, and the post bowling alleys. He served as labor foreman and assistant construction foreman on most of the projects, which were built with the aid of soldiers stationed at the post.

He was stationed here from the time of his enlistment in 1926, and was assistant to the athletic officer until May 1, 1942, when he was transferred to then newly - activated Camp Rucker, Ala., to become chief non-commissioned officer in charge of athletics. Four months later, he was given a direct commission as second lieutenant and made special services officer for the camp.

An avid follower of all sports and a participant in many during his long association with athletics at Benning, Captain Fannin coached basketball, baseball, and volleyball teams. Among them were such championship squads as the 1939-40 Infantry School Service command basketball team which won the Georgia championship, and the Fort Benning boxing team which won six championships in Southeastern Golden Gloves tournaments in eight years.

Captain Fannin was married for 16 years as an enlisted man to the former Miss Martha Allen of Columbus in 1935. And is the father of two boys, Philip, 11, and Sonny, seven.

In June, 1944, the versatile athletic coach was sent to England and France to aid in directing the setting up of recreational programs, including athletics and entertainment for soldiers returning from the front. He returned to the U. S. in November, 1945 and, after serving a brief period at Fort Meade, Md., came back to Fort Benning and an assignment as post athletic and recreation officer. As athletic officer here, he headed the setup he had been affiliated with

Doughs Retake Army Net Title

Fort Benning welcomed home its volleyball team last week after the local netters had made a victorious stand in defending their Third army toga at Oliver General hospital in Augusta.

In the three-day tourney, which ended last Thursday, the Benningites duplicated their feats of 1947 by breezing undefeated to a recapture of the net title. A repeat in 1949 will give the Infantry Center permanent possession of the coveted Third army cup.

Although the netters were billed as the Fort Benning Doughboys, all team members are assigned to the same organization, Company C of the Infantry School detachment, and all work in the Army Field Printing plant here. Deviating from the usual procedure of choosing outstanding players from various intra-mural squads, post varsity officials chose the entire Company C sextet to represent Benning in the Third army classic because of the teamwork shown by the squad in capturing the post title.

The local sextet's climb to the championship took in only six games, all of which were won by the Doughboys.

After taking games of 19-17 and 18-16 from Fort Bragg, N. C., in their opening set of the meet, the Doughboys again faced the Braggmen in the third and final set of the classic. Making it two straight in the finale, the Benningites ran up scores of 15-5 and 15-8 over the North Carolinians. In the middle set of the tourney, the Doughboy netmen tounced the Fort Jackson, S. C., delegation 15-1 and 15-5.

In addition to garnering another one-year claim to the team trophy, the Dough squadmen each received an individual, permanent award.

Special Services Office Praised By Gen. Hobbs

In a letter received by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Buress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, Maj. Gen. Leland S. Hobbs, deputy commander of the Third army, commended the Infantry Center special services office for its handling of the recent Third army table tennis tournament.

General Hobbs said in his letter that "all visiting competitors and officials in this tournament were extremely complimentary concerning the conduct of the tournament and the consideration shown them while guests at Fort Benning."

Prominent Benning Athletes Speck November's Reenlistment Rosters

Post baseball received a shot in the arm last month when 12 prominent Fort Benning diamondmen and two veteran officials did business with the local recruiting office.

In addition to baseball umpires William Lee and Guy Holtzclaw, three coaches were listed among the group. They were Stacey Hoffman, coach of the Sand hill Bullets' grid eleven; John Wilson, tutor of the Doughboy boxing team, and Merritt L. Wynn, who pilots the 999th Field Artillery battalion pugilists.

Only three of the diamondmen named saw service with the highly - successful Fort Benning Doughboys during their past season, but the remainder were well - known intra - mural league stars.

Harold (Blondy) Burnett and Larry Hall were carried as members of the Doughboy nine throughout the season, but the third post team player, Lonnie Potter, was cut from the squad mid-way through the season to comply with a player maximum set for the tournaments in which the Doughboys participated.

Burnett, a former member of the Columbus Cardinals of the Sally league and a veteran of several years service with the Benning nine, put in his time with the Doughboys in the infield, and Hall was a pitcher. Potter's stint with the post team was with the mask and mitt.

Intra - mural baseballers who put in time with 1948 unit squads were Leonard Weiczorek of the post Medics; Bill Welton and Doyle Feeler of the Infantry School detachment, Erskine Ware, John McClinic and David Reed of the 999th Field Artillery battalion; Lee Saucier of the 3440th Area Service unit; "Red" Cothran of the Airborne battalion, and Walter Scott of the 25th Infantry regiment.

One softball star, Dewey Conant of the 1st champion Infantry School detachment nine, indicated his intentions of putting in another three years with the army.

A member of the Bullet eleven and a former Doughboy squadman completed the list of gridders. Lineman Dave Vann of the Bullets and halfback Bob Morton of the Doughs were the two Pigskin representatives on the reenlistment rosters. Morton started the season with the post eleven, but, after making a bid for a starter's berth on the strength of his passing ability, was sidelined with a chronic injury.

Elfedy Ivy, who was instrumental in turning a thickly - wooded area into the sporty nine - hole golf course at Sand hill, decided to devote another three years to the army. A golfer of better - than - average ability, Ivy serves as pro of the Sand hill layout.

The list of athletes also includes Sylvester Scott and Charles Satchell, two high - point mainstays in the current intra-mural basketball loop. Scott performs with the Sand hill Rockets, while Satchell lends his talents to the 3440th Area Service unit Medic squad.

The bowling representative is Bob Short, a member of last year's Third army championship squad, and one of the ten highest individual scorers in the current intra - mural kegling circuit.

Volleyball was represented by Truman Ledlow, a member of the post champions ISD sextet, who was named as a Benning color-bearer for the Third army net classic.

Upset-Minded Buffs Nip Bullet Gridsters

By BOB PHILLIPS

The biggest upset of the year as far as the Fort Benning Bullets are concerned came last Saturday when a hard-running herd of semi-pro Buffaloes from Columbus surprised them with a humiliating 13-7 defeat in a Memorial stadium grid clash.

The tilt was the third annual Pearl Harbor Day classic, and the first time in the classic's three-year history that the citizens had been able to squeeze past the Sand hill eleven.

A four-touchdown edge favored the Bullets at the time they took the field against the Buffaloes. The margin of favoritism was based largely on the fact that the Bullets already had played the Columbusites once this season, and had walked off the field on the top side of a 19-0 score.

The tilt was a rough and tumble affair all the way with the Bullets getting the best of the statistics. But the determined and courageous Buffaloes fought both along the surface and through the air to stun a partisan crowd of 600 spectators by Wednesday turning the tide late in the game.

After a fast start made it appear that the Bullets would live up to the pre-game favoritism shown them, the stubborn Buffaloes came from behind to upset the dope.

The Bullets got off to a seven-point lead in the first quarter when pile-driving Horace Northcutt crashed over from the one-foot marker, and Gene Thomas held fast to a pass pitched by Hudie Langston for the conversion tally.

But, after the first period score, the Bullet offenses were stalemated by the spirited Buffs, who pushed over a touchdown in the second quarter, and iced the game with seven more counters in the final stanza.

A toss from Johnny Jackson to Samuel Sears gave the Buffaloes their first score, but the try for the point after touchdown failed, and the Bullets led at the halfway mark by a scant 7-6 margin.

The Bullets went into high gear again during the opening minutes of the third stanza. Phil Tindrell took a hand-off from Langston, and sprinted 40 yards before being hauled down from the rear on the Columbus 35-yard stripe. Tindrell and Northcutt alternated to take the leather down to the seven-yard line. Here, however, the drive bogged down, and the citians took over on downs.

Minutes later, Tindrell went on another free-wheeling rampage when he plucked a Jackson-pitched pass out of the blue, and scooted to the 15-yard marker of the Buffaloes. But again, the Bullets were unable to click off the all-important yardage near the herd's goal-line.

The Buff's decisive came in the fourth period when one of Langston's heaves was intercepted in mid-field. Jackson then hit Sears with a pass on the San hill 15-yard stripe. Three successive penalties against the Bullets moved the pigskin down to the one-foot line from where Jackson plunged over for six points. Jackson then tossed successfully to Sears for the extra point, and the pre-game underdogs went into a 13-7 lead for keeps.

The Bullets racked up 18 first downs as compared with nine for the Buffs; outrushed the citians 289 yards to 97 yards, and completed five out of 11 passes attempted while the Buffaloes connected for six out of 13.

Kicking of Northcutt and Langston, and a 27-yard sprint by Jimmie Pembrook were the offensive highlights of the game, while Al Blannon, Bob Murphy, Leroy (Doc) Garvin, Hall and Floyd Swanson stood out in defensive departments.

Loop Triumph Holds Bowling Lead For ISD

Bowlers of Company A of the Infantry School detachment remained unscored - on in the intra - mural kegling circuit by taking four points from the 756th Heavy Tank battalion in their only outing of the week last Wednesday night.

Paced by Bob Short, the ISD pinsmen rolled up a total of 2,491 counters, while the Tankers picked off a total of 2,330 in the three - game set.

Although Short's tally of 562 was the high three - game score of the match, individual game honors went to Carl Patti of the Tankers, who posted a single-game score of 218. An opening-line count of 116 pulled Patti's three - game tally down to 513.

Wednesday night's triumph gave the ISD keglers a total of 32 points for the winning side of their ledger. Four points are at stake in each of the matches with each of the games netting the winner one point, and the team with the highest three-game total garnering one counter.

Board 3 Plans Yuletide Party For Orphans

A Christmas party will be held at Army Field Forces board No. 3 on Christmas day for 17 orphans from the Ann Elizabeth Shepard home in Columbus, officials have announced.

The orphans, ranging in age from 3-16, will be guests of the detachment for a Christmas dinner which will feature Turkey and all the trimmings. After dinner, gifts will be presented to the children by Santa Claus.

Funds for the dinner and for the gifts came from voluntary contributions of the men in the detachment.

The Ann Elizabeth Shepard home in Columbus was endowed by Col. William Smith Shepard, now deceased, a former Fort Benning soldier.

Promoted December 3

Pvt. Alfred M. Russo, Company C, Infantry School detachment, was promoted Dec. 3 to the grade of private first class, officials said this week.

Airborne Sets Scoring Mark In Cage Triumph

Undefeated cagers of the Airborne battalion established a new high-scoring mark for intra-mural teams to shoot at in the Main gymnasium Thursday night when they romped to a 92-34 triumph over the 319 th Field Artillery battalion quintet.

Trooper defenses held the artillery men to only nine points during the first half of the game, while the team's top-scoring aces were running up a total of 47 points.

The tide turned momentarily during the opening minutes of the second period, but the 319th quintet succumbed to another Trooper scoring splurge during the last five minutes of the contest.

High scorer for the artillerymen was Philip (Cherokee) Smith, who after having trouble finding the hoop throughout the first half, came back to dunk five field goals and three free throws during the final period to give him a total of 13 for the game.

Their win over the 319th quintet again deadlocked the Troopers with the ISD squad for the No. 1 spot in the intra - mural circuit. It was the fourth victory of the season for the airborne lads, and came after the ISD had taken a momentary lead by chalking up a 66 - 43 decision over the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers in a Tuesday night tilt.

I S D Cagers Tally Fourth Loop Win

The Infantry School detachment hardwood quintet surged into the lead in the post intra-mural cage circuit last Tuesday night by dealing a 56-43 defeat to the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers in the Main gymnasium.

Led by scoring ace Charles Richards, the ISD crew moved ahead early in the game, and used their first-half margin to coast to victory. Going into the final period trailing 32-20, the Truckers were able to match their unbeaten opponents point for point throughout most of the last 20-minutes.

Richards, who went into the game holding a 24-point-per-game average, saw his seasonal mean drop off slightly during the tussle with the Truckers, but his 17 points were still enough to annex high-scoring laurels for the game. The crack bucket shooter dropped in seven shots from the court and three from the charity line.

Harry Moore, with 12 counters, was the pace-setter for the Truckers. Close behind him with nine points each were Jim Cowley and Herb O'Brien.

Tuesday night's victory gave the ISD lads claim to the No. 1 spot in the loop since their unbroken string of triumps stands at four as compared with three for the also-undefeated Airborne battalion Troopers. Last year's cage championship was captured by the airborne quintet.

By losing to the ISD squad, the Truckers dropped to an even .500 average for the season with two games chalked up in each side of their ledger. After winning their first two outings of the campaign, the Truckers dropped their following tilt on a close 43-41 verdict to the 325th Infantry regiment

Sand Hill Crew Rallies To Beat Lawson Cagers

Sand hill's Rockets stayed withing striking distance of the leaders in the current intra-mural cage circuit Thursday night by nudging past a stubborn Lawson field quintet 58-45 in the Main gymnasium.

But the Rockets found the route to victory over the Flyers surprisingly bumpy, and trailed the airmen through most of the tilt. Only a scoring splurge during the final five minutes of the game kept the Sand hill crew from being the victims of an upset.

The vastly-improved Lawsonites had dropped both of their previous outings this season, while the only loss in four starts for the Rockets was to the loop-leading Airborne battalion Troopers.

Early in the tilt, the airmen threw a scare into the Rockets by running up a margin of 11-2. But later in the first half, the Rocket bucket - shooting aces started finding the hoop, and had whittled the Flyer margin to 22-21 at the intermission.

Throughout most of the second half, the two squads matched each other goal for goal until Charles Patrick and Charles Boyd broke loose to pace the Rockets in their eleventh - hour spree.

Scoring for the Rockets was paced by Patrick, who dunked seven field goals and a pair of free throws for a total of 16 points. Jerry Clark led the Flyer scoring and notched individual honors for the tilt by dropping in a total of 19 counters. Clark's tallies were posted on nine shots from the court and one from the charity stripe.

Banquet Concludes Grid Activity For Doughboys

An elaborately-planned banquet in the post's Polo Hunt club last Tuesday night wrote finis to the 1948 grid campaign of the Fort Benning Doughboys.

Highlighting the program were brief addresses by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, and Brig. Gen. George W. Smythe, Third army chief of staff from Atlanta, Ga.

In introducing the featured speakers, Col. Onto P. Bragan, special services officer, pointed out that both were former Doughboys, and cited an instance where General Smythe once ran more than twice the length of the gridiron for a Benning touchdown.

Both principal speakers emphasized the fact that the average football player is no longer considered an individual of singular ability. They pointed out that keeping pace with the athletes of today requires quick thinking and wise decisions as well as brawn.

In opening his address, General Smythe said that the run referred to by Colonel Bragan in his introduction of the speaker seemed to get longer every time he heard the story rehashed, but verified the fact that he had reversed his field several times during the touchdown run.

Following the addresses by the two general officers, the special services officer introduced Coach Joe Shepherd of the Doughboys who said that he was offering no excuses or placing any blame on any factor for the mediocre showing made by the gridmen this year. He expressed his belief that all of the Doughboy players had performed to the best of their ability, and said that he was well-pleased with the spirit of cooperation shown throughout the season.

Also a feature of the program was the presentation of gifts by guard Bob Schneck of the post eleven, who was elected Doughboy team captain prior to the banquet. In addition to gifts for members of the coaching and managerial staff, Schneck presented a football autographed by team members to General Burress.

The after-dinner program was concluded with a short address by Capt. Bill Fannin, athletic officer, who revealed that he expects to leave soon for an overseas assignment—probably in Okinawa.

Guests for the steak dinner included high-ranking Infantry Center officials.

Infantry Court Squad Shades Medic Quintet

Hoopsters of the Infantry regiment pulled their season's average above the .500 mark last Tuesday night by chalking up a 49-23 victory over the 3440th Area Service unit Medics in the Main gymnasium.

The win was the second league triumph of the campaign for the infantrymen, whose only defeat was a 50-40 initial game loss to the Airborne battalion.

Paced the infantry scoring during his squad's two previous outings, again took the initiative in the clash with the Medics, and accounted for 17 of the 325th tallies by dropping in seven field goals and three charity tosses.

Heading the scoring parade for the Medics was Gordon Merrill, whose four shots from the court and one successful effort from the free line contributed nine points to his team's total.

Vol. 2—No. 38 | Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. For America's Most Complete Post | THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1948 | Twenty-Eight Pages

Yuletide Schedule Starts Wednesday

Light duty hours and liberal leave policies are . . in store for both military and civilian personnel of Fort Benning during the 1948-49 holiday season.

The Christmas and New Year holiday season for the post this year has been designated as the period from Wednesday, Dec. 22, through Tuesday, Jan. 4.

Christmas and New Year's day, however, will be the only full-scale holidays during the two week period. On other days, activities may operate on a reduced scale, but will function from 9 a.m. until 12 noon every day except Sundays and the two holidays.

All training is to be suspended during the period.

Unit commanders have been instructed to adopt a liberal leave policy for the season, and to grant leaves to military personnel who desire them so long as the number absent would not disrupt operations of important nature.

Students in courses of the Infantry School who are scheduled to complete their training either in January or February and leave for immediate overseas assignement, may be granted holiday leave, but will deprive themselves of the normal pre-embarkation leave by taking the time off.

To lighten the clerical work load, incoming military personnel on assigment order will not report to their new station during the holiday period. In cases where the reporting date normally would be within the two-week span, personnel will be given additional delay en route, and will not report to their new organization earlier than Jan. 4.

Civilian personnel who desire will be granted either annual leave or leave without pay during the holiday period. However, for employees, who choose to remain on duty, normal office hours will be observed.

Activities which cannot use the services of certain types of civilian personnel during the 14-day span have been directed to make a report to the Infantry Center adjutant general so that the employees may be allocated to another activity for the period.

LT. COL. J. R. WRIGHT, JR.
...gets TIC post

Col. J. R. Wright Named TIC G-3

Lt. Col. John R. Wright, Jr., has been named G-3 of the Infantry Center, succeeding Col. Walter M. Johnson who recently left Fort Benning to attend the British Imperial Defense college.

Colonel Wright served his first "tour" at Fort Benning when his father was here as chief chaplain from 1927 through 1930. Colonel Wright graduated from Columbus High school in 1930.

Upon graduation from the U. S. Military academy in 1935, Colonel Wright was assigned to the 10th Infantry regiment, Fifth Infantry division, at Fort Knox, Ky., for three years. He then came to Fort Benning to attend the basic infantry officer course, and tank course at the Infantry School, graduating in February, 1940.

His next assignment was with the First battalion, 68th Infantry (light tanks) at Fort Benning. He remained with the 68th until June, 1940, when he was ordered to the 70th Tank battalion at Fort Meade, Md. From there, in April, 1941, he went to Fort Knox again, where he was assigned to Headquarters company, First Tank group, until December, 1941.

Colonel Wright went next to Camp Polk, La., where he was with the 753rd Tank battalion until March, 1942, going from there to the 761st Tank battalion at Camp Claibourne, La., remaining with the unit until July, 1943.

Until he went overseas in August, 1944, he served as commanding officer of the Ninth Tank battalion, 20th Armored division, at Camp Campbell, Ky. Overseas he was assigned to headquarters and to several units of the Third army in Europe until May, 1945, when he

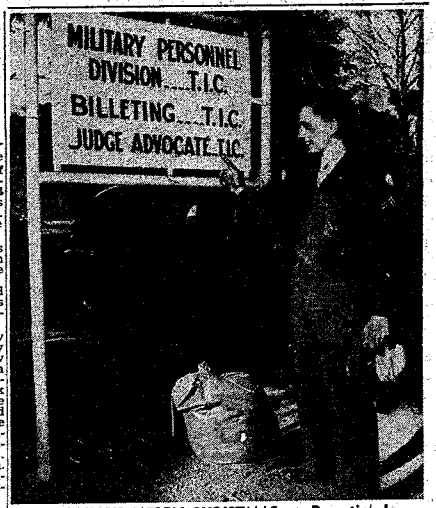
EM Allowed to Sit On Courts-Martial

Benning to Open Trials To Public Beginning Feb. 1

Beginning Feb. 1, 1949, enlisted men at Fort Benning will be allowed to sit as members of special and general courts-martial at the request of accused persons, it was announced this week by Lt. Col. Edward J. Burke, Infantry Center judge advocate.

Colonel Burke said that this is the most radical change in court-martial procedure in the history of the army.



The new procedure is based on a law passed by Congress and recently signed by President Truman.

Information regarding the new setup is derived from a study of an advance copy of the new manual for couris-martial and a meeting which Colonel Burke attended in Washington last week at which all the judges advocate in the army in this country and from all over the world were present. Among those who addressed the meeting were Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, Vice Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins and Judge Advocate General Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Green.

At Fort Benning, enlisted men to be tried by special or general court martial may request that other enlisted men sit as members of the court before which they are tried. When an enlisted man makes this request a minimum of one third of the members of the court must be enlisted men.

In the case of a special court,

BENNING'S MERRY CHRISTMAS . . .Reporting In

Merry Christmas Here Sans Tinsel

BY LEWIS MCAFEE

Unheralded by the tinkling of bells and devoid of any tinsel trimmings, Fort Benning's long - promised Merry Christmas arrived here 13 shopping days before Dec. 25.

As a matter of fact, the welcome mat at Headquarters and Service company of the Airborne battalion had been rolled out for Christmas since Nov. 26.

But when Pfc. Merry L. Christmas, serial number RA-18289823, sat down his barracks bag in front of headquarters and reported in, he had little difficulty in explaining his two - week delay to his new commanding officer, Capt. E. M. Harrell.

Originally scheduled to arrive here from the Panama Canal zone on Nov. 26, the slender, dark - haired soldier was delayed when his air - travel orders were cancelled, and a new set of orders issued to direct his travel by troop transport.

Despite his illustrious monicker, Pfc. Christmas looks surprisingly like an ordinary GI. The pack he carried on his back at the time of his arrival here contained only the customary paraphernalia of a soldier instead of such things as candy, nuts and toys.

The 19 - year - old Pfc. was somewhat amazed over the large - scale ado his arrival created. He said that he always has received the expected quantity of snickers and guffaws when asked to give his name, but added that this is the first time such an issue has been made of the matter.

Although he aspires to become a paratrooper, Pfc. Christmas may take on some extra - curricular activity here during the holiday season.

Christmas, however, indicated that he would rather spend the holidays at his home in Dermott, Ark.

Whether he spends the season here or in Arkansas, however, will have very little effect on his airborne training since his jump class very likely will not start until after the first of the year.

Christmas got the idea of becoming a paratrooper from his older brother, Gifford, who was stationed with an airborne unit at Benning during the war.

Although his primary interest is in learning airborne tactics from start to finish, Christmas hopes that the time will never come when he has to put his training to practical use.

"I hope we can remain at peace, and that if we have to fight, America will be ready," is his wish for all the world.

Aside from wanting to spend Christmas in Dermott with his father, a retired farmer, he

Military Income Taxable Jan. 1

Beginning Jan. 1 Fort Benning personnel will find their "pay envelopes" somewhat slimmer due to the resumption of payment of income taxes on service pay by members of the armed forces.

The former total exemption of enlisted personnel and the $1,500 exemption for officers ends Dec. 31 inasmuch as the income tax will be made from the January payroll.

First deductions—withholding ta xwill be made from the January payroll. No deductions will be made, however, from pay earned prior to Dec. 31 of this year in event the soldier was not paid on the December payroll.

If payment is made by check, the date of the check constitutes the date of payment. All 1948 earnings, regardless of when paid, will be disregarded and excluded from taxable income figures and from tax withholding.

According to a memorandum issued by the post finance officer, officers have been instructed to file with the finance officer of the Infantry Center, on or before Dec. 31, a form W - 4, Withholding Exemption Certificate, stating the number of exemptions claimed for the calendar year 1949. When a change occurs in the number of exemptions claimed, a new certificate must be prepared and filed in the same manner. The forms are to be procured by personnel officers.

Upon a change of station, the officer must secure from the Infantry Center finance officer a Form W-2 (withholding statement) which will show the taxable income and tax withheld at that station. Upon completion of payments for the calendar year 1948, Forms W-2 will automatically be furnished each officer on duty at Fort Benning.

Partial payments will not be subject to tax withholding, but will be included for taxing purposes in the succeeding settlements of the individual's pay the memorandum pointed out.

While on temporary duty away from Fort Benning, officers should make arrangements to be paid by the Infantry Center finance officer in order to eliminate filing additional Forms W-4 with, or obtaining Forms W-2 from, different disbursing officers. The utilization of partial payment privileges, while on temporary duty, will serve the same purpose.

Allotments currently in effect are being reviewed, and officers were ordered, if their allotments are affected by the withholding tax bcause of excessiveness, to report them before noon yesterday.

This is necessary because the withholding tax is a deduction from pay and, as such, will be collected before pay is available for authorized deductions or stoppages. Pay which may be allotted by military personnel must be reduced by the amount of the tax that is withheld, the memorandum further revealed.

All enlisted men must file a Form W-4 with their personnel officers before Dec. 31, stating the number of exemptions they are claiming for the calendar year 1949. Whenever a change occurs in the number of exemptions claimed, a new certificate must be prepared and file the same manner. Forms are being procured by personnel officers through normal publication supply channels.

Provisions relative to excess allotments and their reductions are the same as for officers.

All military personnel have been advised of the importance of submitting withholding exemption certificates, for, according to a Bureau of Internal Revenue circular, "If an employe fails or refuses to furnish a (withholding exemption) certificate, the employer is required to withhold tax as if the employee had claimed no withholding exemptions."

It is the responsibility of all members of the military service to preserve and retain withholding statements received from disbursing and personnel officers, finance officials said. These statements show the amounts withheld from pay. The ceived from a particular station and serve as receipts for amounts withheld from ay. The forms are also required to accompany individual income tax returns.

The withholding of tax at the source, the memorandum continued, in no manner relieves personnel of their responsibility to file individual income tax returns by the date and in the manner prescribed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Officials also said that tax returns must be made by military personnel on all outside sources of income, such as stocks and bonds.

Benning

the minimum membership of which is three, this will automatically insure at least one enlisted man as a court member. For a general court, which must consist of at least five members, this will automatically insure at least two enlisted members. At Fort Benning however, the membership of both special and general courts is generally larger than the minimum and the membership of enlisted men may thus be proportionately increased.

No soldier in the same unit with the accused may sit on the court. The Infantry Center policy, Colonel Burke stated, is that members of the court be from a unit other than that to which the defendent belongs.

No person may be tried by any person junior to him in rank. For example, if a sergeant is brought to trial before a special or general court and requests the inclusion of enlisted men on the court, the enlisted court members must all be sergeants or of higher grade. This approximates the civilian conception of the trial of an accused by a jury of his peers.

Trial personnel will be selected from a roster of trained personnel with certain qualifications. These include age, experience, training and judicial temperament. Personnel of the "panel" from which the court members are chosen must be equal or senior in rank to the defendent and be from other units. New lists of qualified court members will be compiled frequently.

An accused person, Colonel Burke went on, may challenge any member of the court for cause, as: the fact that the challenged person knows about the case, is the accuser, is a witness for the prosecution or investigated the case. The defendant may challenge one prospective member of the court peremptorily—for any cause or for no cause at all. Here again this procedure is comparable to civilian court procedure in that the defendant has something to say concerning the composition of his "jury."

During January a two-objective training program will be in operation throughout the Infantry Center, Colonel Burke said, to insure that persons coming before general or special courts beginning Feb. 1 may have qualified enlisted persons as court members.

First objective of the program is the training of a sufficient number of warrant officers and enlisted men of appropriate qualifications to permit the new court-martial law to go into effect Feb. 1.

The second goal during January is to train sufficient instructors so that from Feb. 1 on, all military personnel, with the exception of general officers, will be trained in the procedures of the new manual. Target date for publication of the new manual, Colonel Burke said, is Jan. 1. The schools will be at unit level and will be conducted under the supervision of the Judge Advocate section. They will be held continually.

Trials will be open to the public, Colonel Burke continued, and the time and place of the trials will be announced in bulletins. The court may, however, order the trial closed in certain cases, but the general policy will be to keep them open.

As defense counsel the accused will continue, as always, to be permitted to select a civilian attorney at his own expense if he so wishes. He is also entitled to qualified military personnel as defense counsel, without cost.

Two other changes in legal procedures were also explained by the judge advocate. The first was the announcement that henceforth officers and warrant officers may be tried by special court-martial. They were formerly tried only by general court-martial.

The second change is a new type of discharge. This is the "bad conduct" discharge for repeated minor offenses or for exclusively military offenses, such as absent without leave. The dishonorable discharge will be reserved for serious military or civil offenses.

Colonel Wright was a student at the Command and General Staff college at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., until February, 1946, when he returned to Germany for assignment to the Joint Plans section of the G-3 division, Headquarters, U. S. Forces European theater.

In August, 1947, he returned to the U. S. and was assigned to the Infantry Center as assistant G-3.

If he does manage to get home, however, Christmas wants to talk his former school teacher, Mrs. Montre Bullock, into playing Santa Claus for a school party. Last Christmas, he was home in time to help a huddy, W. L. Chester, distribute gifts at the small school.

Christmas was an avid believer in Santa Claus until he was 10 years old, and feels that children should be encouraged in believing in St. Nick.

As for his views on what Christmas should be today, the colorfully named Pfc. prefers the old - time style of holiday festivities, including family reunions, turkey with all the trimmings and plum pudding.

In his 19 years, Christmas has spent only one holiday season away from home — 1946, when he pulled guard duty in Korea on Dec. 25.

Explaining how he got that name, Christmas said that his mother chose the name "Merry, as a contraction of "Marion", his grandfather's given monicker.

He intends to make the army a career, and said that he already is convinced that he is going to enjoy his stay at Benning.

Officer Has Good Reason To Be First Blood Donor

Lt. Weldon H. Adams, 39th Field Artillery battalion, hopes that the blood he donates to the Red Cross mobile blood bank Dec. 20 will some day save a life just as his life was saved during the war by someone else's donation.

Lieutenant Adams, who has been selected as the first man to give blood to the bank, was wounded Oct. 9, 1944; during the fighting in Southern France while serving with the 79th Infantry division. During two and one half years of hospitalization and nine operations he estimates that he received 12 blood transfusions.

A total of 150 members of the 39th have volunteered to give blood during the mobile blood bank's visit. Among the donors, in addition to Lieutenant Weldon, are Cpl. Robert J. Barnes, Headquarters and Headquarters battery, who has already given four pints, and Jack S. Bradley and James A. Jones, Service battery, who have given three.

The traveling caravan will be met upon its arrival here Sunday, Dec. 10, by a committee from the Red Cross auxiliary headed by Mrs. Carl E. Frisby. After preparing ward A-20, at the Station hospital, for the drawing, the ward will be open for inspection. With the caravan are six registered nurses, a head technician, two doctors and two blood technicians.

Donations will begin at 8 a. m. Monday, Dec. 20, with approximately 32 drawings made hourly. Following the drawing, donors will be given coffee, doughnuts and fruit juice.

Branch Billeting Office Moves to New Location

The downtown branch of the Infantry Center billeting office has moved from the Chamber of Commerce suites in the Ralson hotel to the U. S. Army-U. S. Airforce recruiting office at 10th avenue and Broadway in Columbus, it has been revealed.

Reason for the change, according to Maj. Charles H. Hallden of the Infantry Center billeting office, is to provide more space and convenience for applicants.

ARMY EDUCATION

Good Bargains Offered Free!

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of five articles dealing with Fort Benning's Army Education Center. In today's article, the author poses a pertinent question which should interest every Benningite: Are you preparing yourself to fit into the future plans of the army?

BY MISS MABEL YORK
EDUCATION COUNSELLOR

Did you ever pass up a bargain and later find a neighbor enjoying that bargain which you could have had with just a little effort and almost no money? If you did, you weren't very proud of yourself, were you? Many men at Fort Benning are passing up the biggest bargain they can ever hope to have come their way.

I'm wondering if it's because they don't know it exists and is available to every man on the post. I wonder if those who do know about it realize that accepting this bargain may mean the difference between being promoted or being passed over.

The army has established a career management plan, and the local Army Education Center facilities furnish the means by which soldiers can gain the konwledge necessary for advancement under this plan.

The troop information and education office records are proving to be most helpful to company commanders and staff officers in determing MOS qualifications and promotional prerequisites.

Just last week a company commander told me he was considering two men for a job that would mean a promotion for the one selected. One of the men had taken advantage of three courses offered in our Army Education Center. The other man had never attempted to further his education and lacked some of the training he could easily have gotten in his spare time if he had been interested. Needless to say, the man who had furthered his education is now wearing a new chevron. This is one of many similar incidents which we, in the center, see happening here at Fort Benning every day.

The army realizes that the educational needs and interests of its men vary; that duty schedules, personal responsibilities and other problems differ. Course material in thirty-nine different subject fields and the ways and means of pursuing studies have been provided so that no man is deprived of education facilities, regardless of circumstances. The Education Center night school is set up for group study classes with qualified instructors. Correspondence and self-teaching courses provide an opportunity for individual study. College and university extension courses allow military personnel to work toward college credits with the army bearing most of the expense. Testing service is available to those who want credit from civilian schools for work done in military service.

My job at the Education Center is to help you with your educational problems, to determine your educational needs and to work out a program tailored to fit your individual case.

The most important thing to keep in mind is that the army needs your knowledge of these subjects so that you will be the soldier needed in today's modern Army—and to prepare you to meet the complex needs of our future fighting force. The army is planning for the future. Are you preparing yourself to fit into this plan?

Benning Assured Ample Housing for New Troops

A Columbus realtor yesterday told Fort Benning officials, worried about housing for a new group of troops from Camp Campbell, Ky., that the supply of homes here will top the demand by June, 1949.

Murray Calhoun, the realtor, who was one of about 20 Columbus businessmen attending a "housing shortage" meeting with Post authorities, declared:

"When the demand comes (for new housing), building will start again. Supply and demand will govern it."

The group agreed to draw up a resolution emphasizing that Columbus will provide housing, will cooperate with necessary agencies to obtain it, and will seek the Federal Housing Administration Authority's help.

Col. D. P. Buckland, personnel G-1 head at Fort Benning, was introduced by Chamber of Commerce President James W. Woodruff Jr. and said:

"We have no quarrel with what is being done in Columbus and vicinity. We have had excellent support from everybody.

"We are facing an acute housing shortage due to the transfer to Fort Benning of the Third division, less one combat team. While we have no figures on the expansion at Lawson Field, we are in need of more apartments and houses."

Survey in January

It was pointed out that an FHA expert will come to Columbus from Jacksonville, Fla., in January to make a survey.

Brown Nicholson, executive director, Housing Authority of Columbus, said one man wanted to build 250 apartments between Columbus and Fort Benning, having a maximum rent of $50 a month, but decided against the plan.

"There will be no great influx of personnel sufficient to cause a disaster in Columbus," Colonel Buckland stated. "I don't want to overstate the condition.

"We need facilities for the first three grade officers, many of whom, as do the men in the lower grades, have families and dependents. When an officer is transferred, he must vacate his quarters within 30 days. They have to find some place for their families. We find that if they can bring their families it builds moral.

Money-Making Champ

Freddy Mill, light heavyweight champion of the world, is cashing in on his title. He gave an inexperienced Johnny Ralph a shellacking in Johannesburg, South Africa, recently to the tune of 14,000 pounds ($56,000). The South Africans paid a total of $168,000 to see the champion in action.

Add 3 Days To Training

Bad weather for flying has necessitated adding three additional days to the training program for basic airborne class No. 12, it has been reported. The class has already taken its novice glider flight.

Scouts Collect Toys

Fort Benning's cub scouts and last Saturday collected broken discarded toys which were repaired and repainted this week by volunteers in the Hobby Shop for distribution to needy children of military personnel, both on and off the post.

Strictly Editorializing

Not only is the American soldier the best dressed soldier in the world, but also the most comfortably clad.

Designers of the U. S. Army uniform, we believe, have done their utmost to produce a neat, dressy appearing garment which can be worn smartly and comfortably by an overwhelming majority of the men in the service.

During World War II, several accessories, which, although slightly uncomfortable, offered additional protection to the soldier, were mandatory. Today, however, the constant wearing of these items has been eliminated.

When we see a soldier who has taken off his tie, removed his cap or stripped himself of his jacket under the pretense of being more comfortable, we can't help but wonder whether he actually is suffering from discomfort, or is just trying to parade his defiance of uniform regulations.

From our observations, major offenders of uniforms rules at Fort Benning are at a minimum. And we don't believe the gratifying results are obtained through a constant round of brow-beating and carpet-calls by unit commanders. We hope these measures never become necessary.

It's your uniform, soldier: wear it with pride—and comfort.

Will NCAC Succeed?

We have learned of the existence of an organization—National Council Against Conscription—whose purpose is to thwart the passage of any type of military training legislation, particularly Universal Military Training. This council has a publication called Conscription News, which, according to its editor, is needed if "we are to keep informed and active in this field," meaning, of course, opposition to military training.

Frankly, we don't think any such self-formed council, or its publication, purporting to be a proponent of real Americanism, has any right to feel that its purpose is justified. Nor do we feel that any American, regardless of his stand on universal military training, should give any active support to such an organization, especially in the form of cash contributions which the council is avidly seeking at this time to carry its fight to the next Congress.

Some of the propaganda in Conscription News and in letters from the council to individuals is so completely out of line with any logical thinking as to make one wonder how any normal American citizen could be duped into believing it. As an example, we quote from a letter w itten by the council to the editor of Armed Force—which, by the way, opposes the National Council Against Conscription—"the military establishment plans to begin ROTC units in girls' schools, and penetrate both labor and business organizations with personnel and procedures for greater control of our economy."

This really makes us laugh. Even the idea of compulsory wearing of uniforms by college girls is rediculous, but to declare that the army would advocate such a policy is too outrageous for consideration. As for labor and business penetration—what a fallacious deduction! How either of these could be penetrated by the army—even should the army want to, and certainly it doesn't—the council declines to say. We, however, would be willing to bet that any such attempt would result in utter failure, simply because the organization of business and labor is so strong that nothing could penetrate very far.

The unfortunate factor to be considered when discussing the National Council Against Conscription is the universal desire for peace. Everybody in America—and most of all the army—wants peace, peace for all time. Consequently, this movement will doubtlessly gain a pretty strong following from among all social and educational levels.

We imagine, too, that a great number of mothers will be the most ardent supporters. Mothers have always tried to shield their sons from any unpleasantness, and we are aware that there can be some unpleasantness associated with army life. This is especially true of the youth who has been sheltered so completely that he finds adjustment to regimentation difficult. Other support will doubtlessly come from draft dodgers, those men who enjoy all the fruits of democracy, but object to doing their share to insure that they will continue to live under democratic rule. This is one of life's most tragic ironies.

We hope for passage of a Universay Military Training bill because we firmly believe that a majority of the people want it. We believe they want it because we believe they are interested in remaining free, and only through strength can we remain free.

To advocate military training is not war-mongering, and no one who is really conscious of the purpose behind military training in time of peace believes it is. Still, there are a few who would be false to themselves and to others for purely selfish reasons.

It's regretable that nations must have armies, but until the day comes when all people can live together without resorting to violence, one against the other, they will be necessary. And it behooves each American to insist that his country has not merely a good army, but the best.

Chaplain's Corner..

GREATEST CHRISTMAS GIFT

By

Chaplain Harvey M. Hardin

If you should go to Bethlehem today, a guide would tell you that Christian people built church buildings over historical spots connected with the life of Jesus. He would show you the Church of the Nativity and the cave under it, a stable where Jesus was born.

He would tell you that this church is most likely the oldest Christian church building in the whole world, some parts of it going back to the first Christian centuries. When the Moslem religion arose several hundred years later, and its armies conquered Palestine, they destroyed the Christian churches at Jerusalem. The church at Bethlehem was spared because wise men from the East had honored Jesus and His birthplace by making gifts. The Moslems said, "We are from the East, too, and we will not destroy this place for the sake of the wise men."

However, they used the church building as a stable. They stored hay in it. Donkeys and camels lived in it. The church building became filled with barnyard filth. Later, Christian people got possession of the building. They cleaned out the dirt, made the building beautiful and used it again to worship God. Stone masons closed up the door with mortar and stones and left a very small door so that only one person could go in or come out at the same time. Even he could not stand up straight but must stoop to enter the place of Jesus' birth.

Seeing the place of Jesus' birth and hearing the guide's story suggest two thoughts. You must humble yourself to see Jesus Christ. You can't stand proud and self-righteous. You must bow lowly and ask God to forgive your sins and to make you clean and strong. God will receive and help you when you come humble. As soon as you give yourself to God, He will give abundant and eternal life to you.

The other thought is, Jesus is a door to keep evil thoughts and deeds out of your life. He will keep you from being enslaved or destroyed by foul and vulgar sins. Even as the Church of the Nativity door is small and strong to keep out donkeys and trash, in like manner Christ keeps evil out of your heart. He makes your inner life clean and beautiful so that you can worship and have fellowship with God, the Heavenly Father.

An experience like this is the greatest Christmas gift anyone could receive. Wouldn't you like to have it? God will give it if you do your part to receive it.

THE FIRESIDE BOOK OF ROMANCE

Don't let the title, "The Fireside Book of Romance", mislead you. This collection of "romantic" stories—nearly fifty of them—has no connection whatsoever with any true love magazines or any Esquire bedside readers. Romance, according to Edward Wagenknecht has attempted to give an example of almost everything that could be construed as "romantic", and in our opinion he has almost succeeded.

Thus we have been given in this one book stories of far away and long ago, of Geoffrey Chaucer and the days of King Arthur, tales of adventure by Sir Walter Scott and James Norman Hall and Ernest Thompson Senton. There are stories here of the romance of the mind, of the world within, by Virginia Woolf and Katherine Mansfield and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. Ghost stories, stories of fantasy and the supernatural, of the "curious incident", by James Branch Cabell, Walter de la Mare, Robert Louis Stevenson, Thomas Hardy, and Joseph Shearing, and by authors whose names are still not known. Even John Steinbeck, whom we had always thought of as a very definite "realist", is represented in this book of romance.

In the subdivision, "Aspects of the American Dream", we have Nathaniel Hawthorne, Joseph Hergesheimer, Conrad Richter and Stephen Crane, and to show the "way of a man with a maid" there are stories by James Stephens, Joseph Conrad, Elanor Farjeon, Stephen Vincent Benet, Barry Benefield and Sherwood Anderson. And as proof that romance still lives there are selections from A.E. Coppard, Thomas Wolfe, Aldous Huxley, Somerset Maugham, L. A. G. Strong and even O. Henry. In other words, the index reads almost like a "Who's Who" of literature.

Many of the stories are quite familiar; some of them as far as we are concerned, could have very well been left out. "A Tradition of Eighteen Hundred and Four" seems a very poor representation of Thomas Hardy. Nathaniel Hawthorne has certainly written better stories than "Endicott and the Red Cross", although this does foreshadow "The Scarlet Letter." The dialect in Scott's "Wandering Willie's Tale" always annoys us, though it may be enjoyable to others. And we would like to see one anthology that does not include Stevenson's "The Sire de Maletroit's Door" or O. Henry's "A Municipal Report".

On the other hand, there are many stories here that are new to us, and many others that we were glad to re-read. With forty-one authors and forty-two stories — Walter de la Mare is represented twice— the reader should certainly be able to find something he likes. There may even be some readers who will get something out of the introductions to each section, but we must admit we found Dr. Wagenknecht a little too erudite for us, and we still haven't determined what he thinks romance is.

The word "giving" so frequently heard and of special interest at Christmas time interested me. The very saying of the word seems to imply passing on something of yourself. So, I looked it up to see what Webster had to say and he had to say plenty - four columns in the unabridged dictionary. Nevertheless, he used such phrases as to yield, willing, to deliver, to part with. I enjoyed reading the whole page of definitions, and you will too. Look it up some time.

Then in my search for more definitions of the word "giving," I heard Rabbi Weiss of Columbus on the radio. Rabbi Weiss said there were eight different kinds of givers:

First and lowest is to give, but with reluctance and regret.

The second is to give cheerfully, but not proportionately to the distress of the sufferer.

The third is to give cheerfully and proportionately, but not until solicited.

The fourth is to give cheerfully, proportionately, unsolicited, but to put the gift directly in the poor man's hand, exciting in him the painful emotion of shame.

The fifth is to give in such a way that the distressed may receive the bounty, and know his benefactor, without the benefactor being known to him.

The sixth, which rises still higher is to know the objects of our bounty, but remain unknown to them.

The seventh is still more meritorious, namely, to bestow charity in such a manner that the benefactor may not know the relieved persons, nor the relieve person the name of his benefactor.

Lastly, the eighth and highest step, and the most meritorious of all, is to anticipate charity by preventing poverty.

This last is the philosophy of donations made to the Red Cross for the idealism of Red Cross is giving of yourself, of your time and of your efforts in any way possible to relieve and prevent suffering.

I think, though, there is a ninth and still higher type of giving, and my vote for this place goes to the giving of blood for anyone who may be in need of it. This embodies the same spirit that prompted the founding of the Red Cross.

The giving of blood means more than obtaining blood. It is the giving of something definitely precious, something that can not be manufactured, something that may mean life itself, for others. It is an expression of neighborliness without thought of personal reward.

The giving of blood is imbued with the philosphy of peace for it leaves its humanitarian mark in the hearts of those who give for their fellowmen.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

MEXICAN HAYRIDE (comedy) with Bud Abbott, Lou Costello and Virginia Grey. Abbott and Costello transfer their usual zany antics to the bull ring of Mexico. Recommended for family.

JUNGLE JIM (adventure) with Johnny Weissmuller and Virginia Grey. Abandoning his Tarzan role for that of the comic strip favorite, Jungle Jim, Johnny Weissmuller continues his hair-raising adventure. Recommended for family.

THE DARK PAST (melodrama) with William Holden, Lee J. Cobb and Nina Foch. Can a police psychiatrist successfully pit his training against a killer's gun? That was what the psychiatrist had to find out when trapped in his home by an escaped killer. Recommended for adult.

EVERY GIRL SHOULD BE MARRIED (comedy) with Cary Grant, Franchot Tone and Diana Lynn. The female of the species is on the prowl in this amazing comedy. Believing that woman ought to be bolder about capturing her man, Betsy Drake provides plenty of laughs as she sets out to hook Cary Grant. Recommended for family.

HOMICIDE FOR THREE (melodrama) with Warren Douglas, Audrey Long and Lloyd Corrigan. It was tough enough getting a 36-hour pass to go on his honeymoon, but when a man has to spend the time solving a couple of murders he almost ends up a bachelor. Recommended for family.

INDIAN AGENT (western) with Tim Holt, Richard Martin and Nan Leslie. Tim Holt has plenty of fighting to do to help an Indian tribe expose the crooked deals of an unscrupulous Indian agent. Recommended for family.

To Amuse You Today

After an editor found that he had space to fill in the first edition, he had the Ten Commandments set without any explanation. A few days later a letter arrived stating: "Cancel my subscription. You're getting too personal."

* * *

The men were filling out the new forms for income tax. One newly-married soldier first listed a deduction for his wife, and in the space marked "Deduction For Children," he typed Watch This Space!

* * *

A mess sergeant, noted for his quick tongue, was standing an inspection under the new mess officer who was determined to ask something the old-timer couldn't answer. The officer pointed to a large kettle of boiling water, and queried, "Why does the water boil around the edges before it does in the center?"

* * *

Mess Sergeant: "That water, sir, is for the men on guard. They have to get up a half hour earlier than the rest of the company."

* * *

Famous last words: "But colonel, this doesn't make sense!"

* *

Ah, for the good old days when the gals dressed true to form.

* *

The great big beautiful car drew up to the curb where the cute little girl was waiting for a bus, and a gentleman stuck his head out the window and said:

"Hello, I'm driving west."

"How wonderful," said the girl. "Bring me back an orange."

* * *

The sergeant of the main gate stopped a neat appearing young man in a well fitting uniform.

"What's the eighth general order of the sentry?" he asked.

"Beats me," was the reply.

"Don't you even know enough to say 'sir?' Have you even been on guard duty?"

"No."

"What's your command anyway?"

"None; I'm the Coca Cola man."

A midget died. Immediately one of his friends called the undertaker and ordered a short bier.

* * *

"That's a hot number," said the steer, as a branding iron was pressed against his leg.

* * *

"The horse wanted to go one way and I another."

"What happened?"

"The horse tossed me for it."

The train for N'Orleans had just pulled out of St. Louis and the passengers settled back for the trip. A handsomely tall man in the Suthn Cunnel tradition, entered the club car and with great dignity raised his voice and asked: 'Is theah a gentleman from Shelby county, Tennessee, present?"

One man stood up: "Ah'm a native of that county, suh!"

"Fine," beamed the first man. "Ah wondah if Ah might borrow youah cok screw for a minute, suh?"

* * *

Twiggs (over telephone): Hello, Riggs. Did you see the report of my death in the morning paper?"

"Riggs: "Er — yes. Where are you talking from?"

* * *

Lady (holding out a cookie to a dog): "Speak, speak."

Little dog: "What'll I say?"

First Roommate: "Have you got a picture of yourself?"

Second Roommate: "Yeah."

1st Roommate: "Then let me use that mirror I want to shave."

* * *

I want a pair of spec-rimmed hornicles — I means sporn-rimmed hectacles— confound it —I mean heck-rimmed spornales.

I know what you mean sir. Mr. Peck, show this gentleman a pair of rimspanned hectacles.

Son: "Pop, what makes electricity?"

Pop: (busy with paper) "Don't know, son."

Son: "Well, what about thunder and lighting?"

Pop: "Couldn't prove it by me, son.

Son "What makes— (beginning to be disgusted) oh, well forget it. Pop."

Pop: "That's all right, son. You ask questions, and lots of them. That's the only way you'll learn."

* * *

Girl: (in French style swim suit) "Doctor, is there any way to be vaccinated so the mark won't show?"

MD: (looking her over) "Not unless you swallow the vaccine!"

* * *

Co-ed: "Professor, what do you think of me now that I've kissed you."

Prof: "You'll pass."

Jackie Van Vliet Birthday Party

Mrs. J. H. Van Vliet, Jr., entertained Friday afternoon at her quarters on First Division road, honoring her daughter, Jackie, on her fifth birthday.

Christmas decorations were used and the favors were red Santa Claus boots filled with lollypops.

The guests included Ann Gerhart, Katherine and Tommy Hayes, Kathy, Barry and Miles Smith, Catherine Monroe, Vickie Ward, Ginger and Penny Rawlins, Judy Bangert, Bobby Phelps, Susan Nicholas and Sara Ann Walters.

Philharmonics Give Program

On Sunday evening, December 12, at 6:30 p.m., a program of Christmas and sacred music and spirituals was presented in the airborne chapel before a gathering of military personnel by the Philharmonic Chorus.

The chorus, composed of 30 voices, mainly soldiers and their wives, have in the past several seasons, presented many programs in local churches and on the post. This volunteer, non-profit, musical organization, under the direction of Sgt. Willis Brown, of Section II, 3440th Area Service unit, has sung frequently over radio stations and churches in the local and surrounding areas.

Talented Young Actress Delights Large Audience At Woman's Club Meeting

With a varied program that included everything from a satirical Lady Isabel of East Lynn to the mischievous Puck of Midsummer Night's Dream, Mary Hutchinson, talented young dramatic monologist, was enthusiastically received by a large audience at the Woman's club general meeting Monday afternoon.

Miss Hutchinson got off to a good start with her first number, "A Case of Mistaken Identity" in which she portrayed a rather Billie Burkish tupe of giddy wife. For her second number "Mountain Idyll" she became Daisybelle, a hillbilly gal of the Smoky Mountains.

She really came into her own as Lady Isabel of East Lynn, in which she did the most delightful "hamming" we have ever seen. If the members of the audience weren't exactly "rolling in the aisles" they at least were standing on tiptoes so they they wouldn't miss a single gesture in her deathbed scene.

In "Bridgett" an original sketch by Norah O'Shea, she became an Irish charwoman who wanted nothing false. Another interesting character which Miss Hutchinson presented was Rosie the War Worker, whom she met at a railroad station, and who was more interested in her boy friend "Hoiman" than in making bomber planes. Her description—with demonstrations — of the ballet as seen by Rosie's girl friend Pearl were actually side-splitting.

The short farewell scene by Puck in Midsummer Night's Dream was a fitting close to a very enjoyable program.

In our opinion, one of the best features of Miss Hutchinson's sketches was the ease with which the transitions from one scene to another were made. There were no long waits between acts, and the actress changed from one character to another swiftly and easily, making complete costume changes right on the stage by means of a small portable dressing room of translucent screens. As she retired to this she continued her lines while preparing the audience for the next character.

Preceding the program there was a short business meeting with Mrs. Charles Pence, presiding. Mrs. Pence announced that the tea which was originally scheduled to follow the program would not be held as it had been decided to purchase CARE packages with the money ordinarily used for this purpose.

Baby Barracks Nursery Popular With Youngsters

"We'd love to go to church, if we just had someone to leave the children with."

How many times have you heard that? Well, it's out of date at Fort Benning, now that the Baby Brats church nursery has opened up.

Baby Barracks is what Chaplain Wallace Hale, who had a great deal to do with it, calls a "dream come true." From the tiny one, two and three rooms, where the crib agers can nap in peace, through the supply rooms, kitchen, on through the big playroom, with its fenced in Toddlers Havens, its swings and slides and seesaws, back to the Sunday School classroom for the under-four-year-olds, the nursery has just about everything, including a number of very happy youngsters, from four months on up, and a number of even happier parents.

For they know their children are well taken care of. Mrs. D. Sanderson, who is in charge of the nursery, and her assistant, Mrs. Anne Veale, see to that. Mrs. Sanderson has another assistant too, a very valuable one—her granddaughter, Joanne Hackett, who is ten years old and has a "way" with children and thoroughly enjoys helping with them. "Joannee" always sleeps late on other mornings" says Mrs. Sanderson, "but on Sundays she's up a half an hour early so she can come down here with me."

And Joanne is right there every Sunday morning from 8:30 when the nursery opens until it closes at 12:30.

Baby Barracks, which is located in building 1135, back of Greene hall and near Brat Barracks, doesn't look much like the hospital ward from which it was made. The interior has been completely done over and modern equipment has been installed. The small offices have been turned into private rooms for the youngsters.

In Tiny room number one, tiny room number two and tiny room number three—they all have their names on the doors—each have two cribs in them. Then there are supply rooms, a kitchen, wash rooms for little miss and little mister, all made from the offices.

The large "ward room" has been made into the play area, with fenced off spaces for the toddlers of different ages. The play equipment is completely modern, and one of the most popular places is the slide. Some of the youngsters can hardly wait to get their coats off before they're sliding down it, or swinging in one of the several different types of swings.

Children from one to three have their Sunday School classes in the enclosed proch at the back. Its many windows, like all the other windows in the nursery, bright with special toy-figured curtains. Mrs. Edwin Gravel is in charge and M-Sgt. John Scoville comes down every Sunday to play the organ for the class.

There is one thing wrong with Baby Barracks according to Mrs. Robert Short, whose three-year-old John registers at the nursery every Sunday, "I can't get my boy to leave. I think he wants to move down here."

And if we can judge by the happy and excited children who stay at the nursery while their parents are in church we imagine there are a lot of others who don't want to leave.

Dear Santa Claus:

All Glib Promises Made To Recruits To Go In Writing

The soldier's lament that "the recruiting sergeant said I'd be a master sergeant in six months" is now a thing of the past.

No longer can the man who enlisted for Paris and wound up in Pago-Pago say that the recruiting sergeant did him dirt. It's all in black and white, now.

Enthusiastic recruiting personnel, some of whom were not exactly disinclined to stretch a point here and there in the past, will find that about - to - be soldiers can pin them down, now, way down.

For now when a man listens to the "Travel, Education and Career" spiels he can say, "How about putting those promises in black on white?" and the recruiter will do just that. A new form, NME Form 4, came into use this month, and every promise or pledge made by a recruiter is put on that form which becomes a permanent part of the soldier's record.

The new form provides space for the applicant to write down, himself, any promises made to him relative to grade, branch of service, assignment, transportation and or housing for dependents" or practically anything else. If any of the promises made to the applicant can't be realized, the recruiters can't enlist the man.

Visit Here Last Week

Col. John Meade and Lt. Col. Morgan B. Heasley, Third army, visited Fort Benning last week in connection with G-2 activities.

Red Cross Auxiliary Shows Progress in all Activities

The Fort Benning Red Cross Auxiliary, established in November, is making headway in it's organization and activities on the post. At the general meeting on Dec. 7, reports indicating progress were made by the chairmen of the various services.

Mrs. Daniel P. Buckland, chairman of the Motor Corps unit, started her first class of volunteers by giving instructions in motor maintenance, military map reading and first aid. Many girls under 17 on the post have asked that a Junior Motor Corps be established. This unit will be started following the training of the present Motor Corps unit.

The Arts and Skill committee, with Mrs. John L. Campbell as its chairman, is working at the Station hospital three afternoons each week wrapping packages for patients, and will help decorate the wards for Christmas parties. Mrs. Campbell has asked for more volunteers for the Christmas project.

The Entertainment and Instruction service under the chairmanship of Mrs. Richard Miccachion, is working with the hospital Red Cross staff to provide entertainment for ward Christmas parties on Dec. 22. On Dec. 24 from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p. m. the feature Christmas party will be held. It will be an opportunity for women of the post to make Christmas something special for soldiers who will have to spend the holidays in the hospital. Members who have time to devote to the project, or have daughters who will be home from college for the holidays interested in making the party a success were asked to call Mrs. Dayton Warren at Columbus 3-4219.

The Senior Girl Scout Troop No. 8 and the Intermediate troop have been assisting the Red Cross by sorting Chrismas cards to be used by patients in the hospital. On Christmas morning, a filled stocking will be provided for each patient. The stockings and contents, provided by the Red Cross, will be filled by the Girl Scouts.

The Auxiliary will make its first public appearance on Dec. 20 at the Station hospital when the Mobile Blood unit from Atlanta, Ga., will be there. While the blood unit carries its own professional staff of two doctors, six nurses and two blood technicians, it depends on the Red Cross Auxiliaries of army posts to supplement its personnel for efficient operation. The Canteen service, under the direction of Mrs. H. A. Stewart, will serve doughnuts coffee and fruit juices to the donors. The Gray Ladies under the direction of Mrs. Horace Gibson, will assist as hostesses. Mrs. Charles M. Crawford will supervise the work of the Nurses Aides, who will help the professional nurses in the ward during the drawing. All of the clerical work in the ward will be done by ladies of the Staff Aide service, under the direction of Mrs. A. E. McCormick.

In January, classes will start in First Aid and Water Safety. A refresher course will be given for those who have outdated cards, and an instructor's course will be available for those who desire to take it. Already a class has been established in the Sand hill area. Mrs. Carl E. Frisby is chairman of the service, and her present committee includes Lt. Ted Hine, Capt. Frank Plamer, Mrs. V. H. Deslandes and Mrs. John A. Summerline.

The Red Cross Executive board members are Mrs. Frank M. Lee, chairman; Mrs. J. H. VanVliet, Jr., vice - chairman; Mrs. William Duncan, secretary, Mrs. M. L. Sand Hill Unit Lauded As 'Best In Battalion'

Company G of the 25th infantry regiment's Second battalion last week became the first company to receive the newly acquired parade streamer which will be presented weekly to the unit with the best precision drill, straightest lines and neatest soldiers.

The streamer was presented to Capt. Murray D. Whiting, commander, by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, who cited the men for their outstanding performance.

TIME OUT FOR CAROLS: Benning Brownies and a few visitors take time out from their Christmas decorations to practice carols for their serenade on December 24.

Far East Command Luncheon Features Unusual Decoration

Rare oriental decorations, an exchange of Christmas gifts and a showing of colored movies taken in Japan, were features of the December luncheon of the women of the Far East Command at the Officers' club Thursday afternoon.

Down the length of the luncheon table were Japanese frosted trees nestled in sprays of long needled pine, Tachi Moto Ki berries and large Japanese Christmas balls and tall red candles in Imari holders. The centerpiece was a miniature Japanese village scene with tiny houses, bridges and different phases of Japanese rural life.

The gift table was decorated with small Christmas trees, sprays of pine and berries and deep red roses in pigeon blood ruby Cloisonné vases. The entrance table was decorated with an enormous bronze Shinto temple candelabra with large white Japanese candle.

The red place cards had written on them in white ink Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year in Kanji, which is the Japanese name for the Chinese characters used in Japanese writing.

Following the exchange of Christmas gifts, colored movies were shown in the upper lounge. These movies were taken in Japan by Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. H. Del Mar.

Members of the group and their guests included Mrs. Hillas Brockett, Mrs. C. W. Colston, Miss Betty Lou Frisby, Capt. Edna Ross, Capt. Georgia Leslie, Mrs. Robert Daniels, Mrs. W. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. C. V. McLaughlin, Mrs. Embert Fossum, Mrs. George B. Emory, Mrs. William B. Harrell, Mrs. Roland Murphy, Mrs. Ernest Englehart, Mrs. F. W. Petren, Mrs. L. D. Shaw, Mrs. A. C. Newkirk, Mr. L. T. Elliott, Mrs. Arthur T. Flum, Mrs. C. M. McQuarrie, Mrs. R. H. Pell, Mrs. Frank Theus, Mrs. H. T. [illegible], Mrs. Lewis Buckles, Mrs. R. P. Crosslin, Mrs. T. F. Criswell, Mrs. Carl E. Frisby and Mrs. Athel Bangert.

Hostesses were Mrs. R. H. Del Mar, Mrs. William A. Duncan and Mrs. J. D. Hennessee.

The next luncheon will be held Thursday, January 13, at the Officers' club, with Mrs. A. C. Newkirk, Mrs. C. W. Colston and Mrs. K. C. McConnell as hostesses.

Girl Scouts, Brownies, Brats To Give Christmas Serenade

Girl Scouts and Brownies will meet with members of Brat Barracks Friday evening, December 24, at 9 p.m. for a Christmas carol serenade of the post.

The serenaders will sing in front of General Burress' house 9:40 p.m. At 10 they will be on Austin loop, and back of the school on Miller loop at 10:15. At 10:30 they will sing in front of the post hospital, and at 10:45 in the center of Block 12. At 11 p.m. the carolers will go to the Girl cout cabin for a snack supper.

Miss Barbara Miller is in charge of arrangements, and all children who are going with the serenading group are asked to call Miss Miller at 2621 not later than Friday, Dec. 17, to make reservations, or for any information about the serenade. It is hoped that at least one mother from each group will go on the tour with the serenaders and to the midnight supper, Miss Miller said.

Capt. Edna Ross Entertains at Club

Capt. Edna Ross entertained Saturday evening with an aperitif party and dinner at the Officers' club.

The table was laid with Bavarian china and a gold damask cloth.

The guests included Lt. Col. Katharine V. Jolliffe and Lt. Lillie B. McNutt from Fort MacPherson, Ga., Capt. Georgia Lessley, Lt. Col. Wilbur Wilson, Capt. Herbert Dubovsky, Miss Betty Lou Frisby, Capt. Raymond Restami, Maj. and Mrs. Carl Frisby, Maj. Michael Eyen and Capt. Charles Burgess.

Communications Wives Hold December Luncheon Friday

Ladies of the Communication section held their December luncheon Friday afternoon at the Officers' club with Mrs. Arthur Moldenhauer and Mrs. Leo Sullivan as hostesses.

A Christmas motif was used in the decorations with a centerpiece of evergreens and red ribbons, flanked by red tapers. The placecards were miniature Christmas trees made of pine cones.

Members and their guests included Mrs. Paul Hamilton, Mrs. Robert Phelps, Mrs. James Reynolds, Mrs. Athel Bangert, Mrs. Charles Noice, Mrs. Carl Frisby, Mrs. M. G. Peabody, Mrs. Robert Zeigler, Mrs. George Feger, Mrs. Carl Gindele, Mrs. John Herrington, Mrs. Anderson Q. Smith, Mrs. John Gerstner, Mrs. John Blaker and the hostesses.

Children's Party At Lawson Field

Santa Claus will forsake the conventional reindeer for the latest thing in helicopters when he flies to Lawson Airforce base bringing a pack crammed with presents, fruits, nuts and candies for the children of the enlisted airmen.

Saint Nick has sent word that he will arrive at 4 p.m. December 21 to be on hand for the annual Christmas party. An enthusiastic crowd of youngsters, their mothers and fathers will be at the Lawson Rec hall to welcome him.

Annual Children's Party At Main Theater Friday

The annual kids' party for the children of military personnel who attend, or would attend School No. 1, will be held at the Main theater December 17, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Children of any age will be welcome, and there will be a gift for each child up to and including age 12.

After a welcome by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wallace M. Hale, Christmas carols will be sung by the assembled children accompanied by the 72nd Army band.

There will follow three cartoons appropriate to the season and after the singing of several more carols, there will be a brief talk by a representative of the safety office.

Col. Mackie Visits Post

Col. Robb S. Mackie, Third army headquarters, Atlanta, Ga., visited Fort Benning recently in connection with G-1 activities.

Entertain at PTA Meeting

Children of the Fort Benning school will have charge of the program at the Parent-Teachers association meeting this afternoon in the school auditorium.

After a short business meeting by the members of the association, the children will present a one-act play "Christmas is for Everyone."

Other features on the program will include a playlet by the pupils of the kindergarten class, a poem by Glenn Brooks, a poem "Christmas Surprise" by Roger Burr, recitations "Writing to Santa Claus" by Douglas Lacy and "A Christmas Thought" by Margaret Leahy.

Pupils taking part in the play are Barbara Beasley, Borden Wilson, Judy Greene, Peggy Thomas, Allen Ormiston, Morgan Lamb, Sam McDowell, Michael Yeager, Sharon Zinser, Joe Kobeck, Dickie Boyd, Jacquelyn Yeager, Ann Gerhart, Nancy Easterbrook, Ann Merhle, John Cone, Sam Burney, Laurie Cone and David Woodruff. They will be assisted by the Glee club.

The tree decorations for the play were made by the different art classes in the school.

Benefits Derived From Immediate Reenlistment Clarified by Officials

Because of the record number of reenlistments the past three months, a memorandum has been issued by the Infantry Center explaining more fully some of the procedures used here and clarifying the benefits derived from reenlisting immediately following discharge.

A reenlistment the day after discharge insures the soldier of no break in service. The discharge physical examination will also be used for reenlistment, and pay will be continuous. In addition, there will be no interruption of allotments, insurance or commutation of rations. A reenlistment the second day, or longer, after discharge, voids these privileges.

By reenlisting the day after discharge the soldier is permitted a choice of initial assignment to a unit in the Third army area in which vacancies exist and a guarantee of one year within the Third army area. However, in the event of the transfer of the chosen unit, the soldier will be transferred with the unit. A reenlistment the second day, or longer, after discharge does not entitle the soldier to this privilege unless he is processed through a training division such as that at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Soldiers electing to change units at Fort Benning must obtain a letter of acceptance from the new unit commander. This letter must be approved at the classification and assignment section, Room 13, Infantry Center headquarters annex, and must be brought with the soldier when he reenlists. Soldiers desiring to reenlist at a post other than Fort Benning have been asked to contact the recruiting officer well in advance of discharge.

No letter is required if the soldier is reenlisting to fill his own vacancy, and reenlistment can be accomplished whether or not the soldier has received his final pay for his last enlistment. Overseas reenlistments are also accomplished at the recruiting office in Doughboy stadium.

The reenlistee can be granted up to 30 days reenlistment leave. This, however, is leave in advance, and is counted against ments. This leave may be obtained by the soldier on his verbal request at the time he gets his orders assigning him to his own unit, or may be deferred by the unit commander for a time not to exceed one year. If it is deferred, the soldier is cautioned to be sure it is entered on his service records so that he can be paid mileage when he does take his reenlistment leave.

Separation Form 53 and three copies of the physical examination, one of which must be signed, must be brought by the soldier to the recruiting office at the time of reenlistment. If the soldier does not have these forms, he is advised to see the officer in charge of the separation section which discharged him. No other papers are required of the soldier reenlisting to fill his own vacancy, nor is it required that he be in uniform when he reenlists.

Personnel whose reenlistments were accomplished on weekends or holidays will b required to report to the recruiting office at 8 a.m. of the next working day. Reenlistment papers will be held pending the opening of other offices.

In the event that a large group of men reenlists on any certain day, a number is issued each man, and reenlistees are requested to be sure to get their numbers when reporting. This eliminates the necessity of holding his place in line. The policy of the recruiting office is "First Come, First Served," so men wanting to leave early are requested to come early. A late arrival will cause additional delays in processing.

It is not authorized to post date or back date reenlistment papers.

Physical examinations will be given 72 hours in advance of discharge, and a reenlistment is accomplished on this same examination. A break in service, however, will require a new physical and additional delay while being processed in Ward B-11.

Soldiers may reenlist within 20 days for their own vacancies or 90 days to keep their grade.

The reenlistment bonus is paid only upon reenlistment and presentation of the signed certificate typed on the reverse side of Form 53. If this form is lost the soldier may have some difficulty getting his bonus.

Soldiers who want advice or information about reenlisting should contact the recruiting officer, Maj. Llewellyn D. Shaw, at the recruiting office, or phone 2361. They are asked not to wait until the last day.

Pryor, Gary, Ind., who was assigned to the 15th Infantry regiment.

Lt. Cols. William E. Roberts and Frank J. Sackton, now with the Student detachment, Armed Forces Staff college, Norfolk, Va., will be assigned to Fort Benning following the end of their present course of instruction about Jan. 22. Colonel Roberts will be assigned to the Infantry School's staff and faculty, and Colonel Sackton to the Third Infantry division.

Assigned to Fort Benning on orders issued Dec. 2 were CWO Cecil V. Booth, Valley Forge General hospital, Phoenixville, Pa., to the 15th Infantry regiment, and 1st Lt. Edward D. McLaughlin, Fort Lawton, Wash. to Third army. On the same orders 1st Lt. George A. Farmer was relieved from his assignment with the 3440th Area Service unit and assigned to the Special Service School at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

First Lt. Merril H. Calisch, now attending associate basic course No. 1 at the Infantry School, has been ordered to report to Camp Stoneman, Calif., Jan. 18 for assignment to the Far East command.

Relieved from duty with the personnel center, Camp Stoneman, Calif., on Nov. 16, Capt. William C. Osterhout has been assigned to the 3440th Area Service unit. He will report here following a 50 - day leave.

Capt. Anthony Chrzanowski, who will be relieved from duty with the Ninth Infantry division, Fort Dix, N. J., was ordered on Nov. 26 to report to Fort Benning to attend the Infantry School.

Gen. Burress Makes Formal Colors Award

The colors of the Second battalion, 25th Infantry regiment, were presented to Lt. Col. John E. Arthur, battalion commander, by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, at a formal ceremony last Saturday morning at the Second Armored division parade ground.

The unit was activated in August, 1866, as the 39th Infantry regiment. Men of the regiment, when it was stationed in Montana, fought in the last Indian engagement in which U. S. troops participated in 1890. The unit was one of the first to be called for duty in the Spanish-American war and fought in the Battle of El Caney.

From 1913 through 1938, the regiment was stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, after which it moved to Yuma and Nogales, Ariz., where it remained until late in 1941. During World War II the regiment saw service in the Pacific in the Bismarck Archipelago, New Guinea and the Northern Solomons. In February, 1946, it returned to the States, was reduced to zero strength but never inactivated, then assigned to Fort Benning and again brought up to strength. The First battalion of the regiment is at Fort Lewis, Wash.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL WALTER H. MATUSKA
xxxx gets new duty assignment

Benning's Chief Surgeon Assigned To West Coast

Lt. Col. Walter H. Matuska, chief of surgical service at the Station hospital, has received orders to report to Letterman General hospital in San Francisco, Calif., where he will become chief of surgeon.

Colonel Matuska was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Medical corps reserves upon graduation from Washington university's School of Medicine, Saint Louis, Mo., in 1931, practicing as a civilian until 1935, when he was promoted to the grade of captain in the reserves. He then entered a two-year tour of duty which lasted until 1937. His first assignment was with the Station hospital at Fort Thomas, Ky.

In 1937, Colonel Matuska returned to civilian practice until recalled to active duty in April, 1941, at which time he was assigned to Fort Knox, Ky.

In May, 1941, we was promoted to the rank of major, and in June, 1942, he received a temporary promotion to lieutenant colonel and at that time he became chief of surgical service at Fort Knox.

In 1943 he went with the 118th Station hospital to Naples, Italy, where he served as chief of medical service for 23 months.

Returning to the United States in July, 1945, he was scheduled to join the 52nd General hospital in the Pacific area when the war ended and his assignment cancelled.

He was then assigned to Letterman General hospital, until his assignment to the Station hospital here in October, 1947.

He was awarded a permanent rank of lieutenant colonel in June, 1948.

Lt. Col. Joseph B. Garden, who is to replace Colonel Matuska at the hospital, is now chief of surgical service at Letterman General hospital, where he has served since Colonel Matuska came to Fort Benning in 1947.

43 NG Infantry Units Organized

Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard bureau, recently announced that 43 of the 75 Infantry regiments assigned to the 25 national guard infantry divisions have completed organization.

One-third of the 21 regimental combat teams also have been completely organized. Of the 567 component units of the 21 regimental combat teams in the national guard troop basis, 520, or 91.7 per cent, were federally recognized by Oct. 1.

Of the 2,625 component units in the 25 infantry divisions assigned the post-war national guard, 2,438, or 92.9 per cent, were organized on that date.

Federal recognition of Company F, Santa Cruz, Calif., completed organization of the 159th infantry regiment, a component of the 49th Infantry division. The 40th Infantry division, also a part of the California national guard, has completed organization of two of its three component regiments.

Ten California army and air national guard units were among the 18 units recognized during the week ending Nov. 12. California has organized 262 of the 335 army units and 35 of the 41 air units in its troop allotment.

Throughout the nation and in the off-shore territories, organization of national guard units rose to 4,351 army and 459 air units, a total of 4,810, or 77.7 per cent, of the projected national guard troop basis of 5,680 army and 514 air units.

Benning's Re-up Rate In October Highest In Area

Fort Benning again led the major Third army installations in reenlistment and reenlistment percentage figures during October, it has been reported.

According to figures released by Col. Arthur G. Purvis, Infantry Center adjutant general, Fort Benning had a total of 467 men reenlisting out of a total of 637 eligible. In second place was Fort Bragg, N. C., with 275 out 696 reenlisting. Fort Jackson, S. C., was third, with 192 out of a possible 352.

Fort McPherson was third with 70 out of 100. In fifth place was the New Oleans Port of Embarkation with 51 out of 89, followed by Oliver General hospital, Augusta, Ga., with 24 out of 49, and Camp Gordon, Ala., with eight out of nine.

In percentage figures among the three major posts, Benning was first with 70, Jackson second with 54 and Bragg third with 39.5. In the smaller installations Camp Gordon, Ga., was high with 88.8, followed by McPherson with 70, New Orleans POE with 57 and Oliver General hospital with 48.9.

In the figures for men discharged and reenlisting under AR 615-365, Bragg had 65, New Orleans POE, 25; Benning, 23, Oliver General, 10, Jackson, five and McPherson, two.

Fort Bragg led in extensions with 51, followed by Benning with 24, Jackson, 20, McPherson, 11, New Orleans POE, four, and Gordon and Oliver General, one each.

Eleven men from Benning retried during the month, as did six from Oliver General, three from Jackson, two from New Orleans POE, and one each from Gordon and McPherson.

Assigned New Duties

Second Lt. James T. Vowell, headquarters, Infantry School detachment, has been appointed bond and insurance officer and classification and assignment officer of the detachment, it was announced Nov. 30 by Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, commander.

NG Publishes Basic Manual

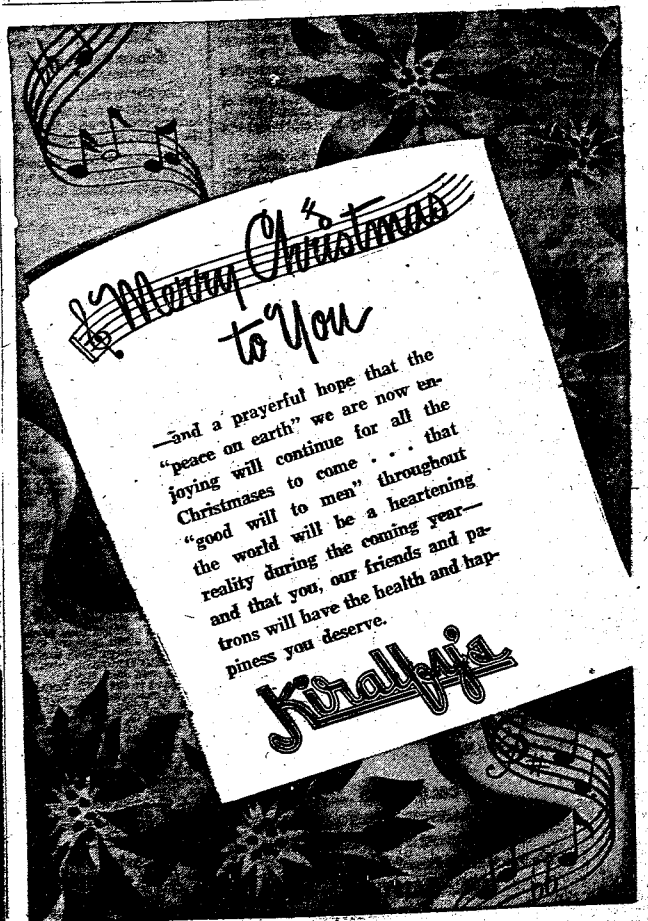
Publication of a 725-page national guard basic manual was announced today by Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief, National Guard bureau.

Developed by the army organization and training group of the National Guard bureau, it is the first complete manual written specifically to meet the training requirements of the national guard.

Designed primarily for use by instructors, the manual is available for study by all members of the national guard. It contains reference material required for conduct of the new three-year training plan of the national guard.

Approved by the chief of staff, the manual covers in detail such essential subjects as leadership, drill and exercises of command; hygiene and first aid; maps and aerial photographs; military organization; individual weapons and marksmanship; small unit tactics; military teaching methods.

Distribution of the manual for the use of army units of the national guard will begin shortly.



3 New Nurses Arrive For Duty At Hospital

Officials at the Station hospital announced the arrival of three new nurses during the past week.

They are Capt. Georgia E. Lessley, who has been transferred here from the Army-Navy General hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., and has been named assistant chief nurse; 1st Lt. Ann E. Yaeger, who has transferred here from Fort Belvoir, Va., and 2nd Lt. Marie Thomas, who was recently called to active duty.

To Automotive Section

Sgt. James K. Cook, Company B, Infantry School detachment, has been assigned duty with the Automotive section of the Infantry School's Academic department, it was announced last week by Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, detachment commander.

EMPLOYEE'S WITHHOLDING EXEMPTION CERTIFICATE
(Collection of Income Tax at Source on Wages)

Print full name _____ Social Security No. _____

Print home address _____

FILE THIS FORM WITH YOUR EMPLOYER. Otherwise, he is required by law to withhold tax from your wages without exemption.

HOW TO CLAIM YOUR WITHHOLDING EXEMPTIONS

I. If you are SINGLE, write the figure "1" . . . . . ——

II. If you are MARRIED, one exemption is allowed for the husband and one exemption for the wife.
(a) If you claim both of these exemptions, write the figure "2" . . . . . ——
(b) If you claim one of these exemptions, write the figure "1" . . . . . ——
(c) If you claim neither of these exemptions, write "0" . . . . . ——

III. If during the year you will provide more than one-half of the support of persons closely related to you, write the number of such dependents. (See instruction 3 on other side.) . . . . . ☐

IV. Add the number of exemptions which you have claimed above and write the total . . . . . ——

I CERTIFY that the number of withholding exemptions claimed on this certificate does not exceed the number to which I am entitled.

Dated _____, 194__ c0—16—40389-8 (Signature) _____

1. NEW EMPLOYEES.—To receive the benefit of your withholding exemptions, file a withholding exemption certificate with your employer on or before beginning work.

2. CHANGES IN EXEMPTIONS.—You may file a new certificate at any time if the number of your exemptions INCREASES.

You must file a new certificate within 10 days if the number of your exemptions DECREASES for any of the following reasons:

(a) Your wife (or husband) for whom you have been claiming exemption either dies, is divorced, or claims her (or his) own exemption on a separate certificate.

(b) The support of a dependent for whom you claimed exemption is taken over by someone else, so that you no longer expect to furnish more than half the support for the year.

(c) You find that a dependent for whom you claimed exemption will receive $500 or more of income of his own during the year.

OTHER DECREASES in exemption, such as the death of a dependent, do not affect your withholding until the next year, but require the filing of new certificates by December 1 of the year in which they occur.

For further information about changes in exemption status resulting from marriage, divorce, birth, death, new dependents, etc., consult your local collector of internal revenue or your employer.

3. DEPENDENTS.—To qualify as your dependent (line III on other side), a person must (1) receive more than one-half of his or her support from you for the year, (2) have less than $500 of income of his or her own during the year, and (3) be closely related to you. "Closely related" means that the person is—

Your son, daughter, or their descendants; stepson, stepdaughter, son-in-law, or daughter-in-law;

Your father, mother, or ancester of either; stepfather, stepmother, father-in-law, or mother-in-law;

Your brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, half brother, half sister, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law;

Your uncle, aunt, nephew, or niece, (but not if related only by marriage).

The above relationships apply to a legally adopted child as if he or she were a child by blood. Do not claim a citizen of a foreign country as a dependent unless he or she is a resident of the United States, Canada, or Mexico.

4. PENALTIES.—Penalties are imposed for willfully supplying false information or willful failure to supply information which would reduce the withholding exemption.

U. S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE c0—16—40389-8.

INCOME TAX FORM . . . Reproduced here is the U. S. Treasury Department Form W-4 which must be filled out by all personnel at Fort Benning before Dec. 31. The forms will be made available by unit personnel officers, according to a memorandum published by the finance office. Heretofore there has been an income tax exemption of $1,500 for officers, while enlisted personnel have had full exemption. Under the law now in effect, however, the pay of all military personnel is subject to withholding tax provisions of the internal revenue code which requires the collection of income tax on wages at the source.

Guard Officers to Serve With Army General Staff

Selected national guard officers will be assigned for 90-day tours of active duty with divisions of the army general staff in Washington under a program announced today by Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard bureau.

Purpose of the program is to familiarize the officers with the functions and responsibilities of higher staffs, use their knowhow in helping solve national guard problems and develop greater cooperation and coordination between the national guard and the Department of the Army.

The officers will be assigned to personnel and administration, intelligence; logistics; organization and training, and plans and operations.

Each general staff division has been authorized the services of eight national guard offfcers during the fiscal year.

In general, qualifications for the 90-day tours of duty include grade of major or higher; not over 50 years of age; MOS (military occupation specialty) 9301 (intelligence staff officer, combat); MOS 2162 (operations and training staff officer); MOS 2625 (logistics officer); and MOS 2260 (personnel staff officer).

It is expected other MOS's will be requested in the near future, and staff experience at brigade level or higher; graduation or constructive credit for general staff college; or outstanding performance in command assignments.

Upon completion of the special duty tours, the officers will be qualified to act as instructors for the higher staffs of their state national guard.

Nominations for the general staff tours will be made by the adjutants general of the States to the National Guard bureau.

Recruits Assigned To Ordnance Unit

Fourteen enlisted men formerly with the 325th Infantry Training battalion have been assigned to the 328th Ordnance battalion, officials said this week.

Assigned to the 378th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance company were James W. Mills, Walter R. Morris, Ronald G. Gall, Peter Melocco, John L. Blieka, Bernard L. Eplin, George R. Collinge and Richard A. Lance.

Five were assigned to the battalion's 516th Ordnance Medium Automotive Maintenance company. They included Pvts. Rosario J. Christina and William O. McGinnis and Rcts. James L. Thomas, Edward Nelson, Jr., and Joseph A. Carafa.

Salary Boost

The salary of President Clarence (Pants) Rowland of the Pacific Coast baseball league was raised recently from $12,500 to $17,500 a year.

3 Philippine Officers Schedule TIS Courses

Three Philippine army officers are scheduled to enroll in the Infantry School in early January, it was reported this week by the Department of the Army.

First Lts. Mamerto Jonson and Cesar M. Garsco will take the officers' basic course which begins on or about Jan. 3 and ends June 12, while 2nd Lt. Guillermo Guzman will take the officers' motor course which begins Jan. 6 and ends April 6.

Grade Restoration Is Set For Former Lieutenant Colonels

Former lieutenant colonels who are now serving in the grade of major may now apply for restoration to their former grade, it has been revealed in a memorandum published by Headquarters, Third army.

The reappointment to the grade of lieutenant colonel is subject to the following conditions:

1. If recalled to extended active duty or ordered to active duty prior to Sept. 2, 1948.

2. Previously served on active duty for a period of one year in the grade of lieutenant colonel with date of rank in that grade on or before Dec. 31, 1945.

3. Are currently serving in the grade of major as result of grade readjustment program.

Applicantions for restoration of grade may be made, the memorandum continued, through channels to the Adjutant General, Washington, 25, D. C. (Attention: AGPO-P). Officers will be promoted to the higher grade by the adjutant general where restoration is warranted.

Reenlistments For November Remain High

Reenlistment figures for Fort Benning, released last week by Col. Arthur C. Purvis, Infantry Center adjutant general, reveal that during November more than half of the men discharged here reenlisted.

Of 929 men discharged and eligible for reenlistment, 569 reenlisted for a percentage figure of 61, according to the first reports.

The 999th Field Artillery battalion scored the highest percentage firgure of the month, 84, since 32 men of 45 discharged reenlisted. In second place was the Infantry School detachment, with 149 of 194 reenlisting for a percentage of 77.

Tied for third, with percentage figures of 67, were the Student Training regiment and Army Field Forces board No. 3. Of 89 men discharged and eligible to reenlist from the Student Training regiment 60 reenlisted, while the figures for board No. 3 were nine discharged and six reenlisting.

In fourth place was the 204th Transportation Truck battalion. Of 88 men discharged from this unit, 54 reenlisted for a percentage of 61. Fifth place went to the 3440th Area Service unit which had percentage of 58 for 130 reenlistments out of a possible 225. The 3440th was followed by the 325th Infantry which had 132 men reenlisting out of 279 for a percentage of 47.

During the month, 22 men were discharged under AR 615-365 and immediately reenlisted. Of this group, eight each were from the Infantry School detachment and 325th, three from the 3440th, two from the Student Training regiment and one from board No. 3.

Extensions of enlistments for the month totalled 33. Fifteen of these were from the 3440th, 10 from the 325th and eight from the Infantry School detachment. There were four retirements during the month, three from the Infantry School detachment and one from the 3440th.

Eight enlisted men were discharged during the month to accept commissions and enter active duty tours as officers, and 21 civilians enlisted at the local recruiting office for assignment at Benning.

More Quarters Made Available

Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress Infantry Center commanding general, has directed that every possible effort will be made to improve the housing situation for enlisted men and officers at Fort Benning, it was reported this week by Col. Thomas M. Brinkley, G-4 of the Infantry Center.

In order to accomplish that end, approximately 200 sets of quarters are expected to be made available for non-commissioned officers in the Harmony church hospital area and the former prisoner-of-war hospital area. Officers, too, will share in the program in that more quarters will be made available for them in the hospital area.

Some quarters were made available this week at the Harmony church hospital area for non-commissioned officers, Colonel Brinkley stated. As facilities permit, this area will eventually be developed to provide housing for approximately 100 families, he said.

It is hoped in the near future, as funds and facilities are made available, to develop the prisoner of war hospital area for noncommissioned officers. This housing area is planned to be about the same size as the Harmony church housing area.

To relieve further the shortage of housing for officers, plans are being made to use more of the wards and cantonment area of the hospital. It is expected that much of the hospital area will be converted to housing as a result of this.

Requests for housing may be made through the Infantry Center billeting office in the headquarters annex, telephone 3505.

Gen. Dahlquist Inspects Class

Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, deputy director of plans and administration, Department of the Army, visited Fort Benning last week to inspect the new special associate basic course for newly commissioned reserve infantry officers.

Arriving at the Infantry Center last Thursday afternoon, General Dahlquist remained until Friday afternoon, and while here studied the initial organization, operating methods and training procedures.

In addition to his conferences with Academic department officials, General Dahlquist also inspected pre-class administrative operations and inspected the quarters assigned the new officers. He interviewed more than half the class of 48 second lieutenants here to take the 12-week course which began last Monday.

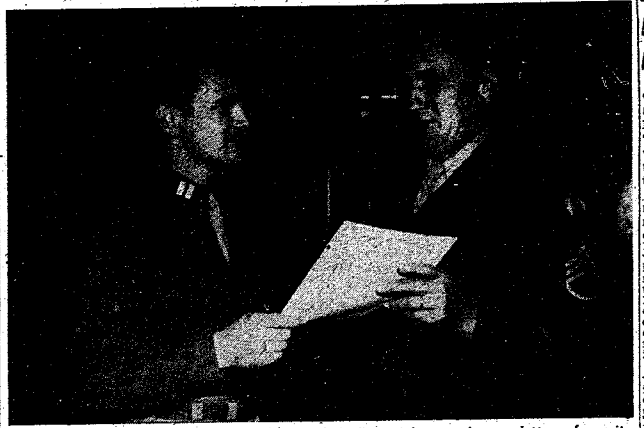
Capt. Lessley Named Deputy Chief Nurse

Capt. Georgia Lessley arrived last Wednesday from Hot Springs, Ark., to take over her new duties as assistant chief nurse at the Station hospital.

Captain Lessley, a native of Tulsa, Okla., is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma School of Nursing, and her first assignment was at Fort Sill in 1940. Since then she has had assignments at a number of places in the states, including Fort Meyer, Va., where she was principal chief nurse, and Dibble General hospital, Menlo Park, Calif.

She served in Hawaii, France, Germany and Japan. In July 1948 she returned to the United States from Yokahama where she had been with the 155th hospital for 27 months. Since July she has been with the Army and Navy General hospital in Hot Springs.



Williams Appointed Personnel Officer

Lt. Prince A. Williams was recently appointed personnel officer of Company G, Second battalion, 25th Infantry regiment.

Lieutenant Williams, who served in 1946 as chief clerk of the 25th's officers' section, graduated from Officer Candidate School, Fort Riley, Kans., last June.

A native of Sommerville, Tennessee, he saw duty in Europe during the last war, and in February, 1947, joined the 24th Infantry regiment in the Far East command as chief clerk of the personnel section.

Lieutenant Williams is a graduate of the Infantry School's basic airborne course.

BY MERRILL HARRISON

Crusade in Europe will undoubtedly be to many readers a disappointing book for the simple reason that General Eisenhower has not spiced it with gossipy anecdotes a la Butcher. Summersby and all the other hangers-on who cashed in on his magic name. Nor does he drag out the so-called feuds he was supposed to have had with the British and French, especially Montgomery and DeGaulle.

Crusade in Europe, all 478 pages of it, is essentially, if not intentionally, a text on leadership and command, on the handling of men as individuals and men in the mass. As such it is the type of book that should be of greatest interest to everyone at Fort Benning.

The author wastes little time in getting into the meat of his situation. He merely sketches his assignments prior to being made the commander of tucorch, the North African operation, and this is essentially so that the reader can understand how and why he was appointed commander of that operation and how and why he happened to choose such men as Generals Clark and Smith for his staff. This subject, and many others like it, have been told in greater detail in other authentic reports of the war, as in General Marshall's reports, but the essential honesty in Crusade should once and for all cast the lie to all implications of politics.

The Darlan-Giraud-DeGaulle situation vis-avis North Africa is cleared up in a few pages, but not in the apologetic manner unfortunately used by Butcher and others as they attempted to "whitewash" the commanding general for his combined political and military activities on that continent. Eisenhower merely discusses, in a straightforward manner, just exactly what the political and military situation was, as far as the French leaders were concerned, and goes on to tell what he did and why he did it. In succeeding chapters, however, there is no doubt that he had plenty of headaches and trouble caused by the French, especially deGaulle, but he discusses them in a manner both sympathetic and understanding and with as little bitterness as possible.

As far as Field Marshal Montgomery is concerned—and this goes for the other British army leaders, too—he makes little reference to the too-often-emphasized feuding for command that was supposed to have taken place. Here, again, it is unfortunate that the so-called biographers of both Eisenhower and Montgomery, with their again unfortunate irresponsibility, should have made so many mountains out of so few molehills. There is no doubt that some of the British leaders caused the Supreme Commander more than one headache. But he makes it very clear that when he picked those men for the jobs he wanted them to do, and which they did, he knew that he would have some trouble. He didn't want "yes men"; he wanted leaders who could do their jobs, and the implications he makes are that the headaches, if any, were worth having for the results gained.

There are some who will read avidly the several pages concerning General Patton and the "slapping incident." Eisenhower tells the story of that incident, not to whitewash Patton, himself or the reporters who covered the case, but to tell exactly what happened, why and how it happened and what was done about it. It is too bad that in this one case the entire story could not have been told during the war.

General Eisenhower was interested in exactly one thing during the war: getting it won with the fewest possible allied casualties and in the shortest possible time. How he did his part in attaining this end is, as stated before, actually one of the best texts on command and leadership any soldier, from private to general, could read. The book is well-written, informative and important. It is not as detailed as the reports of General Marshall. On the other hand, it is not a breezy piece of trash of mentioned hangerson who feathered their own financial nests through the distortion of facts in attempts to be sensational.

The writer is an honest man who tells an honest story with modesty more commendable considering his opportunities for self-adulation. If he credits anyone with winning the war, and he does, it is the individual soldier who fought the war on a dozen land fronts, in the air and on the sea. He never forgets that and he doesn't let his readers forget that. Crusade in Europe has been purchased by the Main library and is available for circulation.

Reenlistment Rate Praised By Gen. Gillem

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, commanding general of the Infantry Center, Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., Third Army commander, last week praised Fort Benning for the rising reenlistment rate at the post.

General Gillem said, "I have noted with pleasure the reenlistment rate of your command during the month of October, 1948. Reports indicate that of 478 white and 159 Negro enlisted men discharged during that month by reason of expiration of terms of service, 341 white and 126 Negro enlisted men reenlisted in the same period. This rate of 70 percent reenlistment is a commendable increase over the rates for your station compiled in preceding months."

The Third Army commander went on to say that "it is gratifying as well to note that your October rate exceeded that of 50 percent which had been established by the Department of the Army as a minimum monthly goal when the reenlistment program was inaugurated in February of this year. This increased rate signifies to me the results of the command attention which you have given this program.

"I trust you will continue your emphasis on the importance of keeping every eligible enlisted man informed of the benefits and advantages of continuing his military career, and that you will insure that each officer and non-commissioned officer at every level of command is thoroughly imbued with his responsibility in the reenlistment program."

The letter closed with the statement "the critical need for these experienced soldiers will never be lessened. Your efforts to retain the maximum number of these men by reenlistment are thoroughly appreciated."

Okinawa Battle Related In Latest War History

The first combat volume in the 99-volume "U. S. Army in World War II" will be released some time in January, the Historical division of the Department of the Army announced today.

The book will be titled "Okinawa: The Last Battle." It will be the third volume in the series, the first two having dealt with organization of the army ground forces.

"Okinawa: The Last Battle" is a vivid and accurate account of the climactic battle of the Pacific war. It begins with an outline of plans made by the joint chiefs of staff, summarizes the tremendous array of fire power and shipping accumulated for the campaign, describes the landings, and recounts the three months of bloody fighting which led to victory in June, 1945.

Trough chief emphasis is placed on the ground forces, the sea and air battles which form an integral part of the effort are sketched in sufficient detail to afford a complete picture of Operation Iceberg.

The battle for Okinawa, which the Japanese defended as one of their "home islands," is packed with dramatic incident: the savage assaults of suicide planes; the landing of enemy raiders on the airfields; the loss of Ernie Pyle on Ie Shima; and the death of Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, commander of Tenth army, on the very eve of victory. But most dramatic of all was the relentless drive of American infantrymen and marines, pushing from hill to hill, forcing the enemy 'with blowtorch and corkscrew" from his fortified caves in the coral rock. No battle has ever been recorded in greater detail, with frequent mention by name of individual soldiers engaged in acts of valor.

A special effort is also made to give the background of important command decisions, some of them highly controversial for example, the reasons for a frontal attack through the Shuri positions, as opposed to a second landing in the south, are here revealed for the first time.

Another notable feature of the book is the large attention given to the Japanese side of the picture. Through captured documents and interviews with enemy prisoners, the reader learns why the enemy commanders decided not to oppose our landing on the beaches but to concentrate their defense around the hard core of the Shuri fortifications. The Japanese counterattack in early May is told from the Japanese point of view.

"Okinawa: The Last Battle" is illustrated with more than 200 photographs, and the action is outlined on 54 maps which show in detail how the fighting developed.

The appendices include troop lists, both American and Japanese, statistical charts and tables.

Written by men who observed and participated in the action, this is a new kind of military history, written by the combat historian — one of the new developments of the late war. In addition to recording their own observations, these specially trained men held interviews with privates and generals alike, conferred with their colleagues in the marine units engaged, and consulted a mass of army, navy and marine records.

The authors of the volume are Roy E. Appleman, a historian now in the National Park Service; James M. Burns, professor of political science in Williams college; Russell A. Gugeler, business man of Lombard, Ill., and John Stevens, Philadelphia attorney. Their manuscript was checked and completed by the historians of the Historical division, Department of the Army.

"Okinawa: The Last Battle" is the third volume to appear in the official history of the U. S. Army in World War II, and the first of the twelve-volume Pacific service within that history. It may be purchased for six dollars from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Local Court Toga Prize For Tonight

Doughboy Tilts To Start Soon

Fort Benning's intra-mural cage championship for the 1948-49 season will be decided in the Main gymnasium tonight when the perennially strong quintets of the Infantry School detachment and the Airborne battalion clash at 7 p.m.

The decision to declare the winner of the first half of a scheduled two-phase campaign for the post champion, and abolish the second half activity, came at a recent meeting of team coaches with Infantry Center athletic officials.

Under the revised plan, the Doughboy team will be formed shortly after the first of the year, and intra-mural activity will be carried on under a different arrangement.

Player selections for the Doughboy quintet will be made at a meeting of all intra-mural coaches about Jan. 4, and the candidates will devote approximately two weeks to pre-scheduled workouts. It is expected that the Doughmen will embark on their campaign about Jan. 19.

The Doughboy team candidates will be picked as an all-star group from the teams comprising the current intra-mural circuit.

Efforts are being made to schedule from two to three home games per week for the Doughboys throughout the season, and the slate probably include both civilian squads and fivesomes from other military installations.

In February, the Doughboys will represent Fort Benning in the Third army tournament.

The selection of the Doughboy team, and the mapping of a schedule for the post hardwood representatives, however, will not result in a total shutdown of intra-mural activity. A post-season league will be formed the first week in January, and all units on the reservation will be eligible to field squads in the circuit.

Players nominated for positions on the Doughboy squad will not be eligible to play on any team in the post-season league.

Most of the tilts in the intra-mural loop will be played in the Main gymnasium. However, where an intra-mural contest would conflict with a scheduled Doughboy home game, the post-season tilt will be played either at a later date, or will be staged on another court.

Unless two intra-mural tussles and one Doughboy game are on tap for the same night, however, no postponement or shifting of location will be necessary. If only one intra-mural fray and a Doughboy tilt are scheduled, the intra-mural contest will be played as a prelude to the Dough contest.

The results of the post-season league, it was pointed out, will have no bearing on the season's championship, which will be decided through tonight's fray between the ISD and the troopers.

Original plans for intra-mural cage activity this year called for division of the campaign into two halves with winners of each half staging a three-game playoff series for the title.

One of the primary factors taken into consideration in abolishing the second half was that of allowing the Doughboys more time to achieve smooth teamwork prior to the Third army classic.

Going into tonight's championship contest, both the ISD and airborne squads will be unlefeated. Since both quintets have chalked up identical records of six triumphs, and have made similar showings against mutual opponents, the game is being rated as a toss-up.

The ISD-airborne fray will be the first of a two-game program with the nightcap bringing together the Medics of the 3440th Area Service unit and the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers.

SWEATING IT OUT... Anxiously waiting to see whether the shot made by Walt Brown (NO. 3) of the 39th Field Artillery battalion Redlegs will swish the cords or not are Ken Sparks (No. 11) of the Redlegs, John Lockamy (No. 13) of the 15th Infantry regiment and Walt Moelk (No. 14) of the infantrymen. The Thursday night intra-mural cage league tussle resulted in a 46-37 triumph for the 15th Infantry quintet.

Tiger Coach Named

Red Rolfe named the first of his Detroit Tiger coaches on Dec. 1, when he appointed 41-year-old Dick Bartell, whose shortstopping helped out the Detroit club in the 1940 World's Series. Bartell was manager for the Yankees' farm club at Kansas City last summer.

Airforce Crew Is Court Victim Of Post Medics

Lawson field's Flyers plunged into a cellar-sharing spot in the intra-mural basketball league Monday night when they were outpointed 37-25 by the Medics of the 344th Area Service unit.

The Flyers, who have lost all six of their outings this season, now share the bottom rung of the ladder with the 39th Field Artillery battalion quintet, which has posted a similar reading for the campaign.

Although the Flyers were given ample opportunity to score by the Mecic defenses in the Monday night tussle, the airmen had trouble finding the hoop during the last half, and managed for only eight counters during the final 20 minutes of play.

At the outset of the contest, however, the Flyers jumped to a quick 12 - 4 lead before the Medics staged a spirite which gave them an 18-17 margin at the half.

The Medic scoring parade was led by diminutive Gerald Vital, who dunked six field goals for a tal of 12 points. Ed Gravely, who bucketed three shots from the court and one from the hoop during the last half, and managed for only eight counters during the final 20 minutes of play.

The Medic victory boosted the team's record for the season to two triumphs and four setbacks.

Local Keglers Will Be Hosts In Army Meet

Plans for Fort Benning to act as host for the Third army bowling tournament from Jan. 18-20 are being mapped by the Infantry Center athletic office.

Benning's Doughboys were relegated the honor of entertaining other kegling squads of the army area by virtue of being the defending Third army champions.

Although no definite entries have been received here, athletic officials were reasonably certain that at least six squads will be on the tourney roster. Team entries are expected from Fort Bragg, N. C.; Fort Jackson, S. C.; Fort McPherson, Ga.; the Florida Military district, and the Tennessee Military district.

Since all matches in the tournament are to be played on the Main bowling alleys, activity in the intra-mural bowling circuit will be suspended during the three-day classic.

TROOPERS CONTINUE HIGH SCORING WITH 65-39 WIN

Continuing to exhibit a powerful scoring punch, cagers of the Airborne battalion romped to a 65-39 win over the Lawson field Flyers in an intra-mural loop contest in the Main gym last Tuesday night.

The triumph for the defending post champion Troopers was their fifth of the campaign, and gave them a good chance of going into their decisive tussle with the Infantry School detachment quintet unbeaten.

During the early stages of the game, the Flyers kept within striking distance of the parachutists, but the bucket-shooting artists of the airborne fivesome went to work midway through the first half, and gave the defending champs a 43-20 lead at intermission.

Early in the second half, the Trooper reserves took over, and held the Lawsonites on even terms.

Joe Setley paced the Trooper scoring with 18 counters, posted on seven shots from the court. Vern Griffin, the other member of the airborne's high-scoring duet, dropped in six field goals for a 12-point total.

Stepping into the scoring picture for the Flyers was Paul Baker, whose 12 tallies annexed individual honors for the losers. three field goals, and a sextet of free heaves.

A blow to Flyer scoring was struck midway through the final period when Baker was sent to the sidelines with five personal fouls.

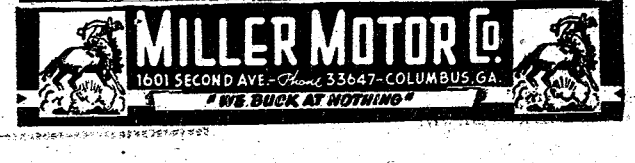
Six New Pilots



Six new managers will appear on the Southern baseball association's rosters next spring. Only two clubs, Chattanooga and Little Rock, will retain their 1948 pilots. Association clubs which already have chosen their Atlanta, which has taken on 1949 skippers are Nashville, which has hired Rollie Hemsley; Gil Dapper; Mobile, which has inked Paul Chervinke, and New Orleans, which has signed up Hugh M. Luby. Still to select managers are the Birmingham Barons and the Memphis Chicks.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

Last week, after we struck our necks out to name a few of the outstanding players in the current intra-mural basketball league, we suspected that somebody would lower the axe.

And, they did.

It took scarcely no time at all for several ardent cage followers and participants in the league to approach us on the topic of oversights.

Would it be too surprising at this point for us to admit frankly that we were guilty of overlooking at least one of the best ballplayers to do trunks and ajersey this season? We might even go so far as to ask forgiveness for not mentioning Leon McCrary of the Infantry School detachment as one of the stellar courtmen of the 1948-49 intra-mural activity.

Strangely enough, our failure to list McCrary among the standouts drew fire from all angles—not only from his teammates, but from several other intra-mural squads and their coaches.

In our opinion, Mac certainly does merit mention for his outstanding work with the ISD quintet. While his performances this season haven't been as spectacular as those of some of the 15-point average men in the circuit, his defensive playing has been second to none.

The most commendable feature of his playing, however, is that of providing a steadying influence for his mates.

Commenting on the prospects for a Doughboy this season, we merely expressed our opinion that suitable squad material would be in abundance this year, and went on to point out some of the players, who had caught our eye.

As far as selecting the Doughboy team is concerned, that matter has already been placed in more capable hands, and we're perfectly willing to let them handle the situation.

Michigan State has been admitted as a new member to the Western grid conference making the Big Nine the Big Ten. But just how the Spartans will fit into the conference picture for the next four years is something that has the coaches scratching their heads.

Although the certifying committee is expected to give Michigan State its mandatory inspection and pass on its admission to the circuit next spring, the chances of the Spartans copping the conference title in the near future are nil.

Under conference rules, a team must play at least six other league opponents to register a legitimate claim to the championship. The 1949 slate of the Spartans is far shy of that mark.

The Spartans will have their traditional clash with the Michigan Wolverines in 1949, and only two conference foes are definitely on the slate for 1950. Both Michigan and Minnesota will be faced by the Michigan State eleven in 1950, but possible tilts with Purdue and Indiana still are in the tentative stage.

Until the Spartans can map a schedule which includes at least a half-dozen games with conference opponents, the role they will play will be that of either enhancing or spoiling the title aspirations of their older conference brethren.

Almost every bowl bid extended for the big New Year's day games this year has resulted in some type of argument, and doubtlessly many of the favored elevens will find themselves playing to lukewarm crowds.

The cries of "give us the best" from out along the Pacific coast have dwindled down to whimpers by this time, and the Far West conference powers, who were trying to get the Big Nine to revamp their regulations to permit Michigan to take another trip to the coast, have just about come to the conclusion that their California Bears will need more than a little luck to get past Northwestern.

But way down yonder in New Orlans and over in Miami, loud protests still are ringing out over the decisions made by the Orange and Sugar Bowl committees.

Of course, the reason for most of the Sugar Bowl dissension is the omission of New Orleans' own Tulane as one of the principals. However, North Carolina, one of the principals chosen for the classic beat Georgia; Georgia beat Georgia Tech, and Georgia Tech beat Tulane. The other favored team, Oklahoma, failed to play any opponents played by Tulane, but here the old issue of schedule severity rears its head. And, who can doubt that the Sooners had a tougher slate this year than the Green Wave?

As far as the Orange Bowl is concerned, we're very much inclined to agree with the complaining faction that Texas is hardly a fitting match for Georgia. However, Wally Butts' Bulldogs have had an easy time of it all year, and why not let them finish it out that way?

CHAMP PADDLE WIELDER . . . Teedie P. Andres of the 375th Medical Collecting company receives a trophy and congratulations from Maj. John H. Burman, commanding officer of the 30th Medical group, for winning the unit's recent table tennis championship. Andres took the title by defeating Lewis J. Cohen of the 121st Evacuation hospital in games of 16-21, 21-18 and 21-8. The table tennis trophy is one of several to be awarded by the 30th Medical group to sports-minded members of its command to promote interest in athletic and recreational functions.

Company H Takes Lead In Sand Hill Hoop Meet

BY BOB PHILLIPS

Followers of the current round - robin basketball tournament of the 25th Infantry regiment, which got under way last Monday, saw a scrappy Company H five get off to a strong start by turning back a determined Company G squad 30-19.

Despite the loss, the high-spirited Company G hoopsters returned on Thursday night to swamp Company E by a 49-31 count, and stake their claim to second place in the standings.

On Monday night, however, it was Company H all the way as the sharp - shooting courtmen jumped to a 15-8 half - time lead, and kept in front during the remaining 20 minutes of the contest.

The court work of rangy pivoter Leon Smith and Samuel Hardy was a big factor in the convincing Company H win. The two lads dunked 11 counters each, teaming to score more points between them than the entire Company G squad.

Lanky Bill Battles, who used almost every type of shot in the books to connect, led the losers

Coach Horace Smith brought back a rejuvenated Company G team on Thursday night to outclass and outscore Company E, 49-31.

Again Battles took the scoring lead, sinking 12 points to top the 11 tallies registered by midget-sized Chuck Fowlks, and the 10 scores chalked up by Oliver Jackson.

Leading at the half by a 25-18 score, Company G was never seriously threatened. Buckeeting 24 points during the second half, Company G employed effective defensive measures to limit its foes to 13.

Despite its loss, Company E shared the honor of roducing the game's high scorer. Casey Herb Miles hit the bull's - eye for 13 counters to establish a tournament record for the most points scored in a single game.

Joe Green, another shifty basketman, came up with eight points for Company E, but the combined efforts of Miles and Green weren't enough to overtake the inspired Company G lads.

Aguilar Pulls Upset In Intra-Mural Ring

Outpoints Wilbert Wilson Of 1948 Doughboy Fame

In an unexpected turn of events, Fernando Aguilar, 140½-pound 15th Infantry regiment welterweight, flavored the fourth weekly card of the intra-mural boxing campaign with an upset when he eked out a split decision over Wilbert Wilson of the Sand hill Rockets last Friday night.

A capacity crowd saw Aguilar work his way up from Class IV to Class II by winning over the favored Sand hill welterweight.

Th odds given Wilson prior to the scrap were based on the reputation he gained as a member of the Benning Third army ring team last year.

Wilson, a methodical, aggressive boxer, who utilizes the crowding technique, worked true to form in the first round. He backed Aguilar into a tight spot in his own corner, and worked him over with a steady rain of body and head blows.

However, Aguilar proved that he could stand up to the punishment, and came out fresh for the second phase of the three-rounder. After matching his Sand hill opponent blow for blow during the early stages of the round, Aguilar finally landed a telling straight right which visibly slowed up Wilson.

Making a strong bid for the running, the 3440th Area Service unit added 45 points to its total when Class V light heavyweight Waymon Baily rushed the 15th Infantry's Harold Rooks in the first to out-punch the infantryman for a definite advantage at the end of the round. Continuing his rushing tactics in the second, Baily kept Rooks in a state of confusion with repeated left jabs. He then threw in a series of lefts and rights to the head, which sent the 15th Infantry lad reeling backward to the roues, his nose bleeding profusely. The referee stopped the bout in 15 seconds of the round and awarded Baily the win by technical kayo in the second Class V go.

The remainder of the ASU points were scored through 141-pound Richard Mason's win by forfeit over Robert Maldonado, of the 39th Field Artillery battalion and 152-pound William Jones' win by unanimous decision over Tony Castillo of the 15th Infantry in the fifth and last Class V event.

Al Doll Airborne battalion middleweight then won 15 points for Parker Ross, 143-pounder of theRand hill Rockets, who unanimously decisioned the 15 Infantry's Ronald Thibeaut absence of the ISD's Paul Faxio.

The other Class V bout, the card-opener, resulted in a win for Parker Ross 143-pounder.

Airborne battalion's Booker Tutis, 147-pound welter brought the points for the first of the Class IV contests to the troopers. He defeated Earnest Brown of the Rockets by unanimous decision.

In the second bout of the evening in Class IV, Anthony Perfidio, welterweight counter-puncher from the 15th Inantry, cradled the running charges of airborne's Joe Franklin, one of which carried him clear across the ring, and outpointed the aggressor by a unanimous decision triumph.

Trooper Estavan Coronado made up for the loss by copping a unanimous decision over Roy Eversly, ISD middleweight. Eversly definitely out-did his opponent in fine boxing, but didn't hit hard enough to stop the artist's delivery of hard hooks and roundhouses which scored the points for the win.

Additional Class IV counters went the airborne through Leo Adams' win by forfeit over absentee Willie Turner of ISD.

Raymond Hughes, 39th Field Artillery lightweight, avenged his previous week's loss by defeating Willie Camp of ISD in a split decision.

Light heavyweight James Knox of the Rockets was deprived of a knockout he was striving for in his Class III go with the 3440th's Bill Kilgour, but did gain a unanimous verdict. Kilgour raised gales of laugher from the crowd last week with some unorthodox body wrestling, and shoulder - shaking before the 15th Infantry's Joe Klock put him away for keeps in the third. His comedy again pleased the crowd as he came up with something different in the way of boxing. The ring comedian visited the canvas in the second only to be saved by the bell, and went down again in the third for a count of seven.

Joe Klock of the 15th Infantry, backed by a record of wins by kayo also had to be content with a unanimous decision when the bell ending the third round saved Trust Brown of the Rockets from being counted out. Brown hit the canvas in one minute and 40 seconds of the round. The Sand hiller carried the fight to Klock who stalked, waited, and kept moving in "for an opening for a haymaker When the opening came in the third, he rushed Brown to a corner and sent him to the mat.

Billy Williams of the Airborne battalion, faced former teammate middleweight Cliff Wilburn in the Class I main go. Wilburn came out in the first looking for a chance to score an early kayo over the challenger, and succeeded in getting the Trooper against the ropes. Williams retaliated by working the Sand hiller into a similar position. Both came out fresh in the second, still feeling each outh out, until Williams landjaw which had the Rockets' middleweight on the ropes at the bell.

Williams, still fighting hard, gave Wilburn the opportunity he was waiting for when his famous hook sent the Trooper to the canvas in one minute and 40 seconds of the Third round for the nine count. Ten seconds later, Williams hit the mat again, but the third bell interrupted the count, cheating Wilburn out of a kayo win, but allowing him to post a unanimous decision.

New Discovery Paces Infantry Five To Victory

Hoopsters of the 15th Infantry regiment discovered a new scoring ace last Thursday night in Bob Nixson, who paced them to a 46-37 loop triumph over the 39th Field Artillery battalion Redlegs.

Nixson, who has been in the infantry lineup all season, had spent the majority of his time on the bench. He went in as a starter against the Redlegs to offset the loss of George Campbell, who is anticipating a transfer to Fort Bragg, N. C., and succeeded in racking up 19 points for the infantry men.

Prior to withdrawing from the 15th Infantry quintet, Campbell was the second highest scorer in the intra-mural circuit with a point average of 14 per game.

The victorious infantrymen found the going a trifle rough against a reinforced Redleg five, however, and had to rely on a first-half margin to squeeze past their foes. A 31-16 count favored the victors at the half.

Several newcomers to the squad gave the Redlegs a much-needed depth in reserves. The Reds originally were to draw their players from three different units, the 39th Field Artillery battalion, the 73rd Heavy Tank battalion, and the 509th Parachute Infantry regiment, but the team's members were furnished entirely by the artillery unit prior to Thursday night's tussle.

John DeGruttola, with 14 counters, copped individual scoring laurels for the Redlegs, while Nixson's eight field goals and three free throwns annexed top honors for the infantrymen.

Recruiters Advise EM Report Early Reenlistment Day

The Infantry Center recruiting office works on a first come, first served basis, and all soldiers intending to remain in the army are advised to report early on the day they intend to reenlist.

Officials have announced that the office is open every day in the week. On normal working days, it is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., including the noon hour. On holidays, periods of curtailed operations, Saturdays, and Sundays, office hours are 9 a.m. until noon. During the Christmas holidays hours will be from 9 a.m. until noon.

The recruiting office is located in the north tower of Doughboy stadium on the corner of Vibbert avenue and Ingersoll street.

GET OFF MY TOE—Tony Castillo, 15th Infantry regiment lightweight, doesn't seem to care whose toes he steps on in this mix-up in the second round of his Class V bout with William Jones of the 3440th Area Service unit last Friday night. A unanimous decision went to Jones.

MAIN POST GYM—An around-the-calendar cycle of indoor sports makes the Main Post gym virtually a constant hive of athletic activity. Located in the heart of the Main post it is accessible to most of the larger units of Fort Benning. The building is the scene of such activities as intra-mural boxing and basketball, and houses a skating rink during the summer months. Individual athletes also may use the facilities of the gym to keep themselves in condition.

Post Gymnasium Popular Among Boxers, Cagemen

One of the most popular spots at Fort Benning during boxing and basketball seasons is the Main gymnasium.

Centrally located on the main post proper, the gym, which was completed in 1925, was built with salvage materials by volunteer soldier labor, much the same as Doughboy stadium.

Although not a new building when compared with some of the others on the post, the gym is, nevertheless, completely modern in all respects and has ample equipment for all types of indoor athletics.

It has excellent basketball, handball and badminton courts and equipment for volley ball and other games.

There are weights, bars, ropes and all types of exercise machines for those who want strenuous workouts.

There are striking gloves, boxing gloves, light and heavy punching bags, two rings and other equipment for aspirant pugilists.

The building is also equipped with a large shower room and ample locker space.

During the war years, with boxing in New York and some of the other large cities practically at a standstill, the local gym became known as "Little Madison Square Garden" because of many headline fighters who participated in bouts here.

Included in this array of top talent who served at Fort Benning during the war years, were several former title holders and many leading contenders for world honors, such as Al Hostak, former world middleweight king, who fought many bruising battles with such men as Tony Zale, Georgie Abrams, Billy Soose and many other ranking middies. Beau Jack, the Georgia shoeshine boy, who was twice lightweight champion and now a ranking welterweight, and Mike Raffa, top feather contender.

Those interested in basketball will find that some of the nation's leading cagers kept their eyes keen and their reflexes sharp on the local hardwood.

Among some of the more famous hoopsters who plyed their trade on the local courts were Gene Vance, one of the famous original Illinois university "Whiz Kids"; J. W. Green, a star player for the University of Chattanooga; Jim Wier, ace hoopster from the University of Wyoming, and Harry Donabedian, star player for the Rhode Island Rams.

9 Detachment Men Promoted Nov. 30

Nine members of the Infantry School detachment were promoted on Nov. 30, it was reported last Thursday by Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson, detachment commander.

Promoted from private first class to the grade of corporal were Bolton B. Barnett and Jesse L. Buchanan, Company B, and Hubert E. Sides, Company C.

Six men were promoted from private to private first class. They included Lloyd A. Johnson, Adeline Almeida, Kenneth R. Harland and George E. Johnson, Company B, Hiram R. Mims, Company C, and Sam H. Renfroe, Company A.

The Florida university basketball squad averages 6 feet, two inches with individual heights ranging from six-foot, four-inch Hans Taenzler to pint-sized guard Moe Perlman at five feet, eight-inches.

Sgt. Huston Transfers To Weather Squadron

S-Sgt. Harold L. Huston, weather forecaster with the 25th Weather squadron at Lawson air force base, has been transferred to the 30th Weather squadron on Guam, it was reported last week.

Stationed at Lawson for the past eight months, Sergeant Huston has spent eight years in the army. During the war, he served in Europe as an infantryman for 14 months.

Make First Jump

Members of class No. 10 of the Airborne battalion's Company G made their first parachute jump Thursday, Dec. 9, it has been reported by 1st Lt. John D. White, unit commander.

Parachutists Drub Truck Unit Cagers

Led by sharp-shooting Vern Griffin, the Airborne battalion court quintet pounced on the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers to the tune of 77-33 in a league contest in the Main gymnasium Monday night.

The triumph over the Truckers left the parachute fivesome with an unbroken string of six wins for the intra-mural campaign, and deadlocked them with the Infantry School detachment for the loop lead.

Exhibiting some fancy floor work as well as some top-notch goal shooting, the airborne lads had little difficulty in breezing past the outclassed Truckers.

The 'chutists, defending post champs, surged to an early lead, and by the half, had thoroughly blacked out any hopes the Truckers might have had for a late-season upset. At the half-time break, the troopers had rolled up a 40-13 edge over the transportation quintet.

In the second half, the Truckers managed to do somewhat better in the scoring department, but their defenses were unable to keep the airborne twine-swishers from hitting the hoop regularly.

Griffin, who has been one of the airborne's scoring mainstays throughout the season, turned in his best performance of the year by chalking up 25 counters to take high-point honors for the game. His brace of tallies came as the result of 11 field goals and three free throws.

Harry Moore was top scorer for the Truckers with a total of 14 points.

Christmas Turkey Meet in Progress For Post Golfers

Local golfers are being given an opportunity this week to take some of the Christmas dinner strain off their pocketbooks.

Those who want to eat turkey Dec. 25 may be able to save the price of a bird by participating in the 36-hole medal play handicap tournament which started last Wednesday at the Fort Benning Golf and Country club.

But interested contestants are warned to act quickly since the deadline for posting scores is Sunday.

Linksman may turn in their 36-hole scores any time during the 13-day period, but must indicate before starting play that the round is in competition for one of the turkey awards.

In prompting post links enthusiasts to participate in the meet, club officials pointed out that the number of turkeys to be given away depends on the number of entries. An entrance fee of one dollar per contestant will be charged, and the money taken in on assessments will be spent entirely for turkeys.

All individuals with club memberships, including enlisted men who have been granted playing privileges, are eligible to take part in the tourney.

Eleven Medics Get Promotion Dec. 1

A total of 11 enlisted members of the 375th Medical Collection company were promoted on Dec. 1, officials have announced.

Promoted to the grade of sergeant were William E. Wagner, Leroy Garvin and Nathaniel Wilson.

Promoted to corporal were Woodrow H. Davis, Amos L. Dents and John W. Johnson.

Promotions to private first class included Zeno M. Guitem and Leroy Roberts.

Promoted to private were Louie McDaniels, Wellington R. Mills and Thomas J. Morrisey.

ISD Team Retains Post Kegling Lead

A four-point victory over Headquarters company of the 15th Infantry regiment last Wednesday night held the intra-mural league lead for bowlers of Company A of the Infantry School detachment.

The Company A keglers, who have not dropped any of the 36 points at stake in their league matches, ran up a score of 2,385-2,128 over the 15th Infantry squad.

Following the loop - leaders' triumph on Wednesday night, Company B of the ISD scored a grand-slam decision over the First battalion of the 15th Infantry by winning three straight games, and registering 2,482 counters as compared with a total of 2,123 for the losers.

The final match on tap for Wednesday night resulted in an easy four-point win for the 73rd Heavy Tank battalion keglers, who accepted a forfeit from the 121st Evacuation hospital.

A forfeit by Company G of the 29th Infantry regiment headed Thursday night's program, and enriched the Station hospital point total for the season by four counters.

The Airborne battalion then took three points from Headquarters and Headquarters detachment, Section I, 3440th Area Service unit, in a 2,393-2,196 contest, and the Student Training regiment took a trio of tallies from the Food Service School in the Thursday finale. The STR keglers posted a total pinfall of 2,522, while the Food Service School bowlers notched only 2,179.

Norbert Szymarek, the 3440th ASU's pace - setter, was credited with bowling both the high single game and top three game series of the week. His single score was 235, and he chalked up a three - contest total of 580.

Runner - up in both of the individual departments was Walter Carlock, who had a high single game of 221, and a top score of 554 for his three-game set.

Bowlers in the 17 - team circuit will be given a respite over the holidays with activity to be resumed about Jan. 5. Play in league will continue until about Feb. 17 with the only break coming on Jan. 18-20 for the Third army tournament.

Medical Quintet Edges Artillery For Initial Win

After four fruitless attempts, Medic basketmen of the 3440th Area Service unit finally crashed the win column in the intra-mural cage loop last Monday night by shading the 39th Field Artillery battalion 41-39.

Both the Medics and the artillerymen went into the fame devoid of win digits.

A flying start gave the medical cagemen the impetus needed to carry them to victory. During the early minutes of the game they rolled up a 13-2 margin over the hapless artillery quintet, and still were out in front 20-10 at the half.

However, the artillerymen started hitting the hoop in the second period, and, at one time, were deadlocked 33-33 with the victors.

Heading the individual scoring roster for the Medic quintet were D. R. Holland and T. M. Graham with nine points each. Both lads dropped in four field goals and a charity toss.

Phil (Cherokee) Smith, who was relatively inactive during the first half of the contest, went to work during the final stanza, and copped scoring honors for the artillerymen with 18 counters. His brace of tallies included eight two-pointers and a pair of gratis goals.

Bonanza in Brooklyn

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who recently was voted the National league's most valuable player for 1948, was most effective at the plate at Ebbets field, the home of the Brooklyn Dodgers, but had the most trouble hitting against the Dodgers at Sportsman's park. His season's average at Brooklyn was .522, while he batted only .244 against the Dodgers on St. Louis soil.

Field Artillery Battalion Announces Promotions

Six enlisted members of the 999th Field Artillery battalion were promoted Dec. 6, officials have announced.

Cpl. Royce R. Graham, Battery A, was promoted to the grade of sergeant, Pfcs. Alfred J. Neal and Edgar Powe, headquarters, to the grade of corporal, and Pvts. James Garner, Mems Van Zant and Freddie Wilson, Battery A, to the grade of private first class.

LET ME TAKE IT . . . Gene Batson (No. 6) and Slim Foster (No. 3) of the Infantry School detachment cage quintet have a mid-air argument over possession of the ball which Sylvester Scott (No. 15) of the Sand hill Rockets has just bounced off the backboard. Standing by just in case the two lads can't make up their mind are Charles Boyd (left) of the Rockets, and Leon McCrary (No. 4) of the ISD. The Thursday night intra-mural league struggle was won by the ISD, 48-27.

ISD Court Men Swamp Rockets

The high-flying Infantry School detachment hardwood quintet hiked its number of consecutive victories in the post intra-mural league to six last Thursday night with a 48-27 triumph over the Sand Hill Rockets.

In breezing past the Rockets to keep their slate for the season unblemished, the ISD courtmen shared the undefeated bracket with their perennial foes of the Airborne battalion.

The infantrymen and troopers are slated to meet tonight for a tilt which probably will decide the post championship for the 1948-49 season.

In winning over the Sand hillers, the ISD bucketmen took advantage of an off-night for the Rockets, and managed to handcuff completely their scoring ace, Charles Boyd. The diminutive basketman, whose mean point-making mainstay, and No. 1 scorer for the loop, cover 3. However, the bucket expert managed to keep himself in the clear throughout most of the second half, and annexed individual honors for the game with a total of 24 counters.

Topmost among the Rocket scorers was Sylvester Scott, whose five field goals and two charity tosses gave him a total of 12.

The loss was the second of the campaign for the Rockets, who had been victorious in three previous outings.

ROCKET QUINTET RALLIES TO BEAT TRUCKERS 57-39

Rallying after a slow start, the Sand hill Rockets breezed past the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers 57-39 in an intra-mural league cage contest in the Main gymnasium last Tuesday night.

The Sand hill victory was the third in four starts, and primed the Rockets for an all-important clash with the Infantry School detachment's unbeaten quintet.

After the coaches of the two squads elected to play four ten-minute quarters, the Truckers pulled ahead 11-7 at the end of the first period. In the second quarter, the Rocket defenses tightened, and the Sand hill lads surged ahead 19-18.

Going into the final period, the 999th Field Artillery battalion—25th Infantry regiment combine had increased its margin to 38-34.

Charles Boyd, who ranks high among the loop's top scorers, again snatched point laurels for the Rockets with a tally of 17. He picked up his total by plucking eight field goals and a free throw.

Big Jim Cowley, who hit the hoop with six shots from the court, annexed individual honors for the Truckers with his total of 12.

Airman Leaves For Pacific Post

T-Sgt. James T. McKenzie of the Lawson recruiting office left recently for a new assignment at Johnston island in the Pacific.

Prior to reenlisting in the air force three months ago, Sgt. McKenzie had spent three years as communications chief of the 756th Tank battalion at Benning.

During his 14 years service, he has been stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., Camp Holabird, Md., Camp Chaffee, Ark., and Camp Gruber, Okla. In 1943, Sergeant McKenzie completed a two-year course at the Lincoln Engineering School, Lincln, Nebr., while on temporary duty from Fort Knox.

Sergeant McKenzie served on the Baker Village Methodist church board of stewards, acted as adviser to the Senior Air Scouts at Benning, was a member of Mount Hermon Lodge No. 304, AF & AAM, and held a pri-pilot's license.

Mrs. McKenzie and their four children are planning to remain at Baker Village while the sergeant is overseas.

Warrant Officer Retires Following Colorful Service

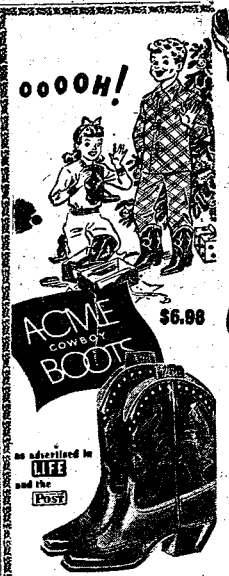
With 30 colorful years of continuous service, WOJG James C. Burson of the Student Training regiment retired recently.

Enlisting May 2, 1918, Mr. Burson put in only two months of service in the U. S. before embarking for Europe with the first anti - aircraft artillery battalion to be formed. He returned to the U. S. in April, 1919, and three days after his debarkation, celebrated his 17th birthday.

After a three-year hitch with the coast artillery in Hawaii, Mr. Burson again came back to the U. S., where he served with the 22nd Infantry regiment at Fort McPherson, Ga., until he went back to Hawaii in 1932. In 1934, he drew a one - year assignment with the Officers' Reserve corps in Ohio, and came to Fort Benning in 1935.

His service at Benning was continuous until 1940 when he was ordered to active duty as a first lieutenant.

Promoted to captain while serving as personnel officer of Camp Shelby, Miss., Mr. Burson departed for Puerto Rico in 1941, and was advanced to the rank of major while on duty as adjutant of Losey field.



Mr. Burson was relieved from active duty in December, 1946, and received a regular army appointment as warrant officer junior grade. Assigned to Benning immediately following his appointment, Mr. Burson completed his 30 years here.

From January, 1926, until the time he received his commission, Mr. Burson never served in a grade lower than staff sergeant.

Upon retiring, Mr. Burson pointed with pride to the fact that, throughout his 30 years in the army, he neither missed nor was late to a formation.

531 RA Majors To Be Promoted

The Department of the Army announced Dec. 10 that the President had approved the selection of 531 army officers in the permanent grade of major for promotion to the permanent grade of lieutenant colonel, under the provisions of the Officer Personnel Act of 1947.

ISD Cagers Nip Infantry Aggregation

Overcome Deficit To Win By 49-44

Overcoming an early-game deficit, Infantry School detachment cagemen remained undefeated in the current intra-mural basketball circuit last Monday night by squeezing past the 15th Infantry regiment court delegation 49-44.

Shortly after the opening tip-off, the 15th Infantry crew had run up a 16-6 count over the ISD lads. However, the unbeaten squad's scoring aces came back during the closing minutes of the first half to pull ahead 26-21 at the intermission.

During the second stanza, the Infantrymen came to within one point of knotting the count on the ISD several times, but the victors surged ahead for keeps during the closing seconds of the contest.

Throughout the first half of the game, the ISD defenses had George Campbell, 15th scoring ace, bottled up, but the No. 2 bucket-shooter of the league came through with some second-half twine-swishers which gave him a split with the ISD's Charles Richards for individual honors. Both cagers were credited with dropping in 21 counters. Richards now holds the No. 1 scoring spot in the circuit.

By winning their tussle with the 15th Infantrymen, the ISD quintet stretched its string of victories in the loop to five. The 15th squad's loss evened up its record for the season with two wins and a pair of setbacks in four starts.

15th Infantry First of Third Division Units to Be Organized At Benning

When the 15th Infantry regiment of the Third Infantry division was ordered to Fort Benning last week, the Infantry Center found itself the home of a unit with one of the most glorious histories in America's armed forces. For the "Can Do" regiment, the old China outfit in which served such outstanding soldiers as Generals George C. Marshall, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mark W. Clark, has a background in war and peace that goes back to the War of 1812.

The regiment was organized in 1812 to fight the British in the second "American Revolution." In its first great battle, May 27, 1813, the outfit, under the command of General Dearborn, participated in the capture of Fort George, Upper Canada, and when American defeat followed the initial victory, the regiment covered the retreat. Although 50 percent of its strength were casualties, not a single man surrendered.

Mexico came next. The regiment was again mustered into service as a volunteer organization and sailed for Vera Cruz as part of General Winfield Scott's punitive expedition. The regiment saw action at Vera Cruz, Plan del Rio, Cerro Gordo Churubusco, Las Animas, Jalapa, Chapultapec and Mexico City. After the war the regiment was disbanded.

When the Civil war broke out the 15th was again called into service and has seen active duty every since. It was organized as part of the regular Union Army May 4, 1861. As a unit of the Army of the West during the Civil war, it engaged in the battles of Shiloh, Stone river, Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, Missionary ridge, Atlanta and in numerous smaller engagements.

Following the Civil war, the regiment was stationed at various post in the south and west. It partipated in the campaign against the Ute Indians in New Mexico and later composed a part of the expeditionary force in the Spanish-American war and in 1900 the regiment saw its first service in the Orient.

The 15th Infantry went to China in 1900 during the Boxer Rebellion, taking part in the bloody work of pacification until ordered to the Philippines. From 1903 until 1912, the regiment was stationed at Monterey, California where it built barracks and had its last taste of peaceful United States garrison life. In 1912 it sailed back to China with the mission of protecting the Pekin-Mukden railroad between Tientsin and Chinwangtao.

During the next 26 years, the regiment protected American lives and property in China in spite of never-ending civil conflict and the later Sino-Japanese "incidents" In expression of its long and successful service in China,, during part of which time it was commanded by Col. George G. Marshall, and as representative of its confident attitude toward all tasks, the 15th adopted as its motto the Chinese pidgin English expression, "Can Do."

On March 2, 1938, the regiment returned to the United States and joined the Third Infantry division at Fort Lewis, Wash., where it began preparing for service in World War II that made its shining past history pale compared to what lay ahead.

The 15th Infantry began its combat history in World War II by participating in the landing operations near Casablanca, Morocco, on the morning of Nov. 8, 1942, the first great D-Day in the war against Hitlerism. From that time on the regiment, with the rest of the Third, didn't stop until it helped its sister regiment, the Seventh, capture Salzburg, Austria and Berchtesgaden.

The 15th went from North Africa to the following campaigns:

Tunisia, Sicily, Naples-Foggia, Anzio, Rome - Arno, Southern France, Ardennes-Alsace, Rhineland and Central Europe. In its 478 days of actua front-line combat 16 men of the 15th won Congressional Medals of Honor. Another 45 were awarded the Distinquished Service Cross, 16 the Legion of Merit, 632 the Silver Star, 823 Bronze Stars, nine the Soldier's medal, and 8,250 Purple Hearts.

In addition to individual awards to the men of the regiment, the 15th, as part of the Third Infantry division, also wears the Distinguished Unit citation. Ths citation was also won by the First and Third battalions of the 15th, by Company L and by the regimental Anti-Tank company. The men of the regiment are also entitled to wear the fouraguerre of the Croix de Guerre, twice awarded to the Third division in World War II by the French government.

Physical Exams, Inductions Cease During Holidays

Men scheduled for physical examination and induction into the army through selective service will not be called upon to report during a 12-day Christmas holiday period, it has been announced by Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall.

Under arrangement with the selective service system, physical examinations and actual inductions will be suspended between Dec. 15 and Dec. 27.

Secretary Royall said the action was taken to permit prospective inductees previously scheduled for induction during Christmas season to spend the holiday with their families and to hold duties of military personnel at installations throughout the U. S. as well as overseas, at a minimum during this period.

It was pointed out that selective service machinery would operate during the 12-day period, but that no one would be required to report for either physical examination or formal induction until after Dec. 27. The action has no bearing on the previously announced December induction quota, which remains at 15,000.

Recorded Concert Features Gershwin

The regular Monday evening recorded concert at the Main library will this week feature the works of Gershwin, Tchaikowsky and Shostokovich, it has been announced.

Recorded music for this concert will be on the new long-playing discs.

First selection on the program is George Gershwin's "American in Paris," played by the New York Philharmonic Symphony under the direction of Arthur Rodzinski.

This will be followed by the Tchaikowsky suite, "Moxartina," by the same orchestra and conductor, and the final number will be the Shostokovich Fifth Symphony, conducted by Rodzinski, but with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra.

Officer Gets Bronze Star

First Lt. William J. Helring, Company B, 15th Infantry Regimental combat team, was awarded a Bronze Star medal at a special ceremony Saturday, Dec. 10 at Stilwell filed.

The citation, accompanying the medal, read in part:

"For exemplary conduct in ground combat the armed enemy during the Po valley campaign in the Mediterranean theater of operations while serving with the 317th Infantry regiment."

Lieutenant Helring entered the 28th Infantry division (national guard) in 1936, and was called to duty as private in 1941 as a member of the 109th Infantry division. He was commissioned in 1942 and served with the 34th Infantry division in Africa and Italy, taking part in four campaigns.

In addition to the Bronze Star, he wears the Combat Infantry badge.

Col. James F. Torrence, 15th commander, made the presentation.

Monthly Inspection Program Mapped For 25th Infantry

Monthly competitive inspections, designed to promote organizational pride, have been initiated by the Second battalion of the 25th Infantry regiment.

The five companies of the battalion will be competing with each other for temporary possession of one or more of four engraved plaques to be awarded monthly for the most outstanding showings in specified inspection phases.

Plaques will be awarded for the best administration, the best mess hall, the best barracks and the best day room.

In addition to the plaques, streamers will be presented weekly to the company which makes the best showing in the battalion's weekly parade, and to the one which passes the most satisfactory inspection on Saturday morning.

Christmas Mail Assured Delivery

The processing of Christmas packages for soldiers in the European command reached its peak the last week in November according to Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, adjutant general of the army.

All Christmas packages received up to Nov. 27 will be shipped and delivered to U. S. soldiers overseas in all theaters by Christmas. It was pointed out that all such mail is carried by army transports.

About 180,000 pounds of Christmas parcels left New York during the last week in November aboard U. S. army transports General Muir, General Taylor and Greenville Victory. Other transports were scheduled to depart for all overseas commands during the following two weeks to insure delivery in ample time for Christmas.

Orders Arriving At TIS For Basic Class Students

Orders are already coming in to the Infantry School on newly commissioned reserve second lieutenants who will be enrolled in special associate basic infantry officers' course No. 2, it has been reported by Lt. Col. Kenneth E. Ward, assistant coordinator of training.

Reporting date for the new officers who will take the 12 week course is Jan. 6, Colonel Ward added. The quota for the first class is 100 students.

25th's SECOND BATTALION BECOMES SEPARATE UNIT

The Second battalion of the 25th Infantry regiment began operating as a separate unit Dec. 1 for the first time since last Jan. 19 when it was attached to the 325th Infantry regiment, now the 15th Infantry regiment.

Part of the 25th, formerly the 107th Infantry Regimental combat team, has been at Fort Benning since March, 1946.

Composed of the First, Second, Third and Fourth battalions, the regiment moved to the Sand hill area April 17, 1946. Later the Third and Fourth battalions were ordered reduced to zero strength and in February, 1948, the First was similarly reduced.

Commander of the Second is now Lt. Col. John E. Arthur.

Enlisted men of the battalion's personnel section, who have been on duty with the personnel section of the 325th, have returned to the Sand hill area, and set up office in building 3179.

They include M-Sgt. Arthur Cox, operations chief, Headquarters company; Sgt. Scott S. Skinner, personnel sergeant major, Headquarters company; Sgt. Henry A. Hicks, administrative technician, Company F; Sgt. Richard G. Hall, classification and assignment, Headquarters company; Cpl. Lewis W. Chatman, administrative technician, Company E.

Cpl. Melvin F. McCain, administrative technician, Headquarters company; Cpl. William Dockery, separation clerk, Company G; Pfc. Lorenzo Brown, service record clerk, Company F, and Pfc. Jude St. Martin, service record clerk, Headquarters company.

ISD Reveals Promotion Of Three Enlisted Men

Three members of the Infantry School detachment were promoted Dec. 9, it was announced Friday by Lt. Col. Arden C. Brill, detachment commander.

Sgt. Sam J. McCracken, attached to the 72nd Army band, was promoted to the grade of sergeant first class; Pfc. Samuel S. McNair, Company H, airborne battalion, to corporal, and Pvt. Wiley B. Embry, Company H, Airborne battalion, to private first class.

Officers to Take Aviation Course

The Department of the Army has announced that qualified officers of the regular army, national guard and the Organized Reserve corps may apply for light aviation training.

After successful completion of the training course, the officers will be awarded the aeronautical rating of liaison pilot and assigned flying duty with regular army and civilian component units utilizing light aircraft of the type used for aerial artillery observation and reconnaissance.

The next class of 35 officers will begin in January at San Marcos air force base, San Marcos, Tex., with other classes scheduled to follow every three months. Of the officers in each class, 20 will be regular army or non-regular officers on extended active duty, 10 will be national guard officers not on active duty and the remaining five will be officers of the Organized Reserve corps who are not on active duty.

Student officers will receive five and one - half months' technical flying training at the air force's Liaison Pilot School at San Marcos, and an additional three months of training in the tactical employment of light aviation at the Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla. Those officers successfully completing both courses of light aviation training will be placed on flying status and assigned to regular army and civilian component units authorized organic light aviation.

Training will be conducted in the operation of L-16 (Aeronca Champion); L-5 (Stinson Sentinel), and the L-17 (Ryan Navion). Students also will receive training in the adjustment of fire for field artillery, front line reconnaissance, route selection and the gathering of information for intelligence purposes as applicable to infantry, artillery, cavalry, signal corps and engineer units.

To be eligible for light aviation training, applicants must have at least one year of commissioned service in the army other than as a student, and be of a rank not higher than temporary captain except for engineer and signal corps officers, who cannot be above the grade of first lieutenant. The applicants must be not over 31 years of age, and be commissioned in infantry, field artillery, cavalry, signal corps or corps of engineers, or request a detail in one of those branches. National guard officers, in addition to the other qualifications, must occupy a vacancy for which flying status is authorized.

Battalion Redesignated

The 756th Heavy Tank battalion has been redesignated the 73rd Heavy Tank battalion, it has been announced by the Infantry Center. The 73rd is the Heavy Tank battalion of the Third Infantry division which has been ordered to Fort Benning.

Postal Personnel Advise Use of Complete Address

Army postal service personnel reported this week that articles addressed simply to the "British West Indies," or "B.W.I.", as the country of destination is insufficient.

The name of the island or group of islands, (Jamaica, Bahamas, Antigua, Leeward islands, Barbados, Winward islands, Trinidad, etc.) should be included, they said.

A complete address is necessary to insure the safe and prompt delivery of articles dispatched to the islands. Articles lacking the name of the island or group of islands will be returned postal officials declared.

The mailing of cigarettes and tobacco products for delivery through A.P.O.'s 124 and 125, (which are located in England) in care of Postmaster, New York, N.Y., has been prohibited.

Postal personnel have been directed to question mailers as to the contents of parcels addressed for delivery through these A. P. O.'s, and to refuse to accept for mailing any parcels containing cigarettes or other tobacco products.

Officials here suggested that mailers send their holiday greeting cards first - class because of the many advantages it offers.

In sending greetings as first-class mail, they may be sealed and contain written messages, which would not otherwise be permitted. Cards sent first-class will be delivered first, will be given directory service if necessary, and forwarded without any additional charge. Greetings sent at first-class rates will also be returned to the sender if undeliverable, providing the return address is shown on the envelope.

Maj. H. E. Greer Heads 325th RCT

At an informal ceremony last Wednesday in the headquarters of the 15th Infantry Regimental combat team, Col. James F. Torrence turned over the command colors of the 325th Infantry Regimental combat team to Maj. Harold E. Greer, Second Battalion of the 325th.

Major Greer is scheduled to leave Fort Benning shortly with 547 airborne members of the 325th for Fort Bragg N. C., where the unit will join its parent organization, the 82nd Airborne Infantry division, and be redesignated the 325th Airborne Infantry Regimental combat team.

Non-airborne members of the 325th have become the nucleus of the reorganized 15th Infantry Regimental combat team of the Third Infantry division which was ordered last week from Camp Campbell, Ky., to Fort Benning.

In turning over command of the 325th to Major Greer, Colonel Torrance stated that he was "proud to have commanded the unit and wished it every success in carrying on the prestige that is the heritage of those who wear its insignia."

Major Greer replied that he considered it a "privilege and honor, to assume the command and accept the colors of such an outstanding unit."

Basic, Advanced Classes To Graduate On Dec. 17

The Infantry School's associate Basic class No. 1 and associate advanced class No. 1 will end Friday, Dec. 17, it has been announced.

Reserve Officers Have Until Feb. 1 To Protect Status

The Department of the Army has announced an extension of the deadline until Feb. 1, 1949, for reserve officers of the army who are not currently engaged in reserve activities to apply for active reserve status.

This extension provides an additional month for reservists who have not previously indicated a preference for active reserve status to notify their local unit instructor or senior army instructor of their desire for retention in the active reserve.

If preference is not indicated before the expiration of the Feb 1, deadline, these reserve officers will be automatically transfered to the inactive reserve and will not be eligible for promotion, drill pay and retirement benefits. They will be subject to call to active duty in the event of a national emergency, however, during the life of their commission.

Post Chaplains Acquire Latest Training Aids

The Chaplains' section recently acquired the latest model training aids for use in religious and moral education work at Fort Benning, it was announced today by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wallace M. Hale, Infantry Center chaplain.

The training aids are divided into units A and B, with unit A consisting of a sound recorder featuring magnetized paper tape impregnated with steel filings. Each reel will record for approximately 40 minutes, and the sound track is erased by recording new material over the old. A supersensitive crystal microphone transmits recordings by electro - magnetic impulses directly on the tape.

Unit B consists of a plastic screen and a 16 - mm film strip projector. Pictures are flashed on the screen from behind, eliminating the distraction of the beam of light. The projector and recorder are synchronized by means of sound devices in the film strip which allows perfect coordination of sound and film, Chaplain Hale said.

Chaplain Hale reported that sound and film strips of religious educational material for Protestant, Roman Catholic and and Jewish use in Sunday School, catechism and instruction classes are being prepared and distributed.

The training aids will also be available for use in "The Chaplain's Hour" since sound and film strips are being prepared on citizenship and morality lectures given monthly in each unit by post chaplains.

Party Schedule Planned For Christmas Season

A full week, and a very merry one, is ahead for youngsters of Fort Benning with Christmas parties and plays, serenades and just about everything for all ages from the set on up.

The children of the Benning Nursery school will have their party tonight in the Palm room of the Officers' club. They're having it at night so mother and daddy can be sure to get in on it. Every child in the school will have a part in the play which is in three scenes, "Christmas Toys," "The Manger" and "Night Before Christmas."

The Benning school children will have charge of the program at the Parent- Teachers meeting this afternoon and will present a one-act play "Christmas is for Everyone," as well as a number of recitations, and songs. The program is under the direction of Mrs. C. W. Hutcheson, who is being assisted by the teachers.

Tomorrow there'll be Christmas parties in all classrooms in the school, with special treats from the teachers and an exchange of gifts. At 10 a. m., a special showing of a movie "Treasure Island" will be presented. Parents are invited. At one o'clock, the children will gather in the auditorium for a Christmas carol songfest.

An event of the week will be the annual "kids'" party tomorrow at the Main theater. Everyone will be invited to sing Christmas carols, and there'll be music by the Army Ground Forces band. Next will come a special visit from Santa with a gift for all children 12 or younger. The party is for children who are, or who would attend, school No. 1.

The party for enlisted men's and officers' children of chapel No. 3, Main post, and chapel No. 3, Sand hill, will be held on Dec. 20 at 3 p.m., and Santa will be on hand with gifts for the children. There'll be a special movie, songs and everything that goes with a Christmas party.

The Protestant Sunday School will present a Christmas program on Sunday, Dec. 19, at school No. 1, with each class from the four-year-olds on up taking part. The youngsters will bring gifts which will be distributed to the Columbus Orphan's home and to children of needy military personnel.

On Christmas eve, from 2 p. m. until 3 p.m., the Pine Lodge NCO club will have its kids' party with a tree, Santa Claus, and gifts for all the youngsters. About 30 children from the Salvation Army post in Columbus will be invited as special guests.

The Brat Barracks crowd will have a talent party Friday Dec. 17, and on Tuesday Dec. 21, a semi-formal dance will be held. Their Christmas party will be held on Christmas day with a tree, Santa Claus, and open house as highlights. Members of Brat Barracks will join the Girl Scouts and Brownies in a Christmas carol serenade Friday night. At 11 p.m., the serenaders will return to the Girl Scout cabin for a snack supper.

And at midnight, Santa Claus will pay his annual visit to all the good little children of Fort Benning.

Main Library Reports Weekly Record Program

The recorded musical program at the Main library next Monday at 7:30 p.m. will feature Christmas music ranging from Heifetz to Perry Como, according to the program announced by Mrs. Theodosia Williams, in charge of the weekly concerts.

Jascha Heifetz, violin virtuoso, will play the Shubert "Ave Maria," while Como will sing popular Christmas songs. Also to be heard will be Ray Bloch and his orchestra and chorus in Christmas carols. There will also be recordings of carols by organ and chimes, Mrs. Williams said.

Army, Airforce To Activate Ham Radio System

Activation of a military amateur radio system (MARS) to provide a backlog of trained radio communication personnel in case of local or national emergency has been announced jointly by the army and airforce.

The army signal corps and the airforce director of communications are authorized under joint regulations to use military equipment wherever practical in the training of MARS members. Experimental work will be encouraged. Training also will be furthered by an official bulletin.

Membership will be open to any individual in the military service, Organized Reserve corps, national guard, or the reserve Officers Training corps who possesses a valid amateur radio operator's license issued by the Federal Communications Commission or issued under regulations of an oversea commander.

Applicants must agree to operate under regulations prescribed by the secretary of the army and the secretary of the airforce. Membership of civilians not in a civilian component of the army or airforce is not presently authorized, but plans are being made for such membership.

Application for membership may be submitted to signal and communication officers of the army area or airforce area in which the applicant resides.

Personnel for supervision and control of MARS activities will be furnished by the chief signal officer for the army and the director of communications for the airforce. There is no authority for additional personnel at other levels to conduct MARS activities. These activities will be assumed by officers in addition to present duties.

MARS policies will be guided by an advisory committee with both military and civilian members.

The full purpose of MARS, according to the official announcement made in army and airforce regulations is "to create interest and further training in military radio communication; to promote study and experimentation in military radio communication; to coordinate practices and procedures of amateur radio operations with those of military radio communication, and to provide an additional source of trained radio communication personnel in the event of a local or national emergency."

Truck Unit Hears Talks On Safety

Members of the 204th Transportation Truck battalion heard Woodrow B. Miller, representative of North American Van lines, explain the operation of his vehicles and discipline of his drivers during their monthly safety meeting last Thursday night.

The hour-long program included a skit presented by 1st Lt. Frank Pew, showing an ex-soldier with a bad record as a driver applying for a job, and an interview by 1st Lt. Caddie L. Henage, 204th safety officer, of two men who have had accidents since the last meeting.

The interview was augmented by charts explaining how the accidents occurred.

Others on the program included Norman Evans, Infantry Center safety director who outlined the safety activities for November with emphasis on 204th vehicles and personal injuries; and Lt. Col. Weldon C. Winston, 204th commander, who commended the men on their record and made recommendations.

A brief memorial service was also held for men of the battalion who have lost their lives as a result of vehicular accidents.

Will An Accident Spoil Your Christmas Cheer?

Test your self. The following ten questions are designed to reveal to you whether your actions during the Christmas holidays are likely to result in an accident. These questions are based on actual accident experience in past holiday seasons. If you nearly always act as the questions suggest, check column Y; if just occasionally, check column O; if you never do, check column N:

	Y	O	N
1. Do you continue to drive after getting sleepy?	—	—	—
2. Do you continue to drive at your regular speed on strange roads or in bad weather (rain, fog or icy roads)?	—	—	—
3. Do you continue to drive after you have had more than one drink?	—	—	—
4. Do you hitch rides with drinking or sleepy drivers?	—	—	—
5. Do you run up or down stairs?	—	—	—
6. Do you take shorts cuts through alleys or vacant lots?	—	—	—
7. Do you put a chip on your shoulder after the second drink in public places?	—	—	—
8. Do you take more than one drink with or among strangers?	—	—	—
9. Do you play with or handle souvenir pistols and other similar guns as if they were toys?	—	—	—
10. Do you habitually walk or run without looking for stumbling or tripping hazards?	—	—	—

Give yourself one point for each answer in column Y, three points for each answer in column O, and six points for each answer in column N. Now total the three columns. If your score is between 50 and 60, you are not likely to be involved in an accident. If between 35 and 50, better get yourself a rabbit's foot. If less than 35, be sure your insurance is paid.

Army To Repay Cost of Shipping Gifts to Pacific

Individuals in the United States may receive reimbursement at uniform rates from the Department of the Army for ocean freight charges incurred in shipping relief packages to individuals in Japan, Korea and the Ryukyus islands, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall announced recently.

Heretofore only approved voluntary, non-profit relief agencies in this country have been eligible for reimbursement for ocean freight charges under the provisions of the relief program.

For the purposes of the regulation, "individuals" include partnerships, corporations, or associations. All shippers must meet the requirements for export as established by the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, and must certify that no part of the freight charges for which reimbursement is sought were passed on to the persons donating such packages.

Application for the collection of freight charges should be made to the chief, fiscal and statistical group, Office of the Food Administrator for Occupied Areas, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., within 30 days of each shipment. Full instructions on the reimbursement procedure will be provided upon request to that office.

The uniform rates which the Department of the Army will pay will not exceed the actual amount paid for ocean freight for transporting the packages from port to port.

A relief package is defined as a gift parcel to be sent free of cost to the person receiving it and for the personal use of the recipient or his immediate family. The articles contained in the package must be limited to non-perishable food, clothing and clothes-making materials, shoes and shoemaking materials, medical and health supplies, and household supplies and utensils. Packages must be plainly marked USA gift parcel and must not exceed 44 pounds in gross weight.

Reorganization Does Not Affect Surgeon General

Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall emphasized today that the historic position of the Surgeon General as direct adviser to the secretary and the chief of staff remains unchanged despite the recent top-level reorganization of the army.

The directive outlining the reorganization, Mr. Royall said, will be amended to clarify the Surgeon General's status. The amendment, the secretary declared, will state:

"In matters of standards of health and medical care of the troops, and the utilization of professional medical personnel, the surgeon general shall have direct access to the secretary of the army and the chief of staff."

Army circular No. 342, the reorganization directive, placed the surgeon general's office under the general staff director of logistics for operation and administration, Mr. Royall pointed out. This was not intended to change his position with respect to the secretary and chief of staff, but rather to centralize everyday functions of all the technical services—of which the Medical department is one—under a single supervising official, the secretary explained. This aspect of the reorganization will not be changed by the new amendment, according to Mr. Royall.

Misunderstanding over the relationship between the suregon general on the one hand and the secretary and chief of staff on the other, Mr. Royall said, was called to his attention by Dr. Harold R. Hennessy, secretary of the American Medical association's council on national emergency medical service. Mr. Royall told Dr. Hennessy that the reorganization circular had not been intended to alter the policy set forth in April, 1945, by the then secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, in these words:

"I consider that the care of the sick and wounded and the character of the hospitalization in the army are matters for the direct responsibility of the secretary of war; also that the surgeon general should be his principal adviser in regard to these vital matters. To this end I wish it clearly understood that I am to have direct access to him and he to me on such matters whenever either of us deems if to be essential."

This statement, Mr. Royall said, was a declaration of long-standing army policy, and was reaffirmed in December, 1945, by Mr. Stimson's successor, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

General Marras Ends Post Visit

Lt. Gen. Efisio Marras, Italian army chief of staff, left yesterday following a two-day visit of the Infantry Center.

Arriving here from Miami Monday afternoon he was welcomed by Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commanding general. His first official act at the post was to inspect a guard of honor which had already rendered a 19-gun salute.

Composing the guard of honor, commanded by Lt. Col. Frank E. Hankinson, commanding officer of the First battalion, 15th Infantry regiment, was an infantry battalion of the 15th, Battery C of the 39th Field Artillery battalion which fired the salute, a platoon of the 73rd Heavy Tank battalion and the 72nd Army band.

Monday evening General Marras and his party were guests of honor at an official dinner at the Officers' club at which General Burress was host. Among those present from General Marras' group were Col. Domenico Fornara and Lt. Col. Umberto Turrini of the Italian general staff, Lt. Col. Umberto de Martino, Italian military attache in Washington, Capt. Giuseppi Cognazzo, aide to General Marras, Col. A. J. Drexel Biddle, U. S. Army, tour conductor, and Capt. Peter C. Beer, U. S. Army, interpreter.

After a brief visit with General Burress in his office Tuesday morning, General Marras spent two-and-one-half hours touring the Infantry School's Airborne section. Tuesday afternoon he observed three Infantry School demonstrations.

At Bickford range General Marras saw several demonstrations of hand and rifle grenades, the 2.36 inch rocket launcher and the flame thrower. The Italian visitor then saw a demonstration of recoilless weapons at Patton range, followed by observation of the problem of the rifle and weapons platoons in the attack of a fortified position at Long hill.

Prior to visiting Miami, Fla., General Marras had been in Washington and at the Armored School, Fort Knox, Ky. Upon his arrival in Washington, he was met by U. S. chief of staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

After a conference in the Pentagon with General Bradley the day after his arrival, he was guest of honor that evening at a dinner given by General Bradley. While in Washington he also conferred with Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal and placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

From Fort Benning General Marras flew to New York City for three days and will spend next Saturday at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. He will return to Washington prior to ending his 15-day visit.

Colonel Yeager Appointed Chief TIS Committee

Lt. Col. Walter B. Yeager, who has served with the tactical section since June, has been named chairman of the Defense committee, it has been revealed.

Colonel Yeager entered the army from Pennsylvania as a reserve second lieutenant in 1932. He had previously spent four years in the Marine corps as an enlisted man. While a marine, he was in Nicaragua for two years with an expedition-ary force during the insurrection there.

From 1932 until 1940 he was assigned to the Civilian Conservation corps and came to Fort Benning in 1940 as a student in the heavy weapons course. He then spent one year at Camp Wheeler, Ga., as a training officer in the Infantry Replacement Training Center after which he was assigned for four months at Fort McClellan, Ala.

In 1942 Colonel Yeager joined the cadre of the 88th Infantry division as a battalion commander of the organization's 351st Infantry regiment. He was later named regimental executive officer, and went with the unit to Italy late in 1943. He fought with the division from February until May, 1944.

Hospitalized in this country for approximately six months because of wounds received in action when his unit participated in the breakthrough at Cassino and link-up with Anzio beachhead forces, Colonel Yeager was later assigned to China for one year, seeing duty at executive headquarters in Peking. He then went to Korea where he was with military government for one year prior to returning to the U. S. and Fort Benning.

Colonel Yeager has been awarded the Silver Star with oak leaf cluster, the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, army commendation ribbon, Purple Heart with three oak leaf clusters American Defense medal, American Theater medal, European Theater medal, Pacific Theater medal, Victory medal, Occupation medal, Distinguished Unit citation, Italian Cross of Valor and Chinese Army, Airforce Navy medal.

Court-Martial School Is Set For January

Tentative date for the opening of a courts-martial school for instructors by the Judge Advocate section of the Infantry Center is slated for Jan. 10, according to judge advocate officials.

The school, to be of 40 hours' duration, is for the training of men in the new manual of courts-martial. These men will in turn serve as instructors in their units.

Students in the first course will be officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the first three grades. Judge advocate personnel are attempting wherever possible to enroll men with previous court-martial experience in the instructors' course.

Among the subjects to be taught will be changes in the manual of courts-martial, procedures for trying officers by special courts-martial, changes in punishment for various offenses, jurisdiction of the court, composition of courts-martial, arrest and confinement, procedure, appellate review, rules of evidence and changes in the status of law members.

The last topic calls for the law member to be an attorney authorized to practice in federal courts or before the highest court of the state. The law member can no longer be any designated officer as formerly.

Instructors for the new school which has been set up following a directive from the Department of the Army are Capt. Harold Oppenheim and Capt. Charles E. Zimmer of the Judge Advocate section of the Infantry Center and 1st Lt. Beekman Budd of the Legal section, Student Training regiment.

Lt. Col. Edward J. Burke, Infantry Center Judge Advocate, will supervise all instruction. Training will eventually be given to every man in the army below the rank of general officer, Colonel Burke said last week.

Yule Services Slate Complete

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wallace M. Hale, Infantry Center chaplain, announced today that Chaplain's section will offer a full program of religious services during the coming holiday period.

Highlighting the observances will be a solemn high mass at midnight Christmas Eve in the Main theater, celebrated by Chaplain (Maj.) John F. Rafferty, and a candlelight and communion service Christmas Eve at 11 p. m. at the Infantry Center chapel, conducted by Chaplain Hale.

All unit chaplains have arranged special services for Sunday, Dec. 26, and Jan. 2. Lutheran services will be held at the Infantry Center chapel Christmas day at 11 a. m., on Sunday, Dec. 26, 11:30 a. m., and Sunday, Jan. 2, at 11:30 a. m. there will be a Lutheran communion service. Chaplain (Maj.) John Dvorovy and Chaplain (Capt.) Robert P. Canis, Lutheran chaplain, will cooperate in conducting these services.

Holiday services of the Episcopal church will be conducted by Chaplain (Capt.) Russell O. Kirsch. On Christmas day the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 10 a. m., and again on Sunday, Dec. 26, Jan. 2 at 9 a. m., and on New Year's Day at 10 a. m.

Peace On Earth....

Yes, There's a Santa Claus

BY MERRILL HARRISON

Dear Boss: When you asked me to write a christmas story, you kind of had me stumped. After all, just to say, "Do a Christmas story," leaves a lot to think about. But for that matter, so does Christmas. About 50 years ago a girl, just a little kid, wrote a letter to a New York newspaper editor, and he wrote a Christmas story that's come down through the year. You've read it; it's an editorial called, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus." That's a story that's a classic, along with Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." I'm not Dickens, nor am I a New York editor, so an assignement to do a Christmas tory is pretty tough.

Anyway, it seems that nowadays "Christmas" some wise guy, not always from the east, has to say, very cynically, "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Then he adds, "Nuts." Well, there may not be much peace on earth, but there's always been good will on this earth toward men. I guess that's what makes Christmas what it is, that men.

There's no sense kidding ourselves anymore. Santa Claus might wear red and white and pillow tucked inside for the kids, but we're big boys, now. The younkers might go to Toyland over in the PX and see Santa in his red and white and all the pillows stuffed underneath and fall for that, but not us. We know.

Santa's wearing OD's today. He's like the Santa I first met in England six years ago. That was back in Macclesfield, up in Cheshire in the northern part of England near Manchester and Liverpool. My outfit was getting ready to join the rest of the 34th Infantry when a couple of us were invited to Christmas dinner by a girl named Ann Elton. We didn't make that dinner, we were on a transport instead, Dec. 25, 1942, headed for Oran. But a couple of days before Christmas we went to tea at Ann's house; we took the tea, coffee, sugar, cream and the rest of that meal, the best she'd had in months.

In 1943 we were in Italy, this time with the Third division. Christmas was wonderful. He spent it with an Italian family about 15 miles south of Cassino, or we'd only been relieved a couple of weeks previously. Never will forget the look on the bambina's face when we gave her some Life Savers. "Caramelli," she yelled. And the GI white bread in the hands of her mother looked like angelfood cake to her.

Christmas of '44 was rough. We spent it in Kintzheim, a little town in Alsace near Colmar, fighting. We were lucky. We had a cellar. The people of the town were in the cellar, a wine cellar, with the Irish. The priest celebrated midnight mass down there and afterwards one of the old men passed ou stone bottle of Rhine wine to us. A lieutenant read us the 23rd Psalm and we all felt good and the next year we were home, back in the U.S.A. Who could want more?

A lot of people could want more, Boss. But we all know that and it's neither here nor there. Like I said before, Santa Claus wears OD's today. And he doesn't have reindeer. Look at him. He's flying C-54's and 47's to Berlin. He's patrolling the border along the Iron curtain. He's on the trains in Korea, the south part, anyway. He's helping rebuild and reorganize Japan; the American might knock 'em down but he doesn't kick 'em when they're out. He's a lot of places, places where there isn't much peace but he's trying to bring good will toward men.

He's here in the States. He was with the 39th Field Artillery when they gave their blood to the Red Cross. He's packing warm clothes for the kids in Europe. Giving to the Community Chest so that the polio victims can go to Warm Springs. Shelling out a buck here, giving a bit of time there. He's a new kind of Santa Claus, diferent from the one Virginia a lot of paragraphs back heard about. He's a dogface soldier a GI Joe, a doughfoot, he belongs to ISD or brags about the Airborne, he's a civilian component or a West Pointer. He's in for a career or for GI Bill. He's the guy Ernie Pyle and Hal Boyle wrote about. He's the one and only Santa Claus to a lot of people in the world today. He'll fight like hell against the Kraut and the Jap and then pass out candy to their kids and feed their old ladies. He's a softhearted, ashamed-to-let-anybody know he's a soft-hearted so-and-so and he does a dirty job, bitching and compaling as he does it, and he wouldn't trade places with anyone in the world. For why should he? He's an American soldier. He's the Santa Claus of '48. And while there may not be much pleace on this earth he sure spreads a lot of good will.

Boss, I don't know how to kind of out of my line. My business is writing about soldiers. Maybe you better ge tsomeone else to do it. Anyway, Merry Christmas.

Blood Bank Collects 126 Pints Monday

One hundred and twenty - six pints of blood were donated by men of the 39th Field Artillery battalion to the American Red Red Cross mobile blood bank last Monday.

Of 144 men of the 39th, first on the post to volunteer, only 18 were rejected. According to Dr. William H. Christian of Atlanta, in charge of the area's blood donation program, the men were rejected mainly because they were recovering from minor illnesses such as colds or boils.

The blood collected here is sent to Atlanta for processing and is made available when needed for the Station hospital at Fort Benning. According to Dr. Christian, blood is collected throughout the United States and shipped to wherever required.

The blood is used either as whole blood or as derivatives in the treatment of injuries, burns, shock and many diseases. None is ever wasted, whether used as whole blood or derivatives because the demand far exceeds the supply.

Eight other units on the post have already volunteered to give blood in the program. They are the 3440th Area Service unit, Jan. 18; Infantry School detachment, Feb. 24; Student Training regiment, March 22; Airborne battalion, April 21; 73rd Heavy Tank battalion, May 24; First battalion, 15th Infantry regiment, June 14; Second battalion, 15th Infantry regiment, July 19, and separate companies, 15th Infantry regiment, Aug. 25.

According to Murray E. Hill, Red Cross field director, it will be possible for volunteers to donate their blood only at the time their entire unit does. Therefore, if a man of the 39th Field failed to donate this week, he cannot do so until the next time his unit does. This ruling was put into effect to avoid confusion, he said.

Assisting in the program are ladies of the post Red Cross auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Frank M. Lee. When the mobile blood unit arrived at Fort Benning early Monday, 33 members of the unit were on hand to help. They performed secretarial duties, acted as nurses aides, assisted in various details and operated a canteen service for the donors.

The post blood donation program is part of a three-to-five-year national project being conducted by the Red Cross to build up an adequate supply so that there will be no shortages in case of emergency. Similar centers will be established over the United States.

TIC Chaplains Decorate Post

The Chaplain section of the Infantry Center decorated four areas on the post for the coming holiday season.

A lighted silhouette depicting the coming of the three kings was erected on the slopes in the rear of Outpost No. 1, the Infantry Center chapel was decorated with strings of color ed lights, and lighted Christmas trees were erected in the auditorium of the Post school and in the Brat and Baby Barracks.

In addition, all chapels on the post were decorated with wreaths, trees, colored lights and poinsettas.

Lt. Shaw Named To I and E Post

Second Lt. Franklin L. Shaw has been appointed troop information and education officer for the Second battalion, 25th Infantry regiment.

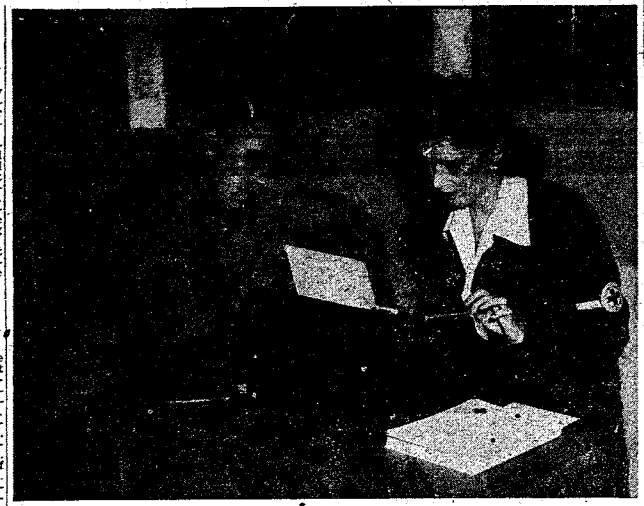
A graduate of Tuskegee institute, Lieutenant Shaw entered the army Aug. 8, 1941, here and was later transferred to Fort Huachuca, Ariz., where he joined the 25th Infantry regiment. He went to the Far East command where he served with the 380th Port battalion, returning June 24, 1944.

On Oct. 16, 1948, Lieutenant Shaw was called to extended active duty and assigned to the Second battalion.

Artillery Officers Assigned to Duties

Under changes which became effective Monday Dec. 20, eight officers of the 999th Field Artillery battalion received reassignment orders to new positions within the organization.

Capt. Clarence M. Bryant, adjutant, replaced Lt. Lawson D. Franklin as commanding officer of Battery C, with Lt. Franklin assuming the post of assistant S-2. Capt. Henry J. Kirksey, who commanded Service battery, is S-2, being replaced by Capt. Louis de Antonio, formerly battalion motor officer.



Lt. Willard C. Hunt, Headquarters battery, became Adjutant, Lt. Carl C. Stephans, Headquarters battery, to Service Battery as battalion motor officer; Lt. Jon Greenwood, Service battery motor officer, and Lt. Henry C. Gresham, assistant S-2, ammunition train commander, Service battery.

47 Enlisted Men Overseas-Bound

An overseas replacement shipment comprising 47 enlisted men of the 999th Field Artillery battalion left Fort Benning Saturday.

Following holiday leaves of 15 days at their respective homes, four of the group will report to Camp Kilmer, N. J., for shipment to Europe and the remaining 43 will go to Camp Stoneman, Calif., for further orders.

The replacement group includes administrative personnel, cooks, gun crewmen, truck drivers and mechanics.

GETTING THE HISTORY . . . Pvt. James R. Fisher, Battery C, 39th FieldArtillery battalion, is shown here registering with Mrs. Mrs. A. E. McCormick prior to donating blood to the Red Cross. Pvt. Fisher spent 32 months in the Pacific with the 145th Infantry regiment of the 37th division. Mrs. McCormick is one of the volunteer aides who helped make the program possible at Fort Benning.

GETTING THE BLOOD . . . One of the first men of the first unit to donate blood to the Red Cross was Pvt. William K. Dunlap, Battery C, 39th Field Artillery battalion. "Extracting" the pint of life-giving fluid is Miss Gladys Herring, a registered nurse from Atlanta with the Red Cross.

ARMY EDUCATION

Are You Using Your Ingenuity?

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second in a series of five articles dealing with the army's education system. In this week's article the author discusses correspondence and self-teaching courses

MISS MABEL YORK
EDUCATION COUNSELLOR

Most of you are going home or taking a trip of some kind during the Christmas holidays. You've no doubt, planned it to the last detail. But what would you do if the bus you planned to ride were re-routed, or if the road you planned to drive were closed? Would you give up the trip and spend the holidays feeling sorry for yourself and envying those who did go? Of course not. You would use good old American ingenuity and get there—one way or another.

The American soldier is noted, and admired, for his ability to accomplish when the odds are against him. Yet, in many instances that same American soldier's ingenuity "bogs down" when it comes to education.

It is a well known fact that the army has provided, through the facilities of education centers, an opportunity for educational advancement. Thousands of soldiers have taken, and are taking, advantage of this opportunity right here at Benning. There are others though, who, because of lack of transportation, extra duty, or home responsibilities, find it difficult to attend scheduled classes. For these men, the U. S. Armed Forces institute offers correspondence and self-teaching courses. These courses can be studied any time, anywhere as rapidly or as slowly as the student sees fit.

Back in 1942 when the army realized that it needed more highly educated men, a group of the country's leading educators made a study of the textbooks used in the most outstanding schools in the United States. The best of these were chosen and then streamlined so that the material could be digested more quickly and easily.

As a result, the army today has the "cream of the crop" in education material, geared to meet the needs of a modern army in peace and in war.

The purpose of the correspondence course is to supply the means for furthering the student's educational development; to help him learn new things, and to adapt his knowledge to his own needs.

With the correspondence course textbooks, there are provided all the materials and equipment necessary to complete the courses—from study guides to franked envelopes for transmittal of written assignments. The written assignments are graded, comments made, and suggestions offered by the best professors the University of Wisconsin has on its staff.

These professors, incidentally, are not all men; and some rather interesting relationships have sprung up between professors and correspondence course students. There's nothing dull about it!

The self-teaching courses are designed to help a man to 'bone-up" on subjects about which he has some previous knowledge. No written assignments are required, no check is made on the student's progress; he simply studies until he feels that he has mastered the course, then takes a test to determine any weak point.

Credit is given for both correspondence and self-teaching courses and entries are made on the man's official records.

These courses plus the other educational services offered through your education center facilities add up to an opportunity for you that cannot be surpassed.

The army has not made this program available to you solely for your personal benefit. It is a definite part of an overall plan to meet present and, more important, future needs.

The army is planning for its future. Are you preparing yourself to fit into its plan?

Railway Tells Yule Schedule

The Central of Georgia railway has announced a holiday schedule of trains to principal cities throughout the U. S.

Trains going west by way of Birmingham are scheduled to leave Columbus at 7:50 a.m. for Birmingham, Memphis, Kansas City and New Orleans.

Trains for Jacksonville and Miami are scheduled to leave Columbus at 10:30 p.m.

Travelers going north or east must make connections in Atlanta for these points. The "Man O' War" streamliner is scheduled to leave Columbus for Atlanta at 7:30 a.m. and 3:00 p.m.

Trains going east are scheduled to leave Atlanta at 1:55 p.m. for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and New York City.

Those going north can leave Atlanta at 11:25 a.m. for Cincinnati, Evansville, Saint Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

Those needing assistance in planning their trips or in finding out further information, such as schedules and rates for other destinations, can do so by calling the ticket office at Union station in Columbus.

S. C. Harris, assistant general passenger agent, can be reached at telephone number 3-5638 or 6211.

Post Children Interview General for School Paper

Midget reporters for the Children's school newspaper invaded Infantry School headquarters Nov. 30 to interview Major Gen Withers A. Burress in time to beat the deadline for their Christmas edition.

All went well and the December, 1948, issue went to press including the following feature.

General Grants Interview

Last Tuesday, November 30, 1948, Borden Wilson, Philip Shaughnessy and Richard Enger went to the Infantry School to interview General Burress in his office.

The General was born in Richmond, Virginia. He went to VMI. Mrs. Burress and he met in Columbus. In 1920 and 22 he served here as an instructor. The commandant's quarters was the only big house and all the soldiers were living in tents. Where the streets are today were formerly cotton fields.

Hal Wilson who is our sports editor was interested as to what sports he likes best. He likes all kinds of sports very much. In high school he was a great lover of football and also a coach. Then he started riding horses and began to play polo which he liked very much. At the present he goes out mostly for hunting and fishing. He liked the games of the Doughboys and said they tried very hard.

Many of you have probably seen that lovely brown French poodle. His daughter got it in Paris instead of a dress, after being told not to. But of course, the whole family is very fond of him now.

He thinks our idea of a school paper is very fine. We asked him if he had anything to say to the children of the school and he said, "They're a swell bunch of kids."

So kids, let's live up to it.

Trooper Promoted To First Lieutenant

First Lt. John F. Kauffman of the Airborne battalion, Student Training regiment, became Dec. 3, the first second lieutenant at Fort Benning to be promoted under the new program which authorizes Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commander, to make promotions to this rank.

Provisions of the new authority grant the right to promote second lieutenants who have been in grade 18 months or more, and "who merit promotion."

The new first lieutenant is assigned to the S-1 office of the Airborne battalion.

9 Enlisted Men Report For Duty At Hospital

A total of nine new men have reported for duty with the 121st Evacuation hospital during the past week, officials have announced.

They are Sgt. Peter Christopher, who has been assigned as a cook to the unit mess, Cpl. Douglas E. Schrader, Cpl. Frederick W. Wiley, Pfc. Wilburn W. McDaniels, Pvt. Michael S. Prismont, Pvt. Norman N. Cahall, Pvt. Clifford S. Brainard, Pvt. Joseph Boswell and Pvt. William S. Bauonanicy.

Post Artillery Unit Lauded

During a motor vehicular safety program held by the officers and NCO's of the 999th Field Artillery battalion last week, Norman M. Evans, post safety director, lauded the battalion for its outstanding work in maintaining the post's lowest non-accident rate over the past three months.

Mr. Evans went on to say that the 999th's safety program had always resulted in the organization's being one of the "top" units in the non-accident rate department.

The safety director's talk not only dealt with maintainance and careful operation of military vehicles, but also stressed adherence to similar rules in driving privately owned cars both in Fort Benning and the surrounding vicinity.

He also warned the group to be especially aware of pertinent safety rules during the coming holiday period "when the nation's death and accident toll reaches its highest rate."

Greetings From Truman

TO THE ARMED FORCES OF THE UNITED STATES:

For your efforts in the task of bringing peace to the world, I express my own appreciation and that of the Nation which you represent and of which you are the valiant defenders. It is a source of deep satisfaction to me personally to know that in many parts of the world liberty-loving Americans are serving their country as ambassadors of good will and as exemplars of the freedom for which it stands.

If we can help those less fortunate than ourselves to a better life, and to an understanding that democracy and its ideals have been dearly won and must be carefully guarded, such a task becomes not only our duty but our privilege.

May your Christmas he a happy one, and may the spirit of this season extend throughout the New Year.

Greetings From Bradley

Across the world, American soldiers are carrying a Christmas message of hope, and encouragement and good faith for people looking to us for leadership and strength. To these men and women, may I extend a country's gratitude and prayers o nthis holiday occasion. Especially to those who are spearatel from their families in this season, do we wish a Merry Christmas, in the trust that their lonely holiday may be repaid in peaceful security, for our nation and the world.

Greetings From Forrestal

To the men and women of our armed forces, I send my cordial wishes for a happy Christmas and my congratulations on the fine job they are doing on difficult assignments around the world. In these trying times, their splendid response to heavy responsibilities is a new demonstration to all men that the primary mission of the armed forces of a free nation is to strengthen the hands of those who seek peace on earth.

Greetings From Royall

To all of you who wear the uniform of the United States Army—recruits and veteran soldiers, overseas and at home —I extend the best wishes of the Department of the Army during this Christmas Season.

May your Christmas be a happy one, and may the spirit prove to be the prelude to an ara in which all men will live together in friendship and understanding, security and peace.

From General Devers

Once again we unite in the Christmas prayer for peace on earth, good will to men—in a world in which many are at war and many more are not of good will. Once again, therefore, we are gathering our strength and redoubling our prayers, to the end that our voice for peace will be a strong voice, respected as well as heard over all the earth. Of this strength, the Army Field Forces are a mighty part, a major expression of our nation's determination that a future Christmas will see our efforts for an enduring peace realized.

Once more it is my happy privilege to extend to every one of you, and to your families, my sincere wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

From General Burress

With the coming of the Christmas Season and the approach of the New Year, I wish to extend season's greetings to the military and civilian personnel of this command and their families.

Never before in peacetime has the accomplishment of our mission of military preparedness been of more importance to our country. You, by your attention to duty and understanding, have enabled The Infantry Center to play its part with outstanding success. I thoroughly appreciate your effective efforts and thank each of you for your loyal support.

Please accept my best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Strictly Editorializing

The spirit of Christmas is everywhere. We see lighted Christmas trees and hear carolers chanting the familiar tunes. But it was the personnel of the 39th Field Artillery batialion who really caught the Christmas spirit.

Instead of just talking Christmas, they did something which, although not exactly Christmasy, more than makes up for any lack of carol singing and Christmas trees and Santa Clauses. They gave something in keeping with the real spirit that it is better to give than to receive. They gave their blood.

Last Monday morning, 150 volunteer artillerymen reported to the Station hospital to give their blood to the Red Cross mobile blood bank. The 39th was the first Fort Benning unit to participate in this humane and necessary program. They won't, we hope, be the last.

The blood bank will be here the twentieth of each month, and The Bayonet joins with the staff and sponsors of the bank in urging everyone at Fort Benning to volunteer to give his share. They're asking for only one pint from each person. And that's mighty little when you think of the lives that blood will save.

Chaplain's Corner..

"MAKING A FULL REPORT" BY CHAPLAIN
CLIFTON S. WILLIAMS

As soldiers, we are aware of the state of the world today. We find ourselves living in an age of insecurity. We know the past but we do not know the future; therefore, it behooves us to evaluate, appreciate, and utilize all the resources and opportunities from the start in order that as men of God and of country, we may be able to make a good report of our lives. We find that this subject gave rise to the passage of scripture found in the Book of Isaiah, the fifty - third chapter and first verse, which reads as follows: "Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?"

The author of this book was a great character among his contemporaries during the eighth century. He had a glorious vision of the heavenly host and simultaneously surrendered to the call of service. He is endeavored to make a full report concerning the Messianic reign.

As men in the army, you will be called upon from time to time to make various kinds of reports; reports have been made throughout the ages. We find that during the days of the ancient philosophers they attempted to give reports on their findings. For instance, Heraclitus said that life is a flux; Democritus states that life is made from atoms, which gave rise to the atomic theory. Plato, in speaking concerning his ontological argument, said that the only thing that is eternal is the ideal. Things of material value are subject to change, or pass away, or may be consumed. In the field of science, men have endeavored to make reports of their findings. Pasteur, a French biological chemist, and Madame Curie, the widow of Pierre Curie, reports on the radium treatment for cancer. George W. Carver extracted 109 products from the peanut.

Thus we find that reports have been made in the field of religion. The author of this book being a prophet, there is a distinct difference between the priest and the prophet. The priest's duty was to declare and to inherit the law and to preserve the traditions of the temple. The prophet went a step further; he was interested in the national law and to communicate to Israel the Divine Word—the nature of their report.

The prophets were interested in the whole of life, not just part of it. They were interested in the social, economic, and political life of their people. We can visualize Micah as he spoke vehemently concerning the injustices placed upon the poor people. He stating God's will that men do justly one towards another — not merely to be merciful, but to love mercy; consequently, they would be able to walk humbly with their God. Amos, a little brown skinned man, short of stature, traveling from the southern kingdom to the northern kingdom, cried against the economic injustice inflicted upon the poor people.

The Christian religion deals with the whole of life not part of it—not merely interested in the golden streets and golden slippers, but also the life here on earth.

APE AND ESSENCE

In "Ape and Essence", as in most of Aldous Huxley's novels, there is undoubtedly some deep significance, some great and noble purpose. There must be some reason why the book was written (besides the fact that the author was a little tetched in the head) and some reason why it was published other than that the publishers were ditto). When we ctiticize Mr. Huxley we perhaps display our lack of appreciation for finer literature —we know people who say that his "Eyeless in Gaza" was simply "out of this world" (after struggling with that book for two weeks we were quite certain that out of this world is exactly where it should be).

As far as we can see, the only purpose of "Ape and Essence" is to bewilder, befuddle and thoroughly confuse and bemuse the average reader. As an average reader, we are now bewildered, befuddled, confused and bemused, and ready to tell you what "Ape and Essence" is all about—or perhaps we should say—what we think it is all about.

Most of the action—if it can be called action—is in the twenty - second century. The events have to do with a scientist—shy and frustrated, victim of a domineering mother—who comes with an expedition from New Zealand to rediscover America, a land which was almost completely destroyed by atom bombs during the third world war and is now ruled by eunuchs and dedicated to Belial.

Society is now completely ordered, with "romance" confined to a three weeks mating season. Most of the children born into this new world are hopelessly deformed—whether this is due to nuclear fission or promiscuity is not quite clear—and are promptly liquidated. The whole "civilization" is bent on self-destruction. Monogomy is definitely out, but with the coming of the young scientist from New Zealand (for some reason New Zealand has escaped all this atomic influence, though it still apparently has domineering mothers) there is a definite change and — you guessed it—love finds a way—good old fashioned love! Loola is saved from Belial, and Dr. Poole is saved from his frustration,, his domineering mother (how Huxley loves that theme) and his mother's choice, Miss Ethel Hook, who is exactly like her name sounds.

The message of the book is probably that our society is decadent and rapidly getting more decadent, and we're not helping things along by being smug about our atom bombs. At least, we imagine the message is something like that. But Huxley wouldn't think of writing in the kind of English that ordinary mortals could understand. To made his story even more confusing, he puts it in the form of a movie scenario, with close shots and far shots and choruses and narrators and every other distraction he can think of.

We can't determine from "Ape and Essence" the ultimate destination of man; we can, however, determine the ultimate destination of "Ape and Essence". As far as we're concerned it's the garbage can.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

THE BOY WITH THE GREEN HAIR (phantasy in technicolor) with Pat O'Brien, Robert Ryan and Barbara Hale. A boy awakens one morning to find that his hair has turned green. His problem is to find out why as he faces the fear and suspicion of the hostile townspeople. Recommended for family.

THREE GODFATHERS (western in technicolor) with John Wayne, Pedro Armendariz and Harry Carey, Jr. A western with three bandits is nothing new, but when the bandits suddenly find themselves chosen as three godfathers to a new-born child, you have a story that can truthfully be termed "different." Recommended for family.

UNKNOWN ISLAND (adventure in cinecolor) with Philip Reed, Virginia Grey and Barton MacLane. Do prehistoric monsters still exist in some remote corner of the earth? This question is often asked, and this story relates the adventures of an expedition that found such animals very much alive. Recommended for family.

LOADED PISTOLS (western) with Gene Autry, Barbara Britton and Jack Holt. Autry's problem is to find the murderer of his friend and solve the puzzle of why the crime was pinned on a neighboring cattle ranch owner. Recommended for family.

THE ACCUSED (melodrama) with Loretta Young, Robert Cummings and Wendell Corey. This is a murder story but not a mystery. Loretta Young, a psychologist, kills a man and then engages in a battle of wits with a police lieutenant who suspects her of being the murderer. Recommended for adult.

There are no wiggling things in beer.

Sgt.: "Was the company party a success?"

Cp'l.: "I'll say. Everyone had a good time. Why, even the 6 by 6 truck that we came home in had bloodshot headlights."

The sailor who spent his leave at a swank resort diagnosed his trip as expensive and rainy. "There," he said, "it didn't matter whether I went out or not. If I went outside I got wet, and if I stayed inside, I got soaked."

Pool Hall Citizen: "During the election, I went all over the neighborhood kissing babies, kissing young girls, kissing mothers, kissing everyone."

Sidewalk Civic Leader: "What office were you running for"

P. H. C. "Oh, I wasn't running for any office. I was just out for the smooching."

"I've discovered the secret of baldness."

"What is it"

"Too much skin."

The office doll was sporting a shiny captain's bar on her sweater. When asked if she had a captain boy-friend, she replied, "Oh, no, two lieutenants."

1st CPO: I'm going to take my wife's fur coat down to the cold storage this afternoon....you know that keeps it from deteriorating and falling apart.

2nd CPO: Say, that's a wonderful thing!

1st CPO: Yeah, sometimes I wish I could put my wife in there for a couple of months.

Zealous poll taker: "And to what do you attribute your great age?"

Granpa: "I can't rightly say, yit. There's several of them testimonial fellers a - dickering with me."

Memo to married men: Keep your wife happy by filling your house with mirrors. If she is beautiful she'll look at herself and think how lucky you are to have such a beautiful wife. If she isn't beautiful she'll look at herself and think how lucky you are to have such a beautiful wife.

A new twist on ES-MFT is translated to be Limited Service Mighty Fine Thing.

Sgt.: "I love you, darling. I adore you."

Girl: "Are you going to marry me?"

Sgt.: "Let's not change the subject."

One misguided GI recently applied to a separation center to get a divorce from his wife.

The mental hospital's new arrival was unusually gay. He talked repeatedly of his twin brother, after which he would burst into gales of laugter. He explained that people always confused the two of them. "He was arrested for speeding. I had to pay the fine," the doctor was told. "I had a girl and he ran off with her." "But I got even with him last week!"

How was that?"

"I died, and they buried him."

Airborne Extends Local Court Reign

Showdown Win Victimizes ISD

The Airborne battalion will reign for another year as monarch of the Fort Benning hardwood courts.

The Troopers extended their string of intra-mural championships to three last Thursday night by coming from behind to trounce the Infantry School detachment quintet 42-33.

Since both the troopers and infantrymen had gone through their previous outings of the intra-mural campaign undefeated, the tilt was a showdown for the post title.

But to the parachutists, the triumph was more than just another post title— it marked the completion of three years of unbeaten competition in intra-mural hardwood warfare. The seven contests won by the airborne cagers during this season's intra-mural activity upped to approximately 35 the consecutive number of post victories chalked up by chutist fivesome.

Early in the game Thursday night, however, it appeared that the determined ISD quintet might bring the championship string of the Troopers to an abrupt halt. Within the first seven minutes of the contest, the infantrymen put together four field goals and a free throw to run up a 9-4 margin over the defending champs. The quartet of airborne tallies, incidentally, were posted entirely on free tosses.

Little by little, the chutists whittled the ISD lead until, at the half, a scant 16-14 advantage was held by the infantrymen.

Defenses of both teams put on their Sunday best during the first half, and scoring aces of both quintets were kept well covered.

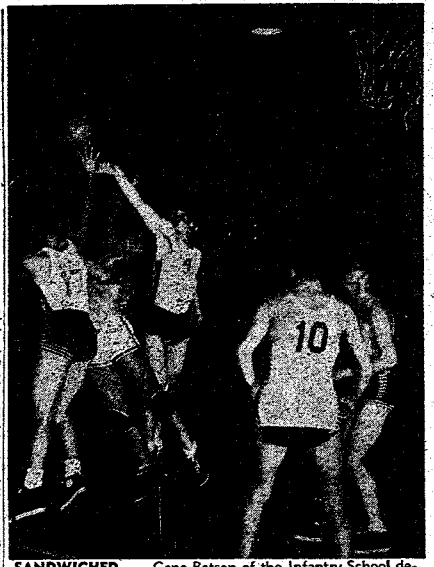
Charles Richards of the ISD, the intra-mural league's No. 1 point-getter, had registered only five counters at the mid-game whistle, and Vern Griffin and Joe Setley, two of the Trooper scoring mainstays, had pooled their resources for an aggregate of only seven tallies.

Griffin and Setley started hitting the hoop early in the second period, and, less than a minute after play had been resumed, the airborne cagemen had turned the tables on their foes.

Until eight minutes before the final whistle, neither team was able to post a commanding lead. However, after the ISD had deadlocked the count at 28-28, the Troopers moved out in front for keeps.

Throughout most of the game, spectacular defensive playing on the part of the parachutists had Richards completely bottled up, and the sharpshooting ISD hoopster was able to swish the cords with only four shots from the court. Eight successful attempts from the charity line, however, enabled the No. 1 scorer of the circuit to top his mates in the scoring column with a total of 16 points.

An unusual feature of the airborne performance was the fact that all of the Trooper field goals were made by three players with 16 of their total of 17 being chalked up by two players— Setley and Griffin.



Both of the Trooper bucket experts outdid Richards in the scoring department by posting 18 counters each. Setley's tallies came on nine field goals, while Griffin dunked seven shots from the court, and a quartet of charity attempts.

For copping the 1948-49 intra-mural title, the troopers are slated to receive the Infantry Center basketball trophy for a one-year period. If the parachutists have as much luck in intra-mural competition the next two years as they have experienced for the past two, however, they will be rewarded with permanent possession of the coveted award.

The airborne-ISD championship tussle brought the race for the post togs to a close, but did not terminate local cage activity for the 1948-49 season. Soon after the first of the year, a post-season intra-mural loop will be formed, and will continue until late in February or early in March. About Jan. 20, the post Doughboys, an all-star aggregation taken from the teams entered in the recent intra-mural scramble, will swing into action.

Turkeys Awarded To Skeet Shooters

Five of the thirty shooters who turned out for the annual turkey shoot held at the Officer's club skeet range last Sunday assured themselves of a Christmas turkey dinner.

W. S. Golden shot high gun for the day with a score of 47 out of 50. He was followed closely by Mr. Swift who cracked 46 targets to top the Class B. meet.

Class A high score went to D. E. Hofmeister with 44 out of 50.

A total of 40 birds gave Mr. Parker Class C. honors, and Anderson's 36 out of 50 put him in winning position in the Class D meet.

Other tournaments are being planned for after the holidays.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

Personnel of Fort Benning will have a chance this week to create an impression of the army where it counts the most.

Seventy-four high school players, coaches and managers, representing Fitzgerald, Ga., and Westfield, Mass., the two principals for Columbus' Peanut Bowl skirmish on New Year's Day, will be housed at Benning for several days.

Most of the guests possess only hearsay knowledge, of the army, and it will be up personnel of the post to verify favorable and discredit unfavorable reports.

Many of the lads who will make the Peanut Bowl pilgrimage are youngsters faced with a possible tour of duty with the army. By putting on our "Sunday best," we may be able to change one of these prospective soldiers' whole outlook on his impending tour of duty with the army.

Spurious remarks about the army exist today only where the persons making them are entirely unfamiliar with army life and routine. But, it is altogether possible that some of these young football players have been subjected to such reports. Here's Benning's opportunity to make a stint of army training look rosy instead of distasteful.

Some of the coaches and managers of the teams may be somewhat better acquainted with the customs and habits of the army, but it is probable that their ideas are outmoded. They may have put in some time with the army during World War II, but who can deny that many changes have been made since the cessation of hostilities?

* * * *

This week, we want to tip our hats to the basketball quintets of the Infantry School detachment and the Airborne battalion for making last Thursday's post championship game one of the best exhibitions of clean sportsmanship of the year.

Despite the torrid pitch of rivalry involved, members of both teams, we feel, did their best to provide the spectators with a game where ability, rather than bickering and harassing, played the most vital role.

Although the number of personal fouls was somewhat in excess of that charged during most of the intra-mural contests this year, we believe that they were all accidental, and just something that goes hand in hand with a clean, hard-fought game.

There is just one thing we would like to see a little more of—the old "congratulations" and "nice games" being passed out a trifle more freely at the conclusion of a contest. In our opinion a friendly word for an opponent at the end of a game is one of the best displays of good sportsmanship that can be effected.

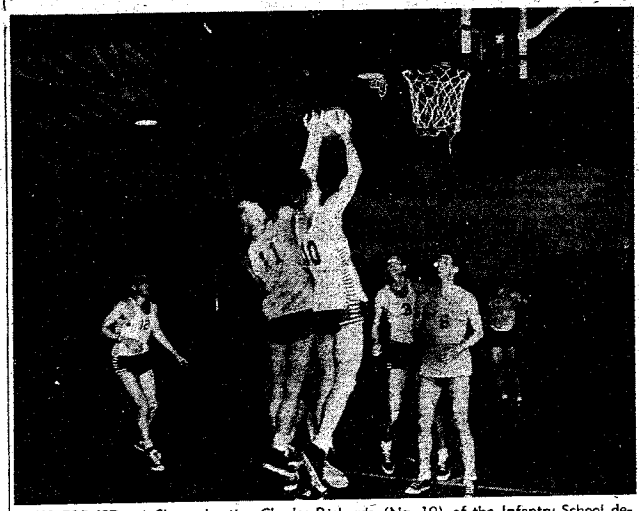
Although the 1948 Doughboy football season is a thing of the past, team members and coaches are still being commended for their efforts during the campaign.

A letter of commendation from Col. Onto P. Bragan, erstwhile post special services officer, to Coach Joe Shepherd is typical of some of the laudations, and read as follows:

"It is with great pleasure that I take this opportunity to extend to you my heartiest congratulations, and to commend you for your unselfish devotion, sportsmanship, and coaching ability in leading the Fort Benning Doughboy football team through a hard and trying schedule this season while on duty with this section.

"You well deserve commendation to yourself and the Doughboy team, for at all times the team, while playing both home and away, conducted themselves in a soldierly manner and brought credit upon the military service.

"Your professional knoweldge of football, obtained from 'love of the game' was an outstanding asset in making a group of inexperienced men into an aggressive, cooperative team with spirit and the will to win.



"I sincerely thank you for your efforts put forth in the Fort Benning football team this year."

Somewhat more general than Colonel Bragan's commendation was a letter from a person who chose to be known only as "a football fan," and was directed to the coach and players of the team. It read, in part, as follows:

"This 1948 season is over, and as the season ends, it leaves us more than a little sad.

"Knowing the Doughboys as we do, it is a pleasure to know that they can meet the rest of the world, and always leave good will behind them. Regardless of where they go, the Doughboy players may rest assured that they will always be missed here."

Needless to say, we believe that the commendations being passed along to members of the team, the coaches and managers are well deserved.

Sharp-shooting Charles Richards (No. 10) of the Infantry School detachment posts two points during last Thursday night's tilt for the intra-mural cage championship despite efforts of Herb Myatt (No. 11) of the Airborne battalion to take a hand in matters. Watching the action are Bob Williams (No. 12) and Slim Foster (No. 3) of the ISD, and Bud Brown (No. 12) and Herb Bench (No. 16) of the Airborne. The troopers came from behind to stretch their string of post championships to three with a 43-33 win.

Infantry Quintet Whips Rockets For No. 3 Spot

The 15th Infantry regiment latched on to the No. 3 spot in the Benning intra-mural cage circuit last Tuesday night by trouncing the Sand hill Rockets 45-32 in the Main gymnasium.

Hampered by the absence of two of their star courtmen, Anthony Hardy and Sylvester Scott, got off to a slow start, and saw their chances of victory fade early in the contest.

During the entire first half of the tilt, the Rockets managed for only six counters, while the infantrymen were swishing the mesh for 23.

Charles Boyd, diminutive scoring ace of the Rockets, who had been smothered by the infantry defenses during the luckless Sand hill first half, found his way into the clear early in the final period, and gave the Rocket scoring situation a shot in the arm.

Although their second-half rally netted the Rockets 26 points, the infantrymen had little difficulty in using their first-half margin to coast to victory.

His five field goals and a charity toss placed Boyd atop the Rockets' individual scoring roster, while Bob Nixson bucketed six field efforts to pace the infantry scoring.

By winning over the Sand hillers, the infantry upped its triumphs for the season to five. Only two setbacks have been charged against the infantrymen this season — one to the Airborne battalion, and the other to the Infantry School detachment.

Their loss to the 15th Infantry dropped the Rockets into fourth place in the loop

Truckers Yield 46-42 League Tilt To Medics

Medic cagemen of the 3440th Area Service unit pulled a mild upset out of their bag of tricks last Thursday night, and shaded the 204th Transportation battalion Truckers 46-42.

A strong rally in the twilight of the contest gave the Medics the triumph which garnered them a deadlock with the Sand Hill Rockets for the No. 4 spot in the intra-mural league standings.

The Medic season started out to be a hapless affair with the quintet losing its first four starts of the campaign. However, Thursday night's win over the Truckers was the third straight for the medical courtmen.

With the Truckers, it was quite a different story. They won their first two outings in a powerhouse start, but dropped the last five tilts on their intra-mural slate. The setback handed them by the Medics gave the Truckers claim to the No. 5 spot on the circuit roster.

The Trucker start in Thursday's fray was fast, and the transportation lads were out in front 22-19 at the intermission.

During the early stages of the final period, the Truckers continued to hold the edge in scoring but a revitalized Medic aggregation bounced back to overcome a 37-28 deficit with less than five minutes remaining in the game.

Although they were on the short end of the count, the Truckers were able to claim the tilt's high individual scorer. John Payne, who bucketed eight shots from the court and a free throw for a 17-point total.

High scorer for the Medics was Armand Smith, whose six field goals gave him a total of 12 counters.

Post, Columbus Prepare For Annual Peanut Bowl

Many Facilities To Be Provided At Fort Bennning

Fort Benning's welcome mat will be rolled out next week for approximately 74 affiliates of the two gridiron teams to clash in the Peanut Bowl tilt in Columbus' Memorial stadium on Jan. 1.

Although the members of the Fitzgerald, Ga., and Westfield, Mass., teams and their coaches and managers won't sample the phases normally familiar to the recruit, they will get a smattering of army life during their Peanut Bowl sojourn.

Both teams will be quartered here, and will eat GI chow.

The Westfield gridders will have the longest stay at Benning since they are slated to arrive here Tuesday. The Massachusetts team will be furnished with billets by the Infantry School detachment.

On Thursday, the Fitzgerald crew is slated to arrive on the post, and will be housed in the visiting team's dormitory in the North tower of Doughboy stadium.

Arrangements have been made to feed the bowl participants at cost on government rations.

During their stay here, members of the two teams will have a chance to visit the service clubs and other points of interest on the post.

Facilities for pre-game drills are being provided by Benning.

Westfield's gridders will be permitted to work out in Doughboy stadium from Tuesday until Thursday, and Fitzgerald will be allowed to use the Dough gridiron from Thursday to Saturday. When the Fitzgerald eleven takes over Doughboy stadium, the Westfield practice sessions will be moved either to Gowdy field or Blue polo field.

Benning's participation in the Peanut Bowl activities, however, will not be limited to quartering the participants for the high school bowl classic.

Twelve jeeps from the post will be decorated and used in the pre-game parade of floats, and Benning will furnish a color guard for the procession.

Tickets for the bowl game have been placed on sale at special service activities throughout the post, the Officers' club and the Pine Lodge NCO club.

Final Prep Tilt For Hargrove, Hurricane Star

The Peanut Bowl game this year will have the services of the top prep player of Georgia in Lauren Hargrove, and rumors are currently flying high about which college the lad will attend.

Auburn is reported to have already signed the 190-pound speedster, but North Carolina is hot after him too, and it may not be until after the Peanut Bowl, his last game for the Purple Hurricane, when the final word comes from the star.

The Peanut Bowl game to be played in Columbus' Memorial stadium on Jan. 1 will give scouts plenty of chance to tell just what Hargrove can do. He will be pitted against some fine runners and passers from the northern school, and reports indicate that he may meet more than his match in a couple of these lads.

Larry Morris, the 160-pound "T" quarterback for Westfield, is rated a fine passer, and has plenty of help from runners like Roger Warner, 160-pound halfback, and Danny Baldyga, another halfback weighing 165 pounds.

This year's parade also will be the longest and most colorful in the classic's history. More than 15 floats and about 10 bands will occupy a section of the procession.

FIVE GOLFERS WIN TURKEYS FOR YULETIDE

Five post golfers were assured of reduced cost Christmas dinners with the closing of the Fort Benning Golf and Country club's turkey tournament Sunday.

The quintet of linksmen who are slated to receive the birds in time for their Christmas dinners are C. E. Caipool, R. Brooks, F. C. Teich, J. L. Harrison and E. B. Cheston.

The tourney was a 36-hole medal affair with all contestants being given benefit of their full handicaps. A one-week period was provided for entrants to post their scores.

Approximately 45 local links enthusiasts vied for the turkey awards.

The low net score of the meet was chalked up by Claypool who tallied 129; Brooks and Teich were tied with 133; Harrison posted 136, and Cheston carded 137.

The birds are to be purchased with funds taken in through entry fees.

Parrots have voice boxes which allow them to imitate voice sounds, but they do not really talk in the sense that the words they say express ideas.

Donaldson Chosen To Pilot Sand Hill Fight Aggregation

Richard Donaldson, Third army light heavyweight champion, has been named coach of the Sand hill Rockets boxing team.

The hard-hitting champ was one of three Benning ringmen who won laurels during the Third army boxing tourney at Fort Bragg, N. C., last spring.

By copping the Third army crown, Donaldson became eligible for the 1948 Olympic tryouts in Chicago last summer, but lost his initial match after putting up a strong fight.

Donaldson replaces Merritt L. Wynn, who is on a reenlistment leave.

Brown Defeats Foe In Gloves Challenge

Airborne Continues To Set Pace in Intra-Mural Boxing

A thrilling main event climaxed an 11-bout intra-mural boxing card staged at the Main gymnasium last Friday night.

Carl Brown, a Class IV light heavyweight representative of the 3440th Area Service unit, issued a challenge to James Knox, a Class III fighter on the Sandhill Rocket squad, and emerged the winner by unanimous decision.

Knox noted for his style of stalking and waiting for an opening for hard blows, was surprised by Brown's fast motion and aggressiveness. A fast puncher, always on the move, Brown threw plenty of leather through all three rounds to score the points needed for the win.

The loser closed in a little faster in the third and landed more hard blows to the head. But Brown, showing plenty of stamina, maintained his pace, and evaded the possibility of the knockout which Knox was obviously trying to score.

The 3440th opened the card just as successfully as Brown closed it. Lightweight Richard Macon made short work of his bout with the 39th Field Artillery battalion's James McCarty in the evening's curtain-raiser, and won the first of three Class V events.

After staggering his opponent in a mid-round slugfest, Macon dropped McCafty at the close of the first round. The bell saved the artilleryman from being counted out, but Referee Wilson declared McCarty unable to continue, and Macon was named the winner by technical knockout.

Adding to the ASU team wins, the 3440th's welterweight Andrew Jackson, a level-headed counter-puncher, who also utilized the stalking method, defeated James Peterson of Company A, 505th Airborne Infantry regiment by unanimous decision.

The Airborne battalion's light heavyweight, William Elliott, broke the 3440th's winning streak by chalking up a unanimous decision over Leonard Ebben.

Backing up his teammate's win, airborne's Tommy Rauth won the first Class IV match by decision over Bill Crautis of the 505th. Rauth was originally matched with Company A's James Holt, but failed to make the weight, resulting in a win for Holt by default.

A Clss IV win by forfeit was granted to Anthony Perfidio of the 4th Infantry regiment when his opponent, Willie Franklin of the Airborne battalion, failed to appear for ra scheduled bout.

The 39th Field Artillery battalion added 20 points to it's total through James Jones' split decision defeat of the 15th Infantry's Odie Powell.

A first round slugest took place between [illegible] lightweights Henry McCullough of the Sand hill Rockets, and the Airborne battalion's Al Doll. Both fighters came out in the second a little cooler and hitting harder with Doll delivering his punches with more accuracy. McCullough leading all the way, won by decision after staggering his opponent in the third.

William Jones, a 3440th lightweight withstood some tough southpaw punishment dished out by Vincent Troche of the 505th Airborne to emerge winner by decision. Williams staggered his trooper foe in the second round as he came out of a clinch, and reeled him again at the bell ending the third.

The Airborne battalion's welterweight, Booker Tullis, who has gained a reputation for capable retaliation with hard hooks, kept his opponent, Walter Mason of the Rockets on his toes in their Class III bout. Mason, using the crowding technique and a straight left, moved in continually in the first. Both made a strong bid for the lead in a stepped-up second round with Mason continuing his menacting tactics and Tullis retaliating repeatedly. In one minute and 20 seconds of the third round, Mason succeeded in tieing up his opponent against the ropes, and, through the use of a fast one, two punch, dropped him for the count of eight. Tullis, making a comeback try, staggered Mason with a hard right just before the bell, but the early margin gave Mason a win by decision.

Newcomers to the post intra-mural program, Company A of the 505th Airborne Infantry Regiment, dented the score board with a 20-point total in their first appearance.

Pace in Unit Cage Meet Set By Company H Five

BY BOB PHILLIPS

Rounding out the second and last week of play before the Christmas holiday season, Companies H and G continued to hold the one-two spots in the 25th Infantry's round-robin basketball tournament.

The two teams strengthened their grips on the positions by blasting out high-scoring wins last week.

In the first of a two-game slate for Monday afternoon, the pace-setting Company H quintet handed Company E a resounding 32-10 trouncing.

Again the accurate shooting of two lads named Smith did most of the damage. Leon Smith, a towering center, bucketed 10 points, and Garland Smith got eight counters. Possessing an 18-1 halftime lead, the fast-breaking Company H five never let up, and went on to add 14 more points while holding their outclassed rivals to nine.

Walter Battiste and Forace Benton showed up well for the losers, but the defensive work of Company H had them checked most of the game.

In the second game of the afternoon, Bill Battles went on a one-man scoring spree, sinking 12 goals for a total of 24 points, to lead Company G to a lopsided 47-6 win over a hapless Headquarters company quintet.

At the midway mark, the scoreboard showed Company G out in front by the top-heavy count of 22-2. The victors returned to the floor in the second half to run up 25 more tallies, while holding the Headquarters company five to four.

Runner-up to Battles in the individual scoring department was Oliver Jackson, who accounted for 13 Company G scores. Two-pointers by Ruel Lester and Dick Hall, and charity tosses by Amos Lige and Albert Dixon accounted for Headquarters' six digits.

The high-flying Company H hoopsters came back on Thursday night to run their winning streak to three by outscoring a revamped and surprisingly strong Headquarters company fivesome 51-34.

The addition of Andy Hardy and Raymond Nabor, along with the timely shooting of Jimmie Williams made it a moral victory for the losers. The three star courimen accounted for all of their team's points. Hardy credited the Headquarters lads with 13, while Williams came up with 11 to outdo Nabor by one point.

Setting a torrid pace all the way, Company H mixed the shooting of Leon Smith, Ed Milligan and Orville Lyles with some smart all-around basketball, and coasted to win handily. The trio of high-scorers hit the net for 20, 16 and 10 points, respectively.

Adieus Traded At Spot Meeting

In an impromptu meeting at the post special services office last Wednesday morning, the staff of the section, and unit representatives bade farewell to Col. Onto P. Bragan and Capt. William C. (Bill) Fannin.

Colonel Bragan left his post as special services officer for an assignment in Germany, and Captain Fannin ended a long tour as athletic and recreation officer of the Infantry Center. He is leaving soon for duties in Okinawa.

Speaking in behalf of the officers and enlisted men present, James R. Boyd, athletic office administrative clerk, and Joe Robertson, who plays Santa Claus for post children at the Main exchange's "Toyland," addressed the departing officers with short, informal farewells, and presented them with gifts from the staff.

Col. Bragan spoke to the gathering and expressed regret at having to leave the work and associates he had come to "know and like so well", and voiced his sincere wishes for their continued success as one of the most active functions of its type in the country. He praised the initiative with which the officers and men connected with the work had applied themselves in the past, and expressed the hope that close teamwork would continue. He added that in all of his 28 years' service, the time spent here as special services chief constituted one of the happiest periods in his army career.

"My fondest wish now," he declared, "will be to return to Fort Benning and once again take over the job that gave me so much enjoyment."

Sharing Colonel Bragan's sentiment, Captain Fannin told the group that he was proud of his long association with the athletic program at Fort Benning, the post that has had the reputation of being one of the biggest sports centers in the country. Recalling that his career as a sports director and athletic coach was launched here, he also expressed the desire to return to what he termed his "home".

Insurance Dividend Due GI's In 1949

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—The Veterans Administration plans to start paying a $2,000,000,000 insurance dividend in 1949.

Sixteen million war veterans may share in the payments.

Veterans who took out the $1,000 minimum policy of National Service Life Insurance and held it only briefly will receive comparatively small dividends.

But those who got into the program at the beginning and for the top amount—$10,000—will receive an eight-year accumulation of several hundred dollars.

It is unlikely that dividend payments will start before next August, a spokesman for the agency said.

"But we're going to make every effort to have the payments flowing out by the end of the year," he added.

Size Still in Doubt

The Veterans Administration is still calculating the size of the fund surplus from which the dividends will be paid. Unofficial estimates of the amount range from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

The agency also is working out the formular of payments. Refunds in each group will be in terms of number of cents per thousand dollars of insurance for each month that each policy is in force.

The Veterans Administration plans to make refunds from the fund surplus on all policies on which premium were paid for three or more months. This includes policies that have lapsed or matured as well as those still in force.

Represents Gains Savings

The surplus is the product of gains and savings on policys premiums. Much of it develops from the fact that the mortality rate among veterans has been considerably lower than was estimated before the war, when the size of premium payments was being established.

The VA spokesman said dividends will be paid on all types of National Service Life Insurance—on converted policies as well as on the so-called term policies.

Holders of converted policies may in fact expect larger dividends because of the higher premium they pay.

Veterans initially took out term policies—that is, policies issued for five year periods, which may be renewed at a higher premium every five years.

Artillery Unit Is Commended

In a letter to Lt. Col. Clyde L. Jones, Maj. Gen. Withers A. Burress, Infantry Center commanding general, commended the 39th Field Artillery battalion for its participation in the Red Cross blood donation campaign.

The 39th, first unit on the post to volunteer to donate blood, gave 126 pints Dec. 20. Of 144 men who volunteered to donate a pint each, only 18 were rejected because of colds and other minor illnesses.

Next unit scheduled to take part in the donor campaign is the 3440th Area Service unit.

Post Construction Work Accelerated

Housing Projects Progress Rapidly

The face-lifting of Fort Benning has moved into high gear, with several projects begun, others in the midst of construction and still others nearly completed, according to Infantry Center G-4 officials.

Housing projects, according to Col. Thomas R. Brinkley, are making rapid headway. Conversion of buildings into quarters in the hospital areas is progressing as rapidly as possible, he said. In the Harmony church hospital area, several families have already moved into their new quarters, while more than half of the trailer camp will be ready for occupany early next month.

The guest house which was moved from its location next to the post office to make way for the new field house will also be open again next month, he said. Now located on Vibbert avenue, next to Red Cross headquarters, the building has been renovated and a new gas heating system installed. Meanwhile, construction of the field house is proceeding rapidly despite inclement weather.

Movement of the flagpole from its present location opposite Stilwell field will also be accomplished next month, Colonel Brinkley said. It will be set up in front of the Infantry School building.

Construction of the Book Department building is expected to be completed this spring, according to Maj. Andrew W. Petrosky, department head. This building is located between the Officers' club and the Field Printing plant. A building is also being prepared for physical education classes for the Academic department, according to Colonel Brinkley, and another office is being readied for the new special associate basic infantry officers' course. The physical education building will contain offices, showers, and storerooms.

The huge rehabilitation job at Sand hill and Harmony church is also proceeding according to plans. This project includes road construction in Harmony church and drainage projects to prevent erosion as well as the construction of motor pools and general rehabilitation work.

The rehabilitation of areas for the Third Infantry division is also under way.

Gen. Taylor to Europe

Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, retiring superintendent of the United States Military academy, will be assigned to the European command effective about Feb. 1, the Department of the Army announced today.

The nature of his assignment will be announced in Europe, the army said.

Trailer Camp To Open Here Next Month

Some alleviation of the housing situation at Fort Benning is expected early next month with the opening of the enlisted men's trailer camp at Eighth Division and Wood roads according to Infantry Center officials.

The recently begun 78-site camp will be more than half completed about the middle of January, with 48 sites ready for occupancy at that time.

Applications for trailer camp sites —20 have already been received—can be made to the Infantry Center billeting office on forms furnished by that office, and all assignments to space in the camp are made by the billeting office. A fee of five dollars is charged all approved applicants. This fee, paid only once, will be maintained in a trailer camp fund and used for improvement and maintenance of the camp, officials said.

A deposit of five dollars is also required of each applicant. Upon termination of an assignment at Fort Benning, this deposit will be returned when complete clearance has been secured. Should the occupant not properly police the area, or leave an indebtedness to the trailer camp fund, this deposit may be forfeited.

A monthly charge, not expected to exceeded $7.50, will be made to cover each trailer's pro-rata share of expense for utilities and janitor's and other

$150 In Prizes For First '49er

Approximately $150 in prizes will be awarded the winner of the sixth annual Baby Derby co-sponsored by The Bayonet and Columbus merchants, it was reported Tuesday morning by L. Ray Patten, advertising manager.

The derby, which was inaugurated in 1944, provides gifts for the first child born in 1949. Twenty-two merchants in Columbus are contributing to the 1949 contest.

Rules governing the selection of the winner of the title Mr. or Miss 1949 provide that the child must be born to an enlisted couple. A doctor's certificate will be required as evidence that the child is actually the first one born after midnight Dec. 31, 1948. In the event that twins are born, the first-born shall be considered the winner, Mr. Patten said.

Three boys and two girls have won the derby during the five years since the contest was inaugurated.

Among the gifts to be awarded the 1949 winner are a hairbrush from the Village Beauty Shop, a portrait of the baby by the Village Studio, three dollars worth of merchandise from Dr. Davis' Cat and Dog hospital, three dollars worth of merchandise from Dinglewood pharmacy, two dinners from the 27 Drive-In, five dollars worth of pot plants from Bon Marche florist, brake relining from Welch Brake Service.

A baby carriage robe set from Village Tot Shop, five dollars worth of beauty treatment from Adolphe's Beauty Shop, a pair of self-starter baby shoes from Miller-Taylor Shoe company, a baby blanket fromGodwin-Wellons-Pope, ten dollars worth of service from Riley-Spear Motor company, five dollars worth of merchandise from Foremost Auto stores.

Two gallons of icecream from Wells Dairies, one case of baby food from Sol Loeb company, a bathrobe from the Tiny Tot Shop, a baby book from White's Book store, a Johnson's baby set from Lane Drug store, five dollars worth of dry cleaning from Phillips Dry Cleaning company, one month's free diaper service from the Columbus Diaper Service and a coupon worth 50 dollars on the purchase of a used car from Averett-Kimbrough.

Dental Internship Offered Students

Fifty dental internships, beginning Aug. 1, 1949, and terminating July 31, 1950, will be provided in army teaching general hospitals, it has been announced by Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Smith, chief of the army's Dental corps.

Letters announcing the program, containing a detailed information sheet, have been sent to the deans of the dental schools.

The internships are of the rotating type, including instruction in oral diagnosis, operative dentistry, oral surgery, prosthetics and periodontia.

Applications for dental internships are invited from citizens of the United States who are completing their senior year of dental training, are less than 31 years of age on Aug. 1 of the year application is made, who have made no agreement to accept an internship elsewhere and who are physically qualified for the regular army.

Dental interns will be appointed first lieutenants in the Dental corps reserve, and will receive the pay and allowances of that grade during internship. The reserve commission will remain in effect for a period of five years including the internship unless a resignation from this status is accepted by the Department of the Army.

Application blanks with complete instructions for applying will be sent to the dental schools shortly. General Smith stated that applications for the dental intern program would be accepted in the surgeon General's office, between Feb. 1, and March 1, 1949.

services. There is no other "rent" to pay.

If the occupant lives in the camp 15 days or less, one-half the monthly fee will be collected. For over 15 days the fee will be that for the entire month. This fee is payable to the billeting officer on or before the 10th of the month or when occupany is terminated.

Any expense connected with moving of any trailer or personal property into or out of the trailer camp will be at the expense of the person owning the trailer or property. The billeting office, however, has the authority to require any resident to move his trailer to a new location on the assigned lot, or to a new lot, to conform with rules and regulations for alignment and lot assignments, or vacating the assigned lot for improvements ordered by the commanding general of the Infantry Center.

Command General Staff Students To Take Tests

The Department of the Army has approved a plan to administer a test to prospective students prior to their selection to attend the regular course at the Command and General Staff college.

The test, DA, AGO, PRT 1488, was based upon studies made at the college and will be distributed by the adjutant general under procedures soon to be published.

ARMY EDUCATION

Are Promotions An Idle Dream?

This is the third in a series of articles dealing with the army's education system. In this week's article, the author discusses educational development tests, college extension courses and the University of Georgia's off-campus center in Columbus.

BY MISS MABEL YORK
EDUCATION COUNSELLOR

This is the week to make New Year's resolutions, next week is the time to break them—or is it?

New Year's resolutions have become quite a joke, yet every man, in order to progress, must stop at intervals and take inventory. He must objectively review his successes and his failures, determine the factors that motivated them; and make concrete plans to prevent a repetition of the failures and to develop the features that promoted the successes.

The beginning of the new year is a particularly appropriate time to take a personal inventory and make plans for the future.

Under the army's career plan, there are basic educational requirements for both officers and enlisted men, without which hope for advancement is just an idle dream. An officer should have a minimum of two years of college, an enlisted man a high school education. If your education is below standard, this new year is the best time to begin doing something about it.

The USAFI educational development tests are designed to determine whether or not your formal and informal education is equal to that of a high school graduate or a college freshman.

The army recognizes a passing grade on the high school level GED test as the equivalent of high school graduation. State boards of education and high schools will, with few exceptions, award diplomas or equivalency certificates on the basis of this test.

The army recognizes a passing grade on the college level GED test as the equivalent of one year of college work. The majority of accredited colleges and universities recognize it either for advanced credit or for college entrance.

These two tests provide an opportunity to establish your current educational level regardless of how or where you acquired your knowledge.

For those of you who plan to go to college, these tests can be used to establish your educational standing—if taken now.

At present a great many enlisted men and officers are taking advantage of extension courses offered by 54 colleges and universities cooperating with USAFI. These courses afford the serviceman an opportunity to obtain college credit while still in the army, and may be taken by any individual on his own time and in almost any subject he wants to master. He can have the credit, obtained in this way, applied to an eventual college degree. These courses are paid partly by the individual taking the course, but the majority of the cost is paid by the army.

At Fort Benning another way exists for obtaining college credits in addition to extension courses.

In Columbus, the University of Georgia has established an "off-campus center" where courses offered by the university can be taken and resident college credit received. A considerable number of Fort Benning officers and enlisted men are taking advantage of this offering and are well on their way to college degrees.

For those who desire to attend the University of Georgia, the army will pay 75 percent of the cost of tution, if the cost is less than $25 per course, and the student pays the other 25 percent.

Under the G. I. Bill, which expires in 1951 if you haven't started to use it by that time, you may have your full tuition paid in either college extension or for your courses at the University of Georgia. You can start your college education now with little cost to you, by applying at th eArmy Education center here. All you have to do is make your educational desires known. All the details are worked out, and the paper work is done here for you. Don't put off your education any longer; start now.

The army is planning for its future. Are you preparing yourself to fit into its plan?

Mexican Soldiers Take TIS Courses

Two Mexican army officers and four enlisted men are scheduled to take courses at the Infantry School beginning in early Jaunuary, it was announced this week by Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall.

Expected to enroll in the basic airborne course which begins Jan. 11 are Lt. Roberto Acevedo Y Paredes. Pvt. Silviano Orozco Galindo, Pvt. Enrique Sobreranes Ocampo, Pvt. Jose Maria Castellanos Martinez and Pvt. Gabriel Rojas Duron. The course ends Feb. 25.

Lt. Ernesto Perez Robledo is scheduled to take the associate basic course which begins on or about Jan. 3 and ends on or about April 9.

Sgts. Funderburk, Shaw Join ISD's Company A

Sgt. 1st Cl. Gordon E. Funderburk and M-Sgt. Roy L. Shaw have joined the Infantry School detachment's Company A, it has been reported.

Sergeant Funderburk was formerly with the Seventh Engineer Combat battalion's Company C at Fort Jackson, S.C. and Sergeant Shaw was formerly at Oliver General hospital, Augusta, Ga.

Leave Monday For Big Delta

Twenty-seven officers and men of Army Field Forces board No. 3 will leave for Alaska Monday to join an advance detail of five officers and men, who have been in the Big Delta area since early this month, to participate in winter maneuvers and tests in the Tanana valley.

The party, which will also include one officer from Army Field Forces board No. 4, Fort Bliss, Tex., will leave by plane from Lawson field for Great Falls, Mont., airforce base and from there will fly to Big Delta, according to Lt. Col. Thomas H. Monroe, Jr., heading the detail.

While in Alaska the Benning soldiers will participate in the testing of cold weather equipment including shelters, clothing, skis, snowshoes, sleds, gloves and the functioning of individual infantry weapons in extreme cold. They will also observe and study the means of feeding troops and supplying them with water in the arctic. They will return to Fort Benning in the spring.

This year's tests are a continuation of those carried on during Operations Yukon in Alaska and Snowdrop in upper New York last year. Similar tests were also conducted during the winter of 1946-47 in Alaska, the Aleutian islands and in Wisconsin under the names of Operations Frigid, Williwaw and Frost.

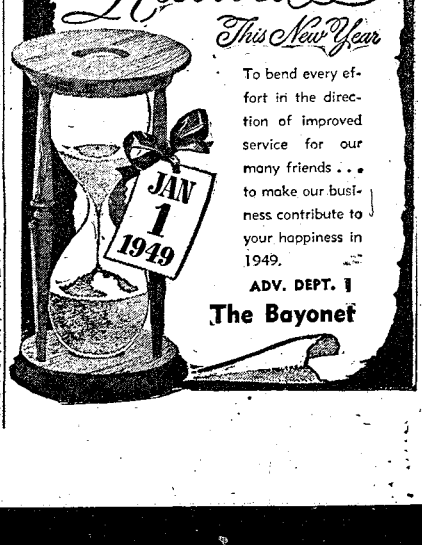
Already in Alaska is the advance party from Benning consisting of Maj. Werner Holtz, Capt. Thomas E. Lawrence, Sgt. 1st cl. Joseph Farrell, Sgt. Ralph H. Kendrey and Pfc. Leroy Luedtke.

Leaving Fort Benning Monday will be Colonel Monroe, Maj. Robert B. Wells, Capt. Victor A. Franklin, M-Sgt. Carlton B. Manley, Sgts. 1st cl. Charles O. Cook and Harry M. Smallwood. Sgts. Milton C. Bannister, Eugene L. Cornett, Floyd Redmond and Aubrey R. Welborn.

Cpls. Sheridan E. Besosa, Raymond Bostwick, Elbert C. Cox, Sam Dimenza, Ernest W. Eldridge, John G. Fetkenhour, Roy C. Padgett, William J. McClain, James T. Strickland, Robert N. Townley and Milton C. Willis, Jr.

Pfcs. Robert N. Mercer, William L. Wagner, Jr., Kenneth D. Burnham, Jr., Robert C. Longtine and Joe W. Sanders.

From Board No. 4 at Fort Bliss, Tex., will be Maj. John H. Mulder.



Help to Keep New Year's Day Free from Accidents

During the 1946 Christmas-New Year's season thirty-two Fort Benning soldiers were hospitalized and one killed as the result of accidents. Last year the toll was somewhat less, with only twelve members of this command being hospitalized and no one injured fatally.

The Holiday season, particularly New Year's day, is traditionally a time in which all of us tend to throw aside the cares of the everyday world and devote our undivided attention to celebrating. The conditions that cause accidents, however, take no time off. On the contrary, they increase, and are further enhanced by the prevalence of the carefree holiday spirit. Far too often the season becomes one of tragedy rather than happiness because of accidents.

It is my earnest hope that each of you, wherever you spend New Year's day, will conduct yourselves in such a manner as to assure your safety.

Enlisted Men on 'Juries'

The recent revision and liberalization of the army's court-martial system to allow enlisted men to sit on the "jury" will likely do more to eliminate civilian misunderstanding of the army than any step taken in a long time. It is, we feel, a needed revision and one which will create a great deal more respect for the army among civilian lawyers, judges and juries.

Too long there had been cries from civilian agencies, as well from the soldier himself, that the court-martial system should be revamped in order that enlisted men on trial be judged by enlisted men. This, naturally, was to be expected since our constitution provides that men shall be tried by juries of their peers. And certainly, no jury composed entirely of officers can be considered a jury of peers when an enlisted man is being tried.

We do not agree with those who oppose the revision when they say that this new system will lead to a perverted sense of justice on the part of enlisted men simply because one enlisted man will not convict another enlisted man. We do not agree because we believe that career soldiers are among the most honorable of men. A regular army enlisted man feels the same intense pride in his uniform as does the regular army officer; and further, we believe that the regular army soldier, as a rule, is just as offended by a breach of conduct as is the regular army officer.

It will be necessary, of course, to exercise caution in the selection of a jury "panel", for even though we have faith in the enlisted man's ability and integrity, there are bound to be some men unqualified for jury duty. To put such men on the list of those eligible for jury duty would be to face almost certain failure in so far as operation of the new court-martial procedure is concerned.

At Fort Benning the judge advocate's office is apparently making every effort to see that there is no failure. A series of classes in court-martial procedure will get under way shortly after the new year. The primary purpose of these classes will be to prepare qualified men to instruct Benning soldiers in their duties and responsibilities as members of military courts.

These duties and responsibilities will be many, and upon these men will rest the fate of the new court-martial system. If they fail, the court-martial system may also fail.

Farewell To '48

The year 1948 saw many changes in The Bayonet, both in style and in staff. Some of these style changes were instituted at the suggestion of Fort Benning personnel. They were changes you as readers wanted, and changes we of The Bayonet were happy to make. We feel that this is your "home paper", the one in which your accomplishments as individuals are recorded that all may see and the one in which all the news of Fort Benning, and some of the army-wide news, is published for your information.

We hope that during the next twelve-month period, we will add to our pleasant contacts with the very fine people at Fort Benning. We will continue in 1949, as we did in 1948, to welcome your criticism, and your suggestions for changes.

As we write "thirty" to 1948, let us say that we hope each of you has a very successful and very prosperous New Year.

Strictly Editorializing

PERSONNEL of Fort Benning may do some long-range teaching of democracy by participating in the "adoption" project of the Bad Vilbel camp for homeless boys near Frankfurt, Germany.

THE PROGRAM, which calls for providing orphaned youths of the camp with many of life's necessities, was outlined by the Rev. Colin Campbell, rector of Columbus' Trinity Episcopal church, following a self-imposed visit to U.S.-occupied Germany last summer, and gathered impetus rapidly. It was decided by City Commission of Columbus to officially "adopt" the camp, and Infantry Center officials later sanctioned full-scale participation in the project by personnel of Fort Benning.

MANY Benningites have spent time in Germany, and are aware of the fact that teaching democracy to a poorly-clad, underfed audience is a vital impossibility. Mouthing the tenets of a democratic way of life is futile unless our creeds are upheld by our actions.

IN YOUTHS like the approximately 250 inhabitants of the Bad Vilbel camp lies the future of Germany: whether it again will rise in power to leave a trail of devastation throughout Europe, or will take its place among the peace-loving nations of the world depends largely on the attitudes with which these young men take over the arduous task of rebuilding their war-ravaged country.

IT IS UP TO us as conquerors to demonstrate that we don't believe in kicking a fellow when he's down, but to help him back on his feet in a manner which will indelibly inscribe in his memory the fact that he has erred.

A PRESENT phase of the "adoption" program is the outfitting of each of the boys in the encampment with a complete set of clothing and a supply of toilet articles. Donations to this project may be made to the Bad Vilbel Camp for Homeless Boys' committee, Post Office box 1146 Columbus, Ga.

Chaplain's Corner...

YEAR IN-YEAR OUT

BY Chaplain Ralph H. Pugh

We stand at the end of another year and watch it slowly fade into history. What thoughts pass through our minds? What would we do if we coud have it all to do over Would we make the same mistakes? Would we say some of the things we did or left unsaid the bitter thoughts of our souls? Where might our feet have trodden if we had taken the left instead of the right? Instead of having spent Christmas at Fort Benning, it might well have been spent in Korea, Nanking, Berlin, Trieste or some other outpost of freedom. Suppose our name had been on the shipping list? Suppose we had spent Christmas at sea? What if we had said yes instead of no on some occasions? Perhaps we said too much when we should have said nothing.

Our year of 1948 has been filled with both blessing and disappointment. The world has indeed made remarkable progress toward a better life, but we have seen a better life, but bickering weaken the effort toward a common goal of peace and good will. The United Nations has been a sounding board for both good and evil, but we still look in vain for the security of a peaceful world. Little nations still live in fear and dread of the bigger neighbors. Armed conflict is rampant in parts of the world. The past year has undoubtedly brought out into the open many ideas that could have done real harm if not properly aired and treated in time. Many Americans will choose to remember 1948 as a year of victory for the little man, victory for a gentleman who wouldn't admit defeat and took his cause to the people and they did not let him down. 1948 was the year of Truman.

In the world of sports the Midwest is mighty proud of the Cleveland Indians and a game guy by the name of Gene Bearden, who came back the hard way to win the glory and gold of the World Series. Mighty Notre Dame finally met its match in a never-say-die bunch of men from Southern California. And speaking of sports who can ever forget the stunning upset at Philadelphia when lowly Navy, the doormat of football, rose to heroic heights and held vaunted Army to a tie, and for all intents won a moral victory?

And where was the church while all this was going on? It was doing business at the old familiar stand on the corner, in the hills, on the plains, in the mission field, in the crowded market place. A great conference was being held at Amsterdam by many of the Christian denominations. Ways and means of getting together and building a better world were being thrashed out.

Now as we face 1949 are we fearful, or are we confident? Both, if we are honest with ourselves. Afraid of what might happen if we weakened in our high resolve to stand firm, and confident that if we do stand firm the battle has been partially won. The war of ideas, is on, and every man's heart and mind is a battle field. Let no one dissuade you that there is aboard in the world today powers of evil that lurk in the corners of your own heart to destroy you at some unguarded moment. Be vigilant, be ready to give an account of the faith that is in you, and remember that truth is the only weapon that can defeat doubt, distrust and dissension. Truth still shines forth into the dawn of the New Year as a bright beacon from the Old Year bidding men rejoice, take heart, for that revealing ligt will show up the evil and destroy it.

PAST ALL DISHONOR

Born in Annapolis, Md., in 1892 and educated at Washington college, James M. Cain was a crack reporter for many years. While teaching journalism at St. John's college, Helen L. Mencken the actress, encouraged him to write fiction. His first novel, The Postman Always Rings Twice, was an overnight success, and received critical acclaim.

Past all Dishonor, one of the author's more recent books, is a historical novel of silver mining, gun fighting, drinking and wenching, a tale of a Confederate spy and a beautiful camp follower during the Civil war period. But it's something more than just a period piece, or a costume farce, it's a tale as real as today's crime story.

At first the setting seems a far cry from the usual Cain novel, which has always dealt with the playing of suburban vices, but as the story unfolds itself, we find the same fast moving pace and unbearable tension that have become the author's hallmark. His interest in the technology of crime, the strategy and mechanical know how that go into the making of a well planned robbery, has made the train holdup in this book, if anything, a more perfect job than the train murder in Double Indemnity.

In this book Cain goes yet a little deeper into villainy, trying to probe into the very roots of evil, as he writes down, "How it came about that a boy that went to St. Anne's in Annapolis, and believed what he heard there, should turn into a traitor, a killer, and a thief." And so he does, for of all his cold blooded heroes, and depraved heroines, Roger Duval and Morina Crockett take the prize for sheer dyed-in-the-wool wickedness.

Of Past All Dishonor, Time said characteristically, "A well told tale whose dead-pan savagery suggests that it was written with the tip of an icicle."

Your Red Cross

The year 1948 has indeed been a busy one. Although we have had only an average of 15,000 men on the post on a monthly basis, 7,504 contacted us for the first time. A total of 2,446 came back from time to time, making a total of 12,883 cases handled. Of that total 3,048 were given immediate service, but we found it necessary to continue our responsibility with 5,302.

We found it necessary to take action on 2,984 leaves or extension requests. Health and welfare requests came second for the failure of soldiers to write home and of families to write soldiers caused contact between this office and 2,203 servicemen. In 1948, only 21 Veteran Forms 526 were filled out, and power of attorney was given Red Cross by 15 of these men.

Government benefits, that, in this instance, mean failure of allotments to be paid promptly, was the theme of 1,639 cases. Because of lack of better statistical reporting, we listed under recorded services 5,670 cases. This, though, includes many who have long and drawn-out troubles, such as dependency discharges and efforts to get fiancees from overseas.

During 1948, we made 370 loans totaling $12,080.34. Of these, 339 were for emergency furloughs totaling $11,166.35. We assisted 37 families with loans totaling $810.96. Only one personal need loan of $10 was made, and two convalescent loans in the amount of $43 to hospital patients.

Of course, while it is understood that many of the loans made were later marked off because of the inability of soldiers to pay, it should be brought to the attention here that we made 81 grants totaling $1,312.65. Of these, 29 were for emergency furloughs, totaling $732.00, while 51 were outright grants to families, totaling $574.65.

During 1948, we collected $12,268.68. Of this amount, $6,583.65 was received on loans which we had made. In other words, we collected a little better than half of the loans that we made.

A total $4,472.01 was collected on pink loan forms or on loans transferred to us from other camps. Unfortunately, there is no running record of the total number of loans transferred to us, but we collected for chapters and transmitted to them $1,213.02.

We had 103 articles appearing in The Bayonet, made 257 orientation talks, had 37 meetings with chapters, and made 38 talks to groups such as civic clubs, churches and Parent-Teachers associations.

We received 9,740 letters and sent out 9,500. We received 4,041 wires and sent 3,617. We made 593 long distance calls and received 709.

We gave five first aid courses and issued 68 certificates. We had 32 water safety classes and issued 641 certificates.

To Amuse You Today

"Darn it, leftovers again," growled the cannibal as he gnawed on the two old maids.

When Mac and Turner registered they had to sign their names and nationality.

Mac signed: "Irish—and proud of it."

Turner signed: "Scotch— and fond of it."

A woman motorist posed for a snapshot in front of the fallen pillars of an ancient temple in Greece.

"Don't get the car in the picture," she warned. "My husband will think I ran into the place."

Everything is funny as long as it happens to somebody else.

"Hey," cried Satan to a new arrival, "you act as if you own the place."

"I do," said the new arrival. "My wife gave it to me before I came here."

Driver of crowded bus: "Kindly shove each other to the rear of the bus, please!"

She: "Nobody loves me, and my hands are cold."

He: "Your mother loves you and you can sit on your hands."

"Do you mean to tell me," the judge said, "that you murdered that poor old woman for a paltry three dollars?"

"Well, judge, you know how it is. Three bucks here, three bucks there—it soon mounts up."

Teacher: "What is ignorance, Tommy?"

Tommy: "Ignorance is when you don't know anything and somebody finds it out!"

Girl: (on phone) "Darling, Papa's mad. He found out that we used his car last night."

Sailor: "How did he learn that?"

Girl: "We hit him."

Moe: "I've had to make my living by my wits."

Joe: "Well, half a living is better than none."

Small Brother: Ha! Ha! I just saw you kiss Sis."

Suitor: "Here. Keep still. Put this quarter in your pocket."

Small Brother: "Here's ten cents change. One price to all, that's the way I do business."

Two can live as cheaply as one can play poker, said the sad sack.

The mental hospital's new arrival was unusually gay. He talked repeatedly of his twin brother, after which he would burst into gales of laughter. He explained that people always confused the two of them. "He was arrested for speeding. I had to pay the fine," the doctor was told. "I had a girl, and he ran off with her." "But I got even with him last week!"

"How was that?"

"I died, and they buried him."

Bum: "Sir, I'm hungry. Could you help a poor fellow out?"

Man: "Did you see that pile of wood in the yard?"

Bum: (starting to leave) "That's right you saw me see it, but you won't see me saw it."

"Is the housing shortage bad near where you're stationed?"

"Bad?" "The place I'm living now is so small that if I die, they'll just put handles on the sides and carry me to the graveyard."

"Are you the young man who jumped in the river and saved my son from drowning when he fell through the ice?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Where are his mittens?"

It happened in a Hollywood kindergarten: "Now children," said the teacher, "can any of you tell me a greater power than a king?' And a little boy cried eagerly, "An ace!"

Two men were flying east in a passenger plane, making the first air trip of their lives. The plane touched down at St. Louis and a little red truck sped out to its side to refuel it. The plane landed again at Cleveland, and again a little red truck dashed up to it. The third stop was Albany and the same thing happened.

The first of the two men looked at his watch and turned to his companion. "This plane," he said, "makes wonderful time."

"Yep," said the other, "and that little red truck aint doin' bad either."

They were speeding at 90;
The car gave a lurch.

Sand Hill NCO's Entertain At Yule Party And Dance

Approximately 200 members and guests attended the John W. Brown NCO club's party and dance on Christmas night at the organization's Sand hill quarters.

The club was colorfully decorated in a holiday theme of evergreen sprigs and garlands, with a background of red and green decorations and lighting.

Lt Col. Todd H. Slade, commanding officer of the 999th Field Artillery battalion, attended the affair accompanied by Maj. Cloyd V. Taylor. After being introduced to the group by M-Sgt. William H. Scott, Sr. president, Col. Slade welcomed the guests, and commended the members for their highly personal interest in the maintainance of the John W. Brown club, and recognized the contributions the club has made to the splendid accomplishment of the battalion's missions in 1948.

Highlighting the program was the presentation of gifts to the ladies and the serving of a buffet luncheon.

The committee consisted of M-Sgt. William H. Scott, Sr., chairman, M-Sgt. J. D. Walder, Sgt. 1st cl. Floyd T. Canady and Sgt. 1st cl. Edgar C. Henderson.

ARK YEAR FOR BENNING

In the center row, left to right ,are shown the presentation of a cup to General Burress by Lt. Gen. Efisio Marras, chief of staff of the Italian army, the hillbilly band of the 325th Infantry Training battalion, the colors of the 15th Infantry regiment of the Third Infantry division which was assigned to Benning, and a group of soldiers of the 31st Infantry division which trained here last summer.

Phillips Will Tutor Hardwood Doughs

Workouts Begin Here Next Week

Robert Phillips, who recently completed a hardwood tour as player-manager of the 15th Infantry regiment basketball quintet, was named this week to pilot the Doughboy cagers through their 1949 campaign.

The selection of Phillips to take over the Doughboy helm, and his announcement that post team workouts would begin about Jan. 5 headlined the holiday season's court doings at Benning. However, a decision to play a post-season intra-mural campaign was made known by the post athletic office, and the league will start on Jan. 17.

By starting his drills next week, Coach Phillips will have approximately two weeks in which to map his strategy before the Doughmen launch their 1949 slate.

Details of the Doughboy schedule have not been worked out completely, but it was expected that the first game will be played about Jan. 20.

Letters and other forms of communication have been sent by the athletic office in an effort to fill out the Doughboy schedule, but replies to many of these have not been received. Should the communications yield the expected results, the cage agenda for this season will list about 15 contests.

In addition to the regular-season games, the Doughboys probably will participate in two tournaments — the Third army meet and the Southeastern Amateur Athletic union (SEAAU) classic. A win in the Third army tourney, however, would place the Doughs in line for a crack at the all-army title.

As Coach Phillips starts his training grind, he will be blessed with the return of only one member of the 1948 squad — Bob Kinard, who performed for the post champion Airborne battalion during the recent intra-mural race.

An abundance of talented material unearthed during the intra-mural season, however, makes the Doughboy outlook for this year somewhat brighter than at the start of last season.

Candidates for the Dough quintet were chosen by intra-mural team coaches, and the outstanding players from each of the eight post loop squads will get a crack at a Doughboy berth. By the time the season opens, the crop of aspirants will be reduced to between 15 and 20 members.

Phillips said definitely that he doesn't intend to play with the Doughboy team, but will devote his full time to his managerial chores.

The new Doughboy coach, however, boasts a colorful background in both playing and tutoring circles.

During the period 1938-1941, Phillips was a member of the varsity cage squad of Michigan State college, and was co-captain of the quintet in 1941. While at the school, he also served as coach of the team fielded by the agricultural short course.

He played high school basketball with Horace Mann school of Gary, Ind.

Although his playing and coaching stint in 1948 was his first with a service team, Coach Phillips was a member of the independent Moose team of Laramie, Wyo., in 1947, a quintet which captured the state hardwood title that year.

In the summer of 1947, a quintet which captured the state hardwood title that year.

In the summer of 1947, Phillips served as athletic instructor for the Reserve Officers' Training corps course at Fort Riley, Kans.

Cage Twin Bills

Orange Bowl week offered its first college basketball doubleheaders Tuesday and Wednesday as part of the sports festival which comes to a climax New Year's day with the Georgia-Texas football clash.

The twin bill featured Florida against Pittsburgh and Miami against Princeton.

Clemson Arrives

Unbeaten and untied Clemson flew into Jacksonville Tuesday to round out the cast for the Gator Bowl football game there New Year's Day. Missouri's squad arrived by train the day before and went right into its program of workouts at near-by Jacksonville Beach.

Major Sport Classics Set For Benning

A stepped-up tempo of tournament activity is in store for Fort Benning sports fans in 1949.

Five major meets, representing an around-the-calendar cycle of sports have been placed on the post's tourney agenda for the ensuing year.

Third army tournaments in bowling, boxing, track and tennis have been slated for a Benning setting, and the all-army baseball classic will be staged here in September.

Of these, only the Third army meets in bowling, track and tennis were held here in 1948.

The post's tournament schedule will be launched with the bowling classic, which is to be contested on the main post lanes Jan. 18-20. In the meet, Benning's Doughboys will be the defending champs.

Although a definite date has not been set, leather-pushers of the Third army area are slated to vie for laurels in the Main gym during the latter part of February. Local authorities believe, however, that the pugilistic events may be pushed back until early March to permit all installations in the area to complete their local elimations.

In May, Doughboy stadium will be the scene of the area track and field meet. Last year, the 82nd Airborne division trackster of Fort Bragg, N. C., annexed the diadem by outpointing the cinder trail blazers of Benning.

The tennis classic for 1949 will be held either in June or July on the en-tout-cas courts of the Benning Officers' club, and will find the Dough netters in the role of defending titlists.

Fort Benning has drawn the assignment of host for September's all-army diamond tournament—the first of its kind. Featured in the tourney will be championship teams from all army areas and overseas commands.

The Doughboy diamondmen last year were Third army, Georgia semi-pro and Georgia-Alabama regional champions, and the 1949 edition will be spiced with an abundance of veterans from the 1948 Dough nine.

Dream Realized

Quarterback John Rauch, Georgia's all-American this year, had wanted a miniature football for a long time. After all of his years in high school and college he received his first one this fall when he made the first eleven on Grantland Rice's honored squad.

Lucky Number?

Three of Georgia's assistant coaches, J. B. (Ears) Whitworth and Carroll Thomas were born on Sept. 17, but there is a difference of five years in their ages. Whitworth, of course, has never revealed whether the difference favors him or Thomas.

Doyle Nix, Oregon's fancy Dan who knocks out a mile-trimmed cowboy hat from Southern Methodist university senior Phil Porter in Dallas, Tex. The Webfoots are in the Texas city for their Cotton Bowl game with SMU on New Year's day.

Weiland Named To A and R Post

Reorganization of the post special services office was completed recenty with the assignment of 1st. Lt. Frederick A. Weiland as assistant athletic officer.

As a student at West Virginia university, prior to his enlistment, he distinguished himself as an athlete and captained the school's 1940 track team.

While an enlisted man, and as an officer in the airforce, he kept his hands in by winning the individual mile and half - mile runs in the 1941 Chanute field, Ill., track and field meet, and the Fresno, Calif., tourney in 1943.

He was also a member of the winning relay teams in both meets.

Lieutenant Weiland has been connected with special services since receiving his commission.

An 18 month tour in the European theater is included in his service as an officer.

He terminated his service in August 1947, and returned to his studies at the University of West Virginia, and a track berth as high-point man on the cross-country team.

He re-enisted in the air force last May, only three months after receiving his bachelor of science degree.

SLANTS on SPORTS

By Lewis Mc Afee
Bayonet Sports Editor

Liddle Noodnik, heir apparent to the throne of Lower Slobbovia and No. 1 sports lover of that far-flung realm, invaded The Bayonet office under a flag of truce the other day and begged words with the sports department.

Seating himself in our corner, he produced a scroll which, at first glance, could have been a relic taken from the tomb of King Tut. But as he unfurled the parchment, it became evident that the little man had been busying himself with New Year's resolutions.

That the sports department was preoccupied made little difference to Noodnik, and he insisted that we listen to his do's and don't's for 1949. Since we're not in the habit of giving royalty the bum's rush, we decided to sit back and lend an ear.

As he began to read, it became obvious that Noodnik had mapped himself a slate of resolutions that would make the LSU football schedule of 1948 look like the agenda for a kids' party.

He wasn't content with just reading from his scroll, but after each "I resolve" he added a few remarks, apparently in an effort to clarify what he had jotted down.

Noodnik's resolutions went something like this:

I RESOLVE; that I will refrain from second-guessing referees, umpires, judges, linemen and other officials.

The young man evidently had been brought to realize that officials are chosen as such because they have some knowledge of the sport for which they are officiating, and that sometimes things look a little different at close range than they do from the 40-yard line or high in the grandstand.

I RESOLVE; that I will not indulge in the malicious practice of panning a losing team or player.

To this, Noodnik added that he knew all players and teams couldn't be of equal ability, and that when his favorites come up against something just a trifle better, the proper thing to do is to admit it and let it go at that.

I RESOLVE; that I will not brand failure of a team to produce as poor coaching.

"You know," he opined, "that the best coach in the world couldn't do much without having an abundance of good material. It's true that the strategy compounded by a coach plays an important part in making or breaking a team, but it isn't always that the results of contests reflect the prowess of a coach or manager."

I RESOLVE; that I will not belittle the efforts of coaches and managers to place their players in various positions on a team.

Usually, he explained, a coach or manager can detect traces of talent that are hidden to spectators, and, that more often than not, a mentor is justified in making lineup switches.

I RESOLVE; that if I want to get in the game I will get suited up.

Altgether too often, Noodnik pointed out, sideliners want to have a lot of say about a game without going through the physical exertion involved. One of the easiest things in the world is to spot an error after it already has been made.

Of course, our royal visitor from the land of enchantment had other do's and don't's listed, but the ones outlined above are cases where we spotted evidence of true genius.

Incidentally, Noodnik pointed out that he doesn't intend to have any of his ideas copyrighted, and that anybody who wants to add them to his roster of resolutions is free to do so.

* * * * *

Just as our illustrious guest was putting on his shoes to leave, we asked him to pass on to us his thoughts on the New Year's day bowl games, and his words of wisdom were as follows:

Oklahoma over North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl.
Georgia over Texas in the Orange Bowl.
Northwestern over California in the Rose Bowl.
Missouri over Clemson in the Gator Bowl.
Nevada over Villanova in the Harbor Bowl.
William and Mary over Oklahoma A & M in the Delta Bowl.

Oregon over SMU in the Cotton Bowl.
Baylor over Wake Forest in the Dixie Bowl.

Court Activity Ends Bullet Sports Year

Baseball, Track, Football Other Athletic Highlights

BY BOB PHILLIPS

Winding up their 1948 athletic campaign with a record of four victories and three setbacks in the post intra-mural basketball league, the Sand hill Bullets lowered the curtain on another commendable year of sports.

Under the tutelage of Lloyd D. Jones, the basketball team also was occupying the focal point in the sports limelight at the inception of the year.

As an associate member of the Southern Inter - Collegiate Athletic conference, which includes Tuskegee institute, Clark college, Morehouse college, Alabama State university, Fisk college, Benedict college and Florida Agricultural and Mechanical college, the Bullet courtmen finished the season last winter with a record of 14 triumphs and 10 losses.

Sparking the Bullet hardwood team in its victorious campaign were such stars as the Morgan twins, Jimmie Smith, Andy Hardy, Thomas Taylor, Gerard Garcia, Bill Humphrey, Freddie Hamer and Roland Russell.

Next came track and field competition with Coach Jones still at the helm.

But the thinmen failed to enjoy a wide range of activity. The only outing on the cinders for the Bullets came when they joined th Doughboy tracksters to represent Fort Benning in the Third army track and field meet here.

Timber-toppong Cecil Malone, Ernest Sims, Phil Tindrell, Raymond Smith, Felix Bowie and Bob Lewis will be remembered among those who blazed the cinder trails for Benning.

Always a formidable aggregation on the diamond, the Bullets came into their own during baseball season.

Highlighting the season in which the hard-slugging Bulletmen won 31 out of 46 diamond contests was the winning of the 1948 post-season intra-mural championship, and the capture of the runner-up spot in the 325th Regimental combat team's intra-unit baseball league.

Key factors in the successful diamond cmapaign were Coach Charlie Toliver, outfielder Gene Thomas, catchers Nick Nichols and Hirron Collier, first - baseman Andy Hardy, shortstop Gordon Burke, nfielder Willie Wise and Lew Davis and pitchers Walter Scott, Horace Smith, Bill Conerly, Murray D. Whiting, Willie Weaver and Larry Miles.

After losing the services of Coach Jones, who was transferred to an overseas assignment during the heat of baseball season, the Bullets opened their grid campaign with Thomas L. Delton as head tutor.

Delton was assisted in coaching the grid eleven by backfield mentor Stacey Hoffman and line skipper Jesse Owens.

Coach Delton's stint with the Bullets, however, was short-lived. After piloting his charges through their first two games of the season, he was transferred to a Reserve Officers' Training corps unit at Tuskegee institute, and left the grid tutoring chores to Hoffman and Owens.

Although the Bullets started out as one of the most powerful Sand Hill turf machines in history, frequent losses of key men through discharge and transfer hampered them to such an extent that they were able to boast only a seven-lost, two-won record for the season.

Brilliant performances on the gridiron were turned in by Odell Kennedy, Hank Sanderson, Phil Tindrell, Bob Murphy, Ben Ashford, Cliff Bradford, Mathew Batie, Roy Whitehurst, Walter Brown, Bill Wilson, Jeff White, Art Roberson, Horace Northcutt, Ernest Sims, Vern Boswell, Leroy (Doe) Garvin, Ed Brown, Gene Thomas, Ted McDonald, Hudie Langston, Gordon Burke, infielders Willie Expecting a huge crop of promising new athletes who already have left their mark with high school and colege elevens of the nation to brigten the outlook for 1949, athletic officials of Sand hill have started formulating plans for a new year of sports.

Attitude Changed

Like Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles has changed his mind. The Negro contender from Cincinnati now says he is anxious to fight the Brown Bomber for the heavyweight title in June.

Five Third Army Togas For Post

BY VINCENT GIARRATANO

The year 1948 brought many changes to the Fort Benning athletic program, but the post still retained its prestige as one of the top producers of service sports aggregations in the nation.

Scrutiny of tournament records reveals only a slight difference in the record compiled by the 1947 Doughboy teams and that posted by the Benning sports delegations of 1948.

In Third army competition in 1947, the Doughboys were rated first in six out of 10 sports, and were runners-up in the other four. This year, Dough teams took five titles, and were ranked second in five events.

Doughboy squads in baseball, tennis, volleyball and bowling made it two in a row by successfully defending the e titles they had won in 1947 in 1948 competition. They yielded their claim to the No. 1 spot in football, track and bowling, but moved from second to first place in softball.

Runner-up honors for 1948 included basketball, f o o t b a l l, track, boxing and badminton. Benning teams in golf, table tennis and swimming failed to finish in the first two.

The Dough's somewhat r e t a r d e d t e m p o in Third army competition in 1948, however, was partially offset through the post baseball nine's triumphs in the Georgia and Georgia-Alabama regional diamond meets.

Rosy Cage Record

As 1948 came into being, the Doughboy cage quintet, in the throes of a slow start for the season, were faced with a doubt ful future which held a tough schedule of pre-tourney tilts with high-riding school and service teams. Aggregations like t h e highscoring Parris Island, S. C., Marines, Troy, Ala., State Teachers' college and the Tyndall field Flyers darkened Coach Ced Tallis' cagers' horizon.

The Dough hoopsters, however, brightened their outlook with Coach Tallis' change from a center-pivot offense to around-the-clock assault tactics which paid off in an increase in wins.

In a mid-season shift, Lewis Grizzard took over the reins from Tallis, and, adhering for the most part to the tactics initiated by his predecessor, piloted the Doughs to a runner-up berth in the Third army tourney. After relinquishing his skipper-ship of the Doughboys, Tallis bid the army adieu to take over the helm of the Thomasville, Ga., baseball club of the Georgia-Florida league.

Take Bowling Title

The first Third army tournament to appear on the 1948 a-genda was the bowling meet, which was held at Benning. After the Infantry School detachment had edged the 3440th Area Service unit for the post kegling championship, the Doughboy pinsmen captured the Third army toga.

Simultaneously with the mapping of the bowling classic, however, the Third army r e-ceived the go-ahead signal for tournaments in boxing, tennis and golf, and the eliminations for the Doughboy ring team got under way.

Ring Champions

After the close of pugilistic tryouts, the Doughboy leather-pushers inaugurated their season with a match with the Eglin field, Fla., flyers.

Emerging victorious from the encounter with the Florida airmen, the Dough boxers began making preparations for t h e Third army gloves tourney. At Fort Bragg, N. C., the local ringmen were beaten by the host Fort Bragg Assassins in a mild upset, but the capture of championships in three weight classes kept the Doughboy participation in the meet from being a total washout.

Lawrence Jones, middleweight Norman Clark, lightweight, and Richard Donaldson, light heavyweight, carried the Benning colors through the finals in the meet, and garnered the right to take part in the national Golden Gloves tourney in Chicago as components of the Third army team. Both Donaldson and Clark were ousted early in the Chicago classic, but Jones advanced to the finals before being eliminated.

Diamond Victories

March and the beginning of spring saw the opening of practice on baseball diamonds in all areas of Fort Benning. Local experts cited the I n f a n t r y School detachment as a threat to the Airborne battalion's intramural championship, and hailed the Profs as one of the strongest nines in the 1948 race.

Using the remnants of a strong 1947 aggregation, the Doughboys slated a couple of pre-season tilts with the Columbus Cardinals of the Sally league. Journeying to the city for the first of the two exhibition games, the Doughs yielded a 7-5 verdict to the Cards, and were blanked 2-0 by the Redbirds in a Gowdy field fray.

Living up to pre-season expectations, the Infantry School detachment Profs captured both halves of the intra-mural diamond circuit, and took over the reign of the Airborne troopers as post champs.

In winning the post diamond tiara, the Profs went undefeated through a 23-game schedule, and two of t h e i r pitchers, Collis (Lefty) Lesher and Bill Welton chalked up no-hit contests.

With the advent of the Profs' coronation as diamond champs, selections for the Doughboy nine began, and Herb Bench, who had piloted the Airborne battalion Troopers through the intra-mural season, was named to skipper the Doughs through a turbulent schedule. In addition to 30 regular season games, the Doughs were slated for participation in the Third army and Georgia semi-pro meets.

Going through their regular season with an unblemished ledger, the Benningites breezed past four opponents to take possession of the Georgia semi-p r o crown. Their first defeat of the season came in the second game of a three-game set with t h e Buck Creek Millers of Siluria, Ala., for the Georgia-Alabama regional trey. Despite the loss, the Doughboys won the series, and garnered the right to represent the area in the National Baseball congress' semi - pro tourney in Wichita, Kans.

Competing with some of the crack non-professional aggregations of the nation, the Doughboys got past the first round of play in the Wichita tournament by whipping the Alpine, Tex., Cowboys, 3-1, but faltered in the next two rounds. Losses to the Worland, Wyo., Indians and the Camden, Ark., Kraftsmen eliminated the Benning nine from the meet.

Track Meet Here

But while diamond activity was taking the major portion of the sports limelight, other sports also were having their 1948 fling.

Fort Benning began making its preparations to entertain t e n-teams of the Third army by staging local eliminations for the purpose of putting the best the post had to offer on the cinder track when the other army squads of the area invaded Doughboy stadium.

The team turned out to be a two-team affair with the F o r t Bragg trackmen eding the Benninigites for the Third a r m y toga.

Golf Activity High

Golf activity was anything but stalemated during the year as the completion of the new Fort Benning Golf and Country clubhouse, the addition of a driving range to the post's links facilities, and two local tournaments shared the spotlight.

In the meet for Benning's officer linksters, W. R. Cole, defending post champion, posted the medalist score for the 1948 tourney, but was ousted by Devert Moore, who went on to win the championship.

The old bugaboo that usually keeps a medalist from winning the tournament also stood in the way of Paul Markland, who posted the low qualifying score for the enlisted men's meet. Markland was the victim of Gene Yow, who finally captured the enlisted golfing diadem for 1948.

In the Third army links tourney at Oliver General hospital in Augusta, Ga., Benning's golfers didn't fare so well. All of the heavy pre-tournament favorities met their nemesis early in the competition, but a darkhorse, John Henion, carried Benning colors into the semifinals.

Heavy Tennis Win

A top-heavy victory in the Third army tennis rournament was scored by Benning when the post played host to other teams of the area in June.

The Doughs' Sanford Webster won the singles championship for the army area by defeating Charles Jones, also a member of the Benning squad. B o t h Webster and Daniel were named to represent the Third a r m y in the all-army tennis classic at West Point, and helped the area delegation rack up t h e points needed for the championship. Webster advanced to the finals in the meet, but was beaten by a member of the European theater delegation.

Activity at the post swimming pools during the summer months was highlighted by Emilio Cordon's heavy triumph in the intra-mural tank classic. Winner of the 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard breaststroke and the 150-yard medley, Cordon went to the Third army pool meet at Fort McPherson, Ga., first, second and third place winners of eight other events comprising the local meet.

Classes in first aid, water safety and accident prevention (FAWSAP), sponsored by t h e Red Cross, also were on the 1948 swimming agenda.

After winning the first half of the post intra-mural softball league, the Airborne troopers slipped into the runner - up spot b e h i n d the Infantry School detachment Reds. Representing the post as the Doughboys in the Third army meet, the Reds took possession of the area title by squeezing past Fort McPherson, Ga., in the finals.

Tough Grid Slate

The showing made by t h e Doughboy grid eleven in 1948 was somewhat of a disappointment to oldtimers at Fort Benning who had been accustomed to seeing the Benning pigskin delegates run up an almost incredible string of triumphs every year.

Hampered by lack of weight and experience, Head Coach Joe Shepherd started putting his charges through heavy workouts early last fall in preparation for a gruelling slate which included some of the nation's top-flight service squads.

By the time the curtain had been drawn on the 1948 grid campaign, the Doughboys had been victorious in only three of their nine outings.

However, they still were able to take their claim to the runner-up spot in Third army competition since only two army teams of the area, the Fort Bragg All-Americans and the Red Devils of Fort Jackson, S.C., were on the Dough slate. The Benning gridders won over the Jackson Red Devils, but were overpowered by the All-Americans of Fort Bragg.

In addition to their triumph over Fort Jackson, the Dough grid eleven registered victories over the Alabama national guard Rifles and the Eglin field, Fla., Eagles. Losses went to the Parris Island, S. C., marines; Fort Riley, Kans.; the Quantico, Va., leathernecks; Jacksonville, Fla., Naval air station; Memphis, Tenn., Naval Air Technical Training command, and Fort Bragg.

Volleyball Titlists

October saw the sports scene switch to an indoor setting with volleyball arousing early-season interest in hardwood court activity. The post champs of 1947, Company C of the Infantry School detachment, repeated to win the post crown, and took first place for the post in the annual Third army meet. The Company C lads, all assigned to the army field printing plant, were also the Third army titlists of 1947.

Intra-mural programs in boxing and basketball stole their way into the limelight in November with the post title and Doughboy team spots being at stake in both sports.

Intra-Mural Fights

Seven unit squads entered the scramble for post ring laurels, and, as activity became suspended for the Christmas holidays, the top berth in the circuit was held by the Airborne battalion pugilists.

Early next month, warfare in the squared circle will be resumed, and champions and runners-up in each weight class will be named to represent Benning in the Third army tournament here in February. The champs and runners-up are to be determined under the Hawaiian point system.

Troopers Repeat

In the intra-mural cage loop, which was concluded shortly before the holiday season, the Airborne battalion and the Infantry School detachment came down to the wire all even. In a showdown tilt between the two unbeaten quintets, the Airborne lads squeezed past the ISD, 43-33, to annex their third successive post championship. By going unbeaten through their 1948 slate, the Troopers stretched their unbroken string of victories over a three-year period.

With the conclusion of intra-post court activity, plans were initiated for selecting the Doughboy team for the 1948-49 season—the squad to represent Benning in outside frays and the Third army tournament. Players for the Doughboy team are to be taken, for the most part, from the eight squads which participated in the intra-mural hoop program.

Benning As Host

As the year drew to a close, Benning's welcome mat was rolled out for the two grid teams to stage the New Year's Peanut Bowl game in Columbus' Memorial stadium. Gridders of the Westfield, Mass., and Fitzgerald, Ga., high schools are spending their Peanut Bowl sojourn in army quarters at Benning, and are getting a sample of GI chow.

The Westfield eleven and its affiliates are being quartered and fed by the Infantry School detachment, and the Fitzgerald crew and its coaching staff. are occupying t h e visiting teams' dormitory in the North tower of Doughboy stadium, and are being fed by the 328 th Ordnance battalion.

In addition to quartering the principals for the high school bowl contest, the post is furnishing 12 jeeps to be decorated and used in the pre-game parade of floats.

MIRACLE BACK ... Lauren Hargrove of Fitzgerald high school, whose backfield exploits this year have garnered him a rating as Georgia's No. 1 prep gridder, demonstrates his versatility by punting a point after touchdown. In his first season of conversion chores, Hargrove has missed only two tries for the extra point this year. The prep backfield ace, who is slated to perform in the Peanut Bowl classic in Columbus on New Year's day, is reported to be the target for offers from Auburn and North Carolina. Doing the holding for Hargrove in this picture is teammate Gene (Kid) Pedrick.

Westfield Team Arrives

Massachusetts Football Squad Starts Practice

Arriving at Fort Benning Tuesday afternoon, gridders of Westfield, Mass., were quick to shake off the effects of the jaunt from New England and get down to preparing for the Peanut Bowl clash with Fitzgerald high of Georgia on New Year's day.

Less than an hour after they alighted from a special bus at the Infantry School detachment, the contingent of pigskinners was suited up and ready to swing into their first practice round on Georgia soil.

The initial drill session was staged in Doughboy stadium.

The Massachusetts grid delegation arrived in Columbus about 20 minutes late, and was met by a crowd of city, county and Peanut Bowl officials. Two members of the bowl publicity committee met the football contingent as it boarded the Central of Georgia Railway company's Man O' War in Atlanta.

Surprise was registered by the Westfield gridders at the summer - like weather of Columbus. According to Coach Bill Mozo of the Bombers, the mercury stood at six below zero when they boarded the train in Springfield, Mass., Monday morning.

After the arrival formalities, which included several brief remarks for the radio, a 16-vehicle caravan was formed, and the party from Massachusetts was escorted to Fort Benning by city, county, state and military police.

Throughout their stay here, the New England high school gridmen will be billeted at Company A of the Infantry School detachment, and will eat in a section of the ISD mess hall.

A tour of the Main post and Lawson airforce base was being mapped for the team and its affiliates today.

The Westfield squad held its practice sessions in Doughboy stadium until this afternoon. The final drills for the team will be staged either on Gowdy baseball field or on Blue polo field.

The Fitzgerald team, Georgia's aspirant for the Peanut Bowl title, was expected to arrive at Fort Benning sometime today, and will be quartered in the visiting team's dormitory in the North tower of Doughboy stadium. Rations for the Fitzgerald gridders will be furnished by the 328th Ordnance battalion.

After their arrival here the Georgia gridders will be given the use of Doughboy stadium for their pre-game warm-ups.

Tickets for the Memorial stadium Peanut Bowl classic are on sale at the post athletic office, the Fort Benning Officers' club, the Pine Lodge NCO club and the various special service activities of the post.

Dr. Benjamin Appointed Consultant to AFF Chief

Dr. Harold Benjamin, dean of the college of education, University of Maryland, has been appointed civilian consultant to the Office of the Chief, Army Field Forces.

He will serve on a board to study the army educational system for officers. Other members of the board are Col. H. A. Barber, Jr., and Col. P. C. Wehle.

The board will determine the ultimate goal of the system, whether or not that goal is being achieved, and what action, if any, is necessary to insure that the goal is achieved.

Win Promotion

Pvt. Marshall F. O'Shaughnessy, Infantry School detachment headquarters, was promoted Dec. 13 to the grade of private first class, it was announced recently by Lt. Col. Arden C. Brill, detachment commander.

FIVE VETS RETURNING

Keglers Focus Attention On Army Area Tourney

When activity on the Main post bowling lanes is resumed next week, the Dougboy kegling squad will begin mapping a defense of the Third army crown which it captured here last year.

Benning again has been chosen as host for the Third army meet, which is scheduled for Jan. 18-20.

Five members of the Doughboy championship aggregation of 1948 remain as a nucleus for this season's squad, but the 1949 G. M. Pollock has taken over keglers will be performing unthe Doughboy helm, and will be der a new skipper.

carried on the roster as a non-playing manager. Last year's pilot, Arnie Millican, was listed as an active player.

At present, the Doughboy squad includes 10 bowlers, but maximum player limits set for the Third army touring will force the Doughs to cut their representation to eight members prior to Jan. 18.

Heading the list of aspirants for Dough team berths is the quintet of 1948 veterans. Included in the group are Bob Short, Ewald Knuth, Harold Burns, Joe Patti and Walt Carlock.

Becauseof the large number of returning vets and the abundance of new talent uncovered in intra-mural alleys' activity, Fort Benning will be heavily favored to reclaim its Third army title.

After a two-week holiday layoff, intra-mural teams will swing back into action next Thursday night, and pay in the circuit will continue until the opening of the Third army classic. All post loop activity, however, will be suspended while the army meet is in progress.

Team entries for the Third army tourney are expected from Fort Bragg, N. C., Fort Jackson, S. C., Fort McPherson, Ga., and the Florida and Tennessee military districts.

PUGILISTS WILL RESUME RING SCRAPS NEXT WEEK

A card on Friday night, Jan. 7, will bring to an end the two-week respite given participants in the post intra-mural boxing program.

As activity in the Main gym is resumed, it will be merely a continuation of the league which started in November, and the seven teams in the circuit will be out to add to the points which they already have chalked up.

Most of the individual leather slingers are expected to start punching the bags, doing road-work and having sparring matches early next week in an effort to ready themselves for the Friday night fights.

As ring warfare shifts again into high gear, the Airborne battalion will be holding the No. 1 spot in the team standings, followed closely by the rapidly-climbing Sand hill Rockets.

The remaining cards on the 1948-49 intra-mural slate are expected to play an important part in the selection of contestants to represent Fort Benning in the annual Third army ring tourney, which is scheduled for the Main gym late in February.

Tentative plans call for the champions and runners-up in each weight class to be assigned berths on the Doughboy team.

Col. Kraut Ends Fort Benning Visit

Lt. Col. Charles U. Knaub, of the Personnel and Administrative division, War Department general staff, will end a two-day visit to the Infantry Center today.

Purpose of his visit was to discuss the scope of and instruction in subjects which are of interest and concern to the director of personnel and administration, Department of the Army.

He conferred with the coordinator of training, chief of the General Subjects section and chairman of the General Subjects section's personnel committee.

Two Marks Set In Kegling Loop

Two new marks were set in the advanced class No. 1 officers' bowling league shortly before activity in the circuit went into a two-week suspension for the holiday season.

A new single-game high was chalked up by Robert Walker of the Thunderers, who bested the previous record of 231 by one pin. Frank Gabrhel of the Hotshots rolled a three-game series of 593 to establish a new mark in that department.

The previous records in both phases were held by Mark Jensen of the Hotshots.

Despite the fact that both of his records were shattered, Jensen continued to set the individual pace in the loop with an average of 182 for 15 games. His teammate, Gabrhel, was second on the roster with a mean of 180 for 14 games.

Going into the holiday respite, the Hotshots and Strikers were deadlocked for the top berth in the standings. Both teams had won 16 and lost four points for the season.

Activity in the loop is scheduled to be resumed soon after Jan. 1.

Eight Sand Hill Soldiers Get Promotions Recently

Eight enlisted personnel of the 999th Field Artillery battalion received promotions recently.

The group included Sgt. Edgar G. Henderson to sergeant first class and Pfcs. Edgar Powe, Alfred J. Neal and James Alston, all of Headquarters battery, to corporals.

In Battery A, Cpl Royce R. Graham was upgraded to sergeant and Pvts. James Garner Mems VanZant, Freddie Wilson and Ples Talbert to privates first class.

Returning Oldsters Add Sheen To Ball Outlook For 999th

BY AL WISE

In the Sand hill stove pipe Reed's champion 999th Field league, speculation on the 1949 diamond season isn't being confined to the major leagues. The topic drawing the most discussion is the fact that Coach Dave Reed's champion 999th Field Artillery battalion cluster will report in its entirety with the inception of spring drills.

Nineteen members of the triple-nine clique, which won the 320th Regimental combat team's intra-mural league last summer, have re-upped for their Sand hill assignments, and will be back in the diamond fold this year.

Batteries will find strong-armed Ulus Hale performing as boss of the receivers with right-handers Albert (Flash) Ellis and Johnny (Slants) McClinic and portsider Leroy Lockett heading the roster of hurlers.

John Griffey is being regarded as a strong candidate for any infield spot where his services may be in demand, while long-ball hitter Erskine Ware will take up residence at the initial sack. The lightning - like keystone combination of Charles (Rabbit) Boyd at shortstop and Edgar Powe at second offers a satisfactory solution to the first-line defense problem.

The crop of veteran outfielders includes diminutive Jimmy Hardmen, Willie Brown, Leon Webb, Jesse Hall, Edgar Echols, Elfedy Ivy and Jesse and Sammy Robinson.

1023 BROADWAY — CLOSED NEW YEARS DAY

HOUSE OF WORSHIP—One of the most beautiful buildings at Fort Benning is the Infantry Center chapel. It is famous for the fact that at one time religious services for all denominations were held in it. Harvey Firestone, tire magnate, presented the chapel with its carillon.

Three Major Religions Once Used Post Chapel

One of the most striking examples of architecture to be found on the Fort Benning reservation is the Main Post chapel, located at the corner of Sniperfoos and First Division roads.

Built by the engineers at a cnst of $84,949.29, the building was originally designed to accomodate about 400 persons.

The chapel is a replica of a famous old church in Savannah, Ga., and is a white stone structure with a steeple towering over 100 feet.

It was designed as a place of worship for members of all three major faiths, Catholic Protestant and Jewish. The building gained national recognition when Robert Ripley of "Believe it or Not" fame decided that a single church housing three faiths was worthy of mention in his oddities feature.

During the war years, the doors of the chapel were kept open continuously, and members of all faiths could be found worshipping together.

In addition to the regular Sunday worships, services were also held nightly, and the chapel was usually filled to capacity.

One of the most notable features of the chapel is the Liberty Carillon bells, which were given to Fort Benning by Harvey Firestone, Jr. on Y J day (Aug. 14, 1946).

The bells were originally installed in Camp Patrick Henry's "Chapel in the Woods" in 1943. Firestone presented the chimes to the army post in commemoration of his former employes who entered the armed forces.

The bells were damaged by fire in 1944, but were restored in time for the Christmas services of 1944.

At the end of the war, Camp Patrick Henry closed down, and the bells were then given by Firestone to Fort Benning.

The local place of worship also dispels the common belief that the army chaplain has a one-day-per-week job. Especially at Fort Benning his job embraces no specific working hours, and he is on call at all times.

In addition to routine services, the Main post chapel is a popular mecca for men desiring a military wedding.

Standing as a silent and enduring reminder of the religious freedom established in the nation's constitution, the Main post chapel also gives further foundation to Fort Benning 's claim to being "America's most complete army post."

Four new nurses arrived for duty with the Station hospital during the past week, officials have reported.

All of the nurses have been called to active duty from the ORC.

Arriving this week were 2nd Lt. Dovie R. House, 2nd Lt. Mary Frances, 1st Lt. Helen Floy O'Neill and 1st Lt. Edith M. MacMullen.

Chapel Service Christmas Eve

A Christmas eve candlelight communion service was conducted from 11 to 12 p.m., Dec. 24, in the Infantry Center chapel by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Wallace M. Hale, Infantry Center chaplain, assisted by Chaplain (Capt.) Henry B. Barnes, 15th Infantry regiment chaplain.

The musical portion of the service, by the Infantry Center choir, under the direction of Mrs. Lily C. Garrett, consisted of a contralto solo, "I Wonder As I Wander" by Miss Ellen Garrett, and the following numbers by the choir: "Carol of the Bells", "Joseph Came Seeking a Resting Place" and "O Nightengale Awake".

The chapel organist, John C. Miller, played as a prelude "Christmas Pastourelle" and "O Holy Night".

After the call to worship by Chaplain Hale, the choir marched to the stalls singing "Adeste Fidelis" in a candlelight processional.

The Christmas story, taken from St. Luke 2: 1-20, was read by Miss Patricia Bush. Chaplian Hail delivered the meditation after the singing of Christmas carols by the chorus.

A general Protestant communion service followed, and the service closed with the singing of "Silent Night, Holy Night."

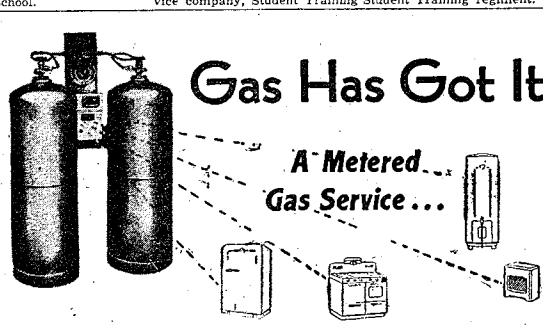
'TWAS TWO DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . . There was a Merry Christmas in Dermott, Ark., last week. Popular and well-publicized Pfc. Merry L. Chistmas is shown here handing his ticket to Bus Driver Robert M. Jones as he boarded the vehicle for his home in the Wonder State. He'd been sweating out his Christmas furlough and a little matter of partial pay, but Benning authorities came through with the furlough and the money, and Pfc. Christmas hustled down to the Columbus bus station enroute home.

Italian Receives Legion of Merit

Gen. Effisio Marras, chief of staff of the Italian army, who visited Fort Benning Dec. 13-15, was presented with the Legion of Merit at the pentagon in Washington by Gen. Omar Bradley, army chief of staff, Tuesday, Dec. 21.

The medal was awarded to General Marras for "exceptionally meritorious service performed . . . from November, 1944, to November, 1948, in strengthening the forces of democracy and freedom."



The citation reads in part: "Escaping from a German Prison Camp in North Italy, he gave important information to United States authorities concerning German troop movements and dispositions."

General Marras arrived in the United States for a tour of American military installations and industrial centers at the invitation of General Bradley. He left Washington's National airport for Rome Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Army Recieves Safety Award

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, army chief of staff, recently received for the Department of the Army the National Safety council's award of honor for distinguished service to safety.

In recognition of important reductions in the accidental injury rate within the army in its overseas operations during 1947 as compared with 1946, the award was presented by Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety council.

In the same ceremony, General Bradley presented the Department of the Army's meritorious civilian service award to Eliot V. Parker, army safety director and chief of the safety branch, Personnel and Administration division— the general staff agency charged with administration of the army safety program— for "outstanding and exemplary performance" of his assignment from April, 1946, to December, 1948.

In presenting the award, Mr. Dearborn pointed out that he had presented a number of safety awards to the Army in the past, some during the war and others after V-J Day.

"But always," he said, "I have been impressed . . that the United States army emphasizes safetly in al its operations. From the day a recruit is inducted into service until he is mustered out, he and his folks can be sure that his protection from accidents is a prime consideration on the part of his officers. If he becomes an officer he learns to accept his part of the responsibility for the safety of the men under him. . . I want you and all those responsible for this splendid safety record to know how much all America appreciates the army's . . . safety program."

Mr. Parker, who has been associated with the army safety program since its inception during the early war years, was named to the post he now holds upon relief from active duty in April, 1946.

The following citation was read by Lt. Gen. Willard S. Paul, director of the army's Personnel and Administration division:

"For meritorious service in performance of duties as U. S. army safety director and chief of the safety branch, Personnel and Administration division, general staff, United States army, from April, 1946, to December, 1948. By outstanding and exemplary performance above and beyond his directed assignment as U. S. army safety director, he developed the world-wide army safety program which has effected tremendous savings in money, manpower and equipment and gave the U. S. army a single, unified attack against wasteful and unnecessary accidental suffering and loss.

"He demonstrated a high fidelity and devotion to duty which are a credit to the general staff, United States army."
